Scientists Today Eye More Moon Rocks

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Scientists today open the second box of Apollo 12 moon rocks, a chest containing carefully documented samples and soil gouged from more than two feet beneath the surface.

The space agency also plans to release 29 more color pictures taken during man's second moon-landing mission. Officials yesterday released spectacular color and black and white photos and color movies of the two moon walks, a fascinating earthly eclipse of the sun and other highlights of the mission.

★ ★ ★

Geologists are eager to open the second chest to begin examiniation of 12 to 15 bags of rocks that were photographed and labeled by the astronauts before packing.

And one of the core tubes, which the astronauts pounded into the surface, is packed with soil from 24 to 30 inches deep. Scientists believe that deadly radiation from the sun does not penetrate this deep and that if there is any form of life on the moon it might have been captured by the tube.

REMOTE CHANCE

They emphasize, however, that evidence from Apollo 11 and unmanned probes indicates the chance of lunar life is extremely remote.

Related Pictures and Story, Page A-7

★ ★ ★

The Hornet is to reach Hawaii about 9 p.m. EST. There the trailer will be transferred to a jet cargo plane for a flight to the quarantine laboratory at Houston's Manned Spacecraft Center. The astronauts face 11 more days of isolation after they reach Houston early tomorrow.

Yesterday a glum Gordon went through the traditional initiation into the royal domain of Neptunus Rex—an equator-crossing tradition that dates back many years—while his two astronaut copilots roared with laughter.

ALREADY INITIATED

Conrad and Bean, who had crossed the equator earlier in their Naval careers and were already initiated as "shellbacks," made Gordon appear at the front window of their quarantine trailer wearing his hat and flight suit backwards.

A sign around his neck proclaimed: "Beware! Luney wog. Unclean! Unpredictable." Luney wog was a moonage version of pollywog, the traditional name for sailors who have not crossed the equator.

U.S., Soviets End 2 Weeks of Arms Talks

HELSINKI (AP) — U.S. and Soviet negotiators wound up two weeks of secret arms-curb talks today in what was described as a favorable atmosphere despite a smattering of caustic comment from Moscow.

After a 105-minute session at the U.S. Embassy, the envoys agreed to meet again next Tuesday at the Soviet Embassy.

★ ★ ★

Today's session was the fifth private discussion between the two sides since the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) opened Nov. 17.

Conference sources estimated after today's meeting that the negotiators still have another week or two of discussions ahead before ending the preliminary round at Helsinki. The next stage is supposed to be full-scale negotiations.

BLACKOUT PREVAILS

A news blackout on how the talks are going prevailed again today as it has since the meetings began. By joint agreement, spokesmen for the two sides are saying nothing beyond announcing the meeting times.

The American team, headed by Gerard C. Smith, feels that the talks have been marked so far by a good atmosphere and apparent Kremlin seriousness.

★ ★ ★

In Washington, Secretary of State William P. Rogers says the U.S. delegates told him earlier this week that their preliminary exchanges were "the best of any discussions they have had with the Soviet Union."

Soviet sources here have indicated that the Russians are also satisfied with the talks. But the government-controlled Soviet press has expressed no strong support for SALT and has been blaming Western "militarists" for the arms buildup.

★ ★ ★

The government newspaper Izvestia commented favorably Thursday on the "businesslike manner" of the talks, but claimed that the U.S. "military-industrial complex" is endangering them.

Today Army representatives took their corners on downtown streets and in shopping centers. Grover L. Indians on Alcatraz Hold Traditional Turkey Feast

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Indians in feathered bonnets danced and smoked peace pipes as they marked Thanksgiving on Alcatraz Island.

The setting was tranquil, in contrast to days past when Al Capone and other arch criminals were imprisoned on "The Rock."

Just before lining up for a buffet-style meal, one Indian read a "Thanksgiving Song" which said: "Tall Blackhawk stands with Sitting Bull. Wise Tecumseh speaks with Great Cochise. And all the tribes in all the lands send up the song for victory and peace."

The Indians were joined in the traditional turkey feast by a few palefaces—their attorney and the former prison island's caretaker and their wives, a few food donors and several newsmen.

THEY WANT ROCK

The Indians, numbering more than 150, are in their eighth day on the island. They demand the federal government give them the 21-acre rock along with funds for an Indian cultural and education center.

They contend an 1868 Sioux treaty provides for return to the Indians of unused federal land.

Secretary of the Interior Walter Hickel has agreed to talk with them, provided the Indians make no preconditions for negotiating.

The caretaker General Services Administration has urged the Indians to vacate because of inadequate health and sanitation facilities.

Pleasure in Leisure

Idle Hours Filled

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Patsy Edwards says Americans, capable of great achievement on the job, sometimes can't find satisfying things to do in their leisure time.

So, for a fee of $27.50, she tries to help anyone who has that "ugh" feeling when days off roll around.

Her business is called "Creative Leisure." She and two part-time assistants provide suggestions for those who find weekends disappointing, vacations hard to fill and who dread retirement.

"People are getting more and more leisure time every year," 51-year-old Mrs. Edwards said. "The average man or woman has 25 hours a week of leisure time — and soon it will be up to 35 hours."

30 PCT. UNHAPPY

What's more, she said, surveys show 30 per cent of all Americans are unhappy with the way they spend their free time.

A secretary in her 30s told Mrs. Edwards she felt a need to "express myself." But she didn't know where to begin.

Vocational interest tests indicated the client was highly interested in paleontology and archeology. Now the secretary spends six hours each weekend as a volunteer worker at a museum.

Army Judge Irked by Massacre Talk

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — An Army judge says his order for potential witnesses not to discuss the My Lai slaying case in public is being defied and has called a meeting of attorneys today.

Lt. Col. Reid W. Kennedy, who will establish the Army's legal guidelines in the court-martial of Lt. William L. Calley Jr., announced yesterday his plans to call the closed session "to come to some kind of conclusion about defiance of an order to witnesses . . . to quit talking to the press."

He gave no indication of the action contemplated.

"I can understand almost anything except this continuous interrogation of witnesses and potential witnesses and the publication of what they say before it is said in court," Kennedy said. "Something just has to be done about this."

CHARGED WITH MURDER

Calley, a 26-year-old former platoon commander in Company C, 1st Battalion, 11th Infantry Brigade, is charged with murdering 109 South Vietnamese civilians at the village of My Lai on March 16, 1968.

The Army said Monday its plans to bring Calley before a general court-martial.

A day later, Kennedy, who is senior trial judge in the judge advocate's section here, ordered that potential witnesses be instructed to discuss the case before trial only with attorneys involved or Calley.

He directed Capt. Aubrey Daniel, who will serve as the Army's prosecutor, to inform all witnesses of the order immediately.

SAIGON PROBE

In Saigon, yesterday, South Vietnamese Sen. Tran Van Don said members of his defense committee and the Senate Interior Committee will go to Quang Ngai Province shortly to investigate reports of the slaying.

Military Justice May Be Tested

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon officials may invoke two never-before-tested sections of the military justice code to try any former soldiers accused in the alleged My Lai massacre.

One of these is Article 18, generally applying to war crimes, and the other is Article 21 which, lawyers said, was intended to preserve common law permitting military commissions to sit in criminal cases.

★ ★ ★

Fifteen of the 24 men now under investigation, but not yet charged, have returned to civilian life since the alleged mass slaying of more than 100 South Vietnamese civilians on March 16, 1968.

Prosecution of the nine soldiers still on active duty poses no legal problem. They clearly are subject to the military justice code.

SERIOUS QUESTIONS

However, serious questions confront governmental legal authorities on the course to follow in trying to prosecute any of the ex-soldiers deemed to have been involved.

This is because the Supreme Court in 1955 rejected military court-martial for former servicemen in freeing a discharged Air Force sergeant who had been arrested by military authorities and flown to Korea to face a murder charge after he had gone back to civilian life.

★ ★ ★

Lawyers for the Pentagon, the Justice Department and other federal agencies have been studying possible courses of action against ex-soldiers in the My Lai case.

Key GM Exec Rollert Is Dead

Edward D. Rollert, General Motors executive vice president in charge of overseas subsidiaries and the domestic nonautomotive and defense divisions, died yesterday. He was 58.

ROLLERT

He was stricken Oct. 31 with a heart attack in Aberdeen, S.D., while on a hunting trip. Funeral arrangements are pending.

Prior to assuming the executive vice presidency, Rollert of 760 Kennebec, Bloomfield Hills, had served as a GM vice president and general manager of the Buick Motor Division.

★ ★ ★

He was a member of General Motors' executive and administration committees and was chairman of the overseas policy group of the executive committee.

In addition, he served on five other of the corporation's top policy groups—engineering, marketing, personnel, public relations and research.

West Germany Signs N-Arms-Curb Treaty

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Willy Brandt's West German government unanimously decided today to sign the treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

West German Ambassador Helmut Allardt immediately signed it in Moscow and Brandt told a news conference that Bonn's ambassadors to Washington and London will add their signatures later in the day.

The action by Brandt's Socialist-led government came after nearly three years of public controversy during which some Germans claimed the treaty would cut off this country from the benefits of nuclear research and thus from 20th century technology.

The opposition Christian Democratic party immediately assailed the government's decision as "too hasty" and irresponsible under the present circumstances.

'GAIN GUARANTEES'

Brandt, in making the announcement, said modifications demanded by West Germany and other nonnuclear states during the past three years succeeded in guaranteeing both the peaceful uses of nuclear energy and West Germany's security.

* * *

"There can be no talk of too much haste in signing or of a kind of 'super-Versailles,'" Brandt said, referring to the World War I German surrender that is generally regarded as a sellout in this country.

* * *

West Germany thus becomes the 25th of the 43 nations needed to approve the pact. The United States and the Soviet Union completed their ratification Monday.

* * *

Bonn's approval is significant because West Germany is one of the dozen or so nations with nuclear potential that had been delaying ratification. Of these nations, only Canada has approved the treaty although Sweden is expected to shortly.

DISCUSSED 3 YEARS

Brandt noted that the treaty had been discussed for almost three years and that West Germany succeeded in getting some of its own ideas into it through intensive diplomacy.

* * *

Brandt said the treaty in its present form guarantees each country's right to use nuclear research and techniques for peaceful purposes and that it does not endanger West German security.

* * *

He said ratification — the approval by both houses of the West German Parliament — will wait until the atomic agencies of the Common Market's and the United Nations work out an acceptable agreement on inspections.

Saigon Repeats No to VC Concessions

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government repeated today that it will never accept a coalition government in any form or grant territorial concessions to the Vietcong.

The Foreign Affairs Ministry issued a statement to clear up what it termed a misunderstanding of remarks by Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge after the 44th meeting of the Paris peace talks Wednesday.

Lodge had told newsmen the United States would be willing to talk to Hanoi about a new coalition government in South Vietnam, but stipulated that the Saigon government would have to ratify any agreement on this or any other question.

The Foreign Affairs Ministry said: "What resulted in the misunderstanding of Ambassador Lodge's statement by public opinion derived from the fact that the Vietnamese and American governments in their devotion to search for peace, have emphasized their readiness to discuss whatever problems are initiated by the other side. However, we will never accept coalition under whatever form and territorial concession to the Communists."

6-POINT MESSAGE

The Foreign Affairs Ministry statement said that "the Republic of South Vietnam's good will for an honorable solution to the Vietnam problem was spelled out in President Nguyen Van Thieu's July 11 six-point message."

In a major address to the nation last July 11, Thieu said "free elections can be based" on six principles.

"All political parties and groups, including the National Liberation Front (Vietcong), which is now bearing arms against us, can participate in the elections if they renounce violence and pledge themselves to accept the results of the elections," Thieu said.

Thieu added that "an electoral commission could be set up, in which all political parties and groups, including the NHL, now fighting against us, could be represented. The electoral commission will assure equal opportunities in the campaigning to all candidates."

NO REPRISALS

Thieu proposed an international body to supervise the elections, said he was prepared to discuss an election date with the other side and pledged: "there will be no reprisals or discrimination after the elections.

* * *

"The government of Vietnam declares that it will abide by the results of the elections, whatever these results may be," he concluded.

Detroit Crash Kills Two; National Toll Is at 183

By United Press International

A car loaded with 10 teen-agers skidded out of control at the intersection of two Detroit freeways early today and slammed into a light pole, claiming the lives of two of the youngsters as Michigan's traffic death toll on the long Thanksgiving holiday climbed to at least nine.

Nationwide, the highway traffic death toll mounted slowly and stood at 183 persons at 7 a.m. EST. Officials of the National Safety Council, however, said the final figure would approach last year's record 764 deaths.

Related Story, Opposite Page

Detroit police said the car carrying the 10 teen-agers attempted to switch from the northbound Chrysler freeway to the westbound Ford freeway at a high rate of speed and apparently hit a patch of slippery pavement.

Killed in the mishap were Walter Foster, 17, the driver, and Gayle Hardy, 17, both of Detroit. The other eight teenagers received minor injuries.

DEATH FIGURES

A breakdown of accidental deaths in the United States showed:

Traffic	183
Drownings	14
Planes	17
Miscellaneous	9
Total	223

California led the states with 16 traffic deaths. Georgia counted 12 and Kentucky, New York and Texas each had 10.

Police Probe City Shooting

A Pontiac youth is hospitalized in critical condition today with a bullet lodged against his spine as police try to determine if his shooting last night was intentional or accidental.

While the investigation continues, police are holding Ricky Evans, 21, of 177 S. Marshall for questioning in the shooting.

* * *

The victim, Alton Wilson, 20, of 378 Midway, is in Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital where he underwent surgery following the 7:30 p.m. shooting in a home at 195 Whittemore.

Police said that Evans brought Wilson to the hospital and then left, returning to the Whitemore address where he was located on information given police by Wilson.

Wilson, however, has not been able to give details of the incident because of his condition.

* * *

Evans, held in the county jail for investigation of attempted murder, told police last night that he was playing with the gun, a 22-caliber revolver, when it went off accidentally.

Ad Nets 3 Men Leftover Names

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Three bachelors, who advertised in a newspaper for Thanksgiving leftovers, claim their plan worked better than they expected.

"We got a lot of fun and a number of names and telephone numbers of girls," they said.

The ad resulted in a dinner invitation instead of leftovers.

The three, Jim Meyar, 23, Tom Leslie, 24, and Jay Campbell, 24, said they placed the ad because their cooking is "the worst."

The ad read: "Do you cook like mama? Why fill up the refrigerator with Thanksgiving leftovers? Please call, Jim, Tom or Jay."

"We were expecting little old ladies to call," Jim said, "but most of the callers were single girls."

Yule Drive Begun by Salvation Army

No strangers to the cold weather of the Christmas season, Salvation Army representatives with their bells and iron kettles begin their annual yule fund drive today.

Stationed on downtown streets and at various shopping centers, the local corps is seeking funds for food for needy families, gifts for children and patients in nursing homes and other institutions, as well as dinners for homeless men on Christmas day.

* * *

Last year, the local Army corps assisted nearly 5,000 persons with Christmas gifts by collecting $13,000 in donations.

A Christmas Clearing House, a service of the United Fund, is set up in the basement of the Army's Citadel, 29 W. Lawrence, to process applications for assistance. All needing help must apply in person. The office will be open from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. for 15 days beginning Monday.

Birmingham

Residents' Tax Shares Spelled Out

BIRMINGHAM — Every resident in this community is paying about $2.50 per day to the U.S. Department of Defense, according to a federal tax-expenditure breakdown released by the Tax Foundation.

The total daily federal tax per Birmingham resident was set at $5.89 per day. The total for the city is $194,000 per day.

* * *

The average payment per person throughout the United States is $2.48 per day; $2.87 in Michigan.

The approximate $2.50 payment per day by Birmingham residents to the Defense Department is based on the fact that nearly half the federal budget is for military spending.

* * *

Approximately $440 of every $1,000 in federal taxes is allocated for defense or military spending. Health, education and welfare spending totals $260, followed by interest on the national debt at $70, commerce and transportation $44 and veterans benefits $42.

What makes a growth stock? How do you determine a growth industry? What are some of the major areas of greatest potential growth?

These questions and others will be explored at two stock market forums at the Birmingham Community House — the first next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.; the second Dec. 17, also at 7:30 p.m.

* * *

Both forums are sponsored by Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith and will be conducted by account executive Gabriel Werba.

Among the industries to be examined at the forum next Tuesday will be the mobile home and prefabricated and modular-housing groups, and the antipollution field.

Condominium Stirs Fight

By NED ADAMSON

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP — Keith Humbert says he came to suburbia to get a little elbow room and give his kids a place to run.

He is now asking himself, "How far must you go to be suburban?"

* * *

Humbert of 6440 Snow Apple and many of his neighbors in the Clarkston Gardens subdivision here are suffering from the pangs of what the sociologists call "steadily encroaching urban sprawl."

And like most of the residents in the subdivision, Humbert is middle-aged and works for one of the area auto makers.

COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT

He is finding it necessary to practice a little community involvement in an attempt to halt a condominium development proposal in a nearby lot that he says will not only "crowd" the present residential area composed of single-family houses but increase traffic problems in the area and decrease property value.

Humbert, president of the Clarkston Gardens Improvement Association, is organizing a drive by property owners to block the rezoning petition now before the township zoning board.

* * *

Meetings have already been held to lay plans for the anticondominium attack.

The rezoning petition asks for rezoning of the 17.3-acre parcel owned by Stanley Stelmach of 6305 Waldon from suburban farms to multiple-family dwellings.

'MORE CARS, KIDS'

If the rezoning petition is approved, a condominium project calling for 168 units would be erected on the property, according to Humbert.

* * *

Humbert said that, based on studies, the development would mean 210 more autos and 61 more children in the area. "We are mostly concerned with the traffic problems the condominiums would bring. There are now 3,500 cars a day traveling on Waldon in front of our subdivision. We certainly do not need any more traffic."

* * *

Humbert said he realizes that the property will eventually be developed. He says he would not object to a development of single-family dwellings mainly because the 36 houses that could be squeezed on the property would not create the traffic problems that a condominium would.

"We of course realize that a big argument from the zoning board is that a condominium development would generate three times as much tax base than houses would," Humbert said.

MORE APARTMENTS

He also believes that if the condominium developers get the green light from the township, possibilities would increase for further similar apartment or condominium development in the surrounding area. Humbert said there is more vacant property in the area now zoned suburban farms.

"We should have no trouble at all getting at least 300 of the 400 families in the subdivision to come out against the project," Humbert said.

* * *

The association plans to make itself heard at the next zoning board meeting when officials may take action on the petition request. The date of the next meeting is still indefinite.

Instructor Jerry DiPaola Shows Pupils How To Change A Jigsaw Blade

Innovative Activities: 6th-Grade Friday Fare

By LOIS FRIEDLAND

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Sixth-grade boys sew buttons on their shirts while classmates listen to Bach and Beethoven. These are regular Friday afternoon occurrances at Roosevelt School.

"Learning by doing" is the key to the innovative "Activities Period," according to school Principal William Floto.

Each child in Roosevelt's five sixth-grade classes chooses an activity he's interested in and attends the class for a 10-week period.

There are three such periods during the school year. The child must choose a different activity each time so he is exposed to three educational or cultural experiences.

Activities range from science through experimentation to a course in industrial arts in which pupils become acquainted with hand tools through construction projects. Simple electrical household repairs are also taught.

OTHER COURSES

Other courses include model airplanes and rockets, gymnastics and tumbling, publishing a school newspaper, arts and crafts, creative writing and observing nature through hiking.

Girls may take a subteen charm and etiquette course to develop poise and good grooming habits. Boys are offered a class in bachelor cooking and sewing.

* * *

The pupils pick up many ideas and skills they can use at home — either for fun or to help their parents, according to Floto.

"For instance, a boy can help out at home if his mother is sick by mending his own clothes," said Floto.

He explained that the program helps broaden a child's experiences thus offering him a more complete education.

"A program like this appears to enhance and enrich one's self confidence — and it's something they like to do," he said. The program started in September.

Roosevelt students come from homes at both ends of the economic and cultural range. Many pupils have not had the cultural and travel experiences common to others in the district. Furthermore, all children at that age — despite previous experiences — could use new experiences that are either educationally or culturally broadening, says Floto.

The activities are taught by the sixth-grade teachers during hour-long sessions, run more informally than the regular classroom hours. The classes are limited to 15 pupils.

REACHES MORE CHILDREN

Many of the programs were originally taught in the community school program but the staff realized that all children were not being reached. When held as extracurricular programs busing and other problems eliminated many participants according to Floto.

"When we hold the program during the day, all youngsters come and participate," he added.

Floto said the program was started in the sixth grade to see how it would be received by students. Initial favorable responses are making him consider the feasibility of extending the program to other grades.

Traffic accidents through the first 36 hours of the Thanksgiving holiday weekend have claimed 11 lives on Michigan roads.

At least two of the fatalities occurred on rain-slicked Lower Peninsula roads on Thanksgiving Day. Three others died in early morning accidents in the Detroit area today.

The Associated Press fatality count began at 6 p.m. Wednesday and continues until midnight Sunday.

* * *

Donald G. Mousseau, 18, Trenton, who died yesterday of injuries suffered late Wednesday when the car in which he was riding left I-75 near Monroe and hit a bridge support.

Walter McClure, 52, Plymouth, injured fatally Wednesday night when his camper pickup truck overturned while leaving U.S. 10 in rural Bay County.

Robert Provance, 18, Flint injured fatally when struck by an auto as he walked along a rural Genesee County road near Flushing Wednesday night.

John Butterworth, 18, Detroit, killed Wednesday night when a car in which he was riding overturned on I-96 in Farmington Township.

* * *

Ronnie Johnson, 21, Wayne, killed when his car went out of control on a gravel road in Canton Township Wednesday night. The vehicle flipped over several times and came to rest in a water-filled drainage ditch with Johnson pinned underneath.

Bradley Bamber, 31, Livonia, injured fatally Wednesday night when his auto struck a tree in Dearborn.

* * *

Walter Foster and Gayle Hardy, both 17 of Detroit, killed early today when the car in which they were riding went out of control and missed an entrance ramp to a Detroit freeway.

Patrick Sugg, 18, of Detroit, who died early today when he was struck by a car in Clinton Township in Macomb County.

Rochester Studying Change in Parking

ROCHESTER — A much-discussed amendment to the city's parking ordinance is under study by the City Commission.

The amendment will provide off-street parking requirements for the city's downtown area when, and if, it is finally approved.

* * *

The Rochester Association for Planning, a newly formed merchants group, has been especially concerned about the ordinance, which relates particularly to downtown traffic congestion and the city's preliminary downtown development plan.

* * *

After the commission studies the amendment, a date for a public hearing will be set and amendments to the amendment may be written.

CALLS FOR PAYMENTS

As presented to the commission, the amendment requires payment of an as yet undetermined sum to the city for each business requiring parking spaces.

* * *

The city would use the money "for furnishing off-street parking in or within 400 feet (of the business) ... within a reasonable time of receipt of the monies."

* * *

Each parking space may be subject to metering, officials said, with revenues used for maintaining the space. However, the initial payment would go solely for site acquisition and preparation.

Housing for Aged?

IMLAY CITY — Low-cost housing may become available to senior citizens in the Imlay City area if an ambitious plan to get federal aid is successful.

Fifteen private citizens, six of whom are on the board of Lapeer County Catholic Social Services, recently formed a nonprofit corporation to help elderly people who have limited means.

* * *

Although plans are still being formulated, an application for a $300,000 federal grant has been sent in, according to Ronald Jiup, project head and president of Catholic Social Services in Lapeer.

Preliminary plans include between 16 and 20 one-bedroom units. "Though site location is not a major problem," Jiup said, "we must locate somewhere within the village limits of Imlay City because of the nearness of stores, doctors and convenience to the senior citizens."

FEDERAL AGENCY

The federal grant has been applied for through the Farmers Home Administration, which requires that a project be in a community of 5,000 or less and that private funds be available for financing at least one per cent of the grant request, Jiup said.

He said the Archdiocese of Detroit, through its Archdiocesean Development Fund (ADF) possibly would donate the $3,000 as "seed money," to get the project off the ground.

* * *

Jiup said surveys taken in the area, written and oral, have indicated a need for such a housing project.

A 1-Wheel Motorcycle? He Built One

GALESBURG (AP) — "It looks like a cross between a motorcycle and a hospital frame—and there's where he may end up," is one spectator's reaction to LaFrance Bresson's latest creation—a one-wheel motorcycle.

Bresson concedes there are some problems in riding his contraption. "Your feet sort of rock up when you start up, but that's not hard to get used to," he said.

* * *

"It's what happens when you back off the throttle that's unnerving." The braking action tends to make the rider revolve in the same direction the wheel is turning and makes balancing difficult, the builder admitted.

Bresson is considering adding a small "idler" wheel in front which would touch the ground only when the brakes are applied.

OTHER PROBLEMS

There are other problems to be resolved, too. The carburetor tends to falter as the wheel revolves, and the brakes need more work, Bresson said.

But the problems are minor compared to the full year Bresson needed between the time he spotted a picture of such a cycle, vintage about 1925, in a Battle Creek motorcycle shop.

* * *

Bresson told friends he could build such a device, but there were problems —no plans or parts for such a machine existed.

An assembly line worker at Aero-Motive Manufacturing Co., Bresson had quite a time locating a large enough wheel and tire for his machine. It seems no one makes a wheel at least three feet in diameter.

FOUND IN CORNFIELD

The search for the wheel ended in an Indiana cornfield where the 36-inch wheel was holding up one side of an old grain drill. Bresson secured an unused tire from the same farmer's garage.

The wheel and tire were used as the cycle's "outer race." Three Teflon-coated bearings were used to sparate the two.

Despite what Bresson said was a relatively simple principal, the actual construction of the motorcycle was a chore. "I had to change several things as I went along and make some compromises," Bresson said. "There are also some things I would do differently if I were ever to build another."

Finally, Bresson was able to crank the 50 c.c. engine which he rebuilt from a wrecked motorcycle and putt sedately down the street at 12 miles an hour.

MAIN ATTRACTION

He made it clear in his conversation that the technical problems and experimental engineering concepts involved in construction were more attractive to him than riding the final product.

But when asked to describe riding a one-wheel motorcycle, Bresson admitted, "It's like nothing else in the world."

Financing OK'd for Apartments

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — Financing for a $1.9-million apartment project in the township has been approved and construction is to begin immediately on 112 units in the development, according to Emery Brown of EBS Construction Inc., Southfield.

Brown said construction on the 8½-acre site will be in two phases which will include 155 apartment units, a community building, playground, pool and deck area.

* * *

The site is L-shaped and fronts on both Squirrel Road and South Boulevard, encircling the Bloomfield Square Shopping Center.

The development will be known as Bloomfield Square Apartments and will be a two-story project in a walkup townhouse style. Rent will begin at $172 per month, according to Brown.

* * *

Discounting construction delays, occupancy should begin in late spring or early summer, Brown said.

Farm Credit Unit Acts to Ease Money Drain

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Farmers Home Administration announced today it will raise the minimums for purchase of government-insured loan notes to $25,000 for one- and two-year paper and to $15,000 for longer term notes.

Currently the minimum for all FHA-insured notes is $10,000. The new minimums will become effective on Monday, said James V. Smith, administrator of the Agriculture Department's credit agency.

The notes are sold to private investors at interest rates reflecting the prevailing money market. The money from the sales is to finance FHA loans for family farm ownership, housing and rural community projects.

In most cases, farm borrowers are charged only 5 per cent interest, with the government making up the difference on what it has to pay private investors—now ranging from 8.5 to 8.75 per cent.

About $2 billion in insured loan notes is being offered by FHA on the U.S. market this fiscal year.

* * *

The higher minimum required of buyers was seen as a move to help ease the flow of money from smaller rural banks, where depositors have turned increasingly to short term FHA securities bearing higher interest rates.

* * *

By raisng the purchase minimums, the FHA hopes to discourage some of the smaller short-term investments in favor of larger and longer-term sales, ranging up to 25 years.

Loans to FHA borrowers usually are for 33 to 40 years. This means that many investment notes mature and must be resold a number of times during the actual loan periods.

HEAVY TRAFFIC

The traffic in reselling notes has been so heavy, officials said, that there is now a backlog of about $740 million to be processed.

This largely has offset the rising sale of new paper so that FHA actually has been losing ground in handling insured note sales.

Average Mortgage Rate Hits 8.12%

WASHINGTON (AP) — The average effective mortgage rate for new homes rose to 8.12 per cent in October, continuing an upward spiral for the 11th straight month.

The Federal Home and Loan Bank Board reported the bad news for home buyers and the construction industry Thursday.

* * *

There was a wide range in rates charged across the country with the highest average of 9.13 per cent in Seattle, Wash. This was a jump of about 1½ per cent over a year earlier.

The San Francisco-Oakland, Calif., area also had a high rate of 8.97 per cent.

PHILADELPHIA

On the other end of the scale, Philadelphia, Pa., had an average effective rate of 7.07 per cent.

The board's report shows life insurance companies charged an average 8.48 per cent, and mortgage companies were right behind at 8.45 per cent on their new home loans.

Preston Martin, chairman of the board, said the curtailed supply of money mortgage funds at a time when housing is in strong demand accounted for the continued rise in October.

* * *

One of the problems, the report said, is that investors were taking their money out of savings and loan institutions which provide mortgages and putting their funds where they can earn a higher interest.

* * *

In reporting the worst October ever, the board said the savings and loan institutions had an outflow of $405 million. This compares with an increase of $466 million in the same month one year earlier.

U.S. Viet Casualties Top 300,000 Mark

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. battlefield casualties in nearly nine years of the Vietnam war reached the 300,000 mark this week, and nearly half of them occurred in the 18 months since the Paris peace talks began, official sources said today.

On the battlefield, communiques said fighting was light. The Vietcong ambushed 300 South Vietnamese troops in the Mekong Delta and killed 36 men and wounded 12. There were no known enemy losses.

* * *

The U.S. Command reported 32 enemy rocket and shelling attacks during the night, in which seven Americans were wounded. A spokesman said U.S. troops killed 47 enemy in battles near the demilitarized zone and south of Da Nang Thursday. Two Americans were killed and 18 were wounded in these clashes.

The U.S. Command casualty figures for the period from Jan. 1, 1961, through last Saturday showed 39,572 Americans killed in action, 258,779 wounded and 1,341 missing or captured.

OVER THE MARK

While these figures total 299,692, officials said they do not include at least 308 Americans who have been killed or wounded from Sunday through today, and this puts total casualties over the 300,000 mark. The official casualty figures for this week won't be released until next Thursday.

The U.S. Command said 6,995 U.S. troops have died in Vietnam from accidents and other causes "not as the result of hostile action."

In the same nine-year period, according to official figures, 575,249 North Vietnamese and killed.

Since the peace talks in Paris began May 13, 1968, official statistics show that 16,620 Americans have been killed and another 113,997 wounded.

3RD COSTLIEST WAR

The Vietnam war has become the third costliest foreign war for the United States, surpassed only by the two world wars.

In World War I, there were 53,513 American battlefield deaths, 63,195 other deaths, and 204,002 U.S. troops wounded. World War II casualties were 292,131 Americans killed, 115,185 U.S. deaths from other causes, and 670,846 Americans wounded.

* * *

The South Vietnamese said today that 4,004 civilians were killed and 12,448 were wounded in terror incidents in the first 10 months of 1969.

In a report to the International Control Commission, the government said there were 182 incidents during October in which 189 civilians were killed and 576 were wounded.

NEVER EFFECTIVE

The International Control Commission, made up of Canada, Poland and India, was set up to supervise the Geneva Agreements of 1954 that ended the French-Indochina war, but it has never been effective.

In Saigon, a former special assistant to President Nguyen Van Thieu and 42 other South Vietnamese went on trial today for treason before a military tribunal. If convicted, some could receive a death penalty.

Thirteen of the defendants in the biggest subversion trial in South Vietnam's history are women. Thieu's former assistant, Nguyen Van Kinh, surprised observers when he admitted in testimony that he had been a member of the Communist party since 1949.

state valor medals Wednesday.

The hunters were recommended for the award by State Police Sgt. Robert Tozer of the Hart Post.

"He's trying to drown me," screamed Timmy Martin as the five-man hunting party came on them Sunday in Muskegon County.

Charged with kidnaping is John E. Walrath, 30, of Hammond, Ind., a schoolteacher.

Recommended for the award were Ronald Everham, 28, Shelby; his father, Paul Everham, 53, Shelby; Raymond Diepen, 49, Shelby; Hal Scelle, 44, Whitehall; and Robert Keppler, 45, Twin Lakes.

OU Should Be 'Set Free'

A five-member study committee appointed by the Michigan State University Board of Trustees will give consideration to a resolution granting Oakland University independence from its East Lansing founding institution. The proposal was initiated by OU Chancellor DURWARD B. VARNER and unanimously accepted by the board.

VARNER

★ ★ ★

The 10-year-old university, that has expanded from an opening enrollment of 500 to its present 5,000 and its original two buildings to a complex of 20, has long since outgrown its swaddling clothes and the guiding hand of the parent school. The impressive progress shown can almost certainly be attributed to generous support and independent administration that has functioned so effectively.

★ ★ ★

After approval by the MSU Board of Trustees, which appears certain, separation of the universities would be subject to affirmative action by the Michigan Legislature and the State Board of Education.

There is no valid reason why Oakland University should not be granted the autonomy it seeks, and we strongly urge that it be effectuated by the required formalities.

Senate Rejects Haynsworth

The decisive though not unexpected defeat of President NIXON'S nomination for a Supreme Court associate justiceship to replace Justice ABE FORTAS concludes an issue that had become a heated and unbecoming episode involving the judicial branch of our Government.

HAYNSWORTH

Nominated by the President in mid-August for a seat on the high court, Chief Judge of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals CLEMENT F. HAYNSWORTH Jr. had seemed certain of Senate confirmation.

★ ★ ★

Although his nomination was approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee Oct. 9, opposition to Haynsworth had started to build prior to it, and continued to mount until the Senate floor vote last Friday.

While HAYNSWORTH'S credentials for the Supreme Court bench seemed inpeccable at the outset, various potential conflicts of interest subsequently came to light that cast a shadow on his eligibility. Further clouding his position were antagonisms on the part of civil rights and labor organizations which viewed some of his court decisions as unfavorable; and senatorial political considerations that transcended party lines and loyalty to the Administration.

★ ★ ★

We think that a considerable share of the responsibility for the ill fortune and attendant public disavowal that befell HAYNSWORTH is attributable to Atty. Gen. JOHN MITCHELL, who was charged by President NIXON with "clearing" his Supreme Court choice before he nominated him.

Reportedly, Mitchell did less than a thorough job. Had he done his homework better, the revelations that eventually surfaced and let to Haynworth's defeat could have been foreseen. Thus, the name of another jurist could have been nominated for the Supreme Court vacancy, and an embarrassing train of events avoided for President Nixon and Judge Haynsworth.

Charles Bartlett

Labor Is Feisty as 1970 Nears

KENOSHA, Wis.—The loose reasoning behind a bleakly unproductive strike in an auto plant here warns of the fractious spirit with which labor is approaching critical negotiations in 1970.

BARTLETT

American Motors, fighting to hold its small slice of the automobile market, was struck for more than a month over whether a local union should have the right to veto overtime.

A move by AMC to bolster its position for the purchase of the jeep plant seemed to ignite the strike.

★ ★ ★

"If the company has $10 million to purchase Kaiser," reasoned local leader Ralph Daum, "it should have enough money to place its employes on a par with the Big Three."

Actual wages in the AMC plants are close to what is paid by the Big Three.

SHRUG IT OFF

UAW officials shrug off the Kenosha local, but a spreading pattern of absenteeism and wildcat strikes across the industry suggests that the mood in Kenosha may be symptomatic and that Walter Reuther may have a tiger by the tail as he approaches negotiations in 1970.

Clearly he is faced with three groups that are pressing him hard: older workers who want to be pensioned off after 30 years on the assembly line; younger workers with an appetite for money; and skilled workers whose complacency has been jostled by the eye-catching settlements of the building trades locals.

★ ★ ★

Auto workers' wages have evolved from the 1912 level of 27 cents an hour to the $4 range.

Reuther has fed his membership on the raw rhetoric of the labor movement and this is not a time in which he can afford to change his style.

PROSPECTIVE HARVEST

He talks of the next round of collective bargaining as a prospective harvest. And to help the union reap this harvest, he is planning to start the negotiations with a strike fund of $120 million, almost enough to finance a 10-week strike against GM. Automobile price rises have paced the march of inflation. It has been a glorious period for auto producers and auto workers.

★ ★ ★

Next year will be dangerous for the industry because the prosperity has left imbalances.

As the economy tightens, auto executives plainly intend to play a stronger hand in their labor dealings.

★ ★ ★

The lines are drawn and the consequences may be a major strike. Then the whole nations will suffer because of the sad fact that the great auto industry, the symbol of American competence, has not learned to live with itself on the narrowest terms of self-interest.

Newsmen Can Be Fair With a Little 'Guidance'

"You have just heard the President of the United States, speaking from the White House, assess the State of the Union on this January day of 1971. Well, Chet, do you have an instant analysis?"

HOPPE

"Yes, I do, David. I'd say it was the most magnificent, glorious, stirring speech since the Gettysburg Address."

★ ★ ★

"Very perceptive, Chet. Although, personally, I think it was a cut above anything Lincoln ever said. I don't know what phrase stirred me most."

"Well, David, I think my biggest thrill came when he said, 'I want to make one thing perfectly clear.' I always get a thrill when I realize the President's going to make one thing perfectly clear."

'ONLY A TWITCH'

"Just a minute, Chet. I think your left eyebrow raised a fraction of an inch on that one. I want to take this opportunity to assure our millions of viewers that Chet's eyebrow is solely his own and does not reflect the opinions of the tiny and closed fraternity of privileged men who run this network, our sponsors or, in particular, myself."

"It was only a nervous twitch, David."

★ ★ ★

"So you say, Chet. But to balance the picture for our millions of viewers, do you have some querulous criticism of the hour-and-47-minute address, Chet?"

"Yes I do, David. It was too short. I could listen all night to the President's urbanity, wit, charm, sincerity . . . "

3RD MEMBER OF TEAM

"Well, Chet, enough of our biased and prejudiced analysis. I think our viewers would rather hear an impartial assessment from the third member of our team, that renowned and fair-minded opinion maker whose name is a household word."

"Thank you, David. Thank you, Chet. It was good being in the studio with you again tonight to help you prepare your scripts. But I wouldn't want to say anything that might be construed as influencing you. I may not agree with what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say what you've been saying lately."

★ ★ ★

"Thank you, sir. That's high praise."

"Never forget, Chet and David, that this administration cherishes freedom of the press above all — as long as it is completely impartial, thoroughly unbiased, highly objective and otherwise favorable."

"Good night, Chet."

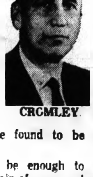
"Good night, David."

"Good night, Spiro."

Ray Cromley

U.S. Must Atone for Massacre in Viet

WASHINGTON (NEA) — If one-fourth of what has been reported about a massacre at My Lai hamlet in South Vietnam is true, then the U.S. government and all of us have a very grave duty indeed.



CROMLEY

It will not be enough to punish to the full extent of the law those found to be guilty.

It will not be enough to look up the chain of command and find those to be guilty who did not properly indoctrinate and discipline their subordinate units and commanders and who did not foresee whatever was so dreadfully wrong with this Army unit that such a happening could have occurred.

★ ★ ★

It will not be enough to determine why so cursory an investigation was carried out immediately after My Lai and to punish those responsible for negligence or cover up.

If killings at My Lai occurred in the manner thus far reported, two urgent tasks lie before this country:

MUST BE CHANGED

First, something will have to be changed so that such tragedies can never occur again.

Second, the American government and people will have to demonstrate to the people of My Lai area, to Son Tinh District, to the province of Quang Ngai and to the people of Vietnam in some very personal and human way how deeply all of us regret what happened on or about March 16, 1968.

★ ★ ★

Both the backers of President Nixon's policies and those who protest can join together in such an endeavor.

This reporter cannot say precisely what should be done. But we could begin as individual, private citizens, sending packages of those small things that poor Vietnamese villagers require to live.

MEDICAL SUPPLIES

We can, as individuals and as a government, send medical supplies.

★ ★ ★

We can make certain doctors and surgeons are available to remedy so far as is possible the disfigurement of survivors.

We can provide scholarships to give the surviving children a better chance at an education.

★ ★ ★

We can send young men and women to work with the villagers in the district schools and farms, for this help must extend beyond the immediate area.

VERY HUMAN

This will not return the dead to life. But there are times when people must do what they can, knowing that nothing at all can change what has happened.

The Vietnamese people are a very human people. They worry less about the fairness of law and of justice than in human compassion.

★ ★ ★

They respond above all to men and women who accept personal responsibility.

They live in a harsh world and know that terrible things happen. So they are amazingly forgiving when men and women personally show their desire to make amends.

Today is Friday, Nov. 28, the 332nd day of 1969 with 33 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter.

The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1520, Ferdinand Magellan entered the Pacific Ocean on his way around the world. He was the first European to sail that body of water from the east.

In 1956, the United States expressed concern to Syria over substantial shipments of Soviet arms to that Middle East nation.

In 1958, the United States fired an inter-continental ballistic missile at full range for the first time.

Voice of the People:

Withdrawals of Troops Not Reducing Numbers

When the President announces how many soldiers are being withdrawn from Vietnam, he never says how many are being sent as replacements, leading people to believe the numbers are reduced.

★ ★ ★

A news article stated that 60,000 are to be withdrawn by the end of 1969, but 42,000 were sent in October, 47,000 in November and 41,000 slated for December.

'Educators Seek Better Human Relations'

Last week Pontiac educators spent many hours trying to decide how best to improve human relations in the schools during the remainder of this year. Meanwhile, the governing body continues to cancel any successes by its continued lack of respect for people who attend board meetings, particularly representatives of the black community.

★ ★ ★

This is a good example of white institutional racism for which every voting citizen of Pontiac must be held accountable.

Victim Warns Shoppers of Purse Snatchers

A recent article regarding a purse snatching victim has prompted me to write, as I was a victim of a similar circumstance three years ago. As the Christmas season approaches, so does the purse snatching season. It is a season for women who shop alone to be especially cautious. In my opinion, what happened to me and the fact that the guilty person was not brought to justice is exactly the reason why many of these crimes occur year after year.

A RUDELY AWAKENED
CHRISTMAS SHOPPER

'Suggest Stores Offer Free Shopping Bags'

Stores offer free gift wrapping and send out beautiful colored ads, but when we shop and get armloads of packages, the stores ask that we pay ten cents for shopping bags that have the store name in big print on the side. I think this is the best advertisement a store can get, but why do we have to pay for it?

★ ★ ★

It is handy to have these shopping bags and I know the stores don't ask that we buy them, but why don't they offer them free to the people. This would be better for business than other ways of advertisemeot.

'Support Pleas for Rehabilitation Center'

We urge every citizen of Oakland County to pay heed to the pleas of Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore. Write, call, attend meetings and insist that the Board of Supervisors take immediate action to establish facilities for rehabilitation centers for drug users. Let your voice be heard. Time is running out.

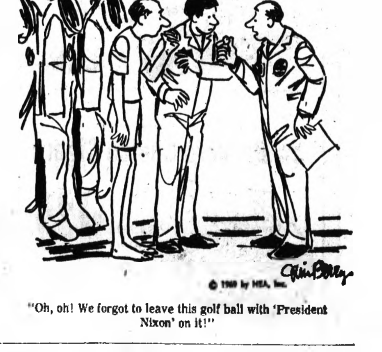
BERRY'S WORLD—By Jim Berry



"Oh, oh! We forgot to leave this golf ball with 'President Nixon' on it!"

Questions and Answers

(Q) Do you know where I can find a magician outfit for a slim 10-year-old boy? He wants the works, but if I could find a pattern for the clothes, I might be able to find the accessories separately. It would really make his Christmas complete.

MRS.

(A) A quick check of magicians' outfits shows just about anything goes. However, a cape seems to be standard, and you'll find patterns for those in the girls' section of pattern books. If you can't find a top hat, wrap up his head in a turban of velvet or satin and fasten it with a "jeweled" pin. A fancy vest (for boys or girls in pattern books) with ascot and stick pin should complete the outfit. You should be able to find a conductor's baton at music stores to use for a wand. Books and equipment for magic tricks are available at Games Inc., 263 Pierce, Birmingham. Then have him cast good spells our way.

(Q) Do you know of any group that has been formed to uphold President Nixon's policies, and what are they planning to do?

L. J. B.

(Q) Where can we get bumper stickers to support the President while the protesters are having their next moratorium?

READER

(A) Call Eileen Turner, 686-1414. A brand new group is forming for just that purpose, and they plan to do as much as they can. Present plans include petition drives and selling "Support Our President" bumper stickers.

Apollo 12 Crewman Stands At The Modular Equipment Stowage Assembly On Lunar Module

Eclipse of Sun by Earth Shown on Apollo 12 Films

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — A black silhouette that is the earth chokes off the sun. As the light dies, it bursts into space with blues and reds and pinks and pure white rimming the earth.

It is a scene never seen before Apollo 12—an eclipse of the sun by the earth.

* * *

Movies of the scene and others released Thursday by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration gave science and the public their first views also of man's second moon-walking excursion. A camera failure prevented all but a few minutes of live television transmissions on the moon's surface.

* * *

The eclipse footage was taken by astronauts as they started back to earth. Alan L. Bean called it "the most spectacular sight of the whole flight."

FINAL VIEW

A final view is in black and white, and the earth appears coal black with the dying sunlight rimming its edge in white.

The view is as old as earth and sun, but Apollo 12 was the first space flight to put men and cameras in the right location in space to capture the scene on film.

* * *

The short film, a compilation of scenes taken throughout the 10-day Apollo 12 flight, also included views of Charles Conrad Jr. walking on the surface of the moon.

He appears as a white-suited, faceless figure walking stiff-legged across a field of charcoal. The lunar soil appears dark gray, pitted with craters and strewn with rocks.

SEEN IN CRATES

Conrad is seen in a small crater, gathering rock with a scoop. His space suit is startling in its whiteness against that gloomy world of black ground.

Another view shows the spider-like lunar module edging away from the command ship to start its final swoop toward a landing on the moon. It seems to float gracefully away, its gold aluminum foil exterior glinting in the sun and its ridiculous, spindly legs pointing toward the light gray moon surface seen in the background. A final scene shows it just above the lunar horizon and slowly moving out of sight.

* * *

A sequence of film shot through a lunar module window as it descended shows the craters of the moon in the background whipping past the window. The craters slow, then begin to grow larger as the craft descends. Dust obscures the view briefly, then quickly settles, and craters show steady and still. The Intrepid had landed.

A number of still pictures, taken by Conrad and Bean on the moon's surface, also were released.

They showed the dust-covered astronauts working in the reduced gravity of the moon, wearing the heavy suits that protect their bodies but obscure their identities.

There's also a portrait of another space traveler—the unmanned Surveyor 3 spacecraft that landed on the moon's Ocean of Storms 31 months before man.

* * *

A spectacular view taken by the astronauts shows the surveyor inside a crater with the Apollo 12 lunar module on the rim of the crater, just on the horizon.

The flag planted on the surface by Conrad and the dish antenna he raised can also be seen.

THREE FOOTPRINTS

A closeup of one Surveyor landing pad shows three footprints, indicating the robot craft bounced three times before coming to a rest.

Photos of the surface around the lunar module show it pocked with the corrugated footprints of American spacemen. The footprints appear to sink several inches deeper in areas around edges of craters.

* * *

A close-up of the side of the lunar module shows the protective cask which carried the atomic element still powering experiments left on the moon.

The cask is tilted forward, away from the lunar module and is empty. In the foreground is a special tool, still attached to the cap of the cask.

Views of the astronauts show them flecked with dust, bearing witness to the description they gave of the heavy dust which bothered throughout their almost eight hours of moon walks.

A closeup photograph of one of the astronauts—as yet unidentified— shows the reflection of the second astronaut in a helmet visor.

A color view of the lunar surface experiments the astronauts deployed shows that the magnetometer experiment was separated by a crater from the other instruments.

Throughout the series of pictures, the untouched lunar surface appears like a dried lake bed, completely featureless except

DRIED LAKE BED

Throughout the series of pictures, the untouched lunar surface appears like a dried lake bed, completely featureless except for occasional craters and dull gray rocks.

The astronauts took motion sequence film with a 16mm camera which can be adjusted for film speed and aperture opening.

The still photos were taken with 70mm Hasselblad cameras. Each moon walker carried such cameras strapped about his chest. Both black and white and color film were used in the cameras.

BOUNCY LANDING — This close-up view of the Surveyor III landing pad shows three footprints, indicating the robot craft bounced three tirpes before coming to a rest. The photo was made during the second extravehicular activity of Apollo 12 astronauts Charles (Pete) Conrad and Alan L. Bean. They landed their Lunar Module within 600 feet of the unmanned Surveyor in the Ocean of Storms.

AP Wirephoto

Honolulu's Hotel Street

Its Death Unmourned

HONOLULU (AP) — One whiff of the air, soured by 30 years of spilled drinks, lets the visitor know he has found Hotel Street.

But take a quick look, because Hotel Street as it has been known to a million servicemen is in the final throes of an unmourned death.

* * *

The string of loud and gaudy honky tonks, curio shops, tattoo parlors, arcades and taxi-dance halls is being bulldozed away.

Urban renewal projects are edging in from the east. The glass-front business high-rise of downtown Honolulu are crowding from the west.

Once loud and lusty, the famed sin city district of Chinatown has dwindled to five blocks.

Free-spending GIs, whose money was the street's life blood for three decades, pause there now only long enough to catch the bus for Waikiki. That's where the action is today.

A final death blow could come soon. City officials, mapping a proposed mass transit system, are eying Hotel Street as the best route through traffic-clogged Honolulu.

"Sure it's dying. It may not even last another year," says Tad Matsuoka, whose family owns and operates a strip-tease bar called the club Hubba Hubba.

"I'm losing money even though I have a floor show and draw a local crowd," he said.

Matsuoka has bought a nightclub in Waikiki tourist area. He says business there is picking up while his Hotel Street club plays to a handful of patrons.

DRASTIC CHANGE

"During the war years this place used to go all day long with both sides of the street jammed with sailors and soldiers," says Eddie Matsuoka, owner of a nearby liquor store. "I'm getting by because I have local customers. It's the bars that are feling it."

What's left of the Hotel Street night life has changed drastically since the days of the war in the Pacific a quarter of a century ago.

The country-western music has been replaced by rock and soul.

Where clubs used to feature hula dancers and female singers, the dancing and singing is being done by female impersonators.

The brightest spots on the strip today also reflect the new age: Freshly painted movie theaters screening only X-rated films or girlie shows, and book shops featuring the latest in printed and photographic erotica.

Nixon Relaxes With Family at Key Biscayne

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — Stretching the holiday into four-day weekend, President Nixon relaxed today with his family at their Key Biscayne home and was expected to do some work on the federal budget.

* * *

A White House spokesman said Nixon would probably also work on a speech he will deliver at a White House conference Tuesday on food, health and nutrition.

The President was host to 232 senior citizens for Thanksgiving dinner at the White House Thursday but waited until arriving in Florida later in the day for his own holiday meal.

LOOKING FOR SHOPLIFTERS — Television scanners such as this will be keeping an eye on potential shoplifters during the busy holiday season in a variety store in downtown Dallas. The cameras have been in operation for one week, and five persons have already been video-taped in the act of shoplifting.

Shoplifting a Snap, Students Discover

DAVIS, Calif. (AP) — Shoplifting is easy six students report.

All you have to do is dress like a square and pick the right town.

* * *

Even if another customer sees you stealing, the chances are he will ignore it.

So say the six University of California students who went on a two-city pilfering expedition as a psychology class experiment.

TOOK RADIO

Said David Lopez, 22, leader of the project:

"Once we unplugged a radio which was playing and walked away with it."

* * *

Lopez summed up the experiment which was conducted Tuesday by saying, "We found people were not very observant. You could shoplift in front of them and they didn't seem to notice, or didn't want to notice."

NO CHALLENGERS

He said he wore a suit and tie and carried a briefcase "and took everything I wanted without being challenged."

But other members of the group, wearing hippie-type clothing, "came under a lot of suspicion."

Lopez said police departments and merchants in Davis and nearby Woodland were consulted in advance and agreed to cooperate.

He said the students found a striking difference between the number of witnesses who reported their thefts in the two cities.

In Woodland, 13 per cent reported the thefts to the store managers, 74 per cent just looked the other way, and 13 per cent denied seeing a theft or tried to rationalize it.

62 PCT. REPORT

In Davis, the figures wre 62 per cent reporting, 35 per cent refusing and 3 per cent saying they didn't see anything.

The variartion, Lopez said probably arose because the campus community of Davis is relatively affluent and the farm town of Woodland has a higher percentage of low-income families.

Lopez had no estimate on how much merchandise the students took. They returned it all to the store managers.

Gribbs to Review Urban Problems

DETROIT (AP) — Roman Gribbs will hit the books for a few days before taking over as mayor of Detroit on Jan. 6. He'll be reviewing urban problems with a panel of specialists from across the nation.

The Dec. 15-17 short course was scheduled before the Nov. 4 election and Gribbs — and his opponent Richard Austin — agreed to attend if the winner. Newly elected Common councilmen have a similar one-day course on Dec. 19.

Programming accounts for about one-third of the cost of running computers.

Not the Physical Kind, Though

Key Attribute for Santas? Guts!

BOSTON (AP) — Charles Dermitt is looking for men "who want to be yelled at, clawed at—who will pretend they are something that means everything in the world to these kids."

Dermitt recruits Santa Clauses for about 30 New England stores, and says only one out of every seven or eight men he interviews is hired.

* * *

"I'm not interested in physical appearances. I'm interested in the guts inside the man inside the suit," he said in an interview.

"One man I hired was a Negro, 6½ feet tall. But he had feeling and tenderness and wanted to be a Santa Claus. These guys we hire all want to be Santa Claus, and when they're inside that red suit, they are."

* * *

As manager of the Boston branch of Western Girl International, an employment agency which recently bought a firm called North Pole Santa Claus, Dermitt is implementing a Western Girl program to spruce up the image of department store Kringles.

The agency's Santas get four hours of schooling based on a training manual 1⅛ inches thick.

The manual includes requirements that Santa use a deodorant and mouth fresheners, and have a box of tissues handy for the times when youngsters try to impale his cheek with their candy canes. It also gives answers for questions that are as sticky as Santa's beard.

* * *

If the child says: "I saw you a few minutes ago at another store. How come?" Santa replies: "I saw you, too, but we didn't get a chance to talk. I guess I just beat you over here."

Dermitt said studies show that one of every 13 girls who talks to Santa asks for a baby brother. Santa's reply: "My job is to bring gifts to nice little girls like you. What you ask is out of my department. However, if you go home and pray to your God, I'm sure things will work out."

* * *

"You have to be honest with them," Dermitt said. "The days of promise-them-anything are gone. These kids are sharp. Besides, they have enough problems without Santa lying to them."

Armless Vet Learns Folks Have a Heart

DETROIT (UPI) — A week ago, Alvin Williams was ready to spit on the human race. Now, he embraces it.

The ex-Army private returned from Vietnam with three Purple Hearts but without a right arm.

* * *

He had a wife and two children to support, but everywhere he looked for work for a year the answer was, "Well, Alvin, we'll call you."

They never did.

"On Thanksgiving Day, he was eagerly making plans to start a new job, a new life. "I got my faith back in this country now," Williams, 22, said. "I learned a lot of people have hearts no matter what color they are."

OFFERS POUR IN

When Williams' difficulty in finding a job was told across the nation last week, the offers began to pour in. A man in Honolulu sent the United Press International bureau in Detroit a telegram offering him work. A car dealer in Arlington, Va., called.

Samuel Briscoe of Greensburg, Pa., sent him a $2 check. "This is not charity," he told Williams. "This is for what you have done for me." Others felt the same way, sending Williams a total of $400.

Seven policemen at the 10th Precinct pitched in $35 so Williams could buy a Thanksgiving dinner for his family.

And the Hercules Forging Co. offered him a job as an inspector at $2.92 an hour, which Williams accepted.

MORTAR BLAST

Williams was drafted in October 1966. A mortar blast ripped off his right arm on March 2, 1968.

Although he received $290 each month from the government, Williams had to pay $100 a month rent, buy groceries, and make car payments.

"I just can't put into words how it feels," he said last week. "If I would have known I'd lose my arm, I would have refused to go to Vietnam. I would have gone to jail.

"What they did to me is enough to make you want to spit on the human race. They kept telling me, 'You can't do it, you can't do it.' If I start to believe I can't do anything, I'd be better off I just laid down and died."

NO LONGER ANGRY

Yesterday Williams was no longer angry.

"I always wondered why the Lord didn't let me die," he said. "I hope I opened the door for all the disabled veterans. Now I don't have to feel ashamed any more. This week, I know my wife and children and I can have a happy life after all."

Doctors Halt Freak Growth

BOSTON (AP) — The growth of a 20-year-old man who had stretched to 7 feet 2 inches and was still growing has been halted with the help of a new technique developed at Massachusetts General Hospital.

The man was a victim of acromegaly, a disease resulting from over production of hormones. MGH News said Harvard University's 160-million-volt cyclotron was used to concentrate proton beams on the front of the pituitary gland, where growth hormone is produced.

* * *

Dr. Leonard Deftos of the hospital's endocrine unit said one treatment was sufficient, and the patient has since gained both strength and energy.

MGH News said that in studying 46 such cases, Drs. Raymond N. Kjellberg and Bernard Kliman of Harvard Medical School found the growth hormone in the blood dropped to normal levels 21 times. In 15 cases it dropped to less than half the pretreatment level, and the remaining 10 cases failed to show improvement.

Day Proclaimed

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has proclaimed Dec. 8 as Catholic War Veterans Day in Michigan, citing the organization and members for "the role played, in times of war and peace, in helping to strengthen their communities, this state and nation."

PLENTY ON HAND — Seniors Mary Guyon (left) and Judy Smythe, Groves High School American Field Service representatives, check to make sure there will be adequate supplies on hand for tonight's Pancake Supper in the Groves cafeteria. Pancakes will be served from 5:30-7:30 p.m. Proceeds will go to the American Field Service.

You'll Flip Over the Supper Being Cooked Up at Groves

By MIKE WILSON

Claus Frey, Mary Guyon and Judy Smythe assure the hungry that the pancakes at the annual Groves American Field Service Pancake Supper are going to be tasty.

Claus, Mary and Judy are this year's AFS students at Groves and have been working on supper details for weeks.

* * *

The supper will be tonight in the Groves cafeteria from 5:30-7:30. It precedes the first basketball game of the season, to be held at Seaholm.

Tickets will be sold at the door: adults—$1.50, students—$1 and children—75 cents.

AIDS EXCHANGE PROGRAM

Money raised from the dinner helps bring next year's foreign exchange students to Groves.

Denise Baughman, Gail Kann and Jim Wood acquired new sisters and brothers this year when the three AFS students came to Groves.

* * *

Claus, Jim's German brother, is from Bad Godesberg, a suburb of Bonn. He will have one more year to complete before going on to college in Germany.

"Science and chemistry are what I really like," explained Claus. "I'm taking biology here at Groves. Maybe someday I'll be a physician."

MANY INTERESTS

Besides concentrating on his studies, Claus has many outside interests here in America. He was on the soccer team this year.

"I played a lot during and after school in Germany. I liked being on the soccer team here, although I had to quit in the middle of the season because of a knee injury," he said.

* * *

Claus is taking French III, English, Algebra II and gym besides biology. "I wanted to take German, but my counselor didn't think I needed it," laughed Claus.

"I could have taken another class, but I wouldn't have time to study. I have to give lectures at meetings of service organizations and clubs all the time, and it takes up a lot of my schoolwork time," he said. He lectured the school on Germany last month during the AFS presentations.

When asked about Groves, Mary Guyon, who is staying with Denise, commented that it was very different from the school she attended in her home country, France.

"In France there was not such a relaxed atmosphere like there is at Groves. We do not have such a rapport with our teachers like these students do."

* * *

Mary graduated from school in France last year, and decided to study here before going on to school in her country.

"I'm really interested in journalism," she said. "There were no special classes in France like speech or journalism like they have here, in France. I hope to go into journalism as a profession when I get home."

Mary has contributed many articles to the school newspaper, the Scriptor.

'REALLY SURPRISED'

"I was really surprised when they put some of those in; my English grammar is really terrible," said Mary.

Judy Smythe, staying with Gail, is from the Republic of South Africa. Judy has a twin sister who is also on the AFS program in New Jersey. Judy attended a private school in South Africa during her three years of high school there.

* * *

"There were only about 200 students from eighth to 12th grade," she explained. "Groves is so big, but I like it, especially the teachers."

Besides speaking about her home country to interested woman's clubs around the Birmingham-Bloomfield area, Judy has found time to get all A's on her report card and have a perfect record on the girls' tennis team. Judy gave up only two points the whole season to other out-of-school players, and even beat the tennis coach at Groves.

HARD GAME? HAH!

"He was pretty embarrassed, but he shouldn't be. I play often in South Africa, all year 'round. He played a pretty hard game, though." Some hard game! The tennis coach only won one game the whole two sets. And that was on Judy's double-faults!

Judy thinks that the communication between students and teachers is fantastic.

"It seems that there is such an at-home atmosphere at Groves, compared to my private school in South Africa. The teachers here are terrific — especially the tennis coach. He's really funny," laughed Judy.

Besides Claus, Mary and Regina, there is another visitor at Groves. Participating in the Youth For Understanding (YFU) program is Regina Schmid, a native of Germany.

AT HOME

She is pretty much at home with Groves' six-period class day, since the school she attended in Germany is on the same basis — except that those six periods only last until 1:10 p.m.

Regina is from a girls' school in Goethe, and is staying with Groves student Leslie Gleason.

* * *

Her first impressions of Groves were, "Big! It's three times the size of my school in Germany. It's interesting, because you get to meet so many different people, and everyone is very helpful here."

The freedom of the dress code at Groves does not shock Regina, as there are no rigid rules for dress at her German school either. "The girls wear slacks to school, but nobody wears anything terribly short," she explained.

Needy Families Are Aided by PNH Students

By NATALIE KILMER

Thanksgiving baskets were made by Pontiac Northern High School students this past week and given to needy families for Thanksgiving Day.

The Student Council committee in charge of organizing this effort consisted of Ida Gilmore, Karen Harrison, Theo Overton, Mike Quackenbush and Carol Watkins.

* * *

Mrs. Walden Taborn's food classes were given the assignment of preparing menus for the baskets. The menus were based on the basic four food groups and included: turkey, starchy vegetables, green vegetables, salad (raw vegetables), bread, milk and butter and dessert.

Each homeroom that wished to participate in this project donated food and money to supply one basket.

Some families called in and asked for the baskets, some families were given baskets because the individual homeroom knew of their need, and other names were turned in by the elementary schools. Approximately 50 families received these Thanksgiving baskets.

Pontiac Northern's swim team held a "Red and White" swim meet Wednesday after school. Two of our own team members, Scottie Hasted and Jim Black, were elected as captains.

* * *

The coach then helped them pick out fairly evenly matched teams to compete against each other.

Jay Pritchard, one of the members of the swim team said, "It will be a display of Northern's power."

7 WLC Girls Vie in Pageant

By JOANNE SANDERSON

Seven Walled Lake Central girls will participate in the Union Lake Junior Miss Pageant tomorrow at Clifford Smart Junior High in Union Lake.

They are Connie Walton, Donna Sills, Linda Woelkers, Cheryl Rose, Cheryl Barget, Jeanne Stafford and Patty Spurr. The pageant is open only to seniors.

The girls are judged on talent, poise and personality. Each must give a five-minute talent presentation. There also is judging in formal attire.

WLC students made the annual can drive a success this year again, under the sponsorship of the Student Council.

CHANGE IN PLAN

In a major change this year, each class had a designated area to bring the cans to instead of the individual homerooms. There were also only three days that the cans could be brought to school.

Results of the drive were: seniors, 1270; freshmen, 1213; juniors, 576; and sophomores, 526.

* * *

Seniors won the contest at the last minute. At the end of Thursday tallies showed the seniors with only 78 cans and the freshmen had over 300.

It appeared as though the seniors were going to let the underclassmen show them up. But at the end of homeroom Friday the seniors had over 1200.

Ed McCallum, chairman of the can drive committee, reminded the students that this was "not only a victory for the senior class but for the entire school because so many families would be made happy on Thanksgiving because of the large amount of food contributions."

SENIOR PICTURES

Tuesday, seniors received their class pictures, ordered early in October.

Subscriptions for the Viking, Central's yearbook, have gone on sale for $4.50. The price of the yearbook will rise at unannounced intervals. A new feature will be added this year. Any senior may have his name engraved on the cover in gold for 50 cents extra.

* * *

The National Honor Society is considering free tutoring for any WLC student. The tutors are volunteers in a subject they are proficient in. Coordinators for this project are Mike Stewart and Patty Spurr.

* * *

Also discussed was making the cafeteria into a student commons area. This would allow students to use the cafeteria as a place to go and sit around and talk.

Adams Veto Plan Spurned

By PAT VOLL

The Student Council at Rochester Adams High School has been working on its constitution since September. The completed document was voted on last Thursday by the Adams student body.

The constitution was approved except for one article which gives the principal the power to veto any proposal presented by the Student Council.

Some students and faculty members disagreed and passed out flyers urging a "no" vote on the article, which was defeated.

Senior Marcia Hamilton, faculty members Gary Miller, social studies and A. A. Ryan, social living, and others will meet before the Student Council this week to draft an amendment.

Wednesday, before Thanksgiving recess, Adams held two assemblies in the auditorium.

The Rev. A. A. Gerhardt of New Congregational Church, Southfield, spoke at the Thanksgiving assemblies on the plight of the American Indian.

OHS Yearbook Work Started

By LUCY SHICK

Work on the 1969 Wildcat is now in full swing. According to sponsor Donald Canfield the goal for this year is to "make this a book which reflects the whole school, not just the seniors.

"We're trying to be creative and have fun doing it."

John Milosh, a senior, is this year's editor. Pat Thatcher and Ted Hohl are the coeditors.

Last Thursday, a photographer was on hand at Oxford High School to take pictures of the various clubs. Staff members assisting were John Milosh, Pat Thatcher, Helen Raetz, Kim Stubblefield, Teri Brooks, "Sam" Loewith and Lucy Shick.

Student Council held a meeting Friday with this year's prom the topic of discussion. It has been suggested that to give the prom a more formal atmosphere it be held elsewhere than OHS.

This would also eliminate costly decorations and would be less expensive for the students. Several locations, including Kingsley Inn, a Holiday Inn and the Oakland University ballroom were discussed.

National Honor Society's upcoming Student Government Day was also discussed.

Suppose we just say "Thanks"

Joseph D. McMahon

Such a small word, "thanks." Almost seems inadequate when we have so much to be thankful for.

The best employees a company could ask for.

Millions of customers who keep coming back for more.

And a nation that makes it all possible.

This truly is the land of the free. The land of opportunity. For all people. No matter what race, what creed, or what religion. In a way, that's what McDonald's is all about.

Fourteen years ago there was just one McDonald's. Today there are over 1200 from coast to coast. With over 600 owner-operators. Men who have proved that you can still make it on your own. Where else in the world could this have happened?

At McDonald's, we believe in this country of ours, and we live that belief. Every ounce of food we serve is American. Every piece of equipment. Every brick. Everything about McDonald's is a mirror of our trust in the American way of life.

So, during this Thanksgiving season, we at McDonald's are especially humble, especially grateful.

For this land we live in.
For the people we work with.
For the people we serve.

"Thanks."

Exercise Good Judgment on Ski Slopes or Beach

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We are a group of girls in our late 20s who love to ski! The social life at night is marvelous. But we have one big problem.

MARRIED MEN! What is wrong with wives who let their husbands come up to a ski resort alone for a weekend? Are they naive? Or just plain stupid?

We girls are free, and are out for a good time, but basically we are looking for husbands. These married men probably tell their wives they ski all day and are too tired at night to do anything but sleep. (I wish their wives could see them at night. They are peppier than the bachelors.)

We do not want to get involved with married men, but how can we tell who is married?

Our only hope is for you to tell the wives to smarten up and either go with their husbands or keep them at home.

BUNNY

DEAR BUNNY: There is no way for a girl to tell whether or not a man she meets on the slopes, the beach or any other place men hang out is on the level. Her only protection is her own common sense. She should beware of giving too much of her heart (or anything else) to a man she knows only casually.

DEAR ABBY: For homework in school we have to find a misspelled word in the newspaper. I would like for you to write a misspelled word in your column so I can bring it in.

I am 11 years old and am in the fifth grade. Thank you.

BETH IN EDWARDSVILLE, PA.

DEAR BETH: Unaccustomed as I am to misspelling words intentionally I shall be glad to accomodate you. (Now, let's hope the editor doesn't louse up everything.)

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My mother died recently, and the night she died Mom's sisters went over to Dad's house and went through all Mom's things and took what they wanted. My dad was home, but he is blind, and was still in a state of shock over Mom's death so he couldn't be expected to stop them.

My question is this: Did they have a right to do this without first consulting my brother and me? And isn't it considered unethical to do this before the funeral?

I might add that I am furious because I left a pair of MY shoes at the house while I was staying there taking care of Dad during Mom's illness, and they even took THEM.

MRS. B.

DEAR MRS. B.: I can't imagine anyone wanting ANYTHING that desperately. Your aunts were clearly out of line. Ask your Dad to tell them to bring back everything they took until HE decides who shall get what. And if he's too timid, your lawyer can put it in a letter.

A Continuing Controversy

'Sex Hygiene' Banned 50 Years Ago

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is the first in a series of three articles on the continuing controversy over sex education in Michigan's schools.)

By JOHN TEARE
Associated Press Writer

It has taken 50 years for a full-blown controversy to catch up with Michigan's laws on sex education in public schools.

But the explosion of comment, criticism and proposals over what school children should be taught about sex has engulfed educators and public officials from the smallest communities to the Capitol in Lansing.

And Michigan is not alone. Vocal opponents and proponents of sex education have stirred arguments across the nation.

The debate focuses on what should be taught, who should teach and to whom should it be taught.

All children learn about sex. "And," adds Dr. George Chamis, a nationally-recognized expert on sex education and director of a pioneering, 26-year-old program for Flint schools, "The question is not if, but how, when and by whom?"

The controversy has provoked a wide range of opinion across the state.

Material on sex education "is the largest single item in our administrative files" says one school superintendent.

A citizen's committee in another district finds the systems' existing courses on sex "have barely begun to implement the scope intended" by the State Board of Education.

CHARGES

Another group charges that sex education makes children "distrusting, disrespectful and deceitful."

"Morality should be taught by the parents. Sex should be taught by the schools," says a teen-ager. "I absolutely will not tell my children stories about cabbage patches and storks."

The issue was first joined in 1919 when the Michigan Legislature passed a law banning "sex hygiene" instruction.

That prohibition was repealed in 1937, but the amended statute still forbade instruction on birth control and said parents had the right to determine whether their children attended classes on sex.

The Legislature passed a law last year legalizing birth control instruction, but George Romney, then governor, vetoed it.

"One of the most pervasive influences in our time is a widespread and unwholesome preoccupation with sex," Romney said, adding he thought the bill "would simply increase the tendency to sexual permissiveness which is already growing at an alarming rate."

* * *

The question has since landed in the lap of the State Board of Education, which has held numerous public hearings around the state and appointed a committee to draw up a proposed set of guidelines on the subject.

The board's advisory committee on sex education completed its report in June.

"All schools should view sex education as a continuing process of instruction and guidance," said the report. It said school personnel should take into account the following "whys" for sex education.

"To provide a base of educational experiences upon which each child, youth or adult builds and develops insights and values regarding his human sexuality as a person and as a member of society.

"To place sexuality with all its ramifications in proper perspective to the child's total learning and life experience to minimize what some have called the present-day "preoccupation" or "obsession" with "sex."

"To strengthen and improve communication at home between child and parent in the area of sexuality."

MATERIALS

Part of the furor over sex education was prompted by a bibliography of available material on sex education which Ira Polley, then state superintendent of public instruction, sent to school administrators around the state.

James F. O'Neil, treasurer of the board of education, mounted a continuing attack on some of the material listed in the bibliography distributed by Polley.

O'Neil came up with his own set of guidelines which emphasized complete individual parental control over all materials used in sex education classes and parental veto power over whether children should attend such classes.

Originally the board had intended to have its guidelines ready in August for the September opening of school.

* * *

By July, however, board member Thomas J. Brennan was saying the board could not meet the Aug. 15 deadline sought by the Legislature and that board members "want a November date."

Since then the matter has been turned over to Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley who has been asked to review all existing statutes on the subject.

Male Students' Votes Elect Distaff President

Miss World 1969, 20-year-old Eva Rueber-Staier of Austria, was crowned Thursday night in London as thousands cheered the blonde model from Vienna. As actor Omar Sharif placed the crown on the winner's head, women demonstrators demanding "liberation" of their sex booed the proceedings. Miss United States, Gail Renshaw, 22, of Arlington, Va., was second.

Blonde Viennese Wins Beauty Title Amidst Booing

LONDON (AP) — Thousands cheered the new Miss World, a blonde model from Vienna, but women demonstrators demanding "liberation" of their sex booed as actor Omar Sharif crowned the winner Thursday night.

Squads of police patrolled the Albert Hall ballroom to keep order among the protesters as 20-year-old Eva Rueber-Staier accepted the title and said: "The first thing I want is my boyfriend over here.

"Being Miss World isn't going to make any difference to my marriage plans," she said. The date is "sometime next year and we hope to have two or three children."

* * *

Miss Rueber-Staier, who measures 36-23-36 won out over 49 other contestants. She will receive $6,000 in prize money and $27,000 in personal appearance fees.

Miss United States, Gail Renshaw, 22, of Arlington, Va., came in second and picked up a $1,200 prize, which she plans to use to pay off the mortgage on her parents' home. The frosty-haired accountant with a 39-25-37 figure said afterwards:

"I'm through with the beauty contest business. I plan to stick with accounting and work for a degree."

DEMONSTRATIONS

Two groups of demonstrators, totaling about 50 persons, distributed leaflets to the 5,000 spectators.

One group, the Women's Liberation Workshop, said the Miss World show meant "the economic, social and psychological degrading of women" and benefited "no one except big business."

* * *

The other group was protesting South Africa's participation in the contest because of the nation's segregationist policies.

There was no trouble despite a threat received by police that smoke bombs would be set off in the auditorium.

What's Proper for Woman to Call Herself?

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of the Emily Post Institute

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a divorced woman, 60 years old. When men ask for my name I never know whether to say "Mrs. Jones," or "Gladys Jones" or just "Jones" and wait for them to ask for my first name or title of Miss or Mrs.—Gladys

* * *

Dear Gladys: To your contemporaries, introduce yourself as "Gladys Jones" and say no more. Any man who is interested will soon find out your marital status by asking you, or one of your friends. When introducing yourself to very much younger people, you would say "I am Mrs. Jones," since that is the way they should refer to you.

NECESSARY

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it true that when eating, one must always cut meat with a knife and fork? Is it ever socially acceptable to cut it with the fork alone?—Rita

Dear Rita: When the meat is firm—steak, chicken, chops, roasts, etc., you must use your knife. However, manners are designed to help you do things in the easiest, most practical way. Hamburgers, croquettes, sweetbreads and other soft meats may perfectly well be cut or broken apart with the side of your fork.

Poster Art Now Being Displayed at PCAC

From Toulouse-Lautrec to Peter Max, posters as an art form are now on display at the Pontiac Creative Arts Center.

Thirty examples of the art will be on display including a poster designed especially for the exhibition by Project Outreach director and artist Irwin Gross. Two signed originals of this limited edition will remain in Pontiac.

* * *

"The Art of the Poster" exhibit is another in the Project Outreach series which is jointly funded by the Detroit Institute of Arts and the National Endowment for the Arts.

The federal pilot program is aimed at extending the resources of the Detroit museum to several communities throughout Michigan.

Both the medium and the message have traveled far from the famous "I Want YOU" recruiting poster of World War I. Today the fine art poster is enjoying unprecedented popularity with many major contemporary artists creating imaginative designs for important events.

The PCAC exhibition begins with Toulouse-Lautrec's bold effort on behalf of the cafe "Divan Japonais" (1894); Jules Cheret's "Palais de Glace" (1904) inviting the viewer to enjoy ice skating at the arena;

* * *

WHO'S WHO

From these turn of the century antecedents, the exhibit becomes a colorful Who's Who of contemporary artists' posters including Andy Warhol, Marc Chagall, Henri Matisse, Miro, Roualt and Brague. Albers and Anusklewcz are represented along with Indiana, Ellsworth Kelly, Lichenstein, Rauchenberg, Man Ray, Rivers, Stella, Troava and Vasarely.

Today's most prolific producer of posters — Peter Max — is on hand to pay homage to the master with "Lautrec" as well as his kaleidoscopic "Midget's Dream," suggesting but not revealing the complexity of the top secret printing processes that result in the remarkable color nuances of his posters.

A number of the bold, bright designs were loaned by Vera List of the renowned List Art Poster program, several are from the permanent collection of the Detroit Institute of Arts and some are from Bloomfield Hills collector Bernard Walker.

Gallery hours are from 1 to 4 p.m. daily except Friday. The exhibit continues through Dec. 15.

First Permanent Molar Very Important

By DR. HOWARD E. KESSLER

"It's what's up front that counts" is a popular slogan that some people seem to want to apply to their teeth. It is a serious mistake to neglect the back teeth and try to preserve only the front teeth, the ones that show.

Another mistake that many people make is to confuse a child's first permanent molar for a deciduous or baby tooth.

The first permanent molar has been called the most important in the mouth. At about six years of age it makes its appearance and is the first back tooth to erupt.

* * *

It comes in behind the primary or baby molars. Since this space is already empty, no baby tooth is shed to make room for it. This is where so many parents become confused because they are used to seeing a baby tooth come out to make room for the incoming permanent tooth.

* * *

This first permenent molar, called the six-year molar, is the first tooth the child has ever had come in without replacing another tooth.

Many readers ask me why the 6-year molar seems to be so subject to decay. One reason is that, coming first, it is in the mouth longer than any other tooth. Another reason is that enamel defects are sometimes present in this tooth.

Why is this first permanent molar so important? Because, being correctly in its place, it helps in the proper alignment of all the other permanent teeth.

Also, it serves as a stop for the jaws when it meets its counterpart in the opposite jaw. This is necessary to keep the jaws suitably apart during the time the baby teeth are being shed and replaced.

If these six-year molars were not there to function in this manner, the child might look like an old toothless adult during the period of baby tooth loss.

* * *

When your child approaches six years of age, watch for the first permanent molars coming in behind the baby teeth. There will be four of them—an upper and lower on each side. Value them and see that the child properly brushes them.

40% of Females Color Tresses

Does she or doesn't she? Well, if she's an American female over the age of 13 these days, it's just about as likely that she does — color her hair that is — or frost it, or streak, or "tip" it. According to the Clairol hair coloring people, upwards of 40 per cent of American females over the age of 13 use some form of hair coloring regularly, and most keep it up indefinitely.

Season's Offerings

U-M Theatre Slates 5 Hits

ANN ARBOR — Five top Broadway and off-Broadway successes with outstanding New York casts have been announced for the University of Michigan Professional Theatre Program's 1970 Play-of-the-Month series by Robert C. Schnitzer, PTP executive director.

Launching this series of New York hits in Hill Auditorium Jan. 23-24 is "Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead," which New York Times critic Clive Barnes hailed as "a most remarkable and thrilling play! . . . very funny . . . very brilliant . . . very chilling!"

"Rosencrantz and Guildenstern," a long-run London hit first, won both the New York Drama Critic's Award and the Tony as "best new play of the season." It's author, Tom Stoppard, has been termed by the British critics as one of the most exciting new playwrights in a decade.

'CABARET'

"Cabaret," the prize-winning Broadway and London smash musical, will be the second offering of the series Feb. 4-5. Winner of eight Tony Awards as well as the New York Drama Critic's Award, "Cabaret" was acclaimed by Walter Kerr as "a stunning musical, brilliantly conceived!"

"Cabaret" employs a richly tuneful score and highly colorful scenic design to bring audiences a vivid picture of pre-World War II Berlin.

"One of the most engrossing and entertaining plays that Arthur Miller has ever written" was how the New York Times described "The Price," which will be seen Feb. 24-25. "The Price" drew enthusiastic audiences last year in New York and London before entering its national tour.

* * *

Arthur Miller began his career as a Hopwood Award winner at the University of Michigan before achieving fame as America's leading playwright with such distinguished plays as "Death of a Salesman," "The Crucible" and "After the Fall."

Broadway and TV stars Phil Ford and Mimi Hines play the delightful husband-wife team in "I Do! I Do!," the musical comedy chronicle of a couple's life together, from their wedding night to their 50th anniversary. This warm-hearted song-speckled view of the brighter side of matrimony comes to Ann Arbor March 12-13.

New York critics agreed that "I Do! I Do!" is "a sheer delight! . . . a continuous pleasure!"

The long-running hit off-Broadway rock-musical, "Your Own Thing," climaxes the season March 18-19. This joyful, contemporary musical comedy version of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" won the highly-coveted Drama Critics' Award.

* * *

"Your Own Thing" has received long runs not only in New York and London, but Los Angeles, Chicago, and most of the capitals of Europe, and is still delighting off-Broadway audiences in its third year. "Your Own Thing" makes ingenious and inventive use of multi-media effects to update the Bard's gay tale of a pair of identical twins.

A Great Flavor

A little dry mustard added to ground beef for the barbecue grill gives excellent flavor — you can add half a teaspoon of the mustard to a pound of the meat.

It's usually wise to cool cookie and cake pans before washing them in soapy water.

Red Velvet for Festivities

For holiday parties, dress up a red cotton velvet bolero with lavish trimmings of beading, sequins, and shiny metallic braids.

* * *

Wear the bolero with plain white hostess pajamas or a simply-cut white dress and you will be the belle of the ball, fashion-wise at holiday at-home parties or the big New Year's Eve dance.

If you plan to make your own velvet bolero, the National Cotton Council suggests you remember that velvet is a pile fabric. For richest color effects, cut fabric pieces with the nap running upwards.

Five paintings by young artists from seven to 13, have been reproduced on silk scarves by Abercrombie & Fitch. They will be made available in limited collector's numbers.

Paintings Reproduced

Scarves Designed by Children

Abercrombie & Fitch is introducing an exclusive collection of silk scarves that feature the original works of art by five young students aged seven to 13 from New York City schools.

The idea, a full year in execution, was the brainchild of Ross Sutherland, general merchandise manager of A&F. Aware that a powerful trend to scarves was just getting underway and seeking inspiration for something unusual and exclusive, he hit upon the happy idea of reproducing childrens' paintings on large silk squares. He foresaw that childrens' art work ... fresh, original and colorful ... could be translated into scarves with great fashion appeal.

George Kaye, director of art for the New York City Board of Education, lent assistance for the project. Kaye enthusiastically placed at disposal many paintings by young school children from five New York Burroughs.

* * *

Sutherland selected five paintings which in his opinion were the most outstanding for his purpose. These selections were made with no knowledge of the sex or age of the children. The young artists and their parents were then contacted and permission obtained to reproduce them in this way.

The paintings were then sent to France to be reproduced on silk. Skilled craftsmen labored to achieve perfect hand screened replicas. After submitting many samples for approval they finally accomplished the color accuracy and the high degree of perfection required. The results are exact duplications of the original paintings including visible paint brush strokes and one young artist's by signature ... "Tommy."

* * *

Who knows but what a future Pollack or Motherwell has already had one of his first paintings acclaimed at such an early age?

PRIMITIVE

The paintings are primitive, powerful and courageous in the use of line, form and color. The obvious components of the innocent joys, interests and excitements of children are naturally expressed through the medium of art. The resultant scarves are beautiful collector's items.

* * *

So impressive are they that they have been included in the A&F Library of Scarves. In addition to the five original art works by the children, the Mallard Duck Scarf, an emblem long associated with Abercrombie's, is being introduced. These are first editions of the Annual Abercrombie Scarf and will be made available in future seasons in a limited number.

* * *

The A&F Library of Scarves consists of six selections, all of which were made in France, are hand rolled and 36 inches square. They are available at the Company's new store in Somerset Mall, Troy.

AF Nurse Honored by VFW Unit

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Air Force Capt. Mary A. Lawrie, a six foot tall nurse, walks even a little taller these days because of an award she received here from the Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW).

* * *

The nurse from Indianapolis, Ind., was honored by the women's group at the recent VFW national convention as an "unsung heroine" for the year she spent in Vietnam fighting a war against cholera, plague and typhoid fever. She was singled out to represent the more than one-half million women who serve the armed forces. A $500 award accompanied the citation.

* * *

Capt. Lawrie hardly had time to accept congratulations on her award. She left the ceremonies almost immediately to answer a call to assist victims of hurricane Camile at Bioloxi, Miss.

"I want to Vietnam because that's where it's at," she said while accepting the award. "I'm glad I went and I'm glad to be back."

In Vietnam, she took part in a mass immunization drive in the dianapolis, Ind.

Capt. Lawrie's home is in In. Cam Ranh Bay area.

All 4 had histories of previous mental ills.

Approaches to Weight Control May Cost

By ANNE TAYLOR
AP News Feature

Are you trying to shed some unattractive and unhealthful pounds? If so, you're like millions of other Americans who are pursuing the same objective in the variety of ways available to them.

Approaches to weight control usually involve one or a combination of pill-swallowing, club-joining, reduced food intake, low-calorie diets and exercise.

Some people make the attempt on their own; smarter ones take the advice of doctors. Some work hard and regularly at the job; others are fadists, switching from one method to another and never accomplishing much.

* * *

Regardless of approach, the question that every sensible dieter should ask, preferably while standing before a mirror and looking herself or himself in the eye, is this:

* * *

"Am I really working hard to lose weight; or am I merely avoiding the hard work and discomfort involved in the job and disguising the fact in a lot of activity that costs a lot of money?"

* * *

Curiously enough, a lot of people trick themselves, carefully avoiding the revealing questions: How long have I tried the method? How much weight have I lost? How much money have I spent?

INEFFECTIVE

Diet pills in some instances cost 20 cents each and do little more than give the dieter a feeling of fullness. Now this in itself may be an accomplishment, because a full feeling usually means fewer hunger pangs.

* * *

But at what price? The pills themselves often are without any substance that actually reduces weight. They do help you to follow a diet, perhaps, but if you follow a diet you can lose weight without the pills — and the cost.

Club-joining also is a popular way for many people to reduce. These clubs often provide lectures, diets, special foods, exercise programs and the association with like-minded individuals — all for a fee, naturally.

Some of these clubs do a fine job. But the fact is that much of the information supplied is essentially the same as that avilable free from state or local health departments.

* * *

Low calorie foods can in many instances help you to regulate your weight. But in some situations I have observed, the dieters become food fadists. They continue to buy the special foods but they never check for the effects — if any.

Your doctor will tell you that the reduction in calories often is insignificant in relation to the money and effort expended in buying this food. It might be more sensible, some doctors say, simply to reduce the intake of ordinary foods.

OBJECTIVE IN MIND

I recognize that in most instances the various techniques employed by weight-worriers are rather harmless. Not always, of course, because it is possible to be allergic to certain pills.

There also is a certain uplift involved in belonging to a regular, formal reducing plan, and for some people this might be far more important than actually losing pounds. I won't argue about it.

* * *

I still think, however, that anybody who is honestly trying to reduce will keep in mind that the objective is to lose weight, not dollars.

Blonde Preferred for Scientific Uses

Whether or not it's true that blondes have more fun, they do show superiority in even the most esoteric fields. According to the Clairol information bureau, for example, their hair was preferred for use in bombsights and weather recorders in World War II.

Girls to Model Wool Garments

Entrants in the District No. 5 "Make it With Wool" contest will model garments they have made from 100 per cent American wool material for judging Saturday morning at West Bloomfield High School.

* * *

District No. 5 includes Oakland, Wayne, St. Clair, Macomb and Lapeer Counties.

* * *

Winners will go to the state contest at East Lansing Dec. 13. State winners will compete in the National contest at Denver, Colo., in January.

* * *

Approximately 150 girls between the ages of 10 and 21 will register at the school at 9:30 a.m. Following the private judging, a dress revue from 1 to 2:30 p.m. is open to the public. Prizes will be awarded to junior and senior winners.

* * *

The contest is sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary to the National Wool Growers Association and the American Wool Council at Denver.

* * *

Mrs. M. B. Norland of Bloomfield Hills and Mrs. Orin Huntoon of Pontiac are handling arrangements for the District No. 5 event.

Seeing double ... refers to double-breasted wool knits that double as both coats and dresses. The coat dresses, or better yet, the no-coat dresses, are perfect for events sans coat. Left, windowpane pattern coat dress has a narrow knit belt, buckles in brass, bias paneled back. Right, vertical stripe coat dress, smooth inset mariff; both designed by Gianni Ferri and imported from Italy for Banff Knitwear.

Beauties in Art

Georges Bizet's opera "Carmen" does not stand alone in perpetuating the beauty of the cigar-making girls of 19th-century Spain. Francisco Goya is said to have used one of these legendary beauties as a model for his paintings Maja Vestida and Maja Desnuda.

Maxi Length Is Banned by Safety Unit

NEW YORK (AP) — The maxicoat is a lash-tripping, street-sweeping, escalator-clogging menace to the female population!

So says the Greater New York Safety council speaking out on fashion's current fad.

* * *

Disgruntled girl watchers have derided the maxi as an aesthetic hindrance, but the council declared it a safety hazard as well.

Mrs. Marjorie B. May, the council's director of home safety, warned fashionable maxi fans Thursday of these pitfalls:

- Maxis can easily trip the wearer on stairs and curbs.
- The floor-length hem catches in escalators and in bus, elevator and revolving doors.
- Maxis have a tendency to become street sweepers and subway dusters if the wearer forgets to lift her hems.

"Today's women have not yet learned how to walk gracefully in the maxi clothes," said Mrs. May. "They have little understanding of how to lift the long skirt or coat for graceful stepping and for safety.

* * *

"Having layers of heavy, wet and dirty fabric slopping against one's ankles on a rainy day or in snowy, slushy weather can be not only uncomfortable but definitely detracts from the well-groomed look the wearer may be striving to achieve."

Some New York department stores have already posted signs at escalators warning maxicoated shoppers to hoist their hems.

Despite the dangers, however, the maxi fad persists. It is perhaps explained by one young lady, who, noting that she likes to wear "a mini-mini inside my maxi-maxi," said, "It's worth a little risk to be fashionable."

Accessories include a stylish white vinyl "leather weather" hat, knee-high outdoor boots and navy blue leather mid-heels for in-flight wear. The costume is accented by a multi-colored scarf, white leather gloves and a silver mallard duck insignia.

Name of the Game Is Family Time

By BETTY CANARY
NEA WRITER

Anybody who has an abiding belief in the strength of the family must be growing more and more disconcerted with stories of how the family unit is breaking apart under the blows of outside influences. After going through the supply of magazines, newspapers and books delivered to my door in one week's time, I wrote a scenario about the average Family today.

If you don't recognize your family or the neighbors next door, then obviously you haven't been reading much lately.

The scene opens with the Average Family at home. They don't plan on staying there, but everyone has to drop in and pick up money once in awhile.

Fade in on father. He is sitting in the living room, thumbing a checkbook with one hand and a collection of pornographic pictures with the other.

Mother, a 35-year-old woman who is 20 pounds overweight and has a case of lingering acne, is methodically swallowing chocolate creams as she gazes despairingly into a hand mirror.

Their son, a gaunt lad wearing greasy bell-bottom jeans, is stretched out on the floor with his guitar. He has been there three days, alternately smoothing his shoulder-length hair and plucking at his gold earring with a bejewed hand.

Their teen-aged daughter, attired only in a see-through plastic raincoat, throws the butt of a marijuana cigarette to the floor. She speaks.

"Mother, are you going to get me some birth control pills or not?"

"I always wanted to be a brain surgeon," mother answers, "but it's a man's world and I got stuck with the dishwashing."

"You always wore a bra," her daughters says, accusingly.

The son, yawning, gets up off the floor.

Father, who has put away the pictures and is now sorting through a briefcase filled with General Motors' stock, asks, "Where are you going, son?"

"Like, man, to do my thing," the son answers.

"You're not going to burn any more buildings at the university, are you?" the father asks suspiciously. "Why can't you be normal? Let me give you a thousand dollars and you go booze it up like your old man!"

Mother, busily mixing a gallon-sized pitcher of martinis, nods agreeably. "Yes, son, why are you a draft dodger? Your father killed 4,823 of the enemy in the last war."

"But in my dreams it was an even 5,000," father says proudly.

The daughter rises, picks up the knapsack she uses for a handbag. "Back to the old commune. Let's see, do I have everything — grass, speed, LSD, heroin?"

"Why don't you study to be a brain surgeon, dear, or bake some apple pies or something? If only you'd marry the boy with whom you're living, my conscience would allow me to get you a prescription for The Pill."

* * *

Father and mother drink together from the martini pitcher. "Guess I'll call my mistress," he says. "Guess I'll start another diet," she says.

The two children wrap themselves in a Viet Cong flag.

Fadeout.

The Mayfair Club will hold two Open Pair Championship games next week. The first will be Wednesday at 11 a.m.; the second Friday evening at 8 p.m.; both in the above-mentioned meeting place.

Helps Part-Time Student

ANN ARBOR — A unique scholarship program for adult women returning to college is being launched at The University of Michigan with $7,500 to be awarded in 1970.

The sum was raised by U-M's Center for Continuing Education of Women through limited personal solicitation to mark the 100th anniversary of the admission of women to U-M.

* * *

Applications are now available through the center, which provides women with educational-vocational counseling and helps cut red tape for their return to complete a college program after an interruption.

More than 2,000 women, many with both families and financial problems, have been assisted by the center.

The awarding of five competitive scholarships for study at U-M will be made at a special University program April 14. Each scholarship may be spent in one year of a full-time academic schedule or over several years of part-time study.

PART-TIME WORK

The unusual feature of the program is its availability to women attending the University on a part-time basis, at either the undergraduate or graduate level.

* * *

The fact that there are almost no scholarships in the United States for part-time students works a severe hardship on adult women students — the most numerous group pursuing degrees on less than a full-time schedule.

* * *

Admission to the University by the time a candidate is being considered for an award is a prerequisite of the CEW scholarship. Returning women already on a U-M program of study are likewise eligible. The recipients will be chosen on the basis of motivation, academic record and promise, goal and commitment.

* * *

Although the Center for Continuing Education of Women has provided emergency grants-in-aid to 31 women, averaging $226 to each, this is the first time it has had the funds for larger merit awards. An additional $10,000 has already been pledged for similar scholarships in 1971 and 1972.

"Come back here, you blockhead," Figaro, the cat, appears to be saying as Pinocchio struggles to escape. The children's favorite will be presented five times next week at Pierce Junior High School by Lakeland Players. Mrs. Gene Whitfield of Pine Heights is the cat; Verne Vackaro of Coleman Street plays Pinocchio. Tickets are fifty cents at the door (parents accompanying children free) at 4 p.m. on Thursday and Friday and at 10 a.m., 1 and 3 p.m. Saturday. Twenty children from Oakland County Children's Village will be guests of the players at one performance.

Make Versatile Holiday Mats

This year, make fancy place mats to dress up your holiday table. You can fashion them with interchangeable motifs, so they can be used for any holiday all year round.

Use strips of stick-on tape fastener to attach different motifs to mats. Sew three-inch strips of the fastener to the lower right corner of mats and to the back of fabric motifs.

For place mats, use washable white cotton corduroy. Cut out fabric in rectangles 13 by 18 inches. Trim edges with fluffy white cotton ball fringe.

Make the holiday motifs from two circles of corduroy cut about four inches in diameter. Sew the circles together right sides out. Reinforce edges with a satin stitch on your machine.

Applique different holiday designs to the circular base. For instance, use a zig zag stitch to applique green corduroy shamrocks to a white corduroy circular base and you have an appropriate motif for a spring luncheon or a St. Patrick's Day dinner.

A Santa head is an ideal Christmas motif. Start with two circles of white corudroy for the backing. Sew a smaller circle of pink cotton to this base to serve as Santa's face. Make a cone hat from red corduroy and attach it to the top of the circle. For Santa's beard, glue white cotton pompoms cut from ball fringe around the bottom of the white circular base. Use a red pompon for the nose, black rick-rack stripes for eyes.

Loose Linings Cause Maxi-Trips

Maxi trippers: A lot of near accidents caused when heels catch in hems of maxi coats could be prevented by sewing the lining to the hem. It may be a little late for manufacturers, hung up on the old concept that coat linings must fall free, but maxi owners can certainly take a stitch in time.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Last week I brought you some tips about hair beauty from the specialists. Today I am after your scalp. All experts agree that increased circulation promotes lovely tresses and that a tight scalp decreases the flow of blood. Remember that the living part of the hair is under the scalp. Massage and brushing loosen it up and encourage luster and highlights.

* * *

There are several procedures which stir up "heady" circulation. For instance, sit in front of your dressing table, place your elbows on the table and put your head in your hands. Spread your fingers and rotate your scalp with the cushions of your fingers and your palms.

If your hair has a condition which calls for a tonic of some sort, part it at inch intervals and apply some of the lotion with cotton before massaging or brushing. Turn the brush toward the scalp to start and then turn it upward as you sweep it to the ends of your hair. You should feel a gentle pull on the scalp.

* * *

One of the most relaxing experiences you can have is a massage along with a shampoo. Some hair salons provide this. It is especially delightful when the massage includes your shoulders and your neck. If you cannot afford to pay for this luxury perhaps you can persuade your child or your husband to give you this lift to beauty.

If you must massage yourself do it this way. Wear loose clothing, nothing snug around the neck. Sit in a comfortable chair and put your feet up on a stool. Relax completely. After a few minutes press your thumbs into the structure at the base of your skull. Dig in all the way around your hairline. Massage over your shoulders and from the base of your neck upward.

* * *

After this use the cushions of your fingers and the palms of your hands in circular sweeps, and lifting the scalp all over your head until it is pink. If you will follow these routines regularly you will soon see an improvement in the appearance of your hair.

'Aerophagia' Not Unusual

Even perfectly healthy people are likely to be suffering from a condition called "Aerophagia" — which is really just the medical term for "air swallowing."

Everyone swallows air, a New York City gastroenterologist, Dr. Jerome Weiss, reports in Medical Times, a publication for physicians. While eating and drinking, and especially during periods of excitement, tension, anxiety, or just plain annoyance, a great volume of air may be swallowed.

* * *

Aerophagia is the most common factor responsible for intestinal gas. Although the condition itself is usually not serious, it can be painful. Until recently, it was also difficult to treat, Dr. Weiss writes. However, he reports that in a carefully controlled study, a tablet called Phazyme proved to be "most effective in relieving gaseous distress."

Out of the Past

When Columbus noted the Carib Indians of San Salvador Island smoking "a roll of leaves in a leaf itself," he noted it in his journal. Date: Nov. 6, 1492. Today, this phrase is used almost to the word by the U.S. Internal Revenue Service in its regulations on import and export of cigars.

The Atlantic Ocean covers one-sixth of the earth's surface. The S-shaped trough holds 85 million cubic miles of water.

Swedish 'Public House' Is Foundering

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — A motto crayoned on the shoddy staircase says: "Mankind will not be happy until the last capitalist dangles from the split guts of bureaucracy".

A U.S. Army deserter woke up and glanced at the legend. Stiff and chilled, he struggled out of his blanket and thumped down the stairs to the bathroom.

* * *

Winter was settling around the "public activity house" at 27 Old Bridge St. and American deserters, immigrant Finns and Swedes with no links to the 9-to-5 community were glad to have a place where the government provided warmth. They spilled over the 50-odd rooms of the old, four-story house near the Central Railway, shedding clothes, cigarette butts and empty beer cans.

A blotchy-faced old man leaned over a table on the third floor, trying to sleep. Every time his breathing became regular a red-headed youngster in desert boots poked him in the ribs with a merry elbow.

EDGING FOR A SPOT

A nearby pantry started dishing out hot broth to the tune of arguments among the staffers. A fight flared up in the queue in front as a pensioner tried to edge into a favorable position.

The young people running the house were starting to have doubts about their lofty plans for a "public activity house."

* * *

"In the few months of its existence, this activity house has become a gathering place for social misfits—and that's exactly what the authorities have hoped for all along," said Berndt Staf, a 24-year-old professional singer and composer.

Staf is one of 20 "activists," a few of whom can be found at all times in the office—a room distinguished by the presence of a typewriter. He said plans were under way for such things as a well-stocked reading room and educational classes.

MANY PASS THROUGH

A studio for painting has already been started but a lot of people are passing through, some of them more interested in stepping on paint tubes than in making a composition.

Bengt Lindfors, director of youth activities in Stockholm, denies that the house at Old Bridge is part of a design to herd undesirable elements together.

* * *

"Still, there is no discrimination, and we do get people lacking firm social background," he said.

The place, at one time a printing house, was converted for its present use at a cost in excess of $240,000. Some $60,000 has been allocated in annual running costs.

A TESTING GROUND

Old Bridge is supposed to provide a testing ground for the House of Culture, a multimillion-dollar project now taking shape near Sergel's Square in the heart of Stockholm. The governing Social Democratic party wants this to be a show-piece of the government's "equality" policy. It will house Parliament and a "public activity house" under the same roof.

The idea of the House of Culture is the same as that behind Old Bridge: no charge for anything except food, plenty of colored paper to scissor around with — and no guards.

A little later, the American deserter was reclining on a cushion in the basement meeting hall. Propped up against him were Mona, a Swedish girl of 13 with diligently applied makeup, and Krister, a 20-year-old employed as a janitor.

"Nobody bothers about the dustbins," he complained. "I work 60 hours a week to clean up this bloody pigsty." Mona licked her fingers to try to do something about two limp tresses of hair which should have been curling about her forehead.

"It's unbelievable the amount of hash that's peddled around here, and nobody has the authority to stop it," Krister said. He was talking about narcotics, not the remnants of a beef roast.

* * *

Mona observed: "We've got to have law and order." This echoed what somebody had said at a house meeting earlier in the day. The speaker had been met by allegations from "regulars" upstairs that they were being bossed by "intellectuals" downstairs.

"If this has been an experiment in anarchy, then it has failed," an old man muttered.

Apathy, Admiration Help Mafia Thrive

(EDITOR'S NOTE — In this second of a two-part series, UPI's Carole Eberly examines the question of why organized crime is so successful in a society supposedly worried about crime.)

By CAROLE EBERLY

LANSING (UPI) — A recent report by a federal commission on law enforcement identified Michigan as one of the states in which "the wealthiest and most influential core groups of organized crime operate."

It further said the ruling commission of the Mafia in the United States is composed of nine "families" from five cities, one of which was Detroit.

* * *

Vincent Piersante, chief of Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley's organized crime control division, estimates there are about 2,000 gangsters working in the Detroit area and thousands more around the state.

* * *

Why do they thrive in a society supposedly worried about crime?

APATHETIC

"Many people just don't care," said Piersante. "They believe organized crime doesn't touch them. They have the attitude 'as long as they don't bother me, what they do is their own business.' "

He said many Americans have an attitude of admiration for people who "beat the system."

* * *

"There's a certain amount of respect given to the person who beats the system — someone who can beat the big bureaucratic government," he said.

* * *

Kelley believes one of the reasons organized crime has survived in America is because people make folk heroes out of mobsters.

MANGLED BODIES

"The people don't see the mangled bodies of their victims," he said.

"People don't see the girls who are forced into lives of bondage because of organized crime."

* * *

Kelley also believes there is a definite link between organized crime and crime in the streets.

"Activities of organized crime contribute to the breakdown of respect for the law and law officers," he said. "They create a climate of corruption and an aura of illegality."

PEOPLE ARE SCARED

Piersante said there is some difficulty in court cases involving gangsters because people are afraid of being maimed or killed if they testify against mobsters.

"That seldom happens. The Mafia concentrates on keeping its own members in line," he said.

* * *

"They'll threaten and harass a witness, but very, very seldom do they really do anything about him," Piersante said.

However, gangsters have few qualms about using violence to enforce collection operations for persons running up gambling debts or falling behind in loan payments.

* * *

Last year a Sterling Township man was abducted from his home, beaten and dumped on his front lawn for allegedly falling behind on loan payments. The man died shortly after he was found.

Plan to Move Campsite From Waterfront Fought

LANSING (AP) — Rep. Jelt Sietsema, D-Grand Rapids, has announced a public meeting to be held on the evening of Dec. 9 at the Wyoming City Hall to protest a decision by the State Department of Natural Resources to move Holland State Park campgrounds away from the waterfront.

Sietsema said he had received a large number of complaints from residents of the Grand Rapids and Wyoming area about the decision. He said Robert Dodge, chief of the department's parks division, will attend to explain the department action and listen to complaints the department plans a similar move at the Grand Haven State Park.

"The idea is to leave the lakefront for day users," he said. "This seems to me to be wrong. A camper wants to be near the water — not half a mile or three quarters of a mile away. This means a long hike to the water and involves the safety of children who must walk on or cross park roads."

* * *

If there is a large turnout at the meeting, Sietsema said, the department may be persuaded to change its decision.

* * *

"It is my feeling that there is enough lakefront for both the day users and the campers," he said. "There seem to be many who agree with me. It is important that we unitedly show our concern."

Minnesota Defense Buries Lions, 27-0

Ferocious Five Pounces on Detroit in 'Slop Bowl'

By BRUNO KEARNS
Sports Editor, The Pontiac Press

Who needs an offense with a defense that is the best in pro football?

The Minnesota Vikings showed a record Thanksgiving Day crowd of 57,906 why they are the class of the Central Division and the No. 1 defensive team in the NFL in routing the Lions 27-0 in the "slop bowl" of Tiger Stadium.

Led by Jim Marshall, Carl Eller, Alan Page, Gary Larsen and backup man Paul Dickson, who made up the Ferocious Five, the Vikings clinched the Divisional championship in the same style in which they have obliterated 10 straight foes . . . with furious pressure.

This defensive unit blocked a punt, blocked two field goal attempts, intercepted two passes, recovered a fumble, smeared the Lions' quarterback seven times and took part in the longest scoring play of the game.

The game was almost a repeat performance of the 24-10 win by the Vikings in Minnesota a month ago. They pinned the Lions' offense in poor field position and forced them into the many mistakes that produced most of the scoring.

TEN PUNTS

They forced the Lions to punt 10 times and countered with three booming punts by Bobby Lee who averaged 45.6 per try.

The Lions' defense likewise did an adequate job in holding the Vikings to 88 yards rushing and 85 yards passing, but Minnesota didn't have very far to go for its touchdowns.

The scoring drives were 16 yards, 34 yards, 23 yards, 20 yards and a 45-yard interception return and lateral.

In Minnesota several weeks backs, three of the scoring drives were for 30 yards or less to indicate the Vikings' ability to keep their opponents from gaining field position.

* * *

Quarterback Greg Landry might be glad he won't have to face the Vikings again this year. He was hurt when he was sacked eight times in Minnesota, and yesterday was hurt again as he was covered like a mud pie seven times on the mucky gridiron.

GOOD BACKUP

Dickson, who is a good backup defensive tackle, but considered as good as any starter around the league, set up the first touchdown when he broke through to block Lem Barney's punt after 7:34 of the first period.

Linebacker Lonnie Warwick fell on the ball on the Lions 16 and in four plays the Vikings scored as Dave Osborn dived over from the one, at 5:04 left of the quarter.

* * *

The Lions couldn't get beyond their own 35 in the first quarter and after a 26-yard punt by Barney gave Minnesota the ball on the Lions' 35, Cox was able to add a 42 yarder to make it 10-0.

An interception by Barney on the Lions' two, and a roughing the passer penalty against Minnesota helped the Lions to get a march started but Landry was way off his mark with his receivers in the open.

* * *

One pass play saw Charlie Sanders all alone at the 10 when the ball sailed far over his head. A moment later Sanders did make a great catch in the end zone but he stepped out when he came down and the score was nullified.

BLOCKS FIELD GOAL

Earl Mann came in to try for a 27-yard field goal which was only five yards behind the line of scrimmage. Eller shot through to block it and then recovered it as time ran out.

* * *

After Marshall recovered a fumble by Nick Eddy midway in the third quarter, Joe Kapp climaxed the 20-yard march by hitting Oscar Reed with a six-yard touchdown.

Then came another big back breaker play early in the fourth quarter just after Barney blocked a Cox field goal attempt.

The Lions crossed midfield in one of the rare occasions and as Landry tried to pass from the Viking 47, Larsen tipped the ball, Marshall intercepted on the Detroit 45 ran to the 15 where he shoveled the ball to Page who went the final 15 yards for the touchdown.

Nick Eddy, who was hitting Marshall as he lateralled, was hurt on the play.

The scoring ended when Cox kicked a 38-yard field goal just after Warwick intercepted another pass.

* * *

Bill Munson came into the game in the final five minutes when Landry was smothered for the seventh time and suffered a sprained shoulder.

With just four seconds left, Mann's attempt for a 19-yard field goal was blocked again as the game ended.

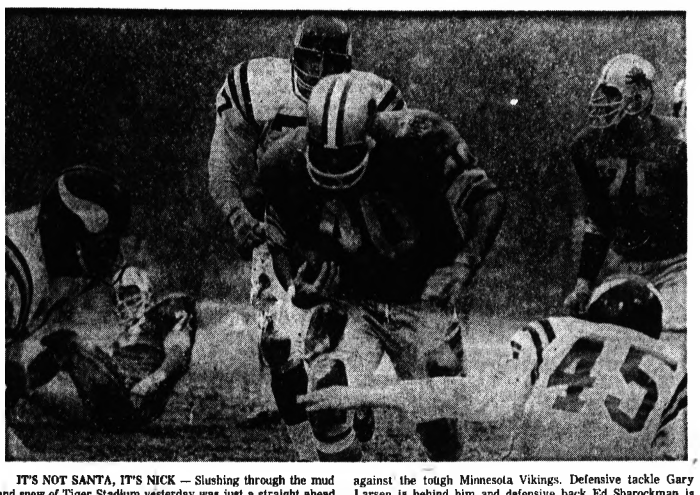
FIRST BOUNCE — Bobby Williams (45) of the Lions took this kick return, fumbled it and then grabbed it on first bounce before he was brought down in the second quarter of yesterday's game with the Minnesota Vikings. Oscar Reed (32) is the Viking closing in on Eddy from the side, while Steve Smith (74) tries to crawl toward the ball.



IT'S NOT SANTA, IT'S NICK — Slushing through the mud and snow of Tiger Stadium yesterday was just a straight ahead effort by Lions' Nick Eddy (40) who picked up a few yards against the tough Minnesota Vikings. Defensive tackle Gary Larsen is behind him and defensive back Ed Sharockman is just ahead of him, with the heavy snow all around him.

AW, GO MAKE SNOWBALLS — Lions' linebacker Mike Lucci (53) has his weekly chat with the official. In yesterday's snowy game at Tiger Stadium Lucci wants an explanation from head linesman Ray Sonnenberg. It certainly wasn't about the weather and it aparently didn't do any good as the Lions lost, 27-0 to the Minnesota Vikings.

Lions' Annual Feasting Slim

Vince Lombardi couldn't have been more wrong about his comment on how the Lions devour all their rivals on Thanksgiving Day.

After the Lions whipped the Green Bay Packers, 26-14, in the famous 1962 Turkey Day slaughter, Lombardi got his wish to quit playing the annual holiday feast.

"They (the Lions) are just impossible to beat in that Thanksgiving Day game," Lombardi was quoted as saying seven years ago.

But, the Lions haven't won a Thanksgiving Day tilt since.

Last year they were shut out 12-0 by the Eagles and yesterday they were stuffed, just like the holiday bird, 27-0.

BLOCKED KICK

Coach Joe Schmidt called the blocked punt in the first period the key play. "If they don't get it, maybe we go in at halftime 3-0, but they got us in the hole right away."

Both teams went into the game with the same strategy, hoping to get the first break and score first.

"We had a good punting game, it kept them in a hole," Grant added.

Jerry Rush, who has been out of action for almost a month after a bout with a bleeding ulcer, lauded Alex Karras for his determination to play.

"I don't know how Karras did it," he said, "I saw his knee a couple days ago and it was swollen like a volleyball."

Rush got into the game on the goal line situation on the Vikings first touchdown.

Howe Continues to Assault Old Age, Scoring Records

DETROIT (UPI) — Gordie Howe and Frank Mahovlich don't care whose holiday they make happy. Just so long as it's theirs and the rest of the Detroit Red Wings.

Howe continued his two-front assault on old age and National Hockey League records Thursday night as the Red Wings gobbled up the Los Angeles Kings, 5-1.

* * *

He notched a pair of assists for his 1,700th and 1,701st regular season points — breaking the record he set the last time he notched a point.

The second of those goalhelpers came on Mahovlich's second goal of the evening and ninth of the season as Detroit broke a six-game winless streak and extended Los Angeles' non-win string to nine.

In the only other NHL game played Thanksgiving Night, Bobby Orr continued to be the league's most offensive defenseman by racking up a pair of goals and an assist in leading the Boston Bruins to a 6-4 win over the Philadelphia Flyers.

SHUTOUT SPOILED

Only 1:22 remained to play in the Detroit game when Butch Gerand spoiled Roger Crozier's bid for the Red Wings' first shutout of the season with his first NHL tally.

The goal angered the brilliant goalie because Gerand stole the puck from a careless Red Wings' defenseman, whirled and blazed it by him before he had much of a chance to stop it. Crozier scooped the puck up with his stick and lofted it into the crowd in disgust.

* * *

"Aw, it was just one of those things that happen," he said a little sheepishly afterward. "We won and that's what counts."

Crozier explained he has had to give up beer because of his stomach, which earlier put him in the hospital for a spell, but since he's adjusted his diet and given up all drinking he's felt much better.

Detroit also got goals from Wayne Connelly and Mahovlich in the first period. Pete Stemkowski in the second and Gary Unger in the final 20 minutes.

First period—1, Detroit, Connelly 8 (Delvecchio, Mahovlich) 12:55. 2, Detroit, Mahovlich 8 (Connelly, Brewer) 17:56. Penalties—Popiel, Det., 13:44; Corrigan, LA, 16:39.

Waterford Teacher Keeps Running

Loses Race...Wins New Title

By DICK ROBINSON

A Waterford Township teacher once asked an official at a women's track meet how she should pace herself in her first half - mile race.

The official gave her some advice but the teacher, Mrs. Cheryl Bridges, didn't follow it. She lost the race.

* * *

The official apparently felt she needed some coaching. He married her and developed her into one of the top women cross country runners in the United States.

That's how Mrs. Bridges, a first - year elementary physical education teacher in Waterford, says she met her husband, Larry, 4½ years ago in Indiana.

NATIONAL MEET

Saturday she is expected to finish high in the national women's cross country meet in Los Angeles. The first six finishers qualify for the world meet.

She'll be running for the Wolverine Parkettes, mainly composed of girls from the Lincoln Park area.

Since the season started in September, Cheryl has entered and won 10 meets. Her best two-mile clocking is 10:54.

* * *

Mrs. Bridges is a shapely 21 - year - old blonde who hardly fits the typical image of a woman runner.

She has two secrets to keeping her shape — her husband and a desire to be the best in her field.

When she met her husband, Mrs. Bridges says she weighed 150 pounds. She now carries 120 pounds on a 5 foot 8 frame.

"He runs me a lot — 70 to 100 miles a week," she explains.

In the classroom, she encourages running to develop young bodies.

Mrs. Bridges, who teaches grades 1 through 6 at Covert, Burt, Sandburg and Leggett schools, said she has each class run laps around the gym with the goal of running five minutes nonstop.

ADDED LAPS

"They do one more lap each time," she reports. "I think they have to have some kind of goal so they go further. They don't complain about running."

Mrs. Bridges, 3295 Watkins Lake, explains that she was trained for secondary physical education at Indiana State University (ISU) in Terre Haute, but is teaching at the elementary level because there weren't any secondary openings in Waterford.

"I've been learning right along with the kids," she noted.

Outside the classroom, she rates as one of the top woman distance runners in this country and the world, records indicate.

* * *

Last year, she placed fourth in a two - mile national cross country meet and fourth in the world cross country championships in Glasgow, Scotland.

* * *

"I started running when I was 17 years old," Mrs. Bridges reports. "That's when most kids start to quit running.

FIFTH SEASON

"This is my fifth cross country season. There are 16 - year - old kids who have run as long as I have."

She was first a sprinter.

"At that time there wasn't too much known about women's track," she observed. "But Larry wanted to coach me. He read up on what material there was and turned me into a distance runner.

Larry, 29, recently got a second master's degree at ISU while teaching there and took a job as a health instructor at Wayne State University.

LARRY ALSO IS A RUNNER

His wife explains that he's been running distances since high school and has for six years held the mile track record of 4:14.6 at ISU.

* * *

"He doesn't run in meets as much as he used to," Mrs. Bridges remarks. "He's too busy training me.

That training amounts to two hours a day after school on the Oakland Community College Highland Lakes campus in Waterford.

* * *

A real competitor, Mrs. Bridges relates:

"I would like to run further than two miles in meets — maybe four miles — but the coaches of the other girls object to long distances."

Not hubby Larry, who caught her on a track.

points to win the race last year, the Toronto Olympic Club was not awarded the title due to a ruling that no foreign club may win the event.

Some of the more notable individuals also competing in Saturday's championships will be, Sam Baier, nationally rated miler from Canton, Ohio; Raymond Varey, 1968 Canadian cross country and steeplechase champion; Brian Kivland, 1969 Metropolitan New York AAU cross country champion; Ken Howse, fourth place finisher in the Big Ten this year; and Doug Brown, Michigan Class A high school cross country champion from Notre Dame high school in Harper Woods.

Skater Suspended for 6 NHL Games

MONTREAL (AP) — John Ferguson of the Montreal Canadiens has been suspended for six National Hockey League games and the Canadiens and St. Louis Blues have been heavily fined for taking part in a brawl Nov. 15.

Clarence Campbell, president of the league, announced the suspension and fines Thursday.

Ferguson was suspended for a "deliberate attempt to injure" Gary Sabourin of the Blues in the game at St. Louis.

* * *

Ferguson struck Sabourin on the head with his stick during an exchange of checks. Campbell had already lifted Ferguson from the line-up for a Wednesday night contest against the Maple Leafs at Toronto, thus giving the Montreal left winger another five games on the sidelines.

BIG MELEE

The Ferguson incident led to a general melee, with 11 players from each team clearing their respective benches to brawl on the ice.

In all, Campbell handed out a total of $5,775 in fines, of which St. Louis was assessed $3,350.

Huskies Skate to 5-4 Hockey Tourney Win

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) —Minnesota-Duluth scored five third-period goals and came from behind for a 7-5 victory over New Hampshire Thursday night in the first annual Thanksgiving College Hockey Tournament here.

They will meet Michigan Tech tonight in the finals at 9 p.m. The Huskies claimed a 5-4 overtime win over Manitoba University in the tourney's opening game.

Manitoba and New Hampshire meet at 6:45 tonight in the loser's bracket.

In the first game of the evening, Michigan Tech claimed its overtime win on a 20-foot shot by senior wing Ed Shiltington with just two of the 10 extra minutes gone.

KC Chiefs Earn Rest by Downing Denver

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Chiefs get a welcome 10-day respite from the American Football League wars, then gird for what Coach Hank Stram calls "the second half of our season."

The Chiefs have won 10 of their first 12 games and trail Oakland by a half game in the AFL Western Division race after whipping Denver 31-17 in a Thanksgiving Day game here.

* * *

Stram, looking to the Chiefs' windup battle with Oakland for the divisional championship, then the AFL playoffs and perhaps a Super Bowl berth, calls what has transpired just "the first half."

Kansas City, which can reclaim first place in the West if the New York Jets defeat Oakland Sunday, never trailed Denver although the Broncos now 4-7-1, rallied to throw a mild scare into the Chiefs.

* * *

The Chiefs didn't wrap up victory until linebacker Bobby Bell raced 53 yards to score with Denver's onside kick attempt and make it 31-17 with 39 seconds left.

Cowboys Blow Kick, Tie 49ers, 24-24

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — "Ridiculous."

Dallas quarterback Craig Morton spat the word out of his mouth like he had bitten into a green pecan.

* * *

"It's absolutely ridiculous to take the ball the length of the field to get into a position to win and then blow it," he said.

The Cowboys had to settle for a 24-24 National Football League tie with San Francisco Thanksgiving night when Mike Clark's 37-yard field goal attempt was blocked by Charlie Krueger with 12 seconds remaining.

* * *

Seconds earlier the Cowboys were tagged five yards for offsides and some felt Clark might have taken a fraction of a second longer to kick the ball because of the extra distance in the swirling 22 mile-an-hour north wind at his back.

Chargers Down Houston, 21-17

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — There is something about the Houston Oilers that seems to bring out the best in the San Diego Chargers.

That was the situation Thursday as the Chargers came from behind in the second half and upset the Oilers, 21-17, before a crowd of 40,065 in the Astrodome.

San Diego now has won 10 of the last 11 games between the two American Football League clubs.

Routine Start; Torrid Finish

Traveling Keg League Yields 762 Series

The night started off in routine fashion for bowler Hal Hintz, but before he was finished there was a sweet flavor to his scores.

Hintz, 58, of 1896 Faye, Brandon Township, converted the 5-9 spare in the opening frame of the North Oakland County Bowling Proprietors Traveling League action this week at Cooley Lanes.

* * *

Then he proceeded to ring up 11 strikes in a row for a 290 and followed this with a pair of 236s for a 762 series, highest reported in Oakland County this season.

Hintz, who operates Catalina Lounge in Gingellville and Rochester Lanes, has been bowling for over 30 years. His previous high game was 279 and his top series was a 698.

* * *

The righthander currently carries a 172 average.

His wife Gerry also is a top bowler. She averaged 180 in last season's Pontiac Women's all-events actual competition.

BOWLING

The master set a good example in his own house this week.

That would be Billy Goliembewski who topped action in the Maple Masters League Monday at Billy G Lanes with a 681 series. Meryl Taulbee checked in with a 641 followed by Bud Weaver's 637.

Two youngsters rolled games at Savoy Lanes that made them eligible for YBA trophies.

Texas, Arkansas Gain Wins

By the Associated Press

Texas A&M tried to grab a Texas Wishbone Thanksgiving Day and wound up empty-handed . . . and Texas Tech just got the bird from Arkansas.

Texas' bone-jarring Longhorns smashed Texas A&M 49-12 despite the Aggies' use of the Wishbone-T offense and Arkansas smothered Texas Tech 33-0 in traditional holiday games Thursday.

Their victories set up a classic battle between top-ranked Texas and second-ranked Arkansas on Dec. 6. Both undefeated in nine games, the Longhorns and Razorbacks meet that day for the Southwest Conference title, a spot in the Cotton Bowl and probably No. 1 ranking.

"We used the Wishbone-T to get fullback Steve Burks and tailback Larry Stegent into the game at the same time," said Texas Tech Coach Gene Stallings. "Our line just wasn't blocking as good as needed."

Arkansas' brutish linemen gobbled up Red Raiders' quarterback Charles Napper.

"Our defense was magnificent," exulted Razorback Coach Frank Broyles.

In the day's only other major game, 14th-ranked Mississippi clouted Mississippi State 49-22 behind the artistry of Archie Manning.

Elsewhere, Virginia Tech blasted Virginia Military 52-0; Louisville stopped Tulsa 35-29; Wofford defeated Furman 31-21; New Mexico state whipped Colorado State 21-20 and in the first bowl game of the season, Hutchinson, Kan., Junior College whipped Nassau Community College, N.Y., 32-7 in the Sterling Bowl at Sterling, Kan.

The Longhorns' nation-leading rushers roamed all over the Aggies' defense. Jim Bertelsen raced 63 yards for a touchdown on the fourth play of the game —and the Longhorns were off and running for 330 yards.

Meanwhile, in Little Rock, Arkansas was having a regular Thanksgiving Day picnic with Texas Tech. The Razorbacks intercepted five passes and dumped Napper nine times.

"Our game plan against a team that likes to throw is to blitz," said Broyles. "If we are successful we stay with it. And we were successful today."

Texas Tech Coach J. T. King, who lost 49-7 early in the season to Texas, wouldn't compare the two.

* * *

"Just let the people that pay $6 find out next week," he said.

Manning passed for two touchdowns and scored two more himself as Mississippi came up with some late lightning to rip Mississippi State.

The Army-Navy game highlights a light football card Saturday. While the two tangle in their annual battle in Philadelphia, 12th-ranked Auburn plays Alabama and third-rated Penn State meets North Carolina State.

Elsewhere, Boston College travels to Syracuse; Georgia visits Georgia Tech; Tennessee hosts Vanderbilt; Southern Mississippi plays at home to West Texas State; Oklahoma plays at Oklahoma State; Baylor visits Rice and Xavier, Ohio, is at Texas-El-Paso.

Palmer Tied With Archer in Heritage First Round

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Arnold Palmer held a share of the lead going into today's second round of the $100,000 Heritage Golf Classic —the first time he's been in such a position since his comeback — but the old charger is far, far from satisfied.

"It's one of the best rounds I've had in a long time," Palmer said after shooting a three-under par 68 Thursday for a tie with George Archer in the No. 1 spot.

George Archer	34-34—68
Arnold Palmer	34-34—68
Charles Sifford	33-36—69
Jim Colbert	33-37—70
Fred Marti	34-36—70
Grier Jones	36-34—70
Dave Regan	34-36—70
Terry Wilcox	34-36—70
Kermit Zarley	36-34—70
Jack Mcgowan	35-36—71
Lloyd Mangrum	353-36—71
Jim Grant	34-37—71
Richard Crawford	37-34—71
Jack Nicklaus	36-35—71
Hugh Royer	36-36—72
Dave Marr	36-36—72
Gardner Dickinson	36-36—72
Dick Hart	35-37—72
Tommy Aaron	36-36—72
Lee Trevino	37-35—72
Rocky Thompson	35-37—72
Dave Eichelberger	36-36—72
Babe Hiskey	36-36—72
Bill Johnston	37-35—72

"But I'm still not putting," Palmer continued.

"If I'd putted like I have in the past, I could have been eight under par after seven holes. It would have been unusual, but it was very possible."

As it was, he birdied three of the first seven, just missing an eagle on the par five second, and played par golf the rest of the way. In all, he missed five putts of six feet or less, and two more from eight feet, an indication of just how strong his long game is.

* * *

Two of his birds came on putts of 12 and 20 feet.

DON CARTER'S BOWLING TIPS

SLOW DOWN

If you are rushing the foul line and have trouble slowing down, move a few inches closer to the line before starting your approach (see illustration). This will force you to be cautious, for fear of fouling, and you'll go up slower. As you get accustomed to the proper rhythm, you can gradually move back to your normal area.

Both Have Losing Records

Cadets Favored in Service Clash

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Tom Cahill never thought he'd see the day when one Army-Navy game became more important than another. But that day has arrived.

"I wouldn't have agreed with that in September," the Army coach said Thursday after sending his troops through their final home workout before Friday's departure for Philadelphia and Saturday's nationally televised game.

* * *

"But with a losing record and this being the last game, it becomes all the more important," Cahill added.

Despite a 3-5-1 mark, first losing campaign in Cahill's four years as head coach, the Cadets are favored by 10 points. The reason is Navy's 1-8 record.

For the first time since 1964 both teams have come into the annual windup with losing records. Another defeat would make it Army's poorest season since the 1951 squad, decimated by a cribbing scandal, was 2-7. Navy is trying to avoid its worst year since the 1948 team posted an 0-8-1 mark.

Cahill agrees with Navy's Rick Forzano that "psychologically, it's nice to be an underdog." But he doesn't much care that Army is favored.

* * *

"If this were last year, when we were 6-3 at this time, I'd be concerned," he said. "But when you're 3-5-1 you can't be concerned about odds."

Army's last game was a 15-6 loss to Pitt on Nov. 15 and the relative inactivity has given the walking wounded time to heal.

The only players who'll miss Saturday's skirmish are two defensive reserves—Jerry Sidio, a back, and Craig McGrath, a tackle.

The tension has been building up on the Military Academy campus and, as usual, it's gripped the coaches, too.

"There's tenseness among the coaches before any game," Cahill said. "You work all week formulating your plans and you become tense awaiting the outcome of those plans. The tenseness probably prevails worst from the pre-game meal to the kickoff. I'd worry if it weren't there. But after the kickoff, you become so involved in the operation of the game that you don't have time to be tense any more."

Pistons Send Hap Hairston to L.A.

DETROIT (AP) — Harold "Happy" Hairston got his Thanksgiving wish Thursday — to be traded away from the Detroit Pistons and coach Bill Van Breda Kolff.

"I don't play and nobody gives me a valid reason why I don't play," Hairston recently told a Detroit sportswriter. "So I want to be traded to some team that's at least got a chance."

* * *

The 6-foot-7 forward was traded to the Los Angeles Lakers Thursday for forward Billy Hewitt, an undisclosed amount of cash and a future National Basketball Association draft choice.

Hairston, a Detroit starter for about 1½ years, was relegated mainly to bench duties this year.

Earlier this month, Hairston criticized Van Breda Kolff's strategy and also told of clashes with the coach, who move to Detroit from Los Angeles after last season.

* * *

Contacted in Philadelphia Thursday, Van Breda Kolff did not discuss personalities, but said "The way things were going, we weren't getting much out of him."

Program at OU Will Focus on 'Pressures for Change'

"Pressures for Change," a program to examine the forces which threaten the present structure of American education, will be held at Oakland University Wednesday and Thursday.

The conference, part of the OU 10th anniversary series on "The University in Crisis," will feature Martin Trow, professor of sociology at the University of California, Berkeley, and Frederic Ness, president of the Association of American Colleges.

* * *

Kenneth Roose, vice president of the American Council on Education, will serve as moderator.

The two public lectures will be 1:15 to 3 p.m. Wednesday by Trow and Ness in the Gold Room of the Oakland Center; and 2:15 to 4 p.m. Wednesday, a panel discussion in the Vandenberg Cafeteria.

PANEL PARTICIPANTS

Participating on the panel will be John Porter, acting state superintendent of Public Instruction; Rep. Robert W. Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe, State House minority leader; Gerald Faverman of the Legislative Fiscal Agency, Lansing; Elmer Cooper, OU vice chancellor for urban affairs; Jerome Hill, an OU student of philosophy; and William Loafman, a history student.

Trow's topic will cover pressures for change on university campuses. He says that much of the student pressure for change comes from a growing body of students in college because of pressure from parents.

* * *

Ness, the former president of Fresno State College, has had administrative experience at both private and public universities.

* * *

He will speak about the external pressures which he has experienced from governing boards, the legislature, coordinating councils and government.

* * *

Oakland opened its "University in Crisis" series in October with a program to examine the effect of college on students. The third program will be Jan. 19-20.

Bridge Tricks From Jacobys

By OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

E. J. (Bud) Smith of Detroit and Ace Gutowsky of Oklahoma City first met somewhere in the Pacific during World War II. They have been friends ever since and also one of the country's strong bridge partnerships.

Ace didn't have quite enough bid but when Bud was able to reopen with a jump to three spades, Ace decided that there might well be a slam. His four-club bid was a step in that direction. Obviously, Bud wasn't going to bid three spades and then pass four clubs.

* * *

Bud's four-diamond call was an obvious cue bid. Ace wanted to bid a slam but was looking at two possible heart losers. His jump to five spades told Bud exactly what the problem was and Bud went to the slam since he had a heart singleton.

He ruffed the second heart and noted that, while the slam was a good one, he had a possible diamond loser in the event that the club jack wouldn't be kind enough to apear when he played out dummy's ace, king and queen.

As you readers all can see, that jack was sitting right in back of the high clubs with three little ones to protect it but this didn't faze Bud in the slightest.

* * *

He just ran off all his trumps while discarding down to the king-eight of diamonds and 10 of clubs in dummy. East couldn't afford to let a club go, so was forced to throw away his five of diamonds. Thus, while Bud couldn't discard a little diamond on the 10 of clubs, he didn't have to. The little diamond had become a winner.

A Junior Editors Quiz About CORN

QUESTION: Corn doesn't look oily; where does the oil come from?

* * *

ANSWER: In our picture, grandpa Coleman is playing a trick on his grandson. He took an oil can from his tractor to pretend he is oiling his corn. "I was just fooling you, Ronnie," he goes on, "but I want you to understand all the things which come from corn.

"We grind it up with that big machine to turn it into silage which we feed our cows. Manufacturers take ears of corn, and by treating the kernels in a special way, separate the different parts to use for different products.

"From the outside hull comes feed for cattle, pigs and chickens; from the inner starchy parts cornstarch, hominy and so on; and from the germ part, corn oil. This is used as a salad dressing for cooking and is very valuable in other food products, especially margarine."

(You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

OUT OUR WAY

BOARDING HOUSE

Astrological Forecast

By SYDNEY OMARR
For Saturday

TEEN DATING HINTS: Great date night for theater, dining out, hearing music which reflects the best of the times. LEO shines, while AQUARIUS may be concerned with possibility of permanent relationship. Romance is emphasized for ARIES, while CANCER could strain budget. TAURUS should avoid confrontations which lead to useless arguments. VIRGO could find love through blind date.

*

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Be wary of the dency toward extravagance. You can win your way, but don't try to buy everything in sight. You are going to do some traveling. Social demands may require special purchase.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Face responsibilities. Having fun, going places and doing things—may cost more than you imagine. There are obligations at home base. Strive for balance between work and play.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Realize you can't run away from yourself. Study TAURUS message. Accent on relatives, calls, messages. Ability to articulate ideas. Stick with familiar area.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Love and family are highlighted. You want to do more than you may presently be able to afford. Stress quality rather than cost. Fine silk handkerchief could symbolize vital sentiment.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Avoid self-deception. See persons, situations as they actually exist. Easy to fool yourself today unless emphasis is placed on realism. Handle special assignment with aplomb.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Subtle approach is required. Don't think you can force your views—or your way—with some who seem to be dreaming are actually very inventive. Respond accordingly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Money and business may not mix. Be charming, but don't give everything away—get your fair share. And strive to have promises put in writing. Then you are on the road to success.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be independent, but avoid appearance of arrogance. Your male partner deserves special consideration. If you make concession, you assure ultimate gain. Think.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Use intuitive intellect. Your inner feelings provide valuable insight. Trust yourself. Message from star is significant. Pay heed.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Use of creative tactics results in profit. Necessary to be versatile. But be sure of facts. Don't scatter forces. Accent today on how to finance special enterprise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Hold back; if you wait, deal will be favorably consummated. Specifically, property or other possession brings greater profit if you are patient.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Be ready for significant changes. Accent on work methods, basic chores, relations with neighbors and co-workers. What you look for granted is subject to revision.

IF SATURDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are due for delightful experience which restores confidence and gives you new hope on life. Congratulations.

Game Burned Out

EAST HALTON, England (AP) — Rain is a frequent hazard in cricket, but fire doesn't often hold up play. It did when farmer Lawrence Blanchard captained a cricket team playing in a meadow at his Lincolnshire farm. A fire broke out in a haystack and the white - flannelled players dropped their bats and put out the blaze.

Police Volunteer Time to Fight Crime

Santa Will Be a Boy in Blue

DETROIT (AP) — Residents of the city's crime-troubled 7th Precinct are going to get cops for Christmas this year.

Starting Monday, 179 policemen will provide extra protection in the precinct as Yule season volunteers.

* * *

The policemen are donating a total of 1,200 hours of duty. This will permit the assignment of five extra patrolmen to precinct streets each day.

The unsolicited gesture by members of the force has two aims. Officers say they hope the volunteer hours will help reduce crime and at the same time strengthen police-community relations.

'UNTOLD SAVING'

"This gift represents an untold saving to the community in lives, goods and services," said Inspector Olson T. Tetreault, precinct commander.

Tetreault said the crime rate always increases during the Christmas season because people carry more cash and keep packages in their homes.

Officials said the 1,200 police working hours would have cost the city some $11,000 if the men had been ordered out on an overtime basis.

The 7th Precinct, with about 90,000 residents, has the second highest crime rate in the city and was one of the affected areas in the 1967 riot.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

Patrolman Joseph Whall dreamed up the gift and announced it Tuesday at precinct headquarters.

"We have offered this gift of gold in the spirit of Christmas, the season of cheer and good will," said Whall.

"We sincerely hope this gift will not be misinterpreted by any parties as anything other than what is intended, that being a gesture of brotherhood during the holiday season."

Insurers See Schools as a Bad Risk

BELLINGHAM, Wash. (AP) — Schools and public buildings, once considered a plum for insurance underwriters, are now considered a bad risk.

Companies which sought the business from northwest Washington school districts have reassessed their positions and in some cases have refused to renew package policies or reduced their discounts, in effect raising rates.

Vandalism and exposure to riot and civil commotion have removed schools from the choice risk category, to the extent that one company which had written packages for two Whatcom County districts, Lynden and Meridian, refused to renew its packages in Washington and Oregon.

Anacortes School District got a $15,713 bid last month on insurance for which it paid $8,726 a year ago.

LOSS RATIO

Insurance Commissioner Karl Herrman in Olympia, in checking the situation, reported that General Insurance Co. in Seattle, which writes about 30 per cent of the coverage in the state under its Safeco name, is experiencing a 120 per cent loss ratio, or $1.2 million in losses for each $1 million in premiums.

Herrman said there is still a market for public building and liability coverage, but he is keeping an eye on the situation.

* * *

Should it become too limited, he would insist that the Fair Access to Insurance Requirements (FAIR) plan be extended to areas of the state where the market dries up.

Under the FAIR plan, the federal government reinsures the carriers up to 100 per cent for coverage. The plan is in effect in districts in Seattle, Tacoma and Pasco.

In effect, Herrmann says, FAIR is an assigned risk procedure for riot, civil commotion and liability insurance.

Not in Yule Spirit

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP) — Not to be spoilsports but because they say the parasitic mistletoe kills 25 million cubic feet of standing timber annually in western Canada, 25 federal rangers are marking out areas for a chemical-biological war on the creepers.

Tax Evasion Brings Fine for Area Man

A Birmingham salesman and writer has been fined $1,000 and placed on two years probation in U.S. District Court in Detroit for evasion of income tax.

According to the U.S. Attorney's Office, William E. Kegel, 847 Willits, reported taxable income for 1962 at $5,883 and a tax of $1,329 when his correct income was $17,773 on which he owed a tax of $6,066.

* * *

Criminal charges against Kegel for alleged evasion of $4,970 in income taxes for 1963 and 1964 were dismissed by Judge Damon J. Keith.

During the three years for which he was indicted, Kegel reported taxable income as $7,645 when, according to U.S. Attorney James H. Brickley, it was actually $38,261.

* * *

The Internal Revenue Service will proceed with a civil action against Kegel to collect taxes totaling $24,792, plus a 50 per cent fraud penalty and interest for the years 1960 through 1965.

Kegel has worked for several companies, selling visual sales-training programs, and has written booklets and brochures for insurance companies.

Jewish Group Repeats Stand on Yule Stamp

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Jewish Congress has applauded the nonreligious character of this year's Christmas postage stamp. However, it has restated its opposition to such stamps on constitutional grounds.

The congress, which protested the selection last year of a Christmas stamp with a portion of Van Eyck's "Annunciation," commended Thursday the selections this year of a production of "Winter Sunday in Norway, Maine," by an unknown artist around 1870.

* * *

Will Maslow, executive director of the Congress, said in a letter to Postmaster General Winton M. Blunt:

"While it is still our position that the Post Office should terminate the policy of issuing any Christmas stamp, we regard your decision to eliminate sectarian connotations from the design as sound and eminently desirable."

* * *

The government began issuing a Christmas stamp in 1962.

Policy Airing Set

Roy Alexander, assistant superintendent for instruction, will talk on "Policies of the Various Schools" at a public meeting of the Waterford School Parents Council at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Pierce Junior High School, 5145 Hatchery, Waterford Township.

Rookie Cop Is Thankful for His Radio

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — A rookie policeman ordered a motorist to the side of the road to give him a traffic ticket.

But the officer accidentally locked the patrol car door as he got out, and the keys were still in the ignition. His citation book was on the front seat.

* * *

So the officer delivered a stern lecture to the motorist and let him go.

Then the policeman opened the back door and tried to fish out the keys through steel mesh that separates the rear prisoners' seat from the driver.

LOCKED IN

Suddenly, a passing car looked as if it might hit the open door so the officer slammed it shut and found himself locked in the prisoner compartment, which doesn't have door handles.

* * *

The officer radioed for help on his walkie-talkie.

Police Chief Harold Benadom left his family at Thanksgiving dinner to rescue the trapped policeman, whom officers politely declined to identify.

'Mail Early' Gala Set in Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Post Office here will launch its "Mail Early" campaign Monday with what Postmaster Joseph Scanlon calls "a lot of hoopla." It includes a public snowball fight.

The ceremonies, to be held downtown at Fountain Square, will feature a band, the "World's Largest Mailbox" and young ladies called "Miss Zips" who will pass out snowballs made of styrofoam bearing the message, "Use Zip Code, Shop Now, Mail Early."

Yanks Enliven U.S. Exhibit

MOSCOW (AP) — Russian-speaking Americans have turned a potentially dull U.S. education exhibit into one of Moscow's liveliest outings.

"We get off the subject very fast here," says Irene Murray, an attractive guide from Gulfport, Miss.

* * *

"Our talks usually start with education, but they turn personal, political or anything else as soon as the ice is broken."

Miss Murray is one of 21 guides, most of them young and all of them fluent in Russian, who have traveled with the U.S. Information Agency—sponsored exhibit from Kiev to Leningrad and finally to Moscow.

DETERMINATION

The questions the Russians ask reflect a determination to find out who is right—the Soviet press or the Voice of America.

"Is it true that most young people take dope in America?" one crew-cut young man asked.

"No but it's a growing problem," Miss Murray replied calmly.

"Do they teach Marxism-Leninism in American universities?" another visitor asked.

"Not only Marxism-Leninism, but Maoism, Castroism and others," she answered. The visitor looked stunned, but he appeared to accept the reply.

American salaries, cars, size of apartments, the Vietnam war, divorce, anticommunism, the price of the guide's dress, and the American view of Russia typify the questions that the guides handle daily.

Miss Murray and the others stand alone on platforms or in booths displaying tape recorders, teaching machines and other American educational aides.

The Russians drift from one booth to another, sometimes comparing the answers of the various guides and noting that the guides' opinions differ widely.

Lyndia Stoopenkoff of San Francisco, one of the guides, shocked about 50 Russians in her booth one day this week when a visitor asked her what she thought about the space race.

'COST TOO MUCH'

"I'm against all cosmonauts and all astronauts," she replied bluntly. "They cost too much money."

But she got her best reaction when a woman asked her exactly when American education began to develop the machines now on display in Moscow.

"When you launched your first Sputnik," she said. The sigh of satisfaction from the crowd was almost audible.

President Nominee to Speak in Detroit

The Rev. Channing Phillips — the first Negro to be nominated for president of the United States (at last year's Democratic National Convention) — will speak in Detroit tomorrow.

* * *

His noon address at Detroit's Latin Quarter will honor Luther C. Keith, organizer 15 years ago of the United Committee on Negro History in Detroit, and recognize the accomplishments of Detroit Recorders Court Judge George W. Crockett Jr.

* * *

Phillips' talk is billed as a prelude to the upcoming 45th annual National Negro History Week in February.

Paris Traffic Jam Hurting Auto Sales

PARIS (AP) — The Paris traffic jam has backed up all the way to the factory door.

* * *

The French Automobile Buildings Association reports Parisians by the thousands are delaying the purchase of new cars, or dropping the idea altogether. In the rest of France sales go bounding along.

* * *

Why? Traffic jams. Or in the association's language, "the insufficiency of the adaptation of the Paris street system to the demands of modern life."

* * *

In addition to street improvement, the association suggests an urbanization formula which would permit more people to reside in the same locality as their jobs. But the present trend is the opposite. Offices are displacing residences in the city. Once the jobholder moves to the suburbs, he still has to get back every day to work.

* * *

Officials say there is room for 730,000 cars in Paris, either circulating or parked. But there are nearly 2 million vehicles licensed in the city, and its suburbs, and the in-and-out movement alone sometimes reach 800,000 per day.

Moon Shots Prompt the 'Apollo Paradox'

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The two moon landings this year have given rise to something that I call the "Apollo Paradox."

I first encountered the Apollo Paradox in the utterances of public figures after the Apollo 11 flight last summer. And now, following the safe return of the Apollo 12 crew, it is spilling over into the mainstream of American life.

WEST

* * *

Like on Tuesday morning as I was dressing for work, I noticed that one of my shirt buttons was broken. I called it to the attention of my wife and asked her to replace it. She immediately evoked the Apollo Paradox.

"America is certainly a strange country," she said. "We have the technology to land a man on the moon, but we can't make a shirt button that can withstand machine washing."

MAMMOTH JAM

Later on, as Clefus Driggs and I were driving into town from the suburbs, we ran into a mammoth traffic jam with Apollo-paradoxical overtones.

"This is beautiful," Clefus fumed. "American can fly a man to the moon and back without a hitch, but a commuter can't drive into town without getting stuck in traffic for 30 minutes."

* * *

I had an appointment that morning with a public relations man who was coming down from New York on the shuttle plane. He was about 45 minutes late and once again the Apollo Paradox came into play.

"Sorry about this," he apologized. "You can land on the moon within 45 seconds of the scheduled descent, but you're lucky to land at an airport within 45 minutes of the posted arrival time."

ALL DAY LONG

During the balance of the day, I heard it alleged that America can land a man on the moon but couldn't:

- Deliver the mail with reasonable dependability.
- Stamp out poverty war, forest fires, water and air pollution, pornography, illicit drugs, crime, racial discrimination, inflation, illiteracy, tax loopholes, head colds and bad breath.
- Brew a decent cup of tea.

As the other scheduled moon missions take place, it seems likely the Apollo Paradox will expand, creating widespread discontent among the populace.

For this reason, the Space Center might be well advised not to stage any more landings as nearly flawless as the first two.

I'm not suggesting anything that might jeopardize the flight. But if a few harmless delays, miscalculations, wrong turns, etc., were programmed into the mission, the rest of us might feel less frustrated about the way other things are done here on earth.

Declared Dead

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Michigan serviceman, previously reported missing in action, has now been declared dead by the Defense Department. He was identified as Airman 1.C. Allen E. Dickey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett W. Dickey of Hanover.

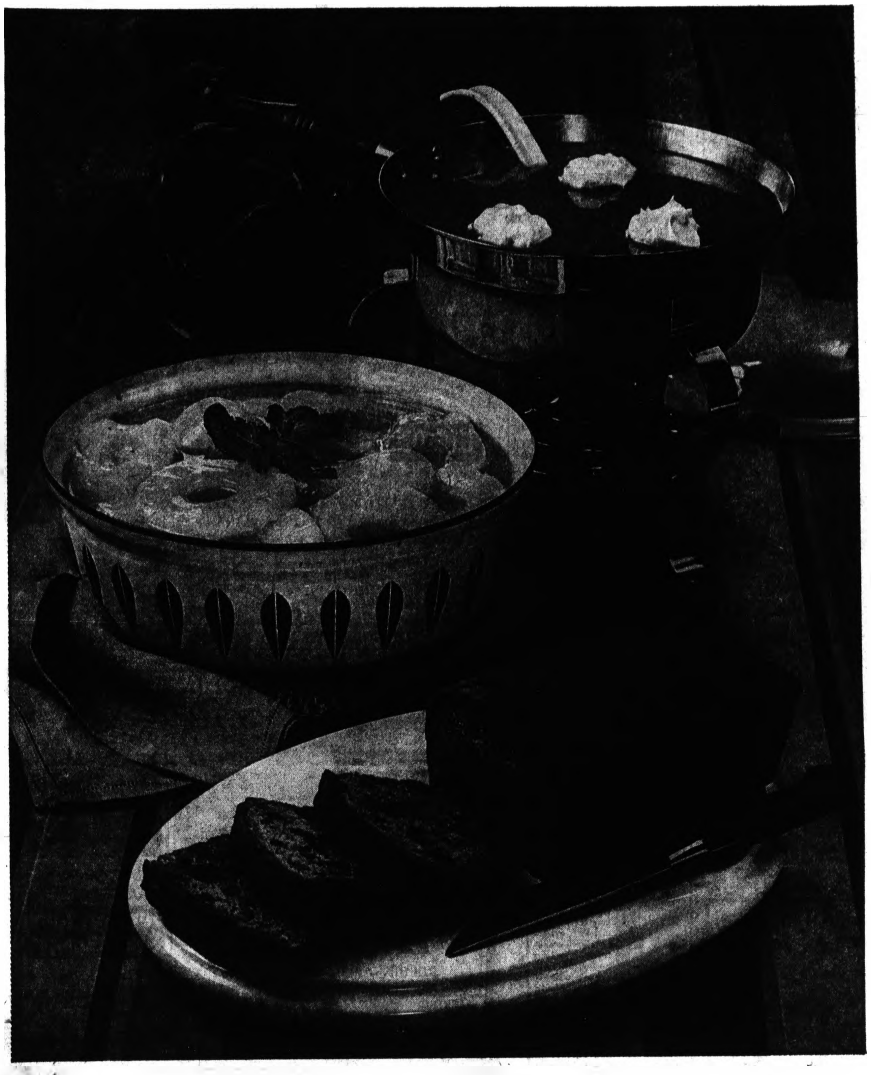
Little Touches that Make Great Dinners



In these days of do-it-yourself entertaining, it's the food that makes the difference between a party dinner and a family meal. And not always the main dish, either. Often it's the extra flourishes that the guests remember. The spectacular soup. The unusual fruit that embellishes the roast. The holiday cake for dessert. These are the dinner's ornaments — as much a part of party-giving as the striking table-setting for the serve-yourself buffet.

A sure-fire party-starter is a soup with a built-in taste surprise. An alluring new one is a blend of canned, condensed tomato soup, spice, and — amazingly — pumpkin. This soup gets a "frosting" of unsweetened whipped cream (and requests from the guests for the recipe). Another, also tomato, gets a garnish of zucchini and noodles, and a sprinkle of Parmesan cheese.

The fruit medley that accompanies the meat is just as tantalizing. It's an East-Indian curry that combines two golden fruits from two shores of the Pacific. Elegant, West Coast Bartlett pears, with their delicate flavor and tender texture. And island-grown pineapple, tart-sweet in flavor, sunny golden in color. Both come in cans, so the curry is happily quick to make and easy enough for a novice.

A homey, old-timey fruit cake, plumb full of nuts, raisins, and candied cherries, is the choice for dessert, especially since it can now be made a shortcut way, and ahead of time. The secret of this one is refrigerated slice-and-bake cookie dough, and a simple versatile recipe.

SPICE-OF-LIFE SOUP

1 can (10-3/4 ounces) condensed tomato soup
1 soup can water
1/2 cup canned or cooked pumpkin
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
Dash nutmeg

Blend soup and water; add remaining ingredients. Heat; stir now and then. Do not boil. Makes 2 to 3 servings. Garnish with unsweetened whipped cream, if desired.

TAORMINA TOMATO SOUP

1 can (10-3/4 ounces) condensed tomato soup
1 soup can water
1/3 cup thin noodles
Dash garlic powder
1/2 cup cooked diced zucchini
Grated Parmesan cheese

Blend soup and water. Heat; add noodles and garlic powder. Simmer 5 minutes; stir now and then. Add zucchini. Heat. Garnish with cheese. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

PEAR-PINEAPPLE CURRY

1 (1 lb. 13 oz.) can Bartlett pear halves
1 (1 lb. 13 oz.) can Hawaiian pineapple slices
2 cups combined pear and pineapple syrups
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 teaspoons curry powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon cardamon
1/8 teaspoon ginger
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel

Drain pear halves and pineapple slices. Combine syrups drained from fruits and measure 2 cups. Set aside for curry sauce. Saute onion in butter until tender. Add cornstarch, curry powder, salt, cardamon and ginger. Gradually add combined pear and pineapple syrups, cooking and stirring until smooth and thickened. Add lemon juice and peel, pear halves and pineapple slices. Simmer gently about 5 minutes or until fruit is heated through. Serve hot with meat or poultry. Makes 8 servings.

YES VIRGINIA FRUIT CAKE

2 eggs
1 roll refrigerated butterscotch nut, chocolate chip or oatmeal raisin slice-and-bake cookies
1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts or pecans
1 cup raisins or chopped dates
1 cup whole candied red cherries or chopped candied fruit

Generously grease a 9 x 5-inch loaf pan; line with heavy brown paper or waxed paper. In large mixing bowl, beat eggs well. Crumble cookie dough into beaten eggs; mix until well blended. Stir in remaining ingredients. Spread in prepared pan. Bake at 325° for 70 to 80 minutes until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 15 minutes; remove from pan. Cool completely. Wrap tightly in foil and allow to mellow several days.

TIPS: Cake may be baked in three No. 2 cans which have been well greased and lightly floured or greased cans that have been lined with heavy brown paper or waxed paper. Bake and cool as directed above.

Son of 'Mr. Republican'

'Young Bob' Is His Own Man

CINCINNATI (AP) — U.S. Rep. Robert Taft Jr. is 52 and a strong political figure in his own right but many Ohioans refer to him as "Young Bob" Taft.

"Old Bob" Taft, of course, was his father, the late U.S. Sen. Robert A. Taft who became known as "Mr. Republican" and twice was a candidate for the Republican nomination for president.

* * *

"Young Bob" had President William Howard Taft as a grandfather.

But "Young Bob" stands on his own feet.

That was shown last week when he announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for senator from Ohio. It threw him into a battle with party colleague Gov. James A. Rhodes, a powerful vote-getter. Incumbent Democrat Stephen M. Young is not seeking reelection.

PREFERENCE

Many Republican leaders had hoped that Taft would seek the GOP nomination for governor to set up a Rhodes-Taft ticket. But up in politics.

ROBERT TAFT JR.

Taft often has indicated a preference for the legislative side of government, at least for the time being.

Following in his father's footsteps is "not surprising," he said in an interview.

* * *

"I went into law and worked with my father, and I just grew in Cincinnati the Tafts sometimes have been called aloof. But Taft often has been anything but that. During his service in Congress, he has conducted regular community and house-to-house meetings.

"I think they have been tremendously valuable," he said.

Taft is soft-spoken. He smiles easily.

CONGENIAL CHAT

In his 1966 congressional campaign, in which he defeated incumbent Democrat John J. Gilligan, he once approached two men on the street, stuck out his hand and said, "Hi, I'm Bob Taft. How are you? I'm just doing a little campaigning this morning. I would appreciate any help you can give me."

One of the men pulled out a "Volunteer for Gilligan" card, but they all had a congenial chat.

* * *

As to the current issues, Taft speaks up plainly.

He said he is backing the Nixon administration on its Vietnam policy.

SALVAGE OPERATION?

He added that he believed a planned withdrawal of U.S. troops may be the only way to bring about a negotiated settlement of the war.

"I believe the North Vietnamese are trying to salvage what they can salvage," he declared.

* * *

He reiterated previously declared support of a lottery system for Selective Service but said he hoped there soon can be a return to a volunteer Army.

Taft first ran for office in 1962 when he was elected congressman-at-large from Ohio. Two years later he lost a close election to Young for the Senate seat. Then he defeated Gilligan in 1968 for the 1st District House seat. He was reelected two years ago.

FIRST WIFE IS DEAD

His first wife died in June 1968 of cancer. They had four children, Robert A. Taft II, 27, an aide to Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie of Illinois, Mrs. Sarah Jones, 25, who lives in New York, Deborah, 23, studying in Paris, and Jonathan, 13, a student.

Last August he married Katherine P. Perry, the widow of John H. Perry, an executive of the Procter & Gamble Co. She also was the widow of David G. Taft, a cousin of Robert Taft. David Taft died in 1962.

* * *

Bob's brother Lloyd once told why Bob is Robert Taft Jr. and not Robert A. Taft Jr.:

"My father said he would never wish the name of Alphonso on anyone."

Dust Particles Produce Some Colorful Snowfalls

By National Geographic Society

WASHINGTON — Some people think the Seven Dwarfs' companion could have been named Snow Yellow. Or Snow Red. Or maybe Snow Bluish-Green.

Snow — as scientists and explorers have long known — comes in several colors. The shade depends on minute algae (Sphaerella nivalis) or dust particles that sometimes mix with flakes or tint already-fallen snow.

* * *

The result may be a colorful, though startling, winter scene.

In recent years brown snow has fallen on Vermont and New Hampshire, pink flakes on the small town of Cuneo, Italy, and bluish-green snow on the rugged logging country of northern California.

STRANGE SIGHTS

Villagers in Russia's Caucasus Mountains are apt to witness all sorts of snowfalls.

In February 1962 about 10 inches of ordinary white snow fell on 25 square miles of the mountains' southern slopes. Then the unexpected began.

* * *

A scientific report put it this way:

* * *

"To the amazement of the population of several villages, snowflakes of a black color began to fall and this continued for a period of three or four hours. On top of the ordinary snow cover there was formed a layer of black-brown snow two to three inches thick."

DRAMA CONTINUES

The drama continued a few weeks later when a two-day display of precipitation brought a mixture of color to the mountains: yellow rain and rose-yellow snow in the western sections, brown rain and brown-red snow in the central areas.

Scientists attributed the black snow to a cyclone that carried dust, soot, and sand from nearby factories.

* * *

The mixture of colors arrived on jet streams that picked up dust from storms in Tunisia, Libya, Egypt, Syria, Turkey, and Greece. The color of the snow and rain depended on which desert provided the dust.

Microscopic plants, as well as dust, often provide a rainbow of tints on snowflakes.

'CHOCOLATE'

The winter resort of Alta, Utah, for example, received what was called a "chocolate snowfall" in 1955. Surprised vacationists saw tan and light brown crystals, colored by alkali, cover the mountainside.

* * *

Although reports of colored snow circulated centuries earlier, few had seen the phenomenon and no photographs of it appeared until 1911. In that year Ford A. Carpenter, a government weather forecaster, snapped "in natural color" a bank of red snow in Yosemite Valley.

The Gourmet Adventures of Jayson's

Most everyone relishes soup as a first course. However, soup is just ordinary soup unless you serve it attractively garnished especially with something floating on the top. Pale soups are beautifully garnished with chopped fresh chives or finely chopped parsley . . . the onion soup requires specific garnishing of grated cheese just as Vichyssoise must be sprinkled with paprika and garnished with fresh chopped chives. Avocado cubes are delicious floating on top of hot consume, cream of chicken or mushroom soup . . . thin slices of dill pickle or sweet gerkins can be floated on top of cream soups for a wonderful contrast. Whatever you do, if you are a good cook, you will never underestimate the worthiness of soups!

Sexy Coeds Cleaning Up

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Two bright-eyed coeds with sexy mesh stockings will clean a sink, scrub a bathroom and vacuum a rug—all for the love of the great outdoors.

Lisa Mahaffey and her roommate Nancy Sarris wanted to go camping "in lots of snow" over their Christmas break from the University of Florida. So the two tall brunettes opened an apartment cleaning service.

* * *

Only men's domiciles qualify.

The girls, both 20, decided on eye-catching attire to promote their service. They hit on a modified version of a Playboy Club's bunny outfit, with a rabbit's fur tail, satin ears and fishnet stockings.

"We thought we would get more customers dressed that way, and boy, were we right," said Miss Mahaffey, who stretches her leotard over a 36-22-36 frame.

ONLY WORK FOR MEN

"We only clean men's apartments, because that way we increase our social life, and besides, they're more fun to talk to," said Miss Sarris, who measures 35-23-35.

The girls charge $10 for a two-bedroom apartment and $6 to scour a one-bedroom apartment. They are pooling the money to take a two-week car trip to Canada because "Nancy has never seen snow, and I miss it like crazy," said Miss Mahaffey, originally from the North but now living in Key West.

"This has proved to be such a great way to make quick money we are seriously thinking about trying to spread it to other campuses."

"It has also been a great way to meet men," said her roommate, of Fort Lauderdale.

"Sometimes our client has the apartment stuffed with friends when we get there. Once a guy invited 30 guys over to play football while we were working—the front of his apartment is glass."

Safety Tips Given on Yule Decorations

CHICAGO (AP) — With the time for putting up Christmas decorations at hand, Underwriters' Laboratories Inc. offered today several suggestions in the interest of safety.

* * *

UL placed special stress on warnings against overloading electrical circuits with more lights than they can safely handle, and on an inspection before use of decorative lights.

* * *

The greatest peril of the circuit overload, UL said, is that it may not be heavy enough to blow a fuse but could cause the wire to overheat and melt insulation, opening the way for fire or electrocution.

* * *

UL's other suggestions:

- Don't work on light strings that are plugged in.
- Don't stretch light strings or extension wiring.
- Don't place flammable material near floodlights.
- Keep electrical fixtures out of the reach of children.
- Don't use string lights on a metallic tree.

Reviews of Current Books

THE TRUTH IS THE FIRST CASUALTY, by Joseph C. Goulden (Rand McNally, $6.95).

In August 1964, North Vietnamese patrol boats attacked two American destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin.

The North Vietnamese seemingly attacked again two days later, leading to American air retaliation which foreshadowed the three-year air campaign initated in February 1965.

* * *

President Johnson asked for, and quickly received, a congressional resolution of support which he later used to justify the Americanization of the war.

There are questions: Did the second attack take place? Why were the destroyers there, while South Vietnamese vessels were attacking nearby North Vietnamese territory?

* * *

Had President Johnson been planning to use such an event as an excuse to obtain a congressional resolution, and for how long?

Goulden's detailed book only provides some answers, but will stand as a valuable contribution to understanding the war, until the full story is disclosed — if it ever is.

Thomas Powers (UPI)

THE KENNEDY LEGACY, by Theodore C. Sorensen. (Macmillan, $6.95).

As a political treatise written by a man enmeshed in politics most of his adult life, who likely plans to seek elective office, the Kennedy Legacy is at its dullest and most artificial.

* * *

The meat of the book is in the first half with its anecdotes and inside revelations, as Sorensen traces the evolution of John and Robert Kennedy's careers and philosophies.

* * *

Wrapping himself in the Kennedy cloak, Sorensen presents the problems facing the United States and suggests solutions that would be approved by the brothers. The technique is too contrived.

Joan Hanauer (UPI)

THAT GRAIL SONG, SAM, ONE MORE TIME by George V. Packard. (Gambit, $4.95).

Any book that can blend a pair of obvious ding-a-lings with a goat herd and the daisy-bombing of a girls' college in an attempt to free a girlfriend as "main ding-a-lings" to differentiate them from the "side" or secondary ding-a-lings which happily freckle the book) to spring Sally, the gal friend, from Oliver Cromwell College in Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

What leads up to the daring daylight "break" provides some of the heartiest chuckles and belly laughs in a long while.

Rolls On With the Stones

Sullivan Still Snagging Stars

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Rolling Stones couldn't come to him, so Ed Sullivan came across the continent to tape a sequence with the British rock group for his Sunday night variety show.

This may give testimony on why Sullivan remains the redoubtable, unquestioned daddy of them all in the television variety field.

After 21 years, he is still going after the top acts—and getting them.

THOMAS

Sullivan's imperfections as an emcee have long been decried, and he has flourished while his detractors faded. None could deny his powers as a showman, as he demonstrated with his Rolling Stones coup.

At a rehearsal in CBS's Television City, Sullivan gave no indication that he admired or understood the Stones' thing. But in his dressing room afterward he demonstrated his knowledge of the Britishers' draw.

"These boys are hot, especially with the younger crowd," he explained. "They're on a concert tour, so I decided to come here and tape them. They cost a lot of money, but they're worth it.

* * *

"An attraction like the Rolling Stones will bring us viewers that don't ordinarily tune the show in. The repercussions drift over the next few weeks; those who tuned in may decide that the show is pretty good, and they'll come back. Another act who gave us the same kind of reaction was Elvis Presley, back in the days when he was first starting out."

* * *

Television historians will recall that Presley was a cause celebre on the Sullivan show. In those days he was undulating his body in a manner not considered polite, and Sullivan ordered the cameras focused on the upper Presley only.

SOME CENSORSHIP

Likewise he carefully viewed the movements of the Rolling Stones, advised them to avoid any suggestiveness, and even censored a couple of words in the lyrics.

* * *

"I think that's one of the reason that the show has been accepted: parents know they can watch it with their children and not be embarrassed," Sullivan reasoned, "I won't allow anything that is suggestive, and I'll cut an act rather than run the risk."

* * *

The Ed Sullivan Show has been getting some tough competition this season from Bill Cosby on NBC—"I wish we could get him on our show," said Sullivan. Despite some low ratings, Sullivan has been bouncing back, and he appears likely to remain on Sunday night as long as there is a CBS.

Collection of Comic Cracks Is Legacy of 'Mr. One-Liner'

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — A lot of laughter went out of the world when great comedian Jack Waldron, "Mr. One-Liner," died the other day at 76, and all of us on Broadway mourn the face that launched a million quips.

* * *

He went from Brooklyn to Al Capone's Chicago gangland and became "clown prince for the hoods." That was the place you went to be funny then. He used to say, "The boss stabs you goodnight." Business was often dead — as was many a customer . . . IT was "an electric chair with music." If the laughs didn't come— "I know you're out there, I can hear you breathing . . . Is this mike on the bum or this bum on the mike?"

Entertainers were supposed to lose their salaries gambling with the bosses.

"What's your best game?" one boss asked him directly one night . . . "Football," said Jack.

Split Siamese Twins Face Complications

BOSTON (AP) — Siamese twin girls separated in a 10½-hour operation emerged from the surgery in very good condition, but doctors caution they face "many possible complications over the next few weeks."

Among these are "the hazards of infection and nutritional problems," a spokesman at Massachusetts General Hospital said.

* * *

The twins were born by Caesarean section to an unidentified woman Sunday in Danvers and were separated Wednesday night.

The outcome of the surgery marked only the 17th time in recorded medical history that Siamese twins have survived such an operation.

HEART STOPPAGE

The spokesman said one infant suffered a heart stoppage during the surgery but massage restored the heart beat without any apparent injury.

The twins shared an intestinal system insufficient to meet the needs of both, making immediate surgery necessary, doctors said.

* * *

"One of the problems encountered in the surgery resulted from a deficiency of the front abdominal wall in the babies after their separation," a hospital statement said.

TEMPORARY WALL

"This deficiency required use of plastic material to create a temporary abdominal wall. This will be removed by degrees during several subsequent operations throughout the next two weeks."

The twins were joined from the lower chest through the abdomen to the pelvis. Their livers also were joined.

"Never before in medical history had a case been reported in which Siamese twins were joined the way the Danvers girls were," the statement said.

Yellowstone Gears for Snowmobiles

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Mont (AP) — Yellowstone National Park is bracing for a surge of snowmobilers.

All roads in the park, except for the one between Cooke City and Gardiner, are closed because of heavy snow, Supt. Jack K. Anderson said Thursday.

Snowmobiling is expected to attract more visitors to the park this winter than the 9,000 who came by over-snow vehicles last winter, he said.

Ex-Lion Resigns Detroit City Post

DETROIT (AP) — Gene Gedman, a former professional football player and Detroit pension bureau administrator, has quit his city post.

Gedman, who played for the Detroit Lions in 1958 before an injury sidelined him, said he had received from outside the city "attractive offers outside of the city service." His city job paid $18,442 a year.

Gedman's appointment stirred controversy when he was appointed by City Controller Bernard Klein. His appointment was resented by some of the career civil servants within the bureau.

Create 'After-Dinner' Plantation

New Book Offers Step-by-Step Advice for Indoor Gardeners

Wondering what to do with your garbage tonight? Why not plant it!

That's what Richard W. Langer did, and The Macmillan Company has just published "The After-Dinner Gardening Book," a step-by-step fun guide for converting a normal, barren, even air-conditioned city apartment into a lush tropical jungle.

* * *

One of the plants Langer (the pseudonym of a young short-story writer) suggests for an after-dinner plantation is the pineapple. To pot a pineapple, a good soil mixture is one-half potting soil, one-fourth humus, and (would you believe?) a fourth coffee grounds.

Pineapples love rich organic acidic soil and coffee grounds are high in acid. The coffee grounds should be rinsed and then thoroughly dried, i.e., by baking them on a cookie tin until well done.

SMELLS SWEET TOO.

A beneficial effect of this method of drying is "a cozy aroma in the kitchen."

Lob off the green top of the pineapple taking about an inch of the fruit with it, advises Mr. Langer, and let it rest a day or two before planting it. Plant it so that the soil comes up to the bottom of the crown.

Give it a good heavy watering and spray a weak dilution of liquid fertilizer on the crown the first day to help speed up initial growth.

The pineapple gathers most of its nourishment from "dew, rain, or home bottled spray falling on its leaves more readily than anything spoon-fed its roots."

Langer cautions that liquid fertilizer should be used at one-fourth its recommended strength as, in his experience, the full dosage is strong enough to burn the tiny new leaves. Avoid fertilizers high in phosphates and get one that relies on an ammonium compound for nitrogen.

* * *

Pineapples can suffer from iron deficiency anemia and Langer recommends Seguestrene, about one-fourth the recommended strength in a spray bottle about once a month. Ideal conditions for growth include a few hours of sunlight a day and a constant temperature sevety-five and eigthy-five degrees Fahrenheit.

He explains how anyone with a sense of adventure, a little patience, and a hearty inquisitive appetite can take the seeds and shoots of mangoes, pineapples, kiwi fruit, sugar cane, avocados, yams, prickly pears, artichokes, sunflowers, pomegranates, grapes, papayas, litchis, loquats, dates, coconuts, bananas, citrus fruits, etc., and yield a lush collection of plants.

The last chapter of "The After-Dinner Gardening Book" is filled with helpful hints for the after-dinner garden such as:

- Use your potted plant as an ashtray since the ash is very high in potassium, which helps keep the leaves green. Note, however, that plants do not like tobacco and cigarette butts do a plant no good whatever.
- Another good after-dinner fertilizer is the inner membrane of eggshells. Soak the egg shells in water over night, then fish them out and use the water on the plants.

Tulip bulbs should be planted from six to 10 inches deep depending upon soil.

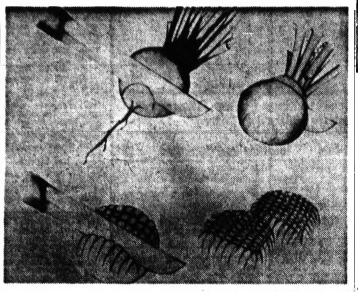
Colorful Hall

Combine three types of everlastings in a simple triangular bouquet to add a bright spot of color to your hall.



HOW TO TIPS — To make Presto pickles from Presto turnips, wash the turnips after pulling them, cut off roots and stems squarely. Then make criss-cross cuts, as shown, on one of the cut surfaces. These permit quicker penetration of the vinegar.

Dramatic Color Effect Paint Garden Picture

By ALLAN SWENSON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

You can get dramatic color effects in your garden with red, blue, white, violet and orange.

Here are tips on some of the most popular colors for gardens and varieties you can use to achieve sparkling, colorful gardens.

* * *

I think that probably the one color most gardeners write in about, especially among annuals, is blue.

Blue among natural native flowers is rather rare, but there are a lot of excellent blue, easily-grown annuals that add a great deal to any garden.

ADDS DEPTH

Incidentally, blue in any any Incidentally, blue in any garden adds depth to flower areas.

Best blues, I would say, would be good old cornflower or bachelor's-button blue. Blue salvia is excellent.

It's quite different from the red — it's taller, a beautiful silvery blue. You, of course, can get blue asters.

* * *

You can get shades of blue in petunias although they are not true blue.

Some of the oranges and reds your garden. Red is always a give quite striking effects in very important popular color, it stands out in the garden.

Among the best reds would be some of the red zinnias, salvias (which are almost synonomous with red) and verbena.

There are some beautiful scarlet, dazzling scarlet, verbenas.

* * *

For unusual effects, try some green flowers — they do well for indoor cut-flower displays. The bells of Ireland would be about the No. 1 green flower.

They're a kind of old, forgotten plant that has been revived — a shrublike plant with bell-like flowers up and down the stems.

BEAUTIFUL

They're beautiful for cutting, quite striking and very effective with different-colored flowers in arrangements.

From an expert landscaper's point of view, white is almost the most important of all the colors in the garden.

Here's why: White will set off all the other colors. If you're going to omit any color, don't omit white.

* * *

Best whites would be alyssum, petunias, beautiful white zinnias, white aster and white snapdragons.

Japanese Introduce New Small Turnip

From Japan comes a new, very small turnip that can not only be grown in your garden but also made into the speediest pickle you ever tried.

The name of the turnip is Presto because it matures so fast. It is ready for pickling within a month after seeds are sown! The pickle also is called Presto because it can be made overnight!

* * *

In Japan seeds of this turnip are sown from February until March.

Gardeners in the mid-South can follow the same schedule. But Presto will not grow in either very hot or very cold climates.

Once the turnips have reached pickling size, the rest is easy. Pull the tunips, wash them and cut off, squarely, the roots and the stems.

Then make crisscross cuts over one of these cut surfaces. The cross-hatching allows quicker penetration of the vinegar used in pickling.

SOAK

Soak the cut turnips for 30 minutes to an hour in a brine of 1 tablespoon of salt to 2½ cups of water. Remove at the end of that time and soak overnight or longer in a solution of 5 tablespoons of vinegar and 2½ tablespoons of sugar.

* * *

The amounts of salt and sugar may be adjusted to suit your taste.

Serve the Presto pickles as a side dish or as an hors d'oeuvre. Bits of red hot pepper or pimento mixed with the turnips set off their appearance and give a tangy taste.

Vegetable Peels Good as Compost

What are you doing with the inedible parts of the vegetables you and your family eat every day in the week? Or the dead flowers you take from vases in the house for discard?

These odds and ends of plants might well be used to start a compost pile to furnish your garden with organic matter or you with the foundation of potting soil guaranteed to grow super plants.

* * *

While in the large garden such refuse may be piled on top of the ground in any out-of-the-way place, it is better in a small garden to dig a pit into which to throw these plant remains.

A cupful of any complete fertilizer sprinkled over a bushel basket of waste, six inches of plant remains covered with 1" of soil, an occasional soaking of the pile with the hose, and by next spring you'll have an inch of fine compost at the bottom of the heap.

Fertilize chrysanthemums at least twice during the growing season.

Significance of Christmas Colors Noted

NEW YORK (AP) — Anyone who ever hung a holly wreath or wrestled with a tangled string of tree lights knows that red and green are the traditional colors of Christmas.

Why?

Green, says Inmont Corp., a major manufacturer of pigments and dyes, is important to Christmas because it once was known as the Hue of God.

* * *

The bible often makes a point of describing things as green. The walls of the New Jerusalem; seen in a vision, are described as jasper. And saints were said to be clothed in green to symbolize their eternal life.

In Revelations, St. John the Divine wrote: "And he that sat was to look upon like a jasper (green) and a sardine (red) stone: and there was a rainbow round the throne, in sight like unto an emerald."

FAITH, IMMORTALITY

To Christians, green has reflected everlasting nature and has symbolized faith, immortality and contemplation, the joy and hope that is an integral part of their religion.

But if joy and hope are innate in Christianity, so is suffering, and the bloodshed and martyrdom of its centuries are reflected in the red of Christmas.

A Look at TV

Football, Parades Reign

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK — The television viewer who doesn't like parades and football has, on Thanksgiving Day, about as much fun as the holiday house-guest who can't stand turkey.

CBS and NBC devoted the entire morning to those department store parades which over the television years have become as much a part of Thanksgiving as pumpkin pie. With four professional football games on CBS and NBC and a college football game on ABC, there was a considerable period during the afternoon when the sight of gridiron warriors was all that was available on the network channels.

* * *

While CBS was turning its cameras on the bands, floats and celebrities in parades in four cities—New York, Toronto, Detroit and Philadelphia—NBC as usual concentrated on the New York City festivities.

As the years have gone on, the NBC production has become less live coverage of a parade and more a broadcast of an elaborate street circus. Pony and dog acts, clowns, well-rehearsed precision dancers and marching bands performed on the asphalt in front of the sponsoring store.

COMMERCIALISM

Although the floats, music and giant balloons are officially to honor the arrival of Santa Claus, the spirit of commercialism competed with the spirit of good will. The programs were liberally laced with sponsors' messages and, for good measure, there were frequent, informal plugs of TV shows by the show-business luminaries who showed up.

* * *

Lorne Greene of "Bonanza;" one of the hosts on the NBC program, learned the perils of ad-libbing while filling air time between acts. He saw some clowns dressed as comedy firemen and observed that he is a volunteer fireman in Hollywood. Then he added, "We keep the fires going until the professional firemen get there."

* * *

A short time later, Greene earnestly explained he was only fooling—volunteer firemen, he said, really do a great job. There had been, he said, some complaints received about his remark.

Compared with Greene's mild sally, Alan King's "Music Hall" hour on NBC Wednesday night was sharp satirize of popular consumer beefs.

BITTER KING FUN

One sketch had an adjuster for a fire insurance company finding little damage in a burned-out room. Another had a frantic father-to-be trying to get his wife admitted to a hospital while the admitting nurse and a doctor ignored him. Another consisted of bitter King fun about the frailty of some electrical equipment.

Scientists Today Eye More Moon Rocks

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Scientists today open the second box of Apollo 12 moon rocks, a chest containing carefully documented samples and soil gouged from more than two feet beneath the surface.

The space agency also plans to release 29 more color pictures taken during man's second moon-landing mission. Officials yesterday released spectacular color and black and white photos and color movies of the two moon walks, a fascinating earthly eclipse of the sun and other highlights of the mission.

★ ★ ★

Geologists are eager to open the second chest to begin examiniation of 12 to 15 bags of rocks that were photographed and labeled by the astronauts before packing.

And one of the core tubes, which the astronauts pounded into the surface, is packed with soil from 24 to 30 inches deep. Scientists believe that deadly radiation from the sun does not penetrate this deep and that if there is any form of life on the moon it might have been captured by the tube.

REMOTE CHANCE

They emphasize, however, that evidence from Apollo 11 and unmanned probes indicates the chance of lunar life is extremely remote.

Related Pictures and Story, Page A-7

★ ★ ★

The Hornet is to reach Hawaii about 9 p.m. EST. There the trailer will be transferred to a jet cargo plane for a flight to the quarantine laboratory at Houston's Manned Spacecraft Center. The astronauts face 11 more days of isolation after they reach Houston early tomorrow.

Yesterday a glum Gordon went through the traditional initiation into the royal domain of Neptunus Rex—an equator-crossing tradition that dates back many years—while his two astronaut copilots roared with laughter.

ALREADY INITIATED

Conrad and Bean, who had crossed the equator earlier in their Naval careers and were already initiated as "shellbacks," made Gordon appear at the front window of their quarantine trailer wearing his hat and flight suit backwards.

A sign around his neck proclaimed: "Beware! Luney wog. Uncleanl Unpredictable." Luney wog was a moonage version of pollywog, the traditional name for sailors who have not crossed the equator.

U.S., Soviets End 2 Weeks of Arms Talks

HELSINKI (AP) — U.S. and Soviet negotiators wound up two weeks of secret arms curb talks today in what was described as a favorable atmosphere despite a smattering of caustic comment from Moscow.

After a 105-minute session at the U.S. Embassy, the envoys agreed to meet again next Tuesday at the Soviet Embassy.

★ ★ ★

Today's session was the fifth private discussion between the two sides since the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) opened Nov. 17.

Conference sources estimated after today's meeting that the negotiators still have another week or two of discussions ahead before ending the preliminary round at Helsinki. The next stage is supposed to be full-scale negotiations.

BLACKOUT PREVAILS

A news blackout on how the talks are going prevailed again today as it has since the meetings began. By joint agreement, spokesmen for the two sides are saying nothing beyond announcing the meeting times.

The American team, headed by Gerard C. Smith, feels that the talks have been marked so far by a good atmosphere and apparent Kremlin seriousness.

★ ★ ★

In Washington, Secretary of State William P. Rogers says the U.S. delegates told him earlier this week that their preliminary exchanges were "the best of any discussions they have had with the Soviet Union."

Soviet sources here have indicated that the Russians are also satisfied with the talks. But the government-controlled Soviet press has expressed no strong support for SALT and has been blaming Western "militarists" for the arms buildup.

★ ★ ★

The government newspaper Izvestia commented favorably Thursday on the "businesslike manner" of the talks, but claimed that the U.S. "military-industrial complex" is endangering them.

GIVE FOR OTHERS — The Salvation Army's Christmas message this year is to go outside your family and "share with others." Today Army representatives took their corners on downtown streets and in shopping centers. Grover L. Tipton Sr., of 57 Adelaide, Pontiac, got the message early this morning at Saginaw and Lawrence in Downtown Pontiac from worker Jackie Hoopingarner of 6416 Church, Clarkston. (Story, page A-2)

Indians on Alcatraz Hold Traditional Turkey Feast

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Indians in feathered bonnets danced and smoked peace pipes as they marked Thanksgiving on Alcatraz Island.

The setting was tranquil, in contrast to days past when Al Capone and other arch criminals were imprisoned on "The Rock."

Just before lining up for a buffet-style meal, one Indian read a "Thanksgiving Song" which said: "Tall Blackhawk stands with Sitting Bull. Wise Tecumseh speaks with Great Cochise. And all the tribes in all the lands send up the song for victory and peace."

The Indians were joined in the traditional turkey feast by a few palefaces—their attorney and the former prison island's caretaker and their wives, a few food donors and several newsmen.

THEY WANT ROCK

The Indians, numbering more than 150, are in their eighth day on the island. They demand the federal government give them the 21-acre rock along with funds for an Indian cultural and education center.

They contend an 1868 Sioux treaty provides for return to the Indians of unused federal land.

Secretary of the Interior Walter Hickel has agreed to talk with them, provided the Indians make no preconditions for negotiating.

The caretaker General Services Administration has urged the Indians to vacate because of inadequate health and sanitation facilities.

Pleasure in Leisure

Idle Hours Filled

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Patsy Edwards says Americans, capable of great achievement on the job, sometimes can't find satisfying things to do in their leisure time.

So, for a fee of $27.50, she tries to help anyone who has that "ugh" feeling when days off roll around.

Her business is called "Creative Leisure." She and two part-time assistants provide suggestions for those who find weekends disappointing, vacations hard to fill and who dread retirement.

"People are getting more and more leisure time every year," 51-year-old Mrs. Edwards said. "The average man or woman has 25 hours a week of leisure time — and soon it will be up to 35 hours."

30 PCT. UNHAPPY

What's more, she said, surveys show 30 per cent of all Americans are unhappy with the way they spend their free time.

A secretary in her 30s told Mrs. Edwards she felt a need to "express myself." But she didn't know where to begin.

Vocational interest tests indicated the client was highly interested in paleontology and archeology. Now the secretary spends six hours each weekend as a volunteer worker at a museum.

Army Judge Irked by Massacre Talk

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — An Army judge says his order for potential witnesses not to discuss the My Lai slaying case in public is being defied and has called a meeting of attorneys today.

Lt. Col. Reid W. Kennedy, who will establish the Army's legal guidelines in the court-martial of Lt. William L. Calley Jr., announced yesterday his plans to call the closed session "to come to some kind of conclusion about defiance of an order to witnesses . . . to quit talking to the press."

He gave no indication of the action contemplated.

"I can understand almost anything except this continuous interrogation of witnesses and potential witnesses and the publication of what they say before it is said in court," Kennedy said. "Something just has to be done about this."

CHARGED WITH MURDER

Calley, a 26-year-old former platoon commander in Company C, 1st Battalion, 11th Infantry Brigade, is charged with murdering 109 South Vietnamese civilians at the village of My Lai on March 16, 1968.

The Army said Monday its plans to bring Calley before a general court-martial.

A day later, Kennedy, who is senior trial judge in the judge advocate's section here, ordered that potential witnesses be instructed to discuss the case before trial only with attorneys involved or Calley.

He directed Capt. Aubrey Daniel, who will serve as the Army's prosecutor, to inform all witnesses of the order immediately.

SAIGON PROBE

In Saigon, yesterday, South Vietnamese Sen. Tran Van Don said members of his Defense Committee and the Senate Interior Committee will go to Quang Ngai Province shortly to investigate reports of the slaying.

Military Justice May Be Tested

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon officials may invoke two never-before-tested sections of the military justice code to try any former soldiers accused in the alleged My Lai massacre.

One of these is Article 18, generally applying to war crimes, and the other is Article 21 which, lawyers said, was intended to preserve common law permitting military commissions to sit in criminal cases.

★ ★ ★

Fifteen of the 24 men now under investigation, but not yet charged, have returned to civilian life since the alleged mass slaying of more than 100 South Vietnamese civilians on March 16, 1968.

Prosecution of the nine soldiers still on active duty poses no legal problem. They clearly are subject to the military justice code.

SERIOUS QUESTIONS

However, serious questions confront governmental legal authorities on the course to follow in trying to prosecute any of the ex-soldiers deemed to have been involved.

This is because the Supreme Court in 1955 rejected military court-martial for former servicemen in freeing a discharged Air Force sergeant who had been arrested by military authorities and flown to Korea to face a murder charge after he had gone back to civilian life.

★ ★ ★

Lawyers for the Pentagon, the Justice Department and other federal agencies have been studying possible courses of action against ex-soldiers in the My Lai case.

Key GM Exec Rollert Is Dead

Edward D. Rollert, General Motors executive vice president in charge of overseas subsidiaries and the domestic nonautomotive and defense divisions, died yesterday. He was 58.

ROLLERT

He was stricken Oct. 31 with a heart attack in Aberdeen, S.D., while on a hunting trip. Funeral arrangements are pending.

Prior to assuming the executive vice presidency, Rollert of 760 Kennebec, Bloomfield Hills, had served as a GM vice president and general manager of the Buick Motor Division.

★ ★ ★

He was a member of General Motors' executive and administration committees and was chairman of the overseas policy group of the executive committee.

In addition, he served on five other of the corporation's top policy groups—engineering, marketing, personnel, public relations and research.

West Germany Signs N-Arms-Curb Treaty

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Willy Brandt's West German government unanimously decided today to sign the treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

West German Ambassador Helmut Allardt immediately signed it in Moscow and Brandt told a news conference that Bonn's ambassadors to Washington and London will add their signatures later in the day.

The action by Brandt's Socialist-led government came after nearly three years of public controversy during which some Germans claimed the treaty would cut off this country from the benefits of nuclear research and thus from 20th century technology.

The opposition Christian Democratic party immediately assailed the government's decision as "too hasty" and irresponsible under the present circumstances.

'GAIN GUARANTEES'

Brandt, in making the announcement, said modifications demanded by West Germany and other nonnuclear states during the past three years succeeded in guaranteeing both the peaceful uses of nuclear energy and West Germany's security.

* * *

"There can be no talk of too much haste in signing or of a kind of 'super-Versailles,'" Brandt said, referring to the World War I German surrender that is generally regarded as a sellout in this country.

* * *

West Germany thus becomes the 25th of the 43 nations needed to approve the pact. The United States and the Soviet Union completed their ratification Monday.

* * *

Bonn's approval is significant because West Germany is one of the dozen or so nations with nuclear potential that had been delaying ratification. Of these nations, only Canada has approved the treaty although Sweden is expected to shortly.

DISCUSSED 3 YEARS

Brandt noted that the treaty had been discussed for almost three years and that West Germany succeeded in getting some of its own ideas into it through intensive diplomacy.

* * *

Brandt said the treaty in its present form guarantees each country's right to use nuclear research and techniques for peaceful purposes and that it does not endanger West German security.

* * *

He said ratification — the approval by both houses of the West German Parliament — will wait until the atomic agencies of the Common Market's and the United Nations work out an acceptable agreement on inspections.

Saigon Repeats No to VC Concessions

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government repeated today that it will never accept a coalition government in any form or grant territorial concessions to the Vietcong.

The Foreign Affairs Ministry issued a statement to clear up what it termed a misunderstanding of remarks by Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge after the 44th meeting of the Paris peace talks Wednesday.

Lodge had told newsmen the United States would be willing to talk to Hanoi about a new coalition government in South Vietnam, but stipulated that the Saigon government would have to ratify any agreement on this or any other question.

The Foreign Affairs Ministry said: "What resulted in the misunderstanding of Ambassador Lodge's statement by public opinion derived from the fact that the Vietnamese and American governments in their devotion to search for peace, have emphasized their readiness to discuss whatever problems are initiated by the other side. However, we will never accept coalition under whatever form and territorial concession to the Communists."

6-POINT MESSAGE

The Foreign Affairs Ministry statement said that "the Republic of South Vietnam's good will for an honorable solution to the Vietnam problem was spelled out in President Nguyen Van Thieu's July 11 six-point message."

In a major address to the nation last July 11, Thieu said "free elections can be based" on six principles.

"All political parties and groups, including the National Liberation Front (Vietcong), which is now bearing arms against us, can participate in the elections if they renounce violence and pledge themselves to accept the results of the elections," Thieu said.

Thieu added that "an electoral commission could be set up, in which all political parties and groups, including the 'NLF,' now fighting against us, could be represented. The electoral commission will assure equal opportunities in the campaigning to all candidates."

NO REPRISALS

Thieu proposed an international body to supervise the elections, said he was prepared to discuss an election date with the other side and pledged: "there will be no reprisals or discrimination after the elections.

"The government of Vietnam declares that it will abide by the results of the elections, whatever these results may be," he concluded.

Birmingham

Residents' Tax Shares Spelled Out

BIRMINGHAM — Every resident in this community is paying about $2.50 per day to the U.S. Department of Defense, according to a federal tax-expenditure breakdown released by the Tax Foundation.

The total daily federal tax per Birmingham resident was set at $5.89 per day. The total for the city is $194,000 per day.

* * *

The average payment per person throughout the United States is $2.48 per day; $2.87 in Michigan.

The approximate $2.50 payment per day by Birmingham residents to the Defense Department is based on the fact that nearly half the federal budget is for military spending.

* * *

Approximately $440 of every $1,000 in federal taxes is allocated for defense or military spending. Health, education and welfare spending totals $260, followed by interest on the national debt at $70, commerce and transportation $44 and veterans benefits $42.

What makes a growth stock? How do you determine a growth industry? What are some of the major areas of greatest potential growth?

These questions and others will be explored at two stock market forums at the Birmingham Community House — the first next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.; the second Dec. 17, also at 7:30 p.m.

* * *

Both forums are sponsored by Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith and will be conducted by account executive Gabriel Werba.

Among the industries to be examined at the forum next Tuesday will be the mobile home and prefabricated and modular-housing groups, and the antipollution field.

Detroit Crash Kills Two; National Toll Is at 183

By United Press International

A car loaded with 10 teen-agers skidded out of control at the intersection of two Detroit freeways early today and slammed into a light pole, claiming the lives of two of the youngsters as Michigan's traffic death toll on the long Thanksgiving holiday climbed to at least nine.

Nationwide, the highway traffic death toll mounted slowly and stood at 183 persons at 7 a.m. EST. Officials of the National Safety Council, however, said the final figure would approach last year's record 764 deaths.

Related Story, Opposite Page

Detroit police said the car carrying the 10 teen-agers attempted to switch from the northbound Chrysler freeway to the westbound Ford freeway at a high rate of speed and apparently hit a patch of slippery pavement.

Killed in the mishap were Walter Foster, 17, the driver, and Gayle Hardy, 17, both of Detroit. The other eight teenagers received minor injuries.

DEATH FIGURES

A breakdown of accidental deaths in the United States showed:

Traffic	183
Drownings	14
Planes	17
Miscellaneous	9
Total	223

California led the states with 16 traffic deaths. Georgia counted 12 and Kentucky, New York and Texas each had 10.

Ad Nets 3 Men Leftover Names

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Three bachelors, who advertised in a newspaper for Thanksgiving leftovers, claim their plan worked better than they expected.

"We got a lot of fun and a number of names and telephone numbers of girls," they said.

The ad resulted in a dinner invitation instead of leftovers.

The three, Jim Meyar, 23, Tom Leslie, 24, and Jay Campbell, 24, said they placed the ad because their cooking is "the worst."

The ad read: "Do you cook like mama? Why fill up the refrigerator with Thanksgiving leftovers? Please call, Jim, Tom or Jay."

"We were expecting little old ladies to call," Jim said, "but most of the callers were single girls."

Police Probe City Shooting

A Pontiac youth is hospitalized in critical condition today with a bullet lodged against his spine as police try to determine if his shooting last night was intentional or accidental.

While the investigation continues, police are holding Ricky Evans, 21, of 177 S. Marshall for questioning in the shooting.

* * *

The victim, Alton Wilson, 20, of 378 Midway, is in Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital where he underwent surgery following the 7:30 p.m. shooting in a home at 195 Whittemore.

Police said that Evans brought Wilson to the hospital and then left, returning to the Whitemore address where he was located on information given police by Wilson.

Wilson, however, has not been able to give details of the incident because of his condition.

* * *

Evans, held in the county jail for investigation of attempted murder, told police last night that he was playing with the gun, a 22-caliber revolver, when it went off accidentally.

Exercise Good Judgment on Ski Slopes or Beach

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We are a group of girls in our late 20s who love to ski! The social life at night is marvelous. But we have one big problem.

MARRIED MEN! What is wrong with wives who let their husbands come up to a ski resort alone for a weekend Are they naive? Or just plain stupid?

We girls are free, and are out for a good time, but basically we are looking for husbands. These married men probably tell their wives they ski all day and are too tired at night to do anything but sleep. (I wish their wives could see them at night. They are peppier than the bachelors.)

We do not want to get involved with married men, but how can we tell who is married?

Our only hope is for you to tell the wives to smarten up and either go with their husbands or keep them at home.

BUNNY

DEAR BUNNY: There is no way for a girl to tell whether or not a man she meets on the slopes, the beach or any other place men hang out is on the level. Her only protection is her own common sense. She should beware of giving too much of her heart (or anything else) to a man she knows only casually.

DEAR ABBY: For homework in school we have to find a misspelled word in the newspaper. I would like for you to write a misspelled word in your column so I can bring it in.

I am 11 years old and am in the fifth grade. Thank you.

BETH IN EDWARDSVILLE, PA.

DEAR BETH: Unaccustomed as I am to misspelling words intentionally I shall be glad to accomodate you. (Now, let's hope the editor doesn't louse up everything.)

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My mother died recently, and the night she died Mom's sisters went over to Dad's house and went through all Mom's things and took what they wanted. My dad was home, but he is blind, and was still in a state of shock over Mom's death so he couldn't be expected to stop them.

My question is this: Did they have a right to do this without first consulting my brother and me? And isn't it considered unethical to do this before the funeral?

I might add that I am furious because I left a pair of MY shoes at the house while I was staying there taking care of Dad during Mom's illness, and they even took THEM.

MRS. B.

DEAR MRS. B.: I can't imagine anyone wanting ANYTHING that desperately. Your aunts were clearly out of line. Ask your Dad to tell them to bring back everything they took until HE decides who shall get what. And if he's too timid, your lawyer can put it in a letter.

A Continuing Controversy

'Sex Hygiene' Banned 50 Years Ago

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is the first in a series of three articles on the continuing controversary over sex education in Michigan's schools.)

By JOHN TEARE
Associated Press Writer

It has taken 50 years for a full-blown controversy to catch up with Michigan's laws on sex education in public schools.

But the explosion of comment, criticism and proposals over what school children should be taught about sex has engulfed educators and public officials from the smallest communities to the Capitol in Lansing.

And Michigan is not alone. Vocal opponents and proponents of sex education have stirred arguments across the nation.

The debate focuses on what should be taught, who should teach and to whom should it be taught.

All children learn about sex. "And," adds Dr. George Chamis, a nationally-recognized expert on sex education and director of a pioneering, 26-year-old program for Flint schools, "The question is not if, but how, when and by whom?"

The controversy has provoked a wide range of opinion across the state.

Material on sex education "is the largest single item in our administrative files" says one school superintendent.

A citizen's committee in another district finds the systems' existing courses on sex "have barely begun to implement the scope intended" by the State Board of Education.

CHARGES

Another group charges that sex education makes children "distrusting, disrespectful and deceitful."

"Morality should be taught by the parents. Sex should be taught by the schools," says a teen-ager. "I absolutely will not tell my children stories about cabbage patches and storks."

The issue was first joined in 1919 when the Michigan Legislature passed a law banning "sex hygine" instruction.

That prohibition was repealed in 1937, but the amended statute still forbade instruction on birth control and said parents had the right to determine whether their children attended classes on sex.

The Legislature passed a law last year legalizing birth control instruction, but George Romney, then governor, vetoed it.

"One of the most pervasive influences in our time is a widespread and unwholesome preoccupation with sex," Romney said, adding he thought the bill "would simply increase the tendency to sexual permissiveness which is already growing at an alarming rate."

* * *

The question has since landed in the lap of the State Board of Education, which has held numerous public hearings around the state and appointed a committee to draw up a proposed set of guidelines on the subject.

The board's advisory committee on sex education completed its report in June.

"All schools should view sex education as a continuing process of instruction and guidance," said the report. It said school personnel should take into account the following "whys" for sex education.

"To provide a base of educational experiences upon which each child, youth or adult builds and develops insights and values regarding his human sexuality as a person and as a member of society.

"To place sexuality with all its ramifications in proper perspective to the child's total learning and life experience to minimize what some have called the present-day "preoccupation" or "obsession" with "sex."

"To strengthen and improve communication at home between child and parent in the area of sexuality."

MATERIALS

Part of the furor over sex education was prompted by a bibliography of available material on sex education which Ira Polley, then state superintendent of public instruction, sent to school administrators around the state.

James F. O'Neil, treasurer of the board of education, mounted a continuing attack on some of the material listed in the bibliography distributed by Polley.

O'Neil came up with his own set of guidelines which emphasized complete individual parental control over all materials used in sex education classes and parental veto power over whether children should attend such classes.

Originally the board had intended to have its guidelines ready in August for the September opening of school.

* * *

By July, however, board member Thomas J. Brennan was saying the board could not meet the Aug. 15 deadline sought by the Legislature and that board members "want a November date."

Since then the matter has been turned over to Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley who has been asked to review all existing statutes on the subject.

Miss World 1969, 20-year-old Eva Rueber-Staier of Austria, was crowned Thursday night in London as thousands cheered the blonde model from Vienna. As actor Omar Sharif placed the crown on the winner's head, women demonstrators demanding "liberation" of their sex booed the proceedings. Miss United States, Gail Renshaw, 22, of Arlington, Va., was second.

Blonde Viennese Wins Beauty Title Admist Booing

LONDON (AP) — Thousands cheered the new Miss World, a blonde model from Vienna, but women demonstrators demanding "liberation" of their sex booed as actor Omar Sharif crowned the winner Thursday night.

Squads of police patrolled the Albert Hall ballroom to keep order among the protesters as 20-year-old Eva Rueber-Staier accepted the title and said: "The first thing I want is my boyfriend over here."

"Being Miss World isn't going to make any difference to my marriage plans," she said. The date is "sometime next year and we hope to have two or three children."

* * *

Miss Rueber-Staier, who measures 36-23-36 won out over 49 other contestants. She will receive $6,000 in prize money and $27,000 in personal appearance fees.

Miss United States, Gail Renshaw, 22, of Arlington, Va., came in second and picked up a $1,200 prize, which she plans to use to pay off the mortgage on her parents' home. The frosty-haired accountant with a 39-25-37 figure said afterwards:

"I'm through with the beauty contest business. I plan to stick with accounting and work for a degree."

DEMONSTRATIONS

Two groups of demonstrators, totaling about 50 persons, distributed leaflets to the 5,000 spectators.

One group, the Women's Liberation Workshop, said the Miss World show meant "the economic, social and psychological degrading of women" and benefited "no one except big business."

* * *

The other group was protesting South Africa's participation in the contest because of the nation's segregationist policies.

There was no trouble despite a threat received by police that smoke bombs would be set off in the auditorium.

Letter Outlines an Exception to the Rules

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institu

The following letter was written in reaction to my comment that I felt that wedding invitations should be sent individually rather than as a general invitation issued by the pastor during a church service. It only proves once again that there are exceptions to all rules, and that customs vary in different communities, churches, and among different ethnic groups. Many, in fact most, are correct in their own communities but are not necessarily acceptable or advisable for the majority.

I am happy to print Mrs. Miller's excellent letter for which am sending her a copy of Emily Post's Etiquette. I certainly approve of the practice she describes in her church, and under her circumstances.

ONE ONLY

Dear Mrs. Post: In the case of a married couple, where the wife does a lot of the corresponding with family and friends, what is the proper form for the return address? Mr. and Mrs. John Doe, Mrs. Jane Doe, John and Jane Doe? — Carol

Dear Carol: Women who take care of the household and personal correspondence should have their stationery in their own names. The letterhead and the return address would read Mrs. John Doe.

Poster Art Now Being Displayed at PCAC

From Toulouse-Lautrec to Peter Max, posters as an art form are now on display at the Pontiac Creative Arts Center.

Thirty examples of the art will be on display including a poster designed especially for the exhibition by Project Outreach director and artist Irwin Gross. Two signed originals of this limited edition will remain in Pontiac.

* * *

"The Art of the Poster" exhibit is another in the Project Outreach series which is jointly funded by the Detroit Institute of Arts and the National Endowment for the Arts.

The federal pilot program is aimed at extending the resources of the Detroit museum to several communities throughout Michigan.

Both the medium and the message have traveled far from the famous "I Want YOU" recruiting poster of World War I. Today the fine art poster is enjoying unprecedented popularity with many major contemporary artists creating imaginative designs for important events.

The PCAC exhibition begins with Toulouse-Lautrec's bold effort on behalf of the cafe "Divan Japonais" (1894); Jules Cheret's "Palais de Glace" (1904) inviting the viewer to enjoy ice skating at the arena;

* * *

WHO'S WHO

From these turn of the century antecedents, the exhibit becomes a colorful Who's Who of contemporary artists' posters including Andy Warhol, Marc Chagall, Henri Matisse, Miro, Roualt and Brague. Albers and Anuskiewcz are represented along with Indiana, Ellsworth Kelly, Lichenstein, Rauchenberg, Man Ray, Rivers, Stella, Troava and Vasarely.

Today's most prolific producer of posters — Peter Max — is on hand to pay homage to the master with "Lautrec" as well as his kaleidoscopic "Midget's Dream," suggesting but not revealing the complexity of the top secret printing processes that result in the remarkable color nuances of his posters.

A number of the bold, bright designs were loaned by Vera List of the renowned List Art Poster program, several are from the permanent collection of the Detroit Institute of Arts and some are from Bloomfield Hills collector Bernard Walker.

Gallery hours are from 1 to 4 p.m. daily except Friday. The exhibit continues through Dec. 15.
