Space Launch Must Rank as America's Finest Ever

By HOWARD H. FITZGERALD II
Publisher, The Pontiac Press

CAPE KENNEDY — At 11:04 a.m. yesterday we took another step toward conquering outer space. Apollo 7 was launched and launched beautifully.

Situated high above a Saturn 1B rocket were Walter M. Schirra, Commander, Donn F. Eisele, Command Module pilot and Walter Cunningham, Lunar Module pilot. Of the team, Schirra is the only space veteran. He piloted through six orbits of Sigma 7 of the Mercury series and was in command of the Gemini VI mission.

For both Eisele and Cunningham, this was their first mission in outer space and an auspicious start it was. Weather, always a factor in any launch, had ranged from excellent to poor during the few days preceding the scheduled flight.

However, yesterday morning, the sun was out and very few clouds were to be seen. The only deep, real concern and one which could have "held" the mission was the offshore breeze which at various times reached a speed of 25 knots.

Ultimately, it was decided that this was not going to be a problem and everything was termed "go!"

This was, without a doubt, the most perfect of any of the shots to date. At T minus six minutes a "hold" was declared for a period of four minutes, but from that time until the orange-yellow spewed flame came from the huge 1.6-million-pound-thrust rocket, everything went just like clockwork.

Their's is an "open end" mission. With an orbit of some 142 by 176 miles all spacecraft systems check-outs will take place by the end of the second revolution. Within the first three days, 90 per cent of all experiments, instrument check-out, and testing will have been accomplished.

Therefore, after the three days if some malfunction occurs that cannot be cleared by the team, jeopardizing the remainder of the flight, it will still be deemed a success.

ATLANTIC LANDING PLANNED

The center is tentatively planning a 10-day 19-hour 40-minute flight. At the end of this span, the crew will go on manual control of the spacecraft for its reentry. After separating from the serv-

Apollo TV Plans Postponed

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP) — Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr. turned camera shy today and postponed plans to transmit television from inside the Apollo 7 spacecraft.

Schirra, 45-year-old space veteran who commands the spacecraft, said because of minor problems which had bothered the crew through the night, he would not permit the planned television transmission.

"We haven't eaten yet, I've got a cold, I refuse to foul up my time line at this point," Schirra said.

Schirra, who had opposed including television aboard the spacecraft, said the TV would be postponed at least until after a rendezvous maneuver planned for this afternoon.

The mission control center said later there would not be any television today and probably not tomorrow.

Schirra and his two rookie crewmen, Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele and Related Story, Page A-8.

★ ★ ★

These included the need for a previously unplanned burn of the reaction-control system to test the accuracy of the spacecraft's inertial platform, a sort of directional speedometer.

The problems were not considered serious enough to end the planned 11-day mission or to cancel the rendezvous exercise planned later in the day. The astronauts also were to make their debut on space television.

★ ★ ★

Eisele told mission control during the early morning hours that an electrical circuit failed. He said he turned off the warning light and the system continued to operate.

SHORT BURN ORDERED

The Air Force major also reported he could not align the inertial instrument which measures the direction and degree of velocity change. Mission control ordered a short burn of reaction control thrusters to determine if measurements from the device were being properly fed into an on-board computer.

Later, mission control said the burn proved the inertial instrument worked well.

Eisele also had a continuing problem with a harness of biomedical instruments which measure his heartbeat, respiration and other data. Mission controllers reported that the biomedical signals from Eisele had been cutting out.

★ ★ ★

Before he went to sleep, Schirra reported a space-bound case of the sniffles.

"I advised him to take a decongestant," Dr. John Ziegleschmid told a press briefing. "All it does is shrink the membranes and stop a runny nose."

Only Formality Remains Before Congress Adjourns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only formality remains before the 90th Congress closes the books on a record bearing several victories for President Johnson and some of his bitterest defeats.

The House failed to complete the final adjournment last night because a quorum of its members had disappeared, many for weekend campaign speeches. It scheduled a token session for today with hopes to adjourn sine die—or indefinitely —Monday.

★ ★ ★

The Senate, which did vote for sine die adjournment, expects to complete its formalities Monday by concurring in the hoped-for House vote.

Leaders in both branches said that all substantial business had been finished, including passage of all the necessary money bills.

LAST MONEY BILLS

The last money bills to go through were a $71,869-billion appropriation for defense—largest single money bill in history —and a $1.75-billion foreign aid measure, lowest in the program's 21-year history.

The 1967 and 1968 sessions of the 90th were marked by extreme frustrations resulting from the Vietnamese war which caused heavy cutbacks in funds for most of the programs passed earlier in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

★ ★ ★

Congress sent to him a broad civil rights bill containing an open housing section, a landmark "truth-in-lending" measure, anticrime legislation, a temporary 10 per cent income tax increase, a major housing bill designed to help low-income families buy homes, and a package of important conservation bills.

Junta Is Named in Panama Coup

PANAMA (AP)—A military coup overthrew the 11-day-old government of President Arnulfo Arias last night. Rebel leaders consolidated their hold on the country today by naming a two-man junta.

Arias, 67, vowing to return, took refuge in the U.S.-controlled Canal Zone with most of his cabinet ministers. It was the third time in three decades he had been deposed by the National Guard, Panama's army.

Lt. Col. Omar Torrijos identified himself and Maj. Boris Martinez, commander of the Chiriqui Province Military zone, as coup leaders. Torrijos accused Arias of planning a dictatorship.

Heading the new two-man junta is Col. Bolivar Urrutia, named by Arias only Thursday to head the National Guard. Torrijos denied a communique that had reported earlier the detention of Urrutia.

CABINET BEING PICKED

Torrijos told a reporter Urrutia and the second member of the junta, Col. Jose M. Pinilla, were now selecting a cabinet. Pinilla was deputy chief of the guard but was retired by Arias Thursday.

Torrijos declared the National Guard in complete control of the country and said all young officers supported the coup. He charged Arias planned to convert the guard into a "political instrument of persecution."

In a shake-up ordered by Arias, Torrijos earlier had been relieved as executive secretary of the guard and ordered abroad. Other anti-Arias officers were given unimportant posts.

Aside from small knots of people at doorways, the city appeared calm. There was some panic along A Avenue, the street on which the guard's two-story headquarters is located, when the coup got underway at 9 p.m. last night.

Roving guard patrols broke up any groups they found. There was an unconfirmed report that two men were wounded on Central Avenue, the city's main thoroughfare.

Nixon Says No TV Debates, but Dems Keep Up Pressure

for the debates now that Congress has blocked action on a bill that would have waived the government's equal-time provision and permitted networks to donate time for three-way debates.

"Naturally, we hope that Mr. Nixon and George Wallace will agree to share the cost of the debates," said Humphrey at a New York conference with running mate Edmund S. Muskie.

'AFRAID TO DEBATE'

"Come out, Mr. Nixon," said a speech prepared by Humphrey. "Tell your story. Let George Wallace tell his story and I'll tell mine and then let the people decide."

Humphrey was prevented from traveling due to what doctors described as a mild case of the flu.

DROWNED OUT

Wallace was forced to cut short a speech in Denver, Colo., when the public address system failed and hecklers drowned him out.

A tomato and a medallion necklace were thrown at him, but they both missed him.

French Upset S. Viets

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government said today it "deeply deplores" the decision of the French government to allow the Vietcong's National Liberation Front to open an information bureau in Paris, the site of the preliminary peace talks between Washington and Hanoi.

Indian Summer to Linger in Area Over Weekend

Warm, hazy days of Indian summer will remain in the Pontiac area over the weekend.

TODAY — Mostly sunny and a little warmer. High 65 to 70. Fair and a little warmer tonight. Low 45 to 50.

Winds variable mostly southeasterly eight to 12 miles per hour, becoming south to southwest 10 to 15 miles tonight.

TOMORROW — Partly cloudy to cloudy with little temperature change.

MONDAY — Partly cloudy and mild.

Precipitation probabilities in per cent are: Today 20, tomorrow 20.

LBJ to Survey Leaders on N-Pact

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson plans to initiate promptly his survey of foreign leaders to see if international feelings run high enough to warrant a special session of the Senate to ratify a treaty banning the spread of nuclear weapons.

This was the word yesterday from administration sources after Johnson said the need for U.S. ratification of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty was great enough for such a session.

Although sources said a prompt start to the survey was expected, and that it would be done through routine diplomatic channels rather than personal Johnson summit meetings, there was no evidence Johnson contemplates calling the Senate back before the Nov. 5 election.

Olympics Opening Ceremony Today

By HAROLD A. FITZGERALD
Chairman of the Board, The Pontiac Press

MEXICO CITY — Our world-celebrated Olympic Games open here today. The introductory ceremony sees competitors marching in, nation by nation, as crowded stands cheer them all.

This ceremony is occupying a couple of hours and there will be no athletic competitions. Mexico's great Olympic light will be ignited by a torch carried by successive hands from the far reaches of the earth.

If any students are contemplating revolts, they are well in hand today.

Mexico has gone all out for these Olympics. When they were awarded, raucous squawks had an international tinge. Scattered doubts around the globe said these people weren't prepared. The Mexicans were truly aroused and they shoved the accelerator to the floor.

WORLDLY-WISE

Today the sections visible to Olympic visitors are quaint, antique and ultra-modern all rolled into one piece and turned out in perfected form.

Remember, these people have been afflicted with at last a half dozen vacillating civilizations; they soundly whipped the Good Guys at the Alamo; and once they told the lordly Spanish to go jump in the ocean and they overthrew a constricting yoke that had them throttled. They're world-wise.

Tourists with the temerity to enter this pulsating nation without season tickets or a confirmed hotel reservation find themselves officially stamped "on their own."

The government accepts no responsibility for food, lodging, transportation or even a second-grade hot dog. If you try to grab a little shut-eye on a park bench, you're ruthlessly thumbed elsewhere and the gendarme is devoid of recommendations.

QUIT COUNTING

Mexico acknowledged a quarter of a million applications for tickets and hotel accommodations back in the middle of the summer. They've quit counting now. They have 50,000 hotel rooms and the balance will come from private homes.

My wife and I are staying in one of these which W. D. Maxwell, editor of The Chicago Tribune, and his wife rented for a month. I made a down payment originally and now I remit monthly until death after which they sue my estate for the balance.

There are aesthetes "in action" here as well as the athletes. Scientists, musicians, poets and artists among others will be struggling mightily for bronze, silver and gold medals. I may just try for a gold medal with a couple of sonnets in iambic pentameter. Pontiac would have to forget that illustrious and mighty Hayes Jones.

One Oscar Urrutia heads this division which he insists was recognized in the original Olympics before we had the revival 72 years ago. Some 5,000 of these characters will await the starter's gun, while 7,000 athletes in general from 123 countries will grace the scene.

This is one of the great capitals of the globe. Remember, Mexico City is the second largest city in the Western Hemisphere. Roughly, it's four times as big as our sisterly city to the south and Detroit's no wayside hamlet.

On with the dance.

Marines Repulse N. Viet Attackers

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops attacked U.S. Marines in bivouac today near the embattled Thuong Duc Green Beret camp but were beaten back when they got within 100 yards of the Leathernecks' defensive lines.

The enemy troops lost 31 dead in 3½ hours of fighting, the U.S. Command said, but killed eight Marines and wounded 20. The fight raged three miles northeast of the green beret—Special Forces—camp in jungled foothills 27 miles southwest of Da Nang.

The enemy force, of unknown size, apparently tried to take advantage of predawn darkness and overcast skies that hampered U.S. jet fighter-bombers in striking back.

A U.S. spokesman said the enemy troops attacked with machine guns and small arms and did not use mortars to cover their assault as they often do.

The Marines fought back with small arms and machine guns, and artillery units opened up on the charging North Vietnamese troops. Some American fighterbombers were able to streak in to support the Marines but the poor visibility prevented saturation strikes of the enemy positions.

Air Force World War II twin engine C47 cargo planes converted into gunships also attacked with rapid firing gatling guns spewing out 6,000 rounds of ammunition a minute.

Marines sweeping the battlefield at daybreak today were still drawing some enemy fire but it was light and sporadic.

The fight was only a few miles from where two Marine helicopters supporting the ground troops collided in the air Friday, killing all 12 crew members and passengers aboard the two aircraft.

The Thuong Duc Special Forces camp sits astride enemy infiltration corridors leading into Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city, and other population centers along the coastal lowlands.

Allied officers estimate that anywhere from 5,000 to 7,500 North Vietnamese troops, are operating between Thuong Duc and Da Nang.

The Marines, from the 5th Regiment of the 1st Division, are part of a large allied force that pushed into the area a week ago in an effort to clean out the North Vietnamese troops and relieve pressure on the camp.

The Marines fought two sharp clashes with North Vietnamese troops around the camp earlier in the week, but nothing of a sustained nature.

Announcement Monday

I-696 Report Ready

LANSING (UPI) — A report by a special three-man arbitration panel on a route for the I-696 freeway through the Northern Detroit suburbs should be in the hands of Gov. George Romney today after more than two months of hearings.

No matter what decision is arrived at, communities that will be affected by the route of the freeway have proposed battles in the courts. Public announcement of the route is not expected by Romney until Monday, however.

The freeway, which will connect I-96 on the west and I-94 on the east, was first proposed 10 years ago. But disputes over the routing through southern Oakland and Macomb counties has stalled construction.

The route through Macomb county was settled last year but continuing disputes between Southfield, Lathrup Village, Huntington Woods, Royal Oak, Pleasant Ridge and Oak Park have stalled any route through Oakland County.

The arbitration panel, selected by Romney under a state law which calls for binding arbitration in such a route dispute, held hearings and has prepared its report. The cities of Lathrup Village, Southfield and Pleasant Ridge have promised a court fight if they are not satisfied with the ruling, further delaying construction of the needed east-west freeway.

Detroit Stadium Land Swap Eyed

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh revealed yesterday his hopes that the city can complete a trade of land with the Penn Central Railroad that would lead to construction of a multi-million-dollar sports stadium in the downtown area.

★ ★ ★

Cavanagh said he hoped the city could give the railroad 12 acres of vacant city and state land west of the Detroit civic center. It has been proposed that the Penn Central build a hotel on the site.

★ ★ ★

A stadium with retractable dome, costing an estimated $35 million to $45 million, would be built on a 60-acre site on the Detroit river in the vicinity of the civic center.

★ ★ ★

Cavanagh said he recently discussed the plan with Michigan Gov. George Romney. A committee named by Romney recommended a stadium in the Detroit area be built at the state fairgrounds on Woodward Avenue.

★ ★ ★

Cavanagh said he and Romney agreed the various proposals should be discussed "as quickly as possible."

Singer, Humphrey Son to Visit Here Sunday

Sammy Davis Jr., noted Negro entertainer, will make a local appearance tomorrow between 4 and 5 p.m. at the home of Dr. Howard McNeill of 225 W. Hickory Grove, Bloomfield Township, according to a Democratic Party spokesman.

★ ★ ★

He will appear on behalf of the Michigan Citizens for Humphrey-Muskie, the spokesman said.

Also expected is the vice president's son, Hubert H. Humphrey III, on a campaign tour in Michigan.

Epidemic Hits India

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — Cholera has broken out as the floodwaters recede from India's stricken areas in Assam, West Bengal and Bihar states.

Goalpara, in Assam, was officially declared a cholera epidemic area yesterday, the United News of India Agency reported. Troops are working to remove the bodies of humans and animals, and to clear polluted water supplies.

4 Kidnaped in Sardinia

CAGLIARI, Sardinia (AP) — Troops, police and dogs today searched the bandit-ridden hills of central Sardinia for four persons seized in this island's first mass kidnaping.

NEWSBOYS OF THE PRESS HONORED — Accepting an award on behalf of newspaper carriers of The Pontiac Press is David Clark of 127 Woodward, Rochester. Presenting the award is James Vallier, manager of the Rochester district distribution. In the background are 10 other carriers who were honored during a two-day trip to Lansing by the Michigan Press Association.

11 Press Carriers Are Honored

Eleven Pontiac Press newspaper carriers were honored in Lansing this week at the third annual Michigan Press Association Outstanding Newspaperboy Awards conference.

★ ★ ★

The youths were given certificates and souvenir jackets at a dinner at the Kellogg Center on the Michigan State University campus. They also won an award from the Inland Daily Press Association.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

The 11 youths representing The Press had all been on their routes at least a year without service errors.

TOUR FACILITIES

The newspaper boys toured facilities in and around Lansing including MSU's Spartan Stadium, the Oldsmobile plant, the Capitol Building, police headquarters and had other events held in their honor.

★ ★ ★

4 Kidnap-Rape Suspects Are Bound Over for Trial

Four youths held as suspects in a kidnap and rape case were bound over yesterday for trial in Oakland County Circuit Court and are being held in lieu of bonds totaling $70,000 in County Jail this morning.

The youths appeared in the Waterford Township Justice Court of Kenneth H. Hempstead for their preliminary examination yesterday. Charged with kidnap and rape are Raymond M. Spring, 24, of Orion Township; James L. Davidson, 18, of Oxford; and James R. Perna, 18, of Oxford. Charged with rape is Percy Greenwood, 21, of Pontiac.

Bond on each charge was $10,000, making the total $20,000 for the first three and $10,000 for Greenwood.

Sheriff's deputies say the four are suspects in the Sept. 20 abduction of a Pontiac couple in Lapeer County, reportedly seized at Hurd Road and Baldwin. They were taken to Oxford Township and the girl was raped repeatedly by four suspects, according to deputies.

TRIAL OCT. 22

Judge Hempstead ordered them to appear for trial in the circuit court of Judge Philip Pratt at 9 a.m. Oct. 22 in yesterday's hearing.

At the hearing Hempstead ordered the courtroom cleared of press and all persons and witnesses not directly connected with the proceedings. He said he did this under state statutes calling for security measures in justice court cases involving sex crimes.

He ordered the exclusion on request of the two defense lawyers, Robert Sterling and Daniel Devine. Sterling represents Perna and Greenwood and Devine has been appointed by the court to represent Spring and Davidson.

In their motion they attacked Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson for using sensational aspects of the case to further his political campaign. He is running for the State Court of Appeals in the Nov. 5 election.

Among the new items included on board Apollo 7 is a small 4½-pound black-and-white TV camera which will transmit "live" as the ship passes Corpus Christi, Tex., and Merritt Island, Fla.

These will be converted and passed along to the TV networks for local viewing. Don't expect local TV perfection because it just won't be there. The camera is on a 12-foot cable enabling the astronauts to aim it out of the spacecraft through its windows.

The Apollo assembly building simply staggers one's imagination. When we viewed it from the road, our NASA protocol officer asked how far we thought it was away. It looked fairly close. When the various guesses were tallied, the longest being 3 miles, we found out that the building was just a hair over 5 miles!

Picture this and you will have a rough estimate of its size . . . one can store four . . . not one or two . . . but four Empire State Buildings in it and have room to move!

If all goes as planned, NASA expects to effect a manned lunar module probe in February-March, 1969, with a manned lunar landing before the end of that year. After this has been accomplished, the next step on our agenda to conquer the last bastion is a manned space station for observation and experimental work.

Cameras! I have never seen so many and so many different sizes. They range from a Minox to a beautiful 2¼x2¼ Hasselblad that Mr. V. Hasselblad, the inventor, had. There were Instamatics, Nikons, an assortment of Kodaks, and movie cameras by the legions. We viewed the launch from just over one mile away.

We had sergeants to three-star generals; seamen second class to rear admirals; engineers to doctors in physics; congressmen to governors and in this whole array of some 1,400 intensely interested persons, I saw only one hippie . . . dressed as only they can . . . and two unkempt beards. (Maybe there is hope, yet!)

Everyone associated with the launch was courteous and helpful. No question, no matter how silly it seemed, was left unanswered. Maybe the individual addressed couldn't answer it, but he or she sure knew who could! And they were found.

Program Hailed at GM Truck

Employes Respond to Craftsmanship Goals

A quality improvement program at GMC Truck & Coach Division has made substantial gains since it was launched about eight months ago, Martin J. Caserio, a vice president of General Motors and divisional general manager, reported today.

He said the over-all quality of trucks and coaches manufactured by the division has increased dramatically.

★ ★ ★

"Field complaints are far down from previous levels and our owner loyalty is rising to new heights," he said.

Crediting the employes with responding quickly to the GMC "Guaranteed Craftsmanship" quality program, Caserio attributed the gains to an all-out effort by the total organization.

ABILITY, DEDICATION

"Now company can consistently turn out products of exceptional quality and value without people of exceptional ability and dedication," he said. "We have this kind of ability and dedication in our division."

He said the Guaranteed Craftsmanship effort ties in with the Mark of Excellent program launched previously by General Motors Corp.

★ ★ ★

"As in the Mark of Excellence concept, our Guaranteed Craftsmanship program is directed at creating the pride of workmanship necessary to meet an over-all goal of building the finest vehicles in the world," he added.

★ ★ ★

The program was launched last February when banners, posters and labels bearing the quality theme went on display plant-wide.

Press Commends Its Newspaperboys

Today is National Newspaperboys Day, a fitting climax to the week-long observance of National Newspaper Week.

To millions of newspaper subscribers, their newspaperboys are their only personal contact with the enterprises that provide the printed news — the most varied and dependable of all news media.

That the newspaper couriers so well measure up to their responsibilities, delivering their product in good weather and bad, often in the face of personal sacrifice or stress, is mute testimony to the sterling character of the big majority of American youth.

Locally, a fine force of eleven hundred boys deliver twenty-five million copies of The Pontiac Press during the course of a year. It represents an extraordinary undertaking, one impossible of accomplishment without the steadfast devotion to duty shared by Press carriers.

★ ★ ★

For the boys' part, the experience thus gained pays dividends in the form of character development, encompassing traits of reliability, punctuality, courtesy, accuracy in handling subscriber accounts, and financial accountability.

★ ★ ★

The Press is proud if its young route representatives and renders them a warm salute of commendation on the excellence of their performance.

'Street' Takes Nation's Ups and Downs in Stride

Time was when the only thing that could be counted on for certain at a time of national uncertainty was that Wall Street would go into a spasm.

First there would be a wild wave of emotional selling of stock and plummeting prices following the bad news, then a return wave of equally feverish buying and bidding up.

It has happened in every one of 17 unexpected crises in the past 70 years, beginning with the sinking of the battleship Maine in 1898, says the Wall Street Journal.

It still happens, but there is a difference: The buying and selling waves are now much shorter-lived.

Consider the recent Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia. Selling triggered by that crises lasted only an hour and drove the Dow-Jones industrial average down less than 0.4 per cent. In just the first hour of trading the next day, the average had climbed higher than it had been before.

Compare this with what happened after the sinking of the Lusitania in 1915. The selling wave battered the market for 32 trading days. The D-J average dropped 11 per cent. It took 16 trading days for the market to recover.

Either Wall Street is becoming sophisticated or cynical or, as some believe, better communications and reporting techniques are helping to contain panic after a sudden crisis.

Whatever the reason, if you want to make money out of a calamity, advises the Journal, you have to be quick these days.

Lifesaver Fishes Pebble From Fish's Mouth

Fellow by the name of Peter Humphrey over in Uxbridge, England, has become something of a minor hero for quick thinking in the rescue of a near victim of drowning, name of George.

★ ★ ★

Spotting George floundering in a pond, Peter pulled him out, noted a pebble jamming open George's mouth as the problem, and popped it out.

The emergency treatment worked. George is alive and well, and Peter may well get a commendation of some sort for the feat, reports a spokesman for the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

★ ★ ★

Personal Qualities of Humphrey

By EVERETT DIRKSEN

DIRKSEN

During an intense political campaign, it appears that tradition seems to call for a relentless indictment of the opposition without saying one kind word in its behalf. But even the intensity of a political contest cannot obscure the fact that the opposition is still people who do not entirely lose those basic attributes of character and human personality which remain intact during such a contest, even though momentarily subdued.

Republicans can, therefore, assail the position of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey on the issues of the day and also on the strategy which is employed and still recognize those qualities in him which are an essential part of the man — qualities that are not lost in the political scuffle.

One can fairly say of Vice President Humphrey that his tongue is as close to his brain as that of any other person in public life. Doubtlessly, it is partly intrinsic and partly a matter of training, but it does make him quick on the trigger.

The scholarship awards which he received in earlier days, his election to membership in the Phi Beta Kappa honorary society, his teaching years at Macalester College in Minnesota and his skill in the art of debate all proclaim the fact of an agile mind and a capacity that is above ordinary.

There is about him an affability which shines through his manner even at those moments when he is leveling some barbed remark at the opposition. This is indeed a sustaining quality, for if he undertook to be somewhat desperate and unyielding for even a few moments in his quest for the Presidency, it would consume him.

It's but another way of saying that he can change his pace and let his aggressive spirit subside now and then. It also accounts for the fact that he can appear superheated without actually being angry.

A certain exhuberance of spirit was probably the quality which impelled him to think of the campaign as the politics of joy and happiness.

His opposition might regard this as a kind of delusion, but his friends would insist that this marks the fundamental nature of the man.

He does not shrink from a fight, even when the odds are decisively against him. This is probably a throwback to earlier days in his life when he left college to become a pharmacist and then returned to South Dakota to help the declining family fortunes in that drugstore in Huron.

He was an honest liberal in that he not only embraced the liberal cause, but fought vigorously for it. Nor did he forsake them, in April, 1966, when he told a wire service: "I've never left the liberals, even though some are disappointed in me. They are volatile. If you do something to displease them, their respect becomes cynical."

This, then, is Hubert Humphrey, not as a politician or as Vice President, but rather, Humphrey as a person.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

FAITH IN THE CARIBBEAN—2

On the Island of Bonaire in the early days of Christianity a natural rock cross was found. To the Indians and Spanish alike it became a symbol of Yajth. The priest blessed it and the ground around, and Pedro Cruz, as the place was called, became a shrine where people would come to pray.

Over a hundred years ago there developed dissension in the parish over the priest's use of the burial insurance funds. The dissenters, out of vengeance and malice, destroyed the natural stone cross. But they could not destroy the symbol nor the sanctity of the ground.

When the wounds of misunderstanding were healed and the dissenters repented, the parish returned to Pedro Cruz and erected a wooden cross to replace the natural stone one. The place had become sacred and part of their spiritual heritage and would remain so. Within the past 50 years a concrete cross has been erected to replace the wooden one.

Today when one visits Bonaire and this lovely, rocky, windswept area strewn with cactus, one comes upon the cross shining brightly in the sun and is reminded of His words, "Lo, I am with you always even unto the end of the world."

Confident Living:

Develop Faith, Hope, Courage

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

DR. PEALE

Can you imagine a person who has everything to make him happy and provide security and yet is always troubled and anxious? Unfortunately there are many such in this world.

On a beautiful summer day a man of this sort drove out of his country home and down a road that wound over the hills. His mind was agitated by uncertainty, anxieties and fears. He reviewed all the things he had that made such fears irrational. But then it came to him that he was still the timorous, shy and fearful person he had been as a boy.

Always his mother had expected disaster. Though it never came, she had infected her son to expect the same and so always fear haunted him; anxiety lurked somewhere in every thought.

As he drove he happened to notice a little road leading off along a small stream into the hills. He followed the road for two miles or so, finally coming to an intersection. No marker pointed the way. While he hesitated a white-haired man came along on horseback. Stopping him to ask directions the two men fell into conversation.

"Lots of trouble in the world these days," said our friend in the car, for want of something else to say. "Well, maybe," said the man on the horse, "but the other day I saw a statement I sort of liked. It went like this: 'And he laid his right hand upon me saying, unto me, Fear not'." So saying he waved and started on.

"Hey, who said that?" the other man shouted. "The Bible," said the man on the horse. The strange statement wouldn't leave him, and later he looked it up and found it in Revelation 1:17. "Seems like a father putting his hand on your troubled head," he said.

This curious incident started him on a search for other such statements that would take away old insecurity and fear feelings. Such quotations helped him to find hope and courage and gradually his fears lessened.

What words are hope, courage and fear! Two of them make life wonderful. One of them blights human existence. How many people suffer from unresolved fear. But then also how many have found release and relief through hope and courage.

All three of these are mental attitudes that result from the kind of thoughts we think. The mental climate a person creates determines whether he shall have hope even when things seem hopeless, have courage when apprehensive factors appear, or live in fear due to hopelessness and apprehension. You can think your way to hope and courage or you can think your way into the dark morass of fear and misery.

Hope and courage can be developed through practice. Deliberately start thinking hopeful and courageous thoughts. At first this will seem futile, even hypocritical, for you will feel that you are trying to act contrary to the way you are. But that is not futile for it will start a healthy process going and it is not hypocritical when you make an effort to change yourself for the better.

You will have long-established mental habits to counteract and that is not easy. But it can be done. It can be done. Say those four magic words until they start working in your consciousness.

Fear began in the first place as a thin trickle of thought across your mind, finally cutting a deep channel of thought. Every thought about yourself, your health, your future, your family has drained into this deep channel of fear and has come up tinged with anxiety.

Such a deep thought channel imbedded in the mind is hard to obliterate but it can be done. Indeed you can do anything with your mind if—you want to badly enough. It all depends upon the vigor of the desire. If with all your heart—then you are in.

The secret is to start a thin trickle of faith, hope and courage across the mind. It will seem at first woefully ineffective as though it were nothing at all. But keep at it, reminding yourself of one great and glorious fact that fear is only the second most powerful force in personality. The more powerful force is faith. It is stronger, very much stronger.

Perseverance in faith will begin to cut a deep channel in the thoughts and finally it will undercut the old fear channel which will cave in. Then you will have a deep channel of faith into which all your thoughts about yourself, your health, your family, your future will be drained and emerge bright, hopeful and optimistic. New courage will be yours.

If this seems a bit incredible, I assure you we have applied it to many persons over many years and with considerable success. In our American Foundation of Religion and Psychiatry we have taught the skill of revamped thought . . . the substitution of faith instead of fear patterns of mental emphasis.

Catholic schools and the CCD instruction classes are teaching from the controversial Word and Worship textbooks which are permeated with sociology and humanism, instead of the real truths of the Catholic faith.

More Opinions on Presidential Candidates

I am neither judging nor condoning George Wallace. His record in Alabama and God, Himself, will take care of that. A man's character is not necessarily gauged by the institution of prayer meetings at political rallies, in that many empty prayers pass prejudiced lips, many hypocritical hearts beat under a cloak of Christianity, and many prayer meetings have been held for profit—monetary and otherwise.

It would seem that many so-called or self-termed Christians tend to forget that Christ died trying to teach humanity the brotherhood of man, through a gospel of love. It should be recognized that both the black and white communities have thousands of devout Christians working with our government toward law and order for all American citizens.

G. PORTER
6244 PINE KNOB, CLARKSTON

It actually scares one when you read what is being said about the coming election and hear what supporters say for their candidate. Jackie Robinson was a fine ball player and is now called a smart businessman. He said, "If the devil was to run for President in this election he'd get at least 15 per cent of the vote." I don't think it speaks very well of the American people caring what happens to their country, if 15 per cent would vote for the devil, no wonder Jackie is pushing Humphrey down the people's throat — especially the colored vote — for they look up to Jackie for becoming so famous. This is only natural for the colored to listen to him.

★ ★ ★

What makes me sick is to talk to people about their choice in this election and have them ask how much money you made in the last five years. If you made good money, vote for the same ticket. Let the money you make pick your ticket, not the lives being taken in Vietnam, crime in the streets, inflation, or taxes. Who can help being afraid of what is happening to us?

MRS. JAMES SCOTT
2119 STOUT, KEEGO HARBOR

One supporter of George Wallace displays a bumper sticker which reads, "I fight poverty by working for a living." This accurately reflects one plank of Mr. Wallace's platform. He promises to reduce drastically the criminally wasteful giveaway programs which we taxpayers have been financing since the days of FDR. Some seem to think the American taxpayers must pay protection money to irresponsible hoodlums—both domestic and foreign—to ensure our safety. George Wallace does not accept this cowardly philosophy. One American hero long ago proclaimed "millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute (protection money)."

'Give Much Thought to Upcoming Election'

The public in general never had it so good in the history of our country. In 1960 the shops had people laid off with 10 and 12 years of seniority. People had better think about these things before they vote November 5th. I went through two Republican administrations and I know what it is all about. The young people have never gone through this. Welfare people should think about when they stood in long lines to get their food and carried it home on their backs to see their kids waiting to get a bite to eat. I am voting Democratic all the way.

Question and Answer

I was given a free cemetery lot in the Veterans Memorial Garden of Hillview Memorial Garden's Association, Waterford. The representative who gave me the certificate said 1,000 such certificates will be given to veterans as a promotional effort. I haven't signed any papers or paid any fees. Do I really have a lot? Am I obligated to pay any fees?

NOT IN THE HOLE YET

REPLY

Mrs. Harrison at the home office in Flint says there are no catches. The only cost is $1 registration fee due within two weeks after you receive the certificate, and $20 for perpetual care of the lot, due within five years. Other members of the family may buy lots, but are under no obligation to do so. We suggest you get this in writing.

U.P. Panorama of Color

Forests Turning Pastel

MUNISING (AP) — A flame with color a week ago, Upper Peninsula forests now are shading into a panorama of pastels.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

Winds are beginning to snap off frost-bitten leaves at treetops and dance them ahead along the highways, adding to the beauty.

The pastel coloring is expected to hold on in most areas through next week, barring wild or rainstorms. Leaves of the aspen, always shaking as if palsied, are among the more striking.

★ ★ ★

Often half-yellow, half-green, the aspens seem alternately to change from yellow to green and vice versa, depending upon the wind direction.

Once-blazing red maples are now a delicate pink, and atop their snow-white trunks, the birches look like clusters of pure gold.

Fall's coloring now has seeped down and past the Straits of Mackinac, but in contrast, forests there are more in clusters, rather than in mile-on-mile stretches, and there aren't the enormous varieties of hardwood one finds in the north.

One charges along with little traffic hinderance to get ahead to what in the distance appears even more beautiful than the pastels which overhang in a virtual canopy here.

IT COMPENSATES

Dr. Oaks Says:

No Fast End to MD Lack

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is another in a weekly series of articles issued by the Oakland County Medical Society. Dr. Oaks is the collective voice of the society.)

There is a recognized shortage of doctors. Can something be done about it? Probably not, at least not immediately. To train a physician requires a period of time that cannot be substantially reduced. First, there are the traditional four years of college, then four years of medical school, than an apprenticeship called the intern year.

* * *

This is the standard course of study. And it's not over here either. Should the newly graduated MD feel inclined to specialize, his training will be extended an added three to five years.

* * *

This is the system. It's been around since the early 1900s. It works. It has produced doctors who are recognized as the best in their profession. Medical centers devoted to teaching in this country are praised worldwide for the quality of their education.

* * *

Such excellence is zealously guarded by the profession. Ironically, it is the defense and support of the system that earns the most criticism.

* * *

But then, how can the system increase the supply of doctors? Can the system change and still maintain quality?

Two questions are uncovered: (1) Can more doctors be trained, (2) Can the curriculum be shortened?

AFFIRMATIVE REPLY

The medical profession can reply affirmatively to the first question. More doctors can be trained by increasing enrollments in existing schools or by opening new schools. To some extent, this is happening.

Of course, enrollments can not continue to grow unless teaching facilities also grow. That sacred trust—competence—cannot be lessend or diluted.

* * *

Can the curriculum be shortened? This is a more sticky issue. As the world of medicine becomes more complex, it has been the practice for some time to add courses as necessary. There is an obvious reluctance to take anything away.

* * *

However, there is growing general agreement that certain subjects — those in the premedical years — can be eliminated without tampering with competence, knowledge or ability. Also, there is movement to engage the student in medical curriculum sooner than after the traditional four years of college.

POINTS TO FUTURE

All of this points to the future and the manpower needs of medicine. Perhaps some day in the future the medical student will complete his training in six or seven years.

* * *

Dubcek: End Occupation by Accepting Soviet View

PRAGUE (AP) — To end the Soviet occupation of Czechoslovakia, Communist party chief Alexander Dubcek has urged acceptance of Moscow's view of the world, and patience instead of protest.

While upholding internal reforms launched last January as the only course for Czechoslovakia, Dubcek devoted the major part of a speech Friday to the need for full coordination of relations and ideology with the Soviet Union and four other Warsaw Pact nations which invaded this country in August.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

"As Communists, internationalists, we cannot proceed differently than to formulate a policy in the strategic aim of all-around cooperation with the U.S.S.R. and the other socialist countries. It is obvious that people with anarchistic tendencies will regard this . . . as capitulation and collaboration, but what other alternatives do these 'fighters' offer us?" Dubcek asked.

Looking drawn and tired after six weeks of work under pressure of the occupation, Dubcek addressed party leaders and workers at a Prague electrical equipment factory. Parts of his speech were televised Friday night and published today.

Dubcek acknowledged there have been protests against the continued stay of occupation troops, estimated locally at more than 500,000, and to his commitment to sign a treaty with Moscow legalizing the stay of some of them.

★ ★ ★

"We are receiving letters which state that all the troops should leave at once. Others after reading the communique on the temporary stationing of troops on our territory talk of capitulation and so on," he said.

★ ★ ★

Dubcek declared "we have no alternative" other than to carry out the August Moscow agreement in which Czechoslovakia promised to meet Soviet "normalization" conditions in return for gradual troop withdrawals.

'GREAT ILLUSION'

"If our citizens and party workers think that the more solutions there are on this question—whether outside in the streets or inside—that we shall resolve this question, it is in my opinion a great illusion," Dubcek said.

He gave no information when troop pullouts would start even though his defense minister has said the majority will be out by Oct. 22.

Unconfirmed reports said a tentative plan for Premier Oldrich Cernik to sign the Soviet-demanded treaty this weekend had been postponed. Deputy Premier Frantisek Hamouz was said to have returned for consultations after preliminary treaty talks in Moscow.

Warning against both rightist and leftist deviation from the reform course fixed in January, Dubcek also referred indirectly to attacks against Czechoslovak Jews. Charges of "Zionism" against certain Czechoslovak reform figures have been heard in the Soviet Union and Poland.

ANTI-SEMITISM

"Communists must strive . . . that Socialist thinking in our country is not stained for example with anti-Semitism, that some sort of subterfuge is not seen behind every expression of an opinion . . . that criticism of deficiencies after January does not lead to a sweeping condemnation of this (reform) policy as a whole," he said.

The passage about anti-Semitism was not heard in the televised version of Dubcek's speech but appeared today in abstracts published by Rude Pravo, the Czechoslovak Communist party newspaper.

N.Y. Ballot Decision on McCarthy Is Hit

NEW YORK (AP) — New York's secretary of state has abandoned his fight to keep Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy's name off the Nov. 5 ballot.

Secretary of State John P. Lomenzo announced Friday that an appeal of two court rulings placing McCarthy's name on the ballot would not be carried to the Court of Appeals, the state's highest court.

The moves was seen as a blow to Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey's hopes of carrying the state in his presidential race with Republican Richard M. Nixon and third-party candidate George C. Wallace.

John J. Burns, Democratic state chairman, assailed the Lomenzo announcement as a "sellout... an obvious political move on the part of Gov. (Nelson A.) Rockefeller, who is now allowing the Nixon-Agnew forces to dictate state policy."

Lomenzo, like Rockefeller, is a Republican.

Burns added, "This sellout is an indication that the Republicans realize that Vice President Humphrey is leading New York" in the race for votes.

The Democratic State Committee said later it was studying legal action to keep McCarthy off the ballot.

★ ★ ★

Democratic campaign officials said McCarthy's name on the ballot would give his followers and other dissident party members a chance to protest Humphrey's nomination. Anti-Nixon Republicans might also vote for McCarthy, they said, but Humphrey stood to lose more.

McCarthy, who ran unsuccessfully for the nomination at the Democratic National Convention in August, has been placed on the New York ballot by the Coalition for an Independent Candidacy.

McCarthy, who sent a letter to Lomenzo on Sept. 11 disavowing candidacy, had no comment on Friday's action. The senator has withheld endorsement of Humphrey.

200 Missing, Six Dead in Boat Tragedy

MANILA (AP) — Six persons were confirmed dead and about 200 were missing after an overcrowded ferryboat sank in the southern Philippines, navy headquarters said today in Manila.

★ ★ ★

A navy spokesman said some 200 persons had been rescued from the shark-infested waters after the inter-island ferry "M.V. Dumaguete J" went down Thursday. A search continued for the missing.

★ ★ ★

A spokesman said the ship, a converted minesweeper with an authorized passenger capacity of about 100 started leaking around 4 a.m. In half an hour it was going under.

★ ★ ★

Passengers panicked, ignoring most of the lifeboats and jumped into the water, the navy said. Earlier reports said one man clinging to debris had his legs chewed off by sharks.

★ ★ ★

"It was clearly overloaded," the spokesman said. "They apparently thought because it was not a long trip and the weather was good that there was no danger."

★ ★ ★

Small motor launches picked up the survivors. Sea and air rescue craft found the wreckage about 10 miles northwest of Sacol Island. Most of the passengers were going from Cotabato to Zamboanga City for the annual festival honoring the city's patron saint.

Day Proclaimed

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney has proclaimed Oct. 23 as Hungarian Freedom Fighters Day in Michigan, in honor of those who "gave their lives for freedom" in the Hungarian uprising of 1956.

People in the News

By The Associated Press

James "Randy" Agnew returned to Baltimore from Navy duty in Vietnam in time to see his father, Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, get the worst heckling in his campaign for the vice presidency.

Agnew, a 21-year-old Navy Seabee, sat on the stage with his mother as Gov. Agnew was constantly interrupted and shouted down during a speech at Towson State College last night.

Wearing civilian clothing, young Agnew got a "V" sign from some 300-400 student hecklers as he entered the hall.

Randy will return to Fort Hueneme, Calif., Monday for his discharge from the Navy. He arrived there Thursday from Vietnam and flew on to Baltimore to join his parents, his wife Ann and their year-old daughter, Michelle.

Ike Urges Armed Forces Members to Vote

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has written to the 3 million members of the U.S. armed forces urging them to vote in the Nov. 5 elections.

"As one of you, I want to emphasize the importance of voting in the forthcoming national election — wherever you may be," said the nonpartisan statement released yesterday to the Armed Forces Network, Stars and Stripes, and 1,500 service newspapers.

EISENHOWER

Gen. Eisenhower has been a patient at Walter Reed Army Medical Center for the past four months after suffering a series of heart seizures.

Will Written on Bedroom Wall Ruled Legal

Genevieve Decker, 42, will inherit the $12,000 estate of her deceased fiance who named her in a will written on his bedroom wall.

Register of Wills John E. Walsh Jr. ruled yesterday in Philadelphia that the last will and testament of Hermann Schmidt, 49, who died last month, was legal. Written on the bedroom wall, it read in part:

"Genevieve: You take care of all my belongings. This gives you the authority. Love, Hermann, 8-14-1968."

Mrs. Humphrey to Continue Campaign for HHH

Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey says it's "awfully hard to tell," whether her campaigning helps hr husband but she's going to keep right on trying.

"I think it's vitally important that people know how a wife feels about her husband," Mrs. Humphrey said yesterday in New York. She has been married to the vice president for 32 years.

MRS. HUMPHREY

Mrs. Humphrey has made two solo campaign trips already and plans one a week until election day.

Schirra Reports Cold, Gets a Prescription

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 7 command pilot Walter M. Schirra Jr. found himself with a space cold today and sent word to earth that he needed something more than aspirin to get rid of it.

"I have a nose cold," Schirra told mission control during the spacecraft's 10th revolution shortly before 2 a.m. "I've gone through about eight or nine kleenexes with some pretty good blows. I've taken two aspirins and I'm wondering if there's anything else I can take.

* * *

Mission Control radioed back with a report that "the good doctors" recommended a decongestant. Schirra had asked for either a decongestant or an antibiotic to help clear up his stuffy nose.

* * *

A few hours earlier, Apollo 7 astronaut Donn F. Eisele relaxed for a seven-hour snooze while his companions busied themselves with technical messages to the ground crew.

'SETTLING DOWN'

"Donn's attempting to settle down for a long winter's night," reported Schirra, a Navy captain.

* * *

This was one of the few nontechnical messages in hours of communications between mission control at Houston and Apollo 7.

Eisele, an Air Force major, began his scheduled seven-hour sleep about 6:30 p.m. Schirra and civilian astronaut Walter Cunningham got their chance about 1:30 a.m.

* * *

The astronauts were business-like and technical in many of their conversations with ground controllers as they continued to check out the systems aboard their craft.

A FEW QUIPS

But they still had time to sandwich in a few quips.

* * *

* * *

"Yeah, that's a fact," came the reply.

"Hope you had a nice trip to Houston," the crew told mission control, which answered: "We had a beautiful trip."

'LIKE A DREAM'

Minutes after the spaceship thundered off the launching pad at Cape Kennedy, Fla., Schirra exclaimed:

* * *

He told ground controllers that the ride was a little bumpy during the second stage boost but later announced:

"We're having a ball!"

MODERNIZATION

The Thomas Seavey Sr. Home In Rose Township Dates to Mid-1800s

Collector Seeks Authentic Furnishings

By JODY HEADLEE
Home Editor, The Pontiac Press

Catching Mrs. Thomas Seavey Sr. at home is no easy task. She and her fellow antique hunters are frequently scouring the countryside and tiny, out-of-the-way shops hunting for prizes to furnish her Rose Township home.

"The land," said Mrs. Seavey, "is one of the oldest original land grants in the area, and the house was started in the mid-1800s. I would like to furnish the whole house with things that people of that day might have used."

★ ★ ★

CONVERSION

"We converted the old woodshed beyond the kitchen," said Mrs. Seavey, "into a laundry room."

"This piece," said Mrs. Seavey, "was made in the late 1800s. Notice the many kinds of wood that were used . . . ash, pine and black walnut."

BUTLER'S TABLE

★ ★ ★

The room's reclaimed brick fireplace proves a perfect foil for many of Mrs. Seavey's small antiques. The lights on either side of the mantel are brooder lamps while the center planter was a carpenter's tool chest.

★ ★ ★

Red geraniums fill the wash pitcher in the pine dry sink while strawflowers in autumn hues spark the black-iron footed kettle on the hearth. The interesting tea kettle also on the hearth was of the type used on the old-fashioned kerosene stoves.

SERVICE BAR

To facilitate entertaining, the Seaveys have installed a service bar in the room. On the shelf above the bar's sink Mrs. Seavey displays antique tin utensils.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

A green Hitchcock chair serves the pine washstand near the bar counter. To repeat the room's red accents, Mrs. Seavey uses geraniums in the white ironstone tureen.

Comparable to a Woman

Furniture Needs Curves, Class

"Furniture is like a woman," is the startling statement of one of this country's most interesting young designers.

"It has to be curvy," says Thomas V. Fields, "It has to have class. And its got to be comfortable." The most exciting woman in the world can be terrible to live with unless she's comfortable.

★ ★ ★

In his new line of upholstered furniture for Johnson-Carper Furniture Company, Fields shows in every line of his sofas and chairs that he believes in curves.

Take a good look at a Fields chair you'll be seeing in retail stores all over the country. "I like to design chairs within squares," says Fields. "Take a square, then draw curves and tapers within that square."

SQUARE

So here it is, the square some inches off the floor on shapely, tapered legs, the back and arm in one perfect parabolic curve, scooped out in a semi-circle to cuddle a person's back.

It's the Fields look and theory all curved into Johnson-Carper's best selling little occasional chair with all the class in the world, and incidentally, a comfortable price tag of under $90.

An elegant Fields sofa has the illusion of being curved but really isn't. The arms round into the back to cradle the long semi-attached pillow which has a slight arc across its graceful length. A Mediterranean sofa has a sloped arm in a bending upward curve which "takes away the curse of sterility." Even the dressmaker skirts have corners rounding off like flower petals.

Another sofa repeats the petal effect in arms which curl both outward and upward in a compound curve, and in a back with loose pillows each gently and precisely arched as a Roman bridge. The star with the most curves, though, is Fields' new 93" sofa with one long sweeping curve of a back, arm flowing into back and into arm again in a beautiful togetherness of curved exposed wood rail and gold wool fabric.

EXCITING

"Curves are very difficult," says Fields. "It's just like with women — the curves are what make it exciting. Because they are more difficult, it's this aspect that makes upholstery so interesting."

Curved lines use more wood, and there's a higher percentage of wasted wood because of the curves. They're more expensive to machine, too. Mostly though, says Fields, curves in upholstery are difficult because there are so many different materials necessary, each with separate sets of characteristics and each one to be applied differently.

★ ★ ★

"You're always trying to stretch your fabric in two different ways, or stretch it in ways it doesn't want to go."

But when you come right down to it, the whole story in upholstery is comfort. "If it weren't," says Fields, "all we'd have to do for the next market is give a liberal splash of Mediterranean to a straight up and down Jacobean chair and we'd have it made."

APPEARANCE

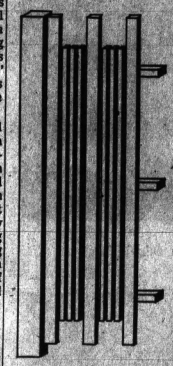
Appearance is a good bit of the battle. "Upholstered furniture should look soft. If you make it angular it begins to look like a refrigerator." Appearance, however, doesn't win the campaign. "With non-upholstered furniture, you need only the appearance of comfort but with upholstered furniture you've got to have the look and you've got to have the actual body comfort too."

"Lean over and count the coils," Fields says when you're buying upholstered furniture. "Check to see if the cushions are 100 per cent foam, then you know they'll keep their plump look. And remember, the more curves the better," he says with a grin. "If it doesn't look comfortable, you'll never feel comfortable. And you sure can't live with that."

Booklet Help for Remodeling

Home owners interested in updating and remodeling their home heating systems can write to the National Better Heating-Cooling Council for its attractive and informative four-color booklet, "Remodel Your Home With Hydronics."

To receive the 16-page booklet, send 25 cents to cover handling to Remodeling Book, Better Heating-Cooling Council, 393 Seventh Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10001.



FANCY FENCE — Snappy slat-style fence alternates three cedar 1x1s with one 1x2 face-nailed to 2x3 rails. For six-foot height, place rails one, three and five feet above ground.

New Door Cures Doldrums of Entry

Are you tired of your dull old front door? You can change its whole personality by simply replacing it with a new entrance.

Complete stock units made of ponderosa pine are available from lumber dealers. These units include a panel door with sidelights, fanlights, overhead pediments or other decorative features of your choice.

★ ★ ★

Set Stage for a 'Swing-In'

There's a conversation pit if you want to talk of "cabbages and kings" — or any other thing! And there's a super-colossal revolving dance floor, (not shown) for the fanciest swing-in session ever seen in a psychedelic dream. There's also a secluded corner for a new psychedelic dart game played with flash lights.

It's no wonder that this setting, designed by Lloyd Faulker of Los Angeles, is one of five award-winners in Uniroyal's "Action Room" Competition 1968. This is where the action obviously is! It's youth-minded and spinning with fun — geared to people who love to entertain.

In fact, there is a shoe storage area next to the music wall so guests may exchange street shoes for Naugahyde slippers before walking on the plum paneled floor, swinging on the silver dance floor, holding forth in the orange-tone conversation pit, peeking through the sliding window panels, or just relaxing against rainbow-hued pillows.

NAUGAHYDE

Double-faced Naugahyde strips in rust, fuschia and pumpkin are laced to sliding panels in front of the window. Major walls and soffit fascia are black-and-silver glitter. This is a room for the young in heart who have action in mind!

Use Right Method to Cut Ply Panel

For hand-sawing, use a 10-point cross cut saw for best results, support the panel firmly and turn the best side up.

★ ★ ★

For hand power sawing, a sharp blade made especially for plywood works best. Be sure to turn the best side down.

For table power sawing, place the best side up and set the saw to protrude through the panel ½-inch or less.

Refinishing Floor? Clean It First

After sanding, dampen a clean mop in mineral spirits and clean the floor before refinishing. When using mineral spirits, properly ventilate the room and don't smoke!

Yes, we take the pains to be "Old Fashioned" builders

That's why Kampsen Built Homes consistently re-sell at higher prices

The other day a man who wanted to pay us a compliment called us "Old-Fashioned" builders. "I mean", he said, "you go on building to quality standard. You don't take construction short-cuts . . . or compromise on materials. Well, I'm glad you build the way you do. It means that, if I ever have to sell my Kampsen Built Home, I'm going to get more money for it than for any other comparably priced home I might have bought!" Yes, we're "old-fashioned" that way. "Old-fashioned in our ideas about service, too. We believe that every buyer of a Kampsen Built home is entitled to prompt, thorough service. That's why we only build in areas where we can give service to our homeowners. We like to "stay on top" of the homes we've built.

TOE TAPPER — A room truly reflecting the tempo of the times — "Music Room for an Art Collector" created by Schule-McCarville Designs for Hercules Incorporated's Young Designer Series at the National Design Center in New York City. This vibrant and uncompromisingly contemporary setting is achieved through the designers use of such modern materials as olefin fiber, vinyl, plastics, steel and mirrors. Many innovations include covering the red painted wood wall unit in heavy gauge vinyl, open-top trivot bench and mirrored cube table, all add to the shimmering and shiny look of the future.

And the Beat Goes On

The young designers, with the use of such contemporary materials as plastics, mirrors, olefin fiber, steel and vinyl, have fashioned the shimmering, shiny look of the future.

★ ★ ★

The mood continues via the use of lights as an art medium unto itself—which sets off soft, indirect shadows on the art and throughout the room. Combined with the mirrored walls and cube, and mercury-glass accessories, it now vibrates into a rhythm of brilliant red, white and blue colors.

★ ★ ★

To achieve a unifying, yet exciting effect, the carpet, one wall and floating panels, suspended from ceiling, are done in red and blue stripes—with white used alone in other areas.

MAN-MADE

As modern as the other materials in the room, the vibrant red and blue stripes of easy care Herculon carpeting are perfect for this all-purpose room which serves as a place to work at home, entertain weekend guests, or just to relax with music and a good book. This durable carpet will stand-up to most common stains and spots which can be removed in a matter of minutes with the suds of a mixture of light-duty detergent and water.

"U.S. 1" (1967) by Mel Byars, a true example of graphic art, travels in the form of five floating red; white and blue panels suspended from the ceiling and down one wall. In this way, art serves as an architectural element as well as providing new interest to static ceilings.

With floor-to-ceiling wall units, less furniture is needed in a smaller room. It houses the components of a hi-fi system, books and artwork. The designer's unusual use of heavy gauge vinyl covering the red painted wood wall unit, gives an additional shimmering illusion—not to mention the mirror facing on the wall unit. By painting the background of the unit black, an illusion of depth is created.

A black ceiling is suggested by the designers to show-off art properly. They feel white ceilings tend to become a focal point of a room, whereby the art work tends to disappear.

The one white wall is covered in a textured white upholstery fabric of 100 per cent Herculon olefin fiber. Besides acting as an acoustical factor, it's practical since Herculon resists dirt dust, and as with the carpet, it can be sponged down if necessary with light duty detergent suds and water.

Other Schule-McCarville innovations—is the use of wall mirrors, not only to enlarge a small area, but to magnify colors throughout the room.

FUTURE

The stainless steel, open-top trivot bench and mirror cube table have a distinct look of the future. Much of the art and mirrors are framed in steel.

Vinyl Grilles Simplify Upkeep

Another step toward maintenance-free windows has been taken with the availability of removable vinyl grilles that simplify upkeep chores.

Rigid vinyo grilles, which snap into place over the inside surface of the glass to give a divided-pane effect, never need painting and are simply removed for easy window washing.

No Longer Just a 'Simple Box'

Family Rooms Receiving Added Attention

Family rooms, not kitchens or other rooms, are receiving increased attention from interior designers, according to C. M. Gray, Manager, Insulation Board Institute.

Builders say that attractive family rooms often close the sale. "Just a few years ago the family room was just a simple box without decorative appeal," Gray noted. "The floor was asphalt tile, paneling was the cheapest available, ceilings were plain and fireplaces with built-ins were unknown."

* * *

All this has now changed. In new homes, or in remodeling, the emphasis is on premium quality building products combined with decorative skill. The contemporary family room follows this basic profile.

Ceilings — Highly recommended is an acoustical ceiling of insulation board in 12 x 12 inch tile or a suspended ceiling with 2 x 2 ft. or 2 x 4 ft. insulation board lay-in panels. Family rooms are active rooms lively with conversation, people having fun or listening to the television or hi-fi. Acoustical ceilings absorb this din, making the family room a pleasanter quieter place to enjoy.

Walls — Premium quality hardboard or hardwood panel ing is now generally preferred often in such exotic woods as teak, hickory, cherry, peacan and black walnut. There is even a new paneling called "barn board" which rivals paneling salvaged from century old farms. Paneling now can be applied with adhesives, eliminating all nailing.

* * *

For privacy and noise control, homeowners can install their paneling over sound deadening insulation board which will give a family room sound conditioning for the walls at very lost cost.

Floor Coverings — Vinyl asbestos floor coverings, preferably with a cushion backing are popular for the newer family rooms. This special backing is comfortable under foot and it softens noise. If carpeting is selected the new indoor-outdoor type is ideal for the family room.

Fireplaces — Most contemporary family rooms now have fireplaces, often elaborate, with a treatment providing seating space. Many are designed to permit indoor-barbecuing. A true "must" is a gas jet in the fireplace to eliminate forever the need of paper and kindling when a fire is started.

NEW IDEAS — Adding to a home frequently results in a new family room sparkling with all the new decorator ideas. This room shown has an accoustical insulation board ceiling, rich walnut paneling and full-length drapes for the windows. The prefab fireplace with a bright red finish is especially easy to install in an added room. The cocktail table is masonry and surfaced with the same asbestos-vinyl used for the floor.

Cedar Linings Have Duo Role

Although aromatic red cedar lining is made especially for storage units, it also can be used in dresser drawers and chests used to store blankets.

* * *

Easy-to-handle pieces of cedar also can be used as wainscotting or paneling in dens and recreation rooms.

Cedar is one of the most durable of all woods. It lasts a lifetime and never needs paint or varnish.

Trailers Feature Glamor Touches

The old house trailer has come a long way.

Latest model mobile homes now feature glamor touches such as: bedroom "suites" with built-in dressing tables and mirrored, folding closet doors; "formal" dining areas that can be closed off from the kitchen; dens and TV "rooms" handsome woodgrained wall paneling; decorative ceiling beams, sliding glass doors and concealed lighting.

Check Resale Value Before You Buy

Time was when a home stayed "in the family" for several generations.

But the increasing mobility of the American population has made long-term ownership of the same house a rarity.

Statistics from the American Movers Conference show that one-fifth of the country's 60 million households change their address each year. It's estimated that 41 million people will move this year.

For homeowners in this group — especially those who must sell on short notice — the problem is how to recoup their financial investment in the house.

One way is by considering a house's resale value before buying it. Although no one can gauge exactly what potential homebuyers want, here are some hints on what makes a house "saleable."

- The house should be accessible to transportation, schools, churches, shopping and recreation.
- The neighborhood should be attractive and well-maintained.
- Utilities and road systems should be installed and operative. If they are not, tax assessment for you — and the next owner — must be considered.
- The house should be well constructed inside and out. For example, walls and ceilings should allow reasonable sound control.

You can test this by holding a transistor radio to the wall, gradually increasing its volume, and determining how loud the sound must be to carry through into an adjoining room.

- Building materials should be high quality and low-maintenance.
- Be sure the water, sewage disposal, heating and electrical systems are in good condition.

Any repair costs you incur in these areas may be hard to pass on to the next owner.

- Consider the house plan carefully. Are there sufficient bedrooms, more than one bathroom, good traffic patterns, adequate storage space, and an area adaptable for children's activities?

These are the features homebuyers look for. If you can offer them, your chances for a satisfactory resale are good.

STOP LEAKS IN BASEMENT WALLS!

Gold Bond
HYDRO-STOP
$8.50 Per Gallon

Is there a leak in your basement wall, one that seeps water after a rain? Repairs made from the inside are temporary at best. Now you can pour away leaks from the outside with Hydro-Stop. It seals below ground masonry leaks without extensive digging. Just scoop out a six-inch deep trench above the leaking area. Soak with a hose, then pour in liquid Gold Bond Hydro-Stop. It follows the water right to the leak and seals it upon drying. Two applications twenty-four hours apart, are usually all that is required. Get Hydro-Stop now and cure damp basements the easy, sure way.

PLEASANT HYBRID—Retaining a contemporary flavor without being as streamlined as most styles of that design, this transitional utilizes such popular traditional features as shutters, shingled slanting roof lines and a bow window.

Old and New Blend in Transitional Home

A transitional house combines features of the past and the present. If it is well-designed, it embraces the best of the old and the new, utilizing the traditional and contemporary details that provide spaciousness, comfort and good lines.

And, of course, it bows to the requirements of modern living.

An excellent example of a transitional house is Design Z-62, a blend of a one and a two-story home. While the exterior gives the impression of being a full two-story, the upper portion is actually located only over the living room, library and foyer.

Its visual characteristic is a forward projecting center section, two stories in height, with the top part overhanging, but with a bow window under the overhang.

FOYER

A recessed front entrance leads to a large foyer, which in turn leads, by its various accesses, to the living room, library, master bedroom, family room upstairs and garage. A guest powder room is just off the foyer.

★ ★ ★

The living room is sunken, 23' long and has a conversation niche built in near the fireplace. It's a long seat under the window overlooking the front garden.

On the other side of the fireplace are French doors leading to a side porch 17' long and with a barbecue. There also are entrances to the dining room and the library.

★ ★ ★

The latter is just off the foyer, with its bow window attractive from both the inside and the outside.

★ ★ ★

A combination kitchen-family room stretches 28' and connects to the dining room as well as to a rear service porch.

★ ★ ★

Each portion of the combination has double windows looking out on the rear. There is a large closet in the family room area, a broom closet in the kitchen.

★ ★ ★

While the master bedroom is on the first floor, it is in a wing by itself for privacy. It has cross ventilation and its own bathroom with a stall shower. This wing is completed by the two-car garage, which is to the rear and completely hidden from front view.

STORAGE

Three storage closets in the garage are built-in and take no space from that required for two cars.

★ ★ ★

The stairway to the second floor has two windows, providing natural light during the day. There is a foyer, with a hall bath flanked by two linen closets.

★ ★ ★

Both bedrooms are sizable and each has a walk-in closet. The larger of the two rooms also has a window seat.

★ ★ ★

Traffic circulation throughout this house is excellent. And the abundance of closet space is sure to please the housewife, who often has bemoaned the scarcity of storage areas.

EXTERIOR

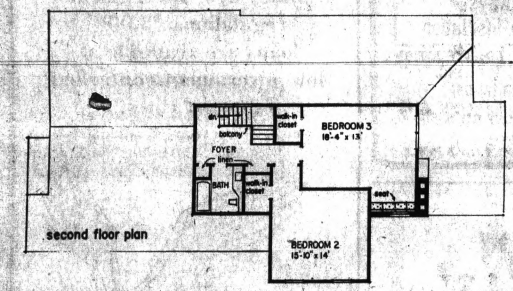
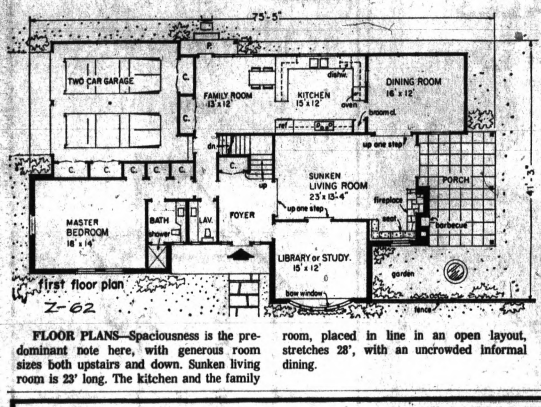
★ ★ ★

Architect Rudolph Matern has created a transitional house meant for gracious living.





FLOOR PLANS—Spaciousness is the predominant note here, with generous room sizes both upstairs and down. Sunken living room is 23' long. The kitchen and the family room, placed in line in an open layout, stretches 28', with an uncrowded informal dining.

Z-62 STATISTICS

Design Z-62 has a living room, dining room, kitchen-family room, library or study, master bedroom and private bath, foyer, lavatory and lots of closet space, all on the first floor. Total habitable area of this arrangement is 1776 square feet. Also on the main level is a two-car garage with three storage closets and a side porch with barbecue. There are two bedrooms, a bath, balcony and four closets upstairs, totaling 840 square feet. Over-all dimensions, which include the garage and the side porch, are 75'5" by 41'3".

With Summer Over

Tackle Home Repairs

Days shorten . . . the temperature drops. Summer has drawn to a close and the homeowner is about to discover a sad fact.

But now autumn looms ahead, the homeowner "pays" for the easy living with nagging worries: what to do to put the house in order? . . . where do I begin?

Planning a checklist — writing down chores in logical order and following through — is a sure way of efficient "doing".

OUTDOORS

Long as the weather's mild, might as well tackle the outdoor chores first.

That means painting will be near the top of the list. Frequent drenching in summer rain, daily exposure to hot sun wreaks havoc with paint, so check for signs of blistering, peeling, mildew or discoloration.

★ ★ ★

Touching up the trouble spots now is an easy effort; letting them go till spring could mean a major repair bill.

LESSON

For centuries, poets have described snow as nature's greatest beauty. But you'll take a different view — if you slip on your front steps. Moral: don't add a natural hazard. Replace faulty boards in stairs, fill up the holes in the concrete walk.

★ ★ ★

Snow can be nasty for other reasons. A small leak in the roof may only seem a trifling inconvenience at summer's end. But when the blanket of white starts melting, your upper floor will turn into a miniature Niagara! To keep dry and cozy means a few dabs of roof tar and shingles!

★ ★ ★

Clogged drains are another nuisance. Make sure your gutters and downspouts are clear and cover the gutters with wire mesh to keep out the falling leaves.

Any homeowner knows that heating costs are a major expense. Yet many home owners squander heating dollars — by failing to weatherstrip doors and windows.

MENDING

Mending loose boards and shingles in the siding, fixing cracks in stucco and loose mortar between bricks, caulking all exterior cracks and seams are also important items on your checklist.

Once the major chores are out of the way, think of the smaller tasks that add convenience, safety and comfort to winter living.

★ ★ ★

The furnace is a good place to start. Remove all the soot and ashes; use a heavy wire brush to clean out accumulated dust from the flues. If you have a hot air furnace, check metal jacket and cast iron fire pot for air leaks — seal them with furnace putty. Oil burners must also be serviced regularly for possible adjustment, so don't forget to call the repairman.

Most of these tasks on the checklist can be dispatched easily and efficiently with the handiest tool for do-it-yourselfers — the staple gun!

STAPLE GUN

Home repair experts usually prefer to use a heavy duty staple gun and the heavy duty Arrow T-50 is probably the most versatile and widely used gun of this type on the market today.

It's especially useful in securing the garden against winter sleet and heavy snow. For example, trunks of young trees can be wrapped with burlap for protection and the burlap fastened with staples. Also your prize perennials and shrubbery may be gun tacked to stakes for support.

★ ★ ★

Hazards of tripping from loose fence wire should be eliminated. A few quick squeezes of the T-50 trigger handled easily staples mesh or chicken wire securely to wooden post uprights or baseboards.

A special T-50 slip-on attachment brings equal ease in precision repairing or replacing torn screen wire after window screens have been washed for storage.

OTHERS

Other Fall fix-it chores include replacing worn seat covers, tacking down carpets, lining kitchen shelves and closets with gay oilcloth.

Specific chores will vary from homeowner to homeowner. The important thing is — get them done!

★ ★ ★

Appliances Hit by Hard Water

Common home water problems that may be caused by "hard water" include: scale build-up in water heaters and plumbing, stained porcelain and fabrics, streaked dishes and tableware, waste of soaps and detergents and discomfort to hands and faces.

All can be corrected by installation of a home water softening appliance.

Bonding Ups Fire Safety

According to the United States Forest Products Laboratory, a great advantage of engineered timber construction is fire safety.

If exposed directly to flames, massive timber arches or beams may char on their outer surface but the solid wood core remains intact to prevent collapse of the structure.

★ ★ ★

Engineered timbers are made by bonding and building up one and two inch thick lumber with powerful adhesives into arches, beams or columns of any desired dimensions. Clear spans of several hundred feet have been obtained with Southern Pine arches.

Paint–Protector of Wood, Metal

Paint both protects and beautifies the outside of your home. Paint can help prevent wood from rotting and metal from corroding — thus preventing costly repairs.

If your home should be repainted — don't hesitate. Paint now and save money later.

Legislator Urges New School Financing Plan

LANSING (AP)—A new school financing system featuring a higher state income tax and a $280-million property tax cut, and designed to give a financial boost to Michigan's poorer school districts, was proposed by a legislator Friday.

Rep. Roy Spencer, R-Attica, said he would present the proposal to a special House committee which is studying the school finance issue. He is chairman of the committee.

The essential feature of Spencer's plan, which he called "school tax reform," would be a partial transfer of the burden of school support from local property taxes to the state.

It would limit a school district's basic property tax to 12 mills, some eight mills less than the current state average, resulting in a saving of an estimated $260 million a year for the state's property owners, Spencer said.

At the same time, he proposed flat-rate income tax increases of 1 per cent on individuals and 2 per cent on corporations, with the yield of an estimated $250 million or more earmarked for school aid purposes.

* * *

A district which levied only the 12-mill "basic" tax would be guaranteed revenue of at least $550 per pupil per year—the amount now available to a wealthy district containing property equalized at $20,000 per pupil.

* * *

Voters in the school districts would also have options under the Spencer plan to levy district-wide either more millage or a personal income tax of their own.

Income from any extra voted millage, up to an additional six mills, would be supplemented by the state's that the district would receive the same yield as said.

Districts which now have $20,000 SEV or more per pupil would benefit little, Spencer said, but "any district under the $20,000 valuation has to come out way ahead."

"I think the public schools in this state are almost on the verge of collapse unless we take steps to prevent it," Spencer said.

New Series Will Explain Women's Life Cycle

EDITOR'S NOTE — From bouncing infancy to swinging old age, "The Five Ages of Women" are surveyed by Eve Thomas in a lively series covering the medical scene as it applies to women from one to a hundred.

By EVE THOMAS

From the moment of conception, girls are built to last. At conception, boys outnumber girls 130 to 100. From then on, those male embryos and fetuses give up the ghost in disproportionate numbers. So many more boys spontaneously abort that, at birth, there are only 106 boys left for every 100 new-born girls.

In the first few months of life, the boys continue to succumb. When that first birthday cake comes around, the number of boys and girls is even.

★ ★ ★

That's apparently the way nature wants it because this male vulnerability is not limited to human beings. It crops up through the animal kingdom—among mice, moths, houseflies, and fish.

During infancy and early childhood, girls and boys share more common experiences than they ever will again. Physical changes are very much the same for both sexes. They're even look-alikes, as anyone knows who has ever looked into a strange baby carriage.

Now that boys wear pink with impunity, little girls blue, and both sexes revel in reds and yellows, figuring out the correct sex is largely a matter of chance.

ALIKE

In the beginning of his famous Baby Book, Dr. Benjamin Spock apologizes for using "he" throughout and thus ignoring half the infant population. That single correction is sufficient because, in the early years, little boys and little girls develop so similarly. Boy and girl infants both zip along through weaning, night feedings, croup, and other crises.

Boys tend to be somewhat slower about such items on the agenda as toilet-training but the difference is quite insignificant — and a fast boy has no trouble outpacing a slow girl.

Infants of both sexes make their greatest spurts in growth in that first year—stretching by half, from an average of 20 inches to 30 inches, and tripling their birth weights. Then they both slow down, so that it takes five years just to double their first-year weight. By the age of four, sexual differences start manifesting themselves.

At about that age, enough adrenal estrogen is released to give a little girl a subtle feminine look. At around eight, her knees and shoulders are visibly plumper than a boy's. By 10, most boys are clearly stronger than girls of the same age, showing 35 per cent more muscle strength on specific tests. Small wonder that girls learn early to prudently limit their expressions of anger to tears and screams, rather than attempting hand-to-hand combat.

The really crucial determinant of childhood sex differences, of course, may well be the social norm decreeing that girls should be agreeable and ingratiating, while boys should be independent and aggressive. Little girls tend to pattern themselves after their mothers, as boys do after their fathers.

Studies show that teachers often unfairly favor girls over schoolboys because the girls are so much quieter and more obedient. Treated more gently, they tend to be gentler. A study in an orphan asylum underscores this.

When the nicknames boys and girls gave each other were analyzed, it turned out that nearly 40 per cent of the boys' nicknames were derogatory compared to only seven per cent of the nicknames thought up by the girls. Faced with a plump little girl, the boys frequently opted for a nickname like "Fatso," while the more generous girls would come up with something like "Blondie."

Curiosity about the world and people consumes both boys and girls. "What makes a cloud?" "Where do I come from?" These are every-day, interchangeable questions from children.

Pediatricians believe both should be answered, not necessarily in great detail. If a child wants to know more, she will ask further questions. Honest answers are always the best policy. What pediatricians caution against are over-answers, answers going far beyond the girl's request for information.

INFORMATION PLEASE

There is a growing recognition of the need for down-to-earth factual information on sexual matters for youngsters. Many schools have begun sex education courses. In the lower grades, appropriate subjects are: how the sexes differ, how a baby is conceived, and how it is born.

False modesty instilled in a girl's early years can become an adult hang-up. Nakedness is essentially normal. So is masturbation and "playing doctor." Physicians agree that a girl should never be scolded for such behavior.

★ ★ ★

However, says pediatrician Herbert Birch of the Albert Einstein College of Medicine, a decent regard for social convention is not necessarily prudery; even a three- or four-year-old, he feels, is old enough to be told that she should not handle herself in public. Generally, genital play is usually dropped at around seven or eight years of age.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Elizabeth Parker, a Los Angeles gynecologist, points out that parents lay the groundwork for sex education "by loving the child and expressing that love in a meaningful way" and by the way they treat one another. As in more routine matters, "Don't do what I do but do what I say" does not work here either.

The beloved daughter of loving parents is guaranteed to be made of "sugar and spice and all that's nice."

The cape swings into fashion on fall overcoats, says the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear. With detachable cape, the overcoat in gray tweed has fashion extras in its 6-button double-breasted styling and belted sleeves. Note the gray suede gloves and felt brim-down hat that brings off this total picture of suave masculinity.

Wife Complains That Husband Needs Her Constant Presence

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I hope you will answer an anonymous letter as I'm sure my husband would be very hurt if he knew I wrote to you.

You see, my problem is, after 25 years of marriage, all I feel for my husband is "tolerance."

He wants to spend every minute with me. He goes with me to do all the shopping. He works with me around the house. We go on vacations together, and except for the eight hours we spend at our respective jobs during the day, we are always together.

I do my wifely duties with resentment. I would love to be able to go to a movie without him, or to read a book, or just be left alone. If I don't get a weekend without him I will go crazy.

Our children are grown and living out of state, so we have no strong ties anymore as far as I'm concerned. Please help me. I feel so smothered. I would love to be a "golf widow" or the like, but I don't want to hurt him.

"LOOKING FOR RELIEF"

DEAR LOOKING: If you want to be "alone" to read a book or see a movie, quit your job. But that's not really your problem. You "tolerated" your husband when the kids were young and he was necessary to help raise them. Now you're bored with him.

Go see your kids. Take a trip with a friend. But if you don't want to "hurt" your husband, don't let him know how you've conned him for 25 years.

DEAR ABBY: I need your help desperately and I need it now. I am going to be married soon to a very decent and wonderful guy.

I have led him to believe that I am the "nicest" girl he has ever known. I realize that I should have told him the truth long before this, but it's too late now. He is looking forward to a pure, untouched wife, and he is not going to have one if he marries me.

In plain English, how can I tell him I am not a virgin?

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: In plain English.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 17 years and I don't regret a minute of it, but listen to this: I have nine beautiful, wonderful kids (when they're asleep) ranging all the way from a nine-month-old baby to a pair of 16-year-old twins. I am the maid, chief cook and bottle-washer, chauffeur, laundress, gardener, bookkeeper, teacher, "nurse," referee, and psychiatrist. And now my husband expects me to be an animal trainer and dog catcher.

He brought home a three-weeks old cocker spaniel "for the kids" — and guess who has to train him, feed him, walk him, and clean up after him? (Don't tell me to hit the pup with a rolled-up newspaper. Have you ever looked into the eyes of a three-week-old cocker spaniel and tried to HIT him?)

Am I wrong to say this dog has got to go?

KEN'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: If Ken brought the pup home for "the kids" — the kids should take care of him. Every family should have a pet, but the children should be taught to care for him. If yours refuse to learn—out!

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I usually bottle my feelings up inside me so I won't become a nag. My husband works very hard. He's a machinist. Naturally because of his work his clothes get very dirty and greasy. When he comes home, he likes to relax, and I think he should be able to, but he either sits or lies on the front room furniture in his dirty work clothes. How would you handle this? I'm ready to crown him.

JENNIE

DEAR JENNIE: A man's home is his castle, but don't "crown" him. Buy some plastic covers for your furniture. Or use old bedspreads.

★ ★ ★

CONFIDENTIAL TO BILL M. IN ALBUQUERQUE: Tell the neighbor girls personally that the reason you have a wall around your patio is that you want privacy, and you'd appreciate it if they didn't sit up there and observe you and your guests. If that doesn't work, tell their parents.

Bridesmaids May Contribute to the Shower

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I have a relative whose daughter, Dede, asked my daughter to be one of her bridesmaids. My Donna immediately made plans to give Dede a shower.

★ ★

I pointed out to her that it wasn't her place to give her a shower, but only the maid of honor. A few days ago, the maid of honor called and told Donna that all the girls were putting a certain amount towards the shower.

I was on the extension and butted in telling the girl that only the maid of honor was responsible for the shower and she had no right to ask the other girls for money.

My daughter got very annoyed with me and told me the correct thing was for the bridal party to all be responsible. Then she called me cheap and petty and has refused to discuss anything with me. Don't you think I am right?—Mrs. R. S.

Dear Mrs. S.: No you're not right. The maid of honor is not required to give a shower at all, although she generally does. If she chooses to, she may ask the others to chip in making it a "bridesmaids' shower" rather than her own.

★ ★ ★

In addition, any of the other bridesmaids may give a shower, but the guests should be selected so that the same girls are not invited to too many.

MARRYING

Dear Mrs. Post: The man I plan to marry is divorced. We are both of the Catholic faith and we will, of course, marry out of the church. Financially, we have no problems and our background would be considered middle class.

★ ★ ★

I would appreciate your competent advice as to whether we should just slip away and get married and then notify our families and close friends OR should we have a small dinner party after the wedding for our family and friends?—Margaret

★ ★ ★

Dear Margaret: It depends on the attitude of your family. If they are opposed to your marriage because of your hssband-to-be's divorce, you would avoid a difficult situation by presenting them with a "fait accompli."

But if there is no problem, you will have happy memories of your wedding day if you arrange a small dinner reception for family and friends.

RETIRED TEACHERS

Rep. Clifford Smart (R-60th Dist.) addressed the annual fall meeting of the Pontiac Area Retired Teachers Association Thursday at Pontiac Northern High School.

His topic was "What's New in Teachers' Retirement Legislation." Smart is a member of the State Legislature's Retirement Committee. He explained the financing of the retirement fund and the problems involved.

Mrs. Edith Cadieux was in charge of the dinner arrangements. She was assisted by Mrs. Olive Lord, Mrs. Carroll Porritt, Gertrude Overton, Mrs. Paul Allison and Arno Hulet.

Why Grow Old?

By JOSEPHINE LOMMAN

Not many years ago the woman who wore false eyelashes was considered quite daring. However, the effect was so glamorous that other women were naturally envious, although hesitant to try them. Today these cosmetic aids are a usual, everyday part of makeup.

This is understandable considering what they can do for a face. Just this one cosmetic addition can make a wonderful difference in a woman's appearance. You have to try it to believe it! Perhaps you have had the experience of seeing a friend who suddenly looked much prettier than usual, and then discovering that false lashes were the reason. These can "pick up" average eyes and dramatize beautiful ones.

There are all kinds of lashes. Today you can buy lightweight ones which look entirely natural or you can wear those which are much heavier, thicker, longer, and frankly false. I think the majority of women prefer the lightweight variety. These are worn slightly longer than your own lashes.

Some women wear both kinds, the natural appearing ones for daytime and the dramatic ones for gala evenings. Regardless of the popularity of lashes-not-your-own, there are still many women who wish to take advantage of these beauty-zoomers but feel that they could never apply them properly. This is not true, but it may take a little practice.

You cannot expect to do a perfect job the first time you try. Pick the lashes up with tweezers. Apply a liquid adhesive (which comes with the lashes) to the lash base. You can do this most easily with a toothpick. WARNING! Do not use too much adhesive. If you do the lashes will become stickly and hard to handle.

Now look down into a mirror while you position the false lashes above your own lashes and as close to them as possible. Begin pressing them into place at the center and work out toward the ends with your finger or a clean toothpick. A magnifying mirror is preferable.

Event Combines Fashions, Cards

A combination fashion show-card party is scheduled Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the newly-erected activities building in Father Myrick Hall of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Lake Orion.

Sponsored by the women of the church, the show will feature fashions from the Clothes Closet Shoppe in Oxford.

Tickets may be purchased at the door for this event which is open to the public.

Acrylic Material for Mending Jobs

A new white acrylic filler looks and feels like ceramic tile yet it can be squeezed from a tube. The plastic rubber compound will not shrink, crack or pull out, the manufacturer says. The white also stays white. The material is highly resistant to mildew and discoloration.

The product is suggested to fill cracks and crevices both indoors and out. The manufacturer said it is highly effective as a caulking and waterproofing filler around sinks, tubs and plumbing fixtures.

'I Don't Have to Prove Anything'—Hah!

By BETTY CANARY

"Rudeness will get you a trip to your room," I answered, but I pushed the reject button on the phonograph.

"A gutless gesture," my son remarked.

* * *

"I am an adult and do not have to prove anything. I can live for awhile without hearing the rest of my album and I do not care to make Mrs. H. feel uncomfortable."

"Maybe she would like The Ventures," he said, as she came into the room. "Mother was listening to her favorite record . . . wouldn't you like to hear 'Tequila'?"

"A Mexican symphony?" Mrs. H. asked.

"Not exactly," I said.

"One of those GROUPS? With the long hair and yelling?"

"Only one word is said on 'Tequila.' Would you care for some iced tea?"

"Mother's favorites in this album are 'Telstar' and 'Wipeout'," my daughter said obviously with malice aforethought.

"What's the country coming to?" Mrs. H. exclaimed. "Children in all that Paisley and boys with beads around their necks and playing that terrible music!"

"Oh, I don't think it's all terrible and wouldn't you like some iced tea?" I pleaded.

* * *

"They should all be run out of the country. All this trouble is Communist-inspired! They are making fun of the American way of life!"

"We can't blame songwriters. I think they just take a poke at our attitudes — like yours, and MINE," I added hastily, explaining I had taken off the record because I didn't want to offend her and yet I still liked the music I'd been playing.

"Songwriters have no right to criticize. If they don't like America, they don't have to live here," she said as I ruffled through a notebook, trying to find a quotation I'd written down.

"Perhaps they criticize because they DO love America," my son suggested.

"Listen to what J. B. Priestley once said: 'We should improve him. We should cast behave toward our country as the same affectionate but sharp women toward the men they glance at our country. We love . . . do anything except should love it but also insist on stop criticizing and trying to telling it all its faults.'"

Annuity Will Leave No Emergency Cash

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley:

I am a widow 70 years old. I have a $15,000 Certificate in savings at 5 per cent. My insurance agent wants me to put that into an annuity, whereby I would receive $102 a month as long as I live. This is almost $500 more a year than I am getting at present.

MARY FEELEY

Do you think this would be an advisable step? I will appreciate your opinion.

E. B., Chicago

Dear E. S.:

I wouldn't be a bit happy at seeing you left with no emergency savings at all, for the sake of some $40 a month more income. Of course, I don't know how critical that $40 more is in your particular case. But I do believe that the potential expense of illness in later years is too vital a risk to take lightly.

* * *

Buying the annuity would, of course, absorb the entire $15,000, whereas now you could get at it in case of need, even though you wouldn't get the benefit of the full 5 per cent interest unless the contract were completed. So if I were you, I'd think hard as to what an extra $40 a month would mean in comfort and satisfaction before I took such a step.

Dear Mary Feeley:

Last year I found out that Blue Cross and Blue Shield were inadequate coverage, so I also took a hospital income insurance policy.

Will I be covered by both, or only one, in case of a "situation?"

S. R., Midwest

Dear S. R.:

Your hospital income policy pays a certain amount usually weekly as long as you are in the hospital, while BC and BS are service policies. Therefore, they don't conflict, you could collect on both.

An income policy paying you a specified amount is quite different than a policy paying a specified sum toward hospital and/or medical bills. Actually, the income policy is designed to be used in conjunction with a service policy, to provide cash in an emergency.

* * *

Dear Miss Feeley:

How long should canceled savings passbooks be kept? Also bank statements and canceled checks? F. M., Bronx, N.Y.

Dear F. M.:

Keep your canceled savings account passbooks, along with your other bank records including statements and canceled checks, for at least three years. You never know when the Internal Revenue Service may audit your tax return and they generally ask for all bank records for the period of time they're concerned with.

A passbook can provide information, for example, if it shows a deposit of, say $1,000, and the IRS has occasion to want to know where the $1,000 came from. Maybe you never deposited more than $5 at a time, but be a responsible citizen and keep all your banking papers anyway.

* * *

While many of your canceled checks — for utilities and other goods and services—may not be needed for income tax purposes, and while monthly statements show proof of payment of past bills, nevertheless a question involving any business transaction can conceivably come up. Maybe this seems overcautious, but you've nothing to lose except a little drawer space.

* * *

Dear Miss Feeley:

I have a question about my income tax I would like to have you answer. My husband and I paid $132 above what medicare paid for the hospital and $79 beyond what medicare paid to the doctor. Can these be added to expenses we have for mother to see if we can claim support for her?

V. W., Fostoria, Ohio

Dear Mrs. V. W.:

Yes, these expenses surely can be added to other expenses to see if you can take her as a dependent. Then, if you can claim her, these expenses can be included with the rest of the family's medical expenses, and computed in accordance with the medical schedule on your return.

PA System Fails, Protesters Get the Best of Wallace

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A key weapon in George C. Wallace's running battle with hecklers—a booming public address system—failed him Friday night, and thousands of hooting protesters forced him to cut short his speech.

Angered over the incident, which also included a tomato and a hippie-type love medallion being thrown at him, Wallace canceled a scheduled local television taping session and turned his presidential campaign toward the Far West.

The heckling at Denver came after speeches in Fargo, N.D., and Casper, Wyo., which were so devoid of noisy protestations that Wallace's usual fiery oratory actually seemed a bit listless.

Wallace's Denver audience of about 10,000 included a sizeable number of vocal supporters, but the protesters, many of them in hippie trappings, would not be shouted down.

FINALLY GAVE UP

When the microphone system seemed to fade the third-party presidential candidate finally gave up. He said to the hecklers, "I can tell you that after Nov. 5, people like you are going to be through in this country," and left the podium.

Both the tomato and the medallion were short of their mark. When the medallion was thrown, Wallace stepped from behind his bulletproof lectern and dared his hecklers to "throw another rock."

Several fist fights broke out in the crowd, and police hustled off at least one young man. No arrests were reported.

In his speech at Casper, Wallace bore down heavily on the Vietnam issue. He repeated his stand that the war should be won militarily if peace talks fail, and added:

"I can assure you we are not going to stay much longer in Southeast Asia. But we are not going to withdraw unilaterally. We are not going to withdraw dishonorably."

The statement left unclear Wallace's position on what would be his course if a military solution also should fail, an eventuality he does not consider possible.

In Buffalo, N.Y., Oct. 3 Wallace said:

"If all the military people in the country said you couldn't win it, which they're not going to say, but if they said that, then we would have to come out."

★ ★ ★

Continuing his exhausting campaign pace, Wallace travels today to Salt Lake City, Utah, for an appearance at the Mormon Tabernacle, then to Boise, Idaho, for a speech at the State House, and ends the day with an 8 p.m. rally in Seattle, Wash.

Welcoming Wallace to Colorado was a full-page Wallace ad in the Rocky Mountain News, the first of an advertising blitz expected in the weeks remaining before election.

The advertisement showed a and the text said: "If you're wondering why more and more millions of your fellow Americans are turning to Governor Wallace, follow as your children are bused all across town." bus moving down a city street,

Hubert May Attend Parade Despite Flu

NEW YORK (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey, admittedly an underdog and rebuffed by Richard M. Nixon in his efforts to gain televised debates, is battling a flu bug that forced cancellation of a campaign trip to Cincinnati and several outdoor appearances here.

★ ★ ★

The Democratic presidential nominee spent most of Friday in his hotel suite, but still hopes to attend a Columbus Day parade today if he feels up to it.

The vice president also planned to tape his nationally televised speech on law and order, to be seen tonight at 9:30 p.m. EDT.

But he called off plans for a motorcade through Negro and Puerto Rican areas of Harlem and the East Bronx.

The intestinal virus struck the vice president Thursday. He completed that day's schedule and the first two appearances on his agenda Friday, before he retired to be in an effort to shake the illness and regain his strength for the speech, his second nationally televised speech of the campaign.

Humphrey appeared at a news conference Friday with his running mate, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, and said he had opened negotiations with a television network for purchase of an hour of time on Oct. 20 for a debate with Nixon and third-party candidate George C. Wallace.

However, a Nixon aide said Nixon considered the debate issue dead since the Senate had not passed a bill to repeal the equal-time provision of the Federal Communications Act.

Dr. Edgar F. Berman, Humphrey's personal physician, said "he just feels achy and dragged out." Later, he reported his patient "was feeling better" and that his fever, which had gone up to 99.4 in the morning, was back to normal.

FEELS LOUSY

Dr. Berman defined the ailment as "a gastro-intestinal disturbance or intestinal flu," saying, "He is not incapacitated in any way except that he feels lousy."

Humphrey's physical condition, the doctor has frequently said, is excellent.

★ ★ ★

Nixon Taking Break for 3 Days to Map Vote-Seeking Efforts

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon is taking three days off the campaign trail to plan what he says will be intensified vote-seeking efforts during the final three weeks of the presidential campaign.

The Republican presidential candidate flew to the seaside resort at Key Biscayne after telling an enthusiastic audience at Dallas Friday night that he is running hard and will win a big victory on Nov. 5.

"You haven't seen anything yet," he told a crowd of more than 10,000 jammed into the Southern Methodist University fieldhouse in Dallas.

Just before leaving Texas for Florida, Nixon made a television appearance over 25 stations in Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

FIELDS QUESTIONED

In fielding questions from a panel picked by campaign aides, the GOP candidate said:

● "I think we are in too many countries in foreign aid. Foreign aid does not create respect sometimes: It creates contempt."

● "I'm not going to move away from the price support program" now in effect "until I think of something better."

— "I intend to make the United States first in space" — a big item in Texas, home of the Space Center at Houston.

Nixon said he is making a determined effort to gather in votes of traditional Democrats "and if I win I am not going to forget them." He said his administration would be sprinkled with Democratic appointees.

He said the only way Democratic rival Hubert H. Humphrey can win is to have a sizeable number of Republicans vote for third-party candidate George C. Wallace. He called a vote for Wallace a vote for Humphrey.

★ ★ ★

The Republican nominee said "I intend to have the youngest White House staff of any president in history." He also said he wanted to give younger people "a piece of the action."

WAR TAX

In a statement issued in Dallas, Nixon called the 10 per cent federal income surtax a "war tax" and said it must be repealed as soon as possible without offering any precise time table.

In his fieldhouse speech at SMU, the candidate said there was a "big D" in this year's White House race—what he defined as a "big difference" between himself and Humphrey.

Describing Humphrey as a "spending spree" candidate, Nixon said he would reduce federal outlays and he said Humphrey was "shackled to the mistakes of the past."

★ ★ ★

While in Texas Nixon put out a statement decrying beef imports and blaming the Democrats for declining cattle prices. He said, "loop holes in the present law must be closed so that domestic cattle producers can compete on a fair basis in the growth of the domestic market.

Levin Blasts GOP Hopeful

DETROIT (UPI) — Democratic State Chairman Sander M. Levin Friday night charged Republican presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon with refusing to debate Democratic presidential hopeful Hubert Humphrey and termed it "a great disservice to this country."

★ ★ ★

Levin, speaking at a rally in the 1st and 13th Districts, said every American deserves to know the actual position of each candidate on the major issues confronting the nation.

★ ★ ★

Nude Beatle, Girlfriend Don't Apeel to Magazines

LONDON (AP) — Advertisements for a new record with a cover showing Beatle John Lennon and his Japanese girl friend Yoko Ono in the nude—rear view—have been turned down by British music magazines.

The album is entitled "The Two Virgins." It was produced by The Beatles' own company, Apple, but has not yet been distributed.

Its cover shows the naked pair holding hands and looking back over their shoulders at the camera. This picture was intended to be part of the advertisement, with a caption saying:

"It isn't a trend or a trick. It's just two of God's children singing and looking much as they were when they were born, only a little older."

Asked why the advertisements had been turned down, a spokesman for two music trade magazines said: "It was felt that they were not suitable."

Lennon, the bespectacled Beatle, was not available for comment. Nor was Miss Ono, the artist who once made a movie featuring 365 bare bottoms.

They were defended, however, by Derek Taylor, an executive of the Apple company.

"Frankly," he said, "we see nothing wrong with the cover. Has anyone ever taken offense at Adam and Eve?"

$10-Million Craft Gets Towed to Navy Shipyard

SEATTLE (AP) — The new $10-million destroyer escort Albert David, fully equipped and in fighting trim, was towed Friday from the Lickheed Shipbuilding & Construction Co. yard across Puget Sound to Bremerton to be delivered to the Navy.

Why the tow? A matter of economics.

It was less expensive to hire tugs than man the warship with a crew for the trip under her own power.

The destroyer escort, named for World War II Medal of Honor winner Lt. Albert Leroy David, a native of Maryville, Mo., will be commissioned Oct. 19 at the Puget Sound Naval Shipyard, Bremerton.

"With Six You Get Eggroll" may be the first movie ever made with all good guys and no bad guys.

And a teenaged daughter who likes boys, except when she's related to them.

Wouldn't it be refreshing to see a movie where everyone comes out fine, including you?

International Newspaperboy Day October 12, 1968

David Mason of 725 Second St., Pontiac, was a former outstanding carrier salesman. He now works part time in The Pontiac Press Circulation Department while attending Oakland University on a Pontiac Press Scholarship.

Jerry Welty of 319 Casemere, Lake Orion, has saved his earnings to make a dream come true. He is taking flying lessons and some day hopes to own his own airplane.

James Strine of 126 Marquette, Pontiac, displays his proud possessions which include a pool table, road racing set and model automobiles. All of the items were purchased from his earnings at a Pontiac Press Carrier Salesman.

ENTERPRISING YOUNG BUSINESSMEN

Pontiac Press Carrier Salesmen Achieve Their Goals.

One reason a newspaperboy goes so far is that he has a unique opportunity to operate a successful business of his own, buying newspapers at wholesale he delivers and sells them to you at retail, performing a real service for you.

In the process, and under the guidance of men trained to work with boys, he develops self-discipline, courtesy, and dependability and learns how to keep books and make a profit.

Nowadays there are few other places left where a boy can supplement his "book learning" with such worthwhile part time business training.

You can help us celebrate International Newspaperboy Day — by taking a moment this week to give him your "Vote of Confidence" by a word of encouragement and appreciation for his service. Do it!

Elvis Plans Return to Grass Roots of Popularity

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — While the Beatles and other groups have filled stadia and auditoriums with screaming teen-agers, Elvis Presley climbed Olympus, aloof from the howling, record-buying youngsters.

Until now.

* * *

He is returning to the grass roots of his popularity in a significant about-face for the secretive, invisible Elvis.

* * *

"Before too long I'm going to make some personal appearance tours," he said. "I'll probably start out here in this country and after that play some concerts abroad, starting in Europe.

PERSONAL CONTACT

"I want to see some places I've never seen before. I miss the personal contact with audiences."

* * *

It has been movies and recordings and that's all. But youngsters want to see their heroes in the flesh. It adds new impetus to a lagging career, creates fresh excitement.

The adult Presley understands this.

KNEES SHAKING

He grinned broadly: "I've already taped that Christmas show for December. And let me tell you my knees were shaking. Not that they were keeping time with the music.

* * *

"It had been just too long since I'd appeared before a live audience. After awhile I began to relax and enjoy myself. Now I'm looking forward to a tour or two and seeing the people from a stage again."

* * *

He has another movie commitment next March at Universal. So far there is no title for Presley's first picture at the studio. But such details don't faze Elvis.

IN DEMAND

It is enough for him that he continues to be in demand by motion picture companies and that his records sell like magic.

* * *

The details, the money and contracts are left to Col. Tom Parker. Elvis does, however, take a personal interest in a number of charities, most of which he keeps secret.

* * *

One friend said he has given away more than a million dollars in the past decade.

Lighting of Torch Signals Start of Games

Duel for Medals Opens Sunday in 19th Olympics

MEXICO CITY — The symbolic torch, signifying the start of the 19th World Olympics, was lighted today before 105,000 spectators and 7,530 athletes in University of Mexico stadium.

For the first time in history of the games, a woman lit the Olympic flame. The torch girl was Enriqueta Basilio, a 20-year-old Mexican who ran 400 meters around the track with the torch before putting a flame to it to signify the start of the games.

Tomorrow, the world's greatest athletes will begin competition for the most treasured award in athletics, with the United States hoping to lead the gold medal parade with at least 36. The U.S. has the largest contingent in the games with 484 athletes, including 378 men and 106 women.

MORE MEN

The Soviets have more men entered, 387, but have a total of 462 with 75 women.

High totals among the other countries include West Germany with 343, East Germany with 332, France 287, Mexico 269, Japan 254, Great Britain 250, Poland 231, and Hungary 221. There are 101 countries represented with three nations having just one representative, namely Afghanistan, Indonesia and Libya.

If a person wanted to rush to a world map, he could look for such countries as Barbados with two entries, Kinshas with 3, Gabon with 3, Mali with 2, Lieshtenstein 3, Niger (not Nigeria) 3, Sierra Leona 4, Togo 3.

The United States and Russia, of course, are expected to make the big haul of medals, with American swimmers and divers figured to win as many as 22 gold medals. The U.S. has athletes entered in 17 of the 19 sports.

The soccer team was eliminated in qualifying a year ago and the field hockey team failed to qualify in a tournament held at the Pan-Am games. The men's track and field is the strong point for the U.S.

UNDEFEATED TEAM

But Soviet women are expected to win the bulk of the medals. In basketball, the United States stands 66-0 since the sport was instituted in the games in 1932 and the present team, which includes ex-Michigan player John Clawson and current U. of Detroit cager Spencer Haywood, is again favored among the 16 teams entered.

The U. S. is in group A which has Yugoslavia as the strongest challenger along with Puerto Rico, Italy, Panama, Philippines, Senegal and Spain.

Russia is the favorite in group B, which has Brazil, Mexico, Cuba, Bulgaria, Korea, and Poland. Among the American contingent, there are only 80 repeaters from the 1964 Olympic squad, most prominent of course being Don Schollander, winner of four gold medals.

City's Micki King Heads List of Michigan Hopefuls

By BRUNO KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

MEXICO CITY — Pontiac's Micki King is one of the strongest choices to bring an Olympic gold medal back to Michigan from among the state residents in individual competition.

Actually, there are 18 other athletes in the U.S. contingent who identify with the state of Michigan because of birth and having moved elsewhere or because they may have attended school in the state.

When competition begins Sunday, the first state athlete to see action will be Ron Kutchinski of Grand Rapids who will compete in the qualifying heats of the 800-meter run, an event which he won in the Big 10 meet this year while at the University of Michigan.

Of all the track events, the competition in the 800 meter run is expected to be the closest among the three U.S. entries, which includes Tom Farrell and Wade Bell along with Kutchinski.

TWO FROM STATE

In the 5,000 meter run, Michigan is represented by Jack Bachelor of Birmingham and Louis Scott of Detroit. Bachelor, a former Birmingham Seaholm runner, is studying for his doctorate at the University of Florida.

Scott, former Eastern High School state champion, is a graduate of Arizona State and planning on a teaching career in Detroit.

In women's track, 21-year-old Franci Kraker of Ann Arbor, a junior at Michigan, is competing in the 800 meter event. Two Detroiters are making their bid for Olympic medals with the boxing team. John Baldwin, a 1968 graduate of Southeastern High, will fight as a light middleweight, while Alfred Jones, a 22-year-old Eastern Michigan student is a contender in the middleweight class.

John Clair, a 1959 graduate of Battle Creek high and 1964 U. of M. graduate, is competing in the canoeing events as a kayak paddler. His parents now reside in Taylor Center.

Among the women in canoeing, also in the kayak event, Mrs. Marcia Smoke of Buchanan, a 1964 MSU graduate, is expected to be the top threat for the U.S. William Maher of Grosse Pointe, now a Pfc. in the Army stationed at Fort Harrison, Ind. is competing in the rowing event.

Clawson is no stranger to Michigan athletics, as a former member of the great Wolverine cage team of the Cazzie Russell era, with three Big Ten championships. Haywood, an all-state prep at Pershing, is now enrolled at the University of Detroit and he is considered to be the "big man", on the boards and in scoring for the U.S. Olympic team which has a record of 66-0 in Olympic competition since the sport was added in 1932.

The cagers under coach Hank Iba open Sunday against Spain, but after that Iba feels he got the worst of the bracket being in with Puerto Rico, third place team last year, along with Yugoslavia and Italy, two of the strong contenders.

Russia is in the other barcket with Brazil and Mexico as strongest challengers. Other names remembered in Michigan among the entries are Chuck Knorr, ex-star diver at Ohio State who was born in Detroit but lives in Florida. His dad lived in Lake Orion recently.

State Brothers in Tough Tests at Two Sites

MEXICO CITY — Ron Kutschinski of Grand Rapids has a tough three-day grind ahead of him as a member of the U.S. track team in the World Olympics, but today he is thinking football.

Ron's brother, Tom, a junior at Michigan State, will be playing with the Spartans against Michigan, where Ron was a Big Ten track star.

"I hope Tom scores a couple touchdowns, but I've got to root for Michigan to win," said Ron, who expressed gratitude to the people of Grand Rapids for sending his mother and dad to Mexico City to watch him perform.

"That was a tough decision for mom and dad, whether to go see Tom in the Michigan-MSU game or come down here to watch me," said Ron.

ONLY ONCE

"But there will be another M-MSU game for Tom next year and of course no Olympics for me." he added.

Ron is entered in the 800-meter run and he is hopeful of a 1-2-3 sweep for the United States in that event. However, his first heat is scheduled Sunday, the second on Monday and the finals, if he makes them, on Tuesday.

Gordie Scores in 4-2 Loss

Bruins Halt Red Wings in Opener

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Bruins are off to a winning start in the National Hockey League season, but Coach Harry Sinden isn't exactly leaping in joy.

"Satisfied? I guess I am with the two points on the board," Sinden said Friday night after the Bruins' 4-2 victory over the Detroit Red Wings before a crowd of 14,528 at Boston Garden.

★ ★ ★

"It was a pretty good workout," Sinden said. "However, this doesn't make a season. We made some mistakes, but got away with the win. Let's just say this will do for tonight."

The Bruins built a 3-1 lead and then had to hang on in the closing minutes.

Despite the heat in the packed Garden, the Bruins appeared in good shape physically. The Red Wings managed to threaten because of an over-all letdown by the Boston skaters.

ORR SHINES

Veteran goalie Eddie Johnston turned in a tremendous performance. And the Bruins, especially defenseman Gary Doak, hit hard in trying to slow down the Wings.

Fred Stanfield got the Bruins on the board early. Detroit's Gordie Howe, a 40-year-old veteran, tied the count at 14:20 of the first period with the 689th goal of an illustrious career.

However, Eddie Westfall cashed a backhander to put the Bruins in front less than four minutes later. Phil Esposito scored on a short flip for the decisive goal.

The Wings' Frank Mahovlich converted a rebound of a Howe shot at 17:02. Dallas Smith added an insurance goal for Boston on a 60-foot shot into an unguarded net with just 11 seconds left.

Jim Pappin may not make Chicago hockey fans forget Bobby Hull but for openers he made sure Jacques Plante will remember Jim Pappin.

The 29-year-old Pappin, acquired from Toronto during the off-season, made his debut with the Black Hawks Friday and pumped two goals past old goalie Plante as the Chicagoans skated to a 4-3 victory over the St. Louis Blues in one of three games on the National Hockey League's opening night schedule.

Schoendienst NL Pick

Mayo No. 1 Manager

NEW YORK (AP)— Mayo Smith, who engineered Detroit to its first American League pennant in 23 years, and Red Schoendienst, who directed St. Louis to its second straight National League crown, were named Managers of the Year Friday in the annual Associated Press poll.

It was the second straight year Schoendienst won the award in the balloting by the nation's sports writers and sportscasters while Smith succeeded Boston's Dick Williams in the AL.

Smith received 135 votes to 28 for runner-up Ralph Houk of the New York Yankees. Schoendienst also easily outpolled his nearest rival, getting 129 votes to 36 for Leo Durocher of the Chicago Cubs.

The 53-year-old Smith wins the award after his second year with the Tigers. He managed the Philadelphia Phillies from 1955 through July 22, 1958, then served half the 1959 season as manager of Cincinnati.

BECAME SCOUT

The following year he became a scout with the New York Yankees and held that position until the Tigers hired him to manage in 1967. Detroit was in the pennant race all that season and just missed winning, finishing in a tie for second, one game out.

This season, however, was different. The Tigers started fast and took over first place for good on May 10. They steadily increased their margin ended the year with a team record 103 victories and a 12-game lead.

★ ★ ★

Besides Houk, four other managers received recognition in the American League voting. Alvin Dark of Cleveland and Bob Kennedy, deposed boss of the Oakland Athletics, each received 15 votes while Earl Weaver of Baltimore had three and Boston's Williams two.

In the National voting, Gil Hodges of the New York Mets received 20 votes followed by Cincinnati's Dave Bristol with four, Herman Franks of San Francisco two and Walter Alston of Los Angeles and Luman Harris of Atlanta one each.

Lackawanna Team in Favorite's Role Against Firebirds

The Lackawanna Lancers, big defensively and potent offensively, are 13-point favorites to defeat the Pontiac Firebirds tonight at Wisner Stadium.

Lackawanna defeated Pontiac only 6-0 in their first meeting in Buffalo earlier this season, but the Lancers are now in the thick of the Midwest Football League race and could force a deadlock with Dayton in their next two games.

Game time tonight is 7:30.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac, weakened earlier this season by injuries, hasn't been able to recover fully.

The Firebirds' defense has been strong, but even that point has been hampered by injuries.

The defensive secondary will get a test against the passing of Lackawanna's Van Remmen who is now the second best thrower in the league behind Pistol Pete of Dayton.

SEVEN GAMES

Remmen has 1,184 yards, but he has played only the last seven games for Lackawanna.

Dayton should win its game tonight against Hamtramck but the showdown in the league may come in the next two weeks as Dayton must play at Flint and then close the season at Lackawanna.

Pele Conquers All

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Not even the midnight sacrifice of a black rooster stopped world soccer king Pele, whose most recent performance was supposed to have been jinxed by every black magic potion known to opposing soccer fans.

Indeed, Pele kicked across three goals helping pace his Santos club to a 9-2 win over Bahia, whose rooters had used every trick available in their bag of witchcraft.

Injuries Slow Chicago

Lions Invading Bears' Den

CHICAGO — The form chart indicates that the Detroit Lions' encounter with the Chicago Bears here Sunday should be a low scoring National Football League game.

But the form can be deceiving as the Bears found out when they visited Detroit a couple of weeks ago and suffered a 42-0 shellacking. It was the worst defeat ever handed the Bears by Detroit.

Since 1960, Detroit has outscored Chicago 250 to 241, a per-game average of 15.6 for the Lions and 15.1 by the Bears. Chicago leads in the all-time series 44-22 with three ties.

The lackadaisical play which marked the Lions' 24-10 loss at Minnesota last week won't win the club, which is tied for second in the National Football League's Central Division behind the Vikings, any medals in the clash with the Bears.

COULDN'T GO

"If we play the same way this Sunday," coach Joe Schmidt said, "the Bears will run us out of the park. We could've won from the Vikings. We should've won, but our guys, as a team, just couldn't get up and go."

The get up and go, which got up and went in the Minnesota game, should return as the Lions' coach put them through stern drills this week.

Middle linebacker Mike Lucci is about ready to resume fulltime duty after seeing limited action against the Vikings while the Bears are so injury-riddled at the quarterback position they look more like the "Paper Lion" than Detroit does.

Jack Concannon, who tossed so ably to Detroit defenders in the first meeting of the two clubs (the Lions had eight interceptions in that one), is on the inactive list.

BUKICH DOUBTFUL

Mercurial Gale Sayers was held to under 50 yards rushing in the last meeting between the two clubs, one of the worst days he's had as a pro, but the Lions certainly can't expect that again.

★ ★ ★

The Detroit defense continues to lead the league in pass interceptions, with Lem Barney combining with rookie Mike Weger to form a virtual two-man secondary, while quarterback Bill Munson has taken over second place behind Fran Tarkenton of New York as the league's premier passer.

Rain Stops Play in Match Tourney

VIRGINIA WATER, England (AP) — Rain postponed the finals and a sudden-death semifinal playoff today in the fifth annual World Match Play Golf Championship. Officials said weather permitting the playoff and the finals will be held Sunday.

His opponent in the finals will be the winner of a sudden-death playoff between South Africa's Gary Player, twice winner of the match play crown, and 24-year-old Tony Jacklin of Britain. They tied after 36 holes Friday and had to quit because of darkness.

"I discarded my driver two years ago," Charles said. "In 1963, when I won the British Open, I was at least 20 or 30 yards longer. Now I am short but sure."

★ ★ ★

Charles knocked Arnold Palmer out of the match play Friday 7 and 6, defying pouring rain over the 6,997-yard, par 74 Wentworth course. He was always shorter than Palmer with the long clubs, but closer to the stick when the chips were down.

Sets Bowling Mark

SOUTH SIOUX CITY, Neb. (AP)— Bev Ortner made bowling history last night with an 818 series — the highest three-game series ever bowled by a woman in the United States.

The Galva, Iowa, woman shattered the previous record score of 792 held jointly by three women.

Walled Lake Passes, PNH Mistakes Decisive

Vikings' Balance Overcomes Northern's Defense, 24-0

By JERE CRAIG

The better-balanced attack of visiting Walled Lake put too much pressure on an eager-but-handicapped Pontiac Northern defensive unit Friday night.

★ ★ ★

The result was a 24-0 conquest for the Vikings, extending their record of never having lost a varsity grid meeting to Northern, and keeping Walled Lake in the Inter-Lakes League title chase despite its loss at Livonia last week.

Now 4-1, the Vikings share second place with Waterford behind undefeated Stevenson. PNH slumped to 1-2 in the I-L standings and 2-2-1 for the campaign.

★ ★ ★

GOOD DRIVE

Taking the opening kickoff, they marched on the ground to the Walled Lake 40 from their own 14, aided greatly by a roughing-the-kicker infraction that gained them 15 yards and a first down.

Walled Lake moved quickly, sparked by a 17-yard screen pass that earned it a first down at the PNH 27. Northern's defense stopped the drive there.

But the Huskies' offense again put the defensive unit back on the field by fumbling away possession of the pigskin at its own 42 four plays later.

The Vikings moved in for the score, taking nine plays. On the first one, Steve Gabala broke free for 20 yards. He also got the six points on a two-yard dash with a pitchout on fourth down.

EXCHANGE

The two attacking units swapped interceptions before Northern fumbled the ball away again, this time on a bad snap from center while Bob Hukka was trying to punt.

They took the kickoff and moved across midfield but the half ended with them only down to the WL 36. So at the break, PNH had 32 yards rushing and nine first downs to 30 yards on the ground and six first downs for the Vikings, but was behind, 12-0.

Coomer, who hit 5 of 9 for 67 yards in the opening 24 minutes, continued to pick the PNH secondary apart and fool the line with screen passes in the final half.

However, there was no more scoring until midway through the last period. Taking a punt at its own 44, Walled Lake marched 56 yards in seven plays.

Coomer shook Mike Karner loose for 18 yards and a first down with a screen pass that carried to the Huskies' 24. Two plays later, Bill Welsh caught a right-sideline aerial and eluded two poor tackling attempts for a 24-yard TD play.

Late in the contest, Ferguson covered a fumble at the losers' 28. A pass interference penalty moved the pigskin to the 12. Wil VanderRoest gained seven yards on two carries, then reserve signal caller Bob Swiatek dashed the final five yards to end the six-pointer parade.

★ ★ ★

The Huskies took the last kickoff and made their deepest penetration into Walled Lake territory. Hardiman Jones' 23-yard dash down the sideline, and an added 15 yards on a penalty moved the ball to the winners' 27. Mike Pietryga gained five yards to the 22 as the game ended.

★ ★ ★

The losers outrushed Walled Lake by 44 yards, but could complete no passes. Three lost fumbles and two pass interceptions complicated matters, forcing the PNH defense to see extended duty.

ARRIVES TOO LATE — An unidentified Pontiac Northern lineman reaches Walled Lake quarterback Roy Coomer (left) just a fraction too late to thwart a pass attempt. The Vikings' Mike Karner (on ground) delay the defender's charge just sufficiently to enable Coomer to unleash his aerial. The young passer had a good night in the Vikings' 24-0 victory, hitting on 12 of 23 for 158 yards and two touchdowns.

Lakers Overwhelm Kettering Gridders

W. Bloomfield Romps, 34-20

Redskins Score 27 in First Quarter

West Bloomfield unleashed a devastating ground offensive to bury Waterford Kettering, 39-20, and remain one game ahead of Wayne-Oakland League runner-up Milford who whipped Brighton, 39-7, in the other Friday night game involving a contender.

Conley scored four times and Woodruff went over twice in addition to setting up a couple six-pointers with reverses. Harry Booker notched a pair of late TD's for Kettering.

★ ★ ★

The visiting Captains actually led, 6-0, but oh so briefly. A Jim Walton-to-Jerry Velzy aerial for 48 yards set up Barry Baker's three-yard scoring plunge in the opening minutes of play.

Conley, the W-O dash champion last spring, took the next kickoff, broke free down the right side, then cut across the gridiron for a 90-yard tying return. Jim Taperek's PAT kick made it 7-6.

At Milford, Mark Giegler started the scoring parade for the Redskins on a 67-yard pass-and-run combination from Bob Clinard. Tom Newcombe's four-yard run made it 13-0 since he added the PAT.

Before the first quarter ended it was 27-0 as Matt Partridge (64 yards) and Clinard (10 yards) hit paydirt on runs.

Andover Triumphs; Wolves Surprise

Bloomfield Hills Andover rallied in the second half yesterday afternoon to defeat Clarenceville, 18-12, and remain tied for second place in the Wayne-Oakland League football race.

Northville's hopes were jolted by Clarkston, 13-6, in a night game.

★ ★ ★

Andover and the Trojans went into the contest deadlocked with Milford for second place. Clarenceville struck first on a 33-yard pass from Dave Brandemihl to Mike Halstead in the second quarter to take a 6-0 halftime lead.

★ ★ ★

The Barons, however, wiped this out with a two touchdown burst in the third quarter. Jeff Roley knotted the game with a 14-yard jaunt and then put Andover ahead for good as he took a pass from brother Scott and raced the distance to complete a 63-yard play.

★ ★ ★

The speedy Wolve back bucked over from the one in the first quarter and grabbed a five-yard pass from Bob Palladino in the second stanza.

Northville, falling to a 1-2 mark and all but out of contention, broke into the scoring column in the fourth quarter on Richard Adam's short plunge.

Ferndale Undefeated Seaholm Sharing 2nd

Birmingham Seaholm rallied for a pair of six-pointers in the middle periods to gain a 12-7 win last night at Hazel Park and a share of second place in the Southeast Michigan Association behind powerful Ferndale.

The unbeaten Eales beat down Southfield's upset hopes for a 20-6 win, their fifth straight; while Royal Oak Kimball stayed tied with Seaholm for the runner-up spot by trimming winless Berkley, 27-12.

Seaholm's Maples won their second straight as junior passer Rick Merrill replaced injured starter Dennis O'Neil and led them back from a 7-0 deficit.

★ ★ ★

It appeared to be a good night for the Vikings' Homecoming when they took the opening kickoff and moved quickly to score. The three-play drive was capped by a John Sheppard-to-Dennis Purgatori pass for a 17-yard touchdown. Purgatori added the PAT.

BEGIN MOVING

Late in the half, the visiting Maples moved 75 yards in 11 plays. Rich Bowman scampered 17 yards to get a first down at the HP seven-yard-line. Merrill went over from the four, but the conversion kick failed.

Larry Obey picked off a Vikings' aerial at the Birmingham 42 and ran it to their 31. Seaholm gained a big first down at the 11 on a 12-yard pass to Carl Charles.

Halfback Ed Neff capped the short drive by diving into paydirt from the two as time was running out in the third quarter. Neff and cocaptain Dave Robinson were praised by coach Alex McKinnon for their defenseive efforts, also.

SLOW START

Ferndale could only manage a 7-0 halftime lead on a 35-yard scoring pass, Bill Screws to Baylee Reid, and Jim Prentis' boot.

Jim Thomas gave the winners breathing room with a 15-yard scoring pass from Screws in the third quarter, and he closed out the scoring on a 30-yard pass from Screws in the same period.

Defense Helps Novi to Win Over Lahser

A blocked punt, recovered fumble and pass interception started Novi to three second half touchdowns and a 26-7 upset in a nonleague football clash.

It was the fourth straight victory for Novi after an opening game loss. Lahser is 1-3.

The Knights opened the scoring in the first period on Jeff Kezlarian's seven-yard run. A four-yard pass from Gary Boyer to brother Tom cut Lahser's lead to 7-6 at the half.

BLOCKED KICK

Doug Schott blocked a Lahser punt in the third quarter and Novi promptly scored on a 25-yard sprint by Gary Boyer. After a Lahser TD was nullified by a penalty, the Knights lost the ball on a fumble and Novi marched in with a Gary to Tom Boyer pass covering the final 28 yards.

Waterford 11 Steams Ahead

Skippers Roll to 34-0 Win; Still Second

The Skippers of Waterford Township continue to steam after Inter-Lakes League leader Livonia Stevenson — both registering impressive conquests Friday.

★ ★ ★

It was Homecoming at Farmington Friday afternoon but unfortunately the Skippers were on the guest list and took home a 34-0 victory.

Stevenson, meanwhile, invaded Southfield Lathrup in the evening. All 45 players on the Spartan roster saw action in a 38-7 frolic.

★ ★ ★

The Waterford contest saw the visitors suffer the loss of running backs Steve Golt and Neil Blackmer with head injuries, but coach John Moffat had ample offensive punch. Both could be ready for next week's match with Pontiac Northern.

★ ★ ★

The Skippers jumped into an early lead yesterday. Golt scored on their first scrimmage play, taking a pass from Brad Potter for a 53-yard touchdown.

ADDS SIX-POINTER

A recovered fumble set up a seven-yard scoring dive by Golt to make it 13-0 in the opening period. Bruce Saffron, who kicked four of five conversions, joined the TD parade in the second session.

He plunged over from the six, then following the intermission, the big fullback rambled over from the seven. Larry Hemmerly concluded the WTHS point-making with a 29-yard end sweep in the third quarter.

★ ★ ★

In all, the Skippers (4-1) totaled 175 yards on the ground against the winless Falcons, and 160 by passing.

DEFENSE PRAISED

★ ★ ★

Mott's Initial Success on Gridiron Impressive

The Corsairs scored in every quarter as they whipped Dearborn Annapolis, 85-0. Mott, playing a full varsity schedule for the first time, now has a 1-3-1 record.

★ ★ ★

Terry Ruffato and Bob Zywicki each scored two touchdowns and Bill Ziem added another. Jerry McNair kicked five extra points.

Ruffato opened the scoring in the first quarter by returning a Dearborn punt 65 yards. Later in the period, Zywicki sprinted across from the four.

The duo traded one yard TD plunges in the second and third quarters and Ziem capped the scoring in the last period from the 10. Mott's defense held Annapolis 67 yards rushing and 41 passing.

Anchor Bay Halts Armada Dryden, Almont Post League Wins

There's no doubt now who has the power in the Southern Thumb Conference.

This afternoon, Richmond (3-0) and New Haven (3-0) battle for the top spot with the loser falling into a tie for second with fast-rising Anchor Bay.

In the other two league contests, Dryden crushed Capac and Almont rode past Memphis to the tune of 35-12.

SCORES THREE TDs

Half back Dave Wilcox set the pace for Dryden with three touchdowns. He hauled in a 24-yard pass from Jack West in the second period and tallied twice in the third, once on a 70-yard kickoff return and the other on a five-yard run.

★ ★ ★

Gary Hebert and Greg Howard also got into the scoring act. Herbert tallied twice on runs of 7 and 20 yards, while Howard scored his first on a 25-yard pass from West and the other on a five-yard run. The Cardinals other tally came on a 36-yard pass from West to Richard Best.

John Bacholzky passed for four touchdowns and wound up with 194 yards passing to spark the Almont attack.

Bacholzky's scoring tosses went to Dennis Garner, one for 55 yards and the second for 43, to Roger Hunt.

Dennis Garner, who booted five extra points, hauled in a pair of Bacholzky's strikes while Roger Hunt picked off the other pair. Garner was on the payoff end of 55 and 43 yard pitches, while Hunt hauled in a 20-yarder in the first frame and a 30-yarder in the fourth. Almont's other tally came on a one-yard run by Frank Bacholzky.

North Branch in Tie

Chris Clendenon's 10-yard pass to Tim Stright in the fourth period earned North Branch a 12-12 tie with Harbor Beach in a Greater Thumb B League contest Friday night. Harbor Beach held a 12-6 edge at halftime.

Grid Success Continues for Air-Minded Rochester

By FLETCHER SPEARS

Coach Jim Kapp is making himself at home in the rough-and-tumble Oakland A League.

In his first year as head coach of Rochester's Falcons, Kapp has found nothing but success, and he has the air-minded Falcons well on their way to a football championship.

OUTLOOK BRIGHT

The outlook is extremely bright for Kapp and the Falcons. They're now 5-0 overall, 4-0 in league play, and if they can corral Troy's Colts next week, the rest of the way will be downhill.

★ ★ ★

A defensive line, which was strong in the right places at the right time, plus the over-all direction of talented quarterback Mike Scally led to the Falcons win last night before more than 2,000 fans.

Both teams showed a lot of offensive might, the difference in the game coming in the passing department. Both passed well, but Rochester, while having a sharp aerial game of its own, showed it also has a sound defense for the air attack.

Scally staged a good show. The slender senior hit on 8 of 11 passes for 121 yards and two of the pitches went for touchdowns.

He crossed up the Madison defense on the first Rochester touchdown on a first-down play at the Eagles four-yard line. With Madison jammed in for an expected running play, Scally stood up and fired a short shot to Russ Gill who slanted in from his split end position on the right side. Bob Denz' kick made it 7-0 to end the 80-yard second quarter drive that was launched after Gill had stopped a Madison drive with an interception which he returned to his own 20.

HIKE LEAD

The Falcons made it 13-0 in the third on a 55-yard drive that ended with Scally hitting Mike Fitzwilson with a 37-yard scoring toss. Fitzwilson took the ball near the left sideline 25 yards from the goal and outstepped a couple of defenders for the six points.

★ ★ ★

Madison's lone tally came late in the fourth quarter on a two-yard run by flashy halfback Doug Meadows, who turned in a sharp game on both offense and defense for the Eagles.

The Madison drive went 80 yards following an unsuccessful field goal try by the Falcons — their second of the evening — and the Eagle tally was set up by a 37-yard run up the middle by halfback John Angelo.

Tremblay managed to hit on 9 of 23 tosses for 124 yards, but the Falcons picked off a couple of them, one by Gill and the other by Bill Lennox.

But the Falcons defense stiffened and Rochester took over on its own 39 after Tremblay's fourth-down pass was knocked down by one of the Falcon linemen.

The Falcons and Eagles wasted a few opportunities. Rochester went to Madison's one-yard stripe in the first but a clipping penalty killed the threat. They went to the 10 once and to the 20 another time. On those two ventures, field goal tries by Stan Babiuk and Denz misfired.

Madison went to the Falcon 27 in the first before losing the ball on downs and managed a similar fate on a drive that reached the 22 in the third frame. The two interceptions plus a fumble halted three other promising drives.

Highland Lakes Downs Auburn

The Highland Lakes campus of Oakland Community College maintained its cross country domination of sister school Auburn Hills with an easy 15-51 romp Friday afternoon.

The Highlanders, who have never lost to Auburn Hills in their three-year rivalry, swept the first eight places with the one-two-three men, Roger Cleaver, Brian Schultz and John Nadolni — all coming in under 16 minutes for the three miles. Cleaver led with 15:33.

Harold Boone and Ed Bailey completed the winners' scoring, and teammates Julian Gloomis, Craig Owen and Mark Tallenger added injury to insult by blocking the Nikes out of the 6-7-8 spots.

Ground Game Spurs South Lyon Victory

While running its record to 3-1-1, South Lyon collected 268 yards on the ground and scored in each of the first three periods in posting the win.

Chris Howitt set the pace for the winners by scoring twice on two-yard runs and picking up 145 yards in 17 trips with the ball. Larry Baran posted the other six-pointer on a two-yard run and added an extra point. Dave Brando ran the other point.

Troy, Clawson Winners

Avondale, Orion Scoreless

Strong defensive play kept Avondale and Lake Orion from dissolving their winless tie in the Oakland A League standings last evening, but both gained a bit of ground.

The Dragons and host Avondale battled to a 0-0 standoff, but their 0-3-1 records lifted them from a tie for seventh place into a tie with Utica for the sixth rung.

The Chieftans were dumped into the deadlock by losing to unbeaten Troy, 45-12, who stayed a half game behind undefeated Rochester. The Colts, too, were involved in a tie earlier in the season.

A third 0-A result Friday night found Clawson moving into third place past Madison. The Trojans trimmed Romeo, 34-6, to stand a half game ahead of the Eagles and a similar distance in back of Troy.

At Avondale, the Yellow Jackets got a fine performance from junior passer Craig Medlen who hit 8 of 17 for 105 yards but still couldn't cross the goal line. They reached the Orion 19-yard-stripe in the second period but were stopped by Jerrell Hollens' interception.

TURNABOUT

Similarly, the visiting Dragons pushed to Avon's 19 in the final session, but Bill Lester picked off Bill Baker's aerial to halt the drive.

With time running out, Clyde McCauley punted 50 yards to the L.O. two-yard-line. On the first play, Chuck Whippo just managed to avoid being hit for a safety. Baker then missed on two passes as time ran out.

★ ★ ★

Jim Kauffman sprung loose on scoring jaunts of 65, 35 and 2 yards, and Larry Baker scored on 45 and 15 runs to pace Troy's comfortable win, the Colts' fourth in five starts over-all.

Curt Gillespie had a one-yard plunge and Brad Faber and 10-yard pass from Kerry Brown to go with two of Kauffman's TD for the winners' 26-0 outburst in the opening half.

Bruce Harms ran 65 yards to score Utica's first six points with a recovered fumble as the last half began.

Clawson was a rude host to Romeo after the Bulldogs jumped into a 6-0 advantage when Fred Lebendig capped an early 50-yard drive with a three-yard plunge.

Clawson took the lead by going 79 yards after the kickoff. Ron Gegenheimer dived over from the three and Randy Ross added the PAT. Ross then intercepted a Romeo pass deep in the Trojans' own territory.

On third down, Mike Heist found Larry Niedowicz in the open and the pass play went for a 76-yard score. The score remained 13-6 until the fourth quarter when the gambling Bulldogs betrayed themselves with errant passes.

Two late interceptions enabled Clawson to run up the final margin of 28 points. Niedowicz added his second TD on a 12-yard sweep. Rick Schneider and Greg Vlahakis added the others.

Deadlock Broken in Greater Thumb

The deadlock has been broken in the Greater Thumb Conference.

In a battle of the unbeaten, Millington (4-0) invaded Imlay City (3-1) and handed the Spartans a 19-13 loss.

Trailing 7-6 at halftime, Millington pushed across a pair of touchdowns in the third quarter to sew it up. Imlay made it close with a six-pointer in the fourth.

★ ★ ★

Jerry Ohmer tallied on runs of 47 and 5 yards for Millington and Richard Castle scored on a five-yard dash. Tom Ferstle booted one extra point.

Mike Dodge raced 20 yards for one score and Jerry Shull went three yards on a quarterback keeper for the other Spartan tally. Dave Rowley booted one point.

Martin Leads Twins

New Managers Hired

By The Associated Press

Clyde King and Billy Martin settled into baseball's hot seat today, King with the job of moving the San Francisco Giants up one notch in the National League and Martin the chore of reviving the Minnesota Twins in the American League.

The Giants and Twins confirmed Friday the month-long rumors that King and Martin would be their managers in 1969.

* * *

King, 48, a former pitcher with the Brooklyn Dodgers who managed the Giants' Phoenix farm club to third place last season, was given a one-year contract to replace Herman Franks, who announced late last season that he was leaving.

Franks had guided the Giants to four consecutive second place finishes.

ONE-YEAR PACT

Martin, 40, an aggressive second baseman for the New York Yankees who coached for the Twins before leading their Denver club last season, takes over a seventh place team from fired Cal Ermer. He also has a one-year pact.

The St. Louis Louis Cardinals, after losing the World Series to Detroit, confirmed earlier reports of two trades that brought them veteran outfielder Vada Pinson and veteran pitcher Dave Giusti.

* * *

Pinson, 30, who has posted a 299 lifetime batting average since joining Cincinnati in 1958, will replace retiring Roger Maris in right field for St. Louis. In return, the Cardinals sent the Reds two promising young players, outfielder Bob Tolan, 22, and relief pitcher Wayne Granger, 24.

Giusti, 28, with a 37-54 record in six seasons at Houston, comes to the Cardinals with reserve catcher Dave Adlesh, 25, for former All-Star catcher Johnny Edwards, 30, and minor league catcher Tommy Smith.

Ortonville 11 Suffers Fifth Straight Loss

It was the fifth setback this season for the Ortonville squad.

* * *

The visitors scored in the first and fourth quarters to take the decision. Randy Hoover rambled over from one yard out in the first and Jerry Durfee picked off an Ortonville pass and raced 15 yards for the other tally.

Lapeer Blanks Flint Squad, 13-0

Fenton and Lapeer moved into the top spot of the new Flint Metro League with victories in second straight conference outings last night.

Fenton routed arch rival Holly, 49-19, as Steve Guilbauld hurled four TD passes. The Tigers grabbed a 25-0 lead in the opening 24 minutes of play.

Lapeer, meanwhile, notched a touchdown in the second quarter and added an insurance six-pointer in the final session to knock Flint Carman from the unbeaten ranks, 13-0.

The Panthers took a 7-0 edge when Brad Gerlach connected with Walt Sierakowski for 62 yards. They closed their scoring on a Gerlach-to-Terry Surfees scoring aerial covering eight yards.

RECORDS MATCH

Fenton's Tigers matched Lapeer's 2-0 league and 4-1 over-all record with their easy conquest at Holly. Marv Pushman caught two TD tosses of 23 and 8 yards.

Steve Anderson took one for 27 yards; while Dean Stevenson hauled in a 39-yarder and also scored on a 75-yard run. Ted Witte, Carroll Edwards and Tim Burns notched Holly's scores.

Edwards and Burns ran 11 and 2 yards, respectively, while Witte went over on a 41-yard scoring pass from Hank Norton. The Broncos are winless in the league and 1-4 in all.

REACHES PAYDIRT — Halfback Jeff Kezlarian of Bloomfield Hills Lahser (43) heads for a touchdown in the first half against Novi yesterday afternoon after evading defensive back Ken Osborn (35). Kezlarian's dash put the Lahser squad ahead 7-0 in the first quarter but Novi came back to post a 26-7 win.

New Coach Ready for Debut at WOLL

Waterford Our Lady kicks off the local Northwest Catholic League weekend grid card tonight and is favored to remain in contention with a victory over Detroit St. Rita at Hazel Park High School as Joe Sharpe makes his coaching debut.

Unbeaten Ferndale St. James will return to action tomorrow afternoon by entertaining slumping Orchard Lake St. Mary at Ferndale HS.

In another 2:30 p.m. outing, Pontiac Catholic's Titans (also 3-1) will visit Farmington Our Lady on the Farmington HS gridiron. Both teams need a victory to keep their title hopes alive. FOL Sorrows is 2-2.

St. Francis de Sales (2-2, also) should stay in the race at the expense of winless Royal Oak St. Mary in Sunday's other tilt.

OTHER GAMES

In other Detroit Catholic League games, Utica St. Lawrence (3-1) will go to Marine City Holy Cross, and Royal Oak Shrine (3-1) will travel to Detroit Servite Sunday afternoon.

* * *

Waterford OLL has been one of the surprises this fall in the Northwest circuit. It's big test will come next Saturday night when St. James will come to Kettering HS's field to meet the Lakers.

But they could louse up their opportunity if they let down this evening against St. Rita (1-3).

STREAK ENDS

PCHS lost to St. James last week after three straight opening triumphs. Coach Mel Larsen has to get the Titans aroused for FOLS who can be tough.

* * *

OL St. Mary's Eaglets are going through a recession after many seasons of winning football. But the Rev. John Rakoczy isn't giving up on their potential. An upset conquest at St. James would undoubtedly be a turning point for them.

The Eaglets must win if they're to have a shot at either second or third place in the standings.

Groves Victim of Glenn, 14-7

Falcons Still Looking for First Loop Win

Birmingham Groves, still seeking its wirming combination after a surprising season-opening victory over Birmingham Seaholm, tried but couldn't spoil the homecoming at Wayne John Glenn Friday night.

* * *

The visiting Falcons led, 7-6, after the opening period but Glenn scored twice in the middle periods and emerged a 14-7 victor in the Northwest Suburban conference clash.

* * *

Greg Wood's five-yard run and Mark Shada's conversion run put Groves in the lead. Glenn tied it in the first half on Jeff Senn's one-yard run and Dennis Figley's conversion.

The Falcons were left winless in loop play when Ron Galrey reached paydirt on a two-yard run in the third quarter. Glenn is now 1-1-1.

* * *

Oxford Captures Statistical Edge in Losing Effort

Winless Oxford showed visiting Harper Woods Lutheran East it could move the football Friday night except when in scoring range, and the Wildcats thus had the short end of a 12-6 Central Suburban League score.

The home team outgained Lutheran East convincingly in all phases of play, but never hit the scoreboard until the final period when the Eagles held a 12-0 margin.

Bill Wolf was the big gun for the winners, passing to Fred Bauman to start the scoring, and running 45 yards for what proved-to-be the deciding six points.

Junior Editors Quiz on YOUR BRAIN

QUESTION: How does the brain work?

ANSWER: Your brain — much more intricate than any machine ever built — directs the activity of your body. Your eyes, ears and nose send it information about what's going on outside.

Your brain gathers this together, compares it with past experience and decides what's to be done. Then your brain sends out commands to various parts of your body so that your decisions can be carried out.

Study the picture and you'll see the parts of the brain to which information from Harry's senses is being sent. Covering the upper, main part of the brain, or cerebrum, is an almost magic layer of gray cells called cortex. Such cells are thought to tie in the various reports from the centers, comparing them with memories of past events.

The part of this layer toward the front has to do with consciousness and thought. Here Harry can realize that what he sees and smells are cookies, and from here he can send commands to the motor part of the brain which controls the movements of all parts of the body. So he reaches for the cookies and thanks his mother.

(You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

All We Have to Fear Are Fears Themselves

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Some of the political experts are saying that the key factor in this year's campaign may be fear. Which is rather frightening itself.

WEST

Not since 1932, they say, has the electorate been so apprehensive. Thus the fear vote could play a big part in determining who gets elected.

The reason for this is easy to understand. It stems from the simple fact that voters have a lot more to be afraid of than they once did.

New fears pop up almost every day, and although most of them have nothing to do with politics, they do contribute to the over-all feeling of alarm.

TURTLENECK FEAR

There is, for example, the fear of being strangled by a turtleneck shirt. This fear was virtually unknown during the last campaign but has now become rampant throughout the land.

One is wearing a Nehru outfit in a thunderstorm, lightning will strike the medallion.

There is the fear of a wax buildup on the coffee table; the fear of washing a new kind of fabric the wrong way; the fear that one's gasoline dealer will forget to add platformate.

I drove about 4,000 miles on the Interstate Highway System during my vacation last month, and the entire time I was gripped by egressophobia.

"All right," I would say to my family when we started out in the mornings, "everybody watch for the exit."

"But the exit we take is 200 miles from here," my wife would say.

"I know, but I want to make sure we don't miss it. If we do, we'll never get back."

EXIT MARKINGS

The fact that each exit is marked with about 10 huge bilious green signs does nothing to allay egressophobia. Passing them only makes a motorist more conscious of the possibility that he will miss the one he is looking for.

By the time we got to within 20 miles of the exit we wanted the entire family would be bordering on panic.

With trepidations such as these stalking the voters, it is only natural that fear would become a strong political force.

Latin Americans, Guests in Pontiac

CHURCH WOMEN FROM LATIN AMERICA — Mrs. John Jickling of 600 Sheppard Bush, Birmingham (left) chats with Mrs. Nancy Kerr de Ramano of La Pampa, Argentina, a member of the Christiah and Missionary Alliance Church; and Mrs. Antonio Almorza of Guatemala City, Guatemala, a member of the Episcopal Church. The two women from Latin America are touring the United States visiting church women's activities and worship services as part of the Christian Causeways Program. Spanish American Outreach provides the necessary contacts for the two women to visit homes, churches and church women's events both in Detroit and Pontiac.

When women of Christ Church Cranbrook met Mrs. Antonio Almorza of Guatemala City, Guatemala at the Tuesday luncheon program this week, they were surprised to find someone from a Latin American country blond with large blue eyes.

Church Women United of Michigan in cooperation with Spanish American Outreach, through its director Tomas Chavez Jr., entertained the two women from Latin America as part of their Christian Causeways Program.

The women spent one week in Jackson, one in Detroit and this week in the Pontiac area with Mrs. Fred Bohiman of Pontiac Church Women United, coordinator for their stay.

TEACHER

Mrs. de Romano teaches English in a private school and her husband is pastor of a Christian & Missionary Alliance Church. She is devoted to Bible study and Christian education.

★ ★ ★

She has extensive training in the field of music; speaks Spanish, English and some German.

As a visitor to the United States, she is interested in social science, Christian education, evangelization and kindergarten activities.

BORN IN GERMANY

Mrs. Almorza was born in Germany, her mother's native land.

Her father is a Guatemalan.

A member of the Episcopal Church, she has collaborated in social programs and the women's work.

Mrs. Almorza's formal training has been in the field of education with special work in the training of a kindergarten child.

Her talents are leading her into the area of the theater and television.

Mrs. Almorza, who has traveled extensively, feels there should be an exchange of thought internationally on a Christian's responsibility in the nation and especially in the locale where he or she lives.

HEAR SPEAKER

While in the Pontiac area the Latin American women heard the national president of Church Women United speak on "A New Dimension of Fellowship" in Detroit.

They visited schools, were entertained in homes of Spanish speaking people, and Negro and white families; attended the Canadian Salvation Army Band Concert at Pontiac Northern High School; and services at Joslyn Avenue United Presbyterian Church.

★ ★ ★

Before leaving Wednesday for Washington, D.C. the Latin American guests agreed "Americans are always in a hurry and have so many meetings."

Guidepost for Living

President Endorses Bible

NEW YORK — President Lyndon B. Johnson officially endorsed National Bible Week yesterday in a statement declaring that the Scriptures provide "the best possible guidepost for today's living."

In a statement issued by the White House, President Johnson said:

"The Bible comes with many covers, on varying grades of paper and in multiple languages. But its purpose is unchanged: man's firm instructions and wonderful promises from God. It holds our answers and hopes. It is life's greatest truth.

"While this mighty book traces our history and projects into tomorrow, it remains the best possible guidepost for today's living.

★ ★

"It is fitting that our nation, founded upon faith and built upon trust in Divine Providence, should set aside a special period to proclaim His Word.

★ ★

"I am pleased to introduce National Bible Week with a prayer that my fellow Americans will join me in rededicating ourselves to its sacred teachings."

Mr. Johnson sent this statement on Bible Week to the American Bible Society and the Laymen's National Commmittee, joint sponsors of the observance, to be held Oct. 20 through Thanksgiving.

More than 40,000,000 people are expected to participate in National Bible Week.

Wallace E. Johnson, of Memphis, Tenn., president of Holiday Inns of America, Inc., is national chairman of the interfaith program. He is being assisted by more than 120 top executives and civic leaders across the country.

Air Glistens in Iceland, No Chimneys

"The first thing I noticed on arriving in Reykjawik, Iceland was the unusual clearness of the air. It actually sparkles and glistens on a bright sunny day," said the Rev. Arthur Kreinheder of Oxford upon his return this week.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

"The air is so clear because there are no chimneys in Reykjavik. There are no furnaces, no fires for heating, no smoke. All the heating is done with hot water from the natural hot water springs in the area.

★ ★ ★

"On a hill above the city, one can see several large tanks which supply hot water to all homes and public buildings. The water comes from all over Iceland at about boiling point.

HEAT BY WATER

"It is piped into the homes in Reykjavik at almost boiling temperature. Thanks to hot water, greenhouses in Iceland grow vegetables for the Icelanders and for export," he said.

★ ★ ★

Father Kreinheder told us there is no railroad station in Reykjavik because there are no trains in Iceland. All public transportation is furnished by buses, ships and by a rapidly expanding air service. Trips that take 12 hours by bus now take an hour by plane.

★ ★ ★

The Oxford religious leader said Lutherans of Iceland have built new churches in the city, and a new cathedral in Skalholt where the first bishopric was established in 1056.

The Vikings, heathen settlers in Iceland, adopted a Christianity at historic Thingvellir in the year 1000.

A new cathedral is under construction in Reykjavik to be named in memory of the great hymn writer, Hallgrimer Petursson of the 17th century.

★ ★ ★

The Icelandic language is spoken only in Iceland, Father Kreinheder informed us. It is said to have changed very little from the language which the early settlers brought from Norway.

NO HOT WEATHER

He also told us there are no hot, sultry days in Reykjavik.

In spite of the fact that Iceland lies just below the Artic Circle, it has an ideal climate. During the summer, temperatures range from 54 to 60 degrees. In the winter the mercury stands around 32 degrees, and snow, when it falls lasts just a short time.

Of special interest to Americans is the fact that there is no army. However, the American Armed Forces have a large base at Keflavik.

Bobby Richardson Reads Bible Daily

NEW YORK — Bobby Richardson, former New York Yankee baseball star, stressing the need for daily Bible reading said, "As a teen-ager I found the Bible was the way that God was able to talk to me and to let me know His plan for my life.

"I know how important it is for families to have a time together with God's Word whether it be in the morning or in the evening."

The seven-time all-star second baseman is one of the prominent personalities from business, sports, and the arts who are sponsors of National Bible Week — Worldwide Bible Reading.

National Bible Week, cosponsored by the American Bible Society and the Laymen's National Committee, runs from Oct. 20-27. The Society's WBR program will conclude on Thanksgiving.

★ ★ ★

His subject at the Kirk will be "Christianity and Publications."

★ ★ ★

A graduate of Asbury College, he received an honorary degree from the College of the Ozarks in 1953.

★ ★ ★

After serving Presbyterian churches in Pittsburgh and Harrisburg, Pa., he became pastor of First Presbyterian Church Oklahoma City where he served from 1948 to 1966.

Lutherans Push Crisis Program

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — The American Lutheran Church's urban-racial crisis program, called "Project Summer Hope," is in high gear, reports the Rev. H. Manford Knudsvig, director.

Congregations have contributed money for crash projects in amounts ranging up to $50,000. Available cash is used for immediate needs—food, clothing and housing. Local congregations also are supporting existing organizations in vocational training and job-finding.

Rev. Knudsvig describes the project as a program "to rout out racism and prejudice among church members."

Theologian Calls Lady Priest Idea 'Very Hazardous'

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — A prominent Catholic theologian has turned thumbs down on the idea of women becoming priests.

Writing in the Vatican magazine L'Osservatore della Domenica, Msgr. Ferdinando Lambruschini said he felt such proposals were "pure fantasy and extremely hazardous." He said they could only add to "the confusion in many fields of theology."

* * *

Msgr. Lambruschini said the fact women hold high lay positions does not "automatically mean they must or can be called to take part in the priesthood."

Pastor Tours World

Shows Slides of Vietnam

The Rev. Robert Shelton, pastor of First Baptist Church, and former missionary to Vietnam, recently returned from a world tour that included a one-week visit to Vietnam.

* * *

The public is invited to attend a film-sound presentation of the pastor's visit to Vietnam at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in First Baptist Church.

The slides and sounds include the rocket bombing of Saigon and a trip to the last fortified U.S. Military position south of the demilitarized zone. It was there Pastor Shelton witnessed the bombing of Communist positions.

* * *

Pastor Shelton will show slides of Japan, Okinawa, Formosa and Hong Kong Wednesday night at the same hour. These pictures include the Pescadore Islands.

The film series will conclude at 7:30 Friday evening with color slides of the Holy Land.

* * *

The film presentations include taped interviews with missionaries and nationals in various countries visited.

CONTEST CONTINUES

October continues to be Sunday School Olympics month at First Baptist Church.

Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wood, parents of Tim Wood, Olympic medal-winner in figure skating will be guests tomorrow.

During the evening service gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded the departments with a higher per cent of increase than a year ago.

Discussion, Study Sessions to Start

"Don't Ask Me How" will be the subject of the Rev. Everett A. Dell's sermon at 11:30 a.m. tomorrow in Pontiac Unity Church, 8 N. Genesee.

* * *

Sunday School for both children and adults is scheduled for 10:15 a.m.

* * *

The Friday discussion group will start this week at 8 p.m. Pastor Dell asks everyone to bring a sandwich and share in discussion and the fellowship which follows.

* * *

The Wednesday evening class will continue the study of the Book of Revelation. There will be about 12 more lessons to complete the book, the pastor said.

I shall grow old, but never lose life's zest, because the road's last turn will be the best. — Henry Van Dyke ,American clergyman.

Turkey Dinner Bazaar, Set for Dryden

Attics are being searched, needles are flying and kitchens are filled with the aroma of baking as members of the Altar Society of St. Cornelius Catholic Church in Dryden plan their annual turkey dinner and bazaar tomorrow.

Fun will begin with the turkey dinner at 1 p.m. Mary Davis said.

The gay event following Mass, will be held at the Veteran's Hall, Dryden.

Among the many booths will be the ever-popular Country Store and fancy work booth. Treasures will be found in the white elephant and antique booths.

Guitar Seen As Aid to Sunday Schools

CHICAGO (UPI)—A musical instrument similar to one played by David and the psalmists of Israel could prove invaluable as a teaching aid in Sunday schools, says the American Music Conference.

It's the guitar, which the AMC says is a natural aid because children are predisposed to guitar music and the instrument is an easy one for beginners to master.

With music based on well known Negro hymns and other spirituals, the Sunday school teacher who uses the guitar as an aid need never worry about such questions as "Who fought the battle of Jericho?" or "What was the name of the King of Babylon in Daniel's time?" says AMC.

Seek Young Men and Women

NEW YORK — Young men and women qualified for jobs varying from inner-city work to teaching tool and dye design are sought by the Methodist Board of Missions here for short-term mission service in the United States and 16 other countries in 1968.

* * *

The Board has announced its annual call for persons to serve as U.S.-2s and 3s. The U.S. -2s service two years in many kinds of work under the Board's National Division in the U.S., and the 3s serve three years under its World Divisions overseas.

Through its Office of Missionary Personnel (475 Riverside Drive, 13th Floor, New York, N.Y. 10027), the Board said: "Special-term missionaries are urgently needed for service on mission frontiers next year.

"The Board invites 1968 college graduates and other qualified men and women to consider this channel for answering the call to mission in the world.

* * *

"Single men and women, and married couples without children are accepted for service as 3s and U.S.-2s."

* * *

Since 1948, almost 1,000 persons have served as 3s. More than 400 U.S.-2s have served since the program was started in 1951.

OPENINGS

Among the openings for U.S.-2s in 1968 are: social workers and program workers in inner-city projects and community centers; teachers, librarians and administrators in mission schools; nurses in mission hospitals and retirement homes; houseparents and day-care workers in children's homes.

Overseas countries where 3s are needed are Hong Kong, Japan, Malaysia, Singapore, India, Liberia, the Philippines, Brazil, Chile, Pakistan, Puru, Bolivia, Uruguay, Korea, Mexico and the Congo.

Week's NY List

By ROBERT D. HAWORTH
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Bond prices continued to decline last week, bringing higher yields to investors. However, investor interest was mixed as buyers tended to wait for clearer signs of which way the economy is going.

While one or two issues sold out, most utilities were only fair to moderately well received, according to Salomon Brothers & Hutzler, a national investment firm which specializes in bonds. Recent and seasoned discount corporate bonds declined for the second week and have lost about a point and a half during this period.

The corporate market will face another heavy calendar week and the October volume of scheduled new issues has increased slightly to about $1.2 billion.

Price declines were sharpest in the municipal market. Prime issues, which were relatively steady during the previous week, sold off by over two points and now match the declines in medium grades during the past two weeks.

The volume of new municipal issues for the coming weeks continued to build up and now totals a record $1.9 billion for October.

Long term government bonds sold off by a point and a half, brining losses for the last three weeks to over three points.

Intermediates—those with 5- to-8-year maturities—have lost less than a point on average during the same period.

Short term rates continued to rise. In the last two weeks, rates on three month obligations have advanced by as much as 25 basis points while rates on six-month obligations have risen moderately less.

The largest of the week's new tax-exempt issues was the $220 million offering of Maryland Bridge and Tunnel revenue bonds, consisting of $170 million of term bonds and $50 million of serial bonds. The sponsoring underwriting syndicate offered the term bonds at 100 to yield 5.20 to maturity in 2008. The serial bonds were offered at prices to yield buyers from 4.10 per cent for those maturing in 1973 to 4.90 per cent for those falling due in 1988.

Other tax-exempts on offer during the week included a $70 million block of San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit District bonds, $50 million in Ohio development bonds, a $45.7 million block of New York State Dormitory Authority university revenue bonds and $20 million in Washington Surburban Sanitary District bonds.

The 4.50 per cent yield provided by the 1992-93 maturities of the Ohio issue was about .25 of a percentage point higher than for comparable maturities of triple-A rated bonds marketed two weeks ago.

Week's NY Stocks

By ED MORSE
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market the past week went through a generally expected correction of the vigorous September advance which brought averages to new highs for the year.

Most analysts were inclined to regard it hopefully as "the pause that refreshes" inasmuch as business activity continued very encouraging despite the 10 per cent auto strike, and the mood in Wall Street was fundamentally bullish for the immediate future.

The Dow Jones Industrial average the past week took a loss of 3.6 at 949.59, and this was not very much of a move.

In addition, it was done on a definite slackening of volume. Turnover on the New York Stock Exchange during the week totaled only 56,000,920 shares, compared with 65,640,000 for the week before.

Both were four-day trading weeks. The big brokerage houses have been exerting pressure for a return to the regular five-day week. The exchanges decided, however, to continue the Wednesday closings for the balance of October, inasmuch as the paper-work logjam still was not cleared up.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks this week dropped 2.2 to 353.5 for its first loss in four weeks.

Monday and Tuesday of the past week, together with the preceding Friday, were irregular sessions in which the averages and the advance-decline ratio on the New York Stock Exchange were at variance most of the time. Security analysts began referring to this as a "painless correction" of the almost 40-point jump in the Dow industrials which had preceded it in the foregoing three weeks.

After the Wednesday closing, however, the correction stopped being "painless," and there was a rather severe drop Thursday, clipping 6.46 from the Down and 2.0 from the AP average.

Although analysts cited fear that the Federal Reserve Board might take further credit-tightening measures as one reason for caution in the stock market, the principal reasons were said to be that the market simply had gone too far, too fast, and many investors thought it the better part of wisdom to take profits.

This was especially true of those who had piled up some very good gains since April and therefore could cash in on a six months basis, making their gains long-term for tax purposes.

In addition, some researchers cited indicators which showed the market was "overbought" and therefore due for some selling.

College OKs Beer in Halls

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Park College officials have approved a policy permitting students over 21 to drink alcoholic beverages in their residence halls.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Donald M. MacKenzie, president of the Presbyterian affiliated college, said the policy is "an effort on the part of the college to deal in a realistic and honest manner with a problem that is present on practically every campus in the country."

★ ★ ★

The coeducational liberal arts college was founded in 1875 and now has about 700 students on its campus at Parkville, an enclave of Kansas City.

New York City lost 1.5 million white residents between 1950 and 1966, and gained about 1.25 million Negro and Puerto Rican residents, during the same period.

Hawaii New Source of U.S. Yule Trees

Actually, says Clyde Shields, the Hawaiian Christmas trees "are catching on like mad on the U.S. mainland." He says he shipped 3,600 last year and expects to ship 20,000 this yule time.

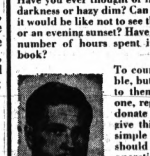
Reflections

THAT OTHERS MIGHT SEE

Have you ever thought of living in a world of darkness or hazy dim? Can you conceive what it would be like not to see the beauty of a rose or an evening sunset? Have you thought of the number of hours spent in reading a good book?

J. L. VOORHEES



M. E. SIPLE

To countless people these things are impossible, but a whole new world would be opened to them by the gift of a donor's eyes. Anyone, regardless of age or general health, may donate their eyes that another might see. To give this greatest of all gifts, sight, is a very simple procedure but wishes of the donor should be known to their next of kin for the operation of removing the corneas of the eye must be completed within four hours after the donor's demise.

Of all the ways that man can help his stricken brother, the gift of sight is one of the most noble, and truly in accord with the instructions of the master: "Help ye one another."

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

In the good old days when you picked up a hand worth a forcing two bid you expected to get a chance to make that delightful bid. Today, you had better be the dealer also if you don't want someone to spoil your fun.

When today's JACOBY hand was played in a recent tournament, every East player opened the bidding with one heart.

South would look over his cards two or three times to make sure that he was seeing correctly. He might think that a pinochle deck had been put in play if it weren't that he did hold the four of hearts. Then he would look suspiciously at East to see if East looked like the sort of player who would open a vulnerable psychic against a non-vulnerable opponent.

In the good old days you could usually recognize that sort of person by his wild and hungry look. Today you are likely to find that one of those little old ladies had decided to try one of those exciting although usually losing bids.

Anyway, you can't tell and come to the conclusion that East really holds some sort of opening. There may still be a slam and you cue-bid two hearts. Your partner produces a three-diamond response to your cue bid. Where do you go from here?

We have shown three no-trump in the box because that is the winning bid.

You should give up your spade honors (they don't count in duplicate) and also all hope of a slam. Finally, you are looking at nine sure tricks. That is enough for a no-trump game. It won't bring in a spade game.

If a heart or diamond is opened, you have 10 tricks at either no-trump or spades; if a club or spade is opened you have nine tricks at either contract. The no-trump bid pays off either way.

♥♠ CARD Sense ♠♥

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
2♠	Pass	?

You, South, hold:
♠5432 ♥65432 ♦32 ♣32

What do you do?

A—There is a specialized bid here of four spades to show trump support and a bust but we still recommend merely bidding two no-trump. You just don't want to give your partner any encouragement at all.

TODAY'S QUESTION

3 Guilty of Swindle in False Crash Claim

A former adjuster for the American Automobile Association (AAA) and a West Bloomfield Township couple were found guilty yesterday of swindling the auto club's insurance company.

Convicted by an Oakland County Circuit Court jury of conspiracy to obtain money under false pretenses, and obtaining money under false pretenses were Kenneth R. Davis, 37 of 4308 Sashabaw, Waterford Township, and Mr. and Mrs. James L. Sanders, of 7153 Locklin.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

They face prison terms of up to 10 years each on both counts when they are sentenced Nov 19 by Judge Philip Pratt.

The jury deliberated only 45 minutes before returning the verdict against the three following a four day trial.

In addition to the prison sentences, they could also be fined as much as $10,000 on the conspiracy count and $5,000 on the second offense.

★ ★ ★

According to investigators for the auto club and Michigan State Police, Davis, who had worked for the company about seven years, submitted a fraudulent accident report.

★ ★ ★

Police said the accident never occurred, though the cars allegedly involved were reported repaired at garage owned by the Sanders in Waterford Township.

Assistant Prosecutor Bruce Leitman said that the money involved in the case amounted to about $1,600.

DOCTOR CHARGED

★ ★ ★

In that case, Dr. Berg allegedly received $266 from the insurance company for medical treatment received by an accident victim.

★ ★ ★

Toy Factory to Negro Unit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Negro self-help group, given a toy factory for a third birthday present, plans to have Negro dolls coming off the assembly line by next month.

Mattel Inc., a toy company started the factory at a cost of $150,000, trained Negro employes, then gave it to Operation Bootstrap Friday.

Operation Bootstrap, which also owns a car body shop, a clothing store and a dress factory, calls it the Shindana Toy Factory. Shindana is swahili for "competitor."

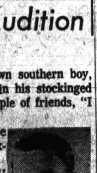
Our Country Boy Over-Acts in Early Broadway Audition

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Jim Nabors, the small-town southern boy, the well-heeled bachelor, was loafing around in his stockinged feet in his suite at the Plaza boasting to a couple of friends, "I finally made my debut on Broadway."

"Yeah, I'd say I was on the Broadway stage about 15 minutes," the Gomer Pyle of TV explained.



WILSON

"I went to see Pearl Bailey in 'Hello, Dolly!' and she got me up. She and I danced and I sang 'Rock-a-bye.' I always wanted to be on Broadway and I guess that's the nearest I'll ever come to it.

★ ★ ★

"When I was here workin' at the UN, typin', for $55 a week, I auditioned for 'No Time for Sergeants,' and it was disastrous.

"'Course I didn't even know Andy Griffith then. An actor friend of mine said I should audition for the road company.

"I sang a little bit — you know, country. My friend took me to his agent who said I should audition for Maurice Evans and Emmett Rogers. The agent said, 'Now when you see them, really dress up country. They got no imagination, you got to wear overalls and act real country.'

"I wrote home to my mom in Alabama and told her to send some overalls up.

"This was before Beatniks and you didn't wear overalls even if you were country.

"When I got to Maurice Evans' place in the Village, embarrassed as I was, I yelled out, 'Hoddy,' then I said, 'Lord God, how are yuh?'

"I knew right than I'd blown it. I was trying to think what else was fittin' to say. They said, 'Yeah, well, uh, uh, buh, bluh, well, we got your name, and we'll call you.' All I wanted to do was get outa there. I'd never audition for anything on Broadway from then on."

Mass-Transit System Urged

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP)—State Rep. George F. Montgomery, D-Detroit, Friday urged the adoption of a low-cost, mass-rapid transportation system and charged, "We are letting the auto companies do the thinking for our state."

Montgomery gave the closing talk to a two-day meeting in Sault Ste. Marie of Michigan Society of Planning Officials.

He said the two major weapons in the fight against urban decay are moderate cost housing and inexpensive, rapid transportation.

"If we can put all that junk in orbit," Montgomery said in reference to the space program, "then we have the technical ability to do a better job in mass transit."

The Wayne County Democrat added that "highway engineers are making better and better highways. But we can't make better and better drivers or more space."

Montgomery offered no specific program for the institution of either moderate cost housing or rapid mass transportation.

Negro Students Pick Own Queen for Iowa U. Fete

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Miss Kay Corbin of Maryville, Tenn., was named University of Iowa homecoming queen Friday and Negro students did their "own black thing" by naming a queen of their own, Miss Maxine Thomas, a freshman law student from Los Angeles.

Dwight Coty of Mason City, Iowa, a junior who organized the contest, said, "As black people, a subculture within the university system, it is only fitting that our black queen reign over out black activities."

Only those girls who live in university dormitories or sorority houses are eligible for the regular contest. This eliminates most of the Negro girls, who live off-campus, Coty said.

Pharmacy Holdup Nets Four $4,500

WALKER (AP) — Four gunmen robbed the Fairview Pharmacy of $4,500 Thursday night after herding the owner and 14 patrons and store employes into a rear storage area.

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan State Chamber of Commerce is urging defeat of a ballot proposal which would legalize graduated income taxes in Michigan.

The proposal, which will be No. 1 on the Nov. 5 ballot, would overturn a present provision of the state constitution which forbids graduated income taxes.

★ ★ ★

The state chamber said in a newsletter that graduated taxation "places a penalty on productivity" and "discourages investment to create new jobs."

★ ★ ★

It added Michigan already has "one of the least competitive tax systems" in the scramble among states to attract industry. "It would be illogical to aggravate this condition with any degree of expectancy of maintaining a desirable and necessary rate of economic growth," it said.

Question Stops S.D. Governor

PIERRE, S.D. (AP) — Gov. Nils Boe, who recently returned from an eastern campaign swing with the Republican "truth squad" following Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, admits he was stumped by one question.

Boe said a woman in a restaurant complained that Richard M. Nixon, the GOP presidential candidate, was carrying out a smear campaign.

"I was quite concerned and asked her what she meant," Boe said.

He quoted the woman as saying, "How could Nixon permit his daughter, Julie, and David Eisenhower to become engaged and make plans for their marriage just before the election? This isn't a fair campaign tactic."

Replied Boe, 55, with a grin: "Well, I'll tell you, lady, as a bachelor I know very little about the timing of marriages."

Elderly Pair Die in Caro Blaze

CARO (AP) — An elderly couple burned to death Friday when a fire destroyed the house in which they were boarding near Caro in Tuscola County.

Otto Bender, 79, and his wife Florence, 56, died when the home owned by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Cox caught fire. The Coxes were not home at the time, but their two sons were, and they managed to lead a third boarder to safety.

LBJ to Keep Bombing, Ex-Aide Says at OU

A former assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs said at Oakland University yesterday that he now thinks President Johnson will not give in to pressures to stop the bombing of North Vietnam.

Roger Hilsman, President Kennedy's principal troubleshooter on the firing lines of Southeast Asia, told an estimated 200 persons at a lecture series he originally thought Johnson might give in.

Hilsman resigned his far eastern post in 1964 because of his disagreement with the Johnson administration's strategy of seeking a military solution to the Vietnamese problem and with official proposals to bomb North Vietnam.

A professor in the Columbia University School of International Affairs, he said Johnson will probably let the next President decide on the bombings.

QUESTIONS FIELDED

In a question - and - answer session, Hilsman said the United States should admit its military intervention of Vietnam has failed, stop the bombing and "settle for what we can get."

Among the things this country could get, he said, are a government which includes the non-Communist element and a phased withdrawal of American troops in two or three years.

★ ★ ★

"War can no longer serve a social force," he said. "We need to provide peaceful ways to serve these functions. We need an international gun control law just like the gun control laws we want in this country."

Much of America's problem in Vietnam is a lack of understanding of nationalism, according to Hilsman.

QUESTIONS POSED

"The question is whether people like those in Vietnam will achieve national independence through understanding or over our dead bodies," he remarked.

"If the West and the United States did develop the necessary understanding and succeeded in helping the new nationalisms into constructive channels, the benefits would be overwhelming," he says in his new book, "To Move A Nation."

★ ★ ★

"It would mark the end of Communist ambitions, as President Kennedy said.

"It would mark the beginning of the end of poverty in the world and the start of a bright new life for all the world's oppressed."

★ ★ ★

"It would mark the beginning of an era in which the emerging peoples came to assume more and more of the responsibilities for peace in their own regions and in the world."

Fire Brochure Not C. of C. or City Project

The Pontiac Fire Department and the Pontiac Area Chambers of Commerce have both reported receiving numerous calls about a private concern soliciting funds for a brochure on fire prevention.

Pontiac Fire Chief Charles D. Marion said the fire department "does not sponsor any fire prevention campaign for which funds are solicited."

★ ★ ★

Earl Kreps, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, added, "the Chamber Fire Safety Committee is not endorsing any fire prevention activity which calls for solicitation at this particular time."

Persons being called have said they were solicited for different amounts. Some were asked to mail the money to a post office box while others were told the money would be picked up.

★ ★ ★

In some cases the solicitor apparently gave a fictitious name and address when pressed for identification, according to the chamber.

Agriculture Unit to Hold Meeting

LANSING (AP) —The Michigan Commission on Agriculture will hold its regular October meeting in Lansing Tuesday and Wednesday to discuss budget requests for the Soil Conservation and Crop Reporting services.

Also on the commission's tentative agenda are a report on the meat inspection program, approval of procedures for the Apple Marketing Committee and a report on county fair premium funds.

Waterford Board Agenda Is Light

Waterford Township Board members will take up a relatively light agenda at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Waterford Township High School.

Items on the agenda are two lot splits, a resolution to readvertise the sales of bonds for street sewers, disposal of a fire truck and three departmental reports.

Senate Yields to House on Cuts

Clean Water Bill Goes to LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate sent to President Johnson Friday night legislation designed to revive a lagging water pollution control program and also to control oil spillage in U.S. waterways and coastal waters.

The senators sponsoring the measure said they were reluctant to do this because the House version contained considerably less funds for the water pollution control effort.

But they said they had no alternative with Congress about to adjourn.

NEW FINANCING

The water pollution section of the bill contains a new method of financing the federal share of sewage projects.

This was made necessary, the sponsors said, because President Johnson's war-pinched budget contains heavily cut allotments for federal water pollution control grants.

In the current year, for example, $700 million had been authorized for the grants but Johnson asked only $225 million.

Under the new method, the secretary of the interior will be authorized to enter into 30-year contracts to pay the federal share of waste-treatment works in annual installments.

The House measure would permit contracts in each of the next two years which do not exceed twice the amount appropriated in excess of $100 million for the grant program.

The Senate bill had much higher limits—$700 million in the current year, $1 billion in 1970, and $1.25 billion in 1971.

★ ★ ★

The other section of the bill would authorize programs to control sewage and oil spillage from vessels, to prevent oil spills into waterways and coastal waters, and to demonstrate successful methods of controlling lake pollution and mine water pollution.

Humphrey in Big Trouble in Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Injected with the truth serum of anonymity, Democratic leaders here bluntly admit that Hubert H. Humphrey is in "big" beleaguered on his right flank, where George C. Wallace's third party candidacy is siphoning labor votes that used to be money in the bank for organization Democrats, and on his left flank, where disenchanted, peace-minded liberals are standing aloof.

A factor becoming more apparent every day is the inability of the Democratic organization to raise money to finance a Humphrey drive for Pennsylvania's 29 electoral votes. One ranking party official called the financial problem "desperate."

The Democratic professionals have resigned to scrimping for the campaign, but they see three escape routes from Humphrey's strategic predicament: a blatant blunder by former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, an open break by Humphrey from the policies of President Johnson and a settlement of the Vietnam War.

They regard the first as improbable and the second as impossible. Therefore, they place most of their political hopes in an end to the hostilities in Southeast Asia.

In Pennsylvania Republican headquarters, there is optimism tempered only by the fact that the election is 3½ weeks away. There also was detected in some GOP leaders a kind of vague, mystical fear that Johnson "will do something dramatic."

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

Wallace is expected to poll between 12 and 16 per cent of the total Pennsylvania vote, mostly at the expense of Humphrey. A recent membership poll by the state AFL-CIO indicated the former Alabama governor may get as much as 20 per cent of the labor vote.

★ ★ ★

The campaign situation is not nearly so rosy for Republican U.S. Rep. Richard S. Schweiker, who is attempting to defeat the third-term bid of Sen. Joseph S. Clark.

Dancing Coed Faces Charge

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A university of Wisconsin coed, accused of dancing nude in a hippie version of the musical "Peter Pan," was arraigned Friday after authorities said she appeared voluntarily to face charges.

★ ★ ★

Miss Carolyn Ann Purdy, 21, of Janesville was identified as one of the two dancers for whom authorities had been searching since Oct. 1, when students held two performances of the musical despite Dist. Atty. James Boll's ruling that he considered the show obscene.

★ ★ ★

A court hearing was scheduled for Oct. 17.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

The nude dancers portrayed innocence. There had been six nude dancers originally, but four of them quit the show as a result of the publicity.

Space Launch Must Rank as America's Finest Ever

By HOWARD H. FITZGERALD II
Publisher, The Pontiac Press

CAPE KENNEDY — At 11:04 a.m. yesterday we took another step toward conquering outer space. Apollo 7 was launched and launched beautifully.

Situated high above a Saturn 1B rocket were Walter M. Schirra, Commander, Donn F. Eisele, Command Module pilot and Walter Cunningham, Lunar Module pilot. Of the team, Schirra is the only space veteran. He piloted through six orbits of Sigma 7 of the Mercury series and was in command of the Gemini VI mission.

For both Eisele and Cunningham, this was their first mission in outer space and an auspicious start it was. Weather, always a factor in any launch, had ranged from excellent to poor during the few days preceding the scheduled flight.

However, yesterday morning, the sun was out and very few clouds were to be seen. The only deep, real concern and one which could have "held" the mission was the offshore breeze which at various times reached a speed of 25 knots.

This was, without a doubt, the most perfect of any of the shots to date. At T minus six minutes a "hold" was declared for a period of four minutes, but from that time until the orange-yellow spewed flame came from the huge 1.6-million-pound-thrust rocket, everything went just like clockwork.

Their's is an "open end" mission. With an orbit of some 142 by 176 miles all spacecraft systems check-outs will take place by the end of the second revolution. Within the first three days, 90 per cent of all experiments, instrument check-out, and testing will have been accomplished.

Therefore, after the three days if some malfunction occurs that cannot be cleared by the team, jeopardizing the remainder of the flight, it will still be deemed a success.

ATLANTIC LANDING PLANNED

The center is tentatively planning a 10-day 19-hour 40-minute flight. At the end of this span, the crew will go on manual control of the spacecraft for its reentry. After separating from the serv-

Apollo Aims at Rendezvous

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 7's astronauts juggled several minor space problems today as they aimed for a rendezvous with the second stage of the Saturn 1B rocket — and a debut on space television.

"I advised him to take a decongestant," Dr. John Ziegleschmid told a press briefing. "All it does is shrink the membranes and stop a runny nose."

The medical officer also said the three astronauts apparently had solved the failure to get early reports of biomedical data from instruments attached to their suits. They simply undressed and reconnected the instrument cords for better connections, he said.

Late yesterday the capsule reported the primary environmental control system which bleeds heat into space was freezing outside the spacecraft. The pilots cut off the system and let the space radiators drain off the excess heat generated by the craft's fuel cells. Control center officials said it was only a "slight problem" and would not affect operations.

Schirra, Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele and civilian astronaut Walter Cunningham enjoyed the roominess of the Apollo space cabin, compared to the confines of the two-man Gemini capsules and the one-man Mercury flights. All three got their first night's sleep on special bunks.

The trio is scheduled to guide their spacecraft today through a series of delicate maneuvers and back to a rendezvous with the second stage of the booster that flawlessly drilled them into orbit yesterday.

The rendezvous simulates a lunar rescue of the first Americans to land on the moon. On a lunar flight, the lunar module will ascend from the moon's surface and use a radar system to rendezvous with the command and service module "mother ship."

But in case the lunar module becomes trapped in a lunar orbit, "Mama" will have to come to the rescue. The rescue calls for the command and service module pilot to guide his ship to the lunar module using optical and sextant tracking and dock, permitting the lunar astronauts to transfer to the command ship.

Only Formality Remains Before Congress Adjourns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only formality remains before the 90th Congress closes the books on a record hearing several victories for President Johnson and some of his bitterest defeats.

The House failed to complete the final adjournment last night because a quorum of its members had disappeared, many for weekend campaign speeches. It scheduled a token session for today with hopes to adjourn sine die—or indefinitely —Monday.

The Senate, which did vote for sine die adjournment, expects to complete its formalities Monday by concurring in the hoped-for House vote.

Leaders in both branches said that all substantial business had been finished, including passage of all the necessary money bills.

LAST MONEY BILLS

The last money bills to go through were a $71.869-billion appropriation for defense—largest single money bill in history —and a $1.75-billion foreign aid measure, lowest in the program's 21-year history.

The 1967 and 1968 sessions of the 90th were marked by extreme frustrations resulting from the Vietnamese war which caused heavy cutbacks in funds for most of the programs passed earlier in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

★ ★ ★

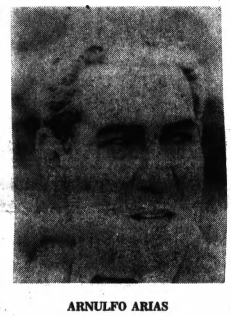
Congress sent to him a broad civil rights bill containing an open housing section, a landmark "truth-in-lending" measure, anticrime legislation, a temporary 10 per cent income tax increase, a major housing bill designed to help low-income families buy homes, and a package of important conservation bills.



ARNULFO ARIAS

Coup Deposes Panama Chief

PANAMA (AP) — The leader of a bloodless military coup against the 11-day-old government of President Arnulfo Arias said today national guard forces were in complete control of the country.

★ ★ ★

Arias, 67, who has been deposed from the presidency twice before by the guard in the past three decades, took refuge in the U.S.-controlled Canal Zone with most of his Cabinet ministers after the take-over began Friday night.

★ ★ ★

How long he planned to remain there was not known but sources close to him indicated he might return to Panama City and try to rally popular support to face the guard, the country's only military force.

★ ★ ★

Lt. Col. Omar Torrijos identified himself and Maj. Boris Martinez, commander of the Chiriqui Province military zone, as leaders of the coup. He said they were supported by "all the young officers." He charged that Arias planned to "enthrone a dictatorship" and convert the guard into a "political instrument of persecution."

VICTIM OF SHAKE-UP

In a shake-up ordered by Arias, Torrijos earlier had been relieved as executive secretary of the guard and ordered abroad. Other anti-Arias officers were given unimportant posts.

Torrijos said Arias supporters were being rounded up.

Aside from small knots of people at doorways, the city appeared calm. There was some panic along A Avenue, the street on which the guard's two-story headquarters is located, when the coup got underway at 9 p.m. last night.

★ ★ ★

Roving guard patrols broke up any groups they found. There was an unconfirmed report that two men were wounded on Central Avenue, the city's main thoroughfare.

Indian Summer to Linger in Area Over Weekend

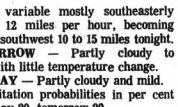
TODAY — Mostly sunny and a little warmer. High 65 to 70. Fair and a little warmer tonight. Low 45 to 50.



SUNNY AND WARM

Winds variable mostly southeasterly eight to 12 miles per hour, becoming south to southwest 10 to 15 miles tonight.

TOMORROW — Partly cloudy to cloudy with little temperature change.

Precipitation probabilities in per cent are: Today 20, tomorrow 20.

A sunny 46 was the low temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The mercury recorded 63 at 12:30 p.m.

Nixon Says No TV Debates, but Dems Keep Up Pressure

By the Associated Press

Republican Richard M. Nixon says radio-television debates between presidential candidates is a dead issue as far as he's concerned, but Nixon opponents haven't dropped the matter.

★ ★ ★

Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey said yesterday his party is willing to buy time

Related Stories, Pages A-7, B-8

for the debates now that Congress has blocked action on a bill that would have waived the government's equal-time provision and permitted networks to donate time for three-way debates.

"Naturally, we hope that Mr. Nixon and George Wallace will agree to share the cost of the debates," said Humphrey at a New York conference with running mate Edmund S. Muskie.

'AFRAID TO DEBATE'

"Come out, Mr. Nixon," said a speech prepared by Humphrey. "Tell your story. Let George Wallace tell his story and I'll tell mine and then let the people decide."

Humphrey was prevented from traveling due to what doctors described as a mild case of the flu.

LBJ to Survey Leaders on N-Pact

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson plans to initiate promptly his survey of foreign leaders to see if international feelings run high enough to warrant a special session of the Senate to ratify a treaty banning the spread of nuclear weapons.

This was the word yesterday from administration sources after Johnson said the need for U.S. ratification of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty was great enough for such a session.

Although sources said a prompt start to the survey was expected, and that it would be done through routine diplomatic channels rather than personal Johnson summit meetings, there was no evidence Johnson contemplates calling the Senate back before the Nov. 5 election.

Olympics Opening Ceremony Today

By HAROLD A. FITZGERALD
Chairman of the Board, The Pontiac Press

MEXICO CITY — Our world-celebrated Olympic Games open here today. The introductory ceremony sees competitors marching in, nation by nation, as crowded stands cheer them all.

This ceremony is occupying a couple of hours and there will be no athletic competitions. Mexico's great Olympic light will be ignited by a torch carried by successive hands from the far reaches of the earth.

If any students are contemplating revolts, they are well in hand today.

Mexico has gone all out for these Olympics. When they were awarded, raucous squawks had an international tinge. Scattered doubts around the globe said these people weren't prepared. The Mexicans were truly aroused and they shoved the accelerator to the floor.

WORLDLY-WISE

Today the sections visible to Olympic visitors are quaint, antique and ultra-modern all rolled into one piece and turned out in perfected form.

Remember, these people have been afflicted with at last a half dozen vacillating civilizations; they soundly whipped the Good Guys at the Alamo; and once they told the lordly Spanish to go jump in the ocean and they overthrew a constricting yoke that had them throttled. They're world-wise.

Tourists with the temerity to enter this pulsating nation without season tickets or a confirmed hotel reservation find themselves officially stamped "on their own."

The government accepts no responsibility for food, lodging, transportation or even a second-grade hot dog. If you try to grab a little shut-eye on a park bench, you're ruthlessly thumbed elsewhere and the gendarme is devoid of recommendations.

QUIT COUNTING

Mexico acknowledged a quarter of a million applications for tickets and hotel accommodations back in the middle of the summer. They've quit counting now. They have 50,000 hotel rooms and the balance will come from private homes.

My wife and I are staying in one of these which W. D. Maxwell, editor of The Chicago Tribune, and his wife rented for a month. I made a down payment originally and now I remit monthly until death after which they sue my estate for the balance.

There are aesthetes "in action" here as well as the athletes. Scientists, musicians, poets and artists among others will be struggling mightily for bronze, silver and gold medals. I may just try for a gold medal with a couple of sonnets in iambic pentameter. Pontiac would have to forget that illustrious and mighty Hayes Jones.

One Oscar Urrutia heads this division which he insists was recognized in the original Olympics before we had the revival 72 years ago. Some 5,000 of these characters will await the starter's gun, while 7,000 athletes in general from 123 countries will grace the scene.

This is one of the great capitals of the globe. Remember, Mexico City is the second largest city in the Western Hemisphere. Roughly, it's four times as big as our sisterly city to the south and Detroit's no wayside hamlet.

Marines Repulse N. Viet Attackers

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops attacked U.S. Marines in bivouac today near the embattled Thuong Duc Green Beret camp but were beaten back when they got within 100 yards of the Leathernecks' defensive lines.

The enemy troops lost 31 dead in 3½ hours of fighting, the U.S. Command said, but killed eight Marines and wounded 20. The fight raged three miles northeast of the green beret—Special Forces—camp in jungled foothills 27 mile southwest of Da Nang.

The enemy force, of unknown size, apparently tried to take advantage of predawn darkness and overcast skies that hampered U.S. jet fighter-bombers in striking back.

A U.S. spokesman said the enemy troops attacked with machine guns and small arms and did not use mortars to cover their assault as they often do.

The Marines fought back with small arms and machine guns, and artillery units opened up on the charging North Vietnamese troops. Some American fighterbombers were able to streak in to support the Marines but the poor visibility prevented saturation strikes of the enemy positions.

Air Force World War II twinengine C47 cargo planes converted into gunships also attacked with rapid firing gatling guns spewing out 6,000 rounds of ammunition a minute.

★ ★ ★

Marines sweeping the battlefield at daybreak today were still drawing some enemy fire but it was light and sporadic.

The fight was only a few miles from where two Marine helicopters supporting the ground troops collided in the air Friday, killing all 12 crew members and passengers aboard the two aircraft.

The Thuong Duc Special Forces camp sits astride enemy infiltration corridors leading into Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city, and other population centers along the coastal lowlands.

Allied officers estimate that anywhere from 5,000 to 7,500 North Vietnamese troops, are operating between Thuong Duc and Da Nang.

★ ★ ★

The Marines, from the 5th Regiment of the 1st Division, are part of a large allied force that pushed into the area a week ago in effort to clean out the North Vietnamese troops and relieve pressure on the camp.

The Marines fought two sharp clashes with North Vietnamese troops around the camp earlier in the week, but nothing of a sustained nature.

Announcement Monday

I-696 Report Ready

LANSING (UPI) — A report by a special three-man arbitration panel on a route for the I-696 freeway through the Northern Detroit suburbs should be in the hands of Gov. George Romney today after more than two months of hearings.

No matter what decision is arrived at, communities that will be affected by the route of the freeway have proposed battles in the courts. Public announcement of the route is not expected by Romney until Monday, however.

The freeway, which will connect I-96 on the west and I-94 on the east, was first proposed 10 years ago. But disputes over the routing through southern Oakland and Macomb counties has stalled construction.

The route through Macomb county was settled last year but continuing disputes between Southfield, Lathrup Village, Huntington Woods, Royal Oak, Pleasant Ridge and Oak Park have stalled any route through Oakland County.

★ ★ ★

The arbitration panel, selected by Romney under a state law which calls for binding arbitration in such a route dispute, held hearings and has prepared its report. The cities of Lathrup Village, Southfield and Pleasant Ridge have promised a court fight if they are not satisfied with the ruling, further delaying construction of the needed east-west freeway.

Detroit Stadium Land Swap Eyed

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh revealed yesterday his hopes that the city can complete a trade of land with the Penn Central Railroad that would lead to construction of a multi-million-dollar sports stadium in the downtown area.

★ ★ ★

Cavanagh said he hoped the city could give the railroad 12 acres of vacant city and state land west of the Detroit civic center. It has been proposed that the Penn Central build a hotel on the site.

★ ★ ★

A stadium with retractable dome, costing an estimated $35 million to $45 million, would be built on a 60-acre site on the Detroit river in the vicinity of the civic center.

★ ★ ★

Cavanagh said he recently discussed the plan with Michigan Gov. George Romney. A committee named by Romney recommended a stadium in the Detroit area be built at the state fairgrounds on Woodward Avenue.

★ ★ ★

Cavanagh said he and Romney agreed the various proposals should be discussed "as quickly as possible."

Woman Acquitted in Slaying Case

Oakland County Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem ruled that Mrs. Margaret Laile was not responsible for the shooting of her husband, Gilbert, 59, because of her mental condition.

★ ★ ★

A month after the slaying, Mrs. Laile was committed to Ionia State Hospital for treatment, and only released recently when authorities declared that she was competent to stand trial.

Ziem, who had presided over Mrs. Laile's two-day nonjury trial in early September, said that Mrs. Laile will now come under the jurisdiction of the Michigan Department of Mental Health.

★ ★ ★

She is to remain in an institition until it is determined with certainty that she will not be a menace, Ziem said.

4 Kidnaped in Sardinia

CAGLIARI, Sardinia (AP) — Troops, police and dogs today searched the bandit-ridden hills of central Sardinia for four persons seized in this island's first mass kidnaping.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac Press Photo

NEWSBOYS OF THE PRESS HONORED — Accepting an award on behalf of newspaper carriers of The Pontiac Press is David Clark of 127 Woodward, Rochester. Presenting the award is James Vallier, manager of the Rochester district distribution. In the background are 10 other carriers who were honored during a two-day trip to Lansing by the Michigan Press Association.

11 Press Carriers Are Honored

Eleven Pontiac Press newspaper carriers were honored in Lansing this week at the third annual Michigan Press Association Outstanding Newspaperboy Awards conference.

★ ★ ★

The youths were given certificates and souvenior jackets at a dinner at the Kellogg Center on the Michigan State University campus. They also won an award from the Inland Daily Press Association.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

The 11 youths representing The Press had all been on their routes at least a year without service errors.

TOUR FACILITIES

The newspaper boys toured facilities in and around Lansing including MSU's Spartan Stadium, the Oldsmobile plant, the Capitol Building, police headquarters and had other events held in their honor.

★ ★ ★

From The Press were: from Pontiac, Dennis Dow of 644 E. Brooks; James Strine of 126 Marquette; and Carter Haynes of 559 Nevada.

★ ★ ★

4 Kidnap-Rape Suspects Are Bound Over for Trial

Four youths held as suspects in a kidnap and rape case were bound over yesterday for trial in Oakland County Circuit Court and are being held in lieu of bonds totaling $70,000 in County Jail this morning.

The youths appeared in the Waterford Township Justice Court of Kenneth H. Hempstead for their preliminary examination yesterday. Charged with kidnap and rape are Raymond M. Spring, 24, of Orion Township; James L. Davidson, 18, of Oxford; and James R. Perna, 18, of Oxford. Charged with rape is Percy Greenwood, 21, of Pontiac.

Bond on each charge was $10,000, making the total $20,000 for the first three and $10,000 for Greenwood.

Sheriff's deputies say the four are suspects in the Sept. 20 abduction of a Pontiac couple in Lapeer County, reportedly seized at Hurd Road and Baldwin. They were taken to Oxford Township and the girl was raped repeatedly by four suspects, according to deputies.

TRIAL OCT. 22

Judge Hempstead ordered them to appear for trial in the circuit court of Judge Philip Pratt at 9 a.m. Oct. 22 in yesterday's hearing.

At the hearing Hempstead ordered the courtroom cleared of press and all persons and witnesses not directly connected with the proceedings. He said he did this under state statutes calling for security measures in justice court cases involving sex crimes.

★ ★ ★

He ordered the exclusion on request of the two defense lawyers, Robert Sterling and Daniel Devine. Sterling represents Perna and Greenwood and Devine has been appointed by the court to represent Spring and Davidson.

In their motion they attacked Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson for using sensational aspects of the case to further his political campaign. He is running for the State Court of Appeals in the Nov. 5 election.

Area Woman Dies 1 Day After Crash

Dead is Wanda M. Collom, 20, of 6036 Elizabeth Lake Road. She died at Pontiac General Hospital after being injured in a crash on Hatchery near Edmore at 11:50 p.m., when her car left the roadway and rolled over several times, according to Waterford Police.

City Man Slain; Suspect Is Held

One man is dead and another is in police custody as the result of a shooting early today in southwest Pontiac.

★ ★ ★

Killed about 3 a.m. was Thomas Johnson, 36, of 441 Bartlett, according to police. Investigators said they found the victim, who had been shot in the neck, on the sidewalk in the 80 block of Clovese.

★ ★ ★

Booked for investigation of murder some 15 minutes later was a man identified as John Byrd, 25, of 92 Crawford, who officers said was placed under arrest at police headquarters.

★ ★ ★

Investigators said Byrd will probably be arraigned later today.

★ ★ ★

Police said a witness told them that Johnson was in a parked car when a man approached and the two began talking. A struggle ensued during which two shots were fired, officers were told.

Iran to Buy Arms

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iran has concluded a new $100 million arms agreements with the Soviet Union, the newspaper Al Anwar reported today.

The paper, in a dispatch from Kuwait, said Iran will pay for the arms in Iranian commodities. It did not say what types of weapons were involved in the deal.

U.S. Space Launch Best Ever

ice module, landing is planned in the Atlantic some 230 miles south-southwest of Bermuda.

Among the new items included on board Apollo 7 is a small 4½-pound black-and-white TV camera which will transmit "live" as the ship passes Corpus Christi, Tex., and Merritt Island, Fla.

These will be converted and passed along to the TV networks for local viewing. Don't expect local TV perfection because it just won't be there. The camera is on a 12-foot cable enabling the astronauts to aim it out of the spacecraft through its windows.

The Apollo assembly building simply staggers one's imagination. When we viewed it from the road, our NASA protocol officer asked how far we thought it was away. It looked fairly close. When the various guesses were tallied, the longest being 3 miles, we found out that the building was just a hair over 5 miles!

Picture this and you will have a rough estimate of its size . . . one can store four . . . not one or two . . . but four Empire State Buildings in it and have room to move!

If all goes as planned, NASA expects to effect a manned lunar module probe in February-March, 1969, with a manned lunar landing before the end of that year. After this has been accomplished, the next step on our agenda to conquer the last bastion is a manned space station for observation and experimental work.

Cameras! I have never seen so many and so many different sizes. They range from a Minox to a beautiful 2¼x2¼ Hasselblad that Mr. V. Hasselblad, the inventor, had. There were Instamatics, Nikons, an assortment of Kodaks, and movie cameras by the legions. We viewed the launch from just over one mile away.

We had sergeants to three-star generals; seamen second class to rear admirals; engineers to doctors in physics; congressmen to governors and in this whole array of some 1,400 intensely interested persons, I saw only one hippie . . . dressed as only they can . . . and two unkempt beards. (Maybe there is hope, yet!)

Everyone associated with the launch was courteous and helpful. No question, no matter how silly it seemed, was left unanswered. Maybe the individual addressed couldn't answer it, but he or she sure knew who could! And they were found.

Legislator Urges New School Financing Plan

LANSING (AP)—A new school financing system featuring a higher state income tax and a $280-million property tax cut, and designed to give a financial boost to Michigan's poorer school districts, was proposed by a legislator Friday.

Rep. Roy Spencer, R-Attica, said he would present the proposal to a special House committee which is studying the school finance issue. He is chairman of the committee.

The essential feature of Spencer's plan, which he called "school tax reform," would be a partial transfer of the burden of school support from local property taxes to the state.

It would limit a school district's basic property tax to 12 mills, some eight mills less than the current state average, resulting in a saving of an estimated $260 million a year for the state's property owners, Spencer said.

At the same time, he proposed flat-rate income tax increases of 1 per cent on individuals and 2 per cent on corporations, with the yield of an estimated $250 million or more earmarked for school aid purposes.

★ ★ ★

A district which levied only the 12-mill "basic" tax would be guaranteed revenue of at least $560 per pupil per year—the amount now available to a wealthy district containing property equalized at $20,000 per pupil.

★ ★ ★

Voters in the school districts would also have options under the Spencer plan to levy district-wide either more millage or a personal income tax of their own.

Income from any extra voted millage, up to an additional six mills, would be supplemented by the state's that the district would receive the same yield as would a district with a $20,000-per-pupil State Equalized Valuation (SEV).

Districts which now have $20,000 SEV or more per pupil would benefit little, Spencer said, but "any district under the $20,000 valuation has to come out way ahead."

"I think the public schools in this state are almost on the verge of collapse unless we take steps to prevent it," Spencer said.

New Series Will Explain Women's Life Cycle

EDITOR'S NOTE — From bouncing infancy to swinging old age, "The Five Ages of Women" are surveyed by Eve Thomas in a timely series covering the medical scene as it applies to women from one to a hundred.

By EVE THOMAS

From the moment of conception, girls are built to last. At conception, boys outnumber girls 130 to 100. From then on, those male embryos and fetuses give up the ghost in disproportionate numbers. So many more boys spontaneously abort that, at birth, there are only 106 boys left for every 100 new-born girls.

In the first few months of life, the boys continue to succumb. When that first birthday cake comes around, the number of boys and girls is even.

* * *

That's apparently the way nature wants it because this male vulnerability is not limited to human beings. It crops up through the animal kingdom—among mice, moths, houseflies, and fish.

During infancy and early childhood, girls and boys share more common experiences than they ever will again. Physical changes are very much the same for both sexes. They're even look-alikes, as anyone knows who has ever looked into a strange baby carriage.

Now that boys wear pink with impunity, little girls blue, and both sexes revel in reds and yellows, figuring out the correct sex is largely a matter of chance.

ALIKE

In the beginning of his famous Baby Book, Dr. Benjamin Spock apologizes for using "he" throughout and thus ignoring half the infant population. That single correction is sufficient because, in the early years, little boys and little girls develop so similarly. Boy and girl infants both zip along through weaning, night feedings, croup, and other crises.

Boys tend to be somewhat slower about such items on the agenda as toilet-training but the difference is quite insignificant — and a fast boy has no trouble outpacing a slow girl.

Infants of both sexes make their greatest spurts in growth in that first year—stretching by half, from an average of 20 inches to 30 inches, and tripling their birth weights. Then they both slow down, so that it takes five years just to double their first-year weight. By the age of four, sexual differences start manifesting themselves.

* * *

At about that age, enough adrenal estrogen is released to give a little girl a subtle feminine look. At around eight, her knees and shoulders are visibly plumper than a boy's. By 10, most boys are clearly stronger than girls of the same age, showing 35 per cent more muscle strength on specific tests. Small wonder that girls learn early to prudently limit their expressions of anger to tears and screams, rather than attempting hand-to-hand combat.

The really crucial determinant of childhood sex differences, of course, may well be the social norm decreeing that girls should be agreeable and ingratiating, while boys should be independent and aggressive. Little girls tend to pattern themselves after their mothers, as boys do after their fathers.

Studies show that teachers often unfairly favor girls over schoolboys because the girls are so much quieter and more obedient. Treated more gently, they tend to be gentler. A study in an orphan asylum underscores this.

When the nicknames boys and girls gave each other were analyzed, it turned out that nearly 40 per cent of the boys' nicknames were derogatory compared to only seven per cent of the nicknames thought up by the girls. Faced with a plump little girl, the boys frequently opted for a nickname like "Fatso," while the more generous girls would come up with something like "Blondie."

Curiosity about the world and people consumes both boys and girls. "What makes a cloud?" "Where do I come from?" These are every-day, interchangeable questions from children.

Pediatricians believe both should be answered, not necessarily in great detail. If a child wants to know more, she will ask further questions. Honest answers are always the best policy. What pediatricians caution against are over-answers, answers going far beyond the girl's request for information.

INFORMATION PLEASE

There is a growing recognition of the need for down-to-earth factual information on sexual matters for youngsters. Many schools have begun sex education courses. In the lower grades, appropriate subjects are: how the sexes differ, how a baby is conceived, and how it is born.

False modesty instilled in a girl's early years can become an adult hang-up. Nakedness is essentially normal. So is masturbation and "playing doctor." Physicians agree that a girl should never be scolded for such behavior.

* * *

However, says pediatrician Herbert Birch of the Albert Einstein College of Medicine, a decent regard for social convention is not necessarily prudery; even a three- or four-year-old, he feels, is old enough to be told that she should not handle herself in public. Generally, genital play is usually dropped at around seven or eight years of age.

* * *

Dr. Elizabeth Parker, a Los Angeles gynecologist, points out that parents lay the groundwork for sex education "by loving the child and expressing that love in a meaningful way" and by the way they treat one another. As in more routine matters, "Don't do what I do but do what I say" does not work here either.

The beloved daughter of loving parents is guaranteed to be made of "sugar and spice and all that's nice."

The cape swings into fashion on fall overcoats, says the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear. With detachable cape, the overcoat in gray tweed has fashion extras in its 6-button double-breasted styling and belted sleeves. Note the gray suede gloves and felt brim-down hat that brings off this total picture of suave masculinity.

Wife Complains That Husband Needs Her Constant Presence

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I hope you will answer an anonymous letter as I'm sure my husband would be very hurt if he knew I wrote to you.

You see, my problem is, after 25 years of marriage, all I feel for my husband is "tolerance."

He wants to spend every minute with me. He goes with me to do all the shopping. He works with me around the house. We go on vacations together, and except for the eight hours we spend at our respective jobs during the day, we are always together.

I do my wifely duties with resentment. I would love to be able to go to a movie without him, or to read a book, or just be left alone. If I don't get a weekend without him I will go crazy.

Our children are grown and living out of state, so we have no strong ties anymore as far as I'm concerned. Please help me. I feel so smothered. I would love to be a "golf widow" or the like, but I don't want to hurt him.

"LOOKING FOR RELIEF"

DEAR LOOKING: If you want to be "alone" to read a book or see a movie, quit your job. But that's not really your problem. You "tolerated" your husband when the kids were young and he was necessary to help raise them. Now you're bored with him.

Go see your kids. Take a trip with a friend. But if you don't want to "hurt" your husband, don't let him know how you've conned him for 25 years.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I need your help desperately and I need it now. I am going to be married soon to a very decent and wonderful guy.

I have led him to believe that I am the "nicest" girl he has ever known. I realize that I should have told him the truth long before this, but it's too late now. He is looking forward to a pure, untouched wife, and he is not going to have one if he marries me.

In plain English, how can I tell him I am not a virgin?

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: In plain English.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 17 years and I don't regret a minute of it, but listen to this: I have nine beautiful, wonderful kids (when they're asleep) ranging all the way from a nine-month-old baby to a pair of 16-year-old twins. I am the maid, chief cook and bottle-washer, chauffeur, laundress, gardener, bookkeeper, teacher, "nurse," referee, and psychiatrist. And now my husband expects me to be an animal trainer and dog catcher.

He brought home a three-weeks old cocker spaniel "for the kids" — and guess who has to train him, feed him, walk him, and clean up after him? (Don't tell me to hit the pup with a rolled-up newspaper. Have you ever looked into the eyes of a three-week-old cocker spaniel and tried to HIT him?)

Am I wrong to say this dog has got to go?

KEN'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: If Ken brought the pup home for "the kids" — the kids should take care of him. Every family should have a pet, but the children should be taught to care for him. If yours refuse to learn—out!

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I usually bottle my feelings up inside me so I won't become a nag. My husband works very hard. He's a machinist. Naturally because of his work his clothes get very dirty and greasy. When he comes home, he likes to relax, and I think he should be able to, but he either sits or lies on the front room furniture in his dirty work clothes. How would you handle this? I'm ready to crown him.

JENNIE

DEAR JENNIE: A man's home is his castle, but don't "crown" him. Buy some plastic covers for your furniture. Or use old bedspreads.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO BILL M. IN ALBUQUERQUE: Tell the neighbor girls personally that the reason you have a wall around your patio is that you want privacy, and you'd appreciate it if they didn't sit up there and observe you and your guests. If that doesn't work, tell their parents.

Bridesmaids May Contribute to the Shower

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I have a relative whose daughter, Dede, asked my daughter to be one of her bridesmaids. My Donna immediately made plans to give Dede a shower.

* * *

I pointed out to her that it wasn't her place to give her a shower, but only the maid of honor. A few days ago, the maid of honor called and told Donna that all the girls were putting a certain amount towards the shower.

I was on the extension and butted in telling the girl that only the maid of honor was responsible for the shower and she had no right to ask the other girls for money.

* * *

My daughter got very annoyed with me and told me the correct thing was for the bridal party to all be responsible. Then she called me cheap and petty and has refused to discuss anything with me. Don't you think I am right?—Mrs. R. S.

Dear Mrs. S.: No you're not right. The maid of honor is not required to give a shower at all, although she generally does. If she chooses to, she may ask the others to chip in making it a "bridesmaids' shower" rather than her own.

* * *

In addition, any of the other bridesmaids may give a shower, but the guests should be selected so that the same girls are not invited to too many.

MARRYING

Dear Mrs. Post: The man I plan to marry is divorced. We are both of the Catholic faith and we will, of course, marry out of the church. Financially, we have no problems and our background would be considered middle class.

* * *

I would appreciate your competent advice as to whether we should just slip away and get married and then notify our families and close friends OR should we have a small dinner party after the wedding for our family and friends?—Margaret

* * *

Dear Margaret: It depends on the attitude of your family. If they are opposed to your marriage because of your husband-to-be's divorce, you would avoid a difficult situation by presenting them with a "fait accompli."

But if there is no problem, you will have happy memories of your wedding day if you arrange a small dinner reception for family and friends.

Area Groups Are in the News

An opportunity for the public to learn what the West Bloomfield League of Women Voters is doing in the community will be provided in the way of a "coffee" Tuesday.

Interested prospective members, new members and friends will gather for this event at 9:30 a.m. in the Township Library on Orchard Lake Road.

RETIRED TEACHERS

Rep. Clifford Smart (R-60th Dist.) addressed the annual fall meeting of the Pontiac Area Retired Teachers Association Thursday at Pontiac Northern High School.

His topic was "What's New in Teachers' Retirement Legislation." Smart is a member of the State Legislature's Retirement Committee. He explained the financing of the retirement fund and the problems involved.

Mrs. Edith Cadieux was in charge of the dinner arrangements. She was assisted by Mrs. Olive Lord, Mrs. Carroll Porritt, Gertrude Overton, Mrs. Paul Allison and Arno Hulet.

Guidepost for Living

President Endorses Bible

NEW YORK — President Lyndon B. Johnson officially endorsed National Bible Week yesterday in a statement declaring that the Scriptures provide "the best possible guidepost for today's living."

In a statement issued by the White House, President Johnson said:

"The Bible comes with many covers, on varying grades of paper and in multiple languages. But its purpose is unchanged: man's firm instructions and wonderful promises from God. It holds our answers and hopes. It is life's greatest truth.

"While this mighty book traces our history and projects into tomorrow, it remains the best possible guidepost for today's living.

★ ★

"It is fitting that our nation, founded upon faith and built upon trust in Divine Providence, should set aside a special period to proclaim His Word.

★ ★

"I am pleased to introduce National Bible Week with a prayer that my fellow Americans will join me in rededicating ourselves to its sacred teachings."

Mr. Johnson sent this statement on Bible Week to the American Bible Society and the Laymen's Natonal Commmittee, joint sponsors of the observance, to be held Oct. 20 through Thanksgiving.

More than 40,000,000 people are expected to participate in National Bible Week.

★ ★

Wallace E. Johnson, of Memphis, Tenn., president of Holiday Inns of America, Inc., is national chairman of the interfaith program. He is being assisted by more than 120 top executives and civic leaders across the country.

Air Glistens in Iceland, No Chimneys

"The first thing I noticed on arriving in Reykjawik, Iceland was the unusual clearness of the air. It actually sparkles and glistens on a bright sunny day," said the Rev. Arthur Kreinheder of Oxford upon his return this week.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

"The air is so clear because there are no chimneys in Reykjavik. There are no furnaces, no fires for heating, no smoke. All the heating is done with hot water from the natural hot water springs in the area.

★ ★ ★

"On a hill above the city, one can see several large tanks which supply hot water to all homes and public buildings. The water comes from all over Iceland at about boiling point.

HEAT BY WATER

"It is piped into the homes in Reykjavik at almost boiling temperature. Thanks to hot water, greenhouses in Iceland grow vegetables for the Icelanders and for export," he said.

★ ★ ★

Father Kreinheder told us there is no railroad station in Reykjavik because there are no trains in Iceland. All public transportation is furnished by buses, ships and by a rapidly expanding air service. Trips that take 12 hours by bus now take an hour by plane.

★ ★ ★

The Oxford religious leader said Lutherans of Iceland have built new churches in the city, and a new cathedral in Skalholt where the first bishopric was established in 1056.

The Vikings, heathen settlers in Iceland, adopted a Christianity at historic Thingvellir in the year 1000.

A new cathedral is under construction in Reykjavik to be named in memory of the great hymn writer, Hallgrimer Petursson of the 17th century.

★ ★ ★

The Icelandic language is spoken only in Iceland, Father Kreinheder informed us. It is said to have changed very little from the language which the early settlers brought from Norway.

NO HOT WEATHER

He also told us there are no hot, sultry days in Reykjavik.

In spite of the fact that Iceland lies just below the Artic Circle, it has an ideal climate. During the summer, temperatures range from 54 to 60 degrees. In the winter the mercury stands around 32 degrees, and snow, when it falls lasts just a short time.

Of special interest to Americans is the fact that there is no army. However, the American Armed Forces have a large base at Keflavik.

★ ★ ★

According to Father Kreinheder, the Viking stopped off in Ireland to get wives when they came to Iceland.

It is said that the population of Iceland is 70 per cent Scandinavian and 30 per cent Irish. The Scandinavians of Iceland are different. They are Irish Scandinavians—delightfully different.

MRS. LOUVESTA TAYLOR

Church Women Honor Member

The Missionary Society of Bray Temple CME Church, 320 Rockwell will honor Mrs. Louvesta Taylor, in honor of her birthday from 3:30 to 6 p.m. tomorrow in the church.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Taylor, 87, was a Sunday School teacher and choir member of the Bray Temple until she suffered a stroke. She came to Pontiac after the death of her husband in 1949.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Taylor makes her home with Mr. and Mrs. Titus Taylor of 238 Rockwell.

Bobby Richardson Reads Bible Daily

NEW YORK — Bobby Richardson, former New York Yankee baseball star, stressing the need for daily Bible reading said, "As a teen-ager I found the Bible was the way that God was able to talk to me and to let me know His plan for my life.

"I know how important it is for families to have a time together with God's Word whether it be in the morning or in the evening."

The seven-time all-star second baseman is one of the prominent personalities from business, sports, and the arts who are sponsors of National Bible Week — Worldwide Bible Reading.

★ ★ ★

National Bible Week, cosponsored by the American Bible Society and the Laymen's National Committee, runs from Oct. 20-27. The Society's WBR program will conclude on Thanksgiving.

Kirk in Hills Men Meet for Dinner

The Men's Brotherhood of Kirk in the Hills will meet Wednesday in the rectory with reception at 6:30 and dinner at 7 p.m.

★ ★ ★

C. Ralston Smith, director of development for Christianity Today magazine, will be guest speaker.

★ ★ ★

At this first meeting of the fall season, Ian Beaton, president of the Brotherhood, announces that wives of Kirk members and guests are invited and most welcome.

★ ★ ★

A short board of directors' meeting will follow the program.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

A graduate of Asbury College, he received an honorary degree from the College of the Ozarks in 1953.

★ ★ ★

After serving Presbyterian churches in Pittsburgh and Harrisburg, Pa., he became pastor of First Presbyterian Church Oklahoma City where he served from 1948 to 1966.

Lutherans Push Crisis Program

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — The American Lutheran Church's urban-racial crisis program, called "Project Summer Hope," is in high gear, reports the Rev. H. Manford Knudsvig, director.

Congregations have contributed money for crash projects in amounts ranging up to $50,000. Available cash is used for immediate needs—food, cloth, ing and housing. Local congregations also are supporting existing organizations in vocational training and job-finding.

Rev. Knudsvig describes the project as a program "to rout out racism and prejudice among church members."

Dancing Coed Faces Charge

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A university of Wisconsin coed, accused of dancing nude in a hippie version of the musical "Peter Pan," was arraigned Friday after authorities said she appeared voluntarily to face charges.

★ ★ ★

Miss Carolyn Ann Purdy, 21, of Janesville was identified as one of the two dancers for whom authorities had been searching since Oct. 1, when students held two performances of the musical despite Dist. Atty. James Boll's ruling that he considered the show obscene.

★ ★ ★

A court hearing was scheduled for Oct. 17.

★ ★ ★

Boll, prior to the Oct. 1 performances, was among officials who saw a private screening. In the student version of the musical, policemen replace pirates, Tinker Bell dies and Peter Pan becomes an adult.

★ ★ ★

The nude dancers portrayed innocence. There had been six nude dancers originally, but four of them quit the show as a result of the publicity.
