OLDEST BUSINESSMAN—Charles Price has been in business in his tiny harness shop on Milford's Main Street for "nigh on to 50 years," as he recalls. He has never owned an automobile, and at 83 is believed to be Michigan's oldest harness maker, and perhaps the only one still engaged in a vanishing occupation. With other Milford residents, he is helping plan the village's 125th anniversary in October. (See story, page 17.)

Mt. Clemens Blaze Levels
St. Peter's Catholic Church

MOUNT CLEMENS (P)—"Don't worry, everything will be all right," the Rev. Paul C. Heenan comforted his parishioners today as they stared at the fire-blackened ruins of historic St. Peter's Catholic Church.

A spectacular fire, apparently touched off by workers burning paint from the building with a torch, raced through the 75-year-old brick church in downtown Mount Clemens yesterday.

Flames spread to the adjoining St. Mary's School before being brought under control by firemen from eight communities.

The church was completely destroyed and the school badly damaged.

Fire Chief Clayton E. Dubay estimated the total damages at $500,000. Heenan said insurance would cover most of the loss.

Father Heenan, the Rev. Wilbert Gough, pastor of the nearby Gilbert Memorial First Baptist Church and several others narrowly escaped death when they ran into the church to save valuable furnishings minutes before the flaming 60-foot church steeple crashed into the burning building.

REMOVE CIBORIUM

The men removed the ciborium containing the Eucharist from the church altar along with other altar furnishings.

The Rev. Mr. Gough said, "I'm only sorry I could not have done more. Our churches are neighbors and I just happened to be there."

Some 1,000 students in the four-story brick school were evacuated to safety by nuns when the blaze broke out. Many of the students assisted firemen in pulling hoses to the scene.

STARTED BY WORKERS

Dubay said the blaze apparently started by workers.

Radio Comment
Irritates Ike

NEWPORT, R. I. (P)—On orders from President Eisenhower, the White House today sharply denounced what it termed "radio and television comment" saying Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus had "thrown in the sponge" in the school segregation crisis.

The criticism was voiced by James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, who told newsmen the President personally had directed him to hit at such reports.

Hagerty was in an obviously angry mood when he started today's news conference.

He said he and the President had been "listening to some radio and television comment" on the Faubus proposal.

He said he and Eisenhower had heard "White House aides" being quoted on radio and television as saying Faubus was "throwing in the sponge."

Hagerty went on to say they also had heard "a great deal of other junk" on the air.

Faubus to Confer
With Eisenhower
This Saturday

NEWPORT, R. I. (P)—President Eisenhower and Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus arranged today to confer here Saturday in an effort to crack the federal-state deadlock over Little Rock school integration.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, announced at the President's vacation headquarters that word of Faubus' decision to come here Saturday had been received from Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark.).

Faubus proposed yesterday that he and Eisenhower "counsel together." Eisenhower promptly agreed and suggested Faubus come here.

An aide said the governor spent most of Wednesday in bed and that, while he is not actually ill, "he's not too good."

He said Faubus was exhausted by the tension since he ordered the National Guard to surround Central High School last week—with instructions to keep Negro students from enrolling.

2 MAIN POINTS

The atmosphere of optimism in Little Rock pivots on two main points:

1. It is generally assumed that U.S. Dist. Judge Ronald N. Davies will issue the preliminary injunction against Faubus in the hearing next week. The governor then would be in the position of having to withdraw, under federal compulsion, the troops guarding Central High School.

If he refuses to comply, he might be liable to citation for contempt of court. If he should appeal, and lose again, a judicial legal situation could result.

2. More important, the great majority of people in Little Rock want the problem resolved—the sooner the better.

The Arkansas Gazette says today: "Perhaps most helpful of all is that the meeting (Eisenhower and Faubus) should serve to bring the controversy back into the realm of reason and end the unseemly display of naked force which has shocked and alarmed the nation and the world."

Everywhere, you hear such sentiments today.

RESPECTABLE CITY

Faubus says 85 per cent of the people in the state are opposed to integration, according to a survey he studied. That may be true of Little Rock too.

But this is also a clean, respectable, progressive community. It wants business and industry and is working to get them.

It already has gone a long way

Racial Agitator
in Workhouse

Kasper to Spend 133 Days in Nashville Jail Unless Fine, Bond Paid

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (P)—Segregationist John Kasper went to work as a bar wiper in the City Workhouse today.

The Northern agitator was handed a rag and told to start wiping the workhouse bars—every one of them if he's there long enough.

Wearing the same street clothes he had on when he was committed yesterday, Kasper went at his task somewhat reluctantly.

Kasper was hustled off to the workhouse yesterday when he failed to pay a City Court fine of $200 for his part in demonstrations against integration of first graders in Nashville elementary schools.

He was given until Friday to raise $450 appeal bond. If he fails to do this, or the $200 fine, he'll spend 133 days in the workhouse. And, workhouse officials indicated, if he's wiped all the bars in that time, they'll need wiping all over again.

The federal government was expected today to file an injunction against Kasper in a move to end his racial agitation against integrated schools in Nashville.

Federal and city officials moved to clamp a federally-enforced peace order similar to the one which eventually halted integration disorders in Clinton, Tenn., last year in which Kasper also was involved.

Mayor Ben West, who conferred with U.S. District Attorney Fred Elledge Jr. and Assistant City School Superintendent W. H. Oliver, said he expected the injunction would be filed against Kasper in federal court today.

Kasper has been accused by West and Police Chief Douglas House as the man instigating the majority of trouble since the integration of first grade classes in seven grammar schools began last Monday.

Expected to be listed in the restraining order along with Kasper are the Rev. Fred Stroud and between 20 and 25 other Nashville residents.

Prisoners at County Jail
Stage Brief Sitdown Strike

A brief sitdown strike by 26 prisoners at Oakland County Jail last night was described today by Sheriff Frank W. Irons as "a minor incident."

There was no violence or property damage during the five minutes that the prisoners in the third-floor cell block refused to enter their cells from the bull-pen, at 8 p.m., to be locked up for the night, Irons said.

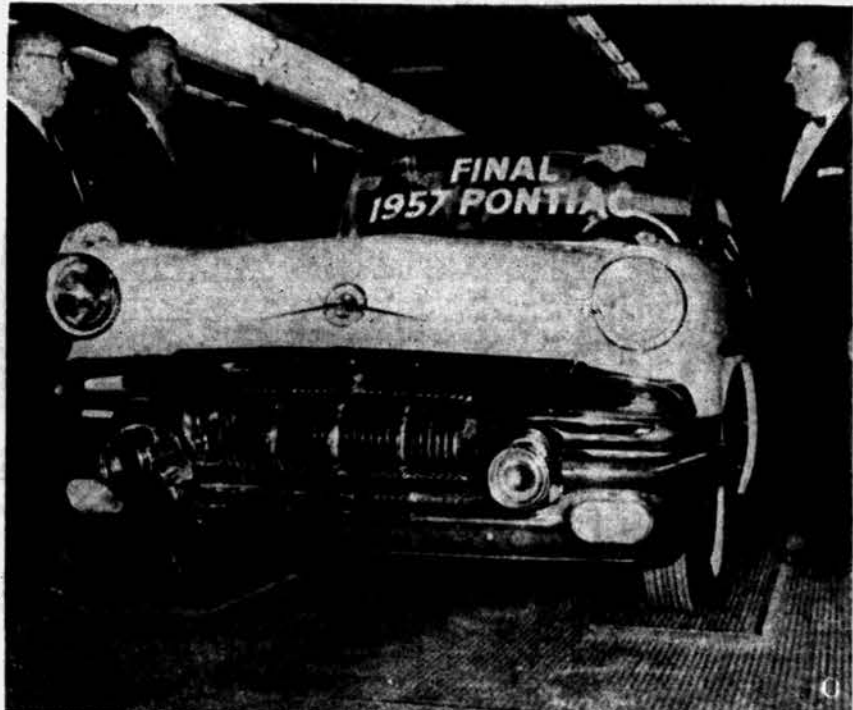

The prisoners, who said they were striking in protest at food served to them at the jail, returned quietly to the cells, Irons said, after deputies were reinforced by Pontiac police officers. Irons named as instigators of the strike six prisoners awaiting transfer this morning to Southern Michigan State Prison. "These men and some of the old-timers who've been in this jail before caused the trouble," Irons said.

Similar incidents have happened before, Irons said, especially on the night before a group of prisoners leaves for long terms at the state prison in Jackson. The rebelling prisoners returned quietly to their cells, Irons said, on arrival at the jail of seven Pontiac police officers, summoned immediately as a matter of routine.

Irons said he had about seven deputies on hand himself. He minimized the complaints over the food, saying that prisoners often protest about their meals "when they just want to make trouble." The sheriff maintained the food is of high standard and, often praised by state inspectors.

Final '57 Pontiac Comes Off Line

LAST OF THE LINE—Final unit of the 1957 line of automobiles came off the Pontiac Motor Division assembly line at approximately 10 p.m. last night. The final '57 Pontiac, a four-door, Star Chief Catalina, is flanked by Ray J. Longpre (left) production manager, and Charles L. Stevens (center), assembly superintendent, as Myron L. Leighton, general superintendent, points to the words symbolizing the close of 1957 automobile production. Assembly operations are scheduled to resume early in October on the 1958 cars.

Press Tourists See
2 Plays, Plan Party

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

NEW YORK CITY—While soles are somewhat thinner, the spirits of members of the Pontiac Press Theater Special haven't dimmed a bit with the end of the third day of their five-day run on Broadway.

For the group Wednesday it was a double dose of theatrical entertainment.

In the afternoon all 154 players found out that the titan of the stage, Ethel Merman, is far from through with taking curtain calls. Her leading role as a Philadelphia widow after a handsome "pretender" monarch (Fernando Lamas) in "Happy Hunting" would rate four bulls on any rating.

The orchids in the evening went to hilarious Tom Ewell as the worrying husband who took so much advice from his neighbor in "The Tunnel of Love" that the baby adopted by him and his wife turned out to be his spitting image.

FINALE TO COME

At the end of last night all had seen four of the five hits on the Special's docket. The finale will come tonight for all.

To cap off the evening, The Press has invited columnist Earl Wilson to be its guest at an after-theater supper party to be held at Leone's on 48th street. With Wilson (whose column appears daily in The Press) will be several performers from the smash hits viewed by the Michiganders.

Wednesday morning in New York offered an opportunity for many to see what goes on behind the scenes of a television show. Groups gathered at one of the big studios to see Jan Murray in his quiz show "Treasure Hunt." Tickets for other shows for the rest of the week have been made available.

Intense Hunt for Gangster
Comes to End

Spy Drowned Fugitive Half Buried in Sludge of Rouge Waters

DETROIT (P)—An intense search for the last member of a holdup gang ended today with the discovery of his body half buried in the sludge of the Rouge River.

The body of William (Super) Williams, 31, of Princeton, W. Va., was found by a police harbormaster's crew 100 feet from where the gunman's tracks vanished into the water.

A posse of more than 100 policemen, some armed with submachine guns, had searched through the heavily wooded area in suburban Melvindale since yesterday afternoon.

Williams and three other persons were racing away from a holdup scene and pursuing police yesterday when their car smashed into one driven by William W. Finger, 31, of Detroit, killing Finger, the father of three children instantly.

Williams, carrying a .45 caliber automatic, fled from the death car into dense woods. His three companions were seized by police.

A police posse quickly formed to search for Williams. It included officers from suburban Dearborn, Detroit and Melvindale, machine gunners, Detroit's "Commando Squad" and an armored car. The hunters traced Williams, believed, wounded by police bullets, to the river bank. One of his shoes, the other was torn off in the auto crash, was found there as well as footprints leading into the river.

The three other members of the gang, now held by Detroit police, are Felix Johnson, 22, of Princeton; (Continued on Page 26, Col. 2)

in Assault Case

Municipal Judge Rules Milton Henry Was Defending His Car

Pontiac attorney Milton R. Henry was found not guilty of assault in striking a police officer about to impound his car, Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum ruled today.

Henry was found innocent of assault and battery against Patrolman Clarence G. Smith, whom the attorney admittedly struck once in the face as the officer tried to tow Henry's car away as a penalty for unpaid parking tickets.

McCallum ruled that the law under which Smith was acting was illegal and Henry had a right "to protect his property from unlawful seizure."

McCallum observed that both the officer and the attorney each thought they were acting within their legal rights at the time of the fracas, July 23, in the alley behind the Oakland County Courthouse.

But the section of the 19-year-old ordinance which permits impounding for unpaid tickets actually is unconstitutional and violates due process of the law, McCallum ruled.

Impounding is legal only when the car is illegally parked, McCallum said. Although Henry had evidently illegally parked his car in the alley, he was trying to move it at the same time Smith was

Harried Mothers Take Note:

Atoms Can Do Laundry

PARIS (P)—A scientist from Britain's famed atomic installation at Harwell has come up with another peacetime use for atomic energy. It does laundry, he says, and without detergents or even hot water.

Dr. Henry Seligman described the procedure in a talk to some of the 1,000 delegates from 49 nations in Paris for the UNESCO-sponsored International Conference on Radiosotopes.

Experiments already are well under way, Seligman said, in which hospital bedding is receiving "radiation laundries." "When hospital bedding is sterilized by ordinary methods," he explained, "it's still far from being free of bacteria which can cause infection. Moreover, bedding from surgical wards requires treatment in a steam autoclave. Two or three treatments in the autoclave and the blankets usually are ruined."

"But blankets can be sterilized by irradiation without an appreciable rise in temperature and an average blanket can survive at least 20 such 'washings.'"

Seligman said radiation, in large enough doses, can kill almost any kind of bacterial organism, thus insuring thorough sterilization. While some slight damage is done to the fibers over a period of time, irradiated fabrics do not become radioactive, he said.

It's still much too early to forecast what all this might mean for tomorrow's housewives, he added, but irradiation sterilization already is being applied to surgical dressings.

Ahrens to Head State GOP Unit

Retired Bloomfield Hills Industrialist, Appointed to Finance Committee

A retired Bloomfield Hills industrialist, Don E. Ahrens, was appointed yesterday as chairman of the Republican State Finance Committee.

The announcement was made jointly by Lawrence B. Linde, GOP state chairman, and Carl C. Anderson, who heads the central committee's finance division.

Ahrens' job is the top money-raising position for Michigan Republicans and is semi-independent of the State Central Committee.

The new chairman is a retired General Motors Corp. vice president and former general manager of Cadillac Motor Division. He retired last Jan. 1.

Ahrens now is board chairman of the United Foundation in Detroit and director of several other civic and philanthropic organizations.

He takes over the finance job with the party about $35,000 in the red. The post has been vacant for several months.

Can sail-boat enthusiasts learn anything about coming winds by watching the sky? Does a cloudy sky indicate good sailing weather or bad?

Those who do a bit of sailing, either on lakes or at the ocean, can predict some things about the winds by watching the sky and studying weather. A cloudy sky is one sign of lessening wind, and therefore is not welcomed by sail-boaters.

There are other rules which generally apply. For example, if there is a strong breeze from the shore at sunrise, hopes for a good wind during the day are not always justified.

Usually this land breeze dies down as the sun heats the land and is replaced by a sea breeze.

Of course, in the summer clouds may herald the approach of a thunderstorm and this means strong winds, but other than these storms, a bright, clear day is best for sailing. The sun heats the land faster than the water, air above the land rises and air over the water flows in over the land to replace it. That is the famous sea breeze one finds at large lakes and on ocean beaches.

$7½ Million Cash Offer Is Made for Dodger Club

NEW YORK (INS) — Sinclair Robinson, a New York financier, made a $7,500,000 cash offer today for the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The 43-year-old president of Williams-McWilliams Industries wired Dodger president Walter O'Malley that he heads a five-man syndicate willing to top any previous offer to keep the Dodgers in New York.

Robinson said yesterday's offer by Nelson Rockefeller had nothing to do with his offer. Rockefeller offered to buy a percentage of the team and help build a new stadium for the National League champions at a downtown site.

toward solving its racial problems. Most important, the great majority of people comport themselves as law-abiding citizens.

Percentage-wise, the numbers who turned out to jeer and scuffle in front of the two high schools represent only a fraction of the total population of Greater Little Rock.

It approximates 165,000. At the peak days, there were 700 people in front of Central High and 200 at North Little Rock High.

Other 99 per cent went about their business as usual.

In some Arkansas communities, the schools were integrated without incident. Others had trouble.

The latest came from Ozark, about 100 miles northwest of Little Rock, where the father of two Negro high school students said an attempt was made to kill them after they attended Ozark High School. It had started a voluntary integration program.

But in Little Rock, the state capital, things are quiet and the people are hopeful.

Canada Seeks Smith as Foreign Secretary

OTTAWA (AP)—Dr. Sidney E. Smith, president of the University of Toronto, has been asked to become Canada's foreign secretary and his appointment will be announced today or tomorrow, authoritative sources say.

The 60-year-old educator, who is known throughout Canada for his administrative and academic experience, has never held a political post. He twice turned down opportunities to lead the Conservative party.

Conservative Prime Minister John Diefenbaker has been holding down the job of foreign secretary in addition to his own duties.

There was speculation that Smith would be offered the "safe" seat of the Greenwood constituency in Toronto now held by J. M. Macdonnell, a 72-year-old minister without portfolio, and that Macdonnell would be appointed to the Senate.

Seldom seen without a pipe or cigarette, and well-known for his wit, Dr. Smith is a native of Cape Breton Island and a veteran of the Royal Flying Corps of World War I. He attended King's College at Windsor, N.S., Dalhousie University at Halifax, and Harvard.

New License Setup Described by Hare

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Secretary of State James Hare has explained legislation under which license plates will be issued to car owners instead of their vehicles in 1958.

He addressed about 70 West Michigan Department of State branch managers and assistants at a Grand Rapids meeting. The conference is one of five scheduled to instruct department personnel on major changes of policy after recent legislation.

The license plates next year will stay with the car owner throughout the registration year, he said. They will not transfer with a change in cars. The practice already is used in many other states and aids in keeping police registration books up to date, Hare added.

He also said a 10-day title transfer limit would be enforced to curb a practice by individuals of selling a car and ignoring the title transfer to avoid payment of state tax.

Reformer Ryan Shoots Himself

NEW YORK (AP)—Clendenin J. Ryan, 50-year-old millionaire reformer and stormy figure in New York politics in recent years, shot and killed himself today at his Manhattan home.

Police said he took his life with an automatic pistol. Ryan's wife, Jean, told officers that while she was in her bedroom about 7:30 a.m. she heard a noise but didn't know what it was. She went to the bathroom and found her husband shot. The Ryan home is at 32 E. 70th St.

Police found a note and two sealed envelopes, one addressed to his wife. Their contents were not immediately divulged.

Ryan was a grandson of the financier Thomas Fortune Ryan and inherited part of the family's 141-million-dollar estate.

Ryan took a keen interest in New York City politics, beginning with the race for mayor of Fiorello H. La Guardia in 1933. He went on to serve in the La Guardia administration in various capacities.

After La Guardia's long tenure, Ryan jumped back in to politics again with a bitter campaign against William O'Dwyer, who was elected successor to La Guardia.

In the midst of this, in 1949, Ryan was hauled before a grand jury as the result of an alleged plot to tap the telephones of O'Dwyer and other top officials. Ryan denied he was involved. Nothing came of the probe.

In subsequent years he sought election as governor of New Jersey on an independent ticket, but didn't get far.

Calls Trial a Witch Hunt

Confidential Bases Case on Freedom of the Press

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The State of California is trying to put Confidential out of business in a "witch hunt," the defense has contended at the magazine's criminal libel trial.

"The indictments were returned not to punish someone but to put a magazine out of business," Atty. Arthur J. Crowley said yesterday in his final argument to the jury.

"Confidential has the biggest newstand sale in the nation. A very large segment of the public reads it. It has a circulation of one million copies with at least 20 million readers."

Crowley told the jury that the issue of freedom of the press is at stake.

Placed in Race Against Hoffa

Vice-President of Union, Einar O. Mohn, Backed as 'Favorite Son'

LOS ANGELES (INS)—A new factor was injected into the contest for Dave Beck's successor as president of the powerful Teamsters Union last night with the announcement that Einar O. Mohn would be nominated for the $30,000-a-year job.

Mohn is executive vice president of the 1,400,000-member union and has the "favorite son" backing of the 120,000-member Southern California Joint Council of Teamsters.

The announcement that Mohn's name would be placed in nomination was made by John Annand, president of the joint council.

Ironically, it was made at a dinner honoring Thomas J. Haggerty of Chicago.

Haggerty is campaigning for the presidency in a drive to keep James R. Hoffa out of it.

Hoffa is an odds-on choice to win even though he, like Beck, has been accused of corruption by the Senate Rackets Committee. Labor circles think that the teamsters will be kicked out of the AFL-CIO for "domination by corrupt elements" if he is elected.

So Haggerty said upon his arrival in Los Angeles yesterday that he called upon teamsters "throughout the length and breadth of the nation" to join him in a "crusade for honest unionism."

Mohn has not indicated whether he will accept the nomination.

The Day in Birmingham City Has Cleanest Sewer System in Area—Kenning

BIRMINGHAM (AP)—In view of Monday's hearing on new trunk line sewers in the Quanton Lake Estates area, charges have been made that the city is remiss in its cleaning program.

One resident said he felt the capacity of present lines could be considerably increased if the pipes were cleaned.

Assistant City Manager Robert Kenning said he explained that Birmingham is probably using the "cleanest" sewer system in the area.

"As far as we know," Kenning said, "we are the only community in southern Michigan with a full-time sewer crew."

"We have our own modern machinery. Every working day is spent checking and cleaning trunk and lateral lines."

Kenning admitted that the charges would have been true four or five years ago. He said that at that time the city was not even keeping up with necessary work.

However, with the purchase of equipment and the establishment of a trained crew, the picture has changed. Kenning said those lines known to be in bad condition were tackled first.

As this backlog was cleared away, complaints from residents were taken care of.

Today the crew is ready to respond almost immediately to any call.

In addition, the men are working in all sections of the city and lines are cleaned before they reach the "danger" point.

"I know," Kenning concluded, "that the lines in the Quanton district are clean. Further work here would make little or no difference in relieving any flood conditions."

U.S. Opening Gates for New Immigrants

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States opens its gates today to the first of more than 60,000 immigrants made eligible for admission under a new law.

President Eisenhower signed the new immigration bill into law yesterday.

In various parts of the world, U. S. consular offices were set to begin processing visas under the program designed to ease some of the hardships growing out of the nation's immigration laws.

An estimated 62,556 additional immigrants will be eligible for admission to the United States, State Department officials said.

This total is expected to include 14,556 refugees from Communist countries, 4,000 orphans adopted by American citizens and 36,000 persons ticketed for admission under special nonquota statutes.

Eisenhower said the bill makes a number of improvements in immigration practices but ignored several of his recommendations for major revisions of the nation's basic immigration law.

Classmates Resume Tormenting Negro

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Negro student Dorothy Counts, after a week of relative peace, again became the target of spite and thrown objects from her white schoolmates at Harding High School.

Dorothy, the only Negro among 1,160 students at Harding, said that yesterday "was the roughest I have had since last Wednesday."

She reported that:

Twice while she stood before her book locker, objects struck her in the back. When she passed through the school's crowded corridor, students spat upon her.

Someone in a group of white teen-age youths hurled an object at her brother's car and broke the rear window. The brother had gone to the school to take her to lunch.

Dorothy is one of four Negroes who entered four white schools here last week. Then, a mob of jeering white youths spat on her and tossed pebbles and sticks as she left the school building.

Except for social isolation from her fellow students, 15-year-old Dorothy since had attended school unmolested.

Bankrupt Joanne Blames Ex-Mates

LOS ANGELES — Actress Joanne Dru holds her former husbands, actor John Ireland and singer Dick Haymes, partly responsible for her bankruptcy estate.

She has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy listing assets of $21,690 and liabilities of $247,133.

Her statement said "tremendous financial difficulties" resulted from an investment made by one of the ex-husbands, John Ireland, and that her "financial position was further embarrassed by the fact that I had to pay off tax liens on joint tax returns that were filed by Dick Haymes and myself during our marriage."

Plan Train 'Holdup'

MESQUITE, Tex. — A band of horsemen playing outlaw are planning a mock train holdup here as part of the hi-links connected with the opening of the Dallas county fair. The event will reenact an $80 holdup by the notorious Texas outlaw, Sam Bass, who robbed a Texas & Pacific train here in the 1880s.

Refused to Surrender Passport in Red China

U.S. Student Comes Out From Behind Iron Curtain

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—An American student who was thrown out of Red China for refusal to surrender his passport, came out from behind the Iron Curtain yesterday.

"Gosh! It is certainly nice to be back home in the West again. I am glad it is all over," said Shelby Tucker of Pass Christian, Miss.

Tucker flew into Stockholm from Moscow en route to London for six weeks in Russia and Communist China. He had refused to use his passport to get permission from Chinese authorities for travel in Red China.

"Knowing what I know today," he said, "I would not have gone to China against the opposition of the State Department and my father."

The 22-year-old law student of Yale and Oxford was one of 42 American youths who went to Red China from the Moscow World Youth Festival.

"I had two reasons," he said, "for not surrendering my passport. One which I acknowledged in China was that it would clearly have been a violation of American law to do so. The second reason, that I did not acknowledge behind the Iron and Bamboo curtains, was that I do not recognize, nor believe in, cooperating with the so-called People's Republic of China."

Tucker said he found Soviet Russia, "architecturally awful, spiritually suffocating, economically backwards and politically absolutely unable to justify certain imponderables such as the attack upon Hungary and Finland and the absorption of Bessarabia, Moldavia, Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania and Eastern Germany."

Of Red China he said: "Its communism appears from very superficial impressions more moderate, but the same features are most emphatically present: Suppression of freedom of opinion, the most fantastic disregard for and distortion of truth, intense propaganda especially anti-American, the characteristic attacks upon other countries namely Korea and Tibet. And this against a history of only eight years of communism in China."

Northeast Coast, Far West Get Fair Weather

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Generally fair weather prevailed today in most of the Far West and along the northeast coast but cloudy and wet weather was the outlook for other parts of the country.

Skies were cloudy in the central part of the country from the Rockies eastward to the Appalachians, with rain hitting most areas during the night. The main wet belt extended from Texas to the upper Great Lakes region.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms hit widely scattered areas in the Southern states.

Torrential rains yesterday hammered the Texas Gulf Coast and wind and hail storms struck parts of the Panhandle. Up to 5 inches of rain fell along the lower Texas coast near Rio Hondo in the Rio Grande Valley.

Bunche Notes Effect of Racial Violence

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, Negro undersecretary of the United Nations, says violence surrounding school integration in the South "is bound to have a harmful effect on international opinion."

"Photographs of jeering crowds and armed National Guardsmen blocking young boys and girls from entering schools are hardly good public relations," Dr. Bunche said in an interview yesterday. He was here for a meeting of the Governmental Affairs Institute.

Emphasizing that he spoke as a private citizen, Dr. Bunche said the violence "is most unfortunate because world opinion was very favorable to the passage of the civil rights bill."

Truman Official AEC Member

Ex-Assistant Secretary of Treasury Takes Oath of Office Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—John S. Graham, one of two former Truman administration officials recently appointed to be members of the Atomic Energy Commission takes office today.

AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss arranged to preside over oath-taking ceremonies at AEC headquarters. The second new appointee, John F. Floberg, is now on vacation and will be sworn in sometime next month.

When Floberg takes the oath, the commission will be at full five-man strength for the first time since the death of Dr. John von Neumann last February.

Graham, 52, served as an assistant secretary of the Treasury under President Truman. A Democrat, he was named to fill the unexpired AEC term of Dr. von Neumann ending June 30, 1959. Von-Neumann was a political independent.

A native of Reading, Mass., Graham has a residence in Winston-Salem, N.C., but has been working as a financial and business consultant with headquarters in Washington.

Floberg, who is 42, served as assistant secretary of the Navy for air from 1949 to 1953.

He describes himself as a political independent.

In the AEC, he was named to succeed Democrat Thomas E. Murray, whose five-year term expired June 30.

America to the few Chinese we had occasion to meet than certain others in our group, whom I considered too favorably disposed toward communism."

As it turned out, he said, "this was negative by the simple fact that we had occasion to meet only Chinese who had been pre-selected."

His second reason for going, he said, was that "the American public would perhaps be more prepared to listen to me than to the others, who might possibly have presented a distorted picture."

Tucker said one of his reasons for going to China was "to try and present a fairer picture of

Stratton Won't Act in Little Rock Case

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—No action will be taken by Gov. William G. Stratton, chairman of the Governors' Conference, on a proposal that a committee of governors seek a solution to the Little Rock race troubles.

Gov. Foster Furcolo (D) of Massachusetts had suggested that a bipartisan committee of governors seek to solve the integration problem in Little Rock.

Stratton's office yesterday announced he had decided not to intervene after Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas accepted a federal court summons placing the question in the courts.

Set France Straight on Indians in U.S.

PARIS (AP)—The U.S. Embassy is going to set the French straight on what happened to the American Indian.

The embassy regularly receives letters from Frenchmen who say the Americans exterminated the Indians and thus have no right to criticize France for fighting the Algerian rebellion. In reply, the next issue of Informations et Documents, a French language review published by the embassy says:

The Indian population — 846,000 in the days of Columbus — had dropped to about 300,000 by the middle of the 19th century as a result of tribal wars, drought, disease and migrations to Mexico and Canada. Today's Indian population is more than 400,000, apart from those living in paleface communities.

NATO Could Help in Cyprus Settlement

The arrival in New York of Archbishop MARKARIOS, Ethnarch of the Cypriot Orthodox population and its political leader as well, again brings into sharp focus the question of Cyprus.

The Archbishop hopes to enlist United Nations support for his project of uniting the island with Greece. On his return to Athens from exile in the Seychelles, the Kremlin, seeing an opportunity to stir up more trouble, invited him to visit the Patriarch of Moscow, but MARKARIOS had the wisdom to decline.

The population of Cyprus is around 500,000 of whom 100,000 are Turks. The island, 145 miles long and up to 60 miles wide, is only 40 miles off the coasts of Turkey and Syria and some 350 miles from Greece. It has a long and interesting history.

After belonging successively to the Phoenicians, Greeks, Egypt, Persia and again Egypt, Cyprus in 57 B.C. became a Roman province. In 1191 it was given by Richard of England, who had conquered it in the third crusade, to Guy de Lusignan and after his line became extinct it fell into the hands of the Venetians. They held it until 1571 when it was conquered by the Turks.

In 1878 Cyprus was placed under the control of Great Britain by a treaty which recognized the Sultan's sovereignty and in World War I the island was formally annexed by Britain and given the status of a colony in 1925.

The British are losing interest in Cyprus as a base and it has become a great financial burden to their new strategic concept of thermonuclear defense. There is talk of making Kenya, in Africa, the main base for Middle East operations.

At present partition of Cyprus is favored by the Turkish minority as the lesser evil, but that would be impractical from any standpoint. The Greeks, of course, want union with Greece and will negotiate only bilaterally with the British. However, no solution is possible that is not acceptable to the Turks.

It is here that NATO could be called in to work out an effective formula. The new Secretary General, PAUL HENRI SPAAK, is a keen internationalist and is of the opinion that NATO should play a larger political role. The 15 nation organization should be able to find a solution if any solution is possible.

Reds Gain in Indonesia

The recent municipal elections on the island of Java show clearly that the Communists have scored notable successes.

Mounting economic difficulties offer a perfect climate for Communist infiltration and Premier SUKARNO's "guided democracy" pronouncement provided them with another opportunity.

Provincial elections are largely advisory but they reflect the current trend of public opinion. In three of the biggest cities — Surabaya, Bandung and Semarang — the Reds either won large majorities or gained 100 per cent over their 1955 vote.

The rich islands of Borneo, Sumatra and the Celebes are in the hands of rebels led by army officers. They are demanding a better deal from Jakarta and even home rule.

Trade embargoes clamped down by the Premier have doubled Java's living costs and cut government revenue. Large exports out of other islands now bypass Java and the Communists see in this an opportunity to keep the island under blockade until SUKARNO quits.

With well financed Reds pretty much in control of Java and rebels holding out in the other islands, the Premier seems powerless to act. Ever since his visit to Mao Tse-tung he has been spouting the Communist line and observers now fear that before long the whole island of Java will be Communist.

The Man About Town

His Favorite Trio

Competent Critic Places Us in Super-Deluxe Company

Faustus: A man nobody ever before heard of and who took a rather unique way of getting his name in the papers.

I understand that my lifelong friend, Graham John Graham was quoted in the Lapeer County Press as stating that his three favorite newspapers are the:

New York Times
Pontiac Press
Lapeer County Press

All of us here feel real flattered, as John Graham is one of the best read and most erudite gentlemen in Michigan. He probably peruses more newspapers in any given week than anyone I know. John is an omnivorous reader.

Many newspaper men regard the New York Times as the greatest newspaper in the world. And many competent observers think the Lapeer County Press is one of the half dozen best weeklies in the United States.

My old, old friends, the Myers at Lapeer, constitute one of the outstanding newspaper families in the business. Harry, the dad, is an especially understanding individual with a great grasp of his business, which he has passed on to his sons, Bill and Bob, and they publish one of America's greatest weeklies.

To a person who has seen our roads lifted out of the sand ruts, bog holes and backwoods trails, Wednesday's open house at the new buildings of the Oakland County Road Commission looked like a testimonial to

Nearing the end of his first home gardening season,

Jerry Meyerson of Kbeo Harbor, writes me: "I've just read that there are 40 million home gardens in our nation, and with such a wide selection, I wonder why all of the weeds and bugs concentrated on mine."

'Twas only 15 years ago that

of Waterford watched a squirrel hide an acorn in the ground near her window. He evidently forgot about it, as the next spring two oak leaves appeared. The incipient forest monarch was given every protection, and now is a sturdy oak sapling as large around as a man's thumb, and six feet high. "That's how our forests are planted," writes Mrs. Parkman.

Squirreled Away for Election Year

David Lawrence Says:

U. S. Usurping Powers of States

WASHINGTON—Every governor, every sheriff, every mayor and every local official who has anything to do with the administration of state or city laws can be hauled into Federal court on any pretext now and charged with alleged interference with a Federal court order.

This can happen no matter how earnestly and conscientiously the official may be performing the duties of his own office.

Such is the situation which confronts the American people today as they note the unprecedented action of a Federal judge in summoning the governor of a sovereign state so that the court may pass judgment on his executive ability, his efficiency and his good faith in discharging the duties of his office.

If the Governor of Arkansas should perchance differ with the terms of an injunction that may be issued by the Federal judge after the Sept. 20 hearing and continue to keep troops on guard, in accordance with his conscientious belief that he is fulfilling his duty as the chief executive of his state in preventing bloodshed and disorder, he can be charged with "civil contempt" and put in jail. Under existing Federal law, he will not even have the benefit of a jury trial.

If the troops are withdrawn and bloodshed follows, there is no way to hold the arbitrary-minded Federal judge responsible for the death of any citizen.

How easy it would be for impassioned opinion to uphold a dictator in America today if he attempted overnight to transform the American system of government into an irresponsible government—judging by the widespread indifference to what is happening in Arkansas.

JAIL GOVERNOR
Many persons say frankly in their conversations with their neighbors that the governor ought to be jailed, but the average citizen today knows little about our dual system of government.

Lack of education in the schools on the constitutional rights of the states, plus the steady whittling away of those rights by a usurping Federal government, aided by a usurping Supreme Court, has persuaded many citizens that, of course, anything the Federal government does is right in all controversies with the states.

"Why don't you remove the Wisconsin senator from office?" wrote many citizens to President Eisenhower in 1955. They didn't seem to realize that there is a guarantee of freedom of speech in the Constitution. Nor did they know apparently that the states are supposed to be sovereign. But now a governor is to be interrupted in his duties and perhaps removed by a Federal court and put in jail.

Nor do the people generally understand that a governor can be tried now without a jury and sentenced to jail by the same judge who makes the charge and acts as prosecuting attorney, judge and jury. Congress debated this very issue recently in connection with the "civil rights" bill but surrendered to the concept of a Federal dictatorship. There are no jury trials in "civil contempt" cases.

This correspondent made a memorandum for himself on Saturday, Aug. 31, apropos of the passage of the "civil rights" legislation by Congress and put it in his files to be read a year hence. The memorandum read as follows:

"The damage done to constitutional government by a majority at the session of Congress just ended is epochal. It is the worst blow to the dual system of government inflicted in the history of the republic."

STATES SATELLITES

"For the states have been placed in the role of subordinate 'satellites' of the Federal government. Their governors, their justices, their mayors and their sheriffs now can be court-martialed at any time by Federal injunction. They no longer are independent, self-governing units."

Dr. William Brady Says:

'Indigestion' May Signal Need for Fast Treatment

When someone past 35 gets an ache, pain, insistent discomfort or distress anywhere between his anterior superior iliac spine and his left clavicle (the left side of the trunk, that is) he thinks of "indigestion," "mucous colitis" or "ulcer," if he is a duffer.

If he's a doctor it's much worse—HE thinks of angina pectoris, kidney stone, radiculitis, diverticulosis, hiatal hernia, carcinoma or double indemnity. Among the remedies I recommend for such insistent discomfort:

1. Belly breathing. In my personal experience this has brought remarkably prompt relief time and again, although one man to whom I recommended it wanted to know how the heck a man could breathe at all when his chest is constricted in a vice—and I didn't argue with him.

2. Carry in pocket or pocketbook a dozen nitroglycerin tablets and dissolve one in mouth whenever you are distressed. A doctor must provide the tablets for you or give you a prescription for them.

3. By way of prophylaxis, follow a high calcium diet and/or supplement your regular diet with an adequate daily ration of calcium and vitamin D.

I offer these suggestions here because I'm sure that it can do no harm and may do a lot of good if you try one or all of them.

Now, then, my assistant will pass among you peddling these instruction manuals:

1. How to Breathe. Send 35c and stamped, self-addressed envelope for a copy.
2. So You Have Indigestion? Ditto.
3. CVD. Booklet about heart and artery troubles. Ditto.
4. The Calcium Shortage. Also 35c and stamped, self-addressed envelope.
If one of these seem too expensive, here is today's basement bargain:

Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for the pamphlet Belly Breathing, or for the pamphlet legislation by Congress and put it in his files to be read a year hence. The memorandum read as follows:

STATES SATELLITES

"For the states have been placed in the role of subordinate 'satellites' of the Federal government. Their governors, their justices, their mayors and their sheriffs now can be court-martialed at any time by Federal injunction. They no longer are independent, self-governing units."

Yankee Stomach. If you want both pamphlets enclose 25c with the stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady. If a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Two Shifts for Crowded Schools?

Mr. Quinn is showing the concern of all farsighted legislators who are faced with our acute educational crisis. How long can we finance free public education? It is a recent luxury in human history. Unless we adopt the "horse sense" measures outlined below, we may be forced to imitate South Carolina and rescind compulsory public schooling.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
Case V-388: Jerome F. Quinn is an able member of the Wisconsin State legislature.

He recently asked me about the more efficient use of our school buildings, so I shall outline some salient facts that are a challenge to all parents, taxpayers and legislators.

In 1852, Massachusetts passed the first compulsory school attendance law.

South Carolina has recently rescinded its compulsory attendance rule.

Free public education is thus a recent luxury of our rich Republic. But as our resources dwindle and our population increases, can we forever maintain this luxury?

Already legislatures are bounded by ever increasing taxes for education. By 1970 (13 years hence) it has been reliably estimated that our college enrollments will double. How can we meet such an emergency?

Must we invest billions of dollars to duplicate our present 1,900 college campuses and elaborate buildings thereon?

Doctor Agrees Program for Mentally Ill Is Needed

I was deeply moved and very much pleased by the article by Dr. Ivan LaCore. It has been one of the great tragedies of this community that the people of Oakland County have seen fit to disregard their social responsibility in providing for the critical and acutely mentally disturbed patient.

With the advice and consultation of Dr. LaCore, we might bring to bear in the county, among its civilian population, as well as upon the hospitals operating in this county, a definite social responsibility to see and provide for the acutely mentally ill patient, and certainly afford them humane treatment pending commitment to a mental hospital.

If there is any possible way I may aid or help in this program, I shall be more than happy to volunteer my services in any capacity that you may feel free to call upon me.

'Congress' Record Is Disgraceful

The record of the just closed session of Congress was disgraceful. It was conspicuous for absenteeism; hot air and very meager results. Inflation is rampant but was hardly touched on. Then, to add insult to injury, a couple hundred of these poor, overworked servants of the people had to embark on costly junkets to foreign countries, where they will live it up like potentates on counterpart funds.

'Armies Should Work for Peace'

When men of vision have the courage to challenge the unreality of the civil defense program and concentrate on a large scale "crash program" for peace? Here is a pertinent paragraph from an article in a recent national magazine:

"Perhaps sometime all armies will be devoted to the sacrificial tasks of peace: to irrigating deserts; reforesting barren hills; joining remote communities by roads; exterminating parasitic diseases; warring upon locusts; constructing schools; building sewage systems; piping fresh water into towns or decontaminating the existent supply; and thus bring the blessings of civilization to all on this planet."

Current pictures indicate that Governor Williams' 10 year vacation agrees with him. He looks hale, hearty and well enough to shake the six million Michigan hands all over again. There's a slow burn all over Southeastern Michigan that may become a big fire.

Wants to Change School Bus Rule

Why doesn't the Board of Education run buses unless you live more than a mile and a half from school? If that's the reason, why are the juniors at my school going half days? If anyone has the answer, please write.

'North Enders Have Real Beef'

Isn't it interesting to note that when the people on the west side of our fair city want something, they get it, but the poor north end people don't? This is in regard to the trees on Franklin Boulevard not being removed to make room for the sanitary sewers.

The north enders had a legitimate beef when they asked Grand Trunk to remove trees to some part of the city where they could provide shade instead of merely uprooting them and burning them. Our own street hasn't a tree for a block and a half. The trees could have been planted here and we would have been very grateful. The City Fathers just don't seem to know that we exist on the North side.

IGY Paying Dividends

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK (U)—The International Geophysical Year is already beginning to pay dividends of new or unexpected knowledge about our earth, scientists said today.

Some findings:
X-rays from the sun's radiations have been found to exist only 40 miles or so above our heads.

Northern and Southern lights or aurorae can blink on at the same time.

High-flying rockets have captured particles of energy believed to cause these aurorae.

In Antarctica, temperatures can vary 100 degrees over distances no farther apart than New York and Chicago, or between San Francisco and Seattle. This must have profound effects upon weather generated in that vast frozen continent.

The earth's atmosphere seems to reach up, in terribly thin form, to heights of one to several thousand miles into space.

The IGY is a concerted, share-all-knowledge effort by scientists of 64 nations to learn secrets of our home planet earth, our sun, the atmosphere and oceans. It began two months ago and lasts another 16 months.

Leading IGY scientists described programs and preliminary findings for a symposium on earth, air and space in reports prepared for delivery today at the Hayden Planetarium of the American Museum of Natural History. It is one event in the national program of the American Chemical Society.

Dr. Joseph Kaplan, University of California physicist and chairman of the U.S. IGY National Committee, said rockets have found evidence of solar X-rays at altitudes of about 40 miles and higher.

Other scientists stationed near the north and south poles simultaneously timed brilliant aurorae over both regions. These streaming lights are believed caused by energy from the sun, especially after great explosions or flares on the face of the sun.

Daily weather maps are being prepared by scientists of a dozen nations scattered over the antarctic continent, one of the world's huge weather factories. At least once this year, the temperature at the South Pole was 100 degrees colder than the near-zero temperature at Little America only 850 miles to the south. This must have meaning about weather and forecasting.

He Fixes That Tire

LOS ANGELES (U)—It was a little more than Thomas R. McQuade could take when he had the second flat of the day on his new station wagon. So he kept going, police reported, at speeds in excess of 55 m.p.h. The tire shredded and fell off the wheel, the wheel itself fell apart. He was booked on suspicion of drunk driving.

Prisoners to Get Music

RICHMOND, Calif. (U)—City jail prisoners are going to have music to soothe their jangled nerves. Police chief Charles E. Safety Committee Honored With Plaque Pontiac has made an outstanding attempt to make its streets safer, said a national traffic safety official here yesterday.

Harold Holmes, of Washington, D. C. presented a plaque to the Chamber of Commerce Safety Committee, which last May sponsored its annual check of safety features on automobiles driven in Pontiac.

The Pontiac program was one of three in Michigan that won first prizes in the national vehicle safety check, sponsored by the Inter-Industry Highway Safety Committee and Look Magazine, in cooperation with the Safety Co-ordinators.

Holmes is the midwestern regional representative for the safety check. In presenting the plaque, Holmes said:

"The national highway problem can only be solved by attacking it locally, in communities all over nation."

"This is what Pontiac has done such a good job at, calling motorists' attention to the dangers of the road and urging them to keep automobiles in tip-top shape safety-wise, to prevent accidents before they happen."

"If other communities did as well as Pontiac, I believe the national highway toll could be substantially reduced."

As an indication of how well Pontiac was judged, of the more than 1,000 communities participating in safety checks this year, only 55 won prizes, said Holmes.

Pontiac was first among participating Michigan communities with populations between 25,000 and 100,000. Newaygo near Grand Rapids won first prize for cities less than 25,000 and Saginaw County won the county prize.

Holmes cited the number of Pontiac cars checked—about 15,000; the organization behind the safety program, and the large number of groups that contributed to its success.

Besides the safety committee, they include service clubs, Pontiac High School driver training students, the Pontiac Police Department and police reserves, the Pontiac Association of Automobile Dealers and more than 70 participating service stations.

The plaque, which will hang in the Chamber of Commerce office, was received by Clyde R. Haskill, safety committee chairman. With him was Paul L. Merideth, who headed this year's auto check committee.

Committee members are Robert Tricker, George Stewart, William Spadafore, police Capt. Joseph Koren and Lt. Clayton Randolph, and Sheriff's Deputy Stephen Navarre.

Gerald Shipman, head of the Michigan State Safety Commission, sent his congratulations to the safety committee.

COMMITTEE HONORED — The Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce Safety Committee was honored yesterday for efforts to make the city streets safer. Here committee head Clyde Haskill receives a plaque from Harold Holmes, regional representative of the Inter-Industry Highway Safety Committee.

DAV Will Start 'Forget-Me-Not' Drive Tomorrow

All Disabled American Veterans in the Pontiac area, especially those from Chapters 16 and 101 and their Auxiliaries, will be out in full force tomorrow and Saturday conducting their annual "Forget-Me-Not" campaign.

Each member should be easily identified by DAV caps, armbands or uniforms, carrying their sealed metal containers and an armload of the little blue flowers made by disabled vets in hospitals scattered throughout the country.

Members will be found on the streets and in the business places of Pontiac, Auburn Heights, Rochester, Lake Orion, Clarkston, Waterford Township, Milford and Holly.

The annual drive is their only means of financing the veterans welfare program over the coming year. All funds solicited are spent on veteran's families in financial distress, Christmas baskets and veterans confined to hospitals.

The aircraft carrier USS Saratoga is the longest and widest ship ever built (1,039 feet long, 252 feet extreme breadth).

Milldebrandt to Head District Toastmasters

It was announced Tuesday night at a meeting of the Pontiac Toastmasters Club, that Otto W. Milldebrandt, of 3070 Grant St., has been elected area governor for Toastmaster's District 28, covering northern Oakland County.

Underground A-Bomb Blast Set

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK (U)—The earthquake A-bomb explodes next Wednesday in Nevada. Its shuddering, muffled blast will mark a new step in peaceful world cooperation for science.

This bomb will be set off 800 feet underground, in a tunnel inside a small mountain, at noon, Eastern Standard Time.

As such blasts go—in the vast desert northwest of Las Vegas, this will not be a big one. But its shock waves will travel through and around the earth, probably reaching into the heart of the world.

Earthquake experts around the globe—Americans, Russians, Britons, Chinese, Australians, all nationalities—will be set to record the waves and share results, a striking scientific dividend in the International Geophysical Year.

Usual bars of secrecy were let down to inform the observers in advance.

How fast the shock waves travel can tell these seismologists new facts about what the earth is like inside from thin crust to hot heavy core. The knowledge could advance the day of sometime being able to predict natural earthquakes.

This earthquake bomb meets the wish of many seismologists to use atomic power as a probe deep into the earth's interior.

Two years ago, requests were made of Washington, London and Moscow for one to four A-bombs just for earth studies. Dr. K. E. Bullen of Australia disclosed last week. He is president of the International Seismological Assn.

Shock waves from natural earthquakes are the scientists' main tool to learn the structure of our globe.

Waves sent into the earth from A-bombs and H-bombs exploded in the air have helped a bit too.

But the trouble is that quake specialists never knew just when the natural quake or bomb quake waves started, so they could measure the travel speeds precisely.

Now the Atomic Energy Commission is giving a helping hand by announcing these details in advance. The underground bomb is one in a current series of Nevada tests, and undoubtedly has scientific or military purposes as main objectives.

The quake studies are a dividend open to all.

The AEC said the bomb will be exploded at the end of a multi-directional 2,000-foot tunnel cut into a small mountain. It pinpointed the exact location and hour, plus or minus two minutes.

It will be a baby bomb, equal to only 1,000 to 10,000 tons of TNT. The first or nominal A-bombs packed 20,000 tons force.

Some seismologists will study the waves to learn more about the earth's core. Others are interested in the makeup of upper layers. Some will use them for clues whether certain mountains rest on the earth's crust, or send down deep iceberg-like roots.

By the present picture, the earth has a thin crust varying from 20 to 35 miles thick. Then comes the mantle of heavy hot rock, in layers, reaching down 1,800 miles. Then a molten inner core for the next 1,400 miles, and an inner core 800 miles in radius. The inner core may be molten, or it may be solid nickel and iron.

EARTHQUAKE A-BOMB PLAN—Cross section of the earth underlying a small mountain in the Nevada nuclear testing area illustrates how shock waves will penetrate the earth's interior when a scheduled atom bomb blast is set off Saturday. The baby bomb will be exploded at the end of a 2,000-foot tunnel cut into the mountain 800 feet under the peak. Shock waves to be recorded around the earth are expected to provide new facts about the earth's interior.

Turk Parliament Restricts Parties

Passes Bill to Prevent Coalition by Requiring Complete Slates

ANKARA, Turkey (U)—A bill designed to hinder the opposition in the next election by restricting party alliances was pushed through a stormy session of Parliament last night by Premier Adnan Menderes' Democratic party.

With the opposition abstaining, the single-chamber Parliament advanced the election seven months to Oct. 27 and then dissolved itself. The new Parliament will convene Nov. 1.

There is a possibility the opposition may boycott the elections. The three main opposition parties—the Republican, Freedom and Nation parties—have charged that Menderes' government is rapidly losing popularity.

They say he advanced the elections because present limited prosperity is expected to give way to serious economic troubles by next May.

The opposition groups have been seeking to form a united front against the Democrats but the new bill will make an alliance difficult.

The new law prohibits members of one party from running as candidates for other parties. It requires each party to run a complete ticket instead of combining tickets.

When debate opened last night, fist fights broke out between Democrats and the opposition.

The voting law bill passed 361-31 after a recess to cool tempers. Then Parliament voted 377-0 to dissolve itself.

State FEPC Delays Discrimination Case

DETROIT (U)—The Michigan Fair Employment Practices Commission has adjourned its first public hearing on a complaint of racial discrimination in employment practices until Sept. 30.

The Rev. John F. Finnegan, pastor of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church and hearing officer, ordered the recess yesterday in order to have more time to study a motion for dismissal by the accused Checker Cab Co.

Three Negroes complained to the FEPC that Checker refused to hire them because of their race, but Checker contends the complaint is unjustified since the firm "is a non-profit corporation and does not hire drivers."

A spokesman for Checker said drivers were hired by the cab owners and not by the company. The public hearing is the first in the 22-month history of the Michigan FEPC.

Fear Oil Supplies Could Dry Up Soon

TORONTO (U)—An American professor says the world's oil supplies are in danger of drying up. Prof. Rhodes W. Fairbridge, head of the geology department of Columbia University, told the International Union of Geodesy and Geophysics yesterday that unless a synthetic oil source is discovered within the next 30 or 40 years oil will have to be reserved for essential services.

"The present wholesale burning of oil for heating and fuel will have to stop and be replaced by uranium or other full source," he said.

Fairbridge said he had prepared statistics of all the world's sedimentary basins that could possibly contain oil and the outlook showed distinct limitation.

Landslides Hit Japan

TOKYO (U)—Heavy rains lashing Japan since Sept. 9 touched off landslides yesterday on the southern island of Shikoku Island. Police said six persons died and five were injured. A family of three was buried alive in their house by one landslide.

Russians Now Organize 'Elite' Force in Hungary

By JOHN H. MARTIN

INS Foreign Director

The Soviet military, which crushed Hungary's spontaneous anti-Russian revolution nearly a year ago, now has organized a new "elite" satellite force in the hope it will be "trustworthy."

Hungary's old officer force was purged after the revolution, and since March 1 there has been a cautious and selective reconstitution of the Hungarian Army.

The special report, "Hungary under Soviet rule," prepared by the American Friends of the Captive Nations and "the Assembly of Captive European Nations" with the aid of Hungarian Freedom Groups, says that the reorganization is being handled by two key figures—both Moscow-trained, of course.

They are Col. Ferenc Ugrai, chief of staff of the new force, and Lt. Gen. Geza Revesz, who became minister of defense last March.

Ugrai began as a lieutenant in the hated Communist security police, the AVH, in 1945. The AVH Red puppets are hated by the Hungarians even more than are the Russians, if that is possible.

RAPID RISE

Ugrai rose rapidly in the ranks and later was sent to Moscow, where he received military training for several years. The special report says that this man, who is more of a political officer and secret police agent than a military man, got his boost for his loyalty to the regime under Premier Janos Kadar.

Revesz, the defense minister, is a much older man and his Bolshevik loyalty dates back to the days immediately after the First World War when he was a Red militiaman in the 1919 Communist coup led by Bela Kun in Hungary.

When Kun fell, Revesz fled to the Soviet Union and studied military engineering. Upon graduation he became a Communist agent. His first assignment was to return to Hungary illegally for underground party work. He was arrested and imprisoned and upon his release he resumed his Communist work in Western Europe, declaring himself a Soviet citizen.

He returned in triumph to Hungary on the heels of the Red Army in 1945 and four years later became head of the military secret police. "It is this Soviet citizen and Communist agent," says the report, "who is now directing the reorganization of the Hungarian Army, with its system of Russian advisers."

It is on minority old-line Reds such as these, plus the overwhelming strength of tank-equipped Soviet troops estimated as high as 100,000 men, that Communist Premier Kadar depends to stay in power.

Executions and deportations continue in heavily censored Hungary. Yet Soviet Party boss Nikita Khrushchev blandly said in his American television interview that Kadar represents the people of Hungary.

Hurricane Carrie Expected to Miss U.S. Mainland

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Hurricane Carrie probably will miss the U.S. mainland entirely and die far out in the Atlantic, forecasters said today.

The season's third tropical storm was about 940 miles east-northeast of San Juan, P. R. and about 1,900 miles east and a little south of Miami.

It had winds up to 90 miles an hour. The Miami Weather Bureau noted that the storm was spreading slightly, a characteristic of tropical storms as they move north. An advisory at 5 a. m. E.S.T. said no important change in intensity was expected during the following 12 hours.

"It looks pretty good as far as the United States is concerned," said Gordon Dunn, chief storm forecaster in the Miami Weather Bureau. "We have reason to be optimistic that the whole East Coast is in no danger from the storm."

The storm should pick up speed and continue northward. Dunn said, but it will be watched for several days more as it moves up the Atlantic.

Disarming Debate Gains U.N. Support

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The idea of staging an early debate on disarmament in the U.N. General Assembly gained support today.

Soviet Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev yesterday requested that the debate on disarmament in the U.N. General Assembly be opened next Tuesday.

Informed sources said the idea of an early meeting of the 12-nation commission.

The commission is expected to do little more than pass along to the assembly the report of the deadlocked London talks of its subcommittee, composed of Britain, Canada, France, the Soviet Union and the United Nations. The larger group also includes the subcommittee members.

Famous Classic by Mark Twain Off Reading List

NEW YORK (AP)—Mark Twain's "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" no longer is on the approved textbook list for city elementary and junior high schools.

Miss Ethel Huggard, associate school superintendent in charge of curriculum development, confirmed yesterday that three textbook contracts for the book had not been renewed in the past two years.

"Huckleberry Finn" has been criticized by some Negroes as racially offensive. A spokesman for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People said yesterday he was unaware of any organized protest against the book. However, he said, the NAACP strongly objected to "racial slurs" in Twain's works.

Miss Huggard denied that the book was dropped because it contained passages derogatory to Negroes. It was felt the story was really not a textbook, she said, adding that those pupils wanting to read it could obtain copies in the school libraries.

The work still is distributed as a textbook in the city high schools.

Nehru Still Refuses Kashmir Plebiscite

SPINAGAR, Kashmir (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru says demands for a plebiscite in Kashmir will lead nowhere "unless and until Pakistan has vacated her aggression."

Nehru arrived here yesterday for a spot study of flood damages and the political situation. He was accompanied by Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon.

Nehru said the "basic question is Pakistan's aggression, and India went to the United Nations asking its removal."

India and Pakistan have disputed control of this Himalayan state since the two nations became independent in 1947. Each country now controls a portion of the state, with a U. N. cease-fire line dividing the territories. India has steadfastly refused proposals for a plebiscite to settle the dispute.

Hal Boyle Says:

Independence Is Sweet at Any Age

NEW YORK (U.P.)—They started calling him "Old Jim" as a joke when, at 15, he was hired by the firm as a junior office boy. They were still calling him "Old Jim" when, 50 years later, he was retired—much against his will—as head clerk. But they were no longer joking.

Old Jim was proud of the gold watch and $500 farewell check the firm gave him. But he didn't quite know what to do with the leather traveling bag the office staff had presented him.

"After all, where am I going?" he asked his wife, Mary. "Where can a man go when he's 65, and they tell him they don't need him anymore?"

"I don't know where you're going, Jim," replied his wife, "but I know where I'm going."

"Where?" asked Jim, surprised. "Out to get a job," said Mary. "After all, I'm only 60 myself. We could scrimp along with your pension, but a little extra money wouldn't hurt."

"Is that the only reason you want to go to work?" asked her husband gently.

"No, Jim, it isn't," said Mary. "To tell you the full truth, I've had the house to myself during the day all these years we've been married. I just don't think I'd like it to have a man around underfoot all the time—and maybe finding fault with the way I do things."

It was the worst blow of Old Jim's life when Mary came home a few nights later and announced she had found a job at $200 a month in the town library.

But after a few days of hopeless misery he pulled himself together and set out to make his own brave new world. He rose first, fixed Mary her breakfast, and after she was gone he did the dishes, and spent the morning cleaning the small white cottage until it shone.

In the afternoon he went to the town park. At first he merely sat on a bench alone, warming his old bones in the hot sun, as he puffed at his pipe and dreamed of times gone by. But gradually he made cronies of other old-timers who gathered in the park, and it was a great day when he beat crotchety, 83-year-old Joe Hoskins, the Spanish American War veteran, for the checker championship.

Then one night his new world suddenly blew up.

"Jim, this was my last day at the library," said Mary. "I'm 65 now, and the board said I'd have to leave."

The next morning Mary, stretching luxuriously with a wonderful feeling of idleness, awoke to find no breakfast waiting. Old Jim dressed in his best suit, was just going out the door.

"Where are you going?"

"Out to look for a job."

"At 70?" asked Mary. "Why, we don't need the money."

"Well, to tell you the truth," said Old Jim, "for the last five years I've had this place to myself during the day. At my age I'll be darned if I want a woman underfoot all the time—sitting around and picking holes in the way I keep house!"

BLIND TO "SEE" MSU CAMPUS—Students and visitors who are blind will be able to explore the complex campus of Michigan State University in East Lansing by "walking" on their fingertips over this Braille map. Raised surfaces in the 32 by 42-inch map of extremely thin copper reproduce over 100 buildings and most of the 50 miles of sidewalks and 20 miles of roadway threading the campus. Shown at work on the map is Max Hilton, senior landscape architecture student of Bronson, Mich. A team of six students finished the complicated work in a week. A plastic film prevents tarnish.

U. S. Officer in Arkansas

Puts Principle Over Politics

By International News Service
Osro Cobb, the U.S. District Attorney who must carry out orders of the Little Rock school integration crisis, is a man of unified contrasts.

The 53-year-old, lifelong Republican was born in Polk County, Arkansas, and has spent the balance of his life intimately connected with the affairs and interests of his state.

Yet, he now emerges as the arm of action for the federal government in its pending legal battle with Arkansas.

No one in nervous, uncertain Little Rock, however, is more calm, more self-assured, more confident of an eventual peaceful solution to the troubles.

Cobb started his political career as the organizer of the first Republican political club on an Arkansas campus while a student at Henderson-Brown College in Arkadelphia.

FOSTERS 2-PARTY PLAN

He has said his reason for joining the GOP in the solid Democratic domain of Arkansas was to foster the two-party system. He's been hard at it ever since.

For 22 years until his appointment in 1934, with time out for World War II service with the Air Force, he was his party's state chairman.

From 1927-31 he was Montgomery County's first Republican in the state House of Representatives in 75 years.

A large, silver-haired, genial man in the southern tradition, Cobb's gregarious manner is balanced by what legal observers in Little Rock say is a shrewd knowledge of jurisprudence.

He is known as one who puts principle ahead of partisan politics and is a "joiner" and a leader in numerous Little Rock clubs and organizations.

At the moment Cobb is reluctant to discuss his political attitude, but the record makes it clear. He was an early, and remains an emphatic, supporter of President Eisenhower because of "his tremendous moral leadership."

In the Little Rock clash between state and federal government, he is unequivocal in his belief his side is right. His son, John is a student at integrated Phillips Exeter Academy in Exeter, N. H.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

TO ALL EDISON CUSTOMERS

Now available to home owners in this area is a new and better electric water heating service.

Sweeping changes in the basic design of electric water heaters have been made to give them greater heating ability. Heater action is now fully automatic. These things the manufacturers have done at our suggestion. At the same time, economy-seeking revisions in Edison's water heating rate have been adopted. The result is the best water heating service ever offered in Southeastern Michigan.

Many families already use the new service. For the first time, theirs is a feeling of complete confidence in a really modern and adequate water heating system. Like them, you can be comfortable in the knowledge that the safe water heater is now one of the most efficient, too.

Why a New Water Heating Service?

Really hot water is an absolute necessity in every home today. It's easier, for example, to get the laundry clean (not just clean looking) with 160° water. But few heaters, other than an electric, heat water that hot unless manual adjustments are made. Such heaters, then, are not truly automatic. And if a fuel-fired heater is permanently adjusted to heat to 160°, servicemen say that there is a likelihood that heater life will be shortened. With an electric water heater, it is standard practice to heat water to 160° and heater life is not shortened.

Lots of hot water is a modern requirement. New electric water heaters have the ability to operate day AND night as demand requires. There is no period when hot water is not available.

Exactly What's New About the Heaters?

Electric heaters have always had superior features. Long life, for one. In the efficient electric heating action, there's no concentration of heat in one small area—no destructive burning action. In addition, the manufacturers have always cooperated in using only the best design and construction materials. These rigid standards make a big difference in lifetime operating and replacement costs. Lifetime costs are also lessened by Edison's present liberal policy of replacing electrical operating parts without charge.

Maximum safety is another feature found in an electric heater. There's never any flame or pilot light to worry about. And because an electric heater is flameless, no part of its exterior shell is ever too hot to touch. An obvious advantage is that only an electric heater can be placed anywhere—even where small children play. There is no danger of accidental burns. An electric heater can be placed anywhere for another reason. It has no flue; needn't be close to a chimney. You place the heater where you want to, not where you must—and eliminate long, hot water wasting pipes in the process.

These have always been standard features in any electric water heater. But we felt that the new unit should be better yet. So we asked the manufacturers to redesign them to supply more hot water than ever. This has been accomplished by use of two more powerful heating units. Ordinarily, the lower one alone supplies ample hot water. Once in a while an unusual amount is needed. Then the upper unit switches on automatically to handle the heavy demand.

New Rates—Dependable Service

Along with the more efficient and dependable electric water heater goes a new flat rate to make it more economical than ever. You benefit by having available up to 20 hours of water heating for flat rate charges like these below:

By the month these are slightly higher charges than the older flat rates. But, considering the doubled hours of operation available under the newer rate, the hourly flat rate charge is less.

Flat Rate Charge per Month (Add Sales Tax)

50-gallon heater.....$3.88, net
80-gallon heater.....5.34, net
110-gallon heater.....6.79, net

Old Customers—New Service

Present electric water heater owners profit by switching to the new service, too. They can do so simply by calling the nearest Edison office. Then the time-switch will be changed from 10 to 20 hours of operating time. There is no conversion charge when a heater is changed in this way—no new parts are needed. The new flat rate applies after the time switch has been changed.

See the new, improved electric water heaters at your plumber's, appliance dealer's or nearest Edison office.

Sweden Plans Increase Subsidies to Mothers

STOCKHOLM — Cash contributions for children will be increased from 290 kronor to 400 kronor (about $80) a year, starting next January 1.

Cash payments to mothers for each child under 16 were instituted in 1947, taking the place of a system of tax deductions.

Since then the cost-of-living increase has halved the purchasing power of the payments, and the planned boost is to compensate for this. With the increase, the cost of the child subsidy program will be 632,000,000 kronor ($126,000,000) a year.

Some 66,300 classrooms are expected to be finished during the current school year, with public-education construction outlays totaling 2½ billion dollars.

Faubus Given Chance to Back Down Slowly

By JAMES MAHLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas now has his chance to back down more or less gracefully and still, as a politician who may want a third term, reap some political benefit for himself.

But this situation could be a dilly if he wanted to keep on bucking the federal government. He probably won't.

Federal Judge Ronald N. Davies has directed Faubus to explain Sept. 20 why he should not be ordered to stop using the state's National Guardsmen to keep Negro children from a Little Rock school which Davies three times has ordered integrated.

The Justice Department seems to take it for granted Faubus can't justify using the troops the way he has, and it seems certain that Davies will issue an injunction ordering him to stop.

It is possible Faubus will seek a third term as governor—an unusual thing in his state. Even if he obeys a court order and calls off his troops, he probably already has won the gratitude of those in Arkansas who are segregationists. Faubus says a majority of Arkansans are.

If he refused to obey the order he could be cited for contempt of court, tried and jailed. This might strengthen his position with segregationists because then he would be in the role of a martyr.

But he's already done more—at least in a spectacular way—than any other Southern governor to oppose school integration. He may

House Elections Not Expected to Change Lineup

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans and Democrats are expected by congressional election experts to divide victories in two special House elections coming up in New Jersey and Illinois.

They say they are not looking for any party overturns in a Nov. 5 election in New Jersey's 2nd Dist. or in the Dec. 31 voting in Illinois' 7th Dist.

The New Jersey vacancy results from the death last Dec. 26 of Republican Rep. T. Millet Hand, and that in Illinois from the death last July 18 of Democratic Rep. James B. Bowler.

If the same party lineup prevails in the districts, the elections will restore the House next January to a full membership of 234 Democrats and 201 Republicans.

Candidates for Rep. Hand's seat in the heavily Republican district embracing New Jersey's Atlantic, Cape May and Cumberland counties are State Assemblyman Milton W. Glenn (R), and Joseph G. Hancock (D), a farmer.

The Illinois 7th Dist. will hold a primary Nov. 12, but the GOP organization is offering no candidate. Two entrants who generally are not taken seriously are Lar Daly and Anthony Catena. The Democratic organization has put up State Sen. Roland V. Libonati. He is unopposed.

feel that's enough and so comply with a court order to stop preventing integration.

These are some of the things which could happen if he wanted to be stubborn:

If he were ordered to stop using the troops to keep Negro children from school, he could appeal to the U.S. Court of Appeals to set Davies' injunction aside.

But until the appeals court acted, he would have to obey the injunction or face contempt of court charges. And if he disobeyed, he could be tried even though the appeals court later set aside the injunction.

Suppose, having disobeyed the injunction, he stayed in his mansion, surrounded by guardsmen who were instructed to prevent a U.S. marshal from serving Faubus with an order to appear in court for trial. What then?

It probably wouldn't happen, since Faubus already has respected the court to the extent of accepting from a marshal an order to appear in court Sept. 20 for the injunction hearing.

But suppose he did? The prospect then, as lawyers here explain it, would get completely dizzy. This is how they see it:

If he didn't appear for trial on contempt charges, the judge could find him guilty in his absence—say on a civil contempt charge—and order him jailed until he complied.

If, meanwhile, he stayed in his mansion and kept the troops around the school to bar Negro children, the judge could impose a fine on him for every day he defied the injunction.

If he stayed guarded in his mansion until his term was up, he could then be seized and would have to pay all the fines he owed. Further, he could also then be tried for criminal contempt and given a flat jail sentence.

Meanwhile the guardsmen, individually and collectively, could be enjoined from keeping Negro children out of the schools. If they disobeyed, they could be charged with contempt and tried.

Marshals might not be able to bring the guardsmen in to face trial. But if one of the marshals were hurt or shot by a guardsman, the individual who did it would be committing a federal crime.

There's almost no end to the crazy series of events which could follow if Faubus refused to obey the court order.

Two Judges Talk About Girard Trial

TOKYO (AP) — U.S. Dist. Judge Luther W. Youngdahl conferred today on the William S. Girard case with Yuzo Kawachi, presiding judge at the soldier's trial. Youngdahl, Washington, D. C. judge and former governor of Minnesota, visited Kawachi in his office at Maebashi District Court. Girard is being tried on a manslaughter charge in the death of a Japanese woman scrap collector.

There was no indication Youngdahl will attend the trial as an observer. A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the judge, now on a world good will trip, is scheduled to leave Tokyo tomorrow. The trial of the Ottawa, Ill., soldier is in recess.

Army Tanks
Called Useless

Official Hits Shipping of Defective Armor to Germany

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (U)—Rep. R. Walter Riehlman (R-NY) said yesterday that the United States had shipped to Germany a tremendous number of what he said were defective army tanks.

Riehlman said in an interview with the Syracuse Post-Standard that the big tanks "never worked" and probably never would. He said that from 40 to 50 million dollars were involved in their purchase.

Riehlman said he could not recall the Army designation of the tanks.

He said the Army had "trouble with the turrets" and that the tanks were "never balanced."

Riehlman is scheduled to leave for Europe on Sept. 22 with the congressional sub-committee on government operations, of which he is a member.

He said the trip, which will include a visit to Moscow, is expected to take 4½ weeks during which committee members will check on U. S. military installations and the military supply system.

Riehlman said the tanks were built by Chrysler Corp. "Acres of them" were stored for a year and a half in Maryland before they were sent overseas, he said.

Riehlman said Chrysler Corp. has disclaimed any responsibility for what he termed the "50 million dollar federal boob." The company claimed it produced "what was asked for," Riehlman added.

The congressman said that no Army officer or other federal official or employee was ever "busted" or otherwise penalized because of the extravagant boner.

He maintained that the tanks were "never tested and they will never work."

Stop for School Bus — It's the Law

School days mean school buses are on the county's roads once again.

For the protection of the youngsters getting on and off the school bus, the state has a law governing what drivers should do if a school bus stops in front of them.

The law is in the Michigan Vehicle Code, and it applies only to cars approaching school buses from behind on roads in unincorporated areas.

When a school bus stops on the open road to receive or discharge passengers, drivers behind it are required to come to a full stop, at least 10 feet away.

Cars headed towards the bus are not affected, nor is the law applicable to buses inside incorporated cities or villages.

OPEN ROADS DANGEROUS
It is on the open road where buses usually stop in a traffic lane and there are no protecting curbs or sidewalks, that the danger to children is greatest.

It makes no difference how many lanes there are, the law is still the same.

Only after stopping are drivers allowed to proceed, slowly and with caution. They don't have to wait until the school bus starts up again, but at least must

Says Reds' Jetliner Damaged His House

BEDFORD, England (U)—House owner John Shipman complained today the rumble of Russia's TU104 jetliner loosened his roof shingles and cracked two of his ceilings. He wants to know who is going to pay for it.

Shipman said the damage was done Sunday when the jet flew low over his house en route home to Moscow from its recent flight to America.

A spokesman for the Ministry of Civil Aviation, which is handling the complaint, declined to say whether the Soviet Union will be asked to pay for the repairs. He said the matter is being investigated.

take time out to take a good look around for children who might run into their paths.

There is an exception to this rule. That's when the bus stops at an intersection where there is a traffic light or a police officer directing traffic.

If the light is green or the police officer waves for traffic behind the bus to continue, cars don't have to stop behind the bus. They may proceed, but only at a speed not greater "than is reasonable and proper," and never at more than 10 miles an hour.

SLOW TO A CRAWL
In other words, cars must slow down to little more than a crawl and drivers are required by law "to exercise due caution" for the children.

Although there is no law governing school buses in cities such as Pontiac, caution is still a good prevention of accidents, says Police Traffic Capt. Joseph Koren.

When a school bus stops, drivers should slow down if traffic permits, take an extra careful look around, be on the watchout for the forgetful child who darts out into traffic, Koren advised.

Everyone would agree, it's easier to remember the school bus law than it is to forget that you've hit a child with your car.

Jet Airplane Ejects
Marine Pilot Safely

MIAMI, Fla. (U)—First Lt. Chester M. Irgens ejected safely from his FJ3 Fury jet airplane yesterday after heading the aircraft away from densely populated areas to an open field.

Irgens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Irgens of Glenwood, Mich., landed unhurt in a lake near the Marine Corps station air field at suburban Opa-Locka. He was picked up by a helicopter. Irgens was returning from a training flight when, due to engine trouble, he had only sufficient altitude and air speed to head the plane toward open country before ejecting, the Marine Corps said.

The aircraft crashed and burned half a mile away in an open field.

Village Readies 125th Anniversary Fete

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

One of the oldest towns in Michigan is preparing to commemorate 125 years of existence, with one of the most spectacular celebrations ever held in the area.

Milford, nestled in a scenic valley in the heart of Oakland County, will close shop on Oct. 31, and Nov. 1st and 2nd, to observe the original founding of the town in 1832.

The many newcomers to Milford are stopping their daily activities to listen and observe, as oldsters dust off relics of the past years and relate experiences of "the good old days."

According to town "historians", Elizur Ruggles and his brother, Stanley, came to Milford in 1832, built a lumber mill on the bank of the Huron River, and erected a dam at that spot.

This made it possible to ford the shallow water down on the east side of the dam, and that's the story of how the town got its name.

The two Ruggles brothers built a "pole shack" in the side of a hill for their home, and the indentation from the dwelling is still visible here.

According to 64-year old Leo Shelters, of 126 E. Huron St., big logs, cut from virgin timber in the area, were thrown down on the swampy land and used as a road to higher ground.

Those logs are still there—covered over with tons of gravel and eventually blacktopped.

A grandson of Elizur Ruggles, Ben Phillips, with his wife, still live in part of the same house that his ancestor built later at 1018 Atlantic St.

"Life surely begins at eighty,"

for many Milford oldtimers. One fine example of this, is tiny Grace (Mrs. Roy) Cooke.

She has been playing the organ in St. Mary's Catholic church for sixty consecutive years.

Born in nearby Highland, she is a widow who lives with her brother John at 507 Summit St.

Every day in the week at 7:30 a.m., people attending High Mass, hear the organ playing in the background and a clear alto voice singing the responses.

This designates part of Mrs. Cooke's devoted service to the church which she watched grow from a small frame building on Summit street, to a magnificent cut-stone structure on Commerce street.

Grace began learning about music from her mother when she was still too small to reach the pedals, and she had to "look straight up to read the music."

Grace's mother, Mrs. John Knappler, was the very first organist at St. Mary's and her record of 27 consecutive years as an organist set the pace for her daughter.

In the reference to her age, Grace said, "If folks want to know about my age—let 'em guess. I'm past 41, so let's just leave it at that."

IN HEART OF VILLAGE

Many new Milfordites do not know that one of the most beautiful dams in Michigan exists right in the heart of the business section.

The Ford dam was constructed about twenty years ago by that company, and is hidden down under heavy foliage just north of Commerce street.

Until just recently the company employed many Milford residents, but now stands vacant due to an expansion move.

Probably Michigan's oldest merchant, 83-year-old Charles Price, still runs his tiny old-fashioned harness shop on Main street. He is the only horse-harness maker in Michigan.

Charlie opened his store in 1908, when there were hitchin' posts and cobblestone streets. Fine carriage horses as well as the farmer's faithful teams, kept him busy making and repairing all types of harness.

With the coming of the automobile era, most of Charlie's work is now devoted to repairing saddle equipment. People travel to Milford from all over the state to have their expensive tack put back in shape.

Charlie never owned or drove an automobile, but said, "The younger I get, the more I wish I had one."

Another Milford oldster, Bill Purdy, keeps life from becoming dull by checking over his many items of interest collected during his 61 years in the village.

Bill has been an enthusiastic expert in the art of coin, stamp and gun collecting. Photography, hunting, fishing and taxidermy has been his life work.

Recently Purdy donated more than 150 rare birds, to the Huron Clinton Metropolitan Authority. These are housed in a new building at Kensington Park for public inspection.

For more than a century and a quarter, this little town has quietly existed with not much excitement—then approximately five years ago, a building boom hit the town with all the fury of a tornado, according to council officials.

Six different real estate developers began to buy up village property, with the prospect of erecting some 1,000 new homes. Hills were cut down, natural gas installed and houses seemed to mushroom up overnight.

By 1960, according to Michigan State Planning Commission estimates, Milford will more than double in size, and they say that this is partly due to the building of the new Lincoln Mercury plant. Employment there has soared to some 2,000 workers.

"Due to the fact that Halloween falls on the opening day for the 125th-anniversary celebration, officials have designated Oct. 31 as 'Youth Day'."

The following day has been set aside as "Neighbor's Day" when all Milford residents will pay special attention to their neighbors.

On Saturday, visitors returning to the town, for the reunion of old friends will be honored with "Homecoming and Pioneer Day" activities.

There will be no celebration on Sunday, but the day will be devoted to paying tribute to the importance of religion in the growth and development of Milford during the last 125 years.

Sen. Potter Urges End to GOP Apathy

Republican apathy combined with vigorous political action by labor brought about the recent Democratic senatorial victory in Wisconsin, Sen. Charles A. Potter declared here last night.

Labor, said Potter, naming the CIO in particular, "got out 80 per cent of its vote in Wisconsin. But business persuaded only 20 per cent of its voting strength to go to the polls."

The Cheboygan Republican, in an off-the-cuff talk to the Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce, did not comment on assertions that the Wisconsin vote is to be interpreted as a decline in the popularity of President Eisenhower.

Potter called upon the business world to engage more actively in politics as a counter-offensive against political action by labor groups.

"If business does not take an active part in politics," Potter predicted, "the country is surely going to fall into the hands of a small, but politically effective, group of socialists."

Potter, who defended the free enterprise system as the "most revolutionary in history," is up for re-election next year.

He talked about politics generally, however, without specific mention of the 1958 campaign.

Playing on one of his favorite themes, Potter did not criticize the Democratic party as much as he did the politically-active labor element within the Democratic ranks.

"Our nation is run on free enterprise woven into a two party system. We need good men in both parties," Potter said.

He called socialism a "reactionary, worn-out" system of government. "We can't be complacent because the proponents of socialism are dedicated. I hate to see our rights chipped away," Potter said.

Detroit Seaway Port Space Cut

New Plan Allows Room for 2 Ships, 2 Sheds at $9,420,000 Cost

DETROIT (INS) — The Port Committee for the Wayne County Board of Supervisors yesterday cut the proposed seaway port for Detroit to almost half size.

The port commission had offered a plan to provide space for four ocean-going vessels, three transit storage sheds, and a waterfront 1,977 feet long.

However, the supervisor's committee trimmed the proposal down to only two ship berths, two sheds, and chopped the frontage to 1,105 feet.

A $990,000 office building the Port Commission had proposed to rent to firms whose business centered around the port also was whittled down to one large enough only for the commission's offices.

Willis H. Hall, secretary of the Detroit Board of Commerce and a member of the Port Committee, opposed the building, contending the commission had no authority to construct a building for rental.

Carl J. Stettin, port director, said the committee's action would slash original estimated costs of the project from 12,500,000 to $9,420,000.

The county Ways and Means Committee will review the proposal today.

Bomb Hoax Closes Lansing Sexton High

LANSING (AP) — Lansing Sexton High School was closed today after an anonymous telephone call was received saying the school building would be bombed.

The phone call to a secretary in the principal's office shortly after 10 a.m. said the bomb was set to go off "between now and 3 p.m."

"It was pretty certainly a call from a crank or a mischief-maker," said Dwight W. Rich, Superintendent of Schools, "but we couldn't afford to take any chances."

Rich said the secretary reported that the person making the call sounded like an adult.

Rich added that there had never been any trouble about integration. A similar call was received at the school last spring during final examinations and no bomb was found.

Police and firemen started searching the building after the pupils were evacuated and reported that nothing in the nature of a bomb was found in the first check.

Police Hold Mother, 34, in Burning of New Baby

DETROIT (AP) — Police today held a 34-year-old Wyandotte mother for investigation in the burning of a newborn baby girl at the suburban Wyandotte city dump.

The baby, just a few days old, was found in a burning pile of rubbish Tuesday morning. Police said the child was believed to have been born alive and bore no marks of violence. The suspect, who has one child, was not named.

60 YEARS OF SERVICE — Mrs. Roy Cooke is in her 60th year as organist of St. Mary's Catholic Church. She has played and sung for High Mass at 7:30 a.m. every morning for the last seven consecutive years.

MILFORD'S OLDEST — For more than 100 years, Milford's First Methodist Church has stood as an example of fine Early American Architecture. Rev. William C. Lovejoy is the minister.

For Million Dollar Holly High Cornerstone Rite Monday

HOLLY — Announcement will be made today by Supt. Charles Cogging that the cornerstone for the new million dollar Holly Area High School will be laid at 9 a.m. Monday.

The principal speakers for the ceremony, to which the public are invited, will be Joe Haas, member of the editorial staff of The Pontiac Press, and Eugene Rogers, who was president of the local board of education when the bond issue for the school was carried.

Guests will include local officials and teachers who have served in that capacity here for 20 years or more. Pupils of all grades between the fourth and twelfth, inclusive, will also attend.

This includes the biggest expansion in the local educational facilities in over a quarter of a century.

Set Zoning Hearing

HUNTINGTON WOODS — The City Commission here stated it would hold a public hearing on codification of zoning laws on Oct. 1. City ordinances were recently streamlined and classified by city officials and state law requires a public hearing on the zoning section of the ordinances.

Wright said a petition signed by sixteen residents in the area protesting the rezoning has been received by the city council.

Church Bowlers to Meet

TROY — Troy Methodist Church Bowling League will hold their first meeting of the season at 6:45 p.m. tomorrow at Auburn Lanes.

Invite Schools to Join Contest

Kiwanis Asks Teenagers to Participate in Apple Pie Race Oct. 16

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWN. SHIP — Kiwanis clubs of Oakland County are inviting high schools to participate in a big fall apple pie contest to be held next month.

Present plans call for the contest to be divided into two sections, one for high school girls and the other for "ladies past the high school age."

The pie baking competition will begin during the week of Oct. 16 at a local level with certain Kiwanis clubs and various high schools staging their own individual contests.

The winners will compete in the finals to be held during the last week of October, the period when a concentrated drive to push the sale and use of Michigan apples will be under way.

Prizes will be given to the winners in each division.

The contest will tie in with the Michigan State Apple Commission's Big Ten program, so named to identify the apple season with the Midwestern football picture.

Many schools will point out the advantages of eating apples in regard to health. The film, "Gateway to Health," now available to schools, shows how apples are beneficial to teeth.

John Finlayson, director of the Oakland County Kiwanis Club apple program, expects a record number of entries in the apple pie contest.

Clubs or organizations wishing recipes for apple dishes may write to Ted Sprague, Eastern Michigan Supply, 28627 Grand River, Farmington, for a free supply. His phone number is GR 4-4315.

Holds Meeting Tonight

AUBURN HEIGHTS — The Auburn Heights Community Club will meet at 6:30 this evening at the clubhouse. Mrs. Arthur C. Cander and Opal Leonard will be hostesses for the dinner which will precede the monthly business meeting.

Horse Show Tops 3-Day Festival

WASHINGTON—The fifth annual horse show will highlight a three-day Fall Festival Sept. 13-15 at the community park in Washington.

The 17-event horse show on Sunday is expected to draw some 200 entries, twice as many as last year. An added attraction will be an exhibition of square dancing on horseback by members of the Port Huron Saddle club. Registration time is set for 11:30 a.m. with the grand entry slated to open the show at noon sharp.

The three-day event, which opens with a baseball game at 5 p.m. Friday, is sponsored by the Washington Improvement Association and affiliated organizations. It is staged annually to raise funds for park improvements and the Community Building.

Other features of the festival will be musical acts all three evenings, a baseball game between two Little League teams at 2 P.M. Saturday afternoon, a firemen's tug of war at 6:30 the same evening.

Included in the county draftees were: George E. Brantley, of Pontiac Township; Duane A. Willett, Lynn T. Ealy, Keith W. Henry, Thomas W. Studt, and Richard A. McVety, all of Waterford Township; and Lawrence Mullins, of Fenton.

Rounding out the group were: Angus H. Coulter, of Keego Harbor; David H. Evans, of Sylvan Village; Kenneth R. Henke, of Oxford; John S. Byers and Richard M. Cromie, both of Rochester; Robin E. Howland, of White Lake Township; James L. Palshan, of Ortonville; James T. Long, of Clarkston; and Matthew W. Schatz, of Waterford.

The men were inducted at Fort Wayne.

Sylvan Manor Assn. Sets Hearing Sept. 19

WEST BLOOMFIELD—Sylvan Manor Civic Assn. will hold its first fall meeting Sept. 19, immediately following the West Bloomfield board hearing on the Sylvan Manor subdivision blacktopping.

The hearing will start at 7:30 p.m. in the township hall.

Tierney was released from Wayne County General Hospital yesterday. Doctors said he was in good condition but warned him to "take it easy" for 60 days.

The mayor said he had no animosity or hatred for Lester Ellerhorst, the contractor. Ellerhorst is awaiting trial on an assault charge.

DOROTHY McEVoy

The engagement of Dorothy Emily McEvoy to Joseph B. Serra has been announced. She is the daughter of Mrs. William McEvoy of Clarkston and the late Mr. McEvoy. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francesco Serra of Livonia. A Dec. 21 wedding is planned.

UNNOTICED BEAUTY — The Ford dam goes almost unnoticed by many Milfordites. Located just off Commerce street, the dam is hidden by thick foliage. However, Doug Beasance knows there are fish going over the dam, and tries his luck.

DETROIT SEAWAY — The Port Committee for the Wayne County Board of Supervisors yesterday cut the proposed seaway port for Detroit to almost half size.

Man Collects $1,000 for Living 96 Years

BLACKSTONE, Va. (AP)—James S. Robertson didn't pay much attention to the fact that the $1,000 insurance policy he took out in 1904 would be payable at face value if he lived until he was 96.

Paul V. Severin, Richmond agent for the Union Central Life Insurance Company, came here personally to make the payment and offer congratulations.

Rescue Model Boat

BATTLE CREEK (AP)—Firemen

WEST POINT, Va. (AP)—It is easy to feed Come On, a cat belonging to Mrs. Tilman Kent, during the summer time. Come On likes corn on the cob. But there's one trouble and the Tilmans may have to fence Come On out of the garden. They say he pulls husks and eats the corn without benefit of family aid.

Junior Editors SCIENCE QUIZ

ANSWER: When scientists look through a telescope they frequently see the sun covered with dark spots or blotches. Sometimes these sunspots can be seen through dark glasses, or even with the naked eye.

These spots are terrific storm centers in the sun's atmosphere. When observed through a powerful telescope they appear much like a tornado does to a pilot flying over it.

Careful study has shown that these storms on the sun's surface consist of swirling gases made up of electric particles.

Scientists have determined that they operate in cycles of approximately 11 years, with the spots being more numerous in certain periods of the cycle. On some days there are no spots at all.

FOR YOU TO DO: See if you can see spots on the sun. The best time to look is in the evening just before the sun sets.

(Sylvia Bowen of Richmond, Va., won $10 for this suggestion. If you have a question send it to Violet Moore Higgins, AP News-features, in care of this newspaper. Tomorrow: How do young birds know where to migrate?)

Appears U.S. Navy Lost, Gained Ship

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii — The destroyer McGinty had a little trouble finding her way home here the other day.

The McGinty steamed into Pearl Harbor and asked for berthing instructions. "The up-alongside the Whitehurst" was the answer.

After a tour of the harbor, the McGinty radioed in bewilderment: "There's no Whitehurst here. Only a ship called the Haynes."

"Impossible," came the reply, "there's no such ship in the United States Navy."

All concerned learned later that the Whitehurst had been loaned to a Hollywood crew for a movie.

The original name had been painted out, and "Haynes" substituted.

Rehabilitating Patients With Pinball Machine

DENVER, Colo. — A pinball machine seized in a gambling raid here has escaped the ax. Jefferson County Judge Roscoe Pile ordered the machine sent to the Colorado State Hospital at Pueblo.

The machine is now being used in the rehabilitation of mental patients. The judge turned the machine over to the hospital on the condition that should it "ever cease to be used by said institution to the benefit of inmates" it would be returned to Jefferson County and immediately destroyed.

Duck Gets Revenge—

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — When Bill Jordan of Richmond showed up in a .22 calibre bullet wound in his heel after a deer hunt, he was asked how it happened. His story: Got lost in the woods before dawn. Came to a creek. Two ducks got up. Fired with buck shot, downing one. Duck, which showed no injuries, was placed in hunting coat pocket. Took up deer stand. Saw a nice buck approaching. Hugged a tree. Duck began fluttering wildly. Buck took off. Fired and missed. Cartridge in coat apparently fired by duck's bill lodged in heel.

Fish Eggs Are Downfall of Safecracking Trio

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — If these city yeggs had known more about fish eggs they might have gotten away with a safe cracking job. A trio of 16-year-old burglars stole a safe from a suburban store and took it to a lonely road along a creek north of here. What they didn't know was that Game Warden H. B. Kulavar was keeping close patrol on streams in the area that were teeming with spawning fish. He came upon the trio trying to open the safe, arrested them and turned them over to authorities.

Device Clears Litter

KEENE, N.H. — A canelike device with 12 pickup prongs at the end has been developed by a Keene manufacturer to make it easier for homeowners to clean up litter in their yards. The maker says the device, used like the spears employed by big-city sanitation cleaners-uppers, also has a push-grip action with which litter is automatically released.

Indonesia Buys Rice as Farm Products Fall

JAKARTA, Indonesia — Total agricultural production in Indonesia declined last year. The only two farm commodities that showed some increase were rice and cassava. Rice output totaled 7,300,000 metric tons, 2.4 percent above the 1955 figure, but below the 1954 record. Since production fell short of domestic needs, 784,000 metric tons of rice and 321,000 tons of wheat flour had to be imported.

Learn More of Hurricanes

Weather Experts Make Pint-Size Storms Often in Lab Dishpans

WASHINGTON—Weather experts greet the 1957 crop of hurricanes, not with cheers, exactly, but with increasing knowledge.

Researchers have learned to whip up pint-size hurricanes in laboratory dishpans. Heated at the pan's center, water rises and whirls like air in a tropical storm, allowing scientists to study cyclonic behavior on a miniature scale.

PREDICT ACTIVITY

The United States Weather Bureau is even venturing to predict storm activity 30 days before it takes place.

Though mature hurricanes expend as much energy as several thousand atomic bombs exploding every second, they start life innocuously, the National Geographic Society says.

Thunderbolts, spattering calm tropical reaches of the Atlantic, Caribbean Sea and Gulf of Mexico, often hit at low atmospheric pressure—ideal for the hurricane's birth. Cool outer air flows toward the hot low-pressure region. Earth's rotation gives these breezes a gentle, counter-clockwise spin, and trouble is on the way.

GROWS FAST

Soon growing to awesome adulthood, the hurricane begins to wander at the whim of existing weather conditions. Usually it starts drifting west and north, pushed by tropical easterlies. Speed is generally not more than 14 miles per hour.

The storm signals its approach with high, feathery clouds that seem to radiate from a distant point. Dwellers along tropical coasts may take warning from lazy ocean swells with long gaps between crests.

As the hurricane gradually penetrates higher latitudes, its direction is apt to change, its forward speed to increase. When prevailing westerlies shove against it, it veers to a northeastward course. It may accelerate to 50 miles per hour.

Variations in this behavior are frequent. Many full-grown hurricanes simply sit in their tracks and snarl for a day or two. Others meander aimlessly, sometimes circling as outside wind directions change.

A big hurricane may have a diameter of 500 miles; a small one may stretch barely 25 miles from one side to the other. In either case, the rotating wind may have gusts of more than 150 miles per hour and a sustained velocity of 100 miles per hour. Wind increases in force toward the eye of the storm—the hole in the meteorological doughnut.

Barometric pressure within this weirdly still storm center usually reads 28 and a fraction inches, compared with the subtropical normal of about 30 inches. Sometimes pressure may sag below 27 inches.

Wind force is always stronger to the right of the hurricane's eye since its counterclockwise velocity is increased by the storm's forward speed. Thus if a northbound hurricane slams across the coast, towns east of the eye will be hit harder than those west of it.

But the greatest destruction is caused by flooding. Extreme low pressure of the storm center lifts the ocean level some two to three feet. As the storm howls shoreward its rotating wind builds up more water ahead of it. If these storm surges sweep ashore during high tide, salt water devastation will multiply the effect of the storm's torrential rainfall.

Soviets Advise Escape for U.S.

Point to Their Own Arms Race Proposals as Way to Avoid Danger

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda suggested today the United States could escape the dangers of Russia's military strength as outlined by Marshal Konstantin A. Vershinin by accepting the "concrete and realistic proposals" of the Soviet Union for ending the arms race.

Vershinin, commander of the Soviet Air Force, said in a statement broadcast by Moscow radio Saturday that Western Europe and large U. S. metropolitan areas are particularly vulnerable to the newly-announced Soviet rocket missile.

"Invention of the intercontinental missile makes it possible to reach any part of the world," he said. Pravda, official organ of the Soviet Communist party, said American reaction to Vershinin's statement was disappointing.

"American generals and their bosses refuse to admit the defeat of their 'positions of strength' policy," Pravda said. "In these conditions the way out for the United States, just as for the whole world, is to accept the concrete and realistic proposals of the Soviet Union on the discontinuation of the arms race. . . . All countries of the world, including the United States, will gain if they agree to halt the race."

Soviet disarmament proposals call for an immediate ban on nuclear weapons and tests without the provisions for inspection demanded by the West.

France now produces 7 per cent of all the world's wheat and 22.8 per cent of the European crop, Paris reports.

Still Not Certain When It Happened

Science Finally Decides—The Egg Came First

WASHINGTON — Science has answered the ancient brain teaser, "Which came first, the chicken or the egg?"

It was the egg. Fish, reptiles and other animals laid eggs millions of years before chickens appeared.

The first chickens were hatched from eggs laid by a bird that could not quite be classed as a chicken.

Scientists are not certain just when the fateful mutation occurred in the evolution of the chicken. But the red jungle fowl of India is believed to be the parent of today's domestic breeds.

Scientists at Cornell University have eavesdropped on chickens and learned their language. A rapid "Kuk-kuk-kuk" in chickens means "food."

"Cut-cut-cut kaah" translates "dog." Other sounds mean "Follow me," "Look out, there's a hawk or something up there," and "Stay right where you are."

CHICKENS BORN SNOBS

Chickens are born snobs. When caged together, they set up a social order with upper-class hens taking precedence at the food trough over lower-class hens. Until the "peck-order" is established, chickens waste energy fighting among themselves.

Private cages allow poulterers to check closely on individual output, and enforce the produce-or-fry rule. A sloped bottom causes eggs to roll out of the cage for cooling and collecting.

Electric eyes separate brown from white eggs. Although shell color has nothing to do with food value, New Englanders pay more for brown and New Yorkers prefer white. Housewives object most to mixed eggs.

Experts discourage harassed businessmen who want to chuck their jobs and "raise a few chickens." To be profitable, chickens must be grown on a large scale. Additionally, the future of eggs may not be bright, due to substitutes.

An egg white substitute from codfish has been used in bread, cake, ice cream and mayonnaise. Nonetheless, the average American ate more than one egg a day all last year.

Reports of cholesterol deposits in some diseased hearts have given eggs bad publicity. But Dr. A. W. Brant of the U. S. Department of Agriculture says: "The cholesterol content of eggs is not higher than that of many other popular foods. Nutritionally, eggs are one of nature's most complete foods."

The egg comes before the chicken in dollars earned for poulterers. Producers received nearly two billion dollars last year for their eggs — nearly twice as much as chicken meat brought, says the National Geographic Society.

But broilers have become increasingly popular in the last 20 years, and chickens are economical in converting grain into meat. Judging by the recent trend, it might be that — in terms of dollars — the chicken may some day catch up with the egg.

Press Tourists See 2 Plays, Plan Party rushed here especially to keep all informed of the goings-on at home.

A group of six luncheoners at the flag-enriched Rockefeller Center Promenade deck said they got another reminder of home. Pigeons around, under and over their table was the memento.

Some of the sightseers journeyed down to the many piers and took a look-see at the huge Queen Elizabeth liner which sailed for Europe at 11:30 a.m. Wednesday. Even those at the Paramount Hotel, Press headquarters for the excursion, heard the loud whistles from her stacks telling of her voyage.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Wednesday was a most special day for Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Oliver of 278 W. Iroquois Rd. It was the Oliver's 27th wedding anniversary.

Thursday will be another big day for all the group who have been on the go since they landed here at noon Monday.

On the itinerary is a trip through the Mayflower II which not too long ago successfully duplicated the historical voyage of its namesake. Rolls of films have been saved for the occasion, so many of you at home can expect to see what the ship looks like.

Following this tour the party will board a special Hudson River sightseeing yacht for a three-hour lectured trip around Manhattan Island.

Tales are still being told of the infinite number of tip-top restaurants which spot this giant city.

PLAYS IN SPOTLIGHT

But holding the spotlight during the journey are the many, many stage productions here. Some have received tickets to see Rosalind Russell in "Auntie Mame."

To prove that you can't possibly see all of this third largest city in the world in a week, is an unofficial report from our United Airlines representative that about 30 are planning to stay over to continue the challenge.

Syrian Leaders Confer in Cairo

Visit of 2 Strong Men Reveals Concern Over Mideast Crisis

CAIRO (AP)—An urgent, surprise visit to Cairo by Syria's two military strong men today underlined the deepening concern of the two Arab allies over the smoldering Syrian crisis.

Brig. Afif Bizry, leftist commander in chief of the Syrian army, and Lt. Col. Abdel Hamid Serraj, army intelligence chief, flew here yesterday. They went into immediate conferences with President Nasser and Egyptian military leaders.

As they met, Syria's Acting Defense Minister Khaled Azem said in Damascus he does not believe aggression against Syria is imminent. But he added that Syria has taken "all defensive measures to face every possibility."

Azem talked with reporters after a Cabinet session devoted to what an official statement called "development of the situation in the light of the Soviet and American foreign ministers' statements on Syria."

The United States this week began speeding up deliveries of arms to pro-Western Jordan, Lebanon and Iraq in an effort to counter Syria's move toward the Soviet camp.

Acquit Milton Henry in Assault Case arranging to impound it, McCallum noted.

Anyway, McCallum said, whether the attorney was illegally parked or not had not been brought up as an issue in the case.

Smith had testified during trial that he was acting on a general police order to impound Henry's car in order to force payment of the tickets. He said this is a common police practice in Pontiac.

Henry maintained that Smith had no warrant for his arrest nor any court order directing seizure of the car.

McCallum agreed that parking tickets and impounding tags are not legal instruments unless backed up by a warrant or a court order.

The ordinance provides for an impounding tag, which police may place on automobiles whose owners have not settled past parking tickets. If the owner doesn't appear before the police within three days, the ordinance provides that his car may be impounded and not released until the tickets are settled and impounding fees are paid.

"In effect, this is forcing a person to pay fines without a trial and pressuring him into pleading guilty to parking violations in order to get his car back," McCallum said.

Car Uses Less Energy

DETROIT — The electrical energy required to light a single 150-watt lamp will operate an automobile's lights, ignition, radio and heating system.

MARINETTE, Wis. (AP)—Robert B. Goodman, 86, a pioneer in modern forest management in the United States, died yesterday. He was the last survivor of the family of Robert Franklin Goodman, founder of the Goodman Lumber Co., one of the nation's leading producers of pine and hardwood.

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Chesta Holt Fulmer, 57, whose advice column, "We Together," had appeared in the Dayton Journal Herald for nearly 20 years, died yesterday. She was born near Nashville, Tenn., and was in newspaper work in Atlanta and Dallas before going to Dayton.

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—John Flint Dille, 72, president of the National Newspaper Syndicate since 1916 and in the newspaper syndicate business since 1908, died Tuesday. One of his two sons, John F. Jr., is editor and publisher of the Elk-Hart (Ind.) Truth. Dille was born in Dixon, Ill.

Hopeful of Averting Telephone Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—A spokesman for the Western Electric Co. says he sees a strong possibility that negotiations today with telephone equipment installers will lead to agreement and avert a nationwide strike set for Monday.

In Washington yesterday, Joseph A. Beirne, president of the Communications Workers of America, announced that 54,000 CWA members would walk off their jobs at 6 a.m. (local time) Monday in all states except Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire. Also affected would be the District of Columbia.

Beirne said that, in event of a strike, picketing of exchanges in major cities would keep about 146,000 other telephone workers, including operators, from their jobs.

was started by workers burning paint with a torch as part of a $100,000 redecoration program.

Father Heenan said masses Sunday will be given in a nearby movie theater.

Firemen from Mt. Clemens, St. Clair Shores, Roseville, East Detroit, Settlefield Field and Warren, Chesterfield, Harrison, Clinton and Macomb Townships fought the blaze.

The church is located on New Street, only two blocks from Gra-Ton and Macomb, the city's main intersection.

Many of the volunteer firemen came directly to the fire from their regular jobs. They worked without their usual equipment. Four firemen were hospitalized at St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital for slight injuries suffered while fighting the fire.

Taylor in 'Quarter' on Dramatic Finish

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)—Dr. Frank Bud Taylor of Pomona, Calif., won five straight holes in a dramatic second-nine comeback and defeated powerful Jim Tom Blair of Kirkwood, Mo., 2 up, in their fifth-round match in the National Amateur Golf Championship today.

Taylor advanced to the quarter-finals along with Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., his Walker Cup teammate; and former public links champion Gene Andrews of Los Angeles, who easily won their fifth-round matches.

Rudolph beat Lawrence Cook of Wilmington, N. C., 4 and 3; and Andrews crushed Alan Thirwell, last of the British Walker Cup players, 4 and 2.

ton, Theodore Henderson, 28, of Eccles, W. Va., Henderson's common-law wife, Ruby, 17, All three Negroes.

Finger, also a negro, was driving to a nearby tuberculosis sanatorium to visit his sick wife when the crash occurred.

Police said Williams and Johnson held up a Melvindale store and took $300. The owner of the robbed store, Robert Usher, called officers who quickly spotted the fleeing car and began pursuit. They said the fleeing car was traveling at a high rate of speed when it collided with Finger's auto.

Henderson, Johnson and the girl are being held for investigation of armed robbery. Police said they also may face homicide charges because Finger was killed as a result of the holdup.

State's Grape Crop 3rd Largest in Nation

LANSING (AP)—Michigan's big grape crop, third largest in the nation, is beginning to find its way to retail markets, the State Agricultural Department said today.

Concords will begin moving to market within the week, trailing early-blue varieties.

The department estimated this year's production at 52,000 tons, somewhat under last year's bumper 60,500 ton harvest.

Flash Floods Hit Turkish Capital; Fear Heavy Loss

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—Turkish newspapers said today 1,000 persons died in flash floods which swept through the crooked streets of seven villages on the outskirts of this capital yesterday. But the official death toll remained at 14—the number of bodies which rescue workers have recovered.

In some areas the flood wave reached 30 feet as water from cloudbursts rushed down narrow valleys from barren mountain slopes. Rescue teams groped through the muddy rains, seeking victims of the floodwaters which swept into Ankara itself, covering low-lying areas and stalling traffic.

An estimated 500 to 1,000 homes had been destroyed and more than 2,000 flooded.

Premier Adnan Menderes hastened to the stricken villages today, and himself became stranded for a time by blocked highways.

The downpours hit an area extending from Ankara's suburbs to a village about 30 miles southeast.

Eleventh Daughter Born—Glad It Was a Girl

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (AP)—Mrs. William Besto gave birth yesterday to her 11th daughter. She has no sons.

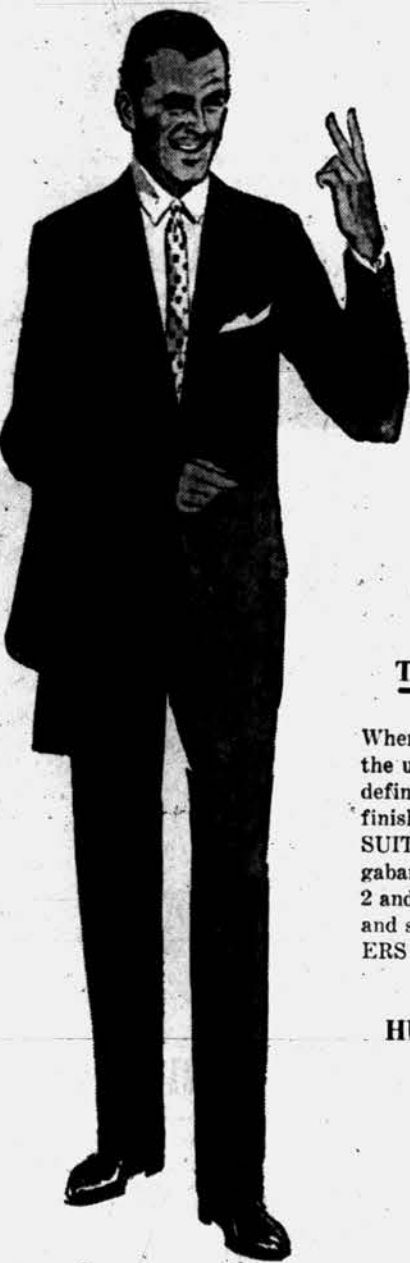

Mrs. Besto, 41, told a reporter she and her husband, a night watchman, wanted another girl. "We wouldn't know what to do with a boy," she said.

The child was named Madonna Grace.

The other Besto daughters range in age from 2 to 12.

Morristown Memorial Hospital said mother and baby are fine.

Many Are Victims of Delusion Through Life

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK (INS) — In Louisville, Ky., there is reported to dwell a 300-pound hog which is winsely under the impression that he is a dog.

Brought up with self-righteous tenderness by a woman named Albert Satterly, this potential roaster named Elmer is said to bounce puffed at the heels of people; he mixes, though outclassed, with a fast pack of German shepherds; he snubs his hammy relatives, and he slurpingly sips milk from a bottle—for not only is Elmer convinced he is a dog, he thinks of himself as a young and innocent one.

Now this tale has the makings of a humorous situation, until you look at it soberly, and begin comparing the plight of Elmer to that of your friends.

Suddenly you realize that almost everybody has delusions of being something more or less than he really is, and if you think Elmer is off the beam, just take a look at your Cousin Richard. He is the one that your Aunt Mabel brought up to be a millionaire and the impression has stuck with him, which explains why they don't care for him much at the button factory.

NEIGHBOR

Or consider your neighbor Betty. She was the one who just missed being an incubator infant by an ounce, and was labeled "Baby" by one and all and smothered with a spine-crippling affection.

Flint Man Pleads Guilty to Fraud on VA Loan

BAY CITY (U) — John B. Neumann, 32, of Flint, pleaded guilty in U. S. district court yesterday to fraud charges in connection with a Veterans Administration home loan.

Neumann testified he signed a $10,000 VA home loan application for a man who was not a veteran. Neumann is one of eight Flint men, including two former bank officials, accused of misapplying more than $57,000 in bank funds. Federal Judge Frank A. Picard set no sentence date pending a probation report.

suddenly sprang to five-foot-nine, the name "Baby" no longer seemed appropriate, but it clung to her anyway with all the devastation of a corkcrew curl on an old gray head, and she didn't cease being ridiculed until it was too late. She had retired to her mama's protection for life.

Or maybe it's yourself who's living in a false feeling of being a better person—or smaller or richer or kinder or, as in the case of Elmer, more like a dog—than you are. Maybe a third-grade teacher say, convinced you that if anybody was ever a dunce, it's you, and now every kind word you get is and no longer be a petite 300 pounds, and Mrs. Satterly—unable to appease him entirely with a baby bottle—will have to bar him from the kennels and turn him to the trough of reality.

He may have a rough time getting adjusted the first day, but then he'll settle down and be congenial with his own crowd. The German shepherds will never miss him.

Hogs and dogs haven't much imagination; most of them are content to be what they are, nothing more nor less.

It should happen to a person.

Would Be on Both Business and Individuals

Many Expect State Income Tax in Michigan by '59

By ROGER LANE

LANSING (AP)—The conviction is growing in state government circles that Michigan is headed toward a state income tax on both individuals and business—probably in 1959, an informal survey showed.

If enacted, the new tax would be coupled with major revision, perhaps repeal, of the business activities levy—now No. 1 money getter for general purpose spending—and other business tax relief.

Although cautious in public utterances, many legislators, mostly majority Republicans, privately see such a tax package as virtually inevitable, but unlikely next year because of the nearness of the November, 1958 election.

Clarence Lock, deputy state revenue commissioner, said he "rather anticipates" a tax reshuffle of this character within three years, probably including outright repeal of the activities tax and perhaps the intangibles tax as well.

"Definitely, the thinking is in that direction," he said in an interview.

Only token disagreement appeared among officials questioned that the Legislature will be faced in the next couple of years with the necessity of raising anywhere from 50 to 100 million dollars a year in new revenue.

Briefly, this is why: Irresistible pressures for vastly increased funds for education on all levels; inescapable pay raises for state employees running into the millions of dollars; heavy pressure for capital improvement money; the state's commitment to assume the entire burden of Wayne

State University operations; unrelenting pressures, partly attributable to inflation, for higher government spending generally.

For example, the State Corrections Department already is asking for six million dollars in additional operating funds next fiscal year.

The only alternative big revenue sources to the income tax are increasing the present three per cent sales tax, which would require a constitutional amendment, or some new or heavier levy on business, it is generally agreed.

Sen. Frank Andrews (R-Hillman), an individual income tax advocate for years, is one lawmaker speaking out on the subject.

"It's about time we started talking about this to the people—preparing them for it," Andrews told a newsmen. He plans to publicly outline his views later this month at a statewide meeting of airport managers in Alpena.

Andrews foresees a flat rate, across-the-board type of tax with exemption on individual incomes of the first $2,000 or $3,000 of earnings, together with repeal of the business activities and intangible taxes.

SEES LITTLE CHOICE

He doesn't see how legislative groups now engaged in tax studies logically can reach conclusions far different from his.

Lock said for each one per cent of an across-the-board state income tax an estimated 80 million dollars would be raised from individual tax payers and 25 million from businesses, a total of 105 millions.

This is assuming the same exemptions as now are provided under the federal income tax and acceptance of the withholding principle, thereby giving prospects of nearly 100 per cent collection, he said.

Lock said to drop the business activities and intangible taxes would reduce revenues by an equivalent amount, making the net revenue gain under an income tax about 100 million dollars for each per cent over one.

Carefully disclaiming it as his program, Democratic Gov. Williams in a New York speech last week called for a federal income tax credit for individual and corporate payers of state income taxes.

U. S. Sen. Potter, a Republican, recently has been urged to push for similar action by Congress, and reportedly was receptive.

Bird Likes Zoo Visit

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—An unidentified elderly woman stole the attention from the Toledo zoo attractions by walking through the park, using a red ribbon to tow a yellow cart with a parakeet perched upon it. Once, when the bird hopped off the cart, passerby heard the woman say, "Now you be good little bird and wde'll go see the rest of the animals."

Johnson Not Candidate

WASHINGTON (INS)—Friends of Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson are convinced that, despite a widening of his political appeal, he will not seek the presidency in 1960.

Farmers in the U. S. have decreased one million in number since 1900.

"WHAT GOES UP"—The dirt rising from an incinerator and other causes must come down. A national organization's survey on polluted air shows (see Newschart) how many tons of "particulate matter"—dirt—there is in each cubic mile of atmosphere over many U.S. cities. Minneapolis was found to be the cleanest sizable city with only 53 tons. Housewives, the survey revealed, add great amounts of dirt to the air just shaking dustmops. A back yard incinerator, it added, is worse than a blast furnace in raising more dirt per ton burned.

Promised Benefits if Hit by Asian Flu

NEW YORK (U)—Longshoremen unloading the liner Vulcania, due today with 50 suspected cases of Asian flu, have been promised special benefits for themselves and their families if they contract the illness.

The promise came yesterday from the New York Shipping Assn. International Welfare Fund after I.L.A. officials reported the men might not be willing to handle the ship's baggage.

It was stipulated that the stevedores and members of their immediate families would get the benefits if they contracted the Asian flu within two weeks. The amount was not disclosed.

7,500 Workers on Strike at U.S. Base in Japan

TACHIKAWA, Japan (U)—About 7,500 Japanese employees of the big U.S. Air Force base at Tachikawa went on a 48-hour strike today to protest mass dismissals of Japanese workers.

The Walkout left the camp without drivers, cooks or a general maintenance staff. It was launched after an announcement that 576 Japanese workers were being dismissed, in line with the pullout of U.S. troops from Japan.

Steal Passenger Bus

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (U)—William A. Durfee heard a noise outside his house, looked out a window and saw a 44-passenger bus nudged against a tree. He also saw three teenagers run from the darkened bus, which police said the three youths apparently had stolen.

Seek to Part DuPont, GM

Justice Department Unit Turns to Outside Help on Problem

WASHINGTON (U)—The Justice Department's Antitrust Division has called in outside economists to help figure out how to divorce Du Pont and General Motors with the least impact upon the economy.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Victor R. Hansen, head of the Antitrust Division, disclosed today that the economists will help in preparation of recommendations for ending the long-time Du Pont-GM relationship in accordance with a Supreme Court decision last June.

But, Hansen stressed, "we definitely have not arrived at any recommendation."

While Hansen declined to speculate as to what the ultimate recommendations might be, informed sources generally agreed that Du Pont would not be required to dump its 23 per cent holding of GM stock onto the market all at once. Du Pont's 65 million shares of GM stock are valued at about $2,700,000,000—too much, everyone agrees, for the market to digest easily in a short time.

Likewise, there was general agreement that the Justice Department would insist not only that Du Pont yield its working control of GM, but that it also give up any influence in the affairs of the No. 1 auto maker.

Economists working with the Antitrust Division on the case are Dean Ewald T. Grether of the Graduate School of Business Administration, University of California, and Carl Kayser, an associate professor of economics at Harvard.

The next step in the long litigation will take place this fall before Federal Dist. Judge Walter J. Labay in Chicago.

One idea being discussed within the Justice Department would call for placing the stock in a voting trust, with Du Pont interests having no voice in voting it, and with a part of the stock to be sold off yearly. There is strong opposition to placing the stock in a permanent trusteeship.

Can Destroy Rockets

MOSCOW (U)—Effective counter missiles that can destroy intercontinental rockets are possible, says Soviet rocket warfare expert Maj. Gen. G. I. Pokrovsky in a Russian journal. He blames the fixed trajectory of an intercontinental missile.

Value Reclaimed Land

DENVER — Crops valued at more than $800,000,000 are being grown yearly on land irrigated and developed by federal reclamation programs.

Chicken a Better Buy Than Red Meat Now

Snappy weather usually perks appetites, but it also reminds us that time to enjoy Michigan's fresh produce is getting shorter. If you have any late ideas for storing corn, tomatoes, and peaches for wintry days, why wait longer?

Poultry products rate top billing for outstanding food value as well as economy states the MSU Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer. Red meat prices look very much like last week with cooler weather increasing demand for roasts and steaks. Heavy range fed cattle is the beef budget stretcher, but there are good supplies of better grades of grain fed beef also. Larger pork supplies needed before prices can be lower, have not yet started to fall market.

PRODUCE

Local weather conditions are responsible for some loss in tomato and lettuce quality. It will pay to be more careful with your selections.

Cabbage at 5 to 10 cents a pound, corn at 5 to 6 1/2 cents an ear, and Michigan potatoes at 3 to 4 cents a pound are vegetable choices worth considering.

You will find more Elberta peaches this week. Supplies of Hale Havens grow shorter. If you can find the Kalhaven variety, this is now the superior choice for canning or freezing. Locally grown plums are now a good value for jams and jellies or for good eating in your fruit bowl.

As more apples are harvested, it is good to know which varieties are best for pies, sauce, baking or salads. For a free copy of the MSU bulletin, "Another Way for An Apple A Day," write Mrs. Lawyer at 1260 West Boulevard, Pontiac. This booklet lists Michigan varieties, shows the dates of harvest, and rates apples for cooking and eating. Greening, Wolf River, Mac-tosh, Duchess and Wealthy are current choices.

MEATS—Poultry is the easy-on-the-purse meat choice. Check fryers, stewers, turkeys and ducks before deciding your family fare.

If you decide to broil or barbecue a fryer, select one weighing less than three pounds and plan to use 1 pound or one-half bird for each adult. If you plan to fry or roast, the heavier fryers have more meat. Buy 3/4 to 1 pound for each adult when choosing the larger birds.

Cattle coming from the range are larger than in early summer. This grass or range fed beef is young tender beef, but it does not have the full flavor of beef fattened on grain. It does need low temperature and moist heat to cook it tender.

Pork prices remain about the same with fresh and smoked picnic the most tempting choice for budget conscious customers. Larger pork supplies are expected to start to market soon. This will start the gradual downward trend of pork costs until heaviest supplies are reached in winter months.

EGGS—A quick look at the egg case will help you decide the best buy for your egg dollar. If the price for a dozen large eggs is one-third larger than the price of a dozen small eggs the same grade, the small size gives more weight for your money.

Gets Telephonitis at 2 1/2

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (U)—A long distance telephone call to Philadelphia was listed on the bill of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Mazzini. They know no one in Philadelphia. They were asked if daughter Betsy Ann, 2 1/2, "ever plays with the telephone?" she does. The phone company cancelled the charge.

Seize Spy for Russia Trying to Scale Wall

STOCKHOLM (U)—An engineer sentenced as a spy for Russia was seized at pistol point on a Stockholm prison wall today. He had filed through the bars on his cell.

Langhalm prison wardens achieved, The Hague learns.

Identified the breakaway as 32-year-old Bedros Zaratyan, a Turkish-American engineer. He was sent to prison for 10 years May 12 for spying on Sweden's underground defenses.

Holland will have an Atomic Energy Law under which a program for the use of such energy will be achieved, The Hague learns.

Zoo Deaths Puzzling

FRESNO, Calif. (U)—Officials of the Roeding Park zoo are mystified by 11 recent deaths among the zoo's animals. Dr. R. B. Grifenhagen, the zoo's veterinarian, said all showed signs of lung and heart cavity infections. A pathologist is testing brain tissue of the dead animals.

Bob Considine Says:

Many Sincere People Bewildered by Decree

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (INS)—"I just can't understand," a distinguished old gentleman said here the other day. "In recent years some really intelligent people I know have come out for desegregation. I just can't understand it."

He was speaking sincerely. He was speaking for a sizeable block of the patient non-combatants on this spotlighted battlefield in the integration fight. They truly cannot understand a verdict made by the Supreme Court many hundreds of miles away, which alters a way of life their families have become accustomed to through generations. By and large they accept the verdict, but not without bewilderment somewhat akin to that which racked the old gentleman.

The sight of friends and associates championing the change, rather than philosophically bowing to it, was as bewildering to him as if his old buddies had announced they were retiring to a Buddhist monastery.

Just as a municipal court judge should have some direct knowledge of conditions in the prison to which he sends a petty offender, a Supreme Court Justice, it seems to me, should be interested enough to witness the effect of a ruling such as the historic one in which the court required integration in public schools.

It should be a part of the training of a Supreme Court Justice, since that training can never remain static.

By the same token, I think Gov. Orval Faubus should have emerged from his guarded retreat and have witnessed at first hand the national guardmen not only turn away the Negro students at Little Rock Central High School, but also the way in which his troops tacitly encouraged the rabble rousers and policed the innocent.

One hears on all sides that it was a great mistake to attempt integration at the high school level. It should have been started in the first grade of grammar school, people say, and the criminal bombing of the integrated grammar school in Nashville, Tenn., has not changed that opinion greatly. People here say that if there must be desegregation it can be most painlessly administered among children of a tender age, or among people mature enough to matriculate into the integrated University of Arkansas. At the high school level, the feeling is the kids concerned lack judgment, have more muscles than brains, and are bound to fortify Governor Faubus' odd penchant for truth. In searching about for a proper parallel which might describe tensions generated among the loafers who congregate in front of Central High School each morning, the thought suggests itself that they are an unguilted gas jet awaiting only the striking of a match. It seems dangerous to smoke around them.

THE BERRYS

BOOKED SOLID — Wearing short pants and short-sleeved shirt, Maj. Harold Sobel, a student officer at the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., has his hands full. Major Sobel is leaving the registration office loaded down with books, manuals and his brief case, which hides his face. There are 67 publications in the stack.

Colleges Urged to View Relocation

CHICAGO (AP)—An educational expert says colleges should consider relocation to keep up with population trends.

Arthur E. Nealy, director of the Educational Department at "Who's Who in America," says there are no less than 155 four-year colleges, junior colleges, denominational colleges, coeducational colleges and women's colleges that are located in the wrong place.

He examined college buildings and studied endowments, capital funds and area potentials at 100 of the United States before concluding the 155 should move.

Nealy reports that only a few of the 155 are seriously considering moving at this point. Some of the 155, in fact, don't even agree with him that they should move.

Friends Honor H. L. Mencken on Birth Date

BALTIMORE (U) — Admittedly apprehensive about what he might have thought of the idea, some of the boys set out to honor H. L. Mencken today on the 77th anniversary of his birth.

A highlight of the tribute to the late newspaperman, caustic critic and literary scholar was a half-hour television show, including the dedication of a memorial plaque.

The plaque came from Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity.

It will be mounted in the lobby of the Baltimore Sun, for which Mencken had worked and of which he was a stockholder and director.

Inscribed on the plaque were

Mencken's name, the dates of his birth and death (Jan. 29, 1899), the work he did ("newspaperman, author, editor, critic, philologist") and the epitaph he wrote for himself in 1951: "If, after I depart this vale, you ever remember me and have thought to please my ghost, forgive some sinner and wink your eye at some homely girl."

Ike Signs Bill Raising Payments to Vets

By RAY HENRY

President Eisenhower has reluctantly signed a bill raising the monthly payments that two million veterans receive for disabilities from service.

The increases will show up in the checks mailed out at the end of October. Veterans themselves need take no action to get them.

With a few exceptions, the raises will be about 10 per cent, except for veterans who are totally disabled. Their checks will be hiked by nearly 25 per cent.

In signing the bill—passed by Congress on Aug. 14—the President said:

"The bill inadequately compensates some veterans with more serious service-connected disabilities, while providing more than necessary increases to others."

Three types of compensation to disabled veterans are raised by the law:

1. The monthly payments which almost every disabled veteran gets based on the degree of his disability and which are graduated upward with the increased degree of disability. The Veterans Administration (VA) rates the disabilities at between 10 and 100 per cent disabling on the basis of physical examinations.

Here's how the new and the old monthly payments compare for this type of disability compensation:

Disability	New	Old
10 per cent	$ 19	$ 17
20 per cent	36	33
30 per cent	55	50
40 per cent	73	66
50 per cent	100	91
60 per cent	120	109
70 per cent	140	127
80 per cent	160	145
90 per cent	179	163
100 per cent	225	181

These rates are for veterans with wartime disabilities. The rates for veterans with peacetime disabilities are 80 per cent of the wartime rates.

2. Special monthly payments to disabled veterans who have dependents and who have disabilities rated at 50 per cent or more. The size of these additional payments depends on the degree to which the veteran is disabled, whether he was disabled in wartime or peacetime military service and the kind and number of dependents.

They range from a low of $6 a month for a peacetime veteran with a 50 per cent disability and only a child as a dependent to $62 a month for a wartime veteran with a 100 per cent disability and a wife and three children.

In any case, the increases in these payments is about 10 per cent across the board.

3. Monthly payments for the loss or loss of use of parts of the body—such as eyes, legs, arms, etc. These payments are usually in addition to the two types of payments above.

They range from $47 a month for a loss of a hand to a high of $450 a month for multiple losses. However, no disabled veteran may receive more than $450 a month combining his degree of disability payments and this type of monthly allowance.

These payments, too, with few exceptions average a 10 per cent increase under the new rates.

(Questions on Social Security problems may be addressed to "Social Security" in care of The Pontiac Press. Questions will be answered by mail from the Pontiac office of the Social Security Administration. There is no charge for this service.)

Police Doubt His Story

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (U) — A visitor to Great Falls reported to police that two young men beat him up and took $60 from him while he was walking through the city's railroad yards. Police were skeptical, however, when he told them the $60 consisted of four $20 bills.

For the first time an air mail service now operates from Accra, Gold Coast, to Lome, in adjoining Togoland.

Here's a tempting combination for a "Po' Boy" Sandwich. Split a 6-inch section of French bread lengthwise. On the lower half spread horseradish mustard. Cover with thin slices of dill pickle, roast beef, baked ham, salami and Swiss cheese.

Meat Sandwiches Are Good Protein Source

Junior like "he-man" meat sandwich—especially good on wiches, just as Dad does. So send him back to school with a lunch box filled with good-for-him meat sandwiches. Nutrition research shows that meat plays an important part in the life of growing children. It furnishes complete high quality protein, B vitamins, and essential minerals indispensable to growth.

Children have even a greater need for protein than do adults, nutrition experts agree. Many parents think that once they pull their children through the baby stage, their food problems are over. Nothing could be further from the truth, nutritionists point out. On the contrary, it is said that early adolescence imposes even a greater nutritional strain on children because of growth demands. Left to themselves, children and teenagers often do not consume adequate amounts of high quality protein.

Meat lunch box sandwiches are a simple answer to midday nutritional needs.

Lamb and Jelly Sandwiches
Spread slices of bread with butter. Spread one slice of the bread with jelly (mint or currant or other favorite kind); on other slice lay slices of cold roast leg or shoulder of lamb. Put slices together.

Bacon, Chopped Celery Sandwich

3 slices cooked bacon, crumbled
1/2 cup finely diced celery
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon mayonnaise or salad dressing

Combine crisp crumbled bacon and finely diced celery; add a dash of salt and moisten with mayonnaise. Spread between slices of whole wheat or white bread. Makes enough filling for two sandwiches.

Other Meat Sandwich Suggestions

Cooked beef, veal, pork, or lamb, with catsup, or chili sauce, or chopped pickles.

Cooked beef with thin slices of mild onion.

Cooked corned beef with grated bacon with sliced tomatoes or hard-cooked eggs, and salad dressing.

Cooked fresh pork, or veal, or lamb with lettuce and salad dressing.

Thin slices of cooked tongue, with watercress. Liver sausage with thin slices of mild onion.

Any cooked meat ground or finely chopped with raisins or dried apricots, and mixed with salad dressing.

Mich. Grapes Rank High in Nation's Production

A Michigan grape crop that is smaller than the bumper crop of 1936 but still the third largest grape crop in the nation has begun to find its way onto retail markets. Housewives utilize blue grapes for eating out of hand, pies, jams, jellies and conserve. This year's grape harvest is estimated by the Michigan Department of Agriculture to be slightly less than 52,000 tons. Last year's yield totaled 60,300 tons.

New Waffles Are Tempting

Better Breakfast Month, appropriately slated in September, comes at a time when heat-wilted appetites start perk up, and a hearty breakfast served in the cool of the morning makes a wonderful welcome to a new day. And it's also the time when youngsters trek back to school—when a good breakfast is essential to supply energy right up to lunch time.

To be certain your family has a good, well-balanced morning meal, just keep in mind the "basic breakfast pattern," which consists of cereal with milk; fruit or fruit juice; bread or toast with butter and a beverage. This type of breakfast supplies one-fourth to one-third of the day's nutrient needs.

Occasionally it's fun to surprise the family with something different for breakfast—such as these crisp and golden Corn Flakes Waffles. And since this is the special month for breakfasts, why not try them today?

Corn Flakes Waffles

1 1/2 cups sifted flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
2 cups corn flakes
2 eggs, separated
1 1/4 cups milk
1/4 cup melted shortening

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Crush corn flakes into fine crumbs. Mix them with sifted dry ingredients. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Beat egg yolks until thick; add milk, dry ingredients and cooled melted shortening, stirring only until combined. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in hot waffle iron until brown and crisp. Yield: 7 waffles (6 1/2 inches in diameter).

Subtract Only Calories

A good reducing diet should deviate as little as possible from sound normal eating habits. The less the habits are disturbed the easier it will be to stay on a diet. A good diet is deficient in nothing but calories. Nonfat dry milk is valuable because it has many of the good food nutrients needed each day, yet low in calories.

The leading grape variety raised in the state is the old-fashioned Concord, famed for its sweetness and delicate grape flavor. This variety is expected to be on markets within a week. Varieties being harvested now are Wordens, Fredonias, Campbell's and Moore's. All are the early blue sorts.

Five southwestern Michigan counties stand high among counties in the entire United States in grape production. These counties and their national grape production rank are Van Buren 14th, Berrien 17th, Kalamazoo 37th, Allegan 37th, Cass 66th. Other Michigan grape counties with high national rank are St. Joseph 76th and Macomb 83rd.

Some red varieties and some white varieties are produced in the state but less extensively than the blue varieties. By far the greatest part of the annual yield moved to processors with the rest going into fresh fruit channels. Processors include wineries, grape juice plants, and jam and jelly manufacturers.

For the retail trade most Michigan grapes are packed in containers of less than 12-quart size for Michigan fancy table grade, and in baskets of 12-quarts for Michigan No. 1 or Michigan No. 2 grades. The name of the variety, grade, contents, and name and address of the grower or packer must appear on the container.

Rice Dessert Is Nut-Crunchy

What can you do with just one cup of leftover rice? Combine it with a package of custard flavor pudding mix and chopped nuts to make this luscious party-style dessert. Here's a recipe that takes next to no time to fix yet tastes as if you've spent hours making it. The chopped pecans give a crunchy texture.

Duchess Dessert

1 package custard flavor dessert mix
2 1/2 cups milk
1 cup cooked rice
1/4 cup pecans, chopped
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Empty dessert mix into saucepan. Stir in milk and rice. Cook over medium heat, stirring slowly until mixture comes to a full boil (about 7 minutes). Remove from heat. Stir in pecans and vanilla. Chill 20 minutes.

Pour into a mold. Stir to distribute nuts evenly. Chill until firm. Unmold. Makes 6 servings.

Vegetable Dish Takes to Cheese

Cheese is high in protein value and contains most of the other valuable food nutrients of milk. Vegetables prepared with both milk and cheese make satisfying main dishes for noon or evening meals. A cream sauce base, with cheese added, is also a fine extender for meats, fish, and small amounts of leftover vegetables.

Vegetable Scallop

1/4 cup butter
1/4 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
2 cups milk
2 cups cooked Brussels sprouts
12 small cooked onions
2 cups cooked carrot strips
1/4 lb. or 4 slices American cheese
1/4 cup buttered crumbs

Melt butter in saucepan over low heat and blend in flour and seasonings. Add milk stirring constantly and cook until sauce is smooth and thickened. Place vegetables in buttered two quart shallow baking dish. Pour sauce over vegetables. Cut cheese into inch wide strips and place cross cross over vegetables or shred and sprinkle with buttered crumbs over dish. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, 30 minutes or until thoroughly heated and bubbly. Makes 6 servings.

Mash a three-ounce package of Roquefort cheese with a couple of teaspoons of water and blend into French dressing. Good on lettuce.

It's a Dressing or a Dip

The dieter hates to be a wall flower when the refreshments are passed. Try a dieter's dressing for salads. Beat 1/4 cup nonfat dry milk in 1/4 cup of ice water until stiff, add 1/2 cup creamed cottage cheese, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons minced chives or green onion tops, dash of cayenne pepper, 1/4 teaspoon paprika, 1/4 teaspoon garlic salt, 1 teaspoon celery seed, and 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Blend all until smooth—use as a vegetable salad dressing or as a dip for favorite raw vegetable strips.

Add a bay leaf and some basil to that tomato soup you're heating.

If you want to serve something different but nutritious, try the following recipe for french fried yams. It makes four servings.

strips. Soak in cold salted water for half an hour. Remove yams from water and dry between towels. Fry in hot deep fat (365 degrees) about five minutes, or until browned. Drain on absorbent paper and sprinkle with salt.

Many cooks like to frost the sides of a layer cake before spreading the icing over the top.

By International News Service
The tight transparent film packaging used by many retail stores for fresh, unfrozen cut-up chicken and meats shortens the time such food will keep in your refrigerator.

In the home refrigerator, a tight wrap holds unfrozen poultry or meat in a moist atmosphere which encourages bacterial growth. These bacteria might not cause food poisoning, but do cause unappetizing tastes and odors.

Stores package meat this way for convenient and sanitary self-service. But once you get your meat purchase home, loosen the wrap before refrigerating.

If you plan to use it that day or the next just loosening the film wrapping will be enough. For longer storage remove both film and the cardboard tray and place meat on a plate loosely covered with wax paper or foil.

The tight films are not satisfactory for freezer storage either. If you plan to freeze the meat, rewrap in foil, freezer paper or pliofilm bags that are moisture-vapor resistant.

Meat and poultry store best at 32 to 35 degrees fahrenheit in your refrigerator. The "keeping" time of loosely-wrapped meats and poultry are:

Fresh meat (beef, lamb, mutton); three to six days; pork; three days. Organ meats (liver, tongue, etc.); two days. Chopped meat; one day. Fresh poultry (whole); two to three days; chopped; two days.

Streusel Tops Apple Pie

Sprinkle a one-crust apple pie, before baking, with a crumbly topping usually used on coffee cake. To make the topping, work together a cup of flour, a quarter pound of butter and a half cup of granulated sugar. With this topping, the apples in the pie should be sweetened less than usual.

Look for it at your grocer's! Another Fine Product of Standard Brands Inc.

EAST LANSING, Mich. (INS) — If a member of your family doesn't feel well enough to eat at the table, use color tricks in tempting the appetite.

A tray which has strained cream of celery soup, soft custard and milk, said food expert Betty Motte of Michigan State University, "won't encourage anyone to eat." She suggests substituting a cherry-colored milk shake and chocolate pudding to perk up the celery soup tray.

Pink, orange, yellow and red are sunny, cheerful colors, so serve a bright strawberry gelatin or pink-toned milk drinks to the bedded-down member of the family.

Fry Tiny Toast Cubes

You can make a few croutons this way: melt a couple of tablespoons of butter or margarine in a skillet, then cut a couple of slices of lightly toasted bread into ½-inch cubes and add. Toss bread in the butter over low heat until browned a little more.

turning patties again to cook evenly. Remove to warm platter. Add chutney and chicken stock to skillet; cook rapidly until reduced to about one-half. Pour over hamburgers. Good over split buttered toasted hamburger buns.

But We Prefer Sirloin!

Three eggs are equal to one T-bone steak. That is the finding of Dr. Dena Cedarquist, head of Michigan State University's food and nutrition department. She claims that the protein value is equal even though people don't plan meals as much by nutrition as by likes and dislikes.

New Bowls Are Shaped Like Boats With Lips

By International News Service
Mixing bowls are taking on a new shape.

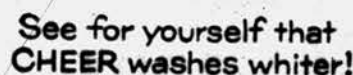

Instead of being round, the latest models in both glass and in plastic are boat-shaped with handles that also serve as pouring lips.

One firm introduced the new shape last January. Since then other manufacturers adopted it and exhibited the new style mixing bowls at the American Home Economics Convention in St. Louis.

Stuffed Olives Stuff Veal Rolls

Have you tried preparing some of the family's favorite meats with pimiento-stuffed green olives? They're a tasty complement with many meats, and the recipes featured here show the use of Spanish olives with veal and beef.

Ground veal rolls are filled with a savory stuffing pleasing in flavor and texture with chopped pimiento-stuffed green olives, celery, onion and raisins as seasoning. This is but one of the many delicious ways to serve meat dishes with the added flavor, texture and color of Spanish olives.

Veal Rolls With Spanish Stuffing

- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup finely chopped celery
- 1/2 cup finely chopped onion
- 1/2 cup seedless raisins
- 1/2 cup chopped pimiento-stuffed green olives
- 2 cups soft bread crumbs
- 1/2 cup chicken stock or bouillon
- 1/2 teaspoon crushed red pepper
- 2 pounds ground veal
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon basil
- 1 egg, slightly beaten

Melt butter or margarine; add celery, onion, raisins and olives. Cook over low heat, stirring occasionally, until celery is tender. Add bread crumbs, chicken stock or bouillon and red pepper; mix well. Combine veal, salt, pepper, basil and egg; mix well. Shape into 6 1/2-inch square patties. Spread with olive mixture.

Roll up jelly-roll fashion; seal edges. Place in lightly greased baking dish. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 45 minutes. Serve with Olive-Egg Sauce. Serves six.

Olive Egg Sauce

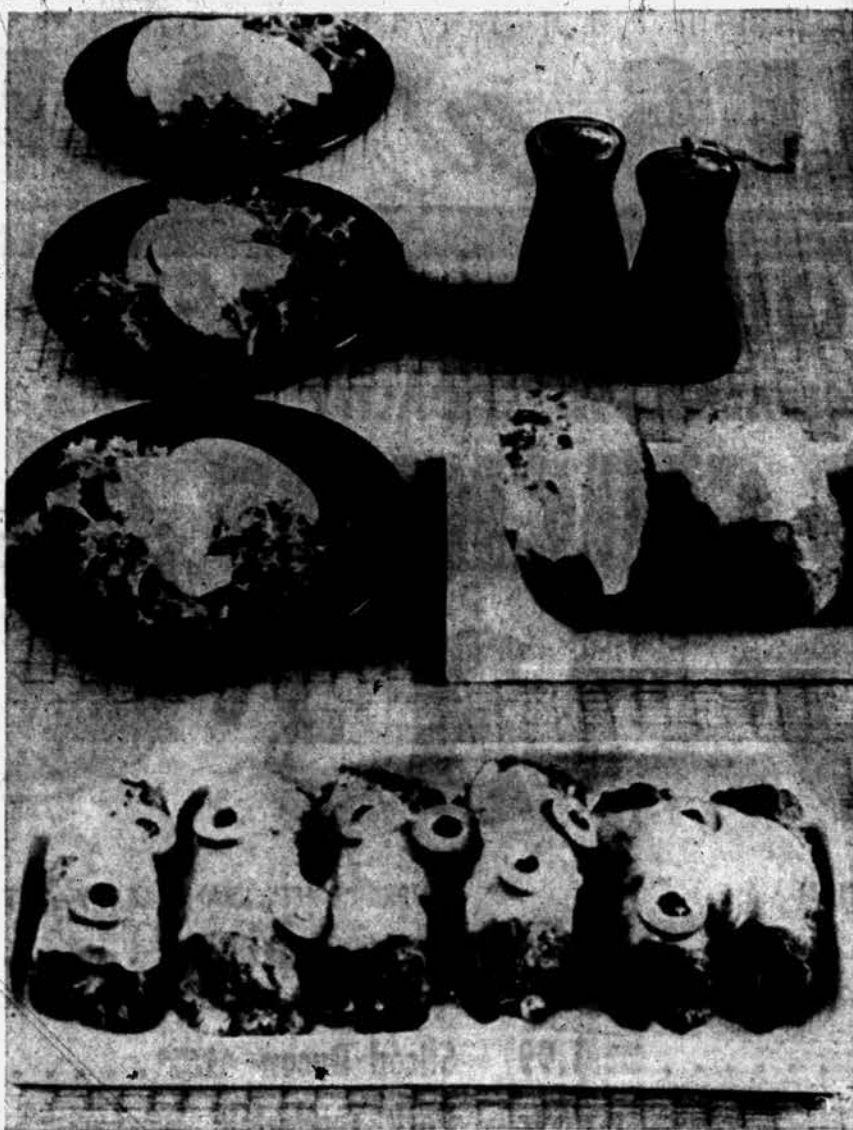

Combine 1 10 1/2-ounce can condensed cream of celery soup, 1/2 cup milk, 3 hard-cooked eggs, chopped and 1/2 cup sliced pimiento-stuffed green olives. Heat to serving temperature over low heat, stirring occasionally. Makes about 2 1/2 cups.

Whole Spices Give Zip to Fancy Tea Punch

By International News Service

Try serving spiced tea punch at your next party. For 35 servings, tie one-half cup of broken stick cinnamon and one tablespoon of whole cloves in a piece of clean cheesecloth. Boil in six quarts of water for five minutes. Then add five teaspoons of orange pekoe tea, and steep for five minutes. Strain.

Add the juice of three oranges and three lemons and one half to one cup sugar. Stir. Float thin lemon and orange slices on top.

STUFFED VEAL ROLLS — Here is Autumn stuffing, pear and apple salads and stuffed baked potatoes.

Brush Wine Sauce on Beef Patties

Every little breeze seems to blow in the fragrance of outdoor cooking. From the tiny terrace, from the back yard, from state parks and camp sites, come tantalizing fragrances that remind of America's open kitchen door policy.

Makers of barbecue equipment are hustling to keep up with the cook-out trend, developing stoves that are ever more compact and economical. Maybe you have one to try this on.

Burgundy Barbecue Sauce
1 teaspoon instant minced onion
1/2 teaspoon coarsely ground black pepper

- 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire
- 1/2 teaspoon soy sauce
- 1/2 teaspoon lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon sugar
- 1/2 cup salad oil
- 1 cup burgundy wine

Combine all ingredients, stir vigorously, heat to boiling point. Use to brush hamburgers or steak during barbecuing. Stir each time before brushing on meat. Makes about 1 pint (2 cups).

Toast Points Are Easy

Creamed dishes are often served restaurant-style, with "toast points." To make the points, toast thin slices of white bread and cut each slice into four triangles. Crusts may be trimmed if desired.

Read the List to Decide Which Class You're In Food has a language all its own, and it has nothing to do with nutritive value. According to Dr. Dena Cedarquist, head of Michigan State University's food and nutrition department, people associate different foods with characteristics, not calories.

For example:
T-bone steak: Masculine Vegetables: Feminine Fruits: Love and Devotion
Peanut butter: Childish
Olives: Adult and Sophisticated.

Always run the tip of a knife around a mold to loosen before turning out. Something different by way of flavor: chili sauce and chili powder added to canned baked beans. As West Germany's economic boom wanes, more unemployment is noted, Bonn reports. Try using marjoram instead of sage, sometimes, in a stuffing for turkey or chicken.

Get Vegetables Out of Rut

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

At this season of the year a visit to the Oakland County Farmers' Market is sheer pleasure. Everything looks good, smells good and tastes good. We all buy more than we had intended to when we started out.

Take the bright bunches of crisp carrots. They make wonderful nibble food for everyone. But for a change serve them glazed.

Glazed Carrots
1 pound carrots cooked
2 tablespoons melted butter
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon paprika
2 teaspoons water

Cut cooked carrots into halves or quarters. Dip in melted butter. Place in heavy skillet over low flame. Sprinkle with sugar, salt and paprika. Add water. Cook until well glazed, spooning sugar mixture over carrots occasionally. Makes 4 servings.

One pound of fresh green beans will yield six servings of a delightful salad. It is a pleasant change from regular tossed salad and from ordinary cooked beans.

Fresh Bean Salad
1 pound cooked fresh beans
1 medium onion, cut into rings
2 tablespoons salad oil
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
1 cup diced celery
Head lettuce

Combine first 6 ingredients. Marinate 1 hour. Add diced celery. Toss lightly and serve on lettuce. Garnish each serving with 3 wedges fresh tomatoes. Serve cold. Yield: 6 servings.

Cauliflower at this season is fairly reasonable. Baked with tomatoes and onion, it makes a hearty casserole that is just right to serve with fish.

Red 'n' White Casserole
1 medium size cauliflower
2 1/2 cups (No. 1) tomatoes
1 medium size onion, finely minced
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup buttered crumbs

Cook cauliflower flowerlets uncovered in boiling salted water ten minutes. Drain and place in baking dish. Cover with tomatoes, green pepper, onions, and seasoning. Top with buttered crumbs.

Bake uncovered in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) twenty to thirty minutes or until most of liquid has evaporated and crumbs are golden brown. Yield: Four to six servings.

For sheer beauty nothing beats an eggplant. Many people have had it only fried and do not care much for it. Here is an unusual baked eggplant recipe that may appeal to them.

Eggplant With Sour Cream
Wash eggplant and cut in 1/2 inch slices. Marinate for one hour in French dressing to which 1 clove garlic or 1 sliced medium onion has been added.

Drain, place on oven-proof platter and bake in 450-degree oven about 15 minutes, until tender. Remove from oven, spread with sour cream, sprinkle with minced parsley or basil and return to oven from which heat has been turned off and door left open, for 5 minutes.

Shrimp in Beer a Party Treat

Marinated shrimp provide perfect party food for a number of occasions. They're ideal as an addition to a smorgasbord or buffet menu, they're important enough to feature alone as an afternoon or evening snack accompanied by a glass of beer and they're a distinctive first course for a dinner menu when offered informally in the living room.

The recipe given here calls for cooking and marinating the shrimp in beer combined with dill seed, mustard and other seasonings. Whether served as a snack or part of a meal, the best beverage choice to enhance the flavor of the subtly seasoned shellfish is more beer.

Marinated Shrimp
3 pounds raw shrimp, fresh or frozen
12-ounce bottles or cans beer
1/2 cup lemon juice
1/2 cup sugar
1 bottle fruit pectin

Scald, peel and crush tomatoes. Bring to a boil; simmer, uncovered, 10 minutes. Measure 3 cups into very large sauce pan. Add rind and lemon juice. Add sugar and mix well.

Place over high heat, bring to full rolling boil and boil hard 1

Jewel Tone Preserves Will Brighten Meals

Pontiac Press Home Editor

With the approach of Autumn just around the corner many homemakers are busy preserving summer's gifts of fruit and vegetables to serve all winter long. This is the season when canning and freezing and pickling and jam making go on.

No one doubts that you can buy good commercially made jam and jelly. But there is a certain satisfaction in serving some of your own making. And there are combinations that are either not obtainable or prohibitive in price for the average shopper. It is those things that are wonderful to make yourself.

Just the other day a reader called to get a recipe for Tomato Jam. It occurs to us that more people might like such a recipe. This one uses liquid pectin.

Tomato Jam
3 cups tomatoes (about 2 1/2 pounds)
1/4 cup lemon juice
1/4 cup sugar
1 bottle fruit pectin

We know there are still blueberries in market. You might buy a few boxes to make some Spiced Blueberry Jam. It is good to serve with veal, ham or poultry.

Spiced Blueberry Jam
1 1/2 quarts (about) ripe blueberries
1 medium-sized lemon
4 box (2 1/2 ounces) powdered fruit-pectin
1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
1/4 teaspoon ground allspice
8 cups (2 1/2 pounds) sugar minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and stir in turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly pour into glasses. Paraffin at once. Makes about 9 medium glasses.

Spiced Tomato Jam
Add 1/2 teaspoon each allspice, cloves, cinnamon or Worcester-shire sauce to taste.

This Peach Conserve makes a delicious spread for bread or toast. It would also be excellent served over ice cream.

Peach Conserve
4 pounds medium peaches
1 lemon
1 jar (8 oz.) maraschino cherries
4 1/2 cups sugar (about)
1 cup coarsely chopped walnut meats

Wash, halve and pit peaches; grind all fruits. Measure fruit into kettle; add equal amounts of sugar. Stir over low heat to dissolve sugar.

Raise heat; boil 20 minutes. Add walnuts. Pour into sterilized jars; seal. Makes 5 half-pints.

Deviled Ham and Tomato Sandwiches
1 can (4 1/2 ounces) deviled ham
8 to 12 small pickled "cocktail" onions (finely chopped)
Bread
Butter or margarine
Thinly sliced tomatoes

Mix together the deviled ham and chopped onions. Spread over buttered bread slices; add a layer of sliced tomato; top with buttered bread slices. Trim off crusts if desired; cut each sandwich in half. Protein bread is particularly good with this filling.

Crush the ripe blueberries thoroughly. Measure 4 cups of the crushed berries into a very large saucepan or kettle. Squeeze juice from lemon; measure 2 tablespoons of lemon juice and add to blueberries. Add powdered pectin, cinnamon, cloves and allspice to fruit; mix well.

Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once stir in sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil and, stirring constantly, boil hard for 1 minute. Remove from heat and skim off foam with large metal kitchen spoon.

Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into prepared glasses. Cover jam at once with 1/2-inch hot paraffin. Makes 4 1/2 medium-sized jelly glasses.

Thin Tomato Slices Blend With Ham

Easy-to-put together sandwiches that are delicious and different.

Fudge Pudding Starts in a Box

Steamed Fudge Pudding is an old-fashioned dessert that's coming back into its own. Here, it's served with a sophisticated sauce that makes it modern as tomorrow. Garnished with frosted grapes and almonds, it's company - pretty and company - good. The secret of its fine flavor is chocolate pudding, which provides the delectable richness without any more chocolate being added.

Steamed Fudge Pudding
1 package chocolate pudding
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup sifted cake flour
3/4 teaspoon cream of tartar baking powder
1 egg, beaten
1/4 cup melted margarine
1/4 cup milk

Sift together dry ingredients. Combine egg, margarine and milk. Add to dry mixture; mix thoroughly. Pour into well-greased 1-quart mold; or 6 5-ounce custard cups. Cover securely (use aluminum foil to cover custard cups).

Place on a rack in a deep kettle containing about 1 inch of water. Cover. Use high heat until water boils; reduce heat to low for a steady light steam and steam 2 hours for 1-quart mold, 30 minutes for individual molds. Replace water if necessary. Serve hot with Java Sauce. Makes 1 1/4-quart mold or 6 individual servings.

Java Sauce
Combine 2 egg yolks, 1/4 cup sugar, pinch of salt and 1/2 cup strongly brewed coffee in top of double boiler. Cook over hot water until mixture coats back of spoon. Remove from heat. Cool. Whip 1 cup heavy cream and fold into cooled mixture.

Treat Family Like Guests at Meals

EAST LANSING (INS) — The way you serve meals to your family can be as varied as the food you dish up.

According to Dr. Beatrice Paolucci, home management professor at Michigan State University, "there is no right or wrong way to serve a meal."

Dr. Paolucci emphasizes meal-serving choices to her students. In alternating, she explains, family mealtimes are less tedious for homemakers.

The meal services she currently recommends include: "The buffet, with members of the family helping themselves to foods but sitting down together at the table."

"American country style, passing dishes around the table." "The blueplate special with each plate dished up in the kitchen and brought to individual members of the family."

"English style, with the husband portioning out the meal for his family."

Serve potato salad with freshly cooked strips of crisp bacon for a family lunch.

BACK TO THE BOOKS

Among those in the sophomore class is Judy Smith of Draper avenue, and Karla Stoddard of Charest drive has been accepted as a freshman in nursing. Junior Dave Tarr of West Iroquois road will again be active in work on the campus newspaper, The Michigan Daily.

In the School of Business Administration as a senior is William L. Viands Jr. of Ferry avenue, and Duane Vogelsburg of Keego Harbor is a sophomore pre-medical student. Another pre-professional student is Melvin White of Avondale avenue who is on a pre-dental program.

Freshman Mary Wyers of Baldwin road will be a business administration student at Michigan.

And that rather impressive list includes names of all the students who told us they are going to the University of Michigan. Next: MSU students.

Have a Plan for Pictures of Wedding

It's a wise bride who plans for wedding picture taking as carefully as she plans her trousseau. This is no time to trust to luck for good pictures—plan for them.

Wedding pictures can be divided into two groups—the formal and candid shots made by the professional photographer, and the casual snapshots from family cameras.

BOTH NEEDED

For a complete picture record you need both. Neither is a substitute for the other.

The professional photographer's pictures will have quality and scope the amateur can't equal, but the family snapshot has the better opportunity to record the little things that happen during the wedding preparations and reception.

How well the photographer does by a bride depends on how well she and her family do by him. He should be fully briefed on the schedule of the day, and should be informed of any last-minute changes.

Supply him with a list of people you want to be sure are in the reception picture and ask a friend who knows them to work with him.

It's all right to sneak off from your friends—but not from your photographer if you want a "going-away" picture to complete the wedding day picture story.

Big Season for Sparkle Gems Go to Gals' Heads

PARIS (INS)—Diamonds have gone to women's heads. It's going to be a big season for regal tiaras, diamond bows and Spanish combs trimmed with sparkling sequins.

Ever since Paris society ladies wore diamonds and family jewels in their hair during Queen Elizabeth's visit last spring, glittering head ornaments have replaced veils, flowers and bandeaux for parties.

'HEADY LOOK'

You can achieve this regal and "heady look" with rhinestones. Countess Zoltowska, known as jewelry designer Cjs, suggests you wear your rhinestone bows and glittering pins in your hair rather than as clips on your dress.

One new Cjs design is a coronet suitable for a fairy-tale princess. It is only of hand-width and has spikes studded with rhinestones and pearls to form a lacy pattern. It is to be worn straight on the top of the head.

For women who have a chignon there is a Spanish comb topped by a jewel bow glittering in three shades of rhinestones, blue, palest gray and white.

But in winter elegant women in Paris will wear lacy diamond bands in their hair.

Rhinestone pins in the shape of flowers, stars or ribbons will be smart at cocktail time.

Mrs. Hershfield, Mrs. William Wittan, Mrs. Larry Benson, Mrs. Alfred Simmons and Mrs. Perry Rothman, as new members, received floral corsages.

Judith Dickstein gave a piano program, introducing her selections to denote three periods of music starting with the 18th Century.

Donald Barnett, representing the National Federation of Temple Youth, reported on the program at Camp Ocononowac this summer.

MORE CHAIRMEN

Play and storybook ladies are headed by Mrs. Harold Tripp; visiting ladies by Mrs.

William H. Bedford; sewing ladies by Mrs. Richard Wolfe. Guild chairmen are Mrs. Curtis Patton, Mrs. Willard Beebe and Mrs. Sam Stolorow. Mrs. Guy Bevington is chairman of four groups. Auxiliary personnel is handled by Mrs. Philip Worth and auxiliary finances by Mrs. Ernest Beerstecher.

The bookmobile is under the leadership of Mrs. D. B. Eames. Mrs. C. B. Steffey is orientation chairman and Mrs. Mel Werden citizenship chairman.

'Soft Sell' Produces Best Results

By ANNE HEYWOOD

We hear a lot about the "soft sell" these days—persuasion that is done with restraint. It has been found that you can often sell a product a lot better that way than you can by being aggressive.

It seems to me that people who want to help others—and judging by my mail there are many who do—had better bear the "soft sell" in mind!

TO HELP DAUGHTER

For example, Mrs. B. wants very much to help her daughter. In this case, that means that Mrs. B. wants to convince the girl to learn stenography.

Stenography helped save Mrs. B.'s life once, and, quite naturally, she is sold on it and wants her daughter to have it, too.

But she has made the mistake of nagging the girl about the benefits of stenography since she was in grade school. As a result, her daughter can't stand the thought of learning stenography.

Mrs. D. is making the same kind of mistake.

Mrs. D. has discovered nutrition. She's read a lot of books—good books—on the benefits of proper nutrition and she's enthusiastic about it. If Mrs. D. were wise, she would quietly make use of this information herself and as a result would have improved health, beauty and vigor.

Instead, she talks about nutrition from dawn to dusk, boring her family and friends to death.

Nobody will come to Mrs. D.'s house for dinner, because they're bound to hear a detailed account of the chemical composition of every bite they put in their mouths!

THE EFFECTIVE WAY

Mrs. D. is unhappy because she would honestly love to be able to persuade people of the benefits of good nutrition to their health.

If you have an idea that you would like to get across to people—an improved method you would like to offer to your friends and relatives—remember the "soft sell."

It will enable you to get your idea across effectively—without losing all your friends in the process.

But Some Consider Sport 'Just Too Dangerous to Be Done'

Teenagers Are Sold on Supervised Drag Racing

By EUGENE GILBERT
President of the Gilbert
Youth Research Co.

America's car-conscious young sters are generally sold now on drag racing — especially when it is a supervised affair on special tracks rather than a murderous improvisation on public streets.

Two-thirds of the teenagers queried in our nationwide survey favor the acceleration tests for souped-up gas buggies under such controlled conditions.

But with the number of hot rod aficionados growing each year, this finding is less startling than the fact that only 9 per cent of the youngsters think drag racing should be encouraged as good, clean fun.

Nineteen per cent, in fact, agree substantially with Wendy Hanson, 15, of Normandy, Mo., who calls the pastime "just plain suicide," and Jean McGowan, Flushing, N. Y., who dismisses it as "just too dangerous to be done."

The girls advocating legal steps against drag racing outnumber boys two to one. Nearly 26 per cent oppose the pastime compared to 12 per cent for the boys.

LAW FAVORED

favor a law prohibiting the conversion of aging jalopies into hot rods with such devices as special carburetors, superchargers, and special manifolds.

As to the sizable majority that goes along with hot rod racing, a number of youngsters concur in the statement of 16-year-old Sue Schmith of St. Louis, Mo., who declared:

"I feel most boys have the desire to tinker with cars and hop them up. Therefore drag racing can't be helped, but it must be supervised."

Robert Schwartz, 17, of Jersey City, N. J., chimed in: "Drag racing is okay when properly supervised," and a St. Louis lad, Bruce Glueck, asserted, "It's all right — if you do it in the right places."

The "right" places have been mushrooming in the nation. Drag strips are scattered through most of the 48 states, with the heaviest concentration in California and Texas.

Most are run by hot rod clubs, service organizations, or agencies like police departments which like to see the speed demons domesticated.

This year, the National Hot Rod Assn. has approved 92 new drag strips, and close to 700 scheduled hot rod events were held in 1956.

The sport of "dragging" cranked into high gear in the late 30's, when youthful fanciers distressed their elders by testing their souped-up machines in impromptu contests to see who could accelerate, or "drag," from a standing stop at a traffic light to the fastest clip in the next few blocks.

Hot rodders acknowledge that such shenanigans still occur, but have declined since the advent of clubs and drag strips.

OK WITH MOST
The great majority of teenagers, of course, have nothing against the idea of souping up old cars.

"It's dangerous, yes," says George Onuska, a 14-year-old New Yorker, "but only a small portion of teenagers own hot rods and only a small portion of that group has had bad accidents."

Says Linda Ringel, 17, of Jersey City: "Just because of a few reckless and silly teenagers, every other teenager is held responsible. This is very unfair."

But the youngsters are acutely self-conscious about adult opinion of their driving skill.

They're almost unanimous (91 per cent) that grownups hold youthful motorists in low esteem, and only 56 per cent of the youngsters consider this unjustified.

"Newspapers play up teenage accidents," comes a stock complaint from this group, voiced by a 15-year-old Chicago girl. "Publicity favors adults."

Eugene Gilbert reports on a nationwide survey of how teenagers feel about drag racing.

Really Smart Housewife Is Ready for Emergency

She's Organized to Face Unexpected: Sudden Trip, Visitors, Impromptu Date

By RUTH MILLETT

The woman who has the best time in life—other things being equal—is the woman who is prepared for the unexpected.

Such a woman doesn't have to turn down an invitation to go on a hurry-up business trip with her husband because he "hasn't a thing to wear." She keeps her wardrobe up and in repair.

She can win a reputation as a gracious hostess because she keeps a pantry shelf stocked for an impromptu meal. That lets her back up her husband's "Why don't we all go over to our house?" in invitations with real enthusiasm.

If she has small children, she has a list of competent sitters so that unexpected invitations can be accepted. The woman who depends on just one sitter always has to know well in advance when she is going to spend an evening out.

She keeps her house in good enough order so that a drop-in visitor isn't a cause for apologizing about everything being in such a mess.

ALWAYS PREPARED

And she keeps up with her own work and obligations so that an emergency doesn't throw her completely off balance.

Being prepared for the unexpected — actually nothing more than being well-organized — gives a woman's life and personality flexibility.

She can take advantage of opportunities and meet unexpected demands on her time and energy without panic.

Whenever you wonder how a woman always seems able to meet any emergency, you can be pretty sure it is because she has organized her life to meet the unexpected.

Girl's Mom May Make First Move

Tea Suggested for Daughter's Future In-Laws

BY EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter is engaged to be married. I do not know her fiancé's people and while she herself has only seen them two or three times, she said they seemed pleased with the prospects of their son's engagement to her. Should I (a widow) visit them or they me? They have made no move of any kind so far."

Answer: According to convention, they should come to see you. However, since it is understandable how many people would not be aware of what is expected of them at such a time, it is always best to go more than half way.

In your case, this would be to invite them for a definite time. To ask them to come in and have a cup of tea would be most conventional and simplest.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I recently was invited to a large wedding reception at which the guests were seated in groups of 10 at small tables.

"During the course of the reception, the bride's mother and father went around to each table and spoke to each group, asking them if everything was all right and if they were having a good time. Was this proper?"

Answer: This well-meant attention to their guests really defeats its purpose because the men at each table the hostess visits must stand up, interrupting conversations and causing unnecessary confusion.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Is it ever proper for a woman to wear a formal evening dress if the man with whom she is dining has no dinner coat and has to wear a business suit?"

Answer: This is a very moot question of the present day when any number of well-born men wearing day clothes are accompanying women in barest of evening clothes.

According to longest established etiquette, a gentleman accompanying a lady in evening dress must wear at least a tuxedo. A man in day clothes accompanying a woman in low-cut evening clothes has always, in former years, been very disparaging to the woman's social standing.

Porcelain Enamel Great for Parties

Don't worry when the party winds up in the kitchen — every hostess can be proud of the appearance of her gleaming porcelain enamel appliances. And there's no fear of cigarette burns, glass rings, or food and drink stains when table tops, range and sink surfaces are made of the non-porous, glass-like finish.

Those after party cleanups? They're a snap with just a soap and water once-over-lightly.

An heirloom is some old thing that nobody liked well enough to wear out.

How to Get and Keep a Husband — Article IX

Good Grooming Attracts Favorable Male Attention

(Editor's Note: This is the ninth in a series of 10 articles condensed from the Dorrance best-seller, "How to Get and Keep a Husband.")

By KATE CONSTANCE

There is no better way to proclaim to the masculine world that you are interested, willing and able to contend with life than by presenting a good overall appearance.

In one short installment I cannot give all the pertinent advice on good grooming and improving your physical self. But I can pass on some comments and suggestions that should help you.

There is nothing wrong with the desire to look as young and attractive as your efforts and natural assets can accomplish. There is everything wrong, however, in allowing this desire to become a phobia.

The woman who becomes obsessed with the desire to stay young, making a fetish of her beauty treatments, dress and body pampering, cannot be a Woman Complete.

Fear destroys a well-balanced personality. It takes away the "zing" in a woman.

The woman whose hair has silvered can create the aura of a princess, no less charming than the girl in her lush 30's. We should glory in the great adventure of changing roles as life progresses.

Here is a little four-part plan to follow:

Concentrate on cleanliness, deft makeup, simplicity in dress, favorable colors, perfumes and selective adornment.

Use these factors with a certain "air" that fuses them with your natural attributes.

Adhere to a simplified beauty routine.

Laziness accounts for more unattractiveness than any other shortcoming. Never, never allow this trait to rob you of your share of good looks. It is easier to say to yourself, "I'll put that off until tomorrow night. I'm too sleepy to bother."

That is how wrinkles in our faces and sags in our will power develop. Before setting up your beauty schedule, determine if you need basic medical help, for you can count on looking your best only when you feel well. Then prepare a schedule of regular beauty care in two parts—one weekly, one daily.

Precede this list with a frank evaluation of your physical attributes. List your good features and your bad ones. Yes, write them down. And also exactly what you would like to change in your appearance.

Expressing your desire in the written word imposes a deeper impression upon your will to accomplish. And remember this:

No woman can attain the full magnetism of her charm and good looks if she is beset by tensions. These obstruct the flow of spiritual power and the healing effects of health and beauty aids. We must not let this high pressure age have too much effect upon us.

Most women can look a decade or more younger in their faces if they remember these factors that contribute so much to their attractiveness:

Sleep and rest — Whatever helps your nerves helps your looks. Sleep and rest are powerful tonics.

Diet — Usually a woman's diet shows in her face. Unless you are planning your meals under a doctor's direction, you can be sure of a beauty diet if you eat plenty of fruit, vegetables (all colors), fish, fowl, beef, butter, eggs, whole grain breads and cereals, and drink at least 1½ pints of milk daily.

Relaxation — Your face will reflect the relaxation derived from some activity such as gardening, walking, swimming or dancing. A moderate amount of outdoor exercise is particularly good. No matter how busy you are, set aside at least a few minutes for a vigorous walk.

TOP-OF-THE LIST

Facial exercise — Every woman should put this at the top of her beauty list. The principle of muscle toning is tensing and relaxing with motion. Mere throwing the head around on the shoulders will not accomplish this. What is needed is a regular set of exercises, done in a regular daily workout, in complete privacy if possible.

Exercise that supple — Be sure that your body exercise is keyed to your individual health peculiarities. Walking is one of the best methods. As you stride along, pull the stomach muscles in and up, hold them for a count of 10 and then release to a count of five. Repeat this process as many times as possible during your walk. It is wonderful for toning up a flabby middle.

Hair grooming is so important to your overall attractiveness that I urge you to accord it just as much attention as you give your face, proportionately.

As for clothes — they are your magnificent illusion. We know that we must add a lovely frame of character, personality and good attitudes.

What should we strive for in the selection of our clothes? I prefer not to use the word fashion, lest it lure us into the mood of passing fancy or fad. Aside from the service function of our clothes, we should strive to achieve the two qualities of smartness and illusion.

TASTE AND FRESHNESS

Smartness is a combination of up-to-date good taste and handbox freshness. We also call it style. That includes not dressing "out of age." Nothing is so pitiful as the mature woman who seeks to turn back the calendar by taking the role of the schoolgirl.

On the other hand, sad is the sight of young and tender girls who hang around bars and metropolitan night spots in flashy, sexy get-ups, their wiggly little bodies wrapped like sausages in skin-tight wisps of cloth, as they strain to inveigle male attention.

As to that other quality, illusion, it can cover an untold number of physical deficiencies. It can dramatize our best assets. Primarily it is achieved through design, color and adaptation of clothes to fit temperament and personality.

As a simple example, if you are small, blonde, gay, unsophisticated and wonderfully young, you would be smothered in severe fabrics and tailored styles. Yours should be dainty lines, soft materials in bright tones to match you as a personality.

Suppose you are tall, slender, red-headed and past 40, possessing a pensive smile and a quiet manner. Vivid blues, full skirts, and dramatically squared-out necklines should be good features for you.

EXQUISITE IN BLACK

If you have lovely gray hair and your figure is on the stouthead side, with average height, you can be exquisite in all black, touched with white (not lace) to emphasize your hair.

Finally — remember your voice. It has the power to draw or repel love and success. Keep it relaxed and well modulated. And no matter how well you use it, don't talk too much! You can chatter yourself out of popularity in business, in romance, anywhere!

And do not use that wonderful gift of God, your voice, to speak evil. What you say and how you look means nothing unless your soul, and the words therefrom, reveal your compassion, your sincerity, your humbleness and your loving kindness.

Be Example to Girl

The business of keeping clean can become a real adventure for a little girl — if mother starts her "propaganda" early enough.

Even a very young child will begin to notice that mother always puts on clean clothes after a bath — fresh undies, stockings, dress or blouse. Daughter will learn to appreciate clean clothes, too, from the skin out — discovering for herself how nice a girl feels when her clothes are as clean and sweet as she is herself.

'Sox' Pamper Feet

Whether you're traveling by train or plane to some real destination — or via rocking chair to some imaginary one — pamper your feet en route with colorful, washable, easily-packable slippers.

Most of these stretch to the shape of your foot, pack to the size of your smallest purse. Socks will last longer and look better if washed often in warm soap or detergent suds.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Moery of Raymond drive, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Montross of Stirling avenue.

For her wedding the bride chose a floor-length gown of nylon tulle and Chantilly lace featuring a Sabrina neckline, a fitted basque waist and long tapered sleeves. She carried a white orchid on a satin Bible.

Mrs. Frederick Dennis of Chicago acted as her sister's matron of honor. She wore a lilac gown featuring a boat neckline with a rolled collar and a large back bow ending in streamers. She carried a cascade arrangement of yellow carnations.

Gail and Lora Dennis, nieces of the bride, were gown in blue and yellow dresses with Sabrina necklines and tiny scallops on the double bouffant skirts.

Michael Smith served as the best man and Paul Moery, brother of the bride, and David Edwards of Leonard, a cousin of the bridegroom, were the groomsmen. Lyman Treachway and Fredrick Dennis were ushers.

For a reception at the Boys Club of Pontiac the bride's mother wore a pink wool dress with navy accessories and a pink carnation corsage. Mrs. Montross chose a blue dress with navy accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Before leaving on a trip to the Upper Peninsula the new Mrs. Montross changed to a frosty green sheath dress with white accessories and the orchid from her bridal arrangement. The couple will live on East Brooklyn avenue.

Stick to Healthful, Non-Fattening Foods

Reduce Without Counting Calories

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Many women who wish to reduce will not count calories. Others mean to but never begin. Let's face it! It does become somewhat boring. It is like keeping a budget.

You have the best intentions and go along smoothly for a while. Then in the rush of living you fail to write down the number of dollars (calories) you have but end up with an unaccounted spent for several days. What a for deficit.

If you're trying to lose weight, broil, bake or boil your food. Avoid fried foods.

So, I would like to help those of you who want to lose weight but who will not count calories. If you will abide by the following suggestions, you can lose without counting calories:

1. Leave off in-between snacks except for those which are an essential part of your diet such as fresh fruit or milk or fruit juice.
2. Control bread intake — no more than three slices a day.
3. Substitute fresh fruit for dessert.
4. Broil, bake or boil your food. Avoid fried foods.
5. Drink skim milk or butter-milk or powdered, fat-free milk.
6. Go easy on butter and salad dressings. If you are seriously reducing, use one of the low-calorie dressings.
7. Leave off cream, gravy, nuts and fat meat.

You should distribute your food in any way which seems best for you. If you want to eat five small "meals" rather than three larger ones, do so — but eat about the same amount you would get in the three.

For instance, you may want to eat an apple, drink your daily quota of fruit juice or one of your two or three glasses of milk in between meals or just before going to bed. This is a good idea when you are eating less than usual because it keeps that hollow feeling away.

THIS IS IMPORTANT! If you are going to try to reduce without calorie counting, be sure that you get up from the table feeling as though you could enjoy a little more. Never eat until you feel "stuffed."

Birthday Ties for Men Feature Zodiac Signs

Astrology is the oldest of sciences — the ancient Egyptians, Greeks and Moors knew it, and studied it. Ptolemy wrote a famous book on astrology; Hippocrates, the father of medicine, based many diagnoses on it; Copernicus, in the 16th Century, perfected it.

Galileo, known today as a mathematician, was court astrologer to the Medici! And Queen Elizabeth I had her coronation on a day selected by a famous astrologer of her day!

This ancient science of the stars and planets is still flourishing mightily, and every man, woman and child knows his "sign" — the period of the year in which he or she was born — and which, some believe, to a certain extent influences his character and actions.

Countess Mara, designer of men's neckwear, has designed a different tie for each sign — twelve in all — with the indicated period printed on the reverse side of the tie. Made especially to personalize a birthday gift, these ties are now in fine stores nationwide.

Portable Breakfast Allows Early Start

If you like to start early when traveling, pack a portable breakfast. Then you can eat when and where you want. For roadside breakfasts, you can have hot coffee in one thermos and milk in another. Individual packages of cereal can be eaten directly from the package, but you'll want plastic or paper spoons and other eating utensils which you can easily discard. An insulated bag is helpful in keeping foods, such as fresh fruits, cold.

Use Bathtub to Wash Blinds

Did you ever try dipping your venetian blinds in the bathtub? It's an ideal place to clean them thoroughly. Suds and rinse the blinds and hang them to dry over a pair of parallel lines, outdoors or indoors. Venetian blinds should be carried outdoors in some container to prevent dripping on floors or rugs.

Enamel Non-Porous

Why is porcelain enamel so easy to clean? Because it is absolutely non-porous. Grease and dirt stay on the surface, never becoming imbedded in the pores of the finish. Soap and water is usually sufficient for cleaning.

Pair United in Marriage at All Saints

Before members of their immediate families, Barbara Louise Davis and Ronald Kenneth Frederiksen were married Saturday afternoon. The Rev. C. George Widdifield performed the ceremony in All Saints Episcopal Church.

Mrs. G. A. Puffer of Mann road is the bride's mother, and the bridegroom is the son of John Henry Frederiksen of Monticello avenue.

The bride wore a street-length white chiffon gown with fingertip veil and carried a white orchid on a Bible.

Mrs. Gene Frederiksen, matron of honor, wore a blue lace dress with yellow roses.

At an evening reception for 130 people at the Knights of Pythias Hall Mrs. Puffer wore a ecoca brown wool jersey dress with dark brown accessories.

Before leaving on a northern Michigan trip the new Mrs. Frederiksen changed to a blue wool suit with dark blue accessories. The couple will live on Oakland avenue.

Difference Is Food

That healthy look a farmer has comes partly from what he eats. A survey reveals that farm families have more of all nutrients except two than city families. Farm diets may lack vitamin A found in dark-green and deep-yellow vegetables and the citrus-fruit vitamin C.

Paint Gives Light Finish to Old Stained Furniture

CHICAGO (INS) — If you're a silver birch or honey maple finisher, she reports.

The first, or base, covers the old finish, acting as a filler and primer. The second coat, or color grain-grain mixture, establishes a wood-grain pattern on the base.

You apply the color grain thinly with brush or cheese cloth. About 20 minutes later, you make the grainy pattern with a dry brush or graining tool.

The final coat lends a hand-rubbed, durable look. It is applied 24 hours after the second coat.

Parker Obtains 2 More Lions, Drops Chandnois

LIGONIER, Pa. (U)—"He's the captain of the ship and whatever he does is perfectly okay with me."

That was what Art Rooney, president of the National Football League's Pittsburgh Steelers, said last night as he praised the work of his new coach, Buddy Parker.

Parker, who took over the Steelers little more than two weeks ago, surprised many Steeler fans yesterday when he handed veteran halfback Lynn Chandnois his outright release.

The release climaxed an eventful day which saw the Steelers pick up three players in trades with the Washington Redskins and Parker's old team, the Detroit Lions.

"I just thought Chandnois had played long enough for the Steelers," Parker said quietly. Chandnois, a veteran of 7 years with the club, expressed surprise and said he figures he has at least two more years of football left.

Before releasing Chandnois, Parker picked up Jack Kemp, a 6-2 quarterback, and tackle Dave Liddick from the Lions. He also obtained fullback Dale Atkeson from Washington for tackle Dale Owens.

In still another development, halfback Johnny Lattner, the former Notre Dame All-American and the Steelers' No. 1 draft choice in 1934, resigned. He said a knee injury suffered while in the Air Force still gives him trouble.

Parker now has secured five players from Detroit, a team with which he had outstanding success before quitting suddenly a few weeks ago.

Earlier, Parker obtained several other players in NFL trades including halfback Jug Girard, a veteran who had been traded by the Lions to Baltimore.

Since Parker has taken over from Walt Kiesling — whom he has retained as one of his 7 assistants — the Steelers have won two exhibitions, including a victory over the Lions. The Steelers carry a 2-2 record into Saturday night's exhibition against the Chicago Bears at Pittsburgh.

Asked if he was through trading, Parker replied:

"Well, I don't know. All I'm trying to do is build a winner, and I'll do everything I can to do it."

Dallas Tourney Starts Friday

Top Stars Will Arrive Late Today to Prepare for $40,000 Open

DALLAS (U)—Most of the tournament hotshots played in a pro-amateur today in final rounds before the $40,000 Dallas Open but some of the big names expected to compete here still were missing.

Sam Snead showed up yesterday and turned in a 1-under-par 70 over the Glen Lakes Country Club course, then declared he thought a 267 or 268 would win the $8,000 first money.

Still to arrive are Dick Mayer, the National Open and World champion and leading money winner of the year, and Roberto de Vicenzo, the long-hitting Argentine from Mexico City, who won the All-America. They have been in Las Vegas doing some television films but are expected to come here for the Dallas Open which starts tomorrow.

A field of close to 150 will make the run for the big money.

Eastern Entry Maintains Lead in Sailing Test

MARBLEHEAD, Mass. (U)—With three races to be sailed, two scheduled today and one tomorrow, the Massachusetts Bay entry maintained a lead in the North American senior sailing championship for the Mallory Cup.

The host entry, skippered by George O'Day of Marblehead, registered a fifth in yesterday morning's 4.9 miles contest over a triangular course, and a fourth in the afternoon event over a similarly shaped course which measured 4.6 miles.

William Cox of Noroton, Conn., skippered the Long Island Sound entry to a first place in yesterday's morning event in 1:26:42.

Southern California, skippered by Leigh Brite of Santa Monica, was home first in the afternoon race in 1:10:54.

13 Racing Drivers Still in Title Chase

INDIANAPOLIS (U)—Thirteen drivers are still in competition for the USAC national big car driving championship, probably a record for this late in the season since the circuit was formed in 1909.

All but three of the drivers will compete Saturday in the Hoosier Hundred, one of the richest races of the 13 scheduled this year. The 100-mile at the Indiana State Fairgrounds paid $28,100 last year a purse exceeded only by the Indianapolis Motor Speedway 500 and the Milwaukee 200.

Lake Orion Hopes to Dethrone Trojans

Clawson Oakland B Choice

By BILL CORNWELL

How to stop Clawson from repeating as Oakland B League football champion is a problem resting squarely in the laps of five other intensely interested parties.

After a slow start in 1936, coach Bob Acton's Trojans rode roughshod over loop opposition to win the title going away.

Although All-County quarterback Tom Kollin is missing and the bench appears a little thinner, the wealth of material on hand points toward another runaway unless some brave soul steps forward and calls a halt.

Lake Orion looks like the best candidate for the job. Coach Ted Sels is well stocked with veterans and the Dragons will be dangerous if they can "jell" for two halves of a game instead of one.

It seems unlikely that anyone else can derail the Clawson express. Troy and Madison must be considered "outsides" threats while a gloomy atmosphere is hovering over both Avondale and Fitzgerald.

The loss of a player of Kollin's caliber may seem like a crushing blow, but Acton still has an ace in the hole. George Almasty saw a lot of action in '36 as Kollin's understudy and he is now ready to run the club in tested manner.

The remainder of last year's backfield has returned in one piece. The unit includes fullback Lowell Acton, brother of the Trojan mentor, and halfbacks Dave Reese and John Volk.

Graduation took its heaviest toll up front, but Clawson still has a good supply of seasoned linemen, headed by end Roger Mollenkopf, guard Ken Munyan and tackles Roger Lance and Larry Lomako.

Lake-Orion's chances of dethroning the Trojans will ride with a sturdy band of holdovers and the development of promising newcomers.

Orion's greatest strength lies in the backfield where air-minded Nick Niera is prepared to pinpoint his targets from the quarterback spot, supported by halfbacks Doug Storey and Jeff Snarey.

Ends Jim Recknagel and Jack Schaeffer, along with tackle Phil Gouin and guard Dean Callison, both sophomores, are slated to anchor the Dragons' forward wall.

Joe Bechard, who guided Troy to 2nd place last season in his 1st year as coach, has strong boys on hand, but there's not enough of them.

Wayne Figley, a rugged ball-carrier, is moving from quarterback to halfback this fall, with sophomore Ricky McKinnon scheduled to take over the signal-calling post. Halfback Dave Stokes, tackle Leo Valko and guard Ben Burdick are other returning stalwarts.

Madison coach Don Scott is blessed with the return of his entire offensive line, but he must find a replacement for star quarterback Jack Tompkins. Injuries could be costly since the Eagle reserve strength is thin.

The return of only four letter-men at Avondale paints a dismal picture for coach Frank Crowell. The mainstays are halfback Duane Lau, center Bob Grusnick, guard Chuck Nurek and tackle Dick Freeland. After that, the Jackets will have to rely largely on inexperienced sophomores.

Coach Jerry Udell, like Crowell, has a rebuilding task at Fitzgerald, which finished in the league cellar a year ago. The Spartans are also "green."

The Oakland B League became a six-team circuit this season when Roseville dropped out.

(Friday) Tri-County, Bi-County, Inter-State and Independents.)

COLT MAINSTAYS — Wayne Figley (No. 22) and Leo Valko are two of Troy High School's chief hopes for a successful campaign in the Oakland B League this fall. Figley, who starred at quarterback for the Colts in 1936, is being switched to halfback this season to make better use of his ball-carrying talents. Valko is a veteran tackle.

More Than 600 at Saddle Show

Approximately 600 people witnessed the Dixie Saddle Clubs Ninth annual horse show at the Glenn Ellis Farm on Dixie Highway. The show drew 150 horses. At start of the bending race her saddle girth broke causing her to take a bad fall. She was allowed to change her saddle and go on to take the blue ribbon on Nemrod. She also won a fourth place on Judy, in the same event.

Kensington Park Closes Annual Fishing Contest

Signally the best fishing season in years at Kensington Metropolitan Park, a six-pound, 12-ounce largemouth bass and a 10-ounce, nine-and-one-quarter inch bluegill won the annual summer fishing contest. Contest for largemouth, smallmouth, panfish and pike was sponsored by the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, of which the park is a unit.

Awards of 19 trophies will be made at 3 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 15 at the boat rental dock on Kent Lake by David Laidlaw, park superintendent. Although the fishing contest has closed, the boat rental dock and free launching ramps continue open and the park is open year around.

Trophy No. 1 winner in the adult class for largemouth bass is Charles Hornbeck, Detroit, with a six-pound, 1-ounce fish, caught Aug. 18. A 10 and ½ ounce bluegill tops the panfish division for John Russell, while 15-year-old Gary Swintek, Detroit, topped the youth division with a nine-ounce, nine-inch bluegill.

Among other winners were Eric A. Simon, 9, of Detroit with a 3-pound, 5-ounce smallmouth bass, best of the season at the park; Mrs. Vonnie Hoover of Northville, 8-pound, 5-ounce pike.

Goose Really Cooked

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Jack Tyson of Richmond, who hunts geese in North Carolina, tells this one:

Del., shot a goose in flight on Ocracoke Island and it apparently fell on the roof of the clubhouse.

Stewart climbed on the roof but couldn't find it. Other club members did — when the goose dropped down the chimney into the fireplace.

Saxton Decker by Cop After Driving Violation

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—Former welterweight champion Johnny Saxton was knocked down by the long arm of the law on the New Jersey Turnpike last night.

Saxton, who tips the scales at 142, was floored by state trooper Anthony R. Shupin, a stocky 175-pounder with a straight right to the jaw.

After the brawl, the two retreated to a neutral corner—the Newark police station—where Saxton was charged—with driving without a license, stopping illegally on a ramp and assault and battery on an officer. Count of the incident:

Shupin gave the following ac-

The officer saw Saxton's car parked on the ramp near exit 14 and pulled up to see what the matter was.

The former champ came out swinging. He threw a short right and Shupin ducked. The trooper then countered with his own right and sent Saxton into the asphalt.

The version from Saxton's dressing room was somewhat different. Here is his account: "I was lost on my way back from Philadelphia where I'd seen my manager, Frank 'Blinky' Palermo and was stopping to ask for directions.

"Then this patrol car came up and told me I cut him off. The guy who knocked me down started arguing with my wife. "I got out and told him it wasn't her fault whatever was wrong. I was the driver, and I guess I gestured. "That's when he hit me—with a sucker right. I never saw it." Saxton claims the officer hit him again when he staggered to his feet.

The former champ, who did not have a driver's license with him, was held in $500 bail.

It was the second time Saxton was decked in a week.

SKATING CHAMPS PERFORM — Skaters who represented Pontiac in the national skating competition in Oakland, California last month, will perform at the Rolladium on M-59 Friday night in the events which won them national titles. Left to right are: Gale Ensminger and Dennis Horral, the juvenile dance champions of America. Dennis is 11 and Gale is nine and both hail from Waterford. The center photo is that of the American intermediate dance champions, Penny Money and John Beeding. Penny is from Birmingham and John from Mt. Clemens. On the right is the championship team for junior pairs, Sue Welch and Ricky Martins. Sue, 13, is from Union Lake and Ricky, also 13, is from Pontiac.

Foreign Students Play Soccer Exhibition

Cranbrook will be the international soccer center of Michigan Sunday afternoon.

A 15-man team of foreign exchange students who are currently attending various schools in the area will meet the Crane soccer team in an exhibition contest at 3:00 p.m. Sunday.

"Soccer is big in all of the foreign countries," said coach Ben Snyder of the Cranbrook boaters, "so we thought it would be a nice gesture to give the foreign students in area schools a chance to play here."

These are the foreign students who will participate in the exhibition. Gert Habenstreit of Austria (Ecorse High), Thomas Pares of Spain (Wyandotte), Gerd Roos, Germany (Mumford High), Namiko Shima of Japan (Cooley High), Chris Piatou of Norway (Cranbrook), Pelite Mayer of Portugal (Redford High), Garzia Vissello of Italy (Denby High), Kil Chiro Nagai of Japan (Grosse Pointe High), Tom Schanke of Norway (Grosse Pointe University School), Yukinobu Numura of Japan (Birmingham High), Eckart Keller of Germany (Avondale), Peder Jensen of Denmark (Milford High), Tuzim Kereseci of Turkey (Fenton), Dulce Espinueva of Philippines (West Bloomfield), Mario Vieira of Portugal (Royal Oak Dondoro) and Rogelio Vucao Philippines (Berkley).

Julius Corrala member of the Cranbrook faculty who speaks four languages, Spanish, Italian and Albanian besides English, will coach the foreign students' team.

"All of the boys speak English and all play soccer in their native lands," said Snyder.

Members of the American families sponsoring the boys will attend the game and the public is also invited to watch.

For the Crane soccer team it will be a workout in preparation for the regular season which begins Friday Sept. 20th at Chatham, Canada.

Gene Kenny, soccer coach at MSU, is expected to be on hand to watch the exhibition.

Skate Champs Perform in Exhibition Friday

Roller skating champions from Pontiac and area who competed and won numerous titles in the National Roller Skating Championships in Oakland, California, last month will put on an exhibition Friday night at the Rolladium on M-59.

All of the participating skaters are those who either have won or placed in the top three in their respective events.

The exhibition initiates the 1957-58 skating season and the public is invited to watch the performances which start at 8:00 p.m.

In Junior Pairs, Sue Welch and Ricky Martins, both 13, will display the wares which won them the national title. Intermediate dance champions Penny Money of Birmingham and John Beeding of Mt. Clemens along with juvenile pairs champions Danny Riedl and Carol Rye will also perform.

Gale Ensminger, 9, and Dennis Horral 11, both of Waterford are the national juvenile dance champions.

The Pontiac Skating club will present all of these champions with a gold life membership.

Others who will perform are runnerup winners Lynn Stitz, Viria Landon and Gary Perkins, and third place winners Robyn White, David Marchewka and Pat Jarrard.

Robyn will be the youngest of the performers. She is only six years old.

City Golfers Gain Honors at Louisville

Three Pontiac men gained honors this week in the annual Louisville Golfers Club tournament at Louisville, Ky.

Harold Daniels, 228 Branch, was the winner of the championship flight with a 77. George Johnson, 187 Harrison, shot an 83 to take 3rd place in the 1st flight, and James Taylor, 371 E. Wilson, won the 4th flight with a 77.

Daniels, Johnson and Taylor, competing in this event for the 1st time, were awarded beautiful trophies for their efforts.

WEDNESDAY'S FIGHT
CHICAGO—Vince Martinez, 149½, Paterson, N. J., stopped Larry Baker, 147, New York, 3.

The average professional team in the NBA requires about $214,000 for its operating expenses during each current playing season.

Global World Series Games Start Friday

DETROIT (AP)—Baseball's version of the United Nations, that global world series, starts its third annual swing here tomorrow night with teams from eight nations competing for the biggest prize in amateur baseball.

Nursed along by Milwaukee industrialist Dick Falk to promote international understanding and friendship, the series brings together championship teams from four continents.

The competitors — all champions who battled for the right to enter this series — are from Japan, Hawaii, Columbia, Venezuela, Mexico, Holland, Canada and the United States. The U. S. teams have won the series the last two years when it was held in Milwaukee's County Stadium.

Players and representatives from all eight teams will attend a gala banquet tonight at a downtown hotel. Play in the double elimination series will begin Friday night at Briggs Stadium when Japan meets Canada in a single game.

It will take 15 games before a champion is crowned next Wednesday night.

7-Footer Dukes to Join Pistons

Obtained From Lakers in Trade for Veteran Foust

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Pistons and the Minneapolis Lakers of the National Basketball Assn. today announced a deal that sends center Larry Foust and cash to the Lakers for 7-foot center Walter Dukes.

The amount of cash was not disclosed. It was the third trade completed by the Pistons since they came to Detroit last spring.

Piston Coach Charley Eckman hailed the trade as "one that should give us the strength that we need defensively."

Foust, 29, spent seven seasons with the Pistons. He led the team to the Western Division title in the 1954-55 season, averaging more than 15 points a game.

Dukes, former Seton Hall star, played two seasons with the Harlem Globetrotters before joining the New York Knickerbockers. He played one full season with New York, then was traded to Minneapolis last October for Slater Martin. In 71 games he picked off 794 rebounds and scored 720 points.

READY TO ROLL — Ready to roll into another full season of bowling action at West Side Recreation are Don Stone, left, and Jay Lovett. The pair rank among the outstanding performers in the house and mixed loops at the Orchard Lake Avenue establishment. Most house leagues have been filled, however several mixed and women's leagues are still seeking bowlers.

Bowling Season Moves Into Full Swing

You can hear the sound of falling pins and loud cheers any night of the week at local bowling alleys these days as a brand new keg season heads into its 2nd week of activity.

League bowling got started at many "houses" around Oakland County on Labor Day. Several other loops have begun play since and more have yet to get under way.

Area proprietors are predicting one of the greatest years in history for the sport here this season. There are only a few team openings remaining even at this early date. Leagues are being formed and started in rapid fashion.

Night, afternoon and some morning leagues will keep the alleys hopping from now to next spring. Between league times, the proprietors can pretty much count on being overflown with open bowlers in this strong keg sector.

None of the bowling officials has expressed any indication of any problem getting enough business despite the fact that new locations are springing up in Pontiac and surrounding towns.

Latest to open was the $500,000 Bowlers in Royal Oak with 16 alleys using automatics. Still under construction is a bowling establishment in Walled Lake to be operated by Ben Bendo. The Bowlers is owned by Rod Smith of Birmingham Recreation.

One of the outstanding early individual performances reported to The Press thus far has been a 255 game and 649 series posted by Chuck Manz in the Elks House League.

His team got off to an early 3-0 lead in the standings with an impressive 2738 series. Another team to start strong is the No. 4 team of the Nighthawks loop with a 4-0 mark.

Meanwhile, officials of the Pontiac Press Bowlerama tournament are beginning plans for a bigger and better event this season. The 2nd annual county affair is tentatively scheduled for weekends of February 8 and 15.

MIXED LEAGUE STARS — Paul George, left, house league ace with a 198 average last season, and Doris Lanktree of the mixed league are two of the outstanding bowlers at Motor Inn and the entire local area. Both started new seasons in their respective loops recently, as 1957 action got under way at all area alleys.

Wyandotte Nine Keeps Winning

Area Team Eliminates Huntington in Amateur Play; Cleveland Next

BATTLE CREEK (9) — Unbeaten Wyandotte, Mich., tangles with Cleveland today in the American Amateur Baseball Congress Eastern Division playoffs.

Wyandotte preserved its unbeaten record yesterday by eliminating Huntington, W. Va., 9-1, while Cleveland, which drew a bye, took it easy.

In another game last night, Knoxville, Tenn., eliminated Battle Creek from the series, 12-9, and drew a bye today.

If Wyandotte wins today and thus eliminates once-beaten Cleveland in the double-elimination series, the Michigan club will take on Knoxville Friday to decide the championship.

However, if Cleveland wins today all of the teams will have suffered one defeat each. The series would then pit Cleveland against Knoxville with the winner of that contest taking on Wyandotte for the championship.

Duffy Daugherty, Michigan State head football coach, played under Clarence (Biggie) Munn at Syracuse University when the latter was football line coach for the Orangemen. Munn now is Spartan athletic director.

Not First Crowd Drop Baseball Will Survive

CLEVELAND (9) — Tris Speaker, who played in his first major league game 50 years ago today, believes baseball will survive the current decline in attendance.

"I've been through periods of declining attendance before," said the 69-year-old Speaker, now a scout for the Cleveland Indians. "We had one when motion pictures first became popular and people flocked to the movie houses instead of to the ball park. We came out of it to set attendance records that no oldtimer ever dreamed were possible. We'll come out of this one, too."

Speaker got a scratch single in his first time at bat as a pinch hitter for the Boston Red Sox on Sept. 12, 1907 in Philadelphia. It was the first of 3,515 hits he made in 22 seasons that established him as a great defensive centerfielder and hitter.

Only seven players ever made 3,000 big league hits, and Speaker's total is second only to Ty Cobb's 4,191.

WASHINGTON —With Secretary of State Dulles on hand, an ex-Navy pilot symbolically succeeds an Ohio lawyer today as boss of the vast U. S. foreign aid program.

Speeches all around were the order of the day at a staff meeting of the International Cooperation Administration in the Mayflower Hotel's grand ballroom.

Stepping out after more than two years as ICA chief: John B. Hollister, white-haired 66-year-old former law partner of the late Republican Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio. He is going back to his law firm, Taft, Stettinius and Hollister, in Cincinnati.

Stepping in, but only symbolically since he won't take his oath of office until October: 47-year-old air enthusiast James Hopkins Smith Jr. of Aspen, Colo.

After Hollister leaves tomorrow, ICA and its multibillion-dollar spending for foreign military and economic aid will be temporarily in the hands of the deputy director, Dr. Dennis A. Fitzgerald.

Smith is returning to government service a little more than a year after he resigned as assistant secretary of the Navy for air.

For the last year he has been vice president of Pan-American Airways and a director of Slick Airways.

THE STORK CLUB — Three charter members of the Detroit Police Department's Stork Club light a cigar for the fourth founder, Frank Lewandowski, a grandfather who has delivered a dozen babies in his patrol wagon. Among them, the quartet has delivered 23 babies. Membership in the Stork Club is limited to officers who deliver babies in a moving auto. Each member will get a plaque like the one held by Lewandowski. Offering the light are, from left, Carl Bangert, Woodrow Webb and James Schweiger.

Collect More Gas Tax

WASHINGTON—The Bureau of Public Roads reports that during 1956 the states collected taxes on 50.9 billion gallons of motor fuel, an increase of 2.4 billion gallons over 1955. State gasoline taxes ranged from 3 cents a gallon in Missouri to 7 in 10 states. The average State gasoline tax in 1956 was 5.54 cents a gallon compared with 5.35 the year before.

Kim Novak Feels Studio Not Doing Right by Her

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Kim Novak has crossed her rubicon, and she's getting cheers and boos for it in Hollywood.

There comes the point in the lives of almost all top stars when they declare their independence. Having been nurtured to stardom by a studio, they reach a position where they feel the studio is not doing right by them.

It happened two years ago with Marilyn Monroe. Kim Novak now has made the same move. She informed Columbia she wouldn't report for an Alfred Hitchcock loan-out until she got a salary adjustment. Her current wage: $1,250 a week.

Local viewpoints of her action are generally at two extremes: 1. That she is a brave girl who seeks what she rightly deserves; 2. That she is biting the hand that made her a star.

The first view was expressed to me by another young actress of first magnitude. Said she: "I take my hat off to Kim. What is she making—$1,250 a week? Why it's ridiculous. After she pays her agents, taxes and so forth, she probably keeps $400. She's got to live on that. She can't save any money that way."

The converse view is offered by W. R. Wilkerson, veteran publisher of the Hollywood Reporter. He puts the blame on Kim's new agents and argues that tough old Harry Cohn, Columbia's blustery boss, will not be pushed around.

He argued that the same agents had tried to wangle a new deal for Rita Hayworth, "resulting in Miss Hayworth's being out of work for practically five years and on returning, hardly resembling the star that Cohn and his studio made over a period of years."

The publisher predicted that Kim "will wait around as long as Rita Hayworth did and suffer the same drop in prestige."

So who's right?

Plants' Water Reuse Frequently Costly

GARY, Ind. — Reuse of water in the same operation is widely practiced in steam generation. United States steel plants reuse about 70 per cent of their steam condensate.

But one pound of water is lost for every pound of steam produced, even though the steam condensate is reused. And any reuse of water increases the need for treatment to prevent scale, corrosion and slime in the circulating pipes.

Thus it is frequently cheaper to use water only once if there is a plentiful supply and it is to perform a simple cooling operation.

Plan Refugee Towns

KARACHI—The Government of Pakistan plans to build eight satellite towns in East Pakistan covering more than 9,000 acres to provide habitation for some 400,000 refugees from India. About 470,000 refugees have already been settled; some 600,000 remain to be provided with new housing.

Ross Dependency, New Zealand's Antarctic possession, is a new name on stamps.

Woman in Oklahoma Sticks With Worms

OKLAHOMA CITY (INS)—Some women prefer tunk, some jewels, but an Oklahoma City woman will stick to her worms for—in her opinion—"they are real nice to handle."

Earthworms are also profitable for Mrs. Robert O. Swimmer whose duties six years ago were confined to house cleaning and raising three children.

shore ranch, a small acreage literally crawling with earth worms that currently profit her more than $1,000 a month.

How did the comely wife of an Oklahoma City attorney get into the worm raising business? "Well, I always read about doing things and never did but this time we did it," she explained.

BOUGHT WORMS

Six years ago she bought 50,000 worms to propagate soil for a vegetable garden. The worms worked wonders on the garden but it was soon abandoned. Raising wigglers turned into a full-fledged business.

Grossing about $100 per month for the first year, the business has grown to $2,000 for the highest month.

In the peak season, April 1 to October 1, Mrs. Swimmer ships about a million and a half worms a month to buyers throughout the nation. The worms are used for the time-honored sport of fishing or to propagate and revitalize worn-out soil.

The largest worm ranch in the state, it consists of 15 beds holding about 10 million worms. "The process of raising wigglers is really quite simple," Mrs. Swimmer said, "and it actually takes little time."

Culture beds are filled three-quarters full with pulverized manure and wet thoroughly. The worms are never in soil. Worms are dumped in and they quickly burrow into the manure.

In about four days a four-inch furrow is cut down the center of the bed and filled with worm feed. This consists of wheat, oats, cotton seed meal or alfalfa meal.
