Oakland County Will Close Year $907,080 Short

Soaring Welfare Costs Bring Deficit, Partially Eased by 'New' Funds

Oakland County will close its 1958 books with a deficit of $907,080 as the result of soaring year-long welfare costs, supervisors learned this morning.

The pain of seeing the county headed for the red for the first time since 1946 was eased somewhat when supervisors came up with $451,167 which will be used to lessen the anticipated welfare overdraft.

This surprise assistance developed when a court ruling in Wayne County "freed" one-quarter of a mill, which was part of a 15-mill taxing limitation in the past, levied annually to raise funds for the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority.

The ruling last May in the case held that this ¼-mill was a millage voted by the people and therefore should not be made a part of the 15-mill limitation.

Acting on this ruling, Oakland supervisors today amended a tentative 1959 budget of $12,285,723 to include the sum of $451,167 to reimburse the welfare deficit. This sum is what the freed one-quarter of a mill will produce on the county's equalized tax valuation.

The county's contribution to the recreation authority in the future will come from a special tax levy amounting to the same one-quarter of a mill, said Robert Y. Moore, chairman of the Board of Auditors.

Supervisors went home at noon today with copies of the tentative budget. They are scheduled to meet next Monday for the purpose of formally approving the 1959 budget and schedule of salaries for county employes.

The budget was sliced $476,557 from the preliminary one submitted in April as the Tax Allocation Board refused to grant the county's request for a 1958 tax rate of $5.90 for every $1,000 of equalized valuation. The board granted $5.62.

Out of the proposed new budget, $10,164,723 is expected to be raised on this county tax rate, while the county expects budget balancing receipts amounting to $2,121,000.

According to Fred W. Smith, chairman of the supervisors' Ways

Defenders Suffer Loss of Ammunition Ship During Bombardment

LONDON (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has sent a message to President Eisenhower saying a stable peace in the Far East is unthinkable until the American Navy is withdrawn from Formosa Strait and American troops pulled out of Formosa.

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) —Communist artillery opened a massive bombardment of the Quemoy Islands today and destroyed a Nationalist ammunition ship which had reached the offshore islands under protection of the U. S. Seventh Fleet.

A spokesman said no American ships were in the area at that time, but Peiping radio said eight more U.S. warships entered the area today.

It said "This is obviously a most dangerous act of deliberate provocation" and that the Red Chinese foreign ministry was issuing a second "serious warning."

Nationalist Sabrejets escorting supply vessels to Quemoy shot down seven Communist Migs and damaged two others in the biggest aerial battle of the four-year-old Formosa Straits "little war." It marked a new peak of intensity in the fighting there.

The Communists, after a three-day lull, opened up with a bombardment of all the 14 Quemoy Islands in a shelling described by the ministry of national defense as "very heavy."

The Communist shells rained down on the Quemoy beaches and damaged a landing ship, medium (LSM). A second LSM burst into flames after which the bombardment abated slightly. The two LSMs were believed to be two escorted to Quemoy yesterday by four U.S. destroyers.

Peiping delivered its first "serious warning" then and said the American ships invaded Peiping's 12-mile territorial limit which the United States does not recognize.

Rear Adm. Liu Hoh-Tu, official spokesman for the Nationalist Defense ministry, called the new Communist attacks "entirely provocative" because they came during Peiping-Washington negotiations to reopen peace talks.

The Communists made the same charge of American and Nationalist action and said they were bombarding the Quemoys today in a punitive move to protest "provocative" actions.

Peiping Radio also protested joint Sino-American amphibious operations on Southern Formosa today as a preparation for invasion of the mainland.

It was the first reported shelling since Friday and it came despite warnings in the Nationalist press that further attacks would lead to "massive retaliation" by the Nationalist Air Force against mainland targets.

Peiping Radio's angry blasts against the American-Chinese landing exercises in Southern Formosa and against American naval convoying of Nationalist supply vessels to Quemoy brought new tension to the Straits after a weekend lull.

Watch Voting in Maine Today for National Clue

This is the last of the early Maine elections. After this year Maine junks its famous early voting date, the second Monday in September, and votes with the other states in November.

No one who has studied the tables of Maine and national elections returns over the years takes the old adage seriously. It has been discredited much too often.

However, national election observers are looking to the Maine voting for one principal clue—will light be shed upon voters' relation to charges of influence peddling in Washington?

Payne received a vicuna coat, hotel accommodations and a $3,500 interest free loan when he was buying a house in Washington.

The key, again, is the Muskie-Payne contest. Muskie, 44, is the symbol of the Democratic resurgence. Payne, 58, is calling for party solidarity behind his candidacy.

Muskie became Maine's first democratic governor in 20 years in 1954 with the largest vote ever given a candidate for governor in the state.

If Muskie wins today he will be the first Maine Democrat to sit in the U.S. Senate since 1911.

'Torch' Grand Jury Would Be 4th Major Probe in 25 Years

If Oakland County's four judges order a grand jury tomorrow in the mysterious burning of Flint Teamster official Frank Kierdorf, it will be the fourth major probe in the last 25 years.

Twice postponed to enable the judges to study the petition further, the decision is scheduled for 10 a. m.

The last grand jury in Pontiac was in 1951, concerning two unsolved Pontiac slayings, a market holdup, attempted bribery of a city commissioner, and vice, gambling and narcotics traffic in the city.

Judge H. Russel Holland presided during the probe, requested by Milton F. Cooney, Pontiac Public Safety Director.

Some 26 witnesses appeared during the two-month investigation, and 10 persons were indicted. Of these 10, seven were prosecuted.

★ ★ ★

The two other most prominent grand jury investigations in the past quarter century were the 1936 Black Legion scandal probe, and the investigation of rackets ten years later.

Both were one-man grand juries presided over by the late Judge George B. Hartrick.

The Black Legion affair, which stretched out over the summer, subsequently resulted in the arrest of over 30 persons, as nearly three times that many were subpoenaed to appear.

The jury was adjourned on Aug. 31 and reopened on Oct. 15 for several days of questioning.

This probe into the activities of the hooded secret order named 86 officials and employes of city, county, and state departments as members or former members of the group.

Cleaning-out activities by the organizations named were still being carried out months later.

The 1946 investigation was requested in formal petitions filed by Donald C. Noggle, county prosecutor, and Mayor Arthur J. Law, on behalf of the city of Pontiac.

The probe into the numbers racket in the county began early in the year, and resulted in the indictment of 32 persons on charges of violating state gambling laws.

Police Quiz Colorado Man in Lovers-Lane Kidnaping

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP)—A man was questioned today in the kidnaping of an 18-year-old blonde girl by a rifle-armed holdup man.

The girl, Marjorie Schneider, a Fort Collins stenographer, was dragged screaming into an automobile by the gunman who robbed her three companions in a lovers' lane yesterday and shot up their car.

No trace of the girl or the gunman has been reported.

Officers declined to identify the man brought in for questioning, or say whether the man was acquainted with the missing girl.

He was the second man questioned. Another man was taken to sheriff's headquarters yesterday, but was released after a few minutes.

The sheriff said the girl's date and the couple with them may be taken later today to the spot where the girl was abducted, in the hope of turning up a lead.

★ ★ ★

As he dragged Miss Schneider toward his car, the gunman turned and said:

"Thanks for the money. Sorry I busted up your car. I want the blonde to come with me."

Sheriff Ray Scheerer and more than a score of deputies searched the northern Colorado area in patrol cars during the night, but turned up no lead to the missing girl and her captor.

Road blocks were maintained throughout the region.

★ ★ ★

The kidnaping occurred at Horsetooth Reservoir, four miles southwest of Fort Collins. Miss Schneider's companions rushed two miles to telephone officers.

★ ★ ★

Sheriff Ray Scheerer said indications are that the crew-cut gunman is very dangerous and extremely accurate with the high-powered rifle which he carries. He said he suspects the man is mentally deranged.

Scheerer identified other occupants of the car as Miss Schneider's date, Ellsworth E. Farnik, 21, a student of Colorado State University here from Estes Park, Colo.; James Coleman, 19, a Fort Collins fireman; and his wife Janet, 18.

Scheerer said the bullets from the gunman's rifle shattered the Farnik vehicle's windshield, shot out the headlights, two front tires and radiator.

Mrs. Coleman said the armed man made the four climb from the car, ordered them to place their billfolds and other possessions on the auto's hood, and told Miss Schneider to pick up the valuables and come with him.

Mississippi Choir Singer Is Beauty Queen

Miss America Off to Make Fortune

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UPI) —A brown-eyed Mississippi choir singer, who was named Miss America Saturday night, set out today to collect the fortune that goes with the title.

Mary Ann Mobley, 21, Brandon, Miss., college senior who never had a date until she was 16 years old, became the first Mississippi entrant ever to win the beauty title shortly before midnight Saturday in a nationally televised finale to the week-long pageant.

"I used to be the biggest tomboy you've ever seen," she later told a press conference. "I had long pigtails and I wore braces on my teeth for four years. I was 16 when I had my first date."

Miss Mobley, who wants to sing and dance on Broadway, won the coveted title over 52 contestants from 46 states, the cities of Washington, D. C., Chicago and New York, and Alaska, Hawaii and Canada. She weighs 114 pounds and measures 34½-22-35.

She won a crown, a scepter, a blue velvet throne, a red ermine-trimmed robe, a total of $10,000 in scholarships, $15,000 in clothes, furs, an auto and a television set, and the opportunity to earn a small fortune during her year-long reign.

BURST INTO TEARS

As soon as the outcome was announced, Mary Ann burst into tears. She laughed and cried simultaneously as she walked the length of the 110-foot runway in Convention Hall while the 17,000-member audience cheered and the television viewers watched.

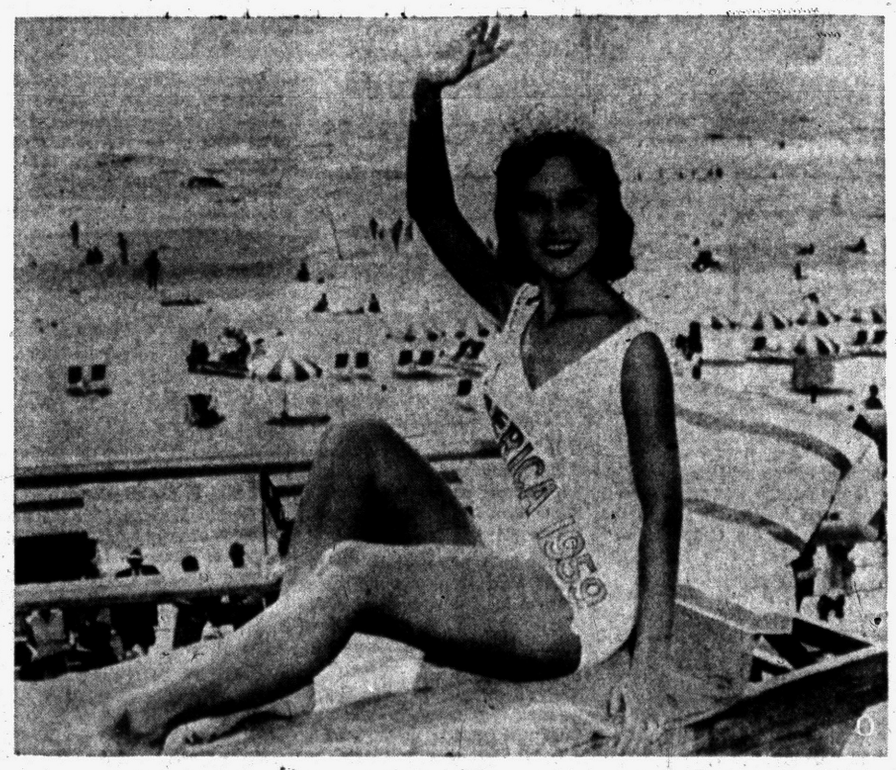

A total of $38,000 in scholarships was given to the 20 top winners among the 52.

The runners-up for Miss America were: Miss Iowa, Joanne Lucille MacDonald, 20, of Ames, a $3,000 scholarship; Miss Oklahoma, Anita Bryant, 18, of Tulsa, a $2,500 scholarship; Miss California, Sandra Lee Jennings, 18, of Riverside, a $2,000 scholarship; and Miss North Carolina, Betty Lane Evans, 18, of Greenville, a $1,000 scholarship.

The first stop for Miss Mobley after Atlantic City was New York City. There she will be fitted for a complete wardrobe and furs and make the necessary business arrangements for a year-long beauty reign.

Jonasson Firm on 12-Mile Limit

Premier Says Iceland Won't Retreat in Fight to Extend Sea Border

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Premier Hermann Jonasson told a news conference today they will never retreat from Iceland's decision to maintain a 12-mile territorial limit.

Since Sept. 1, British trawlers, guarded by frigates, have been fishing within the 12-mile limit. Six small coast guard vessels have been harrying British trawlers and interfering with their fishing.

★ ★ ★

Britain contends Iceland's extension of her territorial waters to 12 miles is an encroachment on the open seas. Iceland says she extended the limits and barred fishing in the zone to preserve breeding grounds and safeguard her chief economic asset.

Jonasson read his statement, his first since the new limit went into effect.

"More than 1,000 years ago," he said, "our forefathers crossed the ocean, facing many difficulties to settle in this country. We learned to meet all difficulties with unfailing endurance."

Looking up from his text and raising his voice, he declared: "There are, in spite of everything, many fighters for justice in the world, and they have sharp pens and powerful words."

U. S. Convoy Makes 1st Run Through Formosa Blockade

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

The destroyer Collett on our left flank ran up a black flag, signaling her sonar equipment had picked up sounds like those of a sub.

The time was 11:15 yesterday morning. This cruiser, flagship of the U. S. 7th Fleet, had just joined the cruiser Columbus and six American destroyers on an important and perhaps historic mission.

★ ★ ★

The objective was to escort two Chinese Nationalist landing ships carrying 300 tons of ammunition through the Communist blockade to besieged Quemoy Island just off the Red China mainland.

A FIRST RUN

It was the first time an American-escorted convoy was making a run across the Formosa Strait in daylight, running a risk of Red shore batteries or attack from Red torpedo boats or planes.

The convoy marked a new phase in the American policy to help Chiang Kai-shek hold the offshore islands.

A few miles ahead we could see Quemoy. On our right some 12 miles away but within sight was the Communist mainland.

It was now one hour since the Collett's sub report and the destroyer sent word she still was getting contact.

★ ★ ★

The two Nationalist ammunition ships moved ahead of their American escorts toward the beach. Now they were accompanied by four small Nationalist patrol boats for the remaining three or four miles to shore.

On the flag bridge of the Helena, Vice Adm. Wallace M. Beakley, the 7th Fleet commander, received a stream of reports on the progress of the operation.

He said the landing ships had reached the beach and so far there were no reports of any air activity or artillery from shore.

NO SHELLING

There had been no Red shelling for the previous 24 hours and little or no bombardment in the previous two days.

★ ★ ★

At 12:35 another message came from the Collett. Beakley said, "We now evaluate the sounding as a wreck of a ship on the bottom of the sea. It's pretty doubtful that it's a sub."

Then he added with a smile, "We sank too many ships in here in the last war. We keep running into wrecks all the time."

★ ★ ★

No one had been too much worried by the sub report, although it provided the only moment of anxiety of the operation.

Beakley and his chief of staff, Capt. Arthur F. Spring, had their lunch brought to them, on trays while they remained on the flag bridge.

The gray-helmeted crewmen of the Helena, all wearing bright orange-red life jackets, had been at battle stations since midmorning. They got battle rations of sandwiches and fruit at their gun positions.

REACHED BEACH

At 1:30 we got word that one ammunition landing ship had reached the beach successfully but had trouble and had backed away.

Thirty minutes later came another message from the beach: "Progress going slowly in unloading the first landing ships and have called for more hands. The second ship still is trying to find a grandstand seat."

At 2:35 the Helena crew was told to "relax battle dress." This meant they could take off life jackets and smoke but must remain at battle stations.

Word from the beach was that unloading of both ships was progressing satisfactorily and would be finished before dark.

Shortly afterward Beakley decided the operation was moving well enough for the Helena to quit the scene, leaving the Columbus and the six destroyers to escort the leading ships back to Formosa.

The Helena broke away and headed for southern Formosa so Beakley could witness joint amphibious exercises of U.S. and Nationalist Marines and naval units.

Except for the submarine alert, the whole operation was so uneventful that it was like peacetime naval exercise.

Hurricane Fifi Is Minding Her Manners at Present

FIFI MOVES—Cross indicates approximate location of hurricane Fifi, some 250 miles northeast of Puerto Rico. Weather Bureau reports say Fifi appears to be gaining in strength but is believed slowing its northwest movement slightly.

It's still way out to sea, not very strong, and is threatening no land areas.

The storm, southwest of Miami and 700 miles south of Bermuda, had highest winds of 75 miles an hour—barely hurricane force—today, and there were indications it's making a turn northward.

Fifi had been moving west northwest on a line aimed at the Georgia coast but reconnaissance aircraft reports indicated this morning its forward direction was now northwest, which would take it away from the mainland. Its forward speed also was slowing down.

No important change in size and intensity is expected for the next 12 hours.

There were a few wet spots, but fair weather prevailed across most of the country today.

Although tropical storm Ella dissipated Saturday, its remnants brought heavy rain to sections of Texas over the weekend. Torrential rains pounded three cities in the Galveston area, with falls measuring about 8½ inches.

Flooding was reported in Galveston, Lamarque and Texas City.

2,000 - Ton Skeleton Drops During Storm in Toronto; None Hurt

TORONTO (AP) — The 2,000-ton steel skeleton of a new 11-story building slipped, shuddered and crashed to twisted rubble in the heart of Toronto during a thunderstorm Saturday afternoon.

Not a person was scratched.

There had been winds of up to 55 miles an hour during the storm and a great peal of thunder as the building started down.

The $600,000 mass of steel beams crushed five parked cars and toppled a maple tree onto the pantry of one house and blocked one street.

★ ★ ★

The structure was to have housed the headquarters of Union Carbide of Canada.

Police quickly cordoned off the area and fire, utility and civil defense crews cleared fallen power lines and put out a small fire started in spilled gasoline from an overturned motor.

Work on clearing the blocked street started immediately but it appeared it might be months before the bulk of the wreckage could be cleared.

Mary Ann expects to return to her family's three-acre home a year from now with a tidy little nestegg of $50,000 to $75,000 earned in personal appearances, advertising endorsements, television guest spots and other activities. She also will travel to Europe.

FEW 'HOME' RUNS

If her regime as beauty queen is like that of the 1958 titleholder, Marilyn Van Derbur, of Denver, Colo., she will be home for a total of less than a month during the entire year.

Her activities will make the 31st Miss America crown worth perhaps as much as $100,000 to the perky girl who won the title by knowing the right answers to judges' questions, shaping up nicely in a bathing suit, being graceful in an evening gown—and performing the closest thing to a striptease ever seen at the beauty pageant.

All of this came to the honor student holder of a four-year scholarship to the University of Mississippi despite the fact that she performed her first hot jazz dance only a year ago.

Now, she told a news conference in Atlantic City, she is so enthusiastic about appearing in public that she wants to be a broadway musical comedy star instead of pursuing the teaching career for which she is training in college.

One of the biggest things Mary Ann had to do to win the beauty crown was to perform before the television and convention hall audience.

She appeared in a white ball gown and sang part of the operatic aria, "One Fine Day," from Madame Butterfly. Then, suddenly, she stopped singing, whipped off the tulle ball-gown skirt and launched into a red hot rendition of "There's Gonna Be Some Changes Made."

For this part of her act, she was dressed in a kelly green satin skirt, slit up the front, and the top of what had appeared to be a ballgown.

But that wasn't all. After singing, she flung off her green skirt and went into a dance routine in a white halter suit.

That brought the house down.

Broomfield Eyes Feats, Failures of 85th Congress

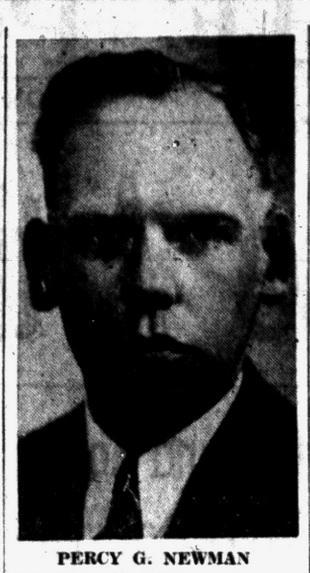

What the 85th Congress did and didn't do in the way of legislation will be the basis of a talk in Birmingham tomorrow night by William S. Broomfield, Oakland County's representative in Congress.

Broomfield will speak at 8 p. m. on the achievements and failures of the last session of Congress when he appears as principal speaker at the special meeting of the Birmingham - Bloomfield Republican Club.

The public is invited to attend the meeting at Oakland County Republican headquarters, 351 N. Woodward Ave.

Broomfield will explain the defeat of a public works bill which resulted in the saving of $300,000,000 through the deletion of projects he terms useless and unauthorized.

He will also outline the impact of recently passed legislation which will have a direct bearing on Oakland County residents, especially flood control studies, new post office construction program and increased social security benefits.

PERCY G. NEWMAN

Constable Dies of Heart Attack

Percy G. Newman, 64, Had Held Pontiac Post Since 1933

A veteran Pontiac constable and native of Oakland County died suddenly yesterday at the age of 64. Percy G. Newman, of 181 Navajo Rd. suffered a heart attack at his home and died before arrival at Pontiac General Hospital.

Newman, born in Milford, came to Pontiac in 1912. He joined the police department in 1916, and from 1918 to 1932 was in the real estate and general insurance business.

In 1933, he was elected constable, a post he held until his death.

Mr. Newman was active in the Elks, Eagles and Woodsmen of America fraternal societies. He was an honorary deputy sheriff and belonged to the National Assn. of Sheriffs.

He is survived by his wife, Evelyn; son, William J., and daughter, Mrs. Jerome J. Robb, both of Pontiac; five grandchildren, and two brothers, Clarence of Pontiac and Stanley of Georgia.

Services for Mr. Newman will be held from Sparks-Griffin Chapel, at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, with burial in Perry Mt. Park Cemetery.

But U.S. Marines deployed to Formosa from Okinawa for the war games lagged 15 minutes behind the landing scheduled, Marine Col. R. L. Benson said. The Chinese Marines kept closer to the schedule than the Americans.

In Washington, U.S. defense officials today ignored a new warning from Red China and said the Seventh Fleet will continue convoying supplies to the Chinese Nationalists on Quemoy "as long as necessary."

At the same time, Washington officials viewed the renewed Red Chinese bombardment of the Quemoys as a defensive "face saving" device by Communist leaders who are showing willingness to negotiate rather than risk war.

Defense officials said the convoying might come to an end if the Communists "call off their aggressive activity" and resume talks at the ambassadorial level in Warsaw.

Watch Maine Vote for National Clue

Maine's three Congressional seats are at stake, two held by Republicans, one by a Democrat. Any change in that alignment might be interpreted as a national trend.

In the Third District, Republican Congressman Clifford G. McIntire is opposed by the youngest major candidate in the elections, 36-year-old Gerald J. Grady, an assistant professor of government at the University of Maine.

There are 632 voting precincts. Polls are open from 5 a.m. EST to 6 p.m. EST.

The Day in Birmingham

Police Report Will Cover Speeding on W. Lincoln

BIRMINGHAM — The Birmingham Police Dept. report on residents' complaints of excessive speed on W. Lincoln avenue from Woodward avenue to Cranbrook road will be presented to Birmingham city commissioners tonight.

The study was ordered early last month after Hyatt Eby, a spokesman for residents on the street, outlined their plan to control speed themselves.

The group said it would time speeding motorists and send them a letter of warning, and sign complaints with the Police Department against repeat offenders.

Police Chief Ralph W. Moxley said the street was checked for day and night driving. Daylight hours showed an average speed within 25 m.p.h. legal limit and night driving had a 27 m.p.h. average, he reported.

Contined checking by radar and arrest of speeders is the best answer to the problem, Moxley said. In the three-month period, beginning in June, the radar car worked the street 91 times and issued 113 tickets.

Lincoln is second only to Adams road as a "speedway," Moxley said. However, he believed the Police Department could handle the situation without speed traps operated by citizens.

★ ★ ★

In other business, commissioners will hear reports on progress and immediate plans of the Southeastern Oakland County Sewage Disposal District.

In a letter to City Manager L. R. Gare, Pontiac Fire Chief John F. Schroeder extended his thanks to the Birmingham Department for its assistance in the $150,000 McCandless Carpet Co. fire Aug. 13.

"I do feel that had it not been for your department's cooperation in fighting this fire it would have been of a much more serious nature," Schroeder said.

Auditions for two youth choirs in the First Presbyterian Church will be held in the Choir room of the church tomorrow.

The Crusader Choir of third and fourth graders will be heard at 4 p.m., while junior high school girls will have their audition for the Cecilian Choir at 7 p.m.

Welfare Deficit Cut by Supervisors

and Means Committee, any deficit would have to be adjusted next spring when fiscal authorities draft the proposed 1960 budget.

Smith, a Royal Oak supervisor, said the county hoped the welfare load would slacken between now and the end of the year, whereby a 1959 welfare allocation of $1,938,700 would be sufficient.

"That one-quarter mill will help us out of this year's hole a lot," Smith said.

He reported to supervisors today that Oakland County by the end of the year will have spent $3,167,258.45 for social welfare. This includes both state and county costs based on a 70-30 split between the two, with the county carrying the heaviest share.

Based on this apportionment, Smith said Oakland County will have spent $2,217,080.91 by the end of the year.

The 1958 welfare budget was $1,050,000. The county has had to transfer some $384,019 from other county funds in order to pay off mounting welfare costs, Smith said.

In his report today to the Board of Supervisors, Frazar W. Staman, chairman of the Salaries Committee, announced that the county approved only 36 out of a requested 66 new positions for next year. Out of this 36, Staman said, only 25 are included in the 1959 salary budget.

This trimming of departmental requests stemmed from the reduced county tax rate and an over all fiscal belt-tightening necessitated by the forecasted deficit, Staman said.

County Old Car Entries Impress

A record crowd of 15,300 persons saw a Birmingham family walk off with the first prize in the 1917 to 1925 class for the second time in as many years.

Second prize was won yesterday by a Troy man, Winfield J. Sluyter of 5884 Livernois Ave., who was one of the finalists last year. He won with his 1924 Ford coupe.

Switching Wives Causes Problem for Little Pam

NORWALK, Calif. (AP)—Harry Speth and Harry Bozarth traded wives, and said they'd found happiness.

Everybody was happy, it seems, but Pam.

After the couples got Las Vegas divorces and marriages, they moved back into their homes on opposite sides of the street.

But Patricia, Pam's old mistress, was now a Bozarth. And the former Irene Bozarth was now Harry Speth's wife.

For awhile Pam didn't know where to live. But she finally solved the problem: she works both sides of the street.

Boys' Snake Bites Girl

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Police said five boys, about 14 or 15, caught a water moccasin and tied a string to it. They were pulling it along a downtown street when they passed a group of girls. One of them, Mary Jane Farris, 15, was bitten on the left foot. The boys fled. Mary Jane was treated at a hospital and later released.

Noted Speaker States Education Is Country's Means of Survival

EAST LANSING (UPI)—A national educator says a free press and free schools are the bulwark of the United States' success in the world today.

★ ★ ★

Dean Frank E. Henzlik of the University of Nebraska College of Education, told a school board meeting at Michigan State University, education was the country's means of "survival." He stated:

"Our nation excels today because of free schools, free press, free discussions, freedom to think."

Henzlik declared three major problems which "challenge the brains of the nation" can be solved "only with our education systems." He cited the problems as:

—"Securing of permanent world peace; or at least avoidance of war.

—"Conservation of human resources. We must better safeguard the physical and mental against stresses and strains of living.

—"Conservation of natural resources. We must stop the wastes and exploitations of our resources."

More Comfort Wearing FALSE TEETH

Here is a pleasant way to overcome loose plate discomfort. FASTEETH, an improved powder, sprinkled on upper and lower plates holds them firmer so that they feel more comfortable. Supreme Court Decisions to Make History Thursday

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is one of the important weeks in American history. The Supreme Court, meeting Thursday, must do two things:

1. Give a decision which will affect the whole course of public school integration.

2. Decide a critical principle in law enforcement: whether mob violence and community antagonism can block a court order.

★ ★ ★

Specifically, the court will only be hearing arguments on the Little Rock school board's request to delay integration in Central High 2½ years.

Integration in Central High began last September under order of a federal judge. Then came mob violence and growing hostility in Little Rock.

Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus blocked the court order with National Guardsmen who kept Negroes out of the school. He said he did it to prevent violence.

Then, to back up the court order by seeing to it the Negroes got into school, President Eisenhower had to keep federalized National Guardsmen in Little Rock all year.

Some months ago the board asked, and got from, another federal district judge a 2½-year delay. This was overruled by the U.S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeals. Thus the case came to the Supreme Court for a final ruling.

The Circuit Court pointed out the broad implications of giving Little Rock a delay simply because of opposition to a court order by white people living there: "An impossible situation could develop. Every school district in which integration is publicly opposed by overt acts would have 'justifiable excuse' to petition the courts for delay and suspension of integration programs."

The court said a delay for Little Rock "would amount to an open invitation to elements in other districts to overtly act out public opposition through violent and unlawful means."

It so happens Little Rock's Central High provides a classic test of how long community opposition can delay a court order and hence law enforcement.

The reason: Integration didn't begin there haphazardly but carefully and according to prescribed conditions laid down by the Supreme Court.

The court, instead of saying integration had to begin everywhere at once, took into account the fact that getting it started one place might be more difficult than in another because of differences in public attitudes.

So it said integration must begin with "all deliberate speed"—a carefully vague phrase—and left it up to the various federal district judges to decide when integration in their districts should begin.

The federal judge in Little Rock didn't act arbitrarily. The school board worked on an integration plan which it felt could be carried out peacefully, starting in 1957 and ending in 1963.

The federal district judge then, after consultation with the board, approved the plan and ordered it to begin last September.

It's possible—but highly unlikely—the Supreme Court will permit the public opposition in Little Rock to persuade it to grant the 2½ year delay.

It's possible—but perhaps unlikely— that the court will now spell out just what it means by the phrase "all deliberate speed" as a guide to federal judges who have to make decisions on when to integrate in their districts.

One thing is certain: although the Supreme Court outlawed public school segregation in 1954, integration has been far from speedy.

The New York Times reports that of 2,892 biracial districts in this country, only 792 have been integrated.

Radio 'Beeps' Will Aid to Locate Downed Pilot

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A new radio impulse devise which emits 140 "beeps" per minutes after it is activated by opening of a parachute will be a great aid in rescuing pilots lost in water, desert or mountain areas, according to its developers.

The device, jointly developed by Norther American Aviation and the Telephonics Corp. of New York was approved folowing tests at El Centro Naval Auilliary Air Station. The low-weight transmitter can be heard by a homing receiver 60 to 80 miles away.

15 From County Join Marine Corps

A total of 14 men from the Oakland County area enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps during August according to figures released today by the Pontiac Marine Recruiting Substation.

Five of the enlistees were Pontiac men. They were: Esteban Trevino, of 715 Portland St.; William B. Willett, of 73 Baldwin St.; Delmar D. Benson, of 18 Newton Place; Harry R. Edwards, of 157 W. Howard St.; and Larry G. Lackey, of 455 Valencia Dr.

★ ★ ★

Rounding out the list of area enlistees were: Lawrence E. Hudson and Harold L. Wilson, both of Milford; Clement E. Waggoner and Leroy Zerbe, both of Utica; and Denis A. Martin, of Farmington.

The men were flown immediately to San Diego, Calif., for 12 weeks of recruit training.

Why did you buy a house?

WHEN YOU decided to buy a house, you were probably thinking primarily of your wife and children.

You wanted to be sure that they would have a nice home to live in. Another concern was for the environment in which your children would grow up. You wanted good schools, play space, nice neighbors.

These are also good reasons for making sure that your family can keep it if something should happen to you.

Metropolitan offers several ways for you to make sure that your family will be left with a deed instead of a debt.

A Metropolitan Mortgage Term Plan is one way. It is designed to cover the usual type of home mortgage, which decreases as payments on the principal are made. The face amount of the insurance also decreases annually, so that the level premium is relatively inexpensive.

Another way, more satisfactory for most younger men, is a Metropolitan Whole Life policy. This is permanent insurance.

In addition to assuring that funds will be available for payment of the mortgage in the event of death, it also builds cash and loan values which furnish a nest egg to help take care of payments in case of illness or other emergency.

And because the face value does not decrease, it can be used for continuing protection or be fitted into your retirement plans after the mortgage is paid off.

Let your Metropolitan Representative help you choose a plan for your family situation and budget. He will be pleased to give you the facts about this insurance. So, why not call him today.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injuted tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called *Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Commonwealth Meets to Make Trade Plans

The British Commonwealth economic conference meeting in Montreal shortly will have representatives from 15 countries covering a quarter of the world's surface and containing one-quarter of the world's population.

This will be the third meeting since 1932 when tariffs were raised and preferences to member nations increased. These measures followed U.S. adoption of the SMOOT-HAWLEY tariff bill and both actions contributed to the depression. The second meeting in London in 1952 dealt with sterling convertibility and protective tariffs.

The coming conference will take place in an entirely different atmosphere of expanding Commonwealth world trade and aggressive Communist economic offensive. Older member nations will be urged to increase aid to newer ones and to underdeveloped countries.

Commenting on the forthcoming meeting the Ottawa Journal writes: "This cannot be a restrictive conference because the Commonwealth cannot afford to put up walls. Too many of the Commonwealth countries have the same things to sell. They must find markets outside the membership. There is little that can be done alone and American cooperation must always be sought."

Britain's Prime Minister MCMILLAN speaking at De Paw University some time ago emphasized this feeling. He pointed out that we all face a common danger and as the economies of the different states grew together 200 years ago, so must the economies of the free world.

Members of the Commonwealth are our strongest allies and friends. They are our best customers and biggest source of raw materials. Whatever is done in Montreal to strengthen the economy of Commonwealth nations should be of benefit to us.

Free Malaya Fights Persistent Commies

Malaya is celebrating its first year as an independent country even while Communists are stepping up attacks in Southeast Asia.

One of the main Red targets in the Far East, Malaya with the help of the British fought off terrorists and emerged a free state. With the breakup of the Communist South Malayan Bureau, the Reds established headquarters farther north across the border of Thailand and the threat persists.

For some years they have used the jungle along this border as a training center, hopeful that the time will come when they will be able to launch a second war of "liberation." Thailand itself is not strong enough to oust them and Malaya already has spent $10 million in the ten year campaign against Communism. No doubt when the time comes the persistent Communists will attack from the sanctuary of Thailand with the already promised help of the Soviet Union.

★ ★ ★

In the meantime the government of Malaya is doing all it can to strengthen the country economically and politically and is to be congratulated on its progress. It never was neutral and has joined with South Viet Nam, South Korea, the Philippines, Thailand and Nationalist China in resistance to Communists.

Russia Tagged Biggest International Liar

Over the past thirty odd years, the Russian government has broken its signed pledge to nearly every country with which it has had dealings. This doesn't include verbal assurances that the Russians have passed around, in addition.

The information came to light in a study of more than one thousand treaties. It's actually doubtful whether ever in the history of the world a nation has proven itself to be so great an international liar.

The Reds win the title.

David Lawrence Says:

Knowland Gets Unexpected Assist

WASHINGTON — Sen. Knowland has gotten an unexpected assist in his contest for governor of California as the nominee of the Republican Party.

LAWRENCE

It comes unwittingly from the "Liberal Party" of New York State and could play a significant part in the political debate that has arisen in California over "right to work" laws.

The "Liberal Party" of New York State asked certain questions of Frank S. Hogan, district attorney —who had just been given the nomination for U.S. senator on the Democratic ticket—and, after receiving his answers, decided last week to accord him the "Liberal Party" nomination. One of the questions read as follows:

"Will you oppose 'right to work' laws?"

★ ★ ★

The answer given by Hogan wins the prize of the year for adroitness and yet directness. He wrote:

"Trade unionism has brought great benefits to our national welfare. I am unalterably opposed to 'right to work' laws which tend to impair the effectiveness of labor unions."

Sen. Knowland, who has been attacked for his stand on "right to work" laws, could endorse every syllable of that statement. In fact, that's exactly what he has been urging—namely, the passage of "right to work" laws that do not impair the effectiveness of labor unions.

Indeed, "right to work" laws can definitely assist in making labor unions effective. For such organizations would be stronger if they were in no respect dependent on coercion and would instead rest their case solely on voluntarism.

The only "right to work" laws which have been championed by Sen. Knowland are those which would not interfere in any way with the right of the labor unions to persuade by lawful methods any citizen to join a labor union of his choice.

This would at the same time protect the citizen who does not want to join a labor union. For it would protect him against any unlawful set-up whereby the employer is compelled to agree to fire after 30 days any employe who refuses to join a labor union.

The late Sam Gompers, father of the American Federation of Labor, wrote in his biography that it is almost tantamount to capital punishment if union officers prevent anyone from joining a labor union who wants to do so.

That's because, as he said, to be deprived of a job in his only known trade or occupation is to impose a severe punishment upon anyone, for it takes away his means of livelihood.

By the same token, to keep out of a job a man who doesn't want to join a union is an equally unjust infringement on the right of individual liberty of citizens as guaranteed by the Fifth Amendment as well as by the First Amendment of the Constitution.

Plainly, if a worker doesn't want to join a union because he has conscientious scruples on the subject and doesn't, for instance, want to see any part of his dues used for propaganda or "educational" campaigns designed to defeat candidates for public office that he favors, it is a constitutional privilege he enjoys not to have any of his dues money—his property—confiscated for such a purpose.

There are many citizens who do not believe they should be compelled to join any labor organization any more than they should be required to be members of a particular church or an adherent to any religion or creed.

The Country Parson

"We learn to walk by falling and then getting up—and life's tumbles can all be valuable if we rise again each time with added strength."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Home Remedies Doomed by 'Prescription Only' Fad

From New Jersey a reader sends a clipping of a newspaper report of a $250 fine imposed upon a supermarket by the state board of pharmacy for selling drugs without a registered pharmacist being on duty.

The market was charged with the sale of citrate of magnesia, boric acid, oil of wintergreen, spirits of camphor, glycerin suppositories and aromatic spirits of ammonina with no pharmacist on duty at the time.

DR. BRADY

A pharmacy (identified in the newspaper item) was fined $100 on a similar charge. The board has fined 10 drugstores, the newspaper report adds, and 18 general stores for selling drugs without a registered pharmacist being on duty.

This reminds me of the way the druggists have discouraged me from teaching people how to prepare and use good home remedies for everyday ailments.

Veteran followers may recall the homemade iron tonic I formerly recommended: Simply purchase from one to four ounces of iron-and-ammonium-citrates — garnet red transparent scales. Put an ounce in a vial, add enough hot water to fill the 4-ounce vial, making a clear red solution, and take a teaspoonful in water, tomato or fruit juice, milk or what have you once, twice or three times a day, for anemia.

By the time followers had learned to use this blood builder by choice, the druggists found the way to get them back in line. They raised their eyebrows when the timid customer asked for an ounce or two of iron-and-ammonium-citrates in transparent garnet red scales, and said they had "never heard of it" or "it went out of use many years ago"—or this here now recently perfected galvanized or vitalized iron preparation is so much better or green iron is just as good—or you poor sap, don't you know that the pieces printed under Brady's name are really just the spiels of a syndicate of doctors, bla-bla-bla!

A Colorad Springs reader tells me that she gets iron-and-ammonium-citrates in transparent garnet red scales or granules because an old established drugstore there supplies what the customer wants, as a principle of good business. If readers elsewhere are still able to get it they keep mum about it.

In recent editions of the booklet Blood and Health (35 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope) I recommended the second best form of iron I know, because I thought iron-and-ammonium-citrates was no longer available.

The latest attempt of the over-the-counter prescribers to break up this use of inexpensive home remedies is aimed at the familiar corn "cure"—daily painting of corn or callus with salicylated collodion. This is simply a solution of 30 grains of salicylic acid in one-half ounce of flexible collodion.

Formerly anyone could buy 30 grains (about a level teaspoonful) or an ounce of salicylic acid without cross examination. Lately, readers complain, druggists seem determined that people shall not use such a simple home remedy for corns or calluses—and from sharp admonitions by a pediarist I gather that home use of this old reliable corn and callus remedy is next on the list.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Wants to Let City Officials Run the Police Department

Statements and resolutions adopted by the Pontiac Police Officers Association are going from bad to ridiculous. About two years ago they came out with many unfounded charges and statements about the Pontiac Police Chief. None was ever proven. But the damage was done. The whole police department suffered a severe blow to its public prestige.

★ ★ ★

A year or so later the Association adopted another resolution trying to dictate to the City Manager and City Commission how they should run the police department. Now they're in the news again with a similar resolution.

★ ★ ★

Who is behind all the uproar and what have they to gain? Are their actions motivated by a sincere effort to help the department? Or is the motive a real or imaginary personal grudge? Are a few, through excellent leadership using the backs of the uninformed and misinformed majority as stepping stones to accomplish their purposes.

★ ★ ★

Sometimes the real truth is hidden under much dirt and debris. It takes time to sift out all the facts and determine the true course of action. Why not leave the running of the City government and police department to personnel trained and hired for that specific purpose?

'People Should Fight These Union Tactics'

How can the discharge of one man result in two million people going without their daily papers and a few thousand workers giving up their jobs and going home?

There is reason in everything and if the unions carry on like this, they'll find the 99 per cent of humanity that doesn't belong to unions will gang up against them.

When a union can throw all those men and women out of work and stop the papers in a city the size of Detroit because one of their pets was fired, the bulk of humanity should take a hand.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Denounces Atheistic Professors

Clara is feuding over Ch. 18 i.. my college textbook. But our great Republic is based on the Golden Rule. Dictatorships and communism, however, follow the jungle philosophy that "Might makes right." So be grateful that church folks nurture your child's idealism and try to teach him unselfishness.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

★ ★ ★

"Take my name off your mailing list," she recently wrote to the publishers of my college textbook, "Phychology Applied."

DR. CRANE

PROOF OF PUDDING

It was by deliberate intent that I included Ch. 18 in my textbook.

★ ★ ★

That chapter is headed "Psychology Goes to Church."

As a lifelong churchman and Sunday School teacher, I decided it was high time college youth got the straight dope about our great debt to moral idealism, as represented by churches.

I'm not a blind defender of churches. Many of them are cluttered up unduly with so much ritual they obscure the essential moral principles on which they were founded.

But, even in spite of such faults, what have atheistic teachers to offer that remotely compares with the good "fruits" of the churches?

In that chapter I thus show college students that most of our colleges and hospitals are a direct outgrowth of the churches.

★ ★ ★

So are the YMCA and YWCA, the CYO and Salvation Army, the Red Cross and the other charitable groups, like the Community Chest.

Some churches are obviously dictatorial and domineering, but the moral principles of the Sermon on the Mount should not be confused with mistakes by any modern clergy.

SWORD OF DAMOCLES

Uncle Sam already has a Sword of Damocles dangling over his head in the form of Socialism, which is the half-way house on the road to communism.

Only the Golden Rule checks majorities from looting and pillaging minorities.

And who teaches our youngsters this famous Golden Rule? Did Hitler and Mussolini? Or Joe Stalin and his successors?

Do athetistic college professors? Not on your life! It is church folks who generously donate their services to teach a Sunday School class each week (and without any pay whatever), so that toddlers will learn to share and help the less fortunate.

BY THEIR FRUITS

The subheads of that Ch. 18 in my textbook includes:

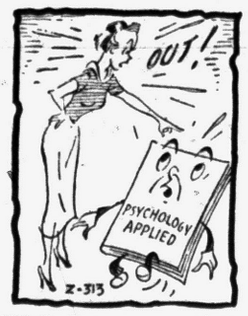

"Jesus—the World's Greatest Applied Psychologist."

"Why Partnership with God Promotes Better Health."

"Contributions of the Bible to Modern Society."

"Why I Have Missed Church but 3 Times in 30 Years."

"Why Tithing Needs to be Revived by Churches."

"Vital Importance of Church Camps for Teenagers."

"How to Pep Up Church Attendance."

"Phychology Applied to Church Music."

"Personnel Strategy Needed in Every Local Church."

You readers be the jury! Don't you think college youth can profit by such psychology?

The students on a Michigan campus voted 90 per cent in favor of Ch. 18 when asked to pick their favorite of the 20 chapters in my college textbook.

That shows that youth still have idealism and appreciate moral education!

Must Determine Effects of Odors

Cooking or Perspiration Could Peril Travel in Space, N-Subs

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer

GROTON, Conn. (AP)—Science must even determine whether prolonged exposure to such things as cooking odors and perspiration odors would be a hazard before man can safely venture into space or take indefinitely long voyages in nuclear submarines.

This was related today by a naval doctor, Capt. Joseph Vogel, in keynoting the first International Symposium on Submarine and Space Medicine. The weeklong meeting opens today at the U.S. naval submarine base here.

★ ★ ★

The symposium is sponsored by the American Institute of Biological Sciences and supported by the Department of Defense through its Advance Research Projects Agency.

More than 200 representatives are here from the United States, Brazil, France, Italy, Sweden, Germany, Japan, Great Britain, Switzerland and Canada.

The Soviet Union was not invited.

★ ★ ★

In a paper prepared for the meeting, amplified in an interview. He said that some of the things to which science needs answers are:

1. What effect, if any, will result on man's efficiency—even perhaps on his survivial—from interrupting his normal physiological cycles based on changes from daylight to darkness?

2. What effect, if any, will result from exposure to trace substances in the atmosphere of a space ship or nuclear sub during protracted periods of time?

★ ★ ★

These trace substances would include such things as cooking odors, perspiration and other bodily odors, hydrocarbons from fuel oils, Freon gas from refrigerators, and even gas from cleaning fluids, shaving creams and toothpaste.

3. What are the ranges of environmental adaptation of the body's system of physiological balances and counterbalances?

4. What are the effects of environmental change on consciousness?

★ ★ ★

Vogel said the meeting is aimed at deriving a better and more accurate assessment of what science already knows about the effects of confinement in a changed atmosphere.

Dig Crazy Talk at High School of Another Era?

CEDAR GROVE, N. J. (AP) — This account of circa 1958 has been buried in front of the high school:

"Ohh, e e, o hh a hh a hh, t ing tang."

★ ★ ★

"Walla, walla bing bang. . . ."

It's on a phonograph record which was placed in a time capsule and buried as this borough wound up its 50th anniversary celebration.

★ ★ ★

School Dispute Headed to Court

NAACP Attorney Silent About Exact Plans in Van Buren, Arkansas

VANBUREN, Ark. (AP) — An attorney for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People is expected to take court action today in an attempt to return 13 Negroes to integration-troubled Van Buren High School.

The Negroes stayed away from classes Friday. During last week some white students taunted and threatened them and a group of about 45 white boys started a boycott of integrated classes.

U. Simpson Tate of Dallas, regional counsel for the NAACP, declined last night to specify what kind of maneuver he planned.

But he indicated he would file some kind of legal action in U.S. District Court at nearby Fort Smith, Ark., today. He said this action would be aimed at counteracting demonstrations by white students.

★ ★ ★

Van Buren, a city of 6,000, was integrated at the high school level in September, 1957. Negroes had sued in Federal District Court for the right to attend school with whites but an integration agreement was reached before a ruling on the case was made and the suit was dismissed.

"This is not a time for demonstrations to convince others of our own prejudices," said the Rev. V. L. Schmidt, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

Similar pleas were made by the Rev. Franklin Wilder, pastor of St. John's Methodist Church and the Rev. Harry Weed, pastor of the First Methodist Church.

800 Yards From Free Berlin

Reds Cut Off West German Town

BERLIN (UPI) — Alfred and Emma Morawietz celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on the eastern side of a barrier that cuts the main street of their town in two.

Emil Meyer, Deputy Mayor of the West Berlin borough of Zehlendorf, stood on the western side of a red and white colored pole and handed a bouquet of flowers over the pole to Frau Morawietz.

★ ★ ★

She and her husband live in a tiny village called Steinstuecken which is part of Zehlendorf in the American sector of Berlin but is separated from the rest of the borough by Communist territory.

Meyer was refused passage to the village by East German police and the Morawietzes had to walk 800 yards from the village down to the barrier to receive their anniversary gift.

The situation of all West Berlin, surrounded as it is by East Germany, is grotesque enough. But Steinstuecken is doubly an island. If all West Berliners feel cut off, the 183 residents of Steinstuecken feel as if they are living in an internment camp.

★ ★ ★

Friends and relatives of Steinstuecken residents may not visit the hamlet unless they go to East Berlin and pay three marks (75 cents) for a hard-to-get pass.

The only refrigerator in the only butcher shop in the village broke down and remained out of order for three weeks until the Communists agreed to pass a repairman.

Steinstuecken is the victim of Berlin mapmakers of 1920 and the cold war that split Berlin.

When the city of Berlin was given its present borders in 1920 most of Steinsteucken was farmland.

It therefore was made part of the borough and city. But the 800 yards separating the settlement from the city was not made part of Berlin.

This would have made no difference to anyone if it had not been for the rise of the Nazis, World War II, the German defeat, the four-power occupation of Berlin and the post-war East-West split.

When the victorious Allies came to Berlin in 1945 they occupied sectors based on the 1920 map. The borough of Zehlendorf along with Steinstuecken became part of the U. S. sector, but the 800 yards fell to the Reds.

★ ★ ★

The hamlet caused an international controversy in 1951 when East German Communists announced its incorporation into the "German democratic Republic." But the Communists relinquished the hamlet when the U.S. protested its seizure.

Say Boy Killed Stepdad

LIVINGSTON, Tex. (AP)—Deputy Sheriff A. D. Holbrook said Billy Fincher, 12, shot and killed his stepfather Gerald Patterson yesterday. Holbrook quieted Mrs. Patterson as saying her husband threatened her and her son during an argument and krabbed a gun. Mrs. Patterson told Holbrook her husband fired at her before he was killed.

The Navajo Indians numbered only about 7,000 in 1867 and today have increased to more than 70,000.

What Boat on Street?

HILLSDALE, Mich. (AP)—Clifford Rietz says the best place for a boat is in the water. He parked his trailer-mounted boat in front of his house. A passer-by tossed a lighted ciagr butt on a covering. Rietz put out the fire in time. But during the night a motorist crashed into the boat and samshed it.

COPENHAGEN — Under a plan for exchanging civil servants, Denmark, Sweden, and Norway have begun to assign junior officials to work in each other's government departments for periods up to one year.

Lodge Xway Section to Be Opened Today

DETROIT (AP) — State, Wayne County and Deroit City officials planned to open a $4,400,000 half mile section of the John Lodge expressway at noon today.

John C. Mackie, state highway commissioner; Detroit Mayor Louis Miriani and Oscar M. Gunderson, Wayne County planning engineer, were to snip a ribbon officially opening the northbound lane of the expressway from Congress St. a half mile north of the present northbound entry point at Abbot.

Completion of this section of the expressway will allow northbound traffic to enter the expressway at Congress rather than at Abbot and provide some relief for traffic jams on Second Ave. in the downtown area.

John Wayne, 3rd Wife Reconciled After Tiff

Wayne, 51, said Saturday he and Peruvian-born Pilar Palette were planning to separate and that a divorce was possible.

He blamed a film-making schedule which had kept him away from home frequently for months at a time.

But yesterday he said he and his 29-year-old wife had reconciled overnight.

"We had a tiff," he said, "and it looked like a separation, but everything's okay now."

OUTWARD TO THE STARS

(19)—First Men to the Moon

By Don Oakley and Ralph Lane

(1) Assembly completed, fuel and equipment loaded and crew installed in their spherical cabin, the Moon rocket is ready for its pioneer voyage.

Already moving some 15,000 miles per hour alongside the space station in a two-hour orbit around the Earth, the Moon ship ignites its rockets and pulls slowly away from the mother base. Still a satellite of Earth, it accelerates under timed rocket firings in a widening spiral orbit.

When at the precise position in reference to the Moon, a final blast of its rockets brings it up to escape velocity (approximately 25,000 m.p.h.) and the Moon ship hurls itself away from Earth like a pebble from a cosmic slingshot.

(2) The ship must aim for a point in space where the Moon will be some two-and-a-half days later (the time required for a one-way journey), at a time when the Moon is closest to Earth, 221,463 miles away. Any error in course can be corrected by using the rockets.

Now at escape velocity, but still under the influence of Earth's gravity, the ship coasts with decreasing momemtum until the gravity of the Moon takes over. It then begins falling with mounting speed toward the Moon. The trip could be shortened by using power, but this method makes the most economical use of fuel.

(3) The first manned ship will probably not attempt a landing on that body, but will remain in orbit around it for a period, investigating and photographing its surface, particularly that side never seen from Earth. An actual landing will come later, after more is learned of the Moon in its "virgin" state, and before Earth distorts the findings of scientists. To return to the space station, the same procedure will be used as at the beginning. This time a velocity of only about 5,400 m.p.h. will be required to escape Moon's pull.

Next: Landing on the Moon.

Princess Says Men Must Boss the Home

HARTFORD, Conn (AP) — A Romanian princess advocates the return of the American male to the rightful place as head of the household.

Princess Ileana, now Ileana Issarescu, American housewife and mother of six, believes it is the duty of the American woman to see to it that the men accept this position. "There must be resumed the strength of family organization and authority. Let us women — it depends so much on us — try to bring about that model of a family for the sake of our children."

The princess feels delinquency is mostly due to the falling apart of the family organization. The parents must set the example if they expect obedience from children.

William Harrison, with six sons and four daughters, had a larger family than any other U. S. president.

Negro Students Migrating to Alexandria

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — There is less feeling about mixed classrooms of white and Negro students here than any place else in Virginia. It is true that many families have moved into this fast-growing area from nearby Washington in order to educate their children in all-white public schools, a migration which reflects itself in the latest Washington school census—73.8 per cent Negro.

Nonetheless, Virginia Governor J. Lindsay Almond regards Arlington as a potential secession county in an otherwise solidly anti-mix state. One of his aides called Arlington County the "soft underbelly" carefully chosen by the NAACP as the likeliest place to get a sympathetic hearing.

There are in Arlington County, as everywhere else in the south, elements ready to scoff at law and order, whether state or federal, and devise their own codes and ethics. Here, for example, one Jack Rathbone has offered county board chairman Ralph R. Kaul the services of a "600-man rifle and pistol team" to help keep order when/if the schools open. Rathbone is executive secretary of the Arlington Defenders of State Sovereignty and Individual Liberties.

"I doubt that Mr. Rathbone has a 600-man rifle team any more than he has an armored division," Mr. Kaul commented.

But just to be on the safe side, perhaps, Mr. Kaul helped arrange for the city of Alexandria and police of the adjoining county of Fairfax for reserve forces, if needed.

Deeper into Virginia, a 42-man police riot squad has completed basic training in Richmond. It includes several Negro cops. It was formed to be ready "for any unusual situations."

James Lindsay Almond wasn't lucky enough to have been born in a log cabin, politically speaking, but he has done well despite that near miss. He was born in Charlottesville, son of an engineer on the Southern Railway, and then taken as a boy to othe family farm in Orange County.

The chief architect of Virginia's labyrinth of antidesegregation laws, all duly passed by the Virginia Assembly, attended a segregated one-room school as a boy. To attend Orange High School, the man who was to be governor had to walk six miles to and from school each day.

He was barely able to begin his school term until after the Christmas holidays. He was needed on the farm in the fall and early winter. His mother tutored him during those long absences from the classroom.

He continued his farm work during summer vacations from the University of Virginia, helped pay his way through that venerable and venerated institution by serving as the principal of a country high school at Zoar.

He was in and out of the University's School of Law, as his finances ebbed and flowed, but got through finally, passed the bar, hung up his shingle in Roanoke, and became one of the best trial lawyers in the state.

He served two terms in Congress, then suddenly quit the $18,000-a-year role—which he might have held forever—to take the more precarious and less rewarding role of state's attorney general. Friends asked him why, and his reply would have been worthy of Patrick Henry or R. E. Lee:

"Above everything else I love Virginia. I cannot, even though at tremendous personal sacrifice, refuse this call to serve the people of my state in a position of honor, trust and responsibility which through long years of training and experience I can claim, with a fair degree of modesty, that I can render acceptable service. Had money and the accumulation of this world's goods been my objective in life, never would I have sought public office. To me, service to my fellow man, to my state, my country and my God is the supreme commitent of life. All other considerations pale into insignificance."

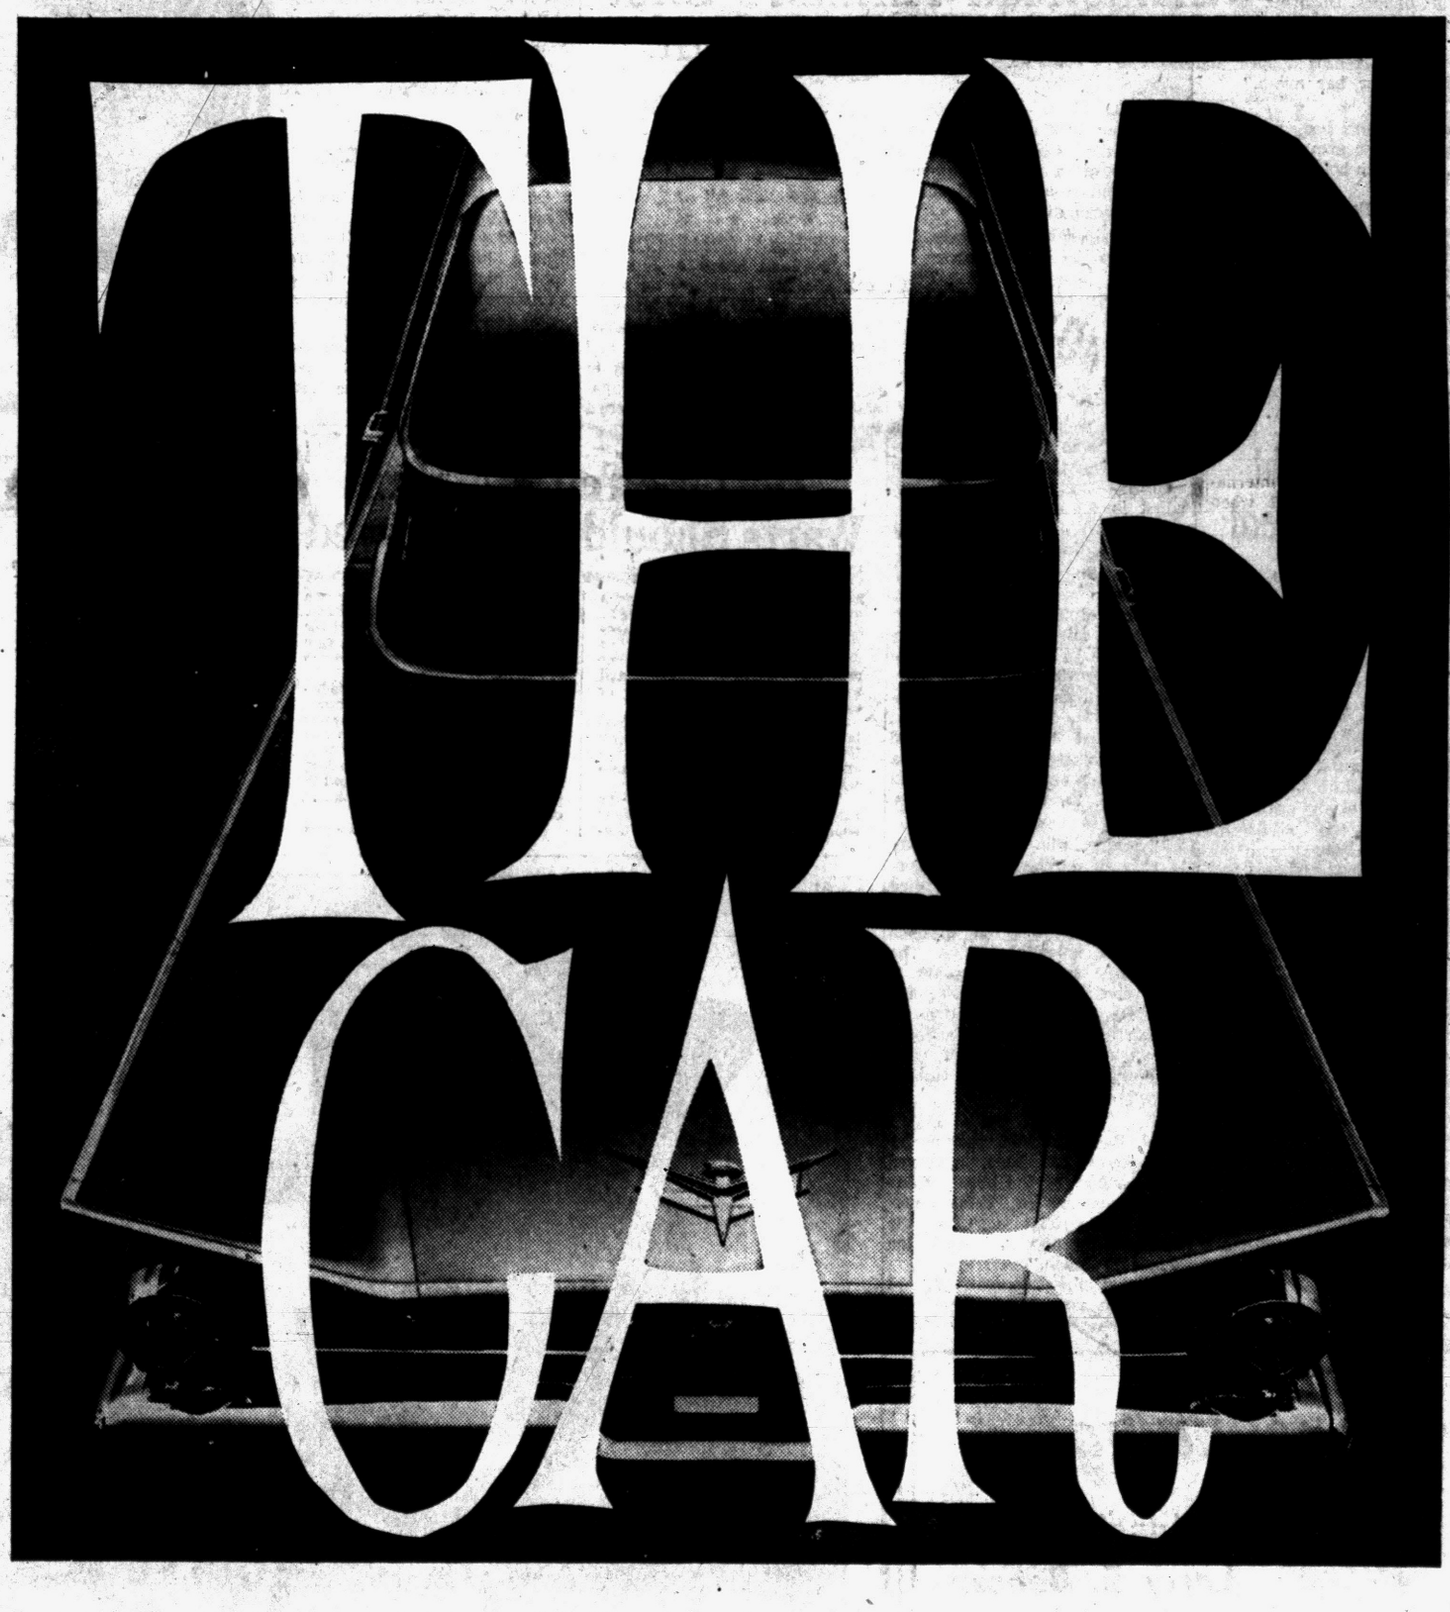

Atchoo! That Ragweed!

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — During the hayfever season, about one million tons of ragweed pollen is in the air over the United States, according to Prof. Warren H. Wagner, Jr., botanist at the University of Michigan. He estimates that ragweed accounts for about 90 per cent of all pollen in the air.

Colonial Inn Fire Claims 6 Lives

BELFAST, Maine, (AP) — Six persons died yesterday as fire roared through the Colonial Inn, a landmark in this coastal town for more than 100 years.

The dead included a young mother and her little daughter who were on vacation. Two other guests and two employes of the hotel also lost their lives in the predawn blaze that started in the kitchen.

Several guests escaped the flames and choking clouds of smoke by leaping from windows. Three of them were injured.

The dead, all of whom were suffocated, were: Clifford Curtis, 44, an electrician of Belfast, George Trumble, 70, a retired Belfast shoe worker; George Turner, 44, Maywood, Ill., the inn's chef; Richard Moulton, 27, substitute night clerk; Mrs. Valerie Donovan, 28, and her 1½-year-old daughter, Jill, of East Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Donovan's husband, Arthur, 32, a letter carrier, and their 5½-year-old son, Richard, were hurt when Donovan dropped the boy two stories onto a projecting roof. He then jumped after him from a third-story window.

Donovan was hospitalized in critical condition with a probable fracture of his back. His son, also critical, suffered burns and a head injury.

Mrs. Grace Lafond, a nearby resident and one of the first on the scene, said: "Flames were coming through the wall near the kitchen ventilator. Within minutes fire shot across the lobby and seemed to be all through the building.

"We could hear the terrible screams of Mrs. Donovan, but we couldn't see her. Smoke and fire were rising in front of the window. Suddenly the screams stopped, and we didn't hear her again."

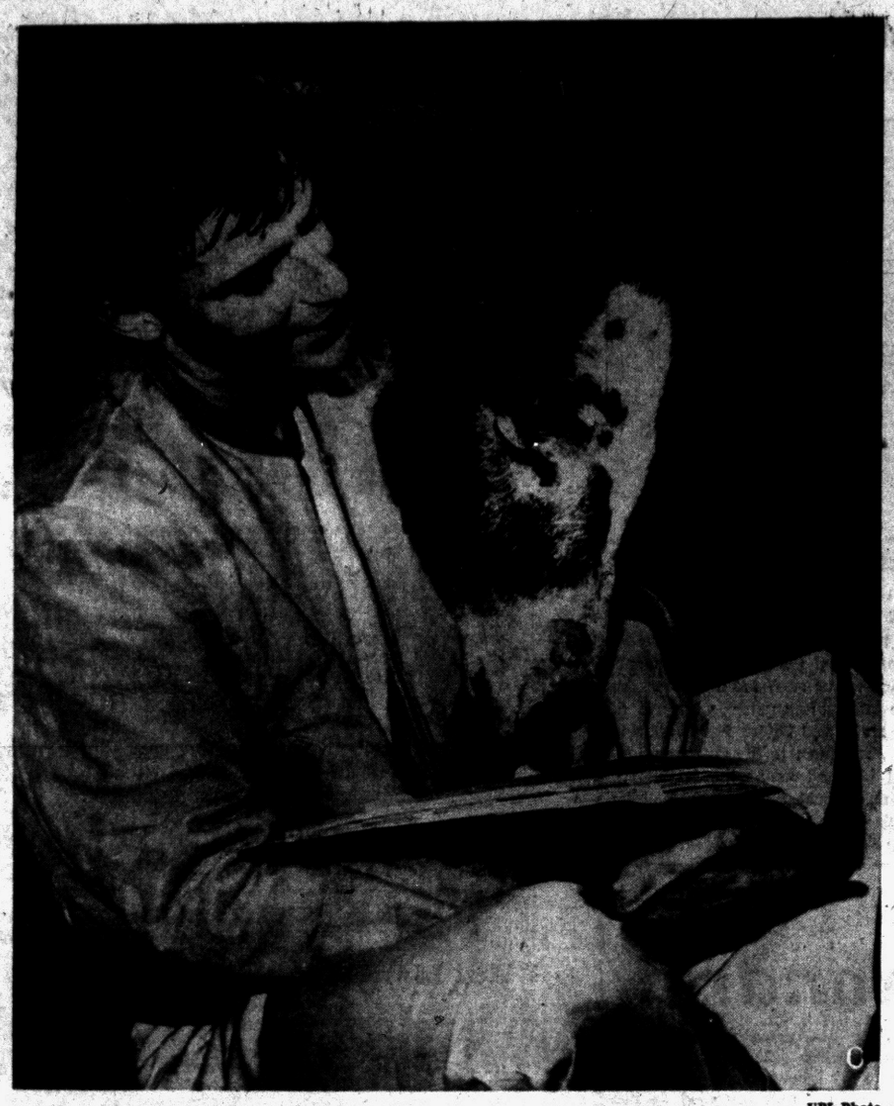

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Donovan's body was found on the bed, one arm clasping her baby, the other holding her handbag.

William Phillips of Belfast said Moulton aroused him by pounding on the door. He said Moulton also roused Turner, but the latter couldn t make it to safety.

Getting an assist in New York from the long-eared animal, actor Roddy McDowall studies the script for a new play in which he will star this season. McDowall plays the role of a Mexican peasant in the play, "Handful of Fire," and the burro appears in the show, too. The play, after tryout runs in Washington and Philadelphia, is slated to open on Broadway at the Martin Beck Theater on Oct. 1st.

SEATO Observing 4th Birthday Today

BANGKOK (AP) — The Southeast Asia Treaty Organization observed its fourth anniversary today with messages of congratulations arriving at its Bangkok headquarters from other capitals of the treaty nations.

★ ★ ★

U. S. Secretary of State Dulles sent a message saying Americans "are proud to share in this partnership which seeks to fulfill hopes common to all our peoples. I am convinced SEATO will continue resolutely to preserve our common heritage of freedom."

U. S. Army Secretary Wilber Brucker, on a world inspection tour, arrived today from Karachi to join in the anniversary celebrations. He will spend two days in Bangkok talking with Thai and American officials.

Steel, Iron Set Record in Italian Modernization

TURIN, Italy — Modernization and expansion of the industry have boosted Italy's steel and iron output to record highs. Production increased by 120 per cent between 1951 and 1957—more rapidly than in the case of other leading European producers. Raw materials for the industry come only in part from domestic sources. Coal has to be imported and so does about half the iron and scrap metal.

American Airman's Shot Kills Japanese Student

TOKYO (AP) — Memories of the bitter William Girard case were stirred today by the fatal shooting of a young Japanese music student aboard a train by an American airman.

As Japanese papers gave top display to the incident under big headlines, 19-year-old A.3.C. Peter E. Longpre of Lakewood, Calif., said in a statement: "It was a horrible accident . . . I am deeply sorry . . . I did not intend to shoot at anyone or anything."

★ ★ ★

Longpre was in tears and his statement was read by an attorney — described as a defense counsel — to a news conference called in an effort to avert the furor which turned the Girard case into an international incident.

Longpre said he was standing near the base entrance when he accidentally discharged his carbine without knowing it was loaded.

The bullet traveled about 30 yards, penetrated the window of a passing train and struck Sachiyuki Miyamura, 22, in the back.

Longpre was held on an open charge of unlawful killing. The Air Force said the shooting is "still considered an accident and is still being investigated." a police spokesman said the Japanese investigation also was not complete and "nothing can be said for publication yet."

★ ★ ★

Col. Ray Vandiver, commander of Johnson air base, appeared with Longpre at the news conference to express his "deepest personal and official regret to the family of the deceased and to the people of Japan."

He said in a statement: "I want to assure you this incident will not become another Girard case . . . . With understanding and good will on the parts of Japanese and Americans I am confident that this case can be resolved with equity and justice."

★ ★ ★

GI William S. Girard of Ottawa, Ill., shot and killed a Japanese woman scrap scavenger on a firing range in 1957. Army attempts to minimize the incident aroused a storm of criticism in Japan, and attempts in the United States to prevent Girard's trial by a Japanese court seriously threatened Japanese-American relations. He was finally convicted by the Japanese of manslaughter, given a three-year suspended sentence and was discharged from the Army after his return to the United States.

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Deputy Trade Minister Christian Brinch said today he is leaving for the United States in the near future to complete negotiations for a 15 million dollar loan to Norway.

Refrigerator cars are often used in the winter months to transport commodities that might be damaged by freezing.

World Solo Flight Halted in Vineyard

BASTIA, Corsica (AP)—Another American's attempt to fly solo around the world in eight days came to a temporary halt in a Corsican vineyard yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Capt. Charles F. Banfe Jr., 39, a Palo Alto, Calif., airline pilot, flew his single-engine plane across the Atlantic from New York but a fuel pump failure brought him down in a field of low grape vines about 250 miles short of his first scheduled stop, Rome.

Banfe was unhurt and said there was virtually no damage to his plane. He planned to move it to the Bastia airport, make repairs, and then continue his round-the-world attempt. But it appeared unlikely he could meet his eight-day goal.

★ ★ ★

They Show His Love—Abby

Have Faith in His Actions

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: I have one of the best husbands in the whole world. We've been married for 17 years and he has shown me by his actions that he loves me. But, Abby, I would like to hear him SAY it just once. I can't remember the last time he actually said "I love you." Am I wrong to expect this one luxury?" WANDA

ABBY

DEAR WANDA: Actions speak louder than words. Some men are not vocal. If you feel in your heart that he loves you, you don't have to hear it.

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: Last week my husband had a lost weekend with a dishwater blonde. We are both 30 and have been married 10 years. This dishwater blonde is 47 and waits on table near where he works. I don't want to break up my home over this because it is against my religion, but I would like to know how I could teach him a good lesson. My girl friend says I should make him sleep on the couch for a month. Now I am asking you." GLADDY

DEAR GLADDY: DON'T listen to your girl friend or your husband will use this as a good excuse to see the waitress again. Forgive him and tell him you forgive as though you mean it. Kill him with kindness. It'll drive him crazy.

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: My problem is that I cannot enter a certain field of employment because of my age. I am 32 and look about 24. It runs in my family to look younger than we are. Is there any way I can have my age changed legally on my birth certificate?" BETTY R

★ ★ ★

DEAR BETTY: There is NO way to legitimately change your age on your birth certificate.

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: I have a best girl friend named Joannie and she and I agreed to tell each other the honest-to-goodness truth about each other's faults. She told me all my faults and then when it came my turn to tell her all her faults she said she had to go home. Do you think this was fair? We are 10 years old." FULL OF FAULTS

DEAR FULL: Joannie wasn't a very good sport, but she is typical of most girls who are so eager to tell you your faults. They can dish it out—but they can't take it."

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: I married a man who had three children because I loved him, although I had never been married before myself. His first wife remarried and had two more children in two years. My husband takes his children out on Sunday and brings them here.

"This is all right because they are his children, but I do not like the idea of his wife including the two other children she had by her second husband. They are both under five and I have enough to worry about with my husband's three who are all under 12. Am I wrong to complain and what can I do about it?" DEPRESSED

DEAR DEPRESSED: Your husband's ex-wife has no business unloading her two children (by her second husband) on you. Your husband is foolish to accommodate her and you should definitely be firm in your refusal to put up with it.

★ ★ ★

CONFIDENTIAL TO MISERABLE: A Bible in the hand is worth two on the shelf. If you think you've got trouble—get one down and read the Book of Job.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Redecorate Using Basic One Color

If you're redecorating your present kitchen or planning a color scheme for a new one, try starting with just one color, suggests an extension specialist in home furnishings at Michigan State University.

Doors, windows, and furnishings break up space in rooms—often this gives a cluttered or "busy" look. A "one-color" plan can help hold the parts together, she explains. Concentrate on large unbroken color areas for a spacious, uncluttered feeling.

Pick a color or neutral that appeals to you and your family. Be sure it goes well with colors in rooms opening into the kitchen.

Wallboard Good Beginner Artists

Before the first strokes, though, seal the pores with shellac. When the first coat is dry, give the wallboard another coat.

Health Exams More Comprehensive

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Today when you go to a physician he asks you a great deal more about your background, more about yourself and your past illnesses and problems, and also more about your forebears than was the custom in the past.

Doctor C. Ward Crampton long has been a pioneer in treating "the whole man." Years before the day of psychosomatic medicine (or the effect of the emotions and the mind on the body) he insisted that in order to treat a man medically a physician must take into consideration the patient's fears, frustrations and attitudes.

Years ago this same distinguished doctor felt that an ailing organ cannot be treated individually, without concern for the rest of the body, but that the whole body must be built up with supportive measures in order to give aid to the weakened organ.

PERIODIC EXAMS

Doctor Crampton also crusaded for periodic health examinations and for a lifetime medical history of the patient. All this is taken for granted today. Yet there remain thousands of folks who go to the doctor only when they are ill or in pain. Many people still think that they are being neurotics if they go to see their doctor when they feel O.K. In my book it is not neurotic but intelligent!

So many serious future troubles can be caught and cured or controlled if they are discovered in time. This is especially true today when there are so many new therapies and new medicines! Everyone should have a yearly physical checkup, and twice yearly is better from middle age on.

While we do not have the training or information which our doctors have, if we are at all aware, we have a far more intimate and comprehensive knowledge of our own physical selves than any physician can have without intensive and extensive investigation.

What I am trying to say is, "Why don't you help yourself and your doctor by checking up on yourself and giving the results to your physician?" If you are chronically tired, if you have recurring headaches, if you have backaches or chronic or recurring indigestion, if you have muscle cramps or any other seemingly minor physical discomfort, do not wait. Take it to your physician.

Tomorrow: "Have You Been Fudging? Exercises Will Slim Waist."

Be Quiet About Leaving

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: How can I leave a party without breaking it up when eleven or eleven-thiry comes around and all the other guests seem to be in no hurry? People always seem to think they should leave soon after the first one makes the move."

Answer: For the very reason that you have given, the best way is to make your going as inconspicuous as possible. That is, you can explain to your host (or hostess) that you have to leave but don't want to break up the party, so please not to take any notice of your going. Then if you wait a few minutes, you can slip away without being noticed. If you go up to the hostess and shake hands and say good-night, certainly that will tend to break up the party.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter is going to be married soon and we intend to have bouquets of flowers placed on the first five pews on both the bride and bridegroom's side of the church. After the ceremony, would it be proper to have someone remove the bouquets from the pews and take them to the reception where they can be used for decoration, or must they be left in the church to be used on the altar?"

Answer: To transfer the flowers from the church to decorate the reception would, I am afraid, seem niggardly to anyone aware of this transfer.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Shouldn't a wife always be invited when her husband is, unless it is a party just for the men or just for the women?"

Answer: Correctly, yes. But it can be a business party or an organization party and still be a mixed group in which "outsiders" would have no place. However, such a party taking place on a holiday or in the evening after business hours should, if possible, include the wives, or husbands, of married members.

Waterford Club Sees Slides of Philippines

"International Cooperation" was the subject of the program presented to the Waterford Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association when the group met Thursday at the home of Mrs. Clark Easley of Williams Lake.

Mrs. F. G. Garrison of Birmingham introduced guest speaker Mary Walquist, assistant 4-H Club agent in Mt. Clemens. She showed colored slides of her stay in the Philippines where she was an International exchange student.

Mama's Time Off Pays Big Dividends

By RUTH MILLETT

Fed up with housework? Tired of being tied down? Convinced that you can't find even a few hours a week to call your own?

Then maybe this letter will perk you up.

A housewife writes: "With four small children and all my own work to do, I used to feel about as dull and drab as any woman could. All I did, it seemed to me, was cook and scrub, wash and iron, and try to keep four boys from killing themselves, each other, or completely wrecking the house.

"I'll admit I often felt sorry for myself because I never had a minute I could call my own. I always found time to get the children to the doctor and dentist, time to do errands for my husband, time to help out a neighbor, time to bake a cake for a church supper — but never time to do anything I wanted to do.

"Then one day it dawned on me that it was nobody's fault but my own that I never had a minute for myself. If I could make time for everybody else I could make time for myself, too.

"So now for the past year I have had 'Mama's afternoon off.' Every Wednesday afternoon I hire a sitter for four hours with money I squeeze out of my household allowance. And short of having child who is too sick to leave, I take off from home every Wednesday to do something I want to do.

"It may be a leisurely shopping trip. Or a visit with a friend. Or a movie my husband doesn't care about seeing. Or an appointment at the beauty shop.

"What I do isn't very important. But knowing I have a half day off a week coming to me to spend anyway I choose has made me a lot happier and, I'm sure, a lot easier for my family to live with.

"I'm writing you all this because I thought some of your readers might be dragging along the way I used to, feeling they don't have a minute to call their own. I just want to tell them that nobody gives a busy housewife time for herself. She has to make it."

Just watch this word. You'll be hearing it a great deal for fall. Hair styles for autumn will be neatly tassled. You can say goodbye to the egg beater look. It is definitely out. A soft, airy look is the "do" for fall with curls made to brush into place. This hair arrangement is made to order for the new fashions, and you don't want to look outdated. Professional care is the best for your hair.

Don't adhere to the hairdos of the past. They just won't complement the newest fashions. Just decide that one of the newer hairstyles can be adapted to suit you and brushed out exactly the way you like it. Rowen's Beauty Salons, 4831 Dixie Highway, Drayton Plains. Phone OR 3-3541. 14 S. Milliner's Idea for School Hat

Hearty Vegetable Soup May Be Called Borsch

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Borsch, according to one authority, is any vegetable soup; it doesn't have to be beet soup. This particular Borsch recipe comes from Mrs. Jacob Martz of Wormer Lake. She got it from a Russian friend in California.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Martz is a teacher. She is also an enthusiastic new home owner. Golfing and swimming are her sports.

BORSCH
By Mrs. Jacob Martz

6 potatoes
½ quart fresh tomatoes
1 soup bone or 1 pound butter
Small head of cabbage
3 small onions
2 cloves garlic (optional)
½ cup cream
Fresh or dried dill

Cut potatoes in chunks and boil until tender. Brown onions and garlic in butter. Add tomatoes and raw cabbage. Simmer until almost tender. If soup bone is used, add it to the vegetables.

★ ★ ★

Mash potatoes, add to tomato mixture, then add cream. Let heat until right serving temperature. Do not boil. Garnish, if desired, with the dill. Serves about six.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1958 PONTIAC, MICHIGAN. FIFTEEN

Traffic Halts Both Ways by New School Bus Law

As you drive down the highway you see the familiar yellow bus approaching.

Then red lights on the front of the bus start blinking alternately at you.

That's something new.

The lights are telling you to stop. The bus is about to halt and discharge or receive school children.

This is the main feature of the new Michigan school bus law that goes into effect next Saturday.

As an added protection for children, the new law orders both oncoming and overtaking traffic to halt when a school bus stops. Formerly, only traffic approaching buses from the rear had to halt.

★ ★ ★

Are you one of those drivers who narrowly missed striking a child as he ran out in front of the school bus you were about to pass? If so, you need no reminder of the dangerous situation the new law is trying to correct.

The theory is, if traffic is halted in both directions, children mounting or leaving the bus can cross the road in front of it without worrying about passing cars.

In carrying out the theory, school bus drivers have been instructed to keep their buses halted and the blinkers flashing as long as there are any children in the street.

Your job as a driver is to remain halted as long as the blinkers are flashing.

If Michigan motorists do their job well, the high rate of school-age traffic injuries and deaths may be trimmed significantly. Last year, motor vehicle accidents throughout the nation killed 2,600 children in the 5-14 age group, and injured 150,000 others.

Here are other details of the new law:

—Stops must be made at least 10 feet in front or from the rear of the bus.

—Drivers may not proceed until (1) the school bus resumes motion; (2) the bus driver signals other drivers to proceed; or (3) the flashing signals are turned off.

—The law does not require drivers to stop for a halted school bus at an intersection controlled by a police officer or a stop-and-go light.

—Nevertheless, at such an intersection, drivers may pass the bus at speeds of only 10 miles an hour or less and with due caution for children.

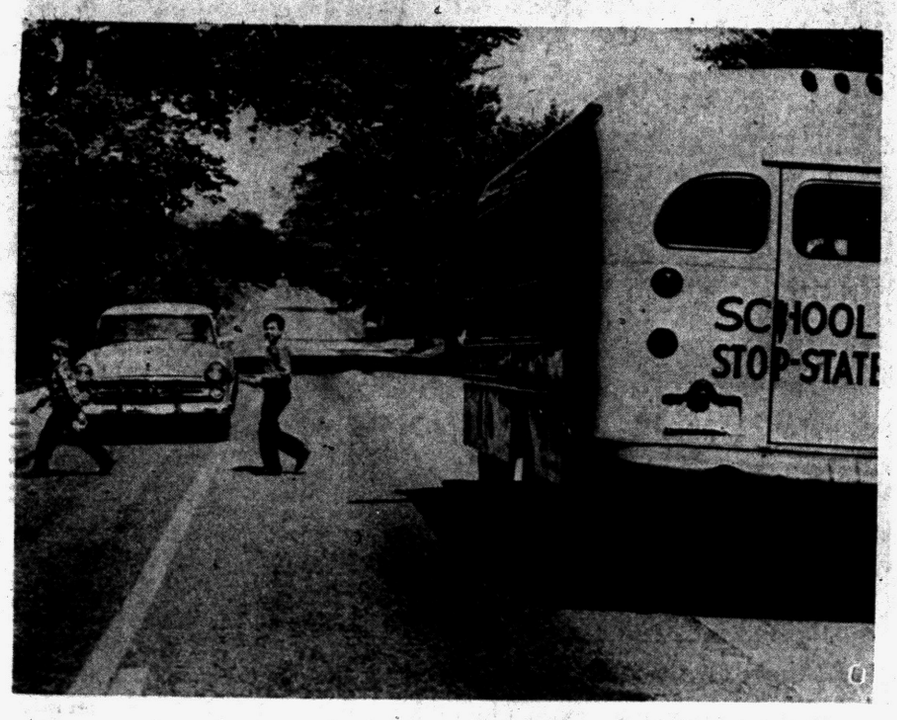

The new law (like the old one) is applicable only in unincorporated areas. It doesn't apply in incorporated cities, such as Pontiac or Birmingham or in villages.

★ ★ ★

Villages and cities can require stopping by local ordinance, tough, if there are signs to inform drivers of the regulation.

In Pontiac, there are no such regulations, although police are continually on the alert for drivers who do not exercise due caution where school buses are concerned.

And here's a final note for drivers. Once you get used to the new Michigan law, you'll find that you know what to do about school buses in other states, too. The new law conforms with requirements in effect in all states but Utah.

STOP! — Here's a scene that will become familiar beginning next Saturday. The driver has halted while the school bus is stopped and the children are crossing the road. Used to be that only drivers approaching school buses from the rear had to halt when the bus stopped. After Sept. 13, though, the law says motorists going either direction have to stop.

Hazel Park Boy Drowns in River

Nine-Year-Old Perishes as Motor Boat Flips at Detroit

HAZEL PARK — Nine-year-old Daniel Osmialowski of 744 E. Madge St., Hazel Park, drowned Saturday night in the Detroit River when a 14-foot outboard motor boat in which he was riding with his father and a neighbor overturned.

★ ★ ★

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Osmialowski.

The small craft flipped over in the wakes of two passing cabin cruisers, according to the boy's father, Michael, 36, and Frank Oboza of 828 E. Madge St., owner of the boat.

They said they dove for the boy but couldn't reach him. Hearing the screams of the two men, two officers in a harbormaster's boat rescued the two men and dragged the boy's body from beneath the overturned boat.

Surviving besides his parents are two sisters, Christine, 11, and Debbie, 1½.

The body is at the Kolasa Funeral Home, Detroit. Service will be held at 9 a.m. Wednesday at St. Rita's Catholic Church on State Fair avenue, Detroit, with burial in Mt. Olivet Cemetery, Detroit.

Spritely Pianist, 85, Honored by Mount Vernon Methodists

By LEE WINBORN
Romeo Correspondent

MOUNT VERNON — A tiny, white-haired woma of 85 sat down at the piano Sunday in the Mount Vernon Methodist Church and played familiar hymns as she had for the past 71 years.

But this particular Sunday was a special occasion for Mrs. Jessie Jackson, for she was being honored at a "Service of Recognition" by members of her church.

In observance of her 85th birthday, which she celebrated Sept. 4, the Methodists of this small community, located four miles southwest of Romeo, decided to pay tribute to their beloved church pianist. They planned a worship service and reception in her honor.

Not one to sit back and watch the proceedings, this charming and vital little woman took her familiar place at the piano and played for singing as she had done since she was a girl of 14.

Mrs. Jackson's service to her church and community began when she first played the piano in the Baptist Church in Mount Vernon in 1887. After this church closed six years later, she took over the same position at the Methodist church. She was about 21 years old then.

Now, as then, she plays for regular services, funerals, programs and other special functions. And she has no plans for retirement. Her hands still move nimbly over the keys, and she would miss the contribution to life in her community that has been hers for close to 75 years.

Will Jackson claimed Jessie Fangboner as his bride on Nov. 5, 1892. They lived with her family on Mount Vernon road and farmed for a living. They had six children, three of whom are still living today: Harold of Detroit and Fred and Lester, both of Mount Vernon.

★ ★ ★

In 1942, the Jacksons celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. Less than a year later Mr. Jackson died.

Mrs. Jackson's musical career began when she was about eight or nine years old, under the tutelage of the former Maggie Rush. She later took lessons from a Washington school teacher who boarded in her mother's home. She remembers she had exactly 100 lessons.

The Rev. Marion A. Pohly, minister of the Methodist church, conducted Sunday's special service during which Mrs. Jackson received a bouquet of roses and a corsage. Miss Mollie Eberle sang "Sweeter as the Years Go By," and the honoree's son and granddaughter, Sally, led the call to prayer.

Mrs. Jackson also played the piano accompaniment to a violin selection by Mrs. Mina Barr. After the rite, church members and guests wrote their names in a white letter book later presented to Mrs. Jackson.

The special message of dedication on the opening page read: "This service is dedicated to you, Mrs. Jessie Jackson, as congratulatory to you on your 85th birthday anniversary—and in recognition for your faithful, loving service to the Mount Vernon Methodist Church.

"We recognize that you have given unselfishly of yourself as you have served this church these many years as pianist, Sunday School teacher, Communion stewardess, member of the Ladies Aid and Church Courtesy chairman.

★ ★ ★

"Our earnest prayer is that you may be granted continued strength to serve your God, your Church and your Community."

Ike Jokingly Rates Caddy 1st for Draft

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—President Eisenhower conferred an unusual honor on his caddy today. He gave the lad—jokingly—a first-to-go status in the draft.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

Balloon Telescope Floats 19½ Miles Up

A spokesman for General Mills, Inc., which launched the unmanned balloon from suburban New Brighton, Minn., last night, said its altitude was 103,500 feet. The balloon was floating slowly westward over Iowa.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology scientists, working with the Office of Naval Research, said they hoped to learn more about cosmic rays, a potential hazard to manned space flight.

The lead shield was used to put up a barrier to secondary cosmic rays, and allow only primary rays to be recorded.

The telescopic equipment will be released by a timing device and will float to earth beneath a cluster of four parachutes, probably about 20 miles west of Waterloo, Iowa.

Kiepura Sings His Way Through 2 Iron Curtains

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Returning to his native Poland for the first time in 19 years, operatic tenor Jan Kiepura crossed two Iron Curtain frontiers yesterday without a passport.

At the East Berlin airport the singer reported that his passport had been stolen. The authorities told him he could not continue his trip.

"But I am Jan Kiepura," said the singer.

"It is only you who tells us this, please prove it to us," the official replied.

"I can sing to you," said Kiepura, and did.

Several thousand welcomed Kiepura at Warsaw's airport, and he sang to them. The enthusiastic crowd would not allow him to leave until he sang again which he did, standing on the hood of a car. And on arrival at his hotel Kiepura sang from the balcony of his room to a crowd in the street.

Kiepura, during his two-month visit, will give 15 concerts.

Racial Action Stirs in Arkansas, Virginia

By The Associated Press

Legal action simmered in Arkansas and Virginia today at the start of a week of decision in the nation's integration crisis.

The decision was expected to come after Thursday's U. S. Supreme Court hearing on the Little Rock case — a decision that may have decisive influence on the speed of integration in the South.

Coup Aborted in Venezuela

General Strike Closes Caracas as Union Heads Protest Rebellion

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — A general strike closed this troubled capital today in the wake of another military attempt to seize power from a government junta striving to restore democracy in Venezuela.

Union leaders threatened to continue the walkout until their demands—for disbanding rebellious military police and for disciplining some army officers—are met.

Eight hours of street fighting in downtown Caracas reportedly killed about 20 persons and left 200 wounded. Most of the casualties were said to be unarmed youngsters who played a major part in laying seige on the rebel headquarters downtown.

The government of Rear Adm. Wolfgang Larrazabal announced one leader of the coup was under arrest and three others were hiding out in the Mexican Embassy.

The rebels seized Caracas radio stations before dawn and began broadcasting charges that the junta was a failure and high-ranking officials were friends of Perez Jimenez.

Loyal officers regained control within minutes and broadcast calls for the people to support the government. Political leaders, union leaders and others joined in the appeals.

Crowds poured into the streets and the rebels opened fire from their stronghold in the MP barracks.

The angry mobs seized buses, trucks and automobiles to build street barricades. Then they threw sticks, rocks and homemade gasoline bombs at the rebel headquarters and shouted support for Larrazabal and his government.

Civilian vigilantes charged the building with machetes and lead pipes, but they were beaten back by machine-gun fire from inside. Then about 150 navy men charged the building. Rebel fire also forced them to retreat.

AF Cadet Has 2 Ex-Girl Friends

His Mistake — Dating 2 Miss America Finalists

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Air Force Cadet E. D. Hopkins, who dated two entrants in the Miss America pageant, now has two ex-girl friends.

Hopkins, who is attending the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo., was going out with the daughters of two of his officers.

The other, Sandra Lee Jennings, 18, became Miss California.

As further tribute to Hopkins' taste, both girls were among the five finalists in the pageant.

★ ★ ★

But as testimony to his woes, both were interviewed on the air by master of ceremonies Bert Parks and had a chance to say their piece.

Joanne, whose home town is Ames, Iowa, was asked to name the most conspicuous fault of American men.

"This can get me into a great deal of trouble," the Iowa State College coed said, and cited the casualness with which men regard women.

Then she said she had a funny experience lately.

"Miss California and I have been dating the same cadet."

Parks asked Joanne what her solution to that problem would be and she said:

"I think he has two ex-girl friends."

Grandma Moses Has Quiet 98th Birthday

Well-Attended 109th State Fair Closes in Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—Michigan's 109th annual State Fair became history today, acclaimed for its attendance and financial showing against recession-year handicaps.

The preliminary official report on the 10-day exposition, which closed yesterday, said attendance was the scond highest in history and there was a profit of $10,000.

Total attendance was 807,318, second only to the record high of 821,656 in 1956.

Donald L. Swanson, general manager, said the $10,000 profit was attained in the face of "tremendous obstacles," including an income deficit at the start of $45,000.

This deficit, as measured against last year's financial basis, resulted from $20,000 less income from commercial and concession exhibits and $25,000 less from grandstand fees.

Swanson said daily attendance records were set on the first Saturday and on Tuesday and the second Friday.

The last major event yesterday was the 250-mile automobile race. A crowd of 12,000 was in the grandstand.

For her wedding the new Mrs. Anthony chose a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace and tulle over taffeta. It featured long sleeves, a bateau neckline and a full bouffant skirt.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Susan Meinke of Waterford, and bridesmaid was Marian Medlen of Pontiac.

Best man was Ronald Haenke of Waterford. Ushers were the bridegroom's brothers, Thomas and Stephen, and Richard Miller, the bride's brother.

New Air Force Academy Lacks Airfield

By DAVID J. OSTREICHER

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — Cadets on the lavish new campus of the Air Force Academy near Colorado Springs will have to do without trations for a while—until they have time to build some up.

They'll also have to get along without an airfield until that's built too.

It's one of the things that are missing from this 18,000-acre installation that someday will be as closely associated with the Air Force in the public mind as West Point is with the Army and Annapolis with the Navy.

Someday, in fact, the Air Academy will even have an airfield. But it will be quite a few years.

Congress refused to appropriate the 15 million dollars needed to build one in 1957 and the Air Force did not repeat its request for the funds this year.

And once the appropriation is approved, the airfield will take two years to construct. Until then, the cadets will have to travel by bus from the academy to Lowry Air Force Base near Denver—70 miles—for their flight training, a total of 171 hours over four years.

Since July 1, 1955, the academy has been temporarily located at Lowry. Construction of the permanent academy, a 133-million-dollar project, was started in 1954. It is now 85 per cent complete.

The cadet wing of 1,160 young men has moved into this 85 per cent—living quarters, classrooms and an administration building.

The lack of traditions is less of a problem than is the lack of an airfield.

As Cadet Lt. Col. Eugene C. Vosika, 22, a first classman (senior) and group commander of the summer training program for fourth classmen (freshman), put it: "What are traditions anyway?"

Next June, his class will become the first to be graduated with bachelor of engineering degrees and regular Air Force commissions as second lieutenants.

In its three years at Lowry, the academy has broken away from many of the procedures followed at Army and Navy.

Instead, Air Academy fledglings must memorize such functional Air Force terms as "thrust," "airspeed" and "trajectory" and be able to reel them off at the beck and call of upper classmen.

Sullivan, 43, took over as commandant Aug. 1. His last assignment was commander of a SAC bombardment wing at Ramey AFB, Puerto Rico. A graduate of West Point of 1939, he is a combat veteran of World War II who served in the China-Burma-India theater.

Both officers agreed that the academy's rigorous "honor code" is the backbone of the institution.

"We have taken the best from honor codes in use at both West Point and Annapolis and other colleges and universities and deleted the worst," Sullivan said.

The code states: "We will not lie, cheat or steal and will not tolerate anyone among us who lies, cheats or steals."

Sullivan declared: "We have placed the code entirely in the hands of the cadets. They both enforce and administrate it.

Charges of waste and extravagance and sharp criticsim of the academy's architecture has come from congressmen on both sides of the political aisle.

One member of the House, Rep. Jamie Whitten (D-Miss) last month called the academy buildings "a shrine to the loose fiscal procedures of the Air Force."

As for the architecture, described as "timeless" by its designers—Skidmore, Owings and Merrill—one congressman has said that the academy's aluminum-spired and glass chapel either looks like "a museum of modern art or a skating rink."

Rep. Whitten called it "a rectangular accordion stretched out on the floor."

In their own defense, the architects said the buildings are designed to blend in with the spectacular beauty of the Rocky Mountain foothills in the distance.

Under Nearly Impossible Circumstances

Gases Could Kill 133,000 in Monroe Area

GENEVA (AP)—An American professor estimated today that 133,000 people in Detroit's downriver communities could be killed by radioactive gases in the worst conceivable nuclear power plant accident in the area.

His estimate assumed an almost impossible series of circumstances—a total escape of deadly fission products from a nearby nuclear plant, in weather conditions that occur on the average of only five days a year.

A change of wind, for instance, would cause only a negligible number of casualties, said Prof. J. J. Gomberg of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor.

Gomberg's report on possible consequences of a hypothetical accident at the Enrico Ferim power plant now being built near Monroe, Mich., was presented to the atoms-for-peace conference.

The study assumed that the plant, operating at 300 megawatts after a long period of functioning at full power, accidentally released a cloud of radioactivity varying from 1 to 100 per cent of all the fission products in the plant.

Even in case of a 100 per cent release of fission products, said Gomberg, the casualties would be negligible if the wind was blowing out over Lake Erie.

"On the other hand, if the wind direction, the wind velocity and the temperature gradient are unfavorable, the accident results in a major public catstrophe," he said.

A vastly lower estimate of the number of possible casualties in a "remotely conceivable" accident at any big nuclear power plant was made to the conference by three other Americans.

They said that "under a pessimistic combination of circumstances" up to 4,000 people could be killed and hundreds of thousands injured by a release of radioactivity.

Drs. C. K. Beck, M. M. Mann and P. A. Morris, of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commmission noted, however, that an extensive network of safeguards surrounds the operation of reactors in the United States.

★ ★ ★

A series of other reports to the conference dealt with the protection given to the public by "containment structures" — walls of steel armor—built around operating reactors.

Speakers stressed that while nuclear accidents involving explosions or discharges of radioactivity were always possible, the safeguards required by law made hazards more potential than actual.

Gomberg's paper said that a hypothetical accident resulting in 1 per cent release of radioactive gases from the Fermi plant would kill no one in Detroit although some people might receive small doses of radiation.

This calculation assumed that the wind was blowing directly towards Detroit.

Given certain temperatures, and with the wind blowing toward Monroe, five people might die in that city from a 1 per cent discharge at the plant, the report continued. But even if the wind carried the radioactive cloud to Toledo, there would be no deaths there.

Gomberg said these estimates—in a survey carried out at the request of Atomic Power Associates of Detroit—wre completely reassuring.

However, in his assumption of the worst possible disaster at the plant, with 100 per cent release of fission products, Gomberg estimated that 133,000 might die if a 4½-mile-an-hour wind blew 16 degrees north-northeast from the plant toward Detroit's downriver communities at the time of the accident.

With a wind blowing 23 degrees north-north east toward more distant downtown Detroit, Gomberg estimated 90,000 dead, while a wind blowing 8 degrees north might bring death to 59,000 persons in the Dearborn area.

A wind bloiwng 215 degrees southwest might bring death to 42,000 persons in downtown Toledo, while a wind blowing northwest to south over Lake Erie would cause 300 fatalities in lakeside communities.

'Who's Going to Pay for It?'

Raps State Democrats for 'Pie in Sky' Promise

LANSING (AP)—A top Republican spokesman has described the Democratic platform as one "that promises something for everybody."

House Speaker George M. Van Peursem (R-Zeeland) said in his weekly newsletter that he had written to Gov. Williams about the Democratic platform.

"The Democrat platform promises something for everybody," Van Peursem said. "Conservative estimates of their spending proposals range into many, many millions of dollars.

"Yet not one word is found in the Democrat platform estimating the cost of these proposals—nor is anything said about how they are to be paid for."

Van Peursem said he wrote the Governor asking:

"1—What does the Governor estimate to be the cost of these proposals?

"2—What new tax proposals are going to be made by the Governor to finance these programs?"

Van Peursem said a few items in the proposed Democratic platform include:

More funds for the Economic Development Commission, establishment of a Fair Business Practices Commission, an increase in workmen's compensation benefits, more money for the Tourist Council, more money to study the St. Lawrence Seaway, increased unemployment compensation benefits, increased state aid to schools, more programs in adult education, more aid to the aged, blind and disabled, expanded care for the mentally ill, a health insurance plan, more programs for the handicapped and many other proposals.

"Legislators, as well as the people of the state,' he said, "are anxious to examine and study the cost estimates right now of the Democrat program as well as the new tax proposals necessary to pay for it."

The Republican platform, Van Peursem said, "realistically describes and then presents solutions to Michigan economic problems. It is not filled with 'pie in the sky' proposals."

Turnpike Cars Crash Head-On

7 Michigan Residents Injured in Rare Mishap on Ohio Toll Road

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — Seven persons from Michigan were injured last night, three of them critically, in the first head-on auto crash in the history of the Ohio Turnpike.

Michael Tymoc, 35, Warren, Mich., his wife rose, 33, and their son Richard, 7, were taken to Elyria Memorial Hospital in critical condition.

★ ★ ★

Larissa Tymoc, 5, and two sailors in the car that rammed the Tymoc auto were in fair condition with cuts and bruises.

James D. Hartshorne, director of information and research for the Ohio Turnpike Commission, said it was the first time a car had crossed the 56-foot median strip in the center of the toll road highway.

★ ★ ★

Turnpike patrolmen said Ladouceno's eastbound auto skidded on loose gravel a mile and a half west of the Lorain-Elyria interchange.

It smashed over the center strip and struck the Tymoc car head-on, according to the turnpike patrol.

Doesn't Visit Husband After Speech in Tiny Home Town

OKLEE, Minn. (AP) — Congresswoman Coya Knutson campaigned in her tiny home town yesterday but didn't go to see her husband, the author of a "Coya Come Home" campaign.

While his wife spoke in the school where she used to teach, Andy Knutson sat alone in his hotel less than two blocks away.

★ ★ ★

To a reporter who asked if he would go hear his wife's address, Knutson replied, "She said she was coming home, didn't she?"

★ ★ ★

"This is her home, isn't it?" he asked, indicating the little hotel he operates. "I'm going to sit here and see what she does."

What Mrs. Knutson did was make her speech, then have coffee and cookies while visiting old friends for about an hour. Then, without visiting Andy, she drove out of this northwestern Minnesota town of about 500 persons.

★ ★ ★

Knutson has said his wife, 45, hasn't been home for Christmas for two years and for Easter the past three. In a statement several months ago urging his wife not to seek re-election, Knutson said he yearned for "the happy home that we enjoyed for many years prior to her election."

★ ★ ★

Coya, however, went ahead with her plans to seek a third term. She and Moorhead businessman Marvin Evenson are contesting in tomorrow's primary election for the Democratic nomination. Knutson appeared at some meetings with Evenson.

Speaking to 1,200 persons in the school auditorium, Mrs. Knutson made brief mention of her husband.

★ ★ ★

"I had personal problems long before I went to Congress," she said.

★ ★ ★

Much of her speech was a defense of her record in Congress.

After his wife's departure from Oklee, Knutson told a newsman that he would have nothing more to say until after the primary. He declined to predict the election result.

★ ★ ★

"The next move is up to Coya," he said. "I've done all I can."

Mrs. Knutson was asked later, at Moorhead, why she hadn't gone to see Knutson when she was in Oklee.

"No comment on that," she said.

Expect Election Despite Conflict

Lebanese Officials Eye Presidency in U.N. for Minister Malik

By TOM MASTERSON

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Officials at the Lebanese Foreign Ministry said today they are sure Foreign Minister Charles Malik will be elected president of the U.N. General Assembly this month despite opposition by the Arab League's political committee.

The committee obviously objected to Malik because of his pronounced pro-Western leanings. Lebann will get a chance to reply at a committee meeting in Cairo tomorrow. Lebanon has been asked to name another candidate for Arab League support.

Foreign Ministry sources claimed the league could not swing enough votes to block Malik because he was promised the presidency under a tacit agreement last year after withdrawing in favor of New Zealand's Sir Leslie Munro. Malik's opponents maintain the promise was made to Lebanon and not to him personally.

The government that Malik represents goes out of power a week after the U.N. Assembly election. It is highly unlikely Malik will continue in office since the Lebanese rebels bitterly oppose him.

★ ★ ★

President-Elect Fuad Chehab has made no comment on Malik's candidacy.

Rebels broke the peace prevailing in the Beirut area since the partial lifting of the general strike last Thursday.

A bomb exploded under two police jeeps driving in front of a taxi which apparently was mistaken for Premier Sami Solh's limousine. Lebanese officials said the bomb was meant for Solh, who narrowly escpaed death in a similar assassination attempt July 29.

Eight policemen were injured in yesterday's explosion.

Grand Jury Investigates Goldfine Papers Theft

Miss Mildred Paperman herself — blonde bookkeeper for the gift-giving friend of Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams and other political figures—was scheduled to be in the witness chair.

The grand jury specifically is looking into housebreaking charges against William (Colonel) Walters, a 33-year-old hotel cashier.

Police accused him of lifting the "Paperman papers" — records of Goldfine dealings—from Miss Paperman's hotel room in early July. The House influence-investigating subcommittee's inquiry into the alleged influence-for-favors tieup between Goldfine and Adams was then at its height.

Miss Paperman reported the theft the same night that the room of Jack Lotto, a Goldfine public relations man, was "bugged" with a hidden microphone by subcommittee investigator Baron I. Shacklette and newsman Jack Anderson.

A cops and robbers evening in the hotel corridors was capped afterwards with offers of a lie detector tests all around.

Police arrested Walters more than a week later. However, they still have made no charge as to why Walters might have wanted the papers.

Miss Paperman flew to the Capital last night with Samuel Sears, a Goldfine lawyer. She said she made the trip "because the district attorney requested me to."

"I enjoy Washington very much and wish I could be around quite awhile," she added gaily.

Keep the Faith, Pope Instructs Fold in China

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Pius XII has called on Roman Catholics in Communist China to hold firm in their faith against attacks by the Communist regime.

His message was contained in an encyclical letter dated June 29 and released today by the Vatican press office.

Vatican sources said the delay in making the document public probably was planned to give the Vatican time to get the message through secret channels to Catholic authorities in Red China.

The appeal warned against recent intensified efforts by Communist authorities to split Catholics in China from the Vatican and to set up a separate Chinese church.

"For some time," said the 82-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church, "with insistent propaganda the so-called patriocit movement has been proclaiming the pretended right of Catholics to elect bishops by their own initiative."

This, said the Pope, indicated a "spirit of rebellion to the Church and a grave fact" that "has filled our heart, that of the Father and universal pastor of the faithful, with a grief beyond words."

Governor's Wife Patient at Hospital in Lansing

Her condition is described as not serious and she is expected to return home within the week. She is under the care of the family physician, Dr. Kenneth M. Johnson.

Mrs. Williams, complaining of discomfort from a temperature, was taken to the hospital at 1:30 a.m. Saturday.

The Governor's wife first became ill while visiting at the Governor's summer home on Mackinac Island. Dr. Johnson said he ordered hospitalization because she was not making a sufficiently rapid recovery.

Eaton Urges Meeting of Ike and Khrushchev

He had spent a fortnight in the Soviet Union, during which he wrote an article in Pravda urging President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Khrushchev to exchange visits.

Afraid Father Killed Children

Takes Own Life After Leaving Note Saying He Murdered 2 Tots

By FRANK N. MANITZAS

Austin, Tex. (AP) — Police searched today for two missing children believed killed by their father shortly before he committed suicide yesterday.

A note found beside the body of A. J. Campbell, 32, of Fort Worth said:

★ ★ ★

"It's all over now. I buried both children today. Maybe I was sick. I hope you and your folks all the happiness and just remember I still love you."

It was addressed to his estranged wife, Jewell, 30, Goliad, Tex.

★ ★ ★

Campbell's body was found in a car north of Austin. He had been shot with a shotgun. Peace Justice J. H. Watson ruled suicide.

Deputy Sheriff Lloyd Leffingwell said there is a slim chance the children are still alive. "You can't tell," he added.

Campbell telephoned the Rev. James Harris in Fort Worth Saturday and told him he had killed the children and was going to kill himself.

Mrs. Campbell, a schoolteacher, said her husband needed psychiatric attention. She said Campbell, a bricklayer, picked up Myrisha Faye, 3, and A. J. Campbell Jr., 11 months, early Saturday at her home for a weekend visit.

She said their divorce would have been final in another month. She said he wanted her to go back to him "but I told him there wasn't any use."

★ ★ ★

The search for the children centered around Granite Shoals Lake in central Texas. Mrs. Campbell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T.M. Cash of Woodsboro, Tex., have a home there.

Searches also were also made in the Goliad, San Angelo, Andrews, Fort Worth and Arlington areas, all former homes of the couple.

★ ★ ★

Campbell, a bricklayer, came to Texas from Alexandria City, Ala., about 10 years ago. He and Mrs. Campbell had been married nearly eight years.

Nature's Most Freakish, Vicious Storm

Science Aims to Find, Stop Tornadoes

WASHINGTON — Vicious and freakish, tornadoes have long eluded man's attempts to understand their mysterious violence.

No scientist can yet predict just when or where a tornado will burst from the clouds and, with an unearthly roar, scythe across the countryside. In its wild swath of destruction, trees are ripped up by the roots, chickens plucked naked, and streams sucked dry. The whirling wind can drive straws into fence posts. It can toss a locomotive about like a child's toy. It can cause a house to explode into bits of kindling wood.

As a twister's furry shatters meteorological instruments, scientists can only estimate the top speed of its spiraling winds, the National Geographic Society says. Velocity may range up to 400, or possibly 600, miles per hour.

Twenty years ago, weathermen knew almost nothing about tornadoes. Today, though there are many gaps in their knowledge, they can tell when conditions are ripe for tornadoes to develop, and they have set up a warning system for use when a tornado has actually been sighted. They can also trace the twisters with radar.

★ ★ ★

Moreover, meteorologists now a cautiously optimistic that man will one day be able to stop tornadoes in their tracks. The scientists have come up with an arsenal of ideas on how this may be done.

SUGGEST USE OF MISSILES

One dramatic suggestion is that guided missiles be fired into tornadoes to dissipate their energy high above the ground. However, Dr. F. W. Reichelderfer, chief of the U.S. Weather Bureau, says meteorologists are more hopeful about several other possibilities. One is to seed the clouds with rain-forming chemicals, thus releasing the cloud energy before a death-dealing cone swings to the ground. Another is to have an airplane drag a wire through the clouds and draw off their electrical charge. Electricity may play an important role in tornadoes.

At present Dr. Reichelderfer says there are no actual plans to test these procedures. Meteorologists still need to learn more about the basic physics of clouds.

Tornadic conditions develop when a cool, dry air mass moves over warm, moist surface air. This creats an unstable build-up of energy, because cold air weights more than warm air. If there is a narrow band of strong winds at intermediate levels, a whirling exchange of air may result. This whirl may be likened to the vortex created when water goes down a bathtub drain.

A tornado is born several thousand feet above the ground. It may never touch the earth, or it may bounce along the ground, leaving some areas unscathed in its path of destruction. Generally, it travels no more than 20 to 40 miles, although it may go 300. Such a Midwest twister in 1925 killed 689 persons and injured 1,980 others.

To understand the movements of tornadoes, meteorologists have devised ingenious chambers in which they manufacture twisters by means of fans and warm water. They are not yet sure that these model tornadoes accurately duplicate the real thing, but they are confident that they are at last moving in on nature's most vicious storm.

Rocket and Roll Craze Hits U. S. Song Writers

By ALVIN SPIVAK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The space age, which already has created problems enough, now appears to be launching a rocket and roll craze among songwriters.

"Take Me to the Moon, Mr. Calhoun," is one of the titles which the U.S. Copyright Office reports are coming in from the outer world of music.

'SPUTNIK LOVE'

"Space Ship Lullabye" and "Sputnik Love" are among others which the office has listed in a galaxy of tune titles which arrived in 1957-58 to "reflect the headlines."

Space-minded songwriters also wrote "Sputnik ick ock," "Bee Beep Bee Beep (Round and Round the Sputniks Go)," "Let Me Be Your Satellite" and "Santa and the Satellite."

Some other topical titles on different subjects: "Denise in Her New Chemise," "Asiatic Flu Blues," "Vicuna," "We Welcome You Alaska' and "Alaska, Welcome to the U.S.A.'

here was no way of telling from the copyright data how many of the songs had found publishers or listeners.

The report said that there was a 14 per cent increase in music copyright registrations in the fiscal year that ended June 30, not all topical, of course.

Domestic book copyrights increased 9 per cent, the office said, and works of art 10 per cent.

SOME RENEWED

Copyrights were renewed for some famous works including Robert Frost's "Collected Poems," Peal Buck's "The Good Earth" and William Faulkner's "Sanctuary.'

Also renewed, the report said, was registration of the film "Anna Christie" in which Greta Garbo made her talking-picture debut with the famous line, 'Gif me a Visky.' "

The report recalled "an important court action" involving a suit to compel the office to register as a "work of art" a unique item described as a "self-supporting star-shaped photograph bearing phonograph record."

The report said the Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia upheld rejection of this claim, holding that officialdom "was right in determining appellants' device is not a work of art" within the meaning of the law.

Still Few Openings for Square Dancing

There are still a few openings for registration in adult social, novelty and square dance classes this fall, according to John A. Streit, assistant director of the Parks and Recreation Department.

★ ★ ★

Openings exist in both beginning and advanced classes, with the department preferring that registrants enroll as couples to insure all class members a dancing partner, Streit said.

★ ★ ★

The charge is $2 for Pontiac couples and $4 for nonresident couples. Time and place of the classes will be decided after enrollment quotas are reached, Streit said.

★ ★ ★

Cuban and Latin American steps are included in the social dance instruction, while the novelty classes will stress traditional and contemporary folk dances.

Father Helpless Seeing Children Die in Storm

BIG BEAR LAKE, Calif. (AP) —Lightning crackled down from a sudden storm and killed two children and injured a third while their father, former All America football player Bob Reinhard, watched from a skiff on the lake.

The lightning bolt exploded into a plywood shack on the lake's shore where the three youngsters had ducked out of the downpour.

Reinhard, one of the University of California's greatest linemen and later a professional star with the old Los Angeles Dons and Los Angeles Rams, was fishing on the lake with his fourth child, Robert 10.

Reinhard rowed ashore and hurried to the badly splintered and still smouldering shack. He bundled the three children into his station wagon—without realizing that two were dead—and drove to a nearby hospital.

Lawrence, 7, and Trudy Lee, 13, were pronounced dead on arrival.

★ ★ ★

Their sister Diana, 14, was badly burned about the neck and reported partially paralyzed. Her condition was listed as critical.

Union Nest Egg Swells to Nearly $146 Million

Miners' Welfare, Pension Fund Bulging

WASHINGTON (AP) — John L. Lewis counted up the money in the United Mine Workers welfare and retirement fund and reported a balance of $145,832,703.85. This is a half million dollars more than a year ago.

★ ★ ★

The report said royalties paid by bituminous coal producers at the rate of 40 cents on every ton mined yielded about 138 million dollars for the fund.

Payments made by the fund to miners and their beneficiaries for pensions, hospital and medical care and other benefits totaled about the same, 138 million dollars.

Interest on investments provided the increase in assets and paid administrative expenses, which were listed as 2.8 per cent of expenditures.

The report showed there are nearly 65,000 miners on pension. It said about one million miners and members of their families are eligible for hospital and medical services, making this the largest non-government welfare fund in the world.

More than 85,000 beneficiaries received hospital and medical care benefits during the year, many in the string of hospitals owned and operated by the fund in West Virginia, Kentucky and Virginia.

Pensions during the year cost about 76 million dollars, hospital and medical benefits 58 million and mine disaster benefits 4 million.

Investigate Shooting of Estranged Wife

Mrs. Pike's son by a former marriage, William Belcher, 18, was taken into custody for questioning.

Sheriff Elwin Smith said Mrs. Pike, who is separated from her husband, and Belgard had had a nightlong argument and the shooting followed. Smith said Mrs. Pike's son interceded in the argument and accused Belgard of mistreating his mother.

Grandma, 65, Caught Making Book on Lottery

"Where's everyone else?" asked detective Jack Mariano.

"I'm the only one here," said Mrs. Gertrude Terry.

"Where are the lottery slips?" Mariano asked.

According to police, Mrs. Terry replied that there weren't any —and at the same time handed over a box of slips.

"She got so nervous she didn't know what she was doing," Mariano said.

As police questioned her, a 15-year-old boy came walking in with $50 worth of betting slips from his parents.

Mrs. Terry was arrested on bookmaking charges and released in $1,000 bail for a hearing Thursday. The boy was released in custody of his parents.

The grandmother told Mariano that she was carrying on the policy numbers business of her husband, James, who died a week ago.

British Report Shows Low Take-Home Pay

LONDON (UPI) — Less than one thousand persons out of Britain's 26 million salary and hourly wage earners received more than $16,800 after income tax in 1957, a government publication on national income and expenditure revealed today.

After tax deductions only 1,249,000 persons got more than $2,800 and 190,000 got more than $5,600, the publication said.

British Nose Cone Lands Near Target

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Supply Minister Athol Townley announced that the nose of Britain's Black Knight rocket was recovered today at almost exactly the spot for which its landing had been predicted.

The rocket, with which Britain hopes to put an earth satellite in orbit, was successfully fired last night at the Woomera range in south central Australia. Britain also hopes to develop an intercontinental ballistic missile from the Black Knight.

Townley said the firing was done to secure information on conditions hundreds of miles above the earth's surface and to determine whether an object could be brought back from outer space.

He said the results had been highly successful.

The nation's hospitals employ 1,200,000 and pay them $3 billion a year.

Ike Is Hopeful About Far East

Says Free World Will Stand Firm Against Communist Challenge

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—President Eisenhower, cautiously hopeful about a peaceful solution of the Far East crisis, says free world allies, meanwhile, will stand firm against the Communist challenge.

The President interrupted his Newport stay for a few hours for a round of White House conferences. After a session on the Far East the government issued a statement welcoming Red China's offer to resume talks with the United States on safeguarding the peace.

Hopefully awaiting further developments, Eisenhower served notice about the West standing firm against communism in taking note that today is the fourth anniversary of the signing of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization pact.

★ ★ ★

In a statement, the President said of the work of the United States and the seven other member nations: "I am convinced that our cooperative efforts will continue to be successful. In the face of an undiminished challenge, the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization will vigorously maintain the protective shield necessary to the preservation of our common heritage of freedom."

The other SEATO members are Britain, Australia, France, New Zealand, Pakistan, the Philippines and Thailand.

In Washington, Secretary of State Dulles put out a companion statement saying the Far East crisis clearly demonstrates the Chinese Communists have not renounced their expansionist goals. He voiced confidence SEATO will help preserve freedom.

Eisenhower slipped back into his vacation routine yesterday after taking part in communion services with his wife at a Navy chapel. They were accompanied by two of their four grandchildren, David, 10, and Barbara Anne, 9.

Shortly after the services Eisenhower played 18 holes of golf at the Newport Country Club.

Eunice is the Greek word for "happy victory."

'59 Automobiles Will Sport Less Chrome

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

MIAMI BEACH — There will be less chrome on the 1959 cars.

While you, an unsuspecting reporter, are at the bottom of a swimming pool under the influence of chlorine, they drive an auto to poolside.

At the drop of a public relations man, you rise to the surface and open your eyes.

If the eyes do no ache severely you know you are looking at a relatively low-glare 1959 model.

Last year's chromier models, compounded with chlorine and the dazzling Florida sun, were almost more than a bleary retina could stand, it is said. This year's Dodge's, Chryslers, DeSotos and Plymouths are slightly less glaring and reporters with red eyes must seek excuses elsewhere.

"As you see, we have a somewhat restricted use of chrome this year," explained vice president and director of styling Virgil M. Exner. "We think that it may indicate a decided trend toward even less chrome for next year. We stylists hope that it does, anyway. Jazzing cars up with chrome is not the most aesthetically happy thing for a stylist, you know."

It's just about the most ticklish subject in auto design, however. This is because so many people say they want less chrome on their cars, and then go out and buy the most silver-striped autos in the showrooms.

"For 25 years, since I've been in this business, various companies have tried from time to time to strip a car of most of its chrome. They listened to all the talk—the kind of talk we've heard revived lately—to the effect that people don't really want it.

"Well, it never worked," Exner shrugged. "Every stripped, economy model car was a failure."

The people talk for themselves. They buy for their neighbors' impressions.

Besides the slightly diminished chrome picture, the Chrysler cars also boast a lessening of the multi-color influence. They still have more two-toned than single-color autos in the line. But the second tone is, generally, confined conservatively to the hood or roof where it is scarcely seen except by people in tall trucks or upstairs windows.

"I think it may be the—well, call it the less happy business climate. People are taking a little more sedate attitude toward their cars."

He conceded that there may also be a strong element of guilt involved. When a man is involved in a personal recession, he feels guilty about owning a two-toned or over-chromed car, even if it costs no more than a lightly silvered, one-color model.

★ ★ ★

To protect themselves, Chrysler offers several "optional chrome" attachments, in case the customer is guiltless and glitter-loving. For just a little extra you can have additional bumper guards, extra door mouldings, drip mouldings and plenty of chrome ducts and vents.

Three Killed in 'Quakes

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—A series of earthquakes in the Andes Mountains east of Santiago killed three persons, government sources said. Twenty others were reported missing and many buildings damaged. The stricken areas centered around the towns of Volcan and San Jose, and the shocks extended northeastward into Bolivia.

Eden's Niece, 25, Weds Mechanic of Italian Ferry

Amelia Eden, 25, and radiant in a white wedding gown and flowing veil, was married yesterday in a Roman Catholic church on Borrelli's home island of Ischia.

★ ★ ★

The bride's mother came from Britain for the ceremony and her brother John, a member of Parliament, gave her away. Her father, Sir Timothy Eden, had expressed some misgivings about the match and stayed home.

★ ★ ★

Borrelli's family, with whom the couple will live, also were on hand in the packed church.

Most of the island population turned out to cheer the 30-year-old boatman and his bride, who met two years ago while the Mayfair society girl was vacationing on Ischia.

In the United States in 1957 more than 7 million pleasure boats and more than 5 million outboard motors were used by sailing enthusiasts.

Red Raiders Murder Soldier in S. Korea

SEOUL, (AP) — South Korean Defense Ministry sources said six or seven Communist North Korean soldiers staged a predawn attack today along the demilitarized zone, killing one South Korean soldier and wounding another.

The sources said the attack took place near Chorwon, 50 miles northeast of Seoul on the west Central Front—a section of the demilitarized zone patrolled by the South Korean army.

No American soldiers were reported involved.

Even 4th Place Tough for Tigers

Athletics Rally in 9th Inning for 3-2 Victory

Lary Is Again Victim as Tuttle Drives In Winning Run

DETROIT (AP) — Anything higher than fourth place for the Detroit Tigers of 1958 appears almost as remote as winning the pennant.

After blowing a 2-0 ninth inning lead and losing 3-2 to the Kansas City Athletics yesterday, the Tigers occupy fourth and fifth place with the Baltimore Orioles. There is considerable daylight between these two teams, the third place Boston Red Sox and the second place Chicago White Sox.

The way things are going with the team this year, it is just as well there are only 19 games remaining.

Accustomed by now to a frequent lack of hitting support, Frank Lary sustained his second straight heartbreaking loss. He pitched a two-hitter last Wednesday night against Chicago but bowed 1-0.

Going into the ninth inning yesterday, he had a 2-0 lead and a four-hitter in a stirring duel with his former teammate, Ray Herbert. That enemy of all pitchers, the base on balls, started Lary's trouble.

★ ★ ★

He walked Hector Lopez, then yielded singles to Bob Cerv and Preston Ward for one run. Manager Bill Norman, who had gone to the mound after Cerv's hit bounced off Lary's shoulder, decided it was time for a change.

He brought in George Susce. The first batter to face him, Hal Smith, grounded to second base but Frank Bolling's throw to the plate was not in time to get Cerv with the tying run.

★ ★ ★

Detroit's Red Wilson, whose third home run with Billy Martin aboard gave the Tigers their 2-0 lead an inning earlier, threw to third base.

The throw was high and all hands were safe. Susce stayed on to get Joe Demaestri on a fly to short right, then Norman called on Bill Hoeft. The big southpaw, whose only action of late has been an infrequent relief job, fanned pinch batter Chico Carrasquel on four pitches.

Two out, score tied in the ninth and ex-Tiger Bill Tuttle—batting .231 — at the plate. Swinging on a full count, Tuttle grounded one between short and third. Shortstop Coot Veal made the stop but could not make a play and the tie-breaking run scored.

Cooper, Gibson Tennis Champs

Overcome Injuries to Clinch Nationals; Althea May Quit

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., (AP)—National tennis champions Ashley Cooper and Althea Gibson went about their business of winning titles yesterday despite a bout with the injury bug.

Cooper, who knocked off defending champion Mal Anderson, a fellow Australian, 6-2, 3-6, 4-6, 10-8, 8-6, turned his ankle during the match.

★ ★ ★

"I thought for a minute I couldn't continue," Cooper said afterward. "I was a little worried and took a few chances in returning Anderson's service before I knew it would stand up."

★ ★ ★

Miss Gibson, the New York girl who retired after her 3-6, 6-1, 6-2 victory over Darlene Hard, Montebello, Calif., hurt the little finger of her right (racquet) hand.

"I was worried for a minute, but I put it in cold water and it didn't hurt any more."

Griffith Says Senators Will Stay in Capital

CHICAGO (AP)—Calvin Griffith, with an axe over his head, decided after all not to seek American League approval to move his baseball club out of Washington. Instead, the Senators will remain in the nation's capital at least through the 1959 season.

Griffith made this clear last night in a statement issued on the eve of a scheduled American League meeting purportedly to listen to and act upon his expected request for permission to move the Senators to Minneapolis.

Pennant Clinching at Hand

Yanks, Braves End It All

By United Press International

The Yankess reduced their magic number for clinching the American League pennant to six when they split a doubleheader with the Washington Senators yesterday while the Braves cut their figure to 10 when they divided with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

This means the Yankees are almost certain to clinch their ninth pennant in 10 years under Casey Stengel early in a 13-game road trip beginning Tuesday night. The Braves may have to wait a few days longer but they're pretty sure to nail down Fred Haney's second straight sometime during their forthcoming seven-game home stand or at St. Louis Sept. 17 or 18.

The Yankees completed their last long home stand of the year with a 12-game lead Sunday when Duke Maas' four-hitter gave them a 7-0 triumph after Pedro Ramos shut them out for the second straight time, 1-0.

The Yankees gained ground in the split because the Cleveland Indians rallied to beat the second-place Chicago White Sox 4-3 in a game marked by a near fist fight.

The Braves fended off the challenge of the Pirates when Warren Spahn beat the Bucs 3-1 for his 19th triumps. The Pirates' 4-1 victory in the nightcap served merely to hold the Braves' lead at 7½ games—and they have only 16 games left.

The Boston Red Sox beat the Baltimore Orioles 6-5 on Frank Malzone's 10th-inning double in the other American League game.

In the National League, Ernie Banks tied his own Major League record for shortstops by hitting his 44th homer as the Chicago Cubs swept the San Francisco Giants 6-4 and 4-1, the Cincinnati Redlegs shoved the Philadelphia Phillies five games deep in the cellar with 6-4 and 9-2 victories, and the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 7-5.

Maas drove in one run himself and Tony Kubek and Elston Howard homered for the Yankees, who won the season series with Washington 12-10. Ramos, who pitched a six-hitter to give him two straight shutouts and 22 consecutive scoreless innings against the Yankees, got the only run of the opener in the fourth inning on a walk, Roy Sievers' double and Norm Zauchin's infield out.

Wes Covington knocked in all three of the Braves' runs with a single and double in the opener as Spahn came within one victory of a record ninth 20-win campaign. Bob Skinner drove in three runs with a single and a homer and Bill Mazeroski tripled to spark the Pirates' eight-hit attack that tagged Lew Burdette with his 10th loss in the second game.

★ ★ ★

Bobby Avila's two-run eighth-inning single brought the Indians from behind after a solo homer by Vic Power cut Chicago's margin to 3-2 in the seventh. Power was making his first appearance at the plate since he almost became involved in a fight with White Sox manager Al Lopez after Vic was hit by a pitched ball in the fifth. Ray Narleski scored his 12th victory for the Indians while Dick Donovan suffered his 13th loss for Chicago.

Three 8-round fights, a 6-rounder and two 4-rounders make up the card which will focus on Wilf Greaves, the Canadian middleweight champion.

The winner of this bout will be offered a match with Chuck Spieser in Detroit, according to Julius Piazza.

In the other 8-round features, Gene Gresham of Detroit will be pitted against Pontiac's Buddy Harris and Detroit middleweight Henry Hanks against Leffie Walker of Saginaw.

The Wisner stadium gates will open at 6:00 p.m. General admission tickets are selling for 99 cents at Tasty Foods, Perry Drugs and Hub clothes throughout the day and can also be obtained from Pontiac police officers.

Greaves is a replacement on the card for Zivic's protege Ron Washensky who was injured in a workout last week. The Canadian middleweight champ will use this fight against O'Hara to prepare for defense of his title against Yvonne Turrene in Edmonton, Alberta, October 3.

A host of press, radio and TV personalities will be on hand to watch the program.

Darkness Halts Play

Co-Champs at Indianwood

By BILL CORNWELL

It has often been said that only golfers are foolish enough to ply their trade after dark at the risk of life and limb and one need look no further than Indianwood Country Club yesterday for a perfect example.

★ ★ ★

The second annual Indianwood Invitational Best-Ball golf tournament ended a four-day run under cover of darkness and the two competing teams were happy to settle for a co-championship on the 18th hole.

Jack Zinn and Paul Anderson, both from Red Run, and Detroit District champ Bud Stevens of Western and Plum Hollow's Don Mead mutually consented to share the title following a consultation with Indianwood president Carl Ruebelman in front of the huge 18th green.

Vision was next to impossible after 15 holes of nip-and-tuck match play with Stevens and Mead leading, 1 up.

Zinn's 15-foot putt for a birdie three on the 16th hole squared the match. The situation stayed that way as Mead and Anderson matched par threes on the 17th, even though both players could barely see the hole.

Mead lost his tee shot in the darkness at No. 18, despite the assistance of spectators who lived dangerously by lining each side of the fairway in an effort to locate the drives by listening for the sound of their fall. The other three were found.

When they finally reached the 18th green, a conference was held. All even at the time, they agreed to divide the crown.

Pontiac Golfers State Winners

A five-man team from Pontiac scored a total of 377 to win the Michigan Recreation Assn. golf championship at Midland Saturday.

Paul Bada took medalist honors with a 70 to pace the Pontiac contingent. Ron Rothbarth fired a 72, Butler Cooper and Charles Barker matched 78s and Nick Berson, a last minute replacement for scheduled starter Glen Vallance, had a 79 to round out the scoring.

Midland 382, Saginaw 383, Grand Rapids 390, Dearborn 393, Lansing 397, Ypsilanti 412, Plymouth 422, Livonia 426 and Riverview 442.

What's the hip-swinging (pardon, the hula-hoop) rotation record for Pontiac's youngsters? The new "craze" has a lot of devotees, one of whom is 8-year-old Amy Conner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alger (Al) Conner. Amy, the former PCH and Spartan grid star reports, has a hip-flip mark of 1,567 consecutive turns, which Al helped to count.

A number of residents of the area have been puzzled over identity of a slimy but interestingly marked creature, that has turned up in such spots as under pieces of old logs, or beneath damp steps. It is a member of the giant slug family, reaches a length of four inches. Most common of these slugs in this section is the gray, or leopard slug, bearing a mottled pattern all over except underneath, which is white, and exudes a sticky, slimy whitish substance as it moves.

Robbins Opens Defense of U.S. Amatuer Title

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Slim Hillman Robbins opens defense of his United States Amateur golf championship today declaring, "I'm ready but in this tournament anything can happen."

The 26-year-old Air Force lieutenant from Memphis, Tenn., heads a list of 200 golfers opening six days of match play over the hilly, tree-lined Olympic Country Club lake course.

"Anybody in the tournament could beat you," Robbins drawled.

"If they couldn't, they wouldn't be here. You just don't know what will happen in match play, you might shoot a 70 and get beat or a 77 and win."

★ ★ ★

San Francisco last week had its warmest weather of the summer, with the mercury rising toward 90. Sunday a light rain fell and the weather bureau said more showers today were a possibility.

★ ★ ★

Robbins, who admits having trouble with his tee shots recently, had taken a surprising but decisive 5 and 3 defeat at the hands of Canada's 19-year-old Gary Cowan in the final singles play of the Americas Cup competition Saturday.

Cowan proved a star of the play, beating Robbins after dumping ex-champ Harvie Ward 3 and 2 the previous day.

Still, the United States successfully defended the internaional trophy they've held since the matches started in 1952.

Uncle Sam's representatives piled up 30 points to 17 for Canada and 7 for Mexico in the two days of play over this same Olympic Club layout traversing 6,680 yards with its difficult par 35-35—70.

Ward, the 32-year-old North Carolinian now calling San Francisco home, faces what he terms "my greatest challenge" in this National Amateur.

Harvie won the title in 1955 and 1956 but lost a chance for an unprecedented third straight when the USGA handed him a year's suspension for expense money irregularities.

Slim Charlie Coe, who won the National title in 1949, loomed again as a strong challenger. The Oklahoma City veteran was two under par in closing out his Americas Cup singles match on the 14th hole to pick up two points.

Billy Joe Patton of Morgantown, N. C., also won four points in singles, beating the champions of both Mexico and Canada, Juan Luis Estrada and Bruce Castator, on Saturday.

Detroit Bids for 1964 Games

Motor City Is Choice of U.S. for Olympics

Tokyo, Moscow Figure to Be Detroit's Top Competitors

DETROIT (AP)— The drive to bring the 1964 Olympic games to Detroit picked up a full head of steam today.

A start began on preparations to set forth an elaborate proposition to international Olympics officials in the wake of the endorsement of Detroit as this country's only bidding city.

Over the weekend the U.S. Olympic committee chose Detroit as the bidder over rival Los Angeles, Chicago and Minneapolis. Detroit will be the only U.S. city eligible to bid for the games. The committee made its decision in a meeting at Chicago.

The Motor City's formal bid is due within the next three months. Detroit's main competitors for the world games six years from now reputedly would be Tokyo, Moscow, Brussels, and Lausanne, Switzerland.

Frederick C. Matthaei, millionaire industrialist who has spent years trying to bring the Olympics to Detroit, will head up the preparations for the bid for '64.

To make sure of getting the games Detroit would have to put an estimated $20,000,000 to $30,000,00 on the line, including the construction of a huge stadium. A stadium likely would be built on the state fair grounds.

Detroit must submit its bids on or before Dec. 1 to the International Olympic Committee at Lausanne, Switzerland. Final approval for the 1964 site will be made by the IOC when it meets in Munich in May of 1959.

Robert J. Kane, athletic director at Cornell and chairman of the Olympic site selection committee, said he felt Detroit had an excellent chance of getting the 1964 games.

He won the two 15-mile heats over the 2½-mile Niagara River course and coasted home second to the host club's Wildroot Charlie in the 30-mile final heat.

Charlie Thompson's Miss Detroit and Jim Thompson's Miss Supertest II from London, Ont., broke supercharger shafts in the second heat, leaving only Bardahl and Charlie for the 30-miler.

Birmingham Kegler Wins $7,500 Tourney

CHICAGO (AP)—Steve Nagy of Birmnhgam, Mich., Sunday took first place and $7,500 top prize money in George London's $50,000 invitational tournament for 300 bowlers.

Nagy averaged 207 per game in the eight-man round robin finals and averaged 208 in the 36 games of the tournament.

Barnum Wins PGA

Barnum, the Grand Rapids veteran, has wrapped up his second straight Michigan PGA championship to go along with his Michigan Open title as he becomes the state's man of the year on the links.

Shooting six under par, Barnum successfully defended his PGA crown under cloudy skies against a field of 63 challengers at the Midland Country Club yesterday.

With a classy 68-70—138, Barnum won by three strokes over runnerup Chick Harbert of Northville. Harbert, a former champion, shot 71-70—141. Par for the course is 36-36—72.

Wally Burkemo, former national PGA champion who beat out Barnum for the state title at Owosso in 1955 in a playoff, tied for third place at 141 with Tom Talkington of Ypsilanti. Emerick Kocsis of Detroit followed with 144.

The victory in the $1,500 tourney was good for $350 for Barnum and possession for another year of the Gilbert A. Currie trophy.

Barnum birdied the first three holes and was four under par on the first nine with his 32. With an even par 36 on the second nine, he had enough cushion to withstand two bogies late in the afternoon's second round.

John Barnum, Grand Rapids, 68-70—138
Chick Harbert, Northville, 71-70—141
Wally Burkemo, Franklin, 70-72—142
Tom Talkington, Ypsilanti, 75-67—142

Air Barrage Beats Colts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Maybe the Baltimore Colts are playing possum in their exhibition schedule but they aren't making the experts look good who picked them as a championship contender in the National Football League this year.

Pittsburgh did them in this time, 13-10 on a second period passing splurge. Washington edged Philadelphia 35-31, Green Bay romped New York 41-20 and the Chicago Cards defeated Los Angeles 27-26 in other Saturday action.

The Steelers Earl Morrall tossed two touchdown passes in the second period, one to Ray Mathews the other to Leon Jamison to nullify scoring efforts by Ray Berry, on a John Unitas aerial, and Steve Myhra's field goal.

Washington turned three Philadelphia fumbles into touchdowns aided by some of quarterback Ed LeBaron's ball - handling magic. With the Redskins leading 21-17 he faked the Eagles to the middle of the line with fourth down and inches to go and sent Ed Sutton 73-yards around end for a touchdown and the deciding score.

New York quarterback Don Heinrich had three of his passes intercepted in the third period to give Green Bay the gifts they needed. Green Bay end Max McGee caught sven passes, good for 166 yards and one touchdown.

Chicago scored 17 points in the third period to overcome a 10-3 LA halftime lead.

The 49ers Jim Pace had an 86-yard TD jaunt called back to the Browns 45-yard line in the fourth quarter but John Brodie used it as a springboard for a clinching scoring toss six plays later to R. C. Owens. Pace also scored on a 16-yard jaunt, while Jim Brown had a TD for the Browns.

Strong Winds Plague PYC Spinnaker Sailors

Strong 23-25 mile winds were responsible for Larry Odell's loss of his rudder. He was forced out of the race, won by Andy Roualet. The boat's rudder was smashed by the heavy pressure.

Fred Prince was 2nd and Dr. Kenneth Wood was 3rd finisher.

The club's championship is still undecided and probably will be settled next week when the snowball series will also be continued, to run through October.

Lana Turner Looks Like Million Dollars in Movie

By JAMES BACON
AP Motion Picture Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Lana Turner looks like a million dollars these days—literally.

But it's no secret the real jewelry plus more than $100,000 in new clothes helped boost Lana's sagging morale when she needed it most.

"The jewels not only make me feel wonderful," she says, "but you should see what they do to the crew. Everybody's face lights up every time I wear them."

Included in the baubles are a set consisting of a Russian emerald necklace, bracelet, earrings and ring. The ensemble is valued at $240,000. Audiences, of course, can't tell the difference between real jewels and phony ones.

"But I can," comments Lana.

The jewels are borrowed from Laykin et Cie, a French jewelry house associated with a Beverly Hills department store. Guards deliver them to the set each day, stay with them and take them back to the company vaults at night.

★ ★ ★

Ziegfeld once outfitted his Follies girls in imported French petticoats that cost $800 apiece. When his accountants screamed that the audience couldn't care less what a petticoat cost, Ziegfeld replied: "But my girls know they cost $800 apiece. That's what's important."

★ ★ ★

To go with the jewelry, Lana wears in the movie 34 gowns designed by Jean Louis. Hunter said they cost $78,000. She also wears several minks, including one blue mist number that will be put on the market this fall at $15,000 a copy.

Nadler in Two Ties on '$64,000' Quiz

★ ★ ★

Next week Nadler, who has won $252,000, resumes a contest on British kings and queens with Sir Kenelm Guinness of London.

They tied at $16,000 last night. Nadler also was held even by John Feltham, an elementary school teacher from Huntington Station, N.Y.

Feltham and Nadler, a former St. Louis civil service clerk, are tied at $8,000 on baseball questions. This match also will be resumed next week.

Disputes Nixon Tax Statement

O'Mahoney Disagrees on Effect of Corporate, High-Bracket Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) challenged today the contention of Vice President Nixon that corporation and high-bracket income tax cuts would swell government revenues.

His talk was interpreted here as an effort to fashion a personal platform in his expected bid for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination. The vice president made it clear he was not speaking for the Eisenhower administration.

In his speech, Nixon advocated reductions in corporation taxes, lowering of "confiscatory rates in the highest brackets" of personal income taxes and substitution of a 1½ per cent manufacturer's levy for most excise taxes. He said such a program would increase revenues.

O'Mahoney, a member of the Senate-House Economic Committee which keeps close tabs on the tax structure, said in an interview, "There is no reason to believe this sort of program would increase revenues."

"Nixon is proposing a program which would be of benefit practically exclusively to those who don't need any benefit," OMahoney said. "The record shows that large corporations which deal in interstate and foreign business have been making increased profits under present taxes."

★ ★ ★

Another committee member, Rep. Hale Boggs (D-La), also challenged Nixon's conclusion that such a tax cut would increase revenues. He said the joint committee had considered the idea and decided against it.

Nixon's speech was regarded by his associates as a major outline of his individual views, with more likely to come later.

These friends are convinced Eisenhower does not intend to go to bat for Nixon or any other single individual in 1960.

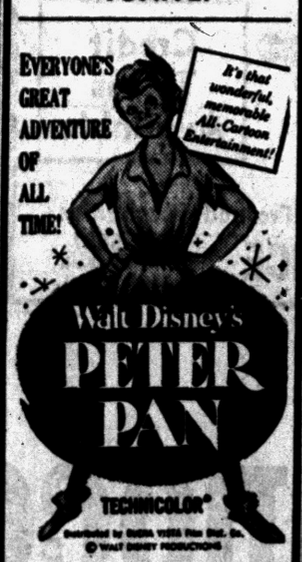

Whatever his motive, Nixon touched several important bases in his speech in addition to taxes and unemployment compensation. He attacked labor union "gangsters," opposed wage increases that force prices up, cautioned against inflationary business practices, called for "racial justice" and urged American support of nationalist movements abroad.

New-Found Synthetic Controls Rate of Flow

BROOKLYN — A lone researcher working in Brooklyn is reported to have developed a new synthetic material with many uses. It contains millions of microscopic pores and will release liquids at a predetermined rate of flow. Its uses include pre-inked rubber stamps good for 50,000 impressions, lipsticks with a permanently shaped applicator tip, self-medicating bandages, and self-lubricating bearings. The material can be produced in virtually all shapes and consistencies.

Dems Vying for Miami Vote

Florida Primary to Get Close Look for Trends in Southern Thinking

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Sen. Spessard Holland and Claude Pepper, poles apart in their political philosophies, beat busy paths through the vote-rich Miami area today on the eve of Florida's Democratic primary.

Dade County, with almost a fourth of the state's 1,359,610 registered Democratic voters, is the big plum in the U.S. Senate battle. Both candidates are counting heavily on Dade in their hopes for victory.

Holland, dignified, white-haired conservative, and Pepper, fiery champion of New Deal causes during Franklin D. Roosevelt's time, are political contrasts. Pepper is attempting a comeback after being sidelined by Sen. George Smathers in 1950.

The campaign has been a sizzler. Hottest words have been spokn over the issues of race, Russia and labor.

Holland has accused Pepper of deserting the thinking of the South on racial matters, being soft toward the Soviet Union and drawing the backing of big labor.

Pepper has replied with charges that Holland has been trying to stir up hate on the race issue, waging a McCarthy-type campaign on the communism issue and of working against the interests of the laboring man.

Both candidates have said they favor racial segregation but have differed in their approach.

The winner of the Holland-Pepper battle takes on Republican Leland Hyzer, a Miami lawyer, in November. Florida's Democraic nomination has been tantamount to election, but Republicans have been showing increasing strength at the polls.

S-P Planning Fall Comeback

Merger Attempt Fails to Mature, Churchill Informs Stockholders

The automobile company disclosed in a letter to stockholders yesterday it had unsuccessfully sought a merger in its new financial planning.

Studebaker-Packard's program calls for introduction of a new small car this fall. It also calls for acquisition of new businesses and relief from a debt load that falls due next year.

For its comeback effort, S-P also plans to add an educator and a business executive to its board of directors.

The two are Clarence Francis, former board chairman and president of General Foods Corp., and Dr. Edward H. Litchfield, chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh.

★ ★ ★

Churchill said Francis and Litchfield have agreed to become S-P directors subject to completion of the company's refinancing plan.

Stockholders are to vote on the plan at a special meeting Oct. 15.

Studebaker-Packard's advisory management agreement with Curtiss-Wright Corp. and Curtiss-Wright's option to buy five million shares of S-P common stock at $5 a share will be terminated.

Churchill's letter discussed the merger effort.

"We made every effort both within and without the industry," Churchill said, "to find another strong company that would be interested in merger or other acquisition. We were unable to work out a satisfactory deal, faced as we were by the fact, among others, of a large amount of debt of early maturity."

Farm mechanization in the United States has enabled the average farm worker to increase the number of acres he can take care of from 21 in 1880 to perhaps 56 in 1960.

Predict $31 Million in Next Quarter

Business Spending to Soar

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reversing a trend of more than a year, businessmen plan to increase their spending on new plant and equipment during the last three months this year.

The Commerce Department and the Securities and Exchange Commission reported that business plans call for spending at the rate of 31 billion dollars a year during that three-month period. That would be about 700 million more than the rates for the April-June and July-September quarters.

★ ★ ★

Pacing the recession, this type of business spending had declined steadily since last summer, when it reached a record annual rates of 37¾ billion dollars.

★ ★ ★

Actual spending for all of 1957 reached 37 billions. That now forecast for this year is 31 billions, assuming businesses go ahead on the basis of present plans. They have tended to overestimate spending plans in recent months, the report noted.

But officials welcomed the increase as an indication of revived business confidence.

Grain Setbacks Above a Cent

CHICAGO (AP)— The grain futures market was decidedly weak with setbacks running to more than a cent a bushel in early dealings today on the board of trade.

Selling was fairly general with offerings in liberal volume. Dealers said it appeared to include considerable profit-taking by speculative dealers.

Wheat was ⅜ to 1⅛ cents a bushel lower near the end of the first hour, September $1.85⅞; corn ⅞ to 1⅛ lower, September $1.25; oats ½ to ¾ lower, September 60-¾; rye ⅞ to 1¾ lower, September $1.26; soybeans ⅝ to 1¾ lower, September $2.21; lard 3 to 10 cents a hundred lbs. lower, September $12.62 bid.

★ ★ ★

With the cutting of soybeans already begun in some areas and the record crop very close to maturity generally, traders have noted an unusual price spread recently among cash dealers for beans of Indiana and Illinois origin.

Rubber Check Frees Pal of Same Charge

CASPER, Wyo. (AP) — Alfred A. Steele appealed to Justice of Peace Alice K. Burridge to free his friend from an insufficient funds check charge.

She agreed if Steele would make good on $60 in bad checks. Steele promptly pulled a checkbook from his pocket and began writing. But Mrs. Burridge refused to accept the check without proof Steele had an account in the bank.

Sheriff Louis Cooper said Steele went outside the courtroom, forged a note from a bank official saying he had an account in the bank, then wrote a check to free his pal. The check bounced.

Woman, 78, Lost Near Cadillac Found Alive

CADILLAC (AP) — A 78-year-old woman, missing nearly 24 hours after she became lost while berry picking, was found in good condition today. She had weathered a chill overnight rain in a gravel pit.

Mrw. Ina Schaffley of Mt. Clemens was brought to Mercy Hospital for observation.

State Police said Mrs. Floyd Beebe and Mrs. Ed Beebe, farm residents near Marion in Osceola County, found Mrs. Schaffley waiting along the shoulder of M115 about 2½ miles from where she disappeared.

The women said she told of making her way from the gravel pit through second growth brush to the highway after daybreak.

Mrs. Schaffley became separated yesterday from her husband, Frank, and a Marion couple while picking berries in a swampy woods area about four miles southwest of Marion.

A search had been organized for Mrs. Schaffley, involving some 100 State Police, sheriff s officers and volunteers, and a State Police plane and Coast Guard helicopter.

Market Reaches New '58 High

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market moved further into new high ground for the year early this afternoon in fairly active trading.

Leading issues rose from fractions to about a point. There was an assortment of losers and a number of key stocks showing little or no change.

Investment buying was apparent in the strength of a number of high quality stocks but there was not much group action. Aircrafts, tobaccos, electronics, utilities and cheimcals were generally higher.

Small plus signs were the rule among steels and motors. Rails were barely ahead on average. Small losers appeared among rubbers and nonferrous metals.

Steel production was expected to resume its increase. Uncertainty continued regarding the labor situation in Detroit. The Formosa crisis remained in the background but was not regarded as a major market factor.

Eastman Kodak, up about 2, continued to respond to investment buying. It and Zenith, also a 2-point gainer, were rumored again as stock-split candidates.

Merchants Challenge Wording of $20 Bills

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP)—Waukeganites sprung several $20 bills on local bankers and asked: "Is it good with or without the 'The' in 'The White House' underneath the picture?"

A few merchants turned down bills not carrying the word "The." But the bankers said both bills were as good as gold.

The bill with "The White House" on it is a Johnny-come-lately as currency goes. It became standard on the $20 bill immediately after President Truman added the balcony on the White House. Prior to this, "White House" was standard.

Bugas Sees Ford Firm First UAW Strike Target

DETROIT (AP) — Vice President John S. Bugas said today he believed Ford Motor Co. will be the United Auto Workers Union's strike target.

Bugas made the statement to newsmen before joining UAW President Walter Reuther in face-to-face bargaining talks for the first time in more than three months.

Reuther also was asked which of the Big Three the Union would strike in absence of a contract settlement this week.

Last week General Motors Vice President Louis G. Seaton indicated he believed his company would be the UAW target.

Bugas, Ford's top negotiator, said his company would not sign a contract it considered inflationary and excessive. He said the company would not yield any right to operate its plants competitively.

Bugas said Ford was attempting to avoid what he called "the insidious whipsaw device of the UAW." He said this was the Union's one-at-a-time strategy" and he believed this was not a "moral approach to the problems."

Reuther declared the union is not retreating from its insistence on the solution of what he calls "basic human problems."

He said these include better pensions for retired workers and those about to retire, expanding layoff pay benefits from one-half year to a full year, travel allowances for workers affected by plant transfers and a wage increase based on the union's productivity formula.

As the UAW and the auto industry went into showdown bargaining, most of the more than 20,000 GM workers idled by wildcat strikes last week were back on the job. The union said it had called a three-day "moratorium" on walkouts.

On Wednesday, Reuther and the UAW executive board will decide on a strike date and target—GM, Ford or Chrysler—unless there has been progress in the negotiations acceptable to the Union.

Reuther was expected to join Chrysler talks later today.

Reuther returned to the bargaining table Friday for the first time in more than three months, sitting in on talks at General Motors, and took part in negotiations with Ford Motor Company today.

He said the Union had no new proposals to make but hoped to "clarify" the issues between the Union and the companies.

The UAW president planned to address a "public jury" of community leaders and public officials from key automotive cities in Michigan and Ohio tomorrow, reporting on the status of the negotiations.

But he said he would cancel that meeting if there was any indication of progress in the talks with any of the Big Three companies.

Reuther said the Union would "definitely" set a strike deadline at its International executive board meeting Wednesday if "there is no progress in the negotiations by that time." He said the Union also would "probably" set a target for a strike at the board meeting.

However, the industry has been bothered by wildcat strikes during the no-contract period which at times idled nearly 30,000 workers and threatened to cripple 1959 model operations.

Strikes involving more than 20,000 were settled over the weekend and workers ordered to return to their jobs today. Only about 5,000 workers were expected to remain out today.

Four Chevrolet Division plants of General Motors in Flint were back to normal today after walkouts that idled 14,300. Union leaders announced in Flint they were declaring a three-day moratorium against strikes, ending Wednesday.

A strike by 1,400 workers at Ford's parts plants in Sandusky, Ohio, was settled yesterday and a walkout by 1,400 at the Dodge Truck plant near Detroit also was ended.

Six Fisher Body plants in Michigan, Indiana and Ohio and the Moraine Products plant in Dayton, Ohio, were back to normal today after strikes by 5,000 workers.

A five-day strike of 2,500 workers at the sprawling Buick-Oldsmobile-Pontiac plant in Kansas City ended yesterday.

New Insurance Deals Especially in Catastrophes

NEW YORK — (UPI) — Some 15 million Americans are now covered by a health insurance plan designed to protect them against such "catastrophic" medical expenses as the $2,400 bill charged to the father of a tot who had burned himself with hot grease.

The insurance paid for all but $500 of it.

This insurance plan was created 10 years ago to take up where most leave off—coverage for illnesses and injuries of a financially catastrophic nature.

Policies are "deductible." That is, the policyholder must himself pay up to a certain amount, generally anywhere from $100 to $300.

Then, under the co-insurance feature of the plan, called major medical expenses insurance, the insurance company pays 75 per cent of the rest of the bill and the policyholder 25 per cent.

Major medical expense insurance was born Aug. 2, 1948, at a meeting between insurance experts and representatives of the Eliun Society, a group of management employes of the General Electric Co.

Today, 130 insurance companies offer the plan, and an estimated 15 million persons, including dependents and retired workers, are covered by it.

Lions Confuse Clown

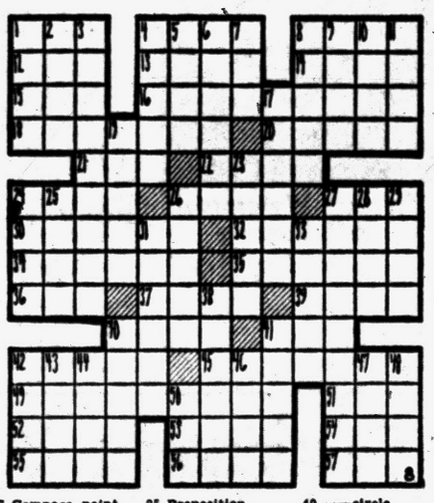

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—W. H. Simkins of Oklahoma City, a retired circus clown, rushed to a meeting of the Evening Lions Club and performed enthusiastically. When the 73-year-old clown got back to his hotel, he received a telephone call reminding him that he was supposed to appear at a Lions Ladies Night meeting—not at the Evening Lions Club.

Radio Controls Pumps for Plant Water Supply

MEMPHIS — A chemical plant 3½ miles from the Mississippi River is using radio to control its water supply. Pumps at the river's edge are activated by radio from the factory. Various combinations of high-frequency tones start and stop the pumps.

He Heard Them Sing in Kitchen

Popular Vocal Group Not Interested in Music as Lifetime Career

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — You never can tell where talent will be found — or who will be its discoverer. For example:

One evening almost three years ago a high school boy named Lawrence Welk Jr. dropped in for a date with a classmate named Dianne Lennon at her home in Venice, Calif. He found Dianne and her younger sisters, Peggy, Kathy and Janet, singing while they washed the dishes.

They were good enough for television, he later told his father, a gentleman who is somewhat familiar with both music and television. The senior Welk ducked the audition pleadings of his son for a long time until one Sunday when he was laid up with a cold.

Trapped, he listened to the Lennon sisters. Two weeks later they appeared on the Lawrence Welk Show.

Today, as regulars on the Welk Show, they receive about a million or so fan letters a week. Today, when they visit New York, you can't join them for a quiet tomato juice in a restaurant without droves of maternal women engulfing the table for autographs.

Yet an astonishing thing about the Lennon sisters is that they don't want a lifetime career as professional singers — with a single reservation.

Asked about that future during their first trip to New York, Dianne, 18, Peggy, 17, Kathy, 14, and Janet, 12, said they had no desire to continue indefinitely as professional singers — with that single reservation which Peggy expressed for all of them: "But we would like to continue singing just as long as Mr. Welk will have us."

Since Welk wants to keep them with his organization indefinitely and since Welk appears destined to remain indefinitely on television, it would seem that the Lennon Sisters will be with us for a long, long time.

None of them reads a note of music. Coached by their father William, a former professional singer who now is a field salesman for a dairy, they rehearse daily and informally. Dianne usually pitches a song on B flat and they work it out from there.

★ ★ ★

Their success has enabled the Lennon family to move into a larger house in Venice. But thtere's not a sign that success has spoiled them.

Ritzy Block Employs Own Police Patrol

NEW YORK (AP)—From 4 p.m. until 8 a.m. every day uniformed Pinkerton guards patrol a block on Manhattan's East Side.

A contributor said there hasn't been a burglary on the block—2nd to 3rd avenues between 61st and 62nd streets—since the Pinkertons went on the job.

Citizens Offered Trade by Fire Department

"You come to our dance and we'll come to your fire."

Quiz Show Scandal Is Evidence of Decadence

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — I may become a minister yet.

The TV quiz show scandal is new proof of our decadence, and to me there's something scary in the fact that a large slice of the public yawns, "So what?"

WILSON

"Everything's fixed nowadays," a young fellow who has been brought up in the American way of life was saying to me the other night in a restaurant. "Why not quiz shows?"

My Methodist Sunday School teacher background was affronted by this cynicism. "Just what do you mean — 'everything'?" I said.

"There was a college basketball scandal, and the Black Sox baseball scandal," the young man answered. "Fights are fixed, wrestling doesn't even claim to be honest. Republican and Democratic bosses frequently get together and rig an election. Movie stars give testimonials for products they never even saw. I'm telling you, everything's crooked."

Before I could argue, another member of the younger degeneration that will soon be running the world said:

★ ★ ★

A third young man interrpted. "I care! I'm an engineer. I've seen young whippersnappers rip off answers out of their heads that I couldn't figure out with a slide rule. It made me feel pretty inferior."

"The way I look at it," shrugged the first young cynic, "is that if any of the programs told lies, they were white lies."

★ ★ ★

By coincidnce, a new book, "Ask Any Girl," by Winifred Wolfe, describes, in fictional form, her actual experience as a shill on an "agony" TV show.

When she told her parents back in Wilkes-Barre that quiz and panel shows were rigged her father told her, "You shouldn't be so gullible—because they couldn't be fixed."

"I contend that the public apathy about the corruption constantly being uncovered is proof that we are soon going to be living in a completely amoral age.

Unless, of course, I, a Saloon Editor, do a Billy Sunday and take to the pulpit.

I might do it except for something I just read. It said, "The earth is degenerating in these latter days . . . Bribery and corruption abound . . . Children no longer obey their parents . . . There are signs that the world is speedily coming to an end." It had been written on a prehistoric tablet, dated 3800 B.C.

EARL'S PEARLS: Man has made tremendous scientific strides in the last few years—but, says Tony Pettito, the human race may survive anyway.

Joe E. Lewis, recovered from his operation, said at El Rancho Vegas, "I'm not going back to that hospital till they get a liquor license." That's earl, brother.

British Test Plane for Noise

U. S. Jet 'Liner Crosses Atlantic

LONDON (AP) — America's first jet airliner, the Boeing 707, flew the Atlantic today to show the British how quiet it can be.

★ ★ ★

Flown by Pan American World Airways, the big jetliner made what airline spokesmen called a "slow flight" from New York's Idlewilde Airport to London in 10 hours 22 minutes, including stops at Gander, Nfld., and Shannon, Ireland.

The 1,975-mile Atlantic crossing from Gander to Shannon, took only 3 hours 47 minutes, however. When it comes into service, the 707 is scheduled to makes the New York-London crossing in 6½ hours.

The Boeing 707 is to be tested for noise at London Airport. If the roar of its four Pratt and Whitney jet engines is found to be sufficiently low, the plane will be allowed to operate out of there.

Both the Boeing jet and Britain's Comet already have undergone noise tests at Idlewild but the verdicts have not been announced. After its test visit to New York, the Comet made the crossing home nonstop in 6 hours 28 minutes.

30 Negro Pupils Out in Virginia

U.S. Judge Will Hear Battle Over Integration in Court Today

HARRISONBURG, Va., (AP) — The courtroom of U.S. Dist. Judge John Paul provided the setting for today's drama in Virginia's legal battle to avoid mixing the races in public schools.

Paul will be informed officially that the Charlottesville school board has rejected all 30 applications by Negro pupils for admission to white schools. And he will hear protests by parents of the rejected students.

Later in the day, Paul was expected to sign an injunction restraining the school board of Warren County from refusing 22 Negro applicants admission to the county's white—and only—high school.

Paul has said that if he feels the Charlottesville school board used racial discrimination in making assignments, he might take over the job of assigning pupils to schools himself.

The problem of the Warren County school board stems partly from the fact that the county has no Negro high school. Instead, Negro high school students in the county attend schools in neighboring Clarke and Prince William counties.

Last Friday, Paul ruled that Warren County cannot keep Negro high school students out of the white high school because of race. And he said the governing factor in his decision was the lack of a Negro high school.

Counsel for the Negro plaintiffs in the Warren County case said the 22 Negro high school students will probably appear tomorrow morning at the high school in Front Royal, expecting to be enrolled.

Arlington County schools open today on a segregated basis. Federal Dist. Judge Albert V. Bryan said he would permit this to happen while he reviews evidence cited to support the applications of 30 Negro pupils to the county's white schools.

Pilot Checks Out for Space Flight

★ ★ ★

Lt. Richard Tabor passed the previous endurance mark for the chamber, 44 hours, yesterday. He said he felt fine and asked to stay past the time limit set for him.

★ ★ ★

In the test, he has "flown" at simulated altutides of between 80,000 and 100,000 feet.

U.S. Paying Michigan $666.95 on Resources

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan is getting a check for $666.95 from the U. S. government this week as its share of resource receipts this year from federal lands.

The payments to all states—record more than $18,700,000 this year—represent shares in mineral, grazing, land sales and other receipts from federal land uses.

Clown Suffers Fracture in Fall on Sullivan Show

The performance was being televised nationally on the Ed Sullivan Show on CBS.

Trenkler, 41, of Milton, Mass., was treated at St. Clare's Hospital where X-rays disclosed the fracture. He was not admitted to the hospital.

A spectator, Mrs. Emma Ratgeber, Jersey City, N. J., suffered a slight arm cut when one of Trenkler's skate blades struck her as he came down in the aisle near her seat.

FUTURE LOOK — Placing a call clear out of this world looms as a possibility, as the space-age look comes to telephone booths. Designed by Bell Telephone Laboratories, the "Vistabooth" features a transparent plastic "bubble dome" for maximum visibility. The booth has an aluminum frame and flooring and would be installed in a weather-protected area, such as a railway concourse. The interior apparatus includes a coin box with modernistic housing and a standard desk model telephone.

Persistent Robber Quits on 3rd Attempt

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — A man recently tried to cash a check at the Sound End Bank and Trust Co. Teller George Cherlong refused to cash it.

A few minutes later, the man returned and said he had a gun in his pocket. Cherlong, by then, was annoyed. "If you've got a gun," he said, "let me see it or get out."

The man left. Then he came back again and asked to see the vice president. The bank had had enough. Police were called and they charged him with attempted robbery. They said he apparently had been drinking.

First broadcast of London's Big Ben was made in 1923.

Wreckers Find Cabin Had Hand-Hewn Logs

Unprofitable Attempt

Find Counterfeit Plates

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A construction crew uncovered a set of plates for counterfeit $5 bills — 30 years too old to do counterfeiters any good. The plates, turned up by a bulldozer, were for bills of the old "horseblanket" type, out of use since 1928. Bills then ewre about twice as big as they are now.

Roses were among the first flowers used for perfume.

No Use Trying

NEW YORK (UPI)—A $100,000 U. S. Treasury note bond is missing from the Bank of New York, but whoever finds it won't be able to spend it. Although the note is negotiable, all agencies capable of cashing it have been told not to.
