Hearing Ordered on Redevelopment Plan

By L. GARY THORNE

A proposed solution for Pontiac's priority problem — downtown redevelopment — was presented to the City Commission last night, concluding more than a year of negotiations.

The commission voted 6-1 to order a public hearing for Sept. 27 on the Taubman plan for downtown redevelopment.

City Commissioner Robert C. Irwin, reiterating his previous stand that certain problems were being ignored, cast the lone dissenting vote.

In setting the date for a formal public hearing, the commission received a 10-page contract from Oak Park developer A. Alfred Taubman containing his terms for establishment of an enclosed mall-type shopping center in downtown Pontiac.

The commission also received the offer of a quarter-million-dollar "good faith" deposit once the city executes the contract.

MEETING SLATED

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. said, however, that first the city would meet Sept. 16 with federal urban renewal officials to make certain the contract was acceptable to them.

Although much of the proposed Taubman complex is spelled out in tentative terms in the contract, some specific prices and cost items were disclosed last night for the first time.

These included:

• Taubman's offer of $696,000 for the land to locate his shopping center on.

• The developer's proposed annual rental of $450,000 for a lease on the parking area.

• A 40-year revenue bond issue of $8.9 million to be sold to finance the parking lot construction.

• The parking area is to extend northward to Lawrence (a block north of the present urban renewal boundary) taking in an area of some 63 acres in the south half of the central business district.

The area extends south from Lawrence to a point where the east and west legs of Wide Track meet.

Pointing out that the Taubman contract would have to be approved by urban renewal authorities, Taylor cited a contract three years ago with a local developer for downtown redevelopment that never really existed because urban renewal authorities never approved it.

The contract with Taubman, which went through five drafts before presentation to the commission, sets up a tentative sequence for downtown redevelopment over the next two to three years.

Under the proposed contract terms, Taubman has up to one year to secure two major department store tenants of the caliber of Sears, Montgomery Ward, J. C. Penney, or of similar size and stature.

The contract would set up a six-month time period for the signing of the first two tenants with an option for Taubman to extend the time period for a second six months.

PURCHASE PLANNED

Once the tenants are signed, Taubman proposes to purchase an estimated 14 acres for building sites at a price not to exceed $1.05 per square foot or $696,000.

City officials have indicated new land appraisals will not doubt be required to set the sale price of the urban renewal land.

The city then within two years must acquire the necessary land outside the renewal project for the proposed parking area for about 3,500 cars, and set up a parking authority for the construction and operation of the "free to the user" parking.

In the proposed contract, Taubman offered to lease the parking area for $450,000 per year for 40 years; the proposed use of the revenue bond is to finance the parking lot phase of the shopping center project.

RENEWAL OPTION

Taubman's proposed lease payment is based on the city's estimated cost of $8.9 million for the giant parking lot.

Taubman also has the option to renew his lease on the parking for 10 five-year periods. This is beyond the 40-year life of the proposed bond issue.

The main shopping center building would roughly be erected in the center of the 63-acre tract.

Only three existing buildings would remain in the area. These would be the Pontiac Public Library, the new Community National Bank drive-in branch, and the Pontiac State Bank building.

'SATELLITE' BUILDINGS

Through traffic on the Auburn-Orchard Lake crossover, Pike and Water and Jackson would be eliminated.

Taubman proposes four "satellite" buildings to be located outside of the main building. Although not identified last night, two of these (Continued on Page A-11, Col. 1)

S. Africa Vows to Hold Course

Assassination Won't Change Apartheid

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — South Africa's ruling white Nationalist party announced its "unshakable determination" today to maintain the course set by its assassinated leader, Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd.

As police continued their investigation of Verwoerd's assassination, the party's parliamentary caucus met in Cape Town to approve a message of condolence on the death of their leader yesterday.

The pledge to uphold his policies confirmed expectations that Verwoerd's death would mean no modification of the government's militant apartheid policy of racial segregation.

The caucus is expected to meet next week to select a new party leader who automatically will become prime minister. The party has almost a 3-1 majority in Parliament.

Verwoerd will be buried Saturday in Pretoria.

Following Verwoerd's assassination, Finance Minister Theo-

Weather Formula Will Keep Us Cool, Calm, Dry

Mostly sunny skies will prevail in the Pontiac area for the remainder of the week.

The weatherman reports fair and cool tonight and a little warmer tomorrow. Fair and mild is the prediction for Friday.

Temperatures through Monday are expected to average near the normal high of 73 to 75, and low of 56 to 57. Little or no precipitation is forecast.

North to northeast winds at 6 to 12 miles per hour this morning will diminish to light and variable tonight.

A low of 52 was registered at 6 a.m. The mercury had climbed to 75 by 2 p.m.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House gave approval today to a bill that would increase the present $1.55 an hour minimum wage to $1.60 in 1968 and bring 8 million new workers under minimum wage protection.

NEW YORK — The advent of the space age has developed new problems and anxieties for the religious community.

Our more primitive folk are fearful that some rocket will batter the pearly gates. Others have always been worried by the vastness of the universe.

Recent space explorations have touched off new religious alarms: Would such a discovery as life on other planets undermine some believers?

As vexing as these questions may be, the technological age has triggered much greater fear among churches.

They are not sweating over space or science or automation. They are sweating over manpower.

SERIOUS DECLINE

Every major religious body has seen a serious decline in seminary enrollment over the last decade.

The number of young people entering the religious vocations is not keeping pace with the needs of the churches and the demand of the growing, booming population.

Many young people have gone to where the action is. They are caught up in the exotic, fascinating field of science, of space technology, of advanced mathematics to operate and develop the new computers.

The cry and money and prestige is out for those who are prepared to handle the new space centers, the experimental laboratories and the growing scientific teams of business, industry and education.

Traverse City district's 143 teachers failed to show up again today.

The Riverview board, which employs about 150 teachers for its 3,000 pupils, said teachers returned from a meeting today with "certain proposals" under which they would return to their jobs.

The board said in a statement it responded with "certain counterproposals" which the teachers did not accept.

However, a spokesman for the MEA said today's impasse resulted after the board rejected a contract agreed to by "an attorney to whom the board had earlier given full authority to negotiate." The MEA spokesman said no further talks had been scheduled.

School Days Back Again

Pontiac's elementary school pupils got a taste of study today — or at least the preliminaries necessary for it.

First through sixth graders attended morning sessions and will do so again tomorrow. In the Waterford Township School District, elementary pupils will return at 9 a.m. tomorrow for 1½ hours and a full day Friday.

Township school buses will be operating on schedule tomorrow and Friday.

All entering seventh and 10th grades will report to their school at 8:30 a.m. tomorrow in Pontiac and Waterford Township.

Regular classes for all public school students, except kindergartners in Pontiac, will begin Friday.

Pontiac kindergarten youngsters, who were to be registered today and tomorrow, will begin regular sessions Monday.

Eat Your Lunch and Digest the Plan

Tickets for Tuesday's Taubman plan luncheon at the Pontiac Elks Temple are on sale at four local businesses.

To be explained at the event is the proposal of Oak Park developer A. Alfred Taubman to build an enclosed mall-type shopping center in the southern end of Pontiac's central business district.

In scheduling the noon luncheon, city officials emphasized it is for any citizen wishing to learn details of the plan.

Attendance is not limited to members of civic organizations. The $2 tickets can be purchased at Dickinson's Men's Wear, 31 N. Saginaw; the Community National Bank branch office at 584 N. Perry; Hughes, Hatcher and Saffrin at the Mall; and Ozawa's at Tel-Huron Shopping Center.

LBJ Signs Bill Containing $22 Million in Aid for Rent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House announced today President Johnson had signed into law a $13.9 billion appropriations bill that contained $22 million for rent supplements. The President called it "the single most important breakthrough in the history of public housing."

"With this bill . . . not 10,000 but 53,000 families can now give their children a rain-free roof and a rat-proof bedroom," Johnson said. "It means that more than 50,000 city children can come off the streets at night, because they have a decent home to come to."

Avon Lone Holdout on Sewer Plan

The number of holdout communities in the proposed Clinton-Oakland Sewage Disposal System was narrowed to one last night as Independence Township decided to join the ambitious $28.6-million project.

Avon Township, a vital part of the undertaking, still hasn't committed itself to participation in the interceptor. And its contribution is about 26 per cent of the total cost.

Thus far, in addition to Independence Township, the township of Waterford, West Bloomfield, Orion and Pontiac have joined the project.

The cities of Pontiac and Orchard Lake previously decided against participation in the Clinton-Oakland.

Independence Township will pay about 10 per cent of the cost of the project.

UNANIMOUS OKAY

The Independence Township Board unanimously approved the township's participation in the interceptor last night and authorized Supervisor Duane Hurfall and Clerk Howard Altman to sign a contract with the Oakland County Department of Public Works.

Like other customers, Independence Township residents will be required to pay a $350 connection charge for the service.

R. J. Alexander, DPW director, had estimated total cost of the 30-year bond issue at $28,627,500, including interest of $12,127,500.

However, the plan will change slightly now that Pontiac and Orchard Lake have dropped out as prospective customers.

Altman said Independence Township will proceed with an engineering study for an internal sewer system.

The preliminary planning study would be financed through a federal "702" loan.

Junior High to Open Facilities to Public

When the library is three or four miles away, reading can cease to be an enjoyable habit.

Recognizing this fact, parents and staff members at Kennedy Junior High School have planned an expanded library program for this school year.

Starting tonight, the school library will be open to the public from 7 to 9 p.m. every Wednesday.

The 2-year-old school at 1700 Baldwin is on the northern outskirts of the city, some three and a half miles from the Pontiac Public Library.

Adults as well as children will be urged to make use of the Kennedy library during the evening hours.

FILMS AVAILABLE

School librarian Mrs. Cyril Davis said films will be available in addition to the school's books.

Upon request, Mrs. Davis will show adult experimental films and those being used in the classrooms.

Assisting in the community enrichment program will be members of the Kennedy PTA.

There will always be at least one parent in charge and the school's trained library aides also will be on duty, Mrs. Davis said.

No formal card will be necessary to check out books, she said.

63 Jailed, 15 Hurt During Atlanta Riot

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Armed policemen kept a tight patrol today in an area where about 500 Negroes, many shouting "black power," rioted after an officer shot a Negro man wanted on a car theft charge.

At least 63 persons were arrested and 15 injured in recent disturbances Tuesday and Tuesday night in a predominantly Negro section near Atlanta's new sports stadium.

Police first attempted to quell the racial outbreak—the worst the city has experienced—by firing shotguns and pistols into the air.

When this failed, tear gas canisters were fired into the milling crowds and the streets quickly cleared.

GAS EFFECTS

The injured included several persons suffering from the effects of the tear gas and the wounded man who had fled officers on the car theft charge, Harold Louis Prather. A policeman also suffered a possible jaw fracture in the melee.

Prather was listed in poor condition at a hospital with wounds in the hip and side.

Mayor Ivan Allen Jr., who rushed to the disturbance soon after shooting Negroes appeared, attempted to plead for order from the top of a police car.

Allen was nearly toppled from the car, which Negroes rocked back and forth. He finally was shouted down and jumped down from the car.

The mayor, anxious to preserve the city's image as being progressive and racially untroubled, dashed from place to place most of the night to investigate trouble reports.

Before he was shouted down, Allen talked with Joseph Frye, who said he spoke for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, as the crowd of Negroes gathered.

Land Fighting Slow Except for Terrorism

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—American fighter-bombers again chopped up the two North Vietnamese rail lines between Hanoi and Communist China, the U.S. military command reported today.

In simultaneous blows at the vital supply links, Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs pounded the northwest line 102 miles from Hanoi Tuesday while others bombed the northeast line 55 miles from the capital.

Ground fighting slowed to scattered small actions, but reports of Viet Cong terrorism aimed at disrupting the national elections Sunday came from several sections of the country.

U.S. Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots flew 138 multiple missions against North Viet Nam Tuesday, 20 short of their record.

The pilots bombed and strafed a 15-car train on the northeast line, destroying five boxcars and damaging 10 and cutting the line in three places, the spokesman said.

BRIDGE HIT

On the northwest or Red River route, other Thunderchiefs pilots reported knocking out a bridge and ripping up the rails in three places.

Pilots reported bomb hits on three fuel dumps and said they damaged or destroyed 24 buildings, 16 bridges, 45 cargo barges, 13 junks and three aircraft carriers. Navy fliers from the aircraft carrier Intrepid reported knocking out a surface-to-air missile site eight miles south of the coastal city of Vinh.

The U.S. command in a delayed report announced the loss of a Navy F8 Crusader Monday night. The carrier plane was shot down 50 miles south of Hanoi and the pilot is missing.

It was a 30-day plane announced lost over the north and the second shot down that day.

No significant ground action was reported by American spokesmen today, but South Vietnamese headquarters reported its forces killed 74 Viet Cong in three engagements Tuesday.

$33,047 Spent by Grand Jury

County Investigation Expenses Are Totaled

A total of $33,047 was spent in the year-long Oakland County Grand Jury investigation that ended in June.

The expense report was completed today by Circuit Judge Philip Pratt, the one man grand juror.

About half of the total, an expenditure of $16,662, went to the grand jury's three employees, an investigator and two secretaries.

A total of $6,167 was paid for testimony and transcript service by court reporters and $1,044 was paid in witness fees and for mileage reimbursement.

Witness security expenses amounted to $1,493, telephone expenses were $1,016 and $772 was paid for office supplies.

The only other expenditure over $100 was $305 for housing state police investigators in motel rooms.

Abandon Some Phases of Ring Road—Chamber

BIRMINGHAM—The Birmingham-Bloomfield Chamber of Commerce last night urged the City Commission to abandon phases of its ring road plans which would "irreparably harm the business district and not accomplish the objectives."

Parts of the plan opposed by the group include the use of Hunter as the east leg of the ring road and establishment of a one-way traffic flow without trying a two-way system first.

Some 50 persons filled the commission room last night as Charles W. Wiggins presented recommendations of the chamber's auto traffic and safety commission and a cross section of chamber members.

The chamber of commerce is seeking a "cooperative, broad-based study" of the desirability, feasibility and cost of extending Brownell to Park to Oakland as the east leg of the ring road.

Traffic consultant Stanley Cool is to meet with chamber representatives and evaluate opinions of the business community on a report prepared by his firm.

HUMAN ELEMENT

Wiggins charged last night that the consultants' study had as its main objective the fast movement of traffic and that it did not take into consideration "the human element."

Objections to the use of Hunter as the east leg include the belief that the leg would have minimal use, that it would divide the city east and west, that it would eliminate several entrances into the central business district and that it would complicate the free flow of traffic on several streets crossing Hunter.

Wiggins said the committee also understood that the mixing of east-west and north-south traffic is inconsistent with good traffic-flow planning.

In addition to causing inconvenience which would discourage motorists from entering the central business district, Wiggins said use of Hunter as the east leg would increase traffic in residential areas.

Wiggins and commissioners noted that their discussion of one-way versus two-way traffic flow was "academic" since the ring road is being developed in phases and the north, west and south legs will not be completed for at least 18 months.

The Birmingham Board of Education has voted to ratify a new three-year teacher contract worked out in late August by negotiating teams representing the board and the Birmingham Education Association.

The action makes the contract final since the BEA membership has already ratified it.

The agreement calls for a 13-step salary schedule ranging from $5,000 to $9,500 for holders of bachelor's degrees.

Starting pay for teachers with master's degrees will be $6,375 with a maximum of $11,000 in 12 steps.

A special incentive pay schedule gives teachers with a master's degree and 30 extra credit hours a maximum salary of $14,400.

Peak salary for holders of a Ph.D. has been set at $12,500.

3-YEAR PERIOD

The contract is of three years duration except for salaries and school calendar provisions, which are renegotiable annually.

Other terms include an increase in sick leave days, establishment of a grievance procedure, duty-free lunch periods and provision for binding arbitration of future disputes.

Will Head UF Speaker's Unit

For the third consecutive year, William L. Belaney, promotional director of GMTC Employees Federal Credit Union, has been named chairman of the 1966 Pontiac Area United Fund Campaign Speaker's Bureau.

The UF drive opens Oct. 11.

Belaney, of 83 Chippewa, spend 10 years in radio broadcasting and two years as assistant manager of the Pontiac Chamber of Commerce, before taking his present job in 1959.

He is a director in the Pontiac Kiwanis Club, and president of the Cooperative Editorial Association.

As chairman, he will recruit and train volunteer speakers to present the UF story to employee groups and civic organizations.

Speakers will also help train solicitors at precampaign meetings.

prayer or inspirational thought to the listener.

But the essence of the spiritual life and the growth of religious expression is in personal relationships—not the pulpit tones of a transistorized tape saying, "Let us pray, let us pray, let us pray."

HARDLY A TREAT

The experience of churchmen on television has hardly been a public treat.

The usual programming seems to be either a shouting Oral Roberts, a frowning Billy Graham or a panel discussion on the "Dead Sea Scrolls."

Esquire magazine gave the project a nice glow kink but allowed that people in Ohio would think it hokey. (These critics had not seen the commercials, but oh, well.)

Now that some of the smirks have cleared, the commercials ("Keep in circulation the rumor that God is alive") may turn out to be one of the best uses of television to express the churches' concept of love, brotherhood and the search for life's meaning.

So, during the next launching at Cape Kennedy, save some thought for the churches as they struggle with recruitment, implementation of new techniques and the vastness of space between the pulpit and the pew.

Unfortunately for the church, society has been so conditioned to hearing 19th century hymns on a Hammond organ passed off as contemporary religion, that when something exciting and relevant makes the scene, it is nearly strangled in the studio.

NEW SERIES

When the National Council of Churches presented a new series of six television commercials, running from 30 to 45 seconds and to be used on stations around the country, abusive, scathing criticism began instantly.

Harriet Van Horne, in her newspaper column, sneered that the project was a $41,000 "meringue."

philus Donges became acting agent, was taken by police to a hospital for X-rays.

Donges was considered a strong contender for the premiership. He was a candidate for party leader when Verwoerd was chosen by a caucus in 1958 after the death of Johannes Strijdom.

In the final ballot, Verwoerd received 98 votes to Donges' 75.

Others mentioned as possible successors are Transport Minister Ben Schoeman, a former railroad worker who is leader of the House of Assembly, and Justice Minister Balthazar Vorster.

Vorster, at 51 one of Cabinet's younger members, is likely to get support from extreme rightist elements in the ruling party. He drafted most of the country's harsh suppression of the communists law, under which the government's apartheid policy of racial segregation is being enforced, and is responsible for internal security.

TO HOSPITAL. The assassin, Dimitri Tsafendas, of Greek-Portuguese descent, was taken by police to a hospital for X-rays.

Tsafendas apparently was injured when members of Parliament wrestled him to the floor after he plunged a knife into Verwoerd's heart and neck as the 64-year-old prime minister sat at his desk.

Nevada Leader Wins

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Grant Sawyer of Nevada has won Democratic renomination for a third term after a primary election campaign that focused on gambling operations.

In another primary election yesterday, an Iowa State University history professor breezed to the Democratic nomination for senator and a fellow faculty member held a slim lead in the race for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

In North Dakota, a member of the John Birch Society was defeated by the Republican organization's choice in a battle for a GOP congressional nomination.

Sawyer rolled up 55 per cent of the vote in sweeping past five opponents. He will be bidding for an unprecedented third term in the Nov. 8 general election when he faces Lt. Gov. Paul Laxalt, the only Republican holding major state office in Nevada. Laxalt swamped his one primary opponent yesterday.

Rep. Walter S. Baring, seeking an eighth term as Nevada's lone House member, led Ralph Denon, a Boulder City and Las Vegas attorney, by about 1,500 votes with all but a few precincts counted.

WINS NOMINATION

A Las Vegas engineer, Ralph Kraemer, won the GOP congressional nomination from Steve Kosteale, a demolition contractor.

In Iowa, Prof. E. B. Smith handily won the Democratic nomination to oppose Sen. Jack Miller in the general election. Miller breezed past Herbert F. Hoover, a farmer and distant cousin of the late president who campaigned on a peace platform.

In the race for Iowa's GOP gubernatorial nomination, economics Prof. William C. Murray led Centerville newspaper publisher Robert E. Beck, by 521 votes — 47,082 to 46,561 — in complete, unofficial returns. But Murray did not immediately claim victory and Beck did not concede defeat.

Studies Begin on Supersonic Airliner Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government and airline industry teams of experts have begun separate studies of competing designs for a 1,800-mile-an-hour supersonic transport plane.

Both groups are expected to submit recommendations to the White House which is expected to announce its decision toward the end of the year.

The experts met Tuesday to receive detailed blueprints and specifications on the two competing designs by Boeing and Lockheed for the air frame and the two proposed types of jet engines.

House OKs Crime Study Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has voted to create a special commission to study and recommend improvements in law enforcement which permit individuals accused of crime to escape punishment.

Passed Tuesday on a roll call vote of 259 to 0, the bill was sent to the Senate.

The 12-member commission would be composed of three representatives, three senators, three judges appointed by the chief justice and three named by the President. It would have a three-year tenure and a $500,000 budget.

Grand Juror Seeking Subpoena Opinion

DETROIT (UPI) — New one-man grand juror George E. Bowles, planned today to seek a legal opinion on whether his predecessor can be subpoenaed to tell what he knows about Detroit-area organized crime. Bowles asked three prominent attorneys he earlier hired a special counsel for his grand jury to study the legality of the subpoena and whether he can use the evidence gathered by Edward S. Piggins in the first grand jury.

"It is clear that, if the second grand jury at the beginning has all such information," Bowles said, "it's work will be speeded and its efforts more quickly rewarding."

Bowles also asked his special counsel, composed of Edward P. Frohlich, William M. Ellman and Prof. B. J. George Jr., head of the University of Michigan Law School, if he can use the information obtained on the

U.S. Explains Ship Incident

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says an incident in which U.S. planes fired in self-defense on vessels in the Gulf of Tonkin may have been the basis for a Communist Chinese charge that U.S. planes had attacked Chinese merchant ships.

State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey said Tuesday the Chinese charged their ships were attacked on Aug. 29, the same day U.S. officials in Saigon reported an incident involving North Vietnamese PT boats.

McCloskey said that while making an identification pass over fast-moving vessels in the Gulf of Tonkin the U.S. planes were fired upon, one "They returned the fire and, vessel was sunk," he said.

In Four Districts

Teacher Pacts Okayed

Teachers in four area school districts ratified their master contracts yesterday, assuring the opening of school as scheduled today and tomorrow.

Contracts, which had been in formally agreed on earlier, were ratified in Avondale, Troy, Imley City and Huron Valley school districts.

In Avondale, the Avondale Education Association ratified a master contract subject to the approval of the Michigan Education Association lawyers.

Association spokesmen refused to reveal the vote count on the contract which grants raises ranging from $300 at the start for a bachelor's degree to $1,854 at the maximum for a master's degree.

Under terms of the new contract, teachers with a bachelor's degree will earn $5,400 and advance to a maximum salary of $9,072. Those with a master's degree will earn $6,440 to start advancing to a maximum salary of $10,248.

TROY VOTING
The Troy Education Association ratified a master contract yesterday 196 to 2.

Under the new contract teachers with a bachelor's degree will earn salaries ranging from $5,569 to $9,218. Those with master's degrees will start at $6,159 and advance to $10,038 after 19 years.

Huron Valley Education Association teachers voted 116 to 16 to ratify their master contract yesterday.

The contract gives beginning teachers with a bachelor's degree $5,675 to start and $9,775 after nine steps. Those with a master's degree would earn salaries ranging from $5,958 to $9,647.

Imley City teachers ratified a contract yesterday but the vote count was unavailable.

Delay Hearing on Gravel Pit

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — A hearing scheduled for yesterday on an order to show cause why the township should not be enjoined from preventing opening of the abandoned Ormond Road gravel pit has been postponed indefinitely.

The order was issued last Thursday by Oakland County Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams at the request of Earl G. Kehoe, owner of the 82-acre pit.

Township officials asked for the postponement in order to allow them more time to prepare.

A ruling by Judge Adams in favor of the plaintiff would clear the way for Kehoe to reopen the gravel pit.

The Township Board has been blocking renewal of mining activity in the pit because of objections voiced by residents of the area that it would be a nuisance because of noise, dust and increased traffic in the pit vicinity.

Women's Club Sets Story Hour

CLARKSTON — The Clarkson Women's Club will be presenting the Story Hour for 4- and 5-year-old children again in this year.

It will be held at the Independence Township Library from 10:15 to 11:15 a.m. beginning tomorrow and will continue on second and fourth Thursdays of each month through May 25. A token fee will be charged.

GROUND BREAKERS — E. E. Russell, district manager of Michigan Bell Telephone Co., shows sketch of new telephone facility to officials of the communities it will serve. Taking part in ground-breaking for the new

Work Starts on Building for Bell Firm

WALLED LAKE — Ground was broken by Michigan Bell Telephone Co. yesterday for a new $1.5 million facility to serve the Walled Lake area.

Located on the west side of South Commerce road near Pontiac Trail, the building will be of reinforced concrete and masonry block with a brick veneer exterior.

The main portion of the structure will measure 97 by 62 feet with a service wing measuring 65 by 24 feet.

The building will house new central office switching equipment which will offer faster and more efficient switching of local and long distance calling and Touch-Tone dialing.

Completion of the building, designed by Linn Smith Associates, Inc., of Birmingham, is scheduled for next February, according to Charles B. Woodhead, Michigan Bell manager.

SEVERAL MONTHS Several months will be required for installation of the new switching equipment, Woodhead said.

General contractor for the job is the Dale E. Cook Construction Co., Inc., of Pontiac.

The $1.5 million investment includes the cost of the building, the central office equipment and other associated outside plant equipment, Woodhead said.

Meeting on Sewer Needs Eyed

AVON TOWNSHIP — Township officials will try to set up a meeting with the Rochester Village Council on Sept. 19 to discuss sewer service to Crichton hospital and other areas outside the village limits.

The matter of sewer service to the hospital has been under discussion for some time but, so far, the two groups have been unable to come to terms.

Village officials have proposed a 24-inch main to serve the hospital and a portion of the McGregor farm, which is to be turned into a housing and shopping development. This would permit the township to tie into the main trunk of the village.

The main in question to be resolved is service outside the village, according to Village Manager William Sinclair.

"The hospital is getting nearer and nearer and we have to reach an agreement," he said. Township Supervisor Cyril E. Miller said the township has gone as far as it can.

"They want a sewer for the hospital," he said, "so we're going to have to work something out."

Bus Drivers OK Contract

WALLED LAKE — Members of the Walled Lake Bus Drivers Association last night ratified a one-year contract arrived at Friday by negotiating teams of the Board of Education and the association.

The agreement sets a pay scale ranging from $2.50 per hour to a maximum of $2.70 per hour. Starting pay for drivers last year was $2.00 per hour with a maximum of $2.40 per hour.

Schools Supt. George G. Garvey said the board has not set a date for a ratification meeting.

The drivers had threatened not to return to work without a contract.

Public Hearing Set to Air 3rd Plan for Rochester Cityhood

ROCHESTER — The first real indication of the reaction of village residents to the master of incorporation, due for a vote Sept. 20, is expected to come out of a public hearing slated for 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Municipal Building.

Village Manager William Sinclair says that so far there has been no organized opposition to this third incorporation proposal of the village. Two previous efforts in 1958 and in 1962 were defeated.

Those attempts included the incorporation of land outside the present village limits. It is stressed that this time the existing village boundaries will remain.

On hand Monday night to answer questions put by home owners will be U. of M. Prof. Arthur W. Bromage, a specialist in municipal government and administration.

Active in the university's Institute of Public Administration, the professor has written many books and articles dealing with state, municipal, county and metropolitan government.

STUDY COMMITTEE

The incorporation issue this time grew from a study conducted earlier by a seven-member city study committee. These men and others have been meeting regularly on Wednesday nights as the Rochester City Committee to disseminate information on the benefits to be gained under incorporation.

A postcard survey is now being conducted by the group.

Sinclair says the campaign fund for the election totals $1,000, half of it in $5 and $10 contributions and one anonymous $500 gift. More is sought.

With incorporation, Sinclair says, the village would then pay only one tax bill, supporting only one unit of government. As it now stands, village residents also pay township taxes.

"Probably one of the features brought forward at this time," said Sinclair, "is the possible township entrance into the Clinton-Oakland Sewer agreement and its inability to meet the debt retirement through tap-in fees."

DOUBLE TAXES

"This could necessitate the levying of an ad valorem tax, which would mean that village residents would find that after paying for their own sewer system, they would in turn have to help pay for one outside their own community and one from which they would get no benefit."

"The township never contributed a cent to the village water and sewer system," Sinclair said.

The future of the township-owned Woodward Memorial Library, park, and Mt. Avon Cemetery will have to be negotiated after the vote for incorporation, according to Sinclair.

In the election Sept. 20, Rochester taxpayers will vote "yes" or "no" for incorporation and will also be asked to choose nine of a field of 13 men running for the charter commission.

If incorporation passes, the nine highest vote-getters will have 10 days to convene a commission. They must then draft an acceptable charter within two years.

The public will have a chance to vote on the charter before it is accepted.

Unit to Be Host for Lions Clubs

WALLED LAKE — The Wixom-Walled Lake Lions Club tomorrow night will host a meeting of Lions Clubs in Region 1, District 11-A-2, Zone 3.

The meeting will begin with a dinner at 7 p.m. at Minette's Restaurant on N. Pontiac Trail, Walled Lake.

Allegedly Took Grandchildren

Accused Kidnapers Surrenders

LAPER (AP) — A woman charged with kidnapping two of her grandchildren nearly a year ago surrendered to the Lapeer County sheriff yesterday.

Mrs. Ethel LaFortune, 59, appeared before Justice of the Peace Norman Baguley and demanded preliminary examination, which was set for Sept. 27.

Mrs. LaFortune is charged by her former son-in-law, Douglas Crawford of Florence, Ariz., with kidnapping 4-year-old Shannon Crawford and her sister, Dama, 18.

The girls are daughters of Crawford and Mrs. LaFortune's deceased daughter, Corinne. The Crawford had divorced. The mother had no custody of the children.

Crawford told this story in Circuit Court last October: "When Corinne LaFortune died in July, 1965, Crawford permitted Ethel LaFortune to take the children from their El Paso, Tex., home to Lapeer to the funeral."

She was to have returned the children to Crawford, but, he charged, she kept them.

Crawford sued in Lapeer to gain custody of the children, and Mrs. LaFortune did not appear in court as scheduled Oct. 6, 1965. Crawford was awarded the children, and filed the kidnap charges.

Sheriff Kenneth Parks said Crawford located Mrs. LaFortune and the two girls in Mexico last month and, aided by local police, returned the children to Florence.

"I have a heart condition," Mrs. LaFortune said today. "I did not want to have a heart attack in front of the children, so I explained to them that it would be best if they went with their father. I tried to send them off as happy as I could."

A Circuit Court contempt warrant, issued when Mrs. LaFortune failed to appear at the

Fred M. Thompson

A quiet and gentle man leaves the Pontiac scene, FRED M. THOMPSON, a retired circulation manager of The Pontiac Press, passed from this world on to his reward over the Labor Day weekend. Along with his family, FRED's life was his work. For FRED THOMPSON over thirty years Mr. Thompson directed many of the circulation activities of this newspaper. His manner of work like his life was efficient and soft spoken.

Over the years Mr. Thompson spent a lot of time working with boys in developing a newspaper-boy force of over 1,000 young men. He was interested in seeing that this early training contributed to the boys' growth as better citizens.

FRED will be missed by all of us here and we are certain that his personal contacts enriched many lives.

'Alas, Poor Yorick! I Knew Him--'

David Lawrence Says:

LBJ Makes Political Hay on 14B

WASHINGTON — Whether President Johnson's travels and speeches are "political" or "nonpolitical" can hardly be judged by determining which of his expenses are paid by the federal government or by the Democratic party.

For a president, Johnson's duty is to lead his country. He can never divert himself of his position as leader of his party. Nor can anyone draw a clear line between words that have an implicit meaning for political purposes and those that constitute merely a report by the chief executive to the people.

Johnson's Labor Day speech in Detroit was intended to be political. He didn't exactly ask his listeners to vote for the Democratic candidates for Congress. But he did convey to the labor leaders present his intention to make good on his earlier pledge to help them maintain their monopoly in a factory even though individual employees may not desire to join a union.

The President later mentioned section 14B of the National Labor Relations Act as the provision he would ask Congress to repeal at its session next January.

IN CONSTITUTION He didn't tell the audience in Detroit or those who heard him over the radio or read his speech in the papers that, while no law specifically mentions the right to work, this right is imbedded in the Constitution itself. Every citizen is given "the equal protection of the laws."

The Taft-Hartley Act permits the states to pass laws that prevent interference with the right of any individual or group of individuals to work on any job which is offered by any employer.

In states which have failed to pass such laws, the citizen is at the mercy of a labor union.

He is given 30 days, as a rule, after he takes his job to decide whether he will join the union or be fired.

He may have conscientious scruples against joining a union.

He may object to the use of his dues money for political purposes or to pay

Mr. and Mrs. Earl J. Smith of 4719 Ross Drive; 52nd wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Weltha Wells of Ortonville; 51st birthday.

salaries to union officials actively engaged in partisan politics. But he has to bow to a union dictatorship sanctioned by federal law in those states which still discriminate against "freedom of association."

Congress at its current session refused to pass the bill proposing repeal of section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Sen. Everett Dirksen, the Republican leader, threatened to support an endless filibuster if the measure which had passed the House were pressed for passage in the Senate.

Union labor claims openly that it has control of a majority of members in both houses, and boasts that it helped elect them.

Bob Considine Says:

Tokyo Is City of Hope for Indonesia's Creditors

TOKYO — This capital of Japan will become the City of Hope.

Representatives of nations Indonesia owes money to will gather here in the hope of coming up with ways and means to salvage something out of the economic chaos of the land now ruled either by Suharto or Sukarno, depending on CONSIDINE which newspaper you read.

The creditors are currently owed several hundred millions in interest alone but hopes of collecting it are forlorn. Chief creditor nation, inevitably, is the U.S. But Russia would like very much to get back in cash or goods some of the more than $1 billion Sukarno tapped her for during their mad flirtation.

The Tokyo meeting will prove to be unique in that it will find the Soviet and American delegations in earnest accord.

"Suharto just about has things all to himself but he's afraid to kill Sukarno," a prominent New Yorker fresh back from Jakarta told me today in Tokyo, asking not to be identified.

MORE CHAOS "If Sukarno were to be killed, there would be even more chaos," he said. "His hard core of followers, particularly a great number of them on Bali, would take to the hills and wage a Castrolike war against Sukarno."

"As things stand now, Suharto knows where Sukarno is and where Sukarno's people are, and that's better than having to fight them over the coming years."

Suharto apparently has enough muscle to go forward soon with taking Indonesia back into the U.N., the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund.

The creditor nations will stop wringing their hands long enough to approve of that. It's a road out of bankruptcy.

ONE OF WORST The almost complete blackout on communication during the bloody Indonesian unrest earlier in the year concealed what may have been one of history's worst massacres, according to our New York traveler, who has embassy connections. He said: "The most conservative figure on the number of dead is 300,000, but other estimates run as high as 700,000 dead. The slaughter of known Communists is said to have spread quickly to Communist sympathizers, suspects, and any other bystanders the gun-bearers and knife-wielders happened to dislike."

Misstep

The Quincy (Mass.) Patriot Ledger

When Congress tries to act in a judicial capacity, it flies in the face of the Constitution of the United States, which says, "The judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one Supreme Court, and in such inferior courts as the Congress may from time to time ordain and establish."

The present case, which involves proposed legislation to make it a crime for an American citizen to aid the Viet Cong, brought wide reaction when the American Civil Liberties Union stepped in. The ACLU raised a simple question as to the authority of Congress to subpoena witnesses to a hearing on the proposed legislation.

The witnesses who had been ordered to appear were generally sympathetic to North Viet Nam and thus their appearance before a congressional committee could very well have all of the elements of an inquisition.

Back in the days of the McCarthy hearings, the same sort of thing existed. Concern was expressed then, and ever since then, over the abuse of witnesses in violation of expressed constitutional rights.

We have no sympathy for North Viet Nam sympathizers but we believe the right of dissent should not

Citizens Comment on Teaching Profession

What happened to Government by the people? Did we ever have a democracy? What percentage of each dollar you earn is paid out in taxes? I believe the average is 37c per dollar.

Can government employees strike? Teachers are our employees. Would you agree to raise for lousy teachers? Yes? What qualifies a person to remain a teacher? Tenure? No. A master's or doctorate? No. Attitude? Yes. Actions? Yes. Ability? Yes. Can these factors be written into union contracts?

Naturally teachers desire certain protections from "school inner politics." Teachers are a basic necessity. Pay scales should match their importance. Qualifications likewise. How do you want your education dollars spent? Tell your school board.

BARBARA J. FISHER
UNION LAKE

Where will the insatiable desire to acquire more money, more prestige, more possessions finally lead? As far back as I can remember I've heard the old cliché "teachers are underpaid." So what! So are many other people. A truly dedicated individual works to make a living, certainly, but most importantly, for what he can give to humanity through his profession.

Teachers are entrusted with an absorbing and frightening responsibility. But one that is being shirked by many. Where is that quality of love and concern that characterized the teacher of long ago? How can we expect to have a better world if those to whom we entrust the education of our children care so little about the image they present to impressionable youngsters?

Whether or not teachers, as public servants, have the right to strike is beside the point. They have a moral obligation, as molders of the lives of future generations, that cannot and must not be taken lightly.

War No Fun, but Would Fight for Country

The letter from Charles Clements advising "Old Soldier" to volunteer for front-line combat really made me mad. He thinks all G.I.s are war-buffers. I'm just a plain Joe who was man enough to serve his country.

I didn't enjoy being shot at or seeing my friends killed. But if I had to do it again, I would—just for Mr. Clements or the nuts who buy iron crosses and don't want to be American, but for the oddballs who believe in America and who are law-abiding.

I put my life on the line for my country, Mr. Clements, what did you put up?

Replay of Press Grid Game Start

To those who missed the kickoff last Thursday, we pass the word: The Press Annual Football Contest is off and running. If you don't mind a scrambled sports metaphor, the winner will find himself the sole owner and proprietor of a $500 U.S. Savings Bond award that goes to the plucky prognosticator who outlasts the field.

How do you go about picking a slate of contest winners? Really, we don't know. Your guess is as good as ours. Lady entrants have for many years been the better bond buyers, and you know what a fat chance there is of getting anything meaningful out of a charming champion when she chooses to claim up.

To date, the charming champions have chosen to claim up.

2. Please do not enclose entries in envelopes. Attach them to post cards or cards of similar size and mail to Press or deposit in its Huron Street drop box.

4. The entrant who correctly predicts the consecutive outcome of the most games will be awarded a $500 U.S. Savings Bond. A bonus bond of $50 will be added if the winner's entry is submitted in the manner suggested.

5. Contest deadline is Friday noon, Sept. 23, and entries must be on hand at The Press by that time. Those arriving later, even though postmarked prior, will not be considered.

6. Judges' decisions on all questions relating to contest will be final.

Automated Retailing

Department Store Economist

What will the retail store of the future be like?

One designer, Neal Goldman, feels the department stores will become automated in the future. Mr. Goldman has set up an actual model of his "blue sky" thinking. The room will incorporate what Mr. Goldman has termed "visual-audio catalogue selling."

The consumer of tomorrow will enter the "store" on a moving sidewalk. The sidewalk will take her to the proper console unit for the merchandise she wishes to purchase. In front of her will be a television screen on which items within the proper classification will be shown. The shopper will talk to a salesperson through the intercom at the console.

Once she has decided upon the merchandise she wants, she will insert her charge plate into the specially designed telephone. Through instant recording on a master EDP system, the item will be billed and sent to the department store's back today. Lack of space, insufficient merchandise, replenishment at the point of sale and lack of trained sales personnel. Also, reorderers to vendors whose lines are recognized and inventory would be almost automatic.

Mr. Goldman feels that this type of visual-audio selling will solve the major problems department stores face today. Lack of space, insufficient merchandise, replenishment at the point of sale and lack of trained sales personnel. Also, reorderers to vendors whose lines are recognized and inventory would be almost automatic.

To Mr. Goldman's knowledge, there are no stores testing the entire concept at this time. However, he believes that it is quite possible that some stores are experimenting with facets of the concept.

New Guide Out

Bluffers Get the Word

LONDON (AP) — A British publisher is bringing out a series of paperback called "The Bluffer's Guides," designed to help readers become successful conversational phony on a variety of subjects.

Publisher Peter Wolfe says: "I commissioned these on the assumption that most people do not want to learn a subject; that they just want others to think they have and that they know all about the subject."

The first two volumes, which will retail at the equivalent of 50 cents each, give detailed suggestions on how to bluff through literary and musical conversations.

Written by Martin Seymour-Smith, "Bluff Your Way Through Literature" says of critics:

"It must be understood that they are much more important than writers or poets. You must always be on the side of critics. The creative work, praiseworthy as it sometimes is, exists for the purpose of the critics."

FROWNED UPON
"He (the critic) is there to help the creative writer to find balance (preferably by stopping him writing), and any kind of sarcasm or irony about critics will be frowned upon by highbrows."

On the important subject of opinions, the guide advises: "Have plenty of these, but be sure they are not consistent. There is no need to relate them in facts, provided you are not extravagant. Be as abstract as you can."

"Useful terms for reinforcing opinions:
"Exciting, existential, new, way-out, fabulous, pragmatic, sick, obscene, evil, deliberately bad (and therefore great), formless, vile, dull (and therefore profound)."

"DON'T BE PRECISE"
"Don't attempt to be precise in advancing your opinion or ideas. This is boring."

In "Bluff Your Way in Music," author Peter Gammond says:
"The way to get on in life, as all good bluffers know, is to have a minimum of knowledge and make it go a long way by the use of long words and profound pauses."

2.39 Million State Pupils

LANSING (AP) — More than one-fourth of Michigan's population is returning to school this week—a record 2.39 million Michigan children, the State Department of Education reported today.

More than 4,000 new classrooms will be available to help take care of the increase of about 50,000 students over last year, said State School Superintendent Ira Polley.

An estimated 2,012,000 children will attend public elementary and secondary schools. Nonpublic school enrollment is expected to reach 375,000, Polley said.

Judge Quits Death Case

Deputy Was Killed
in High-Speed Chase

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Municipal Judge Francis L. O'Brien disqualified himself Tuesday from the examination of a man charged with manslaughter in death of Washtenaw County Sheriff's Deputy Leo Borders.

O'Brien said he disqualified himself because the defendant, Steven J. Lirette, 21, of Ann Arbor, had appeared before his court a number of times. O'Brien said he would name a judge next week to hold the examination Sept. 27.

O'Brien denied a motion by Lirette's attorneys to change the location of the examination. The attorneys said publicly about the case made it impossible to get a fair preliminary hearing.

But the prosecution said it was impossible for O'Brien's court to change venue in the case because "this power is reserved for courts of record."

KILLED IN CHASE

Borders, 26, was killed during a high-speed chase when his patrol car struck a tree and burst into flames. A deputy riding with him, Stanley McFadden, 28, escaped from the wrecked vehicle and is expected to be the main prosecution witness.

After the deputy's death, Secretary of State James Hare said Lirette did not have a valid driver's license and that he had accumulated 38 points, representing violations on his driving record.

3 States Lead in Shares of Defense Pie

WASHINGTON (AP) — California, New York and Texas — in that order — got the biggest slices of defense prime contract spending in fiscal 1966, Pentagon figures showed today.

California, heavy in aerospace and electronics industries, received $5.8 billion in prime contract awards — 18.3 per cent of the $31.7 billion spent for military goods or services in the fiscal year that ended last June 30.

New York's share in defense spending totaled $2.8 billion and Texas followed with $2.29 billion.

The Texas total was up $850 million over the previous year, due mainly to contract awards for helicopters ticketed for Viet Nam. California's total climbed an estimated $650 million and New York contracts rose by $570 million.

ALL SHARED

All 50 states and the District of Columbia got a chunk of the money put out by the Defense Department — biggest spender of federal funds — but aside from the top three only seven other states received over $1 billion in contracts.

These were Connecticut with $2.65 billion, Pennsylvania with $1.67 billion, Ohio $1.59 billion, Massachusetts $1.33 billion, Missouri $1.11 billion, New Jersey $1.09 billion and Indiana $1.07 billion.

At the lower end of the dollar range were Wyoming with $11.1 million, Montana with $13.8 million and Idaho with $20 million.

Mayor Fills In for Police Force in Kentucky

HODGENVILLE, Ky. (AP) — That wasn't a policeman on traffic duty at a downtown intersection. It was Mayor C. P. Thurman, who stepped in after what he termed a policy dispute left this south central Kentucky town of 2,000 without police.

Two officers quit the third was out duty yesterday. Hodgenville later called for help from the sheriff's office and state police.

Nelson's Head Back in Dublin

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Lord Nelson's 220-pound granite head — smuggled out of Ireland after the Nelson monument in the heart of Dublin was blown up by Irish extremists last March — is back in Dublin.

London antique dealer Benny Gray delivered the head to a Dublin official at a ceremony yesterday at the spot where the 134-foot monument once stood.

Said Gray: "After all the moaning there was when it originally went, no one seemed to want it when we brought it back."

Dix, N.J., for noon recess yesterday, the first day of his court-martial trial on charges of wilfully disobeying a superior officer's order by refusing to enter a military vehicle last month which was to take him to nearby McGuire Air Force Base for movement to Viet Nam. Mora's civilian lawyer immediately raised the question of whether a U.S. soldier can be ordered legally to fight in Viet Nam because war has not been declared by Congress.

New Ideas Used to Train Retarded

The traditional concept of a school can be thrown out the window in considering the training of mentally retarded young people.

Social studies, history and physics have no relevance in the world of the 16-year-old youth with a mental age of four.

He must be taught skills never mentioned in the textbooks used by other students.

"For one thing, you teach him to shave," said Harold Abrams, who is in charge of Oakland County's program for trainable retarded youth beyond the age of 14.

Pontiac Press Photo

HELPING HANDS — Teacher James Burchwell and Teresa Samson, a teacher's aide, demonstrate one of the devices to be used in a new Oakland Schools' class for trainable mentally retarded persons over the age of 14. Scissors with double rings allow the teacher to assist the student in learning how to cut, one of the simple acts that will be part of the curriculum.

developmental level he is on and attempt to take him by small steps to the next level."

If the student can understand the meaning of clean versus dirty when he enters the program, he can be taught to recognize when he is dirty and that he should wash, Abrams explained.

Then he can be taught in separate phases to wash his hands, to dry his hands and to wash his face.

Those who do not have the mental capacity for reading will be spared the frustration of trying to learn. Those who do have up to a seven-year mental age will be taught to read to the extent of their ability.

The first class for older trainable students will open Monday in Hazel Park's Lacey School. Three other classes will begin before the end of September.

40 SELECTED

Selected for the new program were 60 young people who had participated in classes for those under 14 years of age.

Cost of transportation of the children from a point within their own school districts to Hazel Park will be met by the Oakland Schools Board of Education.

Abrams last week supervised a course for 40 teachers and teachers' aide who will operate the 20 classes for trainable children.

Last year, 10 classes for children up to age 14 were in operation.

Groups, Individuals Invited to Join CAI Rummage Sale

Churches, clubs and individuals have been invited to set up tables for the first communitywide rummage sale sponsored by Community Activities, Inc.

The sale will be held from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Friday at the CAI building, 5640 Williams Lake, Waterford Township.

Residents have been asked to participate in the sale by donating items such as clothing, household goods, furniture, tools, sporting goods, toys, electrical equipment and canning supplies.

Pickup of items can be arranged through CAI.

Proceeds will go to the individual groups who set up tables and CAI for its current building improvement project.

Dr. John Naz, president of the CAI board of directors, expects about 24 organizations to participate in the event.

This ad is a complete waste.

We could wave $10 bills and jump up and down and shout about how you can save money at our September topcoat sale. But it won't mean a thing if you have to see frost or snow before you start thinking about a winter coat.

On the other hand, a lot of men do think about winter coats while it's still warm, and they come to our topcoat sale. They know about the famous labels we have, they know they can take the coat now and charge it (paying for it over a period of months). Or, if they don't have a charge, they can open one in three minutes (or use our lay-away plan). And, of course, they know they'll save 20 per cent. On a $135 cashmere coat that's $27 and on a $80 coat that's $16, for example. So the slightest suggestion of a topcoat sale at Osmun's is all that's needed for these men.

But if you're not one of them, all we can do is try to make the point that in a couple of months you'll pay an average of $20 more for these coats.

Unless, of course, you think that would be a waste.

'Human Resources Center' Plan Studied

A plan to create a "human resources center" in the south-east quadrant of the city was submitted last night for the approval of the City Commission.

Supt. of Schools Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, in a letter, asked the commission to approve the plan in principle and cooperate in the preliminary study of the idea.

The commission, previously advised of the proposed center by a meeting with the Pontiac Board of Education, received Whitmer's letter and referred the entire matter for study.

Essentially, the school board would replace the deteriorating McConnell Community School with an educational park to serve a variety of needs of the area.

In other business last night, the commission approved a staff recommendation to contract with Community National Bank of Pontiac to use their computer facilities to prepare city payrolls.

City Manager Joseph A. Warren estimated the annual cost at about $2,900. A two-year contract was approved.

Also last night, the commission received notice that the city's petition for airline service to Cleveland and Chicago had been cancelled because it was over three years old.

The petition was cancelled by the Civil Aeronautics Board. The city can file a new petition when necessary, according to a staff report to the commission.

The commission set Sept. 19 as the date to receive bids for an estimated $18,000 worth of sidewalk repairs on the west side of Pontiac.

In still other business, final action was taken on a city ordinance prohibiting harassing or molesting telephone calls. A penalty of $100 and-or 90 days in jail was set in the ordinance.

assessments for a sanitary sewer on Highway, Princeton to Walton.

A hearing was also held on special assessments for a sidewalk on Gladstone Place.

Also last night, a petition for 2½ acres at 1300 Fuller was referred to the City Planning Commission.

buildings are to be auto service facilities for stores located in the main complex.

Taubman previously has indicated that the actual size and number of stores will vary. He has estimated there will be about 80 stores.

Housewives vs. Grocers

Phoenix Showdown:

Wider War Predicted

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Local housewives, hoping to make their campaign against rising food prices a nationwide battle, meet face-to-face tonight with their opponents — the grocers.

Mrs. Betty Weleba, Phoenix, publicist for Housewives Organized for Better Living, said representatives of several Phoenix markets had promised to meet with the women.

So far, the group's only action against the grocers has been a boycott of bread. More than 500 women who turned out for a rally last week made the decision to bake their own bread.

Although many women had never made bread before, the tactic apparently is making headway, Mrs. Weleba said. She noted the group had won the meeting with the grocers and said there was an apparent shortage of yeast in the markets.

"My husband went to three stores to find yeast," Mrs. Weleba said. "We are more enthused than ever before. Things are going along even better than expected."

3,000 MEMBERS

Mrs. Weleba, who said the group has 3,000 members here, said the movement could spread nationwide.

Because of an estimated 500 letters received from out-of-state, the organization is drafting an outline on how to set up similar organizations. The outline was to be sent out within a week, she said.

She said the campaign started Aug. 18 when Mrs. Earl Friedman and her sister, Mrs. George Donaldson, ran a newspaper ad saying: "Housewives organize now to fight rise in food prices." They asked for indications of interest.

Crash Victim Survives Wait

A Pontiac man who lay injured near the wreckage of his automobile for over six hours Monday night before being found is reported in satisfactory condition today.

Jerry J. Atwell, 21, of 804 Emerson was admitted to Pontiac General Hospital after 27-year-old Ralph J. O'Quinn discovered him lying at the bottom of an embankment about 1 a.m.

A hospital spokesman said Atwell suffered back and leg injuries and probably had been knocked unconscious when his car went off Mount Clemens near the Grand Trunk Western Railroad viaduct.

Pontiac police theorized Atwell's car had been traveling about 50 miles an hour and had skidded out of control on a curve in the road.

Police said Atwell told them the accident occurred about 7 p.m.

Taylor emphasized last night that the city would work in cooperation with the federal government in developing the Taubman project.

One of the first steps the city must take after Taubman comes up with the designated tenants is to submit two urban renewal plan changes to federal authorities.

James L. Bates, planning and urban renewal director, estimated it would take three to six months for approval of the plan changes.

He said the city would first need its workable program for community improvement reauthorized. It expired April 1.

Meanwhile, a study of the entire city by the architecture department of the University of Detroit is to be shown to city officials and civic leaders at 74 N. Saginaw next Monday night.

Spokesmen for the university last night urged the City Commission to keep an open mind and to look at the year-long study.

Stating that the city has the greatest of opportunities with its downtown redevelopment, Dr. John R. Yivisker, a U. of D. supporter, said Pontiac could be an example for the state and the nation.

Yivisker said the study could save the city "millions of dollars" if all or a portion of it were utilized.

"The commission should proceed with the greatest amount of information possible," said Yivisker. "The study cannot be ignored," he added.

City Commissioner Leslie H. Hudson pointed out that the commission had planned to review the university study next Monday.

Hudson claimed the commission was "not ignoring it." In fact, Hudson said the city could still consider any concrete proposal for downtown redevelopment.

Taylor said it has been suggested that both development plans might work together, but that the commission has had difficulty in previewing the U. of D. motion.

IRWIN MOTION

"We've made a study that we think can be of benefit to you," concluded Bruno Leon, dean of the U. of D. School of Architecture.

Irwin, who first spoke out last week on potential problems raised by the Taubman plan, last night offered a motion to table the matter for 30 days. It lost for lack of support.

The District 2 commissioner cited financial aspects of the plan and traffic problems expected with the closing of crossover as items being ignored.

U.P. Driver Killed

MENOMINEE (AP) — A 29-year-old Upper Peninsula man was killed early Tuesday when he lost control of his car and smashed into the bedroom of a house on a Menominee County road, 35 miles north of here.

The car of Kenneth Baldwin of Nadeau struck several trees before crashing into the house owned by Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Poupore, who were knocked out of bed by the impact.

Birth Controls Reflect Her Work

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Margaret Sanger felt many women were degraded by men. The way in which many had child after child appalled the tiny nurse from Corning, N.Y.

In a lower east side New York tenement 50 years ago she rushed to a new mother's bedside in time to see her die.

Saying "something must be done," she made birth control her life's work until her death Tuesday at 82.

After studying in London for a year with Havelock Ellis, an early advocate of planned parenthood, Mrs. Sanger returned to found a birth control clinic in Brooklyn, N.Y., in 1916.

JAILED
She was promptly jailed but her 30-day sentence was reversed by an appeals court which ruled that physicians legally could give contraceptive information in cases where it was necessary for health reasons.

For the next half century, in the face of ridicule and frustration, red-haired Margaret Sanger fought a lonely battle for official recognition of birth control methods throughout the world.

The term, birth control, was hers.

Her death in a Tucson nursing home came at a time when leaders of over-populated areas of the world have spoken in gratitude for Mrs. Sanger's work. Even the Roman Catholic Church appeared to be relaxing its stand against the use of contraceptives.

The Japanese government last year presented Mrs. Sanger with the Third Class Order of the Precious Crown. Leaders of India extolled her.

But the United States was not an easy proving grounds for what she wanted to do.

When she sent birth control information through the mails in 1914, the federal government indicted her on a charge of using the mails to circulate obscene literature.

The government dropped the charges after petitions in her behalf were sent to President Woodrow Wilson.

Mrs. Sanger organized the first American birth control conference in New York City in 1921. A year later she went on a world tour to explain her planned parenthood movement.

She organized the World Population Conference at Geneva, Switzerland, pleading for public acceptance of ways to help women limit the size of their families.

On eight occasions Margaret Sanger was arrested. She sounded her alarm alone, without the help of demonstrations, politicians or even laws.

Her marriage to William Sanger, an architect, ended in divorce. Her second husband, manufacturer J. Noah Stee, died in Tucson in 1943. One of her children, Peggy, died in 1918.

Two physicians sons, Dr. Grant Sanger of New York and Dr. Stuart Sanger of Tucson, and eight grandchildren survive.

Funeral service will be held in Tucson Thursday followed by burial at Fishkill, N.Y. A memorial service is scheduled Sept. 21 in New York City.

Shortly before her death, of advanced arterial sclerosis after several years' illness, Mrs. Sanger still expressed disappointment in what little the U.S. government had done to help women limit large, unwanted families.

Hide Curlers From Public With a Scarf

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Dear Mrs. Post: Please let's get this problem of the modern woman in her pin curls settled. Someone is always moaning about women who appear in public with their hair rolled up and I am tired of reading letters in the papers from mailmen and gas men and water men and delivery men who complain about women's hair in curlers at home.

We certainly don't like anyone to see us this way but what is the answer? What do working wives do? Not everyone can afford the beauty parlor once a week. —Janice Barngrover.

Dear Mrs. Barngrover: Delivery men have no business criticizing women for putting their hair up in their own homes. That's where it ought to be done.

But a woman who must appear outside her home, even a very busy one, can take the time to cover up the curlers with a scarf or a crazy hat. I realize that a working wife has no alternative but to set her hair in the evening. Certainly her husband would prefer to see her hair in curlers at home to having her appear with him in public in that condition.

After You Grow Up and Wed Recall Things That Happened

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Last night I went to sleep with the pillow over my ears to drown out the noise of my parents' quarreling. I am the oldest of six and I feel sort of responsible for the younger ones. My folks have been fighting ever since I can remember.

They fight about little things, like who put gas in the car last, and also over big things like money, and my father's not spending enough time with my little brothers.

Abby, this is giving me a nervous stomach because they fight a lot at the supper table. What can a 14-year-old girl do?

SICK OF FIGHTING
DEAR SICK: The only thing you can do, honey, is to remember it. And make sure you don't give your children the same kind of unpleasant memories.

DEAR ABBY: Your answer to "insulted" wasn't fair. It was in response to guests who complained because the guest room they were offered was poorly furnished. "They obviously do not want guests," you stated.

After all, some families can't obtain everything at once. We have a $500 bed (I am six feet, seven inches tall and weigh 250 pounds), but we have a $17 roll-away bed in our "guest room," which also doubles as a study with books stacked in every corner. We enjoy having guests, but have not had the funds to furnish our guest room as we would like.

Someday we will have better accommodations. But in the meantime, I hope our visits together will make up for their having to sleep on a roll-away bed in a crowded room.

ONE OF YOUR EDITORS
DEAR EDITOR: Sorry about that, boss, but the guest wrote, "They have a beautiful, push-button home with every modern convenience imaginable. There is nothing too good for them or their children." From that, I inferred it was not so much a shortage of cash, but consideration. I could have been wrong.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "A FAN"

A bust of the first president of the Cranbrook Academy of Art, Eliel Saarinen, is an appropriate item to hold the interest of these women. Mrs. J. Robert F. All live in Bloomfield Hills.

Cranbrook Gala to Honor Paulsens

By SIGNE KARLSTROM
Glen Paulsen, the new president of the Cranbrook Academy of Art, and Mrs. Paulsen will be honored guests at a welcoming reception given by the Board of Trustees and the Women's Committee for the Cranbrook Academy of Art, on September 18 at 5 p.m. in the Cranbrook Galleries.

At the same time, guests at the reception will preview an exhibition representative of Mr. Paulsen's recent work, entitled, "Architecture in Evolution." The exhibit will consist of drawings, sketches, photographs and scale models.

Mr. Paulsen, winner of numerous architectural awards, at one time was associated with the late Eliel and Eero Saarinen.

FAMILY AFFAIR
The senior Mr. Saarinen was the first president of the Cranbrook Academy of Art and members of his entire family have had much to do with the development of the various Cranbrook institutions.

Appropriately, Mrs. George Russell, chairman of the women's committee, asked Mrs. J. Robert F. Swanson to plan the reception.

Mrs. Swanson, herself widely recognized in the field of art and interior design is professionally known as Pipson Saarinen Swanson. She has asked Mrs. John W. Blanchard to be her cochairman.

Serving on the committee are Mesdames: Thomas B. Adams, Edwin J. Anderson, Louis J. Colombo Jr., William Downey, Robert H. Flint, Graham John Graham, Roger M. Kyes, David W. Lee, John L. Lovett, Rogers L. Marquis and Phoebe Otter Mathews.

Others are Mesdames: John W. Sanders, Robert S. Swanson, Robert H. Taylor, Robert N. Woodruff, and James H. Youngblood.

AAUW Branch to Hold Tea
Waterford branch, American Association of University Women, holds an annual tea for new women teachers and the wives of new men teachers in Waterford and Clarkston schools.

This year, the event will take place next Wednesday at Pierce Junior High School from 4 to 5:30 p.m.

Mrs. Park Watson is general chairman.

Working with her are Mrs. Donald Place, Mrs. George Ross, Mrs. Crea Clark, Mrs. Thomas Hunter, Mrs. Gerald Irish, Mrs. Palmer Burns, Mrs. William Svenken and Mrs. Morton Jacobs.

The first regular meeting of the group will be in October.

Chapter's Officers Start New Season

New officers of Iota Nu chapter, Beta Sigma Phi sorority, were presented at Tuesday's meeting in the home of Mrs. James Schimp of Baybrook Drive.

Assuming this season's duties are Mrs. James Talley, president; Mrs. John Lyon, vice president; Mrs. Schimp, treasurer; and Mrs. Andres Kilvian and Mrs. Larry Girard, secretaries.

The group is planning a home demonstration of household helps on Sept. 20 with Mrs. Richard Sweet as hostess.

Kappa Deltas Begin Season Next Week

The afternoon and evening groups of Kappa Delta Alumnae Association will hold meetings on Sept. 12.

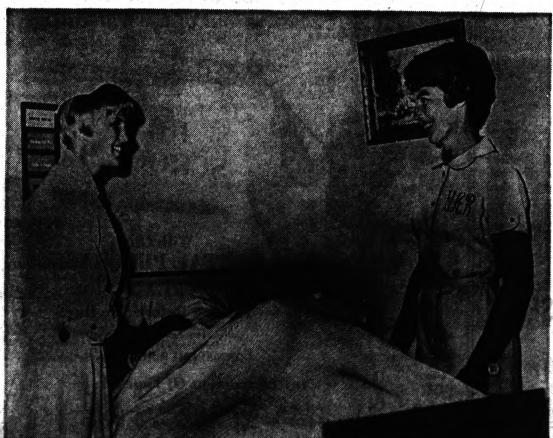

The Birmingham home of Mrs. Clarence W. Blumman will be opened to the afternoon unit for a 12:30 p.m. luncheon. Co-hostesses will be Mrs. Donald Rader, Mrs. Arthur R. Karstaedt and Mrs. Ray Kassabian.

The hostess will narrate slides on her visit to the Scandinavian countries.

EVENING GROUP

An annual "Friendship Night" will be celebrated by this unit at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Paul Penecost, also of Birmingham. Assisting the hostess will be Mrs. George F. Heine Jr. and Mrs. Wesley K. Smith.

Those wishing to attend either session may contact Mrs. R. Brooks-Brown and Mrs. Neil H. Leavens.

GRANDMOTHER

Grandmother of seven, Mrs. Martha Dietrich of Rowley Street has worked as a licensed practical nurse for 20 years. She now works part time at Lourdes Nursing Home at Scott Lake. She has two married daughters.

A licensed psychiatric aide at Pontiac State Hospital, Mrs. Julia Haley of Osceola Drive has three children. Their ages are 15, 13 and 11 years old.

She attended Michigan Christian College when it first opened.

Waterford High School graduate, Bonnie Mako of LaSalle Street had been a Candy Stripper at Pontiac General Hospital for two years during high school. Her ambition has always been to be a nurse.

The choice of the four was made partly on their high academic standing. They must now complete five semesters of study to qualify for their Associate in Arts degree, at which time they will receive their nursing diplomas.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

If you have one hip that is noticeably higher than the other, you must change your pattern before cutting your garment. I would also suggest you avoid any large plaids or stripes in the fabric, they would only call attention to this figure defect. The high hip is usually more rounded also and must be changed on the side seam as well. Build up the curve at the waistline, beginning at the center front and curving about 1 inch high by the time you reach the side seam. This should be done in the skirt front and back.

Also, add a little extra to the high hip a little more straight. It will be necessary to side seam, instead of the usual curve, keep the side seam for ease this area onto the waistband so that it will form the necessary curve and shaping for your figure.

This and many other pattern changes are carefully explained and sketched in my newest leaflet "Your Patterns and You." You may obtain your copy by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents to Eunice Farmer in care of The Pontiac Press. (If you live outside the U.S., please enclose 5 cents extra in coin for the return postage.)

From the letters you have sent me explaining the difficulty in fitting one section into another, especially where there is ease marked on the instructions. I must remind you once again, how important it is to watch and respect each and every single notch and mark on your pattern. Always mark the shoulder mark for sleeves, the shoulder mark on both the collar and collar facing and many other spots you might think unimportant. A pattern is similar to a puzzle. Each part is designed to fit correctly if you follow the instructions.

Often you have written me that when something doesn't seem to come out right, you have figured the pattern company made a mistake and proceed to cut off whatever doesn't seem to fit. This is sheer disaster. Instead of this, back up and see what you can do to make it work out. The beginners must understand each and every mark. The more advanced student often becomes careless because of the little knowledge you have. Pattern companies are just like banks—they very seldom make a mistake!

Dear Eunice Farmer:

My daughter will be going away to school next month. Because of one very high hip, she simply can't get ready-made clothes to fit. I've never been able to make anything for her unless she was there to try it on a dozen times. How can I make her clothes when she will be so far from home?

MRS. J. S.

Dear Mrs. J. S.:

I would run, not walk to the very nearest department store or fabric shop and get her one of the wonderful new dressmaker forms I have been praising for the last six months. It is made of polyurethane foam plastic and is soft, pliable and indestructible. The poplin cover is fitter on your daughter, then when the cover is ripped on to the foam plastic form, the exact contours as well as measurements will appear. The stand can be marked for height, and you will be able to take the length of dresses accurately also. Should she gain or lose a little weight, the seams can easily be altered.

If two of you in the same family are approximately the same basic size, you can also get separate covers to zip on the form. Believe me, you'll wonder how you ever got along without this wonderful sewing aid. You'll save making mistakes in choice of pattern as well as in the fitting because you can pin the pattern on your form before you cut the fabric out.

Feel so very strongly about this dress form (I have never recommended any other kind, they simply don't work) that I think every woman who takes her sewing seriously or would like to, should have one. It's a must!

This Girl's Business Gets Family Notice

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

As our taxes have mounted, let me anticipate the letters which will protest another column — the one in which I approved the child who could say to a parent, "Mind your own business, Mother." By responding to the letters now, I may save their writers stamp money.

Have I encouraged youthful insolence, disrespect, etc. by that approval?

Listen, I want to straighten myself with you once and for all. I am not devoted to children. They get so much devotion from the child guidance profession that they don't need mine. The people I'm devoted to is us — us parents.

It is this devotion to you which urges you to beam with delight when your child tells you to mind your own business. It is a most relieving permission.

Nor is this a theoretical statement. The first time I was told to mind my own business I felt so relieved that I just couldn't believe I'd been given permission to mind it after 16 arduous years of minding my child's business. I cried:

"Honestly, do you mean it? Do you really mean I don't have to spend the whole evening wondering if you have the sense to come home from this party at a decent hour — and that you will assume this responsibility for yourself?"

"Oh, how dear of you to finally allow me mind some business of my own!"

Of course, if I'd ever told my parents to mind their own business, the seas would have boiled and the stars fallen. But then my parents refused to know how tired they got of minding their children's business.

I did know how tired I got of minding my child's business.

No, I was not encouraging disrespect in children. I was encouraging us to know that we too are human beings with lives to live.

For human parenthood is a long, long haul. Of all living

Berry Year

Cranberry color isn't the only fashion impact made by America's first fruit. This year, there are neat, classically-styled shirtwaist dresses, featuring cranberry prints. Berries, both real and stylized; cranberry scoop; and cranberry signs add a lively new look to an all-American favorite.

creatures it is our young who take the longest time to develop self-sustained competence.

As a consequence, we have to spend great portions of our lives suggesting that it is time to get at homework, checking on unwashed areas behind ears, struggling for truths instead of lies, making clean clothes available and generally minding that business of children still unable to mind it for themselves. We can get tired of it.

So get mad if you like when your child says, "Mind your own business, Mother." I didn't. Thank God I didn't. In this command I heard the promise of freedom.

I saw the wings of my fledgling stretching, spreading in strength of her.

Exchange Vows in Ceremonies

Announcement is made of the recent marriage of Mrs. Linda Watershrodt Janus to Robert W. Smith of Ypsilanti, formerly of Pontiac, in St. John Lutheran Church, Dundee.

Her parents the Herbert Watershrods of Dundee, were hosts at a home reception following the ceremony.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Dorothy Smith of Murphy Street.

Cooling Idea

Lightweight summer lingerie can make you feel hotter than necessary if it isn't clean. Fabrics can absorb just so much perspiration before becoming saturated.

So for comfort and cleanliness, a wear-once wash-once policy is more important than ever in the summertime.

Each Relaxes in Own Way

Gls Get Some Brief Breaks in Viet War

PHUOC LE, South Viet Nam (AP) — They have a sort of coffee break in the Vietnamese war, except there is seldom time for coffee.

The breaks came infrequently recently for U.S. paratroopers searching for the enemy in the steamy jungles of Phuoc Tuy Province east of Saigon.

When the company commander passed the word down to the platoons for a five-minute break, Pfc. Larry Thompson of Los Angeles sat down and drank thirstily from his water bottle. Soldiers have little time to boil coffee.

Phantom Cat Spotted Again Near the Soo

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP) — The Soo area's phantom feline is on the prowl again.

Ben VanSlooten of Rudyard reported Tuesday he saw a large reddish tan cat about 10 miles from here. He said it looked like a mountain lion or cougar.

About 50 similar reports have been received by area police agencies, the first dating to the 1850s. No one has ever taken a clean-haven face. He had the picture of the animal, and the shaved every morning for 12 days as the soldiers carved their way through Phuoc Tuy.

Few of the men talked. Sgt. Homer O. Poorman of Buckeye Lake, Ohio, a drop of sweat on his nose, looked into the distance. Was he thinking of his wife and kids back home, the dangers that lay ahead for his squad, the men who had been killed in the past weeks?

Pfc. Eugene Cabbagastalk of Pittsburgh, Pa., his hand brushing his brow, smiled across at a buddy prostrate on the ground. Weary, on the verge of heat prostration, legs and arms cut with twigs and brambles, his buddy had kept plugging on, forcing himself to keep going on the endless patrol.

The company commander whispered the order to get moving again. There would be more breaks later on, but between this one and the next there might be the enemy and war.

A new smoking pipe uses graphite liners for the bowl. The liner produces a cool, dry smoke with no gooey residue, while reducing tar and nicotine, it is claimed.

Elderly Appendicitis Victims Face More Risk Than Young

By Science Service

CHICAGO — Appendicitis can be dangerous to older people. "Urgent surgical exploration" in elderly patients suspected of having an attack is recommended by two Boston physicians.

A diseased appendix tends to perforate more easily in persons over 60 than in younger men and women.

This can result in serious complications and even death from infection, as evidenced by high elderly death rates for appendicitis, which is otherwise a routine ailment.

Drs. Arnold G. Coran and H. Brownell Wheeler of Peter Bent Brigham Hospital and the Veterans Administration Hospital, West Roxbury, Mass., studied 28 consecutive cases of acute appendicitis in patients between 60 and 91 years old.

THE FIRST SIGN

They found that the appendix had perforated in 17 of 21 persons operated on 24 hours or more after the first sign of illness.

Only one of six others suffered a ruptured appendix when surgery was performed more immediately after symptoms appeared.

A reduction in the death rate from 28 per cent at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital 30 years ago to only seven per cent today was reported by the physicians in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Antibiotics and improved patient care are probably responsible for the greater success in treating appendicitis victims.

More than 2.3 million youths graduated from public high schools last year, an increase of 45.2 per cent in five years.

DR. WILLIAM MENNINGER

Work in Psychiatry
Known Around World

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Dr. William C. Menninger, world famous psychiatrist and president of the Menninger Foundation in Topeka, believed that there was much to do for the mentally ill and too little time to do it.

Dr. Will, as he was known in the profession, died Tuesday night. He was 66.

Dr. Will once cautioned young psychiatrists not to become so enamored of diagnosis that they forgot their patients are people. "One does not have to know the cause of a fire to put it out," he said.

NON PROFIT CENTER

The foundation, a nonprofit center which operates one of the world's largest schools of psychiatry, is a family affair. It was started as a clinic in 1919 by Dr. C. F. Menninger and another son, Dr. Karl Menninger. Dr. Will joined the staff in 1925 after graduation from Cornell University Medical College in New York and an 18-month internship in New York's Bellevue Hospital.

Dr. Karl Menninger is chief of staff of the foundation, and also is known the world over for his work in psychiatry.

The father, who died in 1953, once related how he inspired a career in medicine in his sons. He had returned from a visit to the Mayo Clinic in 1909 and told his family how the Mayo doctors worked like a team.

Karl was 14 at the time, Will was 8 and another son, Edwin, was 11. The elder Menninger wanted his boys to become doctors and to work together. Karl and Will became doctors. Edwin became a journalist and authority on flowering trees.

PLACE A STAMP

Together, Will and Karl placed their stamp upon the history of psychiatry.

Dr. Will held an intense interest in psychiatry in industry, in alcoholism he called "a billion-dollar hangover for industry," and in telling the story of Kansas' nationally known health program to legislatures of other states.

Sailor Hero Sets Cruise With Family

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Robert Marry, the Cleveland sailor who crossed the Atlantic alone last year in a 13½-foot sailboat, plans a longer trip next summer around the eastern half of the United States. This time he'll take the family.

Marry sailed 3,400 miles from Falmouth, Mass., to Falmouth, England, last summer in 78 days aboard the Tinkerbell, which is now parked in his garage.

Next summer, Marry hopes to sail Tinkerbell. It about 5,000 miles, going west on the Great Lakes, down the Mississippi, the Gulf of Mexico, Atlantic, Hudson River and back into the Great Lakes, with his wife and two children.

Marry estimated the trip will take about one year in the 27-foot boat.

The children will keep up with school work by correspondence courses and tutoring from Marry and his wife.

Peking Red Guards Want Comrades Out of City

VIENNA (AP) — Communist Czechoslovakia's official news agency reported today that the Red Chinese government has ordered hundreds of thousands of young Red Guards from the provinces to leave Peking by Saturday.

The report from Peking by CTK, the Czechoslovak agency, was supported by a Peking dispatch to the Soviet news agency Tass which said the Red Guard in one Peking girls' high school had demanded that the guards from the provinces leave by the end of the week.

The militant young Chinese poured into Peking from the provinces after youth units in the capital went on the rampage against old customs and ideas as part of the purge which China's new No. 2 man, Defense Minister Lin Biao, has been directing.

The Chinese leadership at first enthusiastically supported the Red Guards. But on Aug. 31, Lin Biao and Premier Chou En-lai told them to avoid force and coercion, and today the Chinese Communist party warned the youths not to interfere with farm and factory production.

SAME CHARGE

Tass said the same charge was made by the girls' Red Guard unit which demanded the withdrawal of the provincial guards.

The warning to the young militants to leave the farmers and factory workers alone was given by the Peking People's Daily, the newspaper of the Chinese Communist party Central Committee.

It said: "The Red Guards from the schools and revolutionary students should not go out to such areas and try to interfere or make changes, neither is it necessary for them to take part in discussions in such places."

"The workers and farmers are the main force of the revolution. They are 100 per cent capable of carrying out the revolutionary movement themselves. Moreover, their particular conditions differ and their responsibility to production is very great. If outsiders without knowledge of the facts try to interfere, they may adversely affect production."

State GI Dies in Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon said Tuesday that Army Pfc. Harvey L. Rowland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Rowland Sr. of Sand Lake, Mich., was killed by hostile action in the Viet Nam war.

Unit Arrives; Now 303,000 GIs in Viet

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. military manpower in South Vietnam increased to more than 303,000 today with arrival of elements of the 11th Army Armored Cavalry Regiment at Vung Tau, 40 miles southeast of here.

The U.S. command said the unit, formerly based at Fort Meade, Md., boasted great "mobility and fire power."

"Its normal mission is to provide reconnaissance and security for the major unit to which it is attached," a spokesman said.

There was no immediate word on where the unit would be assigned but its arrival came at a time when American forces have been increasingly successful in wrestling long stretches of roads and highways from Communist control.

U.S. to Wait on Time Law Push

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government — at least partly because of confusion — may take it easy this year in acting against errant cities that fail to fully observe the new uniform daylight saving time law.

But next year, watch out!

Last April 14, President Johnson signed the new Uniform Time Act of 1966, a law designed to end many years of confusion resulting from the semi-annual time-changing that took place on different dates in thousands of communities.

The law fixed the daylight saving time period from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in October. The switchover to the new system is to be in two phases.

In the first phase all communities wishing to observe daylight saving time must do so for the full time period. That started last April.

2ND PHASE

The second phase, to become effective next April, requires that entire states must either observe or not observe the fast-forward time — there can be no partial observance of daylight saving time in any state.

The legislation also gave the Interstate Commerce Commission authority to enforce the law.

The ICC could go to court for an injunction to prevent any community from setting daylight saving time on dates other than those specified in the federal law.

But the ICC isn't going into court — at least not this year.

One reason, an ICC official says, is that "we believe states and communities should be left to their own devices to comply."

NOT CLEAR

Another reason, say ICC sources, is that the law is not clear about when the entire act — including the enforcement provisions — becomes effective. They note that while part of the law went into effect last April, the entire measure doesn't become effective until next April. They feel their authority to go to court this year might be challenged.

There could be some confusion about next year.

Legislation setting up a department of transportation would turn over to the new agency enforcement of the daylight saving law, an ICC spokesman says. The measure, which the House has passed, is being considered by the Senate Government Operations Committee.

So, it may be the ICC never will get to enforce the new law.

Busing Plans Halt Ordered

Lansing School Board
Faces Parents' Suit

LANSING (AP) — Ingham County Circuit Court has ordered the Lansing School Board to drop—at least temporarily—its plans for busing 177 10th grade students across town to achieve better racial balance in its schools.

A group of 24 parents, claiming both white and Negro membership, sued Tuesday for a temporary restraining order. The order was signed a few hours later by Judges Sam Hughes and Marvin Salmon.

The school board will be required next Monday to show the court why the order should not be made permanent.

The People's Action Committee on Education (PACE), presented by former County Prosecutor Leo Farhat, said it felt the local board of education "had not acted in the best interests of all responsible tax-paying citizens of Lansing."

"UNNECESSARY EXPENSE" It called the busing plan "an additional and unnecessary taxpayer expense."

The plan would, Farhat added, result in:

—Splitting up and forcing of children in the same families to attend separate schools;

—"The ultimate destruction of the time-honored neighborhood school concept;

—"The elimination of the constitutionally guaranteed freedom of choice for all citizens as to their selection of home, property and schools;

—"The creation of an unnecessary economic hardship on all taxpayers by having to support two bus systems within the city."

The busing of the 177 students was to be the forerunner of a more extensive scheme involving large numbers of students later, the board said.

Howard Nichols, chairman of the group, said it does not oppose integration of the schools and is drafting a plan of "open enrollment on a voluntary basis, whereby any student may attend any school of his choice."

Hare Backs Rules on Campaign Funds

LANSING (AP) — The state has taken an excellent step toward regulating campaign contributions and expenditures, says Secretary of State James Hare.

The State Administrative Board adopted a policy statement Tuesday amounting to "a gentlemen's agreement" on the use of state cars by employees and candidates. It included a vaguely worded statement on campaign contributions.

"As far as I'm concerned," said Hare, who has tried for years to put a lid on campaign costs and contributions and get all expenditures on the public record, "This amounts to a prohibition against any contributions by anyone licensed or regulated by the state."

The statement, drafted by George Washington, state director of administration, requires the reporting of, but does not specifically outlaw such contributions.

NEW RULES

It says: "Persons or industries doing business with the state include vendors, contractors, licensees and persons who are not licensed but are subject to regulation by state government."

"The Department of Administration conducts the state's central purchasing, with some exceptions, and prohibits political contributions, affiliations or any other prejudicial considerations to government awards or maintenance of state orders or contracts."

Hare said he regarded the statement a prohibition against contributions by any state-regulated individual or business, "and there are literally hundreds involved when you consider all the private enterprises that do business with, or who are regulated by state agencies."

Hare said he planned to send copies of the policy statement to his fee branch managers and private businesses that have direct dealings with the secretary of state's office.

The statement also regulates the use of state cars during a period of "intensive political campaigning"—defined as that period between a party convention and the election.

It requires every person assigned a state car to sign an affidavit stating it will not be used for political campaign purposes.

A public employee who is allowed to use a car during his off-duty hours and who becomes a candidate "will restrict the use of the car to activities of the type performed in the discharge of his official duties."

Riot Charges Dropped for 2

DETROIT (AP) — Charges against two men accused of inciting to riot during racial outbreaks last month on Detroit's East Side were dropped Tuesday.

Two others arrested in the same disturbances were given reduced sentences.

Circuit Judge George E. Bowles dismissed charges against Thomas Abston, 31, and James Roberts, 24, both of Detroit. Bowles began the pretrial hearings as a visiting judge in Recorder's Court.

He moved to reduce charges against Alvin Harrison, 26, and Moses Wedlow, 25, also of Detroit, to two counts of inciting to riot. A third count of conspiracy to incite to riot was dropped.

STREET ATTACKS

The incidents occurred Aug. 9, 10 and 11 when small groups of Negroes threw rocks and fire bombs at stores, cars and police. The four men were arrested Aug. 12.

All four belong to the Adult Community Movement for Equality which is located in the heart of the trouble area.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Sharp Needle Essential for Diabetic Use

There are two matters in connection with diabetes that need further comment. Although the jet injector which uses no needle, can be successfully operated after a short period of training, even the cheaper models are expensive.

The secret of painless injection with a needle is to have a sharp needle and insert it quickly. Disposable needles are new a good diabetic manual.

One that can be recommended is "How to Live With Diabetes," by Dolger and Seeman (W. W. Norton. Price $4.50) which was revised in 1965.

My only criticism of the book is a minor one — is that in the chapter on complications there is no mention of diabetic retinopathy, which may lead to blindness or diabetic neuritis, and very little about diabetic gangrene of the toes.

Q — What harmful effects can Chloromycetin have on a person who has taken it for over a year?

A — Chloramphenicol (Chloromycetin) is an antibiotic that is effective against a number of disease germs.

If extended treatment is required, a switch to another antibiotic should be made.

Prolonged treatment with chloramphenicol destroys the blood-forming ability of the bone marrow and causes a reduction in both white and red blood cells.

Anyone taking this drug for more than two weeks should have frequent blood counts.

Rockets to Form Clouds in Space

WASHINGTON (AP) — If a light green cloud with a red lining drifts over your house this week, don't panic. Just watch it turn blue and drift away.

Chances are it will be a chemical cloud formed by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to measure electric fields and wind motion in the upper atmosphere.

NASA announced that weather permitting it will launch two rockets from Wallops Island, Va., due at 7:56 p.m. today; the other at 8:34 p.m., tomorrow.

KIDNAPING ALLEGED — Marie Trail, 20, of Hyattsville, Md., holds a police sketch of a man she said kidnaped her at knifepoint in Hyattsville Labor Day and forced her to drive to Long Island. She said she stopped to aid the man who appeared to be ill beside the road. The girl charged he forced her to drive to Baltimore, then to New York, took $20 from her purse and knocked her unconscious. Police found her in the car near Coram, N.Y.

A Running Feud With an Old Car

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON — Five days a week I am confronted with a new type of moral dilemma. As far as I know there is no precedent for resolving it.

It came about from parking my car on the grounds of the U.S. Capitol under some large trees. About two years ago the car caught an incurable case of Dutch elm disease.

The main symptom is a scaling of paint on the right front door. I took the car to a garage but it never got past the admitting room.

"You don't need a mechanic," I was told, "You need a tree surgeon."

So I had it examined by a tree surgeon. The prognosis was not favorable.

"There are only two things you can do," he said, "You can either have the door amputated or you can have the entire body repainted."

PRETTY OLD

The car is getting pretty old and, frankly, I am not wild about spending all that money for a paint job. So I have been treating the condition myself.

When the scaling breaks out in a new place, I buy a small can of grey paint and touch up the afflicted spot. The fact that the touched-up places do not match the rest of the car is not my fault. I tried.

Originally the car was a bluish pink color. Now it is a faded bluish pink enamel. None had that color in stock.

Nation's '65 Grocery Bill at New High

NEW YORK (AP) — Housewives rang up a record $60.14-billion grocery bill in the United States last year, it was reported yesterday.

It averages out to nearly $1,000 for each family, up 6.6 per cent from 1964 and the biggest jump since 1957.

And the prospects are for a similar rise this year.

In its 19th annual consumer expenditure study, Food Topics, a supermarket trade publication, predicts housewives will spend 6 to 7 per cent more this year to feed their families.

It predicts a 4 per cent price increase during the year, with higher per capita consumption accounting for the rest.

Higher meat prices were the principal factor in the 1965 increase, the study said.

Tahitians Cool for De Gaulle

I personally do not mind driving a faded bilious pink car with bright neurotic pink spots. In fact, I rather like it. But when I drive home in the evenings, the people next door wave their fists and shout "There goes the neighborhood!"

MORAL DILEMMA

Now here is the moral dilemma mentioned above:

Almost every day, as I am driving to and from work, I have several near-misses in the traffic pattern. Some clewa changes lanes without looking and only alert defensive on my part prevents a collision.

Suppose one day I stand my ground. Let one of these cowboys charge into me on the right side.

It damages my car and is his fault. His insurance company has to pick up the tab for repairs, and I get a new paint job.

I am sure I could get by with it legally. But would I be doing something morally wrong? Or at least unethical?

Not even Solomon could judge this case. He never owned a Rambler.

PAPEETE, Tahiti (AP) — Less than 1,000 French and Tahitians turned out Tuesday night to greet President Charles de Gaulle on his arrival in Tahiti. The reception was friendly but restrained, and local authorities expressed disappointment.

There were no cheers and little clapping as de Gaulle ended his brief arrival speech at Faatua airport with "Vive la France!"

Chiefs brought from other islands by French warships shook hands with the president, then turned abruptly away. Along the route to the residence of the governor of French Polynesia, French flags flew over Chinese stores but not over Tahitian homes.

However, there was no demonstration of hostility, although many Tahitians have publicly expressed a desire for independence.

De Gaulle came from New Caledonia on a 19-day round-the-world tour. He left New Caledonia today, Sept. 7, and landed in Tahiti Tuesday night because he crossed the international date line.

On Friday de Gaulle goes to the Mururoa Atoll to witness the test explosion Saturday of a French atomic bomb.

Junior Editors Quiz on NEWTS

QUESTION: Are newts reptiles or amphibians?

ANSWER: Newts are a special kind of salamander. They resemble reptilian lizards in their general shape, but like other salamanders they are without scales or claws.

Thus they are amphibians, not reptiles. There are seven species of newts.

We illustrate the Eastern newt, which is the best known. Newts' eggs, laid in water plants (1), hatch into larvae with outside gills (2).

These swim for several months. Then comes an interesting stage which makes this special salamander — the newt — unusual.

The larvae climb out on land and change to a brick red color. They are then called red efta. (3).

It is one of these which Mabel is holding. The little efta may spend two or three years on land.

Finally, they return to the water again, becoming larger adult newts (4).

They change from red to green, develop strong swimming tails and much heavier hind legs.

They spend the rest of their lives in this last stage. It is a curious fact that some newts change directly from larvae into adults.

Newts feed on worms, insects and small water animals. In captivity, they may eat small pieces of meat.

FOR YOU TO DO: Try to catch a newt. They make good little pets. Have a pan of water in the cage. The red eft likes live insects.

Twenty-six years with you, darling- and all I get is complaints.

That's the way it is with a man and his newspaper. Rain or shine, year-in and year-out. The newspaper is always taking a stand against someone or something. Then why do 95 million adults spend more than half an hour reading their newspaper every day, year after year?

Because most of us realize that controversy is the measure of an energetic, healthy community. We want to be sure that we're living the best life we can. And if things could be better we want to know which things and why and how. Newspapers give us the answer.

If you manufacture or sell something that is a little better than what your competition offers, take your story to the newspaper reading public. These are the people who thrive on the original, the different, and the new.

Emphysema Hits Air Sacs in Lung Tissue

EDITOR'S NOTE — A chronic cough? Short of breath? It may be nothing at all. But it may also be symptoms of early emphysema, a lung disease causing increasing concern among doctors. The following is the second in a four-part series.

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON — You have an area equivalent of two tennis courts inside your chest — and health authorities are growing increasingly worried about a lung disease, emphysema, which puts "holes in the tennis courts."

It does its lethal work by attacking tiny, bubble-like air sacs — numbering 750 million — in the tissue of the lungs. If the walls of these air sacs were spread out in a sheet, they'd occupy the area of two tennis courts.

A whisker-thin sheet of tissue sliced lengthwise from an emphysema-ridden lung — that is, an advanced case — looks like a moth-eaten scarf.

As thick as a piece of steak shows large transparent areas that resemble the remains of a jellyfish tossed up on a beach. They contrast sharply with dense areas of still healthy tissue around them.

Doctors of the U.S. Public Health Service recently formed Chronic Respiratory Diseases Program — CRDP — and contend that emphysema, together with its frequent fellow traveler, chronic bronchitis — constitutes a category of "lung" which has been neglected by both official message gets around, to demonstrate the value of establishing additional detection and treatment clinics, to make sure doctors everywhere are kept abreast of the latest information, and finally, to combat "the pessimism of all too many practitioners."

But what's this disease all about?

It dates back at least to the ancient Greeks and Romans, medical historians say.

It wasn't until more than 125 years ago that Laennec, the first physician to employ the newly developed stethoscope, noted a form of breathing obstruction that later became known as emphysema.

That's the Greek word for inflation, or blown up. And emphysema means a blow-up lung. To understand it, think first of a tree placed upside down in your chest with the trunk extending into your throat. That's your "bronchial tree" — the lifeline for your windpipe.

From it about two main branches called bronchi — one going to the right lung, the other to the left.

From each, within the lung, even smaller offshoots branch off, with the smallest, or twigs being called bronchioles.

At the end of each of thousands of bronchioles is a nest of air sacs called alveoli.

In emphysema, the walls of the air sacs begin to be eaten away, though the extent and rate differ in individuals.

This results in groups of ruptured air sacs combining to form larger sacs which tend to trap stale air containing carbon dioxide inside the lung. Also, the lung begins to lose its wondrous elasticity, like an old rubber band, and becomes blown up.

Moreover, some of the small airway bronchioles which ordinarily pass expired air up through the bronchial tree collapse inward and become partially blocked to expired air flow.

The upshot is that the swollen lung becomes inefficient in its life-sustaining pumping action; roadblocks form for expired air; the body's tissues become partly starved for oxygen; and noxious carbon dioxide can pile up in the blood. In severe cases, the heart can be affected.

LEAVES HOSPITAL—Mrs. Esperanza Del Vasquez, 37, the first patient to survive an artificial heart pump operation, talks to newsmen at a brief conference yesterday at Houston's Methodist Hospital. Mrs. Vasquez was discharged from the hospital and returned to her home in Mexico City.

AP Wirephoto

Heart Pump 1st Step to Substitute Organ

HOUSTON (UPI) — Mrs. Esperanza Del Valle Vasquez is living proof of the success of a device which may lead to a replacement for the entire human heart.

Mrs. Vasquez, a 37-year-old housewife from Mexico City, is the first patient to recover successfully from heart surgery with the aid of a mechanical pump.

Mrs. Vasquez underwent the historic heart pump operation Aug. 8 at Methodist Hospital here. She was discharged from the hospital yesterday and flew to her home in Mexico City.

The surgery was performed to correct damage done to her heart by rheumatic fever. Following the replacement of valves in the heart, surgeons attached a pump to the organ which took over most of the work and allowed the heart to heal.

The success of the 3½ hour operation was evident 10 days later, when doctors said her heart had healed sufficiently, and removed the pump.

USED BEFORE — The pump had been used on two other patients at Methodist Hospital, but both died shortly after their operations in which valves were replaced in the heart.

The pump, developed jointly by Rice University and Baylor University College of Medicine, is intended to give temporary assistance to the heart. The designers hope, however, to have a complete replacement for the heart within three years.

In Mrs. Vasquez's case, the mitral (inlet) and aortic (outlet) valves in the left ventricle were not functioning properly. The left ventricle does 90 percent of the heart's work.

To correct the malfunction, surgeons could replace the natural valves with synthetic ones. However, past experience showed the strain of the surgery and initial irritation caused by the unnatural valves could cause the heart to fail and the patient to die.

TIME TO ADJUST — The pump — technically, a "left ventricular bypass" — can take most of the ventricle's load during the first days of recovery, giving the heart time to adjust to the new valves and heal.

Doctors from Baylor and engineers from Rice have worked for three years on the pump. The project is financed by a $1.5-million grant from the National Heart Institutes of Health of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Dr. Michael E. DeBakey, 57, and Dr. William C. Hall, 44, direct the program. DeBakey is chairman of the department of surgery at Baylor and has been growing increasingly worried about a lung disease, emphysema, which puts "holes in the tennis courts."

Hall is an assistant professor of surgery and project director. The third surgeon on the operating team was Dr. Domingo Latta, 41, a native of Argentina. He was one of the early workers in the field, and replaced the entire heart of a dog in 1959.

POST AT RICE — He and Dr. William W. Akers, 43, have worked on the heart since 1960. Dr. Akers is chairman of the chemical engineering department at Rice.

The major problems involved in the development of the heart were those stemming from certain characteristics of the blood. The device had to be biologically inert, or the body would reject it.

The problems were largely solved by lining the pump with nylon velour, which has fine loops on its surface. Protein in the blood catches in the loops and a smooth coating rapidly builds up, allowing the blood to move without clotting or injury.

FIRST 2 WEEKS — Dr. DeBakey says the pump should benefit 75 to 90 percent of heart attack victims. The pump would be used in the first two weeks following an attack, the period when most deaths occur.

It could be used until the heart had recovered from the attack and then removed.

The softball-sized device is powered by carbon dioxide provided by a small bedside generator developed by Rice engineers. The gas moves a diaphragm inside the pump's hemispherical chamber, which pulls the blood out of the atrium of heart and into an artery, thus bypassing the ventricle.

In earlier operations, the pump's output line had been connected to the aorta, near the heart. In Mrs. Vasquez's operation, the line was attached to the artery leading to the right arm, a simpler technique.

Two Nigerian Leaders on Course That May Shatter Unity

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Two young colonels, representative of the new breed of African leaders, are on a collision course that may shatter Nigeria's shaky unity. Concerned donor states, including the United States, are using the weight of financial aid as pressure to prevent a break-up.

The antagonists are Lt. Col. Yakubu Gowon, at 31 one of the world's youngest heads of state; and Lt. Col. Chukwuemeka Odumegwu Ojukwu, 32, military governor of Nigeria's eastern region.

Gowon took command after Maj. Gen. Johnson T. U. Aguiyi-

Ironsi, the former military ruler, disappeared in a July 29 army mutiny. Ironsi, reportedly kidnapped by Hausa-speaking northern troops, hasn't been seen since. Gowon was army chief of staff and highest ranking officer from the north. He has tried to keep all sections of Nigeria, especially east-and north, in a conciliatory mood to avoid splitting the federation.

SECTIONAL UNREST

Ojukwu, like Ironsi, a member of the Ibo tribe, has called for a "general disengagement" of easterners from the rest of Nigeria. His region's papers, radio and television have been running stories of attacks against easterners, fleeing the north. They also suggest the east might seek independence.

There are more than 33,000 franchised automobile dealers in this country employing about 700,000 workers.

More MTU Funds

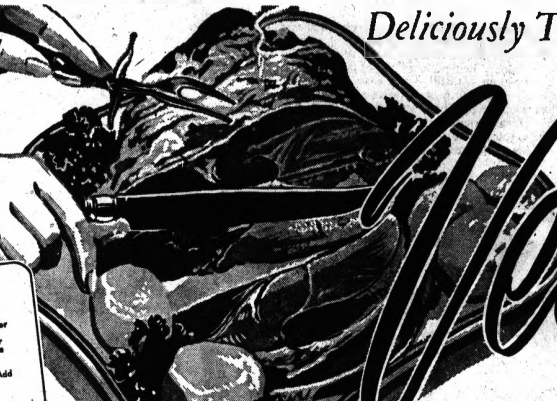

HOUGHTON (AP)—The Michigan Legislature has approved an increase of $1 million for Michigan Technological University's planned chemistry, biological sciences and metallurgical engineering building. The increase brings the total appropriation to $6.9 million.

The earth ranks fifth in size among the planets.

... Is So Tastefully Delicious!

Wrigley RECIPE

Veal Paprika

2½ lb. veal cut in inch cubes
1 large onion, minced
2 tsp. butter or margarine
2 tsp. salt
½ tsp. pepper

Sauté the onion in the butter in a heavy skillet until golden color. Add the veal and brown it slightly, stirring constantly.

SPRINKLE IN SEASONING

Sprinkle in the seasoning, add the boiling water, cover the skillet and simmer for 1½ hours or until the meat is tender. Mix the flour and cold water to form a smooth paste.

STIR IN HOT LIQUID

Stir in a little of the hot liquid, and then return all to the stew, stirring constantly until the sauce is smooth and thickened. Stir in the sour cream, and bring just to boiling point. Serve immediately. (Serves 6.)

Wrigley RECIPE

Braised Shoulder of Veal

1 shoulder of veal
Brown stuffing
1 tsp. salt
½ tsp. pepper
2 cups flour
Salt pork fat
½ cup dried carrot

Have the butcher bone the shoulder of veal. Wipe, then fill the cavity with the stuffing and sew up the opening. Rub over with the blended salt, pepper and flour and brown the entire surface in the rendered salt pork fat (or other fat).

TRANSFER TO KETTLE

Transfer to a heavy kettle with the carrot, celery, onion, peppercorns, thyme and marjoram. Pour the water over, cover tightly, and cook in a slow oven (300° F.) about 3 hours, turning once during the cooking.

THICKEN WITH FLOUR

Strain the liquid from the casserole and thicken with a little flour rubbed smooth with cold water, using 1 tablespoon of flour to each cup of liquid. Bring again to boiling point, season with salt and pepper and serve with the veal. (Serves 8.)

Debate on Limiting Interest Likely to Be Wide-Ranging

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House takes up interest-limiting legislation today in the face of deep disagreement among House Democrats and increasing talk of a tax increase to fight inflation.

The debate, expected to lead to a vote Thursday, is likely to range far beyond the scope of the two bills before the House. These are concerned only with damping down the competition between banks and savings and loan associations for home mortgage funds.

Some Democrats are seeking a compromise formula between a bill introduced by Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the House Banking Committee, and another measure backed by the Treasury. Other members, however, contend neither bill goes far enough.

The object of both measures is the same — to keep the higher interest rates offered by commercial banks on time deposits from drying up the flow of savings into savings and loan associations, traditionally the main source of funds for the currently hard-pressed home building industry.

TIME DEPOSITS

Patman's bill would set a 4½ per cent ceiling on bank interest paid on time deposits of no more than $100,000. Time deposits are those left for a specfied period and often are represented by negotiable receipts called certificates of deposit. The rate could be increased only with presidential approval.

The Treasury bill, introduced by Rep. Robert G. Stephens Jr.,

D-Ga., would leave interest rate discretion with the Federal Reserve.

One suggested compromise is a reworking of the Patman bill to make the 4½ per cent ceiling advisory by Congress rather than mandatory.

A Good Breakfast Gears You Up for Full Day's Drive

PEANUT BUTTER OMELET — Omelets are high in protein and even higher when they're spread with peanut butter. Youngsters will go for this hearty breakfast dish. Crisp slices of bacon are an important accompaniment.

Kids Will Love Peanut Butter Omelet

When the school bell calls the children back to desks and books, prepare them for the day with a nutritious, protein-packed breakfast. Crisp, lean bacon served with a sure favorite, peanut butter omelet, will send them off filled with energy.

Kids love peanut butter and jelly for snacks. But they'll rave about it when it's a part of a puffy breakfast omelet.

Bacon packs a bonus of energy and high quality meat protein into every lean slice.

To make a high, fluffy omelet, the yolks and whites must be beaten separately. The skillet should be one with a heat-resistant handle, such as cast iron, since it later goes into the oven.

Before pouring the egg mix-

Substitute Juice

Instead of sweet, sticky soft drinks, take along a thermos full of well-chilled cranberry juice cocktail on your next picnic or outing. The subtle tartness of cranberry juice is a satisfying thirst-quencher on hot summer days.

Can Make Scotch Oat Bread Night Before for Morning

Take a cue from the Scots and give family dieters Ban-nocks for breakfast one morning.

If you haven't time to take out the griddle or to mix this very different oat bread at dawn, bake them the night before. The thin, really "toasty" slices will re-crisp beautifully in a toaster or slow oven.

Bannocks
3 cups rolled oats, quick or regular, uncooked
½ cup brown sugar, packed
¼ cup currants or seedless raisins, cut in half
1½ teaspoons salt
¾ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon allspice
¾ cup boiling water
2 tablespoons cooking oil or vegetable shortening
Mix 2 cups rolled oats, sugar, currants or raisins, salt, soda,

BANNOCKS — Good way to satisfy weight watchers at breakfast is with this intriguing Scottish bread made with rolled oats.

Golden Glaze Lifts Pears to Stardom

It's so easy to get into a rut when it comes to planning breakfast. But it's just as easy to get out of that rut when fresh Bartlett pears are available. Right now there are excellent quality Bartletts on the market. Take advantage and let them boost your breakfast morale!

Amber Breakfast Pears — shown here, are baked and coated with a buttery, golden, brown sugar glaze. No need to peel the pears for the delicate yellow skin of Bartletts is tender and flavorful. Simply halve and core them.

The secret to removing the core from a Bartlett pear half in one smooth, perfect scoop is to use a half-teaspoon measuring spoon. Or, use a melon ball cutter.

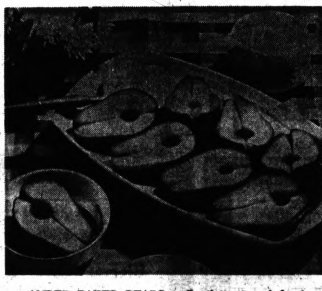

Amber Breakfast Pears
4 fresh Bartlett pears
¼ cup orange juice
¼ cup brown sugar
3 tablespoons butter

Halve and core pears. Place, cut side down, in a shallow baking dish. Pour orange juice over pears. Sprinkle with brown sugar and dot with butter.

Cover with aluminum foil for a lid and bake in 350-degree oven for 20 minutes. Remove cover and gently turn pears, cut side up.

Baste with syrup formed in bottom of baking dish and continue to bake, uncovered, for 10 to 15 minutes or until pear halves are tender and glazed. Baste once or twice during last 10 minutes of baking.

Serve warm or chilled with pour cream.

AMBER BAKED PEARS — Bartlett pears bake to a golden hue in a brown sugar syrup. For breakfast, bake them the night before and chill thoroughly. Try them sometime for dessert when they're still warm.

Applesauce in Muffins Tastes Fine

Do folks around your house like muffins?

If they do — and we'll bet they do — they'll gobble up these wheat germ-applesauce muffins, at breakfast, lunch or dinner; especially when they are served hot out of the oven with lots of butter.

They have the appeal of cake with the applesauce, cinnamon and nutmeg, and lots of nutritional heartiness — wheat germ adding its good quality protein B vitamins, iron and other essential nutrients.

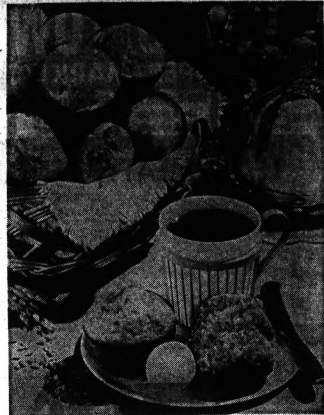

Youngsters will welcome them as a mid-afternoon snack, but the best of all times to serve them is at a Saturday or Sunday breakfast, the best meals of the week in many households.

Wheat Germ Applesauce Muffins

1½ cups flour
½ cup sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup wheat germ
2 eggs, beaten slightly
1 cup thick applesauce
¼ cup milk
¼ cup melted shortening

Combine flour, sugar, baking powder, spices and salt. Stir in wheat germ. Combine eggs, applesauce, milk and shortening. Add to dry ingredients; stir just until dry ingredients are moistened.

Fill greased muffin pans ¾ full. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) until done, about 18 minutes. Yield: 18 muffins.

Start Teen-Ager's Day With This Tasty Dessert

Breakfast skipping is a proven threat to health and achievement.

Although a breakfast of fruit, cereal with milk, buttered toast and a glass of milk is an accepted pattern, particularly with an egg, meat or cheese added, it may not appeal to your youngsters.

So give them something they want. It's all good food and will help keep them nutritionally fortified until lunch time.

As Dr. Mary Hill, a Department of Agriculture nutritionist, reminds frustrated parents, "Any food in the morning is better than no food. Some choices, however, go farther than others in meeting the day's needs."

CEREAL CUSTARD WITH RASPBERRY SAUCE

1 cup malted cereal granules, crushed to make ¾ cup crumbs
¼ cup sugar
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
4 eggs
3 cups milk
1½ teaspoons vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon nutmeg or mace
2 packages (12 ounces) defrosted frozen raspberries

Combine crumbs, 2 tablespoons sugar, and butter or margarine; mix well with pastry blender. Combine eggs and milk; beat lightly. Add remaining sugar, vanilla, salt, and nutmeg; stir until sugar dissolves.

Pour custard mixture into 8 individual (5 ounce) custard cups. Place in pan of hot water; bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) until set.

After 30 minutes baking, sprinkle 2 teaspoonsful of crumbs over top of each custard and finish baking, about 15 minutes. Chill thoroughly.

To serve, run point of sharp knife around edge of custard and turn into serving dish. Top each with fruit and sprinkle with crumbs.

Add Parsley

Add lots of parsley sprigs to tomato juice and refrigerate overnight. Remove the parsley before serving — it will have added subtle flavor to the juice.

Blintzes Are Heavenly

Breakfasting on the late side is one of the lovely aspects of weekends. A weekend breakfast brings fresh flowers to the table, sun streaming through a window and prospects of a long, lazy day to come.

Most of all, it means a special menu, highlighted by the flavor of fresh fruit, a pancake specialty and delicious fragrant coffee.

CHEESE BLINTZES

Butter:

2 eggs
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 cup milk
¼ cup sifted all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon grated orange peel
¼ cup butter or margarine (about)

Combine eggs, oil and milk. Add flour, salt and grated orange peel. Beat until very smooth (batter is thin, like juice cocktail).

Blueberry Sauce

Put 1 pint cultivated blueberries in saucepan with just enough cold water to cover bottom of pan. Set over low heat. Cook, stirring often, until blueberries are soft. Sweeten to taste. Stir until sugar dissolves. Serve warm. Makes 8 to 8 servings.

heavy cream in consistency). Chill at least 30 minutes.

Melt 1 teaspoon butter in 6-inch skillet (bottom diameter). Pour in just enough batter to barely cover bottom of skillet. When lightly browned on underside, remove.

Repeat, until all batter is used, stacking blintzes browned side up. Place about 1 tablespoon Cheese Filling on browned side of each of the blintzes. Turn opposite ends in, then roll up carefully.

Melt remaining butter in large skillet. Fry blintzes until lightly browned on both sides. Top with Blueberry Sauce and sour cream. Makes 12 to 14 blintzes.

Cheese Filling

½ lb. dry, fine curd cottage cheese (such as farmer's cheese)
2 eggs yolks
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon (optional)

Combine all ingredients. Beat until smooth. Chill until firm.

CEREAL DOUGHNUTS — Push a small hole through the center of 10 refrigerated buttermilk biscuits (8-oz. pkg.). Fry in one-inch of hot fat until golden brown on both sides, turning once. Drain on paper toweling. Prepare a glaze of one cup sifted confectioners' sugar and two tablespoons orange juice. Dip hot doughnuts in glaze and roll in one cup puffed sweetened oat cereal, crushed. Serve warm. Makes 10.

CHEESE BLINTZES — Cheese-filled blintzes served with blueberry sauce make any breakfast worth getting up for. Blintzes sound complicated, but they're only thin pancakes rolled around a filling and gently fried in butter. Just the thing for a leisurely morning.

Party Coffee

Party coffee is a dessert and beverage combined. Sweeten 4 cups of hot coffee with 3 tablespoons of molasses. Pour into 6 cups and top each with a spoonful of nutmeg cream, made by whipping ¼ cup of heavy cream with ¼ teaspoon of nutmeg, until cream stands in shiny peaks.

PIN-WORMS A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting facial itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms—tiny parasites that medical experts say infect 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it. To the aid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do... and here's how they do it: First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels, before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily. Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge... small, easy-to-take tablets... special sizes for children and adults.

APRICOT CRUNCH—A crunchy dessert from a new fruit-on-fruit recipe combines fresh apricot halves with apricot jam. The crunch comes from cookie crumbs, melted butter, nuts, and a touch of nutmeg. It may be served with whipped cream or ice cream.

Chicken, Cheese Snacking Good

Spread crackers or toast, curry powder, and a dash of onion salt. Fold in 1 can (5 ounces) canned boned chicken-cream cheese mixture for a delightful snack: With a fork, make a boned chicken or turkey and 1 smooth blend of 1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, 1 tablespoon mayonnaise, ¼ teaspoon

Same Fruit, Different Process

Would you believe that anything could taste better than sun-ripened fruit or berries at the peak of their goodness? Before you answer, try one of the new fruit-on-fruit recipes. You may want to exercise the feminine privilege of changing your mind!

Fruit-on-fruit is a new idea of combining fresh fruit with preserves made from the same or different fruit, thus joining two kinds of fruity goodness in one dazzling dessert.

Take this new recipe for Apricot Crunch, for example. It's an easily put-together mixture of melted butter, brown sugar, cookie crumbs, nuts, and fresh, uncooked apricot halves mixed with apricot preserves.

Serve it with whipped or ice cream and you have a dessert so good it must be tasted to be believed.

Nectarine halves may be substituted for the apricots, if you prefer. Use fewer nectarines if they are larger than apricots. In seasons when fresh fruit is not available, glass-packed apricots may be used in this recipe.

APRICOT CRUNCH
¼ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup (firmly packed) brown sugar
1 cup vanilla or brown egg cookie crumbs
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ cup chopped pecans
24-36 chilled fresh apricot halves or 1 pound, 14 ounce glass-packed or canned apricot halves, chilled 1 jar (12 ounce) apricot preserves

Whipped or ice cream, optional
Melt butter or margarine in skillet over low heat. Add brown sugar and heat, stirring constantly until sugar melts and mixture is bubbly. Add crumbs, nutmeg, and pecans; mix well.

Spread out on baking sheet or waxed paper to cool. Combine apricot halves and apricot preserves.
Spoon half the crumb mixture into 6 dessert dishes. Top with apricot mixture and sprinkle with remaining crumb mixture. If desired garnish with whipped cream or ice cream. Yield: 6 servings.

Simmer Means Cooking Meat Slowly

When you read in a recipe that a certain cut of meat is to be covered with water and simmered, it means just that! Simmering, if you're using a thermometer in the water, means keeping the temperature of liquid at 185 degrees F. (if at sea level) while boiling is 212 degrees F.

Are there bubbles in the liquid in simmering? Yes, they form slowly and break below the surface. It's different from the constant bubbling and furious activity that one encounters with boiling temperature.

Why is simmering recommended rather than boiling? It's a more moderate temperature

Don't Waste It

CURRIED BEEF LOAF WITH MELON SAUCE—Curried beef loaf served with a distinctive new appearance and flavor. You'll find it economical—just right for a summer supper party.

Serve Fruit Sauce on Curried Beef Loaf

Something wonderful happens to meat loaf when it's seasoned skillfully with a bit of curry powder and served handsomely with a fresh fruit sauce. It's budget food during melon season, and it's handsome enough to serve the "in" crowd at an informal dinner party.

When it comes to good, economical eating, nothing compares with meat loaf. Everybody from grandpop to the toddler likes it, and your company will enjoy it, too. It's quite possible to make a guest will suspect a slim food budget if you serve them curried meat loaf with melon sauce.

The beautiful fresh fruit sauce is not only appetizing, but has a cool, refreshing flavor that's just right for dinner on a warm day.

When melons are out of season, substitute drained canned peaches or peaches and frozen blueberries for fresh ones. The sauce will be just as pretty and just as good. Serve this gourmet dish with asparagus spears or green beans and spicy, icy tea.

The recipe for curried beef loaf makes a generous size loaf. Chill any that's left over. Slice and serve it with your favorite summer luncheon or dinner food or use it for making sandwiches.

Stuffed Olives Given New Taste

Lemon juice and garlic give pimiento-stuffed olives a new flavor dimension. Combine ½ cup of french dressing, ¼ cup of lemon juice, 1 sliced clove of garlic, 1 teaspoon of basil and 1 cup of pimiento-stuffed olives. Mix well and chill 4 hours or overnight, stirring occasionally. Drain and remove garlic before serving.

Arrange on serving platter and garnish with sauce. Serve with additional fruit sauce and fluffy rice, if desired. Yield: One loaf, 8 servings.

Fruit Sauce

1 can (16½ ounce) sliced pineapple
¼ cup light corn syrup
2 tablespoons lemon juice
3 tablespoons cornstarch
2 cups diced peeled cantaloupe or honeydew melon and watermelon
¼ cup blueberries or sliced fresh strawberries

Drain pineapple; save syrup. Combine syrup, lemon juice and cornstarch. Blend well. Cook, stirring constantly, until clear and thickened. Add fruit. Heat slightly. Serve over meat loaf slices. Yield: About 4 cups sauce for 8 servings.

Peanut Butter All Shook Up

Youngsters need snacks. They are so active that often they need a "retelling" to meet their energy requirements.

A Peanut Butter Milk Shake will give them the needed energy. At the same time, they will be getting essential nutrients.

In a mixing bowl blend together 1 pint vanilla ice cream, ½ cup creamy peanut butter and 1½ teaspoons vanilla. Gradually add 2 cups milk and you have 4-5 cups ready to serve. If you would like to try a variation, make a Chocolate-Peanut Butter Milk Shake by substituting ¼ cup chocolate syrup for vanilla. For a Maple-Peanut Butter Milk Shake, just substitute 1 teaspoon maple extract for the vanilla.

Use Fresh Corn Only for Souffle

Green Corn Souffle is a delicately flavored main dish that begins with sweet, uncooked kernels of corn and grated medium sharp cheddar cheese coated with a sauce and eggs. It does not require everyone to be right at the table when it is removed from the oven. This characteristic will please most homemakers who shun the soufflé course.

The flavor of this nutritious dish does depend on the freshness of the corn. Try and find two ears that have just been delivered to the market and are cold or, just field picked.

Sweet corn flavor is very perishable. It will lose flavor quickly after being picked and held at room temperature. Keep the corn refrigerated.

For those who enjoy knowing the background of the vegetable they eat, credit is given to the Indians living in the Andes Mountains for developing this vegetable we know as corn.

The rise of the great Indian civilizations of Peru, Central America and Mexico paralleled the development of the corn. It provided food, currency, fuel, smoking silk, jewelry and building material.

Green Corn Souffle
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons biscuit mix
¼ teaspoon mustard
¼ teaspoon chili powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup medium sharp cheddar cheese, grated
1 cup fresh corn kernels (2 ears)
3 eggs, separated
¼ teaspoon baking powder
Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Combine small amount of biscuit mix with milk, then add all of it to make a paste. Add the mustard, chili powder and salt. Heat the mixture over medium heat; add cheese.
Cut raw corn kernels from ears and scrape the milk with a knife from the cob. Add to the sauce mixture.

Separate eggs and put egg yolks in 1-quart mixing bowl and beat lightly. Add small amount of hot mixture to the yolks then mix all of it. Beat the egg whites with baking powder until it holds a soft peak. Fold into mixture.

Put an ungreased 1½ quart casserole in a pan of warm water. Pour in mixture. Run the tip of a knife about 1 inch from the edge around the mixture. Put in hot oven.

Set timer for 55 minutes. Check with the tip of a knife, to see if the center is baked. Makes 4 servings.

Serve with tossed green salad with a mild, tart dressing. Fresh slices of fruit for dessert.

Try a Punch With Molasses

Molasses and gingerale add spice to a creamy punch. In a pitcher or small punch bowl, combine 1 cup of light cream with ½ cup of molasses. Just before serving, stir in 1 quart of gingerale, chilled.

Pour into 8 punch cups or glasses and top each with a scoop of vanilla ice cream, using a total of 1 pint of ice cream.

GREEN CORN SOUFFLE—Golden brown, never fail, Green Corn Souffle is steaming with the flavor of sweet kernels of corn and cheese. It will make a wholesome main dish when served with a tossed green salad that has a mild, tart dressing.

This Salad Is Different; Made of Flaked Halibut

Skeptics will say a truly unusual salad today is out of the question—that every possible combination by now has been tried. But skeptics have been wrong before, and they're wrong again.

The salad coolly calculated to prove it is this one which begins with tender flakes of well-chilled halibut. To the flaked fish are added potatoes, peas, celery and onion. Lots of good eating in that collection—enough to make this salad a meal in itself!

The dressing, a tangy specialty—developed by the Halibut Association of North America—is mayonnaise, mustard, milk and a dash of Tabasco.

Summer Halibut Salad
1 pound halibut steaks, fresh or frozen
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon salt
3 peppercorns
1 cup diced cooked potatoes
1 (No. 30) can petite peas, drained
½ cup diced celery

2 tablespoons minced onion
¼ cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
2 tablespoons milk
Dash Tabasco
Lettuce (or chicory, if desired)

If halibut is frozen, let thaw on refrigerator shelf or at room temperature until no longer icy. Poach halibut for 8-10 minutes in boiling water to which bay leaf, salt and peppercorns have been added.

Remove with a slotted spatula and blot dry with paper towels. Remove center bones and skin, and flake halibut gently with a fork. Cool, then chill.

Just before serving, combine flaked halibut, potatoes, peas, celery and minced onion. Toss with dressing made by combining mayonnaise, mustard, milk and Tabasco. Serve on a bed of lettuce or cabbage, if desired. Makes 6 generous servings.

Troop Bill Charges Irk Senator

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said today he is neither playing politics nor acting as an undercover agent for the administration in presenting a resolution calling for a substantial reduction of U.S. troops in Europe.

Mansfield appeared a bit ruffled by some of the charges, arguments and suspicions raised by the resolution he introduced in company with the 12 other members of the Senate Democratic Policy Committee.

It is likely to set off more talk today when Mansfield said he will move to put it on the Senate calendar and block any effort to shunt the resolution to a committee, as urged by Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen.

However, Mansfield said in an interview he will not press for action on the controversial resolution until the Senate digs out from under such work as the civil rights bill and appropriations measures.

That would appear to put off the major debate on the resolution for at least a couple of weeks.

With the top Democratic senators drafting the resolution — and with the concern for defense cost and manpower needs in Viet Nam — there was some speculation originally that Mansfield and his colleagues might be secretly acting for the administration in proposing the troop reduction.

But Mansfield denied that. He said the administration's private opposition to the resolution is just as strong as its public reaction, if not stronger.

SEN. MIKE MANSFIELD

Burma Military Leader Arrives in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Ne Win, military leader of Burma, arrives in the United States today for an 11-day state visit. The 55-year-old chairman of Burma's Revolutionary Council will spend tonight at Williamsburg, Va. Thursday he receives President Johnson's personal welcome and 21-gun White House salute.

The Burmese leader will forego the stock appearances most foreign chiefs of state make here. For example, his schedule does not include any meetings with the press.

U.S. officials said Ne Win's, military leader of his country since 1948. Socialist government has a deep desire to stay out of trouble in Southeast Asia, especially in Viet Nam.

VISITS RED NATIONS

The general has been a recent visitor to Communist China and the Soviet Union.

Unlike many other state visitors, Ne Win is not expected to ask for U.S. economic assistance. American aid programs in Burma have dropped to a trickle of about $500,000 per year. Ne Win has been the top mili-

In October 1968, he was elected prime minister by the Chamber of Deputies with a mandate to restore peace and order to the country. In February 1969, he handed the government back to Prime Minister U Nu who was reelected by the Parliament. Two years later Ne Win stepped in once again in a revolutionary coup and arrested U Nu, and the elected leaders of the government and has remained in command since.

Peace Corps Has Changed Its Training Methods to Prepare for Real Situations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Peace Corps, now in its fifth year, has slowly changed the training methods it uses to prepare volunteers for duty in foreign countries.

Gradually, the corps has shifted training from the ivy-covered lecture halls of the nation's university campuses to the slum areas of the large cities, onto the Indian reservations of the Southwest and West and into the poverty pockets of Appalachia.

Volunteer trainees also are entering camps such as one in the Florida Keys which is to be similar to what the volunteers will find in the South Seas.

Or, like the Pennsylvania camp at Shawnee on Delaware

— some two hours from Philadelphia — where a market place and a temple have been built to give the trainee a touch of the atmosphere of a small village in India.

Other volunteers are being sent overseas immediately to the country in which they will undergo on-the-job training.

NEW, DIFFERENT "We're just trying to give them something new and different. A new change of life for most of them," said Brent Ashabrammer, director of the Peace Corps Division of University Relations and Training.

"We found that lecture halls and tile showers are detrimental to volunteers who will be working in underdeveloped areas."

Ashabrammer emphasized that universities — and recently private industry — are running the training programs. They have just moved them from the campus to the field.

The Peace Corps now has 12,000 volunteers serving in 46 nations of Asia, Africa and Latin America. On Aug. 16, Sally Po-land of Louisville, Ky., became the 10,000th volunteer to complete service overseas when she returned from Turkey.

Some 7,500 men and women are now in training programs which began in late June and early July and run through September. It is the largest number of trainees to sign up for any one period.

The summer programs train the volunteers in teaching, community development, health, agriculture and foreign languages.

Guess Who The Boss Is At Your A&P

It's you!

Think about it.

It makes sense.

All of us from the President on down work for you.

Frankly, where would we be without you and the many people like you.

We know.

We'd still be in that little store on Vesey Street where we started more than 100 years ago.

That's why you're important.

That's why we care so much about how we serve you... about being fair, honest and dependable.

Is this kind of attitude a good reason for shopping A&P?

It's one of many.

Space-Walker Astronaut Practices for Friday's Gemini Flight

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — "There's nothing between you and oblivion except a pressure suit, and you just can't afford to get out there and get in a big rush and tangle yourself up where nobody can help you."

Astronaut Richard F. Gordon

Jr. was talking about a 107-minute space walk he plans to take during the three-day Gemini II flight scheduled to start from Cape Kennedy Friday.

Navy Lt. Cmdr. Gordon and his flying partner, Navy Cmdr.

Charles Conrad Jr., planned to devote much of today practicing the space walk, with Gordon walking through the exercise after exiting from a mock spacecraft in a hanger.

On the two previous space walks, during Gemini 9 and 10, the astronauts had difficulty with overwork because of trouble maintaining their position in the weightless world.

"The biggest" thing I've learned from the people that have gone in the past," Gordon said in an interview. "is you just simply have to take your time and you can't exhaust yourself."

Flight controllers and medics will be watching closely as the astronaut takes his stroll, scheduled for Saturday, to determine whether new hand holds and foot restraints will help reduce the workload.

One of the first things Gordon will do outside is to unpack a 100-foot cord from a compartment in the Agena satellite to which the Gemini is to be linked. The astronauts are to attempt to catch the Agena in record time, during the first orbit, after their scheduled 9:25 a.m. EST liftoff Friday.

'Don't Ration Favorite Subject'

Creative Child Needs Patience

By LESLIE J. NASON, ED. D.

Dear Dr. Nason: Our son is very inconsistent in his school work. He spends too much time on science. He not only reads the textbook but the encyclopedia and, sometimes, a book from the library. He discusses some of the ideas with his father.

But this same hard working DR. NASON practically ignores his history lessons, and consequently he makes low grades.

Should we try to regulate the amount of time he spends on science in the hope that he will improve in history?

A. T., Glassboro, N.J.

Answer: Prohibiting his thinking about science will not increase your son's interest in history. This inconsistent behavior is often found in creative children.

In the hope this may be the case with your son, encourage, rather than discourage, his special interest. However, like the upper diaphragm, the history lessons are something that should be done.

You must approach this problem with kind firmness, holding out the rewarding outcome of increased attention to that subject.

The more he makes himself learn about it, the easier his studying will become.

Dear Dr. Nason: It appears to us that our 10-year-old daughter does not, cannot or will not learn and retain what she is taught.

She was given special tests at school, and we were told that she is an average student. Her teachers have told us that she does not learn easily, but have offered no solution.

We have had tutors for her every year but have not been satisfied with the results.

How should we go about finding proper help for this child?

Mrs. H. M., Salt Lake City, Utah

Answer: Talk the matter over with your family doctor. Then consult your daughter's principal. He may be able to place her in a special class that will more nearly meet her needs.

Another solution, for which he will have the information, would be a possible transfer to another school in the district which offers a specialized program.

Dear Dr. Nason: Our son is in the 2nd grade but doing 4th grade reading. His writing and arithmetic are good. However, near the end of last term he bought home a paper marked "slippy."

For two mornings after that, he said, "My stomach hurts. I don't want to go to school." I called his teacher who said she was surprised to hear this since he got along well with the other children.

The teacher then asked if we were planning a trip, since the boy had mentioned it. My husband and I were planning a weekend trip to Chicago.

Could events at home have such a drastic effect on my son's feeling toward school? We'd like to avoid a similar incident in the upcoming term.

Mrs. Y. N., Mill Vernon, N.Y.

Answer: Indeed they could. Particularly with a sensitive child. A child who does 4th grade reading in the second grade may be more than normally concerned about the actions of other members of the family.

You, as adults, cannot and should not allow a child to dominate your activities. However, discuss future family plans with your son, including his responsibility to go happily about succeeding in school.

Remember that he is still a little boy and desperately needs the security of your love and affection.

UAW Leaders Map Strategy

Plan to Seek Large Pay Hikes Next Year

DETROIT (AP)—Leaders of the United Auto Workers met today to map plans for attaining their announced goal of "substantial wage and salary increases for all UAW members" in 1967 contract bargaining with the auto firms.

A spokesman said, however, the union's 26-member international executive board is expected to stick to its guns in a decision not to fight for an immediate pay raise for the UAW's nearly 100,000 skilled tradesmen at General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp.

The board has spoken on this, "the spokesman said. After the three auto firms on Aug. 22 rejected UAW demands to reopen contracts and negotiate wage increases of at least 30 cents hourly for the skilled workers, the executive board accepted the rejections.

TOP PRIORITY

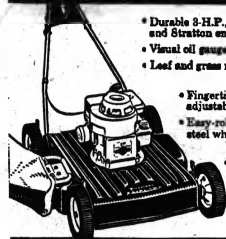

At the time, the board set top priority on wage and salary hikes in the contracts to be negotiated next year. The present pacts expire in September, 1967.

Other than what were described as "housekeeping" duties of the board, the group was expected to focus attention today on the UAW's special collective bargaining convention. The conference, to be held next April, will include delegates from all UAW locals across the nation. Its purpose will be to draft goals and strategy for the 1967 bargaining.

Anticoup Plan Gets Nowhere

Sanctions Key to Venezuela Doctrine

CARACAS (UPI) — Other Latin American nations have given a polite cold shoulder to Venezuela's efforts to export its Betancourt doctrine, a type of diplomatic sanction against government established by force.

Basically, the doctrine provides that Venezuela deny diplomatic recognition to any regime that gains power by forcefully ousting a constitutional government.

The sanction is diplomatic only. Commercial and cultural relations are not affected.

Venezuela considers this 7-year-old policy a means of thwarting the traditional Latin tendency to use the military revolution in place of the ballot.

And describing the policy as furthering the principles of representative democracy in the continent, the government of President Raul Leoni is trying to convince Venezuela's Latin neighbors to adopt similar policies.

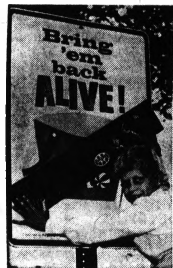

LITTLE EFFECT

But its sales campaign hasn't gotten very far.

Venezuela viewed the recent military take-over in Argentina as a major selling point for the Betancourt doctrine. And the Little Summit Conference with Chile, Colombia, Ecuador and Peru last month in Bogota seemed a convenient place to make a determined sales pitch.

But three days before the summit opened, Colombia followed the earlier example of Chile, Ecuador and Peru and recognized the Argentine military government of Lt. Gen. Juan Carlos Onganía.

Venezuelan government officials were privately dismayed at Colombia's action because it effectively closed the summit door to the Betancourt doctrine before Leoni had a chance to get his foot inside.

'School's Open, Drive Carefully,' Says Auto Club

With a record 1,650,000 children returning to classrooms across the state this fall, Automobile Club of Michigan is shifting emphasis this month from its "Bring 'Em Back Alive!" theme to "School's Open, Drive Carefully."

The Club has distributed 27,500 bumper stickers and 3,500 display posters across the state to help remind motorists that more cars and children will be on roads than ever before.

Auto Club points out that between 7 a.m. and 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. and 5 p.m., most of the state's children will be walking to and from school without adult supervision, many for the first time.

'U.S. Won't Cut S. Korea Troops'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department has moved to assure the South Korean government that the United States has no plans to reduce its forces in that country.

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey denied Tuesday that there were any such plans when asked about reports from Seoul that South Korea has asked for clarification of congressional suggestions for reducing American forces in Korea.

Manufacturers Are Stuffing Everything Imaginable Into Tin Cans Now

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP) — You run to the cupboard to get down a can of dress and hat, a can of milk, and a wee can of pearls. Your husband asks if you will please get him that six-pack of ties on the shelf.

Because you are expecting a guest you may also reach for a vacuum-packed chair, and for use in case the conversation grows stale, several cans of fresh air.

For pleasant background you know you can always count on your canned music.

This could be you today, as uncanny as it sounds.

GROWING INDUSTRY

Grandma may have quit preserving things with her boiling pots, jars, rubber rings and paraffin. But the industry she fostered marches on. The pressurized tin cylinder, standard equipment in the brick kitchen and the doughboy's duffelbag, and the recent flip-top darling of the beverage industry, now store more than mere food and drink.

Recently a dress manufacturer announced it is putting up its dresses and hats in cans. The label matches the lively clashing colors and kaleidoscopic patterns of the garments inside. When the lid pops off, wrinkle-proof, nylon fabric comes out like shaving cream. Besides floppy hats there are baby trapeze styles, dropped waists and body-molding fashions with kinky skirts.

It was a California manufacturer who decided to can men's ties, featuring a handy pack of six for the man who is wearing more than one.

Perhaps the choicest cannery in the country is the stockroom of a New York department store during its holiday season. There in assembly line fashion a busy machine pops lids onto jute-sized cylinders containing silk stockings, slacks, mink coats, jewelry, sweaters, sexy lingerie and bikinis.

CANNED AIR

Canned air is a favorite item sold in gift shops to people who still believe it's the sentiment that really counts.

Pancy candles, matches and puzzles are more novelties and nondrinkables sealed in round tins with prestigious labels.

Inspired by the bean can dear to the heart of the native Bosnian, Hesh Wiener edits a publication called "Can" and delivers it, contained, to subscribers by figuring a way to stuff his product under the lid of a can.

Moreover, the maker of an inflatable vinyl chair is currently vogue. Thanks to pop artist West Coast serve hunches still Andy Warhol's popularization of in cans. Hairdresser Julius Can-

Whitey Ford Won't Adjourn

Chairman Ex-Officio? Not Yet

NEW YORK (NEA) — The naturally stirred talk that Ford, the windiest pitcher in Yankee history (234-102) and leader of the current Yankee old guard, was through.

The Yankees, from the front office down, will have none of it.

"Let's not get sentimental before it's time," said Ralph Houk. "In the first place, Whitey's operation is 100 per cent successful, the doctor told me. Whitey pitched pretty well most of this season until the circulation broke down again."

"He tells me he's not through pitching yet and now there's nothing I know that makes me think otherwise."

TENDER TIMES

"There'll be some tender and anxious moments, I'm sure, when he starts working out again this fall and later pitching in the winter league."

"But Whitey is probably the most dependable baseball player in the clutch I've ever seen. In many ways you can call this a clutch situation for him and, on this basis, I'm not about to count that guy out."

Ford first complained of numbness in his left hand late in the 1964 season and was unable to pitch again after leaving the first game of the World Series.

That fall he went to Houston where his condition — blockage of an artery — was alleviated by a minor operation. He was told then that eventually he would need another operation.

"I felt the numbness coming back about a month ago," Ford said from his hospital bed.

know that Jack Sanford — who's only seven months younger than I am, by the way — had a similar operation in '64.

"So when we got to California in early August, I talked to Sanford about it. He says he's fine now and his record shows it. One thing he suggested was that I start throwing sooner, within six weeks. He told me he waited too long and wasted a year getting back into shape."

Mickey Mantle and Ford are close friends. They have become even closer, says Mantle, smiling, since "Whitey started getting a taste of hospital life."

DREAM TEAM

"I will say this," Mantle added, "if I ever had the chance to pick a dream team in a dream game, Whitey'd be my starting pitcher. He's unbelievable in the clutch and that's why I know he'll be back."

Nor is Ford's catcher, Elston Howard, alarmed.

"I look at the rest of our pitching staff and then I look at Whitey," Howard said. "As far as I'm concerned, the Chairman of the Board is still Chairman of the Board."

Senators Taking Ride on Detroit Waterway

LANSING (U)—The State Senate Conservation Committee planned to go for a boat ride on the Detroit River today and the water had better be cleaner than it was 15 months ago.

The committee, headed by Carl O'Brien, D-Pontiac, is checking on how well industries and municipalities are complying with tightened water pollution control laws.

It planned a four-day study tour, starting in Detroit and moving to Northern Michigan Friday and Saturday.

The Legislature tightened Michigan's basic water pollution control law last year, and made it tougher yet this year.

It also appropriated $2.5 million this year to help local governments clean up pollution.

Next week, six state senators, including O'Brien, will attend a national conference on water pollution headed by Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

Also attending the Sept. 15-16 conference in Chicago will be Sens. Jerome Hart, D-Saginaw; John McCauley, D-Wyandotte; Joseph Mack, D-Ironwood; Garry Brown, R-Schoolcraft, and Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis.

Derby Winners Reflect Area's Summer Fishing

Bass and pike fishermen had a lean summer in Oakland County waters.

For the second straight year pike fishing was rated poor. The bass, after a good 1965, proved to be only fair in the angling department.

The summer fishing is reflected by the winners of the 31st annual Pontiac Press Big Fish Contest which ended yesterday. Both winning fish were well below average.

An 11 1/4-pound northern took the pike division. It was caught early in June at Long Lake near Davidsburg by Willard Dye, 12750 Scott, Springfield Township.

The top bass was a 6 1/2-pound largemouth, also taken early in June. Charles W. Liskey, 1736 M's n.e., Waterford Township, made the catch at Holdridge Lake in the Holly recreation area.

The winning anglers will receive $50 Savings Bonds.

September and early October probably is the best time of year to fish for bass and pike.

Cool nights and moderate days causes waters near shore to lose warmth and the bass move into these favored feeding areas during the day.

Good catches of bass are being made on many area lakes during the afternoons.

Pike fishing begins to pick up about this time and reaches its peak around Oct. 1. Few fishermen, however, take advantage of this. They are too busy preparing for the coming hunting seasons.

Walleye fishing on the upper St. Clair River is very good in October with fish average three pounds.

Solunar Tables

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's SOLUNAR TABLES. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory at hounding in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

Race Winner Takes Dunking

High Winds Hamper Cass Lake Sailing

Neither fog, thundershowers, light breezes or near gale winds could keep Ro Redner from winning the Class Lake Shearwater Club's first championship last weekend.

But the elements almost succeeded where the opposition failed.

Redner and his son, Bob, were catapulted into the water Monday when high winds flipped their catamaran. Both escaped with only bruises.

Two first in the fog and thundershowers Saturday and a pair of seconds in very light breezes Sunday earned the Redners a big enough lead to overcome the penalty points awarded Monday because they did not finish.

Three entries cracked up in Monday's high winds.

One of the casualties, Frank Marriot, broke a side stay, sailed to the dock for repairs, returned to race; and placed sixth in the field of ninth.

The mishap, however, cost him the championship. He was leading when the stay let go.

Gene Truette was runner-up in the overall standings. Marriot was third.

Hunters Show Set Sept. 15-18 Michigan Fox

The Michigan State Fox Hunting Association's annual field trial and bench show will be Sept. 15-18 at the Christian Youth Camp east of Lapeer.

Hounds will be cast at dawn the last three days. The field trial will be run under national rules.

The bench show will be at 8 p.m. on Sept. 17. C.L. Brave of Louisville, Ill., will judge conformation.

The grounds are located on Lake George Road, one mile north of M21.

Treetop Traveler

The fisher is the fastest treetop traveler in the animal world. It can even overtake the marten which is renowned for its ability in catching red squirrels in the treetops.

Improved Outlook for Salmon Fishing

Recent recoveries of coho salmon from northern Lake Michigan indicate that this state's fishermen may be in for more than their usual share of catch this fall.

The newly-introduced coho, added attractions during the extended fall season on rainbow and brown trout which starts Sept. 12, show signs of making tremendous growth.

Within the last several weeks, about a dozen of the fish have been netted by commercial fishermen in northern Lake Michigan. Planted as 4-6 inch fingerlings last spring, they have ranged from about 10 inches to 21 1/2 inches. The 21 1/2 - inch should find plenty of targets in the marshes - if the weather cooperates.

"This is by far the biggest coho taken in Lake Michigan," said Howard Greene, district game biologist for the Conservation Department, reports that 12,000 coho are being planted in the Har-spectacular ones before they hang up their gear this fall," reports Wayne H. Tody, acting chief of the Conservation Department's Fish Division.

The fast growth of the coho is only part of the promising picture for fall fishermen.

In at least one location—between Manistee and Ludington—fish are schooling up. Department fisheries men see in this a good sign that some of the fast-growing lumpers are getting ready to migrate up a few miles to Lake Michigan streams this fall.

Actual timing of the runs is not certain, but the best guess is that they will start in early October and continue into November.

Biggest coho runs are expected in the Platte and Manistee rivers where about 600,000 tiny planted coho made their way downstream into Lake Michigan last spring.

From the Upper Peninsula this week came the first confirmed report of a coho salmon taken in Lake Superior waters.

The 11-inch, eight-ounce fish was caught by a commercial fisherman in the Traverse Bay area of the Keweenaw Peninsula.

The fish was smaller than most of those recovered in Lake Michigan, owing partly to the fact that it was planted later. Also, department fisheries men believe the coho did not grow as fast because of Lake Superior's colder waters.

For that part of the state, this fall's heaviest invasion of coho is most likely to occur in Baraga County's Big Huron River. About 200,000 fingerlings were released in that stream last spring.

Although the Platte, Manistee and Big Huron rivers are seen as the potential hot spots for coho runs this fall, the fish may swim up other streams.

Plenty of Teal for Special Season

Duck hunters who plan to participate in the special teal season that opens at noon Monday Sept. 12, should find plenty of targets in the marshes - if the weather cooperates.

Howard Greene, district game biologist for the Conservation Department, reports that 12,000 coho are being planted in the Har-sen's Island refuge last weekend and more were arriving.

"A good windy day should stir them (teal) up," said Greene. "Otherwise, the ducks will just sit around."

Greene also said that 8,500 permits have been issued for the season that ends Sept. 20. Over 500 Oakland County gunners received the cards and another 1,600 in Wayne County.

"Heaviest pressure is expected to be on the St. Clair Flats and Saginaw Bay."

"About 90 per cent of the teal on Harson's are blue-wings," said Greene. "I'm sure that the same holds true for Saginaw Bay. The greenwings do not migrate south until later."

strain Cook County Sheriff Richard Ogilvie from further prosecution on a charge of obstructing a peace officer. Rockwell told the court he had been unable to obtain counsel and was appearing in his own behalf.

County Study Share Due Further Review

Members of the ways and means committee of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors yesterday withheld a 1967 budget recommendation on a transportation and land use study.

Further review of the proposed $29,000 cost was earmarked because it exceeded ex-

The study, which includes seven southeastern Michigan counties including Oakland, is being financed by all the counties as well as several organizations.

David Levinson, chairman of the ways and means committee, objected to the cost increase to Oakland County.

Cost estimates when the study began last year have since been raised 10 per cent for the entire project and Oakland County's share has been raised from 16 to 20 per cent of the share for counties.

ADVISMENT

Levinson told Irving Rubin, director of the study, that the committee would take the matter under advisement.

Also yesterday, the committee further discussed a proposed $100,000 expenditure to begin a real property parcel numbering system but deferred a recommendation.

The system, which would cost an estimated $400,000 to establish over four years, would simplify assessing and tax collecting, according to the County Board of Auditors.

Congo Chief Raps Peking

Will Vote Against Admission to U.N.

KINSHASA, Leopoldville, the Congo (AP) — President Joseph Mobutu has declared that the Congo will vote against admitting Communist China to the United Nations.

Speaking to Kinshasa editors Tuesday, Mobutu said:

"My government is not ready, at least at the present time, to envisage the establishment of diplomatic relations with People's China. The misdeeds and interference of that country in our internal affairs are still too fresh in our memory for the Congolese people to forget so soon. This is so, for a good many involved in the insurrectional uprisings in a good number of our regions."

"The arms of Chinese make found by loyalists in the hands of the insurgents is eloquent proof of the involvement of that foreign country in the essentially internal problems of the Congo."

VOTE AGAINST

"It is for that reason that during the coming session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York, I have ordered my delegation to vote against the admission of Communist China to the body of that organization."

Mobutu said that his government will pursue friendly relations with Nationalist China, Taipei, which has an embassy in Kinshasa, formerly Leopoldville. Peking is represented in the neighboring Congo Republic.

Thieves Take Typewriters in City Break-In

Thieves broke into the Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine early yesterday, taking typewriters valued at $1,530, it was reported to Pontiac police.

The break-in was the second at the college building at 900 Auburn in a month. Five typewriters worth $2,400 were reported stolen Aug. 29.

Police were told three typewriters — all electric office models — were missing when custodians opened the college yesterday morning.

Entry to the building had been gained by breaking a large front window, police said.

Woman Hurt in Accident

A woman was injured yesterday afternoon in a car-truck accident at Hatchery and Fremont in Waterford Township.

Listed in fair condition at Pontiac General Hospital is Fabiana F. Sulkanen, 44, of 6426 Monrovia, Waterford Township.

Driver of the truck was William C. Lessel, 55, of 3354 Shaw, Waterford Township, according to township police.

Columnist Will Address Club

Willis E. Stone, chairman of the National Committee for Economic Freedom and author of the liberty amendment to the Constitution, will speak at a meeting of the Oakland County Conservative Club Sept. 15 at 8 p.m. in Knights of Columbus Hall, Southfield.

His column, "American Way," appears in more than 3,000 U.S. newspapers. He is active in American Legion affairs and is a past deputy district governor of Lions Clubs.

'Agrees With Me'

Kelley Said Badges Legal---Bronson

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley today agreed that Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson's distribution of metal badges to supporters was not a state law violation, according to Bronson.

"We talked on the phone this morning," Bronson said, "and the attorney general concurred with my interpretation of the statute."

Bronson said that the 35 badges he distributed were embossed with the emblem of the State Coat of Arms.

"This is different from the Great Seal of the State of Michigan," Bronson said.

He pointed out that both the coat of arms and great seal show two elks standing side-by-side, but that the great seal includes this identification as well as Latin language.

NOT SPECIFIED
"The badge I gave out did not specify, Great Seal of Michigan," Bronson said.

Kelley said yesterday that he would informally investigate the badges in connection with state law that prohibits use of any facsimile of the seal.

Kelley added then, however, that the law was not specific and would have to be tested in court.

Bronson said last week that the badges carry no official authority and were only honorary.

Deaths in Pontiac Area

Mrs. Frances M. Blynn

Mrs. Frances M. Blynn of 251 Osmond died yesterday after a short illness. Her body is at the Sparks-Griffin Funeral Home.

Lori L. Harris

Prayers for Lori Leigh Harris, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Harris of 1658 Fremont, Waterford Township, were to have been offered this morning at Hutton Funeral Home with burial in Highland Cemetery, Milford.

The infant was dead at birth Monday.

Surviving besides the parents are grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Harry Randall of Milford and Mr. and Mrs. George Harris of Pontiac.

Mrs. Alvah Tibbetts

Mrs. Alvah (Francis) Tibbetts, 26, of 714 Jessie died yesterday afternoon after a short illness. Her body is being sent to Texas for funeral services.

Mrs. Tibbetts was a member of St. Michael's Catholic Church and the Mexican society of the church.

Surviving besides her husband are four children, Alvah, Lila, Dan and Tammy, all at home; her mother, Mrs. Thomas Bosquez; a sister, Mrs. Mary Gonzales; and two brothers, Joseph and Raymond Bosquez.

Mrs. Gail VanOsdel

HOLLY — Service for Mrs. Gail (Marie M.) VanOsdel, 73, of 213 N. Saginaw will be 10:30 a.m. Saturday at the Dryer Funeral Home. Burial will be in White Chapel Memorial Cemetery, Troy.

Mrs. VanOsdel died yesterday after a long illness. She was a member of the Holy Calvary Methodist Church.

Surviving are two sons, Eugene of Dearborn and Jack of Honolulu, Hawaii; one brother, three sisters; and seven grandchildren.

Mrs. Benjamin Worden

OXFORD — Service for Mrs. Benjamin (Tina) Worden, 66, of Pearl will be 1:30 p.m. Friday at the Hutton Funeral Home, Pontiac. Burial will be in Rose-dale Cemetery, Berkley.

Mrs. Worden died yesterday after a short illness.

Surviving are a daughter, Mr. Gail Stern of Oxford; two sons, Edwin Bennett of Pontiac and Dale of Kalamazoo; a sister, and two brothers.

The 10-foot-thick walls of the Citadel, near Cap Haitien, Haiti, have withstood more than 100 years of tropical rains and sun although built without cement. The walls were constructed of a mixture of local materials bound together with sugar cane juice.

NEW TROOPS ARRIVE — South Vietnamese girls greet some of the 1,800 members of the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment who landed today at Vung Tau, 45 miles southeast of Saigon. The power-packed regiment, whose prime mission will be road-clearing, has about 1,000 vehicles including the first of a type of heavily armed and fortified personnel carriers modified for use in guerrilla warfare.

'Need Miracle on Highways'

CHICAGO (UPI) — With another holiday traffic record broken, the National Safety Council said today it would take a "motoring miracle" to hold highways deaths in the United States below 50,000 this year.

The council said new federal regulations on auto safety would have "no immediate effect."

Figures through the first seven months of this year showed 28,659 persons have already been killed in traffic accidents on the nation's highways. Not included were the record 61 deaths recorded during the Labor Day weekend.

The seven-months total represented a 10 per cent increase over the record pace set during the same period last year.

The death rate, computed on fatalities for every 100 million vehicle miles, was 5.4, compared to 5.2 at the same time last year.

Two Charged With Break-In

Arraigned in Entry of Waterford Business

Two Independence Township youths were arraigned yesterday on a charge of breaking and entering Joe's M&W and Edge-water Service, 2083 W. Huron, Waterford Township.

Ernest A. Farris, 17, of 5306 Oak Park waived examination before Waterford Justice Patrick K. Daly. He will appear in Circuit Court for arraignment at 9 a.m. Sept. 20.

The second suspect, Michael N. Williams, 17, of 3854 Dvorak stood mute at his arraignment.

He will appear before Daly at 1:30 p.m. Sept. 21 for preliminary examination.

Bond was set at $500 for each suspect.

A cash box, containing about $25 in change, was taken in the break-in, according to State Police. A side window had been broken to gain entry.

State Police stopped a car driven by Farris for a traffic violation yesterday morning at Clintonville and Mann and found a cash box in his possession.

Board Okays Waterford Pact

The Waterford Township Board of Education made it official last night by unanimously ratifying a 1966-67 contract with the district's schoolteachers.

The agreement, which will cost the board approximately $550,000 more in salaries and fringe benefits than last year's package, had previously been approved by negotiating teams and by the teachers.

Election Violence

Cong Terror Building Up

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A rash of bombings and new intelligence reports today indicated the Communists were building up a wave of violence in the four days left before South Viet Nam's election of a constitutional assembly.

Sixteen persons have been injured in four bombing attacks in Saigon and Hue in the past 48 hours.

A woman Viet Cong agent was captured in Hue with six hand grenades. She admitted being part of a six-person terror cell and said they had orders to use their grenades on election day, Sept. 11.

A similar terror cell was broken up in Dan Nang earlier this week and 50 pounds of explosives were seized.

CAPTURED DOCUMENT

Official quarters also disclosed a captured Viet Cong document that evidently came from senior authorities in the National Liberation Front. It ordered armed attacks on vital government personnel and the "all-out" effort.

who are forcing our people to vote."

The order directed teams to place bombs beneath and in polling places before election day — presumably timed to go off on Sunday.

The document, marked top secret by the Viet Cong, was seized by U.S. soldiers during a sweep in the area north of Saigon several days ago.

Official sources said practically every province in South Viet Nam reported evidence of stepped up Red pressure. Armed propaganda teams were slipping nightly into countless hamlets to harangue and threaten villagers.

PRESSURE

The Communists can bring direct or indirect pressure on almost half of the nearly five million people eligible to vote. The Reds in effect control areas where about one quarter of the people live.

This fact, coupled with the militant Buddhist minority, makes prediction of turnout almost impossible.
