Nine New Astronauts Join U.S. Space Team

SEEK VICTIMS — Firemen and workmen search the wreckage of a government office building in Brussels, Belgium, that crumbled today, killing at least 10. Rescue operations were later halted because it was feared that the overhanging concrete slabs would fall on the diggers.

Brussels Building Falls; 10 Killed, 17 Missing

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—A government building collapsed today seconds before an evacuation alarm could be sounded, killing at least 10 persons and injuring 20. Seventeen others were missing.

"I saw employees at their desks, sliding down the floor along with the furniture and falling in the air," one witness said.

About 100 employees were working in the three-story statistics administration building when it collapsed into a huge heap of rubble. Excavations were in progress near the door on the site of a new building.

A doorman working on the ground floor said "a young employee told me it seemed the pavement sounded hollow. I called the director and he decided to evacuate the building. But the catastrophe occurred before the order could be passed around."

A witness said a wall of the building crumbled and then the concrete floors collapsed. About half of the building was demolished and the rest damaged.

Digging for employees believed buried in the ruins was suspended temporarily when it was feared overhanging concrete slabs might break off onto rescuers.

Officials said there was little chance anyone would be found alive in the debris.

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—A gasman fatally wounded R. D. Cravens, wealthy businessman and political associate of U.S. Sen. Robert S. Kerr, today and killed himself in an attempt to hold Cravens' daughter for ransom.

Jubilation in Jackson

State Pair Proud Son Chosen

JACKSON (AP)—Air Force Capt. James A. McDivitt Jr.'s parents were elated at the news today he had been chosen as one of the nine men expected to fly to the moon.

The parents also indicated confidence their 33-year-old flier-son would do a good job.

"He's the type of guy who has to be on top. He sets himself a pretty high goal," said a smiling McDivitt Sr. at the family home here.

First word to the parents of Capt. McDivitt's selection came on a telephone call from the Jackson Citizen-Patriot.

Mrs. McDivitt — to whom the captain will "always be little Jimmy" — was too excited to talk on the telephone.

But the time a reporter arrived at the McDivitt home the captain's father had reached there from his electrical engineer's job at the Consumers Power Co.

PARENTS EXCITED

Both spoke proudly of their son.

The mother said she felt concern when she first heard of her son's desire to go into astronautics.

"I used to get excited when he mentioned astronautics," she said, "but he took the time to explain to me and convinced me it was all right."

"I'll never forget the first time he said, 'I told him never to do it again,' she said, adding that she changed her mind later.

The father, who said his son had a "wonderful disposition," said the captain once declared "he'd rather fly the fastest jet than drive a car on the Los Angeles Freeway."

As a boy of 14, James could "identify any plane in the sky," the father said.

The father said the captain was an all-A student in aeronautical engineering at the University of Michigan.

"We will certainly do everything in our power on the home front to make things easier for him," Mrs. McDivitt promised.

Two Civilians Included in Trainee Group

4 Air Force, 3 Navy Men Round Out List; All Test Pilots

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Nine new astronauts, including two civilians were added to the nation's space team today.

The new group boosted to 16 the number of astronauts who will man the space flights for which President John F. Kennedy has set a goal of reaching the moon in this decade.

Dr. Robert R. Gilruth, director of the manned spacecraft center formally presented the new group to the nation at a 2 p.m. (EST) news conference at Cullen Auditorium on the campus of the University of Houston.

Gilruth said the nine already have been assigned to a comprehensive training program at the center to prepare them for possible space flights.

In addition to the two civilians, the group includes four Air Force officers and three Navy officers. All have test pilot experience.

The civilians are Neil A. Armstrong, 32, a native of Wapakoneta, Ohio, and currently a test pilot with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., and Elliot M. See Jr., 33, a native of Dallas, Tex., an experimental test pilot for the General Electric Co.

AF MEN

The Air Force men are: Maj. Frank Borman, 34, a native of Gary, Ind., an instructor in the aerospace research pilot school at Edwards AFB.

Capt. James A. McDivitt, 33, a native of Chicago and son of Mr. and Mrs. James McDivitt, Jackson, Miss., director of the Aerospace Research Pilot School at Edwards AFB.

Capt. Thomas P. Stafford, 37, a native of Weatherford, Okla., chief of the performance branch at the experimental test flight division of the Aerospace Research Pilot School at Edwards AFB.

Capt. Edward H. White II, 32, a native of San Antonio, Tex., an experimental test pilot at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio.

The Navy officers are: Lt. Charles Conrad Jr., 32, a native of Philadelphia, a safety officer for Fighter Squadron 112.

Lt. CDR. James A. Lovell Jr., 34, a flight instructor and safety officer at the Naval air station at Oceana, Va.

Lt. CDR. John W. Young, 32, a native of San Francisco, maintenance officer for Fighter Squadron 112.

Tuesday to See Ted-Ed Vote

Massachusetts to Back or Break 3rd Member of Kennedy Fraternity

BOSTON (AP)—Massachusetts voters decide Tuesday whether there are too many Kennedys in public life or if another of the clan should have a crack at high public office.

That seemed the overriding issue today as Edward M. Kennedy, 30, brother of President Kennedy, and Edward J. McCormack, 33, nephew of House Speaker John W. McCormack, climaxed a whirlwind campaign for a short-term U.S. Senate nomination.

At stake in November balloting is the remaining two years of the term Kennedy left behind to become president.

Two Republicans will fight it out at the polling places for their party's nomination and the opportunity—Kennedy should win his primary—to take the dynasty issue to the voters for a second round in the general election.

They are George C. Lodge, former assistant secretary of labor, and Rep. Laurence Currier, 10-year member of Congress whose district was reapportioned out of existence.

N. Y. Dems in Chaos Over Rival to Rocky

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—The rough-and-tumble quest of New York State Democrats for a gubernatorial candidate to oppose Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in the November election draws to a highly charged climax today as the party's nominating convention opened.

By contrast, Republicans in Buffalo on the eve of their state convention formed a harmonious chorus ready to renominate Rockefeller and other members of his team and endorse the record of the last four years.

Despite the turmoil here, Democrats did not forget that their principal foe was the GOP. Republicans with no other worries, maintained a drumfire of criticism at the Democrats.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner, keynoting the Democratic convention, charged in his prepared speech that Rockefeller was a "cardboard hero" who had "demonstrated as political conviction except the intense one that he ought to be the next president of the United States."

In Buffalo, Republican legislative leaders counterattacked with charges that the campaign platform proposed by the Democrats, which called among other things for sharply increased state aid and borrowing to finance capital improvements, would cost state taxpayers more than $2.5 billion in higher taxes over the next four years.

Before Rusk testified, the committee heard Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., in support of a resolution he sponsored with Sen. Prescott Bush, R-Conn., to make it the sense of Congress that the United States "has the right and obligation" to end Communist domination of Cuba, in cooperation with other Western Hemisphere nations, or alone if necessary.

Keating also testified the United States should call for "an immediate meeting of NATO ministers" in an effort to halt trading with Cuba. He said the United States "should mine no words."

Keating said it is "absolutely ridiculous" that NATO and other free-world nations supply shipping to the Soviet Union "to create a military base in Cuba."

William F. Bundy, deputy assistant secretary of defense for international security affairs, appeared for Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

He was referred back to the salaries committee for a hearing. The result was no change in the committee's original recommendation.

Wants Ole Miss to Defy Court

Gov. Barnett Slated to Meet School Board on Race Issue Today

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Gov. Ross Barnett appears before a reluctant state college board today to ask that it defy a U.S. Supreme Court edict and halt the admission of the first Negro student to the University of Mississippi.

Barnett already has called on board members to resign if they are unwilling to join him in the "righteous cause" of maintaining segregation at "Ole Miss."

"It's a 12-member authority, which must determine whether to obey a court order to admit Negro James H. Meredith, failed to reach a decision on the matter at a meeting Friday."

The board's failure to immediately back Barnett brought stinging criticism from many sides and prompted the governor to ask for today's hearing.

"The action taken by this board is a matter of grave public concern and will for many years to come affect the daily lives of every Mississippian," Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson said yesterday in a speech here.

He called on the people to let the board "know they are behind Gov. Barnett 100 per cent."

About 1,000 Ku Klux Klansmen met in Tuscaloosa, Ala., yesterday and pledged support for Barnett's stand against integration.

Robert Shelton, imperial wizard of the Alabama Klan, knights of the Ku Klux Klan, said his group is ready "to go to the assistance of any official that will defy President Kennedy and his invasion of the rights of sovereign states."

Mac Fails to Win Commonwealth Support for 'Market'

LONDON (AP) — British Commonwealth leaders wound up a heated debate on the Common Market today with clear signs Prime Minister Harold Macmillan had failed to win their unqualified support for linking Britain with the European economic political bloc.

The 16 leaders deferred issuing a communiqué on the outcome of their week-long debate. Macmillan concluded the discussion with a 30-minute plea for unity. He had hoped his partners would accept a draft declaration he has been circulating privately.

This declaration would have proposed a Commonwealth support for Britain in its Brussels, Belgium negotiations with the Common Market countries. There was no sign that this draft had been accepted and conference sources said no communiqué now was likely until Wednesday.

Officials said the best the Macmillan government could expect was a general declaration by the conference acknowledging Britain's right to join the Common Market—provided she can meet certain conditions and gain special safeguards for Commonwealth trade.

In the draft communiqué prepared by Macmillan there was no mention of the expressions of hostility toward the Common Market project that were voiced last week by most of the Commonwealth leaders.

A mood of tension and some bitterness hung over the session. There were angry mutterings behind the scenes by Canadian and relations lately had nose-dived.

Canadian delegates claim the British are spreading stories to newspapers that their prime minister, J. Diefenbaker, is the one man holding up general Commonwealth acquiescence of Britain's entry.

For their part, the British have not been discouraging newsmen from suggesting Diefenbaker's attacks on British policy were unexpected and harmful.

Foreign Minister Howard Green of Canada told reporters: "There has been an obvious attempt in the British press—I don't know who is behind it—to isolate Canada and drive a wedge between her and the other members of the Commonwealth."

Leaders of Kenya and Uganda—two British colonies nearing independence—lined up behind Tanganyika in rejecting associate membership in the Common Market which Britain has persuaded the Europeans to offer.

The Commonwealth conference was expected to give its decision on Britain's planned Common Market entry by tonight.

Thirteen persons were injured, none critically. In photo at top, a house has been moved off its foundation. Bottom picture shows residents picking up fragments of their demolished homes.

Weather Turns Gentle

The weather showed its gentle side today, after a tornado ripped like a buzzsaw Sunday through Rochester, Minn.

Mild rains washed many parts of the Southeast and central portions of the nation, while 30-degree weather stretched from North Carolina in a belt nearly across the continent to California.

The twister in Rochester reduced the wreckage a quarter-mile path, 100 feet wide, through the southeastern Minnesota city. Thirteen persons were injured. Four were still hospitalized today.

Nine homes were wrecked and the Red Cross estimated damage at $300,000.

RESIDENTS SLEEPING

Most of the residents were asleep when it struck. "I just held on to the bed with one arm and the baby with the other, and we went flying through the air," said the wife of Kenneth Dobson.

The two-story Dobson home, with six persons in their beds, was lifted and flung 75 feet. The wreckage landed crushed four houses, lifted three other homes off their foundations and peeled the roofs of two more.

Expect Thant to Lead U.N. Next 5 Years

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Diplomats from various parts of the world predicted today that the 17th General Assembly opening Tuesday will name U. Thant of Burma to a full five-year term as secretary general of the United Nations.

Thant is acting secretary general, serving out the unexpired term of the late Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld that ends next April 10. He was elected last Nov. 3 after Hammarskjöld's death in a plane crash in Africa a year ago today.

U.S. delegate Charles W. Yost, previewing the assembly session Sunday, indicated that the U.S. delegation expects Thant to be re-elected.

Yost told New York area members of the American Association for the United Nations: "The performance of the acting secretary general has been so outstanding and has met with such universal support among the members that we doubt if this will be the subject of serious controversy."

"We would be very much surprised if the Soviets were to raise again the matter of the troika, which was so decisively defeated last year."

In negotiations on Hammarskjöld's successor, the Soviet Union first insisted that the management of the United Nations be taken over by three of its under-secretaries—an American, an Indian and a Russian.

But this so-called troika plan proved unpopular, and the Russians later shelved it and joined in the election of Thant on condition he function with the council of certain "principal advisers" representing various regions of the world.

The Soviet Union could block his continuance in office by vetoing him in the Security Council, which must recommend him before the assembly can re-elect him.

When Thant went to Yalta Aug. 28 to talk with Soviet Premier Khrushchev, some people expected he would learn then whether the Soviet Union would support him for re-election or hold out for a three-headed United Nations subject never came up.

Over the weekend, one Eastern European indicated he believed Thant will be re-elected to a five-year term.

A neutralist Asian delegate said there is strong Asian-African support for Thant and no opposition in sight.

A high authority on U.N. affairs said sentiment for continuing the Thant in office was so strong the Russians would not try to block it.

Want to Overthrow Socialists

State Conservatives Join Together

LANSING (UPI)—The "non-partisan" Michigan Conservative Federation was born Saturday, dedicated to overthrowing "Socialists in government" who fear "30 years have been using our tax money to finance our own destruction."

The hero of the day-long constituting meeting turned out to be Richard Durant, Grose Pointe stock broker, take care of final expenses. Once your application is approved, the policy can be carried the rest of your life.

Grose Pointe, told the group that one of its chief objectives is to promote conservatism by influencing the leadership of the Republicans and Democratic parties.

He said the club had been somewhat successful already through the great help of Mr. Durant. He is an example of what can be done by conservatives in spite of opposition from liberals.

The remark drew the loudest applause among the nearly 300 persons in attendance.

The keynote speaker, Don P. McGoff, urged the newly formed organization not to attempt to set up a third party but to work through existing political organizations.

McGoff, president of Mid-State Broadcasting Co., which owns WSMW-FM in East Lansing, said that any splinter party or splinter group was doomed to failure.

Charles M. Harmon of Cassopolis, one of the founders of the new club, said it would work "at the grass roots level" to promote the success of conservative candidates in the two major political parties.

He said a charter meeting of the new action group would be held in January. He said the group was not extremists but concerned about the private ownership of property and the "Marxist drive to eliminate the family as the basic unit of society."

The John Birch Society passed out literature and pamphlets at the gathering but club officials denied any connection with the controversial organization.

Members of the Young Americans for Freedom, a college-level conservative group, passed out bumper stickers saying, "Goldwater in '64." They referred to Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., as a candidate for the presidency.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—French Defense Minister Pierre Messmer said in an interview published today that France hopes to have its own H-bombs and missiles before 1970.

Next year, Messmer said, France will begin to have at its disposal a "first generation" nuclear force composed of supersonic Mirage IV bombers carrying atomic bombs.

Messmer, in an interview with the magazine U.S. News & World Report, said that France was "determined more than ever" to develop its own nuclear force because "there is no defense possible without nuclear arms."

He said France could not rely on the United States "indefinitely."

Urges U. N. Drive Against Race Hate

LONDON (AP)—The European Executive of the World Jewish Congress called Sunday for a U.N. campaign against racial discrimination.

A statement issued after the executive's meeting urged, too, that governments adopt laws against incitement to race hate.

Delegates to the meeting came from France, Austria, Germany, Ireland, Italy, Sweden, Switzerland and Britain.

A main contention at the meeting was that conservatives have not been influential in government because "they spend all their time talking to one another rather than trying to spread their creed to new recruits."

"Conservatives, often feeling overwhelmed by a preponderance of liberal thought, liberal control, liberal press, liberal educators, have found themselves talking only to their friends and meeting only those who understand them," McGoff said.

McGoff said the group was not extremists but concerned about the private ownership of property and the "Marxist drive to eliminate the family as the basic unit of society."

The John Birch Society passed out literature and pamphlets at the gathering but club officials denied any connection with the controversial organization.

Members of the Young Americans for Freedom, a college-level conservative group, passed out bumper stickers saying, "Goldwater in '64." They referred to Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., as a candidate for the presidency.

Pope Asks Tolerance of Youth

By The Associated Press

Pope John XXIII urged youth to avoid preconceived notions and be tolerant in judging men and events.

In receiving a group of winners in a secondary school catechism competition, the Pope said at the Vatican: "Be peaceful men, the builders of peace. For this, do not allow yourself to lose time by fatuous games of bitter and unjust polemics, by preconceived and fixed aversion, by rigid cataloging of men and events. Be ever receptive to the great design of providence."

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., has received the 1962 "America Israel Friendship Award" of the Mizrahi Women's Organization of America. The religious Zionist group, now holding its convention in New York, gives the award annually "to that person not of the Jewish faith who has contributed most deeply to understanding between the peoples of the United States and Israel."

What about tomorrow?
And what about tomorrow's tomorrow for our own special area?

This past year has been a splendid automotive period. And happily for us, Pontiac Motor has exceeded the general average by a wide margin. The Pontiac itself and the fledgling Tempest have swept through another triumphant stage.

Once we were sixth and seventh in the automotive production picture, but now we've edged clear up to the third spot through sheer merit. For decades the three lowest-priced cars automatically occupied the top rungs, but Pontiac's persistent climb has let the local brands slip past one, boosting us up to an almost impossible position.

Whether we can hold this indefinitely is problematical, but even attaining so exalted a place for a few years is a monumental achievement. And the several medium-priced vehicles that once looked over their shoulders at us, now only glimpse our fast flying backs as the wind opens the dust occasionally.

At this time in the over-all automotive picture, reluctant manufacturers are pressed into forecasts by an eager press. Ford's Lee A. Iacocca, anticipates a slight drop in the big sales of 1962. On the other hand, S. E. Knudsen, Chevrolet's prexy, looks for an actual increase in the coming 12 months.

E. M. (Pete) Estes, Pontiac's General Manager, is optimistic but sagely cautious. "We've just finished a tremendous year," he said to The Pontiac Press, "and if we duplicate it, we'll be on the verge of a miracle. The ensuing 12 months should result in business approximating 1962, and if we drop a shade behind, it won't be from the lack of an all-out effort. Upward progress is a zig-zag line and not a steady climb. At the same time, just privately, I'm planning for slightly bigger sales than 1962.

"Our dealers are very happy over the new cars and that's important. If you have to quote me, don't use your biggest type, but we do have great plans, and we're going to give everything the full treatment and a big whirl."

The signs are propitious. The cars are super super.

Ban These Books . . .

Actually, I cringe at some of the modern "literature."

Pointing fingers is disrespectful and impolite, so we'll confine ourselves to generalities for the nonce. I've heard my share of smoking room stories and can laugh—even inordinately—at the various adventures of the time-honored farmer's daughter and the traditional city slicker.

But too many of the books of today paint the bedroom scenes in those ugly, nasty little words that were originally associated with a lack of sufficient schooling to teach acceptable replacements.

The world is relative. We all grant that.

And what's foul and obscene yesterday may be accepted reluctantly today and glibly tomorrow. But there do seem to be some old-fashioned mores and norms that guide us all. Once this bookish dip into the literary sewers and sewage was considered "daring." Then the guileless art rose—or descended—to the dignity of "being box office."

Today it stands somewhat left of center, but clothed (and that's a silly word) in a low-grade acceptance by the best tutored classes. W. D. Maxwell did a manly and forthright thing when he summarily threw all of those "literary gems" into the dump. Those books can't make The Chicago Tribune's "best seller" list.

They aren't reviewed. They're ostracized—as they should be. The Pontiac Press goes along in accord with The Tribune.

British May Fool Us . . .

British citizens are a little fidgety at their lag in high-speed air developments.

They propose to "do something."

Vague plans exist for an orbital flight and a two-stage vehicle consisting of a jet aircraft that hoists a one-man spacecraft into the nether regions for launching.

Also, they yearn for a supersonic commercial airliner which the engineers are currently discussing with the French. This is a dubious combination, but more startling things have happened. The London Times says ultrahigh speed is the next big step, ignoring fantastic moon landings and twin orbits.

The British have an ingrained and historical way of muddling through at unexpected times and "achieving the impossible" with no particular fanfare and a modicum of advance pageantry. Don't write them off.

And in Conclusion . . .

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

Test pilot JOE WALKER, who handled that X15 at 4,000 miles an hour, said he had lots more trouble driving home in traffic. He certainly didn't have to signal left or right turns when he was 150,000 feet high.

The Saturday Evening Post gets over 100,000 unsolicited manuscripts a year. . . . Western Canadian wheat promises a really bumper crop for 1962. It will command a quarter of a billion dollars. . . . When you visit Paris and Rome, you should appear "casual and autochthonous." Keep that in mind. . . . The first golf cart appeared in 1941. Twelve years later we had 1,000. Now there are 70,000.

I can't prove it but I'll bet a sugar cookie Sept. 20-25 will be very coolish. It's the autumnal equinox. . . . Purely personal nomination for an especially attractive young lady and a current bride: our own Jeannine Schumaker. . . . The "great" Mr. Fisher "ordered" the press to be at the airport an hour before his plane arrived. Mebbe Liz was only 98 per cent wrong. . . . Last year 88 per cent of the automobile deaths took place when the weather was fine.

David Lawrence Says:

Inaction on Cuba Sounds Like '30s

DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Is it the 1930s all over again? Fear of war led then to inaction by the West—and this brought on the Big War II. Will history repeat?

The parallel with events from 1933 to 1938 is startling. Then, as now, a dictator—Mussolini—grabbed Ethiopia in January 1935. Lawrence says that Hitler's Germany has grabbed Cuba. The West protested feebly in 1933, and the League of Nations voted 50 to 1 for economic blockade in November of that year.

But the United States was indifferent, and the commercial interests of the world succeeded in causing an abandonment of the blockade after eight months of spasmodic effort.

Then, as now in respect to Cuba, a blockade was characterized as useless unless it was accompanied by a parallel blockade.

Then, as now, the pacifists and appeasers expressed in speeches and newspaper advertisements the fear that a blockade would bring on war and implied it was better to recognize the steps taken by Mussolini as "accomplished facts." The Chamberlains and the Baldwin led Britain into a mess, out of which war became inevitable.

The United States wobbled then, too. William L. Ryan of the Associated Press summarized in Sunday morning newspapers this Sunday:

"Mussolini today just about owns Cuba—lock, stock, barrel and beard. Inexorably, Soviet Communism is closing its steel grip. Challenging the United States in the sensitive Caribbean and the Western Hemisphere, Moscow has given the world a lesson in imperialism."

When the Russians colonize the continent for good. . . . The Soviet takeover will be complete when Fidel Castro is shoved aside. . . . This will be a slow and cautious process, but signs of party conflict are clear."

The United Press International reported last Saturday from Washington as follows:

"The United States has been making quiet diplomatic efforts for more than six months to persuade Allies in European countries and elsewhere to help isolate Communist Cuba."

"The Kennedy Administration was receiving little encouragement today from Latin American states."

the police get the situation in hand they won't answer unless they're expecting friends. . . . Governor SWAINSON came up with this one: "they ought to change our license plates from 'Water Wonderland' to 'Walter's Wonderland.'" Mr. REUTHER, take a bow. . . . Authorities agree that all people dream, even if they insist they don't. The average sleeper dreams an hour and a half. . . . can and European allies in its attempt to tighten the diplomatic and economic squeeze on Cuba."

Thus, as in the 1930s, the free world is in disunion, and the enemy dictators are taking advantage of this disunion. President Kennedy, meanwhile, has also backed away. He has disregarded the all-important principle in the Monroe Doctrine which declares against European colonialism or imposition of their system, in the Western Hemisphere.

He says the doctrine means only resistance to an armed attack against the United States or against other countries in this hemisphere with the aid of a European power.

This gives Khrushchev a free hand to infiltrate any country in America, take over government functions with a puppet ruler, and send in military supplies and forces without running the risk of any countering action by the United States.

Dr. Harold Hyman Says:

Germs, Like Garden Seed, Need Good Soil to Grow

Bacteria cultures were taken from the noses and throats of 75 perfectly healthy wives and husbands in a recent study made by Dr. H. S. Harvey and Miss Marjorie Dunlap of Boston University.

When the results were matched, couple by couple, some very unexpected findings came to light.

Hemolytic streptococci, of the disease-producing type, were present in one or other of the nasal partners in 26 instances. But, in only 12 cases was the germ present in both.

Influenza bacilli were present in one or other of the partners in 67 instances. And, in 51 cases, in both.

Like many important studies, this investigation raises more problems than it solves. For instance, how is it that these persons maintained their health with a menagerie of bacilli lurking in their mouths and noses?

How is it that some partners failed to "catch" the strep from the spouse?

And, if hemolytic strep can be grown from the nose or throat of almost half the population, how established source of revenue and yield it to the Federal Government. It means that the state actually invites the Federal Government to invade its territory and to establish Federal dominion with in the innermost citadel of reserved rights of the Commonwealth.

This amendment would extend the Federal power so as to reach the citizen in the ordinary business of life. A hand from Washington will be stretched out and placed upon every man's business; the eye of a Federal inspector will be in every man's back pocket. Now, if he'd only learn to read and write."

The law will of necessity have inquisitorial features. Under it businessmen will be hauled into courts distant from their homes. Heavy fines imposed by distant and unfamiliar tribunals will considerably increase the expense of doing business.

An army of Federal inspectors, spies and detectives will descend upon the state. They will compel men of business to open their books and disclose secrets

For all practical purposes, the Monroe Doctrine now been buried, as Khrushchev in 1960 said it would be.

Resolutions in Congress, introduced last week by administration leaders, still mention the Doctrine in their "whereas" but not in the text of the conclusions reached. Their theory evidently is that only if America is attacked should any action be taken.

Communist imperialism is thereby given the unchallenged opportunity to extend its system anywhere in the Western Hemisphere. If the United States will not fight with historic American policy is being violated 30 miles away from its shores, the dictatorship in Moscow may conclude that pacifism has won a big victory in the Americas and the West, and that there will be no resistance to Communist aggressions anywhere else in the world, including Berlin. It could be the 1930s all over again.

State's Any-Deer Season Concerns Local Hunter

The Conservative Department states we are again going to have another slaughter of does and fawns and it's time the people know why we are going back to this type of a season. The only reason I see is that it brings in more money.

Last year the sale was rather slim because the so-called "sportsman" couldn't shoot at anything that moved, so he decided if he had to shoot a buck he'd stay home. Because of this I felt fairly safe in the woods as I wasn't going to run into a "trigger-happy greenhorn."

There are better methods and it's funny the deer survived all these years. For the first time in several summers we see deer near our cottage in the north woods. Write your senator and representative and plead with them to stop this slaughter. 119 Wenonah Dr. Lynn D. Allen Jr., O.D.

Radio Free Europe Tells of Program

A dramatic highlight of our programming was full coverage of the Telstar broadcast to Europe. Telstar presented an unusual opportunity to demonstrate the U.S.A.'s remarkable scientific advances so the Communists elected not to broadcast the Telstar program. Radio Free Europe was able to capture much of the excitement by picking up the sound portions of the Telstar broadcast and transmitting them directly behind the Iron Curtain. These were coupled with explanation of what was being seen on West European TV screens to convey the full impact to eager listeners.

Medicare and help for the aged sound good but when you read that you have to pay a portion of the bill it doesn't appear so good. We need a bill to increase social security payments and let everyone take care of his own medical bills. It wouldn't cost any more than a medicare bill.

Do Snorers Care?

Salt Lake Tribune

A British scientist, Dr. Harvey Flack, thinks he has found a cure for snoring. Just bite on a piece of wood for five minutes before retiring. Dr. Flack advises, and the neck and jaw muscles will be so tired that snoring is impossible.

Apparently Dr. Flack believes that snorers really care about the sounds they make in the night. But many a wife (there is a myth that women never snore) claims the snorer not only doesn't care but, on the contrary, denies making any sound at all once asleep.

And so, despite the good doctor, the argument seems likely to continue—along with the racket.

Tax Cut

The Spokesman-Review

It is generally conceded that the Kennedy administration will be a being about any meaningful cut in taxes at this session of Congress. The President has been vacillating for weeks on the question. It now appears unlikely that he will be able to persuade the Democratic Congress to enact a tax cut, even if he should make up his mind to recommend it.

What is most noteworthy, however, in the entire tax debate, is that there is an apparent consideration being given to reduction in government spending.

Governmental economizing is always politically difficult, but it is incontestable that important savings could be made in the operation of our sprawling federal establishment. Many of the economies that could be made would not impair the efficiency of the governmental operation, but in some cases undoubtedly would be accompanied by benefits.

Proposing a tax cut without a corresponding reduction in tax spending is something like proposing to borrow money to increase one's income. The comparison is apt up to a certain point, but not all of the way. A tax reduction on any form of tax would create certain psychological and political stimulation to the economy. Unless spending is reduced correspondingly, the resultant increase in debt and deficit, however, would have evil effects greatly in excess of the temporary narcotic pleasures of paying for only part of the cost of government.

Swainson Will Get JFK's Boost

By United Press International
It is crystal clear now that the Kennedy administration is going to take an active role in Democratic Gov. John B. Swainson's re-election bid.

The 14 years of Democratic rule in Lansing is facing its stiffest challenge with the candidacy of George Romney, Swainson's most vocal opponent, and the Michigan governorship is a key election in this fall's national balloting.

The foray of national Democrats into Michigan begins Wednesday when Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges, former Democratic governor of North Carolina, visits Detroit to discuss business and endorse Swainson.

Hodges will be appearing before a banquet sponsored by the business for Swainson Committee, chaired by Martin E. Cirin.

The two-month run on Michigan by highly placed Democrats in the Kennedy administration is expected to culminate in late October when the President visits the National Automobile Show in Detroit. He has given strong indications that he will be on hand for the giant show.

Meanwhile, Swainson was doing some heavy campaigning on his own, spending Saturday in Midland and Isabella counties and Sunday in the Detroit area.

At every stop he used the same theme: "The Republicans yearn for the past, are fearful of the present and paralyzed by the future."

"BROKEN PROMISES"

He blamed the GOP of having "a half-century record of broken promises and saying 'no' to everything, whether it is tax relief, fiscal reform, help for the mentally ill or sound programs that would promote industrial verification and expansion."

In Detroit, at a gathering of United Auto Workers Union Local 27, he said, "The Republican party has squandered its right to represent people at any level of government."

At a dinner in Mount Pleasant Saturday, Swainson said, "The GOP is trying once more a face-lifting job on its party and the usual Republican 'hopes' but the people of Michigan will not be fooled. We Democrats know that the people are much smarter than the Republicans give them credit for being."

Romney campaigned Saturday in Washtenaw County, spending a good deal of his time with students at the University of Michigan.

He told his student audience that "America is crying for excellence and the greatest shortage we have is a shortage of talent with character that can provide leadership."

He said colleagues should decide what they stand for and believe in. "If you want to make something out of your life just don't think of your comfort and security."

FACE-TO-FACE TALKS

Plans also were announced for three face-to-face meetings this week between Michigan's two congressmen-at-large candidates — Democrat Neil Stanchler and Republican Alvin M. Bentley.

Their first head-on clash comes today before the Birmingham League of Women Voters in the Detroit suburb. On Wednesday, they'll meet twice in panel discussions of foreign policy at Flint Junior College and at the University of Michigan branch in Flint.

The congressman-at-large race was necessitated when the Republican-controlled Michigan legislature and Gov. Swainson could not agree on redistricting the state from 18 into 19 congressional seats. The state gained an added seat in Congress on the basis of its population growth between 1950 and 1960.

Healthy Dollar Spells Trouble Elsewhere

Discuss International Monetary Woes

By FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Financial leaders of 80 countries gathered here today to talk about the recuperating dollar—and the new problems that will arise when the dollar is restored to full health.

The forum for the discussion was the annual meeting of the International Monetary Fund, a 17-year-old champion of stable currencies and world trade. This meeting, along with simultaneous sessions of the World Bank and affiliated organizations, will continue through Friday.

In the monetary realm, an increase in the strength of the dollar or any other currency is almost certain to mean that some other currency is weakening. With the dollar showing new strength, Western Europe is increasingly concerned about its own marks, guilders, francs and lire.

DEFICIT ON WAY OUT

Per Jacobsson, managing director of the IMF, predicts the U.S.

balance of payments deficit—the cause of dollar weakness in recent years—will be substantially eliminated by the end of 1963. The Kennedy administration is making the same forecast.

Some of the European finance ministers and central bankers attending the IMF meeting aren't so certain. But they are concerned about the fact that the increasing strength of the dollar already has weakened the position of several continental currencies.

As the U.S. payments deficit has declined, from $13 billion in 1960 to a current annual rate of $1.5 billion, the surpluses of West Germany, the Netherlands, and Switzerland have disappeared. The Italian surplus has been reduced.

OTHERS WILL SUFFER

If the U.S. deficit is eliminated on schedule, it will be at the continued expense of other currencies.

The trend of the U.S. payments position—the amount of money leaving the country as compared with the amount coming in—is virtually important to the rest of the world because of the dollar's unusual position. Along with Britain's pound sterling, the dollar is a "reserve currency" internationally acceptable as a substitute for gold.

If the steady postwar outflow of dollars from the United States is halted next year, this country no longer will be adding dollars to the monetary reserves of other countries. In that event, year-to-year increases in the total reserves of the non-Communist nations would be limited largely to newly mined gold.

This potential problem would require major adjustments in the international monetary and trade financing system.

Bright Light Set for Experiment by Astronaut

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra Jr., who is scheduled to be America's next astronaut, may see a light from the Durban area on the Indian Ocean coast of South Africa on his fifth and sixth orbits around the earth.

A 140-million candlepower light is to be located at Louis Botha Airport, near Durban, and will burn for three minutes during Schirra's final orbital flights.

A U.S. Air Force Globemaster brought the light to Durban. It is filled with xenon—a gas similar to neon. When only partially in operation the light can be seen from a distance of 60 miles.

The purpose of the experiment is to determine whether Schirra can distinguish the light while in orbit.

Stops Constipation due to "Aging Colon"

But, doctors say, lies in new laxative principle that re-creates 3 elements of youthful regularity.

As you grow older, the internal muscles of your colon will also age, lose the strength that propels waste from the body. Stagnant bowel contents dry out and shrink so they fail to stimulate the urge to purge. Of all leading laxatives, only one Colomato gives you its special 3-way relief.

(1) Colomato prevents the formation of dry, hardened waste for easy passage without pain or strain; (2) helps relax flabby colon muscles with unique retraining action; (3) acts gently on the nerve reflexes that stimulate the "mass movement" of your lower colon.

Colomato relieves even chronic constipation overnight; is so gentle it was hospital proved safe even for expectant mothers. Introductory Size 43¢.

The Congressmen Are Coming!Playgrounds of the World: Get Ready

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Almost any month now, Congress will be adjourning for what is left of the year.

Some citizens possibly harbor the illusion that the work of Congress ceases when the session ends. That is by no means the case.

If we can rely on precedent, we can be sure that a number of committees are making plans for overseas investigations and survey missions during the postadjournment period.

This type of legislative activity imposes a hardship on the lawgivers, who could be spending the time at home in some pleasurable pursuit, such as listening to the complaints of constituents.

But when duty calls for a trip abroad, most feel an obligation to answer.

This year's session is running so late that some are hearing the call even before adjournment arrives.

Such was the situation with Chairman Adam Clayton Powell of the House Labor Committee, who recently returned from Europe, where he and two female staff aides studied the Common Market.

I have been looking over some travel folders and it seems to me there are an unusually large number of places this fall where conditions would warrant an on-the-spot study by a congressional committee.

For instance, there is the French Riviera. Photographs appearing in the travel folders indicate that the women there have nothing to wear but a couple of bandana handkerchiefs.

If a Senate appropriations subcommittee spent a week or two inspecting the Riviera beaches, I feel certain Congress would vote to provide foreign aid for the destitute inhabitants.

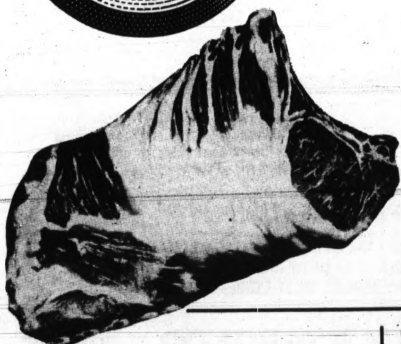

Another place where a congressional study could serve a good purpose is Venice, which has a rather severe drainage problem.

A House public works subcommittee could look it over with a view to using our Peace Corps to teach the Venetians how to build storm sewers.

At the same time, we might be able to learn something from them about irrigation.

The folders likewise indicated that Acapulco would be a likely place for committees concerned with Latin American affairs to check on the alliance for progress program.

These are only a few of the areas that need the attention of Congress. But if adjournment doesn't come soon, it may be too late.

JFK Hoping for Authority to Cut Tariffs

Senate to Debate Trade Expansion Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate begins debate today on the trade expansion bill which would give President Kennedy unprecedented new authority to cut tariffs.

Leaders hope for passage in a few days of the measure aimed at winning mutual trade concessions from other countries.

The President has said the bill would give the nation "a new and bold instrument of American trade policy" and has given it a top priority rating in his legislative program.

Many members of Kennedy's Cabinet and other high administration officials have gone to Capitol Hill during months of congressional hearings to plead for passage of the measure.

PASSED BY HOUSE
The House has passed the bill and the Senate Finance Committee has approved it, sending the bill to the floor Friday after a series of key votes resulting in unbroken administration victories.

However, several senators were ready to vote for amendments to knock out or water down major sections.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he was prepared to run the Senate early and late on the bill. If it is passed, Congress may be able to finish its business by Sept. 29, he said.

On Thursday the House will debate another major item standing in the way of adjournment—the foreign aid appropriations bill.

Senate House conferees will meet during the week on such important measures as tax revision, federal aid for colleges, farm legislation and self-employed pensions.

The House Friday passed the President's proposal authorizing the United States to buy up to $100 million of a $200-million U.N. bond issue.

There was a chance the Senate would accept House amendments to the U.N. bond bill without sending the measure to a joint conference committee. That could speed it to the President this week.

WOULD EXTEND LAW

The trade bill would extend the 25-year-old reciprocal trade law for another five years, authorize a 50 per cent cut in all present tariffs, give the President the right to wipe out duties on products for which the United States and the European Common Market account for 80 per cent of the world trade, and make possible a variety of government assistance for companies and workers harmed by imports.

Opponents of the trade bill said they would concentrate on trying to knock out the special adjustment assistance provisions and to write in language restricting the broad range of authority to deal with presidential powers.

Talcum Keeps Tile Clean

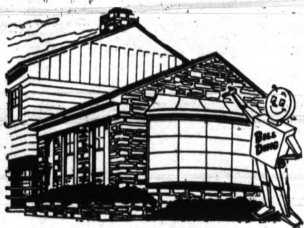

Chances of soiling insulating tiles applied to walls and ceilings are reduced by gluing hands with talcum powder. Another tip to "do-it-yourselfers" from home-improvement experts is "the re-

2 Boys Die in Cave-In as Rescue Tries Fail

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI) — Francis' parents, Charles H. Phillips, 37, and his wife, Barbara, 35, "Charley and Davey are hurt, they're buried," the frightened youths screamed as they ran up to the adults.

TROUBLE FINDING BODIES
The parents and grandparents, along with a group of neighbors, ran to the pit and began digging frantically with their hands in an effort to reach the boys. Rescuers had trouble finding the bodies in the mass of wet clay.

Rockford state police said the boys were buried for about one hour.

The victims, along with two other boys Douglas Phillips, 11, and Wesley Day, 14, were digging in a 15-foot sand and clay pit near the lake when an overhanging portion of clay dropped on Charles and David.

The other two youths, terrified after they were unable to budge the huge chunks of clay, ran to the home of the Douglas' grandparents, which was in the vicinity.

The grandparents, Mr. and Mrs.

CORUNNA, Mich. (UPI) — One of Michigan's oldest residents, Henry Mole, died at the home of a daughter here Saturday at the age of 108.

There is a William Edgington of Kalamazoo who claims to be 113.

Mole was born at Grafton, Ohio, on Oct. 12, 1853 and came to Michigan when he was 23 years old.

He was active in farming until his retirement 28 years ago at the age of 80. By that time, his farm in Genesee County covered 300 acres.

Mole is survived by three daughters, a son, six grandchildren, 12 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Franco Inaugurates Agriculture Program

PALENCIA, Spain (AP) — Gen. Francisco Franco inaugurated today a $200-million agricultural program designed to relieve the alternate drought and flood damage in four provinces of northeastern Spain.

The project is designed to triple by 1970 the gross income of about 200,000 members of farm families living in the provinces of Palencia, Leon, Zamora, and Valladolid.

En route back to Madrid from the old summer capital in San Sebastian, Franco inaugurated the project as part of a brief grass roots tour of this region.

To curb the floods and provide water for irrigation, the Palencia project includes construction of 10 major reservoirs.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing. All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

Miss Chatterton Wed

The R. Bruce Chattertons of Orchard Lake honored their daughter and her husband, son of the senior Seiferts of Grand blanc, at a reception in Ronda Inn.

Orange glimmies complemented gowns of emerald sateen for maid of honor Carol Gedeon, Birmingham, matron of honor Mrs. R. Bruce Chatterton Jr., Milwaukee, Wis., and bridesmaid Karyl Kurtz of Monroe.

Boatfist silk illusion veiling caught by a crystal tulle fell over the bride's gown of white Chantilly lace with chapel train. White sweetheart roses, ivy and stephanotis rested on her white prayer book.

Best man was Larry Fiedler, Monroe, with David Sager, Ann Arbor; Richard Ludtke, Gregory; Russel Sheehan and Harry Wolfe, both of Livonia, seating some 400 guests.

Mrs. Chatterton, who chose avocado green silk, brocade, clipped a green Cymidium orchid to her purse. Orange and rust pompons accented Mrs. Seifert's dress of champagne chiffon and lace.

After their northern Michigan honeymoon, the couple will be at home in Flint.

Entertaining at pre-nuptial showers and luncheons in the Pine Lake Country Club were Mrs. William I. Denman Jr. and Carol Gedeon; Mrs. Frank Shea, Grand Blanc, kitchen shower and poolside supper; Mrs. Malcolm P. Stewart, Huntington Woods, buffet dinner-shower; and Marguerite Schmidt, Barbara Keller and Dee De Degen, kitchen shower at the Village Woman's Club.

The senior Seiferts were hosts at a buffet supper in the Atlas Country Club, Grand Blanc, following rehearsal.

JUDY ANN GAGE

Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Gage of Sutherland Street, Waterford Township, announce the engagement of their daughter Judy Ann to Michael T. Johnston, son of the Donald J. Johnstons of Tull Drive, Waterford Township.

Vows Repeated at St. Benedict Church

Patricia Ronan Weds John C. Kim

Wearing an heirloom gown of tiered ruffled net over white satin, Patricia Abigail Ronan and John C. Kim of Palo Alto, Calif., were wed Saturday morning in St. Benedict Church. Rev. Richard A. Schoenherr performed the ceremony.

Rose pointed lace and net fastened her veil and opera-length gloves. She held white shattered chrysanthemums, roses and ivy.

The Benjamin C. Ronans of East Irons Road were hosts at their daughter's church reception-luncheon.

Mrs. James E. Jones Jr., her cousin's honor matron appeared in avocado organza over lace and carried shattered green Fuji chrysanthemums and roses.

Vicki Lynn Campbell of Foxcroft, Bloomfield Township, her cousin's junior bridesmaid, wore burnished gold organza over lace and carried matching Fuji chrysanthemums and butterscotch pompons.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kue Chun Kim, Seoul, Korea, chose the bride's brother, J. Bradley Ronan for his best man. J. Edward Bradley and James E. Jones Jr. were ushers.

Motorcade to the west coast by way of the Rocky Mountains and Lake Tahoe, the couple will reside in Stanford, Calif., where the bride is a graduate student at Stanford University.

She served one year with the American Red Cross Supplemental Recreation Activities Overseas in Korea. Mr. Kim is a premedical student.

While attending Notre Dame University, Mr. Kim took a year's leave to work with the late Dr. Tom Dooley in Laos.

Pink gladiolus complemented Mrs. Ronan's white-rail silk jacket dress chosen for her daughter's wedding.

"I happen to like pearls," she said. "Presumably, I was chosen as a judge because of my good taste. I don't care what Mr. King thinks."

The prize that Lady Kilroy and the other judges gave to King enriched him by 350 points ($980).

The prime minister's wife isn't the only well-known British woman who goes in for pearls. Queen Elizabeth II, Princess Margaret and the Queen Mother all wear them frequently.

"I don't think people like Lady Dorothy buy enough jewelry."

"The tendency of upper class women to wear dreary strands of pearls all the time is extremely depressing."

Maybe I shouldn't complain because he doesn't gamble, drink or chase women, but we have four kids who don't even know they've got a father. I would like to have my husband home for supper at least two nights a week.

We tried getting a relief handover, but he drank more than he sold so we had to let him go. Is my request unreasonable?

ALONE WITH THE KIDS DEAR ALONE: In my opinion, your request is not unreasonable. Your husband should take off two nights a week to have supper with his family. And get a bartender with ulcers to relieve him.

Unload your problem on Abby. For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ARBY, care of The Pontiac Press.

Knows Central Park Like Own Back Yard

BY GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK—Traversing the 84 acres of Central Park rates as quite a lot of territory for an 84-year-old woman to have covered.

But Mrs. Alma Guillot knows the century-old landmark of the nation as intimately as most people know their own back yard.

Mrs. Guillot (pronounced gill-it) has made a 30-year career of exploring literally every foot of the recreation area's hills, lakes, rocky slopes, flatland—and yes, its city-created cobblestone and concrete.

Her love affair with a park which annually attracts 20 million visitors began when she first went into it to sketch. She holds bachelor and masters degrees from Columbia University Teachers College in arts and crafts.

"I got interested in knowing what the trees and shrubs were," she said in an interview as her tiny apartment in the shadow of Columbia. "So I went up and talked to some of the people at the (New York) botanical garden."

"They told me 'there's everything in Central Park and nobody knows what...'"

Mrs. Guillot started finding out. Now, 30 years later, she has sketched, identified, and told origin, habitat and folklore of the 800-plus species of trees and shrubs. She said three fourths have been imported.

A publisher (Doubleday) heard of her project and the result is a book called "Make Friends of Trees and Shrubs," just out.

She said all royalties will go to the New York Park Association, an independent organization to protect all parks in greater New York. She showed me a note from the association's secretary, Daniel Chase, thanking her for a $750 check.

"I know of no better way to invest," said Mrs. Guillot. "It is the happiest thing I can do. I care about the parks and children... our future generations."

"I believe, as Tolstoy said, that God, nature and work are the three essentials to the making of a happy, normal individual."

"Take away a park," she said, "and a city will perish. Yet they keep trying to nibble away at Central Park." She mentioned the new addition to the children's zoo—"gives a Coney Island atmosphere," and Huntington Hartford's offer to build a cafe—"deplorable," she said.

"We have enough concrete already. Do you know, there are at least 30 concrete playgrounds in Central Park?"

If Mrs. Guillot had her way, New York would go ahead with a suggested plan to divert water from upstate reservoirs directly to the city, eliminating the need for the 125-acre reservoir in the heart of Central Park.

"Let some of it be for a fishing pond," she said. "They talk about the crime rate in New York! Did you ever hear of a boy with a fishing pole also carrying a switchblade knife?"

Mrs. Guillot, born on a farm in Lima, N.Y., near Rochester, has one son, John, who teaches history at Shaker Heights (Ohio) Junior High School.

Her late husband Cephas was a romance languages professor at Columbia and a near relative of Henry David Thoreau, she said. At 84 years, Mrs. Guillot is busier than most women half her years. She's in the park daily. She has just finished volume one of a five-volume guide to the park.

And, to keep in shape, she does calisthenics every morning.

"Walking is good exercise," she said, "but doesn't affect all the cells."

To those who call Central Park a haven for criminals, she says, "no, the crime rate is lower there than any other place in the city." Mrs. Guillot has reason for believing so.

She is recuperating from a broken jaw and other facial injuries suffered one mid-afternoon recently as she returned from a supermarket shopping trip.

She was knocked down and beaten severely for the sake of the few dollars she carried at the time.

The incident occurred in her own apartment.

Mentholated Cigarettes

Q. I have recently "come out of the war up" to a mentholated cigarette. Now I wonder if inhaling mentholated is harmful. Is it?

A. We know of no studies on the effects of long-term inhalation of menthol but it would be safe to assume that it is at least as harmful as the non-mentholated variety. One investigator had this to say about mentholated cigarettes: "It remains to be proved that mentholated tobacco smoke is different from ordinary tobacco smoke in its effect on the respiratory tract except as related to the sense of coolness characteristic of locally applied menthol."

Hard to Be First Girl to Say 'No' to Boy

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"No. I wouldn't continue to go out with a girl who won't allow me sex liberties," said the youth. "Why should I? There are too many other girls who will."

Quoting this boy in a recent national magazine article on the rise of premarital and abortion, Dr. Virgil G. Damon, its author comments: "The girl must be the strong one if she wants to keep out of trouble."

And pretty rough it is on her, too. It isn't easy to be 14 or 15 years old — and be the first female creature to say "No" to a boy who's had nothing but "Yes" from women since he was born.

It's frightening to have your request for his self-discipline met by threats of reprisal for your "holdout."

At 14, you have to be very are the sons of women who have given them the times, the cookies they screamed for just as they now scream for sex from the girls. But the indulgence they've received, given to shut them up and get rid of their bothering.

As a result, the only kind of feminine giving they know is being grudging, frightened giving.

That is what keeps them babies. Knowing nothing of love's wholehearted, untroubled and happy giving, they believe themselves as satisfied with the frightened sex they have from girls as they once believed they were satisfied with men's begrudging cookies.

I wish the boy quoted by Dr. Damon was one of a very small minority, but girls tell me there are many of him around. It is a thing — not that battle between the sexes is anything new.

What seems to be new is the total absence of battle; the absence of boys' and girls' awareness of difference from each other, that difference in sexual feeling and purpose by which each of the sexes learns to cherish the other.

It is sad that the young must so threaten the future experience of love's whole and joyous giving by inviting the hurts and disappointments involved in troubled, futile, meaningless sex conquest and sex submission.

Bible study was given by Mrs. C. Mufky and Mrs. Ted Koella spoke on missionary education and world service.

The Oct. 12 meeting will be with Mrs. S. A. Warwick.

Faith Group met Friday in the home of Mrs. Willis Brewer on Lakeview Avenue, who gave the Bible study program. Mrs. Bradley Scott and Mrs. Davy Gilpin assisted the hostess.

Mrs. Joe Duffield was welcomed as a new member.

Assisting the hostess were Mrs. H. H. Pratt, Mrs. C. M. Saunders and Mrs. Dewey Taylor.

Guests were Mrs. Paul D. Cross, wife of the associate pastor, and Mrs. Rose Chase of Newark, N.J. The group took the Bible study from the Book of Romans, presented by Mrs. Asa L. Drury. Mrs. Howard Marsh, Mrs. R. C. Cummings also participated in the program.

Do We Rate Pretty High in God's Cosmic Classroom?

By GEORGE W. CRANE,
P.H.D., M.D.

CASE N-44. Dr. Robert B. Pierce is the dynamic pastor of the famous Chicago skyscraper church in the Loop. He and his vivacious wife Harriet were main rock plugs in starting our Scientific Marriage Foundation.

DR. CRANE

At Sunday dinner recently, we were discussing the vastness of God's cosmic universe.

"Some astronomers," said Dr. Pierce, "have suggested that there are at least 100 million other planets, revolving around other distant suns, which are either inhabited or at least inhabitable."

"If we assume many of them are already inhabited, how do you think their stage of civilization compares with our own?"

ETHICAL CALISTHENICS
It is not only wise to exercise your muscles and glands, but ethical calisthenics also opens new windows in your soul.

So occasionally it is refreshing to take a glimpse at the idea we may have billions of cosmic neighbors.

For example, think of the trillions of people who have already lived on this earth in past eons of time.

If they are reincarnated in human form on planets like this earth, it would require hundreds of planets just to give them living room.

If God operates a Cosmic School System in which the inhabited planets are like classrooms, then death may be just the graduation from third to the fourth. Or from junior high school to senior high school.

Dr. Pierce has raised the stimulating question of just where our earth rates in this graduated sequence of classrooms.

It probably isn't kindergarten or nursery school, for such a planet would be populated with cavemen or other prehistoric creatures 100,000 years behind our present 1962 cultural level.

It seems to me that earth is pretty high in the cosmic school system and I'll give you two reasons why.

First, if other planets were very far ahead of us, they would probably have visited us in their space ship are now. Since they haven't done so, and since we are not far away from the time when we may be visiting other planets, I believe this fact alone shows we are a very advanced cosmic classroom.

"But my main clincher argument is the fact that ethics reached its climax on this planet 19 centuries ago. And the evolution of ethics would probably be the chief criterion of how civilized a planet is.

No body has ever been able to cite a fault in Christ's behavior here on this earth nor has anybody ever indicated an improvement.

Jesus apparently symbolizes the acme in ethics. So if earth has already been given a vivid example of such perfection in ethics, I believe we are the planet next to heaven in the Cosmic School System.

And it may be our obligation to spread our higher ethical outlook to planets elsewhere by means of a cosmic missionary movement.

For would it be efficient if Jesus must visit dozens of other planets and be crucified on each one when their evolution of ethics had reached the stage we were in just 19 centuries ago?

No, I think it would be simpler and more efficient for us to carry these glad tidings to other classrooms in God's cosmic school by our space ships.

Discuss this in Sunday school or church tomorrow.

Rockefeller Assists Destroyed Churches

ALBANY, Ga. (AP) — Donations for rebuilding three Negro churches destroyed by fire in southwest Georgia have reached an estimated $2,500, at least a third more than the buildings cost originally.

In addition, Trappist Monks at the Monastery of the Holy Ghost in Coopers, 35 miles east of Atlanta, volunteered to make the stained glass windows for the building of the Mount Olive and Mount Mary Baptist Churches.

The two Baptist churches near Albany, 14 miles northwest of Albany, burned early Sunday. Several weeks ago fire destroyed Shady Grove Baptist Church near Leesburg about 19 miles from Albany.

Standing on the site of the Mount Olive Church last night, Negro integration leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said that Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York had made a sizeable contribution for rebuilding the three churches.

ROCKEFELLER GENEROUS
King told a voter registration rally at the church site that he didn't know the amount of the gift from Rockefeller. But he said the New York governor assured him it would be about one-third the cost of rebuilding the churches. The Negro leader said Rockefeller's assistant, Hugh Morrow, said the governor made the donation "as a Baptist layman and with this vicious threat against two of our most prized possessions — freedom of worship and an American citizen concerned the right of the ballot."

In Atlanta, the Rev. Wyatt Tee Walker, executive director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference which King heads, estimated donations to the SCLC rebuilding fund at $28,000.

The figure included the Rockefeller gift, he said. The governor near Albany, N.M.

Dressing Tastes Really Different

This combination of ingredients is worth trying because it produces a delightful flavor.

Different Lobster Salad Platter
1 medium cucumber
1 small sweet onion
Olive oil and wine vinegar
Salt, pepper
2 lobsters (1½ to 2 pounds each) boiled and split
½ bunch watercress
2 cups torn romaine
1 cup torn chervil
1 pound blue cheese
Pure cucumber and slice thin.
Peel onion, slice into thin rounds and separate into rings. Mix cucumber and onion with a little oil, vinegar, salt and pepper to taste; cover and chill for a few hours.
Remove lobster meat from shells; slice large pieces; arrange all lobster at one end of serving platter. Mix watercress (heavy stems removed), romaine, chervil and crumbled blue cheese with oil, vinegar, salt and pepper to taste; mound in center of platter; arrange cucumbers at other end. Makes 4 servings.

PREPARE FOR COUNCIL — Workmen dig trenches for high tension wires in the floor of St. Peter's Basilica's central nave. The added wire is to brighten up the sessions of the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council opening Oct. 11.

Mystery Paris Dinner Ends for Pair Married 20 Years

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The people of Paris made the biggest impression on Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Phillips of Findlay, who went to the French capital for a 20th wedding anniversary dinner arranged by Phillips as a surprise for his wife.

The couple arrived at Cleveland Hopkins Airport late Sunday looking a bit tired but flushed with the excitement of travel and bewildered by the publicity they had received.

When a reporter asked them what impressed them most in Paris, the couple replied in unison: "the people."
"They are so very colorful, so lively, fast and impressive. And real friendly," said Phillips, a linotype operator for a newspaper in Findlay.
"It's nice to be back," said Mrs. Phillips, "because I was worried about the children. But the time was kind of short."
The couple found time to make friends, however. One of them was Max Michel, a French newspaper photographer, whom Phillips described as "a typical Frenchman."
His 18-year-old daughter, Marie Calude, interpreted for him and they spent a lot of time showing us around. She is going to write to Michael as a pen pal.
Michael is the Phillips' 16-year-old son. He and his sister, Monday, 12, stayed with friends while their parents were away.
Phillips and his wife traveled light. Their baggage consisted of one suitcase, which he sneaked into the car before they left Findlay Sept. 12, ostensibly for an anniversary dinner in Cleveland.
When they arrived in Cleveland Phillips told his wife they were going to fly to New York for the dinner. At New York they boarded an Icelandic plane, with Phillips explaining they were going to Iceland for the celebration. In Iceland he told his wife they were going to Luxembourg and when the plane landed there last Thursday, he told her of the surprise he had planned for her in Paris.
"I enjoyed it very much," Mrs. Phillips said. "It was a wonderful surprise."

To Decide Bond Issue at Clarenceville Schools

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — A $1.5-million bond issue for additions and improvements will be decided Sept. 27 by voters in the Clarenceville School District. No tax increase would be involved if the proposal is approved, according to Supt. Louis Schmidt.

NEW COUNCILOR — Ronald Wurn, 2671 Harrington St., Avon Township, will be installed at 8 p.m. Thursday as Master of Ceremonies for the bond issue election, Order of DeMolay. Others to take office in the public ceremony are Gary Goldsworthy, senior councilor, and Ronald Eaton, junior councilor.

Tax Foes Set Petition Drive

Vigilance Committee Will Comb Suburbs for Signatures Oct. 2

WARREN (UPI)—The Vigilance Tax Committee has approved plans for a petition drive in Detroit suburbs Oct. 2 in a fight against municipal income taxation of non-residents.

Mayor George Kuhn of Berkley, committee president, said the organization of mayors, supervisors and other local officials hopes to get 100,000 signatures on the petitions in a three-hour march.

The petitions call for a statutory law which would prohibit any local government from establishing an income tax without a vote of the people, and would ban taxation of nonresidents in any case.

A total of 300,000 signatures must be obtained statewide in order to put the petitions before the legislature.

If the petition drive is successful, the legislature could either enact the statutory law which would not be subject to veto or place the matter on the ballot in the next general election.

In Candlelight Rites

Miss Payne Weds

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP—Falls Baptist Church, Waterford Township, was the setting for the candlelight wedding of Betty Edus Payne and Keith Owen Roettiger at 7 p.m. Saturday. Rev. Alex Kasten performed the ceremony before an altar bedecked with white gladioli.

MRS. KEITH O. ROETTER

The bride, who made her home of 4834 Clinton St., is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Payne of Harley, Va. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Owen Roettiger, 2825 Tallahassee St., Avon Township.

The bodice of the waist-length gown the bride chose for her wedding was satin over lace featuring a scoop neckline and long tapered sleeves. The skirt was organza.

An aurora borealis crown held her shoulder-length veil, and she carried a cascade arrangement of white Fuji chrysanthemums and ivy with a detachable corsage.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Lyle Fox of Pontiac. Serving as best man was Gerald T. Squires of Walpole Lake. The guests were seated by Dr. P. C. Boise of Celina, Ohio, and Donald Greybehl of Rochester.

A reception was held in the church parlor immediately following the ceremony. Upon their return from a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls, the newlyweds will reside in Pontiac.

Farmers' Group at Climax?

Big Week in Price War?

CHICAGO (UPI)—The National Farmers Organization (NFO), fresh from strategy meetings, today carried its fight for higher market prices into what may be the crucial week.

The NFO, which holds its 16-state "all-out holding action" on livestock was failing, once again urged farmers to keep their cattle, hogs and sheep off the markets.

Oren Lee Staley, president of the NFO since it was organized seven years ago, called 70 meetings over the weekend at various spots in the Midwest and Great Plains so leaders in the rebellion against low prices could map new strategy.

The NFO, which does not reveal the number of its members, hopes that by holding commodities, and processors will be forced to bargain for contracts that guarantee high, stable prices for farm commodities.

In the meantime, it was reported that Republican reaction to the NFO farm strike may turn into a political issue for this fall's congressional elections.

In Washington late last week, the Republican National Committee condemned the NFO operation as "useless and wasteful."

The committee criticized President Kennedy for not stepping into the strike in the interest of consumers. The Republican leaders called the NFO a nonrepresentative group of farmers.

Almost Wasn't Happy Birthday

Lucky Landing Saves Madison Heights Pair From Dunking

DETROIT — Alex Badrak of Madison Heights had a happy 42nd birthday after all — but the prospects of it ending that way looked mighty black at one time last night.

Badrak and a Madison Heights friend, 40-year-old Marvin Medley were returning home from Cleveland, where they'd gone to celebrate Badrak's birthday, when the engine of Badrak's private plane began to knock and sputter.

That was around 9:30 p.m. and they roughly were over Leanington, Ont.

The plane began losing altitude and Badrak headed for the Detroit River, intent on ditching in the water rather than take his chances with any trees where he might make a land bet-down.

Suddenly ahead the lights of the Grosse Ile Naval Air Station flooded on—for an incoming military plane.

Badrak managed to keep his limping plane flying and headed for the lights. He made it down safely at 9:40 p.m. Around, he found one of his cylinders had blown out.

Badrak and Medley had taken off from Strongsville Air Park, south of Cleveland for Big Beaver Airport, north of Detroit.

Administration officials have had little to say about the NFO action so far. Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman has noted that similar building actions have failed in the past.

The NFO drive has drawn comparatively little comment so far from other national farm leaders.

Romney to Visit in Rochester

Gubernatorial Hopeful Also Plans to Cover South Oakland County

ROCHESTER—George W. Romney's campaign trail will bring the Republican candidate for governor here Saturday for a visit to North Hill Shopping Center and a hand-shaking tour of the downtown area.

Romney plans to arrive at the shopping center at Rochester and Tienken roads at 12:15 p.m. in a motorcade from Crisman Chevrolet Co. at 755 S. Rochester Road, Avon Township.

The gubernatorial candidate will arrive at the car agency at noon following visits to Detroit shopping centers and door-to-door campaigning in Harper Woods in the morning.

A speech by the former president of American Motors Corp. is scheduled for the North Hill shopping center.

After his Rochester appearance, the candidate's crowded schedule will take him to the Clawson shopping center at 1:15 p.m. and a number of other appearances in southern Oakland County during the remainder of the day.

After Clawson, he will move on to the Northwood Shopping Center at Woodward Ave. and 13 Mile Road in Royal Oak at 1:45 p.m.; downtown Royal Oak at 2:30 p.m.; the new J. L. Hudson budget store in Madison Heights at 3:05 p.m.; door-to-door campaigning in Madison Heights at 3:30 p.m.; and Hazel Park City Hall at 4:10 p.m.

Cubans Deploy 6,000 Troops Near Guantanamo Base

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Affairs Writer
GUANTANAMO NAVAL BASE, Cuba—Fidel Castro has deployed about 5,000 to 6,000 troops near this U.S. base in eastern Cuba, according to the intelligence reaching American Navy and Marine commanders.

But U.S. military authorities believe these regulars, bolstered by thousands of militiamen, are there to keep the Cuban people in check rather than to mount an attack on this vital American fleet base.

Guantanamo's command doubts the likelihood of any serious Cuban threat to the 45-square-mile base, but the entire military force of about 10,000 men has been trained to fight if trouble comes.

So far little of the new military gear the Soviet Union has supplied to Castro's regime has shown up near this U.S. enclave. Rear Adm. Edward J. O'Donnell, base commander, said his patrols have not sighted any missile-armed torpedo boats which President Kennedy said have been sent to Cuba.

O'Donnell reported Soviet-made trucks are operating outside Guantanamo's fence, but they have been in the area for some time.

SPOTTED NEAR BASE

Persons suspected of being Communist bloc nationals, including some Asians, have been spotted near the base.

Castro has perhaps 100 Soviet-made Mig fighters, but there have been no intrusions of Guantanamo's air space since the spring of 1961.

Most of Castro's forces in this area are stationed some miles from Guantanamo's 26-mile perimeter, but the Cubans maintain a line of one and two-man outposts within 100 yards of the base fence.

In their green Russian-made helmets and green field uniforms they blend with the low scrub foliage. Cuban infantrymen walk patrols on their side of the fence in clear view of the Marine watch towers.

A Marine officer commanding part of the U.S. defenses said the Cuban soldiers seem to be there to observe U.S. guards and patrols and to stop any Cubans from trying to escape over the fence into the base.

The Cuban troops, seen on patrol or behind low flimsy looking brush barricades, carry rifles and light automatic weapons mostly of Soviet or Czech make.

U.S. officers said the Cubans may have artillery emplaced deeper in the scrub-covered hill country but the area appears deserted when viewed from helicopters which range the U.S. side of the fence.

NETWORK OF ROADS

Observers can make out a network of roads — mostly hard-packed dirt — which have been built in the past year and which reach toward communities where the Cubans have troop depots.

U.S. officers generally rate the Cuban soldiers facing Guantanamo as of good quality and well disciplined.

This has prompted speculation that name calling, rock throwing and other harassment of U.S. sentinels may be an officially inspired effort to provoke U.S. Marines into counter action.

U.S. guards have been ordered to refrain from shouting back or making any gestures that Cuban cameras could photograph to back up Castro's claims that U.S. military forces are engaged in provocative acts.

INSURANCE

DIVIDING LINE — This fence, flanked by crooked roads on both sides, separates the U.S. Naval base at Guantanamo from the territory of Fidel Castro. The 26-mile steel fence rises seven feet and is topped with barbed wire. The hills are dotted with sandbagged entrenchments and gun positions.

Broiled Cheese Tops Hearty Meat Loaf

You may want to try this variation on a basic recipe when you are tired of "the same old meat loaf!"

Meat Loaf Frances

1 egg
1 cup tomato juice
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup herb-flavored packaged dry bread crumb stuffing
1/4 cup minced green pepper
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 pound ground lean beef

Grated cheddar cheese

In a mixing bowl, beat the egg slightly; mix in thoroughly the tomato juice, salt, stuffing, green pepper, onion and Worcestershire, then the beef. Rinse an 8 by 4 by 3 inch loaf pan with cold water; pack in meat mixture.

Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven 45 minutes. Remove from oven and allow to stand about 10 minutes to re-absorb some of the juices; turn out on heavy foil; sprinkle top of loaf with melted and lightly broiled. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Swedish Premier Hails

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Premier Tage Erlander hailed today the victory of his Social Democratic party in Sunday's municipal elections, saying the government's position is now stronger than ever.

One of the chief issues in the municipal voting was the governing Socialists' plan for community housing and land distribution. Conservatives and the Center party argued this was a threat to individual home owners.

What are you saving for tomorrow... besides money?

Any American who's read his history books knows it takes more than money to make the future secure. It takes freedom, too.

Just consider, for example, how little your saved-up dollars would be worth without the freedom to spend them as you wish. Consider how little the costly education you hope to give your child would be worth without his freedom to put it to use.

These are reasons why so many Americans are buying U.S. Savings Bonds today. Each dollar you invest in a Bond comes back to you 33 1/3% larger at maturity—but it does more. It also goes to work for your country. Bond dollars all together—yours and everybody's—make a tremendous and important fund Uncle Sam can use to stand for freedom all over the world.

With U.S. Savings Bonds, you save money—and the freedom to enjoy it, too. Good reason to buy some soon—and regularly, from now on.

The communists hope to overtake us economically. One way we can stay in front is to stay strong financially—individually and as a nation.

You won't find it printed on a Savings Bond, but one of its big benefits is the strengthening of freedom itself.

Hornung Gets 28 Points in Easy Triumph

Willie Galimore Paces Chicago to Victory at Frisco Stadium

By The Associated Press
Paul Hornung, the "Golden Boy," was cheered by 38,669 in G.M. Bay while 54,000 booed Johnny Unitas in Baltimore's 30-7 win, and 4,652 booed the Bears in their 20-14 loss to the Chicago Bears.

The 27-year-old Hornung whose work was overshadowed in six straight electrifying victories went on a 28-point scoring spree Sunday as the Packers launched defense of their National Football League championship by burying the Minnesota Vikings 34-7.

He personally wrecked the Vikings with touchdown runs of 37, 7 and 6 yards, a pair of field goals from 46 and 10 yards out and four cornerbacks against the Vikings and got a good start toward his fourth straight NFL scoring title. He topped the league with 146 points and earned the most valuable player award in 1961 although his duty with the Packers was limited because of his callup by the Army in mid-season.

Hornung appeared to be having trouble making his running legs after his release from the Army in July. However, neither Coach Vince Lombardi nor the Packers were worried at any time.

Hornung broke loose against the Vikings and got a good start toward his fourth straight NFL scoring title. He topped the league with 146 points and earned the most valuable player award in 1961 although his duty with the Packers was limited because of his callup by the Army in mid-season.

"He's that kind of a ball player," said Lombardi. "When things really count, Hornung always is ready."

Hornung picked up where he left off last Dec. 31 when he scored a record 19 points in Green Bay's rout of the New York Giants for the NFL title.

BOO UNITAS
The fans voiced their disgust with Unitas and his offensive crew for being unable to move the ball in the second half and falling behind 27-14 after leading the Rams 16-7 at halftime.

The Colts defense gave the attackers with Unitas and his offensive crew for being unable to move the ball in the second half and falling behind 27-14 after leading the Rams 16-7 at halftime.

First, defensive halfback Andy Nease intercepted a pass and Unitas quickly passed the Colts 51 yards for a touchdown. Raymond Berry took the scoring breeze of 71 yards.

On the first Ram play after the kickoff, linebacker Sam Sluiter and halfback John Welch smacked the ball loose from fullback Art Perkins, rookie from North Texas State.

The Colts came up with the ball on the Rams' 24. After scratching to a first down on the 14, three Colt passes were knocked down, the last two an "Alley Oop" lofted at R. C. Owens.

Unitas then rifled the ball to Jimmy O'Neil who stepped around defender Ed Medford on the goal line. The crowd went wild.

Chicago's first Willie Galimore sped 71 and 77 yards for touchdowns. Linebacker Sam Sluiter and halfback John Welch smacked the ball loose from fullback Art Perkins, rookie from North Texas State.

Underdogs after failing to win any of their five pre-season games, the Bears whipped ahead in the regular season National Football League opener when Roosevelt Taylor ran 42 yards with an intercepted pass in the opening quarter.

The visitors built their lead to 17-0 at halftime and galloped to a 46-13 victory, reducing the 49ers' chances of making a winning rally.

62,000 BOOED
The 62,000 Stadium crowd of 46,500 frequently booed the 49ers as Chicago broke through porous protection to throw quarterbacks John Brodie and Bob Waters for losses.

San Francisco could gain only 52 yards in the first two quarters—all by rushing—as Doug Atkins, Bill George and Larry Morris threw the 49er quarterbacks for a total loss of 28 yards, the same amount they had gained by passing.

Fires Double Eagle
Pontiac Press newsboy Larry Starfield, 37, Second St., fired a double eagle Sunday at Bogle Lake Country Club.

He canned a 180-yard five iron second shot on the 490-yard par five ninth hole. Larry, who was playing with his father, Wendell, and Mike Koskela of Pontiac, had a 45 for the round.

CLEVELAND (AP) — The rebuilt Cleveland Browns put their "new-look" offense on display Sunday and defeated the New York Giants 17-7 — their second conquest over the National Football League Eastern Conference champions in the last 10 tries.

A crowd of 81,115, second largest ever to see the Browns in action, was treated to an unusual show. The Cleveland club marched 80 yards in 12 plays, despite 20 yards in penalties, for a first-period touchdown with Jim Brown, the league's ground-gaining champion the last five years, going nine for the score. Brown rushed for 134 yards in 17 tries as he opened defense of his crown.

TITLE HITS
The Cleveland pass defense, tagged as leaky in pre-season tests, allowed veteran Y. A. Tittle to complete 16 of 27 tosses for 198 yards, but none was in the scoring column. Three interceptions— all deep in Brown territory — marred Tittle's performance.

Alex Webster climaxed an 80-yard drive with a one-foot plunge to give New York its lone touchdown in the third period, knocking the score at 7-7. But the Browns came right back with a 67-yard, 10-play drive capped by Jim Noren's 17-yard touchdown pass to Rich Krentling.

Golden-toed Lou Graza put the game out of reach with a fourth-period 29-yard field goal.

Nitowski, making his debut as the Browns' quarterback, completed eight of 19 passes for 147 yards and one score. The big play of the game, from the spectators' standpoint, came in the fourth period after Galen Flisk had intercepted a Tittle pass which bounced off Frank Gifford's chest.

EAGLES EAT CROW
John David Crow hustled into the huddle after about six or seven minutes of play and told quarterback Sam Echeverry, "I'm ready Sam."

From there, Sam, the quarterback who played all last year with a sore arm, and Crow, the rugged runner who missed most of the 1961 season with a broken ankle, took the St. Louis Cardinals to a 27-21 opening National Football League victory over the Philadelphia Eagles Sunday.

Crow gained 70 yards on 22 carries and scored three touchdowns. Echeverry completed 13 of 23 passes for 184 yards and a pair of TDs, one to Crow.

The performance of the two Cardinals beneficiaries lifted the team not only physically, but spiritually.

From there, Sam, the quarterback who played all last year with a sore arm, and Crow, the rugged runner who missed most of the 1961 season with a broken ankle, took the St. Louis Cardinals to a 27-21 opening National Football League victory over the Philadelphia Eagles Sunday.

Crow gained 70 yards on 22 carries and scored three touchdowns. Echeverry completed 13 of 23 passes for 184 yards and a pair of TDs, one to Crow.

The performance of the two Cardinals beneficiaries lifted the team not only physically, but spiritually.

Denver Saturday Winner

Patriots and San Diego AFL Victors

There's a lot of life left in Old Bones yet, and the more, the merrier as far as the Boston Patriots are concerned.

Vito (Babe) Parrilli, the old lion Houston Colts, who were led by quarterback George Blanda's three touchdown passes.

Parrilli tossed a pair, then threw the last laugh at the Oilers with a 32-yard scoring gallop that rocked staid old Harvard Stadium to its ivy-covered roots and threw the Eastern Division into a three-way tie for the top spot.

TITANS ROUTED
San Diego's Chargers, struggling off the 30-21 upset by Denver a week ago, evened their record at 1-1 by bombing the New York Titans 40-14. But San Diego still trails the Broncos, who hold the Western Division lead with a 2-0 record after edging Buffalo 23-20 Saturday night.

Dallas and Oakland were not scheduled.

Boston's improved defense held the Oilers scoreless in the second half, as Parrilli and kicker Gino Cappelletti took care of most of the offensive chores.

Parrilli completed touchdown passes of 63 yards to Larry Garon and 5 to Jim Colough and Ron Burton for 70 yards for another score as the Patriots held a 24-17 first half lead. Cappelletti had a first half field goal of 45 yards and one of 20 in the final period just before Parrilli took off on his scoring dash, which followed an interception.

Blanda hit Charlie Hanigan for 78 and 39-yard TD tosses and Bob McLeod with one of 40 yards.

Keith Lincoln, still moved from the defensive platoon to bulwark the shoddy running of the Chargers' attack, ran 103 yards with a kickoff and passed to Lance Alworth for 22 yards on a pass-ception play to pace the victory over New York.

Conley Defeats Yankees First Time in Eight Attempts

Twins Cut Lead to 3 Games in Taking Tribe

Kansas City Blasts Baltimore, Chisox Take Nats

By The Associated Press

Gene Conley is a big, baby-faced guy who is the only major two-sport professional now performing.

He is the property of the New York Knickerbockers of the National Basketball Association. This is a recent change. And he is no longer "owned" by the New York Yankees, also a recent change.

The Yankees had beaten the 6-foot-8 Boston right-hander seven times in as many tries over the last two seasons when they took the field in Boston Sunday.

Conley simply pitched and batted the Red Sox to a 4-3 triumph over the defending world champions, logging a full game off the Yankees' still comfortable American League lead.

TWINS GAIN

Minnesota closed to within three games on the strength of a 4-3 decision over Cleveland, with ace right-hander Jim Kaat the key figure. Kaat pitched the 6-1 victory and drove in the winning run with his third hit of the game.

New York and Minnesota each have 10 games left to play.

Kansas City bombed Baltimore 12-5 and Chicago beat Washington 7-4 in other games.

Gretel declared his independence from the Yankees in impressive fashion Sunday. New York owned four decisions over him, including three by one run margins going into the game.

"They opened up with every indication of making it five in a row. Bobby Richardson, Tom Tresh, Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris signed successive singles, producing two runs. Conley (4-13) then settled down and held them to a single hit until the ninth.

STARTED RAILY

A Conley single, leading off the eighth, led to a decisive run. He moved up on a sacrifice and scored on Lu Clinton's single. That gave Boston a 4-2 lead, but the Yankees got back in the ninth when Mantle doubled and the tiring Conley gave way to Dick Radatz. He gave up a single to Maris, then retired the next three men, Mantle scoring on a sacrifice fly.

Whitely Ford (16-8) was charged with the loss.

Pascual struck out 12, lifting his league-leading total to 191, while keeping the Twins in the race with their fourth straight victory. He drove in the runs that broke a 3-3 tie with a single in the eighth. He also had a bunt single and a double. Harmon Killebrew's 40th home run, with the bases empty in the seventh, pulled the Twins into the tie. Bubba Phillips homered for the Indians.

Kansas City jumped in six runs in the fifth inning and went on to an easy triumph over Baltimore, despite a home run and three other hits by the Orioles' Brooks Robinson.

Chicago rallied for four runs in the sixth in beating Washington. Ray Herbert allowed 11 hits and four walks, but still picked up his 17th victory among nine losses.

Double-Barrel Food-Fame Bid Pays Off

By DORIS KLEIN
(For Bob Thomas)

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Jean Leon has the distinction of being the only restaurateur in Iowa whose fettuccine has passed an FBI check.

"It's the President's favorite meal when he's in town," the chef and owner of the restaurant, Jean Leon, explained, giving a Gallic shrug as he mentioned the honor. "We serve him an Italian soup instead of the chowder."

President Kennedy has his fettuccine—served with an Italian cheese sauce—sent to his hotel room or the nearby beach home of his brother-in-law, Peter Lawford. The FBI checks the fettuccine but not the crowded quarters of Leon's La Scala Restaurant.

Not so with Lawford, a regular, who was sitting at a nearby table as Leon tried to explain the success of Hollywood's latest celebrity hangout.

With his two restaurants, La Scala and the French Cuisine Au Petit Jean—across the street from each other in Beverly Hills—Leon is becoming the new factotum of the fashionable feeding troughs.

The 32-year-old Frenchman is nudging aside such aging stalwarts of the celebrity snack circuit as Dave Chasen, Patsy D'Amore and the prince, himself, Mike Romanoff. It's not that they're going hungry, but as one regular put it:

"Nowadays, in the people of Hollywood meet in the kitchen at La Scala and go across the street to Au Petit Jean."

Although he owns La Scala outright, he has 30 partners in Au Petit Jean—all top motion picture actors and directors.

Although the decor at La Scala is leather booths cum hanging wine bottles, the spaghetti and meat balls sell for over $3. In the elegant Au Petit Jean, which he opened two years later, a $65,000 Modigliani painting hangs over the heads of diners.

ITALIAN EASIER

"Why did a Frenchman try to make his mark with an Italian restaurant?"

Leon explained it this way:

"When I left France about 15 years ago, all I knew about cooking I'd learned peeling potatoes during summer vacations at my uncle's restaurant in Bordeaux. I learned the restaurant business starting as a busboy at Patsy d'Amore's Villa Capri.

"Anyway, it's easier to open an Italian restaurant. People don't know enough about French food. Some of my customers do—Cary Grant, David Niven, Peter Lawford."

"But the younger actors—they get their early training at the Actor's Studio and they come here for the final course."

"I remember one actor who came into La Scala. He wanted to impress his date. He ordered all the wrong things, the wrong wine. But after a while, I'd suggest a few things. He wasn't intelligent. He learned. His name? Warren Beatty."

"And Sal Mineo. He used to eat so many courses. So I combined three of the courses into one dish—veal scallopini Minceo."

La Scala also serves such dishes as veal scallopini Mori Sahl and veal scallopini Peca Franciosa, grenadine of beef a la Paul Newman and veal steak Barbara Rush.

What keeps the celebrities coming to Leon's two restaurants?

"By not minding too much socially with the customers," explained Leon. Everyone comes in here. But I've never accepted an invitation to go to their houses, except to cater a dinner. They come to dinner at my house—and my wife cooks."

"Hollywood's a very classless town. If I started getting too friendly with the customers, I wouldn't have half of them who come in here. The Ronald Reagans have their group, Dick Powell and the four star people have another and Frank Sinatra has his, but they all come here."

Storm Doors in White

Aluminum storm doors and windows are now available in a permanent white finish to match white house trim. They cost about $7 or $8 more per window than conventional window frames.

The Negritos, a pygmy tribe of the Federation of Malaya, live in houses furnished only with a sleeping platform. Sleepers sometimes roll out of bed into smoldering fires built alongside the platform to drive away mosquitoes.

50,000 Work on Wall Street

Name Comes From Old Earth French Built to Keep Out British

WASHINGTON — Some 50,000 men and women go to work on Wall Street every morning, but only one man calls it home at night.

The financial heart of the United States is a narrow canyon of a thoroughfare with towering banks, brokerage houses, corporations — and one handsome five-story residence made of wood.

The Street now flanked by steel and stone skyscrapers got its name from the mud wall which Dutch Governor Peter Stuyvesant built in 1623 to keep the English out, says the National Geographic Society.

More than 200 years ago, the Dutch settlement of New Amsterdam at the southern tip of Manhattan Island was mostly farmland. A brushwood fence kept the cows in. When the town was threatened by British invasion the Dutch reinforced the fence with a earthen wall and palisade.

Wall Street follows that old fortification from the East River to Trinity Church.

CENTER OF FASHION

In its youth Wall Street was a center of fashion and the original "Great White Way." It was one of the first publicly lighted streets in the nation.

Captain Kidd lived in the elegant neighborhood as a respectable merchant and shipowner before turning pirate.

On April 30, 1789, George Washington took the first presidential oath on Wall Street and formally established the United States Government.

Congress gathered there. The executive and judicial departments were organized. The Bill of Rights was adopted on Wall Street.

UNDER A TREE

The New York Stock Exchange began in 1792 when 24 beaver-hatted merchants and auctioneers gathered under the shade of a buttonwood tree to buy and sell stocks and bonds.

At the end of the 19th century, brokers were taking orders from their telephone clerks who signaled from windows overlooking the market place.

The brokers were distinctively colored plumbed hats and gaudily striped blazers so that their clerks could spot them in the crowd.

Transferred indoors, the Exchange remained "a strange scene of business, tumult and excitement, wilder than anything in Europe," according to an early guidebook.

Russians Seek Secret Formula in U.S. Tobacco

By BOB CONSIDINE

HARTFORD, Conn. — Spent a day here last week with six Russians who are studying how to make more tobacco and better cigars than they do.

It (the day) began and ended at La Guardia airport's old Marine Terminal, where once upon a time Pan Am's flying boats docked and which now is perhaps the busiest private plane and company plane airport in the world.

The Russian delegation was all strapped in and ready to go when I entered the 44-passenger Convair which, Mrs. John Martin, of Houshield, Inc., had managed to redecorate into a private jet seating 14. It has everything but a butler's cord. The Russians chose not to comment upon its wood paneling, divans, desks, bar, and push plumbing.

First stop was a generally little known but economically important section of Connecticut — a look-see at Tobacco Valley. It is a sandy bar which extends erratically from Portland, Conn., through western Massachusetts to the border towns of Vermont and New Hampshire. It embraces a microscopic 51 square miles out of America's 3,622,367.

But just about all the "wrapper" tobacco used in our cigar is grown there. "Wrapper" is so special it must be grown under enormous cheesecloth tents, which bounce its cost to $2 a pound instead of the 30- or 40-cents-per-pound "filler" and "binder" that make up the rest of a stogie.

"We smoke only five million cigars in the Soviet Union every year," a friendly Soviet commissar named M. J. Parshilow, head of the delegation, told me. "For one gram of cheap tobacco," he went on, through his State Department interpreter, an unflinchingly cooperative man named Serge Lutchenkov, "Eighteen tons of stuff, that's all."

We asked him why the consumption was so small, compared to U.S. inhalation. Russian cigar smoking is not excessive, either.

"One factor is that Russian women don't smoke as a rule," he answered. "Perhaps they will Already, my daughter-in-law smokes! That may be the trend."

"BARRICKS, NOT CAMP" Our hosts of the Shade Tobacco Growers Agricultural Association, Inc., pointed out a workers' barracks as the bug-chugged past fields recently denuded of embryo cigar wrapping tobacco leaves.

"A typical work camp," one said to the Russians.

"Dormitory is a better word than camp," Mr. Parshilow corrected. "The word camp has the meaning of prison camp."

It was an uneasy moment in the bus, but the silence was broken in time by one of the other Russians.

"Where are we?" he asked with understandable ignorance.

"Connecticut," Mr. Lutchenkov answered patriotically. "A state."

"Koon-ach-ta-koot?" the man repeated, dazed. "It is strange."

He could say that again, and did.

The Russians have been in eight tobacco producing and processing states since arriving here a month ago on an exchange arrangement. They were still smoking Russian cigars, by and large, amazing king-size jobs with two-thirds empty paper tube and one-third tobacco. Our cigars don't have enough "oriental" tobacco to suit them.

They were offended here and there when manufacturers whose plants they visited would not tell them the exact blend of their particular brand — blends being guarded as closely in the cigar industry as A-bomb secrets once were.

"Don't you now get tobacco Cuba?" we asked Mr. Parshilow. "Not a gram!" he said, rather hotly. Then, calmer, he said, "The Cubans have never been able to make anything except cigars . . . and as I said earlier we smoke only five million a year. We can take care of that demand, ourselves."

Bridge Named to Honor Dag in Leopoldville

LEOPOLDVILLE, Congo (U. S. A.) — A new bridge linking modern Leopoldville with the old city was opened today and dedicated to the memory of Dag Hammarskjöld, killed in a plane crash just one year ago in the service of the United Nations.

Former Cyrille Adoula solemnly lifted the pale blue U.S. flag from a commemorative bronze plaque, resting that Hammarskjöld died for "the honor of the principles of the world organization which inspired and dominated his entire life."

President Joseph Kasavubu cut the ceremonial ribbon across the bridge in the presence of senior U.N. officials and the Leopoldville Diplomatic Corps.

The bridge ceremony opened a full day of government commemorations marking the late secretary-general, who flew from Leopoldville to his death one year ago.

Funny how the fellow who could have got it for you wholesale never opens his mouth till you've bought it. . . Middle age is when you can do everything you used to do, but not until tomorrow. . . A fellow ought to be very careful about temptation, because the more he sees of it, the better it looks. —Earl Wilson.

Auto Mechanics in Short Supply

Only 750,000 to Service 63 Million Cars on Road in United States

NEW YORK (UPI) — There are only 750,000 auto mechanics to service the estimated 63 million cars on the road in the United States, according to a leading auto equipment firm executive.

Auto parts manufacturers are trying to alleviate this situation through special training programs and automated equipment, said R. A. Stranahan, Jr., president of an accessory company.

"Roughly, there are 30 cars to one mechanic," Stranahan said. "In some states the ratio is as high as 150 vehicles to every mechanic, and automotive experts predict the national average, with cars on the increase and mechanics on the decline," predict that this could well be the problem of the future.

Parts manufacturers have tackled the problem on two fronts, Stranahan said — mechanic training programs designed to speed up service and automatic service equipment that locates trouble more quickly and accurately.

As an example, Stranahan said, his company has designed a portable ignition analyzer that enables the operator to determine quickly and easily the cause of ignition system malfunctions and ascertain spark plug condition without removing the spark plugs from the engine.

Stranahan said the company has made the analyzer available to about 3,000 schools with vocational shop classes and regularly keeps about 5,000 instructors informed through communication of ignition system developments and new test techniques.

In addition, he said, company field representatives and service engineers conduct classroom demonstrations.

Land-Grant Bill

Lincoln Had Busy Day in July 100 Years Ago

WASHINGTON — To Abraham Lincoln, July 2, 1862, must have seemed like any other day in that dark Civil War summer.

He signed a paper pardoning a private of the 25th New York Volunteers who was serving a prison sentence for desertion.

He called for 300,000 more volunteers from the North in the light of the recent disastrous retreats by Union troops.

He wrote a letter tinged with exasperation to General George McClellan, ultra cautious commander of the Army of the Potomac. "The idea of sending you fifty thousand, or any other considerable force promptly," he said, "is simply absurd."

The day's most far-reaching event, however, was not a wartime measure. It was the signing by President Lincoln of a congressional bill that created America's land-grant system of higher education.

The legislation provided that federal grants of land should be made to all the states, says the National Geographic Society.

Sale of the land was to provide funds for founding at least one college in each state "to teach such branches of learning as are related to agriculture and the mechanic arts."

Not excluded were other scientific and classical subjects. Study of military tactics was specifically added.

The military provision eased the

Woodpeckers, Curlew Scarce

Both Birds Are Facing Extinction Along With Over 100 Others

WASHINGTON — The rat-tat-tat of the ivory-billed woodpecker and the soft, melodious whistle of the Eskimo curlew may soon fade into silence.

The two birds are among some 120 species that face extinction. At least a dozen are native to the United States.

Slaughter for pleasure and profit by former generations of the ivory-billed woodpecker and the Eskimo curlew has been a major cause of their scarcity.

Among them are Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cornell and Virginia Polytechnic Institute, many of the state universities, and most agricultural and mechanical colleges.

Substitute for Tuna

You've probably baked that favorite American casserole: cooked noodles layered with tuna fish and condensed cream of mushroom soup and topped with buttered crumbs. But did you know that you can substitute cooked ham or chicken for the tuna with good results? Use a moderate oven for any of these combinations.

him parakeet, great auk, and Labrador duck.

Today, the main threats to the wildlife are civilization's highways and homes, mechanized farms and factories, reports the National Geographic Society.

Only two ivory-billed woodpeckers have been sighted in the United States in ten years. The largest member of the woodpecker family once populated the dense cypress swamps of the South, dining on wood borers beneath the bark.

Lumbermen felled the age-old forests, destroying the bird's privacy and paucity.

Eskimo curlews, plump shorebirds that are too lousy for their own good, bred numerously in the marshes of western Canada. The flocks migrated eastward to Labrador and down Atlantic coasts to wintering grounds in Argentina.

Curlews were shot and marketed by the carload until they all but vanished in 1965. Fortunately, the curlew is reported reappearing in small numbers in Texas.

HERNANDES LIMA

Goulart Picks Leftist Premier

Progressive Socialist to Form Government; Plebiscite Bill Signed

BRASILIA (AP) — President Joao Goulart picked a progressive Socialist as prime minister Sunday night. He also signed a bill won in a weekend triumph over Congress that sets a plebiscite on restoring strong presidential powers, the major issue in the current crisis.

Goulart chose ex-Labor Minister Hernan Lima to form what probably will be a caretaker government until a new Congress returns in February.

Lima is a member of Goulart's left-of-center Brazilian Labor party and once headed the University of Rio de Janeiro's law school.

Prime Minister Francisco Brochado da Rocha resigned Friday in a quarrel with the conservative-controlled Congress over Goulart's demand for a popular referendum on whether full presidential powers should be re-established.

Congress set up a parliamentary system curbing the president's powers last year before Goulart took over because some military and political leaders feared he was too far to the left.

Presidential aides said the new Cabinet would include a number of officials who held posts under Brochado da Rocha.

Bills signed by Goulart gave the president the power to set up a new government without congressional approval and provide for a vote next Jan. 6 on the issue of presidential powers.

The number of forest fires reported in 1960 was 104,662. These burned over 4,155,591 acres of timberland. More than 90 per cent of forest fires in protected areas were caused by human carelessness.

Glassy-Eyed Group Makes a Real Smash

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — "I've always wanted to do this. Always."

James Parker reached into his bucket for another stone and sent it crashing through a greenhouse window.

His five children—and about 200 others, mostly adults—also were smashing windows, with gleeful abandon Sunday.

The 60-year-old greenhouse is to be razed to make way for a service station. Mel Hakan, member of a realty firm, arranged the window-smashing party.

"I've wanted to throw a stone through a greenhouse window ever since I was a child," Hakan said.

Prepare Child to Love History

Lewis-Clark Expedition Should 'Live'

By LESLIE J. NASON, E.D.
Professor of Education,
University of Southern California
Does your child have a sense of history? Does he have a feeling for the events of the past and the men and women and ideas that brought them about?
History sense has been slow to develop under our present educational procedures. Few students have history organized in their minds before high school or college.
All children DR. NASON should begin to organize history in early grades. Everyone needs this background to read and understand current history as it appears daily in our newspapers.
A few simple ideas can help you keep the whole thing straightened out.
It is easy to remember history

if you associate dates with their place on a timeline: If you picture the events in their proper location on maps; and if you form dramatic mental pictures of them.
Educators have found that the best history students are likely to have a good mathematics background. Math students are in the habit of drawing graphs. It's only a short step from a graph to a timeline.
For example, if you are studying American history, draw a line across a paper and let it represent the colonial period from 1600 to 1800. Then make a dot for 1620 (the landing of the Pilgrims) and another at 1776 (the signing of the Declaration of Independence).
As each new date is located on the timeline your mind associates its proper relation to dates you already know. In a short time you will become expert at remembering dates.
Events should be located in place as well as time.
When you study the colonial history of the United States, practice sketching maps of the 13 colonies until you can produce the outlines from memory.

The Lewis and Clark expedition across the continent becomes more real when you can trace its progress from memory across a map you yourself have sketched.
The third procedure which is effective in understanding and remembering historical events in their proper setting is dramatizing them in your mind.
Picture Lewis and Clark and others of their expedition, dressed as explorers of the early 1800s, traveling by boat and over trails through wilderness and plains and over mountains.
In studying the history of the Egyptians, Babylonians, Greeks and Romans make your approach from all three angles.
Sketch the Mediterranean lands; visualize the Greeks with their flowing robes and the Romans in their battle uniforms and togas.
Draw a timeline for each civilization, indicating the peak of its power and its decline. Note the overlapping timelines. Review in your mind how each civilization affected the next.

About 300 cars entered the judging. Twelve other vehicles in addition to the first three places won blue ribbons. A crowd of about 7,000 attended the festivities.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY
The fifth session of the World Championship match started with trouble for both American pairs.
When Italy sat North the opening bid was one heart. One club is an artificial bid in their system.
Our East made a rather unmade bid of two spades. He played it as strong, but not forcing, but he really wasn't strong enough.
South passed and West went to three spades. He expected East to have a better hand and was losing game. East passed and had South doubled we would have been hurt, but South passed. However, he did open a club and the best we could do was to go down three for minus 300.
Our North-South pair matched this minus. North opened one club; East overcalled one spade. South doubled. West ran to two hearts and North passed. If he had doubled we would have picked up at least 200 points. East passed and South tried two spades in case East had bid one of those Italian three-card suit overcalls.

North went to two trump. South might well have passed. North would probably have made his contract although perfect defense would beat him. However, South bid three diamonds. North might have passed also, but tried three no-trump. East doubled and South ran to four diamonds. That was doubled and set two tricks for a total loss of 600 points or 12 International Match points.

Work-Bound Britons Can Find No Petrol

LONDON (AP) — A gasoline shortage hit thousands of Londoners on their way to work today.

Some service stations ran dry. Others rationed customers to a gallon each.

The shortage is due to a series of lightning strikes by drivers and loaders of gasoline tank trucks seeking wage increases.

Stay Weakens Cave Dweller

Brought Up in Alps After 2 Months Alone in Survival Test

SAINT-BALMAS DE TENDE, France (AP) — A guest who spent two months alone in a deep mountain cave was brought to the surface today in a greatly weakened state.

Michel Siffre, 33, of Nice entered the nearly 400-foot-deep cave in the French Alps last July 16 to explore an underground glacier and to test survival techniques for geologists and spelunkers.

Siffre maintained contact with a surface team by field telephone, but lived alone until last Saturday when two of the team members went down to bolster his morale and to be certain he did not collapse.

He was given a preliminary examination by a doctor and found to be in satisfactory condition, although weak.

The young explorer had lost track of time in the cave, lit only by flashlight. Interviewed on Sept. 12 by telephone, he guessed that the day was Aug. 22.

A crew of four men, three of them from Oakland County, were representing more than 500 fellow Reservists today in national competition among Air Force Reserve troop carriers which at Houston, Tex.

Called "Operation Bar Case," the competition is a contest of pinpoint air drops on split-second schedules between countries.

Among the three air crews from the 403rd Troop Carrier Wing, headquartered at Selfridge Air Force Base, is one from the 3rd Troop Carrier Squadron. The two other crews are from detached squadrons in Illinois and Oklahoma.

County men flying the 3rd Squadron's C119 "Flying Boxcar" are Lt. Col. George L. Kittle, 4420 Sunset Road, Royal Oak; Capt. Hugh Graham, 487 Kuhn St.; and S. Sgt. Gregory T. Carcia, 1363 Parke St., Rochester.

Spokesman at Selfridge Air Force Base said this year's national competition has special significance since some of the wings competing may be ordered back to active duty if President Kennedy's request for additional reserve call-up authority is approved.

The 403rd Carrier Wing won the 1960 national competition and placed fifth last year.

Politicians Play Different Roles

Bowles, Williams Avoid Limelight of Election in Important Tasks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two of the nation's more outspoken political figures of the past are saying little as this year's election rolls around. It's the nature of their new jobs with the Kennedy administration that has moved Chester Bowles and G. Mennen Williams out of the political spotlight.

Bowles, a former governor, congressman and ambassador, is now an adviser to President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk on the underdeveloped areas of Africa, Asia and Latin America. Williams, six-term governor of Michigan, is assistant secretary of state for African affairs.

Bowles has served as price control director in World War II, Democratic governor of Connecticut, ambassador to India and congressman from Connecticut.

In 1960 he was a foreign affairs specialist in Kennedy's campaign for the presidency. Kennedy named him undersecretary of state, then last November, shifted him to the nonadministrative advisory role.

As a special adviser, Bowles makes his recommendations to the president and Rusk rather than to the public. Though this cuts down on his headlines, aides say Bowles feels his efforts are worthwhile in terms of having many of his recommendations carried out by the president.

Wee Cream Puffs

To make bite-sized puffs (for hors d'oeuvre), from cream-puff paste, drop by teaspoonfuls. Bake less time than the big puffs.

Williams stepped into diplomacy after 12 years as Democratic governor of Michigan.

Williams has criss-crossed Africa in his new role, which involves dealing with many newly emerging countries.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey, senate Democratic leader from Minnesota, told the Senate last week: "G. Mennen Williams . . . has patiently, quietly, ably and effectively pursued a course that lends itself toward reconciliation and accommodation of certain conflicting interests within the Congo."

Leftover Ham Joins Peas in Curry Casserole

Now that fall is here, we can expect appetites to increase as our activities multiply. The children are back in school, there is a nip in the evening air that seems to warrant something special for dinner. Curry is a colorfully perfect answer.

Of course, Mother's activities have increased too. Remember a casserole dish may be prepared during the earlier, less hurried part of the day and stored in the refrigerator until time to cook for dinner.

Peas 'n' Ham Curry Casserole

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1/2 teaspoon curry powder
- 1/4 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup milk
- 1 can (1 lb. 1 oz.) peas, drained
- 1/2 lb. cooked ham, cubed

To prepare curry sauce, melt butter or margarine; add curry powder, monosodium glutamate, flour and salt. Blend well; add milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until thick. Remove from heat.

Add peas and cubed ham and mix gently. Pour into 1 1/2 quart casserole dish. Cover and bake at 325 degrees for 30 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

There used to be a comfortable feeling of predictability — the North Atlantic Treaty Organization group stood together, the Communist group stood together, the so-called neutralists swung bodily one way or the other.

There are cracks in the British Commonwealth, stresses in the Asian bloc, fissures in the Latin American group, divisions among the African countries, quarrels in the Arab League.

DIFFER ON N-CONTROLS

Differences of opinion over U.S. nuclear controls in the NATO group furnish one element threatening its solidarity. There is a question whether Belgium has gotten over its pique at Western allies and their stand on the contentious Congo. The Netherlands voiced displeasure about lack of Western support on the takeover of West New Guinea by Indonesia, engineered by the United Nations.

Strains between the United States and its allies grew over the use of allied flag ships to carry supplies to Cuba. Italy and Austria have been at sharp odds for three years over Italy's treatment of German-speaking inhabitants of the South Tyrol now under Italian administration.

Portugal's colonial policies drew Western criticism that created resentment in Lisbon. Condemnation of race laws has made South Africa almost a lone wolf. The Latin American countries are split on details of how to deal with Cuba. Political troubles at home that beset Brazil and Argentina, among others, make it difficult for them to agree their political course in the debate maze here.

Rusk Confers on Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk went before the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees in joint session today as the groups met to deft a congressional stand on the Soviet-aided military build-up in Communist Cuba.

The committees met behind closed doors, under instructions to report to later than Thursday on a flood of proposals backing strong action by President Kennedy — including the use of troops if necessary — to prevent establishment of a Red beachhead on the island.

The resolutions were introduced to the committees last Thursday when the Senate passed legislation authorizing Kennedy to call up 150,000 Reservists, if he finds it necessary, to meet any world crisis.

They were originally offered, mostly by Republicans, as riders for the Reserve measure, but agreement was reached to handle them separately.

Along with the Republican proposals, the committees considered a resolution offered by Sen. Mike

To Urge College Board Defy Integration Order

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Gov. Ross Barnett appeared before a reluctant state college board today to ask that it defy a U.S. Supreme Court edict and halt the admission of the first Negro student to the University of Mississippi.

Barnett already has called on board members to resign if they are unwilling to join him in the "righteous cause" of maintaining segregation at "Ole Miss."

"The 12-member authority, which must determine whether to obey a court order to admit Negro James H. Meredith, failed to reach a decision on the matter at a meeting Friday."

The board's failure to immediately back Barnett brought stinging criticism from many sides and prompted the governor to ask for today's hearing.

"The action taken by this board is a matter of grave public concern and will for many years to come affect the daily lives of every Mississippian," Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson said yesterday in a speech here.

He called on the people to let the board "know they are behind Gov. Barnett 100 per cent."

About 1,000 Ku Klux Klan members met in Tuscaloosa, Ala., yesterday and pledged support for Barnett's stand against integration.

Robert Shelton, imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, said his group is ready "to go to the assistance of any official that will defy President Kennedy and his invasion of the rights of sovereign states."

Shelton said grand dragons and their staffs from 32 states were called to discuss a telegram sent by the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. to President Kennedy in which the Negro integrationist said Negroes throughout the South are arming themselves.

"All units throughout the empire" were alerted "to be ready to take whatever action necessary . . . in the next few weeks," Shelton said.

The Jackson Clarion-Ledger said in a front page story that any official who shows reluctance to "stand firm against federal interference" could be "dealt with very swiftly and in an extreme manner" by the legislature.

State Sen. Hayden Campbell said he thought it "inconceivable that a single member of the college board would show any hesitancy in backing the governor."

Introduction Set Today for New Astronauts

Nine Are Selected From 253 Hopefuls to Put U. S. on Moon

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The nine men expected to take the United States flag to the moon will be introduced to the world today.

The only things the National Aeronautics and Space Administration revealed in advance about the astronauts are (1) they were chosen from 253 candidates, (2) all are 35 or younger and (3) all have extensive experience in supersonic test flying.

Reliable sources indicated at least two civilians and two Air Force men were in the group.

The nine will increase the roster of U.S. astronauts to 16, including the seven Mercury astronauts selected in April 1959. All present specimens are servicemen from the Air Force, Navy or Marines.

Average age of the original seven is 33. John H. Glenn Jr., first American to orbit the earth and eldest of the first seven, is 41.

The Mercury astronauts are still very much on the flying list despite their age, space officials said.

They explained the amount of time a man can remain on flying status is an individual matter, depending solely on his physical and mental condition.

Walter Schirra, scheduled to make a six-orbit flight in a Mercury capsule Sept. 28, is 39.

GEMINI CAPSULE HOPEFUL

The new astronauts will be prime candidates for the Gemini project to put two men into orbit in a single capsule.

Experienced spacemen probably will be paired with the new astronauts to take advantage of things learned in the Mercury program, NASA spokesmen said.

SEEK VICTIMS — Firemen and workmen search the wreckage of a government office building in Brussels, Belgium, that crumbled today, killing at least seven. Rescue operations were later halted because it was feared that the overhanging concrete slabs would fall on the diggers.

17 Still Missing in Brussels; Halt Rescue Work

Collapse Comes Just Seconds Before Alarm Could Be Sounded

From Our News Wires

BRUSSELS, Belgium — A government building collapsed today seconds before an evacuation alarm could be sounded, killing at least seven persons and injuring 13.

Seventeen others were missing.

"I saw employees at their desks, sliding down the floor along with the furniture and falling in the air," one witness said.

About 100 employees were working in the three-story state administration building when it collapsed into a huge heap of rubble. Excavations were in progress near the door on the site of a new building.

A doorman working on the ground floor said "a young employee told me it seemed the pavement sounded hollow. I called the director and he decided to evacuate the building. But the catastrophe occurred before the order could be passed around."

A witness said a wall of the building crumbled and then the concrete floors collapsed. About half of the building was demolished and the rest damaged.

Begging for employees believed buried in the ruins was suspended temporarily when it was feared overhanging concrete slabs might break off onto rescuers.

Officials said there was little chance anyone would be found alive in the debris.

One military employee in shirt-sleeves said "I was working on the second floor of the building, suddenly I heard a creaking noise and saw my desk slide sideways. 'I dived across it to the wall which appeared to remain standing in front of me. There I grabbed hold of something."

"I don't know what it was. But it held. As all the desks slid down and my eyes were blurred by a thick cloud I saw one of my colleagues try to struggle up to me. I grasped his hand. But then his feet slipped and he lost hold."

Electrical Storms Start Avon Fires

Violent electrical storms which raged for several hours last night and early today started fires in an Avon Township lumber yard and fire department headquarters but apparently caused little damage in most of the Pontiac area. The storm, which first struck about 10 p.m. last night, caused brief interruptions for Consumer Power Co. customers in scattered locations throughout the area, according to company spokesmen.

Lightning bolts hit a storage building at the T & M Lumber Co., 2830 John St. at Auburn Road, about 2:15 a.m., causing damages estimated from $15,000 to $25,000.

N. Y. Dems in Chaos Over Rival to Rocky

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The rough-and-tumble quest of New York State Democrats for a gubernatorial candidate to oppose Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in the November election draws to a highly charged climax today as the party's nominating convention opened. By contrast, Republicans in Buffalo on the eve of their state convention formed a harmonious chorus ready to renominate Rockefeller and other members of his team and endorse the record of the last four years.

Despite the turmoil here, Democrats did not forget that their principal foe was the GOP. Republicans with no other worries, maintained a drumfire of criticism at the Democrats.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner, keynoting the Democratic convention, charged in his prepared speech that Rockefeller was a "cardboard hero" who had "demonstrated no political conviction except the intense one that he ought to be the next president of the United States."

The governor is widely considered a leading GOP prospect for his party's nomination to oppose President Kennedy in the 1964 election.

In Buffalo, Republican legislative leaders counterattacked with the charge that the campaign platform proposed by the Democrats, who called among other things for sharply increased state aid and borrowing to finance capital improvements, would cost state taxpayers more than $2.2 billion in higher taxes over the next four years.

Senate Republican Leader Walter J. Mahoney and Assembly Speaker Joseph P. Carlini said that to finance the Democratic program, a 50 per cent increase in the state income tax or a 2.4 per cent statewide sales tax would be required.

Democrats, who choose their candidate for governor tonight, faced a formidable task of resolving a struggle that began early in the year and grew more intense.

Robert M. Morgenthau, former federal prosecutor in New York City and son of former Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau Jr., held the upper hand with endorsements from Mayor Wagner and other party leaders.

Queens County Dist. Atty. Frank D. O'Connor, however, also had considerable support.

Massachusetts to Back or Break 3rd Member of Kennedy Fraternity

BOSTON (AP) — Massachusetts voters decide Tuesday whether there are too many Kennedys in public life or if another of the clan should have a crack at high public office.

That seemed the overriding issue today as Edward M. Kennedy, 30, brother of President John F. Kennedy, and Joseph P. McKenna, 29, nephew of House Speaker John W. McCormack, climaxed a whirlwind campaign for a short-term U.S. Senate nomination.

At stake in November balloting is the remaining two seats of the term Kennedy left behind to become president.

Two Republicans will fight it out at the polling places for their party's nomination and the opportunity—if Kennedy should win his primary—to take the dynasty issue (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Assures Fallout Not at High Level in U.S. Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Welfare Anthony J. Celebrezze says a federal board has found that radioactive fallout is not at dangerous levels in the United States at this time.

The group said it would not recommend the preventive and countermeasures taken recently when radioactivity counts shot to high levels in some areas.

The Federal Radiation Council, top-ranking government body dealing with the problems of radiation fallout, issued a report today on its meeting of a week ago.

Celebrezze said Sunday in a television interview that the council had concluded there is no great danger to the nation from fallout at this time. He heads the group.

Mac Fails to Win Commonwealth Support for 'Market'

LONDON (AP) — British Commonwealth leaders wound up a heated debate on the Common Market today with clear signs Prime Minister Harold Macmillan had failed to win their qualified support for linking Britain with the European economic-political bloc.

The 18 leaders deferred issuing a communique on the outcome of their weeklong debate.

Macmillan concluded the discussion with a 50-minute plea for unity. He had hoped his partners would accept a draft declaration he has been circulating privately.

This declaration would have pronounced Commonwealth support for Britain in its Brussels, Belgium negotiations with the Common Market countries. There was no sign that this draft had been accepted and conference sources said no communique now was likely until Wednesday.

Officials said the best the Macmillan government could expect was a general declaration by the conference acknowledging Britain's right to join the Common Market—provided she can meet certain conditions and gain specific safeguards for Commonwealth trade.

In the draft communique prepared by Macmillan there was no mention of the expressions of hostility toward the Common Market project that were voiced last week by most of the Commonwealth leaders.

There were angry mutterings between hung over the session. A mood of tension and some bitterness hung over the session. There were angry mutterings behind the scenes by Canadians and British — whose relations lately have nose-dived.

British — whose relations lately have nose-dived.

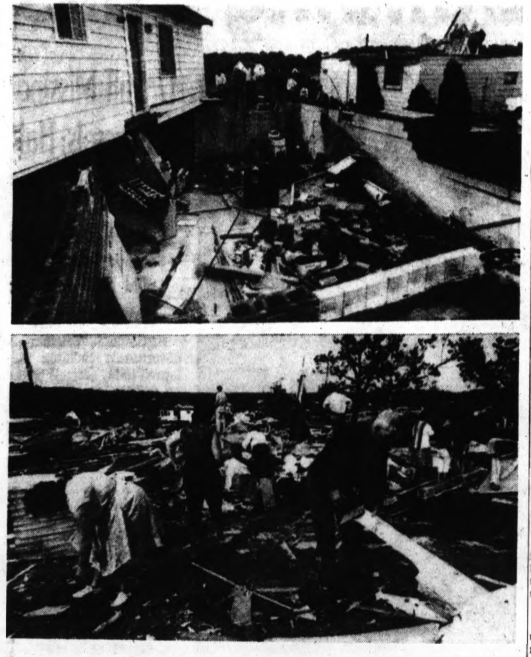

Canadian delegates claim the British are spreading stories to newspapers that their prime minister, John G. Diefenbaker, is the one man holding up general Commonwealth acquiescence of Britain's entry.

For their part, the British have not been discouraging newsmen from suggesting Diefenbaker's attacks on British policy were unexpected and harmful.

Foreign Minister Howard Green of Canada told reporters: "There has been an obvious attempt in the British press to don't know who is behind it to isolate Canada and drive a wedge between her and the other members of the Commonwealth."

Leaders of Kenya and Uganda — two British colonies nearing independence — based up behind Tanganyika in rejecting associate membership in the Common Market which Britain has persuaded the Europeans to offer.

The Commonwealth conference was expected to give its decision on Britain's planned Common Market entry by nightfall.

SCENES OF WRECKAGE — Seven houses were destroyed and several others heavily damaged by a tornado which struck a housing development southeast of Rochester, Minn., yesterday. After Minnesota Twister Weather Turns Gentle

By The Associated Press

The weather showed its gentle side today, after a tornado ripped like a buzzsaw Sunday through Rochester, Minn.

Mild rains washed many parts of the Southeast and central portions of the nation, while 70 degree weather stretched from North Carolina in a belt nearly across the continent to California, Delton.

The twister in Rochester reduced the wreckage a quarter-mile path, 100 feet wide, through the southeastern Minnesota city. Thirteen persons were injured. Four were still hospitalized today.

Nine homes were wrecked and the Red Cross estimated damage at $300,000.

RESIDENTS SLEEPING

Most of the residents were asleep when it struck. "I just held on to the bed with one arm and the baby with the other, and we went flying through the air," said the wife of Kenneth Dobson.

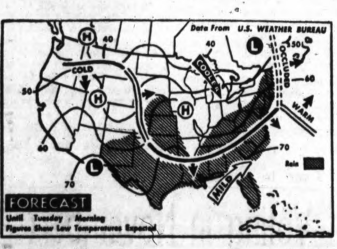

The two-story Dobson home, with six persons in their beds, was lifted and flung 75 feet. The sledgehammer winds crushed four houses, lifted three other homes off their foundations and peeled the roofs of two more.

States Eying Vaccine Use

Some End Sabin's Oral Type III, Others 'Wait and See' for Verdict

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some states have decided to discontinue use of Sabin Type III polio vaccine, but state and local officials in a number of places have adopted a wait-and-see policy.

Sabin oral vaccine Types I and II will continue to be used generally, checks across the country indicated.

Reaction was mixed after the U.S. Public Health Service announced in Washington Saturday for preschool and school-age children that 11 confirmed cases of Type III polio had been found.

Avon Twp. Fire Burns Building

Storm Causes, Checks Blaze That Destroys Products, Equipment

Thousands of dollars worth of lumber products and millwork equipment was lost early today when a storm-caused fire destroyed a storage building at the F&M Lumber Co. in Avon Township.

Ironically, the lengthy electrical storm which started the fire also was credited with keeping it from spreading to four adjoining buildings on lumberyard property, 2859 John St. at Auburn Road.

Nearly residents said the blaze started when a lightning bolt struck the 60-by-30-foot building about 1:15 a.m.

Outlook for '63 Pontiac Autos Appears Most Promising

What about tomorrow?
And what about tomorrow's tomorrow for our own special area?

This past year has been a splendid automotive period. And happily for us, Pontiac Motor has exceeded the general average by a wide margin. The Pontiac itself and the fledgling Tempest have swept through another triumphant stage.

Once we were sixth and seventh in the automotive production picture, but now we've edged clear up to the third spot through sheer merit. For decades the three lowest-priced cars automatically occupied the top rungs, but Pontiac's persistent climb has let the local brands slip past one, boosting us up to an almost impossible position.

Whether we can hold this indefinitely is problematical, but even attaining so exalted a place for a few years is a monumental achievement. And the several medium-priced vehicles that once looked over their shoulders at us, now only glimpse our fast flying backs as the wind opens the dust occasionally.

At this time in the over-all automotive picture, reluctant manufacturers are pressed into forecasts by an eager press. Ford's LEE A. IACOCOA, anticipates a slight drop in the big sales of 1962. On the other hand, S. E. KNUDSEN, Chevrolet's prey, looks for an actual increase in the coming 12 months.

E. M. (Pete) Estes, Pontiac's General Manager, is optimistic but sagely cautious. "We've just finished a tremendous year," he said to The Pontiac Press, "and if we duplicate it, we'll be on the verge of a miracle. The ensuing 12 months should result in business approximating 1962, and if we drop a shade behind, it won't be from the lack of an all-out effort. Upward progress is a zig-zag line and not a steady climb. At the same time, just privately, I'm planning for slightly bigger sales than 1962."

"Our dealers are very happy over the new cars and that's important. If you have to quote me, don't use your biggest type, but we do have great plans, and we're going to give everything the full treatment and a big whirl."

The signs are propitious.
The cars are super super.

Ban These Books . . .

Actually, I cringe at one of the modern "literature."

Pointing fingers is disrespectful and impolite, so we'll confine ourselves to generalities for the nonce. I've heard my share of smoking room stories and can laugh—even inordinately—at the various adventures of the time-honored farmer's daughter and the traditional city slicker.

But too many of the books of today paint the bedroom scenes in those ugly, nasty little words that were originally associated with a lack of sufficient schooling to teach acceptable replacements.

The world is relative.
We all grant that.
And what's foul and obscene yesterday may be accepted reluctantly today and glibly tomorrow. But there do seem to be some old-fashioned mores and norms that guide us all. Once this bookish dip into the literary sewers and sewage was considered "daring." Then the guileless art rose—or descended—to the dignity of "being book office."

Today it stands somewhat left of center, but clothed (and that's a silly word) in a low-grade acceptance by the less tutored classes. W. D. Maxwell did a manly and forthright thing when he summarily threw all of those "literary gems" into the dump. Those books can't make The Chicago Tribune's "best seller" list.

They aren't reviewed.
They're ostracized — as they should be. The Pontiac Press goes along in accord with The Tribune.

British May Fool Us . . .

British citizens are a little fidgety at their lag in high-speed air developments.

They propose to "do something."

Vague plans exist for an orbital flight and a two-stage vehicle consisting of a jet aircraft that hoists a one-man spacecraft into the nether regions for launching.

Also, they yearn for a supersonic commercial airliner which the engineers are currently discussing with the French. This is a dubious combination, but more startling things have happened. The London Times says ultrahigh speed is the next big step, ignoring fantastic moon landings and twin orbits.

The British have an ingrained and historical way of muddling through at unexpected times and "achieving the impossible" with no particular fanfare and a modicum of advance pageantry.

Don't write them off.

And in Conclusion . . .

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

Test pilot JOE WALKER, who handled that X15 at 4,000 miles an hour, said he had lots more trouble driving home in traffic. He certainly didn't have to signal left or right turns when he was 150,000 feet high . . .

I can't prove it but I'll bet a sugar cookie Sept. 20-25 will be very coolish.

David Lawrence Says:

Inaction on Cuba Sounds Like '30s

WASHINGTON — Is it the 1930s all over again? Fear of war led them to inaction by the West—and this brought on the Big War itself. Will history repeat?

The parallel with events from 1935 to 1938 is startling. Then, as now, a dictator—Mussolini—grabbed Ethiopia in faraway Africa, just as Khrushchev today has grabbed Cuba. The West protested feebly in 1935, and the League of Nations voted 50 to 1 for an economic blockade in November of that year.

But the United States was indifferent, and the commercial interests of the world succeeded in causing an abandonment of the blockade after eight months of spasmodic effort.

Then, as now in respect to Cuba, a blockade was characterized as useless unless all nations participated wholeheartedly.

Then, as now, the pacifist speeches and newspaper advertisements the fear that a blockade would bring on war and implied it was better to recognize the steps taken by Mussolini as "accomplished facts." The Chamberlains and the Baldwin led Britain into a mess, out of which war became inevitable.

The United States wobbled then, too.

William L. Ryan of the Associated Press summarized in Sunday morning newspapers (his week):

"Moscow today just about owns Cuba—lock, stock, barrel and barrel. Inevitably, Soviet Communism is closing its steel grip. Challenging the United States in the sensitive Caribbean and the Western Hemisphere, Moscow has given the world a lesson in imperialism."

When the Russians colonize, they colonize for good . . . The Soviet takeover will be complete when Fidel Castro shows signs of a slow and cautious process, but signs of party conflict are clear."

The United Press International reported last Saturday from Washington as follows:

"The United States has been making quiet diplomatic efforts for more than six months to persuade Allies in European countries and elsewhere to help isolate Communist Cuba . . ."

"The Kennedy Administration was receiving little encouragement today from Latin American states . . ."

State's Any-Deer Season Concerns Local Hunter

Last year the sale was rather stiff because the so-called "sportsman" couldn't shoot at anything that moved, so he decided if he had to shoot, a buck he'd stay home. Because of this I felt fairly safe in the woods as I wasn't going to run into a "trigger-happy greenhorn."

Radio Free Europe Tells of Program

A dramatic highlight of our programming was full coverage of the "Telstar" broadcast to Europe. Telstar presented an unusual opportunity to demonstrate the U.S.A.'s remarkable scientific advances so the Communists elected not to broadcast the Telstar program. Radio Free Europe was able to capture much of the excitement by picking up the sound portions of the Telstar broadcast and transmitting them directly behind the Iron Curtain. These were coupled with explanations of what was being seen on Western European TV screens to convey the full impact to eager listeners.

In our town there is a lady . . . Who your future life will tell . . . And there are a lot of people . . . Who profess she does it well . . . She can tell you what will happen . . . In the days and weeks to come . . . If you have in hand the payment . . . Of a little sum . . . And they say that she has never . . . Forecast things which will be bad . . . Only crystal for the people . . . When her forecast has been wrong . . . But if now you a fortune . . . It will have to come by mail . . . For the lady with the forecasts . . . Is a guest inside our door . . .

Duty Subpoenas

Denver Post

The four steel executives who defied subpoenas to appear before Sen. Kefauver's committee "will have no one but themselves to blame" if they are cited for contempt. They "are in the wrong. We think it would be better business, as well as better citizenship," for them to comply.

U.S. Income Tax

Wall Street Journal

Richard E. Byrd, Speaker of the Virginia House of Delegates, from a speech delivered in 1910 on the amendment to the U.S. Constitution authorizing a Federal income tax:

It means that the state must give up a legitimate and long-established source of revenue and yield it to the federal government. It means that the state actually invites the Federal Government to invade its territory and to establish Federal dominion within the inmost clasp of reserved rights of the Commonwealth.

This amendment will extend the Federal power so as to reach the citizen in the ordinary business of life. A hand from Washington will be stretched out and placed upon every man's business; the eye of a Federal inspector will be in every man's counting house.

The law will of necessity have inquisitorial features. Under it businessmen will be hauled into court distant from their homes. Heavy fines imposed by distant and unfamiliar tribunals will constantly menace the taxpayer. An army of Federal inspectors, spies and detectives will descend upon the state. They will command men of business to show their books and disclose secrets of their affairs. They will dictate forms of bookkeeping . . .

When the Federal Government gets a stranglehold on the individual, business man, state, and city will exist nowhere but on the maps . . .

Do Snorers Care?

Salt Lake Tribune

A British scientist, Dr. Harvey Flack, thinks he has found a cure for snoring. Just bite on a piece of wood for five minutes before retiring. Dr. Flack advises, and the neck and jaw muscles will be so tired that snoring is impossible.

Apparently Dr. Flack believes that snorers really care about the sounds they make in the night. But many a wife (there is a myth that women never snore) claims the snorer not only doesn't care, but on the contrary, denies making any sound at all once asleep.

And so, despite the good doctor, the argument seems likely to continue — along with the racket.

Tax Cut

The Spoken Spokesman-Review

It is generally conceded that the Kennedy administration will not bring about any meaningful cut in taxes at this session of Congress. The President has been vacillating for weeks of the question. It now appears unlikely that he would be able to persuade the Democratic Congress to enact a tax cut, even if he should make up his mind to recommend it. What is most noteworthy, however, in the entire tax debate, is that there is no apparent consideration being given to reduction in government spending . . .

Governmental economizing is always politically difficult. It is incontestable that important savings could be made in the operation of our sprawling federal establishment. Many of the economies that could be made would not impair the efficiency of the governmental operation, but in some cases undoubtedly would be accompanied by benefits . . .

Proposing a tax cut without a corresponding reduction in tax spending is something like proposing to borrow money to increase one's income. The comparison is apt up to a certain point, but not all of the way. A tax reduction on any terms would provide certain psychological and political stimulation to the economy. Unless spending is reduced correspondingly, the result would be an increase in debt and deficit, however, would have evil effects greater in excess of the temporary narcotic pleasures of paying for only part of the cost of government.

Russians Seek Secret Formula in U.S. Tobacco

By BOB CONSIDINE

HARTFORD, Conn. — Spent a day here last week with six Russians who are studying how our crazy Americans make more vodka and better cigars than they do.

It (the day) began and ended at La Guardia airport's old Marine Terminal, where once upon a time Pan Am's flying boats docked and which now is perhaps the busiest private plane and company plane airport in the world.

The Russian delegation was all strapped in and ready to go when I entered the 44-passenger Convair which Mrs. John Martin, of Houshield, Inc., has managed to redecorate into a private jet seating 14. It has everything but a butter's cord. The Russians chose not to comment upon its wood paneling, divans, desks, bar, and pool plumbing.

First stop was a generally little-known but economically important section of Connecticut — a look-see at Tobacco Valley. It is a sandy bar which extends erratically from Portland, Conn., through western Massachusetts to the border town of Vermont and New Hampshire. It embraces a microscopic 61 square miles out of America's 3,022,387.

But just about all the "wrapper" tobacco used in our cigar is grown there. "Wrapper" is so special it must be grown under enormous choescloth tents, which bounce its cost to $2 a pound instead of the 30- or 40-cent-per-pound "filler" and "binder" that make up the rest of a stogie.

"We smoke only five million cigars in the Soviet Union every year," a friendly Soviet commissar named M. J. Parashkov, head of the delegation, told us. "Not one gram of chew tobacco," he went on, through his State Department interpreter, as unflatteringly cooperative man named Serge Lutchenkov. "Eighteen tons of snuff, that's all."

We asked him why the consumption was so small, compared to U.S. inhalation. Russian cigar smoking is not excessive, either.

"One factor is that Russian women don't smoke as a rule," he answered. "Perhaps they will,

Already, my daughter-in-law smokes! That may be the trend."

BARRICKS, NOT CAMP

Our hosts of the Shade Tobacco Growers Agricultural Association, Inc., pointed out a workers' barracks as the bus chugged past fields recently denuded of embryo cigar wrapping tobacco leaves.

"A typical work camp," one said to the Russians.

"Dormitory is a better word than camp," Mr. Parashkov corrected. "The word camp has the meaning of prison camp."

It was an uneasy moment in the bus, but the silence was broken in time by one of the other Russians.

"Where are we?" he asked with understandable ignorance. "Connecticut," Mr. Lutchenkov answered patriotically. "A state."

"Koon-ach-la-koot!" the man repeated, dazed. "It is strange. He could say that again, and did."

The Russians have been in eight tobacco producing and processing states since arriving here a month ago on an exchange arrangement. They were still smoking Russian cigars, by and large, amazing king-size jobs with two-thirds empty paper tube and one-third tobacco. Our cigars don't have enough "oriental" tobacco to suit them.

They were offended here and there when manufacturers whose plants they visited would not tell them the exact blend of their particular brand — blends being guarded as closely in the cigar industry as A-bomb secrets once were.

know-how and supplies from Cuba?" we asked Mr. Parashkov. "Not a gram!" he said, rather hotly. Then, calmer, he said, "The Cubans have never been able to make anything except cigars . . . and as I said earlier we smoke only five million a year. We can take care of that demand ourselves."

Tips on Removing Stain

To remove nail polish from upholstery containing arnel, dyes, or acetate of velvet, dip a cotton swab in amyl acetate and apply. On fabrics such as wool or linen, use acetone or ordinary nail polish remover.

Bridge Named to Honor Dag in Leopoldville

LEOPOLDVILLE, Congo — A new bridge linking modern Leopoldville with the old city was opened today and dedicated to the memory of Dag Hammarskjöld, killed in a plane crash just one year ago in the service of the United Nations.

Premier Cyrille Adoula solemnly lifted the pale blue U.N. flag from a commemorative bronze plaque, reciting that Hammarskjöld died for "the honor of the principles of the world organization which inspired and dominated his entire life."

President Joseph Kasavubu cut the ceremonial ribbon across the bridge in the presence of senior U.N. officials and the Leopoldville Diplomatic Corps. The bridge ceremony opened a full day of government ceremonies commemorating the late secretary-general, who flew from Leopoldville to his death one year ago.

Funny how the fellow who could have got it for you wholesale never opens his mouth till you've bought it. . . . Middle age is when you can do everything you used to do, but not until tomorrow. . . . A fellow ought to be very careful about temptation, because the more he sees of it, the better it looks. —Earl Wilson.
