

In...and Out... of Trouble

RESCUED AND RESCUER — Caroline Kennedy, 3-year-old daughter of President John F. Kennedy, was pulled out of a swimming pool last Thursday as she was about to sink in water over her head. Mrs. William Saltonstall, daughter-in-law of Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, jumped in the pool, fully clothed, and rescued Caroline.

Caroline Gets in Deep Water but She Has a Friend Indeed

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — Caroline Kennedy, 3, daughter of the President, got into water over her head in a friend's swimming pool a week ago and was rescued by a young man who jumped into the pool fully clothed.

Caroline suffered no ill-effects. Nor did her rescuer, Mrs. William Saltonstall, who is expecting a child in the early fall. Mrs. Saltonstall is the daughter-in-law of Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass.

The White House confirmed the incident today after the Evening Star published a story about it written by society columnist Betty Beale.

The episode was at the suburban Maryland home of Mr. and Mrs. Newton I. Steers Jr. Attended by a nurse, Caroline had gone there for a birthday party for Ivan Steers, 3. Mrs. Kennedy was not along.

On RUBBER RING White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said that Caroline was splashing around in the pool on an inflated rubber ring and slipped out of it.

"Mrs. Saltonstall jumped in and pulled her out," he said. "It was not a serious matter. People were all around watching. She was out of the pool in seconds."

Apparently, Salinger said, Caro-

Teamsters Will Back Officials

To Pay Legal Costs if 'Political or Unfounded' Charges Are Leveled

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (U.P.) — James R. Hoffa today threatened to start a rival union labor federation unless the AFL-CIO readmits the Teamsters Union.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (U.P.) — The Teamsters convention today voted to pay full legal costs of any of its officials or employees involved in court proceedings that the union determines are "unfounded or politically motivated."

Union President James R. Hoffa also got the willing delegates to agree to a new constitutional provision apparently loosening the purse strings on local union treasurers.

From now on, the locals can invest in any property, real or personal, and leave money deposited in banks without interest.

Locals can make loans "direct and indirect for such purposes and with such security, if any, as they deem appropriate and with such arrangements for repayment as they deem appropriate."

Edward H. Painter, Local 70, Oakland, Calif., was hoed and shouted down in an attempt to raise strike benefits higher than Hoffa proposed.

Hoffa reminded Painter that he was one of a small group that had unsuccessfully opposed a dues increase at Wednesday night's session.

Peter J. Hoban of Local 753, Chicago, protested against the hoos and catcalls against Painter, saying that he had a fair hearing.

The dues increase approved Wednesday helped Hoffa consolidate control over the 1.7 million member union, largest in the nation.

Moslems Bury the Dead; Rebels Fire on Mourners

ALGIERS, Algeria (U.P.) — Algerian rebel gunmen opened fire on mourners at funeral services in Constantine today for Moslem rioters killed in street battles Wednesday.

Three mourners were reported wounded in the sudden, unexplained shooting.

The shots were fired from a house near Constantine's Moslem cemetery, where rebels surrounded the house and seized four members of the rebel National Liberation Front (FLN).

City authorities then decreed that the last of the victims of Wednesday's violence could not be buried until after curfew at 9 p.m.

(Rebel Information Minister Mohammed Yazid said in Rabat, Morocco, that the French casualty figures of 36 dead and 300 wounded in Wednesday's riots "are well below the truth.")

"According to the first information in our possession, in the Algiers area alone, the numbers of the dead are several hundred," Yazid said.

WALL THEIR GRIEF

The funeral throng of 300 Moslem men, women and children was milling about at nearby Kolea and a demonstration seemed imminent, with many carrying green and white Algerian rebel flags and wailing their dismay.

But the police and soldiers fired their tear gas grenades as a precautionary move. The (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

Rowston Signs 35-Year Pact to Get Water From Detroit

Pontiac to Make Change in Early Stages of 1963

The long search for a new source of water for Pontiac apparently ended last night when Mayor Philip E. Rowston signed a 35-year contract with the Detroit Water Board.

The move means Detroit water should be replacing well water in Pontiac in about 18 months, probably early in 1963.

Pontiac is slated to be the 53rd outside community to use Detroit water and the largest next to Dearborn.

The switch would result in lower rates doubling or even tripling, beginning in 1963, according to present estimates. The average household bill is $18 a year now.

But because Pontiac well water is considered "hard" and Detroit water "soft," City Manager Walter K. Willman said home softeners could be discarded, resulting in over-all savings in water costs for many households.

It is expected that the contract now will get ready approval by Detroit's Common Council and the okay of Detroit's Water Board.

City Commissioners approved the switch 4-1 after Willman recommended it as "the most important sale in my 10 years here." Commissioner Milton R. Henry opposed it.

Willman said the move means Pontiac can stop worrying about its steadily dropping water table — about exhausting the remaining good water in the 24 municipal wells.

The seemingly inexhaustible supply of Detroit water, drawn down from Lake St. Clair but later to be taken from Lake Huron, stands as a reassurance to Pontiac industry and home owners, he said.

The contract calls for Detroit to supply Pontiac with "pure" water, "the best of its ability" and "in sufficient quantities to meet all reasonable demands" at rates that are "reasonable."

The rates are based on a formula that takes into account the base rate in Detroit plus mileage and elevation to Pontiac. Initially, this is to be set at $1.3 a thousand cubic feet with a minimum annual bill based on half the estimated annual pumpage into the city.

The contract has no provisions concerning the city's charge to householders for Detroit water. This will be set by the City Commission, presumably on the basis of operational and delivery costs.

It is estimated that the city will use 1,232 billion cubic feet of water in 1963. The contract predicts the city will be using 1,366 billion cubic feet of Detroit water in 1969 and afterward.

The estimates are based on predictions by Pontiac's consulting engineers, Jones, Henry and Williams of Toledo.

It is expected that the switch will mean permanent Detroit water in Pontiac. The "35-year" clause is in the contract mainly to guarantee solvency during the life of revenue bond issues for necessary construction.

After Detroit approves the contract, the next move will be the City Commission's.

Mild Weather Will Continue Through Friddy

Today's partly cloudy skies and mild weather will continue with little temperature change tonight and Friday, the weatherman says. A low of 60 degrees is expected tonight. Tomorrow the mercury will climb to a pleasant 80.

Temperatures will average 5 to 8 degrees below normal during the next four days. The normal high is 80 to 85 and the normal low is 58 to 64.

A cooler trend is forecast for Sunday and Monday.

Fifty-seven degrees at 4:45 a.m. was the lowest temperature preceding 8 o'clock today. The reading was 81 at 2 p.m.

POINTS OUT WATER DROP — Joseph W. Gable, Pontiac water superintendent, indicates the meter showing how the water table in Pontiac's wells has dropped to 121 feet below surface. Gable, a staunch supporter of the switch to Detroit water, says the present low water table is becoming "rather alarming."

U.N. Must Assure Independence

Kuwait Wants Guarantee

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (U.P.) — Kuwait declared today the U.N. Security Council must give it an effective guarantee of independence before it can feel safe enough to ask British troops to withdraw from the oil-rich desert sheikdom.

Abdel Aziz Hussein, Kuwait's spokesman at the council, spelled out his country's position at a news conference prior to an afternoon council session.

He made clear that a pledge from Premier Abdel Karim Kassem of Iraq not to use force in the current crisis would not be sufficient to allay fears that Iraq would try to overwhelm Kuwait.

He said admission of Kuwait to the United Nations as a member nation and withdrawal of Iraqi claims to Kuwait are prime conditions for any request for the British to withdraw their armed forces.

Britain's commander in Kuwait has ordered the desert frontier mined, charging Iraqi forces across the border appear to be building up at an increased pace.

British military sources said the Israelis, despite their conflict, insist that they would get control of the oil-rich sheikdom only by peaceful means, appear poised for offensive action.

(The Iraq news agency reported that Iraqi Premier Kassem, after a plane survey of areas near the Kuwait border Wednesday, denied the British reports of Iraqi troop concentrations and said the British know that "to date Iraq has not moved a single soldier.")

(Kassem said in his statement that Iraq will combat British imperialism by all legitimate ways until the liberation of our Arab countries in the gulf and until Kuwait, the stolen part, is saved and restored to its homeland, Iraq.)

DEMAND WITHDRAWAL (In the U.N. Security Council Wednesday the United Arab Republic and the Soviet Union joined Iraq in demanding the immediate withdrawal of the British forces that went to Kuwait after an appeal from the country's ruler, Sheik Abdullah As-Salim As-Sabah. And there were hints the council might ask the Arab League to settle the crisis generated by Iraq's claim to Kuwait.)

(U.A.R. delegate Omar Luthi, in insisting the Arab League be left to deal with the crisis, said "any country opposes any idea of annexation of Kuwait by Iraq. But we cannot oppose any program of unity among Arab brothers. In the spirit of self-determination we support Kassem's claim to independence.")

Arab League Secretary-General Abdel Khalek Hassouna, trying to mediate through talks with the Arab governments, was in Saudi Arabia today after conferring with Sheik Abdullah and Premier Kassem.

Hassouna said before leaving Wednesday that a peaceful solution could be found.

May Try to End Built-In Raises Report Auto Firms Will Seek to Scrap Wage Hikes in Negotiations

DETROIT (U.P.) — The auto companies may attempt to scrap cost-of-living and productivity wage increases in current negotiations with the United Auto Workers on new labor contracts.

But they aren't saying so publicly. The talks are only in the second week and the strategy of company negotiators is to listen to a presentation of union demands at this time and state management's position later on.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther said at the start of negotiations with General Motors, Ford and Chrysler last week that the union will insist on retaining annual improvement factor wage increases and quarterly cost-of-living wage adjustments in the new contracts.

Some observers have speculated the big three would like to drop built-in wage increases in the new contracts.

They point to the fact that General Motors, Ford and Chrysler shipped their customary annual raises June 1 for 138,000 salaried employees not covered by union contracts.

Highland Youth Shot by Mistake

Neighbor on Guard for Prowlers Hits Teen With Shotgun Blast

A Highland Township man shot a 16-year-old boy when he mistook the youth for a prowler last night.

The teen-ager, Gary Hancock, 611 Eagle Road, was being treated for shotgun wounds of the chest and abdomen at Pontiac General Hospital today. He is expected to recover.

It was shot by Howard L. Gieger, 61 of 509 Eagle Road, according to sheriff's deputies.

Gieger, in a statement to Asst. Oakland County Prosecutor Anthony J. Rennie, said he was on the lookout for a prowler last night after numerous reports of prowlers and window prying in the area in the last month.

Gieger said that when he heard several dogs barking he went into his home and got a 16-gauge shotgun. He saw a figure come on his lawn, but the person fled when he turned on a flashlight, Gieger said.

The third blast from the shotgun hit the person in the back, Gieger said. He said he did not see the person again.

The Hancock youth said he, too, had heard dogs barking and came to investigate. He continued to flee after being ordered to stop because he was "scared," Rennie quoted him as saying.

Rennie said no charges were being contemplated against Gieger in the shooting.

Pontiac Now Assured Plenty of Water

Summertime water shortages in some suburbs served by Detroit in the past decade have been traceable to poor local distribution systems, he said.

"We had the water available, but the local system was too small or weak to deliver it," he explained. Detroit pumps about twice as much water within the Detroit city limits as it does outside, Remus said.

At last count, there were 1,654 million people served within the city and an estimated 1,434 million in the suburbs, said Remus.

The number of services to homes, business and industry was 39,000 inside Detroit and 37,000 outside.

To handle the increasing load of customers, the system has invested $100 million in new facilities since 1949, Remus said. In comparison, bonded indebtedness amounts only to $25 million, with relatively low interest payments because of the system's very high "AA" credit rating, Remus said.

Bonded indebtedness is down because the system is able to use current revenues to pay for expansion, Remus said.

All revenue, city within the water system — some find their way into the City of Detroit's general fund, he emphasized.

Detroit has been serving suburbs with water since the turn of the century, Remus said.

In the 1920s and 1930s, Oakland County towns were signing up for it, leading to the creation of the Southeastern Oakland County Water Authority in 1941.

SET LOCAL AUTHORITIES From Detroit, a group of 18 cities and a portion of 73 cities a thousand cubic feet, treats it, and then sells it to nine Royal Oak area communities at $1.50 a thousand cubic feet. The community sets their own rates in selling it to the public.

Detroit will sell treated water in Pontiac at a rate of $1.41 a thousand cubic feet. Pontiac officials will figure in cost of operation and inflation, if the Detroit Water Board ever approves a rate hike, Remus said. It will affect the entire water system, not just one or a few communities.

Water rates throughout the Detroit system are based on the base rate to the Detroit customer, Remus said. The cost to Pontiac is figured through a formula taking into account distance and elevation, he said.

All Detroit's water contracts provide for renegotiation of rates on the basis of increasing operation costs or inflation. If the Detroit Water Board ever approves a rate hike, Remus said. It will affect the entire water system, not just one or a few communities.

Fluoridation is apparently a dead issue as far as Detroit water is concerned, said Remus. The city charter makes it impossible to change for this service, he pointed out.

But it's possible for communities served by Detroit to fluoridate on their own if they want, he added.

Remus' opinions about water softeners have already been reported in Pontiac.

He said that Detroit water, with about 98 parts hardness out of a million, is ideal and much softer than Pontiac's.

There are few if any softeners in Detroit and these are used, he said, in such special ventures as industrial laundries and breweries.

The meeting, which is open to the public, will be held at the Birmingham Community House at 5 p.m.

Speakers will include George Remus, Republican, and W. O'Brien, Democrat, who will oppose each other in September.

Since the two men are unopposed they are automatically nominated and will not appear on the July 25 ballot. They will appear at the Wednesday meeting as Stanley J. Fiel, Mrs. Berrie Ketchum, Mrs. Donald Kohle, Richard McManus, Asher Tichen, Kenneth Whitmer and Henry Wolfenden.

Rev. Arnold F. Runkel of 532 Madison, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Birmingham, has been elected to the board of trustees of Albion College.

Rev. Runkel received an honorary doctor of divinity degree from Albion College 10 years ago. He has been pastor of the First Methodist Church for 18 years.

He was the first president of the Birmingham Ministerial Association and former president of the Birmingham Community Council.

City Signs for Detroit Water

Pontiac's present system is designed to distribute water from wells in various locations.

The main installations have a new storage tank and a big pipeline through the center of town, Remus said.

First, the Detroit Water Board will have to issue revenue bonds in the amount of $5 to $8 million to finance the extension, Remus said.

The line that will bring Detroit water to Pontiac already extends northward on Dequindre Road as far as 14-Mile Road. A contract is signed to extend it to 15-Mile and funds are on hand for another extension to 17-Mile, Remus said. The bond issue would take the line all the way to Opdyke and South Boulevard.

Commissioners especially noted two clauses in the contract.

One allows the city to turn to its own wells "in event of emergency." The other would let Pontiac sell some of its Detroit water to nearby communities with approval of the Detroit Water Board.

Retiring AF General Talks of 40 Years of Growth

By BOB CONSIDERE

NEW YORK — Thomas Drennon, 57, left the U.S. Air Force the other day just as he entered it without fanfare. No valleys, no titles, no recriminations.

He had served his country with quiet style and distinction for more than 40 years. He reversed a recent trend by retiring without a dominating statement.

His career bridged an eternity as air progress is measured.

"While I can't claim to go back to the day of the Wright Brothers, I did serve my apprenticeship under Billy Mitchell's generation," he once told an Air Force Association convention.

"I was a first lieutenant of infantry that famous summer of 1921 when he led the bombers which sank the warships anchored near Cape Charles. To many a young fellow like me it truly seemed then that something altogether new was reaching of nations.

"And in the years that followed, many of us in this room, were to witness and even share in the immense consequences that flowed from being added to the power and from the concepts that were put to test off Cape Charles.

"Out of it all came a profound reshaping of national strategy, a great new and independent military service, and a new industry with its roots in practically every corner of America."

It was his lot to command that Air Force during the period of its most revolutionary change.

He stocked it with the world's best supersonic fighters, and he spearheaded the "mixed force" concept of strategic bombing which continues to keep the free world secure during this period of wrenching change from manpower to manpower-plus-buttons.

MIXED FORCE

The "mixed force" is made up of B-70, B-52 and B-58, manned bombers. Taking shape is the B-70, perhaps the last of the bombers dependent upon manned occupancy.

It will fly three times the speed of sound over vast distances and a single one of them will be able to drop or hurl for 1,500 miles more than any other in the air forces of World War II dropped on the countries of the world.

The "mixed force" is made up, too, of the Atlas Intercontinental Missile and the Intermediate Thor, both now operational and in place here and elsewhere in the free world.

In the final stages of testing is the Titan, a more sophisticated missile than the Atlas, and the Minuteman, the solid-fuel ICBM which will be stored in silos or moved about the country on special trains.

Under General White the Air

Force moved deep into space, flinging up satellites for such purposes as reconnaissance, weather forecasting, communications and deep space probes.

He contributed great vision to his job and, for him, the moon, the planets and the stars were neighbors.

But in pressing for the utmost in modern weapons, Tommy White never forgot the most vital ingredient in a sound military machine—man.

The man in the X-15, for example, or the spaceman who will one day orbit in a great Indian arrowhead named Dyna-Soar.

The general liked to point out to cadets who foresaw the end of man-at-the-controls that the human brain, which takes up little space, is the equivalent of an electronic device that might need as many as ten billion tubes or transistors.

He left office insisting that the human brain would be needed around his business to long as judgment was needed — and he thought that as the years went on and the hardware increased in destructiveness, judgment might become the indispensable commodity.

General White speaks Chinese, Russian, Italian, Spanish and Portuguese. He graduated from West Point at 18. He is still short of 60. We hope the educational rather than the industrial or business world gets this gifted man, who may have said it all when he remarked: "In the long run, if we are to keep ahead of the Reds in the air, we must keep ahead of them in our classrooms."

Eighty-nine per cent of the druggists in the U. S. now use some degree of self-service in their stores. Druggists traditionally invest 73 per cent of their promotion budgets in the advertising pages of their local daily newspapers.

Jobs, Jobless Show Increase

Surge of Teen-Agers Into Market Is Cause of Unemployment Hike

WASHINGTON — Employment rose to a record high in June, but because of a great surge of teen-agers into the labor market unemployment also increased sharply.

The Labor Department reported Wednesday that total employment rose by 1.9 million to 68.7 million from mid-May to mid-June. The latter figure was a few thousand larger than the previous employment records set in June and July of 1960.

Unemployment increased by 800,000 to 5.4 million. The department said this was about the expected increase for this time of year.

It is possible for employment and joblessness to increase simultaneously because of changes in the total number of persons in the labor force. This force is defined as persons at work plus persons looking for work.

In June, a total of 2,485,000 persons aged 14 to 19 left school either temporarily or permanently and started looking for work. Of this total, 800,000 were listed as jobless in mid-June, a figure larger than in any other postwar year.

However, the Labor Department stressed that there was a 500,000 increase in the employment of adult men, a better-than-seasonal pickup.

This was partly offset by a 200,000 drop in employment of adult women, mostly teachers.

Negroes comprised 20 per cent of the total U.S. population in 1960, but in more recent estimates the ratio has declined to the present rate of about 10 per cent.

Peace Corps Changes Turn Plan Into Going Concern

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Peace Corps is in business.

Six months ago, it was just a campaign phrase that had fired the public imagination.

Four months ago it came to life on paper, when President Kennedy signed an executive order creating it, and named his brother-in-law, R. Sargent Shriver, as its director.

Today the corps is a flesh-and-blood reality. It has a headquarters staff of 150 people bustling around on three floors of a commercial office building two blocks from the White House.

And — more important — it has about 300 real live young Americans already in training, on college campuses in Texas, California and New Jersey, for voluntary service in underdeveloped countries.

Several hundred additional corps members will be selected and sent to training centers during July and August. By September, the first contingent will go abroad.

FIVE APPROVED

Five Peace Corps projects have been approved — in Ghana, the Philippines, Colombia, Chile and the Caribbean island of St. Lucia. Others are in the works for India, Pakistan, Thailand, Nigeria and several Latin American countries.

Officials estimate that 1,000 corps members will be on the job overseas or en route to foreign posts by the end of the year.

In the transition from idea to actuality, the Peace Corps has undergone changes which have made it a little less romantic than the original dream but, in the opinion of congressmen and diplomats, considerably more practical.

There is no longer any talk of a vast army of enthusiastic youths swarming abroad to live in mud huts and perform manual labor without pay.

It is now clear that the Peace Corps will be a relatively small organization for the foreseeable future. Officials expect no more than 3,000 members by the end of 1962.

BRAINS NEEDED

It is also clear that warm hearts and willing hands, although certainly needed, will not be enough to qualify for Peace Corps service. The underdeveloped countries have plenty of manpower for manual labor.

R. SARGENT SHRIVER

What they need — and what the Peace Corps will try to supply — is skilled people who know how to teach school, build barns, survey roads, raise chickens, or handle other tasks requiring experience, training or technical proficiency.

Living conditions for the Peace Corps, while rugged by American standards, will be well above the mud-bait level.

The rule of thumb is that corps members will receive allowances sufficient to enable them to maintain approximately the same standard of living as their counterparts in the countries in the countries in which they are serving.

Thus the 300 Americans who are going to the Philippines to teach English will live like Filipino teachers, and not like primitive Banok tribesmen of the mountain provinces.

In addition to living allowances, corps members will receive a stipend of $75 a month, which will be held in escrow for payment when they are mustered out after two or three years service.

'NOT EASY'

Even with these modifications, Shriver says, "Life in the Peace Corps will not be easy." At best, members will have to forego many of the creature comforts which Americans take for granted. At worst, they will suffer real hardships.

Their "separation bonus" of $75 a month will be only a fraction of what they could earn in comparable jobs in the United States.

Thus, by deliberate policy, the conditions of service in the corps have been kept such that they will appeal only to hardy souls who are willing to make sacrifices for the adventure of helping less privileged people build themselves a brighter future.

More than 11,000 Americans have applied for corps membership on these terms, and new applications are still pouring in at a rate of more than 100 a day.

100 EACH DAY

This fact suggests to Shriver that it is time to stop calling America's younger generation "security-minded" and "uncommitted."

The tremendous response has made it possible for the corps to be highly selective.

It is screening applicants carefully in an effort to insure that corps members will be physically hardy and emotionally stable — and that they will possess the maturity, knowledge and competence to serve as attractive representatives of America.

This is a great relief to diplomatic officials and members of Congress who had feared that a horde of immature, politically-un sophisticated youngsters might be sent abroad to wreak further damage on America's image in the underdeveloped countries.

Corps members will receive from two to four months of intensive training before they take up their duties abroad.

They will study foreign languages and customs, brush up their knowledge of America's history and institutions, and take refresher courses in their own skills or technical specialties.

Few Stopped to Realize Meaning of Celebration

There were red "bombs" bursting in the air. There was noise, plenty of it, for a long while. There were cheers from the kids, sighs from the women — and there was more noise. What for?

The Fourth of July. What's that? Did anyone think for a moment what all the hoopla was for that rocked your neighborhood? Few did.

But it was the Fourth of July. Time for noise. Time for getting together with a sparkler here and an aerial bomb there.

What for? Did the kids really know what all the noise signified? How many bothered during the hectic day in the sun to tell them? Few did. With the colorful bombs bursting around Pontiac, we asked around the picnic table what all the commotion was for.

"It's the celebration of 185 years of independence," came the confident reply. "Independence from whom?"

"From the British." The noise continued. The bombs burst. The kids cheered.

The reference book said: "July Fourth: The birthday of American independence and the greatest holiday of all those observed in the United States. On this day in the year 1776, the Declaration of Independence, as prepared by a committee of five, of which Thomas Jefferson was chairman, and amended by the Congress, was adopted."

Did the cheering children know this? Was this appreciated? Or was this another holiday to cheer, for mom and dad to take time off from home and the plant or office?

It was the Fourth of July. The bombs burst. How many bothered long enough to realize what for? Few did.

Painful Point

The power lawnmower has been hailed as a boon to the suburban homeowner facing acres of growing grass. But each year more individuals learn painfully that power can cut more than grass.

Although all manufacturers and retailers warn about pushing the mowers with your foot when they become stuck, enough people lose toes each year when they forget this valuable advice.

It's a good idea to shut the machine off when it stops against something, before freeing it. Using a rotary mower, wear long pants and shoes, objects are thrown backwards sometimes, and can inflict painful injuries. Youngsters certainly should not be allowed to run power lawnmowers, regardless of how safe they are reported to be.

Hope July 4th Tradition Rings True With Tigers

The die is cast. Our Detroit Tigers led the American League by one full game at the end of the double header on July Fourth.

Three cheers for Bob Sheffing and all his ball players. They're young, eager and a fine bunch of fighting kids. All area residents are proud at the way they have taken hold and stayed in contention.

Even SCHEFFING, who up until now has been careful in interviews, has gone on record as saying "they're still got to catch us. We may not win, but we'll be in contention all the way."

If the old Fourth of July tradition means anything, and past history certainly shows that it does, it makes the Tigers' position quite unique at this stage of the season.

Records show that 41 times in the last 60 years the team leading the league on the Fourth goes on to cop the pennant. Even closer to home is the fact eight out of the last ten years the team leading on the Fourth winds up a pennant winner.

Well, Tigers, it's up to you to prove the statistics. We're for you all the way and promise to do our share of cheering.

A cosmic columnist had a bad day yesterday. In turning out his third piece, he didn't use, even once, the word "image."

Why Doesn't He Give Up?

David Lawrence Says: Mobilization Would Be a Mistake

WASHINGTON — "Lately there have been rumors and stories floating around here that the United States is planning some kind of military mobilization."

One report circulated in stock market circles has been that President Kennedy was being urged to declare a "limited emergency," and that perhaps he would do it.

Nothing could worsen the situation more than tactics of obvious bluff. Any idea that a partial mobilization would at this time "show the Russians we mean business" is fallacious.

For, with all open society like that in the United States and an uncontrolled press, every detail of such a mobilization would be published, and the Soviets would soon be able to measure how remote the possibility was that any such steps would mean anything in a military way.

For the world has changed a good deal since the mobilization which preceded World War I in 1914.

It started a chain reaction then that made war inevitable. It gave no latitude for negotiation of a peaceful settlement.

SAME PRIOR TO 1939 The same thing was true prior to 1939. Secret diplomacy produced an agreement between the Soviets and Hitler that actually brought on World War II. For Hitler was sure he could win with the help of Stalin's armies.

Today the Russians would like nothing better than an excuse to mobilize their own millions of soldiers.

It would be welcomed in the Kremlin as an opportunity to divert the attention of the people from their food shortages and other internal troubles.

If it becomes necessary to have a showdown with Russia, it would be better to do it by the slow but effective methods of economic boycott and trade restriction without the spectacular measures that military mobilization involve.

Furthermore, the Soviets would be much more deeply impressed by any such program of sacrifice than by a theatrical demonstration on the military side.

But, even conceding that some military move is necessary, what should it be and how could it be carried out? Is a mobilization of land armies in Europe of any real value in an era of missiles and long-range bomber planes?

Also, these days it doesn't mean much to place just an extra division or two in Europe or to go through some land or naval maneuvers. Demonstrations of many of the new weapons of war have been going on for some time now at Cape Canaveral and California bases.

As a matter of fact, the theory that a show of military might will prove anything to the Kremlin is based on the notion that the military superiority of the West is accepted in Moscow.

Khrushchev, of course, knows better than anyone else in the world that a nuclear war would not merely destroy much of his empire but would mean the end of Communist imperialism in these times, just as it meant the end of militarism in Japan and Germany 16 years ago.

It could produce internal revolution in Russia and in the satellite states.

It is a tragic commentary on the vacillations of America's diplomacy in recent times that firmness has to be simulated at all. There has been altogether too much talking

Voice of the People:

Says Boys' Club Members Deserve an Apology

I saw the parade the boys' club put on and it was a great day in their lives. The boys' club teaches cooperation, sportsmanship and fair play.

The Judge of Keego Harbor saw fit to take away balls, bats, gloves, etc. from an organization that is trying to fight juvenile delinquency by placing a $25 fine on them for violation of the sound ordinance.

The people who are responsible for this outrage should dig in their pockets and donate $25 to the boys' club with an apology to the boys.

'Press Gives Public Valuable Service' 'Small Air Force Float Disappointing'

I hope readers realize how The Press works for them. Recently there were two big public service ads in the same issue, one urging people to get polo shots and the other reminding drivers to be careful because school was out for the summer.

Not only were both very large ads, but the one on safety was in color and on the front page. Not many newspapers would devote that much valuable space on page one for public service, and ads like these are in addition to many Press editorials on safety and public welfare. I'm sure all readers appreciate such efforts.

Those who hoped to see the blue and silver of Air Force units in the parade were shown a single Bomarc missile, rolling on a truck drawn flat bed. This relative absence of Air Force participation was disappointing to many.

'Must Always Live by God's Laws'

God is so great that I don't believe anyone can comprehend His greatness. We, however, can look to him with love, and can feel the love he is extending to us.

God with His love is about us at all times and we can talk to him at any time through prayer.

If we are disturbed, we can turn to God and tell him our troubles and ask for His guidance.

We must surely live by his laws which include the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and love for our fellow man.

Several plans to save some states from losing seats have been proposed in the House, but the current outlook is that none of them will get anywhere.

One proposal, by Rep. Frank Chaff, D-N.Y., would increase the size of the House starting in 1963 from the presently fixed 437 to 469. That would not protect all losing states but would save many of them. To prevent any state from losing seats, and at the same time keep the size of congressional districts relatively uniform, would require an increase to more than 500 members.

House leaders consider that number too unwieldy.

Case Records of a Psychologist: Help Banish Child's Need for Lies

ing, even of the little "white lie" variety, thus confuses a child.

Other youngsters with a social inferiority complex, will then resort to fibs in order to gain social prestige.

Maybe they have never traveled afar or attended any fancy parties, so when they hear a peer begin boasting of their airplane rides or visit to Disneyland, etc., the ego-starved youngsters just make up tall tales.

Soon they learn that the bigger the yarn, the more bag-eyed they make the other kids.

And their starved ego relished this envy and shocked admiration of the other children.

"When caught in a lie, they may try to fabricate another as an alibi or else bluff their way through by raising their voices to a shout."

Many children, as well as their parents, think that if they insist loudly enough, they can lead their listeners into believing their tall tales.

When adults can't make good on their bragging, they may even try to flee the area (rolling stone or vagabond strategy).

If physical flight is blocked, they may then try to run away mentally, as via drunkenness or dope on insanity or even the suicide route.

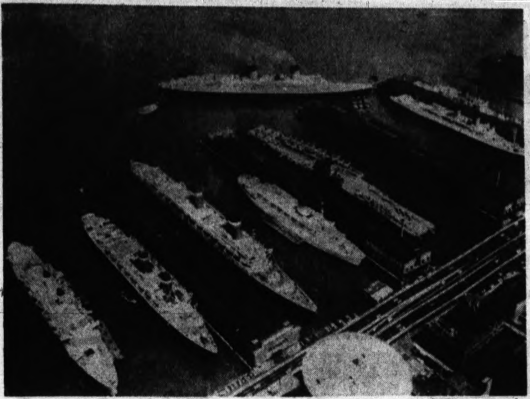

Another common escape device of people who can't face facts, is malapropism and the sprouting of psychosomatic fits.

When children can't make good on their lies, they may also try to divert attention by mischievous, theft, and juvenile delinquency.

Smart teachers and parents thus regard the chronic telling of lies as a symptom of a personality maladjustment. Stabilize the child in his ego-hunger and you can banish his

Marine Strike Tangled but Ships Off to Europe

NEW YORK (UPI) — American Flag luxury liners follow fast departing tankers and merchantmen to sea today, but on shore the complex maritime dispute remains as tangled as ever.

The liners America and Independence were set to sail for Europe today in the ever quickening departure of vessels tied up by the 18-day shipping strike.

However, confusion ashore virtually scuttled hopes of all unions and shipowners settling their differences before a federal court hearing Friday on extending a Taft-Hartley antistrike injunction for its full 90-day cooling-off period.

Tough Training in Store for Pontiac Guardsmen

A grueling two weeks in store for approximately 131 Pontiac men who are National Guard members of Michigan's 8th Infantry Division.

Training exercises at Camp Grayling starting Saturday for the 9,000-strength unit will range from an airborne assault to platoon attacks with live ammunition, according to Maj. Gen. Cecil J. Kennedy, Michigan National Guard commander.

"It will be grueling, but is the only method of keeping Michigan's 8th Infantry Division at the highest possible training level," he noted.

The two-week training will begin with the Guardsmen launching an airborne assault, under simulated combat conditions, on the 138,000-acre military reservation in the north central part of Lower Michigan.

TO FLY THE UNITS

Giant C119 Flying Boxcars from the 603rd Troop Carrier Wing (Reserve) at Selfridge Air Force Base will fly the units from airports near their points of origin to an aerial rendezvous over Alpena.

The aircraft will proceed in formation to Grayling Army Airfield, five miles from the sprawling camp, where the Guardsmen will field an attack on the camp from the airfield.

The meat of the annual training period, however, will be platoon and section tests, according to Gen. Kennedy.

Infantry rifle and weapons platoons will attack objectives in training areas using live ammunition.

It will be the first time in Michigan Guard history that such advanced training has been attempted.

"The tests are taken right out of the Regular Army manual and our units will be measured against the same standards as platoons of the Strategic Army Corps' 101st Airborne and 4th Infantry Division, the general said.

"We will be conducting modern practical training. It will be as close to experiencing actual combat as can be devised," he said.

"The men will spend almost the entire second week in foxholes and puppets . . . They will spend at least 14 hours in night exercises, one of the most important training areas of today's concept of warfare."

These and other developments supported negotiators' claims that the strike which began June 16 was one of the most complex and confusing in the history of labor-management relations.

But despite the complications, American ships were getting to sea in increasing numbers under the temporary restraining order issued here Monday by Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan.

Ryan will hear arguments Friday on whether a full 90-day Taft-Hartley injunction should be issued on the grounds that national health and safety are being endangered.

The marine engineers have declared they will fight the injunction.

'To End W. Berlin as Cold War Issue'

BERLIN (AP) —Walter Ulbricht, East German Communist leader, vowed today to put an end to West Berlin "as a stronghold of the cold war" when he gets a peace treaty with the Soviet Union.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev has promised him one by the end of the year.

"With the conclusion of a peace treaty, even if it is only with the German Democratic Republic," said Ulbricht, "there will begin a new settlement of the West Berlin question. I want to leave no doubt about this."

"This means that the center of provocations in West Berlin and its misuse as a stronghold of the cold war will in any case be eliminated."

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Actor Marvin Dean Stewart, 21, is in a hospital, undergoing treatment for a broken back.

Stewart, police said, was snoozing on the roof of a hotel Wednesday when he made the mistake of rolling over. He fell three stories, landing in a flower bed.

Doctors said his condition was good.

Stewart has had minor roles in the "Sugarfoot" TV series and was in the film, "Where The Boys Are."

Heat on Kennedy to Build Up This Year

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON — The first half of 1961 was a kind of aspirin for a headache that won't go away. We are now fresh out of aspirin.

Up till June 30 President Kennedy's administration had — comparatively — a delightful time with both Congress and the Russians. In Congress, where he lacks enough support to sail his programs through as he sees fit, he used two simple but adroit methods to get what he wanted:

MODERATE PROGRESS

1. For the most part he offered very moderate programs which, by their nature, avoided violent opposition: differences with members of Congress on various points but not on total programs.

2. He used pressure, persuasion and concessions by himself and members of his White House staff to win over such opposition as he had. This has been a very smooth operation. Kennedy's own 15 years in Congress made him expert on this.

The result was a big batch of legislation which — if that had been all that was involved — would have given him a very successful first year in office. But it wasn't all.

THREE BIG BILLS
These were federal aid to education, the foreign aid program and medical care for the aged. The medical care bill looks just about dead for 1961, isn't likely to get action until 1962.

The big stumble in his foreign aid program is his request to Congress to give him authority to promise this aid on a five-year basis. He wants recipient nations to be able to plan long-range in-

Sammy Davis and Mai Britt Have Daughter

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Swedish actress Mai Britt and Negro entertainer Sammy Davis Jr. are the parents of a 7-pound, 7-ounce daughter.

A spokesman said Davis was "deliriously happy" at becoming a father for the first time. The baby, named Tracy Hillary, was born Wednesday. Mother and daughter are doing fine. Miss Britt's doctor said:

Davis and the blonde actress were married last Nov. 14. Both Davis, 34, and Miss Britt, 24, had been divorced once previously.

After the Hawaiian islands had established themselves as a republic, they voluntarily had their domain annexed to the U.S. in the status of a Territory in 1898.

stead of on the present year-to-year basis.

Congress is hesitant about signing the check for that far ahead. There'll be rough-and-tumble on this one.

The same goes for the federal aid to education bill, principally because of the fight over this question: Should the aid also go to church and private schools? At this moment it isn't at all clear what the outcome will be.

8 Widows Sue U.S. Over Texas Tower

NEW YORK (UPI) — The widows of eight men killed in the collapse of a giant Air Force radar tower off the New Jersey coast have filed suit against the federal government for $2.8 million in damages.

The suits were filed Wednesday in Federal Admiralty Court for the Southern District of New York. They named the U.S. government and four private contractors.

Each woman is asking $350,000. They all are widows of construction and technical personnel killed when the platform, known as Texas Tower No. 4, collapsed and sank in a storm the night of Jan. 16.

Twenty-eight Air Force and civilian personnel were killed when the tower went down.

But from now until Labor Day, at least, Congress should be making more noise than it did all year and Kennedy's trouble with Congress probably will be intense.

In the foreign field Kennedy stumbled badly on Cuba by approving a sad-sack invasion by Cuban rebels which withered on the beaches. And he got a nasty setback in Laos where, despite his early stern talk, the Communists have calmly gobbled up more of it.

But to most Americans Cuba probably looks like small stuff while tiny Laos, lost in Southeast Asia, seems far away and not vital. If this had been all that was involved in foreign dealings, it could probably have been swept under the rug.

But it wasn't. From the very moment he took office Kennedy knew before the year was out he was going to have trouble with Russia over West Berlin. Premier Khrushchev had warned of it last year.

So Khrushchev waited till early June to tell Kennedy he wanted a Berlin settlement within six months.

United Church of Christ Reviews Plan of Operation

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

PHILADELPHIA — The United Church of Christ, with its new top officer plucked from a Midwest pulpit, today reviewed its operational strategy, including whether to keep giving funds to segregated institutions.

A proposed resolution asks an examination of the "moral principles involved in financial support of churches and church-related institutions which practice segregation."

A few colleges in the South related to the church have never admitted Negroes, and some denominational congregations are all white.

The newly merged church, after electing the Rev. Dr. Ben M. Herberster, a Norwood, Ohio parish pastor as president, also considered backing "universality of the membership" in the United Nations, tentatively including Red China.

RESOLUTION PENDING

A pending resolution, up for action today, said: "Communist systems cannot be overcome merely by a policy of isolating Communist nations from the community of nations."

"The Russian, Chinese and other people living under Communist governments are also members of God's family."

"We are now called upon to develop strategies for living with these nations, while working earnestly to increase justice. To effect changes where change is needed, and to strengthen all the elements that contribute to peace."

Restoring the spread of communism is essential, but "simple hostility on our part is not helpful to the cause of peace, freedom and justice," the resolution said.

MUST LEAD REFORM

"Our country must also lead in the political and social reform that so much of our world needs," it added.

Dr. Herberster, 56, a bespectacled, sandy-haired pastor in Norwood ever since he began preaching 30 years ago, was elected Wednesday by a 512 to 185 vote over the Rev. Dr. James E. Wagner, of Philadelphia, a nationally prominent churchman.

After his victory, Dr. Herberster took the rostrum at the church's general synod to promise his utmost efforts to lead the church to increasing devotion "to the demands of the Gospel of Jesus Christ."

"This is no game they're playing," said a top Western U.N. officer. "These troops are being deployed according to a well-thought-out plan and it's 99 per cent sure that Gizaeng has Parliament in mind."

"It doesn't happen in my country, but this sort of thing is recognized Communist strategy."

The United Nations is powerless to interfere with Gizaeng's troop movements in Oriental and Kiuv provinces, which are nominally loyal to his Communist-backed government.

OFFICIAL SILENCE

Officially, the United Nations is maintaining a strict silence over the motives behind the reported Stanleyville troop movements.

Privately, however, U.N. intelligence officers are convinced the show of force is designed to pressure wavering legislatures from Kiuv and Oriental provinces into taking the Gizaeng line.

For legislators to swing over to supporting President Joseph Kasavubu's Western-aligned Leopoldville government would invite reprisals from Stanleyville troops who will be on the spot when they return to their homes. Also their families would be constantly harassed.

Best Motto for Month of July

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Left's "Have Better Motels" Association today announced the winning motto for the month of July: "No problem is too small to be solved."

There was a four-way tie for second spot among the following:

"I'm not looking for trouble, but I'm willing to start some."

"Better people than you have laughed at me."

"Meet me at the beach and I'll give you a drowning lesson."

And "You're looking good today."

The association also reported in its news letter that its parolee, Joe, was upset by a noisy partying the month that he had been seen at a truck window looking into people.

2 Chicago Men Held in Murder

Pair Demands Exam in Slaying of Muskegon Retired Businessman

MUSKEGON (U)—Two Chicago men were held on open charges of murder today in the fatal shooting of 57-year-old Peter M. Markucki.

Arthur C. Hartman, 28, and Gaylor L. Standon Jr., 35, demanded examination Wednesday at their arraignment before Muskegon Municipal Judge William Caughey. Caughey set July 10 as the date and ordered both released to the Muskegon County Jail without bond.

Caughey indicated he would appoint an attorney for them today.

Markucki, a retired businessman, was bound, clubbed and shot once early Wednesday by a man who forced his way into Markucki's home. Mrs. Markucki, 53, who was bound and beaten severely, said a bandit forced his way into their home at gunpoint.

She said he demanded money and when she denied there was any money in the house he struck her on the head with his gun and she was knocked senseless.

Mrs. Markucki, who pointed out Hartman as the invader, said that when she came to her senses she found her husband dead. She said she freed herself from her bonds and called police.

Hartman, Standon, two women and a boy were halted by state police at a U.S.31 roadblock near Saugatuck about two hours after the slaying.

Officers said they found two 38-caliber pistols in the car. They said tests showed one of the pistols fired the bullet which killed Markucki.

The women, Miss Marjorie Jean Byrne, 30, and Mrs. Barbara Jeanette Stapleton, 24, both of Chicago, were questioned at a Muskegon motel at city expense as material witnesses. Mrs. Stapleton's son was with them.

Washington is known as the Evergreen state.

Completing Jury for Peebles Trial

GRAND RAPIDS (U)—Completion of the jury for the murder trial of Otto Peebles was expected in Circuit Court today.

When Judge Fred N. Searl recessed proceedings Wednesday, the defense had used three of its 20 peremptory challenges. The prosecution had excused two men without cause, leaving 13 peremptory challenges.

Peebles, 42, a gun collector and co-owner of a Rockford metal industries plant, went to trial Wednesday.

He is charged in the March 19 gunshot death of his wife Louise, 41. She was shot to death at a nearby Silver Lake home in the company of Roy Staples, 44, a Columbus, Ind., sales engineer.

To Release Prisoners

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The South Viet Nam government says it will release 583 political prisoners in honor of the celebration Friday of President Ngo Dinh Diem's seventh year in office.

Firm Must Give Detroit Workers Jobs in South

DETROIT (U)—If the Gemmer Manufacturing Co. moves from Detroit to Lebanon, Tenn., it must offer its Detroit workers jobs at the new location, according to U.S. District Judge Fred W. Kaess.

Kaess held Wednesday that "seniority rights survive as an earned and vested right."

He said "collective bargaining agreements grant employees certain benefits and rights that become vested in the sense that they cannot be unilaterally denied without the employee's consent and this includes the company's right to discharge . . . The defendant has the obligation and duty to rehire on basis of seniority those employees laid off in Detroit when the plant's operations are removed to Lebanon . . ."

Gemmer is a division of Ross Gear & Tool Co. of Lafayette, Ind., and manufactures steering mechanisms.

It announced last May that it intended to end its Detroit operation Sept. 2 and move to Lebanon and refused to offer transfer rights to the 721 Detroit workers.

Ask Probe in Freeing of Rich Optometrist

LANSING (U)—Two angry Michigan attorneys have called for an investigation into Illinois court proceedings which resulted in the release of a wealthy Chicago optometrist convicted of bribery in Michigan.

Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams and Leo A. Farhat, Ingham County prosecuting attorney, said they plan to ask Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner for a probe of the freeing of lensmaker Benjamin D. Rittholz.

Rittholz was convicted in 1956 of trying to bribe members of the State Board of Optometry. Criminal Court Judge David Canel of Chicago released Rittholz stating extradition papers should have specified bail-jumping rather than bribery as the offense. He assumed Michigan authorities would file amended papers, Canel said.

E. Germans Jeer Red Delegation Checking Gripes

BERLIN (U)—Communist party agents got an earful when they went to East Germany's Hemmingsdorf electric locomotive works to talk to aggrieved workers. Information Bureau West said Wednesday.

The private West Berlin intelligence agency reported that the workers booed and then drowned out the speakers by singing "The Internationale." Nobody in Red-ruled territory gets in much trouble for singing the Communist anthem.

The agency said the incident happened last week after Communist factory managers burned a letter from a group of the workers complaining about shortages.

There are about 54,000 towns and villages in the United States which are served only by highway routes and motor transportation.

5 From Detroit Family in Hospital After Crash

WARDSVILLE, Ont. (U)—Five members of a Detroit family were taken to a hospital in nearby Chatham Wednesday after their car crashed upside down into a ravine on Highway 2.

Robert Bachmann, 27, was reported in satisfactory condition with shoulder and back injuries. His wife Phyllis, 27, who was driving, also was in satisfactory condition with hip and back injuries.

Seven-year-old Kenneth was in fair condition with a possible rupture of the spleen. In satisfactory condition were Rick, 2, with head injuries, and Mark, 8 months, with facial abrasions.

Mitzi Gaynor Calls for Help After Storm

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Mitzi Gaynor waited nervously today for her hairdresser to bail her out of a catastrophe caused by two rarities—her nightclub debut and a Las Vegas rainstorm.

Her wardrobe of seven original gowns got soaked in transit from Hollywood and ruined. Four were Parisian models, and three were made in the United States for her appearance at the Flamingo Hotel starting tonight. None was usable.

Curtains containing the gowns were turned upside down after being unloaded from an airplane during a shower Monday, she said.

The actress put in a hurried call for a Los Angeles fashion designer to whip up a new ensemble, and the show—she hopes—will go on.

Ore Tonnages on Lakes One-Half of 1960 Score

CLEVELAND (U.S.—The American Iron Ore Association's July 1 figure on lake shipments showed Wednesday that tonnages of ore moved so far this year are less than half what they were in 1960 to July 1.

June shipments from U.S. and Canadian ports totaled 8,786,746 tons, compared with 12,027,667 in June of last year, the association said. The season total to July 1 is 14,238,769, against 30,178,599 tons a year ago.

W. Reich Joblessness Drops to Postwar Low

NUERENBERG, Germany (U.S.—The number of unemployed in West Germany dropped last month to 59,203, a postwar low, the Federal Labor Office has announced.

At the same time, the office said more than half a million foreign workers have poured into the country in recent years to ease West Germany's labor shortage.

Despite this influx, however, there are 568,700 jobs going begging, with agriculture and the construction business hardest hit by the shortage of workers.

About 83 per cent of all U.S. vacation trips are by automobile and the average is 978 miles.

JFK Takes Quick Look at 7 Feminine Lovelies

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy showed Wednesday he has an eye for feminine beauty.

Returning from a Fourth of July weekend at Cape Cod, he was striding across the White House lawn when he suddenly spotted a group of seven girls. He waved briefly and moved on toward his White House office.

But as he was climbing steps to the porch, he evidently realized what he had seen—an unusually good looking group of young ladies.

With a quizzical expression he walked several steps beyond the office door and toward the group.

An aide explained that the girls were entrants in the Miss Universe contest. The President nodded, looked at them for a second, and went into his office.

Several of the girls wore variations of the Jacqueline Kennedy hair style.

They were Miss Austria, Miss Canada, Miss Greece, Miss Italy, Miss Rhodesia, Miss South Africa and Miss Wales. Also present was Pat Burnett, Miss Washington, D.C., a contender for the Miss U.S.A. entry in the Miss Universe contest at Miami Beach Sunday.

The girls had just completed a tour of the White House. Later they were greeted by the President's younger brother Edward, and two brothers-in-law, R. Sargent Shriver, Peace Corps director, and Steven Smith.

Bury Hemingway in Hunting Valleys

KETCHUM, Idaho (AP) — The bell tolled today for famed author Ernest Hemingway who was to be laid to rest in a tiny well-kept cemetery in the heart of the hunting valleys he chose as his home.

Members of the family planned to gather in the cemetery to meet the hearse carrying the dark gray metal casket.

The Hemingway home overlooks the little valley where the grave was dug Tuesday for the 61-year-old Nobel and Pulitzer prize-winner.

Hemingway died Sunday of a shotgun blast in the head. It was ruled self-inflicted. But authorities made no determination as to whether it was accidental or on purpose.

MEDITATION ON DEATH

The Rev. Robert J. Waldmann, pastor of Our Lady of the Snows Catholic Church at nearby Sun Valley, will conduct the simple rite. He said there would be no eulogy, but a meditation on death. The only time Hemingway's name was to be mentioned was in the closing prayers.

The author's fourth wife, fondly known as Miss Mary, will make her first appearance since the death. She has kept isolated in the house while members of the family made the sad journey to this southeastern Idaho resort area for the funeral of the writer whose tempestuous life was mirrored in his famous books.

The family — which includes three sons, a brother and three sisters — was together for the first time in 30 years.

It was Hemingway's oldest son, Jack, the first member of the family to arrive after the death, who picked out the casket. Other members of the family have not seen it. Neither have they viewed the body which has been kept at a funeral home in Idaho, 12 miles away.

Deny Knowing Plan to Buy GTW Railroad

MONTREAL (UPI)—Canadian National Railways officials Wednesday denied knowledge of any approach by the Santa Fe Railroad to buy Grand Trunk Western Railroad, a CNR subsidiary that runs from the U. S.-Canadian border to Chicago.

Grand Trunk Western lost more than $5 million last year. Canadian National President Donald Gordon told a parliamentary committee under questioning last month that the CNR might reconsider selling GTW if a good offer turned up.

But at the same hearing he said Canadian National conducted a study that indicated GTW was worth more to the CNR than the amount it lost last year. Gordon explained that the GTW is used as a key link in the CNR's Montreal-Chicago operations, and brings considerable traffic into Canada from the United States.

City Planners Believe in Emphasizing the Practical

Michigan cities are faced with a growing shortage of land for new and expanded industry. In some instances, they have impressive acreage available for industry when talking in total and homes that it is of no practical use to the spread-out needs of modern industry.

By HOMER DOWDY
Writes for The AP

Make no little plans, Daniel H. Burnham, most famous of all city planners, once said.

He practiced what he preached and transformed the miserable Chicago lakefront into a magnificent showcase.

A half century later, planners have changed Burnham's axiom to read, "Make no impractical plans."

Today, they are dealing more with sewers and superhighways than with statue plazas and boulevards.

This trend to emphasizing the practical is no more true anywhere than in Michigan. Along with it has been greater support of planning in municipal budgets. The growth of planning activities in the last five years, in fact, is just short of spectacular in this state.

For instance, in 1955 Saginaw spent $28,400 for planning. Last year, the figure was $32,000. Kalamazoo more than doubled its expenditure in the five years to $29,000 in 1960. Grand Rapids went from $22,000 to $49,000.

In per-capita spending for planning, Flint went from nine cents in 1955 to 35 in 1960, Detroit from 15 to 26 cents and Ann Arbor from 22 to 64 cents.

Michigan's cities and a handful of counties spend well over a million dollars a year on planning. Community planning in this state goes back to the Indians, whose garden layouts can still be seen in some areas. Detroit's hub-and-spoke arrangement for its main streets was a notable achievement after a destructive fire in 1805.

PLANS GET LOST
A number of cities were caught up in the planning swirl in the depression of the 1930's and World War II.

In the practical, post-war brand of city planning, no Michigan city boasts of a better plan and carrying-out of the plan than Oak Park, a suburban city of 36,631 just south of Detroit.

There, the planner's goal of separating the various types of land use—residential, commercial, civic and industrial—has largely been achieved through zones of gradual transition, or buffer strips, of trees and shrubs.

Thus, Oak Park is nearly filled with single-family dwellings, apartment houses, shopping centers, public buildings, parks and numerous small industries.

Although compact, the city is neat and uncluttered. It is a convenient place in which to live because the land uses got sorted out before they happened—through planning.

TRAFFIC HEADACHES
Other cities are suffering head-aches over traffic congestion, lack of parking, no room for schools or industrial expansion and creeping blight. Long-range planning—had it been done and carried out over the years—could have prevented or minimized many of today's problems say city leaders from one end of the state to the other.

Because of the hard lesson learned, planning today is no longer considered a frill but—like an architect's plans for a complex building—necessary for orderly development or redevelopment of cities in order to keep them alive and livable.

With most of Michigan's cities now filled to their borders, city planning consists of preserving the good that exists and showing how the bad can be made over.

Livonia, one of the state's newer cities, is carrying out a practical plan that will provide public services as they become needed throughout the 32-square-mile city. And it has adopted a relatively new wrinkle in zoning, the "hand-made planning" that spells out what purposes land may be used for.

It used to be that single-family homes were considered the "highest" possible use of land. Single-family zones were sacrosanct from stores and factories. Homes, however, could be built in zones of "lower" classification. That is wrong, said Livonia officials.

"You get the same results whether you mix good apples with the bad or bad apples with the good," said Livonia Mayor William E. Brashers.

The Livonia ordinance and some never ones around the state follow the traditional areas. But they also keep homes out of business and industrial zones.

Many Michigan cities find they lack land for new and expanded industry.

In some instances, they have impressive acreage available for industry when talking in total and homes that it is of no practical use to the spread-out needs of modern industry.

Guard Nation's Missile Secrets

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — It was almost like any other close order drill. A sergeant barking orders, demanding — and getting — full attention, instant action and uniform movement.

Only the troops were dogs. Six German shepherd dogs — trained by the Air Force for sentry duty at this advanced missile age base — were lined up beside their handlers inside a screened pen.

The dogs were among 22 used at the missile base to guard top secret areas. They patrol only at night.

With their handlers — they team up one man to one dog — the dogs are affectionate and friendly. With anybody else, they become 84-pounds of concentrated violence, capable of killing even the largest man if they are not pulled off.

Dogs and handlers — all volunteers for the job — train together at an eight-week course at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex. Then they are assigned to a home base where the training continues.

Larger Rules Committee Bottling Up School Bill

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
WASHINGTON—President Kennedy may be wishing that he had never taken on that historic fight to enlarge the House Rules Committee—and won.

Except for this strategic blunder, he could now be lustily blaming the Republican-Dixie coalition if his $14-billion dollar "must" school bill still was bottled up in committee.

Unfortunately for the administration, the actual culprits are three Northern Democrats: House Majority Leader John McCormack, Rep. Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. and Rep. James F. Deane.

The three Catholic legislators refuse to clear the bill for House action unless the rules committee first approves a measure providing $76 million in low-cost loans to parochial and private schools.

The influence of the majority leader, plus the votes of O'Neill and Deane on the rules committee have prevented clearance of the bill which could otherwise have reached the House floor a month ago.

Unless something drastic is done, and quickly, the measure promised by candidate Kennedy to step up school construction and raise teachers' salaries will still languish in committee when Congress adjourns Labor Day.

GOP DELIGHTED
Republicans couldn't be more delighted. Former President Eisenhower last week personally damned the Kennedy bill as a step that would "ultimately result in federal control of education." Southern Democrats mostly agree.

The joke is that the bill is being blocked by Northern Democratic liberals who can ardently be counted in the President's front ranks. They want this bill, in fact, but only if Catholic schools benefit too.

One of those who is laughing loudest at the President's dilemma is Rep. William H. Ayres, an Ohio Republican who startled colleagues by voting with Kennedy Democrats to enlarge the rules committee last spring.

The politically astute Ayres, in explaining that vote, said the enlargement would prevent Kennedy from blaming Republicans every time one of his measures was blocked in committee.

SHREWD THINKING
The shrewdness of his thinking is now apparent. Without the rules change the bill would probably have reached the House floor weeks ago, because Chairman Howard Smith of Virginia, leader of the Southern bloc had reluct-

Furniture Industry Reports Good May

GRAND RAPIDS (U.P.)—Wood household furniture industry spokesman and Seidman Wednesday said the industry experienced a decided pickup in new business last May.

New bookings in the April-May period exceeded those made in the comparable period of 1959 by 22 per cent—the largest in 10 years.

Frank E. Seidman, who prepared the report, saw three factors of business in general as keynotes to what happens in the furniture field.

He said the government's course appears to be headed to further inflation, the "dynamics" of business recovery have definitely been set in motion and the nation's population continues to boom.

Cape Costs Plenty

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (U.P.)—Facilities at this missile test center, including equipment on 12 down range island tracking stations, represent a total capital investment of nearly 800 million dollars.

This "glass highway" shows you the biggest advance in tires today...

THE BIG EDGE!

A highway paved with glass! High-speed cameras whirling beneath it as a car drives, turns, stops on the glass! Thousands of pictures taken from under the road show you exactly where today's tires work most, wear most. Show you how a radical new tire tread design developed by B.F. Goodrich gives motorists a big edge in mileage and safety. Read how this great advance in tire design puts more rubber where the wear is—in THE BIG EDGE!

Other tires have narrow shoulders, as this diagram shows. The rubber is concentrated in the "dead center" where the action and the wear are least.

BFG Shredders give you, for the same money, up to twice as much rubber in the outside ribs, where tires work most, wear most. Only B.F. Goodrich has The Big Edge!

See the severe distortion in the outside edge of this turning tire, photographed from under BFG's glass highway. It explains why you find the first tread wear not in the center of your tire, but on the outside ribs.

You see, in today's driving, with new suspension systems and faster speeds, you get terrific loads on your tires' outside edges, little in the center—whether you're driving straight, passing, turning a corner or stopping.

That's why B.F. Goodrich puts up to twice as much rubber as other major brands, first-line tires in the outer edges. That's The Big Edge—more safety, more mileage than ever before!

Don't buy any tire till you see the Big Edge demonstration at your B.F. Goodrich dealer!

Hope Countryside

MOAB, Utah (AP) — Officers

searching the vast southeastern

napper and a teenage girl hoped today that the rugged country would be on their side.

Object of the search was Denise Sullivan, 15, of Rockville,

Conn., and the man who kidnaped her after killing her mother, Jeanette Sullivan, 41, and seriously wounding their traveling companion, Charles Boothroyd, 55, also of Rockville.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation entered the southeast on Wednesday, and Grand County

Sheriff John Stocks said officers fear the girl may not be alive.

"He's not going to leave that girl alive to testify against him," the sheriff said. He estimated her chances for life at one in 100.

Suits Are Filed

Mississippi's Governor

Says It's Interference in Local Government

sippi Gov. Ross Barnett today termed Justice Department suits involving discrimination against Negro voters in the state as interference "with local self-govern-

Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy filed two suits today charging "a clear-cut pattern of discrimination"

Mississippi's Clarke and Forrest counties.

They were the first voting rights action brought in Mississippi.

Barnett declined specific comment because he said he had not seen the complaints, but told the Associated Press:

"I don't understand why they want to interfere with local self-government. Local self-government is the thing that made this nation great."

In Quitman, Miss., Clarke County Circuit Court Clerk A. L. Ramsey, who is the county registrar of voters, said he knew of no complaints among eligible Negro voters.

"We haven't had any Negroes ask to vote," he said. "We have six registered this year. But there has been no election since they registered. One of them sat on a jury in Circuit Court."

Ramsey pointed out that Mississippi places a $2 yearly poll tax on all citizens over 21 and eligible voters must present a tax receipt before they can vote.

Similar legal actions have been

Georgia and Tennessee.

U.S. to Repair Prestige Road That Broke Up in Cambodia

By NORMAN G. CORNISH

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy has ordered foreign aid officials to get busy and repair a $30-million road in Cambodia built two years ago to demonstrate American friendship and technology.

It already is falling apart.

United Press International learned today that Kennedy told the International Cooperation Administration (ICA) to give "top priority" to repairing the Cambodian-American Friendship Highway.

The 130-mile road was built under the U.S. foreign aid program two years ago.

But, much to the embarrassment of Cambodia and the United States and the gleam of Communism, it is falling to pieces under heavy rains.

Prince Sihanouk of Cambodia recently started out on the road from Phnom Penh to the sea, but the road—which has as many cracks as a sun-baked mud flat in some sections—was so bad he had to turn back and go by helicopter.

Actress Involves Georgie Jessel

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A court hearing is scheduled July 14 on actress Joan Tyler's request for an order restraining George Jessel from disposing of his assets pending trial of her paternity suit against him.

Miss Tyler, 27, requested the order Wednesday. She contended that Jessel's permanent place of business is in New York and that the 63-year-old entertainer may transfer his holdings out of California, causing her and her unborn child "irreparable damage." Miss Tyler's suit doesn't say when the child is expected, but she said out of court that she expects the baby in December. Jessel denies paternity. A hearing on the suit itself is set for July 27.

Road Toll Worst for Any Holiday in Summertime

CHICAGO (AP)—Traffic accidents killed more than 500 persons during the extended Fourth of July weekend, the highest total ever for any summer holiday period. The final count also showed that the more than 900 persons killed in all types of accidents was an all-time high for any holiday period.

Traffic deaths totaled 509 compared to the previous high of 491 set during a four-day observance of Independence Day in 1950. The toll exceeded the National Safety Council's preholiday estimate by 59.

In accidents of all kinds, including traffic, boating, drownings, and the miscellaneous category, 924 persons lost their lives. That figure compared with 884 recorded during a four-day observance of Christmas in 1956. In addition to traffic fatalities during the four-day weekend, 63 died in boating accidents, 204 persons were drowned, and 148 others lost their lives in a variety of mishaps.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (U)—Sophomore Gerald Locklin of Rochester set an academic record recently at St. John Fisher College here. He took nine courses in one semester and got nine A's.

Locklin works at a telephone switchboard five hours a day to help pay for his education, edits the college literary magazine, and plays the leads in school plays.

Group to Allow Trailer Park

Planning Unit Also OK'd Expansion of Gee Coal on Lake Street

The Planning Commission last night put its blessing on ordinance changes to allow a new trailer park on Old Telegraph Road and make way for expansion at Gee Coal & Fuel Oil Co., 31 Lake St.

The commission had already approved both changes in principle. Both are scheduled for final approval from the City Commission after public hearings later this month.

The trailer park site in the Beaudette Park area is to be rezoned to Residential 4 — the new classification developed especially for trailer parks last year. It will be the third trailer park within the city.

Gee Coal company's grounds are to be rezoned to manufacturing. The company has occupied the site more than 30 years although the zoning, in principle, has been residential.

June Top Output Month for GM; First Half of '61 Shows Decline

General Motors Corp. followed the general decline in auto industry production during the first half of 1961 as compared to the first six months of 1960, it was announced yesterday.

However, GM production was higher last month than in any preceding month this year. June production topped the previous 1961 high (May) by more than 21,000.

Pontiac Motor Division produced 36,647 passenger cars during the month of June, of which 24,623 were Pontiacs and 12,024 were Tempests.

In June 1960, the division produced 45,421 cars. Production figures also show that Pontiac Motor Division built 73,685 fewer cars through the first six months of 1961 than the first half of 1960.

GMC Truck and Coach Division showed a similar decline, producing 6,737 trucks last month as compared to 10,901 during June a year ago.

As of June 30, the truck and coach plant had built 38,699 trucks since January, however, and June this year compared to 62,768 in the first six months of 1960.

General Motors preliminary totals show the corporation produced 546,715 passenger cars and trucks in the United States and Canada during June, as compared with 544,441 during June, 1960.

A similar decline of 56,962 cars and trucks was in total GM production as 1,766,771 units were built in the first half of this year as compared to 2,275,739 last year.

Official company figures released yesterday showed the five domestic auto manufacturers built 1.1 million fewer passenger cars in the first half of 1961 than in the first half of last year.

Compact production declined slightly despite the entry of four new assemblies into the smaller car field. The lower total came about because of steep drops in production by Rambler and Valiant. Rambler was off 26,000 units over a year ago, Valiant was down 91,000.

The year has improved steadily since January, however, and June was the best month so far, with 559,474 cars built, compared with 542,303 in May, the previous high.

FORD DOES WELL

Ford Motor Co. was the only one of the five producers to better last year's figures for both the second quarter and for the month of June. General Motors came close to its totals of last June, gaining by only 1,500 cars in U.S. plants.

Both Chrysler and Studebaker-Packard built less than 50 percent as many cars in the first six months of this year as in the first six months of 1960.

In the compact production race, Falcon held a big lead—254,074 to 184,566—over second-place Corvair, with Rambler a close third at 180,770. Rambler outbuilt Corvair in June although the Corvair total of 34,978 was the best ever for the little Chevrolet.

Comet was fourth among the compacts, followed by Tempest, Valiant, Buick Special, Olds 785, Lark and Lancer.

Big Change Coming in Auto Lighting

By BEN PHILEGAR
AP Automotive Writer
DETROIT (AP)—A major change in the lighting systems for American passenger cars is under development but it probably won't appear until the 1963 or 1964 model year.

The project is designed to make turn signals and stop lights bright enough to be clearly visible in the brightest sunlight without making them so bright they glare at night.

The solution is what the Automobile Manufacturers Association calls a dual intensity system.

tem. During daylight the signal lights will be from two to four times brighter than those now being used.

Once you turn on your headlights the rear signal brightness decreases to present standards. The front turn signals don't change in intensity since they have to compete with the brightness of the headlights.

The new system will be used inside the car, too. The indicator lights on the dash board will be up to 10 times brighter during the day than they now are.

STILL FLASHING

The AMA thinks this will help overcome one of the more annoying features of present day driving—trailing a car whose driver has failed to notice the turn signal is still flashing after completing a turn.

Turn signals on American cars are built to shut off automatically once a turn is completed. But many of the turns now being built into highways and freeways are so gentle the auto's automatic shut-off doesn't work.

If the indicator signal is brighter, the AMA believes the driver will be more apt to notice it is still flashing.

The dual intensity project is under direction of Thomas R. Kilgour, an automotive lighting engineer at Chrysler. All vehicle manufacturers and lamp makers are participating so that results will be available to the entire industry.

The work also is being done in cooperation with the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators, thus assuring its approval by individual states.

Kilgour said the system requires extensive revision of all parts and circuits now in use, thus the delay before its introduction.

Several other lighting features are being investigated along with this project. They include the possible use of amber glass in front turn signals. The AMA says tests indicate amber is easier to see against glaring sunlight reflections and provides greater contrast against headlamps at night.

Color of various lamps is being studied with one preliminary conclusion that the warning light on the dashboard for high beam or bright lights should be changed to blue. It is now red.

The last major change in exterior lighting of automobiles was the switch to dual headlights in the mid '50s.

The AMA research group on lighting now is considering standardized locations for rear lights, emergency signal systems, deceleration lights which would indicate a car is losing momentum although brakes are not yet being applied and brake lamps which would lock on until the accelerator pedal was depressed.

One emergency signal system for trucks has just become standard. It provides that front and rear signals flash simultaneously when the truck is standing still.

Havana Orders Cleanup for Fidel's Anniversary

HAVANA (AP)—Havana authorities called Wednesday for a cleanup of building fronts for the eighth anniversary of Premier Fidel Castro's revolutionary movement July 26.

A rally in Civic Square will climax the celebration. Soviet cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin and Gen. Lazaro Cardenas, former president of Mexico, are expected to attend.

Cites Newsmen for 4th of July Safety Drive

DETROIT (AP)—The general manager of the Automobile Club of Michigan Wednesday cited newsmen, radio and TV stations for their "positive campaign of life saving" which held the state's Fourth of July weekend death toll to 12.

Fred N. Rehm said the low death rate was a 63 per cent reduction from the Memorial Day weekend when 33 persons died on Michigan highways.

It is "one more record to reiterate that holiday driving is not more hazardous than normal driving," Rehm said.

Rehm, meanwhile, attacked "the scare techniques, including predictions of how many will die, being used by well-intentioned groups before holidays."

He said: "They result in either scaring one into staying off the highways or into driving unsafely through fear."

Red Dove to Replace U.S. Eagle in Havana

HAVANA (AP)—The Cuban government has commissioned Pablo Picasso to design a peace dove to top the battleship Maine monument on Havana's Malecon Boulevard.

The Communist emblem, originated by the Spanish-born artist as a symbol for Communist peace campaigns in the 1930s, will replace an American eagle already removed.

North Korea and Russia

Pact Surprises the U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Moscow's announcement of a mutual defense pact with North Korea caught official Washington by surprise today.

Officials said it was undoubtedly a startling new sign of bitter rivalry between the Soviet Union and Red China.

The chief reason for this view is that, in Washington eyes, North Korea has been regarded as falling within the Red Chinese sphere of influence.

Merged Church OKs Red China in United Nations

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A major Protestant assembly today recommended, in round-about fashion, the admission of Red China to the United Nations.

The action sparked a flurry of debate.

It came in a vote by the general synod of the newly formed United Church of Christ in connection with its annual action council during the past biennium, which had included a call for U.N. membership for Red China.

In upholding the move, representatives of the 2-million-member church became one of the first denominations in the country to take such a position.

Holiday Forces Cut in Auto Production

DETROIT (AP) — The Fourth of July holiday observance will cut U. S. passenger car production 30.9 per cent over last week's output, Automotive News said today.

The nation's car manufacturers will turn out an estimated 86,643 units this week compared to 125,385 last week and 20,881 units in the same week last year.

U. S. truck production this week is expected to hit 16,171 units compared with 17,322 last week and 14,982 in the like week of 1960.

Gas Line Is Blamed for $2,500 City Fire

Pontiac firemen blamed a defective gas line for a fire which caused $2,500 damages to a home occupied by Duane Seales, 38, at 965 Lalone Ct. last night.

The blaze was put out in an hour. Seales received first aid from firemen for burns of the right hand.

JFK, Aides Discuss Changes for OCDM

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy today discussed reorganization of the Office of Civil Defense and Mobilization with top-level advisers, but the White House withheld any announcement as to conclusions. There were reports the Defense Department had won a major role in civil defense.

White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said he might have something to say about the meeting later today.

Budget Director David Bell, the only participant reporters got to talk to, declined to discuss the meeting other than to say President Kennedy would ask for an additional appropriation for civil defense in two or three weeks.

Sentences City Man in Shooting of Boy

Roosevelt Alexander, 22, of 211 W. William Ave., was sentenced to ten days in the Oakland County Jail yesterday for the shooting of a 15-year-old boy.

He had been found guilty earlier by Municipal Judge Cecil McCullough of causing an injury by discharging a firearm without malice.

The charge against Alexander stemmed from the June 10 shooting of 15-year-old Roy Lee Sharp, 30 Cleveland St.

Alexander told police that a 22-caliber blank pistol, modified to shoot bullets, accidentally discharged while they argued over a cat the boy was carrying. Sharp was shot in the mouth.

LAUNCHING FOR 'SCIENCE' — The Israeli multi-stage Shavit (Meteor) II rocket blasts off into space Thursday to gather weather data. Israeli authorities said the rocket, weighing between 300 and 600 pounds, was fired from a secret launching pad on the Mediterranean seashore and reached a height of 30 miles.

Israel Reassures World on Rocket

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI) — He said a formal statement would be made later.

Israel's successful firing of the rocket was cited by experts in Washington today as an example of technical ability that could lead even small nations to develop nuclear weapons.

HAVE KNOWLEDGE

Experts said that the firing of the Israeli weather rocket, apparently to an altitude of 30 or 40 miles, demonstrated that the Israelis have the kind of technical knowledge needed to build both missiles and nuclear warheads.

At present there are four nations in the "nuclear club"—those possessing the atomic bomb. They are the United States, Russia, Britain and France.

However, experts have predicted that Red China also may have the atomic bomb within another year or two, and they say a slow but steady increase in the number of nuclear powers can be expected unless an agreement is reached to ban testing.

Ben-Gurion was asked whether the three-stage, solid fuel rocket would have strategic implications in Middle East affairs.

"This is definitely not a military matter," he replied.

He said the rocket, named Shavit II, was sent 45 miles into the air to "explore the various layers in the atmosphere in connection with the International Geophysical Year."

There are at least 45 different kinds of steel in the manufacture of a medium-priced automobile on the American market today.

By The Associated Press

Northern Wisconsin today was added to the drought-ridden Great Plains area as Minnesota sought addition of 9 more counties to the 24 already declared federal disaster tracts.

In the western Dakotas, stockmen joined crop growers in deep concern over dwindling water supplies and were moving cattle to greener pastures or preparing for their early marketing.

Grasshoppers were added to the drought plague in eastern Montana, where federal-state crop reporting services predicted many fields wouldn't even be harvested.

Sen. Alexander Wiley, R-Wis., called for early action by federal authorities to aid farmers in that state's drought area. Unless there is rain soon, Wiley said Wednesday night that farmers all over Wisconsin would be suffering.

NEW APPEALS

Minnesota's Gov. Elmer L. Andersen said the worsening drought was bringing new appeals to his office daily from farmers whose pastures are browned over by the searing sun and whose feed grain crops are wilted.

Granting of the new disaster appeals would place 33 of Minnesota's 87 counties into the emergency category.

In North Dakota, water was drying up in wells, creeks and the western and southern boundaries. There has been no growth of pastures or wild hay in the western two-thirds for weeks.

With temperatures in the high 80s again, much small grain was reported beyond salvage. But the corn and soybeans in the eastern zones were accorded a chance, assuming some moisture does come. All of North Dakota was declared a disaster area last week.

Dryden Celebrates

Big Boom Day This Weekend

Parade Saturday A.M.
With Baseball Games
in Afternoon

DRYDEN — Twirling batons, fireworks and a big parade will lend a festive atmosphere to this town for the third annual Dryden Boom Day celebration which opens here tomorrow.

The three-day event which was held on the Fourth of July during the past two years, has been expanded and moved to the weekend following the holiday because of the interest it has created among area residents.

A carnival of rides and amusements will open at 8 p. m. tomorrow to kick off the gala weekend observance.

The carnival booths and concessions will be located adjacent to the athletic field at Dryden Community High School, which will be the center for several events scheduled for the weekend.

BATON TWIRLING!

A 12-hour baton twirling contest will be staged at the athletic field starting Saturday at 8 a. m. The Lapeer County sheriff's posse will give a demonstration of trick riding at 12:30 p. m.

The parade, including floats and marching units from several communities in the area, will leave the high school Saturday at 11 a. m. and swing down Main Street where it will pause briefly for traditional flag raising and coronation ceremonies.

Pretty Sandra Havens, 19, who was chosen last April to reign over this event, will be crowned Miss Boom Day by Dryden Mayor Robert White.

Accompanying Sandra will be her maids of honor, two attractive 18-year-olds, Joyce Nagy and Carole Hildley.

Baseball games are scheduled at the field at 3 and 5 p. m. and the finals of the baton twirling contest will be held at 8 p. m. followed by the selection of individual champions and the king and queen of the baton twirlers.

The day will conclude with a fireworks display at 10 p. m.

SUNDAY'S PROGRAM

On Sunday, the carnival will start at 10 a. m. followed by a horse show at the high school field at noon.

Activities then will switch to Main Street where an old fashioned tractor pulling contest will be staged at 3 p. m. Contestants are to register their vehicles from noon to 3 p. m. at the Dryden Elevator.

A Little League baseball game is slated for 5 p. m. and another fireworks display will be presented at 9:30 p. m. Awards, including a boat and motor, will be given away after the fireworks display.

The Boom Day celebration is sponsored by the Dryden Area Development Association, which has been planning the event for several months.

Plan Ceremony for 8-Mile Drain

County Officials Will Break Ground Even Though Project Stalled

SOUTHFIELD — Work has already begun but county drain officials tomorrow will flash the traditional silver spade and break ground for the Eight Mile Road storm drain to serve Southfield and Oak Park.

Drain Commissioner Daniel W. Barry, who has waded through citizen protests, government red tape and a law suit to get the $1,254,000 drain realized, will head a host of officials in brief ceremonies at the northwest corner of Eight Mile and Southfield roads at 11 a. m.

A reception will be held afterward.

S. A. Healy Co. and Gargaro Co. of Detroit started work yesterday for the 15,300-foot drain. It will parallel Eight Mile Road starting 400 feet east of Greenfield road westward to dump into the Rouge River.

It will benefit principally 2,200 acres of Southfield and Oak Park and stop heavy seasonal rains from flowing over into basements of Northwest Detroit homes. Detroit will pay a share of the drain as will the State Highway Department and Oakland County.

The three, Barry said, have made payments totaling $1,215,000. Bonds in the amount of $3,000,000 were sold by the county and Oak Park and Southfield will pay this amount over 30 years to retire the bonds.

Unionist Asks Warrant Against Utica Truckers

DETROIT — Roland McMasters, 36, business agent for Teamsters Union Local 299, has asked that an assault warrant be issued against Melvin Angel of 47555 Jeffrey St., Utica, a truck driver who blames the union for a beating he suffered June 28.

McMasters, 47, asked Wednesday that Angel be charged with simple assault. He said Angel told him that "I am going to get you and put you out of the way." A hearing will be held July 14.

Plan No-Glare Fence on Farmington Road

LANSING — An antiglare aluminum fence will be tested on the Interstate 96 freeway between Brighton and Farmington next month, says John C. Mackie, state highway commissioner.

Mackie said the fence will be used near Kensington Metropolitan Park where the freeway and a county road angle toward each other. Headlights on county roads tend to blind eastbound drivers, Mackie said, "and give drivers the impression they are going to collide."

Films will determine the glare reduction qualities of the mesh fence, which also may double as a snow fence, he said.

New York Still Leads

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York City still is America's foremost manufacturing city with roughly 150,000 more industrial employees than the runner-up city of Chicago, according to the Department of Commerce and Public Events.

Warrant Out for Avon Man

Arraign Two Others in Beating of Utica Youth in Pontiac Township

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — A warrant was out today for the arrest of a 24-year-old Avon Township man who is charged with felonious assault in the beating of a Utica youth June 28.

Two other men who allegedly took part in the incident were arraigned yesterday before Pontiac Township Justice of the Peace R. Grant Graham.

William Kline, 27, of 388 Hillview Road, pleaded not guilty and demanded examination. He will appear in Justice Court July 14.

Robert Molisher, 20, of 3263 Donkey St., Avon Township, was placed on six-month probation by Justice Graham who said Molisher was present when the assault took place but did not take part in the incident.

Accused of felonious assault in the warrant is Raymond Boyd, 24, of 223 East St., Avon Township.

Oakland County Sheriff's officers sought the three men after the beating of Bryan E. Lorton of 43345 Gainsley Drive, Utica.

Lorton told police he was hitchhiking along Squirrel Road north of Southfield avenue at 1:30 a. m. June 29 when a car with three men in it stopped him.

Lorton said he was hit over the head with a beer bottle and beaten about the face and chest. He was hospitalized following the attack.

Lorton's assailants fled when another car stopped and the passengers took him to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. His attackers later were identified by sheriff's deputies.

To Hold Registration for Swim Classes

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — Registrations for the free swimming classes offered by the township at the Pontiac YMCA will be accepted tomorrow at two locations between 2 and 5 p. m.

The swimming program will be held every Sunday for six weeks. It is being offered to youngsters between the ages of 9 and 14.

Children living in the Joslyn area can register at the Joslyn fire hall and those in the area of Willis and Will Rogers schools can register at the township hall. Parents must sign the application.

Ex-Newsman Succumbs After Long Illness

TRAVERSE CITY — A former prominent newspaperman and advertising executive, Milburn J. Kausterer of Glen Arbor, 65, died Wednesday at Munson Hospital after a prolonged illness.

He once served as a reporter for the Paris Times. Kausterer retired to Glen Arbor in 1956 from a post as vice president and account executive with D'Arcy Advertising Co. of New York and St. Louis.

Reports Better Migrant Housing

Won't Refer Workers to Farms Without Good Quarters, MESG Says

A marked improvement in housing for migrant workers has been reported by Max Horton, director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

Horton said that his Employment Service Farm Labor personnel department has been inspecting housing facilities of the farmers who have asked the MESG for aid in supplying transient workers and has found them much improved.

"Our farm labor specialists have been ordered to inspect the premises made available for migrant workers, and if the housing doesn't meet the minimum standards, the commission will not refer labor to the operator of the farm," said Horton.

"Last year certain farmers were severely criticized for offering inadequate housing. This year the same people have facilities which rate near the top in the state," the director added.

"Employers who have better housing will have better workers and they will return year after year."

Horton said that instead of importing extra thousands of transient workers, MESG branch offices throughout the state are making it known to unemployed local people that agricultural work offers many opportunities.

Posters, cards, handbills and signs are telling unemployed workers all over the state that agricultural jobs will be available for qualified persons in a few weeks.

$2-Million Building

Maccabees Plan Office

SOUTHFIELD — The Maccabees Mutual Life Insurance Co. announced today that it will build a $2-million home office building here.

Robert E. Morris, president of the international firm, said the building will be built on a 10-acre site at the corner of Northwestern Highway and 10½-Mile Road.

The structure will be two stories covering 60,000 square feet and will have a complete basement. The building is being designed for future expansion.

The new building will feature the latest in office design and layout to effect the ultimate in office efficiency and flow of operations, said Morris.

The company president said special building features will be incorporated in the area assigned to modern machine accounting and data processing operations.

The present home office of Maccabees Mutual, Michigan's oldest life insurance company, is located in Detroit's cultural center.

The building, however, was sold in December 1960, to the Detroit Board of Education. It was built in 1926.

Morris said the new home office here will take about 15 months to complete. No construction date has been set.

Maccabees Mutual will be the sole occupant of the building. The company employs 250 persons. Architects for the building are Harley, Ellington, Cowin and Strickland, Inc.

The Southfield City Council rezoned the site for the proposed building from residential to education-research-office last month.

To Charge for Blood Given to Patients

ALBANY — A fee will be charged for blood given to patients at nearby Community Hospital following a notification by the Maccabees Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Red Cross officials told hospital authorities that a much stricter accounting of blood banks is necessary because of the public apathy in donating blood.

A fee of $25 a pint will be charged, but replacements of blood can offset these charges, the hospital authorities said.

Replacements or charges will be made on the basis of two pints for the first pint given to each patient and one pint for each pint given thereafter.

Use Bridal Guest Book at Reception

By The Emily Post Institute
Q: I have been asked to take care of the guest book at a rather large wedding. Never having done this before, I am at a loss as to what I am to do. Many of the guests who have been invited to the church have not been invited to the reception.
A: To present the guest book at the church would be not only unusual but impractical. Only those at the reception sign it. Correctly, it is placed near the door of entrance at the reception and the one in charge of it asks the arrivals, "Will you please sign the guest book?"
And then, unless this guardian of the guest book can remember each signer, those taking leave are asked, "Have you signed the guest book?" The bride's family furnish the book.

At the reception in Mission Inn following the ceremony, the newlyweds joined their parents the Wally I. Wilsons of Muskegon Heights and the Robert R. Eldreds of West Iroquois Road.
The bride gown of white silk pearly de sole over taffeta was styled with a molded scoop-neck bodice applied with imported Alençon lace. The bouffant skirt also highlighted with lace swept into a chapel train. A crown of pearls caught fingertip veiling of French illusion. White roses were arranged in a bridal cascade.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Air-minded women — 196 of them — take to the skies Saturday in the 15th annual transcontinental Powder Puff Derby.
Flying in 26 small planes with two women pilots aboard each, the girls leave Montgomery Field here and head across the country to Atlantic City, N. J. — a 2,700-mile flight.
This is not a speed race, but the contestants must arrive in Atlantic City by noon July 12 to be eligible to win. The planes will fly in daylight hours only, stopping overnight at 12 airports designated as official refueling centers.
The winner is determined on the basis of a complicated formula involving the size of each plane and its handicap speed.
The route will take the contestants over the southern part of the nation and all planes must check in at Dallas, Tex., Montgomery, Ala., and Hagerstown, Md. Other stops are optional.

Abby Says: Tell Your Parents

It's an Old, Old Story, Honey

DEAR ABBY: I met a man on a bus. He was very polite and well-dressed. Maybe I should tell you I am 35, but I look older. This man said he was a talent scout and he thought he could get me in the movies. He asked me to go up to his hotel room to read over the contract, but I didn't have time because I was supposed to meet my mother downtown.

ABBY

He gave me his name and telephone number, and told me to call him. He asked me not to tell my parents about meeting him. I don't want to pass up a chance to get into the movies, but I haven't heard anything behind my parents' back. What should I do?

SIXTEEN
DEAR SIXTEEN: DON'T call this man. He's as shifty as a paper moon. His "talent scout" line went out with celluloid collars. Tell your parents about him.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married a very short time and have been told that I am wearing my rings backwards. I wear my wedding ring first because I was engaged first. Then, right next to it, I wear my wedding ring. People have told me that it should be the other way around. I still think I am right, but I would like to be sure.

JUST MARRIED
DEAR ABBY: The wedding ring should be placed on the finger first (closer to the heart), and the engagement ring is worn next to it.

DEAR ABBY: My husband runs a gasoline station. He is known as the softest touch in town. He gives credit to all the dead-beats. When they have cash, they go somewhere else. It is a NO SALE because he is in there getting a dollar to give someone who hands him a hard-luck story. We are far from rich, but as long as he has a dime, he'll give somebody who has nothing a nickel. At this rate we will never have anything. How can I convince this big-hearted luncheon to realize that he is a fool?

FOOL'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Your "big-hearted husband" may be overlooking things, and a reminder that his big heart could break him may be in order. But a man who will split his dime with another who has nothing is not a "fool," and you could learn from him.

What's bothering you? For a personal reply, write to Abby, The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Mich. Include a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

By PHYLLIS BATTLE
NEW YORK—It's long been my contention that the easiest, quickest way to take off weight is to be nervous. All that talk about "too much nervous energy" using up calories—it's quite true. Some of the tensest, grimmest, nastiest, shakiest women I know have the sexiest figures.

The trouble is it's not always a simple matter to be nervous. A few women are bland and pleasant; it seems they were just born good-natured and impossible to upset.

Then they compound their problem by "marrying" nice, calm men, raising sweet placid children, attaching themselves to friendly neighbors. Sometimes they even get well-paying jobs under amiable bosses in modern air-conditioned offices, with unlimited coffee breaks.

What are these poor females to do about their figures? Love makes their world round—and their chins too. What they need, then, is a bit of irritation in their lives so they can grim up and slim down.

TRY THIS CLUB
A relatively new club has been formed nationwide which I would recommend highly for this purpose. It is called TOPS, for "Take Off Pounds Sensibly," and from what I hear about it, a few meetings with this group should be enough to rile on even the most begin innards.

TOPS is organized, presumably, to offer the helpful "psychological atmosphere" of Alcoholics Anonymous, whereby members rush quickly to the aid of their fellows.

If one member hears through the grapevine, for example, that another member is thinking of having a huge sundae in mid-afternoon, she spreads the word to all the rest and the drive is on.

"I felt like having one or two of those huge sandwiches," one confided, as an example. The word got round quickly, and she was besieged with telephone calls.

SETTLED FOR BET
"I finally settled," she said,

"for a spoonful of salmon on a bit of lettuce."

Unlike the "anonymous" institutions which do such a fine job, however, this association for scoldpots believes in making its members feel anything but anonymous.

For instance, if as a member you gain weight, you may be asked to wear a #11 cardboard pig on your lapel. And you are booted during meetings.

To further fire up your digestive juices and start your nervous energy working overtime, a member must sing occasionally the club songs.

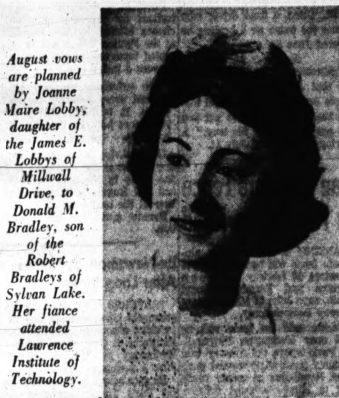

A typical TOPS ditty: "We are plump little pigs who ate too much fat, fat, fat."

And another: "Grow little fat girl thinner, thinner." Just in case all this durandure is not enough to make a placid woman turn into a nervous shambles, she is required to pay dues for the privilege of being insulted.

BUT BE CALM
Whenever I think of the possibility of becoming a TOPS member, and of being ridiculed into using some will power, I get very upset and feel the weight oozing away in nervous tension. So, obviously, it works.

But about those bland and pleasant women who may put on weight simply because they are happy and healthy, and because their husbands and children view them as is—perhaps they're best stay as sweet as they are.

In the long run, it is considerably better to have self-respect than a supple figure.

Puts Mop to a New Use

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The following letter is interesting because the writer discovered by accident an exercise which is excellent for flabby upper arms.

She says: "I recently discovered a wonderful exercise just by accident. I was putting up a temporary fence in the backyard (snow fence and those metal stakes) and since we have had a lot of rain the ground was soft and wet. I just grasped the stakes near the top and pulled them down into the ground. Later I pounded them down further.

SORE MUSCLES

"The next day I was quite conscious of a few muscles, those of my upper arms, my chest and abdomen. Since it would be impractical to go around pulling stakes down into the ground all of the time, I decided to use my dust mop because it had a long handle. I stand fairly close to it and grasp it at the top with first one hand and then the other, the second hand a little below the top hand.

"Lo and behold it is working! My upper arms are firming up and the sag in my abdomen, which has been somewhat pendulous and prominent, is decreasing. I now do this exercise 40 times a day, 10 at a time when I think of it. Ten times takes just a minute."

"You always can tell where lightning struck (exercises) by the sore muscles. This reader is correct. This is a good exercise for the upper arms, the chest muscles and the abdominal muscles because you pull the latter in when you pull down.

Actually, one of the best exercises for the abdomen is pulling the abdominal muscles back toward the backbone, holding for a few minutes, relaxing and repeating. You can do this standing up or lying down. When you are riding in a car or sitting in a chair, periodically, do this. Good posture, or an intelligent attempt at it, is in itself a splendid exercise!

So, get your dust mops out, girls, but don't forget the floor! If you would like to have my exercises for the upper arms, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for Leaflet 11 to me in care of The Pontiac Press.

Time Is Wives' Biggest Problem

AMES, Iowa (UPI)—Time, money and children rank as the housewives' most important problems, a university survey has indicated.

Home management specialist Helen Sorenson of Iowa State University said Wednesday 60 per cent of housewives listed "time" as their greatest problem, while 40 per cent listed money as a major concern. Children ranked third.

Try using a well-lathered cotton swab between baby's clenched fingers and curled toes — where fuzz and dirt accumulate.

Homecoming Is Scheduled

The 12th annual homecoming at the Oakland County Tuberculosis Sanatorium is slated Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.

Former patients and their families will gather on the sanatorium grounds on Cooley Lake Road.

Professional entertainment will be provided by the American Guild of Variety Artists and the local Rae-Vens drill team.

Refreshments and door prizes also will be offered during the afternoon.

Find Them Reasonable and Unselfish

Teen-Agers Are Well Satisfied With Parents

By EUGENE GILBERT
President, Gilbert Youth Research Inc.

What does your teen-ager think of you as a parent? Perhaps we can give you a hint.

Here is a collective portrait of the American mom and dad drawn by 1,087 teen-agers.

Parents are not difficult to understand, and not hard to please.

They are not too demanding, nor too selfish.

As disciplinarians, they assert themselves from a position somewhere between too strict and too easy-going.

But look at these two reasons, one given by a youngster who says it is easy to understand parents and one given by a youngster who says it is not.

"Yes," says Barb Rosenbach, 16, of Davenport, Iowa. "And when you do something right they never say anything."

But they spend too little time with their children. And they are on the borderline of being bud-tempered and impatient.

SOME LAMENT

Among the youngsters we questioned in our recent survey were a small core who echoed the old lament of the younger generation: "Our parents just don't understand us."

But there were others who gave well-reasoned answers. And from these we can draw some advice that might help you as a parent.

1. In your dealings with your children, attempt to explain your decisions.

Sixty-four per cent of the teen-agers say parents are not hard to understand, while 36 per cent say they are, and the remaining six per cent don't know.

2. Expect the best of your children, but don't ask for perfection, and don't forget to compliment them for a good performance.

While 60 per cent of the youngsters say parents are not hard to please, 37 per cent say they are. "They expect perfection," complains Sherry Johnson, 17, of Dallas, Tex.

3. Set standards for your children, but don't forget that times have changed since your parents set standards for you.

Only 23 per cent of the youngsters found parents too demanding. "I think they are too lenient in some cases," says Bill H. Sembach, 16, of Mt. Pleasant, Mich.

To the contrary, Susan Smith, 17, of Portland, Ind., believes parents are too demanding "when they don't accept modern standards."

Judith Hoyt Weds Pfc. David Beck in Church Rite

In the presence of several friends and their immediate families, Judith Karen Hoyt and Army Pfc. David J. Beck of Weymouth Street, Union Lake Village, were married June 24 in the Episcopal Church of the Advent, The Rev. John Wigle officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Raylin N. Hoyt, West New York Avenue; Mrs. Maude Beck, Weymouth Street; and the Don Beck of Rochester.

The bride wore a silk jersey navy suit with white accessories and a variegated red rose corsage. Her maid of honor Gail Blackburn was dressed in a pale pink silk jersey suit with matching accessories.

Donald Beck was best man.

Mrs. Hoyt's white and pale blue silk sheath was worn with a picture hat and matching accessories. Mrs. Maude Beck also wore a picture hat with matching accessories and an old rose silk sheath.

Following a reception at the home of the bride's parents, the couple left for a tour of Lake Michigan's shore line. They are living in New Jersey where Pfc. Beck, who will be discharged in 1964, is stationed at Fort Dix.

Smith-Hurst Nuptials Are Held in City Church

A candlelight ceremony performed Saturday evening in Perry Park Baptist Church united Eddie Carolyn Hurst and James D. Smith of Lake Orion.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. George C. Hurst of Broadway Avenue and the Alfre W. Smiths of Lake Orion. The bride wore a lace gown fashioned with Peter Pan collar, sequin-trimmed neckline and long tapered sleeves. The bouffant skirt which ended in a chapel train was topped by a basque waist. A tulle head-bagging cap secured her Chantilly lace fingertip veil. Her flowers were white carnations and an orchid arranged on a Bible.

Nylon elition gown in bouffant ballerina length, yellow for the honor, matron and Nile green for bridesmaids, were worn by the attendants, who held white carnation arrangements accented by yellow and green streamers.

Mrs. James L. Nash, matron of honor, stood with Mrs. Glenn E. Linscott, Pauline Hurst and the bridegroom's sister JoAnn Smith of Lake Orion. The bride's brother Gerald was best man. Guests were seated by the bridegroom's brother, Lloyd, Glenn Linscott and William Verhey.

A beige silk brocade dress was chosen by Mrs. Hurst for the wedding. Mrs. Smith appeared in beige linen with a white lace jacket. Both mothers wore white carnation corsages.

After a honeymoon in Northern Michigan, for which the bride changed to a pale blue cotton suit with white accessories, the couple will reside in Pontiac.

Thanks to the insistence of one mother in Denver, Colorado, it is now official school policy that soap must be available at all times in public school washrooms used by students.

Couple Speaks Vows at Union Lake Church

St. Patrick Church at Union Lake was the scene of Saturday nuptials uniting Lynne Ellen Terry and Robert E. Parent.

Rev. Raymond Schlinkert performed the rite before some 200 witnesses who were presented missals inscribed with the bride and groom's names at the church entrance by Thomas Parent, the bridegroom's brother.

The bride, daughter of the Paul A. Terrys of Locklin Lane, approached the altar in a floor-length silk organza gown with Sabrina neckline of scalloped Chantilly lace.

Appliques of matching lace enhanced the bouffant skirt, fashioned with Empire waistline and large soft organza bow for back interest. Stephanotis with variegated miniature ivy, centered by an orchid, comprised her bouquet.

Judy McIntosh of Milwaukee, Wis., honor maid, and bridesmaids Carolyn Ridge of Detroit, the bridegroom's sister Sally Parent and Kathryn Stewart, Orchard Lake, appeared in taffeta sheaths with short bouffant overskirts in yellow, pastel green, pale blue and orchid, respectively. Each held an arrangement of white Fuji chrysanthemums.

Duties of best man were performed by Thomas Kerns of Flint, Peter VanCamp, Orchard Lake; Ralph Fear, Union Lake; and Michael Terry, the bride's brother.

The bride's mother wore a cameo blue crepe sheath with lace bodice and feathered pill box, and son of the Edmund Parents of Clearwater Drive, Round Lake.

Mrs. Parent selected a green and Mrs. Parent donned a silk print Royal Oak.

Following a reception at Kingsley Inn and an open house and buffet at the Terry home, the new bride will live in Northern Michigan.

Upon their return Mr. Parent, a Michigan State University graduate, and his bride will live in Northern Michigan.

Mrs. Parent donned a silk print Royal Oak.

Have Hose Been Giving You Woes?

By Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Here's a list of common hosiery problems and possible cures:

Never put on your nylons while you're standing. When you bend your knees to sit, the extra pull may cause a run.

When your stockings tear at the top hem, there's too much pull from your garters. Wear longer stockings and be sure that the elastic in your garters is in good condition.

If the trouble frequently occurs in the leg portion your stockings are probably too loose-fitting, and therefore, easily snagged. You may also be wearing hose that is too sheer for your daytime activities. Buy a heavier denier yarn or higher gauge.

If your stockings tear when you bend your knees, they're too short. Get a longer length.

A break in the heels is often caused by rough shoe linings. Wear shoes with snugly fitting heels, and buy hose with heel reinforcement except for dress-up occasions.

Runs in the toe section are caused when the stocking foot size is too short. When the damage occurs above the toe reinforcement, it's usually because the foot size is too long, and the stocking has folded over.

SAUCY DOGS—Chopped hot dogs mixed with a spicy combination of tomato soup, onions, cheese and flavorings are spooned into buns, then baked in foil. This is a delightfully new idea for picnic fare.

Hot Dogs Disguised in Various Recipes

Dogs that are different! Frankfurters with a flair! That's the sandwich idea for the week. Americans are fond of the hot dog, but the hot dog, broiled over charcoal, and spread with mustard or ketchup, and sprinkled with pickle relish, will never lose its appeal. But you're in for some real flavor treats when you try these sandwich ideas.

Saucy Dogs in Foli have a bit of a snap to their flavor. The frankfurters are finely chopped, then mixed with a combination of tomato soup, mustard, Worcestershire sauce, onions, cheese and relish. The combination is heaped in buns and oven-baked in foil. This is hearty picnic fare.

Saucy Dogs in Foli
1 pound frankfurters, finely chopped
1/2 cup tomato soup
1/2 cup mustard
1/2 cup Worcestershire sauce
1/2 cup grated American cheese
1/2 cup onion, minced
1/2 cup relish
Heat oven to 400 degrees (moderately hot). Combine all ingredients except buns. Spoon 1-3 cup of the mixture between bun halves. Wrap each bun securely in aluminum foil. Heat 15-15 minutes. Makes 12 sandwiches.

Denver Dogs, an idea first tried at a camp site in the Rockies, calls for placing the frankfurters a few times lengthwise, then simmering them in a lively sauce of rich tomato soup, hot dog relish (that's the combo of mustard

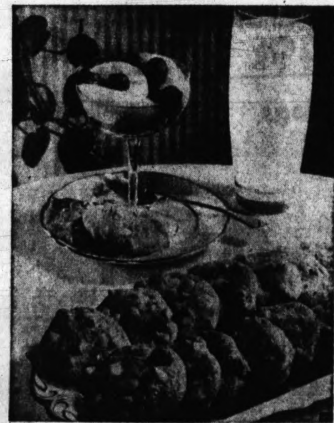

Cookies a Must for Summertime

Bake up a batch of Lemon Chip Hermits and surprise the family with an old-fashioned cookie made with lemon chips. Serve them with a fresh fruit compote and a big tall glass of milk.

Lemon Chip Hermits
2 cups sifted cake flour
1/2 cup double-acting baking powder
1/2 cup salt
1/2 cup cinnamon
1/2 cup nutmeg
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/2 cup finely packed brown sugar
1/2 cup butter or other shortening
2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup broken nuts
1 cup 4 ounces lemon chips
Combine sifted flour, baking powder, salt, spices, and granulated sugar, and sift together three times. Mix brown sugar and milk. Cream shortening, add sifted ingredients, brown sugar mixture, and eggs and stir until all flour is dampened; then beat vigorously 1 minute. Add raisins, nuts, and lemon chips and mix well.

Drop from tablespoon on greased baking sheet and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 12 to 15 minutes, or until done. Makes about 4 dozen hermits.

NOTE: To keep hermits moist, store where there is circulation of air; not in air-tight container.

LEMON CHIP HERMITS—Anything with lemon in it seems cool in hot weather. These cookies are long time favorites—hermits—dressed up with the addition of Lemon Chips. They go well with tall glasses of cold milk or fruit punch.

How to Have a Bug-Free Barbecue

Bugs and barbecues don't necessarily have to go together! With suburban living approaching a zenith and with even city dwellers moving outdoors to terraces and balconies, this summer's outdoor dining promises to be bigger than ever. And with a little thought and a little pre-barbecue preparation, the big nuisance can be completely eliminated. The makers of one insect repellent offer these practical, easy to follow suggestions:

- 1. PLAN AHEAD: Keep the menu simple—and try to cook only the main meat course outdoors. Do the other food preparation, indoors—ahead of time. If possible, remember, food attracts bugs... with a minimum of available food, you'll have a minimum of bugs.
- 2. DECORATE WITH INSECTS IN MIND: Around the periphery of the eating area, use bug lanterns or bug candles. Not only do these deter the insects, but they cast a very pleasant, soft glow over the entire area, thus enhancing the atmosphere.
- 3. COOKING, EATING AND DRINKING: If you can, cook, eat and drink in three different places. Even if the distance separating them is small. Before dinner, cocktails can be indoors—then the sugary residue in cocktail glasses is safe from insects. A small distance between the barbecue pit and the barbecue table will keep the bugs concentrated near the pit and not on the table.

- 4. SPRAY BEFORE YOU SERVE: Fifteen minutes before you cook, or plan to set the table—whichever comes first—spray the entire area with a product designed for this use. Just before you serve, re-spray directly under the table with an insect repellent designed for this use. The spray will not contract eating insects.
- 5. KEEP ALL FOODS COVERED: In cooking, use stove to table utensils with their own covers. For salads, breads and items not ordinarily served covered, put them on the table in disposable plastic coated, cup-type cups, and then wrapped in plastic or foil, or combine serving with decorating in plastic: with each cup constituting one serving. This again, keeps that food exposure time down.
- 6. HOW ABOUT A FAN? If your dining area is close to an electric outlet, try setting up a fan designed to blow bugs away from the never-fail formula and passes out individual bottles of insect repellent to her guests. Aerosols containing insect repellent are now available and guests can spray themselves without getting the repellent on their hands.

CUES: If your barbecue will be buffet style, think about making up individual portions of food, then wrapping each in transparent plastic and placing them on large platters—one platter for each type of food. This way, guests can help themselves to individually wrapped servings of carrot or celery sticks, breads or biscuits, cakes, etc.

3. DON'T WATER YOUR LAWN: Mosquitoes like moisture so don't water your lawn or shrubs on the day of your cookout.

Spread crackers with a blend of honey and creamed cheese, to which nuts or grated orange peels have been added.

PINEAPPLE BAKED BEANS—This easy-to-do supper comes out of a can. You pour baked beans into a shallow casserole, then top them with rounds of corned beef hash and pineapple rings. It's hearty, inexpensive and different.

Dichromatism, the inability to distinguish reds and greens when those colors have the same brightness, is the most commonly found form of color blindness.

Old Favorite Treat
Breakfast hits the spot with French toast. Beat 1 egg; stir in 2-3 cup evaporated milk and dash of salt. Dip 4 bread slices, one at a time, into mixture. Melt about 1½ tablespoons butter in large skillet or on griddle to cover; brown bread to golden.

Luncheon Idea
Waffles for lunch today? Top them with something different... made like this: Combine 1 can (10½ ounces) chicken a la king and 1 cup shredded mild processed cheese. Heat slowly until cheese melts. Serve over hot, crisp waffles for about 4 servings.

Poultry, Fresh Produce Still Your Best Buys

By The Associated Press
Fryers, parts, yearling turkeys, chuck steaks and chuck roasts are the feature buys this week, according to the Michigan State University Consumer Marketing Information Agency.

The agency, which bases its report on a study of the marketing picture in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties, also reports that peaches and watermelons are in heavy supply with slightly lower prices.

Here is an item-by-item breakdown:

Poultry:
Market is unchanged from a week ago. Fryer parts and yearling turkeys are being featured.

Beef:
Reduced marketing has resulted in higher prices for cattle. Chuck steaks are featured this week along with chuck roasts and ro-tisserie roasts.

Pork:
Smoked picnics, frankfurters and bacon are featured this week.

Fish:
Supplies of fresh fish are expected to be ample with little change in price. Cod, haddock, whitefish and pickerel are featured.

Eggs:
Supplies are fractionally less and top quality is becoming short due to seasonal conditions and about the same.

Fruits:
Peaches are in heavy supply with slightly lower values. Thompson Seedless and Cardinal grapes are in good supply. Cantaloupes are in heavy supply this week and will be lighter the following week. Red raspberries, blueberries and blackberries will start being in heavy supply this week. Water-melon is in heavy supply from several areas and retails are lower.

Vegetables:
Local lettuce is starting to show this week. Cucumbers are heavy in supply and lower values can be expected. Green beans—home-grown can be expected to show next week. Celery from California is in good supply. Tomatoes, hot-house and regulars, are scarce due to weather conditions. Florida sweet corn is past its peak, but supplies will continue the next three weeks. Potatoes, Cobbler are in plentiful supply.

Hearty Dish Is Easy to Prepare

Casseroles are always recommended for their good flavor combinations and today's recipe combining golden pineapple slices, baked beans and corned beef hash is exceptionally good.

Corned beef hash slices and pineapple slices are served atop baked beans seasoned with mustard, horseradish and onion. The result is a taste surprise.

In partnership with cole slaw or a tossed salad—tomatoes, radishes and several greens and hot rolls, this "bake" will make a colorful, nutritious supper for four.

Pineapple Baked Beans
2 1-lb. cans baked beans in tomato sauce
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 teaspoon horseradish
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
Dash browned beef hash
1 pineapple slices
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1 tablespoon butter or margarine

Combine beans, onion, horseradish and mustard in shallow baking pan. Slice corned beef hash into 8 slices; arrange with pineapple slices on top of beans. Sprinkle with brown sugar; dot with butter or margarine. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) 25 minutes. Serves 4.

Fill Cantaloupe Cavity With Cheese, Nuts.
Peel one cantaloupe. Cut off piece from one end and remove seeds. Mix one 8-ounce package softened cream cheese, 4 ounces Bleu cheese and 1 cup chopped pecans. Pack into melon. Chill thoroughly.
Slice for serving. Makes enough filling for two small or one large cantaloupe. Serve with saltine crackers.

Frozen Cream Is Good for Easy Garnish

Frozen Cream
1 cup heavy cream
1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
1/2 to 1 teaspoon vanilla
Beat the cream until almost stiff. Add sugar and vanilla; beat until stiff. Place fluted paper baking cups in a muffin pan with 12 wells; the wells can be either very small or medium size, and paper cups should correspond.

Spoon whipped cream into paper cups; freeze. Remove cream-filled paper cups from muffin pan and package for freezer storage. Cream may be served frozen or thawed.

If desired, remove paper cups and cream will retain pretty fluted shape around sides. Makes 12 servings.

Try Out New Salad Dressings

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Home Editor
Americans eat salad 12 months of the year. They are, however, more apt to consume them as the main course during the summer months. The wealth of fresh fruits and vegetables—the infinite variety of greens—make preparing a salad a joy. The cook is encouraged to use her own ingenuity in creating a masterpiece.

Fruit salads are always delightful, both to tongue and eye. A nice way to serve this type of salad is to group each fruit on a large platter, then let your guests choose and mix as they will.

Here are two new dressings that go well with fruit. Each one uses an envelope of salad dressing mix as the base. Use one or both. The second dressing will please calorie counters more.

Plantation Salad Dressing

1/2 cup lemon juice
2 tablespoons light molasses
1 envelope salad dressing mix
1/2 cup salad oil

Combine lemon juice, molasses, and salad dressing mix in a jar. Shake to mix well. Add oil and shake again. Serve over fresh fruit salad. Makes one cup of dressing.

Note: Fruits for salad will not darken if marinated in dressing.

Pineapple Cheese Dressing

2 tablespoons vinegar
1/2 cup cream cheese
1 envelope salad dressing mix
1/2 cup salad oil

Place vinegar in a jar; add salad dressing mix and shake well. Add oil, fruit juice, and sour cream; shake again.

Good as fruit salad is, it isn't a hearty food and is not suited for the main course at dinner. But when you add sliced cooked chicken to a fruit assortment, the salad immediately becomes a protein provider and a heavier dish.

The dressing suggested for this salad is a lemon french dressing with a small amount of cream added.

Chicken Salad Dinner

1/4 cup sliced dried chicken
1/2 cup dried celery
1/2 cup white grapes, halved; or canned

Airry Cookies Best for Hot Weather

Widely circulated some years ago, this recipe is worth revisiting because it uses leftover egg whites a delicious way.

Chocolate Puffs

3 egg whites
1/2 cup confectioners sugar (sifted after measuring)
1/4 cup finely crushed graham cracker crumbs

1/2 cup chopped walnuts
1 package (8 ounces) semi-sweet chocolate pieces (melted)

Beat egg whites until they hold straight peaks. Sift and fold in sugar, a little at a time. Fold in cracker crumbs, walnuts, and slightly cooled chocolate. Drop heaping teaspoons of mixture 1-inch apart onto a buttered baking sheet. Bake in slow (325 degrees) oven until firm—about 12 minutes. Makes about 22 cookies.

Applesauce tinted a pale green makes an unusual dinner treat. Add a few drops of mint extract to each serving.

white cherries, drained
1/2 cup creamy French dressing
1/2 cup apricots
1/2 cup lemon juice
1/2 cup vegetable oil

Combine chicken, celery and grapes or cherries. Add creamy French dressing. Arrange grapes, place chicken salad in center. Garnish with avocado, olives and tomato. Makes six servings—250 calories each.

1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon sugar

1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup light cream
1/2 cup apricots
1/2 cup lemon juice
1/2 cup vegetable oil

Combine ingredients except cream. Shake well. Add cream gradually. Beat with rotary beater until thick.

Men will probably put their seal of approval on this last salad. Rich with cheese, salami and ripe olives, it has a bacon and egg dressing. Hot French bread seems right to accompany this Salami Olive Toss.

Salami Olive Toss
1/2 pound onion, sliced (about 1/2 cup)
1/2 cup olive oil
1/2 cup salami, sliced
1/2 cup cheese, shredded
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup sliced cucumber
Salt and pepper

Procedure: Cut salami and Swiss cheese in julienne strips. Reserve a few strips of each, for garnish.

Toss remaining with olives, onion, lettuce, celery, and cucumber. Add salt and pepper to taste; garnish with whole olives and reserved salami and cheese. Pass prepared cheese dressing or Parmesan dressing. Serves four.

Parmesan Dressing
Crisp-fry 4 strips bacon and crumble. Blend 1 cup mayonnaise, 1/4 cup Parmesan cheese and 1/4 teaspoon salt. Add 2 chopped hard-cooked eggs and crumbled bacon.

Cookies Made With Wine Become Mellow

Once upon a time, when ladies wore aprons and did tating and sat out on the porch of an afternoon, the cookie jar was an indispensable part of every home.

Let's turn the page to a new day by campaigning for the return of the cookie jar and the fragrant goodies within. In short, let's make cookies—for the family, for guests, for fun.

Wine is a wonderful cookie ingredient, because it acts as a mellowing agent—so that the cookies truly become sweeter as the days roll by. That is, if you can hoard them.

A winning argument for having cookies on hand is that they are so easy to serve when guests drop in. Nothing to cut, no sticky plates. Just pass the Sherry or Port and pass the cookies.

As an alternate for the prolonged cocktail hour, when dearly beloved friends—and others—stay and stay, why not an evening get-together with a simple dessert and after-dinner wine?

The two recipes, developed in Wine Test Kitchens at Hammondsport, N. Y., have been time and taste-tested by many admirers. Wine Drops are satisfying, plump with fruit. Sherry Pecan Balls surprisingly are put together without slaving over a hot stove. Better find a safe hiding spot for this no-bake confection.

Wine Drops
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup sugar
2 eggs
1/2 cup Port
1/2 cup cream
1/2 cup lemon juice
1/2 cup baking soda
1/2 cup confectioners sugar
1/2 cup chopped nuts

Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly. Add eggs, one at a time, beating after each addition.

Add wine; beat again. Mix and sift flour, salt, baking soda and baking powder; stir in. Add raisins and nuts. Drop by teaspoons on greased cookie sheets. Bake at 350 degrees F. for 12 minutes. Makes 6 dozen.

Note: Cookies mellow after storage in tightly covered container, or in small packets wrapped in heavy duty foil.

Sherry Pecan Balls
1 cup shortening
1 cup ground pecans
1/2 cup ground walnuts
1/2 cup sherry
1/2 cup confectioners sugar
1/2 cup nuts

Grind vanilla wafers and nuts fine in food chopper. Mix thoroughly with remaining ingredients. Shape into balls the size of big cherries; dust with confectioners sugar; chill well. Makes about 50 small cookies.

Note: These are confections, rather than cookies. Flavor improves with age. While they are good keepers in a tightly covered metal canister, it is best to store 1 or 2 dozen in heavy foil, in refrigerator or freezer. A foil pack in the freezer will assure sweets indefinitely—if it will hold them.

DRESSING FOR FRUIT — There's no nicer way to entertain in summer than with a salad. A platter of fresh fruit invites the hungry guest to choose his own assortment. Plantation Salad Dressing, lightly flavored with molasses, is an unusual dressing to offer.

For Creamed Peas: add 1/4 10-oz. package frozen peas to 1/4 cup water, 1/2 teaspoon salt. Bring to a boil and cook 3-4 minutes. Add occasionally.

1 tablespoon butter; stir until melted. Remove from heat; blend in 1 1/2 tablespoons flour; stir in 1 cup evaporated milk. Cook over low heat until thickened stirring occasionally.

Soldier, 43, Says Army's Better 3rd Time Around

FT. RILEY, Kan. (UPI) — Pvt. Wilber H. Howe is undergoing basic training with the U.S. Army's 3rd Infantry at Ft. Riley, Kan. It's the third go-round for the 43-year-old soldier.

"It must be in my blood," he said, explaining that he first took basic training at March Field, Calif., in April and May 1941 and later saw action in the Pacific during World War II.

Howe was discharged as a staff sergeant in October 1945, but re-enlisted as a basic sergeant in March 1948, and took another course in basic training before being sent to Germany.

He stayed in service until February 1952, when he was again discharged, that time as a sergeant first class.

Howe then returned to his home near Charles City, Iowa, to help his father and brother in a large farming operation. Last year, the family sold the farm and Howe once again signed up with Uncle Sam.

Why did he enlist for a third time? Howe explained he's looking ahead to retirement at age 55 with 20 years of military service.

"Besides," he added with a grin, "I like the Army."

To Hold Hearing Movie Man in Mood to Defy Film Censor

Group Must Explain Why It Failed to Meet With Court Order

A hearing will be held in Circuit Court Monday at which the Circuit County Boat Club of Sylvan Lake must explain why it has failed to comply with a court order prohibiting use of a residential lot for commercial purposes.

Judge William J. Beer yesterday signed a show cause order requested by Bernard Baruch and his wife Gloria, 3750 Pontiac Drive, Sylvan Lake.

The Baruchs filed a suit against the club, 2330 Ferndale Ave., asking that it be stopped by court order from using a lot near their house to park boats, trucks, cars and trailers.

Their suit, filed by Attorney Harry S. Huber of Rochester, alleged that this use was a "blatant violation" of the city's zoning ordinance. The club owns the lot.

Judge Stanton G. Dendore granted the temporary restraining order. Huber went before Judge Beer yesterday claiming the club hasn't complied with the order.

He said "about 15 families" are affected by the club's use of the lot for storage.

Residents have been distributing leaflets urging persons to attend Wednesday night's meeting of the Sylvan City Council.

Baruch, a Farmington school teacher, said in the suit that the club has erected one fence—and plans to put up a cyclone fence, which will violate the city's zoning ordinance—which has increased the traffic using the road traveling by their home.

Blonde and blue-eyed Tyrell O'Neill was found shortly after 10:30 p.m. last asleep under a dogwood tree. She was about one-half mile from her home.

LONDON — Director Leo McCarey, in a censor-defying mood, says he's going to be "the Catholic Otto Preminger."

You'll recall that Preminger did battle with the censors on such films as "The Moon Is Blue," "Milk and Honey," "The Apartment" and "Anatomy of a Murder."

McCarey, the man who gave you Father O'Malley, is the least likely to emulate Preminger. But his Irish is up, and when that happens—match out.

McCarey is here to film "Satan Never Sleeps," the story of two contending priests — older and younger. Sound familiar? But this one is different from his classic "Going My Way."

ABOUT OFFICE
The difference is what ran him about of the Johnston Office, which censors American films no matter where they are made.

McCarey explained: "I have a scene in the picture in which a young Red Chinese army officer rapes France Nguyen in front of the priest, played by William Holden. The young Chinese does it to taunt the priest, whose spirit he can't break. The scene isn't played for sensation; the rape is never seen."

"I showed it to Catholic authorities, both in the United States and here. Both approved it. But those jerks in the Johnston Office wouldn't allow it."

What is he going to do about it? "I'm going to shoot the scene as it was written," he said defiantly. "Why should Preminger have a monopoly?"

TOUCHY THEME
The theme of "Satan Never Sleeps" is a touchy one. Holden and Clifton Webb play missionaries caught in the Red Chinese sweep. One of the religious leaders is France Nguyen, who falls in love with Holden.

"He thinks he can handle the situation," McCarey said, "but Webb warns him he is getting himself into quicksand. And he does."

"I've had no trouble at all with the church on the story," the priests tell me. "We're no more than human. They have no objections as long as no physical contact is shown. There won't be any. But that doesn't mean the ending will be inevitable. I defy anyone to guess what the ending will be."

Business Group Questions Status

BAC Men Asking JFK: What About Your New Advisory Board?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speculation over the future of the Business Advisory Council was revived today when the industry leaders who make up its governing board obtained an appointment with President Kennedy.

The BAC is a select panel of corporation chiefs that has advised secretaries of commerce for 27 years. The present secretary, Luther H. Hodges, has stripped the BAC of its historic exclusivity and much of its secrecy.

Some BAC members are known to feel that the council has been relegated to the background by Kennedy's creation of the President's Labor-Management Advisory Board.

The new 21-man board has representatives from industry, labor and the general public. The BAC delegation, headed by Roger Blough, BAC co-chairman and board chairman of U.S. Steel Corp., apparently did not advise the Commerce Department of the White House interview.

This aroused speculation that the council might be hoping to get from the President some clarification of its status—whether he wishes it to continue as the government's adviser on the business viewpoint on major economic issues, to play a secondary role or to fold up entirely.

2 Publicity Agents Die in Detroit Fire

DETROIT (AP) — William J. Cornell and Peter Prass, partners in a Detroit theatrical publicity agency, died today in a fire in their apartment on Detroit's Northwest Side.

The two men were found in a converted bedroom which they had fitted up as an office in their home. Neither had been burned; both were suffocated by smoke.

More than 20 residents were routed by the fire although it was confined to the Cornell-Prass apartment.

Fire inspector Glenn Bennett said the blaze apparently burned for some time before Cornell and Prass awakened.

Split With Red Sox Allows New Yorkers to Close Gap

BOSTON (AP)—The Detroit Tigers faced the Boston Red Sox again today with the winning New York Yankees crowding close to the American League lead.

The second-place Yankees slammed Cleveland 6-0 yesterday. The Tigers managed only a split with the Red Sox, winning a day game 6-2 but losing the night tilt 5-3.

The split left the Tigers with a 47-39 mark. The Yankees are only half a game behind with 49-35.

Rocky Colavito drove in five runs with a homer and a single for the Tigers' victory. Colavito bashed his 22nd home run in the second game, but catcher Jim Pagliaroni's homer and single provided the Red Sox with the margin of victory.

In the first game the Tigers jumped to a three-run lead in the fourth inning. Billy Bunning beat out an infield hit, Frank Malzone booted Al Kaline's bunt for an error, and Kaline homered.

Detroit got three more in the fifth. Jim Bunning, the winning pitcher, singled and Dick McCaffrey doubled. Kaline singled Bunning home and then Colavito brought in two more runs with a single.

Boston got its two runs in the seventh. Russ Nixon doubled, went to third on Kaline's error and scored as Frank Malzone grounded out. Jackie Jensen walked, Pete Runnels singled him to third, and Don Buddin doubled Runnels home.

Detroit jumped to a quick lead in the night game as McCaffrey hit a leadoff home run, his third of the year. Boston came right back, however, as Pagliaroni singled home Cal Schilling, who led off with a single.

Schilling hit his second homer of the year in the third inning. In the fourth, the Red Sox got two more on Jensen's single, Runnels' triple and a sacrifice by Bill Monbouquette, the winning pitcher.

The Tigers collected a run in the fifth on Mike Roark's double. Bobo Osborne's pinch single and McCaffrey's forceout, which allowed Roark to score.

Colavito led off the sixth inning with his round-tripper.

Pagliaroni, however, hit his 10th homer of the year in the seventh inning, scoring Carl Yastrzemski, who had singled.

Gary Geiger added two more runs in the eighth with his 10th homer following Buddin's single.

Bunning scattered seven Red Sox hits in the game for his eighth victory against six defeats. The loser was Billy Muffett.

Monbouquette also moved to 8-6 for the season while Bob Bruce, losing Tiger pitcher, lost his first game against one victory.

3 Top Winners Named to NL Team

Murtaugh Picks 8 Pitchers

CINCINNATI (AP)—Three of the league's top winning starters, two star relievers and the apolitical Warren Spahn were among eight pitchers named today to the National League All-Star team.

Manager Danny Murtaugh, the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates who will manage the National League in the All-Star games at San Francisco July 11 and at Boston July 13, named five right-handers and three southpaws to the pitching staff.

Murtaugh also picked four infielders, four outfielders and one catcher to supplement the eight starters, excluding pitchers, who were selected by a vote of the players themselves. In each position he named the second-place man in the balloting and then added Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals, who has appeared in 19 previous All-Star games.

Murtaugh's selections were announced at National League headquarters.

Right-handed pitchers named by Murtaugh will be Elroy Face of the Pirates; Joey Jay and Bob Purkey of the Cincinnati Reds; Art Mahaffey of the Philadelphia Phillies and Stu Miller of the San Francisco Giants. The southpaws will be Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Mike McCormick of the Giants and Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves.

Through games of Tuesday, Jay and Koufax had 11-4 records and Purkey 10-4.

Added to the infield were first baseman Dick Stuart of Pittsburgh; second baseman Don Zimmerman of Chicago; shortstop Eddie Kasko of Cincinnati and third baseman Ken Boyer of St. Louis.

The four additional outfielders will be Musial, Hank Aaron of Milwaukee, George Altman of Chicago and Frank Robinson of Cincinnati.

John Roseboro of Los Angeles will be the second catcher.

The starters, named by the players and announced previously, will be first baseman Bill White, St. Louis; second baseman Frank Bolling, Milwaukee; shortstop Maury Wills, Los Angeles;

Murtaugh named managers Gene Mauch of Philadelphia and

Alvin Dark of San Francisco as his coaches; Wilmer Mizell of Pittsburgh and Bill Loos of San Francisco as batting practice pitchers; Hal Smith of Pittsburgh as batting practice catcher and Danny Whelan of Pittsburgh as

Murtaugh will be allowed to name three additional players for the second All-Star game and may make any substitutions he desires among the pitchers.

Cincinnati, leading the league, was ignored in the selections of starters by the players but the four Redlegs named by Murtaugh gave Cincinnati the same representation on the squad as Milwaukee, Pittsburgh and San Francisco. Los Angeles and St. Louis will have three each while Chicago will have two and Philadelphia one.

Spahn, with six appearances, and Face and McCormick are the only pitchers to have played in previous All-Star games.

McKinley Shines at Wimbledon

'Bad Boy of Tennis' in Finals

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Meeting England's Christine Truman, Chuck McKinley, the bad boy of American tennis, was on top of the world today.

The fiery 29-year-old star from St. Louis, released from suspension only six weeks ago, slammed his way into the Wimbledon men's final Wednesday and was hailed as the most colorful personality in this year's tournament. He delighted the crowds with his energy, retrieving and speed.

McKinley, the first native American finalist since 1955, meets Rod Laver of Australia for the cup Friday. Today, the women take the stage with Sandra Reynolds of South Africa playing Britain's Angela Mortimer and Renee Schuurman of South Africa.

McKinley's tearaway, hit-at-everything tactics are the talk of Wimbledon. His energy hasn't flagged since he started railing around the ivy-surrounded courts 10 days ago.

Aveson Gets No-Hitter

Softball Pitchers Sharp

Four well pitched games were played in the American Softball League of the Pontiac Recreation Circuit last night.
The best effort was turned in by Harry Aveson who pitched a 51 victory over Metro Club. Roger Reynolds allowed only four hits in a 5-0 shutout for Hi-Way Collision over Fisher Local.

Chuck Graves got three of Fisher's four hits in a losing cause, 6-0. Don Moss (9-2) Jim Bunning (8-4) and Phil Regan (7-4) have accounted for 36 of Detroit's 51 victories, and Regan has two as a reliever. Of the other 15 victories, the bullpen has collected 12.

Bunning won his third in a row as Detroit won the opener of a day-night doubleheader at Boston 6-2 Wednesday, but the Tigers then lost the nightcap 8-3 as Manager Bob Schaefer turned to something starter Bob Bruce when confronted with his second twinnish in two days.
The split, coupled with the Yankees 6-0 victory over third-place Cleveland behind the four-hit and Jake Mazur turned in a 4-hitter as Elks 5-0 defeated O'Neil, 6-0. Don Moss scored a 51 decision over Smith Silo with Harold Keith giving up only three hits.

Wes Roberts, with three hits, paced Arroy's win while Metro Club's only run in the 4th on two errors and a fielder's choice.

Holly Brothers Get 2nd Victory in Rifle Event

Younger Brother Places 7th in 85-Mile Paddle; Contestants Wet

Special to The Pontiac Press
OMER—Albert and Lefroy Widings of Holly out-paddled 10 other two-man teams Tuesday to win their second Midwest International Canoe Race.

The brothers, who first won this race in 1958, covered the 85 miles down the Rifle River in 8 hours, 53 minutes and 20 seconds. This was 15 minutes over the race record.

They finished 11 minutes ahead of Larry Kinnell, National City, and Stanford McGee, Milwaukee. Patrick Widings, younger brother of the winners, teamed with Bob Lancaster of Flint to place seventh. They were clocked in 10:00.02.

The race started Tuesday morning in the Rifle River area, three miles east of Rose City. The show-off point was a half mile below where the Rifle flows out of Devoe Lake.

Noted for its rapids and treacherous shoals, the Rifle lived up to its reputation for the race. All participants who flashed under USCG finish line in Omer were drenched at least once.

Only one canoe failed to go the distance. One craft was pulled under the bridge carrying eight inches of water in the bottom.

The next big canoe race in Michigan will be the Au Sable River marathon next month.

SECOND PLACE
FLINT, Mich., Manitoba (N)—A hard-paddling pair from Oscoda finished second behind a harder-driving twosome from Minneapolis yesterday in the three-day, 81-mile Gold Rush Canoe Derby.

Ralph Sawyer and Edward W. John of Oscoda captured $500 for their runner-up finish. They had won the first lap Friday and placed second in Saturday's second lap and yesterday's living.

The winners, Lving-Peterson and Gil-Tinkler, were second in the first lap, then won the final two heats. They collected a trophy and $1,000.

Cruise in Company—It's Sociable

There are those boatmen who like to stow the family aboard and take off for a week end or a full vacation of solitude. There are also those who like to take the family and cruise in company with others.

Organized group cruises are gaining in popularity. Many outboard runabout clubs and outboard cruiser clubs plan several group cruises each season, including from 10 to 30 boats.

With the organization of more active cruising clubs around the country, these organized cruises are certain to continue to flourish.

Some of these group cruises, such as Florida's annual Kissimmee River Cruise, have received national wide publicity. A cruising club in Milwaukee popularized the "Smorg-Around," a sort of pot-luck affair with a number of boats rafted together for social calls or a meal.

"Once you get your boat, you'll find you have no difficulty making friends on the water," writes Fessenden Blanchard in the popular Evinrude Boating Foundation booklet, "Outboard Cruising." This is true whether you join a boat club or are just naturally exposed to other boatmen. And once you've made friends, you'll probably find yourself taking part in some group cruise.

The most common form of group cruising is the informal excursion of two or more boats. These are made up of friends, members of the same boat club, or people who keep their craft at the same anchorage. They simply get together and decide to cruise to the same spot.

This type of cruise is very much akin to the group picnic. Everyone brings supplies for a day or a week end of cruising; they raft together or stop together for meals and, if overnight, anchor close together for the night.

Not only is it fun to cruise in company with others, it is also informative and protective. Any boatman can always learn some skills from another. They can swap experiences, and find new cruising waters by this exchange. The caravan nature of the group cruise is ideal in the event any member of the group should have any mechanical or technical difficulty.

Boatmen are a naturally friendly lot. They love the company of other boaters. For that reason the group cruise, be it formally organized or of the spur-of-the-moment variety, will continue to grow in popularity.

Take Boat-Boy Fishing for Enjoying Experience

"It is a wise father that knows his own child," said Shakespeare. The wisdom of this statement takes on added significance in the complexity of modern civilization.

Taking a boy fishing is a sure way of finding the time to answer his innumerable questions about everything. He'll be thrilled to go with Dad. He'll love to run the motor on the fishing boat.

He'll learn things about nature and conservation that will stay with him for a lifetime.

Whether it be lolly trolling for the big ones, or casting along the shore, or just dropping a line for the small ones, he'll love it. The small fry craves action, so often he'll be more satisfied with a catch of panfish than one or two game fish.

A lunch ashore or on the water will add a great deal to his enjoyment, because a boy's stomach never seems to stay filled for long.

If the fishing trip is extended to an overnight camp-out, it will double his enjoyment. It will also give him experience in more of the common sense practices that go with the love of the outdoors.

Experiences shared with his father on solitary excursions are likely to be some of those longest remembered by the growing boy. He'll want to make it a regular habit — perhaps for life.

Safe Boating Should Be Observed Always

By WM. TAYLOR McKEOWN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Is boating getting too easy? Last weekend we wondered as we watched a vivid reminder of why July 2-8 was declared National Safe Boating Week.

A happy boating party waved back at us as their cabin cruiser roared away from the dock. A party train towed passengers across the cockpit when they swung over for a close look at a superb fisherman anchored in sight-seeing as he stood reeling a big fish. Then one fast circle around the harbor to see the sailboat race and other craft lying at anchor.

Finally the cruiser headed gaily out across the bay.

Back on the dock several of us shuddered as we tried to count the typical reckless mistakes we had seen, though no accident had occurred and no one had fallen overboard. The cruiser, traveling much too fast in a crowded harbor, had managed to miss the fishing boat anchored illegally.

Its wake had not quite capsize the skiff or spilled the fisherman into the water as he foolishly stood up in his boat.

Circling the harbor, the boating party certainly must have made a new set of enemies as their wake rolled boats at anchor, turned glassed and broke dishes for which they could be held legally responsible, and spilled wine from the sails of racing sailboats.

If the cruiser had been overloaded, improperly equipped, and heading out needlessly into bad weather, we decided their list of dangerous mistakes and discourtesy would have been almost complete.

Probably because boating is basically a safe sport, no one got hurt.

Boats are now so easy to run and the carefree, careless spirit of the water is so contagious, however, that it is no wonder President Kennedy declared the "increase in recreational boating has greatly increased the use of our waterways and has intensified the need for close adherence to accepted safe boating."

Probably more millions of pleasure craft were on the water throughout the Fourth of July holiday than at any other time during the year.

Safety on the water, which includes observing the customs as well as the rules of good seamanship, is equally the responsibility of beginning boatmen and old-timers.

Boating has had a comparatively small accident record considering the number of pleasure craft afloat. But carelessness and recklessness can bring tragedy and restrictive legislation that could spoil the sport for good and bad boatmen alike.

Be Be Too Wins Over Bigger Craft

MILWAUKEE (N)—The Be Be Too, a 37-foot yawl owned and skippered by Jack Mendendorff of Milwaukee, breezed home with the big boats Saturday to win the overall trophy of the Milwaukee-Milwaukee Queen's Cup race.

The Muskogean Boat was next to last among the 29 starters crossing the starting line at 8 p.m. Friday and later ran into a nearby flat calm which also troubled some of the larger boats in the 79-mile race across Lake Michigan.

But Be Be Too recovered and sailed into Milwaukee's South Shore Yacht Club about 1:15 a.m. Saturday. Its elapsed time was 12:13.44, corrected by handicap to 10:44.09.

The corrected time gave Be Be Too the overall victory as well as the Division III trophy.

Ulcers in Childhood a Definite Possibility

By The Associated Press

Ulcers in childhood, the chance you might get mumps a second time, the amount of food needed in hot weather are subjects for focus on health.

ULCERS IN CHILDREN

Parents should be aware that ulcers are not only a possibility in their children—but may actually be on the increase.

In the past four years, there has been a noticeable increase in the incidence of ulcers in children between the ages of 4 and 12.

Dr. Jerome Weiss of New York City.

These children usually show a strong need for love, praise and appreciation. The limitation that usually is not satisfied by the child's usual reassurances the child receives through the day. These children are usually well-behaved, tense and anxious to please.

Emotional control is needed not only by the child with an ulcer, but by his parents, teachers and others who deal with him. Constant correcting and demanding creates stress and tension in the child that leads to ulcers.

If you get mumps on one side, can you get them on the other? Probably yes, answer a doctor-expect for the American Medical Association. But it isn't very likely. If a mumps virus strikes one side, there is some general body protection against new attacks; but not as much as there would be in a case of measles, for instance. But several virus agents or bacteria can cause the swelling of mumps, and diagnosis of a first or a second attack may be in error.

HOT WEATHER DIET

The idea that you need to eat less in hot weather may be wrong especially if you're working.

U.S. Army researchers found that eight healthy young men working outdoors under a hot sun, or in the shade needed more food and calories than men working in cooler climates.

The increased calories needed were probably due to the heat load which increased blood action, sweating and energy use due to a raised body temperature.

MIDDLE-AGED DIET

A diet high in protein and low in saturated fats controlled both weight and cholesterol in middle-aged men who tested it, a doctor says.

Cholesterol is a waxy, fatty substance, found in food and blood, which some experts believe causes narrowing or hardening of the arteries and subsequent heart attacks.

Dr. Norman Joffe of the New York Department of Health tested a diet low in beef, lamb and pork but accenting fish, seafood, veal and fowl, on men aged 36-52. Usual high protein diets use beef, lamb and pork, but these diets often show a rebound of cholesterol levels after an initial drop.

For 111 men who used the diet, 97 were successful in losing weight. Total calorie intake ranged from 1,350 to 2,000, and the average weight loss was 19 pounds.

Negro Envoys Having Trouble

Washington Real Estate Men Are Being Asked to Rent to Diplomats

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department called Washington real estate leaders to a meeting today in a move to curb Negro diplomats in the city's capital.

Undersecretary of State Chester Bowles arranged to address the closed session to stress the Kennedy administration's concern over practices it says are giving Uncle Sam a bad name abroad.

President Kennedy's protocol chief, Angier Biddle Doan, termed the discrimination question urgent because "American relations with new countries are vitally affected by the treatment which their diplomats receive in Washington, being the capital of the United States."

About 25 or 30 African diplomats' families were reported to have been in the city for some time, but they were not immediately admitted to the city.

The number of African diplomats seeking living space here is expected to soar to a hundred over the coming months as new countries — wooed by both the United States and the Soviet Union — open their missions in Washington.

Washington is a semi-Southern city and the only one in the country where Negroes form a majority of the population — 33.9 per cent. Some housing segregation has been removed in recent years but much remains without legal sanction. Property owners in the District of Columbia are under no legal compulsion to sell or rent to Negroes.

MacArthur Sees First Landing Site on Luzon Island

DAGUPAN, the Philippines (AP) — General of the Army Douglas MacArthur returned today to the scene of his first landing on Luzon Island in the World War II liberation of the Philippines.

Young and old, thousands of Filipinos in this coastal area that took the brunt of MacArthur's massive assault in 1945 turned out to cheer the hero on the fourth day of what he says is probably his last return to the Philippines.

Wearing the old crushed campaign hat that was a familiar sight here in the liberation days, MacArthur was barely visible as he struggled through the crowd that greeted his train from Manila to a waiting car for a motorcade through the streets of Dagupan.

A gentle rain was falling, but it made no difference to the cheering throng. Many waved U.S. flags.

DuPont Must Give Its Plan in 60 Days

CHICAGO (AP) — The U.S. District Court Wednesday gave E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Co. 60 days to submit its proposed plan for disposing of its $3 million General Motors Corp. shares.

This was another step in the 16-year-old antitrust litigation brought by the government against the glass chemical concern.

The U.S. Supreme Court has ordered the Du Pont Co. to rid itself of its GM interest, worth almost $3 billion.

Judge Walter J. LaBuy of U.S. District Court, who presided at the antitrust trial, directed that Du Pont submit its proposed judgment within 60 days and start divesting itself of its GM stock within 90 days. The company has 10 years to complete divestiture of its GM shares.

Henry Goodman Named by Bell to New Post

DETROIT (AP) — Henry W. Goodman has been named to the newly created post of vice president for planning by Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

Goodman has been vice president for revenue since 1959. He was succeeded in that post by Donald E. McGraw, who was promoted from an assistant to vice president.

Husband, Wife Meet; By Accident or Plan?

SALEM, Va. (AP) — Was it design or destiny that brought Elizabeth Webb Howard to the quiet railroad crossing in this small Virginia town?

The No. 5 Norfolk and Western freight train smashed into the woman's car Wednesday, tearing it apart and hurling Mrs. Howard from the wreckage.

At the controls of the train was her husband, E. O. Howard.

Today Mrs. Howard, 39, lay unconscious in a Roanoke hospital, near death with head, chest and undetermined injuries. The impact of the crash hurled her 90 feet from her shattered car.

Her husband, a train fireman who had temporarily taken over the controls of No. 5 from the regular engineer moments before the crash, was said to be under the care of a private physician and could not be reached.

A question — Raising the question that something more than chance might have been involved in the crash was Salem Chief of Police George T. Eades.

Eades said Wednesday night the circumstances of the crash were not clear but there was some evidence it "was not an accident." A note was found in Mrs. Howard's purse, he said, but would not reveal its contents. He declined to say more.

No relatives visited Mrs. Howard at the hospital Wednesday night. She lay deep in a coma.

Iowa Farmer Garst Pooh-Poohs Soviet Comments

MOSCOW (AP) — Iowa farmer Roosevelt Garst, an old acquaintance of Nikita Khrushchev, is being described in the Soviet press as a man who doesn't pay his hired hands very much.

And some of his political ideas were called "somewhat naive."

This portrait of Garst was written for the official newspaper Rural Life by A. Romanov, one of the Soviet journalists who recently toured the United States at the invitation of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

After a visit to the Garst farm, Romanov wrote: "On his 3,500 acres of land he employs 20 men, who know well how to handle farm machinery and are real masters in their trade."

VALUES MONEY

"He does not pay them much: $1.10 an hour on weekdays and $1.70 on Sundays. In this respect he acts like a man who knows well the value of money, and takes good care to have every dollar bring him a clear profit of two."

"Besides, a high price is not set in the United States on the labor of those who produce wealth for others."

Romanov approvingly noted that Garst called the arms race a "world craze" but Romanov added: "Some of his views, as, for example, the idea of dividing the world into literate and illiterate, rang somewhat naive."

Describing the inside of Garst's house, Romanov wrote: "The walls inside the cottage, as I remember them, were light green, the carpet green too. In fact the green seemed to absorb the signs of a mature carried in from the cattle enclosures."

The area round Garst's farm was depicted in a gloomy fashion, Romanov said he was able to view it when Garst took the Soviets to see land that was lying idle because the U.S. government was paying to have it idle.

"On our way," wrote Romanov,

"We passed empty little farm homes with broken window panes and doors swinging at the wind. The homes had been abandoned by their owners. We wondered where were those farmers now whom the land no longer feeds? Some may have turned into homeless tramps, others, if lucky, gone to town."

GARST REPLIES

In Coon Rapids, Garst called Romanov a "three-hour expert."

He recalled that Romanov visited the farm with a group of other people last May 14.

"He stayed about three hours," said Garst, "then went home and wrote an article about our farming operations. That would be like me going to the Soviet Union, staying three hours, and writing all about Russia—full of inaccuracies."

He said the Soviet newspaperman stopped at the farm on a Sunday during corn-planting time.

"We had been rained out for a week before and decided to work that day," Garst said. "Most of the employees he saw were day laborers which we use occasionally throughout the year. Most of our employees are permanent, year-round men living in nearby farm homes."

INACCURATE FIGURES

Garst said Romanov was particularly inaccurate about the amount of land he actually owns. "He not only grouped my land, but also land owned by my sons and some of the farm hands I manage for others," said Garst. He did not reveal, however, how much land he does claim title to.

Garst also took exception to Romanov's calling some of his political ideas naive, and to the Soviet's gloomy description of the farm area around the Garst homestead.

Garst said he told Romanov that the countries with high literacy rates, including the United States and Soviet Union, have been the leaders in progress, make his wife a little angry."

He added that technical progress in the United States has enabled the country to take more men off the farms and put them in industry, whereas the Soviet Union is using nearly half its total population on the farms.

Regarding Romanov's description of the interior of the Garst home, Garst said: "That doesn't bother me. But it probably will make my wife a little angry."

Say Hemingway Got Psychiatric Care

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minneapolis Tribune has reported that Ernest Hemingway, famed author who died Sunday at his Idaho home of a self-inflicted gunshot wound, recently underwent psychiatric treatment at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn.

While a patient in the clinic's psychiatric department, the Tribune said, the Nobel and Pulitzer Prize winning author received electric shock therapy and other similar treatments.

Mayo Clinic spokesmen, who refused to confirm or deny the reports, said only that Hemingway had been treated for hypertension.

London Society Okays Nicholas for Alexandra

LONDON (AP) — Society folk today viewed Nicholas Eden, handsome son of Sir Anthony Eden, as the strongest contender for the hand of Britain's most eligible bachelor girl, Princess Alexandra.

Young Eden's chances took a rise in Mayfair's eyes with the announcement Wednesday that his father, the former prime minister, had been made an earl.

That automatically raised Nicholas, Eden's only surviving son, to the peerage as a viscount and the heir to his father's earldom. Societies figured that the royal family, having seen Princess Margaret and Alexandra's brother, the Duke of Kent, marry commoners, would be pleased to see the queen's tall, attractive first cousin choose a husband from the peerage.

Nicholas, 30 and looking a lot like his handsome father, has long been a part-time escort of the 24-year-old princess. Recently they have been seeing much more of each other.

Expert in Judo Breaks Hand, Instead of Block

ST. SIMONS ISLAND, Ga. (AP) — Marine judo expert Sgt. Carl Freudenberg of Parris Island, S.C., broke his hand instead of a concrete block during an exhibition before a sunshine festival audience.

At the exhibition Tuesday, Freudenberg was supposed to have shattered the block with a slap of the edge of the hand.

The marine, undamaged, had the hand treated, then returned to the next show and shattered the two-inch building block—with his other hand.

Fire on Mourners as Moslems Wail

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI) — Algerian rebel gunmen opened fire on mourners at funeral services in Constantine today for Moslem rioters killed in street battles Wednesday.

DEMONSTRATE IN ALGIERS—Demonstrators led by young Moslems, and among them yelled Moslem women, walk through the Mediterranean country Wednesday with at least 80 Moslems dead in a clash with French forces. Three hundred were wounded and more violence is feared today.

Hoffa Builds Up Control, Boosts Salary to $75,000

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (U-P)—A dues increase and broad new powers today helped James R. Hoffa consolidate control over the Teamsters Union.

Hoffa dealt his minority opposition a series of smashing setbacks. This apparently removed the only obstacle blocking his way to a new five-year term as union president.

Hoffa scored his biggest triumph on winning convention approval of a yearly $12 million dues increase at a grueling all-day and night session of a special Teamsters convention.

Hoffa gavelled through the convention an easy boost in his own salary from $50,000 to $75,000 a year.

It made him the highest paid union official in the land. But he said he deserved it because he presided over the biggest U.S. labor organization.

$1 MONTHLY HIKE

The dues increase over delegate protests would boost Hoffa's headquarters revenue to about $20 million a year. It would raise member dues requirements by $1 per member per month.

Lias, others argued that the dues hike and other Hoffa proposals would limit local union autonomy and right to serve in union office and as convention delegates.

The convention showed through new provisions to limit rank and file members to hold union office and to attend future conventions.

These new rules, adopted by the convention, require that candidates for national union office serve at least two years in local office and that local officials must attend at least 50 per cent of local union meetings.

Hoffa, obviously in full charge of the 2,000 delegates as he called for decisions on a series of proposals that would build his union power.

Among other changes overwhelmingly approved by the delegates was an extension of jurisdiction to cover all workers in all industries regardless of work claims made by other unions.

The shots were fired from a house near Constantine's Moslem cemetery. French soldiers immediately surrounded the house and seized four members of the rebel National Liberation Front (FLN).

City authorities then decreed that the last of the victims of Wednesday's violence could not be buried until after curfew at 9 p.m.

Earlier, French soldiers and police used tear gas to head off trouble before it got started at a funeral in a village 70 miles from Algiers for other Moslems killed in Wednesday's rioting.

WAIL THEIR GRIEF

The funeral throng of 300 Moslem men, women and children was milling about at nearby Koka and a demonstration seemed imminent with many carrying green and white Algerian rebel flags and wailing their dismay.

But the police and soldiers fired their tear gas grenades as a precautionary move. The flames drifted through the crowd which dispersed.

Later, police used tear gas again to keep Europeans and Moslems apart at Constantine, where 20,000 Moslems moved out peacefully for the funeral of two persons killed in Wednesday's demonstrations.

Elsewhere, most of Algeria was calm today in the wake of the bloody street battling that resulted in 80 Moslems killed and 300 wounded. In addition, 13 French soldiers were killed and 50 wounded when rebel commandos attacked army posts guarding the East Algerian port of Djidjelli.

There was no trouble at services in Castiglione, about 25 miles southwest of here. The rites took place under heavy French guard.

Other funerals for dead rioters were scheduled during the afternoon at Miliana, Fouke and Bernard.

Although one French official said the rebels did not achieve their aims, it appeared that the general strike they called was almost 100 per cent effective. The French charged that Moslems were "perpetrated" into obeying the strike call.

The Algerian Nationalist Movement (MNA) called on France to include them in the peace talks with the FLN Algerian rebel organization scheduled to be resumed soon at Evian-les-Bains, France.

The MNA said in a communique issued in Paris that the "tragic events of July 5" emphasize the bloody repression that has just been perpetrated once again by the colonialist forces against a defenseless population."

Mild Weather Will Continue Through Friday

Today's partly cloudy skies and mild weather will continue with little temperature change tonight and Friday, the weatherman says.

A low of 60 degrees is expected tonight. Tomorrow the mercury will climb to a pleasant 80.

Temperatures will average 5 to 10 degrees below normal during the next four days. The normal high is 80 to 85 and the normal low is 58 to 64.

A cooler trend is forecast for Sunday and Monday.

Fifty-seven degrees at 4:45 a.m. was the lowest temperature preceding 8 o'clock today. The reading was 80 at 1 p.m.

U.S. to Repair Prestige Road That Broke Up in Cambodia

By NORMAN G. CORNISH
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy has ordered foreign aid officials to get busy and repair a $30-million road in Cambodia built two years ago to demonstrate American friendship and technology.

It already is falling apart. United Press International learned today that Kennedy told the International Cooperation Administration (ICA) to give "top priority" to repairing the Cambodian-American Friendship Highway.

The 130-mile road was built under the U.S. foreign aid program two years ago.

But, much to the embarrassment of Cambodia and the United States and the ICA, it is falling to pieces under heavy rains.

Prince Sihanouk of Cambodia recently started out on the road from Phnom Penh to the sea, but the road—which has as many cracks as a sun-baked mud flat in some sections—was so bad he had to turn back and go by helicopter.

Britain Charges Iraq Build-Up

To Mine Kuwait Frontier

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Kuwait declared today that the U.N. Security Council must give it an effective guarantee of independence before it can feel safe enough to ask British troops to withdraw from the oil-rich desert shield.

KUWAIT (AP)—Britain's commander in Kuwait has ordered the desert frontier mined, charging Iraqi forces across the border appear to be building up an increased pace.

Brig. Derek Horsford, defending his decision to mine the frontier, declared: "I have been ordered to come in and organize the defense of this country. If I am caught with my pants down then I would deserve the sack."

British military sources said the Iraqis, despite their continued insistence that they would get control of the oil-rich shield only by peaceful means, appear poised for offensive action.

(The Iraq news agency reported that Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem, after a plane survey of areas near the Kuwait border Wednesday, denied the British reports of Iraqi troop concentrations and said the British knew that "to date Iraq has not moved a single soldier.")

(Kassem said in his statement that Iraq will combat British imperialism by all legitimate ways until the liberation of our Arab countries in the Gulf and until Kuwait, the stolen part, is saved and restored to its homeland.)

DEMAND WITHDRAWAL

(In the U.N. Security Council the United Arab Republic and the Soviet Union joined Iraq in demanding the immediate withdrawal of the British forces that went to Kuwait after an appeal from the country's ruler, Sheikh Abdullah As-Salim As-Sabah. And there were hints the council might ask the Arab league to settle the crisis generated by Iraq's claim to Kuwait.)

(U.A.R. delegate Omar Loutfi, in insisting the Arab League be left to deal with the crisis, said "any country, especially any idea of annexation of Kuwait by Iraq. But we cannot oppose any program of unity among Arab brothers. In the spirit of self-determination we support Kuwait's claim to independence.")

Arab League Secretary-General Abdel Khalek Hassouna, trying to mediate talks with the Arab governments, was in Saudi Arabia today after conferring with Sheikh Abdullah and Premier Kassem.

Hassouna said before leaving Wednesday he was convinced a peaceful solution could be found.

But they aren't saying so publicly. The talks are only in the second week and the strategy of company negotiators is to listen to a presentation of union demands at this time and state management's position later on.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther said at the start of negotiations with General Motors, Ford and Chrysler last week that the union will insist on retaining annual improvement factor wage increases and quarterly cost-of-living wage adjustments in the new contracts.

Some observers have speculated the big three would like to drop built-in wage increases in the new contracts.

They point to the fact that General Motors, Ford and Chrysler skipped their customary annual raises June 1 for 138,000 salaried employees not covered by union contracts.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — 1960 Hemus, a candidate for Solly Meyer, the year when the St. Louis Cardinals finished a surprising third, was fired today. Cards coach Johnny Keane was appointed Hemus' replacement "for the remainder of the 1961 season."

face. Gable, a staunch supporter of the switch to Detroit water, says the present low water table is becoming "rather alarming."

Flow Expected in 1963 Along With Rate Rise

The long search for a new source of water for Pontiac apparently ended last night when Mayor Philip E. Rowston signed a 35-year contract with the Detroit Water Board.

The move means Detroit water should be replacing well water in Pontiac in about 18 months, probably early in 1963.

Pontiac is slated to be the 53rd outside community to use Detroit water and the largest next to Dearborn.

The switch would result in today's relatively low water rates doubling or even tripling, beginning in 1963, according to present estimates. The average household bill is $18 a year now.

But because Pontiac well water is considered "hard" and Detroit water "soft," Willman said home owners could be discarded, resulting in over-all savings in water costs for many households.

It is expected that the contract now will get ready approval by Detroit's Common Council and the okay of Detroit's Water Board.

City Commissioners approved the switch 6-1 after Willman recommended it as "the most important step in my 10 years here." Commissioner Milton E. Heary opposed it.

Willman said the move means Pontiac can stop worrying about its steadily dropping water table — about exhausting the remaining good water in the 24 municipal wells.

The seemingly inexhaustible supply of Detroit water, drawn now from Lake St. Clair but later to be taken from Lake Huron, stands as a reassurance to Pontiac industry and home owners, he said.

The contract calls for Detroit to supply Pontiac with "pure" water "to the best of its ability" and "in sufficient quantities to meet all reasonable demands" at rates that are "reasonable."

The rates are based on a formula that takes into account the base rate in Detroit plus mileage and elevation to Pontiac.

Initially, this is to be set at $13.4 a thousand cubic feet or half the estimated annual pumpage into the city.

UAW Taking On AMC in Contract Negotiations

DETROIT (U-P)—The United Auto Workers Union takes on American Motors Corp.—the little giant of the auto industry—in labor contract negotiations today.

AMC is small in comparison with the big three—General Motors, Ford and Chrysler—but in the past three years it has had spectacular success with its compact Rambler and made the big companies sit up and take notice.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther may find AMC a tougher bargainer than the big three. AMC President George Romney has been outspoken in his criticism of big labor unions and also of big corporations. He doesn't like pattern settlements.

But the UAW will insist that American Motors settle on the same terms this year as the big three.

When present three-year contracts were signed in 1958, the union allowed AMC some concessions. A natural improvement factor wages were frozen for two years at AMC's Kelvinator division in Grand Rapids. The company also was allowed to skip cost of living increases for two years at Grand Rapids.

AMC sought unsuccessfully in 1960 to win a 10 per cent increase at its automotive plants in Wisconsin.

Flashes

WASHINGTON (U-P)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy today filed two suits in Mississippi charging discrimination against eligible Negro voters in that state's Clarke and Forrest counties.

The seemingly inexhaustible supply of Detroit water, drawn now from Lake St. Clair but later to be taken from Lake Huron, stands as a reassurance to Pontiac industry and home owners, he said.

The contract calls for Detroit to supply Pontiac with "pure" water "to the best of its ability" and "in sufficient quantities to meet all reasonable demands" at rates that are "reasonable."

The rates are based on a formula that takes into account the base rate in Detroit plus mileage and elevation to Pontiac.

Initially, this is to be set at $13.4 a thousand cubic feet or half the estimated annual pumpage into the city.

Remis is forthright about not making promises that the Detroit water supply will never be affected by a long drought.

"After two or three weeks of very dry, very hot weather the water pressure might drop for a while," he conceded.

But this hasn't happened yet, not since new lines went in after World War II, he added.

"We can't economically build a water system that would meet every conceivable demand," said Remis. "Just as you can't afford to build a highway that will last (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Highland Youth Shot by Mistake

Neighbor on Guard for Prowlers Hits Teen With Shotgun Blast

A Highland Township man shot a 16-year-old son when he mistook the youth for a prowler last night.

The teenager, Gary Hancock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hancock, 641 Eagle Road, was being treated for shotgun wounds of the chest and abdomen at Pontiac General Hospital today. He is reported in fair condition.

It was shot by Edward L. Giegler, 41, of 100 Eagle Road, according to sheriff's detectives.

Giegler, in a statement to Asst. Oakland County Prosecutor Anthony J. Renne, said he was on the lookout for a prowler last night after numerous reports of prowlers and window peepers in the area in the last month.

Giegler said that when he heard several dogs barking he went into his home and got a 16-gauge shotgun. He saw a figure come on his lawn, but the person fled when he turned on a flashlight, Giegler said.

He fired a blast from the shotgun when the person ignored three warnings to halt, Giegler said in his statement.

The Hancock youth said he, too, had heard dogs barking and had come to investigate. He continued to flee after being ordered to stop because he was "scared," Renne quoted him as saying.

Renne said no charges were presently being contemplated against Giegler in the shooting.

Hail and Winds, Heavy Rains Pound Plains

By The Associated Press
Showers continued today across a broad band from the Central Plains to the north central Atlantic Coast.

Hail, heavy rain and gusty winds hammered sections of north central and northwest Missouri, Kansas and South Central Iowa Wednesday night. More than three inches of rain drenched Grinnell, Iowa, where wind-damaged roofs were reported in many sections along the Missouri storm belt.

Both Kansas City, Mo., and Kansas City, Kan., were hit hard by the severe weather. Telephone and electric service was disrupted, streets and basements were flooded and traffic was curtailed.

The funnel clouds which did not touch down were sighted a few miles south of Topeka, Kan.

NEW YORK (U-P) — Nina Simone, prominent jazz singer, pianist and prominent artist, is in a Philadelphia hospital with polio, press representative Bob Perilla reported today.

Perilla said the diagnosis was made last Saturday, but that doctors described her case as non-contagious and for the moment benign, with a quick recovery expected.

President Kennedy called top aides to the White House on an apparent attempt to settle a civil defense controversy. It appeared to be a renewed attempt to resolve a behind-the-scenes feud over which Pentagon agency will control the expanded fallout shelter program.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk went before Congress to make a last-ditch plea for President Kennedy's beleaguered $4.8-billion foreign aid request.

The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati upheld the eight-month prison sentence imposed upon William Presser, president of the Ohio Teachers Union, on a charge of refusing to make certain records available to the Senate Rackets Committee.

The White House said it will announce later today a decision on whether the 100-mile New Haven Railroad is eligible for an emergency government loan.

Waterford Twp. Recreation Unit Okays Budget

The Waterford Township Recreation Board last night approved its annual budget of $17,000. This is $600 more than last year's budget.

The Waterford Township Board and the school board, the two units supporting the recreation department, previously had approved the 1961-62 budget.

In other business, the board approved a request of new recreation director Robert Layman to organize the department athletic club.

The new group will be affiliated with the Michigan and United States Amateur Athletic Association, allowing township athletes to participate in Olympic events.

Two new members joined the recreation board last night. They are Robert Field, representing the school board, and John Abel, a member at large.

A summer basketball program for boys from the 9th through the 12th grades will start within two weeks.

Claims U.S. Planes Buzz Soviet Ships

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union charged today that American planes buzzed Russian ships 300 times in the last 42 months in acts of "high seas piracy."

The official Soviet trade union newspaper, Trud, said several of these incidents took place near Cuba and charged that "nearly all Soviet ships off Cuban shores are subjected to such provocations."

Trud said the "pirate sorties" were made from bases located outside the United States, including those in Spain, Italy, Greece and Turkey.

Korean Aid Listed

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The U.S. Embassy announced today that South Korea received $268 million economic aid from the United States during the fiscal year that ended June 30.

"Our business was on the rise and new stores were opening. We didn't want to wait until a business decline started," Mason said. "We saw other towns were having trouble with parking of cars and ease of accommodation."

The merchants discussed the problem, scraped together $16,000 and hired a planning expert to speed their work with Herberg developing a CBD master plan.

The plan is now complete and in the hands of the committee. Before it could be put into use, the plan needs approval of the Birmingham Planning Commission and the City Commission.

Over the years the city has been a shopper's market, but not a bargain hunter's market.

QUALITY SHOPPING
There is no "dash in, dash out" buying. Shoppers actually "shop" in Birmingham. That is, they go from store to store, comparing merchandise and checking quality, price and style.

Within this CBD shopping area are also located the City Hall, the utility offices, banks, offices of professional people and other service type business; thus offering a range of "merchandise" for the all-day shopper.

Herberg said Birmingham must remain noncompetitive and maintain its quality line of comparative shopping stores "or the city will die on the vine like others have."

He said shopping centers appeal to the "masses." Birmingham appeals to the medium to high income bracket.

Average family income in Birmingham is $11,000 a year. In the 14-square-mile Birmingham trading area, it is more than $12,000 a year, he added.

Birmingham Folk All Set for Future

By FREDERICK W. MILLER
Royal Oak Daily Tribune

BIRMINGHAM (U-P) — At least one Michigan city, Birmingham, with its 250,000 people, is not afraid of the increasing number of regional and neighborhood shopping centers.

Birmingham lies in the shadow of "the world's largest shopping center," Northland, but has no fear of the business being lured away to its rival.

In fact, Birmingham merchants feel that Northland has been a contributing factor in the 10-year steady rise in business in downtown Birmingham.

Some outside cities have been faced with shopping centers luring business away from downtown areas. Cities beefed up their downtowns with malls, new store fronts and more parking. Some plans worked; others failed.

Two years ago, city planner Herbert Herberg organized the Birmingham CBD plan, which is now in the Birmingham Planning Commission and the City Commission.

"We decided something must be done to preserve the CBD," said Wilbur R. Mason Jr., manager of a women's wear store in Birmingham, and chairman of the CBD merchants committee.

COOLING OFF TIME — Waterford Township

Fire Marshall Louis Koff has almost as much fun spraying children on the township's 12 playgrounds as the children do. This group was caught "in the rain" of the 200-gallon township tanker at the Drayton Plains Elementary School early yesterday. Each playground gets one such artificial rain shower every year.

For Detroit, there is the expense of extending a 54-inch pipeline to the southern city limits. Gerald W. Remus, manager of the Detroit Water Department, said it would take 18 to 22 months to do this, probably during the same period the city is installing the main.

First, the Detroit Water Board will have to issue revenue bonds in the amount of $8 to $9 million to finance the extension, Remus said.

Detroit will sell treated water to Pontiac at a rate of $1.51 a thousand cubic feet. Pontiac officials will figure in costs of operation and water main construction in selling it to the public.

Water rates throughout the Detroit system are based on the base rate to the Detroit customer, Remus said. The cost to Pontiac is figured through a formula taking into account distance and elevation, he said.

All Detroit's water contracts provide for renegotiation of rates on the basis of increasing operational costs or inflation. If the Detroit Water Board ever approves a rate hike, Remus said, it will affect the entire water system, not just one or two communities.

Fluoridation is apparently a dead issue as far as Detroit water is concerned, said Remus. The city charter makes it impossible to charge for this service, he pointed out.

But it's possible for communities served by Detroit to fluoridate on their own if they want to, he added.

Remus' opinion about water softeners have already been reported in Pontiac.

He said that Detroit water, with about 95 parts hardness out of a million, is ideal and much softer than Pontiac's.

There are few if any softeners in Detroit and these are used, he said, in such special ventures as commercial laundries and breweries.

The authority boys water from Detroit at a present rate of 78 cents a thousand-cubic feet, treats it, and then sells it to nine Royal Oak area communities at $1.50 a thousand-cubic feet. The communities set their own rates in selling it to the public.

The line that will bring Detroit water to Pontiac already extends northward on Dequindre Road as far as 14-Mile Road. A contract is signed to extend it to 15-Mile and funds are on hand for another extension to 17-Mile. The bond issue would take the line all the way to Opdyke and South Boulevard.

Commissioners especially noted two clauses in the contract. One allows the city to turn in its own wells "in event of emergency." The other lets the city sell some of its Detroit water to nearby communities with approval of the Detroit Water Board.

HOPE, Utah (AP) — Officers searching the vast southeastern section of Utah for a killer-bat-napper and a teen-age girl hoped today that the rugged country would be on their side.

Object of the search was Debbie Sullivan, 18, of Rockville, Conn., and the man who kidnapped her after killing her mother, Jeanette Sullivan, 41, and seriously wounding their traveling companion, Charles Boothroyd, 35, also of Rockville.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation entered the mountain on Wednesday, and Grand County Sheriff John Stocks said officers fear the girl may not be alive. "He's not going to leave that girl alive to testify against him," the sheriff said. He estimated her chances for life at one in 100.

Few Stopped to Realize Meaning of Celebration

There were red "bombs" bursting in the air.

There was noise, plenty of it, for a long while.

There were cheers from the kids, sighs from the women — and there was more noise. What for?

The Fourth of July. What's that?

Did anyone think for a moment what all the hoopla was for that rocked your neighborhood? Few did.

But it was the Fourth of July. Time for noise. Time for getting together with a sparkler here and an aerial bomb there.

What for? Did the kids really know what all the noise signified? How many bothered during the hectic day in the sun to tell them? Few did. With the colorful bombs bursting around Pontiac, we asked across the picnic table what all the commotion was for.

"It's the celebration of 185 years of independence," came the confident reply.

"Independence from whom?" "From the British."

The noise continued. The bombs burst. The kids cheered.

The reference book said: "July Fourth: The birthday of American independence and the greatest holiday of all those observed in the United States. On this day in the year 1776, the Declaration of Independence, as prepared by a committee of five, of which Thomas Jefferson was chairman, and amended by the Congress, was adopted."

Did the cheering children know this? Was this appreciated? Or was this another holiday to cheer, for mom and dad to take time off from home and the plant or office?

It was the Fourth of July. The bombs burst. How many bothered long enough to realize what for? Few did.

Painful Point

The power lawnmower has been hailed as a boon to the suburban homeowner facing acres of growing grass. But each year more individuals learn painfully that power can cut more than grass.

Although all manufacturers and retailers warn about pushing the mowers with your foot when they become stuck, enough people lose toes each year when they forget this valuable advice.

It's a good idea to shut the machine off when it stops against something, before freeing it. Using a rotary mower, wear long pants and shoes, objects are thrown backwards sometimes, and can inflict painful injuries. Youngsters certainly should not be allowed to run power lawnmowers, regardless of how safe they are reported to be.

Hope July 4th Tradition Rings True With Tigers

The die is cast. Our Detroit Tigers led the American League by one full game at the end of the double header on July Fourth.

Three cheers for Bob Sheffield and all his ball players. They're young, eager and a fine bunch of fighting kids. All area residents are proud at the way they have taken hold and stayed in contention.

Even SCHNEPPING, who up until now has been careful in interviews, has gone on record as saying "they've still got to catch us. We may not win, but we'll be in contention all the way."

If the old Fourth of July tradition means anything, and past history certainly shows that it does, it makes the Tigers' position quite unique at this stage of the season.

Records show that 41 times in the last 60 years the team leading the league on the Fourth goes on to cop the pennant. Even closer to home is the fact eight out of the last ten years the team leading on the Fourth winds up a pennant winner.

Well, Tigers, it's up to you to prove the statistics. We're for you all the way and promise to do our share of cheering.

A cosmic columnist had a bad day yesterday. In turning out his think piece, he didn't use, even once, the word "image."

With them will be their children and grandchildren, and never did a healthier bunch assemble. Each year this is an outstanding and increasing demonstration that tuberculosis can be cured when the proper methods and care are used.

The officers tell me that a good program has been arranged, and that there will never be a dull minute. Every former patient is invited and urged to come, whether a member of the association or not.

David Lawrence Says:

Mobilization Would Be a Mistake

WASHINGTON — Lately there have been rumors and stories floating around here that the United States is planning some kind of military mobilization.

One report circulated in stock market circles has been that President Kennedy was being urged to declare a "limited emergency," and that perhaps he would do it.

Nothing could worsen this situation more than tactics of obvious bluff. Any idea that a partial mobilization would at this time "show the Russians we mean business" is fallacious.

For, with an open society like that in the United States and an unsheltered press, every detail of such a mobilization would be published, and the Soviets would soon be able to measure how remote the possibility was that any such steps would mean anything in a military way.

For the world has changed a good deal since the mobilization which preceded World War I in 1914.

It started a chain reaction that made war inevitable. It gave no latitude for negotiation of a peaceful settlement.

SAME PRIOR TO 1914 The same thing was true prior to 1939. Secret diplomacy produced an agreement between the Soviets and Hitler that actually brought on World War II. For Hitler was sure he could win with the help of Stalin's armies.

Today the Russians would like nothing better than an excuse to mobilize their own millions of soldiers.

It would be welcomed in the Kremlin as an opportunity to divert the attention of the people from their food shortages and other internal troubles.

If it becomes necessary to have a showdown with Russia, it would be better to do it by the slow but effective methods of economic boycott and trade restriction without the spectacular measures that military mobilization involve.

Furthermore, the Soviets would be much more deeply impressed by any such program of sacrifice than by a theatrical demonstration on the military side.

But even conceding that some military move is necessary, what should it be and how could it be carried out? Is a mobilization of land armies in Europe of any real value in an era of missiles and long-range bomber planes?

Also, these days it doesn't mean much to place just an extra division or two in Europe or to go through some land or naval maneuvers. Demonstrations of many of the new weapons of war have been going on for some time now at Cape Canaveral and California bases.

As a matter of fact, the theory that a show of military might will prove anything to the Kremlin is based on the notion that the military superiority of the West is accepted in Moscow.

Khrushchev, of course, knows better than anyone else in the world that a nuclear war would not merely destroy much of his empire but would mean the end of Communist imperialism in these times, just as it meant the end of militarism in Japan and Germany 18 years ago.

It could produce internal revolution in Russia and in the satellite states.

It is a tragic commentary on the vacillation of America's diplomacy in recent times that firmness has to be simulated at all. There has been altogether too much talking

Dr. William Brady Says:

Arm Needs Treatment by One Trusted Doctor

A reader has a sore arm. One doctor calls it "tennis elbow." Another calls it neuritis.

Still another calls it bursitis. Still another, arthritis. What! Nobody calls it rheumatism?

That isn't all. A fifth doctor declines to give any diagnosis, but wants to begin a series of injections right away.

Now the poor fellow is confused and doesn't know what to do. He is not asking for a prescription, I understand, but just for an article by Dr. Brady, which will set him on the right track. He is under two doctors' care now, he is dozing as with Nos. 5 and 6.

Any of the doctors who has heard the man's complaint — how long he has had the trouble, whether it came on insidiously or abruptly following an injury or strain or overuse of the arm and just where the soreness is felt — could make a better diagnosis than I could. 2,000 miles away. And so could any doctor who has examined the arm and shoulder.

I'd advise the man in the circumstances to have no truck with the doctor who declines to commit himself.

It is difficult to understand why the man is under the care of two doctors. I hope the two doctors are cooperating.

One doctor may desire the opinion of another about some question of diagnosis or treatment, but even so, the patient should have just one doctor and stick to him or her. I know, from experience with illness in my own family, what a comfort it is to have a doctor in whom you have complete confidence — a confidence in his honesty and confidence in his ability.

CONFUSION IN WEST One reason for this is the confusion in the Western camp. Each country not only feels it must have its formula of negotiation accepted, but there are times when one particular weakness and holds back the other Allies.

What would impress the Kremlin more than anything else would be a demonstration of unity by the West.

This means joint communications in unequivocal terms signed by all the partners, putting an end to the system of separate dealings with Moscow by Britain, France and the United States.

Nikita Khrushchev is counting, for example, on the divergence of view among the Western Allies as to the measures to be taken with respect to Berlin.

He has seen no evidence that the Allies have united on any policy or have decided what they would do. Berlin's status is changed by force.

I saw the parade the boys' club put on and it was a great day in their lives. The boys' club teaches cooperation, sportsmanship and fair play.

The judge of Kego Harbor saw fit to take away balls, bats, gloves, etc. from an organization that is trying to right juvenile delinquency by placing a $25 fine on each for violation of the sound ordinance.

The people who are responsible for this outrage should dig in their pockets and donate $25 to the boys' club with an apology to the boys.

'Press Gives Public Valuable Services'

I hope readers realize how The Press works for them. Recently there were two big public service ads in the same issue, one urging people to get polio shots and the other reminding drivers to be careful because school was out for the summer.

Not only were both very large ads, but the one on safety was in color and on the front page. Not many newspapers would devote that much valuable space on page one for public service, and do like these are in addition to many Press editorials on safety and public welfare. I'm sure all readers appreciate such efforts.

'Small Air Force Float Disappointing'

The Pontiac Centennial celebration, climaxed by a parade was indeed an historic occasion for the area. The tremendous effort and significant contributions, freely donated by many, earned the rightful appreciation of Oakland County natives and visitors alike.

The President of the United States graciously added his recognition with a congratulatory message.

Those who hoped to see the blue and silver of Air Force units in the parade were awarded a single Bomarc missile, rolling on a truck drawn flat bed. This relative absence of Air Force participation was disappointing to many.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Help Banish Child's Need for Lies

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE J-44: Donnie L., aged 10. "Dr. Crane," his teacher began, "Donnie tells fibs to such an extreme degree, we can hardly believe anything he says."

"Fortunately," he sometimes enlarges on facts so greatly that we then grow suspicious.

"We have scolded him and punished him, but nothing seems to make him stick to the truth. What else should we do?"

When a child tells fibs, that may mean he is afraid the truth will lead to punishment.

"Did you break the gold fish bowl?" angrily accuses Mamma, when she returns from the neighbor's to find her 4-year-old absorbed with his coloring crayons.

Well, to that toddler, his mother is a real giant. She towers over him, his height and weight him greatly so he is afraid if he tells the truth, he will be whipped.

"No, Mother," he fibs, as a defensive measure. And that same tendency to lie when cornered, explains much of a school child's fibbing.

But other youngsters learn to become liars because they imitate their parents.

ing, even of the little "white lie" variety, thus confuses a child.

Other youngsters with a social inferiority complex, will then resort to fibs in order to gain social prestige.

Maybe they have never traveled afar or attended any fancy parties, so when other youngsters begin boasting of their airplane rides or visit to Disneyland, etc., it is a physical strategy just make up tall tales.

Soon they learn that the bigger the yarn, the more bug-eyed they make the other kids.

And their starved ego relished this envy and shocked admiration of the other children.

When caught in a lie, they may try to fabricate another as an alibi or else bluff their way through by raising their voices to a shout.

Many children, as well as their Dads, think that if they insist loudly enough, they can intimidate their listeners into believing their tall tales.

When adults can't make good on their bragging, they may even try to flee the area (rolling stones or vagabond strategy).

If physical flight is impossible, they may then try to run away mentally, as via drunkenness or dope on insanity or even the suicide route.

Another common escape device of people who can't face facts, is misdirection and the spreading of psychological lies.

When children can't make good on their lies, they may also try to divert attention by mischievous theft, and juvenile delinquency.

Smart teachers and parents thus regard the chronic telling of lies as a symptom of a personality maladjustment.

Stabilize the child in his ego-hunger and you can banish his need for lies. Clear up the adult alcoholic's uninvolved inner conflict, too, and he may lose his whiskey thirst.

Heat on Kennedy to Build Up This Year

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON — The first half of 1961 was a kind of aspirin for a headache that won't go away. We are now fresh out of aspirin.

Up till June 30 President Kennedy's administration had — comparatively — a delightful time with both Congress and the Russians. In Congress, where he "looks enough support to sail his programs through as he asks, he used two simple but adroit methods to get what he wanted:

MODERATE PROGRESS

1. For the most part he offered very moderate programs which, by their nature, avoided violent opposition: differences with members of Congress on various points but not on total programs.

2. He used pressure, persuasion and concessions by himself and members of his White House staff to win over such opposition as he had. This has been a very smooth operation. Kennedy's own 15 years in Congress made him expert on this.

The result was a big batch of legislation which — if it had been all that was involved — would have given him a very successful first year in office. But it wasn't all.

Congress cleaned up most of the programs before June 30. But the three biggest and most controversial were left over until after the Fourth of July holiday.

THREE BIG BILLS

These were federal aid to education, the foreign aid program and medical care for the aged.

The medical care bill looks just about dead for 1961, isn't likely to get action until 1962.

The big stumble in his foreign aid program is his request to Congress to give him authority to promise this aid on a five-year basis. He wants recipient nations to be able to plan long-range in-

Sammy Davis and Mai Britt Have Daughter

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Swedish actress Mai Britt and Negro entertainer Sammy Davis Jr. are the parents of a 7-pound, 7-ounce daughter.

A spokesman said Davis was "deliriously happy" at becoming father for the first time.

The baby, named Tracy Hilary, was born Wednesday. Mother and daughter are doing fine, said Britt's doctor said.

Davis and the blonde actress were married last Nov. 24. Both Davis, 34, and Miss Britt, 24, had been divorced once previously.

clear what the outcome will be. year the best will build up, since something will have to be done.

So the second half of 1961 ought to wind up being a pistol.

In the foreign field Kennedy stumbled badly on Cuba by approving a mid-October invasion by Cuban rebels which withered on the beaches. And he got a nasty setback in Laos where, despite his early stern talk, the Communists have calmly gobbled up more of it.

But for most of Kennedy's early months in office Khrushchev was rather gracious, as if allowing the new President to move into his new house before pulling the roof down on his ears.

So Khrushchev waited till early June to tell Kennedy he wanted a Berlin settlement within six months.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The widows of eight men killed in the collapse of a giant Air Force radar tower off the New Jersey coast have filed suit against the federal government for $2.8 million in damages.

The suits were filed Wednesday in the Federal Admiralty Court for the Southern District of New York. They named the U. S. government and four private contractors.

Each woman is asking $350,000. They all are widows of construction and technical personnel killed when the platform, known as Tower No. 4, collapsed and sank in a storm the night of Jan. 16.

Twenty-eight Air Force and civilian personnel were killed when the tower went down.

But it wasn't. From the very moment he took office Kennedy knew before the year was out he was going to have trouble with Russia over West Berlin. Premier Khrushchev had warned of it last year.

But for most of Kennedy's early months in office Khrushchev was rather gracious, as if allowing the new President to move into his new house before pulling the roof down on his ears.

United Church of Christ Reviews Plan of Operation

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

A proposed resolution asks an examination of the "moral principles involved in financial support of churches and church-related institutions which practice discrimination."

Gizenga Troops Apply Pressure

Spread Around Home Towns of Legislators — as Bid for Backing?

By DENNIS NEED
LEOPOLDBVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Antoine Gizenga's leftist Stanleyville government is quietly deploying troops around the home towns of Parliament members from the Northeast Congo, possibly to pressure the legislators to vote as Gizenga wants them to if Parliament ever convenes, U.N. military intelligence officers reported today.

"This is no game they're playing," said a top Western U.N. officer. "These troops are being deployed according to a well thought-out plan and it's 99 per cent sure that Gizenga has Parliament in mind."

"It doesn't happen in my country, but this sort of thing is recognized Communist strategy."

The United Nations is powerless to interfere with Gizenga's troop movements in Oriental and Kivu provinces, which are nominally loyal to his Communist-backed government.

OFFICIALS SILENT

Officially, the United Nations is maintaining a strict silence over the motives behind the reported Stanleyville troop movements.

Privately, however, U.N. intelligence officers are convinced the show of force is designed to pressure wavering legislators from Kivu and Oriental provinces into taking the Gizenga line.

For legislators to swing over to supporting President Joseph Kasavubu's Western-aligned Leopoldville government would invite reprisals from Stanleyville troops who will be on the spot when they return to their homes. Also their families would be constantly menaced.

K Reveals Pact With N. Korea

Pledges Red Military Help if Asian Nation Is Attacked

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev today announced a new mutual assistance pact with North Korea pledging Soviet military help if the Asian Communist state is attacked.

The Soviet news agency Tass said Khrushchev announced the agreement at a Soviet-North Korean friendship meeting here attended by Marshal Kim Il-sung, who has been premier of North Korea since before the Korean War. Both premiers signed the treaty.

CALLS COUP THREAT

Tass said Khrushchev told the meeting the coup by South Korea's armed forces in May has raised the threat of "the establishment there of an open fascist military dictatorship." He warned that this could "further aggravate the situation on the Korean Peninsula."

"We are not in favor of signing military agreements," he said, "but we have been obliged to sign this treaty of a defensive nature which the governments of the United States, Japan and other powers have turned down all our proposals toward the relaxation of tension and the insuring of security in the Far East."

"This treaty has no aggressive aims. We sincerely believe that its military articles may never have to be invoked in practice."

Group Picks Best Motto for Month of July

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Let's Have Better Motives Association today announced the winning motto for the month of July: "No problem is too small to battle this organization."

There was a four-way tie for second spot among the following:

"I'm not looking for trouble, but I'm willing to start some."

"Better people than you have laughed at me."

"Meet me at the beach and I'll give you a drowning lesson."

and "You're looking good today. What happened?"

The association also reported in its news letter that its parade boy, Joe, was upset by a story making the rounds that he had been seen at a track window laying bets on people.

Comforts Unknown to Native Inmates

Japan Pampers GI Prisoners

YOKOSUKA, Japan (UPI) — Thirty-one American soldiers, sailors, airmen and Marines who came to Japan to serve their country are staying here in a Japanese prison.

A mixed group of robbers, rapists and convicted murderers, they share a shadowy double status as members of the American armed forces and convicts in the Japanese prison system.

They got into the prison, a goal-walled fortress that served 50 years ago as a Japanese navy brig, because of an American agreement which permits Japan to prosecute U.S. servicemen for crimes against Japanese nationals.

Because of their special status, the convicts here have their own private prison, and enjoy comforts unknown in the rest of the Japanese penal system. Their special luxuries include coffee, radios, steam heat and sometimes ice cream. The cost of supporting them is three times as high as for Japanese inmates.

Warden Noriyuki Hanakawa said his prisoners are the most privileged in Japan. Some of their benefits, such as holiday food and twice-monthly American movies, are partly shared by some 60 Japanese "trustees," whom Hanakawa claims look on their jobs in the American prison as the best their country's jail system offers.

The Yokosuka Prison rates high marks even by American standards, especially since the few convicts in this five-acre fortress have elbow room undreamed of in U.S. jails.

Their one-man cells would be occupied by two or even four men in an American prison. Their exercise yard has room for a baseball field, basketball court, and a flower garden and goldfish pond.

Air Force Lt. Col. Joe S. Webb of Van Alstyne, Tex., who visits the prison regularly to represent the armed forces, says Yokosuka ranks with some of the better military stockades he has seen in 19 years as a military policeman.

Despite their comparative comforts, the inmates suffer more than most convicts from the loneliness that hangs over every jail.

The 6,000 miles that separates them from home cuts them off from friends and families as much as does the big gray wall. Hanakawa said he is always ready to admit visitors, even outside normal working hours. But except for a rare buddy or shipmate, nobody ever visits the chilly little interview room with its heavy wire-grill partition.

As far as Hanakawa's staff can recall, nobody has ever come from the United States to visit a son, husband or brother at Yokosuka Prison in the six years it has held American convicts.

Despite the loneliness and the language barrier which separates them from their guards—only a half-dozen guards can speak English—the American prisoners have built up a reputation as just about the best disciplined and most cooperative in Japan.

Hanakawa is proud that Yokosuka won an award last year for its excellent discipline record. In his two years as warden, only three men have been punished for serious infractions of the rules. Each case involved fist fights on the athletic field.

The punishment consisted of solitary confinement, and the withdrawal of all reading matter except the Bible.

Six of the prisoners were jailed for homicide. Most of the rest are robbers. Almost all of them were sentenced for crimes of violence.

Their reasonable conduct in prison has given Hanakawa hopes that their violence is a thing of the past.

Timberlake to Speak
EAST LANSING (AP) — Clare H. Timberlake of Jackson, U.S. ambassador to the Congo, will visit the Michigan State University campus next Tuesday for a public lecture and a meeting with officials of the MSU African Language and Area Center. The University has announced.

Killed in Illinois Crash

EFFINGHAM, Ill. (AP) — Harold Baker, 38, of St. Clair Shores, Mich., was killed Wednesday in a three-car pileup on U.S. 40 about 7 miles west of here. Seven persons were injured, including Baker's wife, Ann, 35, and his father, William Baker, 64.

Animals May Hold Key to Heart Vessel Disease

GENEVA (UPI) — An American scientist has advised the World Health Organization (WHO) that giraffes, turkeys and other animals may hold clues to the nature of cardiovascular disease which accounts for about half the human deaths in the United States.

David K. Detweiler of the University of Pennsylvania told the U.N. health agency that in long-necked animals a high blood pressure was a necessity in order to get their blood up to their heads.

Detweiler, chief of the Comparative Cardiovascular Disease Unit at the University of Pennsylvania, reported that as a result, these animals may suffer a whole range of heart and artery disorders which also occur in man.

"A study of species and strains of animals with high blood pressure should give further insight into the effect of elevated blood pressure per se on vascular disease," he said.

HALF OF DEATHS
He noted that in the United States "between 5 and 19 per cent of the population have detectable cardiovascular disease, which causes approximately 50 per cent of all deaths."

A WHO source said that turkeys maintained an average blood pressure of 215/154 (millimeters of mercury), which in some cases is almost twice the blood pressure of an average man.

The source said the walls of the turkey's arteries and heart were constructed in a way similar to a man's.

He said that a study of the effect of the high blood pressure on the arteries and the heart of turkeys would "clarify" a number of unsolved problems in human high blood pressure.

ANIMALS USEFUL

Animals are considered to be very useful in blood pressure experiments because they can be

Adapt Television to Be Employed on Battlefield

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Officers who man the command posts, if war ever comes again, may spend a good deal of their time watching television.

Officials at Stromberg-Carlson report they have developed a new communications system which instantly displays combat area situations on the face of a television-type tube at rear line command posts.

The system, called Battle Area and Integrated Communication, or BASIC for short, passed its first field tests successfully earlier this year at Marine Corps maneuvers on the West Coast.

Forward observers carry a small BASIC generator which transmits front line information over standard field communications equipment.

Within three seconds, the information appears on the television tube covered by a transparent map overlay of the battle area and is automatically punched on type-written cards which show the target identity, location, numbers and other necessary information.

Marine Corps officials said 15 message generators and one display console will be used in further tests of the equipment planned at Quantico, Va.

First-Time Visitors to Europe Advised to Go by Tour

NEW YORK (UPI)—First-time out on an escorted tour knowing just how much your plane or ship fare, ground transportation, hotels, meals and admissions are going to cost—the stated price of the tour.

The tour expert also pointed out some other fringe benefits for those who take budget-priced escorted tours, such as traveling with others of like circumstances.

And there are "special interest" tours which put the traveler in the company of people with similar backgrounds, hobbies and interests.

There are garden tours, which take flower and plant lovers to the famed gardens of Europe; tours which cover the major musical festivals; tours which take the devout to the most famous religious shrines; and tours for students, architects and archaeological addicts, among other special interest groups.

Tour operators, such as Temchine's organization, might offer 25 to 30 different tours during a season to fill various demands and interests.

Obviously, a middle-aged person setting out to pick a tour shouldn't consider one tailored for students, but what are some of the other guides Temchine recommends for a person considering an escorted tour? Here are some basic ones:

— Try to select the packaged tour from a reputable agent in your city who has been in the market for a number of years. He will have complete and up-to-date information.

— Avoid "assembly-line" types of arrangements in which you can find yourself "just one of the flock."

— Listen to the recommendation of friends and relatives who have traveled in making your selection.

WEIGH BUDGET

— Weigh your budget as to what type of tour you can afford. There are $2,000-and-up tours of Europe, but there also are others in the $750 bracket, including transportation.

— Consider your available time. Do you want to see just a few selected countries, or do you want to hit all the highlights of Europe in the available time?

Generally, escorted tours to Europe are more expensive than independent travel.

When time and finances are no object, on the other hand, an independent tour could be the answer to a traveler's objectives, he said.

As to budget, an economy class tour can fulfill travel dreams as readily as a deluxe "grand tour."

"The man who travels in an economy-type tour sees as much of the monuments and scenic highlights as a man who travels on a high priced tour," Temchine said. The difference between economy and deluxe classes usually is reflected in means of transport, hotel accommodations and meals.

Just as for the person who has a time limitation, Temchine feels an escorted tour can be more economical than independent travel to the budget minded.

Among other things, you start faraway places can take from an escorted one, might be the answer for the person with only two weeks up.

An independent tour, rather than weeks or so.

Weigh these considerations in relation as to whether an escorted tour or independent travel is the best way for you to go.

Israel Reassures World on Rocket

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI) — Israel sought to assure the world today that its rocket program was not a weapon pointed at the throats of its Arab neighbors. Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion took pains Wednesday night to stress that the rocket launched Wednesday—Israel's first successful one—was for purely scientific purposes and has "no military aim."

Nevertheless, the news was expected to evoke sharp reactions from the United Arab Republic and other Arab countries which already are upset at Israel's reactor in the Negev Desert.

(In Amman, Jordanian Prime Minister Bajjat Talhoum said his government was extremely concerned about the Israeli rocket.

He said a formal statement would be made later.) Israel's successful firing of the rocket was cited by experts in Washington today as an example of technical ability that could lead even small nations to develop nuclear weapons.

HAVE KNOWLEDGE

Experts said that the firing of the Israeli weather rocket, apparently to an altitude of 50 or 60 miles, demonstrated that the Israelis have the kind of technical knowledge needed to build both missiles and nuclear warheads.

At present there are four nations in the "nuclear club"—those possessing the atomic bomb. They are the United States, Russia, Britain and France.

However, experts have predicted that Red China also may have the atomic bomb within another year or two, and they say a slow but steady increase in the number of nuclear powers can be expected unless an agreement is reached to ban testing.

Ben-Gurion was asked whether the three-stage, solid fuel rocket would have strategic implications in Middle East affairs.

"This is definitely not a military matter," he replied.

He said the rocket, named Shavit II, was sent 45 miles into the air to "explore the various layers in the atmosphere in connection with the International Geophysical Year."

There are at least 45 different kinds of steel in the manufacture of a medium-priced automobile on the American market today.

Add Wisconsin to Drought Area

Stockmen and Farmers Suffer; Grasshoppers Also a Worry

By The Associated Press
Northern Wisconsin today was added to the drought-ridden Great Plains area as Minnesota sought addition of 9 more counties to the 21 already declared federal disaster tracts.

In the western Dakotas, stockmen joined crop growers in deep concern over dwindling water supplies and were moving cattle to greener pastures or preparing for their early marketing.

Grasshoppers were added to the drought plague in eastern Montana, where federal-state crop-reporting services predicted many fields wouldn't even be harvested.

Sen. Alexander Wiley, R-Wis., called for early action by federal authorities to aid farmers in that state's drought area. Unless there is rain soon, Wiley said Wednesday night that farmers all over Wisconsin would be suffering.

NEW APPEALS
Minnesota's Gov. Elmer L. Andersen said the worsening drought was bringing new appeals to his office daily from farmers whose pastures are browned over by the searing sun and whose feed grain crops are wilted.

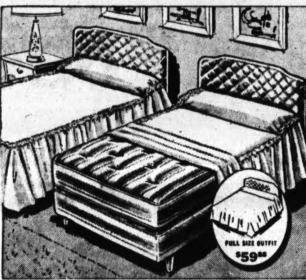

Granting of the new disaster appeals would place 33 of Minnesota's 87 counties into the emergency category.

In North Dakota, water was drying up in wells, creeks and the western and southern boundaries. There has been no growth of pastures or wild hay in the western two-thirds for weeks.

With temperatures in the high 80s again, much small grain was reported beyond salvage. But the corn and soybeans in the eastern zones were accorded a chance, assuming some moisture does come. All of North Dakota was declared a disaster area last week.

How to Have a Bug-Free Barbecue

Bugs and barbecues don't necessarily have to go together. With suburban living approaching zenith and with even city dwellers moving outdoors to terraces and balconies, this summer's outdoor dining premises to be bigger than ever. And with a little thought and a little pre-barbecue preparation, the big nuisance can be completely eliminated. The makers of one insect repellent offer these practical, easy to follow suggestions:

1. PLAN AHEAD: Keep the menu simple—and try to cook only the main meat course outdoors. Do the other food preparation, indoors—ahead of time, if cocktails can be indoors—then the sugary residue in cocktail glasses is safe from insects. Even a small distance between the barbecue pit and the barbecue table will keep the bugs concentrated near the pit and not on the table.
2. DECORATE WITH INSECTS IN MIND: Around the periphery of the eating area, use bug lanterns or bug candles. Not only do these deter the insects, but they cast a very pleasant, soft glow over the entire area, thus enhancing the atmosphere.
3. COOKING, EATING AND DRINKING: If you can, cook, eat and drink in three different places... even if the distance separating them is small. Before dinner cocktails can be indoors—then

4. SPRAY BEFORE YOU SERVE: Fifteen minutes before you cook, or plan to set the table—whichever comes first—spray the entire area with a product designed for this use. Just before you serve, re-spray directly under the table with an insect repellent being careful that the spray will not contact eating utensils.
5. KEEP ALL 'FOODS COVERED: In cooking, use stove to table utensils with their own covers. For salads, breads and items not ordinarily served covered, either put them on the table wrapped in plastic or foil, or combine serving with decorating and make attractive cheesecloth or muslin covers for each item, with contrasting embroidered or appliqued letters to identify the food.
6. BUFFETS AND BARBECUES: If your barbecue will be buffet style, think about making up individual portions of food, then wrapping each in transparent plastic and placing them on large platters—one platter for each type of food. This way, guests can help themselves to individually wrapped servings of carrot or celery sticks, breads or biscuits, cakes, etc. Foods such as potato salad, macaroni salad, cole slaw, or gelatin desserts could first be put in disposable plastic coated, custard-type cups, and then wrapping one serving. This again, keeps that food exposure time down.
7. HOW ABOUT A FAN? If your dining area is close to an electric outlet, try setting up a fan designed to blow bugs away from the barbecue table... Bugs are fewer on a windy evening. You can create your own, made-to-order breeze, and accomplish the same purpose.

8. DON'T WATER YOUR LAWN: Mosquitoes like moisture so don't water your lawn or shrubs on the day of your cookout.

Spread crackers with a blend of honey and creamed cheese, to which nuts or grated orange peels have been added.

SAUCY DOGS—Chopped hot dogs mixed with a spicy combination of tomato soup, onions, cheese and flavorings are spooned into buns, then baked in foil. This is a delightfully new idea for picnic fare.

Hot Dogs Disguised in Various Recipes

Dogs that are different! Frankfurters with a flair! That's the sandwich idea for the week. America's standby, the hot dog, broiled over charcoal, and spread with mustard or ketchup, and sprinkled with pickle relish, will never lose its appeal. But you're in for some real flavor treats when you try these sandwich ideas.

Denver Dogs
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed tomato soup
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup hot dog relish
1 teaspoon chili powder
1/2 teaspoon apple cider or salad vinegar
4 frankfurters
4 frankfurter buns, open, toasted
In skillet, combine first five ingredients. Bring to a boil, then simmer one inch from ends, cut four lengthwise slashes in each frankfurter. Add meat to soup mixture; simmer 20 minutes. Serve two frankfurters with sauce on each bun. Makes four servings.

Saucy Dogs in Foil
1 pound frankfurters, freshly chopped
1/2 cup tomato soup
1/2 cup mustard
1/2 cup Worcestershire sauce
1/2 cup grated American cheese
1/2 cup condensed tomato soup, undrained
1/2 cup sweet relish
4 frankfurter buns
Heat oven to 400 degrees (moderately hot). Combine all ingredients except buns. Spoon 1-1/2 cup of the mixture between bun halves. Wrap each bun securely in aluminum foil. Heat 12-15 minutes. Makes 12 sandwiches.

Hot Dogs in Foil
Heat oven to 400 degrees (moderately hot). Combine all ingredients except buns. Spoon 1-1/2 cup of the mixture between bun halves. Wrap each bun securely in aluminum foil. Heat 12-15 minutes. Makes 12 sandwiches.

Cookies a Must for Summertime

Bake up a batch of Lemon Chip Hermits and surprise the family with an old-fashioned cookie made in a new-fashioned way with lemon chips. Serve them with a fresh fruit compote and a big, tall glass of milk.

Lemon Chip Hermits
2 cups sifted cake flour
1/2 teaspoon double-acting baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/2 cup butter, softened
1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup lemon or other shortening
2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup broken nuts
1 cup 1/4 ounces lemon chips
Combine sifted flour, baking powder, salt, spices, and granulated sugar, and sift together three times. Mix brown sugar and milk. Cream shortening, add sifted dry ingredients, brown sugar mixture, and eggs and stir until all flour is dampened; then beat vigorously 3 minutes. Add raisins, nuts, and lemon chips and mix well.

Drop from tablespoon on greased baking sheet and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 12 to 15 minutes, or until done. Makes about 4 dozen hermits.

NOTE: To keep hermits moist, store where there is circulation of air, not in airtight container.

LEMON CHIP HERMITS—Anything with lemon in it seems cool in hot weather. These cookies are long time favorites—Hermits—dressed up with the addition of Lemon Chips. They go well with tall glasses of cold milk or fruit punch.
