Gales Hammer British Isles, Endanger Ships

31 Seamen Are Plucked From Stricken Craft as Two Are Lost

LONDON (AP) — Gales up to 80 miles an hour kept the eastern Atlantic boiling today and spread a trail of damage across the British Isles.

Homebound American tourists aboard the liner Ile de France saw a thrill-packed rescue of 24 seamen from the stricken 6,323-ton Liberian freighter Greenville. One man was lost and the body of another was left aboard the sinking ship.

In British waters, a lifeboat plucked seven men to safety from a sinking lightship. And a one-legged yachtsman swam four miles to safety, pushing his artificial leg before him on a mattress.

The Ile de France, bound for New York, reported she had to issue an "abandon ship or we leave you" ultimatum to the skipper of the Liberian freighter 700 miles off the West Coast of England.

Her lifeboats were smashed and her superstructure crushed.

Then came the ultimatum from the Ile de France.

Volunteers from the liner's crew manned lifeboats to ferry the Greenville men to safety. One of the latter slipped as he was being hauled aboard and disappeared in the swirling seas.

The liner's doctors rushed the 24 survivors to the Ile's infirmary. Three were injured.

The Greenville, the French ship reported, looked certain to sink within hours. Still lashed to her wheel was the body of an officer killed Sunday in trying to repair the steering gear.

The liner was the waterlogged lightship off St. Gowans Head,

Ike Requests Clothes for East Germany

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower asked the American people today to contribute winter clothing through private organizations for the people of Soviet-occupied East Germany.

The move follows up the President's earlier gift of food for the East Germans.

The White House made public an exchange of letters between Eisenhower and Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany.

Adenauer's letter, dated Aug. 30, appealed to the United States for warm clothing for the population of East Berlin and the remainder of Eastern Germany.

Eisenhower replied in a letter dated yesterday that he would bring the chancellor's appeal to the attention of the American people.

Charges Truce Violations

MIG Pilot Says Reds Move Jet Fighters Into Korea

SEOUL (AP) — A young North Korean jet pilot who flew to freedom in a Russian-made MIG said today the Communists have flown jet fighters and propeller-driven bombers into Korea since the armistice in violation of truce terms.

The 22-year-old pilot, a senior lieutenant in the North Korean Air Force, told a news conference he did not know the Allies had offered $100,000 for a MIG when he landed his swept-wing fighter at a base near Seoul yesterday.

He said he fled from Communist Korea because "I did not want to stay there." He voiced hope that he could study in the United States.

The smiling young pilot, clad in U. S. Army fatigues, also told newsmen:

1. He knew Russian pilots flew MIGs in combat against pilots of the 5th U. S. Air Force in Korea. Russians also were his advanced instructors, he said, but made no combat missions with Korean fliers.

2. The plane he flew to Kimpo Airfield, near Seoul, was definitely a MIG15 and not some other type as had been rumored in some quarters.

For personal protection the pilot declined use of his name. A South Korean newspaper earlier identified him as Noh Kuem Suk.

The pilot said he did not know how many MIGs the Reds had moved into North Korea since the armistice but added that some arrived about 40 days ago, about two weeks after the truce was signed.

The 5th Air Force said on July 30 that a big Allied radar station had tracked Communist planes flying southward from Manchuria into Korea after the 10 p.m. July 27 deadline for building up either air or ground forces.

The Air Force said the planes presumably were MIGs.

Although the armistice permits only the movement of replacements under strict supervision, the U. N. Command did not protest the plane flights as a truce violation.

Durkin Claims Ike Backed Up

Says President Himself Reversed Stand on 19 T-H Changes

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Former Secretary of Labor Martin Durkin said today President Eisenhower personally ran out on a deal with him on proposals to amend the Taft-Hartley labor law, but he still considers Eisenhower a friend.

Durkin told the annual AFL convention he quit Eisenhower's cabinet two weeks ago "as a matter of principle" because of the claimed broken agreement, yet retained "the warmest personal feelings of friendship" for the President.

The 59-year-old chief of the AFL Plumbers Union, a Democrat, outlined his stody of the events leading up to his resignation in a speech prepared for convention delegates.

Durkin said Eisenhower agreed to the amendments in a conference in New York City Aug. 19. But lated at a White House session on Sept. 10, Durkin said, "he informed me he had changed his position since the New York meeting and that he could no longer go along with the 19 amendments."

In his Boston speech last night Eisenhower said an administration study of T-H Law changes is continuing, and that he will have recommendations for the next session of Congress to make "more secure our industrial peace and productivity, more clear and explicit the rights of labor, its unions and its employers."

300 Birds Crash Into Empire State

NEW YORK (AP)—An early morning haze plus a gale wind sent 300 migratory birds crashing to death today against the Empire State Building.

About a thousand other feathery migrants flying over at the same time missed the haze-shrouded upper floors of the building, flocked safely to the street and perched on building terraces. Their species was not determined.

Proclaims Pulaski Day

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today proclaimed Oct. 11 as Gen. Casimir Pulaski Day in honor of the Polish count who helped win the American Revolution.

Hospital Room Is No Barrier to Bond Sales

Since entering St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, after suffering a stroke, the well-known Pontiac man has sold a bond to a nurse, Mrs. Jack Chappel, 4191 Farner, Drayton Plains and is mapping future bond sales.

Hyams also found that he is gaining national recognition for his bond-selling when he received a telegram recently from Merrill L. Predmore, acting national director of the U. S. Savings Bond Division.

4 Gunmen Get $10,000 in Flint

Masked Bandits Invade Physician's Home, Bind Family With Tape

FLINT (AP) — Four gunmen who wore grotesque Halloween masks while they systematically staged a $10,000 holdup at the home of a prominent Flint physician were sought by police today.

The four made off with $7,000 in jewelry and $3,000 in cash after surprising Dr. James K. Sutherland, former Genesee County coroner and Democratic chairman, and three members of his family in the living room of their home last night.

Dr. Sutherland told police that the four, each masked and brandishing a revolver, entered the house about 9 p.m.

President Calls for Sacrifices to Aid Security

Tells GOP Banqueters of Ten Ways Party Has Bettered Conditions

BOSTON (AP) — President Eisenhower solemnly declared last night that no sacrifice—no tax, for example—is too burdensome for Americans determined to thwart "enemies of freedom equipped with the most terrible weapons of destruction."

Kicking off a Republican drive to hold control of Congress in the 1954 elections, the President got a round of applause in making that statement at a $100-a-plate party rally in Boston Garden.

His remark touched off speculation that the White House may be thinking about a new tax levy to help meet the Russian hydrogen bomb. threat.

There has been unconfirmed speculation the administration might ask Congress to approve a national sales tax.

House Speaker Joseph W. Martin (R-Mass) told the same rally of New England Republicans, however, "it is universally agreed that next January there will be a reduction in personal income taxes and the excess profits tax will be eliminated."

The President made no mention of those scheduled tax cuts.

It was the first time he had anything to say publicly about "terrible weapons of destruction" since Russia announced last month that it had exploded a hydrogen bomb.

The U. S. Atomic Energy Commission confirmed it had detected a Russian atomic explosion which included hydrogen reactions.

Eisenhower's speech was carried by nationwide television and radio networks. He spoke to a crowd of about 5,000 persons in the Garden, and dinner committee officials said 4,700 purchased $100 tickets.

In Boston, Eisenhower took no direct note of criticism of his administration by former President Truman and Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee in 1952. But he listed what

Wayne Prosecutor Orders Probe of Mother's Death

DETROIT (AP) — A probe to determine if medical negligence was involved in the death of a young Hamtramck mother was ordered today by Wayne County Prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien.

The prosecutor said he wants to find out if there was any negligence on the part of Dr. Howard B. Gaba of Hazel Park who on July 27 delivered a son of Mrs. Patricia Achram, 23. The mother died less than a month later, on Aug. 21.

Police said Dr. V. A. Hasczyo of Detroit conducted a thorough examination of the woman after she became ill Aug. 16. The doctor told officers he found a decomposed gauze pack in her body of the type used in child delivery.

Brent Hospital records showed the birth was normal, Det. Lt. Gerald Walter said. The mother was permitted to return home two days later.

However, Walter said, Mrs. Achram had gone to see Dr. Gaba when she complained of feeling discomfort Aug. 1. At that time, he said, the doctor told her she was all right.

Walter said further investigation showed that the woman made two more visits to the doctor a week later. He said Dr. Gaba told her she was suffering from nerves and needed rest.

Following those visits, the detective said, Mrs. Achram complained of severe headaches and loss of feeling in her right arm and hand.

She was taken to St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital in Pontiac Aug. 12 after an attack of convulsions and lapsed into a coma. Her ailment was diagnosed as a brain abscess and septicemia. She was transferred to Grace Hospital in Detroit where she died.

Meanwhile, Prosecutor O'Brien said he checked with three Grace Hospital doctors who conducted an autopsy. He said they told him that they failed to trace the cause of death directly to a local infection that resulted from the pack being left in the woman's body. He said the doctors agreed that normally no particles or material could pass to the brain from the area in which the pack was found.

Humphrey Says Ike Won't Ask for Extensions

Secretary of Treasury Kills Rumors Started by President's Talk

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey said today the 10 per cent income tax cut will take place at the end of the year as scheduled, and also there will be no request for renewing the excess profits tax.

He said, in a speech for the convention of the American Bankers Association:

"The excess profits tax will expire Dec. 31, and there will be no request for renewal. At the same time an average of 10 per cent reduction in individual income taxes is scheduled to go into effect, and it will become effective."

Humphrey's statement to the bankers also stressed the need, in the light of the Russian threat, to exercise caution in cutting taxes and defense expenditures. He said there is a "real possibility of an atomic Pearl Harbor hanging directly over our heads."

This threat had caused some speculation that the scheduled tax reductions might not take place and that there might be some new form of taxation to raise defense money.

President Eisenhower had said only last night in his Boston speech that no sacrifice was too burdensome for Americans determined to thwart "enemies of freedom equipped with the most terrible weapons of destruction."

In his words of caution on the Russian situation, Humphrey added:

"I do not mean that hope of reduction in expenditures and taxes must be abandoned. Quite the contrary.

"But the necessity for caution and planning and assurance that reductions are justified before they are made is paramount. A balance between our military and economic security must be achieved."

Humphrey said "the knowledge of the Russian capability to produce an even more potent weapon" is the "great and really important reason why it is most difficult to cut expenditures radically

Assembly Rejects Red Plan to Make Korean Parley Separate Item

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States today won the first round of its fight to keep the U.N. General Assembly from reopening debate on the inclusion of neutral countries in the Korean Peace Conference.

Chief U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., however, said in a surprise statement that the representatives of the U. N. and the Communists at the conference might decide themselves whether they want to invite any non-belligerents.

Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky promptly turned down the U.S. proposals as a "chess move."

The assembly's 15-member steering committee voted to reject a Soviet proposal that the Korean Conference be put on the agenda as a separate item. Vishinsky had warned that rejection of his proposal might wreck any chances of agreement at the conference.

The Soviet delegate was expected to seek a reversal of this decision in the Assembly itself, but appeared to have little chance.

Light Frost Will Usher In Ist Day of Fall Tomorrow

Scattered light frost is expected to usher in the first day of autumn tomorrow morning.

Cool and clear weather in the Pontiac area will launch the fall season which starts officially at 3:07 a. m., according to the U. S. Weather Bureau.

And a long-range forecast indicates temperatures will be near normal for the rest of the week, with a warming trend beginning Thursday.

A low of from 36 to 40 degrees tonight may bring light frost to low sections of Oakland County, said weather forecasters. A high of from 64 to 68 degrees is expected Wednesday.

The mercury climbed from a low of 45 to a high of 61 degrees here Monday. The thermometer stood at 44 degrees at 8 a.m. today, then rose to 62 degrees by 2 p.m. in downtown Pontiac.

A full harvest moon tonight will herald the arrival of autumn, predict astronomers.

This moon is distinguished from other full moons because it rises quite early for several nights near the autumnal equinox, making evenings unusually bright with moonlight.

Technically, autumn arrives when the sun crossed the equator on its way south, thus entering the autumnal equinox. Tomorrow the sun will rise and set at exactly the east and west points, and the day and the night will be approximately equal.

Birmingham Commission Agrees to Eventual Zone Laws for Porritt Acres

From Our Birmingham Bureau

BIRMINGHAM — City commissioners last night agreed to the zoning of the 40-acre Porritt property if and when it is annexed to the city.

Their decision modified the revised plan submitted by the W. E. Reid Development Co. for the Troy Township island within the city.

With neighboring residents at the meeting split for and against the proposed development, the commissioners added single-family residences and income bungalows to what may be built in certain areas of the project.

Their action took the form of a "gentlemen's agreement," since the commission cannot bind future commissions in any way.

The lawmakers also authorized city Manger Donald C. Egbert, subject to their approval, to proceed in selecting legal and financial consultants for a proposed interceptor sewer authority up the Rouge River.

Egbert will act with representatives of Bloomfield Hills, and Southfield and Bloomfield townships, who are working together on the plan.

The commissioners asked for some idea of just how the cost would be split among participating units, and also for some assurance that Detroit approves of the idea. The interceptor would funnel Rouge sewage into Detroit's sewers at Eight Mile road.

A separate storm and sanitary sewage system, to serve the northeast area outside the city, principally the proposed Pembroke School and nearby areas, was approved by commissioners.

The city will accept the sanitary flow, but no storm water from the properties, and will be reimbursed for these flowage rights. No part of the cost of the sewers will be born by the city, although the city owns five lots in the area.

This agreement will be submitted to Troy Township and interested property owners.

Lawmakers also set a hearing on the vacation of Rugby and Cambridge roads from Buckingham to the city limits for Oct. 19, and denied Colonial Court Terraces permission to dump, free of charge, in the dump.

They had been collecting their own rubbish and taking it to the dump, but protested the charges the Garbage and Rubbish Authority levies on dumpers there.

Also denied was a request for water and sewage disposal facilities by George K. Harris Jr. of Bloomfield Township.

Survivors include a sister, Mrs. Harry Miller of Southfield Township, and two brothers, Howard J. of Birmingham, and Norman A. Bell of Oxford.

Dean Thrilled to Touch U. S.

General in Hawaii on Way to States After 6 Years in Orient

HONOLULU (AP) — Deeply moved at being back on American soil, Maj. Gen. William F. Dean comes home today from three years of Communist captivity in Korea.

Dean said it was 71 months since he last touched American soil in Hawaii on his way to Korea. The Medal of Honor winner looked ruddy and tanned and said he had added 18 pounds to the 162 he weighed when liberated Sept. 4.

The gaunt, gray repatriate is scheduled to leave Hickam Air Force Base at 3 p. m. EST on the 10-hour flight to Travis Air Force Base, Calif., where he will be met by his family.

"This is the thrill of my life, returning to my homeland, to American soil," Dean said as he stepped out of an Air Force transport.

"Not only I, but every repatriate I know has been talking all the way from Panmunjom about how wonderful it is to be a citizen of the United States returning home," the general said, refusing a seat offered him.

Beside him stood a fellow repatriate of Chinese ancestry, M. Sgt. Clarence Young of Honolulu.

"This is one of the heros of the war," Dean said. "He didn't ever admit anything but American citizenship. The Chinese tried to work on him because he is half Chinese, but he insisted he was an American citizen."

Gales Strike Britain, Shipping Threatened

Presland lost a leg as a wartime bomber pilot. This was his tale:

"I take the leg off when I'm sailing because it gets in the way. When the boat went over, I got an air mattress from the locker and tied the leg to it. Then I started to swim for shore.

"It took three hours. Next I had to drag the mattress over a mile of mud flats. After the mud was another mile of saltings (tide-flooded lands). I tried putting the leg on but it kept coming off. So I just kept crawling."

The giant liner United States, due in Le Havre today, reported one seaman with a broken leg and many bruise cases among her 1,500 passengers.

The Queen Elizabeth spent the night at anchor off the Isle of Wight. Her captain hoped to be able to dock later today.

The 99-ton French trawler Anne Gaston was reported aground off the Irish coast. She reported one crewman was washed overboard.

Inland, the winds tore away hundreds of British roofs and blew a five-ton truck off a South Wales mountainside, killing the driver.

Weathermen said the storms had started out as hurricane Edna, which hit Bermuda late last week. They predicted the gales would let up tomorrow.

Pontiac Principals Set Club Schedule

Dr. Edith Roach Snyder will be chairman of the next meeting Oct. 12, when principals will discuss the "Higgins Lake Conference" scheduled for Oct. 2-4.

Prayer Will Open Board Meetings

Future meetings of Oakland County Board of Supervisors will open with an invocation.

The board Monday approved a resolution offered by its vice chairman, Floyd Andrews of Independence Township, asking that a minister or clergyman open each meeting.

Clare W. Seery, board chairman, named Andrews, David Levinson of Birmingham and Maurice J. Croteau, Pontiac, to select the clergyman for each meeting.

Charged with carrying concealed weapons, Lou A. Kanasiz, 21, of 3300 Alvina St., Hazel Park, waived examination yesterday before Hazel Park Justice Robert C. Baldwin and was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court for arraignment Sept. 30.

Kanasiz was taken to Oakland County Jail when he was unable to furnish $1,000 bond. He was arrested Sept. 19 by Hazel Park police who say he pulled a knife while arguing with the owner of an Eight Mile Road cleaning firm over a bill.

Prince Akihito to Tour Campus of UM Today

DETROIT (UP) —Nineteen-year-old Crown Prince Akihito of Japan was scheduled to tour the University of Michigan campus at Ann Arbor today for a first-hand look at college life in America.

The prince, a freshman at Gakushuin University in Tokyo, arrived in Detroit Monday night on another leg of his month-long visit to the United States.

He will visit Greenfield Village and tour the Ford Motor Co. plant at River Rouge on Wednesday before boarding a train for Chicago.

Akihito, eldest son of Emperor Hirohito, arrived at Willow Run Airport Monday night on a flight from Boston where he spent the day sightseeing. A group of Detroit residents of Japanese extraction bowed politely when the prince stepped off the plane.

and bring both a balanced budget and a tax reduction into quick being at the same time."

Declaring there is "nothing to shiver about" in the present economic situation, Humphrey said part of the administration's anti-recession plans is a "definite policy, through tax reductions, to return to the people for them to spend for themselves all the real savings in government spending which can be reasonably anticipated."

On the current business outlook, Humphrey said:

"My crystal ball is no bigger or brighter than yours. The decline in the Stock Market is heralded by some as a sure sign of disaster. I cannot believe that that is so.

"It may well be that, as the fear of inflation declines, some switching is taking place from stocks to bonds or cash which the holders have not dared to make during the past period of growing inflation.

"It may also be that there is some fear of declining earnings as certain supplies more nearly approach demand and goods become available. That is nothing to shiver about. Whenever adjustment is required, let's face it with confidence and get at it.

"Keep your eyes open. Seek out the soft spot and see what can be done about it. Government spending now appears to be on the road to reduction.

"But in spite of all we can do and all the savings we can make, a relatively small reduction is the most that we can hope to accomplish — quickly."

Anti-Trust Investment Suit to Be Dropped

NEW YORK (AP)—Federal Judge Harold R. Medina said today he will dismiss the entire anti-trust proceeding pressed by the government against 17 leading investment banking firms. The trial began in November, 1950.

The government's complaint was filed in October, 1947. The banking firms were accused of conspiracy to monopolize the entire securities business and of having gained a partial monopoly.

3 New Men Join Faculty at Cranbrook Tomorrow

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — When Cranbrook School opens its doors tomorrow for the 27th year, three new men will have joined the faculty.

Teaching ancient, medieval and American history to the 10th and 11th grades will be John H. Hintermeister. Graduating cum lude from Dartmouth College, he received his master's degree from Columbia University.

Julius Corrubia comes to the Spanish department with a background of 10 years travel in Mexico and Central and South America.

He is a graduate of Washington and Jefferson University, Washington, D. C., and attended Penn State College and the Universities of Illinois, Texas and Mexico.

He has taught at the University of Illinois and Lawrenceville Prep School.

Practical and choral music and English will be taught by Jack R. Benson, a graduate of Mercersburg Academy, Pa., the University of Rochester and The Eastman School of Music. He has done graduate work at Syracuse University in New York.

Benson also has led choral and musical groups at the Dryden Theater in Rochester, N. Y., and while serving in the U. S. Army Air Force.

Since Cranbrook faculty members combine coaching a sport with teaching, Hintermeister and Corrubia are well qualified.

Hintermeister, 6 feet five inches tall, played varsity basketball for Dartmouth, and was chosen in high school as one of five boys on the all-city basketball team in New York.

Security Sacrifices Called For by Ike

he called the accomplishments of his administration thus far.

* * *

He said the record since January is "too short to be anything like definitive."

* * *

Eisenhower got a tremendous ovation when he entered Boston Garden two hours in advance of his speech. There was another big ovation when he rose to talk and when he concluded. He was interrupted by applause six times.

He said that in this age of peril "the security of our whole nation—the preservation of our free system—must direct every thought and every decision." Then he declared:

* * *

"We know the enemies of freedom to be equipped with the most terrible weapons of destruction. We know, then, that we can meet them with only one answer: there is no sacrifice—no labor, no tax, no service—too hard for us to bear to support a logical and necessary defense of our freedom."

* * *

Eisenhower noted the Republican party soon will be celebrating its 100th anniversary. He pictured the party as a "magnificent means" through which "countless thousands of devoted citizens can cooperate in conquering the problems that beset free men everywhere."

That appeared to some to be a reply to Truman, who said in Chicago last week that a wrecking crew was at work in Washington, and that it was up to the Democrats to save America and the world from "the road to ruin."

In reciting the administration's record, the President said that since taking office Jan. 20 it has:

* * *

1. Practiced "true bipartisanship in international affairs."

* * *

2. Seen an end to the fighting in Korea.

3. Given the world "the clearest testimony of our firm allegiance to the common cause and needs of free peoples everywhere." He specified shipments of wheat to Pakistan, rehabilitation aid to Korea and food to Berlin.

* * *

4. Lifted "stifling artificial controls from our economy."

* * *

5. Simplified customs regulations and initiated a review of tariff policy.

6. Used federal authority "to steady farm prices," while "blueprinting extension of social security coverage to more than 10 million unprotected citizens."

7. Redefined policy on public power to assure "maximum of local participation and decision in projects that require the partnership of national, state and local governments."

* * *

8. Undertaken "with determination the work of cleaning up governmental operations," and has made "extraordinary progress with this job that so badly needed doing."

* * *

9. Reduced government expenditures "by billions of dollars—making a balanced budget somewhat nearer to realization than an accountant's dream."

10. Used federal authority, wherever it clearly extends, "to erase the stain of racial discrimination and segregation."

The President touched only briefly on revision of the Taft-Hartley Labor Law—the issue which caused the resignation of Martin P. Durkin as secretary of labor.

* * *

"We are continuing to study and will submit to the next session of Congress, legislative recommendations for making more secure our industrial peace and productivity, more clear and explicit the rights of labor, its unions and its employers," Eisenhower said.

Earlier she tossed the other children from a third-floor window into the arms of her husband, George Anderson, 30, as he stood on the roof of a smaller adjoining building, police said.

The rescued children were Stanley, 1, George Jr., 4, and Ollie May, 5.

The father was treated for cuts at a hospital.

Williams Names Disaster Group

7-Man 'Task Force' to Bring Immediate Help to Distressed Places

LANSING (UP) — Michigan communities hit by disasters of any type will receive immediate assistance from a seven-man "task force" that will operate until local officials can take over.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams announced formation of the "task force" Monday following a meeting with Lester J. Maitland, head of state civil defense, and Joseph A. Childs, State Police Commissioner.

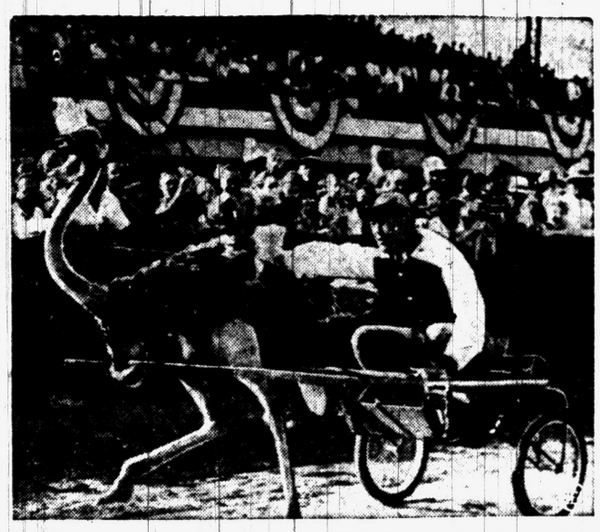

The "task force" will include one top official of civil defense, State Police, State Fire Marshal's Office, National Guard, State Health Department, State Highway Department and State Welfare Department.

In several instances, the head of these agencies will be members of the group which will go immediately to any area hit by a disaster and set up a headquarters.

Williams said the civil defense representative would remain in Lansing to coordinate statewide activities while the State Police representative at the scene would be in full command of disaster operations.

The governor said the "task force" would not be used in communities that now have adequate civil defense programs.

He named Detroit and Grand Rapids as having ample CD setups and said other cities would be added to the list.

Freshmen at MSC Near 4,000 Number

EAST LANSING (UP) — Michigan State College fall term registration started today with officials anticipating a record freshmen class of nearly 4,000 students.

Dr. John A. Hannah, college president, welcomed first year students to the campus Monday and they immediately began a round of mental tests, physical examinations, conferences with advisers, and social events on a week-long orientation program.

Registration officers said the 1953 freshman class is expected to top the postwar peak of 3,769 set in 1946.

Total enrollment for the fall quarter is expected to reach 15,000 students. The number will include about 700 Korean War veterans.

Supervisors Meet Oct. 5 to Take up County Budget

Oakland County Board of Supervisors will meet again Oct. 5 to take up the county budget for 1954 and a stack of other matters hanging fire after Monday's session.

Yesterday's meeting, climaxed by a luncheon for supervisors at Camp Oakland, came a bit too soon for committees drafting a proposed county budget. David Levinson of the ways and means committe said that the budget report was not ready.

He said some clipping remains to be done on next year's budget, pared to the bone to offset losses in income.

Reductions in revenue include some $200,000 in tax money which was cut off the county's receipts ledger when Oakland County Tax Allocation Board chopped a quarter mill off the county's requested tax rate.

Sister Kenny Polio Center's move out of the County Contagious Hospital means another net loss of some $130,000 a year.

Salaries committee report, presented Monday by H. Lloyd Clawson, chairman pro tem, was referred back to the ways and means committee. Clawson's committee also proposed an "increment" plan which would raise county employes' salaries in proportion to their length of service. The plan will be considered later.

The board approved a recommendation from Winson S. Moberly, miscellaneous committee chairman, making it the dog warden's duty to search out dog owners who have not complied with the dog licensing law.

Action on a resolution from Hiland M. Thatcher, civil defense committee chairman, renaming Lewis C. Jarrendt civil defense director under a new law was deferred until the next meeting.

Board authorized the ways and means committee to buy for $1 a lot next to Pontiac Child Guidance Center at 113 Franklin Blvd. Harry W. Horton, buildings and grounds committee chairman, said the property, now owned by Michigan Conservation Department, would have to be used for public purposes or revert to the state.

William A. Ewart, a Pontiac City supervisor, thanked the board for its "fine cooperation in helping Pontiac acquire the Mill Street market for a parking lot."

A resolution praising Birmingham League of Women Voters for their recent "County Government Fair" at Birmingham High School was adopted by the board at Levinson's suggestion.

Reds Say 300 Koreans, One Briton Also Refuse Repatriation

PANMUNJOM (AP) — The Communists said today at least 20 Americans, one Briton and more than 300 Koreans refused repatriation in the big Korean prisoner exchange. They are scheduled to be turned over Thursday to Indian custodial troops.

A Red correspondent, Wilfred Burchett of the Paris L'Humanite, unofficially put the number at 23 Americans, one Briton and 335 South Koreans. Burchett said they are being held in an unguarded camp at Kaesong.

By terms of the armistice, reluctant POWs will be held 90 days in the demilitarized zone while interviewers try to persuade them to change their minds about going home.

* * *

Answering a U. N. Command request for a breakdown by nationality of captives they claim refused repatriation, the Reds reported to a joint secretariat session of the Military Armistice Commission that "more than 300 are Koreans. Over 20 are non-Koreans, of which all are American except one British."

Although in round numbers, this report by Ju Yon, North Korean representative, was the most detailed breakdown of unrepatriated allied POWs the Reds so far have provided.

Americans returned in the exchange have told of fellow POWs who elected to stay behind.

Burchett said the Americans at Kaesong had a dog mascot which they had named "Non Repas."

The 300-plus captives the Communists say refused repatriation would just begin to account for more than 900 Americans and 2,500 other Allied soldiers whose whereabouts the U. N. Command has demanded of the Reds.

The Allies Monday rejected as "totally unsatisfactory and unacceptable" a Communist preliminary report that most of these 3,400 men believed missing were "never captured." The Red report said of the 3,400—519 already have been returned to the Allies; 380 were previously accounted for as "released at the front, escaped or dead; some refused repatriation, "but most of them have never been captured at all."

Oatis and Noel Receive Honors Won in Prisons

NEW YORK (AP) — Associated Press Staffers William Oatis and Frank Noel have received Overseas Press Club honors they won while prisoners of Communists on opposite sides of the world.

The two were on the press club's list of award winners in April, 1952. Oatis then was in a Czechoslovakian prison and Noel was in a Chinese Communist prison camp in Korea.

Oatis and Noel, both recently released, received their awards last night in person during a premiere of the Bing Crosby movie, "Little Boy Lost," at the Rivoli Theater. Proceeds from the premiere will go to the Overseas Press Club's memorial press center fund.

Oatis, AP bureau chief in Prague when he was arrested for what the Czech government called spying, won the $500 George Polk memorial award for "courage, integrity and enterprise above and beyond the call of duty."

Pacts Studied by AFL Unions

Many Major Groups Are Negotiating to Stop Jurisdictional Fights

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A quiet move began making headway at the AFL convention today to encourage private agreements banning fights between rival unions.

While the AFL leadership is wrestling with the problem of establishing some over-all machinery to render binding decisions on inter-union scraps, many major AFL groups think it won't work and are going ahead with plans of their own.

It was learned, for instance, that the 800,000-member machinists union arranged a peace meeting with the equally powerful Carpenters Union on a dispute dating back more than 40 years.

Al Hayes, Machinists Union president, was due to confer today with Maurice Hutcheson, Carpenters Union chief, on proposals to settle the dispute over which of the two unions should represent workers who install machinery, called millwright work.

Hayes planned similar conferences with the iron workers, operating engineers and plumbers unions seeking bi-lateral job rights agreements.

The fact that the carpenters were talking of such a side agreement with the machinists was considered significant because the carpenters quit the AFL for a month recently over a complaint the AFL was powerless to solve squabbles between AFL rivals. Apparently the carpenters are not sure any effective AFL dispute-settling machinery wil be established.

Labor unions have become increasingly worried over their jurisdictional problems. Afraid that employment may slack off from its present record high, each wants to cement as many job rights for its own members as possible.

The jurisdictional problem was a major topic of corridor conversation at the convention which was due to turn attention this afternoon to airing gripes over the Taft-Hartley Labor Law.

Survey Teenage Drinking Habits

Report on Long Island Student Group Indicates Many Use Alcohol

NEW YORK (AP)—A survey report has shown that most high school students of a populous New York City suburban area use alcoholic beverage to some extent.

The drinking habits of these teenagers are closely associated with their home, the report said. It termed the students a "temperate group."

Results of the survey were presented by Lester H. Schrieber, executive secretary of the Sheppard Foundation, to the 16th annual meeting of the National Alcoholic Beverage Control Association.

The survey was made under direction of Hofstra College, Hempstead, L. I. It represented a sampling from among 29,000 students in 29 public and private high schools of suburban Nassau County on Long Island, most sutdents were in the 10th, 11th and 12th grades.

"Children start drinking chiefly with their parents," Schreiber said. "Most parents permit their children to use alcoholic beverages occasionally, both at home and away from home, before they are graduated from high school.

"One of the clearest relations found is between abstinence on the part of parents and abstinence of their children. There is no doubt, as shown by the study, that parental attitude is a large factor in the drinking habits of the child."

The survey was made as a result of a Nassau County grand jury pronouncement early last year. It called attention to an increase in crime it said stemmed from drinking by youths.

BOSTON (AP)—Charles W. Tiery, 103, of Belmont was introduced last night as the oldest Republican at the $100 a plate dinner attended by President Eisenhower.

He told newsmen he cast his first vote for Ulysses S. Grant for President in 1872 and had failed to vote Republican in only one presidential election. The lone "slip," he said smilingly, was when he voted for Grover Cleveland in 1884.

Laments Attitude of Americans on U. S. Music

WASHINGTON (AP)—Why is it, the conductor of the National Symphony Orchestra asked today, that Americans would rather listen to "third grade foreign music" than superior works by American composers?

"It's something I just can't figure out," Howard Mtichell said in an interview. "Cole Porter is so much better than Khachaturian."

* * *

It's because of this feeling about American music, Mitchell said, that he is not announcing in advance the names of the selctions on his orchestral programs this season.

Mitchell put it this way:

"In the past, when I announced the programs, people would call up to ask whether the Gershwin or the Creston or the Copland selection would be before or after intermission.

"The implication was clear. They didn't want to hear the American composition and were going to pass up that part of the concert."

* * *

These people, Mitchell said, "have the idea that all American music is hard on the ear and filled with dissonance. Actually, though, our music is much easier to listen to than a lot of material they seem to like."

Republicans Hit Back

Any fair minded referee would have to give the Republicans the edge after last week's first round of 1954 campaign sparring at Chicago.

The Democrats led with our newest ex-President, their defeated 1952 presidential candidate and one Senator. The GOP countered with a personal greeting from the President of the United States, two Cabinet members and two Senators.

After the shouting and cheering died away, the Democratic jibes that GOP farm policy had gone sour and its foreign policy is antagonizing our Allies, were forgotten.

Senator Ferguson, who keynoted the women's gathering, put the farm problem in true perspective. He pointed out that farm prices had dropped 18 per cent under the last Administration and only one per cent since the Republicans took over.

Then he paid due respect to the Democrats' two "agricultural" experts on Governor Williams' panel. They were O. A. Knight, vice president of the Oil Workers Union (CIO) and Col. Jake Arvey, boss of Chicago's Democratic machine.

At Augusta, Wis., Secretary Benson refuted opposition attacks on the farm program. He promised that GOP help for the farmers would include whatever parity proposals meet the tests of the exhaustive study now under way.

These speakers plus Senator Dirksen and Secretary McKay reminded the Nation that it was under GOP foreign policy that the shooting was ended in the Korean war. They also refreshed the public's memory on the progress being made by the Administration in cleaning up the mess left by the New Deal and Fair Deal.

Those who wonder why the campaign for control of Congress is being started more than 13 months before the 1954 election don't have to go far for the answer.

At present the Senate standing is 46 Republicans, 47 Democrats, one Independent and two vacancies. The House is divided 218 Republicans, 212 Democrats, one Independent and four vacancies.

Beating Wheat Control

A safe guess is that Secretary Benson has heard and is concerned about rumors that wheat farmers have figured out a way to beat 1954 acreage controls.

A few weeks ago wheat growers voted overwhelmingly to accept acreage cuts of 20 per cent. The Government wanted the cut to reduce next year's surplus. The farmers voted for it to assure themselves high support price on the 1954 crop. Rejection of the cut might have meant a difference of $1.00 a bushel in their selling price.

What the rumors say is in the wind is reminiscent of what happened in Maine a few years ago. After growers there had accepted acreage restrictions to reduce the potato surplus, they quickly found a way to beat the game.

By planting the rows closer together and using more fertilizer, they produced a crop far in excess of demand. The result was that thousands of tons of spuds rotted in the fields or were fed to livestock, with the taxpayers paying the full support price.

This technique, according to a Wall Street Journal staff writer, is just what the wheat growers plan to use. Many are said to believe they can increase their yield per acre by as much as 25 per cent. One grower was quoted as saying he can harvest as much from 600 acres as he has been getting from 750 acres and have 150 acres available for other crops.

We can't agree with those who feel that no one should blame the wheat growers if they resort to this means of getting around the acreage cuts. It may be perfectly legal to gain extra support dollars that way, but it isn't right.

Helping Alcoholics

One of the most encouraging progress reports in the social service field comes from the Detroit Committee on Alcoholism.

This reveals that the committee's program has been effective in helping 56 per cent of 1,275 patients who have availed themselves of the facilities provided.

Aim of the program is general improvement of the alcoholic. Special attention is given to his job, his family and his position in society as well as addiction to alcohol.

Behind the program is the sound theory that alcoholism is a disease which must be treated as such. Every effort is made to convince the patient that he never can use alcohol in any form.

Besides this direct approach the staff works closely with other organizations, including Alcoholics Anonymous, employers, families, the medical profession and the clergy.

While this group is known as the Detroit Committee, its services are available to anyone in the metropolitan area and to others who can go to its offices at 3919 John R St., Detroit.

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests, unless the letter is critical in its nature).

My husband and I stood at a casket recently. We were only two in a thousand that had done the same. It is unbelievable that our beloved Dr. "Mac" has gone on.

There are no adjectives that can portray the grief that is within the hearts of the Walled Lake people, grown-ups and children alike.

Reader Asks Smoother Crossing Over Tracks

That railroad crossing in front of the Oakland County Road Commission proves two things in my estimation: we need a more capable crew on the administrative board of the commission to see that the crossing is smoother, and more strict regulations to force the railroad to keep its crossings in a safer, smoother condition.

Another thing indicating laxity is the building of the new shopping center at Huron and Telegraph. In my book the builders are encroaching on public domain. Their building will make a blind corner there and a narrow sidewalk.

But it will be all right with me for maybe the Lord will oblige and make thinner people and the car builders will be able to build windshields enabling us to see around corners.

It is the same deal on the north side, but I presume that fellow was a good Democrat and one knows how that is.

Herbert Smith Says God Can't Be Fooled by Man

In answer to Julius F. Harmon, man has always been trying to justify himself before God by something he thinks or has done, but Romans 3:9-20 is God's own denunciation of what man is. He is completely depraved and unable to save or help himself even by his good works or thoughts.

The Pharisees of Christ's time tried to think good within themselves also. Didn't they pray, fast, give tithes and try to live good moral lives? Yet, Christ called them hypocrites, vipers and serpents because they sought their own righteousness and not the righteousness of God through Christ.

Man may be religious and highly educated, but his thoughts outside of Christ mean nothing to God, for they are the things of this world and God isn't interested.

David Lawrence Says:

President's Boston Talk Ineffective, Will Not Rouse Party Workers

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Woodrow Wilson used to say that there were two kinds of public speeches that a President could deliver—the explicit and the implicit. He preferred the latter.

Evidently President Eisenhower agrees. For the address he gave at Boston, standing by itself, means less than what will be read into it.

* * *

As a political speech, it was probably ineffective. As an essay on politics, it contains a truth and a sincerity of expression and purpose which, coming from so earnest and devoted a public servant as Dwight Eisenhower, will carry more weight with the public than the same platitudes uttered by someone else.

The address is a curious one. Nothing quite like it can be recalled by this correspondent. There have been many speeches which were over the heads of listeners, but there have not been many that didn't concentrate on a few simple points and make those points clear.

Eisenhower was heralded as having begun an inspirational campaign to help build the prestige of the Republican Party and to aid the members of Congress in their 1954 campaign.

Students of political science and political history may regard it as sufficiently academic, but this is not the kind of speech that begets votes or gives the party worker the stimulus to zealous activity.

In brief, Eisenhower's speech shows the effects of a desperate effort to cover too many precepts and to fashion them into something that can be called Republican Party principle.

But in doing this, the speech itself argues vehemently against consistency and boasts that nothing that has happened in the past "is conclusively clear and binding upon us today."

First and foremost, the speech sets out to prove that the Republican Party is not opposed to change. This is a piece of defensive strategy which recognizes the criticism that the Republicans want to stand pat.

Thus the President remarks: "We are the political captives of no class or section or interest of our country—and we are the prisoners of no static political or economic dogmas ruling our decisions."

This is rather a broad claim of flexibility for any political party to make. It leaves little room for loyalty to principle or basic doctrine.

The President seemed to be floundering—his unfamiliarity with his own party tradition seemed to project itself from many a lumbering paragraph. Thus he says:

"This is the kind of America—and the kind of Republican Party—in which I believe. I do not know how to define it with political labels. Such labels are, in our age, cheap and abundant. But they mean as little as they cost.

"We are many things. We are liberal—for we do believe that, in judging his own daily welfare, each citizen, however humble, has greater wisdom than any government, however great.

"We are progressive — for we are less impressed with the difficulties we observed yesterday than the opportunities we envision tomorrow.

"We are conservative—for we can conceive of no higher commission that history could have conferred upon us than that which we humbly bear—the preservation, in this time of tempest and of peril, of the spiritual values that alone give dignity and meaning to man's pilgrimage on earth."

Those are definitions that are hard to grasp. For one could easily interchange the paragraphs and put them opposite a different label and they still might be acceptable as a generality applicable to any creed of politics or party.

The speech is hard to follow in print. It sounds impressive on radio and television because of the personality who speaks the lines.

But a very small percentage of 50,000,000 voters probably will understand just what the President meant, for instance, when he said: "We have opposed the confusing of loyalty with conformity, and all misguided attempts to convert freedom into a privilege licensed by censors."

It is reminiscent of the ponderous vocabulary of a Harding. It is far removed from the ghost-written speeches of Franklin Roosevelt.

Crime Continues Upward Despite Senate Probing

NEW YORK (AP) — Crime is increasing.

Latest reports by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) tell also about the "smaller punks" — teenagers who steal cars, "punks" who snatch purses.

How much has crime increased? The FBI says 8.2 per cent in 1952 over 1951, making 1952 the worst in FBI records. There were 2,036,510 major crimes in 1952, and all indications are the pace has not slackened.

"For the first time in seven years, all classifications of major crime increased in cities," say spokesmen for FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Even in rural areas, the only type of crime that declined was negligent manslaughter, in which death is caused through an accident resulting from gross negligence.

It has been about two years since the Senate Crime Committee headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) released its sensational expose. This said a number of American cities virtually were "captives" of racketeers and grafters; that gangsters were underworld political kingpins and that what America needed was a coast-to-coast crusade to clean up corruption.

The investigating subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce took over where the crime committee left off, but concentrated on waterfront crime.

"Even now, within two years (after the crime committee's expose), the national crime rate has returned to its traditional upward curve, and there are evidences on every hand that the professional hoodlum is cautiously expanding his domain again," the subcommittee's report says.

The report adds that "criminal elements and criminal activities" were so entrenched on the New York waterfront that they were a menace to the success of vital military programs.

"In 1952 the United States government, in the person of its Army Corps of Engineers, was in effect driven out of the area," the report says.

The report says Army shipping programs had to be transferred from Claremont Terminal, Jersey City, N. J., part of the New York waterfront, to Hampton Roads, Va., because of "violence, meddling by shabby politicians, infiltration by the worst gangster types and ultimately a series of labor disputes."

The report says the New York situation is a "horrible example" of waterfront conditions but that graft, corruption and a struggle between Communists and non-Communists for waterfront leadership exists in some other coastal cities.

The FBI used figures for the period 1938-39 as a comparison to show how crime of virtually all kinds has increased steadily since before World War II.

There was a decline in some types of cases, such as murder and negligent manslaughter, during the first years of the war. These gradually swung upward on the graphs again to peaks in 1946. After declining, they once again are on the rise.

There was virtually no wartime slackening in the increase in cases of rape and aggravated assault.

In most instances the largest cities have the highest crime rates. But even rural crime has increased.

The FBI doesn't attempt to compute a rate for all crimes on a population basis for the whole nation or even for states. Experts say this would be misleading, because such a rate would count a theft equal to a murder.

A community with a high rate of theft might show up with a higher "crime rate" than another city with a low theft but with many murders. There were 7,210 cases of murder and non-negligent manslaughter reported in 1952, along with 1,202,270 cases of theft by larceny.

So crime rates are figured for each type of crime. The national rate for cities is 5.05 cases of murder or non-negligent manslaughter for each 100,000 citizens; 59.6 robberies; 81.5 aggravated assaults; 391.5 burglaries; 961.6 thefts by larceny and 187 auto thefts.

There is a wide variation in types of crime that occur most frequently in different parts of the country.

For instance, the murder rate is higher in the South than in the North, ranging from 12.31 for murder and non-negligent manslaughter in East South Central states to 1.09 in New England. The rate for robbery is 90.8 cases per 100,000 citizens in Pacific Coast states but drops to 43.6 in the West South Central states.

Don't like to remind you we have a peace conference on the 38th parallel in October. Unless we can get another armistice.

Peace to old Doctor Rhee is like the time Niagara Falls froze over. The unpremeditated silence made all Buffalonians sit up in bed and ask, 'What's that?'

If his health continues under the stress of serenity and the corrosive sublimate of amity we can expect Syngman on the Yalu. He will be there with freshly polished objections.

He will be there with his portfolio loaded with negative grape and cannister. He will be there primed to the teeth with plans for a snappy old age.

Breathlessness Cited First and Foremost as One Result of Excessive Smoking

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

I'd like to have a little talk with you about the effects of tobacco, but first let me stipulate, to wit:

1. I have little respect for medical authorities.

2. I believe the carbon monoxide in tobacco smoke accounts for the pathological effects of smoking.

3. I am probably prejudiced in favor of pipe smoking and against cigarette and cigar smoking, having smoked a pipe or rather a collection of pipes.

Whatever I say here is merely my opinion. Your must bear in mind the fact that I am not an authority on this or any other subject.

The stain on the fingers of a cigarette smoker is not "nicotine." Nicotine is a colorless liquid having only a faint odor. The stain is tar.

According to the experts a grain or two (two or three drops) of nicotine kills.

According to the experts various kinds of tobacco contain from 2 to 8 per cent of nicotine.

If these statements be true, then it is a wonder many a ball player ever gets to first base.

It is understandable that a man can smoke tobacco containing two or three times the lethal dose of nicotine and go on doing so day after day, year after year, without presenting any of the signs or symptoms the old timers ascribed to nicotine.

The nicotine is burned when the tobacco burns. Burned into carbon dioxide and other harmless products.

Although I believe it is the C-O in tobacco smoke and not nicotine that does harm, let no crapulent smoker infer that his or her over-indulgence is compatible with health and-or physical efficiency.

These effects of smoking have been demonstrated by many scientific observations:

1. Smoking impairs the "wind" —breathlessness comes on earlier and lasts longer in the smoker than in the non-smoker.

2. Measurements with instruments of precision show that a single smoke lowers muscular efficiency.

3. A single smoke lowers mental efficiency 10 per cent, particularly in the essential of thinking—perception, association and imagery.

4. The immediate effect of a smoke is decreased accuracy in rifle fire, baseball pitching and other performances involving coordination of fine reactions.

In years of browsing in medical literature, with occasional adventures into the field of toxicology, I have found more confusion and buck-passing than science or common sense.

However, the foregoing summary of the effects of smoking seem well established. But these are only the insidious effects of smoking.

In other pieces we'll discuss the pathological effects of crapulent or excessive smoking and, of course, define what constitutes excess.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, ede.

Bob Considine Says:

His Plan Would Bring Needed Rapport to U.N.

NEW YORK (INS)—I know, I know, it wouldn't work in a present day world where everything is as suspect as Boris Karloff playing the butler in a murder mystery. But so much else has failed to produce a lively rapport in U.N., and in this country there is so little understanding of and sympathy for U.N.'s aims, the Considine plan might help.

At least it won't hurt U.N. as much as Vishinsky's speeches.

The plan, which I contribute to U.N. on a tax-deductible basis, is simple. Very simple, I suppose:

Open 60 restaurants, 60 saloons, 60 bazaars, 60 gift shops, to be operated by nationals of the 60 nations in U.N., on the U.N. site.

Anybody in the world old enough to remember the great New York World Fair of 1939-40 will recall with something akin to fondness the magnificent eating places and memorabilia joints flung up by the attending nations. Every time I drive past the site of the World Fair I miss those places where the nations of the earth told their stories more artistically in beef Strogonov, Swedish meatballs, crumpets, sukiyaki, crepes suzette, Dutch beer and fettuccini than they did in murals.

Sure, there were rancors now and then. The New York mayor at the time, the late great Mr. LaGuardia, suggested that Hitler, then in charge of Germany, send an exhibit showing a concentration camp. Russia, which had a few concentration camps going at the same time, but without the publicity here, came forth with a tremendous exhibit featuring the figure of an unchained worker, holding a red torch atop the skyscraping main building.

Inside the Russian building, in addition to a fine restaurant that sold the best Strogonov I ever tasted outside of a show-off joint named the Introurist in East Berlin, were exhibits saying in effect that Russia was quite a place. You could take 'em or leave 'em.

In addition, there was a gentle, beautiful Japanese exhibit, pre-Pearl Harbor. And the spectacular Italian exhibit, featuring a waterfall down the face of a stucco tower, came up with not only a superb restaurant but a lot of mechanical gee-gaws which included an airplane engine that had propelled an Italian seaplane (propeller-driven) to the world record speed of 442 M.P.H.

The Considine Plan demands more than this rudimentary appeal to the senses, though that might suffice. (I think that if the U. S. exhibit at a U.N. fair had an atomic energy sideshow, Russia and Britain would want to produce rival ones, and the end result would be U.N.'s long-sought-for inspection of the atomic activities of nations.

The Considine Plan demands that the architect in charge of locating the 60 restaurants, exhibits, etc. choose a spot that will force all proposed customers to walk through U.N.'s General Assembly building in order to get to their exquisite dinner or ten cent souvenir.

Not only that, but the man must arrange passages and aisles so that it is more comfortable for a person searching for a fragrant bouillabaisse or a postcard showing a close-up of Stalin's mustache to sit down for a bit in the U.N. councils and listen to the peacemakers. Such a traffic plan should not be difficult. After all, it is not possible to drive from New York to Washington without spending a certain number of hours in Baltimore.

Why couldn't the same thing be done at U.N.? If there were devised some way of luring New York's teeming millions of residents and the swarms of daily visitors to New York to U.N., instead of that handful of students and bookworms who do show up, it would be better all around.

The more people from the 60 nations involved in U.N. who get to learn what their representatives are doing there, the better will be U.N.

Any governing body that operates in semi-privacy has to go rotten, given sufficient time. Can you imagine what would happen to the U. S. Congress if the voters didn't keep an eye on it and throw out the occasional bum who gets himself elected and promptly double-crosses his constituents? The same is generally true of U.N., and the people there who speak for the two billion (plus) people of the world. They should be watched more carefully, and the Considine Plan, I feel, is the best way of sending crowds through there—except, of course, if Secretary General Dag Hammershield, I mean Hammerskold, I meant Hammerschlock handed out lucky bucks at the door.

He Dashes Away From Accident, in Pantless Daze

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP)—R. J. Cross, 64-year-old Muskogee county resident, was stopped by officers as he ran down the highway without trousers.

It was a little unusual because the elderly bricklayer had just been pried loose from his car after laying upside down 12 hours partially submerged in water.

The auto had jumped an embankment on U.S. Highway 69, fallen 35 feet into the river, and overturned. A trailer it was pulling fell on top of the car.

A farmer heard Cross' tapping the following morning and notified officers who rescued him. When the wreckers pried open the door and freed Cross he jumped out and darted down the highway yelling, "I'm all right."

He was caught and taken to a hospital suffering from shock and exposure but was otherwise in good condition.

Bullet Removed From Child's Brain

OXFORD, England (AP) — Hospital attaches said today the condition of Ginette Cohen, 6, Italian girl flown here from Cairo, Egypt, was satisfactory after surgeons removed a bullet from her brain.

The child was struck on the head by a bullet while driving with her father through an Egyptian army maneuver site near Alexandria last week. When the necessary operation appeared too delicate to be undertaken with equipment available in Egypt, she was flown to England. Dr. J. B. Pennybacker, noted British brain specialist, performed the operation at Radcliffe infirmary here yesterday.

A hospital spokesman said "her condition is very satisfactory — there is every hope of a successful result."

Chiang's Forces Stage Combined Exercise

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — High U. S. and Chinese Nationalist military officers were in southern Formosa today for maneuvers billed unofficially as the biggest combined exercise ever staged by Chiang Kai-shek's armed forces.

There was no word as to whether units of the U. S. 7th Fleet would participate.

GENERAL MOTORS ACCEPTANCE CORPORATION

PAUL BUNYAN HAS NOTHING ON YOU!

Yesterday, Paul Bunyan was a legend. Today he is you—and every other American.

Today you can travel as fast and as far as once upon a time only Paul Bunyan could travel. You can span a continent in hours. You can do even more. You can pull sleek streamliners over mountains. You can heat skyscrapers. You can build, lift, move, plow, kill insects, destroy weeds, and grow crops—all through the use of petroleum products.

Every step in supplying you with needed petroleum products—finding new sources of oil, drilling, refining, transporting, distributing—is a big job.

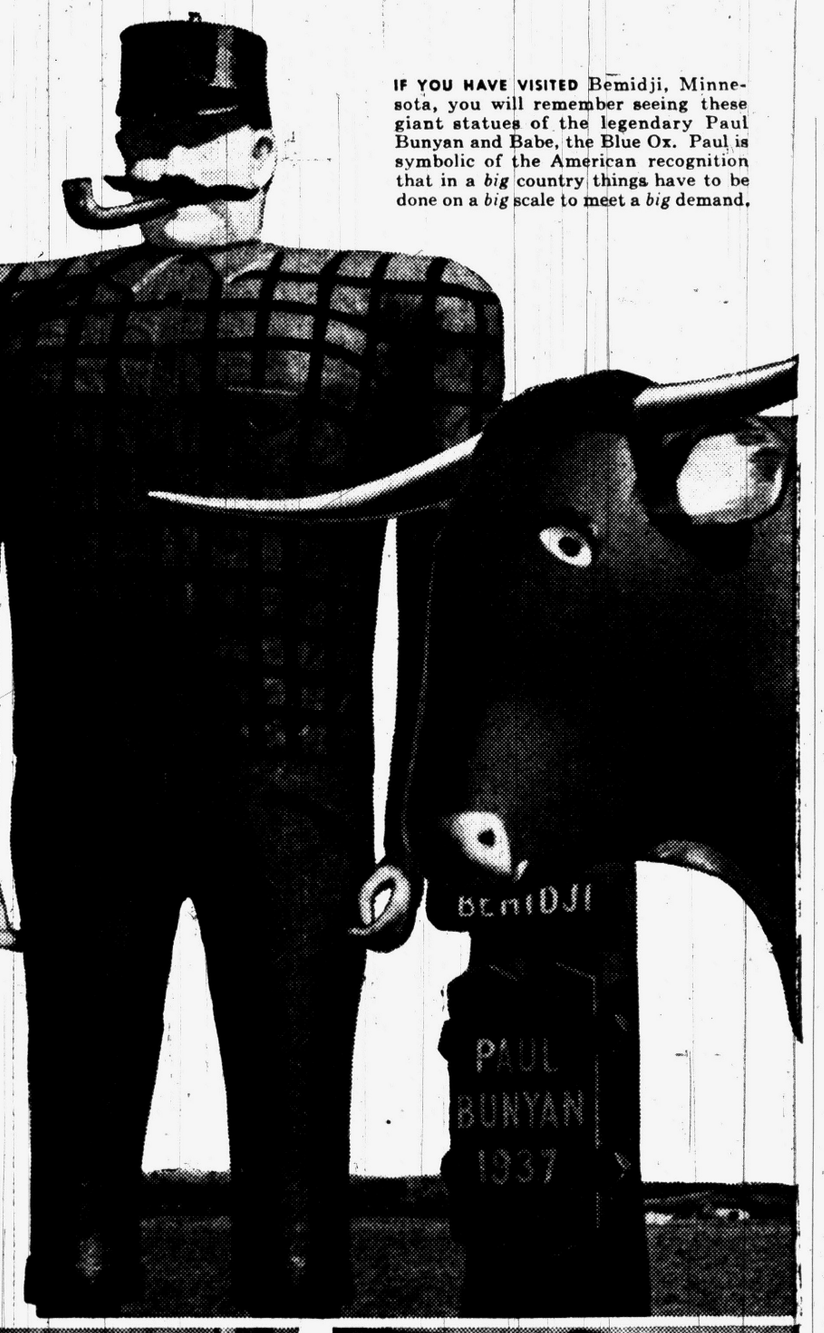

Last year, for example, we invested about $100,000,000 in the development of new sources of oil, including obtaining leases and drilling wells.

There are many other costly facilities, too. A refinery of reasonable capacity and efficiency costs $25,000,000. One mile of pipeline may cost $35,000 or more to build today. And Standard Oil and its subsidiary companies have over 17,000 miles of pipelines. Other large amounts are required for expanded and improved marketing facilities—bulk plants, warehouses, service stations and motor equipment.

All told, to better serve a phenomenal growth in civilian and military needs, it will cost us more than $200,000,000 or about $600,000 every day this year to carry out our plans for new and improved facilities.

However, modern equipment operated by skilled employees helps us to produce and deliver a gallon of gasoline at a remarkably low price. And two gallons today do the work that took three in 1925.

And because Standard Oil has grown with your ever mounting demand for petroleum, because we have big facilities and big resources, we are able to do a big part of the big job expected of industry in a nation of Paul Bunyans.

IF YOU HAVE VISITED Bemidji, Minnesota, you will remember seeing these giant statues of the legendary Paul Bunyan and Babe, the Blue Ox. Paul is symbolic of the American recognition that in a big country things have to be done on a big scale to meet a big demand.

Standard Oil Company

IT TAKES BIGNESS in oil production to keep a mechanized nation moving ahead. Discovery of new sources of oil is vital. But drilling a wildcat well in an unproved area may cost more than a million dollars. And the odds are eight to one against finding oil in commercial quantities. Despite the cost and the risk, Standard Oil is constantly looking for and finding new petroleum sources to maintain the nation's reserves.

IT TAKES BIGNESS in research to keep up with the need for more efficient lubricants and fuels. A total of 2,500 people—men like Joseph J. Gregor of our Whiting laboratories—are employed in our research departments. In recent years we have plowed back about 66 cents out of every dollar of earnings in addition to borrowing over $300,000,000 to pay for expanded facilities, including research.

IT TAKES BIGNESS in planning to get ready for future demand. Right now we have a multi-million dollar pipeline building program under way. And more millions are going into the construction of a 30,000-barrel-a-day refinery at Mandan, North Dakota. The investment of almost 125,000 stockholder-owners—people like Mrs. Florence Luedeke (above) of Peoria, Illinois—makes possible such huge building programs.

Exhaust Fan Is Needed in Kitchen

By HUBBARD COBB

We know a family whose kitchen is as cool as a cucumber all summer long but then all they eat from the first of May until the middle of October are cold cuts and canned applesauce.

A more practical way to keep a kitchen comfortable in both summer and winter is with an exhaust fan.

The best spot for an exhaust fan in the kitchen is right over the range, and if the fan is provided with a hood it will be more efficient.

If your range is located against an outside wall this is not a very difficult installation job; if it's not then you'll need ducts to run from the fan to the nearest outside wall and this gets complicated.

If the fan is placed some distance from the range it's going to pull the greasy air from the stove over a lot of surfaces that will need constant cleaning. It also means a loss of efficiency and some unpleasant drafts.

Far too many kitchens are equipped with fans that are to small to really do a good job. An efficient kitchen exhaust fan should change the air in the kitchen every three minutes.

The best way to insure getting the proper size fan is to measure the height, length and width of the kitchen and take these to a fan dealer.

Tell him you want the air changed every three minutes and he will supply you with the right unit.

If you rent a home and apartment or don't want to be bothered installing a unit, there are window fans which fit into ordinary windows, and will do a moderately efficent job.

Fabric Interest

Some fall nylons have textured surfaces. These look like twill or tweed and are intended to carry the look of fabric down to the leg.

A gleeful pair, mother and daughter sport stylized short hair, knowing full well they'll earn audience approval wherever and whenever they appear. Stylist Promotes Top-Heavy Look

To put all the emphasis high on the upper deck, Manguin is showing two-tone suits, such as a red jacket and a black skirt, plus yokes and scarves.

In Manguin evening wear the shoulders and bosoms are well brought out by deeply plunging, heart-shaped necklines.

According to Agence France Presse, stoles thick as wool traveling rugs, mostly in plaids, are being shown by this designer to be worn over velvet cocktail dresses for warmth.

What Should Youngsters Call Adults?

Mother Advised to Ask Her Friends' Preferences

By EMILY POST

A mother writes me: "I would appreciate it so much if you would tell me what to teach my young children to call my friends. Most of these women are in their mid-30's and very young in spirit and looks.

"To have the children call them Miss Smith and Mrs. Jones seems so still and old-fogey. Would it be at all permissible for the children to call them by first names?"

Answer: Ask each of your friends to tell you what she would like to be called — her first name with "Aunt" in front of it is often the preference.

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter, 17, has just been invited to her first big dance and will wear her first evening dress.

We were out shopping for one the other day but got nowhere as her idea of a suitable evening dress for a person her age is entirely different from mine.

She would like very much to have one of those strapless gowns, which I think are entirely unsuitable for one so young, but perhaps I am being "old-fashioned" as she claims. Your opinion will be very much appreciated.

Answer: Although I personally think strapless dresses are unbecoming, if her friends are wearing them, she should not be made to dress differently from them.

Dear Mr. Post: My husband and I are going to celebrate our 25th wedding anniversary in the near future by having a large reception.

As we have more silver now than we know what to do with, I would like to know if it would be proper to write "Please no silver" at the bottom of the invitations.

Answer: I'm sorry, but such a message would be in very worst taste. The only suggestion you could make is to say "Please no gift!"

Dear Mrs. Post: I have a friend who always answers her telephone by saying "The Jones residence." To me this sounds very pretentious and I think it is in bad taste. Will you please give me your opinion?

Answer: I agree, it couldn't be worse! "Mrs. Jones' house," or "Mrs. Jones' apartment," would be the correct answer, or just a plain "Hello.'

Public Schools Bulging With Kid Musicians

CHICAGO (INS) — The number of students in elementary and high schools now receiving music training as part of the school curriculum has tripled within the past six years, according to Dr. John C. Kendel, vice-president of the American Music Conference.

An estimated 7,000,000 children will be given music lessons in school this year as compared with 2,500,000 in 1947.

Lessons range from rhythm band instruction for lower grades to string and band instrument lessons for all ages.

"Keyboard experience" is now offered, too, in thousands of schools. Classes of children learn the rudiments of music through "playing" a cardboard keyboard and taking turns at a single piano.

Dr. Kendel says the rapid increase in the list of schools throughout the country offering music as an integral part of courses is due to the awareness of educators of the value of this training as a personality aid, building confidence and poise.

This growing recognition of music as a basic study has resulted in the state of Massochusetts recently passing a law to incorporate music lessons in all the state's public school programs.

Man, 28, Should Abandon His Campaign for Girl, 15: She's Much Too Young

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: I'm 28 and madly in love with a girl who is 15. She is very shy so she won't accept any dates with me. What should I do?"

Peddle your papers elsewhere. She's probably scared to death of the thought of dating you. You're twice as old as she is almost, much more experienced, interested in different things.

She wouldn't know how to cope. Pick a girl your own age, or wait patiently on the sidelines while your love grows up.

"Dear Miss Woodward: I'm 20 years old, not bad looking, but I've never had a date. I have friends, but they're all married.

"And I don't go out because where can I go alone except to the movies? A girl can't go bowling or to a dance alone!"

But a girl can go out with her married friends or with another girl. There are other single girls around who might enjoy you as a traveling companion if they knew you were available.

Call up girls you know and make dates with them. Join a club, enroll at the Y, sign up for some night school courses so you can meet other girls.

Together you can go to shows, go bowling, skating, swimming, even to dances where everybody goes stag. With their moral support you'll get around and meet the boys.

"Dear Miss Woodward, 'She's to fat for me' is a constant reminder that I've never been on a date or had a boy friend.

"I've been to the doctor and he said there is simply nothing one can do about it. I'm destined to be fat for the rest of my life. Can you help me to gain some friends?

One doctor looks at you, shakes his head hopelessly, and you go right on eating in despair. There are other doctors who might not take such a dim view. A good woman doctor would be particularly sympathetic.

There are tests to take, diets to live on. It might change the shape of you. And that would change your morale, your self-confidence and your sparkle.

A lively laugh, plus good humor and good sportsmanship will attract friends to you.

"Dear Miss Woodward: While on my vacation I wrote to my boy friend every single day, and when he was away on his he never wrote me once. My family thinks I'm silly to keep going with him because of that.

"His not writing didn't matter that much to me — I still like him and want to keep going with him. Don't you think I'm right?"

Boys like to get letters, but lots of them find it incredibly hard to put pen to paper themselves. I think you're right in not worrying too much over his lack of letters, not if there are no other missing links in your relationship.

Manners MAKE FRIENDS

Some persons can't disagree with you without making you see red—while others can defend their own opinions in such a way as to make you respect their ideas. What's the difference? Usually it is because the first kind of person gets belligerent when he argues, or "talks down" to you, or refuses even to consider that you might have a point.

It's a part of good manners to learn how to disagree graciously.

Clothes Rod Solves Wash Day Problem

It's a good idea to protect your hands with a wooden rod when you do heavy washtub washing that requires really hot soapsuds—and maybe boiling water or bleaching.

One good type of clothes stick is made of pine, 22½" long, with a two-pronged fork end that lifts pieces from one vessel to another without harming hands.

New Solid Powder Clings to Skin Like an Invisible Veil of Loveliness

Business Can Be Grand If Your Attitude Is Correct

By ANNE HEYWOOD

In every field there are people who say "business is terrible. I'm not making any money."

We hear this from real estate offices, dress shops, beauty salons and employment agencies.

At the same time, there are always people in these same fields who find that business is wonderful.

Mrs. Frances Baumgartner is a good example of the type of woman who takes "wonderful business" with her wherever she goes.

When I first met her, she had behind her many years of homemaking and some experience maaging a dress shop for a friend of hers—selling to customers and buying merchandise on the market.

But the bulk of her experience had been at home as a housewife. She had reached the place, however, where it was important for her to get a permanent job.

In New York City, where there are many, many employment agencies, Mrs. Baumgartner got a job as an employment agency interviewer. A lot of her friends told her that she would starve to death.

They reminded her that, in boom times like these, it is impossible to get secretaries, stenographers, typists or clerks to come to agencies. But Mrs. Baumgartner thought otherwise—and she was right.

She settled down into the job and she really cared what happened to people she interviewed. If necessary, she gave them tips on how to improve their resumes, or suggested a different kind of approach.

"I figure I'm working for them," she says. "They pay the fee, and my first obligation is to them."

Before long, the word had spread around that here was a woman who really gave personalized attention to her applicants, and she began to get many people in many fields.

"A lot of people feel that they jobs, or they specialize in this, should only handle executive or they don't touch that," Mrs. Baumgartner told me, "but I take any job that comes in and try hard to fill it, whatever it is, and I take every applicant who comes in and try to find him a job whether or not his experience is of the best."

Her interest in the arts led Mrs. Baumgartner to handle commercial artists and window display people.

As a result of this, she found an opening for a sculptor in Puerto Rico, openings for window display experts all over the country, and has met more interesting people than she dreamed existed in the world.

"Lots of people say business is terrible," Mrs. Baumgartner remarked, "but ever since I have been in the field, I have found business is wonderful."

Shoe Expert Lists Various Newest Trends

NEW YORK (INS) — There are five new items of shoe news this season, according to shoe expert Herman Delman.

For high fashion shoes, Delman advises, look for these new trends:

1. The needle heel. It looks thin as a sliver, is tucked slightly more under the foot than is usual, for better walking balance. With separate fasten-on straps, the new heel can be varied to harmonize with each costume.

2. Texture and color duets. Glossy patent with velvety suede. Gold kid trim on emerald silk satin. Saddle leather with black patent. Alligator and suede. Red and black kid.

3. The high-arched profile. New shoe construction provides a pronounced curve under the instep adding to the comfort as well as the beauty of the shoes.

4. Highly decorative shoes for evening. Anthracite, a shiny black heel. Everywhere, the gleam of jewels or rhinestones; heel, toes, vamps, instep straps.

5. Shine-on-shoes. Polished calfskin in deep neutrals, vibrant wine red or soft fern green. High gloss of patent or the muted luster of jewel-toned silk satins.

Match Fragrances

Perfume and toilet water or cologne should always be used together. The latter forms the fragrance's foundation, while the perfume supplies the accent.

With her superb taste and knowledge of what every woman wants, one cosmetic expert has created a brilliant new cosmetic fashion, Invisible Veil, a new solid, compact powder that clings invisibly to your skin. The lightweight case is a Napoleonic compact embossed in gold with the emperor's own initialed crown and laurel emblem.

Hearing Aid Should Be Given Early

NEW YORK (INS) — One out of every 23 U.S. children will grow into adulthood with a permanent hearing defect because parents are not trained to discover hearing impairments, an authority of deafness estimates.

Irving I. Schachtel, president of the American Hearing Aid Association, also declared that there are more than 15,000,000 people in the U. S. suffering from hearing defects and that 3,000,000 of these are school-age children.

Schachtel said at least 60 per cent of all hearing impairments can be cured or controlled if discovered early enough, and he urged parents to watch for 10 "warning signals" that indicate a child is hard of hearing. A child should be given a thorough hearing test, Schachtel declared, if he fits into these descriptions:

1. He is not interested in school and plays hooky.
2. He seems to understand you better if he is looking right at you.
3. He leans his head or assumes other odd position while listening.
4. He answers your questions with elusive or irrelevant remarks.
5. He seems lost or dreaming while others are playing or talking in a group.
6. His voice suddenly develops high and lows, either extremely soft or very high.
7. He talks in decidedly different manner from the other members of the family.
8. He has difficulty in schoolwork, especially in subject matters that require hearing the spoken words.
9. He is anti-social.
10. He has become a "problem child."

Fine Leathers Come From Sundry Animals

Gloves are usually made from the skins of sheep or goats. Kid skin in young goat skin. Cape skin is sheep or lamb, and so are doeskin is young goat skin. Cape skin imported leather from a rather rare black-headed and hairy sheep.

Real pigskin doesn't come from the barnyard variety of hog, but from the wild pig, known as peccary. It's a small animal with a tough skin that shows the mark of the bristles.

Cellulose Sponge Has Novel Uses

And a piece of the resilient substance is ideal material with which to temporarily silence a rattling window. Just force it between inner and outer sashes. Silence!

Funeral Set for Friday

DETROIT (UP) — Services will be held Friday for Arthur W. Knoske, a traffic engineer for the Michigan Auto Club who supervised traffic engineering surveys in hundreds of Michigan cities. Knoske, 55, died Sunday while visiting a daughter in Ohio.

The number of farm tractors in the United States increased from 1,885,000 in 1942 to 4,170,000 in 1952.

Skelton in Good Shape, Returns to TV Tonight

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Red Skelton returns to television tonight with a new sponsor and a new network and in the flesh.

When Skelton started his television series two years ago, he quickly shot to the number one rating in the nation. Last year, plagued by poor health, he filmed his show and took a nosedive in the ratings.

This year he's healthier and will do the shows live on CBS-TV (8:30 p.m., EST). Most critics who attended a prevue of the new show last night agreed that it's the Skelton of two years ago.

Miller Attacks Equal Authority

Supervisor Says TB Sanatorium Policy 'Will Never Work'

Complete confidence in the management of Oakland County Tuberculosis Sanatorium was expressed by Oakland County Board of Supervisors Monday.

But one member protested the sanatorium's policy which has a medical director and a business manager holding equal authority.

Supervisor Cyril E. Miller of Avon Township maintained that the system "never will work successfully because you'll always have friction."

Supervisors' endorsed the action of the sanatorium's board of trustees in accepting the resignation of Dr. George H. Phillips, former medical director. Elmer W. Kephart, chairman of the supervisors' tuberculosis committee, said his group had met with Dr. Phillips and with the sanatorium's board of trustees and endorsed its action.

"The committee has complete confidence in the management of the sanatorium," Kephart said. "All facts presented to us indicate it is running in an efficient, business-like manner."

French Cabinet in Disagreement

Laniel Faces Ouster; Split Looms Over Plan for European Army

PARIS (AP)—A split in the French cabinet over European unity policies, including the proposed European army with German troops, broke into the open today.

There were some predictions here that Premier Joseph Laniel might be thrown out of office on the issue within a month.

Four cabinet ministers, all former members of Gen. Charles De Gaulle's now-dissolved Rally of the French People (RPF), told Laniel in a letter they do not like the instructions given France's delegates to a six-power meeting opening in Rome today.

The meeting — of representatives of France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg — will continue drafting plans for some kind of European political federation to oversee the Schuman coal-steel pool and the projected European Defense Community (EDC) and its European army.

The cabinet dispute basically is over how much sovereignty France should give up to such supra-national bodies as the proposed political union and the projected army of two million men.

The Gaullist ministers, headed by Minister of State Edouard Corniglion-Molinier told Laniel they would not resign over the present issue provided the government does not commit itself formally on the top legislative and executive bodies of the proposed union prior to a meeting of foreign ministers of the six sponsoring countries at the Hague Oct. 22.

A draft treaty to set up the political union provides for popular election of the lower chamber of the projected European legislature, while the chairman of the executive would be named by a European senate. The chairman would name the other four members of the executive.

HUNGER Hurts America

Says Strong Army Depends on Supplies

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — British Field Marshal Lord Montgomery, NATO deputy commander, said last night a country in peacetime is better off with fewer army divisions well equipped than with more numerous units left understrength.

Mongomery spoke at a dinner given for him by Defense Minister Panayotis Kanellopoulas. The NATO deputy chief declared that six active divisions in peace backed by six reserve divisions are better than 10 or 11 active divisions left under-strength and inadequately equipped.

He recommended that NATO countries "review very carefully the number of men under arms in peacetime" to make sure "that it is not too great." The alliance's members, he warned, cannot support present defense budgets indefinitely.

West Germany to Pay $45 Million on Debts

BONN, Germany (AP)—West Germany today announced it is paying immediately 189,300,000 marks ($45,053,400) as its first instalment on Germany's foreign debts.

The initial payment includes $17,518,800 to the United States. Under the recent London agreement, West Germany is obligated to pay $3,270,000,000 in the next 30 years to 19 countries for debts contracted since the first World War.

Greece OKs Restoration of Bulgarian Relations

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Foreign Minister Stephanes Stephanopoulos announced today that Greece has accepted Bulgaria's proposal for restoration of diplomatic relations between the two countries.

Relations between the two countries have not been restored formally since World War II, in which Greece fought with the Allies and Bulgaria with the Axis powers.

Nation's Dogs Gaining Rights All the Time

NEW YORK (AP)—This is National Dog Week, and if you don't get the idea, you—not the dog — may end up needing a lawyer.

For as every year goes by, there are more state laws and more judicial decisions around the country to protect the 22 million dogs in this country from people.

Almost every state, according to the Gaines Dog Research Center, now makes it a criminal offense to kill a dog simply because he trespassed on your property.

Just this year Arkansas joined several other states in making it illegal to "dump" or abandon dogs along roads and other places.

In Maryland, you now can be fined up to $500 and sent to jail for a year for the "unlawful killing, maiming, or poisoning of the dog of another person, or of exposing poison or ground glass with the intent that it shall be taken by dogs."

In Louisiana, not long ago, the state court of appeals ruled that the owner of a dog who runs into pedestrians while answering his owner's whistle is not responsible. Dogs, the court ruled, have the same right as people to bump accidentally into pedestrians.

The California Court of Appeals has held that it is not the fault of a Great Dane if he bowls over a small woman in leaning on her. Small women, the court ruled in effect, should know better than to let Great Danes lean on them.

In New York state, it is a misdemeanor to clip a dog's ears. You also can be fined up to $1,000 and given up to a year in jail for starting fights between dogs or between other animals.

Camels used for conveying goods in the big cities of Egypt have a license plate dangling from under one ear.

How Mercury's Soaring Sales can mean "Money in the Bank" for You!

1 YOU PAY LESS NOW!

Our higher volume lets us operate at a lower profit per deal. You get a far bigger allowance for your present car.

2 YOU GET BACK MORE LATER!

Mercury dealers, on an average, now sell more cars per dealer than any of their competition. We are, therefore, in a better position to give you a bigger allowance for your present car.

And Mercury's popularity tends to boost trade-in value even higher. A Mercury's true cost (original price minus future resale value) is now lower than any other car in its field.

So why not start saving—and enjoying the extra value that Mercury offers: like years-ahead styling, proven V-8 performance and economy. Cash in on this opportunity now!

Turner, Taylor Also Get Spots

Sam Fuller Signs Up Many Personalities of Screen for TV

BY EVE STARR

HOLLYWOOD—The hostess with the mostest, stage and screen star Ethel Merman, along with ice-skating queen Sonja Henie, will head their own show for the Colgate Comedy Hour. Just inked by Sam Fuller.

EVE STARR

He hopes to use other Broadway stars, too, and such motion picture personalities as Lana Turner, Ann Blythe, Robert Taylor, Leslie Caron, Cyd Charisse, Gene Kelly and Pier Angeli.

TV GOODY — The English claim they have a non-physical punishment for the inmates of their criminal mental asylum at Broadmoor. Since two TV sets were introduced at the time of the coronation, the inmates have become real television fans and those who break the rules are denied their evening programs—it works, too!

* * *

STARR BULLETINS: Joan Crawford fans are writing in about her TV debut. All I can say, chums, is that her first show was on Mirror Theater recently in a romantic drama called "Because I Love Him".

TV's Bill Bendix (Life of Riley) has a new movie chore. He will hobnob with Jane Russell and John Wayne in RKO's "Silver Horde."

At a Mocambo opening the other night, Jack Benny told us that Abe Schiller offered him $60,000 to play the Las Vegas Flamingo Hotel, promising he would come out with $400 after expenses.

"That did it," said Jack, "after all, where can you pick up $400 these days in two weeks?" Benny went on to say, "Gambling is one side of me no one knows—you've heard of Nick the Greek? Well, I'm known as Benny the Welcher."

Sleepy, Bong Old Nag Refuses Huckster Role

BALTIMORE (AP) — Harold Brown rented a bony old brown horse yesterday to do some huckstering on the streets of Baltimore.

During the rounds, the sleepy cart-puller suddenly became a high-spirited racer and took off in a gallop.

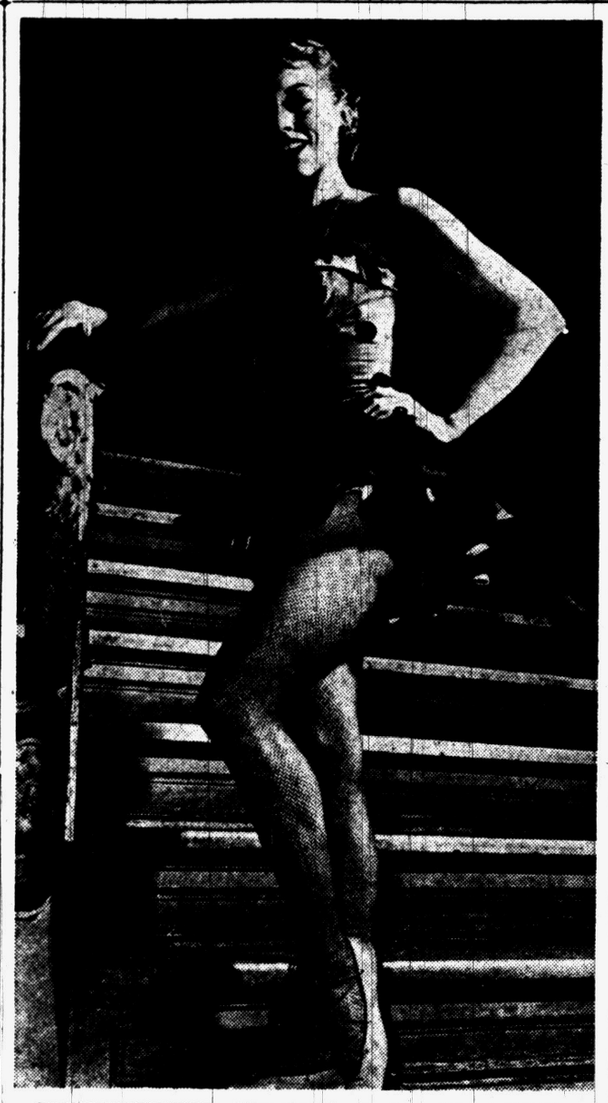

"His head was up. His tail was straight out behind him and he was going down the street like Citation," Brown said.

Southern Police Looking for Rebel Cannon Balls

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — Fayetteville police got a new order today: Look for a dozen stolen Confederate cannon balls.

The big black metal spheres — each about the size of a bowling ball — were taken from the foot of a Confederate monument near mid-town. Originally they were centered together in the form of a pyramid. But recently the monument was moved, and when the balls were re-located, no cement was used. They disappeared over a period of several months by singles and pairs.

Sprinklers Free Man Trapped in Cold Room

PEORIA, Ill (AP)—Andrew Compton, a department store stock clerk, got soaking wet but managed to get freed from a refrigerated room in which he was accidentally locked in yesterday.

Compton was helping get a fresh candy supply from the refrigerated room when the locking bar slid into place and the padlock snapped shut.

He pounded on a wall, but fellow employes thought a repairman was working on an air conditioning unit. Then Compton lighted a wad of packing and placed it near an automatic sprinkler outlet.

The force of the water, Compton said, nearly knocked him off his feet. By the time firemen arrived to free him the water was knee deep, the candy spoiled and Compton well soaked.

Grateful Patient Thanks Doctor 28 Years Later

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Dr. Walter S. Donaldson was attending a session of the Pennsylvania Medical Society's meeting last night when a man walked up, grabbed his hand and said: "I want to thank you."

The bewildered doctor, editor of the Pennsylvania Medical Journal, told 57-year-old John Pappas of Pittsburgh he must have the wrong man.

"Oh, no," said Pappas, "you cured me of rheumatism back in 1925. You gave me back my health and refused to take any money."

Dr. Donaldson told Pappas, a waiter at the hotel where the medical meetings are being held: "This is better than money."

Spreckels to Be Held for Upper Court Action

COSTA MESA, Calif. (AP)—Sugar heir Adolph Spreckels is to be held for Superior Court action on charges of beating his former wife, actress Kay Williams, Justice Donald J. Dodge says.

However, Dodge said yesterday he won't issue the order until Oct. 9 so that the court reporter will have time to transcribe the voluminous notes taken during the two-week preliminary hearing in Newport Justice Court.

Murder Jury Resumes Deliberations Today

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Mabel Monahan murder trial jury resumes deliberations today after failing to reach a verdict in its first two hours out last night.

They are accused of beating elderly, crippled Mrs. Monahan to death in her Burbank home last March 9. The state contends they thought $100,000 was hidden there.

NAPPANEE, Ind. (UP) — Mrs. Ivan Martz raked the yard of her home and set the rubbish afire. Something went bang and Mrs. Martz saw blood gushing from a wound in her leg. A doctor removed a percussion cap from a shotgun shell. "I didn't know the fire was loaded," Mrs. Martz said.

The light that didn't fail

It was 1 o'clock in the morning. To George Stevens, dial telephone switchman, the light on the panel meant that somewhere a telephone was off the hook. An improperly replaced receiver perhaps, or one dislodged by a frisky cat. On the other hand this might be a distress signal. That's what George Stevens thought as he plugged in on the line.

There was no mistaking the weak but urgent voice he heard—a woman calling for help. Quickly Stevens traced the connection to get the telephone number. Then he called another switchman to get the woman's address. Within minutes Stevens had notified the police who sped to the home of the stricken woman in Dearborn.

They found an elderly woman helpless on the floor. Later at the hospital she told what had happened. A widow, living alone, she had suffered a severe heart attack that night. Though partially paralyzed, she managed to upset the table on which the telephone stood to summon help.

Police say that Stevens' prompt action "beyond a doubt" saved her life. Michigan Bell awarded him a Vail citation, a tribute to telephone people for outstanding service in emergencies.

Reds to Start 6 Swedish Dailies

Newspapers Converted From Weeklies to Push Communist Line

Six provincial Communist weeklies will be converted into daily newspapers to bolster the official party organ "(Ny Dag" (New Day) in Stockholm, the party central committee announced this month.

Best estimates are there are less among Sweden's seven million, a sharp drop from the all-time peak membership of 60,000 the party claimed in 1947.

* * *

Despite declining numbers, there apparently is no lack of party funds. The emphasis now is on fighting against what the Central Committee calls "American infiltration" and a recent party manifesto calls all Swedes to join battle against "the miserable (newspaper) comics and other expressions of the imperialist spirit of violence and cultural decline."

Sparkplug of the new campaign is Communist Deputy Erik Karlsson, whom Swedes call the "Red Professor." Small, stocky, square-chinned Karlsson — a dark man in a land of blonds — once taught at Lenin University in Moscow. As secretary general he is virtually all-powerful in the Swedish party. Party chairman Hilding Hagberg, who comes from Lulea in Sweden's strategic north, plays a secondary role.

* * *

"Under the "Red Professor" and some 50 permanent officials, the party has softened its propaganda tone since the October Congress of the Soviet Communist party. While warning of war, it talks mainly of peace and cooperation, but the United States is still the biggest enemy.

Neutral Sweden's increasing trade with Iron Curtain countries —Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary all had exhibits at the recent Stockholm Trade Fair — is encouraged by deed as well as words. Some companies trading with the East are reliably reported to be managed by Communists who quit official party jobs for these assignments.

* * *

Communism in Sweden has never made much headway. The nation's generally high standard of living and its broad state social security system blunted Red weapons.

The Communist vote in parliamentary general elections dropped from 6.3 per cent in 1948 to 4.4 per cent in 1952.

Literary Driver Zips Down Road Scanning Book

CHICAGO (AP)—William J. Mortimer, Cook County highway superintendent, checked speeders on the Edens six-lane expressway north of Chicago yesterday.

Mortimer's car was driven at 60 m.p.h. legal speed limit and was passed by 13 other cars—one driven at a 70-mile clip by a man who was also reading a book.

"We had to see it again to believe it," said Mortimer. Mortimer's driver overtook the bookworm driver. "He put the book down and continued on his way," Mortimer said.

Mortimer said the driver was not arrested, because "he really wasn't driving any faster than a lot of others," and, "I don't know of any law—except the laws of reason—against reading a book while driving."

Let's Win Both Ways

Friday evening, our Pontiac High School football team plays its first home game under a new coach. We all hope he has a winning team.

But he can win a big victory even if his team loses football games. The new coach will be a winner if he helps create a sports program in our schools leading to the physical and moral development of all our students.

A winning football team can be part of this program, but it is not the main goal of high school athletics. If we forget this, we may fail to produce good citizens even though we win football games.

Let's Win Both Ways!

"I Went Down in a Sub"

Deadly Chart Work Plots Course of Phantom Target

Submarine Stars in Torpedo Drill

By HAROLD A. FITZGERALD
Pontiac Press Publisher

(Editor's Note — This is the last of two articles describing a training mission of the USS Grenadier, a Navy submarine.)

When the signal is given for a submarine to attack, the bridge is instantly cleared and every man goes to his station. An underseas craft hasn't sufficient space to "take sailors for a ride" and everyone has a tremendously important job to do.

When you dive, there's no sudden sensation of becoming a nautical elevator. The 307-foot destructive monster noses downward slightly and you descend a pre-determined number of feet and level off. It's done easily, certainly and no one holds his breath, looks apprehensive or falls on his knees in silent supplication. It takes 225 individual checks to rig a submarine for a dive and everyone's too busy with his own assignment to heed anything else.

In the control room, I counted 16 to 18 people in a space a few feet wide and not more than 18 feet long. The course of our target ship up above was soon plotted accurately with no advance knowledge. Two men control the depth of the sub and keep her on an even keel.

Conning Tower Data Helps Zero in Target

Above in the conning tower are the boys providing the data for the computations. Also, the periscope is here and when this was above water, the captain of the sub took it in charge completely and no one else was allowed to look — except me. By this time all the officers were convinced that I had the least mechanical proficiency of any human being that had ever been aboard an underseas craft and there may be an embarrassing modicum of truth in what they say.

Soon someone announced:

"The target's running 12 knots an hour."

Fancy calling the speed of a ship several miles away that couldn't be seen and which I wasn't even sure was there.

"How does he know the speed?" I asked an officer.

"Sonar."

"How come Mr. Sonar's so psychic?" I wasn't sure whether Sonar was one of the 100,000 gadgets, a particularly bright sailor or a young lieutenant like Mike.

Sonar's a device that does lots of impossible things and right then it was counting the revolutions of the propellers on the target. "Even if this gimmick counts it real good," I ventured, "how do we know that the target isn't going eight knots — or 18."

"Because," said my tutor, "we know the propeller revolutions and resulting speed of all ships. And they know ours."

An officer was now making short lines every 30 seconds on a plot sheet. These were running fairly evenly and in one direction. Soon they began to edge towards the middle of the paper.

"Is our target turning?" I asked.

Just then the line veered to the outside. "We must have made a mistake," I offered, proud to have seen the change.

"You mean the target ship can zig-zag?" I challenged. "Is that quite sporting?"

"What do you think happens in time of war?" asked my instructor. "We have to simulate war conditions." Well, that 175 foot ship above couldn't elude this deadly chart work of men who followed her only by sound.

Crew Grows Tense Before 'Fire' Order

"Speed?" queried someone.

The line on the chart began to sweep sharply and flatly to the right. Meanwhile other important correlating work was in progress above in the conning tower.

Suddenly everyone grew tense.

There were no idle words.

They knew what I didn't.

The target was in range and we were getting broadside. "Prepare to fire number four torpedo," said a voice of authority and a red light in the conning tower showed number four was in position.

"Open," was the next command. This meant to expose the waiting "fish" to the sea.

Another red light glowed shortly. "We're ready," someone told me. By this time I was all excited. How could they possibly hit a moving ship in spite of all these incredible mathematics, mechanical wonders and electrical masterpieces!

But this was the moment.

Someone called: "Fire."

I braced myself. I wasn't sure whether the submarine would shake as though we'd been hit, roll right or left or throw things and men around these tight, compact quarters.

I held my breath as long as I could and then said breathlessly:

"Why don't we fire?"

A bright sub-mariner looked at me pityingly. "We long since have." There was no overpowering detonation and no wracking of the sub. There was just the slightest tremor. Sometimes it was imperceptible.

Well, the pesky thing was gone.

What would happen?

Somewhere out in the sea was a target ship and between us was a torpedo winging its way underseas at 50 odd knots an hour which is approximately 60 miles or roughly a mile a minute. Once fired, this fish could have its course altered once and then it was a case of hit or miss — sink or swim.

Shortly afterwards a phone within 12 inches of my head jangled loudly and I almost did a back flip from a standing start. The skipper flashed across the space and yelled "hello."

"Is that the Secretary of Defense?" I asked. "Who else would dare phone at such a moment."

"That's the target ship."

"How do we ever talk to them under water on a phone. I thought you had to use wireless on the surface." But it seems some second cousin wave impulses pass through the water instead of the air. Nature has always been grand. Now she's grander.

Plot Torpedo Path by Wake of Bubbles

Shortly a typed report was passed around for all hands to see. The torpedo leaves a small wake of bubbles and as it crosses the course of the target ship, the position of the bubbles is computed in relation to the number of seconds it takes them to reach the surface.

This first was a super excellent shot and would have nailed the target squarely amidships. "The trident of Neptune may still be the sceptre of the world."

There was general rejoicing.

On one run, with the periscope above water, the captain watched the target ship throughout and listened to the plotting of his men. He gave me a good, long look-see and it was a beautiful sight. We were completely submerged with just this tiny thing above surface and yet I could see the target ship as plainly as though we'd been above water on the bridge. It changed its course and started to veer away and I wanted to tell the boys.

But it wasn't necessary.

A few seconds later someone said:

Sub Needs Steady Hand on Controls

On the fourth and last dive, the skipper told me to take the bow planes. I had imagined that once a submarine was down to the desired depths, it ploughed grandly ahead on the same level.

But this isn't so.

Just as a car won't run on the open road without constant steering, a sub won't hold its level without steady manipulation. This is accomplished by the operation of one of two wheels and constant study of two dials. They left a veteran on the stern planes for most of the boys had dates with wives and sweethearts and submarines cost the taxpayers a right smart sum.

The pre-determined depth during my brief turn at the job was 56 feet, and last Wednesday afternoon, late in the day the Atlantic ocean was the medium of operation for a normally well behaved U. S. underseas ship which vacillated steadily between 52 and 58 feet for something like a quarter of an hour. The Grenadier sensed a neophyte had an untutored hand on her vitals. She positively refused to ride at 56 feet in spite of what I thought was intelligent, heroic and perpetual motion on my part. Once when the needle quivered perceptibly on "56" for at least 10 seconds, I looked around the control room for nods of approval and loud applause. A deadly silence ensued. Just then the hand slid slightly under the "56" line and I yelled:

"Everybody duck. We've dropped three inches."

At this point I was relieved.

There are approximately 2,000 people stationed at this big U. S. Navy submarine school at New London. In addition, another 3,000 afloat in the nearby area use it for service. New London has approximately three dozen subs in service today.

The Nautilus is nearing completion and will probably be launched in the winter. The day before I reached New London, the Sea Wolf was officially started and these two will be the first nuclear powered submarines in the world's history. This pair can stay down indefinitely for their propulsion does not depend on air.

Waits First Voyage of A-Powered Sub

Well, I bow before Adm. George C. Crawford and Capt. Alan B. Banister of the New London base. I'm practically prostrate before Bill Dozier, the underseas captain who took me on this terrific ride. He knew every dial by name. And Lt. Cmdr. Philip Jones can be the official host of the Pontiac Press any time he pleases.

When that nuclear powered job slides down the runway, I might be lurking in the nearby shadows with a longing look on a homely mug and a world of entreaty in two green eyes. And so, until then, to everybody in New London:

Thanks a million and I'll be ready with suit case packed when the Nautilus heads for her shake down cruise. I feel a real itch to "go down to the sea in ships" as it says somewhere in the New Testament. And the scriveners who did the New Testament didn't know about "going down to the sea in ships" in this fashion. In the meantime mates, "I'm riding the vents."

Board Seeking to Unify Efforts

Integration of Health, Welfare Departments' Work Is Goal

Chairman Clare W. Seery told Oakland County Board of Supervisors Monday that a special committee is working to unify efforts of the health and the welfare departments.

Seery said the committee had already met and a report on moves to integrate health and welfare work would be in shortly.

Members include Albert Weber, chairman of the tuberculosis sanatorium board of trustees, Elmer Kephart, supervisors' tuberculosis committee chairman; Lloyd Clawson, health committee chairman; and Dr. Ethan B. Cudney, chairman of the county board of health.

Other committeemen are John A. MacDonald, chairman of the infirmary board and social welfare commission; William Graham, supervisors' welfare committee chairman; Dr. John D. Monroe, director of the county health department; and John S. Lambie, health department coordinator.

Fred W. Smith, supervisors' ways and means committee chairman; Robert Y. Moore, chairman of the county board of auditors; and Harry J. Merritt, county corporation counsel, are other committeemen. Seery is an ex-officio member.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Baltimore businessman has purchased the fashionable home of Mrs. Naomi Ringrose for a price "in excess of $50,000."

Her possessions were sold last week at auction as officials tried to recover as much of the shortage as possible.

Detroit Probe Date Oct. 10-20

Rep. Hoffman Goes On With His Labor Rackets Investigation

DETROIT (AP) — Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich) announced today his new labor rackets congressional hearing in Detroit will be held sometime between Oct. 10 and 20.

A subcommittee of his House Labor Committee will conduct the hearing, the Allegan congressman said.

Hoffman's announcement came as a recorder's court examination was proceeding in the state's juke box extortion case against seven men.

A second case, charging a "shakedown" in the construction and road building industry, is pending against five men.

Coercion and extortion against juke box distributors and others is alleged in the case now under examination. The court will determine whether the seven defendants are to be held for trial.

Hoffman, in announcing the tentative date for his new hearing, said he was "fed up" with restrictions placed on his investigating activity by the House Government Operations Committee.

This is the group which put limitations on the congressman's authority to expend funds.

"The labor subcommittee," Hoffman said, "has no limitations. It can go anywhere and hold hearings whenever it wants."

Hoffman disclosed he intended to investigate James Hoffa, longtime head of the Detroit area teamsters and power in Detroit labor circles.

Gruenther Watches British Maneuvers

DELMENHORST, Germany (AP)—NATO's top commander in Europe, Gen. Alfred Gruenther, watched Britain's superfast Canberra jet bombers go through secret maneuvers in close support of ground troops today.

Gruenther, supreme commander of Allied forces in Europe, visited the British jet base at Ahlhorn during the fourth day of the "grand repulse" practice war being staged by 60,000 British, Dutch, Canadian and Danish troops in North Germany.

Also touring the maneuver area were French Marshal Alphonse Juin, commander of NATO forces in Central Europe, Dutch Defense Minister Cornelis Staf and former German Gen. Adolph Heusinger, a top planner for the proposed 12-division German contingent in the projected European army.

By LEON DENNEN

Paris (NEA) — Vassily Stalin, the dead dictator's drinking and fast-living son, is a prisoner in a slave labor camp of Kolyma in the Arctic region, an Allied diplomat who just returned from Moscow reports.

Young Stalin, until his recent disgrace, had the rank of lieutenant general of the Soviet Air Force and was a deputy of the Moscow Soviet.

The purge of the late dictator's dissolute son is believed to be another victory for Premier Georgi Malenkov in the Kremlin's bloody struggle for power, the diplomat told me.

Vassily Stalin was known to be Malenkov's bitter enemy. He openly charged the new boss of the Kremlin with responsibility for his father's death. He reportedly backed Lavrenti Beria, deposed chief of the Soviet secret police, in the latter's frantic race to grab absolute power in the Red underworld.

The disgrace of Vassily was first noted by western diplomats on Aug. 23 when he failed to appear as the leader of Russia's annual military air parade. In the past he was the star of the show.

Svetlana Stalin, the late dictator's spirited daughter, alarmed by her brother's sudden disappearance, asked to see Premier Malenkov. She was refused admission to the Kremlin where she was raised as a child and where her father once reigned supreme.

However, Svetlana was informed by the secretary of the district committee of the Moscow Party that her brother was detailed to Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Far Eastern Command and could not return to Moscow in time for the air parade.

After several weeks, Svetlana asked for another interview with Malenkov. The Red premier refused to see her. Neither would Vyacheslav Molotov, the No. 2 man in the new Kremlin, although she is married to one of Molotov's nephews.

This time, however, Svetlana was told the bitter truth. Her brother had violated the discipline and oath of loyalty which binds every Red Army officer. As punishment he was sent to a "correction camp" in Kolyma — one of Russia's vast net of slave labor camps which, ironically enough, the late dictator designed for his political opponents.

The disgrace of Vassily lifts a tiny corner of the Iron Curtain that veils the intrigue and conspiracy now being enacted in the Kremlin.

Son Snuffs Out Light That Led Him Back Home

DETROIT (UP) — A light that burned for three years in the window of a small frame house in suburban River Rouge was out today.

Mrs. Roy Koch put up the light as a beacon to guide home her son, Roy Jr., when he was wounded in Korea.

In a letter from a frontline hospital three years ago, he asked her to "put up the light and pray. When I get home, I'll put it out."

Hearing of the display, other mothers asked Mrs. Koch to put toy soldiers in the window for their sons and pray for them. Soon there were 45 figures in the window.

All but one of the boys the toy soldiers represented had returned safely by the time Roy got home Sunday to put out the light.

Mrs. Koch still is praying for PFC. Harry Worden, a Marine from Winter Park, Fla., who has been missing since October 1950.

Roy, who is scheduled to be discharged at Ft. Sheridan, Ill., next week, told his mother, "I knew all along I would make it safely as long as you kept the light on and prayed. It was just like a beacon calling me home."

Mrs. Koch, who has three other sons who also survived war, lost her husband in a traffic accident in 1937.

Society Honors Physician, 76

Medics Pick Detroiter for 1953 Family Doctor Title in Michigan

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—A 76-year-old Detroit physician, who remembers the days of the horse-drawn ambulance, is the state's "Foremost Family Physician of 1953."

Dr. William J. Stapleton, the first metropolitan practitioner to be so honored, was selected by the Michigan Medical Society yesterday during its convention here.

Dr. Stapleton, who began practicing 53 years ago, still goes to his downtown office every afternoon. He graduated from the Michigan College of Surgery in 1900. Renting an office for $10 a month, he made his rounds on a bicycle before acquiring a horse and buggy.

The doctor is a past president of the Wayne County Medical Society and is a member of its exclusive 50-year club. He has been on the Wayne University medicine staff for 37 years.

Meanwhile, convention delegates staged a lengthy debate over whether to demand repeal or revision of the state's basic science law licensing doctors to practice in Michigan. The house of delegates adopted a report favoring continuation of the present law and authorized a further study by a special committee on its operations. This committee will be headed by Dr. C. E. Humphreys of Lansing.

Opponents claimed that the law, first adopted in 1937 and since amended, serves to prevent doctors licensed in other states from coming to Michigan to practice.

One group, favoring revision, wanted to encourage doctors from out of state to practice in Michigan. They wished to set up a uniform set of standards by physicians throughout the United States.

Several resolutions still must be debated. One, on federal hospitalization of veterans, would tighten veterans administration regulations regarding the admission of patients with non-service connected disabilities.

Ex-Pole Delegate to Testify Thursday

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Marek Stanislaw Korowicz, who bolted the Polish United Nations delegation to seek asylum in the United States, will testify before the House un-American Activities Committee in Washington Thursday.

Korowicz announced the scheduling of his committee appearance at a news conference here yesterday.

Robert L. Kunzig, counsel for the committee, who attended the news conference, said it will be a special meeting of the group and will be open to the public.

Korowicz, whose dramatic flight from the Polish delegation was revealed last Friday, said he asked to testify to "tell the American people about the tragic conditions in my beloved homeland and to warn them never to permit Communist dictatorship to take possession of their free and happy country."

NEWCOMER—Within the past 10 years this Oakland County lake has grown from little more than a fair-sized pond to the second largest body of water in the county. Today it covers over 1,000 acres and is four miles long. Formed by damming a well-known county river, the lake has a very irregular shoreline and is liberally sprinkled with green, wooded island, as this airview shows. Find identification on page 21.

"What the heck is happening?"

What a mixup!

It's an exciting incident, and one of many that spell out a story you can't get in full – even if you're there when it happens.

Seeing an event or listening to one can be very exciting. A photograph can be exciting, too – or a headline, or a brief announcement.

But they only whet your appetite for news. They cannot satisfy your hunger for the whole story – fast. Only the newspaper can do that.

• That goes for advertising, too. The brief message that hangs in the air . . . or brief headlines here or there . . . may indeed have a momentary interest.

But the newspaper ad carries the brass-tacks quality, the urgency of the newspaper itself.

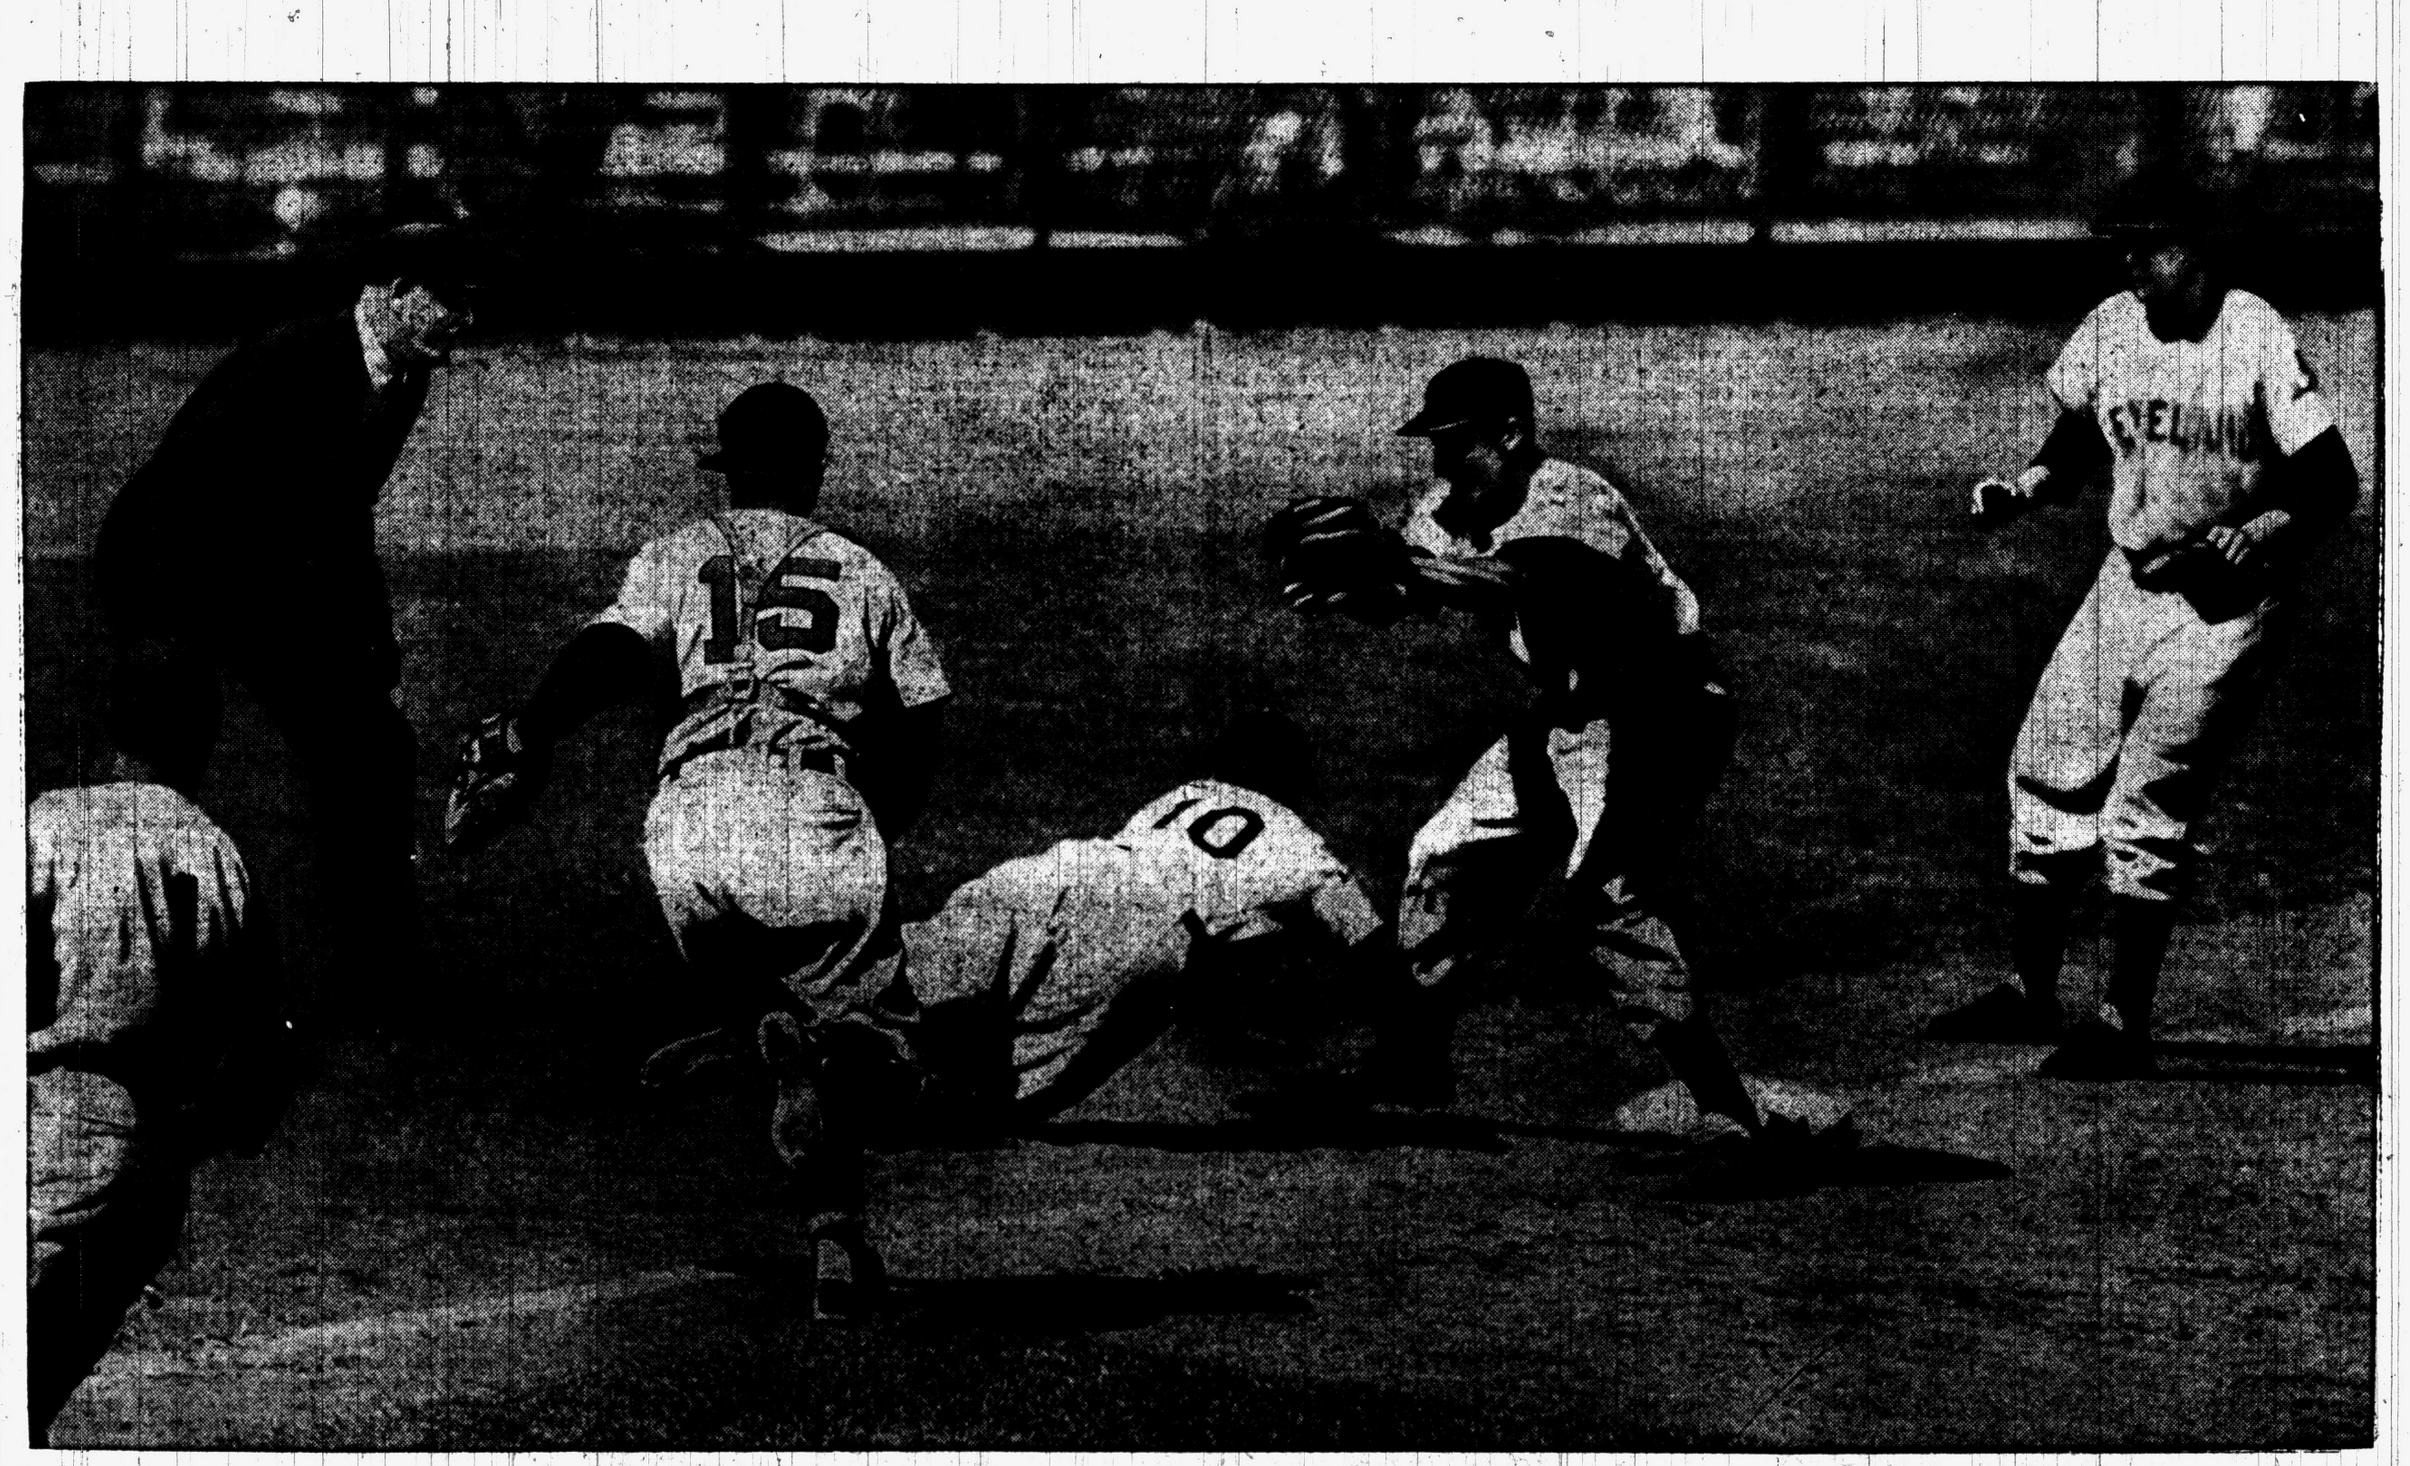

Like a news item, the ad can be examined and re-examined. Can be read any time. Anywhere. Can be clipped, saved and referred to.

And just as the newspaper speaks the special language of the town it mirrors, the ads themselves have the same important local quality. No other medium can match this quality.

Add to this the fact that the newspaper reaches just about everybody in town, and you know why the newspaper is the nation's most effective advertising medium.

No wonder advertisers – both retail and national – invest more money in newspapers than in any other form of advertising.

Water Controversy Indicates Beavers

MARYVILLE, Mo. (AP)—The city of Maryville, a farmer and beavers all are embroiled in a controversy over water.

City officials contend the farmer's irrigation dam is cutting down on the city's water supply. The dam is on the William Robbins' farm seven miles north of here on the 102 River.

City Atty. Montgomery Wilson notified Robbins Maryville had priority on the water and would ask him to stop irrigating unless the river level rose. Robbins asserted he had priority, and added: It's the beavers.

He said the animals had built dams between his farm and Maryville and those dams can stop most of the water during low river stages.

Home State of Miss, Mrs. America

Connoisseurs Not at All Surprised to See Pennsylvania Girls Win 2 Beauty Titles

By GENE GIRARD

PHILADELPHIA (NEA) — The selection of two small town Pennsylvania beauties as Miss and Mrs. America could very well put the clincher on a fact that Keystone Staters have claimed for years: the best-looking gals in America come from Pennsylvania.

This may surprise Dallas and Southern California drum-beaters, but a quick survey of experts in the field will demonstrate that it's an old story to them, too.

Take show business. A check of chorus lines in the big shows and night clubs will turn up twice as many pulse-raisers who were reared in the shadow of a coal mine or steel mill than beauties who cut their teeth on oil derricks and sun-kissed oranges.

In the good old days, show people will tell you, no traveling company ever spent a week in Pennsylvania without adding half a dozen dazzlers to its cast.

Or check with the personnel boys at the big government agencies in Washington. It's routine with with them, when some breath-taking beauty strolls in, to ask what part of Pennsylvania she's from.

A few of the real experts — guys who've been around the job for 10 or 12 years—even claim to be able to pin-point sections or counties of the state.

These connoisseurs give the palm to girls from the anthracite region—the lovelies who call Luzerne, or Lackawanna, or Schuylkill County home.

And the much traveled GI will add his endorsement, too. The servicemen from Pennsylvania takes a good look at the field and then—nine times out of 10—makes a bee-line for home to marry the girl next door.

As one genetics professor at the University of Pennsylvania put it: "Marry a woman of Italian and Slavic descent to a man whose parents were Irish and French and more often than not you'll wind up with some of the best-looking kids in the world.

Keep mixing strains like that for a couple generations, add the advantages of American diet and personal care, and you've got everything you need for real beauty."

Whatever the reason, Pennsylvanians will tell you that their women lead the field in looks — and this year they can point to Miss and Mrs. America to prove it.

Four 'Rookies' Likely to Make Trip to Iowa

By ROBERT E. VOGES

EAST LANSING (AP)—At least four sophomores are sure bets to be on the 38-man traveling roster for the plane trip to the Michigan State football opener with Iowa.

Three others have a good chance of being selected. And a few more from the dozen youngsters who have shown promise in early practice may be tapped, depending on how the coaches feel they are set for strength at each position.

End Bill Quinlan, a 200-pound, six-foot-two-incher from North Andover, Mass., played last year under the freshman rule, mostly on the defense. As a sophomore this year, he was good enough to make the first string.

Quarterback Earl Morrall of Muskegon is now accepted as the No. 1 understudy to Tommy Yewcic and so will make the road trip on his first college game.

Gerry Planutis, game-wise fullback from the Army and West Hazelton, Pa., would win the award hands down if there were any voting for the most outstanding sophomore.

He's pushing senior Evan Slonac and may be in the starting lineup after a few games.

John (Big Thunder) Lewis, six-foot-four-inch end from Fremont, Ohio, still needs polish but has looked so promising in practice he couldn't be ignored when the ends are selected.

These four are all set.

Carl Diener, six-foot-four-inch end from Saginaw; Travis Buggs, driving halfback from East Chicago, Ill., and Ray Eggleston, six-foot-two-inch end from Jackson, recently shifted to halfback because of his defensive ability, also may be selected.

Other sophomore prospects sure to see action in home games even if they don't make the road trip include:

Battle Creek Nine Winner of ABC Title

Battle Creek, which went through the amateur World Series finals undefeated, downed Oklahoma City 2-1 last night to grab the title.

Earlier in the day, Oklahoma City had won a spot in the finals with a 5-1 triumph over Kalamazoo.

A 9th inning rally featuring singles by Al Nagel and Galin Newton and a passed ball and an error won the final for Battle Creek. Oklahoma City came back with a single run in the 9th on singles by Ross Jones, Bob Burr and E. J. Tucker, but Battle Creek pitcher Dick Newell cut short the uprising.

Coach 'Bails Out' Star

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—Lewis Green's coach got him out of jail just in time. The 17-year-old Wheelersburg High School halfback had served 21 hours of a 15-day speeding sentence when he was let out in custody of his coach Monday. He wasted little time getting into his uniform and leading his team to a 7-0 victory over Portsmouth Notre Dame.

Port Huron Still EML Choice

By JACK SAYLOR

It is extremely doubtful if the Eastern Michigan League can find a team to halt the winning ways of mighty Port Huron.

The Big Reds opened the campaign with a win streak of 19 straight games, dating back to the final game of the 1950 season. Coach Bob Hayes' outfit started right where it left off by drubbing Bay City Handy, 43-0, Friday.

Meanwhile, three other EML elevens were defeated in opening games. Two others, including Birmingham, are untested.

After two fine seasons, Coach Vince Secontine finds only five letter winners back for his 1953 Maples, so he and his staff have a big rebuilding chore. End Bill Watkinson and tackle Jerry Beck were regulars last year, while other lettermen include Chris Christie at end, Bill Hohmeyer at center and Jerry Wedge at quarterback.

SECONTINE

Birmingham opens Friday against Cranbrook, while Hazel Park starts its campaign at Royal Oak. East Detroit, Ferndale and Mt. Clemens were loop teams who lost their first starts.

East Detroit dropped a 32-6 decision to Van Dyke. Shamrocks won only one game with Ron Kramer around last year — and Kramer has gone. The season is apt to be a long one for Al Asbury's boys.

Despite opening losses, Mt. Clemens and Ferndale are expected to be improved. Bathers have a new coach, Otto Huebner, Prep Coach of the Year in 1952 in Iowa. He has 12 lettermen, which includes good backfield prospects, Dennis Schultz, Willie Thomas and others.

Ferndale's hopes are built around Kenny Brown, tailback in Ted Meister's single wing. Other veterans are quarterback Tom Turner, tackle Jack Krauss and ends Capt. Fred Cady and Frank Windham.

Mt. Clemens lost its opener to Grosse Pointe, 8-0, and Ferndale was upset by Berkley, 27-0.

Hazel Park probably has the best chance of giving Port Huron a run, if anyone can. Boz Grba has the most promising group of gridders in years and this might be the year the Parkers get out of the football doldrums.

Al Thomas, 210-pound line-smashing fullback, is the man the EML must stop if Port Huron is to be caught. In the backfield with Thomas are John Thomas, who takes over at quarterback, and Bob Boyd and Dave Winfield at the halves.

Davey Is Being Treated for Kidney Ailment

Lansing southpaw's manager, Hec Knowles, said the infection was discovered during an examination by a Chicago doctor.

Knowles said that he wasn't using the infection as an alibi for Davey's drubbing at the hands of former sparring mate Al Andrews at Saginaw, last week.

"Maybe he had the infection then and maybe not," Knowles said. "But Chuck didn't have any snap at all in that fight and that's why we had him examined. The infection is not serious and can be cleared up with medication in several days."

"Davey definitely is not going to retire," Knowles declared. The one-time darling of television fight fans wants another shot at Andrews.

Knowles said negotiations are being made to rematch the pair in Detroit Olympia Stadium Oct. 28. Davey was to have met Billy Graham at that time. However, the loss to Andrews, a national nobody, demanded that Davey vindicate himself with the fans and boxing bigwigs before he can appear in any "big" fight.

Big Purse for Race

ADRIAN (AP) — Purses of $5,200 each for trotters and pacers were announced today for the Michigan Futurity next Wednesday at the 76th annual Lenawee County Fair.

Flanagan, Summerall Sold; Two Waived, David on Reserve List

DETROIT (UP)—Detroit Lions' roster was only one over the National Football League 33-player limit today after two players were sold outright, two placed on waivers and another put on the injured reserve list.

Placed on the injured reserve list and subject to immediate recall was Jim David, a defensive halfback who suffered a leg injury during a summer sandlot baseball game. Lions must drop one more player before Sunday's NFL opener with the Steelers.

Summerall, a 6-foot, 4-inch wingman from Arkansas, missed most of the 1952 season because of a 4th draft choice a year ago. Flanagan, an Ohio State product, is a veteran of five years in the pro ranks. He came to the Lions from the Chicago Bears in 1950.

20-Year-Old Al Arbour Wings' Defense Prospect

With only a year of professional hockey under his belt, Arbour joined the Wings from Edmonton. He was a star performer when the Red Wings downed his exmates last Saturday in the Detroit squad's first exhibition contest.

Alabama Upset No Shock to Mississippi Southern

NEW YORK (AP) — So you never heard of Mississippi Southern College, whose football team whomped Alabama, 25 to 19, on the Crimson Tide's own field Friday night. All we can say is, it's your loss, bub.

Mississippi Southern only happens, by its own admission, to be the independent football king of the entire South. It would have been sorely disappointed if its boys hadn't cut down Alabama, which was rated fifth among the nation's powerhouses in a recent Associated Press pre-season poll.

* * *

In the words of its free-wheeling publicity director, Jimmie McDowell, "Mississippi Southern is the McCoy, podners." Its athletic staff is composed of "all southern gentlemen of the old school." its 100-piece marching band is "the best band what am—the pride of the South."

It isn't however, until he gets on the subject of halfback Hugh Pepper and fullback Bucky McElroy, who between them scored three times against 'Bama, that the Hattiesburg Homer really lets himself go.

"Never, never, never," declares McDowell on a rising note, "there never was a one-two punch like McElroy and Pepper — the most genuinely magnificent pair of ground gaining backs you are likely to see for the rest of your life!"

* * *

What it comes to is that Coach Thad Vann was sitting on a whale of a football team, and knew it. So did everybody else in southern Mississippi. Only the so-called national experts were in the dark about it. It is extremely likely now that the southerners will go through undefeated, as their only remaining major opponent is Georgia Nov. 21.

Flood Project Has Created Hard Decision

MILFORD (AP) — State conservation commissioners face a hard decision on starting condemnation proceedings against seven property owners holding up the Martindy Lake flooding project in Mecosta County.

Commission, meeting at Haven Hill, is reluctant to stir up bad public relations by forcing the owners to sell. It is also reluctant to waste the more than $7,000 already spent to buy up more than 2,100 acres for a new lake and marsh area to provide additional hunting, fishing and trapping.

Commission staff recommended the start of condemnation proceedings. Staff members said three property owners whose land the state must buy outright will not agree to reasonable prices. They said also that four other owners will not set reasonable prices on flowage rights across their land.

Experimental fishing regulations on nine lakes, the designation of trout lakes and other fishing rules subject to commission action also are up for decision today.

International President

Williams Will Get Full Share of Series Cash

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Red Sox have voted to cut their 4th place World Series cash, probably about $400 a head, into 39 shares.

Manager Lou Boudreau refused to announce the list but indicated that Ted Williams was voted a full share. That slugger returned from his Korean War service in late July. He has appeared in 34 games and compiled a .395 batting average with 34 hits, including 13 homers, out of 86 tries.

Wolverines Are Warned Despite Huskies' Defeat

By JOHN F. MAYHEW

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Coach Bennie Oosterbaan's job of preparing Michigan for its 1953 season football opener against Washington here Saturday was complicated by injuries today.

But it wasn't Michigan injuries that caused the concern.

Loss of Washington's top pair of halfbacks in the contest with Colorado Saturday, presented the Michigan coach with the added worry of possible overconfidence on the part of the Wolverines.

Frank Monroe, the left halfback who scored two of the Washington touchdowns in the 21-20 loss to Colorado, broke a small bone in his wrist. His status was in doubt.

In addition to that, George Black, Washington's touted end, caught only two passes in the game.

Michigan players were bound to feel a surge of optimism. To combat it, end coach Bill Orwig who scouted the Washington-Colorado game, was emphasizing another Washington sophomore, Sandy Lederman.

Lederman completed 15 of 33 passes to a variety of ends and halfbacks to account for most of Washington's 285 yards in the air against Colorado. The 185 pounder threw from a stationary position and one the run, constituting a dangerous running threat throughout.

Orwig equipped the Michigan reserves with Washington style plays and turned them against the varsity. Plays were run at half speed to acquaint the regulars with the brand of offense to expect. But that will be speeded up to simulate the real thing.

Chief attention was paid to the defensive backfield where halfbacks Tony Branoff and Ted Kress were fixtures. Kress worked at his safety spot with Branoff at halfback. Fullbacks Dick Balzhiser, Dave Hill and Bob Hurley alternated at the other halfback spot.

Quarterback Louis Baldacci and center Dick O'Shaughnessy backed up the line as they are expected to do when the season opens.

17-Year-Old Upsets Johnny Gonsalves

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Ralph Dupas of New Orleans, a master at hit-and-run fighting, has fans wondering today just how good he really is after a one-sided victory over Johnny Gonsalves, No. 1 lightweight contender.

Dupas, a wispy 17-year-old high school student, beat the clever Oakland, Calif., boxer at his own game last night by bobbing and darting his way to the one-sided triumph in an open-air bout before 9,986 fans.

Although the victory enhanced his No. 9 national ranking, there was question of Dupas' chances against a heavy puncher like George Arujo or Paddy DeMarco, two of Gonsalves' victims.

Hoehn on Chip JV

One of top-ranking halfback candidates on the Central Michigan College freshman football team, coached by Bill Theunissen, is Paul Hoehn, Avondale High School's backfield standout last year. First week of practice for the Chip Jayvees was last week. No schedule has yet been arranged for the team.

Rocky Concludes Training for Bout With LaStarza

GROSSINGER, N. Y. (AP)—Heavyweight Champion Rocky Marciano was scheduled to climb into the ring at his Catskill Mountain retreat today and box his final three rounds before taking on Roland LaStarza on Thursday in the Polo Grounds.

Mild mannered champion still declined to make any prediction as to the outcome of the title scrap. He says he's just going to do his best, despite the pleadings of his manager, Al Weill.

Former matchmaker for the sponsoring International Boxing Club, Weill has been needling his charge to make it short.

"I'm not as young as I used to be," Weill told Marciano. "Climbing up and down those ring steps won't do my heart any good. Get it over for me fast, boy."

All the Rock would answer was: "Okay, Al, you can count on me to do my best."

Followers at the camp didn't know whether to laugh or keep straight faces when Weill issued his plea to Marciano.

The late Jack Blackburn, who trained Joe Louis once told the old heavyweight champion he wasn't feeling too good, and Louis replied:

"Chappie, you won't have to climb those steps but once."

Weill undoubtedly remembered the Louis-Blackburn team.

Meanwhile, reports of dissension within the Marciano camp seemed to have evaporated.

Weill and trainer Charlie Goldman did not see eye to eye on today's workout. Goldman, who has brought Marciano along the entire trail, wanted the champion to rest, fearing injury. Weill, however, said the Rock must go through his usual three tough rounds.

For a time, it looked like there might be a serious breach between the two.

"We'll have the same corner as always," said Weill. "It will be Goldman and me, assisted by Freddie Brown and Al Columbo."

When Marciano heads for New York tomorrow, he will have boxed a total of 145 rounds. He started on Aug. 6 and before that had done three works of road work to strenghthen his legs. He is in perfect physical condition.

Bowling Clinic

By BILLY SIXTY

CASE—Proper Equipment.

CURE—Own Ball and Shoes—Bowling balls are provided in all alleys, and modern establishments furnish shoes as well. But for several sound reasons I suggest every bowler own his equipment as soon as possible.

That includes ball, shoes and bag. Having one's own paraphernalia will soon pay dividends.

Grips and pitches in a ball vary greatly and finding the one to fit the hand becomes quite a chore. A bowling ball is like a golf club—it must fit to give "feel."

Just any old ball won't do. The day of street shoes on alleys is gone. Not only is it wise and scoringly profitable to have bowling shoes, either oxford or full, but I suggest treating the soles and heels with particular care.

Avoid getting them wet, and before each series see that they are smooth and clean. A little steel wool, or fine sandpaper, will do the trick. They are items to have in your bag.

Haddix Wins No. 19

Time Running Out, but Final Places Aren't All Determined in Major Races

By BEN PHLEGAR

AP Sports Writer

With just six days to play, the standings of the National and American Leagues could still undergo considerable change before being entered in the final record books.

Five places in each League remain undecided. So far the only teams guaranteed of finishing on Sunday right where they are today are pennant-winning Brooklyn, runner-up Milwaukee and last place Pittsburgh in the National League and the champion New York Yankees, fourth place Boston and fifth place Washington in the American.

* * *

Cleveland gets a chance tonight and tomorrow to nail down second place in the American League. The Indians invade Chicago for two games with the White Sox who trail them by two. A sweep would give Manager Al Lopez his third straight runner-up finish with the Indians.

An all-victorious climax to the 1953 season would give the Indians their third identical year — 93 victories and 61 losses. They have five games left and a current mark of 88-61.

Near the bottom of the American League Detroit needs to win three of four remaining games to assure sixth place. At the moment the Tigers lead Philadelphia by a game and a half. The A's have five games left. If they can capture even one of the five they'll avoid any share of last place.

The Browns appear almost certain to wind up their days in St. Louis at the bottom of the heap but by winning their last four they might tie the Athletics.

Third place in the National League is still up for grabs between St. Louis and Philadelphia.

The Cards whipped the Chicago Cubs 4-0 last night in the only action in either league and moved a game and a half ahead of the Phillies. St. Louis has six games to play, Philadelphia five.

The New York Giants, in fifth place, might get caught by Cincinnati. The Redlegs also could sink to seventh if they dropped their three game series with the Cubs which opens tonight. The Cubs are now in seventh.

Harvey Haddix, pitching his first full season in the big leagues, won his 19th game for the Cardinals and his sixth shutout. He aided his own cause with a triple, one of only five hits collected by the Cardinals.

Dodgers Are Long Overdue, but Yanks Have Great World Series Record, Plus a Strong Pitching Staff

By GRANTLAND RICE

NEW YORK — How much does impetus mean? Or habit? The Yankees have both impetus and the winning habit as far as World Series are concerned. Only the Giants and Cardinals have beaten them—twice each.

* * *

The Yankees are now shooting for the fifth consecutive series, having won five pennants in a row. There is a lot of impetus and a lot of habit combined in this deadly assault on cash and fame, gold and victory.

* * *

The winning of 20 pennants and 15 World Series is an almost incredible record. It is so lopsided that it can't possibly be a matter of luck. It is a matter of the sound front-office work, efficient farm management and certainly capable field action.

* * *

Against this is the sad, melancholy World Series record of the Dodgers. They have won seven pennants but have yet to win a World Series. They have played in six of these baseball classics and they have dropped all six. They are now facing their seventh test.

They have been beaten by Boston, Cleveland, and four times by the Yankees. It is a record to date of brilliant success against morbid failure.

* * *

You can figure from this record that the impetus and victory habit of the Yankees must be a big factor. Or you can figure with the best team they ever had, the Dodgers are overdue and should win.

* * *

It might be figured that the Dodgers can't keep losing forever. They haven't had any of the best of the breaks in World Series play. They have some pretty bitter memories of certain defeats.

* * *

But their pitching can be outclassed, if Allie Reynolds, Vic Raschi, Ed Lopat and Whitey Ford happen to be at their peak. The Dodgers might as well figure in advance their big bats will face the roughest pitching they have known this season.

Lopez Faced With Summons

Chicago Fan Accuses Manager of Throwing Dirt in Her Eye

CHICAGO (AP)—Manager Al Lopez of the Cleveland Indians can expect a call from a process server when he brings his team to town to play the White Sox tonight.

Mrs. Caryl Zinkil of suburban Oak Park yesterday filed a $25,000 damage suit in superior court against Lopez. Suit charges that Mrs. Zinkil was struck in the face by a lump of dirt thrown by Lopez last July 10. It charges she suffered an eye infection permanently impairing her sight.

Suit grew out of an incident during the 2nd game of a Cleveland-White Sox double header in Comiskey Park, July 10.

Mrs. Zinkil and her husband, Ray, an Oak Park detective, said they were sitting in a box behind the Cleveland dugout. A fan was heckling Lopez, and during the 7th inning when the Sox scored 10 runs, Mrs. Zinkil said Lopez turned and hurled dirt into the boxes.

Youthful Rookie Miller to Face Satchel Paige

Kaline, Bertoia Slated to See Action as Home Season Closes

Detroit Tigers will wind up their home play in a game with the St. Louis Browns. Opposing pitchers will be Detroit's 17-year-old southpaw Bob Miller, youngest hurler in the major leagues, and the Browns' Satchel Paige, easily the oldest.

Fans on hand for the finale also may get a look at two other Tiger bonus rookies, Al Kaline in centerfield and Reno Bertoia at second base.

So far, the Bengals have drawn 864,586 at home but only 589,198 on the road. Before the season opened, general manager Charley Gehringer estimated that total crowds of one million for both home and road games would be needed to keep the Detroit club out of the red.

Last year the Tigers had just over a million spectators at home while finishing last for the first time in their history. This year attendance lagged early in the season when the team languished in the basement, but perked up somewhat as the Bengals climbed to 6th.

Tigers, now sure of finishing out of last place, have an edge of one-and-a-half games over the 7th-place Philadelphia Athletics with four games to play.

Gehringer and Detroit Manager Fred Hutchinson got cheering news Monday in the announcement that Ned Garver's knee operation at Henry Ford Hospital was "very successful." Surgery was aimed at correcting a torn cartilage Garver suffered early in the season. It aggravated an old injury and troubled the righthand pitcher all year.

Munn and Leahy Are Included on UP Grid Panel

NEW YORK (UP) — The United Press today named 35 of the nation's outstanding coaches to its 1953 football rating board.

Ratings, generally recognized as the official ranking of the nation's top college football teams, will be a consensus of the ballots of the 35 coaches.

They will select their top 10 teams weekly and the consensus of their selections will be compiled on the basis of 10 points for a first place vote, nine for a second, and so on down to one for a 10th.

Midwest coaches who will serve on the 1953 United Press football coaches rating board are Ray Eliot, Illinois; Forest Evashevski, Iowa; Stu Holcomb, Purdue; Frank Leahy, Notre Dame and Biggie Munn, Michigan State.

Coaches Overlooked Angles in New Ruling

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma's Bud Wilkinson, a staunch supporter of the new "one-platoon" football since the rule was passed last winter, is finding that he — and other coaches — may have overlooked a few things.

Wilkinson still is in favor of the two-way game and he isn't having too much trouble himself making the change-over with a comparatively green squad that has to play top-rated Notre Dame next Saturday in its opening game of the season.

But after reviewing the results of last Saturday's games and his scouting reports from them, Bud has found something new has been added.

"The game is not as technically efficient this year, but I don't think anybody will notice it," Wilkinson said today.

"It will give the school with a limited squad a chance to win. (Mississippi Southern wouldn't beat Alabama with platoons.)

"But I think we overlooked a couple of things, for instance that in platoon football there weren't any scrubs. The boy that was a scrub on offense played on defense. This could bring a serious morale problem. Now the kids below the third team have no chance of getting into the game and it will be hard to keep up their morale and enthusiasm for practice."

Wilkinson figures the revival of "B" teams, playing regular schedules, will solve that one. But there's the little matter of the inability of many T-formation centers to get the ball back to a kicker, plus the possibility that one bad pass from center will break apart an otherwise good football game.

"We all want to punt from a spread formation, but the center can't get the ball back," Bud explained. "It takes a lot of skill to throw the ball back 13 or 14 yards and block somebody while you do it. My scouts saw more than a dozen teams last weekend and they all used a tight punt formation. We'll just have to tighten up and let the 1 run the ball back."

NO JUG FOR CURLY—Veteran harness race driver Wayne (Curly) Smart sits disconsolately on a fence at the Fairgrounds in Delaware, O., minutes after he was notified of a year's suspension by the United States Trotting Association. Smart was charged with infraction of a rule against administering a medicant to a horse before a race. He was to have driven Dutch Dandy in the Little Brown Jug trotting classic in Delaware Thursday.

Attorney, Fellow Drivers to Fight Smart Suspension

COLUMBUS, O. (UP) — Joe Neville, Delaware attorney and United States Trotting Association harness horse owner today promised a "fight to the finish" to lift one-year suspension of his driver, Wayne (Curly) Smart, by the United States Trotting Association.

Smart was notified Monday noon that he had made an infraction of the rules by administering a medicant to the trotter Abbasong before a race. Race in question took place at Wolverine Raceway (Detroit) last Aug. 18.

Smart, a veteran driver and trainer for Castleton Farms at Lexington, Ky., was suspended by USTA president Lawrence B. Sheppard after a meeting of the association officials.

Neville said Sheppard's decree was the "biggest lynch party I ever heard of." He also said he will battle the suspension and will decide where and when he will ask for a restraining order in Ohio against the USTA.

Smart's suspension, effective Sept. 7, 1954, followed similar action by the Michigan Racing Commission on Labor Day, despite the fact a Detroit court has temporarily nullified the commission's order with a restraining order.

USTA suspension also applies to Carl Larsen, assistant driver-trainer for Castleton Farms, and to Dr. Anthony G. Duber, Delaware, O.

State to Experiment With Yarding of Deer

LANSING (AP)—State conservation department plans to pen a number of deer in Upper Peninsula deer yards next winter to learn more about the amounts and types of food needed to carry the deer herd over winters.

One-acre pens will be erected in recognized deer yards in the western end of the peninsula. A number of deer will be placed in each yard and observed during the winter for malnutrition or overuse of range foods.

The department said it was seeking methods of preventing serious overbrowsing of food in the winter yards.

Zulueta Seeks Title Bout With Jimmy Carter

Cuban Takes Decision From Paddy DeMarco in Monday Scrap

NEW YORK (UP) — The manager of Cuban lightweight contender Orlando Zulueta said today he will start immediatey to try and match his nifty boxer against World Lightweight Champion Jimmy Carter in a title bout.

* * *

Manager Hymie Wallman said Zulueta's sights are "on the title next" after scoring a split, 10-round decision Monday night over rough-housing Paddy DeMarco of Brooklyn at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway Arena.

Adding strength to Zulueta's bid was the upset Monday night of Johnny Gonsalves, the No. 1 lightweight contender from Oakland, Cal., who lost an eight-round decision to 17-year-old Ralph Dupas of New Orleans in New Orleans.

Before the bout, Demarco had been ranked third in the division and Zulueta sixth. Demarco also had been favored at 9-5, as well as enjoying a weight edge of 139 pounds to 134¾.

* * *

But Zulueta countered DeMarco's rushing, bulling tactics with nifty left hooks that left DeMarco's face bruised and battered. Zulueta opened a cut near Paddy's left eye in the third round and gashed his right cheek in the sixth. And the Cuban landed the bout's hardest punch in the 10th, a left hook to the midriff that made the stocky DeMarco sag.

Referee Mark Conn voted for Zulueta, 6-3-1, and judge Joe Angello agreed, 7-3. However, Judge Jed Gaban voted for DeMarco, 6-4.

Brooklyn Fans Like Chances

Believe Righthanders Will 'Moider' Yankee Southpaws

NEW YORK (AP)—If you're one of those who thinks the Brooklyn Dodgers' chances of finally whipping the New York Yankees in a World Series are good, you've got plenty of backing.

Dodger supporters base their belief that Brooklyn's powerhouse righthanders will "moider" the Yankee lefthanders just as they have been slaying National southpaws all year.

Already they are beginning to feel sorry for Eddie Lopat and Whitey Ford, the Yankees' southpaw aces, who figure to start two of the first four games for New York.

But have the Dodgers been death to southpaws as is generally believed? Not so you could notice it.

A check reveals that rival managers have started 23 lefthanders against the predominantly right-handed hitting Brooks this season. Only six have gone all the way. So far so good. But in the 27 decisions involving lefthanders, the Dodgers show a won-lost record of 16-11. That's only a .593 pace.

Youngstown Nine Wins 2nd NABF Championship

YOUNGSTOWN, O. (UP) — Host Youngstown won its second championship in the 39-year-old history of the National Amateur Baseball Federation tournament Monday night by defeating Birmingham, Ala., 4-0.

Youngstown won its first NABF title at Pittsburgh 20 years ago. Monday night's finale drew 12,000 fans, the largest crowd of the week-long double-elimination tourney which began with 18 teams.

Salmon Really Gets Around in Puget Sound

Nicholas Heuhslein of Agnew, Wash., caught a 32-inch, 15 pound Chinook salmon at Sekiu in northwestern Clallam County on the Strait of Juan de Fuca where it goes into the Pacific Ocean.

The salmon was marked, with adipose fin removed. Heuhslein sent a description of the marking to the state fisheries department. Back came a certificate and map describing the life cycle of the salmon.

The University of Washington School of Fisheries released it in Lake Union June 15, 1951 at the age of five months. The fingerling migrated out of the lake of salt water and traveled up Puget Sound for many miles before Heuhslein caught it at Sekiu.

The salmon, slightly over two years old, had only small eggs and probably would not have spawned for a couple of years as the Chinook life cycle is between four and seven years.

Pitchers Tired?

Ted Has Explanation for Amazing Showing

By JOE REICHLER

BOSTON (AP)—Are you still trying to figure out why Ted Williams, after nearly two full seasons out of baseball, is hitting better than ever and hammering home runs at a faster pace than Babe Ruth ever did?

Well, you might as well stop wracking your brains. Even Williams can't fully explain it.

"I've tried to figure out what's happened to me," he said. "I'd like to find out because I'd like to hit that way the rest of my life. I've done a lot of analyzing of this streak," he added, "and I don't know the answer completely. But I've got an idea, though.

"It may be I am hitting so well because the pitchers are tired and I'm physically fresher than I would be if I had played all season. Nobody can tell me that ball players today can stand up under the strain of playing a full season as they did in the old days.

"That's not because the old timers were more durable. It's simple because it is harder than every to play ball today. It's physically impossible to play at top speed from beginning to end under this murderous schedule of night games, twi-night doubleheaders followed by afternoon games.

"There's another explanation — probably two or three, why I'm hitting. First, I've always been a hot weather hitter. In my last year before I left for the Marines (1951), I went through April and May hitting .220. Look up my July and August record. I must have been around .400 because I was hitting .340 going into September. Then the weather got cold again and I finished with .320.

Eagles' Great, Van Buren, Is Sidelined Again

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Steve Van Buren, one of pro football's all-time greats, has been retired for the 1953 season, Philadelphia Eagles' General Manager Vince McNally announced today.

The veteran halfback, who holds five national Professional Football League records for yards gained and touchdowns scored, has been kept inactive by a knee injury suffered in the first scrimmage of the 1952 training camp. He was out of action throughout last season.

Club placed Van Buren on the reserve list, keeping him on the payroll in a public relations capacity. McNally said the former Louisiana State star will try to play again in 1954.

'Press Day' Held for Spartan Marching Band

EAST LANSING (UP)—Michigan State College's 120-piece marching band held its first "Press Day" Monday.

Normally "Press Day" is held only for members of MSC's football team but there was such a demand for pictures of the band in action that officials had the musicians dress in full uniform and go through their paces in Macklin Stadium for benefit of photographers.

Michigan State cross country teams have won four NCAA team championships and seven IC4A titles.

Dudley Hurls Second No-Hitter of Tourney

MIAMI, Fla. (UP)—Midland and Detroit, Michigan's two representatives in the world softball tournament, return to action in the double-elimination meet today.

Michigan teams, both victorious Sunday, were idle Monday as the 2nd no-hit pitching job of the tourney was turned in.

Herb Dudley struck out nine and walked three as Clearwater, Fla., blanked a tough Bloomington, Ill., team 3-0. John Skolnicki of Midland registered the 1st no-hitter Sunday night as the Michigan outfit shut out the Elmendorf Air Force team from Anchorage, Alaska, 2-0.

Airmen eliminated Boise, Ida., Monday with a 3-0 triumph. Okmulgee, Okla., which bowed to Detroit Sunday, was eliminated Monday when it fell before Miami 6-1.

Big Tackle From Alpena Quits MSC Grid Squad

EAST LANSING (UP) — Michigan State's largest tackle, 6-foot-3-inch, 225-pound Warren Spragg, of Alpena, has quit the Spartans, it was announced today.

Team officials gave no reason for Spragg's action but said he had turned in his uniform and dropped from the squad. Spragg, a junior, had been playing on the 3rd and 4th string squads.

Summerfield to Try Flying 3-Cent Mail

WASHINGTON (AP) — A year-long test of flying 3-cent letters and other first class mail between New York, Chicago and Washington will start during the week of Oct. 5, or possibly sooner.

Postmaster General Summerfield said so yesterday after the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) gave him permission to contract with four airlines for use of spare cargo space. They are American, Capital, TWA and United.

Unlike 6-cent airmail letters, there is no guarantee that 3-cent letters from one of the test cities to another will go by plane. The post office will contract for otherwise empty space on scheduled flights.

Summerfield has said that if the test is successful, and if it does not cost more than surface transportation, it will extended to other cities.

Haymes Free to Marry Rita This Thursday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The last legal obstacle to the scheduled marriage Thursday of crooner Dick Haymes and actress Rita Hayworth has been eliminated.

Haymes' second wife, Nora Eddington Flynn Haymes, who divorced him last Friday, has notarized a waiver which she refused to sign when she got the interlocutory decree. Haymes now can get a Nevada divorce without waiting 30 days after he files his suit tomorrow.

Haymes and Miss Hayworth plan to honeymoon in Philadelphia, where he opens a night club engagement Sept. 28 — unless he is deported before then.

The Immigration Service contends that Haymes, born in Argentina, re-entered the United States illegally after visiting Miss Hayworth last summer in Hawaii.

Denver Man Charged With Murder of Son, 2

DENVER (AP) — Robert J. Pierce, 29, was charged with murder yesterday in the death of his 2-year-old son.

Police said Mrs. Pierce returned home from work early last Wednesday to discover her husband kneeling over the beaten body of their child, apparently trying to breathe air back into its lungs.

They said Pierce had been drinking and became annoyed when the child refused to go to the bathroom.

Sees No U. S. Sales Tax Soon

Senator George 'Will Be Surprised' If Proposal Is Recommended by Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga) said today he believes the Eisenhower administration will not recommend a federal sales tax at the next session of Congress.

"I will be greatly surprised if the secretary of the Treasury comes up with such a proposal," he told newsmen.

George, former chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and long-time tax specialist, said he knew the Treasury was "nervous" about revenue it is scheduled to lose next year because of automatic tax cuts written into present law.

* * *

With these losses, the Treasury "may find itself obliged" to seek some new sources of revenue, the senator said.

But he declared he did not think Congress would be willing to impose a national sales tax except in some "extremely critical national emergency" leading to much higher military spending. If that occurred, only a sales levy would bring in the needed money quickly, George commented.

A key Republican senator, asking not to be named, also told reporters he thinks there is no chance of enactment of a federal sales tax next year "if things continue to ride along as they are."

* * *

There have been some unconfirmed reports that the administration might ask for new taxes to help finance an expansion of the nation's air defenses, now that Russia has claimed mastery of the hydrogen bomb.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, who has promised a broad set of tax revision recommendations early next year, has said a national sales tax is one of about 40 tax proposals under study, and that no decisions have been made.

Movie Making Proves Rough for Two Stars

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There was a time when the movie workers on the "River of No Return" location in Canada thought the picture had a prophetic title.

Oh, the troubles they had. Weather? Lousy. The company lost three and a half days in the first week because of rain and fog. Before the movie makers came home, it started to snow.

"Most unusual," announced the natives at Banff and Jasper Parks.

Accidents? Lots. Marilyn Monroe, doing a scene in which she was supposed to run down to the river, tripped, fell and uttered one of the less quotable Monroe quotes. She bravely finished out the day's shooting, but examination proved she had torn ligaments in her left ankle.

She was confined for 10 days, during which scarcely a camera ground. The loss was estimated conservatively at $10,000 a day.

Another day, Monroe and Mitchum were floating down the Bow River on a raft. It struck a rock and jolted Mitchum into the drink. "The water was approximately 34 degrees," he estimates.

He kept working despite a 102 temperature. But when he returned to Hollywood, he folded up with a virus, causing another day's loss of production.

That isn't all. Rory Calhoun was laid up for two days on the location. Another actor, Douglas Spencer, nearly had a finger severed when his reins were jerkel by a bolting horse. The company cracked up three boats, including one with an airplane motor. The loss: $10,000.

"Maybe so," he replied, "but they should wait until the end of the picture to expend them, not at the beginning. Especially when you have two million dollars in a picture. You could end up with another 'Saratoga'." He referred to the late Jean Harlow's last picture, which had to be completed with a double.

Mitchum is never happy unless he's complaining about something and he has ample opportunity on "River." He also conducts his continual contention with his employer, RKO. His deal ends next summer, and I asked if he would sign on again.

"How can I know?" he replied. "I'm not even sure there will be an RKO next summer."

He continued: "I don't get anything out of RKO. I didn't even get a receipt for the $50,000 plus five per cent interest I paid back to Howard Hughes."

"No, I just borrowed the money from the bank. I'd rather owe the bank."

I asked Mitchum if he had a lot of smooching in the picture with Monroe. "Just one kiss," he replied. "You know how she undulates. It's hard to get aim."

Incidentally, workers on the location reported evidence of the new Monroe. She has a rep of being chronically late, but she made the 6:30 train to the location every morning without fail.

"He could give lessons to the secret service," said an observer. "He was there two weeks and nobody saw him."

Little Demand Softens Grain

CHICAGO (AP) — Mild hedging pressure sent grains down on the Board of Trade today in the absence of any aggressive demand.

Dealings were quite slow. Processors gave soybeans some support while a large elevator concern was a buyer in corn. It was felt the latter demand might represent some export business, but it could not be confirmed.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was ¾ to 1¼ lower. December $1.88⅞, corn was ¼ to ⅝ lower. December $1.45¾, oats were ⅛ to ½ lower. December 73⅛, soybeans were unchanged to ¾ higher. November $2.55¾, and lard was 10 cents a hundred pounds lower to 5 cents higher, October $14.45.

Seek Answer to Beria Story

Investigators Trying to Verify or Disprove Report of Escape

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several government investigative agencies were described as trying to run down today the truth or falsity of a story that Lavrenty Beria, former police boss of the U.S.S.R., has escaped from Russia and is seeking asylum in America.

* * *

Vice President Nixon said in New York yesterday that such a report had come to his attention about 30 days ago "and is in the hands of the proper investigative organizations." He added he does not know whether the story is true.

There was no comment from the State Department or the other groups Nixon named — the FBI and the Central Intelligence Agency. Officials in the executive branch of the government indicated great skepticism.

* * *

The seemingly far-fetched story that Beria, who was denounced as a traitor in July, had escaped first leaked out over the weekend from a Senate source who declined to be named.

Stocks in Rally After Tax Talk

NEW YORK (AP) — The Stock Market staged a broad rally today, spurred by treasury Secretary Humphrey's statement that income taxes will be cut and the excess profits tax will die at the end of this year.

Advances of around a point were sprinkled through the list. Volume mounted with the advance, but in the opinion of some brokers could not be called impressive. Volume yesterday was 1,070,000 shares.

Groups showing the best strength included the rails, motors, aircrafts, televisions, coppers and rubbers. Most other sections also were higher.

Gains of a point or more were recorded at one time by Republic Steel Crysler, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Zenith, Kennecott, Du Pont, International Paper Aluminum Ltd., Southern Railway, Northern Pacific, Illinois Central, General Electric, Celanese, Pure Oil and Richfield.

Ambitious Lake Now 2nd in Size of 400 in County

The lake pictured today on page 15 is the most ambitious lake building project in Oakland County. Within the past 10 years it has taken second place in size among the county's 400 lakes.

Previous to the impounding of the waters of a river it contained only about 10 acres, and had the same name as at present. It now covers over 1,000 acres.

Its area formerly was made up mostly of low marshy land listed as "non-resident," through which the river made its crooked way.

It is principally located in one township, but one end extends into another, and it touches the border of another county. It is over four miles long, very irregular in shape and has many islands.

This lake has some high banks, and nearby hills give a fine view of its large expanse of water. It has no private summer cottages or year round homes.

A village is within two miles of it, and several years ago it was the locale for the filming of a motion picture in which a prominent actress took part.

Early landowners of the area now comprised in this lake were the Kingsley, Barnhart, Bailey, Hamilton, Leary, Eno, Phillips, Pearson, Bourns, Hudson, Kesby, Peters, Beach, Crawford, Thompson, Lovewell, Elder, Gout, Ward, Bennett, Waterhouse, Holmes, Baldwin, Hurley, Hunter, Bigelow, Smith, Palmer, Padley, Wood, Daniels and Kluck families.

You probably already have identified this lake, but if not, it is Kent Lake in Milford and Lyon Townships. The Huron River furnishes its waters, assisted by many springs in its depths.

Its area was the scene for the filming of a western movie in which the first Mrs. Charles Chaplin played the leading role. It also was here that the Labadie theatrical family gathered for many years.

Burglary Suspects Face Arraignment

Two suspects charged with breaking into an Orchard Lake road supply company Saturday morning waived examination yesterday before Sylvan Lake Justice Joseph J. Leavy and were bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court for arraignment Sept. 25.

They are Robert E. Merrill, 19, of 7580 Otter, Keego Harbor, and Joseph H. Phillips, 26, of 1129 Myrtle Ave., Pontiac.

None of the three was able to post a $5,000 bond and all three were taken to Oakland County Jail.

Sylvan Lake Police Chief Ernest L. Ethier said the men were caught carrying money and merchandise out of the Warwick Supply Co.

New GM Booklet Stresses Firm's Civic Relations

General Motors is distributing a new 32-page guidebook to help GM people do an increasingly better job of maintaining the position of the company as a good industrial neighbor.

Entitled "G M Lives Here," the booklet lists 6 typical case examples of different things GM plant management has done to earn the respect and confidence of their neighbors in the community.

Based upon actual plant experiences, the booklet is described as a "practical community relations guide written by GM plant management for GM plant management."

Royal Oak Man Waits Trial on Car Theft Charge

Joseph Zugner, 65, of 2624 Connecticut, Royal Oak, charged with unlawfully driving away an automobile, waived examination when he appeared before Royal Oak Judge John E. Brondige yesterday.

He was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court for arraignment Sept. 25 and taken to Oakland County Jail after he was unable to furnish a $1,000 bond. Royal Oak police say Zugner was arrested Sept. 17 after stealing a car in Royal Oak.

Planning Group to Hire Assistant

County Votes $2,000 Initial Salary for Aide to Director

Oakland County Planning Commission was authorized to hire an assistant for director George Scrubb when Oakland County Board of Supervisors met Monday.

The board approved spending of $2,000 for the assistant's first few months, subject to approval of the supervisors' ways and means committee.

Action came after Supervisor Roy F. Goodspeed of Ferndale, planning commissioner, said a Detroit Metropolitan Plan Commission survey of areas which could be developed for industry showed little development in Oakland County.

"We think further study of local areas which industry could use should be made and made right away," he said. "This is vitally important to the county's future."

Goodspeed explained that the plan commission has located an assistant director who has had extensive experience in "this line but if we wait until the first of the year we may lose him."

Goodspeed's resolution lets the planning commission employ Scrubb's assistant on Oct. 1 or as soon afterward as possible.

Will Re-Study Chances to Sell Bond Issue in Fall Market

LANSING (UP)—The Mackinac Straits Bridge Authority will meet in Detroit Friday to re-study chances for marketing a $96,000,000 bond issue to finance construction of the proposed interpeninsular span.

Lawrence A. Rubin, secretary of the authority, said chairman Prentiss M. Brown is expected to report on bond market conditions at the meeting. Brown now is in New York to study financial markets.

Earlier, the authority had indicated it may make another attempt to sell the huge bond issue this fall if market conditions strengthened. Hopes for marketing the issue last spring were doomed when bond prices fell.

Rubin said recent reports of bond market activity have been heartening. He cited the quick sale last week of a New York expressway bond issue totaling $125,000,000 at an interest rate of only 2.64 per cent, together with higher government bond rates, as indications of stronger market conditions.

1954 Lincolns to Have Hydramatic Drive Again

DETROIT (UP)—Ford Motor Co. announced today production of Lincoln cars will be resumed in November with 1954 models equipped with the same general type of hydramatic transmissions as 1953 models.

The new Lincoln will be introduced to the public in December, said R. E. Krafve, assistant general manager of the Lincoln-Mercury Division. The General Motors Corp. transmission plant fire last month cut off Lincoln's transmission supply and forced a temporary halt to Lincoln production early this month.

Brakes Fail, Automobile Plows Into Utility Pole

Miss Vivian L. Crane, 22, of 111 E. Huron St., was treated for chest injuries yesterday at Pontiac General Hospital after the brakes on her auto failed and she hit a telephone pole at Mt. Clemens and N. Paddock Sts., Pontiac police reported today.

'Will Be One of the Best'

Automotive News Quotes Optimistic Views for 1954

DETROIT (AP)—The trade paper Automotive News said today:

"The unfavorable publicity that has been currnet of late was attributed to people who are unfamiliar with a competitive auto market."

Comment of various car manufacturers as reported by the trade paper included:

"Sure, there are bound to be temporary adjustments, but I believe the 1954 auto year will be one of the best. . . I see no real basis for misgivings about the automobile business in the foreseeable future."

Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors:

"We now have returned to the competitive situation which prevailed prewar and which requires intense selling effort on the part of dealers and their salesmen.

"Our business is good. The future of the automobile industry is very bright. There would seem to be little justification for the uninformed predictions on the present automobile market situation made by persons outside the industry."

"Our optimism about the market for automobiles reflects our continuing confidence in the steadily growing need for individual automobile transportation. . . There is an unfortunate belief on the part of some people outside the industry that the return of more competitive conditions—for the first time since before World War II—should now be taken as a sign of saturation or weakening of demand. Just the reverse is true."

Automotive News said top executives of Ford Motor Co. were not available for comment at press time. It said, however, that "Ford officials have repeatedly expressed confidence in the auto outlook."

Lavrentiev in Hot Water Over Red Failure in Iran

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign News Editor

Until about a month ago, Anatoli Iossifovich Lavrentiev was eating high on the hog.

Then trouble befell. Now Lavrentiev is reported "ill" — and no wonder.

Lavrentiev is 49 years old, a balding, stocky man who is Russian ambassador of Iran. Until last month's sudden coup which mier Mohammed Mossadegh and saw the downfall of Iranian pre-restoration of the Shah, it looked as if Lavrentiev was about to hand to the Russians one of their biggest prizes.

It was the second time that disaster had struck Lavrentiev, once regarded as one of Communism's brightest, younger lights.

It was he who failed to read the signs in Yugoslavia correctly. Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito reportedly put the finger on him in 1947.

That was the period when the Yugoslavia-Soviet crisis was at its height, and Tito was supposed to have complained to Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov that Lavrentiev was "stupid."

"He may be stupid," Molotov is said to have replied, "But he is a good Communist."

It was perhaps natural that Molotov, who has made a career of mediocrity, should choose such a one as his own particular favorite.

At any rate, Lavrentiev was around as Russian ambassador to Yugoslavia when the big split occurred.

Lavrentiev is of the Communist school of "economic" diplomats which produced such really brilliant men as Jacob Malik and Andrei Gromyko, both of whom have been formidable antagonists of the United States in the United Nations.

Levrentiev has not had the meteoric career of the latter two, but, in Communist terms, neither has it been marked solely by failures.

In November, 1951, when Communist Czechsolovakia was in the midst of its worst financial crisis, Moscow dispatched him to Prague. His arrival was followed immediately by the arrest and later execution of Rudolf Slansky, vice premier and general secretary of the Czech Communist Party.

His transfer to Bucharest in July, 1952, coincided with news of the Russian economic crisis and with the downfall of the all-powerful woman communist Ana Pauker.

Last July, with Mossadegh showing signs of wanting some kind of economic agreement with Russia, he was moved to Tehran.

His arrival was followed by the flight of the Shah and by violent pro-Communist demonstrations staged by the Communist Tudeh Party. But, with success almost in his grasp, it was torn away.

Arms Smugglers Shift to Hong Kong

SINGAPORE (AP) — The Sunday Standard calls Hong Kong the new headquarters for arms smugglers operating in southeast Asia. The smugglers shifted there from Singapore to be nearer the markets —Viet Minh forces fighting the French in Indochina and the Nationalist guerillas resisting in Yunnan province—the paper said, in an article.

It said after the war large quantities of American arms were left behind in the Philippines and in numerous islands all over the South Pacific. Hostilities in Indonesia and Burma and unrest in Thailand created a constant demand for arms, and Singapore, being nearest to these countries, acted as the smuggler's former headquarters.

Rochester Eyes Bursting Boundaries, Looks to City Form

Village Council Plans Survey

City Study Committee to Set Up Hypothetical Boundaries

ROCHESTER — A village whose mile-square boundaries are beginning to burst at the seams is casting its eye to its future role as a city.

At a special meeting of the Rochester Village Council Monday night, the municipal fathers revealed interest in city form of government, but said their interest at this stage called for a thorough and complete study of what such a change would involve.

Unanimity of agreement reigned on one point when all members said they knew such a change would require an extension of the present boundaries.

"We must remember that the paramount reason for wanting to expand is because the character of the town is changing due to what is happening on our very boundaries where we have no control," declared Frederick Nash, council trustee and member of the recently appointed City Study Committee.

Keith Crissman is chairman of this committee and other members are Frank Rewold and Clarence Burr.

Hypothetical boundaries will be set up with all facts and figures to be presented to the pubic on what such new lines would mean economically to the present village and to the proposed annexed area.

As a city, Rochester would have representation on the County Board of Supervisors. It would have considerable increase in valuation depending upon new boundaries established.

Rochester, as a city, would assume responsiblity for the cemetery, library and park. This would be worked out with Avon Township which now has these facilities under its jurisdiction.

Additional tax monies would be available for Rochester as a city in sales tax, tangible tax and gas and weight taxes.

A definite policy on improvements for the new area would have to be set forth prior to the vote on city government, pointed out Sidney Ennis, council member.

"The present village should not be taxed for improvements for any new area we may assume. All of these things must have positive understanding," Ennis aid.

Urging that all data be assembled before any decisions are made, Nash said that the advantages of city government seem to outweight the disadvantages and, for future planning of the community, the proposal should be explored.

Special meetings will be held from time to time, said the committe, to report the committee's findings.

College Dreams Will Come True for Thurstons

MACKINAC ISLAND (AP) — The broken dream of a college education was picked up and put back together for the two children of Dr. Lee M. Thurston, U. S. Commissioner of Education who died Sept. 4 in Washington.

A college scholarship fund for the children of the former Michigan superintendent of public instruction was started today by the Michigan Association of School Administrators.

Jane Thurston, 26, crippled since birth and her brother, Robert, 16, a student at Lansing Sexton High School, lost their father to a heart attack barely two months after he had taken the federal post.

Dr. John Guy Fowlkes, dean of the University of Wisconsin's School of Education, was made chairman of the fund's trustees. Estimates were that the fund would reach $10,000.

The idea was vigorously applauded by the 300 school superintendents and principals gathered for the teacher's convention.

Forced Off Road by Auto, Car Cracks Into 3 Trees

Bud L. Ridgeway, 26, of Portsmouth, Ohio, was treated for chest and shoulder injuries yesterday at Pontiac General Hospital after his auto skidded off M-24 at Silverbell Rd., and hit three trees in succession, according to Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy Charles Whitlock.

Ridgeway told the deputy a car coming in the opposite direction in the wrong lane forced him into the ditch.

$27,500 Blaze Destroys Barn

Battle Flames 6 Hours at Williamson Farm on Giddings Road

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP—Fire of undetermined origin leveled a 140 by 36 foot, two-story barn yesterday afternoon on the farm of Bert Williamson, 3220 Giddings Rd.

Williamson estimated the loss of the barn at $25,000 and hay and grain stored in the barn at $2,500. He said the loss was partially covered by insurance.

Five trucks from the Pontiac township Fire Department were used in battling the flames. Firemen remained at the scene for nearly six hours, according to Fire Chief Carl Schingeck.

Williamson said the blaze might have been started accidentally "by some kids" who were seen running out of the barn just before the fire.

Shipping Men Strike 2nd Day

900 Railway Express Detroit Area Workers Seek 30-Cent Raise

DETROIT (UP) — Nine-hundred railway express workers seeking a 30-cent hourly pay increase stayed off their jobs to attend another special meeting today, halting shipments to and from the Motor City for the second straight day.

Richard J. Kowalski, chairman of a local protective committee of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, said the "duly convened special meeting" would continue until the agency negotiates the pay demand.

The workers, who handle about 12,000 inbound and outbound shipments daily, voted a work stoppage Sunday night and it began almost immediately. Kowalski indicated similar stoppages might occur in other cities where "the same condition" applies.

C. D. Knab, district superintendent of the agency, said a prolonged stoppage could slow production at Detroit plants which rely on rail and air express to bring them material and tools.

He said supervisory employes were filling in as best they could at nine Detroit offices where shipping clerks and drivers were idle.

"We can handle shipments brought directly to our offices but we can make practically no truck pickups or deliveries," Knab said. "Shipments coming in from other cities are piling up because there is no way to deliver them."

John D. Thomas, 3, of 412 Howard McNeill St., was treated for an injured right leg yesterday at Pontiac General Hospital after he was hit by a car at Bagley and Rapid streets, according to Pontiac police.

Birtha E. Thompson, 30, of 235 Crystal Lake Dr., told police she had started forward after stopping for a cross walk when the boy ran out and hit the side of her car.

Pilots of Small Planes Protest Proposed Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tentative government program to restrict private flying near major airports in cloudy weather stirred small airplanes today.

At the same time it won strong support from the airlines and from operators of semi-commercial or executive airplanes.

The federal government's Aid Coordinating Committee (ACC), composed of representatives of departments interested in aviation, presented to the industry last April a trial plan for special controls in the Washington area.

Under the plan, whenever visibility was less than five miles, airplanes would have to operate under instrument flight rules (IFR) instead of visually (VFR). This automatically would ban from the area planes lacking in radio equipment and pilots deficient in the use of instruments. The present visibility standard is three miles.

Tape Recording of Weddings Now Booming

While grandmother was satisfied with the signatures of the preacher and guests at a wedding, and mother was happy with photographs, tomorrow's bride apparently wants to hear the words, too.

Picked up by microphones concealed in either the church or the home, the ceremony is electronically 'cut' on spools of copper wire or rolls of treated paper.

Sections of the recordings are often transferred to regulation phonograph records so that homes without special equipment can play them on ordinary machines.

One engineer noted, however, that more and more people are getting their own wire and tape apparatus. Another said he always gets requests for tapes from members of unions whose meetings he has recorded. The same holds true for corporation meetings.

Catching a baby's "first word" is fairly common. One outfit did better than that. It sent technicians into the delivery room for a pharmaceutical manufacturer and recorded a baby's first "bellow."

Multiple Pleas Bombard Board

Supervisors Asked to Study 'Hazard,' Pay $1,000, Aid Dealers

A communication from the Michigan Civil Aeronautics Commission asked the board to name three representatives to study zoning for the "hazard" area around Pontiac Municipal Airport.

Clare W. Seery, chairman, appointed Lloyd Anderson, Waterford supervisor; Forest I. Brendel, White Lake; and Norman R. Barnard, Troy Township, to a joint committee to study zoning plans.

Other members of the Pontiac Municipal Airport Zoning Board are Henry C. Smith, representing Pontiac Planning Commission, and Darrell S. Downey of the State Aeronautics Department.

A request for $1,000 for advertising and publicity from the Association was referred to the board's Ways and Means Committee.

Pontiac Lumber, Fuel and Builders Supply Exchange appealed for "more consideration" of local dealers when the county goes out to construct buildings or buy fuel. Chairman Seery said he had received a copy of the letter, referred it to the county board of auditors, and assured the organization that fair consideration will be given local dealers.

A communication from Michigan State Tax Commission commented that Huntington Woods had withdrawn its appeal from the county's 1953 equalized valuation figures. An appeal from Clawson, the letter said, had been denied.

Letters from Royal Oak City and Township, Ferndale, Pontiac and Berkley asked supervisors to provide for purchase and installation of rain gauges.

The letters explained that Detroit City Engineer's office is conducting a rainfall study in the metropolitan area to help plan future storm sewers. The report was referred to the Ways and Means Committee.

Detroiter Heads Group

Ready Possible City Hall Site

Rochester Will Hold Hearing to Decide Use of 12-Acre Tract

ROCHESTER — A 12-acre site owned by Rochester is being prepared by the Public Works Department, possibly as a future site for a city hall and city park.

The land, adjoining Avon Township Park and located along Paint Creek, is bounded by Sixth and Seventh Streets and the N.Y.C. railroad tracks.

Although the site is suitable for municipal and recreational facilities, according to Village Manager Robert Slone, a public hearing will be announced before any plans are made for the property.

Slone said that by altering the course of Paint Creek a municipal building with ample parking and a police headquarters could be built.

Because of the adjoining Avon Park, recreational facilities could be extended through to Pine Street, Slone said. He added that plans were under way at present to have a lagoon skating rink ready by winter.

Rochester Rite Is Highlighted by Simplicity

ROCHESTER — Simplicity highlighted a wedding ceremony here at 2 p.m. yesterday which united Mrs. Mame L. Thompson and Dr. Lewis W. Curtis, well-known residents of the village.

The newlyweds will leave Oct. 1 for St. Petersburg, Fla. where they will spend the winter months.

Hal Boyle Says:

Britisher Wants Eateries to Print Menus in English

NEW YORK (AP)—Count that day lost whose low descending sun sees no old crusade abandoned—or no new crusade begun.

We live in crusading times. No matter what a fellow sets out to do today it ends up as a crusade.

Yes, whether he's simply seeking world peace, merely demanding a return to the gold standard, just trying to save the whooping crane, or seriously looking for a place to park his car.

That's what is so interesting about Sir Alexander H. Maxwell's crusade.

With typical English understatement, Sir Alexander, chairman of the British Travel and Holidays Association, doesn't even call his program a crusade at all.

But his goal is to do something about British restaurant cooking—and to millions of world tourists that sounds like one of the most worthwhile crusades of history.

Where Sir Alexander's crusade falls flat is that he doesn't want to do much about changing English cooking. He just wants it called by its right name.

As it is now, he hints, neither the waiter nor the customer know what the menu says.

One man's meat often turns out to be another man's poison (or, as they say in Paris, "fish"). And far from flattering the French, added Sir Alexander, the menus are printed in ungrammatical "cooking French . . . so atrociously bad as to be an insult to the language."

He feels the English-speaking tourists get an inferiority complex from the menus, and that is "very bad for the digestion."

Certainly Sir Alexander's intentions are kindly, patriotic and wholesome. But he is risking the from a small tea pot.

is immediately confused. He The average tourist tastes it, looks again at the menu, and doesn't know whether to file suit against parliament or the French prime minister. He's unsure who is to blame.

It isn't the French terms on the menu card that prove bad for his digestion. It's what is put upon his plate. "Surely," his stomach objects, "This isn't food?"

If all the menu cards in London were printed in English, it might set back Anglo-American relations a generation. Particularly with tourists visiting the city for the first time.

When a waiter brought a dish, such a tourist would say, "Look, I aksed for roast beef and potatoes like it says on the menu. I don't know what that stuff is, but take it back and bring me what I ordered."

"I may be from out of town," says the tourist, "But I still can see. Gimme the manager, Bud."

The difficulty is that no amateur student of English cooking can really recognize a dish at first sight, and sometimes even advanced students are fooled. And tasting it only puzzles you more.

The English really know how to cook with gas on all four burners, but they don't know how to turn the gas off. They seem to use it to take the place of central heating.

The first principle of English cooking is to keep the food on the stove until all its identifying characteristics have been removed—and the room is warm. Then drain off the top layer of water and serve.

There is no other known principle to English cooking.

The nation that has survived this culinary technique is certainly one of the world's hardiest breeds. But the average tourist has been through no such long test of stamina. He is just wistfully yearning for food that looks like food—not the Tower of London, collapsed in a watery gravy.

If Sir Alexander gets London restaurants to print menus in English he'd better carry his reform one step farther and put some cookbooks in the kitchens, too, preferably printed in American.

Otherwise all a visitor can order and feel safe about is fresh strawberries. Most English chefs can tell a fresh strawberry from a potato—and hesitate to boil it.

Outlines Plan to Avoid Use of City Streets

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A new idea for relieving traffic congestion by keeping downtown-bound autos off city streets was outlined at the annual conference of the International City Managers' Assn.

City Manager Carleton F. Sharpe of Hartford, Conn., said yesterday that two freeways, north-south and east-west, are being built to crisscross his city.

At their intersection, he said, the city will build a 1,000-car garage, with entrances from any direction. Thus motorists can drive to town on the freeways and park in midtown without having to use city streets.

Deaths Last Night

NEW YORK (AP) — Harold Stanley Pollard, 75, chief editorial writer of the New York World-Telegram and Sun whose crusading journalistic career was inspired by intimate association with Joseph Pulitzer, noted newspaper publisher. Born in Hyde Park, Mass.

PRINCE FREDERICK, Md.—William W. Duke, 80, former owner and publisher of the Calvert Journal and correspondent for the Associated Press, and trial magistrate for Calvert County since 1897. Born in Calvert County.

YUCAIPA, Calif. — Ralph Burdette Jordan, 55, former assistant editor-in-chief of the International News Service in New York, chief INS war correspondent in the Pacific and one time managing editor of the Salt Lake City Desert News. Born in Des Moines, Ia.

LOS ANGELES—Ignacio E. Lozano, 66, founder and publisher of Spanish language newspapers in Los Angeles and San Antonio, Tex. Born in Marin, Nuevo Leon, Mexico.

Nation's Oldest Twins?

DANIELSON, Conn. (AP) — Candidates for the title of oldest twins in the United States are two retired clergymen, the Revs. Jerome Wood of Danielson and Joseph Wood of Rochester, N. Y. They celebrated their 95th birthday in Rochester on June 18, 1953. They've been together on every birthday since 1898 except for 1951.

What's in a Name? Just a Couple Streets

That was the fictitious name forged to a batch of money orders presented as evidence against two youths who were arraigned before Carr.

Then it came to the commissioner. The Paul and Ruan Sts. police station is headquarters for the 15th Police District, where the accused boys lived.
