AFL Leaders Expect Earlier Vote Campaign

To Step Up '56 Political Activity if Parties OK August Conventions

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — With both political parties planning a shorter presidential campaign in 1956, AFL leaders expect an earlier start in trying to whip up political interest among workers.

Union chiefs of the 10-million-member AFL plan to devote today's session of their winter meetings to mapping strategy for next year's election campaign.

James L. McDevitt, director of Labor's League for Political Education, the AFL's political arm, said that if the two parties hold 1956 nominating conventions in August as indicated, instead of July as in 1952, the AFL will step up its vote-getting drive.

McDevitt said the AFL collected and spent its largest political funds in history in the last election. He did not say how much, but the AFL has adopted a plan of assessing unions and collecting contributions from members on an annual basis, rather than only in election years.

Under the law, the contributions can be used to help candidates, but the union treasury assessment may be used only to "educate" union members on political issues.

That the AFL is still inclined toward the Democratic party was evident in comments made yesterday by AFL President George Meany to reporters. Asked how he felt about President Eisenhower's administration, Meany replied: "I feel the administration is definitely pro-business to the extent that the welfare of the great mass of workers of this country is being completely ignored, any statements of the President to the contrary notwithstanding."

Premiers Take Economic Pulse

Commonwealth Chiefs Keep Anxious Watch on Formosa Crisis

LONDON (AP) — The British Commonwealth prime ministers turned today to an examination of the economic health of their nine nations but kept an anxious watch on the explosive Formosa situation.

Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer Richard A. Butler was scheduled to give the conferring premiers a general survey of the Commonwealth's economic and financial position.

Informants said Butler's report would deal with the prospect of liberalizing trade with America.

They expected him to examine the problem of making the pound sterling convertible into other currencies without setting any time table for realizing that objective.

Meanwhile, the Colombo powers, three of whom — India, Pakistan and Ceylon — are represented at the Commonwealth meeting, were seen as possible intermediaries in Formosa if the United Nations Security Council fails in its peace moves.

Representatives of the two other Colombo nations — Indonesian Ambassador to London Raden Supomo and Burmese Charge d'Affaires Sod Boonwat, called on India's Prime Minister Nehru yesterday. It was learned later that Supomo suggested to Nehru that the Colombo group mediate in the crisis if the council's efforts bog down.

They're Sure to Say, 'Better Hire a Train'

DRIGGS, Idaho (AP) — Postal authorities are planning to switch mail deliveries from trains to highway vehicles on a route that passes through here. They were scheduled to tell Driggs residents yesterday why the move means better service for them.

A crowd waited for several hours but the postal officials never showed up. Seems the roads, in the wake of a snowstorm, were too bad for travel.

Health Authorities Urge Fluoridation of Water

DETROIT (INS) — Medical specialists from the U. S. and Canada joined last night in urging more widespread adoption of water fluoridation to prevent tooth decay.

Dr. Thomas Parran, former surgeon general of the U. S. Public Health Service, said the fluoridation process has been proved scientifically to be "simple, cheap, effective and completely safe."

Dr. Parran, who currently is dean of the University of Pittsburgh Graduate School of Public Health, was one of the speakers at a banquet which the Detroit District Dental Society marked the completion of the ten-year study of fluoridation in Grand Rapids.

Dr. Parran asserted: "Those who oppose fluoridation are the same kind of people as those who opposed chlorination of the water supply and pasteurization of milk."

"They overlooked the important point that only through these measures could water and milk be made safe."

He added: "Every scientific organization having any competence in the field has joined in endorsing fluoridation."

However, extension of the fluoridation process also was recommended to the dental society last night by Dr. William L. Hutton of Brantford, Ont., Canada's leading authority on fluoridation.

The 66-year-old physician declared:

"Let me assure you of this: 'Brantford has been fluoridating its water since 1945 and the results are almost too marvelous to describe. There are no ill effects whatsoever.'"

Dr. Hutton is director of health for Brantford, which was the first (Continued on page 16, col. 7)

Local Petitions Ask for Vote on Fluorine

In some copies of Wednesday's Pontiac Press it was stated that petitions are being circulated here to ban water fluoridation in Pontiac. Actually the petitions ask that the issue be put up to the voters who will be asked to vote on a proposed ordinance to ban fluoridation of Pontiac's water supply.

Mendes Regime Likely to Topple on African Issue

French Premier Loses Support of Colleague Rene Mayer

PARIS (AP) — Premier Pierre Mendes-France's government was in grave danger tonight.

Radical Socialist Rene Mayer told Mendes-France, a fellow party member, that he would vote against him in the present debate on the Premier's North African policy.

Mayer's decision probably means the crumbling of Mendes-France's majority in the National Assembly and the downfall of his government.

Mayer spoke to a hushed Assembly at the start of the second day of debate on the North African question. He was applauded frequently by what appeared to be more than half of the approximately 550 deputies present. Joining in the applause seemed to be many followers of Gen. Charles de Gaulle, who also has supported Mendes-France in the past.

Mayer, in the dramatic conclusion of his hour-long speech, addressed the Premier directly and said, "In the past you have often asked for a renewal of confidence. In this case I cannot renew mine."

The Premier was expected to call for a confidence vote sometime before midnight, requiring him to resign if he loses. The vote should come early Saturday.

The government was accused yesterday both of going too far and not going far enough in offering greater self-government to the North Africans.

Several Communist deputies charged the government had done too little. But other speakers, chiefly from the extreme right, insisted trouble in Algeria had been fomented only after the government showed weakness in France's protectorate of Tunisia, where negotiations for local self-government have dragged on for months.

Boxcar Rams House; 6 Hurt

Part of Derailed Train Plunges Into Ohio Home as Family Sleeps

LONDON, Ohio (AP) — Six members of a London family were injured early today when one of 19 freight cars derailed in a New York Central railroad accident crashed into their home as they slept.

The derailment occurred in the center of this town of 5,300 shortly after 4 a.m.

All New York Central trains on the Big Four division were being rerouted through Dayton, some on the Pennsylvania line.

Ralph Scurry, 43; his wife Gladys 43; and their four children were injured as the derailed boxcar left the tracks with the other 18, struck a residence garage and then slammed into the bedroom of the Scurry home.

Scurry was pinned in his bed in the demolished room, with the boxcar towering over him. Mrs. Scurry climbed out though the big hole punched out of the wall, to summon aid. She suffered cuts and bruises.

Scurry had only abrasions. The four Scurry children had minor bruises.

And in Salem, Ohio, six cars-five sleepers and mail-express car—of the Pennsylvania Railroad's eastbound Gotham Limited derailed early today at nearby Leontonia.

The PRR said the cars remained upright after leaving the track and nobody was hurt. The derailment occurred five miles east of Salem about 7:50 a.m., shortly after the train passed over a small stream.

The railroad said the cause was not immediately determined. A spokesman said no rerouting was necessary. One other track was open.

Chinese Nationalists Stay on Alert

Chiang Drafts Undergoing Stiff Infantry Training

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — Motorcades of young Chinese Nationalist army draftees snake through the streets of this capital city daily on their way to rugged infantry training.

The automobiles bearing the young draftees—90 per cent of them native Formosans—are festooned with bright banners calling for a staunch defense of Formosa. The draftees pitch out crackling strings of firecrackers.

After their big send-off, the men are loaded on trains and taken to Nationalist training camps, where their terms of service range from 3 to 10 months. Younger soldiers get the longer terms.

Draft age is 18 to 44 but the vast majority of draftees appear to be the minimum age.

The Nationalists say 100,000 men have been drafted for this service in the last five years. After their training is complete, the men are released but are kept in the army reserve.

Training in many units is crisp and efficient. Chinese Army units are organized from battalion down almost exactly like American units and are equipped with the same weapons and vehicles.

The troops wear the dull green fatigue uniforms of U. S. soldiers but the suits are altered to the high-neck Chinese style for both officers and men. Training is heavy on camouflage.

The training of many units is climaxed by a rough week in the field on night and day maneuvers.

Crews Bring Aid to Tornado Areas

America Reels as Winter Lands 2nd Heavy Punch

Winter hit the nation with its second heavy blow of the season today, sending the mercury skidding below zero in New York City and whipping sunny California with cold, destructive winds.

Meanwhile, a growing storm dumped up to 13 inches of snow on Wyoming and moved into New Mexico and Colorado on the heels of 50-mile-per-hour wind gusts.

The second invasion of icy Arctic air in two weeks blanketed most of the nation from the Mississippi Valley to the Atlantic Ocean.

Northern New England, which didn't even have a letup from last week's cold wave, was hit hardest. The temperature went to 23 below zero at Newport, Vt., nine below at Albany, N. Y., and zero at Boston, Mass.

The Arctic front swept into the east on Ground Hog Day yesterday hitting New York City with a 3.7 inch snowfall, the heaviest of the year in the metropolis.

Manhattan also shivered in its coldest temperature of the season when the mercury went a fraction below zero early today. Low- (Continued on page 16, col. 6)

Bishop Emrich Urges Church Desegregation

DETROIT (AP) — The Rt. Rev. Richard S. Emrich, bishop of the Michigan Episcopal diocese, has called on churches in the diocese to accept members of "every racial and cultural background."

At the annual diocesan convention, he urged the churches to do "on the basis of love" what the U. S. Supreme Court did "on the basis of law and justice." He referred to the court's ruling last year against segregated schools.

Your Food May Be Spoil-Proof

Human Guinea Pigs Will Test Diet Treated by Radioactive Cobalt Rays

DENVER (INS) — Atomic age food know-how is expected to be greatly benefited from an experiment which begins March 1 at Fitzsimons Army Hospital at Denver.

On that day 10 conscientious objectors begin a regular diet of foods bombarded by ionized radiation from radioactive cobalt.

The experiment in using ionized radiation to preserve foods, will be conducted by experts of the U. S. Army Medical Nutrition Laboratory located at Fitzsimons Hospital.

Scientists at the University of Michigan, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the National Meat Institute and many other government and university research committees are cooperating in the tests.

Laboratory spokesmen emphasized that food to be consumed in the experiment will not be subjected to "atomic" radiation, but rather ionized radiation from cobalt, long employed in the radiological treatment of cancer.

Experimentation thus far has proven that light exposure to the ionized radiation kills bacteria in certain foodstuffs, which already have been canned.

The work indicates that if kept relatively cool, the foods are apparently rid of the danger of spoilage. Over-radiation will ruin the foods, but its effects on the digestive system are not known yet.

Chiang Fears Other Outposts Will Be Pawns

Nationalists' Bombers, Artillery Hammer Red Land and Sea Targets

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — Nationalist bombers and outpost island artillery pounded Chinese Communist land targets and shipping yesterday and last night along a 350-mile oceanic front from Formosa Strait northward into the East China Sea.

There were no reports of Communist action.

While Chiang Kai-shek's airmen and gunners carried on the furious civil war, the whole issue of a Nationalist pullout from the menaced Tachen Islands 200 miles north of Formosa appeared to be hanging in the balance today because of U. S. reluctance to give clear-cut guarantees for the protection of the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

Reports from London claim that Red China might agree to an unwritten cease-fire in the troubled Formosa area in exchange for the islands.

This produced angry reaction here today.

Said one Nationalist officer: "We start by talking about the evacuation of the Tachens in the interest of peace and now we are talking about giving up every outlying island."

Chiang Kai-shek's people fear the crisis, precipitated by Communist seizure of tiny Yikiangshan, will wind up in what they consider the old and discouraging pattern of more concessions to the Reds.

It was also felt here that disagreement between the Nationalists and the United States is playing into the hands of those who are willing to give the maximum to Communists China.

Until a few days ago there were indications that if Chiang agreed to evacuate the exposed and threatened Tachens, the United States would agree to help him defend Matsu and Quemoy.

Figures Show TB Cases Nearly Equal Unused Beds

Two events within recent weeks have served to emphasize the great progress that has been made toward the conquest of tuberculosis.

The first of these was the closing December 1, for lack of patients, of the Trudeau Sanatorium at Saranac Lake, N. Y. The other was the threat by State Sen. PORTER of Blissfield, appropriations committee chairman, to wield the economy knife on tuberculosis sanatorium funds because there are more beds than patients.

The Trudeau institution was the country's oldest sanatorium. When it was founded 70 years ago the TB death rate was terrific. Fifteen years later in 1900, the rate was 200 deaths per 100,000 population. Today it is only 12.6 per 100,000.

Back of Sen. PORTER's economy threat is the fact that there are 833 beds in the four State sanatoriums but only 484 patients. It also is a fact that there are 12,660 beds in county institutions and that 2,771 of them are vacant.

The large number of unoccupied beds is an aftermath of the 1951 "pork barrel" expansion of TB facilities. But the number of vacant beds may be deceiving. That, at least, is the contention of Dr. JOHN A. COWAN, the State's expert on TB control.

The answer, he says, is not to close sanatoriums but "to get into the hospitals those patients who have the disease, who aren't hospitalized and who can endanger the rest of the population." He puts the number of such known active cases at 2,976, including 1,805 who have the disease in an advanced stage.

The number of patients who have left sanatoriums against medical advice increased 71 per cent between 1949 and 1953. That increase is attributed to the widespread belief in the magic of the so called wonder drugs. It also may result from the fact that while the law can commit a TB patient to a sanatorium, it can't keep him there.

The PRESS favors all reasonable sanatorium economy. But it seems to us that Dr. COWAN's contention deserves consideration. Getting more TB victims into hospitals not only would fill many of the beds but would speed the final conquest of this disease.

Driver Exams Stiffened

In a praiseworthy effort to reduce further the terrible toll of highway traffic, Michigan's Department of State is stiffening its examinations for new drivers.

Henceforth applicants for first licenses will be required to answer 100 instead of 40 "check the correct answer" questions. These were developed by the State Police with the help of Northwestern University's traffic institute.

After testing 345 high school students and 65 National Guardsmen, two Michigan State College professors decided that to pass this test one must not have more than seven wrong answers. This test also must be taken by new residents of the State and by drivers who have allowed their licenses to lapse. Applicants for new licenses who are under 18 must be accompanied to the licensing office by a parent. Drivers seeking renewals need only to pass the eye test.

The aim of this stiffened test is to make as sure as humanly possible that all of the thousands of new drivers know the rules of the road.

Secretary of State HARR's department is to be commended for this latest step toward greater traffic safety.

Manila Reoccupied 10 Years Ago Today

It was on February 3, 1945, that U. S. forces under Gen. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR, reoccupied the Philippines' capital city of Manila.

The return of our forces came two years and nine months after the last American had surrendered to the Japanese on Bataan peninsula.

After their landing on Luzon's Lingayen Gulf, our forces had almost unchallenged command of the air and sea. This enabled them to envelop Manila quickly from three sides, although it was some days before the last Japanese snipers' rifles were silenced.

In the 10 years since that historic date, the Republic of the Philippines was born with our blessing and it continues to be a show case for democracy in the Orient.

So PROSPEROUS were Americans in 1954 that they could afford four million new babies—a figure that represents considerably more than half the number of new cars they were able to acquire!

"MONEY talks"—and it's a great pity that in so many cases it talks loud enough to drown out the voice of conscience.

The Man About Town Delinquent Parents

Pontiac Man Tells of His Work in City of Detroit

Truth: The longest word in the English language—it's stretched so much.

An example of parental promotion of juvenile delinquency comes to me from a Pontiac man who has been working on a house to house solicitation job in Detroit. When he has been making a call on a home and is about to leave, he finds that the children have hidden his hat, and will not produce it unless they get a 50 cent tip. Parents uphold their children in the racket, and often brag about the money they collect that way. The practice has become so prevalent that it adds $5 or more per day to the solicitor's expense account. The architect of this column is sure no Pontiac family would stoop so low.

Too many people when they make up their minds do not wish to be confused with the facts, according to Robert Hodge, Secretary and Treasurer of the Pontiac Coon Hunters' Club.

Lewis M. Wrenn, tells me that the sport still is quite popular in this area. The club's recent annual meeting was attended by 78 hunters of this smiling faced animal.

Wooden highway bridges, of which Oakland County once had several hundred, now are quite a rarity. Our older residents remember the rattling planks. Do you know of any still in use?

A new power ice shaver is in operation at Oakland County's largest outdoor skating rink at Kent Lake Park, just south of Milford, and Superintendent Dave Laidlaw says it keeps the ice in top shape. The rink is lighted at night, with shelters at hand, and is patronized by thousands. It is on the property of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority and open to everybody.

Now in Florida on his winter vacation, George Weymouth writes that he saw a traffic sign in Georgia: "A drinking driver needs a cop for a chaser."

Competitive neighborliness is shown by a sign on the door of a Flint restaurant: "Closed today, but they serve good meals next door."

Changing times are shown by a diary and cash account left by the late Ellsworth Christopher,

well known Pontiac resident in the closing years of the last century, and now in the possession of his daughter. He spent a week at the Chicago World's Fair of 1893 at a total cost of $18.53. Of this $5 went for his round trip railroad fare to Chicago, $7 for board and room there for a week, $3.50 for seven admissions to the fair, and $3.03 for "incidentals."

"No, I'm Not a Bull or a Bear—Guess Again"

David Lawrence Says: TV May Force President to Hold Dual Press Talks

WASHINGTON — Maybe President Eisenhower will have to give consideration soon to the idea of two separate press conferences — one for the television cameras and one for the newspapermen who are not interested in dramatic effects but solely in news.

With characteristic good nature and sense of fairness, the President, through his able press secretary, James Hagerty, arranged to have certain sections of his regular press conference released for the films. So unfamiliar are the cameramen with the customs and traditions of newspapermen that immediately a hue and cry was set up that the White House was "censoring" the news. On Capitol Hill it was even whispered by partisans as a consequence that the President was releasing only the stuff that would make good political propaganda.

What was overlooked by the cameramen was that "censorship" is a word used to describe suppression. Because certain sections of the conference were not released for TV didn't mean that what the President said was withheld.

All the newsmen — and they represent every press wire service — and all the commentators who give news broadcasts on TV or radio were still permitted to write everything they heard but not, of course, in first-person quotations. Because a stenographic record is kept of these conferences and is available a few hours afterward, the news writers can paraphrase in the third person and give it all to the public the same day.

It was most unfortunate that any of the cameramen spread the idea that some kind of censorship was being introduced.

Actually, for many years it has been customary for presidents to speak off the cuff and then later on, if they liked, to release for first-person quotation various sections of the transcript which the newspapers might have requested for use without the paraphrase.

It so happens that, with the TV cameras and film machines recording the transcript for the first time all that the White House did was to use the same rule that had been applied previously — it selected certain sections for first-person quotation. For, after all, it would not be possible to have the TV cameras carry on their networks any quotations that were denied to the news writers.

Even if the White House were disposed to release certain sections of the transcript of a presidential press conference to the newspapers and radio, and not to TV, it would be within its rights. For there are times when a President stumbles in giving an answer, and this could produce an adverse impression to the eye. But thus far anything that has been released for first-person quotation to the press has been given to the cameramen to use in the newsreels or the TV.

It is, of course, questionable whether in the long run the coverage of the press conferences by films will redound to the political advantage of the President or will be good for TV, either. This is because in a prepared speech the President can speak more effectively than in an impromptu talk.

The public also may get bored with the press conferences on TV because most of the time the camera is focused on the President and there is little of the atmosphere of being present at a conference. The face of none of the questioners was shown, for instance, in the first press conference that was filmed on TV. If the entire conference were shown on the screen, then the President would appear distant from the eye because it takes place in a large room with a couple hundred correspondents in it.

Many of the questions and answers at a press conference may be important to those familiar with the subject matter, but a mass audience will not long take an interest in a rambling discourse on the number of kilowatt hours that needs to be furnished through a Dixon-Yates contract or the fine points of a security-problem check-up.

If the TV folks want a theatrical showing, they could get a better one by having a separate filming in which the President carefully acted out for their benefit certain parts of his conference with the press or if the TV men themselves staged something more dramatic. But the present arrangement can only in the end prove less and less valuable as a means of getting information needed as background.

For a President who feels he is going to be checked up and called a suppressor or censor of news because he hesitates to release everything, he says at a press conference is likely to wind up with a "no comment" habit on vital matters.

What's important is not the development of the press conference into a show but its continuance as a serious institution wherein the people, represented by the press, can get a maximum amount of information from the President in any way he chooses to give it — off the record or on the record, in the third-person paraphrase or in first-person quotes.

'One of the Social Security Victims' Tells of Becoming Blind Before Reaching 65

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical, so its nature.

After reading the recent letters regarding the lowering of Social Security payments to 60 years of age, I heartily agree.

After paying into Social Security for many years, I awoke one morning to find myself totally blind at the age of 50 and not able to earn another nickel.

I went to the Social Security office and stated my case. They were very sorry for me, but there was nothing they could do until I was 65. But I would not have anything to worry about because my wife could collect what I have into it right away if I should die.

Now what was I supposed to do until I got to be 65?

One of the Social Security Victims

Social Security Unsounded, Says 'Thinking Unsound'

Let's take the bugaboo out of Social Security. Is it sound? Thinking people do not think it is sound and do not think we can get something for little or nothing.

How is it possible for a man age 63½ to work 1½ years and pay into Social Security only $252 and then retire at age 65 and get $108.50 per month for life and if his wife is living and age 65, to get a total of $162.80 per month for life?

Any life insurance company would go broke offering to do so because they are not miracle workers and neither is your government. That is one reason it is not sound.

Your employer is now paying 2 per cent of the first $4,200 of income you earn. You are paying another 2 per cent of the same first $4,200 of income each year. This means that you are paying $84 a year and your employer $84 a year for you, totaling $168 per year.

If you and your employer pay in for 43 years, starting at age 21, and if you and your wife die by the time you are age 64 and the government pays only $252 at death and no more, what have you and your employer paid in? Answer is $7,234.

A life insurance company would at least return the $7,234 you and your employer paid into an annuity.

Thinking Taxpayer

Sees Need for Earlier Social Security Payments

In answer to "Nearing 60," I am greatly in favor of Social Security payments starting at the age of 60. Although it won't help me as I am nearly 65, but for others like myself, after 55 or 60 no one wants you.

No matter how much experience you have, how well you can perform your work, when you apply for a job it's always, "I am sorry but I can't use you." I have had that thrown at me for 1½ years.

Wife Can Save a Waning Marriage If She Decides to Use Proper Strategy

Laura's husband grew tired of her prima donna behavior in the bedroom, so he told her off. She had browbeaten him for almost 25 years before he revolted. And now she wants to win him back again. Do you readers think it is possible for her to do so?

"Now he is his own boss. He goes when he pleases and where he pleases without even consulting me."

"He is really a wonderful man and I love him. But your sex bulletins weren't available 25 years ago so I started off on the wrong foot."

"Now I wish I could change the past. Is it too late to revive a waning romance with one's husband? Could I possibly regain his love and admiration? I'll do anything, for I now see my tragic mistakes."

In the field of religion, Jesus showed that repentance could occur even with one's dying breath. One of the two thieves who were crucified beside Christ, thus repented at the last moment.

And the same last-minute change can occur in love if you face the situation honestly and utilize the correct strategy.

So I urged Laura to give her husband my bulletin "Sex Prob-

Suggest Social Security at 60 Be Optional

We think that Social Security should be drawn at the age of 60 if so desired. On the other hand, if a person wants to work until he is 65 he should be allowed to do so.

A lot of people are not able to work at 60 and a lot of them would rather die than sit around and do nothing. Why couldn't this be put to a vote so some action would be taken on it?

We also would like to know why Pontiac doesn't have student prices at all shows and places of entertainment like other cities around here have.

The teenagers could afford to go more places and that would keep more of them off the streets.

I wonder if another old timer feels like I do about smoking? I have seen so many women smoking in public, it sure is disgusting. Yes, women smoking in schools and men too, even when there are "positively no smoking" signs in the rooms.

I don't object to smoking but I know two old timers who still chew tobacco and I am thinking of carrying a wad of that and plenty of gum to the P.T.A. meetings in our local schools to offer those adults who don't know enough to use the lavatory to smoke in when a lounge room is not provided.

I'm against fluoridation. It costs about twenty-five cents a year for each taxpayer. I'd rather have the twenty-five cents.

Earl Wilson's Column Immodest, Says Reader

Earl Wilson's column creating immodesty and lust of the flesh is contrary to our Christian ethics. It is another major factor contributing to our juvenile delinquency. It is no doubt that our young people have obtained the wrong conception of the life of man, as revealed by Dr. Whitmer and the school staff recently.

Prolonged Joint Ailment Is Probably Rheumatiz

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

After two years of treatment with medicine and shots for so-called "arthritis," I realized I was steadily getting no better. So I discontinued the doctor's treatment, wrote for my pamphlet on Rheumatiz, began Ca. D and B complex as you suggest. That was in April, '54.

Have never seen my doctor since. All of the pain has left my knees and I feel fine. Married 46 years, now in my 70th year and hoping we celebrate our golden wedding... so I am enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope for "The Iodine Ration." We are grateful... (Mrs. E. J. C.)

Now, see here. The pamphlet Calcium and Rheumatiz is available on written request, if you provide stamped, self-addressed envelope. When you send for it you had better enclose ten cents and ask for The Iodine Ration, too.

Drat it, I was about to subject the amiable Mrs. E. J. C. to a brisk round of choice grade A invective. I might have asked whether the Rheumatiz pamphlet is too long, or whether the print is too fine, or whether my language is not intelligible. In short why in the + why do so many readers start on the Ca and D and the B-complex and become interested in I only months later, if at all?

We, as individuals, and institutions should be dedicated to the creating of the very finest we can produce.

The victory dinners are $100 a plate but you cannot afford to lose. That's $100 a plate too.

At the last $100-a-dish basket party a Vermont guest demanded a recount. He preferred to hitch his star to a wagon lunch.

George Washington ate a victory dinner at Valley Forge of snowballs. When he got back from Trenton he put raisins in 'em.

The next triumphal brunch was staged by Sam Houston at San Jacinto. Sam ate corn-on-the-cob the hard way. No butter and no teeth.

These el scottos are expensive. When I pay one hundred claims for a dinner I want my teeth picked by a certified public accountant. I don't want to cheat myself.

The idea behind the idea is still another idea. A big siren is brought in with the waiter wading in the gray. Then the host asks the guests, "What'll you have?" and takes it himself. The food is so rich they boil down the paper napkins for the birds.

All this business is televised in color so us voters can see what stains are going to be popular on white vests.

The diners who watch their hats and overcoats at the $100-plate dinner are silly. They have a better chance of having their trousers stolen.

Bluff Mao Lacks Polish of Chou

Top China Red Called One of World's Worst Juvenile Delinquents

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

Mao Tse-Tung, the man who will make the final decisions in Red China's struggle with the United States and Chinese Nationalists over Formosa, has been called one of the world's greatest "juvenile delinquents."

He fought bitterly with his father at the age of 12, finally ran away from home to join the army, and to make his ruthless climb to power.

Today at 61 he is the top Chinese Communist as the late Stalin was the No. 1 Red in the Kremlin.

...He and his Red aides control a vast country whose population is estimated variously to be between 585 and 600 million, with approximately 50 million of them engaged in some category of compulsory "volunteer" or slave labor in the swift Communist attempt to industrialize backward China in the image of the Soviet Union.

Mao is of peasant stock. His polished teammate, Premier and Foreign Minister Chou En-lai, comes from an aristocratic Mandarin family.

Both are fanatic Communists and have been since their youth. Chou does the diplomatic road work for the bluff Mao, who speaks the idiom of the peasant, lies too lumber through fox trots, dabbles in poetry and is an omnivorous reader.

What kind of man is the chubby, moon-faced Mao, who is somewhat taller than the average Chinese and who has somewhat feminine facial lines?

...Correspondents who knew him in the old revolutionary days, when he was accessible say he is a many-sided person who did not fit into several grooves.

There is the intellectual Mao, the man who has read Adam Smith, Darwin, John Stuart Mill, Herbert Spencer, and of course Marx, Lenin and Stalin, the man who has been a prolific pamphleteer, orator, essayist on the arts and guerrilla warfare — learned the education, who write a manual on hard way.

Then there is the hard-bitten Mao who scoffed at intellectualism and said it had no place in his way of life and could not match the bitter, practical experience of the battlefield and political fight. He was once quoted as saying to party workers in his Yenan hide-out: "I urge those who have only book knowledge but have not come in contact with realities to recognize their defects and become humble in their attitude."

Yet Mao depends much on the well-educated Chou in the diplomatic field.

Mao is rated as very shrewd, which seems natural enough considering what he has been through and how he came out on top in the deadly game he waged through the years against Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists. He has been in undisputed command of the Chinese Red party since 1934.

The game he now is waging "to liberate" Formosa is considered dangerous by Western officials because some of them wonder if Mao has learned the limit of present Chinese power.

45-Star Flag to Fly Till Someone Buys Another

PALO ALTO, Calif. (U)—When it was pointed out to City Librarian Fred Mulholland that the flag flying over the main library had only 45 stars, he hauled it down and counted.

The 45 stars meant the flag had been made between 1896 and 1907. The flag, donated by the widow of an Army colonel, had been used four or five months.

"We'll continue to use it until we get funds to buy another," he said. "It's the only one we have."

Trinidad Takes Royal Holiday for Margaret

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (U)—Trinidad took a royal holiday today to watch Princess Margaret tour this capital city. Early birds staked out claims to sidewalk vantage points for her state drive, with thousands expected to jam the route.

The princess, who landed in Trinidad Tuesday to begin a month-long tour of the British West Indies, was given a preview last night of the islands' gala carnival later this month.

Almost 800 singers and dancers appeared in the hour performance that followed a big reception at Government House. Margaret tapped her feet to the rhythm of a Calypso song written and sung in her honor by Vernon Roberts, nicknamed "Mighty Panther."

The last guest Margaret greeted at the reception was James Byran, of Dillon, S.C., who came to Trinidad in 1941 as an American soldier and stayed. Byran, who is crippled, was sitting in a wheel chair. The crowd applauded as the princess first passed by, then turned and walked up to him.

Danish Ship Reported Sinking in Baltic Sea

COPENHAGEN (U)—The light-ship marking Gedser Reef, south of Denmark's Faister Island, was reported sinking today after a collision with an unidentified ship.

The announcement of the collision from the Danish navy's information service made no mention of any casualties.

The navy said the collision occurred in foggy weather, about 10 a.m.

Faister Island is south of the big Danish island of Zealand and north of the arm of the Baltic Sea leading to the Kiel Canal.

Ex-Red to Be Asked to Explain Backtracking on Testimony

NEW YORK (U)—A federal grand jury has subpoenaed ex-Communist Harvey Hatusow, apparently to explain his repudiation of testimony he gave as a prosecution witness at the trial of 13 second-string Communist leaders on conspiracy charges.

Federal Judge Edward J. Dimmock, who presided at the 1952 trial, yesterday turned down a request by counsel for the 13 Reds that he kill the grand jury subpoena which called for Matusow's appearance tomorrow.

Instead, the judge set next Monday for Matusow's grand jury appearance. He also asked that briefs be submitted tomorrow on the motion to quash the subpoena.

Last Monday, counsel for the 13 Communists asked for a new trial on the basis of an affidavit by Matusow that he had given false testimony against several of the tened to fines and prison terms.

TV Sirep's Car Abandoned Near Pacific Ocean

LOS ANGELES (U)—The sporty convertible of Voluptua, sultry 6-foot blonde fired two days ago from a television program because she was too sexy, was found abandoned early today on a highway bordering the Pacific Ocean.

Detectives were attempting to locate the Brooklyn showgirl, who appeared in negligee before TV audiences.

In the car, registered to Gloria Pall, Voluptua's real name, were three newspapers carrying accounts of her ouster and two scribbles, detectives said. There were no signs of a struggle. The car was parked on the highway. Its keys were gone.

"We don't believe it's a suicide," said Det. Lt. Clifford Shannon. "In virtually all suicide cases, clothing is found on the beach. And no clothing was found there."

Police checked an address on the 1954 registration certificate but got no response.

Station KABC-TV said it was dropping Voluptua for commercial reasons. However, there were reports that her sensuous introductions to old movies were in bad taste.

But she had little reason to feel depressed about losing her job. Yesterday she was hired for a part in another TV show.

Between 1939 and 1952 industrial wages in Sweden rose by about 200 per cent.

'Red Tide' Fight Goes Forward

Researcher May Soon Know Method to Curb Gulf Fish Killer

GALVESTON, Tex. (UP) — A marine biologist here soon may have the answer to a question that has baffled scientists since a strange "red tide" began killing millions of fish off Florida's Gulf Coast.

William Wilson, biologist of the U. S. fish and wildlife station, has succeeded in reproducing the deadly tide, something that has not been done before because no one has been able to keep a going culture alive.

Wilson will team up with Mrs. Jacqueline Hynes, a University of Florida researcher, to find the way to eliminate the destructive fish-killer. Mrs. Hynes recently reported she believes dusting coastal water with charcoal may be the answer.

The organism, the one-celled Gymnodinium brevis, ordinarily is present and quite harmless in coastal waters.

However, and this is what has puzzled scientists, it will suddenly run wild and form colonies of highly poisonous "blooms."

The "blooms" color the waters crimson, cause an irritating odor, deprive resort and fishing industries of business and prevent persons from using beaches in competition with dead and dying fish.

Only recently did marine biologists culture the microscopic organism in a collection of glass tanks, bottles, jars and vials here. But they couldn't make it "bloom" into the deadly "red tide."

Wilson found out what particular weather conditions and what abundance of particular food caused the organism to breed with fantastic speed to produce the swarming. He introduced some fish to the "bloom," and they died, quickly.

For some reason or other, the "red tide" has never appeared in volume on the Texas Gulf Coast. The Florida coast has been the worst hit. The coastal shores of California, Africa and Chili also have been affected in the last five years.

Mrs. Hynes is expected here in the near future to try her new method on the organisms in Wilson's tank laboratory.

She said the method looks "promising" because activated charcoal absorbs food elements vital to the "red tide" organisms.

"We hope by this method to simply starve them to death," she said.

Much of the once-fertile soil of Iran, Syria, Greece, Italy and North Africa has now become barren land because of extensive soil erosion.

Authority Says Specialization Is Key to Successful Teamwork for Retired

Supplement to Income Often Needed

By ANNE HEYWOOD
Many retired couples need to have some kind of activity to supplement their pensions and social security. Recently, a great many have asked my advice about wood-working projects.

They have some tools and equipment, and frequently this has been the husband's hobby for years before retiring. But what to do with it, and how to make a profit?

The first rule is to specialize. You can't expect to turn out all kinds of gadgets—toys, furniture, lamps, etc. and get anywhere. Your expenses will be too high, because you'll need a variety of tools and materials.

If you stick to one item, or one service, your costs will be lower, and you can create a demand for that one thing which will give you a regular market.

Second, let each of the partners have his or her own work to do, and stick to it. This makes for more efficiency, and less battles! If hubby is doing the actual wood-working, let wife do the painting or refinishing, and perhaps the marketing. However you break it down, be sure each has his own duties.

Here are a few specialties which people I know of have handled successfully:

1. Furniture repair and refinishing, handled beautifully and inexpensively. This couple does work for antique shops and furniture collectors, and charges slightly less than some of the top names in their community. The husband does the work, the wife makes the contacts, gets the business, and in a station wagon does the pickup and delivery.

2. Dog houses. This couple makes dog houses, charming ones, and has built up quite a reputation and quite a nice business.

IF not five feet high—

Keep all detail high on your tiny person, preferably above the waistline. Straight pleats and cropped jacket charming.

Mrs. F. H.—The problem of what to wear as a span-season outfit before summer-weight cottons and linens is solved by the beautiful new dark silk prints. Both slim and full silhouettes with particular emphasis on pleats in the first spring dresses.

3. Old-fashioned doll cradles. This couple makes lovely cradles, based on an old Dutch design, which are in terrific demand for Christmas, and for little girls' birthday presents.

4. Toy wheelbarrows. This couple makes small replicas of grown-ups' wheelbarrows, just the right size for small boys who want to help around the yard. They are sturdy and well built, and sell regularly at a good price.

Woman on Ship Likes Her Job

SOUTH HAVEN, Mich. (UP)—Being the only woman member of a ship's crew is fun, says Aase Norman, a former stenographer in Oslo, Norway, who now is a member of the crew of the Norwegian freighter Ravnfjell.

Three years ago, Miss Norman quit her job in a government office. Two months later she was aboard ship as a "mess girl."

Since then, Miss Norman has been all over the world. Most of the time she has been the only woman aboard the ship, which landed here with a load of wood pulp.

What's it like being the only woman on a ship?

"It's no problem at all, Miss Norman said. 'The men are very nice.'"

Miss Norman has no trouble getting a date in port. She's been out with most of the 23 men on the ship and they've taken her to some of the most expensive night-clubs in the world.

For a season when most women want to show as much hair as possible, this little knot effects of draped white straw braid headdress-hat is the answer. Important, too give it an airy, easy look.

Leather Shoes Soles Help

Wet Feet Cause Colds

A miracle cure for the common cold is in the offing, a medical research team reports, but in the meantime family doctors continue to use a verbal vaccine that was probably first prescribed by Hippocrates himself:

"Keep your feet warm and dry, and don't sit around in drafts."

Chilled, wet feet are one of the most common causes of colds, the medical men say, and can touch off a lot of foot troubles, too. But this doesn't mean you should suffocate your feet in extra-heavy socks and shoes made of impermeable materials.

They'll make your feet perspire, leaving them prey to blisters, skin irritations, and even frostbite when the weather gets cold enough to freeze the un-evaporated moisture.

To keep your feet at a comfortable temperature, doctors recommend the wearing of medium-weight hose and all-leather shoes. Leathers finely interwoven fibers are a natural insulating material, permitting the feet to "breathe" and thus quickly evaporate foot moisture, while allowing cool, dry air to enter the shoes.

Your feet will weather the winter months better—and give your respiratory system greater resistance to cold germs—if you treat them to a nightly soak in warm water, followed by a short exercising session that will loosen up the numerous tiny muscles and ligaments and whip up blood circulation. Before you go to bed, try walking on tiptoe two or three times around the room, then rub the soles of your feet vigorously with a dry towel.

To sum up, here's a simple three-point winter plan for healthier feet and fewer colds: (1) Don't let your feet stay wet; (2) Wear all-leather shoes; (3) Wash your feet once a day and limber up your foot muscles at night.

Prepare Zesty Peas

Zesty flavor highlights this dish. Cook a minced garlic clove in butter, along with a large red onion, cut into rings. When transparent, add the liquid from a can of peas and cook down to about one-third cup. Add peas and heat through. Put in serving dish, and sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese.

Add tiny cubes of jellied cranberry sauce to a grapefruit aspic. Delicious with roast meat or baked or broiled fish.

Note Should Accompany Belated Gift

Bride's Parents Responsible for Announcements

By EMILY POST

A reader tells me: "Due to circumstances beyond my control, I did not send a wedding present to the daughter of a very dear friend at the time she was married."

I had wanted to send something, and still want to very much, but am at a loss to explain its lateness. Shall I send a note explaining in part why the gift is being sent so late, or shall I simply send it and explain nothing?"

If I were you, I would write "With belated but very best wishes for your happiness" across my visiting card. To someone you know very well, you might explain more fully: "I wanted so much to send this in time for the wedding, but it was impossible. It goes to you now with my love and all best wishes for your happiness."

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it ever proper for the bridegroom's family to send out announcements of their son's marriage? My son was married quietly in another city and he tells me that the bride's family do not intend to send out wedding announcements.

We have a great many friends and relatives whom we would like to notify of our son's marriage. Can we send out the announcements, and if so, how should they be worded?

Answer: Under the unusual circumstances you describe, I think it would be best to let your friends and relatives know of the marriage by word of mouth, or by writing letters. You should not send out formal announcements.

Dear Mrs. Post: A friend of mine has told me that when addressing wedding invitations or other social envelopes, it is not proper to write the city and state on the same line but that each should be written on separate lines. Will you please tell me if this is correct.

Answer: This is not very important, but to write the state on a separate line is preferable.

Family Knows Breakfast Value

A BETTER BREAKFAST FAMILY—Mr. and Mrs. M. Paul DeRose of Garden terrace, Lower Straits Lake, believe in eating a good breakfast every morning. Son Danny also approves of a hearty breakfast. We suggest all our readers follow the good example set by the DeRose family.

Curried Ham Has Star Role on Buffet Menu

A handsome buffet table can bring a glowing note into winter entertaining. It's difficult these cold days to make the effort to invite folks for dinner, but why not plan a simple buffet menu for a few friends—it will help speed along the wintry days!

Your menu might be:
Curry-Glazed Picnic Ham
Baked Beans
Fishes: Fresh Pineapple, Chicken, Big Green Salad with Canned Asparagus Spears
Chocolate Cake
Coffee
You'll like the hint of curry flavor in this glaze for ham. Of course, you can use this same glaze for a whole or half ham. However, the picnic ham is inexpensive and an ideal choice when entertaining a small group.

Curry-Glazed Picnic Ham

1 cup brown sugar
1 cup pineapple juice
1 teaspoon curry powder
Mix ingredients together. While ham is baking, baste frequently with curry-flavored syrup until baked and nicely glazed.

Straw shoes for horses were used when iron shoes were introduced.

Top Off Sundaes With Apricot Sauce

Try this unusual dried fruit sauce for winter ice cream sundaes.

Golden Apricot Sundae
1/2 pound dried apricots (1 cup)
2 cups water
Dash of salt
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup chopped blanched almonds
1 quart vanilla ice cream
Soak apricots in water for about four hours. Cook, covered in same water, 15 to 20 minutes, boiling easily until apricots are tender. Press through a sieve and save all the juice. Add salt and sugar and stir until dissolved. Add almonds.
Makes 1 1/2 cups. Serve with vanilla ice cream.

Pineapple Tops Meat

Tiny pineapple-topped meat loaves: Arrange five or six pineapple tidbits in a petal design in the bottom of six large muffin pans. Fill pans with favorite meat loaf mixture. Bake 25 minutes in moderate oven (375 degrees). Run a thin blade knife around the edge of each little loaf to loosen and invert over serving plate. Serves six.

Paul De Roses Know the Value of Morning Meal

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

"We're breakfasting well every morning in 1955." Can you say that at your house? February is designated the first Better Breakfast Month of the year, and we take the opportunity to talk about this important meal.

On Saturday we had breakfast with a family that believes in a good morning meal, the Paul M. DeRoses of Lower Straits Lake.

Paul, a tall, athletically built man, needs a filling breakfast just to keep him going. Anne is a busy homemaker and mother who watches her weight. She knows the importance of eating a good meal early in the day so that she won't be tempted to nibble all morning.

Young Daniel, aged 13 months, wants to eat any time his parents do.

Although Anne says her family rarely ate breakfast at home, she wouldn't think of skipping it now. Because Saturday is a more leisurely day for the DeRoses, their breakfast was a bit more elaborate: Orange juice, bacon and eggs, two kinds of rolls, coffee and milk.

They always drink milk for breakfast, regular for the males, skim for the female (counting calories, you know).

We were interested to see that in addition to butter and jam, Anne had cheese spread on the table. Here is an idea for any mother who has trouble getting enough protein foods into her family at breakfast time. Cheese spread on toast will give valuable protein to those who object to bacon and eggs.

Every family must work out its own pattern of eating. All any homemaker can do is to know what is essential and to provide it insofar as she is able. Let's review the elements of a good breakfast: Fruit of some kind is the first must; at this season of the year we naturally think of citrus fruit and its juices. With a record crop on hand, prices are reasonable.

Cereal versus toast is a subject for debate in some households. The Basic Breakfast consists of fruit, cereal with milk, bread and butter and a beverage. Any food budget can stand this thrifty meal.

But many individuals prefer to eat eggs, bacon or sausage in place of one of the cereal foods. That's fine; eat the combination you choose.

Children, of course, should have milk. If the adults can include a glass of milk with their breakfast, that will mean better nutrition for them. They will probably want a hot beverage also.

Breakfast is the most important meal of the day. Don't short-change your family by letting them skimp on what they eat. Follow the example of our Better Breakfast family, the DeRose family, and breakfast well every morning.

Turn Black Eye Peas Into Something Special

For any day in the year, here is that special dish of black eye peas.

Cook two slices of bacon until crisp; remove. Cook a sliced small onion and some chopped green pepper in the fat until tender. Add the liquid drained from a can of black eye peas, and cook down to about half. Add the peas, and heat through.

Put in serving dish and top with crumbled bacon. Canned pickled beets go nicely with the peas.

Almost all of the world supply of rubies come from sources in India.

Fruit Cocktail Makes Tangy Chop Stuffing

"What a pity," says a current woman's magazine, "that an old favorite like fruit cocktail is used with so little imagination." Especially when it can so easily act as a fine picker-upper for all manner of foods. But, then it doesn't have to be so.

In an article called "Take a Can of Fruit Cocktail," there is a recipe using fruit cocktail that will really make any family's mouth water. It's Pork Chop Surprise... fruit cocktail baked inside of a pork chop.

To make it, slit a pocket along the bone side of four rib pork chops, cut one inch thick. Fill the pockets with fruit cocktail (about 4 tablespoons per chop) and sprinkle the chops with salt. Then brown lightly.

Remove the chops. Cook 3 table spoons of chopped onion and 1 1/2 cups of chopped celery in the pan for five minutes. Add 6 slices of bread, cubed, and 1 1/2 teaspoons of poultry seasoning.

Spread the entire mixture on the bottom of a shallow baking pan and add the leftover fruit cocktail. Place the chops on the stuffing and bake in a 350-degree oven for 1 hour, 15 minutes.

Sale Will Close Hi-Point Farms

Plan Saturday Auction on Former Estate of E. F. Fisher

ROMEO—Saturday's auction sale will mark the end of operations at E. F. Fisher's Hi-Point Farm, northwest of Romeo.

Three sales were scheduled when the purchase of the property by the Ford Motor Co. was announced last summer. The first, on July 31, 1954, offered purebred dairy cattle on the auction block.

The second, which had become an annual event in cattle circles throughout the country, was the Hereford dispersal sale, held in October.

The third and last sale is scheduled for Saturday, when farm machinery and orchard equipment will be offered for sale, beginning at 10 a.m.

Hi-Point Farms manager Allen Rush announced today that the farm office will close April 1, with only a few head of cattle left to be shipped before May 1. The tenant farmers will also move into new quarters by May 1, and Rush himself will occupy his new home on Dequindre road around April 1.
