MSU Official Offers Papers as Reply to Charges of Conflict

LANSING (AP)—A top Michigan State University official Wednesday offered documents he said were intended to refute conflict of interest charges leveled against him.

Philip J. May, vice president for business and finance, told the Lansing State Journal he had decided to release a statement with the facts to clear up what he said was misinformation about his activities. It was May's first public reply to charges.

* * *

Rep. Jack Faxon, D-Detroit, has asked the attorney general for an opinion concerning possible conflict of interest in outside business activities involving May and MSU President John A. Hannah.

C. Allen Harlan, a member of the MSU Board of Trustees, has called for May's resignation because of the charges.

ANNUAL RENT

May said IBM Corp. pays about $50,000 annual rent for lease of two floors of a building owned by the Philip Jesse Co., not $100,000 as charged.

May said he had resigned as an officer of the Jesse firm and divested himself of stock ownership in the firm after the passage of a 1966 conflict of interest law.

The stock he had held now is owned by his wife, Viola.

May denied a charge by Harlan that a $1.1 million loan from the Michigan National Bank on the building was secured because of a long-term lease with IBM.

BROTHER'S ASSETS

Instead, May said, a loan was secured by the assets of his brother, Robert of South Dakota.

May had been a director of the parent Michigan National Bank Board until Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley ruled recently that such affiliations by university officers was a conflict of interest if the institution did business with the school.

* * *

At that time, May resigned, as did several other Michigan college and university officials involved with other institutions.

May also gave the State Journal affidavits from three prominent MSU officials disputing Harlan's accusation that May worked behind the scenes for the selection of an IBM computer for MSU.

CONTROL DATA

Eventually that decision was made in favor of a Control Data Corp. computer that cost $1.3 million.

The notarized statements were signed by Jack Breslin, MSU secretary; Dr. Milton. E. Muelder, vice president in charge of research development; and Dr. Lawrence Von Tersch, director of the computer laboratory.

Since the charges against May arose, links between Harlan and the Central Electric Motors and Construction Co. of Lansing have been reported.

The firm has been called a subsidiary of Harlan Electric CKO, of Southfield. Harlan's son, John M., is the parent firm's president.

The elder Harlan has denied any affiliation with Central Electric, which has done $2.8 million work on the campus since he joined the MSU Board Nov. 1, 1957.

Mideast Plan Okayed in U.N.

Thant Likely to Send Swede Troubleshooter

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary General U Thant is expected to follow up the U.N. Security Council's unanimous approval of a British peace formula for the Middle East by sending troubleshooter Gunnar Jarring to the area to try to get negotiations started.

Informed sources said Thant would name Jarring, a veteran Swedish diplomat who has served in the Middle East, as U.N. mediator under terms of the British resolution the 15-nation council approved late Wednesday.

Key point of the resolution involves territory seized from Egypt, Jordan and Syria in the June war.

Israel has stressed that it will not give up any territory until the Arabs agree to direct peace talks. But the fact that both Israel and the Arab states raised no major objections to the British formula was considered a major step forward after months of futile bickering.

'FIRST STEP'

Israeli officials in Jerusalem welcomed the Security Council action as "the first step" toward peace.

Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser was expected to give authoritative Arab comment in a speech later today to the National Assembly in Cairo, his first public statement in four months.

* * *

The British resolution specifies that a vital factor in lowering tempers in the Middle East is withdrawal of Israeli forces from the lands seized.

It also calls for termination of the Arab state of belligerency against Israel and recognition of the right of all nations in the area "to live in peace within secure and recognized boundaries."

It seeks further to solve two other sources of Middle East friction: the Arab refugee problem, and Israel's claims to the right to use the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Aqaba as international waterways.

The question of the territory seized by Israel promises to be the main sticking point.

Opposition Mounts on Tax Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's proposed income tax boost, long mired in a hostile House committee, appears to face potentially tough opposition on the other side of Capitol Hill.

Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., of the Senate Finance Committee said Wednesday he doubts a tax hike now would be a "good thing for the country."

* * *

Long's opposite number in the House, Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the tax-writing ways and means committee, has refused to take up the tax hike measure until the administration offers major spending cuts.

But Long indicated he favored putting the proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge to a vote of both houses.

NOT POPULAR

Long, in a radio interview for Louisiana stations, said Wednesday of the tax proposal: "It's not popular and, frankly, with four per cent of the people in this country out of work, I doubt that it's a good thing for the country."

Earlier in the day Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler said the administration will offer Congress a package of tax increases and spending cuts that would slice about $11 billion out of a potential $29 billion federal deficit this year.

Fowler, in a letter to Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., said the proposals would be unveiled when Mills' ways and means panel opens tax hearings next Wednesday.

Scholarship Applications for Cranbrook Available

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Applications for the annual $100,000 scholarship competition offered by the Cranbrook School for boys are now being accepted, according to Headmaster Robert M. Sandoe.

Deadline for filing the applications is March 1, 1968.

Awards will be made for the academic year 1968-69 to outstanding boys who, without financial assistance, would be unable to attend, he said.

Though most of the scholarships provide for only a part of the tuition, Cranbrook School is able to offer several full scholarships through grants from the Independence Foundation of Philadelphia, he explained.

* * *

The amount of the scholarships varies with the financial need of each applicant.

GRANTS RENEWABLE

The program is offered to boys entering the 9th, 10th and 11th grades next September and may be renewed until graduation.

Applicants should present an above-average academic record, be recommended as constructive school citizens, and prove need for financial assistance, Sandoe explained.

Cranbrook School is a well-established college preparatory school and enrolls 390 boys with a 1 to 10 faculty-student ratio, offering much individual attention.

Headmistress Annemarie Roeper of the Roeper City and Country School for gifted children recently returned from a three-day educational conference in San Francisco where she conducted a workshop on "What Does the Nursery Teacher Teach."

The annual conference was held at the Sheraton Palace Hotel for the 2,500 members of the National Association for the Education of Young Children.

Three resolutions were adopted by the association including support of Head Start Child Development Centers now before the Senate, ending the war in Vietnam, and opposition to any law requiring parents to place preschool children in day schools.

Ex-Boyfriend Admits Hitting Mrs. Fruehauf

By JIM LONG

On trial for aggravated assault against Mrs. Roy Fruehauf, her ex-boyfriend admitted yesterday that he had hit the widow of the truck-trailer manufacturer, but only once and in self-defense.

Taking the stand in his own behalf before a Circuit Court jury of seven men and six women, Donald DeClercq, 30, of Detroit said he had struck Mrs. Fruehauf when she lunged at him with a wine bottle.

Mrs. Fruehauf, who brought the charge following a Feb. 14 fight in her home, testified Tuesday that DeClercq had hit her 15 to 20 times.

Both DeClercq and Mrs. Fruehauf, 43, of 5330 Middle Belt West Bloomfield Township, have testified that they have known each other since October 1961, four years before her husband died.

During his testimony, DeClercq recalled a number of trips that he had taken with Mrs. Fruehauf as well as numerous fights between them.

TALKED, DANCED

The Valentine Day incident, he said, erupted after he had been at the home for a few hours.

"We talked. We danced. She was very compatible," said DeClercq. "During the evening we had several bottles of wine.

"She changed suddenly when the name of another girl came up," said DeClercq. "When she picked up a bottle and said she was going to kill me, my natural reflex was to hit her. I hit her in the eye."

DeClercq said "jealousy was the number one cause of our fights.

"I used to try to break up because she was married, and there was no future in it for me," DeClercq said, adding that he once loved her and believed that she loved him.

The trial, before Judge Arthur E. Moore, will resume tomorrow morning.

Thieves Loot Area Homes; Jewels Stolen

Several thousands of dollars worth of jewelry was reported taken in one of three home break-ins reported last night in Shelby Township.

Shelby police report the home of Ronald Mynatt, 8222 Gerhardt, was broken into between 5:30 and 7:45 p.m. yesterday.

Thieves reportedly took a ruby and diamond watch, a ruby and diamond cocktail ring, a diamond ring, a large cameo ring, a sapphire and diamond ring, two diamond engagement rings, a diamond wedding band, a zircon and diamond ring, a man's 21-jewel watch, a gun case containing four revolvers, 24 silver dollars, a bag of pennies and an air pistol.

Entry was gained through the garage. Officers said thieves also broke into the homes of Donald Sparks, 46745 Ryan, and Walter Chodacky, 8242 St. John, where lesser amounts of loot were taken. The break-ins were all reported as having occurred between 4 and 9 p.m. yesterday.

Two other larcenies from homes were also reported, according to police.

2 Children Bitten; Dog Owner Sought

Waterford Township police today are searching for the owner of a black and tan, pure-bred German shepherd which bit two children yesterday morning.

The dog was about 1 year old and was wearing a red leather collar.

The police need to know whether or not the dog has had rabies shots, said Officer Al Meredith.

The dog was killed by a car shortly after biting the youngsters at Stringham Elementary School, 4350 Elizabeth Lake. The car hit the dog in the vicinity of the school, police said.

Friday Start for Salvation Army Drive

Look for red kettles on the streets starting tomorrow. A member of the Salvation Army will be standing by each one, ready to receive your contribution to the annual Salvation Army Christmas program.

The money collected helps more people to have a happier Christmas.

Needy children will find presents under the tree, low-income families will enjoy good holiday dinners, and deprived children will have new warm clothing and shoes.

The Pontiac Exchange Club will again sell the Christmas War Cry magazine and assist in the kettle program.

Albert Weber, chairman of the Christmas Appeal Committee, said applications for Christmas assistance can be made at the Salvation Army office, 29 W. Lawrence, until Dec. 15.

Mia, Sinatra in Trial Separation

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "A trial separation has been mutually agreed upon."

The bare announcement signaled a rift in the 16-month marriage of Frank Sinatra, 51, and Mia Farrow, 22, and touched off speculation over reasons for the break.

* * *

The news was released Wednesday by James Mahoney, publicity agent for the two stars. He said neither of the Sinatras had comment.

The twice-divorced Sinatra married the young star of television's "Peyton Place" on July 19, 1966, in Las Vegas, Nev. Their jobs often kept them apart, as she made a film in England with Laurence Harvey and he continued his far-flung activities in the show world.

IN ACCORD

But the pair appeared to be in accord during the times they were together. A few weeks ago she was much in evidence as the singer taped his latest television special.

Earlier this week, the Sinatras held a small farewell party for Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton who visited here briefly.

* * *

Friends indicated problems between Sinatra and his young wife were aggravated by troubles concerning their current films. Miss Farrow has been starring in "Rosemary's Baby," and the film, directed by Polish Roman Polanski, lagged behind schedule. She had been slated to join her husband in filming New York locations of "The Detective."

Sinatra, who likes to make his films rapidly, became irritated because his wife was unable to join him in New York.

PRODUCTION SUSPENDED

The studio refused to release Miss Farrow for her appearance in "The Detective" and the cast and crew of the Sinatra film returned to Hollywood where production was suspended pending Miss Farrow's appearance.

Insiders predicted that Miss Farrow will be replaced in "The Detective."

United Fund Raises Over $1 Million, 89 Pct. of Goal

Although not reaching its goal for the first time in 10 years, the Pontiac Area United Fund raised more than $1 million, Chairman Frederick J. Poole reported yesterday as the campaign ended.

Contributions amounted to $1,003,843, or $126,157 short of the $1,130,000 goal, Poole told several hundred volunteer workers attending the final campaign luncheon at the Elks Club. Approximately 89 per cent of the goal was reached.

Poole said a number of factors were to blame.

"The problems we faced in this year's campaign have been manyfold — a new state income tax; the possibility of a city income tax; a $25 per month special strike fund assessment for all UAW workers in GM plants; and the uncertainty of a General Motors strike," he said.

In addition to these external factors, Poole pointed out that the goal was considerably higher than the $1,048,000 raised last year.

DETAILED ANALYSIS

Plans are being made, according to Poole, to prepare a detailed analysis of the campaign on which to make recommendation on future fund drives.

"The fact that we did not attain our goal should not overshadow the fact that you have raised over $1 million under the most adverse conditions," Poole said.

During the last nine years, he said, "This community had enjoyed success in its annual United Fund campaigns."

* * *

"We had grown to anticipate and take for granted"that success was automatic — that whatever amount was needed to operate our 55 service agencies would be there when the campaign was completed — somehow, someone would see the job was done.

FELT UNIMPORTANT

"People in our community began to think and feel that their individual part was not significant or important to the campaign. They were complacent and in many cases, would not accept any responsibilities in the campaign structure, let alone making their fair share contribution.

* * *

"Hopefully," he said, "we have now destroyed this complacency and achieved a moral victory over apathy that many of us have sensed for a long time."

A Thanksgiving Prayer From Little Children

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

The Bible teaches that little children often have a special rapport with God.

Certainly there is a simplicity and straightforwardness about their prayers from which most adults could learn a lot.

Here is a Thanksgiving prayer composed by third grade children in the Sunday school of St. John's Episcopal Church, Bethesda, Md. Their teacher, Julie Morris, wisely refrained from adding any adult touches, but made sure that each child's special contribution was included.

If you're looking for a prayer of Thanksgiving to read at your family table today, you are not likely to find one that is more sincere and down-to-earth than this one:

"Dear God,

"Thank you for school, loving care, church, and for clothing, for mother and father.

"Thank you for good food, kittens and my friends.

* * *

"I am thankful for ice cream, music, cats, dogs, day, night, trees, flowers, being alive, sun and rain.

"Thank you for this day.

"I am thankful for all my toys, for swimming, leaves and fall. I am so glad to be here.

"Thank you so much for the things you gave me. I am glad for what I have. I have so many things to play with and I will share with others.

"Thank you for our hands, five senses, our minds and all the wonderful things of life.

"Thank you for Thanksgiving, I thank you.

"Thank you for the money to buy the turkey, thank you for my hands and legs, my mind and the sun and the rain to make the flowers grow.

"I thank God for hamsters and sisters.

* * *

"Thank you for everything you made for me, for I like them very much. Thank you for the birds and fish, for me, and the earth.

"Thank you for everything I have, like my bicycle, brother and medicine.

"Thank you for all the children in our Sunday school, for Christmas and pine trees, and St. John's and Wednesday morning communion, and breakfast, and apples and cheese.

"Thank you for pretty colors and paintings and music and friends and dinners together.

"We thank God for all things that we love, all our celebrations and all animals. Thank you for our relatives.

"We are thankful for nature and sunshine and moonlight and most of all love."

Perhaps one adult postscript may be permitted:

Thank God for little children, and for Sunday school teachers like Julie Morris.

Envoys Head for Turkey as War Fears Increase

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — President Johnson and U.N. Secretary General U Thant rushed special envoys to Turkey today as fears of a Turkish-Greek war over Cyprus increased.

Turkey announced early today it was turning down a Greek offer for further talks. The Turkish government reaffirmed its determination to ensure the security of the Turkish Cypriot minority on the island 40 miles off the Turkish coast, increasing speculation that the Turks were on the verge of landing troops on Cyprus.

President Johnson, who intervened when war on Cyprus appeared imminent in 1964, responded to the new threat by sending former Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus Vance to Ankara with orders to proceed from there to Athens.

Vance, now a New York attorney, served Johnson as a troubleshooter in last summer's Detroit riots.

* * *

Diplomatic sources said they believed it unlikely that Turkey would attempt any military action against Greece, both members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, before Vance's arrival.

Also heading for the Turkish capital and then Athens was U Thant's special emissary, Jose Rolz-Bennett of Guatemala, a U.N. undersecretary for political affairs.

The new crisis, part of a centuries-long history of strife between Greeks and Turks on Cyprus, developed after a battle last week in which 25 Turkish Cypriots and two Greek Cypriots were killed.

About 80 per cent of the island's 600,000 inhabitants are Greek Orthodox, the rest Turkish Moslems. The two communities have been in a state of armed truce since a U.N. peace force ended civil war in 1964 that followed the Greek Cypriot majority's revocation of special rights given the Turkish minority.

Some 140 U.S. State Department employes and dependents, part of the 1,000 Americans on the island, were evacuated from a radio monitoring station on the north coast facing Turkey and sent to the capital city of Nicosia.

Road Deaths Mount Slowly

By The Associated Press

Traffic deaths mounted slowly on the nation's streets and highways today during the early hours of the Thanksgiving weekend.

The holiday death toll at 8 a.m. EST was 40.

Hazardous driving warnings were posted for 15 states in the West, Southwest, North and Northeast, as roads were slicked with rain, snow and freezing rain.

Traffic deaths during Thanksgiving weekend last year set a record for any holiday period when 748 persons were killed during the four-day count.

* * *

The Associated Press made a comparative survey of motor vehicle fatalities for a nonholiday period of equal length—from 6 p.m. Wednesday Nov. 8 to midnight Sunday, Nov. 12. The death toll for that period was 567.

The count for Thanksgiving holiday periods always runs from 6 p.m. Wednesday to midnight Sunday.

The lowest traffic toll for a Thanksgiving weekend in recent years was 442 in 1960.

The National Safety Council does not make advance estimates of traffic fatalities during the Thanksgiving weekend because it regards the observance as a home holiday which does not involve as much driving as other holidays.

Showers Will Pay Turkey Day Visit

Occasional showers are expected to drop in on the Pontiac area late tonight and continue intermittently through tomorrow with little temperature change.

The mercury will slip into the mid-30s tonight and register a high near 42 tomorrow.

The outlook for Saturday is clearing and cool.

Precipitation probabilities in per cent are: today 10, tonight 30, tomorrow 50.

Thirty was the low temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 7 a.m. The thermometer reading at 11 a.m. was 33.

Romney Wants Housing Fines

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney has promised to veto any open occupancy bill which does not contain a provision levying fines or damages against individual home owners and landlords.

* * *

The Associated Press learned Romney made the statement to a group of legislative leaders late yesterday, shortly before the governor and his wife left for an undisclosed vacation spot.

The lawmakers and Romney met behind closed doors for about 4½ hours yesterday and worked the controversial housing bill into what is expected to be roughly its final shape. Chances for passage this year were described as good.

As presently written, the measure levies fines of $1,000 against realtors found to have committed an unfair housing practice and $2,000 against a realtor who violates a State Civil Rights Commission order.

* * *

Retained in the bill is perhaps its most controversial provision—that a private individual who discriminates in sales or rental of a housing unit is liable for up to $500 in damages.

U.S. Captures Dak To Hill

SAIGON (AP) — Battle-weary U.S. paratroopers and infantrymen captured Hill 875 today as their Thanksgiving prize after nearly five days of some of the bloodiest fighting in the Vietnam war.

* * *

U.S. commanders hoped capture of the hill signaled the end of the bloody, three-week battle of Dak To in the central highlands.

But two hours before the final assault, other paratroopers killed 10 North Vietnamese in a short fire-fight a mile and a half to the north. And less than two hours after the paratroopers reported victory, a landing zone at the northeast base of the slope came under mortar attack.

"It seems at this time," a senior U.S. officer in Saigon said, "that the North Vietnamese have pulled out, but we're not going to get overconfident yet.

* * *

"If there's not more contact for another day, we'll know they've pulled out. But the North Vietnamese 174th Regiment still has some strength and it could resuscitate itself."

ASSAULT LAUNCHED

Associated Press Correspondent Edwin Q. White reported from Dak To that a company from the 173rd Airborne Brigade and two companies from the 4th Infantry Division launched the assault on the last ridge-line held by the North Vietnamese at 11:30 a.m.

Twenty-five minutes later, White said, U.S. forces consolidated their positions after meeting only light resistance.

There was no word yet on fresh casualties on the jungle hill where the fighting since Sunday had raised American losses in the three weeks of fighting around Dak To to 249 dead and 873 wounded.

* * *

It was the costliest battle of the war for both the Americans and the North Vietnamese, who lost at least 1,372 dead, the U.S. Command said.

Social Security Battle Looms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic sponsors of the Senate Social Security bill that proposes record cash benefit boosts anticipate a tough conference with the House in the effort to work out a final version.

* * *

Some experts on the legislation believe differences between the two versions are so serious and numerous that a final agreement may have to wait until the next session of Congress, which starts in January.

But Democratic leaders say they are determined to get the far-ranging bill to President Johnson's desk before Congress quits this year.

The measure cleared the Senate yesterday by an overwhelming 78-6 vote.

* * *

But a few senators, including Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, said they voted for it with the expectation and hope that the final product would be much closer to the House Version.

STRONGEST DISAGREEMENT

The Senate made more than 100 substantive changes in the House bill passed last August. But the strongest disagreement with the House is expected to center in two areas:

- The much higher Social Security benefit and tax levels approved by the Senate.

* * *

- Senate softening proposed House restrictions on the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program.

The Senate measure goes along with the benefit levels asked by the administration — including a $70 monthly minimum, up 59 per cent from the present $44, and a 15 per cent general increase for others now on the rolls.

Rental Blacklist Creates Furor

DETROIT (AP) — A rental blacklist, with 2,000 names already on it, has circulated in the Detroit area since August and has stirred growing controversy that could end in a court test.

The list was prepared by the Builders Association of Metropolitan Detroit and was issued to landlords as a way to screen undesirable tenants applying for apartments.

Although circulated in the wake of the city's riot, the list apparently is not a result of the upheaval.

Irvin Yackness, executive director of the association, said yesterday the list was first suggested last April because of growing concern among landlords about tenants "who constantly disturb their neighbors, vandalize their apartments and victimize their landlords."

* * *

Other examples he cited were tenants who pay rent with bad checks habitually or give loud parties.

Yackness said the list, of which he was one of the formulators, covers all income levels.

Reaction to the list, which Yackness calls a "service," has ranged from wariness to outright opposition from not only civil right groups but from another major builders association.

No formal complaints, however, have been lodged as yet.

* * *

State and city civil rights commissions warn it could lead to further segregation in housing and suggest careful checking of a tenant's references as a better alternative.

Americans Urged to Cherish Ideals of Our 'Thanksgiving'

(EDITOR'S NOTE: In keeping with our policy of publishing guest editorials from time to time, our Thanksgiving Day message has been written by Rev. Everett A. Dell, pastor of Pontiac Unity Church.)

By REV. EVERETT A. DELL

Thanksgiving is many different things to many different people. To the children it may mean visions of "turkey and dressing" and goodies galore. To the very old it may mean memories of other Thanksgiving Days, long ago, with visits to grandma's spiced with many time-exaggerated details.

REV. DELL

To some, Thanksgiving is a time of honored traditions as we remember the Pilgrims and the first crops, the wild turkeys, the sharing with the Indians, the very sincere prayers to a providing God.

★ ★ ★

To others, Thanksgiving is as commercial as is the Christmas season.

So we ask the question, "What should Thanksgiving mean to us?" By all means we should hold and remember the traditions of our forefathers. We and our children should remember the Pilgrims, their thankfulness to God for those first crops, and the wild turkeys.

All of us should follow these traditions and we should offer our sincere, thankful prayers to a most benevolent God.

To the greatest degree possible, all of us should forget the commercialism of Thanksgiving and use the day as it was intended to be used — a day wherein we are aware of our thankfulness to God and to our every fellowman.

But there was another aspect of those original Thanksgiving days that we seemingly have forgotten, an aspect of Thanksgiving that we should renew and re-establish in our minds, our thinking and our lives.

We should be thankful for our future. We should be thankful for the heritage that we are even now creating that our children will live to be proud of as they mature.

The lack of understanding that caused the recent riots is changing into a true brotherhood of all men. The war in Vietnam will pass into history as a blessing to all mankind. The problems that presently seem to best us will be solved and this people and this Nation will grow in brotherhood and in Christian character.

★ ★ ★

Our children and our grandchildren will live to give thanks for our present day problems and the better life that the solving of these problems will bring to this Nation and to all mankind.

On this Thanksgiving Day, let us by all means look to our traditions and give thanks for them.

Let us look to our future, knowing that there will always be much to give thanks for, that perhaps we do not at present see.

Above and beyond all else, let us give thanks for the presence and the power of God, that this Nation and its people have always been and will always be aware of and thankful for.

Tremble Records Cracked by Alaska 'Quake

Geologists are still assessing the effects of the Alaskan earthquake of March 1964, the strongest ever recorded on the North American continent.

The Environmental Science Services Administration reports some of the findings:

- Certain mountains in Alaska sank seven feet; some shifted sideways an average of five feet.
- The ocean floor rose as much as 50 feet in a 61,000-square-mile area.
- The shock waves from the earthquake made the earth vibrate enough to cause oscillations in the ocean as far away as Key West, Fla., and in rivers and waterways all along the Louisiana and Texas coasts. At New Orleans, a sudden rise of 1½ feet in the Mississippi River broke ships from their moorings and a bridge tender felt the structure shake beneath his feet.
- Even Antarctica felt the effects. The tsunami, or sea wave, generated by the 'quake was recorded 22½ hours later, having covered 8,500 miles at nearly 400 miles an hour.
- There were 131 fatalities, 15 of them outside of Alaska (11 in California and 4 in Oregon). Property loss caused by the tsunami alone is estimated at more than $100 million, most of it occurring in Alaska but $67,000 worth of damage being done as far away as Hawaii.

When it comes to shaking up the world, men still have a lot to learn from Mother Nature.

To Pause Or Not To Pause—

Capital Letter:

What if JFK Were Alive Now?

WASHINGTON: With the anniversary of President Kennedy's assassination just past, it seems fitting to ponder some imponderables.

Ruth Montgomery

Had he not kept that fateful rendezvous with destiny, he would in all likelihood have won re-election in 1964 and now be approaching his final year in the White House.

With the presidential election less than a year away, Democratic hopefuls would be scrambling madly for the headlines, whirling around the speakers' circuit, and preparing to throw their hats in the ring no later than January.

Lyndon B. Johnson, if still vice president, would be a leading contender for the top spot, as would Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, but Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy could scarcely have dared attempt to step directly into his older brother's shoes.

JFK would undoubtedly have told RFK that he'd have to bide his time for another four or eight years, to avoid the "royal dynasty" charge.

★ ★ ★

A flock of Democratic governors and senators would be jockeying for position in the starting lineup as favorite sons, and praying for the political lightning to strike them in the event of a deadlock.

NEVER FRIENDLY

The Boston Mafia, never friendly to Johnson or Texas, would be busily pulling backstage wires to block his nomination, and would probably have been building up their own candidate in the press during JFK's second term.

It is obvious that without the traumatic experience of President Kennedy's assassination and the persuasive arm-twisting of his successor, Congress would not have passed the staggering plethora of welfare legislation that Johnson achieved in the year 1964.

JFK lacked the rapport that LBJ then enjoyed with the legislative branch, but by proceeding more slowly with his program he might not have incurred the wrath which has turned the Johnson-Congress honeymoon into a bitter sparring match.

★ ★ ★

Vice President Johnson would be running as the voice of experience in '68, just as Richard M. Nixon did in '60.

LOVE OF ADA

Humphrey as a senator would probably have retained the love of the Americans for Democratic Action, which has now turned against its co-founder.

But whatever candidate had been groomed and spotlighted by the Kennedys during the past three years would doubtless have a built-in advantage, since an incumbent president can usually influence the choice of his successor as party standard-bearer.

Because of the Kennedy's intense clan loyalty, it is probable that such a handpicked candidate would be privately pledged to support the presidential bid of Bobby Kennedy four or eight years hence and, if elected in '68 to name RFK secretary of defense.

Bob Considine Says:

Israel, Land of Miracles, Will Be Around to Stay

TEL AVIV — This has been a warlike trip. At Guam there were seismic rumbles of B52's taking off on what must be the most expensive conventional bombing run in history. The 13-hour round trip to jungle-shrouded targets in South Vietnam.

CONSIDINE

In Vietnam itself, of course, the war is in any direction you choose to walk.

★ ★ ★

Then Hong Kong with its rattle of plastic bombs and the encouragingly stiff upper lips of our British friends.

The fallen city of Macao was next, then Thailand with vast new airdromes from which is being mounted the Air Force's war against North Vietnam. Now Israel, which hasn't really known peace since it became a state 20 years ago next May.

★ ★ ★

This of course is the land with the highest incidence of miracles. Among the greatest of these in a sense has been the new Israel's birth, its survival and dogged progress in the face of three shooting wars and two decades of baleful pledges by Arab leaders to hurl the Israelis into the sea.

PROMISE IN YOUTH

It is here to stay. That fact, that heady promise, is in the stride of every young Israeli, every clear eye and thrust of the jaw.

★ ★ ★

The youth of Israel all appear to have just come from posing for inspirational posters proclaiming the tried and trusted traits of sobriety, hard work, cleanliness, respect for elders, patriotism, et al.

It is in the way the young girls go through basic army training, handle a gun in a besieged kibbutz, and swing along the roads in crisp but cheerful military cadence.

★ ★ ★

It is seen too in the splendid reaches of the national university which seems to be the only one of its size — 11,000 students — that somehow functions without a kook cell.

If there is wonder in you as to how a people numbering 2.6 million can take on the Arab world of 70 million at about 10-year intervals and beat the whey out of it you should meet some of its top officers and men.

The best brains in the Israeli armed forces are in their late 20s, 30s, and early 40s. They may be behind a desk when you call on them but when they stand up and go to a map you know they are warriors, not sedentary theorists and planners.

They can do what they ask their men to do. They ask their men to do some intensely hairy jobs when there's the homeland to fight for.

Voice of the People:

'Will Increase in Taxes Provide Better Roads?'

Who will get the benefits of the gasoline tax and license fee increase? We agree that more money is needed but we who live in outlying areas like West Bloomfield, and drive 30,000 miles a year to work, are getting no road service for our money. City drivers average only 12,000 miles a year yet they are well taken care of.

The roads here have no ditches and become canals when it rains. The Oakland County Road Commission grades and chlorides the road in the summer when we collect enough money to have it done. The only improvement I have seen in 18 years has been four loads of gravel spread on Borland. Many of our streets are without name signs. During severe weather like last winter we can be without fire and ambulance protection for three weeks at a time. Some ditching and gravel could make these roads fairly decent.

What do we have to do to get our fair share of road services? Do we have to organize into a political group, or trust to luck like we have done? Maybe the Oakland County Road Commission can tell us what is their share of gas taxes and what their road service schedules will be for our area.

'Violence Easier to Understand Than Reason'

The black man says "look, I've done what you said. I've gotten an education (though you didn't want me in your schools) and I have a decent job (but I had to wait for fair employment laws), and can finally afford that nice house I've always wanted and pull myself out of this ghetto." "Sorry," says the white man, "that would be socialism." Funny," answers the black man, "I thought that was the American way—to better himself, to move up . . ." "Sorry," says the whiteman, "you misunderstood."

★ ★ ★

If you were the black man, you'd probably get a little mad. Riots happen because violence, not reason, seems to be the only language white folks understand.

'Idea Might Save County and State Money'

Recently I tried to place a dog at the Animal Rescue Shelter in Pontiac and Birmingham but they were both full. I took the dog to the County Animal Shelter and he was presumably put to death. Since it costs so much to keep these animals and most are put to death anyway, why don't they set up a place to have animals fixed at a small cost to the owner? It would cost the State and County less money.

Discusses Railroad Crossing at Columbia

A woman was severely injured last week when her car was struck by a freight train at the Columbia crossing. It was stated that she had not seen the crossing's warning flasher in time to stop. We narrowly escaped the same fate at this crossing recently when the flasher and bell were not turned on until the train was a few feet from the edge of the crossing.

Question and Answer

Where would one call to start an investigation of unsupervised children?

MRS. G.

REPLY

Either one of the City Policewomen, Mrs. Caronis or Mrs. Mickens, will look into any reports of neglected or abused children.

Johnson Trying to Create Fresh Image

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON — President Johnson was in the White House four years as of yesterday. If he had to leave right now he would probably feel terribly frustrated, disappointed and ineffectual.

MARLOW

Much he could have done or tried to do about problems at home he couldn't do because of the Vietnamese war which has engulfed his time, thought and energy. If his problems had stayed home, he might now have one of the greatest records.

But now suddenly, instead of succumbing to gloom or despair, he is trying to be a new Johnson by creating a fresh image of himself in the public eye.

He has been on the defensive these past two years because of antiwar criticism.

★ ★ ★

Yet, if any president ever yearned to be approved, it was Johnson. It showed repeatedly in his tone, words, face and gestures.

Still, he will not bend to the critics. The result: He is a man in a straitjacket.

He has refused to abandon or tone down the war: to make concessions without reciprocal concessions from North Vietnam; or to intensify it so much Red China might feel compelled to get in, which might mean World War III.

Since he wants so much to be a successful president, and a popular one, why hasn't he yielded to his critics?

★ ★ ★

He has given an answer which probably satisfies none of them: He will fulfill his obligations as he sees them.

A MAN ALONE

Now he is like a man alone. Members of his own party have turned against him. One is threatening to run against him for the nomination in 1968. And public confidence as measured by the Harris poll shows him at an all-time low of 23 per cent.

It seems certain Johnson will try for reelection. It also seems certain he has realized his defensiveness is dumping him towards disaster. And it seems certain he has decided to change his ways and become aggressive.

That's his natural condition anyway. He's out of place playing meek and mild.

★ ★ ★

In the usual sense he is a poor speaker, especially when reading from prepared speeches or glued to the presidential rostrum at news conferences. He has changed all that.

ROAMING FREE

He got himself wired for sound with a microphone around his neck, enabling him to roam free of the rostrum, and at last week's news conference put on his most impressive performance, talking off the cuff and gesturing earnestly instead of mechanically.

A week ago he visited military camps from coast to coast, defending the war, attacking his critics.

On Sept. 29 in a talk broadcast nationwide he explained the war and the reasons for being in it. There was nothing defensive about it.

★ ★ ★

He has overdone other things in the past and may overdo the aggressive bit.

U.S. Concerned by Bomb Threat

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Defense Secretary McNamara's announcement of Russia's orbiting "bomb" program was misleading in five respects:

CROMLEY

- McNamara said he is "not concerned." This statement does not mesh with the worried activity in U.S. military technical circles ever since Russian progress on the orbiting "bomb" was confirmed some time back.

It is known by this reporter that indeed the Russian program has caused deep concern in the Pentagon, both among the military and civilian technical men.

- McNamara suggested strongly that the new Russian orbiting warhead would not be accurate and therefore would be limited in its usefulness.

This is a half truth. Such orbiting weapons can be made considerably more accurate than intercontinental ballistic missiles if allowed to orbit several times before firing.

- McNamara suggested the major objective of the Russian orbiting "bombs" would be against U.S. manned bombers.

While no one can read the Russian mind, technical men suggest the major Moscow target would be whatever antiballistic missile systems the United States installs — thin or thick.

Quite possibly, depending on their sophistication, the Russian orbiting warheads could slip through currently planned types of U.S. AMB systems, — thin or thick.

- McNamara suggests Russian orbiting weapons would be limited for a considerable time to come to quite small payloads.

He neglects to point out that the anticipated Russian payloads could nevertheless be three times as large as the payload of a Minuteman or Polaris missile.

- McNamara spoke of over-the-horizon radar as the answer to Russian orbiting nuclear weapons.

The fact that a weapon was known to be orbiting would not help the defense, necessarily, if the ABM sensor system couldn't determine where the "bomb" was heading until too late, or if it divided at the last minute and headed in several directions.

The Russians could really confuse things by keeping a considerable number of orbiting platforms in operation continuously. All of these could be unarmed. Then at a crucial moment, the Russians could put up a batch of armed orbiting missiles calculated to look exactly like the unarmed "scientific" type.

★ ★ ★

There are a number of ways, the scientists say, for the Russians to operate such an orbiting system in ways that could outmaneuver presently planned U.S. defensive measures.

Despite McNamara's bland assurances, a strong effort is under way to find countermeasures.

Confusion Has Arisen Over Insurance for GIs

By JERRY T. BAULICH
Associated Press Newsfeatures

WASHINGTON—Letters I receive show there's a lot of confusion among men and women in service, and even more so among their parents, about the Servicemen's Group Life Insurance. So let's try to erase some of the confusion.

SGLI, which went into effect in 1965, is the first government-sponsored life insurance program for military people since the so-called "free" Servicemen's Indemnity program ended in the mid 1950s.

And it's different from that program and the U.S. Government Life Insurance of World War II. If you have either of those policies you still get the SGLI coverage—which means possible coverage of $20,000.

One reason it's not smart to pass up the full $10,000 at $2 a month SGLI coverage is that if you change your mind and want full coverage again you have to meet certain qualifications, including passing the physical tests of commercial insurance firms.

Unless you say no, the $2 will be deducted from your pay automatically. Or you can specify $5,000 coverage at $1 a month.

* * *

You're encouraged to keep any commercial policies you had when you come into service because they normally provide loan and cash value which continues to grow. SGLI has no loan or cash value.

EXPERT COUNSELING

In many places, young servicemen are being encouraged to take out other insurance while they are young and can do so cheaply. But seek expert counseling on this. Many companies include restrictive war clauses or exclusion riders in case a man is killed in combat.

Be sure your premium is paid, especially if you're heading for Vietnam. It takes about two months to get an allotment into effect for payments. And some men killed in Vietnam have ended up with worthless policies because of this.

President Johnson submitted to Congress last January a plan to permit larger SGLI policies, ranging from $12,000 to $30,000 depending on base military pay, but this apparently is going to get nowhere in Congress this year.

* * *

Nor is a proposal to provide insurance coverage for reservists on training tours. At present SGLI coverage is limited to those on orders for more than 30 days of active duty.

MAJOR FEATURE

One of the main features of SGLI, in contrast to past servicemen's insurance, is that there are no limitations on who can be named the beneficiary. And that is the major point of confusion among parents.

The serviceman is allowed to name a member of his family or somebody not a member, a school, church or charity.

If he names no beneficiary, the insurance would be paid in this sequence: first to the widow or widower; to the children; parents are third; if there are no parents, to the executor or administrator of the estate; and finally, to the next of-kin of his home state laws.

The proceeds are paid either in a lump sum or in equal monthly installments over 36 months. A person should consider his family situation on this point. If the serviceman doesn't say which he wants, the beneficiary can do so after his death.

Constitutional Change Is in Air

By KENT ZIMMERMAN
Associated Press Writer

Winds of change are in the air around state capitals this year, and the end result could be some new state constitutions and many more amendments to the basic charters.

State constitutions have come under fire for being antiquated, too wordy or too frequently amended. Many state legislators apparently agree, and constitutional referenda will be held in at least nine states during the next 12 months.

* * *

The proposed revisions range from minor amendments affecting only one county to new constitutions.

If several states—where revisions have not been approved by legislatures — there are movements to begin consideration of updating the documents next year.

IN ALABAMA

Voters in Alabama will decide Dec. 5 on 18 constitutional amendments dealing primarily with local issues and state bond issues.

A constitutional convention convenes Dec. 1 in Pennsylvania and the convention's proposals will go to the voters in April's presidential primary. The convention is limited to four issues: taxation and finance, reapportionment, local government and judiciary.

Proposals for constitutional change will be on the ballot in seven states in November 1968. The states are Montana, Michigan, Idaho, New Hampshire, Colorado, Nebraska and Massachusetts.

The Michigan Legislature is in special session to implement provisions of its 3-year-old constitution, and next November voters will decide on a proposal to delete a ban on graduated state and local income taxes.

IN MASSACHUSETTS

Massachusetts voters will vote on three proposals approved this year at joint legislative constitutional sessions. They are a graduated income tax, gubernatorial disability and increasing the time allowed a governor to consider enacted bills from five to 10 days.

Colorado residents will vote on an amendment proposing election of a governor and lieutenant governor by a single vote. The New Hampshire Legislature has approved several measures to be placed on the ballot, including one which would allow the legislature to set its own pay and expenses and hold annual sessions.

* * *

The California Constitution Revision Committee is expected to have a proposed revision of about one-third of the constitution ready to put on the ballot in 1968. The committee's revision of the first third of the California constitution was approved by the voters in 1965.

New constitutions have been proposed in three states. In Florida the proposed draft has been completed for a year, and legislative action is expected by early next year.

IN TEXAS

In Texas a constitutional revision commission is in the process of drafting a new state document for submission to the legislature in January 1969. Leaders in the Texas Legislature are divided on the need for a new constitution, but Gov. John B. Connally has recommended a constitutional convention.

Gov. Dan Evans of Washington has said that he will appoint a constitutional commission in the near future to work on revising the Washington constitution. Atty. Gen. John J. O'Connell said he is backing a campaign to put an initiative on the November 1968 ballot to call a constitutional convention.

* * *

Special committees in Tennessee and South Carolina also are studying the need for revisions in their states' constitutions. A subcommittee of the Montana Legislative Council is studying the adequacy of the Montana constitution to the state's needs.

Illinois voters will be given a chance to call for a new state constitution in a referendum that will be placed on the ballot in the 1968 general election.

* * *

Hawaii also will take a hard look at its present constitution and probably will write a new one. A special election is scheduled for next June to select 63 delegates to the 1968 state constitutional convention.

* * *

New Mexico had eight proposed amendments on the Nov. 7 ballot and approved six.

Ohio voters, who rejected reapportionment plans in 1965 and the May 1967 primary, passed a reapportionment plan Nov. 7.

New Yorkers defeated a proposed new state constitution by a margin of almost 3 to 1.

When the entire Interstate highway system is completed in 1972, the 41,000-mile network will carry 20 percent of all motor vehicle traffic.

Foreign Observer Sees U.S. as a Lab

LONDON (AP) — "America is a laboratory" where the world will be able to find out whether mass poverty can be ended and whether different races can live together, one foreign observer believes.

Henry Fairlie, Washington correspondent of London's Sunday Express, said the description, made by "a well-known and shrewd Indian" after her visit to the United States, is "by far the best remark about the country which I have heard yet."

* * *

Fairlie's comments came in a week in which an Associated Press sampling showed foreign criticism of America on several counts. There was one suggestion that despite the generally acclaimed election of two Negro mayors, racial barriers are not really falling.

"Once one understands that America is a huge laboratory, it is much easier to understand the situations in which it finds itself," Fairlie wrote.

EXPERIMENT RESOURCES

He said the Indian observer explained that "every major problem which besets other countries of the world is present in America, but only America has resources with which to experiment in trying to find solutions."

The dissenting voice on the election of Negro mayors in Cleveland and Gary, Ind., was West Germany's Westfaelische Rundschau, which noted that the voting "is interpreted by certain government officials as a symptom of gradual progress."

"Self-critical Americans sadly smile at that," it said. "In reality the gap between the whites and Negroes is wider than ever before, and the government's chances of dismantling racial barriers are small."

Other commentators considered the elections a "hopeful sign after the serious racial disturbances of last summer." The left-of-center Sueddeutsche Zeitung of Munich said the Negro victories were possible only with white support.

Italy's largest circulation newspaper, Milan's conservative Corriere della Sera, declared: "No one can deny that this is more evidence that democracy and liberty are not empty words in the United States."

The Tokyo Asahi said "perhaps next time, or the next" the slogan "don't vote for a Negro, vote for a man" won't be needed.

* * *

George Gale, columnist for the London Daily Mirror, congratulated the voters "who did not fancy Shirley Temple Black as their congresswoman. Dimples and distant memories of golden ringlets aboard the Good Ship Lollipop are not, after all, enough for a ticket to Congress."

One blast at the United States was aimed at the Soviet Union too. The German independent newspaper Stuttgarter Zeitung said, "The nuclear race of the two giants bluntly reveals the absolute incredibility of their pretended will to arms limitation or even disarmament. The United States and the Soviet Union refuse to forego nuclear weapons while expecting others to do so by signing the nonproliferation treaty."

Boris Kidel, Washington correspondent of London's Daily Mail, said President Johnson "appears today so much the captive of his own Vietnam policy that his room for maneuver seems virtually nonexistent."

Foreign Editor Roger Massip of the independent Figaro in France said Johnson's temperament bends him toward conciliation and bargaining and he "wanted to transfer into the international domain the methods that had always served him in domestic politics. That's the source of the impression of drifting the indecision that has too often marked his diplomatic action."

But Japan's Yomiuri said Johnson must feel he has "another one million friends" after Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato's support of his policies in Vietnam.

Public Is Balking on Tax Push

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The letter to the senator said: "Our President asked that I write you in regard to the tax increase. Tell him to go to hell."

Another: "Lyndon Johnson must be out of his mind."

The theme was fairly typical — though the language was a good deal stronger — of letters received by senators and House members the past three weeks in response to an appeal to the public by President Johnson for a massive letter-writing campaign on taxes.

Johnson urged that Americans tell their lawmakers to raise their taxes as a means of heading off a much more costly round of cost of living increases later.

But the response has been mostly opposite of what Johnson had in mind.

It was Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., who got the letter suggesting he tell the President where to go.

CLEVELAND CONSTITUENT

Sen. Stephen Young, D-Ohio, got the one from a Cleveland constituent questioning Johnson's equilibrium in suggesting taxpayers ask for higher taxes.

With his tax bill stalled, Johnson began taking his case directly to the people Nov. 2.

In remarks to a consumers' organization, he said members of Congress should hear from their constituents "often, loud and clear" on the tax bill.

His chief selling point was that his proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge would take only a penny out of the average consumer's dollar, but if it is not enacted the public will pay many times that amount in increased prices for goods and services.

MADE APPEAL

He again made an appeal for the tax bill at his news conference last week:

"Any pollster can walk out and say, 'Do you want to pay more tax?' and of course, you'll say no," he said. "But if you ask him 'Do you want to have inflation, do you want prices to increase 5 or 6 per cent, do you want the (federal budget) deficit of $30 billion or $35 billion, do you want to spend $35 billion more than you're taking in,' I think the average citizen would say No."

Many legislators agree that the answer would be "No" to inflation. But they say the answer is also no to a tax increase and that is the reason they can not support it.

In this connection, Johnson noted that "people don't like to stand up and do the unpopular thing of assuming responsibility that men in public life are required to do sometimes."

MAIL IS LIGHT

Since Chairman Wilbur Mills of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee shelved the Johnson tax bill, congressional mail on the subject has been light despite the President's public appeals.

Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., said he received only six letters on the subject and five of them opposed the increase.

Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., said: "Only two support the increase and 50 of my constituents have written in opposition to the President's call for a tax increase."

★ ★ ★

Rep. Thomas M. Pelly, R-Wash., said he received the following one-line message from a resident of his state: "In response to the President's request: Don't."

30 POSTCARDS

Rep. Joe Pool, D-Tex., said he received 30 postcards within a few days after the President's appeal. He said all bore the identical message: "Please vote for the tax increase. Stop inflation."

But for every letter like this, most legislators received many more in opposition.

In sum, Johnson's public appeals for support of his tax bill may eventually be successful — but it probably won't show up in the congressional mailbag.

"Look at it this way," said Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind. "There are not many people who will write 'Dear senator: Please raise my taxes.' "

Russian First With Ladder-to-Sky Idea

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — "Skyhook," a ladder to the sky that would link a satellite with earth's surface, really was a Russian first. It was proposed by a Russian scientist about six years before such a plan was suggested by four U.S. scientists, who discovered the Russian priority only after the Soviets reacted to the U.S. claim for a new idea.

Unlike many other claims the Russians have made for being first in one field or another, the American scientists state in the journal Science.

In both the Russian and the later U.S. versions, the sky elevator would tether a satellite roughly 22,000 miles above the earth to the surface by cable.

★ ★ ★

The Russian engineer, Y. N. Artsutanov of Leningrad, presented his idea for such a skyhook in the official Russian newspaper, Komsomolskaya Pravda, July 31, 1960.

Gunman Robs Service Station

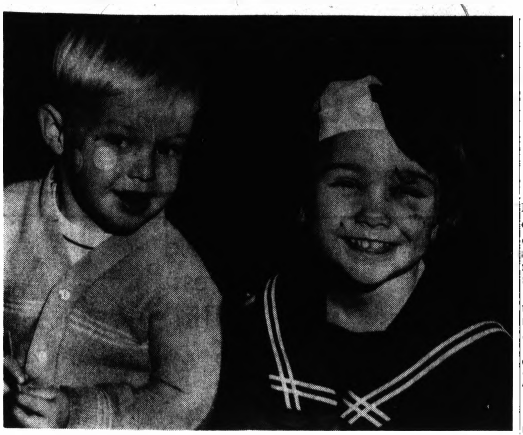

Police are searching for a slim, Negro man in his 30s who reportedly held up at gunpoint, and took about $80 from a Pontiac service station last night.

The station attendant, James Pearce, 21, of 19 Seminole, told police the robber entered the Clark station, 1340 N. Perry, on foot, waited until everyone left and then held him up with a revolver.

* * *

Pearce said the man entered the station on the pretense that his car broke down, according to police. Pearce said he waited on one customer while the robbery was in progress.

The robber fled on foot while the customer was still at the station, police said.

ATTACKED BY DOG — Paul Schwartz, 2, and Cindy Miller, 3, manage to smile despite the facial injuries inflicted on them by a dog last Saturday in Waseca, Minn. Paul had to have eight stitches in his face, and 22 were required to close Cindy's wounds. About 25 men, most of them law officers, made a house-to-house search of Waseca for the dog yesterday. Meanwhile, the victims had their second in a series of 14 painful anti-rabies shots. If the dog is found and discovered to be free of rabies, the shots can be discontinued.

Crowd Rips Goal Posts; Tackle KO'd

SONORA, Calif. (AP) — When Sonora High School won its football conference title with a 24-7 victory over Atwater, fans swarmed onto the field and pulled down the goal posts — right on the head of Paul Chadwell, Sonora's star tackle.

"We were afraid he was dead," said Sonora coach Bob Gibson. "There was blood all over, but he bounced back up, yelling 'We did it, we did it!'"

"They had to put 30 stitches in his head but he got out of the hospital in time to go to the victory party Friday night."

Optimistic Reports on Viet Leave Senate Sharply Split

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whatever its impact on the country, Gen. William C. Westmoreland's optimistic assessment of Vietnam war progress has left senatorial critics and supporters of President Johnson's policies as sharply divided as ever.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., a spokesman for dissenters, said he has no doubt Westmoreland, the U.S. field commander, and Ellsworth Bunker, U.S. ambassador to Saigon, "believe what they are saying when they report progress."

* * *

"But I can't believe we are making all that progress," Clark said. "Their reports are certainly in disagreement with those we get from intelligent responsible newsmen on the scene."

Sen. John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., a strong supporter of Johnson's policies within the divided Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in a separate interview he thinks Westmoreland and Bunker gave "very satisfactory answers" to questions about the progress in both military and civilian programs.

ON THE ROAD

"I think their optimism is justified," Sparkman said. "From them and other reports I have received, I think we are on the road to attaining our objectives of giving South Vietnam freedom of choice and of stemming Communist aggression."

While Sparkman said he thinks the intensive wave of optimistic statements carried on in recent days by Johnson, Westmoreland, Bunker and others will increase support for the President's course, the critics did not seem to agree.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., a dissenter, told his colleagues Wednesday he couldn't understand why Westmoreland was making speeches at home while some of the most critical battles of the war were under way.

At about that time, Westmoreland was terming the 20-day Dak To battle "the beginning of a great defeat for the enemy." He said at a Pentagon news conference he had just spoken by telephone to his deputy, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams Jr., who had been to Dak To and had made an aerial reconnaissance of the battlefield.

MORE KILLED

"With due respect to Gen. Westmoreland," Hartke said, "more people have been killed in Vietnam while he was here telling us about the great victories in that war. The most serious battle of the war has been going on over there in the meantime.

"We have a half-million of the best trained American troops there, all our technology, all of our planes, all of the money of the greatest, most powerful nation in the world. Yet, in some way, we do not seem to be able to win because it is that kind of war."

* * *

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said his foreign relations committee may learn next week whether Secretary of State Dean Rusk will make a public explanation of the administration's war policies. Rusk has declined previously to testify in open session but told the committee last week he would think the matter over.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., said if Rusk again declines to appear, he will push a motion to have Fulbright take the matter up with Johnson. Fulbright, who took occasion to criticize "our stupid policies in Southeast Asia," did not indicate whether he thought such an appeal would be successful.

FORMAL REPORTS

The foreign relations panel filed its formal reports on two proposed resolutions touching on the Vietnam policy controversy.

It termed imperative that the United States take the initiative to bring about a U.S. Security Council vote on peace moves in Vietnam to force member nations to "show the world where they stand" even if an American resolution were rejected.

* * *

Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said he will call up next week a committee-approved resolution requesting the President to take the initiative in urging United Nations action.

But Mansfield said he will postpone until next year discussion of another committee-backed resolution. It would put the Senate on record in demanding congressional action before the President commits American troops to support any other nation in the future, except in case of attack or to protect U.S. citizens.

READ LETTER

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, D-Ore., a critic of Johnson's policies, read to the Senate a letter from Marine Capt. Milton G. Kelsey, killed earlier this month in a helicopter accident in Vietnam which also killed Maj. Gen. Bruno Hochmuth and four others.

Hatfield quoted Kelsey as writing in the Nov. 11 letter to his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McCormack of Highland, Ind. that parts shortages had grounded "about 60 per cent of our choppers."

* * *

Hatfield cited the letter as an example of what he termed failure of costly U.S. defense outlays. He urged a Senate Armed Services Committee probe of the captain's allegations.

Auto Sales Decline From Nov. 1-10 Period

DETROIT (AP) — The auto industry reported sales of 196,368 for the second 10 days of November, a slight decline from the first 10 days of the month.

Most of the decline from the 207,725 car sales reported in the Nov. 1-10 period could be attributed to General Motors. GM sold 130,938 cars in the Nov. 11-20 period, down from the 143,219 sold in the first 10 days of this month but well above the 126,321 sold in the middle 10 days of November last year.

* * *

Ford Motor Co., moving back into full production since a two-month strike ended last month, expressed optimism about future sales despite selling only 18,622 cars in the Nov. 11-20 period. The firm sold 64,102 cars in the same period a year ago.

"Our dealers are just beginning to receive cars from assembly plants following the strike against Ford," said M.S. McLaughlin, vice president and Ford Division manager. "Our daily rate of sales for the last 10-day period were greater than those of any period in October or November."

"The worst is behind us now and we expect to make a dramatic turnaround in the coming weeks," said E.F. Laux, Lincoln-Mercury Division manager. "By next week we will be building more than 2,000 cars per day and dealer inventories will increase steadily, permitting a substantial improvement in sales by the end of the year."

Both Chrysler Corp. and American Motors showed sharp improvement in sales for the Nov. 11-20 period.

* * *

Chrysler sold 39,440 new cars, a record for the period. Chrysler sold 35,296 cars in the same period last year and 38,906 for the first 10 days of this month.

AMC reported sales of 7,360 for the second 10 days of November, up from the 6,711 sold last year at this time and the 5,702 sold in the Nov. 1-10 period.

* * *

"This fresh pickup in sales gives us a strong indication that American Motors total sales in November will exceed those for the like month last year," said William S. Pickett, vice president of automotive sales. He said if this happened it would mark the second straight month AMC sold more cars than for the same month a year ago.

Laborites Beat Censure Vote

Exchequer Chancellor Could Get New Job

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Labor government rode out a censure vote Wednesday night on its devaluation of the pound as expected, but political commentators continued to predict that Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan — the man who takes responsibility for the move—will be moved to another job.

Callaghan, a breezy 55-year-old Irishman, for months has wanted to quit the onerous Treasury post.

* * *

Amid the hue and cry after the pound was cut from $2.80 to $2.40, it seemed at first that he might succeed Foreign Secretary George Brown. But Callaghan's frank, incisive handling of critics of devaluation in the House of Commons won him new respect. Some political writers even pointed to him as a possible successor to Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

Wilson's government easily beat back a Conservative censure motion in Commons. The vote, along straight party lines, was 335-258. Only one Laborite broke ranks and abstained.

RUSH ON GOLD

A rush on gold following devaluation was intensified by France's decision to pull out of the international pool pegging the price. This forced the U.S. government to sell gold heavily to foreign buyers to keep the price from rising above $35 an ounce, since a rise would devalue the dollar.

Britain's authoritative business daily, the Financial Times, said the United States is preparing opinion for the withdrawal of gold backing from the domestic dollar as a means to increase gold backing for the dollar in international trade. It attributed the rush to gold to belief that other countries may devalue their currency.

* * *

One of the biggest traders in the sterling bloc, the crown colony of Hong Kong, broke away from Britain's lead and sharply modified its decision to follow the devaluation. It revalued its currency upward by 10 per cent and announced it would make full reimbursement to authorized exchange banks for the losses they sustained. This is expected to cost $65 million to $72 million in American dollars.

The decision put the exchange rate for the Hong Kong dollar at 6.06 U.S. dollars, instead of 6.65 which had prevailed since devaluation Sunday and 5.70-5.75 prior to devaluation.

* * *

The revaluation was expected to save some Hong Kong manufacturing companies from bankruptcy and reduce a major burden for others. Officials contended it would mean little increase in the cost of living for Hong Kong's 4 million Chinese.

Area Woman Named Head of State Panel

A Bloomfield Hills woman, Mrs. Howard Liverance of 3617 Walbri, has been named chairman of the 28-member special State Commission on the Status of Women.

* * *

Gov. George Romney announced her appointment as he named members of the newly formed commission. Other area women serving are Mrs. John Finegan, Mrs. Ruth McNamee and Mrs. Helen Walker, all of Birmingham.

* * *

A previous commission was named in 1962. It was charged with securing recognition of women's civic and political accomplishments, strengthening home life, directing attention to problems confronting women in employment and civil and political rights, and promoting more effective ways for women to develop their skills and talents.

The second commission will work from a base established by the first, he revealed.

Detroit Man Still in Poor Condition After I-75 Crash

A 23-year-old Detroit man is still in poor condition under intensive care today in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital following an auto accident on I-75 at Square Lake Road in Bloomfield Township.

The accident occurred sometime early Tuesday or late Monday night, police said.

Bloomfield Township police said they found John A. Russ in his car after receiving a call Tuesday from a citizen who noticed the wrecked car below a 10-foot embankment on the expressway.

The victim had apparently been in the wrecked car for four or five hours, unnoticed because of darkness.

* * *

According to police, Russ apparently had lost control of his southbound car, which slid sideways, hit the guard rail, flipped over and landed right side up below the embankment.

Asking for Change, She Pockets $350

A woman who asked for change of $5 at a Pontiac gas station early today made off with $350 lying on top of a desk while the attendant's back was turned, police said.

The attendant of the Clark gas station, 420 S. Saginaw, told police that he went outside to wait on customer and left the woman and unlocked money in the building.

* * *

In another theft, police reported that Harry Ovesen, 21, of 1205 Concord, Rochester, was jumped by three men, knocked to the ground, kicked in the face, and robbed of $7 from his wallet yesterday afternoon at Cass and Oakland.

The largest haul was reported at Austin-Norvell Agency, Inc., 70 W. Lawrence, where some $4,000 worth of office machines was reported taken.

* * *

Emmett Schmidt, 36, of 159 Euclid, reported that a power mower, snow tires, shovels, aluminum siding and other equipment he had in his unlocked garage, valued at a total of $259, were missing.

The time of the theft has been set at late Tuesday or early Wednesday, four years to the day after Oswald, according to the findings of the Warren Commission, assassinated President John F. Kennedy.

Still at the graveside was a weeping willow planted by Oswald's mother and a flower pot with a note, written by a person of unknown identity, attached. The note read in part:

"Oswald

"Now other voices speak that louder grow, who, if legal means to fail, will some names, true killers, tell.

'67-68 Campaign Nears for Prep Cagers

Flint Central Ambush Aim of SVC Quints

The Indians will be on the warpath but perennial title challengers Pontiac Central and Saginaw will be laying ambushes for the tribe from Flint Central.

Thus appears the Saginaw Valley Conference basketball race in the coaches preseason diagnoses.

The defending cochampions from Flint have a lot of talent returning from last year's 20-3 quintet. Saginaw, who shared the top spot, doesn't have as much varsity experience back but it is noted for finding bright talent among the advancing junior varsity performers.

PCH, however, may not find the help it usually does from the reserve roster but the Chiefs have a more than normal (for them) list of returning varsity talent.

CHALLENGING ROLE

Saginaw Arthur Hill rates as an outside challenger, being blessed with height and scoring potential. Flint Northern and Midland may cause trouble, but likely will join Flint Southwestern, Bay City Central and Bay City Handy among the lower echelon.

Regulars Alton Wilson (an All-County and All-SVC honoree last season) and Walter Causey return to the PCH lineup. Leonard Cole (6-4) and Rudy Churchwell (6-5) move up from the junior varsity to help Wilson (6-1) and Causey (6-3) on the backboards.

Two leading varsity reserves bidding for starting roles are 6-2 gunner Frank Russell and stocky guard Ardell Shelton. Walt Noel, a senior, and junior Clayton Burch must advance to provide coach Fred Zittel with some much needed backcourt depth.

Wilson, who averaged 18 points a game, is the only SVC first team choice returning this season, but Flint Central has cocaptains Dwight Pinnix (6-4 senior) and Paul Stokes (6-6½ senior) back to team with 6-6 senior Rick Bower as an intimidating front line.

Speedster Herb Washington and talented Ron Pruitt have a year's varsity experience in the backcourt to add to the Indians' expected strength.

Ken Brady is a 6-7 prospect advancing from the junior varsity.

PCH could benefit by playing Flint Central in the second game of the season and the SVC opener for both. The Indians are hampered early in the year by having several cagers on the football squad until today's annual finale with Flint Northern.

Saginaw's Trojans lack an experienced center and veteran guards. Coach Ken Gray is turning to last year's jayvees and even the incoming sophomores to find help.

Senior Larry Pershay and newcomer George Forster aren't very tall but appear capable of handling the forward slots. Gray, though, has a knack for getting the most out of his material.

Arthur Hill had a promising junior center last year in 6-6 Bob Welzein and a regular guard in junior Dave McMullin. The reserve team had good height and if the Lumberjacks can play good defense they will figure in the race.

Birmingham 5's Opening Season Friday Night

The indoor season has arrived and the long schedule of high school basketball activity opens tomorrow night with a key clash in Birmingham.

* * *

Some of the area schools opened earlier in the week and a few more are slated for action tomorrow, Saturday and Tuesday, but most will swing into action the first Friday in December.

There are a few new coaches and a handful of new schools on the '67-68 basketball scene.

Among the new coaches are Robert Kreger at Emmanuel Christian and Walt Wynienko at Pontiac Catholic. New mentors will also be on hand at Walled Lake, Southfield, Farmington and Royal Oak Kimball.

* * *

Among the new schools heading onto the courts for the first time are Waterford Mott, Southfield Lathrup, Bloomfield Hills Lahser and Roeper City & Country School. Pontiac Catholic is a new school replacing a couple of old ones—St. Michael and St. Frederick.

FIRST MAJOR CLASH

Groves visits Seaholm in the season's first clash tomorrow night and both are likely to look a lot alike in their first meeting.

* * *

Both are rebuilding after graduation thinned the ranks of good '66-67 squads.

Among those schools expected to make a splash in their respective leagues and perhaps in state rankings are Central and Northern in Pontiac along with Ferndale in Class A, Royal Oak Shrine is likely to have a strong club in Class B action, while a tall Romeo crew could surprise a few in the 'B' ranks.

While the basketball squad at Groves may have some problems, the Falcons' swimming team should be among the best in the state.

* * *

In wrestling, Pontiac Northern and Walled Lake head the list locally and the Northern crew has the task of defending its state championship.

* * *

North Farmington is expected to set the pace in gymnastics.

Huskie Year Expected in Inter-Lakes

This, as usual, will be a Huskie year in the Inter-Lakes League cage chase if the coaches' preseason opinions are accurate.

It is a natural conclusion for the I-L mentors who now include two new members — John Oswald at Walled Lake and Ray Boyle at Farmington — since PNH has dominated the basketball picture in the league throughout the 1960's and coach Dick Hall has six players with two letters each.

In addition, the Huskies had one of their strongest junior varsity units last winter and several of those players will be vying hard to advance.

Waterford lost most of its scoring punch and will be pressed hard for the runner-up slot by Livonia Stevenson's experienced Spartans.

Walled Lake has the league's outstanding player in Greg Fogle but he will need help to lift the Vikings past fourth place. Farmington placed second last winter but its scoring and rebounding punch is gone and the Falcons must rebuild.

Football injuries have sidelined a couple of the Pontiac Northern starters — 6-3 Stan Allison and 6-2 Dana Coln.

Allison just underwent a knee operation and will be out six to eight weeks, while Coln, who played on a weak ankle most of the football season, had the ailing limb in a cast this week and he's expected to be out for at least five weeks.

"We'll miss them to be sure," says Hall, "but we have a lot of depth and I'm confident our other players will fill the gap."

With those two out of action, the backboard responsibility will fall to Bob Traylor and Don Hayward, both 6-3. Coming up from the junior Huskies and expected to play a big role in the PNH plans is 6-4 Roger Walker.

BACKCOURT

Guards Craig Deaton and Mike Clancy, both 6-0 seniors who started last season, will be pushed by Mike's brother Rob, Joe Bradley and slender Eddie Williams when he gains his court stride after the football reaction has worn off.

The Huskies were 13-3 last season and 9-1 in their loop race. Their speed, shooting and strong desire to excel as a unit should make them among the school's best quintets.

Bill Foley's 6-3 build at forward plus a 6-5 pivotman in Steve Searle and 6-3 transfer John Spanberg give Waterford mentor Bob Taylor hope for improvement after last year's 8-8 record and third place I-L finish.

* * *

Seniors Bob Haggard and Bob Thomas can expect a significant increase in their playing time; while juniors Bruce Carlson, Gary Pullins (both 6-3), Mike Sheldon, Bob Finkle and Roger Reed are contending for varsity slots.

Another hopeful is transfer Len Loveless, a hustling guard who was a regular last year at Emmanuel Christian.

The Skippers can expect a lot of trouble from Stevenson who, like PNH, has several two-letter winners back for their senior year. The top boys are Paul Tonnemacher (6-4 center), Jim Olsen (6-3) and Jerry Detter (6-1 junior) at forwards and Paul Pender and Dave Mastny, the guards.

In addition, juniors Bud Daniels (6-3) and Nick Exarhos are back with a year's playing time.

STANDOUTS

Walled Lake's 6-0 senior forward Fogle and Northern's Coln both made the Press' second team All-Class A unit last season.

The tricky, slick-shooting Walled Laker hit at a 23.5 clip last year and could challenge for the county scoring crown this winter.

But the Vikings have very little in experienced or tall performers to encourage Oswald who will debut Dec. 1 against Plymouth. Tim Alderson did see action enough to score 117 points for last year's 4-15 quintet.

Mark Lynott, a 6-3 substitute center, and 6-2 Doug Hamilton are the only letter winners on a Farmington roster that coach Boyle considers young and green

Foes Putting Heat on Orion's Dragons

The Dragons of Lake Orion haven't played a game, but their opponents are already putting the heat on them.

* * *

Usually conceded a spot near the basement in preseason estimate, the Dragons are now looked upon by rival coaches as the team to beat in the Oakland A League race.

To win it, the Dragons will have to come from last place, a difficult feat, but coach George Elias and the Lake Orion crew are ready to give it a try.

Parochial 5's Title Hopes Stirring

EARLY HUDDLE — Center Sam Brady and Pontiac Catholic coach Walt Wynienko met for the first time this year and both are hoping for big things in 1967 from the Titans. Pontiac Catholic is in its first year of operation, product of a merger of St. Frederick and St. Michael.

Lahser, Mott Make Debuts

WKHS, Oaks Change Courses

Waterford Kettering and Royal Oak Dondero's basketball teams could pass each other going in opposite directions this season.

Bloomfield Hills' Lahser, Adlai Stevenson of Utica and Waterford Mott meanwhile, figure there is only one direction for them.

Kettering figures to suffer a comedown after two straight unbeaten regular seasons that were unfortunately capped by tournament defeats.

* * *

Coach Joe Duby can point to only one letterwinner on the Captains' roster — 6-1 guard Pete Evans who was a regular on the two Tri-County League championship units — and a schedule that is primed with opponents aching for revenge.

The talented combine that included Dick Miceli, Dave Cox, Bob VonBargen, Ralph Windeler, Joe Raczynski and Jack McCloud as regulars along with Evans left some damaged prides in its wake.

Evans should get some help from Bob Lines, Joe O'Connor and 6-3 junior center Dave Powell. But with North Farmington, Clarkston and Lapeer waiting in the first three games, rough seas loom for the Captains.

Dondero, on the other hand, posted a 2-16 mark last winter and coach Dave Parks figures the Oaks will be on the rise with four of six regulars returning.

INJURED

A broken leg suffered by guard Jerry Campbell this fall could slow down the Dondero unit for awhile. Two-year regular John Mann is back for his junior season as a 6-1 forward.

Most of the rebounding will be handled by him, Tom Poff (6-0) and 6-2 junior center Don Schultz. Scoring could be a problem in addition to the lack of height under the basket, but the year's experience should help improve the victory total.

* * *

As usual, Highland Park should be the cream of the Border Cities' League with possible challenges by Dearborn Fordson and Grosse Pointe. Dondero figures to be a spoiler with its predominantly junior lineup.

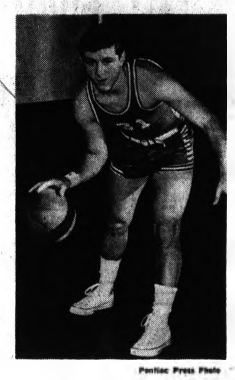

Lahser will be playing a combined varsity-reserve schedule in its first season. The Knights will meet another first-year quintet, Mott, in their opener Dec. 1.

Lahser will be coached by Bill Ullenbruch whose past includes a stint with Walled Lake's Vikings.

Former Kettering aide Ray Robinson is the varsity coach at Mott. Stevenson, who played a restricted schedule last winter, is led by Ed Debaene into a full varsity season this year. The Titans will visit Emmanuel Christian for their opener Dec. 1st.

* * *

Novi also had a limited varsity slate last year with a sophomore group and will venture into a more challenging phase of play this year. Jon VanWagner, a lanky forecourt operator, and diminutive Gary Boyer head the Wildcats.

EAGLET GUARD — Van Muehlfeld is one of two returning backliners with a varsity letter at Orchard Lake St. Mary. He is a 5-7 senior and will probably be paired with Tim Megge at the guard berths.

Shrine, OLSM Top Prospects to Pace Races

Divisional title banners may be blowing in the breeze for Orchard Lake St. Mary and Royal Oak Shrine next March but Birmingham Brother Rice could encounter an ill wind.

Oakland County prep teams are represented in four of the Detroit Catholic League divisions — including almost the entire Northwest Catholic loop — and there could be title contenders from the county in at least three of them.

Perennial challenger OL St. Mary is favored to repeat in the Northwest. Shrine, although a 78-77 loser in its non-league opener Tuesday, is rated a top threat in the impressive AA Division.

* * *

Brother Rice has to contend with always tough Catholic Central for the Central Division honors and the Warriors may not have enough depth to make a full-season fight of it, though they appear capable of challenging any foe on a given night.

Bishop Foley of the A-East bracket is in its second season and isn't likely to be a contender this soon.

INDEPENDENT

Oakland County's lone parochial school playing an independent schedule — Emmanuel Christian — has a new coach Bob Kreger and no players with varsity experience. A long season appears imminent.

St. Mary's Eaglets have high-scoring Tim Megge, a 6-1 junior guard, and quick Greg Flor, a 6-1 senior, to blend with some tall but inexperienced juniors.

Ken Kziazkiewicz is a 6-5 center; Mike Cyman stands 6-3 and will be used both as a forward and pivotman, and 6-3 John Wojtys is available to spell either of them.

In addition, Van Muehlfeld has a year's playing time in the backcourt. Fr. John Rakoczy is confident of the Eaglets' speed and scoring, but the rebounders have to prove their value.

Pontiac Catholic's debut in the Northwest circuit will be Dec. 1st against Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows and the game will be watched closely to determine if either is of contender status.

* * *

FOL Sorrows had a strong quintet last season but outside of 5-11 guard Dennis Perry not too much strength returns from that unit. Speed should be the Lancers' top attribute.

TEAM EFFORT

PCHS, meanwhile, will have to develop team unity. The Titans have good shooting and rebounding potential in 6-2 Sam Brady, 6-4½ Tom Richards, 6-1 Mike Keller, 6-0 Tim Loviska, and guards Butch Finnegan and John Guillean.

But the players are a mixture of St. Frederick and St. Michael's varsities and haven't worked together until this month.

Coach Mike Boyd at Waterford Our Lady of Lakes has a 6-3 center in Dan Sioma and a sharp shooter in 6-0 guard Dennis McCulloch. Steve Dunckley and Dan Fahlgren are short but have experience, though a back injury may limit Fahlgren's availability.

* * *

Boyd's chief hope is to instill a winning attitude in the players.

Shrine has three-year regulars Mickey Brzezinski (5-8 playmaker) and Paul Seymour (6-6 center), plus 6-7 Wayne Hambell, 6-2 Dave McClain and 6-2 Wally Swartz to form an experienced high-scoring quintet.

At Brother Rice, there is a 6-6 question mark named Lee Hart. If his sore shoulder heals in time, the Warriors could be a rugged outfit. Mike McGill (6-5) and Dave Kreuz (6-2) add experience and rebounding power.

NORTHWEST CATHOLIC LEAGUE
Coaches' Predictions

1. OL St. Mary	5. Farmington OLS
2. St. Francis de Sales	6. Royal Oak St. Mary
3. Ferndale St. James	7. Waterford Our Lady
4. Pontiac Catholic	8. Detroit St. Rita

Oxford 5 to Get Initiation in New Prep Conference

Oxford will have its Central Suburban League hoop initiation Dec. 8 at Harper Woods against an inexperienced unit that should be a fair challenge for the equally green Wildcats.

Coach Lee Noftz of Oxford has only three returnees with experience and they lack height and scoring punch. He hopes underclassmen will take up some of the point slack.

Garry Cummings, Perry Rouse and Ray Martens are back and none stands above 6-1. Bidding for regular berths are Dave Darling, Darrell Marsh and Dan Valentine.

While Lutheran East seems the team to beat, Madison Heights Lamphere could be a contender if junior Steve and senior Bill Dunlop, 6-3 brother hopefuls, develop as rebounders and scorers. Bill Watson, who posted an 18-point average last yaar, is a junior regular guard.

Pat Wooley (6-2) and Joe Olaytia (6-3) add height to the forecourt crew.

Three Prep Teams Added to County Swim Competition

Three new swimming teams make their debut among the 13 Oakland County high schools which now have the varsity sport and all the strength seems to point to Birmingham Groves as the power in the county and state.

* * *

Bloomfield Lahser and Andover start their varsity competition with energetic schedules, while Rochester plans an abbreviated schedule in its first season.

Mike Lane, who guided Grand Blanc to sixth place in the state meet last year, has the swim reins at Andover, while former Pontiac assistant Doug Treais has the post at Lahser.

At Rochester, Bill Gappy of Central Michigan will guide the Falcon Nators who will use Oakland University's pool until their natatorium is completed next spring.

* * *

John Wieck, after a great coaching career at Warren Fitzgerald has a great nucleous of swimmers at Groves which should take the honors in the Northwestern Suburban League and be strong contenders in the state.

* * *

Kimball and Seaholm still have some outstanding swimmers returning. Coach Rick Field has only one senior at Kimball, while Mike Heick has 11 top lettermen to bid for the league crown.

PNH with 21 sophs and 10 seniors, lost Carl Hiller and the Yedlin brothers, but the Huskies still could match their 9-4 record of last season.

PCH, which was 10-2 in the SVC and 10-4 over-all, lost key sprinter but John Mason and Jeff Bisanz are back among six lettermen.

* * *

Utica Stevenson joins the swim schools, gaining a few swimmers from Utica High which had its best season in history under Gene Collins with a 13-4 record.

* * *

The RO Relays and Vehicle City Relays are the big swim events which open the season for many local teams Dec. 2.

Pontiac Press Photo

LEADING HUSKIES—Bill Green, a 112-pounder and John Willson, who'll wrestle at 138, are cocaptains on the 1967-68 Pontiac Northern wrestling team. These two, along with a promising bunch of newcomers, will be trying to retain the Inter-Lakes and state mat championships they picked up last season.

Northern Matmen Favored to Keep Win Streak Going

If rival coaches are correct, then Pontiac Northern will collect its second state wrestling championship this season.

The first for PNH came last year, when coach Bill Willson guided the Huskies to a 4-0 record and the title in the Inter-Lakes League, to a 12-0 over-all season mark and then the state title at Ann Arbor.

That's a tough act to follow, but Willson has nine letter winners returning and he's counting on them to keep the winning trend at PNH.

Gone from the PNH squad is state 180-pound champion Frank Lafferty, along with Tom Kell, a runner-up in state competition last year.

* * *

Anchoring the Huskies squad this season will be Bill Green, a 112-pound senior, and John Willson, a 138-pounder.

PERENNIAL POWER

Walled Lake, a perennial power, lost almost all of last year's team that posted an 11-1 mark. Chief among the holdovers is Tim Russell (103), Ray Buffmyer (112) and Bob Hellner (138).

Charles Mason (180) and Rojelio Rodriguez (154) will anchor Pontiac Central's team.

Both Waterford and Kettering have a number of lettermen returning and should improve on last year's losing marks.

Country Day Quintet Missing Vital Trio, but Coach Has Hopes

Country Day of Birmingham advanced further than any other Oakland County prep quintet last March in the state hoop tournament, reaching the quarter-final round in Class C.

All-Stater Tim Baughman, 6-8 center Dave Swift and tricky 6-0 forward Paul Miller are gone from that 19-3 unit and coach John Hannett isn't anticipating the same type of performance.

But the veteran mentor is expecting the Yellow Jackets to jell into another good squad as sophomores Reed Bohne (6-5) and Mitch Hansen (6-2), or 6-2 junior transfer Jeff Smathers progress quickly.

In addition, two-year letter winners Larry Bajor and Mike Ross both stand 6-3, plus 6-2 playmaker Jack Zwemer, two-year performer Steve Tarczy and Dwight Edwards also return. However, Tarczy's bothered by a bad shoulder and may not play much.

The rebounding potential is there. Hannett's big job is to develop scoring punch.

Front Seat Berth Seen for Millington

Imlay City and North Branch reigned one-two in the South Central basketball title chase last year, but they are expected to take a back seat to Millington this season.

* * *

North Branch was unbeaten in the league and had an 18-4 mark over-all, Dave Campbell, a 6-4 center and Tom Snobelen return to action this season along with five other letterwinners.

* * *

Imlay was 20-4 and has seven experienced returnees, but the Spartans lack height. Sophomore Dave Rowley at 6-2 could be the center.

Brown City moves into the league basketball race for the first time with a junior-dominated lineup that has a year's experience in the Southern Thumb circuit.

Versatile Larry Hourtienne is expected to pace a well-rounded Millington unit.

Ortonville Five Boasts Veteran Point Punch

Ortonville Brandon may not have the speed to fast break as coach Ed Donaldson would like but the Blackhawks could have some scoring punch in Garry McDowell, Dave Tuttle and Rick Wray.

The development of 6-4 sophomore Leland Loutzenheizer could be a big factor in their success. Gary Barns and Larry McPhail are also among the five returning letterwinners.

New Cranbrook Coach After Board Strength

Cranbrook's new coach Larry Manhart has to fill the rebounding gap caused by the graduation of 6-5 Jon Pavloff and high-jumping 6-1 Ed Randle to balance the return of four letterwinners from last year's 10-6 quintet.

Guard Ron Fallon scored 137 points last winter and he will have help from senior forward Curt Mann who had 200. Dave Kangas is 6-2 and the leading candidate for the center spot.

Scott Babcox, Dirk Dieters and O'Neil Sanders show promise of helping the cause. Additional aid may come from a strong Crane reserve squad of last season.

Detroiters Slip, 4-2

Flyers Skate Past Red Wings

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "We haven't met a team yet I feel we can beat merely by skating out on the ice," said Sid Abel, general manager-coach of the Detroit Red Wings.

* * *

Abel was talking about the expansion teams in the National Hockey League after his old guard Red Wings were beaten Wednesday night by the Philadelphia Flyers 4-2.

"They (the six expansion teams) are putting more into the game to prove a point—that they are capable of playing in this league," said Abel.

* * *

The Flyers, in particular, have been rough on the teams in the older Eastern Division. Philadelphia has won four, lost one and tied one with the veteran clubs.

NO SURPRISE

Abel said hockey people weren't surprised at the strength being shown by the expansion babies.

* * *

"I don't think anybody is surprised but the newspapermen," he said. They were the ones who said we had a bad draft in stocking the new teams.

"There's not that much difference between the teams," Abel insisted. "We, the older division have a lot of big names who aren't looking any better than the players on the new teams."

* * *

Abel gave the Flyers credit for playing a hustling game Wednesday night. "They checked real well and we didn't play too well," Abel said. "We've been on the road and we're due to comeup with one not up to par."

FIRST LOSS

Detroit's rookie goalie, 30-year-old Roy Edwards, hadn't been in a losing game this year, including nine with the Red Wings' Fort Worth Central League farm club and five in the NHL. He was averaging 1.20 in the nets until Wednesday night.

* * *

The Flyers got to him in the first period on an unassisted goal by Garry Peters. Detroit tied it on a 25-foot shot by Floyd Smith, which Flyers' goalie Bernie Parent juggled and then let slide past him.

* * *

In the second period, Philadelphia's Larry Zeidel tried a shot from about 75 feet. The puck slammed against the boards and rebounded over the goal onto the stick of Bill Sutherland.

* * *

Edwards was half turned around as Sutherland slammed the first of his two goals into the net. Before the third period ended Don Blackburn scored for a 3-1 lead.

* * *

Detroit cut it to 3-2 in the final period on a goal by Bruce MacGregor, but Sutherland clinched it for the Flyers at 16:41 with his eighth goal this season.

* * *

Parent did a fine job in the nets for Philadelphia as Detroit outshot the winners 32-26.

Hawks' Hull Bags 3 Goals in 7-1 Victory

By United Press International

Bobby Hull was thinking of trying to set up his linemate Eric Nesterenko for a hat trick Wednesday night.

But he "accidentally" did it himself to pace the Chicago Black Hawks to a 7-1 rout of the New York Rangers.

* * *

Hull's hat trick — his 21st of his career — gave him 18 goals in 18 games and if he can continue the goal-a-game average throughout the 74-game National Hockey League regular season schedule, he'll shatter all his own records.

Hull holds the NHL record of 54 goals in a season set in 1965-66 and he added 52 last season.

"Actually what was on my mind was to get a third for Eric because he already had two," Hull said, "but suddenly a couple shots went in and I had one myself."

* * *

In the other five games Wednesday night, Toronto took over first place in the Eastern Division with a 3-0 victory over Minnesota; Pittsburgh surprised Boston 4-2, Montreal turned back St. Louis 3-1 and Los Angeles remained in first place in the Western Division with a 3-1 victory over the Oakland Seals.

Chi Chi After Title in Home Tourney

SAN JUAN (UPI)—Juna "Chi Chi" Rodriguez, who made a name for himself as a touring pro in the United States, makes another attempt to win his country's championship when the $17,500 Puerto Rico Open gets under way today.

A total of 80 pros, representing the best field in the 14-year history of the tournament, will compete over the rugged 7,315-yard, par-72 Dorado Hilton Country Club course, located 20 miles west of San Juan.

Ramon Sota of Spain, who won the Puerto Rico Open last year with a 284, the lowest score in tournament history, will be back to defend his title.

VanArsdales Star in NBA

Cage Twins on Same Road

NEW YORK (NEA) — You remember Dick Van Arsdale. He's the former Indiana All-America. He's a 6-5, 24-year-old, has a shock of blond hair and is a professional basketball star.

You probably remember Tom Van Arsdale, too. He's the former Indiana All-American. He's 6-5, 24-year-old, has a shock of blond hair and is also a pro basketball star.

The Van Arsdale twins are a family success story in the NBA. Tom plays guard at Detroit and last year was the Piston's leading foul-shooter with a 78 per cent average.

Dick, a forward for New York, is considered the Knicks' top defensive player and usually draws assignments against the league's top scorers.

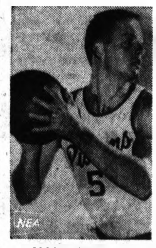

He considers Cincinnati's Jerry Lucas and Detroit's Dave DeBusschere among the toughest to guard, along with Boston's John Havlicek, whom he considers most rugged in the clutch.

As for when the Knicks play Detroit, Tom and Dick don't guard each other except when they must switch off.

"We really don't like to play against each other individually," says Dick. "We seldom say anything during a game. When we do get together we have a good time, though, and that's fairly often. We're both in the National Guard and we're in the same towns a lot because of the many doubleheaders we play."

THIRD PLACE

"I guess you could say we're both shooting for third place in our division," he adds. "Realistically, we think that's about how good we are. Boston and Philadelphia are naturally the best. By the end of the season we could be tough in the playoffs."

Rally Brings T-Hawks First Win

By FLETCHER SPEARS

Chances are that old holiday bird tasted just a little better this afternoon for Pontiac's Tomahawks.

"Just don't eat too much," joked coach Bob Duffy in a happy mood brought on by the Tomahawks' late rally that produced a 123-120 victory over the Columbus Comets at Pontiac Northern High School before some 600 fans.

It was the Tomahawks first triumph after two setbacks in the North American Basketball League, and it put the squad in a better frame of mind for their trip this evening to Lansing where they'll meet the unbeaten Capitols at Waverly High School at 8 p.m.

The Tomahawks sagged near the four-minute mark of the final period and seemed headed for certain defeat as they fell behind, 120-112, with two minutes left.

But the visitors hit a dry spell and the local pros caught fire and flipped in 11 points in a row to pull out the win.

MANY ERRORS

Both teams committed numerous mental errors, alternating in this department, and Columbus' turn came at the wrong time — near the end of the contest.

The win made Duffy happy, but he was obviously concerned over the continuing miscues on court.

"We're making too many mental errors," Duffy was saying. "I really don't know what to do. We've worked on it, but maybe they'll just have to play their way out of it.

"The errors hurt us in the other games. We could easily have won them."

The Tomahawks lost their opener to Holland, 134-114, then fell to Grand Rapids, 132-129.

The key performer in the final two minutes for the Tomahawks was ex-University of Detroit ace Dick Dzik.

The 6-6 Dzik, a rugged 230-pounder, scored the final nine points for Pontiac and teamed with center Jim Patterson in a superb job on the backboards.

* * *

Dzik took charge with the Tomahawks down 120-114, with 1:58 left. Two quick buckets cut the deficit to two points, and he tied the game at 120 with a pair of free throws with 54 seconds left.

The Comets missed on their next effort and with 25 seconds left, Dzik tipped in Dave Gaines' rebound for a two-point lead.

A Comet miscue near their own basket gave the Tomahawks the ball again with 20 seconds left. Dzik was fouled moments later and dropped another through for a three-point Pontiac lead.

The Comets weren't through, however. Hot-shooting Arvesta Kelly, a 6-2 flash from Lincoln University, gunned one from longrange at the buzzer that would have given him a three-point goal and tied the game but the ball bounced off the front of the rim.

Dzik's spree in the final period gave him 29 points, tops for the Tomahawks, while Patterson finished with 24.

Dallas, Cards Setting Sights on Century Title

Two Meeting Today; AFL Finds Raiders Visiting Kansas City

Associated Press Sports Writer

Dallas and St. Louis, with only three days to build an appetite, still should be plenty hungry for their Turkey Day meeting tonight with two National Football League divisional titles on the table.

The Cowboys and Cardinals, coming off unsatisfying performances last Sunday, dig in against each other in the Cotton Bowl, the Cowboys sniffing the Capitol Division crown, the Cardinals with an eye on the Century championship.

* * *

The game was one of four on the television menu with game time set for 6 p.m. EST on CBS.

Los Angeles met Detroit earlier in the first half of an NFL television doubleheader while Oakland played at Kansas City and Denver at San Diego in an American League twinbill on NBC.

The Cowboys, 7-3, lead the Capitol Division by two games despite a 27-20 upset loss to Washington last Sunday. The situation for the Cardinals, 5-4-1, is more pressing after a dreary 30-3 defeat at Chicago sent them one-half game behind Cleveland in the Century Division.

HEALTHY

The teams have only three days to prepare their table manners, but at least they'll be trying to carve up each other with everyone healthy.

Dallas is two games ahead of Philadelphia, which plays at New York Sunday against the Giants, only a game behind Cleveland. The Browns host Washington, at 4-4-2.

In other Sunday games, Baltimore tries to protect its Coastal Division lead and its unbeaten record at San Francisco while Green Bay, 7-2-1, meets the Bears, 5-5, its closest competition in the Central Division.

Atlanta travels to New Orleans and Minnesota invades Pittsburgh in other contests.

In the AFL Sunday, Houston can pull within a game of the Eastern Division lead with a victory over visiting Boston while Buffalo plays at Miami. The New York Jets, who lead the East, have a bye.

Kentucky Pro Five Under New Coach

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky Colonels pro basketball team hired Gene Rhodes as its head coach Wednesday to succeed Johnny Givens.

Givens, who has a contract with the club, was reassigned to what Colonel President Joe Gregory said would be "added duties in the field of administration."

Rhodes, 39, resigned as assistant coach at Western Kentucky university to accept a two-year contract with the Colonels, now running last in the Eastern Division of the American Basketball Association.

Hoople Says Moon to Shine on Irish

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE

Egad, friends, some people are hard to please.

I was awakened very early Sunday morning by a telegram from a Southern California supporter, who was unhappy because the Hoople System missed by two points when USC defeated UCLA by a 21-20 score after we had forecast a Trojan triumph, 22-21.

I'll wager he's one of the students who protest when they have classes before noon or when the dormitory cafeteria serves T-bone steaks three nights in a row — um-kumph!

Enough for lads of his type! C'est la guerre!

The Notre Dame-Hurricane meeting under the Miami moon on Friday has caused the Hoople System no end of concern. After a laborious review of all pertinent data on these two fine teams, we foresee an Irish triumph, 28-22!

* * *

Enjoy your holiday, friends, and don't eat too much turkey.

Now on with the forecast.

Alston, Dodgers Happy

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Walter Alston, the dean of managers in major league baseball, is set to pilot the Los Angeles Dodgers for the 15th consecutive year—counting the old Brooklyn Dodgers, of course.

Alston flew out from his hometown, Darrtown, Ohio, for the formal signing Wednesday and to confer with President Walter O'Malley, Vice President E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi and other brass regarding the baseball meetings next week in Mexico City.

The Dodgers did not divulge salary figures but the 55-year-old Alston reportedly will receive $55,000 for 1968, the same he is supposed to have made in 1967.

Bay Area Rules Class B Team

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Bay City-Saginaw area dominated high school football in Michigan this year with three of the top four teams in the state and it showed up in the 1967 Associated Press Class B High School All State football team.

Three players from Bay-area schools made the first string, led by Art Burgman, a senior tackle on Saginaw Buena Vista's No. 1-ranked club. Mike Denay, Bay City John Glenn's fine end, and halfback Dick Edwards of Saginaw SS. Peters & Paul, were the others.

Rounding out the first team were end Keith Settlemoir of Flint Ainsworth, tackle Keith Vree of Grand Rapids Central, center Walt Berryman of Ypsilanti Lincoln guards Ben Lewis of Fenton and Dennis Bravata of Wyoming Godwin Heights, quarterback Joel Carlson of Coloma, and halfbacks Gary Weiss of Frankenmuth and Ed Puishes of Dearborn Divine Child.

Burgman, who made All-State as a junior last year, was even better this season as the key blocker in Buena Vista's great offensive line. He's paired at tackle with Vree, team leader at Grand Rapids Central. Vree, a fine blocker, averaged 7 tackles and five assists on defense.

Special honorary mention was given Gary Fox, a senior tackle at Erie-Mason, who was killed in an auto accident Nov. 5. Gary, a two-way standout, was a three-year starter at Mason and made 48 tackles this year.

Denay, in his third year on the John Glenn varsity, anchored a defense which blanked its first five opponents. Glenn was beaten 6-0 by Buena Vista, which scored in the last minute of play after Denay was injured and forced to the sidelines.

Settlemoir, an end on offense, intercepted six passes as a defensive halfback at Ainsworth. He caught 37 passes for 600 yards and five touchdowns.

Saginaw - area coaches called Edwards the best back in the bay area. He scored 158 points, including 25 touchdowns while rushing for 1,350 yards.

He was paired at halfback with Gary Weiss of Frankenmuth, whose cousin Terry, made All-State last year. Weiss, a 210-pound fullback, rambled an average of 200 yards a game and scored 16 touchdowns while amassing 1,721 yards.

Ed Puishes of Divine Child led his team to the Detroit City Championship this year with a 13-7 victory over Class A power Denby. He carried 173 times for 1,424 yards in regular season play and caught 17 passes for 411 yards. On defense, the 5-foot-11, 155-pound speedster intercepted nine passes and averaged five tackles a game.

Packers, Colts NFL Leaders in Statistics

NEW YORK (AP) — Baltimore's offense and Green Bay's defense dominate the weekly team statistics announced Tuesday of the National Football League with the Colts out front in total offense and pass attack and the Packers first in total defense and pass defense.

The high-scoring Baltimore team, only unbeaten club in pro football, has rolled up 305 points, best in the league. The stubborn Packers, whose striking power has been reduced by a series of injuries, have allowed only 118 points in 10 games.

Baltimore also has done the best job protecting its passer. John Unitas, permitting their passer to be smeared for a loss only 11 times for a total of 77 yards. San Francisco and Washington each has thrown the enemy passer 31 times, the Redskins getting to Dallas' passer eight times Sunday.

The New York Jets have retaken the offensive lead from San Diego in the American Football League team statistics released today after the Chargers concentrated more on defense to beat Kansas City last Sunday.

The Jets, beating Boston 29-24, raised their average yards per game to 374.7 with a league leading 278.4 of them coming through the air.

The defeat also cost Kansas City some of its healthy rushing lead over Oakland, 145.5 yards per game to 130.9.

Oakland maintained its defensive lead in all three categories, giving up 194.7 yards a game, 68.9 rushing and 125.8 passing. Buffalo is second at 245.0 overall with Boston next on rushing defense with 84.6 and Buffalo second on passing with 129.9.

SWAMI ASSOCIATION OF THE GRAPEVINE

There's no doubt Swami Spears has won the presidency of the Swamis for the third term, but say now, look at the rush put on by Swami Kearns who passed up Swami Craig and has moved into a second place tie with Swami Vogel.

★ ★ ★

This is the last week for all of the Swamis to make the selections. Next week, the 1967 president will have the Grapevine all to himself to match his wits against our rival and friend Major Hoople.

Gladding's Exit Ends Tiger Deal

DETROIT (AP) — Right-hander Fred Gladding, 31, who has never had a losing season as a relief pitcher for the Detroit Tigers, was chosen by the Houston Astros Wednesday to complete a player exchange.

Gladding was picked from a number of Tiger players in a transaction in which the Tigers acquired infielder Eddie Mathews last Aug. 17.

Gladding had a 6-4 record last season in 42 appearances. In seven major league seasons with the Tigers Gladding compiled a 26-11 record in 217 games.

A native of Flat Rock, Mich., Gladding was signed by the Tigers in 1955. He also has played with Tiger teams in the minor leagues.

* * *

After joining the Tigers, Mathews played in 36 games, hitting .231. He collected six home runs and 19 runs batted in. Mathews has held down assignments at first base and third base for the Tigers.

SWAP

Another interleague trade highlighted other baseball news as Cincinnati dealt outfielder Floyd Robinson and right-handed reliever Darrell Osteen to the Oakland Athletics for right-hander Ron Tompkins.

Robinson, 31 acquired by the Reds from the Chicago White Sox last year, was hampered by injuries in 1967 and hit on .238 as a reserve. Osteen, 24, finished last season with Buffalo and had a 10-4 record.

Tompkins, 23, won 10 and lost 9 at Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League.

Russell's Sub Shines as Celtics Topple Rockets

By the Associated Press

Boston Celtics' Coach Bill Russell had a problem. He solved it by benching Boston Celtics' player Bill Russell.

Toward the end of the first half of the Celtics' 124-110 victory over San Diego Wednesday night, the score was tied 48-48 and Russell put Wayne Embry in for himself.

Big Wayne quickly sank a pair of free throws, added a three-point play and scored another basket, leading the Celts to a 61-52 halftime lead.

Embry came in for Russell again early in the second half and hit three more fast baskets and the Celtics led by as much as 17 points. The Rockets couldn't get back after that.

In other NBA action, Cincinnati nipped New York 123-122, Chicago beat Baltimore 105-100, and St. Louis edged Philadelphia 115-113.

In the American Basketball Association, Houston beat Denver 106-100, Dallas topped Indiana 112-111 and New Jersey shaded New Orleans 109-106.

Jerry Lucas threw in two free throws with two seconds left in the Royals' victory over the Knickerbockers. Oscar Robertson led Cincinnati with 40 points and Lucas added 31. Cazzie Russell topped the Knicks with 29.

* * *

Jerry Sloan's 35 points, plus his team's last five of the game, was the big factor in the Bulls' triumph.

Joe Caldwell's two clutch baskets in the last 90 seconds gave St. Louis its win over Philadelphia and ended a three-game losing streak for the Western Division leaders.

3-POINTER

Tony Jackson dropped a 28-foot three-point goal as time ran out, bringing the N. J. Americans a 109-106 victory over New Orleans.

Jim Burns also tried a jump shot at the buzzer, but he was fouled by Oliver Dardeh and sank two free throws after time was gone for Dallas' 112-111 triumph over Indiana at Indianapolis.

Houston Coach Slater Martin, meditating over a nine-point deficit late in the third quarter, put in his second team the rest of the game and it richly rewarded him. Willie Somerset led the final surge with 14 points in the last quarter and Guy Manning added 10.

Grid Fans Like WMU Football

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Assertions that Waldo Stadium at Western Michigan University was packed for three Mid-American Conference, home football games this fall were not exaggerated. Statistics show the Broncos averaged 21,184 fans per game, an amazing figure considering the stadium has a listed seating capacity of 17,500.

Colds Plague Wolverine 11

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A wave of head colds hit Michigan Wednesday and several players were kept out of a two-hour workout in rain and light snow.

Coach Bump Elliott kept sophomore fullback Garvie Craw out of the workout because of the slippery turf. Craw is suffering from a leg injury and remains a doubtful starter for the season finale against Ohio State.

Halfback Ernie Sharpe, linebacker Bob Wedge and defensive end Phil Seymour missed the drill because of head colds but were expected to play Saturday.

The Ohio State team was expected in Ann Arbor on Thanksgiving Day and both teams were to hold light workouts today or Friday.

Northwestern Puts Passer Into Lineup

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP — Win, lose or draw it seems every week Northwestern Coach Alex Agase comes up with something new.

This week it will be a new starting quarterback for the season finale at Michigan State.

Dana Woodring, a junior who has played in the shadow of Bill Melzer for two seasons, will start against the Spartans and that in itself indicates Northwestern will come out throwing.

Woodring has seen limited action this season but when he gets into a game he throws. He was given an opportunity in the late stages of the 27-21 loss to Illinois Saturday and got off 10 passes with three completions including one touchdown.

Rice Shortage Perils Unsteady Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Aminah, looking more than her 20 years, stood in line three hours waiting for her rice ration.

Around her, hundreds of women and children, barefoot and ragged, noisily pushed around the wooden barrels of government rice. Two of Aminah's four children clung to her sarong.

It was at one of the ration centers scattered throughout this city of four million. Rice, the basic food, has tripled in price in the past six weeks and is still rising but at the centers a needy person can draw three liters of rice a day at 15½ rupiahs, about 9 cents a liter.

On Jakarta's open market, rice costs 38 rupiahs a liter, about a quart. In North Sumatra it is up to 70 rupiahs. Yet in other areas, like the South Celebes, villagers pay only 4 rupiahs.

SIMILAR TALES

Most of the women crowding the centers here have depressingly similar tales. All are poor, sickly and have unemployed husbands or are widows. Aminah's husband is a bricklayer who is idle much of the time. They live in the dirt-encrusted slums behind the glistening Hotel Indonesia.

Taunts carried across the dust raised by shuffling feet in the ration center. "Is this the new order?" snapped one pregnant mother in a jibe at the present New Order government. "We never had this problem in the past." Helmeted troops with submachine guns stood nearby.

Indonesia is suffering one of its longest droughts in years, but mismanagement is also responsible for the critical rice situation. Various ministers and directors only shrug and say "It's not my responsibility."

The monsoon rains will eventually come, but the long dry spell has destroyed up to 20 per cent of the summer rice crop in Java. This small island, with 70 per cent of Indonesia's 110 million people, grows 75 per cent of the rice.

Some 4,000 youths marched against the offices of Acting President Gen. Suharto recently to demand he lower prices.

Suharto told them rice arriving soon would help reduce the price. In fact Indonesia is importing 183,000 tons between now and next April when the harvest comes in. The cost, more than $30 million, is a blow to the government's economic stabilization program.

At least 10.4 million tons are needed this year, but production will be some 500,000 tons below this by many estimates. The government is already using next year's rice stocks to meet this emergency. Another bad crop could be disastrous, for the people and the troubled government.

Thailand also is facing shortages and has reduced exports to Indonesia. The Philippines is a rice-importing nation and is selling here only for badly needed hard currency.

U.S. SUPPLIES

The United States, which has signed an agreement to sell 100,000 tons of rice for $19.5 million on soft terms, is Indonesia's biggest supplier. Its reserves are limited and it is attempting to push bulgur wheat, cheaper and more nutritious. But rice is the traditional food.

The reasons for the high costs are many. The Chinese here have been key rice distributors for centuries. Hundreds of Chinese shops have been burned and the Chinese driven out of business. In North Sumatra, where rice is highest, some 7,000 Chinese have been forced into loose concentration camps. Indonesians have shown far less ability to distribute the rice smoothly.

* * *

Transportation costs are high, and inflation continues to force up prices. Says one informed economist: "Rice represents 40 per cent of the cost of living index here. If it goes up, everything else goes up."

There is fear in the military circles which run the country that the rice issue could unify the angry students who lost their focal point when former President Sukarno was toppled.

LACK OF CONTROL

The government is obviously concerned but its lack of firm control over this sprawling archipelago will make it difficult to find a quick solution.

FILLING DADDY'S BOOTS — A South Vietnamese boy plays at war by himself, firing his toy gun at passersby on the sidewalk beside his suburban Saigon home. The boots belong to his father, a South Vietnamese Army soldier spending a weekend at home with his family.

Child's Blocks on Big Scale

New angles on building toys abound in Toyland this Christmas.

"Fun Builders" are a new kind of building blocks — with a new approach to building everything on a larger scale.

Playhouses, windmills, tunnels, moon rockets and floating boats are some of the child-sized projects that youngsters can put together with these lightweight, interlocking blocks.

Catering to children's interest in cars and super highways, is a "Freeway USA" kit which provides all the markings for designing highway-bridge systems.

LBJ's Holiday Prayer: Wisdom, Perseverance

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, proclaiming Nov. 23 as Thanksgiving Day, has offered a prayer that God will bless the nation with wisdom and perseverance.

Here is the text of the President's Thanksgiving proclamation:

"The first American tradition grew out of gratitude for survival.

* * *

"It began — long before independence was a dream — with families responding to an even deeper human impulse. They had suffered the rigors of winter in a new world — and they had endured. They put aside their plows and thanked God for the harvest's bounty.

"Over the years, we have made Thanksgiving a unique national occasion. Thanking God for his goodness, we thank him as well for the promise and the achievement of America.

WITHOUT NUMBER

"Our reasons for gratitude are almost without number. We are grateful for the endurance of our government for one hundred and eighty years. We are grateful that the founding fathers planned so wisely for the generations that followed them. We are grateful for a material abundance beyond any mankind has ever known. In our land the harvests have been good.

"Much as we are grateful for these material and spiritual blessings, we are conscious, in this year, of special sorrows and disappointments. We are engaged in a painful conflict in Asia, which was not of our choosing, and in which we are involved in fidelity to a sacred promise to help a nation which has been the victim of agression. We are proud of the spirit of our men who are risking their lives on Asian soil. We pray that their sacrifice will be redeemed in an honorable peace and the restoration of a land long torn by war.

"We are grateful for the tremendous advances which have been made in our generation in social justice and in equality of opportunity, regardless of racial background. But we are saddened by the civil strife which has occurred in our great cities.

"Recognizing the trials we have endured and are enduring, I have turned to the Thanksgiving proclamation of President Abraham Lincoln in 1863. President Lincoln faced, with equal emphasis, both the blessings and the sorrows of the people.

"He recommended to his fellow citizens that, "while offering up the ascriptions justly due to Him for such singular deliverances and blessings, they do also, with humble penitence for our national perverseness and disobedience, commend to His tender care all those who have become widows, orphans, mourners, our sufferers in the lamentable civil strife in which we are unavoidably engaged."

"In a similar spirit I ask my fellow citizens to join their thankfulness with penitence and humility. Let us implore almight God that, to all our other blessings, He may add the blessings of wisdom and preseverence that will lead us to both peace and justice, in the family of nations and in our beloved homeland.

"Now, therefore, I, Lyndon B. Johnson, President of the United States of America, in consonance with section 6103 of Title 5 of the United States Code designating the fourth Thursday of November in each year as Thanksgiving Day, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 23, 1967, as a day of national thanksgiving.

"I witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand this ninth day of November in the year of our Lord Nineteen Hundred and Sixty-Seven, and of the independence of the United States of America the One Hundred and Ninety-second."

For the first time in ten years, the Pontiac Area United Fund did not reach its goal. The contributions made to the United Fund toward the support of 55 health, youth, and welfare agencies, such as the Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls and Michigan Cancer Foundation.

These agencies provide services for people in all walks of life, the young, sick, aged, and handicapped. Each penny . . . every dollar you give will help close the gap and prevent curtailment of services these agencies provide our people. If you were not contacted, please give today, if you were contacted, can you spare that "little bit more?"

Banks Help With Gift Ideas

Banks, like department stores with their "personal shoppers," are doing their level best to take the harassment out of the holidays. Not only do they offer a number of sensible last-minute gift suggestions, they also provide several painless ways to pay the bills.

* * *

Some full service banks offer enticing packaging for gifts of money. Many of them, for example, sell coin banks in a variety of imaginative guises — animal banks, train banks, transparent banks that show how money piles up, "calendar" banks that keep track of the date when a deposit is made.

More conservative Christmas gifts from the bank include:

Savings Accounts: (These may be for a special purpose, such as education, or open-end.)

Gift Checks. They are decorated for the holidays, and sold for a small fee.

* * *

Certificates of Deposit. These are a form of savings, and they pay higher interest rates than ordinary savings accounts. The reason: the money must be left in the bank for a specific amount of time. "C.D.'s" or savings certificates can be bought in amounts ranging from $25 to hundreds of thousands of dollars.

U.S. Savings Bonds. These are perhaps not as romantic a gift as diamonds, but as universally acceptable and solid. Banks sell them from $18.75 to $7,500, with maturity values of $25 and $10,000 respectively.

To handle the financial part of festivity — that is, to pay the bills — commercial banks offer three services:

* * *

● For the foresighted. Christmas Clubs. Start now for next year. At specific intervals, make a specified deposit — perhaps as little as 50c a week, depending on the bank — and the following November a check is mailed to you for the full amount.

* * *

● For the not-so-foresighted. A personal loan from a bank can help to pay bills.

● For those in search of convenience. Many banks and retailers are now co-operating on credit cards.

In 1966 the Post Office Department handled more than two billion cards of all kinds, including picture cards. Postage amounted to $93 million.

Homemade Decorations Aid Emotionally Ill Boys

By WILLIE STEINFORT

The boys at Stuart College, a part of Children's Village in Dobbs Ferry, N.Y., received over $1,000 last year from the Reyeport Chester, N.Y., neighborhood group of the White Plains Unitarian Church.

The village is a home for emotionally disturbed boys.

Led by Mrs. Bruce Snyder and Mrs. Robert Reed, cochairman, a group of approximately 12 women met at the church once a week for two months and made Christmas decorations.

These articles were sold at their church bazaar in December.

* * *

Several of the ladies are addicted to walking in the woods where they find many of their materials for making decorations. They gather cones, berries and burrs.

SKIRT BOARD

One of the most beautiful pairs of bobeches was made on a round piece of skirt board, 3½ inches in circumference with 1⅝ inch hole cut in the center to fit over a candleholder.

Mrs. Reed explains that small cones are glued to the board and sprayed these were gold but could be any color.

Various types of trees and shrubs provide the small shapes . . . hemlock, larch, spruce, Australian fern, lilac, rhododendrons, sweetgum, acorns, beech pods.

* * *

It is always wise to make the bobeches in pairs so they can be used for twin candles.

BIRD'S NEST

Among the distinctive Christmas tree ornaments was a small bird's nest, sprayed gold, with three tiny, shiny, Christmas balls for "eggs."

To make these nests, first soak excelsior (packing straw) in warm water for an hour or so to soften. Roll a handful of the softened excelsior in a tea cup to shape. Dribble a small amount of liquid glue through the excelsior and allow it to dry, turning a few times to retain shape. Spray gold.

The handle (for hanging on a tree) was made of three 14 inch lengths of gold cord, which had been run through a few straws on three sides and tied underneath. The "eggs" had been wired into the straw.

* * *

A feathered bird ornament was clamped on the side. Or, if you prefer everything handmade, these can be made with a long pine cone with feathers pasted on.

ENAMELED FLOWERS

The ladies also make enameled flowers.

One advantage of these is that they may be used the year-round, although they are prefectly suited for Christmas decor.

Inexpensive plastic flowers, stems and leaves must be trimmed to workable size. In two-pound coffee can mix: four ounces turpentine, two teaspoons gold powder. Dip flowers, stems and leaves — one at a time — in mixture. Shake off excess. Hang to dry overnight.

* * *

To arrange: fit styrofoam into your favorite vase, bowl or basket and shape as fresh flowers.

If a very pale color is desired, the materials may be lightly sprayed with flat white enamel before dipping in mixture.

Bird's Nest

Toy Service Trucks Favored Models

Toy municipal services trucks are much more in evidence this Christmas than war - oriented transportation models.

* * *

A new snorkel fire truck positions. This new toy, which operates without batteries, has 'Pow-r-r-r-" attachments which give a simulated hum of a motor.

The advanced police rescue truck has a turbine cab and extension ladders.

A new snorkel type hydraulic utility truck is modeled after advanced e designs used by power companies.

* * *

Another type of toy truck to be found in the transportation sector of toyland is a Kenya Karryall. This has cages stocked with wild animals and the doors can be opened to permit removal.

CAROUSEL TRUCK

There's also a merry-go-round truck similating the action of street carousels.

Poinsettia Present Still Popular

The scientific name for the poinsettia, Euphorbia pulcherrima, means most beautiful.

A showy tropical shrub of the spurge family, the flower is native to Mexico and Central America.

It is a traditional flower of the Christmas season, and was named after Joe R. Poinsett of Charleston, S. C., who introduced the plant to the United States in 1828 when he was minister to Mexico.

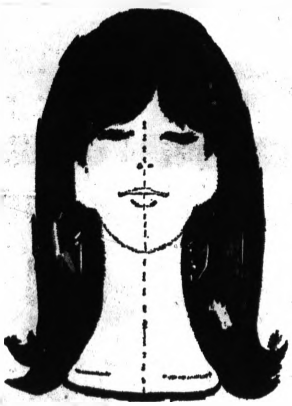

The yellow cluster in the center of the red, white or pink bracts forms the true flowers. Most of the flowers have been transformed into bracts in the unusual double poinsettia.

In the North, the poinsettia is a popular Christmas gift plant. However, in Florida, California and other tropical places it is a common flowering shrub.

The plant can not survive in drafts or fluctuating temperatures. While blooming, it needs plenty of water. Unless greenhouse facilities are available, it is almost impossible to keep the plant alive in the North for longer than one season.

Wassail Wish

Wassail is a hot drink, based on ale or wine or cider with spices. It has become a traditional Christmas holiday drink. The Middle English words "waes haeil" mean "be thou well."

What would Christmas be without a picture record of the happy, exultant members of the family opening their gift packages.

What's the point in being able to travel to nearby as well as distant points—and who doesn't travel a lot these days — without being able to record permanently the wonderful fun, the exciting new scenes one encounters.

What family with children need forego any longer the pleasure of a permanent picture record of the growth and the development of the kids—a record that will be cherished for generations.

These are but a few of the basic reasons why photographic equipment becomes so important a part of gifts giving annually.

* * *

But there are more significant reasons for making gifts of photographic equipment this Christmas.

NEED REPLACEMENT

True, today just about everybody has a camera. But there are so many of these cameras that simply should now be replaced with new equipment.

Many of the bulky old models — whether they be still cameras or movie cameras — have been gathering dust on shelves in closets instead of being put to use, simply because they're cumbersome.

Others can't cope with the job of making the pictures people want to take today.

* * *

Still other old models may have defeated the efforts of the person who is all thumbs.

IT'S CHANGED

Resourcefulness of the industry has changed all this.

Now there are both movie and still cameras — many available at budget prices — that not only eliminate the complexities of picture making, that are equipped or may be accessorized for coping with almost any lighting condition, but also are available in trim, slim, lightweight models that can be carried in pocket or in a purse.

Simplification of camera design and operation has reached the point where Mom can take over from Dad, the traditional family photographer, with ease and confidence, thus putting Dad — probably for the first time — into the Christmas picture record.

* * *

Even the kids can do it with no more than pushbutton effort.

CANDIDATE FOR GIFT

Thus does everyone, young or old, male or female, presently equipped with a camera or not become a candidate for a gift of a new one this Christmas.

The only concern of the gift giver will be first, determining how much of the Christmas budget to allocate, and second, choosing the camera to fit the personality of the one to receive the gift.

The experts in the camera shops are best advisors in this area, but here are some suggestions:

Even the cameras that produce a finished picture in seconds are now available in models that sell for under $20, excellent for the youngsters.

Yes, the easy - loading cameras into which the film container is just dropped in place, equipped to use flashcubes, are made in new trim. slim lightweight models, and are available at budget prices as well as in the higher-priced "automated" models.

SAME HOLDS TURE

Yes, the same holds true now for movie cameras and the projectors one needs to show the movies — and those cameras, too, make pictures in either color or black and white.

Moving upward from the budget-priced cameras, usually fixed focus models, one encounters first the modestly priced "automated" models. These are the cameras that offer selective focusing and almost entirely eliminate the job of calculating exposures.

Finally one gets into the truly superb classification of cameras with such features as built-in "computerization" completely freeing the photographer from figuring exposures; interchangeability of lenses, which makes possible shifts from wide angle to telescopic and, if wanted, zoom lenses which do all the spread in one tube.

Belgian Yule Combines Pagan, Religious Traditions

BRUSSELS (AP) — In Belgium, as in all Christian countries, the keeping of Christmas is a tradition which is scrupulously observed in a particularly colorful and picturesque way.

* * *

No other holiday seems to combine pagan and religious traditions as Christmas does: the Northern Hemisphere of the earth reaches the moment when it is furthest from the sun and then gradually the days begin to grow longer.

It is this return to light which is symbolized by the Christmas fires and brightly decorated trees; the world is saved from everlasting darkness as the sun slowly returns.

Also at this time, Christ, our saviour, was born, divine incarnation came down upon this earth to save men from spiritual darkness and lead them to the light of faith.

* * *

Although the birth of Christ has always been celebrated in Belgium, it is only lately that in imitation of the Anglo-Saxon and Nordic countries, rejoicings have acquired such wide-spread popularity.

SAINT NICHOLAS

Contrary, however, to the custom in these countries and although Christmas serves as an excuse for giving presents, it is not Father Christmas who brings toys to Belgian children, but Saint Nicholas on Dec. 6.

At the approach of Christmas, the cathedrals, the abbeys and the churches in even the smallest villages prepare their Midnight Mass for Dec. 24 — often a true festival of music and sacred songs.

All the important towns in Belgium sparkle in the night. The historic buildings are floodlit, and the main streets are all lit up, with each store competing in imagination and good taste to make its display a fairy-tale scene.

* * *

Everywhere, the pastry shops are full of chocolate sabots and cream cakes in shape of logs, while the restaurants advertise their special Christmas Eve menus on which, contrary to custom, turkey stuffed with truffles takes the place of the famous Brussels chicken.

ONION SOUP

Early on Christmas morning, onion soup, piping hot and sprinkled with grated cheese, nourishes the lingering merry-makers.

In the public squares are Christmas trees of all sizes, smelling of resin, which are bought and carried away under people's arms or . . . on their backs.

The flower-sellers' baskets overflow with branches of holly and mistletoe, traditional Christmas decorations. A pleasant custom demands that when a couple pass under the mistletoe, a kiss should be exchanged.

* * *

For the past few years, several Belgian towns, mainly Brussels and Antwerp, have been sent an enormous tree from the town of Helsinki as token of international goodwill.

PEACE SYMBOL

Decorated with great shining balls, covered with tinsel and hundreds of multicolored lamps, these Nordic giants are the best symbol of the unanimous Christmas wish: "Peace on Earth to Men of Goodwill."

Christmas trees are a rather recent fashion. There was a time when Christmas decoration in houses was merely the crib showing the birth of Christ and a few candles.

In Catholic Belgium, the celebration is essentially the Midnight Mass in cold, decorated churches. After church, a late-hour hot meal is served, usually accompanied by hot red wine with lemon, cinnamon and cloves, or warmed-up beer.

* * *

On Epiphany, children, in groups, used to masquerade as the Three Wise Men and go from house to house, singing a short good wish song. In exchange they collected small coins, sweets and possibly an orange.

GIFTS FOR MOTHERS

In some villages, in Hoeilaert for instance, not far from Brussels, they still do. They mostly use the coins to buy gifts for their mothers, unloading bags of coins on shop counters and asking: "What can I get for these, for my mother?"

New Year's Eve is the time for great ribaldry, with all restaurants featuring special menus, usually starring oysters, foie gras (goose liver) and turkey or pheasants. Turkey is otherwise rarely eaten.

Champagne, throughout, is usually the drink for those who can afford it, but beers or wines also flow freely.

* * *

One of the most moving and picturesque Christmas customs is certainly the performance of religious tableaux and Nativity plays.

LEIGE TABLEAUX

The Nativity tableaux of "outremeuse" at Liege are famous. On Christmas Eve, in the open air near the churches, one can admire tableaux depicting the Nativity scene in Bethlehem.

This custom has been revived in several Belgian towns and notably at Bruges, Brussels and Ghent, where medieval paintings serve as inspiration.

At Vosselaer, in the Campine region around Antwerp, the inhabitants also recall that Holiest of Nights, While at Saint-Severin, in the Condroz district, men, women, children, sheep and lambs form splendid living tableaux, which remind one of magnificient old paintings.

* * *

In Hainaut, also crowds of admiring people are attracted each year to Marchinelle-Villette, Pelit-Wasmes and Leuze where there are similar tableaux to be seen.

PUPPET SHOW

Around Christmas-time, Verviers puts on its ancient "Betieme le Beleem." This is neither a tableau nor a stage with moving puppets, but a great hall with trestle-tables hidden by a curtain all along one side, behind which the people — mainly children — can hide and work the puppets. These are placed in great glass cases, and represent scenes out of the Life of Christ.

A survey shows that most managers work an average of 53 to 70 hours a week.

Christians Look Toward the Season of Epiphany

In secular life, Christmas may be just a Dec. 25 holiday, quickly followed by another holiday, on New Year's.

The Christian religion, which has led a large part of the world to celebrate the birth of Jesus, also finds in His early life some other great and significant moments that call for special recognition and celebration.

Some of the events are commemorated in Epiphany. The word itself comes from a Greek expression meaning manifestation, or showing forth.

The central theme of the festival of Epiphany, therefore, is manifestation of the Son of God and his mission to the world — to all men — as a babe receiving the adoration of the wise men, as a boy talking with the teachers in the temple, as an adult being baptized in the waters of the Jordan River, and at the beginning of His ministry when He demonstrated the power of God by turning water into wine at a wedding at Cana in Galilee.

Jan. 6, the 12th day after Christmas, is the principal day of the Epiphany season. Many legends and customs are connected with it and with Twelfth Night, of the Eve of Epiphany. The importance of this period is deep - seated and, in some parts of the world, it is the time of gift-giving, rather than Dec. 25.

EPIPHANY RECOGNIZED

Most Christian churches recognize the Epiphany in one way or another but not many of them in this country make a big thing of it. The most emphasis probably is put on it by the Greek Orthodox, Byzantine Eastern Catholic, Roman Catholic, Episcopalian and Lutheran congregations.

The Greek Orthodox Church observes Epiphany with two days of significant events on Jan. 5 and 6 keyed particularly on the baptism of Jesus.

The Rev. Anthony P. Sarris, pastor of the Greek Orthodox Church of the Annunciation, in Columbus, Ohio, explains that on Jan. 5 there occurs the small blessing of the water, with the priest visiting the homes of the faithful, sprinkling each home with holy water and blessing the members in the household. It also is a day of fasting.

* * *

Following, on Jan. 6, is the great blessing of the water font in the church and those present receive special blessings. Those who fasted on the previous day are entitled to partake of the holy water.

SEASHORE SERVICES

In several areas of the United States, including Asbury Park, N.J., Long Beach, Calif., and Tarpon Springs, Fla., the services are held at the seashore with great pomp and ceremony. The cross is hurled into the sea by the archbishop, and bystanders leap into the chilly water to retrieve it. The one who succeeds gets a special blessing.

Byzantine Eastern Catholics celebrate Epiphany in similar fashion, except that the visitation of homes follows the January 6 blessings of the water, extending the season eight more days.

Roman Catholics mark Jan. 6 as a feast day, usually with a special mass, pointing to the theory that Christ came for and to all men, not to any particular group. Portrayal of the three wise men, or Magi, as varied in color and race tends to carry out this theme.

* * *

Some Lutheran churches hold Epiphany services, generally covering the altar in white, the symbol of the joy of the gospel of Christ, leaders of the denomination say.

LINK WITH EASTER

For Episcopalians, the Epiphany season varies in length depending on the date of Easter.

Epiphany, sometimes called "Little Christmas" or "Little Easter," was associated in early times with both the birth and baptism of Jesus.

In some parts of the world it still is a time of gift-giving, a custom probably associated with the gifts of the wise men who are said to have brought gold and frankincense and myrrh when they journeyed to Bethlehem to worship the infant Jesus.

* * *

This visit of the Magi also is pointed to as an important manifestation of the glory of God to man through Christ, the savior of the World.

WISE MEN

One of the most interesting of many legends associated with Epiphany concerns these wise men. As they followed the star on their journey, it is said, they passed an old woman cleaning her house.

She asked them to wait until she finished her work, so she could go with them. They said they could not wait, and advised her to follow as soon as she could. She did, but by then it was too late, for the light of the star had faded, and she could not find the way.

All down the centuries since then, legend says, she has been wandering in search of the Christ Child, and has brought gifts to little children for His sake. Perhaps, some have suggested, this old story has a message for people who have no time for religion, and who allow prosperity or greed on economic levels to crowd God out of their lives.

* * *

Many customs, some serious, some frivolous, have accumulated over the years in connection with Twelfth Night and Epiphany.

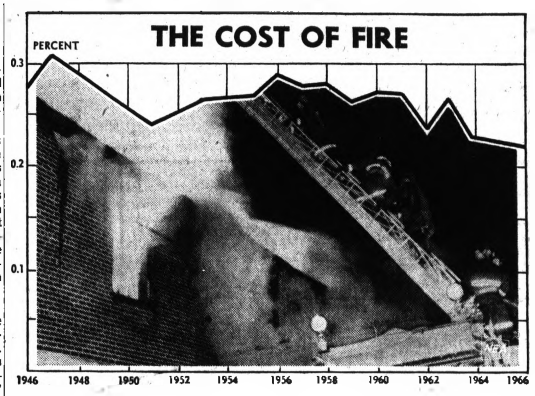

TURNS TO FROLIC

Originally a festival of great solemnity, it turned into one of frolic, especially in England during the reign of Queen Elizabeth, 1558-1603. That was one reason the Puritans rejected Christmas in England and delayed its establishment in America for more than two centuries.

In some countries the initials of the three wise men are chalked over the doors of homes as a sign of good luck. In Germany the Christmas tree is lighted for the last time. In Poland an extra place is set at the table for any poor stranger who may chance to come to the door. There are pageants in Spain and caroling in Portugal.

* * *

To Moslems, it signifies the night when the Koran descended to Mohammed from heaven. In France and Belgium there is a great festival for the children, with a "cake of kings." A bean is hidden in the cake, and the child who gets it is proclaimed king or queen of the feast. In Czechoslovakia, boys dressed as the three wise men go door to door singing songs about the Magi and asking for alms.

LOSS PERCENTAGES—In the late 1940s, fire losses (exclusive of forest fires) came to more than 3 per cent of the U.S. gross national product (GNP), according to National Fire Protection Association statistics. The rate has declined to little more than 2 per cent currently, although the total dollar loss is much higher because of the rapid growth of the GNP during the past two decades.

Bottles Help Reconstruct Western Life

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Tucked away behind the scenes at Ft. Union National Mounument is a vast collection which helps in reconstructing the lives of the soldiers and civilians who helps to win the West.

Thousands of bottles — which at one time contained everything from perfume to pain killer — are stored outside the view of most tourists who visit the once-important frontier post 30 miles north of here.

The bottles are kept out of the regular museum largely because of the lack of exhibition space. Anyone really interested can see them, says National Park Service historian Dale F. Giese.

There are 800 type of bottles with quart-size beer bottles numbering in the hundreds.

* * *

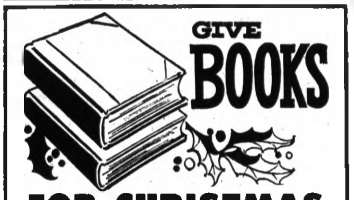

Among the interesting labels are such names as "Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption," "Davis' Pain Killer," "California Fig Syrup" and "Dr Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

Most of those remedies contained a very high percentage of alcohol, says Giese.

Soft drinks were imported from Ireland, Wine from Germany and France, also from England and perfumes from France.

A few years ago, the National Park Service sent more than 200 duplicate bottles to the Smithsonian Institution for its bottle collection.

The bottles have been found during excavations of building foundations, wells and cisterns since the fort became a national monument in 1956.

Yuletide in Norway Is Always Lighted With Gaiety

OSLO (AP) — Norwegians seize on Christmas as a chance to bring light and gaiety into the long, grim winter.

Particularly light. There are few hours of daylight at that season. So, people fling back their drapes to display their Christmas candles, and string colored lights everywhere. Living Christmas trees are lighted outside homes. Trees are placed at every street crossing. Tradesmen in even the smallest villages put up lighted decorations.

The Christmas tree is the focus of family celebrations on Christmas Eve. But, besides this relatively modern custom, there are traditional rites that date back to pagan times.

The old customs persist most in the countryside. They vary from district to district. But common to all is the Yule pig, whose growth through the year is followed by all members of the family. Slaughtered just before Yule, all parts of the hog are used for traditional dishes.

* * *

In some districts it is still a "must" to have 14 different kinds of cookies — one for each day of the season.

YULE ALE

The women also brew the Yule ale and the competition to brew the best is keen.

The animals are not forgotten. They get an extra good feed. A sheaf of grain is hung out for the birds, recalling the heathen rite of offering the last scythe swing of grain to the god of fertility. Today, even in the towns people put wheatsheafs on their balconies.

A bowl of Yule porridge is set out for the "Nissen" or elves. If this is not done they will cause much mischief in the coming year.

* * *

The frenzy of house cleaning, baking and cooking must be completed by 4 p.m. on December 24, when the church bells ring in the time of "Christmas peace."

CHRISTMAS MEAL

The Christmas meal is a family affair. There is usually porridge, or a bowl of rice, to start. The finder of a hidden almond is rewarded with a small prize.

Then comes "lutefisk," or pork rib and sausage or boiled cod, according to the part of the country. "Lutefisk" is dried cod softened in a lye solution, rinsed and boiled.

After dinner the head of the family often reads the Christmas story.

* * *

Then to the Christmas tree, daily decorated and laden with gifts. Everybody links hands to circle the tree, singing Christmas carols.

GIFTS DISTRIBUTED

Gifts are distributed by the "Julenissen," a white-bearded, red-coated gentleman who looks remarkably like Santa Claus. He has no transport problem in this country where sledges are commonplace and reindeer native animals.

And you don't have to ask whether it will be a white Christmas. It would be remarkable if it were not.

Songs and music, especially for the children, complete the evening.

* * *

December 25 is also a family day at home, with plenty of eating and drinking, interrupted only by church-going.

'CHRISTMAS BUCK'

Youngsters dress in fancy costumes and go from house to house collecting goodies, rather as American kids do on Halloween. This is known as "Julebukk" or "Christmas Buck." The goat symbol goes back to pagan times when festivities included the god Thor's goat.

In the three weeks before Christmas, the grownups have an orgy of feasting at the 'Yule-bord," or "Christmas Table." This is a gargantuan feast provided in restaurants by firms to their employees, sports clubs and other groups for their members.

You can help yourself as often as you like from a wonderfully decorated choice of dozens of dishes.

* * *

Christmas toasts are drunk in numerous shots of aquavit (clear spirit) in a revel that for boisterousness resembles the Viking feasts of old.

VIKING SHIP — An Oslo restaurant gives a Viking theme to its traditional "Julebord." The table decorations include a straw reindeer ridden by the "Julenissen" (Christmas elf) and a lucky pig's head.

Making a Wreath

For a pretty ribbon wreath, cut a cardboard circle about three inches wide. Take one-inch wide satin or grosgrain ribbon, and cut four one-inch lengths. Fold in half. Take a row of these ribbon loops across the circle until it is completely covered, one row overlapping the other. Alternate rows of red and green ribbon for a very Christmas-y wreath.

PLAY OBSERVED — Designers at an unusual laboratory observe children through a one-way mirror for unbiased judgments of toys.

Children 'Research' Toy Developments

NEW YORK — Christmas morning is an exciting time for the young fry with their new toys. And, it's difficult to realize that behind a shiny, new plaything there's many an hour of research.

In one of the world's most unusual product-research laboratories children's play is man's work. The researchers are the consumers themselves, who pass judgment on the products of Fisher-Price Toys, Inc., at East Aurora, N.Y.

The laboratory is a carpeted, well-furnished living room where small preschool children play. Engineers observe, record and take notes from a secret viewing room on the other side of a one-way mirror.

The children are recruited from neighborhood schools and from among friends and relatives of employes. The youngsters are limited to two visits as otherwise they might become too sophisticated to pass unbiased judgments.

* * *

The 15-man quality-control staff of design engineers are all parents and have been sent back to school to study child guidance and psychology.

The comments of the youngsters are recorded on tape and are transcribed for study, along with written reports of the observers.

Toys are often revised — and sometimes discarded — as a result of the detailed studies.

"We make toys that are designed not only so children will play with them, but so they will play with children" says German G. Fisher, president and cofounder of the 38 year-old company.

* * *

As an example of this "play with children" approach, wheels were added to a toy telephone. Originally, the toy was a plain cradle and receiver, made to look like any standard telephone.

MOBILITY NEEDED

But the engineers noted that, after a make-believe conversation, the child would drag the cradle around the room by the receiver cord. So the wheels were added.

In the course of their research, the children manage to put toys through rather severe tests as they drop them, stand on them and otherwise assault them.

Studio Cards Spur Exchange

Thousands of men will exchange Christmas cards this year. This practice, as a mass habit, has developed since World War II and was brought about by a new type of humorous greeting, which may have originated in Greenwich Village art studios.

* * *

The "contemporary" or "studio" card, in modern art style, has become a bonanza in retail outlets. The brittle humor and sophisticated illustrations in these cards have an appeal to the man who used to shun the traditional greetings.

Many more women than men still send cards, but the studio card has stimulated the card exchanging habits of an increasing number of men.

The serious sentiments of the traditional cards still hold their appeal, however, and still outsell the humorous.

* * *

The choice of a greeting card may be a bewildering experience when one enters a store with their racks of different cards.

DATES TO 1875

The seasonal greeting card as big business in the U.S. dates back to 1875 when Louis Prang of Boston introduced them into his line of advertising and visiting cards. Called "father of the American Christmas card," Prang cards were much admired abroad as well as in the U.S.

Around 1895 European printers' competition caused a decline of card production in the U.S. and until World War I Germany had practically a monopoly in the greeting card business.

Both World Wars, with their resultant increase in transiency, added impetus to the custom of exchanging cards.

* * *

The U.S. card manufacturers, as a result of improved designs and manufacture, have assumed world leadership in this large business.

Monarch of Metals Found Almost All Over World

By National Georgraphic Society

WASHINGTON — Gold, unlike green money, really does grow on trees.

Tissues of aspens, firs, willows and some other plants hold tiny but measurable amounts of the precious metal. One of the best goldbearers is the horsetail.

Through extraction is so expensive that the plants cannot be profitably used as a source of ore, some prospectors believe the presence of certain gold-bearing plants in an area serves as a clue to the location of big deposits in gravel or lodes.

Oddly enough, the monarch of all metals is found, at least in minute amounts, almost everywhere in the world, the National Georgraphic Society says.

* * *

Scientists of the Interior Department's Geological Survey recently sturck gold in the excavation for a new expressway in downtown Washington, D.C.

NO BONANZA

The find was no bonanza; the construction gravel contained only 60 to 90 cents' worth of gold in every ton of dirt.

Far richer veins of gold, however, once supported a gold mine industry near the nation's capital. A small museum in Potomac, Md., perpertuates the history of the Maryland Gold Mine which yielded more than $150,000 in gold from 1867 to 1940, when it was closed.

Although the American West has provided most of the nation's gold, sizable nuggets have been found in such unlikely places as Maine, Massachusetts and Michigan.

* * *

Surprisingly, Georgia, not California, was the scene of America's first major gold rush.

BRANCH MINT

Some 10,000 prospectors invaded the mountains of north Georgia in 1825, founded a string of rip-roaring frontier towns, and mined so much gold that by 1838 the Government had opened a branch mint there.

The gold-rush capital, Dahlonega, took its name from a Cherokee Indian word meaning "yellow metal."

Gold fever has flared up, at one time or another, in nearly every part of the world from Afghanistan to Zambia.

* * *

The lure of gold triggered the exploration of the Americas and sped settlement of California, the Yukon, Alaska, Australia and New Zealnd.

RIVALED SUGAR

At one time, gold mining rivaled sugar as the national industry of the Fiji Islands.

There's even "gold in them thar" waters. Modern Forty-niners, using snorkels instead of sluices, hunt for fortunes in the rivers of California and Alaska.

The gold is usually of the placer variety, jarred loose from veins by a swift stream and carried by water to rest in gravel deposits. One lucky prospector reportedly picked up $900 worth of gold nuggets in three days.

* * *

"But there's one big difference between the Forty-niners and us," says a skindiving sourdough. "We take a lot more baths!"

Only 12 per cent of corporation executives exercise daily, and 52 per cent don't take any regular exercises, a survey shows.

White Christmas in London? Chances Are Against It

LONDON (AP) — In the kitchen hot fat pops in the roasting tin as the turkey cooks. Outside childish voices pipe away at the first verse or two of "While Shepherds Watched" or "Noel, Noel."

The heating, likely as not, now comes from electric, gas or oil-fired central heating instead of a log fire crackling in the hearth.

The carol singers' faces are pinched with the cold, but the odds are against there being any snow. Only four times in the last 73 years has it snowed on Christmas Eve in the London area.

Only 7 times over that 73 years has there been snow on Christmas Day and only 8 times has it snowed on the day after Christmas, known here as Boxing Day.

* * *

Christmas in England is still a time of job, of peace and goodwill among men. And although times change, traditions die hard.

CHRISTMAS PUDDING

These days the traditional Christmas pudding, a fruit-rich dark-brown steamed pudding, is probably bought at the supermarket rather than made at home.

Christmas Eve is always a busy day. There's the last minute shopping to be done. All the stores will be closed for two, three and sometimes even four days, depending on whether the holiday comes at midweek or the weekend.

Homes are decorated with paper chains, holly, silver tinsel, and, of course, a Christmas tree.

* * *

Over the doorways and among the paper chains will hang pices of mistletoe — reverred by the ancient druids — under which one can traditionally claim a kiss.

GREETING CARDS

"Christmas pieces" — sheets of paper with colored borders on which schoolboys wrote greetings to their parents at the end of the winter term — were the predecessors of the Christmas card.

On Christmas Eve, many families go to church for the watch night service or Midnight Mass. On their return home, parents arrange their childrens' presents for Christmas Day.

The children will have hung a stocking at the foot of the bed and next morning it will be full of candy, nuts, fruit and other goodies.

Early afternoon is traditionally the time for the Christmas dinner. The main course is usually poultry.

Once chicken was popular but now that battery chickens are so common the choice is more likely to be turkey — or even duck or goose.

STUFFING, VEGETABLES

Depending on the bird, there will be stuffing — sage and onion, chestnut, or sausage meat. The vegetables will probably include roasted potatoes, peas, and brussels sprouts.

More and more families these days enjoy a bottle of wine with their Christmas dinner, possibly champagne. Then brandy or rum will be poured over the Christmas Pudding and set aflame.

After the pudding, comes the nuts — walnuts, braxils, chestnuts and hazels — and tiny tangerine oranges. A glass of brandy or port and, usually, a cigar for the men.

* * *

Stuffed with food and hardly able to move, the family will sit around the television to watch the Sovereign's traditional Christmas Day speech.

ROUND-THE-GLOBE

On radio the British Broadcasting Corp. still does its round-the-commonwealth link-up, broadcasting from the far corners of the globe to the mother country.

During the evening, while families gather to celebrate and exchange presents, the carol singers will come round again. Sometimes they are schoolchildren hoping to make a little pocket money. Or they may be a church or club group., collecting for charity.

Many of the Salvation Army's brass bands parade the streets playing carols and collecting for their own charity work.

Kissing Legend

Among the legends about mistletoe is one that says it seems to be purely an English custom and its survival may be due to the fact that the English were formerly much given to kissing.

Yule Escalated in S. Vietnam

Buddhist Influence Is Slowly Overcome

SAIGON (AP) — Christmas has escalated in South Vietnam along with the war and the U.S. buildup of men in this Southeast Asia country.

* * *

The majority of the Vietnamese people are at least nominally Buddhist, and Christmas is not a religious holiday for them. But the influence of the French, and of Roman Catholic French, and of Roman Catholicism, has through the years established an observance of Christmas on a small scale.

In the past two years, however, the vast American commitment here has made the observance of Christmas an all-out holiday for the Americans and for many Vietnamese, even if many of the latter do not understand the precise reasons for it all.

One of the things that has naturally followed the troops has been Christmas parties for Vietnamese youngsters. Field units have laid on extravagant displays of food and presents, complete with Christmas trees and Santa Claus sailing in aboard a helicopter. Special Christmas menus are served to men in the field, with special efforts made to see that even those in the line get a meal of hot turkey and the other traditional foods.

* * *

Cities such as Saigon also have taken on some of the more commercial aspects of the Christmas celebration. For days before Dec. 25 some of the streets in the wartime capital will be lined with evergreen trees hauled in from the countryside, and with wreaths, decorations and ornaments — some complete with bizarre Asian touches — all going for the best holiday price. Street stalls do a rushing business.

HOLIDAY ENTERTAINMENT

Restaurants and night clubs offer holiday banquets an entertainment.

There also are special religious services, both for the troops who are members of Christian faiths and for Vietnamese Christians. For the American GI's, these services have been highlighted the past two years by the visits of such church leaders as Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York.

Perhaps the most important for American military men in Vietnam the past two years were Christmas truces that brought at least partial, brief halts in the shooting war.

* * *

The Vietnamese people themselves have adapted, as they often do, and have taken up the celebration of the Western religious holiday with enthusiasm, even if they don't really understand the reasons. For them as Vietnamese, however, the biggest holiday of the year still is Tet, the Luna New Year which rolls around early in February.

* * *

It is the time when debts must be paid, when new clothes must be worn, when houses must be cleaned and when families must, if at all possible, be together.

* * *

For the Vietnamese, Christmas is nice whether it means having a little fun or making some extra money, but Tet is the holiday that counts.

U.S. exports of machinery and transport equipment during the first five months of 1967 were valued at $6.4 billion.

We're Gobbling Turkeys at Record-Breaking Pace

NEW YORK (UPI) — Americans will have the biggest flock of turkeys in history to choose from for their Thanksgiving day dinner this year.

According to estimates of the National Turkey Federation, 122.4 million birds were grown in 1967.

This bumper crop is a 17 per cent increase over the number of turkeys available only two years ago and a whopping 70 per cent higher than the number grown a dozen years ago.

But Thanksgiving is only part of the turkey tale. Americans are eating record amounts of turkey all year round — close to 10 pounds per person per year — say statisticians of the Swanson frozen food people.

* * *

For generations, turkeys have held undisputed leadership in holiday eating. Yet it wasn't until World War II that they took up a steady place on weekday dinner tables.

EASY TO SHIP

When the armed forces needed turkeys in a form easy to ship, store and prepare, the turkey industry developed a completely eviscerated turkey, according to Swanson. This enabled food processors to begin providing more turkey, in more forms, for the dinner tables.

Now, millions of pounds are processed into prepared foods such as turkey pies and frozen turkey dinners.

Nutritionists say turkey is an excellent source of protein, low in calories, and lowest of any meat in cholestorol.

At the same time, it is amply supplied with niacin and riboflavin, nicknamed the "vigor vitamins."

Tough to Grow Good Yule Tree

Producer in Maryland Perfects Technique

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — It happens every year. Street corners and gas stations become small-scale tree farms, and pine and spruce scent the air.

Making their selections, buyers debate whether this one is full enough or that one will lose its needles and whether either will fit in the corner of the living room.

According to B.H. Brockley, 65, a Maryland producer, "It's really no problem to sell the trees . . . the difficulty is to grow good ones." For several years, on his 180-acre farm, he has been perfecting the technique.

Brockley got interested in the Christmas tree business after he had given up a variety store he operated in Hatboro, Pa., and was looking for a way to keep occupied during retirement.

★ ★ ★

He started with about 50 trees of several varieties and found that he was luckiest, in both growth and sales, with Scotch pine and Norway spruce. Now he has 100 acres of trees, mostly Scotch pines.

FULL-SCALE BUSINESS

What started as a part-time occupation has turned into a full-scale business. Brockley's son-in-law, Robert Farrow, 35, gave up electronics to grow Christmas trees full-time, and Mrs. Brockley helps.

Most of the harvested trees are 7 years old. It takes that long for a seedling to grow into a 6-foot Scotch pine. (A few Christmas trees take less time; but the Douglas fir, up to twice as long.) And a lot of work is involved before the trees are ready to harvest.

Brockley plants about 25,000 seedlings (which he gets from Maine and as far west as Ohio) around the middle of March.

★ ★ ★

He uses a machine drawn behind a tractor if the field is open and plants by hand if there are trees already in it. After the crucial first few years of growth, the trees are pruned annually in midsummer. Pruning retards upward growth and lets the body of the tree fill out.

SPRAYED

In early fall the trees are sprayed with a substance which helps them retain their green color, for Scotch pines begin to turn yellow with the approach of cold weather.

Shortly after the spraying is completed, wholesale buyers begin to go through the fields and tag the trees they want.

In mid-November the cutting begins. The trees are cut with a small handsaw, baled with a special plastic netting that holds in the branches and makes them easier to ship, and stacked in piles to await the big trucks of the wholesalers who are Brockley's main customers.

★ ★ ★

After the wholesale customers are taken care of, usually by Dec. 10, Brockley puts ads in some of the Eastern Shore papers and local residents come out to tag and, if they wish, chop their own trees, at cut rates.

MORTALITY RATE HIGH

Brockley plants 1,700 trees to an acre and considers a harvest of 1,000 an acre a good one. Deer sometimes eat the young trees, and field mice, by girdling the bark at the base, can kill trees up to 15 feet tall. Insects also are menaces.

Besides natural threats there are competitors. Some growers are concerned about the increasing use of artificial trees, but Brockley says his biggest competition is from farmers who see hard cash changing hands at Christmas time, decide that trees are a pretty good crop, and go into business by planting a few seedlings on an unused corner of their land.

Seedlings cost about 2½ cents each. The finished trees are worth about $1.75 wholesale.

★ ★ ★

It all looks good on paper, which is what attracted Brockley in the first place, but markets take as long to develop as the trees themselves and he says that, with no return at all, "That first five years is pretty rough."

But the profits are now coming in and Brockley, by the time his trees are ready to be taken down and carted out to the back yard, is ready himself to start for Florida on vacation.

A large oak tree can require up to 300 gallons of water a day.

World of Dolls Has Surprises

This Christmas, the world of dolls is crammed full of delightful surprises.

* * *

New designs range from baby doll prototypes more nearly human than ever, to mod and mini confections that echo the most adventurous adult fashions.

A boy doll making a strong bid for popularity this season is presented as an agile "scrambling quarterback."

The vogue for the fantastic flourishes along with the realer-than-real trend, and, sure to delight traditionalists, there is a stronger contingent of literary prototypes such as Raggedy Ann, Mary Poppins and Pooh.

* * *

Typifying the new mini-mod mood is Go Go Mouse who sports a minishift in checkerboard pattern executed in psychedelic color schemes. A feather boa trim adds to the "way out" fashion concept.

Pip Squeaks are another exponent of the mini concept in dolls. They are talented, too. When you squeeze their arms gently, they give out with a groovy sound.

Mini Dancers, five inches tall, are another talent team that echoes the teeny-bopper world.

Baby dolls still dominate the market. This year they are more human than ever in their behavior.

* * *

Names like Sleepy and Thirsty Walker emphasize the dolls special abilities. Cheerful Tearful has a smile that turns to a wince when her stomach is squeezed. Rubsy splashes when put in her tub. Baby Hungry moves lips, chin and cheek — and rolls her eyes as she chews.

TEEN-AGE FAVORITE

Barbie, the teen-age favorite, sports high-impact flirtatious eyelashes.

Boy and girl brat dolls stick out their tongues when squeezed.

A boon to junior hand-puppeteers is an almost full figure of soft vinyl with the skirt behind. This feature gives youngsters much greater manipulative opportunities.

A new development in a perennial classic is the debut of Raggedy Ann and Andy with bodies that bend.

DARK BROWN

The Gingerbread Boy and Girl will be featured in dark brown plushy versions.

Most unusual in the growing boy doll category is Scrambling Quarterback, a five-inch football doll that scrambles in search of a receiver when the key in his back is wound.

Female football fans can have a similarly activated cheerleader.

* * *

Both dolls are available in authentic team colors and insignia of the 26 professional teams in the American and National Football leagues, enabling fans to have an animated souvenir of their favorite team.

Advent's 1st Observance Is Uncertain

Theologians are uncertain at what date Advent was first observed.

* * *

A council at Saragossa, a city of northeast Spain, forbade the faithful to be absent from church from Dec. 17 to Epiphany, but the first unquestionable mention of Advent was at the Council of Tours in 567.

Advent, a holy season of the Christian church, is a period of preparation for the celebration of the Nativity of Christmas and also of preparation for the second coming of Christ.

In the Western Church Advent begins on the Sunday nearest to Nov. 30 (St. Andrew's Day); in the Eastern churches it begins about the middle of November.

* * *

The season is a solemn one, though not now kept as Lent as it once was. The Roman Catholic Church forbids the solemnization of marriage during Advent.

Ants Must Farm for Food--Fungus

By Science Service

Certain ants may be the world's best farmers. They eat only one thing, a fungus that they grow themselves. If the ants abandon their garden of fungus, it dies.

* * *

Finding the chemical basis for the close association between the Attine ants, inhabiting an area extending from Argentina to the southern United States, and the fungus they culture is the aim of research reported by Prof. Michael M. Martin of the University of Michigan.

The Kalahari Desert is a vast trackless wasteland that stretches through portions of South Africa, South West Africa, Botswana, Rhodesia and Angola, covering 350,000 square miles.

TRADITIONAL DANCE — It's an old custom in Denmark to dance around the Christmas tree on Christmas Eve.

Advent Days in Denmark Are Time of Great Charm

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Christmas in Denmark is a time of great charm — when the advent calendar becomes the most important thing in a child's life and a lighted candle marks progress day by day to the festive season.

The 4.5 million Danes observe Christmas with a mixture of respect for old traditions and concessions to the new.

From early November, the brightly-lit stores are splashing their Christmas displays like beacons in the mid-winter darkness.

Soon after the Christmas trees rise in the big squares around Copenhagen and the streets are decorated with lighted bulbs and green fern. Everything comes down with a rush on Dec. 27.

* * *

If this smacks of the commercial, a quieter approach to Christmas is made in thousands of homes.

HOMES DECORATED

Hardly a home where children live is without its advent calendar — a gaily decorated piece of yuletide art with a different "window" to open for every day of December until Christmas morn. Fond parents fix these at the bottom of the children's beds. The kids open a window every morning and the excitement gets terrific as the big day nears.

Most households also go in for a tall candle, subdivided into the days of December. The kids have the fun of burning up one more day on the long and sometimes agonizingly expectant run-up to Christmas.

Christmas Eve is the big day of the festival. The Danes leave their work early and, without the round of office parties popular in some other westner countries, go home to the major family observance.

* * *

Dinner on Christmas Eve traditionally comprises either goose or pork roast with boiled potatoes and red cabbage. Rice boiled in milk is another important part of the menu and every rice dish contains a single almond.

PRICE FOR ALMOND

Whoever ends up with the almond on his plate gets a special prize.

After dinner, the family joins hands and walks round the Christmas tree. The Christmas presents are handed out and carols are sung. The Christmas tree—normally a shapely spruce bought a few days previously on a Sunday afternoon car excursion to the woods — is itself a feature.

In the home, the tree is not lighted with colored bulbs. Real wax candles are used and a water bucket normally stands beside the tree in case the flames get out of hand.

* * *

Christmas Eve is also the night when many Danes go to church even if they have not set foot in a place of worship all year. As a result, very few churches are left uncrowded on this one night.

DAY TO RECOVER

On Christmas Day, the family celebrations continue and any uncles and aunts left out from the previous merrymaking join the big midday meal. December 26 is a public holiday and the Danes use it for getting over the festivities of the previous two days.

There was a time when the Danes had to watch their step with the so-called Nisser men. These curious gnome-like creatures reputedly haunted the farming areas and made life tough for any farmer who failed to show a proper respect.

One way of showing respect was to leave a bowl of boiled rice in the barn. If you failed to do that on Christmas Eve, a cow might die or the barn might mysteriously burn down.

Britain Faces Tighter Curbs on Exotic Pets

By Science Service

LONDON — Britain, thanks to strict quarantine regulations, is one of the few countries where a child can be bitten by a strange dog without fear of rabies.

But British taste in pets is tending toward more exotic beasts than the noble dog and the cat that walks alone, including monkeys, skunks and opossums. Some of these can carry diseases fatal to humans.

Stronger regulation of these exotics is being urged by the British Small Animal Veterinary Association.

"None of these animals goes through quarantine, and they are a potential danger," says President C. E. Woodrow.

* * *

All the experts agree in condemning the monkey, which when grown can inflict a devastating bite. It could also carry virus B, a particularly horrible brain disease, which is a killer when contracted by man. Only two people out of the 20 who have contracted it in recent years have survived.

UNDER LICENSE

J. F. Hodgman, former director of the British research station for small animals, said that monkeys for research are brought into the country under license. "I am disturbed about monkeys which in four days can be in pet shops or people's homes."

A Ministry of Agriculture spokesman said that with the increasing number of exotic pets coming into Britain, the ministry is drawing up further regulations to control their import. "We already have a pretty tight control over most things."

All members of the parrot family are banned unless a license is issued for their use in medical research, in zoos or as private pets. None is allowed in for commercial purposes.

The import of muskrats and gray squirrels is controlled in the same way.

The new regulations would either take this form or that adopted for the import of dogs and cats — the quarantine system.

Guinea Pigs Losing Status

By Science Service

Of the 36 million animals American scientists used as guinea pigs last year, less than 400,000 were real guineas.

Instead, 24 million mice and 10 million rats lead the list of the most popular species of research animals. Hamsters, with 890,000, took third place; guinea pigs ranked fourth.

Fifth in popularity were a quarter of a million rabbits, followed by dogs—less than 83,000 of them.

Monkeys, the most expensive experimental animals, placed sixth with 60,000, and 33,000 cats took eighth place, according to the Institute of Laboratory Animal Research.

Ancient Study at Stonehenge

Worshipers of Sun Eyed a God's Eclipse

By Science Service

ANN ARBOR — Britain's Stone Age Mt. Polamar Stonehenge — was built so that ancient sun worshipers could predict when their god would be eclipsed.

Stonehenge is a circular pattern of large stones in southern England that includes 56 in the outer ring. The stones are laid out in a scheme that obviously has meaning but there is no agreement as to what that is.

The theory that Stonehenge served as astronomical observatory has been advanced by astronomers since early in this century, but archaeologists have not found the astronomical thinking convincing.

Now, however, Dr. Fred Hoyle, director of England's new Institute for Theoretical Astronomy at the University of Cambridge, has built a bridge between the two sciences, presenting evidence that eliminated many of the archaeologists' reasons for disagreement. He reported at the Autumn meeting of the National Academy of Science here.

* * *

Archeologists have generally attacked such theories on the grounds that Stone Age man lacked sophistication to figure out the theoretical basis of such a complex observatory. Dr. Hoyle suggests that they didn't start with a theory, but with a pragmatic wooden model that they could change as its defects became obvious. Only when the observatory evolved and actually worked did they make it permanent.

CENTURIES IN BUILDING

Dr. Hoyle believes that the outer part of Stonehenge — the 56 circular markers — was built a little after 3000 B.C., and that the center structure for predicting solar and lunar eclipses was built several hundred years later.

The great stone monoliths at the center of Stonehenge were put in place after a long, painstaking test by trial and error using wooden posts.

The first wooden model tested could have resulted from the insight of a Stone Age genius equivalent to this century's Albert Einstein, Dr. Hoyle believes.

One of the most recent and ardent exponents of Stonehenge as an astronomical observatory is Dr. Gerald Hawkins of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory in Cambridge, Mass. He also suggested that the large stone markers were placed in a pattern for predicting solar and lunar eclipses, but thought the ancient men had worked out the proper positions theoretically.

British House of Lords Is in the Spotlight

By National Geographic Society

WASHINGTON — Some Englishmen are seeking to reform the House of Lords — again.

Parliament's upper chamber, a prime example of the British genius for adapting old institutions to modern needs, has long been a favorite target of critics and reformers, the National Geographic Society says.

Back in the early 1900s, Prime Minister Herbert Asquith called the House of Lords the "lethal chamber."

Not long ago a left-wing lord, in his maiden speech, said the House should be abolished.

The present prime minister, Harold Wilson, doesn't propose to go that far. But he wants to reduce the number of hereditary peers who have voting rights in the House of Lords and to curb its power to delay legislation.

FULL HOUSE

Besides some 150 life peers and peeresses, whose titles die with them, the House of Lords consists of nearly 900 hereditary dukes, marquesses, earls, viscounts and barons, two archbishops and 24 senior bishops of the Church of England. Baronets and knights do not sit in the House of Lords.

Wilson reportedly would cut the number of voting members to perhaps 300 lords, who would be chosen by their peers.

In practice, only a hundred or so Lords are active in the work of the House.

Study Asked of Drinking Facts, Myths

NEW YORK (UPI) — A task newly proposed for science is to root out the facts of social drinking. No one can now say factually what social drinking is, complained the proposer, Dr. May Haymna, a research psychiartrist, nor can anyone prove it is not harmful but actually is helpful.

* * *

Yet very large numbers of people, including physicians and scientists, think they can. Hayman thinks they're very wrong and are believeing in "myths." But, he acknowledged, his contrary veiws can't be proved either, and it is high time to establish the facts.

"We cannot say that all who drink are alcoholics," he said. "But can we say that those persons are 'social drinkers' who have, because of drinking, hurt others by hostile criticisms?

"Made unwelcome passes at othe men's wives?

"Had unreasonable fights?

"Given their children a model of drunkenness?

"Squandered time needed for constructive pursuits?

* * *

"Driven while in a drunken state and had accidents coming home from a cocktail party?

"Impatiently punished their children or sat detached from wife and children in front of the television set evening after evening in a semistuporous state following several 'social drinks' before dinner?"

STUDY PROPOSED

Hayman proposed the study to the psychiatric profession through the technical journal of the American Psychiatric Association. His research work is in the field of alcoholism and is conducted at the University of California Medical School in Los Angeles.

One by one, he attacked three "myths of social drinking." The first "myth" is that it is a definable entity.

By present definitions "It may include antybing from the single drink to celebrate Christmas to a state of alcoholic coma whenever two or more people congregate," he said. "This vagueness leads us to overlook the seriousness of the problem."

His second "myth" is that social drinking is not harmful. Scientists who believe in it "emphasize that only low blood levels are permissible," he said. This means only one or two drinks, and "It is a rare social drinker who does not go over this tenuous line on occasion."

* * *

As for the scientific believers in the third "myth," that social drinking is helpful, "we might note the vagueness of the findings, the scarcity of controlled studies, the impressionistic aspects of many of the studies and a rather frequent refrence to the persistent use of alcohol from antiquity as an index of its value."

ANTISOCIAL DRINKING

In his view "there is a better argument that social drinking is harmful." Indeed, "we need another category, 'antisocial drinking,' to replace much of what we call social drinking."

But neither the pro nor con argument can be proved. A scientific commission adequately staffed and financed could establish the facts, whatever they are.

Reds Uncover 'Observatory'

By Science Service

Soviet archaeologists have been digging since 1965 at a site on the bank of the river Metsamor, about 20 miles west of today's Yerevan in Armenia.

Some results of possible astronomical significance have emerged, according to Miss E. S. Parsamian of the Burakan Observatory.

An ancient man-made platform, triangular in shape, points due south. Near the eastern face, four stars are carved, inside is a trapezium that indicates an azimuth of 20 degrees.

Miss Parsamian points out that this is the direction for the rising of the brightest star, Sirius.

* * *

Her calculations indicate that, as seen from a Metsamor city in 2800 B.C., Sirius rose on June 23 at about four in the morning.

She suggests that inhabitants of Metsamor observed and worshipped Sirius.

Coons Quick in Adapting to Civilization

By National Geographic Society

WASHINGTON — The adaptable raccoon takes civilization in stride.

Cut down the raccoon's den tree, and he may nest in the nearest drainpipe. Fill his cornfields with housing developments, and he may raid somebody's kitchen.

The mischievous mammal with a black mask often is the first to call on suburbanites. Uninitiated newcomers to a neighborhood have been appalled to discover what appeared to be footprints of toddlers near overturned garbage cans.

Raccoons enjoy cities as well as suburbs. Not long ago, a stray coon staged a sit-in on a second-story ledge of the Treasury Department. Finally the animal jumped to the ground and led frustrated rescuers on a merry chase through downtown Washington, D.C.

* * *

Few animals are more cunning or curious than the raccoon, the National Geographic Society says. Some scientists rank raccoons next to monkeys and chimpanzees in intelligence.

SELF-ADMITTED PATIENT

A Maryland veterinarian supports the view. He found a raccoon with a broken jaw waiting at his hospital door one morning. After treating the self-admitted patient, the Marylander adopted him as a pet.

"You could get indigestion eating an animal as smart as this one," the vet said.

When pursued by dogs, coons employ many ruses, such as tapping a tree with forepawa to leave a scent or swimming a creek to break a trail.

* * *

Recalls a veteran hound-dog man: "I have stood near an old coon while he looked down from his tree on a pack of dogs that couldn't harm him, and I swear he grinned and grinned and grinned."

TEACH YOUNG

Mother raccoons teach their young — they usually arrive in groups of four or five — to hunt, climb, fish and outwit their enemies.

Nocturnal by nature, coons prowl about the banks of ponds and streams, hunting for frogs, crayfish, crabs, oysters, insects or berries. Green corn is a special seasonal treat.

Raccoons will eat almost anything, however. A pampered coon that found human friends in suburban Cleveland thrived on liver sausage, ice cream, cake and candy bars.

* *

Raccoons fatten themselves for the winter months but do not hibernate. In cold country, they take long naps, their ringtails curled over sharp muzzles and black button noses.

EARLY HISTORY

In spite of periodic depredations, the common raccoon, Procyron lotor, still roams much of North America from southern Canada to Panama.

The attractive little animal appeared in American literature and lore at an early date. Captain John Smith wrote in 1612, "There is a beast they call Aroughcun, much like the badger, but vseth to live on trees as Squirrels doe."

Plane Plays 'Samaritan,' Ferries Blood

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — A Cessna 150 single engine plane, dubbed "Dracula" by its physician owner, transports blood samples from three out of town hospitals to St. Anthony's hospital here.

Dr. Thomas J. Cooper, head of the pathology laboratory at St. Anthony's, says the plane is part of a Good Samaritan project.

The blood samples are analyzed by the hospital's blood testing machine, called the sequential multiple autoanalyzer.

The plane enables the smaller hospitals at Rolla, Potosi and Sullivan, Mo. to take advantage of the expensive machine. Results of the tests are telephoned back to the hospitals within six hours after the plane picks up the samples.

Cooper said since the service began in January 1967, the plane has missed its five-day-a-week schedule only six times. During those days, he said, automobiles made the trip.

Emphysema New Name to Be Feared

CLEVELAND (NEA) — Perhaps you're one of those self-styled medical prophets who has said at one time or another, "Well, when they do find a cure for cancer, there will always be something else."

There already is. And if you're an adult male, there's a 70 per cent chance you've already got it.

Cancer gets most of the headlines and the scare talk, but emphysema, a choking ailment of the lungs, is increasingly becoming a new name to dread.

It takes, or is believed to take, a heavy annual toll in human lives. Yet so many mysteries surround it that medical men are reluctant to even try to pinpoint a total figure.

* * *

For openers, 20,000 annual fatalities has been mentioned as a result of emphysema. But since the condition has been detected in such a large number of autopsies, it is sometimes hard to say whether emphysema was jointly responsible for a death, largely responsible or simply present when death would have occurred anyway.

SOME FACTS KNOWN

Some facts are known. Emphysema has been pegged as the most dangerous of chronic breathing disorders.

It is a condition in which the many tiny air sacs in the lungs become torn.

The result is an abnormal amount of air trapped in the lungs, which causes a shortage of breath, an excess of mucus, the retention of large amounts of noxious cabon dioxide in the blood and an increasing strain on the heart.

* * *

Know a victim by his labored, loud breathing after any slight physical exercise, and by the pained look of discouragemeng and resignation on his face.

RESEARCHER'S NIGHTMARE

From there on, it's a researcher's nightmare. Emphysema defies careful scrutiny through induced cases in laboratory animals because so far it has shown itself to be a disease peculiar to humans only.

And for some unexplained reason, it is much more common in men than in women.

In searching for a cause, an initial prime suspect was that popular whipping boy, the cigarette. So far, however, the fag has escaped unanimous blame for what would seem an easily related ailment.

* * *

One accuser was a federal study committee appointed by the Chronic Respiratory Disease Branch of the Public Health Service and the National Tuberculosis Association.

'NO EVIDENCE'

It declared that a majority of future chronic bronchitis and emphysema cases could be prevented by a drastic reduction in cigarette consumption.

Among the dissenters is Dr. George Wright of St. Luke's Hospital in Cleveland, who does research exploring the cause of emphysema.

"I have seen no evidence," he says, "to indicate that either smoking or air pollution by themselves cause emphysema conditions.

* * *

"There is some evidence that the severity of emphysema might be related to heavy smoking, but no evidence that it is directly related to the actual cause of the disease."

NEW PHASE OF BATTLE

A new phase of the battle against emphysema is an attempt at early detection. A mass effort was initiated recently in Jamaica, N.Y., to determine whether it is possible to arrest the disorder in its early stages.

The Tribore Hospital there announced plans to conduct a communitywide survey of possible obstructive breath difficulties among apparently healthy working men.

Mobile vans equipped with portable respirometers will be used. Men who show signs of having emphysema will be asked to attend a special clinic once a month.

Medical electronics experts believe that, once the proper information has been fed into a computer, it can offer a means of speedily analyzing spirograms on a mass scale, in much the same manner as computers have been successfully analyzing electro-cardiograms in detecting heart disease.

Public School 'Brain Drain'

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — The immediate future of education holds more private schools skimming off the brighter students from the public schools, increasing the gap between good and mediocre education.

* * *

The research director of the U. S. Office of Education, Dr. Louis Bright, predicted to Science Service that there will be a "definite creaming off" of upper- and middle-class students from the public schools—even more than is happening now.

Schemes to improve public education by radical changes — such as a proposal to contract out the job to industry which would only be paid if the students actually learned—are unlikely to bear fruit, Dr. Bright believes.

Such proposals are by their nature major innovations, and school systems, by their natures, resist innovation.

* * *

One major departure has been proposed by Dr. James S. Coleman, author of the highly regarded "Equality of Educational Opportunity" report, a national study of U. S. schools that spotlighted the question of schools and the underprivileged when it was released last year.

Boy Scouts Have Bonfire for Yule Trees

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — About a decade ago Palo Alto Boy Scouts got the idea of sponsoring a bonfire to rid their community of discarded Christmas trees.

* * *

That bonfire now consists of 10,000 or more old Christmas trees annually.

The event gets under way around Twelfth Night, Jan. 6, at the end of the Christmas season.

About 1,500 Boy, Cub and Explorer Scouts scurry about Palo Alto to collect old trees set on the curbs by the city's 70,000 residents.

* * *

The trees are hauled away by truck and dumped on the mudflat at the outskirts of Palo Alto on San Francisco Bay.

SYMBOLIC TORCHES

Twelve Boy Scouts set the huge pile ablaze with 12 torches — each flaming torch symbolizing one of the 12 scouting laws.

Pastor T. E. Johnstone of the First Lutheran Church of Palo Alto traditionally reads scripture appropriate to the season.

His voice is carried by loudspeaker to a crowd usually numbering about 4,000 persons. They stand 150 yards from the bonfire and are protected by a channel of water.

* * *

"The bonfire is well appreciated by the fire department," say Richard Mulliner, district scout executive. "Probably this saves several fires every year by persons trying to burn their trees in their own fireplaces."

In Rockefeller Center in Manhattan an enormous illuminated Christmas tree has been an annual event since 1933.

New Gas Spray Aiding Police

Called Very Effective Tool in Crowd Control

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Police from Scituate, R.I., to Chula Vista, Calif., have added a new weapon to their arsenals — an aerosol can of gas.

The gas, Chemical Mace, is manufactured here and has registered an impressive list of successes in dealing with riot and crowd control situations.

It was used recently on a gang that turned a Pittsburgh school hallway into an alley of violence, on antiwar demonstrators who battled police at an Oakland, Calif., induction center, on a prisoner who went berserk in his New Orleans cell, and on a frightened oppossum who took over a Dunbar, W. Va., police car.

It failed to control only one of the disturbances — the oppossum, whose coat protected him from the effects of the vapor.

* * *

Chemical Mace is neither a nerve gas nor a tear gas. It does not paralyze or blind but it does weaken and force victimes to close their eyes.

"The vapor must be sprayed directly on the skin to take effect," its developer, Alan Litman, said.

"Anyone who is excited is pumping a lot of adrenaline which increases his need for oxygen. The vapor irritates his eyes and lungs. He closes his eyes and holds his breath, which makes him dizzy. Try running at top speed, then stopping suddenly and closing your eyes, the effect is the same."

Police Chief James Byrd of Cheyene, Wyo., hails the device.

"When you rap a guy on the head everybody gets up in arms, but when you spray him with Mace, he just gets sort of a glassy look in his eyes and slowly sinks to the ground," Byrd said.

NIGHTSTICK PASSE

"The nightstick is passe now," reported Maj. Anthony Yucevicius of the Cook County, Ill., Sheriff's Department. "The Mace has just about replaced it."

A survey of 43 police departments showed, however, that police would continue to arm themselves with sticks as well as cans of Mace.

"It is very effective," reported Maj. Kenneth Nash of Oklahoma City. "There is no comparison between it and plain old garden variety tear gas."

* * *

Nash and several police departments in Florida reported, however, they did not have enough money to equip every officer with Mace.

RANGE OF 20 FEET

The Mace Mark IV, a can with a range of 20 feet which comes equipped with a holster, sells for $10.95. The smaller Mark II, dubbed the "Minimace," has a range of six feet and costs $4.50.

Chicago Heights Police Chief Arno Toll reported he has had trouble getting an adequate supply of Mace and has warned his men to use it sparingly.

John Campbell, president of the Pittsburgh-based General Ordinance Corp. for whom Litman developed the device, acknowledged the shortage.

* * *

He said Mace had been on the market since 1965 but after last summer's rioting, General Ordinance was inundated with orders, one from as far away as Hong Kong.

IN A FEW WEEKS

The firm, recently purchased by Smith & Wesson, has been moved into a new plant and ought to fill back orders "within a few weeks," Campbell said.

Many similar devices have been put on the market in the wake of the Mace's success, including the Peacemaker, a tear gas can made by Federal Laboratories, Inc., of Saltsburg, Pa.

Litman said the Mace could produce mild burns — but only if a doctor mistakenly rubbed salve on the victim instead of washing the area with water.

* * *

Branches of the NAACP in New York State and Tennessee have sought to suppress use of Mace on grounds it has not been adequately tested.

Litman disagreed.

"It's been used in more than 1,000 tactical situations and careful records of each use have been maintained by responsible police agencies," he said.

Rockies' Pass to Be Restored

Path to West Wins Its Place in History

SOUTH PASS CITY, Wyo. (UPI) — The creaking of wagons on their westward trek . . . the clatter of hooves as a Pony Express rider streaked into the night . . . the rattle of cavalry sabres . . . all these once echoed through the streets of South Pass City.

Hundreds of thousands of people passed through the South Pass of the Rockies on the Oregon Trail, and today the South Pass area remains one of the most historic complexes in the West, nestling in the hills about 30 miles southwest of Lander, Wyo.

South Pass City and the South Pass area today are much as they were in time gone by — but somewhat the worse for wear, with decaying homes and stores, and the Wyoming winds blowing sand through shattered panes of glass.

Thousands of people have visited the area, but it almost seemed they had come to watch a dying town — a decayed, hazy memory of a rich, rip-roaring era that was no more.

★ ★ ★

All was not lost, however. The 1967 Wyoming Legislature passed a bill which created the Old South Pass Historical Preserve Commission.

The group was empowered to operate through a nonprofit subsidiary organization to obtain lands which might be useful in preserving the South Pass area as historical monument.

Fred D. Stratton Jr., a historian of the area, wrote that Robert Stuart and a party of six were the discoverers of the route through South Pass.

In 1812, the Stuart party left Astoria, Ore., for a trek across the mountains, bearing dispatches to John Jacob Astor at New York. Astor was head of the Pacific Fur Co., and Stuart was one of the partners.

The pathway they discovered through South Pass was the shortest, most direct way between the Missouri River and the headwaters of the Columbia River.

OREGON EMIGRATION

By 1844, according to Stratton, the Oregon emigration was quite large. Emigrant trains collected at different starting points on the Missouri and totaled about 1,475 persons.

Stratton said some 3,000 people passed through Fort Laramie, in what is now Wyoming, during 1845 on their way west through South Pass.

In 1847, the Mormon migration began under Brigham Young, followed in 1849 by the gold-seeking '49ers.

After the '49ers came the stagecoaches, the Pony Express, the telegraph lines and the railroad. By 1868, the Union Pacific Railroad had crossed the southern part of the territory that was to become Wyoming.

GOLD RUMORS

Completion of the railroad, however, did not end travel through South Pass. Rumors of gold in the South Pass area brought thousands of gold-seekers into the district.

In 1867, the townsite of South Pass City was laid out. The city, and other mining cities in the area, were supplied by freight wagons coming through South Pass, and from various railroad points.

In the winter of 1867-68, exaggerated stories of gold circulated and, by the summer of 1868 had drawn some 2,000 persons. But the stories of quick wealth to be had didn't match the actual amount of gold, Population in the South Pass area dropped off sharply after 1870.

'Carol' Meant a Ring Dance

Christmas carols have been sung since the 14th century when the true religious carols came into being. The world "carol" originally meant a ring dance accompanied by a song, and before the 14th century, carols spoke of love, courtship return of spring and feasting.

Christmas hymns were sung long before the carols, but they were sung in solemn Latin.

The caroling custom originated in England in about the 18th century. Watchmen, called Waits, patrolled the streets, and the name later began to apply to town musicians who carried tunes from door to door.

Chile Has Hot, Brief Christmas

SANTIAGO (AP) — Christmas in Chile is hot and brief.

The holiday falls during the month which is equivalent to June in the Northern Hemisphere, and by the 25th summer usually is in full swing.

Chileans, whose salaries are spent as fast as they are earned because of the country's chronic inflation, customarily wait until the final week before Christmas to do their Christmas shopping.

Most firms pay their Christmas bonuses, required by law, around December 20, and stores are jammed from then until nearly midnight on Christmas Eve.

* * *

Christmas trees appear in department store windows mid-December, but are not sold to the public until a few days before Christmas.

One U.S. resident searched Santiago stores for days last year, and finally went to a nursery to buy a tree — roots and all — for a party 10 days before Christmas. The following weekend, the trees went on general sale.

Vacant lots and street corner stands blossom with Christmas card sales displays, again during the final week before Christmas.

Foreigners who want to send their Christmas cards in November or early December have to have them printed privately or purchase them in stationery stores and art galleries.

* * *

One of the largest department stores has Santa Clauses to greet the children and other red-clad Saint Nicks, sweat pouring from under their beards and wigs, appeal to sportshirt-wearing pedestrians for contributions to charity

For those Chileans who can afford it, the Christmas dinner is likely to be a mammoth one, with turkey preceded by lobster and accompanied by bottle after bottle of the wines for which Chile is famous.

The turkey is simply roasted and served with gravy. However, pumpkin pie, stuffing, cranberry sauce and similar U.S. style dishes rarely are found on a Chilean table.

The plaza, which every Chilean city has, is decorated with colored lights on the trees, statues and along the surrounding buildings.

Church services are packed on Christmas Eve, but less well attended Christmas Day. As in the United States, most churches are filled only on Christmas and Easter.

Heavenly Discovery Isn't Matchless

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — Astronomers at the Haute-Provence Observatory in southern France are smoking less now but enjoying it more.

The roots of their decision go back to 1962, when two staff members reported the appearance of a potassium flare on an otherwise normal dwarf star.

Two years later, the same investigators recorded a second such flare on another star, according to the Scientific American. A third was observed in 1965.

Because these stars seemed otherwise normal, a systematic search was made for other stars with this strange flare by astronomers at the University of California at Berkeley, Calif.

* * *

Although no definite potassium flares were observed, the Berkeley group came up with a suggestion as to the origin of the bright emission lines. Their suggestion has been confirmed as possible by tests at the French Observatory.

Berkeley's explanation: light from matches struck near the telescope's focus.

New Patents Summarized

Propellers Stabilize Floating Platforms

By Science Service

As oil drillers move farther offshore, the platforms they drill from become more of a problem.

In deep water, a floating platform is more efficient than one built on piles on the ocean floor. But the stability problem with floating platforms is serious.

An invention patented last week attacks the problem of heaving platforms directly by putting propellers on the ends of the supporting pillars.

Motion sensors in each pillar sense when that part of the platform is moving up or down and regulate the propellers' speed to counteract it.

Inventor Sheldon B. Field of McMullen Associates Inc., said that heaving — up-and-down motion — is the major problem with drilling platforms. Pitch and roll can be fairly easily handled.

* * *

Field said another well-regarded solution to deep-water drilling was using a drilling ship, rather than a platform. Pitch and roll have been a problem with ships, he said, but stabilizing equipment developed by McMullen is now licking the problem. Ships are more mobile than platforms, and are better for quick delivery, he said.

But heaving is the limiting factor with both ships and platforms, which is why the present patent may be important, he said.

Cool Cigarette

One reason sometimes put forward for cigarettes' more lethal effects on humans is that they burn hotter than cigars and pipes.

A cigarette patented last week builds on this theory to produce a low - temperature cigarette. The tobacco has a hollow core running the length of the cigarette, designed to make it burn at a lower temperature.

* * *

Investors James A. E. Bell and David H. Laing of Ontario, Canada, made measurements of the burning temperatures of cigarettes, pipes and cigars, and found cigarettes much hotter.

They claim their cigarette burns at a lower temperature and still has the drawing characteristics of an ordinary cigarette.

Lightning Rod

Lightning rods do their work partly by draining off quietly the charge between the cloud and the building they protect, and partly by carrying a discharge, if one occurs, safely to the ground.

If the atmosphere around the rod is ionized, electric charges can flow more easily through it to the rod. This means the rod's range of protection is increased.

A lightning rod with radioactive materials attached to increase ionization was patented last week by Karlheinz Ritter of Liechtenstein, who assigned it to General Protection Establishment of that country.

Radioactive lightning rods have been proposed before, and a U.S. Atomic Energy Commission scientist said that their ionizing potential had not looked promising.

Alpha particle emitters, he said, have the greatest ionizing effect, but their range is only an inch or so. Beta and gamma particles have greater range, but they don't ionize very well.

* * *

According to the Ritter invention, though, the radioactive material only acts as a trigger to set off further ionization.

The patented rod has a jacket or ring with the radioactive material on it. The ring is insulated from the rod and has points attached to it that come close to the end of the rod.

Since the ring is insulated, it is at the potential of the surrounding atmosphere, while the rod is grounded.

In a charged atmosphere, sparks begin to fly between the ring's points and the rod, and these sparks ionize the surrounding atmosphere for some distance.

The radioactive material makes the sparks fly sooner than normal according to the patent.

State and local governments collected an average of $36 more taxes per person in fiscal year 1966 than in the previous year.

'Billy Joe's' Creator Is Not Talking

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Billy Joe just ain't no mo' but his legend lingers on. And Bobbie Gentry isn't about to reveal any additional secrets of the story of his leap off the Tallahatchee Bridge.

★ ★ ★

Bobbie is the willowy folk singer who mixed grits and gush into a ballad that memorializes Billy Joe McAllister and has made the United States more conscious of Chickasaw County, Mississippi than the combined efforts of William Faulkner and map makers.

Her "Ode to Billy Joe" is a complex ballad with a main theme, plus several subplots, about a cotton chopper from the Mississippi Delta who went over the side of the bridge but certainly not into oblivion.

If there ever was a real Billy Joe he was known only to his friends and neighbors in Chickasaw County, and if there was any personal involvement, Bobbie won't talk, or sing, about anything beyond what's in the song she wrote and recorded.

★ ★ ★

"Many people try to read things into the song," she said recently.

INDIFFERENCE

"It's just a song about life in Chickasaw County. I wrote it only to show the indifference with which most people take such incidents.

"This boy's death did not get his neighbors involved. Unless someone is very close to you, somehow tragedy doesn't involve you.

"I just sat there and wrote it, words and music, about the same as the first song I ever wrote. That was when I was 7 years old and wrote 'My Dog Sergeant Is a Good Dog!'"

★ ★ ★

That, to date, has not yet been recorded. While her ode to her dog didn't boost her to stardom Bobbie Gentry did soon "explode" onto the show business scene.

FAST RISE

"Ode to Billy Joe" became a top seller in less than four weeks after it was recorded.

Advance promotion was hardly the case with Bobbie.

She was born on a farm July 27, 1944 in Chickasaw County "into a straight Southern Baptist family" and her first musical training was singing in the choir of her church.

★ ★ ★

Nowadays she sings of her native Delta and its personality.

Her grandparents still live in the same farmhouse in which she was born and lived until she and her mother moved to California 10 years ago.

Girls Hoping to Skirt Jail

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Thousands of Natal Province miniskirted girls face jail because an 1880 law has never been repealed.

★ ★ ★

In line with fashions of the conservative Victorian era, it outlawed any person appearing in a public street unless covered from neck to knee.

The law provides for a jail sentence of either three days or a fine of not more than two rand ($2.80).

One newspaper here reported that all Natal women at some time or another have transgressed the law. "Probably every woman in Natal has a dress with a plunging neckline," it said.

"I never know whether a policeman is looking at my knee or deciding whether I should be thrown in jail," wailed one teenager wearing a dress about four inches above the knee.

★ ★ ★

Reports say provincial legislators have no plans to reconsider the law.

British Yule Tree

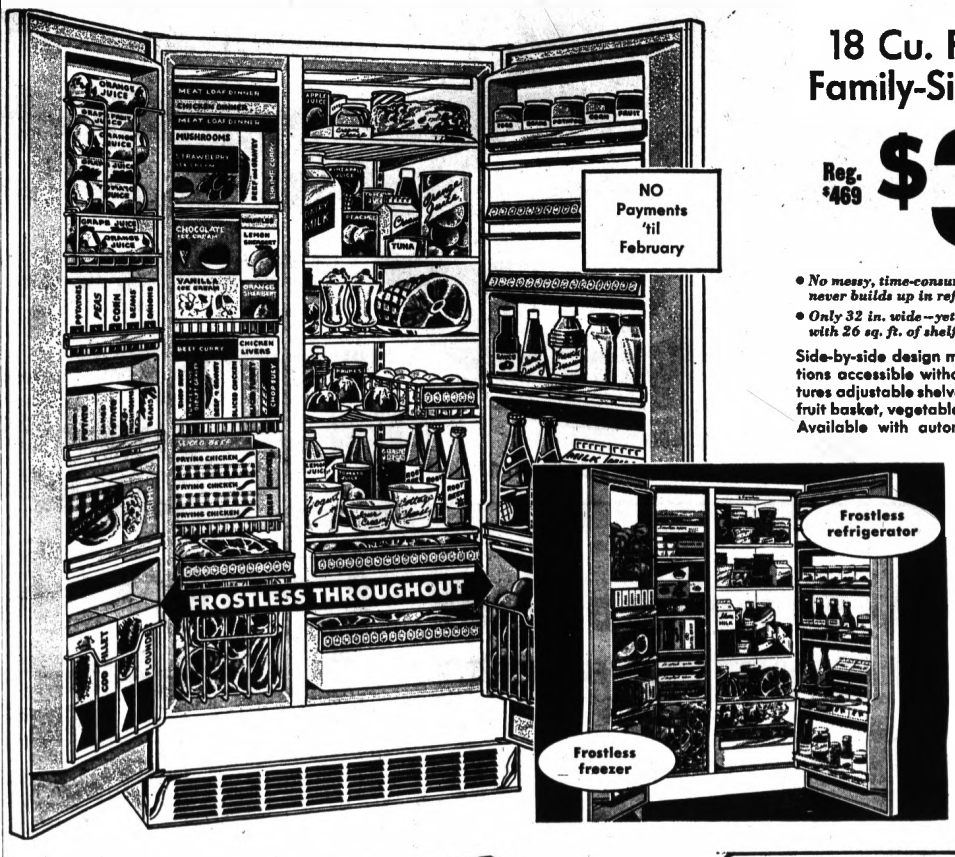

A member of Queen Caroline's court gave a children's party in 1821 and used a Christmas tree. This is the first recorded Christmas tree in England.

The United States abandoned the practice of making treaties with the Indian tribes in 1871 but still recognizes treaties made prior to that time.

Cakes Are Big in Lisbon Life

More Than 80,000 Consumed Every Day

LISBON (UPI) — From 4:30 to 7 every evening is cake-eating time in Lisbon and nobody eats more cake per capita than the average lisbonite.

Coffee shops and tearooms are packed and where serving counters for standing room clients are available these are lined two and three deep.

Conservative estimates supplied by the proprietor of a Lisbon tearoom puts at more than 80,000 the total of cakes consumed daily in the capital.

These are the individual-sized cakes or cupcakes of course, not the large ceremonial cakes. The monthly consumption, in weight, is more than 100,000 kilos (220,000 pounds) of cake — not bad for a city population of about 1 million.

* * *

There are about 300 bakeries in the city that only manufacture cakes. They turn out every variety of cake — eclairs, cream puffs, tartlets, meringues, cream horns and every imaginable concoction that includes jam, jelly, nuts or fresh cream.

The most popular, dating back from ancient times, is the "pastel de nata" or custard tart. Of the latter alone, our expert figures, Lisbon eats more than 2 million per month.

Other favorites are regional pastries like the "queijada" or so called cheese tart, some of which don't even have cheese but are made with a filling of mashed bean, coconut and egg.

These are everyday cakes. When Eastertide, Yule, and other holidays come along there are special sweetmeats to mark the event.

One such is the "sonho" or dream, a hollow, doughnut shaped ball of light, browned dough, crisp-fired and saturated with honey or caramel.

OUTNUMBER MEN

Most customers are women. They outnumber men about 10 to one. Shoppers, strollers, cinema fans crowd tearooms in downtown Lisbon. There are 24 tearooms in one avenida alone and each one jam-packed at teatime.

One of the largest in the area stands in Rossio Square. It has a morning, noon and night clientele provided by breakfasters, shoppers and after-dinner chatterers.

At teatime it's practically impossible to find a place inside at one of the numerous tables, outside along the esplanade, or even burrowing room at the U-shaped cake counter thick with munching customers. There are two waiter captains to assist those on the waiting line to find a place.

Along the Chiado shopping zone there are three more expensive than average tearooms dedicated to High Society shoppers and Hatted Ladies. The waiters are white-gloved, but you pay for that.

At the other extreme is the little two-by-four back-street cafe where you could eat cake for a week on what you'd pay for one visit to the former. In between are hundreds of excellent tearooms where tea-for-two of the best costs about 25 escudos (90 cents).

Caution Urged on Flu Shots for Children

By Science Service

Healthy children need no flu shots. The American Academy of Pediatrics advises that only those for whom a bout of flu might create serious consequences should get the vaccine.

This is in spite of Public Health Service predictions of Asian flu outbreaks during the coming winter.

Many normal children suffer feverish or other types of reaction from currently available vaccines, the Academy says.

Those who should get shots include children with:

- Rheumatic heart disease, especially those with shrinking of the mitral valve, or with other cardiovascular disorders.
- Chronic broncho-pulmonary diseases, including cystic fibrosis of the pancreas, chronic asthma, bronchitis, bronchiectasis or pulmonary tuberculosis;
- Weak or paralyzed respiratory muscles;
- Chronic metabolic disease, diseases of the kidney and neurologic disorders.

Matchmaker Puts Self in Messy 'Fix' Now That Girlfriend Shows Colors

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago I got a girlfriend of mine a date with an eligible bachelor! After he took her out once he told me he thought she was "charming." Naturally, I wanted to make her feel good, so I told her what he said and I built it up a little.

ABBY

After the second date he told me he found her to be extremely aggressive, possessive, and eager to get married. He also said that she has lots of problems, which he doesn't need right now. He hasn't called her back and I'm sure he doesn't intend to.

* * *

My girlfriend keeps asking me why he doesn't call her. What can I tell her to get her off my neck? I could say he thinks she is a little too young for him. Or that I think he has somebody else. Or maybe I should tell her what he REALLY said about her so she won't be so forward with other men and scare them off like she did this one.

THE FIXER

* * *

DEAR FIXER: Don't tell her anything. She is obviously the type who comes on very strong, and any eligible man who dates her gets her message loud and clear.

You won't change her personality, even with a well-intended tip. And chances are she will quote you, and you'll lose the man's friendship. Maybe not, but that's usually the way it works out.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My problem concerns my best friend. I am married and have a 13-month-old daughter. This friend, who is also married, invited my husband and me to her home last evening. We took our daughter, Angela, along and had a very nice time just talking. There were other guests, too.

My friend called me this morning, very upset. She said that Angela had taken an ashtray and banged it against her brand new cedarchest, and the chest was ruined. I didn't notice Angela doing this, and neither did my husband. My friend said SHE noticed it but didn't want to say anything in front of the other guests.

I told her I was very sorry and even offered to pay to have the cedar chest repaired, but she said it couldn't be repaired. Now what should I do? I apologized and said I'd never bring my child to her home again, but she still wasn't satisfied. What more can I do? I hate to lose her friendship.

ANGELA'S MOTHER

* * *

DEAR MOTHER: Your "friend" is obviously angling for a new cedar chest at your expense. If you feel that obligated, offer to buy her one. Whether your "friendship" survives this episode is doubtful. If not, the loss will not be great.

Kindergartners Discover Ways of Pilgrims Were Interesting

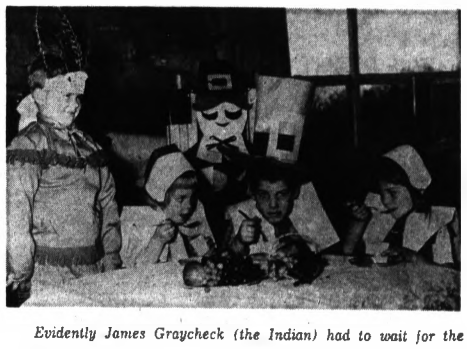

Pontiac Press Photos by Ed Vanderwort

Karen Hobsen and Jimmy Goniea, kindergarten students at Commerce Elementary School, prepare pumpkin for their Thanksgiving feast. Students of Mrs. Margaret Edwards studied the ways of the pilgrims during the early part of November in a new conceptual approach to social studies.

Marlene Brown concentrates on mixing the pumpkin dessert. Wisely, the teacher decided to forego the making of pie crust and serve just the filling.

Craig Johnson and Michael Bailey make sure that the completed dessert is equally divided. There had to be enough for their guests, the other kindergarten class.

Evidently James Graycheck (the Indian) had to wait for the second table to get his share of the feast. Karon St. Aubin, John Ropek and Suzanne Pickard (second left to right) enjoy the results of their labor. The meal included meatballs, mashed potatoes, corn, homemade butter and raisins.

Fix Homemade Headboard

If you have just acquired super-size cotton and innerspring bedding, but have no bedstead, here's a do-it-yourself idea from the National Cotton Council.

First, get a super-size iron bed frame to fit the box springs. Then make your own headboard out of a door, mounting it horizontally on the wall above the bed.

★ ★ ★

Before attaching the "headboard," however, cover it with a colorful decorator cotton that matches or coordinates with the bedspread you plan to use.

★ ★ ★

You can make a quilted headboard by padding the door with cotton batting before covering with fabric. For the quilted effect, nail gold upholstery tacks at equally spaced points across the fabric cover.

Renew Rag Rugs

Often rag rugs used in the kitchen or bathroom will become frayed at the fringed ends while the rest of the rug is still good. Cut off all of the old fringe and crochet a row of cotton yarn around the worn sides to give the rugs new life.

Chill onions before you start to slice them; your eyes are not nearly as likely to tear.

Plan Trousseau With Fiance's 'Likes' in Mind

When buying your trousseau, consider not only what your own taste is, but what your husband's feelings are about clothes.

* * *

Unless something is glaringly extreme, most men notice color more than silhouette or fabric. Choose the colors he likes best on you. Generally these colors are more flattering.

* * *

A trousseau, if it is well planned and organized, can last several years, with replacements made as necessary, says the Consumer Service Division of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. Plan your shopping meticulously to avoid mistakes.

Pumpkin, Pudding Mix Go Together for Filling

BY JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

On the first page of the Women's Section today is a picture story about kindergarteners at Commerce Elementary School making pumpkin dessert.

We thought you might like the recipe to try at home. You don't have to cook a pumpkin if you prefer to use the canned variety. But you could let the small fry help make the pudding.

Mrs. Margaret Edwards is the kindergarten teacher.

PUMPKIN CHIFFON PIE

1 package whip and chill vanilla dessert mix
½ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup canned pumpkin, chilled
½ cup cold milk
¼ cup cold water
2 egg whites
¾ cup sugar

Mix spices, pumpkin, milk and water with dessert mix. Whip three minutes with electric mixer.

Beat egg whites until foamy. Gradually add sugar, beating thoroughly after each addition. Beat until soft rounded peaks form. Fold in pumpkin mixture.

Chill three hours or more. Makes 15 three-ounce servings.

If you are using this as pie filling, pour into large baked pastry shell and chill. Chill extra mixture for a pudding.

Wrap Candies for Safe Shipping

To ship candy successfully wrap each piece individually in cellophane or waxed paper. Crystalline candies such as soft creamy fudges and fondants made up of fine, sugar-induced crystals lost moisture quickly if unwrapped.

For Relaxing in the 'We' Hours

Leather Furnishings Family Favorites

Searching for a capital Christmas gift that everyone from Grandpa to the baby can enjoy? Consider leather furniture—the present for the "we" hours when family—and friends—relax together at home.

Whether it's a sofa, chair or chairs, desk, table or a roomful of pieces, leather furniture is comfortable and rugged as well as handsome.

There is a wide choice of leather textures, reports Leather Industries of America: cowhide, calfskin, embossed leathers, suede leather - and genuine patent leather.

Leather - covered chairs of every description are ready to brighten home and hearth for the holidays—and many years thereafter.

The family may prefer a set of dining-room chairs — distinctive director's chairs or leather-seated straight-back chairs—or a deep relaxing leather armchair.

There are chairs in which leather combines beautifully with chrome, aluminum, wood and cane.

An extra gift dividend for Mother on any leather furniture selection is that dirt wipes off easily.

For the major Christmas gift in leather furniture, the family might like a leather sofa. There are many styles in various leather finishes in the stores, as well as customized pieces that can be made up.

Other family - pleasing items are leather ottomans, with extra storage space: leather-cushioned benches of wood, wrought iron or aluminum; leather - inlaid desks, tables and chests.

One of the most unusual uses for leather in the home is to cover a floor or wall. Leather, applied over padding, not only makes a striking "conversation piece" wall, but it helps soundproof the room.

"Tiles" of leather make functional flooring for either rooms or hallways.

Toddler's Blocks Cling Together

For the toddler crowd are Bouncy Blocks, made of washable lightweight urethane foam with special cling-together quality that enables the junior builder to appear to avoid the laws of gravity.

This new kind of block for little tots comes in poster colors, in rectangles, hexagons, squares and triangles.

Men Buy Diamonds Very Late

Jewelers say that as Christmas draws near, more and more men come into their stores. For men, traditionally, are last minute shoppers.

Do men buy such precious things as diamonds at the last minute?

Yes — every Christmas. But even in the last minute rush, jewelers suggest a man bring his wife's picture with him.

Seeing a woman's picture and learning something about her will enable the jeweler to give better help in making the selection.

This would be especially important if a husband has diamond earrings in mind. For ear ornaments should be chosen to flatter a woman's features and the shape of her face.

Precious jewelry is one gift in which size is not a problem. If a ring or bracelet does not fit properly, the jeweler can easily alter it after Christmas.

However, if a man plans to surprise his wife with a diamond cocktail ring, he can get her ring size secretly if he wishes.

He should cut a business card diagonally in half — then slip one of her present rings over the card and draw a line where the ring meets the card's edge.

* * *

The jeweler can gauge the proper fit from this.

CAN'T GO WRONG

Husbands who are in doubt as to what type of jewelry to buy can't go wrong with a diamond pin.

No matter how many pieces of jewelry he looks at, a man usually knows the "exactly right" one as soon as he sees it, jewelers say.

Favorites Vary in Yule Trees

Christmas tree popularity varies from region to region.

In the East, Balsam, Douglas Fir, Scotch pine and white spruce have been called the most popular. In the mid-South, it's the long-needled pine. Fir and cypress are favorites in the West.

In appearance, fragrance and durability of the needles, Balsam and Douglas fir are rated high, according to the tree expert, R. A. Bartlett.

A Norway spruce makes an ideal outdoor Christmas tree. Indoors it has a tendency to shed rather quickly its dark green, glossy, 4-angled and sharply pointed needles.

* * *

A white spruce on the other hand is better for indoor use if it is not cut too early in the season. Its bluish-green needles distinguish it from a Norway spruce.

RED PINE

Red pine is gaining in popularity. Its needles are too soft to hold ornaments well but make good green for decorations.

Rub a finger across the butt of the tree before buying it. If it's sticky with sap, it's still quite fresh. A stump 6 or 7 inches long will allow stability when the tree is set up and enable it to soak up water.

When the tree is brought home, cut a diagonal one-inch slice from the stmp, and peel back the bark another inch.

KEEP COOL, WET

Now place the tree in a pail of cold water to which you may add a cup of sugar or syrup. Keep the tree outside on the porch or in the garage until Christmas Eve, adding water to the pail or sprinkling the branches each day.

Never place the tree near a fireplace, a smoking stand or where it may block the exit of a room. Make sure the decorations are flameproof or fireproof.

Rustic Customs Saved by Pennsylvania Dutch

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — In the Pennsylvania Dutch country the natives are preparing to celebrate Christmas with rustic customs rooted deep in folklore and tradition.

* * *

For instance, mounds or bales of hay will be set out around barns and stables on Christmas Eve, so that the Christmas dew will moisten them.

It is believed that animals eating this fodder will escape harm in the New Year.

The women of the farms and towns break bread, put the pieces in market baskets and hang them on a washline.

On Christmas morning, the bread — also dew-moistened — is served to the family, for luck.

DIFFERENT OBSERVANCES

Farmers, remembering old tales, say that anyone who happens to be in a barn or stable between 11 p.m. and midnight on Christmas Eve will be able to understand the animal talk.

Not all Pennsylvania Dutch observe the Christmas season in the same way. Those known as "plain" — the Amish, Mennonites and Dunkards — keep the holiday in low key.

No trees, no colored lights, no garlands of holly, no mistletoe. To them Christmas is almost completely a religious holiday, an interlude for repose.

* * *

Among them there is no custom that could truly be called an exchange of gifts, although the children are favored with candy and cookies, put on their Christmas breakfast plates.

ONE INDULGENCE

The one real indulgence of the Plain sects is the making of Christmas cookies.

Recipies are passed on from generation to generation, as are the cookiecutters, whose shapes are symbolic of the lore of each period in the history of Pennsylvania Dutch.

The Pennsylvania Dutch who are not called plain are referred to as "gay."

* * *

The gay Dutch share the passion for Christmas cookies. They do not, as a rule, limit their observances as the plain people do. They embrace Kris Kringle, enjoy the festive tree and the glowing festoons.

DEVOTED TO SERVICE

All Pennsylvania Dutch are devoted to the candlelight service on Christmas Eve and to the ceremonies that go with it, including music by trombone choirs.

Many congregations still use handmade beeswax candles.

The first phase of the service is called a live feast. Sweet buns rolls and coffee are on the menu.

* * *

Carolers and choirs sing. In the second half lighted candles are passed from hand to hand and all join in singing "I am the light of the world." There is no sermon, only the reading of scripture, as the candles are held high.

FAMILY GAME — Dad and children have fun playing an animal preservation game, one of many new ones. It dramatizes the adventurous role of the men who capture jungle animals and sell them to zoos.

Games Can Be the Focus of Recreation for Family

Games can be a happy focus for holiday recreation involving parents and children on equal terms. Family participation can be instructive as well as fun.

Peter Rhiner has invented a new game, Wild Life, which dramatizes the adventurous role of the men who capture jungle animals and sell them to zoos.

The Serata cards with the game were named after a unique white, blue-eyed python which Ryhiner captured and trained as a traveling companion.

Another new game, which should be appealing to your young future scientists as well as dad and mom, is called Count Down.

* * *

The manufacturer used data and pictures supplied by NASA to carry out project Apollo. Rockets land on the moon and return, with espionage and other plots hampering their progress.

DUCK HUNT

For the sportsman, mechanical Duck Hunt is a new entry in realistic home games. The duck target revolves with players taking aim with rubber tipped darts. Ducks flop over when winged.

Another innovation is Home Stretch, a game based on sulky racing. Play involves strategy right up to the finish line.

A variety of new games are keyed to sharpen family skills with words and math.

Lingerie Presents for Pampering Her

Pretty under-wonders make gifts to pamper her, as lingerie takes an exciting turn, making it much more colorful& unusual and giftable.

* * *

Now, it's easy to choose lingerie to suit every woman.

The many moods of gifted lingerie include the romantics, deep in lace and embroidery, and the colorifics, all hues, prints and coordinates. Basic lingerie is as pretty as it is practical, in easy-care fabrics.

Family Has Year-Round Yule Tree

PERENNIAL TREE—Mrs. B. C. Delahoussaye stands beside her year-round Christmas tree at her home in Crowley, La.

CROWLEY, La. (UPI)—Christmas is so wonderful at the home of B.C. Delahoussaye that it lasts all year. They've got a tree to prove it.

"Only at Delahoussaye's would you see a Christmas tree in July," said summertime visitors to the family's home in Crowley, pointing to the huge white flocked spruce.

"We put it up on Dec. 15," explains Mrs. Delahoussaye, "and I guess I was just too lazy to take it down.

"It was such a wonderful Christmas. All the children were home, and everything. Then the first thing I know, it's St. Valentine's Day, and that darn tree is still up. So I put little hearts all over it. It was darling.

★ ★ ★

"Then comes St. Patrick's Day, and I hang shamrocks on it. And I continue to decorate it for Easter and the Fourth of July.

RELIVES CHRISTMAS

"Actually, I guess I left it up because Christmas was so wonderful this year that every time I look at is, I spend it all over again.

"I guess if I had to look at it all day long it would drive me crazy and I'd take it down. But I don't. So I just see it at night and I'm going to leave that tree up until it falls down."

Wagging his head, her husband claims he has nothing to do with it.

China Perfect Gift for Home

There's no place like home for gifting this holiday season.

★ ★ ★

And there's no place like the jewelry store for finding all the excitement that's a splendid part of the Yuletide, Jewelry Industry Council says.

China is a Christmas acquisition that does any home proud.

Whatever pattern is chosen—the exquisitely simple, a fine border design, the delicately floral or the all-enveloping modern designs — china surrounds every meal with matchless beauty and grace.

Santa Claus' Early Arrival to Aid, Inspire Gift Givers

EVERYWHERE, U.S.A. — Santa springs a surprsle, arrives early for Christmas! Such is the happy news which greets this community today.

According to a well-informed source — which might be the merry spirit of Christmas itself, and all the young and young in heart who share it — Santa slipped into town sometime before dawn, with a twinkle in his eye and a smile on his lips.

Why did he come?

His early arrival has a special purpose and, as with most things the jolly old gentleman does, that purpose is to be helpful, to bring aid and inspiration to other gift givers who, like Santa, are getting ready to wrap up a beautiful, bountiful, joy-filled Christmas.

★ ★ ★

When will he make a public appearance? Santa will be on the scene, in person or in spirit, every day from now to Christmas. He's here to extend a warm invitation to every child and every adult in this community.

GIFT PREVIEW

That invitation? To preview the gifts of Christmas, brimming over now in the windows, on counters, shelves, racks — and everywhere — in home town stores. Santa's invitation means just this: Christmas gifts shopping season is open!

As for Santa himself, he's making his list; then he's setting his watch and checking it twice — because from now on, every gift-shopping minute is going to be precious.

Santa invites — no, urges! — everyone to join him in wrapping up Christmas early. He points out that, this year, he'll be due to come down the chimney sometime after midnight on Sunday — Christmas Eve, Dec. 24th.

★ ★ ★

Since Christmas Eve does indeed come on a Sunday, there will be less opportunity to do last minute shopping, Santa warns.

SPECIAL PLANS

And since Christmas Day comes on Monday, many families may want to make special plans for the long holiday weekend, which means still less time to get ready for the full enjoyment of gift giving and receiving.

Anyway, Santa says, why put off till the last minute the pleasure that can be had today, by shopping early for Christmas gifts.

With early shopping, there'll be more pleasure, because the last minute rush is eliminated.

In cooperation with Santa and his request to wrap up Christmas early, local merchants have stocked up well in advance, with all the new and delightful versions of gifts of every kind.

PREVIEW HIGHLIGHTS

Next step, advises Santa, is for shoppers to start making their list, then start gifts shopping — the sooner, the better.

One traditional way to begin the gifts shopping season is for Mom and Dad to take the kids to Toyland.

This visit — or visits — seems to put the whole family in the mood for Yuletide planning, and the youngsters, of course, will get plenty of ideas for hints to Santa.

This year's toys abound in opportunities to help youngsters express, creatively, craft and homemaking skills, while dolls, year by year, become more lifelike, do more things.

The death rate of Indian babies in the U.S. is four times higher than that for whites.

SANTA IN DENMARK — Christmas gets going in Copenhagen early in November, and here a store Santa Claus hands out refreshment to small fry.

Presents Plentiful for a Teen-Age Girl

The boutique shops which have cropped up in every city and hamlet offer a wide variety of gifts for the teen-age girl on your Christmas list. And, most of the larger department stores now have a special section devoted to clothes, jewelry and accessories for teens and young career girls.

Here are some suggestions for gifts, all items spotted recently:

If there's a college girl on your list, we saw pierced earrings with college-seals on the drops. They came in silver or gold and the seals included almost every accredited 4-year college in the U. S.

For the girl who skis, or the one who only likes to loaf, there were all types of soft-soled low-cut after-ski boots. They come in many varieties, but we especially like the leather-like fakes.

* * *

In one shop we spotted a kapok-filled pillow, bearing a girl's name, for her room at home or school. Remember to order this early as the name must be specified.

NAME ON LID

There were many attractive jewelry boxes, and some of them could be ordered with the girl's name on the lid.

All girls, and their mothers too, would like a good lighted make-up mirror. These used to be quite expensive but are now being made for the popular priced market.

We saw an adorable transistor radio, just 3½" square, that would fit perfectly on students' crowded desks.

* * *

What girl wouldn't like a cordless hair brush? They're powered by flashlight batteries and the manufacturer says a few minutes a day is equal to 1000 strokes of vigorous brushing.

No time for ironing? Why not a house coat of wash 'n' wear fabric.

Any college girl would appreciate one or two of the large, colorful paper flowers to decorate her room. Colored feather dusters are also used for decor as well as for a useful purpose.

Scarves of all kinds are popular, including men's ascots.

Mugs of all shapes and sizes make wonderful receptacles for pencils, pens, hair clips, jewelry, and many other small items that are difficult to find.

Don't forget rain equipment. The new plastic rain hats are very "in" and also may be used for sailing. Umbrellas of all sizes are useful and we particularly like a small, collapsible type that can be carried in a large pocket when not in use.

Water-Loving Seattle Has a Seagoing Christmas Tradition

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—This water-loving city has one of the few seagoing Christmas traditions in the United States.

For nearly 20 years, parties of carolers have entertained Seattle residents from the 105-foot Christmas ship, the Valkyrie, which spends five evenings prior to Dec. 25 cruising through Seattle's two major lakes and along the city's saltwater coastline.

Water is important to Seattle, which borders Puget Sound and stretches eastward around several lakes.

Santa Claus first took to the water here nearly 25 years ago when Hilma, another privately-owned ship, began making cruises carrying a Santa who stopped occasionally to pass out candy to children.

The Hilma and her Santa still sail. They have been joined by the Valkyrie, which carries a crew of musicians, carolers and deckhands.

CIVIC PROJECT

The annual cruise is a civic project, with everything donated, from the 20-foot Douglas fir tree to gasoline for the ship. The Valkyrie carries a public address system and is decked with lights for the season, including a large star on the foremast.

The Valkyrie is a charter ship and for 11 months of the year, she rents for $350 a day. Her owners, Chris Berg and his son, Norman, first donated the Valkyrie to the Christmas cruise in 1949 and have made it an annual project since.

On five consecutive nights, the ship sails from Lake Washington, the largest of Seattle's lakes through connecting Lake Union and into the salt water of Puget Sound.

The carolers are high school students who perform 10- to 15-minute shows when the ship stops offshore from a park or area where spectators have gathered.

While the ship cruises slowly past densely populated areas, the organ on board plays carols, and landlubbers blink car or house lights as a sign of welcome. The city's park bureau also builds fires on some park shores to help spectators ward off the cold.

Christmas is seldom snowy in Puget Sound, but it can be blustery. One year a thick fog descended as the Valkyrie was in the Sound, but the Coast Guard escort ships and radar guided the vessel back to shore.

There are also stories of rough seas with the organ rolling around on deck, and probably some seasick singers, although no one ever mentions this.

* * *

In recent years, a variety of smaller private boats, some decorated for the season, have followed the Valkyrie on her rounds, with Coast Guard ships directing traffic and keeping the parade moving.

Alabama 1st to Legalize Yule Holiday

Alabama was the first state to declare Christmas a legal holiday. In 1836, this state gave Christmas its first official status in America.

The celebration of Christmas with trees and greenery was considered a pagan festivity by the Puritans. And many colonists had associated Christmas trees with the Hessian soldiers, hired by the British, who decorated the first Christmas trees in the New World.

Hence, a feeling developed in this country that Christmas was anti-American.

Even though Martin Luther furnished his children a decorated tree, a great number of American Protestants associated Christmas with Roman Catholicism.

* * *

History does not record just when Christmas was first celebrated in the White House. We do know, however, that Benjamin Harrison was the first President to have a Christmas tree.

HOLLY, MISTLETOE

Previously, Andrew Jackson had the White House decorated with holly and mistletoe but no tree.

One President, Theodore Roosevelt, was a strict conservationist and disapproved of cutting trees from the forests.

However, Franklin Delano Roosevelt enjoyed Christmas, with all its festive trimmings, and he and his family had gay celebrations in the White House.

* * *

In recent years, the Presidential family and staff are busy prior to the Christmas holidays planning festivities.

ANNUAL EVENTS

Annually, there is a party for underprivileged children, a buffet dinner for members of the White House staff, a special party for children of the staff, a reception for state campaign workers, and a party for members of the press and their families and friends.

The Johnsons, however, forsake the White House for a family Christmas celebration at the presidential ranch in Johnson City, Tex.

In the past 50 years, a third of our Presidents have left the White House with their families in order to have a private Christmas holiday at "home."

* * *

The Johnsons attend church on Christmas Day in Johnson City or Fredericksburg after opening their gifts.

* * *

In the evening, they are joined by 20 or 30 people for a traditional Christmas dinner. Many relatives and some members of the Presidential staff are seated.

* * *

The scene is a typical American Christmas, celebrated in privacy, in a typical American setting.

The motorcycle population recently passed the two million mark in the United States, a 400 per cent increase since 1960 and double that of 1965.

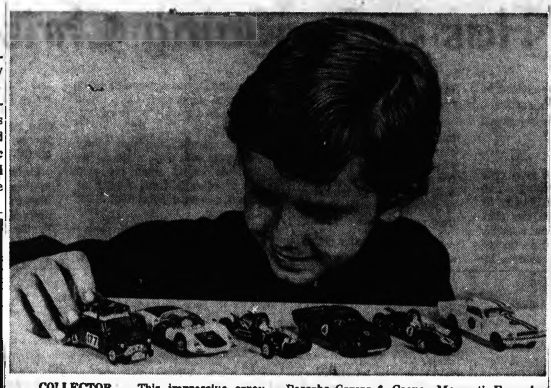

Hunt Game Realistic

Newest outdoor sport to inspire a realistic home model is duck shooting.

Mechanical Duck Hunt provides an ingenious new way to recapture duck—blind adventure as the basis for family fun. The duck targets revolve at controlled speed from a height of 55 inches.

Players take turns firing rubber-tipped darts. The flying ducks flip over realistically when winged.

Another light-hearted new version of marksmanship fun is Target Pinball. A multicolored clown face has an automatic ejecting mechanism with a bell attached. Players try to hit the clown's nose.

Flowers, Greens Start Holidays Merrily

Whether friends on the gift list include a career girl just starting out in the big city or a company executive transferred to a European location, one gift can say "Merry Christmas" with all the trimmings.

Arrangements of fresh flowers and greens are bright starts to holiday decorating as well as incentives for holiday fun.

Traditional wreaths, party centerpieces, and floral arrangements for the mantel are welcome gifts which can be sent to friends in any part of the country, and to many other parts of the globe, by Florists Transworld Delivery floral experts.

A portrait photograph of the several children or the entire family might be the most meaningful present ever given to relatives or close friends.

It offers a bonus, too. From one portrait sitting can come several gifts and greeting cards.

Order extra prints for gifts to the "near and dear" list. Wallet size prints are ideal for very special Christmas cards.

Miniature Cars a Big Business

Some Models Require Great Technical Skill

Little boys' love for automobiles has created an industry that simply dwarfs the production figures of all Detroit. That business is the miniature car field, which is also given impetus by adult collectors.

This Christmas the manufacturers expect to sell more of these autos than ever.

The technical skill required to produce some of the more elaborate mechanical models is fantastic. Many have working parts such as opening doors, hoods, trunks and folding seats.

Often the manufacturer works in advance with a motor car company enabling them to bring out a model simultaneously with the introduction of the real car.

This behind-the-scene relationship is carried out under the cloak of strict secrecy.

TOOLING COSTS HIGH

Tooling costs for these intricate models may run as high as $10,000 to $50,000 per car and a tremendous amount of research goes on before a car is selected for production.

Corgi, a division of the Mettoy Company, Ltd., has a normal development period for a Corgi model of nine to 12 months. However, it is possible to speed up this time on a crash program.

Replicas of the Mini-Cooper 'S,' which won both the 1964 and 1965 Monte Carlo Rallies, were in the shops less than 10 days after the winner was announced, complete with authentic rally plates, numbers and internal details.

Made in England, each Corgi car is a die-cast scale model, about 50 times smaller than life. The cars have a baked-on enamel finish and spring suspension.

The task of cutting the final mould is highly exacting — the toolmaker uses watchmaker's glasses and micrometers to cut in the minute details.

As an example of the fine limits necessary, a tool the thickness of a cigarette paper is used to make the moulds for die-cast spoke wheels.

The assembly is done on a production line just as with full-sized cars.

Women are almost exclusively employed on assembly because the handling of the tiny parts requires skilled fingers.

'AND I'D LIKE . . .' — Santa has visited these Eskimo children in St. Mary's Village for 12 years now, courtesy of the dedicated airmen of the Alaska Air Guard.

Air Guard Plays Village Santa

Strung out along the bank of the Andreafsky River just a few miles before it joins the mighty Yukon, St. Mary's Village is usually the epitome of peace and quiet.

However, it is not so when the Alaska Air National Guard, carring literally tons of food and gifts, swoops into the village for its annual Christmas visit to St. Mary's Mission, a Catholic orphanage and school, and the village itself.

About 16,000 pounds of clothing, toys and other gifts are airlifted into the village, along with 3,000 pounds of moose meat to alleviate a food shortage.

The visit, almost sidetracked last year by commitments of the war in Vietnam, takes two planes, and Santa Claus is a passenger-of-honor on the second craft.

* * *

His arrival is eagerly awaited by the children who gather at the banks of the frozen Andreafsky River to watch for the plane's arrival.

ICY LANDING STRIP

The river, covered with ice, serves as the landing strip and runway for the hugh cargo planes.

Santa Claus distributes candy.

The many boxes of gifts are unloaded by the children and carried up the river bank to a village warehouse.

The moose meat, which is heaped near the plane, must be protected from the dogs until it can be taken into the warehouse.

* * *

St. Mary's Mission serves as a distribution point, sharing the donations with outlying villages along the river. The tons of gifts are sorted carefully by mission personnel for distribution following midnight mass Christmas Eve in the school gymnasium.

CHAPEL TOO SMALL

The annual midnight service must be held in the gym since the chapel is too small to accommodate the villagers, students and others from outlying villages.

The village has a population of about 200 and the mission has about 180 students. Father Rene Astruc, a French Jesuit priest, heads the mission, assisted by seven nuns of the Order of St. Ursula.

The nuns are now wearing the new habits approved by the Vatican Council. The habits are more modern and of lighter weight, and one sister said, "They're much easier to keep clean."

* * *

A lunch is served by the senior girls, a task they consider an honor. All the girls speak Eskimo and have learned to speak English at the mission school. They are friendly and eager to talk to all visitors.

SPECIAL PROGRAM

Following the lunch, nearly all the villagers and students go to the gym for a special program in honor of the Air National Guard and its "Operation Santa Claus," now in its 12th year.

FUTURISTIC JET — The U.S. Air Force's YF-12 flies over desert mountains in the southwestern United States. The plane cruises at more than 2,000 miles an hour.

Christmas Meaning Is Up to Individual

By REV. EUGENE SMATHERS

What does Christmas mean? The answer depends on who is answering and what station in life he fills.

It depends on where you live whether it conjures up icicles and green wreaths, or roses and swimsuits. It depends on which side of the railroad tracks you live whether it means the giving of gifts without thought of cost, or the costly giving of even a red ribbon for a little girl's hair.

It may depend on whether the answer is given by a Christian in a so-called Christian nation or by a citizen of a predominantly Buddhist, Hindu or Muslim nation.

It depends on whether we think of the answer from man's perspective or in the way that God may think of it.

* * *

It's when it is given by man from his own perspective that the meaning of Christmas leaves much to be desired.

REAL GIFT

But the real Christmas is not man-made but God-given. The real gift is Jesus Christ and he is given to all in this world.

When looked at this way, it doesn't matter where you live or what your color or who you are or even whether you observe Advent or Epiphany or only Christmas Day.

Not even the prophets ever anticipated what God would and could do for us in the simple birth of Jesus.

* * *

God's actual gifts surpass all of the best dreams of men. The wonder of His coming and character exceeded every expectation of the shepherds and the wise men.

GOD'S GIFTS

What were God's gifts to men that night, embodied in a babe of humble birth?

First, there was His transforming power. It was a power that made shepherds and wisemen kneel together.

It was a power that has extended down through the ages so that laborers, bankers, teachers and program managers worship in the same building at the same time in the same ways.

* * *

It transformed prejudice due to nationality, profession, social status, and education into a common act of brotherhood. In expressing brotherhood together, we also express that we are children of God our Father.

A second gift was freedom of thought, words, and action when they are in accord with God's will: that is, according to the United Presbyterian 1967 Confession of Faith, when they are "to develop and protect the resources of nature for the common welfare, to work for justice and peace in society, and in other ways to use the creative powers for the fulfillment of human life."

In obedience to him, men find a freedom that liberates them from following the crowd. This makes it possible to have the courage and determination (great gifts) to work toward the end of peace on earth, good will among men.

God enables us to receive forgiveness, another gift, and to enjoy the peace of God as we make peace among ourselves.

* * *

Our generation stands in peculiar need of reconciliation with God and with one another.

The gift of God in Christ is for all men.

Jesus in his ministry on earth stressed justice, love, truth, the beauty of giving, and fulfillment of life's potential.

Receiving all these gifts from God, Christians try to respond to the meaning of Christmas by bringing an appropriate gift to God and to His other sons.

* * *

In the Christmas experience, men who respond in faith and obedience begin a new life which takes shape in a community in which men know that God loves and accepts them in spite of what they are. Because of this, they are able to accept themselves and love others, knowing that no man has any foundation on which to stand except God's gift of grace.

AGENTS OF PEACE

The members of Christ's body not only wish for peace but become agents of peace, seeking the good of men cooperatively with others in politics, in varying cultures, and through economics.

They have to fight the good fight, even as agents of peace, when it comes to pretensions and injustices that endanger human welfare.

Through them, God's purpose shall overcome all these, whether the injustices are found in employment, housing, education, leisure, marriage, family, church, or the exercise of political rights.

* * *

Those who would truly observe Christmas will work against racial and social discrimination and minister to all sides that are injured by those evils.

WORTHY GIFT

Reconciliation of one man to another is a worthy gift to each other and recognized by God.

Reconciliation of nations is also important. Even the "ordinary" Christian has a responsibility to perform here.

Churchmen are "called to practice the forgiveness of enemies and to commend to the nations as practical politics the search for cooperation and peace. This requires the pursuit of fresh and responsible relations across ever line of conflict . . . to reduce areas of strife and to broaden international understanding."

* * *

Christians have a loyalty above the patriotism to a particular country, and it is often expressed in unique ways at Christmas time.

Another possible gift comes to mind because Jesus identified himself with the needy and exploited.

Poverty often results from "unjust social structures, exploitation of the defenseless, lack of national resources, absence of technological understanding, and too rapid expansion of population."

Each man should use his abilities (God's gifts to him) for the maintenance of his family and a little bit more — for the advancement of the common welfare.

* * *

An attack on poverty is a worthy gift whether on a small or large scale.

Jesus became a servant at the Last Supper, washing the feet of his disciples. The disciples were asked to observe and follow his example of service, for it was the highest form of giving.

* * *

So our Christian custom of giving takes on new meaning when we connect it with the beauty of God's gift to us and Jesus Christ's admonition to give through service.

Use Cornucopia on Tree, Table

A cornucopia may be made for a tree ornament or larger, for a table setting, as follows:

Cut a piece of shirt board in a V-shape. Cover with desired paper or fabric. Fold to cone shape and join with glue or staples. A covered pipe cleaner will form a handle for the ornament. It may be trimmed with flowers or ribbon.

The first permanent settler in Chicago was a Negro, Jean Baptiste Pointe DuSable.

UNDER PARIS SKIES — A huge pine tree from Sweden is being erected at the base of the Eiffel Tower. Since World War II, the freer flow of trade and peoples and commercialization trends have made their marks on the French Yuletide.

Foreign Yule Traditions Mark French Celebration

PARIS (AP) — Ancient ways of celebrating Christmas still exist in France, but since World War II the freer flow of trade and peoples and commercialization trends have made their marks on Yuletide here.

Anglo-Saxon and German traditions now mark French celebrations. But there are other influences, too.

The flow of imported greeting cards and ornaments, which have come mostly from Germany, Britain and the United States, is now supplemented extensively by items from Japan and the Communist world—Red China, Czechoslovakia, Poland and other countries.

Some old and purely French traditions remain in several regions.

* * *

In Alsace, families observe the German Christmas Eve (Weinacht) with Christmas trees.

ST. NICOLAS DAY

In Lorraine and other sections of northern France, the Christmas celebration is preceded by "Saint Nicolas day," Dec. 6.

The good saint gives presents to obediest children, but he is accompanied by the Pere Fouetard" (whipping father), who hands out sticks for boys and girls who have not been good.

Throughout France, midnight mass in Catholic churches and the night cult in Lutheran churches are widely observed.

* * *

The Christmas day celebration is a family affair generally centered around a big lunch or supper.

SPECIAL DISHES

The menu includes a great variety of staples and special dishes, starting with oysters — always served raw with lemon juice or vinegar sauce — boiled or grilled lobster in a hot tomato, wine and brandy sauce, and other specialities.

This is followed by a main course, which may vary from a roast beef to a leg of mutton or a turkey, chicken or goose.

The Anglo-Saxon and Spanish tradition of turkey is gaining ground every year.

* *

Dessert is generally a "Buche de Noel" (yule log) made of a sort of pastry of biscuit and butter creams in the shape of a log.

RICH DISH

The dish is extremely heavy, but a must in most French homes.

The Christmas meal varies widely in various parts of France, depending on local customs and availability of products.

The Holy Crib occupies an important place in the decoration of homes, especially since the Provence custom of small "santons" has gained preference throughout the country.

The "santons" are small clay personifications of the local characters and they are placed near the crib with the Holy Family and the Wisemen who were present after Jesus was born.

Magic Word Is Layaway

One word offers a lot of help at Christmas gift shopping time: "Layaway."

* * *

It's a word with a practical meaning in terms of store policy. Local stores provide layaway Plans which permit shoppers to reserve gifts with small down payments, then pay in easy installments.

"Layaway" has imaginative scope, too. The individual shopper can institute his or her personal "Layaway Plan," by starting early to shop for gifts and then laying them away for Christmas.

Don't Forget Place to Sit!

From love seats to ottomans, extra seating pieces for the home are Christmas gifts likely to win hearts — hers, his or theirs.

Especially after the holiday rush, they'll welcome a place to sit down and relax!

Her gift might be a chaise or ottoman for bedroom lounging; his, one of the adjustable, extra-comfortable lounge chairs; and for any couple, a small sofa or love seat, useful in a first apartment or for extra seating in a large-sized home.

This year's gracefully rounded look in upholstered pieces means elegance for smaller-scaled furniture.

★ ★ ★

Upholstery fabrics are particularly lush. Furs, crushed velvets, rich colors and large over-all printed patterns add excitement to the home and to giving.

Santa Says: Mail Cards, Gifts Early

When Santa says, "Let's wrap up this Christmas early," he hopes his advice will be taken literally. This means: Wrap those packages, address those cards — and mail early!

Packages should be packed and wrapped securely, then addressed clearly. Fragile items call for special care in the wrapping.

Address greeting cards correctly, fully and clearly. Avoid the one - or - two - at - a - time method of mailing; try to send cards in sizable batches.

Suggested mailing date for out-of-town cards is by December 9th. Local greeting cards should be mailed by December 16th.

Remember Film

In the event you're giving someone a camera this Christmas, be sure to put some film into the package, maybe some flash bulbs or cubes also because you can be sure the person who gets the gift will want to put it to work immediately.

Why not make this possible?

Japanese Yule

Many Japanese have adoped Christmas as a secular holiday devoted to the love of children. This has happened during the 20th Century as a result of their familiarization with products made in Japan for world distribution.

Introduced Tree

Victoria's German husband, Albert, brought the Christmas tree from his native land, and the custom was not until then popularized in England.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF CLEMENT JEROME, who passed away, November 22, 1966.
Treasured thoughts of one so dear.
Often bring a silent tear.
Thoughts return to scenes long past
Time rolls on, but memory lasts.
His loving wife, Mae

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR dear husband, father and grandfather Joseph W. Sengerath, who passed away Nov. 22, 1966.
God sees when the footsteps falter,
When the pathway has grown too steep,
Then He touches the weary eye lids,
And gives His dear one sleep.
Often a lonely heartache,
With many a silent tear,
Ah, bitter was the trial to part,
With one we loved so dear.
My cherished plans may go astray,
My heart may throb and ache,
But in my soul I'm glad I
Had
God makes no mistake.
Sadly missed by his wife, children and grandchildren.

Christmas Watch Is Fashionable, Timely Present

Tick, tock, tick, tock — It's Christmas time on every clock — and time to give watches for Christmas.

* * *

Fascinating new watch creations excel in charm and beauty, says the Jewelry Industry Council.

Bracelet watches, ready to please the elegant lady, have cases and lid covers encrusted with diamonds and precious stones, in pure geometric shapes to light up the time at late day and evening.

Dials are flushed with color from semi-precious stones and combined with uniquely-textured bands of gold.

* * *

Less elaborate watches carry other style innovations that are a merry Yuletide mix of beauty and practicality.

TAILORED WATCH

The tailored gold watch with its simple wrist strap is made more engaging when dials loom larger. Some even glow with color or colored enamel, to be more readable.

Doctor Blasts TV Violence

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A University of California psychiatrist has come out four-square against violence as digested by children watching television programs.

"Every time we applaud the 'good guy' in the spotless white hat who guns down the 'villain' in the black hat, we teach our children that there is no responsible or intelligent way to deal with violence," said Dr. Francis J. Rigney.

Rigney, a professor at the U-C Medical Center, disagrees television provides a "healthy outlet" for childrens' aggressive feelings.

"On the contrary, it can create in the young an acceptance of violence as the sole means of problem solving," he said.

* * *

Rigney said man and the rat are the only animals that wantonly destroy their own species.

"Man is born with a potential for destructiveness; but he is also born with opposite tendencies, and these must be carefully nurtured if they are to counterbalance the violent side of his nature," Rigney said.

Earl Chronicles Passing of Two Fabulous Figures

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—"Hey, Big Spender! . . ."

The year 1967 saw the passing of two of them . . . Tommy Manville who really wasn't one, and Jorge Sanchez, who really was . . . and that left a quiet little guy named Danny Stradella of Danny's Hideaway as the survivor of that breed which enjoys picking up a tab for 30 or 40 people.

WILSON

I met Jorge Sanchez, a Cuban sugar magnate of beautiful manners and quiet charm, in Miami Beach when it was his custom to pick up an entire chorus line at one club after their night's work, and take them to another spot where he would buy them supper, champagne, and kewpie dolls, which nobody could be without in those years.

Or, if no kewpie doll, then a panda.

His wife Brownie was always there and seems to agree that it was a handsome thing for Jorge to do with his sugar sugar.

Manville, who received a million dollars every few years from his family's estate, was not quite as free with a buck as Jorge Sanchez.

Once Tommy Manville was banned from a club whose owner told for publication that Tommy wasn't really a spender at all.

But his round apple-cheeked face and blond-to-gray hair lit up the place and he was always laughing, and marrying somebody, and divorcing somebody, and marrying somebody else, and it was a chapter in the madness of those times.

* * *

One morning Tommy ran a full page ad in a couple of the morning papers (this, you see, was quite a while ago): "WANTED, SECRETARY." That was about the text of the ad, plus his name and phone.

"I wonder if we've got that ad," a desk man said, checked with the advertising department, and found we didn't. I was assigned to call Tommy.

"Want to run that ad in our paper, too?" I asked Tommy.

"Sure, why not?" Tommy went back to sleep.

Tommy's motives were clear—to get attention, for he was a publicity maniac.

* * *

Danny Stradella, the small comparatively silent boss of Danny's Hideaway, doesn't seek attention when he takes 30 to 40 people to openings at the Copacabana.

He himself sits at the back of one of the tables, slipping in unostentatiously when the midnight show's on—he has come over from his restaurant and he never blusters nor bawls out any waiter or captain, nor does he perpetrate any deed that makes you think this is an act of extroversion.

And when the opening is over in the "Copacabasement," as they call the downstairs and main part of the club, Danny invites this crowd to the Copa Lounge where the conviviality continues.

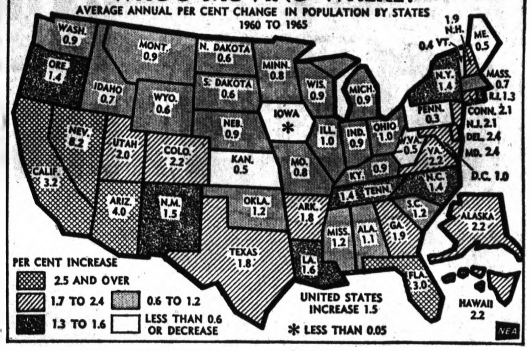

* * *

Who are the recipients of Danny's largesse?

They are customers, of course: Anita Louise and Henry Berger, Red Buttons, Jack E. Leonard, Forrest Tucker, Jules Itts, "a cast of thousands," somebody said. Just about anybody who has a name is likely to get invited to join "Danny's party" at the opening at the Copacabana.

WHO'S MOVING WHERE?

AVERAGE ANNUAL PER CENT CHANGE IN POPULATION BY STATES 1960 TO 1965

The West continues to be the fastest growing region in the United States, according to the latest Bureau of Census figures shown on the map above. Only Florida kept pace with the western states in population gains, and Iowa was alone in registering less than .05 per cent gain in the period 1960-65.

Junior Editors Quiz on RELATIVES

Coulton Waugh

QUESTION: What's the difference between a first cousin and one once removed?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Cousins are not members of your immediate family; they are related to you because they have descended from the same person.

All the people in our picture have descended from Old Bob. Each row under him represents one generation. Lydia and John, Old Bob's children are brother and sister.

Below this, their descendants are cousins. First come first cousins, then second, then third.

Following Old Bob's definition of first cousin once removed, we go to the first cousin line and find Bill. His first cousin is Jane, and her son is Judd; so Judd is Bill's first cousin once removed, that is, moved down by one generation. In the same way, Howard is Jane's first cousin once removed.

Summer Forest Fires Worst Since 1910

SANDPOINT, Idaho (UPI) — "The worst since 1910" was the label hung on the summer of 1967 as fires consumed Northwest forests.

Veteran U. S. Forest Service officials frequently added: "If we had only the fire fighting methods they had in 1910 this summer would have been worse."

The great fire of 1910 swept across 3 million acres — nearly 4,700 square miles — and killed 85 persons.

It curved from Clark Fork, Idaho, 160 miles to the Selway River, destroying two towns in Montana and forcing evacuation of half a dozen others in Idaho and Montana.

★ ★ ★

For two terrible days, Aug. 20 and 21, the fire raged.

HALTED BY DRIZZLE

As Michael Frome notes in his book, "Whose Woods These Are," fighting fires in 1910 was "fashioned of sheer heartbreak and futility."

Only a drizzle on Aug. 22 halted the flames.

Officials of federal and state governments and private companies are still trying to add up the damage from the summer of 1967.

In early October several fires still burned.

"Any figure I could give you would be meaningless," said Clarence Stillwell, timber officer in the Kaniksu National Forest, hardest hit forest in the Northern Region, which includes Montana, Northern Idaho, a portion of Eastern Washington and a small corner of North Dakota.

"The timber values vary considerably. The loss of watershed is incalculable. How do you measure the loss of wildlife and the scenic value?"

There are, however, a few figures available.

★ ★ ★

Damage from one 7,250-acre fire in central Idaho was placed at $28 million to $29 million.

Resources lost in a 22,000-acre blaze were valued at $3 million to $4 million.

National forest timber lost in one fire in the Kaniksu was listed as worth $900,000.

There are other statistics. The nearly 1,800 fires in the national forests of Region 1, the northern region, was the highest number since 1940, when more than 3,000 fires were reported.

★ ★ ★

The 117,000 acres of National forest land burned was the highest total in the region since 1934.

IN IDAHO

At least 30,000 acres more of state and private lands burned in Idaho alone and 11,000 acres of Glacier National Park were charred.

The 56,000-acre Sundance fire east of Priest Lake in the Idaho Panhandle was the largest single blaze in the region since the 1934 Pete King fire, which burned 250,000 acres northeast of Grangeville, Idaho.

Nationally, the Forest Service estimates the cost of fighting forest fires this year at $40 million. In Region 1 the cost was $13.1 million of that.

★ ★ ★

The state of Idaho spent $410,000 and asked the federal government for $1 million to cover bills incurred beyond its fire-fighting fund.

SPENT $700,000

The Bureau of Land Management spent $700,000 on two Central Idaho fires.

The costs reflect the techniques which made it possible to halt the spreading flames and kept the loss of life — at three — far below the earlier disaster year.

More than 2 million gallons of chemical fire retardant were dropped on the fires from planes.

Smoke jumpers made more than 2,000 jumps.

IN ADDITION

Arthur W. Greeley, associate chief of the U. S. Forest Service, credits, in addition to the aerial fire fighting methods, the improved communications, training and organization of fire fighting crews.

Farm production per acre has increased 76 per cent since 1920.

Who Wouldn't Want a Dog's Life Here?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dogs of the world unite! Are you tired of last year's coats? Terrified of facing the fashion world in basic black — or tan — or gray?

Are you looking for something different for lunch or longing for bedtime stories while you recline in pine-scented surroundings?

Perhaps you yearn for filet mignon tidbits, soft lights and music to accompany your mating game?

All these fears and cravings can be allayed or satisfied at a Manhattan pooch parlor that caters to canines seeking to rise above the lumpen proletariat.

★ ★ ★

In a luxurious setting scented with the odor of mountain pine and furnished with genuine period antiques and green, grass-deep carpeting, Estyne Del Rio presides over Dogs of Distinction — an emporium equipped for the most discerning flea catcher.

'WHY NOT?'

As the wife of Xavier Cugat's musical director, Jack Del Rio, puts it: "Why not provide dogs with some of the comforts of human existence? Just because he's an animal is no reason to relegate him to barnyard status."

A barnyard it's not in the 3,500 square foot shop which customers enter past a show window displaying dog goodies ranging from mink stoles and silver and gold lame jackets to a variety of shampoos and accessories, including dog toothbrushes and toothpicks.

Inside the showroom — called the Bow-tique — the visitor can relax in Regency, Renaisance or Empire chairs while viewing Estyne's collection of paper dog coats with — for the tasteful mistress — matching paper dresses.

Adjacent to the Bow-tique, another showroom is filled with cages containing happy puppies of assorted breeds — terriers, schnauzers, poodles, spaniels, wolfhounds — you name it.

GROOMING CHAMBER

Passing through an interior stockroom decorated with floor-to-ceiling cages of yet more bubbling puppies, a visitor enters the grooming chamber equipped with raised bathtub, clippers, combs, brushes, driers and sweeteners.

Behind this is the isolation room where incoming puppies are kept several days while undergoing physical examinations and treatment to eliminate possible diseases and germs.

All of Estyne's dogs are fed hard boiled eggs, hamburger and cottage cheese for lunch, with an occasional side order of kibble. At nighttime her devoted staff read bedtime stories presumably to ease the puppies into restful sleep.

For the mating season, Estyne keeps a separate room in her apartment, where she plies the lovers with romantic lights and music.

When she boards dogs for vacationing customers, Estyne is sometimes asked to read letters from the family to the animal, which she does gladly.

She is occasionally asked to psychoanalyze dogs but usually finds the problems lies elsewhere. "Instead of analyzing the dog, I talk to the owner. After 15 minutes it's pretty easy to see who's neurotic."

MERCY CRAFT — A hospital showboat of the Thomas A. Dooley Foundation chugs up the Petaluma River north of San Francisco. Volunteer doctors and nurses practice on the meandering river the treatment procedures they soon will be applying on the Mekong River between Laos and Thailand. A Navy patrol boat, headed for the Mekong Delta, is making a practice run on the Petaluma at the same time.

Haircut Suit Is Cut Short

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Stanley Jackowski, 27, contends the shearing of his long hair while in Spokane County jail recently amounted to "mental torture," but has failed in his first attempt to file a $10,000 damage claim against the county.

* * *

Jackowski, who lists his home as the Tolstoy Peace Farm near Davenport, Wash., was arrested on a highway, charged with attempted hitchhiking. He was jailed and his hair was trimmed and his beard shaved.

* * *

Jackowski said in his claim he felt "keen emotional loss because of the haircut." County officials told him to consult an attorney to revise his claim form.

Process Expense More Than Gift

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — The Iowa Conservation Commission returned a citizen's $23 cash gift for a small lake project.

* * *

"We appreciate the gesture but such a gift just has to be processed by too many offices," a commission spokesman said.

Dooley Foundation Project

Showboat to Spread Help, Fun

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A gaudy orange and white showboat will be plying the Mekong River in Southeast Asia along the Laos-Thailand border, its public address system blaring forth the lilting music of Herb Alpert's Tijuana Brass.

A big Mickey Mouse cartoon decorates the cabin. But the 38-foot houseboat is really a medical clinic crammed with laboratory and surgical equipment and staffed by an American doctor, nurse and technician with Laotian counterparts.

The City of San Francisco is the first of a hoped-for fleet of 10 the Thomas A. Dooley Foundation plans for its Project Showboat, a program to carry medical treatment, health education and just plain gaiety to villagers along the Mekong.

The showboat will express in universal language the warmth, love and humor of the American people, says Dr. Verne E. Chaney, president of the San Francisco-based foundation.

* * *

The nonprofit organization, supported by contributions has established hospitals, river clinics and other assistance programs in Laos, Thailand, India, Vietnam and Nepal.

STARTED BY DR. DOOLEY

They grew from the work of Dr. Tom Dooley, "the jungle doctor of Laos," in the 1950s.

Dooley, a U.S. Navy doctor in Vietnam in 1954, left the service two years later and started medical work in Laos.

He founded the Medical International Cooperation Organization (MEDICO) in 1957, and through it established hospitals in Laos, Vietnam, Cambodia and Malaya.

* * *

He died of cancer at age 34 in January 1961.

ASKED TO HELP

Dr. Chaney had a private practice in surgery in Monterey, Calif., when Dooley, in 1960, asked his help in improving surgical facilities in MEDICO hospitals in Cambodia, Laos and Vietnam.

After Dr. Dooley's death Chaney accepted a temporary post with MEDICO as executive field director for its Asian programs. He founded the Thomas A. Dooley Foundation in August 1961.

Recalling the attraction of the old medicine shows in rural America, Dr. Chaney conceived the idea for showboats to make regular runs among the villages along the Mekong.

* * *

The fully equipped boat, worth $35,000, is being donated to the Laotian Red Cross, as will be the services of a U.S. physician, nurse and technician, each with Laotian counterparts. They get nominal subsistence pay.

* * *

A huge cross and the legend "Croix Rouge Lao" are painted on the sides of the cabin.

The foundation has arrangements whereby stewardesses from several airlines may obtain leave and volunteer their services for three-months periods in Asia.

James A. Palrang, an airline mechanic of San Mateo, plans to fly over during his vacation to supervise putting the boat in service on the Mekong after it is shipped.

* * *

He will also train a mechanic to operate the boat's diesel engine and keep it in repair.

DRILLS IN CALIFORNIA

Ann Moroziuk of San Francisco, registered nurse and stewardess, has been helping with showboat drills on the Petaluma River 35 miles north of San Francisco

On a typical drill day, Dr. Chaney and Dr. Herman V. Platt of Walnut Creek, Calif., former director of the U.S. AID public health program in Laos, several other foundation volunteers and perhaps half a dozen stewardesses and nurses board the houseboat in San Francisco.

They cross San Francisco Bay and navigate far up the river where it winds through man-high bulrushes.

* * *

"It looks much like marshlands along the Mekong," says Platt.

They dock on a hump of dry ground and quickly set up tents to serve as auxiliary clinics. They carry ashore a portable X-ray machine and a gasoline-powered generator.

The average car being scrapped is 13 years old and has run 120,000 miles.

Jacoby on Bridge

By OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

On of the unanswerable questions that hits us from time to time is: "Which is more important — the bidding or the play?"

JACOBY

It is about equivalent to: "Which came first, the chicken or the egg?"

Some hands are easy to bid, and hard to play, others the reverse. On good days, hands are easy both ways. On bad days, we have trouble with both parts of the game.

Grand slam hands are always hard to bid. There is no trouble making seven diamonds with today's North-South cards. There is plenty of trouble bidding it.

We recommend the bidding in the box and will try to analyze it. To start, we prefer a one-heart opening with the very powerful South hand. It is strong enough for a two bid, but there is practically no chance that a one-heart opener will find himself playing that contract.

* * *

The next important call is North's three-spade bid. His one no-trump denied a real spade suit. Hence, North is telling his partner that he has the ace of spades and slam interest after the three-diamond jump.

NORTH 23
♠ A J 7
♥ 4
♦ Q J 8 4 3
♣ J 10 6 5

WEST	EAST
♠ 8 6 3 2	♠ K 10 9 5
♥ J 9 7 5	♥ 8 3
♦ 5	♦ 10 2
♣ K 9 7 2	♣ A Q 8 4 3

SOUTH (D)
♠ Q 4
♥ A K Q 10 6 2
♦ A K 9 7 6
♣ Void

Both vulnerable

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 N.T.	Pass	1 ♥
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♦
Pass	5 ♦	Pass	6 ♣
Pass	7 ♦	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead—♠ 2

South merely rebids to four diamonds. He wants to show that he has a good diamond suit. North thinks there is a slam, but North can't be sure that his partner doesn't have two club losers, so he merely raises to five.

South knows that North has suggested a slam but it also worried about clubs. South is going to a slam but he wants to invite seven, so he bids six clubs to show first-round control, whereupon North jumps to the grand slam.

The play is easy. South goes right up with dummy's ace of spades, draws trumps, sets up his hearts and eventually discards dummy's spade losers.

CARD Sense

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
		1 ♣	1 ♠
2 ♣	2 ♠	Pass	?

You, South, hold: ♠ A Q 10 7 6 ♥ K J 4 ♦ K 3 2 ♣ J 7

What do you do now?

A—Bid three spades. Four spades would be too much.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding two spades, your partner bids two hearts over East's two clubs. What do you do now?

Technology Transforms Fire Fighting

CLEVELAND (UPI) — More than 1 million accidental fires ignited in the United States last year, causing a record $1.49 billion in total property damages.

* * *

Figures compiled by the National Safety Council indicate the trend in fire property losses will continue to mount as population grows and industry expands. Futhermore, fire insurance usually covers only a portion of the actual value of destroyed goods.

"As many an insured home owner has learned, family heirlooms are irreplaceable at any price," said Harry E. Figgie, Jr., chairman and president of the Automatic Sprinkler Corporation of America, producer of fire-prevention equipment.

In an effort to cut the odds against this threat, leading fire equipment manufacturers have come to rely on computer research, automated production and advanced technologn as much as does the aerospace industry.

This recent Space Age mobilization against fire has spawned a generation of ultra-sophisticated mechanical fire-fighters, such as:

● Industrial sprinkler systems for chemical plants which are armed with detectors that can sense a rise in temperature, "see" a friction spark or even "smell" explosive fumes and then drench the critical area within one-half second of the warning.

* * *

● Electronic fire detectives that can smell the smoke of a newly-kindled fire and then seize a telephone line, summoning firemen with a pretaped message.

● An array of disposable fire extinguishers weighing as little as one pound, tailored not only for convient placement throughout the home, but for use in the family car or boat.

Direct Result of Detroit Riot

7 Negro Students Get Boost

JACKSON (AP) — Among the thousands—possibly hundreds of thousands — whose lives were changed by summer rioting in Detroit, are seven Negro students at tiny Spring Arbor College, 10 miles southwest of Jackson.

The seven, all from Detroit, were selected for scholarships offered by Dr. David L. McKenna, Spring Arbor president, as a direct result of the riot.

The scholarships were offered on the basis that candidates:

- Did not participate in the riots.
- Had shown some indication of an ability to do college work.
- Would be willing to hold some sort of job while at school since the scholarships in part would be funded by a work-study program.

The seven recipients were selected from suggestions made by ministers, youth workers, high school principals, coaches and guidance counselors in the area.

* * *

They are Clayton Woodward, a Pershing High School graduate; Carl Clark, Frank Young and Bob Jackson, Northwestern High; and Charles Williams, Roy Manning III and David Benford, Eastern High.

NEW APPROACH

C. Clifford McCarth, dean of students, who has been given personal responsibility for the youths, sees the special scholarship program as a new approach to the social problems of the country.

The idea of taking youths out of the ghetto and putting them into an entirely different atmosphere is a change from what McCrath says is the usual practice of taking programs to ghettoes with the result that people there never find out how life exists in other places.

Even the Job Corps, he says, draws together the same elements of ghetto life.

* * *

"If this works," he explains, "there's evidence that it will provide good research for others."

AMAZING ADJUSTMENT

To date, it has worked.

McCrath says, "The boys have adjusted amazingly well. They like the people here, and the people like them."

Academically, McCrath rates five of them average and the other two more promising.

David Benford says he knows he'll have to work at it. He says, "I'll have to start studying more and bring up my grades."

David, whose job at the Federal Housing Administration was interrupted by the riot, had planned to go to a school in Arkansas this fall. But, his grandmother, with whom he lives, advised him not to go to school in the south.

By then, it was too late for him to enroll in a college around here.

Now, with the chance given him, he'd like to go into business or government work.

Clayton Woodward hopes to be able to teach, maybe go into coaching.

* * *

He had been a fairly good athlete in high school but was sick most of his senior year, so that the scholarships for college weren't forthcoming.

DECIDED TO WORK

Thus, he decided to work for a year or two, then go to college.

Clayton was working with the grounds crew for the Detroit Board of Education when rioting broke out. But, he had worked in a factory previously.

Of that experience, he says, "That sold me on going to college.

"I didn't want any more of it. The job was so montonous, I'd sleep awake."

Roy Manning has always wanted to be an electronics engineer, but thinks he'd be a good politician.

And, he frankly admits why. He says, "I have a big mouth."

But, Roy shows some serious thinking behind his glib talk.

Asked what he as a Negro "We saw them living in different neighborhoods, and they always felt they were better than us.

OPINION CHANGES

"Then, we would start to want to jump every white person we saw."

Close association at camp changed his opinion of Whitey, though, just as his experience at Spring Arbor is doing.

None of the three believes the racial problem was the major issue in the riot.

* * *

Roy said, "It had been hot and people hadn't had much to do."

David said he'd agree with that in part, but added, "It had something to do with the city, the ghetto area."

African Tour Gives Glimpse of Wildlife

ON SAFARI IN TANZANIA (UPI) — "Sima," said our Masai guide Lazaro, pointing into the tangled underbrush near a waterhole in the Ngorongoro Crater wild life reserve in northern Tanzania.

Simba is Swahili for lion. And there were three lying under the thorn trees — a fullgrown lioness and two cubs whose tawny hides blended into the thick grass in the bush and made them invisible to our untrained eyes until we got almot atop them.

The lioness watched unblinkingly as our driver Ajeeb inched the Land Rover closer.

We were barely 10 feet away when she rose, nudged her young to their feet and herded them deeper into the thicket, disappearing from view with a twitch of her tail.

* * *

Several spotted hyenas and dog-like jackals popped up suddenly nearby and slunk off with hardly a backward glance. It was early morning and the sun still had not risen above the 7,000-foot-high rim of the saucer-like crater.

LIONS HUNT EARLY

Lazaro, attached to the Ngorongoro Conservation Unit, noted that lions prefer to hunt early in the day and suggested we had chased the lioness off before she could make a kill.

His words reminded us that these are wild animals who live by the law of the jungle and the repeated warnings not get out of the safari car were not just idle talk.

Gracing nearby, and for miles across the crater floor, were thousands of fat-haunched zebras, bearded wildebeests or gnus, graceful gazelles, antelopes and other plains animals.

Except to look up or trot out of the way, they paid little attention as we drove by. Protected against hunters, they have become familiar with the sound and smell of automobiles, we were told.

RHINOS SIGHTED

Bumping across the trackless plains, we also sighted two double-horned black rhinos — Ajeeb gave them a wide berth — and several elephants with huge flapping ears and curved tusks. There also were scores of species of birds including dancing crested cranes, herons, bustards, plovers, vultures and ostriches.

Ngorongoro National Park covers some 100 square miles in the mountainous interior of Tanzania near the border with Kenya and is said to offer the largest permanent concentration of wild life in Africa.

The famed German conservationist Dr. Bernard Grzimek described Ngorongoro as "one of the wonders of the world" in his book of African wild life titled "Serengeti Shall Not Die."

MOTHER'S HELPER — This new toy oven actually bakes. The cook only has to mix water with special mixes to create a wide range of delicious treats.

Record Number of Devices

Toys for Little Homemakers

NEW YORK — The young set should be well entertained on Christmas morning this year.

Toy makers, with the aid of parents, educators and psychologists, have introduced many new lines in '67 which hopefully will make youngsters think a little while having fun.

Santa will bring a record assortment of new home making devices designed for kids to use on their own.

Among these is an Easy-Bake oven which operates on two electric light bulbs. Even a preschooler can turn out a delicious frosted holiday cake with complete safety.

There's no door to open, no exposed burners, and the cake passes through a cooling chamber before it exits for safety.

BURGER GRILL

Pizzas and pop corn delicacies are also made in the same oven.

A Big Burger grill, beamed at boys who want to imitate their fathers, also operates on an electric light bulb.

It is geared to produce a variety of foods from burgers and rolls to pancakes and cheese dreams. A transparent plastic cover protects against spatter and grease.

Inspiration to cleanup operations is provided by a new jet action automatic dishwasher that, unlike mother's, has a transparent cover so kids can watch the detergent do its work.

COPYING MACHINE

The junior entrepreneur's promotional efforts get a lift from a new Colormatic copying machine which can produce four-color art and up to 30 copies — ideal for announcements, flyers and signs.

For the junior designer, the Knit-T-Matic will make possible the creation of a wide range of accessories like scarves, socks, mittens and caps as well as turtleneck sweaters and even three-piece suits.

A new toy vacuum cleaner has an on-off switch for extra realism. There's a light-up beauty mirror for the young cosmetician.

★ ★ ★

New for the junior artist is the Spirograph, invented by a British electronic engineer, Denys Fisher, which makes possible the creation of designs of extraordinary complexity just by meshing gear teeth with the aid of a pen.

Spirography makes it possible for even a kindergartener to create colorful epicyclic curves and millions of other intricate and beautiful designs.

Fountain Brushes add new versatility to watercoloring. The brushes are designed so the color doesn't dry out and the color dries instantly on paper. There's no refilling.

Gloppy, a new kind of plastic modeling compound, will appeal to mothers because it doesn't stick or stain and never dries out, so it can be used over and over.

Freeway U.S.A. caters to children's interest in superhighways. This building kit provides all the makings for designing highway-bridge systems.

★ ★ ★

Chikiren's love of building child-size structures get impetus from Building Boulder sets of lightweight plastic.

Fun Builders, a new approach in colorful interlocking blocks, is designed to produce castles, houses and other structures as big as the junior architect.

Last year the toy industry said its retail sales amounted to more than $2.5 billion. That was 8.9 per cent more than the year before.

★ ★ ★

The cost of living has been higher this year, and there are more children for whom toys will be bought.

With more kids, higher costs and new ideas in toy making, the manufacturers are optimistic — say to the tune of 10 per cent more sales by the time this year's Christmas packages are opened.

Dec. 25 Is Holiday in Formosa, Too

In Chinese Nationalist Formosa, Dec. 25 is an official holiday.

It is called the "Date of National Revival," marking the release of President Chiang Kai-shek by a group of generals during the "Sian Incident" in 1936.

But to the ordinary people, it is Christmas.

The Executive Mansion in suburban Shih-lin in Taipei witnesses annually a happy reunion when Nationalist China's first couple lavish presents on their grandchildren by the Christmas tree.

Chinese Tots Have Their Own St. Nick

HONG KONG — The Chinese do not have a Santa Claus. The closest equivalent is the "Spirit of Longevity," personified as a short, bald-headed, wrinkled-face, smiling old man in flowing Taoist robe and carrying a long walking stick.

★ ★ ★

Wherever Chinese Christians want to add a national touch to Santa, this "Old Man from the Southern Mountains" comes in handy as an appropriate substitute. One of the many similarities between the two figures is that they both love children.

Chinese children have no trouble recognizing Father Christmas, no matter what costume he wears. This is true not only with boys and girls of the Christian faith, but with the great majority of people in Hong Kong who are non-Christians.

Every year, philanthropic and welfare organizations stage entertainment programs for the needy, nearly all of whom are refugees or offsprings of refugees from neighboring Communist China. Every child gets a present, from a hearty meal to a rubber balloon.

★ ★ ★

For the poverty-stricken children, this is a brief moment of great joy, of goodwill toward them, only to end too soon and to return to the grueling life.

MERRY-MAKING

To the better-off strata of the population, this is an occasion for merry-making, although they do not celebrate the birth of Christ.

Can your business afford to turn down a low-rent one-hundred percent location?

That's what the Yellow Pages gives you—a location everybody knows. No matter what your business, the Yellow Pages puts you where the people are when they're ready to buy. It's good business to be there...in the Yellow Pages. Here's proof:

BOATS

"Although the boat business is often regarded as seasonal, we're receiving calls the year round. The reason, we're sure, is our Yellow Pages ad. Throughout the year there isn't a day that the ad doesn't bring us a customer, and in the peak summer months we've averaged at least 15 to 20 calls per week. We are more than pleased with the way our 7-day-a-week salesman has helped us make our business a year-round operation." L. L. Wise, Doc Wise Boats & Motors, Inc., Flint, Mich.

FURNACE DEALERS

"We have been in business since 1951, but for many years we limited our advertising in the Yellow Pages to a small listing. Then we decided to try a display ad. If we had only known how much more business a display ad pulls, we would have increased our ad years ago! We are highly pleased with the pulling power of the Yellow Pages. Our only regret is that we didn't discover it sooner." Herbert P. Connor, Consumers Heating Company, Grand Rapids, Michigan.

JANITOR SERVICE

"Here's why I'm such a staunch believer in the Yellow Pages: one job from the Yellow Pages will pay for the ad for the entire year." Rudy French, Rudy's Building Maintenance, St. Joseph, Michigan.

LOCKSMITHS

"I make about 15 service calls a day, and well over 90% of these calls come from the Yellow Pages." Jack Robbins, Robbins Lock Shop, Grand Rapids, Mich.

WASHING MACHINE, DRIER & IRONER SERVICE

"I can trace more than half of my yearly gross business directly to the Yellow Pages. I know that newcomers, referrals and former customers use the Yellow Pages to find me." William B. McBride, Michigan Appliance Service, Lansing, Michigan.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING — Presents for children are a must for the poor as well as the people of means. The Salvation Army has the answer in its "toy shops" where everything is free for the needy "shopper."

Holiday Brightened by Salvation Army

The Salvation Army still looks sedate and old fashioned, but its ways of distributing Christmas services to the needy have changed considerably since the days of family food baskets and mass holiday dinners in hired halls and armories where attendance was often embarrassing to some.

The old-time food basket method of helping the needy has been replaced by psychologically oriented giving.

Today, a poor family is more likely to receive a check to cover the cost of Christmas dinner, and needy parents may visit Salvation Army "toy shops," to personally choose their children's gifts from a wide array of brand new toys and dolls.

The shops are toy stores without cash registers and items are free to parents of limited income. The Salvation Army assembles the toys through donations from toy manufacturers and by wholesale purchase.

One of the toy shops is set up each Christmas within the walls of a maximum security prison for women in Illinois. Salvation Army personnel supervise selections and wrap and mail the gifts chosen. The shop has been effective in improving prisoners' morale during a time that is usually starkly depressing for these women.

PRISONERS AIDED

In correctional institutions where prisoners don't have access to an in-prison "toy shop," Salvation Army officers, who visit the prisons regularly, enable many inmates to send some token gift to their children at Christmas. Salvationists purchase the doll or toy specified and send it home with "love from Daddy," or "from Mother."

Previously Salvationists distributed or mailed food or gifts to these "forgotten families" of prisoners. Today, the Army strives to be the discreet "middle man" in an effort to strengthen family ties and preserve a measure of self respect in the prisoner and his family.

The Salvation Army still provides mass feeding facilities at Christmas and Thanksgiving for thousands of men and women in cities who are alone and needy during the holidays.

★ ★ ★

Yet many "loners" attend small, more personalized Christmas parties through invitations extended by Salvation Army Harbor Light and Men's Social Service Centers.

The Salvation Army Corps on East 52nd St. in New York, for example, has an annual pre-Christmas party where the guests — all men from the Bowery — enjoy a banquet style turkey dinner. Entertainment, music and gifts for each man make the occasion a far cry from the "cold charity" dinners of another era.

In the Bowery itself, the Salvation Army center also schedules a number of pre-Christmas festivities.

They try to have enough small, colorfully wrapped gifts on hand so that no skid row inhabitant who participates in the Christmas program at 349 Bowery will come away without a Christmas gift of his own.

Others in whom the Salvation Army has always taken a special interest are the thousands of foreign seamen who are between voyages in U. S. seaports during the Christmas holidays. Several Christmas parties for these men are held each year.

SPECIAL PARTIES

The Army even finds out which seamen are to be at sea on Christmas day, so that special pre-Christmas parties can be arranged and gifts prepared for them before sailing.

Because so many seamen are Scandinavian, the Salvation Army in the port of New York makes a special effort to make them feel at home by staging "Lucia Festivals," identical to those being held at Christmas time at home.

The Lucia Festival is a Swedish tradition. It marks the beginning of the Christmas season in Sweden, and its observance anywhere in the world is a comforting touch of home for sentimental Swedes.

There are many other ways that the Salvation Army continues to develop increased awareness of the benefits of psychologically oriented ways of giving aid and comfort to the needy — at Christmas and all year around.

Minister Wrote Popular Song

Christmas Favorite Written for Children

Are you opposed to "progressive" music in church? Do you believe that music is a vital part of religion?

There was a time during the Civil War, when strict followers of the church creed even opposed installation of an organ in the church. It was sinful, they believed. It was too progressive.

Benjamin Hanby, a minister, in the winter of 1864 wrote the song, "Up on the Housetops," for a children's group in New Pairs, Ohio.

Hanby, who strongly believed that music and religion belong together, had rented a storeroom where he moved in an organ, blackboard and some crude benches.

There the children gathered once a week for a songfest, after which Bible readings and prayer sessions were held.

SONGS FOR CHILDREN

Hanby was so poor that he could not afford to buy songbooks, so he wrote songs for the children himself. That's how "Up on the Housetops" originated.

The Chicago publishing house of George F. Root first published the song in 1866, and it was entitled "Santa Claus."

Root's music house burned to the ground and all records of Hanby's song were lost. However, people continued to sing the song.

★ ★ ★

The publishing house had carried the credit "author unknown," but after Hanby's death in 1867, his family gained proper credit.

TOP FAVORITE

The song continues to be a top favorite of the Yule season, and children still love its joyful words.

"Oh, oh, oh, who wouldn't go!
"Oh, oh, oh, who wouldn't go!
"Up on the housetops, click, click, click.
"Down through the chimney with good Saint Nick"

Hanby, who died at 33, wrote 68 songs during his lifetime, including "Darling Nellie Gray" and the hymn, "Who Is He in Yonder Stall?"

Hanby's home at Westerville, Ohio, has been restored.

MSU Official Offers Papers as Reply to Charges of Conflict

LANSING (AP)—A top Michigan State University official Wednesday offered documents he said were intended to refute conflict of interest charges leveled against him.

Philip J. May, vice president for business and finance, told the Lansing State Journal he had decided to release a statement with the facts to clear up what he said was misinformation about his activities. It was May's first public reply to charges.

* * *

Rep. Jack Faxon, D-Detroit, has asked the attorney general for an opinion concerning possible conflict of interest in outside business activities involving May and MSU President John A. Hannah.

C. Allen Harlan, a member of the MSU Board of Trustees, has called for May's resignation because of the charges.

ANNUAL RENT

May said IBM Corp. pays about $50,000 annual rent for lease of two floors of a building owned by the Philip Jesse Co., not $100,000 as charged.

May said he had resigned as an officer of the Jesse firm and divested himself of stock ownership in the firm after the passage of a 1965 conflict of interest law.

The stock he had held now is owned by his wife, Viola.

May denied a charge by Harlan that a $1.1 million loan from the Michigan National Bank on the building was secured because of a long-term lease with IBM.

BROTHER'S ASSETS

Instead, May said, a loan was secured by the assets of his brother, Robert of South Dakota.

May had been a director of the parent Michigan National Bank Board until Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley ruled recently that such affiliations by university officers was a conflict of interest if the institution did business with the school.

* * *

At that time, May resigned, as did several other Michigan college and university officials involved with other institutions.

May also gave the State Journal affidavits from three prominent MSU officials disputing Harlan's accusation that May worked behind the scenes for the selection of an IBM computer for MSU.

CONTROL DATA

Eventually that decision was made in favor of a Control Data Corp. computer that cost $1.3 million.

The notarized statements were signed by Jack Breslin, MSU secretary; Dr. Milton. E. Muelder, vice president in charge of research development; and Dr. Lawrence Von Tersch, director of the computer laboratory.

Since the charges against May arose, links between Harlan and the Central Electric Motors and Construction Co. of Lansing have been reported.

The firm has been called a subsidiary of Harlan Electric CKO, of Southfield. Harlan's son, John M., is the parent firm's president.

The elder Harlan has denied any affiliation with Central Electric, which has done $2.8 million work on the campus since he joined the MSU Board Nov. 1, 1957.

Opposition Mounts on Tax Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's proposed income tax boost, long mired in a hostile House committee, appears to face potentially tough opposition on the other side of Capitol Hill.

Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., of the Senate Finance Committee said Wednesday he doubts a tax hike now would be a "good thing for the country."

* * *

Long's opposite number in the House, Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the tax-writing ways and means committee, has refused to take up the tax hike measure until the administration offers major spending cuts.

But Long indicated he favored putting the proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge to a vote of both houses.

NOT POPULAR

Long, in a radio interview for Louisiana stations, said Wednesday of the tax proposal: "It's not popular and, frankly, with four per cent of the people in this country out of work, I doubt that it's a good thing for the country."

Earlier in the day Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler said the administration will offer Congress a package of tax increases and spending cuts that would slice about $11 billion out of a potential $29 billion federal deficit this year.

Fowler, in a letter to Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., said the proposals would be unveiled when Mills' ways and means panel opens tax hearings next Wednesday.

Mideast Plan Okayed in U.N.

Thant Likely to Send Swede Troubleshooter

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary General U Thant is expected to follow up the U.N. Security Council's unanimous approval of a British peace formula for the Middle East by sending troubleshooter Gunnar Jarring to the area to try to get negotiations started.

Informed sources said Thant would name Jarring, a veteran Swedish diplomat who has served in the Middle East, as U.N. mediator, under terms of the British resolution the 15-nation council approved late Wednesday.

Key point of the resolution involves territory seized from Egypt, Jordan and Syria in the June war.

Israel has stressed that it will not give up any territory until the Arabs agree to direct peace talks. But the fact that both Israel and the Arab states raised no major objections to the British formula was considered a major step forward after months of futile bickering.

'FIRST STEP'

Israeli officials in Jerusalem welcomed the Security Council action as "the first step" toward peace.

Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser was expected to give authoritative Arab comment in a speech later today to the National Assembly in Cairo, his first public statement in four months.

* * *

The British resolution specifies that a vital factor in lowering tempers in the Middle East is withdrawal of Israeli forces from the lands seized.

It also calls for termination of the Arab state of belligerency against Israel and recognition of the right of all nations in the area "to live in peace within secure and recognized boundaries."

It seeks further to solve two other sources of Middle East friction: the Arab refugee problem, and Israel's claims to the right to use the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Aqaba as international waterways.

The question of the territory seized by Israel promises to be the main sticking point.

Thieves Loot Area Homes; Jewels Stolen

Several thousands of dollars worth of jewelry was reported taken in one of three home break-ins reported last night in Shelby Township.

Shelby police report the home of Ronald Mynatt, 8222 Gerhardt, was broken into between 5:30 and 7:45 p.m. yesterday.

Thieves reportedly took a ruby and diamond watch, a ruby and diamond cocktail ring, a diamond ring, a large cameo ring, a sapphire and diamond ring, two diamond engagement rings, a diamond wedding band, a zircon and diamond ring, a man's 21-jewel watch, a gun case containing four revolvers, 24 silver dollars, a bag of pennies and an air pistol.

Entry was gained through the garage. Officers said thieves also broke into the homes of Donald Sparks, 46745 Ryan, and Walter Chodacky, 8242 St. John, where lesser amounts of loot were taken. The break-ins were all reported as having occurred between 4 and 9 p.m. yesterday.

Two other larcenies from homes were also reported, according to police.

Scholarship Applications for Cranbrook Available

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Applications for the annual $100,000 scholarship competition offered by the Cranbrook School for boys are now being accepted, according to Headmaster Robert M. Sandoe.

Deadline for filing the applications is March 1, 1968.

Awards will be made for the academic year 1968-69 to outstanding boys who, without financial assistance, would be unable to attend, he said.

Though most of the scholarships provide for only a part of the tuition, Cranbrook School is able to offer several full scholarships through grants from the Independence Foundation of Philadelphia, he explained.

* * *

The amount of the scholarships varies with the financial need of each applicant.

GRANTS RENEWABLE

The program is offered to to boys entering the 9th, 10th and 11th grades next September and may be renewed until graduation.

Applicants should present an above-average academic record, be recommended as constructive school citizens, and prove need for financial assistance, Sandoe explained.

Cranbrook School is a well-established college preparatory school and enrolls 390 boys with a 1 to 10 faculty-student ratio, offering much individual attention.

Headmistress Annemarie Roeper of the Roeper City and Country School for gifted children recently returned from a three-day educational conference in San Francisco where she conducted a workshop on "What Does the Nursery Teacher Teach."

The annual conference was held at the Sheraton Palace Hotel for the 2,500 members of the National Association for the Education of Young Children.

* * *

Three resolutions were adopted by the association including support of Head Start Child Development Centers now before the Senate, ending the war in Vietnam, and opposition to any law requiring parents to place preschool children in day schools.

Ex-Boyfriend Admits Hitting Mrs. Fruehauf

By JIM LONG

On trial for aggravated assault against Mrs. Roy Fruehauf, her ex-boyfriend admitted yesterday that he had hit the widow of the truck-trailer manufacturer, but only once and in self-defense.

Taking the stand in his own behalf before a Circuit Court jury of seven men and six women, Donald DeClercq, 30, of Detroit said he had struck Mrs. Fruehauf when she lunged at him with a wine bottle.

Mrs. Fruehauf, who brought the charge following a Feb. 14 fight in her home, testified Tuesday that DeClercq had hit her 15 to 20 times.

Both DeClercq and Mrs. Fruehauf, 43, of 5330 Middle Belt West Bloomfield Township, have testified that they have known each other since October 1961, four years before her husband died.

During his testimony, DeClercq recalled a number of trips that he had taken with Mrs. Fruehauf as well as numerous fights between them.

TALKED, DANCED

The Valentine Day incident he said, erupted after he had been at the home for a few hours.

"We talked. We danced. She was very compatible," said DeClercq. "During the evening we had several bottles of wine.

"She changed suddenly when the name of another girl came up," said DeClercq. "When she picked up a bottle and said she was going to kill me, my natural reflex was to hit her. I hit her in the eye."

DeClercq said "jealousy was the number one cause of our fights.

"I used to try to break up because she was married, and there was no future in it for me," DeClercq said, adding that he once loved her and believed that she loved him.

The trial, before Judge Arthur E. Moore, will resume tomorrow morning.

2 Children Bitten; Dog Owner Sought

Waterford Township police today are searching for the owner of a black and tan, pure-bred German shepherd which bit two children yesterday morning.

The dog was about 1 year old and was wearing a red leather collar.

The police need to know whether or not the dog has had rabies shots, said Officer Al Meredith.

The dog was killed by a car shortly after biting the youngsters at Stringham Elementary School, 4350 Elizabeth Lake. The car hit the dog in the vicinity of the school, police said.

Friday Start for Salvation Army Drive

Look for red kettles on the streets starting tomorrow. A member of the Salvation Army will be standing by each one, ready to receive your contribution to the annual Salvation Army Christmas program.

The money collected helps more people to have a happier Christmas.

Needy children will find presents under the tree, low-income families will enjoy good holiday dinners, and deprived children will have new warm clothing and shoes.

The Pontiac Exchange Club will again sell the Christmas War Cry magazine and assist in the kettle program.

Albert Weber, chairman of the Christmas Appeal Committee, said applications for Christmas assistance can be made at the Salvation Army office, 29 W. Lawrence, until Dec. 15.

Mia, Sinatra in Trial Separation

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "A trial separation has been mutually agreed upon."

The bare announcement signaled a rift in the 16-month marriage of Frank Sinatra, 51, and Mia Farrow, 22, and touched off speculation over reasons for the break.

* * *

The news was released Wednesday by James Mahoney, publicity agent for the two stars. He said neither of the Sinatras had comment.

The twice-divorced Sinatra married the young star of television's "Peyton Place" on July 19, 1966, in Las Vegas, Nev. Their jobs often kept them apart, as she made a film in England with Laurence Harvey and he continued his far-flung activities in the show world.

IN ACCORD

But the pair appeared to be in accord during the times they were together. A few weeks ago she was much in evidence as the singer taped his latest television special.

Earlier this week, the Sinatras held a small farewell party for Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton who visited here briefly.

* * *

Friends indicated problems between Sinatra and his young wife were aggravated by troubles concerning their current films. Miss Farrow has been starring in "Rosemary's Baby," and the film, directed by Polish Roman Polanski, tagged behind schedule. She had been slated to join her husband in filming New York locations of "The Detective."

Sinatra, who likes to make his films rapidly, became irritated because his wife was unable to join him in New York.

PRODUCTION SUSPENDED

The studio refused to release Miss Farrow for her appearance in "The Detective" and the cast and crew of the Sinatra film returned to Hollywood where production was suspended pending Miss Farrow's appearance.

Insiders predicted that Miss Farrow will be replaced in "The Detective."

Banks Help With Gift Ideas

Banks, like department stores, are doing their level best to take the harassment out of the holidays. Not only do they offer a number of sensible last-minute gift suggestions, they also provide several painless ways to pay the bills.

* * *

Some full service banks offer enticing packaging for gifts of money. Many of them, for example, sell coin banks in a variety of imaginative guises — animal banks, train banks, transparent banks that show how money piles up, "calendar" banks that keep track of the date when a deposit is made.

More conservative Christmas gifts from the bank include:

Savings Accounts: (These may be for a special purpose, such as education, or open-end.)

Gift Checks. They are decorated for the holidays, and sold for a small fee.

* * *

Certificates of Deposit. These are a form of savings, and they pay higher interest rates than ordinary savings accounts. The reason: the money must be left in the bank for a specific amount of time. "C.D.'s" or savings certificates can be bought in amounts ranging from $25 to hundreds of thousands of dollars.

U.S. Savings Bonds. These are perhaps not as romantic a gift as diamonds, but as universally acceptable and solid. Banks sell them from $18.75 to $7,500, with maturity values of $25 and $10,000 respectively.

To handle the financial part of festivity — that is, to pay the bills — commercial banks offer three services:

* * *

● For the foresighted. Christmas Clubs. Start now for next year. At specific intervals, make a specified deposit — perhaps as little as 50c a week, depending on the bank — and the following November a check is mailed to you for the full amount.

* * *

● For the not-so-foresighted. A personal loan from a bank can help to pay bills.

● For those in search of convenience. Many banks and retailers are now co-operating on credit cards.

In 1966 the Post Office Department handled more than two billion cards of all kinds, including picture cards. Postage amounted to $93 million.
