

Konrad Adenauer—1876-1967

Former Bonn Chancellor Dies

BONN, Germany (AP) — The Christian Democratic party reported today former West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has died. He was 91 years old.

The architect of postwar West Germany died at his three-story home in Rhondorf, a village close to Bonn, after a week's illness with influenza and bronchitis.

His family was at his bedside.

President Johnson will attend the funeral of the former chancellor.

Johnson and Adenauer had known one another since the early 1950s and now that the latter is dead, the President told an aide "I want to be there" for the services.

Adenauer was one of the most influential figures of the Western world for two decades.

He served as chancellor of West Germany from the founding of the Bonn republic in 1949 until 1963. But he remained active in politics almost to the end as a firm friend of French President Charles de Gaulle.

MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT

"Der Alte" — the old man — as Adenauer was known to his countrymen, was still a member of parliament when he died.

He was a member and former chairman of the Christian Democratic party.

All through the cold war, he was one of the West's most uncompromising opponents of Soviet communism.

In his last years, however, after he relinquished the chancellorship to Ludwig Erhard, he predicted Red China would be the West's major menace and urged closer relations with Russia.

LAY IN RUINS

West Germany lay in the ruins of World War II when Adenauer took power. Its people were distrustful by the rest of the world because of the Nazi past.

During Adenauer's 14 years in office the country rose to unprecedented prosperity and gained acceptance as a friend and ally of the Western powers. It became a bulwark against further westward expansion by communism.

Sir Winston Churchill called Adenauer "the greatest German statesman since Bismarck."

'HISTORIC FIGURE'

The late President John F. Kennedy hailed him as "an historic figure."

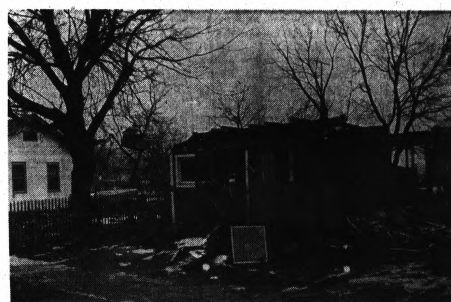

President de Gaulle held him in high personal esteem and together they worked for reconciliation between their two countries, which had been enemies for centuries.

While Adenauer was chancellor, the Communists fiercely attacked him for his hard line in the cold war.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev frequently singled him out as a "warmonger."

GONE—These photos show Pontiac's systematic code enforcement program at work. Pictured in May 1966 (top), this house at 539 Arthur was ruled substandard by city inspectors and condemned. Demolition began last month (middle) and is now complete (bottom).

Code Enforcement Efforts Improve Housing in City

By DAVID J. COOK

"Good housing and a good urban environment are needed to attract sound commercial and industrial growth."

In plain, simple governmental prose, these words from a federal manual just about wrap up Pontiac's hopes for accelerated redevelopment of supporting areas south of the city's downtown urban renewal lands.

Slowly but steadily, experts from a score of different city departments have concentrated their efforts on upgrading and restoring the quality of south side housing and property.

Much of this activity has been in the form of systematic code enforcement—detailed attention to the plumbing, heating, electrical and sanitary conditions which can either make or break a home or a neighborhood.

Casual examination of blighted areas is all that is needed to give an observer an idea of how big the urban renewal task really is.

OUTSPOKEN

Yet the men who spend hours each day inspecting homes and property are outspoken in their belief that conscientious efforts can yield concrete results in terms of better housing for Pontiac.

"In many, many cases, it is simply a matter of educating people in areas they apparently don't know any better," said Charles Cohen, senior sanitarian for the city.

"Garbage thrown in yards, improper waste disposal practices, even casual accumulations of litter can lead to serious health situations—aside from the fact that it looks bad, too."

Cohen is one of a handful of designated city inspectors who have the task of implementing the systematic code enforcement program in Pontiac.

THANKLESS JOB

It is often a thankless job . . . yet a necessary first step in eliminating the dilapidated housing, littered streets and junk-strewn lots known collectively as urban blight.

Enforcement of city housing codes generally takes one of three forms, depending on the extent of neglect and the possibilities of renovation.

Two of the forms—posted notices of condemnation and of pending demolition—are usually executed in response to home and property conditions which inspectors feel have declined beyond the point of repair.

Since 1964, when systematic enforcement was launched under the direction of James L. Bates, planning and urban renewal director, some 200 substandard homes in Pontiac have been torn down.

HOUSING ACTIONS

Soviets Make Dam Bid

MOSCOW (AP) — A Russian engineer said today that only the Soviet Union has the necessary experience to build the giant hydroelectric dam in the United States.

Thailand Asks Protection, Requests U. S. Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thailand has bid for U.S.-made surface-to-air missiles amid warnings at the SEATO foreign ministers' meeting that Communist subversion is continuing in Southeast Asia.

Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman of Thailand told the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization yesterday that since his nation has become involved in the Vietnam war, "some of our people should be protected by missiles."

Thanat and Jesus Vargas of the Philippines, SEATO secretary-general, joined in espousing stronger cooperation between the treaty members.

Vargas said Communist China, though wracked by internal political problems, is pressing subversive activities in Thailand and the Philippines.

Thanat leveled bitter criticism at some treaty members—whom he did not identify—saying "there will undoubtedly continue to be two categories of members—those who act on their obligations and those who choose to act only when their immediate national interests are concerned."

PREVENTED 'PARALYSIS'

He indicated his country's willingness to let the United States base Vietnam-bound B2s in Thailand was designed to save SEATO "from complete paralysis."

The Thailand-Philippine alliance emphasized sharp policy differences among members of the eight-member treaty organization—with the dispute centering on the Vietnam war.

France, which opposes U.S. policy in Vietnam, is boycotting the two-day meeting altogether while Pakistan—which also has criticized the U.S. position—has sent an ambassador rather than a minister-rank representative.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, serving as chairman of the meeting, used the opening session to extend a new peace appeal to North Vietnam. But he was doubtful the offer would get more than the "curt refusal" he said has been North Vietnam's previous response to peace offers.

PHILIPPINE REQUEST

The SEATO ministers also were to consider a request from the Philippines for more than $1 million in a counter-insurgency program in central Luzon.

At a closed session late Tuesday, South Vietnam's foreign minister, Tran Van Do, said North Vietnam has a vast potential for manpower resources and a reserve of about 300,000 men to send to South Vietnam.

Surveyor OK for Soft Landing

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Surveyor 3, equipped with a television camera and a small digging device, was reported performing beautifully as it coasted toward a soft landing today on the moon.

"Everything's going fine," said a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The touchdown on the lunar Sea of Storms was expected at 7:04 p.m., EST.

Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory reported Tuesday night that the spacecraft was maintaining both attitude and position for a proper landing. They said all systems aboard the three-legged probe were operating smoothly.

About five hours from the expected touchdown, the craft's speed is slated to drop to 2,066 miles per hour as Surveyor comes within the influence of lunar gravity.

CRUCIAL PHASE

At a point 60 miles slant range from the moon, the space traveler will accelerate to about 6,000 miles per hour. Then the firing of its main retrorocket is scheduled to slow it to 250 m.p.h. for the crucial landing phase.

Radar signals bounced from the moon back to the spacecraft will control the burning of three small gas jets which are designed to reduce Surveyor's descent as the altitude from the lunar surface decreases.

Warmer Weather Expected in Area

Of Sol is expected to bring warmer temperatures as he beams on the Pontiac area today.

Skies will be partly cloudy tonight with the mercury registering a low of 36 to 44.

There's a chance of showers tomorrow night and Friday with the high climbing into the low 30s.

Northerly winds at 10 to 14 miles per hour will become variable at 10 to 16 miles this afternoon, and light and variable tonight.

The low recording in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 34. The 2 p.m. reading was 51.

Rent-Supplement Plan for Private Housing Project OK'd

A proposed rent-supplement plan for Pontiac's largest private housing project won quick approval of the City Commission last night.

By a vote of 6-0—with District 2 Commissioner Robert C. Irwin abstaining—commissioners gave a green light to plans of developer Charles L. Langs for a 525-unit apartment complex on West Kennett Road.

The proposal would extend federal rent subsidies to persons over 62 years old, those physically disabled, or persons displaced from former homes by natural disaster, governmental action or because of substandard housing.

Langs presently holds a purchase option on the 40-acre site roughly bounded by West Kennett, Grand Trunk Western Railroad tracks, on the north by line extension of West Columbia, and in the east by a line extending northward from Alcott Elementary School.

The property, which now abuts one

TYPE OF APARTMENTS

Langs said plans call for inclusion of the PAUF to examine the need for and, if indicated, recommend that a committee be established to process community capital fund requests.

The resulting capital funds committee is independent of the PAUF beyond utilizing U.F. office staff and research materials. Total authority to approve or disapprove requests to seek funds is vested in a two-thirds vote of the committee.

ABILITY TO ABSORB

"Capital fund drives approved by the committee will be based on the community's ability to absorb the giving of funds over and above what each indi-

Capital Funds Plans Revealed

By LOIS MANDIBERG

Operating procedures, policies and members' names for the newly formed capital funds committee were revealed today by Chairman Howard Nelson.

The nine-member committee, representing Pontiac business and industry, resulted from the concern of leading contributors over recent multiplicity of area capital fund campaigns.

Figures collected by the Pontiac Area United Fund planning committee indicate outstanding obligations from previous capital fund drives totaling $5,500,000.

Last December, area leaders asked

vidual, corporation or organization normally pledges to the United Fund campaigns," Nelson said.

No capital campaign will be endorsed by the corporations and organizations represented on the committee prior to approval of the capital funds committee, according to Nelson.

Current committee members from different segments of the community include Nelson, Chamber of Commerce president; Howard H. Fitzgerald II, publisher of The Pontiac Press; and Jack Douglas, AFL-CIO Council president.

Dem Charges NASA 'Hides Apollo Facts'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A not try to keep the full facts of the Apollo mission from the American people.

Ryan charged today the spacecraft contractor didn't correct the problems cited in a report he says space officials are suppressing.

"Why are they hiding it?" asked Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y., member of a subcommittee that keeps watch on the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, "NASA should the findings of the Apollo review board, in my opinion it is apparent that North American never did correct the problems that were identified by Gen. Phillips."

BUILT SPACECRAFT

North American built the spacecraft in which three astronauts died during launch pad tests at Cape Kennedy, Fla., Jan. 27.

The Phillips report consists of notes made by Gen. Samuel C. Phillips, Apollo program director for NASA, on a study he made at North American's plant in December 1965.

Ryan said Phillips' findings — as indicated in the summary of his report — coincide so closely with the deficiencies found by a review board on the Apollo accident that it is "hard to believe that the deficiencies... did not contribute directly to the accident."

Ryan said "this makes it all the more imperative that a full report be made available."

Ryan asked NASA officials to submit the Phillips report for committee examination.

Subcommittee Chairman Olin A. Teague, D-Tex., told NASA associate director for manned space flight, Dr. George E. Mueller, said space officials believe deficiencies cited in the Phillips report had nothing to do with the cause of the Apollo fire.

LIQUOR SALES

Meanwhile, the House put off consideration of a proposal to legalize Sunday liquor sales.

Sponsored by Rep. George Edwards, D-Detroit, the measure would enable county boards of supervisors to permit liquor to be sold on Sunday for consumption on the premises.

Whatever the county board decided, petitions signed by 20 percent of the regular voters in the county would put the Sunday liquor question on the ballot. Cities, villages and townships within the county could still ban liquor by local ordinance.

Edwards said Wayne County and the rest of southeast Michigan need Sunday liquor to attract convention and recreation business and compete with Ontario, which permits restaurants to sell spirits on Sunday.

10 BILLS PASSED

In a full day of floor activity, the House passed 10 bills and defeated one.

Approved were measures requiring surrender of a dead person's driver's license, allowing payment of State Police pension benefits to widowers of policemen, and requiring outside rearview mirrors on motor vehicles.

The defeated bill would have reduced from five years to four the seniority a municipal employee requires to be eligible for Michigan's reciprocal retirement system.

State House Poised for Tax Limit Vote

LANSING (AP)—A proposed constitutional amendment limiting any state income tax to five percent was in position for final House action today.

The measure needs approval of two-thirds of the members voting on it.

Easily defeated in preliminary debate Tuesday was an attempt by Rep. E. D. O'Brien, D-Detroit, to tie that change in the constitution with one which would permit the Legislature to enact a graduated income tax.

O'Brien's amendment was defeated 34-65, with a number of the 109 House members not voting.

SAID NECESSARY

The five per cent limitation, which would also require a two-thirds Senate margin and a vote of the people, was described as necessary to entice "two or three" Republicans to vote for the tax package proposed by the House GOP caucus.

House Republicans have taken a formal caucus position in shall voiced the hope that a rent-supplement project would provide housing for persons destined to be relocated from homes by city housing code enforcement.

URGES DELAY

Irwin abstained from the vote, urging that commissioners delay until Lange's proposal could be examined by consultants presently working for the Pontiac Housing Study Committee.

"This may be a real good thing," Irwin commented, "but it's going to have quite an effect on our community — I think we should take a closer look."

Romney Cites Internal Threats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Romney of Michigan threatens to this nation "are from within and not from without."

At a breakfast meeting with Republican House members, Romney said there is a great decline of religious conviction, a decline in moral character "and of personal responsibility in this nation."

The Michigan governor, announced but leading possibility for the GOP presidential nomination next year, met with the party's House members at the invitation of Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, the House Republican leader.

Ford had suggested at the Republican governors' conference earlier this year that the governors come to Washington to meet with the House members. Gov. Ronald Reagan of California was the first to accept and Romney the second.

"BETTER WAY" "The people have decided there is a better way than LBJ," Romney told his partisan audience. "That way is a Republican party with a new look."

Romney said young people especially are looking for new leadership "and we have a tremendous responsibility to provide that."

Romney said President Johnson "does not have anything but government — federal government — when you come right down to it."

At another point, Romney said the White House is using Congress "as a collective bargaining agency," an apparent reference to the request to Congress to extend the cooling-off period by 20 days in the threatened strike.

The appointment of Dr. McKean is effective Aug. 1. He will be the first headmaster of the school.

Allegheny College, where Dr. McKean was dean of students for the last 10 years, is a coeducational school with 1,400 enrollment.

Dr. McKean received his B.A. in history at William and Mary, Williamsburg, Va., and was granted a master of education degree and doctor of education degree from Cornell University.

In 1952 he taught at Landon School for Boys in Maryland and from 1953 to 1955 at Homer School, New York state.

His wife, Ruth, is also an educator with a degree in home economics from Farmington State College, Maine.

Dr. and Mrs. McKean will live in the official residence at Kingswood with their two daughters, Janet, 9, and Annalise, 6.

Faculty Panel to Study School Smoking Policy

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The answer a questionnaire and as a school district's strict policy against smoking may be modified, it was decided at last night's board meeting.

Parents of suspended children have registered complaints on the policy of suspending first-time violators for 20 days.

The district was taken in circuit Court in March by one irate parent, but the board's right to enforce the policy was upheld.

Latest complainant was Mr. and Mrs. Keith Terry of 1066 Rock Springs, Bloomfield Township.

Eugene Johnson, superintendent of schools, said in the light of recent complaints the board decided to restudy the issue.

A committee of faculty members is to be selected by the two high school principals to come up with recommendations.

A report is requested within 30 days.

Builders of the new swimming pool facility for Andover High School reported work is nearly on schedule, despite unfavorable construction conditions encountered so far this year.

The Olympic-type pool is expected to be completed by the fall semester.

BUDGET APPROVED

A proposed budget for the coming year was approved and sent to the county allocation board.

The budget figure was set at $7.5 million, approximately $1 million above last year.

The district will be operating three new schools next fall.

The board also approved a Bloomfield Township police study plan. A "control group" of students is to be selected to

Houghton Lake Fire Claims 4

HOUGHTON LAKE (AP) — A father and three of his daughters were killed today in a fire which swept their home on the shore of Houghton Lake, about two miles east of this central Michigan village.

The victims were identified as Donald Rowe, 35, and his daughters, Kathy, 14, Cindy, 12, and Terry, 11.

Rowe's wife, Norma, 37, an older daughter, Stephanie, 15, and a stepson, Nelson Peterson, 10, escaped the blaze and were taken to Mercy Hospital in Grayling, about 25 miles north of here.

State Police troopers Bruce Smaltz and Greg Stevens spotted the blaze while driving along M-25, which borders the lake.

They said the survivors apparently had just escaped the burning house as they arrived at the scene.

Jim Hunt, secretary of the PAUF planning committee, will act as secretary and coordinator and, upon request, conduct research.

Requests for capital camaigns will be considered for needs as property purchases, permanent equipment, buildings and remodeling, which cannot be covered by an organization's operating budget.

Clearance will be based on the priority of need and the adequacy of existing facilities. The stability of the group's current budget and the impact of proposed plans on the organization's operative budget will also be considered.

PRIVATE DRIVES Only those campaigns affecting the entire community will be channeled through this committee. Private drives for churches and similar organizations will not be processed, according to Nelson.

Campaign requests must be filed by Dec. 1 one year prior to the period for which clearance is sought. The chairman explained that the committee will answer all applications by March 1 following the Dec. 1 deadline.

Requests for campaign clearance will not be granted more than two years in advance, although applications may be submitted several years before the desired date.

Campaigns may be conducted only in the period between Dec. 1 of one year and July 31 of the following year. These dates will also apply to any consideration by the committee of an extension of a previously approved campaign period.

General committee campaign policy will be to space major campaigns two or three years apart so collections by one may be completed before another is undertaken.

U.S. Economists Predict Expansion Will Follow Lag

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government economists are breathing a bit easier today about their projections and tax proposals for this year in the wake of the first bullish statistics they've received in several months.

But they caution that despite hints of the upturn predicted in January, the second quarter will remain sluggish although some real economic growth is anticipated.

Administration economists

now are convinced the nation need not fear a recession, although they admit economic projections always are filled with uncertainties.

They are prepared to withdraw their plan for a 6 per cent income tax surcharge on individuals and corporations should a recession develop.

DOWNTOWN NOT FORESEEN
"We don't foresee any downturn," one key official said today. "We feel the second quarter will also be sluggish although some growth in the economy is expected."

"But the day will come during the second half of this year when the economy will be expanding at a rate it can't sustain without price pressures."

It's at that point, the official said, that the surtax will be needed to stem inflation.

His comments came after the Commerce Department completed painting the economic picture for March by reporting an unchanged level in new factory orders for hard goods at $22.2 billion. Most other indicators were stronger during March although some showed only fractional improvement.

ANTI-INFLATION TOOLS
Federal Reserve Board officials still favor the surtax as an anti-inflationary tool during the second half of the year. They also are prepared to tighten credit, to stem inflation, should the need arise.

Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, reaffirmed the administration's projection for the year and his request for a surtax. He predicted a strong recovery in the second half of the year and insisted the surtax must remain "a very live matter for congressional consideration later this year."

Ross made no mention of the Biblical account of how the Israelites, pursued by Pharaoh's men in their flight from Egypt, safely crossed the Red Sea after "Moses stretched out his hand over the sea, and the Lord made the sea dry land, and the waters were divided."

But a spokesman for the National Geographic Society, answering a newsman's questions, said that while "no one knows for sure" where the Israelites crossed — and the Egyptians drowned when the waters closed over them — all scholarly theories suggest this all came to pass many miles north of the hot-holes area.

WRONG SITE
The spokesman said one Biblical translation appears to put the site of the crossing not in the Red Sea proper but in the "Sea of Reeds," believed to have been located at the present Suez Canal site.

UAW Opens Crucial Parley Today in State

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers union meets in a special convention today to make decisions on two crucial issues — contract demands that could spark a nationwide auto strike, and interunion demands which could result in a split with the AFL-CIO.

Today was given over to registration of some 3,000 delegates from union locals, across the country, and a conference of union locals representing workers in the parts supplier field.

The business of the convention was scheduled to begin tomorrow, with UAW President Walter Reuther giving the keynote address.

The UAW course on both the major issues facing the convention has been well charted.

But the added issue of the UAW's feud with the parent organization could well take the spotlight from the main purpose of the convention, which is the consolidation of demands from the various UAW departments into a single over-all contract demand document.

TO BE INTRODUCED

A resolution was scheduled to be introduced which would amend the UAW Constitution and provide Reuther and his International Executive Board with the power to pull the big union out of the AFL-CIO if they considered it necessary.

The amendment was necessary because the UAW Constitution requires its affiliation with the AFL-CIO.

Passage of the resolution would not assure the UAW's withdrawal from the AFL-CIO. But it would give Reuther a powerful weapon in continuing his battle against the parent organization's leadership.

3rd 'Hot Hole' Discovered in the Red Sea

WASHINGTON (NAP) — Discovery of a new "hot hole" in the Red Sea suggests Pharaoh's Egyptian soldiers could literally have been in hot water if the fleeing Israelites had crossed farther south.

The find was reported Tuesday to the American Geophysical Union by Dr. David R. Ross of the Woods Hole, Mass., Oceanographic Institution.

He defined a "hot hole" as deep and filled with hot, extrusively water, extending down from the cooler sea-bottom.

Ross said the latest discovery brings to three the number of such holes found in an area of the Red Sea roughly opposite Mecca on the Arabian side, and many miles south of Suez.

NO DEGREES
He said the water in the new-found "deep" registers 90 degrees, compared with about 70 degrees for normal Red Sea bottom water. The other nearby hot holes register about 133 and 101 degrees respectively.

The bottom of the 200-foot-deep hole is 6,200 feet beneath the sea surface.

Ross made no mention of the Biblical account of how the Israelites, pursued by Pharaoh's men in their flight from Egypt, safely crossed the Red Sea after "Moses stretched out his hand over the sea, and the Lord made the sea dry land, and the waters were divided."

But a spokesman for the National Geographic Society, answering a newsman's questions, said that while "no one knows for sure" where the Israelites crossed — and the Egyptians drowned when the waters closed over them — all scholarly theories suggest this all came to pass many miles north of the hot-holes area.

Rochester Aide Joins Annual Hunt

Teacher Recruiting Begins

By JEAN SAILE
ROCHESTER — The hills around here are never so green, the country so scenic, the cultural advantages so abundant, or the pay so good as when school district recruiters march out on yearly forays to staff the schools for the next year.

When like Ronald Kevern, assistant superintendent in charge of personnel for the Rochester School System, you have an additional 31 positions to fill over and above the normal turnover, things can get a bit feverish.

Says Kevern, "At recruiting sessions in the colleges, you're invariably seated next to the fellow from California who's charming them with climate."

"Them" are this year's crop of graduating teachers, desperately needed by districts to keep up with advancing enrollment.

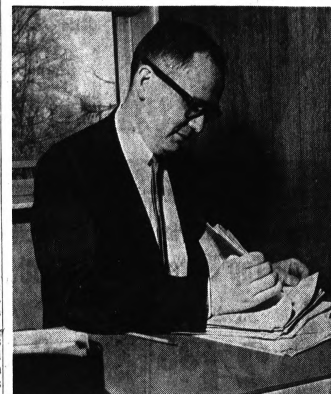

A building program in the Rochester district expected to ready the new Longmeadow Elementary School for use next year, plus additional classrooms at other schools which will need teachers, has meant that Kevern has had to devote most of his time to the problem of recruiting.

WOODING AND WINNING

Since assuming the personnel duties at the start of this semester, ter, Kevern has had a quick indoctrination in the "woining and winning" of help.

He starts close to home with the scrutiny of the some 35 in-training students who taught this year in the Rochester School District. Coming from Oakland University and Michigan State College, he considers these students prime candidates.

Kevern feels quite fortunate that Rochester is situated so handily to other universities.

"Teachers really do go back to school," he said, "and the availability of these campuses means a lot to them."

APPLICANTS INTERVIEWED
Teacher applicants are interviewed, Kevern sometimes traveling half-way across the state to meet them, and they are then brought to Rochester for a look at the town and for further scrutiny.

At the same time the prospect is being looked over on home ground, the would-be teacher is busy learning about the availability of apartments and homes.

With teachers becoming harder to find, the new personnel director believes he may have to travel farther afield.

SPECIAL TEACHERS

Special education teachers are also in short supply. They deal with emotionally and mentally handicapped children.

Nevertheless, Kevern thinks this is a good job. "There's a special delight in talking to people eager to begin teaching, it's heartwarming when our present teachers turn out to be some of our best salesmen."

3 Birmingham Auto Dealers Plan Move to 'Roomier' Troy

By ED BLUNDEN
Birmingham is losing the heart of its automobile sales industry, apparently due to its failure to meet the needs of dealers.

On the other hand, the neighboring city of Troy is looking forward to a thriving new business to be located in an automobile sales center—a super car market.

Three of Birmingham's large dealerships have indicated definite plans to make a switch to an automotive sales center now under construction in Troy at East Maple and Maplelawn, just across the border. Two others are also contemplating moves, but not necessarily to Troy.

The cornerstone for Mike Savole Chevrolet was laid recently for a much larger structure to replace the Birmingham site of that dealership at 1000 S. Woodward.

Savoie will be soon joined in Troy by Bob Bors Lincoln-Mercury, now at 479 S. Woodward, and by the Chrysler-Plymouth dealer now at 912 S. Woodward both in Birmingham, according to Troy officials.

ALSO GEARED
New dealerships also set for the Troy auto mart are Audette Pontiac and Gollings Volkswagens.

Another Birmingham dealer, Richard Turner of Fords, at 464 S. Woodward, said a move to Troy had "been discussed," but that no definite plans had been made.

The apparent reason behind the exodus is that dealers find their present Birmingham locations have no room to expand even though the market has grown far beyond the original capacity of facilities.

Savoie put it this way—his facility was built in 1948 to handle 300 cars a year. Last year, his franchise sold 2,300 cars.

BUILT IN 30s
Turner said he has to have more room because his operation was built in the 1930s when it then sold about 50 cars a month. Last year he sold 4,500, he said.

Jim Reeves, Hunter Dodge, 499 S. Hunter, said his firm is also considering moving, but not to Troy. "We just don't have enough room here," he said. "We are considering an entirely different location," Reeves added.

The discontent among dealers in Birmingham was expressed to the city commission in 1965. The Birmingham Automobile Dealers Association approached the commission with a plan for an automobile mart.

It was pointed out at the time that automobile sales represented $100 million in total sales volume in the city, or 15 percent of all business transacted.

A significant statement was made on April 26, 1965 by Birmingham architect Carl Luckenbach, who told the commission, "They (auto dealers) will need more space. As things are now, there is no place for auto dealers in the future of Birmingham."

Robert Page, mayor at the time, told the dealers the commission would need time to consider the proposal which involved some rezoning, especially on Ann, needed for expansion.

Two years later, the commission is still considering rezoning the area, but not for cars. At Monday's meeting, the commission considered rezoning the Ann area for a row-housing development. The question was referred for a legal opinion.

Another dealer still waiting for developments in the city is Carl Fischer of Fischer Buick, 515 S.

Woodward. "We need to expand," he said, but indicated he is still hoping to do so at his present location.

NO TEARS SHED

Meanwhile, no tears are being shed in Troy. George Peek, planning director, sees the new auto mart center as a huge asset for the city.

He foresees the center as an ideal situation for the consumer where a prospective buyer will be able to walk from dealer to dealer and shop for a car just like in a supermarket—a super car market.

Peek said all zoning arrangements were made about the same time Birmingham dealers were seeking new zoning from their commission.

"We have high hopes for the new auto center. There is a huge market in the surrounding area, and as soon as I-75 is completed inside the Detroit city limits, the whole metropolitan area will be just minutes away."

LEONARD — The Village Council will meet to consider the coming year's budget on May 8, according to Clerk Mrs. Calvin Scheall.

Supervisor Retiring in Commerce Twp.

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — Township Supervisor Thomas C. Tiley last night submitted his resignation, effective May 1.

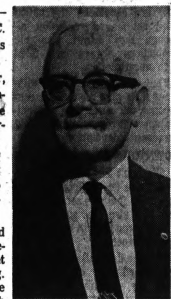

The 78-year-old supervisor, who has been in the top township post for 10 years, said he is retiring on his doctor's orders.

He has been a member of the Township Board for 24 years and was reelected to his present post last November.

Tiley said the Township Board will have to select a replacement and make the appointment official at the May 16 meeting.

In other action last night, the board signed an agreement with planning consultant Drinker for work on a master plan for the township.

Tiley said the work will cost

THOMAS C. TILEY

$8,000 and take six months to complete.

Several residents attended last night's meeting to voice their complaints about the lack of someplace to dump their trash.

Until recently, the township paid $175 a month to permit residents to use the Cedar Island Lake Road Dump. The dump is closed for at least three months.

"That leaves us with no place to dump trash such as old mattresses and refrigerators," said Tiley. "Ten or 15 years ago, people used to load up trailers with their trash and go out on a dark night and dump it in ditches."

"That same thing has started to happen again."

He said there are no plans to open a dump in the township because "it would cost a fortune."

New Calling Area OK'd

A toll-free extended area telephone service for exchanges in White Lake, Milford, Commerce, Bloomfield, Waterford and Pontiac to townships has been approved by the Michigan Public Service Commission.

A joint petition by the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. and the General Telephone Co. establishes the new service between the Milford exchange of General and the Commerce and Pontiac zones of Michigan Bell and between the White Lake exchange of General and the Commerce and Pontiac zones of Bell.

The new service will not be put into operation until October 1968 because of the time required for development of engineering plans, manufacturing equipment and installing and testing the equipment.

There will be no change in rates for customers of Bell's Commerce and Pontiac subscribers even though they will be able to call an additional 4,400 subscribers in their local calling range.

Customers in the Milford and White Lake exchanges of General, however, will be enlarging their local calling range by an additional 30,000 subscribers which will move their exchanges into a higher rate level.

Peter B. Spivak, chairman of the MPSC said that increased rates to call between these part of their local service."

Parks Open Launch Ramps

Boat-launching facilities of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority parks are now open at Stony Creek Metropolitan Park northeast of Rochester, Kensington Metropolitan Park near Milford and Metropolitan Beach near Mt. Clemens.

Stony Creek has space for three boat launchings simultaneously at ramps located at the south end of Stony Creek Lake. Panfish, pike, bluegills, crappies, perch and bass inhabit the lake.

Boating permits, provided without charge and good for the 1967 season, are available at the park office. There is a 10 mile-per-hour limit on the lake and no water skiing is permitted.

Two boat launching ramps are available at Kensington. Crappies, bluegills, bass and panfish inhabit the 200-acre Kent Lake.

Six boats may be launched at the East Launching Ramp where there is space for 60 cars and trailers and additional parking for cars only.

The West Launching site has space for 125 cars and trailers with six to eight launchings available at one time at the 120-foot ramp.

There is no charge for launching, however boat launching permits, available at no charge, are required. There is a 10 mile-per-hour speed limit and no water skiing is permitted.

Grievance Stirs Clash in Shelby

New Supervisor Has Run-In With Board

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — New Supervisor Kirby Holmes conducted his first Township Board meeting here last night and had his first run-in with the all-Democratic board.

Holmes, a Republican, had reversed a disposition made by Fire Chief Clyde Schmidt relative to a firemen's grievance regarding accumulated sick time.

Called to account by the board, Holmes defended his position and refused to give board members copies of any future disciplinary he makes along similar lines.

"The union contract with the firemen provides that they first take a grievance to the chief. If they are not satisfied they can come to me, and again if they are not satisfied they have the right to arbitration," he reported.

"I could not agree with Schmidt's findings in the case," he said.

In other business, the board voted to bypass membership in the Council of Governments at the present time.

Almont Council Will Take Look at Incorporation

ALMONT — Increasing complexity of governmental problems was the reason given by the Almont Village Council for its decision last night to investigate incorporation as a home rule village.

Prime concern of the council was the hiring of a village manager to conduct village affairs.

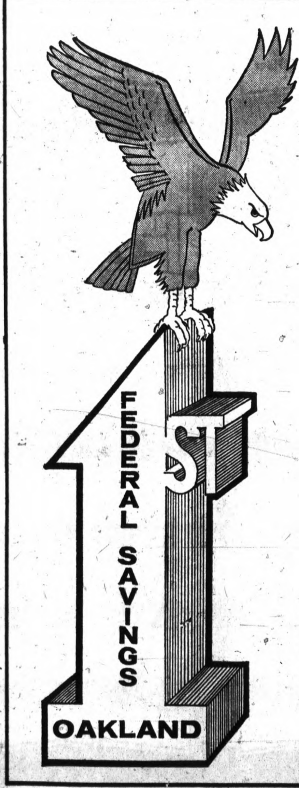

Clerk Verne Messer reported such a move would mean the formation of a new charter and its adoption by the voters.

Councilmen discussed the hiring of planning engineers, and the repair and construction of streets.

Momentous Soviet Power Struggle Taking Shape

By FRED SPARKS

NEW YORK (NEA) — Now that I am out of the Soviet Union I can report that a momentous power struggle is shaping up in the Kremlin, triggered by critics of Russia's foreign policy, particularly its relations with North Vietnam.

My own observations, plus what I was told by numerous Western diplomats and other foreign residents, lead to expectations that before the struggle is resolved the two-headed dictatorship of Premier Alexei Kossygin and party boss Leonid Brezhnev will be replaced. And Kossygin and Brezhnev would vanish from the political scene like Nikita Khrushchev, suddenly, overnight, without fanfare.

I wouldn't have dared cable this from Russia, where reporting that the dictatorship is shaky is the No. 1 sin. If the above were written by a resident correspondent in Moscow he would be ousted or harassed until he left.

It is an accepted fact of life in Moscow that Soviet foreign policy is in tatters. China, the most populated Communist country, is now an enemy.

Eastern Europe is rapidly drifting farther away from Moscow's domination. Even North Korea shows alarming independence.

VIETNAM

And if this wasn't enough, to undermine any government, there is the impossible problem of Vietnam.

My excellent sources in Moscow told me that important members of the Presidium personally blame Kossygin and Brezhnev for getting the Soviet Union involved in that hopeless mess "where Russia had nothing to gain and everything to lose."

"Everything to lose" means a confrontation with the United States, which is the last thing anyone inside the Kremlin wants, particularly at this time when Red China is making war-like noises on Russia's borders.

Communist heavyweights rap-ing Kossygin and Brezhnev say that shortly after they replaced Khrushchev in 1964 they made their first irrevocable error: They encouraged North Vietnam to invade South Vietnam in organized force without anticipating the violent American reaction.

QUICK ON DRAW

Khrushchev had learned, during the Cuban missile crisis, that Americans are quick on the draw. He had done little to encourage Hanoi to expand its efforts beyond guerrilla warfare.

Critics of the current dictatorship say it gave Hanoi the O.K. to "get tough" as part of its campaign to woo Red China back into Mother Russia's arms.

They wanted to prove that, unlike Khrushchev, they approved revolution and invasion as a means to advance world revolution.

Khrushchev's theory of "peaceful co-existence" was downplayed by Kossygin and Brezhnev when parleying with the Chinese.

BROTHERLY LOVE

Kossygin made a pilgrimage to Peking where he preached brotherly. Communist love and was feasted at massive banquets where rivers of sharks' fin soup flowed like borscht in Moscow.

Besides the soup, Red China gave Kossygin nothing but the war in Vietnam. And since the Americans entered the conflict with such considerable force, Kossygin and his partner in dictatorship have been in an unenviable position.

They dare not risk war with the United States by bailing out Hanoi with Russian airpower or ground troops.

They have not yet been able to get Hanoi to negotiate, partly because the Red Chinese are pressuring Hanoi to be evermore belligerent.

Caught in the middle, helpless, Kossygin and Brezhnev are sending a dribble of military hardware to Hanoi while they make thundering speeches threatening to hit the Americans with everything but the Bolshoi Ballet.

Austerity Budget Seen Ace in Hole

In the fiscal poker game now in progress between the executive and legislative branches of the State government, it appears that Gov. ROMNEY has nearly "called" the Legislature and "raised" it back.

His chips were the austerity budget he unveiled in the event the lawmakers do not come up with a tax package that would provide funds to support the $1.2 billion budget for fiscal 1968 he originally submitted.

ROMNEY

The amended version would slice $185 million from that figure and reflect cuts in many areas of important government service and building programs.

Hardest hit would be education, bearing as it would about 47 per cent of the proposed budget cutback.

ROMNEY is on sound ground in his determination to cut the cloth of State spending to the coat of income, since the State constitution prohibits government appropriations in excess of estimated income. The Governor's proposed slash would balance budgetary spending with anticipated income.

But since so many areas would feel the sting of reduced spending were the austerity budget to become reality, with resulting wailing and gnashing of teeth by large segments of the populace, there is little likelihood of vote-conscious legislators buying it as an alternative to passage of a tax program productive of Michigan's need for additional revenue.

Calls Present Postal System a Dead Letter

Regardless of the outcome of Postmaster General LAWRENCE F. O'BRIEN's sensational proposal to reform the creaking apparatus of the postal service, he at least wins a letter for independence.

O'BRIEN would convert the tradition-bound service from its present status of a Government appendage to a corporate-style Federal agency headed by a professional executive.

Its link to the national administration would reside in a board of directors appointed by the President, subject to ratification by the Senate. Since the establishment of the Post Office Department by President Andrew Jackson in 1829, Congress has played the directorate role.

With the Nation's mail service now running an annual deficit of more than $1 billion in the face of an unprecedented era of national prosperity and a comparable record volume of mail, drastic action is called for to put the postal department on a sound fiscal basis and to rescue it from its present state of functional chaos.

From an administrative standpoint, the department has always carried a couple of monkeys on its back: political permeation of its organization and susceptibility to the uses of patronage.

It will be interesting to see how official Washington reacts to this first conceptual innovation ever to be advanced by the Post Office Department.

NATO Shifts Base From French to Belgium Soil

The flags of the 15 member nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) have been hauled down at Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers near Paris, and the last vestiges of a great peacetime military force have moved out of France. It was 16 years ago when those flags first were hoisted and Gen. DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER took command of this brave cooperative effort.

The departure has occurred under pressure. President and Gen. DE GAULLE, in his time a willing partner in NATO, ordered the organization to leave his country. He has been moved, in one sense, by the desire to demonstrate that La Patrie can achieve La Gloire only if foreigners are off her soil. He has been moved, in another sense, probably by the fact that in case of a crisis NATO would still come to his aid.

The U. S. brought NATO into being, and has been the chief provider of men, money and materiel because this country from enlightened self-interest wished to guard Western Europe from a third world war.

That aim, at least for the time being, appears to have been achieved. Thanks to the resoluteness of NATO, Russia has not sought to overrun Western Europe. Thanks to the Marshall Plan, Western Europe is once again a thriving industrial and commercial entity. Thanks to the Truman Doctrine, Greece and Turkey were saved from communism.

America is now spending its blood and treasure in its own self-interest and in protecting South Vietnam from communism. If the NATO countries would recognize why we are there and lend their support as they have in Europe, world peace would be closer and world tension would be greatly lessened.

Reflections on Recent Latin Talks

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON—It sounded like a call to a new life, to a fresh beginning, and the very manner of the man gave that feeling.

In the White House, the Latin-American diplomatic listening as the young president proposed that their republics join the United States in a 10-year, 10-point program.

He said, would be "to build a hemisphere where all men can hope for the same high standard of living — and all can live out their lives in dignity and freedom."

He suggested that the various American nations could transform the continent and make it "an example to all the world that liberty and progress walk hand in hand."

That was in March 1961, and President John F. Kennedy stirred the Latin Americans as they hadn't been in years. From that moment, he became a shining figure in this country's southern neighbors.

Even the disastrous American-backed rebel invasion of Cuba just a month later didn't spoil the Kennedy image in Latin America, for later in the year the Alliance for Progress was created at Punta del Este in Uruguay.

Now it's almost six years later. Has there been progress under the alliance? Those who are delighted at any sign of forward movement in Latin America will say yes. Others, more pragmatic, think the alliance has just been stumbling along.

Last week, another president, a different kind of man, with a different manner, Lyndon B. Johnson, went to another meeting at Punta del Este, this time for a meeting with 19 Latin-American presidents to get more action for the future and in more ways.

He operated in low key, standing in the background, mostly avoiding any flamboyance or suggestion of dominating the conference because he represented the Western Hemisphere's dominant force, the United States.

At the opening session, he yielded his own speaking time to the others and did what was more natural for him: he listened. He was doing that kind of thing most of his life: he talked privately with the individual presidents.

NO EQUALIZER

His ability as a speaker had never equaled his ability as a negotiator.

And when he did speak to the assembled group, he left out the big flourishes, avoided flat promises of help, said instead he would do his best to get Congress to agree to aid the Latin Americans in various ways.

Spring Fever!

David Lawrence Says:

Soviet Aid Step-Up Is Puzzling

WASHINGTON—What they apparently need in the Soviet government is a good public relations man.

For certainly the formula of "how to win friends and influence people" has been given little attention in Moscow.

Many Americans indeed are wondering why the Soviet government considers a military alliance with the North Vietnamese government to be more rewarding than the good will of the American people.

Within the last few days news has come out that in March nearly 100,000 tons of war supplies — a record high — were shipped into Haiphong, the major port in North Vietnam.

The bulk of this was carried on Communist ships — not only Russian but those of the Communist-bloc countries in Eastern Europe.

Coincidentally, President Johnson has been trying to persuade Congress that this is a good time to pass legislation to take off many of the existing restrictions on trade between the United States and Communist countries.

Sen. Everett Dirksen, Republican leader, however, has just said that the revelation of the Soviet agreement with Red China to step up the shipping of war munitions to North Vietnam has caused dismay in Congress. He declared in an interview:

"This puts a new light on President Johnson's recommendation for legislation to authorize free trade with the Soviets."

"I don't think Congress is going to be very happy to do that at a time when the Russians are increasing military help to the North Vietnamese."

The United States and the Soviet Union are continually discussing questions of mutual importance. Many Americans have hopefully felt that sooner or later there would emerge in Russia a group of leaders who would begin to appreciate the value of a friendly relationship with the United States.

Maybe in Moscow they do not have comprehensive surveys of American opinion and hence do not realize that the subversive activities which have been inspired by the Communists in North and South America, as well as on other continents, are beginning to be viewed as an indication of hostility toward this country that is growing instead of lessening.

Lately some members of Congress have openly advocated that the United States government should manifest its desire for a friendly relationship with the Soviet Union by removing some of the existing trade barriers. But, as long as the Vietnam War continues and the Soviet Union sends in war supplies to help kill American troops, the chances of a Soviet-American detente will diminish steadily.

Surely the Russian people, who have been through the agony of two world wars with enormous losses, would welcome effective steps to prevent another catastrophe. (Copyright, 1967, Publisher Newspaper Syndicate)

Bob Considine Says:

Barber Tries to Collect Old Bill From Doolittle

ALAMEDA, Calif. — Fellow can't get away with a thing. Peppery and almost totally bald Gen. Jimmy Doolittle stepped up to the bar in the hospital suite at the Edgewater Inn, during the 25th anniversary of his Tokyo raiders, and ordered a sherry.

"You owe me 15 cents," the bartender said to him. Jimmy started to reach in his pocket but the bartender beat him to the draw. "Not for the sherry. You owe me 15 cents for this," and he produced a yellowed slip of paper.

It was a form, noting that one Lt. Col. James H. Doolittle, U. S. Army Air Force, had been given a haircut aboard the USS Hornet.

"Twenty-five years ago to day," the bartender said. "I was the barber. You forgot to pay and you forgot to sign it."

SURVIVED HORNET SINKING

Jimmy signed, but asked for continued credit on the 15 cents.

The quarter-of-a-century-old bill was presented by Morris Notch, who was filling in behind the bar as a gesture of friendship to the raiders. Notch is now a prominent Oakland exporter.

He survived the sinking of the Hornet in the Battle of Santa Cruz on Oct. 26, 1942, which happened to be Navy Day, ironically.

The Japanese had swiftly learned that the B25s which audaciously struck them on April 18 of that year were launched from the deck of the Hornet. From that time forward, the Hornet was the most hunted ship in the entire U. S. Navy.

NOTIFIED BY JAPANESE

On the night before the battle which was to be her last, the Hornet was notified by Japanese radio that her hours were numbered.

They were, indeed. Japanese carrier-based and land-based bombers pointedly over-flew the carrier Enterprise to give the Hornet the full and terrible treatment.

She sank with at least nine gaping air-torpedo wounds in her gut, with deaths running into the hundreds.

"I got a little wet," Notch recalled as he mixed a Bloody Mary for Tokyo raider David Jones, now a major general assigned to NASA.

"I got back to Pearl Harbor, shipped out eventually on the carrier Princeton, and she got sunk, too."

"So I had two shot from under me . . . and Doolittle still owes me 15 cents."

Quieting Talk

The Ann Arbor News

It stands to reason that any speech which pleases both the White House and Barry Goldwater must have managed to touch all bases.

Gov. Romney's speech at Hartford also indicated his utter contempt of labels such as conservative and liberal, dove and hawk etc. Romney's speech straddles philosophical and political party boundaries.

There were some memorable lines, such as "while there are no limits to what we can destroy, there are limits to what we can build."

Or this warning: "Too often in the times of history, men have sought to rationalize sacrifices already made by seeking wider goals. We must guard against falling into this pattern in Vietnam."

Or this philosophical observation: "Our interest has been defined largely by the commitment, rather than the commitment by the interest."

Neither the governor nor his staff was naive enough to assume that the world was waiting in breathless anticipation for whatever policy position was taken.

Voice of the People:

Cyclists Have Support of Future Cycle Owner

Why do auto owners insist on belittling people because they ride motorcycles? Cyclists wear boots to protect their feet and ankles, leather jackets for protection if they take a spill, and many times a helmet has saved a cyclist's life.

Motorcycles are more economical. I'm starting college this month and can't afford a car so I'm planning on getting a cycle. Are people going to run me off the road because I have to wear a helmet (it's the law), boots and a leather jacket?

Questions Need for Another Garbage Dump

I fail to understand the reasoning behind the proposed disposal site near Maceday Lake for people in Waterford Township. Under the present circumstances, Waterford Township residents may use the Kennett Road disposal site for the fee of $1.50 per load. This seems ideal for the present time. Why should we ruin another part of this one beautiful area with another garbage dump?

'Comparing Political Views Is Confusing'

Republican Kirk of Florida campaigned on no new taxes, war on crime and opposed to LBJ's policies and was the first Republican elected in 94 years. Governor Romney is supporting LBJ's Vietnam policy, which leaves Michigan Republicans no choice. I don't get it.

'New Starting Times Add to Traffic Woes'

Fisher Body employees are well aware of Pontiac's outdated streets.

Until recently, there was an 18-minute differential in starting times at the Fisher Body plant. When that was changed, we all began leaving at the same time, and the result is a terrific traffic jam. It's taking many of us 15 minutes longer to get home, and there are more accidents around the plant at checkout time.

Requests for a solution to Plant Manager Wiethorn have failed. How come some of that cooperation that management asks for at ATF and body drive time?

Eastern Junior High School Bell Ringers and their director William Coffing have been invited to participate in the American Festival in Britain in June, when selected groups will perform for British audiences, for charity benefits, and visit literary and historical sites in England and Scotland.

This is a conscientious group of teen-agers who contribute their time giving benefit performances before schools, churches and civic groups in the area. Let's get behind them and send them on their way to help contribute to better international understanding through drama and arts.

Question and Answer.

Several restaurants where I've eaten lately have waitresses who don't wear hair nets. I understand there was a law that all people working on food should. If so, where does one report the places?

CURIOUS ONE.

REPLY

According to City and County Sanitary Codes, all persons who manufacture, prepare or serve food must wear effective hair restraints. The City code also requires the same of persons handling beverages. Report violations to Mr. Cohen at City Hall, 333-7131. Outside the city, contact Central Office of the Oakland County Health Department, PE 2-9255.

But if the governor didn't make great political shock waves, he didn't lay an egg either. There isn't much a governor such as Romney can add to what is known about Vietnam and how we can get out of there with our pride intact.

But if Romney wanted to give himself a little leverage and get some of his more persistent critics off his back, the Hartford speech carried the day.

Food Costs

The Bay City Times

As you compute your budget allotment for food, and if the bags you carry out of the supermarket seem to be getting lighter as prices are getting higher, better do some checking.

For instance, The Grocers' Spotlight, an industry publication, claims food might be your biggest bargain.

It points out that according to latest Consumer Price Index for the Detroit area, all major consumer items such as apparel, housing, transportation and others, have gone up while food costs have gone down (4 per cent in February).

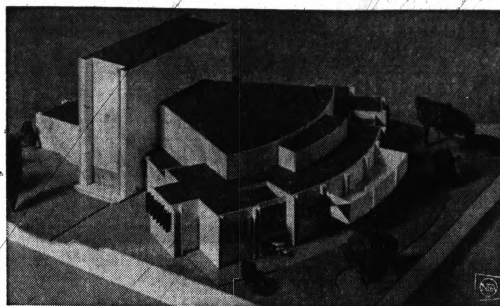

For a 12-month period since February, 1966, the publication says food prices went up a mere token (1 per cent) according to the Consumer Price Index compiled by the U. S. Department of Labor.

This compared with price rises of 4.9 per cent in home ownership, 6.6 per cent in public transportation, 7.3 per cent in medical care.

Of course with new indications of farmer unrest—embellished by the holdout of milk, prices paid the producer are expected to go down.

This snowballs along the line from the shipper, the canner, the middleman, the merchandiser until it hits the consumer who inevitably must pay the whole shot.

If you think the bags you carry out from the food markets are lighter now, wait until spring.

ENTERTAINMENT FESTIVAL — This new theatre will be the site of film festivals during Canada's Expo World Festival of Entertainment when Expo 67 opens its gates in Montreal later this month.

Expo 67 Brings 62 Nations to Canada

By JOAN CROSBY

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
MONTREAL (NEA) — The English gentleman connected with Expo 67 stuck his tongue way-in-cheek and said, "To attract the attention of the United States, you need either a war or an exhibition. Canada felt this was less defensive."

"This" is Expo 67, a First Category World Exhibition ("a fair sells, an exhibition shows," they say) which has attracted more than the attention of the United States. Sixty-two nations are represented.

VIP VISITS

During the six months of the exhibition, which opens on Friday, April 28, and closes on Friday, Oct. 27, visits are expected from such VIPs as the Queen of England, General de Gaulle, Fidel Castro and possibly President Johnson and Soviet Premier Kosygin.

What they, and millions of visitors from Canada's provinces, the United States and the world will see is an exciting show, coupled with a World Entertainment Festival which will bring the performing arts to Canada.

Montreal, a city with an exciting and foreign flavor, has put on a new and happy face for Expo 67. Construction within the last half decade has been tremendous.

Committees were formed to search out the city's eyesores and recommend how to deal with them. Those not dealt with by Expo time will be covered by gaily painted false fronts. Trees are being planted in other sore spots.

ARTY SUBWAY

The six-months-old subway, called The Metro, looks more like an art gallery than a mode of transportation. Each station was designed by a different artist. They are colorful and tasteful.

Unlike the New York World's Fair, which barely seemed ready to open on the day it closed, Expo 67 could receive visitors now. All the buildings had to be finished by November, before the Montreal winter made construction impossible.

Once in the grounds of Expo 67, a visitor will not have to spend another cent. He can even bring his own food and eat in specially provided picnic areas.

Transportation over the 1,000-acre site, spread on three islands in the St. Lawrence River (some of them manmade with fill from the subway construction), is free on special Expo trains.

SPEED, EFFICIENCY

What is really remarkable about the exhibition is the speed and efficiency with which the Canadians have gone about getting it ready.

They originally applied for the exhibit and were denied when it was awarded to Russia. After two years of playing around with the event, the Russians pulled out. Canada applied again and was awarded the event which coincides with the country's 100th anniversary of federation.

Where it normally takes seven to 10 years of planning, Canada has made it in just over four.

Another remarkable building feat is at Place des Arts, Montreal's Lincoln Center. "Les Theatres," a new house holding two theaters, one on top of the other, one seating 1,300 and the other 800, has been completed in 11 months.

Place des Arts will supply three of the five theaters holding special entertainment events for the World Entertainment Festival.

Enthusiastic Callers Keep Romney D.C. Office Busy

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — The fever and excitement of a presidential campaign begins early.

The Romney-for-president offices here have been open a scant two weeks and already, as Jimmy Durante would say, "everybody wants to get into da act."

"We've received an awful lot of volunteer calls," said Bill Murphy, executive secretary of the Romney-for-President Committee. "And about 75 per cent, I'd say, have stars in their eyes."

Students, housewives, pretty young secretaries and grizzled old politicians—good Republicans all—volunteer for everything from bumper-sticker-passer-outer to George Romney's special assistant.

When notices appeared that the office had opened, the phones the next morning began a steady jingle as if one of the first 20 callers had a shot at being secretary of state.

A FEW KOOKS, TOO

"A few kooks, too," Murphy said softly.

One guy was a slogan thinker-upper. He did "in" slogans. "In" turned out to be crude.

"He had a point, though," Murphy said. "They would attract attention."

Most of the callers are startled when office secretary Hazel Matcham, who came to this country from England five years ago, tells them the facts of the matter.

NOT YET DECLARED

First, she explains, George Romney is the governor of Michigan now and has not declared himself a Republican candidate for president.

Second, even if he was declared, he still has to win the nomination, which is what Romney-for-President will try to do eventually. Now the committee exists solely to find out if Republicans across the country know in their hearts that Romney is right.

Third, the convention and all the hoopla, parties and lasting friendships which go with such an intense experience is more than a year away.

"May I ask if you are still interested?" the pretty Miss Matcham says precisely. "Say, you're English, aren't you?" one young law student said, moving on to try to line up a date.

'LL CALL BACK

The names of those who are still interested are filed. Most just say, "Oh... I'll call back."

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

No Harmful Side Effects to 'The Pill'

I am often asked how safe oral contraceptives are. The Food and Drug Administration has considered these birth control pills safe for nearly 10 years.

It is estimated that over five million women use them every day in this country. This is enough to have brought to light any harmful effects they might have.

Why is it, then, that rumors of their damaging potentialities exist?

This is partly because rumors of any kind are hard to squelch and partly because women who take these pills are constantly on the lookout for undesirable side effects.

It is true that in some women the pills cause nausea, headache, tenderness or heaviness in the breasts or a gain in weight but these symptoms can usually be relieved by adjusting the dosage or changing to a different but closely related drug.

NO RELATIONSHIP

It is also true that some women who are taking these pills develop high blood pressure or varicose veins, but all efforts to establish any causative relationship between these conditions and the pill have failed.

These conditions occur equally in women who take and do not take the pills.

More important, there has been no evidence that the pill causes cancer or has any harmful effect on any baby a woman may later choose to have.

Q—What harmful effects does the drinking of tea have? Will it thin the blood?

A—Tea will thin the blood only to the extent that any fluid taken in an excessive amount might do so.

It will not weaken the kidneys, although an excessive fluid intake does put an added burden on them. This would be significant only if the kidneys were already diseased.

Tea is a healthful drink that is preferred by many persons to coffee. Excessive amounts of caffeine from this or any other source may cause insomnia, headache, nervous tension, palpitation and nausea.

Q—When I break the glass getting the cover off a jelly jar, would it be fatal if I accidentally ate a tiny piece of glass?

A—Chewing and eating electric light bulbs was once a popular exhibit in freak shows and circus side shows.

Although there is no food value in glass, careful investigation has failed to show that it does any harm.

The delicate mucous lining of the digestive tract has a special way of avoiding injury in the handling of such foreign bodies. But don't eat any glass if you can avoid it.

Code Enforcement Improves Homes in City

the figure for the previous eight years.

The total of 282 actions started last year is nearly five times the average (60) of housing citations issued annually since 1953.

In many cases, demolitions and rehabilitations have been in direct response to neighborhood concern.

Where concern becomes concentrated, code areas are established, with two of the city's six code areas covering large sections south of the central business district.

RELOCATION

As noted in the seven-part guidelines of the Workable Program, demolition of homes is tied in tightly with another knotty urban problem — relocation of displaced families.

A near-critical housing shortage in the city multiplies the difficulties of relocation, families whose initial problem has frequently been lack of funds to properly maintain their home.

In other cases, houses have slid through the process of decay because of reluctance on the part of landlords to invest additional cash in older homes.

"There's no doubt about it," Bates commented, "in some cases we can't push our condemnation procedures simply because there's no place available to house displaced persons."

Thus, present city activities in code enforcement have been concentrated in a "holding action," a systematic attempt to fight neighborhood deterioration in its earliest and sometimes most evident stages.

Principal figures in this effort are Laverna Whitcomb, building inspector, and sanitarians Carl Carr, James Rothschild and David Zaitzoff.

Upon them falls the burden of knocking on doors, looking through dwellings and then notifying residents and owners of conditions which fall short of city standards in plumbing, heating, fire safety, sanitation and a score of smaller areas.

"We don't actually take up a great deal of time when looking through a house," Whitcomb said, "but knowing what to look for we can usually alert a home owner to conditions which need correcting."

EDUCATIONAL

"We feel we have an educational function as much as an enforcement one."

The average visit will take an inspector from the basement to the attic of a dwelling, in addition to checking outside.

Values of such inspections and any resultant improvements are many, according to Bates. They include:

- Increase and stabilization of property values;
- Reduction of maintenance costs;
- Lowering of fire and health hazards;
- Improved environment for children.

A long list of "before and after" accomplishments testifies to successes recorded in two years of systematic code enforcement.

Contingent upon efforts to alleviate the city's housing shortage, the architects of Pontiac's urban recovery are hopeful of taking even bigger steps in the future.

Civil Service the Exception

Most U.S. Sleuths Heard Of, Not Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Your only contact with U.S. intelligence agencies may be when a neat-looking man flashes imposing credentials at you and asks for information about a fellow who's looking for a government job.

A lot is heard about FBI sleuths and CIA chaps and dagger men, but the average citizen is a lot less likely to meet one of these in the flesh than an investigator for the U.S. Civil Service Commission.

Each year, commission investigators contact 2.5-3.5-million Americans either by letter or in person. Their aim: to determine whether persons who want to go on the federal payroll have good records.

The commission's task is a vast one — it conducts certain types of investigations for the entire federal service. One type is called "national agency check and inquiry."

2-PART CATEGORY

This falls into two parts:

1. A check of FBI fingerprint files, the commission's own files — which contain 10 million card records of past probes — the files of the Army, Navy, Air Force or Coast Guard, and the House Committee on Un-American activities "as appropriate."
2. Written inquiries to former employers, colleges or universities attended, law enforcement agencies of the applicant's home town, State Department files if the person has been abroad, immigration service if he is an alien or naturalized citizen.

But suppose the applicant is trying for a job designated as "sensitive" — one in which he could have "a material adverse on the national security" if he went wrong. Then he must be subjected to a "full field investigation."

This includes, among other things, personal interviews with present and former employers, supervisors, fellow workers, references, neighbors, school authorities.

TAKEN BY FBI

But, in some cases, the commission turns over the task of full field investigation to the FBI. These are cases where a preliminary probe turns up "derogatory information regarding matters such as sabotage, espionage, treason, sedition, membership in or affiliation with subversive organizations, unauthorized disclosure of security information, or refusal on grounds of self-incrimination to testify on loyalty matters before a congressional committee."

The names of the other federal investigative agencies are legion. There is, of course, the Secret Service, assigned to only two tasks: protecting the President and vice president and combatting counterfeiters.

The Army, Navy and Air Force each has its own intelligence agency. So do the State Post Office, Agriculture and Treasury departments. Under the latter come the checkup boys of the Internal Revenue Service, nesters of many an income tax dodger.

As for the Central Intelligence Agency, the U.S. government manual says its purpose is "coordinating the intelligence activities of the several government departments and agencies in the interest of national security."

COMMON CONCERN
Further down in its description of the CIA's role, the manual speaks cryptically of "additional services of common concern." How broadly this mandate has been interpreted in the past is attested by recent headlines.

The agency least visible to the public is the National Security Agency, located at Ft. Meade, Md. Its employees, reported to number 10,000, are said to be under mandate to decline to tell anybody even where they work. It's a global intelligence operation, with accent on electronics. It tries to break other governments' codes, and prevent them from breaking ours.

I criticize by creation, not by finding fault.—Marcus Cicero, Roman statesman and orator.

Real Key Problem Involves Her Mate

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 22 and I am 19. Tony is in the service and he works with both fellows and girls.

A very cute girl has just been stationed in his department, and she gave him the key to her apartment. He said she gave it to him in case she ever needed some help.

Tony said he has never used the key and I believe him, but I still don't think it's right for a married man to have the key to a girl's apartment. We've quarreled about it a lot, but he still hasn't given it back.

I have even threatened to leave him, but he says if I loved him and trusted him I wouldn't need to do that. What should I do?

hate him for it, but most of all, I hate myself because I think it was all my fault.

Christ Church Members View Pre-Sale Musical

A luncheon fashion show, previewing sale items for the noted semi-annual Christ Church Cranbrook rummage sale, took place Tuesday in the church. The rummage sale is April 27 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Mrs. E. Franklin Hitch planned and commented the musical revue for members which again this year featured that "unusual" group, "Birmingham Bertha and Her Bloomfield Bombers."

BERTHA'S GIRLS Members of this group are Mesdames: Robert Hackett, Donald Graham, Robert Livesay, Thomas Austin and Alvin Clark.

Joining them for one sketch was Mrs. Eugene A. Moore singing a parody of "Sweet Georgia Brown."

For further entertainment, the Rummage Glee Club also took part in a medley of parodies, all written by Mrs. Owen Regan and Franklin Hitch.

Singing in this group were Mesdames: Kenneth Cunningham, A. C. Haefliger, James Taylor, Larry Somner, Lewis Harris and Duane Miller.

Robert Bates was the show's music man.

Models included Mrs. Erwin Wilson, Mrs. Gar Meadowcroft, Mrs. Erwin Rogers, Mrs. John Deacon, Mrs. Richard Ogelsby, Mrs. Regan, Mrs. Thomas Wheat, Mrs. David Sparrow and Mrs. Frank Winders.

Chairmen of all 15 departments participated in a review "Chairman's Choice."

Mrs. Kent Barclay and Mrs. Donald Petersen are co-chairmen of the annual sale with Mrs. Russell Robins in charge of the noted "French Room" assisted by Mrs. William Bergin.

Writers to Meet

There will be a regular meeting of the Oakland Writers' Workshop at 1 p.m. Thursday in the YWCA.

Dr. Karl Haas to Head Interlochen

Roscoe O. Bonisteel (left) chairman of the board of trustees of the National Music Camp and Interlochen Arts Academy, greets Dr. Karl Haas, president-designate of the Interlochen organization. Dr. Haas takes the post held for many years by the late founder-president, Dr. Joseph E. Maddy.

After a year long search for a successor to the late Dr. Joseph E. Maddy, founder of the National Music Camp and Interlochen Arts Academy, Dr. Karl Haas has been named to the head post.

Dr. Haas at present is director of fine arts at radio station WJR and is a frequent speaker before civic groups on the field of fine arts.

Born and educated in West Germany's Rhineland, Dr. Haas received his early music training from private teachers. Later he studied at the Conservatory of Mannheim and the University of Heidelberg.

In 1958, he represented the United States as a delegate to the UNESCO Music Congress in Paris. Four years later he became a consultant to the Ford Foundation and in '63-64 accepted a Ford Foundation assignment as resident director of cultural activities in Berlin, Germany.

He received the Officers Cross of the Order of Merit, First Class, for his work in this country. He holds honorary degrees from Albion College, Findlay College and Bowling Green University.

Interlochen, which is situated in the Grand Traverse Bay area of Northern Michigan, features six full symphony orchestras, four bands, a number of ensemble groups and a 400 voice festival choir.

During its summer season, the camp presents concerts, recitals, operettas, dance programs and a little theater production.

Not Chance for Guests to Load Up

ELIZABETH L. POST

This is in answer to Barbara who wrote to ask whether one trip to load your plate, or several trips for smaller portions, was the correct way to approach a smorgasbord.

Dear Mrs. Post: At a correctly set smorgasbord, which means "sandwich table" literally translated, you will find a stack of small size plates, to be served with small amounts of food. They expect you to use a clean plate for each trip if foods clash.

After the first course (always fish, herring as a rule) you wouldn't think of eating jello off the same plate. Yet, haven't you seen a heaped plate with some of everything, as though there was no tomorrow for food or stomach?

You are intended to take your time, let the fish which should come first whet your appetite, then cold cuts followed by cheeses and a bit of fresh fruit or jello, then hot food if appetite is there. Ending up with dessert and plenty of coffee throughout the meal.

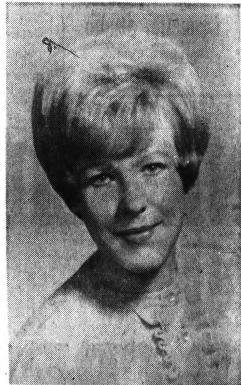

When seeing these heaped, unappetizing plates parade by, I've often wondered why some thinking and kind presenter of fine smorgasbord hasn't thought of printing and furnishing the proper steps to really enjoy the meal and allow on-lookers to do the same. — "An Imported Swede"

Thanks, "Imported Swede," for your very helpful hints on smorgasbord etiquette. I hasten to print your letter so that my readers may all benefit from it.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice Farmer:

What happens to the carefully shaped sleeve in a suit when it has been dry cleaned? Why should you have extra ease in the sleeve? I always thought the purpose of the gathering threads was to make the sleeve fit the armhole exactly. Mrs. M.M.B.

Dear Mrs. M.M.B.:

Sleeves possibly take more skill than any other part of your garment. I have learned so much about sleeves from professional tailors and try to teach my students the same methods with great success.

The two rows of stitching at the cap of the sleeves (with regular length stitch) help pull a little of the ease and make it easier to work in (for us nonprofessionals). You must be sure, however, before pinning the sleeve in, that the sleeve is almost 2 inches larger than the armhole.

As you pin from the inside of the sleeve, holding over your fingers in an outer curve, this extra ease will all work in nicely. If you pull the gathers up too tight, the sleeve won't fit.

As to the dry cleaners, they use a method of steam pressing that refines the original shaping and won't ruin it. I'm sure all of you would benefit greatly by my step by step instructions called "All About Sleeves." Send 10 cents and a long, self-addressed envelope to Eunice Farmer in care of The Pontiac Press.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Terri Amedee, Bridgeport, Mo., is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her following suggestion.

I am 18 years old and knit and sew all of my clothes. To save time, I often pin my pattern to fabric, and my mother cuts it for me.

When I want to cut garment larger than the pattern, I place the pins across the cutting line at each end so she won't forget. She thinks the idea is worth passing along, since she would forget and cut on cutting line on her own patterns after measuring and allowing. (Mothers are like that). This way she never forgets cause she can't cut through pins.

Dear Eunice Farmer,

I have made my spring outfit out of one of the new rayon suitings. It really turned out great after I "sweat blood and tears" over ravelling fabric and a few other near disasters, but alas, I can't seem to get the crease out of the center front of the dress and center back of the jacket. Please help. Mrs. J.T.

Dear Mrs. J. T.:

This letter came at an excellent time to remind all of you about the fold of the fabric.

This fold was never pressed in originally; it is the result of being folded on boards for fabric shops. It would be wise to always press this crease out BEFORE cutting the garment. This must be done carefully, so you don't stretch this part of your fabric.

If possible, try to refold fabric so that any section originally laid on the fold will not be placed on the original fold. This can only be done in fabric that is wide. In most cases, a steam iron on the wrong side will do the trick!

If Home Needs Repairs---Do Them Now

By MARY FEELEY

Waiting for money to get cheaper before you launch any home improvement project?

Well, it's apt to be a longer wait than you'd find worthwhile. If the floor's falling in or you need new plumbing, you might as well get the job now.

A majority of bankers in a recent survey pointed out that the kind of money needed for this type of project isn't going to get any cheaper—not anytime soon. Also, they agreed that amounts of money paid back in shorter periods of time are easier to get than the large loans which run over extended periods of time.

So you can ask for a reasonably small loan with real hopes of getting it.

Another factor in the homeowner's favor, if he wants to improve his property, is that many contractors are reported hungry for work. So you should be able to get good bids now. Some contractors may also arrange for you to borrow the money needed. However, it may prove more advantageous to your borrowing through other sources for home improvement loans.

What are the sources available?

FHA Title I insured loans can be arranged at banks, savings and loan associations and credit unions. You don't have to have an FHA or GI mortgage in order to apply for an FHA home improvement loan.

These loans are only for construction improvement work. Such as, for instance, to enlarge your house, install new flooring or plumbing, improve driveways, for sewerage, pumps landscaping. Restrictions on use of an FHA loan include building a swimming pool, a barbecue pit, TV antennas, fixtures, appliances. Apparently these are considered nice but not necessary.

LOANS LESS RESTRICTED

You can get a Title I loan for up to $3,500 with FHA insurance protection to the lender. The terms: a discount of $5 per $100 a year on any loan amount to $2,500. If over that amount, the discount rate on that part over $2,500 is $4 per $100 a year. This type of loan can be made for up to a period of 60 months.

Commercial banks offer loan arrangements for home improvements which aren't restricted as to what they include. You can borrow up to $5,000 with terms up to 60 months. The interest rate for these loans are the same as those quoted for personal loans—and will vary depending on locality.

A $2,000 property loan can be obtained at $5.25 per $100 a year, including insurance protection for you, with payments of $65.96 a month for 36 months.

Some lenders will arrange a combination of an FHA loan with a bank loan, up to the limits on both. The FHA loan would be for the construction involved, while the bank loan would be for appliances, fixtures, etc. Of course, monthly payments here could be as high as $181 a month for a loan of $8,500 for a period of five years.

FHA also insures a loan, called 203 (k), for construction in an amount up to $10,000, at a maximum interest rate of 6 per cent. These loans are secured by a recorded lien against your property.

If you're in the market for this kind of money, it would be worth inquiring about. But such loans are not so easy to obtain in a tight money market.

If you have an open-end mortgage, you may borrow for improvements an amount up to what you have paid on the principal, or you can refinance your mortgage, or borrow against any other assets you may have.

Whatever you decide to do in the way of borrowing and improving, be sure you keep all records involved for possible future need. These papers are invaluable to a homeowner when selling the property, since they are your proof that work has been done.

Arts Center Is Topic of Discussion

The Pontiac Women's Club heard a discussion on the Creative Arts Center by Dr. H. A. Furlong at their Monday meeting in the YWCA.

Mrs. Florence May White, chairman of the creative arts program for the club introduced the speaker.

Dr. Furlong gave a brief talk on "Democracy" and then explained the program at the Creative Arts Center. He pointed out that it will be an "educational place, not a museum." Participants will do painting, ceramics and photography among other activities planned.

Guests were Mrs. George Gray and Mrs. Allen W. Palmer.

COMMITTEE
Mesdames: H. F. Simmons, Charles Allen, (Leroy Hecox, Earl Hoskins, Fred Kline, Percy Hunt and Alex Christie were on the committee for the day.

It was decided that Mrs. Lee Hill would represent the club at the annual convention of the Federation of Women's Clubs in Muskegon April 24 through 27.

Auxiliary Plans Annual Dance

The Woman's Auxiliary to the Oakland County Medical Society announces their annual spring dance at the Bloomfield Open Hunt on Saturday.

Excess salt in soups can be absorbed if a peeled potato is added and simmered briefly with the soups. Remove the potato before serving, if desired.

SEW SIMPLE By Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice Farmer:

What happens to the carefully shaped sleeve in a suit when it has been dry cleaned? Why should you have extra ease in the sleeve? I always thought the purpose of the gathering threads was to make the sleeve fit the armhole exactly. Mrs. M.M.B.

Dear Mrs. M.M.B.,

Sleeves possibly take more skill than any other part of your garment. I have learned so much about sleeves from professional tailors and try to teach my students the same methods with great success.

The two rows of stitching at the cap of the sleeves (with regular length stitch) help pull a little of the ease and make it easier to work in (for us nonprofessionals). You must be sure, however, before pinning the sleeve in, that the sleeve is almost 2 inches larger than the armhole.

As you pin from the inside of the sleeve, holding over your fingers in an outer curve, this extra ease will all work in nicely. If you pull the gathers up too tight, the sleeve won't fit.

As to the dry cleaners, they use a method of steam pressing that retains the original shaping and won't ruin it. I'm sure all of you would benefit greatly by my step by step instructions called "All About Sleeves." Send 10 cents and a long, self-addressed envelope to Eunice Farmer in care of The Pontiac Press.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Terri Amodeo, Bridgeton, Mo., is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her following suggestion.

I am 18 years old and knit and sew all of my clothes. To save time, I often pin my pattern to fabric, and my mother cuts it for me.

When I want to cut garment larger than the pattern, I place the pins across the cutting line at each end so she won't forget. She thinks the idea is worth passing along, since she would forget and cut on cutting line on her own patterns after measuring and allowing. (Mothers are like that.) This way she never forgets cause she can't cut through pins.

Dear Eunice Farmer,

I have made my spring outfit out of one of the new rayon suitings. It really turned out great after I "sweat blood and tears" over ravelling fabric and a few other near disasters, but alas, I can't seem to get the crease out of the center front of the dress and center back of the jacket. Please help. Mrs. J.T.

Dear Mrs. J. T.:

This letter came at an excellent time to remind all of you about the fold of the fabric.

This fold was never pressed in originally; it is the result of being folded on boards for fabric shops. It would be wise to always press this crease out BEFORE cutting the garment. This must be done carefully, so you don't stretch this part of your fabric.

If possible, try to refold fabric so that any section originally laid on the fold will not be placed on the original fold. This can only be done in fabric that is wide. In most cases, a steam iron on the wrong side will do the trick!

If Home Needs Repairs---Do Them Now

By MARY FEELEY

Waiting for money to get cheaper before you launch any home improvement project?

Well, it's apt to be a longer wait than you'd find worthwhile. If the floor's falling in or you need new plumbing, you might as well get the job now.

A majority of bankers in a recent survey pointed out that the kind of money needed for this type of project isn't going to get any cheaper—not anytime soon. Also, they agreed that amounts of money paid back in shorter periods of time are easier to get than the large loans which run over extended periods of time.

So you can ask for a reasonably small loan with real hopes of getting it.

Another factor in the homeowner's favor, if he wants to improve his property, is that many contractors are reported hungry for work. So you should be able to get good bids now. Some contractors may also arrange for you to borrow the money needed. However, it may prove more advantageous to do your borrowing through other sources for home improvement.

What are the sources available?

FHA Title I insured loans can be arranged at banks, savings and loan associations and credit unions. You don't have to have an FHA or GI mortgage in order to apply for an FHA home improvement loan.

These loans are only for construction improvement work. Such as, for instance, to enlarge your house, install new flooring or plumbing, improve driveways, for sewerage, pumps, landscaping. Restrictions on use of an FHA loan include building a swimming pool, a barbecue pit, TV antennas, fixtures, appliances. Apparently these are considered nice but not necessary.

LOANS LESS RESTRICTED

You can get a Title I loan for up to $3,500 with FHA insurance protection to the lender. The terms: a discount of $3 per $100 a year on any loan amount to $2,500. If over that amount, the discount rate on that part over $2,500 is $4 per $100 a year. This type of loan can be made for up to a period of 60 months.

Commercial banks offer loan arrangements for home improvements which aren't restricted as to what they include. You can borrow up to $3,000 with terms up to 60 months. The interest rate for these loans are the same as those quoted for personal loans—and a maximum interest rate of 6 per cent. These loans are secured by a recorded lien against your property.

A $2,000 property loan can be obtained at $5.25 per $100 a year, including insurance protection for you, with payments of $65.96 a month for 36 months.

Some lenders will arrange a combination of an FHA loan with a bank loan, up to the limits on both. The FHA loan would be for the construction involved, while the bank loan would be for appliances, fixtures, etc. Of course, monthly payments here could be as high as $181 a month for a loan of $9,500 for a period of five years.

FHA also insures a loan, for this kind of money, it would be worth inquiring about. But such loans are not so easy to obtain in a tight money market.

If you have an open-end mortgage, you may borrow for improvements an amount up to what you have paid on the principal, or you can refinance your mortgage, or borrow against any other assets you may have.

Whatever you decide to do in the way of borrowing and improving, be sure you keep all records involved for possible future need. These papers are invaluable to a homeowner when selling the property, since they are your proof that work has been done.

Arts Center Is Topic of Discussion

The Pontiac Women's Club heard a discussion on the Creative Arts Center by Dr. H. A. Furlong at their Monday meeting in the YWCA.

Mrs. Florence May White, chairman of the creative arts program for the club introduced the speaker.

Dr. Furlong gave a brief talk on "Democracy" and then explained the program at the Creative Arts Center. He pointed out that it will be an "educational place, not a museum." Participants will do painting, ceramics and photography among other activities planned.

Guests were Mrs. George Gray and Mrs. Allen W. Palmer. COMMITTEE

Mesdames: H. F. Simmons, Charles Allen, (Leroy) Hecox, Earl Hoskins, Fred Kline, Percy Hunt and Alex Christie were on the committee for the day.

It was decided that Mrs. Lee Hill would represent the club at the annual convention of the Federation of Women's Clubs in Muskegon April 24 through 27.

The Woman's Auxiliary to the Oakland County Medical Society announces their annual spring dance at the Bloomfield Open Hunt on Saturday.

Les Shaw and his orchestra will provide the music and a buffet will be served.

Mrs. Gilbert W. Hague is chairman of the event and Mrs. John R. Ylvisaker is co-chairman.

SHERBROOKE, Quebec (UPI) — A female witness in the local Court of Sessions informed the judge that there were not five men but six involved in the crime. Only five had been charged.

Asked if she saw the sixth person in the courtroom, the witness pointed him out. He admitted he had come to find out how his friends were making out. He was arrested, tried and sentenced, within minutes, to three years in prison.

ASHFORD, England (UPI) — Talk about Women changing their minds.

Carpenter Ted Knight, 47, was just about out of the harbor aboard the Italian liner Fairseat enroute to Australia as an emigrant when he decided he was making a mistake and told the captain. A harbor launch was near enough to be summoned and Knight was put aboard.

Back home with his wife, Gladys, and two daughters, he said, "I just couldn't bear the thought of not seeing my family for a long time."

Said Gladys: "It was good to get him back. We haven't been separated in 23 years."

Why Grow Old?

by JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Many women gain a few pounds during the winter months. First, there is Thanksgiving. Then comes Christmas. New Year's festivities put the finishing touch on the bulge!

Then, too, many women who are fairly active in sports or outdoor exercise in warmer weather, do little exercise during cold weather.

Then comes spring, with summer close behind. This is the third day of my Nine Day Reducing Diet which will give you a loss of from five to 10 pounds in nine days. Let me warn those of you who are following this diet that if you expect to lose this rapidly you cannot add a little of this and a little of that.

You must stick to it! This is easy to do because the time is so short. Actually, thousands of women have written me that they were never hungry while following the diet.

Be careful not to taste when you cook, or take extremely small and infrequent samples. Do not eat between meals. If you feel that you must have something, make it a glass of skim milk or tomato juice or fresh fruit.

If you use canned fruit, be sure that it is water-packed. Here are the menus for tomorrow, Thursday:

BREAKFAST

One poached egg on toast
Black coffee

LUNCHEON
One medium hamburger cake (cooked without butter and made of lean meat)
Celery sticks
One glass skimmed milk

DINNER
Small lean steak
One-half cup cauliflower
One baked potato (No butter. Medium sized potato has only about 90 calories)
One orange
One glass skimmed milk before bedtime

Each morning measure and put aside two teaspoons of butter or margarine to use as you wish in seasoning vegetables or on bread and egg.

If you would like to lose from five to 10 pounds in nine days and missed the preceding menus, you may want my complete "Nine Day Reducing Diet" in booklet form. If so, send 10 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it. Address to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Durable Press Laundry Hint

Rules to remember for durable press garments: launder often to prevent soil build-up, use a prewash or soak cycle if there is heavy soil, remove from the dryer promptly, and arrange on hangers to prevent wrinkles.

Wearing a three-season, three-piece costume, Ginette Couture, 23, of Montreal, is seen here at Canadian National's pavilion at Expo '67. Ginette will be one of six hostesses at the pavilion. Designed by John Warden of Montreal, the outfit is based on a jacketed dress which looks like a suit, together with a matching spring coat.

Paving Plans OK'd Over Protest of Pair

Vocal opposition from two north and residents failed to deter a City Commission paving proposal last night, but drew from District 5 Commissioner John A. Dugan a pledge to support additional paving demanded by the two citizens.

W. Leonard Cotter of 706 Second and Mrs.

Helen Smale of 716 Second both appeared at a public hearing on the city's intentions to construct curb, gutter and paving on Fuller between First and Second.

"I'm not opposed to paving this block," Mrs. Smale told commissioners, "as long as the city goes ahead and paves Fuller all the way through from Mansfield to Columbia."

"I certainly don't want to have our section of the street paved, and still have to face the dust blowing up from the gravel sections."

Leonard supported Mrs. Smale's objections, further contending that isolated paving of Fuller would make "a beautiful racetrack" for young drivers in the Pontiac Northern High School area.

"I'm not opposed to the paving assessment," Dugan replied, "but I have to admit I don't think it's good planning."

"I can't conscientiously support it unless we continue the paving to Mansfield."

A separate proposal for paving of Grayton from Crestwood to Asterwood received support of Dr. Roy V. Cooley of 224 Asterwood.

Public hearing was set for May 2 on a proposal to pave Baxter between Raeburn and Prospect.

Commissioners accepted an estimated cost of $4,960 for the project. Assessments on property owners for the paving construction will total approximately $2,792.

R20 Tract to Become Parking Lot

City commissioners last night supported a proposal to install city-operated paid parking on an urban renewal tract and expressed strong interest in converting a second parcel of land.

Scheduled for early conversion is a portion of the R20 project adjacent to Water Street at the south end of Perry.

A report from James L. Bates, director of planning and urban renewal, noted that the hard-surfaced portion of the lot would accommodate some 200 cars.

An undetermined number of motorists already use the lot free.

City use of the land will necessitate a lease agreement with the urban renewal authority, with a monthly rental cost of $100.

COSTS OF OPERATION

Bates estimated rental, maintenance and employment costs for the lot would total about $4,300 a year.

Based on an all-day parking fee of 25 cents, the report estimated, usage by 70 cars a day would meet the expense.

Bates termed the 70-car estimate "conservative" and predicted "substantial income" from the actual parking operation.

WOULD REQUIRE PAVING

City Manager Joseph A. Warren told commissioners the South Saginaw lot was also being used for free parking at present, but would require paving before conversion to an attendant-operated lot.

Commissioners asked for a study of paving costs and tentative lease proposal for that area within two weeks.

Approval was also granted by commissioners to applications from two local civic groups planning carnivals on urban renewal lands.

The Metropolitan Club plans a midway and circus in the South Saginaw-Pike vicinity from May 20-June 3. Chief Pontiac Post 377 of the American Legion has scheduled a carnival from July 6-9 near Auburn and East Wide Track.

OCC Board to Air Budget

A $5.6-million budget for Oakland Community College will be submitted to the public at the college's board of trustees meeting tomorrow.

OCC President John E. Tirrell is expected to recommend the adoption of the 1967-68 budget after the public hearing at 8 p.m. at the administration center, 2400 Opdyke, Bloomfield Hills.

Total general fund expenditures proposed for 1967-68 is nearly $11 million more than the current year, primarily due to the scheduled partial opening of the Orchard Ridge campus this fall.

Almost $10 million is requested for the completion of the Orchard Ridge campus in Farmington Township by January 1969.

McDonald Says No to Immediate Back Operation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Jack H. McDonald, 34, R-Mich., is resisting all recommendations for immediate surgery, despite the severe pain from which he suffers, his aides reported yesterday.

Physicians at Bethesda Naval Hospital are convinced that an operation is indicated procedure for McDonald's herniated intervertebral disc, they said.

But the freshman congressman from Redford Township so far has refused to submit to the surgery because this would require hospitalization for six to eight weeks, an aide said.

McDonald of the 19th District entered the hospital Monday and was put in traction, a treatment to continue for about a week.

Vietnam Farmer Knows Little of U.S. Soldiers

By TOM TIEDE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
GODAU HA, Vietnam (NEA) — The rice farmer squatted on his knees and squeezed the color from his hands. He was on the verge of weeping, but no tears came. Only his shoulders shuddered in sorrow.
His eyes were fixed on the nearby road.
U.S. trucks moved by in the dust.
The rice farmer frowned and he slowly shook his head.
The American vehicles were not new to him. He had seen them passing for months. Thrice a week they formed a six-mile long, 300-unit convoy that made a solid, olive drab string along the road.
ENDLESS TRUCKS

The convoy was from the 10th Transportation Group near Saigon but, of course, the farmer didn't know. He knew only that the endless caravan groped its way past his small paddy, each truck stocked with supplies for military commands near the Cambodian border.

Normally, the farmer paid little attention to the trucks. He had no time to waste in watching. Each of the 12-15 hours of his working day were spent moving his water buffalo over his acre of rice.

The children of the area, however, were not so inclined. They waited each morning and afternoon for the trucks. And when the vehicles groaned past, the kids ran from the fields, perched on the edge of the road and begged for gifts from the convoy soldiers.

"Chop, chop!"
The cry was for C rations.
"Cigarettes."
"Hello, hello."
"Chao ong, Joe."
"Hello, hello."

'BATTLE DRESS' — This outfit is just the thing for a date in Vietnam with members of the 4th Division, says model Brenda Muntz of California. The GIs invited her after seeing her in an advertisement. For the trip, Brenda rearranged battle fatigues into a minicostume, complete with boots.

New System Finds Venus Chemicals

WASHINGTON — The first evidence that the atmosphere of Venus contains trace amounts of hydrogen chloride and hydrogen fluoride has been garnered using a new technique in infrared astronomy.
The observations, made in France during June and July last year, also confirm that carbon dioxide is the major constituent of the Venusian atmosphere.

The trace amounts of the two gaseous hydrogen halides were found with the system known as MIFS, short for multiplex interferometric Fourier spectroscopy.

The technique showed that hydrogen chloride is present on Venus in less than one part per million, and hydrogen fluoride has a concentration of less than a few parts per billion.

Such concentrations suggest that the acids are weak solutions in clouds of water ice, or possibly clouds of some other composition, four scientists report in the current Astrophysical Journal (March).

Implications of these findings concerning the surface and the atmosphere below the clouds are now being studied, according to Dr. Pierre Combes of the National Center for Scientific Research, Bellevue, France, and his three co-workers.

The children formed miles and miles of outstretched arms. They cried for can openers, chewing gum, toilet paper, tin foil, ballpoint pens, cookies... anything and everything.

And often they got what they asked for. Ever since the convoys began the rice farmer had seen the soldiers toss out hundreds of items from the trucks, and he felt it was extravagant but generous.

That trait, though, was about all he knew of the Americans. He did not mix in politics or war and thus he knew the large-bodied U.S. representatives only by rumor and reputation.

He had heard, for instance, of awesome American guns and planes and of the swarms of Yankees who camped in secret bases throughout the country.
DANGER

He had heard the bases were dangerous and that only a few Vietnamese citizens were allowed to go near them.

Once in his hamlet, an American doctor arrived to treat the sick. He stayed for two days and did a wealth of good. That one seemed gentle and he smiled a lot.

But, other than that, the rice farmer knew nothing of the burned men in the convoys which passed his land. And he did not care to. He was much too busy with his work.

His was difficult, weary labor. Hours of planting and cultivating, and nearly all by himself. He had only the buffalo to help him.

Thank God for the buffalo. Aside from the land, the rice farmer's only possession. Old, strong and dependable, the water buffalo had for years been as much a companion as work as an implement.

The rice farmer looked at the buffalo.
Its great hulk lay sunk in the paddy. Its head was buried in the reeds. Half of its bloated body rose out of the mud like a small black hill. That part was stained red with two large bullet holes. The buffalo was dead.

Moments before one of the soldiers on the convoy had stood in the back of his truck and fired the shots. The animal jerked from the earth and then sank lifeless into the bog.

ENDLESS DUST
The farmer looked again at the convoy. It rolled on in the endless dust, the children still calling after each passing truck with their arms waving frantically.

He saw a bright package of cigarettes fly from a window. It landed in a pool of water, a few feet from the body of his buffalo.

The rice farmer closed his eyes and the children scrambled happily for the treasure.

Dodd Findings Due Soon; Sen. Dirksen Gets Into Act

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate ethics committee's report on Sen. Thomas J. Dodd is expected next week — at the same time unidentified friends are cranking up for Sen. Everett M. Dirksen a testimonial dinner of the same sort that helped generate the Dodd controversy.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the ethics committee, said Tuesday, "we've considered virtually all the major points" in drafting findings and recommendations on Dodd, whose financial affairs and other activities have been under scrutiny for about a year.

Stennis would not say if any conclusions had been reached. Other sources said this week the committee had tentatively decided to recommend censure, condemnation or both for the Connecticut Democrat, who denies wrongdoing.

Stennis said more writing and more staff work remain to be done, but that it looked as if the report would be ready next week.

"POLITICAL LIAISON"

In one new development, the Evening Star of Washington quoted Mrs. Beverly Curry of Hartford, Conn., as saying she was on Dodd's Senate payroll for more than five years while she stayed home performing "political liaison" work.

"My job was keeping the senator informed, particularly in women's circles," she was quoted as saying. "It was essentially political work. I can't think of anything improper about it." She said during much of the time she was employed by Dodd she was president of the Hartford Democratic Women's Club.

Senate records list her as a stenographer and later secretary to Dodd and that she drew $18,169 in federal pay checks from Nov. 25, 1959, to Jan. 10, 1965, said the Star.

NONTAXABLE GIFTS

Dirksen declined to predict how the Senate would act in the case. While he upheld Dodd's contention that spending of gift money is not taxable, Dirksen said he himself had never used campaign funds for personal matters. He said such funds thus used would be taxable as income.

Dodd has acknowledged that from mixed campaign and testimonial funds he paid liquor bills, bought football tickets and fixed his house.

Dirksen said he put testimonial money in a special campaign fund in three previous Senate races. He kept a careful record of his political expenses for such things as travel, phones, telegraph, stamps, circulars and advertising, he said.

Drive Cutting Dropout Rate in Job Corps

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anti-poverty officials apparently are succeeding in cutting the high — and costly — dropout rate of youngsters during their first 30 days in Job Corps urban centers.

One official said if high loss rates had continued, the federal government would waste $5.25 million during the next fiscal year at $657 per dropout.

During the first 30 days — when many youngsters are away from home for the first time — the dropout rate is at its highest.

The Office of Economic Opportunity, which runs the Job Corps, has reduced the dropout rate from 22 per cent at the nine men's urban centers during the six months ending Dec. 31 to somewhere near 14 per cent for the three months ending March 31.

1,237 DROPOUTS
The centers received 8,840 young men during January, February and March; 1,237 of them left during their first 30 days.

During the previous six months, 8,748 entered the centers and 1,847 left during the first month.

Chester R. Lane, associate director for Job Corps' men's centers, wrote all center directors Feb. 13 asking them to develop plans to lower the dropout rate.

"Corpsmen who leave Job Corps in the first days are a loss that works to our keen disadvantage — not to mention that these boys need our help," Lane wrote.

$5.25-MILLION WASTE
"In fiscal year 1968 at our present rate, 7,954 such young men would revolve through the Job Corps turnstile. Each would cost us an estimated $657 for a total 'waste' of $5.25 million," the letter continued.

He established a goal of a 9 per cent loss rate by June 30.

In response, directors attempted to strengthen their orientation program, a period when most youngsters have little to which their interests because of testing.

At many centers, more films were introduced into the program, a spokesman said. At others, older corpsmen assisted to give the newer youngsters benefits of their experience.

DROPOUTS ANONYMOUS
At the Gary center in San Marcos, Tex., a Dropouts Anonymous group of corpsmen, who either had dropped out for a day or two or were on the verge of leaving and were persuaded to stay.

When word gets around the Gary center that a boy is thinking of leaving, members of Dropouts Anonymous visit him and try to talk him into changing his plans.

In a letter last Friday, Lane said "The results are gratifying. (But) the May report will give us a much better picture of where we stand."

The centers which reduced their dropout rate the most were Atterbury in Edinburg, Ind. — 37 to 14 per cent — and Custer at Battle Creek, Mich. — 43 to 23 per cent.

Policeman, Youth Shot in Indianapolis Gun Battle

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — A policeman and a young man were shot and killed in a gun battle outside a crowded bus terminal in downtown Indianapolis.

Both Lt. Paul T. Pearsey, 31, and James Heywood of St. Paul, Minn., were wounded in the abdomen, in the back and in the buttocks.

Pearsey and Heywood were shot Tuesday as police were taking away a bus station for the gun out of Heywood's hand, questioning about a credit card.

The youths had bought tickets to Florida on the credit card. Jim Gagnac, manager of the Trailways Bus Lines terminal, said the card was reported stolen from a St. Paul man.

Police said Heywood's companion, Jeffrey Thompson, 17, broke away in the scuffle and started shooting at Pearsey.

A bullet shattered Pearsey's right hand, and another struck him in the chest and lodged near his right kidney. Pearsey, who is left-handed, drew his pistol and fired five times as he fell.

Heywood was wounded in the abdomen, in the back and in the buttocks.

"I remember seeing the boy's gun fly through the air," Pearsey said. "About that time I couldn't hold my gun any longer and I hoped someone would kick it (Heywood's gun) away so he couldn't get to it."

KICKED GUN AWAY
Alfred L. McNeely, 32, Huntington, W.Va., said he kicked the gun out of Heywood's hand. McNeely was treated for a toe injury.

"He was on his knees and appeared ready to shoot Pearsey again," McNeely said. "I ran over and kicked the gun out of his hand."

Heywood and Thompson were charged with assault and battery with intent to kill, violation of the 1935 Firearms Act, shooting with felonious intent, and violation of the Offenses Against Property Act.

Police said the youths carried keys that fitted a car with Minn license plates parked two blocks away.

What Quality Beef Does A&P Sell?

That's a fair question. But not an easy one to answer because we have our own quality standards, different from any other meat merchant.

These standards don't fit exactly the familiar terms you know for grades of meat. As an example, did you know that some beef, graded U. S. Choice, just doesn't meet our "Super-Right" specifications? It's true! You see... we don't buy by grade. We use our own high standards to bring you the best values!

That doesn't mean we don't approve of such grading—not at all. It just means we're very fussy about the beef we label "Super-Right." It stands to reason we have to be or A&P wouldn't be America's number one meat merchant.

If you haven't learned the true meaning of "Super-Right" Quality—try it. Let the taste be the test. After all, it doesn't matter what the label or grade is. It's the EAT in the MEAT that counts.

The EAT in the MEAT is unconditionally guaranteed in "Super-Right" Beef. Either you agree that the "Super-Right" Beef you buy is as flavorful, as tender as you think it should be or you get your money back.

Is it any wonder with a quality guarantee like that, that "Super-Right" Beef is the choice of thousands?

They're one of many!

'How Nude' Issue Still Plagues Valenti

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD — Said comedian Stan Freberg at a recent film industry banquet: "I sleep a little better through movies, knowing that Jack Valenti is my president."

When Jack Valenti followed on the speaker's platform, he commented, "Stan Freberg used to say he wanted to be a comedian in the worst way — and he succeeded."

The exchange brought laughter from the industry listeners, who have learned that Jack Valenti can give as well as take. Now approaching the end of his first year as president of the Motion Picture Producers Association, he has impressed the film crowd with his earnestness and industry.

Not that he has been totally successful in tidying up the diarray of the movie business. He still hasn't licked the horny problem of how frank — and nude — movies should be.

95 PER CENT RIGHT
"Here you are dealing with the fuzziest area of human endeavor," he said in a rare moment of relaxation. "We are doing the best we can, and I think that we have been right 95 per cent of the time."

Valenti came head-on to the issue early in his tenure of office when "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" was presented for a production code seal. Despite the fun-and-gamey dialogue, the film was approved, but with a "new designation" suggested for mature audiences.

Two of his recent problems have been Michaelangelo Antonioni's "Blow-Up" and Otto Preminger's "Hurry Sundown." The former was refused a seal and is being released by an MGM subsidiary — a common device when the major companies can't get seals for their films. "Hurry Sundown" was approved, but for "mature audiences." Pardon the editorial note, but it also happens to be the dirtiest movie this reviewer has ever seen.

TEEN-AGE NUDES
"I think we might have approved 'Blow-Up' if the scene in question hadn't been so long," said Valenti. "I don't mean the scene in which Vanessa Redgrave was nude; that wasn't so offensive. But we couldn't pass the scene in which the teen-age girls were completely nude."

"Some of my staff were against passing 'Hurry Sundown.' I myself finally made the decision to pass it, on the theory that the unsavory implications would pass over the heads of most of the audience."

Valenti admitted that he had experienced some disappointments during his first year. "But on the whole I am fairly pleased," he added. "We have started to make real progress on the points I mentioned in my first major speech last year."

MORE WORKABLE
He pointed to these accomplishments: 1. a new, more workable production code; 2. a survey of the movie audience; 3. a computer survey of distribution and marketing practices; 4. cooperation with the universities, including sponsorship of student film festivals; 5. a unified industry.

"For the first time, all the important producers are part of the association on this coast," he remarked. Among his future hopes are a film research council to promote more modern film-making methods and an educational campaign to inform the public about the code seal and the "mature audiences" tag.

The world suicide rate, excluding Communist China and the Soviet Union, is at least 1,000 persons a day, according to World Health Organization experts on the subject.

You can find evidence of NAPL's handiwork in the federal forms that have become a part of our daily lives.

If you don't have one handy, you need only consider the Coast Guard's specifications for "50.0x25.7 7 1/4x9" (body section), solid balsa wood fiberglas covered buoyant apparatus, 5-person capacity, DWG. No. 32761.

In Viet Air War

U.S. Pilots Mesh Boredom With Panic

ABOARD USS ENTERPRISE (AP) — The air war over North Vietnam is "hours of boredom and seconds of sheer panic," says one pilot. It brings out a rare mesh of the physical and mental in the naval pilot.

The high-performance A4 Skyhawks, F4 Phantoms, A6 Intruders and RA5 Vigilantes on the deck of the Enterprise compare with speeding bullets. Instruments tell the pilot where the plane is going. The aircraft responds to only the most carefully considered control.

Somehow, the pilot maintains a sense of order as he crouches into a rollover where the green of the ground and blue of the sky spin above his canopy.

In a dive, the trees may shoot up, or dash out the left side of the eye in favor of a river, a field, and another river — in 10 seconds.

G FORCES
Pulling out of a dive, G forces cram the pilot into his seat. Air-pressure suit keeps all his blood from settling into his boots.

In taking off the pilot is hurled down a catapult, from zero to 150 miles per hour in three seconds and 50 yards. Coming home he lands at 130 m.p.h., trying to catch a cable with a tail hook he cannot see. This goes on in fog, haze, sunshine, darkness, and when the tepid rain of the Tonkin Gulf sweeps over the deck.

Naval pilots live in two air-conditioned quarters. A picture of a girlfriend, or a wife and three children in a park somewhere, is on the wall. There are tape recorders, a small ice box with fresh cheese. A brisk shower and good food are just a few steps down the passageway.

The pilot stays home one day, flies three missions the next. Every time he is committed to a target there are flak, streams of red tracers searching for him like water out of a hose, and surface to air missiles that seem like Roman candles.

Around North Vietnamese railroad yards, power plants and bridges are dug-in SAMs and 77, 57, 85, and 100mm "barrels" or flak guns, manned 24 hours, warned by radar and flushed out with thousands of hand-held machine guns and rifles.

"These people are not defenseless," says a veteran of 52 missions. "I swear everyone of them are armed."

The inventiveness, savvy and training of the pilot, coupled with bales of computerized intelligence, and defensive equipment, make repeated attacks possible.

The three Navy carriers in the Tonkin Gulf exact swift retribution. Bombs, rockets, aircraft and pilot can be mated quickly to respond to fresh intelligence.

20 MINUTES AWAY
The coast is 20 minutes away. The Air Force must come farther, from Thailand. One day the Enterprise alone launched more strikes than the entire Air Force. At the beginning of the war Navy pilots flew 80 per cent of the sorties. Now they average slightly more than 50 per cent.

Before a strike the pilot is briefed in air intelligence, returns to his ready room where he sips coffee, and talks to squadron mates who will be on the same raid.

In his flight suit the pilot angles onto the flight deck, chats with other pilots, maybe takes a picture. Every pilot seems to have a bagful of pictures of planes. They all look alike, but he stares at each one with reverence.

Often a pilot may take out his maps and explain to deck crews and ordnance men where he goes. This gives a sense of participation to the grueling day of deck sailors.

The pilot is now familiar with North Vietnam. Most pilots on the Enterprise have from 50 to 150 missions. There are "Happy Valley" and its flak guns near the Mu Gia Pass, the "Cigar," an island, and "The Hour Glass," where two rivers bend toward each other and away again.

PIN-WORMS A FAMILY AFFAIR

Picking, nose-picking, a tormenting ritual each are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms, ugly parasites that medical experts say infect 1 out of every 8 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it. To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W Tablets do... and here's how they do it: First, a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then — Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work — kills Pin-Worms quickly, easily. Ask your pharmacist. Nader Nomination Shakes Townsend

Mother, Child Die in Blaze

Early UAW President Is Dead

DETROIT (AP)—Lynn Townsend and Co. challenged up 38 million-to-one victory over auto critic Ralph Nader Tuesday in the only unusual development at Chrysler Corp.'s annual stockholders meeting.

Nader, frequent critic of the auto industry on safety matters, was nominated in absentia for a place on Chrysler's 23-man board of directors.

Townsend, presiding at his first meeting as Chrysler board chairman, appeared taken a bit off stride when stockholder Edward Calvert of Willowick, Ohio, nominated Nader from the floor.

Townsend first said that there was no second to the nomination, but aides pointed out to him that under the rules of the meeting no second was required.

GOT ONE VOTE

The nomination stood and when the ballots were counted, Townsend and his 22-fellow directors were reelected with 38,456,218 votes each. Nader got one share.

The 90-minute meeting of 400 of Chrysler's 180,000 stockholders went off like clockwork, except for the Nader incident.

Townsend and the firm's new president, Virgil A. Boyd, reported auto sales were down about 17 per cent in the opening three months of this year in comparison with figures of the first quarter of 1966.

Both men pointed to the firm's strong sales report for April 1-10 as an indicator that the dip in auto sales may have been halted.

PARTLY RESPONSIBLE

Townsend told stockholders that decisions made in Washington were partly responsible for the slower pace of auto sales after April 1966.

He pointed to federal automobile safety standards, tighter control of credit and other steps taken by the government to slow the nation's economy.

"Over the past two years, as the result of massive publicity generated by the auto safety controversy, the impression has been created in many minds that sometime in the near future it might be possible for the automobile industry to create a complete accident- and injury-proof car," Townsend said. He said such was not the case.

Liberia, which has high grade iron ore deposits, shipped about 17.1 million tons last year valued at $116.2 million.

DETROIT (AP)—A mother and her daughter were killed today in what was described by police as a "blazing inferno" which gutted their home in Northwest Detroit.

The victims, Mrs. Kay Kumer, 20, and her daughter Kayleen, 2, were dead on arrival at Mount Carmel Mercy Hospital. The father, Thomas Kumer, was admitted to the hospital for cuts on his arms, legs and feet.

MUSKOGON (AP)—One of the most colorful and robust American labor figures of the 20th Century will be buried Friday in Muskegon.

He was R. J. (Rolland Jay) Thomas, president of the United Auto Workers Union through its stormiest years, a vice president of the old Congress of Industrial Organizations, a member of the World War II Labor Board and an assistant on the staff of AFL-CIO President George Meany.

The tobacco-chewing and unpretentious Thomas, whose booming voice matched his 240-pound, barrel-chested frame, died of a stroke Monday. He had lived in Muskegon since retirement in 1963, following a previous stroke.

Funeral services will be conducted at a Muskegon funeral home at 10:30 a.m. Friday. Burial will be in Lakeside Cemetery.

He was president of the UAW from 1939 to 1946, when he was beaten by Walter P. Reuther, the unions' current chief. And once there was speculation he would succeed Philip Murray as leader of the CIO.

Senate OKs Farm Worker Benefits Bill

Rocky Signs Law to Okay NY Lottery

Road Safety Cost Cited

LANSING (AP) — Senate Republicans, joined by one Democrat, Tuesday passed a bill which would allow Michigan farm workers to be phased in under the State Workmen's compensation law.

The bill, which passed 21-12, would entitle farm workers to compensation on a sliding scale for the first four years, beginning next May 1.

Workers injured on the job would be eligible for one-third of the full benefits the first year, one-half the second year, two-thirds the third year and full benefits the fourth year and thereafter.

The Senate calendar called only for debate of the bill Tuesday, but the Republicans voted to suspend the rules requiring a bill lay-over for a day after debate and passed the measure.

The 20 Senate Republicans were joined by Sen. Charles Youngblood, D-Detroit. The "no" votes were all cast by Democrats.

FARMERS' COMPLAINTS

The bill changes the Workmen's Compensation Act, passed in 1965, under which farm laborers would have become eligible for full benefits on May 1.

Farmers had objected that the law would have required them to provide benefits without taking into account the conditions of employment and work on farms, the shifts in agricultural labor and agriculture's financial problems.

The 1965 law would have taken effect for farm workers on last May 1. However, it was delayed for one year after farmers complained of excessive insurance premium costs.

"This bill is an important one for the farmer and for the farm worker," said the bill's sponsor, Sen. Charles Zoller, R-Benton Harbor. "It provides protection for the workers and at the same time gives the farmer a chance to participate on a gradual basis."

The Republicans criticized Democrats, who held majorities in the past two legislatures, for failing to act on the farm labor question earlier.

Soo Exec Dies

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP) — Mayor Pro Tem Merle King died Tuesday of an apparent heart attack. He was 57. King was elected to the council in 1965 and was named Monday as mayor pro tem. He was chief lockmaster at the Soo Locks.

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — America's projected highway safety program may cost $4 billion a year over the next 10 years and must involve all citizens to succeed, a University of Michigan researcher said today.

Dr. Robert L. Hess, director of U-M's Highway Safety Research Institute, compared the undertaking to the national goal of putting a man on the Moon.

Speaking of the safety program's cost, Hess told some 300 scientists attending a university symposium on preventing highway injury that the public must be "kept informed of the program costs by high level public leaders or the necessary support will not materialize."

Over the next 10 years, Hess said, "it is conceivable that the cost would be over $4 billion per year to produce a renewed system of drivers, vehicles and roadways of the safety dimensions required."

Hess said both the safety program and the lunar exploration program have broad public support and required federal leadership.

In small mixing bowl whip together cottage cheese, whipping cream, sugar, vanilla and salt until thick; blend in orange juice concentrate. Fold in pineapple.

Pour into pie crust. Freeze. Remove from freezer to refrigerator 2 hours before serving to thaw.

For a Colorful Pie

Add color and flavor to apple pie. The next time you bake an apple pie, try sprinkling some dry red gelatin through the apples. This adds a beautiful red color and additional flavor. It also thickens the syrup to the right consistency.

It's Inexpensive

To make your own pancake syrup, simmer two cups of dark brown sugar and one cup of water until slightly thickened. Add maple flavoring to taste. Store in refrigerator.

Beef Sauce Enough for Two Meals

One or two batches of this "Rush Day Freezer Mix" stashed away in your freezer will give you a nice sense of security. They may seem like when you're running late, when unexpected guests arrive or when you are too tired to cope with preparing a full meal.

Two entrees in family-size amounts are suggested here — "Hamburger Goulash" and "Quick Skillet Rice" — made from the basic mixture after it's thawed. Other recipe ideas will come to mind as you use this mix.

The mixture takes only minutes to prepare. Ground beef, onions, celery, garlic and canned tomato sauce with mushrooms are the predominant and easy, no-fuss ingredients.

Canned tomato sauce with mushrooms is prized for the gourmet flavor and texture it adds. Also, for the bouquet of seasonings and rich color it gives.

A menu that will be good with both of these from-the-freezer entrees is a tossed green salad with oil and vinegar dressing. French bread, fresh fruit and cake squares.

- RUSH DAY FREEZER MIX
- 2 lb. ground beef
 - 2 medium onions, chopped
 - 1 cup chopped celery
 - 2 cloves garlic, minced

Combine butter and seasonings. Pour over fish. Broil about 4 inches from source of heat for 10 to 15 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Baste once during broiling with butter in pan.

While fish is broiling, cook asparagus according to directions on package. Place fish on a warm serving platter. Arrange asparagus spears on fish.

Top each serving with Cheese Hollandaise Sauce. Sprinkle with paprika. Makes 6 servings.

- Cheese Hollandaise Sauce
- 1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
 - 2 eggs
 - 2 1/2 tablespoons lemon juice
 - Dash salt
- Cream the cheese until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Stir in lemon juice and salt.

- 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 - 4 (8 oz.) cans tomato sauce with mushrooms
- Cook ground beef lightly. Add onions, garlic and celery; cook until soft. Remove excess fat. Add remaining ingredients and simmer 20 minutes. Cook quickly and freeze in two portions.

On a busy day, use the hamburger freezer mix for the following dishes:

- Hamburger Goulash
- To the thawed hamburger mix,

RUSH DAY FREEZER MIX — This makes two meals — "Hamburger Goulash" and "Quick Skillet Rice." Or, freeze in snack-meal portions. Flavor-maker for this frozen ground beef mixture is convenient canned tomato sauce with mushrooms.

Plentiful Foods Star in Recipes

When you want to save money on clothes, you buy them at the end of the season, or out of season.

When you want to save money on food, you buy it in season and when it is in plentiful supply.

Each month the U. S. Department of Agriculture puts out a list of plentiful foods for that month. Chances are good that you will find the best bargains on that list.

For April which still has another 10 days to run, the list is headed by eggs. Other plentiful foods are oranges and orange juice, peanuts and peanut products, beef, frozen fish and grapefruit.

You'll find some new recipes for many of these foods on this page. Have fun with economical cooking.

Chance Find

The earliest chocolate candy bars were made in 1828 by a manufacturer looking for ways to make a better chocolate beverage, says the Chocolate Information Council, a trade organization. He found that extra cocoa butter added to cocoa powder and sugar, then cooled, resulted in a delicious solid confection.

ORANGE WALNUT BREAD

2 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour

ENCORE HALIBUT — Frozen halibut or other fish steaks are delicious when broiled and served with asparagus and a cheese Hollandaise sauce. You will find a variety of frozen fish at all times of the year in your favorite supermarket.

 - Pepper, freshly ground
 - 6 slices bacon
 - 1 cup chicken liver pate

 - Thaw patty shells several hours ahead.

Place beef on rack in shallow pan and rub with brandy, salt, pepper. Lay bacon slices over beef. Roast in preheated 325 degrees over about 10 minutes per pound for rare, 20 minutes for medium.

Use meat thermometer, if possible. Remove from oven and cool.

Chopped Eggs Part of Sauce

Spicy egg sauce for vegetables has a salad dressing base.

Mix 1 tablespoon of powdered mustard with 1 1/2 teaspoons of warm water. Let stand 10 minutes to develop flavor. Chop 2 hard cooked eggs finely.

Add 1/2 cup of salad oil, 2 tablespoons of cider vinegar, 1/2 teaspoon of onion salt and 1-16 teaspoon of garlic powder. Add mustard and mix well. Makes 1/2 cup.

Fried Eggs and Onions Served on Rye Bread

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Well, of all things! We've discovered a new way of serving fried eggs.

According to the donors of this recipe, this way stems from the Bavarian cuisine. We wouldn't know. But we are sure that the dish is perfectly delicious.

It's a combination of the fried eggs, sauteed onions and rye bread toasted in butter.

Our tasters were all for this way of offering eggs — and so are we.

What to serve with this dish? That depends on whether the Bavarian Eggs are to be on a lunch or supper menu.

At lunch, a salad is enough.

BAVARIAN EGGS

- 1 stick (1/2 cup) plus 2 pats (2 tablespoons) butter
- 6 slices rye bread (oval shape, about 5 by 3 inches)
- 1 cup finely chopped onion
- 6 eggs
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper

Mark the stick of butter into 8 equal pats and set aside with the other 2 butter pats near the range, ready for use.

In a 10-inch skillet over moderate heat, melt 3 butter pats. Add 3 bread slices; turn at once and brown; turn again and brown.

Repeat process with 3 more butter pats and remaining 3 bread slices. As you brown the bread, place in a single layer on a hot heat-proof platter and keep warm in a very low oven.

In the skillet over low heat, melt 2 more butter pats; add the onion; cook, stirring often until transparent.

Place equal portions of onion over bread slices.

In the skillet over low heat, melt 1 more butter pat; add 3 eggs; sprinkle with half the salt and pepper. Cover skillet and cook until whites are opaque and yolks still soft — about 5 minutes.

Place an egg on top of the onion on 3 of the bread slices. Repeat process with last butter pat and 3 more eggs. Serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

Junior Editors Quiz on COWBIRD

1. What is the name of the bird shown in the picture?
2. What is the name of the bird's nest?
3. What is the name of the bird's eggs?

OUR MEANEST BIRD IN ACTION

COWS AND COWBIRDS GET ALONG

QUESTION: Why does the cowbird have that name?

ANSWER: Most bird students would like to add another name as well: America's Meanest Bird in Feathers. Most bird mothers—and often the fathers as well—have a strong sense of responsibility toward their young; they work hard feeding the nestlings and expect other birds to do the same.

But the sneaky cowbird seems to want to leave all the work to the other fellow, especially the smaller defenseless bird mothers, most of whom have no way of striking back.

The big cowbird mother, when the nesting season has come, watches to find the nest of some bird smaller than herself. When the little mother has left for a moment, the cowbird sneaks in (1) and it quickly lays a single egg alongside the smaller ones already there (2). The cowbird then forgets the whole thing.

The poor little mother sits on her nest, and the big cowbird egg hatches first.

The mother does her best to feed all the youngsters, but the cowbird is bigger and grabs all the food (3)—the other young birds starve. This parasitic bird gets its name because it frequently accompanies pasturing cows, grabbing insects stirred up by their feet.

School Fund Report Slated in Waterford

The Waterford Township Board of Education will consider a series of recommendations tomorrow night from a report devised by a citizens' school finance study committee.

The committee approved the report for presentation to the school board at a meeting last night at Pierce Junior High School.

Small Town Plans to Host Open House

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Anybody who ever heard of Redgranite, Wis., pop. 588, is now formally invited back. Just get over to the town pump July 28.

Redgranite isn't old enough to have a centennial celebration, doesn't operate the quarries that gave it its name anymore, but just feels like saying hello to the people who've known it, zipped through in cars or even figured out how to get around it on the map.

2 Posts at Stake 4-Year Terms

Only two of the three board of education positions at stake in the Waterford Township School District's June 12 election are for four-year terms, school officials said today.

The other post, now held by Michael Patterson, is for a three-year term. Patterson was appointed to fill the vacancy created when Norman L. Cheal resigned from the board in January.

Reelected in last June's election, Cheal was slated to remain in office until June 1970.

The school board terms of Mrs. Dorothy B. Barningham and Donald W. Porter also will expire in June. Porter already has announced his candidacy for reelection.

8 Reds Expelled From West in Last 6 Months

LONDON (AP)—Eight men, acts against the security of the state, from Communist countries have been ordered out of Western Europe in the past six months for spying.

In the same period one West European—a Belgian airline official—was expelled from the Soviet Union.

The first expulsions were announced in Rome and Athens Nov. 3.

The Italian Foreign Ministry ordered Kir Lermzenko, an employee of a Soviet trade delegation, to leave the country for "certain data" from an unnamed Greek citizen near the Greek military command's headquarters.

On Feb. 3, an incident at a roadside eating place prompted Belgian authorities to expel Vladimir Cheretoun, second in command of the Aeroflot office in Brussels.

The Soviet government retaliated in March, expelling M. Thoiné, the Moscow manager of Belgium's Sabena Airline. He was accused of "hostile conduct" toward the Soviet Union.

In Turin, three Italians were charged March 22 with spying on NATO military installations in Italy and Spain for the Soviet Union.

Immediately thereafter, Yuri Pavlenko, an attaché at the Soviet Embassy in Rome, was ordered out of the country. He was said to have received information through a complicated system of secret post office addresses.

On March 27, the spotlight switched again to Athens, where Albert Zaharov, second secretary at the Soviet Embassy, and Igor Ochurkov, member of a Soviet trade mission, were declared persona non grata.

On April 12, Amsterdam was the scene of confusion when Dutch security agents seized Vladimir A. Glukhov, chief of Dutch operations of Aeroflot. Prosecutor General B.J. Beiser said, "There is reasonable suspicion of guilt in an effort to deliver state secrets to a foreign country."

activities totally alien to his profession of journalist and has endangered the security of the state." There were no details. A spokesman for the ministry said he will be expelled today.

Deep Fried Potatoes Done Four Ways

Sharing the staff-of-life spotlight with bread, the potato is probably one of our most popular staple foods. Its mild, delicate flavor makes it the perfect companion for all varieties of meats and the ways of preparing the potato are endless.

Of these endless ways, you have probably found deep fried or French fried potatoes are the favorite. Their crisp texture and delicious flavor make them fun to eat and lend variety to dinner and snack-time menus.

You may whip up a batch of French fries fairly frequently, but have you ever languished on homemade potato chips (Saratoga chips), shoestring potatoes (matchstick) or surrounded a roast

One of the most important steps in deep frying is, naturally, the frying.

Fry 1/4 at a time in shortening for 8 to 10 minutes, or until golden brown. Drain on paper towels. Sprinkle with salt. Keep in warm oven until all potatoes are fried. Makes 6 servings.

DEEP FRIED POTATOES — Crisp and delicious in all its forms, the deep fried potatoes is a welcome addition to any meal or snack. In the picture you'll find French fries, Saratoga chips, shoestring potatoes and whole browned potatoes.

Chili Corn Is a Zesty Snack That Hints of Mexican Ways

Prove what a fine "amigo" (friend) you are to your guests by saying "Bienvenidos" (welcome) to them with bowls of this crispy Chili Popcorn next time they come visiting.

This is a popcorn treat that you really can't stop nibbling once you start! It's zesty and flavorful, spiced to give it a true south-of-the-border taste.

The popcorn is seasoned with just a hint of red chilies and garlic salt, making it a tasty but not overpowering snack. Peanuts are tossed in with the popcorn, too, so that the finished dish is a combination of everyone's favorite munching foods.

And, in addition, it includes squash seeds, a favorite South American snack treat. Sunflower seeds could be substituted for these if desired.

Chili Corn makes a fine snack for fireside picnics or

Super Snack Is Broiled Tuna Tidbit

When economical party snacks are the big question, tuna's a good answer! Versatile canned tuna blends so well with a variety of other foods, you can serve it often for family main dishes and party food, too.

Here's a really super snack at big parties—Tuna Sizzlers. The mixture is a cinch to make, it spreads easily and tastes so good on miniature pumpernickle or rye bread party loaves.

The surprise ingredient, beaten egg whites, gives the little sandwiches a puffy, light appearance; the garnish of grated cheese adds zesty flavor.

You can make this mixture ahead of time, then just before serving, slide the little sandwiches under the broiler until they sizzle.

TUNA SIZZLERS

2 egg whites
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 can (6 1/2 or 7 ounces) tuna in vegetable oil, drained and flaked
1/2 cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons finely chopped celery
Bread crumbs
Grated Parmesan cheese

Beat egg whites with salt until stiff, but not dry. Fold in tuna, mayonnaise and celery. Spread tuna mixture on bread rounds; sprinkle with Parmesan cheese.

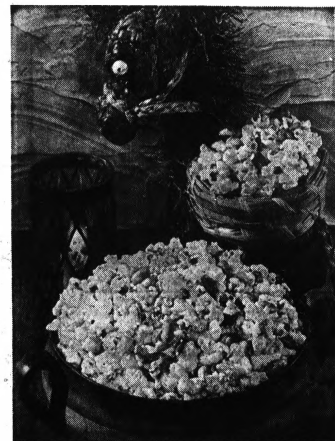

Broil 6 inches from heat 2 to 3 minutes, or until mixture is bubbly. Watch carefully. Yield: Approximately 3 dozen.

It's perfect for a quick, yet unusual way to top off a packaged cake mix.

Quick Crunchy Frosting
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
1/2 cup chopped dried figs
1 (8-ounce) can crushed pineapple, drained

Melt butter; stir in remaining ingredients. Spread on freshly baked spice or yellow cake. (Enough for 13x9-inch cake.) Broil several minutes or until frosting is bubbly. Serve warm or cold.

CHILI CORN — Here is popcorn with a difference. Nothing sweet or mild about a snack food that is made with dried red chilies and garlic salt. It's a south-of-the-border treat you'll enjoy.

Vietcong Use Terrorism as Major Weapon

SAIGON (AP) — A young Vietnamese leans his bicycle against a telephone pole near a tennis court in Saigon where several American servicemen are playing. He walks away and an explosive inside the bicycle detonates, injuring a U.S. officer and two Vietnamese children.

The Vietcong shell a polling place in a primary school at Long Thoi hamlet. They abduct 12 village council candidates from Vinh Tho village.

The Vietcong overrun a village of Montagnard tribesmen, shoot the village leaders, and burn the breasts of the village chief's wife and daughter with flaming sticks.

Terrorists in a village north-east of Saigon tie three teenage girl members of a government pacification team to stakes before shooting them in the back of the head.

PROPAGANDA

The Vietcong stop a three-wheeled motorbicycle bus in Tan Thach village. The driver is taken to a garden and forced to hear Vietcong propaganda, then is released unharmed.

All these are examples of the terrorism which is a major part of the Communist war to take over South Vietnam. U.S. officials report a slight increase in such Red activity in the past few months, with much of it designed to intimidate voters in the village and hamlet elections now being held every weekend.

Six candidates have been killed and 30 have been kidnapped. Since March 12, authorities have reported 333 terrorist incidents related to the balloting.

Terrorists murdered 56 persons in the first week of April, a rate well above their average of 100 killings a month over the past 18 months. In that week, 151 persons were wounded and 95 were kidnapped by terrorists.

ANNUAL AVERAGE

According to South Vietnamese government records, the Vietcong have carried out an average of 22,000 terrorist acts a year during the past several years. The attacks take many forms and reach all segments of the Vietnamese civilian population. Favorite targets are Vietnamese and American military personnel off duty.

Terrorism serves several purposes in the Vietcong's campaign to subvert the Saigon government and weaken its ability to resist Vietcong military attacks.

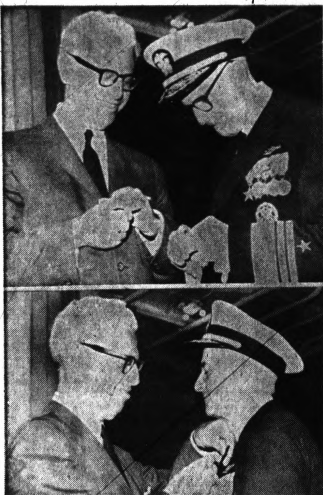

Terrorists attempt to destroy effective village leadership by killing, maiming or frightening off local officials and government representatives.

They send armed propaganda teams into villages to demonstrate that villagers cannot depend on the government for protection. Sometimes the head of a murdered official is displayed on a pole as a warning.

Court approval has been given a film contract between 15-year-old Romina Power, daughter of actress Linda Christian and the late Tyrone Power, and Paramount Pictures.

Under terms of the pact, Superior Court in Los Angeles was told yesterday, the dark-haired teen-ager will receive $7,500 for a week's work as "Snow White" in the movie, "The President's Analyst."

Miss Power, who wore a shocking-pink mini-dress to court, could make four additional pictures for the studio over a six-year period if all options are exercised.

Cousin Minnie Bruised in Plane Mishap

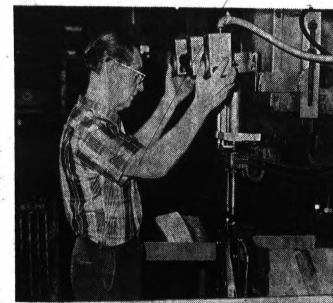

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—After 20 years of flying, Cousin Minnie Pearl says she and her husband, Henry Cannon, have an experience to tell their friends about.

The country comedienne and Cannon walked away from their single-engine plane after it developed engine trouble and crash-landed in a field near her yesterday.

Cousin Minnie spent the night in a hospital after complaining of a soreness in the abdomen. Cannon said he was not hurt.

We both came out of it wonderfully," she said. "It's all due to Henry's skill. Naturally, when we landed it gave us a little jolt. It wasn't exactly a runway."

The Grand Ole Opry performer said she suffered a few bruises when the landing impact threw her against her seat belt.

Edgar Linden Honored For 45 Years

45 Years at GM

Employee Recalls Milestones

As the General Motors Corp. hourly employee with the longest service in Pontiac, Edgar Linden can look back to nearly 45 years of building automobiles.

He can recall several previous GM milestones as production of the 100-millionth GM vehicle approaches this Friday.

Linden's career with GM began on Oct. 16, 1922, almost four years before the Pontiac car was introduced. In fact, Linden remembers testing the engine that was installed in the first Pontiac.

Recalling the early days of automobile assembly, Linden said, "When I started, there were no conveyors on the assembly lines. When you finished your operation you pushed the car on to the next man."

In addition to his record service with Pontiac Motor Division, Linden is also recognized as one of the leading participants in the payroll savings plan for U.S. Savings Bonds.

NEVER CASHED
He signed up for the program.

in 1948. He has since increased his deductions and has never cashed a bond.

Born near London, England, Linden came to Pontiac to be raised by an aunt and uncle. Upon graduation from a high school he joined the Oakland Motor Car Co. in the Maintenance department.

Currently, he is a utility man in Pontiac Motor's pressed metal plant. During his career he has worked in many phases of assembly and stamping operations.

Linden, who lives with his wife at 387 Elizabeth Lake, plans to retire "sometime this summer." About his retirement plans, Linden explained, "I have a married daughter living in Seattle, and I'm going to buy a new Pontiac and drive out there and visit her."

Linden, along with 70 other employees across the nation, will take part when GM celebrates production of its 100-millionth vehicle.

Waterford Blanked, 8-0

Catcher Ted Simmons picked up three hits and knocked in three runs yesterday in leading Southfield to an 8-0 victory over Waterford.

Among Simmons' hits were a home run and a bases-loaded single. Kirk Hamilton pitched two of Waterford's (2-3) four hits.

In a Wayne-Oakland League outing, Chris Mortimore tossed nine batters as Milford downed Brighton (4-1). Jim Kaspar came through with a run-producing single in the first and added a triple in the fifth to pace the Milford (1-0) attack.

Rochester moved into first place in the Oakland A League race by nipping Warren Cousino in 12 innings, 1-0.

The win raised Rochester's record in league play to 3-0. Cousino is 1-2.

Officials were ready to call the game because of darkness after the 12th inning, so the Falcons put on a rally and won it. Randy Hines, who pitched the first six innings, started the rally with a double. He moved to third on a sacrifice and scored on a single by Bob Boice.

Clawson pushed across nine runs in the first two innings and rolled to a 9-5 decision.

Favorites Face Rugged Tests in Gals' Golf

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—Double trouble loomed for favorites today with two rounds scheduled in the Women's North and South Amateur Golf Tournament.

Their ranks were intact after Tuesday's first round, although medalist Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streif of Willowdale, Ontario, Canada, almost was the victim of an upset.

The former North and South and U.S. champion persevered despite five-over-par golf to take the lead for the first time on the 17th hole and sneak out with a 1-up victory over Mrs. David Chaffee of Rumford, R.I. Today Mrs. Streif had a second-round test against Connie Day of Cleveland, Tenn., one of the top contenders.

Defending champion Mrs. Nancy Roth Syms of Hollywood, Fla., one of four Curtis Cup players among the 16 survivors, met another Floridian, Rhonda Glenn of Lake Worth.

Miss Glenn trimmed Mrs. Maxine Palmer of Thomsville, N.C., 8 and 7 in the most one-sided first-round match.

Mrs. Syms shot par golf after losing two of the first four holes in a 5 and 3 victory over Mary Wise of Chicago.

innings, came up with four in the seventh to down Fitzgerald. Jerry Morrow knocked in two of the runs with a single and Don Guidi singled home the winning run. The contest left both teams with 2-1 league marks.

LEAD ATTACK

Bob McDonald, Paul Rajala and Larry Niedowicz collected two hits apiece to lead the Clawson (1-3) attack, and Niedowicz, who went the distance on the mound, also knocked in three runs. Bob Thompson rapped out three safeties for Troy.

In a pair of parochial games, Royal Oak St. Mary came up with three runs in the eighth inning for a 5-2 win over Orchard Lake St. Mary, and Detroit Cathedral rolled past Birmingham Brother Rice, 5-4.

Orchard Lake St. Mary rallied for two runs in the last of the seventh to tie the ROSM, 3-2, but a couple of walks off Tim Meggie followed by Eric Greybecker's double broke up the game in the eighth.

Dennis Cherry picked up two doubles and a single in a losing effort for OLSM (0-2), while teammate Van Meuhfeld delivered the double in the seventh that chased home the tying runs.

Dennis Popa went three-for-three and knocked in a run in Cathedral's win over Brother Rice. Mike Bowen picked up two hits and drove in a pair of runs for the losers and teammate Dave Fournier, a soph-

Flows Away During Storm

Here yesterday. Gone today. That's the story of a 40-acre lake in southern Lapeer County. Unnamed, the impoundment was located on Jasmund Road, between Fox Lake and Hegel Roads, in the Orionville recreation area.

Mother Nature dumped up to four inches of rain on northern Oakland and southern Lapeer counties early Monday morning.

The 16-foot dike holding back the lake washed out when the water level raised and started flowing over the top of the earthen dam.

Quick work by the conservation department field men and work crews saved Crystal Lake in the Holly recreation area from a similar fate.

Streams in the northern half of the county burst out of their banks, creating temporary lakes in adjacent lowlands. The Brandon high school athletic field was partially flooded by overflowing Duck Creek.

Lake levels quickly moved upward and in several cases the waters stopped just short of main roads. A couple of secondary roads were flooded by high lake waters.

The windmill, a landmark in the center of Stewart Lake in Groveland Township, had waves lapping at its base. The island resting place of the windmill was flooded by raising waters heeded by swollen Thread Creek which flows through the lake.

Several of the flooding streams are designated trout waters.

Steve Swan, district fish biologist, said that "although the stream habitat will be changed, the trout should survive."

"The big damage will be filling by silt dropped by the flood waters. Homes will change and habitat such as logs, tree roots and other hiding places will be washed elsewhere."

"Some gravel bars, covered by silt, might be washed clean

Smelt Runs Under Way Along Lake Huron Shore

Heavy smelt runs developed Monday night along the Lake Huron shoreline between Point Lookout and the Singing Bridge and are expected to continue for the next four or five days.

Conservation Department officials said yesterday that afternoon dippers were taking three to four at a scoop.

Heavy runs are under way at Pte. Pelee and smelt dipping continued good at Port Huron during the weekend. Addition runs have started along the Sanilac County shoreline and near Port Hope and Ocean Creek in Huron County.

On the panfish front, good catches of perch are being taken on Lower Trout Lake in Bald Mountain recreation area, along the Middle Rouge River, at Belleville Lake and at Saginaw Bay.

The spring run has started at Fish Point Austin at the Bay. Bluegills have been hitting on Wildwood and Valley Lakes in the Holly recreation.

Good catches of carp, suckers and other rough fish are being made on the Clinton River near Rochester, the St. Clair Flats and Salt Creek.

SCOUT PROJECTS

Wildlife habitat work and recreation received a boost last weekend at the Pontiac Lakes recreation area.

Saturday, 17 girl scouts from Douglas Houghton School Troop 627 under the leadership of Mrs. James McCutcheon and Mrs. Max Phillips planted over 1,000 multi-flora rose seedlings.

Ruhl Retiring May 1

Game Chief Weathered Criticism

LANSING (AP) — Harry Ruhl is a big man who's been handling a big job.

"The Bambi people" hate him.

"Those are the ones who weep at the Walt Disney movie, featuring the appealing little fawn, 'Bambi.'"

"It is wicked to kill those defenseless does and sweet little fawns," they have been objecting for years.

Ruhl, chief of the State Conservation Department's Game Division, for the past 36 years, weathered the storm of criticism insisting Michigan's deer herd needed the protection of scientific management.

A lot of them wanted me fired," he recalled. "If I let it worry me, I would have had ulcers long ago."

Ruhl, now 69, will retire as the department's game chief May 1.

A jovial, ruddy-faced six-footer who looks about 10 years younger than his actual age, Ruhl has no immediate plans beyond uninterrupted fishing and hunting from his cabin near Cadillac.

Ruhl was one of the first to advocate the taking of antlerless deer that otherwise would starve when they overborrowed their feed.

"I remember the problems first came up in Allegan County more than 30 years ago," he recalled. "The deer were getting into the celery crop there at the time."

Ruhl saw the deer herd grow to a high population peak as forests were opened up by lumbering and fires. He has since watched the herd slowly decline.

He saw the elk herd gradually grow until the Legislature allowed two seasons of limited shooting to crop off some of the excess animals.

Ruhl credits the Legislature of today with being more conservation-minded than those of past years.

"At least they will give us a chance to tell them what we think and explain some of our problems," he said.

One of the best improvements in the department, he commented, is the number of college-trained men now working in the field of conservation.

"In the old days there was very little scientific management," Ruhl said. "The people came in untrained and learned the business the hard way. But a lot of them did a good job of it."

Outdoor use also has changed, he noted, with a booming increase in the number of people who go north to hunt and fish.

"The day of the tent and the old fashioned hunting camp is gone," Ruhl said. "The number of summer homes up north keeps increasing. Getting there is easier and people get outdoors more often because of the shorter work week."

Violations on Increase Along Steelhead Waters

The surge in steelhead fishing has triggered a rash of violations in the northern Lower Peninsula.

Just about everything in the violator's bag of tricks is being used — spearing and snagging, stripping spawn from the fish and selling it for bait, peddling the fish as a black market business, fishing for steelheads in closed waters.

Among Conservation Department officials visibly upset over these illegal activities is law enforcement chief John A. Angulim who remarks:

"It's a sad commentary to have so much time, money, and effort put into rejuvenating steelhead populations only to have the chiselers undermining the progress we've made and stealing from the creels of law-abiding anglers."

Angulim adds: "We've got a lot at stake in the steelhead program and our other efforts to promote salmon fishing. We're clamping down on violators."

What the law enforcement chief says is not idle talk. Recent department arrest records show that conservation officers, some of them disguised in plain clothes, have nabbed over 100 fish violators in the northern Lower Peninsula since the last week of March.

Local justices of the peace aren't taking the infraction lightly. One slapped a violator with a 30-day jail sentence and $115 in fines and court costs.

The department has pressed extra enforcement officers into action along the steelhead streams and increase the number if needed, according to Deputy Director Warren Shapton.

During his years with the department, the number of shooting license holders has increased from less than 100,000 to more than 600,000.

Ruhl, born in Burr Oak, grew up on a farm near Leroy in Oscoda County. He was one of the early breed of trained conservationists, receiving a degree in biology at Central Michigan, doing graduate work in zoology at Michigan State and also studying at the Rocky Mountain Biological Station in Central Colorado.

Gov. George Romney has proclaimed April 23-29 as Arbor Week in Michigan. This special week promotes the planting of trees.

Round-Up in SE Michigan

Bouncy Visit Made by Loons

The loons became a little noisy in Southeastern Michigan last week.

The big aquatic birds started landing on paved streets in Oakland, Macomb and Wayne counties. A total of 24 were recovered by the Conservation Department and released on area lakes.

Sixteen had to be picked up in the Jackson area.

The loons, about the size of small geese, apparently had trouble finding landing places before dawn Friday when a heavy fog covered Southeastern Michigan.

Lights reflecting off pavement has fooled more than one member of the waterfowl clan. Instead of a wet landing, the loons bumbled.

When daylight came, residents along the streets were startled to see big, ungainly birds hobnobbing about.

A loon can't maneuver very well on land and is easy to catch — except that it will fight like a goose.

"This happens every spring, and sometimes in the fall," said District Game Biologist Howard Greene. "When I was stationed at Saginaw Bay, the old squaws (ducks) used to migrate in after Thanksgiving."

"The streets of Unionville seemed to be their first stop."

Department personnel who rounded up the loons did run into another problem.

"We released some of the loons on small impoundments and then had to catch them again because they didn't have room to take off," said Greene.

Loons have big bodies and short wings and need all the watery runway they can find often.

"There must have been a big migration that night," said Greene. "That was an unusual high number landing on streets. It did give us a chance to do some banding, which short wings and need all the doesn't happen with loons very often."

Habitat Biologist Transfers to Bay

Tom Nedervelt, game biologist for the Conservation Department's Pontiac Lake District is transferring to the Saginaw Bay area.

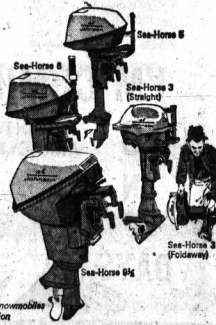

His new assignment will be centered at the Fish Point waterfowl area near Sebawaing, but will include other marsh areas of the Bay.

Nedervelt replaces Keith Heezen who has moved to the Cousinville station in the Upper Peninsula.

A game biologist for Pontiac Lake has not been named.

Over a million students rally in Peking to praise Mao and celebrate Communist revolution.

Red Guards' pressure made Peking storeowner change shop's sign.

CHINA'S RED GUARDS

Chinese schoolchildren (the "Red Scarves") march in demonstration celebrating Mao's doctrines.

Red Guard changes street sign in move to eliminate old concepts.

Last August an "army" of disciplined, khaki-uniformed youths emerged in Red China. These youths, 14 to 18 years old, are known as the Red Guards, and have been referred to as the "shock force of Mao's thinking," or as "Mao's Militant Teen-agers."

The Guards are quasi-military, and their origin is credited to Lin Biao, defense minister and No. 2 man under Mao Tse-tung, chairman of the Communist Party. They have been trained, drilled and uniformed by certain divisions of the People's Liberation Army loyal to Mao.

The Red Guards were set up to bypass the sources of strength of the opposition, but the situation in Red China has been confused, to say the least.

Some observers see the Red Guards as Mao's weapon in a deeper-seated, internal power struggle.

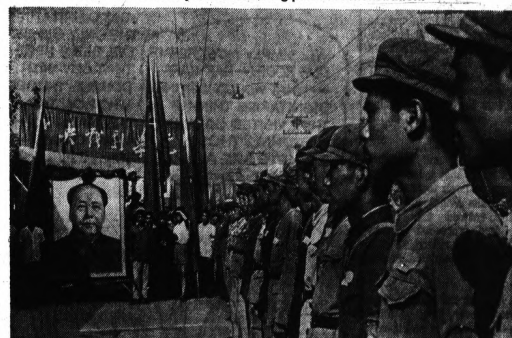

China's higher schools, colleges and universities have been closed since last September, while the students learn to carry out Mao's "cultural revolution" at the grass-roots level. They are allowed free transportation to spread the Mao doctrines.

In Nanking, anti-Red Guard forces apparently took over after three days of clashes with the Guardists. In the big, south China city of Canton, wall posters publicly assailed Mao. In the capital city of Peking there was turmoil as the Red Guards demonstrated in mammoth rallies. Nearly all Chinese Communist leaders have been denounced. You can't tell the good guys without a program—and there is no program.

Wu Han University students taking part in demonstration.

The double of an artificial bid has a standard meaning. You are showing strength in the suit and asking your partner to lead it.

Victor Molo gives an example of what he calls the "fatuus" double which is a double of a cue bid made for no particular reason except that you have a lot of cards in the suit you are doubling.

The game was rubber bridge. South was a great expert playing with a poor partner. Our great expert afraid that his partner would pass a three heart call with 60 on score.

On the other hand no one ever passes a Blackwood four no-trump. Sure enough, North bid five diamonds to show one ace and East boomed out a double.

Our expert went to six hearts and West dutifully opened a diamond. The ace was played from dummy. East played his lowest diamond—the seven, but it did him no good.

South led dummy's nine of hearts and ducked. West was in with the jack and put a second diamond on the table. South won with his king and ran off the rest of the tricks.

South was mighty lucky. Had he bid the hand normally he would have taken a chance and responded three hearts. North would surely have tried three spades whereupon the slam would have been bid in spades where it would have been a cinch.

Smallpox Scare Stems From India

By Science Service

WASHINGTON—Smallpox is on the increase in India and can be considered epidemic in Bombay, the Communicable Disease Center of the Public Health Service reports.

Three cases have been introduced into Europe by returning tourists, one of whom was a German dermatologist.

The Morbidity and Mortality Report states that a total of 15 passengers known to have been on Air India Flight 107 subsequently entered the United States and proceeded to destinations in Maryland, Texas, Wisconsin, Virginia and Puerto Rico.

By April 8 the danger was considered over, 16 days after the last exposure to smallpox.

Environment and Cancer—3

Many Hazards Are Lurking in Our Surroundings

By MICHAEL GIRDANSKY
NEW YORK (NEA) — Occupational cancer is "a part of the problem of physical and mental health on which depends, in the final analysis, the vital strength of a nation, its cultural and economic efficiency, and its existence as a self-respecting, independent and valuable part of the community of nations," said Dr. Wilhelm C. Hueper, until recently the chief Environmental Cancer Section of the federal government's National Cancer Institute.

Occupational cancer is, perhaps, in a more general sense, cancer caused by factors in our surroundings in general, not merely those arising from our own particular forms of employment.

The subject of environmental cancer has been increasingly "in the air" of late — both literally, and as a figure of speech. To Hueper, certainly, "in the air" is not mere metaphor. It is one of his chief concerns.

He is acutely aware of the presence of such proven carcinogens (cancer-causers) as benzpyrene and other industrial and combustion by-products, which sometimes give our big cities the look of beshrouded cadavers when seen from a distance.

The presence of carcinogens in water sources (whether put there by man or by nature) also provides him with grounds for concern — to say nothing of the ingenious but frequently imperfectly known materials which man produces but nature never dreamed of.

NOT HOPELESS
To Dr. Wendell Scott, formerly president of the American Cancer Society (1963-64), the situation is certainly grave, but far from hopeless.

In a recent interview, his voice reflected both concern and a thorough respect for the powers of human intelligence.

"It's certainly true that we're living today in a world our grandfathers would never have dreamed of. I dare say half of the materials we use at the present time would be completely unknown to them, or in changed forms they would have a hard time recognizing."

"And that means that the human body is being 'hard put' to it.

NOT NATURAL

"After a billion years of evolution, it has its own means of coping with many factors in its natural surroundings — but a great deal of our surroundings nowadays aren't what could strictly be called 'natural.'"

"Don't misunderstand — the last thing I would advocate is a mindless 'back-to-nature' movement."

"Most of the forms of penicillin on the market today are varieties shaped by human ingenuity, and many of the new chemicals being tested against cancer are laboratory creations."

"But we must realize that the forces we manipulate can be dangers, as well as blessings."

CONSCIOUSNESS OF HAZARDS

"As a matter of fact, there is today probably a greater consciousness of the potential cancer hazards of the environment than ever before in history."

"Not only are the medical and scientific communities aware, but so is the general public."

Was, then, the situation well in hand? Scott was asked. "I wouldn't go that far," he replied.

"It's true that greater and more thorough precautions are being taken by government and industry but there is still so much that we simply don't know."

"Something like 500 different chemicals have been identified as carcinogens among laboratory animals. But how many of them cause cancer in man is another story."

"And what about carcinogens which have not been identified so far. The number of organic compounds alone is over the half-million mark with no end in sight."

For a moment, Scott was silent. Then he added reflectively, and a bit sadly:

CAN BE AVOIDED

"And then, there are the cases of simple human stubbornness. I can think of at least two cases in which we know of a carcinogenic factor in the environment — and the factor can be avoided. But it isn't."

What were they? he was asked.

"Oh, too much sun, for one thing. There's a cult of the tan that's carried to ridiculous extremes."

"A protective hat, a shirt and some common sense would work wonders and probably prevent most of the 5,000 deaths from skin cancer we expect this year."

CONCENTRATED POLLUTION

And the other?

"You could call it concentrated air pollution, I suppose — Cigarette smoking."

"Lung cancer will kill more men this year than any other variety of malignancy. Cancer of the throat region, cancer of the urinary bladder."

He continued: "I firmly believe that 70 to 80 per cent of cancers can be attributed to outside factors if traced back carefully enough. That means in theory, they are preventable."

"To the extent that cancers are due to environmental influences, it is up to us to do something about them. After all, variety of malignancy. Cancer is our world and, for better of the throat region, cancer of or worse, it's the only one we have."

College Study Cites New Look

Freshmen in Survey Said More Inhibited

BOSTON (AP)—A study of students at an Eastern college suggests that the pressures of modern American life have produced an "inhibited generation" at certain colleges.

"Contemporary classes lack the flamboyant, colorful, lively, easy-going, comradely collegiate air of earlier days," the study found.

The personality study of college freshmen conducted at Haverford College, Haverford, Pa., was reported Tuesday at the annual meeting of the Academy of Religion and Mental Health.

Dr. Douglas H. Heath, Haverford psychology professor, said he believes the findings hold true at other prestige colleges. "We see this in the potential leaders of this country," he said.

35 PCT. STUDIED

About 35 per cent of each of 10 freshmen classes entering Haverford since World War II were studied, Heath said.

"The classes of the 60s," he said, "are more defensive. They are significantly more overcontrolled, repressed and tend to be more intellectually efficient."

"The contemporary Haverford freshman is a much more tightly constricted and constrained person than his predecessors. He is more serious, conscientious, dedicated and responsible."

Post-Sputnik students, Heath said, have been under increasing pressure from "dramatically increased workloads" in both private and public schools, the "panic competition for admission to the so-called good colleges."

A NECESSITY?

"This produced what he called 'an overcontrolled inhibition necessary to maintain intellectual accomplishment.'" In turn, he said, there is a "decreased intensity" in the quality of social and emotional feelings toward other persons, at least on the surface.

Heath said the new freshman "works harder, plugging and grinding away at his semester's four feet of paperbooks."

"Increasing numbers of freshmen," he said, "dislike exciting groups, lively parties, engaging in stunts at parties even when others are, singing and dramatics—all situations in which one risks the spontaneous expression of emotion."

About 750 persons attended the two-day meeting. The academy was formed to do educational work and research in the relations between religion, behavior and health. The papers given do not necessarily deal directly with religion.

School Study Is Searching for Hobbyists

Are you a model train enthusiast or collector of rocks, coins, stamps or dishes who would like to talk about your hobby to school children?

If so, you can become part of a federal study to catalog educational resources of Oakland County. The study will be conducted by Oakland Schools.

In search of the hobbyists is David Helsner, head of the community resource area of Oakland Schools' educational media study.

A federal grant of $20,500 will support the project. An additional grant will be sought to film or video-tape hobbyists explaining their collections.

Rods Worth $1,000 Are Stolen in Orion

Metal rods used in the construction of electrical line towers were stolen from a construction site on Baldwin near Waldon, Orion Township, it was reported yesterday.

Oakland County sheriff's deputies said at least eight rods belonging to the Detroit Edison Co. were taken.

Value of the 12-foot-long poles is more than $1,000, deputies said.

Waterford Gets School Suggestions

A six-week scrutiny of the Waterford Township School District was culminated last night specific in what the added funds would provide.

The board is urged to inform legislators of its own and of this committee's endorsement of state fiscal reform as a means to more adequate school finance.

The board is urged to encourage still wider use of schools and school sites as recreation and after-hour education centers, study the 12-month school year, consider providing additional daytime facilities for adult education, seek additional male elementary school teachers, expand in-service education opportunities emphasizing summer study and improve articulation between grades six and seven.

The board is urged to consider the following recommendations: continue the long-range site purchase program, encourage still wider use of schools and school sites as recreation and after-hour education centers, study the 12-month school year, consider providing additional daytime facilities for adult education, seek additional male elementary school teachers, expand in-service education opportunities emphasizing summer study and improve articulation between grades six and seven.

1-Man, 1-Vote Foes Balked UAW Asks Uniform Benefits

Against Consideration of This Time—Romney

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney said Tuesday he does not favor consideration "at this time" of a move to cancel court rulings requiring both houses of state legislatures to be apportioned on a one-man, one-vote basis.

Romney also told newsmen he did not "think we should go back basically to what we had before."

Romney was replying to questions concerning a letter from Senate minority floor leader Sander Levin, D-Berkley. Levin asked the Republican governor to state his position on a resolution pending before the Senate.

The resolution, to be considered Thursday by the Senate Business Committee, asks Congress to call a constitutional convention to adopt an amendment canceling the 1964 U. S. Supreme Court ruling requiring the one-man, one-vote apportionment of both houses.

Levin said Democrats are dismayed because consideration of the resolution on the floor of the Senate would inject "a highly partisan issue" at the time the Legislature is confronted with complex problems needing cooperation between the two parties.

Romney's fiscal reform package, levying the state's first income tax, is now pending before both houses.

Levin's letter said Democrats would oppose this resolution as a matter of principle, and are alarmed at the intention of majority floor leader Robert Vander Laan, R-Grand Rapids, to work on it.

The minority floor leader said it is "no secret" that the Legislature could not pass the resolution except with complete Republican support.

From Blues Programs

UAW Asks Uniform Benefits

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers union, with 1.4 million members, has told Blue Cross and Blue Shield to provide uniform benefits across the country or the union will seek an agreement with a private insurer.

A UAW official said that 70 per cent of the union's members are covered by Blue Cross and Blue Shield programs in the United States.

Emil Mazey, UAW secretary-treasurer, said that there is no centralization of programs and that some states have as many as six Blue Cross and Blue Shield plans.

"The auto companies provide a set amount of money to pay for a worker's hospital and medical benefits but a worker in one state may get more protection than one in another because different plans provide different levels of coverage," Mazey said.

A spokesman said that Blue Cross and Blue Shield have been moving toward uniformity of national contracts for some time.

The UAW executive board, in a policy statement, declared: "The UAW cannot in good conscience continue to tolerate a situation which denies to a portion of their members and their families the broader health care protection to which they are entitled under UAW contracts because of the continuing failure of Blue Cross and Blue Shield to make such benefits available on a national basis."

"If Blue Cross-Blue Shield continues to fail to meet these requirements, the UAW will have no other recourse but to propose to the companies and to insist that they jointly seek an agency which can."

DETROIT (AP)—John J. Cronin, 72, who retired in 1960 as vice president—manufacturing staff of General Motors Corp., died Tuesday night in Henry Ford Hospital. He had been under treatment for a heart condition.

A native Detroit, Cronin attended University of Detroit and joined GM's Fisher Body Division in 1918. He was elected a GM vice president in 1948 and served as general manager of the Fisher Body Division.

Survivors include two sisters, Mrs. John Mulken and Sister Mary Esdes, H.M., both of Detroit.

A funeral Mass will be sung in Jesu church, Saturday, with burial in Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers union, with 1.4 million members, has told Blue Cross and Blue Shield to provide uniform benefits across the country or the union will seek an agreement with a private insurer.

A UAW official said that 70 per cent of the union's members are covered by Blue Cross and Blue Shield programs in the United States.

Emil Mazey, UAW secretary-treasurer, said that there is no centralization of programs and that some states have as many as six Blue Cross and Blue Shield plans.

"The auto companies provide a set amount of money to pay for a worker's hospital and medical benefits but a worker in one state may get more protection than one in another because different plans provide different levels of coverage," Mazey said.

A spokesman said that Blue Cross and Blue Shield have been moving toward uniformity of national contracts for some time.

The UAW executive board, in a policy statement, declared: "The UAW cannot in good conscience continue to tolerate a situation which denies to a portion of their members and their families the broader health care protection to which they are entitled under UAW contracts because of the continuing failure of Blue Cross and Blue Shield to make such benefits available on a national basis."

"If Blue Cross-Blue Shield continues to fail to meet these requirements, the UAW will have no other recourse but to propose to the companies and to insist that they jointly seek an agency which can."

DETROIT (AP)—John J. Cronin, 72, who retired in 1960 as vice president—manufacturing staff of General Motors Corp., died Tuesday night in Henry Ford Hospital. He had been under treatment for a heart condition.

A native Detroit, Cronin attended University of Detroit and joined GM's Fisher Body Division in 1918. He was elected a GM vice president in 1948 and served as general manager of the Fisher Body Division.

Survivors include two sisters, Mrs. John Mulken and Sister Mary Esdes, H.M., both of Detroit.

A funeral Mass will be sung in Jesu church, Saturday, with burial in Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

Man Reports Jewel Theft

Jewelry valued at more than $300 was stolen from the home of a Pontiac man, it was reported to city police early today.

Clare V. Dyer Jr., 44, of 680 Balboa told officers cuff links, tie bars, stick pins, a watch and watch chain were missing from his bedroom.

Investigators said there was no sign of forced entry to the house.

'Hawk' Pilot Says Navy Trying to Shelve His Case

TOKYO (AP)—A U.S. Navy pilot on the three-man board of medical officers has been set up to look into the mental health of a Navy pilot facing a possible court-martial as a result of his campaign for an all-out war in Vietnam.

Lt. Cmdr. Laurence Baldauf, 33, of Concord, Calif., said today he felt the Navy created the board to avoid trying him.

"All the board has to say is that there is sufficient trauma to make it dangerous to subject me to the stress and strain of a trial," Baldauf said. "Then the whole affair will be shelved."

The officer said he was anxious to air his views in a public trial and that he felt he was "about to be railroaded."

INVESTED TO APPEAR

A U.S. Navy spokesman said the board of medical officers had been set up earlier this week, that Baldauf had been invited to appear before it, and that he had been informed of his rights against self-incrimination if he accepted the invitation.

The spokesman said he could not comment directly on Baldauf's allegations, but added that the convening of a medical board was "standard procedure and mandatory in cases of this nature."

The Navy said March 10 that Baldauf's "conduct was under investigation. It did not list the specific charges against him, but Baldauf said these included allegations of solicitation to commit sedition and mutiny, disrespect to superior officers and violation of his duties.

The report of the inquiry was forwarded early this month to Rear Adm. Frank L. Johnson, commander of U.S. naval forces in Japan.

WANTS WAR DECLARED

Baldauf, who is stationed at Atsugi Naval Base near Tokyo, has argued in letters to superior officers and to U.S. magazines that the United States should pull out of Vietnam or declare war and "go after victory." He favors the latter case.

The Navy ordered Baldauf to enter a hospital for a neuro-psychiatric checkup last January. He refused but talked to a Navy psychiatrist later in his base commander that he should be hospitalized for "intensive evaluation." Baldauf said a notation was also added to his medical record that he was an "unconfirmed paranoid personality."

Baldauf said he wrote Adm. Johnson agreeing to appear before the medical board on condition that the hearing be public, that he be allowed to call witnesses, that he be granted leave to go to California for a neuro-psychiatric examination at his own expense, and that the psy-

FLOWERS AT THE WHITE freak ending; your mind feels, by Ruth Montgomery you not to believe it, but your (M. Barrows & Co. $8.95): This charming book about the White House concentrates on the floral arrangements that have graced many rooms since the Kennedy administration.

The fine photographs are from White House records and demonstrate the free and natural style of floral displays that was introduced by Jacqueline Kennedy and continued by Lady Bird Johnson.

The state and national events at which these floral arrangements were used are related interestingly by Miss Montgomery, spiced with anecdotes and details about the notables who attended.

CENTRAL ASIA: A CENTURY OF RUSSIAN RULE, by Edward Allworth, ed. (Columbia University Press $12.95): An exhaustive study of Russia's conquest and absorption of the minority ethnic groups in Central Asia.

This is a work by specialists detailing the life, politics, culture and way of life of the area as it came under Russian rule in the past century.

Although obviously aimed at the serious student, it should offer the interested layman a perspective on modern Soviet affairs as they are affected by the diverse non-Russian populations along the southern frontiers with the Middle East.

THE THING IT IS . . . by William Goldman (Harcourt, Brace & World $3.95): In this tale of two mixed up young people trying to save their marriage in a trip to Europe, emotions and fragmented thoughts are flung back and forth pathetically out of control.

Whether these two disturbed people can resolve their problems is the theme of this engrossing short novel. The author does not furnish the answer.

He apparently considers his job to be to present the question, which he does with convincing skill.

ROSEMARY'S BABY, by Ira Levin. Random. $4.95. Here is a shaker and a shaker, a spooky horror story. It starts building up its tension from a mild, domestic scene when Rosemary and her husband, Guy Woodhouse, move into a florid old apartment house in New York. Rosemary, who wants to have a baby, thinks it is a great place because there is a room to convert into a nursery.

But right from the start there are some ominous overtones about this house, which has been the scene of some strange happenings.

Levin leads the reader adroitly down the path of horror, and makes the irrational seem plausible—at least while you are reading the story.

This Revere to Stay Home

BRAINTREE, Mass. (AP) — Paul Revere is celebrating his 50th birthday — and Patriots' Day — by watching the Boston Red Sox on television.

"The Red Sox are coming," Paul Revere of Braintree said Tuesday, "and this Paul Revere is going to be right here at home watching them."

Revere is descended from the Paul Revere, whose midnight ride in 1775 is celebrated on Patriots' Day each April 19, a legal holiday in Massachusetts.

But being Paul Revere in the cradle of American liberty has its problems, especially on Patriots' Day, he said.

Oil Ashore at Nantucket

NANTUCKET, Mass. (AP) — The eastern shore beaches of Nantucket Island were smeared today with heavy black oil washed ashore from a great oil slick which has been floating off Cape Cod for several days.

Coast Guard headquarters in Boston reported large gobs of the oil were spotted on the beaches by men from its island stations.

The shores were marked by the oil for 13 miles from Great Point, on the northerly side to Siasconnet at the southeast corner of the island, facing the Atlantic Ocean.

Watchman Finds Digging Offers a Bit of Change

MANFIELD, England (AP) — A watchman employed on a building site found two silver coins 600 years old, took out his pen knife and started digging.

He came up with 447 more coins from the reign of Edward I and brought them to the Mansfield police.

Experts now will assess the value of the treasure and the watchman's share of it will be decided.

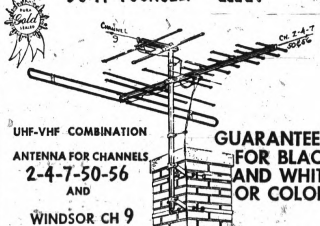

His name is John Halfpenny.

W. Germany's Adenauer Dies at 91

Konrad Adenauer

BONN, Germany (AP) — The Christian Democratic party reported today former West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has died. He was 91 years old.

The architect of postwar West Germany died at his three-story home in Rhondorf, a village close to Bonn, after a week's illness with influenza and bronchitis.

His family was at his bedside.

Adenauer was one of the most influential figures of the Western world for two decades.

He served as chancellor of West Germany from the founding of the Bonn republic in 1949 until 1963. But he remained active in politics almost to the end as a firm friend of French President Charles de Gaulle.

MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT

"Der Alte" — the old man — as Adenauer was known to his countrymen, was still a member of parliament when he died.

He was a member and former chairman of the Christian Democratic party.

All through the cold war, he was one of the West's most uncompromising opponents of Soviet communism.

In his last years, however, after he relinquished the chancellorship to Ludwig Erhard, he predicted Red China would be the West's major menace and urged closer relations with Russia.

LAY IN RUINS

West Germany lay in the ruins of World War II when Adenauer took power. Its people were distrustful by the rest of the world because of the Nazi past.

During Adenauer's 14 years in office the country rose to unprecedented prosperity and gained acceptance as a friend and ally of the Western powers. It became a bulwark against further westward expansion by communism.

Sir Winston Churchill called Adenauer "the greatest German statesman since Bismarck."

'HISTORIC FIGURE'

The late President John F. Kennedy hailed him as "an historic figure."

President de Gaulle held him in high personal esteem and together they worked for reconciliation between their two countries, which had been enemies for centuries.

While Adenauer was chancellor, the Communists fiercely attacked him for his hard line in the cold war.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev frequently singled him out as a "warmonger."

Rent-Supplement Plan for Housing OK'd

A proposed rent-supplement plan for Pontiac's largest private housing project won quick approval of the City Commission last night.

By a vote of 6-0 — with District 2 Commissioner Robert C. Irwin abstaining — commissioners gave a green light to plans of developer Charles L. Langs for a 525-unit apartment complex on West Kennett Road.

The proposal would extend federal rent subsidies to persons over 62 years old. Those physically disabled, or persons displaced from former homes by natural disaster, governmental action or because of substandard housing.

Langs presently holds a purchase option on the 40-acre site roughly bounded

The property, which now abuts one single-family residence on West Kennett, had been zoned R-1 until converted to multiple residence late last year.

TYPE OF APARTMENTS

Langs said plans call for inclusion of efficiency units, one, and two-bedroom apartments in the complex.

Pending final approval from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) officials in Washington and City Commission approval of site plans, Langs predicted construction would start on the proposed development within three months.

District 4 Commissioner Leslie H. Hudson, who formally moved to okay Langs' request last night, cited the project as belying purported failure of the city to "make progress in housing."

Thailand Bids for U.S.-Made Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thailand has bid for U.S.-made surface-to-air missiles amid warnings at the SEATO foreign ministers' meeting that Communist subversion is continuing in Southeast Asia.

Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman of Thailand told the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization Tuesday that since his nation has become involved in the Vietnam war, "some of our people should be protected by missiles."

Thanat and Jesus Vargas of the Philippines, SEATO secretary-general, joined in expressing stronger cooperation between the treaty members.

Vargas said Communist China, though wracked by internal political problems, is pressing subversive activities in Thailand and the Philippines.

Thanat leveled bitter criticism at some treaty members — whom he did not identify — saying "there will undoubtedly continue to be two categories of members — those who act on their obligations and those who choose to act only when their immediate national interests are concerned."

PREVENTED 'PARALYSIS'

He indicated his country's willingness to let the United States base Vietnam-bound B2s in Thailand was designed to save SEATO "from complete paralysis."

The Thailand-Philippine stance emphasized sharp policy differences among members of the eight-member treaty organization — with the dispute centering on the Vietnam war.

France, which opposes U.S. policy in Vietnam, is boycotting the two-day meeting altogether while Polistan — which also has criticized the U.S. position — has sent an ambassador rather than a minister-rank representative.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, serving as chairman of the meeting, used the opening session to extend a new peace appeal to North Vietnam. But he was doubtful the offer would get more than the "curt refusal" he said has been North Vietnam's previous response to peace offers.

PHILIPPINE REQUEST

The SEATO ministers also were to consider a request from the Philippines for more than $1 million in a counter-insurgency program in central Luzon.

At a closed session late Tuesday, South Vietnam's foreign minister, Tran Van Do, said North Vietnam has a vast potential for manpower resources and a reserve of about 300,000 men to send to South Vietnam.

Warmer Weather Expected in Area

Ol' Sol is expected to bring warmer temperatures as he beams on the Pontiac area today.

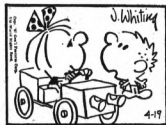

Skies will be partly cloudy tonight with the mercury registering a low of 36 to 44.

There's a chance of showers tomorrow night and Friday with the high climbing into the low 50s.

Northerly winds at 8 to 14 miles per hour will become variable at 8 to 16 miles this afternoon, and light and variable tonight.

The low recording in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 34. The 1 p.m. reading was 46.

Surveyor OK for Landing

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Surveyor 3, equipped with a television camera and a small digging device, was reported performing beautifully as it coasted toward a soft landing today on the moon.

"Everything's going fine," said a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The touchdown on the lunar Sea of Storms was expected at 7:04 p.m., EST.

Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory reported Tuesday night that the spacecraft was maintaining both attitude and position for a proper landing. They said all systems aboard the three-legged probe were operating smoothly.

About five hours from the expected touchdown, the craft's speed is slated to drop to 2,666 miles per hour. Surveyor comes within the influence of lunar gravity.

CRUCIAL PHASE

At a point 60 miles slant range from the moon, the space traveler will accelerate to about 6,000 miles per hour. Then the firing of its main retrorocket is scheduled to slow it to 250 m.p.h. for the crucial landing phase.

Radar signals bounced from the moon back to the spacecraft will control the burning of three small gas jets which are designed to reduce Surveyor's descent as the altitude from the lunar surface decreases.

Code Enforcement Efforts Improve Housing in City

By DAVID J. COOK

"Good housing and a good urban environment are needed to attract sound commercial and industrial growth." In plain, simple governmental prose, those words from a federal manual just about wrap up Pontiac's hopes for accelerated redevelopment of supporting areas south of the city's downtown urban renewal lands.

Slowly but steadily, experts from a score of different city departments have concentrated their efforts on upgrading and restoring the quality of south side housing and property.

Much of this activity has been in the form of systematic code enforcement—detailed attention to the plumbing, heating, electrical and sanitary conditions which can either make or break a home or a neighborhood.

Casual examination of blighted areas is all that is needed to give an observed an idea of how big the urban renewal task really is.

Yet the men who spend hours each day inspecting homes and property are outspoken in their belief that conscientious efforts can yield concrete results in terms of better housing for Pontiac.

"In many, many cases, it is simply a matter of educating people in areas they apparently don't know any better," said Charles Cohen, senior sanitarian for the city.

"Garbage thrown in yards, improper waste disposal practices, even casual accumulations of litter can lead to serious health situations — aside from the fact that it looks bad, too."

Cohen is one of a handful of designated city inspectors who have the task of implementing the systematic code enforcement program in Pontiac.

THANKLESS JOB

It is often a thankless job . . . yet a necessary first step in eliminating the dilapidated housing, littered streets and junk-strewn lots known collectively as urban blight.

Enforcement of city housing codes generally takes one of three forms, depending on the extent of neglect and the possibilities of renovation.

Two of the forms — posted notices of condemnation and of pending demolition — are usually executed in response to home and property conditions which inspectors feel have declined beyond the point of repair.

Since 1964, when systematic enforcement was launched under the direction of James L. Bates, planning and urban renewal director, some 300 substandard homes in Pontiac have been torn down.

HOUSING ACTIONS

In the two-year period of 1965-66, inspectors initiated 414 substandard housing actions, a total roughly equivalent to

Capital Funds Plans Revealed

By LOIS MANDIBERG

Operating procedures, policies and members' names for the newly formed capital funds committee were revealed today by Chairman Howard Nelson.

The nine-member committee, representing Pontiac business and industry, resulted from the concern of leading contributors over recent multiplicity of area capital funds campaigns.

Figures collected by the Pontiac Area United Fund planning committee indicate outstanding obligations from previous capital fund drives totaling $3,508,000.

Last December, area leaders asked

the PAUF to examine the need for and, if indicated, recommend that a committee be established to process community capital fund requests.

The resulting capital funds committee is independent of the PAUF beyond utilizing UP office staff and research materials. Total authority to approve or disapprove requests to seek funds is vested in a two-thirds vote of the committee.

ABILITY TO ABSORB

"Capital fund drives approved by the committee will be based on the community's ability to absorb the giving of funds over and above what each individual, corporation or organization normally pledges to the United Fund campaigns," Nelson said.

No capital campaign will be endorsed by the corporations and organizations represented on the committee prior to approval of the capital funds committee, according to Nelson.

Current committee members from different segments of the community include Nelson, Chamber of Commerce president; Howard H. Fitzgerald II, publisher of The Pontiac Press; and Jack Douglas, UAW-CIO Council president.

State House Poised for Tax Limit Vote

LANSING (AP)—A proposed constitutional amendment limiting any state income tax to five percent was in position for final House action today.

The measure needs approval of two-thirds of the members voting on it.

Easily defeated in preliminary debate Tuesday was an attempt by Rep. E. D. O'Brien, D-Detroit, to tie that change in the constitution with one which would permit the Legislature to enact a graduated income tax.

O'Brien's amendment was defeated 34-46, with a number of the 109 House members not voting.

SAID NECESSARY

The five per cent limitation, which would also require a two-thirds Senate margin and a vote of the people, was described as necessary to entice "two or three" Republicans to vote for the tax package proposed by the House GOP caucus.

URGES DELAY

Irwin abstained from the vote, urging that commissioners delay action until Langs' proposal could be examined by consultants presently working for the Pontiac Housing Study Committee.

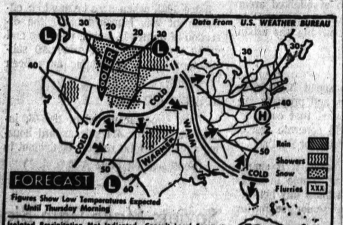

"This may be a real good thing," Irwin commented, "but it's going to have quite an effect on our community—I think we should take a closer look."

NATIONAL WEATHER—Snow is expected tonight in the Rockies, and showers are forecast for portions of the Dakotas, Nevada and Oklahoma. The Rockies will be colder and the Midwest warmer.

THE PONTIAC PRESS, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 10, 1967

LIFESAVER—Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy Harold L. Hedges points to the energy-absorbing steering column he credits with saving his life in a recent collision. Hedges and Deputy Stephen M. Hubbell were on duty in a 1967 Pontiac in pursuit of a speeding car when the accident occurred. The column collapsed when Hedges was thrown against the steering wheel, thus absorbing much of the impact.

N. Viet Cuts Bombing Effect

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top fighters and anti-aircraft missiles have cut down the effectiveness of U.S. bombing attacks, even though they have destroyed relatively few American planes.

Dr. John Foster, the Pentagon's research chief, also says the U.S. places into evasive patterns that make them more vulnerable to concentrations of anti-aircraft guns.

Foster's statements were buried in a 134-page outline of defense research and development programs, submitted by a House Armed Services subcommittee two days ago.

Foster's statements tend to follow a different tack than those of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara who has discounted the importance of both the MIGs and the anti-aircraft missiles.

PILOT'S VIEWS

They tend to reinforce the privately expressed claims of some U.S. pilots in Vietnam.

Foster put it this way: "The enemy can use surface-to-air missiles to force us into awkward positions with relatively primitive but plentiful anti-aircraft weapons."

"He can even force us to 'abort' our strike missions by his scarce fighters."

"Thus, although neither the fighters nor the SAMs have had a major effect on our aircraft losses, they have reduced to some extent our efficiency of operation."

U.S. POLICY

The effectiveness — or non-effectiveness — of the North Vietnamese MIG force of some 115 fighters is a central point in the continuing argument over whether the United States should change its policy which currently bars any attacks on the MIGs in North Vietnam, or the planes sitting on them.

McNamara noted at a news conference April 3 that about 10 American war planes have been lost to MIGs and about 40 downed by anti-aircraft missiles out of a total at that time of some 500 U.S. planes destroyed during operations in the north.

"We think under present circumstances the loss of U.S. lives will be less if we pursue our present target policy than they would be were we to attack those airfields," McNamara said.

AVOIDING TRAGEDY

"Since the rate of teen-age pregnancy is so high and the consequences are so tragic, the new service was added to the center," he said.

Dr. Matthew Tayback, deputy health commissioner for Baltimore, said the program — as he believed the only one of its kind in the country — is aimed at the "extremely large number of pregnancies and live births among girls 16 and under."

"The teen-ager," said Gordis, "is essentially unprepared for motherhood. An unwanted pregnancy is often a tragic event."

Gordis said the term "sexually active" was used because it would be unfair to presume that only promiscuous girls are involved, since some girls may date just one boy.

"Contraception," he continued, "is an important part, but only a part of a program of total health care."

Girls accepted into the program at the hospital's adolescent center may come from any part of the city and receive the pills only after intensive individual and group counseling and only with parental consent.

Faculty Panel to Study School Smoking Policy

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The school district's strict policy against smoking may be modified, it was decided at last night's board meeting.

Parents of suspended children have registered complaints on the policy of suspending first-time violators for 30 days.

The district was taken to circuit court in March by an irate parent, but the board's vote to enforce the policy was upheld.

Latest complainant was Mr. and Mrs. Keith Terry of 1066 Rock Springs, Bloomfield Township.

Eugene Johnson, superintendent of schools, said in the light of recent complaints the board decided to study the issue.

A committee of faculty members is to be selected by the two high school principals to come up with recommendations.

A report is requested within 30 days.

BUDGET APPROVED

A proposed budget for the coming year was approved and sent to the county allocation board.

The budget figure was set at $7.5 million, approximately $1 million above last year.

The district will be operating three new schools next fall.

The board also approved a Bloomfield Township police study plan. A "control group" of students is to be selected to act.

"We've discussed things in the past with Waterford and seem to reach agreement, but then nothing happens," Dugan said.

NOTES TURNOVER

Noting the turnover of officials in elections last fall, Dugan added, "Maybe the newer leaders will be more willing to sit down and work out these things."

Pontiac has unsuccessfully sought to work out an agreement with Waterford previously whereby the municipalities would jointly back a street-lighting program on Telegraph.

$200,000 Fire at Area Firm

A fire at Midwest Cabinets, Inc., 25905 W. Nine Mile, Farmington Township, yesterday caused an estimated $200,000 damage.

The cause of the fire, which destroyed the building, has not yet been determined.

Two firemen were hurt fighting the blaze. They were treated at Botsford General Hospital and released.

Seven pieces of equipment were used to fight the fire which started at 8:10 a.m. and was finally put out about 11 a.m., according to Police Chief Irving Yakes.

Editor to Speak

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—The editor of The Newport News (Va.) Daily Press, George W. Passav, will address the annual Kent Intermediate In-Service Conference April 26. An estimated 2,500 teachers are expected to attend. Passav is to speak on the topic "Revolution or Racket." The conference theme centers around numerous changes in education.

Capital Funds Plans Revealed

Also E. Eugene Russell, manager of Pontiac Division of Bell Telephone Co., who is also representing Detroit Edison and Consumers Power, and A. C. Girard, president and chairman of the board at Community National Bank, who is also acting for Pontiac State Bank.

Other members are William E. Morgan of radio station WJON; Bruce J. Annett, PAUL president; Thomas Wiesner, representing the GM plant city committee; and Pontiac Mayor William H. Taylor Jr.

Jim Hunt, secretary of the PAUF planning committee, will act as secretary and coordinator and, upon request, conduct research.

Requests for capital campaigns will be considered for needs as property purchases, permanent equipment, buildings and remodeling. Passav is to be covered by an organization's operating budget.

Clearance will be based on the priority of need and the adequacy of existing facilities. The stability of the group's current budget and the impact of proposed plans on the organization's operative budget will also be considered.

PRIVATE DRIVES

Which some campaigns affecting the entire community will be channeled through this committee. Private drives for churches and similar organizations will not be processed, according to Nelson.

Campaign requests must be filed by Dec. 1 one year prior to the period for which clearance is sought. The chairman explained that the committee will answer all applications by March 1 following the Dec. 1 deadline.

Requests for campaign clearance will not be granted more than two years in advance. Although applications may be submitted several years before the desired date.

Campaigns may be conducted only in the period between Dec. 1 of one year and July 31 of the following year. These dates will also apply to any consideration by the committee of an extension of a previously approved campaign period.

General committee campaign policy will be to space major campaigns two or three years apart so collections by one may be completed before another is undertaken.

U.S. Economists Predict Expansion Will Follow Lag

U.S. ECONOMISTS — 42 E. WASHINGTON (AP) — Government economists are breathing a bit easier today about their projections and tax proposals for this year in the wake of the first bullish statistics they've received in several months.

But they caution that despite hints of the upturn predicted in January, the second quarter will remain sluggish although some real economic growth is anticipated.

3rd 'Hot Hole' Discovered in the Red Sea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Discovery of a new "hot hole" in the Red Sea suggests Pharaoh's Egyptian soldiers could literally have been in hot water if the fleeing Israelites had crossed farther south.

The find was reported Tuesday to the American Geographical Union by Dr. David R. Ross of the Woods Hole, Mass., Oceanographic Institution.

He defined a "hot hole" as deep and filled with hot, extra salty water, extending down from the cooler sea-bottom.

Ross said the latest discovery brings to three the number of such holes found in an area of the Red Sea roughly opposite Mecca on the Arabian side, and many miles south of Suez.

90 DEGREES

He said the water in the new found "deep" registers 90 degrees, compared with about 70 degrees for normal Red Sea bottom water. The other nearby hot holes register about 133 and 101 degrees respectively.

The bottom of the 200-foot-deep hole is 6,200 feet beneath the sea surface.

Ross made no mention of the Biblical account of how the Israelites, pursued by Pharaoh's men in their flight from Egypt, safely crossed the Red Sea after "Moses stretched out his hand over the sea, and the Lord made the sea dry land, and the waters were divided."

But a spokesman for the National Geographic Society, answering a newsmen's questions, said that while "no one knows for sure" where the Israelites crossed — and the Egyptians drowned when the waters closed over them — all scholarly theories suggest this all came to pass many miles north of the hot-holes area.

WRONG SITE

The spokesman said one Biblical translation appears to put the site of the crossing not in the Red Sea proper but in the "Sea of Reeds," believed to have been located at the present Suez Canal site.

UAW Opens Crucial Parley Today in State

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers union meets in special convention today to make decisions on two crucial issues — contract demands that could spark a nationwide auto strike, and interunion demands which could result in a split with the AFL-CIO.

Today was given over to registration of some 3,000 delegates from union locals across the country, and a conference of union locals representing workers in the parts supplier field.

The business of the convention was scheduled to begin tomorrow, with UAW President Walter Reuther giving the keynote address.

The UAW course on both the major issues facing the convention has been well charted.

But the added issue of the UAW's feud with the parent organization could well take the spotlight from the main purpose of the convention, which is the consolidation of demands from the various UAW departments into a single over-all contract demand document.

TO BE INTRODUCED
A resolution was scheduled to be introduced which would amend the UAW Constitution and provide Reuther and his International Executive Board with the power to pull the big union out of the AFL-CIO if they considered it necessary.

The amendment was necessary because the UAW Constitution requires its affiliation with the AFL-CIO.

Passage of the resolution would not assure the UAW's withdrawal from the AFL-CIO. But it would give Reuther a powerful weapon in continuing his battle against the parent organization's leadership.

ANTINFLATION TOOLS

Federal Reserve Board officials still favor the surtax as an anti-inflationary tool during the second half of the year. They also are prepared to tighten credit to stem inflation, should the need arise.

Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, reaffirmed the administration's projections for the year and its request for a surtax. He predicted a strong recovery in the second half of the year and insisted the surtax must remain "a very live matter for congressional consideration later this year."

Momentous Soviet Power Struggle Taking Shape

By FRED SPARKS
NEW YORK (NEA) — Now that I am out of the Soviet Union I can report that a momentous power struggle is shaping up in the Kremlin, triggered by critics of Russia's foreign policy, particularly its relations with North Vietnam.

My own observations, plus what I was told by numerous Western diplomats and other foreign residents, lead to expectations that before the struggle is resolved the two-headed dictatorship of Premier Alexei Kosygin and party boss Leonid Brezhnev will be replaced. And Kosygin and Brezhnev would vanish from the political scene like Nikita Khrushchev, suddenly, overnight, without fanfare.

I wouldn't have dared cable this from Russia, where reporting that the dictatorship is shaky is the No. 1 sin. If the above were written by a resident correspondent in Moscow he would be ousted or harassed until he left.

It is an accepted fact of life in Moscow that Soviet foreign policy is in tatters. China, the most populated Communist country, is now an enemy. Eastern Europe is rapidly drifting farther away from Moscow's domination. Even North Korea shows alarming independence.

VIETNAM
And if this wasn't enough, to undermine any government, there is the impossible problem of Vietnam.

My excellent sources in Moscow told me that important members of the Presidium personally blame Kosygin and Brezhnev for getting the Soviet Union involved in that hopeless mess "where Russia had nothing to gain and everything to lose."

"Everything to lose" means a confrontation with the United States, which is the last thing anyone inside the Kremlin wants, particularly at this time when Red China is making war like noises on Russia's borders.

Communist heavyweights rapping Kosygin and Brezhnev say that shortly after they replaced Khrushchev in 1964 they made their first irrevocable error: They encouraged North Vietnam to invade South Vietnam in an organized force without anticipating the violent American reaction.

QUICK ON DRAW
Khrushchev had learned, during the Cuban missile crisis, that Americans are quick on the draw. He had done little to encourage Hanoi to expand its efforts beyond guerrilla warfare.

Critics of the current dictatorship say it gave Hanoi the O.K. to "get tough" as part of its campaign to woo Red China back into Mother Russia's arms.

They wanted to prove that, unlike Khrushchev, they approved revolution and invasion as a means to advance world revolution.

BROTHERLY LOVE
Kosygin made a pilgrimage to Peking where he preached brotherly, Communist love and was feasted at massive banquets where rivers of sharks' fin soup flowed like borscht in Moscow.

Besides the soup, Red China gave Kosygin nothing but the war in Vietnam. And since the Americans entered the conflict with such considerable force, Kosygin and his partner in dictatorship have been in an unenviable position.

They dare not risk war with the United States by bailing out Hanoi with Russian airpower or ground troops.

They have not yet been able to get Hanoi to negotiate, partly because the Red Chinese are pressuring Hanoi to be evermore belligerent.

Caught in the middle, helpless, Kosygin and Brezhnev are sending a dribble of military hardware to Hanoi while they make thundering speeches threatening to hit the Americans with everything but the Bolshoi Ballet.

Produce great men, the rest follows.—Walt Whitman, American poet.

THINK SLIM! THINK SOUR CREAM FOR SALADS!

Surprised?

Sour cream is full of surprises. Would you believe weight-watchers prefer sour cream to many heavy salad dressings? It's true! Sour cream is low in calories compared with most other foods used in similar ways. For instance, the calories in 1 tablespoon of sour cream and one tablespoon of similarly used foods are:

Salad Dressings	Calories
Sour Cream	30
French-type	60
Mayonnaise	92

With that good news, you can start enjoying delicious sour cream dressings again. Fruit in season and sour cream are heavenly combinations, or use sour cream to add zest to canned or frozen fruits. Of course, sour cream is a natural atop a crisp green salad. So think slim! Think of this Quick Sour Cream Dressing to spark your next chicken or tuna salad. You'll love it!

Quick Sour Cream Dressing

- 1 teaspoon cider vinegar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon prepared mustard (optional)

SEW SIMPLE By Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice Farmer:
What happens to the carefully shaped sleeve in a suit when it has been dry-cleaned? Why should you have extra ease in the sleeve? I always thought the purpose of the gathering threads was to make the sleeve fit the armhole exactly. Mrs. M.M.B.

Dear Mrs. M.M.B.,
Sleeves possibly take more skill than any other part of your garment. I have learned so much about sleeves from professional tailors and try to teach my students the same methods with great success.

The two rows of stitching at the cap of the sleeves (with regular length stitch) help pull a little of the ease and make it easier to work in (for us nonprofessionals). You must be sure, however, before pinning the sleeve in, that the sleeve is almost 2 inches larger than the armhole.

As you pin from the inside of the sleeve, holding over your fingers in an outer curve, this extra ease will all work in nicely. If you pull the gathers up too tight, the sleeve won't fit.

As to the dry cleaners, they use a method of steam pressing that retains the original shaping and won't ruin it. I'm sure all of you would benefit greatly by my step by step instructions called "All About Sleeves." Send 10 cents and a long, self-addressed envelope to Eunice Farmer in care of The Pontiac Press.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Terri Amedee, Bridgeton, Mo., is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her following suggestion.
I am 18 years old and knit and sew all of my clothes. To save time, I often pin my pattern to fabric, and my mother cuts it for me.

When I want to cut garment larger than the pattern, I place the pins across the cutting line at each end so she won't forget. She thinks the idea is worth passing along, since she would forget and cut on cutting line on her own patterns after measuring and allowing. (Mothers are like that). This way she never forgets cause she can't cut through pins.

Dear Eunice Farmer,
I have made my spring outfit out of one of the new rayon suitings. It really turned out great after I "sweat blood and tears" over ravelling fabric and a few other near disasters, but alas, I can't seem to get the crease out of the center front of the dress and center back of the jacket. Please help. Mrs. J.T.

Dear Mrs. J. T.:
This letter came at an excellent time to remind all of you about the fold of the fabric.

This fold was never pressed in originally; it is the result of being folded on boards for fabric shops. It would be wise to always press this crease out BEFORE cutting the garment. This must be done carefully, so you don't stretch this part of your fabric.

If possible, try to refold fabric so that any section originally laid on the fold will not be placed on the original fold. This can only be done in fabric that is wide. In most cases, a steam iron on the wrong side will do the trick!

Paving Plans OK'd Over Protest of Pair

Vocal opposition from two north end residents failed to deter a City Commission paving proposal last night, but drew from District 5 Commissioner John A. Dugan a pledge to support additional paving demanded by the two citizens.

"I'm not opposed to paving this block," Mrs. Smale told commissioners, "as long as the city goes ahead paving Fuller all the way through from Mansfield to Columbia.

"I certainly don't want to have our section of the street paved, and still have to face the dust blowing up from the gravel sections."

Leonard supported Mrs. Smale's objections, further contending that isolated paving of Fuller would make "a beautiful racetrack" for young drivers in the Pontiac Northern High School area.

"I'm not opposed to the paving assessment," Dugan replied, "chairman.

"but I have to admit I don't think it's good planning.

"I am conscientiously support it unless we continue the pavement to Mansfield."

A separate proposal for paving of Grayton from Crestwood to Asterwood received support of Dr. Roy V. Cooley of 224 Asterwood.

Public hearing was set for May 2 on a proposal to pave Baxter between Raeburn and Prospect.

Commissioners accepted an estimated cost of $4,980 for the project. Assessments on property owners for the paving construction will total approximately $2,782.

McDonald Says No to Immediate Back Operation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Jack H. McDonald, 34, R-Mich., is resisting all recommendations for immediate surgery, despite the severe pain from which he suffers, his aides reported yesterday.

Physicians at Bethesda Naval Hospital are convinced that an operation is indicated procedure for McDonald's herniated intervertebral disc, they said.

But the freshman congressman from Redford Township so far has refused to submit to the surgery because this would require hospitalization for six to eight weeks, and said said.

McDonald of the 19th District entered the hospital Monday and was put in traction, a treatment to continue for about a week.

R20 Tract to Become Parking Lot

City commissioners last night supported a proposal to install city-operated paid parking on one urban renewal tract and expressed strong interest in converting a second parcel of land. Scheduled for early conversion is a portion of the R20 project adjacent to Water Street at the south end of Perry.

A report from James L. Bates, director of planning and urban renewal, noted that the hard-surfaced portion of the lot would accommodate some 200 cars.

An undetermined number of motorists already use the lot free.

City use of the land will necessitate a lease agreement with the urban renewal authority, with a monthly rental cost of $100.

COSTS OF OPERATION

Bates estimated rental, maintenance and employment costs for the lot would total about $4,300 a year.

Based on an all-day parking fee of 25 cents, the report estimated, usage by 70 cars a day would meet the expense.

Bates termed the 70-car estimate "conservative" and predicted "substantial income" from the actual parking operation.

WOULD REQUIRE PAVING

City Manager Joseph A. Warren told commissioners the South Saginaw lot was also being used for free parking at present, but would require paving before conversion to an attendant-operated lot.

Commissioners asked for a study of paving costs and tentative lease proposal for that area within two weeks.

Approval was also granted by commissioners to applications from two local civic groups planning carnivals on urban renewal lands.

The Metropolitan Club plans a midway and circus in the South Saginaw-Pike vicinity from May 20-June 3. Chief Pontiac Post 377 of the American Legion has scheduled a carnival from July 6-9 near Auburn and East Wide Track.

OCC Board to Air Budget

A $5.6-million budget for Oakland Community College will be submitted to the public at the college's board of trustees meeting tomorrow.

OCC President John E. Tirrell is expected to recommend the adoption of the 1967-68 budget after the public hearing at 8 p.m. at the administration center, 2400 Opdyke, Bloomfield Hills.

Total general fund expenditures proposed for 1967-68 is nearly $1 million more than the current year, primarily due to the scheduled partial opening of the Highland Lakes campus this fall.

Almost $10 million is requested for the completion of the Orchard Ridge campus in Farmington Township by January 1969.

College Study Cites New Look

Freshmen in Survey Said More Inhibited

BOSTON (AP) — A study of students at an Eastern college suggests that the pressures of modern American life have produced an "inhibited generation" at certain colleges.

"Contemporary classes lack the flamboyant, colorful lively, easy-going, comradely college air of earlier days," the study found.

The personality study of college freshmen conducted at Haverford College, Haverford, Pa., was reported Tuesday at the annual meeting of the Academy of Religion and Mental Health.

Dr. Douglas H. Heath, Haverford psychology professor, said he believes the findings hold true at other prestige colleges.

"We see this in the potential leaders of this country," he said.

55 PCT. STUDIED

About 35 per cent of each of 10 freshmen classes entering Haverford since World War II were studied, Heath said.

"The classes of the 60s," he said, "are more defensive. They are significantly more overcontrolled, repressed and tend to be more intellectually efficient."

"The contemporary Haverford freshman is a much more tightly constricted and constrained person than his predecessors. He is more serious, conscientious, dedicated and responsible."

Post-Sputnik students, Heath said, have been under increasing pressure from "dramatically increased workloads" in both private and public schools and the "panic competition for admission to the so-called good colleges."

A NECESSITY?

This produced what he called "an overcontrolled inhibition necessary to maintain intellectual accomplishment." In turn, he said, there is a "decreased intensity" in the quality of social and emotional feelings toward other persons, at least on the surface.

Heath said the new freshman "works harder, plugging and grinding away at his semester's four feet of paperwork."

"Increasing numbers of freshmen," he said, "dislike exciting crowds, lively parties, engaging in stunts at parties even when others are, singing and dramatic situations in which one risks the spontaneous expression of emotion."

About 750 persons attended the two-day meeting. The academy was formed to do educational work and research in the relations between religion, behavior and health. The papers given do not necessarily deal directly with religion.

School Study Is Searching for Hobbyists

Are you a model train enthusiast or collector of rocks, coins, stamps or dishes who would like to talk about your hobby to school children?

If so, you can become part of a federal study to catalog educational resources of Oakland County. The study will be conducted by Oakland Schools.

In search of the hobbyists is David Helsner, head of the community resource area of Oakland Schools' educational media study.

A federal grant of $20,000 will support the project. An additional grant will be sought to film or video-tape hobbyists explaining their collections.

Rods Worth $1,000 Are Stolen in Orion

Metal rods used in the construction of electrical line towers were stolen from a construction site in Baldwin near Walden, Orion Township, it was reported yesterday.

Oakland County sheriff's deputies said at least eight rods belonging to the Detroit Edison Co. were taken.

Value of the 12-foot-long poles is more than $1,000, deputies said.

Waterford Gets School Suggestions

A six-week scrutiny of the Waterford Township School District was culminated last night when a citizens' school finance study committee offered a series of recommendations for consideration by the board of education.

The comprehensive study touched on nearly every phase of school life. Subcommittees were active in the areas of finance, future needs, personnel and program.

An estimated 125 persons served on the committee. However, only about 75 attended last night's final meeting at Pierce Junior High School.

Those in attendance were given a final opportunity to designate whether they agreed, disagreed or had some other suggestion for the 12 recommendations presented at last night's meeting.

Results will be tabulated in time for tomorrow night's board of education meeting.

APRIL 4 MEETING

The recommendations were extracted from subcommittee suggestions revealed at an April meeting. The suggestions then were referred to a steering committee headed by subcommittee chairman.

Recommendations are as follows:

- The board should not call an election involving either millage renewal or increase in June.
- The next millage election should be planned for June 1968 or possibly in the fall of 1967 if economic conditions are favorable.
- Taxing authority should be sought for a five-year period.
- If it is determined that additional millage is required or desired, the board should be specific in what the added funds would provide.

- The board is urged to inform legislators of its own and of this committee's endorsement of state fiscal reform as a means to more adequate school finance.

- The board is encouraged to maintain its competitive position in staff salaries.

- Fringe benefits paid school employees should be studied and consideration should be given to include life insurance, sickness and accident insurance and salary continuation benefits.

- The board should at least maintain the present pupil-teacher ratio.

- While school boundary lines should be adjusted periodically, the committee recommends against busing small groups of children among schools to balance class loads.

The board is encouraged to improve the quality of its program by providing additional personnel in the following areas: elementary library, elementary physical education, elementary art, community school program and instrumental music.

The board is urged to consider the following recommendations also: continue the long-range site purchase program, encourage still wider use of schools and school sites as recreation and after-school education centers, study the 12-month school year, consider providing additional daytime facilities for adult education, seek additional male elementary school teachers, expand in-service education opportunities emphasizing summer study and improve articulation between grades six and seven.

The board should continue to apply present priorities in the use of its funds.

From Blues Programs

UAW Asks Uniform Benefits

DETROIT (AP) — The United and Blue Shield programs in different levels of coverage.

Emil Mazey, UAW secretary-treasurer, said that there is no concentration of program and that some states have as many as six Blue Cross and Blue Shield plans.

"The auto companies provide a set amount of money to pay for a worker's hospital and medical benefits but a worker in one state may get more protection than one in another because different plans provide different levels of coverage," Mazey said.

A spokesman said that Blue Cross and Blue Shield have been moving toward uniformity of national contracts for some time.

The UAW executive board, in a policy statement, declared: "The UAW cannot in good conscience continue to tolerate a situation which denies to a portion of their members and their families the broader health care protection to which they are entitled under UAW contracts because of the continuing failure of Blue Cross and Blue Shield to make such benefits available on a national basis."

"If Blue Cross-Blue Shield continues to fail to meet these requirements, the UAW will have no other recourse but to propose to the companies and to insist that we jointly seek an agency which can."
