Rochester Girl, 4, Dies of Burn Injuries

Paint Explosion Hospitalizes Two Playmates

Children Were at Play Behind Allen Factory When Fire Raged

Flames from an overturned drum of paint thinner claimed the life of a four-year-old Rochester girl last night, hours after she and two playmates were burned while playing behind an industrial plant.

The victim, Mary E. Boughner of 1305 N. Oak St., died in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital at 9 p.m. A brother James, 9, is reported in fair condition with second and third degree burns of the arms and chest.

The third child, Leroy Roggow, 12, is being treated for similar injuries and is also reported in fair condition.

Rochester police have not as yet determined the cause of the blaze. They reported the children were playing behind the Allen Cooler and Ventilator Inc., building at 520 Woodward Street when the fire broke out.

Questioned after the incident, the boys said the fire started following an explosion when they accidentally tipped over a drum containing paint thinner while playing. Police believe the children may have been playing with matches.

John Master, of Farmington, working nearby with a grader, told police he saw the Boughner girl run to the front of the building aflame. He ran to her and put out the flames by rolling her in sand, he said. The three playmates then were rushed to the hospital.

The plant had been closed down for two weeks for vacation, a plant spokesman explained.

Tito, Nasser Arrange for Nehru Confab

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Yugoslavia's President Tito and Egypt's President Nasser have agreed on a list of subjects to discuss with Prime Minister Nehru of India at their conference next week.

Tito and Nasser are meeting here in advance of the three-power talks beginning July 19 at Brioni, Tito's island resort off the Adriatic Coast.

Tito and Nasser yesterday drafted a list of questions to present to Nehri. The Middle East situation is believed near the top.

A communique issued by the two governments said the Tito-Nasser talks were "very cordial, friendly and open."

Nehru presently is visiting West Germany. Nasser arrived in Belgrade Friday for an eight-day visit to repay Tito's visit to Egypt last December.

How to Be Happy---Though Old

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Pull up an easy chair, dad—you too, mom—and listen to what a learned lady has to say about the problem of growing old.

* * *

Dr. Maria Schnee Haynes has come up with a set of basic rules on how to be happy, though slightly decrepit.

Mrs. Haynes, an attractive Austrian-born matron in her early 40s, recently completed three years of study for her Ph.D. degree at UCLA and starts soon as a professor.

Her research also sheds interesting light on how oldsters have been treated through the ages.

OLDSTERS RULED THE HOME

Senior citizens of ancient Rome were revered—or else. A Roman father had absolute authority. If junior kept the family chariot out all night, he could be murdered or sold to Carthage.

* * *

The Greeks, Mrs. Jaynes found, were more like us. Sons were allowed more say once they reached majority. Dad was respected, not worshipped.

The Middle Ages took it out on the old folks. Physical failings were regarded as just punishment for youthful sins.

Youth never had it so good, perhaps, until the present.

HERE ARE SIX RULES

Which brings us to Dr. Haynes' suggestions.

1. When you are young, find out what qualities in old people are admired by the young. Remember them.

2. Never praise the good old days. Live in the present.

3. Learn early in life how to be well-balanced emotionally, how to control anger. Oldsters who aren't upset by unpleasant events, who can deal with crises wisely, are sought out by young people as sources of advice and strength.

4. Keep alive intellectually. This means not only reading and other cultural activities but maintaining a lively interest in all things going on around you.

5. Maintain strict adherence to principles of personal hygiene. Neat personal appearance and good table manners make oldsters attractive to the younger generation.

6. Lay a groundwork early in life. You can't be a pleasant old man or woman unless you cultivate these qualities long before you grow old. They don't come naturally with age.

Picnic Weekend Coming: Good Weather Forecast

Good weekend weather seemed in store today.

Thousands were flocking to county lakes and parks under clear skies this morning.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said that tonight and Sunday would also be fair, with Sunday afternoon temperatures in the 80's.

It was expected to turn partially cloudy today, however. The mercury will hover between 75 and 80 degrees.

There was an outside chance of showers this afternoon. But roads were crowded just the same, with cars headed north.

Bumper-to-bumper traffic filled up M15 early today. Oakland County Sheriff's deputies said all the main arteries were filled.

Local weather was expected to repeat in the eastern part of the state. Thundershowers are forecast in the western part late Sunday.

Scattered showers or thundershowers may hit Monday.

For those tired of showers, there is the reminder of last year's July drought.

Even a small part of the .79 inches of rain which fell during the first 10 days of this month would have looked good then.

HOT, DRY LAST YEAR

Exactly one year ago, on July 14, over 21 million gallons were pumped through the city's municipal system, a high for the year. People were hot and dry.

On July 15 last year, a heartily welcomed inch of rain fell breaking a two-week dry spell.

If the drought had lasted another week, farmers said, the crops would have failed.

* * *

Ike, Nixon Talk Far East Policy

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower talked Far Eastern policy today with Vice President Nixon, who flew up from Washington to report on his 11-day trip around the world.

While Nixon said this was the primary purpose of his visit at the Eisenhower farm, he was willing and ready to talk politics and campaign plans if the President wanted to. And, he said, he expected to discuss business still pending in Congress as the legislative session draws to a close.

Persons and Nixon landed at the Gettysburg Airport at 9:58 a.m. and were driven to the Eisenhower's country estate some four miles away.

Bareheaded and wearing a blue summer suit with a vest, Nixon was asked:

"Any politics or campaign plans?"

"Anything the President wants to discuss," Nixon replied.

But the announced purpose of the visit was to let Nixon report on the round-the-world trip he completed Wednesday with official calls in the Philippines, Viet Nam, Formosa, Thailand, Pakistan and Turkey.

Greyhound Asks for Fare Boost

Detroit, Mt. Clemens Routes Increase Before State Authority

The possibility that the Great Lakes Greyhound Co. will hike its rates on buses traveling between Pontiac and Detroit was raised yesterday by company officials.

* * *

The bus firm asked the Michigan Public Service Commission for authorization to increase cash fares by 5 cents and commuter book fares by 4½ cents.

The increase, if approved, would apply also to fares on suburban trips to and from Mt. Clemens. The requested boosts would go into effect Aug. 15 and would affect riders in 19 communities.

The fare between Pontiac and Detroit would rise from 60 to 65 cents, while the Detroit-Mt. Clemens charge would go up to 60 cents.

The increase would be the second commuter fare boost since July 1 when the price of books was upped from 10 rides for the cost of 8, to 10 for the cost of 9.

* * *

J. V. Murphy, Greyhound vice president of sales and traffic, said yesterday that the last cash fare increase on the two lines was in 1952, pointing out that "since then there has been a substantial increase in operating costs."

Marilyn and Husband at Airport

NEWS CONFERENCE—Newlyweds Marilyn Monroe and playwright Arthur E. Miller are surrounded by newsmen and photographers as they board a plane at New York's Idlewild Airport for Europe. She is scheduled to make a movie in England.

Marilyn Rocks Britain ---by Crossing Legs

LONDON (AP)—Marilyn Monroe crossed her shapely legs for the first time in Britain today—and started a mild panic.

It happened at a news conference in a large shed at London Airport 45 minutes after the American film star arrived to make a movie with Sir Laurence Olivier.

About 100 reporters, photographers and television men were on hand.

Miss Monroe sat.

That started it.

POLICE STOP PLUNGE

The news conference began.

"Are all your conferences like this?" asked a reporter.

"We can't hear a word," echoed a chorus of complaints from other correspondents unable to fight their way to the front.

"I'd better take charge," spoke up Olivier. "You ask the questions and I'll repeat her answers."

Another cameraman was thrown to the floor. He screamed as someone trampled on his hand and halted Sir Laurence for a moment.

PLEASANT TRIP

In reply to questions, Miss Monroe said she had a pleasant trip, England is a wonderful country, she expects to be here 14 weeks and will live in the country.

Miss Monroe said the length of her stay was indefinite, but it wouldn't be more than six months. Her husband expects to return in September.

She said "It'll be some time before we can think of having a family."

Woman Weds for First Time —at Age of 85

* * *

Both said they believed they would find "great happiness" in their marriage.

One, 3, Suffers Injuries To Head, Other, 8, Hit in Leg

A Hazel Park girl was hospitalized and her companion suffered minor injuries after they were struck by a motor scooter while lying on a blanket at Jackson Blvd. and Leroy St., White Lake Township yesterday afternoon.

* * *

Joanna Plaskowski, 3, was in fair condition at Pontiac General Hospital today with a head injury. Karen Szczerba, 8, of St. Clair Shores, was treated and released at the hospital for a leg injury.

Howard Keller, 18, operator of the motor scooter, told investigating Oakland County deputies his scooter went out of control when he struck some loose gravel. He said he could not avoid striking the girls so he drove between them after going through a hedge.

Investigating deputies reported the scooter operator was apparently driving at a high rate of speed with faulty brakes.

45 Dead, 21 Hurt in AF Transport Crash in Jersey

Petoskey Lists 3 Killed; Jet Explosion Snuffs Out Four in Kansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least 52 servicemen and civilians died in three separate plane crashes Friday.

Forty-five persons were killed and 21 injured when a huge Military Air Transport plane plunged into a pine-wooded swamp near Ft. Dix, N.J.

Two women and two children were among the dead.

Four men aboard a B47 jet bomber were killed last night when the plane crashed and exploded as it took off from the Smoky Hill Air Force Base at Salina, Kan.

At Petoskey, Mich., two men and a woman were killed when their private plane crashed in a field six miles sourtheast of town. The three were believed to be from Illinois.

At Ft. Dix, the giant C118A left adjacent McGuire Air Force Base about 3 p.m. (Pontiac time) with a 10-man crew, 50 military passengers and six civilians bound for foreign posts. It was headed for Burtonwood, England.

MARQUETTE MAN DEAD

One survivor, an airman, said the plane hit "an air pocket," a down current which frequently occurs in thunderstorms and causes planes to drop suddenly. The Air Force declined comment on his report.

The four-engine craft plunged into the swamp at the southwest corner of this infantry training center, cutting a 300-yard long swath through the pine trees. The spot is about three miles from the McGuire runway.

Wreckage was scattered for half a mile.

FBI Mum on Hunt for Kidnaped Baby

Police officials made plans to drain rainwater impounding basins in this Long Island community where the child was snatched 10 days ago.

* * *

They felt a drain basin might conceal the body of the 6-week-old baby, or perhaps yield some clue.

The FBI, following long tradition, gave no information on its activities. The FBI has been in the case officially three days.

Nassau County Chief of Detectives Stuyvesant Pinnell, who handled the early stages of the investigation, changed his policy to one of silence.

"We are engaged in police work," was all he would say to newsmen who asked him about developments.

Hungarians Seize Plane, Dash to Freedom

INGOLSTADT, Germany (AP) — Seven anti-Communists seized a Hungarian airliner and flew to West Germany last night after a wild midflight battle in which the pilot tried to quell the rebels by looping the big plane.

The daring break—planned far in advance — was perhaps the most spectacular dash for freedom in a long series of escapes from Iron Curtain lands.

Twelve passengers and crewmen were battered and bloody after the desperate fight high over Hungary for control of the two-engined plane.

Some were injured when the pilot tried to thwart the plotters by putting the ship into a series of bone-bruising loops. Others were wounded by blows from iron rods the anti-Reds used in their dramatic bid for freedom.

ONE MAN HAD GUN

The break was directed by a Hungarian World War II pilot. The veteran, identified by his comrades only as "the lieutenant" was the only plotter who had a gun.

Fifteen passengers, including a Communist secret police agent and four crewmen were involved in the wild scuffle.

After the rebels took over, the lieutenant brought the plane to a crash landing at a U.S. airfield near Ingolstadt.

Before German police managed to take command, several brief brawls broke out between the anti-Reds and those who wanted to go back to Hungary.

The seven plotters and another passenger asked West German authorities for political asylum. The four crewmen and seven other passengers said they wanted to go back.

Police said the plane, an American-built DC3 of the state-owned Melav Airlines, will be returned to Hungarian authorities after a check to see whether it is safe to fly.

The plane had been en route from Budapest to the provincial city of Szombathely, southwest of the capital.

Jakaby said the coup had been planned long in advance and the plotters had decided to seek haven in West Germany.

Yesterday their chance came. All seven, including a young woman, bought tickets for Szombathely and boarded the big plane at Budapest.

SECRET POLICE ABOARD

"Before we boarded the plane," Jakaby said, "we received a tip a Communist secret police officer was among the passengers. When we were near the town of Gyor,

Police are unable to state who was driving the car at the time of the tragedy, but they are holding the other occupant, Donald Washburn, 17, of Ferndale, in the St. Clair County Jail.

* * *

Investigators believe that the vehicle failed to make the curve, rolled over twice and threw Harland out. Washburn was not injured.

Two Detroit Men Hurt as Automobile Hits Tree

Only minor injuries were suffered by two Detroit men early today when their car went off the road and struck a tree in Commerce Township, the Oakland County Sheriff's Department reported.

Leonard C. McDougall, 33, of Dearborn, and Deane Buchholz, 24, of Detroit, were released after treatment at Pontiac General Hospital.

McDougald told county deputies he must have fallen asleep at the wheel causing his car to go out of control. The crash occurred at S. Commerce and Oakshade streets.

Argentina Tries Peron in Absentia, Says Report

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Authoritative sources say former President Juan D. Peron is being tried in absentia for alleged secret relations with a teenage girl.

The trial is reported going on behind the closed doors of a juvenile court with Judge Gonzalez Bonorino taking testimony from comely brunette Nelly Rivas, now 17.

After Peron was overthrown last September, government investigators charged that he had been dating Miss Rivas secretly at the presidential residence since she was 14.

Peron now is in Panama.

Starting Next Week

Weed - Filled Lot Owners to Receive Bills From City

Ninety-nine per cent of vacant lot owners in Pontiac are violating the city's weed-cutting ordinance, Dave R. Ewalt, Parks and Recreation Dept. director said yesterday.

Since the July 1 deadline for having all noxious weeds cut, a random city-wide survey showed close to 2,000 lots have not been cleared.

Next week, in accordance with the 1955 ordinance, 400 bills will be sent owners of delinquent lots. They will be charging 12 cents a front foot for weeds cut by the city.

"This indicates a lack of civic responsibility by these people to keep their property clear in order to keep Pontiac looking trim," Ewalt emphasized.

WHAT TO DO?

He stressed that violators received "plenty of warning" in the form of notices published each Saturday last month in the Pontiac Press.

Ewalt added he would ask for a study of the ordinance, possibly in September, to determine means to get citizens to obey the law. "We might need a good public relations program to make people aware of their responsibility," he said.

Three department mowers and four private mowing companies are working day and night to rid the lots of weeds.

* * *

Ewalt cited an example in an area between Pike, East Boulevard, Saginaw and S. East Boulevard where 300 violators were discovered.

If the resident fails to pay the bill for the cutting, charges will be collected through special assessments against the property, Ewalt stated.

Woman Driver Hurt in 3-Car Accident

He suffered chest injuries, cuts, and a dislocated elbow, a hospital spokesman said. Glenda K. Reas, a passenger in her father's car, was released after treatment for bruises.

The other vehicle was operated by John H. Raymond, 69, of 833 Fairview, Orion Township. The accident occurred at the Orion and Rochester Roads intersection.

Car Crash Injures 6 in Orion Township

Senators Debate Foreign Aid Bill

Bitter Fight Ahead as Committee Votes More Than House Allowed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bitter fight on the Senate floor began shaping up today on the heels of Senate Appropriations Committee approval of $4,105,420,000 in new money to finance foreign aid spending this year.

* * *

By a 13-8 vote, the committee yesterday recommended $680,300,000 more than the House allowed and only $9,655,000 less than the maximum fixed earlier in an authorization bill passed by both houses. Counting reappropriation of funds previously voted but unspent, the money bill's total was $4,346,220,000. The Eisenhower administration originally had asked about five billions.

* * *

But Sen. Thye (R-Minn), an administration supporter, told a reporter "we are going to have a hard and bitter fight on the Senate floor next week to prevent drastic cuts.

"And we'll face another fight on an amendment to shut off all aid to Yugoslavia immediately," he said.

"I think we can defeat this and retain most of the money in the bill, but the opposition is potent."

Chairman Hayden (D-Ariz) said he will call the bill up in the Senate next Wednesday.

Annett Discloses Sale of Mill Valley Farms

Purchase of the 270-acre Mill Valley Farms, near Romeo, by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence D. Knechtel was announced this week by Bruce J. Annett, head of the Pontiac realty firm of Roy Annett, Inc.

The property was previously owned by Eugene Chamberlain, executive vice president of the National Twist Drill & Tool Co. of Rochester, who has purchased a home on Lake St. Clair.

Knechtel, who has been associated with Annett for the past five years, recently sold his 140-acre estate on Cooley Lake road to John F. Ivory, of the John F. Ivory Storage Co., as the site of a future polo field.

The Mill Valley property contains a main house, three tenant houses, dairy buildings and a private lake. Farm operations will be directed by Knechtel, owner of a 400-acre farm for 10 years before joining the realty firm.

City Motorist Injured in Two-Car Collision

Suetkoff's car going south on Hollywood avenue collided with another driven by Owen P. Martin, 26, of 666 E. Mansfield Ave., headed west on Mansfield, Pontiac police said.

In Station, Not Office

A story in the Thursday edition of the Ponitac Press erroneously listed Harold L. Rice, 19, as one of four men sentenced to 3-to-15 year terms in Jackson prison Monday for the breakin of a Livingston County Post Office. Rice was sentenced for breaking into a service station, the Sheriff's department said later.

Flood, Tornadoes, Rains Cause Damage

Violent Storms Whiplash Ten States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Skies cleared in most of the Midwest and the far West today but more thunderstorms and showers were in prospect for most other sections of the nation in the wake of violent storms.

Tornadoes, severe wind and thunderstorms and a flash flood from a cloudburst caused extensive property damage yesterday and last night. At least 10 persons were injured.

A twister which struck in Walton, Ky., about 20 miles south of Cincinnati, injuring two persons, caused some $150,000 property damage. Another tornado swept about 60 miles south around the Lexington area, causing damage of about $300,000. A twister also hit Versailles, in southeastern Indiana, damaging homes in a one-block residential area.

* * *

Roads were cut and no one could get into the town at night, but state police said it seemed that no one was killed although at least 20 buildings were reported smashed.

The water that spilled down from the pine-covered mountains must have sent the creek 40 to 50 feet higher than normal, central Oregon residents reported.

It was the fifth night of violent storms over the forests and wastes of high central Oregon.

Tornadic winds also were reported yesterday in parts of Kansas and Colorado. Scattered showers and thundershowers continued in the North and Middle Atlantic coastal states through the lower Great Lakes region, the southeastern Ohio Valley through Missouri, Kansas, Colorado and eastern New Mexico.

* * *

Three Air Crashes Claim 52 Persons

broke off as the plane tore through the trees. Col. John Williams, commander of the 1611th Air Transport Group, said the gas tanks in the wings thus were separated from the fuselage, preventing any fire.

TAKE OFF IN STORM

Only a few minutes before the takeoff a thunderstorm had rumbled across the area with blinding rain, hail and lightning.

However, Air Force public information officers said the rainfall was not heavy at the time the plane was given clearance. They said one-mile visibility and a 2,000 foot ceiling — 500 feet in spots — prevailed.

Foot soldiers used axes, entrenching tools and other gear to hack their way through the pine swamp to the scene, wading in knee deep water. Trees were felled to build a log road over the muck.

Bulldozers cleared a path for doctors, nurses and ambulances. The rescue teams included 48 military ambulances and a half dozen manned by first aid squads from nearby communities.

* * *

The plane, known as a Douglas Liftmaster, was equipped with seats which face towards the rear. It was the first fatal accident the Military Air Transport Service has experienced in five years of operating that type craft.

PETOSKEY CRASH

In Petoskey, Mich., a Chicago executive, husband of a Powder Puff Derby pilot and a Lombard, Ill., couple were killed last night when their plane crashed near there.

The executive, Bernard Cassidy, was flying his small plane to Petoskey to meet his wife, Lois, a contestant in the Powder Puff Derby that ended at Flint, Mich., earlier this week.

With him were two friends, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Michaels, of Lombard, Ill. Michaels was an official with Illinois Bell Telephone Co.

The Emmet County sheriff said the plane, which hit a tree, bounced into the air and then crashed, apparently ran out of gas because there was no spilled gasoline at the crash scene.

Cassidy was a partner in the firm of George Cassidy and Sons.

CRASH IN SALINA

The swept-wing, six-jet bomber got only about 50 feet in the air and crashed a quarter of a mile past the end of the runway.

It was the second stratojet from the 40th Bomber Wing at Smokey AFB to crash within three weeks. Another plane crashed near the base June 26, killing three persons.

* * *

Witnesses said the plane exploded when it hit the ground and was immediately engulfed in flames. It was demolished.

Two Airmen Killed in Airstrip Collision

IWAKUNI NAVAL AIR STATION, Japan (INS)—Two Marine pilots were killed and two others injured last night when two Marine planes collided on the ground in southern Japan.

* * *

A Marine Corps spokesman said the collision at Iwakuni Naval Air Station occurured at 8:55 p.m. last night as a Marine F3D Skynight was coming in for a landing.

* * *

The report said the F3D collided with a Marine observation plane which was taxiing on the runway. Both planes were completely demolished.

The two pilots in the observation plane were killed, the spokesman said, while the two pilots in the Skynight were taken to the station hospital with minor injuries.

Disarmament Plans Reported

Might Use A-Bomb Materials for Peaceful Purposes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration is reported to be working on a new disarmament proposal under which some materials now in atomic bombs would be converted to peaceful uses.

* * *

The proposal would be designed to get Russia to join with the Western atomic powers in a system of orderly withdrawal of nuclear materials from its weapons arsenals and their diversion to peaceful purposes.

It was learned today that some discussion of this idea may be a principal point of President Eisenhower's next letter to Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin on the subject of disarmament.

Russia on Thursday told a meeting of the full U.N. Disarmament Commission in New York that it is ready to accept manpower reductions in military forces of the great powers as previously suggested by the United States—down to a limit of 2½ million men each for the United States, Russia and Red China and 750,000 each for Britain and France.

Stassen called that a "small step" toward reconciling differences between th Soviet and Western powers. But he said that agreement on an adequate inspection system, including Eisenhower's proposal for aerial inspection, would be necessary to put the manpower cuts into force.

Hungarians Escape Red on Stolen Plane

the lieutenant drew his gun and hit the man sitting beside him over the head."

Then, Jakaby continued, the plotters charged passengers not belonging to their group in a determined attempt to knock out the secret police agent they did not know.

"It was a terrible fight," he said.

"Then the secret policeman drew his pistol and wanted to fire at us. But the lieutenant knocked him down with an iron rod.

"While all this went on, the pilot flew loops, turning everything in the plane upside down. More passengers were injured.

"But the lieutenant managed to break into the cockpit and forced the crew at gunpoint to withdraw to the passenger room and leave him at the controls.

* * *

"To make it clear that he was master of the situation, he shot into the ceiling," Jakaby went on. "Then he piloted the plane out of Hungary."

"Near Ingolstadt we saw a suitable landing field and went down," Jakaby said. "It sure was a wonderful feeling."

* * *

German police armed with carbines threw a cordon around the plane but some reporters were allowed to look inside. The cabin was a shambles.

The twelve injured were taken to Ingolstadt's municipal hospital. Doctors said only one was hurt seriously. The injured included two women and the secret policeman.

Gas Station Reports Theft of Sparkplugs

Over $100 worth of sparkplugs were reported looted from a service station at 588 W. Huron St. Thursday night, Pontiac police said.

The owner, George Campbell of Walled Lake, said 190 plugs were missing. Entry was gained through a broken side window, he said.

The Day in Birmingham

Real Estate Firm Builds; Will Lease Upper Floors

BIRMINGHAM — A new contemporary office building, under construction at 975 South Hunter, will be completed about mid-September, according to Calvin M. Chamberlain.

* * *

The Chamberlain Real Estate Company, operated by Charles C. Chamberlain and his two sons, Calvin and B. F. Chamberlain, will occupy the lower level of the three-level white-painted-brick building.

Other offices, with 200 to 600 square foot sizes, will be offered for lease. "There will be at least seven, with wood paneling and ultra-modern decorations," says Chamberlain.

Cost will be about $100,000 for the building, the firm estimates. Designed by Malcolm Leventen, Detroit architect, it will be air conditioned and parking and janitor service will be provided all occupants.

"The building has been designed for appeal especially for manufacturer's agents working with firms such as GM Tech moving into the suburban area," Calvin Chamberlain stated.

No Night-Time Shows for Peter Lind Hayes

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Peter Lind Hayes leaps off his 30-foot Chris-Craft at a dock near the UN Building on the mornings he's subbing for Arthur Godfrey and hustles toward CBS hoping nobody'll get curious about his suitcase.

"If some cop looked into it, I might be in a lot of trouble—for a few minutes," says Pete.

"Tell about the time we went to the Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilts for the week-end," spoke up his wife, Mary Healy.

"They have this beautifully staffed house where the servants take your clothes out and press them. I brought a case that contained some of my props. I looked into a drawer later and there all neatly laid out were a stiletto, two revolvers and two sets of false teeth," recalled Pete.

"We were the talk of the kitchen!" nodded Mary.

PETER LIND HAYES

Pete works the Godfrey show when Arthur wants to "take off." His next long term assignment for a month, starts Aug. 20. His boat, which he calls the "Queen Mary II" — because he has an earlier one called the "Queen Mary I" — enables him to slice down the East River from New Rochelle to Manhattan in about 45 minutes — providing he doesn't have trouble with fellow navigators Herb Shriner, Garry Moore or Dennis James.

★ ★ ★

"Anybody who brings in $16,000,000, you call 'Mister'," says Pete.

Godfrey gave Pete some sage advice the first time he worked the spot. He told him not to talk too fast and not to try to top anybody who'd told a joke—but to laugh louder than anybody else.

So you won't find Pete making with a lot of jokes. And he doesn't want to do night-time TV in the Godfrey spots because he considers that good jokes are essential there—and they're hard to get.

"The night-time shows are such a pressure-cooker existence," he says. "Every time you're on, the chips are down. I don't want it."

★ ★ ★

Mary amended that, though, to mention the husband-and-wife series they have in mind for a year or so from now. It's "Happily Ever After," by Will Glickman and Joe Stein, and it would be done on film.

THE WEEKEND WINDUP . . .

DON'T PRINT THAT!": One of Hollywood's greatest stars—a headliner for 30 years—blew her top when she heard the stagehands refer to her as "Miss Fig-Face" . . . One reason for the Charles Laughton-Paul Gregory bustup: Laughton wanted to direct "Major Barbara," Gregory thought it would take too much time.

A Detroit syndicate (headed by "Killer" Johnson) wants to buy Sugar Ray Robinson's Harlem business ventures . . . Ex-Gov. Jimmy Davis of La.—once a hillbilly singer—will do a magazine piece on Elvis Presley.

U. S. OKs Shipment of Steel To Commies

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government has approved the shipment to Russia of about 7,800 tons of sheet steel for use in making automobile bodies.

* * *

A government official, announcing this last night, said the export license was approved May 15, six weeks before the current steel strike. He said he did not know whether the steel actually had been shipped.

* * *

He said the Commerce Department approved the shipment after consultation among various agencies, which agreed the metal was nonstrategic and not scarce in this country. The shipment, first of its kind to an iron curtain country since 1947, is valued at $1,100,000.

The number of dairy cows in Great Britain in 1955 declined nearly 2 per cent below the 1954 level. Milk production fell about 2 per cent from the record output of 1954.

The Blonde Cried MURDER

By Brett Halliday

THE STORY: A disappearing body at the Hibiscus Hotel, a frightened woman who says her brother was murdered, and a man who claims he is the brother and far from murdered starts Michael Shayne on another adventure. When the woman hears the man talking to Shane, she climbs out the fire escape window from the private detective's room. She meets a woman with whom she shares a taxi. Meanwhile Bert Paulson, searching for his sister Nellie, returns to the Hibiscus.

XIV

"Do you have a Miss Paulson registered here?" Paulson forestalled Dick's automatic motion of reaching for the registry pad and a pen.

Dick said, "Yes, sir, we do," looking at the tall man and his scared face with intense interest.

"Is she in now?"

"No, sir. I'm afraid she isn't.

"Any reason why you should be so sure without trying her room?"

Dick permitted himself a faint smile. There were several very good reasons why he was certain that the occupant of 316 was not in her room, but he had no intention of revealing them to this stranger. With a trace of hauteur, he said. "I'm quite sure she's out. However, there's a house phone if you wish to call her room."

Paulson shook his head. "Any idea when she'll be in?"

"None."

Paulson ostentatiously grimaced at this. "I'm her brother," he explained carefully. "Just drove in from Jacksonville to see Nellie on a rather important matter. She had promised to be here when I arrived."

NOT QUITE NORMAL

"I see. I'm very sorry, but —" Dick smiled thinly. Her brother? He wondered.

Paulson shrugged. "Doubtless she'll be in soon. I'm tired after a long drive. I suppose it'll be all right if I go up to her room to wait for her?"

Dick hesitated. Normally, he would not have refused such a request.

But the situation tonight was not quite normal. There was that unexplained telephone call at 9:30 which either had or hadn't stated there was a murdered man in Miss Paulson's room — depending on whether Evelyn had misunderstood 316 for 360 or not. And there was the more recent call from outside (promptly reported by Evelyn) inquiring about bodies disappearing from 316.

He said, "I'm afraid that would be quite against our rules, sir. We'll be very glad to have you make yourself comfortable here in the lobby while you wait."

WHAT WAS THIS

Paulson smiled and said quietly, "I wouldn't blame you for taking that attitude if I weren't her brother. But I am, and I can prove it." He got out his wallet and withdrew an insurance identification card which he laid on the desk.

Dick glanced at it and nodded slowly. It looked all right. He said, "It wasn't that I doubted your word, sir. It's just that we do have these rules." He hesitated a moment. With everything that had happened, he decided Ollie had better take the responsibility of this. He handed the card back and said briskly, "Perhaps you'd like to speak to our Mr. Patton. I really don't have the authority—" He turned his head to Evelyn. Ask Mr. Patton to step out here a moment, please."

Evelyn's eyes were rounded on Paulson's scarred face as she obeyed. What was this all about? She hadn't been able to overhear the conversation at the desk, but anything that needed Ollie's attention might prove interesting. What with dead bodies that weren't there at all, maybe she wasn't going to mind missing her date with Roger so much after all.

COUPLE OF QUESTIONS

Paulson nodded pleasantly at Dick's suggestion indulgently lit a cigarette and waited. When Patton came around the corner from his office, Dick introduced Paulson and explained the situation briefly.

The sleepiness went away from Patton's eyes as he listened. He studied Paulson carefully and nodded, took him by the arm to turn him toward his office and said, "If you'll just step this way, Mr. Paulson, there's a couple of questions I'd like to ask you."

Paulson went with him willingly, though he protested, "This is the strangest hocus-pocus I ever ran into about waiting for my sister in her room. I showed the clerk my identification."

"Sure, sure," said Patton soothingly, holding the door of his office open for Paulson to precede him inside. "No one doubts you're her brother. Just sit down there and tell me something about your sister, Mr. Paulson."

WHAT SORT OF THING?

"What sort of things?" demanded Paulson tensely. "Has anything happened to Nellie?"

"Not that we know of. It's just that something real funny happened tonight that maybe has some connection with her. U-m-m, would you say she's much of a practical joker?"

"Nellie? Not to my knowledge. No more than anyone. She's got a good sense of humor, but — What are you getting at?"

"I don't like these insinuations about my sister. Tell me straight out what you're talking about."

Rotating Living Rooms

Clark Ranney's "Sceneramic House" is the newest thing in the building game. It seems to be the last word in providing a change in scenery without going outside your own home.

★ ★ ★

The first model of this startling innovation has just been built near Columbus, Ohio. It is a home with a revolving living room on the second floor. Thus through his picture window the homeowner can gaze out in any direction he may desire.

He can follow the sun in mid-winter, or he can dodge the sun in Summer, if that is his inclination. He can enjoy looking at the lake when that is his wish, or he can rest his eyes on the beauty of his garden when he prefers to gaze on flowers.

Ranney has applied for patents on his idea, and says that already other builders, particularly in Florida, have asked for the right to construct similar homes.

It is easy to see how this idea might catch on among those who enjoy the bizarre, despite the fifteen hundred to two thousand dollars it adds to the cost of one's new home.

The first floor of Ranney's home is built of brick, but the rotating second floor living room is frame. It is reached by a spiral staircase in the center of the house. It revolves on twenty-four wheels which ride a circular track. At top speed Ranney's model makes a complete revolution in one minute. Its speed can be set by a timing device.

There are a lot of interesting possibilities connected with this new home idea. Perhaps the owner of such a home might content himself with mowing the lawn on only one side of his home. Or he might make back the cost of his added home building investment by selling tickets and taking the neighborhood youngsters for a merry-go-round ride in his living room.

★ ★ ★

It is doubtful if this idea ever will become really popular among America's home builders, but it is something new which will add an interesting innovation to the dreams of many who think of the day when they will build.

Fight on Lampreys

Latest indications are that the lamprey is not going to be driven out of Great Lakes waters as easily and as quickly as conservation officials at first had hoped. The lamprey eels prey on fish.

Recently electrical weirs have been placed in streams flowing into the Great Lakes. The lampreys swim up these rivers to lay their eggs in gravel beds. The eggs hatch and the young spend their larval stage in mudbanks. The weirs trap and electrocute the lampreys as they move upstream.

It had been believed that this stage lasted four years. Now research has revealed that it may last seven or eight years. Hence it will take at least that long to bring the lamprey menace under control.

If the weirs prove effective, each year will see many of these predators removed from Great Lakes waters. However, so many will remain for so long a time that commercial fishermen are discouraged at the prospect. But unless some new method of combatting them at reasonable cost is found, reliance will have to be placed on the weir program.

Conservationists believe that the weirs ultimately will gain control over the lampreys, but in the meantime the lampreys will continue to take a terrible toll of fish from the lakes. It is to be hoped that some new method of combatting them may be found.

Dr. Kahn Retires

More time for research is the goal sought by Dr. Rueben L. Kahn in his recently announced retirement at the University of Michigan. Dr. Kahn is retiring as a teacher, but plans to devote even more time than before to research. This is good news for future generations.

Dr. Kahn plans to study the serums of syphilis, the role of the blood as a warning device against chronic disease, and the role of body tissues in immunity.

Dr. Kahn already is world known as a result of his discovery of the test for syphilis which bears his name Hence there is good reason to expect that his future concentration on research may add materially to human knowledge in the three special fields he has chosen.

The People's Business:

Effective Words

Politicians Know Remarks Can Influence Voting

By GEORGE L. WALKER

LANSING — When the last votes are counted this fall, the pundits will sit back, knock the ashes from their pipes and ask that eternal question of politics, 'What happened?"

★ ★ ★

They will weigh deed against deed, action against action, but will the effect of words be tallied correctly in the ledgers of the analysts? Will they fully realize the impact of a thousand television shows, press conferences, speeches and news releases on the man who votes?

Now as any politician knows, there's no substitute for deeds. They're the substance of politics, the cloth of which a politician's record is woven.

But words, the artful use of language, can give color to a shabby deed and meaning to inaction.

To what extent the parties realize this is demonstrated by the words of Republicans and Democrats in the State Capitol. Here are some recent examples:

On June 22, Gov. Williams told a press conference that the chairman of the Liquor Control Commission had received a subpoena to appear before a Senate investigating committee with all available records.

A BIG SECRET

Williams himself was surprised to learn that none of the reporters knew about it. The Republican committee had treated it as a big secret.

★ ★ ★

The GOP action worked to the advantage of Williams, who of course immediately labeled the subpoena and the circumstances surround it "outrageous."

Republicans on the committee could easily have beaten the governor to the draw by issuing a news release the day before explaining the subpoena and why it was necessary.

By the time they offered their side of the story, the Democratic side was in print and on the airwaves.

★ ★ ★

REFUSES TO ANSWER

Sen. Elimer R. Porter (R-Blissfield), chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, refused to answer reporters' questions on a meeting between legislators and union officials attempting to end the walkout of construction workers at a seven million dollar prison project in Ionia.

★ ★ ★

In either of the last two situations, Williams could be counted on to produce a five-page news release describing his attempt to reach a solution agreeable to everyone.

It should be noted that in the matter of public relations, the Republicans are operating at a handicap. Democrats can sit back and let the governor's office act as a clearing house for party pronouncements. But with Republican legislators, every man must act as his own press agent.

Perhaps it's not an oversimplification to say that, in Michigan anyway, Democrats get in trouble by using words and Republicans by not using them.

★ ★ ★

Republicans concede their semantical shortcomings and have acted to correct them. They've put thousands of dollars into a new weekly TV show and hired an ace public relations man to direct the coming campaign.

★ ★ ★

But party leaders still lose sleep over what individual legislators are saying and not saying.

Days of All Faiths

Rain Surrounded by Many Beliefs

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Rain is the most important liquid in the world. Man's very life depends upon it. It is natural, therefore, that since the beginning of time the subject of rain—why it comes or doesn't come, how to make it come or how to stop it—has been surrounded by hundreds of theories, ranging from the deeply religious to the darkly superstitious.

One of the greatest rain makers of all time was St. Swithin, the Ninth Century English Bishop, who, according to one of our most popular legends, sent a six-weeks downpour to thwart an attempt to move his bones 100 years after his death. The superstition still persists, both in England and other parts of the English-speaking world, that

"On Swithin's Day, if it should rain,
For 40 days it will remain."

There is nothing to support this idea, except that it usually rains a good deal at this time of year in most parts of the Northern Hemisphere.

RAIN SUPERSTITIONS

Mankind's general problem about rain has not been so much what to do about an oversupply as how to get enough of it. The rain-maker was often the most important and influential man in the primitive community.

Away back in pre-Christian days the Romans believed that they could bring on rain by casting little images into the Tiber river. A carry-over of this ritual into Christian times is seen in the mediaeval custom of dipping the local patron saint's image into water to produce rain.

Other standard beliefs were that rain would come if you killed a frog, a toad, or a spider, or if you burned ferns. As late as the 17th Century, Charles I of England believed in the fern method so strongly that once when he was about to visit Staffordshire and wanted to be sure of pleasant weather, he sent an order ahead prohibiting the burning of ferns until his visit was over.

ANIMALS' KNOWLEDGE

People have always been sure that the animals have special inside information about rain. Ants scurry to their hills and close the entrance long before human beings know a storm is coming. Loons and doves announce rain by mournful "calls"; crows, wild geese, and lightning bugs fly low, and mosquitoes bite with extra vigor before a rain.

DAY OF MOURNING

Besides being the 17th of July, Tuesday is also the ninth day of the Jewish month of Ab, a day of deep and complete mourning for devout Jews. The basic significance of this fast is its commemoration of the two occasions (seven centuries apart) on which the Temple and the city of Jerusalem were destroyed.

Jews believe that if Israel had not sinned it would not have lost its land and its identity as a nation. They fast today, therefore, in expiation of their own individual sins and of their sins as a people.

The Ninth of Ab is, then, a national memorial day, recalling the misfortunes of the past, pleading for the revival of Jewish national existence, and keeping alive the hope and courage of the Jewish people.

FASTING CUSTOMS

Various Jews keep the fast with varying degrees of severity. Among the pious it is a day of utter gloom and sorrow. Before the day begins at sunset, the evening meal must have been finished and no food or drink will be taken until the stars appear the next evening. At this last meal some will have sprinkled ashes on their food, symbolic of the ashes to which Temple and city were reduced.

At night some will sleep without pillows, some will sleep on the floor, and some will go so far as to use a stone for a pillow.

In the synagogues today they will chant in mournful tones the book of Lamentations, which was for many years credited to the prophet Jeremiah but is now known to be the work of many Jewish poets, bemoaning the sad lot of their nation.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Dairy Products Are Not Fattening

I'm on the other side of forty and afraid of getting fat, so I know I don't drink enough milk, although I like it. So where can I get enough calcium? (V. L.)

Answer — Skim milk, buttermilk, separator milk, or, as the smart distributor calls it, fat-free milk, is the best source of calcium and hardly fattening. Second best source, cheese, whatever kind of cheese you like, especially cottage cheese, with chives and-or other greens.

* * *

Some Wisconsin and Minnesota people are not going to applaud your boosting the beautiful Finger Lakes of your old home state. They have some lakes up there, you know. (C. C.)

Answer — I didn't mind the "thousand lakes" claim, but lately they have upped it to "ten thousand"! So I'll just tag along with the five or 5½ Finger Lakes—they really exist and are all within a few gallons distance from your headquarters, if you can get into the lovely old Canandaigua Hotel in vacation time.

* * *

Answer—To the best of my knowledge the effects of smoking are not attributable to nicotine. I believe the ill effects of excessive smoking are due mainly to carbon monoxide—and no filter can prevent formation of C-O.

My daughter gives me that tolerant smile when I refer to any of your teachings. Perhaps I had better cut my gab and give her your baby booklet . . . (M. L.)

* * *

Answer—For the Brady Baby Book send 35 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

We enjoy your column and feel sure we have learned much from it to the benefit of health, but you make me mad when you call our M.D.'s names . . . (Mrs. B.H.)

Answer—If you will cite an instance, I'll send you with my compliments the Pocket Cyclopedia of Health.

I have been supplementing my diet with mineral vitamin tablets as you recommend in the pamphlet Young Folks And Old Folks. In 3½ months my nails have ceased to crack and break off, my complexion . . . (Mrs. R.H.S.)

Answer—The nails, skin, and hair generally reflect nutritional condition. Young persons who make it a rule to get three glasses of milk (1½ pints) every day, instead of cheating themselves with sweets and pop, have better looking hair, nails, and complexion. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for the pamphlet.

I have to be up early mornings, and my sleep is often disturbed by automobile horns, loud talking, and laughter on the street at 1 or 2 a.m. Would wearing ear plugs to muffle the noise affect my hearing? (L.K.)

Answer—No.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Mich.

Think It's Crowded Now? Watch the Next 20 Years

The United States is not only in the midst of a tremendous upsurge in population, but the population is shifting.

* * *

The Bureau of the Census figures that in the next 20 years the United States will have between 207 and 226 million residents. The population now is around 166 million.

* * *

As yet the Census Bureau has not projected population trends over the next 20 years on a state-by-state basis. It has, however, completed an estimate of what can be expected in the next 10 years.

The population predictions for each state in 1965 show a strong continuation of the westward movement evident ever since the first census of 1790. Six Western states, Florida and tiny Delaware come up with the biggest percentage gains.

NEVADA, ARIZONA TO BOOM

As the accompanying map shows, Nevada and Arizona are expected to make the greatest percentage leaps, both adding more than one-half of their relatively small populations.

* * *

More impressive are the estimates for Florida and California—states which already have large populations. The bureau predicts Florida will rise from 3,300,000 in 1954 to 4,884,000 by 1965—a gain of 48 per cent. California is expected to jump 39.7 per cent from 12,500,000 to 17,467,000 and take over from New York as the most populous state in the union.

Populations in Oregon and Washington are expected to rise 28.1 and 22.7 per cent respectively, with a 21.2 per cent increase predicted for New Mexico and 20.7 per cent expected in Delaware.

* * *

Growth over the next decade is expected to be slowest in North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Vermont, New Hampshire and West Virginia. None of the states is expected to grow by more than 5 per cent. The population in North Dakota is expected to drop by .9 per cent.

For the nation as a whole, the population in 1965 is expected to be 184,823,000—a gain of 14.6 per cent.

If the trend of the five years between 1950 and 1955 continues, much of the population growth between now and 1965 will take place in suburbia — those residential areas just outside city limits. The Census Bureau expects suburban populations to increase tremendously, while farm populations continue to decline and city populations rise only slightly.

* * *

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Church Camp Ideal for Youngsters

Tommy's Dad should urge Tommy to attend a church camp, for such an experience is unequalled in America nowadays. It gives teenagers a spiritual experience they seldom can obtain elsewhere. And it also helps wean them emotionally so they are less subject to nostalgia when they go to college. Urge all teenagers to attend church camps for a week every season.
MIL

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case S-312: Tommy J., aged 13, is a high school freshman.

"Dr. Crane, Tommy wants to attend a church camp for a week," his mother informed me.

* * *

"But his father says he needs him to help around the farm. He can do a lot of chores and run the tractor.

"Tommy has his heart set on going. Two of his pals are also to be in the group of 15 teenagers who plan to represent our church.

"So will you please give me some arguments to use on my husband? Aren't church camps desirable for children?"

BRAVO, CHURCH CAMPS

Yes, church camps are so important to a child's development that no farmer should EVER oppose his youngster's attendance thereat.

* * *

This is no reflection on the local clergymen, but they have a mixed audience ranging from squalling babies to snoring great grandfathers.

So they can't slant their sermons primarily to a vast throng of eager teenagers. Their listeners comprise what we call in psychology a heterogeneous congregation.

The strictly teen-age group is a homogeneous audience. Specially trained church leaders then appear before these teen-agers to give them a spiritual "mountain top" experience which they may never obtain anywhere else in their entire lives.

During the teens, moreover, our youth are in their most idealistic stage. They have high aspirations. They make noble resolves.

Altruism is then at its peak, so they come to their major decisions regarding a lifetime career in moral enterprises. It is a crucial psychological period.

RECRUITING GROUND FOR IDEALISM

These church camps are really recruiting grounds for idealism. They are the major places where modern young people decide to enter religious fields or become nurses, missionaries, teachers, physicians, etc.

* * *

So skimp elsewhere but by all means send your children to church camps for at least one week per season!

That week will also insure their social poise and success at college later on, for thousands of young people flunk out of the university during the first semester largely because of nostalgia (homesickness).

The process of weaning a child from its parents is not limited to shifting it from a bottle to solid food at the table.

A more serious weaning problem consists of training a child to remain happy and well adjusted while it is away from its parents.

This requires much more time and skill than weaning an infant from the bottle.

* * *

And it must begin very early. Accustom your toddler to staying at home with a baby-sitter at least one night per week while you take your wife out on a date to revive some of your courtship emotions by going through the courtship motions.

EMOTIONAL WEANING

Then let the youngster visit at least for a meal. If he can stand the emotional strain of sleeping for a night away from his parents, well and good.

Don't prod him too fast or too early, but see that your teenagers have become partially weaned, emotionally, by the time they enter high school.

A week at a church camp is well worth the price of $15 to $20, which is the usual charge, just for its value in emotionally weaning your child.

But its moral worth is so great that every teen-ager who wishes to do so should have a chance to attend church camps.

All five of our children attended church camps every summer from the seventh grade through senior high, and Judy has also served as counsellor two years.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

British Legal Expert Arrives in Nicosia

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — A British legal expert arrived here today for a two-weeks survey to help draft a home rule constitution for this British island colony.

Prime Minister Eden's government announced the expert, Lord Radcliffe, had been assigned to draw up a "new liberal constitution" aimed at a board measure of self-government.

Radcliffe said he would confer with the British Governor Sir John Harding and other local authorities.

Greek Cypriot leaders who are demanding an end to British rule and union with Greece have said they will not talk with Radcliffe. They insist the only man who can negotiate with the British is Archbishop Makarios, deported last March to the Sychelles Islands in the Indian Ocean. The British accused him of inciting rebel violence.

Claims Reach 5½ Million

Grand Canyon Air Crash Rocks Insurance Firms

NEW YORK (AP) — Insurance claims resulting from the crash of two planes over the Grand Canyon June 30 reportedly now total nearly 5½ million dollars.

These claims cover the 128 persons who died in the crash and the destruction of the planes.

Not included in this amount are the liability of the airlines—TWA and United—to next of kin of the deceased passengers and the amount of life insurance carried by the passengers themselves.

* * *

The TWA Super Constellation was insured by Associated Aviation Underwriters for 1½ million dollars. The United Air Lines plane was insured by Lloyds of London, reportedly for around two million dollars.

Trip insurance which passengers took out before flying was underwritten mainly by three companies, Associated Aviation Underwriters, Tele-Trip Policy Co., and Continental Casualty Co.

Much of the trip insurance was brought in booths or machines at the Los Angeles airport before the passengers boarded the planes.

Associated Aviation Underwriters said that claims on their policies will total at least $650,000. In addition, one passenger carried a $100,000 trip insurance policy with the company, taken out on a one-year basis.

* * *

A Tele-Trip spokesman said claims to date amounted to about $165,500. One claim was for $62,500 the largest purchasable on its machine.

Continental Casualty said its claims could not be tallied at present but it was understood the claims filed approached a million dollars.

* * *

Most of this amount was in group trip insurance taken out by companies for executives.

Two Designers Agree on Slim Look for Autumn

Branell, who designed the gown "To Catch a Prince" for Grace Kelly, shows this afternoon dress of mink brown silk barathea. The full skirt is shirred in back and drawn in with inset belt and front bow. The bodice is trimmed with self-buttons.

Sheath-Jacket Costumes Become More Luxurious

* * *

You can even wear it in fur if you like, judging from the opulent collection of richly trimmed costumes at Branell.

Black broadtail, worked exactly like cloth, highlighted this collection's showing to fashion editors at the 27th National Press Week.

* * *

Another dress of brown plaid had a broadtail jacket lined in matching plaid. A third costume teamed a skirt of black broadtail with a cashmere sweater collared in broadtail.

STAR OF COLLECTION

* * *

Sheath bodices were sometimes silk-yoked under their fur-collared jackets. Black seal, black and white mink were used as collars on inky gray or brown outfits.

This firm's cocktail and evening clothes have a covered look, done either with sleeves, shoulder bands, or little boleros over low-cut dresses.

* * *

Cocktail dresses have deep square necklines and little sleeves. Evening dresses have shoulder-covering fichus, or sleeves.

Both short and long dresses were shown with shoulder-enveloping panels which started above the waistline in back and reached up over the shoulders like a stole.

Full skirts, stiffened to stand out, and frothy bouffants outnumber the slim skirts in the collection. One shape-out skirt is called the "Infanta." Another full skirt is cut princess fashion.

New Starch Method Saves Crispness

A new starch method is said to be a time saver. Instead of starching new clothes the first time, use one tablespoon or more for added stiffness in a cup of sparkling water, just before ironing.

If clothes have been washed before, give them a real starching just once. When starch disappears, the sprinkling water method may be used.

Secure Unruly Hair With Headband

Hair unruly? One of the best ways to tame it is with flowers—a headband, like Alice in Wonderland's, with a small tuck comb attached to each end.

To wear, brush hair back from the face, place headband, and firmly anchor the combs into the sides of your hair. Where temple wisps are a problem, brush these up, spray on lacquer to keep them up, and angle the tuckcombs of your headband so as to hold wisps in place.

Adele Simpson Believes Prettiness Equals Panels

Mollie Parnis Likes Natural Waistline That Creates Illusion of Being High

By OLGA CURTIS

NEW YORK (INS) — Designers Adele Simpson and Mollie Parnis proved today that great fashion minds definitely run in the same style channel. They both advocate the slim dress for fall, with pretty-up touches above and below the waist.

* * *

Mrs. Simpson thinks prettiness equals panels next season. She has located panels in back or at the side of her designs, keeping them firmly in place with wide cummerbunds or strategic hip stitching.

Other panels drop from the back of highish waist drapes. Mrs. Simpson lets these cascade from the top of a waistband, or fold obi-fashion from a cummerbund.

* * *

Mollie Parnis also likes that "highish waist" effect, but she has taken a firm stand on the natural waistline. Her waists are normal. Decorative bands, cropped jackets and high gathered blouses give the high-bosomed effect.

NEW CUT NOTED

Both jackets and blouses have a new cut in the Parnis-Livingston collection. There is a tiny, loose "bird cage" jacket that stops short above the waist, and a "slip-cover" blouse that gathers over the skirt by a drawstring at the waist.

* * *

The two designers agree that it's going to be a big year for black velvet. Both have groups of velvet dresses touched with satin.

For cocktails and evening, Mrs. Simpson favors full-skirted elegance, either cut low both front and back or completely covered up. Long dresses by Mrs. Simpson, however, are mostly slim, with slight unpetticoated flare.

The after-dark dresses Mollie Parnis likes also have full skirts—her own version of a harem skirt done in curved gores, or multi-fold skirts.

* * *

Fashion editors attending the 27th National Press Week shows today also saw the fall Hattie Carnegie collection. This famed firm concentrates once again on the complete costume look typical in Carnegie suits.

THE COSTUME EFFECT

Both suits and dresses carry the costume effect, with one - piece dresses adding little waist-length jackets. There are also fitted hipline jackets and jackets shaped to curve in back.

* * *

The Carnegie day dresses are uniformly slim, but dress-up clothes have full or pleated skirts.

* * *

Coats, either fitted or loose, feature seamless raglan sleeves. Sleeves, incidentally, are a major part of the collection, appearing even on evening gowns.

Auxiliary Plans Tea on Tuesday

The summer home of Mrs. David R. Wilson on Covert road, Watkins Lake, will be the setting for the membership tea and garden party being held Tuesday afternoon from 2 until 5 o'clock.

Members of the Women's Auxiliary to Pontiac General Hospital are hosting the affair, with Mrs. Charles Barrett serving as general chairman assisted by Mrs. Fritzi Stoddard and Vera Bassett, co-chairmen.

Presiding at the punch bowls during the afternoon will be Mrs. Harold A. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Arthur Y. Moore, Mrs. Elmer Pettengill, Mrs. George B. Hartrick, Mrs. David E. Edstrom, Lauretta Paul, Mrs. P. Eugene Miller and Mrs. B. B. Kimball.

Mrs. Henry C. Houston, Mrs. Clark Adams, Mrs. Cecil McCallum, Mrs. William Dean, Mrs. Maurice Finnegan, Mrs. Paul Kern and Mrs. Walter K. Willman will also preside.

Multiply by Seven

Paint radiators the same color as the wall behind them and they'll be more pleasing to the eye. Figure the amount of paint needed by measuring the front area and multiplying by seven.

Sun Can Injure Health and Looks

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

I have been urging you to take full advantage this summer of the health values which the season brings. Today I would like to call to your attention some of its dangers.

* * *

You have been warned over and over again about extreme suntanning. Now at the middle of the summer I would like to call your attention again to its disadvantages. It can be hazardous to health and also to good looks.

If you are nearing middle age or are already there you would be wise to avoid that dark brown suntan. You cannot possibly hope to have a youthful looking skin in older years if you indulge in this drying and baking of your outer coating every summer.

Protect your skin with one of the screening creams and give it special lubrication each day. If you are subject to freckles or brown spots try to enjoy your outdoor life in the earlier morning or later afternoon hours.

In the summer, adopt the habit of a siesta, that afternoon nap or rest which is such an important part of life in tropical countries.

Wear gloves and a large hat whenever feasible. You get all of the vitamin D you need when sitting on a covered porch and that spotty, peeling look is not appealing even now.

PROTECT YOUR HAIR

Your hair will profit by the sunshine if you do not get too much of it. When you are going to be in the bright sunlight for long periods, protect your hair.

* * *

Do not overdo when it comes to outdoor sports. Build up gradually. If you live an indoor, physically inactive life during most of the year, take it easy now.

Remember that calories heat you up. So does hurrying and fretting. Organize your activities so that you have to do fewer errands. Adopt the habit of a siesta, that afternoon nap or rest, which is such an important part of life in tropical countries.

Wear comfortable clothing. Summer cottons are so attractive! Find a hair style which is cool and easily kept as well as comfortable. Enjoy yourself!

Shower Honors Mrs. Deshaine

Mrs. Ralph Stanton was hostess at her home on Woodstock drive for a stork shower honoring Mrs. Paul Deshaine. Mrs. Alfred Vidrio and Mrs. Gerald Webster were cohostesses.

* * *

* * *

Guests attending the recent shower were Mrs. Otis Head, Mrs. William Franklin, Mrs. Woodrow Griffith, Mrs. Gerald Head, Mrs. Agatha Deshaine, Phyllis Head, Mrs. Kathryn Doran and Mrs. Frank Hoffman.

Others were Mrs. Herbert Leh, Mrs. Jack Deshaine, Mrs. Richard Deshaine and Ty Holland.

The skirt is a graceful full circle with two seams. The carefully cut and accurately perforated pattern works up beautifully in any of the novelty cottons, plain or printed silks, shantung or foulard.

Rainier Drops 'Smile Policy' Toward Press

PARIS (INS) — Prince Rainier has dropped the "smile policy" he and Princess Grace had adopted toward newsmen and photographers on their arrival in Paris Wednesday.

Police sources told International News Service the Prince had requested an escort and that detectives assigned to the couple were instructed to bar all attempts of reporters or cameramen to approach them.

The police escort was on duty Thursday night when the Monacoan ruler and the former Grace Kelly slipped out of their apartment near the Bois de Boulogne for a round of Paris night life.

A police car deliberately blocked the way of pursuing newsmen, allowing the fast-driving Rainier to slip into the maze of evening traffic with his souped-up Volkswagon sedan.

The prince apparently decided to quit smiling for the news corps when a dozen reporters and cameramen waited in front of his luxurious, seven-room apartment all day Thursday.

The Prince answered and said: "I gave you an interview yesterday. I have nothing to say today."

Then he pushed the door shut and called the cops.

Your kitchen towel rack will take on a 'new look' when you put a set of these towels on it. Simply press off the attractive fruit designs and embroider the day-names in outline stitch. It's as simple as that!

Makers of Housewares Turn Attention to Kiddies

* * *

The "mother - and - daughter" dress idea has moved over into housewares. Being shown was a small sweeper decorated with rhinestones, exactly like the bigger one for mother, that little sister can use.

There were miniature ironing tables and colorful dust mops—not toys—but built for chores by the youngsters. The same idea prevailed in brooms.

Toys and juvenile furniture were featured by several manufacturers along with dishes, tea sets and copper-bottom aluminum cooking pans exactly like those in mother's kitchen.

* * *

More practical, perhaps, were the compact and attractive school lunch kits, babies' and children's stainless steel eating utensils, a seal-tight plastic diaper container, nursery scales, and an electronic babysitter.

CRIES BROADCAST

The latter by a wire attachment brings the crying or gurgling of the baby out over the radio in another room.

* * *

Junior's eyes would pop at the newly designed ceramic cookie jars, the latest styled cookie and cake pans, including an oblong angel cake pan.

The kids would also show great interest in an improved ice cream freezer, colorful picnic baskets and the varied picnic grills and barbecue equipment on display.

But most eye-catching for the youngsters were the "Christmas in July" displays just off the boardwalk. Being shown were revolving musical Christmas trees, individual twinkling Christmas tree lights, and plastic molded Christmas decorations and party plates.

Natural Tone Sought

The major trend in wood finishes is toward a greater variety of woods, finished in natural tones, plus an increasing interest in paints, lacquers, and color stains. Upholstery fabrics feature smoother textures, softer colors, and a new emphasis on weave. New silicone finishes protect upholstery from soil, makes whites and beiges more practical.

Young Son Smashes Fancy Cup

Neighbor Refuses to Let Mom Make Replacement

By EMILY POST

A mother writes: "My 2-year-old son broke a fancy cup of one of my neighbor's the other day while visiting. I offered to replace it and she said, no, absolutely not. She wouldn't think of it.

"I feel terrible about this and was wondering if I could replace it anyway, even though she was quite emphatic about my not doing so."

Answer: If you know where you can get a duplicate, I would replace it. But do not replace it with an unmatching cup.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I would very much like to know how I can tactfully break away from giving birthday and anniversary presents to friends whom I have been remembering for years?"

Answer: The only thing to do is to have a conversation with each one and say frankly how you feel about it. If they do not seem enthusiastic about it, there is nothing further you can do but continue to give them something.

Girdles and bras need frequent laundering in warm suds and rinses to assure that all-over daintiness so essential to good grooming. Furthermore, washing tends to tighten them up for maximum figure control.

While cleaning house throughout the year, a woman should try to do one hard job a day instead of devoting a whole day a week to the heavy cleaning. This is overtaxing.

Wearing a fashion just because it is a fashion doesn't make sense. Pick only those fashions that are truly becoming to you. This way, you evolve your own personal sense of style.

Newlyweds to Reside in Pontiac

Norma Brown and Glen G. Gidcumb Exchange Vows

Married in a ceremony at First Christian Church were Norma Francine Brown and Glen G. Gidcumb. The Norman L. Browns of Elizabeth Lake road are her parents, and Glen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gidcumb of Highgate road.

* * *

* * *

Best man for the July 7 wedding was Richard Gidcumb. Ushering were Terrance O'Dell and Alan Brown.

The reception was held in the church parlors after the ceremony.

* * *

The bride is a graduate of Sherwood Music School in Chicago and Glen was graduated from Eastern Michigan College. Following their northern Michigan honeymoon, they will reside on St. Joseph street.

For juniors with problem figures, a back panel hides protruding rear. Overskirt circling the hipline flattens tummy and hips.

The only objection to the slim silhouette comes from girls with problem figures. Some continue to wear full skirts, not the crisp, jutting type, but soft fulness. Others let panels camouflage those bumpy spots.

Mother Singers Enjoy Picnic

Mrs. Sidney Fellows and Mrs. Norman Davison assisted Mrs. Milton Reddeman when members of the Pontiac Mother Singers held a picnic at the Reddeman home on Lakeside drive recently.

Mrs. John Bills invited the group to hold a picnic at her home on Forest drive on August 21. Mrs. Furn Tubb and Mrs. Phoebe Van Duesen will assist the hostess.

Rearranging Room? Check With Family

MADISON, Wis. (INS) — When you rearrange the furniture in the living room, wait a week before you add the finishing touches.

* * *

It takes abouu a week to determine whether all the members of the family like the new arrangement, according to a University of Wisconsin home furnishing specialist.

* * *

The expert, Gertrude Hoffman, said women who change the placement of furniture should watch how convenient the family finds the new arrangement before hanging pictures and changing small accessories.

Dampen Wax Cloth

You'll save on your wax bill if you first dampen the cloth you will use, wring it dry and then pick up the wax.

This keeps the wax from being absorbed into the fibers of the cloth.

Consult your drycleaner on the methods required to successfully cleanse and finish your prized car coat. If it has a water-repellent finish, your cleaner will be able to re-treat your garment for you after it is drycleaned.

Think Big, Believe Big, Act Big and Realize Your Dreams

Jehovah's Witnesses Plan 4 Day Conclave in Lansing

The Pontiac Congregations of Jehovah's witnesses are arranging plans to attend a major four day convention at Lansing, July 26-29, it was announced today.

One of 34 such conclaves throughout the United States and Canada, the Lansing meet, to be held in the new Civic Auditorium, will draw upwards of 10,000, mostly from the State of Michigan, with special delegates coming from 18 other states and Canada.

W. P. Strong, local presiding minister, in making the announcement, pointed to the Christian's need for spiritual instruction in these times of increasing world tensions and perplexities.

* * *

"The purpose of the program at the convention", Mr. Strong said, "is to help supply this need of spiritual instruction and counsel so that everyone of the preaching fellowship of Jehovah's witnesses may be best able to make known to others the good news of the approaching Kingdom of God on earth."

Mr. Strong said Jehovah's witnesses take quite literally the scriptural admonition to "not forsake the assembling of yourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another; and so much more, as ye see the day approaching."

In that great name of love, O Lord, we would draw nigh to Thee and bless Thee, that in Christ's face we see Thine. We beseech Thee that the light of the glory of the knowidge of God in the face of Christ may be shed into all our hearts now. Draw us and we will run after Thee; teach us desires which Thou in Thy grace dost always fulfill.

Open our lips that we may show forth Thy praise; and let the anointing of the Holy One come upon all our heads and the touch of the live coal from the altar purge the lips, and open the hearts of hearers and of speaker.

Be with us now and evermore grant us Thy gracious help and presence, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Creative Accomplishment Vested in Four Principles

By VINCENT NORMAN PEALE

Some people like to differentiate between "dreamers" and practical people." They even look down on the dreamers, and criticize them for their dreams.

I don't share this viewpoint. I have never met a truly successful man who wasn't first of all a dreamer, for a successful man is only one who has learned the technique of making his dreams come true.

DR. PEALE

The great United Nations building on New York's East River has become the city's foremost tourist attraction. It is the outstanding feature of an area which was redeveloped from a slum and low grade business district. Was it an accidental choice? No, not at all.

The United Nations area was originally a real estate man's dream. Laboriously, he assembled options on all the properties in the neighborhood of his choice. Then, he sold his great idea to John D. Rockefeller Jr., who bought the land and offered it to the U. N.

This is just one of the many creative dreams of a man named William Zeckendorf, of the real estate firm of Webb and Knapp. All of his projects are immense ones. In a recent speech he made a dynamic statement: "The biggest plans are the easiest plans to bring to bear."

I was impressed with that philosophy because I believe that when you plan something big, you're actually thinking the way God intended men to think. And a reason you get big results is that upper levels of power are back of big concepts.

When you project a big thing, of necessity you put big faith in it, and faith generates a dynamic all its own. Moreover, to support a big idea, you give it all you've got, and that in itself exerts extraordinary force.

* *

Those who plan little uninspiring things seem to have little faith and it is not surprising that little comes of them. Little faith equals little results. And, conversely, great faith causes great results. Big dreams, plus big faith, plus hard work, added to creative thinking—this is the formula by which big things are done.

I know of a hotel run by an immigrant. "I used to sell papers on the street corner in front of the hotel," he told me. "I was poor; I could hardly speak English; I had nothing. But I would watch the people, nicely-dressed and well-fed, going in and out. The hotel was named after its owner and his name was in lights on top of it.

'MY NAME IN LIGHTS!'

"I used to think and dream how wonderful it would be if I owned that hotel and could make all those people happy by giving them the best rooms and the finest food in all the country. I got into the habit of seeing it the best hotel in the land with my name on top of it.

It seemed preposterous to have such an idea, but I could and did dream that this great hotel was mine until finally I just accepted the fact that it really was going to be mine, and even then I began to plan all I would do for my guests.

On the railroad going through his city, as your train goes by at night, you can now see that immigrant boy's name in letters of lights above the hotel. Actually, when did he acquire it? Wasn't it the very moment he began to dream and to work and plan how he could serve others in it?

How can you make your dreams come true? Get rid of all your little ideas. Make your dreams and ideas big enough so that you can have great faith in them. Make them large enough that they can draw real power out of you, really capture the whole of your dedicated activity.

Check them first to be sure that they serve not only your interests, but those of your fellowmen. Humbly ask the help of God. And then go forward with faith and belief and enthusiasm. Think big, pray big, believe big, act big—and your dreams can come true.

Prison Chapel Dedicated

Clergy of Three Faiths, 400 Guests Show Up for Opening

One of the few chapels within penetentiary walls was dedicated last week at the new $1,800,000 Dauphin County Prison, near Harrisburg, Pa.

* * *

Jewish, Roman Catholic and Protestant clergymen joined nearly 400 guests to pray for "a society where there will be less and less need for prisons."

* * *

The story of the chapel goes back to 1953 when representatives of the three faiths met with county commissioners to request that provision for a chapel be made in blueprints for the new prison. The commissioners agreed and asked the group to provide an organ, each accepting a share of the cost.

Oversubscription of their quotas, plus gifts by other church and welfare groups made possible the purchase of both an organ and spinet piano.

* * *

The new chapel seats 90. It is of modern design with colored glass, but heavily barred windows. The simple altar can be used for services by all three faiths. It will be the only place within the institution where men and women prisoners can meet.

* * *

The Rev. Joseph M. Woods Jr., executive secretary of the United Churches of Greater Harrisburg and Dauphin County, which organized Protestant church support for the project, speaking on behalf of the sponsors, dedicated the chapel "to the glory of God and the spiritual and social rehabilitation of those who shall be confined within this prison."

350 Methodists Meet, Plan North Central's Future

The conference, which includes Michigan, North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio, meets every four years.

Main business was planning the church's work in the nine-state area for the next four years and assigning bishops to the areas in which they will serve.

First formal session was a communion service at which host Bishop F. Gerald Ensley of Des Moines and the seven other bishops of the jurisdiction presided.

Bishop Marshall R. Reed of Detroit, delivered the message on behalf of the eight bishops at the first business session.

Rural Life Professor Describes Ideal Town

"Just as men long for a more perfect life within themselves so they long for a fairer day for the community," says Prof. Mark Rich of Columbia, Mo., a leading authority on American rural life. "They see a community in which harmony triumphs over disharmony, where magnanimity transcends selfishness. They see the land resources used and developed for men's good and for the glory of God. They visualize a place with influences giving growth to successive generations of youth. They hear songs of joy swelling over the hills, mingling with the laughter of children. They see beauty, truth, goodness and light. They see Christ walking country roads and treading village streets. One finds these communities everywhere."

Guest Organist to Play

The Rev. Wilfred Layton, a former organist and choirmaster of St. Paul's Church, Flint, will be guest organist at Christ Church Cranbrook for several Sundays beginning tomorrow. Until this year, he served as chairman of the Diocesan Music Commission.

Church Music Workshop Held

Mrs. William J. David Attends Michigan State University Project

It's Sunday every day this week for Mrs. William J. David of 2345 Lochaven Road, one of 105 Michigan church musicians at Michigan State University.

Choral repertoire, hymnology and worship are all part of the daily schedule at the second annual Church Music Workshop, at Kellogg Center, July 8-13.

The project, sponsored by the Michigan and Detroit Councils of Churches in cooperation with the M. S. U. department of music, offered practical work for organists, choir directors, soloists, choristers, clergy and others interested in church music.

Special workshops covered childrens' choirs, the small church organ, radio and television, and organization and administration of church music programs.

Guest faculty members included Dr. Henry Veld, conductor of the Augustana College Choir; Dr. Roberta Bitgood, nationally-known organist from Riverside, California; and Dr. Nellie Huger Ebersole, director of music for the Detroit Council of Churches.

Dr. Harold C. DeWindt, minister of the Kirk in the Hills, West Long Lake Road, Bloomfield Hills, will leave on Tuesday with his wife and son, David, for his vacation.

He will serve as guest preacher on the cruise ship, Brazil, departing from New York on July 19 for South America.

* * *

July 22 and 20 the Rev. Maurice Marcus of Central Reformed Church, Grand Rapids; Aug. 5 The Rev. Dr. T. Christie Innes of Collingswood Avenue Presbyterian Church, Toledo, Ohio; Aug. 12 The Rev. Dr. Walton E. Cole of the First Congregational Church, Detroit.

Aug. 19 The Rev. Dr. Frederick Wyngarden of Westminister Presbyterian Church, Grand Rapids: and Aug. 26 The Rev. Dr. Millard G. Roberts, president of Parsons College, Fairfield, Iowa; The Rev. Dr. Joseph Blackburn, minister of education, will be in charge of the worship services each Sunday.

Dr. DeWindt will return to the Kirk to resume his ministry September 1.

New Hope Baptist to Hear Speakers

The Rev. Charles H. Holt Jr. of Baltimore, Md., will be guest speaker at the 11 o'clock Sunday morning service at New Hope Baptist Church, 392 Bloomfield Ave.

Immediately following the worship hour, a basket dinner will be enjoyed in the dining room.

Beginning at 3 p.m. and continuing through to 7 p.m., local ministers will preach, and the three choirs, Senior, First and Second Junior, will present special music.

The Rev. Ford B. Reed, pastor, and the Rev. Jesse Long, associate pastor, are planning and will be in charge of the services.

Minister Can Help Doctor in Treating the Alcoholic

ATLANTA (INS)—A minister's ability to "see the total person" makes him a natural partner for the physician in treating alcoholics.

* * *

This is the basis for a pioneer workshop now going on in Atlanta, according to Dr. Vernell Fox, medical director of the Georgia Commission on Alcoholism.

The workshop, conducted at the Emory University Theology School, is designed to give parish ministers a basic understanding of the drinking problem and to bring them up to date on new procedures.

Both ministers who are working in alcoholic clinics, and doctors specializing in such cases, are contributing to the seminar.

Dr. Fox said it is particularly important for the minister to be familiar with alcoholism, because "usually he is the first to meet the alcoholic."

ASSIST FOLLOW THROUGH

The head of the Georgia Clinic, a state institution in Atlanta, added that the minister, after referring cases to medical help, can provide great assistance in following through.

The minister, she points out, sees the "total person" and not only can help him in solving his emotional conflicts, but also can help him (or her) reestablish family relationships.

Alcoholics, or their families, Dr. Fox said, "instinctively turn to whomever they trust." This, on many occasions, is their minister—or sometimes it is the family doctor.

The workshop at Emory, she says, is being held "strictly for educational purposes." If the work is successful, and there is a demand for such instruction and help for ministers, a series of medico-religious sessions may be launched.

Methodist Worker Quits After 47 Years

Miss Edna McArdle has retired from active service with the Methodist Board of Missions, after setting a record for the longest home office service in the Board's history.

* * *

Miss McArdle had been with the board—and its predecessor, the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church — for 47 years in the accounting department at 150 Fifth Avenue, New York.

When she was hired "for two weeks to work on the accounts" of the former Board of Foreign Missions, she had no idea those weeks would stretch into a record service. She was honored two years ago at a dinner of the Board's Employes' Association "for the longest service of any headquarters employe at any time."

Methodists See Need for Return to Clear Thinking

The Christian church must recover an amount of clear and courageous thinking it has not had for many centuries in order to deal with the complicated religious situation in today's modern culture, is the opinion of a leading scholar of religion.

* * *

Dr. Hondrik Kraemer, director of the Oecumenical Institute, Bossey, Switzerland, assured the 360 new and furloughed Methodist missionaries assembled at DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind., that many of them will see in the future a "conscious meeting of the religions and civilizations of East and West."

Dr. Kraemer characterized the ecumenical movement as an "Abrahamitic" advance, set to go to an unknown destination by faith.

* * *

"Never before in history," said the speaker, "has there been such a gigantic attempt to eradicate religion in the life of man." Communism is the most deeply-thought-out attempt to do so in his opinion.

Law Revision Sought

The Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Methodist Board of Missions has called upon Congress to revise the McCarran-Walter Act to remove all discriminatory provisions based on race, national origin religion or sex, and to place emphasis on the contributions immigrants will continue to make to America.

WHO is a Christian?

Who can rightly be called a Christian?

Religious organizations would vary in answering this question, but the only authoritative answer comes from the Word of God, the Bible. In recording the history of the early Church, the Bible says that "the disciples were called Christians first in Antioch." (Acts 11:26)

Christians are disciples—followers—of Jesus Christ. When Jesus traveled the dusty roads of Judea and Galilee, His disciples literally followed Him from town to town. They believed His words and kept His teachings.

After the death and resurrection of the Lord, His followers spread throughout the Mediterranean world and elsewhere telling the good news of salvation through Jesus Christ. They made it their purpose to win others to their faith in the Saviour, so that they too could know the blessing of having their sins forgiven. They urged others to repent of their sins and turn to Christ. "Repent ye therefore, and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out." (Acts 3: 19)

It was not long until these followers—all who demonstrated their faith in the risen Christ—became known as "Christians." Today the term "Christian" is sometimes used erroneously to apply to non-Hebrews, or to people of "good moral standing."

To use the term correctly, "Christians" are followers of Jesus Christ—those who have confessed Him as the Lord of their lives—those who have accepted Him as their own personal Saviour. It is through Christ — through Christ alone—that a person may become a "Christian." There is no other way. "Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved." (Acts 4: 12)

This is the first of five groups to attend Presbyterian camps at Greenville and Clear Lake near Oxford. All camps and conferences are sponsored by the Synod of Michigan and are under the direction of the Christian Education Committee.

BIBLE CLUBBERS

Many members of the Sigueme Club (Follow Me) of the Perry Park Baptist Church are striving to be eligible for the Bible Clubbers' Camp at Piatt Lake Bible Conference in the Upper Peninsula scheduled from Aug. 11 - 18.

Several adults have offered to send young people to the camp with all expenses paid if they will memorize 100 Bible verses.

Besides the Bible study at Camp, there will be swimming, boating, baseball and other sports.

Four delegates will be sent from St. Trinity Lutheran Church to the National Walther League Convention to be held in Ames, Iowa.

EARNING THEIR WAY — The Junior and Senior Walther Leagues of the St. Trinity Lutheran Church sponsored an ice cream social this week in the church dining hall to benefit the four delegates to the National Walther League Convention in Ames, Iowa. Cutting the cakes and serving were (left to right) Janice Smith of 263 South Marshall St., Linda Brenner of 274 Auburn Ave. a teacher of the St. Trinity School, Audrey Reas of 3627 Overton Rd., Watkins Lake, and Martha Ehlers of 9 South Paddock St., president of the local League.

SATURDAY SUDS TO PAY WAY — Young people of the First Church of God on South East Boulevard are washing cars every Saturday at 295 Orchard Lake Ave. to increase their conference fund. * * *

Parents of the group attended a family day program at the camp last night. Bible study, worship services, patriotic ceremonies, handicraft and various types of recreation make up the program.

Churches Win Parking Rights

Ordinance in Memphis Relaxes Requirements After Controversy

* * *

The City Commission yesterday passed an ordinance amendment which included these new requirements:

1. Churches built in the future need provide only one parking space for each 10 seats in the main auditorium.

2. Existing churches will not be required to provide off-street parking except if capacity of the main auditorium is increased, and then at a 1-to-10 ratio.

* * *

The commission overrode the 1-to-8 ratio set by the Memphis Planning Commission which originally had recommended a 1-to-5 ratio.

The ministers charged that the off-street parking regulations deprived churchgoers of these five constitutional rights:

* * *

Free exercise and enjoyment of religion; equal protection of the law; due process of law, in that church members are being deprived of their liberty and property; free speech; the right to peaceful assembly.

Methodists Facing Shortage of Ministers

DES MOINES, Ia. (AP)—The college of bishops of the North Central Jurisdiction told conference delegates Thursday the Methodist Church has a serious shortage of ministers.

The joint message of the bishops of Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Indiana, Michigan and the Dakotas was read by Bishop Marshall R. Reed of Detroit.

A shortage of money and the need for a better program for youth of the church also were termed serious problems.

The Bait and Switch
Racket
Every housewife likes a bargain! So when she sees a famous brand vacuum cleaner or sewing machine or television set advertised at ridiculously low prices, "guaranteed factory rebuilt," she becomes an easy mark for the "bait and switch" salesman.
The operation is simple. Mrs. Housewife sees an advertisement for an appliance, "completely equipped with all attachments," "absolutely guaranteed" which is promised to her at a most attractive price. She answers the advertisement, and shortly afterwards admits a salesman into her home with a dilapidated machine under his arm or a new machine of obvious inferior construction.
The lady of the house expresses doubt, he says:
"I wouldn't want to sell you this one, either. But since you were too late to get a good rebuilt machine, I can offer you a $50 discount on this brand new machine."
It still sounds good, for she is getting "a new machine at a tremendous bargain." The fast-talking pitchman gets the housewife's signature — "Just a receipt, Madam"—and she finds heself committed to pay $8 or $10 a month for the next 18 months. She finds, all too soon, that she has bought a very expensive "bargain."
You can avoid becoming a "bait and switch sucker" by following a few simple rules:
1. When you have an impulse to get something for nothing, don't:
2. If a standard article is advertised, and a salesman offers you something else, take warning. He is probably a "bait and switch" man.
3. If a salesman tries to rush you into signing a paper, stop and read it first.
4. Above all, be as smart as you are, and don't believe any salesman who says he wants to make you a present just because of the beauty of your big blue eyes.

Churches Win Parking Rights

Ordinance in Memphis Relaxes Requirements After Controversy

* * *

The City Commission yesterday passed an ordinance amendment which included these new requirements:

1. Churches built in the future need provide only one parking space for each 10 seats in the main auditorium.

2. Existing churches will not be required to provide off-street parking except if capacity of the main auditorium is increased, and then at a 1-to-10 ratio.

The commission overrode the 1-to-8 ratio set by the Memphis Planning Commission which originally had recommended a 1-to-5 ratio.

The ministers charged that the off-street parking regulations deprived churchgoers of these five constitutional rights:

Free exercise and enjoyment of religion; equal protection of the law; due process of law, in that church members are being deprived of their liberty and property; free speech; the right to peaceful assembly.

'Eloped' Envoy's Mom in Moscow to Visit Him

LONDON (AP) — The mother of runaway British diplomat Guy Burgess has gone to Moscow in the last two days to visit him, the Foreign Office announced tonight.

She applied to the Soviet Embassy in London for a visa and informed the British ambassador in Moscow of her plans three months ago, a spokesman said.

Donald Maclean—the other half of the renegade team of Burgess and Maclean—already has been joined in the Soviet Union by his wife and children.

Mother and son have corresponded regularly since the missing diplomats came into the open in Moscow in February, but this is their first meeting since the two former Foreign Office officials disappeared in the summer of 1951.

* * *

He admitted the theft and turning over the document to Seymour S. Hindman and Sidney M. Stern, both 39, co-owners of Distinctive Emblem and Uniform Corp., East Orange.

Armed Infiltrators Ambush Israeli Car

JERUSALEM (AP) — An Israeli military spokesman said today four armed infiltrators ambushed a civilian car last night near Lydda Airport and shot the driver dead.

The spokesman said a woman passenger managed to escape and contact Israeli police. Lydda is 11 miles southeast of Tel Aviv.

Israel filed a complaint with the U.N. Mixed Armistice Commission, the spokesman reported.

Israeli Foreign Ministry sources said the reported ambush was the 100th incident along the Israel-Jordan demarcation line since the latest cease-fire agreement was concluded April 26.

Butterfield Head Gives Schedule

New Films Slated for July - August Showing Locally

Art Sanford, city manager of the Butterfield Theaters, announced this week that some of the finest films produced in Hollywood this year will be released this summer.

The Butterfield Theaters are staging a statewide promotion during July and August to alert the public to the playing of these pictures, Sanford said.

"Away All Boats," the best seller that focused on the "Belinda" naval attack transport in the Pacific naval campaign during World War II. Jeff Chandler, George Nader, Julie Adams star.

"The King and I", screen adaptation of the Rogers and Hammerstein musical, starring Yul Brynner and Deborah Kerr.

"Trapeze," exciting circus story starring Burt Lancaster, Gina Lollobrigida, and Tony Curtis.

"D-Day the Sixth of June," the deep emotional experience of two men who loved the same woman and meet for the first time on an assault craft. Robert Taylor, Richard Todd and Dana Wynter star.

Pontiac Theaters

Museum Officials Alter Sex of Oldest Skeleton

CHICAGO (INS) — Illinois State Museum authorities have revealed that what may be "the oldest skeleton in the United States" has turned out to be that of a man and not a woman.

Dr. Thorne Duel, museum director, said the 5,600-year-old Indian skeleton found in Southern Illinois, "may be the oldest found in the United States," but it is a man's and not a woman's as first believed.

Quake Felt in Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The government observatory last night reported a mild earthquake about 215 miles southwest of Mexico City. There were no reports of damage from the area.

Hollywood Headlines

Shelly Loses Insecurity During Season on Stage

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Maybe all of the movie queens should take a season on Broadway—if they could come back as refreshed and stimulated as Shelley Winters.

The St. Louis blonde has returned to her Hollywood haunts after scoring a hit in "A Hatful of Rain" on Broadway, and she presents a new Shelley. Gone is the frantic, staccato talk. No longer is she desperately eager about her career. She has a new confidence, a sense of security.

"I used to do all the pictures that came along," she smiled. "Now I'm trying to see how many I can avoid."

* * *

She admits that her zeal to do movies was caused by insecurity. In some the roles were scarcely more than walk-ons.

"No more of those roles for me," she vowed. "And I'm not playing any more blonde bombshells, either."

She is content to sit out the summer and return to the stage in September for a new play, "The Girls of Summer."

"There's no real kick in doing pictures," she observed. "After you've finished the last scene, it's over.

"But in the theater, you have a different audience every night. It's fascinating to study them; everything they do has meaning. When they laugh, when they cough, when they are completely silent—you can tell exactly how they are feeling.

"Once when I was doing a tense scene I heard a clicking sound. I heard it again at another performance and I got real mad about it. But someone told me that clicking was the sound of women opening their purses to get their handkerchiefs. After that, I welcomed the sound."

Shelley remarked that she was amused at how the critics reacted to her work.

* * *

"They were surprised that I could give a good performance," she said. "That's so silly. The only difference between acting for the screen and the stage is that you've got to be heard on the stage."

* * *

What about the financial aspect?

"Sure, I make a lot less on the stage," she replied. "But I can earn as much as I need to live comfortably. The rest would go to taxes anyway."

Ask Sewer Talk With Pontiac

Waterford Township Gives 3 Subdivisions New Priority

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — Waterford Township Supervisor Lloyd Anderson has invited Pontiac City Commissioners to meet jointly with the township board on mutual sewer problems.

Sewer priority has been promised by the Township board for three areas bordering Pontiac.

The hardpan area of the township, covering primarily Elizabeth Lake Estates, Sylvan Shores and Donelson Park, will have sewers installed first, the board decided in special session on Wednesday.

The invitation to Pontiac for a joint meeting was issued yesterday by Anderson at the order of the board on Wednesday.

A survey of the township done in 1953 was studied by board members with the firm that did it and serves as consulting engineers for the board. Felix Anderson and Clair Johnson of that firm, Johnson & Anderson Engineering, met with the board.

Of the areas for which immediate sewers are planned, two are nearing completion. The plan is in readiness for the Sylvan Shores installation, but the contractors bids have not yet been taken.

In Donelson Park, the area is in the process of petitioning for the sewer.

Answers to registered letters to all Donelson Park residents asking whether or not sewers are wanted, are due next Thursday.

Progress of the two areas have been on basis of a previous agreement with the city of Pontiac.

Goodrich to Hold First Carnival in Twenty Years

GOODRICH — The first carnival here in almost 20 years will be given Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday by the business men on the Wheelock auditorium athletic field.

* * *

The Goodrich Community Club is sponsoring a parade Monday night for all 13 and 14 year olds. Prizes will be awarded for funniest costume worn by a teenager not on a bicycle, for best decorated bike, for boys in three classes and for girls in three classes.

The township's new fire truck will lead the parade.

The parade steps off at 7:30 p.m. from the school, to Hegel Road, down Clarence Street to the carnival grounds.

Entry deadline for the fishing contest for boys under 14 years is 6 p.m. Tuesday at any village store. Seven prizes will be given by the village's businessmen.

Farmington Argues Police Station Wagon

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — Whether the suburban peoples of Farmington could better be served by Farmington Township Police in a station wagon than in their present sedan is subject of a study being conducted by township officials here.

* * *

Township Clerk Floyd A. Cairns and Trustee Robert Harris are shopping for a new police vehicle to replace the older of the police department's two vehicles.

"More integration with the police and fire departments" is sought by Mrs. Avery. She feels the station wagon would enable police to carry some fire equipment and a resuscitator.

HAS MANY USES

She points out that this is being done in Oak Park with considerable success.

* * *

"A station wagon would be handy for picking up dogs, stolen articles, and in emergencies, people," according to Mrs. Avery.

"And we have put much emphasis on civil defense and should consider this when buying a police car," she continues.

"The resuscitator just couldn't be hauled around in a police vehicle," says Chief Yakes. "The police car is often out of Farmington on visits to Pontiac. Police prisoners from the Farmington area must be taken to the Pontiac jail." he points out.

* * *

'We could pick up things that we can't haul in our present cars," he admits.

A check with other communities is urged by Cairns. "At every accident, people would want the injured loaded into the police car. This is against all rules of first aid," he says.

"Fire extinguishers adequate for small fires are already carried in both police cars," he says, "because the township has only a volunteer fire department."

Repairs would be more frequent for station wagons than for two-door models, Cairns feels. "On township roads, police car bodies do not hold together well," he says.

"It seems to me if the police want two-doors that's the thing to buy," he concludes.

Reflections

SMILE AWHILE

J. L. VOORHEES

Go shopping. Meet someone who smiles; your day is brighter. Answer your telephone. If the voice has a smile your visit is pleasant. A salesman presents his card—and a smile; he gets a smile in return—and an order. A happy girl, though comely, is wisely chosen as queen. A husband who brings home a smile is more welcome than one with a slab of bacon and a frown. Smiles are the passwords to happiness.

M. E. SIPLE

Two cars crashed; I expected an argument. One driver clenched his fists, hunched his shoulders, body was crouched ready to spring. The other man came forward, smiled, held out his hand; in a minute both men were smiling, parted as friends. A smile did it.

Your Neighbor's House

Architect Designs Home for Family at Orchard Lake

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Doctors don't take care of their own families. But architects plan their own houses. Herbert L. Hawthorne, A. I. A., has won a number of architectural contests, among them the Howard T. Keating House design contest. He also did the plans for his own house.

He and his wife, Barbara, moved into their new home on Orchard Pointe, on the north side of Orchard Lake, about six weeks ago. They love being in the country and having space both in the house and outside for their two young sons, Gregory, aged 4, and Christopher, aged 2, to play and run.

The one - story house fits snugly into the uneven terrain. It combines brick and redwood siding. The three-quarter acre site overlooks the lake. The Hawthornes have an easement on a little bay where they keep their boat.

Studio ceilings exist throughout the entire house which contains 1655 square feet of space. The living area is an open one, with the bedroom area off at one end of the house. In between is the family room which Mr. Hawthorne calls a common meeting ground.

All the floors are cork-tone tile in several shades of brown and beige. With the exception of one wall in the entry all wood in the house is birch.

One complete wall of the living room is brick. It is centered with a fireplace about five feet long. Below the raised hearth there is storage space for wood.

This is a modern home for a modern young family. The living room furniture is modern, with plywood contour chairs and tables with metal legs. The cocktail table is exceptionally beautiful. It is made of alternating strips of light and dark wood.

The tweed sofa has bright colored pillows. There is a rust lounge chair and one covered in green. The draperies are sheer white with a gold and black design.

The south wall of the room which overlooks Orchard Lake is a window wall. It has a door in the center leading out to a patio. The other walls are painted light turquoise. The ceiling is white.

Between the living room and the kitchen, the wall does not extend all the way up to the ceiling. Counter tops, refrigerator, built-in oven and range are all beige. The walls are white.

All kitchen cabinets which are made of birch have concealed hardware. The pass-through counter from the kitchen to the dining room acts as a snack bar. The window above the sink looks out on the yard where Greg and Chris play.

Bamboo draperies in the dining room match those in the kitchen. Dining room walls are creamy gold. There is a door here to the back yard.

Above the walnut table with black wrought iron legs there's a hanging lamp. This top has been treated so that it is impervious to food and other materials that might stain it. The wrought iron chairs have tweed backs and seats.

A folding wall in the center of this room divides it into two sections. The one at the front of the house is the family or TV room. The Hawthornes do not let TV rule their house. The set is in a closet where it can be shut up.

One black chair and two basket chairs complete the furnishings in this room. It is a room for relaxation, whether it is adults reading, or children playing.

Cream colored walls make the hall to the bedroom area a light one. On one side is a utility room, on the other storage closets.

The bathroom has honey beige walls and a beige tile floor. It is amazing how much light comes into a room through a skylight like the one in this interior room. Bright yellow towels seem to put more sunshine in the room.

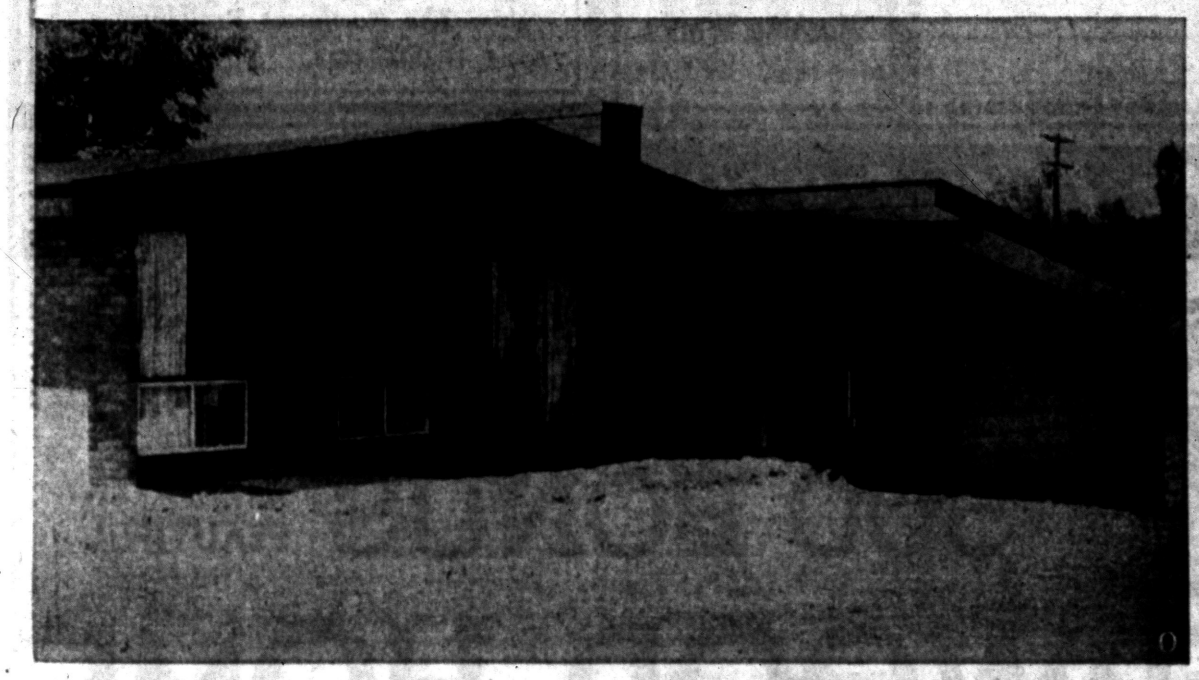

There is a second bathroom next to Mr. and Mrs. Hawthorne's bedroom. This one is done in gray and coral, with gray and white striped towels.

Olive green is used on three of the bedroom walls, white on the fourth one. The glass curtains are gray fibre glass. One wall is all closets, with storage cupboards above.

Mrs. Hawthorne made the attractive denim spread. It is a finely striped material, a very Joseph's coat of colors. Red and brown throw pillows accent those colors.

SIDE ENTRANCE—This door opens from the living room of the Herbert Hawthorne home at Orchard Lake. A patio is planned for this area. The garage is on a lower level than the rest of the house.

HARMONIZING APPLIANCES—Mrs. Hawthorne shows off her wall oven. Range, refrigerator and oven are a sandstone shade which blends well with the birch cabinets in the kitchen. In contrast, the walls are painted white. The pass-through counter also serves as a snack bar.

HOME ON ORCHARD POINTE — Herbert Hawthorne, prize-winning local architect, put his talent to work and planned this interesting home for his family. Located on a quarter-acre plot overlooking Orchard Lake, the house combines redwood siding and brick. There are six rooms, two baths and a double garage. Leonard Wolfe of Franklin was the builder.

DOUBLE BEDROOM—The two boys share a bedroom that can be made into separate rooms by use of a folding wood door. Here we see Gregory's end of the room with his modern bed. Both ends of the room have a full wall of closets. Like all other floors throughout the house, this floor is cork-tone tile.

UNUSUAL WOOD STORAGE UNIT — One end of the living room in the Hawthorne house is bricked. Underneath the raised hearth of the wide fireplace is a hole used for storing fireplace wood. This house is built on the open plan, with rooms in the living area flowing freely into each other. The full-length window beside the front door lets light in to brighten the entryway. Birch and walnut wall paneling are used.

FLOOR PLAN—This floor plan shows how family room, kitchen and mud room are segregated from the formal living-dining area and quiet sleeping rooms. Three backyard entrances let children run in and out without disturbing the rest of the house.

Press Home of the Week Is House Women Wanted

Ask a hundred thoughtful women from all parts of the country what they would like to have in a house, and what do you get? This plan, Design HW-8A for The House of the Week, gives you a good idea.

* * *

(See exterior view on page 17.)

The ideas, expressed in three days of discussions, were summarized by the office of Albert M. Cole, Housing and Home Finance Administrator.

Cole sponsored the conference to determine the types of homes most people want.

The women voted virtually unanimously for three bedrooms, one and a half bathrooms, a spacious family room off the kitchen and removed from the more formal living room, a separate dining room, a basement, mud room and adequate closet space—in a one-story home covering less than 1,500 square feet.

WHAT WOMEN WANTED

All of that and more are included in this plan. Rudolph A. Matern, a national authority on popular home design, planned HW-8A to incorporate as many as possible of the details considered to be most desirable by the greatest number of the women.

"Some items, which they were willing to sacrifice as not absolutely essential, have also been included in this plan," the architect says, "in the interest of good design for efficient and comfortable living."

The women planted a bombshell in architectural circles by saying, in effect, that most male architects don't know how to plan a house for sensible family living. Their criticisms seem certain to have far reaching effects on the future of architecture.

Nearly all of them wanted the kitchen on the rear with a window facing the back yard. They wanted windows a child could look out of — windows easy to remove and clean—but picture windows only when they had a desirable view.

* * *

Most wanted garages, but when faced with costs, they were willing to eliminate a garage for the time being and add it later. Basements were favored only for their added storage space in view of their economy of construction.

* * *

The house is divided into three distinct areas—formal living and dining room for entertaining, informal zone for family relaxation, and quiet sleeping wing.

* * *

Children's needs are paramount in this plan. Youngsters can run in from the backyard to the lavatory off the laundry-mudroom adjoining the kitchen.

STATISTICS

They can step out from the family room to porch, terrace and back yard. They can be taken to bed from the family room without traipsing through the living room.

The house does provide room for a family. There is eating space for five in the kitchen. The women wanted 5 feet of closet hanger space per person. The closets here provide a total of 37 linear feet of hanger space.

FUTURE GARAGE

The architect points out that there are three optional locations for a future garage: 1. on the utility room side with a breezeway between house and garage; 2. in the rear, opposite the family room and porch with a lanai-type separation between; 3. in front of the dining room with a court-type separation between.

"Other features which make this home a housewife's delight," Matern says, "are a planter-flanked front entrance, a weather protected front door, a large front foyer, bathroom located to serve as powder room, two linen closets and one towel closet, basement entrance in mud room adjacent to service door, a log burning fireplace, and exceilent location of rear porch and exits for future expansion of outdoor living facilities."

Home With Basement Will Cut Fuel Expenses

It is possible to save as much as 10 per cent on fuel bills by building a home with a basement, says the Better Basement Institute.

Fill the Grooves

After opening a paint can, being careful not to damage the lid, fill the groove with paper towels, napkins or tissues rolled in a strip. You can throw them away when painting is finished. Always be sure to clean out groove with paper before replacing lid.

THE HOME THE WOMEN ASKED FOR—Based on wishes of women who met for a conference on homes, this house has been specifically designed. The low pitched roof with single ridge adds length to the house. Brick veneer all around is optional.

U. S., Industry Disagree on Home Building Issue

WASHINGTON (INS) — Government and industry are locked in basic disagreement over whether home construction is in danger and, if so, what to do about it.

Everyone agrees on the demand and desirability for construction of 1.3 million homes this year to match the high level reached in 1955—but from there on out they split down the middle.

Housing and Home Finance Administrator Albert M. Cole believes the goal can be reached within the scope of Federal Reserve Board policy, which shows evidence of easing conditions in the money market.

Cole sees "no kind of dangerous situation" and no difficulty any time in at least the next 18 months.

BUILDERS SEE TROUBLE

Builders maintain that the industry is at a peril point, with mortgage money tighter than at any time in the past 10 years and low cost housing threatened by lack of financing for long-term home loans.

They find no improvement in the situation and claim that starts are too low now ever to reach 1.3 million this year but, on the other hand, could drop below one million for the first time since 1948.

Bankers expect a gradual easing that will release more money to build homes, either by government action or by seasonal conditions under which booming construction in other fields will let up and industry's priority-rated expansion needs will have been met.

At a news conference this week, Cole said it is "quite possible" to reach 1.3 million starts this year "in the present situation."

While holding to this prediction, the administrator conceded that the current market would support only 1.15 million. Latest figures placed starts at an annual rate of 1.11 million.

Cole backed Federal Reserve policy and said HHFA is looking at other ways to ease credit. In a deliberately evasive manner, however, he gave no indication if what action, if any is contemplated.

Cole told newsmen: "There is no lack of people who want houses and can afford them. It is my job as administrator to recognize the sound demand for housing and see that it is met."

In countering Cole's optimistic view, a spokesman for the National Association of Home Builders said that between demand-with-ready-money and actual construction there is a six-month lag—enough to wipe out any chance of reaching 1.3 million in 1956.

What Color Do You Want for Wall to Ceiling Rugs?

SAN FRANCISCO (INS) — Don't be surprised if one of these fine days leading decorators bring forth a room with the carpeting on the wall and the wall coverings on the floor and ceiling.

The completely enclosed patio — but one that looks as if it were leading right into the great outdoors — uses wallpaper to create the illusion. The floor is tilted and off at an upward angle on the wallpaper on the back wall is a garden path leading to an arch and with a "garden" of flowers on both sides.

The room would be a fine morning room and ideal for furnishing an interior room with a ceiling skylight. A bird cage complete with bird on one wall heightens the illusion and a delightfully bent Japanese tree is an important decoration. The table is marble topped and the chairs of the patio variety.

Another unique covering, one which masked not only the wall but the ceiling itself, was in gold silk. The draped silk covered one wall, was caught to the wall at the intersection of wall and ceiling and then billowed out again to drape the entire ceiling.

It would probably be impractical for anything but a small entrance hall or study but contributes a real feeling of elegance to such a small room.

Grass cloth seemed by far to be the favorite wall covering of the decorators — in shades ranging from natural to an amazingly realistic gold. And in wallpaper itself, the Oriental influence was strong.

GIs Beseige VA Appraisers During April

Veterans Administration in Detroit received requests to appraise more than 3,325 homes for GI loans during April—the highest montly total since Augest 1955. August 1955.

VA also received 1,601 GI home loan applications from lenders on behalf of veterans. This was an increase of approximately 13 per cent over the March total of 1,420.

Of the total of 3,325 units, 2,772 were proposed homes, an increase of 36 per cent over March, and 553 were existing homes, a 28 per cent increase over the previous month.

Mr. Lloyd H. Jameson, VA's regional for Michigan, said the increase in appraisals and loan applications are not surprising at this time of year.

Check Other Gardens for New Flower Ideas

Look, for instance, at the wide variety in size, shape and color of iris and plan to improve your collection with some Dutch, Japanese or get some additional color among your planting of the bearded variety.

At the turn of the century, 3,500,000 families in the United States owned their own homes. Today the number has increased to 25,000,000.

A Cleveland company has developed a gauge for truck operators that measures fuel consumption. It is installed between the fuel pump and the carburetor and shows gallonage used on any particular run.

If You Need Money

Contact your financial institution or appliance dealer for last-word information before starting any major home improvement job requiring credit. Availability and terms of loans will vary from time to time and place to place, although sound improvement projects always rate high with lenders.

NEW JUVENILE FURNITURE—Furniture for the younger set is being shown in the current furniture markets. Vandy-craft makes this tete-a-tete table and settee on wheels, easy chair on wheels and easy rocking chair. All are made of redwood with loose cushions and are exact copies of adult furniture.

Prefab Houses Lose Factory-Made Look

Last year one out of every 12 homes was manufactured in factories. Prefabrication of homes was a $1,245,000,000 business. Obviously, the technique is here to stay. It is not only the smaller, less expensive homes that are being "prefabbed;" larger homes, some costing a much as $100,000, have been "factory made."

* * *

Best news for consumers is that the prefab house no longer has the look of a machine-stamped, mass production item. The package today includes much more than it did only a few years ago. For instance, a whole bathroom including ceramic tiled walls and floors, plumbing and fixtures, is now available.

But prospective home buyers should investigate thoroughly the advantages and disadvantages of purchasing a prefab home before closing the deal. It is important to know who designs the house, who makes it, who sells it, and who erects it; and compare carefully the relative costs of buying a prefab with buying a site-built home. The comparison may show different results in different parts of the country.

The year 1957 will mark the twenty-fifth anniversary of the introduction of asbestos-cement siding shingles.

Make Cellar Safe!

You can make your basement as safe or safer than any other room in your house by providing it with a separate entrance to the out-doors, says the Institute of Home Designers. The door provides a safety exit for a basement game room, laundry area or workshop. The outside steps can be protected with a double-leaf metal hatchway that also is fireproof.

You Can't Fall Out

A contribution to safety in the "do it yourself" movement is the development of removable double-hung wood windows which now enable you to do all your window jobs while standing on your floor. The sash lifts out of the frame easily, and there is no need to stand on chairs or ladders when doing any washing, painting or repair jobs.

Hawthorne House Fits Into Terrain

Leonard Wolfe of Franklin built the Hawthorne house for the young architect. It was started in October and took about seven months to complete.

For years Mr. Hawthorne's family had a summer cottage at Middle Straits Lake. He knew and loved this section of Oakland County. Now he has moved his family to a permanent home in the same area. They're country residents for good.

In Some Communities . . .

Effectiveness of home improvement projects can be multiplied when carried out on a neighborhood or community basis. Your picture window may look out on a neighbor's unpainted porch, or on his garbage cans. In some spots whole communities have adopted the gas incinerator, saving all the nuisances and health hazards presented by the garbage and trash problem.

Every third person employed in the U.S. today is a woman, reports the National Industrial Conference Board.

Modern House Sporting Pastel Roofs, Doors

CHICAGO (INS) — Something new is being added to the modern version of the dream cottage surrounded by a picket fence.

Instead of the storybook white house with green shutters, today's homeowners are adding colors as pale or brilliant as a flower garden to rooftops.

Dark green or dark grey roofs once were popular for the typical frame home in the U. S. But no more. Now, says a consultant for a firm which makes roofing materials, the trend is toward pastels, light or bright.

More colorful roofs, said Fred W. Lagerquist, are particularly attractive on low, sloping rooftops, the kind that are visible, by and large, even to pedestrians on the street.

Lagerquist's firm makes pastel-colored shingles. He said:

"The roof can no longer hide behind a dark or drab color. It shows. So it should either be a complementing or contrasting color to the rest of the exterior."

Preferably, Lagerquist said, the trim around the windows and doorways should match the color of the roof. And, to be really up to date, the front door should match the roof or at least contrast with it.

Watch for 'Silver Fish' in Closet, Bathroom

Always be on the lookout for the thin, slinky, "silver fish" in closets and bathrooms. When doing your cleaning be sure to pay particular attention to dark places, open spaces in the floors, baseboards, behind shelves, etc. Where a spray is practical, use a well known liquid or powder and the sprayer or blower attachment of the vacuum cleaner.

IF AVERAGE — That is if they are just average size kids but if they vary in size as kids do any number up to eight can rock and row to their hearts' content. This is a fascinating toy and safe too; it can't upset. So, all aboard! Two of the oldest sailors stand watch at either end and are joined together by a thick dowel for holding fast in a rough sea. And there is fun for daddy too in buzzing out the half-moon rockers on this power saw. And if mother likes to use a big array of rainbow colors and needs directions she will find everything complete on pattern 458, copy of which will be mailed for 25 cents. For five other lawn playthings send for Outdoor Play Equipment packet (P-25) of standard size patterns. Price of packet is $1.

Keep Cool, Mac —in the Shower

Where? Under the showers, of course.

Most popular feature of the bathroom these days is the shower or showers because most houses now offer a variety of shower equipment.

In addition to the shower over the bathtub, there is usually another shower in a separate compartment. This is in the second or children's bathroom.

In addition the well-equipped house today may have a shower compartment in the first-floor washroom and a shower compartment in the basement as an indispensable accessory for the recreation room.

Basement showers come in for plenty of use during the summer days when they help take the wear and tear away from the family bathroom, especially when there are youngsters trooping in from the beach and tracking sand around.

Most newsworthy development in showers in recent years is the small, water-saving showerhead and in the various types of controls which enables the bather to fix the water temperature with the turn of a single handle.

* * *

For shower addicts who like their showers in the bathtub there is available a showerhead mounted on a long arm with a flexible joint. This enables the bather to shower while seated in the tub or while standing up.

Sunbursts Grow in Popularity for Home Decor

CHICAGO (INS)—Sunbursts are so popular in home decor nowadays they are popping up all over the place—on walls, floors, tables.

Sunray designs—inlaid in two-tone leather — were featured on stylish cocktail table tops exhibited at the International Home Furnishings Market in Chicago. The favorite color combination was as sunny as the design itself — soft green and gold.

But the biggest array of sunburst designs comes in wall accessories. Manufacturers are offering them in metal finished in gold, black or white and in everything from candle sconces at $5 a pair to framed mirrors that have a spread of nearly three feet and cost about $70.

Knowing Age of House Helps Planning Repairs

Surveys have brought out that a surprisingly large number of home owners do not know the age of their dwellings, or have mistaken ideas on the subject if they think they know. Accurate information on this score is valuable in home improvement planning. Building age is a clue to prospective repair needs, and a reminder of the years that may have passed since labor-saving appliances were added to meet changing needs.

For Your Little Girl

COLORED CONCRETE—Newcomers to the art of coloring fresh concrete are cautioned to do small sections at a time if covering a large area. Special pigments are used to give color to the concrete.

Tinted Cement Adds Color to Patios, Garden Walks

* * *

By varying the amount of coloring material used, or by intermixing pigments, you can make concrete any shade you wish for patios, garden walks and stepping stones.

They must be mixed with portland cement and sand or gravel before application. (Premixed pigment, cement and aggregates also can be obtained in 100-pound sacks.)

BLEND COMPONENTS CAREFULLY

One of the touchiest phases of concrete coloring is blending these components prior to application. If not thoroughly mixed, the color won't be uniform when applied. They should be sifted through a fine screen over and over again.

Broadly speaking, there are two methods of adding the pigment-cement-aggregate coloring mixture to concrete.

One is to dust it onto the surface and work it in with a wood trowel. The other way is to add water to the mixture and spread it on the fresh concrete base about ½-inch thick, then trowel it smooth.

Dusted-on coloring doesn't penetrate as deeply, but the technique is far easier to master.

Regardless of the method used, the uncolored concrete should be made roughly level first. The coloring mixture can be applied after the water sheen has disappeared from the concrete but before it has hardened.

BEGIN SMALL

A patio is fair game for the beginner if it is divided into 30-inch sections with a crisscrossed wooden grid. Thus each section can be poured and colored separately.

* * *

Incidentally, accurate measurement of the ingredients is essential when it's necessary to make several batches of coloring mixture. It's the only way to maintain color uniformity.

For the dust-on method, prepare the coloring mixture using one part white portland cement; 1½ parts dry, white, screened sand, and enough pigment to achieve the desired tint. The pigment should be no more than 10 per cent (by weight) of the cement.

White cement and sand are specified because they don't effect the final color. Less pigment is required and pastel hues, in particular, come out clearer than if gray cement and brown sand are used in the coloring mixture.

A batch of dust-on coloring mix made with one sack of cement will cover up to 300 square feet. It should be sifted evenly over the wet concrete—one to 1¼ pounds per square foot.

Work the mix into the concrete with the wood float, but stop when a water sheen appears. Smooth the surface with a steel trowel when the water has again all but disappeared.

* * *

Hi-Fi Addicts Make It Simply

DENVER (INS) — The latest trend in high fidelity housing is the chairside unit that overcomes the main difficulty of old-style console radio - phonograph combinations.

* * *

The new type installation, easily constructed by anyone familiar with woodworking tools, places the turntable beside the most comfortable easy chair. Amplifier, pre-amp, and tuner are mounted behind the turntable and higher than the player base. In this manner, all controls can be reached from the chair. The speaker should be in an opposite corner.

The chairside installation reverses the trend toward built-in units and large console-type furniture, which require the listener to get up and cross the room every time he turns over a record.

The amplifier and tuner can be placed beneath the player, but this involves squatting to handle the controls, since the amplifier requires a large ventilation space. The units can also be mounted face up behind the turntable, but repairmen point out tube elements sometimes sag if the tubes are not vertical. This can burn out tubes prematurely.

* * *

Heavy plywood should be used in construction. Turntable height of about 21 inches is best, depending on the height of the chair seat. Sides of the unit should extend down to the floor to provide the most solid turntable base. The area under the turntable can be used for record storage.

Let's You Sleep

We who have been awakened by banging trash cans may like this giant can made of the plastic, polyethylene. It comes in four colors, is acid-proof, rust-proof and holds 22 gallons. When run over by a truck it jumps back into perfect shape, says the manufacturer, Loma Plastics, Inc. of Fort Worth, Texas.

Don't Use Abrasives!

Hot soap or detergent suds will keep chromium shiny and smooth. After rinsing, polish with a soft dry cloth. Because chromium is soft, it will eventually wear off if rubbed with harsh abrasives.

Kitchen Experts Warn Builders

Do-It-Yourselfers Told to Get Professional Aid Before Modernizing

With interest now running high in making old kitchens over into new, some home owners are raising the question: how much of the kitchen modernizing work can I do myself?

* * *

The answer, kitchen experts say, is that if you are planning on a wood kitchen and if you are a competent home handyman, there may be several phases of the work you can handle. But, they add quickly, proceed with wisdom and caution—don't try to do too much.

To begin with, the plumbing and wiring should be farmed out to professionals unless you are unusually well schooled in those departments for an amateur.

Next, the kitchen experts believe it is unwise to attempt to build wood kitchen cabinets at home. Even a skilled home craftsman with scads of power tools could scarcely hope to match the quality of factory-made wood cabinets, mass-produced under stringent quality controls by professional craftsmen.

ASK PROFESSIONAL

If you are proud of your prowess in the workshop, you can get the advantages of factory production and still do some of the work yourself by ordering knock-down cabinet kits. Even so, when it comes to installing the assembled units, you would be well advised to have a professional on hand.

On the next plateau are the people who order unfinished wood cabinets and have them installed, but who apply the final finish to the cabinets themselves, thus effecting some savings.

Others prefer to turn the entire job over to a local dealer who will oversee every step of the work and take responsibility for the completed job. Even on this level, there is scope for "do-it-yourself" talents — by exercising your personal desires in selecting components, planning their arrangement, and decorating the kitchen.

The dealer will take your preferences into account, at the same time drawing on his own fund of knowledge of kitchen planning to advise you in your choices.

Use the Back Porch

In older homes, says the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association, owners are converting back porches, pantries and even breakfast rooms to laundries. With ample space, the can add to the laundry equipment for hand-laundering, wall cupboards for laundry supplies and a comfortable chair for "sit-down" work.

Experts Keep Working to Improve On Carpeting

Behind the color and pattern excitement in new carpets lies an equally exciting technical story. Chemists and weaving experts are constantly improving fibers and devising new ways to handle them. The results are better looking and more durable carpets.

A wider color range and new versatility with looms stimulate the designer to the fresh ideas seen in the latest carpets. Simplified weaving techniques and new methods of construction permit more efficient and thus more economical production of good quality carpet.

What characterizes a good carper fiber? Resiliency is important to prevent crushing and retain the cushion effect, as well as deliver the maximum of warmth and quiet that are part of carpet's function. Wool, the rugged type that goes into carpets and rugs, has a natural long-lasting spring to it. As the traditional fiber for carpet, wool serves as an index of performance for other, newer man-made fibers.

Test-tube fibers, like nylon, rayon and saran can be engineered by formula for carpet use, and because they are normally smooth, their crimp or spring must be built in. These fibers are constantly being improved to deliver the maximum in resiliency, color-fastness and acceptance to dyes. Each has its own high points of performance.

Carpet rayon offers a wide color range and a softness, often with a luxurious sheen—for a medium price. Its tendency to crush is offset when construction is compact, and when rayon specially designed for carpets is used. It is often blended with wool to combine the best properties of each.

News is the process of adding color to the rayon chemical solution before it becomes a fiber. This helps color-fastness and easy removal of spots. Nylon has excellent resiliency, is long wearing and easily cleaned. Saran has comparable qualities, with superior resistance to stains, many of which can be merely wiped up. Greater research is expanding the use of more color, and more variety of design in these new fibers.

Not to be outdone by the yarn chemists, the technicians behind the looms are creating new weaves —some so new, they haven't yet been named. Theirs is the job of translating fibers into the three dimensions of a soft floor-covering, designed to look rich and elegant, or rugged and casual, or any way you like it.

With all this expert help, the homemaker can be assured that her 1956 carpet combines the best of modern science and art to better her home and her living.

There Is a New Sponge

Do stiff sponges bother you? Here's a plastic dura-soft-sponge which is always soft, is unaffected by detergents, soaps and cleaning fluids and doesn't lose color. The plastic division of Curtiss-Wright Corp. offers it.

Old Kitchen Appliances Useful in Basement

When you've arranged for installation of a new kitchen, you should hang on to equipment you are replacing, instead of discarding it.

Old cupboards will come in handy in the basement, or garage for housing odds-and-ends you hate to part with and have no place to store, while at the same time, you can give your range a new lease on life if you install it in the basement where it will be useful at canning time, for peak load cooking or baking, or simply as the nucleus of a second kitchen downstairs.

BUT we CAN fix your basement into a recreation room or your attic into additional living quarters . . .

CARPORT PADDOCK—For the "horsey" set is this simple little storage wall right in the carport where riding gear is accessible at waist level and high and dry to protect saddles and accessories from the weather. Pyramid-shaped racks hold saddles in their natural form, and bridles, crops and bits hang on doors that close flush for a smooth, tight unit. This equestrian closet is built of the same ruggedly beautiful western red cedar as carport and house.

Modern Garages Add to Size of House; Provide Needed Storage, Play Areas

If your garage does nothing more than house an automobile, then you are losing one of the most usable, least expensive rooms in your home.

Builders say square footage cost of garage is about half that of the home, and that placement, design and utilization of garage or carport can make or break the looks and convenience of the home to a great extent.

You save even more on garage construction if you use versatile, rugged, weather resistant western red cedar. It costs little extra to include storage in your garage for garden equipment, bicycles, woodworking tools or even riding equipment, depending upon your or your family's interests and spare time pursuits.

Designers point out that the garage can add to the apparent size of the small home, and can furnish that much needed extra living space that is at a premium.

USE LAWN GEAR

If you have a two car garage, why not make a carport out of half of it to use during the summertime as a sheltered patio. If the double garage-carport is attached to the house, place the carport section nearest the dwelling unit for easy accessibility and good looks.

You can use the same kind of furniture for your carport patio that you would use for lawn or any other patio. Cedar again shows its worth in tables, benches and shrub tubs, for rain will not harm it.

When you build your garage, be sure there is plenty of room so you can open car doors and move around the parked car easily. Some homemakers even have utility areas in the garage, so it is essential that space is allocated around washer and dryer.

Storage is many things to many people. If the carport is narrow and short, you can build cedar cupboards at the solid end of the garage over the hood of the car.

If you have a double carport, build a free standing closet in the center of the space as a seperator. These can be very good looking and compartmentalized for garden equipment, sports gear and the like.

For storage walls inside the garage, you will want sliding doors, for you don't run the risk of banging the car. With the sliding, flush doors closed, tools don't show outside even when the garage door is open.

Beat the Heat! This May Help

The national pastime these torrid days (and the hotter ones to come) is trying to beat the heat.

* * *

One of the most insidious effects of warm weather is dulling of the ingenuity, so that frequently the most obvious and simple heat-beating measures are overlooked.

For the benefit of those wilted citizens demoralized by helpful souls asking "Is it hot enough for you?" we present several schemes designed to get you through the summer unchafed:

1. Light clothing. Put away winter clothes so the sight of them won't make you feel warmer. Substitute light (color and weight), loose - fitting costumes for dark, heavy dress.

* * *

2. Wading pool. The children will be delighted with even a small body of water. Line it with a material like ceramic or quarry tile that's waterproof and gives the kiddies a slip-proof play area.

* * *

3. Light diet. Shift the family's diet to nourishing but less formidable meals than usual. Tickle feeble appetites with piquant dressings for salads and cold meats. P.S. Give the oven a vacation for the summer.

* * *

4. Terrace life. Move the family to an outdoor quarry tile terrace. The sight of green foliage is a psychological cooler, and water from a sprinkler will evaporate on the tile terrace and cool the atmosphere.

* * *

5. Outdoor games. Organize games active enough to stimulate soggy spirits but not perspiration. Badminton, for example, is a good compromise. When the sun is really bearing down, though, bridge might be a more realistic choice.

Nearly 6,000,000 automobiles now on the road in this country were built before Wold War II.

Senators Outlast Tigers, 12-11

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Detroit Tigers awoke this morning with an 8th-inning headache—a malady common to ballplayers who score five runs in the 8th frame and then let their opponents steal them right back.

After swapping five tallies in a wild 8th inning with the Senators last night, the Bengals ended up on the short end of a 12-11 count.

The victory went to Washington's Connie Grob, one of seven Senator pitchers. He threw only one ball. It nipped Bill Tuttle in an attempted steal of home.

The Tigers, entering the top of the eighth trailing 7-6, got unexpected help from Washington pitcher Bob Chakales. He nicked pinch-hitter Wayne Belardi and walked Harvey Kuenn.

Five of the next seven Detroit batters rapped out singles before Grob took over from reliefer Bud Byerly and threw his lone pitch that cut off Tuttle at the plate.

Washington came to bat in the las tof the 8th facing an 11-7 deficit. The Senators lined three straight safeties off Steve Gromek, another off Maas, plus a hit batter, two errors and a sacrifice.

Monmouth Televised

3 Top Races on Tap

From Our Wire Services

Three of the top races in the country today will feature the $100,000 Monmouth Park Handicap for East coast fans, the $100,000 Arlington Classic for mid-westerners, and the $100,000 Hollywood Gold Cup for the Pacific coast.

* * *

Nashua is expected to rule a prohibitive favorite at about 2-5 when he parades postward to oppose eight rivals today in the Monmouth Park Handicap.

A top-drawing card wherever he races, the handsome and unpredictable Mr. Millions will be making his first appearance at this seaside course in the richest race in Monmouth Park's history.

The 4-year-old bay, winner of 20 of his 27 starts in three seasons of campaigning, must concede plenty of weight in the mile and one quarter event. He carries 129 pounds, one more than when he captured the Suburban Handicap July 4, and gives away from 18 to 24 pounds to his rivals here.

* * *

If all go in the race, to be televised and broadcast, NBC, with post time about 4:12 p.m, EST, the pot will total $115,400 with the winner netting $79,200.

E. Gay Drake's Swoon's Son, winner of four starts this season, shoots for No. 5 today in Arlington Classic but he'll have to beat Calumet ace Fabius to accomplish the feat.

Fabius, who beat Needles in the Preakness after blowing the Kentucky Derby, is expected to rule a slight favorite since he'll be ridden by Willie Hartack.

Eight starters—probably nine—have been named in the mile run for 3-year-olds.

* * *

This was the 17th running of the Gold Cup and only three times before had the high weight in the field won the guaranteed hundred grand.

The successful three were Seabiscuit, with 133 pounds aboard, in 1938; Challedon, 133, in 1940, and Noor, 130, in 1950.

The great Citation won the Hollywood Park attraction in 1951, and the $100,000 made him the first millionaire in the history of the sport.

Eyes Olympic Title

Johnson Leads AAU Decathlon Test

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—Rafer Lewis Johnson, glittering with promise for a fifth U.S. Olympic decathlon championship, today carried a record five-event point total into the last session of the National AAU and Olympic tryout decathlon at Wabash College.

The 20-year-old UCLA giant had 4,639 points mid-way in the meet, 98 more than his first-day collection when he set the current world standard at 7,983 points last year.

He beat his record performance in the 1955 Central California AAU meet in the shot put, high jump and 400-meter dash but missed his previous best in the 100 - meter dash and broad jump.

* * *

He won the 100-meter dash in 10.6 seconds, with 1,080 points; won the broad jump at 23 feet 2½ inches, 808 points; took third in the shot put at 49 feet 8¾ inches for 894 points; tied for ninth place in the high jump at 6 feet one inch for 832 points, and shared with Aubrey Lewis of Notre Dame the best 400-meter dash time ever made in decathlon competition.

Johnson and Lewis, Notre dame halfback, plunging shoulder to shoulder in the same heat, were given identical times of 47.9 seconds, worth 1,025 points. The previous record in decathlon competition was :48.3 by J. W. Mashburn of Oklahoma A&M in 1953.

* * *

Other two event winners among 38 contenders yesterday were Ernie Shelton of the Los Angeles Athletic Club with a high jump of 6 feet 7⅝ inches and Sam Adams of Santa Barbara Athletic Club, who put the shot 53 feet ⅝ inch.

Milt Campbell of the Navy squad, former Indiana University athlete who was runner-up to Bob Mathias in the 1952 Olympic decathlon, was running second to Johnson at the halfway mark with 4,387 points. He performed well in all events except the shot put, where he fouled twice on heaves of 50 feet or better and got his single counter at 46-4¾.

Duo Shoots 65

Hanson - Cornelius Ahead

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — The lady pros taking part in the Hot Springs Four-Ball Tournament for women are giving the par 74 Cascades course a real battering.

Of the 10 teams entered, eight showed sub-par scores as play continued today in the third round of the 72-hole event. Leading the way was the duo of Beverly Hanson of Apple Valley, Calif., and Kathy Cornelius of Lake Worth, Fla., who posted a magnificent nine-under-par 65 yesterday.

Coupled with their 71 of Thursday, Miss Hanson and Mrs. Cornelius, with a 136 total for 36 holes, held a four-stroke edge over Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., and Gloria Fecht of Whittier, Calif., who came home in 69 yesterday.

The favored duo of Marlene Bauer Hagge of Asheville, N.C., and Mickey Wright of San Diego, Calif., was in third place six strokes off the pace with 72-70—142.

The winning combination will pick up $1,450 of the $6,500 in prize money being offered.

Orioles Beat Yankees for 1st Round Title

Orioles scored a run in the final inning of yesterday's Federal Midget League, at Boys Club field, to take a 1-0 win and the 1st half loop title. Gary Green got the run after singling and going around on a walk and Allen Retaskie's single. Nine games ago Orioles were in last place.

Red Sox beat Senators 5-4 in another loop game, coming from behind a 4-3 count in the final frame.

League begins 2nd round play on Monday, with a battle for playoff spots among the bottom five teams. Orioles, White Sox and Athletics are already assured spots in the series.

Softball Fans Get Twin-Bill 'Double' Sunday

One of the Thumb area's leading clubs tangles with Pontiac's Shaw's Jewelers at Beaudette Park, starting at 7 p.m. Skidgies Bombers is a Port Huron Class A outfit. Nightcap of the double-header is set for 8:30 p.m.

Another Port Huron team, the Chicks, a feminine club that was last year's Michigan Softball Association Class C champions will take on a pair of Pontiac teams in a double-header game on the North Side field. In the opener at 7 p.m. Chicks oppose Pulver Tires and at 8:30 o'clock take on North Side Auto Supply.

White Bros. play an exhbition game against Drive In Cleaners at Oriole field at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Tennessee Duo Enter Finals

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Two natives of Memphis, Tenn., little Junie Buxbaum and big Bill Scarbrough, meet in a golfing featherweight vs. heavyweight match in today's 36-hole finals of the National Public Links Tournament.

Odds were prohibitive that two fellows born in the same city would reach the finals since 1,917 golfers started in sectional qualifying and 150 began the tournament over the par 36-36—72 Harding Park course here this week.

But those odds meant nothing as Buxbaum turned back Jimmy Wilbert of South San Francisco, 2 and 1, and cigar-puffing Scarbrough overwhelmed San Francisco fireman Ovid Seyler, 6 and 5, in yesterday's semifinals of this event for the nation's best public course players.

Junie, a van and storage representative, weighs just 128 pounds and stands 5-foot-6 Scarbrough, a Navy chief petty officer now stationed in Jacksonville, Fla., towers 6-3 and tips the scales at 195.

Waterford Contest Produces Protest

A 4-2 victory for VFW over Thrifty Drugs, and a protested 3-2 Lakeland Pharmacy loss to Gidley's Electric marked last night's doubleheader makeup card at Drayton Plains (Waterford Recreation) softball park.

Lakeland protested a decision on a topped ball in front of the plate in the 6th frame, claiming the foul ball decision was wrong. Ball was hit by Jim Cuthrell.

Adcock Blasts Brooklyn As Braves Take Two

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

You think you have problems? Man, take a look at Brooklyn's po' ol' world champions trying to figure out what NOT to throw Joe Adcock. He not only hits Dodger pitchers like he owns them, it looks like he has 'em on strings.

The big guy from Coushatta, La., continued his gunning last night, parking a two-run homer and a grand-slam shot out of sight while driving in seven runs as the Milwaukee Braves reclaimed the and 6-5 twi-night doubleheader sweep against the third-place Brooks.

* * *

The 28-year-old husky has walloped 15 home runs this season and seven of them have come against the Dodgers—who also have been tagged for a quarter or so of his lifetime homers.

They grabbed the gold ring again last night as the Philadelphia Phillies made it two straight over Cincinnati, tumbling the Reds legs to second 6-4. The St. Louis Cardinals rallied to beat the New York Giants 7-5 and the Chicago Cubs came from behind to knock Pittsburgh back to fifth 7-6.

* * *

In the American League "race," Tom Sturdivant again beat Cleveland with a two-hitter (he did it June 16, too) while Bill Skowron drove in four runs with a single and home run in a 10-0 New York frolic that gave the Yankees an 8½-game lead—their best since 1953. It was their seventh straight success and sixth in a row over the Indians.

Chicago's White Sox lost their fifth straight, but stayed 2 points ahead of the third-place Tribe, in a 5-4 defeat at Boston. It was the Red Sox' fifth victory in a row and put them within two games of the Chisox and Injuns. Washington outlasted Detroit 12-11. Kansas City beat Baltimore 3-2.

Egypt, West Set to Sign Deal for Dam; Russia Out

CAIRO (INS) — Egypt has all but rejected an attractive Soviet offer in favor of dealing with the West on the huge Aswan Dam project.

* * *

Dr. Ahmed Hussein, ambassador to the U. S., said he is flying to Washington this weekend for what he hopes will be final negotiations on American and British financial support of the 1.3 billion dollar project.

He said:

"We hope we will be able to reach a successful agreement with the West. There are still a few points that need to be straightened out in negotiations."

High Egyptian sources said President Gamal Abdel Nasser has personally given Hussein a clear-cut go-ahead to complete the Western package deal.

It involves an immediate 70 million dollar grant from the U. S. and Britain, followed by a 200 million World Bank loan.

These sources said that barring some unforeseen last-minute hitch, the Hussein mission means Egypt has decided to reject a Soviet offer that would have provided the entire 400 million dollars in foreign exchange needed for the mammoth hydro-electric and irrigation project on the Upper Nile.

The project will increase Egypt's arable land by one-third and provide more than one million kilowatts of electric power for proposed new industrial projects.

Stevenson in Final New England Tour

BELFAST, Maine (AP) — Democratic presidential contender Adlai Stevenson opened the final day of his weekend northern New England tour here today by attending the annual Maine Broiler Festival following a press conference.

* * *

The former governor of Illinois will make his major address on the Maine trip at a rally at Pemaquid tonight after a clambake for the state's Democratic leaders.

Stevenson spent last night in Rockport at the home of Ambrose Cramer, a retired Chicago architect, who calls himself a "Muskie Republican."

* * *

While there he met with Gov. Edmund S. Muskie (D) and other Democratic party stalwarts, although Cramer said of his guest list "most of them are good Republicans."

Marine, Facing Trial for Six Deaths, Worries About Harm to Corps

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. (INS)—The Marine sergeant who led his 78-man platoon on a night disciplinary march resulting in the drowning of six young recruits said today he's "terribly sorry" for what happened.

Matthew C. McKeon, who faces court-martial Monday at the Parris Island Marine Base for the April 8 tragedy, said with feeling in his voice:

"I'll never forget those six boys as long as I live. I feel awfully sorry for their parents. If I were to meet any of them face-to-face, I wouldn't know what to say to them."

WILLING TO FACE MUSIC

"I'm willing to take any punishment," he said.

When he spoke of Platoon 71—the platoon of raw young recruits he took on the death march into the swamplands of Ribbon Creek—he said:

He is soft-spoken, quiet-mannered and uses the word "sir" repeatedly when talking to you. He is 31 years old, six feet one, slim and rawboned, has light blue eyes and a crew haircut.

He has received 17 battle stars.

We talked for several hours.

McKeon denied he was drunk the day of the fateful march.

"My conscience is clear on that angle," he said. "I didn't take them out on the march because of liquor. I was just as clearheaded as I am sitting here now. That's the honest truth as God is my judge. I wasn't anywhere near intoxicated."

He admitted he had two or three drinks of vodka that day.

"I never drink the stuff, and I don't know why I did that day," he said. "Well, I guess it was because it was offered to me. I'm the kind of a fellow who if I'm invited to dinner and I don't like the food, I'll eat it anyway just to be sociable.

"I didn't take Platoon 71 out that night to punish them. I did it to instill discipline in them."

McKeon veered into a discussion of how, as a drill instructor, he tried to make 'basic marines' out of the young recruits he was training. He said he felt when they left Parris Island they ought to be able to "think for themselves and work as a team." He explained:

"I tried to treat the boys decently. I never believed that because one man in the platoon goofed off I should take it out on the whole platoon. I never did.

"I've handled all kinds of kids and I've seen others handle them. I never went after any one individual, even if I knew he was a troublemaker who had been in the brig two or three times. I'd try and work with him.

"No, I wouldn't baby him. On the other hand, I wouldn't pick on the kid. Suppose I had a bad detail, such as cleaning up the dump or working in the scullery.

"Now, if I had a kid who was a bit of a bad actor I wouldn't single him out and give him the bum detail. I'd give it to a good man.

"The kibosh would say, 'Gee, he didn't pick on me for being a brig rat.' Sometimes they turped out to be all right later on.

"Once you've won his confidence you can make headway. If you take away a man's pride, or his principles, then he begins to doubt he will make a good Marine. Where there is doubt, there is no belief, no confidence. Then you have only a shell. You don't have a man."

McKeon, in speaking of the night of April 8, referred to what happened as "an accident." It was at this point he said he would be willing to take any punishment the seven-man military court hands out.

The sergeant is accused of "involuntary manslaughter," "oppression of persons subject to his orders," "using alcoholic beverages" and drinking liquor while on duty and in the presence of a recruit.

If convicted of manslaughter, he could get as much as 10 years in prison and a dishonorable discharge.

McKeon remarked he wishes the court-martial were over although he did not seem concerned about what might happen to him.

"I hope all this does not hurt the Marine Corps," he said.

Presley To Appear on Sullivan's Show

* * *

The singing idol of the teenage set will receive $50,000 for three appearances, CBS said. His first appearance will be Sept. 9 and the other two will be at approximately eight week intervals.

* * *

A subsequent appearance on the Steve Allen Show, an NBC program opposite the Sullivan show on Sunday nights, drew comment because he was so subdued.

Sullivan said he never had seen the singer perform until the other night when he watched a kinescope of the Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey Show and saw nothing objectionable about Presley's appearance with them.

Price Puts $32,000 Prize in Art Scholarship Fund

By EMILY BELSER

HOLLYWOOD (INS)—Actor and art expert Vincent Price has announced he will donate the money he won on television's "$64,000 Challenge" to a scholarship fund for outstanding art students.

* * *

Price, who owns one of Hollywood's most valuable art collections, added that the scholarships will allow selected students to study in the actor's own home.

"This would give the student certain materials to work with that he wouldn't get at the University," Price said.

* * *

The actor's home in Los Angeles is a vast museum of pre-Columbian art, African, South Sea island and American Indian sculptures and contemporary paintings.

ACCESS TO LIBRARY

* * *

Price recently won $32,000 when he tied with jockey Billy Pearson on the "$64,000 Challenge"—an appearance that caused the program to jump from 10th to first place on TV rating charts.

The tall, mustached actor has made 400 appearances on TV, but as he puts it—"never one like this!"

"It has opened up a whole new life for me," he admitted. "It's fantastic the offers I've had—money, books, lecture tours, recordings!"

* * *

"Why, if I never had another offer to do a motion picture, I'd still have so much to do I'd never get finished."

POETIC RECORDS

Vincent already has signed with a recording company to do a series of poetic records.

* * *

"I just finished an hour of Shelley," he said, "and have some others coming up.

"Being on this television show has taught me one thing," he went on, "and that is that any actor who yawns and says he doesn't want to touch anything but the 'theatah' is out of his ever-lovin' mind!"

The actor added it did him a lot of good to realize that thousands of TV viewers who had never dared admit they were interested in art, now do so without fear of being ostracized from the Saturday night poker club.

Hart to Throb During Fiesta

9th Annual Celebration to Bolster Friendship With Latin Laborers

HART (AP) — Hart's downtown section is scheduled to come alive with serapes and sombreros July 20-21, when the Rotary Club sponsors its ninth annual Mexican fiesta.

The colorful event is a good will gesture to the Mexicans and Latin-Americans who come to West Michigan to work during the fruit and vegetable harvest.

C. Gordon Osborn, chairman of the sponsoring committee, says the fiesta also offers vacationers a chance to learn something about the life of migrant workers and to enjoy their handicrafts, food and entertainment.

The committee has prepared a talent show to be presented on an outdoor stage opposite the courthouse square. Bleachers will be built.

The Rotary-Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsors also have planned contests July 21 in which the fiesta goers will choose a queen, the best costumes, amateur acts and best dancing couples.

Per captia income in Texas amounts to $1,574 a year—some $200 below the natonal average. It is rising, however, at a rate faster than that of the nation as a whole.
