Claims Training Waiver Sought for Pvt. Schine

Stevens Makes Charge in Reply to True-False Queries by Jackson

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Army Stevens testified today that Sen. McCarthy's aides wanted basic army training waived for their drafted colleague, Pvt. David Schine, and Schine assigned to New York.

"Of course I couldn't agree to that," Stevens said. For the fifth day, Stevens was in the witness chair before the Senate Investigations subcommittee at televised hearings on the row between McCarthy and high Army officials.

His statement was in response to questions from Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) who took up again the series of "true or false" queries he began putting to Stevens yesterday.

Responding to them, Stevens tabbed as "false" the central charges made against him by McCarthy and the senator's aides.

Jackson had told reporters his aim is to establish "a clear-cut case" for perjury charges if there were continued flat contradictions in the hearings.

"I am trying to resolve the confusion about this controversy by asking questions for yes-or-no answers tagged directly to the federal perjury statute," he said.

As before, this fifth day of the hearings brought a wall-to-wall crowd to the Senate Office Building's biggest hearing room.

While it was the fifth day for Stevens to testify, he has yielded the witness chair several times.

Roy Cohn, chief counsel for McCarthy and also a principal in the dispute, held it for a time yesterday to testify about a "cropped" picture of Stevens and Schine.

The picture, supplied by the McCarthy camp, showed Stevens and Schine alone. The Army denounced it as a "shameful trick," contending.

FHA Probers Call Ex-Officials Former Legal Experts to Explain Their Side to Scandal Quizzers

WASHINGTON (INS)—Senate investigators called the two former top legal experts of the Federal Housing Administration today for an explanation of charges that FHA "torpedoed" prosecution of builders who filed "false" statements with the agency.

The Senate Banking Committee summoned suspended General Counsel Burton C. Bova and his resigned assistant, Howard Murphy, and former deputy FHA Commissioner Walter L. Greene for their side in the probe of the half billion dollar FHA scandals.

Meanwhile, there were these other developments: Sen. Harry F. Byrd named Clyde L. Powell, who has been in charge of the FHA's scandal-ridden apartment program, as the key official under investigation for alleged grafting.

Byrd, chairman of the Joint Committee on Reduction of Non-Essential Federal Spending, called for immediate action "to bring to justice any who may be criminally liable" in the apartment scandal which has raised rents to tenants living in the projects.

Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) stepped into the housing picture with a new investigation to determine whether builders have picked up excessive profits on military housing.

Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) said he wants legislation to restrict FHA loans for home improvement work. His aim is to rid the program of racketeers and swindlers who have bilked homeowners of millions of dollars on shoddy repair work at exorbitant prices.

Driver Gets Stings on Face, Pits on Glass

A Walled Lake salesman said he was "stung" on the face and heard ticking sounds yesterday when some 30 pit marks suddenly appeared on his car's windshield.

Douglas M. Galbraith, 32, of 3411 Oakleaf, told the Pontiac Police he was approaching a traffic light at East Blvd. and Mt. Clemens St. about 2 p. m. at slow speed when the phenomenon occurred.

"I started to hear a series of ticking noises and felt several stings on my face. My left window was open and so was my vent. I saw the marks gradually appear all over the windshield," he explained.

Over 100 pockmarks were scattered over the windshield, the headlights, the rear and side windows, and the left vent.

Some 35 minutes later, while Galbraith's auto was parked in the rear of the Pontiac Police Station, the pockmarks seemed to get larger. They were slightly smaller than a B-B pellet.

Galbraith said the stinging sensation felt like sharp needle stabs. "I couldn't understand it until I started to hear the ticks and saw the marks developing slowly on the windshield," he pointed out. "It sounded like something striking the glass."

Galbraith said no other cars were in front of his two-year-old auto when the mysterious marks suddenly appeared.

He said a downpour about 40 minutes later might have had something to do with the pitting.

Rock-Slide Danger to Canal Is Cited

PANAMA Canal Zone (U)—A widening crack in a rock ledge near the top of 415-foot-high Contractor's Hill in the Gaillard Cut of the Panama Canal has "the potential" of causing a slide which could block the waterway, officials said tonight.

A spokesman for the canal authorities said: "There is no reason to believe the hillside is going to fall right away, but the Panama Canal Co. does not deprecate the fact the crack in the hillside has the potential."

William Beaumont Name Given to Oakland Hospital

The new general hospital under construction at 13-Mile Rd. and Woodward Ave., known thus far as Oakland Hospital will be named the William Beaumont Hospital.

The name will honor Dr. William C. Beaumont, army surgeon at Fort Mackinac in 1822, who made an outstanding contribution to medical science more than 100 years ago.

Trustees of the new hospital found a new name essential to avoid confusion with other institutions of similar names, such as the Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn.

Major for Oakland Hospital has frequently gone astray and recently a carload of brick for Oakland Hospital arrived at Oakwood Hospital. Possible serious delay and confusion when patients are admitted to the new hospital was visualized.

Construction work on the new hospital is ahead of the schedule which calls for completion in January of next year. Cornerstone-laying ceremonies tentatively are planned for midsummer.

Long Secrecy Lifted

Rapid-Fire Aircraft Cannon Produced at Pontiac Motor

The fastest-firing automatic gun ever mass-produced is being built under Army Ordnance contract for the Air Force by Pontiac Motor Division of General Motors.

The Defense Department's lifting of secrecy on the jet aircraft cannon brought to light this week some of the amazing features of the revolutionary gun, officially the "Gun, Automatic, 20 mm, M 39."

It was developed as the phenomenal increases in aircraft speeds demanded comparable increases in the firepower of their armament.

Robert M. Critchfield, general manager of Pontiac and vice president of General Motors, said the security of the gun project has been guarded so closely that many employees at the main plant where the gun has been produced and fire-tested for over a year are unaware of its nature.

Pontiac Motor is the only production source of this precision built cannon. The rate of fire of the weapon, not yet revealed, is acknowledged to be considerably greater than the firing rate of the latest caliber .50 machine gun, which fires 1,200 rounds of ammunition per minute.

The gun had been on drafting boards and in the experimental stage for about five years before it was decided to mass produce the gun, Ordnance officials said.

Intricate mechanisms required that thousands of man hours be applied to each redesign and modification to bring it to production status. Some of the changes on the gun were suggested by actual use of the gun in Korean combat.

Last year, for instance, Pontiac executed many engineering changes on the project as directed by Ordnance notices. Many engineering changes were for the purpose of lengthening the life of parts on the gun.

Along with delivering tremendous firepower, the gun is relatively light weight, making it ideal for aerial use.

In appearance, the gun is like a giant revolver, without a handle. The ammunition is carried into the firing chamber in a revolving cylinder similar to the old six-shooter. It is fired electrically and is gas operated. The revolver.

Scattered Light Frost May Come Tonight

Scattered light frost that could harm fruit trees and early vegetable plants in low sections of Oakland County is, forecast for tonight by the U. S. Weather Bureau.

Warmer weather is expected to follow tonight's low of from 36 to 40 degrees.

Hans H. Haugard, assistant Oakland County agricultural agent, advised gardeners to put protective hoods over tomato, cabbage and cauliflower plants on low ground. He also said fruit trees in low sections may suffer damage.

In contrast to yesterday's high of 71 degrees, the mercury stood at 40 at 8 a. m. today and rose only to 46 by 1 p. m. in downtown Pontiac.

A high of from 60 to 64 degrees is due Thursday. About .02 of an inch of rain fell on the area yesterday.

Injured French at Dien Bien Phu Topic at Geneva

Russians Propose Talk About Wounded; Dulles Rejects Korea Plan

GENEVA (AP)—The Russians called today an immediate meeting of representatives of the Communist-led Vietminh and French-allied Viet Nam.

They are to discuss evacuation of the wounded French Union soldiers from beleaguered Dien Bien Phu.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov advanced the proposal at a private meeting with French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, their second in as many days at the Geneva conference.

Bidault had asked that the evacuation of "hundreds and hundreds" of wounded from Dien Bien Phu be agreed before deciding on the nations which will participate in talks here on peace in Indochina.

The wounded are under treatment in dugout shelters of the Indochina fortress. Vietminh guns block French planes from landing there. The rebels have denied a request from the garrison commander, Brig. Gen. Christian de Castries, for a brief truce to permit evacuation of the wounded.

Molotov's proposal was announced at a Soviet news conference by Leonid Ilychev, Russian Foreign Office spokesman.

He said Molotov, sympathizing with the French view that evacuation of the wounded should be decided immediately, told Bidault that "to facilitate a solution, the representatives of interested sides should meet, even in Geneva if necessary."

Ilychev did not say whether Bidault agreed. France has been resisting Communist efforts to bring the Vietminh to Geneva.

The Soviet proposal came amid these other developments in Geneva and abroad bearing on the Asian parley:

1. Secretary of State Dulles rejected North Korea's proposal for unification elections, saying it was a scheme "designed to destroy the authority of the existing Seoul government and to replace it by a Communist" (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

French Force Retakes Town

3,000 Troops Hit Rear of Vietminh Besieging Dien Bien Phu

HANOI, Indochina (UP)—The French High Command said today a 3,000-man French striking force has seized and re-occupied Muong Khouam in the rear of the Vietminh Communists besieging Dien Bien Phu.

The action, today's French communiqué said, centered about 35 miles southwest of the Red-surrendered fortress.

The French force, under command of Col. Jean-Marie Charles de Crevecoeur, has been operating in the rear of the Communists ever since they pulled back from the region around Luang Prabang, royal capital of Laos.

French authorities cautioned against describing the French Union force at Muong Khouam a relief column for Dien Bien Phu.

A small measure of relief was supplied the bone-weary defenders today by death-defying paratroop reinforcements who jumped into the tiny, flaming fortress guided by the light of exploding Communist artillery shells.

The volunteer paratroopers jumped into the tiny drop zone during the night, the French High Command announced.

Nasser Arrests 52 for 'Red Plot'

12 Army Officers Are Included in the Latest Egyptian Crackdown

CAIRO (AP)—Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser ordered the arrest of at least 52 persons—including 12 army officers—today on charges of plotting with the Communists to cause trouble on May Day.

Maj. Amin Shaer, Nasser's personal aide, told newsmen the 12 officers would be tried by court-martial "and will be inflicted the most severe punishment."

Arrest of the army officers had been announced earlier today by another government spokesman. Later the police arrested about 40 civilians on similar charges.

The crackdown on the Army follows the banning of political activity by most of the leaders of the country's former political parties and a purge of press leaders opposing the military government.

Announcing the latest arrests, a government spokesman said the move had had "no repercussions in the Army" and no reaction was expected from the military.

The arrested ranged in rank from lieutenant to major.

The arrests also were another step in solidifying Nasser's control following his relegation of the former government head, Maj. Gen. Mohamed Naguib, to a figurehead presidency April 18.

The government spokesman, Capt. Shems Eddin, said several of those arrested were officers of a cavalry unit which had played an important role in bringing Naguib back to the presidency Feb. 25, after Nasser forced him to quit in the first round of their struggle for power.

Issue Injunction in Cab Dispute

3 Circuit Judges Order Teamsters Local 614 to Stop Interfering

Officers of Teamsters Local 614, AFL, are scheduled to appear in Circuit Court May 10 to show why permanent injunction restraining them from interfering with the operation of Pontiac Cab Co. shouldn't be issued.

The action grew out of a temporary injunction signed by the three circuit court judges and filed yesterday in the clerk's office.

The union was charged in a bill of complaint filed by Lucile G. Cornell, president, and Evelyn Mattson, secretary-treasurer of the cab company, with cursing and pulling passengers from cabs at the W. Pike street stand.

Union members are also charged with strewn sticks in and around the stand, slashing tires on another cab, and interfering with passengers using the company's service.

The temporary injunction restrains the union members from striking or molesting drivers or passengers, from trespassing on company property at 438 Orchard Lake Ave.; using vile language; (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Straight 'A' Law Student to Serve Justice Douglas

LOS ANGELES (U)—A law school student with an extraordinary record of straight "A" scholastic work today won an appointment as law clerk to U. S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

He is Harvey M. Grossman, 24, senior in the University of California at Los Angeles Law School.

Last night's symposium session heard Louis H. Schimmel, Board of Education member from Pontiac, tell the role of the board member in developing public understanding.

Citing qualifications he believed all PTA people and citizens should remember when selecting their board members, Schimmel said there were two fundamental prerequisites.

"First you must select a man or woman who has the highest type of character and command respect of the community. And second, pick someone who is interested in a board stewardship because he or she wants to serve unselfishly."

Schimmel challenged present board members and all would-be trustees to develop a philosophy (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

Fellow Fugitive and Kidnaper Yields Quietly

2 Detroiters Fled Jail in Port Huron, Seized Teenage Couple

FLINT (AP)—Flint Police last night shot and killed one of two prisoners, who earlier broke out of the St. Clair County Jail in Port Huron and kidnapped a teenage boy and girl.

Patrolman Don Hancock fatally wounded Arocco Austin, 21, of Detroit, when Austin made a break for freedom.

Hancock approached Austin and the second fugitive, Richard Ballo, 23, also of Detroit, at a Flint gasoline station. The two convicts had stopped at the station to buy gas for their stolen car.

Austin and Ballo overpowered a turnkey at the Port Huron Jail. They found a car bearing the teenagers, Edward Bearden, 19, of Sparlingville, and Caroline Moore, 16, of Goodells, a few blocks from the jail.

The convicts forced their way into the car, Bearden told police, and asked for directions to get to Flint.

Bearden said the convicts forced him and his companion to accompany them, but did not threaten them.

He said they were ordered out of the car at an East Side Flint intersection.

The youth told police he phoned for help as soon as he was released.

Hancock, alone in a scout car, received the general alert for the fugitives. He spotted their car in the service station.

Pulling alongside of the stolen car, Hancock ordered Austin and Ballo to surrender.

He said Austin lunged at him, grabbing for his gun. The gun went off in the struggle, Austin broke away and fled.

Hancock said he called at Austin to halt and fired when the fugitive refused to stop. Austin was struck in the head.

Ballo remained with his hands in the air during the scuffle.

Bearden told police he was not afraid at first. But he said he became frightened when Miss Moore said she was scared.

Austin and Ballo escaped from the Port Huron jail when the turnkey, Peter Paschell, opened a cell door to admit five ministers. The ministers were attending a regular church service for jail inmates.

Ballo is awaiting trial on charges of uttering and publishing. Austin faced armed robbery charges.

Property Owners Group OK's Plans for Closing of Pembroke Manor Streets

From Our Birmingham Bureau
BIRMINGHAM — Representatives from the Pembroke Manor property owners association last night approved a planning board recommendation for closing Edmonstone, and St. Andrews, from Pembroke to Derby, during projected paving.

The board will make its recommendations to the City Council, subject to proper assessment methods.

A committee will be appointed by the association to work with City Engineer Elmer Haack in determining the property owner's share and method of payments.

Hearings have already been held, with approval given to the paving of both streets from Pembroke to Derby.

Final confirmation of the roll is scheduled for May 17. At that time, the property owners association hopes to have estimates worked out with Haack.

Action begins on the stage of a motion picture theater and continues at a tourist lodge in the Village Players' production of "Personal Appearance," with which the group is associated.

A kick-off banquet at 7:30 to-night at the Community House will finalize plans for the annual Junior Chamber of Commerce Road-E-O, a contest to select the safest and most skillful local teenage driver. Store Manager Turns Detective; Gets His Man

BIRMINGHAM — Kenneth Law, manager of the Kroger supermarket, turned detective yesterday and was aided by police from Birmingham and Bloomfield Village and Township.

Informed by one of his checkout girls that a man had left the store without paying for four cartons of cigarettes, Law gave chase in his car.

He followed James L. Smith, 32 of 341 Howard McNeil St., Pontiac, four miles to the edge of Gilbert Lake, where Smith's car sank into the mud.

Law said he took refuge in his car after Smith threw the cigarettes into the lake and threatened him with a knife.

Fleeing on foot, Smith was finally taken in tow half mile away by a Bloomfield Village patrolman, Claude Hollister.

Three other officers from Bloomfield Township and Birmingham soon arrived.

They fished the soggy evidence from the drink and locked Smith up in the Birmingham jail. A large warrant will be issued today, police said.

Says Basic Waiver Sought for Schine

ing it was cropped from a group picture.

The McCarthy-Army controversy revolves about Army allegations that the senator and his aides sought by improper means to get preferential treatment for Schine, wealthy New Yorker who had been an unpaid member of McCarthy's subcommittee staff before he was drafted last fall.

McCarthy counter-charged that the Army tried to use Schine as a "hostage," and "blackmail" the senator into stopping his investigation of alleged soft treatment of Communists in the Army.

At the outset of today's hearings, McCarthy complained that Pentagon officials were ordering Army generals to attend the sessions to try to show the committee is "holding up the work of the Army."

McCarthy made this contention in what he called a "point of order." He demanded that Pentagon officials identify all the generals "ordered here" and explain why they weren't doing their work for the Army.

Sen. Mundt (R-SD), presiding, told McCarthy that was not a proper point of order. Mundt said McCarthy could quiz Stevens on the subject during McCarthy's time for cross examination.

Mundt added he wasn't going around the crowded room "asking our visitors to identify themselves."

The start of the hearings was held up for 15 minutes while Mundt and others questioned behind closed doors a Pentagon employee who reportedly told a friend his boss had ordered him to destroy some recordings of monitored phone talks the subcommittee has ordered subpoenaed.

McCarthy told reporters the Pentagon employee had told that to a friend but now contends he was "lying" when he said it.

The friend—reportedly an employee of the Commerce Department—also was questioned in the closed-door session by Mundt, Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) and Ray H. Jenkins, subcommittee special counsel. They declined to comment on their interview, and wouldn't tell the names of the two government workers.

Club Is Denied Liquor License

Commission Refuses to Renew Permit for Sylvan Elks Lodge

Pontiac City Commission last night turned down renewal of a club liquor license for the Sylvan Lake Elks Lodge at 153 Bagley St. by a 3-2 vote.

Pontiac Police had recommended the move because of alleged violations of the liquor control laws.

Attorney Emmett Taylor speaking for the lodge, said that money from liquor sales allowed the group to carry on constructive community activities and claimed the police had not always used proper procedure while inspecting the lodge building.

Police Chief Herbert W. Straley said the group had been given several warnings and had ample time to take corrective steps. He said police had followed proper legal procedure in dealing with the lodge, using the same methods as are employed in relations with all liquor-selling places.

Commissioners John E. Carry and Dr. Roy V. Cooley, voted against the motion to veto the license. Mayor William W. Donaldson plus Commissioners Harry W. Lutz and John A. Dugan supported it.

A previous motion by Cooley to grant a temporary license for 90 days pending a Michigan Liquor Control Commission decision on the matter was voted down with only Carry supporting. Commissioners Floyd P. Miles and Harcourt S. Patterson were absent from the meeting.

Mundt said he would discuss with the subcommittee whether to have either called for public questioning.

Jackson questioned Stevens specifically today about a memorandum previously made public by McCarthy. Dated Oct. 2, 1953, it was in the form of a note from Francis P. Carr, the subcommittee's staff director, to the senator.

1,851 Children Taking Vaccine

Only One Third of City Eligible Youngsters Get Parents' Consent

About one-third of the children in the first three grades of Pontiac's schools have their parents' consent to take part in the field test of a new polio vaccine.

Miss Josephine Seeley, health services director for Pontiac Public Schools, said Tuesday that 1,851 children are scheduled for the test, out of a possible 5,084.

These figures include public and private or parochial schools, she said.

Webster and Longfellow Schools, which had about 60 per cent of the possible students signed up, ranked highest, Bagley had the lowest — about 15 per cent.

Today, 906 children in 10 Oakland County schools, including 120 Pontiac youngsters in Baldwin and Seventh Day Adventist schools, were scheduled to get injections. Some will get the new Salk polio vaccine, some an inactive "control" liquid.

Eighty-six students of McConnell and St. Trinity Lutheran schools bared their arms to the needle Tuesday. Fifty-five of them did so twice — once to get their injections and again to give blood samples. Clinic workers will take blood samples from these children again after the third shot.

Michigan Health Department workers will check both samples to see if the children's blood has formed antibodies against polio.

The McConnell clinic was the only one in Pontiac where blood samples will be taken, workers say.

Elsewhere in Michigan, Bay County—the last of 10 Michigan counties taking part in the test — began giving its children the serum today.

Dr. Albert E. Heustis, Michigan health commissioner, believes 40,000 children in the state will take part in the nation-wide test — about two-thirds of the 60,000 originally scheduled.

Many of the McConnell School parents who decided not to let their youngsters take the injections said they did so this week-end.

Parents interviewed said doubt surrounding the vaccine and refusal of some doctors to give approval caused them to withhold their children from the test.

Others said "bad publicity" on the eve of the inoculations caused a change of decision. Many said they were "all for" the plan at the outset.

"I changed my mind about three times," Mrs. Harold Boughner, 233 Whittemore St., confessed. "So many eminent men were against it that I felt doubtful. Tuesday morning, I canceled permission for my youngsters."

She told him she had no labor problems since the company's 16 cabs were leased by individual drivers and they weren't considered employees.

Friends Rescue Mutt Boys' Club Members Find Dog and Mend Broken Leg

By JOSEPH K. SPAHR
Shabby may be just another mongrel, but there is nothing shabby about the place he holds in the hearts of the members of Pontiac Boys' Club.

They proved that this week.

Shabby was struck by a car Monday, shortly before the boys started leaving the clubhouse about 9 p. m.

Four of the youths, Jim Spires, 16; Gordon Brinkman, 15; Terry Warren, 17; and Bob McIlrath, 16, heard the dog whimper and found him lying in E. Pike street with his right leg crumpled under him.

A police patrol car stopped at the scene.

"If he's still suffering half an hour from now we'll have to shoot him," said one of the patrolmen.

But the boys had a better idea. They carried the dog into the club's first aid room. Mike Fiorillo, physical director, took over. Anatomy books were consulted, a telephone call was put through to a local veterinarian, and a diagnosis was made.

Shabby had a fractured leg. Setting the bone was the problem. No anesthetic was available. The leg was hurting and Shabby was not disposed to let even his best friends touch it.

There were more consultations and more phone calls and finally a form of sedative was procured. At last Fiorillo was able to perform the bone-setting operation and by 2 a. m. Shabby was neatly splinted and was resting comfortably.

Today the veterinarian looked Shabby over and praised the work of the boys and Fiorillo.

Shabby won't be getting around much for a little while. But when he does start to circulate again, we're betting he'll boast to his shaggy acquaintances that he sure knew how to pick his Boys' Club friends.

Newspapers Battle On for Freedom of the Press to Protect Public's Interest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
When the nation's Founding Fathers established freedom of the press, how far did they intend that freedom to go?

"Where, if any place, did they intend to draw the line on press coverage — and thus public knowledge — of the functions of the courts, public officials and public agencies?"

The press has long battled to protect the public's interest in public matters — especially to insure that it is fully informed on all such activities.

A survey of the nation shows that considerable recent progress in this respect has been made. Some notable efforts have been lost too. But the fight goes on.

Any question as to whether public boards and commissions should be open to press and public was settled in Ohio last year by the Legislature itself.

The Legislature passed a law requiring that all such state groups — there are more than 100 of them — hold open meetings with the exception of the Pardon and Parole Commission.

The latter can have closed meetings when interviewing prisoners at penal institutions.

The open-door policy resulted from the eviction of two newsmen from a meeting of the Wildlife Council with the State Conservation and Natural Resources Commission in 1952.

This subsequently touched off a drive to make boards hold open sessions, and legislation to this effect was approved by the 1953 Legislature.

Meanwhile, the Columbus City Council also approved an ordinance making public all meetings of municipal boards and commissions.

Said George S. Smallsreed Sr., editor of the Columbus Dispatch and chairman of the Ohio Newspaper Assn.'s Freedom of Information Committee:

"The Freedom of Information Committee is making an intensive study of the existing statutes to see what laws, if any, are necessary to open all public offices in all townships, counties, municipalities and school districts."

Reports from other areas: New Jersey—The State Supreme Court requested newsmen to delay reporting hearings in disciplinary cases brought against lawyers.

Chief Justice Arthur T. Vanderbilt said that "when stories about the alleged wrongdoings of these attorneys are carried in the press and they are later acquitted, they are done irreparable harm."

He asked the press to carry no details until the cases were decided.

The New Jersey Public Information Committee, made up of press, broadcasters' and photographers' associations, asked the chief justice for clarification of the matter.

A few days later, the court's request was withdrawn. The chief justice gave no explanation except to say that there had been "no unanimity" on his request.

Illinois — The Budgetary Commission of the State Legislature on March 3 agreed to open its hearings to newsmen after a fight led by the Freedom of Information Committee of The Associated Press newspapers in Illinois.

The committee also plans a clinic at Springfield on May 14, with the governor and other state officials participating with newspaper, radio and TV representatives.

Discussions will include the rights of access to state offices, legislative hearings, legislative sessions and the courts.

New York — Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan clamped down on announcements from the office relating to purported criminal confessions.

Hogan said he had no thought of trying to censor the news, but felt it his duty to withhold any information relating to a confession "until a court has decided whether or not it is a confession."

He termed this a protection to the defendant and his guarantee of a fair trial, inasmuch as it might develop later that the confession was obtained by force or through improper promises.

A short time previously, the New York State Bar Assn. had temporarily tabled a committee proposal to withhold much criminal information in advance of a courtroom trial. Newspapers and press associations assailed the plan.

Hogan said his policy had no connection with the proposal.

Massachusetts — Considerable progress had been reported in a drive to institute the open-door policy for municipal and state governing groups, despite failure of state legislation.

Worcester, Springfield, Franklin and other cities are leading in the campaign.

The Springfield City Council, after approving an ordinance for public meetings of city bodies, sought state legislation to do the same thing for all 15 state boards in Springfield.

After much debate and two attempts to make the bill statewide it was passed in the House but defeated in the Senate.

Twelve of the 15 state boards in Springfield voluntarily opened doors of their meetings after a campaign by the Springfield Union.

New York City Adopts $1,639,000,000 Budget

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's largest city has adopted the biggest budget in its history—$1,639,438,325.

The budget for the 1954-55 fiscal year, more than 100 million dollars bigger than last year's, was adopted yesterday by the Board of Estimate with only minor changes in proposals submitted by Mayor Robert F. Wagner's administration.

Writer Denies Stevens Contact

George Sokolsky Says He Didn't Ask Favors for Pvt. Schine

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Columnist George Sokolsky last night denied having ever contacted Army Secretary Stevens as a go-between for Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) in asking special favors for Pvt. G. David Schine.

Sokolsky made the denial in answer to a question apparently based on erroneous information that Stevens had testified at a congressional hearing yesterday that Sokolsky approached him on behalf of the senator.

The columnist made the denial in reply to a reporter's question at a public meeting here.

Stevens testified he had been told by Army Counsel John G. Adams that Sokolsky had hinted last February that if the Army gave liberal treatment to Schine, McCarthy would tone down or maybe call off his Ft. Monmouth, N. J., Communist investigation.

Sokolsky declined further comment on the subject when contacted by The Associated Press for a check. He was in El Paso on a lecture tour.

The columnist said he did not speak to Stevens in February as alleged but did talk to him at a party Nov. 17. He said they had talked about Schine on the latter date but that he had never suggested to Stevens that such a deal might be made by the senator. "Absolutely not, then, or ever," he said.

Lady Lost 40 Lbs. with Rennel-Results Please Husband

"Two months ago before using Rennel Concentrate I weighed 210 lbs. and now with the help of Rennel my weight is down to 170," writes Mrs. Sarah Farrell, 1981 Antago, Farmington, Mich. "I have tried several other products but did not get any relief until I used Rennel. It certainly took the pounds off fast and I don't know where they have gone. My dresses are all too large and I am so pleased with my results. My friends tell me how well I look and even my husband says I look so much nicer."

Obtain liquid Rennel at your drug store, mix with grapefruit juice as directed and take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. If you do not lose weight with the very first bottle just return it for your money back. You need never know a hungry moment while reducing with Rennel. Insist on Rennel.

Too Tired to Chat With Strangers

Subway Traveler Prefers to Ride in Silence

By EMILY POST

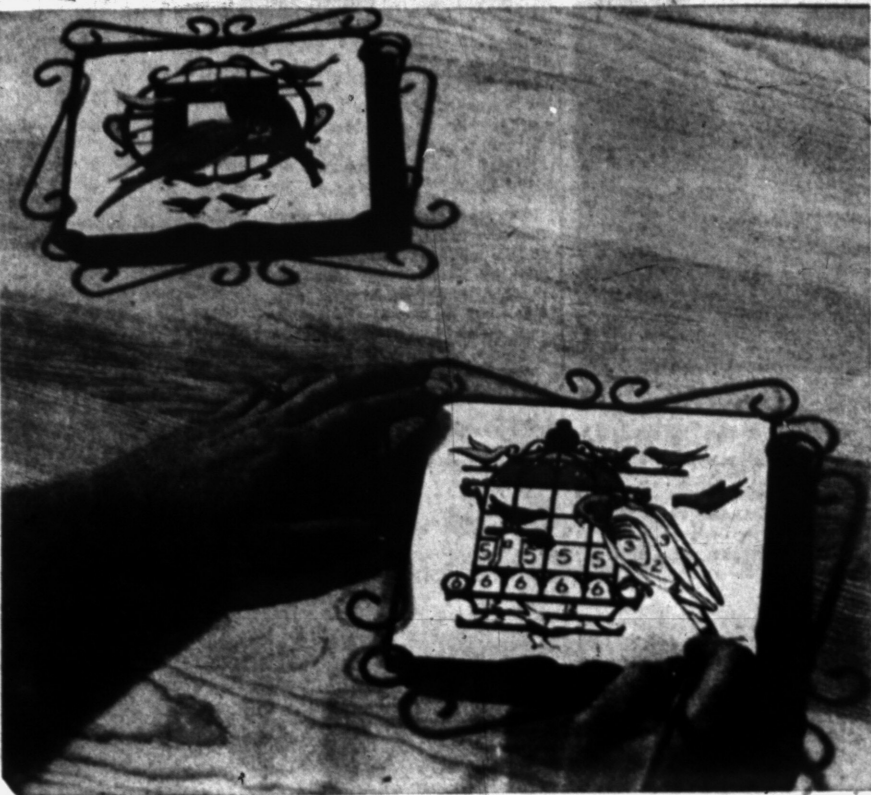

Today's first letter tells me: "Several times lately while traveling on the subway or bus, I have found myself seated next to a person who tries to get into a conversation with me."

"She (and sometimes he) will start out by asking a question of direction, and a polite answer by me is taken as a cue to start a conversation."

"I am very tired usually and do not feel like talking to a perfect stranger. Is there any way to discourage this without being downright rude?"

Answer: You might tell the stranger exactly what you have just written me. "I hope you don't mind my not talking, but I'm really very tired!" Then close your eyes and say nothing more.

Dear Miss Post: My sister has always admired the simple gold crest ring that I wear on my little finger and has often said that she wished she had one like it. I would like to have a duplicate made for her.

If Others Break Rules, String Along

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

A little knowledge can be a very uncomfortable thing. Particularly when you're the only one around who has it.

It's nice to know the "right thing" to do. But you can be miserable if you're the only one who does know—and you're absolutely no control over the others. It's easy enough then to feel uneasy, frustrated, disappointed, even hurt.

When you take a guest to your own club he shouldn't be allowed to pay for anything. His money is just no good.

This is one of those situations where you and your dad are in control. And your idea of the correct thing is the only one that holds any water. Your boy friend may protest and insist that he pay his own way. But you can see to it that he doesn't.

In other situations you may know the correct thing to do, but be without any power to put it in motion. Just because the other people involved don't see things from your angle—or might not care if they did. Here's one of those things:

"Dear Miss Woodward: If there are two girls walking down the street with one boy, should he walk between the two girls or on the street side?"

The rule says that a gentleman always walks on the curb side of the pavement, no matter how many girls he's escorting. He's supposed to protect them from runaway horses and splashing mud.

But if you're the only one in the trio who considers that rule important, you can be very uncomfortable (if you want to be) over the casual way the other two break it.

You can't control the boy, not if he wants to walk between you. Nor can you force the other girl to give up her place by his side just because you want to walk beside him yourself for a while.

Take up the position that seems most obvious and comfortable. Be relaxed and easy about it. Shift spots at natural breaks like traffic lights, stops for looking in windows, or pauses for chatting with other friends you meet.

The protocol of dignitaries has little to do with your carefree amblings. So don't be hurt if others lightheartedly break your rules.

Mary Margaret McBride Says: Ideas Bubble to Surface Amid Steaming Soapsuds

Though there are far too many surveys now, I'd really like to see a poll taken to find out just how many workable ideas have originated in bathtubs since those aids to cleanliness were invented.

"Hav eyou had your bath yet?" inquire friends, telephoning Stella, expert in public relations. If Stella says, "No, but I'm getting ready," the advice-seeker poses her a problem to work on in the steaming privacy of her tub. Sure enough, she usually comes up with a fine answer.

Norah Lofts, English writer of best sellers, thinks of her finest story plots in the bath, she told me the other day.

Politicians make up their speeches. ("If only they could hear me when I'm soaking—I'm never so good again," a congressional candidate laments.) Executive plan campaigns. ("I doubled our output with just one little inspiration that popped into my head as I finished drying myself," a merchant prince boasts.)

There are all sorts of indications that in these hectic days the need for solitude and reflection is growing.

Mayor Hubbard of Dearborn, Mich., who recently ordered his department heads to report to work half an hour early every day, shuts them into their offices alone to think for that extra 30 minutes—about balancing the budget or dealing with juvenile delinquency, one supposes.

Even more complicated tangles undoubtedly engage the minds of those who frequent the sound-proof meditation room at United Nations, so dimly lighted that as I tiptoed in I could see only the barest outlines of the four or five men and women relaxing and seeking relief from a furious debate going on in the General Assembly.

An official tells me this small chamber is now better known to the outside world than any other U. N. institution.

John Mason Brown, writer, lecturer and father of two young sons given to entertaining, told me he and his wife long ago concluded that to sustain sanity they must arrange for regular periods of solitude.

"We go into separate rooms," he said, "and read or think or even nap for an hour or so. The inner voice needs to be heard."

It may please John Mason Brown to learn that a modern marriage counselor I know includes the hour of solitude in each prescription for happy marriage that he gives his clients. So far he has had good results, too.

Wonder, if I took a long, long bath, could I possibly invent some food for people on rigid diets that I would really enjoy eating?

Dry Skin Unnecessary

Prove It To Yourself Overnight

It should be glad tidings that skin dryness need no longer be the bane of your existence. It should be great news that premature, dry-skin "crow's feet" at the corners of your eyes can now be softened into attractive accents for your smile. All this is made possible by the penetrating action of Lanolin Plus Liquid.

Applied at night, certain components of golden Lanolin Plus Liquid penetrate to deliver a new supply of two wonderful things called cholesterol and esters. Nature makes them within your skin. But dry atmosphere and harsh cleansing deplete your skin's supply of these vital requisites to softness and smoothness.

But YOU need not be a victim of skin dryness (due to these causes) anymore. Lanolin Plus LIQUID is rich in cholesterol and esters. It works quickly, too. The very next morning after your first nightly use of it, you will see and feel a definite improvement. Your skin will seem softer, more supple and smoother looking. The horrible feeling of dryness will be gone. Your make-up will go on more smoothly and look lovelier.

Use Lanolin Plus LIQUID every night (and during the daytime as a powder base) and you will join the millions of Lanolin Plus LIQUID users who know that dry skin is unnecessary. Get Lanolin Plus LIQUID at your favorite good store. It is but $1 plus tax. Other Lanolin Plus products are: Lanolin Plus Liquid Make-Up, Lanolin Plus Shampoo, Lanolin Plus Hand Lotion, Lanolin Plus Liquid Cleanser, Lanolin Plus Cleansing Cream, Lanolin Plus For the Hair, and Lanolin Plus Body Lotion.

Her Career Is Truly a Bed of Roses

By ANNE HEYWOOD
"Why do you always stress interest and enthusiasm so much?" an irate reader asks.
"It seems to me you're always saying that if you just love a field enough, you can get into it and live happily ever after, even if you haven't the degrees or anything else."

"Well, I don't think it's true." First, let me say that I didn't think so either when I first began my vocational work.

It was no preconceived notion. It was a conviction that began to grow as I saw hundreds and hundreds of cases.

Now, I would almost go so far as to say that there is some kind of magic force—call it spiritual, or mystical, or just plain luck—which attracts to us, against overwhelming odds, the thing that we honestly love, provided only that we keep our love alive and refuse to permit cynicism or bitterness to sniff it out.

Helen Weber is one example of this.

Helen has always loved roses. She was not a horticulturist, not even a gardener. She just loved roses and thought they were the most marvelous flower of all. She never considered roses as anything she would handle professionally.

She went about her business, which was public relations, and worked on all kinds of products and services—but in the back of her mind, she loved roses.

Well, by one of those flukes which, as I said before, can be called magic or mystery or luck, Helen Weber was offered a job by the rose growers of America.

What does she do? She spends her life with roses, arranging flower shows all over the country, telling women how to keep roses fresh, how to prolong the life of a bouquet, how to arrange them for maximum beauty.

Her office is full of roses—real ones in vases, charming prints on the walls, curtains with a rose print. Her life is spent with people who grow roses.

In my files, and in my personal acquaintances, are hundreds of cases like this. And the moral is this:

If you have a real enthusiasm, a real interest, keep it, so to speak bubbling on the back of the stove while you go about your work.

And one fine day, out of the blue, you'll get one of those "lucky" breaks!

Recipe Used in Teenage Magazine

Lorena Motdoch's Supper Dish Gets National Attention

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor
From the New York offices of a magazine published by the national Girl Scout organization comes a copy of a recipe sent in by a Pontiac area reader.

Lorena Motdoch of Clarkston had the satisfaction of seeing the following recipe published in a teenagers' magazine.

This Deviled Macaroni Casserole is an unusual version of macaroni and cheese. We think you'll like to try it.

DEVILED MACARONI
By Lorena Motdoch
1 package (8 ounces) macaroni
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup prepared mustard
1/2 cup paprika
2 cups milk
1 cup grated American cheese
Hard-boiled eggs
1 tablespoon French dressing
1 tablespoon milk

Cook macaroni until tender. Melt butter in saucepan. Stir in flour, salt, mustard and paprika. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly.

Cook and stir until thickened. Stir in one-half cup cheese. In a greased casserole, arrange alternate layers of macaroni and this sauce.

Cut eggs in halves lengthwise. Mash yolks and mix with French dressing and milk, blending thoroughly. Refill whites with this mixture and arrange on top of macaroni in casserole. Sprinkle with remaining one-half cup cheese.

Bake in moderate oven at 350 degrees 25 minutes, or until cheese is golden brown. Makes six servings.

Keep Home 'Washed' by Weekly Stages

Work as steadily and as fast as you can toward having a 100 per cent washable home. "Do" a slip-cover or two, a pair of draperies, a bedspread, in the household washer each week.

When housecleaning time arrives in a home thus furnished, there is no need for complete housecleaning. If there is particular need for reding any certain room in the house it can be done "here and now." Blankets, quilts and quilt covers, shag rugs, too, can all be done in "easy installments."

Vacuum Versatile

The operator of a large street sweeping machine drove it through downtown Chicago, swooshing dust and dirt onto the sidewalks. Hapless pedestrians can do nothing immediately about such thoughtlessness, but it is reassuring to know that at home the family vacuum cleaner is waiting, ready and willing, to clean dust-laden outdoor wear just as competently as it performs its many routine operations throughout the house.

Encourage a smooth attractive tan this year without burning or peeling. When you head for the beach, tote along a suntan lotion with a built-in skin conditioner which keeps your skin moist and smooth while filtering the sun's rays. To tan or not to tan will no longer be a burning question with you.

Stories for Pleasure Only Won't Harm Youngsters

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
I've just finished reading seven enchanting stories for children. They appear in a new weekly magazine for youngsters.

It's the production of a brave editor. For the tales he offers give children no useful information.

They do not provide Jimmy with a thinly disguised geography lesson by reporting the market day experiences of those Mexican twins, Juanito and Juanita. They don't attempt to instruct him on the operation of modern dairies by recounting the adventures of his morning milk bottle.

They just content themselves with offering Jimmy joyous entertainment.

I couldn't believe it. And sure enough I found that someone had indeed felt guilty at asking me to comment on stories that offer mere joy to the young.

In a letter that accompanied my copy of them, I was asked to note that their occasional big words would "extend Jimmy's vocabulary." And that be reading them to him, his parents would "build a healthy family relationship."

With this reassurance, I presume we are expected to relax. Remembering that we are extending Jimmy's vocabulary and cementing our family relationships, we can settle down to share joy with him with a clear moral conscience.

I think that this distrust of joy that serves no useful purpose is quite typical of many of us, affecting many of our attitudes toward children as well as toward ourselves.

It is, for instance, what closes our eyes to a small one's delight in buttoning his own coat, because he is slow. It's what makes impatient interruptions of a just-emerging crayon picture, because supper is ready.

It's what drives us to over-work resentfully in the kitchen while others are enjoying television. It accounts for much of our morbid self-sacrifice to children and for a great, great deal of jealousy.

Well, I do not regard joy as an offense to God. Instead, I regard it as far more useful to Jimmy and us than getting coats buttoned quickly or all the information he can acquire on Mexican customs or the operation of modern dairies.

So I take pleasure in recommending Story-A-Day magazine to the parents who read this column. I suggest that we read it with Jimmy, not to enlarge his vocabulary or promote our relationship to him, but because there's joy in it for both of us.

The rest will come naturally.

Carpets All Get Dirty Despite Color

An authority on carpets and rugs says that visibility of soil is more pronounced on some colors than others, but even though the soil is not readily apparent it is there just the same on one color as another.

Regardless of color or type of carpet, maintenance is the important item if we are to keep it looking its very best. The use of the household vacuum cleaner every day on much traveled areas is advised, and at least once a week where traffic is not so heavy.

Nylon Fleece Coat Easy to Wash, Dry

The coat you buy this year can be washed in the household washer and dried in the dryer, with the important "if," of course, that it is known to be washable in the first place.

A nylon fleece coat, for example, washes and dries perfectly if the lining, too, is washable, and provided that the wash period is brief and that the drying is kept short and the temperature low.

Turkish towels, damp ready for drying, are put in with the coat to act as buffers while everything tumbles over and over. At the end, take out the coat before it is quite dry and adjust it carefully on a rust-proof hanger to finish drying. Excessive heat sets nylon, always remember.

Most adults cannot remember things that happened in their lives before they were 4 or 5 years old.

Odd Scraps of Material Are Usable

Don't Waste Tile, Paper or Linoleum That's Left Over

By HUBBARD COBB
Everytime something gets done around the home there is stuff left over. This is because even professionals can't estimate material needs down to the last fraction of an inch.

In most cases the few remaining scraps are tossed out. This is a shame because they can be used for all sorts of worthwhile projects.

Odd pieces of wallpaper, for example, make wonderful coverings for wastepaper baskets that are not as attractive as they could be.

If you have a good amount of paper left over, it can be applied to cabinets, etc.

Linoleum also makes a fine covering for wastepaper baskets, both inside and out. Fasten it on with linoleum cement. It's also swell for lining kitchen drawers and shelves.

A few pieces of floor tile can make an attractive covering for a small kitchen table or the table that the kids eat off. If you have a considerable amount of tile left over, it can be used as covering for stair treads.

You can do a really swell job of fixing up an old table, even a card table, by covering the surface and edges with cork tile. This material is very easy to work with.

A few odd pieces of clay or ceramic tile are fine to keep in the kitchen for setting hot pans on. If you have several use them for covering a small table. The same holds true of metal and plastic tile.

2 1/2 Hours a Week Saved by Dryer

An authority says that on a week's washing an indoor tumbler dryer saves an average of two and one-half hours for the homemaker. This, of course, would compare to a good drying day outside when the time considered for the homemaker would be that expended in carrying the washing upstairs from the basement, out to the line, hanging them and then bringing them in again.

Compared to the necessity of hanging things indoors on a poor drying day a great deal of bother and confusion is avoided in addition, beside ability to keep the house uncluttered and in order.

Clayton Wins No. 1 Beat Child, 3

Witnesses in Murder Trial Also Say Woman Threatened to Kill Her

Witnesses in the second degree murder trial of Mrs. Lola Ann Cottrell, 22, of Royal Oak, testified yesterday that she beat her 3-year-old daughter, Ann, on several occasions and threatened to kill her.

Dr. Richard E. Olsen, pathologist at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, said after an autopsy that the baby's death Jan. 16 could have been caused by a head injury, a liver injury or both. He said the child also suffered a crushed lung and extensive bruises and cuts over most of her body.

A jury of eight women and six men is hearing the case before Circuit Judge Frank I. Doty.

Diana M. Nicolai, 13, of Royal Oak, a baby-sitter in the Cottrell home at 823 Elmore St. for more than a year, said she often saw the mother beat the child with a belt. She also told how the mother struck Ann on the head with a rubber doll, knocking her to the floor, and of mealmakes when the child wasn't fed.

The girl testified that Mrs. Cottrell told her several times not to be surprised if "you come over and find her dead."

Mrs. Elizabeth Carroll, a nurse for the Cottrells' family physician, Dr. Vincent P. Russell of Royal Oak, told of another death threat the mother made the day before Ann's death.

Mrs. Carroll said the mother called the doctor's office and during a telephone conversation said that if the baby didn't improve her toilet habits she'd kill her.

A visiting nurse, Mrs. Gertrude Redmond of the Detroit Visiting Nurses Assn., said she made an appointment for Mrs. Cottrell to visit Pontiac State Hospital for psychiatric examination after many visits to the home.

She said she also suggested that the baby be boarded out because of the mother's attitude toward the child. Ann was taken to a boarding home from April to October, 1933, then returned to her parents, according to other testimony.

Chief Assistant Prosecutor George F. Taylor called 11 witnesses to the stand yesterday. Defense attorney Lawrence Moloney is claiming temporary insanity for Mrs. Cottrell.

Utica Area Expands Facilities to Meet Sudden Influx of New Citizens There

By ROBERT G. HANLEY
Press Suburban Editor

(Second in the series of articles dealing with the growth of Utica.)
Just how well the Utica area is preparing to meet the growth and onrush of new citizens is explained by Howard G. Crissman, mayor of Utica, and Supervisor Arthur Priests of Sterling Township.

Utica was listed as having 1,196 residents in the 1930 census. Mayor Crissman said he "couldn't even guess" what the population would be in five years. However, growth stemming from new industries in the area will send population figures soaring, he pointed out.

In Sterling Township alone, Supervisor Priests said, "If a census were taken today, there would be over 8,000 people."

Besides adequate housing now being developed, there will be a plentiful water supply. Utica obtains its water from the Clinton River. "We're pumping at only 40 per cent of capacity now," Mayor Crissman said.

Additional school facilities are being planned. Voters in the Utica district last July passed a $1,600,000 school bond issue, the largest on record in Macomb County. Construction of a new high school is slated to begin next month to be completed by the fall of 1935.

The new school is expected to house facilities for 1,300 students

DRESSING ROOM SCENE—Bob Durnbaugh (left) and Jerry O'Brien enact a scene in the dressing room from "Heaven Can Wait," a three-act comedy to be presented by students of Waterford Township High School Friday and Saturday nights. Jerry plays the role of a prize fighter who returns to earth after his death, 50 years too soon. Bob plays the role of a heavenly messenger.

Waterford Students Give Comedy Friday, Saturday

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP—"Heaven Can Wait," a three-act comedy, will be presented Friday and Saturday nights in the auditorium of Waterford Township High School.

The play, the final student production of the year, will be presented at 8 both nights.

Action centers around the complications of a prize fighter who, having died 50 years too soon, comes back to earth. One act will take place in heaven, one in a patio and another in the dressing room of the fighter.

Body to Map Drive on Future Planning

FARMINGTON — Plans for a program aimed at stimulating interest in future planning will be laid at the City Planning Commission meeting slated for 7:45 p.m. today.

City residents have been urged by commission Chairman Louis Nolan to attend the session so residents' views on future plans may be learned.

The commission will also review its work to date.

Agricultural Agent Talks to Kiwanians Tonight

SOUTHFIELD TOWNSHIP — Ed Aichin, Oakland County agricultural agent, will speak to Kiwanis Club members here tonight on "Agricultural Policies and the Farm Situation."

The meeting will be held at 6:45 in Vaughn's restaurant. April reports will also be turned in during the meeting to Don Cameron, secretary.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. William Hahn and 10 members and one guest attended.

Utica Area Expands Facilities to Meet Sudden Influx of New Citizens There and may be adapted for the building of future additions. Additions are scheduled for Auburnshire and Disco Schools.

"Enrollments are growing faster than we can handle them," said School Superintendent William R. Davis. "It all depends on new housing developments." Davis said he expected an enrollment increase of 300 for next year.

Growth in police and fire protection is keeping pace with growth in population, according to City Clerk E. W. Havel. The police department now has five men on duty and is expecting to add more, Havel said. The department, headed by Police Chief Hazen Anderson, has the use of two cars and a two-way radio system.

The fire department, a cooperative volunteer organization headed by Fire Chief Edward Stadler, serves both Utica and Sterling and Shelby Townships. More men have recently been added to bring the number of volunteer firemen to 25.

A new Utica National Bank, now under construction on Van Dyke, is working toward a June 1 opening in order to serve the community's increasing population and booming trade. The bank, to be 91x57 feet in size, will have a parking lot for 50 cents and will provide drive-in service at the rear.

Royal Oak Gets '54-'55 Budget

Appropriation Request Exceeds Current Total by $3,015,349

ROYAL OAK — Calling for a total appropriation of $3,015,349, the 1954-55 city budget was presented to the City Commission this week by City Manager E. M. Shafter.

Although the appropriation exceeds the current budget by $216,523, the tax rate is expected to remain at $21.50 per $1,000 assessed valuation.

In a letter to the commission, Shafter recommended certain wage and salary adjustments be made to conform with the revised classification plan recently adopted by the Royal Oak Civil Service Board.

A special meeting of the commission to review the proposed budget will be held May 20. Deadline for approval is June 1.

It was reported by the Board of Review that the total assessed valuation of real and personal property amounts to $74,312,775. This amount includes $64,735,450 real property and $9,576,325 personal property valuation.

To Attack Flexible Supports Dems Seen Starting Drive Against GOP Farm Policy

WASHINGTON (INS) — Democratic leaders can be expected to launch a full-scale election-year campaign against the Eisenhower administration's farm policies when they meet in Washington next week for their big party convocation.

A special farm forum is being arranged for May 6 — and on it top-flight Democratic congressional spokesmen from the farm belt will dissect Republican agricultural programs.

The ranking minority members of the Senate and House Agricultural Committees — Sen. Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana and Rep. Harold Cooley of North Carolina — are expected to lead the forum.

Both are staunch advocates of rigid, high price supports, and strong opponents of the administration's proposed flexible support system.

Other panel members will be named within a few days. They will include senators who must stand for re-election this year in farm states, as well as farm belt congressmen. All members of the House are up for re-election.

Among the senators most likely to join in the discussion are Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, Guy Gillette of Iowa, Lester C. Hunt of Wyoming, James E. Murray of Montana, Thomas Burke of Ohio, James O. Eastland of Mississippi, Robert Kerr of Oklahoma, and Paul Douglas of Illinois.

All are seeking re-election this year, and almost to a legislator, they are regarded as proponents of high price supports.

Sen. Clinton Anderson of New Mexico, who served as agriculture secretary during the first three years of the Truman administration, is not expected to participate because of the Democratic primary in his home state on May 4.

Unlike most of his Democratic colleagues in the upper house, Anderson is an advocate of flexible supports.

Grains Easier, Trading Active

CHICAGO (AP)—Most grains had a slightly easier tone on the board today although there was no repetition of the sharp sell off of the previous session.

Old crop soybeans moved higher against the major trend, again attracting support from previous short sellers. They did not get near the seasonal peaks set early in yesterday's session, however.

Trading proceeded at a quite active pace in all pits. The break yesterday obviously brought in a little new buying but it wasn't sufficient to bolster prices in view of the general pessimism generated by large supplies.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was 1/4 to 3/4 lower, May $2.04, corn 1/4 to 1/2 lower, May $1.52, oats 1/4 to 1/2 lower, May 73 1/2, rye 1/4 to 1/2 lower, May 97 1/2, soybeans 1/2 lower to 2 cents higher, May $14.12 and 15 to 37 cents a hundred pounds lower, May $19.65.
