Sheath of Snow Encases Upstate New York

Motorist Finds Tough Sledding

AP Facsimile

PILED HIGH — Scenes like this were common in parts of New York state after up to a foot of wind-whipped snow fell, bringing depths of up to 34 inches and drifts as high as 15 feet. This motorist in Eden, south of Buffalo, found the snow piled higher than his car and the driveway clogged by the latest fall. Some roads, including the New York Thruway which runs between Albany and Buffalo, were closed for a few hours by huge drifts and zero visibility.

Hart Makes Bid for Senate Seat

LANSING (AP) — Lt. Gov. Philip A. Hart, 45, of Birmingham, today formally bid as a Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate seat of Republican Sen. Charles E. Potter.

The long expected announcement, at a news conference in his office, undoubtedly heralds an early declaration by Gov. Williams for an unprecedented sixth term as governor. Both Hart and Williams probably will have clear fields in the Aug. 5 primary paving the way for the Nov. 4 general election.

Hart, now rounding out a second term as lieutenant governor, launched his political career in 1949 as a Williams appointee to the Office of State Corporation and Securities Commissioner, and has been in Williams' political shadow ever since.

Hart declared the people have been "disillusioned and disappointed" by national Republican administration failures.

"They have promised too many happy endings at low cost; they have not told the hard truths without which a free people cannot un-

Beck May Lose Free Lodgings

Report Teamsters Seek to Repossess Lavish Union-Owned Home

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Teamsters Union bosses today were reported considering repossessing the lavish union-owned home that Dave Beck, the union's ex-president, occupies in Seattle, Wash.

This is one of several "cleanup moves" reported due for discussion by Beck's successor, James R. Hoffa and other Teamsters chiefs gathered here for an executive board meeting.

Beck was due here to plead against taking away his free lodgings.

The AFL-CIO also today called for an emergency pump-priming of the federal-state unemployment system to boost benefits to an estimated 4½ million jobless workers.

WOULD UP BENEFITS

Saying both the present level of benefits and their duration is inadequate, the labor chiefs urged Congress to more than double present benefits and extend their duration to a maximum of 39 weeks.

The Teamsters, largest U. S. union with 1,400,000 members, were expelled from the AFL-CIO

Other Parts of Nation Reel as Storms Claim 14 More Victims

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A huge sheath of snow encased upstate New York today, imprisoning farmers, stifling cities and strangling highway travel.

Vast wind-whipped plumes of snow blinded rescue forces, snuffed out at least 13 lives and erected towering dunes that sealed off countless hundreds of motorists.

The weather bureau said the blizzard would continue in some parts of the state today, particularly in the Great Lakes area.

The 275-mile stretch of the state thruway from Albany to Buffalo was opened again to traffic.

Syracuse and Utica, prostrate under the three-day fall of snow, proclaimed emergency measures.

Syracuse had 34 inches of snow on the ground, including 12½ inches that fell yesterday. The Weather Bureau said it was the worst storm there since 1925. More was forecast.

Zero temperatures emptied the streets, closed schools and left office buildings deserted.

Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Batavia, Rochester, Elmira and Jamestown, in the western part of the state, were buffeted by blizzard-like conditions but managed to keep streets open. Just beyond the suburbs, however, great veils of snow formed 15-foot drifts that staggered snow plows.

MOTORISTS STRANDED

Small knots of piled-up cars dotted the state. Motorists banded together for food and warmth. Some were lucky enough to make marooned farm houses or hotel hearths.

Near Frewsburg, in the southwestern part of the state, a motorist was rescued after his car had been stranded for 12 hours in a drift. He was only 300 feet from a farmhouse but was unable to see it through the blowing snow.

Thirty boys and girls from Syracuse were snowbound in a camp about 15 miles southeast of the city. Leaders of the group made their way out by bulldozer and obtained food for the youngsters.

In Oneida, cots, blankets and sandwiches were provided in the state armory for dazed travelers.

Boy Scouts to Take Over

Run Pontiac Tomorrow

A new administration will take over Pontiac Tuesday.

The new office holders will make a clean sweep of top city positions and "on their honor will do their best to do their duty to God and country."

The new administration, all Boy Scouts, will be headed by Ronald Card, of Troop 29, who was named city manager. He won the post in a city-wide election among scouts.

Presiding in the municipal courts will be Donald Flowers, of Troop 64, and Don Wapley, of Troop 7.

Scout city commissioners will meet to elect a mayor and will follow an agenda prepared by City Manager Walter K. Willman.

The commissioners will be Ted Barrett, of Troop 7; Ed Chamberlain and Mike Morris, of Troop 20; Worley Smith, of Troop 5; Rick Serwin and Van LeCore, of Troop 244, and Dan McGeen, of Troop 29.

The "take over" at City Hall is part of the observance of Boy Scout Week which opened yesterday.

With TV at Work

Farmers' Utopia

WASHINGTON (INS) — A farm industry official predicted today that by 1980 farmers will be plowing, cultivating, seeding and fertilizing at the same time—with the aid of closed-circuit television.

Cows will be milked by machines that guide them into their stalls, wash the udders, and record the yield automatically.

Such devices will bring vast changes in farm production, according to Dr. F. J. Greaney, former president of the Agricultural Institute of Canada, and also will give farmers themselves a new look.

Writing in "Foreign Agriculture," Greaney said that 22 years from now the farmer will have to be a first-rate electronics technician just to keep his farm running.

Greaney said: "Our task then is in the field of agricultural education. We must provide young farmers with the technical know-how so that they can use the improved equipment, and with management know-how so they can make the best of their resources."

Electronic equipment, according to Greaney, will preserve meats, control sex in livestock, and do much of the farmer's thinking for him.

A SIT-DOWN JOB

With television, for example, the farmer could sit in a chair and direct by remote control four tractors in different jobs in four fields.

The electronic milker he describes is even more futuristic. This machine would:

—Guide the cow into the milking stall as the previous cow is automatically released;

—Wash the udders and dry them with hot air;

—Identify the cow by a code branded on her rump;

—Release the correct ration into the trough;

—Record the milk yield automatically; and —Open the door of the milking stall and release the cow when milking is finished.

The farmer would have to take the electronic milking clusters on and off—nobody's imagined a practical machine to do that—and keep the machines in order.

Greaney admits the electronic milker may seem impossible, but he asks: Who would have predicted 15 years ago that we would be killing weeds with chemicals?

Intruder in Birmingham Cuts Phone Wires, Tries to Enter Home

Police and neighbors today are praising the courage and fortitude of a 15-year-old babysitter who stayed on the job after a masked burglar had cut telephone wires and attempted to enter a home in Birmingham around midnight Saturday.

Nancy Hope, Birmingham High School junior, was watching the four children of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard J. Quart of 1200 Pilgrim.

It was close to midnight, Nancy told police, when the doorbell rang. "I thought it was too early for the Quarts to come home so I peeked out the door window and flipped on the porch light," she said.

Standing on the porch was a red-haired youth wearing two masks.

She ran to the kitchen phone, only to find it dead. She tried the bedroom phone and it wouldn't work either.

She went to the kitchen, got a big knife and kept vigil for an hour and a half until the Quarts came home.

The presence of the family dog, Zany, helped her through the ordeal, she said.

Quart said, "The girl is a real gem. I can't say enough in praise of her."

Police said the telephone wires had been cut and a garage window opened.

Flint Boy, 13, 'Chutes Frigid 2,500 Feet

SAGINAW (INS) — A 13-year-old Flint boy today was in the running for the title as Michigan's youngest parachute jumper after he braved a cold 30-mile wind to jump 2,500 feet from a plane on his first try.

Mike Lussier landed at James Municipal Airport in Saginaw yesterday to qualify as the ninth member of the Michigan parachute team. His brother, Art, 20, a former Army paratrooper, had instructed him on the technique of jumping.

Mike made his jump in 15 above zero weather and was dragged head over heels in crusted snow by gusty winds as he landed. He came up smiling however,, declaring:

"Wish I could jump again today. I wasn't afraid a minute."

Ann Hart to Go Home

DETROIT (AP) — Ann Hart, 10-year-old daughter of Lt. Gov. Philip A. Hart, is expected to be released from St. John's Hospital in a few days following her leg surgery. Ann, a victim of polio, was operated on last week in an effort to improve the condition of her right leg. The leg has been crippled from the disease. Ann was stricken with polio in 1954. Doctors said it is too early to tell the results of the surgery.

Be it resolved that the medical staff of the Pontiac General Hospital does hereby express its disapproval of the public statements and actions of Neil H. Sullenberger, M. Sullenberger, M. D., on behalf of the Board of Trustees and his handling of the events arising therefrom, and

Be it further resolved that the medical staff reaffirms its unequivocal support of the board of trustees, and the executive committee of the staff, and agrees that such action was necessary and unavoidable in the exercise of the moral and legal responsibilities of the board of trustees in protecting the best interest and safety of the patients using the hospital.

Say Keego Man Beat Girl, 10

Szumowski, Former Boxer, Charged With Wielding Razor Strap

A former amateur boxer is being held by Keego Harbor police on charges of beating his 10-year-old stepdaughter.

Chief Richard Hurtubise, of Keego, said the girl's entire back was "one mass of black and blue marks" inflicted by a razor strap 30 inches long and four inches wide.

The chief said Frank Szumowski Jr., 25, of 2066 Willow Beach, Keego Harbor, beat his stepdaughter, Diane Dubube, with the strap when she denied her father had been to the house to visit her.

The beating, he said, occurred Wednesday night, but was unknown to police until Friday when Szumonski was arrested for the Detroit police.

Thursday morning his wife, Dorothy, 23, took her daughter and her two sons by a first marriage, Randy Brock, 7, and Grant Brock, 5, to her parents' home in Detroit.

Friday, Szumowski showed up at the parents' home and threatened them with a .45 caliber automatic, they reported to Detroit

The mercury plumeted to a teeth-chattering zero Sunday morning for the coldest reading that has gripped the Pontiac area so far this winter.

And you might as well keep the furnace stoked up and check that anti-freeze, as the Weather Bureau says the mercury will continue to hover around the zero mark.

Some relief was promised during the day as the bureau predicted a range from 16 to 20 degrees for Tuesday. Tonight's low is predicted from 4 above to zero.

The reading of zero was recorded at the Pontiac State Hospital at 7:30 a.m. yesterday. Up to only a still-frigid 4 above was the downtown reading Sunday morning at 8.

Gertie the Egg Plant Has No Cause to Stew

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Gertie, a 2-year-old hen, was scheduled this week to become the ingredient of a dish of chicken and dumplings.

But that was before the spry girl produced four eggs Thursday, two more Friday, and still another on Saturday—a short working day for most everybody.

But Gertie did it — and then crowed like a rooster to celebrate the production feat of the perfectly normal eggs. So Guy Forti, 7, says he'll just keep his one-chicken egg plant.

Making 'Voyage' in Texas

First Man Braves Space

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Man's chances to conquer outer space were on trial today by a blond airman in a narrow steel cabinet at Randolph Air Force Base.

Airman Donald G. Farrell, 23, a six-footer from the Bronx, squeezed into a 3-by-5-foot metal space cabinet yesterday morning at the School of Space Medicine for one of the most fantastic voyages in history.

For six full days he will pretend—both physically and psychologically—that he is aboard a space rocket headed for the moon.

Next Saturday morning—if everything goes well—he will climb from the instrument-jammed space barrel a weary but unharmed veteran of the mysteries of space travel.

As he climbed into the space cabin, Farrell commented calmly, "Well, here goes."

ALL WIRED UP

The 185-pound guinea pig wore a pair of light blue, loose-fitting hospital pajamas plus several pounds of wire taped to various parts of his body to relay his physical condition constantly to scientists outside the steel cubicle.

The same air inside the cabin is being used over and over with chemicals removing carbon dioxide and new oxygen being added.

The heat inside the cabin is kept at 85 degrees or lower. Explorer, the first U. S. satellite, has radioed that its interior is around 85 degrees.

All Farrell's food for the six-day trip is inside the cabin. Most of it is in concentrated and dehydrated forms. An electrically heated cup near one elbow will furnish hot soup.

Moisture from his breath, perspiration and other waste moisture is purified for reuse as drinking water. Other wastes are taken care of chemically. He can push a button and deodorize his space cabinet. Another button increases or decreases the humidity.

TV INSTRUCTIONS

At carefully scheduled intervals the experts outside the cabin flash instructions to Farrell on a television screen a few inches before his eyes.

He may be asked to twiddle his thumbs to test muscular reactions or he may be given a complicated problem in working the controls of his make-believe space ship.

A portable TV camera inside the cabin relays all Farrell's movements to monitor sets outside. In an emergency, coverings could be ripped off the portholes and Farrell could be seen directly through thick glass windows.

In moments of relaxation he hears hi-fi music piped into the cabin from a special selection of records.

The airman got the job because of his quick reactions to other scientific space tests.

Airman Farrell is 23, weighs 185, has hazel eyes, and is unmarried.

Battle Looms on Civil Rights

House Fight Over Fund for Commission Catches Members Off Guard

WASHINGTON (AP) — An unheralded civil rights fight moved to the House floor today, threatening to catch many absent members off guard.

It involves financing for the six-member Civil Rights Commission and its staff created by the controversial 1957 civil rights law.

The fight could delay action on this year's first regular money bill, to finance the White House and general government matters.

Meanwhile, thirteen senators joined today in proposing a bill designed to encourage racial integration of schools, but to compel compliance with Supreme Court rulings in that field if necessary.

Many House members, anticipating no controversy on the commission financing, had arranged to be out of the city for Lincoln Day speeches and other matters.

President Eisenhower has asked Congress to provide $200,000 for the commission's current year activities and $750,000 for its fiscal year 1959 work starting next July 1.

The House Appropriations Committee excluded the $750,000 from a money bill which comes up for a possible vote today. It indicated that it would take a dim view of the $200,000 request unless the commission is more firmly established.

The committee noted in a formal request that the two money requests were "prepared by persons not associated with the commission," and cited the fact that a staff director has not yet been appointed.

Upstate New York Smothered in Snow

the country was blamed for 14 additional deaths, making a total of 27. Deaths resulted from traffic accidents on snow-covered or icy highways and from heart attacks while shoveling snow.

Stormy weather also pounded the New England area, where seven deaths were reported.

Snow, freezing rain or drizzle mixed with sleet created hazardous driving conditions in northern Texas, Oklahoma and southwest Kansas. Oklahoma reported seven deaths in traffic accidents on icy roads.

A winter chill still clung to Florida today with little immediate prospect of relief.

Know the Weather

By E. H. SIMS

When will the tornado season begin? How large do tornadoes grow?

The tornado season will come in with spring, which is not too far away, generally speaking. But it will arrive earlier in the southerly sections of the country than in more northerly latitudes.

Tornadoes, though they are highly destructive, are the smallest of the major storms, so to speak. Usually they are less than a mile in diameter. They seldom expand to two miles, and such a tornado is an exceptional occurrence.

These small storms do not move fast. They can be observed in daylight and outdistanced in a car, by those seeking to avoid them. At night it is almost impossible to track them, partly because they bounce up and down over the countryside, touching down every so often, at unpredictable places.

Usually the movement, forward, of these small storms is about twenty or thirty miles an hour.

Nixon Believes:

Biggest Russian Threat Now Internal Penetration

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON (INS)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon warned today that America's greatest danger is "not war, but losing to Russia without a war."

Nixon said he is so convinced of the Soviet propaganda peril that he believes Congress—instead of cutting President Eisenhower's billion-dollar request for foreign aid and the U. S. Information Agency—should actually increase it.

"The amount should be more than the administration requested, if we are to do the job adequately," he said in an informal chat. "What we need is a modern Paul Revere to alert our countrymen to the real danger."

Nixon said he fears history will "look back on this period and record that we were properly alert to the military danger, but not adequately aware of the far greater peril of Soviet non-military penetration."

"Because my experience has differed from others here in Congress," he mused, "I know from first-hand experience how Communists operate. Even before my service on the House Unamerican Activities Committee, I had been a student of world Communism and the philosophies of Marx and Lenin. The Reds prefer the non-military type of aggression, and they are much more resourceful at it than we are."

Pointing out that most Soviet gains in the past 40 years have come through subversion and internal upheaval, rather than through military aggression across borders, he added:

"I'm perhaps more concerned about the danger than others would be, because my analysis of the Communist mind convinces me that the Soviets prefer propaganda-subversion to direct aggression."

Nixon, whose upcoming good-will tour of Europe will probably be postponed until fall, said he is aware of the waste and inefficiency in our USIA and foreign aid programs. He said this is due, however, to the fact that the field of foreign propaganda is new to us, and neither it nor economics is an exact science.

"But in the propaganda area where we are not as experienced as Russia, we face our greatest danger," he persisted. "We should concentrate our information program in Asia, Africa, the Near East and Latin America, because it is no longer needed in Western Europe."

On the question of a summit conference with Russian leaders, Nixon said he agrees wholeheartedly with Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles that talks must first be held at a lower level to determine areas of possible agreement.

"We should always be ready to talk, but only if talking can accomplish something," he declared. "Otherwise, a summit meeting could spread a false illusion of security for the free world."

Lt. Gov. Hart Bids for Sen. Potter's Job

dertake the hard burdens of world leadership," Hart said.

Domestically, he said, the economic welfare is threatened by "administrative attempts to weaken basic social programs.

"The Republican policies," he said, "have squeezed farmers and small businessmen, restricting credit and contributing to widespread unemployment and recession."

The place on the Democratic state ticket vacated by the lieutenant governor's bid for higher office is expected to be filled by Sen. John B. Swainson, 32, of Detroit, senate minority leader.

Hart made his first run for elective office in 1950 after brief service on the Corporation and Securities Commission.

He took on Republican Fred M. Alger Jr. for Secretary of State and lost by 195,000 votes while Williams was squeaking through to a second term by downing Harry F. Kelly.

After the defeat, he served again in appointive office as Director of the State Office of Price Stabilization, and in 1952 became U. S. Attorney for the Eastern District of Michigan.

In 1953, he became a legal adviser to Gov. Williams.

His second run for elective office in 1954, met success. Hart beat Clarence A. Reid, seeking reelection as lieutenant governor by 184,156 while Williams was smashing Republican Donald S. Leonard by 253,000 to win a fourth term as governor.

Hart was reelected in 1956, defeating Reid in a return match by 143,738 while Williams was trouncing Albert E. Cobo, the late Detroit mayor, by 290,000.

Hart, a native of Pennsylvania, went to Georgetown University in Washington, D. C., and took his law degree in 1937 at the University of Michigan, where he began his friendship with Williams. He was a year behind Williams in law school.

In 1941, he began a five-year wartime stint in the U.S. Army, taking part in the D-Day invasion of Europe in June, 1954. He was severely wounded by a mortar burst, and was hospitalized five months.

Hart returned later to the 4th Infantry Division, and was discharged in 1946 as a lieutenant colonel.

He married Jane C. Briggs, daughter of a Detroit industrialist. They have eight children, ranging in age from 10 years to seven months.

A quiet, boyish looking slender man of medium height, Hart is an accomplished speaker, and is known for his ready wit.

As lieutenant governor, his main job has been to preside over the Republican controlled senate.

He has often said his aim was to make the office, a kind of fifth wheel in state government, a full time job. To this end, he has served in many ways as a kind of deputy to the governor.

For the last year, perhaps in anticipation of the candidacy announced today, Hart has traveled the state widely, keeping speaking engagements in all sections.

Will Relay Concern to French

Ike, Dulles Confer on Tunisia Bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles conferred again today about the French bombing of a Tunisian frontier village. The United States has termed the episode profoundly disturbing.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said that Eisenhower had personally instructed Dulles to call in French Ambassador Herve Alphand Sunday and express American concern.

Hagerty said that additional information has not been received yet.

Eisenhower and Dulles were conferring at the White House when Hagerty made the statement to newsmen.

Asked about Eisenhower's personal reaction, Hagerty replied he believes the President's views were reflected in the statement of concern by the State Department yesterday.

Asked whether the United States is contemplating any action, Hagerty declined to go beyond his statement today and the one issued by the State Department Sunday.

In Paris diplomatic sources said today that France has told the United States steps would be considered to prevent any repetition of such incidents as Saturday's bombing of a Tunisian village in which 78 persons were killed and 84 wounded.

TO LAUNCH INQUIRY

These sources said the French Ministry secretary general, Louis Joxe, told U. S. Ambassador Amory Houghton, that the French Cabinet would consider such steps and would also launch an inquiry into how the incident took place.

The French official was described as being very disturbed by the incident at Sakiet Sidi Youssef.

He was reported to have told the United States that there were 16 incidents provoked by forces from the Tunisian side of the frontier in the period from November to December and another half a dozen such incidents in January.

No Heave-Ho for Schwartz

Counsel Stays With Probe

WASHINGTON (INS)—A House Subcommittee investigating alleged misconduct in the Federal Communications Commission voted today to keep its controversial chief counsel—at least temporarily.

Chairman Morgan Moulder (D-Mo.) told newsmen after a two-hour closed-door session that members refused to fire Bernard Schwartz depsite Moulder's own prediction Sunday that the counsel would be dismissed.

The vote to keep Schwartz apparently was 6 to 5. Moulder said it was not along party lines.

Moulder said the subcommittee also voted to request the appearance of Schwartz at an afternoon executive session where, he added, the issue of firing the counsel "probably would be revived again."

Schwartz was not present at this morning's session. The subcommittee previously had scheduled the afternoon meeting with Schwartz to enable the counsel to brief members on upcoming hearings.

Moulder, who stated he was satisfied with Schwartz's handling of the investigation, said he could not give any reason for the apparent change of attitude of other subcommittee members.

It had been almost a foregone conclusion that the [redacted] 34-year-old New York University law professor would be fired from the subcommittee job.

Moulder said in reply to questions that Schwartz has told him the subcommittee staff has evidence that presidential assistant Sherman Adams has interfered in cases before the FCC.

However, Moulder said he had "not personally seen" such evidence.

The chairman said he has been "frustrated and discouraged" in overcoming roadblocks thrown in the subcommittee's path but he denied reports that he had been threatened with any political reprisals.

Schwartz is charged by ex-officio subcommittee member Oren Harris (D.-Ark.), with using a travel voucher to move his furniture from New York to Washington — an illegal act, Harris says.

Schwartz, with Moulder's backing, denied he used the voucher improperly and said the Harris charges are a "classic example of a red herring." He admitted, however, that his chances of staying with the committee were very thin.

police. He demanded to know where his wife was, they said.

Detroit police immediately set up two road blocks but Szumowski eluded them by swapping cars with his twin brother who lives in Detroit.

They then contacted Keego Harbor police who arrested him at his home.

Chief Hurtubise said he found Szumowski at his downstairs neighbors trying to sell them his furniture. A search of his flat uncovered the gun behind a bathroom radiator. Two loaded clips were found in a jacket pocket and the holster was under his car seat, the chief said.

Mrs. Szumowski told the police that her husband had beaten her Monday and had struck the children many times. She said she and the two young boys had suffered partial loss of hearing from blows on the head by him.

An order for a warrant charging cruelty to a child was issued by James E. Roberts, assistant prosecuting attorney.

Chief Hurtubise said Szumowski, a welder, had boxed in his teens as an amateur middleweight. The couple has been married two years.

The Day in Birmingham

City Planner to Present Revised Zone Ordinance

BIRMINGHAM — City Planner Herbert Herzberg will present the revised zoning ordinance at the City commission meeting tonight and request a date be set for a public hearing.

The ordinance has been discussed at numerous meetings with commissioners and other official groups, and has had several informal public hearings. The changes have been recommended in an attempt to provide a more workable ordinance.

Herzberg also is presenting appeals for changes in the existing sign ordinance which will make it coincide more closely with the zoning ordinance. He said he will ask revisions of the open parking lot ordinance for the same reason.

The city planner pointed out that revisions in the zoning ordinance conflict in many points with the other two rules. He has asked clarification for the benefit of persons whom the ordinances concern.

Commissioners also will hear another appeal from Charles C. Currie asking the improvement of Southfield avenue. Currie, owner of the Baldwin Manor Apartment, said the broken pavement in front of his building creates noise disturbing to his tenants.

The North Suburban Alumni Association of Chi Omega will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday at the home of Mrs. Ronald J. Jenkins for their annual white elephant sale. The program also will include a review of the group's work by Mrs. Daniel W. Blough.

Beck Could Lose Union-Owned Home

two months ago on grounds of corrupt leadership.

Hoffa, now at the trucker union helm although one of those under criticism, was reported aiming at adapting a series of reforms looking toward re-entry into the federation.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, has made it clear, however, that Hoffa himself must forsake any top Teamsters post before the union will be taken back into the main body of organized labor.

Hoffa apparently hasn't the slightest idea of quitting.

Another move Hoffa and his advisers were reported considering is ouster of Frank W. Brewster as chairman of the Western Conference of Teamsters.

Brewster along with Beck and Hoffa were subject to Senate Rackets Committee disclosures last year. Brewster was replaced last October as an international vice president of the Teamsters, but he remained as the union's Western chief.

Beck sold the Seattle home he now occupies to the Teamsters for $163,000 under a deal under which he continued to live in it rent and tax free at union expense.

"Europe's Toy Countries"

Colored Motion Picture

What do you know about Monaco, Andorra, San Marino and Leichtenstein? Nicol Smith, a Californian and a Leland Stanford graduate, has some very interesting stories of these places for you.

Our own Grace Kelly has helped to focus much attention on Monaco recently. This, the world's smallest state, has much to offer any would-be traveler.

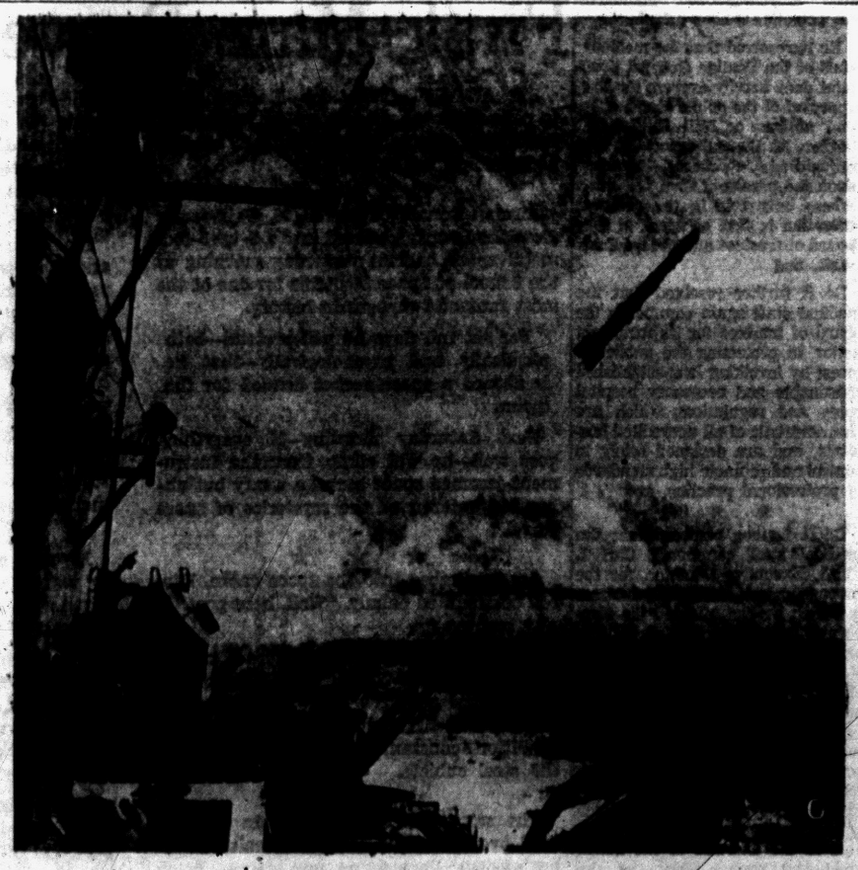

See Andorra with its sheep, its smugglers and its Mercedes-Benz cars, its shops filled with perfumes, champagne and laces cheaper than in France or Spain.

Interests in San Marino with its harbor and beach includes stone-cutters, curio shops, cattle fairs and its religious festivals. It derives much of its revenue by the sale of stamps to tourists.

Liechtenstein on the Rhine and at the foot of the Alps is another small country with interesting occupations and unusual manufacturing plus collections of famous paintings.

RAT'S AWAY — The Navy's new rocket-assisted torpedo, RAT, is on its way toward a simulated enemy underwater target after being test-fired from its turret-like launcher on the deck of a destroyer. RAT is propelled over the target area by rockets. Hal Boyle Says:

Woman Banker Sees Recession as Short

NEW YORK (AP) — If you can trust the feminine intuition and business judgment of one of America's top women bankers, the present recession will be short-lived.

"I'd rather call it a pause, anyway, than a recession," said Mrs. Mary Roebling, president of the Trenton Trust Co., in Trenton, N.J.

"Any country with the great resources we have—and the ability of its leaders—certainly will not permit a continuation of this present pause in its expansion.

"In the long pull, we are still the greatest nation in the world."

A firm optimism and faith in a growing future are part of the life credo of this sprightly 52-year-old widow, who thinks she is no less feminine because she can handle the details of a five-million-dollar bank loan as well as baste a roast or decorate her apartment.

Mrs. Roebling started her business career at 20 in the statistical department of a Philadelphia brokerage firm. Soon she was selling securities herself.

When her husband — wealthy Siegfried Roebling, member of the family that built the Brooklyn Bridge—died in 1935, she took his place as a member of the board of the Trenton Trust Co. Two years later she was elected president.

The bank then had assets of 17 million dollars. Today it has 70 million in assets, and has climbed to a rank among the top 350 of the nation's 14,700 banks.

Mrs. Roebling also is a director or trustee of 18 other corporations. She is reported to have an income of about a million dollars a year.

She prefers, however, to keep her financial affairs to herself, except to remark drily, "I balance my own checkbook."

An attractive redhead with greenish-blue eyes, Mrs. Roebling dresses chicly. This year she was picked by the Guild of Professional Beauticians as one of the country's "10 best-tressed" women, an honor that amused rather than overwhelmed her.

Some 65 per cent of the employes in her bank are women, but Mrs. Roebling says this figure only reflects a growing trend in the financial world.

"An increasing number of women are going into banking," she said, "because of the pleasant working conditions, the associations it brings, and because they are pre-eminently qualified for it.

"Women have the rarest commodity in the world, and one of the most valuable — common sense. I wouldn't say that men don't have it, too, but they certainly don't have a corner on the market."

Mrs. Roebling, who reared two children, says the frustrated career woman is largely a myth.

Will Devote Lifetime to Research

'Humble' About Cancer Grant

CHICAGO (AP) — A 34-year-old University of Chicago scientist says he is "pleased" and "humble" with a grant of more than half a million dollars by the American Cancer Society to devote his lifetime to cancer research.

"Naturally, I am pleased," said Dr. Paul Talalay, a German-born physician biochemist in commenting on the grant which will provide his annual salary at the university until he reaches retirement age.

"I also am humble, realizing the responsibilities that go with the honor. However, the whole idea is that the money will be given to the University of Chicago to support me and to pay my salary for special research.

"I wouldn't know what to do with half a million dollars and neither would you," he told a reporter.

Dr. Talalay, who has been doing research work in the activity of sex hormones and their enzymes, has been at the university since 1950. He received his medical degree from Yale University in 1948.

The grant, the largest ever made by the society to support the research of a single individual, represents a big part of the entire 11½ million dollars the society allocated throughout the nation for research in 1957.

Seek Attacker of 4 State Girls

One Man Already Held After Stabbing, Robbing in Chicago El Station

CHICAGO (AP)—Authorities today intensified a search for the companion of a knife-wielding teenager who slashed, robbed and held captive a student nurse and three hometown girl friends visiting Chicago.

One of the attackers was seized Sunday by a Chicago Transit Authority detective who heard the girls' screams in the lower landing of a West Side el station.

Police identified the attacker as Henry Marshall, 19, Negro. Marshall told police he came to Chicago from Vicksburg, Miss., a month ago.

Marshall identified his knife-weilding accomplice as Johnny Lee Trimble, also a Negro from Vicksburg.

The women were Miss Betty Kime, 24, a nurse in training from Grand Rapids, Mich., and her chums, Misses Anne Dykstra, 24, Jean Young, 21, and Grace Vruwink, 22.

FAIR CONDITION

Miss Kime and Miss Dykstra were stabbed and taken to the Cook County Hospital nurses' infirmary. They were reported in fair condition.

Miss Young suffered minor scraatches in her struggle with the two men.

CTA Detective Albert Nicpon, 57, who came to the aid of the four women, also was stabbed. He also was reported in fair condition.

The women told police that they were alighting at the Polk street station after attending a loop movie when they were confronted by the two attackers.

Police quoted the women as saying the two men forced them into the basement of the station where their purses were taken after a scuffle. Miss Kime said she lost $2.25.

HEARD SHOUTS

Making his rounds, Nicpon heard shouts and entered the station. Nicpon told police he was slashed by one of the assailants. Then, both men fled, Nicpon said.

Marshall was captured by two policemen as he was descending a girder of the station platform into a nearby parking lot. He was held without charge for questioning.

The Saar has 991 square miles and about one million people.

Plane Crashes Dodging Snow North of Niles

NILES (AP)—A small amphibian plane dodging an Indiana snow storm crashlanded in a field two miles north of here late yesterday. All three occupants escaped serious injury.

William Jellison, 36, of Hobart, Ind., owner and pilot; David Fisher, 28, of Gary, Ind.; and Jellison's son Ronald, 14, suffered shock and minor bruises.

Jellison told police he encountered a snow storm while flying from Elkhart, Ind., to Hobart. He said he tried to turn back but got off course and was running low on fuel when he arrived over Niles after dark.

After vainly trying to find a place to land, Jellison said he tried to set the craft down in a farmer's field. One wing struck a barn during the descent, spinning the craft around and dashing it to the ground.

Jellison said the place was purchased shortly before the flight. He estimated damages at $1,500.

'U.S. Could Shoot Moon Rockets in '58'

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Military missiles experts say the Army and the Air Force could shoot rockets as far as the moon this year.

Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, chief of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency at Huntsville, Ala., said the Army could put a satellite in orbit around the moon within months, if it got permission to try. Medaris also said on a television interview that the Army could send a manned expedition to the moon in 15 years.

Defense Department missiles specialists said the Air Force's 1,500-mile-range Thor missile could be augmented by additional rocket stages to send a payload to the moon this year. So far, the department has given no orders for such a try.

The payload in a moon rocket would include radio transmitters for sending back information on the flight and a spotter charge to mark the rocket's impact on the moon, the experts said.

Argentina Needs Tractor Plants

BUENOS AIRES — New tractor factories are to be encouraged by the Government of Argentina to supply the 100,000 tractors now urgently needed.

The Government also believes, however, that imports will be necessary to bridge the gap between now and the time new factories get into production.

This decision has been reached in the face of strong opposition from Argentine tractor manufacturers who, with their workers, have been flooding officials with petitions on the subject. There are about 45,000 tractor units now in operation in the entire country, it is estimated.

District in the Sticks Will Elect Bulganin

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Bulganin will stand for re-election to the Soviet Union's Parliament from a district out in the sticks instead of from his usual Moscow constituency.

In an open letter in Moscow papers yesterday, members of the Communist Party Central Committee listed the districts where they would run unopposed in the March 16 elections.

More than 100 districts asked for the honor of having Soviet party boss Nikita Khrushchev represent them. He picked the Kalinin district of Moscow for a seat in the Council of the Union, the more important of the two houses of the Supreme Soviet.

Ellis Island Goes Up for Sale Friday; Only 1 Mile From Teeming Manhattan

Ellis Island, the 27-acre crucible that poured millions of immigrants into America's melting pot, will be put on public sale by the federal government this week. Anybody want to buy a famous island in New York harbor complete with power plant, incinerator and a ferry boat?)

By ROBERT FARRINGTON

NEW YORK (AP) — The little man in the gray hat gazed dejectedly at the massive red buildings and the boarded up ferryboat through a haze of falling snow.

"If they gave it to you, it would cost yu millions to make any use of it," he said.

Then he and a handful of prospective buyers boarded a Coast Guard cutter and headed back to the crowded canyons of Manhattan. Behind them lay one of the most famous islands in the world and now the whitest elephant in the government's stable, Ellis Island.

Once the main center for immigration into the United States, the island in recent years has been used principally as a detention home for persons being deported. Maintenance costs drove the immigration service three years ago to close it up. The government first tried to interest other departments but found no takers. Now it's the public's turn to bid. Offers to buy it will be opened this Friday (Feb. 14).

It's an enticing prospect! An island only a mile off the tip of teeming Manhattan and a brisk swim from the shores of industrial New Jersey.

About three dozen big solid brick buildings sprawl over most of the island's 27½ acres. There is a complete power house, an incinerator, a water and sewer system adequate for several thousand persons, wharves, docks and cement sidewalks shaded by graceful old sycamores. And don't forget the ferryboat that goes with the island.

Proposals on what to do with Ellis Island are plentiful. The government hopefully suggests using it as an oil depot, or a warehouse or factory. State, city or federal use as an institution has been recommended. Private uses as an amusement park, a showcase of American manufacturing, a university, have all been mentioned.

The most persistent suggestion is for the government to use it to treat narcotics addicts.

Another suggestion is to turn it into an "ethnic museum" — a sort of monument to the millions of immigrants who helped build America.

There is also a question of title. Samuel Ellis considered the original land part of his New Jersey farm when he owned it back in revolutionary days. How New York State got title isn't clear but New York sold it for $10,000 to the infant federal government in 1808.

Actually, customers who poked around the island's endless rooms and corridors the other day spoke more kindly of New Jersey title than they did of New York title.

"If it's New Jersey's," said one, "You might be able to run something here. But New York? The taxes would "kill you before you started."

Own your own island, anyone?

To Remind Us of Its Manhood Building Work

This is National Boy Scout Week, celebrated over our entire nation, and in some foreign countries.

The Scout movement stands firmly upon its record. In its 43 years it has grown into the biggest youth organization in our land.

Since its organization, over ten million boys have used it as a stepping stone to wholesome lives. They're on the front battle line in fighting juvenile delinquency.

In this fight they have an ammunition that cannot be gainsaid. It is the court statistics throughout our land. They show mighty few names of former Boy Scouts.

A Pontiac judge of a half century's experience in jurisprudence says in the thousands of cases that have come before him, there is no record that any of them was a former Boy Scout.

Scouting gets under a juvenile skin in a manner that is truly marvelous. A lad will stand by the principles of the Scout oath against any and all temptations. He will work for his merit badges as he will work for nothing else.

The Pontiac area is in a rather unique position in Scouting. Our Clinton Valley Council, comprising most of the area of Oakland and Macomb Counties, including the cities of Pontiac and Mt. Clemens, is one of the few in the entire nation with such a diversified membership.

At the national annual Scout conventions we always are pointed out as an example of what can be done when our boys come from both city or village and also from rural homes.

With over 10,000 boys and grown-ups enjoying the benefits of active participation in Scouting, our Council is numbered among the strongest in the United States.

U. S. and Russia Agree On Cultural Exchange

The cultural exchange agreement reached in Washington between Russia's Ambassador ZAROUBIN and a special assistant to the State Department, W. S. B. LACY is a welcome if limited one.

It was carefully drawn and should tend to take some emphasis off the current dangerous military and economic rivalry between the two countries. Basically the agreement enlarges the present limited programs to exchange in two years films and radio-television broadcasts and some 500 artists, musicians, athletes and students as well as experts in education, industry and various other fields.

The three months of negotiations which brought the agreement was conducted without fanfare and with no headlined disagreements. However, only time will tell whether Russia fulfills the agreement in spirit as well as letter.

Russians who visit this country will realize that we don't want war with the Russian people. Already the few Americans who have visited the Soviet Union have found that the Russian people feel the same way.

On the eve of his departure for a reportedly better job in Moscow, Ambassador ZAROUBIN announced that he considers the exchange plan the most important achievement of his five years in Washington.

The agreement will be only as good as the spirit in which it is put into operation.

Detroit Uses Outside Help in Picking Famous Citizens

February: Shortest month — but usually long enough.

In selecting the ten greatest citizens in its history, Detroit is up to its usual tricks—pulling in its neighbors. Most of the great golfers for which it claims credit are from Oakland County. As far as I can learn, the man who tops its greatest citizens' list did not live within its borders.

On a Detroit-Buffalo boat trip back in the years when that was a popular week end diversion, the purser told me that we had a famous couple aboard, and showed me their registration card. It read:

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford, Dearborn

A number of others on their top ten list have never lived there, and I'm surprised they didn't include some of our golfers or other world famous citizens who live in Oakland County.

Although today celebrating her eighty-fourth birthday, travels so much that she has no permanent address. That in her verbal orchids below is that of her son Ward. She's now in California, and there's no telling where she'll be next. In fact, her friends say she may be contemplating an outer-space journey, as she's been most everywhere else.

Mrs. Maggie Partridge

Soon celebrating his ninetieth birthday is

Dayton E. Glass

MEMBER OF AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

"Hey Fellas, Let's Not Overdo It"

David Lawrence Says:

Khrushchev's Speech Inconsistent

WASHINGTON — Bulganin may write the letters to Eisenhower and Macmillan, but Khrushchev reflects

the true attitude of the Kremlin toward a "summit" conference. There's a distinct difference between the polite language of diplomacy used by Bulganin and the hard-hitting "give 'em hell" style of the dictator of the vast Soviet empire when he talks about America to the Soviet people.

Most significant is the speech made by Khrushchev in his role as the leader of the Communist Party to a conference of "leading workers of agriculture" at Minsk on Jan. 22 last. The full text has just become available here. The speech was delivered before America launched her globe-circling satellite but took into account that the United States also might soon have a "Sputnik" in the air.

The address, approximately 14,000 words, is plainly an attempt to make a comprehensive rebuttal to the viewpoints of western countries. It reveals clearly that western criticism gets under the skin of the Soviet spokesmen. They show irritation, seem to wince under the verbal blows, and they come up with fantastic distortions in an effort to hold up their end of the debate.

Much space is devoted in the speech to the scientific achievement represented by the launching of two "Sputniks," and the West is criticized for daring to imply that the Soviet leaders were trying "to frighten the governments of the western powers."

Nothing could be further removed from the Soviet mind, argues Khrushchev, but a little later on in the same speech he repeats one of his "we-will-bury-you" threats. After pointing out that the West still has no rockets for its bases in Europe and will not have them for two or three years more, he remarks:

"We have these rockets today and they can be aimed at any area of the globe for dealing a crushing blow at the aggressors, if they should attempt to unleash a new war."

When the Communist leader defines an "aggressor," he appears to mean any country that doesn't bow in submission to Soviet demands. But immediately after a few paragraphs of defiance and scorn, the Kremlin chief changes his tune and says: "Let us improve our relations, let us trade, let us develop the scientific, cultural and sports ties. Let us meet and discuss in a businesslike manner the urgent international problems."

The speech then sets forth the Soviet idea of "peaceful co-existence"—which would require withdrawal of all American forces from Europe and of all military aid, abandonment of all bases, a prohibition against testing and use of nuclear weapons—but there is not a word as to how the West is to be assured that the Soviet Union will keep agreements in the future when she has repeatedly violated them in the past.

Most palpable are the omissions. After denouncing the one-time Fascist governments of Italy and Germany and accusing the West of having instigated an attack on Russia by Hitler in 1941, the Communist spokesman forgets altogether that there would not have been any World War II if Stalin and Molotov themselves had not made an alliance with Hitler in 1939 which gave military immunity to the Nazis on their own eastern front while they concentrated an attack in the west.

It is because of arguments of such duplicity that the world will be left to wonder what Khrushchev really has in mind. He repeatedly says the Soviet Union has perfected arms "not only to destroy these bases but also to strike a crushing retaliatory blow against more remote objectives."

Then why should Khrushchev worry any more about the NATO bases or western military strength? Plainly the Communist leader's speech is full of inconsistencies.

On the whole they emphasize that a "summit" meeting is not really desired for purposes of reaching any agreement on armament but primarily to demonstrate to the worried people behind the Iron Curtain that the Communist leaders are theoretically striving for "peace"—a domestic propaganda game to quell unrest and the protests of those who suffer privation in standards of living as the rubles they are entitled to in wages are wasted on armament.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Screaming at the Children Won't Make Them Behave

Listening to the violence in the back yard yonder as mother and father scream at the three little children and the children howl back, one wonders what sort of adult can possibly spring from such a disturbed and disturbing background.

DR. BRADY

What has become of gentlemen and gentlewomen? Has the breed been lost in the marketplace, somehow concealed by the pancake makeup, the tight pants?

"Gentle" (Webster): "Well born, honorable, refined in manners, not harsh or stern, kind, considerate, soft, not violent or rough, easy, soothing."

The attitudes of the parents on the corner are about as soothing as a thunderstorm. The children respond in the same key. They have been screamed at and scolded and ridiculed and threatened until that is all they know.

They incorporate these attitudes toward one another and even toward their dolls. One of those dolls has yet to be softly cuddled and crooned to and laid to rest in sweet serenity. Poor dolls, poor children, poor America.

Perhaps not another quality is more desirable in the care of children than gentleness — the easy, soothing manner.

EFFECTIVE DISCIPLINE

Nor is such a manner ineffective. You can be positive and follow through and insist upon obedience and cooperation and still be gentle and soothing about it.

You will more effectively demonstrate complete disapproval of a child's act with gentle insistence —directing attention TO THE ACT—than with loud and abrasive shoutings. For the child hears only the anger, and, in panic, cannot fish out the meaning.

Anger and fear change body chemistry and beget disease. We need to put violence aside and use tenderness, mercy, tranquility, and all the gentleness we can summon forth to raise healthy children.

Now I acknowledge the foregoing paragraphs were contributed by Helen Brady Redford, my mentor, and daughter who, in the past few years, has contributed pieces that brought favorable comment . . . and at low cost, for I haven't given more than three dozen sets of the Pocket Cyclopedia of Health, as advertised, to readers who have spotted "ghost written" articles.

I was afraid to take the chance with this one. Too many readers have spotted the Young Snip's pieces because, as they said, "This was never written by Doc Brady—all this sweetness and light!"

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Voice of the People

Offers Suggestion to Keep Education Standards High

I agree with I. W. B. about keeping school standards high. Qualifications for teachers should be high, too, and teachers should not be adverse to constructive criticism. When a teacher fails too many pupils, there may be something wrong with her methods.

The Press is to be complimented on its informative education articles, but I wonder what's meant by "the gifted child." All children are gifted in some way, but they need encouragement for things in which they're not so talented. I know a boy of high I. Q. who planned to go to college until an English teacher failed him two semesters. A conference revealed she didn't stress grammar because she felt it was elementary teachers' duty.

I'd like to see the required English I changed to review grammar, speech and spelling, as it would benefit most of our students in all other classes. It might even help some high school teachers who don't stress good grammar, even though they have a degree in English.

Three Concerned Over Who Pays

The women say men don't pay; men say women don't pay, and while they're wrangling, let's go to the Children's Home Annex housed in a discarded wing of the TB San, or to Camp Oakland where boys are often getting the first "break" in their lives. Look into these children's faces and get your answer.

Winifred Sherman

Oxford

I was divorced in 1947, and given custody of my then six months old son. I was to receive $12.50 a week for child support. Court records went to the so-called Friend of the Court and to this day (10 years later) I've never received a single penny. I, too, wonder why the office is maintained. That is one position taxpayers certainly could cease to support. Who pays? Certainly not my child's father. To my knowledge Friend of the Court hasn't made any attempt to collect payment for my child's support.

Mother of One

One Who Pays, and possibly a few others, may be the exception, but what would you think of a man who deserted his wife and two small children who loved him dearly, leaving them without housing, clothing and very little food, for another woman with teenage children? There are other sordid details which I won't mention, but after detecting some bitterness in the letter of One Who Pays, I say he and all others like him who shirk both their moral and legal obligations should be forced by any legal steps necessary to accept part of their responsibilities by paying alimony and/or child support regularly and willingly, especially for their own flesh and blood.

One Who Has Suffered

Tells Mr. Dickins He Needn't Worry

In answer to Mr. Dickins' letter about the priest in Wichita trying to secure a license to sell beer at his bingo parties, I'd like to inform him that he need not lose any sleep or spend money on sleeping pills, as there's a law in Michigan that forbids the playing of bingo.

Portraits

By JAMES J. METCALFE

Today was just another day . . . An ordinary one . . . I don't remember if it rained . . . Of if I saw the sun . . . It simply passed away without . . . The slightest cause for cheer . . . Because I did not see you, and . . . Your voice I did not hear . . . As all days seem so empty when . . . We have to be apart . . . And my sole consolation is . . . Your picture in my heart . . . Oh, I do love that picture, and . . . I know that you are true . . . But nothing can replace the joy . . . Of being close to you . . . Each day is ordinary, dear . . . By any rule or slide . . . Unless my arms can really feel . . . That you are at my side.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Compliments Increase Popularity

Doris is a popular coed who says she changed her shy friendless self into a gay, well liked girl by means of the 30-day "Compliment Club." Her clergyman father used it as a church project. Notice how it started and what quick results it produced in one of my psychology classes at Northwestern University.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case X - 325: Doris D., aged 18, is a college coed.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "how did you happen to start your 'Compliment Club'?

"My father is a Baptist clergyman and he has used your 'Compliment Club' as a regular Christian project for Sunday school classes.

DR. CRANE

"You may not remember me, but I qualified for membership and have one of your personally signed diplomas, too."

HOW WIN FRIENDS

Well, a number of years ago one of my psychology students at Northwestern University asked for a personal interview after class.

During our discussion, she broke into tears as she informed me she was so terribly lonely and friendless.

"Although I'm surrounded by millions of people here in Chicago," she said, "I feel almost as isolated as if I were Robinson Crusoe.

"For nobody speaks to me or smiles and shows the slightest interest in whether I live or die.

"Dr. Crane, I can't stand it much longer. I just live for the letters from my parents in Wisconsin."

This girl was quite shy. We'd call her an introvert. She had an office job by day and was taking one of my classes at night chiefly in the hope of winning friends.

So I reassured her that I'd concoct a psychological experiment that would make her popular and help her win plenty of friends.

At the next meeting of her class, I announced the "Compliment Club" as a classroom project.

"You are to pay an honest bit of praise to each of three people, every day," I began. "And you should keep it up without a break for 30 consecutive days.

"Then write a 500-word theme on the changes you have noticed in yourself as well as in your companions and co-workers.

"This will be a homework assignment and carry college credit."

POPULARITY SECRETS

House - to - house sales work is one of the most extrovertive tasks you can ever attempt, but most of my evening students in this psychology class were already employed at good jobs.

So I launched the "Compliment Club" as the next best method for turning their attention OFF themselves and UPON their social surroundings.

It really is just the Golden Rule applied to social contacts. It puts the stress on POSITIVE thinking, too, for you must look for good traits in your companions as the first step in paying them sincere praise.

Well, before the month was over, the entire class had changed into a friendly, happy lot.

The students would now greet each other cordially as they assembled for class, and report their most interesting cases during the week.

In fact, I devoted 15 minutes each week for a testimonial meeting during which they gave some of the more dramatic examples of good will which the paying of compliments had produced.

And by the end of that very semester, this Wisconsin girl who was weeping from loneliness, grew so popular she actually became engaged to a Chicago school teacher who sat in the back of the room.

So send for the "Compliment Club" booklet, enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit). Use it to spread more sunshine as you journey through life.

It is also an ideal project for churches and schools. Families likewise profit by it, for many wives and children are taken for granted by the head of the household.

Compliments are simply verbal bouquets offered BEFORE the funeral.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

CHAPTER 34

The telephone rang on the Inspector's desk. He picked it up and said:

"O.K. Put her through." He said to Quimper, "It's your nurse on the phone. Yes, hello—speaking . . What's that? Serious relapse . . . Yes . . . Dr. Quimper's with me now . . . If you like a word with him—"

He handed the receiver to the doctor.

"Quimper speaking . . . I see . . . Yes . . . Quite right . . . Yes, carry on with that. We'll be along."

"Who is it?"

"It's Alfred," said Dr. Quimper. "And he's dead."

Over the telephone, Craddock's voice came in sharp disbelief.

"Alfred?" he said. "Alfred?"

Inspector Bacon, shifting the telephone receiver a little, said: "You didn't expect that?"

"No, indeed. As a matter of fact, I'd just got him taped for the murderer!"

"I heard about him being spotted by the ticket collector. Looked bad for him all right. Yes, looked as though we'd got our man."

"Well," said Craddock flatly, "we were wrong."

There was a moment's silence. Then Craddock asked:

"There was a nurse in charge. How did she come to slip up?"

"Can't blame her. Miss Eyelesbarrow was all in and went to get a bit of sleep. The nurse had five patients on her hands, the old man, Emma, Cedric, Harold and Alfred. Crackenthorpe started creating in a big way. Said he was dying. She went in, got him soothed down, came back again and took Alfred in some tea with glucose. He drank it and that was that."

"Arsenic again?"

"Seems so. Of course, it could have been a relapse but Quimper doesn't think so and Johnson agrees."

"I suppose," said Craddock, doubtfully, "that Alfred was meant to be the victim?"

Bacon sounded interested. "You mean that whereas Alfred's death wouldn't do anyone a penn'orth of good, the old man's death would benefit the lot of them? I suppose it might have been a mistake—somebody might have thought the tea was intended for the old man."

"Are you sure that that's the way the stuff was administered?"

"No, of course they aren't sure. The nurse, like a good nurse, washed up the whole contraption. Cups, spoons, teapot — everything. But it seems the only feasible method."

"Meaning?" said Craddock thoughtfully, "that one of the patients wasn't as ill as the others. Saw his chance and doped the cup."

"Well, there won't be any more funny business," said Inspector Bacon grimly. "We've got two nurses on the job now, to say nothing of Miss Eyelesbarrow and I've got a couple of men there too. You coming down?"

"As fast as I can make it!"

Lucy Eyelesbarrow came across the hall to meet Inspector Craddock. She looked pale and drawn.

"You've been having a bad time of it," said Craddock.

"It's been like one long ghastly nightmare," said Lucy. "I really thought last night that they were all dying."

"About this curry—"

"It was the curry?"

"Yes — very nicely laced with arsenic—quite the Borgia touch."

"If that's true," said Lucy "It must—it's got to be—one of the family."

"No other possibility?"

"No, you see I only started making that damned curry quite late—after six o'clock—because Mr. Crackenthorpe specially asked for curry. And I had to open a new tin of curry powder — so that couldn't have been tampered with. I suppose curry would disguise the taste?"

"Arsenic hasn't any taste," said Craddock absently. "Now—opportunity. Which of them had the chance to tamper with the curry while it was cooking?"

Lucy considered.

"Actually," she said, "anyone could have sneaked into the kitchen whilst I was laying the table in the dining room."

"I see. Now who was there in the house? Old Mr. Crackenthorpe, Emma, Cedric—"

"Harold and Alfred. They'd come down from London in the afternoon. Oh, and Bryan—Bryan Eastley. But he left just before dinner. He had to meet a man in Brackhampton."

Craddock said thoughtfully, "It ties up with the old man's illness at Christmas. Quimper suspected that that was arsenic. Did they all seem equally ill last night?"

Lucy considered. "I think old Mr. Crackenthorpe seemed the worst. Dr. Quimper had to work like a maniac on him. He's a jolly good doctor, I will say. Cedric made far the most fuss. Of course, strong healthy people always do."

"What about Emma?"

"She has been pretty bad."

"Why Alfred I wonder?" said Craddock.

"I know," said Lucy. "I suppose it was meant to be Alfred?"

"Funny—I asked that too!"

"It seems, somehow, so pointless."

"If I could only get at the motive for all this business," said Craddock. "It doesn't seem to tie up. The strangled woman in the sarcophagus was Edmund Crackenthorpe's widow, Martine. Let's assume that. It's pretty well proved by now. There must be a connection between that and the deliberate poisoning of Alfred. It's all here, in the family somewhere. Even saying one of them's mad doesn't help."

"Not really," Lucy agreed.

"Well, look after yourself," said Craddock warningly. "There's a poisoner in this house, remember, and one of your patients upstairs probably isn't as ill as he pretends to be."

Lucy went upstairs again slowly after Craddock's departure. An imperious voice, somewhat weakened by illness, called to her as she passed old Mr. Crackenthorpe's room.

"Girl—girl—is that you? Come here."

Lucy entered the room. Mr. Crackenthorpe was lying in bed well propped up with pillows. For a sick man he was looking, Lucy thought, remarkably cheerful.

"The house is full of damned hospital nurses," complained Mr. Crackenthorpe. "Rustling about, making themselves important, taking my temperature, not giving me what I want to eat—a pretty penny all that must be costing. Tell Emma to send 'em away. You could look after me quite well."

"Everybody's been taken ill, Mr. Crackenthorpe," said Lucy. "I can't look after everybody, you know."

"Mushrooms," said Mr. Crackenthorpe. "Damned dangerous things, mushrooms. It was that soup we had last night. You made it," he added accusingly.

"The mushrooms were quite all right, Mr. Crackenthorpe."

"I'm not blaming you, girl, I'm not blaming you. It's happened before. One blasted fungus slips in and does it. Nobody can tell. I know you're a good girl. You wouldn't do it on purpose. How's Emma?"

"Feeling rather better this afternoon."

"Ah. And Harold?"

"He's better too."

"What's this about Alfred having kicked the bucket?"

"Nobody's supposed to have told you that, Mr. Crackenthorpe."

TORONTO (AP)—The Canadian eskimo is moving south. That's the word from Asst. Prof. E. S. Carpenter of the University of Toronto, an eskimo expert. He said the eskimo is being forced out of the northlands by food shortages resulting from increased population. He predicted the eskimo population will triple in 20 years.

Sidewalk Electrified

BRIDLINGTON, Eng. (INS) — Pedestrians jumped and dogs danced and howled at an intersection in Bridlington until investigating workmen found a traffic light had shortcircuited and electrified a wet sidewalk.

Snuff Sneezing Telling

BANGKOK (INS)—Thailand lowered its tax on snuff after hearing convincing arguments that present taxes encouraged black market activities. How did police gauge the extent of the black market? "Simple," said one official, "There is altogether too much sneezing going on in neighborhoods where no taxed snuff is being sold."

Youth Survives Child Surgery

'Blue Baby' Operation Performed on Heart of 19-Year-Old Dakotan

CHICAGO (AP) — A 19-year-old South Dakota youth was reported "recuperating beautifully" today after undergoing a "blue baby" operation on his heart. The surgery is rarely performed upon an adult.

Five surgeons at University of Illinois Hospital performed the operation, which required more than three hours, last Friday on James Dixon. They stopped his heart for 23½ minutes, then reversed its abnormal position.

"The miracle is that this boy could still have been alive at 19," one doctor said. He added such operations generally are performed on children from 3 to 11.

The doctors, who declined to be identified, said the boy would not be out of danger for three or four days.

The surgeons used a heart-lung machine, short-circuited the blood flow, stopped the heart and sewed up a hole roughly the size of a hen's egg.

The term "blue baby" describes a condition caused by seepage from the heart that mingles pure and impure blood. The condition is characterized by a bluish-purple discoloration of the lips and fingernails.

Bob Considine Says:

U. S. Errs in Slashing World's Fair Funds

NEW YORK (INS) — It's disheartening to see how Congress is downgrading our participation in the Brussels Universal and International Exhibition — hereafter known as the Brussel's World's Fair. We blow millions of dollars of the people's money on projects rare and undefined. Suddenly, we nurse pennies in this tremendous showcase.

FACES RED

In a recent letter to Secretary Dulles, Howard S. Cullman, a first class American who took the job of U.S. commissioner of the fair for no financial return, wrote:

". . . it is going to make our faces red and be most embarrassing and make us look rather silly next to the Soviet exhibition. I never dreamed up the magic number of $15,000,000 (the sum originally suggested to cover U.S. participation, as opposed to a reported Soviet investment of $50,000,000.)

"It was given to me by the State Department as my yardstick when I took over the assignment. Subsequently, as you know, about $1,000,000 more was added through inflation and taxes in Belgium."

More than three millions have been slashed from the original sum suggested as our minimum needs there—and this in face of rising costs and a tax the Belgians have put on every exchange except possible handshaking.

"We realize that the congressional cut was made in the interest of an all-around and laudable economy," a prominent clergyman write in a memo to the House Finance Committee, which is headed by Brooklyn Democrat Rooney.

"Yet, it seems tragic that is should happen to this project when so much in funds is being spent elsewhere — in places where such an unusual opportunity does not exist, to get across our case and to bolster the morale of our colleagues in the Free World, and to convince some of the vacillating neutralists.

"We feel certain that if the responsible leaders in the House of Representatives would but reconsider the whole project in the light of the importance not merely of exhibiting as at any other Fair, but of combatting the Communist, the Soviet imperialistic ideology, they would make a most considerable contribution to the American crusade against Godless, enslaving tyranny.

MUCH TO PRESENT

"As Americans we have so much to present to the world besides refrigerators, washing machines and televisions and other creature comforts. All we need is the chance to do it not half-heartedly or haphazardly but adequately and effectively. This is a consideration which should transcend partisan or personal lines."

But apparently this consideration is not, and in this age of the Sputnik and a quickening of the fight for men's minds we'll be minor leaguers in the big show at Brussels.

As things now stand, unless more money is forthcoming from Congress our show at Brussels will be forced to operate part time. We will be blacked out at 6 p.m. while the huge Russian exhibit nearby operates until closing time — 10 o'clock. They will be able to turn over such artists as their members of the Bolshoi Ballet for European television; we will not be able to offer our own because of the prices they must get under union law.

The Russians have actually bought a Belgian newspaper, lock, stock and linotype, and will publish a daily paper called "Sputnik," to be distributed to millions of visitors during the fair. We have no reply in kind.

For a fraction of what we give to Tito, we could go first class at Brussels. Congressional dimwits with little appreciation of the scope of the battle for men's minds apparently would prefer to save nickels.

Rocket Explosion Wounds Youth, 13

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UP) — Michael Newey, 13, was in a Sacramento hospital today because a homemade rocket blew up in his face.

The boy, a junior high school student, and a companion were stuffing match heads into a metal cylinder yesterday when the device exploded and scattered pieces of mtal.

Two of young Newey's fingers had to be amputated. He also suffered body cuts. He is the son of Ray C. Newey, Sacramento.

Police said Newey and Robert Langner were loading the rocket in the latter's garage when the explosion occurred. The Langner boy was not hurt, police said.

Paraguay's Only Party Wins Easy Election

ASUNCION, Paraguay (UP) — President Alfredo Stroessner and 60 members of Congress have been returned to office in a nationwide plebiscite. They all ran unopposed in balloting yesterday.

Named for a five-year term starting Aug. 15, Stroessner also ran without opposition in a special election July 11, 1954, after gaining power through a brief military revolt which ousted President Federico Chaves.

He is leader of the Colorado (Red) party, Paraguay's only legal political group. All others were outlawed after an unsuccessful revolt in 1947.

Ex-State Trooper Nabbed in Burglary

SOUTH HAVEN (AP)—A former Michigan state trooper who lost his badge two months ago for conduct unbecoming an officer is being held in the burglary of a South Haven restaurant.

Allen Vahovick, 25, was arrested yesterday. State Police Sgt. Fredrick Buschell said Vahovick admitted breaking into Holly's Grille and taking money from a vending machine.

Vahovick, father of four, was dismissed from the force Dec. 5 on charges he used his badge during a vacation to obtain information about another person. He had been a trooper about 3½ years.

He was employed as a fire extinguisher salesman in Grand Rapids.

Marshall Man Dies, Trapped in Metal Baler

MARSHALL (AP)—Arthur M. Letts, 455, of Marshall, was killed Saturday when trapped in a metal-baler at the Marshall Iron and Metal Co. Calhoun County Coroner R. C. Wischer said Letts apparently walked into the machine to clean it before it stopped.

A budget is a family's attempt to live within its yearnings . . . Different women always give different reasons for not liking men, says H. C. Diefenbach. That's only natural—sour grapes come in various-sized bunches.—Earl Wilson.

Low Grade Ore Foreseen

Face Uranium Problem

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Bureau of Mines is facing up to the ultimate day when the uranium industry will have to deal with lower grades of ore.

Paul Zinner, assistant director of the bureau, told the House Appropriations Committee the miner now has to be selective in the ore he sells to the government.

But this will not always be the case, Zinner said in testimony made public yesterday.

"The government is not suddenly going to lose interest in uranium even though the Atomic Energy Commission may revise its purchasing program, or something of that kind," he explained.

"Ultimately we are going to be faced with the problem of producing uranium from lower grade materials."

Zinner said the bureau is asking $100,000 to make studies of the nature of low grade uranium deposits, to be ready for the day when the AEC purchasing program may be changed.

"Will we then be in a position where we will have a lot of low-grade material that cannot be processed under any conditions, or is there a method that can be used or developed so the situation will be met by improved technology that will permit the use of lower grade material?" he asked.

Carnival Season Gets Under Way in New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The city took a breather today after launching the 10-day street parade festivities which reach a climax on Mardi Gras.

The first night parade will be staged tomorrow by the krewe of Gemini. Carnival organizations are known as krewes. They put on parades and private balls.

The krewes of Carrollton, Okeanos and Alla paraded yesterday. Crowds of people lined the streets, their hands stretching for favors thrown by krewe members on the floats.

Before Mardi Gras ends at midnight Feb. 18 and the Lenten season begins Feb. 19, the various organizations will have kept New Orleans dizzy with 24 parades.

Williams Recovering From Mild Case of Flu

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Williams is reported recovering at his home from what was described by an aide as a possible mild case of flu.

The governor called off a weekend tour of Michigan's winter sports areas after complaining of a headache Saturday at Bellaire. He was flown back to Lansing in a State Police plane.

Potter: Union Foes 'Two-Bit Napoleons'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Potter (R-Mich) says labor leaders who oppose his bid for reelection next fall are "two-bit Napoleons."

"A handful of labor bosses has served notice that they again plan to decide in advance who their members will vote for," Potter said in a newsletter to constituents yesterday.

The United Auto Workers Union is opposed to Potter's try for a second term.

"Past elections prove that workers do not vote like sheep no matter what some of their leaders may think," Potter said. "The American working man and his wife vote independently and according to their convictions and not as instructed by a team of two-bit Napoleons."

Five Die in Blaze at Rooming House

REVERE, Mass. (AP)—Investigators were trying to learn today what caused the rooming house fire in which five persons perished shortly before dawn yesterday.

All the victims were trapped on the upper floors of the four-story wooden structure and were so badly burned that identification was delayed for hours.

The victims were listed as Mrs. Alice McCarthy, 50, Mrs. Agnes Erickson, 70, Mrs. Rebecca Friedman, 70, William Jenkins, 62, and Benjamin Frederick, 75.

Florida Tourists Thawing Out in Jamaica

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

MONTEGO BAY, Jamaica (INS) —Montego Bay is the place where people who can afford it come to thaw out from a vacation in Florida.

It is owned by the British. But you don't find many Englishmen out in the midday Montego sun for the simple reason that they have to stay home and pay their taxes so that there'll always be an England to run lush resorts like this for plush Americans.

BREW RUM

Besides, they don't brew much tea here. They brew rum. Which Englishmen don't take to but which, at 15 cents a fling, Americans do.

Americans are so awfully adaptable.

Until this year, gentle Montego Bay with its white sands and brilliant blue waters was a lazy hideaway where the rich and famous could lose themselves in in flora and fauna - covered cottages, and where a less-lucred visitor could stroll for many miles along the beach without sighting another human.

However, the current troubles in Nassau and the frostbite in Florida have increased the tourist trade. Now you can scarcely stroll five miles without somebody—usually an old lady with a basket of fruit on her head — crossing the horizon. As one New York socialite put it, "This place is getting as crowded as Jones' beach in December."

MOSTLY NATIVES

In spite of the sharp increase in people with money in their slacks, this vivid blue-green-red resort is still made up of 90 per cent natives who own the sun in the morning and the moon at night and that's it. Unlike the frustrated natives of Nassau, the Jamaicans still maintain a cheery attitude about the pale invaders from the northern hemisphere.

Surrounded by poverty in their little towns and villages, they still manage to grin and say "Hi, boss," whether you're male or female, when they pass you on the road. And the relatively few who are looking for a hand-out will exchange a beatific smile for a cigarette; whereas in some more savvy tropical climes, a tourist is a bum if he proffers less than a quarter, hard cash.

"Doctor's Cave," the local beach with its powdered sand surrounded by perfumed scarlet trees and emerald waters, looks and smells like a spectacular scheme to make Waikiki turn green.

It is the idyllic cove where celebrities and secretaries meet, amid bikinis and bacardis (both of which can be dangerous under such a hot sun), and is located next to a nice, shady cemetery where it is the quaint custom for a young native lady called "Smiling Girl No. 2" to sell woven straw hats.

This is not, in Jamaica, considered sacrilegious. Smiling girl 2's family, including No. 1 who is infirm and Nos. 3 through 15 who are scrawny, need the Yankee dollah and 50 cents.

For a mile on either side of this extraordinary life-and-death affair stretch the lovely, costly Montego Bay hotels where every room is built to catch the trade winds, the moonlight, the rustle of palm and the gulp of surf. Only one of these —the towering, swanky "Casa Montego"—has felt the necessity of putting in air-conditioning, since the day is blessed year-round with the best fans nature can offer.

Bob Souers, amiable manager of this most modern edifice, this equivalent of Miami Beach's "this year's hotel," shrugs sheepishly and explains:

"The American people are spoiled. They want air-conditioning even if they don't need it. They want a swimming pool beside a sea. They want egg in their rum. As a Jamaicacized American, I say—'Hokay, boss, just push de button!' "

Tells Judge He Hunts With Blackjack

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Police arrested Domenic V. Rizzella, 36, of suburban Wilkinsburg when they found a .38 caliber revolver, .22 automatic, blackjack and long knife in his possession.

When Rizzella faced Alegheny County Court he said he had the weapons because he planned to go hunting.

The judge sentenced him to 18-to-36 months in the county workhouse on a charge of possessing a deadly weapon.

Dear Abby....

Cut Off Potatoes, Dessert for Less Laughing Matter

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What can I do about my husband? He wears his trousers below his stomach and it looks terrible. He has a big stomach on him and everybody laughs when they see him. The kids laugh, the neighbors laugh, but I don't laugh because it isn't funny. Thank you.

ABBY

DEAR IDEL: You can't tell a grown man where to wear his trousers. Keep the potatoes and desserts away from him and there will be less to laugh about.

DEAR ABBY: I am 21 and no baby, but every time a date brings me home, the minute the car door slams every light in our house goes on. We don't even get a chance to reach the porch before the front door flies open and my parents are standing there in their nightclothes.

This is very embarrassing for me. I have told them many times to please either stay in bed and wait until I get in the house, or else to be dressed if they insist on acting as a welcoming committee. What can I do?

HELPLESS

DEAR HELPLESS: I don't get it? Are your parents just making sure that you are being brought home by the same fellow who took you out, or are they afraid you might invite the boy in the house? Clue me in.

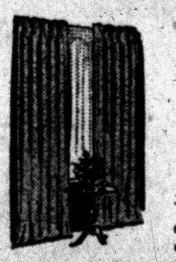

By the way, you don't have to wrack your brain about what to buy your parents for next Christmas. They obviously each could use a bathrobe.

Adds Bloom to Life and Spurs Career Success

Magic Formula: Getting Along With Others

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Someone once said, "A man is never a failure until he begins blaming his mistakes on someone else." Of course this goes for women also.

I am thinking today that probably the most important factor in success in personal life and in business is the ability to get along well with others. This is the magic formula which smooths everyday living, saves energy, adds bloom to existence and zooms success.

Let us consider the career woman or the woman who works outside her home. Many a person's career has been ruined by personal dislike. It is possible actually to breed dislike in a fellow worker or a boss where there was none to begin with, if one is sensitive or irritable or critical in her attitude.

I know of many instances in which opportunity and advancement have been blocked by the fact that the individual was hard to get along with. The most conspicious example was told me by the president of a large college who wanted to fill a vacancy at the head of one of his departments. There were several candidates but one had qualifications which stood out because of his training, competence and brilliance.

The president was much impressed by these but, being a wise man with much experience, he checked particularly on the man's ability to get along with those with whom he worked, subordinates and superiors.

There he found the flaw! The man had trouble with everyone. He was immediately discarded. The president said, "Oh no! I have had too much experience with that kind and certainly do not want another, no matter how brilliant."

MUST BE ON GUARD

Women in business, especially, have to guard against this defect. They are by nature more emotional than men and also have to cope with pre-menstrual tension. They also are harder hit by crisis which arise in their family life, such as sick children and the resulting loss of sleep.

If at all possible, like those with whom you work. You may not want them for friends but every human has some good qualities. Look for them in your co-workers.

Be impersonal about the things you do not like about them: If you will adopt this attitude, the trouble-makers in your office won't be able to make a dent in you.

What tremendous amounts of energy and happiness and success are lost by hoarding resentment because of a slight or being sensitive or "fighting for one's rights." How CAN folks do that to themselves? The resentful person is the one who is injured.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Menus for Career Women," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 46. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

CONFIDENCE NEED BY CAREER WOMAN

Those women who have careers know how important self-confidence is. It is so easy to get that "lost in a crowd" feeling, particularly in a large organization. It is easy to feel that nobody knows or cares who you are or what you do.

You couldn't be more mistaken. A top executive said to me not long ago, "An executive who does not know all about the people under his direction isn't worthy his salary."

Another executive told me, "I dislike having my employes constantly push themselves in front of me. I just want them to get in there and get the job done. You do not have to raise a rumpus in the office or dye your hair green in order to get the attention of the boss. If you have self-confidence, you will not feel that you have to do so."

I know that self-confidence and physical fitness and attractiveness go hand in hand, particularly in a woman, and self-confidence leads to the smooth production of your best work and to getting along with your fellow workers and those who work under you.

Good health and physical attractiveness are two of the greatest aids to success in business because of the effect they have on you and therefore on your work and your human relationships.

Another key to success is to become "key man" on your job. Learn about the sidelines as well as the main line work. Like your work enough to avoid being a clock-watcher. Learning more about your job than you actually have to know can turn an otherwise boring position into one which is interesting.

I think the following remarks will be interesting and helpful, especially to the middle-aged or older woman who is working or wants to work. These have been taken from letters I have received from employers concerning the employing of older women.

"I employ older women because they are usually more reliable and more punctual in their attendance."

"I find that the older woman is most satisfactory as a rule because she is more permanent than the younger worker who may marry soon after being trained for the job or may have to stop work because of having a child."

"Older women generally take their work more seriously and are more interested in it than younger women are."

"Women past early youth lead more regular lives. They do not keep the late hours which younger women do and therefore are more efficient."

SOME WARNINGS

Here is the other side of the story. Here you will find warnings.

"I hire older women but am often disappointed in them because they will not learn new methods. They could, but they resist change."

"I have one employe who is most dependable, a hard worker and efficient. However, I always can tell when she has been babysitting with her grandchildren. She is tired the next day, is irritable and forgetful."

"The main trouble with the older worker is the fact that she is jealous of all of the younger women in the office. This makes her most sensitive and difficult."

"In desperation I recently had to let one older employe go, knowing she needs work, because she would not be open-minded enough to accept her employer's orders. She was too set in her ways."

"I have tried using older women and they are far more satisfactory than younger workers except that they are apt to be irritable and, even worse, they cram all of their family's problems and successes down everyone's throat."

Just thought I would let you know what some of the employers have to say!

Young Bank Robbers Arrested in Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Three teenagers arrested for the $20,301 robbery of a Connecticut bank go before a U.S. commissioner for a hearing today.

FBI agents and detectives arrested the trio in a predawn raid on a Miami Beach motel yesterday. Officers said they found $16,000 and two revolvers in the youths' room.

Arresting agents identified the boys as John George Wallace, 19, maintenance workers; Merson F. Gule, 18, metal plater; and Michael A. Berardi, 18, a stock boy.

They were arrested on a warrant charging they held up the East End branch of the Colonial Trust Co. in Waterbury, Conn., last Thursday.

John J. Sullivan, 14, was arrested in Waterbury and admitted he helped rob the bank. Sullivan implicated the others and said he wanted to back out but was afraid they would call him "chicken."

The FBI said the three youths flew to Miami under assumed names last Friday, bought new clothes, used a new rental automobile and "were really living."

Future Development of MSU-Oakland Outlined

COLLEGE DEVELOPMENT PLAN — A shift in the location of the first building in the Michigan State College branch to be located on the Meadowbrook Estate near Rochester is shown on a map which outlines tentative development plans. According to D. B. Varner, MSU vice president in charge of the branch, the first $2 million classroom building may now be located as shown in area A, rather than in area D. Useable adjacent sites and closeness to the proposed Detroit-Flint Expressway are among the reasons advanced by Varner for the shift. He said MSU might develop area A, and gradually move into B, C, D, E and F as facilities for specialized courses in engineering, teaching and business administration are added. A divided boulevard will serve as the main entrance under the plan above.

Firemen in Waterford Buy Own Equipment

Waterford Township has one of the most unique fire departments in the state, reports Fire Chief Edward Smith. Its volunteer smoke eaters not only give their time and daring but decline their pay.

Not one individual in the 43-man volunteer department ever pockets the $3 he is allocated for every call he answers.

They all throw it into the kitty, formally known as the Firefighters Association Fund. The money is then either used to buy some additional equipment for the department or is donated to some worthy community cause.

This is the only known organization in the county operating on such a basis, according to Assistant Fire Chief "Bud" Goff.

To date, the men have purchased another resuscitator, additional fire extinguishers, new uniforms and most recently eight new auto radio receiver sets.

These men not only work alongside the seven "regular" firemen to put out fires but also answer a wide variety of calls.

At a recent attic fire the only access to the roof was through a 4-foot square opening in the ceiling. This was lined with approximately 50 mousetraps all set to go off. The house almost burned down while the firemen nursed their mangled fingers.

Some time ago an 18-month-old baby fell into heating duct and became wedged firmly. Firemen were immediately called.

They broke through a downstairs partition so that they could cut a section from the steel trap and extricate the child.

A 13-year-old girl living in the Watkins Lake subdivision caught her fingers in a mixmaster while baking a cake. Her mother thought of calling the fire department first, and they obligingly removed the swollen fingers from the machine.

One woman locked herself out of the house and called the firemen. The brief report later told the whole story—"Used a roof-ladder to the second story window."

Another call was once received to revive a woman who had been overcome by cleanser fumes while cleaning the bathtub. The men arrived in time to save the would-be victim.

Car fires are among the most common. In one case, sun rays beating through an auto window ignited rags piled on the back seat.

There are certain runs in the township that are as periodic as day and night, according to Fire Chief Smith. These are to assist older residents prone to heart, asthma and diabetic attacks, until medical help arrives.

"And believe me," Smith concluded, "these firemen sure look good to people who feel that they are on death's doorstep."

Since no candidate got a majority, Congress must choose between the two high men, Cruz Salazar, whose backers hold most of the seats in the lame duck Congress, has agreed Ydigoras should be elected.

Boy's Rocket Building Damages 3 Fingers

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP)—Terry James Burns, 13, lost the tips of three fingers in the explosion of a homemade rocket yesterday.

He was tamping the match heads into an empty carbon dioxide cartridge, he said, when they exploded.

'No Policeman Is Better Than His Sources'

Tips Often Key to Crime Solution

By HAROLD S. COHEN

The anonymous phone call, the whispered statement, the friendly hint, all these, the stock in trade of the police officer, combine to form a major factor in crime solution — the tip.

COHEN

The detectives whose daily task it is to seek the solution of crime have had widely different experiences in checking out the reliability of tips, but all agree that they can be of the greatest assistance in the quick solution of a crime.

Det. Sgt. Raymond Meggit, a veteran officer, holds that, "no policeman is better than his sources of information."

"What is our job, if not the putting together of bits of information until a complete story emerges. That and checking the truth of statements, is the heart of good detective work."

"Just one example," he said, "is a rape case of a few years ago here in Pontiac where a canvass of the neighborhood where the crime occurred turned up a tip.

A man said that a fellow who worked on the night shift with him in a factory would sneak out through the fence during working hours.

"We checked out the story, found the man and quickly discovered he was the rapist.

This source of information is but one of many that come under the heading of tips. Others are the anonymous letter, the paid informer used in some places but not in Pontiac, the fellow who has been in trouble and informs for the police, or just the overhead conversation in a bar or restaurant.

"There are many good sources, a detective must have," Det. Herbert Cooley said. "One of the best is the newspapers."

"If you read about the Detroit police catching a bandit and his method of working is similar to that used on a local holdup, you can check that out and he may turn out to be the man you want."

"Often," Cooley said, "a fellow you arrest once is grateful for the way you handled his case and will give you information for years afterwards."

50 PCT. OF JOB

"The place where informants and tipsters are most vital is vice work," Cooley added. "I estimate it at 50 per cent of the job."

Det. Robert Emery recalled a holdup which he solved quickly solely on the basis of a tip phoned to him at home one evening.

"The guy said just 'find so-and-so' and hung up. We found him and he was the bandit."

MIXED BLESSING

That tips are not an unmixed blessing was pointed out by two senior police officials, Inspector Clark Wheaton and Capt. Oliver Lemeaux.

Both worked on a case back in the early 1930's which, except for the tragic outcome would have been made ludicrous by the tips received.

The young son of a Pontiac merchant had disappeared while playing on Bagley street. All police manpower was mobilized to find him.

The frantic father, after a few days had passed, turned to a tea leaf reader for an answer to the mystery.

SIFT GRAVEL PIT

Her sage advice was that the boy was in a gravel pit in Pontiac, and every available officer turned out to dig.

Around the clock the work progressed as men dropped from exhaustion. After some 20 hours of mining gravel the police came to the conclusion that the tea leaves had gone astray and gave up the project.

Next a man wandered into the station and said he knew where the boy was being held in Detroit, and would gladly lead the officers there.

Capt. Lemeaux was assigned to conduct the hunt.

"We drove him to Detroit and on the way I glanced toward the back seat and saw our "informant" laying out a deck of cards on the seat and asking them for advice.

"Nevertheless, we followed through and he led us a merry chase around Detroit. Finally he pointed to a three-story red brick building and said, 'That's it. The boy is being held on the third floor.'

"We stopped and you can imagine my feelings when I saw it was a Catholic convent. Still, I went up to the door and knocked. The mother superior laughed heartily, but invited us to search the building which we did. No boy.

"For this 'service' the informant demanded $50. He almost got a punch in the teeth."

Despite these weird tips, the case solved itself in 11 days when the boy's body turned up in the Clinton River, far downstream from where he had fallen in while playing.

"The public is our greatest aid in solving crime by the information it gives," said Wheaton, "but on sensational cases, the crackpots sure give us a lot of useless work right when every hour may count."

Harriman Enters School Problem

Wants Crash Program for Solving Violence Crisis in New York City

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Averell Harriman has called for a crash program to cope with juvenile crime in the city's schools.

He said he was willing to help devise one with Mayor Robert F. Wagner and the Board of Education. The mayor was receptive to his offer.

Last Friday 644 pupils were suddenly suspended from the schools by the Board of Education.

The action followed a series of rapes, knifings and other disorders involving both white and Negro students in or near schools.

James E. Allen Jr., state commissioner of education, upheld the legality of the suspensions. He pointed out, however, that the board is still responsible for educating all children under 17.

Other new developments in the school situation included:

A call for a "real survey of the educational system from the top to the bottom to see what's wrong" by State Sen. Walter J. Mahoney (R-Buffalo). Mahoney is majority leader of the Senate.

An attack on Wagner and top school authorities by Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-NY), who denounced the suspensions as "a form of naziism forced upon the people of New York City." Powell, a Negro, is also pastor of the Abyssinian Baptist Church.

A denial by Stanley Lowell, a Wagner assistant, that racial tensions are the basic cause of troubles in the schools.

Harriman's offer to work with city officials was made at a news interview after he appeared on a local TV program.

The governor offered several suggestions for dealing with school delinquents, including expansion of state training schools and of probation service and child guidance.

Tie Hypertension, Atherosclerosis

By A. C. CORCORAN, M.D.
Cleveland Clinic Foundation

Cleveland, Ohio (NEA)—As our medical scientists probe for definitive knowledge regarding the causative factors behind atherosclerosis — among them nutrition, hormones, exercise and heredity—they have at hand conclusive evidence that hypertension (high blood pressure) is to be listed among the causes.

No one dies of hypertension itself. People who have high blood pressure die as a result of the blood vessel and heart disease that follows in its wake. This disease is atherosclerosis, the most arteriosclerosis or "hardening of the arteries."

DR. CORCORAN

Apparently, the impact of months and years of high blood pressure damages the vessels. They lose their elasticity because the little fibres of elastic tissue in the walls of the vessels become stretched, split, frayed and broken.

As this process goes on, the vessels become scarred and accumulate fatty deposits in their linings. These may of themselves obstruct the flow of blood. Probably more commonly something happens in this scarred, fatty mass — perhaps bleeding into its base or loss of its lining membrane.

Either process results in an area on which a clot will form and this is the usual basis of heart attacks and strokes.

Doctors have recognized for a long time that high blood pressure and atherosclerosis were closely associated diseases. But, until recently, we had no firm views on the nature of this association.

Formerly, most doctors thought that the hardening of the arteries occurred first, and that, as a consequence, the blood pressure rose. This rise of pressure was even considered beneficial because, they reasoned, it helped maintain blood flow through the thickened vessels.

This view, no longer held, retarded and delayed research on high blood pressure for many years. We now know that high blood pressure is one of the common causes of atherosclerosis, and an increased risk of one of its complications.

Happily, research has achieved important advances in the treatment of high blood pressure.

About five years ago, doctors everywhere were provided with drugs which were truly effective in controlling this disorder. A five-year study of these drugs was recently completed. We reviewed the histories of a group of patients who had come for treatment of a very severe form of high blood pressure known as "malignant hypertension."

Until these drugs became available, we knew that of 100 such patients about 50 would die within six months, and about 80 within a year. At the end of five years there would be only one or two lingering on.

Our survey showed that 70 per cent of treated patients survived more than one year, and that some 30 per cent survived for five years, with most of them leading active, productive and comparatively normal lives.

We believe that starting now, with better drugs and more "know-how" in their use, we can double this five-year survival rate, particularly if patients receive treatment before their blood vessels have been so damaged by high blood pressure that arteriosclerosis begins and progresses.

This is a substantial accomplishment. It is important to gemember that a majority of those who died were victims of some complication of atherosclerosis—such as a stroke, a heart attack, rupture of a large vessel or kidney damage.

In other words, we had relieved the immediate situation for many, but they were left with a residue of vessels damaged during their period of uncontrolled high blood pressure.

So it follows that we are faced with the urgent problem of finding for these patients something, which, in association with drugs used in treating high blood pressure, will check the spread of atherosclerosis.

But this is not enough. High blood pressure is an insidious disease. Few people know they have it until they have suffered some of its complications, by which time the damage is usually well established.

Clearly, there is urgent need for accelerated research into all phases of the problem of atherosclerosis, especially that associated with high blood pressure.

Not many years ago this would have been regarded as a hopeless undertaking. But, just as we have accompplished so much so recently in the field of high blood pressure research, we may be confident that sooner or later the missing answers will be turned up.

It will be sooner if medical research gets the support it needs and must have. It will be sooner if the public supports heart and blood vessel research through contributions to the 1958 Heart Fund campaign of the American Heart Association and its affiliated Heart Associations.

Schnozzzola Turns 65 Today

Durante Tells Calabash Secret

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — I cannot think of a better time to disclose the mystery of Jimmy Durante's famous "Mrs. Calabash" than on his birthday. Before we get into the intriguing subject of Mrs. Calabash, whose identity has heretofore never been disclosed, let me say our beloved Jimmy was born 65 years ago on Feb. 10, 1893.

He came into the world on the Lower East Side of New York, born to Italian immigrants at 90 Catherine St., just a stone's throw from Alfred E. Smith's birthplace. Until the day of his death, Smith was a great friend of Schnozzola. They first met when Smith was an alderman, long before he became governor.

Now without any further ado, let me tell you about "Goodnight, Mrs. Calabash, wherever you are," the tag line on every one of Schnozzola's TV shows and nightclub acts.

Not by any hint or word has Jimmy ever disclose to whom he was referring, although some people have suspected "Mrs. Calabash" was the endearing name Schnozzola called his late wife.

A LITTLE VILLAGE

This is how it all came about. Jimmy and Mrs. Durante were driving to California from New York to visit her parents. They passed through a little village named Calabash.

Mrs. Durante fell so in love with the small town, and talked about it so much, that Jimmy started calling her "Mrs. Calabash," a name that stayed with her until her death in 1943.

The inside story of Jimmy's romance and marriage to Maud Jeanne Olson was told to me by "The Schnozz" when he came to see me at my home. He said the pretty brown-eyed Jeanne, the name her friends called her, had come to New York to go into a Schubert show. In a fall, she broke her ankle, and was unable to appear.

Later, an agent by the name of Al Davis sent her to a singing spot called "The Ritz" which was located on 125th St. in New York. Not knowing her way around town, Jeanne, by mistake, went to "The Alamo" where Jimmy was pounding the keys. She had a beautiful lyric soprano voice, and Jimmy signed her then and there.

HORSE PLAYER

"I was betting on the horses," Jimmy said; "and studying racing form while I was playing the piano. I heard Jeanne say, 'That Durante is absolutely the worst piano player I ever heard.' So to save my reputation as a musician, I married her." They were married for 34 years when Jeanne died.

The great devotion of Jimmy to his partners, Eddie Jackson and Lou Clayton, is known to all of us who have known the three men ever since Jimmy came to Hollywood to live.

It was Clayton, who has since died, who was the business head of the trio, and who gave Jimmy sage and advice. When Clayton was sick and dying, Jimmy lived at St. John Hospital to be close to him.

The one thing Clayton wanted more than anything else was for Jimmy to do a big TV show, and when he found he had "big casino," as he called cancer, he begged to live long enough to see Jimmy with a TV show of his own.

On his deathbed, Clayton sent for Eddie Jackson, Jack Roth (the drummer on the Durante show for many years) and two other companions, and said, "If I ever hear of you hurting Jimmy, I'll come down from heaven and kill you." His last words were "My Jimmy, my Jimmy . . ."

One of the most frequent guests on the Durante TV show was Margaret Truman, and Jimmy told me of a letter he received from the then President Truman — a letter he never showed anyone or divulged its contents until Truman was no longer president.

It said: "I am just a simple father, just like any other man, and so I want to thank you for your kindness to my daughter, Margaret."

I saw Jimmy's act in Las Vegas just a few weeks ago, and it was even better than routine. He said one night at Rouge. His old sidekick, Eddie Jackson, who for a time was very sick, was with him, strutting around and doing his stooge role just as he did in the old days. With his usual sweetness Jimmy saw that Eddie shared in the applause.

THE BROKEN PIANO

I asked Jimmy how he happened to do the broken piano routine. He said one ninght at a small speakeasy where he was working, he hit the piano and it broke. This went over so big that from that time on it became a part of his act.

You might think, associated as he was with the underworld element at the "Club Durante," "The Alamo" and other night spots of this ilk, he would be hard-boiled. On the contrary, Jimmy is deeply religious. He wears a chain around his neck which he calls his "four little gifts."

"I have worn them so long," said Jimmy, "they are like part of my flesh. They are like four extra commandments. Every morning I put my fingers around my neck and I feel rich. You could probably buy the four of them and the chain for 50 cents and still get change, but I feel rich for what they have given me in my heart."

Jimmy says one of these gifts is the medal of the Madonna. "My pop, who was a barber, gave it to me. The second gift is a medal of the Crucifixion, which my wife Jeanne gave to me when we were married in 1921.

"The third medal is the St. Christopher given me some years ago by Eddie Jackson and Lou Clayton. I was ready to start a 17-day grind of one night stands around the country, and I was sick. The doctor told me I had to have an abdominal operation and couldn't work, but a miracle happened and I avoided surgery and went on my tour.

A BATTERED CROSS

The fourth medal on the chain was given Jimmy by his mother and is a little beaten-up cross. She had worn it all her life, and when she gave it to him she said, "Never take it off and God will always be with you."

It is characteristic of Jimmy that he didn't let his nose, which he thinks is as big as Cyrano De Bergerac's famous proboscis, wear him down. In a few words titled, "Laugh, and the World Laughs With You," Jimmy wrote the following:

"When I was a boy, my mother bought me a Buster Brown suit with a large flowing collar, and on Sunday made me wear it. I slunk along self-consciously, hugging the walls—if the gang saw me, I was sunk. Suddenly I caught sight of myself in a shop window.

"As I gazed at that apparition, I found myself smiling, and soon I was laughing. Along came some of the gang—they stared at me, trying to figure out why I wasn't running away. 'Listen, you,' one of them said 'what's so funny?'

LAUGHING TOGETHER

"'Look!' I said to them pointing to the figure in the window. 'A fellow dressed like a sissy, with a face like a horse.' Soon they were laughing along with me.

"It dawned on me then that as long as I could laugh, I was safe from the world, and I have learned since that laughter keeps me safe from myself too.

"All of us have schnozzles, ridiculous in one way or another—if not in our faces, then in our characters, minds, or habits. When we admit our schnozzles, instead of defending them, we begin to laugh and the world laughs with us."

There is so much more I could tell about this funny, great little clown, who has a wistfulness about him that gets right into your heart.

He told me how he used to work in his father's barbershop as a boy, and pick up dimes thrown to him by the customers. He was named James Francis Durante by his mother and father, gentle, kind Bartholomew Durante.

A SOFT TOUCH

Jimmy doesn't drink.. He smokes cigars and he has never been known to turn down a touch. He is such a soft touch that Lou Clayton used to see that he had no money in his pockets when he started out, because the panhandlers would be sure to get it.

"If he has any money on him," Lou said, "he will give away everything he has to any unfortunate person he meets."

I would like to write much more about "Schnozzola" Durante, but this is already a longer story than my editor ordered.

I can only say I was carried away by my subject, so I'll end by saying "Happy Birthday," and add—I wish you many, many more years of happiness, dear, dear, Jimmy Durante.

Players to Stage 'The Shrike'

Workshop Performance in West Bloomfield Not Open to Public

WEST BLOOMFIELD — A condensed version of the Pulitzer Prize play by Joseph Kramm, "The Shrike," will be presented as a workshop production Friday by the Township Players of West Bloomfield, an active Little Theater group now entering its third year.

This is an "extra" in the Players' once-a-month schedule of experimental workshop productions. It is given for members and prospective members only on the stage of the West Bloomfield Town Hall.

These "laboratory" plays are in addition to the Township Players' regular public productions.

"The Shrike" is a tense, drama concerning the plight of an attempted suicide taken to a city hospital and there suspected of insanity. His possessive wife, from whom he has separated, takes advantage of the situation to try to force his return to her, as the price of his release.

The shorter Township Players' version will be played by Nan Burda, Beth De Haven, Helen Oakwood, Lee O'Connor, James Beall, Mogens Klopp, Robert Thompson, Gerald Cohen, Neil McArthur and Franklyn Donegan, who also adapted and directed the play.

Assistant director is Raymond Dahlka and stage manager is George Heck. Refreshments will be served following the performance by a committee headed by Mildred Sage.

Detroit Pair Saves Sons From Blaze

DETROIT (INS)—A young Detroit couple braved flames and broken glass yesterday to rescue their children from their blazing home.

Fred Koontz, 27, an unemployed gas station attendant, said the fire left him and his family penniless.

His wife, Ruth, 24, was slashed by broken glass as she smashed a window with her hands to carry her 4-day-old son, Timothy, to safety.

Koontz suffered burns about the hands while searching his blazing living room for his 2-year-old boy, Anthony.

Anthony and the infant suffered smoke inhalation. The family was reported in fair condition at Mount Carmel Hospital. Another son, Billy, 3, had been spending the night with friends of the family.

Fire Department officials stated the blaze started when an oil stove overheated. Koontz said the blaze destroyed the house, the family's possessions and their cash.

According to estimates by the United Nations, the total population of the world increases about 100,000 a day.

Druggist's Work Changed by Chemical Compounds

ANN ARBOR (INS) — About 100 years ago, the following sign would probably be seen hanging on a druggist's door:

"No prescriptions filled today. Pharmacist is out in the woods gathering more drugs"

Dr. Frederick F. Blicke of the University of Michigan College of Pharmacy says it was so because in those days materials of the pharmacists' trade occurred naturally, such as sassafress, coal tar, cherry bark and dried animal organs He said:

"Where the mixing of drugs was a skilled trade many years ago, today it is an exacting science. Where 100 years ago there were neither pharmaceutical manufacturers as we know them today, nor academic courses in pharmacy at any university, today research in pharmaceutical chemistry is a strong part of the university's graduate program."

Why the great change?

Chemists began synthesizing drugs — making new, unknown compounds chemically. Once the door was opened, thousands and thousands of new compounds were made.

For a change, pharmacists found drugs that would actually cure diseases instead of merely lowering pain and relieving symptoms Some of the curative drugs were found naturally, such as penicillin, quinine and reserpine

Dr. Blicke, who is a Professor of Pharmaceutical Chemistry, said:

"We did not actually begin to cure diseases until chemists got the idea of synthesizing compounds that did not occur in nature"

He added that synthesis has become an extremely complex business and many of the drugs we take now do not occur naturally Not all of these are perfect, either, he reminded. "There is no such thing as a drug without side effects.

"Our research at present is primarily concerned with improving the more recently discovered 'families' of drugs such as anti-spasmodics, tranquilizers, and anti-histaminics Our graduate student researchers are hard at work to find compounds with fewer side effects than those on the market now.

"For exmaple, we are attempting to take the sleepiness effect out of those anti-histaminics which cause this side reaction."

111 Communities Adopt City-Manager System

CHICAGO — During the past year 111 communities in the United States adopted the city-manager form of government. Now 1,415 communities and 15 counties are using the plan.

Since first trying the system, 53 communities have dropped it, trials ranging from one to 32 years. In the same period 200 communities abandoned the strong-administrative-commission plan and about 800 dropped the strong-mayor-and-council plan.

In Auto Safety

Kids' Car Manners Vital

DENVER (INS) — Children's car manners are vital to auto safety.

That's the word of the Rocky Mountain AAA Club, which says children untrained as auto passengers and left to their own devices can pose a three-fold threat to safety:

FALL OVER

They can injure themselves by falling over seatbacks or being thrown against the dashboard in sudden stops, they can distract the driver long enough to send the car out of control and they can distract the drivers of other cars around them.

Some of the most frequent violations of good car conduct for children include standing on seats, climbing over seats, leaning out windows and playing with handles.

To correct these bad habits, the AAA club offers these suggestions:

—Teach children to lean back and sit squarely on the seat.

HELD IN LAP

—Very young children should be held in the lap of an adult or placed in a special car seat securely fastened to a regular seat.

—Do not allow horseplay. Older children may be given books or magazines to read, and younger children can amuse themselves with toys made of soft plastic or rubber, not sharp wood or metal.

—If children must be given a drink while the car is underway, use a paper cup, not glasses or bottles.

—Teach children to play games such as spotting out-of-state licenses, quiet word games, or other games that do not require physical action.

—On long trips, stop often so children do not become overrestless.

Will Grow Up as Girl

PELLA, Iowa (AP)—Four-year-old Mark Wesselink, who has two older sisters and was hoping for a baby brother, expressed keen disappointment when the news came that he had "a new baby sister."

20 Years in Arrears!

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Colorado State Treasurer Homer Bedford received an unexpected check for $100 recently. The check came from John Curtis Wood of Chesterton, Ind., one of 1,017 World War I doughboys who borrowed up to $200 each as educational loans from the state in 1919. Bedford said it was the first time in almost 20 years Colorado had received any payments on the loans, 859 of which are still outstanding.

Mickoski's Goal Beats Hawks, 2-1

Wings Win in Final Seconds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The logjam continues in the middle of the National Hockey League standings as a result of the weekend "status quo."

All the teams which won Saturday tasted defeat Sunday night. Actually, fifth-place Toronto and tail-end Chicago were the only teams to suffer as time is starting to run out in their quest to gain playoff berths.

The first regular season four finishers qualify for the Stanley Cup series. As things stand now, front-running Montreal is considered a shoo-in for first. But after that it's anybody's guess as to how the clubs will finish.

The Detroit Red Wings are back in third place in the standings—and all because Nick Mickoski came through with a "college try" that succeeded.

The Wings were 13 seconds away from a 1-1 tie with the Chicago Black Hawks last night when the lanky veteran gathered up a crazily bouncing puck and snapped it into the net, wrapping it up for the Wings, 2-1.

Gordie Howe, playing for the second time since a five-game absence because of a rib injury, slapped in the other Detroit marker, his 23rd of the season.

Chicago drew initial blood with a goal in the first five minutes off the stick of Eddie Litzenberger while Detroit's Gordie Strate was serving time in the penalty box.

Howe tied it up in the second period with his short snap on Alex Delvecchio's rebound.

Detroit's Norm Ullman set up Mickoski's game-winning tally when he snatched the disk away from the Chicago defense. Mickoski scooped it up and rapped it home.

The Red Wings now have a 21-24 record in NHL play, one point behind second-place New York and one point ahead of Boston. Chicago is in the league celler with a 19-27 mark.

Montreal turned back the second-place New York Rangers 3-1 last night to extend its league lead to 25 points. In the other game Toronto blanked Boston 2-0 to shove the Bruins into fourth place one point behind Detroit. The Maple Leafs are three points behind Boston and two in front of the Black Hawks.

Goalie Ed Chadwick turned in his fourth shutout in Toronto's whitewashing of Boston handling 31 shots flawlessly. Bill Harris and Gary Aldcorn were the marksmen for the Leafs, who have lost only two of their 12 meetings with the Bruins.

JUST BEFORE THE GAME — Guy Sparrow, Pontiac's contribution to professional basketball, chats with his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sparrow, and his coach, Vince Boryla, just before the start of last night's NBA game between the New York Knickerbockers and the Detroit Pistons at Olympia Stadium. The Knicks' rookie was honored in a pre-game ceremony staged by the Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce. Sparrow and his teammates defeated the Pistons, 100-98.

Detroiters Do Their Part by Losing, 100-98

Pontiac's Contribution to Pro Ranks Feted as Knickerbockers Win

By BILL CORNWELL

DETROIT — It was "Guy Sparrow Night" here Sunday at Olympia Stadium and the Detroit Pistons obligingly honored the occasion by dropping a 100-98 decision to Sparrow and his New York Knickerbocker teammates.

Sparrow, the local boy who battled his way from the Pontiac High School gym through the University of Detroit to the rugged courts of the National Basketball Association, was showered with gifts and praise in a pre-game ceremony.

Then the cooperative Pistons let a nine-point lead slip through their fingers in the 4th quarter to fall three full games behind the 2nd place Cincinnati Royals in the Western Division standings of the NBA.

A sizeable delegation of Pontiac well-wishers made the trek to Olympia under the sponsorship of the Junior Chamber of Commerce to pay honor to Sparrow, this city's only contibution to professional basketball.

The modest Sparrow was visibly moved by the demonstration and remarked, "It's very nice to be remembered by the folks at home. I just hope I can live up to your faith in me."

As so often happens when a standout athlete is given "his night," Guy didn't have one of his better ones. He saw limited action in the 2nd, 3rd and 4th periods and wound up the evening with five points.

An outstanding candidate for the NBA's "rookie of the year" award, Sparrow received a camera, Hi-Fi phonograph and television set at the pre-game fete.

Making the presentations were New York coach Vince Boryla, guard Carl Braun on behalf of the Knick players, and Irv Merkovits, chairman of the Pontiac Jaycee party.

Paul Sparrow, Guy's father, expressed his appreciation for the festivities and Bob Calihan, who coached Sparrow at U. of D., added his words of praise.

Other brief pre-game talks were made by City Commissioner Phil Rowston, representing Mayor William W. Donaldson, and Tom Dodson, Pontiac High athletic director who spoke for Central coach Art Van Ryzin.

There were 2,853 spectators on hand to watch the Pistons blow the game. Down at halftime, 49-48, the Pistons popped up with a strong 34-point 3rd quarter to gain a 79-70 lead.

But the Knicks bounced back with a 30-point 4th period while Detroit's production dropped to 19. The Pistons had a chance to score the tying basket with five seconds remaining, but failed to get off a shot.

Five Knicks scored in double figures, with Braun bagging 20, Ken Sears 19 and Willie Naulls 18. Harry (The Horse) Gallatin and George Yardley, the NBA scoring leader who sat out the 4th quarter, shared honors for the Pistons with 16 apiece.

NO. 1 JUMPER — Kandahar Ski club's jump captain Alden Hyry (center) is congratulated by Robert Bierke (right) of Chicago's Norge Ski club, at yesterday's jumping tourney at Kandahar club's hill, west of Pontiac. Hyry won the veterans' event. Glenn Boundy, Kandahar vice president, looks on. Cold weather held down the field to less than 50 jumpers from Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin.

FLYING DUST! — That's what it was at Kandahar Ski hill, yesterday afternoon, when Briar Hill club's (Mesick, Mich.) Robert Dust (above), sailed out over the slopes at the Pontiac Lake area's ski site. Dust showed fine style in his jump, but failed to land among the winners, in the annual jumping tourney.

Hyry, Jacobs Top Victors in Kandahar Ski Meet

By H. GUY MOATS

Michigan ski jumpers yesterday afternoon set the pace for a compact field of some 30 or more athletes in the annual Kandahar club's tournament at the club's hill, west of Pontiac.

The Hyry brothers of Berkley, Paul Jacobs of Iron Mountain, and John Commons of the Chicago Norge Ski club jumped into top places during a cold, windy event that was unusually free of bad spills.

Several jumpers were turned by the high wind that blew straight into their faces at the takeoff. None, however suffered injury.

Weather also held down the entry, vice president Glenn Boundy of Royal Oak said, Sunday.

A good-sized gallery watched the jumping, only event of its kind in this area so far during the winter. Kandahar officials are planning another tourney, probably in April.

Longest jump of the day was Walter Hyry's 100-footer. Walter finished in a tie for 2nd place in the veterans' division with Pontiac's Bill Schmidt, competing for the Briar Hill (Mesick, Mich.) club.

Alden Hyry (Inkster), Walter's brother, with jumps of 89-93 for 137 points, won the veterans class. There was a 2nd place tie between Walter Hyry and Schmidt who jumped 97-98 and 92-99 feet for 132.7 points.

Other winners included:

Class A — won by Paul Jacobs of Iron Mountain, Mich., with jumps of 85-96 for 138 points; 2nd, Les Grant of Iron Mountain, 82-94 feet for 134.3.

Class B — won by John Commons of Norge (Chicago), 95-95 for 135 points; 2nd, Adolph Osberg (Briar Hill), 88-92 for 123 points and 3rd, Henry Juntunen (Hancock, Mich.), 87-86 feet for 130.3 points.

Cranes Split With Cleveland Athletes

Cranbrook School's basketball squad was crushed 84-54 by Cleveland University School, but the Crane matmen came through with a 24-15 victory over Cleveland wrestlers in a double sports meet at Cranbrook, Saturday. Both were Inter-State meets.

Clevelanders led all the way in the cage tilt, hitting a high spot with 27 last period points. Cranes bagged 13 in the same period.

Tom Bray with 17, Rick Williams with 17 led Cranes. Top scorer was Odenwell of Cleveland with 28 and Preston with 20.

Double Shutout for Dave Diehm

Dave Diehm did double duty as a goalie Saturday and posted two shutouts in city recreation junior hockey games at the North Side ice rink.

Diehm was in the nets as the Sports Shop blanked Rochester in the 1st game, 6-0.

He then offered to tend goal for Dean's Hardware when Dean's skaters learned they had no netminder and the former Pontiac High basketball star sparkled again as the Hardware team whitewashed the Walled Lake Wings by the same 6-0 score.

Jim Preston tallied four goals for Dean's, city junior hockey champion, with Gary Mellema and Lou Preston completing the scoring. John Kendall and Dick Plourde each performed the "hat trick" for the Sports Shop.

In Saturday's 3rd contest, Bill Anderson scored both goals as the Sylvan Lake Alouettes defeated Auburn Heights Boys Club, 2-1. Chuck Nurek tallied for Auburn.

WOMEN'S STATE

Meanwhile, Pontiac women keglers were also making a successful invasion of the Women's State event at St. Joseph.

Local teams took the 1st two places on the 2nd weekend of the tourney. Jo Gohl of Drayton Plains moved into the all-events lead with 1804 and Pontiac also had a 3rd in doubles.

MEN'S STATE

There were few changes in the Men's State tourney at Battle Creek as the 6th of 22 weeks was concluded. One newcomer among the leaders is Lyle Beeman of Kalamazoo. He took 2nd in actual singles with 677 and 3rd in handicap with 732.

WOMEN'S ELIMINATION

In the National Women's Elimination tournament at Dayton, Ohio, Fanatorium Majors of Grand Rapids regained 1st place after faltering with a 2,858 series to clinch its 2nd straight championship. Vernor's of Detroit, an early leader, finished 7th.

The first clean sweep of the season was turned in by the Pontiac YMCA swimming squad Saturday in a dual meet with Flint in the Pontiac "Y" pool. Pontiac's junior team triumphed, 43-42, and the preps took a 46-41 decision.

Pontiac's prep tankers won five events and had four 2nd places. Tom McKinnon led the way with victories in the 20-yard backstroke and the 60-yard individual medley.

Other winners were Steve Sivy in the 20-yard freestyle, Skip Erwin in the 40-yard freestyle and the 80-yard freestyle medley relay team of Tom Harrington, Jim Hudson, Richard Ries and Sivy.

A record fell in the junior meet as Pontiac won four events. Bill Borum won the 100-yard freestyle, Bruce Norvell took 1st in the 40-yard breaststroke, Tom Eley was tops in the 40-yard freestyle and the 160-yard medley relay squad of Phil Cashin, Norvell, Jim Velzy and Eley posted the other win.

Ohio's Davis Great in MSU Relays

EAST LANSING (AP)—Glenn Davis, the Olympic star from Ohio State, should receive a vote of thanks from the Big Ten for preventing a total Big Eight runaway in the 35th annual Michigan State Relays Saturday night.

Davis won the 75-yard high and low hurdles in a meet otherwise dominated by entries from the Wheatlands country. His :08.9 in the highs marked the first time nine seconds ever has been bettered in the event at East Lansing and clipped two-tenths of a second off the meet record.

Davis covered the lows in :08.3, tying the best meet time for the distance.

Jesse Nixon won the 600 and Dan McKinney the 1,000 yard run for Wisconsin but Big Ten runners otherwise mostly ate dust behind surprisingly strong Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma.

Nixon set a new meet time of 1:12.2 in the 600, the only fresh mark beside the phenomenal hurdles time by Davis and a leap of 14 feet 6⅜ inches in the pole vault by Ed Hoyle of Marquette.

Michigan and Michigan State didn't manage a single first between them. The only state of Michigan winner in the relays was Ed Vanderheuvel, a one-man entry from Central Michigan, who ran a fine mile to win in 4:16.6.

Oklahoma's firsts were in the 75-yard dash and the sprint medley relay. Kansas took the broad jump, the distance medley relay, the shot put and the two-mile run. Nebraska won the University mile relay, the two-mile relay and the 240-yard shuttle hurdle relay.

Birmingham Bowler Leads Qualifiers

Frank A. Roosen Takes 3 Awards in Bowlerama

Tom Shara of Rochester Rolls 743 to Capture Top Honors

A Birmingham bowler, Frank A. Roosen, and Thomas Shara a 145 average bowler are unofficially the outstanding qualifiers as result of the men's qualifying rounds of the Press Bowlerama which took place Saturday and Sunday.

Roosen, of 1963 Holland, Birmingham, stole the show at Montcalm. His total score of 736 earned him the high qualifier's trophy, but he also walked off with two other awards for actual high game and also for hitting the high actual series.

The Birmingham man fired a 257 opening game of the series and then finished with 193 and 213 for an actual 663. His 73 pin handicap made it 736. The high game will earn Roosen a bowling bag and for the high series a bowling ball. He also assures himself of $10 and gets a crack at the $450 first prize and even the $1,000 jackpot should he hit the "300" game in the finals February 22nd.

Until all averages are checked with league secretaries and the ABC, none of the handicap total scores of the qualifiers should be accepted as official.

A total of 56 bowlers, or 12½ per cent of the qualifiers, will go into the finals. This number however could increase pending on confirmation of averages.

The percentage break includes total scores of 618 or better. So as to give utmost opportunity for bowlers to reach the finals, all averages of bowlers with 600 scores or better will be checked.

Of the 56 finalists, 32 qualified at Montcalm and 26 at Howe's. There were 117 scores with total handicap scores of 600 or better.

There were many outstanding actual scores bowled. Bill Leigh of Pontiac rolled 199-236-225 for a 660 actual total and this was his total in as much as he had no handicap. Leigh is a 206 average bowler with the West Side Classic.

Another outstanding pinfall was turned in by Harold Hintz of Rochester. Hintz had two of the best actual games in one series when he rolled 183, 234 and 246 for a 653 and a handicap total of 688.

Mike Samardzija, Jr., a 16-year-old Pontiac High student, came through with a 692 handicap total. His actual series was 621 on games of 171, 225 and 225.

Another fine performance turned in was by Bill Bull whose final score was his actual pinfall because he also had no handicap. Bull, a 204 average bowler from Pontiac, started off with a 160 game then hit 250 and 218 for his 628.

Spill Hits U. S. World Ski Hopes

Werner Falls at Finish

BADGASTEIN, Austria (AP) — A tiny Austrian hillock and a miscalculation made in the fraction of a split second told the difference between a great and a not very successful American ski tour of Europe.

The hillock and the miscalculation sent Wallace "Bud" Werner of Steamboat Springs, Colo., spinning and falling just short of the finish line of the downhill race, final event in the World Alpine ski championships yesterday.

Instead of finishing first, second or third—as he surely would have had he not fallen — the intense and sincere American competitor finished 37th.

Toni Sailer, Austria's seven times world champion, won the downhill instead.

"Buddy had fast skis and he was able to beat anybody," American team coach Othmar Schneider said today as the team of six men, six women, two coaches and two managers disbanded.

"Buddy's luck was the worst I ever heard of in sports."

After constant training and competitions since arriving in Europe Nov. 20 the American team can look back with real pleasure only on: A second place scored last week by Sally Deaver of Whitemarsh, Pa., in the women's giant slalom, the fourth and fifth places scored by Werner earlier in the championships in the men's slalom and giant slalom, and the rapid development of 19-year-old Dave Gorsuch of Climax, Colo.

A first or even a second for Werner yesterday would have made the long and expensive tour a success.

Just over 100 yards from the finish of the 11,480 feet course on Graukogel Mountain Werner was moving perfectly.

"He took a good line into the last control gate," Coach Schneider said. But immediately after pausing between the flags the edge of his ski appeared to bite a fraction of an inch too deeply into the sloping side of a hillock.

"He tried to recover—then fell apart.

"Buddy sometimes tries too too hard."

Bible School Meeting in Old Railroad Cars

TIBURON, Calif. (AP)—The Westminister Presbyterian church has a new use for several old railroad cars.

The church rented the Northwestern Pacific Railroad cars for its Bible school. And they were turned into classrooms yesterday.

The 50 children were more preoccupied with the seats than their lessons, prompting the Rev. Forrest Youngquist to observe:

"We'll have to put in portable chairs and tables."

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain, Stops Itching as it Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called *Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

QUESTION: Did London Bridge ever fall down?

ANSWER: You probably have played a game to the words "London Bridge is Falling Down." These words first were sung more than 200 years ago by Londoners to describe the dilapidated condition of Old London Bridge, which was built across the Thames River in 1209. Although the bridge was built well, its stones and wooden planks eventually became loose and some fell into the river. The bridge was torn down before it could fall down in 1769. Buildings and houses were built on Old London Bridge, as shown in this picture.

In 1831, the present London Bridge was completed at a site 200 feet up the Thames from the old bridge. It is supported by five very strong granite arches and is in no danger of falling down.

FOR YOU TO DO: How long is London Bridge? How many other passenger bridges cross the Thames? These are good questions for you to look up at the library.

New Japanese Starlet Can Sing 'Old Dog Tray'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS)—John Huston was only in town a few hours when he came to see me bringing Eiko Ando, Japanese beauty, who is in John Wayne's picture "The Barbarian." "That's a terrible title," said John, "and I'm going tomorrow to Buddy Adler to change it."

Eiko is five feet seven in her stocking feet. She comes from Northern Manchuria; she's 23, and she sings. She sang "Old Dog Tray" and "Don't Blame Me" in a very sweet voice. Said John, "Wait until you see her on the screen."

John leaves tomorrow for Ireland, Paris, and French Equatorial Africa to meet Darryl Zanuck for whom he will direct "Roots of Heaven."

I look to see the youngsters stand in line to see Sal Mineo as Gene Krupa, the hot drummer. Sal, who is such a favorite with the younger generation, does the Krupa saga after he finishes "Tuble's Monument" at Columbia.

I always feel better after talking to Alfred Hitchcock. He is such a wit and always fun. He just returned from Jamica where he went to rest.

Hitchy is busy working on "The Spy Story," (temporary title), with Ernie Lehman of MGM.

Surprising to hear that Dolores Michaels and her interior decorator husband, Maurice Martine, have been separated for a month. She has moved out of their apartment at Laguna Beach, where he is in business, and taken a house in Hollywood with her sister. It was just before Christmas that Dolores gave an interview saying how happily married she is and how much her husband encouraged her in her career.

I could have listened all night to Roger Williams play the piano. He was in Hollywood for a brief twenty-four hours and he paid me a visit.

Perhaps I was impolite, but I coaxed him to the piano, and what I loved was the way he played some of the popular numbers in the style of Debussy, Mozart, Strauss and Chopin. You couldn't believe that one song could have so many variations.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

It's au revoir for Maureen O'Sullivan Farrow and four of the little Farrows tomorrow. They'll meet John in New York and go with him to Spain where he'll direct "John Paul Jones."

The studios are out to corral the singers, and the next one to be signed will be Jimmy Rodgers, who will be tested at MGM. He sang the theme song for "Long Hot Summer" for 20th.

Beulah Bondi, the much traveled character actress, has gone on a trip around the world.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

British Movie Director Wins Guild Award

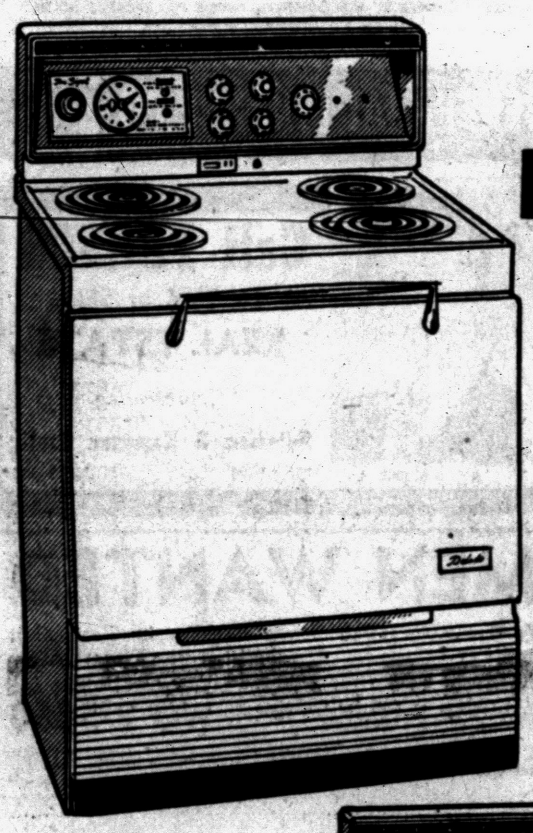

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—His work on "The Bridge on the River Kwai" has won Britisher David Lean tribute as best motion picture director of the year from fellow members of his profession.

The award by the Screen Directors Guild was presented Saturday night. Director George Stevens accepted for Lean, who is in England.

Grains Move in Fractions

CHICAGO (AP)—The trade in grain futures held mostly within fractional changes in early dealings on the Board of Trade today.

Transactions were light and some traders said the market appeared to be just marking time, pending some new development. Dealings in the first few minutes were at prices both above and below Friday's closes.

Near the end of the first hour wheat was ⅛ cent lower to ¼ higher, March $2.17⅜; corn ¼ lower to ⅛ higher, March $19.09¼; oats ⅛ lower to ⅛ higher, March 64⅜; rye ¾ to 1⅛ lower, March $1.26; soybeans ¼ higher to ¼ lower, March $2.22⅞; and lard 10 cents a hundred pounds higher, March $11.70.

Advises Redemption of German Bonds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Owners of German dollar bonds, once believed worthless, were advised today by Sen. Wiley (R-Wis) to put in their claims and obtain cash for them.

In a speech prepared for the Senate, Wiley said there are between 15 and 20 million dollars worth of these bonds waiting to be claimed by their rightful owners.

He was referring to money invested primarily by Americans in bonds issued by 92 German companies in the late 1920s which were for dollars instead of marks.

"During the days of the Nazi government in Germany," he said, "these bonds defaulted and were declared valueless. However, under a 1953 agreement between the Federal Republic of Germany and the United State, these bonds are now being registered and validated."

Holders of the securities, he said, are now able to get cash but they must be registered before Aug. 31, 1958.

$24,000 Jewel Theft Reported in Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—Police are investigating the reported theft of $24,000 in jewelry and furs from the home of a diamond merchant in the fashionable Palmer Park district.

Jerry Krandall told officers yesterday he discovered the loss after he and his wife had been at at party Saturday night. He said there was no sign of ransacking or forced entry.

The missing items included a $12,000 diamond - platinum ring, three diamond lapel pins valued at $8,000, and a $3,000 fur coat. Other jewelry also was taken, Krandall said.

Krandall is a member of a suburban Highland Park jewelry firm.

Break in Main Haunts Jersey

Can't Find Water Cave Spouting Huge Amount Into Underground Hole

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (INS)—An untraceable water main break — known to be spouting 1,500,000 gallons of water per hour into some invisible cavity underground—was tormenting Jersey City residents today.

Six hundred emergency workers searched a four-square-mile section of the business district unsuccessfully again and again throughout the night for a pool of water that would mark the break.

The men were spurred on by the fear that their first trace of the gushing subterranean flood would be a collapsed building whose foundation had been undermined or a caved-in street.

Meanwhile, 100,000 persons in the affected area were without the means of washing, cooking and drinking, including the patients of two hospitals.

Schools in that portion of the city were closed.

It was feared that industries heavily concentrated in the section also would be hard hit by the mysteriously-caused drought.

As the morning wore on investigators resorted to the laborious plan of closing all mains, one at a time, to find out which failed to build pressure.

This was considered possibly an all-day job.

The break, perhaps caused by the severe cold, had put the district on an emergency no-water status by 10:0 last night.

As the night wore on more and more men from the water department, county health department, fire department and police department were pressed into the search.

By dawn authorities still confessed they were baffled by the break and showed increasing concern over its possible consequences.

Stock Market Losses Widen

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market losses widened in slow trading early this afternoon.

Key stocks were off fractions to about two points for some.

The market declined from the start, but the early losses were mostly narrow. As trading progressed there was a general slipping of prices in most major groups.

Steels, aircrafts, rubbers, chemicals and rails took sizable losses. Motors, oils and building materials were not so hard hit. Utilities showed only a slight downside tendency.

Concern with the recession continued. Orders for steel lagged, although steel scrap prices were reported higher.

Sales of new automobiles in January were reported at their lowest daily rate in four years.

The market backed away last week from its penetration of a resistance area and this caused some disappointment among Wall Street technicians.

Ike Schedules Busy Day Before 10-Day Vacation

WASHINGTON (INS) — President Eisenhower scheduled a busy day of activity today and prepared to duck the cold wave Wednesday with a 10-day trip to Thomasville, Ga.

The President will stay at the plantation of former Treasury Secretary George Humphrey, play golf and do some quail hunting. Doctors have approved this activity.

The President rested Sunday, still fighting his cold and sore throat.

Under Fire During Business Slumps

Big Firms Attacked Again

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The question of bigness in business and what if anything to do about it is up again today on several fronts.

1. A small maker of autos tells Congress that General Motors and Ford should be made to split up into several smaller units—and he takes a swipe at bigness in labor unions, too,

2. United Fruit, top banana in its field, accepts a court view that it should set up a rival firm with which to share its banana business.

3. A bill before the House of Representatives would tax corporate incomes according to size—just as individual incomes are grouped in progressive tax brackets.

4. And various persons in and out of government are suggesting that Detroit be told to cut the size of its cars to help out the traffic problem.

Attacks on big business in general and bigness as such usually are stepped up during business slumps.

Small firms who may be having a hard time keeping afloat note that the giants in their industry can ride out the storm in comparative ease—especially if they are in several other fields, one or more of which may be doing all right.

George Romney, American Motors president, says his smaller company is doing very well this year, but he thinks the Big Three in the industry should be made to spin off some of their divisions for the good of the industry and the nation. GM, Ford, Chrysler and Walter Reuther aren't likely to be in accord with Romney's views on the dangers of bigness in auto management and labor.

But Romney cites the enforced split up in 1911 of the old Standard Oil trust as benefitting all concerned. Romney told a Senate group: "Standard Oil stockholders, executives, employees and customers benefitted greatly from the creation of 34 companies out of what was previously a single enterprise. General Motors and Ford stockholders, executives, employes and customers could reasonably be expected to benefit as did those of Standard Oil."

Romney sees monopoly or competition as a major economic and political issue. Many congressional spokesmen for small business have echoed this.

Big business has been quick to deny that its growth harms the nation. It contends that the nation has grown even faster and that increasing needs of consumers have led business to expand to fill them at as low production costs as possible.

The tax proposal in Congress to discourage business growing over large by setting up a progressive income tax on corporations and thus favoring small business draws fire from the Tax Foundation, a private research organization. The top corporate tax now is 52 per cent. The proposal goes as high as 75 per cent on profits over one billion dollars, as GM once had.

The foundation argues that only 15 per cent of businesses are incorporated and the problems of small business aren't primarily due to high taxes. Change in the corporate income tax brackets would give them little relief.

The foundation also contends that "the mass-produced product of larger corporations account for a relatively great proportion of the expenditures of lower and middle income families." Steeper corporate taxes might mean higher prices on goods and therefore fall more heavily on these income groups than present federal excise taxes.

To this most businessmen would add that if Congress wants to help everyone get out of the business slump the thing to do is not to raise taxes but to lower them.

But the debate as to whether the big boys should be whittled down—by a graduated tax or by congressional or court decree — will go on.

Edison to Build New Substation

Walton Blvd. Facilities Will Serve Pontiac's Northern Suburbs

A new substation to provide additional electric power for Pontiac's growing northern suburbs has been scheduled by Detroit Edison Company as part of a $7.3 million construction program for Oakland County this year.

The substation, to be located on Walton boulevard near Clintonville road in Waterford Township, should provide an additional 4,800 kilowatts for parts of Waterord, Independence and Orion Townships.

Construction should begin in July and be completed this fall, a company spokesman said.

Howard L. Canfield, manager of Edison's Oakland County sales division, said the new facilities were aimed at keeping the supply of electricty ahead of the increasing demand.

Two other new substations in the southern portion of the county plus new transmission and distribution lines are planned, said Canfield.

Edison plans to spend a total of $75 million this year on new facilities throughout Michigan.

600 Workers Laid Off by Libbey-Owens-Ford

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Co., its business health tied closely to that of the automobile industry, laid off 600 workers today for an indefinite period.

C. W. Davis, vice president-production, said the layoffs are due to a decline in automobile requirements and building construction. He said factory schedules were adjusted to maintain a 40-hour work week.

Before the cutback, the firm's employment in the Toledo area was 7,183.

Mother Waives Check Hearing

Two Male Companions Will Be Charged With Burglary Today

A 23-year-old Pontiac mother of two waived examination Friday when arraigned before Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum on a charge of passing 14 bad checks totaling $1,320.

Two male companions of Mrs. Betty Lou Harris, 240 W. Ann Arbor Ave., were to be charged today with burglary of a Walled Lake milk depot, where, police said, 285 blank company payroll checks were stolen Jan. 30.

It was from these checks that Mrs. Harris, a widow, received the 14 checks, according to Assistant Oakland County Prosecutor Robert D. Long.

Scheduled for arraignment today before West Bloomfield Township Justice Elmer C. Dieterle were Joseph Kochan, 164½ Baldwin Ave., and his brother Stephen, 1113 N. Oak St., Rochester.

Judge McCallum bound Mrs. Harris over to Circuit Court where she will be arraigned Feb. 17. She was released on a $100 bond.

The trio were arrested last week after a tip from Paul Spadafore of the Westown Food Center, 706 W. Huron St., led sheriff's detectives to the home of Mrs. Harris. Long said she had cashed a bad check at the store for $86.

Former Packard Plant Leased, Sold to Firms

DETROIT (INS) — Representatives of buyers of the former Packard Motor Car Co. said today they had leased or sold more than one-million square feet of the 38-building plant to Detroit and Chicago firms.

Edward Land of Packard Properties, the representing firm, said it will be two to four months before the Detroit and Chicago industrial companies occupy space at the plant, but predicted workers will soon find employment there.

He said employment in the former car plant might reach 10,000 as compared to 40,000 once employed by Packard Motors.

Business Notes

Jerry's Bakery has signed a long-term lease to occupy space at Michigan's Miracle Mile Shopping Center, it was announced recently.

The shop, which is scheduled to open Friday, will carry a complete line of baked goods.

'Big 3' Attack Reopens Today

Expect Romney to End Siege Before Senate Committee

WASHINGTON (INS) — American Motors President George Romney was slated today to resume his attack against what he termed a trend toward monopoly of the automobile industry by the "big three" car manufacturers and the United Auto Workers Union.

He was expected to conclude at a hearing by the Senate Antitrust Committee a 45-page statement in which he proposed abolition of industry-wide collective bargaining and breaking into smaller companies the behemoths of the auto industry, which he said, control 96 per cent of the sales.

Under his plan, Romney said, General Motors and Ford would be the firms immediately affected by his plan to force "birth" of new companies when a single manufacturer accounted for 35 per cent of the total business.

Romney charged at last week's hearing that "Legislation is needed to divide the present excess power of both the industry and the union in the automobile business."

He charged that dominance of the big three in the auto business and advertising has permitted them to ignore less-heralded product improvements by smaller firms.

He also contended that periodic wage boosts are pricing U. S. cars out of domestic and foreign markets, and pointed out that two of the "big three" are building cars outside the U. S. and importing them here.

Romney was critical of the present wage pattern which he said forces smaller firms to accept the same demands forced on the most profitable manufacturer in the industry.

The American Motors executive proposed new laws to allow industry-wide bargaining within the geographical limits only with firms having less than 10,000 employes. Larger firms would negotiate individual contracts, under the proposal.

Judges Divided Over Juvenile Traffic Offenses

CHICAGO (INS) — A national survey has indicated that traffic court judges are about as divided as most people on the type of treatment that should be meted out to teenage traffic offenders.

The monthly magazine "Traffic Safety" finds judges divided into three categories:

Those who feel teenagers should be given special consideration because of their age;

Those favoring stiffer penalties for teenagers than adults;

Those who choose to treat the offense without consideration for the youth's age.

The first category was summed up by Judge Orman W. Ketcham of Washington, D. C., Juvenile Court: "Juvenile traffic offenders should be handled in a juvenile court. The offense is but a telltale symptom of deeper problems."

Judge Roger A. Pfaff of the Los Angeles Superior Court spoke for stiff penalties: "The flagrant and repeated violations (by teenagers) of traffic laws is directly attributable to the slipshod and coddling quasi-judicial procedures practiced in too many communities throughout the U. S."

Judge James D. Gamble of Corporation Court in Dallas, Tex., takes the middle ground. Denying teenagers are coddled in his court, he said: "I docket cases (involving teenagers) on the regular traffic court docket."

Will Attempt to Halt April Nuclear Tests

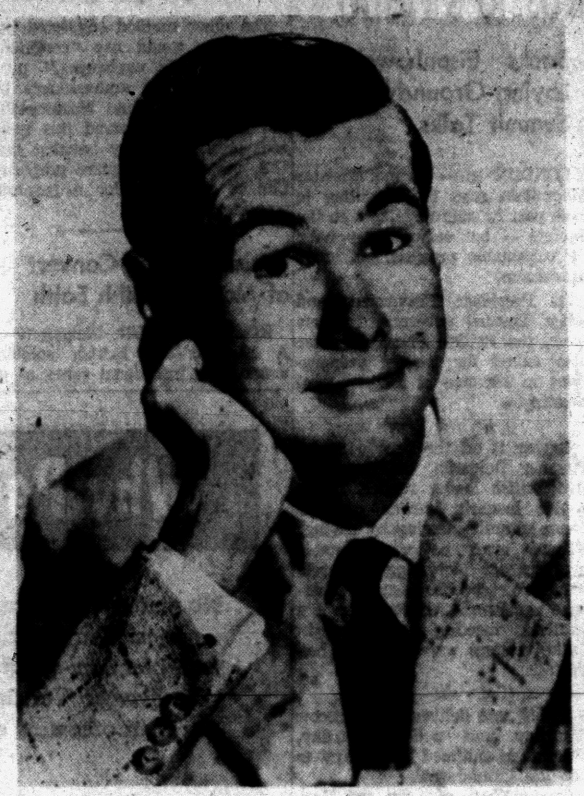

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 30-foot ketch, the Golden Rule, sails today for the Pacific island of Eniwetok in an effort to halt nuclear weapons tests scheduled to begin in April.

The vessel's captain, Albert S. Bigelow, 51, Cos Cob, Conn., says he hopes to stop the blasts by sailing into the test area.

Accompanying Bigelow will be William Huntington, David Gale and George Willoughby. All are members of the Committee for Nonviolent Action Against Nuclear Weapons.

Three hundred persons held prayer meeting at dockside in Los Angeles Harbor to wish the Golden Rule Godspeed.

FAITH IN LAUGHTER — Comedian Johnny Carson, star and host of ABC-TV's "Do You Trust Your Wife?," believes that funnymen will regain their popularity in television, even though they are now eclipsed by singers and westerns. Carson's marital quiz show is presented Monday through Friday from 3:30 to 4 p.m.

Believes Public Wants Laughter

But Comedian Realizes That Saturation Poses Special Problem

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — "Someday," says Johnny Carson, "people will want to laugh again. They'll pull back from their television sets and ask themselves, 'How long is it since I've had a laugh out of this thing?' "

Carson is working his bit for laughs each weekday in the half-hour marital quiz, "Do You Trust Your Wife?," (ABC-TV).

But at the moment Carson, one of the bright young hopefuls in the ranks of comedians, was talking about the wide and-this season-largely untilled field of television comedy.

"Singers and Westerns are having their day this year," he said. "But comedians will come back."

He admits — and knows well from personal experience — that comedians have a special problem, however. As he aptly puts it: "Saturation is the misery of the industry."

HIS OWN SHOW

Last year Carson had his own comedy program on CBS-TV. This year he's working his comedy within a quiz program format.

He likes it, as does a large home audience. So let's get it straight that there are no complaints from Carson — and not a snide remark about any other comedian.

What concerns him in the field of straight comedy is that "it's almost impossible to do a live show every week and keep people with you. Even if you have the best material in the world, people get tired of looking at you."

Citing numerous instances of TV comedians, past and current, who have been criticized, Carson said:

"It's not a matter of the comedians not being any good; they're as good as ever. It's a matter of their audiences not being any good; they've been overexposed. If Bob Hope appeared every week he'd be dead too."

There's New Addition to Wilson's Household

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—My Gorgeous Mother-In-Law has a new admirer . . . "Scratchy," our pet monkey.

"Scratchy"—who weighs about a pound and is from the South American jungles—came into our lives at Christmas. Until then we thought anybody who had a monkey for a pet was ready for the couch.

WILSON

A few days before Christmas, my wife happened to see Nick Carrodo's chimp Koto on Dave Garroway's TV show. "I'd love to own a chimp," she said—and I decided to get her one as a present.

A visit to Trefflich's animal store revealed that chimps couldn't be had on such short order. Besides, they cost $700. "How about a monkey?" I asked. There was a sign in the window urging "A Monkey For Your Home."

An animal handler reached into one of about 50 cages and pulled out this baby which had been brought here for polio experimentation.

Scared of us at first, "Scratchy" would bite. Then he got friendly and insisted on sitting in our laps or riding on our backs. He'd twine his long tail around our necks and clap a small claw in our eyes or mouths—and hang on.

"SCRATCHY"

"Scratchy" seems to love us all—except when we try to get him off our backs—but he particularly likes to follow my Gorgeous Mother-in-Law around the apartment, because he's discovered she feeds him his vitamins, candy, celery, monkey biscuit and about everything else but meat.

He clanks about the apartment dragging a small chain, sometimes cackling like a bird, but at other times studying everything with his big brown eyes. He's smart enough to have found that the kitchen has the most action, so he climbs up on the edge of the cupboard and sits there in his baby jacket watching everything.

Sometimes "Scratchy" gets mixed up. One day he was trying to scratch his leg with his claw. But he was twined around a lamp and was scratching the lamp instead. When he discovered his mistake, he disentangled himself and started scratching his leg twice as hard. He seemed damned peeved at his foolishness.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Songwriter Bob Merrill used his "New Girl in Town" loot to buy a ranch in Elko, Nevada . . . Garry Moore's son, Mason Morfitt, will study journalism at Yale . . . Brigitte Bardot's producer says she'll do a western . . . D. C. Buzz: President Eisenhower will appeal to the UN soon to take control of outer space. Walter Slezak was asked to sing "The Mikado" at the Vienna Opera House in October.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: We don't understand the new generation: They still play cops and robbers — but now the robbers win.

That's earl, brother.

28 U.S. Servicemen Accused in Japan

TOKYO (INS) — Twenty-eight American servicemen were disclosed today to be up before Japanese courts, and at least another ten already in prison, for taxicab robberies.

"Armed robbery" charges are involved in most cases and defendants face heavier sentences than did William S. Girard.

Figures made available to I.N.S. disclosed that ten Air Force men, eight sailors, three Marines and one soldier were now on trial. Another six servicemen are appealing taxi robbery convictions before higher courts.

At least 10 others are confined in Japanese prisons. The exact total is unavailable.

Officials at Yokosuka Naval Base warned personnel through the base newspaper:

"Taxi fares are debts and failure to pay them is robbery."

Indians Used Wampum in Canada Until 1825

OTTAWA — Wampum continued to be used as money by the French colonnists in Canada up to 1704 and by the Indians as late as 1825.

But as far back as 1670 the authorities had ruled out wampum as official money because its value was depreciated by the flooding of the country with cheap glass counterfeits from France.

Explorer Aids in Correcting Errors in Maps

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — The satellite Explorer is giving map experts a big hand in correcting errors of distance on the earth surface.

Over vast areas such as the Pacific there now may be a large variation between the actual distance of two points and that shown on the most accurate maps.

A department of the Army release discussed the use to which the satellite is being put. Map experts will improve their calculations by using the Explorer as a reference point instead of the moon. The satellite was launched Jan. 31 from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Dr. John O'Keefe, Army Map Service geologist, is working with Dr. Charles A. Lundquist, missile agency physicist.

O'Keefe said the Explorer will help reduce mapping errors in the Pacific region from three quarters of a mile to 300 feet and ultimately will lead to precision "on the order of 30 feet throughout the world."

Medaris States Nickerson Case Was 'Overplayed'

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Army's missiles chief says that the value of Col. John Nickerson to the Army missile projects has been greatly "overplayed" and "overstated."

head of the Army ballistic missile agency, made the statement Sunday while appearing on the TV program "Meet the Press."

Nickerson, who was court martialed for divulging classified information, is now in Panama. He maintained he "leaked" information to force attention in order for the Army to share a bigger role in backed the Jupiter C, which launched America's only successful earth satellite.

Madaris said he did not believe a review of the Nickerson case would serve any "useful purpose." First of all, he said, Nickerson has practically served the sentence he was given.

New Video Series Offers Beauty Treat for Viewers

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA) — There's more beauty on TV now, with "How to Marry a Millionaire" debuting via the NTA Film Network.

This is based on the movie, with Lori Nelson playing the Betty Grable part, Barbara Eden filling in for Marilyn Monroe, and Merry Anders taking over from Lauren Bacall.

Of the three, Lori faced the biggest problem from an acting standpoint. Both Barbara and Merry had clear-cut characters to play — the dumb-blonde and the wisecracking smart gal, respectively — but Lori was pretty much in the middle.

"I realized," she says, "that sooner or later I'd wind up playing straight for the other two. So I decided I had to make myself a character, too.

"I'm supposed to be playing a girl with acting ambitions, so I made myself very dramatic — the grand gestures and all that. I did it on the second show we filmed and they liked it, so now the writers are writing stuff for me to do."

Lori's a Santa Fe, N.M., gal, a "great-great-granddaughter or something" of Gen. John Pershing.

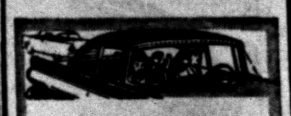

She came up through the cheesecake-and-bit-part school of acting and now faces a rosy future.

Macmillan Calls Russia's Hand

Backs Eisenhower on Laying Groundwork for Summit Talks

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Macmilaln says he is willing to take part in summit talks with the Soviets — but only if they have "a reasonable prospect" of some agreement.

As President Eisenhower and other Western government chiefs have, the British Prime Minister also called for careful preparations in advance of any top-level meeting.

Laying it on the line to Soviet Premier Bulganin, the Conservative British leader replied to the Soviet leader's earlier requests for a summit meeting by saying: "There must be a reasonable prospect of achieving concrete results on specific issues. Otherwise we should run the risk of a fruitless meeting which might make matters worse and not better."

In his note delivered in Moscow Saturday and published today, Macmillan outlined two ways to lay the groundwork.

One method—and the one Macmillan said he prefers—would be a foreign ministers' conference. Moscow has regularly turned this down with accompanying blasts at U.S. Secretary of State Dulles. Only yesterday Pravda accused him of being a "mouthpiece for a handful of American billionaires."

The other method suggested by Macmillan would use "confidential diplomatic exchanges," presumably via the ambassadors in Moscow, London and Washington. Moscow radio endorsed this general idea Friday by backing the U.S. view that adequate preparation is necessary for a summit meeting.

British Soldier Convert of Malayan Sikh Faith

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP)—A 20-year-old British soldier donned the traditional robes of a Sikh warrior today and embraced the Sikh faith. He is believed to be the first European in Malaya ever converted to the religion.

Pvt. Claude Raymond Perfect of London was dressed in the flowing upper robe and short pants worn by Sikhs on high religious occasions. At his waist was a short, curved dagger.

From now on he will not be permitted to smoke or cut his hair, which he must fix with a comb and bind with a turban. Perfect said Malayan and Indian students in Britain influenced him to join the religion. He will attend a Sikh temple in London when he gets back home.
