Telegraph Road Traffic Blocked by Fatal Smash

Victim's Auto Rammed Broadside in Accident, Police Believe

A Redford man was killed and six other persons injured in a three-car collision on Telegraph road a half-mile south of Orchard Lake road this morning.

Dead on arrival at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital was Leonard Sokolowski, 41, of of 18876 Wakenden St., according to police.

His wife Julia, 38, who was driving, suffered "serious" injuries and was taken to surgery immediately.

The other injured parties were all in one auto. Police identified them as Edward Frazer, 49, the driver, his wife, Lorraine, 42, and Mrs. Fannie Washburn, 74, all of 728 W. Main St., Owosso.

Also injured in the Frazer car were Mrs. Mollie Kent, 72, believed to be a resident of Chesaning, and Mrs. Rose Gewirtz, 62, of 328 Pine St., Chesaning.

Mrs. Kent was treated for minor injuries and released. The others suffered serious to critical injuries, according to a hospital spokesman.

★ ★ ★

The third car was driven by Barbara Ann Buchanan, 24, of 67 Hudson St., Pontiac. She was uninjured, said police.

The smashup, which occurred shortly after 9 a.m., was described as one of the worst in the Pontiac area this year by police.

The accident call was handled by Bloomfield Township Police who were assisted by Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies and State Troopers.

Police are still attempting to piece together statements by witnesses concerning the cause of the collision. Officers said that the Frazer car and Buchanan auto were traveling south on Telegraph.

★ ★ ★

The Skolowski auto was struck broadside by the Frazer car, which in turn was hit by the car driven by the Pontiac girl.

★ ★ ★

It has not yet been determined how the Sokolowski auto got into a position in which it was hit broadside. Police theorized it was making a left turn and turned across the path of the southbound autos.

Witnesses said the accident created a traffic tieup which had cars stopped bumper-to-bumper for several miles each way making it difficult for police cars and ambulances to reach the smashup.

Appeal in Case of Caril Fugate Being Planned

Lawyers May Carry Fight Over Life Term to High State Court

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Attorneys for Caril Ann Fugate, 15, convicted of murder, prepared today to appeal her case to the State Supreme Court if necessary.

A jury Friday found the slim brunette guilty of first-degree murder for aiding and abetting mass killer Charles Starkweather in one of his 11 admitted slayings.

A life sentence was prescribed for Caril, in contrast to the death penalty ordered for her ex-boy friend last May.

Defense lawyer John McArthur said a new trial will be asked within the 10 days allowed. Sentencing normally follows rejection of the motion for retrial. But sentencing in Caril's case is a formality because the jury fixes the penalty in first-degree murder convictions in Nebraska.

McArthur said a Supreme Court appeal is planned if necessary.

Starkweather, who will turn 20 on Monday, got news of the verdict at the Nebraska Penitentiary where he waits results of a State Supreme Court review of his conviction.

"We didn't tell him," Warden Joseph Bovey said. "We let him read it in the afternoon paper."

Presiding Dist. Judge Harry Spencer said the girl probably will serve her sentence at the York, Neb. women's reformatory.

In the absence of a court reversal the state Board of Pardons and Paroles becomes Caril's last hope. But the board normally requires life termers to serve at least 10 years before they are considered for commutation of sentence or parole.

Caril was 14 at the time she and Starkweather embarked on a crime spree. Nine bodies of victims were found in a three-day period in the Lincoln area and Starkweather added a last victim in Wyoming just before he and Caril were captured Jan. 29. Starkweather subsequently admitted a previously unsolved slaying in Lincoln to bring his victim list to 11.

Fleeing Youth Shot by Police

Detroit Patrolman, Hurt by Speeding Car, Gives Chase, Has to Fire

DETROIT (UPI) — A motorcycle patrolman, injured when he was forced off the road by a speeding car, had to use his revolver to halt the teenaged driver of a stolen car.

★ ★ ★

Patrolman Arvel Dill, 34, said he spotted two cars racing abreast at 55 miles an hour along Five-Mile road early today.

As he pulled alongside, he was forced off the road by 16-year-old John L. Johnson and suffered a hip injury when his bike overturned.

★ ★ ★

But Dill resumed the chase and forced Johnson's car to the curb. Johnson leaped out and swung at the officer. Then he tried to flee on foot.

★ ★ ★

Dill, limping because of his injury, fired a warning shot and finally wounded Johnson in the hip when the youth refused to stop.

Red Silence on Berlin Jolt to East Germans

BERLIN (UPI) — The Kremlin today jerked the rug out from under Germany's Communists, who had predicted immediate "eradication of the occupation status" under which the West maintains troops in Berlin.

Western ambasadors summoned to the Soviet foreign office to receive what was expected to be a new Russian declaration on Berlin policy got a statement about their own countries' relations with the Kremlin instead.

The Reds' Berlin radio had predicted that Russia would tell the Western envoys that it favored an immediate end to the Four-Power rule imposed on Berlin by the Potsdam Agreement.

The Red radio repeated its prediction at noon (6 a.m. Pontiac time), an hour after the first ambassador arrived at the foreign office.

Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Brentano flew in from Bonn today to discuss West Berlin's problems with Mayor Willy Brandt and Western Allied leaders here.

PROMISES NOTE SOON

"I believe the Berlin position will be maintained, although of course the situation is serious," Brentano told newsmen at the airport.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev has declared that a Soviet note on "the status of Berlin," can be expected soon, and a Communist commission has already been set up here to work out details of the surrender of Soviet controls to the local Reds.

It had been expected that control of the lifelines of isolated West Berlin might be transferred to Red Germany's satellite regime within a matter of hours, but it now appears that no change is likely until next week at earliest.

★ ★ ★

Although the Communists have promised that there will be no immediate interference with West German traffic, they could clamp a total blockade on West Berlin at any time.

They have even hinted that they may try to block the airlanes that kept West Berlin alive through the Soviet blockade, despite warnings from the West that any attempt to do so might touch off World War III.

★ ★ ★

Sources at the "Vacation White House" in Augusta, Ga., declared yesterday that the United States has "firm intentions" of preserving West Berlin's integrity despite the new red threat.

WON'T USE FORCE

Similar firmness is expected from Britain and France.

Khrushchev has promised that Russia will not attempt to drive the Western Allies out of the city by force, but he simultaneously pledged the full support of the Communist world to the Reds in Germany if they become the target of any "aggressive act."

The specific aim of the Communists appears to be to try to force Western recognition of the East German puppet regime. Captured U.S. servicemen have been held as hostages in past efforts to achieve the same goal.

★ ★ ★

In the current situation, the Communists are expected to demand recognition of the East German regime as the price for allied use of the highways, railroads — and perhaps airlanes — linking Berlin with the West.

Weekend to Remain Partly Cloudy, Cold

The weatherman promises little change in temperature for the weekend. Skies will continue partly cloudy, the low tonight near 28, tomorrow's high around 45.

★ ★ ★

"Cloudy, colder, a few showers and snow flurries" was the overall weekend prediction for the state. Most of the snow flurries can be expected in the north portion of the Lower Peninsula and around Lake Superior, meteorologist Marvin Green said.

★ ★ ★

The mercury stood at 28 degrees in downtown Pontiac at 8 a.m. The temperature at 1 p.m. was 40.

Victims Buried at Rogers City

Bodies of 13 Sailors From Lost Freighter Laid to Rest

From Our News Wires

ROGERS CITY—This Lake Huron shipping community of 4,000 prepared today to bury 13 sailors whose bodies were recovered from Tuesday's ship sinking which claimed 33 lives.

Twenty-five of the 35 crewmen of the Carl D. Bradley were from Rogers City. Two of them were rescued from the chilled waters of northern Lake Michigan when the Bradley broke in half and sank.

The city began a 30-day period of mourning under a proclamation issued by Mayor Kenneth F. Vogelheim. Vogelheim also proclaimed that Nov. 18 shall be dedicated yearly to the men who died with the Bradley.

The Rogers City plant of Michigan Limestone Co., owners of the ill-fated ship, was closed in respect to the dead. Christian F. Beukema, president of the division of Rogers City plant, said the flag would be flown at half mast at the plant.

He asked employes to attend services for the victims and ordered all Bradley transportation lines ships, including four currently away from their home port, to anchor at noon and have their masters conduct memorial services.

At Charlevoix, though almost despairing of finding any more men alive, the Coast Guard today set up another search of northern Lake Michigan for the bodies of the 15 missing crewmen of the sunken freighter.

As a search by air and sea went on after one of the Great Lakes' worst disasters, a Coast Guard board of inquiry resumed an investigation into the mishap.

Strike Paralyzes Another Airline

TWA Hit as Capital Readies Flights Again, American Threatened

From Our News Wires

One of the nation's major airlines was paralyzed by a strike today, a second was preparing to resume operations after a 37-day shutdown, and a third faced a walkout Tuesday.

Trans World Airlines planes were grounded all over the world today by a strike of 6,700 machinists who refused a last-ditch settlement offer by the company.

TWA normally carries some 12,000 passengers a day throughout the United States and in 23 foreign cities. It has 196 daily flights. About 19,000 TWA employes were furloughed without pay by the company as a result of the machinists' walkout. TWA has bases scattered over this continent, Europe and Asia.

Capital Airlines today planned to resume some of its flights Sunday and have its service back to normal by midnight Tuesday following settlement of a 37-day strike by union mechanics.

★ ★ ★

The mechanics, members of the International Assn. of Machinists (IAM), yesterday ratified a new contract calling for a 41-cent-an-hour wage increase over a three-year period.

A final decision may be reached today in Chicago on a threatened walkout Tuesday for more than 1,500 American Airline pilots.

Officers of the Air Line Pilots Assn. will make the decision, an ALPA spokesman said last night.

The spokesman also said such a walkout would be effective at 11:59 p.m. local time, Tuesday.

Immortal Mel Ott to Be Buried Today

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The sports world bids farewell today to Mel Ott, New York Giants immortal, a member of baseball's Hall of Fame and Detroit Tigers' broadcaster.

Ott, 49, died Friday. Funeral service has been set for 2 o'clock this afternoon in New Orleans.

Some of the top names in the world of sports are expected to attend the rite for the National League's all-time top home-run hitter.

Physicians had tried for a week to check complications from injuries Ott received in an automobile collision a week ago.

★ ★ ★

Ott went into major league baseball as a boy. He went to play for the Giants at age 16. He played for 22 seasons.

The wreck near Bay St. Louis, on Mississippi's Gulf Coast, killed the driver of the other car, Leslie Curry Sr., 50, and seriously injured Ott's wife, Mildred.

Mrs. Ott still was under treatment for injuries. She was transferred from a Gulfport, Miss., hospital to one here Friday night.

Ott was brought to a local hospital Thursday when his condition worsened due to a kidney malfunction.

He underwent an eight-hour operation, requiring an artificial kidney and specialists, to correct a blocked kidney. Another operation was required Friday when the ailment reappeared. He died in the afternoon. His two daughters and a brother were at his bedside.

Horace Stoneham, president of the Giants, now playing out of San Francisco, cut short a vacation in Ciudad Trujillo, Dominican Republic, and flew to New York.

Stoneham said Ott was "not only a great Giant player but a very dear personal friend also."

★ ★ ★

Ott managed the Giants between 1942 and midseason of 1948. He managed Oakland in the Pacific Coast League for two seasons before leaving baseball in January 1953.

★ ★ ★

General Manager John McHale flew to New Orleans from Detroit today to represent the Tigers at the funeral service this afternoon for Ott.

President Orders All U. S. Agencies to Tighten Belts

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower in a new move to cut spending has ordered all federal agencies to live within Budget Bureau recommendations. The only exception is where national security or welfare would be jeopardized.

★ ★ ★

The President's instructions, his vacation headquarters announced today were sent to the heads of all departments, and agencies earlier this week. They deal with spending for the fiscal year starting July 1.

★ ★ ★

The budget for that year will be sent to Congress by Eisenhower in January. James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary refused to speculate whether the budget will be lower or higher than the $79,200,000,000 spending estimate for the current year.

Tank Plan Draws Praise

IKE LIKES — An unusual drawing of an army tank, sent to President Eisenhower, drew praise from the President on the work done by 11-year-old Lonnie May of Waterford Township.

Ike Praises Local Boy, 11, for Design

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

Eleven-year-old Lonnie May of Waterford Township, is probably the proudest and most envied pupil attending McVittie School. Lonnie has a personal letter from the President of the United States, praising his ability as a tank designer.

Some time ago Lonnie, who lives with his parents, four brothers and a sister at 3580 Embarsidero St., sent a letter to the President, along with a specially-designed tank drawing.

Within a week, President Eisenhower sent a reply to Lonnie commending the youngster, and encouraging him to continue his interest in designing, saying "We need men like you."

A stainless steel job, the tank is constructed into three separate units, molded into one. In the event one compartment is hit, the other two would still be intact.

In the front end, which would steer and move independently of the rest of the tank, the gunner could focus his target through a tiny peephole.

On top of the silver and black model, there is a rounded bullet-proof section for the top-driver to control operations, and in the rear, there are quarters for navigator and radio operators.

Lonnie also has lots of ideas on what he would like to be after he grows up. He would like to be a policeman, an engineer, an architect, a scientist—or maybe—"just a plain millionaire."

150 Milkmen Stage March on Market

One hundred and fifty milkmen marched into a Drayton Plains supermarket last night to protest the store's low milk prices.

Like Caesar's legions, the unorganized "army" came and saw.

But it did not conquer.

Reginald Zettel, 26, of Madison Heights, manager of the Kroger Market at 4370 Dixie Hwy., Drayton Plains, told state police he knew through an anonymous phone tip that the milkmen would troop into the market. The caller mentioned violence, he said.

★ ★ ★

The group came in at 6:30 p.m. and tied up the store's pushcarts for an hour. Regular customers found it rough sledding getting through the jammed aisles.

★ ★ ★

After an hour, the men walked peacefully to checkout counters, most of them with a few items they picked up during their strolling.

The most popular item: Packages of frozen strawberries—at sale price, of course.

Funds Slash Facing Schools

$25,400,000 Shortage Ahead

Only Unseen Source Can Divert Financial Crisis in Michigan

By ROGER LANE

LANSING (AP)—Unless cash help comes from some source not now in sight, Michigan local school districts will be left holding the bag for $25,400,000 in state aid due them by next June 30.

That's the way the situation was sized up yesterday by Lynn M. Bartlett, state superintendent of public instruction.

★ ★ ★

Educators are anxious about the outlook, and a group of them formally urged the 1959 Legislature to make the "critical" school money problem a first order of business when it meets in January.

The legislative committee of the Michigan Assn. of School Administrators acted yesterday after a conference of several hours with Bartlett.

In the background was the prospect of a yawning over-all state deficit of some 65 million dollars by mid-1959, and renewed agitation for liquidating the 50 million dollar state Veterans Trust Fund to meet current state obligations.

★ ★ ★

Because the state is delinquent in monies due Michigan State University, MSU authorities on Thursday okayed borrowings from banks up to $3,500,000 to tide the institution over until Jan. 1.

Bartlett's calculation was based on 300 million dollars in state sales tax revenue, an amount roughly equal to the 1957-58 take. Two thirds of sales tax receipts go into the school aid fund.

COLLECTIONS LAG

Current collections are reported lagging more than eight million dollars behind a year ago, but a continued pick up in business activity, if sustained, probably will close this gap.

The cost of the 1958-59 state aid program figures about 300 million dollars, counting provision for the teacher retirement system.

★ ★ ★

As against this obligation, state school finance experts now are counting on about 200 millions from the sales tax, 50 millions from the school primary interest fund and roughly 25 million dollars from special cigarette and liquor taxes enacted in early 1957—a total of about 275 millions.

BORROW $37.5 MILLION

Because school aid distributions in the early months of the fiscal year have been running behind, 802 local districts have had to borrow $37,500,000 million dollars from banks against state allocations expected this winter and next spring, paying up to 4 per cent interest.

Another 10 million dollars has been borrowed, Bartlett said in anticipation of local tax receipts.

★ ★ ★

One source said schoolmen quietly have been trying to persuade lawmakers to scuttle the Veterans Trust Fund and that they have been meeting with some success.

Ford Executive 'Jugged' 5 Days for Speeding

Arrested for speeding up to 120 mph along the Farmington-Brighton expressway, a Ford Motor Co. executive was sentenced to five days in the Oakland County Jail and fined $100 by New Hudson Justice Charles Roby.

Brighton state troopers said they chased Milan Aedinvice, 55, of Flint at speeds above 120 at 5:30 a.m. starting a few miles east of near Eight Mile road and Grand River when he had to slow down.

Aedinvice, who was driving a high-powered automobile, said he was on his way to work at the Ford Rouge Plant in Dearborn, where he is stamping division manager. He said he didn't know police were pursuing him.

'Mad Midnight' Sale Draws Huge Crowd

Crowds "bigger than the day we opened in September, 1957" attended last night's "Mad Midnight" Sale at the Miracle Mile Shopping Center, Bloomfield Towhship, according to William MacDonald, president of the Miracle Mile Business Assn.

The parking lot which holds 5,000 cars was filled and more cars were parked behind the lot, he added. He estimated more than 25,000 people attended the 9 p.m. to midnight sale which offered hourly specials.

He reported the crowds did not let up until three minutes before closing time.

Author Sees Big Chance for Williams

ANN ARBOR (UPI)—Gov. G. Mennen Williams' chances for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination were probably aided by the last election a noted American historian and author said last night.

Henry Steele Commager author of "American Mind" and a history professor at both Columbia and Amherst College told a press conference in Ann Arbor the defeat of right-to-work laws showed "friendliness to labor isn't such a handicap."

He noted that until the election observers thought Gov. Williams' alliance with Walter Reuther United Auto Workers Union president "was a handicap in national politicis."

Commager said however Adlai Stevenson "still remains the leading contender."

The professor discounted southern opposition to Williams, much of which was outgrowth of the 1952 convention when he supported a strong civil rights platform.

"The last election showed that the Democrats don't need the south to win," he theorized. "The party can now ignore the south."

Three Pontiac Area Offices Try Out New Switchboard

Michigan Bell Telephone Co. has come up with a revolutionary new desk-model switchboard, three of which are being used in Pontiac area offices.

The compact 18 by 8-inch board console, minus all the usual cables, does all the older style floor-type switchboards can do, and more.

These new "call expediters," as the company refers to them, are presently being tried in the Oakland County Road and Drain Commission offices, and at the Rochester branch of the National Bank of Detroit. They have been on the market only three months.

While most of the old switchboards, which usually occupied a big share of office space, had capacity for only four trunk lines to handle 20 telephones, the expediter has 10 trunk lines for incoming calls which are attachable to up to as many as 60 telephones.

Besides this major advantage, others are:

(1) A "camp on" feature which stores incoming calls on the answering console panel while a particular line is busy, and automatically, without the operator having to lift a finger, picks up the line when it is not busy.

(2) The console can be adapted to hook into an office paging system, allowing a person to page another over the telephone.

(3) The console can also be connected into a recording device. A businessman can dial a certain number on his phone and start dictating. A voice relay system automatically shuts off the recording machine when the talker stops dictating.

(4) Conference calls are also possible with this new "call expediter," as well as callers being able to call outside the office without going through the operator.

U.S., Supporters Abandon Talks

Russia Left Holding Take-It-or-Leave-It on Space Peace Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States and its supporters abandoned attempts at outer space negotiations with the Russians and pushed a take-it-or-leave-it proposal today.

The 20 associated nations decided to act on their own after talks broke down between the United States and Russia over makeup of a committee to make recommendations for U.N. supervision of peaceful exploration of outer space.

The group, which already had put a space resolution before the U.N. General Assembly's Political Committee, decided to submit a new draft without further talks with the Soviets. The revised draft was handed in Friday night.

Mulick Upped to Lieutenant

Commander of Pontiac State Police Going to Redford

The promotion and transfer of Sgt. Charles H. Mulick, commander of the Pontiac State Police Post, was announced today by the State Police Headquarters in East Lansing.

LT. MULICK

Mulick was among 14 officers throughout the state who received promotions and transfers. Six others were also transferred.

Sgt. Mulick was promoted to lieutenant and transferred to Second District Headquarters, the Redford Post, as assistant district commander.

Taking over leadership of the Pontiac Post will be Sgt. Lorenz H. Ahlgrim, being transferred from the Niles Post where he has been commander.

Sgt. Mulick, who has served as a State Police officer for more than 21 years, came to the Pontiac Post as commander 3½ years ago from the operations office at the East Lansing State Headquarters.

★ ★ ★

Prior to that he had served as corporal at the Alpena Post for two years and the Cadillac Post for three years.

One of Mulick's dreams while here was the building of a new, modern post. Work was begun on the new post earlier this year and construction is now finished.

The troopers will move into the new post on Telegraph Rd., Dec. 1, exactly one week before Mulick's transfer becomes effective.

Mulick lives at 4707 Thorncroft Ave., Royal Oak. He is married and the father of two daughters, Jane, 13, and Linda, 16.

Quentin Convicts Stage Art Exhibit —Aid Parole Fund

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UPI) — Some 2,000 San Francisco Bay area residents patiently stood in line to get INTO San Quentin prison one recent weekend.

The occasion was the state prison's first public art and crafts show. Fathers carrying babies and mothers towing older youngsters shuffled through the prison recreation hall to view 450 entries — oils, water colors, drawings, pastels, tempera, sculpture, architectural design and various handicrafts. All were produced by inmates.

Many of the works were bought by visitors at prices ranging from 50 cents to $100. More than $1,000 was netted for the fund out of which prisoners receive money when paroled.

The show's grand prize went to Warren Parker's oil painting of a cell door in the prison's old Spanish cell block, which soon will be torn down.

Elmer Parsons, inmate - editor of the prison paper, said Parker's paintings are not for sale. "He's been promised a private showing when he got out," Parsons said. "People flip over his style."

The Day in Birmingham

Annual Christmas Show to Launch Yule Season

BIRMINGHAM — Launching the yuletide season in Birmingham this year will be the 21st annual Christmas Show sponsored by the Birmingham Branch of the Women's National Farm and Garden Assn.

The show, which features unusual arrangements of Christmas greens and flowers, will run for two days, Dec. 3 and 4, at the Community House. Hours the first day will be 2:30 to 9 p.m. and the second, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

All residents of the Birmingham area may enter displays, according to Mrs. Dale O. Miller, general chairman. They will be accepted until 11 a.m. the opening day, she said.

The exhibits will be judged and ribbons awarded to those selected the most outstanding.

★ ★ ★

Another Christmas season activity will be the decorating of the city's business district by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Merchants desiring store trimmings have been asked to contact John Foley, chairman.

Beginning Dec. 15, stores will stay open evenings.

The Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a "Miss Christmas Spirit" who will travel through the business area daily, distributing gift certificates free of charge to shoppers.

Two direct lines to Santa and Mrs. Claus will be made available to youngsters by the Recreation Board so they can call in their Christmas lists.

A serious fire was averted early this morning in the Birmingham business district when two police officers, patroling in their car, spotted a fire in a small storage building behind Bodine's store, 172 N. Woodward Ave.

Quick action by the Fire Dept. confined damage to one of the walls and wiring in the shed.

Cause of the fire had not been determined, according to Fire Chief Park H. Smith.

The Congregational Church of Birmingham will hold an open house at the church social hall from 8 to 10 this evening for the candidate minister recommended by the postoral committee.

Deer Hunting Season Death Toll Now 21

By United Press International

The death toll in Michigan's week-old deer hunting season has climbed to 21 with two more persons suffering fatal heart attacks in the woods.

Heart attacks have claimed the lives of 14 hunters and seven others have been fatally wounded.

Biggest Auto Show Opening in Detroit

DETROIT (AP)— The largest and most lavish automobile show in Detroit's history gets under way today at Artillery Armory on West Eight Mile road.

A 15 million dollar presentation, the show will continue through Sunday, Nov. 30. Detroit's 46th annual presentation, it becomes the first in the nation to present all 1959 models of U.S. makers as well as more than a score of imported makes, under one roof.

The makers of foreign automobiles, who have seen their penetration of the U.S. market surge upward to an indicated 365,000 retail deliveries in this country in 1958, will have approximately 100 different models on display.

United States manufacturers are showing about 170 different body styles along with engineering exhibits. Each maker has provided a lavish setting for the showing of his vehicles.

The major truck makers also have their product on display with vehicles of varying size, and designed for a multiplicity of transportation tasks.

In addition to the showing of 1959 model cars and trucks, there are several educational exhibits, devices intended to permit visitors to learn precisely how various automobile components function, safe driving tests and motion picture presentations of automotive subjects.

An invitational preview of the show last night brought many leaders in civic affairs, the industry and press, radio and television to the armory.

The show will be open to the public from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m., daily.

German Insurance Up

BONN — Income from premiums collected by West German life-insurance companies came close to $500,000,000 in 1957 compared with just over $400,000,000 in 1956. Out of 38,000,000 policies now in force, amounting to nearly 11 billion dollars, 3,900,000 contracts signed last year.

Critically Injures Another

Berserk Car Kills Woman

LUTCHER, La. (AP) — A weird accident, in which a driverless car ran backwards in circles on and off the highway, killed one woman and injured another critically Friday night.

State troopers said the car ran over Mrs. Evelyn Watson Jackson, 58, of Baton Rouge, at least four times. Mrs. Jackson, who had been riding in the car, was killed.

Mrs. Frances Watson, 38, also of Baton Rouge, was injured critically when thrown from the car as it circled for about 12 minutes in front of a cafe. She was taken to a New Orleans hospital.

State trooper Joe Anselmo said deputies finally drove a large truck into the path of the driverless car to stop it.

Anselmo said Mrs. Jackson was working on the car's motor when it suddenly started backward. She was knocked down and dragged to a concrete curbing near the highway. The car kept circling at speeds up to 30 miles an hour, jumping curbing and middle ground.

Anselmo said the driver of the car—an unidentified Negro man — had stopped when the motor overheated and stalled, and was inside the cafe.

Touches of Rain, Snow in North

Sunny for Most of U.S.

By The Associated Press

Generally fair skies reigned supreme today although touches of rain and snow swirled through the northern third of the nation.

★ ★ ★

A drizzling rain, which overnight spotted Washington and Oregon, was on tap for scattered areas along the northern tier of states from the Pacific Northwest to New England.

Light snow and flurries were also expected from the Dakotas eastward to the Great Lakes and ultimately penetrating New England.

There was no heavy precipitation during the night but fresh snowfalls dampened a belt stretching from the Upper Great Lakes into the New York-Pennsylvania region.

★ ★ ★

In upper Michigan, an inch of snow coated Grand Marais while nearby Kinross Air Force Base reported a similar amount for a six-hour period Friday night. Slight traces of snowfall also sprinkled other Midwest localities.

To the east, two inches of fresh snow fell at Bradford in central Pennsylvania and another inch was reported at Syracuse, N.Y.

It was a little colder in the Rockies, parts of the Midwest and from the Lower Great Lakes to the Virginias.

Studebaker-Packard Strike Deadline Set

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Local 5 of the United Auto Workers Union has set Sunday midnight (CCT) as a strike deadline for its 7,000 workers at the Studebaker-Packard Corp. plant here.

Members of the local will meet Sunday afternoon to consider a company proposal for a new wage contract. The old one expired Aug. 30 but the workers continued on the job.

Neither the union nor Studebaker-Packard would comment on the new proposal.

SPEC SO — Roy Albert Blivens, seven months old, of Indianapolis, Ind., learned to creep quickly after he was fitted with glasses. Eye tests were made after his foster mother, Sue Smith, noticed his grasp for toys missed the mark. The child is believed to be one of the youngest ever fitted with glasses.

Deaths Elsewhere

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (AP)—Paul R. Mickelson, general news editor of The Associated Press, died Friday in New Rochelle Hospital. He was 59. Death was attributed to a ruptured blood vessel resulting from a hardening of the arteries. Mickelson, whose entire newsgathering career of 36 years was spent with the AP, was general news editor since 1944. He also served in a number of AP bureaus as a general newsman, sports writer and executive. He was born in Mankato, Minn.

JACKSON, Tenn. (AP) — Mrs. Casey Jones, 92, widow of the greatest railroader in American folklore, died Friday in a nursing home. She suffered a stroke earlier this month and never rallied. Mrs. Jones was a much-traveled raconteur of the legendary Casey who died in 1900 with his hand on the throttle of "The Cannonball Express."

WEST LEADS U. S. POPULATION BOOM — The American is far from vanishing, according to latest figures released by the U. S. Census Bureau, covering the period from April, 1950 to July, 1958. As Newsmap above shows, every state but three registered increases, ranging from .3 per cent in Mississippi to 66.7 per cent in Nevada. (Data was not available for Alaska, but 1957 figures showed a 64.3 per cent increase.) Among the four major regions of the country, the West continued to show the greatest rate of growth — 29.7 per cent — nearly double the national average. Other regions: North Central, 14.7 per cent; South, 14.1 per cent; Northeast, 9.0 per cent.

An average lawn is mowed 20 times during the growing season with a total of about 30 inches of growth being cut from each plant.

Hard-Bitten Editor Gets His Story

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—When sports writer Mel Boyd failed to return from covering a college basketball game Friday night, the sports editor of the Lexington Herald fussed and fumed.

Later it was learned Boyd had returned to the building promptly, but hadn't quite made it to the office.

He was in an elevator which stuck between the second and third floors.

Most bystanders were trying to get Boyd out. But the editor just yelled down the shaft for the score.

"Lincoln Memorial 82, Transylvania 79," Boyd shouted.

He was ready to dictate more but an elevator repairman got him out in time for him to write the story from the regular office.

It is estimated it is possible to grind eyeglasses to 11,132,544 different combinations of curvature using modern grinding techniques.

2 Die as Plant Explodes

TOKYO (AP) — A chemical plant in eastern Tokyo exploded today killing two workers and injuring another. Another chemical factory in Kawasaki exploded Friday killing one and injuring 14.

Long Journeys Cause Strains

Life Aboard Nuclear Sub Poses Unique Problem

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Man's survival for months beneath the sea in the inhuman "test tube" environment of nuclear powered submarines is the big problem facing the U. S. Navy as its vision of an all-underwater fleet nears reality.

Can it be done? Can man remain humanly responsive aboard submarines that are capable of circling the globe several times without once rising to the surface?

According to a recent issue of a national magazine, Navy scientists are well on the way to perfecting "land atmosphere beneath the sea." But in the process it is obvious that accepted concepts of combat, survival, and even living patterns will be replaced by extraordinary gadgets and ways of life that are straight out of old science fiction tales.

Referring to nuclear powered submarines as the earth's first underwater satellites, the article compares the men of today's Navy to the space men of tomorrow.

Within each underwater satellite is quartered a tiny community of Americans, says the article; sailors, electronic technicians and scientists. Nuclear fission supplies them with power, lights, warmth and all the modern comforts from air conditioning to juke box music. But otherwise their existence bears no relation to any pattern of life ever before attempted by human beings on this planet.

They are confined to quarters in which there is no sense of progressive movement, and where for days only instrument gauges and notations in the ship's log indicate whether they are under polar ice or in the warmest waters of the South Pacific. There is no sun, no moon, no sky, no night or day.

"Problems arise," continues the article, pointing out that the Navy is aware that if its future underwater battle fleets are to operate efficiently an entirely new means must be developed to preserve its sailors' physical and mental health.

Prolonged submersion tests, such as the Sea Wolf's record-breaking 60-day underwater voyage, have already revealed that even the best adjusted, mature-minded submariner is capable of reacting with peculiar physiological and psychic symptoms under such stress.

But man's primitive terror of the unknown can be completely dissipated through continued conditioning and familiarity in "this exciting new age of exploration."

Dear Mrs. Post: Teller Was Rude, Signed—Robber

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some days you just can't make a buck.

Take the case of the young man who walked up to Mrs. Sylvia Meyers, a teller in a Bowery Savings Bank branch last night.

He handed over a deposit slip which demanded $1,000. "I have a little bottle of nitro in my hand," it also said.

Mrs. Meyers turned him away and took care of other customers.

The young man returned and whispered, "Do you think I'm kidding?"

Mrs. Meyers again went about her business.

The would-be robber turned and walked out.

2 Die as Ammo Carrier Rams Train on Formosa

TAIPEI (AP) — A Nationalist military jeep hauling a trailer of ammunition rammed into a diesel express train Friday near Tainan, southern Formosa.

Two Chinese sergeants were killed and four other soldiers seriously injured, but the ammunition did not explode.

Photographers

It has come to our attention that itinerant photographers are operating in Pontiac. The following suggestions are offered for your protection:

1. It is very difficult, with changing lighting conditions in each home to do the same quality work that is possible in a studio.
2. Look for the guarantee. In most cases you will not find one.
3. Do not accept rash promises from the salesman, in most cases you will find that the receipt states that verbal agreements or agreements other than printed on the form will not be honored by the company.
4. REMEMBER, you NEVER get something for nothing.
5. Your local photographers are your neighbors, they live here, you know where to find them. Trade locally and be sure.

THANKSGIVING

J. L. VOORHEES

A groaning table has been a symbol of an abundant harvest, the prayer of Thanksgiving is acknowledgement of His beneficence. The celebration of Thanksgiving is as personal as a toothbrush and may be held in the cool of a glade, roar of city traffic, quiet of a church or at home with love of family and friends surrounding us.

M. E. SIPLE

The person who claims friends has been a friend; he sees that friendship mature into a very precious possession and thanks God for the most beautiful experience allowed mankind. You motored to far-away places, returned home; during your trip you had an unseen guest. You will include Him in your prayers of Thanksgiving.

The principal ingredient of Thanksgiving is a happy heart; may you have it in abundance.

P. S.—One blessing is an unrestricted choice of a funeral director; we firmly stand on our past record.

It Seems to Me . . .

Actions of Maria Meneghini Callas Really Take the Cake

I don't cheer for temperamental entertainers, but this MARIA MENEGHINI CALLAS actually wins a certain amount of restrained admiration. The champion of anything commands attention, primarily because of achievement. Then if personal idiosyncracies aren't too overwhelming, we have a picturesque character.

Such a one is La CALLAS.

Her tantrums are epic.

Just before she sang in Detroit she was dropped by the Metropolitan Opera of New York and shortly thereafter La Scala Opera House in Milan brushed her off. Many dispassionate souls hold this last as the mecca of the operatic world.

Of course, Chicago, San Francisco, Edinburgh, Vienna and Rome have already closed their classic portals to the feuding Meneghini, and she'll end up in drive-in theaters if she doesn't begin to exercise a little more control.

★ ★ ★

Through it all, I have a secret admiration for this irrepressible CALLAS. For assorted bedevilment and unpredictable conduct, she's something. MARIA's the firebrands' firebrand. I get a kick out of this gal.

Even in Detroit she "missed" a welcoming luncheon that had been "planned in her honor" weeks before.

★ ★ ★

Among her smarter moves was her marriage. She signed up for life with a gentleman that is reputed to have enough jack to buy her an opera house of her own if she wants it. That helps. It keeps the bad old wolf from bearing a litter of pups right on the front porch; and it lets her toss contracts out the nearest window with a tiny shrug of some shapely feminine shoulders. And she can feud with directors and skip welcoming lunches. Poof!

★ ★ ★

In Italy, she even walked out on royalty between acts and went home. MARIA does as she pleases. And she gets away with a lot of it.

Mrs. CALLAS, how's for having lunch with me some time in New York? You sing "Sylvia" and "Poor Butterfly" for me. That's my speed. And I'll even love it if you sing them at the same time. Furthermore, it's quite O.K. if you throw a tantrum. I'd like to see a bang up, firsthand, de luxe effort from someone that really knows how. But please show up.

★ ★ ★

Bravo, mia Mario! Bravo!

Hurrah for MSU . . . . . .

I commend Michigan State University and President JOHN A. HANNAH for refusing to go into a dither over the loss of a few—even quite a few—football contests.

After all, it's only a game.

It isn't a bit earth shattering.

★ ★ ★

As it happens, President Hannah is an exceptionally warm friend of football and is a good student of the game. He probably takes a bigger interest in MSU football than the average university Prexy. But the good Doctor isn't going to lose his academic equilibrium over a Saturday afternoon pastime. There is such a thing as the eternal fitness of things. A few times each year, football harkens to the huzzas of the populace but it doesn't cut any intellectual ice in the college curriculum and it occupies a rather lowly niche in the achievement world.

★ ★ ★

I hope sincerely that State gets back on the winning track in 1959, and that Michigan does, too. But I still like to recall the Princeton definition of an amateur:

> "A man who plays a game for all he's worth in the light of more important things."

★ ★ ★

BIGGIE MUNN's lament about his personal empire was in bad taste and we hope that President HANNAH puts him back in the gymnasium where he belongs.

And in Conclusion . . . . . .

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

Although he's having one of his best years, JIM DORAN is playing his last season for the Lions. Next year, he'll stick to his farm in Iowa . . . . . Hollywood scouts tell me DONALD O'CONNOR will replace the EDDIE FISHER TV show if the listening audience doesn't perk up pronto . . . . . The Texan finished his lunch. "I'll toss for the check," he said to the boss. "O.K." replied the b. "Double or nothing." The Texan glared. "Never. Double or triple." . . . . . HARRY J. KLINGLER JR., has been elected President of Barton Hills Country Club in Ann Arbor—an unusual honor for so young a man.

The current Rolls Royce is 18 inches shorter than the longest domestic cars, and they've "gone modern" by adding power steering and power brakes. Current ads stress the fact the 1959 models are "suitable for driving by owners, without chauffeurs." The radiator has been changed once in history. In 1933, when Sir HENRY ROYCE died, the monogram "R.R." went from red to black. The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

The faith of our founding fathers enabled them to endure cold, starvation and disease in a strange and hostile land. Of the 100 colonists who stepped ashore at Plymouth, 50 died during that first cruel winter. Yet, when the Mayflower returned to England, no one elected to go back.

Even in the midst of poverty and privation, they found cause for rejoicing: their harvest had been bountiful and the Indians remained friendly. In thanksgiving for this, they shared their bounty with the Indians in three days of feasting and sport.

The Thanksgiving celebration, carried to other colonies, was officially proclaimed by George Washington in 1789: "Whereas it is the duty of all nations to acknowledge the providence of Almighty God, to obey His will . . . and whereas both houses of Congress have requested me to recommend to the people of the United States a day of public Thanksgiving and prayer . . . now therefore do I recommend that Thursday be devoted to the service of that great and glorious Being, who is the benificient author of all the good that was, that is, or that will be."

Most Voters Wonder Why

France Goes to Polls Tomorrow

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG

PARIS (UPI) — France goes to the polls tomorrow in one of the most confused—almost chaotic—elections in the nation's history.

Few attempted to predict the result, although indications pointed to a strong swing to the right and heavy defeat for the Communists.

★ ★ ★

Just eight weeks ago, French voters gave Premier Charles de Gaulle a landslide confidence majority of 80 per cent in a national referendum on his new "strong man" constitution for France's Fifth Republic. The vote was interpreted also as registering the nation's overwhelming condemnation of the Fourth Republic, with its 14-year record of 26 ineffective governments.

Tomorrow, the voters elect the first National Assembly, or lower house of parliament, of the Fifth Republic.

But most Frenchmen are confused and disturbed. They frankly do not know what their vote means.

★ ★ ★

De Gaulle himself is not an issue in the campaign. He is standing aloof and above all parties in the position of "the nation's arbiter" which he has chosen for himself.

He almost certainly will become president of France in the Fifth Republic's first presidential election on Dec. 14.

Although virtually all parties except the Communists claim to be "Gaullists," the general has refused to lend his support to any.

The Fourth Republic was notorious for its kaleidiscopic variety of political parties. But the Fifth Republic is starting out even worse.

No less than 18 recognized political parties or groups are contesting the elections. Most of the old political parties of the Fourth Republic are back in the fight again, along with scores of new ones which have popped up in the past month.

In all, about 400 tickets have been listed, running under such exotic names as "liberty and fraternity," "renewal and fidelity," or "Republican rally of the yes voters."

★ ★ ★

The voters are completely bewildered and disappointed. The result may be heavy abstentions compared with the 85 per cent turnout at the referendum.

Political leaders have warned that a high percentage of abstentions would give a big boost to the Communists.

On top of all this, the voters have not been able to distinguish any big issues between the various non-communist parties.

The Algerian war still remains France's great national issue. But the nation is waiting for De Gaulle himself to settle that one way or another. All parties say the war must be ended, but none of them — except the Communists, who want France to get out of Algeria altogether — say how they would do it.

★ ★ ★

France's 26,600,000 voters go to the polls to choose 465 deputies from metropolitan France. In addition, 10 deputies are being elected for overseas departments such as Guadeloupe and Martinique. The 71 deputies for Algeria and the Sahara will not be elected until next Sunday.

Dr. William Brady's Mailbag:

Middle Age Not Too Late to Start Ballet Dancing

"Do you think it advisable for a woman in her change to take up ballet dancing to improve muscle tone and correct flabbiness? (Mrs. S. C.)"

DR. BRADY

Answer — Yes.

"Please send me in this stamped, self-addressed envelope your pamphlet, Nutritional Deficiency Anemia — The Gray Sickness. I'm 37 but I look and feel 57. . . (Mrs. E.W.C.)"

Answer — The "gray sickness" is otherwise called chronic hypochromic anemia and iron deficiency anemia. It is cultivated by years of narrow or inadequate diet — tea and toast, doughnut and coffee, beer and pretzel, sugar pap and pop. At your age, young lady, you should be at your acme of health and loveliness. Please remember, it takes not less than four months to restore your hair, nails, skin and blood to a reasonable facsimile of what they should be at 40.

"Is sugar in the urine a sign of poor health? (L.R.)"

Answer — Not necessarily. Some sugar will spill over into the urine when even a healthy person overindulges in sweets. Send 25 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope for my booklet Training for Diabetes.

★ ★ ★

"You suggested morning and evening rubbing of the back with rubbing alcohol as a protection against development of bedsores. I take it you mean plain rubbing alcohol. The druggists suggest that wintergreen added to the rubbing alcohol makes it more efficient. (Mrs. C. H. T.)"

Answer — Try adding a very little. If the odor is not objectionable it can do no harm, may give the patient more satisfaction.

"Speaking before the State Medical Society, Dr. ——— said people who eat two or three eggs for breakfast may be increasing their chances of suffering heart attacks. He told the society that one egg contains as much cholesterol as a quarter pound of butter. He recommended lean meats as a substitute for the breakfast egg. (Clipping)."

Answer — No one has come up with good evidence, and from the study of pathology I believe no one will find good evidence, that cholesterol, a normal constituent of meat (including lean meats), eggs, milk, butter and most other good foods, causes or predisposes to heart, artery or other serious disease.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Secretarial Training Good for All

Martha feels frustrated. She thinks her education is finished. But if she will become proficient as a typist, her future will have "ceiling unlimited." Young men also need to realize that a secretarial job often is the quickest route to becoming the president of big companies. So learn how to operate an "ink piano."

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE Z — 378: Martha M., aged 17, is a high schooler.

DR. CRANE

"Dr. Crane, I'd like to go to college," she began, "but my father is dead and Mother can't afford to pay my tuition.

"So what would you suggest for me? I am not in love, and I am too young to get married, even if I were.

"Should I get a job in a department store as a clerk? Or what else?"

VOCATIONAL ADVICE

"Teenagers, be sure you learn how to operate a typewriter by the touch system: It takes only a term in typewriting class.

★ ★ ★

And by all means polish up your English. Be sure you put a little extra attention on spelling, punctuation and grammar.

For good typists and office secretaries are always at a premium. And they usually rate much better pay than store clerks get.

★ ★ ★

Recently a woman asked me if I thought she could procure a job with the newspaper syndicate that handles my column.

"Dr. Crane, I graduated from college," she began, "and now that my husband is invalided, I need to help support our family.

"I'd like to teach, but I must take a summer course to get a teacher's certificate and I need a job right now."

When I asked her if she could handle a typewriter, she sadly admitted she couldn't, so there was no chance for her working at the newspaper syndicate.

Yet this woman was a Liberal Arts college product: So it shows you can spend $1,500 or $2,000 per year for several years in Liberal Arts college and still not be able to cash-in on that training unless you also have some specific merchandisable asset like touch typing.

MALE TYPSITS

A lot of you young men fail to realize that one of the quickest ways to get to the top in modern business corporations, is to become the private secretary to the president or other able executive.

Many of you young men seem to think that you should go into engineering or law or accounting, etc., to advance in modern business firms.

Actually, a number of our presidents of great corporations and railroads started out as typsits and secretaries to the heads of those companies.

Their bosses taught them so much about the operation of a huge plant that the private secretaries had a better grasp of its operation than most of the junior executives down the line.

So when it came time to pick a new president, his former secretary is often the man who steps into his shoes.

★ ★ ★

So look with more respect on your English teachers and the faculty of your typing and secretarial departments.

And try to get a year of Business College, even though you may aspire to go on and graduate from Liberal Arts college.

For the Business College curriculum is slanted toward practical results.

And it will give you the training in one year which you can use thereafter to earn your way through Liberal Arts college.

For example, in large cities you can earn a good salary by day as a secretary, typist, bookkeeper, etc. and then attend night classes at the local university.

Martha can thus pay her own way through 4-years of college, if she wishes, simply by attaining proficiency in typing and English.

And even if you don't expect to work but plan to get married soon, by all means get some business training or typewriting so you can earn your living if you should ever be confronted by invalidism of your husband.

Send for my "Vocational Guidance Kit", enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit). It is full of other practical ideas!.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 6c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Voice of the People

Editorial About Milk Racket Brings Several Comments

I read your editorial on the milk racket. I've always been taught there are two sides to every story. Working with the many groups as I do in and around Oakland County, I've found that often the essentials are hard to explain to a small child. How can you keep refusing candy, hula hoops and so forth, or have you ever had to refuse your children these? I think not.

★ ★ ★

Have you ever noticed the hurt look on a child's face while others on his block have access to the newest toys? Can you imagine how that look haunts a parent?

★ ★ ★

All people on welfare aren't drunks, and there's a chance milkmen and grocers understood these problems and tried to help. But as in any situation, things can often get out of hand. I'm not saying all people involved in this are well-meaning, but let's not condemn all people. Let's try to understand the problems they face and be thankful you're working and able to provide for your family. Most of all, let's give these milkmen and grocers a chance to explain their side.

Jean Walling

Keego Harbor

Is it possible the milk racket editorial was written without consideration for the real problem, but was written without the thoughtfulness one expects and hopes to find in the editorial page of one's newspaper?

★ ★ ★

Granted the misuse of welfare money is wrong, the Prosecutor's Office is right in exposing it and that it's a flagrant misuse of taxpayers' money, but don't we need to ask ourselves why this is going on? Many of these people are newcomers to our area. Most are unskilled laborers with little education from their "separate but equal" schools. They live in depressed areas with high crime rate.

★ ★ ★

Credit is due many people, both agency and individual, who've been trying to assist the solution of many problems created in this area. But one fact stands out. Too few of us are willing to give our time, skills and money. It is a problem of a suddenly-expanded area with too few resources. The solution isn't to point a finger of shame using degrading namecalling, but to use our best resources, including our civic-minded leaders, in all walks of life.

'Keep Children Off Thin Ice'

With icy blasts ahead, may I warn all fathers and mothers to keep their children off the thin ice that forms early. It just isn't safe and the smaller children are, the less they understand it and the more eager they are to rush out and skate. At the risk of seeming hard and arbitrary, keep them on dry land. They may never thank you, but they will owe you an everlasting debt.

One Who Gave In

Mayor of Berlin Ready for Whatever Comes

By SEYMOUR TOPPING
Chief of Berlin AP Bureau

BERLIN (AP)—Willy Brandt is ready to take on whatever the Communists throw at Berlin.

"We've got strong nerves and we're ready for the difficulties ahead," says the handsome 44-year-old mayor.

Brandt is a fighting Socialist politician in the tradition of the late Ernst Reuter, mayor who saw Berlin through the Soviet blockade of 1948-49.

Some fellow Social Democrats think Brandt may one day be chancellor.

His lust for the political rough-and tumble may stem from his background—voluntary exile during the Hitler years, escape from the gestapo, marriage to a Norwegian beauty and a meteoric postwar political rise.

Controversy centers around his activities in World War II. Some political foes accuse him of treason, claiming that he fought with the Norwegian army while a political refugee.

Brandt denies the charge. He says he put on the Norwegian uniform to escape the Gestapo hunt for him after Norway fell in 1940. He succeeded in eluding the Nazis and wound up the war as a Norwegian citizen in Sweden working as a journalist. In the war he changed his name from Herbert Karl Frahm, given to him by his mother, a former shop girl in Luebeck.

After Germany surrendered, Brandt returned to Berlin as press attache in Norway's military mission.

He readopted German citizenship in 1947. He won a seat in West Germany's Parliament, and in 1950 became a West Berlin city legislator.

Brandt was a hard-headed practical Socialist then, and is now. Experience with Nazis and Communists has made him shy at too much state power. He sees free enterprise playing a pivotal role in reconstructing West Berlin as a showcase for freedom.

In 1948 Brandt married Rut Hansen, whom he had met in Scandinavia. The couple and their two boys speak Norwegian at home.

Dave Beck Trial Delayed by Row

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — The $240,000-income tax evasion trial of former Teamsters Union President Dave Beck Sr. was recessed for the weekend Friday when opposing attorneys could not agree on the admissibility of a raft of check stubs.

★ ★ ★

The attorneys were ordered by U.S. Dist. Court Judge George H. Boldt to present briefs supporting their contentions. Judge Boldt said he would rule Monday on the arguments.

The government sought to introduce the check stubs as part of its charge that Beck's expenditures were out of line with the income he declared on his 1950-53 tax returns.

Defense attorneys contended the stubs were inadmissible since they were not part of official business records.

★ ★ ★

The stubs, from the checking account of Nathan Shefferman, Chicago labor relations consultant, were brought to court by Miss Florence Ouska, Shefferman's bookkeeper. She testified the checks, some of which covered purchases she had made for Beck, were part of a "paper jungle" she maintained for Shefferman.

The government had called Miss Ouska to the stand to explain each check stub. The defense objections cut the session short since no other government witnesses were available in court.

★ ★ ★

Dozens of government witnesses remain to testify but they have been given appointment dates and told not to appear in court before the stated time.

Church to Host Methodist Youth From City, Area

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP—Commerce Methodist Church will play host to about 250 junior and senior Methodist Youth Fellowship members at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the church.

The group will include MYF representatives from five Pontiac churches, First Methodist, Central Methodist, Oakland Park Methodist, St. Luke's Methodist and St. Paul's Methodist.

MYF members from Clarkston, Walled Lake, Four Towns, Keego Harbor, Milford, Highland, Elmwood and Covert also will attend.

Devotional leader of the evening will be the Rev. Philip Townley of the Warren Methodist Church.

Feature of the program will be the choral interpretation of the First Psalm as presented by Margaret Skarritt, Linda Shull and Terry Nicholson.

Area leader for the MYF group is the Rev. Daniel Wallace, of the Pontiac Central Methodist church.

Local sponsors are Mr. and Mrs. David Mansfield and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Shull.

Average Electric Bill Increased by 7c in '57

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The average American family's monthly electric bill increased by seven cents in 1957, the Federal Power Commission reported.

A family which used 250 kilowatt hours of power each month paid $7.30 at the beginning of this year compared to $7.23 12 months earlier, the commission said.

French, Rebels Fight 5th Day in Algeria

ALGIERS (AP) — A big battle between French forces and well-armed Algerian Nationalist rebels continued into its fifth day in an area 30 miles southeast of Algiers today.

★ ★ ★

The French army claimed 150 rebels had been killed in that battle and 121 killed in other actions.

The largest battle near Algiers in two months began Monday around Palestro when an important concentration of rebels clashed with French troops drawn from three military zones. The battle is being fought in deep mud of the Grand Kabylie Mountains, one of the main strongholds of nationalists fighting for independence from France.

★ ★ ★

In Cairo, a rebel spokesman said Friday 237 French soldiers had been killed and 129 wounded between Nov. 8 and 17.

Two Families Get $320,000 in Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two families of victims in the 1956 Grand Canyon air collision get $320,000 in damages.

The jury verdicts, returned Friday, were against Trans World Airlines, Inc., and United Air Lines, Inc., whose planes collided with a loss of 128 lives.

Three children of Mr. and Mrs. William Wallace Hatcher were awarded $200,000 for the loss of their father and $20,000 for the loss of their mother. They had sued for $1½ million dollars.

Mrs. Nadine Nasalroad and her two sons, who had asked $500,000 in the death of her husband, Andrew, were given $100,000.

Garner Celebrates His 90th Birthday

UVALDE, Tex. (AP) — Former Vice President John N. Garner celebrated his 90th birthday today and all over town his friends were predicting he would live to be 100.

★ ★ ★

Leading a parade of high national and state dignitaries who came here to join in the birthday program and barbecue was former President Harry Truman.

He and Garner embraced warmly and clapped each other on the back Friday night at the Uvalde Airport, where Garner and his son, Tully, met Truman and carried him into town in Tully's car.

Garner spent most of Friday greeting a stream of visitors.

★ ★ ★

He met Truman just a few seconds after the former president disembarked. They were both grinning broadly and obviously glad to see each other.

"Well, well, well," Truman exclaimed. "How are you. You look wonderful."

"And you are a sight for sore eyes," Garner replied.

With Truman was one of Garner's old congressional friends, federal Judge Ryan Duffy of Chicago. Garner told him and Truman: "nature has certainly been taking good care of you."

Garner retired in 1941 after serving two terms as vice president in the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

He and Roosevelt fell out politically over the third term and Supreme Court enlargement issues. Garner since has emerged from retirement only a few times, usually to give his beloved Democratic party a lift when it needed it in Texas.

State Ranks Fourth in Road Building

LANSING (AP) — The Bureau of Public Roads has ranked Michigan fourth in the nation in new highway construction placed under contract in September.

Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie said yesterday the state was credited with placing some $19,500,000 under contract covering 258 miles of highways.

The figure was topped only by New York, California and Ohio — all of which receive more federal highway aid than Michigan.

Reuther Witness to Be Sentenced

Donald Ritchie, Petty Racketeer, Might Get 10 Years for Perjury

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP) — Donald Ritchie, who proferred and then repudiated a "solution" of the Walter Reuther shooting mystery, faces a prison term for perjury.

★ ★ ★

The glib, 38-year-old Canadian, known as a petty racketeer, was convicted yesterday of lying twice about a statement he allegedly made to police in 1955 on the unsolved, 10-year-old crime.

Held without bond in Essex County Jail, he may have to serve as much as 10 years in prison, the maximum sentence. He is to be sentenced Dec. 4.

Ritchie's tale, for which he got reward money from Reuther's United Auto Workers Union, led ultimately to last year's $400,000 malicious prosecution damage judgment against the UAW.

The judgment came from the $4,500,000 lawsut brought by Carl Renda, Detroit scrap dealer, as a result of murder conspiracy charges which failed to stand up against him and others.

Renda and others, on the basis of Ritchie's story, were accused of plotting to kill Reuther, UAW president. Reuther was shot and critically wounded at his home the night of April 20, 1948.

The $400,000 judgment against the union is under appeal. The jury which decided it exonerated police officials who also had been named defendants.

Former MSU Student Bound Over for Thefts

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Philip Zandt, 22, of Detroit, former Michigan State University student involved in gun and watch collection thefts, was bound over to Eaton County Circuit Court yesterday.

Zandt was arraigned in municipal court on a charge of breaking and entering in the theft Nov. 7 of a $3,500 gun collection from Maynard Doxsie of Mulliken.

Zandt also faces charges in the theft of a watch collection from an MSU campus museum.

Aurora Feud Goes On

Back to Jail for Mayor

AURORA, Ill. (AP) — Aurora's fiery Mayor Paul Egan came to dinner uninvited Friday and he was hustled off to jail on the orders of the police chief he has frequently but fruitlessly tried to dismiss.

★ ★ ★

He was behind bars about three hours.

Then Egan demanded, and got, an ambulance ride to a hospital. He claimed a state trooper assisting in the arrest might have broken his arm.

Egan was a hapless figure as he tried to crash a police line for Gov. William G. Stratton at a hotel.

Not invited to the luncheon at which Stratton spoke, Egan demanded to see the governor for an explanation of the snub.

Police Chief Donald Curran pointed a finger at Egan and three policemen grabbed him and drove him to jail.

★ ★ ★

Curran said Egan's arrest was ordered under a state law allowing summary detention of any person obstructing an officer or soldier in performance of his duty. Curran ordered Egan released after Stratton left town. The governor was in Aurora to dedicate a state toll road.

Egan remained in the hospital overnight. His doctor ordered hospital authorities to say nothing concerning the mayor's condition.

WHEN PEOPLE WORK—

When people work, everyone benefits. Workers are able to buy the things their families need. The merchant sells more goods. There is more work in the trades, the services, professions and elsewhere. These are things of which prosperity is made.

The factory payroll dollar rolls all around the town. As it rolls, it grows and there is some of it for everybody.

The economic research department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States made a study and found that 100 more factory jobs in a town mean that . . . 296 more people are brought into the community . . . 112 households are created . . . annual personal income in the community increases by $590,000 . . . bank deposits increase by $270,000. It's up to all of us to help build payrolls.

Join hands with your local industrial development organization and the Michigan Economic Development Department to help your community prosper.

Send Off Party Is Indicated

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter is going to Europe to be married. Her fiance is already there on military duty. I would like to give a large reception before she leaves for our relatives and friends, to take the place of the one we would have given had she been here. Would such a reception be proper, and if so, how should the invitation be worded? Also, could there be a wedding cake?"

Answer: You can give her a "send off" party of any size you choose, but you should wait until she is married and her husband and she together can be present, before giving her any form of wedding reception.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please give me some information about a rehearsal dinner? Who gives it and who is included besides the wedding attendants?"

Answer: There is no rule about a rehearsal dinner. In fact, comparatively few are given at all. The wedding party usually meet at the church for the rehearsal and stay an indefinite length of time. Afterwards, perhaps they all go back to the house of the bride, or another relative and have a simple buffet supper. They even more often disperse.

Again, sometimes, they have a dinner for the bridal party, after which they go to the rehearsal. This dinner usually includes none but the young people, or perhaps it includes other members of both their families.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When presenting a new member of our afternoon group to as many as a dozen mothers, is it sufficient just to give her name and not give the names of all the others?"

Answer: Such an introduction as this usually is made by first attracting the attention of the group by saying, "I'd like all of you to meet Mrs. Jones." Then you merely tell her their names in the order each one happens is standing or sitting.

Mrs. Ronald Slack will be matron of honor, and bridesmaids will be Miss Currier's sisters, Mrs. Joseph Kleist, Mrs. Grant Browning and Mrs. Robert Backenstose. A niece, Kathy Kleist will be junior bridesmaid.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Zaida Currier of South Jessie street and the bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Daniel Hackett of Owego drive.

Guests at a shower given Wednesday evening at the Howard street home of Mrs. Karl Rhodes Jr. included Mrs. Currier, Mrs. Daniel Hackett, Mrs. Kleist, Miss Kleist, Mrs. Browning, Mrs. Slack, Mrs. William Carter and Margaret Dow.

Others were Mrs. Robert Phillips, Mrs. H. J. Kuipers, Marilyn Brown, Joan Lukac and Aileen Fitzpatrick.

Mrs. Eva Dyer Retires After 43 Years Service

By MARGARET BROWN

Nov. 21 will be a memorable and somewhat wistful day in the scrapbook of Mrs. Eva Dyer of Shore View drive who is retiring after 43 years of service with the Michigan Bell Telephone Company.

Fellow employes honored Mrs. Dyer at a tea at Pontiac Federal Savings and Loan Building on that date, and later feted her at a dinner at Rotunda Inn.

Mrs. Dyer who began telephone work with the Canadian Bell Co. in 1914 and came to Michigan's offices after World War I, says employment as an operator was ". . . just about the only work there was for a girl in those days."

★ ★ ★

During the First World War, Mrs. Dyer's services were loaned to the British Chemical Co. in Trenton, Ontario, Canada, and she has shared with us an exciting and (though she won't confess) heroic experience occurring at that time.

★ ★ ★

Part of the building in which she was working as a switchboard operator was demolished by a TNT explosion, and amid the flames and confusion, Mrs. Dyer remained on the job. Upon her return to Michigan, she was awarded a medal of the Order of the British Empire for service beyond the call of duty.

★ ★ ★

When Mrs. Dyer began working as an operator here, the company's manual office was located on West Pike street, and she saw the present modern five-story building "grow from a hole in the ground" to its completion in 1929. There was no dialing system in the Pontiac area until offices were moved to the East Huron street offices. Then, all operators and the public as well had to be retrained for dialing, she relates.

From her duties as operator, she was promoted to the position of service assistant and later was chief operator in this area for many years. Her present title with the company has been that of District Traffic Assistant, Personnel.

Mrs. Dyer expresses feelings about her job in very punctuated tones: "Working with the telephone company has always been interesting because of constant changing and improvement as we went along the line. I like people and have enjoyed working with them. If I had it to do over again, I'd do the same thing."

Active in the Pontiac Business and Professional Women's Club, the telephone company's Club 21, OES, and Guild Seven of All Saints' Episcopal Church, Mrs. Dyer says of her future plans, "I've always been very fond of traveling, and shall take every opportunity I get to do so."

Young Dancer Says Rock 'n' Roll on Way Out

'Marybeth' deKubinyi Joins Ballet

By LYDIA ROTHMAN

"Rock 'n' Roll" is on the way out as far as teenagers are concerned, reports Mary Elizabeth "Marybeth" deKubinyi—and she should know.

Marybeth, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor deKubinyi of Birmingham, is one of the younger members of the newly formed Detroit City Ballet. Her chief desire in life is to be a professional dancer—or "If I'm not good enough, be a teacher."

★ ★ ★

A junior at Birmingham High School, music appreciation is one of her favorite subjects and she says, "Students today really want to learn about and know about classical music and the other arts."

She also says her classmates seem to be caring less and less about rock 'n' roll type music and entertainment. The ballet also seems to be becoming more and more popular with the general public.

★ ★ ★

Marybeth's schedule is a busy one. Every Friday, Saturday and Sunday she rushes down to Detroit—on the bus—for rehearsals with the company which will make its debut Dec. 2 and 3 at the Institute of Arts Auditorium. These rehearsals last from three to four hours each.

She is one of 25 young people from the Detroit area who were chosen from more than 200 who auditioned for positions with the company.

On Saturdays she gives dancing lessons—in her home—to 25 children aged four to nine. With the money she earns she buys toe shoes—she wears out a pair each week.

★ ★ ★

She also finds time to take part in the high school drama club's activities and does a great deal of reading.—And she is waiting for the day she passes her driver training course so she can drive to her rehearsals.

Marybeth began ballet lessons when she was 11 years old.

Marybeth is learning by the Cecchetti method, the only school of ballet that requires achievement tests. She has already passed four of the required six tests and is treasurer of the Junior Cecchetti Council of America.

This past summer, Marybeth was one of a group of 10 girls who went to Europe. While there she studied ballet in London with Laura Wilson for two weeks and for a week in Paris with Mme. Egorova.

At one time, Marybeth was taking lessons in tap dancing, Spanish dancing and modern jazz dancing, but now has only time for the classical type ballet. She says, "Once you know the classical type dance and have a good foundation in it, the other types come quickly and easily.

However, she says, "The more you know about ballet—as with many things, the less you are able to enjoy any but the most perfect performance." When she and her friends go to see ballet on the stage, they are critical of the dancers and can, of course, see every mistake they make. But also she can appreciate a truly great artist better than the average audience member.

★ ★ ★

Both her parents are extremely pleased and proud of their daughter's ambitions. Her father says, "Our only job is to hold her down. She would dance 24 hours a day if she could."

As for her future plans, Marybeth hopes to study at a New York City studio when she finishes high school and from there who knows—possibly she will be a future Pavlova or a brilliant teacher.

Local Girl Married in Baptist Rite

Karen Lee Smith and Robert Russell were married Friday evening at Calvary Baptist Church. The Rev. Henry Wrobble officiated at the 7 o'clock ceremony before members of the family.

Parents of the couple are Whitney Smith of Waldo street and the late Mrs. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Russell of Elizabeth Lake road.

The bride wore a navy blue dress with a light blue hat and a corsage of white carnations.

Yvonne Briggs was maid of honor with Marvin Hess as best man.

A reception will be held Sunday at the bridegroom's home.

The bride will live at home when her husband returns to California Nov. 25 where he is serving with the U.S. Navy.

Mrs. Russell wore a brown and pink dress with a pink carnation corsage for the wedding.

MR. and MRS. L. F. PRESTON

Open house in honor of the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Preston will be held for friends, Nov. 28, at their home on South Edith street. Hosting the affair are the couple's sons and daughters, Donald, Max, Russel, Douglas and Morse Preston, Mrs. Everett Smith, Mrs. Harry Hale, Mrs. Melvin Schram, Mrs. Robert Hughes and Mrs. Frank Holman. The couple has 37 grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

Junior League Planning Party for Handicapped

Birmingham Junior League will hold its fifth annual Christmas party for more than 200 handicapped adults of Oakland County from 2 to 4 p.m. Dec. 12 at Cranbrook Academy of Art.

★ ★ ★

Chairman Mrs. Forest Shea and league president Mrs. John K. Bagby will receive guests at the door and give each one a Christmas boutonniere made for them by the arts and interest committee under the direction of Mrs. William B. Bachman Jr.

PROGRAM PLANNED

A program of carol singing, in which guests will participate has been planned and refreshments will be served.

On the planning committee are Mrs. E. B. Morley Jr., Anne l'Hommedieu, Mrs. Richard Hintermeister, Mrs. Frank Allen, Mrs. James Notman, Mrs. Robert Taylor, Mrs. Stevenson Flemer, Mrs. Robert K. Schaffer and Mrs. Norman Christie.

★ ★ ★

Members acting as hostesses are Mrs. W. E. Reineman Jr., Mrs. Harry Swan, Mrs. W. K. Downey, Mrs. H. C. Heuser, Mrs. R. W. Ballantyne, Mrs. Doris Graham, Mrs. Richard Strictland and Mrs. David Brennan.

Other hostesses are Dolly Ward, Mrs. William Saunders, Mrs. Travis Hubbard, Mrs. Myers Cather, Mrs. Robert Currin, Phoebe Otter, Mrs. Carl Holden, Mrs. Francis Loud, Mrs. H. P. Cardon, Mrs. Ralph Helm Jr., Mrs. M. R. Wickham and Mrs. James Van Dusen.

Local Group Hears Reports on Ingathering

Reports of the Needlework Guild's Ingathering were heard when members of the Queen Mary Section met at the Pingree avenue home of Mrs. John Gemmell.

Plans for Christmas welfare work were made at the Thursday meeting. Members also discussed sewing and knitting projects for next year, and letters were read from former members living in Florida.

Mrs. George Bickley invited the group to her home on Mechanic street for the next meeting Jan. 8.

Chemise Blouse Made of Denim

The blue jean gets a new look with a chemise blouse. It is cut like an old-fashioned bathing suit, comes in blue denim in sizes for teenagers to mothers.

A mother from connecticut designed the blouse to wear with jeans or wrap-around denim skirts, which come lined in provincial print denim.

Men Ready for Their 'New Look'

The U.S. male will step out in a new suit shape soon.

The first major style change since the Ivy League suit replaced the "drape shape" is now in the works, to be introduced by most men's clothing manufacturers throughout the country.

The new suits have a continental look, featuring a slightly shorter and more fitted coat with cutaway front, two-button closing and side vents. Trousers are tapered and cuffless.

★ ★ ★

They are being introduced by mass-production manufacturers, contrary to the usual procedure of having new trends launched by custom tailors, and gradually adopted by the volume market.

Undergoes Surgery

John Hummel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hummel of Osage Circle, is a patient at Henry Ford Hospital, Detroit, where he underwent a heart operation.

Office Pest Begs for Rides Home Then Asks Driver to Let Her Shop

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: What do you do about an office pest who is forever begging rides home from work? She lives right on the bus line but she wouldn't think of taking a bus when she can get one of us to drive her. Not only does she beg rides, but as soon as she gets in the car she asks if I would mind stopping "to pick up a loaf of bread" and then she holds me up while she does her marketing.

ABBY

"I get so mad at myself for getting stuck with her I could explode. Please tell me how to handle this problem before I do something I might regret." MAD AT MYSELF

DEAR MAD: There will always be people who will impose as long as they can get away with it. Make it plain that you don't intend to go one block out of your way if the "office pest" asks for a ride. And hold your ground!

"DEAR ABBY: I've been married for 9 years and we have 3 children. My husband is very good looking and tends bar, which is a bad combination let me tell you! My kid sister is 22 and she goes down to the bar where he works and sits there. She waits for him to close up at 2 a.m. and then they go for eats to an all-night spot and he takes her home about 5 a.m.

"Everyone tells me this looks like heck and I know it but what can I do? I told my mother and she said I should be glad it is my sister and not some other woman. What should I do?" GEN

DEAR GEN: Tell your sister to find her own man and to leave yours alone, and vice versa.

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: We have three questions we would like you to answer.

(1) How do you get rid of a boy without hurting his feelings?

(2) How do you keep a boy from kissing you too much—but not entirely?

(3) What are some good exercises for reducing the hips?" "37 HIPS"

DEAR "37:"

(1) Tell him you like him "as a friend."

(2) Study up on his favorite sport and be full of conversation.

(3) Rock (and roll) on the floor about 15 minutes every night.

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: That woman who thought it was terrible to see a man come out to get the morning paper in his pajamas, barefoot, should live where we live. The lady across the street comes out to get her morning paper in her nightgown — and it ain't flannel!" DISGUSTED NEIGHBOR

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married 15 years and have four lovely children who are 5, 8, 10 and 12. My husband refuses to kiss me or show any signs of affection in front of the children. He says he wasn't raised that way. Why does he act like that? I think it is important to show your children that you love each other. Am I wrong or is he?" UNKISSED

DEAR UNKISSED: Your husband is the product of his own cool upbringing. There is nothing wrong with Mamma and Papa showing honest affection.

Doesn't Pop Deserve Den to Growl In?

By RUTH MILLETT

When a group of 100 women was asked if the modern home ought to include a room for Pop to relax and work in, the majority of the women said, "Not necessary."

Of course, they wanted big, automatic kitchens and a play room for the kids.

But Pop — well, if he wants to get off by himself let him take to the cellar, if there is a cellar, or to the garage if it hasn't been replaced by a carport.

And yet Pop is the one who foots the bills and makes the monthly mortgage payments on the family's dream house.

So aren't the homemakers of America being short-sighted when they figure that Pop doesn't need or deserve his own little hideaway, where he can get away from the telephone, the TV, the children's squabbles and the neighbor's kids?

It seems to me that a man who hasn't any place "to get away from it all" when he needs to can hardly call his home his castle.

In fact, he may find so little peace at home that he develops the habit of stopping off at a bar to fortify himself against another hectic evening before he faces his family. Or he may just grow more and more tense, without any place in which to relax, until he develops ulcers or heart trouble and isn't around long enough to make the final payments on the dream house.

Time was when a man's family thought he had a right to some peace and quiet when he finished a day's work. If the family could afford an extra room, Pop had a study. Now if there is to be an extra room in the house, it's usually a room for the kids or a utility room for Mom to have for housing the washer and the home freezer.

If 100 men had been polled on whether or not a house should have a special room for Pop, I'll bet the results would have been different. And as long as Pop is paying for the house, his voice ought to be heard by the home builders, too.

Noted Harpist to Play in Area Concert Sunday

Mildred Dilling, known as "America's First Lady of the Harp," will be presented in a concert Sunday by the Waterford Township Civic Music Association.

The second of this season's series, the program will be held at 4 p.m. in the auditorium of Isaac Crary Junior High School.

Miss Dilling, who has a collection of some fifty harps, has appeared as soloist with America's major orchestras and has played in every state of the union. She annually tours North America, playing as many as 75 engagements in a season.

She has been featured on national radio and television programs and has starred in the motion picture, "Adventures in Music."

Back From Hospital

Mrs. Nora Kittredge of East Pike street has returned to her home after being a patient at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Plastic Protects Kitchen Walls

Freshly painted kitchen walls look untidy first around the sink and gas range. Protect the color by covering the wall with a piece of transparent plastic.

It clings, yet lets the color show through and saves endless wiping and scrubbing. The same material will keep ice cube trays from sticking, retards silver from tarnishing, protects floors around doors on rainy days and keeps summer clothes, shoes and fans from collecting dust in storage.

Daily Exercise Should Be Made Habit in Teens

Teenagers who wonder why they have spreading hips should check up on the amount of exercise they get. If it consists of walking from the front door to bus or car, stop wondering. A few more years of that and you'll be pear-shaped and flabby in addition.

★ ★ ★

Now's the time to form the disciplined habit of daily exercise, a habit to be kept the rest of your life. Make it walking, bike riding, swimming at the Y or a combination of the three. But make it something besides sitting.

The reward? A trim figure, good looks and sound health.

Pitcher Who Won't Use $100,000 Arm No Good

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

A baseball manager once told me about a young pitcher he bought some years ago. He paid $100,000 for the presumed prodigy, and that was back when $100,000 was worth a lot more than it is today. The newspaper were filled with the story and carried pictures of the boy's pitching arm captioned "the $100,000 arm."

DR. PEALE

Well, this youngster read the newspapers and became more impressed than anyone else with his $100,000 arm. He began to avoid going out for practice and when he did he would toss the ball lightly. They couldn't make him pitch hard. "No, sir," he would say, "I'm not going to throw this arm away. "I'm going to save it. It's a $100,000 arm."

A year later he was quietly dropped. No one knows where he is now—or his $100,000 arm either.

Fortunately for the game there are other men in baseball like Sal Maglie, for example, still pitching, still giving fully of a great arm. These men have kept what they had by giving it away. It's a curious but fundamental law that if you save a talent, you'll lose it. Give it and you'll develop it.

Each person has been given certain gifts, certain abilities, by God the Creator. Use those gifts to the maximum; give yourself fully and you will more than compensate for whatever deficiencies you may have. To achieve outstandingly, you have to give. Those who hold out, lose out. And the best thing you have to give is yourself. Give of yourself and you'll find yourself.

I was traveling in an airplane one time and found myself comparing the two stewardesses. One, the first I noticed, was one of the prettiest girls I have ever seen. The other was plainer and she suffered by contrast. But we had not been flying very long before a greater difference became apparent.

The super-pretty girl was polite and efficient, but in a cold and formal sort of way. Her smile seemed automatic. The plainer girl radiated good will and a happy spirit. She was really charming. She made a point of sitting down and talking with as many people as she had time. And, when she sat down next to me, she asked in an interested way what I was doing. I looked up from the papers on my lap and told her I was answering letters from unhappy and disappointed people who had written to me. She shook her head and said, "What's the matter with those people? The answer is so simple."

★ ★ ★

"What do you mean, it's simple?" I asked.

"The answer you can give them is just as simple as this," she said. "Just tell them to forget themselves and to start giving." And then she told me something about herself and about her problem of being plain and not pretty. "But I just decided to forget myself and give all that I had to the job of helping people. And I'm having a lot of fun doing it."

We talked for a while and, when I left that plane, the stewardess I remembered was not the one with the extraordinary pretty face, but the less favored one who decided to give what she did have and, lo and behold! she became a most attractive personality.

"Forget yourself and start giving." There are few better formulas for success and happiness. And, when you give yourself, which is your greatest gift, you will surely get the greatest results in life.

REV. N. E. FRYE

Sunday Speaker, Rev. N. E. Frye

The Rev. N. E. Frye, assistant superintendent of the Central District of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church, will preach Sunday in the local Alliance Church, M59 at Cass Lake road at the 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. services.

★ ★ ★

A graduate of Missionary Training Institute in Nyack, N. Y., he served as pastor of congregations in West Virginia and Ohio.

In three of his four pastorates, he stimulated the missionary program and was involved in some building phase.

The Rev. Mr. Frye's early years were spent in the business world.

Bethany Youth at Convention

'Seven Times a Day,' Vesper Hour Message of Dr. J. I. Chapman

Officers and many members of Senior High Fellowship of Bethany Baptist Church are attending the annual convention of Michigan Baptist Youth Fellowship at the First Baptist Church in Midland.

The local youth group won the attendance last year and hope to win it again.

★ ★ ★

"Nine Missing Men" will be the subject of Dr. Joseph I. Chapman's sermon at the 8:45 and 11 a.m. services tomorrow. Sherry Zannoth will be youth assistant at the early service and William Maxfield at 11 a.m.

Besides the choir, special music will be presented by Charlotte Baird, Robert Williams and Ralph Bergemann.

At the 11 o'clock worship hour 26 new members will be received with Maynard Johnson, Forrest Brown and the pastor welcoming the group.

Larry Hopp, Diane Garrett and Mrs. Lewis Cornell will assist the pastor at the vesper hour when he speaks on "Seven Times a Day."

At the adult forum at 7 p.m. Dr. Chapman will lead the discussion on "Christian Concept of Divorce."

Confirmation at St. Andrew's

Choir, Guest Trumpeters to Present Offertory Anthem Sunday

More than 30 adults and young people will be presented for confirmation by the Rev. Waldo R. Hunt to Rt. Rev. Archie E. Crowley, Suffragan Bishop of The Episcopal Diocese of Michigan, at 7 p.m. in St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, 5301 Hatchery Rd.

★ ★ ★

Bishop Crowley has charge of the Christian Education department as well as of Christian Social Relations, College Work, Marriage Commission, Diocesan Camps and Conferences.

The choir with three guest trumpeters under the direction of Ivan Rouse will present the offertory anthem.

The guest musicians are John Coleman and Dale Carlson of the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra and Richard Longfield, music teacher at the Auburn Heights School.

Following the service a reception will be held for Bishop and Mrs. Crowley. The last confirmation class under the leadership of Mrs. Ray Kingsbury will serve as hosts and hostesses.

★ ★ ★

The Rev. Mr. Hunt has announced that those wishing to take first communion with members of their families may do so on Thanksgiving Day at the 9:30 a.m. service.

Mission Priest to Speak Sunday Through Tuesday

The Rev. James Fitzpatrick will preach at the 40-Hours Devotion in St. Vincent de Paul Church beginning tomorrow and continuing through Tuesday.

Services will be at 6, 8 and 11:30 a.m. and 7:30 each evening. Special services will be held at 11:30 a.m. on Monday and Tuesday for high school students.

Father Fitzpatrick who comes from St. Dominic's Mission in Detroit, will be assisted by the Rev. Edward Schroeder.

Participating in the Tuesday evening service will be several guest priests as well as the Rev. Michael O'Reilly of St. Michael's Church and the Rev. Richard Thomas of St. Benedict's Church.

Revival Meetings Close

Evangelist James R. Calhoun of the extension department of Moody Bible Institute, Chicago will bring his closing message at 7:15 p.m. Sunday in First Baptist Church, 3714 Sashabaw Rd., Drayton Plains. Mr. Calhoun has been preaching at the church each night this week.

Representative of Temperance, Church Speaker

The Rev. James Kavanagh will speak at 10:45 a.m. Sunday in the First Church of God as a representative of the Michigan Temperance Foundation.

★ ★ ★

A graduate of Taylor University, he has served pastorates of the Methodist Church in Indiana and Michigan. He entered the ministry after having spent several years in industry as a factory official.

Mr. Kavanagh also studied at Western Theological Seminary for two years.

He is a graduate of the National Training School of the National Temperance League at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky.

★ ★ ★

Commenting on the problem of alcohol, the pastor said: "With at least 4,500,000 alcoholics in the United States, we are faced with a health problem second to none."

Wash you, make you clean; put away the evil of your doings from before mine eyes; cease to do evil.

Central Christian to Call Roll of New Members

Names of new members that have joined Central Christian Church during the last year will be called at the 7 p.m. service Sunday. Stait Lloyd will direct the choir in special music.

★ ★ ★

Following the evening meeting a reception will be held in Fellowship Hall with refreshments served by the Dorcas Guild.

Series of Sermons Continuing Sunday

The Rev. Edward D. Auchard, pastor, will preach on "I Saw the Lord" at the 9 and 11 a.m. services tomorrow in the Orchard Lake Community Church, Presbyterian. This is the fourth in a series of sermons entitled "Profiles of the Prophets."

At the early service the Crusaders will sing "Thanksgiving Praise," "Our Thanks We Give," and "Now It's Happy Autumn." The Chancel Choir will be heard at the 11 o'clock worship hour.

The executive board of the Women's Association will make plans for 1959 under the leadership of Mrs. Don Brieden at the 12:30 meeting Monday.

Army Defeats Cuban Rebels

Report 153 Insurgents Killed in Battle for U. S. Nickel Mine

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban army has defeated rebels in a battle for a U.S. nickel mine and turned back a strong attack elsewhere, a communique said.

★ ★ ★

The government announcement Friday night said more than 153 rebels were killed while the army lost three men.

The army launched an offensive around Nicaro, on the north coast of Oriente Province, to clear the area of rebels led by Raul Castro, brother of rebel leader Fidel Castro.

On Oct. 24 the U.S. Navy evacuated 50 American women and children from the nickel mill at Nicaro after fighting around it by rebels and army forces. About a dozen American men remained to run the 100-million-dollar plant.

★ ★ ★

The offensive drove the rebels from the plant's mine 17 miles away and also recaptured another mine at Ocujal, eight miles southwest of Nicaro, the communique said.

A second army victory was claimed at Guisa, a town 12 miles southeast of Bayamo and just north of the Sierra Maestra where Fidel Castro has his headquarters.

Attendance Record Set at Marimont

A new attendance record was set for Marimont Baptist Sunday School when 643 people were present Sunday, the last day of the contest.

Mrs. Frank Webber who won the used car brought out 500 new people during the contest. She had an average of 21 present each Sunday.

Carol Scarborough, and Nancy Tabor, Larry Gavette, and Ronnie Ward were other winners. Prizes were bicycles, U.S. Savings Bonds and an outside light.

Sunday School superintendent Robert L. Gavotte said the contest was a success and many new members have enrolled.

Girl of 12 Gives Birth to Son in California

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — UCLA Medical Center officials have confirmed that a 12-year-old girl gave birth there to an 8-pound, 6-ounce son.

The hospital earlier said it could find no record of the birth, but yesterday officials said the girl, who will be 13 next February, gave normal birth there Monday.

The girl's name was not disclosed. Both mother and son were sent home yesterday.

New Senators Scramble for Houses in Washington

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON—The heyday for Washington real estate dealers is at hand. With only six weeks to go until the official opening of the 86th Congress, this capital city is already swarming with ebullient young Congressmen-elect who are bent on buying a house.

If anyone doubts the "new look" of the next Senate, he needs only to consider the type of fireside required by the victorious Democrats.

Nearly all of the replacements for the aging Republican solons are youthful heads of large families. Instead of snapping up the hotel apartments being vacated by the GOP grandfathers, therefore, these Democratic lads are badgering the bemused real estate agents for suburban ramblers with "lots of bedrooms."

Money will probably be no object for Senator-Elect Philip A. Hart of Michigan, since his wife, Jane, is a Briggs heiress who pilots their own helicopter. Money is exactly what they will need when they arrive next week to find the ranch-type dwelling they want, in high-priced Washington. Their burgeoning family boasts eight high-spirited youngsters.

Former Gov. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine—the first Senator elected in this fall's Democratic landslide—has already laid cash on the line for a new abode in Washington, and returned home to pack.

The affable Democrat who upset Maine's Republican applecart was wise in wasting no time, since his wife will shortly present him with his fourth heir.

★ ★ ★

Senator-Elect Vance Hartke of Indiana, the current mayor of Evansville, spent nearly a week house-hunting for his attractive young family, but dashed home Monday to the bedside of two ailing youngsters. Real estate-men are assured that he'll be back again soon, to resume the quest.

★ ★ ★

Senator-Elect Gale McGee of Wyoming, the brilliant young college professor who is the father of four, put the down payment on his Washington dream-house this week—a Dutch colonial with four bedrooms.

McGee's house, like those for which most of the new legislators are shopping, is in the $30,000-$40,000 price bracket.

Another victor who arrives next week to look for a "permanent" abode is Senator-Elect Frank E. Moss of Utah. Father of three sons and a daughter, the former president of the National Association of County and Prosecuting Attorneys has let it be known that he will want a "big" place suitable for entertaining.

★ ★ ★

Some of the new Senators are lucky enough to have their housing situation well in hand, thanks to the fact that they are merely moving up from the House of Representatives. One of these — New York's Republican Sen. Kenneth Keating—has already been leasing the attractive, roomy "guest house" on the grounds of the fabulous Forrestal estate in historic Georgetown.

★ ★ ★

The Forrestal house, occupied by the late Defense Secretary James Forrestal and later leased to the U. S. government as an official guest house for visiting heads of states, is now owned by the attractive widow of the late Rep. Thurmond Chatham of North Carolina.

The fact that so many of the new Senators — elected for six year terms—have decided to buy instead of rent bespeaks their party confidence.

★ ★ ★

Most of these youngsters frankly expect to be in the driver's seat for a long, long time, and have decided that in the face of an inflationary trend, they might as well invest and reap the real estate harvest.

Buying property here is much more of a gamble for the scores of newly arriving representatives, who must face a reelection campaign in two years.

Except for the Easterners, most of the legislators are staggered by the high price of Washington real estate. A member of the congressional campaign staff who has been putting them in touch with local real estate agents mused sadly:

"After they've seen how little you can get for $30,000 or $40,000, they suddenly realize that their $22,500 salary is considerably less than it looked to them back home."

Air Force Chief Reports

Red Missiles Not Ahead

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the tense East-West race to develop a workable long-range ballistic missile "there is no reason to believe that the Russians are appreciably ahead of us."

★ ★ ★

This is the view of Maj. Gen. B. A. Schriever, chief of the Air Force ballistic missile division.

He indicated, in fact, that the United States and Russia may achieve workable intercontinental ballistic missiles at about the same time.

★ ★ ★

But he told the National Geographic Society Friday that America can't afford to relax.

"The informed concensus would seem to be that the Soviet Union presently has an advantage in what we describe as the 'short range' or under 1,000-mile type of ballistic missile.

"In the area of the intermediate range, or 1,500-mile ballistic missile, the situation is less clear. In this respect, we should keep in mind that our own 1,500-mile IRBMs, the Thor and the Jupiter, have been quite successful in their recent tests," he added.

In St. Louis, another Pentagon missile specialist said Friday night that this country will have intermediate range missiles ready for combat use very soon.

Brig. Gen. Austin W. Betts, military assistant to the director of guided missiles, didn't elaborate on the time element.

However, he told a meeting of manufacturers:

"Ballistic missiles very soon to be operational will be able to destroy enemy targets 1,500 miles away less than half an hour after the decision is made to attack. This is far beyond the capability of any manned aircraft now operational or anywhere in sight."

There were indications that there might be another Navy satellite launching this year after all.

★ ★ ★

A successful static test of the Vanguard rocket was conducted at Cape Canaveral, Fla. A static test usually precedes an actual launching by 14 days.

Only this week the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced there would be no further attempts to launch a Vanguard satellite this year.

GRANADA, Colo. (AP)—Misery had a lot of company in this southeast Colorado community of 551 persons Friday.

Fast-working burglars broke into 19 of the town's 26 business stores, including the bank and post office, during the early morning. Town Marshal Clayton Helsel estimated the loss at $493 in cash.

Lynn Bari Awarded Custody of Son, 10

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A bitter court fight has ended with a judge's decision that actress Lynn Bari should have custody of her son.

A Superior Court judge ruled in favor of Miss Bari Friday after an interview earlier in the week with John Luft, 10, the actress' son by her former husband, Sid Luft.

Luft, now married to Judy Garland, won custody of John six weeks ago on grounds the boy had been placed in a boarding school and was not receiving proper home life and parental supervision.

Miss Bari then filed suit to regain custody, charging the Luft household was an improper place to rear the boy.

'Full Coverage' Still Best, He's Certain Now

DANVILLE, Va. (AP) — Dave Spangler took out robbery insurance last week on two of his three dry cleaning branch offices.

★ ★ ★

He reasoned the third branch, on one of Danville's busiest downtown streets and within half a block of police headquarters, was beyond the daring of any stick-up artist.

★ ★ ★

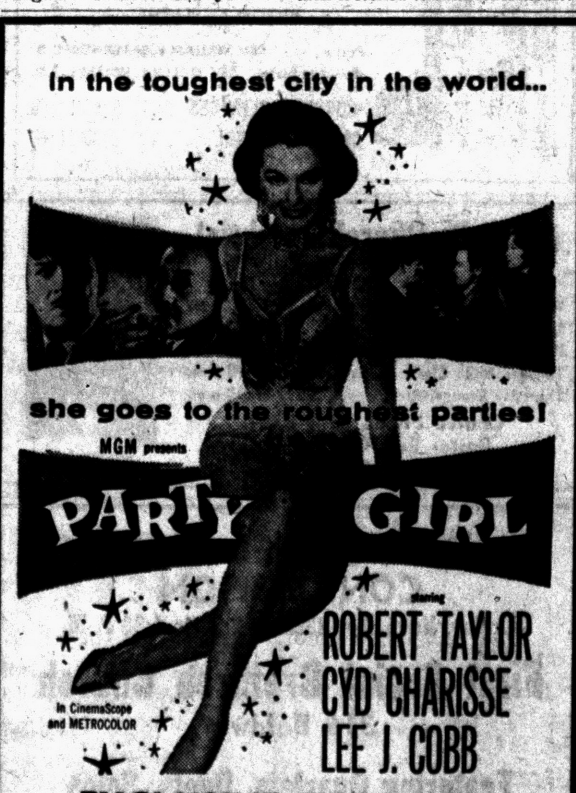

A youthful robber this week held up one of the branches — the uninsured one — and made off with $91.

Audie Murphy Sued by Writer for $130,750

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A writer has sued actor Audie Murphy for $130,750.

Paul Kazear's complaint, filed Friday, asks the sum for his work in preparing a script for a projected movie, "Skin Diver With A Heart." Kazear said Murphy, most decorated U.S. soldier of World War II, employed him June 1 but that he has received no compensation.

Hollywood Headlines

Robert Young Is Careful to Be on Set in Time

By BOB THOMAS
AP Motion Picture Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Robert Young's set had broken early but he said he would have to hurry though lunch to get back on time.

★ ★ ★

What's this? The man is not only the star of "Father Knows Best" but owns a big chunk of the TV series. Still he was taking no chances about holding up production.

That's the kind of a guy Bob Young has always been. He recalled with awe the antics of another actor he once co-starred with, a notable rake.

★ ★ ★

"Every noon, he and some buddy of his would hop into a sports car and disappear for a couple of hours," Bob recalled. "When he came back to the set, he was a little unsteady. He spent the afternoon sipping from a large tumbler of vodka. About 5 o'clock, he'd have a conference with the director and then he'd be excused for the day."

★ ★ ★

There are no such shenanigans in television, I can assure you. Bob's show, for example, is turned out in a brisk three days. Some times the schedule is stretched to five days — "and then there's heck to pay."

"When you're dealing with kids, you sometimes have delays," he explained. "We still have one of them in school, and that means that he can't work three hours of the working day. And the kids must quit at 6, while we often shoot until 8 or later."

Bob said it was not unusual to get 35 set-ups — different camera angles — a day in TV, compared to five or six on a major picture. This doesn't bother him a bit.

"I had the best training in the world," he said. "When I was at MGM, I spent my early days doing one 16-day picture after another. In one year, I did seven of them."

★ ★ ★

Bob was this year's winner of the best-actor Emmy from the TV Academy. I asked if it had any effect on his career.

"I don't think so," he said. "In pictures, you can immediately raise your asking price for the next picture. But in TV, you're stuck in a series, and that's that. There's no telling whether the award has improved your standing."

★ ★ ★

A phone call came for Bob. It was the studio saying he was due back on the set. So the boss got up and hurried back to work.

Settlement Sought in Bendix Walkout

DETROIT (AP) — Bendix Aviation Corp. and the United Auto workers began weekend negotiations today in an effort to settle the five-day-old UAW strike of 13,500 workers.

Neither side has commented on any progress in the talks for the last two days. The strike began Tuesday in a dispute over a new contract.

The strike has closed Bendix plants across the country.

The company employs a total of more than 40,000 persons at numerous locations but idleness has been confined mostly to the strikers.

Manhattan Police Ticket 581 Cars in Traffic Drive

NEW YORK (AP) — Police cracked down Friday on traffic violators in a mid-Manhattan area. The special detail tagged 581 cars.

★ ★ ★

Each ticket means a $15 fine. The section blanketed was between 34th and 60th streets, and third and ninth avenues.

★ ★ ★

Police said the drive was conducted because of increasing violations in midtown, with resultant clogging of traffic arteries.

Rockefeller in Capitol

Returns From Venezuela Trip for Government Organization Meeting

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Gov.-Elect Nelson A. Rockefeller returned here by plane briefly today from a two-week vacation in Venezuela and Brazil.

He held a news conference at Idlewild Airport and then took off in a private plane for Washington, D.C. He said he was going to attend a meeting of the President's Advisory Committee on Government Organization.

He has been the committee's chairman for five years.

Rockefeller was asked to compare the friendly reception he received in Latin America with the hostile greeting accord Vice President Nixon.

"It's very hard to compare as he was on an official trip and I was on an unofficial one," Rockefeller replied.

He added, "that situation was a peculiar phenomenon of the times. I'm sure Mr. Nixon would be greeted very warmly now."

Sinatra Has No Faults, According to the Ladies

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — My wife is so lucky, because she not only has me—but also Frank Sinatra.

★ ★ ★

Frankie never glimpses my wife, without exclaiming, "ROSEMARY!" In the last 18 years she's cavorted in his company from Meadowbrook, N.J., to Monte Carlo, Monaco, with Los Angeles, Las Vegas and London in between. She's known him from Nancy to Ava to Lauren to Lady Beatty. She's one of the greatest living female Sinatratics and has just consented to grant me an exclusive interview (across the kitchen table, at a luscious hand-cooked feast) entitled "Girls, Let's Get Frank About Frankie."

WILSON

"Have you ever seen him have one of his famous tantrums or get nasty to anybody?" was my first daring thrust.

"I can't imagine him doing that. I never saw him anything but real sweet," the B.W. replied.

"Well, what about those fights he's always having with reporters and photographers."

SINATRA

"I just say we've known him as long or longer than anybody in the business, and it's funny we never saw any."

"What would you say about his manners?"

"Well, I like particularly when Frank introduces me; he says, 'This is Rosemary Wilson,' regarding me as an individual and not just your wife. When he asked us to sit at his table the other night, it was he who poured my drink — not you!"

"What about the women at that party he gave at Danny's Hideaway? Keely Smith, Barbara Ball, Mrs. Sammy Cahn?" I asked her.

"He certainly does have a solid hold on the women of the country," she said, "Take the other night at Toots' apartment when he went upstairs to see little Tracy who was sick in bed. The baby threw her arms around him and was clutching him with such a tight hold but wouldn't let me touch her. Even 3-year-olds!

"Then he put him arm around me and we walked downstairs together—just like friends, you know . . ."

"I think we can skip irrelevant details like that," I said, sharply.

"Did you ever hear about his insisting on being called 'Mr. Sinatra,' Mrs. Wilson?" I asked.

"Sure! But that's a gag. He says, 'Mister Sinatra, puhleeese!' Of course Joe E. always introduces him as 'Tommy Lyman', and then Frank says, 'My name is Julius La Rosa.' "

Dems Lay Plans for Spring Vote

State Central Committee to Review Election, Set April Strategy

LANSING (AP) — With the ink barely dry on the Nov. 4 election returns, Michigan Democrats turn their attention tomorrow to next April's spring election.

Planning for the months ahead and a review of the campaign just concluded will top the agenda at a meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee.

A bumper crop of 14 statewide offices will be at stake in spring balloting, counting two technically nonpartisan races for the State Supreme Court.

The 1959 total will be swelled by election for the first time of six Wayne State University trustees to end a three-year transition converting the school from a Detroit to a state institution.

Two each will be elected for two-, four- and six-year terms. The new board will replace a transitional 11-member governing body.

Two members each will be chosen to the State Board of Agriculture, MSU governing body, and to the University of Michigan Board of Regents and one to the state board of education.

Voters also will elect a state superintendent of public instruction for two years.

Lynn M. Bartlett, Democratic incumbent, has announced for another term as state school superintendent. With a possible exception or two, incumbents in other posts at stake are expected to follow suit.

Nominees for all 14 offices will be selected at Republican and Democratic state conventions in February.

Supports Berlin Stand

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill) declared that if the Eisenhower administration chooses to use armed force to break a second blockade in Berlin, the action would receive support from him and other Democrats in Congress.

Kenny Mike Sparks Redford to Title Win

DETROIT (UPI) — Kenny Mike set up all four Redford touchdowns last night and outgained the entire St. Mary's of Redford team in pacing the Huskies to a 27-7 victory for the Detroit prep football championship before 38,896 fans at Briggs Stadium.

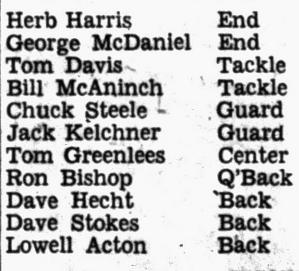

The powerful Redford halfback set up the first of two first quarter touchdowns with a 44-yard sprint, recovered a fumble to set up the second, fired a key 25-yard pass in the third touchdown march and then grabbed a fumble and later scored the final TD.

AP All-State Grid Teams to Be Named

The annual Associated Press All-State football team is on its way.

Writers from all parts of the state will meet Monday in Lansing to tabulate over 600 ballots turned in by coaches, writers and broadcasters.

The teams in Class A, Class B and Class C-D will published the first week of December.

Northville W-O Champ

Northville became the Wayne-Oakland League grid champion for the 3rd successive year last night with an easy 45-0 victory over Clarenceville.

Bill Walker tallied three times, Bob Starnes and reserve Roger Atchinson twice each in the rout.

Navy 11 Meets Syracuse, Miami

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Navy today announced a 1959 football schedule which includes two first-time opponents, Syracuse and Miami, Fla.

Untried Fullback Key to Houston Victory

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—"We didn't have much," Houston Coach Harold Lahar said after watching his Cougars defeat Miami 37-26 last night, "but we won a ball game. And we did it with a guy who never played fullback in his life."

Meet the County Stars

JOHN MEADOWS, Royal Oak Dondero, end . . . 6-5 . . . 195 . . . junior . . . one of two juniors to crash the 1958 honor squad . . . and excellent pass receiver with a fine pair of hands . . . mighty on defense, too . . . he makes it three years in a row that a Dondero end has received Pontiac Press All-County recognition.

★ ★ ★

JOHN KENNEDY, Royal Oak Kimball, end . . . 6-1 . . . 165 . . . senior . . . a tower of strength defensively . . . caught passes with ease and finesse . . . one of two Kimball gridders to make the All-County team in the school's second year of football.

★ ★ ★

BOB LOVELL, Birmingham, tackle . . . 6-1 . . . 190 . . . senior . . . strong two-way performer . . . devastating blocker and vicious tackler . . . the key player in the Maple forward wall . . . good college prospect.

★ ★ ★

All Baseball in Mourning

By The Associated Press

Mel Ott's death yesterday sent the baseball world into mourning.

Here are capsule comments from some baseball figures:

Ford Frick, Commissioner — ". . . his passing is a great loss. As a player, a manager and as a broadcaster, he was a credit to himself and to baseball. He was a true gentleman and one of whom baseball was most proud."

Charles Feeney, Giant Vice President—"Certainly Mel Ott was one of the most popular Giants if not the most popular . . . a tremendous man in every way."

Will Harridge, American League president—"An all-time great player, he was a credit to the game."

John McHale, Detroit General Manager—"Not only was he one of our greatest players, but as a Christian gentleman his modesty and sincerity left a profound impression wherever he went."

Casey Stengel, New York Manager—"Ott gave a lesson for all players to remember. He never gave up trying to learn and proved a player could go direct to the Major Leagues if they try hard enough."

Joe L. Brown, Pittsburgh General Manager—"He was a real credit to the National League and baseball everywhere. . ."

Carl Hubbell, former Giant pitcher—"With Giants we were roommates . . . we have maintained those ties through the years. His passing is a great loss to baseball and to his friends it creates a void that can never be filled."

Bill Rigney, Giant Manager—"He was one of the really great ball players of our time and he has a lasting place in the baseball story."

Eddie Brannick, Giant traveling secretary—"Mel Ott will be sadly missed. He was a credit to the game and a great man. I never heard anybody say a word against him."

Bill Terry, former Giant player and manager — "His death is a great shock to me because we were such good friends."

Buzzie Bavasi, Los Angeles Vice President — "I can think of no finer person."

"I never knew a baseball player who was so universally loved," said Durocher, who succeeded Ott as manager of the Giants in one of the most sensational shakeups in Major League history on Aug. 16, 1948. "He was the nicest guy who ever put on a baseball shoe.

"He was an exemplary influence on adult and child alike," Tiger President Harvey Hansen said. "His radiant personality will sorely be missed."

Iowa Official Orders Probe of Boxer's Death

SIOUX CITY, Iowa (AP)—County Attorney Donald O'Brien indicated Friday night there will be grand jury investigation of the death of Los Angeles boxer Nate Simon after a bout here.

A coroner's jury recommended after an inquest Friday that the grand jury consider whether any of five persons connected with the bout had been involved in any violation of an Iowa law which prohibits prize fighting and boxing exhibitions.

Rangers Close to First Place

Only 2 Points Back of Montreal as NHL Faces Big Weekend

By United Press International

The New York Rangers, carrying a five-game winning streak, are within easy striking distance of the first-place Montreal Canadiens as the National Hockey League presents a full weekend of activity.

The New Yorkers, two points behind Montreal, will engage the cellar-dwelling Maple Leafs at Toronto Saturday night and then will be at home to the Detroit Red Wings on Sunday. Half of the Ranger's six defeats this year have been to Detroit.

In other games Sunday, Boston will host Detroit in a nationally-televised afternoon contest and Chicago will be at Montreal. The Canadiens, always a fearsome club at home, haven't won on Montreal ice in their last four starts and will be pressing to break this slide as well as protect their first-place lead tonight.

Sunday's schedule shows Montreal at Boston and Toronto at Chicago, in addition to the Detroit-Ranger game.

Calhoun Loses to 'Tiger' Jones in Wild Battle

NEW YORK (AP)—Ralph "Tiger" Jones survived a wild free-swinging attack by Rory Calhoun Friday night to win a unanimous decision in a gruelling 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden. A penalty by Referee Ray Miller against Calhoun for a low blow in the eighth cost him the fight.

In a wild 10th round, Calhoun battered Jones around the ring with a savage attack. At one stage Jones missed a punch and fell on all four but it was not a knockdown.

The decisive round was the eighth where Calhoun appeared to have slugged his way to a decisive edge only to have the round taken away from him by a hook to the body that Miller ruled low.

Aussie Pair Upsets MacKay, Richardson

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—The shoe was on the other foot for the U.S. Davis Cup squad in the New South Wales tennis championships today.

Where Earl Buchholz of St. Louis surprised Australians yesterday by upsetting Mal Anderson, today it was Hamilton Richardson, of Arlington, Va., and Barry MacKay, of Dayton, Ohio, who fell by the wayside.

Buchholz kept up his hot pace, however, and salvaged some pride for the Americans as he powered his way into the quarterfinals. He whipped Graham Lovett 6-4, 8-6, 6-1 to maintain his mark of not having lost a set in this tourney.

Rollins Files Claim Against Hawks, Calgary

CALGARY (AP) — Al Rollins, former goalie for Chicago of the National Hockey League, said Friday he has obtained an injunction against two teams, including the Black Hawks. He claimed they are preventing him from making a living as a hockey player.

Slight Edge for Cooper

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Pete Cooper nursed a two-stroke lead at the mid-point in the $15,000 West Palm Beach Invitational Golf Tournament today.

Walter Burkemo of Franklin Hills, Mich., tied with five other golfers for seventh place with a 69-70—139.

All-Time Great Ott Joined Giants at 16

Stayed 22 Years as Tormentor of NL Pitchers

Popular Little Slugger Belted 511 Home Runs to Make Hall of Fame

NEW YORK (AP)—Late in the 1925 baseball season, a skinny kid of 16 arrived at the Polo Grounds carrying an old catcher's glove, a pair of spikes and a straw suitcase.

He looked up New York Giants' manager John McGraw and introduced himself.

"Mr. McGraw," he said, "I'm Mel Ott."

This was the baby-faced catcher who had been sent to McGraw from New Orleans. The Giant pilot was expecting him, for he had come highly recommended. There were no farm systems in those days, nor did they pay untried youngsters bonuses.

McGraw relied on his friends to tip him off to good prospects. Harry Williams, a New Orleans lumberman, was one of McGraw's closest friends. He saw Ott playing semi-pro ball and wired McGraw.

That's how Ott started his long career with the Giants. He was to have a memorable baseball life, climaxed by his election to the Hall of Fame in 1951. But it was to end in tragedy. Ott died yesterday in New Orleans at the age of 49 as a result of injuries suffered in an automobile accident a week ago Friday. His funeral is today.

McGraw looked his new catcher up and down and decided that his unusually stubby legs wouldn't stand the gaff of catching. From then on, he was outfielder Ott although he didn't get into a game that season.

Ott finished out his playing days in 1947 with a fistfull of records. His 511 home runs still stands as a National League record and is surpassed only by Babe Ruth and Jimmy Foxx. He still holds the National League record for runs scored (1,859), runs batted in (1,860) and bases on balls (1,708).

It was Ott who inspired Leo Durocher to make his famous "nice guys finish last" statement.

Durocher was managing the Brooklyn Dodgers at the time. It was before a Giant-Dodger game in the Polo Grounds in 1946, and Durocher was talking to newsmen. The Brooks were in contention for the pennant and the Giants were floundering in last place under Ott who had taken over as manager in 1942.

★ ★ ★

"Why can't you have more feeling for human weakness," someone asked Durocher.

The Lip pointed across the field to Ott. "There's one of the nicest guys in the world," he snapped. "But he's in last place. Nice guys finish last."

Ott never managed a pennant winner and the best he did before being replaced in mid-July, 1948, by the same Durocher was a third place finish in 1942.

★ ★ ★

As a hitter, Ott's favorite spot was the short right field fence at Polo Grounds. He led the league in total home runs only three times, but his production was steady. Strangely, he didn't hit a single home run in his first year as a Giant player and only one in his second year.

He batted only against right-handers at that period. He was a lefthanded hitter and it was McGraw's idea that he didn't want so young a player as Ott to get an inferiority complex just in case the lefties fooled him.

"It's not because he can't hit them," said McGraw at the time. "But I don't want any slick left-hander ever to give this boy even the slightest inferiority complex."

With all his power, Ott stood only 5-9 and never weighed more than 170 pounds. His signature was an unorthodox—never duplicated—cut in which he took a high stride with his right foot just before swinging. He always claimed it helped him pack more power although it appeared to throw him off balance.

After he was replaced by Durocher, Ott spent two years in the farm system of the Giants, managed Oakland of the Pacific Coast League for two years, then retired to go into the construction business.

But he couldn't keep away from the game, and in 1955 was back as radio announcer. During the last two years he worked the Detroit Tigers games.

The ex-slugger became well known in the Detroit area in recent years as an announcer on the Tiger broadcasts. Ott and his wife were critically injured in an auto accident Nov. 14.

U. S. Still Trailing Irish at Mexico City

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — The United States team of two 46-year-olds, Sammy Snead and Ben Hogan, trailed Irish oldtimers Harry Bradshaw and Christy O'Connor in the International Trophy and Canada Cup championship today, but no one was betting that the Americans wouldn't beat them out with two rounds to go.

Bradshaw, nine-time Irish professional champion, shot a two-under-par 70 in the second round on a damp, gloomy Friday in this mile and a half high city to match his opening round score and take the lead for the individual International trophy with a total of 140.

Lions 'Spoilers' Against Bears, Sunday

Detroit Given Edge

DETROIT (UPI) — It was 11 weeks ago that the Chicago Bears decommissioned nearly a dozen Detroit Lions in Dallas and now the time has come when the Lions can virtually squelch all Bear title bids.

George Halas' crew manhandled the Lions in their 24-17 Cotton Bowl tilt and the numerous injuries spiked the Lions' pride even more.

Now the Bears, after losing last Sunday to Baltimore, are on the outside of the Western Division championship race, two games behind the Colts with just four to play. Chicago and Los Angeles have 5-3 records. A loss to the Lions tomorrow would leave the Bears with about as much chance as the Lions have — very little.

The standings of the Bears and Lions has had little effect on the box office. By noon Tuesday all bleacher tickets were sold and it will be another standing room only crowd at Briggs Stadium for the first regular season meeting between Halas and his former end, George Wilson.

Halas wasn't coach in name last year when the clubs split the season series, the Bears upsetting the Lions in Detroit and the Lions then taking the regular season finale in Wrigley Field.

The Bears' Harlon Hill, eighth leading receiver in the NFL, is expected to be out of action because of a leg injury. Detroit's injury list is comprised of defensive halfback Gary Lowe and fullback John Henry Johnson.

The Lions listed Lowe's status as "doubtful" but Johnson, still troubled by a knee injury, probably will see some duty.

★ ★ ★

The Lions can reach .500 for the first time this season with a victory but it still wouldn't be good enough for second place even if Los Angeles loses. The Rams also are 5-3 but Detroit needs a Ram win over Baltimore Sunday to keep its slim hope of another title going.

Chicago, which ripped unbeaten through the pre-season campaign, now has lost two straight.

The Lions were the pick of the bookies by 3½ points.

Other Sunday games will have Cleveland 12-point favorite at home against the Eagles, New York entertaining Washington, Pittsburgh a slim pick over the Cardinals at Chicago and San Francisco at Green Bay.

Beat Celtics 112-106 in Hot Tilt

Knicks Win 7th in Row

By United Press International

The phenomenal New York Knickerbockers are shaking the cellar dust out of their eyes and perching on cloud nine these days.

The knicks, last-place finishers in the Eastern Division last season, swept to their seventh straight victory last night as they trounced the Boston Celtics, 112-106, in the opener of a National Basketball Association Doubleheader at Philadelphia.

Play became hot and heavy in the third period as officials and arena police broke up a fight between Boston's Tom Heinsohn and New York's Willie Naulls. Heinsohn was ejected from the game as players from both squads squared off.

Braun paced the Knicks with 26 points; Guerin had 23 and sears 19. Bill Russell led the Celtics with 25, trying desperately to make up for the absence of Bob Cousy's scoring punch. Cousy, hampered by injuries, scored only one point as he was pulled out midway in the second period by coach Red Auerbach.

Philadelphia moved into a third place tie with Boston in the Eastern sector as Paul Arizin and Tom Gola led the Warriors to a 108-90 triumph over Cincinnati in the nightcap.

Cincinnati's Si Green suffered a spasm in the first period that left the left side of his face paralyzed for 15 minutes. He was taken to a hospital for overnight observation.

Father, Son Hunters Bag Bear and Buck

A Pontiac hunting team of father and son, just back from the north country, enjoyed a successful trip with a bear and buck as trophies. Ralph Long, senior (4444 Monroe, Drayton Plains) and Ralph junior (1601 Scott Lake road), took their prizes in Luce county. Senior downed the deer (180 pounds), junior bagged the bear coming down a path towards him (150 pounds).

It was the first time either had ever seen a bear in the wilds.

Another successful area hunter was Albert Bayliff, 1720 Hammond court, who got a 206-pounder near Marquette, hunting alone. He is head of the Bilt-Rite Tool & Machine company of Warren.

Jerry Wooliever, Pontiac, back from Batchewana Bay, Ont., bagged a 1,100-pound cow moose, also got his buck a couple days ago in the UP.

John Herrington of Waterford and Nick Niera of Lake Orion will make the trip with the Central Michigan junior varsity basketball team for a two-game series against Soo Tech.

Hayes Blisters Big 10 Officials

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Stormy Woody Hayes blew up again about Big Ten officiating on today's Ohio State- Michigan football game.

★ ★ ★

The controversial Ohio State coach said he would ask to have three officials blackballed from future Buckeye games.

"I hate them with a passion," said Hayes. "I don't know their names and I don't want to know their names. But I don't want them officiating any more of our games."

Hayes was chatting with newsmen last night at a press party when he suddenly erupted.

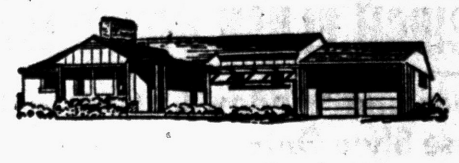

He cited two instances in which he thought officials made bad calls against Ohio State. One was on a ruling against Buckeye fullback Bob White, who fumbled on the 7-yard line in last week's game with Iowa. The other was a call in which Ohio State was penalized for clipping in the Illinois game.

★ ★ ★

Ohio State won both games.

"White was flat on his back when he let go of the ball and that umpire was right on top of him," said Hayes, "There were three officals right on that clipping play and they didn't call it, but some guy 25 yards away did."

ON LAKEWOOD DRIVE — All the front windows in the W. C. Robertson home have a view of Watkins Lake. Their new home, built by Elmer Kunse of Drayton Woods, is buff brick with redwood trim. The doors, including those on the garage, are painted salmon color. The Robertson lot, an acre in size, is heavily wooded. This young couple and their two children have lived in their new home just under three months.

Your Neighbor's House

Robertson Home Built on Wooded Acre

By JANET O'DELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Although the W. C. Robertson home is set back among the trees some distance north of Watkins Lake, the main living rooms all have a view of the water. Just three months ago the family moved into their new ranch home on Lakewood drive.

The front door opens directly into the living room. A small portion of the floor is slate covered and a planter bookcase shuts off stray drafts. At the right is the dining room. Straight ahead, through the living room is the door to the bedroom hall.

The living room floor is covered with beige tweed carpeting. Two walls are painted sandalwood color, while the outside west wall is paneled in redwood. The ceiling is beamed.

On the wall above the sofa there is a tree mural, painted by Mrs. Robertson's mother, Ruth Rieth Meredith. It is a blossoming tree with a white peacock perched on one branch.

The two parts of the toast colored sectional sofa face each other across the room. Blonde tables hold lamps and magazines. Above the television set is a sunburst clock that can be lighted from behind.

★ ★ ★

All woodwork is natural birch. The draperies are white with a black, gold and brown geometric design.

★ ★ ★

Panels of ribbed glass partition off the dining room from both living room and kitchen. The floor is spatter printed vinyl tile, coral dots on a grayed sandalwood background. There are sandalwood curtains at the high windows. This is the one room that is still to be furnished.

The kitchen floor is a continuation of the dining room one. Cabinets are birch with finger tip controls. Walls are pink.

★ ★ ★

The L-shaped work unit is topped with white Formica, lined in coral and gray. Around the window is a pink ruffle. All sills are marble. Behind the stove is a pass-through to the family room.

Across the room from the stove there is an alcove that houses washer and dryer. Above are storage cabinets. In this area there is a ceiling light fixture.

★ ★ ★

The floor in the family room is gray with big red inserts. There is a small buff brick fireplace with a raised stone hearth. Stone shelves extend out from the chimney.

BEAMS GO THROUGH

This ceiling is also beamed. The house beams go out into the attached double garage, next to the family room. Walls are redwood. All lighting is indirect.

On the front there is a pair of long windows that look down to the lake. At the rear are sliding glass doors to the back patio. The lined draperies are striped in beige and brown.

The family eats all its meals out here at a table in front of the windows.

The quiet bedroom zone extends across the back of the house, separated from the living areas by the hall. Curtis who's five has a green room with maple bunk beds. His curtains have cowboys on them, while his bedspreads show Davy Crockett.

Little Kim who's only a year and a half has a yellow and white nursery. Her curtains are printed with Teddy bears. She has a minute platform rocker next to her crib.

The master bedroom is pink. On the polished oak floor Mrs. Robertson placed a furry pink rug. The pink spread is quilted in gold. All furniture is blonde mahogany.

★ ★ ★

Curtis, Kim, Papa and Mama Robertson — and a three-months-old miniature dachshund named Ginger — have lived in their new house for less than three months.

Elmer Kunse of Drayton Woods did the building from a stock plan. The exterior is brick with redwood trim. The Robertsons' lot is an acre in size. The Robertsons are former Pontiac city residents.

Storage in Walls

Wood paneled walls offer many storage possibilities, and one more way to get maximum livability from small home design is to utilize every possible storage device. Divider sections and low walls are ideal for storage shelves, cabinets and drawers. Built of fir or hemlock, they are amazingly flexible and can be custom tailored and designed to fit any space.

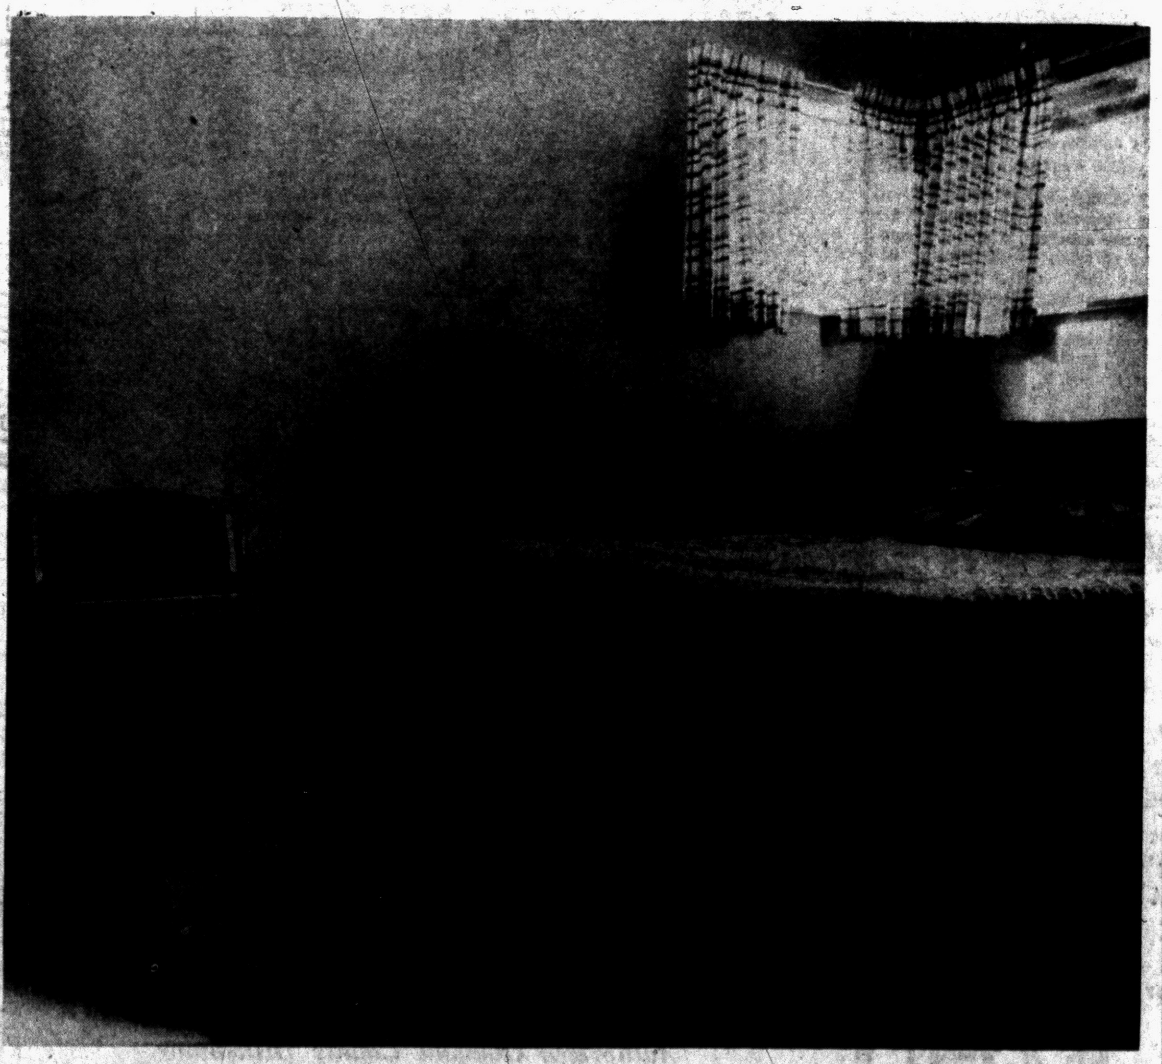

background for LIVING

A FAMILY AFFAIR — The Robertsons sit around the table in the family room to have their picture taken. Mr. Robertson is keeping an eye on Ginger, the dachshund, held by young Curtis. In the background, Kim sucks her thumb reflectively as her mother leafs through her recipe file for a recipe to give the Home Editor. The family eats all its meals here until the dining room gets its furniture.

CUSTOM DESIGNED — This painting on the wall of the living room was done by Mrs. Robertson's mother, Ruth Rieth Meredith. It shows a tree full of spring blossoms with a white peacock perched on one branch. The wall at the end is redwood. The ceiling is white with stained beams. All tables are blonde wood. The carpeting is beige tweed.

THE PINK ROOM — The Robertsons' bedroom is done all in pink. The furry rug matches the soft color of the walls. Quilting on the taffeta spread is gold. Curtains are striped in pink, blue and white. Furniture is blonde mahogany. Bedroom floors are all natural finished oak.

Try Dry Brush for Antiquing New Wood

There is a new technique in painting that makes it a simple matter to attempt an antique or pleasantly weathered look to wood. You might even make lamps of cut down table legs, and "antique" them to match your real antiques. Wooden shutters can be finished this way, as well as picture frames and numerous other wooden items.

★ ★ ★

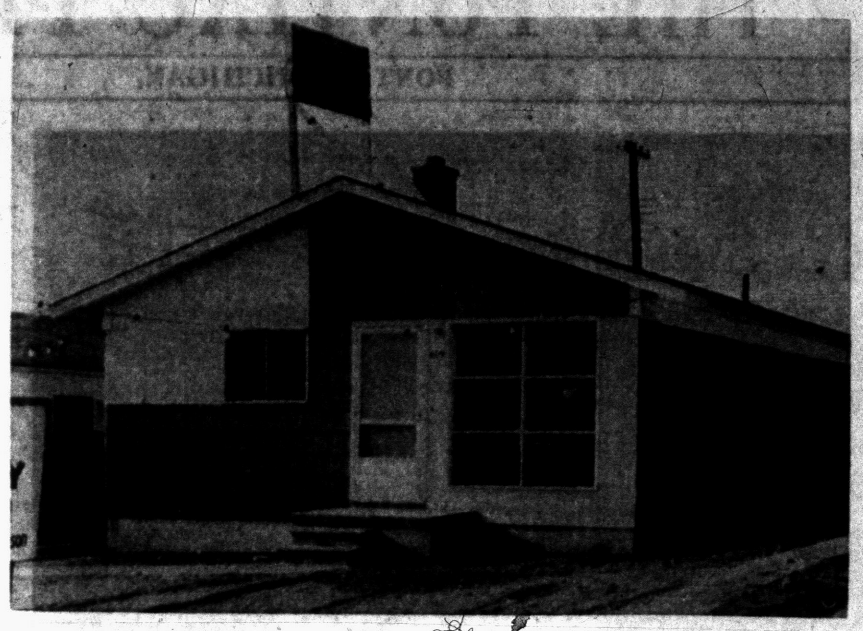

Preliminary sanding is not necessary, as the rough surface of the wood increases the antique effect. By the one-step, dry brush method you can also eliminate completely the old custom of wiping off as you go with a dry cloth.

All you do is dip the brush into the paint, and remove the excess by pressing the brush against the edges of the paint can. Finish "drying" the bristles by brushing smoothly on a testing surface until most of the paint is removed.

★ ★ ★

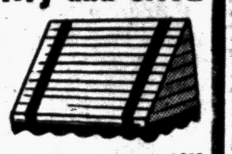

Then apply the brush lightly to the article to be painted, using light strokes so the high-lights of the wood grain or raised surfaces produce an interesting finish.

Paint-brushes having nylon bristles are best for dry-brush painting of un-sanded surfaces. This type of bristle does not wear as readily as natural hair bristles.

MODEL OPEN — This three bedroom model home on Emerson street has three bedrooms, a large living room, kitchen and full basement. Forced hot air and automatic hot water are in. There are sidewalks, city water and city sewers. With each purchase the buyer receives a bonus of an appliance or furniture. The 58 homes in the subdivision are priced from $10,800 to $11,800. The builders are Faleer Building Company. M. R. Wilson is the sales broker.

MATCHING DOWELS — The target is spotted when you usee a template to center dowels for a tight joint.

Set of Templates Will Match Holes

A simple little gadget for exact matching of dowel-hole centers can be made of a thin sheet of metal. Notch the edges for reference. This will help to keep the template in position on each joining piece. Notches are made at perfect right angles.

Positions for the dowel centers are marked on the template and punched through with sharp awl.

In use, the reference edge is laid along matchng edges of the joint, and the dowel center position is marked with an awl point. The tip of the spur bit is then centered on the marks.

Note that the template must be flipped over when marking mating pieces of the joint so that the reference edges will coincide with the mating edges of the joint.

A set of dowel-hole templates, carefully made, will save time for the home craftsman. According to National Lumber Manufacturers Assn., this will provide greater accuracy and strength to dowel construction.

Get Mortgage Information Before You Buy House

A person getting ready to buy a house for the first time often has a lot of erroneous ideas about a mortgage. Realtors, banks, savings and loan associations and other lending agencies are constantly amazed at the fallacies that have crept into the thinking of many potential first-time home purchasers.

Even with all these misconceptions, little damage would be done if every buyer took the time and trouble to read and understand all the papers he signs. But it is a rarity when somebody reads every word of every document placed before him and then — and only then—attaches his signature.

The general feeling seems to be: "These are regulation forms and papers which everybody signs in order to get a mortgage. Why shouldn't I sign them, too?"

Why, indeed? Yet there are countless numbers of persons every year who discover some facts about their mortgages of which they were unaware. Lest there be any misunderstanding, it's not the fault of the banks or agencies which are lending the money.

It's simply that there are different kinds of mortgages—and it's up to you to get the type best suited for your needs. You can't blame the lender any more than you can blame the builder because you paid extra for a seven-room house when you really needed one with only five rooms.

USE A LAWYER

When you're laying out thousands of dollars to buy a house, it is false economy not to use the services of a lawyer for a very small percentage of the total cost of the purchase. He not only will take care of all the details for you, but will protect your interests to see that you get what you want.

The important thing, however, is to know what you want so that your wishes can be carried out. If, for instance, you have some idea that you might be able to pay off your mortgage before its normal expiration time, be sure you get the kind of mortgage which permits extra payments of principal. Some mortgages do not.

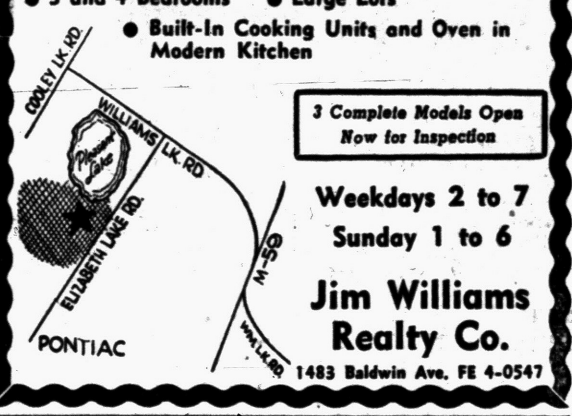

And how do you find out all this information about mortgages? Contact your bank, a savings and loan association, the Veteran Administration or the Federal Housing Administration BEFORE you select your house and become so intrigued with the idea of living in it that you'll sign anything just so you can move in.

Safety in the Tub!

Extensive tests have been conducted by the manufacturers of plumbing fixtures to determine the designs in bathtubs that will offer maximum protection against slippage. The result is the development of a bathtub with a flat bottom, lower height, and some type of a built-in seat either on the rim or at the end of the fixture. As an additional safety feature, the plumbing industry recommends the use of strong metal grab bars firmly attached to the studs over the bathtub.

Protect Screen Area

Unless you take some kind of adequate precautions, rain running under screen molding will rot the wood and rust the screening. The best preventive found is to apply a strip of calking compound to the edges of the screen before nailing down the molding. The calking fills the screen mesh and assures a good seal. Surplus calking compound is removed by using a small paint-brush and a solvent such as mineral spirits or turpentine.

Here Is the Answer

QUESTION: I have been reading up on varnishing, as I intend to do quite a bit of varnishing in the next few months. One of the articles refers to "tipping" after applying the first coat, but does not explain how it is done. Can you help me?

ANSWER: In a good varnishing job, the liquid generally is applied by brushing from the edges to the center across the grain. This is quickly followed by what is called "tipping." This consists of a sort of smoothing operation with a nearly dry brush. The brush just barely touches the varnish coat. And the "tipping" is done with the grain, not across the grain.

QUESTION: I have finished an extra room and now plan to make some redwood furniture for it. I have always used liquid hide glue and have found it satisfactory, but I have been advised that powdered casein glue is excellent for wood joints. What is your opinion?

ANSWER: Powdered casein glue is strong, fairly water resistant and fills poor joints well. However it has a tendency to stain acid wood . . . and redwood is an acid wood. You can use liquid hide glue unless there is high humidity in the room where the furniture will be placed, Powdered resin glue is another strong glue and is very water resistant. But if the chairs will be used outdoors at any time, it would be wise to use a completely waterproof glue.

QUESTION: There are several hairline cracks in the concrete floor of our patio. I have filled them twice with a concrete mixture, but the mixture seems to dry up and come out after a few months. What am I doing wrong?

ANSWER: It is probable that you are using too heavy a mixture. Do not use concrete, which is a mixture of sand, gravel portland cement and water. Instead use grout, which is merely portland cement and water. This penetrates the crevices much better than concrete. Another possible cause of the trouble is that you are not dousing the cracks with water before applying the patching material. Also wet down the patched areas a couple times a day for 3 or 4 days after the job is finished.

Sound Pedestal Holds Up House

The generally accepted function of the foundation and floor structure is to hold the house up.

However, they play just as vital a role in holding things "down."

This curious paradox is explained as follows:

The weight of the average house may not be sufficient to hold it firmly on the foundation in winds of extreme velocity.

Therefore the most careful attention should be given to the connection of the house and its base, which calls for integration of the foundation with the lumber structure immediately above.

The main responsibility of this lumber, composed of sills, joists and subflooring, is to support the weight of the house, and all its occupants and contents. In this sense, it holds everything "up," but when it is also firmly anchored to the foundation, it's just as important a factor in holding things "down."

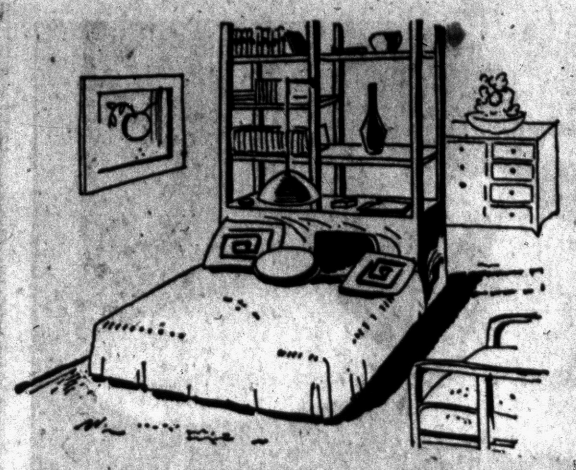

This is accomplished by bolting the sills, the lower extremities of the floor structure, to the foundation. At least two bolts should be driven through each sill and further penetration into the foundation should be 6 inches in the case of concrete and 15 to 24 inches for masonry.

The foundation, of course, should be of proper depth, and it's possible to tie the rest of the house close together with its base so that from top roof level, the entire building has solid roots.

The best method is to line the wall structure with a flat layer of lumber called sheathing and let it overlap the top of the floor structure and the base of the roof structure. The sheathing is nailed to each of three elements, and the wall, roof structure and floor structure are thereby linked with all anchored to the base.

Properly seasoned lumber should be used for the various structural elements. The seasoning process doubles the strength of wood, and therefore makes its own important contribution to the security of a close knit unit. By increasing the stiffness of lumber, seasoning provides the ideal balance of stiffness and resiliency essential to smooth even floors.

HEADBOARD DIVIDER — Sometimes the bedroom is called on to serve also as a den for adults of the family. Den portion can be set off from bedroom by handsome bookcase headboard divider like this. Divider is built of Douglas fir posts, floor to ceiling, and contains open shelving for books and bric-a-brac. Divider will look especially distinctive if fir is finished with clear lacquer.

Aeration Has Advantages

Faucets have kept pace with plumbing fixtures in new developments in recent years.

Faucets have been re-styled for greater beauty, ease of operation, and durability. The principle of easy replacement of wearing parts, which was introduced some years ago, has been still further refined.

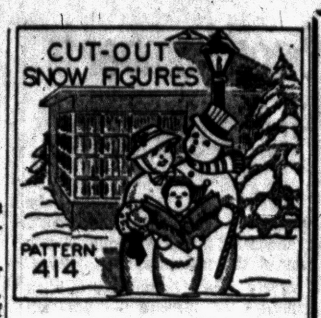

Stylists have taken the faucet handle and made out of it a handsome fitting that operates smoothly and efficiently with finger-tip touch.

One of the most interesting improvements made in faucets is the introduction of aeration. The water is mixed with air as it comes out of the faucet. The water contains millions of tiny air bubbles so that it is light and fluffy. As a result, the water has the feeling on the hands of having been softened.

Another advantage of aeration is that it ends the annoying splashing of water. Even when the stream flows at maximum velocity, there is no splashing.

The intensive mixing of air with the water has a tendency to dissipate any odor or taste which the water may have. The water is clear as it comes from the faucet.

Users of faucets equipped with an aerator have observed that they get a better lather from soap. The effectiveness of soap is increased by the quick bubbly lather.

Quaint and gay, this life-size snow family at your door step will bring cheer to the whole neighborhood. Pattern 411 gives actual-size cutting and painting guides for the three figures and the six-foot cut-out lamp post. Cut them out of hardboard and have a grand time splashing on the Christmas colors. The price of this five-sheet Pattern is $1.

Carefulness Counts

A successful paint job is impossible unless the foundation work has been properly done on the surfaces. Have on hand wood filler. Also be prepared to putty, spackling compound and caulking compounds. You will need these commodities for filling holes, glazing window sashes and for filling cracks.

Tests on Migrating Birds Indicate Guidance of Stars

WASHINGTON—Science is slowly dispelling a mystery that has baffled mankind since prehistoric times: Bird migration.

The seasonal flights of birds stimulated the interest of Homer, Aristotle and Biblical writers. No doubt migration interested men as long ago as 40,000 B.C., for as early as that men were painting and carving images of birds.

★ ★ ★

The 19th-century ornithologist John James Audubon may have been the first bird-bander. Curious to know whether phoebes that nested on his father's property in Pennsylvania returned to the same place year after year, he fastened tiny bracelets around the ankles of five nestlings. The next summer, three of the five were back at their old haunts.

FLIES OCEAN ALONE

Since Audubon's time, many scientists have studied migrations and reported amazing feats, the National Geographic Society says. A German investigator learned that captured starlings could find their way back to their nests from as far as 1,250 miles away. In another experiment, a shearwater taken from England to Boston reappeared at its nesting place in 12 days, having flown 3,000 miles across the Atlantic.

★ ★ ★

Racking their brains for an explanation, students of bird migration wondered if the creatures had a sixth sense. Speculation occasionally ranged into the realm of psychic phenomena.

In the early 1950's, experimenters began to turn up evidence that some birds use the sun as a compass. The birds they studied seemed to have a "time sense" to take account of the sun's movement across the sky.

But other birds fly at night.

Could it be they navigate by the stars? German scientists undertook an ingenious experiment to answer the question. Their subject was a warbler that migrates between Europe and the Nile Valley.

The scientists built a planetarium with a 20-foot dome. The artificial sky could be varied to duplicate the stars as they would appear at various points and seasons on the earth.

★ ★ ★

The birds were kept in a glass-topped cage beneath the dome. At migrating time they would face in the direction they should take to reach their traditional destinations. As the star patterns changed, the birds would alter their stances to stay on the proper course or return to the course. When the planetarium as an experiment put them at Lake Balkhash, thousands of miles away in the Soviet Union, one warbler unerringly pointed toward its usual starting place in Germany.

LOST DURING OVERCAST

Without the stars, the birds seemed to get lost. British investigators found with radar that during an overcast migrating birds fly around indecisively. When that happens, they tend to drift with the wind, and sometimes wander far off course until the stars are again visible.

★ ★ ★

The experiments appear to support the theory that at least some birds take their bearings from heavenly bodies. Still, the mystery of bird migration is far from solved. And little is known about the physiological mechanisms of migration that give a bird the equivalent of a chronometer, a sextant, navigational tables and a calculating machine of amazing accuracy.

Even considering the present high rate of new construction, more than 50 per cent of the nation's homes are over 30 years old.

Make Simple Rack to Store Screens

Protect screens by storage in an easy-to-make wood cabinet.

Use 1-inch lumber, except for the four 2 by 4-inch legs. Plan dimensions to fit the screens to be stored, allowing room to slide screens freely. Make panels of edge-glued boards or of tongue and groove lumber.

Add a vertical divider and a horizontal panel if screens of two sizes are to be stored. If heavy material is to be stored on top of the cabinet, add a vertical brace in the front.

Assemble the cabinet in the following order: Base panel to legs with 6-penny nails; divider strips to top and bottom panels with 3-penny finishing nails; panels to panels with 6-penny finishing nails. Use glue at all joints.

Clean and dry screens thoroughly before storing.

Electric water heaters do not develop hot spots. Heating elements are immersed in the water or wrapped around the tank, under the insulation.

House of the Week

Owner is leaving state and offering his charming 3 Bedroom Ranch Home with almost immediate possession. Bath and a half for convenience. Pink metal kitchen for durability and appearance. Plush carpeting and draperies will stay. There is an oversized 2½ car garage too. You'll be pleased at the price and the down payment. See any time.

Good Lumber Is First Requisite

While lumber amounts to only 10 per cent of the total house cost, it accounts for just about 90 per cent of the ultimate house value.

Nearly every home has a bone structure of lumber — between 2000 and 3000 pices in all. Since the material cost is such a negligible factor in the overall cost, the builder can afford a good quality of wood even on a modest budget. And when he also uses it properly, he gives the home owner a return many times the value of the small initial investment.

★ ★ ★

Good quality lumber plus good construction means the builder is taking full advantage of three distinct characteristics of wood — strength, insulation and beauty.

Since the principal use of lumber is structural, strength is of the utmost importance. Pound for pound, wood is stronger than steel, and proper seasoning greatly increases the natural wood strength. A good grade of lumber, properly seasoned, is, therefore, the first prerequisite.

Good design and construction are equally important. This calls for adequate bracing of major structural elements, and for the use of wood sheathing to tie together and reinforce the main components. Sheathing is a layer of lumber nailed flat to the joists of the floor, the studs of the walls and the rafters of the roof.

It also provides a convenient nailing base for the finish materials, such as wood siding, and effectively integrates the house "skin" with the structure. Such considerations are especially vital, when it is realized that homes may be subjected to 100 mile-an-hour winds.

Proper Sealing Will Insure Finish

An attractive, uniform finish on hardboard can be insured by sealing it properly with the right primer, which prevents the chance of uneven absorption of the decorative topcoat. Most latex paints are good sealers. So is shellac and most enamel undercoaters and varnish-based and alkyd-based primer-sealers.

★ ★ ★

After the primer has thoroughly dried, you can use any desired finish coat. If the hardboard is being used outdoors, it should be the tempered type. The sealing coat is regular house paint primer, followed by a coat of house paint.

★ ★ ★

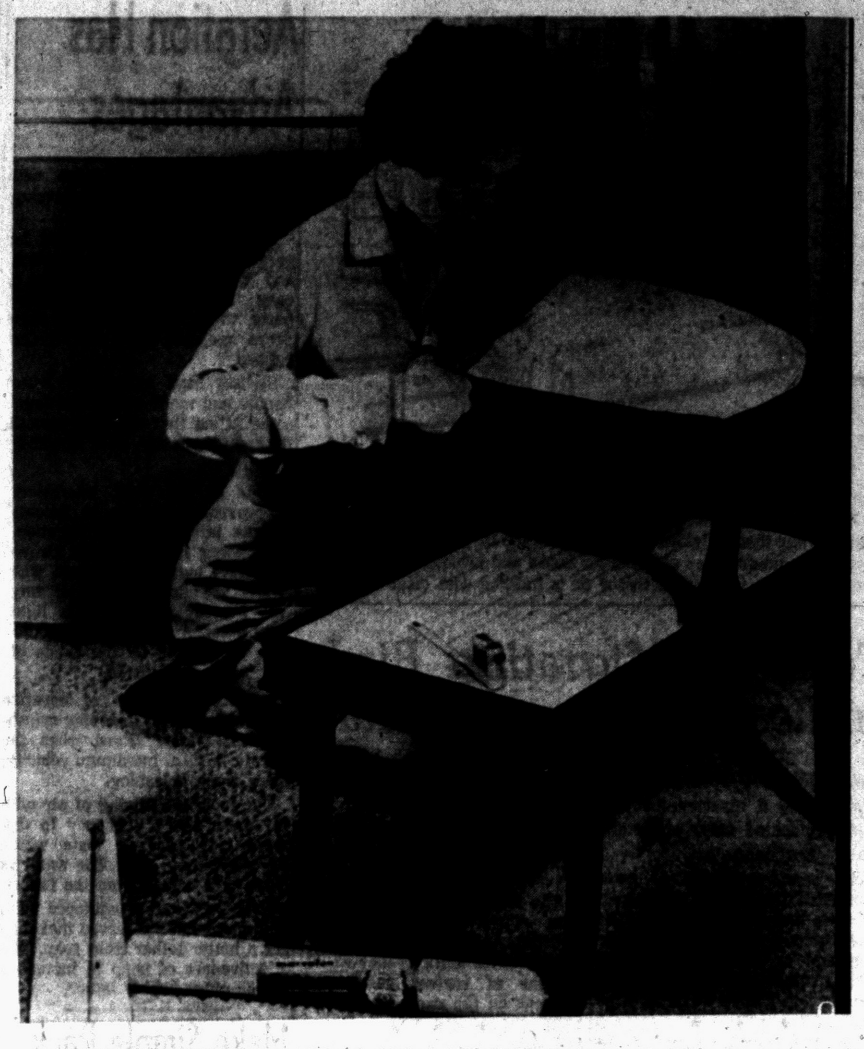

If you want a high gloss or good color retention, exterior trim paints are best, although other exterior paints also may be used. When both sides of the hardboard will be exposed to the elements, the backs and edges also should be sealed.

Exterior Gas Lighting Comes Back as Fad

Don't look now, but gas lighting is coming back! A Midwest utility offered gas lamps to home owners and builders in its territory for use on terraces, patios, lawns and other exterior lighting — and found itself besieged with orders.

The idea has caught on for decorative interior lighting, too, and is being considered by several cities for street lighting. Encouraged by the early returns, several manufacturers now are prepared to enter the gas-light field.

RESURFACE A TABLE — Give a high fashion accent to your home's worn, scratched table surfaces this fall. You can do it easily with one of the distinctive new metallic designs now obtainable in self-adhering materials which you apply simply by cutting to size and pressing into place. In the illustration above, an end table is being recovered with a covering called Patrician which features narrow silver and gold stripes with tiny gold stars. The metallic content won't chip or tarnish when the material is washed. This decorative fabric is available in background colors of white, pink, yellow and turquoise.

Wooden Windows Cut Heat Loss From House

ANN ARBOR—Wooden window sash, perhaps a little more expensive when compared to rival metals, nevertheless does a better job of keeping a house warm, a University of Michigan wood technologist says.

The argument between wood and metal sash is nothing new to builders and home improvers who have long recited advantages and disadvantages of both types—depending on which would be more profitable.

The facts are readily available for both arguments, too. But if you've ever wondered why wooden windows don't "sweat," Professor Preston has the answers—and these same answers tell why wooden windows are better for keeping a house comfy and cozy.

"The whole problem," says Preston, "lies in the thermal conductivity of materials." This simply means that some materials lose heat faster than others. In the case of wood, heat loss is approximately 1,400 times less than in metals such as aluminum.

"The result is that it takes much longer for the temperature to drop in wood sash than in metal sash. Therefore wooden frames retain heat better than metal ones," says Preston.

But to understand why metal window frames "sweat" you must consider other factors, says Preston.

"Hot air holds more moisture than cold air. Thus, a hot house in the winter holds a considerable volume of atmospheric moisture even though the relative humidity is low.

"If this air is cooled rapidly, the moisture in it condenses on the surface through which the heat is lost. Metal window frames conduct heat rapidly from the interior of the house and thus cool the air adjacent to them," he says.

In other words, because metal is a better conductor of heat than wood, it takes less time for the heat in the house to reach the cold winter's air. When the two meet, however, the moisture in the warm air condenses and turns to "sweat."

Preston says: "The same principle applies to metal siding on a house. During a hot day it expands, but at night it loses its heat and rapidly cools and contracts, thus causing a crackling noise.

"Wooden houses also creak a little at night because of this cooling process, but again, it takes much longer for heat to leave the wood than it does for metal to lose its heat," he concludes.

Hydroguard Keeps Water Just Right

The hot-again-cold-again shower, once a minor inconvenience, now becomes a safety menace, especially if the cold water fails entirely. The only way to guard against this danger is to install a thermostatic water mixer which will shut off the water if it exceeds 110 degrees F.

★ ★ ★

This type of control, known as the Hydroguard, operates on the same principle as a thermostat in your car radiator. If the water becomes too hot, the thermostat cuts down on the hot water. If too much cold water enters the control, the thermostat limits the cold water flow.

Once the knob on the Hydroguard has been turned by the bather to provide the water temperature desired, the water stays that way, regardless of fluctuations in the water supply temperature or pressure.

The Hydroguard will automatically stop the water if the temperature goes above 110 degrees F., preventing any danger of scalding.

While this unit is most easily installed in new or remodeled bathrooms, it can be added to present bathrooms with a minimum of pipe cutting. The Hydroguard is available through local plumbing suppliers.

Multiples of Four Save

If you are considering building an addition to your home, plan your floor area in even multiples of four, and make your ceiling eight feet high. That's the money-saving advice of building materials specialists at Allied Chemical's Division. They point out that panels of insulating sheathing and gypsum board, important materials used in wall construction, come in 4'x8' sizes and can be nailed to studs without fitting or sawing.

Housing for Oldsters Included in FHA

It is generally conceded that there is a need for housing with special safety and comfort features not usually included in ordinary housing. This is in the interest of elderly retired people, who should enjoy their leisure and advancing years in comfort and protection.

FHA is ready to help in such building projects. FHA-insured mortgages are available to qualified nonprofit groups for the construction of such housing. Your banker will tell you how to go about obtaining such a loan.

Swipe Photo Tissues to Mount Veneer Trim

Instead of using glue to mount wood veneer trim you can do the job faster and less messily if you use photographic dry-mounting tissue. The tissue contains a special shellac that sets when heated.

Attach it lightly to the reverse side of your veneer by touching it in spots with the tip of a hot iron (medium heat: "wool" setting). Now put the veneer in plac and run the iron over it firmly. Result: a strong, instant bond.

Keep Finish Light

Flat grain panel boards of either Douglas fir or west coast hemlock are very effective for interior walls because of their incomparable grain patterns. To bring out the best in these woods when used as panel boards, they should be finished in clear lacquers or with light stains to allow the full beauty of the texture to develop.

Put in Skylights

The insertion of translucent skylights in roofs of one-family homes is recommended by building specialists when additional light and air are needed and dormers are impractical. Such skylights, they point out, are less apt to disturb a home's basic architectural lines.

Counter Tops Space Makers

Is the lack of work space in your home throwing you for a loss? Now's the time for a counter offensive.

The wise homemaker knows that the answer to insufficient working space in the kitchen, bathroom and elsewhere is the installation or expansion of counter areas. Crowded or cluttered counters are real time wasters.

In installing your counters, be sure that the surfacing material is right for the job. Real ceramic tile is ideal for virtually all purposes. In addition, it comes in so many colors and designs that it will fit tastefully into any surroundings.

One of the musts for kitchen counter areas is a surface that can withstand high temperatures without fading or cracking. According to University of Illinois researchers, ceramic tile rates 'Excellent" for its ability to resist heat.

Unlike some surfacing materials, real tile resists virtually all stains and is not affected by sunlight. This latter property is an important consideration as many counter areas are located near windows.

Ceramic tile also rates at the top for ease of cleaning. A swipe with a damp cloth or sponge is all that is necessary to keep this surface fresh and gleaming.

More and more housewives are discovering the convenience of a countertop in the bathroom. With this additional space, the medicine cabinet can be restored to its intended function. Your counter can hold your immediately-needed supplies, plus a few added touches such as ash trays and a vase of flowers.

TERRACE ENTRANCE — A terrace entrance insures that this home makes a good first impression, bringing guests through a garden gate and across a flagstoned porch before they reach the main door. The mood of expensive elegance is continued inside, with a sunken family room and inviting rear terrace. The house has three bedrooms and 1½ baths.

Contemporary Colonial Has Terrace Entrance

By DAVID L. BOWEN

First impressions are often based on the least evidence, but they have a habit of outlasting everything that comes later.

Architect Herman H. York has put this quirk in human nature to work in planning this one-story "contemporary Colonial." It gets its best foot forward in a hurry with an inviting terrace entrance designed to create a lasting first impression of expensive elegance.

Not only does the covered terrace outside the main entrance set the proper mood for what is to follow inside, it gives the house a look of added size without appreciable added cost. The corrugated translucent plastic roof over the front terrace also contributes an air of distinction.

The plan has been designed X-33 in the House of the Week series of outstanding architect-designed homes. It has seven rooms and 1½ baths. There are three bedrooms.

Here's how it's arranged inside:

THE FAMILY AREA

The family room, with lovely bow window, is dropped one step below the level of the kitchen and the dining room. It is separated from the kitchen only by this change in level and an iron railing, a device which ties these two rooms together in a single large and warm family living area.

Mom is at a central control point in the kitchen, overseeing both the backyard and the family room. She also can watch the entire rearyard and terrace from a relaxing divan against the bow window.

The family room has a fireplace and there is a lavatory directly opposite the rear entrance. To cut down house-cleaning chores, a mud closet is handy at one side of the rear entrance vestibule.

FORMAL LIVING

The living and dining rooms form a central core, accessible from all major rooms. The living room has been laid out, however, so that traffic moves through only one end. This makes it possible to make the larger part of the living room out-of-bounds for the children and reserve it for formal entertaining.

The close arrangement of living and dining rooms and front terrace makes it easy to entertain without upsetting evening routine in the family areas. The dining room can be served from the front terrace outdoor barbecue—obtained at modest cost because it is built into the main fireplace chimney—as easily as from the kitchen.

Three bedrooms and a bath are arranged around a center hall. The bathroom has a second door opening on the master bedroom and is placed for convenient access from the living areas. The bath is 10 feet long with a vanity 54 inches long. The two smaller bedrooms are the maximum distance away from the formal entertainment areas.

KITCHEN DETAIL

Kitchen appliances are arranged in an "L" with built-in oven and burner top near the sink. Table space overlooks the family room. The basement stair is next to the kitchen for easy access to utilities in the basement.

In addition to the full basement, storage is provided at the rear of the long garage and in an 11 sq. ft. linen and storage closet off the bedroom hall. Cleaning equipment can be stored in the mud closet.

Outside walls are of brick and wood shingles. Architect York suggests a sawed shingle with a striated surface. Hand split shingles may be substituted, but if used should be of a light-weight type.

A light color is recommended for the asphalt shingle roof to blend with the corrugated plastic section over the entrance terrace. A notable exterior feature is the plant box carried beyond the end of the house. This gives an appearance of additional length.

Plan X-33 has an over-all length of 53' and is 35'5" deep. Minimum lot recommended (also dependent upon local zoning ordinances) is 70' by 100'. The habitable area is 1,212 sq. ft. The garage covers 220 sq. ft.

FOR ENTERTAINING — The floor plan for House of the Week X-33 shows the "L" shaped arrangement of formal entertainment areas (living room, dining room and entrance terrace) and the unity of the family living area (kitchen, family room and rear terrace). Bedrooms are concentrated at one end of the house, with the two smaller ones the maximum distance from the formal entertainment area.

Here Are Tips on Using Screwdrivers

Do have several screwdrivers of different sizes in your home workshop, since it is impossible to do all jobs efficiently with a single screwdriver.

★ ★ ★

Do remember that if the blade tip is wider than the slot in the screw, the work surface will be marred when the screw is driven flush.

Do remember, too, that if the blade tip is narrower than the slot in the screw, you may damage the screw, the screwdriver and or your hand.

★ ★ ★

Do make a pilot hole for the screw, using an awl or similar pointed tool in softwood and a drill in hardwood.

Do start the screw properly by holding it lightly with the left hand while making a few slow turns; when the screw engages the wood, move the left hand up the blade a couple of inches and continue turning the screwdriver with the right hand.

Tiled Wall Nook Is Space and Record Saver

If you have trouble keeping those precious phonograph records together in one safe place, give a thought to a built-in record nook along your living room or rec room wall. Stored flat against the wall, the records take up surprisingly little space.

You might want to make separate compartments for classical, popular and other types of records. For beauty and security, cover the surfaces with gleaming ceramic tile. It affords protection from heat and moisture and is simple to keep clean.

Floor Patterns Vary in Style

While the strip style of hardwood remains the choice of most home owners, handsome pattern and plank floors are favored by many. The strip type, which comes in widths from 1½ to 3½ inches, is famous for its decorative versatility. It harmonizes with any style of room setting. Economical initial cost also is a feature of strip floors.

Pattern floors may be composed either of unit-blocks or of conventional parquetry. Unit-blocks are produced in squares and rectangles of various sizes. A frequent choice is the 9-inch square, formed with four pieces of 2¼-inch width flooring.

Among the eye-catching patterns possible with these units is the checkerboard design. In this, the blocks are installed so that the strips in one unit runs at right angles to those in immediately surrounding units.

An almost infinite variety of achieved with conventional parquetry. The most luxurious of all residential flooring, parquetry consists of relatively short lengths of flooring, each laid individually to form a design.

Plank floors are made up of comparatively wide boards, usually of mixed widths. The planks are available in sizes from 3 to 9 inches wide. Especially appropriate for informal settings, modern plank floors capture much of the charm which characterized the quaint plank floors of Colonial days. Many installations, for example, feature decorative wood pegs to stimulate the dowels by which early planks were fastened.

Special Head, Shank Mark Carriage Bolt

A carriage bolt has an oval head, with a square part of the shank to keep th bolt from turning while the nut is being screwed into place.

A machine bolt has a square head and no square portion of the shank. While the nut is held with a wrench, the head is tightened with another wrench. The carriage bolt is usually used where it is desired to provide a little neater appearance than the machine bolt.

Guest Room Doubles as Family Refuge

Pampering your guests is perfectly okay, but pampering your guest room is carrying things too far. Yet that's what many homemakers do. The guest room becomes a sort of sanctum sanctorum, to be put to use only when special company comes to stay.

★ ★ ★

The guest room is an ideal spot for family leisure, particularly when space is at a premium. Your TV set, hi-fi, books and games all might find a place here. Provide the room with a sofa-type bed, and the room will be ready for service when the guests arrive.

If you are planning on any remodeling, it would be smart to consider ceramic tile for the floor and at least the lower part of the walls. Real tile is easily cleaned and will provide an added touch of elegance.

A private bathroom for your guests is a must these days. A writing desk fully equipped for writing or typing is always a nice touch for your house visitors, and it will be convenient for the family, too.

If you want to do things up in style, you might install a small office-type refrigerator for the makings of a nightcap, both liquid and solid. This is the sort of pampering that will make you a welcome return guest in anyone's home.

Double Purpose Granules

The layer of mineral granules that coats an asphalt shingle has two purposes, according to roofing specialists. The granules protect the shingle against the harmful effects of rain and sun and also make possible the large variety of colors and blends in which asphalt shingles are available today.

A plastic soda straw placed over the end of an oil can spout will make it easier to lubricate hard-to reach places.

Reuther Urges News Balance

Says Negative Stressed Too Much in Editorial, Labor Stories

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — "I know trouble makes news," Walter Reuther told a journalistic fraternity here last night, "but if 99.99 of the stories deal with the negative aspects, the right kind of job is not being done."

The United Auto Workers president urged a "better balance" in the handling of labor news and in newspaper editorials.

Of editorials, he said:

"They should not be a medium by which you wage class warfare. When newspapers go out of their way to reflect their bias, they are hurting America."

★ ★ ★

Addressing the Northwest Ohio chapter of Sigma Delt Chi, Reuther said he felt that newspapers generally failed to recognize that a "common denominator of understanding" was reached in the UAW settlements in the auto industry this year.

The bargaining, in a year when the economy was in recession, was a real test of good labor-management relations, Reuther said.

"First Ford and then General Motors said the agreements were not inflationary," he added.

Black Hills Gold Mined Since '76

Lone U. S. Producer Battles Price Squeeze by Seeking Uranium

LEAD, S.D. (UPI) — America's only surviving major gold mine is struggling to keep going after 82 years of operation in South Dakota's Black Hills.

Officias of the Homestake Mining Company said the firm was able to show a profit only because of improved mining and milling methods and expansion into the uranium field.

★ ★ ★

As President Donald H. McLaughlin of San Francisco explained, Homestake has been caught in a squeeze between a 24-year-old fixed price for gold and the inflationary spiral that has raised wages and the cost of "practically everything that goes into the mine."

Every day, an average of 4,600 tons of ore is lifted through the Yates and Ross shafts, high on a ridge overlooking the mile-high city of Lead. Some of the rock comes from deposits 5,600 feet below the surface — well below sea level.

During 1957, gold production at the Homestake Mine amounted to 554,912 ounces, worth more than 19 million dollars. Worldwide, only three mines — all in South Africa — are deeper and have a greater production. Because of Homestake, South Dakota has led the nation in gold production since 1949.

★ ★ ★

The 1,659,705 tons of ore milled last year had a gold value averaging $11.74 a ton. To produce one gold bar weighing 35 pounds and worth $18,000, the company had to treat 2,800,000 pounds of ore.

The price-cost bind, officials explained, stems from the fact that the Federal Gold Reserve Act of 1934 fixed the price of gold at $35 a fine ounce. The act also removed gold from circulation and required all producers to sell only to the government.

Homestake and organizations such as the American Mining Congress have urged that the 1934 legislation be modified to restore a free market for gold and require users to pay a "realistic price." They point out that foreign producers, selling on the world market, receive from two to five dollars more an ounce, despite lower production costs.

★ ★ ★

James C. Harder, general manager for Homestake's Black Hills operation, also pointed out that the use of gold is constantly increasing because of its value as an electric conductor in such modern-day devices as microwave relays. Considerable experimentation has also been done with gold as a liner for atomic reactors.

Fall Off Ladder Fatal to Farmington Man

Injured Thursday morning when he fell from a stepladder while working at the Bratton Tool and Die Co., 23811 Telegraph Rd., Southfield, Edward Ringwood, 34, of 21672 Purdue St., Farmington Township, died last night at the Old Grace Hospital, Detroit.

He had suffered severe head injuries, doctors said.

Death was ruled accidental following a coroner's inquest held this morning at the Wayne County Morgue.

Ringwood, who worked as machine repairman's helper, was cleaning ledges in the shop when he fell.

350 Pupils in City to Get Fluoride Applications

At least 350 children in grades two and five will have received fluoride applications by Thanksgiving, according to Josephine Seeley, coordinator of health services for Pontiac Public Schools.

The series of four dental applications will be completed in the two grades of Hawthorne, Wever, McConnell, Wilson, Webster and Owen elementary schools by next week, she added. Eventually, all schools will be canvassed.

Now in the eighth year, the program, with the approval of state and local dental societies and health departments, includes the Pontiac Board of Education, the administration, provided by and volunteer services of the Parent Teacher Assns. The schools have also prepared the children educationally for the treatment.

All Pontiac children in the two grades in public and parochial schools have had the opportunity to register for the preventive applications at $4 per child and $2 for a second eligible child in one family. The grades served are based on the average growth and development of the teeth.

★ ★ ★

Ruth Rogers, registered dental hygienist for the Health Education Department of Pontiac Public Schools, is conducting the program.

Since the first year's demonstration of the fluoride applications by the U.S. Public Health Service under the auspices of the Michigan Health Department, the Pontiac program has operated under a special local committee.

The Fluoride Treatment Committee and the group they represent includes: Dr. W. O. Roeser, Pontiac dentists; Miss Seeley, Dr. Philip Proud, Vernon Schiller and Gerald White, Pontiac Board of Education, and Mrs. Lorraine Black, county health department.

Mt. Rushmore Meaning Is Told

Fine Amphitheater Aid to Historian Explaining 'Shrine of Democracy'

KEYSTONE, S.D. (UPI) — The one million Americans who visit the Mt. Rushmore National Memorial this year are having "patriotism thrown at them" and "they love it."

Russell Apple, National Park Service historian at America's "Shrine of Democracy," explained that facilities are now available here "for the first time" so "we can tell the people what the shrine represents."

The new facility is a 1,000-seat amphitheater at the base of the towering granite mountain where the faces of Presidents Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt have been carved.

The amphitheater has just been finished as part of the "Mission 66" program of improving America's national parks and monuments. Before it was available, rangers had to explain the history and background of the shrine to visitors in small groups.

PATRIOTIC EXPERIENCE

"Now we can handle hundreds at a time and make an impressive program of it," said Superintendent Charles Humberger. "It makes for a tremendously moving patriotic experience."

Historian Apple said the purpose of the lectures is to show that the faces of the four men were carved on Mt. Rushmore "not just because of themselves but because of what they represent to American democracy."

He added that he was "constantly amazed" at how little many visitors know of American history.

"I've had tourists ask if the face of Jefferson, to the right of Washington, was not really that of Martha Washington, whispering in George's ear," Apple added with a smile.

The historian said that Sculptor Gutzon Borglum and others who created the Shrine of Democracy started with Washington because he represented the "birth of our democracy."

"Jefferson is here because he is the President who really gave democracy to the people," Apple related. "Lincoln saved our democracy. And Teddy Roosevelt is the man who ushered our democracy into the 20th Century."

Navy Still Set to Fire Vanguard

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — The navy went ahead today with plans to fire another Vanguard before the end of the year despite a policy declaration to the contrary by the nation's civilian space agency.

★ ★ ★

A static, or "hold-down" test was conducted yesterday on the first-stage engine of the eighth Vanguard. And a project official said "nothing official has come down here at all" on the announced postponement of further satellite launching attempts.

In a statement released in Washington last Tuesday, the National Aeronautics and Space Agency (NASA) said it was holding up further Vanguard launchings until after the end of 1958 while a study was being completed on "ways to increase the reliability of all satellite vehicles."

★ ★ ★

But the Vanguard official here, who asked that his name not be disclosed, said "we're just going along the same as ever" on the project.

Embezzling Charged to Royal Oak Cashier

Mrs. Luella M. Schultz, 46, of 1808 E. 11-Mile Rd., Royal Oak, stood mute yesterday when arraigned on charges of embezzling nearly $5,000 from an Associates Discount Corp. office in Detroit, where she worked as cashier.

She was released on bond of $2,500, pending examination.

Detroit Police said the woman admitted taking $4,947 from the firm. She told them she lost the money betting on horse races.

Tranquilizer for Deer

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI) — A new use for tranquilizers — to calm frightened deer is a success, according to Dr. James R. Hay, New York State director of agriculture. "The wild deer in captivity calmed down to the tameness of a domestic animal," he said.

GM HONORED — Curtis E. LeMay, Vice Chief of Staff of the U.S. Air Force, second from left, presents the Department of Defense Reserve award to General Motors for "outstanding cooperation to reservists and Reserve activities." It was the first such award made in the Detroit area. With the pennant symbolizing the award are (l-r) Frederic G. Donner, chairman of GM, LeMay, John F. Gordon, GM President, and Maj. Gen. Robert E. L. Eaton, Commander of the 10th Air Force at Selfridge Air Force Base.

Fifth Amendment Witness Would Go to Jail in Britain

LONDON (UPI) — Britain inspired America's Fifth Amendment —but there is no such thing as a Fifth Amendment Communist or racketeer in this country.

He would be slapped into jail for contempt of court on very short order.

Constitutional experts here point out that the Fifth Amendment, along with the other nine original amendments to the U.S. Constitution, known as the Bill of Rights was inspired by British Common Law.

★ ★ ★

Britain herself suffered for many centuries from the injustices of the Court of Star Chamber—a court responsible only to the king himself, in which the prisoner had few rights.

The notorious Star Chamber was abolished in 1641 and since then British law has provided sweeping safeguards against unjust treatment in the courts—such as guarantees against "double jeopardy."

Many of those principles and safeguards were embodied in the U.S. Bill of Rights which became effective in 1791.

In Britain there is no statute to compare with the Fifth Amendment. But the rules governing testimony in court were laid down in the Criminal Evidence Act of 1898.

JUDGE DECIDES

Under this act a witness, or his counsel can challenge a question put to him. It is then up to the judge to decide whether the question is permissible. If the judge rules the witness must answer, he has no choice but to do so. The only alternative is jail for contempt of court.

However, there are stiff restrictions on what may be asked.

In British law, a witness may not be forced to answer a question tending to incriminate him. Under cross-examination, however, he may be asked questions "tending to impeach his character and credit" if they are relevant to the case under trial.

Another rule bars the prosecution from bringing in evidence of previous convictions. A man on trial for murder, for instance, may not be asked whether he has been a defendant's bad character or previously convicted of other crimes of violence.

★ ★ ★

Questions about the income tax status of a defendant or witness almost certainly would be barred by the judge. Since membership in the Communist Party is no crime in Britain, there never has been an instance of a "Fifth Amendment Communist" in this country, so far as is known.

SUPPOENA POWER

As in the United States, any court of law has the power to subpoena a witness — "summon" is the term usually used in Britain. Anyone "summonded" as a witness in a hearing is obliged to attend. The judge himself has full powers to decide whether contempt has been committed and to hold a witness in contempt in jail for as long as he sees fit.

Other bodies with the same powers include select committees of the House of Commons and judicial tribunals named by the government with parliamentary approval. Refusal to testify probably would result in a summons before the House of Commons Committee on Parliamentary Privilege which could turn the offender over to a court of law for contempt of Parliament.

In recent years in which a witness has refused to testify before a

However, British parliamentary experts can not recollect any case parliamentary committee.

Chinese Reds See Plan Upset

98,000 Medicine Chests Meant for Peasant Aid Lie Empty, Unsold

HONG KONG (UPI) — Medicine chests — 98,000 of them and all empty — have given Shanghai pharmacies quite a headache.

The wooden cabinets were ordered by the Chinese Communist government early in 1956 as its contribution to the health of the peasants.

★ ★ ★

Each cabinet was to contain an assortment of medicines and first-aid supplies for every conceivable emergency.

The cabinets, according to an official report, were to sell for seven dollars apiece.

But in Red China, peasants cannot afford to spend that much money, even to guard against sunstroke and bee stings. So nobody bought.

The pharmacies quickly cut the price by two-thirds and offered the cabinets without any medical supplies in them. Vegetable vendors found them useful as coin boxes; actors purchased them for storing cosmetics; factory workers for tools; housewives for sewing implements.

★ ★ ★

But fewer than 20,000 of the chests were thus disposed of. And the pharmacies were stuck with the rest—at a potential loss of $88,000.

However, they can be thankful of one thing, Peiping originally wanted to sell one million of the medicine chests. The order was canceled before 10 Othousand were built.

A West Bloomfield Township youth, Robert A. Beckman, 19, of 7090 Commerce Rd., was treated for minor injuries at William Beaumont Hospital early today and released, after his car went out of control smashing into a utility pole on Orchard Lake Rd. just north of Northwestern Highway, in West Bloomfield Township, according to Oakland County Sheriff's deputies.

Prof Calls Teachers 'Gutless'

EAST LANSING (AP) — A Michigan State University economics professor today charged his fellow-teachers with being "gutless" and "afraid to speak up."

★ ★ ★

Prof. Walter Adams charged in an interview that professors, in their dedication, are not putting enough emphasis on salaries and thereby are inviting second raters into the teaching profession.

Adams praised Dr. John A. Hannah, MSU president, for saying that pay raises for the faculty should be given top priority next year.

Said Adams of his fellow-professors:

"They are afraid to offend the administration when the facts are the administration has never disciplined anyone on the faculty for voicing disagreement.

British Reds Protest Coming Nixon Visit

LONDON (AP) — The Communist Daily Worker today called a mass meeting and a march to the U.S. Embassy to protest against the visit of Vice President Richard Nixon to London.

The meeting, scheduled for next Tuesday, has been organized by the London district of Britain's Communist party. A five-column story in the Daily Worker indicated the theme of the meeting. It will be: "Go home Nixon."

The article said "Nixon personifies the drive to war. It is his policy which keeps the H-bombers flying constantly over Britain and uses our island as an advanced American missile base."

Nixon will be guarded by Scotland Yard operatives as well as U.S. Secret Service men during his four-day visit next week.

Waterford Girl, 16, Hurt in Crackup, Said 'Fair'

A sixteen-year-old Waterford Township girl injured in an auto mishap early this morning is reported in fair condition at Pontiac General Hospital.

Joyce Hopkin, 16, of 4381 Rohr Rd., suffered possible leg fractures when the car in which she was a passenger struck a parked auto.

The driver, Robert Mullaney, 36, of 648 Phillip St., Pontiac Township told police he was traveling west on Auburn Ave. near Shirley and did not see the auto in time to stop.

Reds Cease Fire on 11th 'Even' Day

TAIPEI (AP) — The Communists today withheld fire against the Quemoy Islands, off the coast of Fukien, for the 11th consecutive even-numbered day.

The silence followed action Friday in which the Nationalist Defense Ministry credited the Reds with firing 489 shells at the Quemoys and 17 at Kaoteng in the Matsu group 150 miles to the north.

Much attention was paid here to reports from Hong Kong that the Communist press in Peiping had admitted a lack of discipline among Red troops in Fukien.

Rear Adm. Leu Hoh-tu, chief spokesman of the Defense Ministry, said the reports were credible.

Backlog Expected to Swell Totals

Auto Industry Geared for Big Year

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Ap Automotive Writer

DETROIT (AP)—Auto makers who expect sharply increased 1959 car sales count on a large backlog of demand unfilled in 1958.

Part of the expected 1959 sales will be delayed replacement volume. Some will be represented in a larger number of first-time buyers. By all normal indicators a broader new car market is due.

One industry authority said: "You can't cut sales volume from approximately six million units to 4,785,000 in a single year without storing up a lot of unfilled demand."

The figures represent the 1957 total and the indicated 1958 volume. Imported cars are included in both instances. They numbered nearly 207,000 in 1957 and are indicated at close to 365,000 for 1958.

Trying to overcome a new car shortage that developed at the start of the new model year the industry generally is working overtime. It has scheduled production of 500,000 cars this month and 600,000 in December. That would bring the year's assemblies to approximately 4,237,000 cars.

Thus sales of U. S. made cars would exceed factory output. The industry had more than 652,000 cars on hand at the start of 1958. By production cutbacks it whittled this down despite lagging sales. It started November this year with an estimated 264,760 cars, partly 1959 models, in dealer hands.

While it is trying to rebuild inventories depleted by work stoppages in October, it undoubtedly will gear production closely to indicated demand after dealer stocks have been replenished. It is not likely dealer inventories will approach the 1958 high of 865,500 units counted on March 1.

It is an interesting fact that wherever future car sales are considered the unknown factor is the penetration of imported vehicles. In 1947 only 894 foreign-made cars were sold in this country. In 1955 when the U. S. car industry sold 7¼ million new cars only 58,500 were imported units.

The 1959 total of imported vehicles is virtually certain to reach 400,000 units. It could go to 500,000. The majority of these, of course, would be high-mileage, low-priced cars, delivering for under $2,000.

Nobody close to the automotive situation expects a drop in demand for foreign-made cars next year. And there is little doubt among industry analysts that a line of smaller cars will come from General Motors, Ford and Chrysler assembly lines in this country.

But there is a question as to how much of the market GM, Ford and Chrysler may take from the foreign car makers. As far as is presently by the American Big Three will not be small cars in the strictest sense of the term.

Some industry experts say the cars to come will be built on 108-inch wheelbase chassis. These experts question, too, whether their cost will be low enough to compete in price with the majority of imported makes.

The Volkswagen and the Renault, right now making the biggest appeal to American buyers of foreign cars, have wheelbase measurements of 94.5 and 82.6 to 89 inches, respectively.

The Volkswagen has an overall length of 160 inches; the smaller Renault 4CV 143 inches.

By way of comparison the 1959 Fords are built on 118-inch wheelbase and the new Chevrolets on 119-inch wheelbase.

Newspaper Ads Top Last Year's Figure

NEW YORK (AP)—Newspaper advertising in October topped the figure for October 1957, by a narrow squeak, according to Media Records Inc. It was the first month this year with a gain over 1957.

Total linage in 52 major cities was ahead of the year ago month by one-tenth of one per cent. For the first ten months of the year, linage was off 5.9 per cent from the like period of 1957.

Automotive advertising, which has been down sharply much of the year, advanced in October to a level 5.6 per cent ahead of last year. Retail, general, and total display also topped October 1957.

Department store, financial and classified linage trailed the year ago month.

Almost Record Hike in State Population

DETROIT (AP)—Michigan's population has increased at a near-record rate since 1950. Only California, among the larger states, showed a greater percentage of gain.

This was reported today by the U. S. Census Bureau, which said Michigan now has an estimated population of 7,866,000 compared with 6,371,766 recorded in the 1940 census.

The 1,494,000 increase represents a percentage gain of 23.4.

Nationally, the bureau reported, the population has grown from 150,697,361 in 1950 to 173,260,000, up 15 per cent.

Californias' population gain was reported as 3,751,000, up 35.4 per cent. Nearest to Michigan in gain in the east North Central group of states was Ohio, with an increase of 1,398,000, a percentage gain of 17.

Planes Can Fly at Willow Run in All Weather

YPSILANTI (UPI)—Willow Run Airport is now equipped to handle air traffic when the ceiling is zero.

Airport officials demonstrated a new lighting system which makes the airport operative in all kinds of weather.

The $115,000 system includes 24 banks of lights leading to the runway. Each bank is 14 feet wide and has five standard 300-watt bulbs.

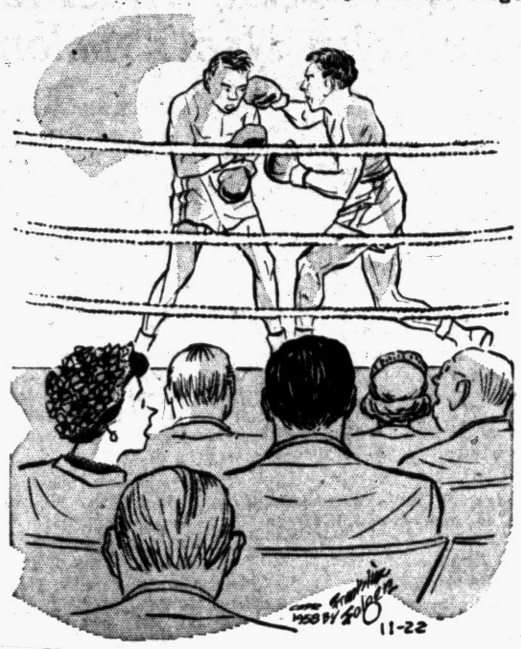

Each bank also contains a "strato-beacon." The stratobeacons are similar to strobe units used by photographers. They flash in sequence and point the way to the runway.

★ ★ ★

Each flash lasts only 1/5,000th of a second and has no adverse effect on the eyesight of a pilot.

One pilot said the stratobeacons were visible from 100 miles away at a height of 18,000 feet.

Own Shovel Saves Man Buried Alive

LEESBURG, Fla. (AP) — John Skinner was alive today because a falling shovel landed on a conveyor belt and carried an alarm to fellow workmen.

★ ★ ★

Skinner was buried for more than two hours Friday in a sand pit after he went into the 60-foot pit to see why sand wasn't feeding onto the conveyor belt. He tried to dislodge the obstruction with a shovel, but dropped the implement and it landed on the belt.

When the shovel reached the top, workmen realized something was amiss and began a search for the 40-year-old foreman.

They found a hand protruding from the sand and finally the top of Skinner's head. They scratched away the sand so Skinner could breathe until help arrived.

He said he didn't have time to think, "but I sure prayed a lot."

Skinner suffered a broken leg, cuts and bruises.

Escapes to Get Bail

MACCLENNY, Fla. (AP) — Sheriff Ed Yarborough discovered Friday that one of his prisoners was missing from County Jail. But he left a note saying:

"I am sorry I had to leave. I promise you faithfully I will return in about three weeks. I have gone to get some money so I can bail out."

★ ★ ★

The prisoner, Robert H. Lansdown, 32, Jacksonville, was arrested in August with burglary tools in his possession.

Lansdown sawed through two bars and let himself out a window to the ground by a blanket. The sheriff said the prisoner must have dropped a string from the window and somone tied a saw blade to it.

Crowd's Babble Shatters Widow's Last Moments

Tyrone Power Laid to Final Rest

By JAMES BACON
AP Motion Picture Writer

HOLLYWOOD — A young widow, only six months ago the happy bride of one of the movies' most handsome heros, sat by herself in front of the open coffin, her hand atop that of her husband, Tyrone Power.

There were 125 other mourners in the tiny Chapel of the Psalms Friday. Among them Gregory Peck, James Stewart, Loretta Young, Yul Brynner and Henry Fonda.

But Deborah Ann Power had her back toward them. It was her last hour with the husband she loved. Semimilitary rites, conducted by a Presbyterian Navy Chaplain, ended in 34 minutes.

The other mourners marched out.

★ ★ ★

But for nearly 20 minutes, the 26-year-old widow was alone with her husband. A Hollywood cemetary attendant came in to close the coffin.

As he did so, Mrs. Power gave Ty a farewell kiss. Then she walked out sadly but composed to a waiting limousine.

She still was composed as she walked from the limousine to her husband's grave. There, the chaplain delivered the brief committal service for the actor whose heart attack death a week ago in Madrid stunned movie fans everywhere.

2,000 PRESENT

A crowd of 2,000 fans and curious, swarmed over other graves from the chapel to the burial site.

The crowd, in its hurry, gave a circus — or Hollywood Premiere — touch that marred the dignity of the funeral.

Earlier, the widow herself inadvertently helped create the circus atmosphere when she barred microphones that would have carried the rites to those gathered outside the chapel.

A friend explained that Mrs. Power feared the microphones would have given an undignified tone to the services.

HAS OPPOSITE EFFECT

The widow, however, is new to Hollywood funerals—and the decision worked just the opposite.

As Cesar Romero, an old-time friend, eulogized Power, the babble of the crowd disturbed the mourners inside. Once Romero raised his voice in order that his words could be heard above the shouts, laughter and other noises outside.

The crowd quieted, however, when cemetery guards told the onlookers that their noise was heard inside.

Then Romero's eulogy ended thus:

"He was a beautiful man. He was beautiful outside and beautiful inside."

★ ★ ★

Linda Christian, Power's second wife, and their two children did not attend the rites by express request of the widow.

Instead, Miss Christian and the two young girls attended a regularly scheduled Mass at a nearby Catholic church.

Then some three hours after Power's funeral had ended, Linda and Romina, 8, and Taryn, 6, visited the actor's grave and placed thereon a huge cross of carnations and gardenias. Linda knelt silently in prayer.

First Won Fame at 'Monkey Trial'

The Little Man, Underdog Drew John Neal's Talent

By LEON DANIEL

SPRING CITY, Tenn. (UPI) — A tired-looking, untidy little man with a thatch of snow-white hair sits on the porch of his rickety house in a cluttered lot.

He is John R. Neal, the once-famous constitutional lawyer who instigated Tennessee's widely publicized "monkey trial" 33 years ago.

★ ★ ★

His hand shakes occasionally as he draws from a cigaret but his voice is as rich and firm as in the days when he stumped the state as a perennial — but always unsuccessful — candidate for Governor or U.S. Senator.

Today, to the children who play in front of his house in this East Tennessee mountain town, John Randolph Neal is just a kindly old man.

To some of his neighbors he is a senile eccentric with an astonishing disregard for the niceties of personal care.

But to others — and there are many — Dr. Neal is remembered as the guardian of the dignity of the common man, a champion of the underdog.

AGE SECRET

The son of a Confederate Army colonel who served in the U.S. House of Representatives, Neal was born at Rhea Springs near here. Neal won't say when he was born and his age remains a secret.

"I don't tell my age because I have never married and I don't want to hurt my chances," he said, his eyes twinkling under bushy brows. But it's safe to say he is in his 70s.

★ ★ ★

Neal received his bachelor's degree from the University of Tennessee, went on to Columbia in New York where he received a doctorate in law.

He became nationally known in 1925 after persuading John T. Scopes, school teacher in Dayton, Tenn., to be prosecuted in a test of the state law that banned the teaching of evolution.

Neal's efforts in behalf of the common man gained him the title of "The Great Objector." In 1923 he defended a psychology professor at the University of Tennessee who was called on the carpet for teaching from an "objectionable" textbook. Neal lost that case as he was destined to lose many of the battles that lay before him.

CALLED ATHEIST

Once Neal went to Gastonia, N.C. literally at the risk of his life, to defend several mill workers charged with murder who were unable to obtain counsel.

Neal's efforts in behalf of unpopular causes brought charges that he himself was a "radical," a "Communist" and an "atheist."

★ ★ ★

He never bothered to defend himself against these charges. He was always too busy defending others. Remembering the charges, Neal chuckled and said, "actually, I'm a pretty good Methodist."

LIP SERVICE — Though she may not know it, milady has helped solve a problem for future spacemen—eating in space. Inspired by an ordinary lip-stick, right, Swift and Co. research scientists have come up with a dispenser containing solid food, left. One shown contains sausage. Clamped on the face piece of a pressure helmet, the spacemen would turn the bottom of the holder to bring the food to his mouth.

Get U. S. Sewer Grant

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal grant of $130,500 is being allocated toward a $700,000 sewage treatment plant at Munising, Mich. The Public Health Service announced the grant yesterday. The plant is for water pollution control.

Santa Claus Invasion

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Christmas spirit hits the sidewalks of New York today.

Fifty Santa Clauses will take up their posts, with their collection pots, to start the annual Christmas appeal of the Volunteers of America.

Card of Thanks 1

WE WISH TO EXPRESS OUR sincere appreciation and thanks to Father Schroeder and St. Joseph Mercy Hospital who aided our dear mother; to the State Police and Fostoria Fire Dept., Father Weber and Pryce-Smith Funeral Home for the kindness and help; our many relatives and friends for their sympathy, floral and spiritual offerings during the loss of our beloved mother, Sophia Omelian

The Arthur Nurenberg Family, The Albert Francisco Family and Nick Hartingh.

Card of Thanks 1

WE WISH TO EXPRESS OUR heartfelt thanks and gratitude to all the many friends, neighbors and employers in our bereavement for our son, Tom. There are no words to express how we feel about their generosity.

We also wish to thank the Funeral Directors for their help and courtesy.

Our sincere appreciation is extended to our family doctor for the endless help and understanding he gave Tom and ourselves. From the bottom of our hearts we thank each and every one.—Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hatfield.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF JOHN Daniel, who passed away November 23, 1953.
His smiling way and pleasant face
Are a pleasure to recall;
He had a kindly word for each,
And died beloved by all.
Some day we hope to meet him,
Some day, we know not when,
To clasp his hand in the better land.
Never to part again.
Sadly missed by wife, son, mother and sister.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF BURton J. Haines, Who passed away November 23rd, 1957; Sadly missed by wife Gertrude Haines.

'Dr. Zhivago Case' to Be Explored on TV

NEW YORK — "The Case of Dr. Zhivago," a special report on Boris Pasternak, this year's Nobel Prize winner in literature, will be presented on the CBS television network tomorrow from 5 to 5:30 p.m. The special program will tell the story of the controversial author whose prize-winning novel, "Dr. Zhivago," is banned in the author's own home nation, the Soviet Union.

The position of the author in Communist society will be discussed and reported by Harrison E. Salisbury, former Moscow correspondent of The New York Times and George Reavey, former deputy press attache of the British Embassy in Moscow, long-time friend of Mr. Pasternak and translator of many Pasternak poetic works into English.

Jerry Cooke, who recently photographed the Russian author for Life magazine; and Marvin Kalb, CBS News staff writer whose new book, "Eastern Exposure," is based on his experiences while attached to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow, will present their conclusions drawn from the "Zhivago Case" as well.

CBS News Washington Correspondent Howard K. Smith will act as narrator for the program. The special report is being produced by James Fleming of the Public Affairs Department of CBS.

★ ★ ★

"The Case of Dr. Zhivago" will be presented just two-and-a-half weeks before the Nobel Prize ceremonies which take place on Dec. 10. Mr. Pasternak, who had originally accepted the Nobel award in the face of Soviet hostility, has since indicated that he cannot participate in the laureateship.

Although he has long been regarded as the outstanding living Russian poet, the spotlight of world opinion has been focused upon him only since the publication of "Dr. Zhivago."

★ ★ ★

The novel, although the subject of considerable uproar in Russia since the Nobel Prize announcement, has not been publishd there to date. It is currently a best-selle in the United States and other Western nations.

Pantheon Books, publishers of "Dr. Zhivago," has granted permission to CBS to quote pertinent excerpts from the novel for this broadcast.

The program will deal not only with Pasternak's position in the Soviet literary world but also will present to the television audience an intimate personal portrait of the author and an appraisal of his philosophy and his work by specialists who know him well.

"The Case of Dr. Zhivago" will include an informed report on the activities of the Russian writer's organization which controls the literary output of all authors in the Soviet Union.

Wife of Dodge Accuses Police

Dragged Across Floor by Hair, Stepped on, Gregg Testifies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Gregg Sherwood Dodge, wife of auto heir Horace E. Dodge, testified yesterday that police dragged her across the floor by her hair after her arrest on a drunk charge.

She said she was thrown to the floor by ju-jitsu, stepped on and handcuffed by officers. Four of the policemen have charged her with battery against them.

The blonde actress said the incident occurred after she was booked for drunkenness at Lincoln Heights jail.

"Somebody put some kind of ju-jitsu on me that brought me to my knees," she testified at her municipal court trial. "They grabbed my other arm, somebody grabbed my head and pulled it back—I couldn't swallow, and I opened my mouth.

"I guess they thought I was going to bite. Then they put handcuffs on me. Then they started pulling me across the floor by my hair. Somebody stood on me with both feet.

"I tried to kick. I tried to defend myself. Someone sat on my legs and removed my shoes . . . I was in a state of terror."

She said she was stood up against a wall while her stocking were unfastened and removed from her garter belt by a policewoman, in the presence of a male officer. She said she was "humiliated" by the experience.

★ ★ ★

Earlier her husband testified that he had asked his wife to attend a party with an old friend of his, Irv Kupcinet, Chicago columnist. Dodge said he was too ill to attend.

Police arrested Mrs. Dodge and Kupcinet later in the evening. Kupcinet awaits trial on drunk driving charges.

2 Pontiac High Girls Hurt in 2-Car Crash

Two Pontiac High School girls were injured in a two-car accident last night on John R at Avon road, Avon Township.

Pat Arnold, 15, of 6 N. Tasmania St., and Gloria Sebastian, 15, of 7 S. Tasmania St., both suffered bumps and bruises on their heads and were taken to Avon Center Hospital.

Pat was a passenger in a car driven by Jerry C. McFarland, 20, of 245 S. Edith St. Gloria was riding in a car driven by James E. McCarthy, 18, of 50 N. Midland St., Pontiac.

Romeo State Police said McFarland was attempting to make a left turn at the intersection but missed the road. McCarthy, who was trying to pass him, collided with McFarland's auto, police said.

Military, Civilian Space Authorities to Vie on Video

NEW YORK — Wernher von Braun, chief Army missile scientist and father of the Redstone, Jupiter and Explorer rocket vehicles, makes one of his rare television appearances on ABC-TV's "Open Hearing" Sunday, 3-3:30 p.m.

With Dr. von Braun on the program will be Hugh Dryden, deputy administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, new civilian agency which is trying to take over Dr. von Braun's Redstone Arsenal team from the Army. Representing a third branch interested in space development will be Lieut. Gen. Samuel E. Anderson, USAF, chief of the Air Research and Development Command.

The growing controversy over whether military or civilian agencies should control Dr. von Braun and his highly successful team should be a central issue on the "Open Hearing."

Another immediate topic is likely to be the Army's forthcoming moon-shoot, expected early next month. Dr. von Braun has estimated that the Army rocket, based on the Jupiter C, has a one-in-two chance of reaching the moon's vicinity.

★ ★ ★

More distantly, the "Open Hearing" will range over the entire future of man in space, as it appears from this threshold year of 1958.

Congregational Church to Hear Guest Speaker

ROCHESTER — Dr. Ray Morton Hardy will be the guest speaker at the First Congregational Church Sunday at both hours of worship, 9:30 and 11:00 a.m.

Dr. Hardy, who is both a minister and lecturer, has served as pastor in the Pilgrim Congregational Church at Lansing, the First Congregational Churches at South Haven and at Dundee.

Dr. Hardy is widely known for his interest in civic organizations and is the author of two books. He has contributed widely to religious and philsophical periodicals. His latest book is "High Adventures."

Polio Cases Total 1,184

LANSING (AP) — Infantile paralysis cases in Michigan so far this year now total 1,184, the State Health Department reported today. This compared with 487 cases during the same period last year.

Mapping Alaskan Seas Gigantic, Unending Job

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has been trying for 91 years to figure out exactly what it bought when it purchased Alaska. Even with Alaska becoming a state, it still doesn't know for sure.

The work of charting and mapping the 34,000 miles of Alaska coastline and adjacent waters has been carried on largely by the U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey, a branch of the Commerce Department.

The department reported today that five survey ships recently returned from a six-month expedition which covered 15,000 square miles of Alaskan waters.

But it said more than a half-million square miles of water remain unsurveyed or inadequately surveyed by coast and geodetic standards.

The first survey was undertaken in 1867 while negotiations for the Alaska purchase still were under way. The work has been continuous since 1882.

Heavy fogs, hidden rocks and other obstacles hampered the early surveyors. But the development of new equipment since World War II has enabled recent surveyors to penetrate the fogs and explore treacherous waters with relative safety.

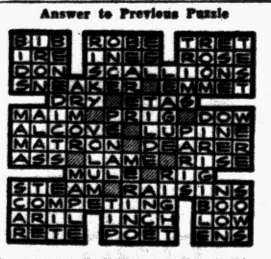

They have found that some of the islands off the Alaska coast were two to six miles from the positions indicated in the early charts. Such islands as St. Mahews, St. Lawrence and the Pribilofs have been located in relation to the mainland for the first time.

"Probably no other place on earth has a greater need for modern maps and charts," the Commerce Department said. "Alaska, covering 586,400 square miles, has little more than 4,000 miles of highways and one railroad. Its commerce depends almost entirely upon water and air transportation."

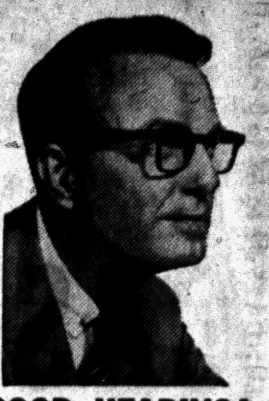

The survey has produced more than 200 nautical and aeronautical charts, plus volumes of information on tides, currents, magnetism, gravity and earthquakes.

The department said the program will be continued until the entire area has been accurately mapped.
