State's Most Dangerous

TWO VIEWS OF TOP DANGER SPOT—These two photos illustrate two of the reasons why the intersection of Telegraph and W. Maple roads has been labeled the most dangerous in the state trunkline system. At top, truck makes left turn onto W. Maple from Telegraph. Motorists would have difficulty seeing traffic coming up behind truck. Bottom photo shows how W. Maple is obscured for northbound Telegraph motorists by slight incline.

Cite Left Turns as Hazard at Maple-Telegraph Corner

By DICK SAUNDERS

The State Highway Department's rating of the W. Maple and Telegraph Rd. intersection as the state's most dangerous has resulted in some raised eyebrows and ideas for improvement.

Most area traffic officials agree the trouble can be solved by making some sort of limitations on left turns at the Bloomfield Township intersection.

Several county police and sheriff's officers voiced surprise at the announcement last week placing the crossing at the top of the list of the top-10 accident intersections in the state trunkline system.

John A. Willis, district engineer for the State Highway Department, said, "This rating is by no means a summation of county intersections that are high accident producers."

"The department's list is only of bad spots on the state trunkline system. The intersections mentioned are only those which concern the Highway Department," he said.

This explains why other intersections in Oakland County, and throughout the state, may have more personal injury accidents but be overlooked by Highway Department officials.

RELIEF EXPECTED

"A plan or program to alleviate the Telegraph-West Maple problem and funds to put the program into effect will not doubt be forthcoming to us from officials in Lansing within several weeks," Willis said. "The big problem is limiting left turns from the southbound lane."

No one knows yet just how this problem will be overcome. Suggestions ranged from the costly but ideal solution—to the simple move of placing several "No Left Turn" signs at the intersection.

Highway Department figures showed there were 27 persons injured in 41 accidents at the corner from Jan. 1 through Dec. 31, 1958. This topped the No. 2 intersection of U.S. 24 at M59, in Livingston County, by one casualty. Probably the most acutely aware of the problem intersection is Bloomfield Police Chief Norman Dehnke.

After compiling figures yesterday Dehnke said:

"Our files show that from April 1, 1958, through March 31, this year there were 40 property damage accidents and 16 accidents involving personal injury, resulting from either rear-end smashups or drivers turning in front of an oncoming vehicle."

"This, beyond a doubt, is the

MIGs Buzz U.S. Plane on Way to West Berlin

From Our News Wires
BERLIN—Two Soviet jet fighters buzzed an American Air Force cargo plane and forced it to reduce altitude while it was crossing East Germany on a flight from West Berlin April 3, a U.S. embassy spokesman said today in Bonn.

The incident occurred while the United States and Soviet Union were embroiled in a series of protests and counter-protests involving another buzzing by MIGs on Good Friday, March 27.

Only yesterday the United States delivered a protest to the Soviet Foreign Ministry in Moscow charging that Russia intentionally created a hazard to flight safety in the Berlin air corridor when it buzzed the first plane.

A new protest against the second incident has been lodged at the Berlin Air Safety Center, informed sources said.

HEIGHT IN DISPUTE

Both planes were harassed because they were flying at altitudes above 10,000 feet in the 20-mile-wide air corridors leading from West Germany to West Berlin, 110 miles inside the iron curtain. The United States does not accept such a ceiling on its flights.

The incidents were considered significant because most American transport planes fly at high altitudes and such flights might be necessary to supply the city of West Berlin should the Communists begin a new blockade of the city.

The first plane buzzed was a C130 which usually flies at an altitude of 20,000 feet or more. The second one was a C97 which usually flies at 10,000 to 15,000 feet. It was the one forced down to a lower level by menacing sweeps of the MIG jets.

The United States has rejected a Soviet claim that it has a right to limit American Air Force flights to West Berlin to altitudes of 10,000 feet or less.

American planes will fly as high as they need to wherever they want to, the United States said in a formal note delivered Monday to the Soviet foreign office in Moscow.

The Soviet Union has no right

Dem Woman Leader Loses to GOP Mayor

Calhoun Is Supervisor in Place of Phillips; Hamlin Is Re-Elected

As expected, Oakland County supervisors today voted unprecedented fourth terms for Delos Hamlin, their chairman, and Hiland M. Thatcher, vice chairman, but there was at least one big surprise as the 83-member Board met in its first 1959-1960 session.

Harriett Phillips, an appointed supervisor from Huntington Woods since 1951, was replaced last night in a sudden move by the Huntington Woods City Council.

Mrs. Phillips, a staunch Democrat who has been on the Democratic State Central Committee six years, was replaced by Huntington Woods Mayor David R. Calhoun.

Calhoun, president of the Michigan Municipal League, is privately in the opposite political camp from Mrs. Phillips, although his Huntington Woods post is non-partisan.

ISN'T BITTER

"This is politics and you just have to face it," the peppery Mrs. Phillips conceded privately before supervisors gathered in the fourth floor auditorium at the Oakland County Office Building this morning. Mrs. Phillips declared she felt "no bitterness at being bumped."

She interpreted last night's council vote (four councilmen voted for her removal and four abstained) as a criticism of her past record.

"Apparently they thought I wasn't representing the interests of the city."

Council members, however, said the change represented a new policy that the Huntington Woods supervisor should be an elected official. Calhoun has been mayor eight years.

Mrs. Phillips, a lively figure at most county and Democratic conclaves, has been one of the supervisors' most outspoken members, frequently voicing objections to traditional policies.

ANOTHER REPLACED

Another change occurred last night in Pleasant Ridge, where Arthur G. Elliot Jr. was named to replace Winston S. Moberly, an appointed supervisor the past 13 years. Elliot is chairman of the Oakland County Republican Committee.

Re-election of Hamlin and Thatcher was interpreted as a resounding vote of confidence in (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Fair, Warmer Outlook for Today and Tomorrow

Fair and a little warmer is the Pontiac area forecast for tonight by the U.S. Weather Bureau. The low will be near 35-42.

Partly cloudy and mild with winds increasing to 18-30 miles an hour Wednesday afternoon is tomorrow's prediction with the high rising to 60-65 degrees. The outlook for Thursday is partly cloudy and cooler.

The lowest recording in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 35 degrees. The thermometer read 60 at 1 p.m.

Tax Deadline Is Tomorrow

Some 5,000 Pontiac Persons Still Must File Federal Returns

There's probably about 5,000 wage earners in Pontiac today who think they have only a little more than 24 hours in which to file their 1958 income tax returns.

If past experience is repeated, 4,000 to 5,000 returns will be handled by the main Pontiac Post Office tomorrow in the hours leading up to the deadline most people figure on.

Income tax returns, it's commonly assumed, must be postmarked by midnight, April 15. Actually, the law says returns must be in the hands of the Internal Revenue Service by April 15, so that any return mailed April 15 is bound to be at least one day late.

The tax collector usually doesn't worry about returns one or two days late—doesn't worry, that is, if the return is made out properly and the tax fully paid.

INTEREST POSSIBLE

But, theoretically, he could charge interest figured at the rate of six per cent a year for every day a return is late.

Tax examiners at the Pontiac branch of the Internal Revenue Service, 65 Oakland Ave., expected to provide lots of help tomorrow, but there probably will be no long lines of last-minute filers.

Two examiners are on duty to offer advice in person from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Another is available over the telephone.

The last minute returns don't add any appreciable load to the post office, said Robert C. Miller, acting postmaster.

"Pontiac people usually have filed their returns well in advance of April 15," he observed.

FIVE MILLION LEFT

Nationally, it's estimated that five million or more taxpayers will file returns today or tomorrow. Pontiac area returns are to be mailed to the Director of Internal Revenue, Detroit, 31 Mich.

Some last minute advice from the Internal Revenue Service:
1. Be sure to include your social security number and your name (some people always forget to sign their returns).
2. If it's a joint filing, both husband and wife must sign.

3. Check your arithmetic. Last year, two million people made mistakes in addition, subtraction or other figuring.

4. Include a check or money order if you owe Uncle Sam money in unpaid taxes.

5. Send the return to the Detroit address, not to Washington. (The President always gets at least one tax return in his mail, from some bewildered taxpayer.)

Dulles' Resignation Might Come Soon

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senators expressed reluctance today to a growing belief that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles may have to hand in his resignation soon.

There were well-founded reports—including some from persons who have talked to him—that Dulles has failed to respond to treatment for a cancerous condition.

If fresh medical treatments planned at Walter Reed Army Hospital do not show results, the general expectation is that Dulles will step out of official job quickly to clear the way for appointment of a successor.

SINGAPORE (UPI)—Thirty warships of five nations sailed from the Singapore naval base today to launch SEATO's biggest exercise yet in fleet cooperation.

Cash Collapse Nears in State Stalemate

LANSING (UPI)—Michigan edged closer to fiscal collapse and payless paydays today as its Democratic governor and GOP-controlled Legislature remained stalemated on what, if anything, needs to be done.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams carried his plea for action to the Legislature in a special message last night that described the plight of the state's schools and universities as "shocking and dreadful."

He predicted a cash deficit of about $8 million dollars by May 15.

"You simply cannot let your state go smash," Williams warned.

The governor said Michigan already is being "sneered at throughout the country" and said further delay on emergency financing measures would be "disastrous." The message aroused considerable concern in the House, which already has passed a plan to ease the cash crisis by mortgaging the Veterans Trust Fund.

It got a cold shoulder in the Senate.

Williams invited lawmakers "who do not believe there is a cash crisis requiring immediate action" to meet with him today.

Sen. Edward Hutchinson (R-Fennville), a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee that has shelved the trust fund plan at least temporarily, said Williams' message failed to discuss the vast sums of constitutionally-earmarked money outside of the general fund.

It is planned to serve Farmington and West Bloomfield townships and the cities of Southfield and Keegoon Harbor.

"Frankly, I'm greatly surprised," Stevens said when he learned of the court's decision.

Bids on the sale of general obligation bonds to finance the sewer system are scheduled to be taken a week from today. Stevens said this morning's conference would determine whether bids would still be received then.

SPLIT DECISION

Oakland County had tried twice to have the eight justices of the Supreme Court rehear and possibly alter their 4 to 4 decision handed down last October which actually affirmed by equal division the county's legal right to proceed with the project.

County DPW officials, Stevens and Louis H. Schimmel, municipal finance consultant on the project, were leery, however.

Will Attempt to Recover Nose Cone Capsule

Vanguard Launching at Cape Canaveral Flaps; Cause Unknown

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Discoverer II, a 1,600-pound satellite, was in polar orbit today, carrying in its nose cone a space capsule the Air Force hopes to catch in the air near Hawaii.

The recovery experiment may be attempted later today.

The capsule was described as a miniature of the type that someday may be used to return men from space stations.

Discoverer II was launched from this missile base Monday night, while across the nation fellow scientists were experiencing a disappointment.

At Cape Canaveral, Fla., the Air Force tried unsuccessfully to put three satellites into orbit from a single launching vehicle, Vanguard III.

The Vanguard's second stage failed to ignite on schedule. Officials at the Cape said cause of the trouble was not known.

If Discoverer II achieves proper stability, its instrumented nose cone is scheduled to be kicked loose on command from ground tracking stations and float earthward beneath a parachute.

Eight Hawaii-based C119 Flying Boxcars are awaiting orders to swoop on the descending parachute and try to drape it across a 30-foot long trapeze bar suspended beneath each plane. The parachute and capsule would then be reeled into the plane.

WILL HAVE 10 MINUTES

The parachute would come into range of the Air Force C119s at about 20,000 feet. The planes would have 10 minutes to snatch the parachute from the air. If they failed, the buoyant capsule would be fished from the ocean by Navy vessels patrolling the recovery area.

The capsule contains instruments to supply oxygen and control heat and atmospheric pressure.

Other instruments will check how effective these environmental systems (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

Ike Praises Sen. Taft at Dedication

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower dedicated a towering memorial today to the late Sen. Robert A. Taft.

He praised Taft as a man who gave generously and unstintingly of himself "for the good of all America."

Eisenhower honored a former political rival and ally at ceremonies at the base of a 100-foot bell tower erected at the foot of Capitol Hill in memory of the Ohio senator.

Taft, Eisenhower said, was a liberal in championing individual rights and the symbol of conservatism in everything affecting the national economy.

Former President Herbert Hoover and high government officials also participated with Eisenhower in the dedication.

Hoover depicted Taft as a man who chose to die with his boots on rather than to desert his post. "He called Taft 'an official with a social conscience' and said: 'He not only would not desert his post, he never deserted his people.'"

NIXON, RAYBURN ACCEPT

Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) arranged to accept the marble tower on behalf of Congress.

The tower is the only memorial to an individual Congress has permitted to be erected on the Capitol grounds.

At the base of the tower is a 10-foot high statue of Taft, whose death from cancer on July 31, 1953 ended a career that included four unsuccessful bids for the Republican presidential nomination.

Telegraph-Maple Hazard Attributed to Left Turns

meat of the situation. The turn problem is created to a large extent by the hill crest in the north-bound Telegraph lane about 1,000 feet south of Maple.

Oddly enough, there were no fatalities at the intersection last year.

Dohnke, in offering a solution, said, "I would try cutting the hill down and reducing the speed limit there to 45 miles an hour.

Blinker lights alongside the highway would also pay off. They were tried on both sides of 13-Mile road at Telegraph and cut the accident rate at that intersection way down.

Sgt. Mike Ahlgrim, commander of the Pontiac State Police Post, is a man who has more-or-less gine from the frying pan into the fire.

Last year's most dangerous intersection was U.S. 113 and the M-40 Bypass, in Cass County near Niles. Ahlgrim was transferred to Pontiac from the Niles Post last fall.

The intersection near Niles has dropped to third place in the current list.

"Actually, having only been here since last fall, I'm better acquainted with the U. S. 112-M40 intersection. The problem there was that of

Assistant County Prosecutor Resigns

Resignation of Assistant Oakland County Prosecutor Walter R. Denison from the staff of the Prosecutor's Office was announced today by Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem.

Denison, 28, of Birmingham, said he would open his private practice today in the Pontiac office now occupied by attorney James G. Hartrick, 1101 Pontiac State Bank Building.

The assistant prosecutor has been on the staff for 3 1/2 years. Lately he has been assigned the handling of matters relating to adoption and probate court appeals, welfare cases, dependent parents and children, fraud, and waivers of jurisdiction from the juvenile to the Circuit Court.

Ziem said his job will be taken by Richard Condit, formerly a clerk for Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was a little cool in the eastern quarter of the country and in some areas in the Northwest today but mild spring weather prevailed in most other parts of the country.

Adding discomfort to the cool weather was light snow in parts of the Virginias, Tennessee and the Carolinas. Light rain or drizzle sprayed sections of the Carolinas.

Freezing weather hit northern parts of Georgia, with a 31 reading at Rome. The mercury dropped into the 30s in northern sections of Mississippi and Alabama and into the 40s in northern Florida. However, readings were in the 70s in the extreme southern part of Florida.

The cool air in the Northeast kept temperatures mostly in the 20s and 30s during the early morning but warmer weather appeared on the way.

Snow fell Monday in scattered areas from Parkersburg, W. Va., into the mountains of Tennessee, Virginia and North Carolina.

Southerly winds fanned warm air into the plains and central Rockies and it headed eastward into the upper Mississippi Valley and upper Great Lakes region. The broad belt of fair and warmer weather was expected to extend from the southern and central plains into the Great Lakes region and eastward into New England.

To Call Bufalino on Stand Today

Senate Rackets Group Will Quiz Teamster in Jukebox Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Rackets Committee will call William Bufalino, Detroit teamsters union official to the stand this afternoon for questioning about testimony linking his name with gangsters and jukebox rackets.

Bufalino, president of the Detroit Teamsters Jukebox Local No. 985, had made public a telegram to the committee contending any attempt to connect him with lawlessness is a "sinister attack on my character and reputation."

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said other witnesses would include Angelo Meli, an uncle of Bufalino, and Samuel Tocco, one of Bufalino's former business partners.

Charles Siragusa, a federal narcotics agent, has testified that Bufalino left a jukebox business partnership with John (Poppy John) Priziola, whom Siragusa called a narcotics trafficking Mafia mobster, to become the local's president.

In testimony before the committee on Sept. 27, 1957, Bufalino said he wasn't sure whether Meli had put up $46,000 to launch Bufalino in the presidency of the Bilvin Distributing Co., a jukebox firm, with Priziola and Tocco as his partners.

Kennedy at that time called Bufalino a front man for notorious hoodlums he alleged were interested financially in the firm.

Bufalino interrupted the questioning at that hearing to tell the committee "so far as I am concerned, Angelo Meli, who is my wife's uncle and my uncle, has at all times conducted himself as a gentleman."

Kennedy said Bufalino also would be asked about testimony last week that the teamster official had negotiated some "sweetheart" labor contracts for Detroit car washing firms.

Several employees of these companies testified they were forced to join the teamsters and pay dues to Bufalino's local under labor contracts that cut their pay as much as $10 a week. They said the contract called for $25 for a 70-hour work week.

Red-Appointed Lama Visits Peiping

Chou Greets Tibet 'Ruler'

TOKYO (AP)—The Panchen Lama, Communist-appointed ruler of Tibet, arrived in Peiping today to attend the Red People's congress.

The 21-year-old puppet, placed on the throne after the Dalai Lama fled to India, was expected to parrot full support for Communist control of his strife-torn Himalayan land.

GREETED BY CHOU

Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai and other high officials were at the railroad station to greet the Panchen Lama, Peiping radio said.

The religious leader stepped from the train with a beaming smile, the broadcast went on. He shook hands with Chou and the others and "exchanged hata (ceremonial scarves). A group of school children rushed forward and presented bouquets."

Before he left for Peiping, the Panchen Lama reportedly tried to win over influential Tibetan traders by announcing big tax concessions. They include abolition of import duty on tea from India and export duty on wool to India — two main items of the mountainous country's trade.

Trade sources in Kalimpong, on the India-Tibet caravan route, said Tibet's already depleted resources could ill afford to lose such substantial revenue.

that the split decision might discourage bond buyers. They sought to strengthen the buying power of the bonds by having the justices reconsider their decision.

Justice Eugene Black said he was aware the court decision left the project "in a state of legal uncertainty."

"These townships are in a position where they have contracted to do that which (if other usable funds and revenues are short of upcoming payment schedules) of necessity will violate the constitutional limitation," Black wrote.

Cities are not bound to the 15-mill taxing limitation like townships.

The future of the Farmington project is seen as bearing on the future of the young DPW, which as yet has been unable to escape legal entanglements to get projects under way.

Black, in essence, was saying voters, and not the courts, should say whether they are in favor of their township exceeding the constitutional limitation to finance the sewer and like projects.

Catholic Blood Bank Sets 300-Pint Goal

Three hundred pints of blood is for use of the 8,000 Catholic families in Pontiac.

The goal for the newly-formed Catholic Community Blood Bank.

Donations will be held in bank at St. Michael's parish Monday from 2 to 5 p.m. and 6 to 8 p.m. for donations.

Cooperating in the bloodbank are most of the parishes in Pontiac and surrounding townships, according to Mrs. Vincent Vaverek, project coordinator.

General chairman for volunteer committees participating in the blood drive is Mrs. Omer DeConinck.

This is the first time that Catholics have had the Bloodmobile visit Pontiac especially to supply the Catholic bloodbank. In the past, securing and disbursing of blood has been handled in each parish by the Society of St. Vincent de Paul.

"But our need is growing so great that now it is imperative to have an all-out drive to bank a year's supply of blood," said S. J. Salvador, Vincentian chairman.

It is hoped that 450 to 500 potential donors visit the Bloodmobile Monday in order to meet the goal of 300 pints, he said.

terms are. They are designed to keep small animals alive in future satellites. There is no animal in Discoverer II.

Regardless of the outcome of the recovery attempt, spokesmen said they were "glad by the second successful orbit in the Discoverer series. Discoverer I, fired Feb. 28, circled the earth 17 days before falling back into the atmosphere and burning up."

No attempt was made to recover any part of Discoverer I. Seven hours after Monday's launch spokesmen announced the satellite was whirling around the earth north-to-south every 90.84 minutes. Its path from pole to pole took it as far out as 243 miles and brought it as close as 156 miles. It was traveling 17,433.8 miles per hour.

ALOFT 30 DAYS

With this orbital pattern established by tracking stations in Alaska, Hawaii and Vandenberg, the satellite is expected to remain aloft at least 30 days. It will continue sending radio beacon signals during its lifetime.

Future Discoverers will carry mice and monkeys into orbit to test the hazards man will meet in space travel.

The Discoverer II capsule, although only 27 by 33 inches, is remarkably similar in function to the capsule planned for Project Mercury which is expected to bring a man back from orbit some two years hence.

Eventually, controlled-environment capsules such as this may be the vehicles technicians will use to descend from large communications and weather-observing satellites.

The Vanguard failure in Florida was the seventh in nine tries for that type rocket. If it had behaved as planned, the second stage would have boosted the satellite payload up to 9,000 miles an hour before separation of the units. Signals were received by three tracking stations for about seven minutes before the trouble developed.

Woman Mayor Pro Tem First Time in City History

BIRMINGHAM — There's a "first" coming soon for the Birmingham City Commission — a night when "Madam Mayor" will be the proper way to address the chair.

Commissioner Florence Willett was named mayor pro tem to serve during any absence of the newly elected mayor, Harry Denyes.

Her election to office was somewhat complicated by the absence of Commissioner William Burgum. The first ballot was a three-three tie for Mrs. Willett and Commissioner John O'Gorman. The second and third ballots saw each win a majority of commissioners present but not a majority of the entire body.

In the fourth ballot, Mrs. Willett received four votes, giving her the office.

Both Denyes and Mrs. Willett first took office as commissioners in April 1955. They've held their posts since then. Denyes served as mayor pro tem last year.

An extension of time was granted Burgum who is vacationing. The city charter states that candidates must be sworn in within 10 days of their election.

Luther Heacock, David Levinson, Hope Lewis and Carl Ingraham were re-appointed to the county Board of Supervisors. Charles Kentrow was named to continue on the city's Retirement Board.

Commissioners told Carleton Patterson Jr. that finances make any change in the Baldwin Library extension plans impossible.

Patterson, in a letter to commissioners, had suggested a branch library rather than an attached modern wing to the present building. He said he felt the two architectural designs would be incompatible and would spoil the looks of the overall Civic Center.

He was assured that everything possible is being done to make a pleasant blend of the old and new

Mrs. William D. Brawner Service for Mrs. William D. (Meta) Brawner, 63, of 2248 W. Lincoln Ave. will be at 1 p.m. Thursday from the Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co. Burial will be in Clinton Grove Cemetery, Mount Clemens.

Series Planned on Investments

Jaycees Sponsor Six Public Lectures About Financial Problems

Herbert Hunter, a Detroit stock and bond expert, will be the kick-off speaker Monday in a six-session lecture series on investments and securities, sponsored thereafter on Tuesday night, April 28-May 26, by the Pontiac Area Junior Chamber of Commerce.

"This is the first time Pontiac Jaycees have sponsored a series like this, and I'm sure it will prove a great interest to all Jaycee members, as well as the public," says Clyde R. Haskill, Jaycee president.

Hunter is a partner in the firm of Watling, Lerchen & Co. His topic will be, "Why Stocks and Bonds?"

A graduate of Olivet College and University of Michigan School of Business Administration, Hunter is past president of the Financial Analysts Society of Detroit. He is vice chairman of the Michigan Group of the Investment Bankers Assn. of America and chairman of the Investors Information Program of Detroit.

Other speakers include: April 28—Philip F. McLellan, president, Massachusetts Life Fund, Boston; May 5—George A. Nicholson Jr., head of Investment Advisory Dept., Smith Hogue & Co., Detroit; May 12—Paul Richmond, partner, Watling, Lerchen & Co., Detroit; May 19—Wilford J. Eltemann, professor of finance, University of Michigan School of Business Administration; and May 26—David L. Babson, of the David L. Babson and Company, Inc., Boston.

All programs will begin at 8 p.m. at Pontiac Northern High School.

Discoverer II Hurdled Into Polar Orbit

terms are. They are designed to keep small animals alive in future satellites. There is no animal in Discoverer II.

Regardless of the outcome of the recovery attempt, spokesmen said they were "glad by the second successful orbit in the Discoverer series. Discoverer I, fired Feb. 28, circled the earth 17 days before falling back into the atmosphere and burning up."

No attempt was made to recover any part of Discoverer I. Seven hours after Monday's launch spokesmen announced the satellite was whirling around the earth north-to-south every 90.84 minutes. Its path from pole to pole took it as far out as 243 miles and brought it as close as 156 miles. It was traveling 17,433.8 miles per hour.

ALOFT 30 DAYS

With this orbital pattern established by tracking stations in Alaska, Hawaii and Vandenberg, the satellite is expected to remain aloft at least 30 days. It will continue sending radio beacon signals during its lifetime.

Future Discoverers will carry mice and monkeys into orbit to test the hazards man will meet in space travel.

The Discoverer II capsule, although only 27 by 33 inches, is remarkably similar in function to the capsule planned for Project Mercury which is expected to bring a man back from orbit some two years hence.

Eventually, controlled-environment capsules such as this may be the vehicles technicians will use to descend from large communications and weather-observing satellites.

The Vanguard failure in Florida was the seventh in nine tries for that type rocket. If it had behaved as planned, the second stage would have boosted the satellite payload up to 9,000 miles an hour before separation of the units. Signals were received by three tracking stations for about seven minutes before the trouble developed.

There are enough miles of roads and streets in the United States to girdle the globe 127 times! Live better by far with a brand new car.

Electronic Devices Getting as Complex and Compact as Human Brain

NEW YORK (UPI)—A decade ago you might have laughed at predictions that someday electronic devices would be almost as complex and compact as the human brain.

But that day is fast arriving as industry steps up its expenditure of time and money in an effort to achieve miniaturization in electronics.

A radio the size of a lump of sugar has been produced by compressing electronic parts into tiny micromodules only a third of an inch on each side.

A new type miniature device for computers so compact that up to 100 million might be crammed into one cubic foot has been described as an important step toward making electronic equipment as compact as the human brain.

Dramatic advances in miniaturization already have been achieved, especially in military applications of electronics. But industry leaders say greater things are in the offing.

These advances, says President John L. Burns of Radio Corp. of America, "have led to a vast array of new devices that ultimately will provide improved products for the home."

Burns says one laboratory model utilizes a one-half inch strip of germanium that promises to perform functions that now require a circuit arrangement of 80 separate components.

Scores of companies, including General Electric, Westinghouse, IBM, Bell Laboratories, Raytheon and Texas Instruments, are active in the field, attesting to the fact that the art of making electronic devices smaller and smaller has become a big business.

Up to now, military requirements have been largely responsible for the big trend toward smallness in electronics. The importance attached to reducing weight in space vehicles, for example, stems from the fact that it takes between 500 and 1,000 pounds at lift-off to place one pound in orbit.

It is not unusual today for a missile to have an entire guidance system—equal to five TV sets—squeezed into a space six-by-10 inches.

Remember the 40-pound combat radio of World War II? It now weighs 15 pounds and the goal is a five-pound set.

The secret of miniaturization revolves around the printed or "sealed" circuit and the revolutionary new "micromodule" concept.

The extensive use of printed circuits has contributed importantly to compactness and ruggedness. These thin plastic panels, on which a wiring diagram is permanently printed, eliminate the soldered wire mazes of a few years ago. They take up only a fraction of the space required by ordinary wired circuitry.

The "micromodule" concept transforms basic electronic elements such as transistors, capacitors and resistors into tiny sandwiches of uniform size and shape. These micro-elements are assembled into small modules, or building blocks, which can be grouped into complete operating circuits.

Engineers are planning to pack as many as 750,000 components into one cubic foot of space.

Scientists say these two developments—printed circuits and micromodules—promise to reduce military electronic items to one-tenth—and in some cases to as little as one-thousandth—their present bulk.

Someday, they add, tiny electronic packages will automatically guide your automobile down electronic highways.

Film Pioneer Griffith Wanted to Be a Writer

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The tragic saga of D. W. Griffith is being recalled here with the publication of the first biography of the film pioneer.

Veteran writer Homer Croy has turned out an engrossing study of the late director, called "Star Maker." The title doesn't seem apt. Certainly Griffith did discover and develop a large number of movie greats. But his big achievement was in developing film technique.

He was the great innovator, the man who elevated films into a story-telling medium. It was he who discovered most of the camera techniques which are used today.

The Croy book is filled with excellent detail on the nature of Griffith's peculiar genius. We learn that the director invented the closeup during the filming of "For the Love of Gold" in 1909.

The story, stolen from a Jack London tome, dealt with two Alaskan thieves who distrusted each other. The climax depended on that the thieves were thinking. Until then, thought had been expressed on the screen via "dream balloons," double exposures that showed what was going on in the actor's mind.

Griffith moved the camera in to show the expressions on the actors' faces. The idea was revolutionary.

The business office was shocked. The bosses at Biograph protested when he paid $100 to Helen Hunt Jackson for rights to shoot "Ramona" in 1910. The studio previously had paid $5 or $10 for stories or else stole them outright.

Griffith once had a fierce battle with feisty little Mary Pickford when she was doing "To Save Her Soul" with him. This was a stark drama about a wronged girl. Mary was having trouble getting into the mood and Griffith finally shook her, exclaiming, "What's the matter with you? Can't you play it with feeling?"

Just 3 Little Words, Ike Tells Women

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has singled out three words which he says Republicans are proud of—thrift, frugality and efficiency.

"Whenever you apply these words to federal activities and spending, Americans will listen to you attentively, because today everybody knows that everybody pays additional taxes for political extravagance," the President told an audience of Republican women Monday night.

He also had some political advice for the seventh annual Republican Women's Conference, holding a four-day meeting here.

Noting that the nation has more registered Democrats than Republicans, Eisenhower said, "We Republicans need simply to work twice as hard."

Eisenhower said jokingly that he has never been accused of being a master politician. But he said he has learned that women voters outnumber men and if the GOP women get out the vote as they did for him in 1952 and 1956, "the results again will be victory."

Detroit Detective Jailed for Robbery

DETROIT (AP)—Richard Bargar, a private detective who said he held up a savings and loan association office to get money for his sick wife and baby daughter, yesterday was sentenced to a 10 year federal prison term in U.S. District Court.

Bargar was convicted of robbing the Surety Savings and Loan Assn. of $1,096 last March 3. He was arrested minutes later in a bar where he had been followed by a bank customer who then called police.

Bargar said he committed the robbery because he had not worked for several months, and "I was desperate."

Kennedy Bill Gets Backing

Majority of Senate Labor Committee Says It'll Do the Job

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Labor Committee majority said today the Kennedy labor bill would provide effective remedies for labor and management evils without weakening the bargaining position of honestly run unions.

The majority report said the bill represents "a major attack on the abuses and problems identified by recent investigations" such as that of the Senate Labor-Management Committee.

But it went on, "no bill in the committee's view can be written which will close completely the many avenues which the criminal can devise to carry on his nefarious activity, without at the same time wrecking important institutions, violating cardinal precepts of law and undermining the principles upon which a free society is based."

The report was made public by Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), chief sponsor of the bill. It is expected to be filed later today. Minority views also will be filed by Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.).

Senate debate on the measure will start Wednesday or Thursday.

In a separate statement, Kennedy said the bill was "a potent weapon for driving out of both labor and management the venal, selfish and criminal elements which have preyed on honest working men and their employers."

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.) joined Goldwater in voting against approving the bill in committee.

The measure would require detailed public financial accounting by unions, specify that they must hold periodic secret ballot elections and limit terms of officers, place controls on trusteeships by international unions over locals, and ban persons convicted of major crimes from serving as union officials for prescribed periods.

It also would require public reporting by employers on sums spent to influence workers on

Want to Talk

Treat Him Tenderly

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

A man must have someone to talk to. Now that sounds silly! A man is away from home all day long, surrounded by people with whom he talks; AND, when I suggest that a man should be able to talk to his wife more often, that sounds even crazier because most of the complaints I get from women about their husbands are similar to the following: "He just comes home, reads the newspaper, looks at television or goes right to sleep with no conversation at all."

There are certainly two sides to this question. It is far from ideal when the wife spends almost every day at home, with only the companionship of young children, and then has no companionship with her husband during the evenings. This sort of situation, over a long period, can change a normally happy woman into a sensitive, neurotic one, with resulting fatigue and even illness.

However, this is men's week in "Why Grow Old?" so I would like to paint the picture today from the man's viewpoint. When I say that a man should be able to and should have the opportunity to talk with his wife more often I am not thinking of chit chat.

I am thinking that a man needs someone to talk to about his discouragements, about his dreams, about the everyday problems at work — someone with an understanding ear and time to listen.

"Time to listen" is the most difficult factor to snag in a household bursting with children or even with one child. I believe that fundamentally most women would love nothing better than to be trusted with the doubts and even the failures of the men they love as well as with their successes and plans.

Many a time many a man would like to talk to his wife but she is too occupied with the children or her household chores or her own problems or just plain fatigue. Because we women think of men as strong and practically indestructible, because we lean on them for protection and security and guidance, we may sometimes forget that they, too, have their discouragements and their weariness, that they also need emotional protection and reinforcement, which only the women they love can provide for them. They surely will not get it from the outside world.

One theory as to why men die faster and sooner than women is that they have no safety valves. For instance, women have tears but men must at all times appear strong and rugged. Doctor Lemuel C. McGee of Wilmington, Delaware said, "The American male has been indoctrinated with the philosophy that he must live, work and play at a dizzy pace; that he can and should wade through all emotional and physical situations without flinching and without reflection."

Men are not indestructible. They need your tenderness and warmth and time for you to listen. If this means putting the children to bed an hour or so earlier, it will be good for their health and also for your relationship. I am often amazed when I see children who should be in bed at seven, any way, remaining on the scene until nine and nine-thirty, completely ruining any chance for companionship a husband and wife might have had.

Tomorrow: "The Men Are Having Their Day in Fashions."

Hair Style Showed Status in Society

Men and women of all countries, in all times, have signalled their marital, social and financial status by the way they wore their hair. In the early days of America, Indian maidens of every tribe changed coiffures as they passed from girlhood to squawhood to motherhood.

This ritual of changing hair style, especially of shearing off the hair, was known throughout the ancient Mediterranean world, especially in ancient Israel, Assyria, Persia, Turkey, etc. It is still practiced today in many areas of the world.

Central Church WSCS Units Meet

Eleven circles of the Women's Society of Christian Service at Central Methodist Church met during the past week.

Mrs. Russell Vessells of East Iroquois road entertained the Etha Nagler Circle with a smorgasbord. Mrs. Lester McClellan Jr. participated in the meeting.

The Martha Graf Circle met with Mrs. John Wilson of Fernbarry drive. Dr. Milton H. Bank spoke on "The Ecumenical Movement." Mrs. Bank was a guest.

The home of Mrs. Jack Voss on Kuhn road was opened to the Ada Duhigg Circle. Mrs. Dorothy Hatfield of East Hammond Lake road was hostess to the Barbara Norris Circle.

LUNCHEON HELD

A cooperative luncheon was held when Margaret Johnston Circle met with Mrs. Roy Kibbie on Squirrel road. A dessert luncheon was featured at a meeting of the Marion Shaw Circle with Mrs. George Dietrich of Preston street.

Gathering at the church for a cooperative luncheon were members of the Otto Sisters Circle. Mrs. A. O. Carner served a dessert luncheon to the Leora Shank Circle at her home on Rosedale street.

Hostess to the Sarah English Circle was Mrs. Ralph Clingamen of Pine Heights drive. A dessert luncheon was served.

Concluding the list are the Ortha Lane Circle, whose members met with Mrs. D. R. Kibbie on Dover road, and the Jean Bagnall Circle's meeting at the home of Mrs. John McConnell on Pine Lake road.

Janette Geiger Circle will meet Thursday at the home of Mrs. Ruby Austin on Pioneer drive for a dessert luncheon.

Oakland PTA Conference Set

"Let's Learn Together—PTA Techniques," will be the theme of the annual spring conference of District 7 of Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers on April 15.

The conference, designed to give more than 55,000 members in Oakland County an opportunity to learn more about how PTA works, will be held at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday at Lamphere High School on Tawas street, north of 12 Mile road, Madison Heights.

Registrations and exhibits—for which the 239 local units and 17 councils are requested to bring their history and procedure books for display—will begin at 7:30 p. m.

25 WORKSHOP GROUPS

Following registration, the general meeting will be held with workshops set up in different rooms for 25 different groups. These workshops will present all phases of PTA work and will be led by state and county persons who are leaders in their fields.

Mrs. Charles Neldrott, state president of Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers, will direct a workshop, and state vice-president Otto Yntema will head the "cracker barrel" session on questions asked by the workshop members.

Mayor Accepts Tax Position

One of Three Appointed to Allocations Board for Oakland County

Pontiac Mayor Philip E. Rowston has accepted an appointment to the Oakland County Tax Allocation Board for the fourth consecutive year.

The appointment was announced yesterday by Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore, who is required by state law to make three annual appointments to the board each spring.

James Gardner of Walled Lake and William J. Oliver of Southfield are the other two appointees this year.

Rowston is on the board as a representative of a large city; Gardner, supervisor of Commerce Township for many years, is serving as a citizen-at-large; and Oliver, treasurer of the Southfield School Board, was named by virtue of his position on a local school board.

Permanent members of the Tax Allocation Board by virtue of their positions with the county are William J. Emerson, Oakland County superintendent of schools; Charles A. Sparks, Oakland County treasurer; and Robert Y. Moore, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Auditors.

The tax board will begin hearings next month to allocate the 15-mill county tax among the various townships and school districts.

Trick Is Battling Return to Michigan

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Alleged gambler Russell Trick is fighting extradition to River Rouge, Mich., on charges of conspiracy to bribe three police officers in an alleged numbers racket.

Trick testified yesterday he could not legally be returned because he had been granted immunity by a Wayne County, Mich. grand jury which questioned him about alleged payoffs of the mayor and police chief of Ecorse, Mich.

Trick also contended the charges were barred by the statute of limitations, that the legal papers sent here charged a misdemeanor instead of a felony, and that he had not been properly notified of the charges.

Jackson Circuit Judge, Defeated, Kills Self

JACKSON (AP)—Veteran Jackson County Circuit Judge Harry D. Boardman shot and killed himself at his home this morning. He was 68.

The judge had been defeated for re-election in last Monday's election.

Coroner Edward Montgomery said Boardman shot himself with a 16 gauge double barrel shotgun. No notes were found. The coroner said Mrs. Boardman heard the shot and called sheriff's deputies.
