

Solution for Downtown Area May Be Near

A magnificent solution for the center of Pontiac may be in the offing, according to Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. The City Commission is prepared to make all of downtown urban renewal land available to one organization in one piece.

"We have been negotiating since last summer with the Taubman Co.," he stated. "They are one of the nation's leading retail development and construction firms, and they are currently making economic and traffic studies and developing exhaustive plans.

"We have discussed this general problem with several other important, but currently are progressing much further with Mr. Taubman than we ever have before.

"This would be an enclosed, climate-conditioned retail development in the area of the downtown urban renewal acreage, and would constitute far and away the biggest venture we have ever considered."

The Taubman Co. has been developing centers in Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, Ohio, Kentucky, Missouri, Colorado, Idaho and California.

Three of the most recent centers the Taubman Co. has developed are "Southland," a 1.5-million-square-foot center in Hayward, Calif.; "Sunvalley," a 1.4-million square-foot center in Concord, Calif.; and "Woodland," a million-square-foot center now being developed in Grand Rapids.

The Taubman Co. has constructed the Macomb Mall in Roseville and is now completing Evergreen Plaza in Chicago.

Girl Inmates Riot; 11 Are Hurt, 9 Escape

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—At least nine girls remained at large today following three separate outbreaks of rioting yesterday that injured 11 girls at the Indiana Girls School.

Officials of the institution, the scene of similar rioting in 1964, said one fugitive turned herself in at daylight after contacting a service station owner. She promised to surrender if she could talk to newsmen, authorities said.

Faulty Sewers Halt Oxford Renovation

The Oakland County Health Department yesterday refused to approve the renovation of five buildings containing seven business places in downtown Oxford until adequate sanitary sewerage is installed.

The health department's position was revealed at a meeting yesterday of the health committee of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

County Health Director Dr. Bernard D. Berman told committee members that the health department will not approve permits for reconstruction.

He said that all five buildings used a basement cesspool for sewage disposal.

Dr. Berman pointed out that one building permit application from a fire victim had already been received by the health department and was denied.

He added that others are expected and that they also must be turned down.

Since health department approval is required before building permits can be issued, a better sewage disposal program must be devised if the fire victims are to return to business.

This problem could be corrected by installing septic systems but the lots are too small to do this, Dr. Berman said.

Cyril E. Miller, chairman of the health committee, said the problem rests squarely with the village.

Both Miller and Dr. Berman indicated that a sanitary sewer system for the village was the solution to the problem.

FOR WHOLE AREA
"I don't feel a few people should have to finance a sewer system for the whole area," Miller said.

A few years ago the village retained an engineering firm to draw a preliminary plan for a village sewer system, according to Village President Edmund A. Unger.

"The village decided not to proceed after an advisory vote of the people indicated strong opposition, Unger said.

VICTIM OF CONG MINES — A wounded and weeping Vietnamese boy is carried toward an ambulance in Saigon today after he was injured when Viet Cong terrorists exploded two mines near the airport. The boy was found behind a nearby shop where he had fled when the bombs exploded. At least 12 Vietnamese were killed and 60 wounded in the bombing. (See story, page A-2).

Giant Plane Crashes at Soviet Airport

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet Tu-114, the world's biggest commercial airliner, crashed into a snowbank on takeoff here today, killing most of the 48 persons aboard.

Airport sources said the plane, which can carry up to 235 persons, tried to take off in a snowstorm, failed to gain altitude, hit the snowbank at the end of the runway and exploded in flames.

Soviet officials refused to confirm or deny the crash, and, in line with Russian policy, no official statement was expected. The accident was reported, however, by airport sources.

The plane was on an inaugural flight of a run from Moscow to Brazzaville in the Congo Republic, which is the former French Congo.

Before the crash, Tass, the official Soviet news agency, had announced "Soviet specialists" were aboard. One of them was Vyacheslav Bashkov, director police of International Transport for the Soviet Airline Aeroflot.

Future Osteopath College Gaining Financial Support

Financial support for the projected Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine (MCOM) has begun to pick up momentum, according to Dr. B. F. Dickinson, Pontiac surgeon.

One of the key factors in the financing of the future school is the osteopathic profession itself.

Dr. Dickinson, president of the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, said $200,000 of an initial contribution of $300,000, due by September 1966, has already been received from state D.O.'s.

In June 1965, the state association's House of Delegates voted to assess all its members $200 annually for the next 10 years to help support the new medical school.

and Odyke is also spreading nationally.

In July, 1965, the House of Delegates of the American Osteopathic Association formally endorsed a national fund raising effort.

Although this program is just beginning, Dr. Dickinson said some 225 individual osteopathic physicians have already contributed or pledged $82,315.

SOME STATE SOCIETIES
Some state societies have pledged $100,000 to the MCOM fund drive.

In Michigan, some groups, such as the Michigan Osteopathic Guild Association, county societies, auxiliary units, labor unions and other nonmedical organizations, have submitted cash sums to the college.

Romney Gets Bill on Aid to Mental Health

LANSING (AP) — A bill that could triple the state's contribution to community mental health service programs next year is on its way to Gov. George Romney.

Oakland County's mental health program is entitled to a maximum of $741,000 this year based on a $1 limitation per capita.

The measure, described by the chairman of the House Mental Health Committee as "one of the most important to come out of this session of the Legislature," cleared its final hurdle yesterday when the House concurred in Senate amendments.

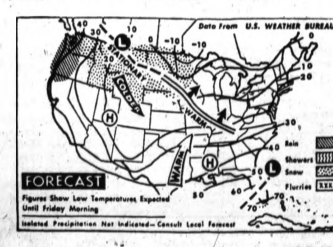

The chairman, F. Charles Raap, D-Muskegon, is sponsor of the measure to step up state financial assistance to the 3-year-old local mental health program.

Major features of the bill include:

- Raising the state contribution from a maximum of 60 per cent of cost to 75 per cent.
- Removing a $1 per capita ceiling on state aid to the community in which such a mental health service program operates.
- Eliminating a means test which forbade those who could afford service in private institutions or clinics from availing themselves of the community program, even if they were willing to pay for it.

Rifles Found in Sniper Case

Discovered in Storage Box at Police Station

The prime piece of evidence in the Gary Adair Taylor sniper case — a .22-caliber rifle — has been found.

Authorities have been unable to produce the weapon or explain its whereabouts.

Late yesterday, however, Royal Oak Police Chief Herman Potts, making another search of the property room in the police station, discovered the rifle in the bottom of a storage box.

Taylor, 29, of Royal Oak, was recently released from the State Hospital for the Criminal Insane, and will be arraigned in Circuit Court Feb. 23 on a nine-year-old charge of assault with intent to murder.

During his preliminary examination Feb. 16, police testified that the rifle "vanished" sometime after it was sent to the State Police Crime Laboratory in Lansing.

APOLYZED Today, Potts apologized, saying "Our department was negligent on this. It was strictly an oversight on our part."

"I'm sorry it happened and that the State Police was taken to task."

Potts explained that the rifle apparently was placed in the box when the police department moved into new quarters in October 1963.

"It probably was done by someone who believed that wouldn't be used for some time and then it was forgotten about," said Potts.

Potts said the rifle, found in the trunk of Taylor's car when he was arrested in 1957, is tagged and has the identifying marks on it made by the investigating officers.

Potts said that the rifle was sent to Lansing for ballistic tests but that records show that it was returned.

"The State Police was not to blame," said Potts.

CHARGED IN SHOOTING He is specifically charged with shooting Mrs. Shirley Eland Quinn of Bloomfield Hills.

He was committed to Ionia before ever standing trial on the offense.

Hospital authorities say Taylor is now capable of understanding the charges against him and will be able to assist his defense counsel.

DOMINO THEORY Alluding to the falling domino theory, Taylor said he does not explicitly subscribe to it if it means that adjoining nations will fall automatically if South Viet Nam goes.

"But," he said, "I am deeply impressed by the probable worldwide effects."

Communist leaders of Red China, the Soviet Union and Hanoi, he said, have made plain their plan to back so-called "wars of liberation," which he described as actually internal subversion.

They believe, he said, that such wars are bound to succeed and spread to other vulnerable nations.

MYTH OF INVINCIBILITY One aim of the United States in Viet Nam is to "destroy the myth of invincibility," the general said, to show that such subversion cannot win.

He declared that United States policy is based on the following hope:

That failure of the Viet Cong to win on the ground, combined with U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam targets will cause the Hanoi regime to change its mind, "redefine its aims" and join in negotiations to better the lot of all the Vietnamese people.

Cannon was arrested Jan. 7. An included offense of gross indecency was also dismissed.

Chief Assistant Prosecutor James Finn said today, however, that he will re-arrest Cannon with gross indecency.

'U.S. Violates N-Ban Treaty'

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union today denounced flights of American nuclear bombers as a violation of the 1963 partial test treaty. The United States rejected the charge as "false and more propaganda."

The two nuclear powers clashed in the 17-nation disarmament talks when Soviet negotiator Semyon K. Tsarapkin read a memorandum by his government.

He claimed the Spanish coastal area was being contaminated after the crash of an American B52 with nuclear bombs last month.

The memorandum said the Soviet government considers "a flagrant violation of international law and of the 1963 Moscow treaty."

Tsarapkin said the memorandum was directed to all states and constituted an appeal for termination of these flights.

FOSTER STATEMENT U.S. chief delegate William C. Foster declined to go into the substance of the Soviet statement, saying:

"One is led to wonder what purpose lies behind the repetitive and false allegations about this incident and why the Soviet delegate asked to be the first speaker today; just to read a note delivered yesterday to my government by the Soviet government."

"Presumably, if the Soviet government had other than propaganda in mind, it would have awaited a reply through diplomatic channels."

U.S. delegation officials said the Soviet statement contained no direct or indirect threat of a Soviet withdrawal from the Moscow treaty.

"Under the terms of that agreement they would not have a leg to stand on," one official remarked.

Foster and Tsarapkin clashed again when the Soviet delegate denounced the Western powers on charges of seeking to satisfy West Germany's "growing nuclear claims" and accused the Bonn government of a policy of militarism.

Foster deplored Tsarapkin's "tired repetition of unfounded charges."

Foster stressed that Western European countries are aware of the "many hundreds of Soviet missiles with nuclear warheads which are aimed at them."

As long as this threat exists, Western Europe will seek collective ways to counteract it, he said.

New Rank Set for City Police

Senior Patrolman to Receive Higher Pay

A new rank — senior patrolman — is to be established in the Pontiac Police Department, it was announced today.

Carrying a higher pay rate of $7,228 per year, the new rank is to be implemented immediately, according to a joint statement issued by the Pontiac Police Officers Association (PPOA) and city officials.

The two sides agreed to the new rank in a negotiating session yesterday.

Agreement on the new rank appears to settle the lengthy wage dispute between the city and the PPOA.

City Manager Joseph A. Warren said the police association indicated acceptance of the city's pay plan with the rank change.

POLICE MORE Police Chief William K. Hanger said the new rank would be rated between patrolman and detective. The pay would be $1,000 more per year than the pay rate for patrolman.

Patrolmen will be eligible for the "senior" ranking after completing five years of departmental service with a good service record.

Estimated cost of the new rank has been put at $8,000 a year.

Negotiations with the PPOA have been going on this since last summer.

NO DIFFERENCES Commenting on the settlement, Warren said he could see no further points requiring negotiations.

Under the city's pay plan, implemented earlier this month, patrolmen received a pay raise of $551 per year.

Rabbi Termed Slightly Worse

Report Comes Shortly After Assassin Buried

DETROIT (AP) — The widow of Rabbi Morris Adler, shot in the head and arm during Sabbath services Saturday, worsened slightly Wednesday, hours after his youthful assassin was buried.

Richard Wisniewski, 23, stood to the date of Shmear Yezek Synagogue near the end of services Saturday, denounced the 600-member congregation for "hypocrisy," then shot Adler and himself.

He died of massive brain damage shortly after midnight Wednesday.

Doctors at Detroit's Sinai Hospital said Adler, 59, was in very critical condition.

BRILLIANT STUDENT The result of a conference Wednesday "was not to alter the current management (of the case) at this time," a hospital spokesman said.

Wisniewski was a former Woodrow Wilson scholar at the University of Michigan where he was described by instructors as a brilliant student.

He was admitted to a mental institution last August, but walked away about one month later. He was discharged from the hospital by court order Nov. 24 and had been receiving counseling from Adler.

Surgeons have operated twice on Adler, attempting to remove bone splinters from his brain and relieve pressure caused by blood or other fluids.

He was reported slightly improved after Monday's operation, but suffered a slight relapse Wednesday, doctors said.

Mrs. Goldie Adler, wife of the rabbi, said today, "We feel sympathy for them (Wisniewski's parents), and were I with them, I would press their hands."

City Businessman Heads Fund Drive Committee

BIRMINGHAM — Edward Chudik has been named chairman of the business solicitations committee for the 1966 Community House Fund Drive.

Chudik, his wife, Barbara and two teen-age sons live at 1921 Lone Pine, Bloomfield Hills.

Prior to opening his fur and apparel sales bearing his name here five years ago, Chudik owned and operated the fur department of Milgrim's in Detroit for 10 years.

Born in Milwaukee, Chudik comes from a family of furriers who came to the United States from Czechoslovakia. His father and nine brothers have all been furriers.

A graduate of the School of Business and Finance of the University of Wisconsin, Chudik was president of the Birmingham-Bloomfield Chamber of Commerce, retail division, in 1964.

The Community House will host the fourth in its current series of lectures, "A Guide to Wise Investing," at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

John K. Martin, manager of the Birmingham office of the investment firm of Goodbody and Co., will be the lecturer.

Martin, who has been in the brokerage business for more than a decade, will discuss mutual funds in detail, presenting their positive and negative factors.

A local resident for 41 years, Martin, earned his degree from the School of Business Administration at the University of Michigan.

Humphrey, India Leader Talk; $100-Million Loan Is Offered

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—U.S. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey offered India a $100-million loan today, an official U.S. source reported.

The loan is for importing urgently needed raw materials to get India's industry, now running at 50 per cent capacity in many sectors, speeded up, the source said.

The offer does not constitute a resumption of American development aid, which was halted during India's war with neighboring Pakistan in September, the informant said.

Humphrey, in India for a short visit, announced Tuesday night Pakistan would get a $50-million loan to import commodities needed to speed up its economic progress.

QUESTION OPEN

The United States has stepped up shipments of food grains to famine-threatened India, but the curtailment of development aid has seriously hampering the economy, which has been faltering for years.

American funds had been used for importing raw goods and spare parts to keep India's industrial machine going. One top-ranking official estimated it would take six weeks or more to get it going again if large-scale aid was resumed.

Coming on top of India's three and a half years has started severe food crisis, the economic

POSSIBLE TOPIC

This was thought to be one of the subjects discussed between Mrs. Gandhi and Humphrey when they met in her office this afternoon.

Wearing a flowing sari, Mrs. Gandhi greeted Humphrey on the steps of her office. Their conference was attended by her close aides, President Johnson's roving ambassador, W. Averell Harriman, and the U.S. ambassador to India, Chester Bowles.

During a tour of farm development projects and a new agricultural university in India's Punjab State Wednesday, Humphrey said the United States "is ready and willing, in fact, we look for the opportunity to share" American abundance.

He told Indian farm researchers: "What India wants and what India will receive is the help of technical experts, of seed, of equipment, of the resources that are required to build a modern agricultural society or a modern agricultural plant."

After meeting with the food, finance and planning ministers, the vice president had an appointment with Defense Minister Y.B. Chavan and the service chiefs of staff.

AWARD WINNERS—Donald Beach (left), chief of the Independence Township Volunteer Fire Department, and Harry Fahrner, an employee of Fisher Body plant, display the plaques they were awarded last night at the Clarkston Area Jaycees' annual Bosses' Night banquet.

Beach was named boss of the Year, while Fahrner received the Distinguished Service Award.

Clarkston JCs Honor Two at Fete

CLARKSTON — Harry Fahrner, a payroll auditor at the Fisher Body plant, and Donald Beach, chief of the Independence Township Volunteer Fire Department, were named Bosses' Night top awards.

The Distinguished Service Award went to Fahrner, 35, of 10 Horton, while Beach, 54, of 6700 Hidden Lane, Independence Township, was named Boss of the Year for 1965.

The occasion was the organization's fourth annual Bosses' Night banquet held at the Community Activities, Inc., building, 5640 Williams Lake, Waterford Township.

Board Backs Rezoning for Light Industry

AVON TOWNSHIP — The Township Zoning Board last night recommended that 46.6 acres between Hamlin and Avon roads be rezoned from general farm to light industrial.

Approval was recommended in spite of protests from more than 100 persons at a public hearing last month. The objections were in force again last night but were not allowed to voice their objections.

Protests centered around the devaluation of property and increased traffic which would "change a peaceful, safe neighborhood into a nightmare."

Members of the zoning board pointed out that the township has spent considerable money on a master plan to serve as a guide for development and that this is one of the first rezoning requests which fits in with the plan.

They also noted that the terrain makes the land suitable for light industry and that heavy utility poles across the property make it less desirable for residential.

REQUESTS REZONING

R & C Robertson, Inc. wants the land west of Livernois rezoned for industry of a type which a spokesman says will resemble the new Holley Computer Co. in Rochester.

The request now goes to the Oakland County Coordinating, Zoning and Planning Committee for a recommendation. The township Board will make the final determination.

Joint Sewer Plant Will Be Studied

NOVI—Novi wants and needs sewers; Walled Lake wants and needs sewers; and it appears both communities may finally get them.

Both the Novi Village Council and the Walled Lake City Council, at a meeting held here last night, selected one representative to form a study committee on the proposed construction of a treatment plant, the number of homes it would serve and the total cost of such a plant.

Mrs. Margaret A. Thibideau, 1710 Pontiac Trail, the Walled Lake representative, and Don Young, 4775 W. 3 Mile, Novi, representative, will study the matter, along with R. J. Alexander, director of the Oakland County Department of Public Works, and Charles Fenske, an engineering consultant.

Fenske, who represents Johnson and Anderson, Inc., Waterford Township consulting engineers, will aid the committee which will attempt to have its report ready for review on March 1.

The proposal for a joint treatment plant has been in the mill for over three years. Urgency was given to the matter last week when the Village Council was approached by a prospective developer seeking sewer and water service for a large industrial park.

INDUSTRY COMPLEX

L. S. Snyder, representing Architects Planners, Inc., proposes to build a $5-million industrial complex which would require a large sewerage system, along some 135 acres in the northwest section of the village.

"Sanitary sewage and water presents no great problems," Snyder said, "but the disposal of industrial waste will be a problem. We must get rid of one million gallons of waste each day."

Snyder has indicated that the development could not wait "too long" but that the study now in progress is necessary and agreeable to his firm. He

Royce Downey, Walled Lake city manager said, "However, we must be prepared for expansion."

Walled Lake recently estimated that its requirements for service taps could reach 2,600. Snyder claims a need for 3,000 taps for the industrial park.

Alexander noted that, although the two districts may decide on a specific tap requirement, the State Water Resources Commission, and the Department of Public Health would have the final determination.

OFFER REJECTED

The council had previously turned down an offer by Snyder to build a partial water and sewage system which the village could eventually take over.

Village manager Harold Ackley, explaining why the takeover of a private treatment plant was not favorable to the council, said that such an operation becomes a liability rather than an asset.

It was further noted that federal funds for the projected $2-million dollar plant construction would be available, but that the average cost to home owners could not be determined until the present study is completed.

The cost for each community would be divided according to the number of people served, with present plans calling for Walled Lake to assume 65 percent of costs and the village 35 percent.

$3 Million Sought for 67 Classrooms

Lapeer District to Vote on Bond Issue

LAPEER—School district voters will be asked Monday to approve a $3-million bond issue for the construction of 67 classrooms.

The building program, which provides for the replacement of 12 classrooms and the addition of enough new rooms to house 1,650 additional pupils, is slated to take care of the district's building needs until the 1970's.

If approved, the bond issue will cost the taxpayer about 2.5 mills or $2.50 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation.

Schools Supt. Clyde Schickler points out that the millage rate on bond issues fluctuates. The amount of principal and interest due in any given year determines the millage rate.

The present total tax rate is 17.35 mills or $17.35 per $1,000 state equalized valuation. Of this, 8.35 mills are allocated, 4.50 are extra-voted operating mills and 4.50 are for debt retirement.

SLATED FOR ADDITIONS

Seven schools are slated for specific additions and 10 classrooms will be added where they are needed as the program develops.

Six rooms will be added to Turritt Elementary School, 785 S. Elm, at an estimated cost of $187,215. A new 14-room building will eventually replace the present Elba School at 15 S. Elba. The approximate cost is $579,510.

A new site and seven classrooms are scheduled for the Mayfield School area east of M24 near the present Mayfield Community School. The cost of the new unit is estimated at $284,940.

7-ROOM UNIT

A new seven-room unit in the Clover School area on Davison is to be built at an estimated cost of $284,940.

TO PAY DEARLY

"We will pay dearly if this fails," noted Schickler, "because we will have to come back piece-meal for buildings to take care of our enrollment."

"We are overcrowded now and more children are knocking at the doors."

Griffin Hints No Primary Fight if GOP Chiefs Back Another for Senate

KALAMAZOO (AP) — U.S. Rep. Robert Griffin indicates he may not force a primary election fight if Republican leaders choose someone else to run for the U.S. Senate.

Griffin said in an interview Wednesday, however, that he is confident leaders meeting Saturday in Lansing will either pick him or be unable to substantially unify behind any candidate.

The nearly 300 district, county and state leaders are picking among Griffin, State Sen. Guy VanderJagt of Cadillac and Leroy Augenstein, Michigan State University professor, the survivors of earlier balloting. Griffin said there would "certainly be a primary" if leaders reach no consensus. He added: "I have been and am a strong party man and I would naturally take a long look and give serious consideration to the situation if it would develop that the overwhelming consensus of party leaders were that someone else should be the candidate."

He declared, however, that "come what may, I am not running again for my House seat."

When Griffin jumped into the Senate race last Thursday, he said he would run in the primary regardless of the leaders' decision.

Griffin said he believes he can muster "well over 50 per cent of support at this point."

Gov. George Romney has said

Quake Aid to Alaska $344 Million, Says LBJ

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than $344 million in federal aid has been provided to Alaska in recovering from the devastating Good Friday earthquake of March 27, 1964.

In a report to Congress yes-at least 75 per cent of party leaders must support one man in order for him to win the designation of "party-preferred candidate."

Griffin said he "certainly has at least the 25 per cent" needed to block a consensus for anyone else. VanderJagt has said he has about 50 per cent and Augenstein claims about 35 per cent.

Griffin, of Traverse City, said he has not tried to talk VanderJagt into running for his Congressional seat, though VanderJagt is expected to run for that office if he is not the chosen candidate.

Griffin said he "would not be able to try to designate my successor." Grand Haven business- man Edward Meany and Wesley Tebeau of Muskegon have already announced for Griffin's 9th District seat.

Griffin explained why he had not announced for the Senate several months ago.

DR. HANNAH
"Until the time of the St. Clair conference (Feb. 5, where the eliminations were held)," he said, "there was a good deal of talk in party circles about the candidacy of Dr. John Hannah (president of Michigan State University)."

"I think he would have been a very excellent candidate. He was encouraged to make the race but finally decided not to.

There was a good deal of talk uncertainty as to what Gov. (George) Romney's course he had decided he would make the race, I would have been about the time of the St. Clair conference so I didn't really feel like I was in a position to make the move before then."

"There was also a little more

Voters Will Screen 23 Commission Bids

Pontiac is off to the races again, with the biennial steeplechase for city commission posts.

Enough aspirants filed in six of the City's seven districts to make primary elections necessary March 7.

As the referee says when the boxers meet in the center of the ring, "Let's have a good, clean fight..."

In recent years, Pontiac residents had their credibility and tempers strained by several examples of vicious untruths, half-truths, three-quarter truths, and distortions delivered by the dark of the moon, too late to be answered.

We would hope that a repeat of this sickening performance will be avoided.

It is encouraging that so many residents are willing to donate their time to serve on the commission. It would be even more encouraging if voters nominated those qualified men who will truly serve the entire city, as well as their own district.

A final word before candidates touch gloves and come out fighting: campaign expenditures must be reported, under the law.

Wide Business Hopes Geared to Ski Slopes

Although unseasonable weather has taken some of the icing off the local ski cake, nationally the recreation is growing by leaps and bounds. A survey indicates that the Country's 3 million skiers have their choice of some 1,500 ski resort areas.

Not only do the ski centers generate a huge amount of commercial activity, but many lead to construction of new hotels and motels, restaurants and apparel shops. And in a growing number of areas, skiing has produced an environment of private vacation homes for skiers who want and can afford their own resort bases.

The ski boom is a shining contradiction of a business that thrives while going downhill.

Progress Path Blazed by an African Nation

It is the trouble spots around the globe, the upheavals in government, the economic chaos that claims the news channels—rarely examples of orderly progress and civilian well-being.

But a noteworthy exception comes to light in a survey of the Republic of South Africa conducted by the National Federation of Independent Business, Inc. It emphasizes the vital role played by individual enterprise in that nation's economy.

In the five years since the former British colony won complete independence, it is estimated that 60,000 independent firms have become engaged in the distributive industries alone.

Much of the credit for the growth is given to a singularly enlightened tax policy that among other benefits permits business a tax-free plowback of profits into expansion up to 45 per cent.

Significantly, South Africa with a total population of less than 15 million has made rewarding progress in educating, training and assimilating into industry 3 million tribesmen while establishing another 2 million in self-supporting agrarian programs. Socially, however, the young republic is still plagued by apartheid — its own brand of segregation — and the dictatorial attitudes of Prime Minister HENDRICK F. VERWOERD that have on occasion extended to press censorship.

The young nation is strongly anticommunist, has a negligible national debt, has never asked for or received one cent of American foreign aid. And it is the only nation to have paid off its World War II debt to the U. S., incurred while still a member of the British Commonwealth.

The shining governmental moral is best expressed by a South African leader: "Free enterprise and private initiative is regarded as the basis of, and main incentive behind, the country's industrial and economic achievements."

Of course, the New Year is called, "The Year of Decision," as all prior years have been called. Incidentally, it would seem that for many of the past years, the decisions made were the wrong ones.

Findings Unclear on Obscenity

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON — Nine years ago the Supreme Court decided sex isn't necessarily obscene. Perhaps it would have been just as well if the court had stopped there.

But the justices didn't. They went on to try to define obscenity. And though they have refined the definition since, no one seems entirely satisfied, least of all the justices themselves.

The reason: The definition appears to have posed as many questions as it answered. The result: The court took on a new batch of obscenity cases this session, others are being pressed on it and a new definition may be in prospect before adjournment.

This much is clear, unless there is a great change of heart on the bench, certain types of literature will remain outside the First Amendment guarantee of free speech. And both the federal and state governments will retain the right to censor this material and to jail the publisher.

Thus, in a sense, the United States hasn't moved very far from 1712 when Massachusetts made it criminal to publish "any filthy, obscene, or profane song, pamphlet, libel or mock sermon."

LIMITS ARE PLACED
What has changed is that limits have been placed on the censor and the court has tried to narrow down what may legitimately be considered obscene.

A sexy tract can't be banned unless it has "a tendency to excite lustful thoughts."

But what, exactly, is a "lustful thought" and how do you prove it was excited by the material in question? Who is to judge if an idea has "social importance" and who is the "average person" equipped to apply them?

The record bears evidence of considerable division of the Supreme Court.

WANTS NATIONAL STANDARD
Two years ago in a movie case Justice William J. Brennan said obscenity should be judged against a national standard while Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justice Tom C. Clark doubted any exists. Instead they would have "community standards" applied.

Justices William O. Douglas and Hugo L. Black, meanwhile, have said "any test that turns on what is offensive to the community's standards" cannot be squared with the First Amendment.

And Justice Potter Stewart has said criminal obscenity laws should be limited to "hardcore pornography."

Perhaps best illustrating that the field is mired with subjective judgments, he said he might never be able to define such material and yet added: "I know it when I see it."

Who Said A Watched Pot Never Boils?

David Lawrence Says:

Viet Hearings on TV One-Sided

WASHINGTON — A controversy more than passing interest to the American people has developed as a result of the resignation of the head of the news division of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

He quit because the management of the network decided not to let Lawrence give the hearings of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last week while a competitor, the National Broadcasting Co., did so simultaneously with the appearance of the witnesses.

On its face, it is made to appear by the departing official that CBS declined to perform a "public service" and that its "public judgment" was faulty. Unfortunately, the reasons for skipping the event were not set forth by CBS itself in its own news broadcasts.

The principle involved, however, is important. Congressional hearings are frequently characterized by partisanship. The networks do not have the opportunity to present the rebuttal promptly so that the listeners can get both sides.

This is one of the disadvantages of television broadcasting, not only with regard to hearings before congressional committees but also presidential speeches.

It so happens that the hearings before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee gave the public a one-sided view of the whole Viet Nam war.

OTHER SIDE
The witnesses were, of course, properly permitted to give their viewpoints, but the American people were entitled to hear the other side as well later that day or the next day.

Millions of persons are disabled or confined to their homes for one reason or another during the daytime hours. Most of them like to get entertainment rather than highbrow dialogues.

A broadcasting company must determine what is preferred by the vast majority of its listeners. Otherwise it fails in its purpose of supplying a service to the people as a whole and to those companies which pay for the largest possible audiences so that their commercials can be heard.

Television isn't like a newspaper, which can print even a partisan statement by an official or a prominent person in private life and enable its readers to get the other side, either that day or the next.

NO CRITICISM

None of the major networks, for instance, in their news reports or commentaries has as yet presented a comprehensive and point-by-point criticism of last week's testimony on the Viet Nam war before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Even when government spokesmen subsequently are given a chance to be heard, they do not always take up

In detail what their predecessors have said. So no direct answer is made when the original criticism is presented. This breeds prejudice. It can also result in the spread of a vast amount of misinformation.

In the case of the Viet Nam war, it has led to a misunderstanding by the people at the very time when it is important that the American war effort should be fully supported.

parliamentary system, government spokesmen are notified in advance and are given an opportunity to reply at once to questions on current policies.

When committees of Congress insist upon allowing one or two witnesses several hours of time in which to voice criticism, it is natural that many listeners are either bored or angered by such a procedure.

That's why the controversy over the resignation of an official of CBS because his network chose not to broadcast several hours of professional paradoxes and platitudes about foreign affairs involves more than a question of whether the testimony was fairly handled.

It concerns, rather, whether the American people at any time — either the same day or later — will be told the whole story on television just as the newspapers make a point of doing it on controversial issues of nationwide significance.

Bob Considine Says:

Bid to Put Man on Moon Has Come a Long Way

NEW YORK — The United States will take another big costly step toward landing men on the moon when it testifies the first Apollo capsule on George Washington's birthday. The shot will be from Cape Kennedy.

The 15-ton CONSIDINE payload in a replica of which three men one day will be shot at the moon will not go into earth orbit. Instead, it will land some 6,000 miles down the Atlantic test range and be recovered.

In the course of its 30-minute flight, hundreds of systems, countless theories and risk-factors will be checked by telemetry.

The little black boxes that substitute for the lunarians will record a wealth of information which NASA technicians will be studying for months to come.

We're still a long way from the moon, but we'll have come a long way, too, when the first belch is heard from the bottom of the Saturn IB booster to be used in this test.

It will be the unveiling of hardware which first was proposed by Werner Von Braun and his rocketeers in April 1957 six months before Sputnik I stunned all mankind.

The specifications for Saturn IB were figured out months, really years, before we had anything that would confidently lay a payload much bigger than a basketball.

Saturn IB is hard to believe when seen up close. When wearing its Apollo rig, which in turn is topped by a launch escape tower, the whole assembly stands 224 feet in the air—the equivalent of a modern 22-story building.

The 80-foot first stage, which must get the 1.3-million-pound edifice off the launch pad, is crammed with eight rocket engines which develop 1.6 million pounds of thrust. They burn 107,000 gallons of fuel in two and a half minutes, enough to drive your car around the world many times.

WELL ALONG

Saturn V, the rocket which will be used for the actual man-shots at the moon is well along the production line.

It will stand 364 feet high, pack 7.5 million pounds of thrust in its five-engined, 13-story high first-stage, put a 45-ton payload on the moon, send a 140-ton manned observation station into earth orbit, weigh six million pounds on the pad.

These are facts and figures most men could not have conjured a decade ago. But the fantastic die has been cast and the next 10 years will pale today's exotic accomplishments.

Voice of the People:

'Interest in Ice Hockey Indicates Need for Rink'

Interest in ice skating and ice hockey abounds in Pontiac. Last year the physical education department of the Pontiac Public Schools organized an ice hockey program for boys to be run on the natural ice surfaces provided by the Pontiac Recreation Department and the community-operated Northside Skating Rink. Interest shown in this program by both students and parents was phenomenal.

During the week a junior high school league was operated and each of the six junior high schools in town were represented by at least 15 boys. The elementary-aged boys were given instructions in hockey fundamentals on Saturday mornings. The two high schools fielded teams and played against each other and teams from neighboring communities. Central High School played several games on Cranbrook's artificial rink and had such a promising showing that tentative plans were made for Central to enter the International High School League. These plans had to be scrapped because league rules demand that member teams have a home artificial ice rink on which to practice and play games.

Pontiac needs an ice rink as well as a civic center such as Port Huron has. If someone will give this program the initiative and drive it needs to get started, I'm sure the citizens of Pontiac will do their part to make it a success.

William Graves' enthusiasm for the sports arena raises a timid question: Who pays that last three million? With the interest over 30 years it becomes more than six million. The venture must not be a quarter of a million dollars a year after expenses and the gross receipts wouldn't total that. If it's a bond issue, who would be taxed? Pontiac—Waterford—Pontiac Township—Bloomfield Township? Which combination?

Mr. Graves exhorts Mr. Kearns to "start doing something instead of dreaming." Maybe Mr. Kearns awaits Graves' explanation of raising the six million. Otherwise the do-gooders can lay the biggest dream of the decade at Mr. Graves' door.

813 BLAINE

There must be 30 acres inside Wide Track waiting to be developed. Maybe the City and urban renewal people think a few stores and a parking lot would have the people flocking downtown. Can't they see what a sports center such as Bruno Kearns has been talking about could do for the City?

813 BLAINE

Pontiac is already a good place to live. Religious institutions are in abundance; a sound educational school system is available to youth and adults alike; industry's wheels continue to whirl with increasing tempo; and civic and recreational improvements are noticeable in Pontiac with each passing year.

Mr. Kearns' editorials on the feasibility and desirability of a sports arena would be a tremendous boost to an improving Pontiac community spirit. Pontiac is deserving of such a structure. It can be really. Let's make it so.

In reference to the letter by Mrs. Claris M. Shepherd suggesting a "left turn" sign at Baldwin and Walton for the center lane, this matter has been referred to the City Traffic Engineer for necessary action. This is a highly desirable safety factor at that intersection.

'Blame Parents for Children's Behavior'

Don't blame children for their lack of manners and their fighting and screaming, blame the parents. Parents are busy buying a $20,000 house, two cars, booze, clothes for mother, etc. A baby sitter or housekeeper watches the kids.

It takes time and patience to mold a child's character, so he will be polite and kind, and most parents are too tired to be bothered. I have worked in homes for years and know the situation well.

'Conservation Department Does Good Job'

Why are hunters blaming the conservation department for lack of deer? I commend them for a good job and I'm confident they know what they are doing. If they had enough people in the field to stop the shooting after dark and stop hunters from shining at night, it would help a lot. This isn't possible with the funds they have but there should be a solution somewhere. I saw more deer this past year than I have in the last four years.

Repeal of 14 (b) will not force into membership workers in factories and other work places who have never chosen to organize. Organized labor forces will encourage them to organize but the choice will remain theirs. There can't be a union shop without a union and there can't be a union unless a majority of the workers in a place of employment wants one.

'We Need Improved Poison Control Center'

Our local St. Joseph Mercy Hospital has a poison control center but I feel that it is not as efficient or complete as it should be. I understand the shortage of funds will not permit a full-time employee for this duty, but couldn't there be a separate telephone number for poison control only?

With the number of people in this area I believe we need a complete antidote listing and a phone set-up which would give us immediate attention to the accidental poisoning. To get this, must we prepare a petition? How many signatures would it require? Or, should each person write the hospital showing his support for this service?

Discuss Mothers Working Outside Home

In answer to those who wonder what has happened to the old-fashioned mother who doesn't stay home to take care of her children, you will find thousands of them in schools teaching your children, in hospitals nursing your sick, in county jobs directing the health and financial needs of the indigent, and in many other such jobs.

These are jobs that have high requirements, low pay, and are too menial to attract most men who must support a family. These women not only work full time, but are well-organized, still run homes and families, give their children parties, make dresses, darn socks, etc.

Contrary to public opinion, most teachers are concerned about the children they are responsible for. You cannot judge any profession by a few poor exceptions. I am a mother of six, work full time, go to school, and keep a good home. My children do not feel neglected. They are proud that their mother is a school teacher.

ROCHESTER

YVONNE ERRICKSON

What does being a working mother have to do with loving your children or providing for their personal and spiritual needs? As one of the working mothers I will match my skills and accomplishments as a mother and homemaker with those of any others. My children are not starved for love and affection, nor are their personal and spiritual needs neglected.

Many mothers who remain at home sleep late, spend hours engrossed in television, gossip on the telephone, collect with the neighbors, neglect their household duties, scream at their children, and in many cases never get dressed or comb their hair.

There are important jobs that must be filled with responsible women. I am proud to hold one of these positions and feel it in no way makes me less a mother. I find a satisfaction in knowing I can supplement the family income and still master the job of being a mother.

'Scriptures Will Reveal World Conditions'

Considering the world situation today, it seems the Scriptures plainly reveal a picture which many want to sweep under the rug and forget—even some of the clergy. Revelation reveals we face a powerful enemy today in Asia, the land of the "red dragon." Read Revelation 12 and 13, and Matthew 24. Remember that women, as well as "the bride of Christ," refers to the Church of Christ and that the people of Red China had no voice in determining their leadership under communism and many fled their homes.

Comments on Educational Aid for Veterans

We have waited more than ten years for our government to act on a bill to provide educational aid for veterans. Now we have discovered that it is discriminatory. The bill will now benefit for "all persons who have served more than six months on active duty since the Korean GI bill expired January 31, 1955." There is no retroactivity clause. A number of veterans who will qualify according to the terms of the bill will receive no benefits because they attended school prior to the bill's passage. These men will be able to return to school if they wish but this will not accommodate the majority of them.

Having gone to school without GI benefits which will not be available to others, we must continue to pay off bills and loans incurred during schooling. Had we waited for the GI bill we would undoubtedly not find ourselves so financially burdened in the years after graduation.

We believe some arrangement should be made which will be financially sound and adequately recognize those veterans who struggled and even sacrificed to attend school before the government had a chance to recognize their needs and to show appreciation for their services.

'Explanation Needed on Art Show Winners'

I agree that the public deserves an explanation for the choice of top prize winners at the Pontiac Mall Art Show. I am of the opinion that the judge is obligated to a certain extent to choose not what his style may be but what will activate the comments of the uninformed public and thus give art more interest and publicity.

It is unfair to mislead the public which hopes to learn what good art is by being exposed to shows like this. The public is inclined to lose interest by not understanding the "preferences" of the judge. If I am wrong, can we please hear a judge's comment?

AN ART STUDENT

Again this year the Mall Art Show was lovely, except for the ribbon winners. It seemed the judges did their best to pick the worst of the show. It would seem after reading the list of winners that one would have to be a professional or on the committee that sponsors the show.

DISGUSTED AGAIN

What has happened to the fine art in painting? Must we try to convince ourselves that all the old master artists were wrong? When one can see nothing but ugliness in a painting, how can judges possibly call it good? It is said that what is popular runs in cycles. Let's hope the cycle in abstract soon runs out.

The popular vote showed that the public likes beauty. The first year at the Mall I spent every available hour enjoying the beautiful display of art. Now I couldn't care less.

'Students Waiting for Bus Destroy Property'

To add to the comments on students' behavior, parents and school authorities should see how some act while waiting for the buses. We live on a corner where there are two bus stops. The students do not wait at the stops, but roam all over our property. Some are very destructive, especially to our lawn and shrubs. When we ask them kindly to wait where they are supposed to, they only act worse. School authorities say it is our problem.

'Conditions in America Are Disillusioning'

Student demonstrations, transportation tie-ups, blackouts, Communist leaders lecturing at our universities, students devoid of patriotism, and speaking of God in hushed voices or in profanity—is this America?

It is bewildering to see our soldiers fighting communism on foreign shores when the U.S. Supreme Court justices give comfort and sanction within our own borders. These men would have been called traitors years ago when this was America. Today the average citizen is so brainwashed he disregards any signs of socialism—which is nothing but communism by another name—so long as he gets his share of the handouts from Washington.

We might as well join the rest of the "do nothings." Just buy yourself a little red flag and be prepared to fly it with the Stars and Stripes. Should we be proud to be Americans? Sometimes I wonder why my relatives bothered to fight in every war this country has engaged in.

Witness at Mossler Trial Faces Rough Questioning

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Bible-came an ordained minister as a conscious jailbird goes back result of his behind-bars Bible beneath the trip-hammer of study, testified earlier this week cross-examination at the that he once worked in a magazine sales crew with Powers.

OFFERED MONEY He said that about June 15th or 16th, 1962, Powers offered him money to kidnap Mossler.

"We don't want him back. We want him killed," Grimley said. Powers told him. Wednesday Grimley said he rechecked and decided his sequence was in error.

Recalled to the witness stand, Grimley said he based his prior testimony on the fact that he had picked up his father-in-law at a tuberculosis sanatorium on June 14.

CHANGED DATE Actually, the witness said, now has determined that the pickup he alluded to occurred after 1:45 a.m. June 30, 1964 March 24, therefore his contact with Powers had to be March 25-26, instead of the following Wednesday.

This didn't come close to satisfying the defense. Foreman labeled it "wholly unbelievable testimony... last gasp desperation... trash."

DEFENSE ATTORNEY Defense Attorney Harvey St. Jean, called Grimley a "liar and a perjurer."

As he opened his cross-examination of Grimley, Foreman asked: "Do you feel that a great yoke has been lifted off your soul?" The court barred any answers.

The defense moved for a mistrial, contending that Grimley had changed his story only after learning that Powers was in a Houston, Tex., hospital and could not have made any proposal to Grimley to kidnap and kill Mossler.

The mistrial motion was denied.

A Vital Nerve Center

S. Viet Resort Town in 'Battle Dress'

NHA TRANG, South Viet Nam — Seven months ago, this once-sleepy resort town on the South China Sea coast was given a job to do. Today, it is starting to pay off.

The task was to serve as the base for Field Forces Viet Nam — FFV. Now it is one of the busiest nerve centers of the entire war effort against the Viet Cong.

The nerve center ripples with field reports. Batteries of officers deal with top-secret information on the location of North Vietnamese regular regiments and Viet Cong battalions. They've pretty well placed about 10,000 "pawns," as the North Vietnamese are called, and they've got a pretty good idea where Viet Cong hide out.

As the forces grow, it is the intention to move in strength with the single mission search and destroy.

Lessons are learned almost daily and the original directive to field forces has been shifted north. It directed the 101st Airborne and Korean marine force. In the early days, it was drive around Tuy Hoa which has liberated almost 28,000 tons of rice. It directs the security and protection for the giant Can Rann Bay project, where the harbor rapidly is growing into one of the best in the world with its natural deep water.

SPECIAL FORCES

And it works with all the Special Forces in Viet Nam, the plucky little units which go out into the jungles and the paddies and provide intelligence on insurgent movements.

Two hundred miles northeast of Saigon, Nha Trang has become almost a world of its own.

Out of Nha Trang go the orders for almost 50,000 allied troops on the move throughout the 2nd Corps area with its 30,000 square miles — just about half of South Viet Nam.

The American command coordinates its work with the Korean division and marines and with the Vietnamese government forces which are, in fact, the 2nd Corps.

DEVISE PHRASE

That's why the Americans devised the phrase "Field Forces Viet Nam" so that the Vietnamese would be assured their corps and their corps responsibility were not being taken away from them.

Maj. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, the commanding general, has the delicate job of running war operations in the complex multinational setup without stepping on toes.

The Koreans, for instance, pride themselves on controlling their own forces. In practice, the Korean commanders link up with Larsen's plans.

COMPARISON

In a way, his job compares not in size but in character with the Army group assignment Gen. Omar N. Bradley had in France during the World War II push that coordinated such disparate elements as Montgomery's British and Canadians, Patton's tanks and where they overlapped De Tassigny's 1st French army.

American artillery with the South Vietnamese forces which had been battered a few times and lost some guns. Now the accent is on providing as much artillery as possible. That often is the big difference between a Saigon outfit and a Viet Cong unit.

Maj. Gen. Larsen started his career as a company commander of the 20th Division—the outfit now here in strength and liberally sprinkled with Hawaiians.

Every time he sees a Hawaiian soldier, he rushes over and gets into conversation. And when he can, he manages to have a veteran Hawaiian non-com at his elbow.

He trusts them. They worship him.

LEARN LESSONS

As the forces grow, it is the intention to move in strength with the single mission search and destroy.

Lessons are learned almost daily and the original directive to field forces has been shifted north. It directed the 101st Airborne and Korean marine force. In the early days, it was drive around Tuy Hoa which has liberated almost 28,000 tons of rice. Soapy Is Mum on His Plans

Evades Questions on Possible Senate Bid

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Former Gov. G. Mennen Williams sidestepped any direct comment Wednesday night on his possible political plans by saying "the field isn't open."

He spoke with newsmen prior to his address before the Michigan Conference of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

"I've got to wait until the proper time," he said when asked whether he would consider a run for the U.S. Senate. He has been mentioned as a contender for the post now held by Sen. Patrick V. McNamara, D-Mich.

"I'm for Sen. McNamara," said Williams. "If he decides not to go, then I'll run for it. He's done a great job for Michigan and I think he can take his time in making a decision."

AWAITING DECISION

Williams, now assistant secretary of state for African affairs, said McNamara has indicated he would make a decision by April.

The six-term governor declined comment on any of the announced candidates for Republican senatorial nomination.

"From what I know, they're all honest and decent people, he said.

Of the African nations, he said: "We can feel reassured that despite their problems with poverty, ignorance and food lack, none has become a Communist satellite." He spoke of favorable reception in 14 countries as a representative of the President's peace offensive.

Williams noted also that Red China had made a favorable impact on some African nations, but said it was on the wane in the last six months. "They apparently overplayed their hand and the Africans became wary of them," said Williams.

VIET POLICIES

Of Democratic party dissent to the President's policies on Viet Nam, Williams said: "It's a free country. Everybody is entitled to his opinion. I hope everyone ends up realizing what the facts are and moves in an effective way after that."

Williams said the proposed ban of Communist speakers from state college and universities was not a new question. "I think freedom of speech is an inherent part of university life," he said. "But in our competitive race for education, I think most of our students are reasonably mature and can handle this sort of thing," he said.

In his formal address, Williams said the President's determination "to enlist the resources of the United States in the war against hunger is something to which I can attest from personal observation."

He said the program basically envisions greater American farm production to meet all domestic and foreign requirements. "It gives farmers a chance to produce increased crops in a coordinated program...to put every food product to good use in the war against hunger instead of into surplus storage," he added.

CIA Officials Hunt Bright Grads for Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Central Intelligence Agency is on the lookout for bright young college students. The aim: to give them a promising job offer.

CIA officials acknowledged Wednesday that they have recruiting teams visiting some 100 college campuses interviewing students. In high demand are graduate students with enough basic scientific training to qualify for photo interpretation work.

On-campus recruiting has been going on for nearly 20 years, Col. Stanley J. Grogan, assistant to CIA Director Adm. William F. Raborn, said Wednesday.

"We try to get the very top people in academic standing," Grogan said.

NOT SPY WORK

Most CIA employees are engaged in analysis—and not in the kind of spy work made famous by the James Bond types.

CIA officials readily told of their recruiting program after some students at Grinnell College in Iowa picked one of their recruiters on campus.

U.S. Senate Plans to Start a Variety of Investigations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate today planned to trigger a wide variety of investigations into subjects ranging from narcotics smuggling to glue-sniffing — and possibly even dogsnapping.

Also on the docket for the coming year were investigations of high-risk auto insurance, advertising discrimination by television networks, reform schools and labor racketeering, among others.

The formal go-ahead signal was to come with Senate approval of a series of money resolutions providing funds for the various committees undertaking the inquiries. The total tab is about $5.8 million.

As usual the permanent investigations subcommittee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., and the antitrust and monopoly subcommittee, chaired by Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., will handle the bulk of the legislative sleuthing.

But Chairman Thomas J. Dodd's Juvenile Delinquency subcommittee also has a heavy schedule.

WIDE VARIETY

In his request for money, the Connecticut Democrat listed an assortment of investigations: narcotics smuggling; the so-called hallucination drugs; the "inexcessably deplorable conditions" in reform schools, foster homes and juvenile detention centers; and a follow-up to previous surveys of the "clandestine practice of glue-sniffing."

McClellan, the Senate's No. 1 investigator, also presented a full schedule for his panel.

Viet Program Slated

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Democratic Party plans to sponsor a "Background on Viet Nam" program Feb. 26 in Detroit. Five professors from Michigan, Michigan State and Wayne State Universities will present their views and answer questions.

Secret Passion Against Anonymity

One of Man's Biggest Ambitions Is to Be Different

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — The most saving grace of man is his desire to be different.

BOYLE

We live in an age of mass conformity. But no matter how meek and obedient to patterns and programs we all may be, each one of us has a secret passion against anonymity.

We rebel against the idea that we are merely interchangeable cogs. Our souls cry out: "I am not exactly like everybody else. I am different. I am me."

HUMAN NEED
If you become well enough acquainted with any person, you will find he cherishes some fact of distinction that yields him separate identity. It is a very inhuman need.

For example, once I met a man of late middle years, while reminiscing, remarked he had turned in two fire alarms during his life.

"What's so unusual about that?" One of his listeners asked.

"Well," said the man, "have you ever met anyone else who has turned in two fire alarms?"

FIRE ALARM
His point was obvious. Most people are born, married, raise a family, pay off a mortgage, and die without ever having turned in even one fire alarm.

Some people become standouts on purpose. Like Alexander the Great, they conquer the world. Or like Jim Moran, they sell a refrigerator to an Eskimo, and a needle in a haystack, or sit on an ostrich egg until it hatches.

Those are deliberate men of distinction. They win immortality or brief notoriety by great deeds or freak performances that catch the long admiration or short-lived attention of man.

William Shakespeare, naturally, will be remembered as long as the English language is. Turning to the other category, perhaps the name of Philip Yandzik already has faded from your memory. But in Chicago on April 25, 1955, Yandzik accomplished the record feat of consuming 77 hamburgers at one sitting.

To each his own. As long as both poetry and hamburgers have their admirers, neither Shakespeare nor Yandzik should be without fans. Each carved his own unmistakable niche in history.

But whether he seeks or avoids the glare of the limelight, a man can always find something in his life that lifts him from the dead level of the commonplace. Something has happened to him somewhere along the way that makes him different.

And the difference doesn't have to be an occurrence rich or greatly strange. In my boyhood in the Midwest, any man who had ever shaken the hand of John L. Sullivan could always gather an awed audience around him in a saloon — at least once, anyway. And in a small town, of course, you ranked as a local Marco Polo if you could describe first-hand the wonders of both the

Emotions Can Revive Illness

'Heart, Blood Activity Easily Conditioned'

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — Years may separate an emotional experience from heart failure, but that experience could still cause the attack.

The explanation for this phenomenon lies in the fact that heart beat, blood pressure and stroke susceptibility are among the most easily conditioned responses of the body, concluded an international group of scientists, meeting at Harvard University for the first assembly of the Pavlovian Society of America.

Attention in this country has been focused on diet as the primary cause of heart attack, remarked Dr. W. Horsley Gantt, president of the society. Few have recognized the enduring effect on the blood system of old, forgotten emotions.

Heart rate and blood pressure naturally rise in response to fear. It is now clear that they will also rise in response to something in itself completely harmless, but associated with fear in an individual's mind.

For example, a child is frightened by an accident and his blood pressure rises. He also notes the name of the street "Broadway."

BLOOD PRESSURE
Thereafter his blood pressure shoots up whenever he sees the word "broadway" or even "broad."

Perhaps the accident, and certainly the name of the street, is long lost to memory, but the cardiovascular system has been trained and continues to react.

Such conditioning of heart and blood activity is easier and lasts longer than any conditioned reflex of the muscles, Dr. Gantt said.

The father of conditioned reflex, I. P. Pavlov, had to ring his bell and feed his dog 20 to 30 times before the dog learned to salivate the bell alone, said Dr. Gantt. But the dog's heart rate was conditioned after one try.

Chronic malfunction of the blood pressure could be nothing more than reflex reactions to "bells" whose fearful or hateful associations have been forgotten. The person would not even know what he was reacting to, Dr. Gantt observed.

Grand Canyon and Niagara Falls.

Mulling over the distinctions that set me apart from my fellows, I think I have three that are perhaps noteworthy:

So far as I know, I am the only American who broke molar while chewing on a candy bar during our military campaign in Tunisia in 1943.

So far as I know, I am the only husband in the United States whose wife calls him "Rover."

So far as I know, I am the only living human being who has been hit by a parked bridge in Missouri while riding in an auto, struck by a motorcycle while watching a parade in Paris, and run over by a horse-drawn milk wagon in Greenwich Village.

These may be odd claims to individual fame, but they helped make me me. What happened to make you?

AFTER-INVENTORY

at exactly 1/2 off original prices!

These are oddments. The broken sizes, the ones-and-twos-of-a-kind, the slow sellers of 1965 that showed up in the inventory of our stores, including those in Jackson and Pittsburgh. But they're all dependable HHS quality. Most are famous brands in regular and summer weights. Still out they must go, and we've cut prices in half to make sure they do. (In fact, many are reduced to less than half.) Better hurry though . . . quantities are limited (quantities shown are those as of beginning of sale.) And the sale lasts for just two days, Friday and Saturday at our Pontiac Mall store. Open both days, 9 A.M. to 9 P.M.

Nasser Faced With Inner Power Fight

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

To UAR President Gamal Abdel Nasser's other woes has been added a power struggle within his own inner circle.

Bickering among the officers and Zakaria Mohieddin, also a Socialist but a moderate who as present premier has been entrusted with the job of extricating Egypt from its economic mess.

Mohieddin is a former director of intelligence and interior minister and is also a vice president in the UAR hierarchy. He is one of five remaining members of the 12-man junta that took over after Farouk's overthrow.

Natural death overtook one and the others either were fired by Nasser or quit over disagreements.

Sabry was a comparatively late comer but as political director in Nasser's cabinet and later as premier was considered second only to Nasser in power.

It was he who was supposed to have advised Nasser to seize the Suez Canal in 1956 and was a prime mover in Nasser's costly military adventure in the Yemen.

Last fall, when economic strains dictated that Nasser put on a new face toward the west, Sabry lost out and was named to the post of secretary general of Nasser's moribund political organization, the Arab Socialist Union. He did not accept his downgrading passively.

He continued to order cabinet ministers to report to him until Mohieddin blew up and forbade such meetings without his own specific approval.

Reportedly he also attempted to use his influence to prevent removal of Communists from the staff of the newspaper Al Akhbar. Nasser himself was said to have overruled him on this.

He also was told to have been overruled when he sought to remove political commissars within the army.

More recently he has argued that the UAR must return to former policies or suffer serious damage to its international prestige among other "revolutionary" countries.

DEMANDS FREE HAND

Mohieddin has demanded that he be given a free hand for at least a year to relieve the country of its economic ills. He has fostered better relations with the west and sought foreign investment. At home, he has introduced an austerity program which has included higher prices on consumer goods, limited installment buying and higher taxes.

The swelling membership literally created the Goldberger incident. American, as has TWA, United and other carriers, was forced to put a ceiling on new members because its clubs were becoming overcrowded.

Virtually every club has a long waiting list.

The clubs are located at major airports. Members pay no dues except at locations where state liquor laws require establishment of "bottle clubs."

Members may store their liquor at the clubs, pay for setup and also pay annual dues. Virtually all clubs sell drinks.

They are plush and pleasant with pretty receptionists (mostly ex-stewardesses) and such gimmicks as color television and phone service.

One issue being raised is that the airlines lose money operating their clubs. One estimate was that the combined annual deficit runs about $1 million.

The implication is that non-member passengers are subsidizing the clubs by paying fares which contribute to their cost of operation.

American, TWA and the other carriers deny this. Explains Marion Sadler, American's president:

"We've never claimed that the Admirals Clubs are run at a profit. But the loss is negligible—and if you consider the goodwill and continuing patronage the clubs create, they actually are a very profitable part of our over-all sales promotion. Counting a major source of business is a normal corporate practice."

Basically, this is the industry's answer to the discrimination charge.

Airline executives like Sadler dwell heavily on the value of the clubs to such frequent users of air travel as businessmen. "Frankly," says Sadler, "they wouldn't be of much use to the casual traveler who tends to go to the airport and get on his flight as soon as possible."

"A businessman, on the other hand, is involved with frequent connections for which he has to wait. He gets a lot out of a facility where he can meet with associates or customers, use the phones to arrange appointments and get some needed relaxation."

If the CAB rules that the clubs are discriminatory, the airlines might close them. At-flight is completely booked, further reservations requests must be placed on a waiting list."

The airlines claim that limiting membership is largely a means of preventing overcrowding.

"If applicants are deferred because of a lack of sufficient facilities, this is not an undue discrimination," American said in answer to Goldberger's complaint.

"The same is, of course, true of airline reservations. If a flight is completely booked, further reservations requests must be placed on a waiting list."

The alternative is to charge dues. TWA is actively considering this possibility.

Airline 'Clubs' Under Attack Again

By ROBERT J. SERLING
UPI Aviation Editor

WASHINGTON—The airlines may have to fight all over again a battle they thought they won four years ago.

An angry citizen named Herbert A. Goldberger is demanding that the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) investigate the legality of the airlines' private clubs—which cater to frequent air travelers and VIPs with special lounges open only to members.

American has its Admirals Club, Trans World its Presidents Club, United its red carpet rooms, Northwest its Top Flight Club, Pan American its Clipper Club and Braniff its International Council Club.

Goldberger, a Rhode Island businessman, tried to walk into the Admirals Club at Kennedy International Airport.

Because he was not a member, he was refused admittance.

WAITING LIST

He applied for membership but was told his application had to be put on a waiting list. Goldberger then made a formal complaint to the CAB against American.

"To the extent that American Airlines, Inc., has arbitrarily selected a segment of the traveling public to which they choose to extend additional and superior service, it is engaging in a discriminatory practice," he charged.

The word "discriminatory" is the key to the touchy case. The Federal Aviation Act prohibits "undue or unreasonable preference or advantage to any particular person."

The issue at stake is whether membership in an airline club with its admitted privileges constitutes undue discrimination against other passengers.

In 1962, the CAB's bureau of enforcement asked the board to investigate the clubs.

By a razor-thin 3-2 vote a year later, the CAB decided not to hold any proceeding.

But are board's membership has changed since then, and two of the three who voted against an investigation are no longer members.

Goldberger's attack on American could result in full-scale hearings affecting all airlines with similar clubs.

Exactly what are these clubs? American's Admirals was the first, founded in 1938 as a means of recognizing frequent customers of what was then a relatively infant industry.

It now numbers more than 90,000 members. TWA's Ambassador has about 100,000 members.

The swelling membership literally created the Goldberger incident. American, as has TWA, United and other carriers, was forced to put a ceiling on new members because its clubs were becoming overcrowded.

Jesse H. Voorhees Plans Ahead

His 91 Years Rest Lightly

By HOWARD HELDENBRAND

You'd think that one, who within days had lighted 91 candles on his birthday cake, would devote himself mainly to looking back. But that, says Jesse H. Voorhees, seen with his wife, Edith, in their 69th wedding anniversary picture on this page, is for really old folks.

The Voorhees peepers, bright and alert, focus unblinkingly on what's ahead.

This is not to say, however, that the nonagenarian hasn't a multitude of recollections on file. Like Jimmy Durante, he's "got a million of 'em." Touch on something — anything — and up comes a Voorhees recollection — live and in color.

Community golfers will quickly identify our subject as the entrepreneur of Bald Mountain Golf Club — an eminence (the layout's altitude is a lofty 1,941 feet) he has enjoyed since 1932.

By contrast, that year is indelibly etched in the minds of the older generation as the low spot of the depression — when everything went boom. But for Jesse H. everything went boom.

"Four years before," he recalls, "I had sold the family farm to a group of Detroiters, who developed the golf course. But as the depression worsened, the developers found themselves in a financial hole — in 18 of them, in fact — and in desperation decided the property back to me."

"Although it didn't appear so then, it was about the kindest deed anyone ever did me. Golfers began appearing on the fairways that had been as lifeless as a secondhand golf ball, and the course has flourished ever since."

PONTIAC RESIDENTS

Although Mr. and Mrs. Voorhees hold fast to a Pontiac residence, during summer months they occupy a cottage on the golf course. For a quarter-century or so, however, the couple has taken off right after Christmas for a four-month hibernation in Florida.

This year, the departure date was set back because last year the Squire of Bald Mountain got carried away by enthusiasm and added another nine holes to the course. Completion of some unfinished business prior to the upcoming season has kept his nose to the grindstone.

We asked the master of golf if he had played the game. He said that he had in the early days of his club ownership. Pressed for an indication of how he had scored, he shy replied that he had shot his age — his present age.

As this weight-fighting scrivener bade the 6-1½, 165-pound man an envious goodbye, he asked what sort of rigorous diet kept the Voorhees dimensions in such remarkable proportion.

Jesse H. had a quick answer: "I hold to an unchanging, practical diet which lets me eat practically anything and as much as I want — including candy."

Don't Have Boy Inside the House

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: My 18-year-old daughter is making a fuss because I object to her bringing a boy into the house when she returns home from a date and the family has gone to bed.

She says that that was probably frowned upon in my day but it is terribly outmoded today. She says, too, that none of her friends' parents object to their bringing their dates into the house and that I am being very narrow-minded.

I feel that I am right. What is your opinion on this?

A: Because some parents are very lax is no reason why you should be too and you are entirely right in objecting to your daughter bringing a boy into the house after the family have gone to bed.

The Emily Post Institute cannot answer personal mail, but all questions of general interest are answered in this column.

Dinner by ACE Has a Foreign Flavor, Music

An international dinner was held by the Association of Childhood Education, Pontiac Branch, Tuesday evening at LeBaron School.

Pictures and travel posters decorated the room where the group had a cooperative buffet dinner, featuring foods of other countries.

The McConnell school choir, directed by Valson Daugherty, presented a program of Russian, Polish, German and Moravian folk songs.

Special guests, Monika Wlazlawczyk of Germany and Lucia Rain of Argentina, spoke on differences between the schools in their countries and those in the United States.

Both girls are attending Pontiac Northern High School on the "Youth for Understanding" exchange program, initiated by the U. S. government.

Working on arrangements for the evening were Mrs. Terry Cantrell, Bonnie Davidson, Margaret Harth and Lester Stanley.

Sprightly Mrs. Sommers Has Tatted Since 1906

By MADELEINE DOEREN

The little town of Bethlehem in the Holy Land does quite a brisk business making and selling shuttles used in tating, a process of making lace by hand.

This looping and knotting of hard-twisted cotton or linen thread to form picots, or decorative loops around the edge of the lace is almost a lost art.

American tourists like to take home shuttles made of olive-wood from the Jordan, for those who edge handkerchiefs, towels, or place mats with the delicate motifs.

Plain silver shuttles cost from five to six dollars with carved ones bringing up to ten dollars.

Those of olive-wood cost about a dollar. Abalone, plain and carved mother-of-pearl and elegant shuttles carved with filigree are tagged from three to eight dollars.

Shuttles are also made in this country and in Canada.

STARTED YOUNG

Mrs. E. L. Sommers of Andersonville Road who turns out a prodigious amount of tating for her 75 years, learned the art when she was about 15.

"I won a small silver shuttle in a subscription drive for 'Comfort Magazine.' Seems as though I have been tating ever since."

"After my family was raised I began taking orders for my work. This led to re-orders like the Chicago woman who sends for 20 handkerchiefs every year for Christmas."

"Others go to New York, Florida, Ohio, to a postmistress down in Tennessee, even to Australia. The ones with the seven-inch butterfly corners are most popular."

Mrs. Sommers, whose mother and grandmother were avid tatters, started a "Tating Round Robin" in 1949. Bound together by their love of tating and desire for new patterns, these kindred spirits have kept tating alive.

NEED PATTERNS

They write to the thread companies begging for new pattern books and a few have created original patterns which have appeared in some women's magazines.

Mrs. Sommers formed several round robins at the same time. Some went a few rounds, then were lost, or just gradually tapered out.

"Like Tennyson's 'Brook' we go on forever," she says.

Among other tatted articles are gloves, handbag sets for eyeglasses, compacts and combs, medallions for collars, and of course the ubiquitous doilies.

In a yellowed issue of "Shuttle Art" formerly published in West Hartford, Conn., we found

Group Outlines Spring Schedule

The Auxiliary to the Italian American Club is planning an active spring social season.

Plans were made at a recent meeting for a mother-and-daughter banquet in the clubhouse on North Tilden, April 12, Mrs. Robert Ranzilla and Mrs. Verne Sinkler are cochairmen.

Mrs. Joseph Pollina is chairman for the May 11 card party.

Mrs. Paul Spadafore who hosted the meeting in her Voorhees Road home was assisted by Mrs. Charles Spadafore.

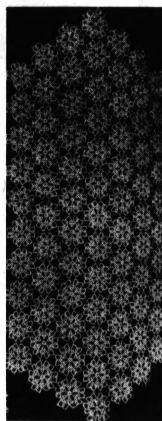

June vows are planned by Pamela (Wendi) Wiese, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter V. Wiese of Foxcroft, and Gail Broadwell Smith, son of the Broadwells

Openings for Volunteers Announced by Red Cross

Mrs. H. M. Winkley, Seminole Avenue, Pontiac, Michigan, Red Cross unit chairman of Pontiac General Hospital, announced today that applications are now being taken for women interested in joining over 50 Red Cross volunteers now serving at the hospital.

Mrs. Winkley said, "Rapid expansion of our volunteer work force is necessary because many duties have been assigned to the staff of Red Cross volunteers by the hospital."

TRAINING REQUIREMENTS

Basic and skills training is required of all new volunteers who will serve, so that they feel comfortable in their work assignments. Types of service Red Cross volunteers provide cover a wide range.

A few of the duties of Red Cross hospital volunteers are acting as receptionists, helping feed patients, arranging food trays, helping handicapped in and out of bed, assisting with clerical work, escorting patients, assisting with mail distribution and doing friendly hospital room visits.

A new area of volunteer service which has been recently initiated is volunteer coverage in the hospital emergency section. Women of all ages are needed. Choice of work hours and days

Suzanne Simula Becomes Bride-Elect

Former Keweenaw Bay residents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl S. Simula, now of Highland, announce the engagement of their daughter Suzanne to David Clare Davison, son of the Kenneth Davisons of Marion, Ind.

The bride-elect who is planning a June wedding is a graduate of St. Luke's Hospital School of Nursing, Marquette.

ings, using gold thread and many colorings in the work.

Some of the experts added beads and oddly carved articles to the tating. They have even made earrings tatted with sequins.

GOLD TATTING

In the Samuel Hill Castle Museum which overlooks the Columbia River near Maryhill, Wash., according to Shuttle Art, there is a hand bag of gold metallic thread made by the famous Carmen Silva of Rumania.

It is probably nine inches deep by six wide, with a tatted edging at the top. The body of the bag is of tatted medallions, each with a gold colored bead in the center. It is lined with gold cloth.

Mrs. Sommers who has been widowed 26 years ago lives within what she calls "screaming distance" of a son Francis, and a daughter, Mrs. Alvin Day (Clara) of Hogback Lake Road. Another daughter, Mrs. Max McMillan (Eleanor) is of Onaway.

She has eight grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Besides tating and raising cacti from seed, she cares for a collection of African violets and novelty plants like a burro's tail, also a five-foot milk tree cactus. She hooks and braids rugs, all made from woolen clothing.

"When I am so old I don't know what I am doing, then, I'll take up knitting," she says.

is up to the individual volunteer. Interviews of applicants will begin on March 3 and training classes will start early in March.

Applications may be obtained at the Pontiac Red Cross Regional Office, on Franklin Boulevard.

Jaycees Ready a Photo Contest for Youngsters

The Waterford Jaycee Auxiliary plans another Pixie King and Queen contest this year, in connection with the Jaycee Home and Sport Show in March.

Youngsters between the ages of two and four may be entered. Entry requirements are that the child's picture (any size up to 5x7) with age, name and phone number be sent to: Waterford Jaycee Auxiliary, 3582 David K. Waterford, Mich.

Deadline is March 12, and only the first 50 entries can be accepted.

King and queen voting, on a penny selection basis, will be March 19 at the fountain area of The Pontiac Mall and March 25 and 26 at the Jaycee Home and Sport Show at the Waterford CAI Building, Williams Lake Road.

Children of Waterford Jaycees are not eligible.

Slate March Vows

Arnold Rawlings of St. Clair Street and Mrs. Helene Lincoln of Brockton, Mass. announce the engagement of their daughter, Mildred Emelie, of Boca Raton, Fla. to Rush David Shuman, Jr. son of the senior Shumans of Lake Worth, Fla. A March 26 wedding in Boca Raton is being planned.

Joining Mrs. Foster (formerly Marilyn Kelvi) were Karen Bean Vratanian, Margaret Bevgovich, Norma Klukos and Dolores DePauw Hancock.

Others were Frederick Smith, Stuart Choate, Charles Billings and Thomas Course.

Road Safety Will Be Topic for Sessions

Traffic safety problems for today and tomorrow will be explored in two women's conferences at Michigan State University Feb. 18-20 and Feb. 26-28.

More than 150 safety leaders from the National Extension Homemakers Council and from Pilot Clubs, International, in many states will participate.

Information from the conferences will be by local leaders to about 775,000 extension homemakers and about 14,000 Pilot Club members throughout the country.

DOCTORS TO TALK

Dr. Frederick C. Swartz, Lansing, chairman of the geriatrics committee of the American Medical Association, will speak on aging, and Dr. Donald Damstra, Brighton Hospital medical director, on the effects of alcohol, drugs and disease on driving proficiency.

Theme for the second session is "Traffic Safety in Tomorrow's World." About 100 leaders from 42 states will attend. There also will be a delegate from Puerto Rico.

Program directors and safety chairmen will study safety education, legislation needs and women's role in fulfilling them.

The conferences are continuing education activities of the MSU Highway Traffic Safety Center.

Band Alumni Set Harris Dinner

Mrs. Harold J. Foster of Maxwell Road was hostess for a meeting of the Pontiac Band alumni reunion committee Tuesday evening.

The group met to make plans for a reunion dinner honoring Dale C. Harris, former Pontiac Central High School band conductor for many years. The affair is planned for March 19 at Devon Gables.

Joining Mrs. Foster (formerly Marilyn Kelvi) were Karen Bean Vratanian, Margaret Bevgovich, Norma Klukos and Dolores DePauw Hancock.

Others were Frederick Smith, Stuart Choate, Charles Billings and Thomas Course.

Crofoot PTA is sponsoring a panel discussion tonight at 7:30 in the multipurpose room on "Where Pontiac Stands in Human Relations." Panel members (from left) are Rev. Richard J. Reynolds, assistant minister First Presbyterian Church; Mrs. Richard Craig, Pleasant View Drive, a teacher; Roy B. MacAfee, executive director of the Housing Commission; and James M. McNeely, director of OEO. The meeting is open to the public.

Give Them Alternative

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE CASE Y-443: Norma D., aged 11, is a rebellious child.

"Dr. Crane," her worried mother began, "Norma resents taking orders from me or even her daddy."

"She has an older sister who may have been too bossy with Norma so maybe that is why she is now trying to assert her independence."

"But she takes a hostile attitude whenever I assign her a task around the house."

"What can I do to reduce this friction?"

One of the easiest ways to diminish such family friction is to offer your child a choice.

"Do you wish to wash the dinner dishes or dry them?" thus diverts Norma's mind.

Actually, she probably doesn't want to do either!

But by giving her two choices, she tends to forget her basic dislike of working in the kitchen as she tries to figure out which will be the easier task.

As a variation, and to add more zest to family chores, you parents can list one task on each of several bits of cardboard or slips of paper.

Then shake them up in a cardboard box or jar, and let each worker, blindfolded, pick one card out of the box.

If he then draws a disliked task, he can't blame you parents greatly for he feels he had a free choice!

In fact, if anybody is to be criticized, he will probably take out his ire on Lady Luck.

Alas, many modern children are not being taught to do their proper amount of work around the house, so be sure you train your children to make their own beds, and shoulder other household duties.

Then there will be no ceiling on the amount of money they can have, for if they work harder, they will earn more.

Neat for Bottles

Thumbtack loops of elastic along the sides of a dresser drawer. Place bottles in loops. This keeps the drawer neater and saves you from loss and messy cleanup jobs due to spills.

Here's Good Idea for Hemstitching

Wrap a piece of colored cloth around your index finger on your left hand before you start hemstitching by hand.

You can then see the threads that you aim to pick up better as they lay over the finger. Tweezers are a great aid in pulling threads in material prior to hemstitching.

Knowledge Can Halt Illness

Women's Medical News Service BERLIN, West Germany — People who follow health news in newspapers or magazines and on radio and TV often prevent serious illness from developing by consulting their physicians when symptoms first appear.

They are often able to describe their symptoms accurately and thus assist the doctor in making correct diagnoses.

This commendation of the mass media comes from Drs. Diegfried Scheffler and Helmut Klepzig who questioned 200 of their patients in order to evaluate the effect of the news media on health education.

Contrary to popular opinion, the researchers found that such reading does not cause patients to develop imaginary illnesses or to take their illnesses more seriously than they should.

Spanish Rice Recipe Uses Pork, Shrimp

Pontiac Press Food Editor

This kind of weather calls for hearty main dishes such as Spanish Rice.

Mrs. Bratchard Williams has a really different recipe for this standby; a cousin of hers brought it right from Spain.

Mrs. Williams is the mother of two married daughters and one small son — also a grandmother of one.

When she is not working in a local hospital, she likes to do flower arranging or work on the hooked rug she is making for in front of her fireplace.

SPANISH RICE
By Mrs. Bratchard Williams

2 cups rice
1 can (No. 2½) tomatoes
1 green pepper
3 pounds pork steak

pinch of saffron
2-3 cloves of garlic
1 pimiento
¼ cup cooking oil
1 medium onion
1 can shrimp
¼ cup dry white wine

Heat oil in skillet. Add garlic, chopped onion and diced green pepper. Cook until onion is golden brown.

Force tomatoes through a colander and add to mixture in skillet.

In a separate pan partially cook meat, then dice and add to first mixture. Cover and simmer 20-30 minutes until meat is cooked.

Add wine in three separate portions, stirring all the time. Add 4 cups of water. When boiling, add salt to taste, the rice, pimiento, saffron and shrimp. Cover tightly. Don't peek; don't stir. Cook 20-30 minutes. Makes 5-6 servings.

Swinger Deals Mean Hand to Females in Game of Love

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My friend Mary, met John five years ago. They fell deeply in love. John told Mary that he had been separated from his wife for 25 years and had no intention of divorcing and remarrying.

Mary gave up all her social contacts to devote time to John. John also told Mary two nights each week he had to entertain a girlfriend of long standing for whom he had great compassion, but to whom he couldn't reveal the fact that he was in love with Mary.

Mary is heartbroken and feels she cannot share John with another woman. How can this be worked out?

ABBY

DEAR "PUZZLED": If you will pardon me, I am "puzzled" as to why you are trying to help "heartbroken Mary" work out an adulterous dilemma with a swinger like John.

As I see it, the only thing John "deeply loves" is his appetite for females. So tell Mary she can't win in this game because John is holding all the aces, plus two queens.

And the old curmudgeon is probably dealing from the bottom.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know who thought up that "show and tell" idea but it's time someone put a stop to it. In case you've never heard of it, the teacher asks her pupils to bring an interesting object to school and tell the class about it.

She urges them to bring something unusual, that the other kids have never seen before, so you can imagine how frightening the possibilities are.

Abby, I always thought teachers were paid to teach kids what's in the books, not to encourage them to bring stuff from home and run off at the mouth about it.

Youngsters don't always have the best judgment, you know. Well, last Halloween my husband went to a costume party too thick to ignore. I would have promptly (and privately) called the hostess' attention to the son had brought a pair of size 44 "faibles" to show the class what his FATHER wore under his DRESS! See what I mean?

AGAINST SHOW AND TELL

DEAR ABBY: The other evening my husband and I attended a dinner party for four couples at the home of some friends.

The hostess went all out to set a lovely table, using fresh flowers and candles. When we sat down we were horrified to see the plates in front of us covered with dust thick enough to draw pictures on! All the other guests noticed it, but no one said anything.

I can't understand how the host and hostess missed it. We all ate off those dusty plates, but it wasn't easy knowing that germs live in dust.

Would you have eaten off those plates, Abby? How could the hostess have been told of our embarrassment?

Harvard Reports Winning Gamble in Scholarships Given Poverty-Stricken Youths

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The boys who learned their first lesson in the slums when they probably never dreamed of college have made their mark at Harvard.

Harvard's deans said today the college has won its gamble on more than 200 youths it has admitted since 1967 who never would have qualified if judged on their college board test grades.

The 200, chosen partly for their courageous response to a poverty-stricken upbringing, are no ordinary scholarship holders. Most were raised in city slums. Many attended unaccredited high schools. More than 50 per cent are Negroes. A few are the sons of maids and migrant workers.

LAUDS RESULTS

The results of one of the first college recruiting efforts of its kind were termed "amazing" by the dean of admissions, Fred L. Glump, in an interview.

Eighty-five per cent of those selected have graduated, a number with honors and one with a Rhodes scholarship.

The students have kept pace academically with their more fortunate associates from, the nation's best preparatory schools and its academically strong public high schools.

And they've done it, Dean Glump says, "without overcompensating, without burning all the bridges of their past behind them."

It began when Harvard's deans were mulling the question of how much weight college board scores should be given in the cases of boys raised in poverty and educated in standard quality schools.

The result was establishment of what became known as "The Gamble Fund."

The drive to ferret out promising students was spearheaded by alumni interviewers across the country and organizations working among the poor of all race and nationality backgrounds.

The students were disadvantaged not only in an economic sense.

In many cases, their families had histories of mental problems. A few parents had even advised their sons "to quit school and go to work and amount to something," Glump said.

Dean Glump said Harvard was looking for "boys who are tough, in the psychological sense, the resilient."

The college board scores of the disadvantaged students are generally in the 400s. Most others who get into Harvard these days score in the high 600s and in the 700s.

The 85 per cent figure for Gamble Fund graduates is six per cent less than the one for other students.

Those in the disadvantaged category usually left school because "things were always going wrong at home while they were here," Glump said.

Junior Editors Quiz on CORAL

QUESTION: How is coral made?

ANSWER: Phyllis admires the beautiful coral necklace her father gave her for a birthday present. Coral looks like stone, and, indeed, it is a limestone formed by tiny animals called polyps.

The polyps look like minute flowers, but the petals are really tentacles surrounding a mouth which is on top of a sack-like body.

Needing protection and support, the polyps take calcium which is dissolved in sea water and deposit it around their bodies in the form of hard calcium carbonate.

Most coral animals crowd together, their combined cups forming many strange and beautiful shapes.

Billions of these little animals made the famous coral reefs.

Corals need water at temperatures above 70 degrees, so they are found only in tropical and subtropical areas.

Corals provide the foundation for many of the romantic tropical islands, some of which, the atolls, are circular in shape, with coral reefs surrounding an area of quiet water, the lagoon.

FOR YOU TO DO: The kind of coral used for jewelry, often red, rose or pink and beautifully polished, is called precious coral and comes from the Mediterranean Sea and Japan. See if you can swap to get a bit for your mineral collection.

Georgia Jury Mostly Negro

ELLAVILLE, Ga. (UPI) — Marshall J. rejected King's motion for a change of venue, noting that 33 of the 38 prospective jurors were Negroes. Eleven were seated on the jury, with killing a white policeman.

The case of Charles Hunter, 15, was expected to go to a Schley County jury of 11 Negroes and 1 white man this afternoon.

Hunter and his brother, Willie, 19, who will be tried later, are charged with murder in the Nov. 14 shooting of policeman John Hardin, 46, about a mile outside this rural southwest Georgia town following a high-speed chase.

When the trail began Tuesday, defense attorney C. B. King raised an argument common in the South in trials of Negroes for major crimes — that is, that Negroes are systematically excluded from juries.

Superior Court Judge T. O.

Greene suffered knife wounds in an attack the state says occurred after the officers chased a car full of Negroes that sped through Ellaville and later crashed.

Sheriff W. M. Ellis testified that young Hunter admitted to him in a jail at Americus, Ga., that he shot Hardin (Marshall) overruled King's objection to the admissibility of the alleged confession) and that he thought the youth was "intoxicated" when arrested.

Writers' Trial Hurts Soviet Image, Illuminates Again Red Fear of Slightest Criticism

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Reaction to Moscow's show trial of two writers adds up to general agreement that the Soviet leadership damaged itself badly. It illuminated once again, for the world to see, a weakness of Communist dictatorship: Fear of even the breath of criticism.

Communist leaders outside the Soviet Union indicate they have been jolted and that they expect their parties to be hurt by the conviction of the two writers on charges of slandering the U.S.S.R. by publishing books abroad.

The event brings up the specter of forced labor camps, of thought control and other aspects of Stalinism which Soviet leaders had professed to reject. The prosecution attacked writer Andrei D. Sinyavsky and Yuli M. Daniel on the assumption that they served Western anti-Soviet propaganda. Between the lines, the real fear of the Soviet leaders seems to shine through.

Defendant Daniel got to the heart of the matter when he accused him of slandering the U.S.S.R. with unbelievable imputations. Retorted Daniel: "If it is clear that no one could believe it, how could you suggest that any slander is involved?"

It appears that fear of Western barbarism which stands out in sharp relief on the doomsday of the party does now, and must accept as a fact that there are substantial forces among Soviet intellectuals who have a strong influence for social change, who demand a reasonable amount of individual freedom and a right to think.

The trial was, in a sense, a reversion to Stalinism. Telling writers what to write and every-

Aide Notes Bright Side to Some Traffic Jams

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Traffic jams have a bright side, according to Rex W. Whitton, federal highway administrator.

Whitton, addressing a group of businessmen here recently, said that when city streets become choked with traffic "this is not so much a symptom of illness as it is proof that the city master of everything has been very much alive."

body what to think is Stalinism, the field of mastery over individuals' thinking, now clearly is challenged, despite the punishment of the two writers.

Thus the see-sawing struggle in the background in which, every so often, the party has felt impelled to crack down to insure its future authority.

Pravda, the Communist party paper for example, has complained periodically about such things as "ideological immaturity" among university students and other intellectuals who tend to question and even reject glib aspects of Marxist-Leninist theory. Thousands of students have been evicted from higher education institutions on such grounds alone.

Restlessness among the rising Soviet generation is obvious, along with growing skepticism and disillusion with an older generation which accepted issues for so long. Writers are probed for reasons for the restlessness, and often probed too deeply.

The doctrine that the party is the master of everything has been questioned. Its claim, at least in the field of mastery over individuals' thinking, now clearly is challenged, despite the punishment of the two writers.

Communist parties in Italy, France, England and elsewhere in advanced countries are embarrassed. If this still is the image of communism projected by the leading Communist power, the parties will have a tough time explaining to people they most want to attract—intellectuals who mold opinion.

Thus, Communist parties in Europe and elsewhere have felt obliged to join a chorus of revolution. The Italian Communists, aware of the fierce independence of Italian intellectuals,

Dispute Over Red Speaker Pigeonholed

LANSING (AP) — A legislative controversy trailing for the past week in the wake of Herbert Aptheker, an avowed communist historian, ended in a House committee pigeonhole Wednesday.

On a 4-4 vote, the House Policy Committee failed to approve a resolution congratulating state colleges and universities for their "staunch support of freedom of speech and exchange of intellectual ideas."

House leaders said no further attempt would be made to resurrect the issue.

Sponsors said the House resolution was intended to neutralize one passed last week 15-14 in the Senate, urging state college and university presidents to ban Communist speakers from their campuses.

BIRMINGHAM SOLON

Senate action erupted on Aptheker speeches at University of Michigan, Michigan State and Wayne State.

Voting against the laudatory resolution were Reps. Albert Horrigan, D-Flint, chairman; Dominic Jacobetti, D-Negaunee; Roy Spencer, R-Attica; and Donald Pears, R-Buchanan.

Voting for it were Reps. James Bradley, D-Detroit; William Boos, D-Saginaw; Vincent Pettipren, D-Wayne; and William Hampton, R-Birmingham.

Neither resolution had the weight of law. Both were intended to express legislative intent.

RESOLUTION SPONSORS

The laudatory resolution was sponsored by Democratic Reps. Jack Faxon and Thomas White of Detroit, and Daniel Cooper of Oak Park.

State-supported schools have adopted a uniform policy that allows any speaker on campus as long as he is sponsored by a Horrigan voiced virtually the only opposition to the resolution.

"Ten thousand miles away (in Viet Nam) we are fighting a war against these people; an American wanders across the Soviet border, gets sent to Siberia and commits suicide—and we are letting these jerks speak at our universities," he said.

Said Cooper, "Freedom of speech cannot be tested by granting it only to those who preach orthodox philosophies. I have confidence in our students—that they will reject inimical philosophies voluntarily."

Big Migration May Be Over

THURS., FRI., SAT.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—The great migration to California may have skidded to a halt, bewildered population experts report.

If key statistical indicators are to be believed, the ranks of Californians which just two years ago swelled to more than New York, increased only slightly—if at all.

"I don't believe it, but this is the only solid figure we've got," said Walter P. Hollman, chief of the population studies staff in the State Department of Finance.

Hollman said the chief indicator is based on a theory that—except for migration—the number of second through seventh graders in one year will equal the number of third through eighth graders in the next.

For years, the increase bounced along at 21,000 or more, but last year it was 472.

HARD TO BELIEVE

"This is nothing. If I believed it, immigration stopped," Hollman said.

There were other indications that the steady movement to California ended.

There were fewer out-of-state passenger car registrations and a decline in the number of out-of-state drivers seeking a California license.

Brief Therapy on Mental Ills Said Success

By Science Service

LOS ANGELES—Tranquilizers and 10 to 20 minutes per week with the psychiatrist have been as successful as traditional 50-minute therapy in handling some kinds of mental disturbance, it was reported here.

The four-year study with "brief contact therapy" was done by Drs. Ronald R. Kessler, Edward W. Forgy, Norman W. Brill and Leon J. Epstein of the University of California at Los Angeles.

It was emphasized that the new "brief contact therapy" in no way replaces the need for long-term, insight-producing psychotherapy in those cases where such therapy is indicated.

It is just another method of therapy which appears to work well with many patients, the UCLA researchers said.

They found that many psychiatric patients responded well when seen every week or so for 10 to 20 minutes only and usually given a tranquilizer.

MUCH PROGRESS

They often seemed to make as much progress as patients receiving the usual 50-minute psychotherapy session program. Average period of treatment was four months.

Marked improvement was maintained for 10 to 18 months after treatment was discontinued, according to follow-up studies.

Whether or not improvement can be called permanent is not yet known. Nor is it clear that the effect of new therapy is as deep-rooted as that of traditional methods.

Chiefs Slowed in Downing Northern

Huskie Attack Led by Sophs in 54-41 Loss

Traylor's 13 Points Pace PNH; Evans Sparks Central

By DON VOGEL

Pontiac Northern succeeded in slowing Central's bid for the championship last night, but that was Central's Chiefs, obviously not "up" for the game, were bothered by PNH's slowdown tactics before coming to life briefly in the third period to take command for good in a 54-41 triumph.

It was the second win this season for PNH over the Huskies and increased the Chiefs margin to 16-2 in the basketball series.

The sophomore-dominated Huskies were four out in the starting lineup and five on the floor at one time during the game—outplayed the highly rated Chiefs on occasion and might have pulled an upset if they had more experience.

Coach Dick Hall's strategy was to take only percentage shots. In order to accomplish this the Huskies used a deliberate offense. It worked for the first 12 minutes of the game.

But senior Bob Harris' four baskets, the Huskies stayed close to the Chiefs during the first quarter and then took a 19-18 lead in the opening minutes of the second quarter as sophomore Dana Coit's two free throws and short jumper.

But Jessie Evans, who took game scoring honors with 17 points, put the Chiefs back on top, 22-21, with 4:32 to play in the opening half.

PNH led the rest of the way, but the Huskies could very easily have held the halftime lead instead of trailing, 29-22.

NO SCORING

After Evans' basket, three and half minutes went by before either team could score. Prentice Hill of PNH finally broke the ice with a long jump shot and Evans followed with two quick baskets around a free throw by PNH's Rick Rhoney, another sophomore.

Coin, sophomores Don Hayward and Bob Traylor wrestled control of the backboards away from the taller, more experienced Chiefs in the second quarter.

Traylor was a pleasant surprise for the Huskies. He and sophomore Stan Allison made their second varsity appearances. Both started.

Traylor led a PNH rally in the third quarter that cut the Chiefs lead to 37-32 with 4:05 to play. The 6-2 forward caused three baskets and went on to lead PNH in scoring with 13 points and in rebounding with 15.

After Traylor's layup cut PNH's lead to five points, the Huskies started to show their inexperience by taking unnecessary shots and being caught out of position under the boards.

Northern went eight minutes and 37 seconds without a field goal. Rhoney's free throw was the only point during that stretch and the Chiefs pulled away to a 53-33 lead.

Harris, who started fast and finished with 12 points, was hampered by the first-half fouls and Traylor was slowed after drawing No. 4 in the third quarter.

Ross Ludwick was the steady test PNH player. Although off in his shooting (one for eight) which limited him to six points, the senior forward topped the Chiefs in rebounding with 15 and held Hayward to five field goal tries and only two points. Hayward had been averaging 11.1 going into the game.

Bengals' Irishman Tries Latin Lingo

By BRUNO L. KEARNS

Sports Editor, Pontiac Press
LAKELAND, Fla.—A hot-tempered Irishman is bad enough, but try watching a mild-tempered Irishman attempting to do something to a non-English speaking baseball player.

Pat Mullin is that Irishman, and in the early training camp of the Detroit Tigers at Tiger-town, there's a possible infield that could twist the tongue of any coach or play-by-play game announcer.

With Julio Navarro or Orlando

Pena on the mound, the Tigers could put together an infield made up of Julio Perez at first, Hilario Candido Molina Rojas at second, Enderito Lopez at short and Jose Cepeda at third.

"Oh, no," said Mullin, who has the task of tutoring these rookies in the batting cage or at the plate.

"Hey—Jose," as Mullin calls them all, "You, huh, hit ze ball."

"Me, Julio (who-Leo), no

Jose," replied Perez. "Me hit." "Yes, you Julio. You no hold right when finish swing" (pause, silence, no response).

Mullin — thinking out loud, "Let's see I'll try again."

"You, Julio, you make 'em wrist come up on top. No swing this way, okay?"

"Si, coach, si."

CENTRAL TOWER

Meanwhile, back at the central tower of Tiger-town away from the batting cage, and across the outfield where building of the new $350,000 Marchant Stadium was progressing, rookies and a scattering of veterans went through workouts in temperatures of 90 degrees.

At Ty Cobb and Charlie Gehringer diamonds, the Black Soxers, coached by Frank Skaff, Don Lund and Bernie De Vries, were getting ready for their Tiger-town intra-squad series with the Strippers, coached by Mullin, George Spencer and Mike Roarke.

Inside the stadium, manager Charlie Dessen was giving Al Kaline, Hank Aguirre and Mickey Lolich a tour of the new locker room facilities, the field and the dugout.

The stadium is being built by the City of Lakeland and for the first time since 1924, the Tigers will play their exhibition games away from Henley Field which will be used by the city recreation department.

Atlanta Drafts Williams

'The Fearsome Foursome' Era Ends

DETROIT (AP)—The Fear-

some Foursome now is only three.

Defensive end Sam Williams was one of a trio of Detroit Lions drafted Wednesday to stock the new Atlanta Falcons in the National Football League.

Williams, a 6-foot-3, 235-pound veteran, was picked with offensive linemen Jim Simon and Bob Whitlow in the Falcons' draft of 42 players from established NFL clubs.

Alex Karras, Roger Brown, Darrin McCord and Williams made up the defensive forward wall that gave the Lions one of the toughest lines in the NFL last year.

"I'm glad to get out," Williams said. "There was a lot of unrest between the coaches and the ball players."

Williams criticized Head Coach Harry Gilmer, quarterback Milt Plum and the hand-

COGILL, ECHOED

In doing so, Williams echoed some of the criticism credited two weeks ago to defensive end Gail Cogill.

Cogill later was suspended indefinitely by Gilmer.

Williams said Gilmer lost control of the Lions when he failed to discipline Looney for training infractions.

"The guys figured, 'Well, if he can get away with it, why can't we—why do we have to follow training rules if he doesn't'?"

Williams said Looney looked good in preseason exhibition games, but was disappointing in the regular season.

TOO NICE?

He said Plum was "a hell of a nice guy—too nice, if anything," but added he should have taken more rigorous command of the team on the field.

"Getting Williams was a pleasant surprise," said Falcon Coach Norb Hecker. "He's a good experienced hand. We're sure he can help us for a couple of years."

Hecker expressed no concern over hints Williams, now 35, would retire before next season.

"We don't expect him to retire," Hecker said. "In fact, we expect each and every one of them (the 42 draftees) to show up."

Several Lions regulars expressed shock over the news of Williams departure.

"Whitlow and Simon I had figured," said Tommy Watkins. "But Sam Williams? You're kidding."

LOVABLE GIANT

"It comes as a real shock to me," Karras said. "Sam was

Boston Nips Detroit, 5-4

Former Teammate Jolts Wings

DETROIT (AP)—

Shortly after the Detroit Red Wings swapped Pit Martin to the Boston Bruins Jan. 1 in a trade for Parker MacDonald, Martin scanned his new teammates and announced:

"I'm real happy here."

The Wings, however, are not so happy to have him there. Martin scored three goals and set up the tie-breaker Wednesday night as the Bruins snapped a long hex by whipping Detroit goal lead, 4-2, on a goal by Bill

Gadsby in the opening minute of the third period before Martin completed his hat trick with a 24-foot shot at 2:34.

John McKenzie tied the score at 13:07 before Ron Stewart chased in a rebound of a shot by Martin at 14:49 of the decisive tally.

It was the Bruins' first victory over Detroit since the final weeks of last season.

Boston completely dominated the third period, outshooting the wings 25-11 and finishing with a shooting advantage of 47-32.

Martin first scored at 2:13 of the first period before Floyd Smith, Bruce MacGregor and Norm Ullman, the ex-Wing then brought the count to 4-2 by stealing the puck from the second Marshall at 14:54 of the second stanza.

Huskies Suffer Tank Drubbing at Fitzgerald

Pontiac Northern's swimmers received a lesson from Warren Fitzgerald's talented team Wednesday night.

A 68-31 dunking from the Spartans left PNH with its fourth loss in 10 dual meets this season. Steve Yedin, a strong freestyler, posted two of Northern's three individual firsts.

The other was by Carl Hiller in the breaststroke. Hiller set a varsity record but finished second in the 200-yard individual medley. Les McCormick's 2:10 timing was 4 better than Hiller's and set a new Fitzgerald pool mark.

Madison set two pool and school records and tied another pool mark in handling Utica 64-41 setback.

Russ Gill set a mark of $1.0 in the 100-yard freestyle and co-captain Mike Machniak tied the pool mark in swimming the 100-yard backstroke in 1:01.5.

Machniak and Gill teamed with Bob Swanson and Tom Renshaw in setting a pool and school record of 1:49.0 in the 200-yard medley relay.

In Dueling EML Fives

I-L Eyes Even Mark

Members of the Inter-Lakes League will get a chance to even their season basketball series with schools from the Eastern Michigan League tomorrow night.

But the prospects for this happening are not good.

Waterford and Walled Lake will play the role of underdogs while Farmington is a slight favorite. Pontiac Northern's scrap with Port Huron Central is rated a tossup.

The EML holds a 6-2 edge this season. The game lineup will find Roseville at Waterford, East Detroit, the state's top-ranked Class A team, at Walled Lake and Mount Clemens at Farmington.

PNH will play host to the Port Huron quintet.

LOSING STREAK

The Huskies of PNH will be trying to snap a five-game losing streak in taking on Port Huron, which has won only once in 14 games.

Walled Lake has lost 13 in a row and coach Ken Butler and the Vikings may suffer their worst beating of the season in tangle with East Detroit.

Waterford, with a 7-7 record, has failed to come up with the scoring balance it needs to keep a win streak going. The Skippers have won four of their last six games and they'll have to be at their best to halt Roseville (8-5).

Improving Farmington (11-4),

Inter-Lakes champion, has won seven in a row and should roll past Mount Clemens (8-6).

In the Tri-County League, Kettering will try to keep its unbeaten string in league action tonight with a game at Romeo.

LEAGUE CHAMP

Kettering owns a 13-1 record and has already wrapped up the league championship.

Another Tri-County game will find Oxford (5-10) looking for its second win in a row in a contest against visiting Lapeer, (6-8).

"They sure took a long way off," retorted Aguirre. "Maybe, his good psychology for the pitcher to have him thinking the batter won't be putting them over the wall," came a reply from Lolich.

"Oh, yeah, that's what I thought last year in that exhibition game in Atlanta against the Braves," said Aguirre. "Bang, bang, bang, and three of them went over the wall."

Kaline, who said his operation on his foot in October caused a little soreness during mild winter workouts, was concentrating his workouts in early camp on running and light batting cage drills.

During the tour of the stadium, Lolich, who impressed Dreesen with his 15-9 record last year, stopped to talk to one of the construction workers.

The sturdy-built worker's name was Bill McCloud and Lolich remembered that McCloud had pitched against him during a stint in the minors.

"He had an 18-0 record last year at Pittsfield, a Red Sox farm," Lolich noted about McCloud.

"An 18-0 record?" questioned Aguirre. "What's he doing here?"

"Making money," came the reply.

"Say, Mr. Foreman, where do I apply for a job," jested Aguirre.

Lolich then learned that Mc-

Michigan Tech Cracks Losing Streak, 90-86

Calvin Halts Adrian; Hope Nips Olivet; Hillsdale Triumphs

HOUGHTON (AP)—Michigan Tech scored its first basketball victory in 14 games Wednesday night, defeating Northland, Wis., 90-86.

Frank Sahmlan and Pete Wickley led Tech with 18 points each, but Jim Hanrahan of Northland led all scorers with 37.

Tech is 2-13 for the season, Northland is 1-18.

ADRIAN (AP)—Calvin rebounded from a 16-point halftime deficit Wednesday night and downed Adrian 85-41 in an MIAA basketball game.

With seconds to go in regulation time, Calvin's Wes DeMots sank a field goal to knot the score at 75-75.

DeMots and Adrian's Ron Stevens led all scorers with 21 points each.

Adrian is 2-7 in MIAA play and 3-13 overall. Calvin is 8-1 in the league and 14-5 for the season.

TOP SCORER

Olivet, ahead 31-28 at halftime, was led by Walt Luttrell with 13 points.

Hope is 8-1 in conference play and 12-7 for the season. Olivet is 5-5 in the MIAA and 9-9 overall.

ALBION (AP)—Albion led most of the way Wednesday night and defeated Alma 77-63 in an MIAA basketball game.

The Britons, ahead 41-32 at the half, were led by Larry Downs with 18 points.

Rick Warmbold of Alma led all scorers with 19 points.

Albion is 7-11 for the season and 4-5 in the conference. Alma is 1-17 for the year and 1-7 in the MIAA.

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP)—Hillsdale defeated University of Windsor 108-41 basketball Wednesday night as the Dales hit on 69 per cent of their shots from the field. Windsor had a 37 per cent average.

WINNING MARCH

The triumph gave Independent Hillsdale a 14-8 record. Windsor is 10-13.

Bob Nevate of Windsor was top scorer with 23 points. Bob Acton led the Dales with 19.

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Aquinas, with five men scoring 20 or more points, downed Ferris State 113-95 in a nonconference basketball game Wednesday night.

Ahead 61-39 at the half, Aquinas was led by Dennis Alexander with 25 points. Jerry Robertson led the Bulldogs with 19.

Aquinas is 9-11 for the season, Ferris State is 4-12.

Late Basket Brings City 'Five' First Win

A 15-foot jump shot by Herb Miller with 15 seconds to play broke a 52-all tie and carried the win was the first of the season for P.O.H. and came on the final night of loop play in the International League.

The All Stars won the nightcap, 62-51, over Autobahn Motors.

P.O.H. trailed by two points at intermission, took a three-point lead after three quarters, then had to overcome a strong closing rush by the unblemished John Herring took game scoring honors with 19 points.

Miller's 18 topped P.O.H. which now will open the Class C city playoffs at 7 p.m. Monday against Autobahn at Lincoln.

Autobahn last night faded in the second half against the second-place All Stars who only led, 29-27, at the half. Ed DeRoock had 12 of his 22 points in the winners' closing half.

Lee Collins' 16 points in the opening half kept Autobahn in the contest. He finished with 22, also.

In Class D action, Perry Park ripped All Saints, 54-23, and East Side trimmed the All Stars, 62-50. Leading the Juniors' score was Al Hirsch of East Side with 19 points. Perry Park had three players in twin figures.

Oklahoma City, Loyola Impressive

Top Independents Eye NCAA Tournament Berths

By The Associated Press

Chicago Loyola and Oklahoma City, two of the nation's top independents, have moved closer to their objective of landing a bid to next month's NCAA tournament which determines the national collegiate basketball champion.

The Loyola Ramblers, fourth-ranked nationally in this week's Associated Press poll, invaded Dayton, Ohio, Wednesday night and scored an impressive 77-72 victory over the Dayton Flyers, another leading independent. It was Loyola's 19th victory against two defeats.

The Oklahoma City Chiefs also won impressively on the road. They came from 12 points back to defeat West Texas 87-80.

at Canyon, Tex. It was the Chiefs' 10th in a row, their 14th victory in their last 15 games and topped their season record to 20-3.

Penn State, Virginia Tech and Temple similarly kept alive their hopes for a postseason tournament bid.

SECOND GAME

Penn State 144, rolled over West Virginia 108-81 for its 25th straight home court victory. Virginia Tech, 17-4, downed The Citadel on the road 67-41. Temple, 18-5, crushed Fordham 91-74 in the opener of a doubleheader at the Palestra in Philadelphia. Villanova routed St. Bonaventure 93-81 in the second game behind. Bill Melchioni's 44 points, his career high for one back to defeat West Texas 87-80.

Chicago Loyola, the only team in the AP Top Ten to play Wednesday, weathered a furious late rally by Dayton. A sellout crowd of 5,880 cheered as the Flyers, behind by 12 points at 68-56, cut the deficit to one point at 73-72 in the last minute. The Ramblers held on as Jim Coleman converted twice from the foul line and Doug Wardlaw scored a two-pointer at the final buzzer.

Melchioni's 44 points against St. Bonaventure was only two points short of the Palestra record of 46 set by another Villanova star, Bob Schafer, in 1954. The Bonnies led by 28-07 early in the second half before one of Melchioni's 15 field goals put the Wildcats ahead to stay. Maryland, on the rebound, after losing eight games, won its sixth in a row by defeating Virginia on the road 71-64 for an over-all 13-4 record. Toledo also won on the road. The Rockets title.

83-74, Xavier of Ohio downed Marquette 82-78 and the Air Force whipped Valparaiso 98-68.

beating out Miami of Ohio for road triumph over Mississippi Mid-American Conference at home. Georgia beat Auburn Force whipped Valparaiso 98-68.

NFL Bosses Agree Atlanta Fared Well

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys and Minnesota Vikings agree that the newly stocked Atlanta Falcons fared better than they did as assistant general manager of the National Football League expansion franchises in 1960 and 1961.

"I would like to have had that group when we started," said Tex Schramm, general manager of the Cowboys, who finished their first season in 1960 with a 6-11 record.

"They are better off than we were," said John Thompson, assistant general manager of the Vikings, whose first team in 1961 wound up with a 3-11 record.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle and the other NFL owners went along with the thinking of the Cowboys and the Vikings.

"I am very pleased," said Coach Norb Hecker of Atlanta.

BIG SURPRISE

"The big surprises to me were Dennis Claridge of Green Bay, Alex Hawkins of Baltimore, Larry Benz and Bobby Franklin of Cleveland and Marvyn Matuszewske of Dallas."

"As of now, Claridge is my quarterback. I think he is a great prospect."

Hecker outlined his personnel on a blackboard depth chart, showing an offensive unit with Claridge at quarterback, Ernie Wheelwright of New York or Junior Coffey of Green Bay at fullback and Perry Lee Dunn of Dallas or Dan Lewis of Washington at running back.

His receivers would be Neal Petties and Hawkins of Baltimore, Bill Martin of Chicago, Bob Jencks of Washington, Dale Messer of San Francisco and Red Mack of Pittsburgh.

The Falcons will play every team once, but their standings will be listed in the Eastern Conference. They plan to go to work early at a training camp still to be selected.

Lions' End Williams Caught in Grid Draft

He reportedly was the first pick from the Detroit roster.

Williams is the oldest full-center for three years, lost his assignment to rookie Ed Flanagan last year after a knee operation and saw little action. He was 30 last week.

He said the move to Atlanta "presents an opportunity" and figured he has "four more good years left."

Simon was the Lions' 15th draft choice in 1963. He replaced J. D. Smith as a regular in 1964, but played behind

Gilmer said Jerry Rush would be tried out at offensive tackle and Roger Shoals would play offensive center if he was needed.

"We hate to lose them," Gilmer said of the three new Falcons, "but it's important the Falcons get people who can play."

Stars Missing in Tucson Open

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — There's room at the top of one of golf's stars of tomorrow to win the $60,000 Tucson Open which starts today.

With Arnold Palmer, Tony Lema, Gary Player, Jack Nicklaus, Billy Casper, Ken Venturi and PGA champion Dave Marr on the sidelines for the 72-hole medal play event, the winner here may be a man who usually draws an early starting time and plays before a gallery made up of his caddy and two other players.

While the field does include defending champion Bob Charles of New Zealand; Doug Sanders, Al Geiberger, Gene Littler, and Julius Boros, there are some youngsters making their way to the top who could crack the PGA big time here.

It could be Billy Martindale, the gum-chewing young Texan; Randy Glover; long-hitting Tom Weiskopf; Terry Dill of Muleshoe, Tex.; or Tommy Aaron, many times a bridesmaid but never a champion.

In beating Lundquist, the top foreign seed and defending champion, Lutz displayed some sharp cross court backhand smashes.

Doctors Examining Barkley in Boston

BOSTON (AP) — Detroit defenseman Doug Barkley was reported doing fine Wednesday night at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary, where he is undergoing examination for an injured eye.

A spokesman said there was no word on possible surgery except that Barkley would not be operated on Thursday.

The 29-year-old defenseman, playing his fourth season with the Red Wings, was injured 2½ weeks ago in a National Hockey League game against Chicago.

He entered the eye and ear infirmary Tuesday night. Barkley had said earlier in the week he may have to undergo further surgery for a detached retina.

Region III Finale This Weekend

Prep Skiing Growing, but Still Needs Encouragement

By SKEETER WERNER
Written for NEA

Every skier has as an ultimate goal, the technique of parallel skiing. All exercises and lessons to this point have been geared toward skiing with the skis together.

The heel push was learned in the early stages. The down-up motion was learned in the stem christie stage.

Perhaps in learning the parallel christie there has to be a little more emphasis on these movements.

You also learned a christie into the hill. Try it again. From the traverse position, go into an up motion, shifting weight to the outside ski.

Your inside ski is advanced. Then sink and lift up and forward. Release the edges and displace the heels downhill as you come to a stop. Now sink again and set the edges to finish the turn.

Now try this on a gentle slope heading straight down the fall line. Then cross the fall line and add the preparation which you learned in the stem christie.

NEXT: Parallel christie with check

PARALLEL TURN — Heading into the fall line during a parallel turn is Mt. Werner (Colo.) Ski School director Skeeter Werner.

By JERE CRAIG

Any endeavor gladly welcomes encouragement. High school ski racing in Southeast Michigan has been making slow, but steady progress during snow-plashed sixties and currently is enjoying its best season ever.

What could be one of two very important weekends for area prep skiers looks Saturday and Sunday at Boyne Mountain.

More than 200 youngsters are expected to blanket the racing slopes for the Region III final point meet of the season.

The novice and intermediate boys and girls will vie Saturday in downhill, slalom and giant slalom; then they will be followed Sunday by the older Class A and B boys and girls.

The object will be qualification for the Central Division championships following weekend at Lutsen, Minn.

Region III's final meet was scheduled for last weekend but the sudden thaw forced postponement. The region also includes Ohio, Indiana and southern states as well as Michigan's Lower Peninsula.

NATIONALS

The eventual goal of the competitors is the Junior Alpine national championships next month in California.

Last winter, only Geoff Smith of Bloomfield Hills reached them from the Pontiac area.

Although there may not be as accomplished a skier from the area this year, the competition has been keener with the over-all level of skill continuing to go up.

The Mount Holly High School Ski League, again, has 13 teams this winter; many of the competing schools have raised snow skiing to the varsity sports level.

Still there is much room for improvement. Cooperation from the skiers' parents in providing transportation and acting as race officials is badly needed since most schools don't provide any assistants for the heavily burdened coaches.

Increased racing opportunities will be awarded to all contributors.

Snow skiing has been a late arrival on the teen-age sports scene but there's no denying its popularity; and the growth potential given the proper encouragement—could assume avalanche proportions.

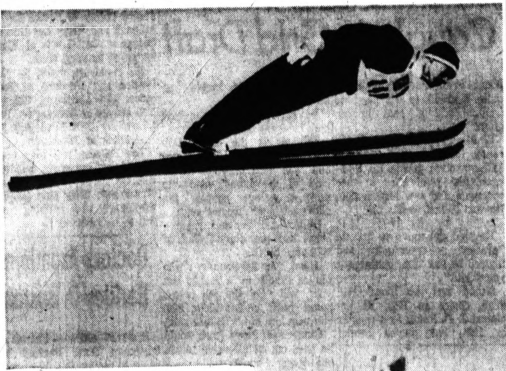

Purdue Cager's Lead Shrinking in Point Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Dave Schellhase's lead in the individual major college basketball scoring race is shrinking and the Purdue star may be ousted from first place on Saturday.

That's the day the Boilermakers play Michigan and Cazzie Russell, the nation's fourth highest scorer, on the road at Ann Arbor. In four previous games against the Wolverines, Schellhase has averaged only 17 points compared to his current 31.1. In these same four games Russell has averaged 20 points compared to his current 30.1.

The leading scorers for games through Feb. 12:

Player	Team	Points
1. Dave Schellhase	Purdue	18 200 160 560 31.1
2. Elvin Hayes	Idaho State	20 222 148 612 30.6
3. Dick Snyder	Syracuse	18 208 129 545 30.3
4. Cazzie Russell	Michigan	18 208 126 542 30.1
5. Bob Lewis	Davidson	20 222 141 585 29.3

Nub's Nob, Holiday in Feminine Hands

The boss is a woman at two of the most popular Michigan ski resorts.

Lack Good Skiing as Snow's Limited

By the Associated Press

The best skiing in Michigan this weekend should be in the Upper Peninsula, according to reports on Wednesday conditions.

Slopes in other parts of the state were in spotty condition, with some eastern areas reporting good skiing and several western Michigan resorts closed.

Ironically, Southeast Michigan will have the largest proportion of resorts open (next to the Upper Peninsula).

While almost all of the south-east lodges have snowmaking facilities, many of the northern areas don't. Thus, the fresh advent of cold air, though lacking much natural snowfall, was all that was needed to provide skiing in the southeast despite last week's thaw.

Nub's Nob and Caberfae are two of the northern Lower Peninsula resorts that definitely plan to have skiing this weekend.

The first annual state junior ski championships are set for Nub's Nob near Harbor Springs Sunday.

Caberfae will have its annual Junior Open Meet the same afternoon at Cadillac. The four classes will include youngsters from kindergarten through the ninth grade.

Freeland's Bintl Apple Mountain will have junior slalom morning.

Cold temperatures and some snow flurries were forecast for most of the state through Friday.

Conditions Wednesday were:

- ALPINE VALLEY, Pontiac—good.
- DRYDEN, Dryden—good.
- JACK PINE VALLEY, Lakeport—fair to good.
- MOUNT BRIGHTON, Brighton—fair to good.
- MOUNT GRAMPIAN, Oxford—limited good.
- MOUNT HOLLY, Holly—good.

Mrs. Sutton's husband Ray does plan the Holiday operation, but it is his wife that takes over once the season opens.

LEARN'S, BUYS

Mrs. Sutton learned to ski 15 years ago at Holiday, that she and her husband then bought three years ago.

Both women are attracted to dogs and young skiers. Mrs. Sarns has two Pointers that accompany her around the Nub's Nob slopes; while Johnny, a female St. Bernard, is a steady companion for Mrs. Sutton.

"We specialize in kids."

Mrs. Sutton says of the younger-set program at Holiday. "We have a big junior college weekend that attracts 500 skiers."

"We have other college and high school weekends that bring in 150 or more."

The story is similar at Nub's Nob where Mrs. Sarns cites the pleasant atmosphere created by college youngsters.

"They make you feel and stay young," she notes. "I couldn't operate this resort if I didn't like kids and all kinds of people. It's like a club here, where people from widely separated points can have cozy get-togethers."

Ice Boaters to Seek Jug

The Little Brown Jug of Union Lake ice boat racing will be at stake Sunday afternoon in the annual meet of Cooper's Little Brown Jug boat landing.

The competition is open to anyone and any class boat.

However, all entrants must be at the landing by 11 a.m. to join the races.

Muskegon Sextet Fails

MUSKEGON (AP) — Gary Mark of the Des Moines Oak Leafs scored at 53 seconds of an overtime period Wednesday night and gave the Leafs a 3-2 International Hockey League victory over Muskegon.

Cranbrook Ice Squad Drops Playoff Opener

Doug Arnold scored at 9:30 of the first period and Detroit Cathedral made the goal stand up in a 1-0 triumph over Cranbrook yesterday in the opening round of the International High School Hockey League playoffs.

In a second game, Ann Arbor handed Catholic Central a 3-1 setback. The playoffs are a two-game, total goal series.

Defense Bats .500 in Early Round

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The defense has won a point and lost another in Wisconsin's antitrust suit against the Braves and the National League.

Circuit Judge Elmer W. Rollier ruled Wednesday that Afla-

Gen. Bronson C. La Follette must submit to questioning by the defense. But he rejected a defense motion that the issues to be argued be narrowed before the case goes to trial.

The trial is scheduled to begin Feb. 28 before Rollier.

Defense attorneys had ordered La Follette to appear for pre-trial testimony last week. They also asked that he produce a list of 44 documents related to the case.

The state appealed to Rollier to cancel La Follette's appearance, arguing that his only connection to the case involved his role as attorney general. It also objected to the demand for the documents as a stalling tactic.

WILL WAIT

While ordering La Follette to submit to questioning, Rollier declined to order him to produce all the requested documents. The judge said he would rule on the documents separately as challenges arise.

Roller refused to narrow the issues in the case on grounds that the defense motion came too late.

In a deposition taken by the defense Wednesday, Herbert E. Kohl, an executive of a supermarket chain, testified he would be willing to invest more than $150,000 in a new baseball team in Milwaukee.

Kohl is a member of Milwaukee Brewers Inc., a group of prominent Wisconsin businessmen seeking a replacement franchise for the Braves.

Kohl said he would be "prepared to see it through all the way" should a Milwaukee team lose money in its formation years.

Asked how much more than $150,000 he would be willing to invest, Kohl replied: "I wouldn't want to start discussing specific amounts, but whether it would be $50,000, $100,000, $200,000, or $300,000 or more depends on circumstances at the time."

STIFF COMPETITION — A freezing spell in Wisconsin found one Madison skier's "comfort against the cold" caught outdoors. Apparently, the longies were his only pair; so shut-out from skiing, he found another use for his skis.

Finn's Win Opens Nordic Competition

HOLMENKOLLEN, Norway — Aero Maentyranta, a 28-year-old Finnish customs officer, won the opening 18.7 miles cross country race of the 26th World Nordic Ski Championships today. A Holmenkollen in the official time of one hour, 37 minutes, 26.7 seconds.

His compatriot, Kalevi Laurila, placed second in 1:38:11.3 and Walter Demmel of West Germany finished third in 1:41:11.6, just three tenths of a second behind Laurila.

INCREASED INTEREST — President Johnson and Secretary of the Treasury Henry Fowler yesterday displayed at the White House a large-size replica of a $100 'E' Series savings bond with the increased interest rate — 4.15 per cent — stenciled on it. The President announced an increase of four-tenths of one per cent in the interest rate on both the 'E' and 'H' Series savings bonds.

Prehospital Care for Road Victims Hit

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Well-meaning but medically ignorant motorists and ambulance crews are responsible for many needless traffic deaths, a University of Michigan professor said Wednesday.

Dr. Donald F. Huekle, associate professor of anatomy at the university's School of Medicine, said his conclusions were based on a four-year study of 139 fatal accidents in Washtenaw County.

Huekle cited a case of a victim who suffered a fractured jaw and facial lacerations. He said she was placed on her back during the ambulance ride to the hospital.

"By the time she was brought to the hospital, the bleeding cuts, instead of draining, had filled her lungs with blood and she had suffocated," Huekle said.

Johnson Calls for Savings Bond Buying

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. savings bonds, facing stiff competition from other forms of saving, are going to return more money to purchasers—and President Johnson wants more Americans to buy them as prudent and patriotic investments.

The chief executive announced yesterday that he had ordered the interest rate on bonds raised from the present 3.75 per cent to 4.15 per cent.

At the same time, he launched what Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler called "the biggest effort in many years" to get more Americans to buy bonds.

Johnson said he was buying bonds for himself, his wife and his two daughters to help stimulate sales. He said he wanted all government workers, from Cabinet officers on down, to start buying them.

The only government official who won't be buying bonds is the man who sells them—Fowler. He is barred by law from holding any government securities.

SEVEN YEARS

To those who own Series E savings bonds, the rate boost means that a $25 bond, bought for $18.75, will pay off in seven years instead of the present seven years and nine months.

About a month ago, the President ordered the treasury to start machinery to raise the interest rate on savings bonds. The only question had been how much the rate would go up.

Johnson could have boosted the interest rate to 4.25 per cent without going to Congress for authority, but treasury officials said 4.15 per cent was selected as an "attractive appropriate rate."

For months, savings bonds have faced stiff competition from savings and loan institutions, private banks and others that paid higher interest and attracted savings investments. Redemptions of savings bonds have increased.

Interest rates generally have been going up for some time and received a boost when the Federal Reserve Board raised the pace-setting discount rate from 4 to 4.5 per cent last December.

Some savings and loan institutions now pay up to 5 per cent and banks pay as much as long-term "savings certificates."

Pact Believed Oldest

Labor Agreement Survives 75 Years

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—"somewhere between $30 and $35 a day," with a minimum of $25 for eight hours work. At one time the stove pact covered more than 30,000 workers.

The AFL-CIO union and the Manufacturers' Industrial Relations Association—a descendant of the Stove Founders' National Defense Association which signed the original pact—claim it is the oldest continuous labor agreement in the country.

"We have never had a sanctioned work stoppage since it was put into effect," says William A. Lazzarini, 14th president of the 106-year-old union which has headquarters here.

When the original agreement was signed in Chicago March 25, 1891, stove molders made about $5 for a 10-hour day on a piece-work basis, Lazzarini said. Now, he said, molders get

Only about 5,000 of the union's 11,000 members now are covered by the stove-molding contract. These work in about 60 jobbing foundries, production shops and stove factories in the East.

The contract has been revised over the years and now includes vacations, health insurance and a national pension plan.

The original agreement—drawn as guidelines for negotiating contracts in individual shops—provided a four-year training period for apprentices. It also noted that "as reliable statistics demonstrate, the average duration of a journeyman molder's continuance at his trade is less than 16 years."

That was due to occupational diseases and hazards in poorly lighted and ill-ventilated shops of three generations ago. The situation is different now, though Lazzarini, who went to work as a molder in 1922, feels the employers are still "only getting around to acting on some of the suggestions the union made back in the 1900s."

"We have been telling them for years they'd have trouble finding molders one day unless they made the job more attractive. This day is here now—they're all looking for good men."

In spite of the differences of opinion, though, the agreement has always been renewed—on a yearly basis until the World War II years when three-year agreements were started.

"I would say it's been because cause of the understanding we've had at the bargaining table," Lazzarini says. "The bargaining, all through the years, has been done by practical people, those who worked in the shops and those who ran the shops."

PRACTICAL PEOPLE
"Being practical people they were successful. For instance, they set up a grievance procedure that could resolve the disputes in the shops without the matter ever having to be submitted to arbitration."

"There are many things that have been established by the government since World War II—such as processing grievances through the National Labor Relations Board—that had already been set up years before by the foresight of these old-time people."

Prominent among them, he added, was Joseph V. Valentine, who was a vice president when the original agreement was signed, then headed the Molders diseases and hazards in poorly lighted and ill-ventilated shops of three generations ago. The president of the union in 1890, resigned in 1903.

The anniversary celebration will be held March 25 in Chicago. Lazzarini said the guest list includes about 300 persons—two delegates from each shop covered by the agreement, Molders officials, officers of the association from Kalamazoo, Mich., and various employers.

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, and Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, have been invited to speak at the anniversary.

The Olympics, originated by the Greeks, was banned by a Roman emperor in 392 A.D. after about 1100 years of existence.

'Love Turned Sour' Spurs Valentine Plot

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—It appeared to be a high school romance lifted out of a Hollywood script: the handsome football player courting the pretty cheerleader and becoming engaged.

But the love match soured late last year and the engagement was broken.

Hollis Victor Robison Jr., 19, brooded about his "lost love" and finally, he told police yesterday, "Love turned to hate."

Then an idea came to him from a novel he had read.

Charged with assault with intent to murder, Robison calmly explained that he rigged a 16 gauge sawed-off shotgun in a red attaché case, disguised it as a valentine and left it on the steps of Nancy Adams, 18.

Nancy's 13-year-old sister, Patricia, got to the package first, however, and was wounded in the foot by a shotgun blast when she opened the present on her doorstep.

Patricia Adams too heavy for her to carry into the house. She was listed in satisfactory condition in a hospital.

AT CHEST LEVEL
Investigators said the blast probably would have been fatal if the package had been opened on a table — at chest level — as intended.

"I don't know why I did it, but I knew if she opened that case it would kill her," Robison told officers.

The strapping youth, winner of a football letter last year, became came a prime suspect in the case when Nancy, a high school senior, told police she had received threatening letters since her breakup with Robison.

The youth, described as a "quiet, average kind of boy," admitted the attempted slaying under intensive questioning, police said, and took officers to a rural spot where he dumped pieces of the shotgun he had to remove to make it fit in the attaché case.

PLANNED PLOT

Robison told authorities he planned the plot for two weeks but only completed the trap Tuesday night after returning home from work. He walked two miles to the Adams home after midnight and left the package on the front steps.

An attached note read: "A valentine to Nancy. On the day of Valentine. (Better late than never). To the nicest girl in West End goes the biggest valentine around. Love you, Jimmy."

Nancy spotted the package yesterday morning and, remembering that a youth down the street had promised her a belated valentine, asked Patricia to pick up the package.

That's when the younger sister, still clad in pajamas, went sleepily outside and opened the booby trap.

Death Chances Slim
by Space Radiation
CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — What is the probability Apollo astronauts will be injured fatally by space radiation? Only 2½ chances in 100,000, according to a physiologist from the Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston, Tex.

Dr. John Billingham told the annual meeting of the Radiation Research Society that chances of the astronauts getting radiation sickness are only slightly higher.

BOOBY TRAP — Detectives C.L. Limbaugh (left) and V.T. Hart examine a valentine booby trap which wounded a 13-year-old girl in Birmingham, Ala., yesterday. A sawed-off shotgun went off when Patricia Adams opened the case which had a valentine message attached. The blast hit Patricia in the foot. Police said the trap was intended for her 17-year-old sister, Nancy. A former boyfriend had admitted rigging the device.

Mother Hits Teacher; Judge Has Last Word

BYRON CENTER (AP) — James McIntyre, a Caledonia Junior High School teacher and bus driver, said he disciplined an 8th grade boy last Friday for improper language on the school bus. The boy told his mother. She allegedly answered with a fist to the side of McIntyre's head. Both told their stories Tuesday in Justice Court. Mrs. Geraldine Maille was fined $20 plus costs for assault.

No electric lamps of any kind could be had until 1878 when the first arc lamp was made.

Safe Trucker Honored

LANSING (AP) — Warner H. Koss of Detroit, who has driven 1,872,000 miles in 30 years without an accident or traffic violation, received the Michigan Trucking Association's Driver of the Year Award for 1965 Wednesday. Koss drives a tractor trailer rig for Chrysler Corp.

Add Chicken Livers

Serve This Omelet on Lettuce

Hot crusty buttered bread or English muffins along with "Chicken Liver-Lettuce Omelet" give you a completely satisfying meal. The omelet with its filling of chicken livers, mushroom buttons, chopped onion and shredded western iceberg lettuce is served on a bed of shredded iceberg and sliced tomatoes.

Next time you make a wilted lettuce salad with crumbled bits of bacon, heat bottled French dressing to toss with the salad for a new flavor twist.

Chicken Liver-Lettuce Omelet
1 head western iceberg lettuce
4 tomato slices
½ lb. chicken livers
¼ cup chopped onion
6 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (4 oz.) mushroom buttons, undrained
Salt
Pepper
5 eggs
½ cup cream or milk
Core, rinse and drain lettuce. Chill in saran or plastic bag. Cut lengthwise into halves. Place cut-sides down and shred enough to measure 6 cups.

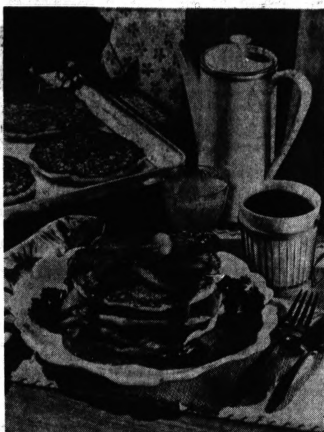

Place 4 cups shredded lettuce on serving plate. Arrange tomato slices on top. Lightly saute livers and onion in 3 tablespoons butter in saucepan or small skillet. Add mushrooms and salt and pepper to taste. Simmer gently until livers are cooked.

Meanwhile, combine eggs, cream, ½ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper in bowl; mix with fork just until blended. Beat remaining butter in 9- or 10-inch skillet; add egg mixture. Cook over medium heat.

As mixture sets at edge, draw this portion toward center with fork so that uncooked portion flows to bottom; tilt skillet slightly to hasten flow.

When omelet is golden brown on underside and top is almost set, spoon hot liver mixture onto half of omelet opposite handle. Place remaining shredded lettuce on top. Loosen omelet with spatula; fold in half.

Transfer omelet with wide spatula onto lettuce and tomatoes on serving plate. Serve at once. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

CLAM-CORN GRIDDLE CAKES—They're griddle cakes, all right, but with a difference. Minced clams stirred into the cornmeal batter make a pancake high in protein. Serve them for breakfast or brunch.

Greaseless French Fries brown paper bag and shake to get rid of excess grease. Then put the bag into a warm oven. Keep adding potatoes as each first batch into a large, clean, batch is finished.

Seafoods Shoo Those Breakfast Blues

Are you singing the "blues" these days because you just can't get a kick out of breakfast anymore? Well, did you ever stop to think why? Could it be you're simply getting a little tired of that same ol' glass of juice and vitamin pill as a steady morning diet?

One of the perks breakfast entrepreneurs from this booklet is Clam-Corn Griddle Cakes with Cran-Applesauce topping. No starchy, canned minced clams, available at most markets, are cephalopods, but Cran-Applesauce blended into the batter with sautéed corn meal to give the "breakfast blues" and put "pazazz" into your life. This full-griddle cakes protein punch that color booklet is called Top O' lasts 'til lunch.

The Mornin' and features 21 seafood eye-openers that will make breakfast the "Top O' The Mornin'". You can receive a copy of Top O' The Mornin' by sending 25c to the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Clam-Corn Griddle Cakes
2 cans (7½ ounces each) minced clams
1½ cups sifted flour
1 cup yellow corn meal
5 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cups clam liquor and milk
2 eggs, beaten
¼ cup melted fat or oil
Butter or margarine
Cran-Applesauce
Drain clams, reserving liquor. Add remaining ingredients together. Stir only until blended. Drop ¼ cup batter onto a hot, well-greased griddle or fry pan. Fry 1 to 2 minutes or until nause.

Cran-Applesauce
1 can (1 pound) jellied cranberry sauce
¼ cup applesauce
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
Combine all ingredients and blend thoroughly. Chill. Makes approximately 18 griddle cakes.

Ever mold a Waldorf salad mixture—apples, celery and pecans—in lemon-flavor gelatin? Serve on greens with mayonnaise or until nause.

PINEAPPLE RICE CREAM—Molded rice and pineapple results in a golden dessert that can be as plain or fancy as you desire. Serve it on your prettiest footed dish for a dramatic effect.

Golden Rice Mold Is Creamy and Fruity

No one will suspect the butter-milk in this whipped creamy pineapple dessert. But that's what gives it a special tang. Even the pineapple has a brighter flavor.

And it tastes all the better for its gracefully molded shape garnished with golden pineapple rings and wisps of mint.

The combination of pineapple, rice and cream has always been a favorite one. Children usually prefer plain rice mixed with plain pineapple—it is a mode, if you please.

Sophisticates variously choose sour cream, yogurt, buttermilk and liqueur-scented whipped cream. Whatever the cream, there's little question that pineapple does wonderful things for rice.

Pineapple Rice Chantilly
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 (8 1/2-ounce) can crushed pineapple
1 1/2 cups cooked rice
1 cup buttermilk

1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 cup whipping cream

Mix gelatin, sugar and salt. Add undrained crushed pineapple. Place over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatin dissolves. Stir in rice. Cool to room temperature.

Stir in buttermilk, lemon juice and vanilla. Chill a few minutes until mixture begins to thicken. Fold in whipped cream. Turn into 1-quart mold; chill until firm.

Unmold and garnish as desired with pineapple slices and mint sprigs. Makes about six servings.

Onions and Cheese Make Hearty Pie

And for the unusual and mighty tasty way of serving these plentiful onions, try this baked vegetable creation from the USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service.

HOT ONION PIE—To prepare, begin by baking one 9-inch pie shell. For filling, fry 3 cups thinly sliced onions in butter until soft and translucent. Stir about 1/4 cup evaporated milk or heavy cream into 1 pound small curd cottage cheese, adding a bit of salt and pepper for taste. Spread the cottage cheese mixture into the pie shell and cover with the onions. Add a sprinkling of cayenne with extra salt and pepper if desired.

Bake 15 minutes in hot 400-degree F. oven. Cut into wedges and serve immediately.

Lamb-Tomato Dish Is Greek

If the cook is in the mood for food of far-away land to brighten up cold-weather meals, Giouveti from Greece is the recipe to try.

Lamb shoulder, cut in cubes, is the meat. It is baked with tomato sauce, and elbow macaroni is added near the end of the cooking time to complete the savory dish.

Giouveti
2 1/2 pounds cubed lamb shoulder
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 medium onion, sliced
1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste
2 cups beef bouillon
2 1/2 teaspoons salt

1/4 teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon oregano
2 tablespoons salt
3 quarts boiling water
8 ounces elbow macaroni
1/4 cup chopped parsley
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Combine lamb and butter in 3-quart casserole. Bake uncovered.

Hot Knife Works
Fresh bread, hot out of the oven (yours or the baker's) is indeed a treat. It isn't necessary, either, to let the bread stand for awhile so it will be easy to cut. Even the freshest bread cuts easily if you use a hot knife.

ered in 350 degree (moderate) oven 20 minutes, or until lamb is browned, stirring occasionally. Drain off drippings.

Add 1 onion, tomato paste, bouillon, 2 1/2 teaspoons salt, pepper, lemon juice and oregano to lamb; mix well. Cover and bake one hour, or until lamb is tender.

Add 2 tablespoons salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander.

Mix macaroni and parsley with lamb. Sprinkle cheese over top. Bake 5 minutes, or until cheese is melted. Makes 6 servings.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?
A. Beef Brisket.

Q. Where does it come from? How is it identified?
A. It comes from the brisket section of beef, which is in the forequarter, below the chuck. This is a large boneless cut composed of layers of fat and lean and is sold as fresh or corned beef. The term "corned" is used to indicate the meat has been cured in brine.

Q. How is it prepared?

A. By cooking in liquid. Fresh brisket is frequently browned before cooking, corned beef brisket is not. It's placed in a large utensil and cooked, covered with water. Herbs, spices and vegetables are added, if desired, but no salt, when cooking corned beef. Cover the utensil and simmer (keep below boiling temperature) until tender. If desired, the beef brisket may then be placed on a rack, covered with a glaze and baked in a moderate oven (350 degrees) until the glaze sets, about 30 minutes. It may, however, be served hot or cold. Slice thin for serving.

Have a Party in Honor of George Washington on 234th Anniversary of His Birth

Pontiac Press Food Editor

Let's plan a birthday party for George Washington. Tuesday will be the 234th anniversary of his birth.

History tells us that the first official commemoration of his birthday occurred at Valley Forge in 1778. All we know about the celebration in that bleak Pennsylvania spot is that the band of the Fourth Continental Artillery serenaded their commander.

Washington was a big man who liked to eat well. Most of the food that was served on the table at Mount Vernon was produced right there and he and Martha enjoyed frequent company.

Cherries, rightly or wrongly, are associated with George Washington. Cherry brandy becomes part of a drink to serve guests at your Feb. 22 party.

Cherry Tree Pitcher

Combine over ice in a tall glass pitcher: 2 cups gin, 1/2 cup cherry brandy, 1 bottle (28 ounces) chilled club soda. Garnish with sweet cherries. Makes 12 punch cup servings.

If you're providing refreshments for the teen-age group, your beverage will be non-alcoholic. Tall sodas are in order. The recipe calls for frozen raspberries, but your choice might be frozen cherries instead.

Washington's Birthday Party Soda
2 tablespoons cream
2 tablespoons crushed frozen raspberries
Vanilla ice cream grapefruit beverage

Allow time for raspberries to thaw, then crush a portion in a tall glass. Add cream, and dip stir. Place a scoop of ice cream chips, as desired. Makes about 2 cups.

Fill glass with ice cold carbonated grapefruit beverage. Stir gently to mix (in order to retain the carbonation).

Martha Washington wouldn't have known what a "dip" was. That shouldn't prevent your serving one. What could be more patriotic than an American blue cheese dip?

All American Dip
1/2 cup crumbled American blue cheese (about 4 ounces)
1 3-ounce package cream cheese, softened
1 cup finely chopped fresh spinach
1 medium sized carrot, grated
Combine American blue cheese and cream cheese. Beat until smooth. Fold in remaining ingredients. Chill. Serve as a tall glass. Add cream, and dip with crackers or potato chips, as desired. Makes about 2 cups.

There were chickens raised at Mount Vernon. Whether Martha ever served them in flaming style is questionable. But you can.

Cherry Tree Chicken
2 broiler-fryer chickens, cut into portions Flour
Salt, pepper, ginger
1/4 cup butter
4 tablespoons whisky
2 cups chicken broth
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 can (1 lb.) pitted Bing cherries

Dredge chicken with flour mixed with seasonings. Brown lightly on all sides in butter. Add 2 tablespoons whisky to pan, ignite, and baste chicken until flame dies. Add broth, cover, simmer 25 minutes, until chicken is tender. Remove chicken to serving dish.

Stir cornstarch to a paste with a little of the cherry syrup. Add remaining syrup and stir all into the pan juices. Cook, stirring, until juices are clear and thickened. Add cherries, heat. Pour sauce and cherries over chicken.

At the table, heat remaining whisky, ignite, pour blazing over chicken. Serves 6 to 8.

For a sweet, your choice is a cookie that is truly 1966. Made with soft-type margarine, it is an interesting mixture of chocolate and cherries.

Chocolate Cherry Chees
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon salt
3 eggs
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
1/2 cup soft-type margarine
4 envelopes (4 ounces) non-melt unsweetened chocolate flavored ingredient

1 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
1 1/2 to 1 3/4 cups flaked coconut
1 cup (8-ounce jar) candied cherries, chopped
Combine sugar, salt, eggs and vanilla in mixing bowl; beat until thick and lemon-colored.

Add soft-type margarine and non-melt unsweetened chocolate; mix until blended. Blend in flour. Stir in coconut and cherries.

Coat 15x10x1-inch baking pan with soft-type margarine; turn in batter. Bake in 350 degree oven 30 to 35 minutes. Cool. Frost with White Frosting. Cut into 2x1-inch bars. If desired, garnish with pieces of maraschino cherries. Yield: 75 bars.

White Frosting
1/4 cup soft-type margarine

3 cups sifted confectioner's sugar
2 to 3 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
Beat together all ingredients, adding enough milk to make frosting smooth and creamy.

FUTURE IN DOUBT — Actor Raymond Burr (right), who plays Perry Mason in the long-running television series, and Bill Hopner, who plays the role of a private investigator on the show, are still in doubt about next year. It is not known yet if CBS will run the program for an 11th straight season.

Perry Mason Takes Stand but Doesn't Tell Everything

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD — Q. Will Raymond Burr, also known as Perry
Mason, please take the stand?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Now Mr.
Burr, there have been all kinds of reports about whether the television series "Perry Mason" will return to CBS for a 10th season next year. Will it?

A. I don't know.
Q. You don't know! But surely,
Mr. Burr, as star of the popular courtroom series you should be informed on such matters. You reported that you would be willing to perform on a 11th season, did you not?

A. Yes, I did — at the beginning of this season, and it surprised a few folks. I thought it might be advantageous for me to do one more year, for a variety of reasons.

Q. Yet your producer, Gail Patrick Jackson, has announced that "Perry Mason" will not be back next year.

A. That is correct. Gail was piqued, as was I, that CBS did not put the show on in color.
After all, they put us up against some stiff competition. "Bonanza" and the Sunday night move-ie, both in color. That gives the other two shows an advantage at the start.

Q. Is there really any chance that "Perry Mason" will be renewed?

A. A chance, yes. But the odds are getting longer as time goes on. All of us in the cast will have to start making our own plans for the future if the show is discontinued. As for myself, I would say the next week or so would mark the point of no return. And I'll add this: They wouldn't return unless all of the others did, too.

Q. What plans do you have for the future?

A. I have my own production company, which I will be activating with pilot films, some of them for CBS. I have a play that I would like to do, and there are several film offers.

Q. And your immediate plans?

A. As soon as the last show is filmed — we have eight more to go — I will be returning to Vietnam. About April 15, I would think.

Q. How many times have you been to Vietnam?

A. Five times in the past three years. When I went there the first time, we had 7,000 troops in the country.

Q. Is it true that you don't go as an entertainer, but you interact with the troops and talk to them?

A. Yes, although this time I may take along a troupe, since there are so many more to reach.

Q. Would you care to explain why you have been having top-level conferences in Washington every weekend for the past five weeks?

A. No, I'm not at liberty to divulge that right now.

from Feb. 22 to March 14, of Auditors was passed yesterday by the health committee of the County Board of Supervisors.

A resolution authorizing Health
Director Dr. Bernard D. Berman to present this anticipated budget request to the County Board of Auditors was passed yesterday by the health committee of the County Board of Supervisors.

A year ago, the health department requested 29 additional employees but was allowed only two when the 1966 budget was completed last fall.

Committee hearings will begin next month on preliminary budget requests submitted by the various county departments.

A tentative 1967 budget will be prepared after these hearings and the final budget will be presented to the board of supervisors next fall.

Johnson's $10-Billion Education Bid Shows How Reality Keeps Gaining on Dream

By G. K. HOENFELD
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Four short years ago the nation's school administrators urged the government to invest an astronomical $8 billion in education and were roundly criticized for their presumption and their naivete.

Wednesday night President Johnson told the same group that his budget this year proposed a $10-billion investment in education and no one was even surprised.

And that's the way it is in education — reality keeps gaining on the dream. It never quite catches up, and often it falls far behind, but it remains forever in pursuit.

The President told the American Association of School Administrators he is sending Congress five top-priority requests.

One of them is "to double young child in the United States."

Johnson, who made a flying trip here to receive the 1966 American Education Award for his efforts in "the education of mankind," was roundly applauded as he ticked off his priority requests to Congress.

Besides the one on Head Start, they are:

To enlarge each one of the programs in the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

To make them run through the best and to make them run through the quality be available to every 1970.

— To fund the new National Teachers Corps so that our best college graduates can be recruited to work in our worst schools.

— To pass the child nutrition act of 1966 to help pay for school lunches for those who really need them, without subsidizing those who can afford to buy their own. We also want school breakfasts for children who would otherwise start the day with empty stomachs.

"Finally," the President said, "and this summarizes reams of recommendations in a single sentence, my budget this year proposes a $10-billion federal investment in education and training. In 1969 the government was spending only a third this much. The Office of Education alone will spend on programs six times as much as it did six years ago."

Except for the announcement that the benefits of Operation Head Start would be expanded to cover 700,000 disadvantaged children instead of 360,000, there was nothing new or startling in the President's proposals.

But this did not dull or diminish the enthusiasm of the school administrators. Undoubtedly there are many who don't agree with his politics, but it would be a rare one who didn't love him for making education the number one item on his administration's agenda.

Many of the $900 in attendance at the closing session of the AASA convention were here in 1962, when they asked for that unheard sum of $8 billion for education.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-

Conn., was secretary of health, education and welfare then, and he hit the ceiling when he heard of the resolution.

That $8 billion was just 10 times the amount President Kennedy was then asking for education. In public Ribicoff called the AASA proposal ridiculous. In private, he had other words for it.

President Johnson Wednesday night said of his present proposals, "I promise you that this is only the beginning."

Lent Altered for Catholics

Most Traditional Fast Days Are Eliminated

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Only Ash Wednesday and all Fridays will be meatless for Roman Catholics in the future, and they are required to fast on only two days out of Lent's 40 under new diet regulations Pope Paul VI is issuing today.

The new regulations were announced in Washington Wednesday night by the apostolic delegate to the United States, Archbishop Egidio Vagnoni, through the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

The Washington announcement said the Pope had issued new regulations for days of fast and abstinence "making them apply only to Ash Wednesday and Good Friday."

"The traditional law requiring Catholics to abstain from meat on Friday remains in effect," the announcement added.

AGE RAISED

The age limit at which Catholics must begin abstaining from meat was raised from 7 to 14 years, the NCWC announced.

"The age bracket for the law of fasting remains the same," it said, "beginning at 21, and ending with the beginning of the 60th year."

Abstinence in the Catholic Church means no eating of meat. Fasting means limited consumption of food and meat may or may not be part of the menu.

Identify Virus as Asian Flu in California

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — The virus that has kept 250,000 Los Angeles children out of school has been identified by the California Department of Health as Asian flu.

Doctors at the department's virus laboratory made the identification Wednesday. The bug causes headaches and stomach upsets of a sort more intense than ordinary flu. It first came to California in 1957.

In the past two weeks, the strain has caused absenteeism to reach as high as 25 per cent in some school districts. A high number of teachers also have been hit.

The Los Angeles County Health Department has labeled the outbreak an epidemic, but has made no plans to close schools where about 530,000 pupils remain.

Ice Floe in Channel Isolates State Isle

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP) — Nearly 100 residents of Sugar Loaf Island were stranded here when an ice floe became lodged in the channel between the island and the mainland Wednesday.

Julius Brunk, commander of the Coast Guard group here, said the ferry which serves the 300 residents of the island was forced to remain docked.

The Coast Guard icebreaker Naugatuck, undergoing engine repairs Wednesday, was expected to be able to clear the channel late today.

N. Y. to Need 10,000 More Teachers by '75

NEW YORK (AP) — By 1975 New York State will need 10,000 more teachers than there are now for its public and private colleges.

James E. Allen Jr., state education commissioner, said current trends indicate that by that time the state will have 540,000 students in higher education institutions, an increase of 77 per cent over present enrollment.

Solution for Downtown Area May Be Near

MAKE OVER PAGES

A magnificent solution for the center of Pontiac may be in the offing, according to Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. The City Commission is prepared to make all of downtown urban renewal land available to one organization in one piece.

"We have been negotiating since last summer with the Taubman Co.," he stated. "They are one of the nation's leading retail development and construction firms, and they are currently making economic and traffic studies and developing exhaustive plans.

"We have discussed this general problem with several other important negotiators," he continued, "but currently are progressing much further with Mr. Taubman than we have before.

"This would be an enclosed, climate-conditioned retail development in the area of the downtown urban renewal acreage and would constitute far and away the biggest venture we have ever considered."

The Taubman Co. has been developing centers in Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, Ohio, Kentucky, Missouri, Colorado, Idaho and California.

Three of the most recent centers the Taubman Co. has developed are "Southland," a 15-million-square-foot center in Hayward, Calif.; "Sunvalley," a 14-million-square-foot center in Concord, Calif.; and "Woodland," a million-square-foot center now being developed in Grand Rapids.

10 Girl Inmates Flee During School Riots

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—At least 10 young girls, some clad only in slips and carrying broken glass as weapons, roamed the Indiana countryside today after three violent outbreaks at the Indiana Girls' School near here.

State police continued to patrol the area around the penal institution for delinquent girls in hopes of finding some of the inmates who escaped during raucous melees yesterday afternoon and evening.

Soviets: Flights of N-Bombers Violate Treaty

U. S. Rejects Charge; Two Powers Clash at Disarmament Talks

The two nuclear powers clashed in the 17-nation disarmament talks when Soviet negotiator Semyon K. Tsarapkin read a memorandum by his government.

He claimed the Spanish coastal area was being contaminated after the crash of an American B52 with nuclear bombs last month.

The memorandum said the Soviet government considers this "a flagrant violation of international law and of the 1963 Moscow treaty."

Tsarapkin said the memorandum was directed to all states and constituted an appeal for termination of these flights.

U. S. chief delegate William C. Foster declined to go into the substance of the Soviet statement, saying:

"One is led to wonder what purpose lies behind the repetitions and false allegations about this incident and why the Soviet delegate asked to be the first speaker today, just to read a note delivered yesterday by my government by the Soviet government."

"Presumably, if the Soviet government had other than propaganda in mind, it would have awaited a reply through diplomatic channels."

U. S. delegation officials said the Soviet statement contained no direct or indirect threat of a Soviet withdrawal from the Moscow treaty.

Three Police Are Hurt in Auto Chase

Three policemen were injured and three patrol cars damaged in a two-hour chase through five Oakland and Macomb County communities early this morning. The chase ended in the arrest of a Shelby Township youth who had been stopped for faulty lighting on his car.

Thomas Springer, 17, of 52871 Mound, Shelby Township, was being held for questioning this morning at the Warren State Police Post.

He was apprehended at 3:58 a.m. at Wattles and Adams roads in Bloomfield Township by Warren and Bloomfield Township police.

Hurt in the chase, which started in Shelby Township at 1:55 a.m., were Patrolman Douglas Elsworth of the Shelby police, who originally stopped the suspect's car and two state police troopers from the Warren post.

After chasing the fleeing auto for eight miles, Elsworth managed to force it to the side of the road in Utica.

He was injured when the suspect's car backed up and knocked him to the ground as he approached it, according to Shelby Township police.

Elsworth was taken to the hospital for X rays and treatment.

Troopers Fred Waddell and Kenneth Baker received cuts and bruises when the suspect's car forced them into a ditch on 18 Mile near Rochester Road.

CAR DAMAGED

A Utica police car was damaged when it skidded on icy pavement and hit a utility pole. Springer was arrested after he ran into a Warren city police car at Wattles and Adams.

Giant Soviet Plane Crashes in Moscow

MOSCOW (AP)—One of the world's largest airliners, a Soviet TU14, crashed on takeoff here early today, killing about a third of the 50 persons aboard, airline sources said.

There was no immediate confirmation from Soviet officials, who said they knew nothing about a crash.

The Moscow manager of a Western airline said he had been told the plane failed to get off the ground and crashed at the end of the runway.

'HAIPHONG DEFENDERS'—These are "fighters of the self-defense detachment of longshoremen in Haiphong," the principal port city of North Viet Nam, according to the caption of this picture from the Russian

Saigon Blasts Kill 12, Hurt 60

Cong Attacked in 4 Sectors

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U. S. and South Korean troops pushing on with Operation White Wing 300 miles north of Saigon struck the Viet Cong in four separate sectors today and claimed 80 killed.

The Communists had their innings in Saigon.

Two Claymore mines set by terrorists shortly after noon near the headquarters of the Vietnamese joint general staff killed 12 Vietnamese and wounded 60.

Six of the dead and 44 of the wounded were military personnel.

U. S. Marines ended Operation Double Eagle today and reported killing 312 Viet Cong during the three-week campaign.

LIGHT LOSSES

The Leathernecks said they took light casualties during the operation, their biggest sustained drive in Viet Nam, as they searched a 500-square-mile area in Quang Ngai Province, 95 miles south of Da Nang.

Bad weather returned to North Viet Nam but U. S. Air Force and Navy pilots flew 27 missions yesterday against bridges around Vinh and Dong Hoi and storage areas south of Dien Bien Phu.

Spokesmen said the weather prevented assessment of damage.

The United States acted to put more juice into the civil programs emphasized by President Johnson at the Honolulu conference.

OFFICIAL NAMED

Deputy U. S. Ambassador William Porter was named to boss all American aspects of the largely stalled rural pacification program.

On the Operation White Wing front, troops of the U. S. 1st Cavalry (Airmobile) Division continued their cleanup of the An Lao Valley and were attacked about 7 miles southwest of Bong Son just before breaking their overnight bivouac.

The Viet Cong left 37 dead behind after a half hour fight. U. S. casualties were said to be light.

The terrorist mines in Saigon exploded two minutes apart on a crowded street outside the civilian entrance to the Tan Son Nhut Airport.

This is also near the rear entrance to the headquarters of the South Vietnamese joint general staff.

Five men and one woman were Vietnamese military personnel. The other six were civilians, three of them employed by the Vietnamese army. One of the army employees was a woman.

Whale of a Similarity

JONES BEACH, N. Y. (UPI)—A Coast Guard spokesman was asked if a dead 10-foot black whale found on the beach yesterday was the same whale which guardsmen earlier had helped to refloat when it ran aground in the surf. "It's hard to tell whales apart," he said.

Dr. Berman pointed out that one building permit application from a fire victim had already been received by the health department and was denied.

He added that others are expected and that they also must be turned down.

Since health department approval is required before building permits can be issued, a better sewage disposal program must be devised if the fire victims are to return to business.

This problem could be corrected by installing septic systems but the lots are too small to do this, Dr. Berman said.

County Cites Lack of Proper Sewer Facilities

Position on Permits Revealed at Meeting of Supervisors' Unit

The Oakland County Health Department yesterday refused to approve the rebuilding of seven business places in downtown Oxford until adequate sanitary sewage disposal is installed.

The buildings were damaged by a fire last month. The health department's position was revealed at a meeting yesterday of the health committee of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

County Health Director Dr. Bernard D. Berman told committee members that the health department will not approve permits for reconstruction.

He said that all seven businesses used a basement cesspool for sewage disposal.

Dr. Berman pointed out that one building permit application from a fire victim had already been received by the health department and was denied.

Future Osteopath College Gaining Financial Support

Financial support for the projected Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine (MCOM) has begun to pick up momentum, according to Dr. B. F. Dickinson, Pontiac surgeon.

One of the key factors in the financing of the future school is the osteopathic profession itself.

Dr. Dickinson, president of the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, said $200,000 of an initial contribution of $300,000, due by September 1966, has already been received from state DO's.

In June 1965, the state association's House of Delegates voted to assess all its members $200 annually for the next 10 years to help support the new medical school.

This amounts to an annual contribution of $300,000 from the group's 1,500 active members.

Over the ten-year period, the total contribution by the profession is to total $3 million.

$100 EACH YEAR
Each active member also contributes $100 each year to ward support of osteopathic colleges in Missouri, Iowa, Illinois and Pennsylvania.

Financial support of the proposed MCOM is to be located on a 164-acre site at Auburn

In July, 1965, the House of Delegates of the American Osteopathic Association formally endorsed a national fund raising effort.

Although this program is just beginning, Dr. Dickinson said some 223 individual osteopathic physicians have already contributed or pledged $82,315.

STATE SOCIETIES

Some state societies have pledged $10,000 to the MCOM fund drive.

In Michigan, some groups, such as the Michigan Osteopathic Guild Association, county societies, auxiliary units, labor unions and other nonmedical organizations, have submitted cash sums to the college.

Dr. Dickinson put the total assets of the college at $4,000,000, including the land valued at $410,000 with $50,000 unpaid. The land was bought through the contributions of Pontiac citizens, businesses and organizations.

Cheat Death by Freezing, Says Prof

By JODY HEADLEE

Home Editor, Pontiac Press

Freeze now; thaw later. That's what Prof. R. C. W. Ettinger of Oak Park University students yesterday at the Oakland Center.

Sponsored by the Student Activities Coordinating Committee, Ettinger advanced his revolutionary ideas on preservation of the dead by freezing for a gamble on immortality.

"Old age," said Ettinger, "is a disease. It is not a natural and inevitable phase of the life cycle.

"Death," he continued, "is a matter of degree. When a person is pronounced dead, legally and medically, actually the individual is 99 per cent alive.

"If you freeze people immediately after death by the best of current methods, and store them in liquid nitrogen, they can be kept more or less indefinitely in their dying condition.

COULD BE THAWED

"When a cure is discovered for their cause of death, conceivably they could be thawed and returned to productive life."

For an optimum chance at immortality, a body would have to be cooled to about 19 degrees centigrade while maintaining a circulation of oxygenated blood to prevent cellular death.

When at the correct temperature, a solution of 15 per cent dimethyl sulfoxide (DMSO) in blood plasma would be introduced into the body's circulatory system to replace the blood.

After perfusion, the body must be frozen and cooled to storage temperature, minus 196 degrees centigrade.

Use of liquid nitrogen eliminates the worry of a power failure and an unnecessary and perhaps irreversible stress on the corpse.

IN STORAGE BOX

The frozen body would then be placed in a storage box.

Ideally, the container should be made of an insulated material which does not become brittle at low temperatures, have a liquid-nitrogen compartment and supply line and be able to maintain a vacuum.

The storage chamber would have to be protected from the elements in mausoleum or building.

Total cost, including preparation and permanent storage, is estimated by Ettinger at $5,500 per body.

Author of "Prospect of Immortality," Ettinger is on the faculty of the Highland Park College, Highland Park.

Taylor Defends Viet Policy at Senate Hearing Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor defends President Johnson's course in Vietnam in a public hearing today before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on such issues as the bombing of North Vietnam, possible escalation of the ground war and the threat of Chinese intervention. He is expected to support strongly President Johnson's contention the United States has undertaken a "job of liberation" in South Vietnam that must succeed to prevent the spread of Communist terror elsewhere. Johnson told an Atlantic City, N.J., audience Wednesday night that the Viet Cong's strategy of terror "will spread elsewhere if it succeeds in South Vietnam."

Romney Gets Bill on Aid to Mental Health

LANSING (AP) — A bill that could triple the state's contribution to community mental health service programs next year is on its way to Gov. George Romney. He advocated continued bombing of a "controlled, deliberate rate." He has contended that the limited warfare being carried on now is not likely to bring any military confrontation with China as many of the President's critics fear.

Taylor also has said the complete surrender or destruction of the Communist Viet Cong is not a prerequisite for a cease-fire and negotiations. He refused to term the outbreak a riot.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the armed services committee, urged his colleagues to pass the bill with out any riders which might either caution the President against expanding the war or might offer congressional approval of Johnson's policies.

Saying he could come up with an alternative to the course Johnson is pursuing, Russell said he thinks critics "have not given the President and the secretaries of state and defense the credit they deserve for the earnestness, the soul-searching and the vigor with which they have attempted to find a solution leading to peace with honor."

Right-Spirited Driver Slowed by a 'Load'

BARNES, England (UPI) — Speeding is so rampant here that a policeman was surprised to see a car traveling within the speed limit. He stopped the motorist to congratulate him for his prudence. Instead, he arrested Kenneth Ross, 32, on charges of drunk driving.

10 Inmates Free After Outbreaks

FLAT TIRES

Another group of girls attempted to get away in a state police patrol car. Officers shot its tires flat.

State police said between 30 and 35 girls managed to get away from the school during the height of the outbreak and said many of them were armed with broken glass and scissors.

They said early today that it was believed at least 10 girls were still loose. Authorities had rounded up whole carloads of inmates during the late night hours.

Dolnick arrived at the school yesterday afternoon when he received word of the first disturbance.

He said the afternoon incidents occurred over "a misunderstanding about privileges." He refused to term the outbreak a riot.

GIRLS' HAIRDO

Girls told newsmen the afternoon disturbance began over a girl's hairdo. One girl said an inmate received a reprimand for her hairdo.

Another girl said, however, the outbreak began when a school official had a "fight" with one of the girls.

An official said he began with a girl attempting to escape was apprehended before she could get away. The exact cause of the disturbance was not determined.

Dolnick said the girls misunderstood a new regulation he permitted inmates at the state penitentiary to write as many letters as they wish to anyone they wish.

"Those things can't be done in one day," Dolnick said. "It takes time to set up such programs. It has to go through a kind of transition and that's what it's doing now." He said claims by the girls that they had had privileges taken away were not true.

Rifle Is Found in Sniper Case

Discovered in Storage Box at Police Station

The prime piece of evidence in the Gary Addison Taylor sniper case — a .22-caliber rifle — has been found.

Law enforcement officers have been unable to produce the weapon or explain its whereabouts.

Late yesterday, however, Royal Oak Police Chief Herman Potts, making one last futile search of the property room in the police station, discovered the rifle in the bottom of a storage box.

Taylor, 29, of Royal Oak, was recently released from Ionia State Hospital for the Criminal Insanity, where he was arraigned in Circuit Court Feb. 23 on a nine-year-old charge of assault with intent to murder.

During his preliminary examination Feb. 7, police testified that the rifle "vanished" sometime after it was sent to the State Police Crime Laboratory in Lansing.

Today, Potts apologized, saying "Our department was negligent on this. It was strictly an oversight on our part."

"I'm sorry it happened and that the State Police was taken to task."

Potts explained that the rifle apparently was placed in the box when the police department moved into new quarters in October 1963.

"It probably was done by someone who believed that it wouldn't be used for some time and then it was forgotten about," said Potts.

Potts said the rifle, found in the trunk of Taylor's car when he was arrested in 1957, is tagged and has the identifying number on it made by the investigating officers.

VICTIM OF CONG MINES — A wounded and weeping Vietnamese boy is carried toward an ambulance in Saigon today after he was injured when Viet Cong terrorists exploded two mines near the airport. The boy was found behind a nearby shop where he had fled when the bombs exploded. At least 12 Vietnamese were killed and 60 wounded in the bombing.

Labor Chiefs to End Big Dominican Strike

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The majority of the Dominican Republic's labor leaders agreed today to end a damaging general strike after President Hector Garcia-Godoy promised to send two top military officers abroad.

The strike leaders acted shortly after the President warned in a radio-television speech that government employees would lose their jobs if they did not resume work today.

He said if necessary he would use police to reopen Santo Domingo's port and airport and other public services. He added that he was taking steps to see that his Jan. 6 order transferring military leaders to diplomatic posts abroad was fully obeyed.

The strike was called eight days ago to protest police violence during a Communist-led student demonstration in which three students were killed. But moderate and extreme leftists used the walkout to pressure the government into ousting the military leaders who had refused to obey the presidential order.

TERRORISM SUBSIDIES — The terrorism that had swept the city for the last seven nights by unofficial estimates cost 20 lives subsided during the night. Only two bomb explosions were heard, and there were no reports of any casualties.

Terrorists fired wild shots at the American Human Rights Commission as they were about to take off on a helicopter inspection tour Wednesday. The commission was appointed by the Organization of American States.

"I don't feel a few people should have to finance a sewer system for the whole area," Miller said.

A few years ago the village retained an engineering firm to draw a preliminary plan for a village sewer system, according to Village President Edmund A. Unger.

"The village decided not to proceed after an advisory vote of the people indicated strong opposition, Unger said.

He added that a small portion of the voters cast ballots in the unofficial election.

APPEALS LIKELY — The health committee probably will receive appeals on some of the denied permits at its March meeting, Dr. Berman said.

Unger said he expected that the matter would come before the Village Council in the near future.

Coast Guard Cutter Fights Ice to Free Tugs — SOUTH HAVEN (UPI) — A Coast Guard cutter fighting strong winds and heavy Lake Michigan waves pulled two ice-lodged fishing tugs loose early today and began breaking a path for them through ice and snow up to three feet thick.

Rabbi Termed Slightly Worse

Report Comes Shortly After Assailant Buried

DETROIT (AP) — The condition of Rabbi Morris Adler, shot in the head and arm during Sabbath services Saturday, worsened slightly Wednesday, hours after his youthful assailant was buried.

Richard Wisnitsky, 23, strode to the dais of Shaarey Zedek Synagogue near the end of services Saturday, denounced the 60-member congregation for "hypocrisy," then shot Adler and himself.

He died of massive brain damage shortly after midnight Wednesday.

Doctors at Detroit's Sinai Hospital said Adler, 59, was in very critical condition.

BRILLIANT STUDENT

"The result of a conference Wednesday...was not to alter the current management (of the case) at this time," a hospital spokesman said.

Wisnitsky was a former Woodward Wilson scholar at the University of Michigan where he was described by instructors as a brilliant student.

He was admitted to a mental hospital last August, but walked away about one month later. He was discharged from the hospital by court order Nov. 24 and had been receiving counseling from Adler.

Surgeons have operated twice on Adler, attempting to remove bone splinters from his brain and relieve pressure caused by blood or other fluids.

He was reported slightly improved after Monday's operation, but suffered a slight relapse Wednesday, doctors said.

Mrs. Goldie Adler, wife of the rabbi, said today: "We feel sympathy for them (Wisnitsky's parents), and were I with them, I would press their hands."

AGREED TO LEAVE — Under it, the armed forces minister, Navy Capt. Francisco J. Rivera Camarero, agreed to see that his Jan. 6 order transferring military leaders to diplomatic posts abroad was fully obeyed.

The strike was called eight days ago to protest police violence during a Communist-led student demonstration in which three students were killed. But moderate and extreme leftists used the walkout to pressure the government into ousting the military leaders who had refused to obey the presidential order.

City Businessman Heads Fund Drive Committee

BIRMINGHAM — Edward Chudik has been named chairman of the business solicitors committee for the 1966 Community House Fund Drive.

Chudik, his wife, Barbara and two teen-age sons live at 1921 Lone Pine, Bloomfield Hills.

Prior to opening the fur and apparel salon bearing his name five years ago, Chudik owned and operated the fur department of Milgrim's in Detroit for 10 years.

Born in Milwaukee, Chudik comes from a family of furriers who came to the United States from Czechoslovakia. His father and nine brothers have all been furriers.

A graduate of the School of Business and Finance of the University of Wisconsin, Chudik was president of the Birmingham-Bloomfield Chamber of Commerce, retail division, in 1964.

The Community House will host the fourth in its current series of lectures, "A Guide to Wise Investing," at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

John K. Martin, manager of the Birmingham office of the investment firm of Goodbody and Co., will be the lecturer.

Martin, who has been in the brokerage business for more than a decade, will discuss mutual funds in detail, presenting their positive and negative factors.

A local resident for 41 years, Martin earned his degree from the School of Business Administration at the University of Michigan.

Scientific Satellite Put Into Orbit by French

HAMMAGUIR, Algeria (AP) — France today successfully fired a three-stage rocket and put a 41-pound scientific satellite into orbit. It was the second all-French launching of a satellite.

After two failures due to mechanical troubles last Friday and Saturday, the liquid-fueled Diamond 11 rocket lifted off from this base on the edge of the Sahara.

Humphrey, India Leader Talk; $100-Million Loan Is Offered

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—U.S. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey offered India a $100-million loan today, an official U.S. source reported.

The loan is for importing urgently needed raw materials to get India's industry, now running at 50 per cent capacity in many sectors, speeded up, the source said.

The offer does not constitute a resumption of American development aid, which was halted during India's war with neighboring Pakistan in September, the informant said.

Humphrey, in India for a short visit, announced Tuesday night Pakistan would get a $50-million loan to import commodities needed to speed up its economic progress.

QUESTION OPEN

The United States has stepped up shipments of food grains to famine-threatened India; but the curtailment of development aid has seriously hamstrung the economy, which has been faltering for years.

American funds had been used for importing raw goods and spare parts to keep India's industrial machine going. One top-ranking official estimated it would take six weeks or more to get it going again if large-scale aid was resumed.

Coming on top of India's three and a half years has started severe food crisis, the economic trouble.

POSSIBLE TOPIC

This was thought to be one of the subjects discussed between Mrs. Gandhi and Humphrey when they met in her office this afternoon.

Wearing a flowing sari, Mrs. Gandhi greeted Humphrey on the steps of her office. Their conference was attended by her close aides, President Johnson's moving ambassador, W. Averell Harriman, and the U.S. ambassador to India, Chester Bowles.

During a tour of farm development projects and a new agricultural university in India's Punjab State Wednesday, Humphrey said the United States "is ready and willing, in fact, we look for the opportunity to share" American abundance.

He told Indian farm researchers: "What India wants and what India will receive is the help of technical experts, of seed, of equipment, of the resources that are required to build a modern agricultural society or a modern agricultural plant."

After meeting with the food, finance and planning ministers, the vice president had an appointment with Defense Minister Y.B. Chavan and the service chiefs of staff.

Retiree Makes Travel a Hobby

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Miss Dorothy Hiatt, a librarian, retired and decided to go camping. Her camping expeditions have now stretched to three continents.

Miss Hiatt has found her trips no strain on her limited budget. She explains, "Before I retired, I saved enough money for our European trip. While I was away, my pension accumulated enough to finance my trip to Alaska. During that tour, my pension provided enough for my South American camping trip."

Oklahoma City, Loyola Impressive

Top Independents Eye NCAA Tournament Berths

By The Associated Press

Chicago Loyola and Oklahoma City, two of the nation's top independents, have moved closer to their objective of landing a bid to next month's NCAA tournament that determines the national collegiate basketball champion.

The Loyola Ramblers, fourth-ranked nationally in this week's Associated Press poll, invaded Dayton, Ohio, Wednesday night and scored an impressive 77-72 victory over the Dayton Flyers, another leading independent. It was Loyola's 19th victory against two defeats.

The Oklahoma City Chiefs also won impressively on the road. They came from 12 points back to defeat West Texas 87-80 game.

at Canyon, Tex. It was the Chiefs' 10th in a row, their 14th victory in their last 15 games and upped their season record to 20-3.

Penn State, Virginia Tech and Temple similarly kept alive their hopes for a postseason tournament bid.

Penn State 144, rolled over West Virginia 108-81 for its 25th straight home court victory. Virginia Tech, 17-4, downed The Citadel on the road 67-61. Temple, 18-5, crushed Fordham 91-74 in the opener of a doubleheader at the Palestra in Philadelphia. Villanova routed St. Bonaventure 93-81 in the second game behind Bill Melchionni's 44 points.

The Oklahoma City Chiefs also won impressively on the road. They came from 12 points back to defeat West Texas 87-80 game.

Chicago Loyola, the only team in the AP Top Ten to play Wednesday, weathered a furious late rally by Dayton. A sellout crowd of 5,800 cheered as the Flyers, behind by 12 points at 68-56, cut the deficit to one point at 73-72 in the last minute. The Ramblers held on as Jim Coleman converted twice from the foul line and Doug Wardlaw scored a two-pointer at the final buzzer.

Melchionni's 44 points against St. Bonaventure was only two points short of the Palestra record of 46 set by another Villanova star, Bob Schafer, in 1954. The Bonnies led by 38-37 early in the second half before one of Melchionni's 15 field goals gave him the road 71-64 for an outright triumph over Mississippi State. Toledo also beat the Mid-American Conference at home, Georgia beat Auburn 83-74, Xavier of Ohio downed Marquette 82-78 and the Air Force whipped Valparaiso 98-69.
