

GMCT Reveals Long-Range Plan for Super Trucks

The GMC Truck & Coach Division has embarked on a far-reaching engineering development program for GMC trucks that will bring "super-trucks" on to the super-highways of the future, it was disclosed today by Philip J. Monaghan, vice president of General Motors and general manager of the division.

Monaghan told a press conference this afternoon that the GMC truck engineering department, expanded 22 per cent in the past year and now one of the largest in the corporation, is tying together new truck engineering concepts of great economic significance.

For the immediate future, Monaghan said, the new 1958 light and medium duty GMC trucks offer outstanding values with new styling, a new V-8 engine, a stronger chassis and a new automatic transmission for the medium duty models.

They will be introduced in dealer showrooms the week beginning Nov. 11.

For the long-range future, Monaghan said, GMC was making a complete reassessment of the product with a view toward incorporating into it everything of value, in a single design pattern, now known to our engineering world.

It would appear, he said, from what is heard from many sources in the trucking industry, that what is needed is "a complete and radical departure from traditional truck design as we know it today."

The truck operator is thinking of obtaining new trucks that will cut down on his operating costs, increase payload and increase cubage which add more revenue to offset some of the rising costs over which he has no control, Monaghan said.

"We are in the business of designing and manufacturing trucks where even a small improvement means literally millions of dollars in cost savings for the operator, greater ease and efficiency of goods shipment by the shippers, and a decrease of the hidden costs of transportation of goods purchased by the consumer," Monaghan said.

R. C. Woodhouse, general truck sales manager for the division, said that the current upswing in industry truck sales indicated that 1957 sales volume would equal 1956, or approximately 1,100,000 units including export and Canada.

In forecasting 1958 industry sales, Woodhouse said he could see no reason to expect any substantial change from 1957 levels.

A significant truck market development this year has been the resurgence of half-ton truck sales, Woodhouse said.

GMC's retail deliveries and market penetration have been moving up steadily since the middle of the year, and GMC dealers reporting figures in a business management program show the same good monthly profits of a year ago, Woodhouse said.

16 Die as Plane Hits Mountain

AF Tanker Smashes Into Remote Slope in Northern Arizona

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP)—All 16 men aboard apparently were killed when a four-engine Air Force tanker smashed into a steep and remote northern Arizona mountain yesterday.

The only authorities to reach the charred wreckage reported finding eight bodies and no sign of life. A thorough search for additional remains was begun today.

The Air Force said the plane, a KC97 on a routine flight from Walker AFB, N.M., was carrying 16 men but did not identify them.

The tanker plowed into the sheer side of Gray Mountain, about 40 miles east of the Grand Canyon site where 128 persons died in the crash of two airliners in June 1956.

An explosion was heard shortly after the plane was reported seen flying low over a nearby trading post. Reporter Bill Dwyer of the Flagstaff Arizona Daily Sun, who reached the foot of the bluff shortly before darkness halted rescue operations, said a wide area around the wreckage was burned off.

The peak of the mountain, an ash-covered dead volcano, rises about 7,000 feet above sea level and 1,000 feet above surrounding terrain. The plane hit about half way up.

Visibility at the time was given as 10 to 15 miles, and a heavy fog covered the ground in the area.

Two Tuba city policemen climbed the bluff and signaled that they were unable to find any survivors. They said they saw eight bodies.

Appoints Group to Study Change in Oakland Rule

9-Member Committee to Eye Streamlining of County Government

A study committee to look into the possibility of streamlining Oakland County government was appointed today by Delos Hamlin, Board of Supervisors chairman.

Springfield Township Supervisor John L. Carey, who originally called for such a committee, was appointed chairman of the nine-member panel.

Serving with Carey will be Elmer Kephart, Bloomfield Hills supervisor; Charles B. Edwards Jr., Madison Heights supervisor, and Frank F. Webber, Addison Township supervisor.

John Austin, a member of the Board of Auditors, and Harry J. Merritt, corporation counsel, will also serve.

Three citizen-at-large members appointed are Mrs. Ann Rumsey of Franklin, former president of the Birmingham League of Women Voters; William F. Kalwitz, GMC Truck and Coach executive, and James Clarkson, executive vice president of Pontiac Federal Savings & Loan Assn.

Mrs. Rumsey's position on the study committee will mark one of the few times that a woman has held a post on a county committee.

The group has an objective of streamlining the county government and coming up with recommendations for state legislative changes. Members are granted the right to go to universities for assistance in the work. They will serve without pay.

Starlings to Find They Have Home Here in Pontiac

Long the target of numerous schemes to drive them from Pontiac, starlings now have been granted a sanctuary in the city. With the passage last night by the City Commission of the city's first hunting ordinance, starlings can roost all they want in the city without fear of being knocked off by a rifle, shotgun, air rifle, slingshot or bow and arrow.

Commissioners passed the emergency law when City Attorney William A. Ewart warned of the danger to children by a large number of hunters within the city limits. An examination of city laws last week showed no ordinance prohibiting hunting.

The new measure will make it unlawful to either hunt birds such as pheasant, grouse, partridge, duck, or animals such as deer, rabbit, squirrel or raccoon.

Violators will risk 90 days in jail or a $100 fine, or both.

City Manager Walter K. Wilman was the first to see the immunity granted starlings. "Does this put our old friend the starling in a protective class?" he asked the commission.

Commissioners gave no answer. Apparently it had.

Khrushchev Laughs at Reports of Kremlin Battle With Zhukov

LONDON (AP)—Nikita S. Khrushchev last night brushed off reports of a Kremlin showdown battle with Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov and announced the ousted Soviet defense minister will receive a new post.

ALL THE SAME — "It's all the same," they said. "There is no difference."

The comparison being made by Western diplomats was more dramatic. They recalled the Central Committee meeting last summer when Khrushchev had a showdown with V. M. Molotov, Georgi Malenkov and Lazar Kaganovich.

The tide then reportedly was flowing against Khrushchev in the 15-member Presidium, a sort of executive body for the Central Committee, but was reversed when the full committee was called into session.

Molotov, Malenkov and Kaganovich were banished from high party circles.

NO NEWS — An announcement had been expected after reports that the Central Committee had been in session all Monday night and Tuesday morning. But there was none.

In Berlin, Soviet sources claimed today the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist Party has not yet decided (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

U. S. Expects Banishing of Zhukov to Siberia Post

WASHINGTON (INS)—U.S. officials said today deposed Soviet Marshal Georgi Zhukov will probably be banished to a relatively minor military post in Russia's Siberian hinterland.

They said Communist Party Boss Nikita S. Khrushchev appeared to have won a victory over the Red Army in the Kremlin's power struggle.

Virtual exile of Zhukov, who guided the military to new authority and prestige after Stalin's death, will at most certainly result, they said.

This was the Washington interpretation of Khrushchev's remark that the dismissed defense minister will be given a new post "commensurate with his qualification," and Premier Nikolai Bulganin's statement that "the party had achieved complete victory" in the Kremlin power struggle.

U. S. observers took a tongue-in-cheek attitude toward Khrushchev's promise of a new job for Zhukov. They noted, too, that one of the party boss' deputies said that he had seen Zhukov and that he was "in good health."

Officials said that neither of these two assurances from Soviet officials was surprising in view of the recent pattern of the Kremlin

Only One Girl Escapes From Flaming Home

Child Jumps Off Porch to Get Aid From Uncle in Pickford Disaster

PICKFORD (INS) — Eight members of one family were burned to death early today here at Pickford, 30 miles north of St. Ignace.

Only one person in the family survived.

State police and Sheriff's officers listed the dead as Verne Cerrik, 45, his wife, Irene, 30, and six of their seven children, Dennis, 9, Harold, 7, Norman, 5, Joy, 3, Daniel 18 months and James one and a half months.

The only survivor was Rose, 11.

She told police that she was awakened by the sound of breaking glass and believed that her mother and father were breaking windows.

Rose added that she heard her sister, Norma, screaming. The girls shared one of the three bedrooms in the 20 by 24 foot two story frame house.

JUMPS FROM WINDOW

She said she started down the stairs looking for her sister and other members of her family but could not reach the first floor, where her father slept, because of the flames.

She jumped from one of the smashed second floor windows to a raised back porch and leaped to the ground.

Then she ran next door to the home of her uncle, Arthur Cerrik, who called fire departments in Pickford and nearby Cedarville. The house is almost halfway between the two communities in a sparsely populated area.

By the time Arthur Cerrik reached the blazing house after he called for help it was too late to enter. He shouted but no one answered his calls.

The quickly-spreading blaze was believed to have started from a coal heater.

Buick Executive Killed by Car

Roy I. MacArthur Hit in Front of Sanitarium Near Rochester

Roy I. MacArthur, general superintendent of Buick Motors Division, Flint, was killed instantly last night when struck by a car on Pontiac road, about one mile west of Rochester.

The accident occurred in front of the Haven Sanitarium where MacArthur, 64, of 2930 Circle Dr., Flint, had been spending the past week following an illness.

He was officially pronounced dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital by Deputy Coroner Isaac C. Prevette, of a broken neck and skull fracture.

The car was driven by Mrs. Thelma M. Ryckman, 35, of 145 Orion St., Lake Orion. She told deputies that MacArthur was crossing the highway at an angle, with his back to her. She said that she pulled to the right, but could not avoid hitting him.

Mrs. Betty Smith, afternoon supervisor at the Haven, said MacArthur had gone out for an evening stroll. He had been with General Motors since 1911. Surviving are his wife, Mildred, and a son and daughter.

Coming Tomorrow

Pontiac's 1958 cars reach a new peak in styling and beauty. They are scheduled for first public announcement tomorrow. The Press will present the new car in color, as well as a full page of black and white pictures of the cars. Watch for them in Thursday's Pontiac Press.

3 Other Top Officials Hurt in Parliament Blast, One Seriously

Bomb Injures Israel's Ben-Gurion

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israel's social welfare minister was reported in serious condition today, a victim of a deranged young Jew who hurled a small grenade into the Israeli Parliament.

Premier David Ben-Gurion. Foreign Minister Golda Meir and two other Cabinet ministers, escaped with minor injuries, when the explosive went off last night near the speakers' dais.

But anxiety was expressed over the condition of Welfare Minister Moshe Shapiro, who was hit in the stomach, head and chest.

Police said the grenade was thrown from the rear of the public gallery by Moshe Ben Jacob Douek, 25, a former patient in a mental hospital. A maintenance employee nabbed him.

HELD A GRUDGE

Police quoted Douek as saying he had a grudge against Youth Aliyah, an immigration organization which helped him migrate from Iraq to Israel several years ago.

In past years he reportedly claimed damages unsuccessfully for an injury received 10 years ago; wrote a threatening letter to the president of the Israeli Supreme Court, was confined to a mental hospital and then released, and tried to set fire to one of Israel's largest hospitals.

Fire Damages Estimate Upped

Furniture Store's Loss of $65,000 Is Mostly Covered by Insurance

Damage estimates of the fire that swept Orchard Furniture and Appliance Co., 164 Orchard Lake Rd., were upped today to $65,000.

According to James White, Pontiac Fire Dept. assistant chief, the blaze caused $45,000 damage to the contents and $20,000 to the building. Most of the loss is covered by insurance.

The fire marshal and city electrical inspector are trying to determine the cause today.

The blaze broke out at 11 a.m. and could not be brought under control for nearly two hours. It apparently started in the warehouse behind the store.

The warehouse, according to Murry Bloom, co-owner, was jammed with Christmas stock which had just arrived. His brother, Edward, tried to fight the conflagration with a chemical extinguisher but it spread too fast.

Even after the fire was believed out, the fire department made two more trips to the store. At 10 p.m. furniture began to smolder again, and at 2:45 this morning some mattresses thrown outside the building blazed up.

8 From Family Perish in Fire

The bodies were removed from the rubble by Macdonald County Sheriff Leslie MacDonald, Coroner George Davis and two state troopers. Water was hauled for three miles to cool the debris before the bodies could be found.

The last bodies removed were those of the mother and the youngest child. The mother was holding the baby in her arms.

The bodies were taken to the Quinell Funeral Home in Pickford.

The fire was described by officials as the worst of its kind in the history of the Eastern Upper Peninsula. A family of six died in a similar fire in the Soo area in 1953.

DISCUSS CURFEW—Presidents of the Pontiac Parent-Teacher associations were asked last night at their regular meeting to promote an internal curfew for teenagers and seek to revamp the present outmoded 1915 8 p.m. curfew ordinance. Left to right are: Roland Stephenson, association civil defense chairman; Lillian Davidson, principal of Malkin School; Mrs. William Mihalek, PTA-Council president; Donnie Smith, Jr., junior and senior high school counselor, and one of two men promoting the need for a reasonable curfew; and Dana P. Whitmer, superintendent of schools.

PTA Names Group to Consider Curfew

A committee of five parents and three junior high school students will meet tomorrow afternoon to formulate a workable city curfew ordinance for teenagers which they will recommend to the city commission next week.

The committee, consisting of members of the Pontiac Council of PTA (Parent-Teacher Association), PTSA's (Parent-Teacher-Student Association) organizations in local junior high schools, was selected last night during a meeting of the presidents of the council.

They are Donnie Smith Jr., junior and senior high school counselor; John F. Perdue, principal of Bagley elementary school and youth chairman of the council; Mrs. William Mihalek, council president; Mrs. William Anderson, council first vice president; and L. D. McLaughlin, council juvenile protection chairman.

1958 Auto License Plates on Sale Friday in Pontiac

Your new black and gray license plates for 1958 will be available at the Pontiac branch of the Secretary of State's office beginning Friday.

Willis M. Brewer, branch manager, once again reminded motorists that the deadline is Feb. 28, 1958, "and not to wait until the last day."

The office will be opened daily from 9 a.m. until 5 and on Saturdays from 9 until 1 p.m. It is located at 53 N. Parke St.

This year a new policy will be in effect in the state, whereby new plates will remain with the individual purchaser rather than go with the car if it is sold.

"The seller should remove the 1958 plates and put them on his new car," Brewer said. "If he doesn't buy a new one, the plates must be surrendered to the Secretary of State office."

"Because of this new procedure," Brewer continued, "it is especially important that titles be transferred immediately." There will be a $5 white-haired leader of Israel almost continually since its founding, was injured superficially on his hands and left leg by bomb splinters.

He was hospitalized overnight although he insisted on going home.

Mrs. Meir, 59, former Milwaukee school teacher and foreign minister since June 1956 also was kept at the hospital overnight. She received a slight splinter wound in her right foot.

Communications Minister Moshe Carmel, who suffered a broken bone in the left arm, was also hospitalized.

Mrs. Meir was addressing about half of Parliament's 120 members in a foreign policy debate when the grenade was thrown.

It landed between the speaker's desk and the government table, within two feet of where Shapir and Carmel sat.

There was a flash of fire, a loud report, and a cloud of smoke. Shapir and Carmel sat still, blood spreading on the floor. Other ministers jumped up. Visitors in the gallery tried to flee but were held until police arrived.

Teamsters Must Make a Choice

Union's Executive Unit Will Meet Tomorrow on AFL-CIO Suspension

WASHINGTON (AP)—Suspension from the AFL-CIO put the big Teamsters Union in the position of a naughty little boy put in a corner—he's got to decide whether he's going to be good or bad.

The Teamsters executive board meets here tomorrow to decide what to do.

Among rumors on what might happen are that Teamster boss James R. Hoffa may agree to step out or that the union may decide to hold another convention to elect new officers.

In Chicago yesterday, Hoffa pledged that his giant union will continue to support other AFL-CIO unions despite its recent suspension from the Federation.

Hoffa added that he hoped the Teamsters would be allowed to stay in the parent organization. "Except perhaps for some hurt over pride, nobody's been hurt yet in labor's corruption cleanup drive."

But the parent federation is ready to wield a spanking, in the form of outright expulsion in December, unless the truck driver union agrees to mend its ways and oust its president-elect James R. Hoffa.

Both the Teamsters and George Meany, the AFL-CIO's president and the man calling the federation's shots in handling the Teamsters situation, have avoided doing anything so far that would end all hope of healing the breach.

But so far the effect of the Teamsters suspension status has been to give the union's leaders time to decide their own fate so far as the AFL-CIO is concerned.

Painted Red at U. of M. on Halloween Franklin's Statue Faded

ANN ARBOR (AP)—The old statue of Ben Franklin won't be in the center of the University of Michigan campus for Halloween daubing tomorrow night.

It disappeared long ago and only the ghosts and the goblins know its whereabouts now. But it was there, right in front of Haven Hall, back in 1883.

And as recalled in the yellowed pages of the Chronicle, the student newspaper in those days, it was painted bright red on Halloween night.

"There was more than the usual amount of disturbance," a student journalist of the 1880s wrote. "But the painting of Ben Franklin was the most noticeable event of the evening. The fact that it had added so much to the beauty of Ben's appearance should fully atone for the offense."

The Chronicle added that the "culprits" were arrested by the Ann Arbor police, but their fellow students made the police "give up their prey."

The paper said much of the Halloween vandalism blamed on the students actually was the work of "townies," campus vernacular for the townspeople.

"They, however, act as public benefactors in tearing up old dilapidated sidewalks and should receive praise rather than blame," wrote the unknown student newsmen.

Military to Pay Bills on Time

Secretary of Defense Blames Misconception for Contrary Reports

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department will pay its bills when they come due—apparently even if it breaks through its $8 billion dollar spending ceiling for the year.

Secretary of Defense McElroy blamed an "apparent misconception" for reports of delayed payments and said last night the Army, Navy and Air Force should "make it clear they will of course pay bills as they fall due under the terms of contracts" with suppliers of equipment.

His memorandum was addressed to the secretaries of the three services. Its phrasing indicated that the "misconception" may have been on the part of the military services. By far the greatest proportion of defense contracts are those of the Air Force.

Defense contractors have complained strongly in recent days that they had been informed full payments could not be made immediately as all bills fell due. This the contractors argued, meant that the government was forcing the companies to assume some of its financing burden.

In his memorandum, McElroy told the service secretaries that "although the $8 billion dollar current budget objective must be kept in mind at all times, I expect you to advise me whenever you find that specific cuts that may appear necessary to meet these expenditures objectives will jeopardize essential programs."

This seemed to leave open the possibility that it might be necessary to push beyond the spending ceiling.

At any rate, it was clear that a decision made by former Secretary Charles E. Wilson had been set aside. A directive to hold spending during the first half of the current year to 19 billion dollars.

Election Results to Be Canvassed

Only 11 Precincts Show Favorable Vote; Top in Turnout Was District 5

The City Commission will canvass the results of Monday's special hospital bond election at a meeting tomorrow night at 8.

The $350,000 general obligation bond issue was defeated by 3,330 to 2,150. It needed 60 per cent to pass.

Only 5,738 of an estimated 17,000 property owners eligible to vote turned out for the balloting.

Of the 43 precincts that reported, only 11 showed favorable votes on the issue. These were precincts 1, 3, 5, 7, 8, 30, 31, 36, 37, 38, and 40.

District 1, on the south side of the city, showed the most "yes" precincts with 5. District 2 and 3 had three each. The other four districts showed precincts all voting against the issue.

Precinct 34 (in District 1) at the Public Housing Commission office failed to post any returns when the machine was opened for a tally. It did show that 32 votes had been cast.

City Clerk Ada R. Evans was examining the machine this morning along with a representative of the manufacturers in attempt to determine the error.

She was also to seek an explanation why 26 votes in different precincts were made void. She theorized that curious voters lifted up write-in slots, thus making this action their vote, and preventing them from pushing the "yes" or "no" pointers down.

In total turnout by districts, commissioner John A. Dugas' District 5 was tops with 1,288. The others were: District 1, 1,441; District 2, 1,150; District 3, 765; District 4, 937; District 6, 601; and District 7, 556.

The Day in Birmingham

Post Office Is Considering Need of Enlarged Space

BIRMINGHAM (AP)—Although they have been given no date, officials of the Birmingham post office have been assured that in the near future, a survey will be made to consider enlarging the post office area.

Postmaster Rolland Reese said immediate needs are for a parcel post annex of 5,000 square feet and off-street parking spaces to handle the increased number of new customers.

The past three years have seen annual increases of 2,000 new residents in the area served. An estimated 74,000 residents in the city and rural areas are now getting their mail through the Birmingham post office.

Reese said that he and Congressman William S. Broomfield have rejected the plan for converting the basement into work space.

Reese said this would be a waste of money, since it would greatly increase operational costs without increasing work efficiency.

He said it would be merely a stop-gap and would be outgrown in a short time.

The postmaster also pointed out that under the present conditions, the post office spends nearly $2,000 a year renting parcel post space for the Christmas rush. Reese feels that this expenditure would be far better if made on a permanent building of adequate size for immediate and future needs.

A 35-year-old Birmingham truck driver was seriously injured in Detroit yesterday when he was pinned between the rear of his truck tractor and a steel trailer containing 22 tons of slag.

The trailer tipped over on its side while Frank Sammut of 1389 Lake Park, was delivering the slag to a Detroit firm. He was pinned while standing between the tractor and trailer as workmen prepared to return the trailer to an upright position.

Girl, Workman Die in Separate Mishaps

MONROE — A 10-year-old girl was accidentally shot to death at her home and a workman was killed in a job mishap yesterday. Judith Duvall was the shooting victim—from a shot fired from a cased shotgun by her brother, Richard apparently triggered the gun while holding it in its soft suede case.

Judith was sitting on a living room sofa and her brother in a chair across the room. Richard had the cased gun on his lap. The 12-gauge charge struck Judith in the head.

Angelo Cipriani, 66, employed on a Port of Monroe job, was killed by the swinging shovel of a crane that crushed him against a railway freight car.

The crane operator, J. Stanley Little, 58, said a mechanical defect sent the shovel out of control.

Bomb Scare Delays Plane at Willow Run

DETROIT — A bomb scare last night held up a United Airlines flight from Willow Run Airport to New York for two hours.

H. J. Fellows, district sales manager for United, said the flight was scheduled to leave at 9:30 p.m. but was delayed when an anonymous phone caller said a bomb had been placed aboard the plane.

A precautionary search of the baggage and cargo of the plane showed the call was a hoax, Fellows said.

Sees Epidemic Ending

DETROIT — Detroit's health commissioner, Dr. Joseph G. Molner, says he believes the city's flu epidemic may be over within two weeks, a month earlier than originally expected. He added, "However, a sharp change in the weather could cause an upsurge."

Meteor-Like Object Spotted in Michigan

PETOSKEY — A meteor-like object heading southwest across the sky was spotted last night by residents of Petoskey, Harbor Springs and Charlevoix.

First report of the object came in about 6:15 p.m. Undersheriff Richard Zink of Petoskey described it as having "fuzzy" edges and changing in color from a bright gold to dark red, orange and yellow.

Firemen Given OK

DETROIT — The Detroit Fire Commission ruled Tuesday it was firemen's union to endorse political candidates for Detroit's municipal election. The endorsements were printed in the publication of the Detroit Fire Fighters Assn. The Commission said the Association is an incorporated labor organization and as such has made similar endorsements in the past.

College Man Shoots Wife, Father-in-Law

BELOIT, Wis. — A 27-year-old Beloit College student set fire to his home last night, shot and critically wounded his estranged wife and her 70-year-old father and fled to nearby Rockford, Ill., where police captured him early today.

Held in Rock County Jail at Janesville was Edward R. Burns, who was apprehended in Rockford about five hours after he allegedly shot his wife, Christine, 19, and her father, John Jacobson, 70.

2-Car Crash Injures Lake Orion Woman

A Lake Orion woman was injured in a two-car collision Tuesday at the intersection of Baldwin Ave. and Walton Blvd. according to Pontiac Police.

Elaine McCracken, 22, of 2888 Baldwin Rd., was treated at Pontiac General Hospital for knee and facial injuries, and released. The other driver, Charles P. Mellon, 65, of 371 W. Brooklyn Ave., was uninjured.

The Province of Ontario extends more than 1,000 miles on its north-south axis, from polar regions to a border running from New York to Minnesota.

President Picks A-Ship's Name

First Atomic Merchant Ship Will Be Named 'NS Savannah'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has decided that America's first atomic-powered merchant ship will be named the "NS Savannah." The NS will stand for nuclear ship.

The 33-million-dollar ship, on which construction will start soon, is being named for the SS Savannah, which on May 22, 1819, left Savannah, Ga., on the first Atlantic crossing by a steamship. The old Savannah crossed to Liverpool, Eng.

The new 21,000-ton Savannah will be the first vessel, the White House said, with the designation "NS" preceding its name. The ship is scheduled to be completed in 1960.

The Navy already has two nuclear-powered submarines in commission, but there is no official nuclear designation preceding the names of the two boats—the Nautilus and the Seawolf.

Construction bids on the new Savannah have been submitted to the Maritime Administration and the Atomic Energy Commission. The bids are to be opened soon. The appropriation of 29 million has 18 million earmarked for the Maritime Administration and 21 million for the AEC.

The Savannah will be 598 feet long and 79 feet wide at the beam. It will have accommodations for 60 passengers and be able to carry 9,600 tons of cargo at a top speed of 21 knots.

San Francisco, the "City That Was" following the earthquake and fire of 1906, quickly rose from the ruins. At the time, huge billboards proclaimed the shattered city's spirit: "Don't talk earthquake. Talk business."

Economy Is Big Pitch in '58 Cars

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
Hucksters are trying to pull off a real selling toughie this year. They're out to sell the most expensive line of cars ever made with a sales talk pitched to economy.

At least the Big Three—Ford, Chrysler and General Motors—find themselves in this unique position.

American Motors with its economy Rambler and Studebaker-Packard with its low-priced Scotsman can sell economy without qualification. And the foreign car dealers will continue their all-out efforts to penetrate the U.S. market, which they began with such spectacular success earlier this year.

The cause of the Big Three's problem is a sudden mushrooming of interest in cheaper driving. Ever since the U.S. auto industry's opinion samplers discovered it they've been trying to determine just how deep this penny-pinching penchant goes.

Has the horsepower, chrome and fin race in cars gone too far for American tastes? Do Americans fear a recession coming up? Has the high cost of living forced Americans to worry about cheaper driving?

The industry's consumer researchers found there was a more or less affirmative response to all of these queries. Just how strong this feeling runs they still don't know. But the industry thinks

Harlan Electric Co. Chief Gets State Post

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Williams yesterday swore in C. Allen Harlan as a member of the State Board of Agriculture, without ever having publicly announced the appointment.

Harlan, 50-year-old president of the Harlan Electric Co. of Detroit, replaces William E. Baker of Mesick on the governing body of Michigan State University. Both men are Democrats.

Baker resigned the job to become office manager of a State Highway Department district office. Harlan will serve out the remaining four years of his term.

"FORTY MILES TO THE GALLON?" But that makes it so terribly long between windshield washings!

it's strong enough to make a major advertising concession to it this year. And where it has been possible, economy features have been introduced on the '58s.

For example, Ford is announcing a new engine, an axle-engine ratio arrangement and an optional Cruise-O-Matic drive which combined, is expected to give 15 per cent added fuel economy.

Although the Ford line has had drastic restyling, the big sales effort will be on Ford's new gas economy. A new system of inspecting cars coming off the production line is being talked up as a great saver on service charges.

Promotion of all the cars in the Chrysler line is also heavily larded with economy claims.

And the fact is, the '58s will be somewhat cheaper to operate as a result of the efforts of the industry to build this factor into the new cars.

General Motors, celebrating its 50th anniversary with its biggest advertising campaign in history, will also play up economical driving as a prime advantage of all of its new lines.

What really has the Big Three scared is whether they have done enough, soon enough, to satisfy the public demand for cheaper driving. It could be a bad year for the first time in many years. "But they're all meaningless straws in the wind," says a Chrysler official. "When the public sees all of the big '58s, buyers will get the same fever for the big, fancy ones they've always shown."

Lawrence Wins Fermi Award

Inventor of Cyclotron Cited to Receive Prize of $50,000 From AEC

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Ernest O. Lawrence, inventor of the cyclotron atom smasher, Tuesday was named winner of the Atomic Energy Commission's $50,000 Fermi award for 1957.

Dr. Lawrence, noted scientist and director of the University of California radiation laboratory at Berkeley, was cited not only for the cyclotron development but "for his many other contributions in nuclear physics and atomic energy."

The award was established under authority of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 "for especially meritorious contributions to the development, use or control of atomic energy." Lawrence is the third scientist to win the award.

First winner, in 1954, was the late Enrico Fermi, one of the great pioneers in the atomic field. After his death, the general advisory committee to the AEC decided that henceforth the award would be named in honor of Fermi. The second winner, in 1956, was the late Dr. John von Neumann, a member of the AEC.

The AEC said the 1957 award will be presented Dec. 2, the 15th anniversary of the day when Fermi and his associates proved that nuclear fission could be self-sustained and controlled. It was this discovery that led to the development of the first atom bomb.

The award to Lawrence was recommended by the AEC committee which said in a letter to AEC Chairman Lewis Strauss that Lawrence has achieved worldwide recognition as a truly great leader in the field of nuclear physics. "Without the development of the cyclotron," said the committee, "it is hard to see how the development of nuclear physics to its present advanced state could have taken place."

The award includes a medal.

Bomber Crashes at Kansas Air Base

SALINA, Kan. (AP) — A b7 bomber crashed on a small hill at the edge of the bombing range at Schilling Air Force base yesterday, killing two of its three crewmen.

The pilot, Capt. Bobby Hodges,

35, of Okolona, Miss., parachuted safely. Those killed were Capt. Bernard Rinebold, 33, of Macedon, N.Y., and Capt. Harold Horry of Wichita Falls, Tex.

The cause of the crash was not determined immediately. The Air Force said the plane had been in the air about an hour on a routine training flight from Schilling.

Rinebold leaves a wife and two children, Horry a wife and five children.

Sunglasses Helpful on Bright Washdays

Sunshine is good for damp laundry. It makes wet pieces dry faster, smell fresher—but it can be harmful to your eyes. To avoid last-minute hunting for sunglasses on bright wash days, fasten an extra pair to your clothesbasket or clothespin bag. Then they'll be right at hand when sudsing time coincides with a fine, breezy, outdoor drying day.

Mink-Lined Tweed

Tweed takes on a dash and gets a lot more expensive in the Paris collections when it's given a lining of mink.

Fossiles to Fare—on Wallpaper

You don't have to be a rockhound to have fossils on your living room wall—they're now available on a hand-screened wallpaper. The wallpaper was designed by Inez Croom of New York, who got her inspiration from rare Texas shell stone, a dirtyish yellow limestone embedded with crustaceans from centuries ago.

A Texas friend sent Miss Croom a one-ton slab of the stone after she had admired it in the San Jacinto monument. She followed the design closely in making the wallpaper because she believes the aged pattern gives a mellow effect to contemporary or period settings.

Must Cards Be Mailed to Relatives?

Husband Criticizes Leaving Greetings in Apartment Box

By EMILY POST
"Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I live in a six-family apartment house. A cousin of mine, along with her husband and two children, lives in this same apartment house but on another floor. I always remember each of them on their birthdays and anniversaries by sending greeting cards.

"Instead of sending these cards through the mail I put them in their mail box down in the lobby fully addressed but unstamped. My husband has criticized me for this saying that it is not only improper but very cheap.

"I think it is very practical and can't see anything wrong in it. Furthermore it saves me from having to walk two blocks to a mail box in order to mail the cards. I would very much like to know what you think of this practice?"

Answer: I think your husband is being overfussy and that there is nothing wrong in your putting these cards in the mail box as you do.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My boy friend and I would like to announce our engagement soon. However we will not be able to be married for at least a year.

"My mother thinks that long engagements are socially incorrect and that we should wait until two or three months before the wedding to announce it. Will you please tell me the proper time to announce an engagement?"

Answer: Although it is not usual to announce an engagement a year before the wedding you may properly announce yours now if you want to. In fact I advise you to because your frankness in doing so will clear your situation in relation to all those about you.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I disagree on what he should call my mother. He refuses to call her Mom or Mother. He feels that his mother alone has the right to these titles. Is it not traditional for a son-in-law to call his wife's mother Mom or Mother?"

Answer: Your mother should not feel slighted because your husband refuses to bestow on her the name reserved for his own mother.

The old-fashioned name for a mother-in-law was "Mother Brown" and "Mother-in-law" was sometimes used. A name that means Mother in another language like "Mater" would be a good solution.

MR. and MRS. JOSEPH LIVINGSTON

Catherine Blanzzy Speaks Vows in St. Michael Rite

Vases of bronze and gold chrysanthemums banked the altar of St. Michael Church for the Saturday morning wedding of Catherine Marie Blanzzy and Joseph Patrick Livingston of Oxford. The Rev. Norman Thomas performed the wedding before 150 guests.

The bride's mother is Mrs. Pearl H. Blanzzy of Baldwin avenue, and the bridegroom is the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. William Curran of Ortonville.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown of white slipper satin fashioned with a mandarin collar, a nylon lace bodice and a chapel train. Her fingertip veil fell from a sequin and pearl tiara. The bridal bouquet was an arrangement of white sweetheart roses and trailing ivy on a white prayerbook.

Carolyn Ann Mersino of Oxford was maid of honor wearing a bronze crystal ball-length gown with scoop neckline, tucked midriff and full gathered skirt featuring a floating back panel. She wore a matching braided crown headpiece with pearl trim and veil.

Bridesmaids Mrs. Francis J. Blanzzy of Ortonville and June Knickerbocker wore dark green crystal ball-length gowns with matching headpieces styled like the honor attendant's. All carried arrangements of butterscotch chrysanthemums and tulle roses on yellow fans.

Serving as his brother's best man was Thomas G. Livingston. Francis J. Blanzzy and George Huff of Ortonville acted as the guests.

For a reception in Gingerville Community Hall following the ceremony Mrs. Blanzzy chose a brown wool tweed dress with a butterscotch chrysanthemum corsage.

The couple will live on North Perry street.

Know Your Type Before You Shop

NEW YORK — If you often spend a whole day shopping and end up with nothing for your efforts, you've probably been trying on the wrong fashions because you don't know which are the right ones for you. Tall, slim girls should look for large-scale patterns, full skirts, wide belts in contrasting colors, noticeable accents and large handbags and chunky jewelry.

Tall and not thin girls should try small all-over patterns or deep solid colors — charcoal, taupe and garnet are as good as black, brown and navy. Short girls should shop for vertical stripes, button-front dresses and daintily detailed fashions, and accessorize with quick flashes of color and carefully chosen small jewelry.

Bag Lightens Load

NEW YORK — Girls who set out for school armed with handbag, notebook, school books and even lunch can lighten the load this year. A specially designed Note-Tote doubles as handbag and notebook, and has an extra outside pocket besides. It's made of grained plastic in bright red, the most important accessory color for fall.

A mandarin-styled housecoat fit for a young princess! So easy to sew, and make personal with an embroidered monogram. A wonderful gift for Christmas for the young lady of the family. Pattern No. 5828 contains tissue—sizes 12, 14, 16, incl.; hot-iron transfer for two alphabets; sewing and embroidery directions. Send 25c in coins, your name, address and the pattern number to Anne Cabot, The Pontiac Press, 372 W. Quincy St., Chicago 6, Ill. Have you a copy of our 1957 Needlework Album? FEATURING THE LATEST FASHIONS IN EYEWEAR

The Proxy Murder

By ERLE STANLEY GARDNER
Copyright 1957

"Thanks," Mason told him, leaning slightly forward with his head to one side so his hat brim would be between his features and the other man's eyes. "Thanks a lot!"

Mason pushed his foot gently on the throttle, eased away from the curb.

Mason located the sixty-eight hundred block on Washington Heights, but missed sixty-eight thirty-one the first time he went down the block. It was only after he turned and came back that he found a little bungalow type of house setting back from the street.

Mason stopped his car, left the parking lights on, and his feet crunched up the gravel walk, leading to the house.

A neighbor's dog began barking with steady insistence.

Mason heard annoyed tones from the adjoining house telling the dog to shut up.

The lawyer climbed up on the steps of the small porch and groped for a bellbutton. Unable to find it, he knocked on the door.

There was no answer from within.

Mason knocked the second time. Bare feet thudded to the floor in the interior of the house. The dog in the neighboring house started a crescendo of barking and then abruptly became silent.

At length a porch light clicked. The door opened a crack, held from opening farther by a brass chain which stretched taut across the narrow opening.

A man's voice from the inside said, "Who is it?"

"I'm an attorney from the city," Mason said. "I want to talk with you."

"What about?"

"About your wife."

"My wife?"

"That's right. Rose Calvert. She's your wife, isn't she?"

"You better ask her whose wife she is," the man said.

Mason said, "I'm sorry. I don't want to discuss the matter out here where the entire neighborhood can hear. I drove down here to see you because I feel it's important."

"What's important?"

"What I want to see you about."

"Now you look here," the man said. "I'm not going to consent to a single thing. I'm hoping Rose will come to her senses. If she does, all right. If she doesn't I'm not going to make things any easier for her or for that fellow who has her hypnotized, and that's final!"

He started to close the door.

"Just a moment," Mason said. "I don't want you to consent to anything. I just want to get some information."

"Why?"

"Because it's important."

"Who's it important to?"

"It may be important to you."

IT IS URGENT

The man on the other side of the door hesitated, then finally said, "Well, all right. You can come in. This is a great hour of the night to get a body up to start asking questions."

"I wouldn't do it if it wasn't urgent," Mason said.

"What's urgent about it?"

"I'm not sure yet," Mason said. "and I don't want to alarm you until I am sure. I'm an attorney, but I'm not representing your wife in any way. I'm not representing anyone connected with the aspect of the case in which you are interested. I just want to get some information, and then perhaps I can give you some."

"Well, come on in."

The chain was removed and the door swung open.

The man who stood, tousled-haired and bare-footed, in the entrance hallway, was wearing striped pajamas. He was nearly six feet tall, slender, about thirty with dark, smoldering eyes and long, black hair which had tumbled about his head.

"Come on in," he said, yawning.

"Thanks," Mason said.

Munro Views Mideast Crisis

U.N. Assembly Chief Willing to Hold Private Talks to Solve Issues

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — The president of the U. N. Assembly, Sir Leslie Munro, says he also is willing to try to solve the Turkish-Syrian crisis through private talks.

The blunt-spoken diplomat from New Zealand, who is presiding over the bitter Middle East debates, said in an interview yesterday that he—like his predecessors in the top assembly post—is ready to go outside the meeting halls to aid in solving problems facing the world organization.

In the present crisis, he asserted, "quiet diplomacy can play an important role," and the Assembly president can help by conferring privately with the "principal protagonists and discussing the problem with them."

"I am willing to take part in any way I can," Munro declared. There was a growing belief in the U. N. that the necessary two-thirds majority could not be mustered for either of the two suggestions made informally to the Assembly—that Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld mediate, the Western proposal, or that a special investigation commission be sent to the trouble area, a Syrian suggestion backed by the Russians.

Munro, known for usually saying what he thinks, refrained from taking sides on the Middle East controversy.

He said he feels it is imperative for the president of the Assembly to build up a reputation for impartiality, fitting him for taking part in "quiet diplomacy" on issues before the U. N.

Damascus, capital of Syria, is believed to be the oldest continuously inhabited city in the world. It is mentioned in the book of Genesis, but its origin is unknown.

STUDENT TEACHER WORKSHOP—The ten-Michigan State University student teachers who are teaching in Pontiac elementary public schools this fall attended a four hour art workshop last night under the supervision of Mrs. Marjorie Becker, elementary art coordinator in Livonia Public Schools. ARTHRITIS PAINED SO FIERCE IT MADE ME CRY

I'll recommend O-Jib-Wa Bitters for Rheumatism and Arthritis as long as I live, says Mrs. Margaret Standridge, Flint.

"I was crippled with arthritis since the Spring of 1950. It was in my right arm, shoulder and neck, and you just can't imagine how much suffering I went through. There wasn't a night when I didn't go to bed with tears in my eyes. I'm telling you, I really suffered. My arm was stiff, and burned like someone was holding a torch under it. One day my husband was cutting wood up North, and the man he was working with had to be carried out of the woods due to a severe attack of arthritis. He was so bad that his wife had to turn him over in bed by pulling on his sheets. He used O-JIB-WA BITTERS and three weeks later, was better and back working. After his experience, I decided to try O-JIB-WA too, but after 5 days I gave up, as I foolishly expected immediate relief. Well,

Albinism Unusual, Not Rare

Caused by Absence of Pigmentation

By H. GUY MOATS

For some inexplicable reason there has been an unusually large number of albino birds reported this fall among the several game species for which shooting is now under way in Michigan.

Albinism is an unusual condition at any time. But it is far from a rarity, except in unusual breeds of animals, or in some divisions of the human race.

The condition is described as a partial or complete lack of coloration, or pigmentation, in hair, eyes, skin or other normal characteristics of plants, birds, animals, reptiles or humans.

First albino pheasant rooster in years was brought to this department first of the week. It was a 2-pound, 7-ounce bird that had a white head, an expansive ring (where the normal one is a narrow band) and its legs were white.

Flight feathers in the wings, while well-colored on the outside, were white beneath. Considerable areas of white feathers were noted all over the body. Normal pheasant head coloration is a dark bluish-green or purple with red eye markings.

This specimen, which will be mounted by the hunter, Roger H. Davis, 484 4th Ave., Pontiac, is one of a number reported, but was the first brought in for inspection. It was apparently a young bird, 28 1/2 inches long, downed on Davis' property on M-39.

ALBINO ROOSTER — When Roger H. Davis, 484 4th avenue, Pontiac, saw the unusually marked bird (above) get up while hunting on Sunday, he wasn't sure what it was. But he downed it with one shot after noting the color on the head. Examination revealed the bird was a partial albino, an unusual condition for this species. Its legs are white. The usually dark-colored head and shoulders are also white or grayish. "At first I thought it was a chicken, but that long tail set me right," Davis reported.

State Official Discusses Water Safety Regulations

The critical question of jurisdictional rights in the regulation of water activities was the subject of a recent speech by assistant attorney general Nicholas V. Olds before Governor Williams' Water Safety Study Commission at the Kellogg Center in East Lansing.

At the close of the meeting, Olds left for a conference of state and federal authorities in Washington, armed with a commission resolution urging approval of the states retaining jurisdiction over water regulations.

The Council of State Governments, to which Olds has been appointed as a consultant, met Friday in Washington with federal officials to determine rights and responsibilities of the various states in enforcing and regulating water activities.

"There is a pressing danger of all states in the union losing their rights to control their own waterways," stated Olds. He added that if recommendations had been passed by Congress during the last session, then all states rights on the regulation of water activities would be negated and destroyed. This would mean the federal government would control regulation.

Hunters Told Dangers Lurk in Oil Fields

LANSING — Signs are being posted by oil companies in various parts of Michigan, warning hunters of the dangers of hunting or camping in oil fields.

Carelessness or vandalism in oil fields is both dangerous and destructive, explained H. A. Young, supervisor of oil hazard reduction for the Michigan Conservation Department. One foolish act may endanger all other persons in the area, and also can ruin wildlife habitat.

Hunters are cautioned particularly about the use of firearms in oil fields. During deer season last year, a number of oil and gas pipelines were ruptured by rifle bullets — creating hazardous conditions.

The hunter who shoots a pipeline or other oil field equipment threatens human lives because of possible fires or explosions. Fire and pollution also may damage nearby hunting areas, and fishing waters.

Conservation Body in Session Nov. 7-8

LANSING — The next monthly meeting of the state Conservation Commission has been scheduled for Nov. 7-8 at the Conservation Department's Lansing offices.

The informal session will begin at 3 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 7, and the formal session will open at 9 a.m. Friday, Nov. 8. All meetings are open to the public.

Latest From North (Wild) Woods

Coyote Trees Pair of Area Hunters

By JACK PATTERSON

Perils of the Wild Dept: It has Bureau.

Come to this column's attention that Dexter Kennedy of Pontiac and St. Pearlman, Birmingham, were recently treed by a coyote up at the Oakland Hunt Club. We can only hope that this season's batch of pups wasn't lying back in the ferns tee-heeing at the spectacle of 30-pound papa putting the intrepid woodsmen to flight. Otherwise the small brush wolves might get the idea that they are really man-eaters by nature and gobble up thousands of deer hunters come Nov. 15. Various courts have upheld the privilege of the newspaper writer to refuse to name sources of information. In this case we see no reason to employ this useful gimmick. The report of harrowing goings-on north of the AuSable came to us via Dr. Bruce Hubbard.

Should Have Been Here Yesterday Dept: A quick glance at the calendar reveals that of the last 29 days we have spent approximately 22 tramping the uplands, beating the forest thickets, slogging the marshes or congealing in duck-blind or sneakboat.

The toll of feathered species to date wouldn't make the most adroit conservationist bat an eye. Creaking joints and jaundiced eye aside we lay this to the weather, more particularly to the U.S. Weather Bureau.

Cases in point: (1) The time: Three days last week. The place: Muscarnoot Bay. The cast: Geo. Zimmerman, L. H. Cole, R. B. Oliver, D. E. Edstrom, the writer. The plot was very simple. Wednesday it rained so hard the guide had the rig picked up by the time we got there. Thursday an unnamed but virulent hurricane forced abandonment of the project at 0930.

Too rough to sneak, too miserable in the blind, no ducks strong enough to withstand the elements. Friday, a perfect sneak day. Ducks beginning to move in force. Had to secure operation at noon in order to make a do up at the buggy works in the North End.

Best guideline of the deal: "We really slaughtered them earlier in the week, should have been here" . . . well, you know.

(2) Although we have long since vowed never to hunt Saginaw Bay on the weekend and red-eyed (from the wind) though we were, we were like the girl in "Oklahoma" who couldn't say no when "C" Patterson called us Saturday night and suggested a Sabbath decimation of redheads at the Bay. Well, we never did get up at 4 a.m., but we did. We never liked sitting offshore in a stiff north wind for the better part of a day for two bluebills, but we did. As Jack Pflug, Birmingham, who also shared this notable venture put it, it was a fine day to be somewhere else.

The perch fishermen were our stiffest test until we got in. Run into John Donaldson and Ben Jerome at Rose Island and they reported defeat by the Weather Bureau, too.

Local pheasants, according to Bill Brown, are much more plentiful than last year. Bill has been cutting short their derisive cackles up around Oxford.

Shelley Presents Wildlife Pictures

Two fine color films of the outdoors will be shown tonight at 7:30 at Eastern Junior High School under auspices of the Oakland County UAW Recreation Council. Films are entitled "Pine Portage Holiday" and "Hunters' Moon," made by Pontiac's Howard Shelley and Mrs. Shelley on hunting trips in Michigan and Ontario.

There is no charge for admission and all interested in the outdoors are invited.

Duffy's Got Support

EAST LANSING, Mich. — Pressure-plagued Duffy Daugherty, Michigan State football coach, says he got this word from an alumnus just before the Homecoming Day football game against Illinois Saturday: "Remember, coach, we're all behind you, win or tie."

Waterfowl Begin to Move

Flight Duck Head South

LANSING — The first big movement of waterfowl crossed Lake Erie marshes where tabulations are kept, the total bag is down about 10 per cent from last year.

Huge flights of ducks, mostly of the "diver" species, were reported by hunters at scattered areas, but flights so far have been below expectation.

Generally, however, hunter success slightly improved over last year. After a better-than-usual opening day, shooting sagged with the onset of mild weather, then picked up last week.

Falling temperatures froze the marshes along Saginaw Bay and farther north during the weekend, keeping ducks in deeper water and holding down shooting opportunities close to shore, reports indicated.

TWO-TIMED MOOSE — The 1,050 (dressed) pound bull moose, whose 40-inch-wide rack is displayed above by Pontiac merchant Frank Slaybaugh, actually was "two-timed" in the Canadian woods at Batchawana Bay, Ont. Slaybaugh and picture-man Jerry Woolver collaborated to bring down the trophy. It was Slaybaugh's 1st Canadian hunting trip, his 1st moose. The Pontiac pair spent 12 days on their trip.

This Moose Tough to Get

Two Pontiac moose hunters got looking in the brush at him, when their moose — one bull moose — all of a sudden he charged me. I got in a shot, and he tumbled into the lake.

Jerry says the bull was Frank's, and he (Jerry) is going back Nov. 1 to get one for himself.

Frank Slaybaugh and Jerry Woolver spotted the big animal in a thicket along Batchawana Bay. Frank took the first shot, and connected. The bull went down, but not for long. While the pair looked on, surprised, the bull scrambled to its feet and took off. It went clear around the small bay, before Woolver caught up.

Here's where the "big moment" came in, Jerry reported. "I was

Tagged Walleye Caught After 200-Mile Swim

MIO — A tagged walleye pike from southern Ontario traveled approximately 200 miles in 63 days this year before being caught in Saginaw Bay, north of Pinconning.

The fish was tagged and released by Canadian fisheries workers March 22 in the Thames River, which flows into southeast Lake St. Clair. The migrant walleye then was caught by Carl Schank of Pinconning on May 21.

Benzie Lake Searping Date Moved to Nov. 15

LANSING — A change in searpering regulations on popular Crystal Lake in Benzie County will be in effect this year.

Spear fishermen will be allowed to take whitefish, ciscoes, suckers and carp from Crystal Lake during a Nov. 15-Feb. 28 season. This season formerly opened Nov. 1, but the state Conservation Commission recently established the later opening date to give added protection to lake trout in Crystal Lake during the early part of November.

Coturnix Lacks Hardiness

Isn't Suitable for State

Michigan Conservation Department's game biologists aren't convinced the European migratory quail, known as the coturnix, could establish itself in this state. Rather, they believe, it lacks the hardiness necessary to survive the rough winters here. It's unlikely, the experts say, that it would survive.

State men have been studying the experiments with the quail, many of which were released some time ago by the Tennessee Conservation Department. Several states are testing the birds, which do not collect in coveys, like the Michigan bobwhite.

Comment regarding the coturnix followed a recent report of one wearing a Tennessee leg band being shot by a hunter in the Upper Peninsula, north of the Seney Wildlife Refuge.

Solunar Tables

For planning days afield, either hunting or fishing, so that the hunter or angler will be in good territory, or in good cover, area sportsmen are invited to look over the solunar tables, below. These periods were prepared by John Alden Knight, especially for this area. Major periods last for an hour to an hour and a half, while minor periods are somewhat shorter.

Caldwell Unchanged

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 28 — Princeton Hospital reported today that the condition of Princeton University football coach Charlie Caldwell remains unchanged.

Caldwell, 56, was admitted to the hospital Monday in serious condition from a "lingering, deeply rooted infection."

Caldwell has been on medical leave since Sept. 23.

'Derby' Leader Wants Career as a Forester

Young Gary Salminen, 17-year-old Walled Lake High school student wants to be a forest ranger. That's what the outdoors-minded leader of The Press "heavy bird" contest division, hopes to become.

Says his father, Elmer, 1215 Oakley Park road, Walled Lake:

"Gary is a fine boy. He loves everything about the outdoors, hunting, fishing, everything. He has been hunting for four years, and he's good at it. We plan to hunt deer together at Munising, in November."

Gary's 3-pound, 7 1/2-ounce pheasant yesterday took over the contest top spot. He has downed two others so far.

Forest Fire Hazards Reduced by Rainfall

LANSING — Michigan's autumn forest fire hazards eased somewhat this week as rainfall was reported over much of the state.

During the preceding week, 21 fires damaged 44 acres of state and private lands.

Heaviest losses were recorded in the Upper Peninsula where 11 fires burned 30 acres.

Experts Say GL Fishing Fine

ANN ARBOR — Fishing in the Great Lakes couldn't be better. Oh, there might be a slight shortage of the big ones, but fish experts at the Institute for Fisheries Research located at The University of Michigan agree that walleyes, smallmouth bass and many other game fish are in abundance in the Great Lakes.

And they should know, because recently the Institute began a study of walleyes and smallmouth at Bay De Noc on the northern edge of Green Bay.

The Institute, a branch of the Michigan Department of Conservation, is currently investigating fishery problems in several areas of the state in conjunction with studies of the hated game fish killer — the sea lamprey — which has all but wiped out lake trout in several areas.

Walter Crowe and Carl Latta, both biologists at the Ann Arbor office, spent two weeks in the Bay De Noc region recently, tagging the walleyes and smallmouth bass. They were accompanied by Leonard Joeris, also a biologist, from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife station here.

Crowe says: "We'd like to encourage Great Lakes fishing, especially among sportsmen. Our studies have shown that many fish die from natural causes than on the end of an angler's hook."

Bay De Noc, known widely as a commercial and sports fishing center, was selected for study by Crowe and Joeris because of the apparent lack of specific information in the area.

Latta joined the research team to learn more about the smallmouth bass and to compare the smallmouth of Bay De Noc with those which he studied for four years at Waughoshance Point (just west of Mackinaw City).

Their objective? To investigate the area and formulate recommendations which could ultimately lead to conservation department policy in the area.

As Crowe explains it: "All previous information from the area concerning fish populations was gained from commercial fishermen and hearsay from anglers, and you know how they can tell fish stories."

The fish experts hope to determine the amount of exploitation of walleyes and smallmouth near Bay De Noc and they have devised a simple, yet apparently accurate, method for such an undertaking, similar to that used by ornithologists in studying bird populations.

For two weeks the biologists trapped, weighed, measured, scale sampled (to determine age), and jaw-tagged fish of both species.

The legal minimum size for a walleye is 15 1/2 inches for commercial use and 12 inches for anglers. Thus, most of the fish studied were undersized specimens netted by

Senators Seek Missiles Race

Dirksen Says Country Willing to Spend Funds to Surpass Reds

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Dirksen (R-Il.) said today the country is willing to pour any amount of money that can be spent usefully and constructively into missile development to surpass the Russians.

Dirksen, the assistant Republican leader, said public reaction to the Soviet Sputnik is likely to be a determined drive in the next session to increase defense expenditures.

Assessing this reaction, Sen. Morse (D-Ore.) called in a separate interview for a crash program of missile development. He said it ought to be directed "by the nation's top scientists and not by the politicians."

A number of other senators of both parties have called for a speedup in missile development and have deplored rivalry among the services.

But Dirksen said that as a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee he will combat any tendency to provide defense agencies with more funds than can be used by the competent, trained manpower available to them. He said lack of such manpower may be a critical element in speeding up the program.

If it is, Morse said it will be "because this administration has discouraged the scientists at every turn."

President Eisenhower has held firm thus far on a 38 billion dollar outlay for defense in the current year, ending next June 30.

Secretary of Defense McElroy has canceled a 170-million-dollar cutback in research and development funds, and there were signs yesterday that spending may be allowed to exceed the 38 billion ceiling.

But these moves are not likely to satisfy some of the senators who will be armed soon with ammunition from an Armed Services Committee staff investigation of the missiles program. That investigation was launched a short time after the Russians surprised the world by launching a satellite last Oct. 4. Since then, the United States has reported a number of new scientific achievements.

The Russian satellite ended its 25th day aloft yesterday a full lap behind the rocket station which launched it. The Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory at Cambridge, Mass., said the rocket passed the satellite over the South Pacific at mid-afternoon—in broad daylight when they could not be seen.

With ferries for transportation it took 53 minutes to make the trip, plus 45 to 105 minutes waiting for a boat.

Asks $11,300 for Fall From Pogo Stick

PROSSER, Wash. (U)—A suit seeking $11,300 damages for injuries allegedly suffered in a fall from a pogo stick was filed in Superior Court at Prosser.

Mrs. Leta E. Hicks of Richland, Wash., brought the action Monday against Mr. and Mrs. Marion Lee, also of Richland. Mrs. Hicks claims she suffered a ruptured disc and other injuries when she fell from a pogo stick at the Lees home Sept. 11, 1955.

Mrs. Hicks said in the suit the "pogo stick was defective and had a worn rubber tip."

She said she was invited to use the stick which belonged to the Lee children. Mrs. Hicks asked $10,000 general damages and $1,300 special damages.

Dog Barks Call Rescuers to Lost Deaf-Mute Tot

REDDING, Calif. (U)—The barking of her little dog led searchers to Sarah Ann Dobbs, a 3-year-old deaf-mute lost overnight in a hilly, wooded canyon. The child was found yesterday snuggled up to the puppy, dozing. She was clad only in a light T-shirt and panties. She apparently had stumbled into a creek and removed her wet jeans. Several hundred men, with bloodhounds and assisted by the Civil Air Patrol had searched the area.

The government of Nepal charges admission prices to climb a mountain, says the National Geographic Society. For instance you must buy a ticket costing $630 before being permitted to attempt to climb the 29,028 foot Mount Everest. Cut-rate tickets are offered for lower peaks.

Celebrities Named Mayer Pallbearers

HOLLYWOOD (U)—A host of notables, including former President Herbert Hoover, have been named honorary pallbearers for the funeral of former moviemaker Louis B. Mayer.

Mayer died yesterday at the age of 72. The funeral rites will be at noon tomorrow in the Wilshire Boulevard Temple. Rabbi Edgar Magnin will officiate. Spencer Tracy will deliver the eulogy. Active pallbearers will be director Clarence Brown, Myron Fox, Nils Lenstrom, Neil McCarthy, Mendel Silverberg, Howard Strickling, Benjamin Swig and Col. Louis Johnson.

After the services, interment will be private at the Home of Peace Cemetery.

Right Answers Will Win $800 in Pot-O-Gold

The money in Pot-O-Gold now stands at $800, but that's the trouble. All it does is stand. How about you fans working up a little circulation in the pot by sending us the right answers? That way the pot's emptied into your own pocket and more can be added so things don't get stale. Try the new puzzle below.

The new puzzle contains a series of squares which are alphabetically lettered and a corresponding list of sentences with two clue words. Each of the words is numbered. The object is to select the word which you think best fits the clue sentence. You then place the number of that word in the square which has the same letter as the clue sentence.

In other words, you will read the clue labeled A and decide which of the two words makes the most sense in the puzzle square marked A.

Do the same with all other squares. Read all the clues carefully and be sure the right numbers are in the right squares.
