

'Twas the night before Christmas

When all through the house
Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse
The stockings were hung by the chimney with care
In hopes that St. Nicholas soon would be there;

The children were nestled all snug in their beds,
While visions of sugar-plums danced in their heads,
And mamma in her 'kerchief, and I in my cap,
Had just settled our brains for a long winter's nap,

When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter,
I sprang from the bed to see what was the matter.
Away to the window I flew like a flash,
Tore open the shutters and threw up the sash.

The moon on the breast of the new-fallen snow,
Gave the lustre of mid-day to objects below,
When, what to my wondering eyes should appear,
But a miniature sleigh, and eight tiny reindeer,

With a little old driver, so lively and quick,
I knew in a moment it must be St. Nick
More rapid than eagles his coursers they came,
And he whistled, and shouted, and called them by name.

"Now, Dasher! now, Dancer! now, Prancer and Vixen!
On! Comet, on! Cupid, on! Dunder and Blitzen!
To the top of the porch! to the top of the wall!
Now dash away! dash away! dash away all!"

As dry leaves that before the wild hurricane fly,
When they meet with an obstacle, mount to the sky,
So up to the house-top the coursers they flew,
With the sleigh full of toys, and St. Nicholas too.

And then, in a twinkling, I heard on the roof
The prancing and pawing of each little hoof.
As I drew in my head, and was turning around,
Down the chimney St. Nicholas came with a bound.

He was dressed all in fur, from his head to his foot,
And his clothes were all tarnished with ashes and soot;
A bundle of toys he had flung on his back,
And he looked like a peddler just opening his pack.

His eyes how they twinkled! his dimples how merry!
His cheeks were like roses, his nose like a cherry!
His droll little mouth was drawn up like a bow,
And the beard of his chin was as white as the snow.

The stump of a pipe he held tight in his teeth,
And the smoke it encircled his head like a wreath;
He had a broad face and a little round belly,
That shook when he laughed, like a bowlful of jelly.

He was chubby and plump, a right jolly old elf,
And I laughed when I saw him, in spite of myself,
A wink of his eye and a twist of his head,
Soon gave me to know I had nothing to dread;

He spoke not a word, but went straight to his work
And filled all the stockings; then turned with a jerk,
And laying his finger aside of his nose,
And giving a nod, up the chimney he rose;

He sprang to his sleigh, to his team gave a whistle,
And away they all flew like the down of a thistle.
But I heard him exclaim, ere he drove out of sight,
MERRY CHRISTMAS to all and to all a good night."

President Plans Yule Broadcast, Staff Reception

White House Family Will Head for Georgia After Tree Lighting

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's Christmas Eve at the White House—a time to speak of peace on earth, light the nation's Christmas tree and open gaily wrapped gifts in the quiet of the evening.

President and Mrs. Eisenhower also will hold the traditional reception for the White House staff in the midst of their first Yuletide whirl in the executive mansion.

Then tomorrow they fly to Georgia to spend Christmas with their son, John, their daughter-in-law, and three young grandchildren.

Business was pretty much thrust aside for today. The calendar listed two delegations to invite the President to forthcoming dinners and a conference with a government malaria expert on the way to Nepal.

At 5:09 p.m. EST the President speaks to the nation and the world of his hopes for peace and good will among men. His words will go out over three television and radio networks NBC, CBS, ABC and in 34 languages over the Voice of America.

The address is billed for only four minutes. And after that, Eisenhower heads for the south grounds of the White House for the annual ceremony of lighting the national community Christmas tree—a 35-foot living spruce decked with 1,700 sparkling ornaments and a thousand red and green lights.

Around the family's own Christmas tree in the living quarters of the White House, the President, the first lady and Mrs. Eisenhower's mother, Mrs. John S. Doud of Denver, planned to unwrap their gifts to one another.

Usually, they wait until Christmas Day. But by 9 a.m. Christmas morning, they expect to be on the way south, to pick up the President's son, Maj. John Eisenhower, and his family at Ft. Benning, then fly on to Augusta.

The President will remain at his cottage at the Augusta National Golf Club until after the first of the year, working on January messages to Congress and getting in a few rounds of golf.

India Gets 20 Million Under U. S. Pact

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The United States gave India 20 million dollars today to buy railway locomotives and freight cars.

U.S. Ambassador George V. Allen signed the new aid pact just one day after Prime Minister Nehru delivered a slashing parliamentary attack on projected U.S. military aid to neighboring Pakistan.

Jennifer Expecting

NEW YORK (AP)—Actress Jennifer Jones is expecting a baby next summer, she and her husband, film executive David O. Selznick, announced yesterday.

Hal Boyle Warns:

Hang On to Your Husband, Mother, Father May Let Himself Go at Christmas

NEW YORK (AP) — All statistics show that one of the most valuable properties owned by the average wife is the average husband.

The wise wife will be particularly alert to protect this investment at Christmas, as the safety records show that husbands are peculiarly susceptible to damage at this time. They are prey to all types of peril during the season of good will.

The best way to safeguard a husband during this trying period is to mothproof him, put him in a ventilated plastic bag, and hang him in the closet until three days after the radio quits playing "Jingle Bells."

However, many husbands object to this way of spending a holiday. They claim they get tired of talking to visitors through a plastic bag, and anyway what will their friends say of a guy who hangs out in closets?

So, all in all, it is perhaps just as well to let your husband have the freedom of the house. But here are a few Christmas dangers the cautious housewife will shield her butter-fingered hubby from:

1. Attacking Christmas trees. Remember, a Christmas tree is not a domesticated vegetable, but a wild thing of the forest, untamed and resentful. It will topple over and stab a husband with no provocation. If your husband has been a sitting duck for Christmas trees in years past, why not lay the tree down lengthwise and decorate it in that position? Then it can needle the old man only if he trips over it and sits down on a star.

2. Eggnog indecision. Many husbands fall victim to the Christmas spirit while making eggnog. They decide first it's

United Europe Urged by Pope

Pontiff Warns Against Technological Worship in Christmas Message

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius XII called today for a continental union of the European peoples to eliminate differences in standards of living and production.

The pontiff made his appeal in his 15th annual Christmas message to the world, in which he warned that contemporary man is being blinded by the mechanical perfections of his age.

Declaring that the time "seems mature" for the idea of European union to "become a reality," the Pope said:

"Hence we exhort to action first and foremost Christian statesmen, deeming it sufficient to recall to them that Christianity always considered its task to promote every sort of peaceful union between nations."

A strong encouragement to such a union, he continued, is the "manifest failure of the contrary policy."

The Pope spoke in reply to Christmas greetings brought to him by the College of Cardinals. His words were carried around the globe by the Vatican radio over an international hookup. During the next two days the radio will broadcast translations of the speech in 24 languages, including Russian and Chinese.

Referring to man's preoccupation with technology, the Pope said: "Around the radiant cradle of the Redeemer there remain zones of darkness and men go around with their eyes closed to the heavenly light."

The pontiff warned against "excessive and sometimes exclusive esteem for what is called 'progress in technology.'"

"This dream," he continued, "was first cherished as the omnipotent myth and dispenser of happiness."

But the Pope declared: "It has finally imposed itself on the minds of men as the final end of man and of life, substituting itself therefore for every kind of religious and spiritual ideal."

Otsego Seeks Census

OTSEGO (AP) — Petitions are being circulated here asking the secretary of state to conduct a special census in Otsego. Behind the move is an attempt to increase the city's representation on the Allegan County Board of Supervisors from three to four members.

Slightly Warmer Yule Forecast

But White Christmas Will Stay, Is Promise of Weatherman

Slightly warmer weather tonight and Friday should ease the cold wave that sent Pontiac thermometers down to seven above zero—a new low for the year—Wednesday night.

But the U. S. Weather Bureau's prediction indicates Pontiac's "white Christmas" won't melt away before tomorrow afternoon.

The weather bureau says the mercury should hover in the low 20s tonight and rise to a high of 34 to 38 degrees sometime Christmas Day. Partly cloudy skies and southwest to west winds of 15 to 20 miles an hour are predicted.

Local thermometers couldn't get above the 18-degree reading all day Wednesday as Pontiac shuddered in the icy grip of its most frigid weather this year. The lowest temperature recorded all last winter was an eight-above-zero reading.

The mercury dropped to its low of 7 degrees about 10 p.m. Wednesday, then began a slow all-night climb, reaching 12 at 8 a.m. today. By 2 p.m. the downtown temperature was 27 degrees.

The Michigan Highway Department advised holiday travelers to drive cautiously in the southern half of the lower peninsula as trunklines are slippery in spots.

Supreme Court to Hear Bridge Bond Argument

Constitutionality of Issue to Build Mackinac Span to Be Determined

From AP and UP Dispatches

LANSING — Michigan's Supreme Court has agreed to decide whether a $99,800,000 revenue bond issue was legally floated to construct the Straits of Mackinac bridge.

The court will hear the case at its January term which starts Jan. 5.

Yesterday, the court ordered the State Administrative Board and Mackinac Bridge Authority to show cause why the bond issue should not be blocked.

This is a legal device to bring out arguments on both sides of a suit filed by Sen. Haskel L. Nichols (R-Jackson) challenging the constitutionality of the bond issue, sold last week to a syndicate of New York and Chicago bond houses.

The court had not been expected to issue the show cause order until Tuesday. But it apparently was impressed by the arguments of the authority's attorneys that haste was necessary.

The authority told the court that the bond sale was good only until Feb. 15 and that its contracts for construction of the bridge expired March 1 unless the bridge proposal is made final.

The authority's counsel defended the bond issue as legal and argued that Nichols had no basis for his suit.

The Administrative Board previously approved the sale of the bonds to a syndicate of four vestment firms upon recommendation of the Mackinac Bridge Authority.

Final delivery of the bonds and completion of the transaction have been ordered held up until the court decides the issue of legality, however.

Court officials said prompt action is probable on the bridge litigation.

Bridge Authority attorneys asked the court earlier Wednesday for dismissal of Nichols' petition but at the same time requested a full hearing. Prentiss M. Brown, chairman of the Bridge Authority, said he and his associates welcomed a test of the bond legality to settle all doubt concerning the sale.

If the court validates the revenue bond financing plan, construction work is expected to start immediately on the five-mile span linking Michigan's upper and lower peninsulas between St Ignace and Mackinaw City. The bridge is slated for completion Nov. 1, 1957.

Children Rescued From Burning Car Guests of Club

Five children whose mother was critically burned in a recent automobile accident and their father were guests of the American Forging & Socket Management Club at a Christmas party last night. They are the two small daughters and three sons of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Irwin of Waterford Township.

The Irwin car caught fire in a traffic accident. The father suffered burns when he broke the car windows to help rescue the children. The mother, with serious burns, is still a patient at University Hospital. The children's grandmother is expected soon from England to help care for the youngsters until their mother's recovery.

Toys, clothing and other gifts for the family were provided by the club. Garfield Dahl, American Forging plant superintendent, acted for Santa Claus at the party.

Other club members assisting on the party committee were Walter Hageman, Glen Brown, David Hicks and Harry M. Luxon.

Press Will Publish No Editions Friday

Friday is Christmas Day, a holiday observed throughout the Christian world as the anniversary of Christ's birth. In order that its employes may have a part in the observance of the day, the Press will publish no editions Friday. Regular editions will be resumed Saturday.

The Press today has withheld from its front page all news of war, crime and violence. We cannot eliminate such happenings from the world, but we can ban them from page one for a day, in keeping with the spirit of the Saviour, whose birthday we celebrate on Christmas.

The Press and its family take this method of wishing all readers a Merry Christmas!

Mail Volume Greater Than Last Year

Some 2,519,100 cards and letters were postmarked by Pontiac Post Office from Dec. 10 through 23 this year, 130,300 more than in the same period of 1952.

According to Postmaster Leslie H. Dean, 5,256 sacks of parcel post were received and delivered during the same time span. He said 1,202 large packages, too big to handle in sacks, were delivered.

"We've kept up with the incoming rush," said Dean. "All mail in the office at delivery time today will be distributed today."

Despite the increased volume, temporary workers were required to labor only about half as many hours as last year, Dean explained. "I'd like to commend all employes for an excellent job," he added.

French Name New President

Rene Coty Is Elected After Deadlock; Views on EDC Unknown

PARIS (AP)—France's new president, 71-year-old Conservative Sen. Rene Coty, drove triumphantly into Paris today. The nation's weary Parliament which elected him went home to a Christmas rest.

Coty, generally unknown to the public and no relation to the perfumers, was elected last night for a seven-year term to succeed Socialist Vincent Auriol. The new chief of state will take office Jan. 17. Premier Joseph Laniel's Cabinet then will resign and France once more will be without a government.

Coty's election, at the Palace of Versailles eight miles from the capital, ended a week's voting deadlock unprecedented in French history.

Previously no more than two ballots had been required to name a chief of state. Thirteen were held at a two-a-day pace before Coty—first proposed on the 12th ballot—received the necessary majority of the more than 900 members of the National Assembly and Senate.

Coty got 477 votes—436 were needed to elect—on the decisive ballot. Marcel-Edmond Naegelen, Socialist and former governor general of Algeria, polled 329.

Coty's views on the European army are not even publicly known. He was ill when the Senate debated the project, and has never taken a stand.

As president, he is supposed to have no control over policy. The post is symbolic of the continuity of the state and by tradition above politics.

Special Church Services Climax Christmas Season

By LULA OGDEN
Pontiac Press Religious Editor

Special programs in observance of the birth of Christ will come to a climax tonight and tomorrow in many Pontiac churches.

Christians have been holding special programs of Christmas music, pageants and recitations this week.

Worship services tonight and Christmas Day will mark the birth of the "Prince of Peace" some 2,000 years ago.

Several outstanding musical programs were given Sunday, among them was "The Song of Christmas" by Ringwald and Waring at First Presbyterian Church under the direction of Lyndon Salathiel; "Carols from Many Lands" at First Congregational Church directed by Charles A. Wilson and a varied program of singing and instrumental numbers at First Baptist Church planned and directed by W. Howard Schoof.

Midnight Masses will be sung tonight in all Roman Catholic churches of the city.

At St. Vincent de Paul Church, the midnight Mass will be followed by two other Masses, while from 11:15 until midnight, the Mens' and Boy's Choir of the church will sing Christmas carols.

At St. Michael's Church, carol singing will precede the midnight Mass for a half hour. Two Masses are scheduled to follow.

Three Masses also are planned starting at midnight at St. Joseph Church, and a half hour of caroling is planned at St. Benedict Church preceding the midnight Mass.

At All Saints Episcopal Church a carol service will start at 10:30 p.m. This will be followed by the Choral Eucharist.

Two identical services will be held at Christ Church Cranbrook at 9 and 11:30 p.m. when Communion is planned.

At Bethel Evangelical and Reformed Church, a midnight candlelight service is announced for 11:30 p.m.

Four Ice Rinks Ready for Use in Pontiac

All-night work by Pontiac Parks and Recreation crews resulted today in four ice rinks being ready for holiday use by local skating enthusiasts.

Rinks are located at Bagley and Brush Sts., and at Crofoot School, Wever School and Oriole Field, according to David R. Ewalt, parks and recreation director. Weather permitting, they will remain open until 11 p.m. each night, he stated.

More rinks are planned in cooperation with neighborhood groups, said Ewalt.

Mr. Crump Misses His Little Crumpets

WEDNESBURY, England (AP) — Mrs. Gene Crump, holidaying here at the home of her parents, decided she and the three children really ought to spend Christmas in Canada with her husband, Wilfred.

So 28-year-old Mrs. Crump sailed from Liverpool with the children last week for their home in Ontario. They wanted to surprise Crump, so they didn't let him know they were coming.

Meanwhile husband Wilfred, a 31-year-old typewriter salesman, decided he really ought to spend Christmas in England with his family. He booked passage from Ontario to London by air. He wanted to surprise the wife and kids, so he didn't let them know he was coming.

Crump arrived in London by air last night and learned the awful truth.

Congress to Get Proposed Plan Early Next Year

U. S. Excess Crowding Storage Facilities; Is Expected to Mount

NEW YORK (INS)—An over-all plan is being worked out and will be submitted to Congress in January to free far greater quantities of rapidly-increasing U. S. stockpiles of surplus food for the relief of desperately-needy areas of the world.

The omnibus plan calling for flexible legislation to meet one of the knottiest problems on the domestic scene today is being developed out by CARE, in cooperation with other private American welfare agencies and government officials.

It will be designed to meet a paradoxical situation which, up to now, seems to defy solution.

On the one hand, surplus food and other farm commodities acquired under the U. S. farm price support program is fast reaching record proportions, at staggering cost to the taxpayers.

On the other hand, there is still acute need and even starvation in many other areas of the free world.

Paul Comly French, executive director of CARE, a private agency which distributes free food packages throughout the world, said:

"We are hoping to come up with the answer, or at least some of the answers to this complex problem.

"We are trying to devise a program that will facilitate distribution of food to hungry nations without interfering with agricultural exports to friendly countries, and at the same time not become a dumping operation upsetting the economic balance of foreign countries we are trying to help."

Key members of Congress, French said, have promised their support of a workable program, as all are aware of the growing necessity for some solution of the problem.

Meanwhile, under the farm price support, the U. S. government — that is, the taxpayers — is shelling out about $460,000 a day, or a total of $167,900,000 a year, in storage fees alone for the still-growing farm surpluses.

Right now the government owns outright about $2,600,000,000 worth of food or close to $4,000,000,000 in all farm commodities.

That figure will inevitably rise when goverment loans on some crops expire and it is necessary to take them under the farm price support program.

The present surpluses include 471 million bushels of wheat, 225 million bushels of corn, 263 million pounds of butter, 410 million pounds of dried milk and 110 million pounds of peanuts.

"Keep Your Chin Up; Who Wants a Double Chin?"

Woman, 84, Brushes Aside Own Troubles for Lifetime Devoted to Serving Others

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE

There are children who claim they have seen a halo shining over the head of 84-year-old Mary Todd, especially at Christmastime. Others have called it a crown.

Adults, bereft of such imagination, readily admit that Mrs. Todd has earned a special niche for her record of service to mankind.

Mrs. Mary Pierson Todd lives in an old frame house at 99 Norton.

There isn't a welcome mat at the front door, but welcome is written on the face of the lovely white-haired woman who has opened that door since she was 16 years old to the sick, the lonely and sometimes the unfortunate who were seeking warmth, understanding and refuge.

Now Mary Todd does not move as rapidly as she did when she first accepted her "special assignment" in life for she has silver pins in both hips because of fractures in recent falls.

She claims the pins only bother her when she allows brief moments of self-indulgence to creep into her busy day.

Mary Todd's second hip was broke, when she slipped one night while returning from a call on a sick neighbor. Her hospital stay was cut short, due to persistent requests to her doctor that she must get home and take care of her two companions.

How many people has Mary Todd taken into her home to care for?

"I have never kept count, but each one has left me richer for the experience," she says. There have been young and old children and young and old adults," she recalls.

The saga of Mary Todd began when her mother asked her to forfeit her last year in high school to care for a sick relative.

"Then I knew. This was to be my special job in life and it has continued," she said.

Modestly discounting her selfless mission, Mary Todd says it was simply doing a job.

"I have only done that which I was supposed to do. Every man and woman is put in this world to do a job. We fail ourselves and our God when we do not fulfill that task to the best of our ability," says the woman whose blue eyes at four score and four sparkle with the life of a teen-age girl.

Bread and Milk for Bait

Stranded Pup Is Rescued From Bottom of Dry Well

CARLSBAD, N. M. (AP)—It's going to be a merry Christmas after all for a little pup and her well-wishers.

Two strangers—with the same idea—combined efforts last night, lowered a Navy sea anchor baited with bread and milk and hoisted the 2-month-old pooch out of a dry well.

Wayne Gregory, 26, held the rope, and W. W. Burr, 34, a flashlight to do the trick.

There were a couple of anxious moments when it looked as if their try would be unsuccessful—just like others during the past 10 days.

Their angle principally was the bread and milk. What else would a hungry pup that age go for?

There she was 38 feet down in the middle of the collapsed nylon sea anchor—a gadget built like an airport wind sock, only with a bottom to it.

They started to raise the startled pup. About one-third of the way up the 10-inch-wide shaft the struggling little black and white mongrel almost got out.

Gregory, a machinist, and Burr, who spent four years in the Navy hastily lowered away. The terrified pup calmed down and the men hoisted her almost to the top.

The pup began struggling again. But Burr reached down about two feet grabbed the little dog by the scruff of her neck and hauled her to safety.

"In general," said Mrs. Norvelle Thacker, president of the Cavern City chapter of the Humane Society, "the puppy is in good condition, although a bit dehydrated from lack of water."

For Burr and family, it was a Christmas gift. He said he had been looking for a dog for his three children, Marsha 3, Keith 7, and Theresa 11.

"All the time we were pulling the pup out," he said, "I was thinking what a wonderful Christmas present it would make for my kids. We're going to call her 'Wimpy'—even if it is a she."

Just how the pup got in his predicament still remained confused. Its former mistress, Teresa Curtis, 5, said it jumped from her arms into the well.

Possibility of Detroit Firm to Run Wabeek-Jacobson Parking Being Discussed

BIRMINGHAM—The possibility of National Garages of Detroit operating the entire parking area owned by the Wabeek Corp. and Jacobson's Inc. is being discussed by officials of the three companies.

C. J. Huddleston of the Wabeek Corp. said yesterday they had discussed the garage firm running the area both north and south of Willets, "to get an idea of the net result."

"We haven't the facilities or the knowledge to operate the lots," Huddleston said. "At present we're trying to reserve the first three rows of parking space in our present lot for the tenants of the Wabeek building, but enforcing this is awfully hard."

He added that there are no plans to charge for parking in the present Wabeek lot at the present time.

The City Commission this week formally petitioned the State Water Resources Commission for an extension of the deadline on deciding whether to solve Rouge River pollution problems alone or jointly with other neighboring areas which the commission has ordered to stop fouling the Rouge.

Saying he felt it was more important to do more than "talk a good school," Bloomfield Hills Supt. of Schools Eugene L. Johnson recommended to school board members this week that about $1,500 be spent for purchasing standard tests in all subjects, "to find out how good or poor a job we're doing with our educational program."

He pointed out that research has enabled educators to measure skills in informational subjects, check the subject matter at all age and grade levels, and produce an accurate diagnoisis for remedial work where needed. The plan was approved and Johnson said testing will begin in January but will not be complete until next year.

The local branch "Y" plans to ask the United Foundation for a $1,500,000 new building sometime in January. It would contain two gymnasiums, a swimming pool, hand ball and squash courts, and between 50 and 90 dormitory rooms.

"The cost of lighting the schools during the evening activities is becoming a budgetary problem," Supt. of Schools Dr. Dwight B. Ireland told the board recently.

Their plans, now underway, for a housing development near Lone Pine road and Middlebelt, is expected to accommodate some 350 families in the next two to three years, with 210 children of elementary school age.

The letter also stated that in the future some 2,500 families will be living in the district west of Franklin road, with almost 1,500 school children. The board has invited the writers to talk over development of the area and give their opinion on how fast it will develop.

$5 Loan Refusal Proves Costly: $40 and Slugging

BIRMINGHAM — Never refuse a loan at Christmastime.

Robert DeBoer, attendant at the Kurth and Cornwell Service Station at 315 S. Woodward Ave., learned that lesson last night.

He told police that two men approached him in the station at about 7:15 and asked him for a $5 loan from the till, saying they were friends of the boss and it was "all right."

When he denied their request they returned 20 minutes later to collect. They slugged him, took $40 from the till and fled on foot.

Students Have Party in Unheated Rooms

BIRMINGHAM — Pierce School students had their Christmas party yesterday despite a flooded boiler room which stalled the school's furnace.

Principal Malcom Ferguson said the children came for one hour, had their parties in the still-warm rooms and left. He praised work of PTA mothers of the children who contacted all parents to inform them of the plan.

MRS. MARY P. TODD

Local Woman, 84, Spends Life in Service to Others

chair and crutches, Mrs. Todd frequently casts both aside and walks a little slowly but surely about the house dusting and cooking for her two companions whom she claims are less fortunate than she.

One is blind and the other five years her senior.

When did she get married?

She didn't have time until she was 38 when, for a brief year, there were neither relatives nor friends nor strangers to care for. She became the bride of the late Dr. William F. Todd.

He got his first glimpse of her one day when with her dashing horse and buggy she raced a prominent Pontiac doctor down Saginaw Street's cobblestone pavement.

Mary Todd won the race and the heart of Dr. Todd.

Yuletides their home was filled with youngsters who had no one to care for them. They had no children of their own and Mrs. Todd says this was probably because there have to be some people to look after "other people's children."

A native of Pontiac, Mrs. Todd has been active in civic work for years. She is a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Pontiac Business and Professional Women's Club, the Wisner Historical Society and the Women's Literary Club.

'My life has been full. I have cast my bread upon the waters and it has come back buttered. After all people simply must keep their chins up.

Who in the world wants a double chin?" says the woman who claim she will never retire from the business of caring for people.

KST Club Will Present Annual New Year's Dance

Editor's Note: The Birmingham High School column is written by members of the high school journalism class under the direction of Miss Vida McCliffen. This week's contributors include Howard Johnson, Joan Fairbairn, Ethel Didier, Jane Racine, Cherry Harris, Donna Bolleau, and John Hobart.

One of Birmingham High School's finest traditions, the semi-formal New Year's Eve dance is being presented by KST club at the Birmingham Community House December 31.

Theme and decorations will center around New Year's Day bowl games. A queen will be selected at the dance. Refreshments will also be served at the dance which runs from 9:30 to 2:00.

Tickets may be purchased from club members or at the door. The annual Christmas assembly at the high school was presented Dec. 23 by the assembly club.

Opening the program was Rodney Peterson, music director and organist at the Methodist Church, who played the organ as students filed in. Mr. Peterson also played another selection later.

Also on the program were John Hubert, James Barnes, Roger Johnson and John Hayes who sang "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer."

A ballet to "Vision of Sugar Plum Fairies" was presented by Marlene Crawford, Martha Fletcher, Beverly Ford and Jean Ruslander.

The high school band played an arrangement of "Christmas Fantasy" and the choir, under direction of Victor Ulrich, sang several Christmas selections.

Announcer for the assembly was Bill Hohmeyer.

National Honor Society members set up plans for a tutoring service at a recent meeting.

Members are investigating the idea of holding the induction ceremony at the beginning rather than the end of the second semester, enabling new members to take part in some activities before the end of the year.

Officers for the year are Roger Johnson, president; Cheryl Mickelson, secretary; and Alice Richards, treasurer.

too weak, then too strong, then to weak. By the time papa has sampled half a dozen mixtures he begins to think he is celebrating the Fourth of July, and lights up like a roman candle. Make the eggnog yourself—and make it just once.

3. Toy entrapment. A husband always wants to get down on the floor and show the kids how to run their toys. Explain to him that toys for children today are too complicated for a grownup to understand. Sometimes it takes a doctor and two firemen to remove a husband caught in a modern Christmas toy.

4. Kris Kringle holocaust. If your husband insists on playing Santa Claus, make him take that cigar stub out of his mouth. Otherwise the kids will be wailing, "Mama, Santa Claus just caught on fire, and is saying awful words like daddy does."

5. Christmas Driving. Does your husband always pick Christmas to try to beat the Indianapolis speedway record? If so, have the boy next door jack up your car right now and take off a wheel and hide it. Most men won't leave home on three wheels—even if they often drive back that way.

6. Telephonitis. Many a husband who complains about your telephone bill all year long feels on Christmas he has to make half-hour long distance calls to all his buddies, from Saskatchewan to Singapore. Have the phone disconnected.

7. Holiday regretrospect. Christmas often makes many middle-aged husbands maudlin over their lost childhood, and the happy, happy Christmases of yore. The way to deal with a husband like this is to treat him like his mother did. Dry his tears, let him clamber into your lap, and read him Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol." When he falls asleep, take the big lug by the armpits and drag him off to bed. He'll wake up happy.

The main thing to remember is that a husband is very, very vulnerable and fragile at Christmas, and it's worth the effort to save him from his foolishness. After all, if you lose the poor dumb critter, who will pay all those Christmas bills?

Lions Are Hosts to 35 Children at Holiday Party

Thirty-five school children from special rooms, and their teachers, were guests of the Lions Club Wednesday for the club's annual Christmas party.

The pupils were those enrolled in the sight-saving room at Central School and in the orthopedic room at Whittier School.

The guests and club members enjoyed a holiday luncheon at Hotel Waldron and the program included group carol singing and numbers presented by the guests.

Gifts were presented to all the children by a Santa Claus, who bore a striking resemblance to Lion Ross P. Tenny. Robert Beauchamp was chairman of the club's committee for the party and the Lions' president, Dr. F. Milton Hathaway was master of ceremonies.

Chosen as Director of Trotting Group

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UP) — Appointment of Frederick L. Van Lenneys, president of Wolverine Raceway at Livonia, Mich., as a director in the United States Trotting Association, it was announced today.

Van Lenneys was appointed to represent District Two composed of Michigan and Indiana under a new rule allowing additional directors for the more heavily populated districts

The association passed the rule at its meeting recently when it abolished three director-at-large offices filled by the parimutuel tracks. The USTA decided then to add five directors from the districts which have the most members.

Van Lennep and his wife operate Castleton Farm at Lexington, Ky., one of the country's best-known harness horse farms.

Living in the afternoon of life, I am convinced that it is better to light one candle than to curse the darkness. I hope that the entangled world will become disentangled in the very near future and peace will prevail not only in our time but for all time.

Do not forsake your parents in their old age.

Man should, at all times, use his intelligence not to supplant, but to serve God's purposes.

I beg leave to invoke an age old prayer—"May all be inscribed in the book of life for an abundant sustenance and a full and complete life."

From my bed in the Bloomfield Hospital, I take this means of wishing sincere greetings and a happy, healthy New Year to my friends everywhere.

Cosmic Watch Is Now in Use

Includes Geiger Tubes, Scintillation Counters, Germanium

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (UP)—A cosmic stopwatch that times events in billionths of a second has been developed by physicists on the Los Angeles campus of the University of California.

One billionth of a second is to a second as one second is to a hundred years.

The group, under the direction of Dr. Harold Ticho, designed the instrument for certain cosmic ray studies under an Army Ordnance grant.

The device will be used to measure the lifetimes of certain mesons, particles from atomic nuclei. Such particles are thought to exist for only billionths of a second.

The works of the outsized watch include Geiger tubes, scintillation counters, vacuum tubes and certain germanium elements. It works like this:

Fast-moving cosmic rays from outer space, which bombard the earth constantly, create these mesons when they collide with atoms of matter in the device. These mesons pass through a fluorescent fluid in the instrument, then cease to exist.

Their passage through the fluid causes a brief and feeble flash of light which is picked up by a photomultiplier tube causing it to flash briefly. The time interval between the two flashes is recorded and represents the mesons' brief life span.

Geiger tubes, which detect arrival of cosmic rays, alert the timing mechanism when to start ticking off its billioinths of a second. The face of the stopwatch is actually the face of an oscilloscope and is characterized by a series of waves.

Wave crests correspond to the numbers of a clock and are two billionths of a second apart.

Ill Children 'Cured' by Janitor's Smiles

HARTFORD, Conn. (INS) — Doctors and nurses at Hartford Hospital agree that "the best medicine" in the children's ward is dispensed by Sherman Griffin, a 58-year-old janitor.

Griffin's unpatented remedy, which has made more than one youngster beg to stay after recovering from an illness, is an equal mixture of smiles and understanding.

The treatment is easy to apply, he says; "make the kids think they're useful and important."

"Sometimes when I'm through with my regular work, I bounce a ball with some of the younger kids, or play checkers with an older one. They can follow me around when I'm working, and I let them think they're helping me."

Griffin and his wife have one healthy child of their own.

"THE LURE OF LACE": That's what the calendar manufacturer calls this picture of Marilyn Monroe. It's the same photo that became famous when issued in its original state, with nothing on Marilyn but flesh color. Now he's gone and overprinted it with lace to avoid Congressional wrath.

Congress May Put Taboo on 'Lovely' Girl Calendars

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Next year's crop of calendars featuring the scantily clad and unclad female form divine are hot off the presses.

But the calendar manufacturers are afraid this is the last year that their products can be shipped legitimately to connoiseurs of the body beautiful in bar rooms, garages, barber shops and, undertaking establishments all over the country.

The calendar printers with a taste for things pink, feminine and unclad just barely escaped the wrath of conservative U. S. solons during the last session of Congress.

Bills which would have prohibited interstate shipment of such calendars got lost in the seums, can still use the postal

But next session is going to be different, according to some congressmen. The bills are going to be reintroduced, and a major effort to get them passed is promised. There are rumors that the clothing lobby is also pushing the legislation.

If the anti-scanty faction is successful, a large chunk of the $200 million a year calendar industry will go down the drain.

As things stand now, nude calendars are prohibited from the mails, and printers must resort to the more expensive railway and motor freight services to ship their wares.

Certain recognized purveyors of nudes, however, such as museums, can still use the postal service if they so desire.

So can publishers of "art" books and artists whose semi-nude paintings can be as suggestive as the human mind can conceive.

One manufacturer who happens to be the owner of the famous Marilyn Monroe color photo in her pink nothingness has already anticipated unfavorable Congressional reaction. He has overprinted a lacy black negligee on her unblemished frame. The shot, he candidly admits, "is our meal ticket—public demand, you know."

The funny part of the whole business is the fact that the pending bills never mention the word "nude."

But all the solons know who they're after. They use the words "lewd, lascivious, or obscene" to describe what will be prohibited.

And that's the rub. As F. B. Page of California, the uncrowned king of nude, calendar makers said recently, "I simply don't happen to agree that nudity, in itself, is any of these things."

A recent preview of next year's crop shows no significant trends in fashion following those dictated by Paris. The panties are just as short as they've ever been, and the skin is just as pink.

Glass Blowers Art Kept Alive

Expert Craftsmen Make Apparatus for Research at Duke University

DURHAM, N. C. (INS)—The age of individual glassblowing craftsmanship is not dead.

"The experienced glass blower may be almost an artist in his efforts towards perfection," says Thomas A. Henson — who makes special glass apparatus for scientific research, at Duke University.

Most scientists do not fumble and break and burn themselves when handling glass, Henson says.

Instead, he declares most scientists actually have a basic knowledge of glass blowing. But only a professional worker equipped with proper tools can turn out the intricate apparatus for many of the projects.

Henson says glass-blowing is indeed more craftsmanship than magic, however it may look to the layman watching wonders take shape in a blast of flame.

The slender, efficient glass-blower dons a pair of goggles to check the glassware after it has come from baking in a large annealing oven tall as a man. He views his product against a polarized light screen. Any strains show as rainbow-colored streaks.

Henson's craft is believed to have begun in Egypt more than 5,000 years ago.

Once it was considered one of the black arts. During the Middle Ages, Venecian glass blowers killed anyone who gave away trade secrets.

Today, Henson and other craftsmen sit at their blast burners many hours, the last individual workers in an art which has become a mass production industry in its usual phases.

France, Spain in Pact

MADRID (INS) — Spain and France have drawn up a commercial agreement whereby a total volume of operations amounting to 46 million francs (about $130,000) is planned. In this inter-change of items Spain hopes to find an advantageous market for exporting many of its goods and products.

First Military Plane

WASHINGTON (INS) — The United States bought its first military aircraft in 1909, six years after the Wright Brothers made the first airplane flight. In 1911 Congress made the first aviation appropriation: $125,000.

Cats Disappear in Buenos Aires

City Battles Felines in Effort to Reduce Rabies Danger

BUENOS AIRES (INS)—Rooftop Romeos roam the roofs no more and feline Juliets (what's left of them)yowl their yearnings to the empty air.

And fishheads, which by another name smell just like fishheads, lie succulent and unwanted in the city's garbage cans.

For war, ruthless implacable war, has been declared by the Municipality of Buenos Aires on the city's two million odd stray cats.

By night the city's dog catchers who, by day, attend to their legitimate duties, devote their attention to the feline branch of the industry and local alleys and vacant lots have yielded an enormous haul. Fish stalls in the local markets hardly look the same today without their attendant circle of hungry but hopeful felines. They have all been swept away.

The campaign is the result of a report of the local Pasteur Institute that in recent months more people have been bitten by cats than by dogs and, with the approach of the warm weather, the danger of rabies is becomming even greater. Last summer, Buenos Aires put on a mammoth drive against the city's stray dogs and thousands were rounded up and destroyed. This year it is the cats turn.

Naturally the campaign has aroused profound and vociferous indignation among local cat lovers, whose howls of protest are almost as penetrating as the former serenades of their feline friends. And no cat lover has been amused by the crack of a local newspaper that rabit stew has disappeared from the menus of the cheaper eating houses.

City of Annapolis Is 304 Years Old

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UP) — This ancient city is proud of its age and is planning a new program to show it off to visitors.

Annapolis, Maryland's capital, is better known as the home of the United States Naval Academy — an institution regarded by natives as relatively modern since it is a mere 108 years old. The city itself is 304 years old.

During the fall and winter visitors are guided on walking tours through the brick-paved streets. Guides point out historic sites — the State House, St. John's College, St. Anne's Church—as well as the old Georgian houses, some of which are open to the tourists.

The tours are arranged on request by Historic Annapolis, Inc., a society devoted to preserving the antiquities of the town.

George Schaun, executive secretary of the society, has announced plans to increase the tours next spring. Beginning March 25, privately-owned colonial homes will be open to the public for a week in commemoration of the founding of Maryland on that day in 1634.

Self-Serve Bootlegging Is New One on Police

PORTALES, N. M. (UP)—The Portales Daily News carried an article about a new type self-serve bootleg joint in this dry Eastern New Mexico city. The otherwise empty house had a well stocked refrigerator, a price list on the wall and a slot in a closet door for donations.

Police closed up the place. They charged the house owner with possession of liquor for sale in violation of the local option law.

Polite Belching an Old Custom in Zulu Society

DURBAN, South Africa (INS)—To do as the Zulus do you must learn to honor others by remaining seated, to avoid looking your host in the eye and to burp after a good meal.

These were some of the customs of native high society explained to visiting American Rotarians in Durban by S. R. Dent, Chief Inspector of Education in Natal.

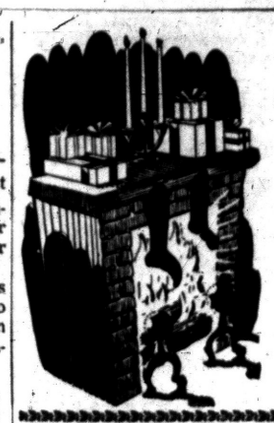

Today, Dent said, the African faces the problem of which code of behavior to follow — that of his ancestors or that of the white man.

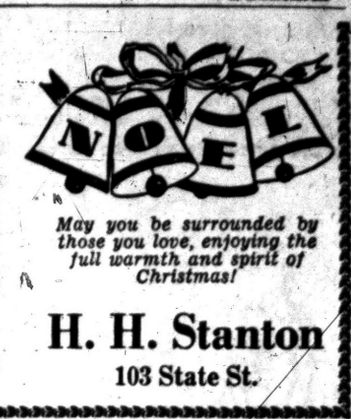

If a native remained seated in a white man's presence, or failed to look him in the eye when receiving orders, he often is scolded.

But, said Dent, if he had behaved otherwise he would have been committing grave social indiscretions by the terms of his tribal customs.

"If he belches after a meal it is to express appreciation of the food."

Mt. Clemens Man Faces Dope Charge

A Mt. Clemens man waived examination on a charge of illegally possessing narcotics yesterday before Hazel Park Judge Robert C. Baldwin.

Morton Reese, 53, of 141 Market, was jailed under $10,000 bond. He is scheduled to appear in Oakland County Circuit Court Feb. 1.

Michigan State Police of the Redford post said Reese posed as a doctor and wrote "prescriptions" for a morphine derivative in Hazel Park and Detroit drug stores.

The "prescriptions" were written on blank pads taken from a Detroit laboratory, police added.

Charge Youth Stole $104 From Station

Kenneth Cody, 18, of 1512 Vester, Ferndale, waived examination Tuesday before Ferndale Justice Earl N. Nash on a charge of stealing $104 from a gas station where he worked.

The youth was sent to Oakland County Jail under $500 bond pending arraignment in Oakland County Circuit Court.

Capt. Clifford E. Fritz of the Ferndale Police Department said Cody is accused of taking the money Dec. 20 from a service station at 806 E. Nine Mile Rd., Ferndale.

Jail Proves Welcome Coop to Freezing Bird

Here's one bird that didn't fly the coop, but he was released in time for Christmas by Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

A pigeon, trapped in ice and snow yesterday was first discovered by Deputy Charles Whitlock when he heard the beating of wings as he approached his car, parked behind the jail.

The bird, with foot and tail encased in the ice, was under a nearby car.

Whitlock and Undersheriff Donald O. Menzies brought the bird into the jail and warmed it with heated water before freeing it.

Bloomer Complaint

ATHENS (INS)—Steps are being taken to shorten the length of ungainly bloomers issued to teenage schoolgirls for a gymnastics display in Athens Stadium. Traditional shorts were banned after religious circles protested the "immorality" of such attire. The bloomers, however, were found to be unsightly, and the girls complained, hindered movement.

Canal Dunkings Outrage Tokyo

To Protest if Gls Toss Any More Japanese In; One Drowned

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's minister of justice pledged in the national Diet today to protest to the United States if American troops throw any more Japanese into Tokyo's canals.

One Japanese was drowned and another was rescued recently after they had been pitched from the Sukiyabashi Bridge by rowdy Americans in uniform.

The incidents have outraged public opinion.

Justice Minister Takeru Inukai was questioned in Parliament today by a left-wing Socialist member, Yoshitaro Shimokawa, on what action the Japanese government had taken.

* * *

"These were outrageous incidents," Inukai said.

"I think they stemmed from the childishness of the American soldiers concerned and also from a superiority complex continuing from the days of the occupation.

"The first incident could have been provoked. . . . but the second incident involved a perfectly innocent Japanese.

"The Metropolitan Police Board strongly protested to the U. S. Army. The Army sincerely apologized and helped the Japanese police examine 2,500 soldiers—including some brought back from Hawaii."

Most of the Tokyo papers published pictures of police practicing in rescue boats with life rings.

A detachment of police has been assigned to holiday duty at various bridges. One barge will be on duty. Life preservers will adorn the bridge rails.

Millikan died Saturday. For many years he was president of California Institute of Technology, at nearby Pasadena.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Season's greetings—with limitations—were sent yesterday from Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland to Gov. Johnston Murray of Oklahoma.

The telegram said:

"Mrs. McKeldin joins me in wishing for you and yours a very merry Christmas and a happy New Year with every blessing and every joy except a victory for the great Oklahoma team which meets a greater Maryland team on Jan. 1st."

Maryland, national champions in the Associated Press poll, plays Oklahoma, No. 5 team, in the Orange Bowl in Miami on New Year's Day.

Property Values Moving Upward

Average Increase in '53 Was 7.36 Per Cent as Against 4.6 in '52

CHICAGO (UP) — The assessed valuation of real property is continuing its upward trend, according to the National Association of Assessing Officers.

Forty-eight cities and 24 counties, each with more than 100,000 population, took part in the association's survey.

The study showed that the average increase in real property valuation in 1953 was 7.36 per cent, compared with 4.6 per cent in 1952, 4.4 per cent in 1951 and 2.9 per cent in 1950.

The biggest single hike was in Erie, Pa., where assessed valuation leaped by 130 per cent, or $215,000,000, in a year. Erie revised its assessments from a 1932-33 base to a 1952 base.

Boston was the only jurisdiction to report a drop in assessed valuation, a decline of 3.6 per cent. But several — including Akron, O., Buffalo, N. Y., and Salt Lake City, Utah — noted losses in land value. In each case, however, there was an all-over increase because of improvements.

In Akron, the increase was big enough to place it among four jurisdictions beside Erie with increases of more than 25 per cent over the previous year. The other three were Atlanta, Ga., with a 34 per cent increase; Corpus Christie, Tex., 35 per cent, and Dade County, Fla., 50 per cent.

New York City's assessed valuation rose $376,500,000, but this represented only a 1.98 per cent boost because the city's previous valuation was $18,500,000,000.

Father, Son Both Study Forestry

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UP) — A father-son combination answers roll call in forestry classes at Oregon State Clooege.

Thomas H. Cody, 45, Portland, Ore., and his son, Thomas H., Jr., 19 are majoring in forest engineering.

The elder Cody after a 24-year absence from the classroom, entered college as a freshman this fall because he wanted "to do better things in forestry and be more of a service to the industry.' In recent years he has worked for a Portland forestry consulting firm.

The son is a sophomore, but because of his background of forestry experience the father most likely will complete graduation requirements in three years. This would mean father and son could graduate together.

The Codys plan to organize their own forestry firm after graduation.

A Merry Christmas to All

On this eve of the Christian world's most joyous and inspiring anniversary it is good to give thought again to the real meaning of Christmas.

Customs and traditions which have developed during the nineteen and a half centuries since that wondrous night in Bethlehem have changed the character of the anniversary.

Instead of the purely religious observance it was originally, Christmas has become the occasion for exchange of gifts and good wishes, for feasting and the day of days for children. Some think the day has lost its meaning. They fear its spiritual value is gone.

But no one privileged to watch Yuletide preparations in a community like Pontiac could believe that. Each year there is increasing emphasis on the spiritual significance of this great Christian festival. It is heart warming to know that this is the case in every hamlet, town and city in this Nation of 160,000,000 and throughout the Christian world.

All this is rooted deep in the spirit. It re-echoes the joy over Christ's birth. Each year there is more evidence everywhere of humanity's yearning for Peace on Earth and to All Men Goodwill.

In this spirit all of us at the PRESS wish for our readers and everyone dear to them the most joyous and merriest of all Christmases.

Dangerous Weekends

This wintry weather and the fact that two long weekends are immediately ahead should be matters of real concern to all motorists.

Even in ideal Summer weather a three day weekend causes anxiety for law enforcement officers and almost always results in an increased traffic toll.

★ ★ ★

With the heaviest snowfall of the season and driving conditions at their worse, the Christmas and New Year weekends promise only greater highway hazards than ever. In fact the National Safety Council predicts that between 6 p. m. Thursday and midnight Sunday 510 persons will die in traffic accidents and 8,600 others will suffer injuries.

★ ★ ★

The one comforting factor in this outlook is that that many persons don't have to be killed or injured during the Yuletide weekend. They won't be if all drivers observe the common sense rules of safe Winter driving.

First and foremost of these rules, of course, is if you drink, don't drive and vice versa.

Be smart.

Don't be a statistic.

Russia Agrees to Talk

It was perfectly natural that first U. S. reactions to Russia's qualified agreement on discussion of the EISENHOWER atomic pool proposal should take a "wait and see" tone.

Long experience with Russian tactics has schooled leaders here not to rate at face value anything that comes out of Moscow. Nonetheless there were those, including Secretary DULLES, who consider the Russian reply, even with its criticism of the President's proposal, a hopeful sign.

In its soft toned 3,000 word reply the Kremlin resumed its harping on an old theme demanding a global ban on atomic weapons without any international inspection. This, of course, is a proposal which the United States repeatedly has rejected.

Yet, in announcing willingness to discuss the Eisenhower proposal secretly, radio Moscow broadcast first official mention of the "forthcoming Berlin conference." Such a broadcast isn't in itself a guarantee that the Russians will enter into negotiations in good faith.

But it is an indication that our President's initiative already has won so much support of world opinion that MALENKOV and company felt compelled to make at least a show of sincerity.

No one yet knows what will come of the EISENHOWER plan for co-operation in developing atomic energy for peaceful purposes. But to borrow the words of Sir WINSTON CHURCHILL, this proposal, because of its possibilities, ranks among "the most important events in world history since the end of the war."

THE Old Sorehead was sounding off again. "This world is a fairly nice place to live in for a while," he said, "but I wouldn't live here permanently if they'd give me the darned place."

IF YOU refrain from doing what you want to do but shouldn't, you get inhibitions; if you don't, you get kicks in the pants. (P. S. — Inhibitions aren't nearly so painful as kicks in the pants.)

EVERYONE respects the law of gravity because it always operates uniformly, impersonally and without delay.

The Man About Town

At Christmas Time

Old Residents Recall When Greetings Were Spoken

Daffynition

Clothes: By which a woman is often judged, especially if there isn't much evidence.

Older Pontiac residents like to tell of the times when Christmas was generally observed as "door bell day." Before the auto age, when telephones were scarce and greeting cards were not in vogue, it was the custom to ring as many door bells as possible on Christmas morning, say "Merry Christmas," and pass on to the next friend. People who had a means of conveyance could cover more ground, but a great majority did it on foot. If there was sufficient snow on the ground every horse and cutter in the city was pressed into service.

Several bird lovers have requested this column to remind people that our feathered friends now are in need of feeding. Recent snows make their foraging quite difficult.

Greatly missed at Christmas time is the late

Mrs. Robert Flicker Praises Groups That Took Part in Christmas Concert

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests, unless the letter is critical in its nature.)

One of the nicest things that happens in Pontiac every year is the wonderful Christmas concert given by different choral groups at the Pontiac High School on the last Sunday before Christmas.

There is no commercial taint to this celebration of Christmas, which is given free of charge. The only payment received by these various groups is the pleasure they get in bringing the Christmas spirit via the great music written describing the birth of the Prince of Peace.

The great amount of time and effort that must have been put into the learning of the many beautiful numbers by the Pontiac Women's Chorus, the glee clubs, the A cappella choir and the MacDowell Male Chorus, as well as the accompanists, was evident in the rendition of the program.

These hard working organizations should be praised for a very enjoyable Sunday afternoon and may they all have a Merrier Christmas for having brought pleasure to so many people in Pontiac.

Mrs. Robert Flicker.

Suggests We All Share Our Christmas Spirit

I, for one, love the spirit of sending and receiving Christmas cards and the custom of "our way" in the U. S.

Merry Christmas

Ten Commandments Guiding Star, He Says

Yes, this is Christmas time; and what is the meaning of it all? I wonder as I watch the Christmas shoppers going hither and yon just how many have really taken time to stop and think why the Christmas day is really held so sacred.

I believe if we, the people of this war weary world, would set about and adjust our lives somewhere near to the teachings of Christ all these terrible wars could and would end and millions of lives would be saved.

The Ten Commandments are really the guiding star to a world of peace and happiness. Let us hope and pray that the people in general may finally see the light and that we may have the peace we all so much desire.

Ike Advised to Work With All Solons Rather Than His Own Republican Bloc

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—"Stalemate government," which plagues France and divides Britain and Italy with blocs and groups that hold the balance of power in the national legislature, may confront the Eisenhower administration in the next session of Congress, just as it has blocked effective party action in the postwar years of the Democratic administration.

For several days now there have been attempts to paint the picture of a coming legislative session in which the President's "leadership" over his own party will be asserted, but the realistic truth is that nobody can lead either party in Congress today and command unwavering support.

Actually, a flexible majority has proved the only way any progress can be made, and it may well be questioned whether the attempt to carry out programs through conference with the leaders of one party is necessarily more than giving lip service to an obsolete principle.

Eisenhower, on the other hand, would be well-advised to confer also with certain Democrats in Congress and to espouse principles rather than to try to dictate the actual legislation.

For there are four political blocs in America today—two inside each of the major parties. To ignore or gloss over this situation is to make more difficult the President's job and to bring about less rather than more cohesion.

It makes good reading, of course, for the President to be talking about the leadership of his party. It is always more pleasant to talk of things as they ought to be rather than what they truly are.

Unfortunately, wishful thinking cannot erase the fundamental divisions in each of the two major political parties. The sooner they are recognized for what they are, the more effectively can the barrier of "stalemate government" be overcome.

Basically the division between between Republicans and Democrats which emerges just before political campaigns has little to do with the way votes are cast on fundamental issues in Congress. The cleavage today inside each party is between the conservative liberals, on the one hand, and the radical liberals on the other.

Neither party has any bloc of ultra-conservatives who would disregard the necessary care for human requirements under federal authority and take refuge in hair-splitting differences between federal and state rights and hence do nothing in an emergency.

Nor is there any differentiation merely along party lines when international issues are at stake.

Inside the Democratic party are just as many members of Congress who don't want to bow down to the Communists at home or abroad as there are inside the Republican party.

There are also just as many members inside the Democrtaic Party who don't want to keep on handing out American taxpayers' money to foreign countries as there are inside the Republican Party.

Americans are the same under the skin, despite the name-calling of those who like to characterize anybody as an "isolationist" who has a bit of national pride or shows resentment against the acts of those allies engaged in trade with the enemy during the Korean War.

The real issues are economic and domestic—whether taxpayers' money is to be wasted abroad and whether American enterprises are to be weakened by threats of government ownership and control of business.

There are groups in American politics which would delegate monopolies in governmental authority to private organizations, and there are groups which favor confiscation of private organizations.

And there are groups which favor confiscation of private property, though they disguise it as "social welfare." As long as these ideological differences prevail, the Republican Party will remain divided—and so will the Democratic Party.

Eisenhower can lead only through the force of public opinion—the less partisan he himself happens to be politically, the better his chances for public support of those measures which are really meritorious.

Those among the President's advisers who are egging him on to a split with Republicans in Congress who may conscientiously disagree with him are bound to do a disservice to Eisenhower and his program.

The better way would be to recognize that there are Republicans who cannot and will not support certain legislative proposals.

It would be folly for Eisenhower to yield to the advice of those who want him to run his party on a totalitarian basis and attempt some of those ill-fated "purges" in politics which Democratic as well as Republican Presidents have tried in the past, only to increase the enmities within their own party.

Case Records of a Psychologist

Says Primary Instinct of Women Is Maternal

Sex differences between men and women are not just anatomical. There is a very great difference in their mental outlook on this matter. Notice Millicent's remarks. God apparently intended women to be primarily maternal and only secondarily ardent.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case J-376: Millicent R., aged 32, is an attractive society leader of Los Angeles.

"Dr. Crane, I read your column every day in our local paper, she began.

"And I notice from time to time that you include some very frank cases dealing with marriage problems.

"You have said that women are not as ardent or passionate as men, as an average, and I am sure you are correct.

"I disagreed with you until about a year ago when I sent for one of your sex bulletins. It taught me that I was entirely mistaken in my attitude and marital behavior.

"Now I am a completely satisfied wife, but even so, I find that I must feign ardor to keep my husband satisfied.

"So why do you think God made women to be less ardent than their husbands?"

It was probably to make sure that one parent would be more interested in the welfare of the baby than in personal delight.

For example, in the early history of man on this planet suppose a woman had been created to have as much ardor as a man and were just as easily aroused by the sight of an attractive stranger passing her way.

She would then have been inclined to pursue the strange male. But if she had borne a child a few weeks previously, she'd probably lay the infant beside a tree until she had finished romancing with the stranger.

And by the time she returned to that tree, a python or a tiger or lion mught have devoured her youngster. Thus, the human race might not have survived.

So God apparently planned our respective anatomical make-up so that a wife would be moderately receptive to the ardent advances of her mate, but would be primarily a maternal creature.

In short, in a crisis she would stick to her baby even in preferance to her mate. And that has thus guaranteed each helpless infant at least one adult parent to fend for it and try to nurse it along to adulthood.

This essential sex difference is not limited only to mankind. The cow also defends her calf. And though cows are normally gentle creatures, they will grow quite warlike in protecting their young.

And this is true, even though a calf is far better equipped to look out for itself at birth than is the newborn human infant.

Women thus become wrapped up in the new baby or their other children, for they were created to be primarily mothers and secondarily sweethearts.

When husbands occasionally grow irate because their wives seem to be partial to the children, this only a natural reaction. Such wives are truly normal.

Baering Down

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
International News Service

"Peace on Earth and Goodwill to Men" is a beautiful formula. But don't throw away the recipe for cracking the atom.

This is the holiday that is complete. You don't have to watch out for the fine print.

I came through Grand Central Station at noon yesterday and watched the crowds going home for the holidays. I saw thousands of them packing home the happy loot.

When you're born in a big city you miss coming home from the holidays. I noticed that not one of them stopped at the information booth. They knew where they were headed, why and who to.

Dickens could describe a real Christmas safari so a city man wished he had been born in the sticks. You can catch the spirit of his writings in the big railroad stations.

I look at these people and realize they're fortunate. They don't have to cross any frontiers.

The same scene is duplicated at the bus lines, the airplane fields and multigraphed on the wonderful car roads of America. Folks, this is one holiday you should proceed as carefully as a man shaving the back of his own neck.

Don't peel an artichoke on the clover-leaf turns nor use the white line for an extra lane. Do you think Santa would make every chimney if he was driving kangaroos instead of reindeer?

When you drive home for the holidays don't forget the man driving in the other direction is going home too.

The spirit of Christmas is in a bag and not a bottle.

We're wishing everybody a Merry Christmas and a safe journey. After you get there okay. What goes into the plum pudding is your own business.

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

And my people shall dwell in a peaceable habitation, and in sure dwellings, and in quiet resting places.—Isaiah 32:18.

But joy shall come with early light.

Dr. Brady Upholds His Name Calling Because It Makes Folks Pay Attention

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

A New England reader heartily agrees with me that there are rackets in the medical profession, having learned this for himself the hard way, in various clinics.

From what he knows of the doctors in his city, they're better business men — how they can "take you over" is really something. But still he has one criticism to offer. Ny name calling lessens my professional dignity.

That's what a lot of readers tell me. Sometimes it worries me a little — but only a little. When I begin taking it seriously I get right up and roll a few you know what. Then, in fine fettle, I settle down to my regular name calling.

Webster doesn't deign to mention knucklehead and good old Roget suggests such polite synonyms as blockhead, jerk, ninnyhammer, numbskull, fathead, nitwit, moron and bonehead.

When you come across these epithets in my columns, dismiss them as indications of my low breeding — unless you think they apply to you. In that case you may tell me how undignified I am.

The New England reader, I take it, isn't going to squawk right away, for he adds a pat on the back:

"Because you're honest and outspoken (the clinic racketeers and trick specialists) regard you as a traitor to your class — but keep it up, you're OK."

Instead of purring, perhaps I should remind the New England reader that I am not and never was a member of that class. I was an honest family physician for the first six or eight years of practice, and after that not quite so honest, for six or eight years, and after that an avowed newspaper quack.

Through long experience in this health column racket I have learned that, well, for instance, when I offer to send readers who provide stamped, self-addressed envelopes a free pamphlet titled You Need Not Have Piles. I receive perhaps two or three hundred requests for it, whereas when I offered the same pamphlet titled It is Stupid to Suffer From Piles I received perhaps a thousand requests for it.

Of course along with a score of reproaches from poor souls who deplore my lack of sympathy.

It is my purpose to enlighten you laymen about hygiene, health and prevention of disease and I can't take time off the job to display dignity, sympathy and all that overdone blah which you can get wholesale in other columns.

When I say some doctors are knuckleheads they'll probably regard me as something worse than a traitor, but I think this needs to be said.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

London Hospitals Prepare for Smog Victim 'Invasion'

LONDON (INS)—London hospitals are making ready every spare bed today for the seasonal influx of smoke victims.

As damp winter mists begin to roll in from the sea, London's eight and one-half million inhabitants uneasily recall the choking, smoke-filled fog which sent the death rate up more than 300 percent last December.

For four days fog blanketed the city, trapping the soot and gases until the air turned to poison.

Temperatures plummeted and householders frantically stoked their coal fires, increasing the contamination that filled the streets and seeped under doors and windows.

It was a new kind of "blitz" from which the only escape lay miles away, outside the radius of the city's pall. Before it was over, 4,000 persons, most of them elderly, had succumbed.

This year, as the fog season got under way, various authorities began clamoring for government action to combat the menace that lurks in every hearth and furnace where soft coal is burned.

Six thousand London doctors recently signed a recommendation that people make their own surgeon-type anti-smog masks out of gauze.

At once the famed capacity for humor in the face of adversity displayed by Britons during World War II came to the fore. Newspapers blossomed with fashion notes on smog masks while London laughed.

The Ministry of Health was moved to issue a statement debunking the masks.

"Absolute rubbish," replied the London Medical Committee. And so the battle rages. Not until another heavy fog sets in and the air swirls with smoke will it be known whether the well dressed lady of London sports a pearl-studded face mask with matching earrings.

Arnold Marsh, General Secretary of the National Smoke Abatement Society, says the ultimate solution to the problem lies in smokeless zones.

These he describes as "areas in which all smoke and other material pollution are prohibited." They may range in size from a few acres upward, but are "of little value unless, sooner or later, they are able to expand" to include an entire city.

As yet in Britain there is no national legislation dealing with smokeless zones. A number of local authorities, however, have secured powers for establishing such zones.

The local governing body of the area known as the City—the business district in the heart of London—has sought permission to turn the entire district into a smokeless zone.

This would entail chiefly legislation requiring the use of smokeless fuels such as coke.

In its campaign for pure air the National Smoke Abatement Society points out that smoke is a menace to crops and livestock as well as to humans.

"Farming," says the Society, "cannot be as efficient or as productive as it might until the towns cease from poisoning the land with their drifting smoke clouds." Besides polluting the air, smoke screens out the vital rays of the sun and renders soil so acid as to become infertile.

GOOD WISHES for everyone

by J. Lee Voorhees

J. L. VOORHEES

The most obvious paradox: the person who gives away his prize possession is the one who receives a more highly prized one—happiness.

Ecclesiastes XI, 1: "Cast thy bread upon the water; for thou shalt find it after many days." We cast our bread upon the water at Christmas time and it comes back to us thickly spread with the jam of love and kindness.

M. E. SIPLE

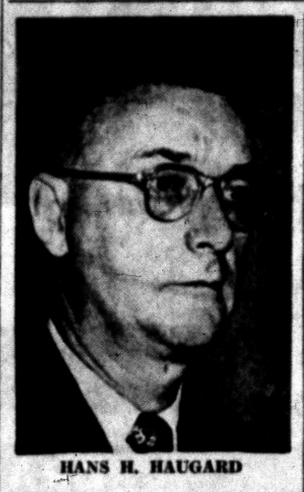

To sacrifice, do without, to make someone happy, is to lay a precious gift on the altar of our Christ Child. To celebrate His birthday by giving is the epitome of love, and this emotion springs from the secret recess of our soul.

Follow the Star of Bethlemen. Go to your church. Let your home ring with the spirit of giving. We're celebrating Christ's birthday, the most joyous time of all times.

MERRY, MERRY CHRISTMAS TO YOU.

Walled Lake Petitions Filed

Incorporation Group Reports No Opposition to City Plan

WALLED LAKE — Petitions calling for an election to decide whether Walled Lake will be incorporated into a city were filed yesterday with the Oakland County Board of Supervisors and the County Clerk.

Included in the proposal are provisions for police, fire protection, sanitary facilities, public health, zoning, road and street maintenance.

The action is being sponsored by the Incorporation Committee under the chairmanship of Dick Roach.

A sample questionnaire, distributed earlier, showed a 79 to 1 ratio in favor of incorporation. Those circulating petitions reported no opposition to the proposal and secured more than enough signatures required.

Committee officials have said that since Walled Lake is no longer exclusively a resort area, solving of sanitary, parking and traffic problems must be met by some form of government for the good of the community.

They feel that this can be accomplished at no greater cost than what is being spent by persons residing or operating businesses within the proposed incorporation area.

Further action will be reported to citizens of the area, committee official said. A map showing boundaries of the area is being prepared.

CLAYTON C. GILLILAND

Three Farmers Are Acquitted

Sentencing Set Jan. 4 on Charge of Plotting to Obstruct Justice

By ARNOLD S. HIRSCH

LAPEER—A Circuit Court jury late last night found Clayton C. Gilliland of Detroit guilty of conspiracy to obstruct justice. Three Lapeer County farmers were acquitted.

Freed were Floyd Schriber, 60, of Almont, Harold Jarvis, 36, of Lapeer and Howard Abbott, 45, of Columbiaville.

Gilliland faces a maximum sentence of five years in prison or a $2,500 fine. Sentencing is scheduled for Jan. 4. He is free on $5,000 bond.

The jury of four women and eight men deliberated six hours and ten minutes. Twenty-three ballots were taken, according to Lloyd Dockham of Columbiaville, the foreman.

In the trial which began a week ago yesterday, the four were accused of conspiring to prevent Sheriff Clark W. Gregory from serving an eviction writ on Mrs. Elizabeth Stevens at her Clifford farm June, 2, 1952. The evicition was based on her refusal to pay an assessment against the defunct Lapeer Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Assn.

The 57-year-old Gilliland, the last major defense witness, was cross-examined yesterday morning by Special Assistant Prosecutor Carl Williams.

He testified that he had been with the Members Committee, a farmers' group which has been fighting the assessments, since 1933.

He described himself as "an investigator specializing in corporations."

Asked what corporations he had investigated, he stated he had done work for the Brazilian government in 1926, a mining company in Idaho and a bank in northern Ohio.

After a lengthy reply in which his own lawyer, Clem Block of Grand Rapids cut in, "Let me argue," Gilliland finally said he did not know what his total earnings from the group over the years had been.

The prosecution presented three rebuttal witnesses, Jack Smith of Lapeer, the sheriff's lawyer; Ronald Reedy, a deputy who accompanied the sheriff when he attempted to serve the eviction writ, and Gregory himself.

The sheriff testified he had met Gilliland before the eviction attempt. "I told him he had done nothing for the people during all those years. He became angry and said he rammed 250 judgments down some judge's throat with a wire brush."

Gregory again denied making any statements that he wanted publicity or that he had made any "plan" with any of the farmers' group.

In his charge to the jury, Circuit Judge Timonty C. Quinn defined a conspiracy and read from the original charge against the four "and unknown diverse other persons."

In clearing the three farmers, the jury probably worked on the assumption that Gilliland plotted with these unknown persons.

The judge ordered all spectators to remain in their seats for 10 minutes after the jury filed out of the courthouse. There was no disturbance.

Slip of Finger Gets Detroiter Lapeer Sheriff

LAPEER—Detroit's new direct dialing system for nearby out-of-town calls had strange repercussions for Undersheriff Neil Gass yesterday morning.

The phone rang in the Lapeer County Sheriff's Office, and Gass answered in his usual manner:

"Sheriff's office?" the voice at the other end said. "Where?"

"Lapeer," Gass answered.

"Sheriff's office."

"Lapeer!" the voice howled, "I want the University exchange."

The sheriff's office telephone is MOhawk 4-2121. University is a Detroit exchange.

Court Upholds Right to Picket

Denies Drayton Plains Trailer Firm's Plea to Restrain Strikers

DETROIT (UP) — Circuit Judge Thomas J. Murphy refused an injunction request Wednesday by the Pontiac Coach Co. to restrain picketing of the company's new plant at Drayton Plains.

The judge upheld a claim that the right to picket is a part of the right to freedom of speech.

The pickets, members of the AFL Electrical Workers Union, carried signs protesting the use of non-union electrical workers in the construction of the new plant.

Deliveries of construction supplies were halted when union drivers respected the picket lines.

The company, arguing that it had the right to hire non-union employes, said the verdict will be appealed.

MRS. DARRIEL L. ALSOBROOKS

Couple Exchanges Vows in Orchard Lake Church

WESTACRES — Fir trees and white poinsettias banked the altar at Our Lady of Refuge Church at Orchard Lake Saturday when Mary Anne Labadie exchanged wedding vows with Darriel L. Alsobrooks.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett R. Labadie of 3471 Oakleaf, Westacres, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Alsobrooks of Allen Park.

For the ceremony, witnessed by 200 guests, the bride chose a floor-length gown of white chantilly lace and nylon net. The gown featured a fitted bodice with a scalloped neckline and an illusion yoke. Her long sleeves came to points at the wrists.

Her waist length bridal illusion veil was held by a lace headpiece studded with pearls. She carried a white orchid on a mother of pearl prayer book.

Anne Tierney of Westacres was maid of honor and Phyllis Wright was bridesmaid. Both were attired in identical white taffeta, ballerina-length dresses. Their hats were white satin and velvet and each carried red carnations.

Flower girls were twins Lesley Jane and Lindsey Anne Colter.

Serving as best man was Robert Hileman of Wyandotte, and James Johnstone and Jim Labadie seated guests.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents following the wedding.

After a honeymoon, the bridegroom will report back for duty at Fort Knox, Ky. and the bride will live with her parents.

Mary Anne attended Michigan State Normal College where she was affiliated with Sigma Sigma Sigma Sorority, and Darriel was a senior at University of Michigan before entering the Army.

Mason Jail Escapee Nabbed at Brighton

BRIGHTON (UP)—Ralph Hoote 34, who escaped from the Mason County Jail at Ludington Tuesday, was taken in custody here Wednesday night at the home of a girl friend.

State police said the girl friend tipped them off that he was at her home. Hooten, a Great Lakes seaman from Marquette escaped from the jail by ripping off tin from the roof of his cell and the attic of the jail. He was awaiting transfer to serve 2½ to five years on burglary charges.

Area Man Is Injured in Crash Wednesday

Eugene D. Vagts, 33, of 4371 Letart, Drayton Plains, was treated at Pontiac General Hospital for multiple head, leg and rib bruises suffered yesterday in a traffic accident on Scott Lake Road.

According to Michigan State Police of the Pontiac Post, Vagts was eastbound on Scott Lake road in Waterford Township when his auto collided with a truck driven by Clarence E. Howe, 40, of 4725 Kempf, Drayton Plains.

More than 20,000 species of fish are known today.

Santa Helps Santa Play Santa Claus

DYERSBURG, Tenn. (AP) — This city's check writing Santa Claus came back to see Santa Claus.

For the second straight year the courthouse yard Santa felt a fat envelope pressed into his hand yesterday. The giver disappeared before Santa got a look at him.

Inside, just like last year, Santa found 100 checks, each for five dollars and each signed "Santa Claus."

There was a note telling Santa "to use them where they will do the most good."

At the bank, again just like last year, Santa was told the checks "are as good as gold" but queries about the identity of the donor yielded only a smile and a negative shake of the head.

Santa Claus was dog-tired and broke last night after passing out the last of the $500 in checks.

Detroit Man Killed, Bride Hurt by Car

DETROIT (UP) — Edward E. Olila, 50, was killed and his wife of one month, Matilda, 39, injured seriously early today when they were struck by a car in northwest Detroit.

Olila was a merchant seaman on the Great Lakes freighter B. F. Jones, now tied up for the winter at Ashtabula, Ohio.

The driver of the car, Allen Viedrah, 53, was not held. He told police the couple walked into the path of his car while crossing a street.

There are 24 municipalities in the U. S. named Portland.

About 13,000 persons in the U. S. commit suicide each year.

When nitroglycerine explodes, the volume of gas subsequently released is said to be 10,000 times greater than the original explosive agency.

Little Winnie Rockefeller's Yule List Slows Down Parents' Legal Battling

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY

NEW YORK (UP)—A little boy's Christmas list has slowed down temporarily the bitter legal battle between Mrs. Barbara (Bobo) Rockefeller and her estranged husband, Winthrop.

Little Winnie, as Bobo calls her 5-year-old son, wants a cowboy rope and a fire truck, among other things, for Christmas.

Her friends say that her first concern at the moment is seeing that he has a happy Christmas in the 16-room Park avenue penthouse they now call home.

Bobo still is enmeshed in a legal tangle reportedly involving a $5,500,000 settlement from Rockefeller. Long legal conferences normally interrupt her daily schedule.

"She is a sensible mother and he is a natural little boy," said one of Bobo's closest friends. "She got a big Christmas tree and helped Winnie decorate it the way he wanted it—with lots of candy canes and ornaments. It looks like any kid's tree."

The setting is quite different from the average, however. The tree stands in the living room window of the three-story penthouse Bobo moved into so unexpectedly last summer. She has closed off some of the rooms, and runs the remaining rooms with the help of one maid.

She moves freely around the city now, often with Winnie by the hand, to do her shopping, unlike the first few weeks when she rarely left the apartment.

Socially, however, Bobo's present life is far quieter than in the days when she lived in a walkup apartment on Third avenue. She almost never goes out.

"She hasn't had a date in years," a friend said, "so she rarely goes anywhere at night. She really leads a pretty lonely existence."

Her sister, Isabel, and her husband, Henry Hellman, a professor at New York University, are constant companions. Winnie goes to a nearby nursery school, where he's regarded as an above-average student with an interest in music.

"He asked for piano lessons for Christmas," the friend said, "so Bobo got him a teacher right away."

The little boy who may be a millionaire some day speaks a little French and Lithuanian. He learned Lithuanian from his grandparents, who live on a farm near Lowell, Ind., although Bobo, daughter of a Lithuanian coal miner, can speak the language, too.

What does Bobo want for Christmas? She isn't saying. Her friends insist loyally that she is "no gold digger," but that she is determined to see that her child gets what is rightfully his.

Brilliant Girl Studies Fuels

CHAMBLEE, Ga. (INS) — A lesser mystery of the Orient today is the mathematical wizardry of a doll-like Chinese girl who won a scholarship for a course in gas fuel technology.

She is 26-year-old Marian Hung-yin Tsai of Formosa, a student at Southern Technical Institute in Chamblee.

The pretty lady engineer, who received her degree by passing a special examination given by the Chinese Ministry of Education, traveled 8,000 air miles to take the gas fuel course — only one of its kind in the world.

Understandably she is the only girl in the class. But her flair for figures would be enough to set her apart from other students.

At the National Yin-sze University, Miss Tsai averaged 99 in differential equations in calculus, 94 in phyics.

After graduation she went to work for the Taiwan Pineapple Corp. a assistant enginer in the technical division. Her study in America is sponsored by directors of the Liquefied Petroleum Gas Association, which cut international red tape to obtain a student visa for the smart girl.

Type on Tape

The "Write-on-It" tape which made such a hit with housewives last year is now being sold in a new form. This plastic labeling tape is being packed flat as well as in rolls so that it can be used for typewritten marking. Writing appears on the tape by pencil pressure or typewriter stencil and can't be rubbed off.

Lightweight lined suits are riding the crest of the vogue for any-hour wear. Treated to dressmaker accents and styling, the suit above bears the indispensable element of good taste that is fashion's stamp. The suit may be purchased locally.

Spoon in Coffee Proper on Train

COLUMBUS, O. (UP) — Contrary to accepted etiquette, it's not only proper but also good sense to leave the spoon in your coffee cup — aboard the dining car of a moving train, that is.

Eastern railroad dining car experts claim the spoon in the cup helps keep the coffee from sloshing out. What's more, they say this works even better when the spoon is turned backwards.

To help the coffee-drinker who might be embarrassed by the spoon-in-cup routine, the railroads are searching for the perfect non-sloshable cup.

For your friendship and good will we extend a hearty "Thank You." May you have a delightful Christmas and a successful New Year.

For Collars, Cuffs, Bibs

Current Fur Fashions Provide 'Shaggy Touch'

PARIS (INS)— This year fur gives the "shaggy touch" to your outfit.

Besides fur-collars, cuffs, ties and edgings, Paris fashion designers go in for special ways of using the fuzzy stuff.

Pierre Balmain proposes a bra of leopard skin on a caramel colored net evening gown. The fur brassered net evening gown.

Jacques Heim goes even further. He has designed a blouse made entirely of fur. White baby-lamb is fashioned into a short-sleeved, boat-necked blouse which looks smart with a slim black wool skirt.

A detachable fur cape will give last year's coat a new life. The cape should not be longer than elbow length and a matching muff would be ideal.

If you wish a fur collar on your fabric coat, follow Schiaparelli's idea. She trims a dark grey flannel coat with a collar of Norwegian blue-fox. But the fox collar itself is partly hidden under a burgundy red velvet over-collar. You could also plan to add a black fabric cape lined in leopard to a black fabric coat. By turning up the cape, it will form a fur-hood over your head for stormy days.

Madeleine de Rauch shows comfortable fur bibs with stand-up collar bands to fill in suit, coat and jacket necklines. A bib of brown beaver looks smart with grey flannel, while black and white tweed is perfect with a black Persian lamb bib.

An original fur-piece at Pierre Balmain is a huge shawl made of calf-hide in white and light brown. It is fringed-edged and can be used as a blanket in a car or, if folded to a triangle, as a shawl.

The most spectacular Paris garment with fur-trimming is a white ground-length lace gown combined with snow-white fox. The gown is sleeveless and has a huge cape-collar edged in fox. The cape-collar can be turned up to become a hood with the fox framing the face. Trimming around the ground-length skirt hem is also white fox which in front points up in a peak to the knees.

Woman Styles Child's Clothes

DALLAS, Tex. (INS) — A Dallas woman has built a successful business on her theory that no child is an ugly duckling.

Mrs. Betti Terrell, who has won national recognition for her designs for little folks, believes that any child can be pretty with an attractive hair style and good fitting clothes.

A neighbor asked her to keep a dress and doll which was to be her child's Christmas present.

"I was shocked by the high price she had paid for the dress and told the woman I could make one just like it much cheaper. So I did and made doll clothes to match."

The woman showed the results toher club members and their additional orders started Mrs. Terrell in business.

She has this advice for budding designers:

"Do not depend on the drawing board and cute little pictures. It just does not work. Drawing pictures does not reveal how a certain fabric and color will look when it is made up."

After telling Santa what she wants for Christmas, Susan Armstrong, 4, daughter of the William Armstrongs of Prall street and sister of the triplets, is confident she will find the right things under her tree Christmas morning.

Delicious Anticipation of Christmas Eve Is Just as Exciting as Day Itself

Mary Margaret McBride Says:

History Books Take You Into Presence of Famous

Will Durant, philosopher and historian, told me the other day that his wife rates reading history above most other diversions because that way she can choose such fine company.

It's a wonderful thought—that in a week's reading you could enter the White House with Lincoln, be at Napoleon's side on St. Helena, accompany Caesar to his meeting with Cleopatra.

MISS McBRIDE

On second thought, I believe I'll let the historian attend to Julius Caesar, and I'll hurry to the ancient isle of Samos to watch Cleopatra and her later love, Mark Antony, arrive for a little vacation.

The triumphant proconsul comes by galley, home from the wars. The Egyptian queen floats up in her golden, purple-sailed barge rowed by ebony slaves wielding ivory oars. Her best rubies and emeralds glitter as she reclines on deck in a haze of myrrh and incense.

Because I'm sure I'd enjoy consorting with the great during frivolous hours like these, I think I'd also like to be with Queen Elizabeth I of England for Christmas 359 years ago when, the records show, an actor named William Shakespeare performed before the royal lady in a new play that almost certainly was "The Comedy of Errors," of which he was also author.

Elizabeth was in her 60s, with wrinkles, false hair and some missing teeth. She moved in a blaze of jewels and wore clothes that were too young for her.

So royal was royalty then that her nobles kneeled to her even when playing card games with her, but I am indebted to Marchette Chute,

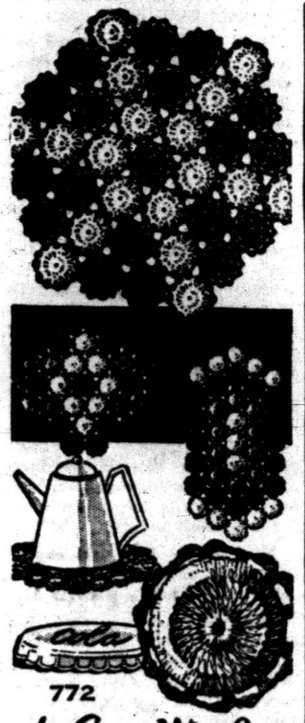

... She was witty, too, and could laugh at herself. When the French ambassador congratulated her for speaking six languages, she quipped: "It is no marvel to teach a woman to talk; it is far harder to teach her to hold her tongue."

To come back to our own country in a time nearer this one, I'd choose to have been standing by when Abraham Lincoln wrote for his sons, Willie and Tod, a formal if whimsical pardon for their Zouave doll that had been condemned to be shot for sleeping on sentry duty.

I also would have liked to have heard the Gettysburg address and I wonder if I would have been among the few who clapped or the majority who thought that speech too simple and short for an important occasion.

You don't have to worry about getting there on time or missing out altogether when you're meeting important people through the pages of history books, and that's just as well for me: I'm the reporter who sat in a left bank hotel in Paris playing solitaire while, a mile away, a man named Charles A. Lindbergh landed at Leo Burget Airfield after an epoch-making flight across the Atlantic.

Should Girl Meet Date in the City?

It's Proper to Join Him There, Wrong to Go Home Alone

By EMILY POST

A reader asks this question: "Can a well-brought-up young woman offer to meet a man, with whom she has a date to dine and to go to a play, in town, rather than make it necessary for him to come out to the suburbs to get her?

"My mother thinks it would be a very common thing to do and that no gentleman would permit it. I can't see this at all, but would like to hear what you have to say about it."

Answer: Meeting you at the station in town would be permissible, but letting you go home late at night would be impossible—unless you have a brother or other male member of your family who will meet the train that your host has put you on.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am expecting a baby shortly and would like to know what to do about sending birth announcements. You see, my husband and I separated this past month and our separation is not generally known.

Under the circumstances, would it be proper to send out birth announcements, and if so, should they be sent in my name alone? Won't this seem strange to those who do not know of my separation?

Answer: I think this is one time when it would be best not to send announcements. Your nearest friends and relatives would be telephoned the news and they in turn would spread it further.

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter is going to be married in an afternoon wedding. Both she and the bridegroom belong to the same church and they plan to go to church together the morning of their wedding day and receive Communion. Isn't it supposed to be bad luck for the bride to see the bridegroom on her wedding day before the ceremony?

Answer: "Old wives' tale"—in other words, perfect nonsense. Furthermore, the supposed bad luck is seeing her in her wedding dress before the wedding.

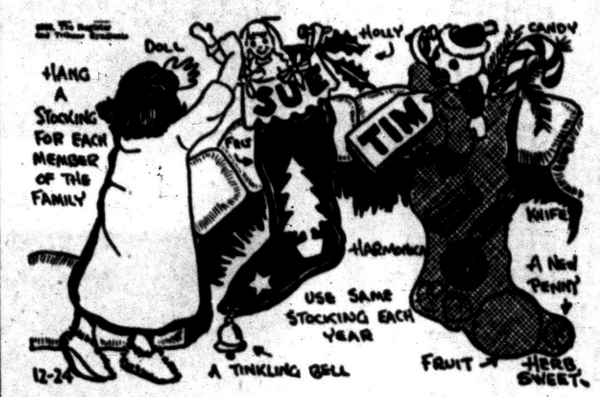

Make Mirror Tree

Detach laurel, pine or spruce sprigs from the main branches of your Christmas tree and tape them to the face of a wall mirror in the form of a tree then trim the tree with berries and small ornaments.

THE NIGHT BEFORE

Look back on all your Christmases and you'll remember the delicious anticipation of them more clearly than the beautiful Christmas days themselves. Especially The Night Before! A wonderful Night Before Christmas to you!

Try It

Hang Socks for Everyone

It is certainly fun to hang a stocking up for each member of the family. Often people buy fancy oilcloth or felt stockings for the young people in the family, but they forget the older members.

Ask Mother if there can't be a stocking for everyone. It is even more fun to hang up a regular everyday stocking, for then you have the family stockings as they really are.

Most people are pleased to be given the key to the city, but don't appreciate getting the gate.

The fireplace gets a rakish look with nylons, wool bobby socks, dark men's hose, and small socks hanging from the mantel. If you all think about putting up your stockings at the last minute, don't worry about how they are going to be filled, just begin to look around the house.

It seems that it is a tradition, or something which has always been done, to have a bright penny in each toe. Shine up some old pennies. Perhaps some of the little gifts will fit into the socks. How about oranges, apples, nuts, candy and inexpensive toys for filler?

Uninsulated Big Window Lets In Cold

Several Methods of Eliminating Chill Are Suggested

It seems that lots of people have homes with picture windows. If these windows are made out of insulating glass you can sit before them on the coldest sort of a day and be perfectly comfortable.

On the other hand, if the window is glazed with ordinary glass, you'll feel downtight chilly when you come too close to it.

This sort of thing makes it necessary in many homes to rearrange furniture so that in winter nothing is close to the picture window.

You can stop a large expanse of glass from drawing heat out of the room and out of you by equipping it with storm windows, but this can be expensive especially if the storm sash has to be made to order.

You can get the same general effect of a storm sash by drawing heavy draperies across the window in the evening or on dark days but this pretty well knocks out the primary advantage of a picture window which, as we understand it, is to provide light and a view of your neighbor's backyard.

The heating people have found that if a register or baseboard panel is installed under a picture window the blanket of warm air thrown up will make the area close to the picture window comfortable.

We've found that if you place an electric heater under the window the same general effect will be achieved. The electric (it can be gas just as well) heater need not run all the time—just when the sun is not shining.

When Yule Dawns, Be Neat, Pretty

Don't Spoil Great Day by Appearing Frowsy, Untidy

Early Christmas morning when the clan rallies around the tree, it's better to look like a pretty child or an informally dressed doll than a poorly painted glamour girl.

That's what one makeup expert tells all women past their teens who have trouble looking as fresh as a holly berry at that hour of the morning.

From the Hollywood beauty expert come more timely tips:

Don't let either grownups or kids see you—even with eyes glued to spacemen's helmets they can see mothers, grandmothers, godmothers, aunts and aunts by courtesy—dressed in a robe that has only warmth to recommend it.

Even if the house is still as cold as the deep freeze, wear your beautiful robe or housecoat to the tree's unveiling. For warmth, wear a pretty sweater under your robe or housecoat. Tie it on over a pair of leotards, woolen panties or slacks, if chattering teeth can't be stilled any other way.

Don't think stars in those moppets' eyes are going to keep any man's gaze—relative's or outsider's—from straying to curlers tucked in your hair. If your head bristles like an arsenal with bobbie pins, plan to hide pincurls under a whoosh of pretty net.

Now, if the hour has come, you're up, and you want to look wide awake, here's what to do:

Dash water on your face. But have it warm, not cold. Cold water will leave your skin looking red and raw. After a splash of warm water, pat your face and neck dry. Then slap on an astringent or skin-freshner, guaranteed to tingle your skin awake and make it look fresh.

While this stuff is drying of its own accord, wash your teeth. Now, puff on a velvety film of makeup from your cake compact. The merest touch will banish night shadows from your face.

For speed and some more crack-o'dawn flattery, spread the merest whisper of dry rouge on your cheeks. If yours is not the palest pink there is, make your red cheek rouge look pink with a light application.

A pink lipstick is also in order for this early-morn meeting with your admirers, even if they only toddle or crawl, and, of course, for turning yourself into another ornament for the Christmas scene.

Betrothal Revealed by Twila B. Pike

The betrothal of their daughter, Twila B. Pike, to Pvt. Larry N. Finkle of Ft. Knox, Ky., is announced by Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Amburns of Sylvan Lake. He is the son of Mrs. Delton Hillman of Watkins Lake and Lyle Finkle of Poplar street.

Wedding plans will be announced at a later date.

Returning Home

Expected home for the holidays from a four-week wedding trip to Havana, Cuba, and Miami, Fla., are Dr. and Mrs. Leonard Cain of Washington street. Mrs. Cain is the former Rose Marie Levin.

Helps Fight Fires

Wool is frequently used as a firefighting agent. Almost every laboratory or industrial operation which involves highly flammable materials requires that wool blankets be kept readily available for extinguishing small fires and burning clothes. Fire insurance companies, too, urge the use of wool blankets to smother fires.

Disease Beneficial

A virus disease has helped to increase the production of wool in Australia by making more land available for the grazing of sheep. Myxomatosis, a disease fatal to rabbits, is being used by the Australian government to rid the country of hoards of rabbits which caused great losses of pasturage.

Heart of You Is Greatest of Presents

Dedicate Yourself This Yule to Being Nicer Person

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

The heart of you is the most precious gift you have to give — not just at this season of giving — but any time of the year.

It's the heart of you that makes tears spring into your eyes when church bells ring. It's the heart of you that soars at the look of sheer delight on the face of someone you've done an unexpected favor for. It's the heart of you that sings when you've done a job—and you know it's really well done.

Of your heart give generously on Christmas Day and all through the new year.

Be genuinely and deeply grateful for everything—big and small—that your family and friends do for you. They're giving you of their hearts. Be forever surprised and delighted at their thoughtfulness.

Be charitable and big in your patience with others. It's small to bicker over petty things, to magnify trifles out of all proportion, to find fault with others' shortcomings. The warmth of your heart can keep your temper steady, your patience calm, your perspective clear.

Put everything you have into the things you do. Don't try to find the easy way out every time or try to see how little you can get away with.

Put all of your effort, your steam, your enthusiasm and your imagination into your school work, your committee, the play, or whatever. Strain yourself a bit. The rewards are richer.

Be easier to get along with. Not sour with jealousy and resentment. Not self-centered and concerned only with your own affairs. Be ready to help, even if it's inconvenient. Be open in appreciation of others' good luck. Care what happens to them.

Try to live with disappointments. Things won't always work out as you want them to. You won't get what you want, you won't always succeed. Try to understand why, and be good-humored about it. Keep cool and collected instead of being a crosspatch when you can't have your own way.

And be willing to acknowledge that there's more than one way to skin a cat! Your way of doing it isn't the only way. Other people have other ideas, live differently and do things differently. Respect their right to be as they are.

Face yourself in a quiet moment during the holidays and admit that you're no gem. There's room for improvement. Then put your whole heart into trying to be a nicer person.

This Mr. and Mrs. will greet Christmas morning in cozily comfortable robe and lounge pajamas. Their trimly tailored outfits are both of new rayons which go right in the washing machine—are shrinkage controlled for the life of the fabric.

Finds Path to Success at Yuletide

Woman Discovers That All Folks Are Basically Good

By ANNE HEYWOOD

The vice president of one of the nation's largest advertising agencies is a woman whom I know, a very successful woman, and every year, at Christmastime, I think of something she once told me.

We were discussing success, and what it was composed of, and her comment was: "Success is nothing more than human relations, which is nothing more than knowing how to like people." She paused, then smiled and went on.

"Whether you're working for people, or working with them, or supervising them, or selling to them, or persuading them of something—you have to like them. But it took me a long time to learn how to like them."

Since she is a major executive in a major company, I knew that her success with people must be phenomenal, and it surprised me to hear her admit that it didn't just come naturally, that she hadn't been born with an innate love of people.

"But how did you learn?" I asked her.

"I was a secretary, and had been for five years. My boss was impossible, and some of the other people in the office were terrible.

"I had been there five years and there seemed no hope of promotion. I was bitter and disillusioned, and felt that there was no hope of bettering myself. People were so full of office politics, and so mean.

"On Christmas Eve that year," she continued, "I went to the church service. They had carol singing and candles, and I looked around the congregation. They were all people I knew—no better, no worse than average.

"But all of a sudden, as I looked at their faces, they all looked radiant, and good, and wonderful.

"I began to realize that all people were good people—or at least, wanted to be—but that the trials and tribulations of daily life made them frequently do things they didn't really mean to do. I saw that I was far from blameless, too.

"But for that moment, on Christmas Eve, the spirit of peace and goodwill took over, and we all became, for that moment at least, good people.

"When I returned to the house, I made my mind up to remember that, and remember it well—that everybody is basically good, and wants to be. When I went back to the job,

"Now," this wonderful woman concluded, "every year of my life I go to the carol service and remind myself again that people are basically good.

"With that yearly reminder, I can go through the whole year with that thought in my mind. It's amazing how much it has done for me personally—and even financially!"

It sometimes happens that you find yourself alone at a large party without a familiar face in sight. When that happens—head for another lone person or a small group and introduce yourself.

That's much better than letting your hostess find you standing disconsolately in a corner looking like you wished you had stayed at home.

Check Dishes With Salt Test

Ever wonder about the cleanliness quotient of your favorite restaurant? Check your drinking glass with a simple test used by San Antonio, Texas, food inspectors and you'll get an idea. All you need is an extra glass and a salt shaker.

Pour the water out of the original glass into the other one, and sprinkle salt inside the damp glass. If the glass is clean, there'll be an even coating of salt. But if there are grease spots, the salt won't adhere to the surface.

After checking on the restaurant's housekeeping standards, you might see how good your own dishwashing is by testing the family glassware at home.

Glitter Jewelry in Vogue for Day

ELIZABETH, N. J. (INS) — Rhinestone jewelry used to be confined to nighttime wear, but now it's fashionable to glitter all through the day.

Daytime outfits — suits, dresses or coats—won't look "right" unless they're bright with rhinestones.

It's also modish to mix rhinestone jewelry with pearls, gold, colored stones or any other jewelry item.

Carry an extra pair of earrings and maybe a bracelet in your handbag so that you can add glitter any time during the day.

Three-Foot-High Canine for Sale Real Cheap

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP) — For sale: One dog, part Boxer, part Great Dane, a dash of Shetland pony. At least that's the way fireman Carl Akerley describes the puppy he recently brought home as a pet.

In the three days Akerley said the three-foot-high animal, broke several leashes, wrecked furniture, tore down a window shade and curtain, crashed through a closed cellar door, put the neighborhood canines in fear of their lives.

Korean Nation Once Thriving

'Ireland of the Orient' Boasts Many Natural Resources

WASHINGTON — Although for the last eight years Korea has been a land divided, until half a century ago it was one of the world's most independent, homogeneous and stable nations.

When the insustrial north was split from the agricultural south by the 38th parallel division in 1945, Korea's economic life line was severed. Since that time, neither region has been able to benefit from its resources.

A narrow mountainous peninsula, Korea stretches 660 miles south of the Manchurian border between the Yellow Sea and the Japan Sea to within 110 miles of Kyushu, Japan's southernmost island.

The country covers 85,250 square miles, about one and one half times the size of Florida, which it roughly resembles in shape.

Before World War II, Korean industry—concentrated mainly in the north—was larger than that of hydroelectric potential was estimated a 5 million kilowatts, more than the 1937 electrical output of either Italy or France.

The land is known to hold highly strategic mineral reserves, largest in the Far East outside Manchuria. Fifteen years ago Korea produced about one-third of the world's graphite.

Gold production ran as high as $50 million a year. Coal reserves are well over 1½ billion tons, and the iron ore reserve is estimated at more than a billion tons.

But despite its industrial potential, four-fifths of Korea's people are farmers, committed to rice agriculture on the fertile mountain slopes. In 1940, the nation was the world's fourth largest rice producer.

Korea also ranked third in the world in commercial fishing in 1939. Some 75 kinds of edible fish are found along its 11,000-mile coastline, where warm and cold currents meet. The country has 10 major all-weather ports, 29 secondary ones, and 139 other offshore anchorages.

Korea's legendary history goes back about 4,000 years. Nicknamed the "Irish of the Orient" because if their spirited, independent nature, they have been engaged in a tragic struggle for freedom, unity and independence for half a century.

A "hermit" nation during most of the 19th Century, the country was claimed as a protectorate by the Japanese in 1905. Five years later it was annexed into the Japanese Empire, and its name changed to Chosen.

In 1919 Korean nationalsits staged a "passive revolution." A republic-in-exile was established under the presidency of Dr. Syngman Rhee. In 1948, the Rhee government was recognized by the United Nations, although the northern half remained under Russian domination.

In 1950, Korea's population was just under 30 million, ranking 12th in the world, with two-thirds of the populace in the area south of the 38th parallel.

During the war, an estimated 1 million in the southern zone were killed and another million permanently injured. North Korea is reported to have lost over 1½ million.

SANTA-BABY!—Pretty TV stepper Diane Sinclair prepares to step into Santa's garb—an old fashioned costume but a becoming and timely one for this season. The dancing star of the "Dave Garroway Show" proves conclusively that she knows how to fill a stocking adequately. How would you like to see her sliding down your chimney tonight?

Prisoner Coughs Razor He Kept With Uppers

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A county prisoner coughed up his secret.

Jailers were wondering where the inmate kept a razor blade with which he was constantly slashing his wrists superficially, just enough to get sent to the hospital.

The cough dislodged it from under his upper plate of false teeth.

Fewer than 100 aborigines remain in the Andaman Islands today.

Hoagy Practiced at Law Before Song Itch Started

NEW YORK—Music lovers have been treated to such hit tunes as "Stardust," "Rockin' Chair," "Lazybones" and many others because an Indiana attorney, who tried practicing law in Florida, switched from writing legal briefs to composing music.

The ex-Hoosier barrister is Hoagy Carmichael, who today has numerous song successes and motion picture credits and is star-host of TV's new 90-minute comedy-variety show, "Saturday Night Revue."

Hoagy was born Nov. 22, 1897 in Bloomington, Ind. He was first taught to play the piano by ear by his mother, Mrs. Lyda Carmichael, whose ragtime piano playing delighted Bloomington friends and neighbors.

"The Hoag" played his way through law school at Indiana University with a three-piece orchestra.

In 1924, he had a song published but it didn't make the fledgling composer change his mind about becoming an attorney. He worked for a New York bank as a step towards a legal career, and from there went to Florida to begin his practice.

However, there wasn't an overabundance of clients, and in his spare time he composed another song titled "Washboard Blues," which was recorded by Red Nichols and his combo, and which didn't break sales records.

A few months later the young lawyer was sitting at his desk when he heard "Washboard Blues" being played in a record store across the street from his law office.

"All of a sudden," says Hoagy, "I got a crazy urge to forget law, contracts and legal briefs, and decided song-writing was for me."

He walked out of the office, locked the doors and hurried home to pack his bags and catch the next train for New York.

The rest is musical history. In New York, Hoagy started writing for Mills Music and in 1929 penned "Stardust," which was an overnight sensation.

Such hits as "Rockin' Chair" and "Lazybones" followed. In 1940 he was called to Hollywood, where he has remained for 13 years composing and appearing in films.

In his first picture, "To Have and Have Not," Hoagy sang and acted his way into favor with audiences who were unfamiliar with the Hoagy Carmichael personality. He also introduced his famous "Hong Kong Blues" in this film.

To date he has had important roles in "Johnny Angel," "Canyon Passage," "The Best Years of Our Lives," "Night Song," "Young Man with a Horn" and "Las Vegas Story."

* * *

Some of his other better-known music compositions include "Old Buttermilk Sky," "Memphis in June," "Little Old Lady," "The Nearness of You," "Blue Orchids," "I Get Along Without You Very Well," "Skylark," "Lazy River," "Doctor, Lawyer, Indian Chief" and "Cool, Cool, Cool of the Evening," which won an Academy Award for him in 1952.

Hoagy is of medium stature—five feet, eight inches tall—slim, athletic—weighs 135 pounds—plays better than average tennis and golf.

He and his wife, the former Ruth Meinardi, have two sons—Randy Bob, 12, who is musically inclined, and Hoagy Bix, 14, named after his father's idol and best friend, the late Bix Beiderbeck.

$10,000 Pledged to Aid Couple Who Lost Five Children in Blaze

MARINETTE, Wis. (AP)—Contributions, already totaling $10,000 in cash and pledges, poured into Marinette last night in the wake of a tragic fire that took the lives of five small children and prostrated their parents with grief and shock.

The five children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert De Gaynor—the oldest 6 years, the youngest 2—perished in a pre-dawn fire yesterday. The De Gaynor's home and all their possessions were lost in the blaze.

The mother, Rose, 27, was under sedatives at General Hospital. Mrs. De Gaynor, who expects another child in March, suffered burns and a possible concussion. Her husband also is hospitalized with burns and a leg injury suffered when he fell 10 feet from the roof of the house to the ground.

Offers of aid began coming in as soon as a local radio station told of the tragedy. Downtown shoppers flocked to the studio with cash donations. Traveling salesmen, hearing of the tragedy over car radios stopped and donated amounts ranging from $10 to $25.

More than $10,000 had been pledged by late evening, in addition to land and re-building material.

Thief Returns Toys After Appeal in Ad

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—An unknown toy thief had a change of heart yesterday and Christmas Day promises to be something extra special this year at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Hall and Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Marrs.

Marrs saved a nest egg of $20 t[illegible] bought the Hall children—Marcheta, Bobby and Pete — a bunch of toys. The toys were stolen from his car.

Heartbroken, Marrs appealed to the thief to return the gifts—no questions asked—in a newspaper story.

Tuesday night the Marrs car again was left unlocked in the family driveway. Yesterday morning the toys were back in place, still wrapped, undamaged, and all accounted for.

Bob Considine Says:

Carnegie Spent Millions to Bring Peace on Earth

NEW YORK (INS) — Forty three years ago this month a doughty Scot, tough as nails and rich as Croesus, set out to do something constructive about making Yuletide's "Peace on Earth" mean something.

Andrew Carnegie wrote a letter to the trustees of the peace fund that bore his name (as, in time, did Carnegie Hall, Carnegie Tech, Carnegie Institute, Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, Carnegie Hero Fund and 2,800 public libraries, etc.)

He couldn't spell well, but few men in history ever wrote a more convincing check.

I am indebted to Dr. James T. Shotwell, president emeritus of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, for including in the foundation's annual report a copy of the semi-illiterate but beautifully lofty letter of December 14, 1910.

Excerpts: "Gentlemen: I hav transfered to you as trustees of the Carnegie Peace Fund, ten million dollars of five per cent. First mortgage bonds, the revenue of which is to be administerd by you to hasten the abolition of international war, the foulest blot upon our civilization.

"Altho we no longer eat our fellowmen nor torture prisoners, nor sack cities killing their inhabitants, we still kill each other in war like barbarians.

"Only wild beasts are excusable for doing that in this, the twentieth century of the Christian era, for the crime of war is inherent, since it decided not in favor of the right but always of the strong.

"The nation is criminal which refuses arbitration and drives its adversary to a tribunal which knows nothing of righteous judgment."

Carnegie believed that President Taft, who is not especially remembered as an internationalist, thought most clearly on the question of world peace. He quoted Taft as telling the International Bureau of American Republics:

"We twenty-one republics cannot afford to hav any two or any three of us quarrel. We must stop this, and Mr. Carnegie and I will not be satisfied until all nineteen of us can intervene by proper mesures to suppress a quarrel between any other two."

Carnegie added:

"I hope the trustees will begin by pressing forward upon this line, testing it thoroly and douting not."

Carnegie would not have liked U. N.'s veto, particularly as practiced by Russia. For he wrote:

"The judge who presides over a cause in which he is interested dies in infamy if discovered. The citizen who constitutes himself a judge in his own cause as against his fellow-citizen, and presumes to attack him, is a lawbreaker and as such disgraced.

"So should a nation be held as disgraced which insists upon sitting in judgment in its own cause in case of an international dispute."

In the quiet pre-atomic December of 1910, with the Pax Britannica still holding true, Carnegie saw a day when — peace having been accomplished — some question about what to do with the unspent money might arise.

He wrote:

"When civilized nations enter into treaties, and war is discarded as disgraceful to civilized men, as personal war (duelling) and man selling and buying (slavery) hav been discarded, the trustees will pleas then consider what is the next most degrading remaining evil or evils which banishment — or what new elevating element or elements if introduced or fosterd, or both combined — would most advance the progress, elevation and happiness of man, and so on from century to century without end, my trustees of each age shall determin how they can best aid man in his upward march to higher and higher stages of development unceasingly, for now we know that man was created, not with an instinct for his own degredation, but imbued with the desire and the power for improvement to which, perchance, there may be no limit short of perfection even here in this life upon erth."

Incredible document, in the light of what soon seized civilization and continues to throttle it. Incredible, too, that one of Carnegie's trustees "of each age" became Alger Hiss.

Connecticut is credited with passing the first law for public control of crop pests. In 1726, the Connecticut Colony authorized towns to arrange for which carried a disease fatal destruction of barberry bushes to wheat.

HOLIDAY GREETINGS

It doesn't have to be a holiday for me to think of my good friends. To me, this thing called "business" is founded to a great extent on friendship and the desire to be of service to my customers. And for me to say it is a real pleasure to do business with you is expressing it mildly. Because really and truly I have appreciated your acquaintance and patronage. I've tried hard to deserve your friendship and if I've succeeded, this New Year will indeed be a pleasant one for me. To you and your loved ones, my sincere wish for a Holiday season that is merry and a New Year of success, happiness and good health.

Russia Executes Beria for Treason After Secret Trial

IN ANY LANGUAGE—This Christmas scene should provide a clue to the meaning of the Chinese lettering above. It says: Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. Mrs. Irene Gunther and son, Richard Hwang, 11, have reason to be happy this season. It's their first Christmas together in six years.

All 13 Escapees Put in Solitary

Convicts to Spend Yule in Block 13, Warden Bawls Out Aides

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—Notorious Cell Block 15, a grim, dark disciplinary unit, today held all 13 convicts who broke out of Southern Michigan Prison on Saturday night.

The last two were caught in Richmond, Ind., yesterday and returned last night. They were flung into solitary confinement. So were the others.

It was in Cell Block 15 that mutineers set off a bloody, costly, four-day riot in 1952.

* * *

Warden William Bannan "bawled out" his top 19 administrative aides yesterday and told them he hoped it did them as much good as the bawling out he got from the State Corrections Commission did him.

Bannan, his chief engineer and two powerhouse engineers were named in a Corrections Commission report blaming "laxity" and "inadequate security measures," as well as a manpower shortage, for the break.

Bannan said he thought the criticism justified, but complained anew that the Legislature had turned down sufficient funds to hire 126 more employes he deems absolutely necessary.

* * *

The 13 used an acetylene torch, stolen from a work crew inside the walls, to cut three sawproof gratings in a sewer, through which they crawled to freedom. They invaded a nearby home, terrorized a former guard and his wife and child, took civilian clothing and a pistol and stole a car.

Three of the five were captured Monday and eight were caught within 24 hours in the vicinity of Jackson.

Caught by alert Richmond police were a 37-year-old psychopathic killer, Roman Usiondek, and a 33-year-old burglar, Robert Dowling, both sent up from Detroit.

Bannan said all will be barred from holiday church services. Nor will they be permited to have visitors or attend a special Christmas show staged by other inmates.

Turning to criticism of himself and three subsidiaries, Bannan told the staff:

"In the future where it is proved there has been negligence on your part, you can consider it cause for immediate dismissal, suspension, reprimand or any other action that our disciplinary board decides."

* * *

He promised a fair trial, but said anyone found guilty of neglect of duty "most assuredly will suffer the consequences," then added:

"That's one point I have been lame on and I should have given this ultimatum months ago."

Bannan said he had reprimanded Dan Johnson, chief engineer of the prison, and expected Johnson to reprimand two steam electric operating engineers, Fred D. Smith and Wells B. Kollar. He said he hadn't gone over the head of a department chief and didn't intend to.

The Corrections Commission criticized poor liaison between Smith and Kollar and their failure to keep up with inmates assigned to the power house.

Ex-MVD Chief Had Been No. 2

Six Henchmen Are Shot After Conviction of Plot to Aid Capitalism

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union closed the books today on Lavrenty P. Beria. The government announced that the longtime boss of the secret police (MVD) and six of his henchmen were shot by a firing squad yesterday after a secret five-day trial. The Soviet Supreme Court found them guilty of high treason.

Beria, 54, held the Soviet Union's highest honors and had been elevated to the No. 2 Kremlin post of first deputy premier and interior minister after Joseph Stalin died nine months ago. Three months later, in June, Premier Georgi Malenkov's government arrested him and denounced him as a traitor to the state and communism.

* * *

The execution announcement today was the first disclosure that Beria's trial had been going on since Friday behind locked doors.

* * *

The hearing opened two days after the Soviet press published indictments against Beria and announced the names of the six other defendants. The papers at the same time started blasting the seven as the vilest kind of betrayers and reported that mass meetings throughout the country were unanimously calling for their deaths.

(In past cases of executed traitors, the bodies have been cremated and disposed of without further announcement.)

The eight-man tribunal, under Marshal Ivan S. Koniev, a World War II hero, passed sentence after "The guilt of all the accused was completely proved in court by the evidence and also by oral and written confessions," the government newspaper Izvestia said.

* * *

The official announcement said Beria and those who had conspired with him tried "to put the Ministry of Internal Affairs above the party and the government for the purpose of seizing power" and aimed "for restoration of capitalism."

As early as 1919 Beria "occupied the post of secret agent" in Azerbaijan, acting with groups "under the control of British intelligence organs," the announcement said. It added:

* * *

"In the following years up to his arrest, L. P. Beria continued and extended his secret connections with foreign intelligence services."

Shot along with Beria were Vsevolod Merkulov, minister of state control; V. G. Dekanazov, secret police chief in Stalin's and Beria's home state of Georgia; D. Z. Kobulov, ex-deputy minister of internal affairs; S. A. Goglidze, internal affairs chief in the Soviet Far East; P. Y. Meshik, internal affairs minister in the Ukraine, and L. E. Vlodzimirsky, internal affairs investigations chief.

Santa Came Early for Her

Mother Having Christmas With Son After Six Years

Mrs. Irene Gunther of 750 Lounsbury Ave. says her Christmas present came in August this year.

'Now I'm doing my best to see my present has a very merry Christmas," she added.

Mrs. Gunther's pre-holiday present is a lively young man of 11, her son Richard Hwang whom she hadn't see for nearly six years.

Born in Thailand, but now a United States citizen, Mrs. Gunther married Lt. Jack C. Gunther in Canton, China, in 1947. Her son by a previous marriage was then six years old.

Gunther was called back to America. He could bring his wife under the law at that time, but not Richard, who remained with his aunt in Taipeh, Formosa.

Richard's entrance was finally approved this summer and he made the 7,000 mile plane trip to Pontiac alone.

With the lieutenant's arrival yesterday from duty at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., the family is together for their first Christmas in six years.

Richard, who speaks fluent English, besides Chinese and the Formosan dialect, says he has many friends at Lincoln Junior High where he's enrolled in the eighth grade.

"We had a Christmas party this week which was fun," he said. "But I had to dance with a girl, which wasn't so much fun.

"We play sports at school. I can't get used to football though. It's top rough."

Basketball captured Richard's heart in a hurry. "It's my favorite sport," he stated. When asked how many times he'd played the game Richard said, "Once, last Saturday.

"Dribbling is pretty easy, but those one-handed running shots are tough."

Richard is waiting to see if his Christmas dinner here compares with the feast enjoyed last year in Formosa. "We had chicken, fish, lobster and all sorts of vegetables," he explained.

Displaying some Chinese paintings done by his grandfather, Richard said he would like a "real luxurious" painting set for Christmas so he could paint too.

"I'd also like a great big old harmonica," he stated, and smiled as Mrs. Gunther eyed a great-big-harmonica-size package under the Christmas tree.

"This is a real holiday season," she said. "There's an empty feeling at Christmas when your little boy is 7,000 miles away."

Staff Fingerprinted at General Hospital

About 500 full and part-time employes of Pontiac General Hospital are being fingerprinted, according to Hospital Director Lauretta Paul.

Due to the large number of employes, some only temporary workers, the move was felt necessary to safeguard property of the hospital, patients and employes, said Miss Paul.

The prints will be forwarded to the FBI by Pontiac Police Department. After processing by the federal agency, cards will be returned and kept in local police records

Employes will also submit photographs to be included in the file

Same Christmas Card Is Used for 21 Years

OMAHA (AP)—Lydia M. Ramer of Omaha isn't at all surprised at the slightly used Christmas card she got this year from Mrs. Charles Ramm of San Diego, Calif.

It's the same one Miss Ramer sent Mrs. Ramm last year.

In fact, the card has been shuttling back and forth between the two at Christmas time for the last 21 years.

"This could go on forever," said Miss Ramer, who found the card still apparently good for many more round trips.

Bob Beats Polio and Wins a Dog

Nurse Gives Patient, 12, Black Boxer Pup for His Brave Recovery

Bobbie Blackburn is coming home for Christmas to play with a black boxer pup named "Toughie"—his reward for a winning fight with poliomyelitis.

Bobbie, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Blackburn, 6835 Saline Rd., Waterford Township, was stricken with polio last August. He spent more than three months in an iron lung under the care of the Sister Kenny Polio Foundation, first at Oakland County Contagious Hospital and later at Children's Hospital, Farmington.

Toughie is a gift from one of the boy's nurses, Mrs. Robert F. Hawkins of Milford, who promised to get Bobbie the thing he wanted most—a boxer pup—if he would co-operate with physiotherapists in trying to move his crippled muscles.

Today he is able to move his hands and doctors hope that by next summer he will begin walking again.

Mrs. Hawkins, convinced Bobbie has earned his reward, says Toughie will be waiting for him when he arrives home from Children's Hospital this afternoon to spend the Christmas holidays with his parents and 11-year-old sister, Sandra.

Bobbie was one of three polio patients who made medical history last October when they were transferred from Oakland County Contagious Hospital in Pontiac to Children's Hospital in Farmington without leaving their iron lungs.

They made the dramatic, 18-mile trip by moving van, attended by nurses and technicians and escorted by State Police.

The lungs were kept in operation during the transfer by a generator towed behind the van.

2,000 Vermont Wives Must Cook in Fireplaces

WINOOSKI, Vt. (AP)—Some 2,000 housewives today began planning to cook their Christmas dinners the old fashioned way—in ancestral fireplaces.

The Green Mountain Power Corp. reported last night that equipment at its gas holder plant in Burlington has failed and there will be no gas to operate home gas stoves for seven to 10 days.

Glad Tidings for Them Too

State Hospital's Patients Not Forgotten

Christmas will come to Pontiac State Hospital tomorrow with something for every one of the 3,000 men and women who must spend the days within hospital walls.

Plans for all patients include Christmas cards, gifts, music, Christmas trees and a turkey dinner with all the trimmings Dec. 25.

And before December ends, more than a thousand patients will be guests at at least one Christmas party or program.

Dr. Ivan A. LaCore, hospital superintendent, today thanked the hundreds of people who have sent cards, gifts or baked goods or have helped entertain patients.

The hospital's Psychiatric Aides Association, spending $450 from its recent Christmas bazaar and several hundred dollars from other projects, has its Christmas shopping done and all gifts wrapped and ready.

The hospital's appeal for Christmas cards brought in some 10,000 this month. Some were donated to patients who needed cards to send to friends and families "outside" and the rest were sent to patients —so that every one will get several Christmas cards.

Patients on all the wards are competing to see who can come up with the best-decorated Christmas tree this year. Prizes will be awarded for the winning trees.

Parties this month included a social service department get-together for patients who attend psychodrama sessions, where they act out their problems in skits.

The 30 patients 10 to 18 years old, who attend the hospital's "Saturday School," were treated to music, refreshments, and a visit from "Santa Claus" Saturday by the staff. Staff members themselves have donated funds to buy Christmas presents for the youngsters.

Yule celebrating started Dec. 4, when Ferndale Elks gave a Christmas party for working patients.

Other groups giving parties, variety shows and programs were the Betty Pruse School of the Dance, Pontiac High School Chorus, Birmingham Village Players, Birmingham Musicale and Junior Musicale, and the Women's Auxiliary of Christ Church, Cranbrook.

Occupational therapy department staff treated its patients to a tea Dec. 11.

A patients' choir caroled through the halls of the hospital wards and cottages early this week.

Christmas dance was given Wednesday night, with a movie scheduled for tonight.

Christmas Day will find patients opening gifts around Christmas trees and dining on roast turkey with dressing.

New Year's dances for two group of patients are planned for Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec. 29-30. The Tenth Air Force Combo, directed by Master Sgt. Wilbur Jones will play for the New Year's dance Dec. 30.

County Jail to Have 105 Yule Dinner 'Guests'

The number of Christmas dinner guests at Oakland County Jail tomorrow will be almost three times as big as last year's, according to Undersheriff Donald O. Menzies.

In contrast to the 1952 Christmas feast when 37 prisoners were fed turkey, Menzies said tomorrow's dinner will include the following for 105 inmates: Chicken pie, mashed potatoes and gravy, creamed peas, celery and cranberry sauce, mince pie and coffee. Trustees have the alternative of selecting roast chicken.

Why chicken instead of turkey? Mrs. Mae Hamlett, the jail's head chef says prisoners like chicken better. Mrs. Nancy Hagan will assist Mrs. Hamlett in preparing the Yule feast.

Menzies said that friends and relatives will be allowed to bring gifts to the prisoners in the afternoon.

"But we'll unwrap and inspect all gifts first," Menzies said. "Christmas in jail can only go so far, you know."

'Silent Night' Too Noisy

Wayne Official Plays Scrouge to Carolers

DETROIT (AP) — Circuit Court Commissioner Arthur W. Sempliner halted a group of Christmas carolers yesterday for failing to accent the "silent" in "Silent Night."

The carolers were making the rounds of the county building lending Christmas cheer to the maze of courtrooms and offices.

Office workers, including Circuit Judge Ira W. Jayne, applauded the carolers—but not Sempliner.

"We started singing outside his door. He (Sempliner) came out waving his hands, flushed, acting like a madman," said Edward S. Ferris, a clerk in the prosecutor's office.

Ferris said Sempliner told the group to stop singing because they were disrupting his courtroom.

"We stopped singing momentarily and then continued," Ferris said. "Sempliner came storming out again and took two girls by the arms. He told them they had better stop singing or he'd send them to jail."

Sempliner later said he was hearing an eviction case. He said he did not think the caroling was fitting ocnsidering that people were being threatened with ouster from their homes.

Pass Up Office Party to Give Food Baskets

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Sheriff's Office isn't going to hold its traditional Christmas party for city officers and other politicians this year.

Sheriff Martin L. Tozer, who says there's "a certain dignity" to the office that rules out big beverage parties, said the office will observe Christmas by distributing 110 baskets of food and toys to needy families instead.

CAROL FOR PATIENTS—The Pontiac General Hospital Staff Nurses' Ass'n entertained some 200 hospital patients with Christmas carols last night from 7 to 8 p. m. Other groups caroling for patients this year were the Junior Chorus from Oakland Park Methodist Church and the Young People's Choir from the First Baptist Church.

For the Record

Lung Cancer Poses Ethical Problem to Smokers

Maurice Zolotow, author of "No People Like Show People" and "Never Whistle in a Dressing Room," ponders the ethical questions facing the tobacco industry—and smokers themselves—in light of evidence that the rise in cigarette smoking parallels the rise in lung cancer.

By MAURICE ZOLOTOW

Tolstoy once raised the following question: If a man were given the power to wipe out, at one blow, all the poverty, misery and frustration in an entire nation — but if, in doing so, he would cause the death of a single child — would this act of murder be justified? Tolstoy's reply, was that human life was so holy that no one had the right to take it away, no matter how noble the purpose.

None of us is ever likely to be faced with this ethical problem. But some recent medical research has posed a somewhat analagous issue.

Two cancer specialists have come to the conclusion that the rise in lung-cancer parallels the rise in cigarette smoking, and that there are certain ingredients in cigarettes, notably tars, which, may cause cancer in some smokers.

Now let me make it clear that I am a smoker, I have been a smoker and I shall continue to be one. The relaxation, the lift, the ease I get from thoughtfully puffing on a white cylinder packed with snippets of tobacco is a pleasure I don't want to surrender.

The ethical problem that is raised involves those persons who directly or indirectly get some benefit out of the manufacture and sale of cigaretes. Are they morally justified in continuing to earn a livelihood in this way? Even if it should be proved that smoking causes fatal lung cancer in no more than one person in a hundred million — the issue still remains — as in Tolstoy's case.

But when you start chewing over the problem you suddenly realize its ramifications. More people than you would expect are linked together by a chain of cigarettes. For instance, such stars as Jack Webb, the Dragnet detective, Perry Como, Arthur Godfrey, Lucille Ball, and Jack Benny are sponsored by cigarette companies. Should they all resign? And what of those who prepare advertisements and the newspapers and magazines which print them? And the linotypers who set the type?

Am I, for instance, prepared to stop doing business with newspapers and magazines which print cigarette ads? Can I force my family to go on an austerity basis? Frankly, I am not going to do this.

What of the farmers, who grow the plants, and the truckers and railroads who ship the product, and the men who cure the leaves and the auctioneers who sell the raw tobacco, the women who tend the machines that grind out the white cylinders, the shopkeepers who retail the merchandise, the stockholders of the cigarette corporations, and the colleges and universities which partly live on the dividends from the cigarette stock?

Following Tolstoy's reasoning—if it could be proved that the death of even one person was caused by smoking — we should all cease to have any association with it.

Yet we will not do it at all. We will not do it, for the simple reason that — except for rare moments of love or religious exaltation or heroism in battle —human beings must inevitably act human.

Perhaps the most significant application of all this is that we would not critizize and find fault with others when they do not seem to be living according to our ideas of right and wrong. "Judge not, lest yet be judged," is an extremely sound suggestion. We should develop more patience and understanding with our children, our relatives, our friends, our neighbors, because none of us, really, is behaving too well. We are seldom very noble or very unselfish. Any time you are inclined to judge somebody else too harshly for not being better — light up a cigarette and consider its technical complications as you watch the smoke curling up and disintegrating.

Give Old Linoleum New Coat of Paint

Old linoleum can be given a fresh look by painting it with floor enamel.

Before applying the enamel, scrub the linoleum to make sure it is free of all dirt and wax. The enamel will not adhere to a waxy spot.

After the base coat of brush-applied enamel has dried, the floor can be stippled with a special stippling sponge. This gives a marbelized effect that will not show dirt marks as readily as a solid color will.

Paint Doorknob Area to Minimize Fingerprints

Woodwork around doorknobs becomes soiled frequently when there are children in the house, but dirt marks can be minimized by painting a small area of the woodwork a darker color.

To do this, remove the door hardware and mark off the outer limits of the area with a masking tape before painting.

Portuguese Flag's Place Over U. S.' Is Club Question

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (UP) - There's a law against flying any other national flag above the Stars and Stripes, but because of a presidential dispensation the members of a club here feel they are an exception.

President William McKinley in 1898 granted the 70-year-old Monte Pio club special permission to run up the Portuguese flag over the American flag on certain occasions. He extended the privilege by way of acknowledging contributions of more than $1,000 by club members to victims of a disastrous storm in Texas in the late 1890's.

In the intervening years, the club has never heard any word from Washington to indicate that the privilege has been withdrawn. However, a law passed by Congress in its last session specifies that the only exception is the United Nations.

Club president John Machado said the club does not abuse the unusual grant anyway.

"The only time we fly the Portuguese flag is on a big national holiday or when one of our members dies," he said.

Diapers Lead the Way

SALT LAKE CITY (UP) — A photographer for the Deseret News and Telegram was told to get a picture of Mrs. Frank Gifford, who had tthree children within 21 months and three days, and he phoned to verify the address. "We live at the rear of that address," Mrs. Gifford said. "Come around to the east side of the house where all the diapers are — that's it."

Repairs Tough in Atom Plants

Worker May Have to Look Like 'Spaceman' in Full Regalia

BERKELEY, Calif. (UP)—Automatically controlled and remotely operated devices in nuclear power plants turn some of the simplest maintenance procedures into fantastically difficult tasks, according to an atomic scientist.

K. K. Campbell, superintendent of power and maintenance at the Hanford Atomic Products Operation of the General Electric Company, explained some of the problems at a conference on nuclear engineering on the University of California campus here.

Repairing a damaged gasket with long extension tools under several feet of water in a concrete cell is like trying "to use a four-foot fork to eat spaghetti," Campbell said.

In another maintenance operation, Campbell told what was required to replace a ball-bearing in a fan shaft—a simple job anywhere but in a nuclear power plant.

The operation required 30 mechanics working for three eight-hour shifts because each man could safely stand the radiation in the area for only six minutes in every 24 hours.

Campbell's description of a maintenance worker at the Hanford laboratory indicates that tomorrow's nuclear engineer might look like a "spaceman" in two suits of coveralls, leggings, rubbers, fullface mask, and two pairs of rubber gloves.

"Doing mechanical, electrical or instrument work while dressed in this manner is not easy," he said, "and the handling of small parts on a repair job requires calm nerves and unlimited patience."

Campbell suggested six rules to follow in designing nulcear power plants:

Incorporate maximum accessibility with ease of replacement, avoid false economy by spending pennies in original equipment and dollars later on maintaining it, split units into replaceable components, standardize equipment, aim for simplicity and select the proper materials.

Blind Men Help in Air Defense

3 at Berkeley Center Prove Fast and Sure on Spotting Boards

OAKLAND, Calif. (UP)—Three blind men working at the ground observer headquarters here have proven that sharp ears and nimble fingers can perform a job that highly rated radar elements fail to do in airplane spotting for national defense.

The men, William Standage, 31, Berkley, and Marvin Flinn, 28, and William Evans, 65, both of Oakland, have been volunteer workers at the air raid warning filter center here for almost a year and Air Force officials have described their work as above average in all respects.

The filter center was set up to evaluate reports of suspicious planes in the Northern California area which have not been detected by radar because of various problems of terrain.

Each man has received the official wings of the ground observer corps for working 50 hours or more at the center.

Air Force Sgt. William Warren of Santa Barbara, who is attached to the center, said the men are "raid clerks," who assemble information about type, description, altitude and the number of suspicious aircraft in each report and record it on a "raid board."

The "raid board" is then relayed to a "plotter" who gets a range on the suspicious planes and prepares further reports for Air Force fighter-interceptor squadrons.

The "raid boards" are equipped with braille pegs and holes which aid the blind men in their weekly six-hour watches.

Warren said Standage "made less mistakes at his job than most people and was easier to teach than the other volunteers."

Standage said he found blindness was "something of a handicap in the job at the center but not much." He has 168 hours of volunteer work to his credit and has received an award for personal accomplishment.

Standage holds a degree in psychology from the University of California and lives with his guide dog in a Berkeley apartment. He has been blind all his life.

Flinn, who has a wife and three-year-old daughter, has been blind for 16 years. He said "it helps to be blind in my work at the filter center because of the way the raid stands are set up."

"I can place information and find data on the raid stand faster than those that see," he said.

He seeks to get other blind persons to volunteer their services to the filter center because he is convinced they can do a great service to their country in national defense.

Evans, the oldest member of the trio, lost his sight six months ago.

"I find I can hold down my position at the filter center and have never had any trouble or fallen behind in my work even though I am blind," Evans said.

New Tire Cord

WILMINGTON, Del. (INS)—The Textile Fibers departmet of the DuPont company has announced development of a new high-tenacity rayon yarn to be sold under the trade mark, "Super Cordura." This rayon yarn, DuPont says, provides added strength and toughness in automobile and truck tires.

He Obeyed Orders

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (INS)—Chester I. Hall, an inventor who was ordered 30 years ago to "stay 10 years ahead of the electrical industry," has retired with the electric phonograph turntable, the home thermostat, the five-lane traffic light and 144 other "firsts" to his credit.

Long Hair Gains

CHICAGO (INS) — The musical taste of the American record buying public is becoming more and more "long hair." A few years ago, classicial records accounted for only 15 per cent of sales. Today the figure is 40 per cent of the total $20,000,000 annual record sales.

Sprung for Holiday, but Not as Present

CHICAGO (AP)—Ivar Forsner, 40, in Cook County jail's alimony row for 32 months, was freed by Superior Judge Charles S. Dougherty yesterday—but it was not a Christmas present.

The judge released Forsner on a technicality. Charles A. Bellows, attorney for Forsner, had pleaded that unless action were taken, Forsner "might be in jail for life." He was $14,335 in arrears on alimony and child support payments.

Bellows filed a writ of habeas corpus in Forsner's behalf. Judge Dougherty granted the petition on the ground that a bond of $2,500 Forsner's wife had posted at the time her husband was committed was not backed with surety as required by law. She opposed his release.

Cable Grip Inventor Dies in Connecticut

BANNING, Calif. (AP)—Dr. Edgar Eugene Kellems, inventor of the cable grip manufactured by his sister, Vivian Kellems, died in Connecticut Tuesday. He was 53.

Kellems succumbed following a heart attack. Survivors include the widow, a son, Sgt. Kenneth Kellems of the Air Force, and a daughter, Mrs. Ross Andrews of Pasadena. Funeral services will be held Saturday in Inglewood, Calif.

UNDERSIZED SANTA—Though he hasn't the waistline of ol' Chris Kringle, and his gift sack is slightly undersized, the Christmas greeting of Pa Kettle (Percy Kilbride) comes from a great big heart. Pa doesn't even own a Santa suit and has to do the bit in his old red flannels (but you know how it is with 14 kids in the family.) The Kettles, Percy and Marjorie Main, will star next in "Ma and Pa Kettle at Home."

Former POW Describes Yule Behind Fences

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What is Christmas like behind barbed wire?

Bob Wise can answer that. This will be the first Christmas in four years he has spent outside a Communist prison camp. Another Christmas, longer ago, was spent in a German prison camp.

"It wasn't so bad under the Germans," says Capt. Robert Wise of the U. S. Army. "We were allowed to have religious services and have songs and plays. But under the Communists. . . ."

* * *

Wise will fly today to his home in Tacoma, Wash., to spend his first Yuletide with his son, 4-year-old Robert Kent. He is here as technical advisor on a film called "The Prisoner of War Story."

* * *

Wise remembers his first Christmas under the Reds "as perhaps the worst experience of my life.

"On Christmas night we ended a 25-day march through the bitter cold. Most of the men—those who survived—were sick, starving and frozen. Our only solace was a chaplain, a Catholic priest and a saintly man, who would not rest until he had ministered to each man, even though he knew that would infuriate the Reds. Later he died of an infection; the Communists did little to save him.

* * *

"The next Christmas was better. It appeared that the truce talks were coming to a head, and the Reds didn't want us to appear starved. (Wise himself dropped from 175 to around 110 pounds.) So they brought in a truckload of frozen chicken and pigs and gave us a feast. After the talks stalled, we went back to our miserable life.

* * *

"The same thing happened in the Christmas of 1952. They even let us have a program, but everything was censored. We couldn't sing 'Don't Fence Me In.' Even a song about 'fields of yellow corn' was deleted; they were that conscious of their color. Anything that indicated the downtrodden was allowed. They approved Dickens's 'Christmas Carol' because of the capitalist Scrooge."

Wise was first captured in January, 1944. He and his outfit had crossed the Rapido River in Italy, to supply a diversionary action to assist the landings at Anzio.

His capture in Korea occurred Dec. 1, 1950. That was during the big retreat, and his division was holding the main artery to allow other divisions to get south.

* * *

As Capt. Wise celebrates Christmas with his family, his thoughts go back to a fellow in his outfit, who was also captured but chose not to return.

"He was a boy 17 years old, very immature and unhappy," the officer recalled. "He had no family except a sister. I'm sure that if he returned to this country, he would spend many years in a mental institution.

"I can't understand those guys who stayed. They're a valuable propaganda tool for the Reds now. But they must know that as soon as they are no longer of use to the Reds, they'll be eliminated."

Stone Sets Early Pace in County Prep Scoring

By JACK SAYLOR

A trio of prep cagers averaging over 20 points a game have taken the early lead in the race for individual scoring honors in Oakland County.

Heading the pack at the holiday break in the schedule is Arlan Stone, Rochester's veteran 6-5 center. Stone has plunked in 109 points in leading Gene Konley's Falcons to five straight wins.

STONE

Stone's average per game is 21.8 points. Close behind are a pair of shorter, but equally sharp-shooting cagers who have played a big role in the early-season success of their teams.

Mike DeKane of Troy and Don Williams of Walled Lake, each six-foot, trail Stone by slim margins. DeKane has 83 points for four games (20.8) and Williams has 103 in five for 20.6.

DeKane has paced Troy to three wins in four starts, while the Williams-led Walled Lake quint has won four out of five.

Following the leaders are Clawson's Jim Davis (17.0), Don Dorough of Birmingham (16.7) and Milford's Jim Davidson (15.8). Rounding out the top 10 are Tom Turner of Ferndale, Johnny Wassel of Keego Harbor, Jim Simer of Madison and Pat Killeen of Clarenceville.

* * *

Among others showing a tendency to score in double figures are Bob Stallsmith of Milford, Bob Van Wagoner of Lake Orion, Dick Radatz of Berkley, John James of Pontiac, Doug Edwards and Tom McCormick of Southfield, Earl Garner of Holly, Lloyd Law and John Craig of Keego and Bob Jacober of Waterford.

Most teams are taking things easy this week, but will be called back for practice next week. Regular schedules resume Jan. 5 and 8.

Half of 2-Team Places Go to Sunday's Playoff Foes

NEW YORK (AP)—The Cleveland Browns and Detroit Lions, rivals in Sunday's nationally televised National Football League championship playoff, dominate The Associated Press All-Pro team announced today.

The Browns, Eastern Conference champions with an 11-1 record placed six players on the two-platoon All-Pro. The defending champion Lions, with a 10-2 record in the Western Conference, gained five spots on the mythical squad.

Browns chosen for the offensive eleven by 48 member paper sportswriters and AP staffers who covered games in the 11 pro football cities were quarterback Otto Graham, center Frank Gatski and Lou (the Toe) Groza. The Lions also had three of their stars selected for the attacking team — halfback Doak Walker and guards Lou Creekmur and Dick Stanfel.

San Francisco 49ers placed two backs — Fullback Joe Perry and Halfback Hugh McElhenny — on the offensive team.

Remaining attacking posts went to end Pete Pihos of the Philadelphia Eagles, end Elroy (Crazy Legs) Hirsch of the Los Angeles Rams and tackle George Connor of the Chicago Bears.

Connor, a 1946 All-America tackle at Notre Dame, was the only player selected from the two-team city of Chicago.

Defensive unit includes three Browns — guard Bill Willis, end Len Ford and halfback Tommy Thompson — and two Lions — guard Les Bingaman and safety Jack Christiansen.

Other defensive include: tackles Arnie Weinmeister of the New York Giants and Leo Nomellini of the 49ers; end Andy Robustelli and linebacker Don Paul of the Rams; linebacker Charley (Chuck) Bednarik of the Philadelphia Eagles and halfback Tom Keane of the Baltimore Colts.

Twelve of the 22 players are repeaters from the 1952 squad. They are Connor, Pihos, Creekmur, Gatski, Groza, Nomellini, McElhanny, Ford Weinmeister, Willis, Bednarik and Christiansen. Pihos made the 1952 team as a defensive end, while last year Nomellilin was chosen an offensive tackle and Creekmur an offensive guard.

Weinmeister, a 235-pound 6-4 tackle who plans to retire following the Jan. 17 All-Star Pro Bowl Game in Los Angeles, made the All-Pro team for the 5th straight year. He first made the team in 1949 as a 60-minute player with the New York Yankees in the defunct All-America Conference.

Graham, who missed by one vote of being named unanimously for the field general spot, also was named for the 5th time.

Graham first made the team in 1947 and repeated the next two years when the AP team included NFL and AAC players. He lost the post in 1950 to Johnny Lujack, got it back in 1951, but last year lost out to Bobby Layne of the Lions.

Connor and Bednarik have been selected All-Pro four straight seasons. Bednarik was an All-America center at Pennsylvania.

Six of the players on the 1953 team have been named All-Pros three times. They are Pihos, Creekmur, Walker, Ford, Willis and Nomellini.

Newcomers are Stanfel, Perry, Robustelli, Paul, Thompson and Keane.

Green Bay Packers, Pittsburgh Steelers and Chicago Cardinals failed to gain places on the squad. However, each team showed some strength in the poll.

Here are the teams:

Celtics, Hawks Play Saturday's TV Pro Feature

Boston in Second-Place Struggle; Milwaukee 5 Adds Height

Boston Celtics will continue their dogfight for 2nd place in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association in Saturday's televised pro basketball game.

With Bob Cousy back in shape after an early-season injury, the Celts are battling the Syracuse Nationals for the runnertup spot behind the New York Knickerbockers. Boston plays Saturday at Milwaukee with TV time, 3 p.m. on channel four.

Boston will bank on its scoring aces, Cousy, Easy Ed Macauley and Bill Sharman.

Milwaukee is in the cellar in the western division, which is paced by defending Association champion Minneapolis Lakers. However, Hawks have been constantly trading in an effort to find a winning combination.

Latest swap brought Milwaukee huge Charlie Share from Ft. Wayne for Max Zaslofsky, whom the Hawks had recently received from Baltimore.

Share gives the Hawks added tallest players in NBA, has been used sparingly by the Zollners during his three seasons in the league. He was an All-America selection at Bowling Green University.

Share gives the Hawks added front-line height with George Ratkovicz (6-7), and Lew Hitch (6-8), who was obtained from the Lakers. Milwaukee's foremost back-court men are a pair of 6-1 former Big 10 stars, Don Sunderlage of Illinois and Bill Tosheff of Indiana.

"It's nice but you wouldn't catch me doing it—it leaves you marked for life!"

Observers Take Another Look at Mountaineers

Once Scoffed At, West Virginians Seem Tough Foe for Tech

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Bruising West Virginia power and deceptive Georgia Tech speed could make the Sugar Bowl football game the most unusual in its 20-year history.

* * *

West Virginia is billed as one of the biggest teams to receive a Sugar Bowl invitation and football experts term its split T ground attack as crushing as those of prewar single wing powerhouses.

Georgia Tech, which operates from a standard T formation, accents mental and physical speed in an offense that makes use of quick-opening line plays and wide end runs.

* * *

Tech is a two-touchdown favorite for the Jan. 1 game, but those who once scoffed at West Virginia as Sugar Bowl material are taking a second look.

Opposition to West Virginia centered around its weak schedule, which they used included only four big-time foes. One was North Carolina State, which had a weak team, and a second was South Carolina, which handed West Virginia its only loss by a 20-14 margin.

* * *

But West Virginia beat Pittsburgh and Penn State in the other two games, and Pitt tied Oklahoma and lost a close game to Notre Dame.

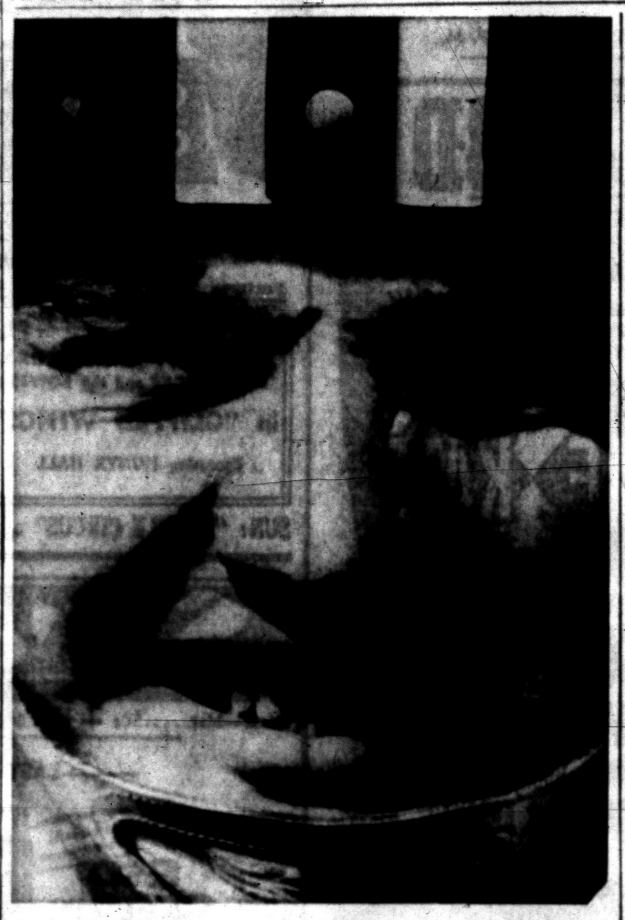

The football game will cimax a week of Sugar Bowl sports activity.

* * *

A three-day tennis tournament will begin Sunday, with veteran Gardnar Mulloy defending his title Idaho State and Louisiana State will fight for the boxing title Monday night. Tuesday and Wednesday Holy Cross, LSU, DePaul and Fordham will take part in the basketball tournament. An invitational track meet will be held next Thursday.

* * *

A yacht regatta is scheduled to complete Sugar Bowl activities on Jan. 2-3.

GMC Defeats Lumbermen for First Victory

Quayle, Devine Spark Coach to a 57-36 Win in City 'A' Action

General Motors won its 1st City Basketball League Class A victory Wednesday night, dumping Poole Lumber, 57-36. It was the Lumbermen's 3rd loss in as many starts.

Don Quayle and Bob Devine sparked the GMC victory with 17 and 16 points, respectively. Coachers held a 32-18 halftime lead.

Pontiac Merchants evened their record at 1-1 by turning back Oliver Buick, 51-43, in Class B. Bob Swindell led the winners with 14 points, but Oliver's Jim Arnold copped game honors with 15.

Phalanx knocked the Panthers out of a tie for 1st place in Class D, 47-33. Bob Brennan scored 19 points for Phalanx, while Jack Johnson had 17 for the Panthers. Police Department retained its share of the lead with Phalanx by drubbing Hi-Y, 45-26, as Ted Wharry collected 20 points. Final "D" game of the night saw Mansfield Gamble hit 17 points to pace Elks 723 to a 41-38 win over Hi-Knights.

Wednesday's games concluded pre-holiday play for all City League teams.

Gedman in Key Role

DETROIT UP)—Gene Gedman, the power runner from Indiana, played a key role in Detroit's drive to a 2nd straight Western Division title in the National Football League.

And George Wilson, assistant Detroit coach, thinks the stout rookie might be the deciding factor Sunday when the Lions battle the Cleveland Browns for league honors.

"I'd say our current team is at least 20 per cent better than our team that won the championship last year," Wilson offered. "Gedman is the big reason why we're better."

Lions hadn't planned on the services of Gedman this season, although he was one of their top draft choices.

Rumor had it that the Hoosier fullback was heading for the Canadian league. His arrival at Detroit's pre-season training camp was a pleasant surprise.

"We figured Gedman would solve our fullback probem," Wilson said. "He did, too. But not in the way we expected."

Gedman is operating at right halfback, enabling Bob Hoernschemeyer to move from that position to the fullback spot.

"Gedman seems to run better from the halfback position," Wilson explained. "And Hoernschemeyer has been doing well at fullback."

Switch was made at mid-season and the record speaks for itself. Lions won their last six starts to finish a game ahead of the San Francisco 49ers in the Western Division race.

Gedman averaged better than three yards a try in 83 carries during the 12-game campaign.

Lions defeated the Browns, 17-7, last season for their first NFL championship in 17 years. But, despite Wilson's contention that the current Detroit team is 20 per cent better than the 1952 squad, the Lions will take the field as a 1-touchdown underdog.

"If the oddsmakers think Cleveland is a touchdown better than we are, the Browns must have improved vastly since last season," Wilson reasoned. "We'll find out Sunday."

Gophers Snap Scoring Mark

Keep Unbeaten Record Intact Against 'Toppers With 91-73 Win

CHICAGO (AP)—Undefeated Minnesota rolled up its 6th straight basketball victory last night with a school scoring record of 91-73 over Marquette.

Point total topped the Gophers' high of 90 against Michigan last season.

Chuck Mencel and Buzz Bennett led Minnesota's well-blended attack at Minneapolis with 18 points each while Dick Garmaker and Virg Miller each contributed 15. Bill Simonovich, 6-11, 275 pound sophomore center, added six important points while the Gophers were drawing away in the 3rd quarter.

Bradley upset Notre Dame at Peoria, Ill. (74-72), and led most of the way. It was Notre Dame's second loss in six starts.

Braves well-rounded attack was led by Bob Carney with 18 points, John Kent with 17 and Ed King with 15.

Big Ten and major midwestern teams are idle until Saturday. Northwestern then entertains Yale and Ohio State is host to powerful Oregon State, only team to beat Indiana.

Rangers' Hopes Look Brighter

New Yorkers Take 2-1 Victory Over Detroit, Eye 4th Place

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York Rangers' chances of overtaking the 4th place Boston Bruins in the National Hockey League looked brighter today.

Rangers whipped the Detroit Red Wings for the 1st time this year 2-1 last night to move within five points of the idle Bostonians, closest they've been to the Bruins since Nov. 4.

Left winger Nick Mickoski was the big star for New York, caging the puck at 18:20 of the 3rd period as the pace-setting Red Wings suffered their 1st loss in six NHL games.

"I found the puck on my stick, feinted (Terry) Sawchuck to the left and aimed for the right corner," Mickoski said afterwards. "I figured it would beat him."

Winning tally came after a scramble in front of the Detroit nets. The disc bounded off two Red Wing defensemen before Mickiski grabbed it 20 feet out.

New York took a 1-0 lead in the 1st period on Dean Prentice's 1st goal of the campaign but Glen Skov knotted the count for Detroit early in the 2nd.

The game was a tame affair compared to the Rangers' setto with Montreal last Sunday when New York's Ron Murphy suffered a broken jaw after being felled by Boom Boom's Geoffrion stick. Only eight penalties were handed out.

Thomas, Lattner, Filipski, Worden in East Backfield

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Eastern coaches tentatively picked a fast, powerful first team for the Jan. 2 Shrine East-West charity football game.

However, head coach Ray Eliot of Illinois emphasized that the 11 were picked as a unit "to start working from" and that all 24 of his talented players will be used.

Backfield was composed of quarterback Dick Thomas of Northwestern, halfbacks Johnny Lattner of Notre Dame and Gene Filipski of Villanova and fullback Neil Worden of Notre Dame. The coaches ran Tom Hague, Ohio State, and Henry Lemire, Holy Cross, at ends; George Jacoby, Ohio State, and Art Hunter Notre Dame, at tackles; Bob Lenzini, Illinois, and Mike Takacs, Ohio State, at guards, and Jerry Hilgenberg, Iowa, at center.

Coaches also tried Peter Stark of Syracuse and John Gramling of South Carolina at quarterback, and John Ryan of Illinois at end with good results.

At Stanford, 10 miles north of the East's Santa Clara camp, the West coaches indicated they'll stress passing.

Much of yesterday's workout was an aerial drill, with quarterbacks Cotton Davidson of Baylor and Bob Garrett of Stanford throwing to five topnotch ends — Gary Knafelc, Colorado; Carlton Massey, Texas; Tom Nickoloff, Southern California; Morris Kay, Kansas, and Sam Morley, Stanford.

Morely, the nation's No. 3 pass catcher, was plagued for the second day by a stiff knee joint, which forced him to quit early. It will be checked today by doctors.

NCAA Game-of-the-Week Small College Lifesaver

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — The NCAA nationally televised football game-of-the-week was described today by the College of the Pacific as a lifesaver for small colleges.

College of the Pacific, a West Coast independent, said the plan "has been effective in minimizing the detrimental effects of live TV games on home attendance."

James J. Corbett, former athletic publicity director at Louisiana State university and now a member of the NCAA television committee, said in an interview here yesterday that a cross country survey shows colleges "in complete agreement on continuing the present football game of the week."

"The NCAA program in its present form may not be perfect," Corbett said. "However, we feel the TV committee is trying to work out a solution which will be beneficial to all colleges in the country."

College of The Pacific viewpoint was expressed by its athletic director, Jerald Kirsten.

Kirsten said the plan also "has made available excellent entertainment to football fans in every section of the country."

Blue-Gray Tilt Slated Saturday

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—With Christmas moving ever closer, rival coaches were busy today wrapping up surprise packages for Saturday's 15th annual Blue-Gray football classic.

Penn State's Rip Engle, head coach of the Yankees, and the Rebels' chief strategy maker, Clyde Lee of Houston, were primarily concerned with team spirit.

"It's awfully hard to get a bunch of fellows who don't know each other and haven't played together to coordinate their efforts in a week's time," coach Lee observed.

But he said the Southern players have been "talking it up" in practice like they mean to win again this year. South has won the past four years without too much trouble.

Karras Quits Game

Johnny Karras, Illinois varsity football ace, and recently signed with the Chicago pro Cards, is giving up the game because of an ankle ailment.

Trimble Gets 3-Year Pact

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Jim Trimble, who only three years ago was a comparatively unknown football coach and athletic director at a midwestern university, today held a three year contract as head coach of the Philadelphia Eagles.

The 35-year-old Trimble, youngest head coach in the National Football League, is believed to have signed a contract calling for about $18,000 a year.

14,000 Fans Begin Migration to West Coast

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan State college will send the largest representation in Big Ten history to the Rose Bowl—about 14,000 fans.

Saturday is "migration day" for 3,000 students and an estimated 9,500 alumni.

"Spartan Special," a student train, will leave Lansing Saturday morning at 9 a.m., stop at Chicago and will be broken there into two trains, the "white" train and the "green" train. Both arrive in Los Angeles Dec. 28 about noon. More than 1,000 students will be on the trains.

About 250 old grads are going on their own special train.

At least four flights of airliners will take other excursion groups and the remainder will travel individually by plane, auto and train.

Lion Defense Tops

The 1952 Detroit Lions were the best defensive club in professional football circles, yielding only an average of 95.4 total yards per game.

Dodgers Find Milwaukee Nice

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers took more money out of Milwaukee last summer than any other visiting team, but the St. Louis Cardinals were a better gate attraction.

Confusing? Sure, but the payoff is there any way you add it—and it'll be better next year.

National League champions' dapper traveling secretary, Lee Scott, lugged off $74,378 in his satchel for 10 playing dates with the Milwaukee Braves in county stadium. Visiting teams get 22½ cents on each paid admission and the Dodgers drew 330,570 fans.

So where does that leave the Cardinals? Right at the top. They played before 268,886 fans, but only made eight stadium appearances, averaging 33,611 to Brooklyn's 33,057. In other words, the Cardinals pouched $1,246.50 more than the Dodgers each time the teams showed in Milwaukee.

Texas League Heads Tender Resignations

DALLAS (AP)—President J. Alvin Gardner and secretary Milton Price of the Texas League have resigned but they may not make it stick. Already a movement is under way to prevail on the two veteran baseball executives to at least serve out their terms.

Gardner yesterday said he and Price were resigning because of the press of private business and that their successors would be named at the winter meeting of the league in Dallas Jan. 9. They each have two years to go on their contracts.

Immediately Stanley McIlvaine, general manager of the San Antonio club, said he was going to petition Gardner and Price to reconsider and to serve out their terms.

Joe Levandoski, defenseman for the Providence Reds in the American Hockey League, played the outfield for Ottawa in the Border League last summer.

Teams New to Bowl Competition, Texas Tech, West Virginia Should Show Well in 'Gator, Sugar Games

By GRANTLAND RICE

NEW YORK—There are two new members to the bowl party next week that are well worth looking at. There are West Virginia in the Sugar Bowl and Texas Tech in the 'Gator Bowl.

Each dropped just one game through the past season and both faced many teams of merit. West Virginia met Pittsburgh, Penn State, South Carolina, North Carolina State and others, losing only to South Carolina.

* * *

Texas Tech faced Texas A. and M., College of the Pacific, Mississippi State and Houston, all strong teams. The Red Raiders from Texas, coached by De Witt Weaver, an old Tennessee star, have a fast, baffling attack and a stout defense.

* * *

Years ago, West Virginia was a powerhouse. Then the Mountaineers took life a trifle easier and went backwards. Two years ago, under the coaching of Art Lewis, West Virginia started back and last season moved up with the bowl division.

West Virginia has something to beat in Bobby Dodds' Yellow Jackets from Georgia Tech. But both are experienced squads. West Virginia also has to carry the burden that was handed Eastern teams last winter when Syracuse, on a bad off-day, was wrecked by Alabama.

Southern Bowls became leery of the East but West Virginia's fine record and the recognized strength guarantees the Sugar Bowl a good showing.

* * *

Texas Tech is meeting a stout opponent in Auburn, where another grid revival has taken place. Auburn, a power in the old days, came back with a bound. Auburn is about on a par with Georgia Tech and Alabama.

* * *

Only games it lost from a hard schedule were the one to Georgia Tech and a close one to Alabama. Auburn last fall was a good match for any team in the country.

* * *

But the arrival of the Texans from Lubbock will bring new blood for the bowls, which is always useful. Texas never enters any competition in halfway style. Texas Tech is coming with a big delegations who are dead sure the Raiders can flatten Auburn. With all the bowl scrambling this fall, the 'Gator delegation was lucky to get a game of this stature.

Smart Move by Alston

Dodgers' Signing of Lyons as Coach Is 'Down Payment' on Championship

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—The first official move made by Walter Alston indicates that the new manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers is every bit as smart as they said he was when they brought him out of the minor leagues to tackle one of the trickiest jobs in the business.

* * *

Alston, looking around at the unbroken ranks of ex-infielders who comprised the Dodgers coaching staff, asked his boss to go out and find him the best pitching coach they could lay hands on, and hang the expense. They found Ted Lyons unemployed momentarily, and by signing the former White Sox great they might well have made a down payment on that world championship they have their little hearts set on.

* * *

If the Brooklyn team of the past few seasons has had one noteworthy weakness, it lay in the absence of an expert handler of pitchers among Charlie Dressen's staff of assistants. Dressen, himself, was a former infielder, and so were Billy Herman, Cookie Lavagetto and Jake Pitler. In their prime the quartet might have made a pretty fair inner defense, but not one of them ever threw a curve intentionally.

One of the little differences of opinion between Dressen and his employers which might have contributed to his departure was said to have been Chuck's insistence upon being his own pitching coach. The Dodger officials, among others, did not consider Dressen especially gifted in handling his throwers, the young ones in particular.

New Year's Day Bowl Games $3 Million Project

NEW YORK (AP)—Television and radio sponsors are becoming "sports Santa Clauses" for a lot of athletes at colleges and conferences represented in next Jan. 1st's football bowl games.

* * *

The spectators at the annual New Year's Day gridiron spectacles will pay nearly two million dollars to watch the games, but the TV and radio rights will bring in almost one million more, an Associated Press survey disclosed today.

That's a pretty nice collection of pies for the football teams to slice up among themselves. Most of them have to count their conference brothers in, too, however, so the athletic funds at many colleges will be swelled by the TV-radio take along with the gate receipts.

* * *

Biggest bonanza of all is the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif., matching UCLA of the Pacific Coast Conference against the Big 10's Michigan State.

The TV-radio money there even tops the gate receipts, since the sponsors get an advantage over the other bowl games by coming on the air after the other major games are over.

The combined TV-radio take for the West Coast classic is $610,000, well ahead of the gate of $340,000. After game expenses, stadium rental, taxes and other expenses are taken out, each conference figures to get about $350,000.

* * *

The Sugar and Cotton Bowls also are reported to have TV-radio contracts in six figures to go with ticket sales in the $300,000-$400,000 range. But the Orange Bowl—probably the day's best attraction from the spectator's point of view since it matches Maryland, the No. 1 team, against Oklahoma, No. 4—has a TV-radio contract calling for only $70,000.

* * *

The teams will go home with something besides the train fare, however, for they've added 3,000 seats to the bowl this year, making the capacity close to 70,000. That should push the gate receipts to around $386,000, and each team gets $120,000, which they'll split with other conference members.

* * *

Rice, No. 6, and Alabama, No. 13, will take home slightly more than $150,000 from the Cotton Bowl, at Dallas, which will take in a gate of $300,000 plus $120,000 from TV-radio and the program and concession money combined.

Officials of the New Orleans Sugar Bowl, who have Georgia Tech, No. 8, vs. West Virginia, No. 10, declined to release figures on the financial aspects of the game, as is their custom. But sources in New Orleans put the Sugar Bowl gate at $365,000 last year, and it was reliably reported h[illegible] that the TV-radio would bring in another $100,000.

Southern Stars Set Pace for College Cagers

LSU's Bobby Pettit Is Leading Scorer With a 36.8 Average

NEW YORK (AP)—Basketball's big scorers are bigger than ever this season, with three major-college players, Bob Pettit of Louisiana State, Frank Selvy of Furman and Virginia's Buzz Wilkinson, averaging more than 30 points a game.

* * *

Pettit, who started out with a 60-point game, is the leader with a 36.8 per game average, statistics released by the NCAA Service Bureau showed today.

* * *

Selvy, the leading scorer among major-college players last season, has scored at a 33.5 per game rate while Wilkinson hit 32.8 in games through Saturday.

In all, there are 47 players with an average of better than 20 points a game compared with 26 at this time a year ago.

* * *

California's Bob Mathany, who ranked fifth last year in free throw percentage, is tops in that department with 38 out of 42 this season for 90.5 per cent. Ed Cristal of Washington (Mo.) is second with an even 90 per cent, on 27 out of 30.

* * *

Harvey Williams of Michigan holds the field goal percentage lead with 64.3 per cent and Art Quimby of Connecticut is the high man in rebounds with 25.2 a game.

LANSING (AP)— Conservation department today reminded ice fisherman that shanties placed on the ice must bear the owner's name and address in letters at least two inches high.

Long Yankee Streak

The Yankees went from Aug. 3, 1931 to Aug. 2, 1933 without being shutout in a regular season game. The streak covered 308 games, believed to be a majors record.

For their first 57 home games in 1953, the Milwaukee Braves averaged 28,147 patrons at the turnstiles.

Michigan Deer Still Long Way From Winter Yards

LANSING (AP) — Michigan deer are still a long way from their winter quarters, conservation department field observers reported today.

When snows get deep, deer "yard up" generally in low, swampy areas.

But even in the Upper Peninsula, where snow ranged from a foot to a trace, the deer were scattered over their normal range for the most part. Only in the heaviest snow areas were they reported drifting toward the yard areas.

No movement toward yards at all was observed in the Lower Peninsula.

Bevo, Rio Score Major Win Over Wake Forest

By RIP WATSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Clarence (Bevo) Francis, the high-scoring phenom whose amazing point totals were wiped from the record books last spring, had the last laugh on his critics today.

* * *

The big boy from little Rio Grande (Ohio) College averaged 50.1 points per game last year, but the Coaches' Assn. voted to throw the records out because of the poor quality of the opposition. "He couldn't score like that against a good team," his critics scoffed. "Rio Grande will never beat anybody that amounts to anything."

* * *

Bevo kept pumping the points in as Rio Grande made an Eastern swing this year, but he and his mates hadn't scored a major victory until big Bevo took matters into his own hands last night and fired the winning basket in the final seconds for a 67-65 victory over Wake Forest. Grabbing the ball at the foul circle, Bevo cut loose with his specialty, a whirling jump shot, and Rio Grande had a victory over the conquerors of mighty North Carolina State and the national AAU champion Peoria Caterpillars.

Bevo mad 32 points in all, outscoring the talented Dickie Hemric of Wake Forest, who got 24 in a losing cause. Little Wayne Wiseman shared the starring role with Francis, twice stealing the ball for baskets in the final 29 seconds.

* * *

North Carolina State, No. 9 in the Associated Press poll, came from behind to whip the Peoria AAU team 63-60, making it two defeats in two nights for the Caterpillars against college opposition.

Bradley surprised Notre Dame by getting out in front and staying there almost all the way for a 74-72 victory despite a desperate Irish rally.

Two Experts Differ on Game Outcome

NEW YORK (UP) — Earle (Greasy) Neale and Jack Lavelle, two gentlemen who have seen plenty of football, don't agree on which team will win Sunday's game between the Lions and Browns at Detroit for the National League championship.

Neale, former Philadelphia Eagles and college coach, believes the Lions will retain the title they won last December by defeating the Browns, 17-7.

Lavelle, college and pro scout who has made a habit of spying on the Browns for the last four years, picks Cleveland.

Bullough Battered Doors

Slonac Given Special Credit Among Spartans Who Helped Fight Hotel Fire

By ROBERT E. VOGES

PASADENA, Cal. (UP) — Dr. James Feurig gives special credit to fullback Evan Slonac for the part he played when Michigan State football players pitched in to help fight the fire at the hotel Huntington Sunday.

Slonac was lead man on the hose as the Spartans moved in on the blaze.

"The smoke was so thick that the rest of the boys had to drop back to clear their lungs and get a fresh breath of air, but Slonac stayed in there all the time," the team physician said.

"Slonac's built so close to the ground the smoke didn't bother him as much," explained his buddy, Bill Quinlan, the six foot two inch end.

Hank Bullough, the tough 202-pound tackle, used his blocking experience when he found several doors locked in the fire area. Bullough was among the players who were checking to see that all the residents of the floor were safely out of their rooms.

If a door was locked and no-one answered his knocks, Bullough just threw a block at the door and sprung the lock.

Captain Don Dohoney was taking a nap in his room just before dinner at the time of the fire. Equipment manager Erwin Kapp was checking to see all the boys were out.

"Get out of here,' Kapp ordered him. "The hotel's on fire."

Dohoney just grunted and rolled over. "No jokes," he said, "I'll be down to dinner all right."

"The hotel's really on fire," Kap screamed.

So Dohoney, finally realizing it was no practical joke, charged out of the room as if he was going downfield after a punt.

John "Big Thunder" Lewis, the big end, nearly went under during his first dip in the hotel swimming pool. Lewis was doubled up by a cramp and was in trouble although he was only in about five feet of water.

Jimmy Ellis and Billy Wells, assisted by several others, pulled him to safety.

Tommy Yewcic was talking about the lack of wind in the Pasadena area.

"Back home," he said, "on a real good kick I could get one off about 65 yards. Out here I find I'm geting 70 yards or more on the good ones.

"No wind at all to bother you. I feel as though I could kick them out of the stadium. I figure that's why most of the punting records are held by those west coast fellows."

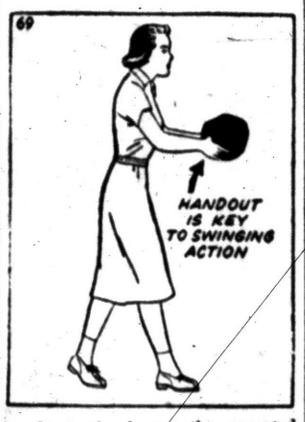

Bowling Clinic

By BILLY SIXTY

CASE—Develop a Hand-out.

Women Must Have Swing—Watch any group of women stars, like Marion Ladewig, Doris Knechtges and Sylvia Wene, and you'll see them all do the identical thing: They get the ball away from the body as they go into stride. Some do it more than others, but they all do it, as the sketch shows.

Call it a push-away, or call it a hand-out, the larger the arc and the smoother, easier the swing. Remember the action begins by holding the ball in the palm of the left hand, always.

Push the ball away with the first step. Be relaxed so that the weight of the ball, dropping into its backswing, will take the shoulders downward into a natural crouch. And continue right on to the foul line.

Your stride increases momentum with the swing, and you finish with a slide. Smooth form is produced only with a hand-out. Practice it. It may not come easy, but stick with it.

Munn Shuffles Starting Eleven; Foe Scrimmages

Morrall, Duckett, Ross and Robinson Move Into 1st-String Berths

By ROBERT E. VOGES

PASADENA, Calif. (UP) — Both Michigan State and UCLA pulled a couple of pre-Christmas surprises in their preparations for a Rose Bowl football showdown New Year's Day.

UCLA coach Red Sanders scrimmaged his team, although he has said he wouldn't scrimmage again before the game.

MSC coach Biggie Munn switched practice fields and reshuffled his No. 1 team, making four changes in his 1st eleven.

Sanders said the 20-minute scrimmage yesterday wasn't premeditated.

"The boys asked for it," he said. "We were working out there and a couple of them said 'Let's go at full speed.' So we cranked up and let go."

Scrimmage was a good one, Sanders said, and no injuries resulted. Sanders said that the fact that Michigan State has been scrimmaging throughout the week had nothing to do with his decision.

UCLA center Ira Pauly, sidelined for a while with a cold and fever, returned to practice and went through a light workout.

Munn changed his practice location yesterday from Brookside Park, adjacent to the Rose Bowl, to the East Los Angeles Junior College Stadium.

He explained he wanted to work out on a regular field with yard line markers and goal posts. Los Angeles field also has tighter secrecy safeguards.

Munn explained the four changes in the starting eleven this way:

"I just wanted to shake them up a little," he said. "I wanted to put the team on its toes. This is one way to do it."

He intimated the changes probably would not be permanent and that the shakeup was no indication he would reshuffle his starting eleven.

Robinson Brings Pact With Him to Yankees

NEW YORK (UP)—Eddie Robinson the new first baseman acquired by the New York Yankees from the Philadelphia A's, is one player who positively won't be a holdout next spring. Robinson is working on the second year of a holdover contract with the Philadelphia A's which was transferred to the Yankees in the deal.

Robinson visited Yankee headquarters recently, long enough to try on a uniform bearing Johnny Mize's old No. 36.

HEIGHTS ATTRACT HER—Patricia Clark, 22, Kalamazoo, one of few women mountain climbers in Michigan, defies the adage "Keep your feet on the ground." She prefers to plant her feet on peaks like that of Long's Mountain (arrow) which rises 14,255 feet into the clouds at Rocky Mountain National Park, Estes Park, Colo., which she scaled for the first time during her vacation last summer. "The 16-mile ascent and descent brought thrills which cannot be found in any other sport," she stated. Daughter of Thomas Clark, Michigan Bell Telephone Co. executive, she plans to climb the peak again next summer.

Mississippi Squad to Get Old-Fashioned Welcome

By EDDIE LEE

EL PASO, Tex. (UP)—In case the Mississippi Southerners get homesick in El Paso next week, Texas Western Miners hope to give them a good, old-fashioned Mississippi football welcome in the 19th annual Sun Bowl game Jan. 1.

Underdog miners, who won seven and lost two during the regular season, have an imported southern gentleman in the lineup and a coach who is no stranger to the state of Mississippi.

Halfback Bobby Lee Coleman, one of the bright spots in the Miner backfield, is spending the Christmas holidays at his home in Yazoo City, Miss., soaking up southern atmosphere and resting for the game.

Coach Mike Brumbelow, although a native Texan who started his coaching career at El Paso High School, served as a scout at the University of Mississippi—just 75 miles from the Hattiesburg home of Mississippi Southern—from 1946-48.

Southerners, defeated 26-7 by College of Pacific in their 1st Sun Bowl appearance last year, bring a 9-1 record to this year's game including triumphs over such powers as Alabama and Georgia.

They also are expected to bring a healthy respect for Brumbelow's coaching prowess. Noted in his Mississippi days as a defensive expert, Brumbelow built a defense at Western this year that was 7th most effective in the country.

Meeting Dates Switched

LANSING (UP)—Dates of the next conservation commission meeting have been changed to Jan. 14 and 15, commission secretary Cliff Ketcham announced today.

Meeting was originally slated for Jan. 7 and 8 but was moved to convenience chairman George Griffith of Grayling, conservation director G. E. Eddy and game chief Harry D. Ruhl who must be in Washington Jan. 7.

Preps in Benefit Game

FORDYCE, Ark. (UP)—The Fordyce High School football team literally played its pants off this season—but they've got some new ones now.

Former grid aces of Fordyce, taking note of the worn condition of the togs, made up a team of their own and played the 1953 squad in a benefit game. Proceeds went for the new uniforms.

Hits High Series

Frank Scott, a 74-year old bowling enthusiast of Corvallis, bowled a series of 190-191-192 this season to set a fast competition pace.

Alvin Dark has played five positions with the 1953 Giants.

Seixas' Play Still Ragged as Cup Test Approaches

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—Vic Seixas, who is regarded as the key to the hopes of the United States in regaining the Davis Cup from Australia in the challenge round, said today "I'm going to be all right."

Challenge round starts here Monday (Sunday night in the United States) and continues through Wednesday.

"Don't believe all that stuff you read in the papers and don't go by what you see in practice," said the 32-year-old Wimbledon champion whose seemingly unshakeable slump has made the Aussies favorites to retain the cup.

There are just three days of practice left and Seixas continues to look out of touch and without confidence. Some Australian observers figure he may be playing possum, but Vic scoffs at this.

In practice yesterday Seixas dropped two sets to Bob Perry of Los Angeles, youngest member of the U. S. squad, 6-4, 6-3.

Australian newspapers have called attention to what they term Seixas' "tired, drawn look" and have hinted he might be ill.

Orioles Find No Takers on Paige Waiver

American League Clubs Not Interested in Ol' Satch

BALTIMORE (AP)—Bill Veeck put ol' Satch Paige up on waivers, Art Ehlers disclosed yesterday but no American League team claimed the colorful pitcher for the standard $10,000 price.

Ehlers, general manager of the Baltimore Orioles, said Veeck put the venerable Negro right-hander up earlier this year, before the St. Louis Browns franchise was shifted here.

Official disinterest of the American League clubs cleared the way for a possible deal for Paige with National League teams, but Ehlers said this isn't planned because the fading hurler no longer is considered prime trade bait.

* * *

Paige, who won 3 and lost 9 games last season, just laughs when asked his age. Under the "age" column on the Oriole roster he is listed as "aged."

Writers Dislike Injury-Feigning

But Few Want Major Changes in Grid Rules, Poll Indicates

DES MOINES, Ia. (UP) — Less than a quarter of the nation's football writers are interested in rule changes but of those nearly all want clock-stopping in the final minutes of a game outlawed, a poll of the Football Writers Association revealed today.

Most of the 400 writers participating in the poll who recommended changes wanted an end to stopping the clock in the last minutes because of injuries, feigned or not.

"Suggest giving football back to the athletes and keep actors on stage — Notre Dame vs Iowa," one writer urged.

* * *

But only 24.5 per cent of the nation's writers favored any change in the rules, Bert McGrane, secretary, said.

Other changes suggested were return of goal posts to the goal line and permission of the defense to run with a recovered fumble.

In the hope of reducing future hunting accidents, fish and game officials of St. John, New Brunswick, sponsor courses for boys, 12-17, on the proper handling and care of firearms.

Red Schoendienst and Mickey Mantle are generally considered the best switch hitters in the major leagues.

Chico, Lollar, Mele Are Among Top Individuals

Glynn, Kell, Woodling, Avila, Porterfield Also Star Afield

NEW YORK (AP)—If you're to judge by averages alone, Chico Carrasquel of the Chicago White Sox is a better fielder than the Yankees' Phil Rizzuto, Cleveland's George Strickland and the other American League shortstops.

* * *

Official averages released yesterday by the league's service bureau, showed that Carrasquel was tops at his position with a .976 mark. Strickland was second at .974, followed by Harvey Kuenn of Detroit with .973. Ruzzuto fielded .96

* * *

The 25-year-old Venezuelan commited 18 errors in 758 chances as the Chisox captured a major portion of the club and individual honors.

* * *

Other fielding leaders were: first base—Bill Glynn, Cleveland, .993; second base—Boby Avila, Cleveland, .986; third base — George Kell, Boston, .972 and pitcher—Bob Porterfield, Washington, 1.000 (66 chances).

* * *

Chicago was the club leader, fielding .980 collectively to .979 apiece for New York, Cleveland and Washington.

Hunters Find Rabbit Is No Dumb Bunny

BRIGHTON (AP) — The case of a rabbit who swam to safety in a no hunting area was reported today by Ward Blair, a conservation department employe.

Working in a group camp area of the Island Lake Recreation area near Pontiac that is closed to hunting, Blair said he heard a shot and the baying of a hound across the Huron river.

Shortly afterwards, the rabbit appeared on the river bank, paused to size up the situation, and plunged into the water.

* * *

The dripping bunny emerged on Ward's side and scampered into the safety of the closed area, he said.

In five years as Yankee manager, Casey Stengel has never fined a player.

Duke Snider of the Dodgers had the most total bases in the major leagues in 1953 with a total of 370.

Ted Williams hit 13 home runs in 93 trips to the plate while playing for the Red Sox in the 1953 season.

BIRD CENSUS AREA—Above circle rings the Pontiac area in which the annual Audubon Society will make its annual bird census. The area is within the 15-mile circle. Census is set for Sunday.

Audubon Society Arranges Annual Winter Bird Check

Members of the Detroit Audubon Society and friends will take part in the 54th annual Christmas bird census on Sunday Dec. 27, according to Dr. Daniel S. McGeen of Pontiac. Census takers will count all birds they can find within a 15 mile circle centered at Sylvan Lake. This yields a sample count of birds that would be typical for this part of Michigan Dr. McGeen said.

Last Christmas more than 5,800 Audubon enthusiasts throughout the United States and Canada censused 450 such plots and found 12,100,000 birds. The census is intended to show changes in population and winter range in various kinds of birds.

A year ago 41 species were identified by the Detroit group notable among these were Redpoll, Pine Siskin, Towkee, Robin, several species of hawks and owls and Lapland Longspur.

Starting at 8 a. m. from the Cranbrook Institute of Science at Bloomfield Hills, the groups will break up into 20 small parties and will spend the day covering the entire census area by car and on foot.

Anyone interested in attending should dress appropriately for winter hiking and take a lunch. Feeding station reports will also be welcomed providing they come within the census area, whose perimeter touches 12 Mile Road to the south, Maybee road to the north, Adams road on the East, and South Commerce road to the west. Those desiring to report the number and kinds of birds seen at their feeding stations during the day may call Midwest 4-4775 before 8 p. m. Sunday. They will be listed as cooperators and their names and reports will be used in the national publication to which the complete census is submitted.

Maxim Drills at Miami Resort

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Joey Maxim, former light heavyweight boxing champion, is in training for another title bout with Archie Moore — and you'd never guess where he's working out.

Maxim and his manager, Jack Kearns, set up camp yesterday at the Algiers — one of the newest and finest hotels in this resort city.

"This is the best setup we ever had," Kearns beamed. "It was something like this in Atlantic City one time (when he managed Jack Dempsey in the 1920s) but this is the swankiest training camp we ever had."

Ring was set up on a deck high above the big swimming pool where 500 tourists splashed in the water or lolled in the sun.

There, said Kearns, Maxim will go through daily workouts to get in shape of his 3rd meeting with Moore on Jan. 27. They have fought in St. Louis and Ogden, Utah.

N-S All-Star Squads Ready for Big Game

Gustafson Holds Drills for Rebels in Private; North Workouts Open

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Both North and South squads put in a lot of hard work in preparation for their 6th annual Shrine college All-Star football game tomorrow night, but the Yanks were a bit more informal.

South forces headed by coach Andy Gustafson of Miami, have thrown up a police guard to hurry would-be spectators on their way for the last three practice sessions. Purdue coach Stu Holcomb and his northern squad have left the gates wide open to all comers.

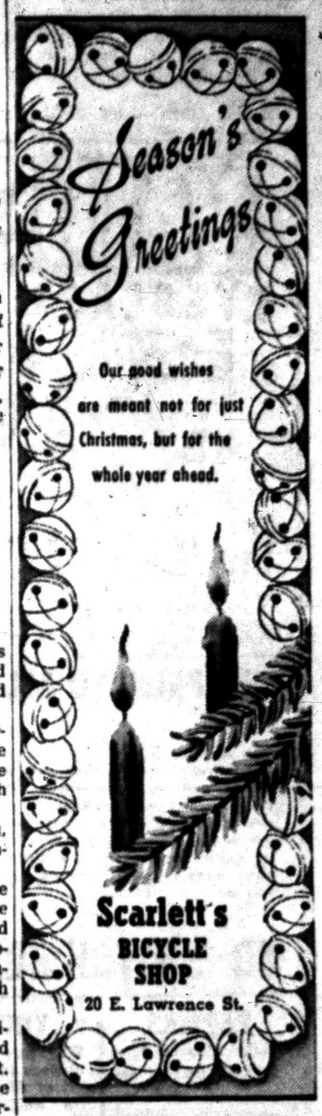

"In fact," said Holcomb, "if Gus wants to bring his south squad over to watch us, we'd be glad to have 'em."

And the North, anxious to narrow the 3-1-1 victory margin the south holds in the series, has come up with a ringing chant which goes like this:

"Rah, rah, reet! Rah, rah, reet! We want to eat some Southern fried meat."

Free substitution rules will be in effect for the game, first of the major post-season classics, and both coaches plan to use the two-platoon system as far as the limited squads will permit. The South has 25 players; the North, 26.

Gustafson added one of his Miami players to the South squad yesterday — halfback Art Knust. South coach said he would use Knust on defense, leaving quarterback Zeke Bratkowski of Georgia free to concentrate on his passing and punting.

Teen Driving Violations Blamed on Parents

CINCINNATI (AP)—Misguided parents are blamed by traffic Court Judge Frank M. Gusweiler for many traffic violations by teenagers.

"Rather than deny children's demands for the family car, these weak-kneed parents permit them to tear over our highways," he said. "The old fashioned father who told his children what they could do has always been succeeded by yes men bearing a distinct resemblance to a mouse."

Police Station Aids Man to Escape Taxi Fare

GOLDSBORO, N. C. (AP) — An irate cab driver and some red-faced policemen are looking for a nervy character who used the police station to beat a taxi fare.

Kenneth Wheeler told police he drove the man from Clinton to Goldsboro. When they arrived here, the passenger told Wheeler to pull up front of the station while he "borrowed some money from my uncle."

The man strolled casually into the station, ducked out the back door and disappeared.

Early roads were sometimes surfaced by being planked or corduroyed, that is, floored with sawed planks or crosslaid with poles.

Refugees Unite to Form Council

Iron Curtain Migrants in Australia Have Own Organization

SYDNEY, Australia (UP)—More than 200,000 refugees from Communism have formed an international organization in Australia to protect the rights of stateless migrants.

The people represented on the United Council of Migrants are stateless, and now have no national diplomatic or consular bodies to represent them.

Migrants from 10 Soviet controlled countries are represented on the council—Bulgarians, Byelo-Russians, Czechs, Estonians, Hungarians, Latvians, Lithuanians, Poles, Slovaks, and Ukrainians.

The Council is thought to be the only organization of its type in the world. Headed by G. N. de Barcza, former Hungarian ambassador to Great Britain, the council will form a link between the migrants and the Australian government, and will help smooth the passage of the migrants into the Australian community.

Australian minister for Immigration Harold Holt authorized formation of the organization.

Discussing the position of the 200,000 migrants in Australia who came from Communist-controlled countries, de Barcza said:

"Unlike migrants from other lands, these people are refugees. Many of them have lived like hunted animals. Most of them have had to leave their families behind them. They are in a troubled state of mind.

"Unfortunately many of them cannot speak English, and even those who can have difficulty in explaining their particular problems in a land which has had no experience of political persecution. In their difficulties they cannot turn to their embassies, or consulates for help and guidance, as they have none. One of the reasons for setting up the United Council of Migrants has been to supply that lack."

De Barcza said the council would help migrants whose families have been left behind in Iron Curatin countries to get their wives and children to Australia.

By acting as a link with the Australian government, social groups, other Australian representative bodies, and the migrants, the council hopes to eliminate misunderstandings and help these stateless migrants to achieve full Australian citizenship.

Vice-presidents of the council are Count A. Poninski, former Polish ambassador to China, and J. J. Kais, an Estonian lawyer.

Most of $26,000 Scattered Over Town Is Found

MAPLE PARK, Ill. (AP)—Search for the missing money from a shower of $26,000 in bills of $5, $10 and $20 denominations which fell like the blowing snow on this small town ended yesterday with most of the money recovered.

All but $890 of the $26,000 has been turned over to Mrs. Mary Cofey, Maple Park postmistress.

A mailsack containing the money for the town's bank was thrown off a westbound Northwestern Railway train on Tuesday. The sack's fastening strap came loose as the sack was drawn back under the train and the bills tumbled out onto the tracks. As the eastbound streamliner City of San Francisco appeared, it sped through the scattered bills, sending currency sailing into the air amid the blowing snowflakes.

Ike Forewarns France on EDC

Says U. S. to Re-assess Policy if Organization Isn't Set Up Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower gravely told France late yesterday the United States will reappraise its basic European policies unless the proposed European Defense Community providing for German rearmament is set up soon.

The President expressed this view in a statement as the third move in an extraordinary campaign directed by Secretary of State Dulles to carry the EDC issue directly to the French people and win their support of it.

Eisenhower acted little more than an hour after the French Parliament, on the 13th ballot, elected Sen. Rene Coty to be the new president of the French Republic.

Thus the first important foreign policy step of the American government following Coty's emergence as a figure on the world stage was a sharp reminder that the United States is counting on EDC to provide peace and security for Western Europe.

* * *

EDC is a proposed six-nation army, to include a united command and in one uniform troops from France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. Originally proposed by France, it has been stymied by inaction of the French Parliament. The reason usually cited is French fear of a rearmed Germany.

At the time of his election, Coty's position on EDC was not publicly known. The 71-year-old lawyer, an Independent Republican by party, has been interested primarily in constitutional matters. He is described as favoring a revision of the present constitution under which France has changed governments so often in recent years.

Delays Justice Until After Christmas

DENVER (AP)—Someone in this area will watch television over Christmas as a present from the business man who wants him arrested.

The business man appeared yesterday in the office of Elliott N. Shepherd, district attorney's complaint deputy, and swore out a warrant for a man he said bilked him of $467.52. He said the fellow gave him a bum check for two television sets.

Shepherd told the complainant the suspect undoubtedly would be arrested "within a few hours."

"You mean you will arrest him right now—before Christmas?"

Shepherd said "Yes, he will be sought and arrested as soon as you sign the criminal complaint."

The business man donned his hat and turned to go.

"I sure would hate to have him thrown in jail on Christmas," he said. "I'll be in next week to sign the complaint."

Say Nixon's Father Is Greatly Improved

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Frank A. Nixon, father of Vice President Richard M. Nixon, was reported "greatly improved" at St. Joseph's Hospital here today.

The vice president's father was taken off a plane here late Tuesday night in a critical condition. Doctors diagnosed his ailment as a gastric hemorrhage.

After several blood transfusions, the 75-year-old Nixon rallied.

The senior Nixon and his wife were making their first plane flight from Birmingham, Ala., to Los Angeles when Nixon was stricken as the plane neared Phoenix. It was not scheduled to stop here but made an emergency landing and Nixon was rushed to the hospital.

Grain Trading Is Quiet Today

CHICAGO (AP)—Grains today did just about what one would have expected them to do on the day before Christmas—they sold within a narrow price range in quiet dealings.

At the outset corn and oats tended lower, a carryover from the weakness displayed yesterday. Wheat and soybeans opened steady. As the listless trading proceeded corn and oats recovered to around the previous close.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was ⅜ to 1 cent higher. March $2.04⅞, corn ¼ to ½ higher, March $1.53⅞, oats ⅛ lower to ½ higher, March 76, soybeans ¼ to 1½ higher, January $3.03¾ and lard 7 to 25 cents a hundred pounds higher, January $17.25.

Prices Mixed on Wall Street

NEW YORK (AP)—Narrowly mixed prices persisted today in the Stock Market.

Changes either way seldom were more than a minor fraction, and many leaders held unchanged. There were slightly more gainers than losers in significant areas.

Steels as a group maintained a narrow margin of favorable prices. All other major groups were mixed.

Trading had a pre-holiday air on the eve of the Christmas holiday. Only a few blacks were on the tape.

In Memoriam 1

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR Daddy and husband, Ralph F. Ozbun, who was killed two years ago today, December 24, 1951.
Your life's such a beautiful memory
To grieve that it's gone, seems unfair—
Like begrudging you more time in Heaven.
When our only hope's meeting you there,
So sadly missed by your wife, Louise and children.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR little son and brother, Russell F. Ozbun, who was killed two years ago today, December 24, 1951.
He was a flower too sweet for earth,
Sent here but for a while;
God marked him when he gave him birth,
And took him with a smile.
Sadly missed by Mama, Brothers and Sisters.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR dear husband & father James E. Bader who passed away Dec. 25, 1950.
The dearest husband & daddy the world could hold
The cherriest smile & the heart of gold.
Those who knew him all will know
How much we lost 3 years ago.
Sadly missed by his wife & children.

In loving memory of Bobby Hampton
Who passed away December 24th, 1941
You're not forgotten Bobby dear,
Nor ever shall you be.
As long as life and memories last,
We shall remember thee.
Sadly missed by the family.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MY husband Robert Noel who passed away 2 years ago Dec. 25.
Someday we hope to meet again,
Someday we know not when
To clasp his hand in the better land
Never to part again.
Sadly missed by Shirley Noel.

Cards of Thanks 2

WE WISH TO THANK OUR MANY friends & neighbors for their kindness during our recent bereavement. The family of Clark Murdock.

Business Opportunities 47

IMAGINATION?????
It would do wonders for this 100 year old inn with a modern Class C bar and dining room. The present owner only serves sandwiches and soup but the kitchen is fully equipped to handle complete dinners and banquets, which haven't been promoted to any extent. This would be an excellent opportunity for partners to really go to town by operating it to its capacity. Property and all may be purchased for $25,000 down. No. 1212.

NOT MUCH!!!!
This tavern is only doing a $37,000 gross on beer and wine. You probably couldn't make over $10,000 or $12,000 a year in this setup and besides it would take 3 people to operate it. Located about 85 miles from Pontiac and the owner wants about $8,000 down on property and al. You might phone for details on No. 1535.

Winter Wonderland
A Class C lounge that does a wonderful business both summer and winter. Located in the winter sports area of lower Mich. It is one of the nicest spots we have to offer. You may purchase property and all or just the business and lease the property. Call now for an appointment to get the figures on No. RG

WISHES ALL THEIR FRIENDS AND CUSTOMERS A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A VERY PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR

FOR MORE THAN A QUARTER OF A CENTURY!

The GILES REALTY Co. has watched Pontiac citizens prepare for the Christmas season.

And each year our hearts feel warmer toward these people whom we serve.

It's because of them that Santa Claus is so very real to Pontiac's small fry . . . It's because of them that phrases like "Peace on Earth" and "good will toward men" take on real meaning.

Tonight, on Christmas Eve, there's a lump in our throat.

We wish that our families and yours could gather around one huge fireside and celebrate the birth of the Christ Child as one.

But, since that is impossible, may the spirit of our joyous wishes be extended to all of your friends and dear ones . . . And especially may they be directed to you.

Enjoy yourself tonight, tomorrow, for the next 365 days, Mr. and Mrs. Pontiac.

And Do Have . . .
A MERRY, MERRY CHRISTMAS

Hi Folks!

Tomorrow, all of us will gather in our homes, to joyfully celebrate the most important single event in the history of mankind.

Perhaps amid the happy cries of the young ones and beside the colorful tree, we may all pause a moment and resolve to live, to work, and to do business according to the principles that Christ laid down for us.

In that spirit then may we here at Keller-Koch, of Birmingham, wish you and yours a

Season's Greetings

Christmas means a lot of things, but to our firm this season centers chiefly around two of the finest things in life—Home and Friends. Looking back over the years and thinking of Christmas days gone by, makes us realize just how empty life would be without the proper home life and good, true friends.

So at this season of the year, we are thinking of you and your family whose friendship has helped us along the way. We hope this will be a truly Merry Christmas for you and everyone at your house; and that the New Year will bless your home with all of the good things of life. Remember "Give to the World the Best You Have, and the Best Will Come Back to You."
