Luci Dazzles Crowd in Area

By JIM LONG

Luci Baines Johnson whirled into Bloomfield Hills over the weekend, dazzling guests at a Texas-style barbecue and leaving the impression that if there were a half dozen more like her at home her president father would have his reelection assured.

The attractive 17-year-old, younger of President Lyndon B. Johnson's two daughters, mingled with 800-1,000 adult and teen-age guests yesterday at a party in her honor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Wild, 931 Vaughn.

Pontiac Sales Top Records in September

Pontiac Motor Division today announced that its dealers sold 32,558 Pontiacs and Tempests in the Sept. 21-30 sales period, an all-time divisional record for a model announcement period.

In the announcement period a year ago, 32,474 cars were sold.

E. M. Estes, a General Motors vice president and Pontiac general manager, announced that sales for the month of September were 47,798, breaking a 1955 record.

He also pointed out that September sales more than doubled the 18,057 units sold in the same month a year ago.

"We have just undergone the best model announcement in our history," Estes said. "More than three and a half million people visited our showrooms over the announcement week-end."

CURRENT STRIKE

He added that because of the current strike against General Motors, unfilled Pontiac orders were more than 38,000, an all-time high.

Court Hearing Test on Rights

Motel Official Talks on Accommodations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Heart of Atlanta Motel pleaded before the Supreme Court at the opening of the court's new term today for a decision striking down the public accommodations section of the new Civil Rights Act.

Moreton Rolleston Jr., Atlanta attorney and an official of the motel, said the fundamental question before the tribunal was whether Congress has the right to take from a private business concern the owner's choice of running his firm as he wishes and choosing his customers.

"The fact that Negroes are involved in this issue is purely incidental," Rolleston said.

"If Congress has the power to take away the personal liberty of the individual businessman, there is no limit to the power of Congress."

The court, giving top priority to two test cases involving constitutionality of the 1964 civil rights law, got into involved questioning of Rolleston as to whether the commerce powers of Congress alone were involved in the cases.

USES POWERS

Justice Hugo L. Black wanted to know if Rolleston thought the Supreme Court could decide the cases or any, but the commerce clause of the Constitution.

He noted that Congress specifically stated it was exercising its power under the commerce clause.

After hearing the Heart of Atlanta Motel case, the court will take up an appeal by the Justice Department involving Olle's Barbecue in Birmingham, Ala.

A lower federal court in Birmingham held the public accommodations section unconstitutional as applied to Olle's Barbecue.

Her visit with the hundreds of guests, each of whom paid $10 a ticket, lasted about an hour and half.

She arrived at the home of the Wilds about midnight and stayed there overnight with her personal secretary Maria Ross.

In the morning, Luci, her secretary and Susan Celebreze, daughter of Anthony Celebreze, secretary of health, education and welfare, went to church, returning for a brunch at the Wilds for some 75 teen-agers.

While greeting the guests, two Secret Service men never left her side.

Many of the leading figures of the Michigan Democratic party were on hand, including gubernatorial candidate and Congressman-at-large Neil Staebler, and former Gov. G. Mennen Williams, now assistant secretary of state for African Affairs.

Since Luci had to leave the barbecue early she missed out on a chance to eat her share of the thousands of pounds of spare ribs, 600 pounds of beef and 500 pounds of chicken served by Walter Jetton, the chef at the LBJ Ranch in Texas.

Fifty-Seven Use Tunnel to Flee Reds

BERLIN (AP) — Fifty-seven East Germans escaped through a long tunnel dug under the Red wall, the West Berlin government reported today.

East Germany said one of its border guards was shot dead during the escape and called it murder.

It was believed to be one of the biggest mass escapes since the Red wall was erected Aug. 13, 1961.

All the refugees, 23 men, 31 women and 3 children, came through unhurt.

Red guards found the tunnel just after the escape and fired a blast from submachine guns into the passageway.

West German police said that just after the gunfire, they saw an unknown person being carried away on a stretcher in East Berlin. This apparently was the East German guard.

KNEE INJURY

One of the West Germans who aided in the escape suffered a knee injury during the operation, the city government reported.

The East German Defense Ministry said the border guard was killed "by aimed shots from armed bandits" who had penetrated into East German territory through the tunnel.

The victim was identified as Sgt. Egon Schultz, "murdered during the execution of his duty on the state border."

It seemed possible, however, that he was in the tunnel and fell under the fire of his comrades.

THIRD EXPLOIT

Informed sources said this was believed to be the third successful tunnel exploit recently.

West Berlin authorities try to keep escape methods secret and no publicity has been given to the previous escapes.

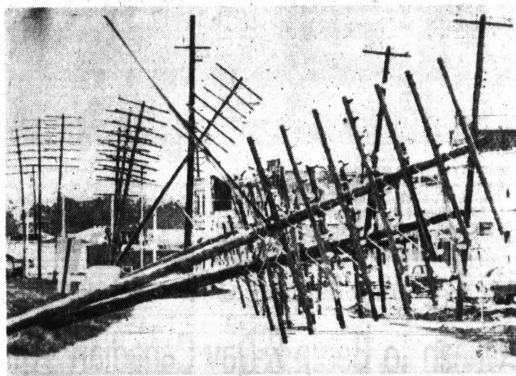

The latest tunnel was under Bernauerstrasse on the French sector border.

When it was learned Red guards had found the tunnel the city government announced the escape.

Since last Saturday the refugees had crept through the tunnel in small groups.

The city government said just before the operation was to end four East German soldiers and three civilians drove up to the East German end of the tunnel.

POWER OF WIND — Telephone poles in Morgan City, La., gave way before the might of Hurricane Hilda on the weekend, leaving a roadway in the city blocked this morning.

Hilda Breezes Toward Atlantic

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) —

Former Hurricane Hilda, badly weakened by a battle with a cold front, moved along the Georgia - Florida border toward the Atlantic Ocean today, leaving at least 36 dead in her violent wake.

Death, destruction and misery came to Louisiana during the weekend visit by the giant tropical storm. President Johnson declared the region eligible for federal disaster aid.

Sucking the cold front in its circulation, Hilda lost most of its tropical characteristics. All that remained was a huge low pressure area containing scattered squalls in which winds reached gusts of 40 to 50 miles an hour.

But Hilda still was potentially dangerous. The likelihood of tornadoes still existed and the Miami Weather Bureau said a 120-mile wide strip reaching from Ocala, Fla., to Charleston, S.C., should be alert to the possibility of damaging surface winds and possibly one or two tornadoes.

Another probable death was chalked up at Pensacola, in the Florida Panhandle, when 17-year-old Bill Waters disappeared while surfing in turbulent waters.

WARNING FLAGS

flew along the entire Florida Gulf and Atlantic coasts.

Winds hit 60 miles at Pensacola, knocking out power in some sections, as the storm passed north of there. High tides caused minor beach erosion.

Hilda wiped out nearly half of Louisiana's $100-million sugar cane crop and caused millions more in property damage.

LAKE OVERFLOWED

At Blountstown, Fla., Lake Hilda, swollen by rains from Hurricane Hilda, overflowed and water sloshed into numerous homes.

"I'm not worried about losing a few flowers when people in Louisiana are losing their lives," said Lucille Clendenon, as she stood knee-deep in water in front of her home near Lake Hilda.

LaRose, a fishing town of 5,000 on the banks of Bayou LaFourche 50 miles southwest of New Orleans, was struck by one of the many tornadoes which spun off Hilda's advancing winds. Twenty-one persons were killed and nearly 200 injured.

At Erath, the city's water tower buckled under hurricane winds, toppled on to the city hall and killed eight persons, all civil defense workers in the small Vermilion Parish town.

HOUSE COLLAPSED

A woman was killed at Jeanerette when a recreation center — being used to house hurricane evacuees — collapsed.

Three traffic deaths were attributed to Hilda's winds and accompanying rain by authorities. A repairman working on downed electric lines in New Orleans was electrocuted and a woman drowned in a rain-swollen drainage ditch.

More than 200 persons were injured — 175 at LaRose alone.

Flash floods drove scores from their homes in the outskirts of Baton Rouge, the state's capital city, yesterday. They joined thousands of refugees from the Bayou country where most of the French-speaking Cajuns live.

10 INCHES OF RAIN

National Pact Gets Tentative OK by Parties

Local Level Issues Must Be Decided Before Walkout Halts

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers reached tentative agreement today on a national labor contract expected to bring an early end to a nationwide strike against the No. 1 automaker.

Leonard Woodcock, UAW vice president in charge of the union's GM Department, told newsmen the national settlement could result in an agreement within a week on local plant issues which block an end to the 11-day strike.

The agreement, announced after an all-night session at the bargaining table, removed a cloud from over the national economy which could be impaired seriously by a long walkout.

GM's assembly lines were shut down Sept. 25 when more than 250,000 workers were pulled off their jobs by the union, cutting off production of all 1965 GM cars.

By the end of last week the company had notified steel producers to delay shipments for at least two weeks.

SIMILAR PACKAGE

UAW President Walter P. Reuther said the settlement embraces an economic package similar to those negotiated last month with the other two members of America's automotive Big Three — Ford and Chrysler.

However, the tentative three-year agreement will not be effective until local issues in 117 of 130 GM plants across the country are resolved, said Louis G. Seaton, GM vice president for personnel.

The auto plant agreements supplement the national contracts of all the automakers.

Locally, there were 580 unsettled UAW demands at Pontiac Motor Division, Fisher Body Plant and GMC Truck & Coach Division as of last Friday.

$630,000 DAILY

According to a GM spokesman, hourly rated employees at the three divisions are losing $630,000 each day during the strike. This is based on an eight-hour day and includes cost of living and shift premium pay.

The marathon bargaining session came after the parties agreed Sunday to switch their attention from local problems to national issues.

In doing so, they conceded (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

Absenteeism Blocks Prelection Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Absenteeism by both Democrat and Republican senators blocked a GOP effort today to force prelection hearings on a political pay-off charge in the Bobby G. Baker case.

Only the chairman, Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., and Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., showed up at a closed meeting of the nine member Senate Rules Committee called by Jordan.

Cooper had planned to offer a motion to have Baker, former Ambassador Matthew H. McCloskey, and other key figures involved in the pay-off charge, summoned to testify last week or the first of next week.

But, without a quorum of five members, no business could be transacted.

WOULD CONTACT

After a brief discussion of the situation, Jordan and Cooper said they would get in touch with other members of the committee during the week to find out the prospects of getting absent senators to return here next week.

Jordan was asked by newsmen if he would urge his absent Democratic colleagues to come back.

"I'm not going to ask them to do anything," he replied, adding it was up to the members to decide for themselves.

He said there was no use in just he and Cooper being the only ones here.

However, Jordan said, "I'd like mighty well to get this thing cleared up."

URGENT RETURN

Cooper said he would get in touch with Sens. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., and Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., the absent GOP members of the committee, and urge them to return for early hearings.

He said he saw no reason why the committee couldn't complete hearings in October on the pay-off charge, brought by Sen. John J. Williams, R-Ind., if a quorum could be obtained.

"I'm disappointed we could not get a quorum," he said.

Williams charged, in a Senate speech on Sept. 1, that McCloskey, a Philadelphia contractor, had made an overpayment of $5,000 to Don B. Reynolds, a local insurance agent, on the premium for the performance bond on the District of Columbia stadium.

Trip Sparks Threats, Loyalty Oaths

Queen to Begin 8-Day Canadian Visit

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I. (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II arrives today to begin an 8-day Canadian visit that has sparked threats from French-speaking separatists in Quebec and pledges of loyalty in this maritime province.

The queen and her husband,

the Duke of Edinburgh, were scheduled to land at the huge Royal Canadian Air Force base at Summerside.

After a brief ceremonial greeting by Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson, the royal party was to board the yacht, Britannia, for an overnight trip to Charlottetown, 45 miles away.

Prince Edward Island's capital, a city of 20,000, promised a warm welcome. Extensive security precautions were being taken, but officials said they did not anticipate trouble.

CITIZENS ANNOYED

Charlottetown's mayor, Walter Gaudet, angrily told newsmen that the citizens are getting "darned annoyed" at suggestions that the situation which prevails in Quebec is also a problem here.

He said he was constantly hearing speculation that something awful is going to happen to the queen here.

"We are loyal and we find it difficult to understand such an idea," he said.

Provincial Premier Walter Shaw also minimized the possibility of trouble.

"We are loyal and we find it difficult to understand such an idea," he said.

Provincial Premier Walter Shaw also minimized the possibility of trouble.

"NO DEMONSTRATIONS"

"As far as P.E.I. is concerned," he said, "they're as safe here as in their own home. There will certainly be no demonstration or distraction here."

Some public officials are concerned that the threats of separatist demonstrations in Quebec and the emphasis on security measures will obscure the purpose of the royal visit, which is to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the first conference on Canadian confederation.

The queen goes to Quebec after two days here.

Her program in Charlottetown includes the dedication of a new building known as the Fathers of Confederation Center. She also will attend a royal variety show in the center and will conclude her visit with a gala ball in the building.

POLICE WORKING

Police have searched the building thoroughly and have screened all employees. In Charlottetown, the queen will sleep aboard the Britannia. The dock area has been enclosed in a steel fence.

Some automobiles, especially those with Quebec registration plates, have been checked as they entered the city.

HEADLINES AND EDITORIALS

The British press stressed the fear that militant French Canadians might demonstrate to press their demand for a separate state. With President John F. Kennedy's assassination still in mind, security arrangements were reported the most stringent ever to surround the queen.

QUEEN IS CALM

Elizabeth was reported untroubled.

A bulletproof car was provided for her drive through Quebec. Royal Navy frogmen were to inspect frequently the hull of the Britannia.

The queen has made official tours overseas every year since she came to the throne in 1952, but only once before has her life been thought in serious danger — in 1961 in Ghana, then beset by political unrest. The queen thrust aside suggestions that her visit should be canceled and the tour turned out a triumph.

Cause Is Set in Lake Deaths

Tug Helmsman Said Not Awake at Impact

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Coast Guard said today that the tugboat-bridge accident on Lake Pontchartrain last June which resulted in six deaths was caused by the tugboat helmsman's fainting or falling asleep.

THE HELMSMAN

The helmsman was Clifford Miley, mate on the tugboat Rebel Jr.

Although the Coast Guard officer who conducted the investigation said no federal law had been violated, the Coast Guard commandant, Adm. E. J. Roland, said the manner of the tugboat was inadequate and the working hours of the crew unreasonable.

The Rebel Jr. was pushing two steel barges early on the morning of June 16 when it collided with the 24-mile-long structure which spans the lake. It swept away a small section of the bridge and within seconds a bus carrying eight persons plunged from the bridge into the lake. Two survived.

TESTING CHARGE

The President added that "the new and lightning voice of the Republican party" in his way of referring to Goldwater was merely trying to use this charge to see if it works.

GOLDWATER DOES NOT RELATE

The "soft on communism" charge to alleged internal subversion, as the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis., did, Goldwater uses it in the context of the Democratic administration's dealings with world communism abroad, in such places as Viet Nam, Cuba and Berlin.

"GOLDWATER AND HIS RUNNING MATE"

Rep. William E. Miller, R-N.Y., planned a morning meeting with top party strategists at Republican national headquarters, and no campaign activity was scheduled for the rest of the day.

TUESDAY GOLDWATER TELLS

Tuesday Goldwater tells to the prosperous Philadelphia suburbs. This is considered prime territory for the Republicans to pick up the so-called "white backlash" vote, reacting against Negro demonstrations of equality.

"POINTLESS RIOTS"

In his train - swing through Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, Goldwater mentioned the civil rights issue. The closest he came was at Wheaton, Ill., Saturday night when he asked, "How can he, Johnson, forget the pointless riots in the streets?"

IT REMAINED TO BE SEEN

Whether Goldwater would try to exceed a low level of a week, he hoped through Montgomery and Delaware counties outside Philadelphia.

THERE HAVE BEEN PRACTICALLY

No Negroes in the crowds that turned out for Goldwater last week, except a few hostile Negroes, carrying anti-Goldwater signs and placards. He encountered semiorganized picketing at Wheaton.

GOLDWATER ALSO HAS BEEN bearing down on the Bobby Baker and Billie Sol Estes cases, calling them "the shadow scandals hovering over the White House."

SLATES SWING

Miller scheduled a swing into North Carolina Tuesday.

Over the weekend Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield paid Goldwater a set of left-handed compliment when he was asked in a radio interview "what would be the consequences if Senator Goldwater were elected president?"

MANSFIELD REPLIED, "I THINK the country would continue to function, and I think that Sen. Goldwater, if he achieves the presidency, would be a lot more responsible than a good many people think."

IN NEW YORK, REPUBLICAN SEN.

Kenneth B. Keating was asked why he is refusing to support Goldwater in his own reelection campaign against challenger Robert F. Kennedy. Keating said in a television interview he and Goldwater are so far apart on public issues that they were not "compatible." He added that he may say more later.

"BUT I HAVE NOTHING TO ADD

Baldwin Public Library Adds 500 New Books

BIRMINGHAM — Some 500 books have been added to the shelves of Baldwin Public Library under an incentive program of the Michigan State Library.

The initial number is a small part of those expected from the state facility. The books will supplement rather than replace regular book purchases of the library, according to director Jeanne Lloyd.

The three-year loan of the books is made possible through federal and state funds available to communities with cooperative library systems.

Baldwin Library, with about 80,000 books, is used by persons living in Bloomfield Hills, Bloomfield Township and Beverly Hills, as well as the 25,000 residents of Birmingham.

All of the new books are available for home borrowing. Both fiction and nonfiction, adult and juvenile, they represent the latest releases of publishers.

In a majority of cases they act as additional copies of titles recently added to the permanent collection or currently on order, Miss Lloyd said.

too, little progress had been made to settle local demands which numbered more than 18,000 when the walkout began 11 days ago.

Only about 2,000 were whittled away during the week.

MUST BE OKAYED

Today's agreement which still must be ratified by the union's rank-and-file membership, calls for higher pensions as an early retirement incentive, longer vacations, additional holidays and other fringes.

The agreement also raises wages in the second and third years.

In addition, Reuther said, it includes a Christmas bonus feature hinged to the level of the fund from which the company pays supplemental unemployment benefits.

This feature, also in the Ford settlement, was described earlier by the UAW chieftain as "frothing" on the Chrysler "cake," which included other benefit gains but not the bonus.

REUTHER SAID THE GM CONTRACT also includes a special $17-million-a-year provision to settle wage inequities and differential at various plants.

This provision automatically will elevate some 2,400 of the local demands to the national level of settlement, he added.

At GM it also was agreed that improved medical-surgical hospital benefits would go into effect in September of 1965 instead of a year later as at Chrysler and Ford. This includes outpatient mental health care, convalescent care and hospitalization for mental nervous disorders, plus prenatal care.

After time out for the announcement, negotiators returned to the bargaining table to iron out technicalities and concentrate on solving the local issues. Seaton said both sides had assigned groups to work by telephone with their local negotiators around the country.

DECLARING THAT THE STRIKE WAS

"about the human use of human beings," Reuther had called the walkout over such national non-economic issues as working conditions, union representation, excessive overtime and production quotas.

The settlement, he said, provides for 12,000 more hours a week for union representatives to handle worker grievances and what he termed "meaningful improvement" in working conditions.

Hilda's backlash by the Weather Bureau struck New Orleans' lakefront by surprise yesterday afternoon.

Winds in excess of 50 m.p.h. whirled across 25-mile wide Lake Pontchartrain and pounded the seawalls. Waves of six feet or more crashed over the seawalls, crossed Lakeshore Drive and flooded fashionable homes.

New Orleans escaped the hurricane's heavy rains and winds as the storm's eye altered course after moving inland Saturday.

FEARED FLOODING

Most of New Orleans, situated between the twisting Mississippi River and Lake Pontchartrain, is below sea level. Residents feared flooding more than wind damage.

Tornadoes dipped and darted about New Orleans and its suburbs Saturday, causing considerable damage. Only two injuries were reported. One twister skipped through the historic French Quarter.

At least three babies were born in evacuation shelters. The first, a girl, appropriately was named Hilda.

lice heard several blasts from submachine guns. That was 30 minutes after midnight today. Within 15 minutes the East German end of the tunnel was surrounded by about 30 East German troops.

NO CONFIRMATION

There was no confirmation of earlier reports that a West Berliner who had helped the refugees through was hit by an East German bullet as he was leaving the tunnel.

Tunnel escapes have become less frequent in recent months after East Germans discovered several of them before they could be used and arrested West Germans who were digging them.

A brief statement issued by the West Berlin city administration said:

U.S. to Seek Stronger U.N. Force—Humphrey

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey pledged to college students today the administration would strive to strengthen the United Nations peace-keeping force and called it "an investment which will save American lives."

Those who demand the United States withdraw from the United Nations are "blind to the realities of our world," the Democratic vice presidential nominee said in a speech prepared for the University of California.

Humphrey was winding up this excursion into California for the Johnson-Humphrey ticket with visits to the campuses of San Jose State and California.

The big Berkeley campus was racked last week by a protest against on-campus solicitation of funds for off-campus political activities, such as the civil rights drive in Mississippi. In his speech at the university, Humphrey hit at what he called Sen. Barry Goldwater's confused views on the United Nations and presented some suggestions for strengthening the world organization.

What he called the most important need of all was an agreement on better procedures for starting and financing peace-keeping missions. Failure of many members — the Soviet Union and France, for two — to pay for such peace-keeping activities as along the Gaza Strip and in the Congo has brought the United Nations to the brink of crisis, he noted.

Humphrey contended that payment procedures might be improved in the future with a special committee on assessments in which "the large and middle powers would have a greater representation than they have in the assembly as a whole."

Said Humphrey: "Certainly we cannot be satisfied with any agreement unless past obligations — including those of the Soviet Union — are discharged in accordance with the charter. But if we can agree on improved procedures for the future, we should be able to settle our disputes about the past."

The United States, he said, "has no desire to interfere with American troops in explosive local disputes — whether in Africa, Asia or the Middle East." But, he added, since hostilities do flare up, "there must be some outside force available to intervene. A stable, professional U.N. force can best play that role."

"Let us never forget," said Humphrey, "that one of the best investments we can make is investment in U.N. peace-keeping — an investment which will save American lives."

Space Lab Falls Short of Orbit

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — A space laboratory designed to help develop methods of protecting space travelers from radiation hazards failed to achieve a proper orbit, scientists said yesterday.

The federal space agency said the explorer spacecraft it had launched on what appeared to be a normal flight Saturday night was almost two-thirds short of its far-reaching goal.

Instead of swinging 161,000 miles away from earth every six days as planned, the 136-pound satellite was traveling only 59,400 miles away before looping back around the globe every day and a half.

The moonlet, sent of seven interplanetary monitoring platforms called "IMP," was about 38,000 miles short of the distance launch chief Robert H. Gray said was needed to get its nine experiments away from the distractions of earth.

As with another satellite named "OGO" a month ago, it is up to scientists at the Goddard Spaceflight Center in Greenbelt, Md., to see what can be salvaged from the mission.

GOOD ORBIT

OGO had spacecraft problems and a good orbit. It has since made better than an 80 per cent recovery.

IMP-2's problem apparently came from a new third stage rocket that didn't deliver the punch needed.

IMP's assignment, as explained by Kennedy Space Center head Kurt H. Debus, was to see if satellite instruments could predict the occurrences of great thermonuclear disturbances on the sun that bombard space with deadly radiation.

Debus told newsmen before launch that the National Aeronautics and Space Administration wants to develop a reliable solar flare forecasting capability before Project Apollo lunar landing flights are set to begin in 1969.

DO YOU TAKE VITAMINS AND STILL FEEL TIRED?

If you take vitamins and still feel tired, your trouble may be due to iron-poor blood. Vitamins alone can't build up iron-poor blood. But GERTOL can! Because just two GERTOL tablets, or two tablespoons of liquid GERTOL, contain 7 vitamins plus twice the iron in 1-lb. of calves' liver.

In only one day GERTOL-iron is in your bloodstream beginning to carry strength and energy to every part of your body. Check with your doctor and if you're feeling tired because of iron-poor blood, take GERTOL, liquid or tablets, every day. You'll feel stronger fast in just 7 days or money back from GERTOL.

Unite Against Sewer Plan

LAKE ORION — The Village Council meets tonight to wind up planning for a $1.36-million sewer system, while some 400 village residents have united in a Lake Orion Homeowners Association to delay the start of work on the project.

Nearly 100 signatures were added to two petitions at an organizational meeting of the association last night.

The petitions, which oppose over-all assessments for the project as well as the high cost of the present plan, are to be presented to the state as an appeal for time to find alternate methods of eliminating Paint Creek pollution.

Associating spokesmen Mrs. Charles Robbins of 622 Detroit said that she and other members of the group will meet with attorneys Dondero, Jones & Peterman of Royal Oak today to plan a course of legal action.

The council has already okayed a contractual agreement with the county for the construction, operation and maintenance of the system, and only financial details remain to be settled.

The council has called a special meeting tonight at 7:30 in the village hall to work out these details.

Although last night's association meeting was largely devoted to discussion of possible action and to informing the audience of the group's aims, Mrs. Robbins was satisfied with the results.

"I'm very much heartened," she said today, referring to the signatures gained. "We'll have two representatives from each area of the village, and from that group, will elect a president."

The remaining representatives, from the Bellevue Island, Swiss Village, north shore and village proper areas, will serve as a committee representing the entire association.

Safety Drive Aims at Home

4-H's Alerted on Household Products

Safe use of household chemicals and drugs has been the main emphasis this year of the National 4-H Safety Development Committee.

Throughout the state, 4-H Club members and leaders have alerted families and communities to the dangers that misuse of common household products can cause.

There are at least 250,000 chemicals and drugs for home use that would be harmful if improperly used, they warn. These include everyday items such as cleaning aids, cosmetics, medicines, paints and insecticides.

They point out that in one year more than 1,300 deaths resulted from accidental home poisoning, of which 30 per cent were children under 5 years of age. Another 200,000 persons suffered disabling illnesses.

Ever since the 4-H safety program was launched 20 years ago under the sponsorship of General Motors, hundreds of clubs and thousands of boys and girls have been cited for conducting life-saving and accident-prevention projects.

SAFETY DELEGATE

The 4-H'er selected for the project in the county state will be the 1964 safety delegate to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago in November, and will then be eligible for national competition.

Eight members will be judged for national scholarship awards of $500 each.

Information about the 1965 enrollment can be obtained from the county extension office.

Holiday Inn Is Riding on Utica Zoning

UTICA — A Holiday Inn motel and restaurant may rise on Hall Road east of Sterritt, but it all depends on the outcome of a public zoning hearing to be held tonight at the City Hall.

A rezoning petition was filed in August by Hall-Sterritt, Inc., a newly formed corporation backing the project.

It asks that $5 acres east of Sterritt and north of Hall Road be rezoned from C-1 (business) to C-2 status (large or businesses such as motels and restaurants).

The city has confirmed that the Holiday Inn chain is hoping to build a unit on the property if rezoning is allowed.

The portion of the land under consideration is that part of the old Keding Farm fronting on Hall Road.

Garden City Man Shot in Hunting Accident

BIG RAPIDS (UPI)—Charles Edward Shelton, 24, of Garden City was wounded in the legs by shotgun pellets in a hunting accident Sunday.

State Police said Shelton, who was treated in Big Rapids community hospital and released, was shot by Levi H. Reeves of Royal Oak who mistook Shelton's white fox for a rabbit.

Troy Viewing Alternatives in Storm Sewer Question

TROY — Should Troy join forces with Madison Heights in the financing and construction of a large-scale, costly storm sewer line now, or wait and run the risk of paying even more to join up later?

This question is to be discussed by representatives of both cities in weeks to come.

Under consideration are two proposals, one of which would include Troy in a project that could cost $12 million.

The other idea would benefit only Madison Heights, at a cost roughly half that of the larger proposal.

Patrick H. Hyman, administrative assistant to Troy City Manager Paul York, outlined the basic alternatives today.

COULD JOIN

He said that Troy could join in paying for a rectangular, 13-foot-by-13-foot reinforced-stressed concrete line that would drain about 7½ square miles.

The line would serve an area stretching from Troy's southeastern corner in a northerly direction from Dequindre on the east almost to Adams Road on the west, draining nearly all of what is called the Spencer Drain area.

Under this proposal, the area of Madison Heights to be drained would be roughly bounded by John R on the west, Dequindre on the east, 13 Mile on the south and 14 Mile on the north.

Troy would be getting more benefit from the line, and would therefore pay the larger share of the cost.

COULD STAY OUT

On the other hand, Hyman said, Troy could elect to stay out of the project altogether at this time.

Madison Heights would then construct a line that would not benefit Troy at all. An 11-foot pipeline would run midway between John R and Dequindre south from 14 Mile to the Red Run Drain north of 13 Mile, all within the city limits.

Hooking onto the storm sewer line at a later date would probably cost Troy more than participation in the large-scale proposal now, said Hyman.

Although it is still too early to devise financing arrangements, Hyman said, it is likely that at least part of Troy's share of the cost for the larger proposal would be borne through special assessments in those areas which would benefit from the line.

Representatives to take part in the discussions will be selected at a future date.

State Weekend Road Toll Is 20

By the Associated Press
At least 20 persons died in Michigan traffic mishaps over the weekend—including four Eaton Rapids teen-agers who were killed in a one-car crash in Eaton County.

The Associated Press weekend tabulation of fatalities began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Sunday.

The four boys were: Frederick Bays, 18; Roderick Cote, 18; John Desgrange, 17, and Gerald Pegner, 17, all of rural Eaton Rapids.

Deputies said they were driving "at a high rate of speed" when the car, driven by Harvey Rogers, 16, of Eaton Rapids, went out of control on a curve Saturday on Petriville Road, two miles north of Eaton Rapids, and struck a tree.

IN HOSPITAL

Rogers was listed in good condition with internal injuries at Eaton Rapids Community Hospital.

Mrs. Shirley Brownlow, 29, of Grand Rapids, was killed Saturday night when she stepped into the path of a car on M57, four miles south of Grand Rapids.

Mariene Lemanski, 16, of Utica was killed Saturday when a car in which she was riding left a rural road in Sterling Township.

A Gary, Ind., woman was killed and 10 children were injured, four seriously, Saturday when their station wagon overturned on Interstate 94, four miles southwest of Ann Arbor. Police blamed a blowout for the death of Elmore Jordan, 52, the driver. Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies said the woman and seven of the children were thrown from the car.

Mrs. Norma Mae Malone, 26, of Grand Rapids, died of apparent injuries in an auto accident. Grand Rapids police said she was found alone in a damaged car on the southeast side of Grand Rapids Sunday. The incident is still under investigation, police said.

Thomas Emery Gary, 16, of Kawkawlin, was killed Saturday in a two-car crash three miles west of Pinconning.

BICYCLIST KILLED

Jackline Richards, 10, of Ypsilanti, was killed near her home Saturday when she pedaled her bicycle into the path of a car.

Calvin Darling, 14, and Donald Bellinger, 17, both of Mount Pleasant, were killed Saturday when a motorcyclist driven by Bellinger collided with an auto near Mount Pleasant.

Mrs. Leon Sinduce, 33, of Kent City, and her son, David, 3, were killed Friday when the family car ran off a road and crashed nine miles southeast of Marshall.

Michael Love, 12, of Howell, was killed Friday when a car struck his unlighted bicycle.

CAR HITS TREE

Ronald Kilbourne, 24, of Shelby Township, Macomb County, was killed Friday when his car struck a tree off Orion Road in Oakland County.

Ellen Bown, 41, of Detroit was killed Sunday when the car in which she was riding was struck by another auto at an intersection in Detroit.

Lucinda Krajniak, a 27-day-old baby, was killed in a head-on collision Sunday on M65 in Mason Township in Arenac County.

Richard Neal, 20, of Battle Creek, was killed Sunday when his car struck a tree in Bedford Township in Calhoun County.

Clifton Southerland, 77, of Lake Odessa, was killed Sunday when his car was struck in the rear by a second auto on M66 in Ionia County.

BOATING

John Clark, 63, of Ewart, was missing and presumed drowned after his boat was found drifting on Osceola County's Wright Lake Saturday. State Police said Clark had apparently been fishing on the lake Saturday morning.

Credit Is the Key to Profits on Farm

It takes credit to make money on the farm.

At least that's what a recent Michigan State University study of farm financing in the Michigan Thumb area indicates.

The study analyzed the resources of four farms in 1959 and posed the question, "What adjustments would be profitable to meet expected 1965 conditions?"

It concluded that all four farms could be more profitable with more capital investment in other words, more credit.

The research showed that in most farm situations, returns on the use of credit usually were 10 to 20 per cent for the assumed 1965 level of technology.

FARM EXPANSION

Smaller farms tended to use more of their available credit for farm expansion. This was to take advantage of larger scale machinery and labor saving devices.

Larger farms used more of their available credit for livestock and associated equipment needs.

"With increasing amounts of credit needed on farms, lenders need to become more adept at evaluating farm enterprises," said J. R. Brake, MSU agricultural economist.

"The ability to repay, not just the assets and liabilities, should be the critical factor in future loan evaluation."

HIGHER INCOMES

Farmers wishing higher incomes will need the willingness and ability to use fairly large amounts of credit. But because some farmers will likely be unwilling or unable to make large debt commitments, many farmers will probably farm part-time and work at off-farm jobs.

Further details of this study can be found in Research Report No. 1, "Financing Michigan Farms: The Thumb," available at county extension offices or by writing to the Bulletin Office, 10 Agricultural Hall, MSU, East Lansing.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Contraceptive Pills Now Safe, Effective

Contraceptive pills have passed from the "experimental" to the "proven safe" and "effective" stages, providing they are properly used.

Undesirable side effects such as irregular vaginal spotting are observed in about 20 per cent of users, but are not a reason for discontinuing the drug.

The pills contain hormones extracted from animal ovaries or similar synthetic chemicals.

They produce the changes in the ovaries and uterus that occur in early pregnancy.

Thus, they inhibit the discharge of an ovum and also modify the lining of the uterus so that conception cannot occur.

NORMAL MENSTRUATION
When they are discontinued, normal menstruation and child-bearing ability is re-established.

The pills are effective when taken from the 5th through the 24th day of the monthly cycle.

They are safe, however, only in women who do not have a disease of the liver, thyroid or pituitary, or a history of thrombophlebitis, breast cancer or uterine cancer.

Furthermore, since they favor waterlogging of the tissues they should be used with caution by anyone with heart disease, migraine headaches, asthma or epileptic seizures. They should not be taken if there is any possibility that the user is already pregnant.

GAIN WEIGHT
Women who take these pills usually gain weight unless the pills cause nausea or depression but this gain in weight is due chiefly to retention of water rather than to a deposition of fat.

Q—In a recent column on diverticulitis you recommended a bland diet. What would such a diet consist of?

A—In a bland diet, milk, bread, cheese, cereals, custard, gelatin, cornstarch puddings, fruit, juice, eggs, cream soups, broth and some meats are allowed. Purged vegetables and fruits may be taken in small amounts.

The diet should contain a minimum of roughage (no raw vegetable or fruit and no bran).

Pepper, mustard, horseradish, vinegar, catsup and other spices must also be avoided. Also omit smoked foods, greasy foods, pastries, jams, alcohol, carbonated drinks and strong coffee or tea.

Q—When a doctor does the Pap test does it show whether you have a tumor or an infection?

A—This test which can be done on a smear from the uterine cervix, the gums, the stomach and other mucous membranes consists of looking for cells suspected of being malignant.

It is not a test for infection in the usual sense, although cancer may turn out to be an infection, when the cause is finally discovered.

New Discovery Now Makes It Possible to Shrink And Heal Hemorrhoids Without Surgery

Stops Itch—Relieves Pain In Minutes

New York, N. Y. (Special): A world-famous institute has discovered a new substance which has the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids without surgery.

The sufferer first notices almost unbelievable relief in minutes from itching, burning and pain. Then this substance speeds up healing of the injured tissues all while it quickly reduces painful swelling.

Tests conducted under a doctor's observations proved this so—even in cases of 10 to 20 years' standing. The secret is the new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—now offered in both ointment or suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking piles—Preparation H lubricates and makes bowel movements less painful. It helps to prevent infection (a principal cause of hemorrhoids).

Only Preparation H contains this magic new substance which quickly helps heal injured cells back to normal and stimulates regrowth of healthy tissue again. Just ask for Preparation H Ointment or Preparation H Suppositories (easier to use away from home). Available at all drug counters.

Argentine Police Prepare for Reaction to De Gaulle

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—Argentine police today prepared for possible street disorders by Peronists during public appearances by French President Charles de Gaulle.

Twenty-five followers of exiled former dictator Juan D. Peron were arrested Saturday and 40 persons were injured when police broke up a Peronist demonstration on de Gaulle's arrival. Police fought the crowd of 800 demonstrators with tear gas and sabers.

Today, 12,000 policemen were called out to protect de Gaulle during his speech at the University of Buenos Aires and a cornerstone laying ceremony at a new French school.

His other scheduled activities included a cowboy-style barbecue at a country home 45 miles south of Buenos Aires and a gala supper and reception for President Arturo U. Illia.

Brown-uniformed Buenos Aires provincial police surrounded the residence of the French ambassador, where de Gaulle and his wife are staying. Their security lines cover five blocks around the house.

ISSUE PASSES

The wealthy residents of the area and their employees have been issued special passes to get through the police lines. Everyone else is barred.

Police made an exception yesterday for one young man who did not have the special pass. He was let through when he identified himself as Leandro Illia, son of the president.

De Gaulle worried security men yesterday, as he has throughout his tour of South America, by crossing police barriers to shake hands with people in the crowd.

He was greeted with shouts of "Viva de Gaulle" and "Death to Peron" by the well-dressed crowd.

The Peronists have been seeking to capitalize on de Gaulle's visit to attract attention to their plans for Peron's return from exile in Spain.

Many Seek Adoption of Little Indian

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—

Parents throughout the nation have taken an unwanted American Indian baby boy to their hearts. They've sent hundreds of requests to adopt seven-month-old Quince.

The task for the Protestant Home for Children now is to screen the long list and pick the most suitable parents.

"It's not going to be easy," said Sally Matlock, the adoption home's executive secretary. "But I plan to do it no later than December."

The case came to light last Wednesday after Miss Matlock said she couldn't find the baby a home.

NO ONE WANTED

Miss Matlock said no one wanted to adopt an American Indian. It was the home's first failure to place a child in 38 years, she said.

The Associated Press ran a story and Quince's picture. Within hours, telephone calls, telegrams and letters started flooding in from every state but Alaska and Hawaii, she said.

Inquiries came from all kinds of people. She said one call was from a family with 13 children. They said they could take care of one more.

There were calls from many families with four to six children—even from a newlywed, a couple expecting a baby, and a prospective bride.

It Seems to Me . . .

The Press Urges All Citizens to Visit Polls During Election

Certainly the total volume of political hoopla seems to be greater than ever.

Newspapers, radio and TV have carried a record number of pontifical orations, promises and assurances. Also the charges and counter-charges have resounded up and down the corridors of a great nation in the throes of a tremendously important election.

Both sides have "viewed with alarm" to the fullest extent of their individual viewing. And each side has proved beyond peradventure of a doubt that their own boys are the Lord's personal gifts to a lucky electorate and should be received accordingly.

This is all to the good. It's a healthy situation.

But all the plus values are lost and all the benefit departs if the voters don't turn out. Some of our more optimistic and yet more observant prognosticators expect a national record. They expect the biggest total in history.

When KENNEDY and NIXON tangled in a red hot battle, 64% of the voters visited the polls. When EISENHOWER ran for re-election four years earlier, the total was less than 61%. Both are disgraceful.

Here are some recent percentages:
Great Britain 79%
Norway 79%
W. Germany 88%
Italy 94%
I recall once in Rio when a faithful driver said: "I won't be around in the morning. We vote. Everyone votes here. Don't they in your country?"

The truth came out.
"The few that don't vote here have to tell a judge why and if he doesn't accept the reason, they're fined or imprisoned."

We have lots to learn.

The U. S. was an early expert in the modern use of a ballot and free elections, but we've been sharply relegated into lesser ranks by other nations.

If this newspaper can persuade you to do one thing — just one thing — we beg of you to vote election day. Really, you're a second class citizen, if you don't. One year the Rotary club read aloud the names of the members who hadn't voted. This was a sharp reprimand but richly deserved. Perhaps names should be printed across the Nation.

We died fighting for the ballot.

Facts Established . . .

This WARREN report establishes beyond reasonable doubt that President KENNEDY was assassinated by LEE HARVEY OSWALD and that he in turn was murdered by JACK RUBY. Further, it seems to prove that there was no joint conspiracy and the two killers were acting independently and without international motives.

This nation and the world were filled with so many sinister rumors, it's a good thing to have the facts established.

Staebler's Remarks . . .

NEIL STAEBLER can't be as naive and starchy eyed as he pretends. In a campaign speech, he tossed aside the $80-million state debt which the Democrats ran up as though it were peanuts. Most Michiganders had STAEBLER on the side of solid finance.

When Romney pointed to his eradication of Michigan's $80-million debt, Staebler gave it the Bronx cheer and pooh-poohed it as a minor incident.

Minor?

What do you mean, minor?

Michigan was plastered with a black, disgraceful and damaging reputation clear across the continent and even in foreign countries. We had payless paydays. We were labeled "busted" — nationwide. Industry shied away. We were losing jobs.

What is there about the Democratic party that sends sane men into mental spasms on financing? As long as it's tax money — YOUR money — their basic party instinct is to spend, spend and spend.

Candidate Staebler does himself irreparable damage with loose talk. When a man wipes out 14 years of Democratic profligacy, waste and mismanagement as Romney did, the populace cheers.

You can't laugh it off.

And in Conclusion . . .

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

Overheard: "A rigged convention is one with the other chap's delegates in charge. An open convention is one where your own rule. . . ."

When THELMA PELISH played in "Pajama Game," she weighed 264 pounds. For nine months she disappeared and then bobbed back in circulation at a slim 159 — a loss of 105 pounds. . . . At the Green Bay-Lions game I sat next to Mrs. VINCE LOMBARDI and she was rather uneasy the whole second half. Incidentally, she's a fine, attractive individual.

Trusted scouts advise me Janet Shipman deserves mention as one of the attractive young ladies in the area. . . . The Dems have a new gag and it's a cute one. At each fund raising dinner, Senator Humphrey is suddenly interrupted by a phone call from the White House. When he returns, he says: "It's a message to you from our President. He asks you to double your contributions."

Overheard: "That doctor kept me so long in his waiting room I contracted three more diseases. . . . Motorcycle sales boomed from 45,000 in 1960 to 300,000 this year and are expected to leap 50% more in 1965."

BOBBY KENNEDY's milkman leaves 22 bottles a day which is 154 a week or 8,008 a year. Happily for him, that annual cost doesn't amount to as much as a pint of skimmed would for you or me. . . . Overheard: "I understand seven of our automated gadgets got together and petitioned for an oil break."

The New York World-Telegram, The Daily News and the Post express disappointment at the bulk of the new TV shows. Ed Sullivan was first, with "Bonanza" second. Julie Newmar drew applause and so did "Bewitched." Cara Williams

Good Idea

The Chicago Tribune

Barry Goldwater has told The Tribune that, if elected President, he would hope to have former Vice President Richard Nixon in his cabinet, probably as secretary of state.

Nixon would bring vast experience and great talents to the state department, where they are sorely needed. The present secretary of state, Dean Rusk, is a drab performer who is little better than a Presidential errand boy and ventriloquist's dummy. What passes for foreign policy in the Kennedy-Johnson administration has been marked by such messes as the Bay of Pigs, the Congo, and the war in Viet Nam. A flashy policy of "accommodation" with the Communists is part of the kit.

Rostow therefore says that the need to deal with peoples everywhere on the basis of an accelerating proximity argues strongly for movement in the direction of "federalized world organization" so that "convergent and conflicting relationships . . . would in substantial measure be simply transferred from a setting where military force enters the equation of negotiation to one of global domestic politics."

On this basis, the foreign policy of the Johnson administration is nothing less than the liquidation of the United States. If that is what the American people want, they can hasten the day by voting for Johnson, Rusk and Rostow.

Nixon is captivated by no such crazy notions. He has always been a clear-eyed observer of Communist objectives and methods, and he is under no illusions that "coexistence" is anything but a tactical weapon to achieve world domination.

He has traveled widely and seen communism in action, not only in the Soviet Union, but in all the continents. His courage under Red attack, as on his South American trip, was notable. He has seen Viet Nam at first hand and has always insisted firm action to achieve victory. He would be an infinite improvement over any secretary of state since the late John Foster Dulles, and he would be certain not to sell out America.

Former President Eisenhower has spoken to Sen. Goldwater in the highest terms of Nixon's qualifications for the post.

The assurance that Nixon would be placed in a high post in a Goldwater administration

Defenseless Women and Children should have a strong appeal to the American people. Their confidence in Nixon was attested in the 1960 Presidential election, when Nixon, as the Republican candidate, lost by less than 120,000 votes out of 69 million. Had Nixon not been counted out in Illinois and Texas, he, and not John F. Kennedy, would have been President.

The American people

All of the people who voted for Nixon now have an additional reason to vote for Sen. Goldwater.

Justice Abused

New York Journal American

Accused killer-rapist Anthony Spencer is finally behind bars. But for two women who are dead and a dozen more who have been raped, his apprehension and imprisonment comes tragically late.

The case of 17-year-old Anthony Spencer stands as another shameful and shocking example of an emotionally disturbed, criminal youth with a record of rape and violence being turned loose to prey on defenseless women and children. We believe it's time that the public was told just why so many young criminals and terrorists are sent back to the streets to kill, rape, rob and assault the innocent.

Spencer was arraigned on a rape charge last June before Bronx Supreme Court Justice Abraham Gellinoff. Justice Gellinoff set Spencer's bail at $500. In explaining why he set bond at such a low figure, the jurist said: "There was no record before me of his having been arrested before. So far as I was concerned, here is a young kid who got himself in trouble for the first time."

His history of crime was in the hands of Children's Court, and Children's Court did not see fit to make the data available to Justice Gellinoff. The shroud of secrecy that prevents the flow of valuable information to the courts must be torn aside. Additionally, juveniles apprehended for the crime of rape, especially those with a background of violence, should be put away for treatment until not one psychiatrist, but a committee of psychiatrists, certifies them as cured.

One psychiatrist recommended that Spencer be discharged from after-care treatment being given him at a State Hygiene Clinic. Some 57 days later, he murdered Charlotte Lipski.

Nikita Will Get Angry if He Sees Film, 'Fail Safe'

NEW YORK — There's a real jarring motion picture in your immediate future. It is the film adaptation of "Fail Safe."

The chairman waxed indignant over the sleepless guard that SAC bombers kept on the perimeters of the U.S.S.R. MAD PILOT

What, he asked us, would happen if a "mad pilot" took it on his own to bomb the Soviet target long since assigned to that particular bomber?

Or, Khrushchev continued, suppose a radio signal was somehow misinterpreted, and the bomber or bombers pressed the attack?

We assured him that this just couldn't happen, and it can't. But if he sees "Fail Safe" he's going to be angry all over again. False premise or not, it is bristling with convincing performances, notably that of the harassed president, Fonda.

The ending, the catastrophic tit-for-tat bombing of New York leaves you limp.

We ran all the way to Shor's. Miraculously, it had survived.

Reader Offers His Ideas on Highway Problems

In reply to Gov. Romney's proposal for 300 additional policemen, I would like to propose we substitute several hundred up-to-date road signs and lights at dangerous intersections. I can show Mr. Romney danger spots where series of accidents have happened, and nothing has been done to prevent more. Instead of a police car rushing to the scene to pass out a ticket, I think we should have a truck rush there and put up an adequate sign.

I would like to see an office created where men rode the highways day and night and reported the bad spots, also a place where people could call or write about danger spots. If there are any country roads neglected, let the state fix them and charge the county.

Let Gov. Romney make Michigan roads the best marked roads in the country, then see about the accident rate. I can show anyone plenty of poorly marked intersections, if they are interested, and not campaigning.

Disgusted With Gas Station Price Signs

I wonder if anyone else in the Pontiac area is as disgusted with the gas stations that put up a large sign advertising their gas at one price, then when you drive in the price at the pump is one cent more.

They say it has something to do with sales tax. That's okay, but why not put the same price in both places and stop fooling the public?

DRIVING OUT NEXT TIME

'Unworthy Families Get Surplus Foods'

The question I raise is, how do some people obtain surplus food? Do the distributors relax the rules or do the people borrow a needy family's card?

Certainly the taxpayers should have no objection to helping provide needy families with food, but do our tax dollars pay for above-average families literally stealing food from the mouths of those who really need it?

The welfare department has a very worthy cause but if they supply unworthy families with these goods, they are not fulfilling their purpose very well.

I suggest the authorities make a thorough investigation of the matter.

Disagrees With Press Editorial on Strike

Your editorial concerning the GM strike is pure panic button pressure, designed to stampede the union membership and the public. I get the impression the writer knows little about the issues. Such terms as "affected negatively," "inflationary," "downhill ride," are for the most part political hawwash and should be used on the campaign soapbox. It is undignified to indulge in such a harangue when many people's livelihoods are at stake.

CLARENCE E. BALL
WATERFORD TOWNSHIP

Calls Governor Romney's Choice Wise

Since pre-convention time Governor Romney has made it clear to the public that he is disassociating himself from Barry Goldwater and his ideals. He has yet to endorse the Arizona Senator, yet Neil Staebler persists in attempting to link the governor with Goldwater and nail him to the Goldwater cross. Governor Romney has made a wise choice in not endorsing the national ticket.

The difference between Goldwater Republicanism and Romney's own brand is like the difference between black and white. Yet Mr. Staebler does not realize this, which is an indication of what Mr. Staebler knows about the finer points of government or politics.

Mr. Staebler must meet the state issues, not the national ones, if he is to seriously challenge for the governorship. Now Governor Romney is standing on a great record with the most progressive two years Michigan has seen in decades.

'Humphrey's ADA Not True to Its Name'

Concerning Hubert Humphrey's ADA or the "Americans for Democratic Action," the word democratic is misleading. The words advanced socialism should be substituted so that it would read "Americans for Advanced Socialism."

The ADA stands for many things:
• General and complete disarmament. (A fine chance we'd have without guns.)
• Advocates gradually replacing our national armed force with a UN armed force.

• Advocates admitting Red China to the UN. (Guess who would rule the UN then?)

The sad part of it all is that the above is the official position of the Johnson administration. A book "Lyndon's Legacy" documents what I have written and much more.

Murphy, Pierre to Debate in California Senate Race

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—California's two candidates for the U.S. Senate were making final preparations today for the first version of the "great debate"—a state wide television and radio confrontation.

Incumbent Democrat Pierre Salinger, appointed to the Senate after winning the Democratic primary last summer, was described as "keyed up and confident."

Republican George Murphy, the challenger, was "pleased" at the chance to face his 38-year-old opponent for the full six-year Senate term.

Salinger, press secretary to Presidents Kennedy and Johnson before he returned to his native state to bid for public office, had this to say:

"I'm confident that this debate will show the people of California my qualifications as a United States senator. My experience in Washington has helped me in dealing with the complex issues that confront California."

EQUAL CONFIDENCE

Murphy was equally confident. He said:

"I look forward to the opportunity to get Pierre Salinger to discuss problems of the people of California.

"I have tried for three months to get him to face me in a direct discussion of the issues. I am pleased he has finally summoned the courage to do so."

The two will debate face-to-face tonight (at 9:30 p.m., EST.) in the studios of Los Angeles television station KNXT.

The state's other television stations were given the option to carry the debate either live or taped but must air it before midnight tomorrow.

Spokesmen for both camps said their candidates planned to spring surprises—apparently issues that haven't entered the campaign so far—during tonight's debate.

Just What Do We Mean
When We Say . . .

"THERE'S MORE TO INSURANCE THAN PROTECTION"

We may be somewhat old-fashioned but for the three generations of our business life we have never deviated from the belief that it is SERVICE which makes insurance protection come alive. Naturally the word and the deed are important to us . . . important to our clients. Selfishly, for us, personal, dedicated service has paid off handsomely the past fifty years and more . . . and, you can bet a cookie it has paid off for our customers, too. If this way of doing business strikes a responsive chord, call us for any information or counsel you may want on any type of insurance — life — home — health — car — accident — marine — and all forms of business insurance. Population Outstrips Food Output Gain

Rome (AP) — Skyrocketing population has outstripped the increase in world food production in the past 12 months. Man-kind had less per person treat, and almost everywhere food cost more.

This was the grim picture painted today by the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) in its 1964 annual report. It came against a background of recent food riots in teeming India and the lengthening shadow of hunger over much of the rest of the world.

The actual overall balance between population gain and food production increase may even be darker than FAO described. Its report contained no figures for Communist China, which has almost a fourth of the world's population.

FOOD INCREASES

The report said it appeared there were some increases in food production in mainland China during 1963-64, but it was unlikely the increases had kept abreast of China's population gain of 15 million a year.

Soviet Russia, with its massive population, had actual food production decreases in the past year.

The FAO report for the year ended July 15, 1964, said world population had increased 2 percent but food production had gone up slightly less than that.

Much more significant than the single year comparison was the fact that "for five years now there has been no increase in world agricultural production per capita," the report added.

FIRST TIME

The past year, however, was the first time FAO has reported production gains actually below population increases.

The increases in production were mostly in North America, 4 percent, and Oceania, 3 percent — both regions already eating well.

In developing regions where malnutrition is wider spread, the gains were described as "very slight" — only 1 percent in Latin America and 2 percent in the Far East, excluding China.

The world's fish catch was estimated at about 3 percent more than in 1962 but there was "a further slight reduction during 1963-64 in the over-all level of unsold stocks of agricultural products." Stocks of wheat and dairy products were lower, but those of cotton and coarse grains rose.

COST HIGHER

FAO said that in 74 of the 85 countries for which statistics were available, the cost of living in 1963 was, on the average, higher than in 1962, largely because of an increase in retail food prices.

There were some decreases, FAO said. Food was 8 percent cheaper in Nigeria, 6 percent in Sierra Leone, 4 percent in Tanganyika and Burma and 3 percent in Kenya.

But FAO said inflation sent food prices up by more than 10 percent in Indonesia, 68 percent in the Congo, 67 percent in Brazil, 49 percent in Chile, 39 percent in Colombia, 33 percent in Korea, 25 percent in Argentina, 17 percent in Iceland, 15 percent in Uruguay and 10 percent in Spain.

Soviet Russia and Communist countries of eastern Europe, striving hard for crop increases, apparently suffered serious setbacks because of unfavorable weather, FAO reported.

New Law Aids Pennsylvania Police in Curbing Teen Drinking

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The battle against teen-age drinking is going well in Pennsylvania, thanks to a 1963 law and alert police and tavern operators.

A boy or girl under 11 may still be able to drink a beer at a party or use false identification to get a highball at a bar, but because of the new law he risks a trip to jail or a stiff fine. Before, the worst punishment could be a light penalty for disorderly conduct.

"I think this law could stamp out our problem with minors in three years," says Bill T. Plastino, Lancaster tavern operator. His comment is typical of most of those who face young people across a bar and have to decide whether he or she really is of age.

The new law stipulates that minors — those under 21 — who "attempt to purchase, consume, possess or transport alcohol, liquor or malt-brewed beverages" are subject to fines between $25 and $100 or 30 days in jail or both.

FAKED CARDS

This puts the punishment directly on the juvenile. Before the new law, tavern owners were dealt the worst punishment. Some innocently served under-age patrons who produced fake or forged identification cards.

"We ask for cards," said Kenneth D. Kochei of Lancaster. "Sometimes several of them, and we also try to judge the ages. But some of these kids are really tough to judge. Girls, particularly, are apt to fool you."

Kochei was fined $150 in 1962 for selling beer to a minor. It almost made him quit the tap-room business, because of the risk.

Today, he's high in praise of the new law which he says has "cut down the number of minors coming in here trying to buy alcoholic beverages."

Detective Capt. David M. Rimer of Lancaster said the law had made it easier for officers to deal with under-age drinkers.

"Many of our men now come across infractions while carrying out routine duties. When this happens, we have the authority to make an arrest with the knowledge that a prosecution is justified," he says.

"It's the best law ever passed," says Richard Hagerty, Warren County deputy sheriff. He asserts the statute not only deters youthful liquor purchases, but it is equally effective in unweaving their suppliers.

STIFFER PENALTIES

The reason is that minors who are unwilling to disclose information about where they obtained liquor or beer are threatened with stiffer sentences. This generally loosens their tongues, says Hagerty.

In Bellefonte, police make spot checks of automobiles with young drivers Saturday nights.

"If we find a case of beer in the trunk we make an arrest," says Police Chief Eugene Stine.

"There's none of this stuff about one of the parents leaving it there without the knowledge of the child."

Stine said offenders between 18 and 21 are taken directly to a local magistrate who can mete out punishments promptly.

Lancaster Alderman William

A. Hull Jr. says he judges each case individually with first offenders fined $25 and the second offenders tabbed with $50.

"I make it a point to inform each offender that the penalty will probably be greater if he or she is a repeater on the same charge," says Hull.

Statistics compiled by Pennsylvania's Liquor Control Board show that the law has cut in half charges against taprooms for selling to minors.

Young people make these grips:

"When we leave school, we are expected to assume the responsibilities of adults," said a 19-year-old girl who was arrested when police found liquor in the car in which she was a passenger.

"If we are to assume the responsibilities of adults why shouldn't we have the privileges of adults?"

Another youth, also unidentified, said:

"You're just unlucky if you get caught, that's all. Sometimes you go for months or even years without getting caught. I think the problem would be solved if the age limit was 18 because it wouldn't be a big deal anymore."

The major argument in favor of a lowered drinking age, as far as minors are concerned, is that 18-year-olds are eligible for the draft.

"If you must register at 18 and are liable to be sent overseas to fight and die for your country," one boy asks, "why can't you buy a beer in your country?"

Pennsylvania police answer: "Because it is against the law."

Open OU Arts Series With 'Ballet '64' Review

(Editor's Note: Our reviewer, Miss Appletton, teaches creative dance at the Birmingham Conservatory of Music. In the past, she has taught at Wayne State University, Oakland University, George Washington University and the University of Minnesota.)

By ELIZABETH APPLETON The 1964-65 Oakland University-Community Arts Council Concert Lecture Series got a good start at the Pontiac Northern High School auditorium Saturday evening with an imaginative performance of "Ballet '64'."

"Ballet '64' is a division of the San Francisco Ballet—one of the nation's fine ballet companies. It was formed originally as a dance workshop, to give the company's young dancers and choreographers an opportunity for experimentation in dance composition, music, lighting and costumes.

The origins of "Ballet '64' are perhaps the key to the program itself. When the company's experiments came off, there were delightfully comic and deeply moving moments. Even when they did not, fine individual efforts often provided a rewarding focus of interest.

Eric Norris Will Perform

Eric Norris, popular English organist, will present a program of organ music at the first meeting of the season of the Pontiac Area Hammond Organ Society.

The first and third pieces on the program, "Sonnet" and "Pas de Trois," were ballets in the classic style, well-executed for the most part—though the company seems to need more work in ensemble precision. Lew Christensen's choreography for "Pas de Trois" was unusually inventive for a traditional ballet composition.

Ron Poindexter's choreography was the highlight of the evening. His experimental use of music, lighting, props and sound in "Counterparts" was fresh and altogether delightful. In "The Set," the last piece of the evening, he began brilliantly—with superb pacing, crisp movement and a keen awareness of space design.

The form of the dance deteriorated somewhat toward the end, due to the inactivity of dancers on stage awaiting their turn for solo performance. Nevertheless Poindexter's innovative play between lighting and the dance merit special mention.

All told, "Ballet '64" provided a pleasant evening of dance, and brought to Pontiac a group of extraordinarily talented young performers. Eloise Tjalsland and Henry Berg in "Counterparts," and Sally Bailey in her various roles performed with particular distinction.

Beyond this, "Ballet '64" introduced here a new kind of "grass roots" movement for developing the traditional ballet which warrants both admiration and emulation for the opportunities it offers to composers, performers and the community alike.

Experiments in the dance will not always be successful, but only if they are supported, can the vital young choreographers and dancers of today grow tomorrow into the exciting and mature artists which our society needs and deserves.

Food Editors Sample Dessert

By JANET ODELL Pontiac Press Food Editor NEW YORK CITY—Seven thousand morels were flown from France for the opening dinner of the 1964 Food Editors' conference Sunday evening. Scott Paper Company entertained the 160 food writers at the Four Seasons restaurant.

In keeping with the theme of the two-party system, our hosts served two different, but similar menus. However, food editors are incurably curious so that there was much sampling back and forth.

Fresh salmon and roast veal were flown for the appetizer and main course.

Dessert was in two parts, both fabulous. First came poached whole pears set in a shortbread-style cookie and surrounded with a chocolate shell looking like a calla lily. With coffee there were glazed strawberries.

TRY THIS

These are something Press readers might try. You'll need large, perfect berries and the sort of clear syrup that is used for candied apples. Dip the berries and let them harden on a sheet of waxed paper or foil.

After dinner we were invited to see the kitchen of this famous restaurant. So quickly had the staff worked that all the dishes were done and the place was in spic and order. One item intriguing many of us were the pots of herbs growing on one of the shelves—just like in a home kitchen.

This morning, Florida Citrus Commission entertained us at brunch in the English style. I passed up the Dover sole—flown in from England—but did enjoy beef and kidney pie.

In between the brunch and tonight's affair, the food editor from Huntington, W. Va. and I took the boat trip around Manhattan.

WORLD'S FAIR

Yesterday I went to the World's Fair. Just wish I had time and endurance to try all the foreign foods offered in the various restaurants.

I was intrigued with the waffles served in the Belgian village. They're so much thicker than our waffles and are eaten out of hand—topped with whipped cream and strawberries or just dusted with confectioners sugar.

Today was the first of our six-day session hearing the latest news of food. I expect to keep you posted daily.

Local BPW Represented at Meeting

Nine members of the Pontiac Business and Professional Women's club (BPW) and two guests attended the fall meeting of District 10 of the Michigan Federation of BPW.

More than 100 women, representing 22 clubs, attended the Sunday luncheon in the Executive Inn, Warren.

Rosamond Haeblerle from Pontiac, assistant director for the district, reported on the state board meeting and the presidents' council.

District finance chairman, Mrs. Leo McDonald from the Pontiac chapter, participated in skill presented by all district chairmen.

MAKE PLANS

Plans were made for the winter and spring meetings, an exchange of club presidents and publishing a monthly district bulletin.

The Pontiac club was one of eight hostess groups. Mrs. Lucinda Wyckoff and Mrs. E. C. Carlson served.

Other members attending were Mrs. Paul Hammond, Mrs. Fritz Stoddard, Vera Bassett, Mabel Smith and Helen Kinney. Mrs. Lola Kamp and Cleo Wiley were guests.

Have Pal Meet Date at Station

By The Emily Post Institute Q: I have invited a girl from my home town to a football game and dance here at college. She will be arriving about noon on Saturday by train.

I have a late class on Saturday morning and may not be able to get away in time to meet her at the train. Must I send someone in my place to meet her?

A: If it is impossible for you to meet her, you should arrange for a fraternity brother or classmate to be there in your place.

Q: I received a wedding invitation worded as follows: The honour of your presence is requested at the marriage of Miss Jane Doe and Mr. Henry Black

I have to answer this invitation and am completely at a loss as to how to do so. Will you please tell me how to word a reply in this situation?

A: You word your reply as follows: Miss Mary Smith accepts with pleasure Miss Jane Doe's and Mr. Henry Black's kind invitation for (date)

Q: I have invited two women friends to spend the weekend with me at my house in the suburbs. I work in the city so do these two friends.

I plan to meet them Friday evening after office hours and we will take the train out together. I have a commutation ticket but I am wondering if I am expected to pay their train fare.

A: They pay their own fare.

Q: I have just bought an expensive tablecloth with matching napkins. In the past I have had several of my fine dinner napkins ruined with indelible lipstick stains.

I would like to prevent this from happening to my new ones and I was wondering if it would be at all permissible to place a paper tissue in with the napkin for women guests to wipe off their excessive lipstick and thus avoid heavy lipstick stains on my napkins.

A: I'm sorry, but it would not do at all to place paper tissues in with the napkins for the women guests to wipe off their lipstick.

The Emily Post Institute offers readers booklets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette.

If you would like the booklet entitled "Manners in Public," send 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Emily Post Institute, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Femininity Strikes Again

NEW YORK—A special credit card called "Hers" has been introduced by Carte Blanche, whose general credit cards are honored by more than 100,000 businesses.

It's said to be the first national credit card designed exclusively for women and it's delicately printed in pink and gold.

It emancipates the feminine shopper from having to ask husband for the family credit card.

WOMEN'S SECTION

Letter Brings Answers

Complaint Ill-Founded

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN DEAR ABBY: Some woman signed "BOILING OVER" complained because she, a blood relative, rode in the fifth car behind the horse at her mother's funeral while "relatives-by-marriage" rode in cars ahead of her.

You said, in your opinion, husbands and wives belonged together at funerals in order to console and comfort each other.

I am with you, Abby. My husband was only a son-in-law, but my mother couldn't have loved him more if he had been her own son.

In fact, he treated my mother better during her lifetime than her own sons did. We didn't even think about how far back we were in the procession of cars at her funeral.

And anyone who did, couldn't have been mourning very much for the one they had come to lay to rest.

DEAR ABBY: "BOILING OVER" infuriated me! I am one of 16 children, and I was always accused of being my mother's favorite.

At her funeral I rode in the LAST car of relatives and I couldn't have cared less if I had been in the last car of the whole procession.

I knew in my heart that I was the closest to my mother. Why? Because all the rest of them waited until the last week of her lingering illness to rush to her side. I was there the moment I learned she was ill. And I was there every day for as long as she needed me.

"THE LAST CAR"

DEAR ABBY: Your opinion on funeral protocol was correct. The spouse of the deceased always rides in the first family car behind the hearse.

Should there be a large number of children, the proper sequence is as follows: The eldest daughter, her husband and their children ride in the first car.

The other married daughters and their families follow, giving priority to age.

Next come the unmarried daughters. Then the eldest married son and his wife and family, followed by the other married sons and their families.

Then the unmarried sons. Variations occur, but this is generally the accepted order.

Very truly yours, TAMPA FUNERAL DIRECTOR

DEAR ABBY: "Someone signed "BOILING OVER" tipped her hand when she complained in a letter to you that she should have been closer to the front in the line-up of cars at the funeral procession.

I have concluded the following: (1) Those who cry the loudest and make the most dramatic displays of emotion are the ones who did the least for the deceased during his lifetime.

(2) Those who are sincerely, deeply, grieved are not concerned with where they sit or where they ride on the way to the cemetery.

(3) Those who criticize the dress or conduct of others attending a funeral have very little feeling for the deceased, and have come to the funeral out of curiosity and with the same attitude with which they would attend a social gathering.

Sincerely yours, PHOENIX FUNERAL DIRECTOR

A Beauty Hint

Margaret Merrill advises that it is quite simple for every woman to promote an English countryside complexion. Her hint to gain a peaches-and-cream loveliness is to drench a cloth with cold water from your refrigerator and press it over your face for a few minutes once or twice a day. Then, to hold the good of the complexion-beautifying, cold water smooth on a little tropical oil of olay. This oil is rather scarce and expensive but your drug store should be able to get you a small supply.

Two Couples Pledge Vows

TEWS-PARSONS

Former Pontiac resident, Nancy Louise Parsons, now of Saginaw, exchanged vows with John Howard Tews, Saturday, in the Grace Lutheran Church.

Their parents are the Richard H. Parsons of Saginaw and Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Tews of Menominee Falls, Wis.

Rev. Richard C. Stuckmeyer performed the evening ceremony, followed by a church reception and open house in the Sylvan Lake home of the Fred Crossmans.

After a honeymoon in Minnesota and Wisconsin, the couple will live in Menominee Falls.

CROSS-BOWREN

A recent candlelight ceremony in the Earl Bowren home on Perryville Road, Groveland Township, marked the vows of their daughter Linda Mae, to Samuel G. Cross.

With her street-length gown of Chantilly lace and white silk organza over satin, the bride wore a lace pillow and silk illusion veil.

'Small' Hairdo Is 'Skimmer'

The "small" hairdo is in to go with skinny coats, trouser suits and narrow suits.

One chain of salons calls its small hairdo the "skimmer," with the sides pared down, the neckline raised to a square-off blunt cut or short V-shingle, and the crown lifted to either a smooth oval or a ruffle of loose curls.

Attending their cousin at the ceremony performed by Rev. William Lankton of Holly, were Joyce Bowren, bridesmaid, along with Nancy and Diane Bowren.

Donald Cross assisted his brother as best man. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Cross of Holly.

The couple will reside in Holly after their honeymoon in northern Michigan.

'Receet' for Wasing Clothes

Years ago, a Kentucky grandmother gave a new bride the following "receet" for washing clothes.

It appears below just as it was written, and despite the spelling, has a bit of philosophy:

1. Bilt fire in backyard to heat kettle of rain water,
2. Set tubs so smoke won't blow in eyes if wind is pert.

BILIN WATER

3. Shave one hole cake lie sope in bilin water.

4. sort things, make three piles. 1 pile white, 1 pile cul-lord, 1 pile work briches and Rags.

5. stir flour in cold water to smooth, then thin down with bilin water.

6. rub dirty spots on board, scrub hard, then bile. Rub cullored, don't bile just rench in starch.

RENCH

7. take white things out of kettle with broomstick handle, then rench, biew and starch.

8. spread tee towels on grass.

9. hang old rags on fence.

10. pore rench water in flour beds.

11. scrub porch with hot soapy water.

12. turn tubs upside down.

13. go put on clean dress.

smooth hair with side comb, brew cup of tee, set and rest and rock a spell and count your blessins.

Hang this up above your automatic washer and wifen again.

How come 44,000,000 people are insured by Metropolitan Life —more than by any other company in the world?

Mostly it's because our customers like the way we treat them—and their money. Big as Metropolitan is, we've never lost the personal touch.

With 31,000 field representatives across the continent—a staff of 64,000 in all—Metropolitan always has someone nearby to give personal attention to every claim or question.

These advisers are specially trained to give Metropolitan's famous Family Security Check-Up. This is a clear-eyed analysis of your family's financial security that often turns up assets you never even knew you had.

Your Metropolitan adviser can also show you a number of ways to stretch your coverage far beyond what you thought your budget would allow.

For example, take a simple Metropolitan income rider. This can make a $10,000 policy pay off as much as $50,000 to your wife and kids. Something to look into.

Also, be sure to ask how you can start collecting from Metropolitan while you're still around. One way is an ingenious plan that lets you turn an ordinary policy into a retirement fund any time you feel like it.

These are a few of the facts and figures that explain why Metropolitan advisers are asked to give thousands of Family Security Check-Ups every day. And why one out of every five people in the U.S. and Canada is insured by Metropolitan. And also why one out of every two Metropolitan life policies bought, is bought by one of our present policyholders.

Now—here are some other reasons why more people choose Metropolitan:

- We pay policyholders and beneficiaries an average of a million dollars an hour every business day. Last year, that added up to over $2 billion. And two-thirds went to living policyholders.

- Metropolitan offers an unusually wide range of life and health plans and annuities. This permits your Metropolitan adviser to tailor a program specifically to your needs. We can insure you for any amount from $500 to a cool $5 million—or even more.

- Nearly half the 100 largest U.S. industrial corporations (plus 42,000 other companies large and small) insure their employees with Metropolitan.

- Metropolitan has more life insurance in force than any other company—more than $107 billion.

- A pioneer in health education, Metropolitan has given away 1.8 billion pieces of health and safety literature.

- Metropolitan invests an average of $8 million every business day in U.S. and Canadian communities—spurring new ventures such as jet aviation and modern housing—stimulating jobs for millions—and getting a good return for our policyholders at the same time.

Remember, after the three basic necessities, food, clothing and shelter, the Fourth Necessity is enough life insurance. And the company you get it from can make a difference—a very big difference in the security you provide for your family.

Why not call your local Metropolitan adviser? There's no obligation...except to those you love.

More choose Metropolitan Life millions more than any other company

King of Greece Defends Mother in Family Quarrel

ATHENS (AP) — King Constantine of Greece has defended Queen Mother Frederika against a public charge by his cousin, Prince Peter, that she has caused friction in the royal family for the past 17 years.

Constantine, 24, interrupted his honeymoon with Queen Anne-Marie and returned to Athens to tell off Prince Peter, 56, who also has challenged the order of succession to the Greek throne.

Peter, who lives in Paris, is second in line to the throne after Crown Princess Irene, 22, Constantine's sister. It is the first time in the 100-year history of the present Greek dynasty that a woman is next in line for the throne.

Peter told a news conference Sunday he was studying the constitution to see how the present order of succession was arrived at.

NO DETAILS

He charged Frederika with causing dissension within the Greek royal family but declined to give details. He said he wanted to talk with Constantine before possibly disclosing his difficulties with the 47-year-old German-born queen mother.

Peter also agreed with a long-standing charge by political opponents of the royal family that the court runs up exorbitant expenses.

Speaking through Premier George Papandreu, Constantine accused the prince of "improper personal behavior." He said Peter had raised the question of succession to the throne for personal reasons.

"It is obvious his actions are harmful and bad for the nation," the statement said. "He is trying to upset the normal political life of the day and his statements are incorrect, improper and are denounced."

MARRIED COMMONER

Prince Peter, a well-known anthropologist, arrived in Athens Saturday night. While living in India for some years he married a White Russian commoner, Irene Ovchinnikoff, Frederika reportedly disapproved of the match and Peter's wife never accompanies him to Athens.

Frederika for years has been criticized by certain circles in Greece who accuse her of exerting undue influence and of extravagance. Her wrath was kindled 10 days ago by press reports that a $100,000 annual pension was being used to tempt her into retiring to an estate in Austria. She wrote Papandreu she had no intention of leaving Greece and didn't want the pension.

Three Hunters Drown

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (AP) — Police identified Sunday three hunters from Toledo, Ohio, who drowned in Lake Kankakee, 180 miles northwest of Sault Ste. Marie. Police said they were Robert Caverly, 42, Ollie Drujawa, 36, and Joseph Majestic. Their boat capsized and their bodies were discovered on the shore Saturday.

News of the World

New Premier Rules Syria

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — President Amin Hafez has taken over the premiership of Syria from Salah Bilar in a government shakeup expected to result in a tougher stand toward neighboring Iraq.

Both men are members of Syria's ruling Baath Socialist party, which was toppled from power in Iraq last November. Bilar, 53, premier since March 1963, has been accused of appeasing Iraq, which is closely allied to President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic. Hafez, 51, is an avowed foe of Nasser.

The nation's revolutionary council accepted Bilar's resignation at a meeting Saturday night, a communique said.

The communique charged Iraqi President Abdel Salam Arai of "hailing and brutally oppressing tens of thousands of Iraqi Baathists under the false pretext of master-minding a recent plot to overthrow his regime."

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Armed Indonesian pirates aboard a gunboat swept down on a Malaysian fishing fleet Saturday and seized 29 vessels, police reported today. It was the biggest sea raid reported since Indonesia mounted its campaign to smash Malaysia. Fifty-five fishermen were taken prisoner, but 43 were turned loose and returned aboard four of their boats.

ROME (AP) — The Italian cost of living index rose in August by two-tenths of one percent over July, the government central statistical institute reported today.

The rise means automatic wage increases for many categories of Italian workers whose contracts contain cost-of-living clauses.

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Socialist Finance Minister Andreas Cappelen proposed the biggest budget in Norwegian history today, up 13 percent from last year. He also proposed to increase the general sales tax from 10 to 12 percent to help finance it.

REACH NEW HIGH Defense appropriations hit a new high, increasing 5 percent over last year.

The budget charted spending to total $1.67 billion, of which $275.9 million would be for defense.

Louisiana Fights 'Monster'

(Editor's Note: Hurricane Hilda struck a deadly, disastrous path through Louisiana on Saturday and Sunday. A team of United Press International reporters was staying from New Orleans to New Iberia, to cover it. This is the story of what they saw.)

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A monster hurricane is something that breathes in a 120-mile-an-hour snarl and crushes the life out of a young radio operator trying to shout a warning.

This was a monster of the genus hurricane: Name: Hilda — born on the morning of Sept. 30 in the incubating warmth of tropical waters between Cuba and the Yucatan Peninsula.

The story of Hilda is written in the Weather Bureau's cold recitation of winds that reached 150 miles per hour, in mathematics of latitude and longitude plots, in a curving pencil scribble of lines and x's from the Yucatan across Louisiana on a tattered map. It is also a story of people.

SOME WON SOME LOST

At first, Hilda was just an "easterly wave," a band of squalls and winds annoying nothing, save perhaps some fish and birds or a remote fishing vessel. But the Gulf of Mexico breeds her monsters fast.

Hilda was a hurrier. In a matter of hours, she grew from a wave into a tropical storm, the eighth this year — and finally into a full-blown hurricane of fearsome proportions.

Thursday afternoon, a bulletin from the New Orleans Weather Bureau: "... ordered hurricane warnings raised on the Louisiana coast west of the mouth of the Mississippi River ..."

It was late Friday and Hilda was 150 miles offshore, feeling out the Louisiana coastline with tenuous drizzles that shined roads to a deadly polish and windy gusts that rattled the minority of windows not yet taped or boarded. Louisiana was almost ready.

NOT QUITE

Almost ... but not quite. In marshy Lafourche Parish, sheriff Eddie Ste. Marie was having trouble persuading his people to leave their homes. In little LaRose, technically a few miles outside the danger area — a number chose to say put.

It was to prove a tragic mistake.

Sheriff Ste. Marie was south of LaRose on Louisiana Highway 1 when Trooper Stanley Bernard's cry for help cracked over the police radio.

"Where are you? Where are you?" the sheriff called back.

PINNED IN CAR

"I'm pinned in the car," came the reply.

Suddenly, a second voice broke in with a message that twined the gray hairs on the 47-year-old sheriff's head: "Get hold of the sheriff. People are running all over here."

It was his deputy, Capt. Gilbert Duet — in LaRose.

Ste. Marie sped to LaRose, to the most incredible sight of his life — a mile of housing shorn away as if by a giant scythe, people stumbling and crawling in a daze, with broken arms and fractured skulls and blood-drenching shirts and pants on the ground.

UNEXPECTED TWISTERS

The New Orleans Weather

Bureau was expecting the fierce winds from Hilda. It was not expecting the savage tornadoes that spawned in the hurricane's leading edge, that dipped down to snatch away Trooper Bernard's car, scores of houses and 21 lives.

Hilda was now only 80 miles away, and felled her muscles against 14 men who clung grimly to the mechanical island of a floating oil rig known as the "ocean drifter."

Hilda tested her fury. She blasted the tiny island with a rage that broke a wind velocity meter at 120 miles per hour.

The 14 men survived, safe and sound.

WOULD TRY AGAIN

Hilda had lost, but she would try again—this time at the soft belly of Louisiana's cane country on Atchafalaya Bay.

These were the people who fought hurricane Hilda on her deadly, stabbing foray into the heart of Louisiana:

There was Charles Vesper who led a valiant attempt to rescue seven people from a house with no roof on it — only to be forced to leave them.

"There was nothing we could do," said Vesper. "We had to leave them there, since they had a better chance with at least some shelter than out in the hurricane with us."

RESCUED WOMAN

There was John Coco, who took an amphibious "duck" into the ravaging winds and rain to rescue a woman who had just given birth and "was in trouble." He and other rescuers made it in time to snatch 32 more prospective victims from Hilda.

Saturday night went into Sunday, and Hilda stretched her path of destruction past the Louisiana capital of Baton Rouge, Scottsbluffs, Tangipahoa, undermining railroad beds, snapping strands of telephone wire like giant whips, piling driftwood and a broken limbs on highways.

But there was no warm water from which to suck life-giving energy, no friction-free gulf to ride across. Hilda was dying; each building that stood in her path, each tree that dragged back at her winds bled and finally exhausted the hurricane.

Winds dipped from 100 miles per hour past 90 ... 80 ... 70.

By Sunday noon, Hilda was dead as a hurricane and dying as a tropical storm.

THE MONSTER'S BRIEF LIFE

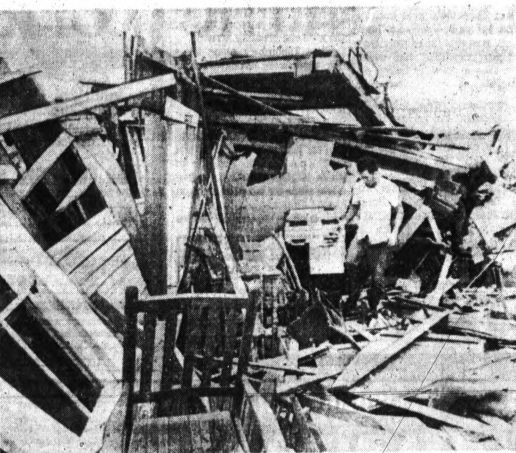

The monster's brief life exacted a steep price — 37 dead, nearly 200 injured, scores of houses demolished, miles of railroad track and power lines downed, 100,000 telephones knocked out, a sugar cane crop flattened barely a week before harvest time, and a restoration job that may run many millions of dollars.

TRAGIC CHAPTERS

In the tragic chapters of death, however, there can be a few happy paragraphs—such as the birth of a baby girl in wind-torn Morgan City.

Her birthday is Oct. 3, 1964.

Her name is Hilda.

TORNADO AFTERMATH — A LaRose, La., man picks through what's left of a house hit by a tornado Saturday. Twisters spawned by Hurricane Hilda ripped through the town, leaving 21 persons dead.

Hilda's Victims Watch Waters Recede

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Flood-weary residents in the mountain triangle of North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia were cheered today by slowly receding waters but braced for the possibility of more heavy rains from Hurricane Hilda.

Torrential weekend downpours inundated much of the mountainous area in the three states which had received intermittent rain for a week. At least two deaths were attributed to the floods Sunday as rivers and streams gushed out of their banks.

Flood waters sent hundreds fleeing from their homes and at least three small dams and several bridges gave way. Numerous highways and rural roads were closed by the floods and landslides.

Tornadoes struck in eastern North Carolina near Goldsboro in the coastal plain region and near Creswell in the northeastern section. No serious injuries were reported.

RAIN FORECAST

More rain was forecast today over the three states as the remnants of Hurricane Hilda moved eastward.

The Asheville Weather Bureau said rainfall from 1 a.m. Sunday to 7 p.m. Sunday ranged from 4 to more than 14 inches over western North Carolina.

The dead were William Lewis Cantrell, 51, of Commerce, Ga., and R. S. Henderson, N.C., who drowned when his car was swept into flood-swollen Clear Creek in Henderson County, and Jarrett Keith of Rosman, N.C., who was killed by a landslide on U.S. 178.

Rosman, a tiny mountain community near the South Carolina line was flooded by the French Broad River for the second time in five days Sunday and 15 to 20 families evacuated their homes.

OTHER MISHAPS

There were many other reports of flooded houses and stores, land and rock slides, and farm animals washed away. Schools were closed in Macon County, N.C.

The Red Cross in Atlanta said it was rushing rescue workers into the mountains of North Carolina and Georgia.

Sylvan Lake Residents to Air Tax Limitation

A citizens meeting for all Sylvan Lake residents has been called for tomorrow night at Whitfield School.

Sponsored by the committee set up to study a proposed tax limitation charter amendment, the meeting will begin at 7 p.m.

Object of the meeting is to answer questions on the proposed charter amendment to be voted on in the Nov. 3 general election.

Members of the citizens committee, headed by Anthony Kreps, former mayor and charter commission member, will be on hand to explain the ballot issue.

City council members also have been invited.

The proposed amendment would change Sylvan's city charter to provide that future levies for the general fund be limited to one per cent of the city's assessed valuation as equalized.

NO STAND

To date, the citizens committee has not taken a public stand on the tax limitation proposal, according to city officials.

The council has asked the citizens group to study the proposal.

Body of Caro Man Recovered in Lake

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP) — Divers recovered the body of Lorn Green 61, of Caro, Mich., from Lake Superior near the mouth of the Michipicoten River, about 15 miles north of here. Green was found Sunday. He was lost when his 19-foot inboard motor boat was smashed by high waves. Green's son Keith, 38, swam ashore.

Sunflower Sale Will Benefit Adult Blind

Members and supporters of the Pontiac League of the Blind will be on street corners in Pontiac and Waterford today through Saturday for their annual sunflower sale.

The ultimate financial goal of the drive is $50,000 to construct a home for the training, rehabilitation, education and recreation of all adult blind persons in Oakland County.

The group, which presently has about 35 members, has raised $2,000 toward the final goal, according to Mrs. Lloyd Fleming, president, of 70 E. Chicago.

Mrs. Fleming said the proposed home would benefit several hundred blind adults in the county.

Liz, Debbie Booked on Same Liner

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Queen Elizabeth people can relax. Eddie Fisher's two ex-wives see no problem in being fellow passengers on the liner.

Elizabeth Taylor and her present husband, Richard Burton — and Debbie Reynolds and her husband, shoe magnate Harry Karl — are booked coincidentally for the same sailing next Wednesday.

Any social problem for the shipping line?

Said Liz: "My husband is a great admirer of Miss Reynolds' talent, and so am I. We look forward to seeing them on the voyage."

DARING STROLLERS — Getting a close look at the raging waters of Lake Ponchartrain near New Orleans, La., are a hardy couple walking along the seawall of a park. The lake was whipped by 90-mile-an-hour winds yesterday in the wake of Hurricane Hilda. The water of the lake breaking over the seawall is eight feet above the normal level.

Tshombe Diverted From Nonaligned Confab

CAIRO 4P—A plane carrying Premier Moise Tshombe of the Congo to the second world conference of so-called nonaligned nations was diverted mysteriously to Athens today. The move threatened to turn the conference itself off course.

Tshombe headed to Cairo aboard a Sabena 707 jet from Leopoldville despite a telegram sent from the Conference Political Committee urging Congo President Joseph Kasavubu to come in his place.

Various delegates assembled here for the 47-nation meeting said Tshombe's presence would create "unnecessary difficulties." Some regard the onetime secessionist leader of Katanga as a tool of "white imperialism" and the man responsible for the killing of nationalist Patrice Lumumba, the Congo's first premier.

But some countries—Liberia, Senegal and Nigeria—have spoken up for him.

They took the view that

Tshombe had every legal right to represent his country, a founding member of the non-aligned group and a participant in the first such conference in Belgrade three years ago.

TRY TOMORROW

According to word from Athens, the premier and his 50-member party would try to land here, was that the runway was in poor condition and could not take a plane as heavy as the 707.

Airport sources said the technical reason for turning away Tshombe's plane half an hour before he was due to land here, was that the runway was in poor condition and could not take a plane as heavy as the 707.

Yesterday President Sukarno of Indonesia, the leading foe of Tshombe's presence here, landed in a chartered plane of approximately the same size, a Douglas DC 8.

U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser telegraphed President Joseph Kasavubu of the Congo Sunday urging him to come to the conference instead of Tshombe.

Nasser acted at the request of a large majority of the delegates. Only three spoke up for Tshombe—Liberia, Nigeria and Senegal. Their interest was more in restraining the conference from interfering in Congolese affairs than it was in Tshombe personally.

The other states let it be known that they considered his presence undesirable.

FRIGID WELCOME

Had Tshombe arrived as expected just before dawn, he would have received a frigid welcome compared with the ceremonious receptions that kept Nasser at the airport most of the weekend greeting arrivals.

When Tshombe's plane was a due, there were no Egyptian officials in evidence at the airport and no sign of the usual honor guard.

Nasser was to open the conference just before dusk with a brief speech of welcome in which he was expected to give a few plugs for his own ideas on foreign affairs.

In addition to the 47 states represented by member delegations, there are 10 observer states—Finland and nine from Latin America.

Says NATO Upset by N-Weapons Key

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Republican task force reported today that a "Permissive Action Link" — an electro-mechanical lock on nuclear weapons to which only the President has the key — is raising misgivings of North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies to a "serious level."

The task force, which included top former defense officials, said in a report to Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater the "Permissive Action Link" had been installed by Democratic administrations in recent years to place control of nuclear weapons more firmly in the hands of the President.

This step, the report said, has heightened misgivings of our allies to the point of "outright lack of confidence in the U.S. commitment" to defend Europe against attack with nuclear weapons.

It cited a speech by President Johnson in Seattle, Wash., Sept. 16, describing safeguards against any unauthorized use of nuclear weapons, in which he was quoted as saying: "In addition, since 1961 we have placed Permissive Action Links on several of our weapons. These are electro-mechanical locks which must be opened by secret combination before action at all is possible, and we are extending this system."

HAVE BELIEVED

The report said "NATO members have believed that the American commander of NATO has been and is authorized to respond to a surprise attack on NATO with nuclear weapons in the event of certain predetermined circumstances, such as death or incapacity of the President, or a failure of communications between NATO headquarters and Washington."

It added that "members of NATO, as a result of the assassination of President Kennedy, are particularly sensitive to the possibility of presidential death or incapacity. Press reports revealing that President Johnson on a recent journey traveled on a separate plane from his assistant who carried the electronic keys heightened their alarm."

The task force was headed by former Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy. It included former Connecticut Sen. Prescott S. Bush, Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, Wilfred McNeill, Adm. Arthur Radford and Gen. Nathan F. Twining. The retired military men both were chairmen of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

REPORT SUGGESTIONS

The report recommended:

1. That the President assure NATO members the United States will meet its commitments to the alliance, and that the American NATO commander has been delegated authority by the President to use tactical nuclear weapons to defend Western Europe in the event circumstances precluded consultation with the President or failure of communications.

2. That the President assure the American people that concern for accidental firings of nuclear weapons will not "impair our deterrent capability or our ability to respond to nuclear attack."

3. That the President tell the American people of plans to continue U.S. capability for immediate response to attack in the event of presidential death or disability.

"This statement," we emphasize, "should include the identity, by name and office, of those now designated to succeed the President in control over the entire nuclear apparatus in such a crisis," the report said.

Blasts Some Doctors for 'Bugaboos'

Birth-Pill Pioneer Rips Back at Critics

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — A medical pioneer in the development and advocacy of birth-control pills today hit at "ridiculous bugaboos" he said some antipill doctors are raising about the medical effects of the chemicals.

Dr. John Rock of Boston, a Roman Catholic, particularly criticized some "psychiatrists" who, he declared, have been incorrectly contending that the pills may promote a condom-like action in a woman's body by altering mucous membranes — or even act by setting up conditions for an abortion.

Condoms are contraceptive devices designed to shield against the male sperm fertilizing the female egg. They are among all contraceptive devices forbidden by the Roman Catholic Church, which also forbids abortion.

Without identifying the psychiatrists, Dr. Rock told news men in summarizing a report he planned for the 50th clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons:

"I think the reason they talk this way (about possible condom-action and abortion mechanisms) is that they fear that some moralist groups that previously have opposed the pills might (ultimately) approve the pills as an extension of the natural functions of the body."

DIDN'T EXPLAIN

Dr. Rock did not identify the moralist groups or explain why a change in their thinking might distress the psychiatrists.

Dr. Rock also declared there is no foundation to opinions he said some doctors have voiced that the antifertility pills can promote an unusual incidence of varicose veins and phlebitis among women; postpone a woman's natural menopause; allow conception to occur after the menopause on the theory that eggs prevented from leaving the ovary by the pills might be stored there for years and suddenly appear.

As to any suggestion that the pills might cause cancer, Dr. Rock said: "every effort to determine any (causative) relationship between the pill-taking and cancer" has produced no such evidence.

By and large, he said, "the side effects and risks attending use of the pills are the same as those of a very mild pregnancy. And all these pills do is set up a make-believe pregnancy."

He said, just as in normal pregnancy, the pills can cause mild nausea, and some swelling of the feet and ankles.

Rockefeller III Urges Charity Cooperation

NEW YORK (AP) — John D. Rockefeller III Sunday night urged closer cooperation among religious philanthropic organizations.

Lady Bird Special: Carnival on Wheels

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Lady Bird Special has the trappings of a traveling carnival, including giveaways.

Its advance section rolled into Union Station in the rain Sunday for a preview. A spokesman said it was ready — even to convert any Republican "spies" into Democrats.

When Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson sets out Tuesday, it'll be the first time in American politics that a First Lady has embarked on a whistle-stop train campaign. Veteran railroad men have to admit "this one is different."

The traveling ladies weren't about to go for the regular railroad decor, so they quickly saw to it that Mrs. Johnson's observation-hospitality car, 90 feet long, got a chic face-lifting.

Built for the Wabash Railroad

VIP HOSPITALITY

The Lady Bird Special is receiving VIP hospitality from the six Southern railroads whose tracks it is traveling. They gave out "priority" orders to try to keep the incredibly tight schedule as the train passes through some 100 communities in eight Southern states in four days.

Five miles out of town the Lady Bird Special will make sure everyone knows it is coming by blaring out campaign music over its elaborate loud-speaker system. The feature tune is "Hello, Lyndon," an adaptation of "Hello, Dolly."

At each stop 15 Southern women will hop off first as official greeters and hand out campaign "gadgets." They all are political veterans and friends of Mrs. Johnson.

The train and its advance teams are well stocked with souvenirs, including 100,000 tiny yellow train whistles, the same number of big yellow "Welcome, Lady Bird" buttons and matchbooks, 80,000 each of red, white and blue balloons and pennants that say "Hello, Lyndon" and "Welcome, Lady Bird" plus plenty of LBJ straw hats.

There is also chewy salt water taffy, with wrappers imprinted with the slogan "Choose Lyndon." Nobody seems to know how many of them were ordered from an Austin, Tex., candy store.

Architect Succumbs

SHEBOYGAN, Wis. (AP) — Russell Barr Williamson, 71, architect and early associate of the late Frank Lloyd Wright, died of a heart attack Saturday.

Among his many achievements, Williamson supervised the architectural planning for Wright's Imperial Hotel in Tokyo.

Both Augustus and Savannah wanted his bones.

Gwinnett's burial place was forgotten until State Rep. Arthur J. Funk of Savannah found it seven years ago in Savannah's old Christ Church Cemetery.

MONUMENT SITE

The remains, in a small copper box, were in Funk's custody until the reburial last week at a site where a monument will be built.

A dispute arose when Augusta officials attempted to have Gwinnett's remains sent to Augusta where the bodies of the other two signers are buried.

Former Mayor Millard A. Bechum of Augusta appealed to Georgia Secretary of State Ben Fortson in 1960 to intercede. But Fortson would have no part in the dispute. The state later approved $5,000 to help Savannah pay for a suitable monument.

Bechum contended that it was only right that Gwinnett should be buried with Georgia's other signers — George Walton and Lyman Hall.

HAPPY FAMILY

But Sancken, who became mayor last January, said it makes no difference now. "We do think it would be nice if Savannah would let us have the body so they could all rest like one happy family," he said.

Sancken said Augusta city officials now are content to let the issue rest in peace.

"The die is cast," Sancken said in an interview. "We aren't going to try to pull any skeletons out of the closet — or the ground. As far as we are concerned, the issue is dead."

A 15-foot monument of Georgia marble will stand at the burial site, next to a monument honoring Archibald Bulloch, first president of Georgia after the colonial period, whom Gwinnett succeeded as head of the state government.

Gwinnett was mortally wounded by Gen. Lachlan McIntosh in a duel and died several days later.

Over Malaysia-Indonesia Quarrel

Foreign Alignments Shift in the Orient

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Foreign policy alignments are shifting in this part of the world because of the quarrel between Malaysia and Indonesia.

Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri's Indian government, usually reluctant to enter someone's arguments, has made strong statements of support for Malaysia.

Neighboring Pakistan, though avoiding a firm public stand, appears to be anxiously courting friends among the Indonesians.

Shastri made his first move by raising the Malaysian-Indonesian quarrel in a speech to Parliament.

MAKES SPEECH

Obviously referring to the landing of Indonesian paratroops in Malaysia, Shastri told the House: "It would be unfortunate if the sovereignty of Malaysia were disturbed by the use of force."

Later he said: "We want that the independence and sovereignty of Malaysia should be preserved."

President Ayub Khan of Pakistan was host to Indonesian President Sukarno — once a frequent visitor to India — who stopped off in Karachi en route to Europe.

Sukarno told newsmen that Ayub told him he wants the conflict with Malaysia resolved peacefully through an African-Asian conciliation commission.

Ayub did not go that far in his talks with newsmen, saying merely it is too early to say anything about Pakistan mediation.

Despite these differences on what Ayub told Sukarno, the Pakistanis appeared sure they had made a friend.

Pakistani Foreign Minister Z. A. Bhutto said Sukarno expressed interest in Pakistan's formation of a so-called development group with Turkey and Iran. Indonesia is contemplating joining, Bhutto said.

GRATED NERVES

Sukarno grated nerves in New Delhi by backing Pakistan's solution for determining the future of Kashmir, a Himalayan state both India and Pakistan claim.

Many Indian officials also were shocked when the Indonesian navy renamed the Indian Ocean the Indonesian Ocean. They point out that northernmost Indonesia is just 110 miles from India's Nicobar and Andaman islands in the Bay of Bengal.

Ayub has said many times his country is threatened by massive India and will make friends where it can.

Button Gwinnett Can Rest in Peace

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — They've buried Button Gwinnett again. And Mayor George Sancken Jr. of Augusta says it makes no difference that they have buried him in Savannah.

Gwinnett died in 1777. He was one of the three signers of the Declaration of Independence from Georgia. Autograph collectors say his signature is among the rarest and has been sold for more than $50,000.

At each stop 15 Southern women will hop off first as official greeters and hand out campaign "gadgets." They all are political veterans and friends of Mrs. Johnson.

The train and its advance teams are well stocked with souvenirs, including 100,000 tiny yellow train whistles, the same number of big yellow "Welcome, Lady Bird" buttons and matchbooks, 80,000 each of red, white and blue balloons and pennants that say "Hello, Lyndon" and "Welcome, Lady Bird" plus plenty of LBJ straw hats.

More Arrests Loom in Mississippi

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP)— Sheriff Lawrence Rainey and his deputy Cecil Price, both charged with civil rights violations, were back on duty today while more arrests loomed.

The Justice Department said more arrests in Neshoba County were imminent. A spokesman indicated the number might reach a dozen.

The FBI arrested Rainey, Price and three others Saturday, a day after a federal grand jury at Biloxi issued indictments accusing them of violating the civil rights of Negroes.

All were released on bond.

The other three were Philadelphia policemen Neal O. Burke, 71, and Richard A. Willis, and former Sheriff Ethel G. Barnett, 42.

The indictments charged violations of the 1948 federal penal code. The five were accused of depriving the constitutional rights of Sam H. Gernany, Kirk Culberson, Cleo J. Nichols Jr., Harvey Nichols Jr., Ernest Kirkland and Earl Tisdale.

A second indictment charged Rainey and Price beat Culberson in the Philadelphia jail last Jan. 25.

The indictment against all five provides a maximum penalty of one year in prison and $1,000 fine.

The second, a conspiracy charge, carries a maximum penalty of five years and $10,000.

Neither Rainey nor Price would comment on their arrests. They were freed on $2,000 bonds. The others were released on $1,000 bonds.

The Biloxi grand jury, which is continuing deliberations, investigated civil rights matters including the slaying of three civil rights workers whose bodies were found Aug. 4 near Philadelphia.

The slain trio were James Chaney, 21, Meridian Negro, and two whites from New York City, Andrew Goodman, 20, and Michael Schwerner, 24.

Rights Headquarters Blasted

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP)— Federal and state officials pressed their investigations today of the bombing of a Vicksburg building and two shotgun blasts fired into a Meridian home, both used as headquarters for civil rights activities.

The FBI moved to sift the ruins of the Vicksburg "freedom school" damaged by an apparent dynamite bomb in the pre-dawn hours Sunday.

Two Negroes, Bessie Brown and her 3-month-old grandson, were slightly injured in the blast.

Agents also were dispatched to Meridian — directly across the state to the east — after shots entered a bedroom window of a home. There were no injuries.

HEADQUARTERS

Both buildings were used as headquarters by the Council of Federated Organizations—COFO.

Fourteen persons — three of them white COFO volunteers from out-of-state — were in the Vicksburg building. The blast destroyed the kitchen, three bedrooms and the school library. Debris was tossed 100 yards.

Freedom schools are used across the state to instruct Negroes in how to register to vote and teach reading, writing and history.

Mrs. Brown said she moved into the old Baptist academy church school building last January. COFO moved in in May.

"I don't know where I'll go now. My relatives are afraid to take me in," Mrs. Brown said.

First Alarm — Gas Leak

LA MESA, Calif. (UPI)— Firemen at the main station today were thankful they dug into the concrete floor to install a new alarm system.

While excavating, they found a gas pipe that was leaking gas at the rate of two cubic feet hourly.

Fire Chief Raymond H. Lyles said the resulting 10 per cent concentration of gas beneath the floor might have exploded and blown up the entire building.

Charged in Spy Conspiracy, Engineer, Driver on Trial Today

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—An American engineer and a Russian chauffeur are scheduled to go on trial today for allegedly conspiring to spy for the Soviet Union, but the shadow of another spy trial that didn't come off hovered over the proceedings.

The trial, postponed several times, may be delayed further as a result of the case in Brooklyn, N.Y., last Friday in which the government dropped the prosecution of two alleged spies.

The defendants, John W. Butenko, 39, of Orange and Igor Ivanov, 34, an employee of the Soviet Trade Agency in New York, were arrested in an Englewood railroad station last Oct. 29.

They are charged with conspiring to pass Air Force secrets to the Soviet Union. Three other Russians, taken into custody in the case, had diplomatic immunity as members of the Soviet Union's U.N. mission and were expelled from the country.

Butenko's attorney, Raymond A. Brown of Jersey City, said last night that he would ask in U.S. District Court for the home addresses of the government's witnesses. He said that last week he obtained the names and office addresses of about 80 government witnesses.

OBTAINED ADDRESSES
In the dismissed Brooklyn case, the defense had obtained the addresses of 75 FBI agents and a man described as a double espionage agent. The Justice Department then dropped the trial of a Russian couple, Mr. and Mrs. Alexandre Sokolov, "in the interest of national security."

Sources in Washington said that trying the Sokolovs carried a risk of involving witnesses whose appearances hadn't been planned by the government and might result in hindering American counter-espionage work.

Brown said he would seek the home addresses of government witnesses under a 1795 law that provides for disclosure of the abode of any witness.

Ivanov's lawyer, Samuel A. Lerner of Newark, said he and Brown would argue for postponement on grounds that the dismissal of the Sokolov case could have an adverse effect on the trial here.

Filipino, LBJ Confer Today

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP)—President Diosdado Macapagal of the Philippines flies to Washington today for a meeting with President Johnson.

The Philippine leader spent last night at the Allen-Byrd House, a restored 19th century home used by foreign dignitaries visiting Williamsburg.

Macapagal is on his first state visit to the United States. He flew to Virginia yesterday from San Francisco in an Air Force jet provided by President Johnson, landing at Langley Air Force Base.

At Norfolk he paid tribute to Gen. Douglas MacArthur during a visit to the MacArthur Memorial.

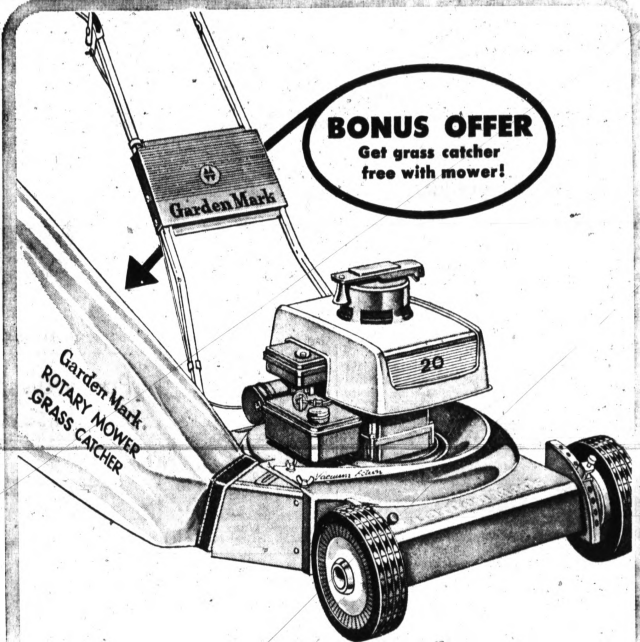

After placing a wreath of yellow chrysanthemums on the tomb, he said the wreath could never begin to express the appreciation and esteem of the Philippines and its people for Gen. MacArthur.

"AIR CONDITIONED FOR YOUR COMFORT"

Probe Found Oswald No Agent of Russia, CIA, FBI

(Editor's Note: Following is the first in a series of five special articles dealing with rumors about President John F. Kennedy's assassination and how the Warren Commission report dealt with them.)

By MEHRIMAN SMITH

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Warren Commission, in its exhaustive examination of the assassination of President Kennedy, had to sift through thousands of unsubstantiated reports and rumors.

One of the more persistent items of speculation was that since the assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald, spent more than two and a half years in the Soviet Union, he must have been a Russian spy and-or Communist agent assigned to murder the chief executive.

The killer was widely reported to have a mysterious source of funds; that he brought $5,000 into this country from Mexico a little more than a month before he cut down Kennedy with rifle fire.

There were theories — which grew into "inside" gossip — that the weak-chinned, 24-year-old ex-Marine was in some way connected with either the FBI or the CIA.

According to the commission, the unromantic truth was that Oswald, a forlorn, wretched man with a tortured mind, was none of these things.

IN RUSSIA

True, he was in the Soviet Union from Oct. 16, 1959, until June 2, 1962. He married a Russian girl, Marina. He tried to renounce his U.S. citizenship, but he never really went through with it. True, he applied for visas to take his family back to Russia in 1963.

And it was true that he did go to Mexico some seven weeks before he shot Kennedy and tried to arrange Russian and Cuban visas for a flight to Havana. But he wanted to go right away.

Despite his defection to the Soviet Union and his later entreaties, the overriding fact was that nobody wanted Oswald — the Russians, the Cubans, the Mexicans, the Communists, the Socialists or for that matter, his Russian wife whose beautifully sad eyes he blackened with his fists when the mood moved him.

The Russians naturally encouraged the defection of anyone from the West and coddled such turncoats until a defector could be used from the standpoint of propaganda or what information he might have.

WORK SHODDY

Oswald turned out to be virtually worthless to the Russians on both counts. They gave him a job in a Minsk factory but his work was shoddy.

When Oswald applied for exit visas for himself, his Russian wife, and their first baby, permission was granted in five and a half months — fast, but not unprecedented.

In fact, the Oswalds could have left Russia much sooner than they did, but they were held up until Oswald received State Department permission to reenter his native country.

The commission said, "There is no evidence that Oswald had any working relationship with the Soviet government or Soviet Intelligence."

NO MARRIAGE

Also, the Russians never would have permitted Oswald to marry a Soviet girl and take her to the United States if they had planned to use him as an agent.

Marina's lack of English and her husband's known status as a defector would have made both of them impossible to light to undertake secret intelligence work.

As for Oswald having assassinated Kennedy on Soviet assignment, Secretary of State Dean Rusk said "it was so much 'madness.'"

"I have not seen or heard of any scrap of evidence indicating that the Soviet Union had any desire to eliminate President Kennedy nor in any way participated in any such events," the secretary testified. "It would be an act of rashness and madness for Soviet leaders to undertake such an action as an active policy."

The commission noted "assertions" that Oswald made "a clandestine flight from Mexico to Cuba and back and that he received a large sum of money — usually estimated at $5,000 — which he brought back to Dallas with him."

NO EVIDENCE

"The commission," the report added, "has no credible evidence that Oswald went to Mexico pursuant to a plan to assassinate President Kennedy, that he received any instructions related to such an action while there, or that he received large sums of money from any source in Mexico."

There was a time, according to evidence, when Oswald found it almost impossible to distinguish reality from unreality, spoke to Marina of hijacking a plane and going to Cuba, but she talked him out of it.

On Sept. 26, 1963, he took Trailways bus No. 5133 from Houston to Mexico City, registered at the Hotel del Comercio, where his room cost $1.28 a day, and then proceeded to harass the Cuban and Soviet embassies, plus the Mexican foreign office.

He wanted a visa to Havana. He was turned down by all three countries. In fact, the Cuban consul told Oswald that people like him actually were harming Castro's revolution. In other words, get lost.

WAS SORE

Oswald was sore about his rejection and fired off a complaining letter to the Soviet Embassy in Washington. He returned to the United States at Laredo, Tex., at 3 a.m. Oct. 2, and reached Dallas at 2:20 p.m. the same day. Total cost of the trip: $84.45.

If, at any time in his miserably unhappy and squalid life, Oswald had his hands on anything more than a Marine Corps private's pay or unemployment compensation check, he must have buried or destroyed it.

Evidence showed he saved $1,600 during his hitch in the Marines. There was nothing remarkable about this since he was single, frugal, spent virtually nothing on himself and almost never went out with the boys.

This is the money he used to get to Russia. He had to borrow from the U.S. Embassy in Moscow to get home.

TOTAL CASH

As near as the best investigators of the U.S. Government can determine, his total cash assets at the time of the assassination consisted of $170 in a wallet he left with his wife and $13.87 in his pockets.

The commission presented a detailed table of all funds Oswald and his wife received from various jobs, unemployment compensation, checks and small loans from his mother and brother from June 13, 1962, until Nov. 22, 1963, the day Kennedy was killed.

Lee and Marina had a total of $63 between them when they arrived in New York from Russia in June. They borrowed $200 from his brother, $10 from his mother.

In about a year and a half, Oswald's total income from all sources was only $3,665.89. Traceable expenditures for the same period came to $3,501.79, leaving a balance of $164.10.

SMALL AMOUNTS

How could they live so long on so little?

Oswald paid only small amounts for the support of Marina and their children. The wife and, by now, two babies lived most of that time with friends she made through the Russian-speaking community of Dallas, and for very brief periods with Oswald's mother or brother.

Marina constantly was in dire need and she refused to share Lee's rooming house squalor in Dallas, remaining with a friend in Irving, Tex., where she and the babies could eat.

As for Oswald being an agent for either the FBI or the CIA as his mother, Marguerite, has claimed, the commission found this to be entirely untrue.

The FBI did keep Oswald under frequent check and occasional interrogation after he returned from Russia. This is routine in the case of any returned defector.

But the bureau knew him to be an unreliable know-nothing and though he was harmless as far as violence was concerned. They were right about everything but the violence.

To Vote on Right of Church Women

MEDFORD, Ore. (AP) — Delegates to the annual convention of the Oregon Episcopal Diocese will vote today whether to give women the right to hold office in the church.

The Rt. Rev. James W. F. Carman, Episcopal bishop of Oregon, told the delegates Sunday he favors allowing women to hold office in church vestries and as delegates to conventions.

"Christian concern, knowledge, ability, faith and not sex, should be the basis for the right to vote in Christian affairs," the bishop said. "The practice of segregation by sex is no more admirable than that of segregation by race or color."

Hundreds Watch NY Man Knifed

NEW YORK (AP) — As hundreds watched — but offered no help — a man in the Times Square area was stabbed repeatedly Sunday afternoon by an assailant who had tried to force his attentions on the victim's wife.

Joseph Zaia, 28, and his wife, Sandra, 26, were strolling along Broadway near 47th Street when a man, over six feet tall and in his 30s, put his arm around Mrs. Zaia and whispered in her ear, police said.

Zaia tried to push the intruder away. The assailant drew a knife and stabbed Zaia at least five times in the neck, chest and abdomen. Then he fled through the crowd.

Zaia was reported in fair condition at St. Clare's Hospital.

Pastor Blesses Animals, Too

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — Someday the Rev. Delmar S. Markle would like to build a shrine to St. Francis of Assisi, the 13th century saint said to be so gentle that animals would flock around to hear him preach.

The Episcopal rector said he had been fond of the saint for years. So last year when the saint's feast day—Oct. 4—approached, the rector decided to do something special to mark the day.

He opened the doors of his church to animals for a special blessing.

More than 50, mostly dogs and cats, showed up with their owners.

The day was such a success, the Rev. Mr. Markle decided to give the blessing again this year.

"It was a very quiet, peaceful service," he said after blessing more than 125 animals at the second annual service at St. George's Church Saturday.

Destructive Monkeys

VIENNA (AP) — It took gardeners and police five hours yesterday to recapture eight monkeys that escaped from a hall of the Vienna International Garden Show. Police said the monkeys while free had done $4,000 worth of damage to rare plants and palm trees.

Junior Editors Quiz on CROSSWORD PUZZLES

QUESTION: Where did crossword puzzles come from?

ANSWER: During the nineteenth century, in England, simple puzzles called "word squares" were printed in children's books with words arranged so the letters read the same both down and across.

This idea developed into the modern crossword puzzle, the first one appearing in the New York World Dec. 21, 1913. People enjoyed them so much that by 1925 they were being published all over the U.S.A. and soon reappeared in England in their modern form.

The idea of the crossword puzzle is that each letter you put in an empty box is part of two words, one going across and one down.

From the fact that this makes many words cross each other came the name "crossword puzzle." Unused squares are in black.

Numbers appear in the first of each group of vacant squares which you are to fill with a word, some words going across and some down.

You can find out which is which by checking the number on the printed key under the puzzle. This key also gives clues to the words.

We show a very small crossword puzzle; we have filled in one word to show how it works.

FOR YOU TO DO: Try a crossword puzzle in your newspaper. To warn you up for the real thing, do the tiny puzzle we include. Here's the key: ACROSS — 1. Enthusiast. 4. Our country. 5. Bite. DOWN — 1. Enjoyment. 2. Spanish word meaning "thus." 3. Short sleep.

OAKLAND OIL HEAT COUNCIL

Christian Unity at Voting Stage

Seen as Council's Prime Objective

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council arrived today at the voting stage on the schema on Christian unity, a document with significance for the entire Christian world.

Along with modernization of the Roman Catholic Church, the issue of unity was the outstanding objective foreseen for the council by Pope John XXIII when he called it together.

Pope Paul VI has made it clear that he regards the issue the same way.

The 2,500 prelates in St. Peter's Basilica were to vote on the three chapters of the unity schema, and individual articles within the chapters.

The voting was expected to last four days and include 11 ballots on the separate articles and a final three votes accepting or rejecting each chapter.

FIVE CHAPTERS

The unity schema in 1963 had five chapters, including one on the Church's relations with the Jews and another on religious liberty. A number of council fathers argued at last year's session that these two subjects did not bear directly on the question of relations between Catholics and other Christians. The two chapters were made into draft declarations appended to the schema.

Debate on them concluded last week. They are now undergoing revision for a vote expected in several weeks.

The first chapter of the schema discusses principles of ecumenism. The second talks of ways to apply the principles of ecumenism. The third covers the specific problems of the Church's relations with other Christians — Orthodox, Protestant and Anglican.

Since last year's council session, experts from the Vatican's Christian Unity Secretariat have rewritten the chapters on the basis of suggestions made by more than 500 of the bishops.

OBJECTIONS

Sources in the secretariat said objections by non-Catholic observer delegates to the council were carefully looked over by the secretariat and were found useful in drawing up the final drafts.

The sources reported that the new version of the schema takes into account the view that the Catholic Church was not blameless in the historical split that divided Christianity.

It also was reported that this version includes a historic change in Catholic wording. The schema now refers to Protestants as "churches and ecclesial communities of the West" instead of the traditional expression "communities resulting from the reformation of the 16th century."

The reluctance of the Catholic Church in the past to refer to other Christian communities as churches has been an impediment to better relations.

Dixie Barryrite to Stay a Dem

LANDSDOWNE, Pa. (AP) — Former Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett says although he plans to vote for Sen. Barry Goldwater for president he will not leave the Democratic party.

At a news conference following a talk sponsored by the Delaware County Committee to Preserve the American Republic, Barnett was asked if he would follow the example of South Carolina's Sen. Strom Thurmond and switch from the Democratic to Republican party.

"No," he said, "but in Mississippi a registered Democrat can vote Republican without losing his Democratic identity."

RIOT PATROL IN SAIGON — The streets of Viet Nam's capital under heavy guard today as government troops sought to prevent clashes between students and workers in the city.

Viet Troops Patrol Saigon to Prevent Further Rioting

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE, SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — For the second successive day, the South Vietnamese government put on a show of force today to head off possible trouble from crowds in Saigon.

Several hundred troops took up positions outside the labor union headquarters to cope with a threatened march by workers against a textile mill. The crowds failed to show up, however, and there were no incidents.

After weeks of handling demonstrators with kid gloves, Premier Nguyen Khanh's government showed strength Sunday as six companies of riot police prevented a clash between workers and students.

About 50 students showed up in the central market to defend a newspaper against 150 workers who staged a protest march charging inaccurate reporting of labor's demands. Police dispersed the gathering.

GAVE WARNING Khanh, beset by political, religious and labor unrest since August, warned last week he would no longer tolerate violence. Another march was considered likely Tuesday, however, along with a transportation strike.

The government also reportedly placed former Deputy Premier Do Mau, an active Buddhist, under house arrest at Cap Saint Jacques, 45 miles southeast of Saigon. Mau had rejected a government demand that he leave the country.

In the guerrilla war, both sides suffered heavy losses in a battle Sunday five miles west of Thu Dau Mot, and 15 miles north of Saigon. U.S. military sources said government forces killed from 60 to 75 Communist Viet Cong by conservative estimates. Total Viet Cong casualties were placed at 200.

Government forces struck back with aircraft after a Communist ambush in which 30 government troops and an American were killed and 54 wounded.

The American was the 195th to die in combat since the United States stepped up its war effort in South Viet Nam in 1961.

E. German Returns, Brings Out Family

GOETTINGEN, Germany (AP) — A 31-year-old East German refugee braved the mine-infested, heavily guarded Iron Curtain frontier this weekend for the third time, to bring out his family.

West German border authorities said the man, who had sneaked across to West Germany alone last month, slipped back into East Germany and brought his 27-year-old wife and two children, 3 and 4, to safety.

Debonair Lawford Commutes in Copter

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD—Tell you how debonair Peter Lawford is. He's the only actor I know who goes to work in a helicopter.

While he was doing a cameo role in "Sylvia" with Carroll Baker and George Maharis, Peter had a helicopter pick him up on the beach in front of his Santa Monica home. Then he alighted 11.5 miles eastward for his arrival near the "Bonanza" Western street on the Paramount lot.

New Surgery for Heart Ills

Conceivable Means to Prevent Attacks

CHICAGO (AP) — Two Minnesota surgeons today reported use of a new surgical technique — involving the bypassing of some five feet of the 15-foot long, coiling small intestine — to markedly lower blood cholesterol levels in a group of heart disease patients.

In the operation — described as a conceivable means of preventing fatal heart attacks in suspicious patients if current hopes are upheld — the intestine is severed at the 10-foot mark. After the lower end is sealed off, the remaining segment is pulled down and attached to the large bowel.

The idea is to cut down on the area from which cholesterol can be cycled and recycled through the body and be absorbed in the blood stream.

Cholesterol, a fatty substance occurring in some foods and also developed by the body itself, has long been under suspicion as a cause of arteriosclerosis and of coronary heart attacks — if present in high quantities.

NO PROOF Drs. Henry Buchwald and Richard L. Varco of the University of Minnesota Medical School stressed in a report to the American College of Surgeons there is as yet no definite proof that high levels of cholesterol cause such conditions.

But they said all statistical evidence suggests at least an association — with the result that many doctors have long been trying to reduce levels in high-cholesterol patients by diet and pills, not always successfully.

They said further study of the results of their new surgical method conceivably could be of value in one of two ways: either exonerate cholesterol as a cause of heart disease; or open the way to a practical method of preventing heart attacks.

A Florida treasure team has salvaged more than a million dollars in doubloons, pieces of eight, silver bullion and gold jewelry from the coral-encrusted remains of Spanish galleons lost off Cape Canaveral in 1715.

infringent journeys to act in Hollywood, his last picture being "Dead Ringer" with Bette Davis. He keeps the Santa Monica house but spends much of his time in New York where he is part of the Kennedy colony in a four-block radius centering on Fifth Avenue. His wife is the former Patricia Kennedy.

"Yes, we finally found a place to stay," he said with a grin.

BLACKBALLED The reference was to the Lawford's being blackballed from purchasing an apartment in a building because one of the tenants objected that he was an actor and she was a Democrat.

"Obviously we didn't buy in the same building," Peter said.

"But the whole thing turned out to be very amusing. When I walk down the streets in New York, the cops yell, 'Got a place to stay tonight?'"

"The story broke at the time of the Academy Awards. When I called Sidney Poitier to congratulate him, he told me, 'You can sure come up and live in our neighborhood.'"

"Some people were quite upset about the incident. I was having lunch with a friend in the Sherry-Netherlands Hotel one day when a well-dressed man came up and said, 'I want to apologize on behalf of our city for what happened.'"

VARIETY OF INTERESTS Happy that he has found shelter for his wife and three children, Peter is devoting himself to a variety of interests, including acting. In "Sylvia" he plays a tycoon who hires private eye Maharis to check up on his fiancée, who turns out to have a shady past.

The Lawford company produces the Patty Duke television show, and he also is planning a feature film for her as soon as she can be sprung from the series. He did well with "Johnny Cool," which cost $500,000 and will take in $1.5 million. This despite the fact that its violence caused it to be banned in several foreign countries.

Peter also makes appearances with the traveling exhibit of the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library, most recently in San Diego and San Francisco.

COPTER COMMUTER — Actor Peter Lawford heads for his day's work on the movie set at Paramount Studios in Hollywood, after arriving from home in just eight minutes via the helicopter at right. Billy Graham: Bible Allows Death Penalty

BOSTON (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham says he believes capital punishment is permissible under certain conditions.

Dr. Graham, who opens a religious crusade at Boston Garden tonight, told a news conference Sunday: "I believe the Bible allows, that under certain conditions, capital punishment is permissible in the eyes of God."

He said God's condemnation of extreme sin, such as murder, rape and kidnap, has as much strength today as in the day of ancient Israel.

However, he said he does not have "real strong convictions on capital punishment because each case should be looked at individually. Justice should be meted out with compassion."

Place in History Secure as 88th Congress Ends

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 88th Congress finally has quit, its place in history secure because of its action on civil rights, tax reduction, poverty, education and the limited nuclear test-ban treaty.

Some of its members were staying today, however, that President Johnson may call Congress back into session after the Nov. 3 election if he wins.

Said Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La.: "This is too good an opportunity for the President to miss. Sometime in a campaign speech he's going to say, 'The members of Congress raised their own salaries $7,500 but they didn't do anything for the old folks and the poor, so I'm going to call them back to remedy that.'"

Earlier in the session, the House and Senate passed a law to increase the pay of their members from $22,500 to $30,000. Last week, in their rush for adjournment, they brushed aside two key Johnson administration measures — health care for the elderly under Social Security and a $1.06-billion aid package for the impoverished Appalachia region.

PROPOSAL DIED

The health care proposal died when Senate and House conferees were unable to agree whether it should be attached to a bill to increase retirement payments under Social Security. The fight killed the payment increases, too.

Noting this, House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana said in a statement Sunday that Johnson killed the chances of an increase in Social Security payments "by personally dictating that socialized medicine be forced down congressional throats."

"This nation's needy and aged who counted on Congress to increase Social Security payments this year have a personal score to settle with Lyndon Baines Johnson at the polls in November," Halleck added.

The 1964 session dragged to a close Saturday when the Senate adjourned sine die at 1:41 p.m. and the House at 3:16 p.m. Congress had met for 21 consecutive months and this was the latest adjournment in a presidential election year since 1944.

SINCE CONVENTION

In the weeks since the Democratic and Republican conventions, Congress accomplished little. But Democratic leaders insisted this did not dim the luster of the 88th's record and Johnson hailed Congress as among the most fruitful in history.

Nearly all of the major bills passed were recommended by the late President John F. Kennedy but only a few were sent to the White House before his assassination.

On taking over the presidency, Johnson immediately began a drive for every item on the program and succeeded in winning passage of most of them. These probably are the top accomplishments of the 88th:

—A sweeping civil rights bill, passed in the Senate only after a 14-week Southern filibuster was broken by imposition of debate-limiting closure, the first time this was done on civil rights. The measure strikes at racial discrimination in jobs and in restaurants, hotels and other public places, in voting and in public schools.

—A $11.5-billion tax cut bill covering both individuals and corporations, designed as a stimulus to the economy and as a spur to private enterprise.

—Ratification of the limited nuclear test-ban treaty, holding out the promise of some cold war thaw and of ending pollution of the atmosphere.

—A big package of education bills, including a $1.2-billion college construction measure, a $1.56-billion vocational education bill, a $231-million medical education measure, and a $1.8-billion bill broadening the National Defense Education Act, and extending the impacted areas program. The latter was sent to Johnson last Friday.

—A $947.5-million measure to provide jobs for youths, train unskilled persons, and encourage local community programs. This was the most important item passed bearing Johnson's own stamp.

6 OF 51 PROPOSALS

Democratic leaders figure the President got all but 6 of 51 major proposals which he sent to the Capitol this year.

Besides health care and the Appalachia bill, the casualties were bills to implement the International Coffee Agreement, the depressed areas program, to control water pollution, to put and to liberalize the immigration laws.

A record 110,100 Americans were restored to productive activities last year through state rehabilitation agencies.

Ruling Due Nov. 10 on U.N. Members Behind on Paying Dues

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — said in an interview, and he is Carlos Sosa-Rodriguez, who will call the U.N. General Assembly to order on Nov. 10, is ready with a ruling on whether the Soviet Union should lose its vote for not paying its share of U.N. peace-keeping forces. But he is keeping it secret, he said in an interview, and he is looking for some formula that will enable him to avoid handing it down.

The problem is "very serious," and many delegates are "hoping for a miracle" that will make it go away, the Venezuelan diplomat said.

The Russians are hinting that if they cannot vote, they will quit the United Nations.

As president of the 1963 assembly session, Sosa-Rodriguez will open the 1964 session and preside over the voting for a new president.

Article 19 of the U.N. charter says that countries two years behind in their U.N. dues "shall have no vote" in the assembly.

Ten countries now are two calendar years in arrears because they haven't paid special peace-keeping assessments for the Congo and Middle East peace forces.

Four may make saving payments before the assembly meets, but the other six — the Soviet Union, the Ukraine, White Russia, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Romania — seem unlikely to do so.

If they do not, Sosa-Rodriguez must rule whether they may vote for the new president. If he seems about to let them vote, the United States or some ally is expected to ask him to stop them.

The Erie Canal, when built, was four feet deep.

Gambler Goes Legal: Buys a Tax Stamp

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Herald Tribune said today the only person in New York City to buy a federal gambling tax stamp is a 71-year-old numbers game runner.

The Herald Tribune identified the stamp purchaser as Andrew (Bubber) Wisner, a former bartender who is quoted as saying he supplements his Social Security benefits and his wife's wages as a domestic by collecting numbers bets. He said he makes $25 to $30 a week.

Wisner, according to the Herald Tribune, bought the stamp required under federal law after a conviction for lack of a stamp put him in jail for 30 days. FINES PAID

Earlier, he was quoted as saying, he had been arrested by police and convicted several times in local courts for numbers running, but "the bank" paid his fines.

Wisner is, according to the newspaper, the only one of thousands of gamblers of various types in the Eastern and Southern Federal Districts of New York State who has purchased the federal stamp.

The Southern District includes Manhattan and the Bronx and nine counties to the north. The Eastern District includes Brooklyn, Queens and Staten Island — all in New York City — and the two Long Island counties, Nassau and Suffolk.

Deputy Police Commissioner

Staebler Vows Better Deal for Migrant Workers

DETROIT (AP) — Democratic Gubernatorial Candidate Neil Staebler says that he intends to strengthen the Michigan Migrant Labor Commission if elected to the governorship.

Staebler said Sunday he would put "real teeth" into the commission's powers.

"It has no real power to ensure that migrant workers get decent working conditions and housing," Staebler told a Latin American rally.

"As governor I will work to strengthen the commission; to give it real teeth so our migrant workers will have the protection they need and deserve," he said.

Walter Arm was asked by a newsmen about the story, including a statement that Wisner "is not worried about local police."

WILL BE ARRESTED

"He has something to worry about from now on," Arm said, adding, "If he is found committing a crime, he will be arrested."

The Herald Tribune said Wisner is aware that the stamp doesn't protect him from a gambling arrest by city police. The Herald Tribune listed a number of cities, with populations and the numbers of gambling tax stamps sold, for comparison with the one in New York City with a population of about eight million.

Among them were: Philadelphia — population 2,002,512 — stamps sold 92; Indianapolis — 476,258 — 578; Salt Lake City — 189,454 — 672; Helena, Mont. — 20,227 — 605.

The nation in 1963 recorded 2.2 million serious crimes which — according to FBI classification — include murder, manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny over $50 and auto theft.

Duplicate bridge is a funny game. Apparent top scores don't always wind up as such.

West opened the king of hearts and continued the suit, forcing dummy to ruff. The queen of spades was led from dummy. West allowed it to hold. South continued with a low spade to his king. This time West rose with the ace and led a third heart to force dummy again. Now South led a club to his queen, but night had fallen. West led a fourth heart. South had to ruff with dummy's jack, whereupon West's ten of trumps was promoted to the setting trick.

South should really have made the hand. After dummy's queen of spades held the third trick, he should have led the jack of spades instead of a small one. Then no matter how often dummy was

Cardinals Prepare Homecoming for Yankees' Yogi

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Yogi Berra, a St. Louis Cardinals fan as a youngster, will return home Wednesday as the enemy, and the Cards are ready for him.

Yogi is looking forward to the homecoming, but he will be returning as manager of the New York Yankees, the Cardinals' opponent in the World Series.

"I didn't care which of the clubs won over there, as long as there was no playoff," Berra said after the Redbirds clinched the pennant Sunday. "We wanted to get started without delay. But it will be good to go home."

HE'S READY

"Bring on the Yankees," jubilant St. Louis Manager Johnny Keane told a crowd thronging Busch Stadium long after the Cardinals defeated the New York Mets 11-5.

The triumph broke a first-place tie with Cincinnati, which lost to Philadelphia 10-0 and ended any thought of a two or three-way playoff. The Reds and the Phillies finished one game back.

The pennant is the 10th for the Cards, but their first since 1946. In contrast to the Yankees, who will be playing in their 29th post-season series and a record-tying fifth straight.

The long wait — 18 years — and the spectacular way in which they did it made the pennant all the more satisfying for the Cardinals and their fans, who whooped it up into the night.

FROM BEHIND

St. Louis trailed Philadelphia by 6½ games in the final two weeks and then had to catch Cincinnati in the final five days.

The Yanks, too, had their troubles this year, having to come from six games back before clinching the championship Saturday. They finished one game in front of Chicago.

The Cardinals and Yankees have met four times in the World Series, each winning twice. The last time was in 1943 when the Yankees won, four games to one. The Cardinals won four straight the year before.

In 1926, the Cardinals, playing in their first World Series, beat the New Yorkers in seven games. The Yankees swept four contests in 1928.

The series starts Wednesday in St. Louis with Whitey Ford, 17-6, expected to start for the Yankees against Ray Sadecki, 20-11, for the Cardinals.

The second game Thursday in St. Louis will likely pit New York rookie Mel Stottlemyre, 9-2 against Bob Gibson, 19-12.

When the teams move to New York Saturday after an off-day Friday, Jim Bouton, 18-13, is expected to start for the Yankees against Curt Simmons, 18-9.

The fourth game and fifth, if necessary, will be held in New York Sunday and Monday with the teams moving back to St. Louis Wednesday and Thursday for the sixth and seventh contests if they are needed.

Lions Finally Find Offense to Win, 26-3

Line Blocking Helps Runners to Big Gains

Watkins Goes 61-Yds. for TD, Also Passes to Barr

By BRUNO L. KEARNS

Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

DETROIT — Found — the long lost offense the Detroit Lions have been looking for since the start of the exhibition season nine games ago.

With Earl Morrall getting his first starting assignment at quarterback, the offensive line led by John Gordy knocking down defenders, and the backs running with zest, the Lions whipped the New York Giants, 26-3 before a full house of 54,836 yesterday.

Danny Lewis continued the hard running which has made him one of the top seven backs in the NFL. Nick Pietrosante drove for yardage and delivered key blocks; Tom Watkins again pulled game spectaculars and the Lions' defense, front and back, played havoc with the passing of Y. A. Tittle.

"It was our best offensive showing since the start of exhibition season (9 games ago)," said coach George Wilson, "I think we have found what our offense can do."

There was a bit of everything in the game, and even though the Lions didn't score in the second half, it was because Wilson decided on gambling for the touchdowns rather than pad the score with several good field goal opportunities.

MORRALL HITS

Morrall, the leading percentage passer in the NFL with 67 per cent, wasted no time in getting the Lions moving. On the first play of the game, he fired a 48 yard pass to Terry Barr for a first down on the 31 yard line.

Two plays later, lined up on the 30 yard line, Wayne Walker faked his field goal try. Morrall stood up, and flipped to Nick Ryder all alone as the 10 for a 23 yard touchdown. Walker made it 7-0 with only 2:30 gone in the game.

The Giants with Tittle hitting short passes moved to the Detroit 14. Don Chandler then made it 7-3 with a 21 yard field goal.

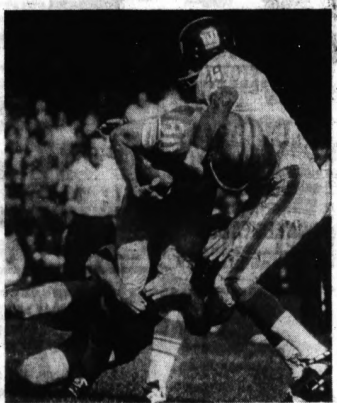

As the quarter came to an end, Yale Lary intercepted a pass and made a 25 yard return to the Giants' 20. On fourth down the Lions went for the field goal from the 58, but it was ruled wide as Walker and the Lions protested.

The Giants took over but lost yardage back to the four and Chandler had to punt. Watkins took the ball on his own 39, and behind beautiful blocking he twisted through Giants' defenders and went the entire way for a 61 yard TD. Walker converted.

INTERCEPTION

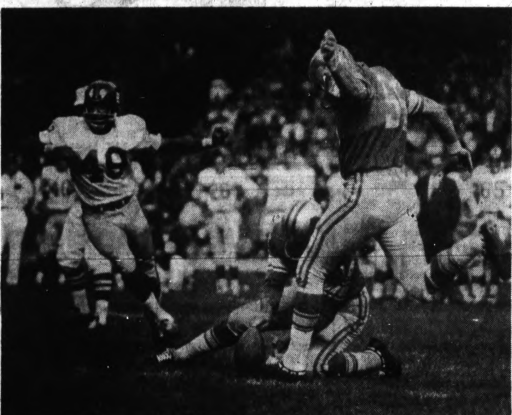

Another pass interception, this time by Dick LeBeau set up the 50 Lewis hit for 18 yards with Gordy clearing two tacklers on the play.

SECURED — End Jim Gibbons of the Detroit Lions is at the end of his progress as Giants' tacklers Erich Barnes (49) and Dick Lynch (22) get ready to send him to earth.

3-POINTER — Wayne Walker gets ready to put his toe into a 48-yard field goal which he completed in yesterday's game against the Giants. Earl Morrall holds the ball for Walker as Erich Barnes (49) tries to stop the play. The Lions won, 26-3.

GIANT REACH — The long arm of New York offensive back Dick Lynch reaches over blocker Darryl Sanders as Danny Lewis (65) picks up yardage in his 18-yard rush against

Speaking of John Units for the Colts, Svara said, "He always takes advantage of the breaks and that's what makes him a great quarterback."

Three of the 10 passes completed by Units went for touchdowns. On the first one, he ran out of the pocket to the sideline and improvised a throw to Jimmy Orr, who caught all three scoring airdrops from Units.

In a similar situation, Svara commented his rookie quarterback Bill Munson "got in trouble and by the time he got away and cranked up, Bob Boyd had time to recover."

Boyd, defensive back for the Colts, intercepted the pass and returned it 47 yards to the Ram 12. Lenny Moore ran it over and the Colts took a 21-13 lead in the third quarter. It was a real turning point in a tight game.

TOUGH PLAYER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Chicago's Bears wish they'd never seen Mike Dowdle.

The San Francisco 49ers seemed continually in the Chicago backfield Sunday as his team scored a 31-21 victory in a game which saw John Brodie throw three touchdown passes and Tommy Davis boot the longest 49er field goal.

Dowdle led a blitz that held quarterback Billy Wade in check until the 49ers had built a 17-0 lead over the defending National Football League champions.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Experience, they say, is a great teacher. Coach Harland Hays of the Los Angeles Rams said it, too, after losing 35-20 Sunday to the Baltimore Colts.

As an example, he compared the quarterbacks. Both were in the same number 19, but there was a world of difference.

Adults Warned to Behave for Children's Sake

OMAHA (AP)—Omaha School Superintendent Paul A. Miller called on adults to behave themselves if they wanted their children to be well-behaved.

Adults should realize the value in the oldtime sayings, Miller said, that "children do as you do, not as you say," and "actions speak louder than words."

He told the Omaha Public Schools' opening fall conference for teachers and administrators that if the community behaves itself, its children will automatically know how to behave and teachers will have a chance to make great progress in classrooms.

Today's News in Washington

LB Aides Cautious on Nikita Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson expects to meet fairly soon with Soviet Premier Khrushchev, but his top lieutenant in the Senate takes a dim view of summitry.

Some spadeswork is necessary before such a confrontation "would have significance," Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana said Sunday night on Radio Press International's "From the People."

Work on the ambassadorial level should precede any summit meeting, said Senate Democratic leader said, "to see what can be done in the way of an accommodation—if there is a possibility of really doing something which will be beneficial."

The chiefs of state should meet only for the purpose of finalizing an agreement "made on this lower level," Mansfield contended.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The American Society of Newspaper Editors has set Oct. 17 for a conference of news media representatives to discuss criticism in the Warren Commission report on new coverage of the Kennedy assassination.

The report was particularly critical of the confusion in the handling of the Dallas City Hall during which Lee Harvey Oswald was shot by Jack Ruby.

Jackie Cuts Chaplin, $elf Right Down (or up) to Size

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Jackie Gleason went to work on Charlie Chaplin—and a couple of bottles of champagne—and left both of them bleeding.

"Chaplin was very good in his medium" (silent pictures) "but he would have bombed out of television in 13 weeks" was one of The Great One's pronouncements.

A very amazed friend of Jackie's, agent Bill McCaffrey said:

"You do admit that Chaplin's the greatest pantomimist?"

"No!" roared Gleason, across one of his tables at a restaurant. (He usually requires several.) "Then who is?" asked Bill. "I AM!" exclaimed Jackie. "Any time Chaplin wants to start competing..."

They'd begun this from a discussion of the Chaplin ailing, "Chaplin." It was a friendly duel, but piercingly revealing.

"Do you think," needed McCaffrey, "you're as great as Chaplin?"

"I won't answer, but I say 'Could Chaplin have done 'The Hustler'?" retorted Jackie. "This man BRAGS about making 30 pictures in his life. We do that in a matter of weeks. He admits he was a flop in talkies. He doesn't even mention 'The King of New York' which was HORRIBLE."

"Your 'Gigot' was in the Chaplin tradition," said McCaffrey.

"No!" Gleason snapped his fingers for more champagne. "It was in MY tradition."

Let's just think Jackie was merely boasting, he said the greatest comedian is Art Carney, his pal of "The Honey-mooners."

"For the first time, a star was supported by a secondary player who was so good the star supported him," Jackie said.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

Spotting Traffic Commissioner Barnes at the Saints Sinners rib of Dr. Joyce Brothers, Walter Kieran said: "There's Bumper-to-Bumper Barnes. He has a new solution for traffic—he goes to the hospital" . . . Of Jim Farley: "He could have been President—this year—if he started right now" . . . The great comeback of movies was illustrated by many hundreds queued up in the rain at the Music Hall for "Mary Poppins" and a couple of passersby yelling "You must be NUTS!"

REMEMBERED QUOTE

"Ideas are like children. Your own are wonderful."—Anon.

EARL'S PEARLS: A sweater is a garment a boy wears when his mother feels chilly.—L. S. McCandless.

"I understand there are a number of UN diplomats here tonight," says Lee Tully at the Latin 4. "I know they're here because I saw their cars double-parked in front of a hydrant."

That's ear, brother.

Escapee Put on Wanted List

Fled Arraignment in Detroit on July 24

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Raymond L. Wyngaard, a long-time criminal who escaped from his guards on his way to a Detroit court, was placed today on the FBI's list of 10 most wanted fugitives.

Wyngaard was being taken to his arraignment for armed robbery when he broke away from his guards on July 24, 1964. He eluded them by slipping through an empty courtroom to the street.

Wyngaard and a companion then went on a three day crime binge.

They engaged in one running gunfight with Detroit police in the course of a spree of robbery, assault and kidnapping, the FBI said.

His accomplice was arrested on July 27, but Wyngaard disappeared.

REPORTED ARMED

The FBI said Wyngaard is reportedly armed with several guns including a 45-caliber automatic. He was described as extremely dangerous.

Wyngaard, who has a 10-year criminal record, frequent night clubs featuring jazz, the FBI said.

He is normally a moderate drinker of vodka, beer and benedictine. But following a series of crimes, he often goes on a drinking spree.

The 26-year-old fugitive was first arrested in Appleton, Wis., in 1954 on five charges of burglary and one count of larceny.

SIX CONVICTIONS

Since then, he has been arrested and convicted six times for such crimes as burglary, larceny and breaking and entering.

Each time after serving a portion of his sentence, he was paroled.

When he escaped from the Detroit courtroom, Wyngaard was being held for allegedly robbing a grocer.

The day after his courtroom escape, the FBI said Wyngaard took four pistols and some ammunition from a Detroit gun shop. He left the owner and a customer bound and gagged.

SUBURBAN MARKET

Later, with a companion, Wyngaard allegedly robbed a suburban supermarket.

In fleeing the scene, the two fought a gun battle with two Detroit policemen who had set up a roadblock.

The following day, the FBI said the two men kidnapped a Dearborn man and forced him to drive them to another section of the city.

Dearborn police arrested Wyngaard's companion on July 27.

Indian Spokesman Dies

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — Maisie Hurley, 76, editor and publisher of Canada's first Indian newspaper, died Saturday after a stroke. Mrs. Hurley, a native of Swansea, Wales, founded the Native Voice, 16 years ago and for decades championed the rights of Indians in British Columbia.

Liberals Top Primary Bid in Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP) — Hawaii's U.S. Senate nominations were captured by two liberal candidates this weekend as islanders balloted in the year's last primary election.

U.S. Rep. Thomas P. Gill racked up an impressive victory over State Sen. Nadoo Yoshinaga for the Democratic nomination, and incumbent Hiram Fong took the Republican nomination easily, campaigning almost entirely from Washington.

The nominations set up a general election battle between a liberal Democrat, Gill, and a liberal Republican, Fong.

Unofficial final results were: Republicans — Fong, 31,746 and Frank Troy, 1,585. Democrats — Gill, 71,295, Yoshinaga, 37,253 and Joseph Petrowski, 2,904.

MILD UPSET

In the hotly contested race for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. House of Representatives, a Japanese-American woman — State Sen. Patsy T. Mink — scored a mild upset to win one of the two slots on the November ticket.

She joins another American of Japanese ancestry, incumbent Spark Matsunaga, in a general election battle against Republicans John E. Miligan and Richard (Dick) Sutton.

Results in this race were: Democrats — Matsunaga, 79,080; Mink, 45,516; Walter Hean, 41,031, and David C. McClung, 40,763. Republicans — Miligan, 26,089; Sutton, 23,104, and Pedro Oduvayan, 3,854.

Hean had been given a slight edge over Mrs. Mink.

Kennedy Stirs Up a Political Storm by Marching in New York's Pulaski Day Parade

NEW YORK (AP) — Candidate Robert F. Kennedy marched in the annual Pulaski Day parade up Fifth Avenue and stirred up a political storm.

A Republican Polish-American called it "a dirty trick." A Polish-American Democrat defended the former attorney general.

Kennedy, seeking a U.S. Senate seat from New York, walked the entire 26-block parade route Sunday smiling, waving, and shaking hands.

"DIRTY TRICK"

That's what Kennedy was supposed to do, contended Francis J. Wazeter, president of the Polish-American Congress and a Republican.

"What kind of a dirty trick is this?" Wazeter snapped. "He was invited to review the parade, certainly not take part in it."

Postmaster General John Grounoudski, also of Polish descent, called Wazeter a "Goldwater Republican." He said he was dismayed that Wazeter would use the holiday for a partisan political attack.

Wazeter said no non-Polish candidate had marched in the annual parade in all its 39 years. This was disputed by John Butzko, executive vice chairman of the New York State Council of Polish American Democratic Clubs and a parade committee member.

GOP CANDIDATE

"I distinctly remember that Harold Riegelman marched in the parade while a Republican candidate for mayor several years ago," Butzko said.

"Mrs. Kennedy and several members of his family have visited Poland. I consider it an honor that he accepted our invitation to march."

Kennedy, of Irish descent, said he was invited to march "by my neighbors in Glen Cove," adding, "I'd rather march in the parade with Poles than stand in the reviewing stand."

Keating had left the reviewing stand to attend a rally before Kennedy arrived.

Henry J. Kalinowski, a member of the Glen Cove contingent's parade committee, said, "The entire Glen Cove contingent wanted Mr. Kennedy to march with us, and they were so elated that he did that they want to give him a dinner."

TOOK UP RESIDENCE

Kennedy, who had been living in Virginia, several weeks ago took up residence in the Long Island community.

An estimated 300,000 persons watched as 100,000 men, women and children marched in the parade honoring Count Casimir Pulaski, a Pole who fought with the colonists in the Revolutionary War.

At the Pulaski Day banquet Sunday night, messages came from both President Johnson and his Republican opponent, Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater. Johnson pledged that he and his administration would work to "hasten the day when Poland is once again a member of the family of free nations."

WAVE OF PAST

"Communism is the wave of the past — and the future belongs to freedom," Johnson said. "We all know that peace will not be won by a policy of belligerency or recklessness."

Goldwater said "weakness and appeasement encourage war — a disaster that I have pledged to avoid."

"The brave Polish people are victims of Communist tyranny," he said, "but they are also victims of lack of firm purpose in the part of present U.S. leadership. History clearly tells us that firmness and strength prevent capitulation and war."

57 E. Germans Use Tunnel to Escape Reds

East Guard Killed in One of Largest Mass Flights to West

BERLIN (AP)—Fifty-seven East Germans escaped through a long tunnel dug under the Red wall, the West Berlin government reported today.

East Germany said one of its border guards was shot dead during the escape and called it murder.

It was believed to be one of the biggest mass escapes since the Red wall was erected Aug. 13, 1961.

All the refugees, 23 men, 31 women and 3 children, came through unhurt.

Red guards found the tunnel just after the escape and fired a blast from submachine guns into the passageway.

West German police said that just after the gunfire, they saw an unknown person being carried away on a stretcher in East Berlin. This apparently was the East German guard.

KNEE INJURY
One of the West Germans who aided in the escape suffered a knee injury during the operation, the city government reported.

The East German Defense Ministry said the border guard was killed "by aimed shots from armed hands" who had penetrated into East German territory through the tunnel.

The victim was identified as Sgt. Egon Schultz, "murdered during the execution of his duty on the state border."

It seemed possible, however, that he was in the tunnel and fell under the fire of his comrades.

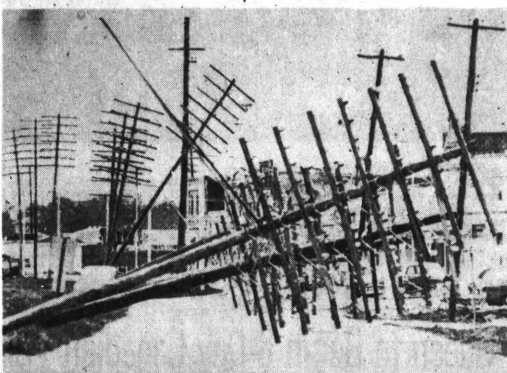

THIRD EXPLOIT
Informed sources said this was believed to be the third successful tunnel exploit recently.

West Berlin authorities try to keep escape methods secret and no publicity has been given to the previous escapes.

The latest tunnel was under Bernauerstrasse on the French sector border.

When it was learned Red guards had found the tunnel the city government announced the escape.

POWER OF WIND — Telephone poles of Hurricane Hilda on the weekend, leaving a roadway in the city blocked this morning.

Hilda Breezes Toward Atlantic

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Former Hurricane Hilda, badly weakened by a battle with a cold front, moved along the Georgia-Florida border today, leaving at least 36 dead in her violent wake.

Death, destruction and misery came to Louisiana during the weekend visit by the giant tropical storm. President Johnson declared the region eligible for federal disaster aid.

Sucking the cold front in its circulation, Hilda lost most of its tropical characteristics. All that remained was a huge low pressure area containing scattered squalls in which winds reached gusts of 40 to 50 miles an hour.

But Hilda still was potentially dangerous. The likelihood of tornadoes still existed and the Miami Weather Bureau said a 120-mile wide strip reaching from Ocala, Fla., to Charleston, S.C., should be alert to the possibility of damaging surface winds and possibly one or two tornadoes.

Another probable death was chalked up at Pensacola, in the Florida Panhandle, when 17-year-old Bill Waters disappeared while surfing in turbulent waters.

WARNING FLAGS

flew along the entire Florida Gulf and Atlantic coasts.

Winds hit 60 miles at Pensacola, knocking out power in some sections, as the storm passed north of there. High tides caused minor beach erosion.

Hilda wiped out nearly half of Louisiana's $100-million sugar cane crop and caused millions more in property damage.

LAKE OVERFLOWED
At Blountstown, Fla., Lake Hilda, swollen by rains from Hurricane Hilda, overflowed and water sloshed into numerous homes.

"I'm not worried about losing a few flowers when people in Louisiana are losing their lives," said Lucille Clendenon, as she stood knee-deep in water in front of her home near Lake Hilda.

LaRose, a fishing town of 5,000 on the bank of Bayou Lafourche 30 miles southwest of New Orleans, was struck by one of the many tornadoes which spun off Hilda's advancing winds. Twenty-one persons were killed and nearly 200 injured.

At Erath, the city's water tower buckled under hurricane winds, toppled on to the city hall and killed eight persons, all civil defense workers in the small Vermilion Parish town.

HOUSE COLLAPSED
A woman was killed at Jeanerette when a recreation center — being used to house hurricane evacuees — collapsed.

Three traffic deaths were attributed to Hilda's winds and accompanying rain by authorities. A repairman working on damaged electric lines in New Orleans was electrocuted and a woman drowned in a rain-swollen drainage ditch.

More than 200 persons were injured — 175 at LaRose alone.

Flash floods drove scores from their homes in the outskirts of Baton Rouge, the state's capital city, yesterday. They joined thousands of refugees from the Bayou country where most of the French-speaking Cajuns live.

10 INCHES OF RAIN
Baton Rouge recorded 10 inches of rain. As Hilda moved into southwest Mississippi and then curved eastward, she left 12 inches of rain at McComb.

A freak windstorm — called Hilda's backlash by the Weather Bureau struck New Orleans' lakefront by surprise yesterday afternoon.

Parties Give Tentative Nod to Agreement

Local Level Issues
Must Be Decided to Halt Walkout

DETROIT (AP)—General Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers announced tentative agreement today on a national labor contract, paving the way for an end to a nationwide strike that has idled some 280,000 workers.

In a joint statement, the two parties said:

"General Motors and the United Automobile Workers today announced tentative agreement on terms for a settlement of all national economic and national contract issues between the parties.

"The parties will now concentrate their efforts in resolving local issues."

Louis G. Seaton, vice president of General Motors in charge of the GM negotiating team, said GM and the union had yet to resolve local issues in 117 of 130 plants across the nation.

NOT EFFECTIVE
He said the new national agreement would not become effective "until these matters are resolved and the agreement is ratified."

Seaton said the two sides would continue to attempt to solve the local problems—still numbering nearly 16,000—"so all of our employees can go back to work."

Seaton said the company hoped that agreement on national issues would provide the necessary impetus for local bargaining teams to reach an early settlement of the strike, which has shut down production of all GM 1965 model automobiles.

GM's chief competitors—Ford and Chrysler—have been going full speed ahead on turning out their shiny new models while GM has been shut down.

AGREEMENT FAILED
The walkout was called Sept. 25 when the company and the UAW failed to reach agreement on noneconomic issues including production quotas, working conditions and union representation in the plants.

There was little difficulty, however, in reaching agreement on an economic package virtually paralleling at GM, settlement won at Ford and Chrysler earlier in September.

LBj's Daughter Dazzles Bloomfield Hills Crowd

By JIM LONG

Luci Baines Johnson whirled into Bloomfield Hills over the weekend, dazzling guests at a Texas-style barbecue and leaving the impression that if there were a half dozen more like her at home her president father would have his reelection assured.

The attractive 17-year-old, youngest of President Lyndon B. Johnson's two daughters, mingled with 800-1,000 adult and teenage guests yesterday at a party in her honor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Wild, 931 Vaughn.

Luci made her appearance before the crowd at 3 p.m., wearing a turquoise dress with a matching headband in her raven hair, and a "Yellow Rose of Texas."

The barbecue, one of the many being held across the country in honor of the president's daughter, was sponsored by the Michigan Young Citizens for Johnson.

Luci, in a five minute address, made a strong appeal for bipartisan support of her father and told of her happiness at finding on her Michigan visit many who said they would cross party lines to vote for LBj.

BACK TO CLASS
A senior at the National Cathedral School in Washington, Luci left the barbecue immediately after making her speech to fly back to the Capitol and resume classes today.

Her visit with the hundreds of guests, each of whom paid $10 a ticket, lasted about an hour and half.

She arrived at the home of the Wilds about midnight and stayed there overnight with her personal secretary Maria Ross.

In the morning, Luci, her secretary and Susan Celebrezze, daughter of Anthony Celebrezze, secretary of Health, education and welfare, went to church, returning for a brunch at the Wilds for some 75 teen-agers.

STUDY SESSION
For a couple hours before her public appearance, Luci was in her room studying for school, a practice she regularly follows when touring the country.

While greeting the guests, two secret service men never left her side.

Many of the leading figures of the Michigan Democratic party were on hand, including gubernatorial candidate and Congressman-at-large Neil Stuebber, and former governor G. Mennen Williams, now assistant secretary of state for African Affairs.

Since Luci had to leave the barbecue early she missed out on a chance to eat her share of the thousands of pounds of spare ribs, 600 pounds of beef and 500 pounds of chicken served by Walter Jetton, the chef at the LBj Ranch in Texas.

Rights Act Goes Before High Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court, in a speeded-up schedule, hears arguments today on the first two appeals involving constitutionality of a section of the new Civil Rights Act.

Departing from tradition by calling for arguments on the opening day of a new term, the court indicated it felt an early decision should be reached on the first challenges made of the 1964 statute.

The two appeals, with their political overtones in the presidential election campaign, could be decided before Nov. 3.

First arguments are on an appeal by the Heart of Atlanta Motel from a decision by a three-judge federal court in Atlanta. The decision was that the public accommodations section of the new law is unconstitutional as applied to the motel.

Next the high tribunal hears arguments on an appeal by the Justice Department from a ruling by another three-judge court in Birmingham, Ala. The Birmingham court said the section is unconstitutional as applied to Ollie's Barbecue, a restaurant in that city.

SECTION STATES
The section states that "all persons shall be entitled to full and equal enjoyment of goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages and accommodations of any place of public accommodation, as defined in this section, without discrimination on the ground of race, color, religion or national origin."

The two appeals present the question how far the section reaches under the authority of Congress to regulate interstate commerce. The interstate commerce power was the main legal basis behind Congress' action.

Action on Hearings Forestalled

Baker Quiz Lacks Quorum

WASHINGTON (AP)—Only two of the Senate Rules Committee's nine members showed up for a meeting today, forestalling action on a Republican move to force preselection hearings on a political payoff charge in the Bobby Baker case.

Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., the committee chairman, and Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., went into a closed meeting to discuss the situation.

The committee's rules require a quorum of five to transact business.

Cooper asked for the meeting last week, saying he will offer a motion to have Baker, former Ambassador Matthew McCloskey, and other key figures involved in the payoff charge, called to testify promptly — possible later this week.

Cooper said he had with him the proxies of Sens. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., and Hugh Scott, R-Pa. — the two absent GOP members of the committee.

However, under the committee's rules, proxies can't be used to make a quorum, although they can be voted if a quorum is present.

With Congress in adjournment all of the Democratic members of the committee were reported to be out of town, except Jordan and Sen. Carl Hayden of Arizona.

UNABLE TO MEET
Jordan was informed by staff aides that Hayden would be unable to attend the meeting.

Jordan already has announced he is leaving tomorrow on the "Lady Bird Special," the train carrying President Johnson's wife on a campaign swing through eight Southern states.

The rules committee probed Baker's affairs last summer and found him "guilty of many gross improprieties."

PAYOFF CHARGE
The payoff charge, leveled by Sen. John F. Williams, R-Del., in a Senate speech Sept. 1, led to new hearings last Thursday and Friday, but Baker, McCloskey, Williams and other key figures were not called.

Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater and other Republicans have accused the Democrats of a cover-up and a whitewash in the Baker case under pressure from the White House.

GREET LUCI—Among the many leading Michigan Democrats welcoming Luci Johnson yesterday at a Texas-style barbecue in Bloomfield Hills were Congressman-at-large and candidate for governor Neil Stuebber (left) and Sen. Philip A. Hart. Standing next to Luci is Cammie Hart, daughter of the senator.

Cause Is Set in Lake Deaths

Tug Helmsman Said Not Awake at Impact

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Coast Guard said today that the tugboat-bridge accident on Lake Pontchartrain last June which resulted in six deaths was caused by the tugboat helmsman's falling or falling asleep.

The helmsman was Clifford Miley, mate on the tugboat Rebel Jr.

Although the Coast Guard officer who conducted the investigation said no federal laws had been violated, the Coast Guard commander, Adm. E. J. Roland, said the manning of the tugboat was inadequate and the working hours of the crew unreasonable.

The Rebel Jr. was pushing two steel barges early on the morning of June 16 when it collided with the 24-mile-long structure which spans the lake. It swept away a small section of the bridge and within seconds a bus carrying eight persons plunged from the bridge into the lake. Two survived.

The Coast Guard said Miley, and the tugboat master, Ned Palmer, had been aboard the vessel almost continuously for 16 days with one or the other at the helm at all times.

OTHERS ASLEEP

Miley slept on June 15 but was awakened late in the afternoon and worked with Palmer and a deck hand until after midnight. The others were asleep, with Miley at the helm, when the collision occurred about 1:20 a.m.

Roland ordered the report turned over to a U.S. district attorney "for such action as he deems appropriate."

The Rebel Jr. was owned by Ace Towing Co. Inc., Gretna, La., and was operated by the Louisiana Materials Co., New Orleans.

Trip Sparks Threats, Loyalty Oaths

Queen to Begin 8-Day Canadian Visit

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I. (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II arrives today to begin an 8-day Canadian visit that has sparked threats from French-speaking separatists in Quebec and pledges of loyalty in this maritime province.

The queen and her husband,

the Duke of Edinburgh, were scheduled to land at the huge Royal Canadian Air Force base at Summerside.

After a brief ceremonial greeting by Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson, the royal party was to board the yacht, Britannia, for an overnight trip to Charlottetown, 45 miles away. Prince Edward Island's capital, a city of 20,000, promised a warm welcome. Extensive security precautions were being taken, but officials said they did not anticipate trouble.

CITIZENS ANNOYED

Charlottetown's mayor, Walter Gaudet, angrily told newsmen that the citizens are getting "damned annoyed" at suggestions that the situation which prevails in Quebec is also a problem here.

He said he was constantly hearing speculation that something awful is going to happen to the queen here.

"We are loyal and we find it difficult to understand such an idea," he said. Provincial Premier Walter Shaw also minimized the possibility of trouble.

"As far as P.E.I. is concerned," he said, "they're as safe here as in their own home. There will certainly be no demonstration or distraction here."

Some public officials are concerned that the threats of separatist demonstrations in Quebec and the emphasis on security measures will obscure the purpose of the royal visit, which is to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the first conference on Canadian confederation.

The queen goes to Quebec after two days here.

Her program in Charlottetown includes the dedication of a new building known as the Fathers of Confederation Center. She also will attend a royal variety show in the center and will conclude her visit with a gala ball in the building.

POLICE WORKING Police have searched the building thoroughly and have screened all employees. In Charlottetown, the queen will spend aboard the Britannia. The dock area has been enclosed in a steel fence.

Some automobiles, especially those with Quebec registration plates, have been checked as they entered the city. Headlines and editorials in the British press stressed the fear that militant French Canadians might demonstrate to press their demand for a separate state. With President John F. Kennedy's assassination still in mind, security arrangements were reported the most stringent ever to surround the queen.

QUEEN IS CALM

Elizabeth was reported unperturbed. A bulletproof car was provided for her drive through Quebec. Royal Navy frogmen were to inspect frequently the hull of the Britannia.

The queen has made official tours overseas every year since she came to the throne in 1952, but only once before has her life been thought in serious danger.

In 1961 in Ghana, then beset by political unrest. The queen then aside suggestions that her visit should be canceled and the tour turned out a triumph.

Court Hearing Rights Appeals

The Atlanta motel, headed by Morton Rolleston Jr., an Atlanta attorney, is located adjacent to an interstate highway. It was agreed in the case that 75 per cent of its guests were from states other than Georgia. The three-judge court in Atlanta, in this first attack on the new law, said the section is unconstitutional under the power of Congress to regulate interstate commerce.

Olle's Barbecue, owned by Olle McClung Sr. and his son, Olle Jr., is located several blocks from the nearest interstate route. The three-judge court in Birmingham, giving the new law its first setback, said Congress may control interstate commerce "only when those activities have such a close and substantial relation to interstate commerce that their control is essential or appropriate to protect that commerce from practices within a state which burden its freedom or obstruct its flow."

TESTING CHARGE

The President added that "the new and frightening voice of the Republican party" his way of referring to Goldwater "was merely trying out this charge to see if it works."

Goldwater does not relate the "soft on communism" charge to alleged internal subversion, as the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy did. Goldwater uses it in the context of the Democratic administration's dealings with world communism abroad, in such places as Viet Nam, Cuba and Berlin.

Goldwater and his running mate, Rep. William E. Miller, R-N.Y., planned a morning meeting with top party strategists at Republican national headquarters, and no campaign activity was scheduled for the rest of the day.

Tuesday Goldwater treks to the prosperous Philadelphia suburbs. This is considered prime territory for the Republicans to pick up, the so-called "white backlash" vote, reacting against Negro demonstrations of equality.

'POINTLESS RIOTS'

In his train-swing through Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, Goldwater never mentioned the civil rights issue. The closest he came was at Wheaton, Ill., Saturday night when he asked, "What are the Negroes doing about the pointless riots in the streets?"

It remained to be seen whether Goldwater would try to exploit this issue more directly as he hoped through Montgomery, Ala., and Delaware counties outside Philadelphia.

There have been practically no Negroes in the crowds that turned out for Goldwater last week, except a few hostile Negroes carrying anti-Goldwater signs and placards. He encountered semioctagonal picketing at Wheaton.

Goldwater also has been bearing down on the Bobby Baker and Billie Sol Estes cases, calling them "the shadow scandals hovering over the White House."

SLATES SWING

Miller scheduled a swing into North Carolina Tuesday. Over the weekend Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield paid Goldwater a sort of left-handed compliment when he was asked in a radio interview "what would be the consequences in international affairs if Sen. Goldwater were elected president?"

Mansfield replied: "I think the country would continue to function, and I think that Sen. Goldwater, if he achieves the presidency, would be a lot more responsible than a good many people think."

In New York, Republican Sen. Kenneth B. Keating was asked why he is refusing to support Goldwater in his own reelection campaign against challenger Robert F. Kennedy. Keating said in a television interview: "Goldwater and I are so far apart on public issues that they were not 'compatible.' He added that he may say more later "but I have nothing to add at this time."

Baldwin Public Library Adds 500 New Books

BIRMINGHAM — Some 500 books have been added to the shelves of Baldwin Public Library under an incentive program of the Michigan State Library.

The initial number is a small part of those expected from the state library. The books will supplement rather than replace regular book purchases of the library, according to director Jeanne Lloyd.

The three-year loan of the books is made possible through federal and state funds available to communities with cooperative library systems.

Baldwin Library, with about 80,000 books, is used by persons living in Bloomfield Hills, Bloomfield Township and Beverly Hills, as well as the 25,000 residents of Birmingham.

All of the new books are available for home borrowing. Both fiction and nonfiction, adult and juvenile, they represent the latest releases of publishers.

MAINLY REPEATS

In a majority of cases they act as additional copies of titles recently added to the permanent collection or currently on order, Miss Lloyd said.

"BLOOMFIELD HILLS—Cranbrook Institute of Science has scheduled two special planetarium demonstrations during teachers' institute Oct. 15 and 16.

Each of the programs will begin at 2:30 p.m.

Observatory sessions can be scheduled Oct. 21 between 8 and 10 p.m. Reservations are required for use of the six-foot refractor telescope.

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — An informal football dinner-dance Saturday night will be the last event at the Birmingham Athletic Club until remodeling is completed.

Dancing will begin at 9 p.m. following refreshments at 6 p.m. and a buffet dinner at 7:30 p.m.

whipped across 26-mile wide Lake Pontchartrain and pounded the seaways. Waves of six feet or more crashed over the seaways, crossed lakeshore drive and flooded fashionable homes.

New Orleans escaped the hurricane's heavy rains and winds as the storm's eye altered course after moving inland Saturday.

FEARED FLOODING

Most of New Orleans, situated between the twisting Mississippi River and Lake Pontchartrain, is below sea level. Residents feared flooding more than wind damage.

Tornadoes dipped and darted about New Orleans and its suburbs Saturday, causing considerable damage. Only two injuries were reported.

One twister skipped through the historic French Quarter.

At least three babies were born in evacuation shelters. The first, a girl, appropriately was named Hilda.

Southern Bell Telephone Co. said an estimated 100,000 telephones were knocked out in south Louisiana. Emergency crews from as far away as Kentucky were sent into the area to restore service.

At New Iberia, lashed by hurricane winds and flooded by torrential rains, only one building was reported demolished — the home of Civil Defense Director Lee Dugas.

E. Germans Use Tunnel to Flee Reds

gees had crept through the tunnel in small groups.

The city government said just before the operation was to end four East German soldiers and three civilians drove up to the East German end of the tunnel.

A few seconds later West police heard several blasts from submachine guns. That was 30 minutes after midnight today. Within 15 minutes the East German end of the tunnel was surrounded by about 30 East German troops.

NO CONFIRMATION

There was no confirmation of earlier reports that a West Berliner who had helped the refugees through was hit by an East German bullet as he was leaving the tunnel.

Tunnel escapes have become less frequent in recent months after East Germans discovered several of them before they could be used and arrested West Germans who were digging them.

A brief statement issued by the West Berlin city administration said:

"In the period from Oct. 1 up to the thirty-first morning hours of Oct. 5, 37 persons succeeded in escaping in groups to West Berlin through a tunnel in the District of Wedding."

"The refugees are in good condition. One of the flight helpers suffered a bruised head and a knee injury during the operation."

PREVIOUS ESCAPE

The largest previous tunnel escape from East Berlin was in September 1962 when 29 persons got through.

For security reasons officials have been reluctant to furnish figures on how many tunnels have been built.

Some of those who have escaped place the figure at about 30, of which 15 were used.

From Ford and GM the union gained what UAW President Walter P. Reuther referred to as "frothing" on the Chrysler cake in the form of a Christmas bonus hinged to the level of the companies' supplemental unemployment benefits fund.

BOTH ISSUES

Both local and national issues had stymied settlement.

Reuther told newsmen the tentative agreement included a $17-million - a year provision for equalization of wages on various job classifications.

He said some 2,400 local grievances automatically would move up to the national level for bargaining because they involve wage inequity demands.

Asked whether the local issues which have solved their demands would return to work immediately, Reuther said there were hardly enough local settlements at this point to make any difference in the strike picture.

SOME RESOLVED

Latest reports showed only 12 of the 159 bargaining units have resolved their problems.

Reuther said 11 items of changes were made in the procedures under which production standards are set.

He predicted when the General Motors workers understand what the UAW has gained by the 11-day walkout "they will realize the value of the strike."

Meanwhile, in one of the first local votes on the Chrysler agreement, Dodge Local 3 voted yesterday to reject the proposed contract.

Open OU Arts Series With 'Ballet '64' Review

(Editor's Note: Our reviewer, Miss Appleton, teaches creative dance at the Birmingham Conservatory of Music. In the past, she has taught at Wayne State University, Oakland University, George Washington University and the University of Minnesota.)

The first and third pieces on the program, "Sonnet" and "Pas de Trois," were ballets in the classic style, well-executed for the most part — though the company seems to need more work in ensemble precision. Low Christensen's choreography for "Pas de Trois" was unusually inventive for a traditional ballet composition.

Ron Poindexter's choreography was the highlight of the evening. His experimental use of music, lighting, props and sound in "Counterparts" was fresh and altogether delightful. In "The Set," the last piece of the evening, he began brilliantly — with superb pacing, crisp movement and a keen awareness of space design.

The form of the dance deteriorated somewhat toward the end, due to the inactivity of dancers on stage awaiting their turn for solo performance. Nevertheless, Poindexter's innovative play between lighting and the dance merit special mention.

All told, "Ballet '64" provided a pleasant evening of dance, and brought to Pontiac a group of extraordinarily talented young performers. Elsie Tjomsland and Henry Berg in "Counterparts," and Sally Bailey in her varied roles performed with particular distinction.

Beyond this, "Ballet '64" introduced here a new kind of "grass roots" movement for developing the traditional ballet which warrants both admiration and emulation for the opportunities it offers to composers, performers and the community alike.

Experiments in the dance will not always be successful, but only if they are supported can the vital young choreographers and dancers of today grow tomorrow into the exciting and mature artists which our society needs and deserves.

Food Editors Sample Dessert

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor
NEW YORK CITY — Seven thousand morsels were flown from France for the opening dinner of the 1964 Food Editors' conference Sunday evening. Scott Paper Company entertained the 160 food writers at the Four Seasons restaurant.

In keeping with the theme of the two-party system, our hosts served two different, but similar menus. However, food editors are incurably curious so that there was much sampling back and forth.

Fresh salmon and roast veal made up the appetizer and main course.

Dessert was in two parts, both fabulous. First came poached whole pears set on a shortbread - style cookie and surrounded with a chocolate shell looking like a calla lily. With coffee there were glazed strawberries.

TRY THIS

These are something Press readers might try. You'll need large, perfect berries and the sort of clear syrup that is used for candied apples. Dip the berries and let them harden on a sheet of waxed paper or foil.

After dinner we were invited to see the kitchen of this famous restaurant. So quickly had the staff worked that all the dishes were done and the place was in spotless order. One item intriguing many of us were the pots of herbs growing on one of the shelves — just like in a home kitchen.

This morning, Florida Citrus Commission entertained us at brunch in the English style. I passed up the Dover sole — flown in from England — but did enjoy beef and kidney pie.

In between the brunch and tonight's affair, the food editor from Huntington, W. Va. and I took the boat trip around Manhattan.

WORLD'S FAIR

Yesterday I went to the World's Fair. Just wish I had time and endurance to try all the foreign foods offered in the various restaurants.

I was intrigued with the waffles served in the Belgian village. They're so much thicker than our waffles and are eaten out of hand — topped with whipped cream and strawberries or just dusted with confectioners sugar.

Today was the first of our six-day session hearing the latest news of food. I expect to keep you posted daily.

Complaint Ill-Founded

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Some woman signed "BOILING OVER" complained because she, a blood relative, rode in the fifth car behind the hearse at her mother's funeral while "relatives-by-marriage" rode in cars ahead of her.

You said, in your opinion, husbands and wives belonged together at funerals in order to console and comfort each other.

I am with you, Abby. My husband was only a son-in-law, but my mother couldn't have loved him more if he had been her son.

In fact, he treated my mother better during her lifetime than her own sons did. We didn't even think about how far back we were in the procession of cars at her funeral.

And anyone who did, couldn't have been mourning very much for the one they had come to lay to rest.

DEAR ABBY: "BOILING OVER" infuriated me! I am one of 16 children, and I was always accused of being my mother's favorite.

At her funeral I rode in the LAST car of relatives and I couldn't have cared less if I had been in the last car of the whole procession.

I knew in my heart that I was the closest to my mother. Why? Because all the rest of them waited until the last week of her lingering illness to rush to her side.

I was there the moment I learned she was ill. And I was there every day for as long as she needed me.

"THE LAST CAR"

DEAR ABBY: Your opinion on funeral protocol was correct. The spouse of the deceased always rides in the first family car behind the hearse.

Should there be a large number of children, the proper sequence is as follows:

The eldest daughter, her husband and their children ride in the first car.

The other married daughters ride in the second car.

The unmarried sons

Cardinals Prepare Homecoming for Yankees' Yogi

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Yogi Berra, a St. Louis Cardinals fan as a youngster, will return home Wednesday as the enemy, and the Cards are ready for him.

Yogi is looking forward to the homecoming, but he will be returning as manager of the New York Yankees, the Cardinals' opponent in the World Series.

"I didn't care which of the clubs won over there, as long as there was no playoff," Berra said after the Redbirds clinched the pennant Sunday. "We wanted to get started without delay. "But it will be good to go home."

HE'S READY

"Bring on the Yankees," jubilant St. Louis Manager Johnny Keane told a crowd thronging Busch Stadium long after the Cardinals defeated the New York Mets 11-5.

The triumph broke a first-place tie with Cincinnati, which lost to Philadelphia 10-0 and ended any thought of a two or three-way playoff. The Reds and the Phillies finished one game back.

FROM BEHIND

St. Louis trailed Philadelphia by 6½ games in the final two weeks and then had to catch Cincinnati in the final five days. The Yanks, too, had their troubles this year, having to come from six games back before clinching the championship Saturday. They finished one game in front of Chicago.

The Cardinals and Yankees have met four times in the World Series, each winning twice. The last time was in 1943 when the Yankees won, four games to one. The Cardinals won four straight the year before.

In 1926, the Cardinals, playing in their first World Series, beat the New Yorkers in seven games. The Yankees swept four contests in 1928.

The series starts Wednesday in St. Louis with Whitey Ford, 17-4, expected to start for the Yankees against Ray Sadock, 20-11, for the Cardinals.

The second game Thursday in St. Louis will likely pit New York rookie Mel Stottlemyre, 2-2 against Bob Gibson, 19-12.

When the teams move to New York Saturday after an off-day Friday, Jim Bouton, 18-13, is expected to start for the Yankees against Curt Simmons, 18-9.

The fourth game and fifth, if necessary, will be held in New York Sunday and Monday with the teams moving back to St. Louis Wednesday and Thursday for the sixth and seventh contests if they are needed.

Lions Finally Find Offense to Win, 26-3

Line Blocking Helps Runners to Big Gains

Watkins Goes 61-Yds. for TD, Also Passes to Barr

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press
DETROIT — Found the long lost offense the Detroit Lions have been looking for since the start of the exhibition season nine games ago.

With Earl Morrall getting his first starting assignment at quarterback, the offensive line led by John Gordy knocking down defenders, and the backs running with zest, the Lions whipped the New York Giants, 26-3 before a full house of 54,836 yesterday.

Danny Lewis continued the hard running which has made him one of the top seven backs in the NFL. Nick Pietrosante drove for yardage and delivered key blocks; Tom Watkins again pulled game spectaculars and the Lions' defense, front and back, played havoc with the passing of Y. A. Tittle.

"It was our best offensive showing since the start of exhibition season (9 games ago)," said coach George Wilson, "I think we have found what our offense can do."

There was a bit of everything in the game, and even though the Lions did not score in the second half, it was because Wilson decided on gambling for the touchdowns rather than pad the score with several good field goal opportunities.

MORRALL HITS

Morrall, the leading percentage passer in the NFL with 67 per cent, wasted no time in getting the Lions moving. On the first play of the game, he fired a 48 yard pass to Terry Barr for a first down on the 31 yard line.

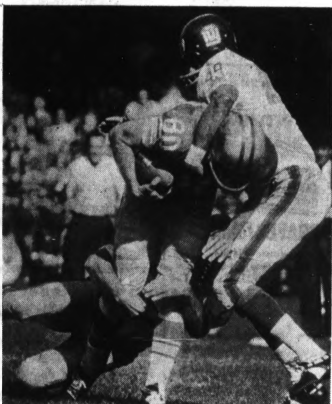

Two plays later, lined up on the 30 yard line, Wayne Walker faked his field goal try. Morrall stood up and flipped to Nick Ryder all alone at the 10 for a 23 yard touchdown. Walker made it 7-0 with only 2:30 gone in the game.

The Giants with Tittle hitting short passes moved to the Detroit 14. Don Chandler then made it 7-3 with a 21 yard field goal.

As the quarter came to an end, Yale Lary intercepted a pass and made a 25 yard return to the Giants' 30. On fourth down the Lions went for the field goal from the 59, but it was ruled wide as Walker and the Lions protested.

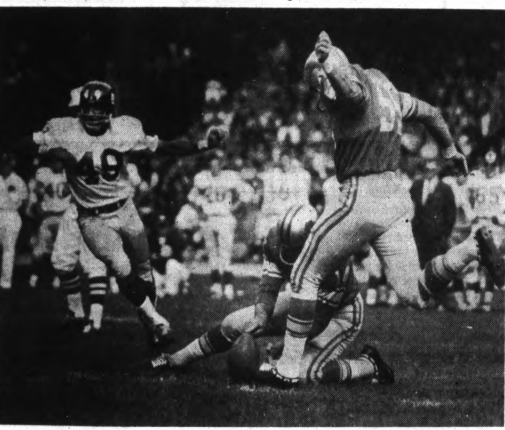

The Giants took over but lost yardage back to the four and Chandler had to punt. Watkins took the ball on his own 39, and behind beautiful blocking he twisted through Giants' defenders and went the entire way for a 61 yard TD. Walker converted.

GIANT REACH — The long arm of New York defensive back Dick Lewis reaches over blocker Daryl Sanders as Danny Lewis (46) picks up yardage in his 18-yard rush against the Giants. Lewis continued his hard running as the Detroit offense showed it best form of the season.

Green Bay Victim of Scrambling QB

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Fran Tarkenton, the Minnesota Vikings' will o' the wisp quarterback, is giving National Football League opponents nightmares with his almost unbelievable scrambling tactics.

Tarkenton, a master escape artist at dodging tacklers, employed all his Houdini tricks and ran for his life successfully Sunday in leading the Vikings to a 24-23 upset victory over the Green Bay Packers.

The 190-pound signal-caller from Georgia set up a pair of one-yard touchdowns plunges by Bill Brown. Tarkenton darted all over the field in passing to Tom Hall for a touchdown on a play that covered an official six yards and then triggered a toss which set up Fred Cox for a game-winning field goal with 18 seconds remaining.

"That Tarkenton is a tough little guy," Green Bay Coach Vince Lombardi said after the Viking ace completed 12 of 17 passes for 183 yards and netted 49 yards in six carries.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Experience, they say, is a great teacher. Coach Harland Sware of the Los Angeles Rams said it, too, after losing 35-20 Sunday to the Baltimore Colts.

As an example, he compared the quarterbacks. Both wore the same number 19, but there was a world of difference.

Speaking of John Unitas for the Colts, Sware said, "He always takes advantage of the breaks and that's what makes him a great quarterback."

Three of the 10 passes completed by Unitas went for touchdowns. On the first one, he ran out of the pocket to the sideline and improvised a throw to Jim Orr, who caught all three scoring aeriels from Unitas.

In a similar situation, Sware commented his rookie quarterback Bill Munson "got in trouble and by the time he got away and cranked up, Bob Boyd had time to recover."

Boyd, defensive back for the Colts, intercepted the pass and returned it 47 yards to the Ram 12. Lenny Moore ran it over and the Colts took a 21-13 lead in the third quarter. It was a real turning point in a tight game.

TOUGH PLAYER
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Chicago's Bears wish they'd never seen Mike Dowdle.

The San Francisco 49er seemed continually in the cago backfield Sunday as his team scored a 31-21 victory in a game which saw John Brodie throw three touchdown passes and Tommy Davis boot the longest 67-yard field goal.

Dowdle led a blitz that held quarterback Billy Wade in check until the 49ers had built a 17-0 lead over the defending National Football League champions.

TOKYO, Oct. 5 (AP) — Is the militant Avery Brundage near the end of the line as president of the International Olympic Committee?

That's the question being bandied around high Olympic circles today as politics and controversies continued to take some of the spotlight from athletes' training for the summer games, opening Sunday.

The answer is expected Wednesday when the IOC opens its annual meeting with the usual fife of problems.

VOTES CAST
The votes have been cast by member nations. They are in sealed envelopes and the result will be announced at the opening IOC meeting.

Most observers believe Brundage, wealthy Chicago hotel owner who is a strong champion of pure amateurism, will be reelected to the office he has held since 1952.

There is a powerful support, however, for Lord David Burghley, the Marquis of Exeter, of England, a man regarded to have more liberal ideas on the conduct of world sports.

Burghley's supporters contend Brundage is old-fashioned and that his concepts are outmoded and impractical in the modern age. Brundage's backers believe Burghley selection would bring the games to the verge of professionalization.

HANDS OFF
The IOC has adopted a hands off attitude on one of the most important issues facing athletic leaders here—that is, the long and bitter squabble between the colleges (NCAA) and the Amateur Athletic Union for control of amateur sports in the United States.

The colleges contend they deserve a bigger hand in the operation—if not complete control. The AAU, which has had control through affiliation with the various world federations, is not ready to give ground.

A sort of moratorium was declared in order that the U.S. Olympic effort wouldn't suffer, but the war went on just the same, though underground.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals have moved their Oct. 12 National League football game against the Baltimore Colts from St. Louis to Baltimore because of conflict with the World Series.

Olympics Take Spotlight Is Brundage on Way Out of IOC?

Cards Thrash Skins, Eagles Rout Steelers

WASHINGTON (AP) — An overpowering St. Louis defensive line made it easy for the offense Sunday and the Cardinals thrashed Washington 22-17 in a mud-soaked National Football League game.

The Cardinals jumped off to a quick lead on the second play of the game as Pat Fischer grabbed a deflected Redskins pass and ran 33 yards for a touchdown.

The St. Louis line made life miserable for Redskins runners and passers the rest of the game. The Cardinals held Washington to a net eight yards rushing the first half and tossed Sonny Jurgensen, trying to pass, eight times for a loss of 66 yards.

HEALTHY AGAIN
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Timmy Brown is healthy of mind and body again, which means trouble for opponents of the Philadelphia Eagles.

Brown gained almost 2,500 yards last year for the Eagles in the National Football League. In the first four games this season he has been conspicuous by his sub-par performance.

But Sunday, he was the swift running Brown of old, gathering in 23 and 87-yard touchdowns passes, rushing 116 yards on 16 carries, showing the form that made him an All Pro Bowl selection last year. As a result, the Eagles won 21-7 over the Pittsburgh Steelers in the first of their annual two games intrastate meetings.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Veteran defensive tackle Bob Gain had his right leg broken in Sunday's Cleveland-Dallas National Football League game and will be out for the rest of the season. The 35-year-old Gain, in his 12th year with the Browns, was carried off the field in the fourth quarter.

Cards Thrash Skins, Eagles Rout Steelers

Coach Blanton Collier said he might try to make a trade this week to replace Gain.

Ross Fichtner, who suffered a concussion, was carried off the field in the third quarter.

A Browns spokesman said it was the first time in the club's history that two members of the squad had been carried out in one game.

Yanks Periled in Viet City

Teen Suspect Arrest Spurs Demonstration

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Americans were instructed to stay off the streets of the central Vietnamese city of Da Nang over the weekend after demonstrators threatened the residence of two civilian U.S. aid mission officials.

The incident began Saturday afternoon, sources here said, when the two officials spotted a 16-year-old youth loitering outside their house. The two grabbed him and summoned police, reporting they suspected he intended to rob the house.

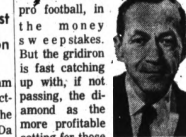

The police took the youth into custody.

Saturday night about 200 persons gathered in front of the house. Student leaders went to the police headquarters and demanded release of the youth, threatening an attack on the residence if the demand was not met.

CROWD DISPERSED

The police released the youth and the crowd dispersed. Both U.S. officials imposed a "gray alert" in the city, under which all of the 1,000 military and civilian Americans there were under orders to stay off the street. The order still was in effect today.

Da Nang, 300 miles north of Saigon, has the third largest U.S. military air base in the country and is the closest major base to Communist North Viet Nam.

DAWSON

Both sports are raking in money by linking up with television. Both see rival cities seeking to lure major-league teams their way. Both are inspiring stadium-building activities, even in cities which as yet haven't captured a home team of national stature.

Pro baseball had the field almost to itself for years and still proudly claims the title of national pastime.

But pro football now boasts of fast-rising revenues, increasing pay for players, mounting attendance, and pleasantly faint profits.

UNCONVINCING CLAIM

Of late baseball teams couldn't make as convincing a claim. Attendance has lagged at many ballparks. Teams have sought different home grounds to change their financial luck. And some who haven't done so well in their new locales are flirting with still other cities which would like to attain big-league status.

Attendance figures for pro football tell another story. In 1963 the only league, the National Football League, had total paid admittance of 2.2 million fans. Last year more than

Scraping NATO-N Force Is Key to Treaty---Russia

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union will sign an East-West treaty banning the spread of nuclear weapons only if the American-proposed Multilateral Nuclear Force (MLF) is scrapped, Tass said today.

Tass commentator Mikhail Sagatelyan wrote that President Johnson and British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home had revealed the existence of an Anglo-American draft treaty on nonproliferation that was ready for negotiation with Russia.

"These prospects," it said, "do not suit many members of NATO. The people in Bonn and Washington realize this, of course. But they are in a hurry to set up the Multilateral Nuclear Force."

"Every time the ruling circles of the United States prepares to make the next step in the creation of the NATO nuclear force, they try to hide it behind a smoke screen of agency said. "Such charges are absurd."

It said Russia "has never objected to the conclusion of such an agreement with other nuclear powers that would actually guarantee nonproliferation of nuclear weapons."

The matter is, however, that under a treaty on the nonproliferation of nuclear weapons, Washington and London are trying to secure Soviet consent to their continuation of their policy of nuclear armament of Bonn revanchists (vengeance-seekers) under the cover of the so-called NATO nuclear force.

"The Soviet naturally cannot agree to the proposals for such a treaty," it said.

Tour Alaska in Own Canoe

Crafts Are for Rent to All Adventurers

WINNIPEG (AP)—The Hudson Bay Co.'s rent-a-canoe program for adventurous tourists has caught on so well it's almost sure to be expanded next year, says Hugh Ross, who helped launch the project.

There have been hundreds of inquiries about the project, mostly from Americans.

U-Paddle, as the service is called, provides canoes at five trading posts—Yellowknife, N. W. T.; Waterville, Alaska; Ile a la Crosse, Sask.; La Ronge, Sask. and Norway House, Man.

Aimed mainly at tourists who want to follow historic fur-trading routes, U-Paddle now has 28 canoes in use.

The 17-foot aluminum craft weigh 75 pounds and rent for $25 a week. They can be picked up at one post and turned in at another, as in the car-rental business.

PLANES, TRAINS

The company uses planes and trains to return them to the original base.

"This kind of travel is not kid stuff," Ross says. Working at Winnipeg, he tries to separate those travelers able to take care of themselves in the North from the ones who can't.

Guides are available and all renters are advised to stay where they're going and to call in at trading posts along the way so that their approximate position will be known.

One of the longest routes is 700 miles and takes about two months by canoe.
