

Mansfield Puts $7-Billion Price on Urban Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield told his colleagues last night they have $7 billion worth of promises to keep to America's violence-troubled city dwellers, to President Johnson and to themselves.

On the eve of a congressional holiday, Mansfield put that price tag on Johnson's program for the cities, a package he said should be handled with a sense of urgency.

Mansfield did not mention an additional $2.5 billion in city aid proposals added to an anti-poverty bill by the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee over administration objections.

"This is going to be a terrific struggle," said Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y.

"A lot of arms are going to have to be twisted."

"There'll be no arms twisted but I do think the results will be just as good," Mansfield said.

"PROMISES TO KEEP"

"We in the Senate have many promises to keep," Mansfield said moments before the Senate adjourned yesterday with no more business scheduled until Sept. 11.

Mansfield said money may not be the total answer to needs of America's violence-troubled cities, but financing of "more than $7 billion in cities programs presented to the Congress by President Johnson is the instrument which can lift our cities to the stature they deserve and must have in an affluent, progressive America."

Praising the Senate Appropriations Committee for approving $537 million in model cities funds, $40 million for rent supplements and $15 million to finance urban research, Mansfield said this was no reward to rioters.

"The Senate committee has shown that, riots or no riots, they would do the right thing for millions of men, women and children who look to them from the shadows of poverty, ghettos and shattered aspirations," Mansfield said.

The $7 billion in city measures, Mansfield said, includes $2.6 billion for anti-poverty programs, $1.6 billion for aid to education, crime control, rat extermination and other programs.

Two Men Killed in Area Cave-In at Building Site

A cave-in at an excavating site in West Bloomfield Township this morning resulted in the deaths of two construction workers.

Dead are Frank Durden, 55, of Highland Park, and James Gardner, 20, of Detroit.

The accident occurred just north and west of the intersection of Maple and Middle Belt roads. The area is being developed as an addition to the Powderhorn subdivision.

Witnesses said the two were laying sewer pipe in a ten-foot deep ditch about 7 a.m. when a large section of one of the walls of the excavation gave way, pinning Durden against the opposite wall and burying Gardner.

The two were taken to Pontiac General Hospital where they were pronounced dead. Durden died of a crushed chest while Gardner suffered a crushed skull.

RESUSCITATION ATTEMPT

Township police officers attempted unsuccessfully to revive the pair at the scene. Doctors at the hospital said their injuries were such that they would have been killed instantly.

They were employed by Mario Sinicola Excavating Co. of 32880 Northwestern Highway, Farmington Township.

Representatives of the firm at the scene said that the walls of the ditch were clay and that a fault on the surface near one of the walls apparently caused the cave-in.

They did not believe that the rain the area received last night was a major factor contributing to the collapse.

Fair, Chilly Trend to Remain Friday

The U.S. Weather Bureau forecast for the Pontiac area today is partly sunny and continued cool. Highs are expected to register between 60 and 67.

Tonight will remain fair and very cool with lows dipping from 38 to 45.

Tomorrow will continue fair and unseasonably cool.

FOOTBALL WEATHER

Winds are northerly 10 to 20 miles, diminishing tonight.

Saturday's outlook is fair with a slight warming trend.

Precipitation probabilities are near zero today, tonight and tomorrow.

Low temperature reading prior to 8 a.m. in Pontiac was 49. By 1 p.m. the gauge had crept up to 63.

The Pontiac school board last night unanimously approved revised salary and fringe benefits for teachers, calling for $1 million in improvements.

Strike Threatens Road Programs

DETROIT (AP) — Some $125 million in highway construction projects throughout Michigan were threatened today by a possible strike.

Contracts between five unions and the Michigan Road Builders Association expire at midnight, and at least one union has announced that its members may walk off their jobs.

Louis Blok, business manager of Local 324 of the Operating Engineers, said there was a definite possibility of a strike but added that negotiations were continuing.

"We are preparing for a strike," Blok said, adding that members of his 2,900-man union have voted 350-150 to reject a contract offer which would have raised wages $1.80 an hour over a three-year period. The average hourly rate now is $4.34.

William Saxton, an attorney for the builders association, said he saw no hopeful signs in the status of negotiations.

DELAY PROGRAMS

Tiesups of highway projects would affect all road construction, including the Fisher Freeway scheduled for a late November opening in Detroit and a 3-mile stretch of Interstate 69 between Marshall and the Indiana border, which is set for a late fall completion.

A State Highway Department spokesman said that any slight delay in construction would postpone the opening of both projects until spring.

Involved in the negotiations in addition to the Operating Engineers, are the Teamsters, Laborers, Cement Finishers and Bricklayers unions.

The Road Builders Association has sent telegrams to its members warning of the possibility of a strike by the Operating Engineers, who run all power-driven equipment on construction jobs.

UAW Councils Act to Hike Strike Fund

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers' national councils at Ford, General Motors and Chrysler recommended today calling of a special UAW convention to beef up the union's strike fund.

Identical resolutions passed at separate meetings of the councils called for the convention in the event one of the Big Three auto makers is struck when contracts expire at midnight next Wednesday.

The action tended to heighten speculation that General Motors would be the target company picked by the union to set the pattern for new three-year contracts at all the firms.

Current union resources would permit longer strikes at Ford or Chrysler.

The convention, according to reliable sources, would be called for Sept. 23, but presumably only in the event of a strike.

NEWS CONFERENCE CALLED

UAW President Walter P. Reuther has called a news conference for later today apparently to announce the target company.

Once the target is selected, negotiations usually are recessed at the other companies while the union hammers out a contract with the one company or strikes it.

CHICAGO — The 1968 lineup of Chrysler Corp. products will feature extensive changes in the Dodge and Plymouth intermediate lines, including a sporty new Road Runner performance car added to the Plymouth Belvedere line.

The new cars, to be introduced in dealer showrooms Sept. 14, were unveiled yesterday and today before more than 300 press, radio and television newsmen at Chrysler Corp.'s national news preview.

Dodge products, include a new GT sport model Dart and an all new specialty car entry in the intermediate class — the Dodge Charger. They were previewed yesterday in cool, windy, almost autumn-like weather at Seldier Field.

Among the new Chrysler — Plymouth cars, previewed today at Meadowdale International Raceway near Chicago, was Chrysler's most successful seller last year, the Plymouth Fury. This year the Fury will be offered in more models with added comfort options and engineering improvements.

Among the extensive changes in the Dodge and Plymouth intermediate lines are five revamped Plymouth entries: GTX, Sport Satellite, Belvedere, and the new performance car concept tabbed "Road Runner."

LONG SESSION

Although negotiation teams of administrators and teachers seemed deadlock on salary proposals last week, apparent settlement was reached after one long session Tuesday with a State Labor Mediation Board representative.

In the event of a strike, the other two companies continue to operate.

The news conference is set for 5:15 p.m. EDT.

With only seven days left before current three-year contracts between the UAW and the companies expire, union negotiators have learned initial offers "inadequate and inequitable."

The Ford Council's resolution said "the possibility of strike action in the 1967 negotiations may now become a reality for the workers."

The UAW's $67-million strike fund is sufficient to last only about a few weeks at GM. It would support strikes of much longer duration at either Ford or Chrysler.

Timber Blazes Spread to Oregon

By The Associated Press

Fires exploded in the thick timber stands of western Oregon's Cascades today, opening a new front in the Northwest's three-week fight in what is considered the area's worst fire season in recent history.

The fires in the Willamette National Forest ate voraciously through the priceless trees, roaring like hurricanes and shooting flame 200 feet in the air.

"They're spread to all Hell and gone," said Sam Frear, the forest's public relations officer.

To the east, nearly 1,600 men and 37 bulldozers made a new thrust against the 20-day-old, 11,500-acre Trapper Peak fire near the Canadian line in the North Idaho Panhandle.

Marshall to Fill Justice Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thurgood Marshall, great-grandson of a slave and a longtime fighter for equal rights for Negroes, has won Senate confirmation as the nation's first Negro Supreme Court justice.

By a 69 to 11 margin, the Senate confirmed yesterday President Johnson's nomination of Marshall, 57, who was for many years chief legal officer of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Marshall, currently U.S. solicitor general, will fill a high court vacancy created by the retirement of Justice Tom C. Clark, who stepped down when his son, Ramsey Clark, was named attorney general earlier this year.

Swearing in of Marshall is not expected until October, when the court reconvenes for its autumn term.

Marshall's overwhelming confirmation came in the face of charges by opponents — all from the South except Sen. Robert O. Byrd, D-W. Va. — that his seating would assure a lopsided division of the court in favor of "ultra-liberal activists."

Romney Lambastes 'Big Labor' and LBJ

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., (AP) — Michigan's Gov. Romney carried his presidential aspirations to Missouri yesterday and he came out swinging — at big labor, deficit spending, inflation and President Johnson.

Romney, an undeclared Republican presidential contender, was interrupted 22 times by applause when he spoke to a crowd of 3,000 Missouri Republicans in Springfield last night.

Some local GOP leaders had said they believed many in the crowd leaned toward former Vice President Richard Nixon.

Earlier in the day, Romney told a news conference "an excessive concentration of power" in labor unions contributes to inflation and causes other segments of the nation, including militant Negroes, to organize into power-seeking groups.

Romney had soft-pedaled national political issues since Monday, when the Midwestern Governors Conference began at Osage Beach, Mo. The conference ended yesterday and Romney was back in action as a presidential contender.

'FINANCIAL MESS'

He said President Johnson has led the nation into "a real economic and financial mess."

He said Johnson can be beaten in 1968.

"I think the President would have a very difficult time winning reelection if the Republican party takes advantage of the opportunity," he said. "Whether it will or not, I don't know."

Romney, who the latest Gallup Poll says could defeat Johnson in an election today, also made these arguments:

- Unbalanced federal budgets are worse than tax increases or spending cuts, but the surtax proposed by Johnson is not an adequate solution to the nation's fiscal problems.
- Johnson acts solely for political reasons, ignores social and moral principles. "I think he's a political animal," Romney said.
- Government programs should be restricted to areas where individuals and voluntary private associations are unable to solve their problems.
- "There is no justification for any American to break the law."

N. Viets Kidnap 39 in Election Vendetta

SAIGON (AP) — Communist guerrillas dotted South Vietnam with pre-election assaults and terror attacks today, shelling a fourth provincial capital in as many days and kidnapping 39 draft-age men in another village.

With Sunday's presidential election only three days off, officials warned that worse Red violence was expected. Americans off duty were warned to stay in their billets.

U. S. Command announced

the loss of two more warplanes over North Vietnam, maintaining a recent loss rate of more than one plane a day.

The weekly casualty report reflected the current toll in ground fighting, with 125 Americans killed last week and 1,078 wounded. Both totals were up slightly from the previous week but below the average of recent months.

Communist losses were 1,250 also below average, while the South Vietnamese had 101 killed and 367 wounded, well below the American figures and reflecting the increased role of U. S. troops in Vietnam.

The latest terrorist attacks were scattered through the Mekong Delta, the Saigon area and the central provinces. The guerrillas were generally lying low in the far north after spectacular attacks Tuesday in which two dozen hit-and-run strikes were made and 997 prisoners were freed from the provincial jail at Quang Ngai.

Two American Army advisers and a U. S. government civilian employee were killed south of Quang Ngai when guerrillas caught two platoons of militiamen in a crossfire as they were trying to recapture some of the freed prisoners. A crewman of a U. S. rescue helicopter also was wounded, but the Vietcong slipped away when Vietnamese army reinforcements arrived.

The fourth provincial capital hit this week was the normally sleepy town of Phan Thiet, on the coast about 55 miles east of Saigon. Mortar shells began to fall at 1:30 a.m., and when the 15-round barrage ended a small child was dead and 11 civilians were wounded. About the same time a band of guerrillas entered the village of Cua Dai, 288 miles north of Saigon, and carried off 39 young men at gunpoint. The normal Communist tactic is to indoctrinate such captives and put them in Vietcong units.

TERRORIST STRIKES
In Saigon, a terrorist burst into the home of a minor city employee and opened up with a 45-caliber pistol, wounding a policeman and a young secretary. The terrorist escaped.

The guerrillas blew up a small bridge near Can Tho and blasted a large hole in a main road below Saigon in their continuing campaign to disrupt the north-south highway through the Mekong delta. South Vietnamese headquarters said highway traffic was restored shortly after both explosions Thursday.

OBERLIN, Ohio (AP)—The pilot of an airplane from which 16 parachutists leaped to their death in Lake Erie Sunday near Huron, Ohio, said he told his co-pilot just after the jump: "I hope we didn't drop them in the water."

"At this time nothing was really wrong, but something didn't seem right," said Robert Karns of Vermilion in a deposition to officials of the National Transportation Safety Board today at a hearing on the Oberlin College campus.

30 Homeless in Flood

BEATTY, Nev. (AP) — Some 30 persons were homeless today after a flash flood tore a road through this southern Nevada desert town wrecking houses and cars and washing out roads. The flood hit the north part of the community hard late Wednesday night shortly after a cloudburst in the nearby timber mountains. Residents said three houses were destroyed. No injuries were reported.

Bloomfield Twp. to Join Council of Governments

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP—The Township Board has voted to approve the township's membership in the newly created Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (COG).

The decision was a near unanimous one with only one member of the board, Robert M. Sinclair, dissenting. No objections were present in the audience.

The organization is being formed to deal with mutual problems facing county and local governments and school districts in southeast Michigan.

It has no taxing or legislative powers and members can withdraw on 90-day notice. The Committee of 100 of the Metropolitan Fund suggested the organization in order to coordinate community efforts in such projects as sewer and water line construction and pollution control.

Township Supervisor Homer Case had been a member of the committee for two years. He was appointed to the group by the Oakland County Board of Supervisors of which he is a member.

$600 YEARLY
Dues are paid to COG in proportion to the population of the member community. Bloomfield Township, with a 1960 population of 22,330, will pay $600 yearly.

Case was named the township's representative to the organization.

Egypt, Saudi to Get Out of Yemen War

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP)—Egypt and Saudi Arabia agreed Wednesday night on a formula to get themselves out of Yemen's civil war amid the first talk at the Arab summit meeting of a "political solution" with Israel.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt figured in the developments, promising withdrawal of his forces in Yemen and taking what conference sources said was a less belligerent stance toward Israel in a speech at a closed conference session.

In return for the Egyptian troop pullout, Saudi military assistance is to be halted in the five-year-old Yemen civil war that has pit Egypt, the mainstay of the republican government, against royalist rebels supported by Saudi King Faisal.

Nasser and Faisal approved a plan calling for the formation of a three-power committee to supervise the phasing out of hostilities. Sudan, Iraq and Morocco were named to the committee and planned to begin work immediately after the windup of the summit meeting Friday.

NO DEADLINE

No date was set for the beginning of the withdrawal of Egyptian troops, who numbered about 40,000 in Yemen until a large contingent was moved out following the Middle East war in June.

Premier Mohamed Ahmed Mahgoub of the Sudan, who served as mediator, said the dispute had been settled "in the interests of purifying the Arab atmosphere of political division."

Wednesday Nasser had pointedly turned his back on Faisal at the conference's opening session, but the two were smiling and shaking hands when their agreement was announced today.

Minuteman's Office Blasted

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—A dynamite blast early today wrecked the front of a building used as an office by Robert DePugh, leader of the right-wing Minutemen, and as a headquarters by the Patriotic Party, the Minutemen political arm.

Four persons asleep in the rear of the one-story building escaped injury.

DePugh said last Saturday he had been informed that he and George Lincoln Rockwell, leader of the American Nazi Party, were among four right-wing leaders who have been tabbed for assassination.

Rockwell was shot and killed by a sniper last Friday at Arlington, Va.

DePugh said his information came from "a source high in government intelligence."

Tropical Storm Grows Stronger

'Arlene' Is Harassing Atlantic Ship Lanes

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Tropical storm Arlene, her winds approaching hurricane velocity, churned slowly across the Atlantic today and harassed shipping lanes far from land.

Forecasters said the storm, still centered more than 2,000 miles east of Miami, had top winds of better than 60 miles an hour. But they said Arlene seemed certain to reach hurricane force sometime today.

"We just can't say when. At this point, we can't tell," a forecaster said.

The storm's poorly defined path was checked out Wednesday by planes, ship sightings and satellite pictures.

At 6 a.m. (EDT) Arlene was about 1,200 miles southeast of Bermuda, moving toward the west northwest at about 15 miles an hour. She was centered at longitude 49.9 west.

Her speed and intensification was expected to remain fairly constant during the morning hours.

To be classified a hurricane, a storm's winds must increase to a speed of 74 miles an hour. Disturbances become tropical storms when their winds exceed 39 m.p.h.

Arlene developed into a tropical storm Wednesday after moving weakly about the Eastern Atlantic for several days. Winds reached up to 60 m.p.h.

Sanity Exams Are Denied Nazi Suspect

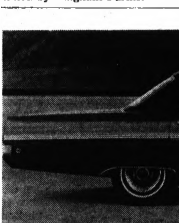

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — Arlington County Court declined today to commit John C. Patler, accused of slaying American Nazi party leader George Lincoln Rockwell, to an institution for further mental examination. Judge L. Jackson Embury, rejecting prosecution requests for further testing, based his ruling on a report submitted by three court-appointed psychiatrists that Patler was competent to stand trial.

Patler, a former Marine and once No. 4 man in the party hierarchy, has been charged with murder in connection with last Friday's sniper shooting of Rockwell on a shopping center parking lot near the party headquarters here.

Embury also noted during today's hearing a 15-year-old psychiatric examination describing Patler as a potential murderer and paranoid.

1968 FURY — The largest selling line of Plymouth cars, the Fury, features a new grille and rear end. The Fury III four-door

Latest Spotlight Stealer Is '68 Plymouth Fury

Plymouth's volume line, Fury, offers 27 models and six different engines for 1968.

Appearance changes are at the front and rear of the car. These include a new grille featuring thin-line horizontal bars, bigger rear bumpers and deck lids which open at the bumper.

The Fury will go on display with other Plymouth lines Sept. 14. Area dealers are: C. Owens, 724 Oakland, Pontiac; Birmingham Chrysler Plymouth, 912 S. Woodward, Birmingham; Kessler-Hahn Chrysler, 6673 Dixie Highway, Clarkston; Colonial Chrysler, Milford; Alex Motors, 2222 Novi Road, Walled Lake; Milosch Chrysler-Plymouth, Lake Orion; and McComb Chrysler-Plymouth, 1901 N. Main, Rochester.

wagons are 216 or 217 inches long on a 121-inch wheelbase.

New in 1968 are V8 and six-cylinder Plymouth Fury III models with fast roof, two-door hardtop style, previously available only in Sport Fury and VIP.

STATION WAGONS

There are three models in the upgraded station wagon model—the Suburban, the Custom Suburban and the Sports Suburban. The Sports Suburban wags feature wood-grained exterior trim and split-back front seat with center arm rests.

The 225-cubic-inch engine is standard on all six-cylinder models. The 318-cubic-inch engine with two-barrel carburetor is the standard V8. Optional V8s on all models are the Commando 383 with two-barrel carburetion, dual exhaust and other high-performance features. The four-barrel 383-cubic-inch engine also is available.

The Super Commando 440 is also optional on all models except the station wagons.

At Commerce Twp. Hearing

Opposition to Land-Fill Erupts

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — A "Down with the Dump" sign slouched against a window.

Inside, about 300 persons sat quietly for two hours last night to hear about the sanitary land-fill the Oakland County Road Commission proposed to operate east of Benstein and south of Sleeth roads.

It would serve about 184,000 persons as part of a proposed countywide plan.

Then the opposition which had been fermenting throughout the audience erupted, first with a loud, out-of-turn demand to halt the presentation of plans by the Road Commission representatives.

For the next two hours at the public hearing held before the Commerce Township Board of Appeals, about a dozen spokesmen assailed the Road Commission and the Board that everyone in the room was against the land-fill.

SPEAKERS APPLAUDED

And the opposition assured its recognition even further. It loudly applauded its spokesmen.

Some whistled, others sockered over the term "land-fill."

Property owners, however, will have to wait for a few days for the board's decision. Chairman Ernest Campbell explained that more study of the land-fill proposal is necessary.

The Road Commission owns the 65 acres on which it wants to operate the land-fill. But it must obtain permission of the board, according to township ordinances.

LAND-FILL AREA

It plans to use only 24 acres for the land-fill area. The pending request before the board is for 10 acres.

Requests for the remainder of the 24-acre parcel are planned for later according to need, said a commission spokesman. Approval to operate the land-fill must be sought each year, he added.

The commission has already received a license from the Michigan Department of Public Health and an initial loan of $200,000. The board's go-ahead has thus become the last word.

A sanitary land-fill, explain health department regulations, is "a method disposing of refuse on land without creating nuisances or hazards to public safety."

DISPOSAL METHOD

This is done by confining the refuse to a small area, reducing the refuse to a small volume, and covering it "suitably" once or more each day, the regulations state.

The health department's regulations on land-fills would be followed as well as enforced, stressed both the chief of the Environmental Health Planning Unit of the health department, Fred B. Kellow, and director of permits and special use of the Road Commission, D. W. Hasse.

The commission spokesmen pointed out several times that their plans were for a land-fill and not a "garbage dump."

An "open dump," according to health department definitions, is "where refuse is dumped and which due to lack of control may create a breeding place for flies and rats, may catch fire or may produce air pollution."

DUMP BAN

Hasse said he expects no more open dumps in Michigan sometime after May 1968, when the health department will prohibit them. Kellow of the health department partment affirmed that "In five years, every open dump will be eliminated in Michigan."

Hasse also brought out that each person contributes four and a half pounds of refuse a day. A land-fill, charging about $1.50 per ton of refuse, is the least expensive method for handling this refuse, Kellow declared.

The Road Commission's plans for the land-fill set the hours to 44 per week, and states there will be controlled and sufficient access to the area, scale facilities, fire protection by the county, and maintenance facilities.

Other plans call for a buffer zone and regular health inspections. A minimum base of at least five feet from the ground water table level, was also required by the commission. This is to prevent contamination of water sources nearby.

NO DUST, NOISE

"Also, we don't believe in dust and noise," said Hasse.

The commission also maintains that refuse will be in two-foot layers and covered by at least six inches of dirt once or more a day. This cover "will eliminate odors, the attraction of flies and the need to burn," said Kello.

The health department representative also declared that the land-fill would take mostly papers, cardboard and cans, and only a limited amount of garbage.

"A certain amount of garbage aids decay and compaction," the representative said.

OPERATIONAL SPAN

The commission plans to operate the land-fill for about five and a half years. It recommends a recreation area for the land afterwards, although a slab or pilings would make possible construction of a light industry on the site.

"However, with proper planning, there is no limit to use after the land is filled," claimed Hasse.

Both the health department and the Road Commission assured that the land-fill would not be "a nuisance to the area or a hazard to health."

The Road Commission is planning a second land-fill on a site north of Pontiac. This one, planned to serve 200,000 people, will soon go up for local approval.

OPPOSING PETITIONS

The spokesmen for the opposition in Commerce presented the board with about eight petitions bearing about 1,000 signatures.

The strong opposition repeatedly disputed the commission's claims regarding health, noise, adequate roads and pollution of the water, rodents.

Several property owners declared that the refuse trucks would endanger their children walking to and from school buses.

Other concerns were methane gas from decomposition of the refuse and unpleasant smelling winds from the land-fill.

The Commerce Lake Subdivision Association, said its president, Wayne Shepard, will get an immediate injunction from Circuit Court opposing the land-fill if the board approves it.

FORMAL AGREEMENT — Representatives of the Brandon Board of Education Association yesterday formally signed a teacher contract for the coming year. Among those putting their names to the pact were Leslie Wright, (left) school board vice president, and Leo Kiesel, a negotiator for the BEA. Mrs. Sue Cole, a teacher at Brandon High School, looks on.

Orchard Lake Improvement

Weed Killer Cleans Bay

ORCHARD LAKE — You can see the bottom of the bay of Orchard Lake now and your motorboat will no longer get wrapped up in the spreading milfoil weed.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Hall, 4905 Pelletier are responsible for this water improvement. They hired the Pensuall Co. of Aurora, Ill., to apply an $850 Aquanul Plus weed killer to the 25-acre bay.

The Halls first sent letters to the 29 bay residents, informing them of the improvement project. All residents responded and agreed to share costs estimated at about $40 per property owner. At present, however, only 13 residents have paid their share, reported Mrs. Hall.

The chemicals, applied about seven weeks ago, dissolve the weeds, leaving no leftovers.

The treatment prevented swimming and use of the water for sprinkling lawns for only 24 hours, said Mrs. Hall. She described the milfoil weed as typical of area lakes. It grows rapidly and reaches the water's surface.

Weeds still plague the shore, though, said Mrs. Hall, who observed that the water is out about 100 feet further than normal. The lake's shoreline is one of the few that is clear because of a treatment of lawn weedkiller.

Mrs. Hall said she hopes other bay residents will follow suit.

John C. Hall an Orchard Lake councilman, and his family have lived on the bay for 15 years.

System of Storm Sewers to Hike Growth Potential of South Lyon

SOUTH LYON — The eastern part of the city will increase its growth potential with the construction of a $110,000 storm sewer system.

Developer Douglas Colwell of Douglas Homes, Inc., Walled Lake, is planning to petition South Lyon to annex 70 acres now in South Lyon Township.

The acreage will be added to Colwell's 20-acre Lyon Boulevard Subdivision on the northeast side of the city.

The sewers under construction were a major factor in Colwell's decision to expand his subdivision, the developer said.

He will be paying 40 per cent — about $44,000 — of the total cost of the sewers.

The sewer system will serve eight of the 30 acres in the developed portion of the subdivision and 32 acres of the presently undeveloped part. The remaining acres are included in a drainage system already existing.

Colwell expects the sewer construction to be completed in about three months. Work was begun early last week.

Also last week, the city sold $60,000 in bonds to help pay for the sewer project.

The present drainage system has been termed inadequate and would not be able to handle the needs of additional developments.

Fall Schedules at 2 Area Parks Are Announced

Swimming and food service will be available at Baypoint Beach at Stony Creek Metropolitan Park near Washington and at the two beachhouses at Kensington Metropolitan Park near Millford through Labor Day.

The Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority has announced that all other facilities at Stony Creek will remain open during the fall season.

Fall attractions at Kensington include picnic and playground areas, scenic drives, fall color, fishing, boat launching and rentals, the Nature Center and labelled nature trails, golf course and the Island Queen excursion boat tours.

The Island Queen will be available noon through 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday in September and Sunday only in October, weather permitting.

Arbitrator Tries to Keep Detroit Teachers Talking

By The Associated Press

A veteran arbitrator and mediator steps into Detroit teacher contract bargaining today in an effort to head off a possible breakdown in negotiations.

Meanwhile, teachers and school officials across the state alternately criticized or praised a Wayne County Circuit Court dismissal yesterday of a complaint seeking to force some 200 Cherry Hill teachers to show up for work whether they have a contract or not.

LI. Gov. William Milliken said he is bringing Ronald W. Haughton into the Detroit teacher situation as a fact-finder because of reports that negotiations are breaking down.

"A lot more progress must be made if schools are to open in good order and on time," reported Aubrey V. McCutcheon, chief negotiator for the Detroit Board of Education.

Haughton is codirector of the Institute of Labor and Industrial Relations at Wayne State University. He formerly served as umpire in contract disputes between United Auto Workers Union and Ford Motor Co.

RECOMMENDATIONS NOT BINDING

Mrs. Mary Ellen Riordan, president of the Detroit Federation of Teachers, said she was "not sure fact-finding will serve any useful purpose," but that her union would go along with it.

Under state law, recommendations of a fact-finder are made public but are not binding on either party.

DFT members have rejected a school board offer of a $400 raise for beginning teachers and $500 for all others.

The union is demanding a $1,500 across-the-board increase, two week's paid vacation and shortening of the school year from 49 to 38 weeks.

CAN'T BE FORCED

Circuit Judge Charles Farmer, meanwhile, ruled yesterday that the Cherry Hill School District may not force back to work teachers who have signed individual contracts.

These contracts, he said, include provision for a master contract on which the Cherry Hill Education Association and the school board have yet to agree.

"Teachers who do not report cannot be construed to be on strike because they are not legally employees of the school district," Farmer said.

Walter Averill Jr., president of the Michigan Association of School Boards, criticized Farmer's ruling.

'SOMETHING WRONG'

"If the courts are not going to grant injunctive proceedings and if this judge is correct in his position, there's something wrong with the whole damn thing," he said.

Erwin Ellmann, attorney for the Michigan Education Association who argued the case before Farmer, said "this is the first case which grapples with the teacher problem and resolves it. It should put to rest any doubts about the availability of injunctions in teacher disputes."

Ellman said the decision "should discourage boards of education from running to court for settlements and induce them to go back to the bargaining table."

Bernard Fieger, attorney for the Michigan Federation of Teachers, said "This will break the back of what I think is a school board conspiracy."

"Now boards can't sit back and do nothing and then go to court to get teachers to work. It will force good-faith bargaining," he said.

In other teacher contract developments across the state yesterday:

The White Cloud Board of Education said it would delay a scheduled Sept. 5 school opening because the city's teacher association said its members would not report for duty until a master contract had been signed.

Portage Township in the Houghton area expected a fact-finder to step into teacher negotiations today.

The Menominee High School coaching staff reached an 11th-hour agreement on an interim contract, permitting the school to continue football practice for its scheduled season opener Saturday.

Jackson-area parents considered plans to raise funds privately to reinstate school bus service for their children. The school board had announced cutbacks in school services, including bus operations.

The Reading Education Association filed unfair labor practice charges against the Reading Community School Board.

Mason County Central District teachers voted unanimously to withhold services pending settlement of their salary dispute. They also have appealed to the State Labor Mediation Board.

AT CONFERENCE — Two area Junior Achievers were at the National JA conference at Indiana University last week. Roy Thibodeau, 18, of 41511 Hanka, Ulica was chairman of the 144-member delegation from Southeast Michigan and also attending was Sandy Keller, 16, of 232 Grey, Pontiac. The teen-agers took part in seminars, workshops, meetings and conferences at the week-long conference.

County Exhibitors Vie for Fair Honors

The Michigan State Fair features agricultural products to give folks an essay of what's going on down on the farm and in the suburbs.

Running through Labor Day, Sept. 4, the fair also offers amusement rides, games and other exhibits as well as cattle, horses, swine, sheep, poultry, canned goods, cakes and needlework for competitive judging.

Chrysler Adds Sporty Road Runner to '68 Lineup

These Plymouth intermediates have flowing body and roof lines and a flared look in the rear fenders. A new sporty coupe replaces the two-door sedan.

The Road Runner, named after a popular cartoon character who consistently outwits his competition, puts together a special 335-horsepower version of the 383-cubic-inch V8 with the sporty coupe for a new concept in driving fun with outstanding performance at a reasonable price.

The Dodge intermediates include the Coronet Deluxe, Coronet 440, Coronet 500 and Coronet R-T. They feature longer, lower body silhouettes with new roof lines.

There are 14 models with a choice of seven engines offered in the four Dodge intermediate series.

Along with the new Dodge Charger, Plymouth's entry in the specialty car field, the Barracuda, is due for some new power and performance options.

In '68, its standard V8 engine has been increased to 318 cubic inches.

Two high-performance engines are optional, one of them a new lightweight, high-winding 340-cubic-inch V8 with a 275-horsepower rating designed especially for sports car performance.

The new Dart GT sport model will have a split grille front-end appearance, a distinctive hood with two power bulges, simulated engine ports, wide tread tires and bumble-bee paint stripes. Conventional Dart models will also have new grille and rear-end treatment for '68.

Two new Dodge Polara models are being introduced to expand the Polara-Monaco line's market coverage in the low and middle-priced field. The new models are a lower-priced Polara and Polara 500 with a 318-cubic-inch engine as standard equipment.

FEW CHANGES

Chrysler's big-car series in the medium price field — New Yorker, Newport Custom, The 300, New Yorker and Town and Country station wagons — will continue without any significant styling changes.

The 1968 Imperial sports a new front end for a lower, wider, more massive look. Many new engineering features, richer fabrics and other luxury appointments have also been added to the 1968 Imperial.

The Plymouth Valiant will continue as a true compact with added fuel economy, new front, side and rear styling and richer looking interiors.

Pickets Scuffle at GM in Flint

FLINT (UPI) — Scuffling broke out early today at picket lines set up at a General Motors Corp. plant by members of a dissident union seeking to wrest representation of skilled auto workers from the United Auto Workers union.

About 200 pickets, members of the International Society of Skilled Trades, gathered at gate of the AC Spark Plug plant to continue an ISST strike called yesterday "against the National Labor Relations Board."

RFK Raps Marine on Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy challenged the contention of Gen. Wallace M. Greene Jr., Marine Corps commandant, that Vietnam is more important than the plight of U.S. cities.

"That's a mistake," the New York Democrat said in an interview. "President Johnson has said we can fight the war and still act on our problems at home."

"Our first priority should be to our own people. We are on the brink of the most serious crisis since the Civil War."

"It seems to me we are devoting all of the resources required to the war in Vietnam but we are not doing so in respect to our domestic problems. There is no question that we have not done what we should have done for the urban and rural poor."

Greene told the American Legion convention Wednesday in Boston that if the United States does not stop the Communists in their promotion of world revolution "then our domestic problems and our pocketbooks are going to become mighty unimportant in the future."

Safe Driving Is Sane Driving

Ahead lies another three-day holiday. Once more, millions of motorists, filled with the exuberance of escape from routine living, will take to the road for a last taste of scenic beauty or indulgence in the superb recreational pursuits offered by our great state.

Inevitably, there will be a grim harvest of highway casualties, bringing death and injury to many and shock and sorrow to uncounted others.

As in the past on the eve of such prolonged holidays, we sound a note of caution for drivers about to embark on the exhilarating quest of fun and sun.

There is scarcely a motorist who is unaware of the forbidding statistics that picture the personal and property loss occurring on the Nation's travel arteries or the "dos and don'ts" of safe driving.

Repetition of them has proven, it seems, ineffective, and we will not enumerate them now. Suffice it to say that safe driving is in the hands that hold the wheel and in the head that directs them.

Since in more than 50 per cent of highway accidents the operators of vehicles have been drinking, that head should not be clouded by alcohol. Moreover, a majority of road accidents occur within 25 miles of home, which experts interpret as due to the impatience and preoccupation of drivers eager to set out on pleasure jaunts. Finally, the preponderance of road mishaps occur after dark.

Were every motorist to drive so as to neutralize these danger factors, after first seeing that his car is in acceptable mechanical condition, and observe prescribed road courtesy with due consideration for the rights of others, the upcoming holiday toll assuredly would be sharply reduced.

Why not give it a try? It's your life that's at stake, you know.

Henry J. Kaiser

With the death of HENRY J. KAISER at 85, America lost one of her most outstanding industrial and humanitarian personages.

Born in New York State, KAISER, in true HORATIO ALGER style, progressively attained fame and success in fields as diverse as dam and highway building, automobile manufacturing, concrete and chemical production, development of aircraft and electronic components, and the erection and operation of hotels and radio and television stations.

Perhaps his surpassing and best known achievement was the emergency establishment of seven shipyards during World War II and the production of 1,500 Liberty ships desperately needed to keep the allied war effort alive.

KAISER

At the time of his "retirement" in 1954 to develop a total community in Hawaii with a projected population of 60,000, the KAISER industrial empire represented $2.7 billion with 190 plants situated in 33 states and 40 foreign countries.

Due no doubt to his youthful privation, KAISER never lost sight of the welfare of his employees—the number of which grew to 90,000. One aspect of his solicitude was the founding of the world's largest private system of hospitals and the introduction of prepaid medical care for the benefit of his workers.

Henry Kaiser's eminent position in the annals of his country will live with the ages and the epitomized philosophy that motivated him is equally timeless: "Yesterday is past . . . I always want to live this day to the fullest and to plunge into tomorrow's job."

Events Make Science Seem Shortsighted

A leading industrialist speaking before a group of professional engineers told how back in 1937 some of the best scientific minds came up with an ambitious technical forecast of scientific breakthroughs that could be expected later on in the century. "It completely overlooked not only the computer, but atomic energy, antibiotics, radar, and jet propulsion," the speaker declared.

So the next time you hear the experts tell us what to expect in the next 50 years, it might be well to hold some reservations. Things have a way of not turning out as the experts foretell.

"This is one of the reasons why a wholly-planned society is a stagnant society. The planners are never able to keep abreast of the ingenuity of the human mind.

Doves Don Antiwar Paint for '68

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The sizeable elements in the Democratic party opposed to the Vietnam war are divided and uncertain how to give political expression to their view.

Whether they can unite on a course of action is one interesting angle to watch in the developing 1968 political picture.

It is antiwar sentiment which energizes the "Draft Kennedy" effort.

This is, of course, not the sole motivation. It embraces admirers of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., as a man and those attracted by what he has said about domestic matters.

But without the antiwar feeling the Draft Kennedy movement would have been wrecked long ago on the rock of Kennedy's repeated assertion that he supports President Johnson for reelection.

CAMPAIGN CHAPTERS

As it is, Citizens for Kennedy, with headquarters in New York, claims some 60 chapters scattered across the country. Dr. Martin Shepard, the New York co-chairman, says it is continuing to grow.

Opposition to the war also has fueled the organization of the National Conference for New Politics which convenes tomorrow in Chicago. It embraces antiwar and civil rights groups. There is talk this gathering may lead to the fielding of a national ticket of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., for president, and Dr. Benjamin Spock for vice president. Both are strongly critical of Johnson's Vietnam policies.

Joseph L. Rauh, a Washington lawyer, is seeking to unite "peace Democrats" behind a movement for a peace plank in the 1968 Democratic platform.

Rauh's plan contemplates an effort from the grass roots level to elect peace delegates to the convention. Selection of delegates will begin early next year.

IDEAS OUTLINED

In late July, he sent a 15-page memorandum outlining his ideas to some 350 Democrats. This argued that a third party (New Politics) or "dump Johnson" (Draft Kennedy) effort were the weakest political moves the peace movement could make.

On the other hand, he contended, an effort on behalf of a peace plank would be a strong move. He suggested that if beaten in the platform committee, a minority report could be brought in and debated in the convention with the full exposure of the television networks.

A built-in factor of strength for Rauh's plan is that most of the Senate and House doves presumably will be delegates to the convention. They are men of influence in their state parties. It is unlikely, for instance, that Arkansas Democrats would refuse to make Sen. J. W. Fulbright a delegate if he wants to be one.

Rauh said in an interview he has received expressions of support from four state Democratic chairmen, but only Robert L. Coate of northern California was willing to be quoted by name.

Rauh said he received requests for his memo and expressions of support from about 50 others who are active in the party. Many came by telephone rather than letter, he said, and added: "I think I have detected a real fear to be quoted in opposition to the war."

David Lawrence Says:

Viet Policy Costs U.S. a Victory

WASHINGTON — Civilian makers of military policy have deprived American forces of victory in Vietnam just as they did during the Korean War 16 years ago when the Joint Chiefs of Staff unanimously recommended the bombing of North China's supply lines north of the Yalu River, only to be overruled.

LAWRENCE

This analysis is emerging from the hearings by the subcommittees of the armed services committee of the Senate.

While limited objectives have been chosen in the Vietnam War operations, limited methods of achieving those objectives have been imposed. The military commanders again have had their hands tied.

Cumulative losses, it is estimated, have turned out to be larger than might have been the case if intensified attacks on all targets in North Vietnam had been allowed a year or more ago.

Basically the trouble is the inadequacy of the liaison between all of the members of the President of the United States, who, under the Constitution, is given responsibility as commander-in-chief of the armed forces.

There's no provision in the Constitution which permits the president to delegate to any Cabinet secretary or to any other civilian official the power to make military decisions.

Theoretically, the secretary of defense should be promoting the military viewpoint in the civilian councils of the government. If there are considerations of international policy to be taken into account, the secretary of state could explain them.

Secretary of Defense McNamara has made many of the principal recommendations on Vietnam War policy as well as on other military questions affecting national security in all parts of the world.

Thus, policy has been formulated by the secretary of defense on the TFX bomber-fighter plane, nuclear-powered carriers, the antiballistic missile system, and other military problems on which differences of opinion have arisen.

In any bombing campaign during previous wars, the toughest targets have been hit at the outset for shock value and for political and economic as well as military effect.

McNamara, it is said, persuaded the President to do it the other way in Vietnam — to start with the smallest targets first so as not to punish the enemy unduly. The result has been an increasingly high cost in human lives.

The United States also has lost 664 planes in Vietnam, and it wasn't until after 500 had been destroyed that the Air Force was authorized to attack the missile bases which the Soviets had installed in North Vietnam.

So the story of the Vietnam war is a record of pleas by the service chiefs for permission to do intensive bombing, which was first refused and then later granted — but only after experience had demonstrated that the military men were right at the outset.

Israel-Type Settlements Solution to Delinquency?

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON — Communal settlements modeled after the kibbutz of present-day Israel are proposed by Dr. Stanley Krippner, a well-known child psychologist, as a possible solution to the problem of unwanted, slum children who may otherwise become tomorrow's rioters and criminals.

Ruth Montgomery

Inasmuch as a lack of "belonging" and love is known to produce many juvenile delinquents, Dr. Krippner believes that kibbutz-type communities could supply those needs, while offering stability and purpose.

As in Israel, such a kibbutz would consist of families living and working together for the common good, and the inclusion of other people's neglected children as an integral part of each community.

Dr. Krippner is in accord with a view set forth 13 years ago by Dr. A. H. Maslow in a little-noted book, "Motivation and Personality."

Dr. Maslow, now president of the American Psychological Association, says there are eight basic human needs, but the four higher ones can be attained only after the lower ones are fulfilled. He lists the first group of needs in this order:

- Physiological requirements such as water, food, warmth and sleep.
- Safety and security, including clothes, shelter and proper diet.
- Love and a feeling of belonging to a unit or group.
- Status and esteem, or the craving for praise, recognition, and usefulness.

Dr. Krippner argues that unless an anti-poverty program helps to fulfill every one of these basic needs, we cannot hope to achieve a truly great society; for greatness springs from the four higher-order needs, which Dr. Maslow lists in this order:

- Curiosity and information.
- The four basic needs are satisfied, both animals and children will huddle and withdraw, but after obtaining proper food, lodging, discipline, love and praise they will begin to explore and learn.

Understanding, which encompasses philosophical and religious needs.

Beauty and esthetics, the yearning for good taste in food, music, reading, decor and art.

Creativity and self-actualization, the essence of race progress.

Viet Election Step to Self-Rule

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In evaluating the upcoming national elections in South Vietnam, one thing should be kept in mind:

The South Vietnamese elections last year that produced the constitutional assembly were pretty botched up, too. But that did not prevent the people from electing a group of men with the courage to stand up against the ruling army junta and write the kind of a constitution they believed in.

At the time of these elections, this reporter talked to men and women in 13 South Vietnamese provinces. Many of these men and women could not read.

But those this reporter talked to picked at random from the people on the streets in rural hamlets, gave surprisingly thoughtful reasons for their vote. They listened to the different candidates, picked their arguments apart with the logic of the everyday man and woman.

They turned down some government favorites and local politicians and elected a surprising number of younger professional men with little

Voice of the People:

Press Readers Discuss Court Rulings on Prayer

To comment on the recent "It Seems to Me" column, where is America headed? United States Court of Appeals rules illegal a child's expression of love and thankfulness for our daily blessings while at school. In the same issue of The Pontiac Press: "Millitant Rap Brown Speaks." In riot-ridden Detroit he advocates more violence, black power, shooting and other unlawful activities. No voice from those in high office—nothing done to stop it. I suppose that comes under freedom and free speech.

Is there some way true Americans can join together to fight for the American way of life and root out these undesirable residents, regardless of color or the office they may hold? I'm ready to help.

MRS. GLEN L. SUTTON

DRAYTON PLAINS

Am I under the correct impression that one of the articles of our Bill of Rights is the right to freedom of worship? Now the Court rules that if a prayer is repeated in class it removes the freedom of choice or manner in which we wish to pray. Can't you also state that by having this freedom to choose whether or not you will participate in a formal oral prayer is more to the point in our interpretation of our so-called freedom?

Unless a child is brainwashed and taught that "God is dead," or a Catholic, Protestant or Hebrew prayer is contrary to his beliefs, most children in their innocence would gladly want to "Thank You for the world so sweet."

Isn't it only natural that when we are our happiest and contented we look upward to thank either a personal God or a pure interest? Why deny a child this same experience? Would the Supreme Court rather we "thank them?"

Who has so much power that they can make an issue of a kindergarten child's thank-you verse to be decided upon by the Supreme Court? Does the Supreme Court have so much time that it can spend it making ridiculous decisions like this one? If so, why not get rid of it? Isn't this discrimination (against God)? Would the Supreme Court dare make such discriminatory decisions against the wishes of Rap or Stokely?

What can an ordinary citizen like me do to eliminate some of the Supreme Court decisions forced on us? Do I dare say thank you for editors like you? Or thank you for news media such as The Pontiac Press?

MINNIE THANKS

In regards to our Supreme Court rulings concerning prayer in the classrooms, our nation was founded on our belief in God. I realize there are atheists who claim they do not believe in God or any higher power, but they cannot sign a check, date a letter or record a birth without using the birth and death of Christ in dating.

There are millions of believing Christians and few atheists, and it seems the few have all the say whether our school children can have prayer in school or classrooms. I thank God we can still speak out against such ridiculous rulings.

experience but considerable idealism.

Furthermore, the constitution written by these independent men so clipped the power of the president and the whole executive branch of the government that the military candidates will not be able to ride roughshod if elected (as it usually they will be), so long as they obey the constitution.

The danger that Vietnamese civilians see is that this constitution will be ignored or its provisions whittled away. "The old constitution wasn't bad," a leading Vietnamese attorney politician told this reporter some months back. "The trouble was it wasn't followed."

This is where the U.S. embassy and Gen. Westmoreland come in. U.S. officials must have the courage to tell the new government that if it expects continued U.S. help, it must adhere to the Vietnamese-written constitution.

The major national association of Vietnamese students is much more mature in its assessment of the national elections than many American detractors. These students have stated they recognize there will be many election irregularities. They expect the military incumbents to take advantage of their positions to influence the vote.

But these students are not cynical or discouraged. Instead, they have said that in moving toward democracy, these elections are a necessary first step. It is their own duty, the students say, to work to make these elections as clean as possible under the present very difficult circumstances. They're not expecting the impossible.

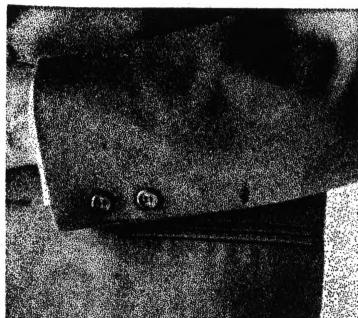

This student view is the honest way to look at these elections. They're a step toward democracy, a small step perhaps, but a move in the right direction.

This doesn't mean that election dishonesty should be ignored. On the contrary, American and Vietnamese newspapers should report every case of fraud or strongarming and U.S. officials should push for punishment of every irregularity.

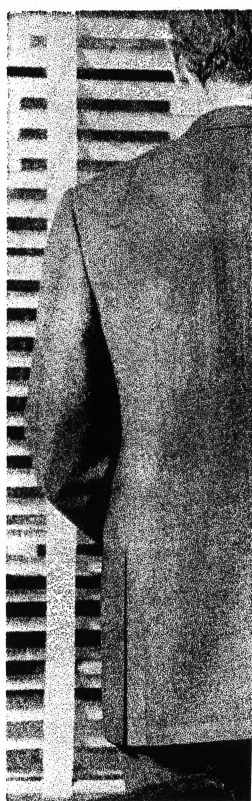

Only by broadcasting irregularities and praising fairness where it is found will South Vietnam continue to progress toward democratic self-rule.

Third Party Eyed at Rights-Peace Confab

CHICAGO (AP)—A five-day convention of civil rights and peace advocates started today with some delegates considering formation of a third political party to try to defeat President Johnson in 1968.

Leaders of the National Conference of New Politics (NCNP) said the convention would consist of "open and democratic" discussion of the problems of civil rights, the cold war and local political problems.

Some of the nation's leading civil rights and antiwar advocates are scheduled to attend.

They include Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., chairman of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; Dr. Benjamin Spock, noted baby doctor and critic of the war in Vietnam; Floyd McKissick, chairman of the Congress on Racial Equality (CORE); Rep. Julian Bond of Georgia, and comedian Dick Gregory.

H. Rap Brown, chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, also was mentioned as planning to attend.

Some delegates to the convention have said they hope to form a third political party for the 1968 presidential elections with King and Spock as candidates.

Others reportedly favor concentrating efforts on local elections and forming a solid coalition between civil rights and peace organizations.

KING COOL ON BID

King, who has been cool publicly toward a presidential bid on the proposed NCNP ticket, is slated to deliver the convention's keynote address to night.

The foundation for convention action was laid Tuesday and Wednesday when several committees started discussions on the structure, perspectives and possible positions the NCNP would take.

Arthur Waskow, 33, of the Institute for Policy Studies in Washington and a member of the NCNP steering committee, said: "There is total openness about the convention."

"Everyone wants to work out a highly effective means of transforming American society," he said.

He said that there were many different views about what the NCNP policy should be and what action should result from the convention.

Waskow said rather than national or local emphasis some delegates are supporting a mock slate of candidates with a president and vice president merely to draw attention to national problems.

A group of Chicago Negroes at the convention were reported considering whether to participate or form an independent conference. A "black only caucus" was held for the 100 Negro delegates Tuesday and Wednesday.

School Quandary: More Buildings Needed, Funds Lacking

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the last of a three-part series describing Pontiac School District problems and plans. At the start of a new school year.)

By DICK ROBINSON

Pontiac School District is short on revenue but must shortly undergo the second most ambitious building program in its history.

Just two years ago, the district finished an extensive, 16-year, $25-million building project which included 10 elementary schools, two junior highs, a senior high and the central administration and service buildings.

In the next five years, Pontiac may have to undertake more than a $20-million building program.

It may include constructing a senior high, a junior high, two elementary schools and Human Resources Center, as well as extensive building renovations and additions.

On top of these future projects, the district must immediately cope with an unbalanced budget this year and, in six months, possibly the first bond referendum since the depression.

PRIORITY PROBLEM

School expansion and its financing have one of the highest priorities among problems faced by the school district, Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer said.

A citizens committee is presently being organized to study school needs and to set a date for a possible $18-million bond referendum and an operating millage election in late winter.

Overcrowding of the city's two high schools presents the most serious problem, Whitmer explained. Last year both schools were nearly 400 students beyond capacity and will reach 750 in two years unless a new school is built.

It is apparent that additional junior high school facilities will also be required since the four schools are expected to be beyond capacity by almost 500 pupils by 1969.

BOND ELECTION

Whitmer said a roughly estimated $10-million bond levy election would be necessary to finance two high schools since the school district's bonding capacity would be used up in financing elementary schools and the Human Resources Center.

In addition to the bond referendum, Whitmer warned that it is probably that voters would have to vote on additional operating millage for the 1968-69 school year.

A second bond election is likely in late 1968 or 1969 to pay for other construction costs, school officials say.

But across the country, a growing number of taxpayers are rebelling against the mounting costs of public education by voting down new levies and rejecting bond issues.

1960 RECORD

Only 11 per cent of the nation's school bond issues went down to defeat in 1960, according to the U.S. Office of Education.

But last year, more than 25 per cent were defeated while many others were passed by paper-thin margins.

Pontiac voters have passed three out of the last four millage referendums, the defeat coming in 1960. The district has not had a bond referendum since 1959. "Pontiac has supported schools, I suspect, out of belief in education," says Whitmer. "There are some difficult days ahead here, but I believe we have the resources to overcome them."

Local operating school expenditures — estimated at $15.7 million for 1967-68 — have more years. About 85 per cent of the total goes for employee wages and salaries.

This year's budget — still yet to be finalized pending the outcome of teacher negotiations — will not be balanced. Expenditures will exceed revenue by about $1 million. Thus, an election for increased tax millage is forthcoming to make up the loss.

It cost the school district $37 to educate each child last year compared to the national figure of $65.

As far as school revenue goes, Whitmer said, "We don't even begin to meet demands for quality and quantity of education because we don't have enough money."

Pontiac's annual school income (compared to national average estimates) comes from the following sources: 60 (52) lack of money.

"Inflation and a reduction in federal grants to accommodate the demands of national defense made last school year one of fast-rising prices," Vernon Schiller, school business manager, reported, "The outlook is not good."

Schiller said he feels the enrollment (compared to national average) has to be cut back because of a

"We are just starting to feel a financial pinch now," Whitmer remarked. "We have been able to meet normal expenditures until this year."

Many educators, including Whitmer, admit that local communities can no longer be counted upon as the primary source of support for public schools. "We are tied to property taxes," said Whitmer. "The federal government isn't."

Plaids and overplaids are where the action is in tailored sports-wear. Left, camel brown and black tones create this striking houndstooth overplaid two-button sport coat. Tan-striped button-down shirt, diamond print tie and brown hopsack slacks complete the look. Right, a heather green, shetland, double-breasted blazer makes its mark when coupled with coordinated green and gold glen plaid slacks. The green and gold tie on a light green spread collar shirt accents the action.

Casual corduroy packs a fashion wallop in this belted, wide wale, light brown, walking coat. Jauntily worn with an all-wool rust-colored turtle-neck sweater, an orange, black and brown houndstooth overplaid that matches the coat's lining, and a brown tyrolean felt hat... it's truly sportswear elegance.

Colorful plaids create stir in men's overcoats for fall, says the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear. Here, a blue and gray glen plaid stands out on a rakishly-cut, trench-coat-styled, all-wool overcoat, and is topped off by a blue and gray houndstooth overplaid hat and smooth black leather gloves.

Miss Johnson's Bridge Partner Becomes Constant Companion

WASHINGTON (AP) — A one-time bridge partner has become Lynda Bird Johnson's most frequent social companion, reports the Washington Post.

And the newspaper noted that actor George Hamilton, once Lynda's frequent companion, has seen little of her this summer.

The Post said Marine Capt. Charles Robb of Menasha, Wis., a White House aide, has been dating the President's daughter several times a week.

A former White House aide said Robb first met Miss Johnson when he was invited to play bridge at the White House last year.

House last year "and it's hard to say when it stopped being just bridge and became dating," the newspaper said.

"I'd really prefer not to say what the status of our relationship is," Robb told the Post Wednesday. "I want to stay out of the commenting business."

Robb expects to be assigned to Vietnam early next year. His mother told the Post, in a telephone interview from Milwaukee, that "Chuck not only expects to go, but I think he wants to go, very much."

Lynda and Robb have spent several weekends together at Rehoboth Beach, Del., this summer.

The post quoted friends as saying the couple recently has gone out several times every week.

Former April Crain Wed to David Heintzleman in Weekend Ceremony

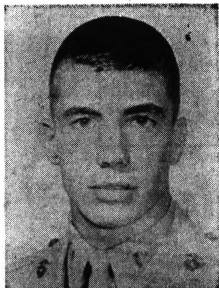

Vows were repeated recently in the First Presbyterian Church by Mr. and Mrs. David Heintzleman (nee April Crain).

The bride's traditional gown was fashioned of peau de soie and featured a detachable full train appliqued with leaves and flowers. The appliques were repeated on the gown and veil.

Her wedding bouquet was of white roses and blue baby carnations.

Kay Walders of Alpena and Dennis MacClavey of Sarnia, Ont. were the honor attendants.

Parents of the couple who greeted guests after the ceremony in the church parlors are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Crain of Silver Sands Drive and the Alvin Heintzlemans of Alpena.

CAPT. CHARLES ROBB

Woman Miffed With Friends Who Use Her

By ELIZABETH L. POST

The following letter has been chosen as the prize-winning one for this week.

I am printing this letter in the hope that it will serve to remind other take-it-for-granted riders that owning a car is an expensive proposition.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a middle-aged bachelor girl on a fixed income, and have to budget my money very carefully. I own a car. In my neighborhood, there are five women who belong to the same church and organizations that I do.

Some don't own a car; others don't drive. I've been furnishing their transportation for over five years. These women never offer any money for gas or pay for parking. Sometimes they even forget to say thanks. I wonder what their logic is?

Do they think the car runs on water? I know I can't charge, but these same women tip the hairdresser, waitress and bus boys. I feel like selling my car and giving the equivalent of the taxi fare, which is 75 cents each way in my town, to the one who would take me.

Please say something about this in your column. I'm sure there are a lot of car owners in the same predicament.

— Miss X

Dear Miss X: The women you describe are, of course, at fault for not offering to pay their share of the car expenses. However, I might add that you are a bit to blame yourself for not having established in the beginning, that you expected at least a small amount of remuneration.

WOMEN'S SECTION

She's Ninety-Six Pounds of Trouble to Handsome, Young, Gay Blade

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Through a club my husband and I belong to I recently met a handsome, young, unattached man I'll call Randy.

First, let me tell you that I'm five feet, one inch, weigh 96 pounds, am how - legged and have no figure to speak of. I am not witty or cute, or anything special. Take my word for it, I'm not being modest.

Anyway, this Randy person always greets me with outstretched arms, a big grin, and a compliment. He has told me I'm sweet, adorable, desirable, and 96 pounds of woman! I know he's feeding me a line, but after being married for nine years to a man who has never given me a compliment, it's delicious.

When Randy could have any woman at the club - single or married - what in the world does he want with me?

YOUNG AGAIN

DEAR YOUNG: He may want 96

pounds of (married) woman but I doubt that he wants the ton of trouble that would come with the deal in this case.

DEAR ABBY: Will you settle an argument for us? Do you think women dress to please men or to please other women?

TWO WOMEN

DEAR WOMEN: Which women? Some women dress to please men in general. Other women dress to please their boyfriends or husbands, specifically. Still others dress in the latest fashions because they want to be "in." (They please only the merchants.)

The wisest woman of all knows what looks best on HER and she wears it.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, living on a limited income. A neighbor of mine (and her children) are always asking me to buy tickets, chances, greeting cards, etc.

I simply can't afford to buy things I neither need nor want just to please her, but I am running out of excuses. The last time I refused, she told me I was "unneighborly."

Abby, I feel it is unneighborly of her to keep pestering me and putting me on the spot.

I don't enjoy refusing to buy. It's necessary. What is your opinion?

CAPTIVE CUSTOMER

DEAR CAPTIVE: When you are asked to buy something you don't need and can't afford, simply say you can't afford it, and that should be the end of it. If you offer "excuses" instead of reasons, you'll continue to be pestered.

DEAR ABBY: A member of our card club always asks the hostess if she may take a few refreshments home to her husband. Then she collects a few cookies, candies and whatever else she can carry off in a paper napkin.

We all think this is in very poor taste, but we don't know how to put a stop to it.

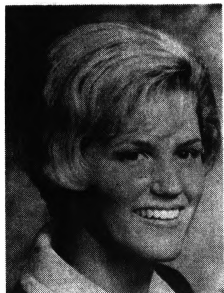

They are in the same financial bracket as the rest of us and outside of this one cheap little trick, she is a lovely person. What do you suggest?

IRRITATED

DEAR IRRITATED: I certainly would not offend a lovely person by denying her a few cookies, candies or whatever can be carried off in a paper napkin.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SAD SACK IN SAGINAW": No one said it better than Mark Twain. "Grief can take care of itself, but to get the full value of joy, you must have someone to share it with."

Problems? Write to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48066. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

MRS. LEONARD T. LEWIS JR.

L. T. Lewis Vows Are Spoken in Franklin Village

Pamela Jo Whipple and Leonard Theodora Lewis Jr. exchanged marriage vows Wednesday afternoon in the Franklin Community Church.

Parents of the couple who greeted guests after the ceremony in the Village Woman's Club are Mrs. Merle R. Whipple of Birmingham, the late Mr. Whipple and the Leonard T. Lewises, also of Birmingham.

Vivien Dixon was maid of honor at the ceremony in which the bride wore white embroidered silk organza and sleeves of lace.

Her ensemble featured an Empire waist and floor length silk illusion veil. White roses were in the wedding bouquet.

Bridesmaids were Mary June Mench and Priscilla DeCann. Kelly Sue Whipple was flower girl.

Allen D. Buckland was best man.

Capt. Douglas C. Whipple, Kenneth John Whipple and Michael Wazak were ushers. Ringbearers were Kevin and Keith Whipple.

The newlyweds are planning a wedding trip to Puerto Rico.

Miss State Fair Selected

DETROIT (UPI) — Lona Woodson of Warren was selected from a field of 10 beauties Wednesday as Miss Michigan State Fair.

Miss Woodson, 20, is a 5-foot-4 blonde model. Her hobbies are dress designing and sports car racing.

Refurbish Old Luggage

Carry a Spotless Case

Arriving at your vacation destination with down-at-the-heels luggage doesn't do your image any good. This doesn't mean that you have to go out and invest in a new set. Very often a little first aid in the form of refurbishing and repairs can give a suitcase a whole new lease on life. Here are a few ways you can make even an old piece look more presentable.

If binding has come unseamed, in spots or if handle has become unanchored at one end, take it to your shoemaker for repairs. This is generally quicker and less expensive than luggage store repairs.

Saddle-soap leather luggage. If leather is excessively dry, give it two coats instead of one. Touch up scuff marks with a crayon, paste furniture wax or shoe polish. If you use the latter, be sure to buff it well so the excess doesn't rub off on your clothes. Administer the same treatment to leather corners and bindings of the rest of your baggage.

For plastic luggage, mix three tablespoons of sal soda concentrated in a quart of warm water and sponge down the outside of the case with this solution. Plastics have been found to be alkaline-resistant . . . in other words they respond well to an alkaline cleaner such as sal which quickly emulsifies the film of grease which holds disfiguring dirt. On naphthalene pieces you can even apply the sal dry as a scourer, and many marks that appear to be permanent scuffs, vanish.

You can also use the sal soda solution on light colored canvas pieces adding a pinch of detergent so as to work up a lather. Use a stiff-bristled brush for application and a sponge for the finishing rinse. Finally give the interior of your luggage a thorough vacuuming for the sake of your freshly laundered clothes. You'd be surprised how much dust collects even in a closed case.

Toni Is Resting Her Feet for Atlantic City Show

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI) — The queen's feet hurt. But otherwise, Toni Jo Abbenante of Grand Rapids doesn't seem too excited about her big adventure coming up next week.

Toni is Miss Michigan. She won the crown at Muskegon in June against 41 other community queens and takes off for Atlantic City for the big one, the Miss America Pageant next week.

The reason her feet hurt is because Toni has been on a tight-schedule of personal appearances throughout the state.

The 19-year-old auburn haired, brown-eyed beauty is taking a clinical and philosophical approach to the Atlantic City pageant where she will compete with beauties from other states around the nation.

UNCERTAINTY

"I can't go to school this semester because of the pageant and whatever happens at the pageant will determine my future course," she said.

Miss Abbenante has completed two years at Grand Rapids Junior College and had planned to enroll at Western Michigan University this fall.

Her ambition is to teach drama and speech. "If I can't make it, perhaps I will have a pupil some day that I can tutor for the occasion," she said. Miss Abbenante went to Muskegon and Whitehall today to visit Grace Atkinson, her dramatic teacher.

The Michigan queen won her title with an interpretive reading of Mrs. Atkinson's original, "Then You Will Remember Me."

It was a switch. She had planned on doing, "Joan of Arc" but copyright laws prevented her from reading it in the contest over a television broadcast in the finals.

Win, lose or draw in Atlantic City, her title of Miss Michigan still bring her about $11,000 in scholarships and other benefits.

"It is wonderful being Miss Michigan and I am looking forward to the trip to Atlantic City," she said.

'Second Fiddle' Hazards

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE D-539: Henry G., aged 38, has married a divorcee.

"But, Dr. Crane," Henry still carrying the torch for grumbled, "I think she is for her first husband!"

"Oh, it isn't that she talks about him or compares me with him regarding my income or education."

"But she doesn't show much ardor in the bedroom."

"On our honeymoon, she was wonderful, but after the first year and the arrival of our baby boy, she has been diffident and inclined to put me off or procrastinate."

"And she usually stays up late so I will have gone to bed, for I think she hopes I will then be asleep before she arrives."

"Dr. Crane, maybe I am just unduly jealous, but this lack of eager enthusiasm in our boudoir is making me caustic and bitter."

"So I have bawled her out on several occasions and last week I got so irate I stopped at a tavern and got drunk."

"Do you think I made a mistake in this marriage?"

"SECOND FIDDLE"

Wives, if you have been married before, by all means be on guard against creating the impression that your second husband is playing "second fiddle."

Even during a first marriage, husbands often grumble and gripe about this same erotic inertia of their wives.

But in first marriages, there is no former husband who becomes this dangerous bugaboo.

Most wives don't even realize that they are different and evasive in their boudoir behavior.

For they usually just act natural!

But "natural" ardor in the married woman whose busy day is preoccupied with child rearing, cooking, PTA and church meetings, is far less than her mate's.

That woman's cause too much trouble if men realized that women are not born to be sexy creatures.

But the erroneous Kinsey report, plus lewd stories told to teen-age boys by salesmen who have patronized houses of prostitution, have spread the false notion that women are very erotic.

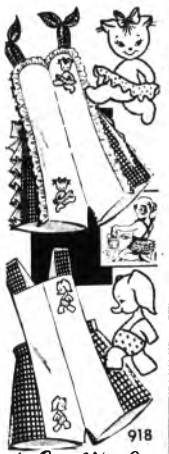

That's a tragic fallacy of millions of women.

Be Stylish, Knit a Belted Coat

As Paris goes so goes the world of fashion. The new collections from French couturier houses are setting a smart pace this season. If you knit you can keep right in step.

Paris says the belted look is back. Belts are either actual or implied, resting at the waist, rising high or dropping down to hip length.

Wherever it rides, the belted look is definitely on the scene for the season ahead.

Waistlines have had as many ups and downs through fashion history as hemlines.

In the late 1700s England introduced the world to a shortwaisted silhouette. It all started when the Duchess of York was in what may be called a "delicate" condition. Her gowns, belted high above a gathered skirt, were created as maternally garments.

HOURLASS

The hourglass shape with its tightly nipped waist dates back to the 15th century. Ever since, fickle fashion has held an on-again, off-again romance with the shapely silhouette.

The romance was mostly off-again in the roaring '20s. In that infamous decade, flappers chose to shimmy in the shapeless chemise.

Today, fashion is moving into shape again.

Paris says take your choice of the belted looks that suit you best. The newest fashions to knit are following the Paris line.

Because you're a knitter you can give your fall and winter wardrobe the custom look that's Paris-perfect.

The handsome coat featured shows one of the new fall shapes. The belt is implied, high above the waist, and pocket flaps accent the line.

The shaping is slight and definitely slimming. Slashed cuffs and a double-breasted effect are snappy details on the short-cropped coat.

It knits up quickly. Start it now, and you'll be right in fashion step this fall.

You can make the coat in Bear Brand's machine-washable Futura yarn or a choice of two other yarns.

Directions are available for sizes 18 to 16.

For your copy of the directions, send 50 cents to Stitch'n Time, c/o The Pontiac Press, P.O. Box 503, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to include your zip code.

Handknit coats are tops for the fall season. You can knit this short topper in a choice of three yarns. All are quick to knit and machine washable for easy care.

Keep Extra Key

Screw a cup hook inside the cutlery drawer and use it to hang keys for opening canned food. This keeps them handy and always within reach when you run across a can of meat, fish, coffee, or vacuum packed breads with their keys missing.

Morning Rite
Unites Pair
in Ferndale

St. James Church in Ferndale was the setting for Saturday morning nuptials for the newlywed Thomas John Sokols.

The former Melanie Ann Vanderlist wore a long sleeved period gown with a high collared bodice and Venetian lace trimming her skirt of delustrated satin, and chapel train.

A three tiered veil was secured to her pearl and crystal head piece of embroidered satin.

She carried a bouquet of Phalaenopsis orchids, Stephanotis and ivy.

Mrs. Richard Haldeman was matron of honor for her sister. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Vanderlist of Ferndale.

Attendants were May Ann Sokol, Ann Vinton of Ferndale and Mrs. Gary Underwood of Utica. Shelley Sokol was flower girl.

Richard Sokol was best man for his brother. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sokol of Brooklyn Street.

Ushers were Mark Vanderlist, Robert Papp, Jeffrey Greene of Mt. Pleasant, and Theodore Dorcas, Duane Haldeman was ring bearer.

An organza gown appliqued with embroidered flowers was worn by the newlywed Carole Diane White for her vows with James Kenneth Bell. Truth Lutheran Church in Detroit was the setting for the Saturday evening rite. Parents of the couple who later greeted guests in Slovene National Home, Detroit are Mrs. LaMaie I. White of West Huron Street and the Jesse E. Bells of Detroit. Robyn Lee White was maid of honor for her sister, Judy White, Cheryl Gohs, Diana Bielicki, Nancy Gregory and Laurene Patton were bridesmaids. Holly Anselmi was flower girl. Kurt Kuhne was best man. Ushers were Donald Gates, Jerry Gohs, Byron Arndt, Thomas Gregory and Bud Patton. Tobin Anselmi was ring bearer. The couple left for a honeymoon in the New England states including Cape Cod, Mass.

Why Grow Old?
By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Vitamins are "on stage!" Today, most people are aware of the importance of fine nutrition in good health and good looks, and of the role vitamins play. However, many are confused concerning the job these vitamins do and where to find them in food. Let me give you a quick rundown and review.

There are about 17 known vitamins. However, today we will consider only vitamins A, B, C and D.

Vitamin A fights infection and has a beneficial effect on the eyes and skin. Some rich sources are: the yellow and green vegetables, yellow fruits, dried fruits, butter, whole milk, egg yolk and fish liver oil.

EVER-LOVING

Vitamin B is not just one vitamin but a whole family with many members. It is an ever-loving family which works extremely well when together, although each member has a special task to perform. Brewers yeast is a fine source because this gives you the entire family. You can buy this at a drug store.

Rugs, Clothing, Paintings, etc.
Unique and Unusual Gifts.

Rich sources in your daily fare are meat, especially liver, milk, whole grain cereals or bread, nuts and egg yolk. You will also find them in some B's in fruits and vegetables.

Vitamin C seems to have a happy effect on the blood vessels. This vitamin is widely distributed in the fruit and vegetable world. However, the citrus fruits and citrus fruit juices are the richest sources. Tomatoes, potatoes and the leafy vegetables are good ones.

This is a tricky vitamin and is easily lost in cooking and storage. For instance, be sure that the top on the jar which contains your orange or grapefruit juice is on tight.

ESSENTIAL TO GROWTH

According to the alphabet, vitamin D is next on stage. This vitamin is essential to the growth and maintenance of bones and is a necessity if our body is to utilize the calcium and phosphorus our diet contains.

Vitamin D is called "the sunshine vitamin" because that is the happiest way to get it, being out in the sunshine. If you are outdoors as a habit a reasonable length of time, you need not worry about this vitamin.

A deficiency can cause rickets in children and in adults softening of the bones, due to the fact that the calcium in the diet cannot be used because of lack of this vitamin. Salmon and tuna fish are rich in vitamin D, as is cod liver oil. You also get some in eggs, whole wheat, lettuce and milk.

Most children's sleeper feet are too bulky for the child to wear slippers over them. Put a plastic bag over each foot and a rubber band around the ankle to hold it on. The children can run around a bit, yet the sleeper feet will still be clean.

You Add Style and New Length

When a little girl's denim pants or levis become too short, lengthen them by adding a piece of harmonizing checked or plaid material.

Remove the old hem and add a piece of cloth folded in half. This covers the faded line and makes the pants look fully lined. It adds the length needed and brightens them at the same time.

Regular spoonbread made with cornmeal is delicious, but so is the variety of spoonbread that is made with cooked hominy grits.

Charming grouping for a small "wallscape" is created with Syroco's miniature prints in Venetian style and an elegant sconce with crystal chains, set off by a floral bouquet. The handsome print frame, with its elegant straight lines complemented by delicately carved decoration, is finished in antique gold brushed with white, and the intricately carved sconce in antiqued metal-gold is faithfully reproduced from an antique. Each print retails for approximately $12 and the sconce for $25. Line available locally.

Decorative Way to Organize Mail

If you are one of those people who keep meaning to get organized, the National Cotton Council suggests you start in a decorative way.

Use eye-catching cotton prints and empty shoe boxes to make attractive files for letters and bills.

Cover both box tops and bottoms with fabric, gluing or stapling it in place. Colorful striped sailcloth or vivid flower-printed pique are good choices. Or use a fabric that coordinates with slipcovers or curtains.

Lace Trim for Mrs. Jones' Empire Gown

June Elizabeth Sullivan and Isaac Jones were wed recently in the Newman AME church.

The bride chose an organza over taffeta gown featuring a fitted bodice, Empire waistline and lace trim. Her A-line skirt was accented by a detachable Watteau bouffant chapel train with lace trim on the hem.

A cluster of Alençon lace petals trimmed in pearls secured her veil of silk illusion. White carnations and roses were the bridal bouquet.

Parents of the couple who later greeted guests in the YWCA on West Huron Street are Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Sullivan of Crystal Lake Drive and Mr. and Mrs. Wade Jones of Wessan Street.

Shirley Ann Michael was a maid of honor for the evening rite.

Bridesmaids were Carolyn Johnson, Dorothy Jones, Ruby Simpson and Janet Mansfield.

Best man was Lawrence Pele.

David and Robert Jones (brothers of the bridegroom) were ushers with James and Tyler McClendon.

The couple will make their home in Pontiac.

Pre-soak Curtain Before Washing

Cotton curtains that hang in the kitchen are apt to accumulate a film of cooking grease.

Before washing curtains, the National Cotton Council suggests you soak them in water softened with a water conditioner. This will cut the film and loosen dirt.

Curtains will really "come clean" and be brighter-looking if you also add water conditioner along with detergent when they are machine-washed.

Youngster Doesn't Trust Her Promises

By MURIEL LAWRENCE, DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: I am the grandmother of a 4½-year-old boy who tyrannizes his older brother. At bedtime when I am baby-sitting for my son and daughter-in-law, he screams himself into a tantrum if I give his brother first choice from the candy jar.

If his mother is preparing to drive anywhere, he will race to grab the front seat beside her so his brother can't have it. Isn't he old enough to be taught to take turns with his brother at what he wants?

not going to be taught this lesson. His mother doesn't want to teach it to him.

If we really want to teach "take-taking" to a small child, we do it. We lift him out of the front seat he has appropriated, deposit him in the back and say,

"It's Buddy's turn today. Tomorrow it will be yours. I promise to do it to you."

And all the howls he can emit don't disturb us. They don't disturb us because we trust our ability to keep our promises.

to trust it, too. And the howls he doesn't trust us to come through with it.

So the problem is not the tyranny of this child. It's his mother's distrust of herself as a promise-keeper.

The experts ascribe the small child's resistance to "turn-taking" to his inability to conceive of a future which will deliver what he wants now. But the experts are away off beam in this matter.

If a 4½-year-old can't trust the future to produce his turn at the proper time, it's because he doesn't trust us to come through with it.

He has repeatedly noted how quick we are to relinquish defense of his brother's turn. He sees no reason to expect us to defend him when the time for defending it arrives.

By the age of three, the small child should have accumulated enough experience of our reliability to trust us when we say, "I promise you your turn tomorrow." If he hasn't, his intelligence is either retarded or the unreliability has made the now of possession the only one to count on.

Afternoon vows were repeated Saturday in the Drayton Plains United Presbyterian Church by Drucilla A. Hotchkiss and Robert L. Braunman. Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Earle S. Hotchkiss of Williams Lake Road and the Elmer C. Braunmans of White Hall, Ill. The bride wore her mother's wedding gown of ivory satin with lace appliques on the yoke. Her ensemble featured a chapel train and chapel length veil. Nancy Williams was maid of honor with bridesmaids Joyce Kuezer, Bonnie Braunman was best man for his brother and groomsmen was David Arndt. Ushers were Paul Hotchkiss, James Rochon, Robert Quillon and Roger Boal. After a church reception the couple left for a wedding trip to northern Michigan.

Treated Cloth May Inhibit Viruses' Life

NEW YORK (UPI)—Some viruses tend to live for three to five months on woolen fabrics but three to five days on cotton materials, according to a report in "Modern Medicine," a medical journal. The viruses tested — polio and cowpox — lived less than one day on cotton fabrics treated with a chemical giving it wash-and-wear properties. Drs. Robert W. Sidwell and Glen J. Dixon of the Southern Research Institute, Birmingham, Ala., found. Their research indicates that treating fabrics with certain virus-killing chemicals might become practical as an aid in controlling the spread of virus diseases.

Big Increase in Births Cited

VENICE, Italy (AP) — Like New York after its 1965 black-out, the birth rate in Venice and nearby towns increased sharply in August, nine months after the big floods last November knocked out electric power throughout the area.

Hospital figures issued Tuesday showed Venice's Lido Beach area produced 130 babies during the first half of this month, a 45 per cent increase in the 91 births in the same period last year.

In nearby Rovigo there were 68 births, compared with 53 a year previous, while the town of Belluno had 54 babies compared with 46 in the first half of August, 1966.

There has been no report from Florence, which was hit hardest by the floods.

Woolens Wash Clean and Soft in New Solution

Smooth shape is the secret of sweaters, knit dresses, tights and other sportswear. The fit is all-important.

To preserve their natural elasticity, hand wash them in a cold water wash, using one to three capfuls in two quarts of cool water.

A new liquid contains a special creme-conditioning that beautifies as it cleanses, and leaves clothing soft, without pilling, matting or shrinking.

Soak the garments just three minutes to clean and condition, then squeeze suds through gently.

Rinse in cool water and block each garment on terry toweling. Then dry in indirect light to prevent fading.

Getting ready to deep-fat fry? It usually takes about 20 minutes to heat the fat to the proper temperature.

Mrs. W. A. Heider Wears Gown of French Lace

Nancy Louise Riffenburg and William August Heider repeated recent wedding vows in St. Williams Catholic Church.

The bride wore a floor length gown of English net with a French Chantilly lace cage of daisy motifs. Her gown featured a wedding ring neckline and full sweeping chapel train.

She carried a bouquet of white daisies and fern.

Barbara Riffenburg was maid of honor for her sister. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Riffenburg of Walled Lake.

Bridesmaids were Suzanne

Camp of Farmington, Mary Jane Heider and Mrs. Robert Greenhalgh of Garden City.

Joseph Hook of Scranton, Pa. was best man for the son of the August J. Heiders of Chippewa Road.

Groomsman were James Lettimer of Walled Lake, Donald Sanderson and Robert Greenhalgh.

'U.S. Bombs Hanoi Civilians'

MANILA (U) — Ferries and land ingeniously improved bamboo rafts traveling under the cover of darkness have replaced trains and trucks as supply carriers across the Red River at Hanoi since U.S. bombers destroyed the Paul Doumer Bridge on Aug. 11, a Filipino newspaperman reported from the North Vietnamese capital today.

Amando E. Doronila, diplomatic reporter for the Manila Times, said destruction of the chief rail and transport link across the Red River "created transport difficulties. But lorries, supplies and other vehicles nevertheless moved across the river under cover of darkness on board numerous ferries. Hanoi side, bombs dug craters on massive earthen dikes. I saw a long row of frail straw huts at Phuc Tan Street flattened by blasts."

He said air raids on Hanoi and its suburbs Aug. 11 and 12 and from the 21st to the 23rd were notably significant in the escalation pattern.

"Selective bombing here could be an American warning to the capital of the bombing terror in store if Hanoi does not cry for peace, but there is no sign that Hanoi morale is suffering from the pressure," Doronila said.

DWELLING FLATTENED

"It is clear that bombs fell with no military value," Doronila nevertheless moved across the yards from the Doumer Bridge, Hanoi side, bombs dug craters

Rights Unit Tries to Block Riot Training in Lansing

LANSING (AP)—The Lansing Human Relations Committee is Sept. 30, urging the city to reject a National Guard request to hold riot control training in the state capital.

The committee voted unanimously Wednesday to urge the City Council to turn down the Guard's request. Several members said the training would tension in Lansing and might attract outside troublemakers.

Despite growing opposition, National Guard spokesmen said they would not withdraw the request.

Brig. Gen. Leonard Ward, assistant commander of the 46th Infantry Division, predicted that as many as 50 local Guard units would ask approval from other cities to conduct riot control training, in keeping with a directive from the Defense Department.

TRAINING DIRECTIVE

The directive, requested by President Johnson after recent riots in cities around the nation, instructs units to complete 32 day of riot control training by Sept. 30.

Ward said riot control training probably will be planned in Grand Rapids, Muskegon, Flint, Saginaw, Bay City, Benton Harbor, St. Joseph and "anyplace that's got a National Guard organization."

Ward and Col. Leo C. Whitaker, division chief of staff, were among several persons testifying at the special Human Relations Committee meeting called to discuss the Guard request.

Whitaker had proposed at a City Council meeting Monday that the Guard, civilian law officers and firemen be allowed to conduct mock riots Sept. 24 and 25.

He proposed that they be held in an eight-block long area on the city's East Side, which has been purchased by the State Highway Department and will be cleared for construction of an I-496 extension.

The council is expected to decide the request next Tuesday.

LB.I Vulnerable in '68 Reports Writer Survey

BOSTON (AP) — The Christian Science Monitor says there is serious anti-Johnson sentiment in the United States and "much of it is found in the Democratic ranks." The paper said Wednesday that a survey it took shows that President Johnson "definitely can be defeated" if he runs for reelection in 1968.

Reports Delay Jewels Return

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — A jewelry case containing $125,000 in family heirlooms was lost, found and turned in at the San Francisco International Airport Aug. 17. But the owner didn't get it back until last Monday, Aug. 28.

The trouble was that Mrs. Dita J. Maier, 32, reported the loss to police in her home city of Alameda. And the airport reported to the San Mateo County sheriff's office.

The two official reports didn't get together until 11 days after Anna Tillman, 58-year-old janitor, found the jewel box and turned it in.

Sex Offender Laws Are Hit

LANSING (AP) — The superintendent of Ionia State Hospital has urged reform in laws governing sex offenders, including transfer of dangerous sex criminals to prison after treatment.

Dr. A. A. Birzgalis made the recommendations in a statement to a special interim legislative committee created to investigate problems of dealing with criminal sexual psychopaths.

The superintendent's statement was released Wednesday by committee member Rep. Thomas Brown, R-Lansing. Birzgalis said the law dealing with criminal sexual psychopaths (CSPs) should be amended, "as it is insufficient in regards to the managing of CSPs who are considered a menace to the community."

The doctor said he believes the majority of such criminals are competent to stand trial, are responsible for their offenses, and, if found guilty, should receive sentences.

"In this respect the same procedure should apply to them as to persons who are accused of felonies," Birzgalis said. "After conviction CSPs who need and are amenable to treatment should be transferred to a mental hospital for treatment."

Chief Appointed

PORTAGE (AP) — The City Council has appointed David Sharp, 41, police chief of this city of 28,000. He succeeds Richard Wild who resigned in May to accept a position as coordinator of police instruction at an Illinois Community College. Sharp is a former Dowagiac police officer and has been acting chief in Portage since Wild resigned.

Hare Asks Sweeping Reform of State Election Laws

LANSING (AP) — "Elections show people are concerned about political morality, including misuse of campaign funds," Secretary of State James Hare has charged in calling for a sweeping reform of Michigan's election laws.

Hare, a critic of current laws on campaign spending, has issued a brochure titled "Money vs. Fair Elections, a Call for Controls on Political Spending." He added that the brochure was not printed at government expense.

"Today," said Hare, "unless a candidate has money or can attract it — plenty of it — he may not win."

Hare's proposals to control political spending include:

- The setting of reasonable limits on campaign spending and the enforcement of the limits.
- Limiting campaign spending to candidates and committees specifically authorized by them.
- Applying the limits and rules to all candidates and to all organizations which support candidates or issues.
- Calling on political parties, holders of public office and anyone operating on their behalf to report periodically on all political spending and debts, between as well as during campaigns.

Requiring major political, office holders to annually disclose both their net worth and income and its sources.

Hare said various surveys

Hare said a study by the department of state showed "growing weaknesses and inconsistencies" in laws governing campaign spending.

As examples he listed:

- Unreported political spending.
- Spending limits evaded through a multiplicity of committees.
- Absence of legal controls over political funds between campaigns.
- Candidates and committees reporting contributions but not expenditures.
- Lump sum reporting of proceeds of events, giving an

Blind Journey Into Flint's Automotive Past

FLINT (AP) — Flint's automotive past recently became a special part of a world clothed by darkness.

The occasion was a tour of the Sloan Panorama of Transportation by more than 30 members of the Genesee Federation for the Blind.

It was the first time that such a group has toured the storehouse of vintage autos, many of them manufactured in Flint.

The federation requested the same tour given every day at the museum.

NEED INVOLVEMENT
"We asked that they not do anything special. We don't expect the world to change for us," Jerry Herron, a member of the federation's board of directors said.
Blind persons, despite their handicap, need a sense of involvement in the world they live in, Herron said.

For several, the experience was a nostalgic reminder of a former way of life.

A man who ran his sensitive fingers over the motor of the 1913 Chevrolet Touring car had worked in the "shop" before an auto accident blinded him.

"This is an educational experience for them," Herron said. "Several of the men were shop workers and several of the women here had husbands, since deceased, who were connected with the auto industry."

PLAIN FUN
For others it was just plain fun.

An elderly, partially blind woman climbed aboard the 1870 sleigh.

A teen-age girl squeezed the bulb of an old fashioned air horn and burst into giggles.

Some "saw" beautiful pieces of machinery through their fingertips.

"It's gorgeous, isn't it?" inquired the woman holding the arm of her blind companion.

"It certainly is," came the reply.

"It sure is shined up nice," commented the sightless mother of two boys, who also were taking the tour.

TOUGH JOB

Dr. Roger H. Van Bolt, Museum curator, told the group: "Please do not hesitate to get your bearings by touching."

"It was a tough job. I didn't exactly know how we were going to do it," Dr. Van Bolt commented at the tour's end.

"But it certainly was a rewarding experience," he added.

After the organized tour, federation members were left to explore the museum's offerings on their own.

One girl ran her fingers over the numerals of the antique license plate collection which hangs on one wall of the museum.

A man lifted the two shafts of men.

an early carriage to see if it was heavy.

"Have you seen everything?" a federation worker constantly inquired.

Said one woman, blind since birth:

"If I had eyes I'd visit every museum I could."

Auto Salesmen Sign 3-Year Pact

DETROIT (AP) — The Automobile Salesmen's Association (ASA) Wednesday signed its fifth dealer contract in the group's 18-month history.

Details of the three-year pact, reached after seven months of bargaining, were not disclosed. Sources close to the union, however, estimated gains from Tom Taylor Buick, Inc., at 30 percent over three years, including fringe benefits.

The contract covers 10 sales-

Election to Be Viet's Most Democratic

By BARRY KRAMER

SAIGON (AP) — Despite pressures, next Sunday's elections in South Vietnam promise to be the most democratic this war-ravaged nation has ever seen.

It will not be a completely free election. Parts of the country are under Communist control and voting there is impossible. In sections that are under government control, Vietcong terrorists are trying to keep voters from the polls. The pressures come mainly from government officials who are pushing the ticket of Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

Even so, the campaign has evidences of fairness that are bright spots on South Vietnam's road to democracy.

For campaign expenses the government divided $500,000 among the 11 presidential tickets. It is spending $300,000 more on a massive, nonpartisan get-out-the-vote campaign. Hardly a city tree lacks its posters and "Go Vote" signs.

About 90 per cent of South Vietnam's 700,000 men in uniform and a large portion of the 514,000 allied troops will attempt to keep Vietcong terrorism to a minimum and secure as many of the 6,000 polling places as possible.

Most observers see the Thieu-Ky ticket as sure winners. Both men say they expect to get 35 to 45 per cent of the vote and Ky speculates that the military ticket may get more than all the civilian candidates combined.

But others see a noticeable trend among voters for former Premier Tran Van Huong. He always has been considered the angriest of the 10 civilian candidates, and reports from all over the country support this.

It is difficult to get a Vietnamese to say who he will vote for, but among those who will talk many say they will vote for Huong. Most of those questioning have been in main population centers, at the time the candidates were visiting or where campaign posters and issues have had wide dispersal.

LEADERS TO DECIDE

In the villages and hamlets—where Vietnam's population lives—much of the voting will be decided by chiefs, priests, monks, teachers, district chiefs and the like.

Many of these officials will vote for the man for whom they are told to vote.

They are incapable or unwilling to make their own choice.

Reports of government pressure to vote for Thieu and Ky are widespread. Some of the reports have been substantiated, others have not.

In Long An Province, the deputy province chief for security was removed. American officials on the scene are convinced it was because the deputy supported civilian candidate Truong Dinh Dzu.

MEETING BROKEN UP

An election meeting of supporters of candidate Ha Thuc Ky in Hue was broken up by police and province officials. Nineteen of his supporters were arrested for holding an "illegal" meeting and later released. No formal charges were lodged.

The most senior American officials in Saigon continue to insist that the election is as free as could be expected. One diplomat said he was surprised that the election was being held at all, after two years of military rule by decree, preceded by a dictatorship and a colonial rule. There is little basis for democracy in South Vietnam.

In addition to the campaign funds supplied by the government, the government printed about half a million posters and leaflets, divided equally among the candidates, and flew them to the provinces where reporters of the candidates could post them.

Equal time on national radio and television was given to each candidate.

ONE FLAW

There was one flaw in this. A two-hour farewell news conference given by the ruling military directorate, during which Premier Ky reviewed in glowing terms his administration for the last two years, went out on national radio and television last Saturday.

The civilian candidates have made 11 joint appearances around South Vietnam, and Thieu and Ky joined them twice. This led to charges from the other candidates that Thieu and Ky were "supercandidates" uninterested in the democratic process.

The chief of state and the premier made frequent "nonpolitical" trips during which they made political statements, urging voters to consider their ballot seriously.

Voting will be by universal suffrage among Vietnamese 18 and over. Voters will be handed 11 presidential ballots and 48 Senate ballots which they will take into a curtained booth.

There they are to tear up 10 of the presidential ballots and put the 11th in an envelope, and select six of the Senate tickets and place them in another envelope.

SEPARATE BOX

Each envelope goes in a separate ballot box. Election officials, chosen by mayors and province officials, are not allowed to touch the envelopes until the counting starts.

Each candidate is allowed to send a representative to observe the voting and the counting of the ballots. A record number of newsmen, more than 600, also will be watching the voting.

The provisional National Assembly, which will remain seated until the first week in November when the Senate and House take over, has one month to rule on charges of election fraud and can declare the entire election void if it finds too many illegal activities occurred. All candidates have talked about war and peace, inflation, civilian vs. military rule, and negotiations.

On war and peace, the options range from those of Pham Huy Co, who wants to invade North Vietnam and bomb Hanoi, to Truong Dinh Dzu, who wants negotiations with the Viet Cong, even before a military victory.

The issues mean little to most Vietnamese, who cannot discern the subtleties of difference in the candidates' views on peace. It is doubtful also that the promises of Thieu to purge the armed forces of corrupt and inefficient elements and to seek peace with Hanoi by offering a one-week bombing pause will influence many voters.

ANN ARBOR (AP) — After five years of intensive planning, classes began today at the University of Michigan's new residential college.

The experimental college, designed to integrate classrooms and dormitories, opened in temporary facilities at a university residence hall. A similar school was established at Michigan State University two years ago.

Permanent buildings for the new school are to be constructed on the university's North Campus.

If you're a typical American beer drinker, you drink a typical American beer. And then, on special occasions (like after cleaning up at poker or collecting on a bowling bet), you splurge on German beer. Right?

Our beer will un-complicate your life a little. It's a light American beer, at a light American price. But it's brewed by the same new Durch-fliesen technique that's making a hundred beers in Germany taste even better than they did before.

Which simply means that instead of drinking American beer most of the time and German beer some of the time, you can drink the American beer with a German accent. All of the time.

British Seek Discussions With Red China to Avoid Total Break

LONDON (AP) — Britain, hoping to keep its listening post in Peking and its hold on Hong Kong, sought today to avoid a total break with Red China by offering to discuss normalization of relations following violent incidents in Peking and London.

There was no detectable sign, however, that the British expected the Chinese to take a message suggesting talks.

The offer Wednesday cabled by British Foreign Secretary George Brown to Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi, was seen to feel that Communist party

Chairman Mao Tse-tung's campaign to purge his enemies in London, also was handed a copy of the message but refused to accept it.

The Foreign Office said Shen Ping, China's charge d'affaires in London, also was handed a copy of the message but refused to accept it.

The Peking-London feud has been over Hong Kong, the British colony of 4 million on Red China's southern coast. Local Communists, with encouragement from Peking, have been trying to gain the upper hand there.

British officials declined to say whether Brown proposed a personal meeting with Chen or discussions through normal diplomatic channels.

Donald Hopson, British charge d'affaires in Peking, told the London Daily Express by telephone that perhaps several hundred Red Guards demanded that he come out of the mission and accept a protest.

"I was not hurt and not made to kneel," Hopson said.

Other reports said a Red Guard seized the envoy's hair and made him bow his head.

"LIFE RESTRICTED"

"Life is now very restricted," Hopson told the Express. "We cannot go into the town or onto the streets, even if we wanted to. But so far there is no shortage of food. Our Chinese cooks are allowed to shop for us."

He said there was no sign of anything budging in efforts to obtain Red China's permission for British wives and families to leave China.

Meanwhile, newsmen in Hong Kong learned that tips from pro-Communist Chinese and Chinese on the fringe of the underworld presumably in return for reward money, are aiding the government's fight against Communist terrorism.

Police told of one Chinese man caught with a bomb win led officers to a terrorist bomb cache today. They found five completed bombs, sticks of dynamite, detonators and fuses buried in a roadside near a children's school.

Spending Rise Seen for States, Municipalities

WASHINGTON (AP) — In three years state and local governments will be spending $103 billion annually, or as much as the federal government spent three years ago, figures under — From 1955 to 1965 state and congressional study indicate.

The total is likely to go to $119 billion by 1975, one study shows. These figures are part of three volumes of materials gathered by a Senate-House economic subcommittee looking into future revenue needs, including a controversial proposal for sharing federal tax collections with the states.

The studies point out some facts often overshadowed by mounting federal budgets: —State and local units still pay for the bulk of domestic civilian services.

—From 1955 to 1965 state and local general expenditures increased more than twice as fast as general federal expenditures, and state and local government employment went up 58 per cent, compared with a 9 per cent increase in federal employment.

—State and local taxes more than doubled during the period, from $23.5 billion to $51.2 billion, while total state and local income, including federal aid and borrowings, went from $36.4 billion to $81.3 billion.

The economists who contributed to the study did not agree on the tax outlook. One estimate was that existing taxes, operating on a growing economy, would provide enough funds unless significant additions to state and local services were decided on.

Others said more revenue, either from state taxes or a federal share, would be needed. Expanded use of state income taxes was mentioned often.

The subcommittee has published the materials without yet making its own findings.

The sharply increased workload of state and local governments since World War II was attributed in large part to the shift of population to cities, cutting in half the number of farms.

PAID BY GOVERNMENT

The facilities and services rural people do without, or provide for themselves, are in general those paid for by state and local governments—city sewer, sidewalks, street lighting, traffic control, health inspections, for example. Rising living standards and expectations—notably the demand for higher education—also contributed.

But at least two projections emphasized elements tending to moderate the growth of demands on state and local government.

The 5-to-17-year age group—the school population—increased 35 per cent during the 1955-65 decade. The increase is projected at 7 per cent in 1965-75. In addition, the growth rate in the population of those 65 and older, relatively heavy beneficiaries of health and welfare services, is expected to be one-fourth less during the latter decade.

There were suggestions, also, that states and local governments may be finding some ways to cut costs. In higher education, for example, junior colleges, costing less than state universities and four-year colleges, are taking on an increasing share of the job.

Patents Reveal Glassmaking Process

By Science Service

Glass manufacture has been revolutionized in recent years by a process that eliminates costly grinding and polishing steps.

The method consists of floating the molten glass onto a bath of liquid metal and letting it harden on that smooth surface. Its developers, Pilkington Bros. Ltd., have carefully guarded details of the process.

This week two U.S. patents were assigned to the British firm, revealing ways in which a major problem in the process — contamination of the metal bath — is licked.

At the heat necessary to keep the metal — tin or a tin alloy — molten, oxygen can react with the metal to form an oxide. Specks of tin oxide can be deposited on the glass, causing flaws.

Most of the atmosphere above the tin bath is kept clear of oxygen by forcing nitrogen gas into the huge annealing chamber. But oxygen still gets in as glass enters the bath from the melting furnace, and as it exits at the other end.

According to an invention by Charles R. Taylor, granted one patent, hydrogen gas mixed in with the nitrogen will eliminate most of the oxygen problem.

The hydrogen, in concentrations of from two to 10 per cent at either end of the bath and less than three per cent in between, reacts faster with oxygen than the tin does, and forms water.

Some impurities, such as sulfur, in the tin bath can also cause trouble. Another patented method for eliminating this problem consists of adding small traces of magnesium or other elements to the tin.

Sugar cane stalks, after the sugar has been pressed out, are useless and bulky leftovers. But a new method of treating them, patented this week, turns them into a useful mulch and soil conditioner.

The new process, invented by Harry M. May of Jackson, Miss., and Harry A. Nadler Jr. of Thibodaux, La., involves compressing the stalks, called bagasse, in bales, and letting them weather for about 60 days.

NEW LOOK ON MOUNTAIN TOP — An 80-inch telescope — the world's largest — stands in front of three of the five stellar telescopes atop 6,857-foot-high Kitt Peak in southern Arizona, west of Tucson. The Papago Indians were at first reluctant to allow the Kitt Peak National Observatory to be built on the mountain because it is the home of their god, Ee-toy. However, one look through a telescope impressed them so much that they changed their mind.

Indian Deity Was There First

Astronomers Share Mountain

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — A would be an ideal site for an observatory. But the Papago Indians, who share the peak with the Papago telescopes, domes and people.

The Kitt Peak National Observatory, west of Tucson, Ariz., not about to offend him with shares the peak with the Papago telescopes, domes and people. The late Dr. Edwin F. Car-wouldn't be too angry if the white man erected his telescopes on the mountain so he could get a better look at the stars.

A scientific team decided in 1958 the 6,857-foot-high peak is a university campus. The Indians

Five stellar telescopes, one solar telescope and several other research instruments share the mountain top. Two more stellar telescopes are to be installed shortly.

The stellar telescopes now in operation range in size from a 16-inch to an 84-inch mirror. The mirror in the solar telescope is 80 inches in diameter. Arthur Hoag, the former head of the U.S. Naval Observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz., directs the operation of the five stellar telescopes.

On a clear day, the two white glistering towers of the 80-inch solar telescope can be seen from nearly any high point in Tucson, 50 miles away.

"This is the largest solar telescope in the world," Keith Pearce, associate director of the observatory, said. He added, the telescope is used to study the basic physics of the sun, the pressure, temperature, density and magnetic field, plus the chemistry of the nearest star to the earth.

"The solar telescope as well as all other telescopes on the mountain are used by astronomers from around the world. Kitt Peak astronomers use the facilities for 40 per cent of the available time, and then step aside to allow others the use of the giant instruments.

Construction is under way by the University of Arizona for a 90-inch telescope. The center core of the fused quartz mirror is now being ground and polished at the university. The telescope, which will cost about $2.5 million, should be in operation in about one year, said Bart Bok, director of the new observatory.

Preliminary work has begun for the construction of a 100-foot-high support building and dome to house a 156-inch telescope. The $10-million instrument should be in operation in 1972.

A 36-foot radio telescope reflector was recently installed near the top of the peak. The $1-million instrument will be tested in the near future by the National Radio Astronomy Observatory.

Weather Tampering Hit

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — The consequences of present large-scale attempts to change the weather are unpredictable and potentially quite dangerous for mankind, according to a University of Illinois scientist.

While small-scale weather modification will probably pose little threat, the vast projects now being proposed could produce serious and unpredictable biological consequences, he writes in the current Bulletin of the American Meteorological Society.

"Politically expedient decisions have been made by men who have not been sufficiently apprized of the consequences of their actions," charges Dr. Frederick Sargent II, a professor of physiology at the University.

He cites a report by the Ecological Society of America which states that the consequences of weather modification projects could include "local or complete extermination of species, and at least an initial increase of weeds and pests."

Dr. Sargent points out that "Man is on the threshold of being able to manipulate the hydrologic cycle of the ecosystem on a scale of the order of hundreds of square miles."

NOT ENOUGH KNOWN

Yet, he says, we simply do not know enough about the conditions of life on this planet to be able to predict the effects of such projects.

For example, Dr. Sargent notes, much of the rain that falls on Atlantic City, N.J., comes from tropical cyclones—hurricanes.

"If tropical storms were dissipated (one of the prime aims of weather modification research)," he asks, "from whence would this moisture come?"

Legal problems resulting from the activities of commercial "rainmakers" have already reached horrendous proportions, the physiologist observes.

DAMAGES PAID

In Quebec, for example, the government paid out hundreds of thousands of dollars to farmers for damage caused by such rainmakers, despite a federal report that stated the cloud seeding had actually reduced rainfall by five per cent.

It is essential, Dr. Sargent says, for ecologists to have a part in planning weather modification efforts if full-scale disaster is to be avoided.

Attack on 'Subtle' Job Bias Stressed

Farmer Anglers

End Bias—Postal Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, a young Negro who has been victimized by job discrimination in his own life, hopes to eliminate one of the more difficult kinds of discrimination in hiring—the subtle kind.

Clifford L. Alexander Jr., 33, born and reared in New York City's Harlem, said in his first interview as chairman that the commission is faced with "eliminating the complacency over hiring this or that Negro or Mexican-American and then forgetting about it."

He said employment discrimination is "one of the most urgent concerns of our time." He urged employers to look further than their friends, families and old school pals to find qualified personnel and to learn to send recruiters to the many small Negro colleges, not just big ones like Howard University in Washington.

Alexander listed three major areas of work for the commission:

—Using available information supplied by the employers to show employers discriminatory employment patterns of which they may not be aware. Virtually every large employer in the nation was required to file forms several months ago, and Alexander said, "We now know exactly—in number—their employment pattern."

—Intensified use of the complaint process, which currently has a backlog of about 1,800 cases charging illegal employment discrimination. He urged also more lawsuits to force balking employers to abandon traditional discrimination.

—Making more use of its technical assistance program to help employers start training programs for the chronically unemployed.

Alexander, an aide to President Johnson for four years before being named commission chairman June 27th, said his young organization needs the power to issue cease and desist orders to compel employers to stop discrimination, and more money to enlarge its staff, presently 314 members. Such legislation is before Congress.

Although he spent his early years in Harlem, Alexander's education is far from that of the typical Negro slum dweller. He attended Fieldston School—one of New York's specially prominent private prep schools—on a scholarship. He worked his way through Harvard University as an insurance investigator and graduated cum laude. He holds a law degree from Yale University Law School.

'SWANK APARTMENTS'

Even as a child, though, Alexander was spared living in Harlem's rat-infested tenements. His father was a YMCA official and "we lived in what they called the swank Riverfront Apartments," actually a private, middle-income housing project in central Harlem.

Despite a middle-class upbringing and an upper-class education, Alexander believes behind summer riots although from the rest of the central city in the ghetto.

He lists as other prime contributors bad police-community relations, inadequate education, inadequate health and recreation facilities and "a general isolation of a group of people."

Life, Death Racing to Mine Trap

SEOUL (UPI)—A South Korean miner has been trapped 375 feet below the surface for nine days.

Kim Chang-Son, 36, has a telephone where a cave-in caught him and has commented on the race for him between his would-be rescuers and death.

Kim said yesterday he felt death was winning the race. "Somehow I have a hunch that I won't see this through," he said.

The Korean Marine veteran telephoned that he had no food and has subsisted on water alone.

Rescue officials at the mine 80 miles south of Seoul said Kim is weakening rapidly.

Mine experts said the rescuers were making steady but slow progress toward Kim.

'Spaghetti' Hides Inside Squash

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

This is the time of year when summer spills its harvest out in colorful flavorful measure. A trip to the Oakland County Farmers' Market confirms this. Nowhere in northern Europe nor in the British Isles did we see squash. Nor did it appear on any menu. It is mainly a new world vegetable.

In fact, we have difficulty deciding on which squash we'll buy.

The Allie Johnstons of Seymour Lake Road grow six varieties for sale at market: yellow straight neck, zucchini, acorn, delicious, buttercup and a new one — spaghetti squash.

This last one is different and,

according to Johnston, has never been sold in the area before.

It looks like a small honeydew melon.

Mrs. Johnston says to wash and cook it whole, allowing about 30 minutes of boiling. Cut off the top and you'll find lots of long shreds—vegetable spaghetti. Serve it with spaghetti sauce.

DIETER'S DELIGHT

Johnston who must follow a diabetic diet is delighted with this non starchy spaghetti. He suggests also using it in chop suey in place of bean sprouts.

While summer squash does not freeze too well, the fall and winter varieties are excellent for this purpose. Mrs. Johnston's method is simple.

She prefers the delicious or buttercup for freezing. Peel them, cut into pieces and boil about 15 minutes. Then mash and season before packing into freezer containers.

If you do want to freeze any of the summer squashes, use younger tender specimens.

Cut into 1/2-inch slices; blanch to boiling water for 3 1/2 minutes. Chill 5 minutes in cold water. Drain; pack into containers, leaving 1/2-inch headspace. Seal.

Summer squash is bland and combines well with other vegetables. Try this recipe while fresh corn is still in season.

ZUCCHINI-CORN CASSEROLE
6 zucchini
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter or margarine

1 1/2 cups finely chopped onions
1 garlic clove, finely minced
1 green pepper, finely chopped
1 cup grated sharp cheese
5 eggs, well beaten
1 cup fresh corn cut from cob.

Place zucchini in pan with light-fitting lid. Add one cup water and the salt; cover. Steam about 10 minutes, until barely tender. Do not overcook. Drain. When cool, chop or grind them.

Melt two tablespoons butter or margarine and cook onion, garlic and green pepper until onion is wilted. Blend with zucchini. Add rest of ingredients and pour into 1 1/2 quart casserole. Bake one hour at 350 degrees. Makes 6 servings.

Woman's Day Encyclopedia of Cookery suggests that you make jam with squash.

SQUASH AND APPLE JAM
3 1/2 cups peeled and sliced tart apples
4 quarts peeled and sliced summer squash
3 pounds sugar
1 teaspoon ground ginger
1 1/2 lemons, rind and juice

Cut apples and squash into thin slices. Put in large bowl or enamelware preserving kettle, sprinkling layers with the sugar. Cover and let stand overnight.

Cut lemon rind into thin slivers and add to first mixture with lemon juice and ginger.

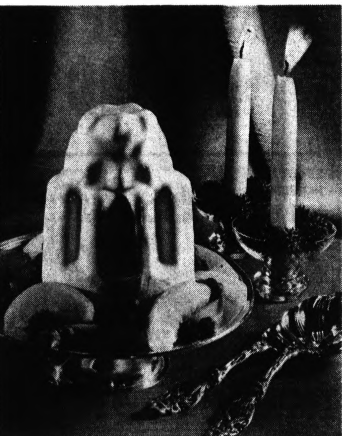

Boil only until fruit is clear and tender and liquid jells, about 20 minutes. Pour into sterilized jars, cool slightly and seal. Makes about five 1/2-pint jars.

taste. The Johnstons specialize in raising squash. Also shown in their stall at the farmers' market are buttercup and delicious squash.

Fresh Fruits Garnish Creamy Vanilla Bombe

Legend has it that ice cream was discovered on a hot day in 1774 by a French chef who worked for the Duc de Chartres. However, the Italian-born Catherine de Medici had brought the secret of making "iced cream" to the French court

Pancake Ideas Come in Book

Would you like the recipe for Mrs. America's own original pancake creation?

And are you curious about the spectacular Old Glory Pancakes developed by Mrs. Virginia — the recipe that won her the title "Mrs. Pancake America"?

These and 49 other excellent pancake recipes are available in an attractive booklet, 51 PANCAKE RECIPES from the 1967 Mrs. America Pageant.

Some of the intriguing titles — Buckwheat Blin, Hoosier Honey, Grandma's Pancakes A Go Go, Pancakes Parfait — hint at the ingenuity of the poised and pretty Mrs. America contestants. And the recipes are just as imaginative as their names!

The "Aunt Jemima Pancake Variety Event" was one of the highlights of the San Diego pageant.

Each contestant (a winner from each state and the District of Columbia) was required to prepare her original recipe for the judges. The entry of Mrs. Virginia, Mrs. James Franco-marco, was judged the winner of this event.

The recipes range from delightful ideas to scrumptious main dishes, exotic desserts and unusual snack suggestions.

All the recipes are based on dependable pancake mix so you can be sure of duplicating them successfully. Try all 51 recipes!

Each is a tested and proven family favorite in a Mrs. America household; now they can become favorites of your family, too.

Grill Sesame Bread in Foil Over Coals

Open Sesame Loaf
1 loaf (1 pound) Vienna or French bread
1/4 cup toasted sesame seeds
3 tablespoons minced chives
1/2 cup butter (soft)

Cut bread into 16 diagonal slices. Mix remaining ingredients; spread between each slice of bread. Wrap loosely in heavy foil. Place on grill (over charcoal), turning often, for 20 to 30 minutes or until hot through.

For indoor use, heat in a hot (400 degrees) oven for same length of time.

EASY FREEZY LEMON PIE—Canned lemon pie filling has a velvety consistency to begin with, but just wait until you see what happens when rich ice cream is added! This happy mixture is poured into the crust and frozen till firm.

Orchid Icing

To make a pretty orchid color icing with a tasty flavor, use the sterilized jars, cool slightly and instead of milk as the liquid in powdered sugar icing.

Filling and Ice Cream Mixed

Lemon Pie Is Cool Treat

Ice cream ranks as the most popular dessert in our country, with pie the second favorite. So we've combined these two into what we think will be the dessert hit of the year... Easy Freezy Lemon Pie!

The crunchy confection crust is made from semi-sweet chocolate morsels, melted and tossed with toasted coconut and rice cereal. It's pressed into the pie plate and chilled; so no baking is required.

Easy Freezy Lemon Pie
1 package (6-ounce) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 cups crisp rice cereal
1/2 cup flaked coconut, toasted
1 No. 2 can (2 cups) lemon pie filling

1 pint vanilla ice cream
Frozen whipped topping, defrosted
Chocolate curls

Melt chocolate pieces and butter in a heavy saucepan. Add cereal and toasted coconut and mix well. Press into a buttered 9-inch pie plate; chill until firm.

Empty lemon pie filling into an ice cube tray; freeze several hours until icy. Beat frozen lemon pie filling with electric mixer. Cut ice cream into eighths and add to pie filling; beat to mix.

Pour into chilled cereal crust. Freeze overnight. To serve, top with whipped topping and chocolate curls. And if you don't serve it all at one time, simply slip the pie plate back into the freezer for a treat later on.

Empress, the skinny tuna.

Why do we take the finest cuts of plump white Albacore tuna and call it skinny tuna?

Because of the way we pack it. Most tuna comes packed in oil. Fatty oil. You can pour off the oil but not the calories.

We pack Empress the natural way. In water. Non-fattening, no-calorie water. That gives Empress less than half the calories of oil-packed tuna. And with no oil to disguise the taste, Empress has a fresher, more natural flavor.

Empress, the water-packed tuna. Half the calories of the oil-packed kind. Empress, the skinny tuna.

Bake Cool Rise Rye Bread at Home

Next time your husband invites his friends over for cards, you can seal the show by serving homemade Heidelberg Rye Bread. This moist, dark bread complements the foods and beverages men enjoy most and brings them back to the buffet table like a magnet.

Even in the summertime this old-world specialty is a snap to prepare, thanks to the CoolRise method of yeast baking.

The dough can be mixed and shaped in the cool of the morning, then placed in the refrigerator to rise. Bake these handsome loaves whenever it's cool and convenient — anytime from 2 to 24 hours later.

HEIDELBERG RYE BREAD (CoolRise Method)

3 cups flour* (regular or instant blending)
2 1/2-3 1/2 cups medium rye flour
2 pkgs. or cakes yeast, active dry or compressed
2 cups warm water (105 degrees-115 degrees F.)
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon salt*
1/2 cup molasses
2 tablespoons margarine or shortening
1 tablespoon caraway seed
1/4 cup cocoa
Cooking oil
Plastic wrap
Spoon or pour flour into dry measuring cup. Level off and pour measured flour onto wax paper. Repeat measuring procedure for rye flour.

Sprinkle or crumble yeast into 2 cups warm water in large, warm bowl. Stir until dissolved. Add sugar, salt, molasses, margarine, caraway seed, cocoa and 2 cups all-purpose flour.

Beat with rotary beater or electric mixer at low speed until smooth (about 1 minute). Add remaining all-purpose flour.

Beat vigorously with wooden spoon (150 strokes) or electric mixer at medium speed (2-3 minutes) until thick and elastic. Scrape sides of bowl occasionally.

Stir in rye flour gradually with wooden spoon. Use just enough flour to make a soft dough which leaves sides of bowl, adding more if necessary. Turn out onto floured board. Round up into a ball.

Knead 5-10 minutes or until dough is smooth, elastic and no longer sticky. Cover with saran food wrap then a towel. Let rest for 20 minutes on board. Punch down. Divide into 2 equal portions. Round up each portion.

SHAPING

Shape one portion into a round loaf. Flatten slightly. Place in greased 8-inch pie pan. Roll second portion into an 8x15-inch rectangle. Roll up tightly into loaf beginning with 15-inch edge. Seal final seam and ends well. Taper ends by rolling gently between hands. Place seam-side down on greased baking sheet.

Brush surface of dough with oil. Cover pans loosely with saran food wrap.

Refrigerate 2 to 24 hours at moderately cold setting. When ready to bake, remove from refrigerator. Uncover. Let stand for 10 minutes while preheating oven. Slash both loaves with sharp knife just before baking. Cool on racks. Yield: 2 loaves.

Make six cuts, spoke-fashion, in top of round loaf. Start near center of loaf and make cuts 1/4 inch deep, slightly curving to edge of loaf. Slash top of long loaf diagonally at 2-inch intervals. Bake at 400 degrees for 30-40 minutes or until done. Bake on lower oven rack position for best results. Remove from baking pans immediately. Brush with sharp knife just before baking. Cool on racks. Yield: 2 loaves.

PICNIC BEAN DISHES — Dill pickles help season the cold salad of green beans. Sweet pickle relish spices the made-in-minutes baked beans. Both help prove that picnic time is indeed pickle time!

It's Avocado Sauce

Next time there's a dinner party on your social horizon and you are planning a menu to please both male and female guests, we suggest that you include tender pink salmon steaks prepared in a very special way.

The steaks are simmered in a liquid seasoned with onion, pickling spice, and lime juice. They can be offered as a hot entree; but while warmer weather lingers with us, they're absolutely great served well-chilled partnered with a zesty and colorful avocado-based sauce.

It all spells fabulous flavor, fine dining, and compliments-plus for the chef.

When you serve the salmon steaks chilled, they can be prepared well ahead of time — a boon for the busy hostess.

As in all fish cookery, these steaks should not be overcooked. You can test for doneness by gently prodding the flesh with a fork. When it flakes, remove the pan from the heat, and you're all set for good eating.

Incidentally, too, you don't have to save the Salmon Mexicana for a dinner party only. The ladies would find it delightful for a luncheon any time of year, and it would make a superb Sunday brunch treat accompanied by assorted fresh fruits and toasted English muffins.

Salmon Mexicana
3 pounds salmon steaks
1 small onion, thinly sliced
1 parsley sprig
1 teaspoon mixed pickling spice
2 teaspoons salt
¼ cup lime or lemon juice
2 cups boiling water
2 large ripe avocados
1 tablespoon lime or lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon chili powder
2 medium tomatoes, seeded and chopped

Place fish steaks in a large fry pan; add onion, parsley, spice, 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ cup lime juice and boiling water. Cover, bring to a boil and gently simmer 6 to 8 minutes or until fish flakes easily.

SALMON MEXICANA — Think salmon . . . think Mexicana . . . think delicious! This great new recipe for Salmon Mexicana is bound to be a favorite with everyone who enjoys this glorious, succulent fish. Salmon is one of the easiest fish for the cook to handle . . . and homemakers should take note because it's also one that men are prone to enjoy (witness its popularity on restaurant luncheon menus!).

Men, Get Busy Cooking, Enter Recipe Contest

The Men's National Cooking Championship is open to any adult male who can cook. It is free. No box tops, labels, coupons or entry blanks are necessary.

It is strictly a competition closed to women and professional cooks. An eligible man just submits one or more original main dish recipes using potato chips as an ingredient.

Entries must be submitted by Dec. 1, 1967, to: Men's National Cooking Championship, P.O. Box 533, Radio City Station, New York, New York 10019.

Each contestant may submit as many recipes as he wishes, making sure there is

Sugar Prevents Lumpy Gelatin

If more than 1 tablespoon of granulated sugar is called for in a recipe for a molded dish, made with unflavored gelatin, the dry gelatin can be mixed with the sugar instead of being pre-softened in cold water.

The sugar separates the gelatin granules and prevents their lumping when boiling liquid is added.

Picnic Way With Beans Hot or Cold

Bean salads are popular with men, and here's a great new one made with green beans. Dill pickles and sour cream provide the tangy dressing. Baked beans are another favorite picnic food, and the pickle packers' recipe is an easy one for busy people.

Wrap this in several layers of newspaper to keep it hot, or bake ahead and take it cold.

Dill Bean Salad

1 pound green beans
Water
1 large onion, sliced
3 dill pickles, sliced cross-wise
¼ cup dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons pickle liquid
Salt and pepper to taste

Cook beans in small amount of water 5 minutes; add onion and cook 2 minutes longer. Drain and chill. At serving time combine vegetables with pickles and toss with remaining ingredients. Makes 4 servings.

Swift-And-Spicy Bean Bake
2 cans (1 pound each) pork and beans, in tomato sauce
½ cup drained sweet pickle relish
3 tablespoons bottled barbecue sauce
1 tablespoon dark molasses
½ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon onion powder

Combine all ingredients in oven proof dish and bake uncovered in 350 degrees (moderate) oven 30 minutes or until bubbling. Garnish with strips of sweet gherkins, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Use as Gifts

Homemade breads and sweet rolls, attractively wrapped in sparkling transparent saran food wrap, are welcome gifts for a new neighbor or an old friend. They're extra easy to prepare the CoolRise way.

Eastern Society Matron Slain

WEST CHESTER, Pa. (AP)—Police have launched an investigation into what they called the "horrible homicide" slaying of a 74-year-old Delaware and Philadelphia society matron.

Mrs. Katherine Thompson Wood was found dead Wednesday in her secluded home at nearby Pennsylvania Township. She was the sister of James Thompson, the Thailand silk magnate who disappeared last March in Malaysia.

Police said Mrs. Wood was hit on the head with a blunt instrument when the body was discovered on a bed.

Two big watchdogs were standing by. An officer said one of the dogs may have been struck by the same weapon that killed Mrs. Wood, but otherwise there was no indication of why they did not prevent the crime.

BODY FOUND

A domestic reporting for work Wednesday found the body. Investigators said they have not found the weapon or a motive for the killing.

"I won't say there are no suspects," said a detective. "We are working to develop this case and that's about all I can say now."

Meanwhile, search teams combed the woods surrounding the 14-acre estate, looking for a possible weapon and making plaster casts of possible footprints.

PERFECT HOSTESS

Known as a perfect cocktail hostess, Mrs. Wood was listed in "Who's Who in Delaware" and the Philadelphia Social Register.

She was married to the late Osborn Cutler Wood, who was the son of Gen. Leonard Wood. Gen. Wood sought the Republican nomination for President in 1920 and was colonel of the Rough Riders in the Spanish American War.

Mrs. Wood and her husband were divorced in 1925.

An outdoor enthusiast, Mrs. Wood took extensive hikes despite her age, and had organized a hunt club. She also took part in beagling, following small dogs in a foot chase.

Mrs. Wood's brother, a native of Greenville, Del., turned a $700 investment into a million-dollar silk empire. He disappeared one day last March on a walk through the Cameron Highlands in Malaysia, where he was visiting friends.

Police said he may have been either murdered, attacked by tigers or kidnapped.

Mrs. Wood is survived by her son, Harrison Wilson Wood, of Paoli, Pa., two sisters and two brothers.

Funeral services are scheduled for Saturday.

ROBERT KING HIGH

Miami Mayor Succumbs to Heart Attack

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Miami Mayor Robert King High, who said to tell how he came from near poverty as a Tennessee farm boy to seek the Florida governor's office, died Wednesday.

The battling, red-haired mayor, who ran even when he might have walked — was stricken Wednesday at the age of 43 by a massive heart attack, his second in four years.

After the first attack, he said, "It's the sort of thing that happens to other people, older people—but never to you. My life will never be the same."

The five-term mayor of Miami twice ran for governor. He lost in a 1964 primary battle with Haydon Burns, defeated Burns in 1966 for the Democratic nomination, but lost to Republican Claude Kirk. He was the first Democratic nominee to lose in a Florida governor's race since 1873.

SERVICES SET

Funeral services will be held Friday in Miami.

High, the son of a carpenter, was from Flat Creek, Tenn. A year ago, High flew an airplane loaded with Florida newsmen to the old family farm. He led them on a tour of the ramshackle buildings where he said his mother had smoked hams to raise extra money for the family.

High was a shoe salesman in New Orleans before enlisting in the Air Force. He went to law school after a military aptitude test suggested he was better suited to be an attorney than a shoe salesman. When he died, High was a partner in a successful law firm.

He is survived by his widow and their six children.

'ABLE LEADER'

In Washington, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said High would be missed and called him "an able, progressive and energetic leader of his community."

Weather Jargon

The weatherman isn't hedging when he predicts "partly cloudy" or "partly sunny" skies. The forecast means that three-tenths to seven-tenths of the sky will be covered by clouds. A prediction of "slowly rising temperatures" indicates an increase of 5 to 10 degrees in the following 12 hours.

Jackson Parents Plan Bus Fund

JACKSON (AP) — Plans to raise funds privately to reinstate school bus service for Jackson area schoolchildren are being considered by a group of parents.

The school board announced drastic cutbacks in school services, including bus operations, last week after a third attempt to get money through increased millage taxation was defeated at the polls.

The parents said they hope to raise enough money to enable the school district to furnish bus transportation for the coming school year.

Pauper Grave Awaits Robbery Target

DETROIT (AP) — Jesse Carpenter died because someone thought he was wealthy. But he will be buried by the state in a pauper's grave.

Carpenter, 92, and a longtime friend, Dewey Irwin, 67, rented a house on Detroit's West Side for $35 a month.

DEMANDED MONEY

Irwin lived on his Social Security check.

But on Aug. 21 two men crept into the bedroom where they were sleeping, woke them and demanded money.

Carpenter and Irwin said they had none.

One would-be robber kicked and punched the elderly men.

Carpenter died Tuesday night of a skull fracture caused by multiple blows to the head and face. Irwin remains in critical condition in a Detroit hospital.

The dead man leaves no known relatives.

Thirty million people harbor the tuberculosis germ.

Flint GI Killed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department Wednesday listed Navy Fireman Frank L. Bellant of Flint, Mich., among 27 servicemen killed in action in Vietnam. Bellant was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles I. Bellant of 7076 Kessling St., Flint.

Vienna Becoming Center for U.N. Organizations

VIENNA (AP) — The neglected left bank of the Danube River will soon be turned into a center for United Nations organizations which would compete with Geneva.

Vienna already houses two U.N. organizations and does not hide its desire for more. In Switzerland, officials said they were aware of the competition and Geneva must be on its toes.

Vienna is headquarters of the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) and recently won the bid for the U.N. Industrial Development Organization (UNIDO).

Of Vienna's 23 districts, only two are on the northern left bank. There is plenty of room for Vienna to spread there, but people prefer to go to the already crowded southern and western outskirts. To attract customers, the city has constructed a magnificent "Danube Park" on the northern bank.

The new U.N. Center will probably be completed in five years. The construction site, offered by the Municipality of Vienna free of charge, is located 2½ miles from the city center and is surrounded by large parks and the Danube River.

In view of the size of the project, the Austrian federal government and the City of Vienna joined forces and agreed to share the over-all cost. The total expenditure is not yet known.

Apart from spending on communication, equipment, laboratories and other installations, planning experts here believe the UNIDO building alone would cost over $10 million. The figure, estimated for the IAEA building is $12 million.

The first group of UNIDO personnel is to move into the organization's preliminary headquarters in an overhauled downtown building later this year.

For this provisional arrangement, the City of Vienna has provided $2.4 million, while the federal government has built a prefab office building near the provisional headquarters. The International Atomic Energy Agency, which has been housed in Vienna's Grand Hotel for over 10 years, last June accepted the Austrian offer to establish the organization's permanent headquarters within the new U.N. center.

Residential quarters for the UNIDO staff will be largely provided by the Municipality of Vienna, though a considerable number of higher-priced apartments have been offered by private persons. In solving the housing problem, the municipal authorities will be supported by a bank and building association.

SAFE WAY DOWN — Clare Wright of Madison, Wis., chased her cat, freed it, and effected a rescue, but the cat chose its own way to get to the ground.

AP Wirephoto

Is the Cure Worth the Side Effects?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Build a new bridge or freeway to relieve traffic congestion and what do you get? More traffic and more congestion, sometimes, than you had before.

Develop a wonder drug to kill germs, and one result may be a new breed of germs immune to wonder drugs.

So it goes. Kill the enemies of deer or elk, and pretty soon there are too many deer or elk. Starlings have been credited with yeoman service in the battle against the Japanese beetle. But how do you cope with starlings?

Import a couple of rabbits to a place like Australia, and after a while you have to import a disease to kill off the rabbits. Then you have to contend with the disease in other places where people want rabbits.

DDT has freed many a human being from disease-carrying body lice and many a farm field from insect pests. It also has destroyed many an innocent robin while at the same time assisting in the evolution of lice and pests impervious to DDT.

The latest footnote to the story of side effects stemming from man's attempts to improve his condition comes from Northwestern University.

Disposal of trash in cities is a serious problem. So some Northwestern engineers set out to discover what would happen if you increased refuse collections from once a week to twice a week.

They conducted their research in two Chicago wards, the West Side's 25th and the South Side 17th. A release from the university capsules their findings bleakly as follows:

"Pound for pound, nothing breeds more trash than better trash collection service." In the 25th ward the "trash harvest" rose from 66 pounds per living unit in once-a-week collections to 80 pounds when the service was stepped up to twice a week. In the 17th ward, the amount of trash jumped from 51 to 82 pounds.

It's almost like war — escalate here and you reap escalation there. What's the answer?

PASADENA, Calif. — Sound waves two in frequency to only at the time of a total solar eclipse.

has been detected on the sun with an instrument that records both the solar magnetic field and the vertical movements of solar gases.

The motions appear as ripples slower, much larger waves in the sun's atmosphere than are some 50 miles high, rising and falling at the rate of 1,000 miles an hour every five minutes.

The subsonic ripples have periods of two to three seconds and are observed in bursts of about two minutes duration in the hot gas of the solar photosphere, the sun's bright visible surface.

The photosphere is between the sun's denser interior and its

Westmoreland Estate Probated

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — The estate of Mrs. James R. Westmoreland, mother of the U.S. military commander in Vietnam, has been probated at a value of more than $250,000.

Court records show Gen. William C. Westmoreland's mother, who died at the age of 81 in July, willed her estate to him and to her daughter, Mrs. Heyward Clarkson of Columbia. The general's father, who was in the textile business, died in 1964 leaving an estate probated at $1.2 million.

Mrs. Westmoreland's estate lists $550,000 in bonds and stocks and $300 in cash, household and personal effects.

Junior Editors Quiz on PETRIFIED TREES

QUESTION: How do trees become petrified?

ANSWER: In our picture, Hank is examining a log in the Petrified Forest National Park in Arizona. More than 150 million years ago, the country where Hank stands was covered with swamps and forests of primitive trees (1). As time passed, many trees fell and were carried by flooding rivers and accumulated in shallow lakes.

Here they became buried under sediment (2) which gradually turned into sandstone and shale. Meanwhile, ground water penetrated the logs, dissolving the wood away.

But the water was rich in minerals such as chalcedony and agate, and these were deposited, cell by cell, in place of the vanishing wood structure. So, an exact reproduction of the log's structure, complete even to the growth rings, was left in place of the original wood.

With the passing of time, the swamps drained away. Heavy rains dissolved the sandstone, leaving the petrified logs uncovered. Uplifts of the land broke many logs into fragments, and there they are today (3) for Hank to wonder at.

Well-Equipped School May Be Inadequate

By Science Service
SAN FRANCISCO —Schools — no matter how well equipped, good-looking, or "suburban" in style — may be completely inadequate to educate the American slum child properly, a group of educators agreed here. The educators, who spoke here at the annual American Sociological Association meeting, called for more radical departures than schools have yet provided.

Key to the discussion was the Coleman-Campbell Report on American schools — a national survey of the relationship between school quality and educational achievement. That report demonstrates only a weak link between quality — such as school facilities and teacher background — and student achievement.

It also shows that disadvantaged children, particularly Negro school children, come to the first grade with very large deficits in their readiness to learn. Because of this deficit the educational attack must come very early in a child's life, before nursery school, said Dr. William H. Sewell, incoming chancellor of the University of Wisconsin.

The government's pre-school Head Start program is a partial answer, he said, but it should start earlier, about the age of two, and take many more hours of the child's day. (Head Start now generally starts between four and five years and takes an hour or two.)

There are some 17,000 species of seaweed.

Obligations Not Ended
by Entry Into the Service

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press News Features

WASHINGTON — If you're called to active duty as a reservist you can usually break a lease on the apartment or home you rented as a civilian, provided you give "timely notice" to your landlord. But if you purchased a home, can you flatly refuse to make the mortgage payments?

A retired couple wrote me that question in anguish because the man they sold their home to in Michigan three years ago has been called up for six months. He says he doesn't have to make the payments.

I put their question to Army experts and this is their answer, with legalistic language boiled down a bit:

The Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act does not wipe out any obligations of a man called into service, but it temporarily suspends or adjusts the right of creditors to compel payment. But the debt is not wiped out and after the serviceman is released from active military duty he will have to pay the debt in the agreed time.

Some people in the service and their families expect protection far beyond the scope of the law.

NO AUTOMATIC RIGHT

The serviceman has no automatic right to reduce or cease payments on obligations incurred before he entered service.

A voluntary written agreement between the serviceman and his creditors is preferred. Otherwise, it's up to a court to decide what is fair and exactly how far a man's call to military service has reduced his ability to pay his obligations incurred as a civilian.

Meanwhile, there can be no sale, foreclosure or seizure of property for nonpayment against the serviceman while he is on active duty and for three months afterward.

Any effort to violate this can bring a fine, imprisonment or both against a creditor.

Dental Care

The Defense Department is starting this fall a program of preventive dental care of more than two million children of service families on active duty or retired.

Each youngster may go to his station or post dental activity for stainless fluoride treatment. Each child and his parent will also get a kit with information on how to perform home care of teeth and gums.

The process will include an examination of each child's teeth but will not include treatment of any problem revealed, except overseas and at isolated posts.

Sergeants Major Status

More status is moving into the ranks of Army sergeants major with creation of the post of "command sergeant major."

Probably about one-third of the Army's 5,200 sergeants major will get this step-up title at staff battalion level or higher. The Air Force is expected to adopt the Army plan later.

Draft Deferrals

Several letter writers ask if farm workers can get draft deferments or if a married man can keep his fatherhood deferment if he is divorced.

A young man gets a class II-C agricultural deferment if he is employed in the production for market of a "substantial quantity" of agricultural commodities necessary to the maintenance of national health, safety or interest.

For the guidance of the draft board, the regulations define "substantial quantity" as measured in terms of the average annual production per farm worker which is marketed from a local average farm of the type under consideration.

The new draft law added a provision that the existence of a shortage or surplus of any agricultural commodity may now be considered in weighing each case. That boils down to each draft board using its own local situation to make decisions. In World War II 100,000 qualified for such deferments, but now only about 22,000 farm youths qualify.

Cepeda Batting .343

Cardinal in Line for MVP Honor

By the Associated Press — Pete Rose isn't making it easy for winner of the batting crown. Cepeda never has won it, but he's driving toward the top just as the Cards are moving swiftly toward the pennant.

Cepeda collected three hits as St. Louis downed the New York Mets 2-0 Wednesday night. Clemente had two safeties, including a two-run double, that helped Pittsburgh down Atlanta 11-3. In other games, Cincinnati downed Philadelphia 2-1, Los Angeles trounced San Francisco 9-3 and Chicago defeated Houston 4-1.

INCREASE AVERAGE

Clemente's hits enabled him to increase his league-leading batting average one point to .348. Cepeda's three safeties, though, lifted his mark three points to a runner-up .345.

Tim McCarver also starred for St. Louis. He drove in both runs with his 12th homer and a sacrifice fly. Larry Jaster and Ron Willis combined to limit the Mets to four hits.

Matty Alou, the defending batting titleholder, and Willie Stargell also helped the Pirates: down the Braves. Alou collected four hits in five tries lifting his average to .328. Stargell walloped a two-run double and his 18th homer.

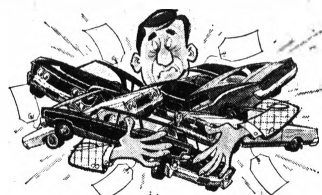

Home runs by Felipe Alou and Joe Torre had helped the Braves build a 6-4 lead, but Pittsburgh came back in the fourth and regained the lead on Clemente's two-bagger.

Pete Rose drove in the winning run for Cincinnati with a bloop double in the sixth inning that scored Tommy Harper. The blow broke a 1-1 tie. John Briggs homered for Philadelphia's only tally.

BIG DOUBLE

Lou Johnson and Ron Fairly each drove in three runs for the Dodgers against San Francisco. Johnson socked a three-run double while Fairly had a two-run homer and a run-producing single.

Don Drysdale, 10-13, picked up the victory for Los Angeles. However, he had to leave the game in the seventh because of an arm injury. Ray Sadecki, 6-4, took the loss.

Seagram's 7 Crown—The Sure One

Ignores Arnie's Army

Nicklaus Wins Big One

RYE, N.Y. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus is generally conceded to be the greatest golfer in the world, he is on the road to being the richest and most successful, yet there is one battle he hadn't won.

That's the battle with Arnie's Army.

Big Jack, after pocketing the $50,000 first prize Wednesday in the $250,000 Westchester Classic, insisted that he didn't let the army bug him too much, but he left his listeners wondering.

"Aw, I'm getting used to it—it's really quite comical," Nicklaus said. "I'm out there to play golf. I try to concentrate and ignore them."

ARMY IN FORCE

The army, with banners and lungs at top mast, was out in force at the Westchester Country Club for the final round of the world's richest event which presented Nicklaus, Palmer and Dan Sikes in the final and featured threesome.

Nicklaus stood off a late rush by Sikes, 36-year-old Jacksonville, Fla., law graduate and Player Committee chairman, to win his fourth tournament of the year by a stroke.

Jack had a 72-hole score of 272, 16 under par, while Sikes, who twice pulled out and started home but came back when rain washed out the rounds Saturday and Sunday, was runner-up at 273.

Tallying from three shots back, Sikes caught Nicklaus with successive birdies at the 11th and 12th but fell back after landing in a trap at the 15th and failed to tie it with a bold 15-foot putt that hit the cup and stayed out at the final hole. He collected $30,000.

The rest of the leaders looked like a who's who of golf with Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina, the British Open king, third at 274; Gary Player of South Africa, fourth at 275 and Palmer, with a birdie at the final hole, fifth at 276.

CHEERS AND GROANS
Palmer's fabled army—a stampeding, yelling pack cut from the cloth of the boisterous New York Mets baseball fans—tramped behind their hero and cheered every swing. They groaned in agony when Nicklaus and Sikes picked up strokes.

"I don't appreciate this sort of stuff either," Palmer said afterward. "It's all right when they cheer for somebody. But when they start cheering against players, I think it's bad."

Nicklaus' victory boosted his official earnings for the year to $156,748—his fifth straight season over the $100,000 mark—and sent him ahead of Palmer in the money list. Palmer's $10,750 for fifth place put him at $148,939.

Jack also moved ahead of Billy Casper in the all-time money bracket, behind Palmer. He now in six years as a pro has won $684,112 compared to Palmer's $603,390.

the ornate victorian pitcher has canvas sails and hemp.

The Australians have a new boat and a bold skipper in Jack Sturrock. But the Americans match them skipper for skipper in Emil "Buss" Mosbacher, who turned back an Australian challenge by Sturrock aboard Gretel in 1962.

In the slop Intrepid, the United States has the latest creation of Olin Stephens, whose wizardry as a yacht designer has been behind every American defender with one exception since 1937.

But Intrepid's greatest advantage is American technology. In the past two decades, dacron sails and the synthetic ropes to handle them have tossed overboard thousands of years of sea-

After the sea lords of the New York Yacht Club saw Sturrock win one race and lose four in 1962, they ruled against a challenger using gear and sails not manufactured in his own country.

Ted Hood of Marblehead, Mass., had impartially supplied his tightly woven dacron sails to friend and foe alike in 1962. Today, Hood sails are available only to Intrepid and the three rivals she defeated earlier in the summer.

Three years ago, Sovereign of England, forced to hoist English sails, lost her second race to Constellation by an incredible two miles. Skipper Peter Scott asked for a day off to have his sagging sails recut, but lost the next two races anyway.

Now the Australians have returned with high hopes, hundreds of cases of beer and steak, but sails probably a decade behind the technology of the United States.

Japanese Diver Snaps U. S. String of Gold Medals

TOKYO (AP) — The United States' string of victories in the swimming and diving competition at the World University Games was snapped Thursday night when Yosuke Arimitsu of Japan won the men's high diving gold medal.

The Americans had collected 20 gold medals during the first three days and were expected to capture all the events Thursday in the final day of swimming and diving at the Olympic Village.

Trap Shoot Set for GM Gunners

An industrial trap shoot for General Motors employees will be held Sunday at the Auburn Heights Sportsmen's Club.

Participants will shoot 50 birds each starting at 10 a.m. The shoot will end at 4:30 a.m. The club and range is located off Church Street in Auburn Heights.

Air Force Lt. Micki King of Pontiac, took a third-place medal in the women's platform diving competition Wednesday at the World University Games. Miss King scored 486.90.

Arimitsu, a 23-year-old student at Nihon University, collected 798.15 points in 10 dives to beat Keith Russell of Mesa, Ariz., who took the silver medal with 786.35 points.

The 18-year-old Yankee won the springboard diving gold medal Tuesday.

Another Japanese, Toshio Otsubo, won the bronze with 756.20 points.

Bernie Wrightson, Denver, Colo., was fourth. The 22-year-old University of Arizona student, compiled 743.75 points. He also was fourth in the springboard diving Tuesday.

Peter Williams won the first U.S. Gold Medal of the evening and 21st of the Games, beating varsity baseball only and will teammate John Ferris of Car-

Michael, Calif., in the men's 400-meter individual medley in 4:46.7.

Ferris, who will enter Stanford this fall, held a slim lead after the first butterfly leg, but Williams overtook him in the backstroke and freestyle legs. Ferris, who had set a world record in winning the 200-meter butterfly Wednesday, got the silver medal. He was timed in 4:37.7.

MONTREAL (AP) — Clifford finished second in both races Wednesday and moved into a tie for first in over-all standings of the North American senior sailing championships.

Cambell is tied with Eddie Botterell of Montreal with one race to go in the eight-race series. Botterell finished first and fifth in the two races Wednesday.

Each has 46½ points. Edward Smith of Chicago, who led in total points earlier in the competition, slipped to third over-all with 39½ points after being disqualified in the seventh race. He was third in the sixth.

Henry Sprague, Newport Beach, Calif., is fourth over-all with 31½ points, won the sixth but was disqualified in the seventh.

Patrick O'Neal, Larchmont, N.Y., fifth with 26, finished fourth and fifth Wednesday with Martin Bludworth, Houston, sixth over-all with 25 points on eighth and sixth place finishes.

Florida After AFL Contest Jacksonville Seeking All-Star Tilt in Jan.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — American Football League President Milt Woodard told Jacksonville civic and business leaders Wednesday he will recommend the AFL hold its All-Star game here in January if they put up a $100,000 guarantee against expenses.

Woodard told the group which included Gov. Claude Kirk, he needed an answer within 10 days on whether the money would be available.

Kirk told the group, "I think we ought to get it."

Henry Kramer, a leader of the Jacksonville group seeking the Jan. 21 game, said there would be no problem in putting up the guarantee.

Woodard said Oakland, San Diego and Houston also are being considered for the game.

The game, if it is held in Jacksonville, would be held at the 66,000-seat Gator Bowl Stadium.

Belgium Runner Posts Easy Win

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Belgium's Gaston Roelants failed in a bid to break his own world record of 8:26.4 for the 3,000-meter steeplechase Wednesday night but turned in the best time of the year for the event.

The Olympic champion was clocked in 8:28.8 as he ran away from his field in an international track and field meet in the Olympic Stadium.

"We think Hank has a good chance to make the big club this season," Abel said. Monteith, 21, scored 80 goals and 95 assists during 57 games on the Toronto varsity.

Ex-College Player Joining Red Wings

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Red Wings Wednesday signed Henry Monteith, a former left winger at the University of Toronto.

Sid Abel, coach of the National Hockey League club, said Monteith was rated as the best collegiate hockey player in Canada by Red Wing scouts.

"We think Hank has a good chance to make the big club this season," Abel said. Monteith, 21, scored 80 goals and 95 assists during 57 games on the Toronto varsity.

Player on New Ice Club Takes Loop Golf Title

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Gary Dornhoefer of the new Philadelphia Flyers won the second Annual National Hockey League Golf Tournament Wednesday with a 27-hole score of 109 at the Transit Valley Country Club.

The event was shortened from 35 to 27 holes because of rain. Dornhoefer shot a 35 over nine holes in the final round to go with his opening round 74.

Bobby Rousseau of the Montreal Canadiens took second place with 112 while George Gardner of the Detroit Red Wings and Bill Masterton of the St. Louis Blues tied for third at 116.

Players from each of the circuit's 12 teams participated in the tournament.

HEADING FOR COVER — A drenched caddy, Chuck Olson, 14, leaps across a rain-made miniature river just before yesterday's opening round of the qualifying for the U.S. Amateur Golf Championships was rained out at the Broadmoor Golf Course in Colorado Springs, Colo. Along with the rain came wind and a few flakes of snow. Play was slated to resume this morning.

State Golfer's Round Rained Out in Tourney

COLORADO SPRINGS (UPI) — Reactions were mixed among the players affected by the rain-enforced cancellation of the first round of the 67th U.S. Amateur Golf Championship Wednesday, but the man with the hottest sticks on the course called it "a wise decision."

Fred Behmyer Jr., a broad-shouldered, cotton-thatched 27-year-old East Lansing car salesman and a virtual unknown in the field of 150, was one of only two players to turn in a sub-par nine-hole score before officials deemed the Broadmoor West course "unplayable."

Behmyer, playing in his first National Amateur, shot a sizzling two-under-par 33 on the front nine of the par 35-39 layout — and that's as far as he got before they blew the whistle on the stormy first round.

One-over-par 71 was Bill Harvey, a 36-year-old salesman Greensboro, N.C., who had six one-putt greens despite the atrocious weather conditions.

Next best was a pair of 72s by Mike Mitchell of Houston, captain of last year's University of Houston (NCAA) championship team, and Charles Kocis of Royal Oak, Mich., who has been an amateur contender for 37 years.

WISE DECISION
"I think they made a wise decision," young Behmyer said. "Things were getting pretty terrible out there. I probably would have shot a 50 on the back side."

Behmyer had a scrambling nine that opened with a bogey 5 and closed with a birdie deuce. He sandwiched three other birdies and a bogey in-between and had just reached the 10th tee when the wall of the cancellation siren reached his ears.

He had bogeyed the first hole when he drove through the fairway, hit a safety shot in front of the green and then hit a bad chip shot and missed a 12-footer.

He birdied the par 5 second hole when his 3-wood second shot left him pin high and he chipped within 5-foot birdie range. His approach irons left him only 38 and 18-inch back to back birdie putts on the fourth and fifth greens.

AFL Opener Tops Grid Weekend

By The Associated Press
Two exhibition games, one in each major league, tonight under the lights of the full weekend of pro football exhibitions, will be climaxed with the opening of the American Football League's regular season.

The AFL opens its eighth season of play Sunday afternoon when the Boston Patriots visit the Denver and Lou Saban's rejuvenated Broncos, surprise winners of two inter-league exhibitions with National Football League teams.

REGULAR SEASON GAME
The game is the only regular season match on tap and is scheduled for national television coverage by NBC-TV.

The long exhibition schedule opens tonight with Buffalo vs. New York in AFL action at Mobile, Ala., and Baltimore at Washington in the NFL.

Two games are scheduled Friday, St. Louis at winless Chicago in the NFL and the first of five weekend inter-league games with Kansas City at the AFL visiting Los Angeles of the NFL, each with a 4-0 exhibition record. Both are at night.

Saturday's inter-league schedule, all at night, has Dallas (NFL) at Houston (AFL); New Orleans (NFL) vs. Miami (AFL) at Charleston, S.C., and Pittsburgh (NFL) at San Diego (AFL). Philadelphia plays New York in NFL action at Princeton, N.J., Saturday afternoon and NFL champ Green Bay is at Cleveland in a night game.

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP)—The Baltimore Colts announced Wednesday that rookie running back Jim Detwiler from Michigan has been placed on the National Football League's waiver list with the notation, injured.

MANKATO, Minn. (AP)—The Minnesota Vikings Wednesday traded defensive tackle Jim Colvin to the New York Giants in exchange for an undisclosed draft choice.

Colvin came to the Vikings from Dallas four weeks ago.

but has not played due to a knee injury.

The Vikings also announced that end Ken Latt and defensive end Bob Trygstad, both released on Tuesday, had been claimed by the New Orleans Saints and the New York Giants, respectively.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Defensive end Joe Robb of the St. Louis football Cardinals will be sidelined about six weeks, in order to recover from knee surgery which he underwent Wednesday morning.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Defensive back Willie Brown, a former University of Southern California star, was released by the Los Angeles Rams Wednesday along with one other veteran and two rookies.

Two other players were placed on waivers by the National Football League Club because of injuries.

Cut were Bob Whitlow, an eight-year-pro veteran from Arizona who had seen service with Chicago, Detroit, Washington, and Atlanta; Jim Carter, a rookie guard from Tennessee State, and Darrell Hoover, a rookie defensive back from Arizona State University.

Adds to National Unrest

Film Violence Stirs Concern

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD — In "The Dirty Dozen," a squad of American soldier-felons pours gasoline into an underground shelter to incinerate a hundred Nazi officers and their women.

In "A Fistful of Dollars," Clint Eastwood picks a quarrel with four town toughs, then plugs each of them off a fence, like targets in a shooting gallery.

In "Beach Red," a Marine sergeant and a Japanese captain engage in a jungle duel in which the arm of one is broken by a rifle and the stomach of the other is sliced with a knife.
Such scenes typify the new cycle of film violence that has caused concern in some circles, especially during this violent summer. In seeking causes for recent racial riots, a New York Times survey of psychiatrists and psychologists cited among conditions adding to the mood of unrest.

"The accentuation of violence by television, films, newspapers and magazines, and particularly the impression this makes on children."

NO DOUBT
Dr. Lewis Austad, executive clinical director of the California Educational Center for the Emotionally Disturbed, says: "There can be no doubt that violence in movies and on television to the youthful mind, especially of the nonverbal type."

Movie reviewer Bosley Crowther of the New York Times recently wrote: "By habituating the public to violence and brutality—by making these hideous exercises into morbid and sadistic jokes, as is done in 'The Dirty Dozen'—these films of excessive violence only deaden their sensitivities and make slaughter seem a meaningless cliché."

Influential Martin Quigley Jr. editorialized in Motion Picture Herald: "Today, on TV and in many films, killings are piled on killings, new and extraordinary means are found to kill and maim. An appeal is made to sadism and perversity. 'But worst of all, life so often is shown to be 'cheap,' to be expendable at the will or whim of the hero—or antihero, as the case may be. Killing the adversary is the easy way out, the almost inevitable solution. Morality and respect for human dignity hardly count."

COOL KILLING
How do movies get this way? The cause may well be attributed to James Bond, who caught the public fancy with a new kind of cool killing. A flood of imitations followed, with even more variations of torture and brutality.

Depiction of violence in films once was governed by stringent principles in the industry's self-censorship code—"Action showing the taking of human life is to be held to a minimum. Brutal killings are not to be presented in detail. Revenge in modern times shall not be justified."

But the advent of Jack Valenti as president of the Producers Association swept away the old code except for a few generalities. The new provision reads: "Detailed and protracted acts of brutality, cruelty, physical violence, torture and abuse shall not be presented."

OWN GUIDELINES
The man who applies this yardstick is Geoffrey Shurlock, code administrator. Says he: "you treat violence as you do profanity and drinking—each picture has its own guidelines. As the story merits violence, we approve it."

Hollywood movies have long dwelt on violence, causing them to be severely cut or even banned by England, India, Sweden and other countries sensitive to it on the screen.

De Gaulle Admirers Eye Battle of Grandeur Gap

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—I yield to no man in my admiration of Gen. Charles de Gaulle. You might say I worship the water he walks on.

It was this feeling that prompted me to join the Charles de Gaulle Appreciation Society, a group composed of the American friends of the French president.

Every month the two of us get together and appreciate all the things de Gaulle has done to restore France to its previous grandeur.

For several years, as you know, France has had grandeur gap, which de Gaulle is determined to close. He will never rest until the grandeur of France at least equals the grandeur of de Gaulle.

At this month's meeting of the appreciation society, the Man Indicted in Tax Fraud

DETROIT (AP) — A federal grand jury Wednesday indicted Stanley H. Stovack of Oak Park on charges of helping prepare 15 false and fraudulent federal income tax returns in 1964.

Stovack, a 25-year-old law student, is accused of preparing fraudulent returns which resulted in refunds of more than $3,000. Conviction carries a maximum sentence of 45 years in prison and a $75,000 fine.

Driver Is Killed

FLINT (AP)—Kenneth Clark, 30, Flint, was fatally injured Wednesday when his car smashed into the rear of a trailer-truck on Flint's South Side.

main topic of the agenda was, of course, de Gaulle's campaign to liberate Quebec, the French-speaking Canadian province.

STIFF OPPOSITION
Although the "Free Quebec" movement has encountered stiff opposition, especially in Quebec, de Gaulle is pressing forward. Only last week it was announced in Paris that France would expand economic, cultural and technical ties with Quebec.

Details have not been worked out, but it is expected that under the agreement France will send Quebec a new recipe for onion soup. In exchange, Quebec will send France two hockey players.

At the society's meeting, the other member and I decided it would be a good thing if the "Free Quebec" movement were escalated to embrace other North American territory, including portions of the United States.

"Perhaps we could persuade de Gaulle to liberate the French quarter or New Orleans," the other member suggested. "It still retains a strong gallic flavor."

FAVORED FLAVOR
"You mean a garlic flavor, don't you?" I said, recalling the last time I had eaten shrimp gumbo in New Orleans.

On that occasion such French quarter denizens as Alphonsie Hirt, the trumpet player, and Pierre Pousan, the clarinet virtuoso, were lining up traditional French folk tunes such as "I Wish I Could Shimmy Like My Sister Kate."

Before the meeting was over, the society also went on record as favoring the liberation of French Lick, Ind.; French Creek, W. Va.; French Broad, Tenn.; French Gulch, Calif.; French Village, Mo.; Frenchboro, Maine; Frenchburg, Ky.; Frenchtown, Mont.; and Frenchville, Pa.

Further consideration might be given to the liberation of Paris, Tex., Versailles, Ky., and Marseilles, Ill. which should be enough grandeur even for de Gaulle.

Auto Strike Target Matter of Economics

DETROIT (UPI) — Picking a target company to strike in the auto industry is a matter of economic logic rather than emotion.

Emotionally, the United Auto Workers Union would like to pick General Motors as the target firm to demonstrate that it is not afraid to tackle the biggest manufacturing corporation in the world. It might do it anyway.

But cold logic explains why Ford Motor Co. is considered the most likely firm.

It's the middle company. Chrysler Corp. is too small and its profits much smaller than either Ford or GM.

Principally, it's a case of getting the biggest bang for a buck — exerting the most pressure for a settlement on a company at the cheapest effective price. Ford seems to fit that best.

$12 MILLION AN HOUR

For example, a strike at General Motors, which would idle about 355,000 of its 375,000 production workers, would cost an average of about $12 million dollars an hour in lost wages.

The cost at Ford, with 152,000 production workers idled would be about half that, $6,150,000.

At Chrysler, it would be $341,000, but the prospects of winning a big settlement from Chrysler are much smaller.

The average salary for production workers at all three plants is about $136 a week. For those who would go out on strike, they would get $20 to $30 a week. The $20 would be for single workers, $25 for married workers, and $30 for workers with children.

STRIKE FUND

The UAW strike fund is about $67 million. Financing a strike against GM would use up the $67 million in about seven weeks.

In addition, the strike fund would have to pick up all $12 million a month in medical and surgical insurance premiums that the companies presumably would drop after the first month of the strike.

At Ford, the amount of insurance pickup would be less than half that, about $5 million. Strike benefits at Ford would cost around $3.8 million a week, meaning the strike fund could finance a strike considerably longer at Ford.

Moreover, the workers at the two companies not at a strike would provide extra strike funds through special assessments.

There would be some 455,000 workers to pay strike assessments if Ford were struck.

If the strike was against GM, only about 255,000 non-striking workers at Ford and Chrysler would be paying assessments to maintain the strike fund.

Latins Fighting Cattle Disease

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — An intensive effort finally to eliminate hoof-and-mouth disease from this hemisphere is under way in South America where it is rampant.

The disease, which severely weakens cattle that contract it, is not found in Central and North America and the Caribbean Islands. In countries south of Panama, however, it causes annual losses estimated conservatively at around $400 million.

The urgency of protective measures is felt especially in the nations of Central America which do a thriving business selling meat to the United States.

Their potential losses would be at least $55 million dollars a year if they lost that market, according to Edgardo Seoane, the Peruvian ambassador to the Organization of American States.

Time Clock Not Too Popular in St. Louis, Mo.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — That time clock recently installed in the basement of City Hall has not been well received by city employees.

It was installed so that elevator operators and custodial employees could punch in when they come to work and when they leave.

The same day someone literally punched the clock in the that it didn't keep time very face, breaking the glass. After well. And it didn't make much of an impression on the time cards.

Now comes word from Building Commissioner Kenneth Brown that repairmen have found more evidence that someone doesn't like the timepiece. Brown said battery acid has been poured into the mechanism.

Woman Starts Boardinghouse

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Sixty-three-year old Mrs. Myra Cleare runs a boardinghouse that is strictly for birds.

In her 100-year-old white, two-story house, she boards birds.

For $2 a week, an owner can take his pet and some feed to the Cleare house and go on vacation.

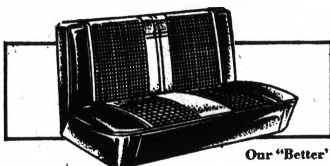

As an added bonus, Mrs. Cleare cleans the bird's cage. If it's in poor condition, she even gives it a new coat of paint.

Said Mrs. Cleare, "I just like birds. I've had some of my own and I know how to take care of them."

Frank Kelley Elected Head of U.S. Group

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Michigan Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley was elected president of the National Association of Attorneys General Wednesday at the group's annual meeting in Portland.

Kelley is the first Michigan attorney general to head the association, made up of attorneys general from all of the 50 states, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Guam.

He called for a "truce to the war between federal, state and local law enforcement so that all may unite in the war against crime and civil disorder."

The fight against crime and plans to curb city riots have been marked by squabbling as to "who did what or failed to do what to whom during the recent riots in several cities and by pulling and hauling by the three levels of government for powers and funds," Kelley said.

Rec Dept. Ending Its Summer Fun

PICTORIAL STORY

By BOB WISLER

Pontiac's summer recreation program is rapidly drawing to a close and although the results aren't yet known it may have been the most successful since 1959.

Richard Cain, supervisor of recreation, said tabulations show that in the first week there was the highest turnout of participants since 1959: 10,025 were at the playgrounds during the first week this year compared to 10,999 in 1959.

The majority of the activities at various parks and playgrounds have been curtailed although a last-minute grant from the Office of Economic Opportunity has allowed some programs to continue through next week.

For youngsters the summer was an enjoyable one. The playgrounds enjoyed a steady stream of regular patrons who came to know the other young people in their neighborhoods.

Indoor activities, such as arts and crafts, checkers and even chess, proved almost as popular as the outdoor activities of volleyball, baseball and horse-shoes.

The regular seven-week program financed by the city ended Aug. 12. Supervised play grounds were located at the 16 elementary school sites; two junior high schools, the Hayes Jones Community Center and Lakeside Homes.

In addition, the recreation department this year for the first time sponsored supervised activities at a number of parks, which usually haven't had the benefit of playground leaders or game equipment.

Parks affected were South Kiwanis, Southwest Civic, Rotary, Murphy, Beaudette and Neighborhood.

Cain said the recreation program was an enjoyable one. The playgrounds enjoyed a steady stream of regular patrons who came to know the other young people in their neighborhoods.

Indoor activities, such as arts

Open in the afternoon and evenings, attendance was high at the schools. "We had from 200 to 300 persons a night at Jefferson," the supervisor said.

More than 270 youngsters, 7 through 11, attended sessions at Frog Hollow Day Camp. Buses transported the children to and from the day camp at Pontiac Lake where the department scheduled hiking, fishing, swimming, woodcraft and camp singing for those taking part.

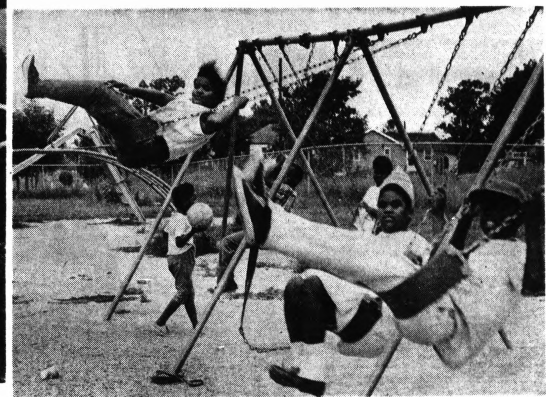

Although the summer was more tepid than hot, swimmers thronged to the pools at Hayes Jones and the eight-week program — including instruction and open swimming — at Pontiac Northern High School.

Cain said the $30,000 grant from the Office of Economic Opportunity helped considerably in making the summer program a success.

The grant was aimed specifically at "target areas" — those where a high percentage of disadvantaged children would presumably be located.

GI Destined for Viet Deserts in Germany

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Ray Jones III, 21, of Detroit stood with his arm around his bride yesterday and said he deserted from the U.S. Army because he was being sent to fight in Vietnam.

He said he thought the war morally wrong and "Vietnamese people are being treated by Americans like the Negroes in America."

Jones said that he knows he will be severely punished if he ever returns to the United States.

"If the United States formally declares war against North Vietnam, I can even be sentenced to death," he said.

DRAFTED IN 1966

He said he was an "intelligence specialist" and was drafted in February 1966.

His bride, a 20-year-old German girl named Gabrielle, came from Nuremberg to be with him.

He has recently been employed as a dance instructor, but says this is only temporary while he is becoming a playwright.

The Jewish government granted him a "nansen passport," an alien passport distributed to stateless people under a decision of the League of Nations in 1922.

FEELS UNSAFE

Jones said that he still feels unsafe.

He said he feels that he may be killed or kidnapped.

"It is easy to kidnap a person by forcing him into a car and present forged papers at an airport," he said.

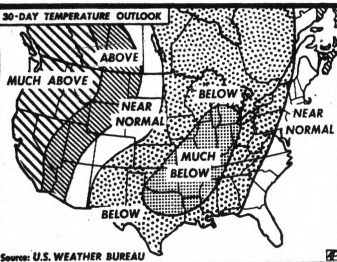

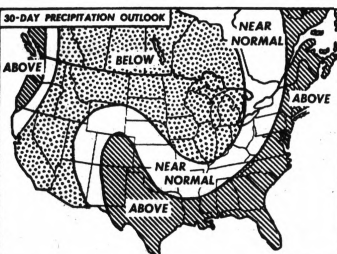

According to Jones, he was helped in his defection by an underground movement.

'NOT A PACIFIST'

He identified one of the people who helped him as Miss Eva Almgren, 36, a lecturer in sociology and president of the Pacifist Student Association.

Jones said that he was not a pacifist, generally speaking, and would defend the United States in any other war but the one in Vietnam.

"It is a question of self-preservation for the Negro to refuse to fight in the war in Vietnam," he said.

Forest Service Throws Everything It's Got Against Fires

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Every man and machine the U.S. Forest Service can find has been thrown at the walls of flame in the Pacific Northwest forests.

Already there have been over 2,000 fires this summer, compared to 995 in a similar period last year.

Sweating men still hack out fire lines, but fire fighters have called in World War II bombers to help the foresters gain control.

"If we hadn't had aerial weapons this year, we'd be in worse shape by now," said Bill Wood, fire control equipment officer for the Pacific Northwest region of the Forest Service.

The region includes 26 million acres in Oregon and Washington.

Helicopters skim the trees with loads of men and equipment for the ground war.

Smokejumpers, carrying packs on their backs, leap into the smoke.

Planes fly over the green sea of trees, looking for signs of fire.

Other planes, equipped with infrared devices can detect hot spots and can map terrain hidden by thick smoke or the dark of night.

The helicopters carry rescue litters for carrying injured men to hospitals.

Yesterday fires in the Willamette National Forest in Oregon broke loose and never stopped, sweeping over 7,000 acres of heavy timber.

"There'll be no arms twisted but I do think the results will be just as good,"

Mansfield said.

"PROMISES TO KEEP"
"We in the Senate have many promises to keep," Mansfield said moments before the Senate adjourned yesterday with no more business scheduled until Sept. 11.

Mansfield said money may not be the total answer to needs of America's violence-troubled cities, but financing of "more than $7 million in cities programs presented to the Congress by President Johnson is the instrument which can lift our cities to the stature they deserve and must have in an affluent, progressive America."

Praising the Senate Appropriations Committee for approving $537 million in model cities funds, $40 million for rent supplements and $15 million to finance urban research, Mansfield said this was no reward to rioters.

"The Senate committee has shown that, riots or no riots, they would do the right thing for millions of men, women and children who look to them from the shadows of poverty, ghettos and shattered aspirations," Mansfield said.

The $7 billion in city measures, Mansfield said, includes $2.6 billion for anti-poverty programs, $1.6 billion for aid to education, crime control, racial extermination and other programs.

Two Men Killed in Area Cave-In at Building Site

A cave-in at an excavating site in West Bloomfield Township this morning resulted in the deaths of two construction workers.

Dead are Frank Durden, 55, of Highland Park, and James Gardner, 20, of Detroit.

The accident occurred just north and west of the intersection of Maple and Middle Belt roads. The area is being developed as an addition to the Powderhorn subdivision.

Witnesses said the two were laying sewer pipe in a ten-foot deep ditch about 7 a.m. when a large section of one of the walls of the excavation gave way, pinning Durden against the opposite wall and burying Gardner.

The two were taken to Pontiac General Hospital where they were pronounced dead. Durden died of a crushed chest while Gardner suffered a crushed skull.

RESUSCITATION ATTEMPT

Township police officers attempted unsuccessfully to revive the pair at the scene. Doctors at the hospital said their injuries were such that they would have been killed instantly.

They were employed by Mario Sinicola Excavating Co. of 22680 Northwestern Highway, Farmington Township.

Representatives of the firm at the scene said that the walls of the ditch were clay and that a fault on the surface near one of the walls apparently caused the cave-in.

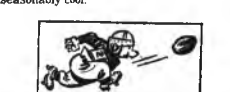

They did not believe that the rain the area received last night was a major factor contributing to the collapse.

Fair, Chilly Trend to Remain Friday

The U.S. Weather Bureau forecast for the Pontiac area today is partly sunny, and continued cool. Highs are expected to register between 60 and 67.

Tonight will remain fair and very cool with lows dipping from 38 to 45.

Tomorrow will continue fair and unseasonably cool.

FOOTBALL WEATHER

Winds are northerly 10 to 20 miles, diminishing tonight.

Saturday's outlook is fair with a slight warming trend.

Precipitation probabilities are near zero today, tonight and tomorrow.

Low temperature reading prior to 8 a.m. in Pontiac was 49. By 1 p.m. the gauge had crept up to 65.

Cities Program Gets $7-Billion Price Tag

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield told his colleagues last night they have $7 billion worth of promises to keep to America's violence-troubled city dwellers, to President Johnson and to themselves.

On the eve of a congressional holiday, Mansfield put that price tag on Johnson's program for the cities, a package he said should be handled with a sense of urgency.

Mansfield did not mention an additional $2.8 billion in city aid proposals added to an anti-poverty bill by the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee over administration objections.

"This is going to be a terrific struggle," said Sen. Jacob K. Javite, R-N.Y.

"A lot of arms are going to have to be twisted."

"There'll be no arms twisted but I do think the results will be just as good," Mansfield said.

'PROMISES TO KEEP'

"We in the Senate have many promises to keep," Mansfield said moments before the Senate adjourned yesterday with no more business scheduled until Sept. 11.

Chrysler Adds 'Road Runner'

By DICK SAUNDERS
Asst. To The Managing Editor

CHICAGO — The 1968 lineup of Chrysler Corp. products will feature extensive changes in the Dodge and Plymouth intermediate lines, including a sporty new Road Runner performance car added to the Plymouth Belvedere line.

The new cars, to be introduced in dealer showrooms Sept. 14, were unveiled here yesterday and today before more than 300 press, radio and television newsmen at Chrysler Corp.'s national news preview.

Dodge products, include a new GT sport model Dart and an all new specialty car entry in the intermediate class — the Dodge Charger. They were previewed yesterday in cool, windy, almost autumn-like weather at Soldier Field.

Among the new Chrysler — Plymouth cars, previewed today at Meadowdale International Raceway near Chicago, was Chrysler's most successful seller last year, the Plymouth Fury. This year the Fury will be offered in more models with added comfort options and engineering improvements.

Among the extensive changes in the Dodge and Plymouth intermediate lines are five revamped Plymouth entries: GTX, Sport Satellite, Belvedere, the new performance car concept labeled "Road Runner."

Romney Lambastes 'Big Labor' and LBJ

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Michigan's Gov. Romney carried his presidential aspirations to Missouri yesterday and he came out swinging — at big labor, deficit spending, inflation and President Johnson.

Romney, an undeclared republican presidential contender, was interrupted 22 times by applause when he spoke to a crowd of 3,000 Missouri Republicans in Springfield last night.

Some local GOP leaders had said they believed many in the crowd leaned toward former Vice President Richard Nixon.

Earlier in the day, Romney told a news conference "an excessive concentration of power" in labor unions contributes to inflation and causes other segments of the nation, including militant Negroes, to organize into power-seeking groups.

Flashes

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers' National councils at Ford, General Motors and Chrysler recommended today calling of a special UAW convention to beef up the union's strike fund.

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — John C. Patler, accused slayer of American Nazi leader George Lincoln Rockwell, was ordered today to stand trial for murder.

Marshall to Fill Justice Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thurgood Marshall, great-grandson of a slave and a longtime fighter for equal rights for Negroes, has won Senate confirmation as the nation's first Negro Supreme Court justice.

By a 69 to 11 margin, the Senate confirmed yesterday President Johnson's nomination of Marshall, 57, who was for many years chief legal officer of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Marshall, currently U.S. solicitor general, will fill a high court vacancy created by the retirement of Justice Tom C. Clark, who stepped down when his son, Ramsey Clark, was named attorney general earlier this year.

Swearing in of Marshall is not expected until October, when the court reconvenes for its autumn term.

Marshall's overwhelming confirmation came in the face of charges by opponents — all from the South except Sen. Robert O. Byrd, D-W. Va. — that his seating would assure a top-sided division of the court in favor of "ultra-liberal activists."

Romney had soft-pedaled national political issues since Monday, when the Midwestern Governors Conference began at Olathe, Mo. The conference ended yesterday and Romney was back in action as a presidential contender.

'FINANCIAL MESS'

He said President Johnson has led the nation into "a real economic and financial mess."

He said Johnson can be beaten in 1968.

"I think the President would have a very difficult time winning reelection if the Republican party takes advantage of the opportunity," he said. "Whether it will or not, I don't know."

Romney, who the latest Gallup Poll says could defeat Johnson in an election today, also made these arguments:

• Unbalanced federal budgets are worse than tax increases or spending cuts, but the surtax proposed by Johnson is not an adequate solution to the nation's fiscal problems.

• Johnson acts solely for political reasons, ignoring social and moral principles. "I think he's a political animal," Romney said.

• Government programs should be restricted to areas where individuals and voluntary private associations are unable to solve their problems.

• "There is no justification for any American to break the law."

MISSOURIANS APPLAUD

Missourians applauded when the devout Mormon said: "The most serious thing happening in the nation today is the declining belief that we have a Creator and that we are His children."

Romney said he planned a September tour of the nation's urban areas because "I am convinced we have seeds sown in America for more serious trouble."

Board Ratifies Teacher Pact Calling for $1-Million Gains

The Pontiac school board last night unanimously approved a $1-million package of new salary and fringe benefits for teachers.

The board agreed to cut more than a half-million dollars this year in various budgeted items to give the increases since only $512,000 was available for teacher salaries.

Details of the new salary schedule and fringe benefits in the teachers' 1968-69 contract were withheld by the board, which met last night at a special meeting at the Rotunda Country Inn, Orchard Lake.

The board and Pontiac Education Association have agreed not to release salary schedules until the teachers take a ratification vote at 7 tonight at Northern High School.

LONG SESSION

Although negotiation teams of administrators and teachers seemed deadlock on salary proposals last week, apparent settlement was reached after one long session Tuesday with a State Labor Mediation Board representative.

School administrators are now busy going over $15.2 million of estimated expenditures for the current fiscal year to find the $54,500 of reductions.

Related Story, Page E-11

The union's 26-member executive board meets today to decide which firm will be the focal point for a settlement designed to become a pattern for all 650,000 UAW workers at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

Walter P. Reuther, the union's president, planned a late afternoon news conference to announce the target.

Union negotiators yesterday unanimously recommended that the UAW reject the companies' offers.

Holly School Vote on Levy Is Today

Voters in the Holly Area School District were at the polls today to decide on a third attempt to pass operating millage.

The ballot question asks voters to approve 7 mills, the amount which expires this year.

At stake is about 20 per cent of the district's operating funds.

In June and July, attempts to pass a 10-mill levy failed, and the request was scaled down to 7 mills, which does not call for a tax increase.

The school board has planned for an austerity program which calls for dropping of sports if the issue fails a third time.

N. Viets Kidnap 39 in Election Vendetta

SAIGON (AP) — Communist guerrillas dotted South Vietnam with protection assaults and terror attacks today, shelling a fourth provincial capital in as many days and kidnapping 39 draft-age men in another village.

With Sunday's presidential election only three days off, officials warned that worse red violence was expected. Americans were warned to stay in their billets.

U. S. Command announced

the loss of two more warplanes over North Vietnam, maintaining a recent loss rate of more than one plane a day.

The weekly casualty report reflected the current lull in ground fighting, with 125 Americans killed last week and 1,078 wounded. Both totals were up slightly from the previous week but were below the average of recent months.

Communist losses were 1,350, also below average, while the South Vietnamese had 101 killed

Tropical Storm Gets Stronger

Arlene Should Grow to Hurricane Today

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Growing stronger by the hour, tropical storm Arlene crawled slowly across the Atlantic Ocean today on a course that kept it far from land as its winds approached hurricane velocity.

Forecasters the national hurricane center in Miami said Arlene, the season's first tropical storm, seemed certain to reach hurricane status sometime today.

"We just can't say when. At this point, we can't tell," a forecaster said.

The storm's poorly defined path was checked out Wednesday by planes, ship sightings and satellite pictures.

At 6 a.m. (EDT) Arlene was about 1,200 miles southeast of Bermuda, moving toward the west northwest at about 15 miles an hour. She was centered at longitude 49.5 west.

Her speed and intensification was expected to remain fairly constant during the morning hours.

To be classified a hurricane, a storm's winds must increase to a speed of 74 miles an hour. Disturbances become tropical storms when their winds exceed 39 m.p.h.

Arlene developed into a tropical storm Wednesday after moving weakly about the Eastern Atlantic for several days. Winds reached up to 50 m.p.h.

U. S. Charges Hanoi Lies

SAIGON (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland's headquarters accused North Vietnam today of flagrant lying about the results of Communist military operations. In an unusual departure from its policy of refusing to comment on Communist claims, the U.S. Command issued a statement challenging reports from Radio Hanoi and the North Vietnam News Agency.

Birmingham Area News

Blomfield Twp. to Join Council of Governments

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The Township Board has voted to approve the township's membership in the newly created Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (COG).

The decision was a near unanimous one with only one member of the board, Robert M. Sinclair, dissenting. No objections were present in the audience.

The organization is being formed to deal with mutual problems facing county and local governments and school districts in southeast Michigan.

It has no taxing or legislative powers and members can withdraw on 90-day notice. The Committee of 100 of the Metropolitan Area suggested the organization in order to coordinate community efforts in such projects as sewer and water line construction and pollution control.

Township Supervisor Homer Case had been a member of the committee for two years. He was appointed to the group by the Oakland County Board of Supervisors of which he is a member.

$300 YEARLY — Dues are paid to COG in proportion to the population of the member community. Bloomfield Township, with a 1960 population of 22,350, will pay $600 yearly.

Case was named the township's representative to the organization.

Egypt, Saudi to Get Out of Yemen War

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — Egypt and Saudi Arabia agreed Wednesday night on a formula to get themselves out of Yemen's civil war amid the first talk at the Arab summit meeting of a "political solution" with Israel.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt figured in both developments, promising withdrawal of his forces in Yemen and taking what conference sources said was a less belligerent stance toward Israel in a speech at a closed conference session.

In return for the Egyptian troop pullout, Saudi military assistance is to be halted in the five-year-old Yemen civil war that has pit Egypt, the mainstay of the republican government, against royalist rebels supported by Saudi King Faisal.

Nasser and Faisal approved a plan calling for the formation of a three-power committee to supervise the phasing out of hostilities. Sudan, Iraq and Morocco were named to the committee and planned to begin work immediately after the winding of the summit meeting Friday.

NO DEADLINE — No date was set for the beginning of the withdrawal of Egyptian troops, who numbered about 40,000 in Yemen until a large contingent was moved out following the Middle East war in June.

Premier Mohamed Ahmed Mahgoub of the Sudan, who served as mediator, said the dispute had been settled "in the interests of purifying the Arab atmosphere of political division."

Wednesday Nasser had pointedly turned his back on Faisal at the conference's opening session, but the two were smiling and shaking hands when their agreement was announced today.

Bag Their Feet

Most children's sleeper feet are too bulky for the child to wear slippers over them. Put a plastic bag over each foot and a rubber band around the ankle to hold it on. The children can run around a bit, yet the sleeper feet will still be clean.

You Add Style and New Length

When a little girl's denim pants or levis become too short, lengthen them by adding a piece of harmonizing checked or plaid material. Remove the old hem and add a piece of cloth folded in half. This covers the faded line and makes the pants look fully lined. It adds the length needed and brightens them at the same time. Regular spoonbread made with cornmeal is delicious, but so is the variety of spoonbread that is made with cooked hominy grits.

Charming grouping for a small "wallscape" is created with Syroco's miniature prints in Venetian style and an elegant scone with crystal chains, set off by a floral bouquet. The handsome print frame, with its elegant straight lines complemented by delicately carved decoration, is finished in antique gold brushed with white, and the intricately carved scone in antiqued metal-gold is faithfully reproduced from an antique. Each print retails for approximately $12 and the scone for $25. Line available locally.

Lace Trim for Mrs. Jones' Empire Gown

June Elizabeth Sullivan and Isaac Jones were wed recently in the Newman AME church.

Bridesmaids were Carolyn Johnson, Dorothy Jones, Ruby Simpson and Janet Mansfield. Best man was Lawrence Pete.

David and Robert Jones (brothers of the bridegroom) were ushers with James and Tyler McClendon. The couple will make their home in Pontiac.

Decorative Way to Organize Mail

If you are one of those people who keep meaning to get organized, the National Cotton Council suggests you start in a decorative way.

Use eye-catching cotton prints and empty shoe boxes to make attractive files for letters and bills.

Cover both box tops and bottoms with fabric, gluing or stapling it in place. Colorful striped sailcloth or vivid flower-printed pique are good choices. Or use a fabric that coordinates with slipcovers or curtains.

'Spaghetti' Hides Inside Squash

Pontiac Press Food Editor

This is the time of year when summer spills its harvest out in colorful flavorful measure. A trip to the Oakland County Farmers' Market confirms this. Nowhere in northern Europe nor in the British Isles did we see squash. Nor did it appear on any menu. It is mainly a new world vegetable.

In fact, we have difficulty deciding on which squash we'll buy.

The Allie Johnston of Seymour Lake Road grow six varieties for sale at market: yellow straight neck, zucchini, acorn, delicious, buttercup and a new one — spaghetti squash.

This last one is different and,

according to Johnston, has never been sold in the area before.

It looks like a small honeydew melon.

Mrs. Johnston says to wash and cook it whole, allowing about 30 minutes of boiling. Cut off the top and you'll find lots of long shreds—vegetable spaghetti. Serve it with spaghetti sauce.

DIETER'S DELIGHT

Johnston who must follow a diabetic diet is delighted with this non starchy spaghetti. He suggests also using it in chop suey in place of bean sprouts.

While summer squash does not freeze too well, the fall and winter varieties are excellent for this purpose. Mrs. Johnston's method is simple.

She prefers the delicious or buttercup for freezing. Peel them, cut into pieces and boil about 15 minutes. Then mash and season before packing into freezer containers.

If you do want to freeze any of the summer squashes, use younger tender specimens.

Cut into 1/2-inch slices; blanch in boiling water for 3 1/2 minutes. Chill 5 minutes in cold water. Drain; pack in containers, leaving 1/2-inch headspace. Seal.

Summer squash is bland and combines well with other vegetables. Try this recipe while fresh corn is still in season.

ZUCCHINI-CORN CASSEROLE

6 zucchini
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter or margarine

1 1/2 cups finely chopped onions
1 garlic clove, finely minced
1 green pepper, finely chopped
1 cup grated sharp cheese
5 eggs, well beaten
1 cup fresh corn cut from cob.

Place zucchini in pan with tight-fitting lid. Add one cup water and the salt; cover. Steam about 10 minutes, until barely tender. Do not overcook. Drain. When cool, chop or grind them.

Melt two tablespoons butter or margarine and cook onion, garlic and green pepper until onion is wilted. Blend with zucchini. Add rest of ingredients and pour into 1 1/2 quart casserole. Bake one hour at 350 degrees. Makes 6 servings.

Woman's Day Encyclopedia of Cookery suggests that you make jam with squash.

SQUASH AND APPLE JAM

3 1/2 cups peeled and sliced tart apples
4 quarts peeled and sliced summer squash
3 pounds sugar
1 teaspoon ground ginger
1 1/2 lemons, rind and juice

Cut apples and squash into thin slices. Put in large bowl or enamelware preserving kettle, sprinkling layers with the sugar. Cover and let stand overnight.

Cut lemon rind into thin slivers and add to first mixture with lemon juice and ginger.

Boil only until fruit is clear and tender and liquid jells, about 20 minutes. Pour into sterilized jars, cool slightly and seal. Makes about five 1/2-pint jars.

taste. The Johnstons specialize in raising squash. Also shown in their stall at the farmers' market are buttercup and delicious squash.

MARKET BASKET

Fresh Fruits Garnish Creamy Vanilla Bombe

Legend has it that ice cream was discovered on a hot day in 1774 by a French chef who worked for the Duc de Chartres. However, the Italian-born Catherine de Medici had brought the secret of making "iced cream" to the French court when she came to be the bride of Henry II more than two centuries earlier.

As ways of serving ice cream became more refined, the elegant form of the bombe evolved, so called because it was frozen in the spherical shape of an antique bomb. The modern bombe is most often frozen in a melon-shaped or tall conical mold.

A bombe is at its most perfect when prepared with a homemade ice cream. But this needn't be complicated — witness the simple recipe for Frozen Vanilla Bombe.

A cooked custard mixture is blended with prepared whipped topping—made from a mix that now has a richer, creamier flavor. Only one freezing step is involved to make this luscious ice cream, and it resembles the real homemade old-fashioned kind.

It's wonderful served with fresh fruit — use juicy sliced peaches, blueberries, raspberries, or whatever's your family's favorite.

FROZEN VANILLA BOMBE

1 cup light cream
1 cup milk
4 egg yolks
1 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
1 envelope whipped topping mix

Scald the light cream and 1/4 cup of the milk. Cool. Beat egg yolks in the top of a double boiler until thick and light in color. Gradually beat in sugar; then add salt and the remaining 1/4 cup milk.

Add vanilla. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until mixture will coat a metal spoon. Chill.

Meanwhile, prepare whipped topping mix as directed on package. Beat into chilled mixture. Pour into a 1-quart bombe mold. Freeze 6 to 8 hours or overnight.

Unmold and serve with blueberries, sliced peaches, or a fruit sauce. Makes about 1 quart or 6 to 8 servings.

Bake Bread at 400 F.

White bread loaves, made with yeast and baked in 9 by 5 1/2 inch loaf pans, are usually baked in a hot (400 degrees) oven for 40 minutes.

Grill Sesame Bread in Foil Over Coals

This seasoned bread goes on the grill.

Open Sesame Loaf

1 loaf (1 pound) Vienna or French bread
1/4 cup toasted sesame seeds
3 tablespoons minced chives
1/2 cup butter (soft)

Cut bread into 16 diagonal slices. Mix remaining ingredients; spread between each slice of bread. Wrap loosely in heavy foil. Place on grill (over charcoal), turning often, for 20 to 30 minutes or until hot through.

For indoor use, heat in a hot (400 degrees) oven for same length of time.

EASY FREEZY LEMON PIE—Canned lemon pie filling has a velvety consistency to begin with, but just wait until you see what happens when rich ice cream is added! This happy mixture is poured into the crust and frozen till firm.

Orchid Icing

To make a pretty orchid color icing with a tasty flavor, use the juice from canned raspberries instead of milk as the liquid in powdered sugar icing.

Filling and Ice Cream Mixed

Lemon Pie Is Cool Treat

Ice cream ranks as the most popular dessert in our country, with pie the second favorite. So we've combined these two into what we think will be the dessert hit of the year... Easy Freezy Lemon Pie!

The crunchy confection crust is made from semi-sweet chocolate morsels, melted and tossed with toasted coconut and rice cereal. It's pressed into the pie plate and chilled; so no baking is required.

Easy Freezy Lemon Pie

1 package (6-ounce) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 cups crisp rice cereal
1/2 cup flaked coconut, toasted
1 No. 2 can (2 cups) lemon pie filling

1 pint vanilla ice cream
Frozen whipped topping, defrosted
Chocolate curls

Melt chocolate pieces and butter in a heavy saucepan. Add cereal and toasted coconut and mix well. Press into a buttered 9-inch pie plate; chill until firm.

Empty lemon pie filling into an ice cube tray; freeze several hours until icy. Beat frozen lemon pie filling with electric mixer. Add ice cream into eighths and add to pie filling; beat to mix.

Pour into chilled cereal crust. Freeze overnight. To serve, top with whipped topping and chocolate curls. And if you don't serve it all at one time, simply slip the pie plate back into the freezer for a treat later on.

Pancake Ideas Come in Book

Would you like the recipe for Mrs. America's own original pancake creation?

And are you curious about the spectacular Old Lady Pancakes developed by Mrs. Virginia — the recipe that won her the title "Mrs. Pancake America"?

These and 49 other excellent pancake recipes are available in an attractive booklet, 51 PANCAKE RECIPES from the 1967 Mrs. America Pageant.

Some of the intriguing titles — Buckwheat Blu, Hoosier Honey, Grandma's Pancakes A Go Go, Pancakes Parfait — hint at the ingenuity of the poised and pretty Mrs. America contestants. And the recipes are just as imaginative as their names!

The "Aunt Jemima Pancake Variety Event" was one of the highlights of the San Diego pageant.

Each contestant (a winner from each state and the District of Columbia) was required to prepare her original recipe for the judges. The entry of Mrs. Virginia, Mrs. James Franco-Marco, was judged the "winner of this event."

The recipes range from delightful ideas to scrumptious main dishes, exotic desserts and unusual snack suggestions. All the recipes are based on dependable pancake mix so you can be sure of duplicating them successfully. Try all 51 recipes.

Each is a tested and proven family favorite in a Mrs. America household; now they can become favorites of your family, too.

Empress, the skinny tuna.

Why do we take the finest cuts of plump white Albacore tuna and call it skinny tuna? Because of the way we pack it. Most tuna comes packed in oil. Fatty oil. You can pour off the oil but not the calories. We pack Empress the natural way. In water. Non-fattening. No calorie water. That gives Empress less than half the calories of oil-packed tuna. And with no oil to disguise the taste, Empress has a fresher, more natural flavor.

Empress, the water-packed tuna. Half the calories of the oil-packed kind. Empress, the skinny tuna.
