94 Killed in Traffic in County Last Year

Ninety-four persons died in traffic accidents last year in Oakland County.

The 1958 toll, according to unofficial totals recorded throughout the year by The Pontiac Press, was the lowest since 1949. That year 88 lives were claimed on streets and roads in the county.

The 1958 fatality total also was nine less than 1957 toll of 103.

Deaths on county highways had exceeded the 100 mark for eight straight years up to 1958. Over the past three years the traffic death toll has shown a steady decline, which authorities hope will continue in 1959.

One of the highest county fatality totals came in 1955 when 140 persons were killed in accidents. In 1956 deaths were cut way down to 113.

Police have set their sights on holding the fatality toll to less than 90 this year.

Of last year's traffic fatalities, 65 were males and 29 were females. Among them were 11 children and nine teenagers, records show.

Oakland County's highest death toll came in 1941 as 150 persons were killed.

The worst month of 1958 was April when 11 traffic deaths were recorded. The months of July, August, September and November each had 10 deaths.

The lowest death toll was recorded in June in which only three fatalities occurred. June also was low month in 1957, with four.

The decrease in traffic deaths last year was due to records for October and December.

In 1957, 16 persons died in October and 14 in December.

During the past year five were killed in October and December's total was cut to nine.

U.S. Holiday Weekend Toll Racing to Record as Ice Creates Hazard

Hazardous weather was a factor in several of nine traffic deaths in Michigan, and was blamed for a record-menacing fatality pace on the nation's highways in this New Year's holiday period.

The death toll rate was running ahead of the record total of 409 set in the four-day New Year holiday of 1956-57. It also was at a faster rate than the National Safety Council's pre-holiday estimate of 390 deaths for the 102-hour period.

"The weather is bad," the National Safety Council observed, "but the toll is worse."

The spurt in highway fatalities began New Year's Day after motorists had posted a relatively safe driving record on New Year's Eve.

California, which had the highest traffic toll among the states during the Christmas holiday, again led the nation with 13. New York had 12, Wisconsin 11, Pennsylvania 10, and Illinois and Michigan 9 each.

An automobile which spun out of control on ice-covered M13 west of Flint killed three persons when it hit a roadside tree, and raised Michigan's toll to nine late Thursday.

A few hours earlier, a man had been fatally injured in the Flint area in a three-car pileup blamed on skidding on a patch of ice on U.S. 10.

Despite continued hazardous driving conditions, eased somewhat by thawing temperatures, no one was reported killed overnight or well into mid-morning today on Michigan highways.

At least 28 persons—12 of them children—died in fires or explosions on New Year's Eve and the start of the holiday weekend. Fires claimed 26 lives.

Fight Shaping Up in County Over Home Rule

Possible conflict between levels of government was indicated today as Oakland County moved closer to a decision on home rule.

A proposal that the county try to get Lansing legislators behind the movement for home rule was taken under consideration by the Board of Supervisors' Legislative Committee.

After a hearing at which township and city representatives voiced contrary opinions, chairman John G. Semann of Berkley promised a decision this month.

"The committee is not going to sit on the home rule question," Semann said. "We hope to make a definite recommendation, one way or the other, at this month's meeting of the Board of Supervisors."

Supervisors last month asked Semann's committee to study home rule after a special study commit-

Pontiac Press Photo

1959 SLITHERS IN — Oakland County's New Year was ushered in at midnight on a diabolic platform of slippery, slicked-up ice that made locomotion almost impossible. Tens of thousands of residents who ventured out after the witching hour of twelve encountered the worst underfoot conditions in local history. Miles and miles of roads like this stretch of Baldwin avenue were absolutely impassable and thousands of motorists were stranded for hours. Many of them abandoned their motorcars and slid home on foot as best they could. Others waited with varying degrees of patience for succor. Salt trucks and wreckers were practically the only salvation and while Oakland County authorities insist every vehicle at their disposal was tossed into the melee, the total was woefully inadequate. Wreckers were at a premium. Calls swamped the AAA and other relief agencies beyond anything ever known. Literally, tens of thousands of Oakland County residents spent most of the night at the point of celebration after one of their number discovered outside conditions were impassable.

On Frigid 30 M. P. H. Winds

Cold Racing Toward Pontiac

Racing in on chilling 30-mile-an-hour winds, the frigid weather probably will arrive tonight, the weatherman said, plunging temperatures to at least 15 degrees and possibly as low as zero.

By morning, U.S. forecasters predict, thermometers will have skidded into the zero to 15-above range throughout the Lower Peninsula and into zero and below levels in the Upper.

Snow flurries or squalls are forecast everywhere.

The cold wave may last as long as five days, the Weather Bureau predicted, with temperatures averaging 10 to 15 degrees below normal.

The Automobile Club of Michigan warned that motorists should be extremely cautious on all roads in the state.

ROADS SLIPPERY

Most roads are slippery, the Auto Club said, and driving conditions may become worse if dropping temperatures turn puddles of water on highways into ice.

A mild, 40-degree afternoon yesterday helped Pontiac and Oakland County relax from the glazing freeze that made roads and highways treacherously dangerous for both motorists and pedestrians.

Thousands of New Year's celebrators, trapped all night at parties or homes of friends, were able to return home after the thaw made driving possible again.

Side streets and gravel roads were still slippery today, the Oakland County Road Commission reported, but paved and blacktopped highways were in good shape.

BEWARE ICY PATCHES

However, there were some spots of ice on the highways this morning and others might appear if it gets cold, the commission warned.

The road commission was sanding many subdivision streets, especially those that are hilly.

"Where there are hills, people simply can't drive to and from their homes," a spokesman for the road commission said.

Law enforcement agencies and hospitals reported many employes worked double shifts yesterday because their reliefs were unable to get to work.

Some St. Joseph Mercy Hospital nurses worked 26 straight hours, the hospital said.

The Weather Bureau predicted today's high temperature would reach 36 degrees, tonight's low 15 or lower, and tomorrow's high 18.

Snow flurries and northwesterly winds were forecast for tonight and considerable cloudiness and frequent snow flurries tomorrow.

Twenty-nine was the lowest recorded temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The reading at 2 p.m. was 30.

Excellent Year Predicted for Pontiacs by Knudsen

"Continuation of our current sales trend will make 1959 an excellent year for Pontiac," S. E. Knudsen, GM vice president and general manager of Pontiac Motor Division, said in a year-end statement today.

From the time 1959 model production began in the fall until the end of this year, Pontiac produced over 82,000 new cars, or 38 per cent of the entire 1958 model production, Knudsen revealed.

Had it not been for length labor negotiations the figure would undoubtedly have been higher, he said.

Although Pontiac production remains at peak levels there is still a backlog of nearly 24,000 unfilled customer orders as sales continue to rise, Knudsen disclosed.

Added strength for automobile sales is found in the fact that demand and prices for used Pontiacs have remained at high levels, he said.

Knudsen pointed out that the overall economy has been substantially bolstered by the three years of labor peace that lie ahead for the auto industry.

Personal savings and personal incomes are at record levels, placing more and more people in a position to buy, particularly the many thousands who put off buying a new car in 1958.

Knudsen said there is increasing evidence of better business in general, causing a continual swing toward a solid prosperity across the country.

Practice Peace, Ike Tells Reds

President Answers New Year's Kremlin Note From Gettysburg Farm

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — President Eisenhower today challenged the leaders of Russia to practice in Berlin what they preach from the Kremlin about peaceful coexistence with the West.

The President, in an exchange of New Year's messages with the Soviet Union's top bosses, said that Russia's expressed hope of reducing dangerous international tensions in 1959 was inconsistent with her Nov. 27 demand that the Western Allies get out of West Berlin by June 1.

The President was spending a leisurely New Year's day with his grandchildren watching the Cotton Bowl football game on television when the White House in Washington notified him that a message had come in from Soviet Prime Minster Nikita Khrushchev and K. Voroshilov, chairman of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet.

Eisenhower fired back his thanks for the high hopes for 1959—and sent it by Western Union.

In essence, he informed the Russian that however admirable peaceful intentions might be, they should be backed up by positive progress. He suggested Berlin as a prime starting point.

Castro to Grab U.S. Utilities, Sugar Estates?

HAVANA (AP)—Rebel leader Fidel Castro's last announced platform calls for the nationalization of American utilities and sugar estates in Cuba.

The bearded guerrilla chieftain published his program in 1955, while in exile in Mexico. It called for:

1. Nationalization of U. S.-financed and operated utilities in Cuba and division of American-owned sugar estates among Cuban peasants.

2. Confiscation of all properties acquired through "corrupt government."

3. Distribution of 30 per cent of all industrial and utility enterprises to Cuban workers.

4. A public housing and rural electrification program.

5. Liberation of Cuba "from the egotistical interests of half a dozen businessmen."

6. A speed up of industrialization and increased social security.

Calls for Mass Rally as Troops Enter Capital Unopposed

Truckloads of bearded guerrilla fighters rolled into the city over the main central highway from the eastern Provinces of Matanzas and Las Villas and sped along the Malecon Sea boulevard toward the former military headquarters of deposed President Fulgencio Batista at Camp Columbia.

As the Castro forces advanced, Cuba's 6,300,000 war-weary people had two provisional presidents. Neither occupied the chair vacated by dictator Batista, who fled in the darkness of New Year morning Thursday.

The streets of Havana were tense and alive with expectation. The triumphant Castro partisans, who had seemed to emerge armed from nowhere Thursday to take over control of the capital, kept a tight lid on the situation to prevent pent-up public emotion from creating a chaotic situation.

January Car Output Up 22 Pct. Over '58

DETROIT (AP) — Ward's Automotive Reports said today the auto industry plans to build 22 per cent more cars this month than in January 1958.

The total for the month should reach 595,000 passenger cars, the agency said, against 489,357 in the same month a year ago.

Ward's reported the current week's production at 97,819 cars compared with 104,907 last week and 76,653 in the similar week last year. Truck production was estimated at 13,480 this week, 15,212 last week and 12,817 a year ago.

Ward's said the continued high production rate will mean daily and Saturday overtime and noted that Cadillac, Lincoln, Rambler and Studebaker plus four of 13 Ford division factories have overtime scheduled tomorrow.

No Training Meant Loss, Says Batista

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (UPI)—Ousted Cuban Director Fulgencio Batista blames his defeat on the fact his troops were not trained for guerrilla warfare.

Batista flew here with high government leaders and members of his family early yesterday and checked into the luxurious Ambassador Hotel.

Asked how such a small group of rebels could have successfully fought the Cuban Army, Batista explained to newsmen yesterday:

"Their (the rebels') first opponents were soldiers of the rural guard who were not prepared for guerrilla warfare.

"When the rebels expanded their operations and met the army in open battle they were well armed and their weapons were superior to ours."

Hayhow, Gillespie File Minority Dissent

Present Tax Committee Report

Rejecting the philosophy and much of the detail of the majority, two members of the Michigan Citizens Tax Advisory Committee today filed a minority report.

The dissenters are Tyrone Gillespie, Midland, and E. C. Hayhow, Hillsdale.

"We cannot subscribe to a program which has the redistribution of wealth, earnings and income as its objective," their report stated.

"This thinking too strongly follows the majority recommendations which tries to kill the incentive to compete and succeed. This has heretofore been the motive power for this state's industrial success."

"We object to the majority proposal which we feel to be an attempt to remove from the local tax base as much revenue as possible and replace the lost revenue with state aid," the dissenting report said.

"This denies the American principle of keeping government and its taxing and spending powers as close as possible to the home unit."

The majority successfully met only one of four committee objectives, the minority contends. This was in the field of raising taxes where, the minority commented, the majority "has done well . . . better, we think, than was necessary."

Hayhow and Gillespie contend the majority report:

1. Adds to the patchwork of the present tax plan by adding new taxes and complicated tax features which are hard to work out.

2. Neglects fair play by exempting thousands with incomes from any responsibility for sharing the cost of government service.

3. Fails to improve the industrial and business climate, by increasing the Business Activities Tax, retaining the Personal Property Tax on inventories, and adding a new tax on business profits.

On the positive side, the minority report makes the following major recommendations:

1. A flat rate personal and corporate income tax at a maximum rate of 2 per cent. Recognizing the serious problems of local units of government, the minority suggests legislation permitting local units to levy an additional income tax in an amount not to exceed 1 per cent in each county.

2. Repeal of the Intangibles Tax and the Business Activities Tax.

3. Retention of the Personal Property Tax in its present form with improvement in the assessment process.

4. An amendment to the Sales

Mob at Airport Shouts Threats

Batista's Son and Family Among Exiles Landing by Planes, Boatload

MIAMI (UPI) — Cubans by the planeload and boatload flocked into the United States on the heels of a rebel push that ousted President Fulgencio Batista. Their arrival touched off a number of unfriendly demonstrations.

Many of the refugees appeared frightened and confused. Some barely escaped with the clothes on their backs.

An estimated 500 persons gathered at International Airport in Miami to shout threats at a planeload of exiles. Threatening gestures were made at occupants of another plane that landed in Jacksonville, Fla., earlier in the day.

In all the cities, police moved in to protect the tired and obviously frightened refugees. American Latins were predominant in the mobs that shouted pro-rebel slogans and denounced Batista's followers as "murderers."

Fulgencio Ruben Batista, son of the exiled Cuban president, was among the refugees who arrived in Florida and Louisiana yesterday, along with his two small children and two of his sisters. Two of the elder Batista's children were on a plane that landed in New Orleans.

U. S. immigration officers granted temporary visas to the evacuees and they scattered about the country.

Ruben Batista and several associates were reported to have chartered a plane after passing through customs at Jacksonville and flown to New Orleans. The party could not be located.

High-ranking army and political officials were among the arrivals at New Orleans, where a pretty 25-year-old college coed led a band of Cuban rebel sympathizers in a noisy demonstration at Moissant Airport.

The pilot of a Cuban Airlines plane which arrived in New York yesterday said fleeing passengers forced him to take off at pistol point. The plane carried about 40 government officials and sympathizers among the 86 persons aboard.

The pro-Batista passengers were let out of side doors at the airport to avoid clashes with 300 pro-rebel demonstrators who had gathered outside.

Police Hunt 2 Men in $250 Watch Theft

Pontiac police are looking for two men suspected of having stolen a $250 wrist watch from Connolly's Jewelers, 16 W. Huron St., Wednesday afternoon.

Police said the watch was discovered missing seconds after the two unidentified men, who had been looking at watches, left the store.

A clerk followed them to a car parked at 50 N. Saginaw St. The pair fled from the vehicle when they saw the clerk, police said.

The car was towed to the Lake Street yards by police, who are attempting to locate its owner through license plates.

Freezing Rain, Snow Today

Half of Nation All Wet

By The Associated Press

Wet weather — rain, snow and freezing rain — dampened sections in half the country today as a fresh surge of frigid air spread into the plains and headed into the midcontinent.

Cold wave conditions were indicated for more than a dozen states from east of the Continental Divide to the Mississippi Valley and southward into Missouri and Oklahoma. Snow came with the cold air.

Snow, freezing rain and rain plagued wide areas on New Year's Day and continued in many sections in the northern half of the country. Driving conditions were extremely hazardous in areas hit by snow and freezing rain.

Local blizzard conditions were reported in the high plains and the upper Mississippi Valley. Strong northerly winds of 40 to 50 m.p.h. swirled the fresh fall of snow.

Temperatures were from 20 to more than 50 degrees lower this morning than 24 hours earlier in the northern Rockies and the Dakotas as the icy air swept across the Canadian border.

A warming trend was reported in areas from the lower Great Lakes eastward to New England. Biggest temperature advances were in New England, with readings in the 20s replacing below zero marks in some areas. Temperatures in most areas were some 20 degrees higher than 24 hours earlier. However, snow, freezing rain and sleet hit New England areas, with driving conditions reported treacherous in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

Fireman Hurt, Truck Damaged

False Alarm Proves Costly

A New Year's Eve practical joker who turned in a false fire alarm in Waterford Township caused considerable damage and injury to one of the firemen answering the call.

According to Waterford Fire Chief Edward Smith, someone called the department at 3 a.m., reporting that a car was afire at the Norman Darocher home, 2880 Old Orchard Rd.

Firemen from Station 3 answered the call, but because of extremely icy road conditions, could not make the incline on Elizabeth Lake road near M-59 and slid off the highway into the ditch.

Station 1 was called to take over the fire call. Its truck also skidded on the ice and smashed into four cedar posts, coming to a stop against a beauty shop on Elizabeth Lake road near M-59. The truck's right rear fender was smashed.

Assistant Fire Chief Louis Goff finally reached the address in his own car and discovered that the call had been a false alarm. No one was home. Four volunteer firemen were at the scene. One of them, Harry Kunse, cracked a rib when he fell on the ice.

A faulty ash trap in the fireplace was the cause of a fire at 6 a.m. yesterday at the $12,000 home of Sherman Van Duesen, 1288 S. Airport Rd.

A fire truck from Station 1 slid into a ditch on the way to answer the call. However, driver Russell See managed to get the vehicle back onto the road and complete the call.

Pisa Tower Still Leans, Fortunately

PISA, Italy (UPI)—A group of French tourists tried to correct the lean of the famed Pisa tower after a New Year's Eve party yesterday.

They drove straight from the hotel where they were celebrating to the Leaning Tower, hooked one end of a steel cable to the base of the structure and the other end to the rear axle of their car.

Then one of them put the car in gear and stepped on the gas. The Tower did not budge an inch, but the car went off in two directions.

The rear end was jerked out of the vehicle by the cable, while the rest of the car hurtled across the square.

Study committee chairman John L. Carey of Springfield Township spoke briefly to the legislative group this morning.

"It's up to the Legislative Committee whether our proposal receives a favorable recommendation," Carey said later.

One Legislative Committee member, Carl F. Ingraham, spoke in behalf of cities and another, Arno L. Hulet, the townships.

Ingraham, Birmingham mayor and supervisor, listed three points he believed needed clearing up:

1. Would county home rule result in the abridgment of city powers?
2. Who would write the county charter?
3. How would home rule fit into long-range plans for county reorganization?

Saying he was speaking in behalf of the mayors of 14 South Oakland County cities, Ingraham stated he would oppose county home rule "if it detracts at all" from city home rule powers.

The Birmingham mayor said the charter commission should be open to wide representation, not composed solely of members of the Board of Supervisors.

"Industry and civic organizations, for instance, should have a hand in drafting the charter. We do not want county government to become inbred."

Ingraham accused the study committee of failing to make its long-range plans clear.

"We should have interim reports on the direction the study committee intends to take and just how these specific reforms fit in."

Athough viewing the home rule proposal with skepticism, the mayors' group that he represents is not "inherently against home rule," Ingraham said.

Huleet, supervisor of Bloomfield Township, said the townships should seek more representation on the governing body of the county if home rule is to be adopted.

He said the present balance of power between cities and townships was unfavorable, since some populous townships are allowed to send only their elected supervisor to the county board while some less populous cities have more than one appointed representative on it.

Nevertheless, Hulet favored a charter commission made up of members of the Board of Supervisors.

He said he was against any plan that might alter direct representation by township supervisors on the Board.

Semann agreed that much of the controversy surrounding home rule hinged on the question of who would write the charter.

Semann hoped that before making its recommendation to the Board his committee could meet first with State Sen. Andrews (R-Hillman), chairman of a special Senate committee which is to report soon on a year-long study of county home rule.

Under consideration by Semann's committee is a proposal to ask the Legislature to approve placing before state voters a constitutional amendment permitting counties to adopt home rule, if they wish.

If voters approved home rule, the Legislature would have to draft a legal framework for home rule charters, then county voters would have to vote for home rule and afterwards approve a charter.

Castro Troops Move Into Cuba Capital

over either the army or the police who now get their orders from rebel leaders installed at Camp Columbia in a Havana suburb.

The Castro troops entering Havana were unopposed. They were led by the Argentine physician, Ernesto Guevara, and Camilo Cienfuegos, two of the rebel chieftain's hard-fighting field commanders.

A final showdown obviously is near. Castro announced today he would not accept what he called a coup d'etat arranged by Batista. Thus he rejects the provisional government which purports to be headed by Supreme Court Justice Carlos Piedra.

While Castro's success in his 25-month-old rebellion seemed close to complete, he still must bring his oft-proclaimed choice to Havana and install him in the presidential palace from which dictator Fulgencio Batista fled Thursday.

To install Urrutia in the capital, Castro ordered a mass public demonstration in Havana's Central Park at 4 p.m. today.

The country will remain in a state of paralysis from a general strike ordered by Castro until Urrutia takes over in Havana.

Castro spoke just before dawn to a huge crowd in Santiago, the capital of easternmost Oriente province, after a parade of orators had hailed his leadership and his selection of Urrutia.

Former President Carlos Prio Socarras, an exile in Miami since Batista ousted him by military coup in 1952, arrived meanwhile in Havana.

New Year Ice Stays on Many Side Roads

BIRMINGHAM—After-effects of the New Year's Eve sleet storm are still being felt in the area.

Police Capt. Walter Sluiter said some of the sideroads in the Bloomfield area are still nearly impassable. Road crews worked a straight 20 hours on main streets beginning at about midnight Wednesday. Some sections of Woodward avenue were blocked from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. yesterday in what Sluiter said was the worst storm he can recall.

He said "traffic jams were all over the place" with 30 or 40 cars in a tangled-up mess. Some persons stayed in stalled cars six hours or more, waiting for salt or tow trucks to come to their rescue.

In spite of the weather, someone got to the railroad overpass on Trowbridge road again—the entire south rail was painted black New Year's Eve, Sluiter said.

In Birmingham, according to Tom C. Brien, DPW superintendent, local crews worked backward.

By driving the trucks in reverse they could salt their own paths and make some progress over the icy roads, he reported.

Brien said about 60 tons of salt were used on the main streets and most intersections of the city have been salted. But he urges "extreme" caution when driving on side streets.

Birmingham is one of four cities with populations of between 25,000 and 50,000 rated first in 11-month safety records released yesterday by the National Safety Council with no traffic fatalities recorded during that period.

It's been a long time, but Lawrence Kamin, former Birmingham policeman, is going to get his gun back.

The 32-caliber automatic was in Kamin's car which was stolen and recovered 16 years ago, but without the gun, Lt. Merlin Holmquist said this morning.

Birmingham police were notified by State Police when Darrill D. Place of East Lansing tried to register the gun at this time. Place told authorities he inherited the pistol from his father who had accepted it as payment for some work on a trailer many years ago.

Holmquist said the firearm will be sent on to Kamin, who is now living in Oklahoma City.

Bob Gleason will get one free week at the YMCA Day Camp for his total sale of 43 Christmas trees. "Y" memberships go to Ricky Candler, Roger Holtz, Roger Cummings and Bill Zeiss, for their part in promoting Christmas tree sales for the YMCA to help finance its activities.

Marge Hauck, figure-skating instructor at the Eton Park Rink, said that Sunday afternoon activities will be from 12:30 to 2 p.m. Club members will receive instruction and have a special program.

"Tension Between Peoples" will be the subject of a talk by Henry and Mary Dasenbrock to the Birmingham Friends Meeting (Quakers) at 3:30 p.m. Sunday at the Birmingham Community House.

The Dasenbrocks supervised a work camp for the American Friends Service Committee in Poland last summer.

The camp consisted of eighteen college students from five countries representing both sides of the Iron Curtain. The students lived together for four weeks and worked on the construction of a school and playroom in a village near Warsaw.

The Dasenbrocks will use their experiences to illustrate the activities of the American Friends Service Committee in trying to achieve peace in the world, and successes in trying to bring young people of different ideologies to work as a group toward this goal.

There will be a short meeting for worship after the talk to which everyone is invited.

2 Members Present Minority Tax Report

and Use Tax under which all purchases of the Federal government would be taxed. This would raise an estimated minimum of $37 million.

5. Replacement of the present Inheritance Tax with an Estate Tax carrying rates equal to the 80 per cent credit allowed under the Federal estate tax law.

6. To supplement the Estate Tax, a Gift Tax in appropriate ranges, perhaps somewhat higher than suggested for the Estate Tax.

7. An Insurance Premiums Tax with rates of 2½ per cent on foreign premiums and 1½ per cent on domestic premiums.

8. Due to Federal restrictions on the form and taxation of national banks, Michigan banks and financial institutions should be subject to the regular corporate income tax and the Legislature should confer with representatives of banks and financial institutions looking toward an additional tax which is fair and which meets Federal requirements.

As an aid to the immediate relief of the state's problem, the minority recommends the transfer or loan of the Veterans Trust Fund. The obligations to veterans, it is pointed out, can easily be met by appropriations from the General Fund.

Majority recommendations on Beer and Liquor, Chain Store, Pari-Mutuel and Cigarette and Tobacco Products taxes were accepted by the minority.

Gillespie and Hayhow point out that their program is flexible and will raise approximately $90 million in its recommended form.

"It is our sincere hope," their statement said, "that the Legislature will find it possible to reduce this figure. If this is not possible, we submit that $90 million properly utilized should be adequate to amortize the current deficit and provide for reasonable state needs."

The minority report recognizes several areas require further study.

"What happens," the minority asks, "when the deficit is erased? Will taxes be reduced or will, as is generally the result, ways be found to spend all the revenues available?"

More study is also suggested for the needs of local government and the constitutional limitations affecting taxes.

"Much could be said about the matter of governmental economy. The minority feels this is a fertile field. We are limited to a strong recommendation that this subject be pursued diligently, thoroughly and conscientiously."

Like Cinderella After the Ball

Williams Turns to State's Money Woes

LANSING (UP) — Like Cinderella after the ball, Gov. Williams today busied himself again with Michigan's household financial woes which he said can be cured only by new taxes.

But certainly not far back in his mind after yesterday's inaugural events were visions of sitting in the White House after 1960.

During nearly 18 hours of inauguration activities, Williams repeatedly was told by admirers that that is where he belongs. Among others, this appraisal came from Paul M. Butler, Democratic national chairman.

One jarring note marred an otherwise festive occasion for Michigan Democrats, marked in the main by band music, booming cannon, happy speech making, a formal dance and numerous receptions.

It was introduced by Williams himself, who declared in his inaugural message that new state taxes must be imposed to "restore financial stability to the state government."

The new taxes — he didn't say what kind — are required to overcome a growing general fund deficit that threatens to balloon to 100 million dollars by summer, and support enlarging state services, Williams said.

The governor was one of six Democratic winners in the Nov. 4 statewide election to formally accept the responsibilities of office for two more years before a jammed audience estimated at 700 persons in the house of representatives chamber.

The ceremonies were moved inside at the last minute because of a freezing drizzle. Traditionally, they are held on the east steps of the capitol.

After Chief Justice John R. Dethmers of the State Supreme Court, a Republican, administered the oath to Williams, he gave it in turn to these other officers:

Lt. Gov. John B. Swainson, Secretary of State James M. Hare, State Treasurer Sanford A. Brown, Aud. Gen. Frank S. Szymanski and Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams.

Hare and Brown launched third terms, Szymanski a second, and Swainson and Adams their first. However, Adams has served as attorney general one year by appointment. Swainson moved up from the state senate.

Before he got to the gloomy portion of his message, Williams reeled off a list of accomplishments in the state during the last 10 years, headed by the Mackinac Bridge, and said the future holds promise of bigger things.

In recommending his tax proposals to the legislature, Williams pledged to seek the "fairest formula that can be devised, whatever that may be."

"I believe the people are not afraid to make sacrifices today for the sake of a better life today and tomorrow for themselves and their children," he said a little later.

Addressing an inaugural luncheon attended by 950 persons despite nasty weather that discouraged travel, Butler lavished praise on the governor and the state party organization he built from scratch.

"At an age (47) that would be considered very early for many capable men to first achieve high public office, Gov. Williams already is the senior governor of the United States," Butler said.

SECOND INSTALLMENT—William McGlashen (left) of the North Pontiac Kiwanis Club presents $500 check to Dave Ewalt of the Pontiac Department of Parks and Recreation. Added to the club's initial donation of $500 a year ago, this raises the total to $1,000 given the department toward development of the North Pontiac Kiwanis Park at Stanley and Emery streets. The money will go toward further expansion of present playground facilities and buying new slides, swings and other equipment for the park.

Tito Leaves Indonesia for Visit to Burma

JAKARTA (UPI) — Yugoslav President Tito, winding up a visit to Indonesia, sailed yesterday for Burma, it was reported today.

A supply ship and three destroyers—one Yugoslav and two Indonesian—accompanied the presidential yacht on the first stage of the journey.

Benton Harbor to Burn Trees in Annual Rite

BENTON HARBOR (UPI)—The biggest Christmas tree fire in southwestern Michigan will be held Sunday.

It's Benton Harbor's annual "Operation Skyblaze." Sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the Benton Harbor and St. Joseph Public Works Departments, Christmas trees are collected all day Sunday and then burned at 7 p.m.

The public is invited to watch the tree burning that night at 7 o'clock. The project is designed as a safety program and there is no charge for picking up the trees.

Corn Flakes Inventor Dies at 82 in Florida

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — R. J. Foster Sr., 82, credited with inventing the corn flakes process for breakfast cereals, died yesterday.

Foster moved here from Battle Creek, Mich., in 1921.

Survivors included the widow, Bertha, and four sons: Stanley, Cincinnati; Roland, Kermit and Darwin, of St. Petersburg, and a daughter, Mrs. John Crawford of St., Petersburg.

Schools Get 8,676 Cars

DETROIT — The nation's new-car dealers provided 8,676 automobiles on a free-loan basis for use in high school education courses during the 1957-58 school year. These cars represented 71 per cent of the 12,177 driver-education cars used by schools for such instruction during the year.

Find Red Radar Surrounds Berlin

'Soviet Network' Could Wreck Airlift Attempt by Western Powers

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Air Force sources said today U.S. intelligence agents in Berlin have found a network of Soviet radar and radio jamming equipment surrounding that city.

They said the jamming might wreak havoc with any future attempt to operate an airlift to save Berlin from blockade.

Even if the jamming could be offset by counter-measures, the sources said they seriously doubted whether an air lift alone could again save Berlin as in 1948-49. They said the cargo demands would be at least two and one-half times greater.

A spokesman for the Joint Chiefs of staff at the same time indicated the United States would favor armed ground "convoys" as a method of penetrating any future blockade that might be imposed against the former German capital.

Military authorities believe the West's rejection of the Soviet "free city" proposal leaves open a possibility that the East German Communists, fronting for the Russians, might try to shut off access to Berlin.

A high Air Force official said that even in 1948 the Russians had considerable jamming equipment around Berlin. He said the loss of "a couple" of American planes at that time may have been due to jamming operations, although actual cause of the crashes was uncertain.

Man Dies, 4 Injured in Ontario Collision

GUELPH, Ont. (UP) — David Stewart, 70, of Guelph, was killed yesterday and four persons injured, two seriously, in a two-car collision on Highway 6 two miles north of Aberfoyle.

Hospitalized are Mrs. David Stewart, 69, with a broken hip; her son, Walter David Stewart, 33, facial and chest injuries; Hildegarde Zillman, 24, of Toronto, internal injuries and a broken leg, and Lorna Smith, 28, of Detroit, who has undetermined injuries.

Miss Smith and Miss Zillman were said by hospital authorities to be in serious condition.

For 'Public Be Damned' Attitude

Hoffman Hits at News Walkouts

WASHINGTON (UP) — Rep. Clare E. Hoffman (R-Mich) says the recent strike against New York newspapers may have been "a blessing in disguise."

Hoffman termed it a possible "blessing" yesterday because "perhaps it brought home to the average citizen of New York — and the country — the realization that some union officials, some union members are, not only selfish, but have no respect for law. A similar strike in Michigan about six weeks long closed papers there."

In a statement distributed to newsmen, Hoffman said the first amendment to the Constitution provides that Congress shall make no law abridging the freedom of the press.

"But the New York union wrote its own law — on the theory that 'the public be damned'," Hoffman said.

He said a New York statute or a law enacted by Congress which closed a printing press for even a day would be held in violation of the Constitution.

"But these New York and Michigan strikes, which abridged the freedom of the press, violate the laws of states and the nation, apparently have been given no consideration," he added.

Hoffman said strikes against airlines, which he said inconvenienced thousands of persons, reflected "the attitude of some union officials which again was 'The public be damned'."

It doesn't mean that Congress should adopt legislation outlawing strikes, he said. Congress, he said, should write not union-busting legislation, "but remedial legislation which will protect the right of the nonunion worker, of the union worker, of the public at large."

The individual or a group should be permitted to strike, Hoffman said, but strikers should not be permitted to deny the right to work to those who want to work. Nor should they be permitted to deny a necessary public service, he said.

Girl, 22, Faces Murder Charge

Young Welfare Worker Could Get 2 Years for Soliciting Rival's Death

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — A young Greensboro welfare worker faces charges today that she tried to arrange a fatal accident for the wife of a highway patrolman she loved.

Barbara Ann Massey, 22, was scheduled to appear in Mecklenburg County Recorder's Court on a common law charge carrying a maximum sentence of two years. She was charged with soliciting another to commit a felony.

Miss Massey, on leave from the welfare work she began last summer after graduation from Wake Forest College, was accused of hiring Charlotte Police Detective Richard S. Ruth to kill Mrs. Frances Smith of Greensboro. Detective Ruth swore out the warrant charging Miss Massey.

The trooper, Ransom Smith Jr., resigned from the patrol shortly after the warrant was signed. Authorities said Ruth carried a small concealed tape recorder with him when he met Miss Massey to arrange the "fatal accident" for Mrs. Smith.

Police Adopt Sensible Weekend Bail Policy

A new cash bond policy has been adopted by the Pontiac Police Department. Like all changes, a thorough trial may be needed to reveal its good and bad points, but on the surface it appears to be a distinct improvement over the old system.

Persons arrested at night or on weekends for minor law violations previously have been forced to spend considerable time in jail waiting for an opportunity for a court hearing. For innocent persons, this was an unnecessary hardship and embarrassment.

Under the new program a modest cash bond will be sufficient to free the accused person, who may then appear for a hearing on the first day court convenes thereafter.

The schedule of bond payments was set up by the City Commission. Public Safety Director GEORGE EASTMAN announced the new policy is in effect.

Persons who are still creating a disturbance will not be released, nor persons in such condition that release might result in injury to themselves or others. This provision protects both the individual and the public, and at the same time permits anyone accused of a minor violation to have a hearing before being compelled to spend any appreciable time in jail.

In a free country, this is as it should be.

FBI Warns Motorists Against Hitchhikers

J. EDGAR HOOVER, one of this country's greatest citizens, issues his current crime report with some discouraging statistics.

However, the job at hand is to study the figures and face the facts squarely. Looking the other way won't accomplish anything constructive and it will induce a false sense of security.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation shows that crime is on the increase. This is a discouraging revelation. "The theft of automobiles is one of the most critical problems confronting enforcing agencies," says the report. "It often serves as the springboard which launches juvenile offenders along the paths toward habitual-criminal careers."

The report once again warns the U.S. motorist of something that has been repeated time and again:

Don't leave cars unlocked; and,

DON'T PICK UP HITCHHIKERS.

The danger in this foolhardy procedure has been demonstrated time and time again. Many a kindly, helpful motorist has received a knife in the ribs, a bullet in the abdomen or a blackjack across the skull for his trouble.

Ignore them completely.

These seem like harsh and unfriendly words, but they are aimed for the protection of the law-abiding and decent citizens.

Also, remember that the most innocent cases are often fakes for the very purpose of fooling gullible and susceptible drivers. A prominent suit case marked "State" or "U. of M." can be the deceptive device of an expert. Every crook seeks to conceal the face and travel under a false label.

Also, it does no harm to keep your doors locked, even when you're driving. A modern car is about as safe a haven as man can devise against a highwayman on foot. With doors locked and your foot near the accelerator, the bandit is helpless.

Don't give him a chance.

Delusions of Grandeur

Speaking in Georgia the other day Gov. A.B. (HAPPY) CHANDLER of Kentucky was in an optimistic mood.

It's high time, he said, that the South had a presidential nominee and he offered himself as the logical choice. Back in 1956 "HAPPY" ran his own campaign headquarters at the Chicago's Democratic convention. His one big issue, says the Milwaukee Journal, was that he was healthier than other candidates and as evidence he had Puerto Rican delegates feel his muscles.

But it took PERLE MESTA, famous Washington hostess, to put him in his place. She was not impressed with either his candidacy nor his muscle tone. "'HAPPY' she said, "what is all this nonsense about your going for the top spot? Oh, 'HAPPY' why don't you stay down in Kentucky where you belong?"

There's still no better question.

"The Rest of the Family Will Be Along in a While"

David Lawrence Asks:

What Can Be Done About Strikes?

WASHINGTON — The American people are unhappy about the strikes that have been depriving them of essential services. Members of Congress are hearing from the country about it.

LAWRENCE

Just what can be done? The "right to strike" has long been considered inherent in our constitutional system because the individual has the right to work or to quit work as he pleases.

But where the public interest is damaged, the law can properly step in and restrict the right of any organized group to act concertedly in preventing others from working.

Thus, for example, there is no right to strike against the government itself, whether it be federal or state or city government. Nobody can be required to work for the government.

Actually, when the government seizes an industry, no union may tell its members not to work. To do so constitutes an interference with the court orders usually issued at the request of governmental authorities.

Labor unions are lawful insofar as they follow the individual desires of their members, but, where two or more persons act in concert to bring about the interruption of an essential service, there is opened a field for restriction. The law can limit such economic action. In this sense, a group of individuals has no more right to damage the public interest than has a corporation.

The remedy heretofore applied has been government seizure of an essential industry. But this has never proved a satisfactory solution. It has in it elements of coercion, distasteful to a free society.

For years, students of the problem have examined a variety of proposed solutions. The Taft-Hartley Act today provides for a no-strike moratorium for 80 days during a so-called "cooling-off" period.

But a politically-minded President can ignore it rather than antagonize those labor leaders who supported him in his election campaign. So it is not desirable to make any solution dependent upon presidential discretion.

Likewise, because it is known that after 80 days the same situation will arise as before, the tendency is to wait out the period and go at the fight again.

The idea of mandatory arbitration, if no agreement is reached during a fixed period of negotiation, has always been given moral support by disinterested observers. The trouble with the plan is that impartial arbitrators are not easy to get. There has been in the past talk in Congress of setting up a labor court for strike emergencies, to be composed of judges selected from a panel of federal jurists regularly on the bench.

The labor unions have not liked this approach because they have believed it legalistic and that the decisions are not likely to penetrate the human questions that frequently give rise to deadlocks in negotiations—matters of holidays and pensions and other "fringe" benefits.

Employers, on the other hand, have feared that arbitrators would ignore the financial capacity of a smaller company competing with a larger one, or else that too much power would be given the neutral arbitrator because, as a rule, each side picks an arbitrator and the two select a third, who is supposed to be neutral. Arbitrators selected for a single task like this are often plagued by the after-effects of their decisions.

The Country Parson

"I think prayer will never be any more effective than we expect it to be."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Foods High in Albumin Shouldn't Be Excluded

DR. BRADY

A man who made enough out of his drug store to retire at 55 enjoyed good health for 10 years, until acetanilide poisoning finished him off one night when he recklessly took several doses of the stuff to "settle his stomach." He had long had the habit of refreshing himself at the soda fountain two or three times a day with a large dose of the nostrum in effervescent form.

Presence of albumin in the urine without casts (formations visible under the microscope) is generally not significant. A trace of albumin may be found in the urine of almost any athlete after a strenuous contest.

Many persons with lordosis (swayback) have a trace of albumin in the urine almost constantly, but no casts. Casts are much more significant of kidney disease than albumin.

These swaybacked individuals are likely to have albumin in the urine when they are up and about, none when they are lying down. When the lordosis is corrected by a support, cast, or brace the albumin disappears. So physicians generally believe the albuminuria in such cases is due to pressure upon or stretching of the kidney vein, particularly the left one.

It is a serious mistake to imagine albumin in the urine is the consequence of eating foods that contain albumin. Even in Bright's disease, chronic nephritis, chronic inflammation of the kidneys, a diet including plenty of meat, milk, and eggs has proved better for the patient than a diet which limits or excludes these important foods.

The urine of a healthy person is likely to contain albumin following a long march, strenuous athletic contest, or a shift of hard work.

Some persons have a trace of albumin in the urine after a cold shower or a swim in cold water.

Most logical explanation of albumin in the urine after a cold is, in my opinion, that it results from insufficient oxygenation. So what? In another piece I'll tell what I'd do about it if I had alin anemina.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

What About Page 'for Men Only?'

By Dr. GEORGE W. CRANE

"Dr. Crane, you have mentioned that women seem to want male advisers," he began as we had lunch together recently.

Dr. CRANE

"And I think you are quite right. For example, in our city we have several excellent female physicians and dentists.

"But the wives of all the men I know never patronize them; instead, they select male doctors and male dentists.

"So I think it might even be smarter to change our 'Women's Page' and call it 'For and About Men.'

"Wouldn't that still attract as many women as before? And probably get a lot more men readers, eh?"

EDITORIAL PSYCHOLOGY

From my personal experience, I agree with Fred and I have some actual data to support his argument about the "Woman's Page."

Whenever my column is run in the "Women's Section" or on the "Woman's Page," the mail input drops.

Since the number of letters which I receive are an indirect barometer of the total readership of this feature, then it would appear that I get far more readers when I am in any other section of the newspaper than on the "Woman's Page."

"Dr. Crane, how do you explain that fact?" you may ask.

Well, a lot of younger men seem to feel that it is "sissy" to read the "Woman's Page."

But young men abhor the idea of being labeled as "sissy" so they try to affect disinterest in women's magazines as well as the typical "Woman's Page" of their newspaper.

WOMEN APE MEN

Women have no such aversion to invading the male sanctum. They even relish aping men and shopping for men in haberdashery stores.

But even the most rugged football star blushes and hangs back when his sweetheart invites him to accompany her through the lingerie section of a department store.

If newspapers wanted to attract the maximum number of male readers, as well as almost 100 per cent of the female readers, they should headline a page "For Men Only."

Then the timid males, who normally are afraid of being sissy, would be sure to devour that page.

And women would be doubly attracted to it. For women are always eager to learn more about men.

Girls get an early training in looking up to males, for their brothers are usually bigger and stronger.

After many years of such habitual relationships, women subconsciously defer to men, even though the women may be much more brilliant.

For physical size exerts a powerful influence in social relations. Indeed, studies have shown that bosses tend to be taller than their employes and the higher ranking the employer, the greater is his average height.

A survey of clergymen thus revealed that the average minister was about 5' 9", while his District Superintendents averaged about 5' 11" and the Bishops of that church were 6 feet tall.

If men thus defer to height, women defer far more, which explains why they consult male doctors about 98 times out of every 100.

And they also follow more eagerly a male advice columnist for women impute more authority and prestige to the male sex. That's lucky for us men!

Gives Other Side of Story of Coldwater Institution

I had an aunt at Coldwater for 15 years. She wasn't mentally deficient but never grew after she was five and was unable to care for herself. Because she was completely rational, I have no cause to disbelieve her statements.

Always she expressed how kind the attendants were, how much they tried to do for her and how she was much more content there than in competition with the world. Perhaps because of Coldwater's unfavorable publicity, I won't forget she said, "I try to help them all I can because they're so understaffed. They can't be every place at once."

She died a year ago at 57, and had she been mistreated, I'm sure her life would have been shorter. Coldwater needs help, but let's not condemn the whole operation. What would thousands of people do without our institutions?

U.S. Discounts Danger to Americans in Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. government kept watch today on the safety of its citizens in Cuba and waited cautiously for the formation of a new government there.

Both the White House and the State Department discounted the possibility of major danger to U.S. citizens despite some rioting and uncertainty which followed collapse of the regime of Cuba's President Fulgencio Batista.

They declined any immediate comment on possible steps toward recognition of a new government, now in process of formation under the direction of rebel leader Fidel Castro.

President Eisenhower, vacationing at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm, was kept advised of the situation by telephone, press secretary James C. Hagerty reported.

Hagerty declined Thursday to discuss the possibility of recognizing a new Cuban government, indicating the question had not yet arisen.

Both he and State Department press officer Joseph Reap said they had received no reports of danger to American citizens in Cuba, and no indications that persons there were in a hurry to evacuate.

The U.S. Embassy in Havana arranged for a vessel to arrive today from Key West, Fla., to remove groups of tourists and students who asked help in leaving Cuba. It did not say how many planned to leave.

Ernesto Betancourt, registered representative of Castro forces in Washington, asked that Pando be put in charge "until an ambassador can be chosen by the rebel government which will take over in Havana in a day or so."

Batista Saw Himself as 'Lincoln of Cuba'

By United Press International

Fulgencio Batista never believed he was a dictator. This man of charm, the quick smile, the glad handshake and the loud laugh thought of himself as the Lincoln of Cuba. Indeed, Lincoln was his idol and he has read nearly everything available on the life of the American Civil War president.

Lincoln rose to true greatness in civil war. Batista was the cause of such a war, and it was his downfall. Yet he was a true child of the people—the orphaned son of a poverty stricken peasant family of Spanish, Negro, Indian and Chinese descent. He was self-educated and he had the pride of a self-made man.

Batista was born on Jan. 16, 1901 in Oriente Province in a mud floored, thatched roof hut. He went to a school run by American Quakers and worked in the sugar fields, in a grocery store and on the railroads. He often joked about his desire to be a railroad engineer.

But destiny led Batista into an army career. He enlisted in 1921, later took a secretarial course and returned to the service as a stenographer at army headquarters. In 1933 he led a bloodless "Sergeants' Revolt" and from then on was the power behind the throne of several presidents, becoming himself president from 1940 to 1944. After four years of exile, he seized control of the government in 1952 in another bloodless coup.

Many saw the fatal flaw in Batista's makeup as his intense loyalty to the army—a loyalty that superceded even patriotism and concern for the well-being of the masses. He also courted the Cuban police. In time, both the military and the police played him false.

Batista is a husky man, handsome, almost dashing. He is fond of athletics, late-hour reading, parties and good fellowship. Even Havana aristocrats of pure Spanish descent found his presence in clubs and society more of a pleasure than a distasteful duty. His divorce from his first wife, Elisa, mother of his two daughters and eldest son, did not please church authorities, however.

His second wife is beautiful Marta Fernandez, by whom he has four sons. She shares his exile.

Brown New Chief of Allies in Europe

NAPLES (UPI) — Adm. Charles R. (Cat) Brown, who had commanded the U.S. 6th (Mediterranean) fleet since 1956, assumed command today of all Allied forces in southern Europe.

U.S. and Italian planes flashed overhead during the ceremonies marking the change of command, and U.S., British, French, Greek, Italian and Turkish troops paraded for the new commander.

New Cuban President Served 31 Years as Judge

Urrutia Anti-Red and Pro-American

By United Press International

Compared to the romantic chief of the revolutionary forces, Fidel Castro, Urrutia is a personality that can be drawn only in shaded grays. Until 1957 he was not identified with the rebel movement that brought him to power today.

Dark, stocky, moustachioed, Urrutia is a native of Las Villas province and a graduate in law at the University of Havana. At 26 he was named to the bench in Oriente Province, which was to become the heartland of Castro's movement.

There, a little more than a year ago, after 31 uneventful years as judge, Urrutia handed down an opinion that shocked the Batista government and caused rejoicing throughout rebellious Cuba.

As chairman of a three-judge panel sitting in Santiago, he stated that 150 youths brought to court on charges of rebellious action should be released since there was no peaceful means left to Cuban citizens to defend their constitutional rights.

He was overruled by two other judges, but he had established himself as a champion of liberty.

The government soon forced Urrutia to resign from the bench. In November 1957, he and his wife and their two sons fled to New York, where he set up a Castro headquarters. Castro later announced that Urrutia was his choice for the presidency of Cuba, a choice ratified by other revolutionary groups in Cuba.

Urrutia returned secretly to Cuba to join Castro's forces last November. He has made many policy statements, none of them radical. He sees his destiny in the role of a legalist who can restore democracy and the rule of constitutional law to a country too long deprived of both.

He has pledged his government to free elections and legal proceedings, where possible, against Batista and his followers for violating the constitution.

Urrutia has made it clear that he wants no aid from the Communists. He has said that Cuba will remain, as always, a staunch friend of the United States. He has no illusions about his lack of political magnetism and international stature. When his job is done, he is expected to return to the bench.

'Drivers Appeal Board' TV Program Praised

LANSING (UPI) — Secretary of State James M. Hare Thursday cited Detroit television station WWJ-TV for its "Drivers Appeal Board" program.

Hare said the program, which ends Friday after a year's telecasting, should be commended for "generously contributing so much time, effort and expense for the cause of highway safety."

Farm production of the U.S. has increased about one-third the past decade by improved methods but the cropland area remains about the same.

Began Revolt Just 2 Years Ago

Rebel Castro Started With 12 Men

By United Press International

Fidel Castro — Cuban rebel leader.

At 32, Fidel Castro has established himself as one of the great political adventurers of modern times.

This angry, intense young lawyer built his massive opposition to the government of Cuban President Fulgencio Batista from a corps of 12 men, the survivors of 81 companions who landed in Oriente Province from Mexico on Dec. 1, 1956.

Castro was not too well known to most Cubans then — just another of the score of political leaders who hoped to rally agitation against the autocrat Batista. But two years of steady, if not always successful, warfare rallied to Castro the overwhelming support of freedom-loving Cubans that toppled Batista yesterday.

The big, sturdy, low-voice revolutionary was born Aug. 13, 1926 to a Spanish father and an aristocratic Cuban mother. The Senior Castro, a rich sugar cane and cattle rancher, died in 1956 and left his six children a fortune. By that time Fidel and his brother Raul had dedicated their all to the deposition of Batista.

What compelled this six-foot, 200-pound scholar-athlete to abandon the comfortable life of a provincial lawyer for the rough existence of a guerrilla leader in the tropical forests of southern Cuba is still something of a mystery. But even when he was a Montesquieu-quoting student at the University of Havana, he liked rifles as well as books.

Castro has an inborn theatricality that knows the value of the manifesto, kidnaping, jungle press conferences, and dramatic military sorties. Bloodshed has never deterred him from his goal.

Castro holds three university degrees, including a doctorate from Havana University. His horn-rimmed glasses might mark him as a professor, but his heavy black beard, rumpled attire and ever-present cigars give him the dash of virile leadership that set him apart from Batista's other challengers — tidy middle-aged politicans like Carlos Prio Socarras and Manuel Urrutia Lleo.

This man of destiny, for whom thousands have laid down their lives, first caught the attention of Cubans when he broke off his studies in 1947 to take part in an abortive attempt to overthrow the Trujillo regime in the Dominican Republic. When he returned to the University of Havana he gained nationwide attention as the president of the radical University Students' Federation, a breeding-ground for the revolutionary movement-to-be.

He went underground when Batista seized the government by coup in 1952, but on July 26, 1953, he emerged as the leader of 200 young men in a vain attack on the Moncada Barracks stronghold in Santiago. Thus with one heroic gesture, which cost the lives of half his fighting force, Castro established himself as a leader of the opposition to Batista's dictatorship. He named his movement the "26 De Julio" in honor of his comrades' sacrifice.

Castro was captured after the Santiago incident and spent two years of a 15-year sentence in jail. After a period of exile in the United States, he returned to Cuba in 1956. Yet even now, five and a half years after the beginning of the "26 De Julio" revolt, his political orientation is not completely clear.

Castro swears he is strongly opposed to Communism, but his second-in-command, brother Raul, is known to have spent two weeks behind the Iron Curtain attending an international student congress. Castro's announced program, when he invaded Cuba two years ago, was for quick nationalization of the nation's industries, but he has since watered down his economic program as a sop to U.S. opposition to drastic socialistic measures.

Today, Castro stands for extension of social security and a broadened program of industrialization to solve Cuba's chronic poverty and unemployment. He has called for land reform, limiting the amount of land any one plantation owner can hold. He wants to end government corruption, to re-establish political freedom and freedom of the press.

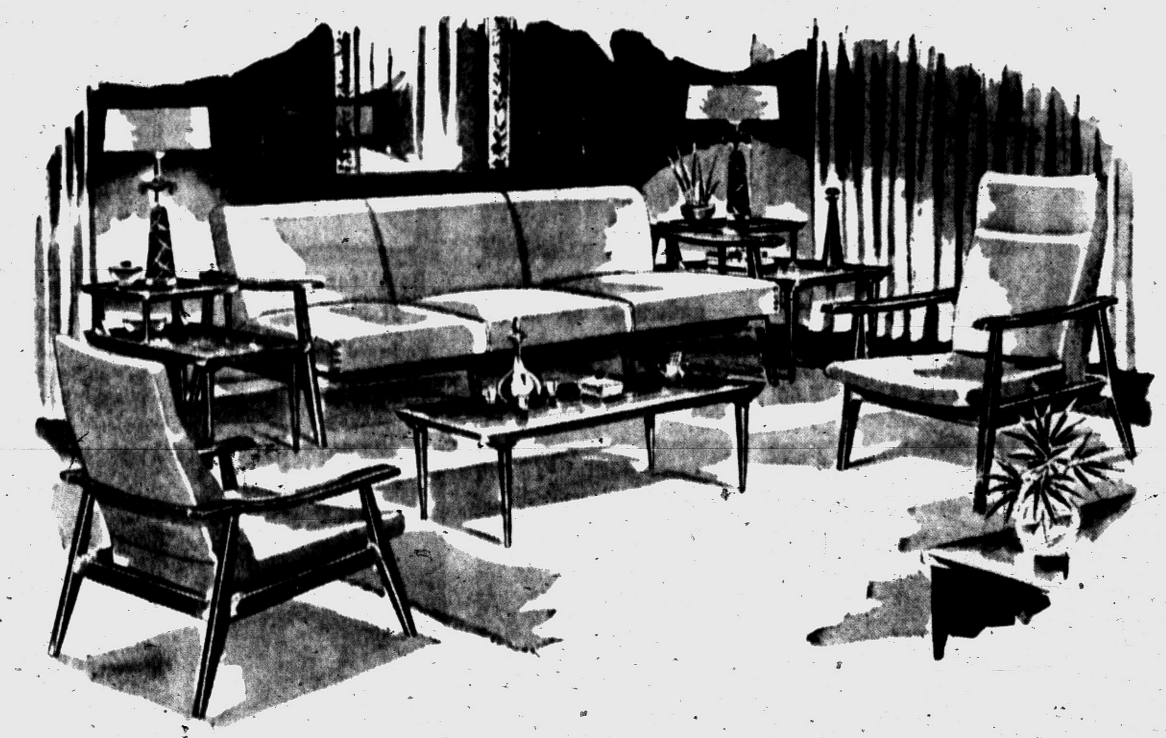

Castro's dedication to the cause of Cuban liberty has left him no time for a private life. His has been the life of the professional soldier — almost that of a consecrated monastic. He was married in 1948 to a sister of one of Batista's officials, but was divorced by his wife in 1955. She remarried a Batista official and has custody of their 9-year-old son, Fidel Jr.

It's Almost Time to Think About Income Tax Again

By RICHARD A. MULLENS
WRITTEN for NEA Service

Although Congress in 1958 made a number of changes in the tax laws, the rates for individual taxpayers were left unchanged.

This means that you'll again be paying at the same high rates that have been in effect for the past few years.

It also means that the smart taxpayer will take advantage of every possible tax saving as he fills out his return for 1958.

One of the first things to do is keep in mind that there is an important deadline coming up soon for those of you who filed or should have filed a declaration of estimated tax (Form 1040-ES) on your 1958 income. This deadline is Jan. 15, 1959.

If you previously filed a declaration of estimated tax for 1958, you will receive from the District Director of Internal Revenue a bill for the last installment on your estimated tax.

Before paying this bill which is due Jan. 15, you should make a rough computation of your 1958 income and tax.

If your payments of estimated tax for 1958 plus tax withheld from your wages is less than 70 per cent (66⅔ per cent if you are a farmer) of your 1958 tax, then you should file an amended declaration of estimated tax and increase the payment of the last installment so as to equal or exceed the percentages given above.

Unless you do this, you may be subject to a penalty for underpaying your estimated tax.

The penalty (6 per cent of the underpayment per year) will not apply, however, if your estimated tax payments plus tax withheld is equal to or greater than either:

A tax computed by using your income for 1957 and your exemptions in 1958.

There is one way you can postpone the Jan. 15 deadline. If you file your final return for 1958 on or before Feb. 2, 1959, (Feb. 15, 1959, if a farmer) and pay in full any tax shown as due thereon, this will have the effect of meeting the Jan. 15 deadline.

The next deadline — and this is for everyone — is April 15, when final returns for 1958 must be filed.

To help you save every possible tax dollar and at the same time file a correct return, the Pontiac Press will soon bring you an anual Income Tax Primer.

As in the past, the Primer is designed to supplement the official instructions issued by the Internal Revenue Service.

It will aid those taxpayers who want more information than is contained in the official instructions or who have problems not specifically answered therein.

So watch for this Primer and let these articles help you meet the April 15 deadline for filing tax returns for 1958.

Wyman Will Be New Cadillac City Attorney

CADILLAC (AP) — Paul B. Wyman, lawyer and friend of the court in Cadillac, has accepted the post of city attorney. He Succeeds H. Murray Campbell, who died last December 6.

Wyman declined to accept the Wexford County prosecutor's office saying the two jobs required too much time. The county is seeking a successor to Paul C. Herrington whose term expired Dec. 31.

Music in the Round

by Dick Saunders

SAUNDERS

According to a jazz personality. His LP on the poll of Pontiac Argo label was tied with "Muted area record shops, Jazz" by Jonah Jones as the best the year-end selling jazz LP of 1958. The "My wrap-up of high Fair Lady" LP by Manne & Previn was only a whisker behind.

spots in recorded music during 1958 goes something like this:

The best all-around small jazz combo award goes to Jonah Jones with the Manne-Previn outfit and Jamal trailing, but not by much. Rounding out the jazz category, Ted Heath and Stan Kenton were voted the year's best big bands with Basie in second place.

Best selling single record, "The Chipmunk Song," just edging out "Nel Blu Di Pinto Di Blu"; best selling LP, "Sing Along With Mitch, Vol. 1"; most popular recording artist, Johnny Mathis, edging Elvis, Ricky Nelson and Pat Boone.

Of the female vocalists, Connie Francis was voted the best new singer with Keely Smith a strong second. The best all-around singer award goes to Patti Page, followed by Doris Day and Eydie Gorme.

Male vocalists who made their debut on top seller lists last year were headed by Johnny Mathis, Jimmy Rogers being only a shade behind. The best all-around male singer was Perry Como by a healthy margin over Sinatra, Mathis and Boone.

The best vocal group was a red-hot race between the Kingston Trio, Kirby Stone Four and the Everly Brothers. The latter was top in sales. The Kingston Trio was one vote behind.

The best show LP was "The Music Man" original cast album with the "South Pacific" sound track LP close behind.

By far, the greatest edge in any classification was gained by Ahmad Jamal, who walked away with honors as the year's best new Cozy Cole took honors as the hottest selling pop small instrumental group with big band honors going to Billy Vaughn. Back for a command performance it seems, the Glen Gray Orchestra made quite a dent in sales charts taking second place.

An amazing amount of votes went to Russian pianist Emil Gilels and his younger, less experienced cohort Van Cliburn. But walking away with the honors as best selling single instrumentalist was Roger Williams.

That's it. Maybe next week I'll give you a taste of what my chubby little ears picked out as 1958's most outstanding recorded sounds.

Central Nervous System Damaged

Radioactive Lab Worker Dies

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP) — A medical expert says a technician killed by radiation in a Los Alamos atomic laboratory died from damage to his central nervous system.

He also says it may have been the first death of that type outside of war.

Dr. Thomas Shipman, head of the health division of the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory, says it was more than damage to the bone marrow-blood forming system that caused the death.

Cecil W. Kelley, 38, who had worked in the atomic laboratory about 11 years, died Thursday, 36 hours after the accident.

He was preparing a process to extract plutonium and said all he recalled was a flash as he started a stir operation in a tank.

Dr. Shipman said there are three types of fatal radiation injuries. He used the thre radiation deaths which have occurred at Los Alamos in 13 as examples.

The first was that of Harry K. Dahglian in September 1945. Shipman said Daghlian received "something like" 800 to 900 roentgens and died in 26 days. Shipman called it a "blood forming system, bone marrow death." A roentgen is the international unit quantity of roentgen, or x-rays.

The second death was that of Dr. Louis B. Slotin in 1946. Shipman said Slotin received a radiation dose of about 1,900 roentgens and died in nine days of damage to the gastro-intestinal tract.

As for Kelley's death, Shipman said, "when a person gets a dose of 4,000 to 5,000 roentgens, then the victim dies in from one to six days from damage to the central nervous system."

Shipman said he believes that "outside of warfare, this may be the first death" of this type.

"I think it is, other than the bomb casualties in Japan," he said. Those were the deaths caused by the atomic bombing of Nagasaki and Hiroshima, which ended World War II.

Nasser Police Arrest 100 Reds

Raids in Egypt, Syria Follow Antigovernment Leaflet Distribution

CAIRO (UPI) — More than 100 Communist leaders were arrested in New Year's Day raids in Cairo, Alexandria and other key Egyptian and Syrian cities, it was reported today.

Informed sources said an undetermined number of other Reds were rounded up Dec. 30 in the Egyptian provincial capital of Benha, between Cairo and the sea, following the appearance of anti-government leaflets there.

The sources said the government has ordered the dismissal of all officials with known Communist leanings—said to include a number of employes of the ministries of foreign affairs, economy and national guidance (propaganda).

The new crackdown deepened the gulf between President Gamal Nasser and the Communists, which came into the open last month when Red leader Khaled Bakhdash proposed "home rule" for Syria, now officially part of the United Arab Republic.

Nasser reacted to the Bakhdash proposal with a denunciation of the Communists in Syria which started a war of words between newspapers in the UAR and in Red-infiltrated Iraq.

The Nasser crackdown on local Communists does not appear to have affected his cordial relationship with the Kremlin. He and Premier Nikita Khrushchev exchanged congratualtory cables yesterday on last Saturday's Moscow pledge to contribute funds to Nasser's Aswan high dam project.

No Candles Will Be Lit on This Cake

CHICAGO (UPI) — Little Luella Marie Hartman celebrated her 10th birthday yesterday—but there were no candles on her birthday cake.

Marie is deathly afraid of smoke and fire, a fear stemming from her terrifying escape from the Our Lady of the Angels parochial school fire Dec. 1.

Marie is still hospitalized with injuries suffered in the blaze that took the lives of 90 of her schoolmates and three nun-teachers.

Gets Bird in Fish Net

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Mrs. Art Johanson is a woman who gets her bird. When a brightly colored cockateel landed on her front por Mrs. Johanson grabbed her husband's trout landing net and captured the bird.

ALL BALLED UP—Balancing neatly on one leg, a crane tucks its head among its feathers at a zoo in Chessington, England. Could be the bird is shy, or else just doesn't like to be photographed.

California Fire Levels 81 Homes

Newest Brush Blaze in Topanga-Malibu Area Almost Under Control

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Firefighters expected to bring under control today southern California's latest brush fire, which has destroyed 81 homes in its devastating march from Topanga Canyon to the sea.

Norman La Vigne, chief county fire dispatcher, said, "It should be a routine job from here on in if the winds don't increase."

Meanwhile, the thousands of residents who fled from the heavily populated area when the blaze started New Year's Eve began returning to their homes.

A second fire that blackened 650 acres, threatening movie stars' mansions, was brought under control last night by some 500 firemen.

La Vigne said the latest blaze, in the Topanga-Malibu section of the Santa Monica Mountains, was 60 per cent under control, and added that no structures were immediately endangered.

He said the some 800 firemen still on the lines were aided in their battle by low winds and a 30 per cent humidity.

Two Race Stork Over Icy Roads

LAKEVILLE — The odds appeared to be stacked against a young Lake Orion couple who left home early yesterday morning for Bishop Hospital, Almont, in a race with the stork over ice-glazed roads.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bays of 711 Birmingham Dr. left home shortly after midnight and got as far as Lakeville before hazardous road conditions forced them to seek help. They stopped at the Lakeville Tavern and an ambulance was summoned from Lake Orion.

★ ★ ★ ★

When the ambulance failed to arrive within a half hour, people in the tavern sent for an Oakland County sand truck. They learned that the vehicle turned over in a ditch when trying to make it to the tavern. Another truck was sent by a different route.

In the meantime the impatient father decided to make arrangements to have his wife put up at a Lakeville home for the night.

The home where they stayed from 3:15 to 10 a. m. yesterday belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Adam Lupp, 1609 Rochester Rd. Mrs. Lupp sent for Mrs. Vincent Rehwoldt, a registered nurse who lives nearby.

The nurse stayed with the prospective mother through the rest of the night, in the absence of a doctor in this small community.

The young couple were able to leave at 10 a. m. for the hospital in Almont, about 20 miles away.

Mrs. Bays gave birth to a six-pound, nine-ounce son, yet unnamed at 8 last night.

Rockefeller Talk Spurs Question of 1960 Challenge

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Nelson A. Rockefeller, a new force in Republican politics, assumed active direction of New York State today with a pledge of government "with a heart as well as a brain."

His New Year's Day inaugural speech refueled speculation that he might challenge Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the GOP 1960 presidential nomination.

Monroe Paper Plant Closed by Strike

MONROE (AP) — A strike has closed the Monroe Paper Products Co. plant here.

United Papermakers and Paperworkers Local 1003 called out members Wednesday to support new contract demands and protest permanent layoff of those who have been out of work at the plant for three or more months.

The company notified the union Wednesday that those who hadn't been employed for three or more months were being laid off permanently. The company normally employs about 200, but only 120 were employed when workers struck.

The old company-union contract ran out last September, but has been extended on a day-to-day basis.

Woman Left Homeless by Rochester Fire

Mrs. Cora Barwick, of 333 Woodward St., was taken in by neighbors after the flames swept through her home.

Rochester firemen fought the blaze for about three hours before bringing it under control.

The fire started on the second floor of the home. The cause and an estimate of damage were not available.

Arrangements were completed yesterday to take Mrs. Barwick to a rest home in Pontiac.

Cuban Rebels Arrest Three AP Newsmen

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Armed Cuban rebels fired today on the Havana Post building and temporarily detained three Associated Press men covering the city's postrevolt convulsion. The three were released after questioning.

Larry Allen, roving AP correspondent; George Kaufman, Havana AP Bureau chief; and Harold Valentine, AP photographer from Miami, were taken to a police station but were freed 30 minutes later.

Rebels carrying machineguns, rifles, and other weapons opened fire on the Post building. Several bullets smashed through the windows and into the walls of the Post editorial office adjoining the AP headquarters on the second floor. The Post is an English-language newspaper.

Private Plane Crash Kills Family of Six

PONTIAC, Ill. (UPI) — A family of six, four of them young children, was killed when their single engine private plane went into a dive and crashed in a farm field.

Dead in the crash yesterday were William Kellems, 34, LaPorte, Ind., his wife, Mary Louise, 28; and their four children, Penny, 10; Sherry, 8; Bill, 7, and Gale, 5.

Eastern Begins Limited Flights

Employes Prepare to Go Back to Work After Signing New Year Pact

By The Associated Press

Eastern Air Lines readied some of its planes today for limited north-south service in the wake of a 38-day strike by flight engineers. American Airlines remained shut down for the 14th day by a pilots' walkout.

The first inbound Eastern plane at Idlewild Airport—from Miami—was due to arrive shortly before 1 p.m. EST. The first outbound flight to Miami was set for 2:30 p.m. EST.

About 30 flights were scheduled for today with hopes that full service would be restored by next week.

Some 16,000 Eastern employes prepared to go back to their jobs as the line signed a New Year's Eve peace pact with its engineers, and came to an understanding Thursday night with the Airline Pilots Assn.

Eastern engineers and machinists walked out Nov. 24, grounding the line's 188 planes. Agreement was reached later with the mechanics, but they respected picket lines maintained by the engineers.

The engineers refused to accede to a company request to take jet pilot training. In place of requiring pilot training for the engineers, Eastern announced it will have three pilots on each of its jets. These will be in addition to the engineer.

The last stumbling block to resuming service was removed when Eastern and its pilots signed an agreement which assured the pilots their rights would not suffer from the new contract with the engineers.

Law May Block Teamster Plans

However Attorney Feels Threat to Picket Police Nothing but Bluff

NEW YORK (UPI)—A court-apponted board of monitors set up to watch over the Teamsters Union was prepared today to block by legal means the union's avowed attorney and member of the board, 24,000 policemen.

Godfrey Schmidt, a New York attorney and member of the board, said no formal action was planned at present, but added: "With our court-appointed powers, there is no question but that we definitely can stop this action."

Schmidt described as "a publicity stunt" and "pure bluff" teamster plans to begin picketing New York City Police installations Jan. 12.

"At this moment, the whole thing looks like a publicity stunt," Schmidt said. "It's another move by Hoffa (Teamsters President James R. Hoffa) who is under a compulsive motive to throw his weight around."

(In Philadelphia, the president of the Fraternal Order of Police said the Teamsters' drive would be unsuccessful if tried in Philadelphia. James J. Loughran said that by today most of the lodge's 50,000 members in major U.S. cities will have received reminders that union membership for police is against the order's constitution.)

Pontiac Jaycees Plan Jan. 14 Bosses Night

The Pontiac Area Junior Chamber of Commerce today announced the main speaker for its annual Bosses Night dinner, and looked for more nominations in the Outstanding Young Man of the Year contest.

W. J. Moriarty, assistant to the sales manager of the Mercury-Edsel-Lincoln Division, will be featured at the banquet Jan. 14, said William Treanor, chairman of the event.

With Ford Motor Co. since 1947, Moriarty formerly was administration manager of the M-E-L division.

Also on the Elks Temple program will be the naming of the Outstanding Young Man of the Year, and the Outstanding Jaycee of the Year.

W. B. Neal, chairman of the Outstanding Young Man contest, said he hopes more nominations will be received before the contest deadline Jan. 7.

"Many young men between the ages of 21 and 36 could qualify for consideration in this contest," said Neal, "and any individual or organization can submit a nomination."

Candidates do not necessarily have to be Jaycees, he said, nor is there any qualification placed on type of occupation.

Candidates are judged in two categories, he said; Community service, in such areas as youth groups, church, fraternal or service organizations and schools, and vocational success.

The nominees will be judged by a panel of five outstanding Pontiac citizens. The winner will be presented with the Jaycee Distinguished Service Award.

CLYDE TOWNSEND

Club Installs New Officers

Clyde Townsend to Be Named '59 President at High Twelve Ceremony

The Pontiac High Twelve Club will hold its annual installation of officers Monday in the banquet room of the Federal Savings and Loan Building on W. Huron street.

Clyde Townsend, 118 Henry Clay Ave., will be installed as the club's president for 1959.

Other new officers being installed are Paul Snover, first vice president; Dr. Selmer K. Sands, second vice president; Dr. William A. Gordon, third vice president; Marvin Alward, secretary, and Samuel Hale, treasurer.

Also being installed are Jesse Peters, sergeant-at-arms; Ray Clothier and Arthur McAdams, assistant sergeants-at-arms; Virgil Myers, international representative, and Floyd Temple and David Brown, new members of the board of directors.

The installation, scheduled to get under way at 7 p.m., will be carried out by officers of the Highland Park club.

Mother, Son Quizzed After Wife's Death

DETROIT (UPI)—Police held a mother and her son today for investigation in the death of his wife.

Mrs. Margaret R. Logan, of Garden City, was dead on arrival at Receiving Hospital yesterday. Mrs. Logan, 25, was the mother of four.

Her husband, James, 35, and his mother, Mrs. Bessie Logan, 54, of Detroit, were held for investigation of murder.

The mother was held, detectives explained, because they believed Logan may have told her of events leading up to his wife's mysterious death.

Offer State Tax of Flat 2 Pct.

Alternate 90 Million Plan Would Substitute for Graduated Revenue

LANSING (AP)—An alternate 90 million dollar tax package keyed to a flat rate two per cent State income tax today was recommended by two minority members of the Citizens Tax Advisory Committee.

A large majority of citizen advisers to the Conlin special legislative committee urged a graduated income tax as the heart of its tax system overhaul designed to raise an extra 138 millions.

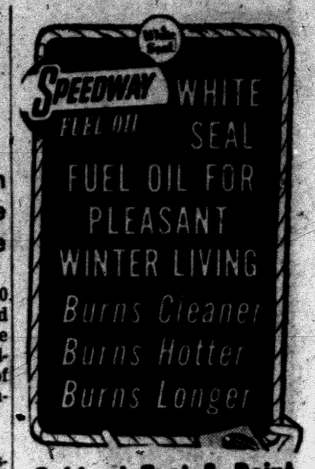

The suggestions formally advanced today by E. C. Hayhow, Hillsdale publisher, and Tyrone Gillespie, assistant to the president of the Dow Chemical Co., elaborated an earlier statement of their views.

At the conclusion of a 15 months' tax study a month ago, 17 members of the citizens groups lined up behind the majority plan. Three dissented.

Hayhow and Gillespie said exemptions under a flat rate tax should be $1,400 for the head of a family and $600 for each dependent.

The majority favored rates graduated from three to eight per cent, with a far heavier incidence on medium and high incomes and no burden at all on low income earners.

Overcame Multiple Sclerosis to Win Two-Way Success

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three years ago, a fashion model lay paralyzed, unable to walk or balance a coffee cup.

Today, Eva Burnay runs a modeling agency, does her own housework, and makes a home for her children.

She suffers from multiple sclerosis, an atrophy of certain areas of the brain and central nervous system which produces paralysis. The disease is incurable, but Miss Burnay carries on a normal life.

'NEVER GIVE UP'

"Just don't give up mentally or you'll never make it. You must not say to yourself, 'I can't,' but always, 'I'll see if I can,'" said the tall (5 feet 8 inches) brunette who is as glamorous as any of her models.

Born in Munich of a Polish father and English mother, Miss Burnay had double vision, an early symptom of multiple sclerosis, when she was 14 years old. She came to the United States in 1937, married and has a college-age daughter and 16-year-old son.

TOOK COURAGE

There followed days of agony and courage, and slowly, she began to walk again. Her steps were merely a shuffle, then she developed a "roll like a seaman." Now she walks without a limp.

In September 1956, Eva Burnay was back doing fashion shows. But the work was so taxing that she decided to open an agency.

She employs 40 models and two assistants, handles administrative details, trains some models, supervises their make-up and helps them during fashion shows and test-shot assignments. But she does not do any modeling herself.

"It wouldn't be fair to the girls," she said. "And if someone didn't like my work, he wouldn't want to call the agency and ask for someone else."

BIGGEST OBSTACLE

What was the hardest part of her comeback?

"Getting used to being with people again. It was difficult to follow the fast movement and talk. I remember the first time I went to a restaurant, I had to turn around and go out —just couldn't face it.

"At work, I had to go into a quiet corner because I didn't have enough strength to talk and work at the same time.

"But working helps eventually," she added. "Activity felt good, although if exhausted me to lift something."

Miss Burney still is under medical care and continues her practice of "refueling"—spending 15 minutes alone at the end of a working day to rest and regain strength.

"Oddly, it never occurred to me that I wouldn't be able to walk again, so I was never frightened," she said.

PERSEVERED

"I pivoted into every piece of furniture in the apartment. My shoes wouldn't stay on. I got dizzy in the middle of Park Avenue. I couldn't go down stairs.

"I remember my first show after I could walk. There were six stairs at the head of the ramp. I started out, took one look at the man sponsoring the show, and had to go back—he looked so scared that I got frightened.

"But I tried again and made it. I realized I didn't dare fall —a little woman was sitting by the stairs, and I knew if I fell, I'd crush her."

Mr. and Mrs. Leland S. Reese of Littletell street announce the engagement of their daughter, JoAnn, to Lt. James Harry Ridgeway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ridgeway of Muskegon. The couple will be married Jan. 17 at the chapel at Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala.

Be Their Dinner Guests

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I have invited a friend and her husband to our house for a weekend. I mentioned in my letter to her that we were getting tickets for a play for that Saturday evening. She wrote back and said that she was delighted and said not to bother with dinner that evening as they would take us out. As they are our guests I know we should take them out to dinner. However, we feel we cannot afford to do this in addition to the theater tickets.

"Under these circumstances, plus the fact that the dinner out was her idea, would it be permissible to let them pay for the dinner, or would it be out of order to suggest we go 'Dutch Treat?"

Answer: As there was certainly no need for your friend to mention dinner, the fact that she has written you not to have dinner at home and to dine out with her and her husband means that they really want to do their part by paying for it. It would be better to let them do this rather than to risk seeming unappreciative of their kind intention.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When a man and girl go to a cafeteria for something to eat, shouldn't the man precede her so that when they reach the end of the line where the cashier is seated, he can pay for her food? If she goes first it makes a rather awkward situation."

Answer: She should go ahead of him and when they get to where the cashier is, he merely leans forward and says to the cashier, "This lady is with me, please add her food to my check."

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me how old a flower girl should be? I would like very much to have my niece, who is almost eight, to act as flower girl at my wedding, but I am told she is too old. If so, is there any other way that I can include her?"

Answer: Unless very small for her age, it will be best for her to be a junior bridesmaid.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I inherited my grandmother's flat silver and now would like to give it to my niece for a wedding present. It is all initialed. My niece wants the initial removed as she doesn't think it proper to use silver marked with an initial that is different from hers and perhaps people may think is borrowed. I think it will spoil the silver and take away from its value as old silver. What is your opinion?"

Answer: You are right, and your niece should be very proud of being able to show by your grandmother's initials that hers is really old silver that has been in her family for four generations.

When Shopping Buy Wardrobe Befitting Age

If you are nearly always in doubt when you go to shop for new clothes, you can help yourself by adhering to a few rules.

The first of these is that the simpler the dress, the better. Avoid fancy trimming or ornaments.

The next is that when you are armed with an exact knowledge of what you want and what will fit into your wardrobe, you are also armed against making mistakes.

The third is to be candid with yourself about your age and dress accordingly. This means that you will be neither kittenish no dowdy but very attractively yourself.

Needles Work Together

War Tragedy Failed to Down Family of 3

By MARGARET BROWN

Memories of World War II Days may be growing dim for some of us, but they left their mark on Mrs. Mary Lou Needle and her two daughters, Donna and Diane, of North Anderson street.

On July 27, 1945, only a few months before he was to return home, Mrs. Needle's husband, Dr. Francis H. Needle, Navy flight surgeon, was killed, leaving her with the two youngsters, then 5 and 2 years old.

MANY HELPED

But Mrs. Needle really was not entirely alone. "So many people helped out in so many ways, I couldn't begin to tell you . . ." she relates. Members of the Oakland County Medical Society aided the family a great deal, as well as individual friends of Dr. Needle.

A graduate of St. Joseph's Hospital School of Nursing, South Bend, Ind., Mrs. Needle met her husband in Detroit through friends. ". . . Not, as you might expect, in a hospital," she notes.

The couple had moved to Pontiac when the older daughter, Donna, was born. It was in April 1942 that Dr. Needle enlisted in the U.S. Navy.

Dr. Needle, a graduate of Oberlin College and Wayne State University's Medical School, had been commissioned a lieutenant commander when the plane aboard which he he served crashed in the Pacific and never was found.

FOUND TEACHING JOB

Three years after the war, Mrs. Needle was able to begin working at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, where she taught nurse's aide classes, a job she says was most satisfying. The girls were then all-day students at St. Hugo of the Hills School.

Today, Mrs. Needle, still at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, is a nurse on the women's surgical floor. Her daughter, Donna, is a freshman student at the College of St. Scholastica in Duluth, Minn., working toward a B.S. Degree in nursing. She was graduated magna cum laude from St. Frederick High School's June, 1958, class.

Diane, now a senior at St. Frederick's, isn't quite certain just what her future will hold. Both girls play the piano and often enjoy accompanying their mother to concerts. Dr. Needle was a music major before transferring to medicine in college.

PROUD OF GIRLS

Needless to say, Mrs. Needle is extremely proud of her girls and "just being together" seems to be the biggest treat for this close-knit family.

Being a nurse and mother, Mrs. Needle doesn't find time for too many outside activities, although she is a member of the Board of Directors of the Oakland County District Nurses' Association and holds membership in St. Joseph's Guild at St. Vincent de Paul Church.

Mrs. Needle and her girls face the new year with confidence. They learned long ago that if they trust in God and work together, they can overcome life's hurts. It's their success formula for 1959, just as it has been in the past.

2 Stars Shine for Sue Ladd

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Sue Carol Ladd, a woman of fortitude and calm, has two male movie stars on her hands — her famous husband Alan and her 11-year-old son David.

"Having been married to Alan for 17 years, I'm all prepared to cope with David," says she. "It's wonderful and slightly unbelievable to see the whole thing starting over again."

David, a normal boy who prefers baseball to dancing class, is receiving plaudits for his part in the new movie "The Proud Rebel," in which he appears with his dad. His portrayal of a deaf-mute was so successful that now he is starting work on a new picture, "The Sad Horse," in which he is on his own. The Hollywood grapevine has it that even more exciting things are in store for David, described as a natural actor.

HE SHONE

"David was asked to do a small part in a picture with his father last year," says his proud mother, "but he was such a standout in even a bit part that the studio decided to give him a real chance. Alan had turned down a part in 'The Proud Rebel,' but when they offered the boy's part to David, he changed his mind."

The beautiful living room of the Ladd home, with picture windows overlooking a stage-lighted swimming pool and a tropical garden, is a constant beehive of activity. As we talked, 15-year-old Lonnie, a budding glamor girl, rushed in and out to ask her mother's advice on a new dance dress, an algebra problem and how to make David wash his hands.

Mrs. Ladd is a former movie actress and Hollywood talent agent, who married her favorite client. In addition to Lonnie and David, there are two older children—Carol Lee, now Mrs. John Veitch, Sue's daughter by her first marriage, and Alan Jr., or "Laddie," Alan's 21-year-old son, now a student at USC.

19-Year-Old Father Should Grow Up—Abby

Tell This Boy to Pick Up Chips or Play the Game for Keeps

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: Our daughter married without our consent but because we loved her we accepted this boy with an open heart. He is selfish, inconsiderate and stubborn. Two months after their marriage she became pregnant. She is expecting in May. Our son-in-law came to us yesterday and told us they decided to give the child up for adoption. He said he didn't want the responsibility of a baby as he is too young (he's 19) and he wants our daughter to continue working and a baby would be in the way.

ABBY

"We pleaded with him but got nowhere. My daughter wants the baby but her husband says if she keeps it he will leave her. (We'd gladly take her and the baby.) She doesn't know which way to turn. Please advise her through me to make a wise decision."

JUST MOM

DEAR MOM: Your son-in-law wants none of the responsibility of marriage. He bought himself a bed-partner for the price of the marriage license. Tell your daughter to keep her baby and if her "husband" leaves, he leaves. A legal separation with provisions for the baby's support might be just what the boy needs to help him grow up.

"DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a 16-year-old boy who takes out an 18-year-old and gives her instructions not to order anything on the menu that costs over seventy cents? Then for a tip he puts down twenty pennies? I have never been so humiliated in all my life." ANGIE

DEAR ANGIE: When you play with Little Leaguers you have to go by their rules.

"DEAR ABBY: Whenever I invite a few couples in for a sociable evening, my husband always starts the conversation with, "How's business?" The men start talking about business and we women either sit there like dummies or we have to start our own conversation about clothes or children. I want everybody to have a good time, but no matter how many times I try to change the conversation to include the women, they always end up talking about business. Is there a solution for this?"

SICK OF BUSINESS

DEAR SICK: Some men aren't able to discuss anything other than "business." If your object in entertaining is to provide a pleasant evening, don't try too hard to channel the conversation.

"DEAR ABBY: I've been married for nine years and with the exception of this one complaint we have been very happy. My husband introduced me to a married couple who seemed nice. Then he confided that before he met me, he had a romantic affair with this woman while her husband was overseas. He expects me to be nice to this woman, but I have all I can do to be civil to her. He says it's all over between them now and I should forget it. Do you think I should try to be friendly with her or is my husband asking too much?" CAN'T FORGET

DEAR CAN'T: Skip this couple and go around with people who are "new" to both of you. Your husband is definitely asking too much. P.S. Give my regards to "Big [illegible]."

Dislike of Responsibility Is Not Sinful

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Often at bedtime she's frightened by the pallor of her face in the bathroom mirror. "I'm tired again," she thinks, and recalls her day.

First there was Mama's breakfast to get before the rush to dress, swallow her own coffee and dash for an overheated bus. Then there was Mr. Smith's irritability to absorb, because he has a "pressure" job.

But it's wearing. So it would have been relaxing to have dined with a friend at some quiet restaurant instead of rushing home to get Mama's supper. But Mama doesn't eat if she isn't fed. She'll just pick at some lettuce if she's alone.

So there was the overheated bus again, the quick purchase of lamb chops and their preparation in the little kitchen where Mama's egg cup remained unwashed.

Tonight when Mama started dozing in her chair as Miss M. cleared the table, an awful thing happened. A shout gathered inside Miss M., and burst out wildly: "I can't stand this any more!"

Shaken with shame, Miss M. thought, "Oh, what a bad daughter I am. Everyone has to do his duty by his parents. Why do I resent doing mine by Mama?"

Miss M. resents doing her duty because she is alive—and wants to go on living.

NATURAL DISLIKE

Certainly we all have to accept restrictions, but we do not have to enjoy them. That's where Miss M. has become confused. Her conscience insists that she should enjoy the situation. So she's terribly ashamed of her natural dislike of things, and has added the suffering of self-hate to the work of doing her duty by Mama.

Today many middle-aged children share her problem. If we're all going to hate ourselves for disliking the restrictions involved in caring for aged and dependent parents, we'll all become as pale as she is.

Instead of immediately judging our dislike as sinful, we'd better try to see what it really represents—our love of life and our wish to freely live it.

We do not hate a seedling for pushing against the rock which obscures its sun, do we? Why then do we have to hate ourselves for disliking restrictions which seem to impede our activity and growth?

Plan Moving? Send the Tots Off on a Visit

There are authorities on everything. Here are some suggestions from one who specializes in the problems of moving.

Don't drag along bulky things like old mattresses and springs on a long trek. They can easily be replaced (and probably should be) in the new town.

Don't move furniture you plan to store on arrival. Sell it or give it away.

Do get rid of the children and pets on moving day—store them with grandparents, board them, or check them. But get them out of the way for their safety and your efficiency.

Let Tot Set His Own Pace

Just give your pre-schooler some materials and a place to work at his own speed and you will help him develop initiative and self-reliance, says a nursery school teacher.

She stressed that parents shouldn't "push" their children when it comes to activities that involve creating — such as drawing, painting, or molding clay. Let the child express himself by creating what he wants to.

It is also best if parents avoid setting up models for the child to copy, for this restricts him from expressing freely. The main things that the child should copy, are his parents' enthusiasm and curiosity, continues the teacher.

For example, if the family is at the beach, and little Johnnie sees his father picking up strange shells, it is very possible that Johnnie will do the same thing. He has copied his father's curiosity. However, if Johnnie's father now said "You can't go swimming because we are going to sit and learn the names of all these shells," Johnnie would feel "pushed" and would probably lose all the enthusiasm he ever had about the shells.

It is better not to formally teach a child his alphabet, numbers, and colors before he begins school. However, if he asks what a certain color is or how to print his name, he should be told. The important thing is that he has initiated the question — not the parent. If the child asks a question that stumps the parent, the answer should be looked up and explained to him in terms that he will understand. This will help to teach him the importance of truth, she concludes.

The American flag that inspired Francis Scott Key to write "The Star-Spangled Banner" in 1814 had 15 stripes and 15 stars, for the original 13 states, Kentucky and Vermont.

Please Eat Breakfast Every Day

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

The importance of getting a good breakfast tucked inside you each morning cannot be overemphasized. Health and beauty both depend to a large extent on this first important meal of the day. Your stomach has been without food for the longest stretch in 24 hours.

People who feel that they can't get breakfast down have a mistaken notion about what breakfast must be. It needn't be bacon and eggs and toast. It needn't be the same thing each morning. In your grandmother's day, it was quite likely to be lamb chops, fried potatoes and apple pie. This was considered filling and indeed, it was.

But if food isn't tempting to you the first thing in the morning, have an egg beaten up in a glass of milk. This is both untritious and fast.

Don't depend on dry cereal day in and day out. Take time to cook cereal now and then. If a bunch of grapes and a soft-boiled egg appeal to you, have them. But get that breakfast down.

If doors drag, tighten screws that hold hinges in place. Or fill screw holes with plastic wood and try again when dry. dry.

Students Featured in Program

College students, home for the holiday vacation period, presented the program when the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of First Baptist Church met for a luncheon Thursday.

Under the direction of Kyle Wilson, the meeting featured special music and messages given by Ethan Rogers, Margaret Kemp, Diana Todd and Mary Ann Briggs, all of Moody Bible Institute; by Fred Ebey of Northwestern University; Carolyn Anderson, of West Suburban School of Nursing; and Alycemae Stephens, of Eastern Michigan College.

Also participating were Peggy Proctor of Wheaton College and David Maher of Central Michigan College. Jill Hicks and Robert Kiteley played piano and organ accompaniments.

Mrs. Nellie Monroe, president of the Society, announced the next meeting will be held Thursday. It will feature a White Cross work session, smorgasbord, and a missionary program.

Water More Drying

Cream Is Better for Dry Skin

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. "Should a person use warm water on a dry skin?"

A. If your skin is very dry I advise you to cleanse it with cleansing cream rather than with soap and water.

Q. "I will be very grateful if you will answer my questions. I am 16 years old, five feet five inches tall and weigh 147 pounds. My measurements are bust 34 inches, waist 27 and hips 40. How much overweight am I, and can I go on a liquid diet?"

A. Even with a large frame you are overweight and should lose 10 to 15 pounds. Unless you have a very heavy frame you could lose much more than that.

However, do not use any special diet. You still are maturing physically and you have quite a bit of weight to lose. Eat a well-balanced diet. You need your milk and cereal and some bread, meat, eggs, fruits and vegetables. However, you can eat more moderate helpings and leave off "seconds," and candy, desserts, gravy, nuts, fried foods, in between meal snacks, cream, soda fountain mixtures and such.

You should lose this weight. If you do not, it might affect your fun because you'll be self-conscious. Also you will be healthier. Take hip-slimming exercises.

Q. "I have hairs on my upper lip and my chin and they are getting longer. They are dark and very embarrassing. You wrote once that the only way to have them removed permanently is by electrolysis. How can I select a good operator?"

A. Many skin specialists have electrolysists in their offices. If not, ask a dermatologist to recommend one to you. If you do not have a skin specialist in your town, call your local hospital and they will direct you. If you have to find one yourself, be sure that he or she is a graduate of a well-qualified school of electrolysis.

Q. "I am 19 years old, 5 feet two inches tall and weigh 102 pounds. Do I need to gain weight? My Measurements are bust 32, waist 22, hips 34 inches.

A. Yes.

Q. "Will oil make hair grow on the face?"

A. No.

Q. "Is ice or ice water good for the complexion? If so, why?"

A. Yes, they promote skin beauty. They tend to contract the pores and in this way lead to a fine textured epidermis.

If your skin is very dry, cleanse it with cleansing cream rather than with soap and water.

A Brush Is Best for Lips

A successful mouth make-up needs a glamorous lipline. Create it with a lipstick brush, says a world-famous make-up expert. Lipsticks themselves are too plump to nicely outline the mouth or improve on natural contours. Use the lip brush with professional cleverness.

With your lipstick filled brush prop your small finger against your chin to steady your hand and give guidance to your brush. Draw on a brilliant outline beginning from the center to the corners or viceversa, whichever way is handier for you.

To turn a tidy corner, open your mouth wide. Fill in the pattern, and carry the color to the inside of both lips. Due to extra moisture lip corners get blotchy unless you blot them with a tissue, even when you use a color lipstick that does not need to set.

Care for Clothes

Whether your clothes are costly or inexpensive, take care of them. Treat them gently. Put them on good padded hangers, mend them and have them cleaned, and avoid the temptation to get just one more wearing from a pastel wool dress.

Mrs. Henry Mackel of Shelby street left by plane this morning for Chicago, following the death of her father, William Gluck, on New Year's Day. She will remain there for a week.

Pet Will Make Place in Your Family

By RUTH MILLETT

From the Humane Society of New York comes a sensible list of questions you should ask yourself before getting your child a pet.

One catch is that any parent who answered the questions realistically and honestly would put off acquiring a pet indefinitely.

Try question one: Will your child accept the responsibility for an animal?

Any parent who answers that question with an unqualified "Yes" doesn't know much about either children or animals.

Almost always, the pet that is going to be Junior's very own soon belongs to either Mama or Papa. Animals love to romp and play with kids, but they're smart enough to know that it takes an adult to get them out of scrapes, minister to them when they are sick, and to make sure feeding time is never skipped.

So usually they give their greatest love and loyalty to an adult in the household.

Next, the prospective owner is asked to consider how the pet would fit into his household.

Make no mistake. In time the pet will take over.

The family may start out with the best intentions for treating the pet like a cat or a dog. But soon it will be treated not just like a member of the family, but like a star boarder.

I've seen cats sitting on the finest furniture in the homes of the most meticulous housekeepers. And our own Sam, a big black Labrador with a graying muzzle and arthritic joints, is getting a heating pad for Christmas to keep him cozy while he sleeps.

Another pointer for those considering a pet is that everyone in the house must want the pet.

ANIMALS KNOW

The pet will take care of the dissenting member of the family. Pets seem to have an uncanny way of knowing which member voted against taking them in, and they don't rest until they've made the dissenter their most loyal champion.

The objector is quickly reduced to explaining sheepishly, "I don't like most dogs, but Spot is different. He's so smart he's almost human."

So my advice is get the pet if you want him, and leave it to him to make his place in the family circle.

LORETTA ZALESKI

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Zaleski of Belleville announce the engagement of their daughter, Loretta, to Lawrence H. DeMino, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor DeMino of Emerson street. Miss Zaleski is a graduate of Michigan State University where she was affiliated with Phi Gamma Nu Sorority and Kappa Delta Pi honorary sorority. Mr. DeMino is attending Michigan State University. A June wedding is planned.

Rich Old Lady Makes Top Phone Operator

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK—At the age of 74, the little lady decided she wanted a job.

Since she didn't know how to do anything—having never been employed before—she went to the Chase School (of telephone switchboard operation) and applied for a course.

Mrs. Chase tried, gently, to discourage her. Didn't she have social security? Or relatives to care for her?

"Honey," said the little lady tolerantly, "I don't need money. My husband is a vice president of American Cyanimide. I live on Park Avenue. I am the greatest little tea-pourer in the country, and I've been working for charity for 50 years. I just thought it would be rather fun to be employed in business, so don't you worry about me."

Mrs. Chase, after pulling up her chin, enrolled the Park Avenue matron. At the end of the month's instruction, she placed her in a large corporation.

"She was an immediate hit," said Mrs. Chase today. "She is one of the most energetic phone operators in town."

The experience taught the founder of the oldest and largest school for switchboard personnel a lesson:

There is no age limit for women wanting to enter business. In fact, more businessmen, at least in New York, prefer to employ "mature women" over 45.

I've had this school for 25 years, and we've trained more than 20,000 women, and in that quarter of a century the change in employers' attitudes has been positively incredible.

"They used to look on switchboard operatoros as low-class clerks, as gum-chewers, as frowzy young girls who were almost—well, call it a necessary evil in a business.

"Today, 80 per cent of our calls for trained operators ask for women over 45. Now businesses want reliable, calm women with strong feelings of responsibility and loyalty.

Sherley Chase has many famous alumnae from her one-month course. Many of them are in television and the theater.

"The reason so many actresses and singers and dancers come to us is that, besides giving them instruction in telephone techniques, we assume a lifetime responsibility for getting them jobs, free of charge.

"We have talented kids who have not quite hit their peak yet. They'll get a TV job, then they'll be sitting out a long period of waiting for the next break. During that period, we get them temporary operators' positions, and they keep eating."

Her school attracts artists, too. like one BFI (Bachelor of Fine Arts) graduate from a West Coast school, who learned switchboard technique as a stepping stone to bigger things. The school managed to place her at the switchboard of a great New York art gallery; today she's vice president, with the job of roving Europe in search of treasures.

With 35,000 companies on Mrs. Chase's "employment accounts" records, she feels reasonably certain of placing all her graduates in jobs that are suitable to their personal interests (religious girls in churches, etc.).

"In fact," she said, "for girls who have romantic inclinations, there is a switchboard at the New York Butchers' Assn. Every girl we have ever placed there has gotten married from that board." She smiled serenely. "Just another little bonus we offer to the resourceful student. . ."

Mamie, Dr. White Named Heart Fund Chairmen

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Dr. Paul Dudley White, heart specialist, are honorary co-chairmen of the 1959 National Heart Fund campaign. They held the posts last year.

The American Heart Assn. and its affiliates will conduct the drive next month. The appointments were announced Thursday by Charles Perry McCormick, Baltimore industrialist and national campaign chairman.

Back in 1900, coal was the source of about 90 per cent of all energy in the U.S. Now the energy generated by coal is only about 30 per cent.

2 More Marines Get Assault Trial

Charge Drill Instructors Abused, Took Money From Recruits

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. (AP)—Two more Marine drill instructors charged with assaulting members of a recruit platoon from Ohio are scheduled for courts-martial sometime in the future at this Marine training bases.

A third instructor was acquitted this week of assaulting two member of the platoon and of soliciting and accepting money from his recruits.

The career Marine received the verdict standing rigidly at attention. Afterwards, he commented: "I think the Marine Corps has been justified. I don't see how the verdict could have been anything else."

Charges against Grant and Sgts. Willard Poss of Augusta, Ga., and Ronald Heller of Miwaukee, Wis., stemmed from complaints of a few parents of the All-Ohio "Steel Valley" Recruit Platoon.

The United States in the 19th Century confirmed the land titles previously granted by the Spanish Crown to the Pueblo Indians in New Mexco.

RECREATION PERIOD? — Definitely not. This Pontiac Motor Division hoist operator is actually utilizing closed circuit television to correctly position the clam type hoist hook before lowering the 1959 body to a chassis on the main assembly line. A 16 mm TV camera (inset) focused on the operator's blind side of the body, projects an image of the far side hook clamping operation onto the monitor shown at left. Completely finished Pontiac bodies arrive at this point on "flat cars" following a continuous track.

Closed Circuit at Pontiac Motor

TV 'Eye' Used in Assembly

The man who hoists 1959 car bodies onto the chassis on Pontiac Motor Division's assembly line finds his job easier nowadays, thanks to the assistance of an extra pair of "eyes."

The extra vision is provided by a closed circuit television hook-up, located on the assembly plants second floor body drop station. The modern industrial application utilizes a 16mm, double lens camera and a 12-inch monitor. Only differences from a home TV set are the absences of sound and channel selector knobs.

Increased efficiency and greater safety are the benefits derived from the TV installation.

As the body rolls off a conveyor on a dolly, the operator positioned next to the TV screen on one side of the body, drops a clam type hook over the assembly. The camera, focused on the opposite side of the body, projects a picture enabling the operator to determine correctly when the hook is safely secured for hoisting. Within seconds after arrival, the body is hoisted from the dolly and "lowered" to the chassis on the main assembly line below.

Both screen and camera can be mounted at any angle or height and the equipment is capable of transmitting a picture up to a distance of 700 feet.

"However," he says, "I'm not subjected to any commercials."

Close Race With Stork Ends Well

HOWELL (UPI) — A Good Samaritan came along to help yesterday when Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Price of Pinckney were expecting their first child.

They had started for the hospital at 2 a.m. The road was icy, and they had driven only a short distance before their car slid off the road.

About two or three hours later a modern Good Samaritan came by in a jeep station wagon equipped with chains and took them to neighbors where they called police and an ambulance for help.

Both were unable to make it. So the Good Samaritan continued the 13-mile journey with the Prices to the hospital in Howell, where they arrived at 10 a.m.

A seven pound-seven ounce girl was born to Mrs. Price at 11:57 a.m. The infant was Mrs. Price's first child and Howell's first baby of 1959.

And the Good Samaritan? He left without giving his name.

'On-to-Alaska' Trip for Boys Starts in July

Edward J. Kuhn, 2295 Lake Angelus Rd., Waterford Township, a social studies teacher at the Hazel Park High School, has set a departure date for his third On-To-Alaska trip for boys, July 9, 1959.

The 8,000 mile journey will include visits to Chicago, Banff, Juneau, the Cascades and Chinook Pass. A third of the cost of the three-week trip, $415-$620, must be earned by each boy going on the trip.

Kuhn said the aim of the trip is educational, and it is a non-profit venture.

India Launches Drive to Exterminate Rats

NEW DELHI (UPI) — India's government has launched a campaign to exterminate the 2.4 billion rats—outnumbering people in this country 7 to 1—which destroy 21 million dollars worth of food grains each year.

The anti-rat campaign is expected to run into trouble in areas where Jainism and similar religious sects forbid the taking of any kind of life.

French Alpine Troops Kill 32 Arab Guerrillas

ALGIERS (UPI) — French Alpine troops killed 32 Arab guerrillas near Azazga, 100 miles east of here, in a battle that began New Year's Eve and continued into New Year's Day, authorities here reported today.

There was no report of French casualties.

Citizen Group Plans Study of Need for Local Colleges

An intensive study of the need for community colleges in six southeast Michigan counties, including Oakland, has been launched by a Citizens Advisory Committee under the leadership of Wayne State University.

Dr. Gerald W. Boicourt, director of community college services at Wayne State University, said that 85 leading figures in business, community planning, education and labor have been appointed to the committee.

He said the advisory committee's goal is twofold — to prepare reports on the community college situation as it now stands in the metropolitan area, and to develop recommendations on how higher education can be made available to the greatest number of people at the lowest cost.

Thomas S. Nurnberger, vice president of the Michigan Bell Telephone Co., has been named general chairman. Dr. Boicourt will direct the committee's overall activities.

The committee's studies, which are expected to take from nine months to a year, in addition to Oakland, will be conducted in Wayne, Macomb, Monroe, Washtinaw and St. Clair counties.

Dr. Boicourt said that Michigan State University, the University of Michigan and the State Department of Public Instruction have pledged their full cooperation in the study.

Sub-committees have been formed under the advisory committee to study six specialized areas — population and enrollments, programs, existing facilities, location of new facilities, financing of new facilities and necessary legislation.

The Citizens Advisory Committee grew out of recommendations made in 1955 to the State Legislature's joint study committee on higher education by Dr. S. V. Martorana, a U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare specialist on community and junior colleges.

Sub-committee chairmen are George A. Jacoby, director of personnel relations, General Motors Corp., population and enrollments; Dr. Herman J. Dunseith, superintendent of the Monroe (Mich.) Public Schools, programs; Mrs. Neil E. Warren, adult education consultant, existing facilities.

Charles A. Blessing, director of the Detroit City Planning Commission, location of new facilities; Malcolm R. Lovell Jr., manager of industrial relations research and analysis for American Motors Corp., finance; Dr. Carroll Munshaw, deputy superintendent of the Wayne County Board of Education, legislation; and Mrs. L. H. Pence, president of the Oakland County School Board Assn., public relations and publicity.

Other Oakland County participants include Charles Cox, director of PTA District 7; C. A. Eldridge, administrative assistant to the Oak Park Schools superintendent; William J. Emerson, secretary of the Oakland County Assn. of School Superintendents.

Charles Jackson, director of adult education for Royal Oak Schools; John Simonds, superintendent of Lamphere public schools; and George Skrubb, director of the Oakland County Planning Commission.

Bride From Waterford Will Live in Missouri

The bride, the former Karen Penelope Rich, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mason W. Rich of 341 Dover Rd., Waterford Township. Mr. and Mrs. Lee F. Wilcox of 522 Second St., Rochester, are the bridegroom's parents.

The couple was married at the First Congregational Church, Pontiac, by the Rev. Karl W. Ostberg at an afternoon ceremony.

The new Mrs. Wilcox selected a floor length gown with a chantilly lace bodice, sabrina neckline, long sleeves and bouffant skirt of tiered lace and tulle over slipper satin. A fingertip veil of silk illusion fell from a seed pearl tiara. She carried a cascade of white roses.

Maid of honor was Sharon Walters of Waterford. Bridesmaids were Darlene Dahl of Pontiac and Janine Rich, sister of the bride. Another sister, Gayle Ann Rich, was flower girl.

Brother of the bridegroom, Jack Wilcox of Rochester, was best man and Karl Severence and Richard Blanchard, both of Rochester, seated the 200 guests.

Reshuffling Slated at Highway Board

LANSING (UPI)—A reshuffling of key personnel in the highway department is expected to be announced today.

Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie said yesterday he will announce the appointment of two chief deputies—one in charge of administration and one in charge of operations.

"The appointments will start a chain reaction," Mackie said. "There are about 15 people involved."

Evening Classes Set at Lawrence Tech

Evening classes at Lawrence Institute of Technology at Northwestern highway and 10-Mile will begin Feb. 16.

James W. Hobson announced that mid-year enrollments will be limited to 70 first-term freshmen in engineering, 100 in the Engineering pre-college classes, and 200 in the Technical Institute Division because of high enrollment.

Deadline for new applicants to the evening division is Jan. 23. Counselors will be available evenings by appointments until classes begin.

Evening students may earn a B.S. degree in engineering or associate engineering degrees. The engineering pre-college classes are for high school graduates lacking required subjects for engineering.

V-SHAPED VICTORY OVER RECESSION IN 1958

Business dropped sharply in first four months, and then snapped back. Personal income fell but little. This time, Wall St. called the turn.

CHAPTER XVI

Angus turned to Ferdy.

"Could anybody have got into the coach while we were away from it?"

"If they did, sir, it was a quick job," said Ferdy. "I got out as soon as I pulled up, and I went inside and had a quick wash, then I walked up and down, giving my legs a stretch, rain or no rain, and then you sent me out some tea and I had it sitting at that table out there under that bit of shelter.

"Apart from the time I was having a wash, sir, I had the Empress in view the whole time. What's more, I was coming out of the building just as you all was going in, and I saw Mr. Holt and Miss Seton and Mr. Tarrant getting off."

"Which means that nobody could have entered the coach without your seeing them," said the admiral.

"They could've crept round, I suppose, sir, and nipped in, but I'm sure I should've seen them."

"Then we'll all go and look inside the farmhouse," said the admiral.

Mr. Holt fell into step beside Angus and spoke a few words inaudible to the others.

"Maybe somebody went back and fetched it out of the coach," he said. "You get jokers, remember, in every pack."

EXPLORES ALL ANGLES

The dispatch case was not in the room, not in the coach, not in the roadway. Angus, after checking statements, movements, and exploring every possibility, spoke regretfully to Lord Lorrimer.

"I'm very sorry, but I'm afraid it can't be found."

"Don't worry," Lord Lorrimer sounded unmoved, "It'll turn up, perhaps. Perhaps you'd better explain to the farmer that the papers have no value, but if the case is brought to him and he sends it on, I'll pay a small reward for its return."

"Shouldn't it be reported to the police?" asked Maurice.

"No. There's no need for that," said Lord Lorrimer. "And I suggest" — He turned to Angus — "that there's nothing to keep us here. The case has gone."

Angus went back to explain the matter to the farmer, and then followed the passengers on to the coach. When they were on their way, Angela came to sit beside him.

"Worried?" she asked.

"A little. I shall have to report it, and it makes another smudge on my career as a courier."

It wasn't your fault."

"No, but it's my responsibility. I may only be a fill-in, but I was growing rather fond of this Empress, and I was looking forward to doing the two journeys — out and back — without a black mark showing anywhere."

Don't take it too seriously. Lionel's all right, but he likes to give the impression that nobody's ever carried such a heavy weight of work before. The papers weren't important, you heard my father say so."

"Important or not, they were part of a passenger's luggage and I'm supposed to deliver the personnel and the packages intact."

'A ROMANCE ABOARD!"

"Stop worrying, and think of something else. Would you say we had a romance aboard?"

"Miss Seton and Holt?"

"Then I'm not imagining it?"

"I don't think so. But don't see too much, it might just be that they're being thrown together."

"And he might have several wives in the States."

"There's no wife on his passport — not that that proves anything. If he did have one, I think he's the type who'd say so. Perhaps —"

There was an interruption. Mrs. Denby-Warre had come, she told them, to make a suggestion about the missing case.

"Only a suggestion," she repeated, taking Angus's seat. "I've been thinking it over, and I'm wondering if it isn't one of those instances of mass hypnotism.

"We got used to seeing Mr. Yule working at his papers, and so today, we imagined that he was still working. It's quite possible, you know."

There was a pause.

"You mean," said Ankela at last, "that the case hasn't been on the coach at all today, and is somewhere else?"

"In Mr. Yule's luggage, most probably. He forgot to bring the dispatch case into the coach with him this morning."

"Well, we haven't long to wait before getting to the hotel," pointed out Angus. "Then we can see if—"

"See? One cannot always see," broke in Mrs. Denby-Warre. "Do you know much about the Occult?"

ENTHUSIASM KINDLED

It being clear that they did not, she favored them with a brief talk an then, her enthusiasm kindled, went bac to her seat to raise the subject with the other passengers.

"What do you make of that?" asked Angela, when she had gone.

"She's wise to stick to lemonade."

"Do you think she believes it all?"

"I've no idea. Is she giving the lecture again in there?"

"I think so. She's fuol of odd ideas."

"Ideas? Her mind's full of cobwebs, she hasn't used it since she left school — and she didn't use it much when she was there. What," he inquired, "made me think that people go on trips like this to see and to learn?"

"That's just your courier blood. You're still lookink depressed."

"I feel depressed. I feel depressed about us. I've got a shaky feeling. A feeling that I'm just dreaming it all."

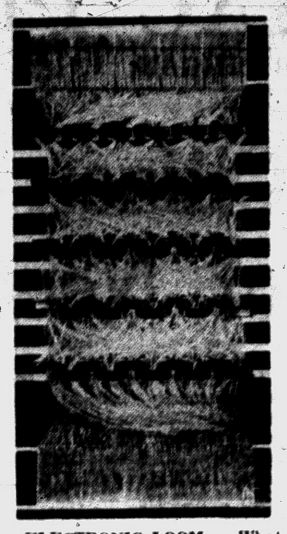

"I've got that feeling too, but it doesn't make me shake. It's a nice feeling. After all, this is a dream, isn't it? Love's young!"

"You begin to shake? You needn't. If you have any fear that you'll wake up and find I've vanished, you can put it out of your mind. You've got me for ever and ever."

Bob Considine Says:

Would You Fly in Plane Piloted by a Drunk?

NEW YORK—It's very easy to die in a car. Just drive this weekend as you wouldn't demand that anybody else drive.

Years ago, just after the war, my wife and I were booked on a small and now extinct Italian airline from Rome to Venice. It was an afternoon flight. We had had luncheon at some good Roman restaurant, with maybe a drink before and certainly a proper wine during.

At plane time, in those primitive days of postwar European aviation, the passengers lugged their own baggage to the edge of a perforated tin strip left over from the time when the field was a fighter base. There was no waiting room, no public address system. The flop-eared DC3 sat there a few yards away from us, but a guard prohibited our boarding it. He was waiting for somebody more important.

Presently, out of a whitewashed shack over whose single door was printed one of the few truly international words, "Bar," emerged the pilot and co-pilot, arm in arm.

We who had a few drinks could not have been more shocked if we had been executives of the WCTU. We had no way of knowing whether the airmen had ventured in that place for a drink or innocently to inquire the way to vespers.

But we had the other passengers, most of whom had wined and dined with enthusiasm, had sudden and vast misgivings about the ability of these two men to handle our vehicle. There were indignant grumblings, especially from a fellow passenger.

We had had five martinis before lunch. But he was sore at the pilots.

As it turned out, we reached Venice in time to lose our baggage. The landing was on a grass strip, and it was brilliant. But I've never forgotten the sight of the two pilots coming out of a shack marked "Bar." It's a terrible thing to suspect that others imbibe.

We had a joker pilot in the CBI theater during the war who unnerved a lot of visiting congressmen by subtly associating himself even with mild alcohol.

His job was jockeying a C46 over The Hump, from the Assam Valley in India to Kumming. The plane was reserved chiefly for visiting VIP characters.

It was a bucket seat job. For the benefit of the young in the audience, if any, the "seats" were strung along facing sides of the cabin, and resembled long rows of shallow wash basins. The wash basins were not for the hands, kiddies, not for the hands. Uncomfortable, too.

STARTED THE SHOW

Anyway, this boy would wait until the distinguished and invariably nervous delegation was seated and its belts buckled before he sent in his disorderly flight engineer and the Chinese boy who had been assigned to him, by order, as his assistant. (The American pilots had an essentially cruel but funny way of turning to their right in the cockpit and saying, incredulously, "Is THAT my co-pilot?" Then he, this particular pilot, would board the plane and walk up the slanting metal aisle, carrying ostensibly a case of beer.

All eyes would be upon him, including eyes glazed a bit by PX bourbon. On the takeoff, always an anxious ambition for levitation in a C46, there would be a moment when (by pre-arrangement, of course) the door between the cockpit and the rest of the cabin would open briefly and the flight engineer, concealed behind the door, would let a solitary empty can of beer roll down the slanted aisle.

Well, sir, with the engines straining and the wicked places just 20 feet below it was very disturbing to sense (however incorrectly) that our hero at the controls had just finished off anything as simple as a can of beer.

He didn't of course. This boy sobered up a lot of our statesmen, USO people, correspondents and others during the war to end all wars that didn't, even though all wars were ended by the previous war to end all wars.

The point of this is that during this long and bloody New Year's holiday, let's try to drive personally as we would want those driving us to drive: More coffee than booze, more wakefulness than weariness.

And a Happy New Year from all of us who worked on INS.

Children Rate Mascot Ahead of Equipment

DELPHI, Ind. (AP) — Fire Chief Fred Swinford had just finished explaining to a group of school children all about the department's shiny trucks and complicated equipment. He asked if there were any questions.

Big Ten Team Rolls Up 429 Ground Yards

California Is Unable to Contain Powerful Iowa Juggernaut

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Dejected California rooters who watched Iowa's stunning 38-12 Rose Bowl victory have this consolation:

Iowa coach Forest Evashevski feels as bad as they do today.

"I'm probably the lousiest feeling winning coach in Rose Bowl history," said Evy, a twinkle in his eyes.

Nursing the flu, Evy got off a sick bed yesterday and watched his explosive Hawkeyes plaster the Pacific Coast Conference standard bearer with the 12th loss in the 13 years of the pact with the Big Ten.

There was a glimmer of hope when, on the third play, Iowa halfback Willie Fleming fumbled and the Bears recovered on the Hawkeye 36. But four plays later, Cal gave up the ball on downs and Iowa promptly marched 68 yards in 10 plays for a touchdown.

Iowa then proceeded to give a shirtsleeved crowd of 98,297 a dazzling ground attack exhibition.

A horde of Hawkeye ballcarriers led by Bob (Jet) Jeter made a shambles of Cal's gutty but outgunned line. Iowa backs rolled up 429 yards on the ground breaking the old bowl mark of 320 set by Illinois against UCLA in the opening game of the PCC-Big Ten pact in 1947.

Lanky and footloose Jeter set two Rose Bowl records himself — one for the longest run from scrimmage (81 yards) and the other for most yardage gained (194).

All America quarterback Randy Duncan and his able understudy, sophomore Mitchell Ogiego, ran the Hawkeye juggernaut to perfection. They passed only enough to keep Cal's defense on edge.

Duncan hit 5 of 7 tosses for 50 yards and one touchdown. Ogiego connected on 4 of 5 for 37 yards.

"That was our strategy — stay on the ground and pass only when necessary," Evashevski said.

"Our basic plan was to run inside and off tackle. We figured they were weak there."

"We all wish we could have played much better," he said, "and I speak for the whole squad — but everyone gave everything he had."

Elliott said scouting reports had warned of the explosive capabilities of the Hawk's backs — Jeter, Willie Fleming, Capt. Don Nocera, Don Horn, Ray Jauch, Kevin Furlong.

"We knew it was coming," Elliott said. "When it came, we did everything we could to adjust to it — even changed our charging. But it's hard to block a freight train."

Evashevski offered this explanation why Cal quarterback Joe Kapp was so successful with his patented split-t option play while marching the Bears 78 yards to a touchdown in the opening minutes of the second half.

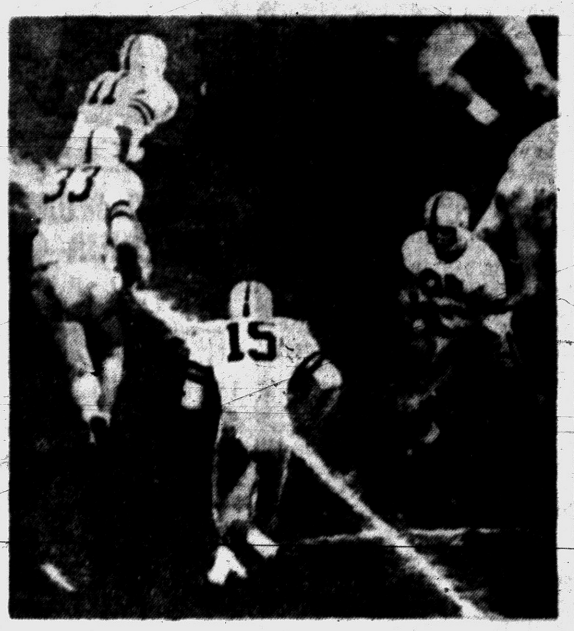

"We had our corner men playing back a bit because we figured they'd be passing a lot," Evy said.

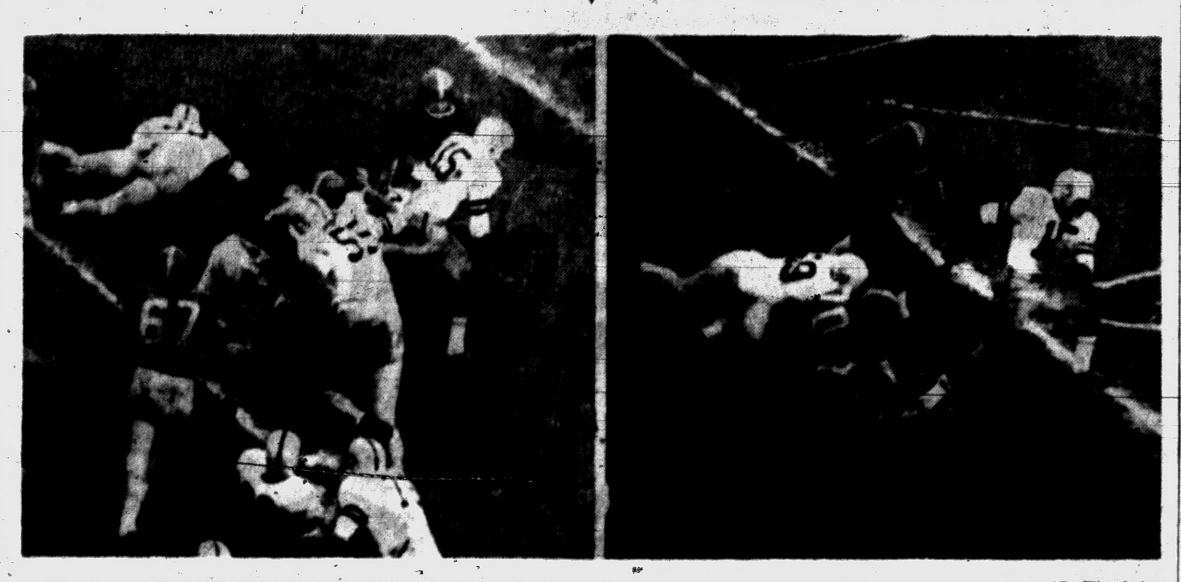

But then when Kapp got the Bears 6 points, Iowa quickly tightened up — and that was that.

Clemson Bottles Up Top Ranked Team

LSU Saved by Fumble, 7-0

But the latest link in the chain was a bone-rattling battle as the national champions won 7-0 in the 25th annual Sugar Bowl over a Clemson team that showed no respect for LSU's press clippings.

All America halfback Billy Cannon — voted Most Valuable Player in the game—tossed a 10-yard pass to end Mickey Mangham for the lone touchdown after LSU pounced on a fumble on the Clemson 12 late in the third quarter.

LSU's string includes a closing 1957 victory over Tulane and 10 regular season triumphs in 1958.

The touchdown in the Sugar Bowl was set up by a straying pass from center as Clemson prepared to kick deep in its own territory.

LSU tackle Duane Leppard recovered the loose ball on the Clemson 11. On third down, LSU scored and Cannon kicked the extra point.

"The ball stuck," Clemson coach Frank Howard told newsmen after the game. "The kid caught a handful of grass and the ball slipped out of his hand."

LSU's explosive offense never got rolling as it has in past games, although the national champion Tigers drove right up to the goal line in the second quarter with fullback J. W. Brodnax fumbling into the end zone as he dove into the line.

The senior fullback said he was hit right after he took the handoff from quarterback Warren Rabb and the ball bounced off his chest.

Rabb broke his right hand on the third play of the game, but it was not discovered until near the end of the half.

The All-Southeastern conference quarterback completed only two of seven passes for 33 yards and was badly off target a number of times.

"We were going to do a lot passing," Rabb said. "Our game plan called for a wide open game."

LSU threw nine times in the first half, but with his best passer injured, coach Paul Dietzel changed plans and the Tigers limited LSU's high powered running game to 114 yards.

TCU-Air Force Fumble Way in 0-0 Deadlock

Dallas Contest Has Plenty of Action but No Victor

That was Texas Christian coach Abe Martin talking, but it could just as well have been Ben Martin, Air Force Academy coach, describing the scoreless tie the two teams played in the Cotton Bowl yesterday before 75,504.

If a nothing-to-nothing tie could ever be called a wild game, this was it. Most of the time it appeared the contestants were playing trainwreck as men collided.

But it was a fine example of futility. TCU lost three of eight fumbles. The Air Force lost three of five. TCU also stole two Falcon passes.

Jack Spikes, the rumbling TCU fullback voted the game's outstanding back, missed field goal attempts from the 35 and 29 yard lines. Spikes, who said his timing was off from lack of hard hitting in practice, was the only one to try to explain the fumbles.

George Pupich of the Air Force missed three from the 12, 24 and 42.

Virtually every deep penetration by each team ended in a field goal attempt, a lost fumble or a stolen pass.

The first period gave an indication of things to come. Sherrill Headrick, a standout guard for TCU, banged into Steve Galios of the Falcons and jarred him loose from the ball. Ramon Armstrong recovered for TCU on the Air Force 23. Three plays later the Southwest Conference champion was on the 28. Spikes tried a field goal with the ball down on the 35, but it was short.

Harry Moreland of Texas Christian thrilled the crowd in the same quarter with the first long run, a 32-yarder around right end that saw him fumble, then recover his own bobble.

In the second period, Galios led the Falcons in 51-yard a drive to a first and 10 on the Horned Frog eight. Three plays later the Air Force was only on the six and Pupich missed a field goal attempt.

Another wild play just before the half saw the Falcons' Rich Mayo throw but Arvie Martin of TCU picked it off and ran 31 yards. Deep in Air Force territory he fumbled. Marshall Harris of TCU picked up the loose ball and ripped to the Falcon 23 as the half ended.

The third period saw Mayo's passing and Galios' running move the Air Force 47 yards to the TCU 12. Mayo hit Tom Jozwiak on the Christian two, but an illegal procedure penalty moved the Falcons back to the 17. Pupich tried another field goal from the 24, but missed again. In the same period he was short with a try from the 42.

Spikes came into his own in the final period, tearing off great chunks of his 108-yard total in 17 carries. He got 17, 14 and 6 yards in the drive, also sparked by a thrilling pass play that gained 37 yards. Marvin Laster passed to Bubba Meyer, who then fumbled and Jimmy Gilmore recovered on the Air Force 35 to keep TCU in possession.

'Lousiest-Feeling' Victor--Evashevski

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — "I'm probably the lousiest-feeling winning coach in Rose Bowl history," said Iowa's Forest Evashevski, who came off a sick bed to watch his powerful Hawkeyes overwhelm the California Bears in the Rose Bowl this sunny afternoon.

Nursing a touch of flu, Evashevski stepped outside the tumultuous Iowa dressing room and met the press in a stuffy room next door.

Sports writers clustered about Evy, and outside the marching Iowa band tramped past singing: "Iowa, Iowa—That's where the tall corn grows."

Rubbing a hand over his fevered brow, Evy said:

"We've been able to hit the home run ball this season. That's the story of our club and this football game, too.

The Hawkeye strategy was this, Evy said: Stay on the ground and pass only when necessary.

"Our basic plan was to run inside and off tackle. We figured they were weak there," said the Iowa coach. And the thundering herd of Iowa backs proved him right.

"In the game movies we exchanged with Pete Elliott we mostly passed from the spread," he said.

Cal got its first touchdown after the half because Iowa changed its defense, Evy said.

"We had our corner men playing back a big because we figured they'd be passing a lot."

But when California quarterback Joe Kapp began clicking with his celebrated keeper play, Evy had the corner men tighten up.

Evashevski, who cleared his bench in the rout, said that Randy Duncan suffered an injured kidney and the team doctor has advised the All-America quarterback to pass up the Hula Bowl in Hawaii. Guard Hugh Drake was slightly injured, Evy said.

The Iowa coach said he didn't know that halfback Bob Jeter set two Rose Bowl records—one for the longest run from scrimmage and the other for most yards gained.

"But, then, I'm not surprised, that boy is a fine football player and he certainly ran well today," he said.

Then pressing his fingers to the bridge of his nose, the tired Iowa coach told the gathering:

Gridder's Dad Dies Suddenly Following Game

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The father of a Syracuse University football player was stricken ill Thursday while returning from the Orange Bowl game and died a few minutes later at his hotel.

Leonard Baker, whose son is end Dave Baker, complained of pains during a bus ride from the football stadium to Miami Beach.

Dr. George Manley, a physician with the Syracuse team, was summoned but Baker died before he could be taken to a hospital, Val Pinchbeck, the team's publicity director, reported.

The cause of death was not immediately available.

Tigers to Honor George Moriarty

Former Umpire Retiring as Detroit Scout, Will Be McHale's Consultant

DETROIT (AP) — Veteran Detroit Tiger scout George Moriarty today was named a consultant to Bengal general manager Johnny McHale.

McHale said Moriarty, who is retiring from active scouting, will be honored at the Tigers' annual press party here Jan. 6.

Moriarty, 72, is credited with signing many of the present Tigers and other players now in the club's farm system. He became a Tiger scout in 1947.

Among players signed by the former major league player and umpire are Harvey Kuenn, Billy Hoeft, Bill Tuttle and Bob Miller.

Moriarty's major league career started in 1903 with the Chicago Cubs. He played for Toledo in 1905 before going to the New York Yankees. He was traded to Detroit in 1909. He became an American League umpire in 1917 and served as Tiger manager for two seasons in 1927 and 1928. He retired as an umpire in 1940.

Famed English Yacht Sceptre Up for Sale

LONDON (AP) — The British yacht Sceptre, well beaten challenger for the Americas Cup last year, Thursday was put up for sale.

An advertisement in the personal column of the London Daily Telegraph invited bids over 15,000 pounds ($42,000).

The yacht was specially built by an 11-member syndicate of wealthy British sportsmen. It was sent to the United States last August to compete for the 107-year-old Americas Cup which never has been won by Britain.

But the Sceptre was trounced 4-0 by the U.S. craft Columbia in the best-of-seven race contest off Newport, R. I.

Ticket Service Set Up

Tiger Agency in Pontiac

DETROIT — The Detroit Tigers have expanded their outstate ticket service to include the city of Pontiac, it was announced today.

Arrangements have been made with Osmun's in downtown Pontiac to accept ticket orders for all American League games at Briggs Stadium.

Bob Steinhelper, ticket promotion manager of the Tigers, said the service to fans of the Pontiac area will be administered by Norman Wachler, manager of Osmun's.

In its capacity as a representative of the Detroit Baseball Company, the Pontiac agency is prepared to accept orders in advance for the Tiger games. As applications are received they will be forwarded direct to the ticket department at Briggs Stadium and the tickets will be promptly dispatched to the agency for distribution to the purchasers. There will be no handling fee involved.

The Pontiac agency is one of 11 set up by the Tigers in an outstate network intended to facilitate purchase of reserved seats for Detroit games by fans from outlying points.

The others are located in London, Ont., Toledo, Ohio, and the following Michigan cities: Flint, Grand Rapids, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Lansing, Mt. Pleasant, Port Huron and Saginaw.

Syracuse Drops 7th Straight NBA Game

By The Associated Press

There's no middle ground for the Syracuse-Nationals in the National Basketball Assn. They're either mighty good or terrible.

In the league's only game last night, the Nats dropped their seventh straight game as rookie Elgin Baylor tapped in a goal for the Lakers with 20 seconds remaining for a 106-105 Minneapolis victory. Before starting their losing string, the Nationals had won seven-in-a-row and before that they had lost eight straight.

The defeat placed the Nats only a half-game ahead of Philadelphia's cellar dwelling Warriors in the Eastern division.

Baylor paced the Lakers with 22 points. But veteran Dolph Schayes of Syracuse was the game's high scorer with 32 points.

TCU, Air Force Schools Receive $175,000 Apiece

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Christian and Air Force Academy each will get a check for approximately $175,000 for playing in the Cotton Bowl Thursday.

Air Force will be able to keep all of its take except that it will pay some $80,000 of the amount as expenses. Thus Air Force will end up with about $95,000 clear money.

Texas Christian will get about $76,500. Under rules of the Southwest Conference, which sponsors the Cotton Bowl game, TCU will keep $50,000 and share in the remainder along with the other conference schools. Each school will get about $16,500.

COSTLY FUMBLE — A controversy was touched off on this LSU fumble in yesterday's Sugar Bowl. LSU won the game, 7-0, on recovery of a Clemson fumble in the third period.

Oklahoma Still King of Miami Bowl Classic

Syracuse Is Handed 21-6 Setback Before 75,281 Fans

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Oklahoma played as well as it could and won; Syracuse didn't play as well as it coul, and lost.

That sums up the reactions of the rival coaches to the Orange Bowl Game yesterday that saw Bud Wilkinson's Sooners turn in a 21-6 victory over Ben Schwartzwalder's boys from Syracuse. It was Oklahoma's fourth straight Orange Bowl triumph under Wilkinson.

The Sooner mentor, who remarked that if the teams played again tomorrow "I wouldn't be surprised if Syracuse beat us," said he was satisfied with the performance of his squad.

Schwartzwalder was anything but happy. While not trying to belittle the Sooners, he said his own team just didn't play good football, and wasn't the club it was at the end of the season.

He also indicated that his athletes learned about Oklahoma speed the hard way. "I couldn't convince the kids Oklahoma was that fast," he said wryly. "They believe it now."

It was Oklahoma speed that was "the difference" in the game played before 75,281 fans. The Sooners scored all three of their touchdowns on long-gaining plays which have become practically traditional with Wilkinson's clubs, the speed of the ball carriers blending with splendid downfield blocking to produce the scores.

Prentice Gautt sprinted around his left end for 42 yards and a touchdown on the second play after Oklahoma got the ball. In the same quarter Brewster Hobby threw a pass to Ross Coyle, who sneaked his way down the field behind great blocking for another score. The play covered 79 yards and set an Orange Bowl record.

The other Oklahoma touchdown came in the third period when Hobby took a Syracuse punt on the dead run at the Syracuse 40 and just kept on going down the sidelines until he crossed the koal.

Except for those payoff forays, the Sooner offense was pretty well contained by the rugged Syracuse athletes, who had been expected to wilt from the 78-degree heat and the torrid pressure applied by the Oklahomans.

AP Wirephoto

TAKES HIGH ROAD — Bobby Boyd (25) Oklahoma quarterback takes the high road as he gains yardage against Syracuse in the Orange Bowl yesterday in Miami. Attempting to stop the Sooner is Dan Fogarty (29) of Syracuse. Oklahoma won, 21-6.

South Touchdown Favorite in Senior Bowl Saturday

In giving Coach Paul Brown's squad the edge, the oddsmakers remembered last weekend's North-South Shrine bowl game at Miami when Buddy Humphrey of Baylor threw three scoring passes to Mississippi State's Billy Stacy.

Humphrey also tossed two other touchdown aerials in the South's 49-20 victory in that game. He was the nation's top collegiate passer this season with 1,316 yards on 112 completions in 195 attempts.

Humphrey also tossed two other Brown's offensive backfield tomorrow and it'll be a big surprise if they don't try to make plenty of yardage through the air.

He plans to start Boston College's Don Allard at quarterback. Allard, first round draft choice of the Washington Redskins, threw for seven touchdowns during the season. He passed for 691 yards.

To spell him is Lee Grosscup of Utah. Grosscup, first draft choice of the New York Giants, led the nation in passing yardage in 1957 with 1,398.

Other backs in the North offensive backfield will be Joe Morrison, Cincinnati; Alan Miller, a Boston College teammate of Allard; and Norm Odyniec, Notre Dame.

Members of the winning team will receive $500 in making their pro debut, each loser $400. The South has won five of the previous nine games.

About 38,000 are expected for the game, which will be nationally televised by NBC with a blackout within a 100-mile radius of Mobile.

Kickoff is at 3 p.m. EST.

Pistons Play 3 Weekend Tilts

The combination of a perfect record against one team and a spotless performance on one floor might lead to the conclusion that the Detroit Pistons will have an easy time tonight when they play the Cincinnati Royals in the first game f a doubleheader in Philadelphia.

But it's just not so, according to Pistons Coach Red Rocha.

"Sure, we've beaten the Royals four times," he declares, "and we've won both games played in Philadelphia this season. But instead of figuring we might have a breeze, I look for a tough game."

Rocha figures that the Royals won't soon forget the mauling they received last time the teams squared off in Detroit (last Friday night) when the Pistons ran up a their biggest margin of victory in history in a 131-91 win.

Tonight's game is the first of three weekend games in as many different NBA cities for the Pistons. They'll return home Saturday to face the New York Knickerbockers at 8:30 p.m. at Olympia and Sunday go to Syracuse.

Silky Sullivan Winds Up 6th at Santa Anita

By The Associated Press

Silky Sullivan, whose slow starts and fast finishes caught the fancy of the racing fans during the early part of last year only to disappoint in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, lost a little more of his luster yesterday at Santa Anita.

Showing nothing, Silky finished sixth in a seven-horse field in a 6½ furlong race. Under Willie Shoemaker, the nation's leading jockey last year, Silky was last at the start, last at the quarter and half-mile poles, fifth in the stretch and was beaten five lengths by the winner, Caronat, who paid $11.20.

Red Officials Have Little Comment

Russians, Americans in 5-5 Hockey Deadlock

NEW YORK (AP)—No one is going to trick these Russians.

Their national hockey team, the same one that finished second to Canada in the world championships last year, made its first visit to the United States last night.

The Russians wound up with a 5-5 tie against the United States national team, the same one that will play in this year's world championships in Prague in March.

How did the Russians feel about the standoff, in view of the fact that they were heavy favorites?

"Ah," said Coach Anatoly Tarasov through an interpreter, "both teams won. It was the sportsmanship that counted."

A scowling gentleman at Tarasov's elbow smiled. Tarasov had given the right answer. The s.g. turned out to be Col. Pavel Korotkov, who carries the title of general manager.

"Wonderful."

Perhaps he had an opinion on the best of the U.S. players.

"All were fine."

Did he think his team had a chance to beat the Canadians for the world championship?"

Was the U.S. improved over the last time he had seen the Yanks in last year's world championship when they finished fifth in a field of eight?

"Oh, yes."

"But definitely."

Maybe the Americans played too rough?

"Certainly not."

Col. Korotkov's smile disappeared.

"At first I didn't think we could skate with them," he observed.

"But by the end of the first period, I knew we could.

"We didn't look too good in that that first period, but the boys made individual mistakes. They weren't team mistakes.

"The Russians definitely are better than we are in position play. They always manage to have a man available and on the spot for a pass. But we are improving. After all, only one of our forward lines has been intact since we've been in training.

New Gold Rush in California

Pro Golfers Tee Off Today in First Round of Los Angeles Open

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Professional golfers start another California gold rush today as they tee off in the first round of the $35,000 Los Angeles Open.

In five tournaments in California and at adjasent Tijuana, Mex., in the next month, a total of $145,000 prize money will be up for grabs.

The 72-hole Los Angeles event has attracted a field of 150 studded with the top names of golf. It is being played over the 7,120-yard, par 71 Rancho municipal course.

First place, to be decided Monday, will be worth $5,300.

Rated at the top are Ken Venturf of San Francisco, who has won aproximately $100,000 in a little more than two years on the tourney trail; Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., who won four tournaments last year; Jay Hebert, New Orleans; Billy Casper, Chula Vista, Calif.; Arnold Palmer, Latrobe, Pa., and Tommy Bolt, Houston, Tex.

Newcomer in TV Debut

NEW YORK (AP) — Fight fans start the new year with a look at something brand new in Denny Moyer, a 19-year-old welterweight from Portland, Ore., who has won all of his 18 pro fights.

Young Moyer, of French-Irish parentage, appears before a network (NBC) television camera for the first time tonight when he boxes sandfaced Gaspar Ortega of Mexicali, Mexico in Madison Square Garden. The 10-round match also will be carried on NBC radio, starting at 10 p.m., (EST).

Rate Spartans, Northwestern and Purdue Tops

Afternoon Play Starts Campaign; MSU Host to Indiana in TV Tilt

By The Associated Press

The Big Ten basketball championship campaign opens Saturday with Northwestern, Michigan State and Purdue generally regarded as the prime favorites.

Each has been defeated only once in preliminary skirmishing, as has Michigan, which won the Motor City Classic this week with a 93-68 rout of Detroit. Illinois has two losses.

All other conference teams have been beaten at least four times.

The evening program sends Iowa (3-5) to Northwestern (7-1), Michigan (6-1) to Purdue (7-1) and Wisconsin (2-6) to Minnesota (3-5).

MSU rates about a 10-point favorite in the TV affair, although the Hoosiers have a decided height advantage with 6-10½ sophomore Walt Bellamy and 6-7 Frank Radovich. But the rebounding of Johnny Green and sophomore Horace Walker and the consistent scoring of veteran Bob Anderegg give the Spartans better and more experienced, balance.

North Carolina State handed MSU its only defeat by taking a 70-61 victory this week in the finals of the Dixie Classic.

Northwestern, led by the 25-point average of Joe Ruklick, twice has scored 102 points and has an explosive 83.5 average. The Wildcats are an 11-point choice against the Hawkeyes.

The veteran Purdue Boilermakers, who have piled up seven straight triumphs since dropping their opener to Kansas State 96-83, figure by about 11 points over Michigan.

Michigan has one of the Big Ten's most sensational sophomores, 6-3 John Tidwell, hub of the Herrin, Ill., state prep champions two years ago. He is averaging 19.1 points a game.

Deny Chisox Sale

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Tribune says a syndicate headed by Bill Veeck has bought controlling interest in the Chicago White Sox but the stock sale officially was denied.

John Rigney, club vice president whose wife, Dorothy, is the majority stockholder, said Thursday night: "It is not true that the sale has been made. Negotiations still are going on."

Roy Egan, Comiskey attorney and a member of the board of directors, also denied completion of the sale.

"If anybody should know it would be me," he said. "completion of such a sale has not been made and I don't know if it ever will be."

Veeck, former head of groups who owned the Cleveland Indians and old St. Louis Browns, declined to comment.

The Tribune said formal announcement is being held up pending further negotiations with Vice President Charles Comiskey, minority stockholder who has been bidding for the shares of his sister, Mrs. Rigney.

"Veeck's long range plans, it was learned, include the liklihood of selling Comiskey Park, home of the White Sox since 1910, and the possibility of playing in Soldier Field or elsewhere," the Tribune added.

Mrs. Grace Comiskey, president of the Sox who died in 1956, bequeathed 500 more shares of stock to her daughter, Mrs. Rigney, than to her son, Charles.

That gave Mrs. Rigney 3,975 shares and her brother a maximum of 3,475 when he reaches the age of 35 in 1961. Some shares were sold for tax purposes and token sales made elsewhere. For the purposes of the sale to Veeck, Mrs. Rigney has 3,235 shares against 2,735 controlled by Chuck.

The brother and sister have been involved in a legal fuss since their mother's death over stock distribution. Chuck steadfastly has maintained he never would see his shares.

Walczyk Stars in State Meet

Keego Has Young Keg Ace

A Keego Harbor teenager turned in a strong performance in the 1st Michigan Junior bowling tourney held recently at Grand Rapids.

Ed Walczyk, 15, finished 15th in the state among several hundred contestants and turned in the 2nd best single game of the event with a 245.

He fired a 550 series competing against boys up to 18 years old even though it was the 1st tournament of any kind the youngster had bowled in.

Spartans Trounce Brown in Hockey Tournament

TROY, N. Y. (AP)—Michigan State crushed Brown 11-3 last night in opening Rensselaer Poly's eighth annual Invitation Hockey tourney.

Michigan State's Spartans, fresh from their victory in the Boston Invitation tourney last week, showed power in their first test of the six-game, three-day round robin.

The Spartans led Brown only 3-2 after the first period, but dumped in two more in the second and exploded for six goals in the final frame.

United Hunts Club Reports 1958 Records

NEW YORK (AP)—New marks were set in steeplechasing, hurdle racing and purse distribution in 1958, the United Hunts Racing Assn. reported today.

During the season $666,630 was distributed in purses at the major tracks, while the total for smaller hunt meets was $118,780.

The eading money winning stable was Mrs. Marion DuPont Scott's Montpelier Farm, of Virginia. Mrs. Scott's jumping horses earned $77,047, slightly ahead of the $76,576 by the stable of Mrs. M. G. Walsh and $74,826 by Mrs. Ogden Phipps. Mrs. Phipps' stable led in 1955-56-57.

15th Ranked Quint Plays in Detroit

Marquette University, ranked among the top 20 basketball teams in the nation this week, will go after its eighth straight win against the University of Detroit Titans Saturday night at the U. of D. Memorial Building.

The Warrioers have won nine out of 10 games, the lone loss being 62-60 to Nebraska. Marquette has beaten Wisconsin, Illinois, and Xavier of Ohio.

Prep Front

By BILL CORNWELL

The old year has gone and a new one is here so it's time for the traditional backward glance along the prep front to take a few post-mortems on 1958.

Oakland County high schools had many notable achievements last year in the world of sports and choosing the top 10 highlights of the 12-month period is a difficult task.

A new Oakland high school was added to the growing list when Pontiac Northern opened its doors in September and joined the Class A ranks. Ferndale moved into its new building in November and Northern was granted Inter-Lakes Conference membership in December.

Individual honors went to West Bloomfield's John Lucadam, county player-of-the-year and all-state Class B quarterback. Next in line came Farmington's Jack Lawing, all-state "A" guard, and Avondale's Bill Jennings, all-state "B" tackle.

Among the numerous other outstanding individual performers were Larry Beamer, Pontiac Central's ace miler who won the state title; Pete Green, Birmingham High golf star; Jack Lyon, St. Frederick's explosive fullback, and Earl McNeal and Leroy Parks, cage greats at Ferndale and Clarkston, respectively.

A milestone was reached in late December when Pontiac Northern defeated West Bloomfield on the basketball court for the school's 1st athletic victory of any kind. Less than a week later the Huskies beat Central in wrestling.

After a considerable bit of study, this writer has picked the following as the 10 leading prep highlights of 1958.

4 — The acceptance of Pontiac Northern into Inter-Lakes membership.

Best wishes for a happy and prosperous 1959.

Moyer in TV Debut Tonight

NEW YORK (AP)—Fight fans start the new year with a look at something brand new in Denny Moyer, a 19-year-old welterweight from Portland, Ore. who has won all of his 18 pro fights.

Young Moyer, of French-Irish parentage, appears before a network (NBC) television camera for the first time tonight when he boxes sadfaced Gaspar Ortega of Mexicali, Mexico, in Madison Square Garden. The 10-round match also will be carried on NBC radio, starting at 10 p.m., (EST).

College Tourneys Still Going in East

Cage Scene Shifts to Leagues

By The Associated Press

College basketball powers set their sights today on conference warfare following the greatest outburst of Christmas week tournament activity in the history of the game.

The hectic week of tournament jousting involved most of the top ten teams in the Associated Press poll and rang up merry tunes on the cash registers. It also served to point up again the talent riches of the Atlantic Coast Conference, especially of North Carolina State, Dixie Classic champions, and North Carolina.

Most of the major tournament and non-tourney holiday action ended Wednesday to permit the short-pants set to celebbrate the New Year in civvies.

But there was some firing on the courts Thursday, including a couple of tourneys in the East.

Bowdoin, beaten in its first eight starts, surprised Rutgers, 67-66, in the first round of the Downeast Classic at Bangor, Maine. Bob Gorra's basket in the last two seconds put Bowdoin in the win column and against Colby in the semifinals tonight. Colby beat Tufts 64-55. The other semifinal matches St. Michael's (Vt.) and Wesleyan.

Williams and Massachusetts moved into tonight's semifinals of the Springfield (Mass.) College Invitational tournament. Williams avenged its only defeat of the seaon by trouncing Harvard, 83-67, and Massachusetts downed winless American International, 59-51. Springfield and Amhurst first round winners Wednesday, play in the other semifinal.

In non-tourney intersection contests, Butler came from a nine point deficit in the first half to nose out Navy 59-58 at Indianapolis, and Ohio State raced away from crippled Brigham Young in the last ten minutes, for a 100-81 victory at Columbus, Ohio, despite sophomore Bob Skousen's 39 point spre for the losing Cougars.

N. C. State's victory in its own Dixie Classic—which had four of the nation's top ten teams in the field — was most impressive.

The Wolfpack, on the prowl once more for the national title, whipped seventh-ranked, previously undefeated Michigan State, 70-61, in the championship contest. To get that far, the fifth-ranked Wolfpack edged Louisville in overtime, 67-61 then topped Cincinnati's second-ranked Bearcats from the unbeaten ranks, 69-60.

Fourth-ranked N. C., which had been beaten by Michigan State, 75-58 in the semifinals, bounced back to nip Cincinnati for third place, 90-88.

To make it all the more delectable for ACC fans, Duke beat Louisville for fifth place, 57-54, and Wake Forest walloped Yale 85-76 for seventh.

It was a major triumph all around. The three-days of afternoon and night doubleheaders at Raleigh, N. C. broke the Dixie Classic record with an attendance total of 73,600. Each of the eight teams received just over $9,000 each.

N. C. State, led by 6-8 John Richter and 5-9 Lou Pucillo, a couple of imports from Philadelphia, won its own Classic for the seventh time in ten years. But this was the first Dixie Classic win for Ev Case's boys in three years. The Wolfpack's record now is 9-1. The lone defeat was on the road to Kansas State, the Big Eight tournament champions.

Beat Bruins, 5-2, to Grab 2nd

Rangers Hottest NHL Team

By The Associated Press

Asking the New York Rangers to catch the Montreal Canadiens or even make a race for the National Hockey League title perhaps is too much. But the Rangers are the hottest team in the circuit today.

With a 5-2 decision over the Boston Bruins last night, the Rangers chalked up their third straight victory and their fifth in their last six games. And for their last eight games, the New Yorkers show five victories, two ties and one defeat.

Last night's triumph, their second in as many nights over the Bruins, boosted the Rangers into undisputed possession of second place. At the same time the Chicago Black Hawks tied the Canadiens 2-2 and moved into a tie with Detroit for third place.

An 80-foot shot by Lou Fontinato, which hopped away from goalie Don Simmons' glove, and two goals by rookie Les Colwill were the big factors in New York's victory.

Fontinato's goal at 14:40 of the first period broke a 1-1 deadlock. Colwill connected with the first Ranger goal at 9:46 of the first period and drove in his second at 8:47 of the finale.

The Canadiens, who have failed to win in their last three starts, held a 2-1 lead going into the final period. But Ron Murphy clicked at 4:09 to deadlock the count. Ab McDonald and Dick Moore did the Montreal scoring, all in the first period. Ted Lindsay got the other Chicago tally late in the opening session.

Central Wrestlers Host Ypsilanti, 7:30

A short holiday season ends tonight for the Pontiac Central wrestlers when they play host to powerful Ypsilanti in a match scheduled for 7:30.

Chief coach Steve Szabo will stage a mat clinic for fans between 7 p.m. and match time to explain the scoring system used, describe the various holds, and other things to look for in wrestling.

Central has a 1-2 record in dual competition and will be a decided underdog on its home mat.

Ypsilanti in an annual leader in the mat sport and this year is no exception. The Ypsi condition dominated the recent big Garden City tourney led by three strong All-State candidates.

All-Americans Had No Holiday

Wisconsin's Milt Bruhn, coach of the Major College All-Stars, predicted his forces will have a battle on their hands.

"I do know this," he said, "that some of the finest players come from the little colleges and there are some mighty fine college players here."

After Thursday's workouts Bruhn praised the work of quarterback Bobby Newman of Washington State and linemen Ed Denk of Cincinnati and Bronko Nagurski of Notre Dame.

Voleny Ashford of Missouri Valley College, coach of the Small College All-Stars, expressed confidence and added: "Since we're the underdogs, we've got nothing to lose and everything to win..."

All-Tourney Quintet Lists Green of MSU

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina State's Dixie Classic winning Wolfpack placed three men on the 10-man all-Classic team selected by 71 newsmen and announced today.

The Wolfpack placed its Mutt and Jeff combination of big John Richter and little Lou Pucillo on the all-star quint along with Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson, Michigan State's Johnny Green and North Carolina's Lee Shaffer.

Another Wolfpack star, George Stepanovich, was placed on the second team along with Don Goldstein of Louisville, Mike Mendanhall of Cincinnati, York Larise of North Carolina, and Horace Walker of Michigan State.

Mutilated Gambler Not Link in Slaying

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A gambler with a severed tongue has no connection with the slaying of Tony Mirabile, says police.

When Robert Womach, 25, was brought to a hospital Thursday with 1½ inches of his tongue cut off, police thought there might be a tie-in between the injury to the Las Vegas, Nev., card dealer and the shooting of Mirabile, wealthy tavern owner with suspected underworld connections.

But Womach told them his tongue was cut off by a woman in Tijuana who robbed him of $60. He refused to give further details.

Half of a Motorcycle Was Better Than None

LOWESTOFT, England (UPI)—Police Constable Anthony D. Thacker, 23, was suspended today pending trial on charges he stole half a motorcycle.

A prosecutor charged that Thacker, a "dead keen" motorcyclist, needed some front parts for his own machine, so he cut the front half from a motorbike and wheeled it home.

Paar Picks Winters to Take Over Show

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Jack Paar, a middle-westerner, tells us he's recommended to NBC that it hire Jonathan Winters, another middle-westerner, to take over his show two nights a week to take some of the pressure off him.

WILSON

"I don't really care who they get, I swear to God," Jack told me, "but I think Johnny's got more talent than any other eight guys around."

It all stemmed from some remarks attributed to Winters in a New York interview. Johnny didn't deny he said them. But he called Jack on Christmas day and said he was sorry.

Paar indicated he understood the circumstances and was forgiving.

Jack had also recommended Johnny Carson and Dick Van Dyke and had indicated that NBC should try to get Ernie Kovacs — although he made it clear he didn't think Ernie would be available now that he's a Hollywood star.

Paar says the present taping set-up (allowing him to work earlier two or three nights a week) won't change his demands that he work less. However, he will go to Paris for a week in April to tape some shows — which'll be sent back by jet to be shown the same day.

Bardot's German rival, Wilson Girl Laya Raki (wife of Ron Randell of "Suzie Wong") announced that she just got her working papers — and was offered three Broadway plays.

There were some strange silences during the strike . . .

Marilyn Monroe kept dignifiedly quiet when she lost her second baby and the whole country felt sorry . . . Ava Gardner and Walter Chiari came and went (from Rome, and on to Hollywood) with Ava gloating that there were no reporters to bother her . . . Quentin Reynolds said "I felt I was living in a vacuum" and Leo McCarey said, "The only good thing about it was there were no critics writing to clobber the bad pictures." But, Lisa Kirk said there was one newspaper delivery boy who kept in practice by throwing a newspaper on a customer's roof every day.

Butler Discounts Adlai, Johnson

Believes Williams Has Good Chance of Being Dem Choice in 1960

LANSING (AP) — While Paul M. Butler, Democratic National chairman, rates high the presidential possibilities of Gov. Williams in 1960, he discounts those of Adlai E. Stevenson and Sen. Lyndon F. Johnson (D-Tex).

At a news conference yesterday, Butler said of Johnson, senate majority leader:

"I take it that Johnson has taken himself out by saying that nobody from Texas or the South could be nominated (by the Democratic National Convention)."

And he said he took Stevenson at his word that the twice defeated presidential aspirant is not a candidate.

"I don't believe he will enter any presidential primaries," he said.

In Lansing for Gov. Williams sixth inaugural, Butler said Williams should be weighed carefully.

"Certainly the delegates will have to look very seriously to his qualities, his vote getting appeal and his tremendous dedication," he said.

"Any man who can be elected governor of a large, populous and progressive state six times in a row, and in a state where Democrats didn't used to be elected very often, is entitled to very serious consideration."

Butler took a gloomy view of the chances of former New York Gov. Averell Harriman, a Williams political ally.

He said Harriman "sort of indicated" he is not going to be a candidate "because of lack of a platform from which to project himself — and because of age I guess."

Butler said Williams' closeness to organized labor would be a source of strength in 1960, rather than a handicap.

the new electric water heater way

GET IT HOT . . . GET A LOT every time. A new electric water heater provides plenty of hot, hot water for showers and all the family's needs. Detroit Edison has a new Super Supply Plan which makes heaters even more efficient and economical.

Here's the convenient, modern way to GET IT HOT . . . GET A LOT for an operating cost as low as $3.88 per month.

Only electric water heaters give you all these important advantages:

- ☒ Efficient—the heat goes into the water
- ☒ Install anywhere—need not be near a chimney
- ☒ Long life—meet Edison's rigid standards
- ☒ Automatic—all the time
- ☒ Fast—new, more efficient heating units
- ☒ Outer shell—cool to the touch all over
- ☒ Edison maintains electrical parts without charge
- ☒ Safe—clean—quiet—modern

Giant Chipper Fells, Grinds Trees to Bits

PORTLAND, Ore — A new machine that gulps slash trees and chews them into chips is bidding to revolutionize road-clearing operations in the Pacific Northwest. The giant chipper, designed by Stan Ehrlich of Portland, has 300 horsepower and can grind trees up to 21 inches in diameter at a rate of 50 feet a minute. The 40-foot-long machine either sprays the chips or piles them for use in fill.

The cost of clearing roads with this machine is about the same as or less than conventional methods of felling, piling, and burning trees. The right of way is left in better condition; clearing operations can be conducted throughout the summer fire season because there is no slash to burn, and right of way can be narrower since spae for piling and burning slash is not needed.

Detroit Fires Lowest Yet

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Fire Department officials said Thursday the Motor City recorded 8,390 fires in 1958. The figure was the lowest since statistics were started in 1928. The 1958 fires claimed 41 lives and caused property damage estimated at $9,035,365.

Montreal Goal of Icebreaker

13 Foreign Ships Still Frozen in Berths Since Early December

MONTREAL (AP)—Department of Transport officials predicted last night that with favorable weather, the husky ice-breaker D'Iberville might break through to Montreal Harbor during the weekend.

But between her and Montreal is a barrier of ice 28 miles long and 20 to 30 feet thick, filling the St. Lawrence River from shore to shore.

And beyond it, frozen to berths in Montreal Harbor, are 13 foreign ships penned there since early December. When the D'Iberville breaks through they are to start the 800 mile voyage to the open Atlantic.

The D'Iberville spent the night at Sorel, about 50 miles downstream. The other ice-breakers, the Ernest LaPointe, N. B. McLean and Montcalm, tied up in Trois-Rivieres, about 80 miles below Montreal.

They are to work in Lake St. Peter today, keeping open channels in the shallow widening of the St. Lawrence upstream from Trois-Rivieres.

She ice-breakers worked a full day yesterday, but during the three previous days operations were curtailed by heavy fog lying over the river. Forecast light snow could hamper work today.

Gene Tierney Will Play Opposite Clifton Webb

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD—A delighted Clifton Webb gave me the news that Gene Tierney returns to motion pictures the first week in February. Gene will play Clifton's wife in "Holiday For Lovers" for 20th Century-Fox. "She played opposite me in 'Laura,' by first important picture for 20th," Clifton said, "and we have always been very good friends."

As I told you previously, Carol Lynley will play one of Clifton's daughters, and Gary Crosby adds to the romantic interest with Henry Levin directing and David Wiesbart as producer.

Speaking of "Laura," it was recently re-released on TV, and most of us had forgotten what a good murder mystery it is and how entertaining.

I hate to dispute a lady, but Ava Gardner HAS been talking to MGM top brass about appearing with Frank Sinatra in "Never So Few," whether she admits it or not! At least, it's Ava's word against Leo, the Lion's. Her former home studio says negotiations have been going on although Ava recently told a reporter, "I know nothing about 'Never So Few.'"

Her last movie under contract to MGM was "The Naked Maja," the Goya story. So MGM can no longer compel La Gardner to make a picture. But they're offering her a mint to team with her ex-Frankie boy—and certainly such a combination would be magic at the box office.

Frances Langford, looking scarcely older than she did in the days when she was in "Hollywood Hotel," with me, was in Chasen's with her husband, Ralph Evinrude, and Mary and Charles Wick. Charlie told me that the "Frances Langford Presents" TV show has been bought by the Rexall Drug Company and will be an all-star one-hour variety show, broadcast in color March 15, over NBC.

Last night Burl Ives left for the West Indies for a month's vacation. While there he'll pick up folk songs of the Caribbean. He comes back for "Let No Man Write My Epitaph." And by the way, isn't Burl the first character actor to be called a star since Wallace Beery?

Jackie Gleason may just as well overcome his personal objections to his daughter Gerry going into show business because those who saw her in the role of the countess in "Song of Norway" at Marymount College will confirm that she is a brilliant talent.

And another bit of news about Keely and Louis, who are breaking every record at the Moulin Rouge. Louis bought an original by Stephen Lord called "Bourbon Street Blues" and he'll produce it in the fall of '59 in his native New Orleans.

Britain Changes Mind, to Build Jet Bombers

LONDON (UPI)—Britain, which recently declared itself out of the warplane business, has reversed its field and started work on a new jet bomber capable of carrying an atomic bomb to any target in the world.

The supply ministry has awarded a 150-million-dollar contract to the four companies which cooperate in producing the new plane, which is to be ready for service by 1964.

The defense ministry said some time ago that Britain would rely in future on guided missiles. The V-class bombers, already in service, were supposed to be the last Britain would build.

Bentley Seeking Curb on Unions

Wants Federal Labor Commission to Regulate Their Expansion

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Alvin M. Bentley (R-Mich) today called for a Federal Labor Commission to regulate the expansion of labor unions.

Bentley said the commission would regulate the expansion of the unions in the same manner as the Federal Trade Commission controls expansions in business and industry.

"I feel that this plan may provide the answer to the threats of Jimmy Hoffa to expand his union into unrelated occupations and industries," Bentley said in a statement.

James R. Hoffa is head of the Teamsters Union. He has drawn sharp criticism for his announced plans to organize policemen and other state and local government workers and to form a federation of all transportation unions.

Bentley said he is preparing legislation to establish the labor commission. He stressed that no effort will be made to break up any unions as they now exist. The bill would limit future union expansion to the same industry or the same craft or occupation, he said.

One Little Boy's Flapping Coat Saves His Life

But Mrs. Frank Zober of Deer Park, N.Y., is thankful her six-year-old son's coattails were flapping Thursday.

The boy, Paul, plunged through a hole in a deep, frozen pond while strolling with a playmate. His coat caught the edge of the ice and held him for 10 minutes in icy water up to his chest.

The other child dashed to a home parents were visiting. The father sprinted to the pond and pulled his chilled son to safety.

Hal Boyle Says:

Overpopulation Plagues World

As a new year dawns in the world after a record American food crop, more and more thoughtful minds turn toward the problem of overpopulation.

From a domestic angle the situation seems to be that we don't have the appetite to eat what we produce.

From an international angle the problem seems partly to be that the food we volunteer doesn't please the peoples' appetite—and they express their discontent by having more and more children.

Both the rich and the poor countries are having the same problem: No matter what thy eat, or don't eat, they produce more children.

The globe is being inundated by a tidal wave of posterity. It is as if people, everywhere, confused by the responsibility of the moment, pass on through their genes the payment of tomorrow.

It is, economically speaking, as if a generation that created inflation in its time also inflated its posterity to water down the individual bill. Who can win in the race to see who has the weakest money and the most poor mouths?

Scientists, like a pack of hounds, bell-tongue in cry after the elusive fox, truth.

They will catch him, too. But not today—tomorrow.

Meanwhile, ordinary people pay the price of ordinary living, chase a smaller fox, stun one another with personal wonder, and live by a personal star they discovered together, the one big star in the sky go lovers ever shared before.

The atomic cloud darkens. The statesmen and diplomats and politicians argue. They frighten each other. They spend more money to build more bombs. The value of the currency is inflated. People brood over their bills and brooding leads to—well, doesn't it?

Farmers in the U.S. came out of the World War II period with a smaller debt than when the war began, contrary to most war trends.

Demand Firms Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP)—Moderate demand firmed up the grain futures market all along the line in early dealings today on the Board of Trade.

Some of the buying in wheat was understood to be by dealers with flour mill connections which traders said may indicate a renewal of fairly broad scale demand. However, most price changes were in small fractions of a cent.

With prices moving steadily ahead, wheat was ⅝ to 1⅜ higher, near the end of the first hour, March $1.96¾; corn ⅜ to ⅞ higher, March old type contract $1.12¾; oats ¼ to ⅜ higher, March 65¾; rye 1 to ¾ higher, March $1.33⅝; soybeans 1¼ to 1⅝ higher, January $2.14¾.

Business Notes

William R. Shaw, CPA, 253 Marblehead Dr., Bloomfield Hills, has been reappointed to the advisory board on the economics of accounting practice of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

SHAW

Shaw, a partner in the Detroit accounting firm of Shaw, Olsen & Dimmer, is also a member of the board of directors of the Michigan Association of CPAs.

The 10-man advisory board advises CPAs on the management of their firms.

Vincent J. McAvoy has been named a vice president of Higbie Manufacturing Co. and general manager of the Avon Tube Division. McAvoy was elected at the recent meeting of the Board of Directors.

The board of directors also re-elected the following officers:

County Engineers Group to Talk at High School

Electrical engineering as a career will be discussed by three members of the Oakland County Chapter of the Society of Professional Engineers Wednesday at the Bloomfield Hills High School school library.

The meeting, sponsored by the Mathematics Club at the school, will begin at 7:30.

Arrest Barry Sullivan for 'Erratic' Driving

The highway patrol said the 46-year-old actor was driving erratically and that a trail of sparks was shooting out from a dragging exhaust pipe. They said he flunked a sobriety test.

Old Words, New Turn

HAMDEN, Conn. (UPI) — After he had driven eight miles on his tricycle, four-year-old Donald Clarkston of North Haven was found exhausted and crying. He told police, "I ran out of gas."

Market Shows Moderate Rise

NEW YORK (AP)—The Stock Market today began 1959 with a moderate rise. Early trading was fairly active.

Gains of most key stocks were fractional. There was a scattering of small losers.

The market was higher from the start. The ticker tape was late very briefly in the early rush then turnover slackened.

The market began the new year at a record peak and progressed further into historic high ground but with no particular buying pressure.

Stocks of sugar companies were mixed in the wake of Cuba's political overturn even while world sugar futures declined sharply in commodity markets. Cuban American sugar was up a point and Vertientes Camaguey rose fractionally. Great Western Sugar dropped a fraction. Guantanamo Sugar eased.

General Dynamics rose a point or so in early dealings then shaded the gain. Ford advanced more than a point.

Automotive stocks were on the upside except for General Motors which eased. U.S. Steel lost about a point and Bethlehem a fraction while Jones & Laughlin gained a bit.

Oakland Offers Diabetes Course

Classes Begin Jan. 13 in Pontiac City Hall for Individual, Family

County residents who have diabetes, and their families, may now enroll in the third courses sponsored by the Oakland County Health Department, Dr. John D. Monroe, health director, announced today.

The five classes, which begin Jan. 13, are intended to provide both the diabetic and his family with a better understanding of the disease, Monroe said.

"It is important that the person who has diabetes cooperate with his physician and accept the responsibility for the prescribed treatment. In no other disease is the education of the patient a more important part of treatment than in diabetes," he added.

The classes, to begin at 1:30 p.m. at the Pontiac office of the Oakland County Department of Health in the Pontiac City Hall, will be taught jointly by Annabel Richard, public health nutritionist and Mrs. Ellen Lippert, public health nurse for the county.

Persons attending the classes must have written approval of their physicians. Registration can be made by phoning the County Health Department.

4 Britons in Balloon Lost Over Atlantic

LONDON (AP)—The time set by four Britons for their balloon crossing of the Atlantic ran out today with still no word of the adventurers.

When the balloon "The Small World" took off from the Canary Islands Dec. 12, the crew of three men and a woman were confident they would make the West Indies by today at the latest.

But nothing has been heard from the balloon's radio for 15 days. The 46-foot silver and black bag has not been sighted since Dec. 14, when a German tanker spotted it 300 miles from the Canaries. Then it still had nearly 3,000 miles to go.

COLONEL JIM SAYS:
My wife like most women likes to serve little fancy dishes and kicks like a steer when I insist on eating good old fashion beef. She says I'm full enough of beef already. That may be so, but I'm not beefing when I say you'll be sorry if you miss this auction sale Saturday and Sunday at 8 p.m. We are overloaded with surplus merchandise and must liquidate. It's inventory time. I'm lazy you know. I'd rather sell it than count it. See you at —

Resolutions?

We all make 'em,
As we should.
And try our best to keep 'em,
That's understood.

And try not to break.
'Cause your hard-earned dollars,
Will be at stake.

If, in the future,
A used car is your plan.
Kick up your heels,
And follow the band.

It'll lead you straight,
As a hunter can shoot.
To the value-packed bargains,
On the big lot at ...

Experts to Give Report to Nation

Top Brass to Evaluate Strength, Weakness on CBS-TV Hour Show

NEW YORK—"Where We Stand II," a full-hour CBS News report to the nation's viewers assessing and comparing the relative positions of the United States and the Soviet Union in the vital areas of arms, economics and education, will be presented as a special broadcast on the CBS television network, Sunday, Jan. 4 from 4 to 5 p.m. The broadcast will evaluate strengths and weaknesses of both countries in these areas and will recapitulate progress made on the various fronts in the cold war during the past year.

The first "Where We Stand," one of the most highly acclaimed programs in broadcast history, was presented as a 90-minute CBS News report in "The Twentieth Century" series on January 5, 1958.

In stating the aim of the original program: John F. Day, director of news, pointed out that the cold war had changed from a question of political advantage to one of naked survival and that there was an overpowering need to inform the nation's viewers exactly "Where We Stand" in comparison to Russia in these vital areas.

In announcing "Where We Stand II," Mr. Day observed that the need for disseminating such information, far from abating, is obviously greater now than at the beginning of the year, with the most critical period in the competition with Russia still to come.

Such questions as what kind of war must we be prepared to fight, are we so prepared, is it likely to involve atomic weapons, and are our defenses good enough, are met head-on by the men most qualified to answer them.

CBS News Correspondent Walter Cronkite will be anchor man for "Where We Stand II." Principal reporter will be CBS News Washington Correspondent Geroge Herman.

Other veteran CBS news correspondents assigned to major roles on the hour-long broadcast are Richard C. Hottelet, CBS News Paris Correspondent David Schoenburn and CBS News Washington correspondents Howard K. Smith and Paul Niven.

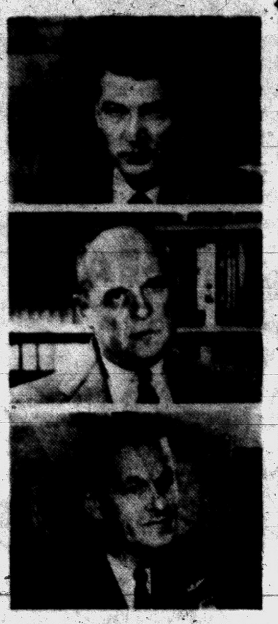

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, former Army Chief of Staff and former Supreme Allied Commander in Korea, will be interviewed by Herman on this country's ability to handle an outbreak of any size; Dr. T. Keith Gleman, Director of the newly formed National Aeronautical and Space Agency, on our present status and future plans with regard to exploration of space; Maj. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, commander of the Air Force Ballistic Missile Division, on United States IRBM and ICBM missile programs; and Rear Admiral John T. Hayward, Assistant Chief of Naval Operations for Research and Development, on atomic submarine warfare and the Navy's Polaris missile.

Sumner Slichter, professor of Economics at Harvard, and Dr. Henry Chauncey, president of the Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N.J. will give their views on various aspects of the cold war. Professor Slichter is regarded as a leading authority on the U.S. economy. Dr. Chauncey, whose company administers College Board exams for admission to major U.S. colleges, recently returned from an official tour of the Russian educational system.

On "Where We Stand II," viewers will see U.S. Air Force Thor missiles coming off a production line, being loaded for shipment to England, and the reaction to their arrival in Britain; the plant where the Thor is manufactured and the complex automative procedure involved in testing and firing this IRBM missile; a pictorial explanation of the Navy's Polaris missile; an animated presentation of the proposal to sink ICBM launching sites below ground; a pictorial report on Aero-flot, Russia's rapidly expanding jet passenger service; and filmed coverage of the Russian and American school systems including interviews with teachers, students and experts.

TOP BRASS—Three of the experts who will discuss U.S.-Soviet competition from the military point of view on Where We Stand II, Tuesday, Dec. 16 on CBS-TV are: top, Maj. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, Commander of the Air Force Ballistic Missile Division; center, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, former Army Chief of Staff and Supreme Allied Commander in Korea; bottom, Rear Adm. John T. Hayward, Assistant Chief of Naval Operations for Research and Development.

Commuters Win London Train Revolt

LONDON (AP) — British commuters, normally a docile, uncomplaining lot, staged their first revolt Thursday night and won.

Indicator boards said the subway train was bound for suburban Dagenham East. Halfway there passengers were ordered to change trains. It had happened many times before.

"No" he cried. "It says on the front of the train Dagenham East and that's where we're going."

There was a little cheer and the revolt spread rapidly. Those who had got out got in again. The orders of subway officials turned to pleading. The commuters sat tight.

Finally the conductor capitulated. The train moved off toward Dagenham East.

Voices End Loneliness

DALLAS — A new deluxe Dallas dog-boarding kennel pipes the sound of human voices through a loud-speaker system to its canine guests to alleviate the loneliness of their $1.75-a-day-minimum quarters.

New Insurance Plan for Korea War Vets

DETROIT (UPI)—The Veterans Administration is offering new life insurance plans to about 45,000 Korean vets in Michigan.

The veterans who now hold nonvertible five-year level term insurance will be able to convert their term insurance to one of six permanent plans of veterans special life insurance.

Lloyd H. Jameson, regional manager in Detroit, said premium rates for veterans special life insurance are generally lower than the rates for World War I and World War II insurance. The new insurance will be issued on a nonparticipating basis, however, meaning no dividends will be payable.

Disc Jockey Paralyzed

FLINT (AP) — Gene Dickey, disc jockey for Flint radio station WBBC, suffered a spine concussion New Year's eve when he slipped on ice after leaving a holiday party. Doctors said Dickey is paralyzed from the neck down. The paralysis may be permanent.

See Halt in Rule Revolt Started by House Liberals

WASHINGTON (AP)—A series of huddles centering around House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) was expected today to stamp out a budding revolt against the power of the House Rules Committee.

The revolt is led by a sizable group of self-styled liberals. The Rules Committee now is dominated by a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats.

The liberals seek to limit the committee's power to bottle up legislation. They would do this either by a change in House rules or by the addition of a liberal Democrat to the committee, now composed of eight Democrats and four Republicans.

Rayburn returned late Thursday from his Texas ranch, where he has been vacationing since Congress adjourned last summer.

He wouldn't comment on the rules proposals, but there were clear signs he would oppose them. He apparently was quietly sizing up the situation and lining up his forces for a showdown at the Democratic caucus next Tuesday morning.

Leaders of the liberal group reported privately that Rayburn already has wooed away much of the support they had counted on. Telephone calls even before Rayburn left Texas, they said, convinced them that the speaker was dead set against changing the rules.

Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. (Mass) has told newsmen he has an agreement with Rayburn which would leave the Rules Committee lineup unchanged. There are two Republican vacancies, and they are slated to go to Reps. Edgar Chenoweth (R-Colo) and Carroll Reece (R-Tenn) if they want them.

If the liberals lose in Tuesday's Democratic caucus, they probably will try again Wednesday when the House convenes formally and adopts rules for the new session.

They are pessimistic about their chances, especially since they concede they have been unable to obtain strong Republican support.

There appeared little likelihood, too, that efforts of some liberals to deny a seat to Dale Alford of Arkansas would succeed. Alford, a professed Democrat, was elected to the House as an independent from the Little Rock district. A leading segregationist, he defeated incumbent Brooks Hays, a Democrat who has followed a moderate approach to integration.

Hays has not contested Alford's election, but a special House committee has recommended that Alford not be seated until there has been a full probe of his write-in campaign. The House will determine next Wednesday whether to allow Alford to take his seat.

Woman to Paint Barn

COLUMBUS, Ind. (AP) — A farmer near here finally agreed to let Mrs. William Menke paint his barn — but he has reservations about it.

The 26-year-old housewife and amateur artist sais she'll paint the barn with "an abstract, whimsical farm scene" and the owner isn't quite sure just what she means.

Were Playing With Dynamite

2 Die, 8 Injured in Blast

SAN CARLOS, Ariz. (AP) — A senseless New Year's Day prank backfired into tragedy when a dynamite explosion killed two persons, hospitalized eight others and splintered a one-room house.

Hinton and his sister, Mrs. Nona Peaches, 17, were killed.

Five of the injured were in critical condition. Several had limbs blown off or so badly mangled they had to be amputated. All were blinded, at least temporarily.

Hospitalized were the dead man's brother, Sam; his wife, Gloria, 26; a sister, Manuelita, 19; Sam Hinton's wife, Frieda, and their unidentified infant child, Norbert Dennis and McGillis Mallow.
