Committee Fails to Arrive at Straley Solution

Giant Titan Scores Success in 1st Test

From Our News Wires

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla.—The United States' missile arsenal boasted a new flight-tested ICBM today—the awesome, ocean-spanning Titan.

The new rocket, shaped like a huge bullet, performed smoothly on a 220-mile limited range flight Friday after failing to fly on two previous attempts. The Air Force said the launching was highly successful.

After its brief flight, the Titan fell into the Atlantic.

Air Force Chief of Staff Thomas D. White said in Washington the Titan "successfully accomplished the programmed objectives." This was to test the first stage propulsion and control system.

In the firing — the first time the Titan has been released from its boltings — the second stage was filled with water.

★ ★ ★

The launching of the mighty "war or peace" rocket came on the third anniversary of the establishment of the plant in Denver, Colo., where the 110-ton, 90-foot ICBM is produced.

The Titan is believed to have a potential range of 8,000 miles, enough to span the biggest oceans carrying nuclear warheads. Or it might be fired into space.

Authorities say its booster section, with the most powerful single rocket engine in the free world, could power a manned rocket around the moon.

ATLAS' RANGE 6,300

In comparison, the Atlas has a range of 6,300 miles.

The blastoff of the intercontinental range ballistic missile signaled the start of an accelerated drive to produce advanced missiles superior to the present weapons in the U.S. arsenal.

On Friday's flight, the Titan's first stage engines burned for about two minutes. It bored upward through a blue rift in an overcast sky. The flight lasted approximately 10 minutes.

The upper section, shaped like a large-caliber cartridge, was packed with instruments to furnish information and data on friction, stresses and the like.

★ ★ ★

But it was not equipped with a new pinpoint guidance system which has been developed for its use later. Its makers, the Martin Co., hope to have the Titan operational within a year.

Eventually it is to be used in launching caverns, ready for firing against enemy targets thousands of miles away.

County GOP Sells Out Lincoln Day Banquet

A "sold out" sign has been posted by Republicans for their Monday night Lincoln Day banquet hosting Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker as guest speaker.

"Positively no tickets can be sold at the door," declared Gordon D. Haupt, president of the Oakland County Lincoln Republican Club, which is staging the 6:30 dinner at the Northwood Inn in Berkley.

The management had limited the number to 500 and all the tickets "went like hotcakes," said Haupt.

He said it was the first time in many years of Lincoln Day banquets that tickets have been sold out in advance.

Helping local Republicans commemorate the 150th anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's birthday—actually three days early—will be Paul D. Bagwell, new titular head of the Michigan Republicans. Bagwell will serve as master of ceremonies.

Bagwell, who during the week will address 21 similar dinners throughout the state, will introduce William S. Broomfield, the county's representative in Congress. Broomfield in turn will introduce Brucker.

The former Governor of Michigan (1930-32) will arrive in Michigan from Washington Monday afternoon by plane with Mrs. Brucker. A reception committee of county officials and supervisors will meet the Bruckers. A motorcade will then travel directly to the Northwood Inn.

Brucker, 65, was appointed Secretary of the Army by President Eisenhower in 1955. Until then he had been general counsel for the Defense Department, 1954-55.

Dulles Hinting at Use of Force

Tells Allies Protection of Berlin May Require 'Common Action'

BONN, Germany (AP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles called today for the Western Allies to face down the Soviet attempt to force the Allies out of West Berlin —"if need be by common action."

He said the Allies must find a way to meet "the Soviet challenge to our rights in Berlin."

While he did not make clear what he meant by the word "action," it appeared he had force in mind.

As Dulles arrived here for talks with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, reliable diplomatic sources in Paris said the U.S. secretary and the foreign ministers of Britain, France and West Germany will meet in the French capital, March 15.

Their main purpose will be to hear a report from British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan on his trip to Moscow.

These sources said an invitation to the Soviet Union to attend an East-West foreign ministers' meeting could come out of the Paris meeting of the Western officials.

Dulles talked over the March 15 meeting Friday when he met with French President Charles de Gaulle.

TO TRY FOR CONFAB

The March meeting in Paris indicates the Western Powers will try for a meeting with the Soviets some time in April. This would closely follow the 10th anniversary meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Washington April 2.

Door Left Open for Resignation, Removal Action

3-Hour Meeting at City Hall Does Not Resolve Police Dispute

By PETE LOCHBILER

The mayor's citizens committee yesterday failed to persuade Police Chief Herbert W. Straley to resign or to arbitrate a settlement between him and Public Safety Director George W. Eastman.

The door was left open for Straley to quit today or tomorrow and the path was cleared for City Manager Walter K. Willman to file removal charges against the chief by Monday.

The three-hour session of the 16-member committee at City Hall accomplished next to nothing, it was conceded.

"The principals involved (Straley and Eastman) made no commitments, nor were any asked of them, and no future meeting of the committee is contemplated," said Mayor Philip E. Rowston in a terse statement afterwards.

During the informal, secret meeting, a majority of the committee members urged Straley to resign, but the chief refused.

'LIKE IT HERE'

"I've lived in Pontiac seven years, I'm a taxpayer and I like it here," he stated.

"Besides, I want to clear my name."

At one point, Rowston asked whether the chief would resign if a "generous financial settlement were provided by the city administration."

Commissioner William W. Donaldson promised the chief a favorable farewell resolution from the City Commission if he quit.

★ ★ ★

Two committee members decided both Eastman and Straley should resign "for the good of the community."

One of them was John W. Hirlinger, manager of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, who "personally criticized" Eastman, he said, for the "bad publicity" Pontiac has received since the new safety director took office last October.

A supporter of Straley, Maurice Croteau, urged that Eastman be fired and Straley restored to the full powers which Eastman stripped from him last Nov. 12.

Clare Utley, a businessman, suggested that the two police officials "shake hands" and solve their differences.

★ ★ ★

"That's like asking an irresistible force to shake hands with an immovable object," said Louis H. Schimmel, former president of the Pontiac Board of Education.

WILL LIVE WITH GRANDMOTHER—Robert Sullivan, eight-year-old survivor of the East River airliner crash of last Tuesday night, is visited by his grandmother, Mrs. Dora McNulty Sullivan of Chicago, who plans to take the boy home with her in a few days. Robert's parents and two sisters were killed in the crash. He has sensed that his father and sisters perished, but he is not considered strong enough yet to be told his mother died after she was pulled out of the water by the tugboat crew that rescued him.

Some Expect Veto on Aid Measure

Senate OKs Airport Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has passed a 465-million-dollar airport construction bill despite protests from some Republicans that it would punch a hole in President Eisenhower's budget and invite a veto.

The President, who vetoed a similar bill last year after Congress adjourned, had recommended only 200 million dollars over the next four years for airport construction.

The measure passed Friday night by a 63-22 vote now goes to the House. No House hearings have been held on companion legislation.

The bill would extend the federal aid airport progam for four years beyond June 30 and increase the annual federal allotments from 63 million dollars to 100 million.

In addition, it includes a special discretionary fund of 65 million dollars that Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney (D-Okla), chief sponsor of the bill, said was designed to speed the modernization of big city airports to handle jet airplanes.

MATCH DOLLARS

Under the program, the federal grants have to be matched dollar for dollar by the states.

All Republican efforts to cut the bill were defeated, but the Democrats made one concession in an effort to make the legislation more palatable to the administration.

The bill originally called for expenditures of 565 million dollars over five years. But Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) won unanimous agreement to lop off one year and 100 million.

It was the second Senate bill topping the President's budget recomendations. Only the night before the Senate passed a $2,675,000,000 omnibus housing bill exceeding Eisenhower's requests by more than a billion dollars.

★ ★ ★

On final passage, 51 Democrats and 12 Republicans voted for the airport bill. Five Democrats and 17 Republicans voted against passage. The 63-22 tally was more than the two-thirds majority necessary to override a veto.

In the argument over the impact of the airport and housing program on the precariously balanced budget for the coming fiscal year, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said the Senate has been committing "fiscal suicide on the installment plan."

★ ★ ★

But Monroney and other Democrats said such arguments were overdrawn. Monroney said he doubted his airport aid bill would increase spending at all during the next fiscal year because of the time required to plan and start construction of airport projects.

Costs Boosted for 2 Sewers

Action Due Monday on 4-Area Farmington and Evergreen Systems

Communities awaiting construction of the Farmington and Evergreen sanitary sewer systems will find their costs for the construction boosted from original engineering estimates.

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors will move Monday to amend bond resolutions for the two Department of Public Works sewers that will reflect these increases.

New construction costs for the four - community Farmington project will be $5,107,000. The original estimate was $4,900,000. Cost for the eight-community Evergreen sewer jumped from $6,175,000 to $6,919,000.

R. J. Alexander, deputy DPW director, said the increase in costs developed since consulting engineering firms made first estimates and construction companies submitted their bids.

In addition, Alexander said these companies found construction costs somewhat higher than anticipated by the consultants due to the condition of the grounds where the sewers will be laid.

Alexander listed the new and old costs (old in parentheses) in the following list to the participating communities in both projects:

Farmington Interceptor: Farmington Township $3,336,086 ($3,-

Congressmen Sending Out Samples

New Lincoln Penny to Be Issued

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A new penny will be issued next week, but the face on the coin remains the same.

The new penny—to be issued officially Feb. 12, the 150th anniversary of Lincoln's birth—has a picture of the Lincoln Memorial on one side instead of a wreath. The other side, bearing the picture of President Abraham Lincoln, remains unchanged.

Nearly 100 Republican congressmen are sending thousands of their constituents free advance samples of the new Lincoln penny.

Lincoln was the first Republican president.

The general reaction reported coming from constituents across the land: Send more.

The House GOP congressional campaign committee alone has helped 70 Republican congressmen purchase 75,000 new pennies for distribution.

Congressmen mailed the pennies to constituents pasted on special cards and letters. Some also included catchy sayings such as:

—Rep. Howard W. Robison (R-NY) "I hope to increase its value by voting economically."

—Rep. Joe Holt (R-Calif) "A penny for your thoughts. I shall vote and work hard to make it count more."

Rep. William E. Minshall (R-Ohio) attached the pennies to special souvenir cards bearing a portrait of Lincoln and a poem.

GOP congressional offices reported reactions ranging from "delighted" to "enthusiastic."

"Some congressional offices received money from constituents asking for more of the pennies. A spokesman for Rep. William H. Avery (R-Kans) who sent out about 1,000 pennies said coin collectors were particularly enthusiastic.

Another congressional spokesman said some coin collectors felt that the coins had additional value because they were made at the Philadelphia mint and most of the new pennies will be made at the Denver mint.

"When I heard that I bought a few extra myself," he said.

Bids have been taken and contracts awarded on both projects, Alexander said. Advertisement for the sale of general obligation bonds to finance the sewers is being held up pending outcome of a rehearing request of a recent Supreme Court ruling on the Farmington project.

The county hopes a decision will be forthcoming between now and the 90 days the bids are held valid.

Another DPW matter on Monday's agenda will be the formal acceptance of a 250,000 federal grant for the Evergreen job.

Madison and Royal Oak Leaders in New Homes

Madison Heights and Royal Oak were the leaders in residential construction in Oakland County in 1958, followed by Waterford Township, Southfield and Bloomfield Township.

★ ★ ★

All figures were down from 1957, but an upsurge in the final quarter of the year narrowed the margin. Macomb County was the only one of the big three—Wayne, Oakland and Macomb—to show a gain for the year.

Oddly enough, Pontiac's dwelling permits issued last year matched the 297 total of the year before.

After a slow start in May and June when only 23 and 7 permits were granted, building picked up. For the five months, the fewest number of permits issued was 36. July was tops for the year with 46.

According to building permit figures announced by the Detroit Metropolitan Area Regional Planning Commission, Oakland County showed signs of a healthy recovery from the slump it was in for much of 1958.

After nine months the communities in the county had issued 1,306 fewer dwelling permits than after three-quarters of 1957.

LAST QUARTER HIGHER

However, 242 more dwelling permits were issued in the last quarter of 1958, bringing the year only 1,064 permits below '57.

Madison Heights continued to take top honors in the construction derby, with 1,162 permits, compared to 1,307 in '57; Royal Oak was second with 547 in 1958, a drop from 1,055 in 1957.

Next in line was Waterford with 537 units in 1958, close to the 1957 total of 573. Southfield put up 514 in '58, and 522 the year before. Bloomfield raised roofs for 510 homes in 1958, down from the 646 marked up in 1957.

The number of residential permits issued in the Detroit region in 1958 was the lowest annual total since 1950, the reports indicated.

More dwelling permits were issued in October 1958 than in any of the 26 months since August 1956, statisticians disclosed. This was probably a reflection of returning confidence in our economic expansion, they felt.

Top 10 building communities in the Detroit region in 1958 were Livonia, 2,072; Nankin Township, 2,029; Detroit, 1,983; Warren, 1,579; Dearborn Township, 1,469; Madison Heights, 1,162; St. Clair Shores, 1,049; Ypsilanti Township, 676; Taylor Township, 625, and Royal Oak, 547.

DAV Eyes Homeless Group
Starts Fund to Aid Family

The Pontiac Disabled American Veterans Chapter 16 has set up a benefit fund for the Waterford Township family burned out of their home early yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Cleta Parker, chapter adjutant, said this morning that the chapter would offer all possible aid to the family of Jack Seconder, treasurer of the local chapter.

Seconder's wife, Flora, 26, and their five children escaped from their blazing one-story frame home when awakened by the smoke and flames at 2:30 a.m. Most of their clothes and belongings were destroyed in the blaze, which firemen estimated caused about $2,000 damages.

Seconder, a Korean War veteran, is in Arizona looking for a job, his wife said. A factory worker, he had been laid off several months.

Mrs. Parker of 22 Oneida Rd. is chairman of the DAV Sweetheart Ball, the organization's Valentine Day dance to be held next Saturday at Amvets Hall, 570 Oakland Ave.

"We held an emergency meeting last night and voted unanimously to donate all proceeds from the dance to Jack and his family," she said.

The dance is scheduled to begin at 8:30 p.m. The public is invited. Music will be furnished by the Poh-Cats, a group of Pontiac doctors. Refreshments will be served.

Hold Co-Worker in Fatal Beating
Find Man in Basement of Detroit Home After Hammer Slugging

DETROIT (AP)—A small machinist's hammer and a pair of rubber gloves were among possible clues today in the fatal beating of George E. Sweigert, 60, construction superintendent.

Sweigert, a widower, was found dead yesterday in the basement of his ransacked home where he lived alone. The hammer and one glove lay near the body. A second glove was underneath the body.

Police questioned Sweigert's fellow workers, one of whom was detained.

Neighbors described Sweigert as a quiet, retiring man. His wife died five years ago.

Sweigert's body lay across a water-filled laundry tub. His head was submerged in the tub. He had been struck six times on the head with a blunt instrument, apparently the small hammer.

Claims $10,000, Faces Possible Criminal Action

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A woman who was on relief for five years may face criminal action if her claim to nearly $10,000 found in a paper bag last week is upheld.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Mary Panek, 65, of suburban Cheektowaga, told police Friday she had hidden the money in the vacant lot where it was found by three boys. She said she left it to go on an errand.

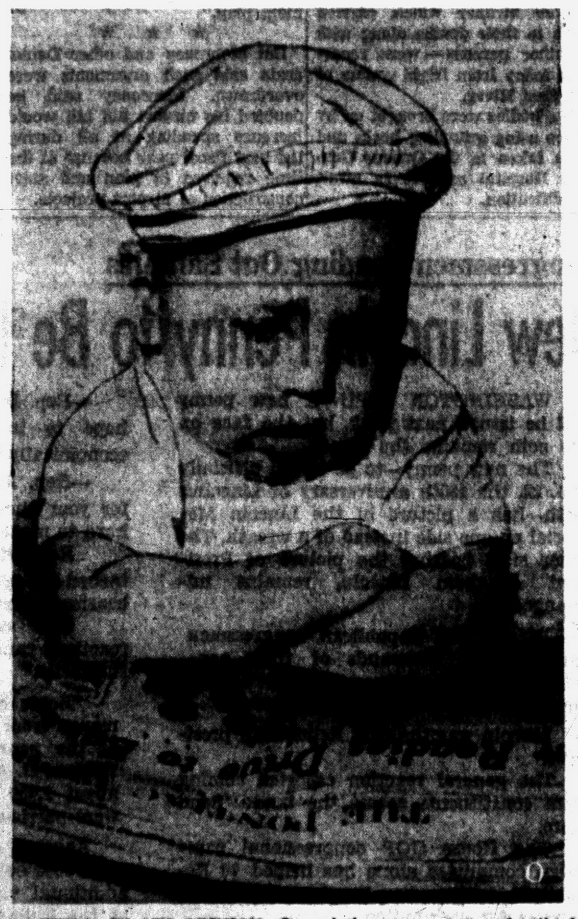

Her lawyer said she had accumulated the money over 15 years, apparently from small sums her children gave her and from welfare payments.

Welfare Commissioner Paul F. Burke said Mrs. Panek had received approximately $6,000 from 1952 to 1957.

If she gets possession of the money, he said, the department will move to get its $6,000 back.

Fraud charges would be brought if she had the money when she applied for relief, Burke said.

Jimmy Weiglein, 11, Otis Montgomery, 13, and Roy Anderson, 14, turned the money over to police after discovering it last Saturday.

'Are You Warm Enough?'

Kidnaper 'Tired of Cows', Victim Tells of Kindness

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (AP)—Hilda Faye Dawson, a 65-year-old grandmother who was kidnaped for $100,000 ransom, said today her abductor was very solicitous about her.

"He kept asking me if I was warm enough," Mrs. Dawson said after she was treated for minor injuries.

"But my lands! The way he went through those roadblocks.

"Between Vacaville and Dixon I wouldn't have given a nickel for my life.

"He got cold feet after he kidnaped me. Then he said he would try to get me home safely, and he gave me a dime so I could telephone my husband.

★ ★ ★

"I was so scared when he started shooting. He shot through the back window of the car, I don't know how many times. But I'm all right. I just had a little scalp wound from the broken glass.

"My husband and I got home between 11 and 12. We'd been out playing cards with friends. I went into my room and undressed and I heard voices in the hall. I thought it was my husband talking to the dog.

"Then my lands! I just about dropped dead. Here came this man with a stocking on his face, with a sawed-off shotgun.

★ ★ ★

"He told my husband to 'Lie down right on the floor now, on your face.' John told him 'I don't need to do that. Anything we have in the house, you help yourself to it.'

"The man said 'It isn't as simple as that—I want your car.' And John said 'Well, take it.'

"Then the man tied my hands behind my back and said 'I'm going to take you with me, too.'

"I thought he was an escaped convict, and wanted somebody to drive his getaway car. I said 'Well, get my bathrobe over there. I can't go out like this.'

"He got my red corduroy robe, and then my heavy coat and some blankets.

"He took me somewhere north of Woodland, blindfolded me and led me across a field, down to a basement in some old shack.

"Then he began to say maybe he shouldn't have done it. He said he would drive me to Sacramento and lose himself in the crowd.

"But on the way the patrol car picked us up, we went through all those roadblocks and finally crashed."

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (AP) — A confessed kidnaper who reconsidered — too late — is in jail here on a kidnaping complaint following a desperate attempt to avoid capture.

★ ★ ★

"All right, I'm guilty," cowpoke and handyman Charles McArthur 40, told reporters. "I'm guilty. But I did give her a dime to telephone her husband. . . ."

"I did it for money. . . . You see, I got so tired of cow clipping. That's when you clip the hair off a cow so they can see the brand. I had tried to find a job for weeks. . . ."

McArthur was captured early Friday morning after a wild 120 m.p.h. chase over back country roads and U.S. Highway 40 midway between Sacramento and San Francis.

★ ★ ★

In her husband's car with McArthur was Mrs. Hilda Faye Dawson, 65. John Dawson is a well-to-do chicken rancher at nearby Dixon.

McArthur, also of Dixon, took Mrs. Dawson at gunpoint Thursday midnight after tying up John, 73, and telling him to get $100,000 ready — he'd contact him later.

McArthur took Dawson's automobile and drove to a shack near Winters, where he sat Mrs. Dawson on a bale of hay.

Around 5 a.m. he changed his mind. He gave Mrs. Dawson a dime to telephone her husband and said he was going to drop her off in Sacramento and lose himself in the crowd.

★ ★ ★

But Dawson had worked himself loose and called for help. Highway patrolmen and sheriff's deputies from four counties were patrolling the roads.

One spotted McArthur driving south and gave chase. Some 20 other cars joined in.

McArthur raced past at least two roadblocks at 120 m.p.h., sideswiping one car.

A patrol car inched up behind McArthur, and he turned and fired through the rear window with a sawed-off double barreled shotgun.

McArthur reached the U.S. 40 freeway and roared toward Vacaville. The patrol cars inched up and boxed him in.

★ ★ ★

He ground to a stop after crashing into the car blocking the way ahead.

"What you guys all picking on me for?" he demanded. "All I was doing was bringing her back home."

McArthur was booked for investigation of kidnaping. Solano County Dist. Atty. P. B. Lynch said he would ask the grand jury Tuesday to return a kidnaping indictment.

McArthur has a prison record for auto theft, officers said.

Dwight Cooke to Address Baldwin Library Group

BIRMINGHAM — "You and the World" will be Dwight Cooke's subject when he speaks Monday to the Friends of the Baldwin Public Library.

The program will be held at 8:15 p.m. in the library auditorium.

A former editor and writer for Time Magazine, Cooke has spent more than 20 years traveling throughout the world interviewing prominent people.

"Not only does he report what is happening now, he dares to project his judgments into the future," Richard Hosne, the group's president, said.

He recalls Cooke's 1952 national election predictions, that Truman would not run, Taft would not be nominated, Stevenson was the only logical Democratic candidate and that Eisenhower would be the next president.

After World War II, Cooke ran the United States largest short wave radio and directed its 22-hour-a-day schedule broadcasting in 26 languages.

In 1954, when his first book "There is No Asia" was published, he was hailed by reviewers as one of the best writers to attempt to penetrate the future of the Far East, according to Jeanne Lloyd, head librarian of Baldwin Public Library.

Snow Maroons Oswego Again
Weary New York State City Smothered With 12 More Inches

OSWEGO, N.Y. (UPI) —A blinding 12-inch snowstorm today left this snow-weary upstate city of 20,000 snowbound for the second time this winter.

Snowcrews manned plows and bulldozers in an effort to clear huge drifts whipped up by gale-force winds blowing in from Lake Ontario to the north.

★ ★ ★

Near zero temperatures, coupled with the biting winds, added to the discomfort of area residents. Many persons were marooned in their homes.

★ ★ ★

The snow, which began falling yesterday afternoon, raged through the night and was still falling at dawn, with no sign of a letup.

The new fall brought the season's total accumulation in Oswego to more than 160 inches, surpassing a previous record set in 1925-26.

★ ★ ★

Heavy drifts forced 75 children to spend the night at a grammar school on the campus of Oswego State Teachers College. Cots were set up to accommodate the children, ranging in age from 5 to 15. Police hoped to evacuate the children today.

Eastman sat in another corner, next to Schimmel, who was one of those who urged Straley to quit.

The 54-year-old police chief, nervously wringing his hands and at one point apparently on the verge of tears, complained that he had been kept in the dark by the administration.

"I keep reading things in the newspapers that I didn't know anything about — talk of my resignation and so on.

"Things have been going on behind my back."

★ ★ ★

Eastman said he decided Nov. 12 that he couldn't bring about improvements working through Straley and couldn't get Willman to file charges against him.

And so, he continued, Straley was stripped of powers instead, a move which Eastman believed was legal, although Straley supporters have charged it wasn't.

Shortly before 6 p.m., as the meeting prepared to break up, it was decided that Rowston should make no public statement concerning what went on.

"Whatever we say might be misinterpreted," one committee member believed.

The mayor told newsmen after the session that he had only one statement: "No comment."

Latest 1959 Fashion

Gals, You Can Be Hippy

LONDON (AP)—Europe's fashion masters have united on a revolutionary idea for 1959—they are making women look like women.

The bosom is just where Eve's bosom was—and almost as much of it showing.

The waist and the hips are where waists and hips are supposed to be.

Skirts are short enough to reveal women have legs.

Dresses are wide enough at the hem to allow women to walk.

First, it was the Italian designers who did it. Then came Paris.

Now London rounds out the brilliant plan with its spring-summer fashion show just ended.

The luckiest women in the fashion world are those who bought no sacks. They can go right on wearing their old feminine frocks.

Even the old navy blue with white accessories is back in style.

No less an authority than Norman Hartnell, one of the Queen's two dressmakers, is featuring it.

Of his collection, Hartnell said: "Normal and formal for 1959."

In the bust department, John Cavanagh showed the lowest cut evening dresses.

One of them plunged to such depths that he introduced a gadget called the over-bodice or, in plain language, something that looks like blinkers for the bust.

Suits and dress jackets are short, but no longer do they resemble maternity jackets.

Two of the most popular colors are also normal for spring, green and gleaming yellow.

In other words, girls—you can look like a woman this year and not be ashamed of it.

Free Motherwell in Baby Death

FREDERICK, Md. (UPI)—"It's a relief to get out of jail," whispered Larry Lord Motherwell.

The one-time construction engineer stepped from the Frederick jail to full freedom late yesterday after a county grand jury refused to indict him on a charge that he murdered his infant daughter four years ago.

The body of 14-month-old Heather Robin Motherwell was found buried in a small homemade coffin at a private pet cemetery near here. Motherwell contends Heather choked to death on mucus the day after he took the child out of a home for retarded children.

The handsome, soft-spoken Motherwell went immediately from the jail to join his wife and another child in Washington, D.C. He said he had no immediate plans except to live with them there.

Still unresolved was the mystery of a missing widow, Mrs. Pearl Putney, 72, and her $50,000. Motherwell was Mrs. Putney's traveling companion, but her present whereabouts are unknown.

Motherwell, when arrested at Las Vegas, Nev. last month, said he and Mrs. Putney parted last summer but were to meet again. He said he expected her to turn up when newspaper publicity about his plight became known to her.

★ ★ ★

"What puzzles me and the police is why she hasn't written," Motherwell said at the time police were questioning him intensively about his relationship with Mrs. Putney.

No charges have been filed against him in connection with Mrs. Putney's disappearance.

The special grand jury which freed Motherwell yesterday held there was "insufficient evidence" to indict him for his daughter's death. John T. Regis, Motherwell's Washington attorney, said Frederick authorities have no other charges against his client.

The attorney said possible misdemeanors stemming from the unconventional burial of the child are not prosecutable because the statute of limitations has expired.

Motherwell told friends who attended the burial ceremony that he was interring a dog who had saved his life while he was serving in the armed forces in Korea. Police say there are no records to show Motherwell was in the service during the Korean War.

He has been convicted of illegally wearing a military discharge button, and served six months in prison. He also was convicted in Knoxville, Tenn. in December 1954, for impersonating a naval officer. He was sentenced to two years on probation.

Motherwell's wife—his third—has stuck by him during his recent troubles. His first wife divorced him, and his second—the mother of Heather—drowned in her bathtub in 1953. Police who investigated the death theorized she suffered a fainting spell. The body was cremated.

The third Mrs. Motherwell has described her husband as "devoted." She said he frequently traveled on "secret military missions." So far as police know, he was unemployed.

Army 'Regulars' Ousted in Cuba

New President Cleans House, Threatens More Firings to Come

HAVANA (UPI)—Revolutionary President Manuel Urrutia ordered 200 high army officers discharged today in decrees launching a sweeping reorganization of the Cuban armed forces.

Informed sources said the new government would muster out "almost all" the 40,000 regular officers and men who served under ousted dictator Fulgencio Batista.

Many Batista troops are being held for war crime trials, but the sources said even those not connected with any Batista "crimes" would face an uncertain fate in the armed services.

They said the revolutionary government would attempt to get along with a reduced military force made up of former rebel guerrilla troops and civilians.

Fidel Castro turned his attention to Cuba's economy today, joining with the sugar mill operators in an appeal to workers to step up harvesting of Cuba's 700-million-dollar sugar crop.

Castro said the nation could not afford to delay the sugar harvest to work on the workers' demands for higher pay. He said the vitality of the Cuban economy and the success of the revolution depended upon the nation's 1959 sugar income.

The National Cattlemen's Association also called for a delay in action on workers' demands. It proposed a government decree demanding a 60-day cooling off period during which union demands would be discussed by both government and management.

Fate of 11 Still Unknown

'I Know He's Still Alive,' Cries Airman's Mother

By The Associated Press

Relatives of American airmen missing since their unarmed transport craft went down over Soviet Armenia last September refuse in the main to give up hope that their loved ones will be found alive.

★ ★ ★

There were 17 men aboard the plane. Bodies of six of the men have been recovered by American authorities, but only four of them have been identified. The other 11 men are missing.

Thursday the State Department released a tape recording of a conversation between Soviet fighter pilots attacking a transport. The State Department said it was the missing American plane.

To the relatives of the missing airmen, the fragmented conversation had a particular significance, for the Soviet pilots spoke of the tail of the plane being shot off, and of finishing it off on the way down.

★ ★ ★

Whatever they may believe in their hearts, these relatives refuse to voice despair. They speak only of hope. Here is what some say:

"I am convinced he is still alive" — Mrs. Arthur Mello, of Cayce, S.C., of her husband, a sergeant.

"We have not given up hope he is alive. We will never give up hope. We pray that he, that all 11 of them are still alive, somewhere in Russia" — Edward Oshinskie, Shamokin, Pa., brother of A.1.C. Robert Oshinskie.

"We will not give up hoping" — Mrs. Loretta Ferguson, 19, wife of A.2.C. James E. Ferguson Jr.

"We're still hopeful" — Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Moore, Baton Rouge, La., parents of A.2.C. Robert H. Moore.

★ ★ ★

"We're still hoping he's alive. Maybe it's blind hope, but it's all we have now"—Mrs. Moses Fields, Cynthia, Ky., stepmother of A.2.C. Joel H. Fields.

"I think the Russian people are human just like anyone else, and he may be hiding out with some of them" — Mrs. Louis Kamps, Coleman, Wis., mother of A.2.C. Harold T. Kamps.

No one was injured. When the opera was resumed, the carriage scene was eliminated.

Michigan Woman Reports Theft in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Police said furs and jewelry valued at more than $16,000 were stolen last night from the hotel apartment of a wealthy Michigan woman.

The victim, Mrs. Grace Burrows of Buchanan, Mich. said she has spent her winters in Los Angeles since 1929. She is the widow of R. J. Burrows, trailer manufacturer.

Investigators said the burglars evidently gained entrance to the apartment with a passkey while Mrs. Burrows was dining in the hotel restaurant with her son, Willis.

She said the items taken included two platinum bracelets, a diamond pin set in platinum, a diamond stickpin and three mink fur pieces—coat, jacket and stole.

Hydrogen Fusion Problem to Solve

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The ultimate answer to the world's power needs lies not with uranium fission reactors but with hydrogen fusion reactors, according to scientists at Arthur D. Little, Inc., research and engineering consultants.

Some forms of hydrogen — deuterium and tritium — can be fused at temperatures of millions of degrees with the release of vast amounts of energy.

With the amount of deuterium in the ocean, each gallon of sea water contains as much energy as 350 gallons of gasoline, the company said.

Industrialist Joins Government in Crying 'GM Is Too Big'

Here we go again.
"GM's too big."
They're off and running.

★ ★ ★

Once more the Federal Government starts pontificating on the heinous sin of ranking as the largest corporation in the world. This time it's "undue concentration"—whatever that is. According to the rumors that accompany the original intimation, GM will be asked to disgorge Chevrolet and GMAC—or Chevrolet, GMAC and another division. This might be Pontiac, GMC Truck, Olds, Buick or Cadillac. Later this phase was vaguely denied, although the general "charges" still stand.

Several times The PRESS has asked:

"When is Bigness a Sin?"

And who has the legal right to tell whom to disgorge what?

★ ★ ★

Can the Justice Department prefer charges against Procter and Gamble and with a wave of the Magic Hand On High order them to give up Ivory Soap — or Crisco — or a new deodorant?

Where does autocratic governmental authority begin and end? England is beginning to have some of the same "growing pains."

If GM is a fair target for "breaking asunder," is Ford immune? Can Ford be ordered to drop the Ford car and thus present the interesting anomaly of the Ford automobile manufactured by another company while the Ford Motor Company no longer makes a Ford? Can this division compel Sears Roebuck to abandon the sale of carpets, or lawn mowers (or both)?

★ ★ ★

How silly can this business get and if it isn't going to these extremes, where WILL the line be drawn?

Would it be possible for the Department of Justice to order the AFL-CIO to "break up" and form several unions? In the jargon of the Government this huge amalgamation could easily be construed as "unduly concentrated."

Once more, WHAT'S BIG"?
What's "undue concentration"?
How about the Bank of America?

Can the Government continue this "logic" and end the predicament of the American League by ordering the Yankees to get rid of MANTLE and SKOWRON? The Yanks are a horrible and beastly example of "undue concentration."

★ ★ ★

And now GEORGE MASON ROMNEY suggests General Motors is "too big."

GEORGE, for shame.

You're part of the deal. Remember?

★ ★ ★

Brother ROMNEY is an automotive industrialist in his own right and he proposes that General Motors be cut in two. Previous passes at GM have usually suggested it be rent asunder, so the current suggestions are an improvement, of sorts.

Romney wants GM to maintain "the same competence," and doesn't want any appreciable diminution of efficiency. He just wants two foes instead of one. And, he says: "If General Motors decided to operate at an average profit satisfactory to all industry, say six per cent, there would be fewer companies left in the automobile industry in a very short time."

The immediate tendency of two corporation might be to grow competitive and if prices were slashed sharply, would this mean the doom of American Motors . . . . . and others?

"Et tu, ROMNEY."

★ ★ ★

We expect this periodic outburst from the Government as it seems to have a permanent hate on for GM's size.

And in Conclusion . . . . .

Jottings from the well thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

What's all this fuss and furor about a disc jockey talking 200 hours? My sons insist when my wife gets her daughter or daughter-in-law on the phone, just one call's good for that . . . . . According to JACK HOINS, since 1840, every twenty years the man elected President dies or is assassinated in office. Here's the list: HARRISON, 1840; LINCOLN, 1860; GARFIELD, 1880; MCKINLEY, 1900; HARDING, 1920; ROOSEVELT, 1940. And now—who wants 1960? . . . . . Friends of GALEN HERSHEY unite in sounding his praises widely and strongly.

★ ★ ★

Oakland County's own Elaine Stritch, who stars in "Goldilocks," is writing her life story. Elaine, there's lots more coming . . . . . Howard V. Heldenbrand, hosteler extraordinary, says his selection of the "Ten Best Photos of 1958" consist of any ten poses of Esther Williams . . . . . Brother and sister look-alikes: Helen Hartman and Jim Nye (and both are quite a little extra good looking) . . . . . "Maverick" is beating Ed Sullivan and Steve Allen in the tell-tale Trendix ratings . . . . . "Flower Drum Song" now has a million and a half dollar advance seat sale and keeps eight clerks handling reservations. My good wife gave it an "A" and I granted it "B+."

★ ★ ★

Many friends have asked me about a picture of JOY HARMON, the girl who wanted to change her name to Joy Forty Two for obvious reasons. I asked Friday and April to dig up a photo and they got one from my old pal, AL RESCH, Executive News Photo Editor of the Associated Press in New York. Here's the result and Joy's no phony. "Some of our readers may blink," said Friday, "but it's an actual likeness." April was more evasive. "She's quite a girl — for eighteen — but people certainly can't criticize for The Lord made her that way." You can bank on my April for the soft answer. Incidentally, Joy has a chest cold now and my two girls agree the germs never had it so good.

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

THE MOUNT OF TEMPTATION

Wednesday is the first day of Lent, the start of the 40-day penitential season that commemorates Christ's fast in the wilderness.

This drawing of Christ praying in a cave is based on a sketch I made on the Mountain of Temptation in the Holy Land, where according to sacred tradition Christ was tempted three times by Satan.

A narrow trail rimming the steep cliffs led up to the cave. There was an awesome view of the Jordan Valley from the mouth of the cave, which dropped away from a high jagged precipice. In the shadows, a wasps' nest hung from the clammy damp wall. Tracks of man-attacking jackals made a frightening pattern on the floor of the cave.

The whole setting, stark and forbidding, brought home the tremendous privations that Christ endured in the wilderness. And yet he found the strength to tell his tempter: "Get thee hence Satan."

Churches Examine Race Relations

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

The National Council of Churches in its Race Relations Sunday message asks church members to do a very unusual and difficult thing: to be as generous and merciful to people near at hand as they are to those in the mission fields on the other side of the world.

★ ★ ★

This is expecting a great deal. It's easy to write a check for foreign missions, but it is not at all easy to enter into personal relationships with people of other races right in one's own community.

The message, entitled "Who Is My Neighbor?" outlines a six-point program by which the local congregation may bring itself closer to Christian action in the matter of race relations. The six points are:

1. Re-examine your attitudes and behavior in the light of the Gospel.
2. Make it known to the entire community that membership in your church is open to all.
3. Select your leaders on the basis of ability without regard to race.
4. Show your acceptance when people of another race come to your church.
5. Pray for those involved in racial crises.
6. Use the currently available study materials on "Christ, The Church, and Race."

DAY OF ASHES

Wednesday, to serious members of those churches that are in the Catholic tradition, represents the end of high living and the beginning of the 40-day Lenten season of fasting and self-discipline.

The spirit of man, however, finds excuse for comedy even in solemn situations. It was on this day French peasants used to go about carrying an effigy supposed to be the personification of good cheer and collecting money for his funeral. Clowning it up all the way, they went through a mock burial of the dummy and then proceeded to make good, practical use of the funds they had collected.

In most every town and city you will see people with black smudges on their foreheads. These will be the Roman Catholics and Episcopalians who have been to church and have been through the ceremony from which the day gets the name of Ash Wednesday.

As the people kneel at the altar rail, the priest puts ashes on them saying "Remember, man, that thou art dust and unto dust thou shalt return." It is an appropriate beginning for a season of penitence. Sackcloth and ashes were the symbol of abject grief even in Old Testament times.

It is said this adaptation of the old Jewish practice was introduced as a Lenten symbol by Pope Gregory the Great, who reigned in the late sixth century.

WOMEN AT PRAYER

In 144 countries, in 60 languages and 100 dialects the same prayers will be said Friday by nobody knows how many million Protestant women. For the first Friday in Lent is World Day of Prayer, and on this day the women of non-Roman Christianity demonstrate—to themselves and to the entire globe—their worldwide oneness in the faith.

How About Some Proof on Cholesterol 'Dangers'

Queries pertaining to physiology, hygiene, nutrition, causes and prevention of disease are in order. Under the injunction of Hippocrates, diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered in this column.

DR. BRADY

"If one limits the amount of eggs, butter, cream, milk animal fat in his diet to a minimum is there still danger of cholesterol deposits in the heart arteries?"

Answer — No one has proved that cholesterol has anything to do with heart, artery or joint disease.

"What is your advice about the use of toothpicks?"

Answer — I keep adequate supplies of cordwood (flat white birch toothpicks) on hand and use 'em regularly. I consider my teeth, or mine and my dentist's, a precious asset to health, vite and longevity.

"We tried to get one-grain tablets of copper sulfate to carry in emergency kit as an instantaneous emetic. Druggists had none, had never heard of them, or said copper sulfate is poison . . ."

Answer — Such tablets are available only for oculists who use 'em to make eye drops. Perhaps your druggist will make up a vial or two of instantaneous emetic for you—solution of one grain of copper sulfate in one-half ounce of distilled water, rain water or snow water. This is the emetic dose for infant or child.

"The lady who wants a cure for warts might find this one successful: Cut a medium size potato in two, rub the cut side on warts and throw it away. When the potato rots the warts will be gone. I guarantee it. I am 85."

Answer — You do not specify over which shoulder to throw the potato or in which phase of the moon. If it doesn't work, the lady may still paint each wart once daily with familiar corn collodion—30 grains of salicylic acid dissolved in one-half fluidounce of flexible collodion. Or apply a single coat of iodine (2 per cent strength) to the whole area of skin covered by the warts—twice a week.

"I am 77 years old and I enjoy good health, thanks to your teachings. Some friends are urging me to eat unflavored gelatin daily — they say it will help me wonderfully. I can't see any reason why it should—can you?"

Answer—Nope.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Can the Mind Really Heal the Body?

Oral Roberts has stirred up a scientific discussion as to just HOW a person may be cured by faith in God. Scrapbook this case, for it presents some vital facts about psychosomatic medicine. The brain is in touch with all the organs and glands of the body, so we medics are growing more openminded about the old adage, "As a man thinketh, so is he."

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case A-448: Oral Roberts, aged 38, is a famous TV evangelist who affirms that God can heal bodies as well as souls.

★ ★ ★

"Dr. Crane, I expect people to get all the aid they can from their local physicians," he began.

CRANE

"For doctors are also intermediary links in God's plan for curing us of disease.

"But when people are pronounced incurable, I am willing to stand beside them and try to invoke the extra healing forces of God.

"However, I don't pretend to know the scientific mechanism that God uses. Dr. Crane, as a physician and psychologist, maybe you can explain it."

BODY AND MIND

Many of you readers have seen a supposedly sterile wife adopt a baby. And what happens?

★ ★ ★

In a few months she may become pregnant and bear a child of her own flesh! For when she turns her attention off herself via the maternal affection for the adopted infant, her body begins to function normally.

Her former selfish fear that she was an inferior female in being sterile, thus produced a negative effect. Her new unselfish concern for the foster child, now creates a positive outlook that apparently cures her sterility.

Our bodies are fairly mechanical machines. And we have two nervous systems to direct our muscular behavior and our glands.

The central (brain and cord) controls conscious thinking and skeletal muscles (those hooked to bones).

But we have an autonomic nervous system that directs the muscles of the heart, skin, digestive system, etc. It also regulates secretion, sweating, gastric juice, etc.

But these two nervous systems are not entirely separate! Connecting nerve fibers links them at each vertebra. Thus, our heart beats even if we are unconscious and our breathing occurs mechanically, due to the autonomic system.

But if we suddenly meet our sweetheart or a Halloween "ghost," our heart may speed up and our breathing fluctuate, for the brain then shoots nervous impulses across into the autonomic and disturbs the mechanical function of heart and lungs.

★ ★ ★

Likewise, tension and fear can force our gastric glands to secrete excess acid so we get peptic ulcers. Or we also become victims of spastic colitis.

Angina pectoris can occur because of tension and fear at the conscious (brain) level, which then causes the tiny circular muscles around the coronary arteries to contract.

When we grow pale in fear, or blush in embarrassment, the brain is also influencing tiny muscle fibers around the skin arteries.

★ ★ ★

If the brain can thus influence heart and lungs and stomach and intestines and sweat glands, why shouldn't it indirectly prod or hamstring the liver and pancreas, too?

We know it affects the kidneys, for excited people have a greater desire to use the bathroom.

Dr. S. J. Van Pelt, president of the British Society of Medical Hypnosis, recently stated that "any organ or gland in the body, including those which aid long life, can be controlled by hypnosis."

I have personally seen phenomenal results in ordinary hypnosis, so I certainly think a person imbued with complete faith in God, could produce remarkable changes in the body's health.

★ ★ ★

As a scientist, I'd like to check on certain cases like diabetes, but no scientist will dispute facts.

If a person is really cured, he is healed, regardless of how we try to explain the result.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Voice of the People

Writer With Low Income Resents Legislators' Stand

I seriously resent the attitude expressed by Sen Lodge and Rep. Anderson, in a Feb. 3 article, "Oakland Legislators Follow Party Lines on Tax Proposals." They show callous inconsideration for the man who can earn only enough to provide the barest necessities of life for himself and his family.

★ ★ ★

I happen to be in the lower income class, but I've never received one red cent from State Welfare or even an unemployment check. Does my being in this class cause added government expense as expressed by these politicians?

Am I thereby responsible for my less fortunate fellow who has for a long time been unemployed because industry can now profit more with less employes? I didn't cause this plight nor reap the fruits of their labor.

★ ★ ★

Surely the cost to the Government caused by these people is the responsibility of those who profit most by the existing social order. So, Mr. Politician, this places the decision at your door. Will you please the exploiters or will you leave party lines and resolve that justice shall prevail? And don't raise sales tax.

Laments Power the Unions Wield

I agree 100 per cent with David Lawrence regarding the UAW-CIO power over Congress. The so-called anti-labor bill presented by the President to Congress will not be acknowledged by these Reuther stooges in Washington, and who doesn't know the reason? No wonder the Commies now tell the U.S. that a hot war will not be in the future. Reuther and Gang, including our Soapy, will be the necessary instruments selling the U.S. to Russia. What about this, you so-called Americans?

'Maybe He Is "Saver" of State'

There isn't much to laugh at or about in Michigan these days, so my thanks to Central High for a good belly laugh. So Williams is the "Saver" of our state. Well, might just be—with his crucifixion near at hand.

'Stop Immigration Until Jobs Grow'

The suggested changes in our immigration laws are politically motivated. The quota system was based on reasons that were sound at the time and still are.

★ ★ ★

I agree that changes should be made. Immigration should be stopped completely. That is until our own millions of eager American workers return to their jobs. Contrary to the glowing reports, the employment situation is still bad.

Chances of our graduating sons and daughters getting a decent job are about nil. Why should we continue to allow immigration when we're faced with a population that's rapidly expanding. Let's save the future for our own people.

'Is One Any Better Than the Other?'

After your Feb. 3 edition, I believe I missed your previous editorial showing low income groups pay 95 per cent of all taxes. Which is worse, to starve by overtaxation or unemployment?

'Alcoholism Should Concern Everyone'

Tolerant says the small percentage of Sunday drinkers isn't great enough for moral leaders' concern. I disagree. More of us should be concerned with drinkers, the number of which is growing more and more in youngsters as well as adults.

Isn't it enough they have six days a week in which to indulge without taking the Lord's day to continue?

'Well, I Wasn't There to Protest'

I was surprised at the article about the Avondale School Board meeting. I attended the meeting as I often do, as I have four children in school. I'm not to be numbered among those there to protest dismissal of the superintendent. And I agree with the complimentary letters about the assistant superintendent. I'm amazed at the number of people not willing to stand behind their elected representatives, who were put into office by a majority vote.

Contradicts Letter on Crime Rates

Concerning Sunday closing, two letters have spoken of increased crime which Prohibition brought. The census volume shows the number of prison commitments per 100,000 population in 1912 compared with 1923, three years after Prohibition came in. Commitments on all offenses registered a decrease.

★ ★ ★

Or compare Prohibition with Repeal. In 1935 the director of federal prisons said the prison population had increased by 25 per cent during the first year of Repeal. The same year the director of the Federal Alcohol Control Administration announced that stills seized in 1934 had a greater capacity than legal distilleries.

After Berkley Phantom Snipings

Quiz 6 Teens in Shootings

Berkley police today are questioning six teenagers about two phantom snipings in that city this week.

★ ★ ★

The youths were arrested last night and admitted they were en route to a gang fight in Royal Oak, police reported. Eight knives were found in the car they were riding in.

The snipings in question occurred about one mile apart. The first .38 calibre slug was fired through a window in the home of Mrs. Allen L. Davidson of 2215 Robina St. Wednesday night.

It went through two walls and was found on the floor of a closet.

★ ★ ★

Another .38 caliber slug went through a window in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don T. Wells of 960 Oxford Rd. The slug struck a door and fell to the floor.

Both slugs were sent to the Detroit Police Laboratory to determine if they were fired from the same gun.

Berkley Police Captain John Wolff thought teenage pranksters may have been responsible for the incidents, since an old model car loaded with young men was seen driving past one of the two homes about the time of the shooting.

★ ★ ★

Two years ago today, 22-year-old Gary Addison Taylor was arrested as the phantom sniper who terrorized Royal Oak with a series of rifle shootings. He shot two girls on the street and just missed many others before he was arrested.

Now in Ionia State Hospital, he had confessed a desire to "hurt women."

Bring in Red Vessel Caught Off Norway

AALESUND, Norway (AP)—A Soviet fishing vessel was brought into this west coast town today by a Norwegian naval prize crew after having been arrested while fishing in Norwegian territorial waters.

The 160-foot herring drifter was placed under police guard immediately on landing.

West coast naval headquarters in Bergen earlier had issued a communique saying the vessel was caught shortly before noon while fishing two miles inside the Norwegian four-mile fishery limit.

A big Russian fishing fleet—one estimate placed the number of ships at 300—began trolling in the herring grounds off the Norwegian coast yesterday. Several of the vessels crossed the four-mile limit then but were chased out by a Norwegian patrol boat.

Waterford Boys Admit Thefts

Troopers Pick Them Up on M59 at 3 A. M. After 4 School Break-Ins

Two Waterford Township juveniles were arrested by Pontiac State Police early this morning and have admitted breaking into four township schools last night, officers said.

★ ★ ★

The two 15-year-old boys were picked up when troopers on patrol saw them walking along M59 near Airport road at 3 a.m.

★ ★ ★

The boys told troopers they had taken $26 cash from the schools, plus an assortment of small tools. The schools entered were John Montieth, Henry R. Schoolcraft, Waterford Center and William Beaumont, all elementary schools.

They were turned over to juvenile authorities today.

Chief of Police Refuses to Be Placed in Danger

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—Chief of Police W. Cleon Skousen issued this memo to his department:

"Explosives, such as dynamite, blasting powder, detonating caps, grenades, etc. are not to be placed in our evidence room."

The evidence room is in the basement directly under Skousen's office.

Mother of Five Accidentally Shoots Herself

A Pontiac Township mother of five accidentally shot herself with a .22 caliber revolver last night, according to Oakland County Sheriff's deputies.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Myrtle Richardson, 42, of 2379 Joswick St., was reported in fair condition today at Pontiac General Hospital.

She suffered a bullet wound in the chest, deputies said.

They were summoned by the woman's husband, Jesse, shortly before 11 p.m. Richardson told deputies the shooting was accidental.

Mrs. Richardson said she was carrying the revolver from the bedroom to the kitchen to put it away when it "got caught" in her clothes and went off.

Four of her five children were home at the time and said their mother was alone in the bedroom when the shooting occurred. Deputies said there was no evidence of foul play.

Barred Mother Doesn't Want to See Son Again

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Barred by a court order from attending her son's wedding today, Mrs. Tessie Purmort says she has no intention of ever seeing him again.

She denied the accusation of Pasadena industrialist Louis E. Purmort that she threatened to kill him if he married Mrs. Barbara Jean Thorndike, a divorcee.

Said Mrs. Purmort:

"My husband and I lent him our life savings to help him get started in his business. To have him state that there was a threat to kill him—which is most definitely not true—is hardly the gratitude we expected."

Purmort, head of a filter manufacturing firm, obtained a court order Wednesday restraining her from attending the ceremony in suburban San Marino.

No U. of M. Tests for Local Grads

Northern Students May Enroll Without Exam If Record Is Good

Pontiac Northern High School graduates will be able to enroll in the University of Michigan without taking admission tests as long as they maintain a satisfactory academic record and have the principal's recommendation.

Kent W. Leach, director of the university's Bureau of School Services, announced today that the local high school has been accredited by the university.

The university's accreditation committee visited the school Jan. 19 at the same time the committee for the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools did, according to Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, superintendent of Pontiac schools.

The association's decision on the school's accreditation will not be announced until late in March at the group's annual meeting in Chicago, Whitmer added.

The accreditation is based on faculty qualifications, student activities, class schedules and programs, size and number of classrooms, school plans, layout and facilities.

Lamphere High School in Madison Heights and North Branch High School were among the more than 30 high schools which received a renewed accreditation.

Graduates of non-accredited schools must first pass the university's admissions tests regardless of their high school academic record.

Detroit Mayor Asking Welfare Be Limited

DETROIT (AP)—Mayor Louis C. Miriani recommended today that all single persons be dropped from relief rolls this spring. He said the 2,900 single persons now on relief should fend for themselves.

The mayor said the action would save the city four million dollars a year in welfare costs.

Miriani made his recommendations to the city council and public welfare dept.

Reuther Calls On Jobless to March

LANSING (AP)—United Auto Workers President Walter Reuther urged last night that the nation's unemployed workers march on Washington to dramatize their plight.

He said the jobless jaunt to the Capitol "would shatter the complacency of the nation's leaders" that the recession was over.

Reuther spoke to 800 delegates to the biennial legislative conference of the Michigan AFL-CIO.

Reuther said the UAW would soon unveil a positive unemployment program in which all unions would collaborate on local, state and national levels to aid the jobless.

He said one target of the program would be "the widespread examples of overtime" in which some workers are on the job 54 hours a week while others with years of seniority are out of work.

The labor leader described inflation as the responsibility of a few huge corporations.

He said General Motors showed a $2,500,000,000 profit after a 1955 wage increase, but raised car prices more than four per cent.

U. S. Steel, he continued, put its latest price increase into effect last July when the industry was operating at only 57 per cent of capacity.

★ ★ ★

"The law of supply and demand has been repealed," he commented.

Turning to President Eisenhower's budget, Reuther said, "You can't have a balanced budget without full production and employment."

"Eisenhower," he added, "just doesn't comprehend world forces. He thinks the challenge is solvency, not survival."

He said the solution to joblessness is to match the 20 per cent of American productive capacity with the four million unemployed.

★ ★ ★

Besides unemployment, Reuther, who is also a vice president of the national AFL-CIO, said top priority should be given to:

1. A stepped-up civil rights program.

2. An expanded social security plan.

3. Federal minimum standards for unemployment compensation.

4. Distribution to the world of the huge food surplus which costs one billion dollars a year to store.

5. An end to trouble-breeding big city slums.

6. A push for better international labor standards.

Gov. Williams addressed the delegates briefly. He said, "I owe you a great debt of gratitude and will always be proud of your support."

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile, a plan whereby employes help pay their own unemployment compensation is being mulled over at the conference.

President August Scholle said the version under study was the Canadian plan. Employer and employe each contribute 40 per cent of the cost and the government 20 per cent.

Chap Scares Red Embassy: False Alarm

WASHINGTON (AP)—A well-dressed man with horn-rim glasses strolled up to the Soviet Embassy Friday and tossed a briefcase into the vestibule. Then he ran away.

A Soviet attache picked up the case, threw it into the street and called police.

Wearing rubber gloves, Army demolition experts opened the case. There was no bomb. The case contained only two books and three school diplomas.

Police studied the diplomas, from Milwauke and Chicago and in the name of Quintin F. Soik, for a clue to the identity of the dapper man.

UAW Lays Off 70 From Staff

26 Executive Board Members Take 5 Pct. Pay Cuts

DETROIT (AP)—For a second time within seven months the United Auto Workers union has wielded an economy axe.

Seventy more UAW staff members are being laid off and the 26 members of the union's international executive board are taking a 5 per cent salary cut.

The UAW board announced both actions yesterday in an effort to balance off shrinking dues revenue following from the unemployment of thousands of its members.

Dues have been increased from $3 to $4 monthly.

Last summer the UAW laid off 100 staff members. Its board members took a 10 per cent salary cut but this was restored after the union completed negotiation of its new contracts with the auto industry.

The new layoffs are estimated to mean an annual saving of $1,000,000. Affected are international representatives of the union's regional and international offices.

When Buying Insurance—

Don't Drop ONE Policy to Buy

ANOTHER!

There are exceptions to this rule but they are RARE! Rates go up as you grow older, so you will pay a higher rate if you shift! Reliable agents will tell you that 9 times out of 10, in the shift from an old policy to a new one, no one gains BUT THE AGENT WHO SELLS IT. Most agents are honest but a few yield to the temptation to become a "twister"—salesmen who sell new policies by talking people in to discarding their old ones.

IF AN AGENT OR ANYONE ELSE SUGGESTS A CHANGE IN POLICIES, TAKE YOUR TIME! Know clearly why he thinks you should change. Write to your State Insurance Department for advice about your old policy, or consult that local Life Underwriters Association. If you aren't convinced that a change is advisable, DON'T CHANGE! Older policies should be kept in force if possible!

Pontiac Press Photos

The inspiration for a Pontiac Town Hall came from Mrs. Paul A. Kern, right. She brought her ideas to Mrs. Joseph C. Walker, president of the Women's Association of the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra, and plans were soon under way.

Among the original group of Pontiac Town Hall planners are (left to right) Mrs. Maxwell H. Doerr, Mrs. Harold A. Fitzgerald and Mrs. Jack Habel. Plans for the first of the lecture series, to be held in October, are now being formulated.

New Program for Pontiac

'Town Hall' Born of Vision, Work

When next October rolls around, all plans for Pontiac Town Hall will be completed and an excellent program of lectures and entertainment will await you.

This is all due to the vision of a few Pontiac area women, and the combined efforts of a great many who have wanted such a program for Pontiac.

VOICED IDEA

When Mrs. Paul A. Kern first voiced her idea to Mrs. Joseph C. Walker, it seemed like a dream — but a dream worth working for.

* * *

Then, meeting with a few civic-minded women from representative groups, they discussed the feasibility of such a plan.

From this discussion evolved the idea that Pontiac was ready for a Town Hall series. It was decided that proceeds would benefit the Symphony and other cultural activities.

* * *

Officers for Town Hall are headed by Mrs. Paul A. Kern, president and general chairman, with Mrs. Alex Capsalis, cochairman. Mrs. Walker is vice president. Other officers are Mrs. N. E. Durocher, secretary and Mrs. C. V. Sekles, treasurer. Vera Bassett is assistant treasurer.

19 PIONEERED

The 19 women attending the original planning sessions are Mrs. Kern, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Maxwell L. Shadley, Mrs. Jack Habel, Mrs. Cecil McCallum, Mrs. Charles Uligian, Mrs. Donald B. Hogue, Mrs. Capsalis and Mrs. Maxwell H. Doerr.

Mrs. Clyde Dearing, Mrs. Harold A. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Leland Clemence, Mrs. Frederic Garrison, Mrs. Durocher, Vera Bassett, Mrs. C. R. Gatley, Mrs. Raymond Sampson and Mrs. Arnold Hillerman complete the list.

St. Dunstan's Plans to Present Benefit

BIRMINGHAM — St. Dunstan's Guild, brightly lighted this weekend and next for their production of "The Happiest Millionaire," will give a repeat performance Thursday evening benefiting Big Brothers of Oakland County. Tickets may be ordered from Mrs. John W. Gillette of Fairway drive.

Some of the Guild's best talent is in the cast and the big production job is in the capable hands of Mrs. John Kice.

Mrs. Paul Averill has designed the set.

Thomas King, Mrs. Richard F. Page, Francis Loud, Mrs. David Raymond, William B. Saunders, Mrs. Dean Coffin and several others comprise the cast.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Breech are here from Los Angeles for a visit with Bob's family Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Breech of Long Lake road. The senior Mr. and Mrs. Breech had a family dinner Thursday evening at Bloomfield Hills Country Club, and on Saturday Mr. and Mrs. John S. Bugas will be hosts at dinner at the Detroit Athletic Club.

The William H. Breeches have planned a "brunch" for Sunday in their Franklin road home.

* * *

Mrs. Carl Whirl entertained members of her bridge club at luncheon Wednesday.

Mrs. Ernst F. Kern's club will meet at her home Tuesday.

Mrs. Edward Allen has come from Cleveland to spend 10 days with her sister, Mrs. Weslau Wright of Glenhurst drive. Mrs. Wright will entertain a few friends at dinner before St. Dunstan's show Saturday evening.

Birmingham Town Hall has announced four of their speakers for next season. They include Vincent Price, Madame Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, Ogden Nash and Barbara Ward, a British author.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Liverance left Tuesday for a six weeks sojourn in Europe.

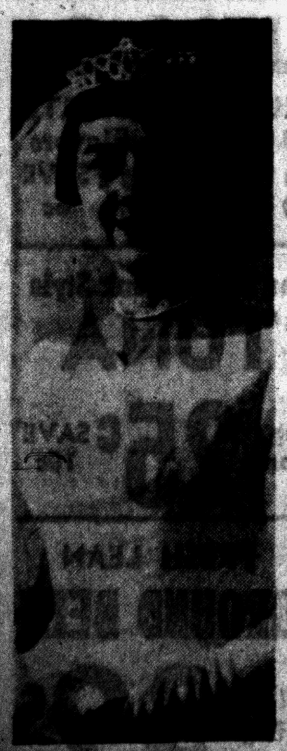

Mrs. M. M. Burgess is visiting the George W. Walkers at the Surf Club, Miami Beach.

Here from Palo Alto, Calif. is former Birmingham resident, Mrs. C. A. Newcomb III and her son, Ronald, who has just received his M.A. at the University of Michigan.

Katherine F. Dubay Wed in Merrill Church Rite

A gown of chiffon velvet was worn by Katherine F. Dubay of Stanley avenue for her marriage to Murray G. Palmer Jr. this morning at the Sacred Heart Church at Merrill. Some 350 guests attended the wedding.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dubay of Merrill. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Murray G. Palmer of Royal Oak.

MRS. MURRAY G. PALMER JR.

* * *

A bateau neckline and long tapered sleeves were features of the bride's princess line gown. The bouffant skirt was fashioned with a floor-length skirt and chapel sweep. A crown of pearls secured her fingertip veil of silk illusion and she carried a white orchid on a prayer book.

ATTEND BRIDE

Maid of honor was Jackie Dubay and bridesmaids were Mary Jane Flynn of Merrill, Gloria Ramirez, and Connie Hensel of Milford. They were gowned alike in red velveteen ballerina-length gowns accented by bateau necklines, three-quarter-length sleeves, and bouffant skirts. Each wore a white fur headpiece and carried red roses on a white muff.

* * *

Ilorio Cifani of Royal Oak attended as best man. Ushers included Spencer Palmer of Clawson and Carl Dinnis and Owen Winnie, both of Royal Oak.

Mrs. Dubay chose a navy blue lace dress with white accessories and wore red roses for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Palmer was dressed in pale blue wool and wore red roses.

* * *

A reception was held at Jonesfield Hall in Merrill, following the ceremony.

The couple will travel to Florida for two weeks.

A tea was held for members of the organizational committee at the home of Mrs. S. V. Sekles on Ottawa drive. She was photographed as she served tea to Mrs. Cecil McCallum, left, and Mrs. Alex Capsalis.

Mrs. Donald B. Hogue (right), first president of the Women's Association to the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra was one of the first to respond to the idea of Town Hall. With her are other "backers" Mrs. Frederic Garrison, Mrs. Arnold Hillerman and Mrs. Charles Uligian.

She Pays Check for Company

Newspaper Can Announce End of Engagement

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am a woman executive in a large company, and very often it is necessary for me to take men customers to lunch. The men always seem embarrassed to have me pay the check and often try to pick it up themselves. This creates a very awkward situation. Can you offer a solution to this problem?"

Answer: Usually companies open accounts in several restaurants so that their executives can sign when the waiters present their bills. As your company has not done this, the best thing is to say as you pay the check, "You are my company's guest, and this goes on my expense account."

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me how a broken engagement is handled with the least possible embarrassment to my daughter. My daughter's engagement was announced two months ago and three weeks later her fiance decided to call the whole thing off. Needless to say my daughter is very much upset."

Answer: If it was announced in a newspaper then a notice would be sent to them saying, "The engagement of Miss Sara Black and Mr. John Doe has been broken by mutual consent." If it wasn't announced in the papers, the least embarrassing thing to do would be for your daughter to tell her most intimate friends and let the news spread.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to take a first cruise, alone. I know that I shall be put at a table with other people in the dining room, and I am wondering if I should introduce myself to them and, if so, just how do I go about it?"

Answer: You may simply say to your table companions, "I'm Mary Smith," or if you prefer, you may ask your cruise director to introduce you.

Dress May Give Cut-in-Half Look

Just as your ensemble is in parts, so is your dress. Two important parts are the areas from the neckline to waistline and from waistline to hemline.

* * *

If these two areas are exactly the same size, the woman has a "cut-in-half" look. look. However, if they are different sizes, the garment is more interesting to look at.

Unwed Girl of 17 Needs Pluck, Friends to Help Her Fashion a Brighter Future

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: I had to quit school because I'm going to have a baby and am not married. The father is in the Navy and we don't know if he'll marry me or not. We hadn't gone together very long, but I thought I loved him. I'm not a tramp, Abby. He's the only boy who has ever touched me.

ABBY

Why is it when a person needs friends the most, everybody turns against them? My girl friends say they still like me but their parents won't let them associate with me because it might ruin their reputations. So I sit alone all day. We have no money to send me to a home for unwed mothers, so I have to stay here and face the shame. I am 17 and wish I were 70 so I could go to my Eternal Rest." DESERTED

DEAR DESERTED: There are Homes for Unwed Mothers who will welcome with open arms anyone without a penney. Get in touch with your Family Service Assn. at once. I've heard from many girls who have been in your boots and have lived to hold their heads up high again. It can happen to you. Good luck!

"DEAR ABBY: I am a Pre-Med student and have been going with this girl for about six months. I told her I couldn't afford a big diamond, but she says it's not the size of the diamond that counts, it's the thought. Any advice?" NOT READY

DEAR NOT: If it's the thought—tell her you'll THINK about it.

"DEAR ABBY: This may sound strange to you but it is absolutely true because my child does not lie. He is in the Second Grade and says his teacher refuses to let the youngsters go to the bathroom when they ask unless they are willing to stay in from recess as a punishment. Mine has come home from school crying (with wet pants) more than once. Now he doesn't want to go to school on that account. Please tell me what to do. MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Put on your hat and go to school. First talk to the teacher and get her side of the story. (Children do not always report things accurately.) If she actually penalizes the youngsters for asking to go to the bathroom, tell her if she doesn't change her tactics you will take it up with the principal.

"DEAR ABBY: My problem is like nothing I have ever seen in your column. I am in love with a fellow and my parents like him very much. When he was young he was kind of sickly, and later dropped out of school to help support his family. To come to the point, he cannot read or write very well. I did not know this until I asked him to read what was on my handkerchief. It said "FORT DIX, NEW JERSEY" and Abby, when he couldn't read it I was so surprised and thought it such a shame I started to cry. I am trying to teach him but he can't even read third-grade books. Should I give up or not?" HIS GIRL

DEAR HIS: Encourage him to go to night school and learn with other adults. It's never too late to learn. Good luck!

Spadea's american designer pattern

Jo Copeland loves the freshness of crisp white near the face, always handles it in a new and exciting fashion. Here the zigzagged jabot comes in four parts, the outer two in the dress fabric, the removable inner two meant to be in pristine pique, linen or organdy.

★ ★ ★

The shape of the dress itself is equally notable, since she retains a fitted normal waistline but gives it a new look by lifting the seam high. Strategically placed darts add an extremely pleasant curviness to the four gore skirt.

★ ★ ★

Sensational in navy wool, raw, white pique, you'll want it for summer in chambray, cords, town cottons. That touch of white then will be as effectively cool as a heap of shaved ice.

From this size chart select the one size best for you.

Sizes	Bust	Waist	Hips Inches	Length From Nape of Neck to Waist
10	34	24	35	16½
12	35	25	36	16¾
14	36½	26½	37½	17
16	38	28	39	17¼
18	40	30	41	17½
20	42	32	43	17¾

Size 12 requires 2½ yards of 54-inch material for dress and ¾ yard of 36-inch material for contrast.

Don't Go Wild

Be Moderate Eater After Dieting

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Once you have finished a reducing diet and have regained that lovely, slim figure, it is a great temptation to go wild with the calories! Actually you should add a few hundred to your daily intake and you can give yourself a few treats. The trick is to be moderate in your celebration.

For instance, do not begin with a bang by adding gravy to your meat and potatoes, Hollandaise sauce to your asparagus, an unlimited number of hot rolls, frying your eggs, and adding cream sauces to your spinach.

Do not start out and eat dessert as a habit every day. Give yourself this treat twice a week and take fresh fruit on the other days. Your health and looks will profit by this, also. If you take bread at dinner, eat only a small amount of potato, without gravy, and be moderate about the gravy on your meat.

Do not allow yourself to start back on the old-in-between meal snacking. This will slip up on you before you know it. In other words you can again enjoy some of the items you left off while you were losing weight, but be moderate about it. Keep some of that feeling of restraint you had when dieting.

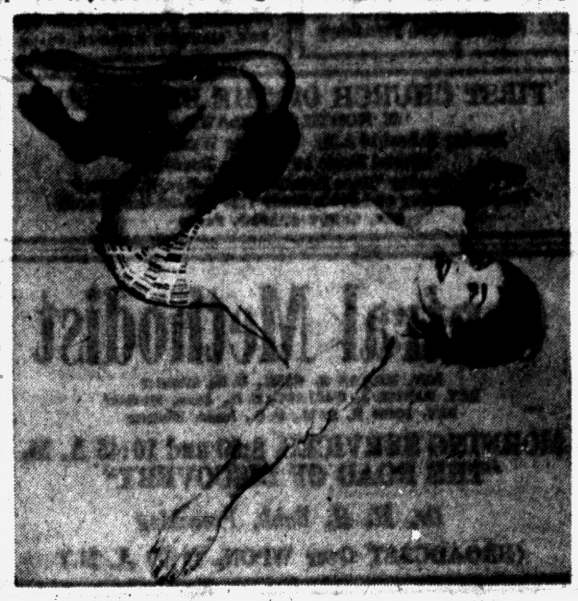

If you do not keep such thoughts in mind, you may find yourself right back where you were a few months ago. If you will hold your ideal weight for a few months, you will find that your body adjusts to that weight and you will not regain so rapidly. You can allow yourself a few more food luxuries if you will do this.

Today I want to give you an exercise which does several things for your figure.

Lie on the floor on your back. Arms rest on the floor at your sides, extending straight out from your shoulder pits. Bend both knees up close to your abdomen. Straighten your legs toward the ceiling. Again bend both legs. Return legs to the floor. Do this briskly.

★ ★ ★

If you would like to have my leaflet which gives you menus for "Hold That Line" after you lose weight, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 71 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

This will improve your figure: Bend your knees up close to your abdomen. Straighten your legs toward the ceiling. Again bend both legs. Return legs to the floor.

Use Less Cream for Best Results

Husbands joke about wives wearing hideous masks to bed.

Actually, a woman can apply a thin film of cream, and get better results than if she slaps on layers of gooey stuff. This way she doesn't frighten anyone or mess up her pillowcase.

Our Plea for Christ
The church of the 1st century was founded by Jesus Christ through the preaching of the inspired apostles. The Christ had said to Simon Peter, "Upon this rock I will build my church." Mt. 16:18. Paul speaks of himself "as a wise master-builder" in laying the foundation of "the church of God that is in Corinth." 1 Cor. 1:10. What is true of Paul is also true of all apostles in that they were "wise master-builders" of the church of Christ.
THE CHURCH AS FOUNDED BY THEM, WAS IN FAITH, DOCTRINE, ORGANIZATION, WORSHIP, TERMS OF MEMBERSHIP, AND NAME, JUST WHAT CHRIST WANTED IT TO BE. It was the "chaste virgin" 11 Cor. 11:2; the "one new man" Eph. 2:15; and it was perfect in all parts. THE RESTORATION OF THE APOSTOLIC CHURCH SHOULD BE THE DESIRE OF ALL WHO LOVE TRUTH ABOVE PARTY. OUR PLEA FOR THE RESTORATION OF ORIGINAL CHURCH OF CHRIST IS MADE BECAUSE OF A SERIOUS DEPARTURE FROM "the faith which once was for all delivered unto the saints" Jude 1:3. Paul foretold of the falling away which is now seen in the multiplicity of warring sects and conflicting creeds. 1 Tim. 4:1-4; 11 Thess. 2:1-4; Acts 20:28-30; 11 Tim. 4:1-4. The original Church of Christ may be restored by men of good will who are full of faith when they obey God who said, "See, saith he, that thou make all things according to the pattern showed to thee." The pattern given us in the new covenant, the word of God, which is the seed of the Kingdom, Lk. 8:11, Matt. 13:19, can be found in the New Testament. Let us follow it exactly and we will be what God would have us be and will restore the church of the first century. Believest Thou This?

BISHOP K. C. PILLAI

Eastern Orthodox Bishop, Evangel Temple Speaker

Bishop K. C. Pillai of Madras, India, a Hindu convert to Christ, is speaking this week and Sunday at Evangel Temple, 1380 Mt. Clemens St.

★ ★ ★

"Light Through an Eastern Window" is the theme of his talks.

A national director of the Department of International Relations under the Orthodox Patriarchate of America, New York City, the bishop is in this country to clarify Scriptural passages, he said.

"My work is to interpret the Hindu culture, religion and philosophy so that people of the Western World may get acquainted with us and understand the Bible better.

★ ★ ★

"The Hindus and other peoples of the East understand the phraseologies, parables and idioms in the Bible better because they are their own. The Bible speaks of the culture of eastern people," the bishop said.

"For instance, Our Lord told His disciples to shake the dust off their feet when they were ill treated or not accepted.

"To the Orient, the dust is symbolic of hatred, spite, grudge, bitterness, resentment or malice.

"To shake the dust off their feet means—Leave these wrong attitudes behind and do not entertain them in your heart or mind because if you do, it will ruin your souls."

The bishop said the expression was taught to the Hindus in their religion centuries before Christ was born.

About 30 years ago he said he was converted to Christianity when someone was preaching on the streets of Madras. The words which changed his thinking and brought peace to his soul were "Come unto Me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest."

Bishop Pillai said, "If America as a nation applies the teachings of Christ to national problems it can achieve results but I think people of the Western world are afraid to try."

PCH Loses 53-52 Overtime Game at Flint Central

Last-Second Foul Shots Trigger Upset as Chiefs Drop 1st of Season

By BILL CORNWELL

FLINT—The electric scoreboard in Ballenger Fieldhouse flashed these figures: Pontiac Central 47, Flint Central 45.

Flint Central's harried forces dashed frantically up the floor in a last-ditch effort to score the tying bucket. The seconds ticked off to zero and the final buzzer sounded.

Jubilant Pontiac Central followers, believing the game was over, streamed on to the floor to congratulate the Chiefs for winning their 10th straight decision.

But all of the PCH fans and nearly everyone else in the standing-room-only crowd were too hasty with their thoughts. During the pandemonium of the waning seconds, almost everybody was unaware that a foul had been called in the back court against Pontiac's Bill Hayward.

The floor was cleared, the personal foul announced and after a consultation at the official table, it was determined that one second remained.

Dale Lucas strode to the foul line for Flint and calmly sank two gift tosses to deadlock the count at 47-47 and send the pulse-pounding contest into a three-minute overtime period.

That was the beginning of the end for PCH. Lucas' two free shots in the last second triggered the Indians to a dramatic 53-52 triumph here Friday night as the Chiefs' proud string of nine straight victories came to a halt.

Flint Northern and PCH are now knotted for 1st place in the Saginaw Valley title chase with 6-1 records. Northern earned the tie yesterday with a 67-61 win at Arthur Hill while Bay City Central gained its first conference victory, a 68-67 conquest of visiting Saginaw, to complete the SVC program.

The heartbreaking defeat endangered the previously unbeaten Chiefs' rating as the No. 1 Class A basketball team in state high school circles.

Coach Art Van Ryzin's cagers probably deserved a better fate in view of the gallant comeback they made against the Indians. But the Indians also staged a great comeback of their own and there lies the final story.

Pontiac overcame a 29-19 deficit in the 3rd quarter and forged into a 47-39 advantage with only two minutes of game time remaining behind the deadly marksmanship of Amos Bailey and Phil Rabaja and the herculean rebounding of Harrison Munson.

Then, for the first time this season, the Chiefs played foolishly. Instead of playing calm, cool and collected, they allowed themselves to become a bit rattle-brained under the pressure of Flint's full-court press and blew the lead.

The eight-point cushion melted away on baskets by Keith Richardson, Jerry Lucas and older brother Dale, then the latter deposited his game-tying free throws in the wild regulation finish.

Pontiac scored first in the extra session on Rabaja's charity toss. Big Duane Bates of Flint and Bailey exchanged field goals and the Chiefs still led, 50-49. Then Dale Lucas tallied four consecutive points on a fielder and two foul tosses to give the Indians a 53-50 edge.

Bailey caged a set shot with four seconds left and the clock ran out with the Chiefs one point shy—and that was that.

The Chiefs started out badly. After taking an early 5-1 lead, they turned colder than the Arctic and fell into a 13-7 deficit at the end of the 1st period and still trailed at halftime by the same difference, 22-16.

Flint's keyed-up Indians hiked their margin to 10 points midway through the 3rd stanza before the Chiefs began their tremendous but ill-fated rally.

The Chiefs hit a miserable 14 per cent from the floor in the 1st half and had an average of .27 for the distance, their poorest shooting night of the season.

Bailey took game scoring honors with 17 points, 15 in the 2nd half surge, while Munson tallied a dozen and Rabaja 10.

The Lucas brothers were poison for the Chiefs. Jerry, recently called up from the junior varsity by coach Joe Dowdy, meshed 14 points and Dale added 13. Bates and Richardson each netted 10 to round out the Indians' balanced attack.

Rams Win Gives Eaglets Title

By H. GUY MOATS

St. Benedict's Ravens had their wings clipped, Friday night, 41-37, by a surprisingly alert St. Frederick five, and the Rams' victory automatically elevated Orchard Lake St. Mary to the Suburban Catholic league championship.

★ ★ ★

Gene Wright's Rams are the only cagers to tame the Highland Park 1958 SCL kings. They did it twice, first time in overtime. But this time the Rams were masters all the way, except for the first three minutes. Ravens tied the count at 4-4, but never after came closer than two points (27-25 early in the 3rd period).

Final contest of the SCL takes place tonight at Pontiac Northern High gymnasium, where St. Michael tangles with Detroit St. Rita. Varsity game is set for 8:15 o'clock. Shamrocks are the favorites.

Jim Niebauer's North Siders have run into more than the usual close decisions, this year, after a very promising start. They have dropped tight contests to St. Frederick, Orchard Lake St. Mary and St. Benedict, all key tilts.

The club, a young one, has improved steadily, and should finish its league action tonight with a victory. Shamrocks now have a 3-6 mark. Their opponents have won a single game, stand 1-8.

★ ★ ★

Last night St. Freds controlled the boards all evening, permitting St. Benedict only one layup shot. Most Raven buckets were collected on corner shots and tosses beyond the foul circle. Tom Derocher, who also led Ram scoring, and husky Jim Kennedy accounted for 24 of the Rams' 36 defensive rebounds.

Rams held a 25-18 halftime margin, cooled off a little, in the 2nd half, when they were outscored 19-16, chiefly by the great play of little Eddie Everhart. Eddie, game's top point-maker with 19, kept the Ravens in contention during a 6-point final period spree. Joe Keller and Derocher set the final period pace for Rams with 7 points between them.

★ ★ ★

The game drew big and noisy bands of backers for both clubs.

When a brief dispute arose as the game ended, over a "short change" of a few seconds in time, the uproar was terrific. The air cleared quickly, however, without any untoward incidents.

Coach Wright had only a brief comment to make, one that carried a happy tone. Said Wright, "that was a very nice game to win. The team got together very well. I think they did a fine job."

Among the spectators were all members of the new SCL title-winning team, from Orchard Lake St. Mary. They are delighted with the result. And well they should, for the Rams' victory eliminated the possibility of a playoff. Eaglets are now set to meet St. Florian in the first round, Feb. 15, of the Catholic League all-around championship tourney.

The win closed both Rams and Ravens SCL seasons, leaving them sharing second place with 8-2 league records. St. Mary has a 9-1 mark.

Berkley Is Now County's Lone Unbeaten Team

Romeo Halts Rochester at 9; Skippers Get Beat by Farmington

While Pontiac Central and Rochester were meeting their Waterloo, Berkley continued as the lone unbeaten team in Oakland County by whipping Southfield, 59-39, to clinch the Inter-Lakes Conference title.

Rochester, with a 9-0 record, traveled to Romeo and came home with a 50-40 setback in a Tri-County League game.

In other Inter-Lakes contests, Farmington clobbered Waterford, 79-59 and Walled Lake tripped Van Dyke, 60-49.

Lapeer nipped L'Anse Creuse in the other Tri-County game, 65-64.

Rochester fell behind midway in the second period and never recovered as Jim Iack and Dave Waterson controlled the boards for Romeo.

★ ★ ★

Romeo led 28-19 at halftime and Rochester managed to get only within six points late in the game.

Black had 16 points and Reid Olszak got 14 for Romeo which now has an 8-3 record for the season. Chuck Ebersole's 12 led Rochester's attack.

Berkley poured in 20 points in the second quarter while holding Southfield to four in winning its 11th straight. The Bears were never in trouble after a 34-14 halftime lead and three players Dave Burris, Bob Ross and Dick Rose hit in double figures.

★ ★ ★

Burris had 22, Ross 14 and Rose 10. Burris also contributed 17 rebounds.

Waterford continued losing but the margin of defeat was greater. The Skippers had previously lost five games by a total margin of 9 points.

Tom Grimshaw scored 20 of his 22 points in the second to pace Farmington as Harvey Chapman added 15. Barry Campbell was Waterford's pace setter with 19, while Bruce Mahrle added 16 and Wendy Meyer 13.

★ ★ ★

Farmington led at halftime 43-23 and the Skippers were unable to pick up the deficit.

Walled Lake held a wide margin most of the way in beating Van Dyke, with Kirk Evans leading the Vikings with 22.

The Inter-Lakes race has been sewed up by Berkley, with Walled Lake, Southfield and Frmington all in a 4-3 deadlock for second place.

★ ★ ★

In the Tri-County race, Romeo's victory gives the Bulldogs a half game lead over Rochester with a 4-1 mark and one to play. Rochester is 3-1 with two games left.

Lapeer led most of the way in its game but it took a corner shot in the last six seconds by Gary Kalar to pull out the victory.

Butch McKillen led Lapeer with 23 while Skip Winwright had 18 for L'Anse.

Holly, Other Favorites Win in W-O Battles

All four favored teams won in the Wayne-Oakland League last night but each had much more trouble than was anticipated.

★ ★ ★

This was especially true of front-runners Brighton and Holly despite the fact they were playing teams tied for last place.

Brighton, down by two points early in the 3rd period, rallied to trip up Milford 62-53 while Holly was squeaking by surprising Bloomfield Hills 62-59 in a wild finish.

Clarkston, playing at home for the 1st time in a month, had to come from behind to down West Bloomfield 63-57. Clarenceville gave Northville plenty of trouble before succumbing 58-52.

★ ★ ★

Bloomfield Hills was not expected to be much of a match for high-riding Holly after being battered by weak Oak Park Tuesday but the Barons were "way up."

They were never ahead or even tied but came close to pulling it out with a 24-point last quarter-Big George McDaniel, who finished with 31, put it on ice for Holly with two free throws with the count 60-59 in the closing seconds.

John Dixon and Doug Danziger combined to lead that late surge and the Bloomfield scoring with 18 and 13. Holly is now 11-2 overall with nine straight wins but cannot gain in the loop unless Brighton bows.

★ ★ ★

Terry Anderson sparked Milford's bid for a major upset with 23 digits but Brighton showed better balance with Don Appleton garnering 21, Sean-Lavan 17 and Russ Hudson 12.

The game at Clarkston was a see-saw affair until Jay Campbell's field goal broke the 5th tie of the last quarter with 1:40 left on the clock. The Wolves held on the rest of the way.

Bob Porritt tallied 17, Dick Caverly 14 and Campbell 13 to pace Clarkston, John Lucadam hooped 19, Larry Hollister 14 and Barry Johnson 12 for the losers. Lucadam and Hollister were among three Lakers who fouled out in the final three minutes.

★ ★ ★

Northville had a 14-point advantage cut to three with 1:27 to play before wrapping up the verdict with three free throws. Bob Starnes hooped 20, Fred Schwarze 16 and Jeff Goodrich, who was sidelined for six games, 11. Tony Giernbazzi hit 19 in defeat.

Brighton at 7-0 maintains its half-game edge on Holly. Clarkston and Northville, title battlers in recent years, are now deadlocked for 3rd.

Lake Orion Trips Clawson Giving Coach 2nd Gift

Carlin Presented Son Earlier in Day; Troy Keeps Winning

By CHUCK ABAIR

It would have been hard to convince a stranger watching Avondale play for the 1st time last night that the Yellowjackets had won four straight games—over anyone.

Except for a three-minute spree in the opening quarter, the locals failed to show the spark they had displayed in recent games despite the fact sole possession of 2nd place and a chance to stay in contention for the Oakland B crown was hanging in the balance. The final score was Fitzgerald 62, Avondale 38.

Where things were sad in Auburn Heights, all was joy at Lake Orion where coach Hal Carlin received two big gifts—an eight-pound boy and a 70-57 triumph over Clawson. Troy won its 7th straight in the loop beating Madison 59-44.

A complete collapse of the defense in the 1st half was Avon's biggest downfall. Fitzgerald seemed to have one or two boys loose everytime it got the ball clicking continuously in close.

★ ★ ★

The visiting Spartans showed early they were out to do some scoring by racing to an 11-4 advantage. The Yellowjackets shook off their 1st surge with their best play of the night changing the scoreboard to read 11-10.

The 1st quarter ended 17-11 but Fitzgerald took charge thereafter moving in front 35-18 at halftime and 53-30 after three quarters. The winners' reserve unit tallied 21 of 27 last half points playing all the 4th period and part of the 3rd.

The Dragons of Lake Orion went all out for "Daddy" Carlin. They topped their previous game high by 10 as Jim Recknagel hit the team's best individual mark of the season with 25.

★ ★ ★

"Reck" swished 13 in the very 1st quarter as the home team poured in 27. Big sophomore Tom Reed got six in the hot session and wound up with 13 along with 28 rebounds. Newt Acton caged 19 for Clawson which lost the game on the backboards.

Troy was not pushed too hard in winning No. 10 for the season. Rod Harris had 15 and Don Harned 14 offsetting 15 by Madison ace Rick Moos.

The small audience at Pontiac Northern High's fine new swimming pool yesterday enjoyed a good team victory for the Huskies.

Coach Edwin Dauw's squad grabbed a 49-47 win over University High of Ann Arbor, with the one-two punch by Jim Tuttle and Tom Eley in the 100-yard freestyle the clincher.

Lions Find New Star

Pulling away after a close 1st half, South Lyon trounced Hartland 65-51 for its 9th triumph in 11 games last night.

Jim Sprague, who scored only six points for the season, got 18. Doug Kinne added 16 and Milan Obrenovich 15 for the Lions.

MSU Pucksters Trip Michigan for 11th Win

EAST LANSING (UPI)—Michigan State assured itself of its finest season since taking up hockey 37 years ago by whipping arch-rival Michigan 3-1 last night with three quick goals.

The Spartans, who face the Wolverines at Ann Arbor tonight, have five games left and now are 11-3-1 for the season. Last season was the first time an MSU ice team won 11 games but the Spartans lost the same number.

★ ★ ★

Compared to last year's game at MSU, last night's game was tame — only two players were thrown out. A fight broke out midway in the second period between MSU's Bob Armstrong and Michigan's Ed Matchka with both teams joining in but the officials settled it in a hurry by handing out five minute penalties to the two players and banishing them from the game.

Michigan avoided a shutout when Bob Watt's long shot deflected into the cage off Pollesel's stick.

Cranes-Detroit CC Tie in Hockey, 2-2

Cranbrook and Detroit Catholic Central played to a 2-2 tie in their hockey game yesterday at Cranbrook.

Rudy Seichter scored both goals for Catholic Central in the first and third periods.

Andy Billesdon with assist from Charley Hubbard got Cranbrook's in the first period and with 30 seconds to play Sam McArthur scored with an assist from Jon Plew.

Cranbrook is now 2-4-1 for the season and Catholic Central, 9-1-2.

Dondero Has 8 Wins

Royal Oak Dondero kept rolling along as an Oakland County power and a contender in the Border Cities with a 58-54 victory at Wyandotte last night. Dondero has an 8-2 record.

Oxford, Imlay Score Victories

Maples, East Detroit Win in EML

Ferndale's bid for the Eastern Michigan League title came to a temporary detour last night as East Detroit nosed out the Dales in an overtime thriller, 60-59.

Birmingham moved over the .500 mark, now 4-3 in the league, by waltzing past Hazel Park 50-36, and Port Huron stayed in a second-place deadlock with East Detroit, each having 5-2, by trouncing Royal Oak Kimball, 62-41.

In another area league, the South Central, Oxford rallied to beat Ortonville, 51-47, and Imlay City made it 40 straight in regular season play by downing Millington, 61-39.

Ferndale led E. Detroit at halftime, 30-20, but a big third period moved the Shamrocks into a 40-38 lead.

★ ★ ★

The 4th quarter see-sawed and Don Petroff made good on two free throws in last 31 seconds to end the regulation game at 55-55.

In the overtime, Ron Schult put E. Detroit ahead 57-55, but Toy Palmer tied it 57-57. Schult again made it 59-57 and Larry Tregoning made it 60-all.

Palmer then fouled Petroff and he made good on the first free throw with 28 seconds left. Ferndale still had four shots at the bucket but could not pull it out.

★ ★ ★

Birmingham's easy win was paced by Larry Kelly with 16 and Phil Isbell and Merv Gallup each with 10.

Mike Harris got 24 in a losing cause for Kimball while Jim Barr got 16 for Port Huron.

In the South Central League, Ortonville led until midway in the 4th quarter. But then Doug Stott, who had only five points in the first three periods, got warm and collected 15 in the last quarter to lead the Oxford triumph.

★ ★ ★

Stott finished with 20 while Jeff Brady added 18. Mead Meyers' 17 and Earl Richardson 16 were high for Ortonville.

Imlay City, ranked 2nd in Class C, led 38-12 at halftime. Jim Ward with 19, Ralph Clark with 11 and Gordon Hoeksema with 12 were the Imlay pace setters. Ned Lockwood had 10 for Millington, and Bill Sawyer, 14.

Imlay is now 10-0 for the season and 6-0 in the league.

New Haven Wins, Dryden Bows

Almont in First Again

Almont is back in the driver's seat in the Southern Thumb League once again.

New Haven and Anchor Bay have been trying hard to dislodge the perennial champions but now find themselves looking up at the Raiders again.

Almont took over sole possession of the top slot last night by whipping Armada 58-48 as New Haven was providing a big assist with a 37-35 victory over Anchor Bay. Memphis upset Dryden 53-43 in another loop encounter.

Jim Ostrander had 15 and Mickey Forsyth 13 to lead Almont. Ken Montgomery matched Ostrander's total for the losers.

★ ★ ★

The New Haven-Anchor Bay tilt was as close as the score indicates. Anchor Bay led by two at halftime and four up with time running out when Don Smith swished two fouls and Rog Acres hit two successive baskets to pull it out for New Haven—the 2nd one with 41 seconds left. Acres topped botoh teams with 15 followed by Nate Petty's 14.

Dryden rolled all through the 1st half but then went cold as Memphis started hitting from all over in the 3rd period. Barry Falter and John Barber canned 14 apiece and Pete Likens 13 to almost match Dryden. John Englert fired in 20 for DHS.

Glorious Past Crushed by Fines

Wings 'Burn' on Hot Spot

TORONTO (AP)—On a hot spot that really burns, the heavily fined and bawled out Detroit Red Wings face a crisis in their National Hockey League game with the Toronto Maple Leafs tonight.

If the last-place Leafs beat the Wings, it could very well be the lowest depth in public standing to which the Detroit club has ever fallen.

Over the years the Red Wings' history has been largely glorious. Yesterday's $100 fines slapped on 14 of the 18 squad members was therefore a horrible crusher to past pride.

Coach Sid Abel, indicating exhausted patience, handed out the fines to virtually the whole slump-ridden Red Wing cast yesterday after the "worst game I ever saw"—the 5-0 whipping from the New York Rangers Thursday night.

★ ★ ★

Afterwards the chastened Wings were tightlipped. No one talked much.

Some expressed reactions, however, suggested that the Wings would come back fighting.

★ ★ ★

Capt. Gordie Howe, the Wings' great star and 400-plus goal man in his career, was among the 14 who were fined.

"If it does the trick and gets us going, I'll pay another $100," said Gordie.

Charley Burns commented, "It looks like we needed something to help us."

★ ★ ★

Red Kelly, veteran defense man, was on the grim side.

"The way I feel I'm better off not saying anything," said Kelly.

General manager Jack Adams, unaware of the fines until after Abel had assessed them, backed up Sid to the hilt.

"Whatever Sid does has my full approval," Adams said.

★ ★ ★

The penalty crackdown, following one of Detroit's worst slumps in history, also was marked by a reported personal dressing-down of the Wings by owner-president Bruce Norris.

The Wings' seven-week slump has found them winners of four of 22 games.

For tonight's game the Wings will be without the services of two regulars, Nick Mickowski and Norm Ullman, because of injuries.

Ullman, one of the four who weren't fined, has a bruised left foot. He hurt it in practice last Tuesday. Mickowski has a dislocated left shoulder, suffered in the Ranger game.

Leads Phoenix Open

Littler Goes Par-Busting

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Par-busting Gene Littler was two strokes in front today as the $20,000 anything-can-happen Phoenix Open Golf Tournament moved into the third round.

Littler, four strokes off the pace yesterday, used a 7-under-par 63 to sweep into the lead and tie an Arizona Country Club course record.

★ ★ ★

The San Diego golfer, who has not taken first-place money since the Las Vegas, Nev., Tournament of Champions in April 1957, went on a par-breaking spree down the final nine holes with a 6-under-par 30.

Littler gave the credit to an unerring putter that counted for an eagle on the 10th hole and birdie putts ranging from seven to 20 feet.

Jerry Magee, Toronto, Canada, set the course record Thursday. Then along came Littler. The bogey eight was posted by Marty Furgol, LeMont, Ill., who was 6-under-par when it happened.

★ ★ ★

Bob Gajda of Forest Lake was 9 strokes behind the leader with 70-69—139.

A pair of 23-year-old novice tournament golfers — Jim McMullin, Fair Oaks, Calif., and Joe Campbell, Knoxville, Ten. — were tied for second at 132.

McMullin posted a 67 to go with an opening day 65. Campbell had 64-68.

Yardley-less Pistons Fall to Nats, 122-103

BOSTON (AP)—The Detroit Pistons toppled to their 11th defeat in 13 games in losing to the Syracuse Nationals in a National Basketball Assn. doubleheader last night 122-103.

★ ★ ★

Syracuse with Dolph Schayes and Larry Costello scoring 25 points each, broke a five-game losing streak with the victory. In the second game before 13,523 fans Boston beat St. Louis 122-95.

Crippled with injured George Yardley still out of action, the Pistons suffered further when Gene Shue, their third high scorer with 18 points, fouled out in the opening seconds of the fourth quarter.

That gave Syracuse its second chance for a scoring splurge. The Nats outdid Detroit 33-21 in the quarter. In the last five minutes of the first half Syracuse outscored Detroit 23-6. Before then, Detroit had held a lead.

Detroit tied the score at 58-58 at the 90 seconds mark of the third quarter on Phil Jordon's two free throws but that was the Pistons' last look-in. Hal Greer scored a close-range jump shot for Syracuse and the Nats stayed ahead all the rest of the way.

★ ★ ★

Joe Holup led the Pistons with 21 points while Walt Dukes got 19.

Boston scored 14 consecutive points in the first period after Frank Ramsey tightened its defense and the Celtics went on to crush arch rival St. Louis.

Bill Russell stood under the backboards and picked them clean. He also contributed 12 points.

★ ★ ★

At the half, Boston held a 53-34 bulge, the Hawks were wondering what was happening as Red Auerbach was proclaiming himself head mastermind since it was the second time this week that the high scoring Hawks failed to hit the 100 mark against the Celtics.

Count Tied Up to Last Event; PCH Wins Relay for 50-46 Victory

Battling neck-and-neck all the way to the last event, Friday afternoon, Pontiac Central High swimmers snatched a 50-46 victory from Flint Central, to give the Chiefs a 4-3 Saginaw Valley (6-3 overall) mark.

★ ★ ★

One pool and team record was set by Bruce Norvell, PCH's breaststroke star, who reduced the event figure (100-yard orthodox) to 1:06.8. Every event was a hot race, and it took a win in the 160-yard freestyle relay to effect the win.

★ ★ ★

Barry Horst was a double winner, in the 40 and 100-yard freestyle. Jerry Gavette's butterfly win in 1:06.5 was a fast performance, says Coach Gene Norris.

Summary:

40-yard freestyle — Horst (PCH); Shantz (FC); Phillips (FC). Time 20.7.

100-yard butterfly — Gavette (PCH); Goins (FC); Hoort (FC). Time 1:06.8.

100-yard breaststroke—Norvill (PCH); Bolden (FC); Doerr (PCH). Time 1:08.8. (Pool, team record).

100-yard freestyle — Horst (PCH); Heinrick (FC); Hoekman (PCH). Time 58.7.

Sale of Chisox Soon to Unfold

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago White Sox story is expected to unfold when attorneys for Mrs. Dorothy Comiskey Rigney said they will "give the complete story on what this thing is all about."

★ ★ ★

"This thing," is the merry-go-round which Dorothy, her brother, Chuck Comiskey, and lately Bill Veeck have been riding.

Chuck, who has initiated a number of suits against his sister since the 1956 death of their mother, Mrs. Grace Comiskey, yesterday asked Probate Court to get numerous documents pertaining to her handling of club stock.

One of the documents is an option Veeck reportedly holds until Feb. 18 to buy Dorothy's 54 per cent stock interest in the club. Only last Monday, Chuck petitioned in Probate Court to have this option declared null and void.

Dorothy has promised newsmen a look at the documents in question when she replies to Chuck's latest suit in a press conference today.

Final Cage Score, 3-0

ST. CHARLES, Ill. (AP)—Batavia High School shot .500 from the field last night and scored a 3-0 basketball shutout over St. Charles.

Dick Abhalter took the tip-off and scored the game's only basket on the first shot of the evening. From then until the final five seconds, Batavia did not get another change to shoot.

St. Charles took the ball after Abhalter's basket and held it until five seconds remained in the first period, shot and missed.

★ ★ ★

St .Charles took the second quarter tip-off held it until 10 seconds remained, shot and missed.

Batavia got the second half tip-off but lost the ball on a bad pass and St. Charles held it until the end of the quarter, shot and missed.

Batavia again controlled the fourth-quarter tip and with 1:40 left shot and missed, Abhalter was fouled and made the score 3-0 on a free throw.

★ ★ ★

Aside from Abhalter's opening basket, Batavia's only other shot was by Tom Harris with five seconds to play and he, too, missed.

Podoley Doubles as Capitol Cop

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Jim Podoley, former Central Michigan star, finds himself in a pair of new positions this year. Podoley recently joined the police force in the capitol, and come the football season he'll be switched from halfback to end.

Podoley, a member of the Washington Redskins, spent most of last season on the sidelines with a knee injury. He's since undergone an operation to remove torn cartilege.

High Speeds Seen at Daytona Track

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — High speeds are predicted for today's opening stock car time trials over the new Daytona International Speedway.

It will take about 143 miles an hour on two laps around the 2½-mile banked track to win the pole position in the Feb. 20 race for late model stock sedans. Tim Flock of Atlanta predicted. He will drive a 1959 Thunderbird.

Glenn Roberts of Daytona Beach said it will certainly have to be better than 140 miles an hour. He will drive a 1959 Pontiac.

Roberts wheeled a modified Ford around the speedway in the fastest practice lap of 146.77 miles an hour yesterday.

A's Want Look at Houtteman in Spring Training

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Art Houtteman, who had only a taste of big time baseball glory before misfortune struck him down, is getting another shot at the major leagues.

★ ★ ★

The Kansas City Athletics announced last night they will take a look at Houtteman in spring training. The A's purchased Houtteman conditionally from the Detroit Tigers' farm club at Charleston, W. Va., in the American Association.

Houtteman, a product of the Detroit sandlots, was a young, strong-armed pitcher in 1950 when the Tigers last made a serious bid for the American League pennant. That year he won 19 games.

★ ★ ★

The A's also announced they will take a look at National League castoff Russ Meyer, former Dodger and Philly pitcher.

January Leads Carabobo Open

VALENCIA, Venezuela (AP) — Don January, a tall sharpshooter from Denver, carried a six-stroke lead into the third round of the Carabobo Open Golf Tournament today.

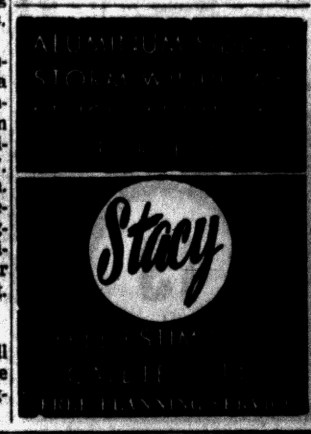

After starting with a torrid 8-under-par 64, January ran into high winds in yesterday's second round and finished with a one-under 71 for a 135 total.

★ ★ ★

Ernie Vossler of Midland, Tex., was the only other player in the field to break par in the second round. He had a 2-under-par 70 for a 141 total and second place.

Pete Cooper of Lakeland, Fla., Bob Toski of Miami and Joe Conrad of San Antonio, Tex., were tied for third with 145s.

Say Macmillan's Visit to Moscow to Test Nikita

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's trip to Moscow Feb. 21 will give Premier Nikita Khrushchev a chance to prove the sincerity of his talk about a "thaw" in the cold war, observers here said today.

They said Macmillan's visit, the first of its kind since 1942, will determine whether there is any value to Khrushchev's promises to reduce east-west conflict to an economic race.

The Prime Minister announced yesterday that he has decided to accept an invitation extended originally to Sir Anthony Eden, his predecessor in office. The British press in general approved his decision — with some big "buts."

The Daily Telegraph warned against "personal visits under duress," recalling the futile scurrying-about by Former Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain which helped to set up the Munich appeasement talks.

The Telegraph said Khrushchev's "positively insulting" announcement—just before Macmillan made his decision known—that he has invited President Eisenhower to Moscow "seems to show that it is only into Mr. Eisenhower's ear that he (Khrushchev) intends to whisper his true thoughts."

★ ★ ★

The Times, while generally favoring the idea of the visit, said Khrushchev's speech in Moscow yesterday "discouraged any easy belief that informal contacts, by some magic, can dissipate the bleak divisions which persist."

Macmillan will be the first British chief of government who has visited Moscow since Sir Winston Churchill went there in 1942. No U.S. chief executive ever has visited the Soviet capital.

In Moscow, British ambassador Sir Patrick Reilly said Macmillan's tour, although not yet fully laid out, probably will follow the traditional pattern—three or four days of conferences in Moscow, a quick swing around the provinces, then back to Moscow for more talks and a final Kremlin reception.

The visit is now scheduled to last a week, but Reilly said it might be extended to 10 days if Macmillan wanted to spend more time outside Moscow.

The ambassador said the subjects Macmillan will want to discuss probably will include Germany and European security. In addition, Reilly said, the Prime Minister probably would be willing to talk about the Middle East, Soviet-British trade and cultural relations if Khrushchev brings them up.

★ ★ ★

Macmillan presumably will be lodged in one of the government guest houses in or near Moscow and invited to a round of Kremlin lunches and dinners and a "command performance" at the Bolshoi Theater.

So far, the only word most Russians have had of the Macmillan visit was a one-line mention in a Moscow radio broadcast yesterday.

School Building Details Ready

Administration to Give Ideas on Program for Federal Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration plans to detail Monday what it wants in the way of a federal aid program for public school construction.

★ ★ ★

A somewhat similar program for college construction also may be announced.

There are indications the long-term proposals would cost about two billion dollars.

Senate sources have said the administration will propose two separate programs under which federal funds would help met debt service costs of long-range financing of new school and college construction. Both would be handled by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The college aid bill was described as being designed to provide about 400 million dollars worth of construction yearly—about equally divided between student housing and academic facilities.

The aid would be in the form of help in paying off bond and interest costs of financing new construction.

In contrast, the housing bill passed by the Senate Thursday would provide 300 million dollars for direct loans for college housing and 125 million for direct loans for classroom and academic facilities. Those programs would be administered by the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

★ ★ ★

The proposed school construction program reportedly would provide assistance about equal to that previously recommended by the administration, but also in the form of help in paying bond and interest cost instead of through grants or bond purchases as earlier proposed.

Use $150 Million Yearly to Calm Jittery Animals

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Some 150 million dollars is being spent annually for tranquilizers for excited or disturbed animals, the Oregon Veterinary Medical Assn. was told Friday.

Dr. E. C. Stone, dean of veterinary medicine at Washington State college, said the tranquilizers have been helpful in treating dogs that bite, bark too much or get car sick.

Sappho, the Greek goddess who was called "the greatest lyric poetess of all time," nevertheless wrote only one complete poem.

WHO IS RENFREW?

What Will They Do With His Little Red Cap?

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Jack Lelinho put on his little red cap and went out to play.

On other days, the 5-year-old boy would be in the house in late afternoon. But Thursday was an especially nice day, and his mother told him he could go outside for a few minutes.

★ ★ ★

Just stay near home, she told him. And don't forget your cap.

Jack stayed near the house with a few of his friends. As children do, they tugged and pushed at each other, and then someone grabbed a cap and tossed it toward the street. A new game was on.

★ ★ ★

Other caps followed. Soon Jack's little red cap landed in the street. His companions laughed as he scrambled for it.

★ ★ ★

The laughter was drowned out by the squeal of brakes and a sickening thump.

At the wheel of the car, his eyes fixed in horror, sat a neighbor, Herbert Lexa, 67.

A patrolman lowered a blanket over the child, covering also the little red cap that lay next to him.

Tells Nikita to Take His Own Advice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn) has suggested Soviet Premier Khrushchev take his own advice and stop calling Humphrey a peddler of fairy tales.

★ ★ ★

"My only suggestion is that Mr. Khrushchev recall one point in our conversation on which we agreed —that the cause of peace would be better served if we quit 'name calling' and concentrate instead on ways we might better work together toward a joint and lasting peace," Humphrey said in a statement Friday.

★ ★ ★

The senator spoke out after Khrushchev, in a Moscow speech, accused Humphrey of distorting several aspects of their talk at the Kremlin in November.

AFL-CIO Raps Ike's Labor Bill

Qualified OK Given to Senator Kennedy's Measure by Some

WASHINGTON (AP)—The AFL-CIO has sharply attacked the labor control bill of President Eisenhower.

★ ★ ★

At the same time, some union officials Friday approved the bill of Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass). But approval was qualified.

Kennedy, chairman of a Senate Labor subcommittee, said his group would consider both bills and any other labor control proposals behind closed doors Feb. 17.

At Friday's open hearing, two spokesmen for the AFL-CIO said the Eisenhower bill "shows clear signs of having been drafted for political purposes rather than as a genuine attempt to cope with that corruption in the ranks of labor and management exposed by the McClellan committee's investigations."

★ ★ ★

The spokesman, who issued a 70-page analysis with their statement, were Andrew J. Biemiller, legislative director of the AFL-CIO, and Arthur J. Goldberg, its special counsel.

Albert J. Hayes, international president of the Machinists Union, said Kennedy's bill had a better understanding of labor problems but had shortcomings.

Youth Kills Himself to Avoid Reprimand

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Tex. (AP) — Highway patrolmen stopped Truman Lester Alford, 15, Friday and found he had no driver's license.

Sheriff Paul Jones said the patrolmen took tht youth to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Alford of the Pickton community near here, for a talk.

The youth went into the house to get his parents, Jones said. A few minutes later a shot rang out. Patrolmen found the boy shot to death. A justice of the peace ruled suicide.

Child labor in the U.S. was at a peak in 1900 when 26 per cent of boys 10-15 years old and 10 per cent of girls of that age were employed in American industries.

Hollywood Headlines

How Did Teens Conquer Field of Popular Music?

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—How did teenagers take over the popular music field?

There can be no doubt that they did. The best-selling records are those favored by that age group called " 'Twixt Twelve and Twenty" by Pat Boone in his best-selling book. These twixters call the tune, and the adults grudgingly follow—or else divorce themselves from pop music.

★ ★ ★

This revolution in taste has taken place in the last two or three years. The Castro of the revolt was a side-burned guitar thumper named Elvis Presley.

But one man doesn't make an army, and Elvis had powerful allies.

★ ★ ★

Certainly the disc jockeys have had much to do with upsurge of the teenage music industry. These record spinners range from the Milkman's Matinee announcer of a 250-watter to Philadelphia's Dick Clark, high priest of pop music through his TV dance parties.

Observes a top record official: "Take a town like Los Angeles. There are 23 radio stations and at least five disc jockeys at each station. Each one is trying to make a name for himself, and so they're looking for records that are new and different. Quality makes no difference.

"The teenagers are like sheep: they'll follow whatever they hear. If they're exposed long enough to bad music, that's what they'll like."

★ ★ ★

Said another executive: "The kids clamor to have their favorite records played on the radio. Grownups don't make as much noise, so they have to listen to the so-called music that the teenagers request."

★ ★ ★

From the head of a big music store: "The easiest way to get a loyal audience is to play to the teenagers."

Al Jarvis is the Christopher Columbus of disc jockeys, having discovered the art form with his "Make Believe Ballroom" here in 1932.

He defends his fellow platter spinners.

"The jockey owes it to his employers to try to get the best rating possible. The way to get it is to play what the teenagers want to hear. They don't want 'Nearer My God to Thee' in E flat. They want rock 'n' roll.

★ ★ ★

"When will their tastes in music get better? When we make this a better world for them to live in."

Nationwide Dial Plan Set for New Yorkers

NEW YORK (AP) — Starting Sunday, almost a half-million New Yorkers will be able to dial long-distance telephone numbers.

The new service will enable users to dial station to station anywhere in the nation, the New York Telephone Co. said Friday.

Japan Won't Let Emperor Hirohito Go

TOKYO (AP) — Even if he wanted to, Emperor Hirohito can't give up his throne to devote the rest of his time to his studies of marine life or poetry.

★ ★ ★

That was he official word given Parliament Friday by two experts, Takeshi Usami, director of the imperial household agency, and Shuzo Hayashi, director of the legislative bureau of the Cabinet.

They were questioned concerning the possibility of the Emperor abdicating to ease his long "burden"—a subject which has cropped up recently following the engagement of Crown Prince Akihito.

No sir, they replied:

"The Emperor is the symbol of the entire nation as prescribed in Article 1 of the Constitution and his position is guaranteed by the collective will of the people.

★ ★ ★

"Furthermore, even if the Emperor wanted to, he cannot abdicate unless the nation willed it."

They didn't specify just how the nation could make it known it wanted Hirohito to step down.

There has been speculation that Hirohito, who will be 58 in April, might step down after serving more than 30 years as emperor in favor of his eldest son. The crown prince is marrying Miss Michiko Shoda, daughter of a wealthy business executive, in April.

New Advance in Vital Surgery

Technique for Cooling Brain, Heart Allows 1-Hour Blood Cutoff

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A brain cooling technique enabling surgeons to cut off the blood supply and operate inside the skull or on the heart for a full hour was described at a press conference by a surgeon.

★ ★ ★

The system, worked out on dogs by Dr. John E. Connolly of Stanford University, is almost ready for trial on humans, he reported.

Present techniques permit a surgeon to work while a patient's brain is bloodless for no more than eight minutes without irreparable damage.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Connolly told a press conference that his refrigeration technique, derived from Japanese research in the same field, involves supercooling of the brain while the body remains warmer.

★ ★ ★

By a method called hypothermia, heart surgeons sometimes cool the whole body by surrounding it with ice, reducing the normal temperature of 98.6 degrees to 82 degrees. This slows the metabolic rate (as in animal hiberation) and the heart can be stopped for surgery—but for eight minutes at most.

The body cannot be cooled further but the brain can, Dr. Connolly found.

★ ★ ★

He described a method of cutting the two carotid arteries which carry the blood to the brain, and running the blood through an ice-cooled coil before returning it to the arteries and thence into the brain. The brain temperature is thus reduced.

The blood supply to the brain of his experimental dogs then could be cut off completely for a full hour, he asserted, permitting elaborate brain or heart surgery.

Questions on Social Security

Tax in 1937 Was One Pct.

By RAY HENRY
Associated Press Writer

From S.E. of Cleveland, Ohio: "I have held a job covered by Social Security since Jan 1, 1937, when the system started. What was the Social Security tax then?"

From Jan. 1, 1937 to Jan. 1, 1950, the Social Security tax was one per cent of all earnings covered by the system up to $3,000 a year. In other words, if you earned $3,000 a year or more, you paid one per cent of $3,000 — that figures out to $30 a year—in Social Security tax. Your employer had to match this amount.

★ ★ ★

From B.B. of Sheldon, Iowa: "I've been working for the railroad as a telegrapher for nearly 36 years and plan to retire at 65 on my Railroad Retirement in a few months. A neighbor suggests that I start selling insurance after I retire. Will the income from selling insurance interfere with my Railroad Retirement annuity?"

No.

★ ★ ★

From Mrs. T.B.S. of Pittsburgh, Pa.: "I'm seriously thinking of going into the drive-in business this summer and want to know all the angles before I make the move. Where can I get information about my obligations as an employer so far as Social Security is concerned?"

The nearest Internal Revenue Service Office has a booklet which gives details on this.

★ ★ ★

From F.F. of Oklahoma City: "My wife died three months ago after working under Social Security since the beginning of World War II. She was 60. I had started drawing Social Security a year ago at 65. Am I eligible to any higher monthly payments because of her work?"

No, unless you were receiving at least one-half of your support from your wife at the time she died and you're eligible as a widower to higher payments based on your wife's Social Security record than you're now collecting on your own record.

★ ★ ★

From Mrs. G.L. of San Bernardino, Calif.: "I've been getting Social Security checks as a widow because I'm 63. I worked under Social Security for nearly eight years, but the payments I could get as a widow were higher than I could get because of my own work. If I should remarry and lose my widow's payments, could I start getting payments based on my own work?"

Yes.

★ ★ ★

From R.T.L. of Oakland, Calif.: "I've been disabled for nearly 18 months and have been getting Social Security disability payments. I'm told that if I recover from my disability, I'll have to repay all the money I've collected. Is this right?"

No. If you recover and go back to work or your disability improves so that you would be able to work, you'll lose your payments. But, you won't have to pay any money back.

"It was there the first of the month but when we made the 10-day check yesterday it was gone."

FAITH

A man and his test tube, a father and his son, doctor and his patient, political spell-binder, pilot and his plane are symbols of faith. The Scientist rearranged molecules and made fibers stronger than silk, the Father trained his son to value honor above material things, the Doctor alleviates pain, Public official justify the faith of his constituents and the Pilot brings his human cargo to a safe landing.

M. E. SIPLE

Faith, a sublime faith in ourselves and our capabilities is a cardinal virtue of men living in a free country. They have no limits. Faith has made air a favorite space to travel. Men dart along highways; have faith they can control the juggernaut under them. We turn a dial have faith that we will see a picture originating many miles away. Faith is a magic power.

Faith is a force that takes men to infinity.

TREASURE DISPLAY — This wall of brick in the dining room is the background for a number of treasured pieces. These range from accessories brought to Mrs. Johnstone from Sweden to early American antiques. On the pine mantel there's a Russian tea cozy, early American candle molds, a butter mold and a brass tea kettle. The light above the fireplace is a Pullman lamp. The shelf to the left is topped with slate and can be used to hold hot dishes from the wall oven just beyond.

IN BIRMINGHAM — The Richard T. Johnstones have lived in this brick and cedar shakes home on Southfield in Birmingham since May of 1957. Mr. Johnstone designed the house and Stanley Potocki of Dearborn built it. The Johnstones did all the painting, laying of tile and wiring. The Johnstones' lot is 80 feet wide and 370 feet deep, running down to the Rouge River at the back.

Johnstones Live Above River Rouge

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

We shan't soon forget the Richard Johnstone house. We were stuck for two hours in their driveway one very snowy Saturday when we went to see the house. But that is in the past and we're delighted to show you the Johnstone home.

Because the Johnstones wanted city conveniences like libraries and recreational facilities they decided to move from their Dearborn Township home. But they like country living too. Their new home is a compromise.

The Rouge River and its adjoining Parkway run through Birmingham, west of Southfield. The Johnstones found a lot 80x 370 feet deep, fronting on Southfield. In the rear it drops down to the Parkway. Mr. Johnstone's mother has built a new home on the front of the lot.

After Mr. Johnstone drew plans for the house, Stanley Potocki of Dearborn did the building. The Johnstones did a great deal of the finish work inside. She painted and he put in the low voltage wiring. Both of them cooperated on the tile floors. The children thought it a big picnic except when they were pressed into service as helpers.

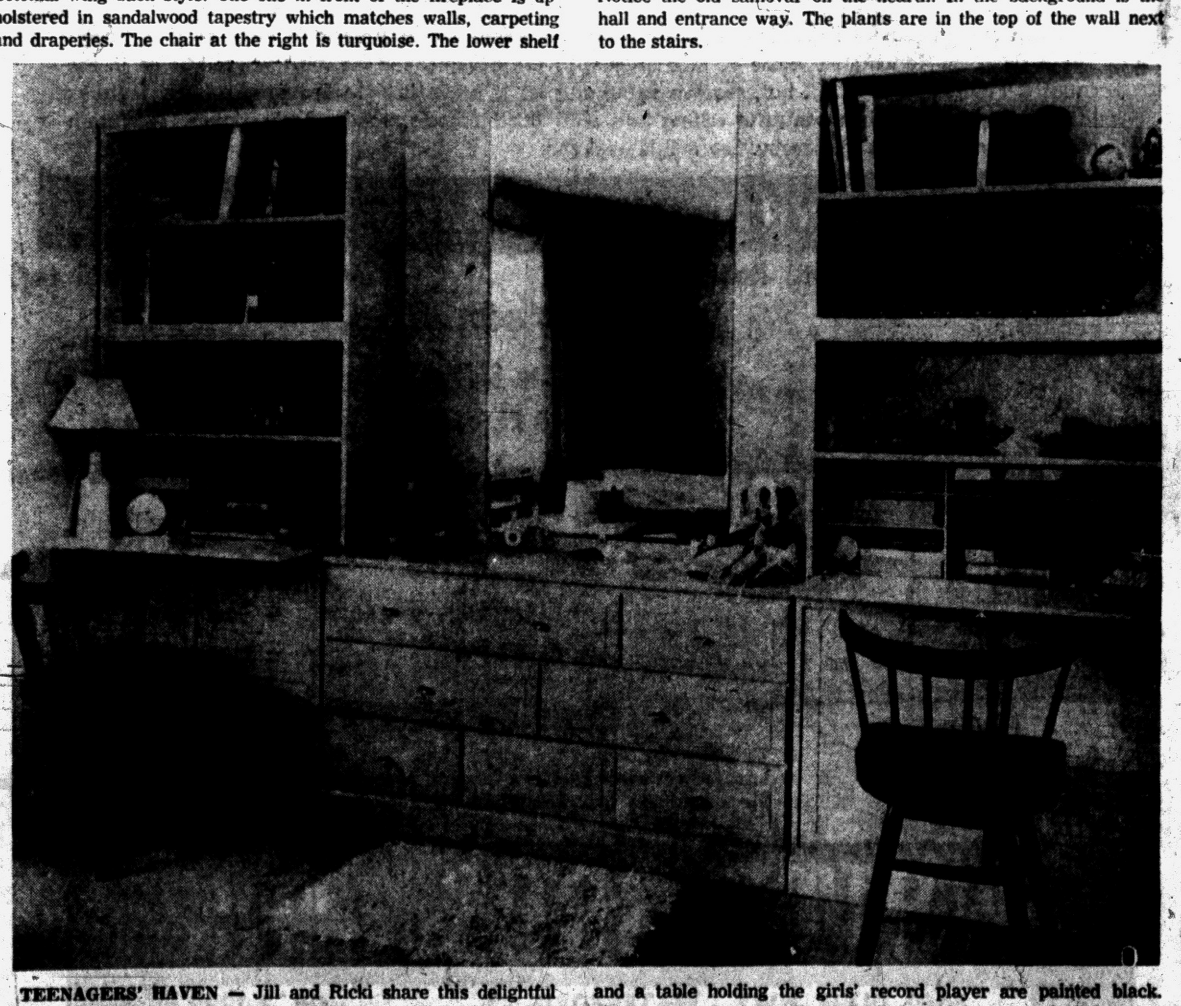

Said children range from seven to sixteen years. Ricki, the oldest is 16; her sister and close companion is fourteen-year-old Jill. The two younger children are boys; Greg is 11 and Tim is seven.

As you drive down into the Johnstone yard you see the double attached garage first of all. This is built of cedar shakes with turquoise doors. The house proper is built of reused brick with the same turquoise trim. At the

COLONIAL TOUCH — All the chairs in the living room are Colonial wing back style. The one in front of the fireplace is upholstered in sandalwood tapestry which matches walls, carpeting and draperies. The chair at the right is turquoise. The lower shelf of the bookcase is sandalwood while the upper ones are turquoise. Notice the old samovar on the hearth. In the background is the hall and entrance way. The plants are in the top of the wall next to the stairs.

TEENAGERS' HAVEN — Jill and Ricki share this delightful bedroom on the lower level of the house. One wall is devoted to storage and study space. Walls and those set-in units are aqua. At the windows there are crisp aqua taffeta curtains. The chairs and a table holding the girls' record player are painted black. Pools and Windows Get New Screens

A swimming pool cover that looks like a window screen yet is so light it can be put in place by one person is announced by Reeves Brothers, Inc., New York City. Called "Pooltex," the cover is woven of marlex polyethylene yarn. Rain water passes through it easily yet it screens out leaves, twigs and other debris. It's described as so tough that it can support the weight of three adults while in place.

Aluminum insect screens with a "built-in" light green color which reduces the sun's glare while sharpening the view to the outside, is offered by Continental Copper & Steel Industries, New York City. Called staralum alodized aluminum screening, the new product is said to have improved corrosion resistance due to a special chemical integration process which produces the green color as part of the metal itself.

STORAGE WALL

This bookcase is built into the wall next to the fireplace and forms a corner for reading. Underneath is storage behind louvered doors. The large Colonial wing back chair in this corner is upholstered in sandalwood brocade.

On the slate hearth stands an antique samovar. The mantel holds a Victorian clock. The fireplace itself is made of reused brick. There are openings on two sides, one in the living room, the other in the dining room.

The living room has two more wing back chairs and a wing back sofa. One of the chairs is turquoise, the other rosy rust. On the sofa the upholstery is a fruit and flower print in tangerine, turquoise and beige. Lamps are white.

A tall desk stands near the sofa. This is an antique, made of walnut. There is a deep drawer in the lower section with glass front cupboards above. Near the windows is an antique walnut chair covered with needlepoint.

The dining room and kitchen take up one complete end of the house. A door from the dining room opens into the garage. The dining room windows are large and occupy one whole end of the room. Outside is a simple wooden balcony.

There are no curtains on this large window section for the view is all-important. Mr. Johnstone has placed interesting pieces of colored glass on the window shelves. The small side window has white cafe curtains.

The brick wall of the fireplace is extended into the kitchen area with a shelf just beyond the mantel. The wall oven is mounted in the brick at the far end.

There are all sorts of interesting articles on and around the fireplace. There's a candle mold and a butter mold. There is a pair of bellows and a tea cozy made in Russia. Above the mantel is a light that once graced a railroad car. On one side of the hearth is a Boston rocker; on the other side is a huge copper kettle used in the past for making apple butter.

BASKETS DECORATE

The wall between dining room and kitchen is pine with an open shelf in the center. Above the opening a variety of baskets decorate the wall. There are small drawers on either side below.

The ceiling light above the mahogany table consists of a pair of Pullman lamps which Mr. Johnstone wired. On one wall is an old pine cupboard with a pie shelf. Mrs. Johnstone hunted and hunted to find old glass to put in the top doors.

Completely modern, the kitchen is a model of efficiency. Walls are blue around the pine cupboards. Formica counter tops are yellow; there is a large inset cutting board. The stove is in the counter next to the dining room. Above it is a copper hood made by Mr. Johnstone.

COFFEE GRINDER

The windows above the sink have only a white ruffle at the top. The Johnstones have an old-fashioned coffee grinder mounted on the cupboard next to the window. The cafe curtains Mrs. Johnstone tried to put up got in the way of the handle.

Next to the refrigerator is a small planning desk with a bulletin board above at one side and book shelves for cookbooks directly above.

The bathroom on the upper floor is sandalwood and blue, an unusual and pretty combination. Mrs. Johnstone found wallpaper in the same two colors. The sink is set into the corner with a good-sized cabinet above.

The master bedroom has bare oak flor. Walls are green. Draperies are gold. The furniture is cherry except for a comfortable lounge chair. Bedspread and ruffle are unglazed chintz with a cream background.

Halfway down the stairs, at the foot of a tall window, is a planter box. The stairs make a turn here and the wall on the stair side is papered in ship paper.

The lower level, except for the storage areas, belongs to the children. In the middle is a large recreation room. On each end there is a bedroom.

There is a third fireplace down here in this turquoise blue room. The floor is beige tile. Draperies match the walls. Two basket chairs, a low chest, a television set and a large sofa invite relaxing. Even Tac, the family cat, curls up down here.

EDUCATED CAT

Tac is an educated cat. He spent his kitten year in school as the first grade pet. Timmy brought him home last June to live with the family. Tac, in case you hadn't noticed, is "Cat" spelled backwards.

Ricki and Jill have the south room. Walls and taffeta curtains are deep aqua. One wall filled with "built-in" units is painted to match. Each girl has a desk with ample book shelf and storage space and four drawers in the dresser.

Chairs and the table holding the record player are painted black. The beds have cherry red spreads. Shag rugs are white.

The children have a two section bathroom down here with two showers. This is a blue and white room.

In the boys' room the wall behind the beds is brick. The other walls are deep turquoise. Curtains are tangerine and green on beige. Chests and the bookcase holding models are painted gold. The maple twin beds have gold spreads.

The illusion of country living in a city setting has been achieved by the Johnstones.

Mosaic Tiles Come Pasted Into Squares

The comment is sometimes heard, "Ceramic tile is beautiful, but isn't it expensive? Why, the man has to install all those little tiles piece by piece. It must take ages!"

Not at all—it takes just minutes! Ceramic mosaics, as small tiles are known, come pasted onto sheets of paper measuring one foot by two feet. The entire sheet is pasted into place paper-side up—sheet by sheet, not tile by tile. The paper comes off with a damp sponge.

There are other time-saving (and cost-saving) techniques involved in tilework. For instance, new cemen mortars developed by the Tile Council of America make it possible to obtain installations with just about one-half the muss and fuss formerly involved.

It's An Awful Lot of Water to Use

26 million gallons of water.

This is the staggering amount of water that one person in the United States uses from the day of birth until the day of his death.

The per capita consumption of water today is 145 gallons per person per day as compared with a per capita daily consumption of only 97 gallons at the turn of the century. Another significant fact is that the percentage of hot water is increasing faster than the overall percentage.

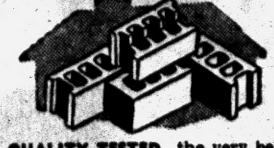

With more than 50 uses for hot water in the home, the demand for hot water has grown by leaps and bounds. Much of this demand is due to the requirements of automatic laundries, automatic dishwashers, and the greater frequency of baths.

Wood with hard wearing surfaces, like Southern Pine, are highly resistive to nicks and blemish. Moreover, the paneling doesn't stain and is quite immune to the probing of stickly little fingers.

How You Apply Calking Makes the Difference

There is no difference in the quality of the two grades of calking compound. The difference lies only in the manner of application. The calking gun sends the compound into the openings under pressure, thus filling the gaps easier and quicker.

Applying the compound with a putty knife requires more time and care to get a neat result, but if done carefully will prove satisfactory. If you have a lot of calking to do, the gun is preferable.

When waxing your floors, give a coat of wax to the feet of chairs and tables, also. It will help to prevent scratching.

NEW STORAGE CHEST — A cherry wood chest from the Sun Coast collection designed by MacDougall-Stewart for Drexel is deftly proportioned to solve both space and storage. There's an adjustable shelf behind the cane drop-front door, three sliding shirt trays in the lower cupboard. The base is cherry wood here, or may be brushed gold aluminum to match the hardware.

Don't Be Confused by Exterior Design

CHICAGO (UPI)—Early American design still is riding high on a wave of popularity, in accessories as well as furniture.

One furniture manufacturer has found a ready response for a keg set, less traditional than most, but still in the favor of the times.

The table consists of a 40-inch round oaken top attached to an iron-bound oak barrel 30-inches high. Stools are made of upholstered seats mounted on smaller kegs 18-inches high.

The set is finished in chestnut, dusty acorn, birch bark, light or dark antique.

Early American is at home with accessories of many periods, but hi-fi and radio cabinets are designed for persons who prefer to remain consistent.

The firm's newest products include a hi-fi set contained in a cabinet patterned after two gingerbread molds used in Pennsylvania 200 years ago. Sixteen-inch high hand painted figures of a man and woman are mounted on the two front panel doors.

The cabinet, 36-inches wide, 19 deep and 48 high, is produced in maple for about $500, and in hand rubbed mahogany and cherrywood for slightly more.

The same firm offers another hi-fi console copied from an Early American bonnet box. It is finished in Salem, cherry or mahogany, and sells for around $400.

A transistor radio, patterned after a teakettle, costs about $80. It can be operated by battery, or placed on a black wrought iron trivet which can be plugged into an electric connection. The kettle's hand rubbed cherrywood body is decorated with a brass spout, handle and back plate. Controls are reached by lifting the kettle's hinged top.

Keep That Lamp Out of Window

CHICAGO (UPI)—A light in the window is warm and friendly—but please, not centered on a spindly legged table placed squarely in the middle of a picture window.

Interior decorators fear that the ruffled lamp shade, centered in a picture window, may become a national symbol. Three — Ruth Mauerman, president of the American Institute of Decorators, and ADI members John Quinn and Claude d-Avray—insist there are other and better ways to show off a picture window to its best advantage, and offered a few suggestions:

If you haven't window draperies, get them. Cafe curtains are attractive, and assure privacy without claustrophobia, and are comparatively inexpensive.

If the full-dress treatment is preferred, use sheer undercurtains which can be drawn to give the illusion of privacy, and heavier over-curtains.

Planting troughs can be placed on the sill or, if the greens are high enough to be seen from the outside, on the floor below.

Locate the lamp to one side, aimed at the plants, or on the cornice so that the light can shine on the curtains as well as the plants below. Or use two pole lamps, one on either side of the window.

Picture windows were designed to permit the enjoyment of a view, these decorators said, and if you're not lucky enough to have a pretty view outside you must provide it inside.

Painters at White House Work the Year Around

Most painters—we refer to housepainters and not artists—take great pride in their handiwork, but Mr. Karitas is especially proud of his painting assignments. The house he paints is the showcase of the nation, and some of the rooms in which he wields his brush are visited by 10,000 people each day.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Karitas is chief painter at the White House and is one of a staff of five professional painters who work under J. B. West, head usher. According to Mr. West, "these very experienced craftsmen are continually painting. Their activities include those necessary touch-up jobs in the 132 rooms of the White House and the Executive Office Building next door."

The exterior of the White House —so familiair through pictures to millions of Americans who have never visited Washington—is kept gleaming white by regular painting every four years. The last time the famous building was painted was just before President Eisenhower's last inauguration, and the exterior will again be completely repainted before the inauguration of the next President.

★ ★ ★

Presidents are unable to change the exterior color scheme, nor the interior, except for those paint colors in the private suite.

The interior colors for the rooms that are opened to the public are decided by the Fine Arts Commission, and advisory body, and the wall hues are very carefully chosen pastels, off-whites, and other delicate neutral hues. These background colors are rarely changed as they were specifically designed to show to advantage the beauty of the furniture, draperies and carpeting.

An exception to this is the main dining room which was recently painted a pastel green. This large hall with lovely ornate mouldings was formerly a very masculine room decorated with big game trophies. Now, it is more subtly sophisticated with the soft green as background for the gold-colored draperies and chair upholstery. For formal dining, there is also gold flatware and service plates.

While Mrs. Eisenhower was able to choose new colors for the private quarters of herself and the President, she decided to renew the same colors as were there, as these correlated so magnificently with the fine furnishings.

★ ★ ★

Once each year the rooms usually open to the public are closed, and are given a complete fresh-up, under Mr. West's supervision. This includes sanding, and waxing. In addition, all the floors are waxed daily as the thousands of daily visitors walk on the wooden floors of the rooms, as well as on the marble of the main corridors.

Prepare Plywood Before Staining

Stain will not take too well over fir plywood without a special preparation. This is because of the variations of grain in this type of wood, which tends to "take" the stain unevenly.

Your hardware or paint dealer will sell you a sealer made especially for fir plywood. There are two kinds—so make sure you ask for the type used when the finish coat is to be clear, such as varnish.

After the sealer has dried thoroughly, apply a mahogany stain, wiping it off quickly if you want a light shade and letting it stand several minutes if you want a dark shade. It might be well to experiment on a piece of scrap fir plywood to determine how long to let the stain penetrate in order to get the desired color.

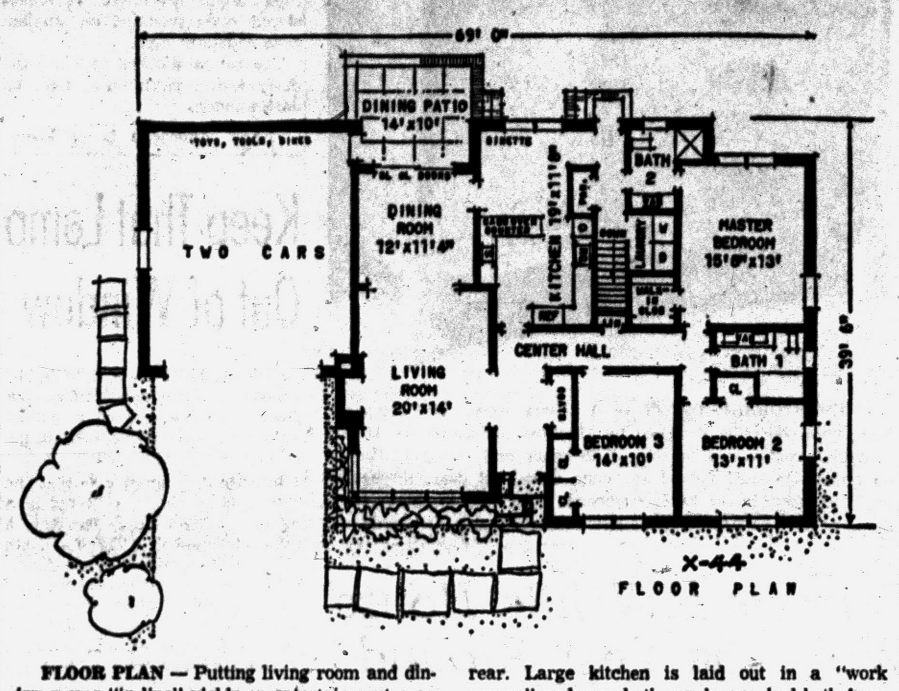

Varnish is perfectly satisfactory as a finish coat. But remember that some persons consider a high gloss too overpowering on walls. It might be better to use a flat varnish, which will provide an excellent wearing surface without the high gloss.

Nothing Is Ever New

Do-it-yourself projects aren't new in the U.S. The Dutch colony of New Amsterdam in 1612 boasted a building where each settler could make his own beer with his own ingredients.

BUILT TO LAST — This three-bedroom ranch, employing brick and stone on the outside and easy-to-maintain materials on the inside, will never wear out. Low maintenance cost and durability, plus its pleasing conservative lines, insure high resale value.

FLOOR PLAN — Putting living room and dining rooms "in line" yields an entertainment area stretching more than 31 feet from floor-to-ceiling windows at the front to sliding glass doors at the rear. Large kitchen is laid out in a "work square" and rear bath can be reached both from the service area and the master bedroom.

House of the Week Has High Resale Value

By DAVID L. BOWEN

Two important qualities in a house design are often ignored when a young family sets out to build a house.

One is ease of upkeep. A stately two-storied white wooden house with dramatic black window shutters looks like a dream in a full color magazine picture, but in real life it doesn't remain that way long. Wood must be repainted, in some areas as often as every four years. Then the picture-book dream turns into a bill payer's nightmare.

The other is resale value. A prospective home owner has a tendency to think only of his own tastes, assuming he'll live in one house forever. But a business transfer or some other reason may dictate a move.

The house that will sell the quickest and make the best return on the investment is the one which has shown the least amount of deterioration and is built in the most pleasing and proven architectural style.

These two factors — ease of upkeep and resale value — were given extra attention in the design of X-44 in the House of the Week series of distinguished homes.

Architect Lester Cohen used the ranch layout, because it is both the most practical style and the easiest to care for. The exterior is a combination of brick and stone — lovely to look at, radiating security, and very nearly everlasting. Metal windows are specified, so that little or no trim painting is necessary.

The roof is asphalt shingle which, depending on local climate, may last a generation. The over-all appearance is the sort that improves with age and never goes out of style.

Attention to durability also is a keynote inside. Architect Cohen calls for long lasting acoustical and ceramic tile on some of the ceilings, vinyl ceramic tile, plastic finish masonite and prefinished paneling on walls, and floors of oak, vinyl tile and ceramic tile.

Cost of some of these materials is higher than other alternatives, but in the long run the savings on redecoration and replacement will more than make up for the original investment.

LIVING AREA

The first delightful feature of the room arrangement is the large entrance foyer. Living and dining rooms are "in line," with a combined length of more than 31 feet. Floor-to-ceiling windows at the front corner of the living room strike a modern note, and the stone fireplace gives the room a warm, inviting look.

Sliding glass doors form a window wall between dining room and the outdoor patio, making this terrace a summer "room" almost as much a part of the indoors as it is the outdoors.

Three bedrooms offer well-isolated peace and quiet to the right of the central foyer. Bedroom No. 3 can double as a study. The master bedroom is at the rear of the house and has a big, walk-in closet.

The two bathroom units are placed for greatest utility, one convenient to the front bedrooms and in a good position to serve as a guest lavatory and the other for use either from the master bedroom or — through a second door — from the rear entrance hall.

Cheerful dinette space is available at the window end of the kitchen. Counters and sink are arranged to provide a "work square" free from interrupting traffic.

In addition to the dining patio or fair weather use, the basement provides year around informal entertainment space. It has a 32-foot recreation room with a refreshment bar alcove, plus a special hobby room.

The basement lavatory can be installed at little extra cost because it is cut into the plumbing stack which serves the family bath directly above it.

SPECIAL FEATURES

The rear hall is worth a second look. It includes a pantry closet placed to save steps when the groceries are brought in and a laundry "landing" making room for washer and dryer at the head of the stairs, saving trips down.

Seven big closets, access to the attic, and the full basement offer plenty of storage space. Room for bikes and garden equipment is provided in the oversized garage.

X-44 has over-all dimensions of 69' by 39' 6". Excluding patio and garage, the square foot area is 1,695. The garage contains 493 square feet.

Roof Compounds Differ in Type and Use

Fibered roof coating and fibered roof cement are both made from the same basic raw materials. Since their consistency differs, their uses are entirely different. Fibered roof cement which is the consistency of paste is a repair material. When a crack or seam break develops in a roof and causes a leak, plastic roof cement is applied to make a patch and repair the damage.

Fibered roof coating is a liquid and is used to prevent cracks, breaks and leaks in roofing. Its purpose is roof protection and it should be applied to roofs while they are still in good condition.

1959 Homes Will Cost Owners Under $20,000

Cost of homes may rise this year, but the estimated 4 per cent income hike of most prospective 1959 buyers will more than offset this and enable them to build bigger and better castles.

A study by Allied Chemical's Barrett Building Materials Division shows that one-tenth of prospective home buyers (they'll earn $10,000 or more this year) will spend $25,000 and up to build their homes during the next 12 months.

The big majority, however, will spend between $9,000 and $20,000 to purchase homes in 1959. This group, representing the income brackets of two-fifths of U.S. families, will earn between $5,000 and $10,000 before Uncle Sam takes his chunk.

Barrett bases its finding on the accepted theory that home buyers can pay up to two-and-a-half times their annual income to purchase homes.

These homes, however, must be big enough to accommodate the average growing family (now two adults and 2.5 children) and must be sturdy enough to withstand the rugged living of growing youngsters.

Builders will comply by designing homes with three and four bedrooms, and by using greater quantities of durable materials such as ceramic tile, fire-resistant asphalt shingles, rock wool insulation, asbestos-cement sidings, and fireproof gypsum board.

It's Time to Give Screens Attention

NEW YORK (UPI)—Winter is a good time to check and repair summer screens.

Aluminum, copper and brass screens do not rust in the usual sense, but they do corrode. The result, when it rains, can be an ugly downwash from the metal, staining woodwork below.

Special screen enamels give the wire a strong, rust-resistant coating. They are easily applied and will not clog the mesh.

Wotta Life—So Easy!

Now it's easier to get in and out of the garage. Alliance Manufacturing Co., Alliance, Ohio, has a device which automatically unlocks and opens, or closes and locks, any overhead garage door at the push of a button. At the same time the device will turn on or off the garage light. Won't start the car, though.

Cheaper and Bigger Is Industry's Aim

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP) — The average American home buyer wants a 3-bedroom house, but he can't afford to pay for it, says a Seattle lumber company executive.

Robert V. Blackstock told the Southwestern Lumberman's Assn. convention the lumber industry and home builders should combine forces to build better houses for less money.

Blackstock said it can be done through such technological advances as off-site construction pre-assembled window units and applied siding to save labor costs.

"We need to unite in research to give the customer more for his money," Blackstock said.

Whether you use a chemical remover or plain water, a simple and inexpensive way to soften wallpaper for removal is to apply the liquid with a large brush.

Plaster Dries Faster but Paint Must Wait

AP Newsfeatures

Veteran professional painters will remember the time when it was necessary to wait from six months to two years to begin the painting of plastered walls and ceilings.

Improved paints and plaster materials have cut this waiting period considerably. Yet trouble still lies ahead for the painter who ignores certain tell-tale signs indicating that the plaster either is not ready for painting or is in need of special preparatory treatment.

The large amounts of water used in making plaster must evaporate before any painting is done. Under normal conditions, when the temperature is not below 50 degrees and when the relative humidity is not high, plaster will dry in three to four weeks.

But plaster applied to an unfurred wall, brick, tile or similar structural material will take considerably longer to dry, since the solid wall prevents evaporation from the back of the plaster. In such cases, where there is any doubt about the condition of the plaster, a moisture meter is the best device to check the progress of the drying.

There are certain imperfections that might show up in one or two areas of a wall which otherwise has dried properly. One of these is known as a "sweat-out," the other as a "dry-out." In both events, soft areas are present, accompanied by dampness in the case of a "sweat-out," dryness in the case of a "dry-out." Their causes are opposite.

A "sweat-out" comes from excessive moisture and slow drying. A "dry-out" is due to the evaporation of the water in the plaster before the gypsum has crystallized. A mild "sweat-out" can be corrected with a coat of shellac or lacquer, which serves as a hardening agent. But when the condition is severe, there is no choice except to remove the affected area and replaster. A "dry-out" can be fixed by spraying the softened section with an alum and water solution, repeating the dose if necessary.

Sometimes a plastered wall will have a spotty appearance, with some areas seeming to be "dead." This condition, usually caused when the finish troweling was not uniform, will result in an uneven gloss and color in the paint. An oil-type primer-sealer will prepare the wall for painting.

If the plaster is uniformly dull, it should be examined for chalk which shows up as a white powder on the hand or a cloth rubbed over the wall. This can be removed by vigorous rubbing before painting. When tiny crystals or efflorescence are found, they should be brushed off repeatedly until no more form. Since these crystals do not form instantly, painting should be delayed after the brushing to be sure additional efflorescence does not occur.

When conditions are satisfactory, any standard interior wall finish can be used; i.e., a prime coat, followed by the decorative top coat. But if the drying has not been completed—and it is essential that the paint be applied without further waiting—latex paints are a good choice, having good adhesion to damp surfaces and being relatively immune to alkali.

A good way to do this is to apply one coat of the latex paint, which will take away the unfinished look of the plaster yet continue to allow water evaporation to take place. Then, at a later time, a second coat will add the necessary depth and durability.

SOME CHANGES MADE — This attractive spot once was just an ordinary breezeway between house and garage. The do-it-yourself owner walled the ends with windows, covered the old exterior siding of house and garage with a factory-grained hardboard, installed an acoustical ceiling and a resilient floor covering. Now his family has an extra room, nicely situated with a good view outdoors. There's even a breakfast nook! Vertical grooves of paneling beautifully punctuate the woodgrain pattern. The only finishing needed was a coat of clear shellac.

Weather Should Convince You

Man vs. snow.

It's an age-old battle but in recent years the odds have begun to favor man.

Thanks to research work at the University of Illinois it has been found that the house-heating boiler can be used to melt snow on the walks and driveways.

The system can be operated manually by a switch thrown as soon as the snow falls or it can be operated thermostatically to maintain the necessary temperature in the slab areas to melt snow and ice as required.

Relatively small systems, such as under sidewalks 100 to 150 feet long, usually cost from $2 to $3 per square foot to install, including materials and labor.

Average operating costs for a system designed to melt up to one inch of snow per hour run from 7 to 15 cents per hour per 1,000 square feet.

In considering the cost of a snow melting system it should be remembered that it will mean a saving in indoor floor maintenance as well as a saving in labor, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

The Bureau also calls attention to the fact that a fast and efficient snow removal system will minimize the possibility of falls due to ice and snow and will also prevent the hazards of heart attacks resulting from the manual shoveling of snow.

Hooking up the house heating boiler with a snow melting system and designing the system so that it will operate efficiently requires skill and experience. Heating and piping contractors are familiar with the installation of snow melting systems. They will be glad to offer estimates without charge.

Sealing Stops Bleeding

Refinishing furniture is a favorite hobby in U.S. homes since do-it-yourself came upon the scene. One problem confronting painters is "bleeding." To prevent the running in of one coat into another, seal the first coats. You may use a coat of shellac to do this or use a special paint sealer.

The square footage of the average new home has increased from 965 per home in 1954 to 1146 square feet in 1957.

HOME OWNERS QUESTION BOX

QUESTION: A couple of weeks ago, a key broke off in the lock of one of the interior doors in our house. We've had no success in dislodging it from the lock, no matter which method we've tried. It's one of those locks that is mortised right into the edge of the door, so we've avoided trying to get it out. What is your advice?

ANSWER: You'll just have to do what you don't want to do: Take the lock out of the door. By doing it carefully and not trying to make a rush job out of it, you will find it easier than you expect. The first thing is to take off the knobs and the shaft to which they are attached. Then take out the screws holding the lock in place.

Use an old screwdriver or similar tool to pry out the lock. Pry out the lock inch by inch until you can get a grip on it with your hands. After the lock is out of the door, work very carefully in unscrewing the lock to get out the key. This is the most important part of the job, since the parts inside a mortise lock are loose and may be difficult to restore to their original positions.

Thought of Rest Excites Unperturbable Perry

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — The Great Relaxer, Perry Como, got excited about something the other day: resting.

Perry, the only tycoon who goes to a shiny new Park Avenue office in slacks and sports shirt, had his chin in his hand as he sat at a glistening glass desk in the smartly decorated offices of his corporation, "Roncom."

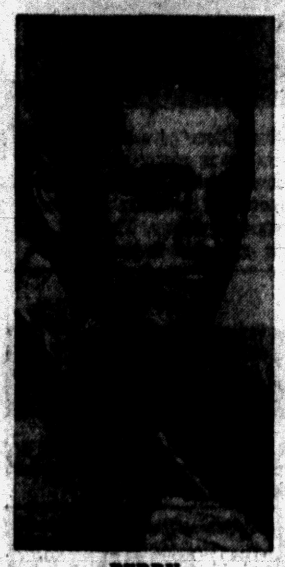

WILSON

"Wow!" I exclaimed, surveying the splendor of the new setup. "I used to interview you in that rehearsal hall over on 8th Avenue."

"That was better, too," he nodded. "This makes me feel too much like an executive."

Then we got to the resting part.

By taping a couple of shows, Perry's hoping to have a winter vacation. He's considered going to Palm Springs where he could golf with his buddy, Phil Harris.

PERRY

"Phil's reason enough to go anywhere," Perry said.

"I played golf there for about four or five years as Phil's guest at the club. I finally said, 'I better join this club.' Phil said, 'You don't have to join!' I said, 'I'd better join.' Phil said, 'So join already.'

"So I joined the club.

"So I haven't been there since."

One other subject stirred Perry up — his children's reaction to his visit with President Eisenhower.

"My daughter, Terry, who's 11, is a real naive character," he said. "She told Dave, who's 13, 'Daddy's going to get the Medal of Honor from President Ike.'

"Dave said, 'He can't do that! You have to do something for the Army.'

"Terry answered him back, 'Oh, yes you can! I saw it in the movie "Yankee Doodle Dandy." The actor who got it was George M. Kovacs!' "

Perry found Ike almost as relaxed as he is. Perry told Ike he was sure that he was to busy to talk to him about golf.

"Oh, I'm not too busy," the President answered.

"What's your handicap?" Perry then asked him . . .

"Enough," the President replied . . . "I saw one of his cards and his score was about 80. That's pretty . . . good . . . golf!" Perry emphasized.

★ ★ ★

"I never saw such organization as in the White House," Perry said. "I'd asked if I could have a picture . . .

"Suddenly the door flew open and it looked like 50,000 camermen shot in. Then the whole place lit up like a movie premiere. Then Jim Hagerty said 'All right, boys.' I looked around and the cameramen were all gone like they'd dropped through the floor.

"But it's kind of an eerie feeling. Somebody takes your coat and hat and you know it's a Secret Service man . . ."

"You're going to be 47 this year," I said to Perry as I was about to leave.

"Forty-six . . . no . . . you're right . . . 47!" he said. "I feel like I still got a few songs left in me." . . . That's earl, brother.

The Green Empress

(Copyright 1958) . . . by Elizabeth Cadell

CHAPTER XLVII

The last few miles. Lisbon ahead, and the Empress in good shape internally, but showing a few scars on her hitherto unblemished sides. A dent, a scratch or two, not too noticeable in any other vehicle, perhaps, but the last step in humiliation for a Green Empress.

But he had brought her in. He was a few hours early, but Lord Lorrimer would have to argue about that—if he could find time. For himself, he didn't care much any more. He had done his best to uphold Sir Claud's standards, and they were still flying.

They were tattered and even a little bloody, but here was the Green Empress on her way up the Avenida da Liberdade, with her most important passenger still aboard, and the others lost somewhere along the route. Lost . . . lost. Oh God, Angela.

Perhaps he was tired. There wasn't much more to do. Drive Lord Lorrimer to the Green Empress hotel and leave him there. Hand over his luggage. Two suitcases — out of thirty something. Try to say something, and then decide there wasn't anything much to say except something about Good Luck. He'd need it. They'd both need it.

And then there was the last duty; properly Ferdy's, but now his; to drive the Empress to her garage and hand her over.

Not as easy as it sounded, driving her into that vast place with three other Green Empresses looking on disdainfully. Who was this bedraggled sister? Well, a lick of paint and she'd be almost herself again.

★ ★ ★

The Green Empress was home. And for himself—what was the address? No, thank you, he didn't want a lift, he'd find his own way. Did he report here about the return journey, or to the office? To the office? Right.

He'd do that in a day or two . . . or three or four, when he'd had a bath, or eaten, or slept, or all three. Good-by. Sorry about the damage, explain later. Good-by.

He reached his quarters and was taken up to his room. His suitcase was brought up, but he scarcely saw it. He was looking at the wide, inviting bed.

He sat down, kicked off his shoes and lay back. He closed his eyes and let memory and misery flood over him. It was over. It was all over. She had been sweet, and generous, and he would love her as long as he lived, and remember her graciousness and her beauty.

But she didn't want him any more. He would never work out exactly how, but he had failed her and it was finished.

He ordered food, and it was brought, but when it was set down on the table in his room, he did not see it. Sleep had closed in on him; sleep, merciful and all-obscuring. Unhappiness, weariness, hopelessness were all submerged in the gentle waves of sleep. He sank slowly, deeply, deeply . . .

When he opened his eyes, it was to see Wax Sealing in a chair beside the bed.

He lay still, eyes half open, watching Wax watching him. Wax said nothing and did nothing to hasten his return to full consciousness. He merely got up, rang the bell and waited for a servant to answer it.

"Two breakfasts," he ordered.

Angus sat up with a jerk.

"Breakfasts?"

"Breakfasts."

"What the hell's the time?"

"Ten-thirty on the morning of Thursday the twenty-sixth of May," chanted Wax. "Good morning, children, everywhere."

"Where did you come from?" demanded Angus.

FLEW HIM OUT

"They flew me out."

There was a pause.

"I see," said Angus at last. "As a courier, I'm through?"

"As a courier, you've made Company history. But though some of us are grateful to you, Sir Claud feels that you're not quite cut out for the job. You've got—I quote him—certain peculiarities which the Company does not care to exploit."

"So I'm out?"

Wax looked shocked.

"We do not 'out' anybody."

"Well, am I still on the payroll or am I not?"

"You are. You'll get paid for the return journey, but—"

"—but I'll make my own way back, is that it?"

"If you'd let me finish a sentence, Angus old boy, instead of putting unkind thoughts into poor old Sir Claud's head, we'd get this settled in no time. You get paid for the return journey, and we take you back. All we ask, all we beg, in fact, is that you confine yourself to sitting in one of our Deep foam seats and enjoying the scenery. We don't ask you to perform the functions of a courier."

"That's what I said, I'm out."

"You're being taken home on the next available seat on the next available Empress, and in the meantime Sir Claud asks me to tell you—" Wax grinned—"that we have several quiet homes for tired couriers. You've got about two weeks to put in, and you needn't spend them in Lisbon unless you particularly want to."

MSU's Paper Claims Coeds Study for MRS.

EAST LANSING (UPI)—Too many coeds come to college just to get a husband, the Michigan State University student paper says.

"The MRS degree is sought, studied for and planned for more than many of the degrees that appear on the commencement program," an editorial in the State News said.

The paper surveyed 25 coeds and found 10 of them would drop out of school without finishing if the right proposal came along.

"Surely there must be a cheaper way," the editorial said.

The Wright Brothers made their first successful flight in an airplane at Kitty Hawk, N. C., in 1903. There is a monument to mark the event on that wide stretch of sand.

1 More Victim of Crash Found

Body of Boy Recovered From East River; 39 Still Missing

NEW YORK (UPI)—The body of a boy was recovered from the East River last night, leaving 39 of the victims of Tuesday's American Airlines Electra crash near Laguardia Airport still unaccounted for.

Police said there was no identification on the boy's body but he appeared to be eight to 10 years old. His body was found on a mud flat near the crash scene by salvage crews which have also located the sunken fuselage where many of the missing are believed to be trapped.

★ ★ ★

Attempts to raise the 50 per cent of the plane still submerged was hindered yesterday by high winds and swift currents, but the work will be resumed when weather permits. Some sections of the plane have washed up on the Long Island shore 30 miles from the crash scene.

The recovery of the boy's body brought to 26 the number of victims found. The crash of the turboprop plane as it came in for a landing in rain and fog killed 65 persons. Eight survived, but four of them still are in critical condition.

★ ★ ★

Flushing hospital authorities reported that survivor Bobby Sullivan, 8, of Hempstead, N.Y., is well enough to be told the truth about the fate of his father, mother and two sisters, all victims of the crash. He will be told today by his three uncles, one of whom will take him to Chicago later to live with his grandmother.

Joseph Fluet, chief Civil Aeronautics Board investigator, appealed yesterday to possible witnesses of the tragedy to come forward. Fluet said his 51-man investigating team may take four weeks to complete its study of the causes of the crash.

Legislature Suggests Ponds for Storage

Seek Solution to State Farm Water Problem

United Press International

LANSING—Michigan agriculture is facing a water problem and must soon meet the situation with acts. Minds are at work trying to decide what these acts might be.

The Michigan Legislature has before it a proposal to invest $100,000 in a study to look into all phases of the state's water problems. Among these problems are major questions affecting farmers.

Even before such a study is investigated, a legislative committee studying water resources has suggested a law "to authorize creation of farm ponds, fed by diversion from streams and lakes at high water periods in the year, for use in agricultural irrigation and for livestock during the dry seasons."

Such a move has been considered for some time. L. G. Monk, with the drain division of the State Agriculture Department, and Norman F. Billings, chief of the Water Resources Commission hydrology division, both agreed something like this may come soon.

Billings said the ponds would be mainly for irrigation and that such ponds were used primarily in mid-central states but there would be a problem of retaining water in many Michigan areas. He said sandy soils would not keep the water and there might be large construction costs to make proper ponds.

★ ★ ★

"I feel the pond method is the only real potential for irrigation in Michigan," Billings said, "because there just aren't enough streams with high summer flow to handle the job."

Monk said the steps toward doing something about the problems were in the "embryonic stage" and that some areas of the state were hindered by lack of water.

The legislative committee spent the summer interviewing people concerned with water. The group was composed of Sens. Edward Hutchinson (R-Fennville), chairman, Lloyd Stephens R-Scottville), Garland Lane (D-Detroit), Reps. Holly Hubbell (R-Saginaw), George Dunn (R-Pigeon) and Paul Parker (D-Flint).

"When an agriculturalist invests many thousands of dollars in an irrigation system," said the committee, "he reasonably expects that he should be assured a quantity of water at least over a long enough period of time to permit him to amortize or depreciate his investment."

"We have voluminous runoffs in the spring of each year," the report said. "In dry summers and falls our lakes and rivers suffer extremely low flows and low levels."

★ ★ ★

"There is considerable urging that legislation be enacted to permit even non-riparian farmers in particular areas to build reservoirs sufficient for their own uses," it said, "and in the spring of the year be allowed to divert out of the rivers and streams a certain quantity of water and then utilize the water so impounded during dry periods of the year for irrigation uses.

The report indicated there were "certain inherent rights" established in a drainage district which are to have land drained and if dams were permitted some periods of the year for diverting the water, "such damming presumably would have an effect on the ability of the county drain to drain the lands."

"Agricultural interests in the state," the report concluded, "unite in recommending that any such study (of the overall water problems) make use of a citizens advisory committee representative of all interested groups."

New Car Sales Top Jan. '58 by 48,000

DETROIT (AP) — Ward's Automotive Reports say that new car sales in January numbered 428,000 units compared with 380,000 in the same 1958 month.

The statistical agency indicated deliveries would have been higher but for freezing weather in many high-volume Mdwest sales areas.

This week's production is placed at 117,030 cars compared with last week's 119,078 and 109,028 in the like 1958 week. Truck output this week is set at 25,142 units against 21,938 last week and 19,481 in the like 1958 week.

Ward's noted that Chrysler output still was restricted by a glass shortage due to a supplier company strike. It added that all General Motors plants were on five-day schedules this week.

More Than 2,000 Join National Celebration

Pontiac Boy Scouts to Observe Week

More than 2,000 Pontiac Boy Scouts are joining scouts throughout the United States in observing Boy Scout Week which begins today and runs through next Friday.

Boy Scouts, in marking the 49th anniversary of the organization in America, have arranged programs involving parents of Scouts, institutions sponsoring the units, and officials of numerous communities.

In the Clinton Valley Council, to which the Pontiac district belongs, there are more than 12,895 boys and leaders engaged in scouting.

"Boy Scout Week activities," says John W. Hunt of Farmington, president of the Clinton Valley Council, "will show each community the value of scouting as a program for boys and young men."

★ ★ ★

The final year of the four-year program, "Onward for God and My Country," is launched during this anniversary, Hunt said.

"We will honor 112 of our 224 units in the Council who have successfully carried out activities in each of the three phases of our National Safety Good Turn of last year. These covered traffic, outdoor and home safety."

Boy Scout Sunday tomorrow will be observed in many churches with scouts and leaders attending services in uniform. Scouts of the Jewish faith held observances in synagogues and temples last night and today.

★ ★ ★

Being stressed this year is the "Scout is friendly" part of the Scout law each member takes. There will be parent night meetings, unit reunions, dinners recognizing new Eagle Scouts, exhibits of Scout handicraft, observances in school assemblies, courts of honor at which scouts will be honored for their accomplishments, and visits by Scouts to industrial plants and military installations.

★ ★ ★

In an official proclamation yesterday, Mayor Philip E. Rowston, himself a former Scout, proclaimed Boy Scout Week in Pontiac and urged citizens "to support the unselfish patriotic service being rendered to our community by the volunteer leaders, who gave generously of their time, their efforts and their energy to the benefit of the youth of our city."

All scout units in the city are participating in service activities as part of their observance of Boy Scout Week.

Auto Makers Eye Refinements

Internal Combustion Unit Far From Peak Efficiency

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT—The present internal combustion engine still is far from its maximum efficiency.

Engine designers tell you this when they discuss the prospects of some other type of power plant replacing the piston engine in the conventional automobile.

★ ★ ★

They point to steady refinement of the piston engine over the last couple of decades and say much yet will be done before it reaches its top performance.

Generally automotive engine efficiency is measured in fuel economy as well as smoothness of operation. Of course, the two go together; a rough engine invariably wastes fuel.

Even the proponents of gas turbine engines, currently under test by most car makers, agree the future of the newer units depends largely upon what further refinements may be made in today's conventional car power-plant.

A piston type, all-aluminum engine appears to be in more immediate prospect than does the gas turbine unit at this time. General Motors reported last year it had successfully developed an all-aluminum internal combustion engine.

So far it has announced no plans to put it into production, but the rumor persists that when General Motors, Ford and Chrysler produce their smaller, lighter cars the GM vehicle will have an aluminum engine installed in the rear.

Other engine research under way has to do with a standard type, cast iron engine also designed for installation immediately above the rear axle. This is aimed at eliminating the floor-board hump that covers the propeller shaft—and makes riding uncomfortable for the passenger who sits in the center of front or rear seat.

★ ★ ★

A reduction in over-all weight is one of the short cuts to improved fuel economy. That is a major reason for the automakers' steadily growing interest in aluminum.

But it isn't always built-in weight that adds to fuel consumption. For those motorists who have to drive in areas harassed by heavy accumulations of snow, E. J. Krause, Buick Division's general service manager, has some timely advice.

He says many drivers are wasting gasoline by carrying from 200 to 250 pounds of accumulated snow and ice on their cars.

★ ★ ★

"We even weighed one car that was loaded down with an extra 750 pounds," he said. "Icy slush was packed into all four wheel wells and heavy snow covered the roof, hood and rear deck lid."

He said that besides reducing gas mileage the extra weight puts an unwarranted strain on the suspension system. He recommended regular washings to keep the car free of the extra weight and also to prevent corrosive damage to the undersides of fenders.

For those motorists who have to contend with opposite temperature extremes, the industry's researchers are continuing their search for lower priced air conditioning systems. But they are not yet ready to predict when these will be available.

FIRST 49-STAR FLAG? — In keeping with a long standing practice of his architectural firm, C. Henry Haberkorn, general manager of H. E. Beyster & Associates, Inc., donates a new flag to the student body of the new Holly High School which his company designed. The flag could be the first with 49 stars in Michigan. Haberkorn had promised a real flag to the Holly students but delivery problems interfered with this plan. Instead he had his artists design a paper flag to be used during the ceremony in lieu of the real thing. Buel Starr, president of the Holly school board, accepts the flag on behalf of the student body.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF THOMAS William Brown, who passed away 1 year ago today February 7th.
There is a wife and family that miss you,
And find the time long since you went;
We think of you daily and hourly,
As we try to be brave and content.
But the tears we shed in silence,
As we breathe a sigh of regret;
For you were ours and we remember,
Though all the world forgets.

2 Boys Die in Fire as Family Sleeps

PORT HURON (AP)—A midafternoon fire trapped a sleeping family yesterday, taking the lives of the two small sons.

Ray Smith, 4, and his brother, Michael, 3, perished. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin L. Smith, suffered serious burns and were hospitalized.

The fire destroyed the Smith frame home in Riley Center, a community 30 miles southwest of here.

drivers would become independent said all four members of the family were asleep. Smith is a night worker in a Detroit auto plant.

The home burned to the ground in 15-degree weather.

Recording of Transport Kill Surprises Soviets

U.S. 'Bugging' Red Air Operations

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Russians now know how well the West's electronic ears and eyes can follow their jet plane operations right into their ground control centers along the iron curtain.

They learned from the State Department's "absolutely authentic" tape recorded evidence that Soviet planes shot down an unarmed U.S. transport over Russian Armenia last September.

★ ★ ★

The extent of electronic surveillance of the Reds is secret. But the Soviets are forced to assume that it is far-flung. They now have convincing evidence that it is effective.

If the United States gets no further satisfaction from the Russians in the shooting incident, officials consider they have dramatically exposed as a lie Soviet claims that Red pilots did not down the U.S. Air Force C130.

There were 17 men aboard. Six bodies were recovered bu the Russians never have accounted for the other eleven.

★ ★ ★

The State Department would not say how it came by its recording. But evidence of effective electronic monitoring was figuratively written all over the documents made public Thursday.

Whoever did the monitoring, possibly in Turkey knew the frequency on which Red ground stations transmitted voice communications to jet fighter pilots.

The translated intercepts of Russian pilots' radio conversations, the department said, gave a running account of the shooting down of what the recorded Russian voices called a four-engine transport.

★ ★ ★

The Air Force turbo-prop plane was downed last Sept. 2 on an intended flight from Adana, in southern Turkey, to Trabzon on the Black Sea and back to Adana via Van Turkey, near the Iranian border.

It went down near Mt. Alagoz, well to the east of Trabzon and about 21 miles inside Armenia. The United States said it accidentally wandered off course.

The Russians said it crashed in flames, but denied attacking the craft.

The plane, a high-speed transport used chiefly to move ground troops and heavy equipment, was marked with "U.S. Air Force" on its nose, "U.S.A.F." on its wings and the Air Force star on its rear fuselage.

The only severe weather forecast for its flight was in the Trabzon area where rain, lightning and scattered clouds were expected.

It could have got off course by accidentally picking up the Russian radio beacon at Batumi, in Soviet Georgia, or Yerevan, in Armenia, instead of apparently less powerful navigation aids at Turkish check points.

★ ★ ★

Normal international custom in such instances is to intercept an announced border crosser and instruct him to land his plane.

Along the iron curtain in Europe, Russian and Western fighter pilots are said to have a nodding acquaintance and often escort each other back to their own frontiers when they accidentally cross.

The American C130 was "participating in an Air Force worldwide study of radio waves propagation" (radio reception) on its ill-fated flight.

The Air Force says such flights are made routinely throughout the world to check communications.

In his book "Air Power," the British writer and former intelligence officer Asher Lee said in 1955 that Soviet radar and radio "is a main key to the world strategic air situation" and must be closely watched by allied intelligence.

★ ★ ★

"There must be maps of Soviet radar positions or suspected positions (and) special reconnaissance and search aircraft equipped with listening receivers must be available . . ." he said.

Adult Ed Courses to Begin at Avondale

AVON TOWNSHIP — Adult education classes will begin Monday at Avondale Senior High School, Claude J. Wiseman, director, announced today.

Registration will be at 7 p.m. the same evening in room 106 of the high school. Each class will meet for one two-hour session each week for 10 weeks.

Classes being offered this year are shorthand, bookkeeping, beginning and advanced typewriting, beginning and advanced cake decorating, Spanish and driver training.

If enough persons are interested in a particular course not offered, an attempt will be made to include that course in the program, Wiseman said.

Each class must have at least 12 persons or it will not be continued, he added.

Add 6 to Executive Board

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP—Six men have been added to the executive board of the West Bloomfield Township branch of the Boys Club of America. They are James Sisk, Art Holmes, Chester Hunt, Norman Harnech, Oren Rogers and Ebb Smith.

Defends Ike on Charge of Art Cheating

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower's ability as an artist has been defended on the floor of the Senate.

GOP policy leader Styles Bridges (NH) charged that syndicated columnists Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson "hit below the belt" in maintaining recently that the President painted over sketches drawn by a professional artist.

The Senator told the Senate yesterday that the claim was contained in a Pearson-Andereson book describing this country as "a second class power." Bridges said he didn't like this reference either.

But he voiced particular concern at what he called "unsupported allegations that someone else does the sketching for the President's paintings." He said no "fair-minded person should begrudge the President his relaxation."

Files $750,000 Suit in Bradley Sinking

DETROIT (AP)—A third $750,000 damage suit stemming from the sinking of the Great Lakes freighter, Carl D. Bradley, has been brought.

★ ★ ★

The suit was filed in U.S. District Court yesterday by Mrs. Frances A. Budnick of Rogers City whose husband, Alva, a watchman, was one of the 33 crewmen who perished when the Bradley sank in a Nov. 18 Lake Michigan storm. Only two crewmen survived.

★ ★ ★

The suit, like its two predecessors, charges negligence on the part of the Bradley's owners, the Bradley Transportation Division of U. S. Steel Corp.

American Held in Cuba Seeks Help of Embassy

HAVANA (UPI)—Former U. S. Navy pilot Alan Robert Nye turned to the U. S. Embassy today for help in disproving charges he was a hired gunman brought in to kill Fidel Castro for $100,000.

★ ★ ★

Nye, of Whiting, Ind., and Coral Gables, Fla., denied Cuban newspaper reports that he had confessed to trying to kill Castro for former Dictator Fulgencio Batista.

The U. S. Embassy said Nye asked American Vice Consul Hugh Kessler to arrange an interview with Cuban foreign minister Robero Agramonte so he could prove his innocence.

Nye previously had refused Embassy help in protecting his interests.

(In Chicago, Nye's mother, Mrs. Daniel Lynch, 50, of Whiting, announced she had written a letter to Castro saying her son was too "honest, kind and thoughtful" to agree to assassinate the Cuban revolutionary leader.

(She said Nye's ancestors fought and died in the Spanish-American War for Cuba's freedom and that her son was a man of "character without blemish.")

Miss Davies in Hospital

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—Former film star Marion Davies was reported in satisfactory condition today at Huntington Memorial Hospital. Hospital spokesmen would not say why she was hospitalized. Miss Davies recently had a tooth extracted and entered the hospital a week ago.

Search Irish Coast for Crew of Ship

VALENTIA, Ireland (UPI)—The French trawler Marie Brigitte sank off the Irish coast early today and rescue vessels launched a search for its 13-man crew.

The 80-ton trawler radioed that her crew was abandoning ship, about three miles from here, off the southwest tip of Ireland.

The cause of the sinking could not immediately be determined.

Lifeboats were launched to hunt for the ship's dinghy. Two other French trawlers, the Avela Benn and Teccafin, radioed from 40 miles away they were proceeding to the scene. An unidentified British freighter also was reported standing by.

Farm Surplus Fund a Record in January

WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal government had more money invested in farm surpluses during January than it ever had before.

The exact total will not be known until final figures are tabulated at the end of this month. But the Agriculture Department Friday reported the investment had topped nine billion dollars.

The record month under the price support program had been February 1956, when $8,900,000,000 was invested.

'Flying Dentist' Makes His Last Flight to Work

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — The "flying dentist" will fly no more.

Almost every day for the past 12 years, Dr. Vernon H. Langdon, 36, had flown the 45 miles from his San Jose home to work in San Leandro and back.

Yesterday morning he was coming in for his usual landing at the airport here when he suddenly veered off course and struck a concrete reservoir tank. He was killed instantly.
