Wreath for Warriors

MONARCH HONORS DEAD — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip yesterday placed a wreath at the base of the Canadian Cross, memorial to Canadian war dead in Arlington Cemetery, Washington. The Queen also placed a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

Queen Starts Royal Whirl at National Gallery of Art

WASHINGTON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II of Britain started a royal whirl around Washington today on a cultural note and eight minutes behind schedule.

The young British monarch was late—without explanation — for the first time in her North American visit as she left the White House for the National Gallery of Art.

She drove there through a steady morning rain to inspect a part of the collection of renowned paintings and sculptural pieces — including a special collection of the work of William Blake, a British painter, engraver and poet.

The Blake exhibition was arranged especially in honor of her visit and in memory of the 200th anniversary of Blake's birth.

This was culture, benevolence and science day for the charming 31-year-old Queen and her husband, Prince Philip, on their state visit to this country, with a glittering event of high society glamor after noon.

It was a swift change of pace from their arrival day yesterday when the accent was on Anglo-American and free world unity.

While Elizabeth was at the gallery, Philip stayed at the White House and received from President Eisenhower a National Geographic Society gold medal.

GIVEN FOR TRIP

The award was for his bringing "to millions a better understanding of our planet and its peoples." It was given mainly in recognition of Philip's 40,000-mile round-the-world trip which took him to many far outposts of the British Empire last year.

He has long had a keen interest in scientific matters.

Elizabeth's next date was at Children's Hospital, a stop set up at the Queen's own request.

The royal couple had another taxing schedule, closely timed to

U.N. Assembly to Hear Charges

Calls Session to Study Claims of Syria, Russia Against Turkey, U.S.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Prodded by Syria and the Soviet Union, the 82-nation U.N. Assembly called an extraordinary session tonight to take up charges the United States and Turkey are about to touch off a Middle East war.

The Soviet Union charged that the United States is masterminding the alleged plot. The Russians said the Turks plan to attack immediately after their elections Oct. 27.

Turkey's U.N. delegate, Seyfullah Esin, termed the Syrian charge fantastic. He said the Soviet accusation was part of a Kremlin campaign to "put the blame for the tense situation in the Middle East on the shoulders of Turkey and the United States."

★ ★ ★

U.S. delegates conferred busily with other delegations, seeking support for a U.N. investigation not only of the Syrian-Soviet charges but also of the U.S.-Turkish contention that Russian arms deliveries to Syria and Soviet maneuvers in the Middle East are the real threat to peace there.

There was widespread hope at the U. N. that a debate on the crisis would give the nations immediately involved a chance to let off steam and would keep the conflict a battle of words.

At home, the Turks and Syrians seemed somewhat less concerned over the situation along their common border than their representatives and allies at the U.N.

The Syrian army was put on the alert, but a spokesman explained that meant only that officers' leaves were canceled. The Syrian Cabinet met for an hour in Damascus and decided general mobilization was not necessary. Arms were distributed to civilian "resistance" groups in centers near the Turkish border.

Turkey delivered a note to the Syrian government denying any military threat and expressing concern over events in Syria. Acting Syrian Foreign Minister Khalil Kallas called the note "interference in our affairs."

Prince Philip Sporty

WASHINGTON (INS)—One of the 2,400 newsmen attending a press reception for Queen Elizabeth yesterday received a query from Prince Philip as to his profession.

"I write sports," he replied.

Phil rocked back on his heels and laughed.

"I guess we fall under that category," he said.

Pontiac High Homecoming Tonight

City Parade Will Feature Bands, Floats

Trek Through Pontiac to Start From Crofoot School at 5:30

The beat of tom-toms and whoops from the crowd in a nature-painted fall atmosphere will be the setting for the opening of "Anteneeban," Pontiac High School's first homecoming festival tonight.

Anteneeban, in the language of the redmen who roamed the area years ago, means fall festival.

Headed by recently elected Chief and Princess of Anteneeban Larry Beamer, PHS track star and Jeanne Johnson, PHS cheerleader, a 1½-hour parade of 14 Indian and football - themed floats and six bands will march to Wisner Stadium to cheer the Pontiac Chiefs on in their gridiron battle with the Saginaw Trojans.

Fourteen 1957 Pontiac convertibles will leave the Crofoot Elementary School field on Huron street at 5:30 p.m. to tow the floats to their destination.

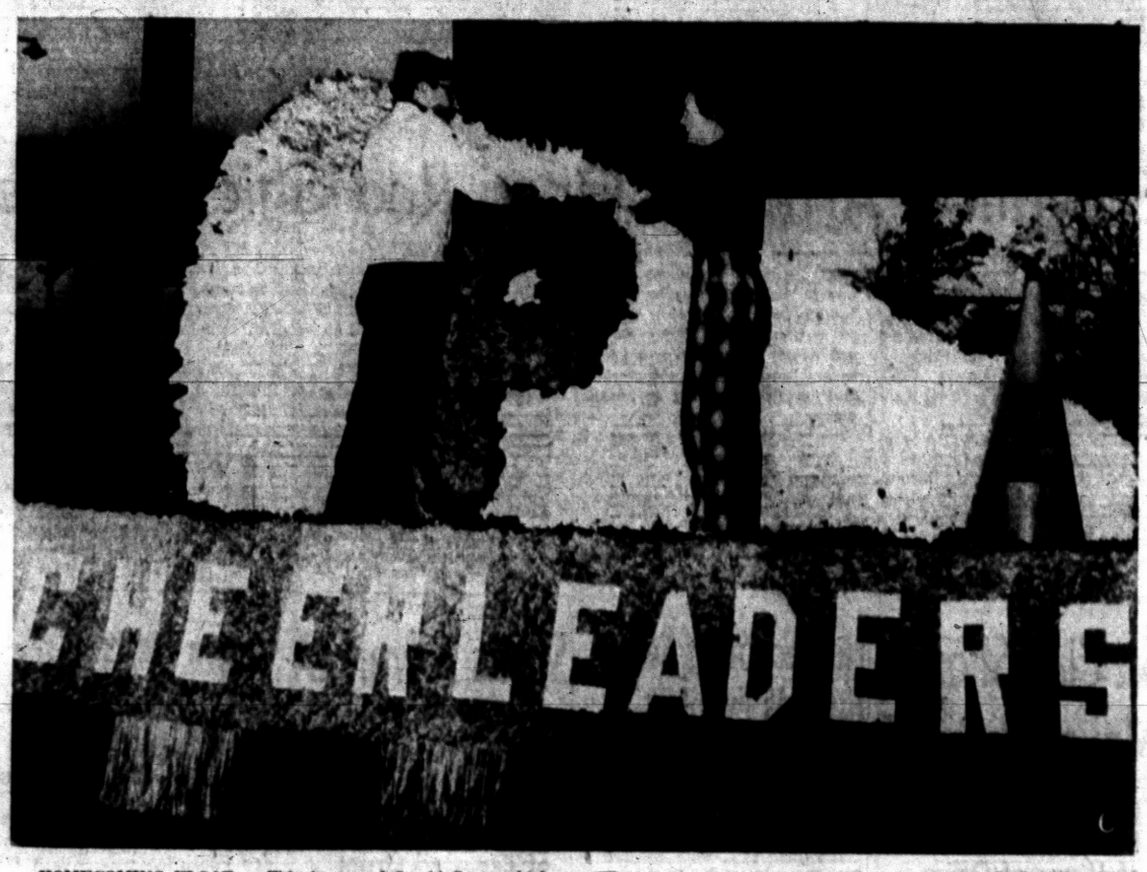

The Pontiac High School band and the bands of the five city junior high schools will participate in the parade.

The National Guard Color Guard of Pontiac, under the direction of Captain A. J. Largent, will lead the parade.

The route of the parade will be down West Huron St. to Saginaw, Saginaw to Oakland Ave. and then into Wisner Stadium.

Three braves who were runners-up in the Chief contest during the all-school election last week will act as the chief's council tonight. They are Gideon Roberge, of

HOMECOMING FLOAT — This is one of the 14 floats which will be in the parade tonight celebrating Pontiac High School's first homecoming festival. Yell leader Sam Hartman, of 831 Glendale Ave., and Cheerleader Jeanne Johnson, of 661 Robinwood Ave., put the finishing touches on the gigantic megaphone for the cheerleaders float. Gas Prices Up to Summer Rate

4 Major Distributors Follow Standard Oil in Rescinding Cuts

Four major gasoline distributors have followed Standard Oil Company in raising gasoline prices to last summer's level.

Increases of 2.9 cents a gallon to dealers were put into effect today by Sinclair Refining Co. and Socony Mobile Oil Co. A similar boost, "to bring prices back to normal," was made by The Texas Co.

★ ★ ★

Speedway Petroleum Corp. announced a 2.9 cent boost yesterday.

Only two major area dealers, Shell and Gulf, today held prices where they had fallen after cuts late last summer.

Independent companies generally were boosting their prices today.

★ ★ ★

The rise in cost to dealers put the price of gasoline to motorists at an average 33.5 cents a gallon for regular and 37.5 for premium.

Lloyd, Dulles Discuss Middle East Problems

WASHINGTON (INS) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles conferred today with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd on the Middle East crisis and made preparations for next week's "Big Two" Anglo-American defense talks.

The two officials met for the second time this week this fournoon for a long, private examination of Russia's threatening attitude toward Turkey and the Western Allies.

Informed sources said that Dulles and Lloyd were concentrating their attention on the Middle East in advance of the meeting next Wednesday between President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

The "Big Two" will discuss mutual U.S.-Britsh moves to counter Russia's lead n the missile and satellite fields.

The customary round of official entertainment for visiting chiefs of state will not occur during the Macmillan visit.

White House News Secretary James C. Hagerty explained that there would be no such functions because both the prime minister and the president look on the meeting as a "working session."

ARRIVES TUESDAY

Macmillan will fly here overnight Tuesday. The conference will continue through Friday.

While diplomatic officials took the line that no sudden emergency prompted the decision to hold a Washington conference immediately, there was no denial that the two government heads and their advisers would be preoccupied with possibly half a dozen current problems of the greatest importance. These are:

1. The state of missiles development in this country as compared with Russian progress.

2. The possibility of tightening British-American cooperation in the development of new weapons, particularly in the atomic field.

3. The Middle East crisis with its ominous overtones of a conflict between the United States and Russia should Turkey and Syria get into a shooting fight.

4. The whole range of deadlocked issues between Russia and the Western powers, including German reunification and disarmament.

5. Russia's propaganda victory with the launching two weeks ago of the first man-made earth satellite and the possible steps which the United States primarily might take for recovering the offensive.

6. Conditions in Eastern Europe, including relations between Russia and its neighboring Communist countries, as well as Yugoslavia's relations with Russia and the Western powers.

G. David Schine Plans to Marry Swedish Beauty

NEW YORK (INS) — G. David Schine, a central figure in the Army-McCarthy hearings of 1954, took out a marriage license today to wed Sweden's Hillevi Rombin, Miss Universe of 1955.

Schine, now 30, once served as an unpaid consultant to the Senate investigations subcommittee then headed by the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis).

His life as a private in the Army — as well as an expert on internal subversion — was one of the key elements of the televised investigation into McCarthy's squabble with Robert T. B. Stevens, then secretary of the Army.

The 24-year-old Miss Rombin, who came to the Miss Universe contest as Miss Sweden of 1955, was described at the time as "the milk-maid type" and was reportedly engaged to an officer in the Royal Swedish Air Force.

Schine is now president of many of the enterprises, including hotels and motion picture interests, owned by his father, J. Meyer Schine. There was no announcement of when the wedding could take place.

Special Gifts Chairman Announces $7,780 From Community National

A donation of $7,780 to the Pontiac Area United Fund from the Community National Bank and its employes was announced today by Special Gifts Division Chairman Howard W. Huttenlocher.

The division is seeking to raise $74,724 toward this year's goal of $612,000.

The advance and special gift "torch lighters" are now calling on the more than 200 Pontiac Area donors who have pledged $100 or more in past campaigns.

"The hard core of advance givers traditionally set the pace for the rest of the community in the solicitation of funds for the 55 health, welfare and recreation and character building agencies supported by our PAUF," stated Huttenlocher.

The bank's check includes a firm gift of $5,370 and $1,960 from its executives and employes.

★ ★ ★

The bank's gift brings the Special Gifts Division total to date to $23,466, which is 30 per cent of its goal, Huttenlocher said.

Date to Be Set After Decision on Receivership

Suit Seeks to Bar Hoffa, Challenges Legality of Convention Election

WASHINGTON — The Teamsters were rebuffed today in an attempt to secure a speedy trial in a case challenging the legality of the Miami Beach Convention that elected James R. Hoffa as union president.

Federal District Judge F. Dickinson Letts refused to set a trial date unless Teamster attorneys would agree to a preliminary injunction which would place the big union in receivership pending a decision in the case.

Union Attorney Thomas X. Dunn said the Teamsters were not willing to agree to such terms. Letts then said it would be "inappropriate" to agree to Dunn's motion to calendar the case for trial at this time.

He added, however, that the motion was being denied "without prejudice to its renewal" when the question of a preliminary injunction has been settled.

A hearing has been scheduled before Letts on Monday on an order to the union to show cause why an injunction should not be issued.

★ ★ ★

Letts may decide the matter quickly. If he issues the injunction, as court attaches think he will do, the union undoubtedly will appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals for a reversal.

WOULD BAR HOFFA

If the requested injunction is issued, Hoffa and other officers elected at the Miami Beach convention would be barred from taking office until the legality of the convention was determined. A receiver or master would be appointed to run the Teamsters.

Meanwhile, labor sources said the AFL-CIO Executive Council may postpone its expected suspension of the Teamsters on corruption charges at a meeting scheduled for next Thursday if the union has been placed under court direction.

Meanwhile, in Biloxi, Miss., Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) said today his committee has information "which, if true, will irrevocably establish the illegality" of Jimmy Hoffa's election as Teamsters Union president.

The chairman of the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee said Hoffa was elected at a rigged convention where "more than 50 per cent — and possibly 75 per cent or more — of the delegates were hand picked, illegally selected and ineligible to serve.

★ ★ ★

In an address prepared for the Mississippi Manufacturers Assn., McClellan also said he expects the next Congress will be offered a bill to make unions subject to anti-monopoly prosecution, and another for a federal right-to-work law.

HOFFA 'CUNNING'

McClellan said Hoffa is potentially more dangerous than his predecessor, Dave Beck, "because he is the more cunning and cruel of the two."

McClellan said his committee will make preliminary recommendations to the Senate in January and indicated they will include measures relating to union pension and welfare funds which he estimated totaled between 25 and 30 billion dollars.

Trooper Vogel Ready for Duty

Discharged Yesterday From Hospital, Injured Man Feels Fine

CLINTON (AP)—The memory of his gun battle with two crazed gunmen was still fresh today, but State Trooper Douglas A. Vogel said he is eager to return to duty.

Vogel was discharged from St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in nearby Ann Arbor yesterday, 17 days after he was shot down by three bullets.

★ ★ ★

"I'm recuperating and feel good," Vogel said in his home here. "I intend to go back to work, but I don't know when the doctor will allow it."

Vogel, who will be 26 a week from tomorrow, was one of three state policemen shot Sept. 30 in a two-state chase after the gunmen. Only he survived.

His comrade, Trooper Dugald A. Pellot, 23, of the Clinton Post, and Indiana Trooper William R. Kellems, 26, of Indianapolis, were killed.

★ ★ ★

One of Vogel's attackers, Ralph W. Taylor, 36, was fatally wounded at a roadblock. The other, Victor W. Whitley, 26, surrendered and faces trial in Indiana.

The trooper was wounded in the stomach, liver, shoulder and left thumb by the three shots that hit him.

One bullet went through his body.

He lives here with his wife, Marilyn, and their four children. A fifth child is expected in December.

"It's real good to come home to a nice quiet house," Vogel said. "There was no homecoming party. I felt fine the last few days and wanted to get home."

★ ★ ★

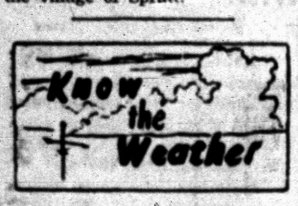

Vogel said that on the day of the shooting he saw Whitley parked in front of a motel near Evans Lake in Lenawee County.

"I wanted to check for ownership," he said. "It was an out of state car and the driver looked kind of young. Then another car pulled up behind. When I went back to check, Taylor pulled a gun. He shot as I struggled for it and he fired at me as I rolled down an embankment."

The gunman sped off and Vogel crawled to his patrol car where he radioed for help.

Do the stars affect our weather? Does the Milky Way, which now extends in a vast curve through the center of the celestial hemisphere from northeast to west, have any influence on the weather?

As far as astronomers now know, the stars have little if anything to do with our weather, but our sun is all-important and actually is the source of all our weather. The stars—and other suns—may have long range bearings on our sun and on our weather but that question is not yet finally resolved.

The sun's heating of the earth's surface is the beginning of all our weather movement, the making of clouds, the rising of warm air, and the making of winds. Without our sun, the earth would be a bleak place, perhaps like the moon or some cold lifeless planet.

The layer of gases surrounding the earth is also necessary for life.

RESALE STORE — Charles Pettit, store manager and Major Ernest Alder, manager of the Salvation Army Men's Social Service Center, 118 W. Lawrence St., prepare for the opening of this huge Red Shield Store, the first portion of a $1.5 million remodeling and building project of the Salvation Army. The resale store opens tomorrow.

Salvation Army to Open Red Shield Store

The first part of a $1.5 million building and remodeling program for the new home of the Salvation Army in Pontiac will be ready for business Saturday morning, according to Major Ernest Alder, manager of the Men's Social Service Center.

A Red Shield Store, located in the building at 118 W. Lawrence St., in which refinished products, reconditioned furniture, household appliances and repaired clothing and shoes will be sold, will open its doors at 9:30 Saturday morning.

All of the merchandise to be sold in the resale portion of the building will have been collected and reconditioned by Salvation Army workers to assist low wage families in purchasing their needs, according to Major Alder.

The complete building is expected to be completed within two months. This will be Pontiac's first Salvation Army Men's Social Service Center.

★ ★ ★

The building was purchased from the Whitfield, Walter & Dawson wholesale grocery firm last year for $180,000. Remodeling expenses of the two story building, 55,000 square feet, is expected to run more than $300,000.

★ ★ ★

Charles Pettit, former manager of the Army's Cast Off Article Department Store for 20 years, 46 W. Pike St., will manage the new Red Shield Store.

The Pike street store will continue business although items sold in this store will not be reconditioned or repaired but are still useful, Alder said.

The hours of the Red Shield Store are 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday. The store will remain open until 8 p.m. on Fridays.

The center will be for the rehabilitation of needy men who seek assistance from the Army. It will contain dormitory, kitchen, recreation and chapel facilities for 55 men. A baling room and several repair shops are included in the building.

The center will be completely self-sustaining from the proceeds of the retail store.

St. Clair Shores Mayor Charged

Grand Jury Petitions for Ouster on Grounds of Misuse of Office

MT. CLEMENS (INS) — The Macomb County graft grand jury yesterday petitioned Gov. Williams to help oust Thomas S. Welsh as mayor of St. Clair Shores.

Welsh was charged with misusing his job as mayor to promote his real estate business.

Grand Juror Timothy C. Quinn accused the 31-year-old, 325-pound mayor with being guilty of misconduct, malfeasance, misfeasance, nonfeasance and willful neglect of duty in office.

Quinn stated, in an 18-page document his jury had uncovered a number of business deals which:

"If we had direct proof would be sufficient to indicate a crime was committed. But we have enough facts to indicate Welsh used his office as mayor to further his own private gains."

The charges against Welsh were based on testimony he received $21,575 from builders and developers who did business in the Shores.

The ouster petition accused Welsh of confusing his roles as mayor and real estate broker "so as to use his public office to make money as a broker." Quinn added:

"I do not feel he should hold a position of public trust any longer."

Welsh denied the charges and labeled them as "an attempt by the attorney general and the grand jury to save face after 11 months of investigation without results."

Welsh, who was jailed for three days last January as part of a 60-day sentence for contempt of the grand jury in refusing to answer questions, added the jury was "in its dying days."

Seeks Advance on State Aid

Waterford Board Acts to Apply for $500,000 of Expected Grant

The Waterford Township Board of Education approved the application for $500,000 advance in state aid at last night's regular monthly meeting.

Superintendent of Schools William Shunck said that this money is part of the $1,765,000 state aid anticipated this year for the Waterford Township school district.

In a financial report presented by Shunck, receipts for July, August and September totaled $750,179 for 1957-8 year as compared with $910,436 for last year.

The drop was due to a reduction in school state aid funds, Shunck said. Last year the local school district received $836,905 from the state as compared to this year's $675,830.

Expenditures so far this year have been $447,730 as compared to last year's expenses of $513,227.

John Kasper Held in Washington Jail

WASHINGTON (AP)—Segregationist John Kasper was held in jail here today awaiting transfer to a federal prison to serve a one-year term for contempt of court.

He was arrested last night by marshals on orders from U. S. Dist. Judge Robert L. Taylor of Knoxville, Tenn.

Taylor found Kasper guilty of contempt in September 1956 on grounds Kasper violated an injunction prohibiting interference with racial integration at the Clinton, Tenn., high school. Kasper had been free on bond since that time pending appeal.

Taylor ordered the arrest yesterday after being formally notified that the Supreme Court had refused to review the conviction.

keep them on the go late into the night.

Garbed in brown, Elizabeth arrived at the gallery in Eisenhower's bubble-top car, with a robe drawn over her knees. She was met under a protective canvas canopy by the gallery director, John Walker.

★ ★ ★

"Isn't this a dreadful day," Walker said. "I must apologize for it."

Elizabeth smiled but didn't agree right out loud, at any rate.

On tap for late afternoon is a garden party at the British Embassy, with champagne, edible knick-knacks and such.

About 2,700 people got invitations. This is to be the biggest, flashiest social event for Her Majesty's four-day visit to Washington.

Last night, the emphasis was on Anglo-American unity and friendship, in toasts exchanged by President Eisenhower and Queen Elizabeth at a dazzling White House dinner.

TOASTS UNITY

Eisenhower portrayed America, British, Canada and the British Commonwealth nations as "marching forward, carrying the flag of unity and cooperation" into a "great successful future that will be ours, that will belong to our children and our grandchildren."

Elizabeth, in reply, asked the assemblage of notables to "drink the health of the President of the United States."

Yesterday was a sort of get acquainted day for the 31-year-old Queen.

From the minute Eisenhower offered her a "warm welcome" on behalf of all Americans, Her Majesty began charming her way into the hearts of officialdom and ordinary folk in Washington.

★ ★ ★

It was that way through the pageantry of a parade along the broad avenues to the White House, in the solemn moments of honoring America's war dead at Arlington National Cemetery, at a reception by the Washington news corps, and at the formal state dinner at the White House.

And at the dinner the Eisenhowers gave in her honor last night, Elizabeth was everything that could be expected of a fairy tale queen—a bejeweled monarch from diamond tiara to the hem of a blue-gray heavy satin gown that complimented the natural roses of her cheeks.

Mrs. Eisenhower wore a becoming "blush pink," in slippers, gloves and full-skirted ball gown, and a diamond necklace and earrings.

Pink carnations, a 13½-foot mirror plateau and dinner plates with rims of pure coin gold adorned the table in the state dining room. Places were set for 95, including high British and American officials and a number of personal friends of the Eisenhowers.

★ ★ ★

The Marine orchestra, in scarlet tunics, provided dinner music. After the roast duckling repast, the guests moved to the famed White House East Room for a musicale. Ambassadors of the British Commonwealth nations joined them.

In advance of the dinner, the Queen and her husband spent an hour in the rain at Arlington Cemetery, placing wreaths of laurel leaves and red and white carnations on the glistening marble tomb of the Unknown Soldier and on the Canadian Cross.

Wilson Denies Blocking 'Moon'

Says Furnas' Statement on Reason for U.S. Lag Based on Ignorance

DETROIT (AP) — Former Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson has denied charges he blocked funds for this country's earth satellite program. He says his critic, Dr. Clifford Furnas, didn't know all the details of the outer space project.

"Furnas just didn't understand where the ball was" when he was assistant secretary of defense for research and development between November 1955 and last January, Wilson said.

Wilson said the Defense Department was "interested in the project but basically it was not the Defense Department's business." He added, "No one close to the project, as far as I know, has said there was a lack of money."

Furnas has blamed shortage of funds for the failure of the United States to beat Soviet Russia with a man-made satellite. And he has blamed the shortage directly on Wilson, who he said regarded the satellite as a "scientific toy."

In an article published in Life magazine this week, Furnas said, "Some officials who now belittle Russia's Sputnik are among those who, in the first place, were not convinced our own satellite program was worth pushing. Had they been so convinced, there is every reason to believe that a U.S. satellite could have been orbiting the earth as early as 1955."

He said lack of interest, rather than lack of money or other factors, was the cause of the United States' failure to win the satellite race.

Stalemate Continues in Little Rock School

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The federal-state conflict over racial integration at Central High School remained in a stalemate today as the seventh week of classes drew to an end.

As they had since Sept. 24, armed soldiers under federal command paced the sidewalks around the massive building where a handful of Negroes pursue their studies among nearly 2,000 white pupils.

Yesterday, a suit aimed at getting the soldiers removed was thrown out.

U.S. Dist. Judge Ronald N. Davies dismissed a petition which asked for a three-judge court to order the troops away.

However, Kenneth Coffelt of Little Rock, the attorney who filed the petition for a member of the segregationist League of Central High Mothers, said an appeal would be made.

Gov. Orval Faubus hinted that the state might enter the case and refile the suit.

The suit asked that the officers be enjoined from policing, occupying or otherwise interfering with Central High School property or operations.

State Parks in Michigan Still Hosting Thousands

LANSING (AP) — Despite the onset of autumn weather, Michigan state parks are playing host to thousands of visitors, the State Conservation Department said today.

More than 16,150,000 persons have visited the 59 state parks and recreation areas this year, compared with 14,850,000 during the same period last year, the department said.

The 115,000 camping permits issued showed a 22 per cent boost over last year, the report said.

With its "Caravelle", built by Sud-Est Aviation, now being tested, France claims to be the only country beside Russia to have a twin-jet to offer the world's commercial airline market.

The Day in Birmingham

'Buy Water From Detroit Cheaper Than Softening'

BIRMINGHAM — City Manager L. R. Gare has told commissioners here that he thinks it will be more economical and satisfactory to purchase the city's entire water supply from Detroit, rather than construct a water softening plant.

★ ★ ★

At present, he explained, there is no uniformity in the hardness of the water used. Some sections have soft water, other sections have hard water. The purchase of the entire supply from Detroit would eliminate this condition.

Gare pointed out that the construction of the plant would cost several hundred thousand dollars, to be financed by bond issue.

He added that he could prepare a formal report for the commission within 30 days. His report would consider cost of purchase as against cost of construction.

"In my opinion, we already have enough facts to indicate that we will save money by purchasing water. However, I would like to prepare a complete study, so that all facts and figures may be clearly understood," Gare said.

A special committee to plan the 37th observance of American Education Week in Birmingham, Nov. 10-16, has been organized under the chairmanship of Walter Piel, principal of Pierce School, and Edwin Crandell, principal of Harlan School.

Other members of the committee are Louise Dallas, president, Birmingham Education Assn.; Richard Featherstone, administrative assistant; Daniel Nesbitt, director of curriculum; Rupert Wells, principal, Pembroke School and Kenneth Wynsema, art specialist for Birmingham Public Schools.

Theme for the 1957 AEW observance is "An Educated People Moves Freedom Forward." Activities of the week, focused on that theme, would serve to call attention to the vital role of education in building and maintaining the American way of life.

Birmingham Village Players open their current season tonight with the first showing of "The Teahouse of the August Moon," starring John Gilray as the American Army officer, Capt. Fisby, stationed in Okinawa.

★ ★ ★

The comedy will run again tomorrow night and next Friday and Saturday at the Village Players Playhouse on Chestnut street. Curtain time is 9 p.m.

Maple Avenue has been officially opened for traffic, after several weeks' widening and repaving program.

North and southbound traffic using Adams Road, now faces the detour situation as the widening and repaving, north from Buckingham to the city limits, gets under way.

Queen Reported as Inviting Ike to Visit Britain

LONDON (AP) — The Daily Express said today that Queen Elizabeth II has invited President Eisenhower to come to London next year and implied that the President has accepted.

★ ★ ★

The newspaper said an announcement is expected during the Queen's stay in Washington.

★ ★ ★

One London event of 1958 will be the dedication of the new American Memorial Chapel in St. Paul's Cathedral, built to honor American servicemen who served in Britain during World War II.

WSU Seeks Funds

DETROIT (AP) — Wayne State University's board of governors has authorized school officials to ask the Legislature for $285,650 needed to accept 50 additional freshmen students in the medical school. At present 75 freshmen are admitted.

Impromptu Songfest Ends Formal Meal

Folksy Note for Royal Fete

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's state dinner for Queen Elizabeth ended in an almost folksy get-together last night when most of the guests joined in an impromptu singing of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Prince Philip and Mrs. Eisenhower sang as loudly as anyone present after the song leader, Fred Waring, interrupted once to tell the gathering of guests, "You sing terribly!"

Neither the President nor Mrs. Eisenhower had anticipated the "ice breaking" incident which resulted in the vocalizing on the familiar "Glory, Glory, Hallelujah" of the Civil War song.

The moment came after 45 minutes of musical entertainment by Waring and his chorus.

★ ★ ★

"Just a minute," said the President when the chorus started taking bows to the applause. "Haven't you forgotten something?" he chided with a smile. "There's supposed to be another number — The Battle Hymn of the Republic. It's on the program."

Waring said the number had been scheduled, but had not been rehearsed.

"But we'll sing it if you'll all sing it with us," he suggested.

After one false start in which Waring interrupted to chide "You all sing terribly," most of the guests joined in singing the stirring song.

Guests contacted immediately after the dinner were unable to say if the Queen or the President joined in any part of the song.

Marie Wilson Gives Up Baby

Three-Month-Old Girl Returned to Her Mother by Tearful Actress

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actress Marie Wilson, her cheeks wet with tears, reluctantly gave up her baby to the child's natural mother.

The unwed mother, pretty Linda Leabow, a 21-year-old UCLA coed, took a long look at her daughter yesterday and said softly: "Ah, baby—I love you."

Miss Wilson and her husband, television producer Bob Fallon, turned over 3½-month-old Christine at a doctor's office shortly after they decided not to fight to retain custody of the child.

The Fallons and Miss Leabow did not meet. The physician, Dr. Gilbert Jorgensen, took the baby from Miss Wilson's arms in one room, then placed her in the arms of Miss Leabow, waiting in an adjoining room.

★ ★ ★

Earlier, the Fallons issued a statement saying that they believed "further airing of this incident in court would only make a legal football out of an innocent baby and cause further grief to everyone concerned." They had been caring for the little girl — planning to adopt her—since shortly after her birth.

The mother had agreed before the child was born to give the Fallons custody, but she later changed her mind and said she would fight any adoption attempt.

★ ★ ★

After Christine had been turned over to her mother, Miss Wilson and Fallon returned to their Hollywood Hills home and to their previously adopted son, Gregson, 2.

"We still want more children," Fallon said.

Check Your Puzzle Solution Here

The following are the correct answers and explanations for the Pot-O-Gold puzzle that appeared in last week's Pontiac Press.

A. (2) PARSONAGE. Because the rowdies may not recognize a personage as such, it is better to choose PARSONAGE. Even rowdies can be expected to recognize a parson's residence when they see one, and might quiet down in its vicinity.

B. (3) MONUMENT. The Bill of Rights is a great democratic Document, or paper. It "could be called" a MONUMENT, a memorable, enduring work in the cause of democracy.

C. (6) PRESENCE. An effective prescience would be a foreknowledge of events that even a fortune teller could not legitimately lay claim to. An effective PRESENCE, or personal dignity would enable him to come through his work and problems quite well. Even his customers realize that he is predicting by intuition and guesswork.

D. (7) INTERPOLATE. A U.N. translator is obliged to interpret as exactly as he knows how, even if doing so condemns the speaker by the speaker's own errors or intent. However, he would not INTERPOLATE, or insert new matter into his translation.

E. (9) MINATORY. When explicitly MINATORY, a sign would emphatically state a penalty, such as a fine or prosecution for a violation. When monitory, it expresses only a warning (as, dangerous curve ahead), which careless drivers are more likely to ignore than a genuine threat.

F. (11) TIRESOME. A toilsome job is TIRESOME anyway; but not all jobs are toilsome. An uninspiring easy job is TIRESOME, causing weariness and boredom for sure. It's the dislike of the job that makes it TIRESOME. Physical exertion would make it toilsome, laborious.

G. (13) AGGREGATION. In reviewing the pupil's shortcomings, the teacher would consider all of them, as a combined whole, so as to arrive at the best solution. She would not "naturally" speak of them as an aggravation, something increasingly irritating. This would not pertain to the point of the conference with the mother so well.

H. (15) ELEMENT. Proper food is decidedly the ELEMENT of a professional dietitian, just as the sea is the ELEMENT of a sailor. The ailment of a dietitian would be the food he eats himself. He may not be on a diet; though when operating in his ELEMENT he puts others on a diet, or directs their eating programs to benefit their health.

I. (17) ROISTEROUS. Because revelry denotes merrymaking, ROISTEROUS is chosen. Boisterous is properly "loud, noisy, or tumultuous," with some reference to jollity. ROISTEROUS, having to do with roistering, or loud merrymaking, suits better. The jollity may be incidental with the word boisterous, or even missing; but the revelry is inherent in the word ROISTEROUS.

J. (20) CENSOR. A CENSOR has the ability to delete portions of the film. He will do so and remove the elements that might have insured a risque film's success. Censure, on the other hand, is condemnation with the power to delete or cut the film. Censure quite frequently adds to the interest for certain portions of the public, and this helps sell the fim.

K. (22) QUIXOTIC. Being the plans of an idealist, they are sure to be idealistic, and may prove to be impractical. This would mean they are QUIXOTIC. To be chaotic, the plans would have to be wildly confused, and therefore, not really worthy of the term "plans."

L. (24) PUZZLED. PUZZLED is better because it more accurately describes the feeling of a person groping in an unaccustomed medium, such as self-expression. He could feel muzzled or gagged only if he were denied this self-expression.

M. (25) HOTEL. The word "generally" points to HOTEL. A tourist, generally, would mean any kind and HOTEL suits better, since railway, motor, steamship, etc., tourists may go to HOTELS. Motor tourists are the usual candidates for motels.

N. (28) PROVISION wins. It was not prevision (a glimpse of the future) that made the Pilgrim Fathers move. It was their past troubles. So PROVISION, is the better idea. They did make the best PROVISION they could for their trip and for insuring their survival in the new world.

O. (29) COMMINATION. The COMMINATION, or threat, of a powerful united front would stop a blustering rebel. The blusterer is a threatener himself, and could be stopped by a real threat. The combination of a united front actually would mean the united front combined with something else. Nothing else was mentioned, so this wouldn't make good sense.

P. (32) VAPOROUS. Though the hero may be genuine, and his exploits extremely heroic, he is still very likely to give a VAPOROUS (fanciful and vain) impression. This is almost inevitable when one speaks of one's own great deeds, even though they were most valorous.

Q. (33) QUERY. The handling of the quarry or object of attack, in this case the defendant, would go on throughout the trial. It is more likely that a particular QUERY, the key question, in a critical period of the trial, can be a "turning point." In another sense, a quarry is a hunted person. The prisoner at the bar is already captured, of course.

R. (35) DULL. Whether Mrs. A. spent a complete or full day in work is beside the point. She did put in a day working, and since there is nothing of keen interest about one's household accounts, her day was tedious or DULL.

S. (37) GOUGE. To GOUGE is to swindle and that is a confidence man's aim. To gauge is to measure. He may well measure the worth and caliber of victims, but he certainly would like to GOUGE them thoroughly (take them for all they've got), as opposed to merely finding out how much they've got.

T. (40) CONCUR. The implication is that some agreement has been reached, and in spite of this, small differences may remain. When allied nations conquer, it is a great understatement to say that there are likely to be differences to iron out. There are not only differences but great problems awaiting settlement.

On How Country Should Be Run

Educated People Respect Average Man's Opinion

ANN ARBOR—The more you've gone to school, the greater the chances you feel that the man in the street should have his fair share in saying how the country should be run.

This is one of the findings of the Detroit Area Study (DAS) of The University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research and Department of Sociology.

ASKED VIEWS

When DAS interviewers asked a random sample of Oakland, Macomb, and Wayne County residents their views on giving better informed persons more say than the average man about how the country is run, they found about six in ten felt better informed persons should have more to say about government than others.

There was very little difference in how Republicans and Democrats felt about this question. But those who finished their formal schooling by the 11th grade were more likely to feel that better informed persons should have more say about government than the average man.

When asked to name the most important problem facing the country today, Republicans were more likely than Democrats to believe that political problems were of crucial importance. Among Northern high school graduates, one-fourth the Republicans felt the most important future problem facing the nation was political, compared to only one-eighth the Democrats.

★ ★ ★

Northern Democrats, on the other hand, were more likely to mention economic problems as being of primary importance. Southern Democrats indicated they were more concerned with the racial problem than either economic or political matters.

"The large number of Negroes among Southern Democrats in Detroit is a basic factor in this relationship," explains DAS Director Harry Sharp.

Participants in the DAS study were also asked their attitude toward giving a lot of help to people who are having a hard time. Six out 10 respondents said help should not be given to people having a hard time because "many of them may get to thinking they have help coming to them regularly."

★ ★ ★

Northern Democrats, however, were more likely to feel that help should be given to people having a hard time than were Republicans. Southern Democrats shared many of the competitive attitudes held by Republicans.

Sputnik Shakes U.S. Workings

Turnover Seen in U.S. Information Department Shows 'Moon's' Force

By ED CREAGH
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — What has the United States done to knock down Sputnik — in a propaganda sense, that is?

As of today, two weeks after the Russians launched their little ball into space, the U.S. government has announced one affirmative action: it has shaken up its own information (or propaganda, if you don't object the word) machinery.

★ ★ ★

Out goes Arthur Larson as head of the U.S. Information Agency, the outfit which has the job of telling this country's story overseas. Larson becomes a special assistant to President Eisenhower for "special projects" in the propaganda field. The White House says he'll deal with — "among other things" — the satellite's impact on world opinion.

Into Larson's job goes career diplomat George V. Allen, who has held pretty much the same job before. He is not to be confused with George E. Allen, who used to play poker with President Truman and now plays golf with President Eisenhower.

What about Larson? Does his new job revive the cold war planning, or psychological warfare, office which the White House maintained earlier in the Eisenhower administration? "Partly," says presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty. This isn't too informative since it never has been made clear what such former cold war planners as Nelson Rockefeller and C. D. Jackson were planning.

If this country has in mind any scientific achievement which would eclipse the satellite — as a propaganda stunt, whatever the military or scientific value — the public hasn't been told of it.

So, from that standpoint, shifting information chiefs around is like firing a baseball manager because you didn't buy him any good players.

But it would be nice if we had a supersatellite or some sort of scientific gizmo to take the spotlight off Sputnik. Any ideas?

John Jacob Astor's Wife Given Divorce

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Mrs. Gertrude Astor received a final decree yesterday divorcing her from John Jacob Astor III, whose 1954 Mexican divorce wasn't recognized.

Circuit Judge Culver Smith granted the decree and recognized a separate agreement of both parties for support of an 8-year-old daughter, Mary Jacqueline.

The couple married in 1944 and separated in 1953. Astor wed Dolores Fullman of Miami after obtaining the Mexican divorce. A New York State Supreme Court ruling of 1956 denied recognition to the Mexican divorce because neither party lived in Mexico at the time it was granted.

★ ★ ★

Astor is reported to be paying Gertrude $3,000 a month and Dolores, who filed a separate maintenance suit this year, $1,000 a month.

Falls Into Pit, Drowns

STANLEY, Kan. (AP)—Four-year-old Kenneth Ingle slid headfirst into a hole dug for a utility pole and drowned in 21 inches of water yesterday. The body was found by his father, Oliver Ingle, who saw the child's tricycle and wagon near the hole.

More Money Needed for U.N. Police Force

Worsening conditions in the Middle East draw attention to the role of the U.N. Emergency Force now patrolling the Gaza area.

Organized in November, 1956, and under command of Gen. E. L. M. BURNS, the 540 lightly armed men from nine countries have prevented disorders and raids. Israel or Egypt could easily wipe out this force if they wanted to. But neither wants the stigma of firing on U.N. troops.

★ ★ ★

The UNEF was financed by an Assembly resolution authorizing Secretary General HAMMARSKJOLD to spend $10 million. This sum was to be contributed by members and the Secretary also was authorized to take money from the U.N. working capital if necessary. Only $6 million was contributed and the costs may run many times higher than the original $10 million if conditions in the Middle East continue threatening.

★ ★ ★

Secretary General HAMMARSKJOLD suggested that UNEF contributions be in the same proportion as U.N. general expenses. Only Russia and her satellites and friends objected.

While the Emergency Force bears little resemblance to the international police force originally contemplated, the plan stemming from the suggestion of former Canadian Foreign Minister PEARSON, has prevented outbreaks and bloodshed in the Suez area. For his efforts Mr. PEARSON has received the 1957 Nobel Peace Prize.

★ ★ ★

One day of all-out war would cost much more than one year's maintenance for the UNEF. Surely there should be no question over investing money in the cause of peace.

Many Berliners Lose in Currency Exchange

The contrast between West and East Germany was never more apparent than in the currency exchange effected this week.

In a surprise move East Germany's Premier GROTEWOHL gave the people 14 hours to turn in their old marks for new ones—only 300 ($18) to a customer. Anything over this amount was credited to the exchanger's bank account but he will have to prove the money was not gained through "speculation."

★ ★ ★

Western experts estimate that East Germans lost $4 million. The border was sealed off during the exchange so that West Berliners — business men and brokers — lost the total amount of their East German marks said to be about $5 million.

By law East Germans were required to keep all money over 300 marks in banks. Because of distrust of government or as a nest egg to flee to the west, thousands had secret hoards. Their savings were wiped out.

★ ★ ★

This maneuver shows the economic weakness of East Germany as opposed to West Germany, the most prosperous country in Europe. It will be surprising if the flow of refugees from East to West Germany isn't stepped up by this fraudulent currency reform.

Population in U.S. Continues to Grow

Recent population figures from the United States Census Bureau indicate a steady rise over the last seven years. Total figures, including our armed forces overseas, set the United States population at 171,790,000.

★ ★ ★

This figure represents a rise of 20,657,000, or 13.7 per cent, since the 1950 census. In the last year the gain has been 3,053,000, or 1.8 per cent over the estimated population a year ago.

Looking at the population figures from a business standpoint, they certainly indicate faith in this country's continued prosperity.

This growth is spread over the entire country, but Pontiac and this area will get its share. Services in particular should look to the future and be prepared.

More people will mean more business. We should all evaluate our present status and plan ahead.

"Ach, I Feel Conspicuous"

David Lawrence Says:

Queen's Visit Comes at Apt Time

LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — "The boast of heraldry, the pomp of power . . . awaits alike the inevitable hour" —these lines of Thomas Gray in his famous elegy came to mind as the nation's capital welcomes the Queen of the British Commonwealth. For, however much the ceremonies and celebrations here are a dramatic tribute to the steadfastness of Anglo-American relations, the fact remains that these are symbols of yesterday's world.

It is the world of today and tomorrow that gives concern to an anxious America and an anxious Britain.

Even as the Queen was saluting the colonial heritage of our country at Jamestown, (Va.), the secretary of state of the United States was issuing a warning to the rulers of the Soviet Union that, if Turkey is attacked, there will be retaliation by American military forces.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Dulles likened the situation to the period just before the Korean War broke out in 1950. But just before that event there were no such warnings. Instead, there was an ill-advised declaration that America considered Korea as outside of the "defense perimeter" of the United States.

Maybe the stern words of Secretary Dulles are necessary to prevent a local war into which the rest of the world subsequently might be drawn.

BLUFFING AGAIN?

Maybe the cynical attitude of some observers here that Mr. Dulles is bluffing and is engaging in a game of what they call "brinkmanship" can encourage miscalculation by Moscow, just as the Nazis miscalculated when they assumed in 1939 that America would never enter the war. Maybe also the Soviet Union is just bold enough to follow up the recent dispatch of Egyptian troops to Syria with a maneuver which will turn the Arab world against Israel and start a fresh blaze in the Middle East.

This is the realism that confronts the world as the Queen's visit affords a good opportunity to cement America's relations with Britain, which were impaired during the Suez crisis of a year ago.

But in the background is another psychological force of tremendous proportions. It is the force of Russia's spectacular stunt in releasing a "satellite" that goes spinning around the earth. The reaction in America has been one of hurt pride at being beaten and also of grave fear of the portent of the Russian feat.

The hurt pride may be assuaged in the coming months as American scientists launch a satellite of their own. But the fear of the Soviet rulers and what they may capriciously do to disturb world peace will remain. Secretary Dulles showed himself to be very courageous when he lashed out at the Soviet rulers in his press conference Wednesday.

Declaring that they quibble and equivocate and do not keep their agreements, he doubted that anything might be accomplished by more meetings "at the summit" or between Marshal Zhukov and President Eisenhower. He seemed to discourage any idea that something constructive now could come out of disarmament talks or from such four-hour conferences as he had with Foreign Minister Gromyko last Saturday.

BLEAK PROSPECT

It's a bleak prospect for tomorrow's world—a continuance of the tension that has prevailed for several years and a virtual certainty now that tax reduction for the American taxpayer will be abandoned as more and more billions have to be spent for armament.

For the United States has not been bluffed into submission and surrender, though, to be sure, since the "Sputnik" episode, it is discouraging to note that the cries for "peaceful co-existence" seem to be finding more favor with certain sections of American opinion which have always wanted to do business with the Communists.

The cold truth is that the world has cause for anxiety and worry. The Queen's visit is helpful because it brings two friendly peoples closer together. But it is the alliance and combination of the technical, the scientific, the military and the moral forces of the entire free world which now must be consummated if an effective "balance of power" to keep the peace is to be achieved.

Statesmanship — which doesn't mean narrow partisanship in foreign affairs such as so many of the self-styled spokesmen on the Democratic side are exhibiting—is an acute need. Maybe it is a time for a coalition conference of the sensible leaders of both parties.

Dr. William Brady Says:

How Clean Is Restaurant That Omits Soap, Towel?

At what point does washing the hands cease to be a sanitary precaution and become a compulsion neurosis or an obsession?

DR. BRADY

Do you always wash your hands before you eat? What sort of facilities for handwashing does the restaurant you patronize provide for customers and employes? Does the health department police eating places?

From the conditions one sees when touring, it would seem that there are very few cranks about cleanliness. Typical of the facilities for cleanliness is a placard displayed in one rest room: "Common decency and State Law require that you wash your hands before you leave this room to resume work." The room had a water faucet but no soap and no towel.

But then, a great many misguided Americans patronize eating places that have no facilities for washing the hands. Such disregard for cleanliness disturbs patrons no more than do flies buzzing about and sharing the food.

For cleaning the hands, plain soap, not any special or "antiseptic" kind, and running water, are the best in any circumstances.

The successful surgeon Dr. A. L. Beahan's soap and water cleanliness was 50 years ahead of his time. Such asepsis (germ-free condition) is the ideal environment which all surgeons, physicians and obstetricians strive for today.

Dr. Beahan was a pioneer. Like Oliver Wendell Holmes, he put new knowledge into practice regardless of criticism by his contemporaries.

It was standard practice in Dr. Beahan's day to use, in the delivery, operating room or ward (where patients with infectious or "contagious" disease were treated), such dangerous "germicidal" agents as carbolic acid, mercury bichloride (corrosive sublimate), oxalic acid and permanganate of potash—not to mention less lethal agents as tincture of iodine and hydrogen peroxide.

The mere presence and customary use of these agents undoubtedly planted in the mind of the medical student, intern, pupil nurse, as well as that of the observant patient the idea that soap and water washing didn't matter so much if one used a "powerful" antiseptic.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Gives Advice to Childless Couples

Opal wanted a baby. It became an obsession with her, as it does with thousands of other wives. For nine years she and her husband were childless. Then they used the advice below and Opal conceived the very next month. Scrapbook this article and send for the booklet below, for it can help you or some of your friends.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case W-323: Opal R., aged 34, is a very attractive wife.

DR. CRANE

"Dr. Crane, I have been married for nine years," Opal began, "but I still don't have any children.

"My husband and I have had thorough medical examinations, but still I don't get pregnant.

"Is there anything else you can suggest that might help me?"

PREGNANCY FACTS

Thousands of normal couples have gone childless through 10 to 20 years of marriage, often because they missed the ovulation day in the month just by chance.

For example, our latest medical information suggests that the average wife is most likely to conceive on about the 15th day prior to the next menstrual onset.

And this holds true whether she is on a 21-day or a 28-day or even a 35-day cycle.

Pregnancy occurs when a ripe ovum (egg) encounters a virile male sperm cell. But researchers believe the male sperm cell may lose its power to fertilize the ovum in possibly a matter of only six to 12 hours.

★ ★ ★

Furthermore, the ovum may likewise become so weakened that it cannot be fertilized after a few hours, estimated to range from 12 to 48.

So it is very easy for a wife like Opal to miss this narrow time band wherein conception can occur.

ACIDITY VS. ALKALINITY

Another obstacle which often prevents conception seems to be the ultra acidity of the vagina.

This can be offset by a mild alkaline douche, consisting of a teaspoon of baking soda per quart of warm water.

When this technique is combined with the timing of the ovulation date just mentioned above, thousands of previously childless wives have conceived and borne babies of their own.

Obviously, such aids cannot offset organic sterility. If a woman's Fallopian tubes have been surgically removed, or if they are sealed shut from a previous inflammation, then she is organically sterile.

And husbands are at fault just about as often as wives, as regards organic sterility.

★ ★ ★

But when both are pronounced medically O. K., yet they still do not have children, then the methods I have outlined today may often spell the difference.

ENDOCRINE RELAXATION

"Dr. Crane," an Ohio businessman recently informed me, "My married daughter finally adopted a baby after seven years of childless marriage.

"And within the next year she gave birth to twin babies of her own. How do you explain it?"

Well, when wives get a complex about their supposed sterility, they grow unduly tense. And such nervous strain can alter glandular secretions. Perhaps you have noticed that stage fright can even kill your appetite or produce spastic colitis, etc.

When a wife then adopts a baby, she relaxes, physiologically as well as mentally. And the duties of caring for the baby seem to be a tonic to her maternal nature.

Soon she may become pregnant, for this is a common story in medicine. So I urged Opal to try the methods I gave her for 6 months and if they didn't produce a baby, then try to adopt a couple. But she conceived the very next month!

For further advice, send for my booklet "Facts About Pregnancy," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit).

It will help you cooperate better with your doctor and thus make childbirth much easier, too.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Rochester Man Suggests Name for Straits Bridge

The Mackinac Bridge is now ready for use and so far as I know, it hasn't been named. Since the bridge was talked about long ago and nothing was done until Governor Williams and Senator Prentiss Brown got hold and started the ball rolling, they are entitled to the honor of naming it.

It has been suggested that it be named for Eisenhower, but credit should be given where it's due, and if ever a big new golf course is established, then it would be appropriate to name it the Eisenhower Golf Course.

I suggest it be named the Williams-Brown Bridge in honor of the two great men who are responsible for it.

We've just seen very abnormal rains in Texas where dried up sections have had as much rain in one day as we get in Michigan in four months, so it's time for someone to rush into the newspapers and blame it all on that poor little 200 pound ball that's rushing around the world night and day.

Nature's actions are usually tied in with something little, puny man does, where there can't be any connection. Man is so tiny and everything he does is so fractional we can't affect the elements in the slightest.

Newton's law of dropped throws still holds good on the coast. I am grateful to the Bums. What other team ever had three men on base with the other two bases empty?

I am also thankful to San Francisco for producing Ping Bodie. And giving me a chance to say in 1917, "His head was full of larceny but his feet were honest."

There's one question we want to ask the big leaguers of San Francisco and Los Angeles:

Are you going to make a farm out of New York?

Indian Worker Cured in U.S.

Postal Employe Almost Died After Coming to America for Surgery

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A postal worker from India — who nearly died after traveling halfway around the world to undergo heart surgery—headed for home today with what he gratefully described as a "dramatic new lease on life."

★ ★ ★

Sewa Chand, 25-year-old father of four, was unable to walk more than two blocks earlier this year. He suffered from a closed mitral valve in the heart. Now, a brisk stroll of an hour and a half seems like nothing at all.

Chand had rheumatic fever some years ago, and the closed heart valve was a result. Doctors in India were unable to help him. Then, in 1956, he read of the award of the Nobel Prize to Dr. Andre F. Cournand of New York for his work on heart ailments. Chand wrote Dr. Cournand, asking his help.

★ ★ ★

On July 23 Chand underwent surgery. The closed valve was opened to permit the proper flow of blood through the left side of his heart. Then, as the surgeons were completing their work, his heart stopped beating entirely. The doctors massaged it back into action, but for three days Chand lingered near death in deep shock. Then he slowly began to recover.

★ ★ ★

Today, bright-eyed and springy of step, he said: "This is a dramatic new lease on life for me. I can go back to my family and my work. It is really wonderful."

British Atomic Pile Closed for Check

LONDON (AP)—The second atomic pile at Britain's Windscale plant was closed for inspection today. The first pile ran wild last week and was put out of action showering the countryside with radioactive iodine.

Sir William Penney, director of Britain's Atomic Energy Authority, ordered all plutonium production halted at the plant 250 miles northwest of London. The plutonium is used to trigger nuclear bombs.

Child Burning Up Rolls on Floor as Told in School

ALAMEDA, Idaho (AP) — An 8-year-old girl who did "just what they told me at school" avoided serious injury and possible death.

Kerry Lee Thurman was in the kitchen making soup for her father, C. G. Thurman. Kerry Lee reached into a cupboard and her dress caught fire from an electric range.

★ ★ ★

Later she strolled into another room and told her father, "Look daddy, I burned my dress. I got down and rolled."

Kerry Lee exhibited her burned dress, singed hair, two charred petticoats and a minor arm burn.

The third-grader was in school last week when Alameda firemen handed out junior fire marshal rings and advised children to roll instead of running should they catch fire.

Four-Engine Plane Slides on Belly

PITTSBURGH (AP) —A four-engine DC6B Northwest Airlines plane with 29 aboard ground to a screeching halt at Greater Pittsburgh Airport last night after its landing gear collapsed on touchdown. No one was hurt.

★ ★ ★

The propellers were bent and the bottom of the fuselage ripped. A gasoline tank was ruptured, but there was no fire.

★ ★ ★

Northwest said the pilot, Capt. William Arnold of Minneapolis, reported no panic. The plane was en route from Washington to Seattle.

★ ★ ★

The passengers praised Arnold, who kept the plane under control while it slid 4,000 feet on its belly.

The cost of building the Panama Canal was $525,812,661.

Suspects or Vigilantes? Police Don't Know

AMERICAN FALLS, Idaho (AP)—Police said yesterday they are having trouble separating suspects from vigilantes in a wave of sex offenses in American Falls.

They said self-appointed vigilantes, armed with revolvers, rifles and clubs, have been roaming the streets at night, both afoot and in cars.

Officers said the vigilantes are in danger of being shot by other vigilantes and police.

Alaskans Mark Territory's Sale

90 Years Ago Today Soviets Lowered Flag on Continent

SITKA, Alaska (AP)—On a cool afternoon just 90 years ago today the Russians lowered their flag on this continent, giving up the huge and strategic territory of Alaska to the United States.

★ ★ ★

Alaskans from Gov. Mike Stepovich on down are celebrating the anniversary today and many voiced the suggestion of how Russia might now look upon a suggestion it give up such a great piece of land.

The hard-pressed Russians handed it over for $7,200,000 in 1867. The deal was greeted with much grumbling in the States.

The 586,400 square miles, more than twice the size of Texas, was dubbed "Seward's Icebox," a reference to the climate and Secretary of State William Henry Seward, who negotiated the purchase.

★ ★ ★

The formal transfer took place in the Sitka trading post founded in 1799 by Alexander Bararof, sent to Alaska by the Czar to conquer the Pacific outpost.

Capt. Pestchouroff, the Russian commander, stepped forward and said to Brig. Gen. Lovell H. Rousseau, the American commissioner: "General Rousseau, by authority from His Majesty, the Emperor of Russia, I transfer to the United States the territory of Alaska."

It was as simple as that.

Today the territory is ringed by an electronic fence designed to warn this country if Russia or any other nation should attempt a hostile move on North American shores.

The cost of the electronic fence alone is many times $7,200,000. The value of the territory's gold, furs and fish is far greater than that too—in almost any year since the turn of the century.

Watcher Asserts 'Moon' Seen Only 10 Times

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Dr. Armand N. Spitz, coordinator of visual observation for Project Moonwatch, says there have been no more than 10 actual sightings of the Russian satellite from stations in the free world.

★ ★ ★

He said last night the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory lacks sightings from the Southern Hemisphere, where there are Moonwatch stations in South Africa, Australia, Chile, Peru and Netherlands West Indies.

From that entire area, only the Australian station reported sighting the satellite, rather than the easier-to-see rocket which launched it into space.

Campaign to Ease Strict Lottery Law

LANSING (AP) — A quiet campaign is under way to ease Michigan's strict lottery law as it applies to merchandise prizes given by stores for sales promotion.

Otis Cook, executive secretary of the Michigan Retailers Assn., said his group is laying the groundwork for a proposed change in the law at the next legislative session.

Cook said that under a Supreme Court ruling of the late 1930s, nearly every merchandise giveaway promotion currently popular in the state actually is illegal.

He reported that strict enforcement of the law has hampered promotion efforts by merchants in several of the state's cities, notably Detroit and Lansing.

The retailers will campaign on a statewide basis urging a change in the law that would permit promotions by the stores without opening the door to actual lotteries.

In an effort to clarify the law, Ingham County Prosecutor Jack Warren asked Atty. Gen. Thomas M. Kavanagh to rule on the legality of a hypothetical case of a store giveaway.

Kavanagh replied that it was up to the local prosecutor to determine whether the law was being violated.

Freighter Hits Iceberg, Reported in No Danger

NEW YORK (AP)—A Danish freighter which struck an iceberg off Greenland was reported in no danger today.

★ ★ ★

Coast Guard area headquarters here said another Danish ship had gone to the assistance of the Else Nielsen and no further help was needed.

The Else Nielsen radioed an SOS last night that it had struck an iceberg 80 miles south of Cape Farewell.

★ ★ ★

The Danish ship Disko, 45 miles from the Else Nielsen, radioed that it was en route to assist.

Word came from the Else Nielsen later that the Disko had arrived and no further help was needed.

Brando's Home Looted While He Honeymoons

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — While actor Marlon Brando and his new bride, actress Anna Kashfi, were honeymooning, burglars entered his Hollywood Hills home and made off with items valued at $3,000.

Brando told police yesterday that two cameras, a typewriter, some perfume and jewelry and a filing cabinet containing story material and personal letters were stolen.

He offered a $1,000 reward for the return of the filing cabinet with its contents intact.

Security for You

No Pat Answer on Degree of Disability

By RAY HENRY

The question of how disabled a person has to be to collect Social Security disability payments keeps showing up in my mail.

★ ★ ★

The simple fact is: There is no pat answer to the question.

Each disability case is considered separately. And, whether or not payments are approved depends on the facts of each case.

But, there are two questions which are always involved:

Is the person able to do any substantial amount of work with reasonable regularity?

Is the person's disability expected to continue for a long and indefinite period of time, or to result in his death?

★ ★ ★

In trying to get an answer to the first question, the Social Security people first consider the severity of the disability as shown by medical evidence.

In general, the evidence must show that the person must be unable to do such things as move about, handle objects, hear, speak, understand or reason.

The Social Security Administration gives these as examples of what ordinarily would be considered severe disabilities:

1. The loss of use of two arms or legs.

2. Certain diseases such as diabetes, multiple sclerosis, or Buerger's disease which has resulted in the loss or loss of use of an arm or a leg.

★ ★ ★

3. Disease of heart, lungs or blood vessels which has resulted in major loss of heart or lung reserve. This must be shown by Xray, electrocardiogram or other objective findings.

4. Cancer which can't be removed by an operation and which is getting progressively worse.

5. Damage to the brain or a brain abnormality which has resulted in the severe loss of judgment, intellect, orientation or memory.

6. Mental disease requiring continued hospitalization or supervision of the patient.

★ ★ ★

7. Blindness or near blindness.

8. Permanent and total loss of speech.

9. Total deafness which can't be corrected by a hearing aid.

Even in cases such as these, the Social Security people hedge. They say that in some cases people with such severe disabilities are able to work. If they are, then disability payments are ruled out.

For example: Suppose a watchmaker loses both legs in an auto accident. If he recovers and is able to go back to work because of his special knowledge and skill, no payments for his disability will be made.

★ ★ ★

In trying to get an answer to whether a person's disability is expected to continue for a long and indefinite period of time, the Social Security people also have some guides.

It says it uses the term "indefinite" to mean that the person can't be expected to recover from his disability in the foreseeable futuure.

★ ★ ★

Thus, for example, a person who suffers a severe broken arm that would prevent him from working for a long time—but will allow him to go back to work eventually—wouldn't be eligible for disability payments.

(Questions on Social Security problems may be addressed to "Social Security," in care of The Pontiac Press. Questions will be answered by mail from the Pontiac office of the Social Security Administrattion. There is no charge for this service.)

Grandfather, 86, Finally Marries Sweetheart, 82

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An 86-year-old great-grandfather Wednesday married his childhood sweetheart—an 82-year-old great-grandmother—while 1,200 grandmothers and great-grandmothers looked on.

Actor Francis X. Bushman gave the bride away and singer Dorothy Collins sang "I Love You Truly."

The bridegroom, Weyland Wood, a retired real estate broker from Santa Ana, Calif., told reporters they had planned a private ceremony at home. But the matter was taken out of their hands when delegates to the convention of the National Federation of Grandmothers Clubs learned of their plans.

★ ★ ★

The bride, Mrs. Carrie Anderson of Bremerton, Wash., said they have known each other since school days in Maryville, Mo.

"Another fellow beat my time with Carrie then," said Wood, "but I can assure you no one's going to keep us apart again."

The new Mrs. Wood, a widow for four years, has seven grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren. Wood, a widower for eight years, has three daughters, seven grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

Army Sergeant Linked to Spies

Microfilm Evidence in Abel Trial Names Roy Rhodes

NEW YORK (AP)—Microfilm introduced as evidence in the trial of Rudolf I. Abel contains a Russian claim they recruited for espionage work an American Army sergeant — still on active duty — while he was stationed with the U.S. Embassy in Moscow.

★ ★ ★

A message on the microfilm, assertedly found in a hollowed-out bolt, was read to the jury yesterday in Brooklyn Federal District Court, where Abel, 55, is on trial for spying for the Soviet Union.

Named in the message was Sgt. Roy A. Rhodes, 40, who has been stationed at Ft. Myer, Va.

Rhodes is on the list of government witnesses. Asst. U.S. Atty. Gen. William F. Tompkins, asked about Rhodes' role in the case, said: "When he takes the stand next week you'll find out more about it."

★ ★ ★

The trial has been adjourned until Monday.

At Rhodes' home in Eatontown, N.J., today his wife termed evidence linking her husband with Soviet espionage as "just a big lie."

Mrs. Rhodes said the sergeant presently is in New York City but she did not know where or how to reach him.

Mrs. Rhodes said she had lived with Rhodes in Moscow when he was attached to the embassy, adding: "It's the biggest frameup I've ever seen. I don't know how they ever did it but it must be serving some purpose."

Men Sprouting Beards

NORTH ADAMS, Mass. (AP) — If the men of North Adams appear unshaven today, blame it on the water shortage. City Manager Gordon Dillion proclaimed today "Shaveless Friday" in an effort to dramatize the community's water shortage caused by a long drought.

Takes Boat Ride Today to Explain

Mike Todd's Garden Party Big Bust

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Todd, party giver extraordinary, takes a boat ride today to explain what happened last night.

His ballyhooed "intimate" gathering for 18,000 chums, he admits, ran into a few "unforeseen difficulties."

★ ★ ★

The show, televised in part to a nationwide audience, was a hodgepodge of blaring bands, prancing ponies, deadspots and flying frankfurters that Broadway won't soon forget.

"We've been had," commented one veteran showman as the guests, a glittering cross-section of the entertainment world and cafe society, moved through the exits of Madison Square Garden.

Many left soon after the formal program ended at 11 p.m., but other thousands of the restless, fidgety throng lingered to dance and partake of a strange buffet of pizza pies, doughnuts, ice cream, beer, champagne and hot dogs.

★ ★ ★

Todd, a showman who leaves little to chance, set up his explanatory boat ride today a few hours before the party went on.

Invited along for an excursion steamer outing up the Hudson River was a cross-section of the writers and editors who sat in on the grim Garden doings.

Todd said he wanted to "chat" —and perhaps expand the comments he publicly made over the loud-speaker system as soon as the televised part of the program ended.

★ ★ ★

"The whole spirit of the idea tonight is to have fun," he proclaimed. "We had a few unforeseen difficulties. Maybe they added to the carnival spirit.

"I hoped things would run smoother. But some nights are better than others."

Beside him as he spoke was his wife, film star Elizabeth Taylor, who presided at the cutting of the vast pink birthday cake which stood in the center of the arena floor.

★ ★ ★

The celebration was a first anniversary tribute to "Around the World in 80 Days," the first picture showman Todd ever made. It won five Hollywood oscars.

The formal entertainment was largely limited to the 90 minutes of television—although one band got proceedings under way early with an appropriate initial offering of "Just One of Those Things."

Mike's show turned out mostly an endless walk around the arena of processions costumed in frontier clothes, Siamese tinsel and folk dresses. Occasionally there were peewee fire engines, Sir Cedric Hardwicke precariously riding an elephant, and a miscellany of beer trucks, covered wagons and a rubber-tired locomotive.

★ ★ ★

Frequently there were competing orchestras, blackouts of lighting and murmurs from emcee Georgie Jessel of "Somebody throw me a cue." No one ever did.

At one time a clown capered in a spotlight in one part of the arena while an orchestra played a tribute to the late Arturo Toscanini.

A distraction during distribution of the refreshments was discovery by the Todd press staff that some of the bottles of champagne provided for the occasion were being sold for cash to guests.

Outside, a heavy cordon of city police kept sightseers under control. One arrest for attempted gate crashing was reported.

Inside, the party dragged its way to a windup.

★ ★ ★

The question in many minds was: "Who picked up the check?"

Several things helped out.

CBS paid about $300,000 for the right to televise 90 minutes of the party.

Most of the food, beverages and gifts for the guests were provided by firms in the name of good public relations.

Also, Todd had the whole party filmed as a documentary called "How to Throw a Party," which is to be shown commercially.

UNEF Commander Back in Mideast

LONDON (AP) — Canadian Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, commander in chief of the U.N Emergency Force in Gaza and Egypt, flew back to the Middle East today after four weeks leave in Britain.

★ ★ ★

He told reporters his return had no connection with tension on the Syrian-Turkish border, explaining, "As far as I know, neither my force nor the United Nations headquarters have any instructions over Syria."

Burns said things had been so quiet in Gaza recently that he was able to vacation for four weeks instead of two as planned.

The Proxy Murder by Erle Stanley Gardner

Conway Makes Fast Dash for a Detective

THE STORY SO FAR: Jerry Conway is alarmed by an advertising campaign Gifford Farrell, a discharged employe, is conducting to obtain proxies and bust Conway at the stockholders' meeting of the California and Texas Global Co. In a mysterious telephone call a woman calling herself Rosalind offers to supply Conway with a list of the proxies Farrell has acquired. Though he suspects a trap Conway agrees to follow her cloak-and-dagger directions. Eva Kane, his secretary, thinks she has heard her voice before. Asking the hotel clerk for a message for Gerald Boswell he obtains a key to an hotel suite for the meeting but instead of finding Rosalind there's a young woman scantily attired, and on her face a mud pack. She's Rosalind's roommate, Mildred. She points a gun at Conway, which he takes from her. Since the gun has been fired recently, Conway suspects a frame-up and calls Perry Mason, attorney. Mason looks over the gun and asks Conway for the key to the hotel room. He'll take Detective Paul Drake with him.

Chapter 5

By ERLE STANLEY GARDNER

"Was the woman in the hotel room really frightened or acting?" Perry Mason asked Conway.

"Her hand was shaking and the gun was wobbling."

"When she came out she had on scanties?"

"Yes."

"Good-looking?"

"Very. The scanties were . . . well, very thin."

"Yet she didn't seem embarrassed?"

"She was frightened."

"There's a difference. Was she embarrassed?"

"I . . . I would say just frightened. I would say she wasn't the shy type. She didn't try to cover up."

"How old?"

"Twenty-five to twenty-seven."

"Blonde, brunette or redheaded?"

"She had a towel wrapped around her head. She was very stunning — I mean the curves."

"Eyes?"

"I couldn't see well enough to tell."

"Rings?"

"I didn't notice."

"Where did she get the gun?"

"Apparently out of the desk."

"And after that?"

"She acted as though she thought I was going to assault her or something. She wanted to give me all of her money, and begged me not to hurt her."

"Did her voice sound like Rosalind's voice over the telephone?"

★ ★ ★

"No. This mud pack seemed to have hardened. Her lips couldn't move well. You know how those mud packs act. Her talk was thick—like a person talking while asleep. Rosalind's voice was different.

"I've heard Rosalind's voice before. I have the feeling that I've heard it quite a few times. It wasn't her voice so much as the spacing of the words, the tempo."

"You don't think this girl in the hotel was Rosalind?"

"I don't think so."

"You're not sure?"

"I'm not sure of anything."

"Wait here until you hear from me," Mason said. He nodded to the detective. "Let's go, Paul."

Mason crossed the office, held the door open.

"My car or yours?" Drake asked, as they waited for the elevator.

"Mine," Mason said. "It's out here."

"You scare me to death in traffic," Drake told him.

Mason smiled. "No more. When John Talmage was traffic editor of the Deseret News, he followed all my cases and took me to task for the way I drove. He cited a few statistics."

OFF TO THE REDFERN

"Cure you?" Drake asked.

"Made a Christian of me," Mason admitted. "Watch and see."

"I'm skeptical but willing to be convinced," Paul told him.

Mason, carefully complying with all traffic regulations, drove to the Redfern Hotel and found a parking place.

"Going to identify yourself?" Drake asked.

Mason shook his head. "I'll keep in the background. You'll go to the desk, ask if there are any messages for Mr. Boswell."

Drake raised his eyebrows.

"In that way," Mason said, "we'll find out if the clerk remembers Conway coming in and asking the same question. If he does, he'll look at you suspiciously and start asking questions. Then you can identify yourself and we'll start from there."

"And if he doesn't remember?" Drake asked.

TO CONFUSE HIM

"Then," Mason said, "you talk with him long enough for him to remember your face. Then if anyone asks him to identify the person who came to the desk and inquired for messages for Boswell, he'll be confused on the identification."

"Suppose there's a Boswell registered in the hotel. Then what do we do?"

★ ★ ★

"We first go to the room phones, say we want to speak with Gerald Boswell. Find out if he's registered. If he isn't we go up to 729 and look around."

"For what?"

"Perhaps we'll see the girl in the scanties."

The two men entered the Redfern Hotel and went to the house phones. Mason first asked for Gerald Boswell and was told he was in Room 729. There was no answer.

"Go ahead, Paul," Mason said.

Paul Drake walked to the desk, stood there quietly.

The clerk looked up from some bookkeeping he was doing, came over to the counter.

"Messages for Boswell?" Drake asked.

"What's the first name?"

"Gerald."

The clerk moved over to the pigeonholes, picked out a stack of envelopes from the one marked "B," and started flipping them over.

"You were here earlier, weren't you? Didn't I give you an envelope?"

Abruptly he stopped, looked up at Paul Drake, said, "You were in here earlier, weren't you, Mr. Boswell. Didn't I give you an envelope?"

Drake grinned, "Let's put it this way: I'm looking for a recent message."

"I'm quite certain there isn't any," the clerk said. "I gave you that . . . or was it you?"

Drake said casually, "That envelope. What's come since?"

"Nothing!"

"You're certain?"

"Yes."

"Look it over again and make certain."

The clerk looked through the file, then regarded Drake dubiously. "I beg your pardon, Mr. Boswell, but do you have any means of identification?"

"Sure," Drake said.

"May I see it?"

KEY TO ROOM 729

Drake took the key to 729 from his pocket and tossed it on the counter in front of the clerk.

"729," the clerk said.

"Right," Drake said.

The clerk moved over to the directory of guests, looked under 729, then became apologetic. "I'm sorry, Mr. Boswell. I was just making certain, that's all. If any recent messages came in, they would be in the key box. There's nothing . . . You didn't have anyone else come in this evening and ask for messages, did you?"

"Me?" Drake asked in surprise.

The clerk nodded.

"Don't be silly," Drake told him. "I'm able to get around. I take my own messages."

"And I gave you a letter earlier?"

"There was a message in a brown manila envelope," Drake said.

The clerk's face showed relief. "I was afraid for a minute that I'd given it to the wrong party. Thank you very much."

"Not at all," Drake said and picking up his key, moved over to the elevator.

Mason moved over to join him.

Parents Study Fluoride Plan

13 PTA Groups Learn of Summer Program in Waterford Township

A topical fluoride program for Waterford Township school children is drawing the interest of parents in the area.

★ ★ ★

Representatives from thirteen PTA groups met recently to learn more about the program, hear reports on last summer's applications, and set up tentative plans for next year's activities.

Approximately 500 students from the Jayno Adams, Waterford Village and Williams Lake schools participated in last summer's program.

On November 11 health chairmen from the PTA's will meet with reprsentatives from the Oakland County District Dental Society and the Board of Health to report on whether their group desires the program or not.

★ ★ ★

The meeting is scheduled to be held at 8 p.m. in the Waterford Township high school and an election of officers will be the main event on the agenda. Definite plans for the 1958 summer program will also be presented.

Two township women heading the project are Mrs. John Hoke and Mrs. Clare Novess.

Calls Sputnik's Success Indictment of Military

GRAND RAPIDS (UP) — A New York author, lecturer and former radio correspondent describes the success of the Russian space satellite "an indictment of our military department."

Dwight Cooke commented on the issue yesterday at a meeting of the Ladies Literary Club in Grand Rapids.

★ ★ ★

"We could have launched the first man-made moon if there hadn't been intense rivalry among the three armed services," he declared. Cooke contended the satellite pointed up a United States need "for one top military leader rather than three."

★ ★ ★

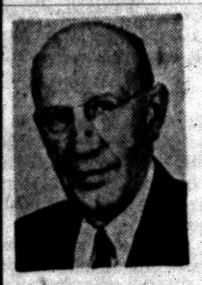

He declared "it's up to Congress" to revise U. S. military setups to cope with changes wrought by developments in ballistics and inter-continental missiles.

Pelee Phone Operator on Spot

Calls on Sports, Politics, Pies, Just Part of Service

PELEE ISLAND, Ont. (AP)—Being a telephone operator on Pelee Island is like no other job in the world.

To fill the position one has to know who's boxing on Friday night, how much sugar is needed in a cherry pie and who won an election in 1922.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Buster Williams has a fund of information, but she admits she sometimes gets stuck for an answer, as chief operator of the Pelee Township Municipal Telephone Company.

She has been the center of the telephone communication system on this island in Lake Erie for more than a year. One of her duties is to keep an ear on the life and property of the 400 residents.

"It's a 24-hour job," says Mrs. Williams. On many nights, she gets less than four hours sleep.

SUMMER RUSH

Her busy time is during summer, when she can expect calls at any hour of the day or night. Two or three emergency calls may come in at once — meaning anything from an injury in the stone quarries to a stranded fishing party.

★ ★ ★

Then there are calls for residents or persons vacationing on the island. In August alone, the switchboard handled some 1,670 long-distance calls.

Karen, her 8-year-old daughter, is helpful. Although she can barely reach the switchboard, Karen can handle long distance calls like a veteran operator.

Mrs. Williams says there's only one real snag in the job — she sometimes doesn't see her fisherman husband for several days. She has been mapping out a work schedule which would give her one week at the office and a week at home, using a second operator.

★ ★ ★

That would mean, she says, that her husband would have at least half of his meals cooked for him.

The new building is being constructed by the Davis Construction Co. of Ann Arbor.

On Saturday, at 9:30 a.m. men of the church will form a work bee to clean up the area in front of the new church building, where an old barn once stood. This work bee will be continued on Sunday afternoon, at 2:30 p.m.

Later, the present chapel will be renovated by the men to provide for a nursery for Sunday Church School and morning worship services. This nursery will be equipped to care for all infants.

In the spring of 1958 the men expect to clear part of the twenty acres of land the church owns to build an athletic field and a baseball diamond for the youth of the community.

Dedication services of the new church will take place Sunday, Dec. 8, at 3 p.m. Dr. W. Glen Harris, minister of the First Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, will give the dedication sermon.

Other outstanding clergymen of the Church in Michigan will participate in the service.

They are: Dr. Wilfred E. Simpson, moderator of the Presbytery of Detroit, and minister of the First Presbyterian Church, Monroe; Dr. Kenneth G. Neigh, synod executive, for the synod of Michigan; Dr. Harold F. Fredsell, director of the Board of Church Extension of the Presbytery of Detroit; and Dr. William H. Marbach, minister of the First Presbyterian Church, Pontiac.

The Rev. William L. Rieker is pastor of the Lakes Presbyterian Chapel.

This new group was started under the sponsorship of The First Presbyterian Church, Birmingham. To date the church has sixty-five families on its rolls, and over one hundred children are in the Sunday Church School.

★ ★ ★

At the present time the church is being directed by a steering committee, which is headed by members of the Birmingham Presbyterian Church.

★ ★ ★

Along with the completion of the new building, the General Planning Committee of the church has organized committees to form a congregation and corporation early in 1958.

Special Zoning Plan in Clawson

Action Taken to Permit YWCA Building in Area Now Residential

CLAWSON — This city is to have a new YWCA building, but it will take a special zoning classification Mayor John Darbee and the city council decided at the regular meeting here.

★ ★ ★

The YWCA will be located on Normandy between Crooks Road and Batchewana Road.

The action followed a long, unofficial hearing. The problem being that residents in the area generally were in favor of the "Y" but opposed the rezoning of the property from residential to business.

The new zoning will permit the building of the Y, but will not permit any commercial development in the area.

Mrs. Roy E. Robinson, chairman of the building committee of the South Oakland YWCA said this morning that the YWCA has had an option on the 2-acre site for the past two years and is hoping construction can get under way before the cold weather sets in.

Can Sell Anything!

Champion at Auction

By LEE WINBORN
Romeo Correspondent

ROMEO — "What am I bid? Who'll say a dollar to get me started?"

Popular Romeo auctioneer Paul Hillman raises his hands, scans the crowd and picks out a likely-looking candidate to start the bidding.

★ ★ ★

Hillman, who is 46 and a grandfather, is an auctioneer because of his sheer love of the job. He was born near Dryden, and in 1920 his family moved to a farm near Romeo. He attended Romeo High School, and knowing his lifelong dream of becoming an auctioneer, a friend offered him his first sale in April, 1944.

"After booking this sale, I started practising my spiel in the house. It wasn't long before my family ran me out, and for two weeks I rehearsed in the barn," Hillman recalls.

"I never worked with or for any auctioneer before I got this job," he said. As a result of his efforts, he had 18 sales during the first year, and now the total has grown to well over 2,000.

★ ★ ★

"I'd walk a mile on ice, barefooted, for another sale. I still get the same thrill I did when I first started," enthused the youthful-looking auctioneer.

SPIEL IRRESISTIBLE

Hillman is a master showman with an irresistible "gift of gab" that draws large crowds wherever he goes. Many of his "fans" attend sales just to watch him perform. They are liable, however, to wind up buying something they don't particularly want for a price they hadn't planned to pay.

During the 13 years he has been in business he has acquired an amazing knowledge of antique furniture, china and glassware. He speaks with equal familiarity about other household items, cars, real estate, unclaimed freight and farm equipment.

Hillman's knowledge of farm machinery and stock is understandable because, in addition to auctioneering and selling real estate, he operates a 75-acre farm on Romeo Plank road in his "spare time."

Always generous with his talents, he never hesitates to contribute his services to raise funds for a charitable purpose in a church, school or public hall. On one such occasion he was asked to auction off an envelope —contents unknown—only to discover that the paper inside entitled the buyer to a night's lodging—in jail.

Hillman is married and has a married son Ted, who is a teacher in the Utica school system, and two grandchildren.

Traffic Laws Vary From State to State

By SIDNEY J. WILLIAMS

Chairman, National Committee on Uniform Traffic Laws and Ordinances

Police, courts, driver license and other public officials are handicapped and sometimes helpless without reasonable, effective traffic laws and ordinances.

The motorist who crosses state and city lines — and who doesn't? — is confused, irritated and endangered where laws are conflicting.

LEGAL AT HOME

The driver's frequent excuse "What I just did is legal at home" is hard for a police officer or judge to ignore. Nationwide uniformity on such essential items as the rules of the road would make easier the task of driver education both in high schools and and for the general public.

Federal traffic laws have been advocated but this approach has received no serious support because it would require an army of federal enforcement officials. The slower but surer approach is through voluntary action by states and cities.

★ ★ ★

Just thirty years ago the Uniform Vehicle Code was formulated by a large joint committee representing all official, civic, business and other groups concerned, and has served ever since as a model for state legislation.

It is periodically reviewed and brought up to date. It is supplemented by the Model Traffic Ordinance for cities. More recently, several states have authorized preparation of a state model traffic ordinance which any city can then adopt "by reference," that is, without the expense of printing the entire ordinance in a local newspaper.

The state model is closly geared to the traffic laws, constitution and judicial decisions of the particular state.

LARGELY CORRECTED

The hopeless tangle of conflicting traffic laws that existed thirty years ago has thus been largely corrected, but not entirely. The reason?

Mostly inertia; to amend any law takes positive pressure, from the governor, from influential legislators, or from opinion — preferably all three.

Then there is a big element of local pride: "We worked out our law to suit our own conditions and don't need any outside expert to tell us what to do."

★ ★ ★

Equally needed is uniformity in highway signs and traffic signals. For these an excellent standard is available in the Manual of Uniform Traffic Control Devices which also was developed by a joint committee of officials and others concerned.

Most state highway departments follow this standard but many counties and cities, particularly the smaller ones, still have signs that are antiquated, hard to see and to read, and of all conceivable shape, colors and designs.

The national agencies that have been vigorously promoting uniformity have found that the only way to get results is to stimulate interest on the part of local officials and civic groups.

★ ★ ★

They, and only they, can get up to date, uniform laws, signs and signals — if they will make the necessary effort. They can get plenty of help, if they want it, from the insurance companies and organizations, the National Safety Council and others.

Uniform laws will make safe driving easier for all of us.

Next: Courtesy and Consideration on the Highway.

IT'S LEGAL AT HOME — Out-of-state driver receives traffic violation for an act that is legal in his home state. Safety officials are urging nationwide uniformity on the rules of the road.

Poor Negro Who Got Fortune in '52 Dies

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Ezekiel Dorsey, a Negro who inherited $200,000 in 1952 after 56 years of poverty, died yesterday in the swank home he occupied.

★ ★ ★

Dorsey ran away from home in Palatka at the age of 12 and lived as a migrant farm worker. In 1952 a Miami court ruled he was the long-lost son of the late Dana Albert Dorsey, who made a fortune in real estate.

Zeke was living in a shack when he came into money.

★ ★ ★

He moved into a $17,500 home and spent the rest of his life enjoying what to him were luxuries — candy, soda pop and the like — under a court-appointed guardianship.

Calls GI's Accuser 'Trouble-Maker'

MAEBASHI, Japan (AP) — An American officer today pictured a key prosecution witness against GI William S. Girard as a trouble-maker who tried to coach other witnesses in their stories.

Lt. Col. Walter C. Sharp, testifying in the Ottawa, Ill., soldier's Japanese manslaughter trial, made the accusations against Hidetsugu Onozeki. Onozeki has testified Girard lured Mrs. Naka Sakai, 46, closer on the firing range last Jan. 30, then shot and killed her.

★ ★ ★

Girard admits firing the fatal shot—an empty cartridge from a grenade launcher—but claims it hit Mrs. Sakai by accident.

Sharp, Girard's battalion commander from Beach Haven, N.J., said while he was questioning a witness on the Army firing range, Onozeki and other collectors of scrap brass "tried to get him to change his story."

★ ★ ★

Sharp said Onozeki spoke to other witnesses and was "arrogant" earlier when other brass collectors were being shooed away. He said he thought Onozeki was trying to set an example for the others.

Wednesday Club on Beat With Gala Dinner-Dance

Mental Illness Behind Iron Curtain

Soaring Suicide Rate Is Definite Clue to Tensions That Grip Red-Ruled People

(Editor's Note: This is the first of two articles on mental illness behind the iron curtain. The writer describes the problem and what is causing the mental and emotional collapse of the people.)

By RUTH NATHAN

"Unwitting suicide," the psychiatrist's label for a temporary lack of the will to live, as distinguished from any pathological mental illness, is one of the most common health problems today among the frustrated citizenry in the Red-ruled satellite countries.

Convincing evidence that the Communist Party system and man's hair-trigger nervous system were not exactly made for each other comes from a study of information reaching the Crusade for Freedom through Radio Free Europe and Free Europe press overseas.

SUICIDE MOUNTS

A devastating sense of personal inadequacy, bitter political resentments, fear and its consequent mounting rate of suicide, have been overwhelming the people.

Satirizing this atmosphere a Bulgarian newspaper quipped recently: "A hen was found hanging by the neck from the gates of the Town Hall.

"It carried a placard which read, 'I decided to end my days as I found it impossible to lay the number of eggs required by the State . . .'"

★ ★ ★

But hens behind the Iron Curtain definitely are in the minority of those who have gone cuckoo for lack of ability to do the impossible. One 47-year-old Rumanian father who worked as an accountant thumbnailed a case history of his own emotional deterioriation. This is how he put it, speaking to other citizens in Kremlin - controlled countries over the Radio Free Europe network:

TELLS OF 'TRAP'

". . . Keeping a job was no longer a matter of working well. It became dependent on how many Communist newspapers I could read; how many propaganda brochures I could learn by heart; how many political meetings I could attend per week.

"Because I was never much interested in politics, some of my bosses thought I was a capitalist sympathizer. I felt surrounded by agents and spies and trembled every time I spoke to anybody, which became less and less often. I expected to be fired every day because I was unable to really please anybody, and I had a family to support . . ."

Mr. X., quite prepared and willing at that point to die for his peace of mind, took the risk of escape from Red Rumania. Happily, he and his family won in Free Germany what they were after—emotional freedom.

★ ★ ★

Since stories about suicides reflect discredit on the Kremlin formula for happiness, there is a hard and fast censorship of such news.

Questioned on this topical blackout by an American newspaperman, a Red spokesman declared: "There are more important things to tell the people about—like industrial production, and the better fruits of their labor . . ."

NEWS LEAKS OUT

When one of the important Kremlin Party officials, however, decides to blow his brains out, it's not so easy to keep it quiet. One of the big post-Stalin suicides in May last year, which not only leaked but spilled, was that of Alexander A. Fadeyev, 55, chief Soviet literary theorist of the Stalin era, who packed a pistol to his head.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, backfired that he was a "chronic alcoholic."

It was Fadeyev who in 1948, at a conference of intellectuals in Poland, caused a sensation in the international press by declaring, "If hyenas could type and jackals could use fountain pens, they'd write like the poet T. S. Eliot and the playwrights Eugene O'Neill and Jean Paul Sartre." Despite Tass' condemnation of the alcoholic Fadeyev, comrades Khrushchev, Bulganin, Shepilov and Molotov kept vigil at his bier when it lay in state.

The little peoples' suicides not only are squelched in observance of the hear-no-evil policy, but certainly go unmourned by the Commie hierarchy determined to grin and bear the problem privately.

A Czechoslovak defector to the west reported that many people he knew in Prague took their lives out of loneliness. "They were forced to separate from their families, to relocate in employment where the government ordered them to go . . ."

For the past three years, the suicide rate in Czechoslovakia has taken a shaky hike to the roof. The Stromovka, a central park in Prague, attracts a huge number of the despairing for the "place to go and die." So many bodies have been recovered there that of late the park has been surrounded by barbed wire and no longer is open to bench-and-tree lovers who may turn out to be more in love with death.

Tomorrow: Why mental depression, hopelessness and suicide?

Dr. Merker Addresses Zonta Club

Members of the Zonta Club heard a talk on "Medicine from Witchcraft to World Health," by Dr. Harvey M. Merker, at their Thursday lunch held in Hotel Waldron.

Dr. Merker, director of scientific relations at Parke, Davis & Co., is a graduate of the University of Michigan and holds honorary degrees from Wayne State University as a doctor of science in chemistry, and from the University of Michigan as a doctor of engineering.

He emphasized that behind a contemporary physician are thousands of persons who have contributed to medical research and discoveries, discussing such boons to medicine as insulin, antibiotics, polio vaccine, and promin for leprosy.

Sorority Gathers

Xi Pi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority met Tuesday at the home of Margaret and Virginia Luther on Lincoln avenue. The group sewed pads for the American Cancer Society.

Holland's Tulip Girl Tours U.S.

Spreads Queenly Goodwill Among Bulb Buyers

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Gussie De Zoete, Tulip Queen of The Netherlands who is now touring the United States, her country's biggest bulb-buying customer, would rather skin-dive than tiptoe through the tulips, it seems.

★ ★ ★

Another hobby of the beauteous green-eyed blonde is pistol-shooting. She also likes dancing, music and French clothes. She speaks four languages.

PICTURE TAKER

Her big dream, though, is to become a professional photographer, and she's wangled herself an assignment to take pictures for a Dutch magazine after her queenly goodwill tour of about a dozen American "tulip towns" is finished.

Gussie, who was chosen from hundreds of Holland's likeliest lovelies, oddly enough works for a man whose job is promoting American products.

She's on the staff of the U. S. Agricultural attache at the United States Embassy at The Hague.

★ ★ ★

Netherlands Ambassador J. Herman van Roijen, greeted her on her recent arrival in Washington, said Gussie is giving an international translation of an old Dutch saying.

POPULAR SLOGAN

That popular though overworked slogan "Say It With Flowers," according to the envoy, has been used for centuries by Dutch lovers, friends, relations, and business firms—long before Madison avenue passed it along to the florist trade!

★ ★ ★

"Now we're following the same custom, saying it with flowers, as a nation," said the ambassador.

Gussie is carting with her special gifts of tulip, hyacinth and daffodil bulbs.

The former Queen Wilhelmina, and the present queen, her daughter Juliana, have presented hundreds of choice hand-picked tulip bulbs to the White House and to the presidential farm at Gettysburg.

PLANS BUS TOUR

"It's wonderful to be here," Gussie told me. "I've always wanted to get better acquainted with the country I've heard so much about. I think the best way perhaps is by bus.

★ ★ ★

"That's what I will do for about a month before going home. In Europe I'd go by bike, but I guess that isn't practical here."

Go After Work Without Fanfare

By ANNE HEYWOOD

It seems to me that the old complaint, "My husband doesn't appreciate me," is being heard less frequently these days. Or maybe it's just that my mail has taken a turn for the better.

★ ★ ★

Several times in the past few weeks I've received wonderful letters from husbandss who most certainly do appreciate their wives.

DULL LIFE FOR HER

Take this one, for example, from a husband in Connecticut:

"My wife and I have been married 27 years, although I must say, it doesn't seem that long. Anyway, the kids are grown and have families of their own. So for the past couple of years, things have been pretty dull for her.

★ ★ ★

"I have a job that keeps me busy, but the house isn't enough to absorb my wife's whole days.

"Well, without a word to me, the old girl, bless her, found a part-time job. I didn't know a thing about it for a whole month!

★ ★ ★

"She wanted to see if she could do it without disrupting the routine of our home — and she sure can.

ATTRACTIVE, ZESTFUL

"She loves her job and is so much more attractive and zestful. Every time I think of her doing it on her own — I tell you, that's some gal!"

★ ★ ★

That is indeed some gal and we can all learn a good deal from her.

So often, the woman who decides to get a job makes a tremendous production out of it. She prefaces it with a couple of months of moping and weeping about how empty her life is.

★ ★ ★

Then she teeters on the edge of the diving board, so to speak, wondering how cold the water is. She debates with herself about whether she could get a job and if so, what?

And wouldn't she be too old, and wouldn't she have to buy an awful lot of clothes, and wouldn't the house suffer?

AN ANTICLIMAX

By this time, her husband is so tired of the project that he's sick of it before it's even begun. If she ever does get around to actually getting a job, it is an anticlimax!

If you want to enter the business world for the first time, after years at home, do the groundwork quietly.

Nothing is more boring than a lot of talk about what we plan to do. Just go ahead and do it!

If you want help in the actual technique of getting a job, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope, care of The Pontiac Press, and I'll send you my pamphlet, "The Older Housewife Goes to Business."

Here we present a dramatic millinery effect from the 1957 collection of Mr. John. It is a softly crushed turban, picked from a winter garden in flowered cut velvet.

Well Worth the Effort

Cosmetic Wax Removes Lip Hair

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
(The Friday Question Box)

Q. "I have dark hair on my upper lip and would appreciate knowing how and where I could have this removed."

A. The only permanent method of removal is electrolysis. However, the hair on the upper lip is usually so fine and thick that it seems best to use cosmetic wax to remove it. Of course this has to be repeated but is well worth the effort. Coarser hair on the chin can be successfully removed by electrolysis.

Q "I have a very serious problem. I have been married six years and have two children. I was thin and peppy when I got married. After the last child I had gained 52 pounds and become horribly lazy. I leave everything until tomorrow, but it never comes.

"My husband says he loves me but is ashamed of all this weight I have gained. I have tried dieting and going to doctors but nothing works. I just love to eat. My friends tell me that I will die eating. Sweets are a problem.

"If something isn't done I will soon weigh 200 and my husband says he will leave me when this happens. Can he love me and want to leave me? How can I give up eating and really stick to it? Maybe a hypnotist would help. Do you think it would?"

A You will have to help yourself. I hope that I can help you do that. In the first place, turn your thoughts outward so that you can see yourself from another's viewpoint.

You ask if your husband can love you and also want to leave you. Have you ever imagined how he feels knowing that you love chocolate cake and such things more than you love him? It certainly must seem that way to him.

You know how much he wants you to lose. You even know that you are endangering your marriage. This makes me wonder if you are happy in your marriage. Perhaps your obesity is partly emotional.

It is important to be consistent about dieting. Don't get discouraged if you lose only a few pounds a week or even none. In the long run the dieting will pay off when you are wearing clothes sizes smaller.

However, I may know what is wrong. I think you have gotten into a vicious circle and perhaps if I can show it to you, then you will be able to do something about it.

In the first place it was a shock to you, as well as to your husband, when you suddenly gained all of this weight. You looked and felt like a different person. Then you were hurt by your husband's frank disapproval and withdrawal and insistence that you lose your overweight.

So, you were even more discouraged, and somehow you have not been able to stir yourself to deal with the double load and do something about it.

It would be wise to recognize this and take steps toward losing the weight. Make this an adventure in happiness. I think your husband will change when he sees your determination to succeed.

Keep your eyes on the goal ahead. Shoot first for a 10-pound loss. After that for the next 10. You can have a small piece of hard candy after meals. You need some sugar and this is satisfying and has few calories.

You should also see a doctor since you are fatigued all the time. This may come from discouragement, boredom and overweight, but it could be due to anemia and other conditions.

And count your calories along with your blessings!

Grandma's Quilt Revived for Cozier Modern Home

CHICAGO (INS) — Grandma's quilt and Grandpa's pocket watch are being revived to give a cozier touch to stylish modern rooms.

★ ★ ★

The quilted look is one of the latest ideas in fabrics for sofas, chairs, draperies and cafe curtains.

But where Grandma pieced together her quilts, designers are stitching modern versions to outline printed designs or to give depth to solid materials.

The prints are definitely modern —coin dots, wavy plaids and geometrics — but the stitch quilting makes upholstered furniture look plump instead of sleek.

★ ★ ★

As with other patterned fabrics, the same decorator rule of thumb applies—only one quilted material per room, teamed on a sofa and draperies or on a sofa and pull-up chairs.

Meanwhile, Grandpa's pocket watch has been blown up to be almost a foot wide for a nostalgic wall clock.

The big brass model, complete with fob chain, is being mounted and framed like a picture and decorators are hanging it over sofas, mantels and on entrance walls.

Soon after Betty's 11th birthday, she experienced a new sexual development that startled and frightened her.

★ ★ ★

Though it seemed a time for reassuring sex instruction by her mother, none was offered. To Betty's first anxious question, her mother responded with an impatience that suggested she resented the new development.

So Betty stopped asking her mother questions and, on a classmate's advice, asked them of her school's hygiene teacher.

After answering them, her teacher said indignantly, "It is certainly too bad when mothers can't discuss these matters with their daughters!"

★ ★ ★

It is too bad, but our modern scorn of mothers who can't discuss them is just as bad.

CRUEL ILLUSION

Those of us who can't are not maliciously sabotaging our children's sexual health. In most cases we are struggling with a very old and cruel feminine illusion — the age-old belief that our bodies are the devil's temptation to sin.

★ ★ ★

It is quite impossible to talk happily to a daughter about her feminine sexuality if we believe it to be the cause of the world's sins.

So for mothers who feel this way, I am quoting from a just-published book by a 70-year-old woman who, to her experienced understanding of us as an analytical psychologist, adds sisterly compassion.

It's titled "Women and Sometimes Man."

In it, Florida Scott - Maxwell writes, "Man's need to see woman as the source of evil to him could not help but play a decisive part in her attitude toward herself. Taught that the sexuality she represented was evil, she still quivers under it and seems dazed by the contradictions it implies.

★ ★ ★

"Somewhere it creates a discord in us that makes us ill at ease with ourselves. We carry shame of the body as though it were our fault that bodies exist—but we are impatient with this."

I hope that American women will make a best-seller of Mrs. Scott-Maxwell's book, needing as we do its comforts and insights so badly.

Our uneasiness with sex instruction of our children is our long-buried impatience with the idea that our birth-giving bodies are the source of sin for man.

★ ★ ★

What we need is less condemnation and more love so that we can bring our anger into full awareness instead of letting it tear at us with self-hate when our children ask us sexual questions.

To be in step this fall the new shorter topcoat for men is the latest word. This is an Ivy model in semi-fitted Chesterfield style.

Honey Cake Is Answer to Request

Mrs. Avadenka's Spicy Nut Loaf Needs No Frosting

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Last week a reader called us for a honey cake recipe. It was by chance we were talking with Mrs. Abraham Avadenka and mentioned that fact. Nice person—she called back the next day with this delicious sounding recipe. Thanks, Mrs. Avadenka, and here you are, Mrs. Thompson.

The General Hospital Auxiliary, bowling and her synagogue keep Mrs. Avadenka busy, she says.

HONEY CAKE
By Mrs. Abraham Avadenka

3 cups sifted flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon mixed spices
½ teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup strong coffee
1 cup honey
1 cup soft shortening
4 eggs, separated
1 cup brown sugar
½ lemon, juice and rind
1 cup chopped nuts
10-12 nut halves

Sift dry ingredients. Cream shortening and sugar together, add egg yolks and honey. Mix well. Add dry ingredients alternately with coffee and lemon juice and rind. Beat well.

Beat egg whites stiff. Fold into first mixture, then fold in chopped nuts. One and one-half cups raisins may be added, if desired.

Pour into two greased 8x8x2 pans. Top with nut halves. Bake one hour at 350 degrees. If cake browns too fast, reduce heat to 325 degrees. Makes 2 cakes.

Asks How to Refuse Comb Loan

Objects to Friends Using Something So Personal

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me how I can tactfully refuse to lend someone my comb? It seems unbelievable that anyone would ask to borrow anything so personal but there are people who do.

"I know, because it has happened to me on several occasions when I have been out with friends who have forgotten to bring along a comb. Needless to say, I dislike anyone using my comb but how can I refuse to lend it without offending the borrower?

Answer: The very fact that she does not mind using your comb shows that she will not understand why you object to lending it. My suggestion is to let her use it and then wash it at the first opportunity.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Why do you disapprove of printed cards of acknowledgment at the time of a bereavement? Those closest to the deceased are too bereaved to write personal thank-you notes, and I don't think it fair to ask friends to do this, especially when they have done so much already during this time.

"Therefore, printed cards are so much more convenient to send. In fact, to my knowledge, many funeral directors include these cards along with their services."

Answer: This is one time when printed cards of thanks are permissible but they are a very poor substitute for the briefest hand-written "Thank you for your beautiful flowers," or "Thank you for your kind sympathy."

These few words can be written on fold-over visiting cards (an informal) in a moment and I urge you to make this effort.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married soon and a friend of mine tells me that you said it is correct to send the bridegroom's mother and father an engraved invitation to the wedding.

"It seems to me that the sending of this invitation is wholly unnecessary and a little ridiculous. Or is my friend wrong about this?

Answer: No, your friend is not wrong. It is correct to send an invitation to the bridegroom's parents because they are especially interested in seeing it, and may perhaps want to keep it as a souvenir.

He's an Unusual Husband - - - Too Good to Be True!

One-in-a-Million Man Is Considerate, Helpful and Never Forgetful

By RUTH MILLETT

He's an unusual husband if—

He can mix a drink for guests without calling his wife to the kitchen because he can't find a bottle opener or the right glasses.

He wipes off the kitchen counter after making himself a midnight snack.

He knows when the lawn needs mowing or when the storm windows should be put up without being reminded by his wife. And he does the job right now.

He never forgets birthdays or anniversaries and pays enough attention to his wife's hints that he always gets her "just what she wanted."

He gets up and, if he likes silence and the morning paper with his breakfast instead of small talk, cooks for himself if his wife gets breakfast he either talks to her or offers her a page of the paper.

★ ★ ★

He can ride with his wife without telling her how to drive.

Instead of going to bed after the guests have left, he pitches in and helps his wife straighten up the living room and get the dishes washed.

He looks in the icebox before urging unexpected guests to stay for a meal.

He never asks innocently "What is this?" when his wife is trying a fancy dish on guests.

★ ★ ★

He never says to his hostess, "I wish you'd teach my wife how to make this."

Does he sound too good to be true? He is.

Church Guild Elects Officers

Mrs. Jack McDaniel was named president of Ladies Guild of St. Paul Lutheran Church when that group met Wednesday evening.

★ ★ ★

Elected vice president was Mrs. William Fisher. Mrs. Norman Thomas was named secretary; Mrs. Wells Hogan, treasurer, and Mrs. Lester Kasten, historian.

Mrs. George Mahder and Mrs. James Cottrill reported on a Christmas gift sent to an "adopted" missionary family in New Guinea. In January the group will make layettes for the same family.

Mrs. H. B. Arnold opened her Prarielawn street home for the Tuesday evening meeting of Priscilla Circle. Mrs. Earl Hague participated in the program.

Sorority Plans Rushing Parties

Plans for rushing parties claimed the interest of members of Beta Mu Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority when the group met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Edmund Smith on Alice avenue.

Chairmen of committees include Mary Kendall, contact; Gloria Hartman, entertainment; Mary Kay Nelson, refreshments; Elizabeth Rockefeller, decorations; Karen Cates, equipment, and Delores Brown, maintenance.

New Work Clothes Boast Sports Style

NEW YORK (NEA) — There are two things about work clothes. First, there are plenty of workers who don't wear them; instead, they prefer to use sports clothes, often wearing some of the older items in their wardrobe.

Second, the average work clothes are not particularly inspiring in style. Probably point two creates point one.

★ ★ ★

Working from these two premises, Waldes Kohinoor, Inc., a manufacturer of slide fasteners, has produced a prototype wardrobe of entirely new work clothes which could solve the whole business.

DISTINCTIVE STYLING

They are work clothes in concept—comfortable, durable, inexpensive—yet they are sports clothes in styling—colorful, practical, distinctive.

★ ★ ★

The collection contains shirts, slacks, jackets and caps, all coordinated for mix-and-match possibilities.

They're made of typical work clothes fabrics, like cotton poplin, gingham, lightweight denim, printed sailcloth, chambray, cotton chino, ivy-striped twill, sport duck.

★ ★ ★

There are four basic color schemes—brown, blue, red and green. Within each group are harmonizing shades, such as charcoal, white and black in the red group. There are solids, patterns, plaids, checks, stripes.

FREEDOM, COMFORT

Yet the cut is distinctly workish—no cuffs on the trousers, for safety; shirts cut to follow body lines, for ease of movement; ample pockets; collar neckline that allows for freedom and comfort.

★ ★ ★

These are not on the market yet, but manufacturers have shown so much interest in them that chances are they will be soon. Just be patient.

7 New Members for Study Club

Mrs. W. Harry Lunsford, Mrs. Harry Eaton, Mrs. William Cox, Mrs. Andrew McVean, Mrs. John Braid, Mrs. Russell Oliver and Mrs. Robert Gorman were elected to membership of Parliamentary Study Club when that group met Wednesday in Pontiac Masonic Temple.

Mrs. Joseph Phillips was leader of the day with Mrs. Paul Gorman as sponsor. Mrs. Pierre Shaver was president of the demonstration group.

Medical Assistants Install Officers

Mrs. Frances Teasdale was installed Wednesday evening as president of Oakland County Medical Assistants Association.

Mrs. Hal Bjork was installed as vice president; Mrs. Arlene Polzin, corresponding secretary; Verona Gems, recording secretary, and Alma Forti, treasurer.

Mrs. Sarah Siddons, noted English actress, was 76 years old when she died in 1831.

Thermostat May Be Set —Left Alone

MINNEAPOLIS (INS) — Proper thermostat treatment can give you warm winters without wasting heat and money.

★ ★ ★

Hands off is the best policy to follow if the unit is to perform the function for which it was designed: timing and regulating the amount of heat you want. Remember, engineers (at Minneapolis-Honeywell) warn, frequent "jiggling" or resetting during the day or evening causes unnecessary and wasteful overheating. Experiment to find the ideal indoor climate, set the thermostat and forget it.

Turning the thermostat back several degrees each night and up again in the morning is a good fuel-conservation measure, if you do not have a fully automatic model.

Turn the manual unit down about an hour before bedtime and stored heat will keep you warm. Conversely, there'll be times when you may wish to turn the setting upward a few notches to make your rooms extra snug.

Needless tampering, the experts explain, using the unit as a switch to turn the furnace on or off, results in an uncomfortable seesawing of temperatures that should be avoided.

★ ★ ★

Don't overset the thermostat when you're looking for more heat in a hurry. If you wish to increase a room's temperature from 70 to 73 degrees, for instance, set the dial for the exact amount—pushing it ahead ten degrees cannot make the furnace work faster.

In the last 150 years, treasure-hunters have spent about 1½ million dollars seeking gold and jewels reputed to have been buried on Oak Island in Mahone Bay, Nova Scotia.

No Tight Money in Nevada

'57 Casino Winnings Soar

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — The so-called tight money market hasn't made itself felt on Nevada's legal gambling tables.

In fact, gambling house winnings during April, May and June, as reported to the State Tax Commission, indicate that somebody has more money than ever to spend.

★ ★ ★

Nevada casinos won 35 million dollars in those three months. That's 5½ million more than they won in the same period last year and only 4 million less than they took in during the record winning season of July-August-September 1956. Summer figures for 1957 are expected to set a new record.

State officials are at a loss to explain the ever-increasing gambling business.

You seldom hear of major individual losses any more. The last big one was $50,000 lost by a man the night a plush hotel opened in Las Vegas last spring. In the late 40s, single losses up to $350,000 were not infrequent.

"I guess there are just more $5 and $10 players who lose their money quick and go on their way," said one top gambling official.

Las Vegas accounted for about 60 per cent of the increased gambling take. Reno showed only a half-million-dollars increase compared with the 3½ million jump in Las Vegas.

Sao Paulo's Strike in Its Fourth Day

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—Federal troops were on the alert today to move against any further violence in a four-day-old strike by 90 per cent of the industrial workers in Sao Paulo, South America's largest industrial center.

★ ★ ★

Fifty persons have been injured in clashes between some of the 400,000 industrial workers striking for higher pay and armed factory guards.

President Juscelino Kubitschek placed the 2nd Brazilian Army at the disposal of Sao Paulo Gov. Janio Quadros. Labor leaders said they would call for a nationwide general strike if troops were used.

★ ★ ★

The industrial workers walked out Tuesday to support a demand for 45 per cent wage increases. Their pay now ranges from the national nimimum of 3,800 cruzeiros ($46) to 15,000 cruzeiros ($185) a month.

Labor leaders cited government statistics showing a 30 per cent increase in the cost of living since 1955.

Saffron is about the most expensive of modern food spices. It sells at $58 a pound, wholesale.

SPINNERS LOVE — Dan Chandler, of 687 E. Madison Ave., is the prince charming who wins the heart of Sherry Everett, of 557 Lowell St., the Miller's daughter, in the spinning wheel fairy tale of "Rumpelstiltskin" to be presented by the Pontiac High School Speech Department next week.

Junior Highs Plan Assemblies, P.T.S.A. Work

Lincoln Junior High School students are enjoying a four-day weekend as the faculty attends a two day teachers conference, freeing the students for home and work activities.

Students at Lincoln have been hustling all week as they attempt to get in last minute reports, papers, speeches, etc., as the first marking period for the semester comes to a close.

James Bruno and Burton Stockwell of the hall guard crew check the report cards of all members to see that they have kept eligible to keep their posts. Forrest White and the Honor and Awards Committee are checking the cards for outstanding achievement in preparation for the semester awards.

The faculty at Lincoln played a bit on Wednesday evening as over 50 members gathered at the circle at Pontiac High School to take a Mystery Bus Trip which included a Detroit stage show, Sidney Jones and his committee left nothing undone to provide pleasure and surprises for the affair.

The flu bug and colds have taken a toll of about 16 per cent of the students. The number has been dropping through the week as the students battled to take the right pills to get back to school.

Lawrence Ware and the yard crew at Lincoln maintenance department are completing the pruning and cultivating of the school campus to ready it for winter.

AT WASHINGTON

The ninth grade Girls' Service Club of Washington Junior High School is entertaining the seventh grade girls at a series of breakfasts. This is a phase of the operation of the Big Sister service of the organization.

An election was held recently to choose grade representatives for the Parent-Teacher-Student-Association Executive Board. Those eligible as candidates were current representatives to the Student Council. Elected were: Cathy Jackson, seventh grade; Sharon Blacklaw, eighth grade; Charles Christensen, ninth grade.

The first meeting of the Washington Parent-Teacher-Student Association will be Thursday, October 24, at the school at 8 p.m.

★ ★ ★

Fire Prevention Week observances were closed with an assembly featuring a movie and brief talk by Fire Marshal Charles Metz. Fire drills this fall have cleared the building in less than two minutes.

Ninth grade homerooms will present an assembly program next Friday welcoming all new students to Washington.

AT MADISON

Members of the ninth grade vocal class at Madison Junior High held their first musical assembly of the year Thursday.

Against a backdrop of red velvet, the concert choir appeared, wearing their new green and gold robes. Among the numbers presented by the choir was the "Halls of Ivy" and the top hit of the day "Tammy," featuring Clara Dawson as soloist accompanied by the choir in a humming background.

A script to introduce each of the choir numbers was read by Jerry Heard. The program concluded with the entire student body singing the Madison Fight Song.

★ ★ ★

The concert choir was directed by David Stimac, and accompanied at the piano by William Coffing.

Donald Porritt, teacher advisor of Madison's Hall Guards, has chosen the officers for this semester. They are David TerMarsch, Captain, with Barbara Berryman and Janet Suckow as Lieutenants.

Other members of this force include ninth graders, Martha Mallory, Frank Williams, Ted Lorenzen, Charles Johnson, Carlos Gomez, James Capistrant, Clara Dawson, Robert Kuhn, Carla Pierce, David Moczarski, Judy Runyan.

Eighth graders are Donald Vance, Janice Starkey, April Krupa, William Sweeney, John Pease, Larry Threet, Pamela Goode, Leroy Putsey, Susan TerMarsch, Arthur Solomon, Harold Nichols, and Larry Sherrod.

Completing the force are seventh graders Pamela Pritchard, Elizabeth Barton, John Bilkey, Nancy Morris, Kaye Gorsline, Ronald Course, Sandra McDermott, Jerry Chestnut, Michael Moczarski, Dennis Hubble, Gary Pocchiola, Terry Hilliard, and Harry Helzer.

★ ★ ★

Plans are set for a record dance for Madison students in the cafeteria on October 25th at the close of the school day.

Monday will see the beginning of the Madison P.T.S.A. membership drive. Mrs. Lee McCartney, chairman of the membership committee is being assisted by Thomas Shara from the school staff.

Each homeroom has been assigned a quota based on the number of parents in the homeroom. The results of the campaign, which aims for 450 members, will be recorded on a large thermometer displayed in the library reading room. Student members of this committee are: Jane McEachern, Flora McCartney, Lynne Anderson, Michael McCartney, and Brenda Keesling.

"Rumplestiltskin" Opens at Pontiac High Monday

By WILLIAM BANK

The annual Children's Theater play, produced by the Pontiac High School Speech Department and sponsored by the Pontiac Chapter of the Association for Childhood Education, will be Rumplestiltskin.

The play will be presented in five matinee performances, Monday through Friday at 3:30 and one evening performance, Thursday, at 8:00.

Tickets for the matinees cost 30 cents and are only available through the Pontiac and Waterford grade schools.

The cost of evening performance tickets is 50 cents and may be obtained from any member of the Playcrafters or at the high school. These tickets can be exchanged for regular reserved seat tickets at the P.H.S. box office starting Monday.

Bob Thompson will play the part of Rumplestiltskin and Sherry Everett portrays the Miller's daughter. Social Workers Elect Officers at St. Fred's

By PAT FOSTER

The Social Workers Club at St. Frederick High School elected officers this week.

They are: Becky Schutt, president; Brian Dirker, vice-president; Judy Warrilow, secretary, and Julie Gardener, treasurer.

Tomorrow night a get-acquainted party will be held at the YWCA, 22 Franklin Blvd., for all prospective social workers in the schools of the Pontiac area.

Plans for the St. Frederick yearbook are making definite headway. A patron drive sponsored by the seniors as a method of raising the necessary funds for the "Ramrod" got into swing Monday and closed today.

Unfortunately due to the present flu epidemic the Rams were unable to tackle their southside foes at St. Michael High School Sunday.

The Future Teachers Club got under way Monday night after school, when they taught the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine classes.

In another division of the F.T.A. some of the girls are teaching speech classes Wednesday nights after school.

Junior Achievement Active at St. Mike's

By MICHAEL BUCHANAN

All this week, juniors and seniors have been spending an evening at the Junior Achievement Center on Pike Street.

At this first meeting of the school year, they were assigned their rooms and met their advisers from the supporting companies around the city who will work with them and give them technical advice.

Later on, student officers will be elected in the various companies.

The members will select the product they wish to manufacture, plan the production system, advertise and sell. Most companies have a very good profit from the article at the end of the year.

The last part of last week brought a Naval officer and two men to speak on the Navy Reserve program. They listed all the advantages of the reserve, distributed pamphlets to the junior and senior boys, and invited them to come to the center.

First Marking Period Ends Today

Waterford High Students Ready for Report Cards

By SANDY CLEMENCE

Today is the end of the first marking period at Waterford Township High School. The library has really had a workout as last-minute themes were frantically written. Report cards will be issued Wednesday.

A Michigan Education Association teacher's institute yesterday and today was the occasion for a two-day holiday at WTHS. Students had a chance to recuperate from those exams.

After the victory over Berkley last week, the Waterford Skippers are ready for the Southfield High School Jays tonight. A dance will be held in the WTHS gym following the football game.

At the Future Social Workers Club meeting Monday guest speaker Oriel Endelman, executive secretary of the Michigan Children's Aid Society, talked about her work with adoptions.

The school talent assembly, cancelled last week because of the large increase in absenteeism due to flu, was held Wednesday under the direction of Patti Looman, dramatics advisor.

FLU POSTPONES EVENTS

Because the groups presenting the operetta and the play will not be ready on schedule due to the flue epidemic these events have been rescheduled for a week later — the play, November 8 and 9, and the operetta, November 21 and 23.

A committee of student council members has been formed to take care of food concessions and requests for them for dances, club activities and games because of the great amount of work to be done on them.

★ ★ ★

Members of the committee are: Ricky Eriksen, Lenora Schack, Jane Dovletian, Elaine Elliott, Karen Dickman, Betty Steeler, and Beverly Swift. Donald Arsen will be the faculty advisor.

Thespians, the dramatics club honorary society, have announced their officers for this year. They include: Dayton Thomason, president; Ruth Ann DeGrow, vice president; Carole Tynan, secretary-treasurer; and Don North, pledge-master.

Beth Rose, 1957 editor of the Waterlog and the year-book itself were honored with a Gold Medal of Distinction from the National Yearbook Exchange Club. This rating gives Waterford Township High School a ranking of about 85 per cent in comparison with other yearbooks in the country.

Hold Lake Orion, Walled Lake's Tonight

Homecoming Celebrations Reign Throughout County

Many of the homecoming celebrations throughout the county high schools this fall are being held tonight.

AT LAKE ORION

The big question at Lake Orion High School today is: "Who will be the homecoming queen?"

The election of the queen and her court took place on Wednesday, but the identity of the queen will not be known until half-time tonight during the coronation ceremony.

Candidates for the coveted honor of queen are: seniors Sharron Lamothe and Eleanor Hatfield and juniors, Gail Cook and Judy Rose. In addition to the above girls two will be chosen for the court from freshmen Sally Beaty and Tana Peck and sophomores Sharron Smith and Diane Dolecek.

AT WALLED LAKE

Homecoming tonight at Walled Lake High School is going to be a big event for everyone.

Many clever posters and promotion ideas by the junior and senior section of the Pep Club will boost game spirit. These line the halls, walls and even ceilings of the school.

The choosing of the homecoming queen and her court also livened the student body. Nominations for the royalty were made by popular vote of the student body. Four candidates were chosen from the senior class, three from the junior, and two from the sophomore class.

Last week the football team chose by secret ballot the queen and her court. Fran DeSormier, cheerleader captain, was elected queen with Kay Armstrong as senior attendant. Rosemary Kreza is the junior attendant and Karen Tuttle sophomore attendant.

A bonfire and snake dance precedes tonight's game. Also, a parade of floats will be held prior to the game.

There will be a dance following the game at the Walled Lake High School sponsored by the senior class. The official crowning of the queen will then be performed by John Muth, senior class president.

AT AVONDALE

Avondale High School varsity cheerleaders accompanied by their coach, Miss Jacqueline LeBeau, will attend a clinic at Ypsilanti tomorrow. The cheerleading clinic will be held in the fieldhouse of Eastern Michigan College.

During the day, the cheerleaders will be given ideas to improve cheering techniques, and each school group will be judged on the performance of two cheers.

Seven girls attending are: Carol Atwood, Joan Bourdo, Barbara and Pat Parker, Zadell and Venette Hysmith, and Janet Wischart.

Rehearsals for Melody Jones, the senior play, are under the direction of Carol Bristol and Larry More, co-production managers.

Student director is Nancy McLintock; business manager, Marie Tate; and publicity Irene Taylor. The make-up committee consists of Zadell Hysmith, Lorena Lucas, Judy Ward and Pat Denton. Prompters are Kathy Morris and Kathy McHugh. Sets, lights and sound effects will be handled by Richard Roy, Tom Neighbors, Elaine Line and Bonnie Koschke.

AT WEST BLOOMFIELD

West Bloomfield High School students are making plans for the Homecoming weekend, October 25 and 26.

Queen Elizabeth Never Looked Lovelier

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

WASHINGTON (INS) — At the tricky age of 31 — when nature often begins making serious passes at a girl, and men often stop — Queen Elizabeth has never looked lovelier.

On the face of it, this would seem an excellent recommendation for a life of wreath and cornerstone-laying, horse and child raising, and being fed your vitamins on a silver spoon.

PASS IN HOLLYWOOD

There's more concrete stuff than this, however, to explain why Elizabeth the queen could now pass muster in Hollywood whereas 10 years ago, when she married Philip Mountbatten, she could have climbed the Eiffel Tower on a Sunday without a Frenchman's thinking to try a pick-up.

Elizabeth — "Betty," as Philip has been heard to call her — has finally gotten smart, in both the Webster and Dior senses of the word, about what clothes look good on her.

She always has had a spine that could outclass a steel superstructure for purpose and rigidity, so it has nothing to do with posture.

PLAY DISCARDS RIGHT

It's just that somewhere along the line, in the past couple of years, the queen has learned what most American girls learn in freshman high school, and that is: If you play your discards right, you can look like a girl instead of a dowager.

When she came to Canada and Washington as a princess back in 1951, her fragile majesty was even thinner than she is today, it seemed — but she managed to look 10 pounds heavier. She certainly didn't photograph well.

The trouble was that she is shaped in a dainty version of her mother when young; something like Jane Russell, in general format, with slightly less at the hip.

On Elizabeth, however, the pattern managed to look matronly, because of dresses that allowed bows and other exaggerated nonsense above her waistline—hiding her figure, and at the same time overemphasizing its disproportion (by America's longer, slimmer standards).

On this trip, a magical transformation has taken place. The furbelows have been taken away from the bodice and transferred to the skirt. There is no attempt to be out-and-out conservative, as Elizabeth obviously once thought a queen must be.

She is wearing every stylish new trend except the chemise. And who knows — she may even have one of these sack dresses with her, holding it back as a tooth-dropper for little ol' New York.

There's been some talk that the reason for this change to gay-colored suits, coats and dresses, cut in the latest vogue, is that the long-established court couturier, Norman Hartnell, is being challenged by an upstart named Hardy Amies, some of whose dresses are also in the queen's travel wardrobe.

I don't go for that theory, having concocted what seems to be a reasonable one of my own. About the age of 30, every woman takes a second look at herself (the first look came at about 18) and decides what she can do to better herself.

With a good looking husband who obviously admires good looking women, Elizabeth simply used good, solid sense.

She stopped dressing to please an empire, and started dressing to outdo her contemporaries.

New Restaurant Dropping China, All Glassware

WILMINGTON, Del. (INS) — A dishwasher's dream came true when a Wilmington restaurant opened for business yesterday without a single piece of glassware or china.

Food was served on paper cups and plates, making dishwashing necessary only for utensils.

Owner Henry C. Steinle said he decided on the innovation because patrons appreciate the cleanliness of paper; breakage is eliminated, and his waitresses are spared the toting of about half-a-ton of dishes per day.

Soviets to Unveil Mystery Arms at Celebration

MOSCOW (INS) — New Soviet mystery weapons will share the spotlight with the world's top Communist leaders at the Nov. 7 celebration of the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Some foreign correspondents have been able to get a sneak preview of the great Red Square military "roll past" during the midnight rehearsals being held in Moscow.

These rehearsals have featured a tarpaulin-covered tractor-drawn weapon nearly 100 feet long. The most widely held opinion is that it is either a gigantic atomic cannon or a display model of the Soviet Union's intercontinental ballistic missile.

All the mystery weapons are closely guarded by tommy-gun toting soldiers, which means the public will have to wait until Nov. 7 to find out what is really behind the "canvas curtain."

The greatest gathering of Communist chieftains in history also will be on hand for the gigantic anniversary celebration.

Mackinac Island Plans to Restore Fur Post

MACKINAC ISLAND (AP) — The City Council of this historic island in northern Lake Huron says it will go along with plans to restore a fur trading post if the legislature will appropriate $65,000 for the job.

By a 4-2 vote the City Council last night approved giving an option to the Mackinac Island State Park to buy the old clerk's quarters on the island for $1 any time before Aug. 1, 1958.

The deal is contingent on legislative approval of a $65,000 expenditure to rebuild the log structur that once housed a John Jacob Astor clerk in the fur trading business.

You put a lifeline in my hand

I was alone. Alone in a bleak world I did not know or understand. There was no light, no joy, no future.

I was blind!

And then you put a lifeline in my hand. It's a short line. Just an eight-inch dog leash. But it takes me to the world outside my room. Your 1956 Torch Drive dollars taught me to use this line. Once again, I can come and go like other people. I can work! I can even walk down to the park at night . . . thanks to you.

Your dollars helped me. But there are many others like me. Part of every Torch Drive dollar you give will go to help the blind. Give again, and give generously, won't you?

Why You Should Give

By giving to the UF, you give to those who cannot help themselves. The UF is a permanent, non-profit organization created to unite 55 separate appeals for funds into one annual drive.

How Much You Should Give

Consider how much you would give if each appeal were conducted separately — then let your conscience be your guide. Decide on your gift and show Pontiac . . . and the world . . . that your heart is bigger than ever.

Hal Boyle Says:

Accident-Prone Drivers Cause 1 in 5 Fatals

NEW YORK (AP)—One out of five of the 95,000 persons killed in accidents in America in 1956, it is estimated, was accident-prone.

"Accident-proneness is a disease, a psychosomatic manifestation of a disease process," said Dr. John Henderson.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Henderson, medical director of Johnson & Johnson, New Brunswick, N. J., is one of a growing number of experts in the field who feel that the nation's high accident rate cannot be effectively lowered until it is realized that accident-proneness is an ailment, just as are alcoholism and heart attacks, and proper treatment is employed.

★ ★ ★

The accident toll last year, beside 95,000 dead, included 9,500,000 injured, of whom 350,000 suffered permanent physical impairment. The National Safety Council estimated the cost at $11,200,000,000 in property damage and time lost from work.

As the result of studies, scientists now feel they can often detect by psychological tests the accident-prone person, who is usually either maladjusted emotionally or immature in judgment, or both.

★ ★ ★

"Accident-proneness is partly a matter of age," said Dr. Henderson. "It is not altogether an accident that the leading cause of death from the age of 1 to about 25 is—accidents. This is the period of greatest rebellion, repression and emotional conflict.

"After 30 the tendency to have accidents begins to fall off. But there is much truth in an old adage of the insurance business—after three accidents luck is no longer the major factor in the picture."

Are you accident-prone yourself? You may be, according to Dr. Henderson, if:

1. You are fundamentally resentful against anyone or anything in life, carry a deep personal sense of guilt, or brood about your problems while you are at work or behind the wheel of a car;
2. You haven't won the acclaim you feel you deserve in an important field, and you drive fast or dangerously merely to call attention to yourself; or
3. You become flustered in any emergency, and react emotionally—instead of with mature and immediate judgment.

★ ★ ★

"The ability to recognize these feelings of resentment and guilt is the key to gaining maturity," said Dr. Henderson. "Otherwise, they are polite ways of self-murder, leading the individual unconsciously to destroy himself.

"I believe that at least half the accidents in industry and the home and on the highways could be avoided. But this requires two things—the ability of accident-prone individuals to have insight into their personality problems and face up to the task of becoming well-adjusted; the detection by psychologic tests of accident-prone persons who are a menace to both themselves and others on the highway or in many industrial jobs."

★ ★ ★

But is it possible for an accident-prone person ever really to become safe?

"Yes, very definitely," said Dr. Henderson. "He should talk out his problem with friends, his minister, his physician. Once he recognizes his problem, and adjusts to it, he can become a safe person."

But he does have to face his problem—and conquer it by growing up.

Lodge Expressway Dedication Nov. 7

LANSING (AP)—Formal dedication of the 19 million dollar John C. Lodge Expressway in Detroit will take place Nov. 7, the State Highway Department announces.

The tri-level Davison-Lodge interchange, the next to last phase of the nine-mile project, will be opened to traffic the same day, the department said.

★ ★ ★

A half-mile section connecting the south end of the expressway with Civic Center in downtown Detroit is expected to be ready for traffic next year.

Completion of the Lodge Expressway will permit uninterrupted traffic from the Detroit River to Northwestern Highway in the city's northwest residential section.

It is also expected that at the dedication the department will announce the state's plans for an expanded expressway system in Detroit as part of the one and one-quarter billion dollar road building program covering the next five years.

Britain's imperial crown has nearly 3,000 diamonds and 300 pearls. It will accompany the Queen on her visit to the United States.

Potter Asks Creation of Scientific Agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Potter (R-Mich) today proposed creation of a "scientific progress agency" to help the United States meet the challenge of the space satellite era.

★ ★ ★

Potter said in a letter to President Eisenhower that the launching of the Russian earth satellite Oct. 4 required a revamping of U. S. perspectives.

★ ★ ★

Explaining his suggestion for a new agency, he said "at present no one federal body has authority for the monumental over-all policymaking task which is called for."

★ ★ ★

The Michigan Senator said the chief of such an agency should have cabinet-level rank and should sit in the National Security Council, which plans military and foreign policies.

★ ★ ★

Potter thus added his voice to those of other Congress members of both parties who have been proposing changes in federal programs to meet the new Soviet achievement. However, Potter did not echo any of the criticisms some of his Democratic colleagues aimed at the Eisenhower administration.

Expect Sputniks to Solve Mystery of Mars' Canals

MOSCOW (INS) — Soviet scientists expect Sputnik III—the Russian earth satellite after next—to solve the mystery of the canals on Mars and penetrate the frontiers of the known universe with space telescopes.

Envisioning a powerful "seeing eye" in space at a "Sputnik Victory Rally" in downtown Moscow last night, six scientists told a cheering crowd of 2,000 that telescopes on future sputniks would be able to send back "pictures" to earth by television.

★ ★ ★

They said such "spaceoscopes" high above the earth will have free atmosphere vision and perhaps may discover solar glaxies whose existence man has never even suspected.

★ ★ ★

The sputnik of the future, according to the scientists, should be able to distinguish objects as small as 36 feet on the moon and 1.2 miles long on Mars.

This, they said, should be able to clear up the mystery of the Martian "canals" and determine what they really are.

Cool Thinking Needed on National Outlook

Critical Study Relieves Business Woes; Labor Responsibility Issue to Congress

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
INS Economic Writer

What with the earth satellite and the downward revision of market valuations of corporate shares, it is a time for cool thinking.

It should not scare courageous and rational men to have these reminders that no social or economic planners have outlawed risk.

★ ★ ★

To offset the widespread wishful thinking, it is well to point out that risk-taking is a function of the business executive and the speculator. Even if the security holder calls himself a long term investor, he cannot run away from hazards in a changing world.

Long term, there has been a highly constructive aspect to the recurrent tendency of business management to become self-critical and to do internal searching for maladjustments. This approach tends to stretch out good times, and is more healthy than overconfidence at the top of the boom.

Since the end of World War II, this attitude has resulted in corrections at various times industry by industry, instead of simultaneously in one fell swoop in the national economy as a whole. Socially, the cycle of rolling readjustments has been fortuitous, for on balance it has kept high opportunities for gainful employment.

WHAT LIES AHEAD?

Potentially, what could be ahead of a favorable nature?

First, there is a strong possibility that next year during the Congressional election contest both parties in Congress will vie for credit in raising everyman's "take-home pay" by cutting taxes.

Secondly, thoughtful appraisers of the future economic trend would be heartened by sound Congressional action to set up better standards of responsibility for labor unions.

It would not be enough merely to tighten the rules safeguarding union dues and trust funds. In addition, there should be a more equitable approach to balancing union power with standards of responsibility. There should also be an attempt to set a single standard—the same one for business and for the unions.

★ ★ ★

This issue involves dealing, for example, with the current exemption of the unions from the inhibitions of the anti-trust laws. It would not be progress if the pendulum swung too far, and resulted in emotional union baiting in Congress.

PUBLIC READY FOR CHANGE

It would appear that the defiance of the Senate Rackets Committee and of the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee by the Teamsters in electing Jimmy Hoffa as president will help to crystallize public readiness for remedial new legislation in the labor-management field.

Thirdly, the prospects of population growth lays a basis for long term economic expansion.

Fourthly, the new enthusiasm of management for maintaining volume of sales as the key to profits is a factor making for high level employment. This desire is implemented by unprecedented business expenditures for research, for new product exploration and for promotion. Effective selling often starts on the drawing board. And, on the promotional side, thoughtful management is recognizing that, if additional promotional effort brings the coveted volume, management can be lavish in budgeting such activities.

Fifthly, while the popular tendency is to overvalue the cushioning effect of new social legislation in averting a depression, governmental policy has been supplemented by changes in management philosophy and by the changing composition of the work force. As for the latter, relatively fewer persons are employed in the physical production of goods, and relatively more in the service occupations, which are more stable and less cyclical.

Bob Considine Says:

Press Attends Banquet--Never Sees Queen

WASHINGTON (INS) — Funny thing happened to me at dinner with Queen Elizabeth the other night in Williamsburg. Didn't see her.

She must have been there. Staring at a wall in the corner in which the press table had been pitched, one was aware of certain shuffling of feet and an occasional command indicating Her Majesty's arrival, a toast being offered to her, the toast she gracefully gave in return, her speech (which got two good laughs) and her departure.

★ ★ ★

Fortunately, the royal tour is armed with a mimeograph machine, and some generally invisible but somehow efficient press agents. Though Her Majesty was as out of sight as the green on a tricky dog-leg golf hole, we knew back at our table with the two nice dames from AP and UP and the gentlemen from Reuters and the Canadian Press that she wore "white satin, bell-shaped skirt, crystals, diamonds, pearls, moonstones, sapphires, with a diamond and pearl tiara."

Must have looked wonderful. She's a beautiful woman, I think. It's a pity she has such a hard job. She has to know more things than John Kieran used to know on "Information Please." And she gets no time-and-a-half for overtime.

"Whose Magna Carta is it?" she asked the curator at the Old World Pavillion at Jamestown festival, as she surveyed the 13th century medieval Latin script of the priceless document — perhaps the best of three in existence.

The man swallowed uncomfortably. "Yours, Your Majesty," he said.

Seems she had lent it to the Festival for the duration.

★ ★ ★

Our remote table at the Governor's formal dinner was graced by one of the most attractive women I've ever seen, Mrs. Alonzo Dill, wife of the brilliant young assistant administrative director of the Jamestown-Williamsburg-Yorktown celebration. Both he and his wife are former newspaper people who have worked two hard years on this affair.

Mr. Dill, who formerly worked for Virginia's great journalist, Virginius Dabney (an old tennis buddy of mine a few springs back), revealed that shortly after the dust settles at Williamsburg it will be kicked up again Saturday by a reenactment of the battle of Yorktown. Some 2,000 men will engage in this restoration of the closing act of the war that gave Elizabeth's forebears the boot and led to a certain unilateral sword exchange on the part of Lord Cornwallis.

Two thousand army (U.S.) boys, half of them dressed as red coats, will engage in the return fight, waged on the same field that brought the Revolutionary War to a close. Asked if this was wise, at this particular time of the Sputnik and the condition of the stock market, Mr. Dill delicately deferred to Mrs. Dill.

★ ★ ★

"We'll get through in time for tea and win again," she said, and I was not one to doubt her in the least. Mr. Dill took a dimmer view, however. He told a Friday dress rehearsal the return bout would be held Saturday between two and four p.m. "If there were any survivors."

This is a big occasion for members of the Centennial Legion of Historic Commands, a group of patriots quartered in most of the original 13 states. They'll parade around the battlefield with a stout heart which will overcome any ailing foot — these worthies from the Richmond Blues, the Governor's Foot Guard of Connecticut, the Rhode Island Militia, the Washington Light Infantry of Charleston, S. C., The Independent Light Infantry of Fayetteville, N. C., and the Irregulars of etc.

★ ★ ★

Elizabeth's two jokes at Williamsburg were written in, or ad-libbed, at the Williamsburg dinner. They were references to George III, who goofed off the United States, and George Washington, another relative who won the duke in that particular revolution. She spoke her lines well, at the end of a day that would have killed a horse. Without being able to see her, one could sense that the poor dear's feet hurt and she'd like to get out of the shoes.

House Committee Asks CAB Files

WASHINGTON (AP)—An old conflict over congressional access to records of government agencies recurs today before the House Committee on Legislative Oversight.

★ ★ ★

Chairman Moulder (D-Mo) summoned officials of the Civil Aeronautics Board to an afternoon hearing before the committee which is assigned to determine whether regulatory agencies are carrying out the intent of Congress.

The committee wants to know why the CAB declines to give it full access to CAB records.

Moulder said CAB's action is "wholly without basis in precedent or law."

★ ★ ★

Among material withheld were interagency communications on international aviation routes, working memoranda of a board member and his assistant, and CAB members' personal files.

Hippocrates, the famed physician among the early Greeks, blamed many eye ailments upon changes in the weather.

Bob Mathias Is New Papa, Gets Star Part in Feature

By DOROTHY MANNERS
(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Athletic champion Bob Mathias became a papa and received the biggest news of his acting career all in one week. John Wayne, who holds Mathias' contract, is buying the "Steve Canyon" comic strip for both a TV series and a feature film starring Bob.

It will be something of a family affair with Wayne's son, Mike, acting as producer for his dad's Batjac productions.

First, Mathias stars in "The Alamo" also for Wayne starting as soon as Duke finishes "The Townsend Harris Story" for 20th in Japan.

Frank Sinatra has bought the Al Jolson estate in Palm Springs which gives Frankie one of the most lavish properties in the desert resort.

Consisting of a main house, a guest house, pool and three acres of lawn and orchards, the late mammy singer's home is a fit setting for the thin singer, who is at the peak of his career right now just as Jolson was when he bought it.

Just to make sure he gets the privacy he wants, and which he didn't have with his former desert home on Tamarisk Golf Club, Frank has bought the two lots adjoining the Jolson property.

Marlon Brando wants to make a picture with his bride Anna Kashfi for his independent Pennybaker company. But as he owns no suitable property there's a strong chance he'll listen to Arthur Freed's offer to co-star with Anna in "White Shadows of the South Seas" at MGM.

STRAIGHT LOVE DRAMA

Although Freed is a top producer of MGM musicals, there'll be no production numbers in this. "It will be a straight love drama as it was when Monte Blue and Raquel Torres played it originally in 1928," Freed tells me.

Rate Michigan 2 TD's Better Than Wildcats

Northwestern Expected to Make Homecoming a Happy One for 'M'

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan and Northwestern, still reeling from nightmarish defeats last week, meet here tomorrow, with the Wolverines two touchdown favorites.

It could develop into the "battle of the flu germ."

Michigan entery the game with 23 regulars weakened from bouts with the virus. But the same bug flattened 14 Wildcats during the week.

Most of the stricken players are expected to be recovered in time for tomorrow's 32nd traditional clash between the Big Ten rivals.

The game highlights Michigan's homecoming weekend. Old grads are expected to swell the crowd to about 74,000.

Both teams were slaughtered last week. The Wolverines, who had posted victories over Southern California and Georgia, were humbled 35-6 by Michigan State, the nation's No. 1 team.

Northwestern was crushed 41-6 by fourth-ranked Minnesota. The Wildcats lost to Stanford and Oregon State in their first two games. They have been unable to beat Michigan since 1951 when they eked out a 6-0 verdict.

The Wolverines, 34-20 winners last year, lead the series 21-8-2.

The Wildcats under second-year coach Ara Parseghian, are in the midst of an intense rebuilding program. Parseghian took over after a winless campaign in 1955 and led Northwestern to its best season in six years.

But evil days have again saddened the Northwestern campus, just when a bright season was predicted. The new regime of Parseghian and Athletic Director Stu Holcomb has made ambitious plans for the Wildcats. Recruiting has been vigorous and the Northwestern roster is dotted with the first arrivals, mostly from Ohio.

Parseghian himself has a Buckeye background, having coached Miami of Ohio to an upset victory over Northwestern in 1955. He and Holcomb have set 1959 as the target date when they expect to produce winning results. They have created themselves the toughest schedule in Northwestern history.

Opening with Oklahoma, the Wildcats go on to meet Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Notre Dame and Michigan State before the season ends.

BAD NIGHT FOR TERRY — Terry Sawchuk (1), Detroit Red Wing goalie, turns around after facing shot from Boston Bruins' Real Chevrefils to find the shot in the net in the 2nd period of their game at Detroit's Olympia last night. Chevrefils made it 5-0 with this shot and Boston won the game, 5-1. On the play, two Red Wing players, Bill Dineen (12) and Marcel Pronovost (3) took Chevrefils into the boards and the Bruin winger suffered a muscle injury and left the game.

Bruins Skate to 5-1 Victory

Wings Slapped Again

DETROIT (AP) — If there can be anything "good" about the Detroit Red Wings' third straight home defeat, it is that only 8,627 spectators were watching.

Chicago's Bill Mosienko once scored three goals in a 21-second span so it was nothing of even near-record performance when the Boston Bruins zoomed three goals past Terry Sawchuk last night within a 41-second period.

They were more than enough however, to carry the Bruins to a 5-1 triumph over the Wings, who now have dropped all three home games and won their only road venture.

Bronco Horvath, Vic Stasiuk and John (The Beast) Bucyk scored from 6:54 to 7:35 of the first period, breaking up what had been a redhot battle between two hard-fighting hockey teams.

The bang-bang-bang job by the Bruins took all but a little of the fight out of the Wings and it was little consolation at the 16:03 mark of the third period when rookie Bill McCreary spoiled goalie Don Simmons' shutout bid with the Wings' only tally.

Horvath, drafted from the Montreal Canadiens' farm system, scored twice in the opening period and assisted on the goals by Stasiuk and Bucyk. Real Chevrefils' goal in the second period put the Bruins into a comfortable 5-0 lead.

It was a frustrating night for the Wings. Warren Godfrey, veteran defenseman, had a rough night of things. The height of futility came in the second period when Bucyk knocked Godfrey down during a mild tussle near the Red Wing nets. Seconds later, Godfrey rushed at Bucyk only to find himself flat on the ice again.

When Marcel Pronovost of the Wings accidentally tripped up linesman Art Skov in the second period, someone in the press box commented "That's the first time the Wings have knocked anyone down this season."

★ ★ ★

For the record, the Bruins now have beaten Detroit in seven of their last nine meetings on Detroit ice.

★ ★ ★

Lorne Ferguson missed last night's game and may enter a Detroit hospital for treatment of his injured shoulder. There is a chance that Ferguson may not be back in action for another week.

NATION'S LEADING PASSER — Bob Winters, Utah State University quarterback, shows passing form which has put him at head of nation's aerial ground gaining with 45 completions in 83 attempts for a gain of 577 yards in 4 games.

Area bowlers, planning to enter the 1958 ABC tourney at Syracuse have only until Nov 5 to make reservations for specific dates and bowling times. Final entry date is Feb. 11 for the 65-day classic starting March 29.

Clawson grid coach Bob Acton calls his center Pat Haley "the best linebacker I have had since I came here." That covers six years.

★ ★ ★

One of the finest early season runners in the area has been Dave Catherman of Farmington. He has gained 316 yards on 65 carries in four games for a 4.5 average and leads the Falcons in scoring with 25 points. Dave also does the punting.

★ ★ ★

Henry Stram, who tried desperately to land a coaching job at West Point but was turned down last fall, was the fellow who plotted Notre Dame's slot-T offense which upended Army last week. He is an aide to Terry Brennan.

★ ★ ★

Almost coach Jerry Laycock is boosting fullback Frank Hartway to match his graduated brother Lee's feat of making the all-state team. Frank has averaged 100.5 yard per game rushing, can kick and run, excels at tackle on defense and is the team's best blocker. Sounds like he has a good case.

Ladies' Tourney Here Jan. 18

Elks Slate New Keg Event

A new feature sports event for the Pontiac area will be held here beginning Jan. 18, 1958 when the Pontiac Elks Club stages its 1st annual Ladies National Invitational Bowling tournament.

Entries have been sent out to 1,800 lodges in every part of the country, according to co-chairmen Donald Long and Peggy Bender.

All entries for the handicap tournament must be turned in by Dec. 1. Competition will be in team, doubles and singles with trophies to be awarded in each division as well as for all events (actual pins).

To be eligible for the big keg event, contestants must be sanctioned by the WIBC and be an Elks wife, widow, unmarried daughter or unmarried sister.

The length of the tourney will depend upon the number of entries. It will be run on consecutive weekends until all bowling is completed.

All activity is planned for the 12 automatic alleys at local lodge 810. One of the highlights of the new keg feature will be the awarding of a bowling ball to some lucky participant each weekend.

Entry blanks may be obtained from any lodge office or by contacting tournament secretary Eva Miller, 357 S. Roslyn Rd., Pontiac.

State 20 Point Choice to Beat Winless Purdue

Boilermaker Losses Have Been to Area Powers

EAST LANSING (AP) — The best winning college football team in the country against the best losing team.

That's the way the Saturday struggle shapes up when star-studded Michigan State, the No. 1 team in the nation, meets poor luck Purdue.

Michigan State swept through California 10-0 and then wrecked Michigan 35-6 to take top spot in the Associated Press poll from Oklahoma.

Purdue, meanwhile, lost its first three starts, 12-0 to revitalized Notre Dame, 21-17 to highly-rated Minnesota and 23-14 to Wisconsin.

"Who else has a schedule like us?" queried Purdue coach Jack Mollenkopf.

"Minnesota is No. 4, and we pushed them all around. Notre Dame is No. 8 and we didn't do bad and Wisconsin is in 13th place. So now we take on what everybody agrees is the top team in the country."

Mollenkopf has a point there.

And he says his team is going to keep right on trying.

"We have to improve an awful lot," he admitted, "or we are going to be run right out of the stadium

Statistics proved that statistics don't prove anything in that Purdue - Minnesota game. Purdue made 25 first downs and Minnesota six. Purdue had the ball 86 times and Minnesota 42.

Yet Minnesota, considered Michigan State's main rival for Big Ten championship and Rose Bowl honors, won the game.

★ ★ ★

Michigan State is a 20 point favorite right now with the odds makers. Not much change is expected, because it figures that way.

The Spartans used 67 men in the home opener against Indiana. Everybody but coach Duffy Daugherty's small son, who wasn't in uniform, got a chance against the Hoosiers.

The last two games, the State squad has been limited to 38 men by Big Ten travelling rules, so there are two complete teams and some fillers-in aching to perform again.

State had a longer than usual practice yesterday because the workout the previous day was sent indoors by rain. Coaches concentrated on sharpening up the Spartan offense with the emphasis on plays that worked well against Michigan.

PURDUE SPARKPLUG — The Purdue Boilermakers have been waiting three games for fullback Mel Dillard to show his 1956 form. The big guy, heart of the Boilermaker attack, will be running against Michigan State's top-ranked Spartans Saturday at East Lansing. A year ago he was the Big Ten's leading ball carrier.

Canadiens Slam Toronto, 9-3

Remain Tied for First as Richard Brothers Keep Rolling

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rumor has it around the National Hockey League today that the Montreal Canadiens will soon change their monicker to the "Richard Canadiens".

★ ★ ★

And there probably won't be many dissenting votes from the Montreal fans either if the Richard Brothers — Maurice "The Rocket" and Henri "the Pocket Rocket" — continue to keep the Canadiens in first place, even though it be in a tie with the Boston Bruins.

★ ★ ★

After the Canadiens 9-3 shellacking of the Toronto Maple Leafs last night, the Richard boys have scored 12 of their team's 25 goals and have 11 assists. This has enabled Montreal to keep half a hold on first place with the red hot Bruins, who won their fourth of the year without a loss or tie, 5-1, over Detroit.

★ ★ ★

The Richards seem to be taking turns in scoring and it was Henri's last night. He scored the "hat trick" with two first period goals and one in the third period, and had three assists. The Rocket scored twice, the second giving him a total of 499 for his NHL career, and also had two assists.

Pontiac Hunter Bags 200-Pound Bear—for a Rug

Stanley Tominsky Jr., 431 Marion Ave., Pontiac, wanted to get his mother a nice bear-skin rug. He already had one for himself (shot three years ago).

★ ★ ★

Recently he and two other Pontiac boys went to Germfask (UP) and Stan realized his hopes with a 200-pounder. Trip was Stan's 2nd this year, the first proving fruitless.

Tominsky's bear was discovered feeding on apples in fairly thick cover. It was downed at a distance of 80 yards, Stan says. A 2nd bear was seen as the shot was fired, but escaped in the woods.

With Tominsky were Bill Obret and Jerry Voorheis of Pontiac. The trio saw many partridge, ducks and rabbits, they reported.

Watch Out for Illini

Upset Time in Big Ten

CHICAGO (AP) — This is the time of the season upsets usually start cropping up in Big Ten football.

The most likely spot for a surprise on tomorrow's schedule appears at Champaign where coach Ray Eliot, a master of the ambush, has a homecoming incentive in keying his Illini for victory over unbeaten Minnesota.

On similar homecomings of 1955, and 1956, Eliot pulled upsets of Michigan and Michigan State.

Minnesota, with three straight triumphs, including two in conference play over Purdue and Northwestern, must be wary.

The Gophers, ranked No. 4 nationally, are rated a 13-point favorite with their two solid units directed by quarterbacks Bobby Cox and Dick Larson. Explosiveness is added by sophomore Billy Martin, a breakaway runner who averaged 5.2 yards in 11 trips in his collegiate debut last week against Northwestern.

Eliot undoubtedly will have a few tricks for this nationally televised engagement. Could be some spread stuff to utilize further the passing of Tom Haller, who completed 10 out of 13 passes for 183 yards in Illinois' 21-7 loss to Ohio State.

Rory Calhoun Favored

NEW YORK (AP) —Rory Calhoun, the middleweight division's strong man, is a 3-1 favorite to beat clever, elusive Rocky Castellani at Madison Square Garden tonight.

The 10-rounder between the 23-year old belter with the bulging biceps and the fleet-footed, seasoned Castellani headlines the first fight show in the Garden since last March. Evangelist Billy Graham, an ice show, and rodeo and other asserted events have occupied the arena, noted as the Palace of Pugilism.

Hawks, Badgers Meet in 'Bomb' Test

NEW YORK (INS) — The atom bomb tests will resume at Iowa City tomorrow when two irresistable forces, Iowa and Wisconsin, collide in a Big Ten battle of unbeatens.

Hawkeyes and Badgers have two of the most devastating attacks in the country, with Iowa's defending conference champions second only to Michigan State in total offense and Wisconsin third.

An air-vs-ground war shapes up, with the Badgers, boasting the second (to MSU again) most potent ground assault in the country and Iowa touting a forward passing offense topped only by Utah. To complicate matters further, Iowa has the country's best rushing defense.

Iowa, ranked fifth in this week's "top ten," is an early touchdown favorite. The Hawks have breezed past Utah State, Washington State and Indiana, while Wisconsin clobbered Marquette (60 to 6), West Virginia and Purdue.

Oklahoma is a 33-point choice to register its record 44th straight victory, at the expenses of Kansas.

Notre Dame rests up for next week's game with Pittsburgh and Army has a home edge against Pitt in a battle for Eastern supremacy.

Texas A & M is the 10-point pick in a Southwestern Conference headliner with Texas Christian, Oregon State is 7½ points at UCLA. Duke is favored by 26 points to whip Atlantic Coast rival Wake Forest and Auburn is favored by a single point to successfully invade Georgia Tech.

Other important Southwestern battles include undefeated Arkansas vs. Texas and SMU at Rice. In the Southeast, it's Tulane at Mississippi tonight, Kentucky at LSU and Mississippi St. at Florida.

Oregon is at Washington State for another top Pacific Coast game, Yale is at Cornell in the Ivy League feature and the Southern Conference offers William & Mary at VMI, Richmond at Citadel and West Virginia at George Washington in a game tonight.

Other major pairings include: Dartmouth-Holy Cross, Princeton-Colgate, Navy-Georgia, North Caroline State-Miami in another important Atlantic Conference game tonight; Alabama-Tennessee, Boston College-Villanova, Bucknell-Boston U., Penn-Brown, California-USC, Cincinnati-Marquette, Idaho-College of Pacific, Colorado-Kansas State, Columbia-Harvard, Houston-Oklahoma A&M, Iowa State-Missouri, Maryland-North Carolina, Nebraska-Syracuse, Penn State-Vanderbilt, Stanford - Washington, Utah - Denver, Brigham Young-Wyoming.

Lou Little Calls 'em

There is much to support the view that tomorrow's Army-Pitt game at West Point will be won by the strongest football force in the East. Navy, of course, may be the stumbling block and will have a chance later to prove it. But right now, Army and Pitt, each a one-time loser, are up there, with Navy close. I'm not forgetting the unbeaten Ivy Leaguers, Princeton and Dartmouth, both good ones and well coached, but not with the same manpower.

★ ★ ★

After its shaky start against Oklahoma, Pitt has developed well. When they played Oklahoma, the Panthers were just not far enough advanced against a team of Oklahoma's development and one which used so well the quick kick. The entire Pitt squad, notably the reserves, has improved since in games just about of the caliber Pitt's coaches might have desired. John Michelosen will be able to make replacements tomorrow with a good deal of confidence. Linemen and backs I saw only briefly in that first game have come along now. If Pitt wins tomorrow it will be on this reserve strength.

But the edge, it appears, belongs to Army. Army will be what Bob Zuppke used to call "a smart team, smarting under unexpected defeat." The Cadets came out of the Notre Dame game in good physical shape, but bitterly disappointed. Army has fast, aggressive, well-drilled power in this team, up forward and in the backfield.

From their balanced and unbalanced T formations, Anderson, Dawkins and Bourland can force Pitt to spread its defense with its outside running strength. And if Pitt concentrates defensive strength to stop Army running, it will find Bourland effective with his passes. The contrary can be true, of course, when Pitt has the ball with Kaliden throwing as they are much the same kind of team.

★ ★ ★

Army's reserves will be improved by last week's work. Morale will be good. I know Earl Blaik's ability to sharpen a team after defeat. Army will be up.

In the Midwest tomorrow, Wisconsin's sophomores will prove whether Iowa belongs in the first ten. It's the first test of the year for Iowa. Minnesota and Michigan State don't seem in much danger.

Down South, N.C. State can run into trouble tonight at Miami, though I have not forgotten those two good backs, Hunter and Christy. I may be wrong but I see a chance for Georgia Tech's sophomores to bounce back against unbeaten Auburn. Mississippi and Arkansas should continue unbeaten in their conferences against Tulane and Texas respectively.

The Pacific Coast presents an unusual picture, with California, USC and Washington winless, UCLA struggling against adversity, and Stanford twice beaten. Oregon State should beat UCLA, perhaps with some trouble. Oregon and Washington State are well matched.

Here's how they should come out:

FRIDAY NIGHT

Miami over North Carolina State — Miami's balanced power may break State's streak.

Mississippi over Tulane—Tulane attack not going consistently yet.

SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Texas A & M over Texas Christian—Aggies make good line pay off.

Virginia Tech over Virginia—But this one can jump either way.

Ohio State over Indiana—Buckeyes improving each week.

Iowa over Wisconsin—Biggest test yet for young Badgers.

Oklahoma over Kansas—Not the week for breaking Sooners' string.

Colorado over Kansas State—Colorado's offense too strong.

Michigan at Northwestern—Wolverines come back.

Michigan State at Purdue—State has too many good football players.

Southern California over California — Trojans will score more.

Oregon over Washington State—Oregon has developed quietly to be capable team.

Oregon State over UCLA—Uclans no push-over but State is too strong.

Stanford over Washington — Stanford's attack better.

Rutgers over Lehigh—Rutgers one of East's most improved outfits.

West Virginia over George Washington —Mountaineers' power can do it.

Army over Pittsburgh — Army speed edges improved Panthers.

Boston College over Villanova—Eagles' building varied attack each week.

Pennsylvania over Brown—Sound Penn team should break through this time.

Princeton over Colgate—Tigers' single-wing will click.

Columbia over Harvard — Close, but Lions get nod.

Yale over Cornell—Yale, but Elis need Winterbauer.

Holy Cross over Dartmouth—Holy Cross in a rugged one.

North Carolina over Maryland—Royal homecoming for Jim Tatum.

Navy over Georgia—Midshipmen back on course again.

Penn State over Vanderbilt — Vandy lacks necessary scoring punch.

Syracuse over Nebraska — Syracuse ready to strike stride now.

Tennessee over Alabama—Vols have developed scoring momentum.

Arkansas over Texas—Arkansas attacks well but defense must watch lapses.

Georgia Tech over Auburn—Tech on resourceful offense.

Duke over Wake Forest—Carlton, McElhaney, and good line strength.

Florida over Mississippi State—Florida has depth, size experience.

SATURDAY NIGHT

Rice over SMU—Rice has wider range of weapons.

Baylor over Texas Tech—Baylor big, with speed; Traylor a versatile back.

LSU over Kentucky—LSU moves the ball.

Milwaukee's appearance in the 1957 World Series marked the first time since 1946 that a National League western team made the classic. The St. Louis Cardinals won the NL flag in 1946.

Rugged Saginaw Comes to Town

Wisner Scene of Homecoming Game Tonight

Trojans Hope to Whip Chiefs and Ruin Gala Occasion at PHS

By BILL CORNWELL

It's Pontiac High School's Homecoming tonight at Wisner Stadium and a rugged Saginaw football team will do everything it can to spoil the whole affair for the Chiefs.

Coach Herb Korf's Trojans come to Pontiac with only one victory in four starts, but the record is deceiving.

Last week, for example, they won all but the final score against Flint Northern. They pushed the Vikings up and down the gridiron, then dropped a 14-7 decision on a touchdown punt return late in the contest.

Their lone disaster was a 54-6 drubbing by powerful Midland two weeks ago when they were weakened by an invasion of flu.

They opened the season with a 6-6 deadlock against Grand Rapids South and followed with a 13-0 triumph over Bay City Handy for their sole win.

This is an important Saginaw Valley Conference game for both schools, probably even more so for the Trojans as far as title hopes are concerned.

Saginaw has already lost one league game and another setback will spell curtains for its title ambitions. Pontiac won its league opener last Friday, stunning heavily favored Saginaw Arthur Hill, 20-12.

Operating behind these front line bulwarks are Dick Jones, a slick operator at quarterback, and fullback Bob Yauck, a 212-pound block-buster.

Pontiac will be outweighed and outmanned, which will put its stamina to a severe test.

Playing under the 1st year tutelage of Jesse MacLeay, the Chiefs have surprised a number of football observers. After taking a 32-7 thumping from Wyandotte in the opener, they have rebounded with a 13-6 verdict over Lansing Sexton and the upset of Arthur Hill.

Sparking this comeback has been Fred Staley, who took over the quarterback duties after the Wyandotte loss. Dick Whitmer, who was calling the signals when the season began, has moved to fullback and his work there has been praiseworthy.

Despite its upending of Arthur Hill, Pontiac is the underdog. Tonight's game starts at 8 o'clock. Pre-game ceremonies are planned and Homecoming activities begin at 5:30 p.m.

Arthur Hill clashes with Bay City tonight in an important Valley tilt at Saginaw. Flint Northern goes to Muskegon and Flint Central entertains Alpena in non-league games.

Must Beat Southfield Tonight

Skippers in Key Tilt

This is "do-or-die" night for Waterford High School's football team.

Rated a top contender for Inter-Lakes Conference honors at the start of the 1957 season, the Skippers floundered badly and now find themselves in a "win or else" situation.

The team they must defeat to keep their title hopes alive is Southfield, the surprise of the circuit and the favorite in tonight's battle at Waterford.

Boasting the league's best balanced backfield and a formidable line headed by center Todd Grant, the Jays are unbeaten in four starts with only a 7-7 tie at Royal Oak Kimball marring their record.

Coach Monte Charles' gridders have a strong running attack, sparked by half-backs Tom Ridley and Joe Moore and giant fullback Jim Zurcher, and enough of a passing threat in quarterback Bob Filar to keep enemy defenders loose.

Dave Freeman's Skippers got off on the wrong foot this season by absorbing a 26-0 thumping from Royal Oak Dondero. A 6-6 with Lapeer and a 27-0 lacing by Farmington in their 1st league game followed before they finally hit stride last Friday for a 12-6 win over Berkley.

With one league setback already against them, the Skippers cannot falter tonight. Another loop loss will doom their championship ambitions. Game time is 8 p.m.

While Waterford and Southfied are slugging it out, two other Inter-Lakes games are also on the agenda.

Farmington, charing the I-L lead with Southfield, meets Berkley this afternoon at Farmington. Berkley, with a 1-1 conference record, is still very much in contention.

Walled Lake, still searching for its 1st I-L win, entertains Van Dyke, a team occupying the same boat, in a night contest at Walled Lake.

Offensive Powers Clawson and Orion Clash Tonight

Anyone for a real evening of offensive football? There should be plenty of it to watch tonight at Lake Orion as the high-scoring Dragons host powerful Clawson in an expected thriller starting at 8.

This could be one of the outstanding games of the year around Oakland County as the two unbeaten and untied elevens battle for supremacy in the Oakland B League.

The winner will have a great shot at the 1957 loop championship although both still have to reckon with strong Troy in what is expected to be a three-team race to the wire.

Defending champion Clawson rates as the favorite due to such important factors as greater size, more experience and a better defensive record.

★ ★ ★

Lake Orion has a slim one-point scoring advantage over the Trojans for three games and will be seeking sweet revenge for a 33-19 blasting at Clawson last fall.

The Dragons will also have the all-important home field advantage going for them. And that sometimes makes a big difference.

Each team has romped with ease thus far. Their only mutual opponent has been Fitzgerald. Clawson ripped the Trojans 38-6 a week before Orion turned the trick by 26-6. That was Clawson's best scoring output yet while the Dragons, coached by Ted Sela, hit 41 against Roseville.

★ ★ ★

It will be a case of Lake Orion, the present loop leader with 2-0, matching its wide open style of play against the deliberate pattern followed by Bob Acton at Clawson.

Lake Orion has a host of speedy ball carriers led by Oakland County scoring ace Jim Drake, Jim Neph, Doug Storey, and Jeff Snarey and a constant threat for the long pass play in veteran quarterback Nick Neira.

Elsewhere in the Oakland B tonight, improving Avondale goes after its 1st season triumph as guest of Fitzgerald and Troy seeks its fifth straight season win and 2nd in the league playing host to Madison.

Dennis Schroeder, junior left tackle on University of Detroit's football team, has a loyal following. His father, H. H. Schroeder, traveled from Wenatchee, Wash., to Denver, Colo., Oct. 5 to see Dennis play against the Air Force Academy but he was injured in the first five minutes of the game.

Ski Area at Cadillac Expands, $80,000 Worth

CADILLAC — It will be worth at least one trip, to Caberfae Inc. this winter to view the major portion of a huge $80,000 expansion-improvement program being carried out now by manager Fred Bocks and his crew of off-season employees.

★ ★ ★

In the largest program of this type ever carried out in the 20-year history of the ski area, a mammoth chair lift and a snow machine large enough to cover three runs are being installed.

★ ★ ★

Serving the popular 25-acre slalom bowl and the No. 1 run, the chair lift will rise a total of 2,000 feet from the basin to the top of the bowl, classing it as the largest chair lift in the midwest.

★ ★ ★

And Bocks says both installations will be in operation at the beginning of the ski season in late November or early December.

For the hungry skier, new facilities are being added to the cafeteria.

Caberfae is also developing two additional runs in the North Ridge area.

Injuries Dog Chief Harriers in Valley Test

Saginaw Valley Conference cross-country crown went to Flint Central's favored Indians, yesterday, at Swartz Creek Golf Club, with last year's champion Arthur Hill in 2nd place, Hills' ace, Dick Darby, led the pack with 10:26, with Indians' Bill Milum 19 yards back.

Team points — Central 32; Arthur Hill 40; Flint Northern 86; Saginaw 93; PONTIAC 126; Bay City 154.

Chiefs have been beset by injuries during the entire season, and yesterday was no exception. Captain Rog Coats pulled a leg muscle in the 1st mile and was unable to finish. Larry Beamer, who with Coats, are PHS' top runners, fell twice, injured a foot, but was 1st PHS finisher (11th), in 11:15.

Prep Slate Heavy This Weekend

By CHUCK ABAIR

League football action returns to Oakland County and the surrounding area in almost full force again tonight unless more invasions by that dreaded flu bug result in additional postponements.

Several of last week's local games had to be re-scheduled and three slated for this weekend have already been called off due to the sickness.

Contests in two different leagues and a non-loop affair are the local contests affected.

The league games already postponed are Cranbrook's Inter-State home battle against Western Reserve and the Ortonville - Oxford South Central Conference struggle. The canceled independent tilt had Center Line playing at Rochester.

It is the 2nd successive week the Oxford team has been sidelined by the flu as Ortonville was hit hard by the illness.

One of the big loop battles on the agenda around this sector will be at Birmingham where the twice-beaten Maples host Hazel Park in an Eastern Michigan game. Hazel Park, playing its 1st league game, has flashed strong scoring power in three outside victories outscoring opponents 75 to 6.

Defending champion East Detroit also debuts in the EML playing at Port Huron. Ferndale whipped Birmingham last week and goes after another victory at home against Mt. Clemens.

★ ★ ★

The Wayne-Oakland is another league with a full slate planned barring complications. The games will be Clarkston at Holly, Brighton at W. Bloomfield, Milford at Clarenceville and Bloomfield Hills at Northville.

Holly, defending champ Northville and Milford are heading the pack as expected in preseason forecasts. All are favored tonight along with the tough Keego Harbor gang.

This area's newest league, the Tri-County, gets into the swing of things with Class B power Romeo matching a 4-0 record against Lapeer, an "A" school with a 1-1-1 mark.

The Southern Thumb's probable "game of the year" is set for Saturday as high-powered Almont meets the surprising Armada contingent. Both are unbeaten, Brown City, topping the loop right now with 3-0, invades New Haven tonight.

Only one South Central contest is on tap. That will have Imlay City at North Branch. South Lyon travels to Manchester and Madison Lamphere is at Dryden in other action involving area schools.

City Grid Night Saturday

Midget Football All-Star Night, that annual schoolboy marathon sponsored by the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department, will be held Saturday night at Wisner Stadium.

★ ★ ★

The event brings to a climax six weeks of training and instruction in the basic fundamentals of football for city 4th, 5th and 6th grade boys.

This year's All-Star outing is co-sponsored by the Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce, with Russell Fahr as the Jaycee chairman. The Jaycees' share of the proceeds will go to their Youth Fund.

★ ★ ★

Tomorrow night's affair features 2½ hours of continuous gridiron activity, with action getting under way at 7 p.m. Sixteen teams from city elementary schools will participate in eight different games on the Wisner turf.

★ ★ ★

The city junior grid program was reorganized this year and the Parks and Recreation Department reports that participation doubled. Among the changes was the classifying of youngsters by weight—85 pounds and under and 85 to 125 pounds.

Increased emphasis on the junior program is planned next year, the department announced.

Can Lions Halt Runaway Colts?

DETROIT — Can the rugged Detroit Lion defense that throttled the Los Angeles Rams last week halt the stampeding Baltimore Colts in their drive for undisputed mastery of the Western Division race?

That's the question that more than 56,000 fans who will jam Briggs Stadium Sunday afternoon want answered when the 1:30 kickoff time arrives.

In the first meeting between the two clubs in the season's opener in Baltimore, the Colts trampled the Lions, 34-14, with a fine passing game and an awesome defensive display. Detroit was limited to a net gain of only 23 yards on the ground while the Colts were picking up four touchdowns via the aerial route.

However, the Lions have picked themselves up and proceeded to dump the Green Bay Packers, 24-14, and Los Angeles, 10-7, the latter scored with the help of a tremendous defensive effort by the Lions' defensive backfield that picked off six enemy aerials and limited the great Norm Van Brocklin of the Rams to five pass completions.

While it was the Colts' great defensive line of Gino Marchetti, Art Donovan, Gene Lipscomb and Don Joyce that played such havoc with the Lions running and passing game three weeks ago, the Colts also showed a fine all-around offensive machine that stamps them as real pennant contending possibilities.

Sophomore quarterback John Unitas is the "talk of the league" based on his record of 38 completions in 66 attempts for 555 yards and eight touchdowns in the first three games of the season. He has completed 57.6 percent of his tosses and leads the league in yards gained and scoring aerials.

Two years ago, Unitas was playing sandlot football in Pittsburgh after being cut loose by the Steelers who had drafted him after his college career

Alan Ameche, a powerful fullback from Wisconsin, L. G. Dupre of Baylor, and Lenny Moore of Penn State round out the Colts versatile backfield quartet. All three, plus ends Ray Berry and Jim Mutscheller, are fine pass receivers and the Colts diversified attack provides a host of defensive problems for any NFL team.

Just to prove their defensive play against the Lions was no fluke, Baltimore came back to limit the Chicago Bears to 29 yards rushing in scoring a 21-10 decision and last week stopped the Green Bay Packers with 47 yards on the ground while scoring a lopsided 45-17 verdict.

While the Lion defense was superb in the conquest of Los Angeles, Coach George Wilson still is concerned with his club's lack of offensive punch.

The doubtful return to duty of end Dave Middleton, who has missed two complete games, will hurt the Lions' offense considerably. The Auburn star is one of the game's finest receivers and a scoring threat with every reception.

Baltimore has never beaten the Lions in Detroit and in ten meetings has but two victories since 1950, a 28-13 decision in 1955 and the 34-14 victory this year.

Machen Seeks Title Chance in Nov. 13 Bout

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Unbeaten Eddie Machen, seeks to battle his way into a championship heavyweight bout when he meets ex-challenger Tommy "Hurricane" Jackson here Nov. 13.

The 12-round Cow Palace match will be televised nationally with the San Francisco area blacked out for a 150-mile radius.

Begin Drive for 3rd Major League

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (AP) — With the far flung International League indicating a desire to retrench and then drive for major status, this part-time big league city today found itself a jumping off point in baseball's continuing battle of shifting franchises.

Home of the Brooklyn Dodgers for 15 games during the past two seasons and for years an IL salient before the Jersey City Giants moved out in 1950, this metropolis of 300,000 is just across the Hudson River from New York City.

IL President Frank Shaughnessy announced yesterday from league headquarters in Montreal that the league would move back into Jersey City in "the first big step in becoming a third major league."

New York, now a one-team city since both the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants have announced moves to the west coast, has only the American League Yankees to draw from a metropolitan population of 12 million.

The IL, a triple A circuit, claimed Jersey City to replace either Havana or Miami, both of which suffered losses at the gate the past season. Other teams in the league are Rochester, Buffalo, Toronto, Montreal, Richmond and Columbus, Ohio.

"Becoming a third major league has been our goal all along," Shaughnessy said. "I don't know how long it will take, maybe a year, two or five, but we are on our way.

"Jersey City is a good baseball town with a fine ball park which has adequate parking facilities. With television and radio receipts we could almost guarantee any club a successful operation."

Asked about reports of a possible future IL move to New York, Shaughnessy said:

"At the present time Brooklyn is still the Dodgers' territory and the Giants, too, are in New York until they make their peace with the Pacific Coast League. After they leave it becomes the territory of the American League and the rules would have to be changed in order to claim either one."

In New York, baseball commissioner Ford Frick said the matter of territorial rights in the New York area would be tabled until the Giants and Dodgers have come to an agreement with the PCL. But Jersey City has always been considered open territory, he added.

Bell Will See Sunday's Browns-Eagles Contest

CLEVELAND (AP) — Coach Paul E. Brown, still concerned about the rough stuff that nearly turned last Sunday's game into a riot, didn't come right out and say it was the fault of the Philadelphia Eagles.

But he told a local radio audience last night that National Football League Commissioner Bert Bell knows the Cleveland Browns were not responsible for starting the fights.

Seven players were ejected during the game, which the Browns won 24-7, and players from both benches swarmed onto the field in the fourth quarter to join in a wild melee.

It was the 12th straight loss for Philadelphia, going back to last season and including 1957 exhibitions, and Brown said even the Philadelphia coaches were a "little frantic."

He said before the game the Philadelphia coaching staff protested that the sealskin brown jerseys worn by the Browns made it hard to keep track of the ball. The protest was taken to Bell by phone, Brown said.

★ ★ ★

The coach said it was the first time since he had been coaching professional clubs that anyone had protested the color of the uniforms.

A ball with white stripes—the type used in night games—was used during the Browns-Eagles encounter. The uniforms were not changed.

★ ★ ★

The Browns and the Eagles have a return match scheduled for Sunday at Philadelphia, and Bell has said he will watch the game. Bell saw last Sunday's game on television, but he didn't see any of the fisticuffs because television cameras, by Bell's own order, are turned away from such displays.

Canada Hydroplane Seeking World Mark

LONDON, Ont. (AP) — Miss Supertest, unlimited class hydroplane, owned by Jim Thompson of London, will attempt to break the existing world record for motor powered craft at Picton next week.

J. Gordon Thompson, father of Miss Supertest's owner, revealed today that the boat will be sent to Picton next Monday and if proper weather conditions prevail an assault will be made on the record the following weekend. Danny Foster will be the driver.

Miss Supertest holds the Canadian record which she established at Picton in 1955.

STATE'S TOP GAME BIRD — This cock pheasant may be one of the more than 1,000,000 bagged by Michigan hunters this fall. The kill during the Oct. 21-Nov. 10 season in the Lower Peninsula is expected to top the million mark for the fifth consecutive year, again making Mr. Ringneck the most popular game bird in the state.

Giants, Dodgers to Pay Damages

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Negotiations to determine damages to be paid the Pacific Coast League by National League teams taking over the San Francisco and Los Angeles areas are expected to start Nov. 1.

That's the next big step in the move west by the New York Giants and the Brooklyn Dodgers and it could bring some heated debate.

A spokesman for the Giants, already in town as the San Francisco Giants, said representatives would be at the PCL annual meeting which starts in Sacramento the first day of next month.

The spokesman said representatives of the Giants would be present at the PCL session to seek approval. President Horace Stoneham of the Giants is expected to head its delegation. At the same tie it was indicated the whole, knotty question of damages may get its first full airing.

★ ★ ★

Emil Sick, owner of the Seattle Rainiers, declared last night he would oppose transfer of the San Francisco PCL franchise unless the Giants and Dodgers "get down to business with us" on damages.

Transfer approval requires six of the eight PCL votes.

Sick has threatened to sue the the two National League clubs if damages for invading the PCL fall short. He estimated his investment in the Rainiers at two million dollars but said he probably would be "agreeable to a reasonable deal for the benefit of baseball as a whole."

President Leslie O'Connor of the PCL said neither the Giants nor the Dodgers has approached him on the matter of damages. The only time he mentioned money figures was in saying previously that damages in recent realignments have been $50,000 per club.

"If anybody thinks we'll settle for $50,000 per club, they'd better wake up," said O'Connor, an attorney. He has also challenged legality of baseball's setup of arbitration on such matters.

Stoneham has said he hoped the Giants and Dodgers could settle for less than $100,000 each.

Major Hoople Picks 'Em

BY MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE

Egad! Fully aware that crowing is distasteful to my zillions of faithful followers, I refrain from tooting my own horn except under great provocation.

The time has come for me to break the modest silence that surrounds me like a shroud and bespeak my mind to my detractors, who are few, it is true, but loud.

May I confound them by listing a few of the juicy upsets handed out this year by only one forecaster the length and breadth of the land —namely Major Hoople?

In the forefront of my upset selections were Brown to beat Yale, Miami over Baylor and South Carolina to humble Texas. On another week-end, I predicted Wyoming's victory over Kansas State, North Carolina State over North Carolina and Southern Methodist over California. And in my very first kick-off week, I gave my clientele Kentucky to beat Mississippi—the same Kentucky that lost to Mississippi, 37 to 7, the year before—har-rumph!

Inter-Lakes Title Captured by Lakers

Cross-country title for Inter-Lakes Conference still rests in the hands of the Walled Lake harriers who yesterday won their 6th crown against a strong field at Hickory Hills Golf club.

Lakers collected 56 points to 75 for 2nd place Southfield. Six schools competed with 38 runners finishing. It was the 1st title for new coach Don Smith in his first year on the job.

Other team totals — Farmington 76; Berkley 98; Waterford 99 and Van Dyke (Lincoln) 116. Individual champion was Berkley's mile ace, Jerry Young (10:43) who set a new league mark by 13 seconds under the old. Jim Marsh of Walled Lake was 2nd at 11:13. Lakers' Bill Hosley and Steve Johnson were also in the top 10 finishers.

Union Listens to Management

Chemical Workers Hear Firm Spokesman Tell His Inflation Theory

DETROIT (AP)—The International Chemical Workers Union makes it a point to invite a spokesman for management to its conventions. It has ignored criticism that it "apple polishes the bosses."

The convention heard both a prominent industrialist and a top labor leader yesterday.

★ ★ ★

The union's 600 delegates listened politely as one of the largest employers of its members voiced his theory on the cause of inflation.

K. C. Towe of Greenwich, Conn., chairman of the board of the American Cyanamid Co., said higher wages without increased productivity will result in high prices.

Without getting out of their chairs, the delegates respectfully applauded Towe's brief speech.

★ ★ ★

Later the delegates gave an enthusiastic ovation to United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther, who declared inflation could be solved by raising wages and lowering prices.

Commenting on the rejection by the big auto companies of his proposal they cut prices on 1958 models, Reuther charged there is a "concentrated propaganda campaign by industry and reactionary political allies to make it appear that wages are responsible for inflation."

Singer Janette Davis Weds Frank Musiello

NEW YORK (AP)—Singer - producer Janette Davis was married yesterday to Frank Musiello, currently her assistant on the CBS "Talent Scoutt" program.

Miss Davis, who reached stardom on the Arthur Godfrey television show, branched out into the production end of the business but continued to sing on Godfrey's morning program.

Rickenbacker Predicts Amazing New Travel

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—How'd you like to live in Paris and commute every morning to a job in New York—by a jet plane flying the Atlantic in two hours?

A wolfish friend of mine says it would be no fun—he wouldn't have time to get acquainted with the stewardesses.

★ ★ ★

And I'm not promising it immediately. But Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker claims that in our kids' lifetime, N.Y.-to-L.A. will be an hour's hop, N.Y.-to-Tokyo four hours, and Miami to Newark a swift 30 minutes.

WILSON

★ ★ ★

WHAT A LIFE! Lunch in New York, an aperitif on the Champs Elysee, then a bit of relaxing before bedtime at the Folies Bergere!

"Nobody can keep up with aviation progress," Captain Eddie said.

"See that new DC-7B out there?" We were at the dedication of the new Pinellas International Airport at St. Peterburg, Fla. It's got only 17 hours on it and already it's obsolete," he said. "It was obsolete when I ordered it two years ago."

So the new jets—due by 1960—carrying 150 passengers at 600 mph., will soon be obsolete, too, yielding to 2,500-mph. jets—if Sputnik doesn't get us first.

"Are you worried about Sputnik?" I asked Eddie, who, at 68, still gets up at 3 a.m. to work at his desk.

★ ★ ★

"Best damn thing ever happened to us," he said. "Woke us up."

Quit Attempts to Negotiate Suit

Hospital Trustees Say Earlier Tries Fruitless to Settle Out of Court

There'll be no more attempts to settle out of court a suit against Pontiac General Hospital by six of its doctors.

★ ★ ★

The hospital board of trustees agreed to this position last night after trustee William P. Babcock described what he called "fruitless" attempts at negotiation in the past.

"A special committee and hospital staff members have met with the dissenting doctors four times in the last eight months," said Babcock, the committee chairman.

"After each meeting we thought we were on the way towards negotiating the differences, only to discover later that the six doctors were again threatening suit."

The six doctors claim that certain hospital regulations deny them full and unrestricted practice at the hospital. The regulations pertain to professional requirement for more delicate surgery.

ORIGINAL SUIT WITHDRAWN

Their suit asks that the hospital be restrained from enforcing the regulations. It was originally filed in Circuit Court last spring, then withdrawn in hopes of an out-of-court settlement.

★ ★ ★

Two months later, the doctors claimed that no settlement had come about and went to the State Supreme Court for relief. The high court said it would not act in the matter until a lower court had heard the case.

The suit was re-filed in Circuit Court last month. Legal preliminaries to hearing the case are still being completed.

Hospital Director Carl I. Flath said that in his opinion the legal should be faced.

"I believe our legal position is very strong," Flath said. "The regulations in question are solely for the benefit of the public."

The six doctors maintain that a land-grant hospital, such as Pontiac's, cannot legally enforce restrictions that are not part of state law.

The doctors are Roy V. Cooley, Robert W. Albrecht, Douglas A. Haddock, Maolin Han, Rodman C. Jacobi and Leonard Blackwell, all general practitioners.

Say Mental Patients Should Have Rights

LANSING (AP) — Patients in mental hospitals should have more rights, two Probate judges told a legislative committee yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Laws which deprive a mental patient of most of his civil rights are far too strict, said Judges Frank L. McAvinchey of Genesee County and Wallace Waalkes of Kent County. Both jurists are members of a committee looking into the state's commitment procedures for mental hospitals.

"Just because a man's admitted to an institution doesn't mean he's incompetent," said Judge McAvinchey. Nevertheless, he said, the State Supreme Court has ruled that anyone committed is mentally incompetent for all purposes except to draw up a will.

Pontiac Man Fined

Walter A. Messer, 46, of 95 Pinegrove St., pleaded guilty to reckless driving yesterday in Municipal Court. Judge Maurice Finnegan fined him $100 or 10 days in jail. The charge was reduced from drunk driving.

Terps, NC Tilt May Lack Color for the Queen

NC and Maryland Are Expected to Adhere to Defensive Style

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Queen Elizabeth is more than likely to come away from tomorrow's Maryland-North Carolina game with the impression that college football in the United States is a sluggish sport.

It may look to her uninitiated eyes as nothing more than 22 brawny boys having a tug of war.

That is, if the boys follow the plans of their coaches.

Coach Jim Tatum of North Carolina never has been known to try much in the way of fancy football. His forte is a rugged defense aimed at forcing the other team to make mistakes which can be turned into quick touchdowns.

Tommy Mont, who succeeded Tatum as coach of Maryland in 1956 after being his assistant for five years, doesn't intend to pull any unusual stunts either.

"I coached under Tatum long enough to know that trick plays aren't going to beat him," says Mont.

He believes that Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip will see a grim defensive battle in which "the team that gets two touchdowns will win."

Kohler Firm Snubs Offer to End Strike

KOHLER, Wis. (AP) — The president of the Kohler Co. has rejected an offer from the United Auto Workers Union to end the long and bitter strike at the Wisconsin plumbingware firm.

★ ★ ★

Herbert V. Kohler, company president, said yesterday the offer of UAW President Walter Reuther was conditioned "upon the Kohler Co. waiving its right to appeal from the report and recommendations of the (National Labor Relations Board) trial examiner."

Reuther had offered to end the strike — now in its fourth year — and the UAW boycott of Kohler products if the company in return would accept the findings of NLRB Trial Examiner George Downing as a basis for settlement.

Downing, after lengthy hearings, found in effect that the company was guilty of violating the Taft-Hartley act by prolonging the strike with unfair labor practices. He recommended reinstatement for nearly all strikers whose jobs were not filled by June 1, 1954—seven weeks after the strike started.

★ ★ ★

Reuther said at his union headquarters in Detroit that the UAW is "greatly disappointed" at Kohler's refusal to end the strike.

Grain Futures Turn Downward

CHICAGO (AP) — Easing of the Syrian crisis overnight caused general selling on the Board of Trade today and the entire futures list turned downward.

Syria's decision against national mobilization in its dispute with Turkey, and a denial by Turkey that it contemplates an attack on its neighbor, resulted in a bearish trend in all grains and soybeans.

★ ★ ★

Soybeans led the decline, dropping back as much as 2¼ cents a bushel in early dealings. Wheat and rye fell back more than a cent a bushel and oats and corn were off fractions.

Except for the Middle East situation there was no other news of importance to affect grain futures. Most of the selling was by shorts who had bought earlier in the week as the international situation became more intense.

Traders said export demand for wheat continued quiet.

★ ★ ★

Near the end of the first hour new style wheat was ½-1⅜ lower, Dec. $2.19⅜, corn ⅜-⅝ lower, Dec. $1.21⅛, oats ⅜-⅝ lower, Dec. 67⅞, rye ¾-1 lower, Dec. $1.30½, soybeans 1¼-1½ lower, Nov. $2.32⅛, and lard was 10-22 cents a hundred pounds lower, Nov. $11.90.

GM Still Denies It Gypped U.S.

U.S. Comptroller Says $2 Million Was Lost on Plane Contracts

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. has denied again allegations that it short-changed the government two million dollars on an airplane contract.

The corporation termed "wholly unwarranted" the action of the U.S. comptroller general in turning the claim over to the Justice Department.

★ ★ ★

A spokesman for the General Accounting Office said yesterday that the comptroller, Joseph Campbell, had forwarded to Atty. Gen. Brownell the GAO report on a special investigation of a government contract with GM's Buick-Oldsmobile-Pontiac Division for F84F airplanes.

★ ★ ★

John F. Gordon, a GM vice president, said in Detroit that his firm had provided government officials on at least four different occasions with detailed information on the contract.

Gordon said General Motors testified at length last Aug. 16 during a House Armed Services subcommittee hearing into the controversial contract. Gordon said at that time his firm demonstrated that the price of the airplanes was arrived at by negotiations with the Air Force as provided in the contract.

160,000 Vauxhall Units Predicted

Vauxhall Motors will produce a record number of 160,000 vehicles this year, of which more than 50 per cent will be sold in British export markets, Harlow H. Curtice, President of General Motors, reported today in England.

★ ★ ★

In the United States, the Vauxhall line is now being sold on the East and West coast areas by authorized Pontiac dealers.

★ ★ ★

Curtice toured Vauxhall's recently enlarged and modernized manufacturing facilities at Luton after attending the opening of the London Motor Show, where Vauxhall's new Victor, Cresta and Velox models were displayed before record crowds.

★ ★ ★

He disclosed that completion of Vauxhall's $101,000,000 expansion and modernization program, begun in 1954, will enable the company to produce in excess of 250,000 passenger cars, trucks and vans annually. In 1956 Vauxhall produced 128,000 vehicles.

"The widespread public acceptance of the new Victor, Cresta and Velox models in the domestic and export markets will enable Vauxhall to expand production substantially during 1958," the General Motors President said.

"I am very optimistic about the sales outlook for Vauxhall passenger cars in all markets," he added.

Stock Market Inches Upward

NEW YORK (AP) — Aircrafts, oils and some steels forged ahead actively today as the Stock Market made a partial recovery from two bad days.

Leading issues advanced from fractions to around 2 points. The high-speed ticker tape was behind briefly at the start in reporting the pile-up of transactions.

There were a few losers in the rails and elsewhere.

With the Syrian-Turkish crisis reduced to an angry simmer and with no likelihood at the moment that World War III is about to start, the market seemed to have recovered from its jitters.

★ ★ ★

United Aircraft, General Dynamics and Douglas Aircraft were ahead a point or better. Gulf Oil added 2 at the start and Royal Dutch well over a point. Gulf later trimmed its gain. Youngstown Sheet was up more than a point.

Chrysler, International Paper and Baltimore & Ohio recouped about a point. But Chesapeake & Ohio was a 1-point loser.

General Motors was about unchanged. Small losses were taken by Caterpillar, American Tobacco, Phelps Dodge and Southern Railway.

Among opening blocks were: North American Aviation up ¼ at 25¾ on 7,000 shares; Bethlehem Steel unchanged at 40¼ on 5,500; Royal Dutch up 1⅝ at 42¼ on 3,000; and U.S. Steel up ¼ at 55⅜ on 4,000.

MSU TV Instruction Extended to Journalism

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan State University's closed-circuit television instruction program has been extended to the journalism school for the first time this fall.

John W. Crawford, a veteran of 20 years in the advertising field, is teaching a course in advertising. Part of the class is taught by the usual lecture method, the other through closed-circuit television. Identical tests for each group will help determine its effectiveness.

★ ★ ★

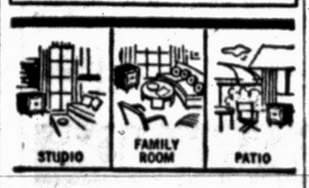

The TV program started several years ago with a course in veterinary medicine and has since been extended to other fields.

Don't Like Ike Drive

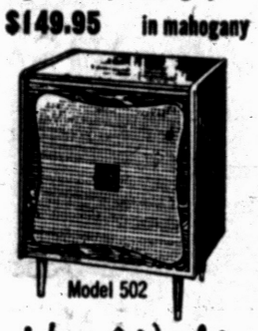

BASTROP, La. (AP)—Mayor A. P. Carter will get a petition tomorrow from residents of Eisenhower Drive who want the name of their street changed to Confederate Drive. The petition protests the President's action in the Little Rock school situation.

Tennessee ages its country hams for a year.

Maestro's Family to Sue if Todd Films Life Story

MILAN, Italy (AP)—A daughter of the late Arturo Toscanini says the family will go to court if Mike Todd or anyone else tries to make a movie about the famed conductor.

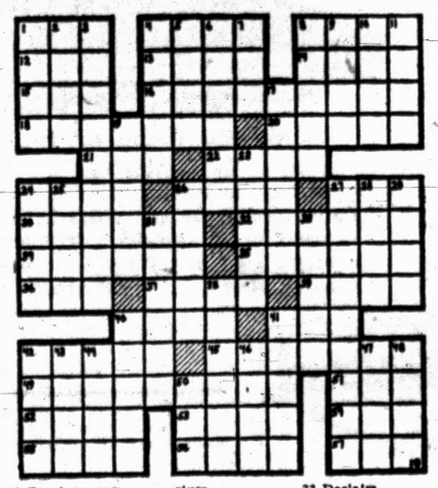

Asked about reports that the flamboyant American producer intends to follow up his projected filming of "Don Quixote" with a Toscanini story, Countess Wally Castelbarco said her family "is absolutely against" it.

"We reject the very thought of talking about a movie version of my father's life with all the producers in the world, the most famous included, now and in the future," the countess said.

Film producers apparently are free to make any movie they want about the conductor, the countess said. But if legal action can block any such film, it "certainly will be taken by my brother, Walter, in New York City."

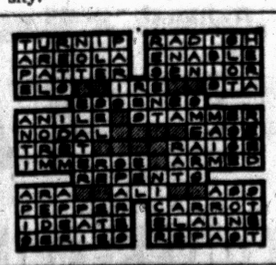

The countess said friends and admirers of her father had been writing her recently to do her utmost to "prevent movie makers from destroying their memory of the great maestro."

The family must comply with these requests, she said.

Household Loot Is Big Attraction

Pat Greene Picks Out Lovebirds Who Marry on 'Bride and Groom'

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Pat Greene has one of the easiest—yet toughest—tasks on television.

Every week she reads 500 or more letters, and picks the couples who later find themselves suddenly saying "I do" before the cameras of "Bride and Groom," one of the air's sturdiest staples, which is now celebrating its 10th year via NBC-TV each weekday afternoon.

The program recently launched its 2,400th couple on the sea of matrimony with the usual jackpot of household chattels worth about $2,500.

"That seems to be a main reason for wanting to get married on the air," says Mrs. Greene. "Couples feel it is a wonderful start in life free of the installment plan.

★ ★ ★

"Another reason they give is that they have relatives scattered all over and they can attend through television."

NOTHING OFF-BEAT

She scrupulously avoids any hint of off-beat romance and enforces such requirements as that neither partner ever has been divorced.

The program proudly proclaims that a survey showed marriages made on television have only one-tenth the average divorce rate.

One of the surprises of Mrs. Greene's work is the consistency with which one household item is asked by the brides.

"More than anything else they ask for sewing machines," Pat reports. "I don't know where the career girl has gone."

Authorities Recover Stolen Flu Vaccine

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Police disclosed last night they had recovered nearly all of a $1,600 shipment of scarce Asian flu vaccine stolen Monday from a freight dock at Municipal Airport.

They said it apparently was the first theft of the flu vaccine in the country.

★ ★ ★

James Glayzer, 24-year-old Kansas City potato chip salesman, was arrested and arraigned on a federal charge of stealing from an interstate shipment. A similar charge was placed against Charles C. Moore Jr., 35-year-old drug salesman living in Overland Park, Kan., a Kansas City suburb. Police could not find Moore.

Detective Marion Cooley said Glayzer related he and Moore stole the 400 vials of flu vaccine, valued at $4 a vial. They sold 150 to a doctor for $1,000 or about $6.65 apiece.

★ ★ ★

Police said they recovered all but 30 vials. A drug company tipped them off after getting word someone was trying to peddle the vaccine.

Bomb Explosion Cuts Cyprus Radio Short

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — A bomb explosion put the government radio station off the air half an hour before closing time last night. Service was resumed on an "emergency" basis today.

An official spokesman said the blast knocked out a transformer. A search of the barbed wire surrounded premises turned up two unexploded bombs.

Critics Praise Drama on TV

Pulitzer Prize-Winning Play, 'Green Pastures,' Acclaimed by Writers

NEW YORK (AP) — The television version last night of "The Green Pastures," the Marc Connelly Pulitzer Prize-winning play, won critical acclaim from New York TV columnists.

★ ★ ★

Jack Gould of the New York Times termed the 90-minute Hall of Fame presentation over NBC one of television's "most glorious evenings."

"William Warfield's portrayal of the Lord was a magnificent achievement . . . but the entire cast was inspired," he said.

Of Mildred Freed Alberg, executive producer, and George Schaefer, producer-director, Gould said they "can take pride in their fine and glowing achievement. It will long survive in the memory of everyone privileged to see it."

★ ★ ★

Jack Gross of the New York Daily News commented: "By the time it was over, this viewer was tingling all over. This fable . . . is a complete delight."

Charles Mercer of The Associated Press, commenting on author Connelly's assertion that his play is an attempt to present certain aspects of a living religion in the terms of its believers, said:

★ ★ ★

"Certainly that attempt was successfully translated from the theater to television . . . 'The Green Pastures' should be repeated for those who had the misfortune to miss it."

The New York Herald Tribune review termed the showing "the memorable blend of humor and reverence and the convincing sincerity which marked the original drama . . . and was apparent both in the performances of the actors and the general spirit of the production."

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Scientists today awaited the chance for a new, closeup look at the sun in 8,000 pictures taken by a balloon-borne camera at 83,200 feet yesterday.

Dr. Martin Schwarzschild, heading the stratoscope project, termed it an outstanding success after the huge camera was parachuted safely 20 miles southeast of Blue Earth, Minn.

The 35mm. films, exposed at the rate of one per second, are being processed in a University of Minnesota laboratory.

The balloon, with its nearly three-quarter-ton cargo of apparatus, was launched from Huron, S.D.

Dr. Schwarzschild, Princeton University astronomer, said the project is providing valuable information for possible satellite launchings. The camera achieves clarity through being free of 95 per cent of the earth's atmospheric haze.

Navy Reveals Details of Sidewinder Missile

CHINA LAKE, Calif. (AP) — The U.S. Navy has revealed for the first time that the Sidewinder air-to-air guided missile has an infrared heat homing device.

★ ★ ★

Capt. William W. Hollister, commander of the Naval Ordnance Test Station, said yesterday that the infrared system enables the missile to hit its target by homing in on hot exhausts of enemy jets.

Plan Memorial Tower to Honor Late Sen. Taft

WASHINGTON (AP) — A contract has been signed for construction of the shaft of a memorial tower honoring the late Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio. The 115-foot bell tower will be erected a few hundred yards from the capitol.

Rep. B. Carroll Reece (R-Tenn), president of the Robert A. Taft Memorial Foundation, Inc., signed the contract with the Charles H. Tompkins Co. of Washington. The bid was $474,000.

Reece said the over-all cost, raised entirely through private subscription, will be $719,000

Junior Editors Quiz on THE OCEAN

QUESTION: How deep is the ocean?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: At its deepest recorded point, some 50 miles off the coast of Japan, the ocean measures 35,400 feet or about six miles. Elsewhere, the ocean varies in depth, just as mountains vary in height. The Pacific Ocean is larger and deeper than the Atlantic and there are places where Mt. Everest, the world's tallest mountain, would be covered by water if dropped on the floor of the Pacific. If the oceans were 600 feet less deep, many widely separated lands would be joined together. Then it might be possible to go on foot from England to France or from China to Alaska.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: This little Japanese boy is sitting on a Pacific beach as the tide rolls in. Cut out the picture parts, paste on cardboard and color with your brightest crayons. Fold the lower sections of each panel forward and set the boy on the ocean beach.

Doctor Discusses Parkinson's Disease

Describes New Technique

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (INS)— A new and simple method for destroying a portion of the brain to control Parkinson's Disease and other involuntary and spastic movements has been reported.

★ ★ ★

The conventional technique has been to destroy the brain tissue, known as the globus pallidus, by placing alcohol solutions in it through a sawed-out opening in the skull.

Dr. George W. Smith of the division of neurological surgery, the Medical College of Georgia at Augusta, described at the 43rd annual clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons, a new technique that introduces a thin electrode through a needle-size opening in the temple bone of the skull.

The wire is advanced into the globus pallidus under X-ray guidance and destroys about 10 per cent of the globus pallidus by electricity.

★ ★ ★

"To date, 14 patients with spasticity and involuntary movement have been treated in this manner," Dr. Smith said. "Diagnosis in 12 was Parkinsonism. There have been no deaths. Nine of the patients have had a good result.

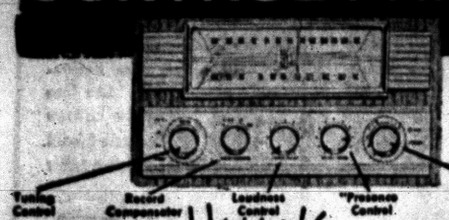

★ ★ ★

"The only persistent complication has been a left-sided paralysis in one woman of about 30 per cent involvement."

Dr. Smith believes his technique is superior to the conventional method because there is a greater degree of control of the amount of tissue destroyed. It has been shown that alcohol spreads beyond the desired area and often blocks blood vessels that run near the injected zone.

Another advantage, he added, is that the electrode is less traumatic in the more advanced age group than a larger opening in the skull which requires major surgery.
