Junta Threat Follows Strafing

'Will Bomb if Needed'

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — With two junta planes circling overhead, the chief of the Dominican junta armed forces warned today that rebel holdouts in Santo Domingo will be bombed again "if the situation warrants it."

As he spoke, two junta planes, a P-51 Mustang and a Vampire jet, circled over downtown Santo Domingo.

HELMSMAN TESTIFIES — Leonard T. Gabryziak, 34, Rogers City, who was at the wheel of the ill-fated Cedarville when it collided with a Norwegian freighter a week ago, testifies at a U.S. Coast Guard board of inquiry in St. Ignace. His testimony conflicted with that of Capt. Martin E. Joppich, master of the Cedarville.

Testimony Differs on Cedarville Speed

ST. IGNACE (UPI) — The wheelman of the Cedarville continued running his ship at full speed in dense fog despite a radar picture showing another ship coming at him on collision course, testimony at a Coast Guard inquiry revealed yesterday.

On the stand was Leonard Gabryziak, a licensed mate who was at the wheel of the Cedarville when she collided with the Norwegian merchantman Topdalsford in the Straits of Mackinac last Friday.

The Cedarville sank within 21 minutes after the collision and 10 of her 35 crewmen died.

Gabryziak, 35, said the two ships were only a few minutes apart when Capt. Martin Jop-

There was no immediate word that planes again had gone into action against rebels as they did yesterday when about six aircraft made strafing runs that knocked out rebel radio installations and caused at least one death.

"I personally ordered the attack," said Rivera. Caminero after emerging from an early morning conference with Gen. Antonio Imbert Barreras, president of the junta. "If the situation warrants it, we'll attack again."

Imbert could not be reached for comment.

Rivera Caminero said the attack was ordered because rebels were repeatedly violating the cease-fire agreement by broadcasting propaganda inciting the population to violence and also by attacking the junta transport center north of the west-end corridor controlled by the United States.

At same time, however, Rivera Caminero stressed the

Viets Trap Red Units, Kill 215

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Government forces pulled out of an area near Bac Lieu, in the southern Mekong River delta, today after trapping five Viet Cong companies and killing 215 Viet Cong.

To the north, Viet Cong guerrillas jumped two U.S. Marine reconnaissance patrols about 14 miles west of the Da Nang air base, killed one Marine and wounded six or seven others, including a helicopter pilot.

A U.S. spokesman said U.S. Navy planes from the carrier Oriskany hit Red targets in South Viet Nam yesterday. No strikes against Communist North Viet Nam were reported.

A U.S. military spokesman said 18 South Vietnamese were killed and 77 wounded in the two-stage battle near Bac Lieu, 125 miles southwest of Saigon. It began in the morning yesterday and raged until late at night. Four Americans were wounded.

The operation netted a considerable haul of Communist supplies including Soviet-made guns.

SCOUT SWAMPS
The fighting began at 6 a.m. when a government battalion scouting swamps encountered a guerrilla force.

A reconnaissance company was flown in by helicopter and by 11:30 a.m., the Reds were put to flight.

Half an hour later a scout plane spotted a concentration of Viet Cong about 30 miles north of the area. Two Vietnamese companies were quickly flown to the spot.

The Communists put up a hard fight despite a pounding by armed helicopters and fighter bombers. By late afternoon, the government flew in a battalion of reinforcements.

PINNED DOWN

Fighting resumed today, and two Vietnamese battalions were pinned down three hours before the Reds were routed by four air strikes with napalm bombs.

"They were a well-trained unit," said a U.S. adviser at the scene.

Capt. John Brown of Beverly, Mass., a helicopter pilot, said: "For the first time over here I actually saw the Viet Cong stand up to one of their holets, take aim and fire right at me."

The Marines were ambushed while setting up listening posts along the Ca De River to get a line on routes used by the Communists to move troops and supplies toward the big U.S.-Vietnamese base at Da Nang.

Romney Asks Citizen Aid in Bid for Fiscal Reform

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney has asked a cross-section of Michigan citizens to fill in the blanks on his fiscal reform "questionnaire."

At the end of a 2½-hour meeting on fiscal reform yesterday, Romney asked the group of some 700 citizens to take his budget and revenue alternatives and "write me within the next month to tell me what you think."

"Those of you who represent groups should ascertain the viewpoint of your membership," he added.

Deadline Nears to File for Two School Elections

Prospective candidates for Pontiac and Waterford Township school board posts have until 4 p.m. tomorrow to file nominating petitions.

Petitions must be filed at the respective board of education offices.

The offices will be open between 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. tomorrow.

Two board positions will be filled in Pontiac. These posts are currently held by William H. Anderson and Victor P. Sutt.

INDICATIONS

Indications are that Anderson will seek reelection; Sutt will not.

The deadline to register to vote in the school election is 8 p.m. Monday at respective city or township clerk offices.

A four-year term will be at stake in the Waterford Township school election. Frederick J. Poole, whose term is expiring, will not seek reelection.

Supervisors Dispute Strike Right Policy

Taking issue with a Wednesday policy statement of the State Board of Education, the Oakland County Township Supervisors Association yesterday voiced opposition to the right of teachers, police and firemen to strike.

In a meeting at Howe's Lanes in Clarkston, the association went on record as supporting the Hutchinson Act which calls for the firing of striking public employees.

John Richard, West Bloomfield Township supervisor, said that allowing public employees to strike would result in chaos.

The motion to support the Hutchinson Act was offered by Duane Hurstfall, Independence Township supervisor, and supported by Waterford Township Supervisor James E. Seeterlin.

The supervisors also opposed House Bill 2457 which calls for a 56-hour work week for firemen because it was felt budgets would not allow such a schedule.

SUPPORT FOR BILL

Association members registered support of House Bill 2590 which prohibits dumping of refuse in a community without the consent of that community's government.

ASSOCIATION

Opposition was also aimed at Senate Bill 475 which would require one voting machine for every 300 voters. This also was considered an undue expense.

The Association honored J. Wesley Duncan, retired Rose Township Supervisor, for his long tenure of public service.

Trying to Meet U.S. Threats, Says Peking

Broadcast Adds That Tests Are for Purpose of Abolishing N-Arms

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China said today it had exploded its second atomic bomb — aimed at developing nuclear weapons to cope "with nuclear blackmail and threats of the United States."

Peking radio made the announcement and added that the nuclear tests also were "for the purpose of abolishing all nuclear weapons."

"China is conducting necessary nuclear tests within the defined limits and is developing the nuclear weapon for the purpose of coping with nuclear blackmail and threats of the United States."

The Chinese nuclear explosion erupted over the western area of mainland China at 10 a.m. Peking time today, the broadcast said. It called the test a success.

The explosion probably was in remote Sinkiang Province of northwest China last Oct. 16 when Red China exploded its first atomic device. President Johnson has said this came at Lop Nor, a lake in the Sinkiang desert.

Two weeks before the first explosion, both Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Canada's WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. government confirmed today that Red China has set off a second Hiroshima-size atomic explosion. It renewed a promise to support non-nuclear nations against "threat of nuclear blackmail."

Foreign Secretary Paul Martin had warned that such a Red Chinese move was imminent.

The Chinese coupled their first announcement with a blast at the United States — in almost the same words they used this time — and made a bid for a world conference of heads of state to discuss nuclear disarmament.

Ironically, just yesterday an American official in London said the world's great powers have until early 1968 to stop the spread of atomic weapons.

By then, some 20 countries will be able to make atomic bombs, the informant said, listing India, Pakistan, Japan, Indonesia, Israel, the United Arab Republic and Sweden.

A communique broadcast by Peking radio referred to "an atomic bomb" but the first one, at least, was believed to have been an atomic device. This did not have the refinements of a real bomb.

Red China still lacks the capability of delivering a bomb over great distances. Its rocket development is in its infancy.

Queen Dedicates British JFK Memorial

RUNNYMEDE, England (AP) — On the hallowed fields of Magna Carta, Queen Elizabeth II with Mrs. John F. Kennedy at her side today dedicated Britain's memorial to the late American president.

It was a sultry, sunny day, the hottest May since 1953.

The solemn ceremonies unfolded only a short distance from the spot where Magna Carta, with its precious liberties, was signed 750 years ago.

With the queen's dedication, the rectangular memorial of Portland stone, and some of the historic ground immediately around it, became American property.

They were the gift of the British people to millions of whom Kennedy was a revered figure, symbolizing a young and vigorous America.

President Johnson asked Secretary of State Dean Rusk to accept the memorial on behalf of the American people.

"I do so with the joy and sadness which shall forever mark those of us who served with John Fitzgerald Kennedy," said Rusk, who also was Kennedy's secretary of state.

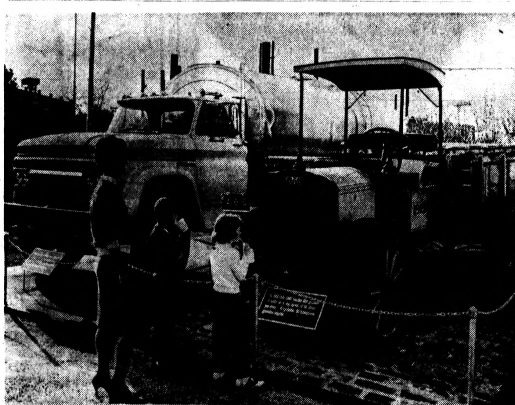

"When the American people learned about this tribute to our beloved president we were deeply moved — not only because you decided to share with us this Runnymede which is a common and precious symbol — but also because what you have done reflects so sensitive an understanding of John F. Kennedy himself."

"President Kennedy would have been the first to recall that his own state of Massachusetts in 1641 had adopted a 'Body of Liberties' in response to a need for a fundamental law resembling Magna Carta."

House Groups Okay Traffic Safety Bills

LANSING (AP)—An unsatisfied judgment bill, designed to protect innocent victims of the uninsured motorist, and a package of traffic safety bills were swept out of the House committee today in a late flood of legislation reaching the House floor.

All bills must be reported out of committee in the house of origin today if they are to be acted upon in this session of the legislature.

The unsatisfied judgment fund pushed hard by Secretary of State James Hare and opposed by most Michigan automobile insurers, is aimed at assisting "the hardship cases." Hare said these are persons who would suffer extreme financial damage as a result of an accident with one of Michigan's 600,000 uninsured drivers.

Automobile underwriters, who would have been assessed one per cent of their Michigan premiums, opposed the plan in committee hearings. They suggested as a possible alternative uninsured motorist coverage riders on existing policies.

The House Judiciary Committee, said Chairman William Boos, D-Saginaw, has eliminated the assessment against the insurance companies.

The annual fee to be paid at the time an uninsured motorist registers his car was raised from $10 to $50. A $1 fee for all other motorists was deleted from the bill.

The minimum size of an eligible claim was raised from $300 to $500. Coverage was limited to bodily injury, eliminating property damage claims.

Judgments for an individual would be limited to $10,000 and for the occupants of one automobile to $20,000.

Although insurance companies would not be required to make any financial contributions to the fund, they would be required to supply personnel to help administer it, Boos said.

The vehicle safety bills would make motor vehicle inspection compulsory and allow the state to regulate driver licensing.

DRIVER TRAINING

They would require driver training courses for all persons receiving their first license, or who were unable to prove they had received a license in another country or state within the three years previous.

They also would set maximum passenger limits on school buses, require safety inspections and allow establishment of safety regulations for school buses.

Bills to permit compulsory arbitration for public employees who are forbidden to strike, define their rights to organize and elect bargaining agents, and to empower the State Labor Mediation Board to conduct representation elections, were reported out of the labor committee.

Admit Liuzzo Report Taken

Detroit Police Chief Orders Investigation

DETROIT (UPI)—A Detroit Police official conceded yesterday that virtually all of the information in a confidential report on Mrs. Viola Liuzzo, the slain civil rights worker, came from Detroit police files.

The report was sent to Sheriff James G. Clark, of Dallas County, Ala., by Police Commissioner Marvin G. Lane of Warren and subsequently turned up in possession of the Ku Klux Klan.

Detroit Police Commissioner Ray Girardin has ordered an investigation into how detailed information in the file was obtained by Lane.

Lane was a former chief of detectives in the Detroit Police Department.

His successor, Vincent W. Piersante said it was "obvious" most of all of Lane's information came from the Detroit files.

ACCESS TO FILES

He said about 40-50 Detroit detectives had access to the files.

Girardin declined to say whether any disciplinary action would be taken if it was determined who smuggled out information that Lane obtained.

"We'll have to cross that bridge when we come to it," said Girardin.

There were repeated similarities in both content and wording of Lane's report to Sheriff Clark. Lane has refused to disclose how he got the information.

TWO REQUESTS

Detroit police also requested that they received two requests from Alabama sheriffs for background information on Mrs. Liuzzo.

Signal Compromise on Reserve Merger

WASHINGTON (AP) — A zero-hour compromise in the dispute over the Pentagon's Reserve merger plan was signaled today.

The principal antagonists, Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, scheduled a joint news conference for Saturday morning.

The Pentagon announced in a brief statement that McNamara will go to Capitol Hill to join Hebert to face the press together.

There was no tip-off as to the subject of the conference.

EXTENDED HEARINGS
However, Hebert's House Armed Services subcommittee has held extended hearings on the Defense Department proposal to merge all Army Reserve units into the National Guard.

When McNamara announced the plan Dec. 12 it set off a storm of controversy within the Reserves and within Congress. Hebert charged that McNamara was attempting to defoul congressional authority in carrying out the plan without legislation.

A month ago, when Hebert reversed the hearings for the Easter holiday, he issued an "open invitation" for Mr. McNamara to come before this committee and say, "Yes, we are partners. I need your help."

McNamara has said he is seeking congressional authority for the controversial plan. But the argument has boiled down to the issue of what the secretary considers to be congressional authority.

In his appearance before an appropriation subcommittee last month, McNamara said, "I am leaving up to the Congress to decide how to handle action on the proposal."

But he argued that in recent years Congress has used appropriation bills to establish the size of the Reserve and Guard forces.

"I am simply following the precedent Congress has established," McNamara said.

HEARS VERDICT — Oklahoma Supreme Court Justice N. B. Johnson (foreground) and his attorney, J. Fred Green, are shown listening to a roll call of the state Senate yesterday which found the 74-year-old Cherokee Indian justice guilty on two bribery counts. The Senate, by two 32-15 votes, removed Johnson from office. He was found guilty of accepting bribes totaling $10,000 in connection with two cases before the state's highest court.

Reforms Hinted in 'Wake of Judge's Impeachment'

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Gov. Henry Bellmon began looking today for a replacement for a State Supreme Court justice found guilty of accepting bribery money and ousted from the office he held for 16 years.

"It is apparent," said the governor, "that it is past the time for reform in the method of the selection of our state officials. We will take immediate steps to fill the vacancy." The court is elected by the people.

Justice Napoleon Bonaparte Johnson, 74, a Cherokee Indian, listened impassively Thursday as senators, sitting as a court of impeachment, answered the roll call on two bribery accusations. Johnson glanced frequently at tally sheets kept by his attorneys as the voting progressed.

The roll call followed three hours of private conference by the Senate.

SUSTAINED

"Two-thirds of this court having voted aye, I declare article one to be sustained and you are thereby under the constitution and the statutes of Oklahoma found guilty and it is the judgment of the court that you be removed from office as justice of the Supreme Court of Oklahoma," presiding Judge Roy Grantham told Johnson. The judge repeated the statement on the second count.

The vote on each count was 32-15, the bare minimum for conviction.

Rep. Lou Allard, who headed the House prosecuting team and a personal friend of Johnson, said quietly, "This is a terrible decision to have to make."

"I hope that it restores confidence in government and particularly in the men in the Senate and House of Representatives," he added. "I do hope it will restore confidence in our Supreme Court."

Johnson, a Democrat whose legal career spans three decades, would have completed his term January 1967. He was accused of taking a $7,500 bribe in a 1957 Selected Investments Corp. tax appeal case and a $2,500 payoff in a 1959 Oklahoma Co. vs. O'Neil oil lease case.

His impeachment trial lasted seven days and Johnson throughout denied the allegations.

Six of the seven Republicans in the Senate voted with the majority while one Republican and 14 Democrats voted acquittal. Also voting with the minority was Democratic Sen. Melvin Porter, the first Negro ever to serve in the Senate.

The court quickly adjourned and the senators collected in groups in the high-ceiling chamber, talking in whispers. Johnson walked past them erectly and slowly to meet newsmen in the corridor.

He read a statement he had prepared earlier which said, "While I am deeply disappointed with this verdict, I am glad to have had the opportunity to give the people of Oklahoma my side of the story that they may be the final judge." He had another statement to read if he had been acquitted. He stuffed it back into a coat pocket.

Johnson had no comment on his future plans.

The silver-haired justice's only daughter ran up to him and cried: "We know you didn't do it."

Her father did not reply.

Tears filled the eyes of friends and relatives as they accompanied the jurist down the Capitol steps.

Johnson, former president of the National Congress of American Indians and once named the outstanding American Indian, was the target of testimony by former Justice N.S. Corn, 81.

Corn admitted taking $157,000 in bribes and said he made payoffs to Johnson and Justice Earl Welch. Welch resigned last March before the House took final impeachment action against him.

Whites Aid Bombed Church

OXFORD, Ala. (AP) — The white citizens of Anniston, Ala., responded to the news that a small Negro church in a nearby community had been bombed by quickly contributing $2,000 toward its rebuilding.

The money poured in from individuals, industries and the Anniston Star in the northeast Alabama city which was the site last Sunday of a Ku Klux Klan rally and parade.

The fund was started as soon as it became known that the 29-member Pine Christian Methodist Episcopal Church in the Friendship community near here had been destroyed by a dynamite bomb.

The Rev. W. W. Thomas of Bessemer, presiding elder of the church, said a meeting has been scheduled Monday to lay out plans for the rebuilding.

TEAR IT DOWN

However, V. S. Westbrook, chairman of the board of stewards of the little Negro church, said the members would do most of the rebuilding themselves.

An employee of a paper company near Oxford, Westbrook added, "We are going to tear it down and start all over. It's too badly damaged to try to patch it up."

Westbrook, who discovered the damage wrought by a dynamite bomb that blasted the church's interior early Thursday, said, "The members of the church will contribute as much as they can" toward the rebuilding. Such contributions, he added, probably would be in the form of time and materials rather than money.

That's where the help from the white citizens of Anniston will come in handy — obtaining the materials necessary for restoring the church.

NO ONE HURT

The church, valued at between $7,000 and $10,000, was completely built by the members except for some bricklaying.

No one was hurt in the explosion which wrecked the church's sanctuary and rocked homes in a two-mile area.

City, county and state investigators along with FBI agents searched for clues among the debris.

London's Other Side

Hunt Goes On for 'Jack the Stripper'

(EDITOR'S NOTE—London is famed for its palaces, parks and cathedrals. There is another London where vice flourishes. A murderer who has killed six prostitutes has made Londoners keenly aware of the seamy side of London town. This dispatch tells how "Jack the Stripper" operates.)

LONDON (UPI)—In a room on the first floor of the Shepherd's Bush police station, one of the keenest detective minds in Britain is trying to look into the sick mind of one of the most dangerous murderers of the century.

The man whose curious thought processes Chief Detective Superintendent John du Rose is studying has certainly killed six women.

A seventh victim, like the others stripped and strangled, may now be lying somewhere in West London.

And if he is not caught there may be an eighth murder and a ninth . . . and more.

For the killer probably cannot stop. He appears to be in the grip of a sexual compulsion so strong it can be satisfied only with the death of its object.

KNOW TYPE WELL.

Scotland Yard knows this type of man well. A dozen years ago, it sent to the scaffold the curious John Christie.

A meek, little, hen-pecked man like Jack the Ripper who slew and buried at least six women and perhaps as many as 15.

The present murderer is being called "Jack the Stripper" because like Jack the Ripper who mutilated prostitutes in Victorian London, he picks his victims from street walkers. But unlike Jack the Ripper, he takes away all their clothing and even their cheap jewelry.

LENGTHY STUDY

In the Shepherd's Bush "war room," du Rose studies the information assembled by his staff and volunteered by frightened prostitutes who are cooperating with the police for the first time in years.

Recently, he asked Scotland Yard for 25 additional detectives. This building gave him an army of 145 detectives occupied solely with the murders in addition to scores of policemen and policewomen operating in disguise in the vice ridden west end area known as "the jungle."

Men who are prey to these obsessions usually react to only one type of girl. All six of the murder victims were small and slender. None could be called pretty.

All of the bodies appear to have been kept somewhere for a while. This is more reminiscent of Christie's bizarre complexes than the simple hatred of Jack the Ripper who may have been revenging himself for venereal infection.

LACK OF CLUES

It may also explain the absence of solid clues if, as is theorized, the murderer is a reputable Dr. Jekyll in his private life and a deadly Mr. Hyde only for a few hours every two months or so.

Du Rose may already have a vague description of the man he wants. Last December small, slender Margaret MacGowan came out of a pub with a girl friend and two cars rolled up.

Miss MacGowan had packed a lot of the wrong kind of living into her 21 years and she quickly came to an arrangement with one of the drivers.

Her girl friend, Beryl, a buxom blonde, got into the other automobile after they had agreed among themselves to guide their clients to an isolated spot on the edge of town.

Beryl, who has been too frightened to allow her surname to be published, said Miss MacGowan's car never arrived at the trysting place, nor did she appear later at the rendezvous they always kept after "working" hours.

So the chances are that the driver that night was the man who hid Miss MacGowan's strangled body in a garbage dump.

Beryl said he was round-faced and thirtyish. He drove a medium priced Ford.

Police built up an "identikit" from her description and circulated the description to all media. There has as yet been no further progress.

Du Rose knows that every murderer, no matter how cunning, sooner or later makes a fatal error.

The chances of finding the man with the round face multiply with every additional killing. It may come when, and if, a seventh body is found. Meanwhile, the police investigation has given the public a rare glimpse of the murky depths under the tourists' London of jolly beefeaters, prancing horse guards and cozy old English tea shoppers.

Fires killed 11,900 persons in the United States in 1964 and destroyed property worth $1.6 billion.

Actress Anna Kashfi Denies Two Charges

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actress Anna Kashfi has pleaded innocent to charges of battery and disturbing the peace arising from a fracas over custody of her son.

Municipal Court Judge Max Zimmerman Thursday permitted the actress to change her plea from not guilty to innocent. Trial was set for June 7.

Postage stamps Honor John F. Kennedy

NEW YORK, May 14 (EN)—A very unusual series of large diamond shaped postage stamps honoring John F. Kennedy was issued recently by the Kingdom of Yemen . . . half the stamp bears a striking portrait of JFK with appropriate inscription — the top section depicts American space craft in flight . . . This very unusual set of three stamps sold out day of issue and are now quite scarce.

Because of the intense interest in JFK memorial stamps issued by foreign nations, Elmont has prepared a collection containing recently issued John F. Kennedy stamps from Colombia, Paraguay, Nicaragua, and Togo, plus the popular American set mentioned above.

Interested collectors may obtain this extraordinary collection of nine different stamps memorializing John F. Kennedy by sending $1.00 to Elmont Stamp Co., Queens Village 29, N.Y. Approvals and other offers included.

See Hands Across Sea Reach for U.S. Succor

The time-seasoned precept that coming events cast their shadows before seems once more to be standing the test of experience.

This particular shadow is discernible in Great Britain and, were the Kingdom's projection to become reality, would result in the United States assuming a considerable share of the defense and strategic burden the English have long carried in the vast reaches "east of the Suez."

London-based observers of the international scene report that key members of the British cabinet are readying a request that the United States do in the Indian Ocean what we long ago and so well did in Greece and Turkey.

Britain's motive now is the same as in her withdrawal in the Greek-Turkish case—economics.

Her present defense budget is around $5.6 billion a year, and this is not buying nearly enough defense. Helping Malaysia against Indonesia, in particular, has imposed a grave financial strain.

Fiscal projections, moreover, indicate that John Bull's defense investment must rise an annual $1.5 billion by 1970 if there are to be enough men properly equipped to meet existing commitments.

But this increased defense outlay is considered to be flatly unrealistic in the light of Britain's economic stringency. Hence, the idea of reducing defense obligations by sharing the burden with the United States.

Can it be that Uncle Sam has proved such an international patsy that other powers believe he will buy anything?

In the Americas, Europe and the Pacific, American commitments reflect vital American interests. But in the new area we may be asked to enter, and in Africa as well, there are no comparable concerns. Even India, built up as a vital interest of the whole free world, actually holds little significance for us.

It is to be hoped that our global policy makers have a quick "declined with thanks" answer ready when and if we are offered the role of the lamb lying down with the British lion.

Under such allegorical camaraderie, it is the lion most likely to get up.

U.S. Business Sense Costs People Dollars

President JOHNSON recently signed the $1.1 billion aid to Appalachia bill, terming it an example of "creative Federalism." This event brought an interesting comment from The Wall Street Journal.

The paper said, "Yet that same Federalism is impeding possibly more significant developments of private enterprise in the same area. Specifically, a private electric power company is ready to spend $910 million of its own money on two power projects. So far it is being held back from spending a dime by Congress and a Federal agency."

One project involves a $210 million power plant on the Savannah River, but Congress has not given the necessary approval. The other project, in upper South Carolina, carried a $700 million price tag and can be authorized by the Federal Power Commission. But a number of rural electric cooperatives (nontaxable) oppose it, and FPC has not acted.

These tremendous developments would provide private, heavily-taxed investments totaling almost as much as the Appalachian bill. Further, it is a rule of thumb that for every dollar invested to generate power in an area, three more dollars are invested by industrial customers there.

Concludes the Journal, "Surely it is a strange inconsistency when Federalism—which can create nothing without first taxing the rewards of private initiative—whoops it up for a $1.1-billion handout while it lets creative business, with its own spending program potentially three times as big, go begging."

To which The Press says, "Amen."

A new drink consists of a mixture of beef bouillon and vodka. No one drinks it in order to get drunk, as only a drunk person would drink so uninviting and unpalatable a drink.

Heckler Period Coming to End?

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON — When Wilma Ross was lugged bodily out of the Communications Satellite Corp. stockholders meeting Tuesday—screaming, protesting and waving at the cameras—some kind of an era ended.

Or maybe an era began. The tycoons of American industry seem to be fighting back, after years of being harassed by small groups of perennial hecklers.

Across the land, board chairmen have taken a brace. Many are firmly insisting, for instance, that stockholders talk about the corporate business under discussion. And that they wait for their turn to speak. And that they let other stockholders get a word in edgewise.

For the board chairman, this takes some kind of courage. His company's "stockholder relations" are as important as its public relations. Every management wants to be considered kind, attentive and responsive to questions and complaints, even if the complainant owns only one share.

The little stockholder, in short, has a mighty voice. But management and rank and file stockholders have been showing irritation when, year after year, at every annual meeting of every big company, the loudest voices are also nonstop, out of order, irrelevant and sometimes augmented by tin horns and whistles.

TIME TO SPEAK

Seven months ago, investment banker Sidney J. Weinberg decided it was time to speak up. It's fairly safe for him now; at 73, he holds only five major directorships, having resigned 20 or 30. He made a speech to about 100 corporation chairmen and presidents at the Business Council Meeting in Hot Springs, Va.

"The chief cause of this deterioration, in my opinion, is a relatively few publicity-seeking characters who attend stockholders' meetings primarily to ask impertinent, irrelevant, sometimes abusive questions," Weinberg said.

"I think this kind of behavior must be stopped right now before stockholders lose respect for management."

The notoriety won by some hecklers, he said, has encouraged newcomers to take up today.

Today, Weinberg reports, a good many board chairmen are firmly squelching the disorderly. Meetings have regained some decorum. "The situation is much improved," he says.

On Tuesday, blue-uniformed Pinkerton special police were much in evidence at Congress's second stockholders' meeting. When Mrs. Soss's first speech was ruled out of order, setting off a clamor, the Pinkertons moved in.

U.S. Finally Put China in Place

WASHINGTON — The United States has at last labeled Communist China as an enemy of mankind.

President JOHNSON came out openly this week with a declaration of this country's unswerving intention to prevent Communist China from taking over the continent of Asia and its neighboring islands.

"Communist China," said the President, "apparently desires the war to continue, whatever the cost to their allies (in North Viet Nam)."

"Their target is not merely South Viet Nam — it is Asia. Their objective is not the fulfillment of Vietnamese nationalism — it is to erode and to discredit America's ability to help prevent Chinese domination over all of Asia. In this domination they shall never succeed."

Mr. JOHNSON declared that, while America is demonstrating that force will meet force, he believes "armed conquest is futile and that aggression is not only wrong but it just will not work."

READY FOR TALKS

He stated unequivocally that the United States is ready for "unconditional discussions." He reiterated that it is clearly to the interest of North Viet Nam to come to the conference table, since North Viet Nam, an ally of Communist China, is being severely damaged.

But, while the President spoke of America's "unlimited patience" and "unlimited resources" in "pursuit of an unwavering purpose," and repeated that America will not abandon its commitment to South Viet Nam, there is another phase of the problem which he emphasized — the opportunity for economic aid to all the peoples of Asia.

Mr. JOHNSON said, for instance, that "it is not enough to just fight against something — people must fight for something."

Mr. JOHNSON called on every industrialized nation, including the Soviet Union, "to help create a better life for all of the people of Southeast Asia."

The President's speech was a remarkable exposition of how economic projects can help an underdeveloped country.

Words like these need to be distributed by every means of communication, not only to the people of Viet Nam but to the people of the whole Asian continent. For the image of the United States portrayed by the Russian and Chinese Communists is one of a so-called "aggressor," when the truth is that America is virtually alone in her humanitarian as well as military efforts to protect the people of Southeast Asia against Communist invasions.

Not since the Marshall Plan was first proclaimed has such a significant step been taken as that which President JOHNSON announced this week when he promised a similar program for all of Asia.

The President's speech makes it clear that armed force is not the only weapon in the struggle to win support for the cause of liberty and freedom in the world.

The United States, by its latest expression, reveals its deliberate purpose to rise above totalitarian governments in a studied effort to reach the masses of people in the Communist countries.

Bob Considine Says:

Dominican Contribution to SF Giants Is Explained

NEW YORK — "The new guy in charge in the Dominican Republic, this Gen. Antonio Imbert Barreras, can't be all bad," Lee Meyers, the noted man from Manhattan, was saying at SFOR.

"Name me another guy helped the San Francisco Giants."

We said that not one of the dispatches out of the war zone had made a mention of the man's contribution to the Giants. Unharmed, Lee said:

"I'm in San Juan one night at a joint named Teresa's and who do I see sitting at a table, but Horace Stoneham, Bill Rigney and a couple other guys so I sit down and we have a few and when Horace calls for the check, Teresa says there's no check. I had made her a present of a Bible the day before and she was still grateful."

"So Horace wanted to do something for me, on account there was no check. He says, 'Come on with us, we're going to Santo Domingo. I want to look at a center fielder.' I figure he's gone badly because he has got a center fielder, named Willie Mays. Anyways, I go. And then we go to the ball park."

"The Trujillos were in power at the time. They got the boxes down the third-base line. Imbert got a center fielder, named Willie Mays. Anyways, I go. And then we go to the ball park."

MADE GENERAL

"Nobody chased the little bum because he's Trujillo's nephew. Probably the one who was made a general when he was 10."

"Anyways, Trujillo's got a ball club, Imbert's got a ball club. They hate each other."

"Trujillo sent word one day he wanted to buy or make a trade for Imbert's first baseman. Imbert said: 'So the first baseman was drafted into the Dominican army and two nights later he shows up on first base for Trujillo's team. Things like that."

"Imbert's people bumped off Trujillo, sure as hell. Now he's in charge, or whatever it is he is. How about that?"

DULL QUESTION

We asked that dull question again. What did this have to do with Horace Stoneham? "Imbert gave him Jesus, Matty and Philipe Alou and Juan Marichal," Lee said, surprised that it needed spelling out. "Any bum does that for the Giants can't be a Communist."

Comment on U. S. Action

The London Daily Telegraph

President JOHNSON has taken military action to defend a cause which is ultimately that of the free world. It is among Latin American countries that annoyance has been most loudly expressed; and failure to consult the Organization of American States can only be excused by the need for speed.

Mr. JOHNSON is wise to drop the pretense that the protection of American lives is the only reason he sent in the Marines. He now says fairly and squarely that he had to prevent the Republic from following Cuba. The American presence will insure that the Republic does not fall into Communist control; and although ex-President Bosch was no Communist, there were left-wing extremists among his supporters. The O.A.S. will now be persuaded to share the peacekeeping in the Dominican Republic.

This should make it easier for the United States to draw into the background while the Dominicans have a chance to choose a legitimate government. Washington's unilateral intervention has vexed other members of the O.A.S., but there can be few even of them who will not be privately thankful, post facto, that the danger of another Communist-dominated regime in their bosom has been averted.

Township Sewer Project Discussed by Residents

What is wrong with the Pontiac Township board that they will allow the mess in Walton Heights Manor Subdivision to continue? We have ditches full of stagnant water and no culverts to drain it away. Our water is off for hours on end so we can't even use our toilets. Our children's lives are in danger because of unprotected holes.

No one seems to be responsible. Now the Township wants over $50 interest on something nowhere near completion.

MR. AND MRS. GORDON H. JUNE
PONTIAC TOWNSHIP

I agree fully with comments regarding the Walton Heights Manor sewer project. There is no reason why the entire subdivision has to be torn up all at once. It seems only logical that the construction company should complete one street at a time.

After enough pressure was applied, the road and drainage ditch in front of the school was properly taken care of. I see no reason why this couldn't be done on each street.

Reader Comments on Teaching Profession

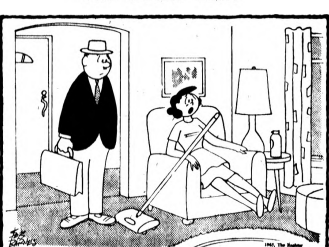

Much has been printed comparing the incomes of teachers and people in other fields. However, it is impossible to equate industry and education. Industry is basically man working with machines to produce a finished product. Education is basically man working with minds to produce destiny. If a mind is worth no more than a machine, then a man is worth no more than a machine. Yet, a profession which has the responsibility of molding our future leaders cannot compete with other professions or many industrial positions on a financial basis.

Most teachers are actually on the job eight or nine hours per day, plus hours of outside work doing research, preparing lessons, conversing with parents and correcting papers.

In the summer, the teachers have the choice of studying at their own financial expense, broadening their experience and industry by travel—another great expense, or obtaining part-time employment such as one Pontiac educator who earned $1 per hour pumping gasoline.

Arab Voice—Peace!

Life Magazine

In all the shifting alliances, misalliances, unions and disunions which pattern the Arab world, there has been one note of consistency — hatred for Israel and an implacable wish to see her expunged. Now even this sour fragrance of consensus is gone. President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia is arguing that coexistence between Arab and Jew is necessary and possible.

"There is no use going on starting at each other like China dogs," he told a Tunisian student group. Instead of collecting arms and issuing frightful threats, Israelis and Arabs should negotiate their differences on the basis of United Nations proposals made 15 years ago and ignored ever since.

Israel would have to allow repatriation of Palestinian Arab refugees and turn over part of her territory. In exchange for concessions such as these, suggests Bourguiba, she might settle for diplomatic recognition by her neighbors and the promise of peace.

Israel, which ended up one third bigger after the 1948 fighting, is as implacable as the Arabs. Deputy Prime Minister Abba Eban reacted explosively: "Israel can no more return now to the borders laid down in the 1947 United Nations' resolution than an egg broken 18 years ago can be put together again." As for Nasser, self-appointed Arab chief, his government-controlled newspapers called Bourguiba "raving maniac" and "back-stabbing Judas." Only the conservative Arab monarchies of Saudi Arabia, Libya and Morocco remained silent, presumably because they, like Tunisia, oppose Nasser.

Perhaps nothing can come of a plea like Bourguiba's. But his background, the confrontation between Israel and the Arabs, in which both sides share blame, looks more ominous just now than it has for years.

Intensifying disputes over Jordan River water provide a plausible casus belli. Soviet artillery tanks and jets have given the Arabs an estimated 340-1 arms lead; Israelis talk nervously of preventive war. At this dangerous juncture any counsel of peace and reason, on either side, deserves our welcome and praise.

Back Catholic Action on Bias

Protestant Leader
Eyes Similar Activity

DETROIT (UPI) — Protestant leaders in the Detroit area yesterday expressed support of a move by the Catholic Archdiocese to eliminate discrimination in hiring and purchasing practices.

The Catholic Archdiocese announced a program for setting up a central office to check on employers who serve the church to see that they do not discriminate.

Thomas Gibbons Jr. of Chicago, who was appointed temporary director of the new program, said there was no threat of boycott, economic sanction or purchasing power club involved.

But to get on a list of firms the Catholic Archdiocese would do business with, a firm must sign a statement of nondiscrimination and readiness to maintain employment policies that promote opportunities for minority persons at all job levels.

They would also pledge to provide, when asked, a breakdown of total labor force by race and job category. The church would deal only with firms on its list.

SIMILAR ACTIVITY

In supporting the move initiated by the Catholic Archdiocese, Rev. Dr. Robert Hoppe, director of the Council of Churches Commission on Race and Religion, said he would like to see a similar coordinating activity.

But he said there is no central agency among Protestant churches to enforce nondiscrimination.

Total Catholic purchasing and spending power totals around $100 million a year in an Archdiocese like Detroit according to Gibbons.

The Rev. Dr. Hoppe said Protestant church spending power is also formidable.

'Murdered' Wife Is Alive, Lifer Says

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Henry Wagenknecht, serving life for murdering his wife in 1954, has petitioned federal court to set aside his sentence on grounds she's still alive.

Wagenknecht was convicted by a Wyandotte County District Court jury in Kansas City in May of 1955.

He contends the trial judge erred by rejecting a request that the body found in the yard of the Wagenknecht home at Bonner Springs, Kan., be exhumed. Wagenknecht said he could prove it was not his wife.

Verdict Due May 20 for Guard Generals

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney, who fired two National Guard generals accused of gross neglect of duty but reinstated them and held a 93-hour hearing, will announce his final decision May 20.

Romney said he first dismissed Maj. Gen. Donald M. Searl and Brig. Gen. Carson Neifert on recommendations of the State Military Board.

But he said during his hearing he had heard evidence which would modify the board's recommendations. He did not elaborate.

The governor said he would reconvene the hearing May 20 more than seven months after the generals first were relieved of duty to announce the verdict.

Senate Votes on Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate votes today on an amendment that would strike at the heart of the controversial voting rights bill.

As offered by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., the amendment provides that nothing in the bill shall be construed to invalidate any voter qualification requirement that applies equally to all citizens.

This would include the ability to read or write a section of a state or the U.S. Constitution in the English language.

The measure as originally presented would ban the use of literacy tests in five Southern states and parts of North Carolina and Virginia. It also provides for the federal government to take over the registration of voters in these parts of the South.

'59 DECISION

In offering the amendment, Ervin said it is squarely in line with a 1959 Supreme Court decision upholding North Carolina's voter literacy test.

Agreement for a two-hour debate and then a vote on the amendment was reached Thursday in a session which saw backers of the bill squabble among themselves, then fail to reach a compromise.

Sens. Mike Mansfield and Everett M. Dirksen, Democratic and Republican leaders, tried to win unanimous consent for some changes in the bill but withdrew their request in a welter of confusion.

Civil rights advocates protested they hadn't even seen the leadership amendments. And Southern opponents also complained about being asked to agree to something they knew nothing about.

COMEDY OF ERRORS

After time out for huddles on the floor, Mansfield said he was withdrawing his request for approval "in order to bring this comedy of errors to an end."

Some headway was made during the session with votes on two amendments—both defeated—and the agreement to vote on Ervin's amendment today.

The Senate rejected, 66 to 19, an amendment by Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., to require federal registrars to look into Southern states to qualify voters in accord with state law.

In support of the amendment, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., said "there is no justice in permitting an illiterate to vote in South Carolina but not in New York." Both states have literacy tests, but South Carolina is covered by the bill while New York is not.

Teen-Ager Thrown From Ride, Killed

The ride consisted of swing-type seats moving in a circle nine feet above the ground.

State Police from the Romeo post said they found the couple's 2½-year-old son tied to a bed and their 10-month-old son unattended in a crib when they investigated the home on the complaints of neighbors April 20.

Both children were suffering from malnutrition, according to police.

Navy Scraping Bottom on New Recruits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy said today it has had to recruit a fairly heavy percentage of men with limited abilities in order to meet its manpower requirements.

For months, roughly one-fourth of those enlisted have been in what is called "Group IV" — men whose score in qualification tests indicates insufficient aptitude to absorb technical training.

"These men have the potential to perform equally in the unskilled technical fields," the Navy said. It mentioned in this connection jobs as cooks, boat swain's mates and the like.

A Navy spokesman said that normally only about 6 per cent of those accepted by the Navy have been in the lower aptitude group.

HIGHER PERCENTAGE

Official figures showed that in November, 27 per cent of those enlisted were in this group, 24 per cent in December, 24 per cent in January, 25.7 per cent in February and 22.1 per cent in March.

"Group IV personnel are being recruited in order to meet Navy manpower requirements when better qualified personnel cannot be recruited or do not volunteer for enlistment," the Navy said.

It said men of this caliber do not usually work in the technical rates such as electronics technician, communications technician, and aviation electronics technician.

In the modern Navy, these skilled categories are the ones that are the most vital to the efficient operation of ships and planes of the fleet.

ANOTHER SIGN

This inability to draw technically qualified men into the Navy is one more index of the Navy's troubles in the manpower field.

Early this week, Secretary Paul H. Nitze appealed to seasoned enlisted men and officers to extend their duty tours at least three to six months if they were about to run out. He said this would be "a personal contribution to meeting the present challenge" in South Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic.

Selective Service officials told a reporter that there was talk some months ago that the Navy might have to resort to the draft to fill its ranks. The last time the Navy used the draft was March 1956. It took 10,000 men that month.

Available figures show that the Navy has fallen short of its recruiting goals for months.

Last November the goal was 7,119 men and only 6,128 were signed up. In December the goal was 5,565 and the number recruited reached only 4,875. In January the Navy sought 10,290 recruits and gathered in only 8,188.

The latest Navy manpower figures showed total strength at 668,117 at the end of March, about 6,000 below the objective.

'Outside Step' Is Integrated ---by Girls

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Tradition dies hard in this windy city, and none has been laid to rest with more wordage than the custom of the "outside step" of the dear old dinky cable cars.

Since 1873, when they first clattered up the hills of San Francisco, it has been traditional that the weaker sex — that is to say, women — should not ride the outside step.

The outside step — a 10-foot-long running board along the outside seat — was a male stronghold. The woman who tried to ride this hallowed plank was soon told off by the conductor, or by the gripman who drives the cars with long steel grips that clutch the moving cable.

But in recent weeks the outside step has been integrated — for women.

ORDERED OFF

"Get 'em off!" bellowed Tom McGrath, spokesman for the Cable Car Gripmen's Union, when a college coed, Mona Hutehin, 19, dared break the ice. She insisted she could ride outside — lawfully.

And so she could. In fact, so could all females. Turned out there is no law against women riding the step.

"It doesn't make any difference to me whether they ride outside," said husky John Hays, burn, gripman of the Hyde Street Line.

Conductor Frank Brown agreed: "No difference to me at all," he said. "If they fall off, they fall off. Just wait, they'll start falling off."

MAIN OBJECTIONS

No women were on the step at the time. The main objections to their riding there are that they're weaker than men, wear skirts that can blow revealingly aloft in high breezes, and — besides — they're women! The objection about the skirts was based on the theory that the girls, in trying to get their wind-blown skirts down, would forget about hanging on to the railing and topple off.

On another car a little later: "Now look, are you two going to stand out there?" gripman Jim Stewart said, glowering at Sue Cuddeback and Kerin Baker. "Then you got to hang on with both hands or in you come. Both hands!"

The girls, determined, stayed put. Passengers turned as one to watch.

"Both hands, see," snarled Stewart.

ASKS ABOUT FARES

"How are we going to get our fares if we have to hang on with both hands?" said Sue, hanging on with both hands.

"I don't care," scoffed Stewart. "Like I said, both, both hands!"

The girls got off without paying their fares.

On another car, the girls persuaded by a newsman to continue to test their newly won freedom, encountered gripman Frank Moore, who told them "it's at your own risk" and they could get cut off at the knees if hit by a car.

MONOLOGUE ON DANGERS

Moore then launched into a monologue on the dangers of women riding the outside step, the masculinity of "some women these days," and how it's got to come to no good.

A red-haired matron nearby lech-ched and shook her head. "Take poison," she told him as she got off.

Hopes Lindsay

'Race to Revive GOP'

NEW YORK (AP) — Rep. John V. Lindsay, considered by some Republicans as possible presidential material, views his entry into the mayoral race as a step toward the revival of the Republican party.

The tall, boyish-looking congressman, who has espoused a liberal brand of Republicanism with wide appeal in his predominantly Democratic Manhattan district, declared his candidacy Thursday.

He said "The revival of the Republican party and the two-party system in our country depends upon the efforts that our party is willing to take in the cities of the nation."

"We cannot turn our back on the cities. I hope that through my candidacy it will be demonstrated that the Republican party cares deeply about the people of our cities."

REPUBLICAN FRIENDS

Wagner said "Our Republican friends only begin to take an interest in public affairs just before election. You can't find them any other time."

Lindsay has represented Manhattan's 17th (silk stocking) Congressional District since 1958. He said he would not resign his seat in Congress but would spend most of his time campaigning here. He said he would return to Washington only to vote on what he considered issues of vital importance.

Last November, Lindsay, who disassociated himself from Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater, won a fourth term in Congress with 71 per cent of the vote. This was one per cent more than President Johnson received in a district where the Democrats' majority nearly matches their citywide edge of 3:1.

Lindsay's showing gave rise to his political shift, and there was talk of him as future presidential material. He campaigned as a liberal and strong advocate of civil rights.

NATIONAL SIGNIFICANCE

Top Republican leaders, including Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York City, a supporter, DAD'S A CANDIDATE — John Lindsay Jr., 5, seems unimpressed as he hears his father, Rep. John V. Lindsay, R-N.Y., announce he will run against New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner this year. Lindsay has represented Manhattan's 17th (silk stocking) Congressional District since 1958.

viewed his mayoral candidacy as having national significance. They feel a good showing would mean a contribution of great strength to the progressive Republican cause everywhere.

A good showing also likely would further boost Lindsay's presidential stock, since he will be up against heavy odds. Figures issued a week ago show there are 2,377,891 registered Democrats to 697,594 Republicans in the city. The last Republican to become mayor was the late Fiorello H. La Guardia, who served from 1934 until 1945, and he won on a fusion ticket.

Carl Spad, Republican state chairman, predicted a fusion of what he termed disenchanted Democrats, Liberals and independents supporting Lindsay would sweep the 55-year-old Wagner out of office. Wagner is seeking an unprecedented fourth, four-year term.

Endorsements continued to pour in for Lindsay. They included Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and the congressman's 13 New York Republican colleagues in the House of Representatives.

GIVES HOPE

Cooper said in Washington Lindsay's candidacy gives hope to the city and to the cause of good government throughout the nation.

In a series of news conferences, Lindsay said he had changed his mind and would run because he could not "stand by while the decline and fall of New York continues heading."

The growth in the nation's economy in 1964 over 1963 was $10 billion.

OK 'Vehicle' for Home Rule

'Wayne County' Bill
Alive in Committees

LANSING (AP) — Nearly duplicate county home rule bills were alive in both chambers of the legislature today after the House Towns and Counties Committee reported out a "spare."

Both are the so-called "Wayne County" bill.

The House bill, sponsored by Rep. Jack Faxon, D-Detroit, "is just intended as a vehicle," said Rep. Francis Beeton, D-Muskegon, committee chairman. "It is a safety measure — just in case the Senate bill doesn't pass."

The House committee had reported out another home rule bill earlier this week — a measure sponsored by Rep. Stanley Powell, R-Ionia, and backed by the United County Officers Association. The bill was recalled at the instruction of Speaker Joseph Kowalski, D-Detroit.

MORE LIBERAL

The Wayne county bill, opponents say, is generally more broad and liberal than the county officers' version.

All bills permit the calling of county charter commissions to allow counties to set up stronger local governments, within the framework of the State Constitution and state law. The basic intention is to allow counties to govern themselves on a more efficient and flexible basis.

The Senate version, sponsored by Sen. Terry Trout, D-Romulus, has been amended to safeguard smaller communities in a home rule county.

It would prevent the county from taking over local services against the wishes of smaller communities by requiring majority approval of electors in each community.

Counties of under one million population could elect one-fourth of their representatives to the governing body at-large, rather than from equal-population districts.

In counties of less than 600,000 population, the governing board would be limited to nine members. No limit would be imposed on larger counties.

Witness Describes Twin Brother's Death

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Jurors in the murder trial of Tim Nicholson have heard a graphic description of the death of Tim's twin brother, Todd, 22, from a witness who lived in the same building.

The testimony Thursday by Paul Marion Scott came before the trial now in its second day. — was recessed until Monday.

Scott is a tenant in a lavish apartment building owned by the Nicholson twins, heirs to the Cudahy meat packing and Pullman sleeping car fortunes.

Tim is accused of murder in the gunshot death of his brother last Dec. 7.

TOWARD QUARTERS

Scott said he saw one of the twins run from their apartment toward the quarters of the building manager, Shuey Greenberg.

Later, the witness said, Greenberg came out and called "Will you go in with me? Tim just shot Todd."

Scott said they found Todd on a bed, and "Mr. Greenberg said 'He's bleeding on the bed. Let me get a cloth to put under his head.'"

"I heard a sort of gurgle like air coming out of Mr. Greenberg, felt his arm, trying to take a pulse. Mrs. Greenberg came in and Mr. Greenberg evidently didn't find any pulse because he shook his head."

'OH, NO!'

"Mrs. Greenberg said, 'oh, no!'"

Scott said that Greenberg moved a 22-caliber rifle from one place to another twice.

This was the rifle that witnesses have described as the death weapon.

During Scott's testimony, Roberta Nicholson, mother of the twins, began weeping.

THIRD DAY

Enrico Bernal, a Phoenix house painter hired by Todd, completed his testimony earlier.

Society Seeks Bible That All Can Accept

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Bible Society, in a new ecumenical move, has announced that one of its major goals is to develop with sister groups in other countries a single text of the Scriptures acceptable to all Christians.

Roman Catholics use the Douay version, Protestants and Eastern Orthodox generally use the King James and revised standard versions.

that the reduced dollar outflow was due in part to President Johnson's program of voluntary cooperation by bankers and businessmen. The President has asked them to curb their overseas loans, investments and dollar balances.

Although the first quarter dollar loss translated into an annual rate is only half as big as the fourth quarter 1964, it is about the same as the deficit during all of last year. The 1964 deficit was $3.1 billion.

Fowler made these other points:

• President Johnson is reviewing the Treasury's recommendations for a cut in excise taxes. Some final decisions will be coming from the White House in the very near future.

• Fowler himself will take no part in deciding which ex-cises are to be cut, because prior to his appointment as Treasury secretary, he represented the automobile industry in its bid to win reduction of the excise tax on cars.

• The economy is going to continue advancing although it may be time for the expansion "to pause for a little breath, perhaps." It is unlikely that the second quarter could turn out as well as the terrific first quarter, which was marked by a catch-up in auto sales following last fall's strikes and inventory building by steel users in anticipation of a possible strike May 1.

LONELY VIEW — Clinging to cables as he stands on a beam 260 feet above New York Harbor, 21-year-old Frederick Korn threatened to leap from the Verrazano-Narrows bridge early this morning. Korn, the first person to threaten a jump from the longest suspension bridge in the world, was finally hauled off the beam by two policemen after clinging there 95 minutes.

Suspension Bridge in NY Is Scene of Jump Threat

NEW YORK (AP)—An unemployed young bachelor from Brooklyn perched for 95 minutes on an outer beam of the world's largest suspension bridge early today, threatening to jump 260 feet into New York Harbor. Two patrolmen finally pulled him off.

The man, identified as Frederick Korn, 21, was taken to Kings County Hospital in Brooklyn for observation.

Police Sgt. William Kennedy of the Triborough Bridge Authority, a priest and Korn's father, Nathan, who arrived later, kept up a banter of conversation with him until officers were able to pull him from the new Verrazano-Narrows Bridge. His was the first such threat since the bridge opened last Nov. 21.

Kennedy and the priest, who declined identity, engaged Korn in conversation for 35 minutes before he gave them a telephone number where his father could be reached.

IGNORED PLEA

When Korn ignored his father's plea not to do "anything foolish," emergency squad patrolmen George Sica and Eric

Olsen secured themselves with ropes and edged out on the wind-tossed, two-foot beam that extends 15 feet over the water.

At the same time, the elder Korn was telling his son that he was disappointing his mother and causing her anguish. Young Korn broke into tears and covered his face with his hand. Sica threw the rope around him and Olsen pulled him away from a cable he was grasping.

Police said Korn, using telephones on the bridge, phoned them twice and told them he was going to jump.

When Kennedy got there, Korn had climbed a four-foot rail and crawled out on the ledge some 100 feet west of the bridge's Brooklyn tower. Korn told him he was unemployed.

Kennedy said: "Why don't you come down and I'll get you a job."

"Keep away from me," Korn replied.

During the tense moments, a police harbor patrol launch spread a net below Korn. Two police emergency crews and the Coast Guard also were on hand.

Russian Fishing Industry Spreading Tentacles Over World

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Like the tentacles of a giant octopus, the arms of the rapidly expanding Russian fishing industry are reaching for a stranglehold on the world's principal commercial arteries.

Only the briefest glance at a map spotting the location of the five Soviet land fishing bases outside Europe — all completed within the last two years — shows that these bases pose a serious threat to the free world's ocean commerce.

Each of these bases—in the opinion of scientists who have seen them firsthand—is substantial enough to house a fleet of submarines.

The Russian base on Cuba is in a good spot to cut off commerce headed for the Panama Canal, if need be. It could also sever all major trade routes between the United States and eastern Latin America.

Soviet fishing bases at Alexandria, Egypt, and on the Gulf of Aden could control, if necessary, both ends of the Suez Canal.

Another Russian installation in Indonesia lies off the Strait of Malacca — the major Asian trading route.

Trawlers working out of the fifth base — in Ghana — are in good position to keep an eye on what is going on at the Atlantic Missile Range.

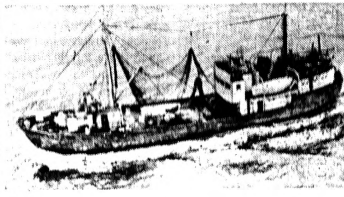

The most striking aspect of this potential Russian threat is that it has been accomplished with a maximum of good will, particularly in Africa, and a minimum of expense.

Large Soviet fishing catches are sold cheaply, but at a profit, to Ghana, Nigeria, Congo (Brazzaville), Liberia, Sierra Leone and Guinea — countries which badly need the fish protein.

"It's food diplomacy," notes a U.S. oceanographer, "and it seems to be working better than dollar diplomacy." The profits on the fish pay for most of the cost of constructing the bases.

Of concern also to the United States is that, through the Soviet fishing fleet, the Russians may soon be in a position to bypass America in the vital science of oceanography.

It's no secret that the sleek, modern Soviet trawlers off both coasts of the U.S. — between 250 and 300 of them — are constantly less than 50 miles offshore, most of them barely outside the three-mile limit — are loaded with electronic and photographic gear, including radar.

From permanent floating bases (mother ships which remain stationary, supporting convoys of up to 100 trawlers) the Russians are gathering valuable data on tides, currents and natural resources in the oceans.

The bases are obviously permanent since the Russians have established a steamship passenger line to ferry fishermen back and forth.

INITIAL RUN

In June 1962, the passenger-freighter Smolny made its first run between Vladivostok and Bristol Bay (off the coast of Alaska) carrying 300 fishermen to replace those who had been at sea too long.

"As yet, there is no ocean-ography gap," says a U.S. Navy source. "Our knowledge of the ocean is probably wider than that of the Russians, but in exploitation of the oceans, they have an head from here to Sunday."

Each year, the Russians spend the equivalent of billions of U.S. dollars in their space program, an expenditure matched by America. But few Russian rubles go into oceanographic research, because the almost incidental fishing catch is so profitable. In effect, Russian fishing is subsidizing Russian oceanography.

By the end of this year, the aggressive Russian fishermen may surpass the Japanese as the world's leading producers of fish.

Science Quiz

By BOB BROWN

PROBLEM: Bleach.

NEEDED: Glass half full of water, a few drops of red ink or food color, a teaspoonful of bleach.

DO THIS: Mix the color and water, then add the bleach. The color disappears leaving the water clear.

HERE'S WHY: The bleach was made using sodium hydroxide and chlorine. The bleach contains unstable NaClO which decomposes to liberate an abundance of uncombined nascent oxygen atoms which are chemically very active. The nascent oxygen atoms react with the color molecules to form colorless molecules.

Police Car Is Stolen

During Security Confab

BOSTON (AP) — Major Leslie Williams, executive officer of the Connecticut State Police, attended a conference Thursday night on law enforcement and security.

During the conference, his unmarked state police car, containing a loaded 32-caliber revolver and a 30-caliber U.S. Army carbine with 100 rounds of ammunition, was stolen from a nearby parking garage.

Also disturbing to the U.S. government are the "extracurricular activities" of the Russian trawlers.

From their safe haven in international waters, the vessels observe, photograph and record data on space shots from Cape Kennedy, naval exercises off California, Polaris missile tests off Long Island and Air Force SAGE radar defense tests.

The Russians enjoy the best of both worlds in this field, since they zealously maintain a 12-mile limit off their own coastal waters, but feel free to fish within three miles of most other countries.

And when necessary, Soviet crews can be tough, Alaskan fishing boat skippers have reported that when Russian trawlers enter their work zone "we simply have to leave the area or lose our pots."

SEND WARSHIPS

In 1962, three French warships had to be called out to protect 36 French trawlers from a fleet of 300 Soviet vessels which had invaded the southern English Channel.

Yet, the Russians can employ the soft touch, as witness their courting of Ireland and the Faroe Islands for fishing concessions.

Experts agree that the main reason for the Soviet success in fishing and oceanography is a smooth command system, with goals and responsibilities clearly defined.

In the U.S., some 22 separate federal offices carry on oceanographic research under the loose supervision of the Interagency Committee on Oceanography — an organization handicapped because its members hold full-time jobs in other agencies.

NO COOPERATION

There is no coordination or cooperation with the U.S. commercial fishing industry, which for the last 20 years can be described as apathetic at best.

Currently before Congress is a resolution introduced by Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., which would authorize the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries to conduct a survey of U.S. fishing resources.

As Magnuson himself admits, the bill does not go far enough, fast enough. "But it will help us take stock, find out what's wrong and pave the way to doing something about it," he says.

Dominican Strife Put U.S. in Middle

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

A sad fact of the present United States position in the Dominican Republic is that it was open to damnation either way.

Whether it pressed the panic button too quickly is a matter that now will never be settled.

NEWSOM

Whether the Marines prevented a slaughter of American and other foreign residents or whether they prevented a Communist take-over also are questions open to debate.

Not open to debate is the fact that had either of the two above-mentioned possibilities occurred the administration of President Lyndon B. Johnson never would have lived it down.

Only a President de Gaulle or a Communist nation would argue that the United States could take a chance on the establishment of another Cuba within the perimeter of the Caribbean Sea, within 50 miles of Puerto Rico or within a hundred miles of mainland United States.

OPEN TO DEBATE

Yet there are other elements which are open to debate or criticism.

Of the latter, it may be said that United States foreign policy too often has been based upon hope rather than firm reality.

In the American hemisphere, for example, U.S. policy has been based upon cooperation with the Organization of American states (OAS).

The OAS has been described as the world's oldest and most successful international body.

HAS HAD SUCCESSES

And it has had successes. Its charter of human rights and its hemispheric defense concepts antedate either the United Nations or NATO.

It has headed off conflicts between Costa Rica and Nicaragua and Ecuador and Peru. More recently it helped to settle a dispute between the U.S. and Panama.

The treaty of Rio provided that an attack upon one American nation would be an attack upon all.

The Doctrine of Caracas proclaimed that international communism is incompatible with the concept of American freedom.

But within the OAS there is a conflict of ideals that has been its weakness.

The one proclaims the OAS keystone which is nonintervention in the affairs of American states. The other proclaims the declaration against a take-over by international communism but makes no provision for meeting infiltration and subversion.

The over-all effect is an indecision which in the case of Cuba, was overcome only under the threat of Russian nuclear rockets.

In the Dominican revolt, the United States acted with foreknowledge of this particular paralysis. But it aroused the ire of the Latin States both because they were not consulted and because the action aroused the old bugaboo of U.S. gunboat diplomacy.

For the inter American force proposed to restore stability to the Dominican Republic have come only two firm offers—one from tiny Costa Rica and another from equally tiny Honduras.

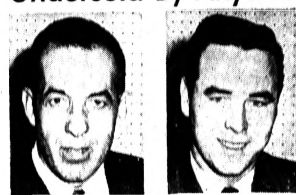

In terms of dollar volume for more than $23 million—a larger amount than the factory value of the output of cars, trucks and buses, of greater value of the output of cars, exports and imports.

It's Back to Holly for '34 Graduate

HOLLY—Russell Haddon will return Monday as superintendent to the school system from which he was graduated 31 years ago.

A 1934 graduate of Holly High School, Haddon has been superintendent in the neighboring Lake Fenton School District since 1949.

He was appointed to the Holly post to succeed George Garver, recently named to head the Walled Lake School System.

Haddon will begin his work here on a full time basis until Lake Fenton finds a replacement.

Garver, working here half-days next week, officially will leave Friday.

3-YEAR CONTRACT

Hired on a three-year contract, Haddon will have a $14,500 starting salary.

After graduating from high school, Haddon participated in an experimental Wayne State University program under which he studied in Holly during his freshman year of college.

He earned his bachelor's degree in English and speech from Eastern Michigan University and his master's degree in school administration from the University of Michigan.

Haddon, 50, now is working toward an educational specialist degree from Michigan State University.

TWO SONS

He and his wife Sybil live at 14439 Eddy Lake, Holly Township. They have two sons, both graduates of Holly High School. Harold, a law student at Duke University, and Lance, a sophomore at MSU.

The Genesee County School system Haddon is leaving has an enrollment of 1,400 students, about half the number of those in the Holly district.

Haddon is a member of the Michigan and American associations of school administrators and of the School Business Officials Association.

In 1962, he was chairman of the Genesee County Special Education Study Committee and, a year later, served as president of the Genesee County School Superintendents Association.

CHARTER MEMBER

Haddon was a charter member of both the Fenton and Lake Fenton Kiwanis clubs.

A veteran of the U.S. Navy, he was head counselor at the University of Michigan Camp for Maladjusted Boys in 1943-44.

Another board of education appointment this week was that of James Kelly as principal of Davisburg Elementary School. A teacher in the Centerline School District, Kelly was responsible for developing the elementary camping program there.

Kelly, who was graduated from WSU in 1962, has earned a master's degree in school administration from MSU.

The new principal, his wife and their five children now live in Warren.

Scholarships, offered on the basis of scholastic ability and 4-H Club work, have been presented by Michigan State University to several members. They are Tim Stayton, 1950 Cornell, Orionville, of the Orionville Club; Judy Cybulski, 9080 Oakhill, Holly, of the Oakland Club; Candace Long, 4052 Elliott, Holly and Arlene Mitchell of Mitchell Rd., Holly, both of the Newark Busters.

Career Day Event Set at Junior High

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP—The second annual Career Day Caravan will roll in for the 320 freshmen at Clifford H. Smart Junior High School Wednesday.

Some 57 representatives of local businesses, industries and professions will attend the program to discuss their careers with the students.

Each ninth grader will have the opportunity to talk to as many as six resource persons during the program.

Operating Budget OK'd in Farmington

FARMINGTON — A $534,283 operating budget based on the current tax rate of 11.5 mills was approved by the City Council last night.

The figure is about $29,000 above the amount officials anticipate spending during the current fiscal year.

City Manager John Dinn said the program can be financed on the current tax rate because Farmington's assessed valuation has increased by some $1.8 million this year.

The 11.5 mill tax has been in effect for the past four fiscal years.

More than $70,000 for capital improvements in various departments is included in the budget. Included are recreation and park improvements, plus funds for a part-time recreation director.

The proposed expenditures include: general government, $46,495; staff agencies, $38,170; public safety, $171,873; and public works, $166,865.

Others are public health and welfare, $400; library $14,700; and miscellaneous, $85,700.

Barbershop Quartet Contest Slated Tonight

ROCHESTER — The Rochester-Utica chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, Inc., will sponsor a novice barbershop quartet contest at 8:30 this evening at the Rochester Golf and Country Club.

The contest is being held to provide an opportunity for novice quartets to compete for a cash award to help defray expenses for a trip to Battle Creek May 22 for the Michigan District Bush League contest.

Walled Lake Budget Approved; Tax Rate Stays at 17.5 Mills

WALLED LAKE — A general operating budget, about $12,000 from this year's figure, was approved by the City Council last night.

The tax rate, set after a half-hour public hearing, is 17.5

has been serving as acting city manager since the resignation of Frank C. Derby last August.

In his proposed budget, Kellogg did not include the manager's salary because "I assumed we will continue to operate as we did last year," he said.

SAVED $5,000

The mayor noted that the city saved about $5,000 by not having a full-time manager for 10 months.

Councilman Marshall Taylor, objecting to the exclusion, voted against the proposed budget that was adopted by the other five councilmen present. "I insist that we hire an outside, full-time city manager," Taylor said this morning. "At the regular meeting next Tuesday, I will recommend that the city advertise for one."

Kellogg noted that money would be available from other funds should a full-time manager be hired.

NEW FIRE HALL

Expenditures during the 1965-66 fiscal year will include some $9,000 for construction of a new fire hall.

The budget allots $45,050 for general operation, $5,330 for the municipal office, $565 for elections, $9,300 for the police department and $8,186 for the fire department.

A $40,020 allocation would be used for maintenance of the public safety building and equipment.

The municipal court portion of the budget is $5,100 and the amount reserved for merit raises, $2,000.

A new figure is $1,850 for parks and recreation.

Besides the general fund budget, the council also approved $38,750 for roads, $6,445 for the library, $3,325 for water and $1,025 for the cemetery.

Rochester Man Hurt in Three-Car Crash

ROCHESTER — A Rochester man is in good condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital today following a three-car accident yesterday in which he suffered a possible cerebral concussion.

Police said that Milton Hasselwerdt, 83, 1131 North Main, was driving south on Main when he crossed over the center line, glancing off a car driven by Robert Wilson of Grosse Pointe Park and striking a truck driven by Michael Victor of 1287 Beechland, Pontiac.

Sky Divers on Holly Program

HOLLY — Two special events and a display have been added to the list of activities planned for the Holly Centennial June 18, 19 and 20.

The Lansing Parachutes, a five-man delayed-fall sky diving team, will perform between 3 and 5 p.m. June 19.

The Shawansee Players will present several performances of Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" at Mabel D. Bennett Junior High School during the celebration.

Through the U.S. Navy recruiting office, Holly Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 5587 has arranged to have a full-scale replica of a carrier missile displayed in the downtown area for the three days.

The village's main street will be decorated with bunting and flags on lamp posts during the affair. Some 54 business places will have fan-type bunting drapes on their store fronts.

Anniversary plates are to be sold as souvenirs of the event.

Designed by Mrs. Vera C. Husted, the plates will be decorated in the village colors of green and white.

Holly leaves will surround eight local scenes, including the village's first log cabin.

Residents are being asked to contribute funds to meet preliminary expenses involved in planning the centennial.

For each $1 contributed, the donor will receive a souvenir centennial "back" from the Kiwanis Club.

So You Want to Go to School?

By JEANNE NELSON
"I live such a happy life, everything's wonderful but something's lacking or wrong."

Very often this is the response given by the typical suburban wife and mother when asked about her role in today's society.

Thursday's program at Oakland University's "Four Days in May" series focused itself upon the educational aspects of a woman's life.

The key speaker, Pauline Knapp, president of the Merrill Palmer Institute, Detroit, aimed her speech toward the woman who "THINKS" she has completed her formal education.

She this subject Mrs. Knapp let her listeners know what is involved in continuing education, although they now have home responsibilities.

WHAT GOALS?
One of the first things to keep uppermost in mind, she says is, "To know what goals you want to achieve, and how to go about achieving them."

Important too, is the ability to modify these goals when necessary. She reminded her audience of more than 200 that "A moving mind is a continuing mind."

The whole of the "Women's Alternatives in Education" program stressed the importance of motivation in a woman's life.

Since habit becomes stronger with time, it does take determination and motivation to continue a formal or structural education.

LIVE EXAMPLES
A panel, consisting of Mrs. William Driver, Mrs. Robert Allured, Mrs. Michael Davis and Mrs. R. W. Collicie, explained and defined the necessary steps involved for the woman who is moved to enlighten her life through classroom knowledge.

Discussed were such problems as "Will my acquired credits apply towards gaining a degree?" or, "How will I shape up in competition with the younger student?" "Will I be able to cope with learning and caring for a family at the same time?"

Some more were "Where do academic opportunities for me lay?" "Suppose I do get accepted into or back into college, what direction can I take?"

Each panel member had at some time discontinued her own educational program and had at a later date elected to proceed with it.

SO YOUNG
One disconcerting fact to the panelists was the obvious youthfulness of the instructors.

Following the formal program and luncheon, representatives from area colleges held informal sessions designed to inform women of what is available to them scholastically on an individual basis.

Ask Leave of Hostess for Call

By The Emily Post Institute
Q. My wife and I were invited to dinner. I was expecting a business telephone call at home but it did not come through before we left so I told my daughter that if this person called later to please have him telephone me at our hostess's house.

My wife questioned the propriety of this.

Will you please tell me if there was anything wrong in having the call transferred to her house?

A. Unless the call you were expecting was of the utmost importance to you, you should not have allowed your hostess's dinner party to be interrupted by having the call transferred to her house.

Even then, you should have explained the importance of the call to your hostess and asked her permission to have it transferred there.

Q. What does one do when one is a guest at a dinner party and he gets a coughing spell at table?

Should he leave the table?

A. If it is a severe coughing spell, he should leave the table until the coughing has subsided.

DEAR ABBY: I have a very stubborn daughter-in-law. She has a 13-month-old baby who still walks around sucking a bottle.

The child could certainly drop from a glass, but it's easier for this lazy mother just to hand the child a bottle. I think it's a disgrace.

How can I prevail upon her to throw that bottle away and let the child grow up?

DEAR DISGUSTED: If you really want to be helpful, and not just critical, suggest that she ask her pediatrician at what age a child should abandon the bottle.

If she ignores your suggestions, skip it. It's not worth the battle.

DEAR ABBY: I am very much in love with a married man. He is still living with his wife and would like to ask her for a divorce but doesn't know how.

All his children are married so there is no one to be hurt. He is in his late 40's and I am a widow in my 30's.

He loves me very much and says he can't wait until we are together for always. Please tell us what to do in your column.

Maybe his wife will see this and make things easy for all.

DEAR "M": What do you mean, "there is no one to be hurt?" How about his wife? Has it occurred to you that if this man were as interested in a divorce as you seem to be, he would find a way to ask his wife?

DEAR ABBY: I play cards with a woman whose husband is retired, and believe me, she has my sympathy.

Whenever she has the game at her house, her husband is home. I don't know why he chooses me, but he stands directly behind my chair and watches me.

I am considered a better-than-average player, and I'm usually pretty lucky, but every time I play over there I am the big loser.

He doesn't say anything, but he makes me so nervous I can't think straight. Is there a nice way I can tell this man not to stand behind my chair when I'm playing?

"BUGGED"
DEAR BUGGED: He'll probably never know he's "bugging" you unless you come right out and tell him so. So call a spade a spade. Dig?

Wall-to-Wall Bed Does Away With Need for Carpet

The world's largest "king-size" bed was queen-size! Cleopatra's bed covered an entire room from wall to wall.

The bedroom was decorated with gold, ivory, bronze and marble and ornamented with gems. The bed itself was of ivory and gold and covered with embroidered silk draperies. A 3-foot high gold cupid decorated the footboard.

According to the Sleep Information Bureau of the National Association of Bedding Manufacturers, a queen-size bed today is at least 60" by 80", and a king-size bed is at least 72" by 80".

Men who are 5'10" tall—approximately one-half of American adults, the association estimates from a number of surveys—need the king size.

SEW SIMPLE By Eunice Farmer

Belts are hot in the summer and tend to wrinkle your fabrics. Here are two easy and attractive ways to finish the waistline for those of us who haven't given in to the one-piece dress.

• The easiest finish is to baste your waistline seams up toward the bodice. Machine stitch about ¼ inch above the waistline seam, catching in the seams. (a) This gives a finished look and actually looks almost like a cording at the waist.

• Cut a bias strip of your fabric 2 inches wide and piece the bias if necessary for your length. Fold in half and baste the cut edges together. Pin this folded strip of bias on the bodice of your dress, the cut edges will touch the waistline seam. Machine stitch folded bias strip to your dress taking a ¼ inch seam. Machine stitch folded edge down, but do not press hard. The softer, rolled edge is more expensive looking! Loosely slip stitch the folded edge of your dress by rolling the edge back slightly.

This will conceal the stitches and the fold will not look like it's been sewed down. If you have a zipper at the center back, you may finish with a little bow.

Dear Eunice Farmer:

I thought perhaps some of your readers might like to know about an idea I just finished using for a spring dress.

I made it out of a bright navy fabric and decided on the bright emerald green for a contrast trimming. I faced the Peter Pan collar in the green and allowed a little edge of the facing to show. It looks like the collar has a binding on the edge. I then had a handsome monogram made out of the emerald green. I feel like this was really a success story and the compliments I have had make me more enthusiastic than ever about my sewing.

KNIT NOTES — For the loveliest sweater of the year, begin with a white jacket-type sweater. If you're not a knitter, you may begin with a purchased sweater. Take four long strands of mohair yarn in three of your favorite colors and braid them together very loosely. (They will be about 1½ inches wide when braided.)

A low priced lawn fertilizer of unusual high quality COLONIAL GREEN

The market is flooded with cheap fertilizers and most of them are worth even less than their price. We have tried a good many, and we have found that Colonial Green is one of the few that does not use up all its growth energy in a flash after the first rainfall. Colonial Green lasts much longer and it will not burn when properly applied. It is manufactured for us by a prominent maker of high priced fertilizer, and we can recommend it.

Bomb Plot Figure in New Plea

NEW YORK (AP) — A French Canadian blonde faces sentencing June 9 after pleading guilty in federal court to illegally transporting dynamite into the United States in what the government said was a plot to blow up national monuments.

Michelle Duclos, 26, former Canadian television personality and a member of a separatist movement, entered her plea Thursday three days before she was to go on trial with three American Negro codefendants.

According to the indictment, the national monuments to be blown up were the Statue of Liberty, the Washington Monument and the Liberty Bell.

Miss Duclos, of Montreal, told Judge William B. Herlands that she wished to change her original plea of innocent because "I admit I am guilty."

SENTENCE DATE
The judge set June 9 for sentencing. Miss Duclos faces up to five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

She pleaded guilty to one count in the indictment — the illegal transportation of 30 sticks of dynamite and three percussion caps last Feb. 16 in her car from Montreal to the Bronx.

Miss Duclos was remanded to the women's house of detention in lieu of $50,000 bail.

AWAIT TRIAL
Awaiting trial on conspiracy charges are Robert S. Collier, 28, self-styled leader of the Black Liberation Front; Walter A. Bowe, 32; and Khaleel S. Sayeed, 33. All are from New York.

The arrests followed the undercover work of a New York City Negro policeman, Raymond Wood, who infiltrated the Black Liberation Front, described as an extremist organization ideologically linked to Red China and Cuba.

Junior Editors Quiz on ORANGES

QUESTION: How come some oranges have seeds and others don't?

ANSWER: The oranges we find in the markets are mainly of two main kinds—those from California, often called eating oranges, and those from Florida, frequently spoken of as juice oranges.

Both are delicious fruit. With the eating kind of orange, a slice of which Ralph is holding, it is naturally attractive to have few or no seeds, whereas in the juice type the number of seeds is not so important.

As a result, we find many seedless oranges coming from California. But how can one control an orange tree to produce seedless oranges.

There is much variation in the number of seeds inside oranges. Some have many, some have few. Orange trees can grow from seeds, but the seeds will not always breed true.

A tree with very desirable fruit might have seeds producing poor trees. Consequently, fruit growers do not raise trees from seed but use another method called bud grafting, which enables them to produce seedless oranges.

A bud from a tree whose oranges are naturally seedless is cut with a sliver of wood attached (1). This is inserted in the "rootstock" of another small, growing orange tree, often of the bitter orange variety, because they are resistant to disease.

The sweet orange bud grows up into a tree; the bitter orange branches are trimmed off. So we have a new tree with seedless oranges.

FOR YOU TO DO: Peel a seedless-type orange and slice it evenly as Ralph has done. This is such a neat way of eating oranges that you can concentrate on what a delicious taste they have.

Chinese Rickshaw Men Get Tough Job

By CHARLES LYNCH
HARBIN, Manchuria (AP) — In a Communist society, everything has its rationale, including the use of human toll for jobs that are performed in other societies by animals or machines. People put their shoulders to the wheel in the literal sense — and if you think you know what that means go out and put your shoulder to a wheel and push until you can push no more. Then keep pushing.

Peking is the showplace of China, so the use of human labor there is modified to the extent that the main vehicles for carrying freight in and around the city are three-wheeled cycles. The sole propellant is human energy, but it is aided by sprockets on the level and by brakes on the downgrade. On the upgrade, the drivers get off, put their heads down, and push, sometimes getting some help from bystanders. Peking is mercifully flat.

The loads, ranging from vegetables to big rocks, from pig iron to heavy machinery, are unbelievable. If there is a load that would take a 10-ton truck, they call up a hundred or so cycle-rickshaws, divide the freight and off they go.

HUMAN BEASTS
The wondering Westerner is told that these human beasts of burden are heroes of the revolution. That they are as proud as one is told, is doubtful.

Outside Peking, it is a somewhat different story. In the industrial cities of Shenyang, Changchun and Harbin, you encounter rickshaws in the old-fashioned sense — two-wheeled vehicles with shafts in front, and the rickshaw puller is on foot.

Here, too, the loads are prodigious — and going downhill is just as hard as going up, because the braking is all done by human energy. Sometimes the rickshaw men bring their children along to help.

On the hills of Barin, the rickshaw men line up at the bottom and help one another up the hill, four or five men to a rickshaw. Getting downhill is almost as tough. A runaway load would be a disaster to all concerned, including the pedestrians who normally do not give the rickshaw men a glance or a thought.

There is nothing new about rickshaws in China, but it is hard to reconcile their abundant use with the claims of the revolution — the ones dealing with human dignity and an end to exploitation.

Nowhere in the world do human beings tell their own story, and I imagine that statistics on their working span would tell a story, too, if they were available. The head bowed in back-straining toil is a moving thing to see, but the emotions it engenders are not emotions of understanding, much less admiration.

The Hong Kong rickshaw man is an oddity. But it is a safe bet that he would not exchange his chore of lugging the occasional load for the steady work of hauling endless loads of metal, stone or other deadweight cargo in the cities to the north.

Residents Escape Leaking Explosives

CADET, Mo. (AP) — Residents of a three-block area were evacuated Thursday after a highly volatile liquid was discovered leaking from a railroad tank car.

The tank car was moved to an isolated siding and the residents returned to their homes Thursday night.

The car contained carbon disulphide, which was leaking in a gaseous form. The car had been parked on a siding at the Buchanan Laboratories.

Could Mean Jail

'Master' a Disappearing Word

SALESBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — "Good morning, master, the African waiter said as he put down the breakfast tray. "How is the master feeling this morning?"

The "master" felt shocked. You can travel thousands of miles in Africa these days without hearing such terminology.

"Master" went out of style eight years ago when the colonial structure in Africa began to crumble and the African began to come into his own.

For years in Africa, the white man was "master" or "boss" and the African was simply "boy" — cook boy, garden boy, tea boy or house boy. They remained "boys" all their lives.

OLD PRACTICE
If you wanted service in a restaurant or a drink in a bar, it was the practice in colonial days to shout "Boy!"

In the more regimented households, the younger white males were even called "little master" by the African servants.

Such talk is almost treasonous now in the newly independent states of Africa. In some, a white man could be sent to jail on a charge of insulting behavior for calling an African "boy."

Once you cross the Zambezi

River into Rhodesia, however, you are in white-ruled Africa. And the present government of Prime Minister Ian Smith has pledged itself to keep on ruling.

WORDS STAY ON
Here "master" and "boy" stay on even though Rhodesia is a shade more liberal than South Africa in race relations. A neat-looking African, wearing a khaki sweater, walked into a hotel bar in Salisbury and asked for a bottle of beer. When the bartender told him he would have to wear a jacket to be served, he walked out quietly.

A Rhodesian immediately left the bar and followed the African out. When he came back he said: "I know him. He was a soldier in the Rhodesian African Rifles for years."

Even in Zambia to the north, now independent for six months, the old practices die slowly. At a Lusaka hotel, the room service came up with a smile and said: "Hello, boss, I'm your boy. This morning I cleaned eight rooms."

So What's in a Name?

HEMEL HEMPSTEAD, England (UPI) — Keith Discipline has been suspended from school here — for lack of discipline.

Car Trapped in Traffic Is Demolished by Train
MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — Alexander Campbell, 33, saw a freight train bearing down on him while he was sitting in his car with the motor running and on the railroad track. He stepped out and watched the engine completely wreck his car. The auto had not stalled. Campbell was unable to move it forward or backward, as he was in a solid line of traffic which would not budge.

4528 DIXIE HWY. — DRAYTON PLAINS

By FLETCHER SPEARS

A quiet young man who's on the verge of making some noise in the world of golf is Northville's Jim St. Germain.

If you went searching for someone who looks like a golfer, you might overlook Jim, who's a little on the light side with 145 pounds spread pretty thin over a 5'10 frame.

But you'll know he's familiar with the old golf game when he steps up and whacks the ball 265 yards down the fairway.

Jim is only 18, a senior at Northville High School, and behind him are a number of golf honors, including a medalist performance in the state high school tournament last year and a trip to the finals of the U.S.G.A. amateur.

And like most youngsters, Jim has a lot of determination, which at the moment is directed to earning a starting berth in the 65th U.S. Open Championship slated for June 17-20 at Belleview Country Club in St. Louis, Mo.

But standing between Jim and the Missouri course are a couple of 36-hole qualifying tests and he has to pass the first to get a crack at the second.

Jim lives at 2806 Phillips Road in Northville with his parents, the C. J. St. Germain, along with his brother Jack, 24, and sisters Janet, 19, and Julie, 3.

PLAYS DAIRY

The family has a membership at the Meadowbrook Country Club near Northville, and almost every day you can find young St. Germain sharpening his game at the course.

Being familiar with Meadowbrook should come in handy. The local qualifying trials are scheduled for May 24 at Meadowbrook and Jim is among the entrants.

The U.S. Open field is limited to 150 players and 31 are exempt from the qualifying trials. Thus, there are 119 berths left for some 2,305 entrants.

If Jim's among the low scorers at Meadowbrook, he will earn a trip to Birmingham (Mich.) Country Club for the 36-hole sectional trials slated for June 8.

Jim is shooting in the low 70's at Meadowbrook these days, so he should qualify with ease in the 'local qualifying.'

The 'sectional' test will be something else.

In that field will be many of the touring professionals who will stop at Birmingham CC following the Buick Open at Warwick Hills near Grand Blanc.

High Scoring Contest in Softball Play

The pitchers and hitters took bows in Waterford Township softball action last night.

Howe's Laues finished Dixie Tool and Machine in the first game, 5-2, behind the four-hit pitching of Ted Wharry, and Bob & Larry unleashed a 10-hit attack in the nightcap to down Midget Bar, 17-10.

Howe's scored four runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to wrap up the decision. Wharry knocked in the lead run with a sacrifice fly.

Dick Nichols banged out five hits in five trips and knocked in four runs to pace the lousy Bob & Larry attack.

Teammate Tom McMahon chased home two runs with three hits.

Registration Scheduled

Registration for players in the Union Lake Junior Athletic League is scheduled for Saturday, from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m., at the Dublin Community Center, 685 Union Lake Road.

Three Tied With 65's in New Orleans Open

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Golf is just another job to Gene Littler — not a dedication — but the 34-year-old former National Open champion is bidding today to end a three-year victory drought.

The smooth swinging pro, who plays out of Las Vegas, grabbed a piece of the first round lead in the $100,000 Greater New Orleans Open with a seven-under-par 65 Thursday.

Jack Nicklaus, winner of the Masters six weeks ago, joined him at the front of the field of 145 along with Bill Martindale, a PGA tourist for slightly more than a year.

Littler, once considered the most promising prospect on the play-for-pay circuit, admits he doesn't have the burning ambition of Arnold Palmer or Nicklaus.

"I prefer to spend more time with my family," said the 5-foot-9 Californian who turned pro 11 years ago after capturing the National Amateur crown.

Victory has eluded him since the 1962 Thunderbird.

BIRDIE PUTT

Nicklaus, the 61 choice to walk away with the $20,000 first prize here, was barely in the clubhouse Thursday with his 65 — a competitive course record — when Littler matched it. Martindale holed a 36-foot birdie putt on his final hole to tie them.

Palmer, who ended a slump two weeks ago by capturing the Tournament of Champions, had putting troubles and wound up with a 73.

Veteran Kegler Takes Lead in ABC All-Events

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Tom Hennessy of St. Louis posted a 12-game total of 2,549 to take first place in classic division all-events by one pin Thursday night in the American Bowling Congress Tournament.

Hennessy, a veteran kegler, pushed Pete Tountas of Hammond, Ind., into second place after two days in the professional all-events lead with 2,548.

The St. Louis bowler rolled a 577 series Wednesday, then had a 693 series Thursday for a third place tie in the singles. He contributed a 668 series with Don Carter's 574 to take a sixth place tie in the classic doubles with 1,242.

Report Made on Grid Helmets

CHICAGO (UPI) — New football helmets with fancy face guards may do more harm than good, a medical study said today.

In an article in the Journal of the American Medical Association, two University of Michigan medical center physicians said the new helmets do a good job of protecting the player but reduce his vision so much he might not see a charging blocker or tackler.

The doctors, reporting on a study of six helmet and face guard designs, said a vertical bar down the middle of the face was effective when combined with lateral bars attached to the helmet at the jawline.

They cautioned, however, against the midline vertical bar for players whose vision is better in one eye than another.

The authors, Drs. Richard C. Schneider and Bartley E. Anline, said old-fashioned helmets with a single face bar provide the best vision but the least protection.

New models with external padding and a firm plastic attachment at cheek level give the best protection but the poorest vision, they said.

"Transient obstruction of vision by the face guard may well interfere not only with forward pass reception but also with the blocker or tackler more frequently than is realized," the article said.

"A potential blocker or tackler approaching low and from the side might be hidden transiently, and the wearer of this helmet might be hit without warning."

Cassius 'So Sharp' He Rests

LEWISTON, Maine (AP) — Champion Cassius Clay declares he's "so sharp" he's taking to-day off.

Challenger Sonny Liston drove one sparring partner out of camp and knocked out another.

And there hasn't been one public statement from lawyers and officials concerning the forthcoming heavyweight title fight for at least 24 hours.

These are developments in the build-up for the May 25 rematch recently reset for Lewiston.

From his western Massachusetts camp in Chicago, Clay said Thursday, "I'm going to take tomorrow off, just to keep things from getting too sharp."

He made the statement to the press after going live extra rounds — for speed with light heavyweight Jimmie Ellis. Clay, who weighed 213 after the workout, now has done 135 preparatory rounds for the bout postponed from last Nov. 16 when he underwent emergency surgery for a hernia.

"BET ON ME!" Clay said he was offering newsmen a "financial tip" when he stated "just bet on me. I hear they're making Liston the favorite. It's your chance to make some real money."

Everett Copeland, a sparring partner, packed his bags and announced he'd had enough before Liston's workout at his suburban Boston camp in Dedham Thursday.

Then the one-time champ cooked Willie Richardson with a smashing right to the jaw. Richardson was actually out on his feet, leaning over the top rope, one arm dangling down the side.

Al Braverman, Liston's camp director, said former heavyweight greats James Braddock and Joe Walcott will watch the Saturday workout in Dedham before the Liston party switches to a Poland Spring, Maine, hotel.

Felice Keg Squad Leads in Classic

The Huron Bowl Classic enters the last position night of the second half tonight with Felice Quality Market already assured of first place.

Led by Brooks Robertson's 258-234-707, it swept Calhoun last week. Jim Rutkowski, though, of Fontana Brothers, set a season high of 266-223-255-744 the same night.

Other teams posting eight-point sweeps were Veterans Disposal and Farm Maid Dairy.

RELAXING Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay takes time out from his training camp workouts to enjoy a picnic around a little brook near his camp at Chicago, Mass. The fight is now scheduled for May 25 at Lewiston, Maine.

Detroit Burial for Fighter

Sonny Banks' Service in Motor City

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The body of heavyweight boxer Lucian (Sonny) Banks will be flown today to Detroit, the city where he was lured by chance to a career in the ring and death at the age of 24.

"We talked by telephone with his father in Mississippi and we decided to hold the funeral in Detroit because he knew more people and had more friends there," his manager, Ted Ewald said.

"This told me there would be a funeral service in Detroit on Sunday with burial on Monday," he added.

The 267-pound boxer died early Thursday in the Presbyterian Hospital of brain injuries suffered in a sixth-round knockout by Leonis Martin of Philadelphia at the arena Monday night.

Banks' younger brother, James, who came here for the fighter's final hours, preceded him by plane to Detroit to join two other brothers in making the funeral arrangements.

Meeting to Be Held for Slow Pitch Players

The Auburn Heights Slow Pitch softball league will have its final organizational meeting 4:30 p.m. Sunday at the United Presbyterian in Auburn Heights.

All interested teams should be represented at the meeting. Detailed details are available from Henry Knight at UL 2-3486.

Pole Position Up for Grabs in 500 Trials

Saturday's Qualifying
Has Dozen Entries in Strong Contention

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—More than a dozen cars may be ready to bid Saturday for the pole position in the 500-mile race to be run at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway May 31.

A. J. Foyt of Houston, Tex., who won the 1964 race, and Jim Clark of Dunfermline, Scotland, who set the qualification record a year ago, appear to be the top contenders, but they should have competition.

Foyt hit the high speed of the season in practice Thursday with an unofficial 161 miles an hour for his fastest lap. Clark was caught at 160.182.

Foyt, Clark, former champion Parnelli Jones of Turin, Calif., and rookie Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., all have been above Clark's qualification records of 159.37 for one lap and 158.828 for the four-lap run.

Jones' best lap was turned at 159.574. Andretti climbed to 159.5. Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif., getting on the track Thursday for the first time this year, hit 159.

FORD POWER
The five fastest cars in practice all are Ford-powered rear-engine creations.

There have been five cars in the 157 bracket, headed by Bobby Unser of Albuquerque, N.M., at 157.8.

Qualifications will continue Sunday and May 22-23. However, the first-day qualifiers will start the race at the head of the pack, except for those that may be "bumped" from the line-up by faster cars. Only the 33 fastest cars in the four days of the trials will start.

The fastest qualifier Saturday will start on the pole — the inside position in the three-car front row. The second and third fastest will fill the front row, and the others will line up behind in the order of their qualifying speeds, three cars to a row.

Sunday's qualifiers will come next, followed by the groups that qualify next weekend. After 33 cars have qualified the bucking starts, and the slowest car in the tentative line-up comes out when a faster car qualifies.

The qualification prize money totals $19,500, with $3,500 allocated for each day and $5,500 for the fastest qualifiers regardless of the day.

Ailing Lucky Debonair to Start in Pimlico Saturday

BALTIMORE (AP)—All was right today with Kentucky Derby winner Lucky Debonair. He'll start Saturday in the 90th running of the $150,000-added Preakness at Pimlico.

Doubt that an inflamed right hind ankle would keep Mrs. Ada L. Rice's colt out of the second event in the bid for the Triple Crown for 3-year-olds was dispelled Thursday after an examination and treatment by a Kentucky veterinarian.

"I'm sure he'll be all right," said Dr. Alex Harthill. "Actually, it is only a very minor thing. 'Lucky' burned his heel when he breaced Monday. There was a slight infection due to sand getting into the burn."

"I feel much, much better," said trainer Frank Catrone. "Of course, we still have to run the race. It was only minor but I was worried. Who wouldn't be with any kind of an injury coming so close to a race?"

SWOLLEN ANKLE
Lucky Debonair, who beat

Ogden Phipps' Dapper Dan by a neck in the Derby, turned up with the swollen ankle Thursday morning a few hours before entries closed for the Preakness.

Told by Dan Rice, husband of Lucky's owner, to use his own judgment, Catrone entered the Derby winner to join eight other 3-year-olds.

Pimlico officials also were happy because the Preakness, without Lucky Debonair, figured to be just another wealthy horse race with the outcome wide open.

Even before Lucky Debonair was given a clean bill of health, the track handicapper made him the 7-5 choice to capture the 1 1/2-mile race, slated to be run under fair skies and temperatures in the mid-70s.

Post time is 4:46 p.m. EST.

with the Columbia Broadcasting System televising the race from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m.

With nine starters the gross value of the race will be $180,000, with the total decreasing $1,000 for each horse under nine.

Still a Star

Avalon Has Refused to Vanish

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD — By all the cool logic of show business, folks should now be asking: "Whatever happened to Frankie Avalon?"

So how come he's making four pictures this year? How come, huh?

Avalon became a star seven years ago, at a time when you could pick up any kid off a South Philadelphia street and make him a teenage favorite by deli manipulation of television and record media. Within the dandle of a few months, he was appearing in "The Alamo" with John Wayne and selling one hit record after another.

Many young chaps with $300 suits, wavy hair and wavering voices hit it big in that era, only to vanish into limbo with the advent of Beatles and other English blights. It figured that Frankie Avalon should join the march to oblivion. Yet he works.

He was working the other day in "Sergeant Deadhead," his third American International film this year. There he was, breezing into a scene and taking over from such pros as Ely Arden, Cesar Romero, Fred Clark, Reginald Gardner and Gale Gordon.

Avalon came out of the scene to enthrall: "Being in a picture with people like these can only make me look good. My next picture is going to be 'Dr. Goldfoot and the Sex Machine' with Vincent Price. Great! You can't help but come off well when you're with fine talent."

At a ripe 24, Frankie can stand back from his career and take a long view. It was admittedly a treacherous path.

"Look — I was a star when I was 17," he said. "I mean I knew from nothing. In the old days they had vaudeville, stock, burlesque — lots of ways to learn the business before they hit it big. Me, I had to learn the business after I became a star."

It was pretty scary, he perceives in retrospect. "A lot of guys went down the drain because they wouldn't learn," Frankie continued. "Not me. I did everything I could — took singing lessons, learned how to dance, paid money for a night club act. I also took a few acting lessons — until I decided

I didn't need them for my kind of work. I'm not trying to do Shakespeare; I leave that to Richard Burton."

The Avalon career was beginning to flag when he was offered a role in a quickie called "Beach Party." Paul Anka turned it down. The film was an instant success with the younger crowd and was the progenitor of the beach pajama-ski-whot-not series that has minted millions for American International.

Frankie admittedly would like to have more imposing vehicles in time, but he's content the way things stand.

Frog Contest Keeps Congress Jumping

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of Congress are jumping at the chance to win fame and fortune in this year's jumping frog jubilee in Calaveras County, Calif.

Some are even risking the reputation of home-state frogs. The attraction is the 100th anniversary observance of Mark Twain's story, "The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County," and a $1,000 top prize for the sponsor of the frog breaking the world's record.

The jubilee is set for May 20 week at the Calaveras County Fair.

Members of Congress were invited in fact, challenged by Rep. Harold T. Johnson, D-Calif., to enter their jumpiest frogs in a special congressional division event. Johnson warned his colleagues they would be competing against Gold Buck, "the outstanding frog in my personal stable."

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Hand leader Spike Jones bequeathed the bulk of his estate to his widow, singer Helen Grayco, with the remainder going to three of his four children.

The will, filed for probate yesterday in Superior Court, did not disclose the exact worth of Jones' estate, listing it only in excess of $10 million in accordance with California law.

Jones, who died May 1, stated in the will, dated Aug. 29, 1957, that 70 per cent of the estate was to go to Miss Grayco and 10 per cent was to go to each of his three children — Lindsey, 15; Leslie, 13; and Linda Lee, 24, his daughter by a previous marriage.

Another daughter, Gina Marie, 6, was born after the will was prepared.

Ship With Explosives

Collides With Barge

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — An American freighter carrying 7,000 tons of high explosives for the Thai military aid program collided with a barge early Friday near Bangkok. The barge sank but the freighter was only slightly damaged.

All the crewmen of the barge were picked up from the river unhurt.

session is making this Republic can kinda jump any way."

Simone Sackles, 15, daughter of Rep. Carlton R. Sackles, D-Mid., entered a Maryland frog which she named "Zan Zan's Cousin Zan Zan" is the Sackles' miniature poodle.

Several house members, including Glenn Cunningham, R-Neb., and James Roosevelt, D-Calif., submitted their $2 entry frogs and took Johnson up on his offer to recruit local Calaveras County frogs and have them trained by experienced frog jockeys.

Sen. E.L. Bartlett, D-Alaska, and the event is a little early to warm up Alaska frogs. But he promised to try to dig one out from under the ice when he goes to Anchorage Saturday to attend a dinner.

Rep. John A. Race, D-Wis., claiming to represent the frog capital of the world — Oakshosh, Wis. — accepted the challenge. He bragged that the smallest Wisconsin frog can outjump California's biggest.

Signing himself John (Frog) Race, he entered a frog he named Old 89 in honor of the current 89th Congress.

Not so boastful was Rep. James M. Hanley, D-N.Y., who said, "I can't help leaping at the opportunity to field an entry in your centennial frog race."

But with lack of confidence he asked, "The I get to keep the frog? I have developed a fondness for leapfrogs frogs."

Submitting his entry, Rep. Howard W. Robinson, R-N.Y., remarked, "This congressional Sens. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., and George Murphy, Rep-Calif., gave what may be the first thoroughbred Kentucky bullfrog ever entered in the annual jubilee a workout Thursday on the Capitol steps.

Murphy has named the jump Kentucky Ev, because, according to Morton's office, the Californian detects a resemblance to (Gov.) Senate leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois. None of the congressional entrants volunteered to be their own frog jockeys.

The rules say a jockey may not touch a frog after placing it on the canvas at the starting line. But he may "jump up and down, whoop, holler, blow on him, beat on the canvas and pray for him to make a move."

The frog is permitted three jumps, the distance from the starting point to the spot on which he lands on the third jump determining the score.

Details Events Day Wife Lost

WILMINGTON, Calif. (UPI) — Superior Judge Thomas Yager, 47, told a Coast Guard hearing yesterday events of the day his 61-year-old wife of four days vanished at sea and presumably drowned.

However, Yager was unable to say whether seasickness or any other illness led to her disappearance from the bridge of their chartered 36-foot cabin cruiser in the Catalina Channel.

In a Coast Guard hearing room crowded with some 20 photographers and reporters, Yager detailed point-by-point events he could recall of May 6, the day Ellen Jeffers Yager disappeared.

He described as he had told police earlier — the frantic search for his missing wife after he discovered she was not aboard the ship, and the failure of the radio to work when he tried to send out distress calls.

Senior Coast Guard hearing officer Lt. Cmdr. Herbert L. Johnson said he did not expect to reach any conclusions for about two months. An informal, routine investigation will continue, he said.

Yager, the sole witness, was asked whether his wife — who inherited $500,000 from her father, Edward Jeffers, former head of the Union Pacific Railroad — had ever suffered from a heart condition or had an electrocardiogram.

"Not that I recall," the judge replied.

"Do you know of your wife taking any medication during the whole trip?" Johnson asked the witness.

Yager said he did recall she told him about taking some anti-seasickness pills during the honeymoon cruise from Newport Beach to Catalina Island last week.

Three capsules found in Mrs. Yager's luggage were turned over to Newport Beach police for analysis. They presumably were for seasickness, but were not so identified during the hearing.

In Scandinavia

Klan Linked to Neo-Nazis

OSLO, Norway (AP) — News paper reports in Oslo and Stockholm say neo-Nazi groups operating throughout Scandinavia have links with the Ku Klux Klan in Alabama and Texas.

The Norwegian government organ Arbeiderbladet said today that a Scandinavian group called Nordisk Riksparti — Nordic Reich party — has a "fueler" in each of the Nordic countries.

Citing Swedish informants, the newspaper said the Swedish brother is Goeran Assar Oredsson and his Norwegian colleague is Hallvard N. Paasche. Arbeiderbladet said Oredsson sent a threatening letter to Swedish lecturer Joachim Israel last Oct. 1. The paper said the letter was accompanied by a Klan brochure containing pictures of German concentration camps with anti-Semitic captions.

Sweden's largest newspaper, Expressen, said the leader of a recently discovered neo-Nazi action group in Stockholm also held membership in the Klan. Expressen handed over documents and photographs to state and security police. Among them was a picture of a Klan membership card it said was issued to Bjorn Lundahl, the neo-Nazi leader. It bore the signature of "imperial wizard" Sherman Miller of Waco, Tex.

According to notes on the card, Lundahl had been appointed "grand dragon" of the "Aryan Knights" in the "realm of Sweden."

He'll Ride Wheelchair, Not Chute to Wedding

LONDON (AP) — Paratrooper Lt. Charles Shea-Simmonds planned to sky dive into the churchyard for his wedding next month to Sarah Hamilton.

Instead friends will push him up the aisle in a wheel chair. He broke both ankles Thursday competing in the army's free fall parachute championships.

People in the News

By The Associated Press

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon says "the greatest danger in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic is to negotiate any settlement that provides rewards for aggression."

Addressing the 50th annual convention of the Boys' Club of America in Miami Beach yesterday, Nixon defended President Johnson's policy in Asia and the Caribbean. He said, however, that he wished the President would do a better job of selling his policies abroad.

'Danes, Americans Confuse Love, Lust'

American evangelist Billy Graham preached last night to an audience of 7,500 in Copenhagen's Forum Hall, addressing himself to the problems of young people.

"Here in Denmark," he said, "you are in danger of something we are also in danger of in America—confusing love with lust."

Graham's eight-day Danish crusade ends Sunday.

Dr. King Says Segregation Must Die

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, told the first John F. Kennedy Memorial lecture audience at Queens College in New York yesterday that "if democracy is to live, segregation must die."

King noted that Andrew Goodman, one of three civil rights workers slain last summer near Philadelphia, Miss., was a Queen College student.

He said Goodman, through his "creative and courageous spirit," had given great help to the civil rights cause but paid the supreme sacrifice.

Ben-Gurion Willing to Return as Israeli Chief

David Ben-Gurion, who resigned as premier of Israel in June 1963, says he is willing to resume the premiership at the expense of his fellow Mapai-Labor party member and the present premier, Levi Eshkol.

Ben-Gurion said in Tel Aviv last night he is willing to have his name at the head of the Mapai list in next November's national elections if so requested by the Mapai party.

Split Up Sexes in Dixie School

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — The Richmond County Board of Education has voted to segregate students by sex at Richmond Academy and to totally integrate the county school system racially by September, 1966.

In a meeting Thursday night, the board voted 8-7 to separate boys and girls in the Augusta High School beginning next fall as a pilot program.

Earlier, the board had considered a recommendation by the instruction committee to turn Richmond Academy into a boys' school and send girls to the present Tubman Junior High School.

The vote Thursday night apparently ended discussion on this proposal for the time being. However, Joe Brucker, chairman of the committee making recommendations on sex separation, said, "The committee is just beginning to function."

TOTAL INTEGRATION

In aiming at total integration of all county schools by 1966, the board voted to integrate grade 12 in September and grades 7 through 11 next year.

At the present, grades 1-3 are open to Negroes in the county and grades 4-6 had been approved earlier for next fall.

The board said it felt its desegregation plans would meet requirements of Francis Keppel, U.S. commissioner of education, who last week said all public schools must open the first four grades to Negroes or face loss of federal aid.

Officials of four other Georgia school systems say they have submitted liberalized school desegregation plans in compliance with the federal decree.

NEW PLANS

The systems announcing new plans Thursday are those of Fulton County and Decatur, both in the Atlanta metropolitan area, and Thomasville and Thomas County.

Fulton County said it would desegregate grades 1, 2, 8 and 12 in September and grades 3, 4, 5 and 11 in 1966. All grades will be opened to Negroes by September 1967.

In Decatur, where Negroes make up about 20 per cent of the city's school enrollment of 4,200, a revised school desegregation plan provides that students entering local schools for the first time may apply for initial assignment to schools within geographical districts.

The Thomasville and Thomas County systems announced that a policy of desegregation would be extended to all grades next fall.

REQUEST TRANSFERS

School Supt. Charles P. McDaniel said pupils in both systems will be free to request transfers to schools of their choice.

He said the plan means a considerable revision of a previous plan.

6 Hurt as Fire, Blast

Destroy Big Ice Plant

MOBERLY, Mo. (AP) — A fire and explosion destroyed a three-story, block-long ice plant and injured five firemen and the plant manager Thursday night.

A six-inch feeder line exploded shortly after the fire broke out. The blast blew down part of a wall, knocked five firemen off a ladder, and shattered windows of houses across the street.

Hanging Ones Now Stylish

May traditionally begins summer's hanging basket time among plant lovers, and what more festive way to begin the season than by giving Mothers hanging basket plants on May 9.

Some of the most popular professionally grown plants you'll find for hanging baskets between now and Mother's Day include clay-potted tuberoses begonia, bromellias, ivies in many variegated shades of green and white, ivy geraniums, lantana, nasturtiums, strawberry begonias, sweet alyssum, thumbergia and vinca.

It's wise to ask your florist or garden center which plants prefer shade and which can do well in sunlight. Hanging basket plants for summer should be double-potted, particularly for sunlight locations.

To double pot place your hanging basket plant in a clay pot one size bigger than the plant container. Line the space between inside and outside clay pots with sphagnum peat moss and keep the moss lining wet watered during hot weather.

New this spring are complete clay pot hanging baskets, with matching red clay saucers, and fastening chains. It's also easy to make your own hanging baskets with light mesh fence or chicken wire, or with aluminum sheets that can be shaped or cupped to fit any size clay-potted plants.

Lawn and Garden News

"LET'S BEAUTIFY AMERICA" — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson greets Mrs. Iney Walters of Niagara Falls, New York and a group of "Beautification Ambassadors" in the Rose Garden of the White House, Washington, D.C. The 18 ambassadors, a cross section of men and women from all sections of the country were typical of those who had written the First Lady about local campaigns to beautify their home towns. They spent a day in Washington making plans for observing May as "Let's Beautify America" month.

Natural Green Thumbs Everywhere

People everywhere — whether they have a garden or not — have a natural green thumb, a love of growing things, as evidenced by the growth in the number of indoor gardeners. In fact, indoor gardening is fast becoming the nation's number one hobby.

In other words, indoor gardening can mean a row of pots on the window sill, it can mean built-in planter boxes next to the glass walls of hall or living room. It can mean African violets on the bathroom window, orchids in the bedroom, or any number of plants under fluorescent lights in the cellar. It can mean a glassed-in porch or a whole greenhouse of any size.

Whichever your category and degree of experience, there are many new plants you have not tried. It's fun to experiment with them and when you succeed, you really have something to brag about, to make you the envy of your neighbors and friends. Just a few of those you can try follow:

If you've grown the giant-flowered amaryllis and know how easy it is, you can go one step further and try the soft pink amaryllis. It, too, grows from a bulb. While summer is its normal flowering time, it will bloom earlier or later, according to when it is planted. Plant one in a pot just a little larger than itself in width.

Leave most of the bulb out of the soil, water and set in a cool closet until well started. Eight or 10 weeks after flowering reduce the watering and let it rest (but not die down) for three to six months.

If you've grown the ever-present philodendrons, you can certainly make a success of their larger cousin, the Swiss cheese plant or monstera with its interesting cut and holed leaves. Its culture is just the same. Give it any good potting soil, not too bright light and reasonable moisture.

Almost everyone has grown the old-fashioned rubber plant in days gone by. Just as easy is the waxy-leaved fiddle-leaved fig — the rubber plant is really a fig. It will grow almost anywhere with a minimum of care.

Very little care is needed to grow the bromeliads, cousins of the pineapple — you've seen them on tree trunks in flower shops, banks, etc.

A wad of moss to grow in, an occasional watering, and water kept in the cups made by the leaves will keep most of them happy.

The glorious or climbing lily sold at most spring flower shows is not hard to grow and is really a spectacular, if there ever was one.

Plant it in a 6- to 8-inch pot, the budded end uppermost, water and treat like any other house plant, except that it is a fast vine and needs something to twine its tendrils on.

Lastly, for those a little less experienced, you have, no doubt, grown the paperwhite narcissi in pebbles and water. Now try Grand Soleil d'Or, a yellow one sold by most seed, garden or flower stores. It grows the same way and is almost as easy.

New Fescues Developed for Problem Spots

Among the lawn fescues not as many varieties have been developed as there are of Kentucky bluegrass.

Several new selections are under test, but the best widely available types are proven Oregon varieties such as Chewings, Illahue, Pennlawn and Rainier. In appearance and performance all of these are very much alike.

Pennlawn is liked for disease resistance. Rainier performs admirably in northerly locations.

Chewings and Illahue are work-horse varieties, doing an excellent job in seed blends all across the country and for wintering in the South. All take well to poor soils and droughty spots, and withstand shade.

You will want to check these names as quality components of lawn seed mixtures purchased this spring. They are used both for upgrading thin lawns or for starting new ones. The parent species is "Creeping Red" fine fescue.

Let's Beautify America Urges Mrs. L. B. Johnson

It might seem to some people that the First Lady of the United States would have enough on her mind without worrying about junk yards, but not Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson. Meeting recently in the White House Rose Garden with Mr. and Mrs. James Finnell, proprietors of an auto salvage concern in Topeka, Kans., Mrs. Johnson repeated what she has put on the record in an article, "Let's Beautify America."

Junk yards, says Mrs. Johnson, have number one priority on her personal list of ugly things that most need beautification.

The Finnells were at the Washington meeting which signaled the commencement of a national "Let's Beautify America" campaign during the month of May.

With them were B. A. Hetherington, "Beautification Ambassador," typical of the people Mrs. Johnson describes in her article, who have written to tell her about beautification campaigns they have waged in their own home towns.

BLIGHT BATTLE

Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. MacCincher of Beardstown, Ill., who organized a successful battle against the blight which threatened to demolish their town of clams; and Mrs. Hans Klusmann of San Francisco, Calif., who described herself to Mrs. Johnson as "the lady who saved the cable cars."

Mrs. Brodie S. Grump of Greenville, Miss., had distinguished herself and won several awards for her town-by-shaming fellow citizens with photos of broken fences and garages and weeds lots that needed beautification. All were guests of Mrs. Johnson in the White House Rose Garden.

Following their visit, they toured Washington with members of Mrs. Johnson's Committee for a More Beautiful Capital, including Mrs. Kit Haynes, president of the Washington Council of Garden Clubs. Mrs. Haynes was aided in her tour duties by Mrs. Frederick Maunell of St. Louis, Mo., president-elect of the National Council of State Garden Clubs.

During the tour of beautification spots in the nation's capital, the ambassadors visited Mrs. Johnson's pany bed in front of the National History Building on the Mall, the Mall Tennis courts where a gift of roses from the Reader's Digest were being planted to climb the wire fences, the Kwanzaan double cherry trees in bloom along the Potomac River; the grounds of the Pentagon where the azaleas, tulips, crab apples were in bloom; a low-cost housing project where Mrs. Johnson had planted a dogwood tree, and the Capital Park Housing project where Mrs. Johnson had planted a garden of snow white and coral bell pink azaleas.

Tattooing was practiced by Egyptians as far back as 2000 B.C.

Clay Pots Protect the Plants

The roots of the spring bedding plants you plan to take home for flower or vegetable gardens need solid protection:

- Against shock.
- Against overwatering.
- Against underwatering.
- Against undernourishment.
- Against suffocation.

Bedding plants grown in porous clay pots provide all five safeguards, insuring more uniform quality of seedlings, whether they be tomato or pepper plants for food, or petunias or snapdragons for beauty.

Both overwatering and underwatering present constant threats to the health of bedding plants grown in flats, where thousands of roots are intertwined in a relatively small amount of soil. And proper ventilation, so necessary to bedding plant growth, is quite difficult.

In addition, bedding plants grown in flats, have to be cut apart, for transplanting. This usually causes shock and damage to roots from which all plants recover slowly and many never make it at all.

It is virtually impossible to overwater bedding plants grown in individual clay pots because their porosity provides even, constant drainage, as well as needed ventilation for roots.

You can tell at a glance whether bedding plants need water merely by pressing your thumb to the top soil.

If it feels dry to the touch, add water — and, at two week intervals, liquid fertilizer.

When ready for transplanting, bedding plants can be quickly and easily dumped from their clay pots, with healthy root balls intact.

Double Pots Retain Moisture for Plant

Spring flowering plants for churches will provide longer-lasting beauty if they are double-potted, in large clay pots, or placed on waterproof clay saucers on top of a one-inch layer of pebbles or vermiculite.

West peat moss or sphagnum should be placed between the inside and outside clay pots to help retain uniform moisture.

Plants set in clay saucers should be watered to the top of the pebble layer, so capillary action of the clay pot can provide constant moisture from below.

Watering twice a week should be sufficient using either of these methods.

Greens Give Cool Feeling to Groupings

For that cool look this summer both inside the house and on the patio or porch, use plenty of cut green foliage, says the Society of American Florists. It's economical, easy to work with, and will last for weeks, even months.

Take a terrace square or settee, for example. A Boston Fern hung high on one side and sitting low on a table on the other side fairly envelops you in a feeling of green coolness.

The same effect is possible with other plants, such as vinery ivies and philodendrons in combination with large green plants placed on the floor. Fresh cut flowers enhance the setting with a dash of color.

Other room coolers include white glads with glossy green leaves; Shasta daisies with galax leaves; delphiniums and lilacs; cut green foliage mounded in large containers. Giant-leaved caladium plants also add color to an otherwise all-green setting.

Inside the house, philodendron, English ivy, Dieffenbachia, Chinese evergreen, and African violet will lend a feeling of coolness to summer living.

LOOK COOL

Inside and out, the idea is that you will feel cool because the plants look cool.

To insure long life for your cut green foliage, submerge it in cold water for several hours just as soon as you receive it. This refreshes the leaves and revives the capillary action.

Also, for greater water absorption, it's well to partially crush an inch or more of the hardy stem ends with a hammer. Scraping the outer bark from the stem ends helps too.

Arrange the foliage in a large container of warm water and place wherever you'd like a restful touch of greenery.

Store Easter Bulbs to Use Next Year

Bulbs from this year's Easter plant can be saved for next year's garden.

After the plant dies back, cut off the tops and pull up the bulbs. Shake off dirt, and seal bulbs in plastic bags or wrap. Store in a cool dark place or your refrigerator.

Ceylon's population has been doubling every 25 years causing serious economic and social problems.

Dwarf Celosia Available in Single Color Packets

The brightest new flower introduction on the gardening horizon this spring is the celosia.

As brilliant as its name, sun burst celosia is a combination of flaming scarlet and glowing gold dwarf celosias. This entire new class grows a uniform and appealing 12" high.

The flower seed people have acknowledged that all gardeners don't want colors mixed. It, therefore, comes in an outer packet with separate inner packets for both the gold and the red. This innovation gives gardeners a chance to use it in borders or beds as a straight color.

But, if gardeners prefer, they can mix the two packets of seed together to accomplish a flaming mixture of burning reds and golds in the same bed.

This new dwarf celosia is heat tolerant and disease resistant. Celosias germinate quickly under warm moist conditions. If you like blooms early in the season a special kit is available for starting transplants indoors.

ARRANGEMENTS

The bright colors of celosia have always made it an excellent flower for arrangements. Now, with the new dwarf, it is possible to make arrangements in small bowls and vases. In fact, there are a number of suggestions for flower arrangements on the inside of the Sunburst packet. This is another case of seedsmen finally realizing what gardeners are looking for in the way of help and suggestions.

One reason that celosias have been such a favorite of gardeners who know them is that they dry perfectly for winter bouquets. Here again, the new flower is a standout because it retains its color late into the fall.

This means gardeners can have the beautiful radiant golds and reds in their gardens all FLAMING BEAUTY A new dwarf celosia combines flaming scarlet and glowing gold. Colors are packed separately inside the packets. It grows just 12" high and is excellent for low beds or borders and fresh or dry arrangements. Seeds are available at your local dealer.

most up until frost time. Then, a week or two, and then used the floral stems can be harvest for everlasting bouquets all winter, hung upside down to dry for later long.

Mums Thrive in Right Spot

Chrysanthemums should be planted after danger of killing frost has ended. Plant either small plants taken from rooted cuttings or divisions or rooted suckers of old plants.

Chrysanthemums like well-drained sandy loam soil and good sun. The plants will tend to be taller and bloom later if set in shade.

Mix peat moss, compost or well-rotted barnyard manure and super phosphate (3-5 pounds per 100 square feet) in the soil. If you use peat moss do not add organic matter.

Instead use a commercial fertilizer such as 5-10-5 in the spring. Add a side dressing of a complete fertilizer early in August.

Pinch the tips to induce branching and stockier growth when the plant has reached a height of 6 inches. Water adequately and spray with an all-purpose insecticide-fungicide twice a month through the summer.

Some insects produce an anti-freeze chemical that keeps their internal organs from freezing.

Entice Hummingbirds

If you'd like humming birds for company this summer, try suspending a lantern plant, double-potted in one of the new hanging clay planters that have their own chains and come complete with any size pot and matching clay saucer.

Suburban Gardeners Enjoy Fruit Blossoms

Many a frustrated suburban home gardener finds his number one objective at this time of year is to enjoy the fruit blossoms yet keep the trees in his backyard from bearing fruit.

Jerome Hull, Michigan State University fruit extension specialist, points out that many horticulturists around the country receive a deluge of letters asking how to keep backyard trees from bearing fruit and "messing up the yard."

Hull adds that chemical treatment of trees prevents some 80 to 85 per cent of the fruit from forming — thus avoiding an annual backyard fruit problem for many gardeners.

Naphthaleneacetic acid is the spray material that will do the job. It is available from garden centers, usually in the 2½ per cent solution. One teaspoonful to a gallon of water is the right amount. Labels on packages will explain how to mix the spray material.

Thorough coverage of all foliage and flowers is necessary to curb fruit formation. The addition of one tablespoon of the insecticide Sevin per gallon in the spray mixture enhances the spray's defruiting effect.

Yet this chemical treatment can cause some foliage wilting, but trees recover within 10 to 14 days.

Betula papyrifera trees are known more commonly by three names: white, canoe or paper birch.

Folder Available on Insect Control

A new, illustrated folder about use of Sevin carbaryl insecticide for insect control on turf, trees and grounds now is available from the Olefin Division of Union Carbide.

The folder explains why Sevin provides the answer to insecticide drift and residue problems encountered by custom spray operators, park superintendents, municipal authorities and homeowners.

Instructions are given for applying carbaryl to control pests on shade trees, shrubs, flowers, turf, nursery plants, gardens, fruit trees, parklands, camps and forests. A table is included, showing formulations of Sevin to use and amounts to apply.

Copies of the folder may be obtained from Olefin Division of Union Carbide, 270 Park Avenue, New York, New York 10017, by requesting booklet F-41100.

PLACE TO PLAY. Your lawn is also the place to play — perfect for such games as croquet, badminton, tether ball, volley ball or tennis. Outdoor recreation is both enjoyable and healthful.

The Federal Government will spend $345 million in the next year examining reports easier for students of all ages.

Green Lawn Can Be Yours

You can usually beat the green lawn rather simply. You do so by making the fresh new shoots of early grasses such as Kentucky bluegrass and fine fescue show more readily, more quickly.

Obviously, for the lawn to look resplendent, the bright new growth poking from deep within the sod has to be seen, not old leaves tarnished by winter. So in late winter or very early spring, before the lawn revives, mow it very short.

Since you will be clipping off old winter-blended foliage, this is the one time of year a scalping won't hurt the grass. If there's a lot of matted, obscuring dirt, rake this out, or use a de-thatching machine and sweeper.

The low cut will make the earliest green shoots quite visible, particularly carpet-like when viewed horizontally. Moreover, with the insulating old leafage removed, the soil warms more quickly and grass growth is speeded.

Finally, fertilize and seed. Although bluegrasses and fine fescues start naturally very early, color and rapidity of growth are improved by fertilizer. If the soil is thin, scatter good seed lightly to assure candidate grass plants rather than weeds.

Clay Saucers Double as Useful Bird Baths

New waterproof clay saucers in sizes from 6 inches to 16 inches make easy bird baths, as well as companion pieces for clay-potted plants.

They can be set on terraces, steps or lawns, or glued to fence post tops.

GLENWOOD PLAZA CORNER NORTH PERRY AT GLENWOOD

Yanks Halting Full-Scale Dominican Eruption

(EDITOR'S NOTE: AP Special Correspondent William L. Ryan has spent the last week touring the Dominican Republic, interviewing hundreds of persons in the capital and the northern provinces and studying the situation in the revolt country. Here is his appraisal.)

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic—U.S. forces occupied Santo Domingo with stunning speed and efficiency. Getting out will be a much bigger problem.

A consensus of informed persons, interviewed during an extended tour of the country outside the armed camp which is the capital, is that the Dominican Republic would explode if

Do FALSE TEETH Rock, Slide or Slip?
PASTERTEK, an improved powder to be sprinkled on upper or lower plates, holds false teeth more firmly in place. Do not slide, slip or rock. No gummy, sticky, messy taste or feeling. PASTERTEK is available (non-addict). Does not sour, change (discolor) or break. Get PASTERTEK at drug, hardware everywhere.

American forces left suddenly now. It may be a long time before all of the 21,000 or so U.S. personnel can leave. They are all in Santo Domingo or at the nearby San Isidro Air Base. But their presence seems enough to discourage any attempt at a full-blown revolution.

Around the country it seems evident that there are sufficient Communist-leaning and Castroist elements to plunge the nation into turmoil should the opportunity present itself. Few doubt that arms are being smuggled regularly into the northern provinces.

RADICAL CHANGE
One factor which may yet save the Dominican Republic is that, as of now, there is no outstanding leader on the extreme left, who is able to capture the imagination and loyalty of the restless young men who are hinting for radical change.

"Uncle Sam, what now?" a young lawyer asked me in Santiago, the nation's second capital, whose middle class is cowering in dread of what may happen there should the Yankees leave.

The question is on many lips in the troubled Santo Domingo. The intervention of American forces may have prevented a bloodbath. It may even have averted an attempt by elements of the extreme left to seize a constitutionalist revolt.

All this may have been a calculated risk which weighed the probable adverse impact in Latin America and the rest of the world against U.S. interest in averting at any costs another Cuba in the Western Hemisphere.

MASSIVE INTERVENTION
The question whether such massive intervention was necessary now is academic. It has happened.

Perhaps, one hears, U.S. support for the rebels when they staged their coup April 24 might have averted the leftist infiltration, once arms were passed out among thousands of civilians. Military intervention probably was the only answer in a situation critically important to the U.S. sphere of influence.

Virtually overnight the U.S. military built up a force on this island rivaling that now involved in South Viet Nam. It may have averted a civil war here and another Cuba. Some worry whether it might have started a new Viet Nam. All that is lacking, some say, is a guerrilla movement.

Thus, it is argued, at least some U.S. forces may have to remain in Santo Domingo for a long time, with all that means in impact on the rest of Latin America and the image of Uncle Sam reverting to the days of half a century ago.

The Dominican coup was staged by a dozen or so young army officers against a civilian junta. Its avowed aim was to re-form the 1963 Constitution and to bring back Juan Bosch, elected in 1962 and ousted a year later, as the constitutional president.

It seemed like just another coup in a country which had become accustomed to them. But there was a difference. The word "Constitution" meant something to many young people. It was not Bosch himself they yearned for but the luxury of constitutionality so briefly experienced.

It is difficult to prove, but what evidence there is points to the likelihood that extremist elements in the country, which are fairly numerous, saw an opportunity and attempted to capitalize on what had happened. The coup had seemed to get off to a bad start and to have been in desperate straits at the time the sudden decision was made to distribute arms to civilians. It was this which led many experienced in Latin American politics to suspect that Castroist tactics were being employed.

At the same time, agitation was fanned violently in other parts of the nation for a similar arms distribution. The army officers in the provinces waited doubtfully, evidently wanting to judge which side in Santo Domingo might win. All politics in this country stems from the capital. The arms demands were resisted.

BIG FAILURE
That might have spelled the big failure of the revolutionary attempt. Still, thousands of civilians in the capital had arms. This turned the coup into a nightmare of killing and produced a situation unique in the history of the Western Hemisphere.

U.S. forces, sent first to protect Americans and then to prevent another Cuba-like takeover, soon ringed the rebel area of the capital with awesome might. The U.S. forces cut the rebel zone in half to establish a corridor. The rebels were under siege, a revolution in a trap.

Without Capital Letters His Letters Were Capital

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — When summer's near and the days are lazy, I think often of Fred Allen—remembering how he used to pick me out a guest column from Cape Cod and give me a day off.

WILSON

"sorry I can't write a guest column for you," he would type out in his peculiar lower-case style.

"with gay abandon you write of false and girdles, I blush when I see breast of chicken on the menu. The first time I saw Jane Russell I wondered how she got her kneecaps up in her sweater."

"when I go down Broadway I meet Jack Benny or some other actor who is out of work. The nights you get into a bistro, Oscar Levant is bellowing epigrams, to wit: 'I ran myself through an adding machine and find I don't amount to much.' And he is mumbling to himself, 'why can't big crum bum, you're so stupid, you think yellow jack is chesnee money.'"

This all comes to mind now because "Fred Allen's letters," collected by Fred's widow, Portland (now Mrs. Joe Rines) and edited by Joe McCarthy, is such a delightful witty with one of the great wits of our time.

Fred was especially witty about vacations. "I've been working on some vacation necessities," he wrote to me once. "a pair of hiking shoes with built-in pebbles for people who would rather sit around in saloons than take long walks, also, a self-wetting bathing suit to make others think you've been in the water on cold days."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "To escape critics: Say nothing. Do nothing. Be nothing."—Dr. E. D. Hulise, Quotian.

Neil Simon, author of "Barefoot in the Park" and "Odd Couple," turned down a penthouse apartment above a very high building: "I don't think anybody should look down on an airplane flying by."

Driveway May Be a Runway

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If you have a radio-controlled garage door, lower the antenna or you might find an airplane trying to land in the driveway.

The Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) disclosed yesterday that such doors can inadvertently emit radio signals hazardous to air navigation. The agency said it has found 58 garage-openers in the Los Angeles area alone which were interfering with air navigation signals, in some cases strong enough to be picked up by aircraft 16 miles away.

"Thus it would be possible for a pilot to inadvertently 'home in' on a garage door signal and fly directly toward it with great accuracy—conceivably with disastrous results," the FAA warned.

Judge Follows Youngsters' Recommendations

Teen Jury Helps to Cut Juvenile Crime in Hot Springs, Ark.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — The judge requests the verdict. The jury foreman, his face intent with responsibility, stands and says:

"Your honor, we, the jury, find the defendant guilty. We recommend..."

The key word is "recommend," for this is an unusual judge and an unusual jury.

The judge is former Chicago and St. Louis National League pitching great Lon Warneke, the Garland County judge. The jury is six teenagers.

YOUNG DEFENDANT

The defendant, too, is a juvenile.

Rebuild Room of Famed Ship

DETROIT (AP)—Visitors who wander around in the Dossin Great Lakes Museum here may suddenly find themselves stepping into the historic world of luxurious Great Lakes passenger steamships.

The staff of the museum, located on Belle Isle in the Detroit River, is reassembling the 53-year-old Gothic Room of the famed old steamer, City of Detroit III.

The ornate, 49-by-60-foot room was purchased in a fund drive headed by the Great Lakes Maritime Institute—for $14,000.

Two large trucks carried the tons of rare, carved wood, bronze and glass and other irreplaceable decorative works from Cleveland to the museum.

EXPLORER'S PICTURE

Included in the shipment was an ornate, three-segment stained-glass picture of the explorer, Ferdinand LaSalle. The 6-by-15-foot picture stood at the head of the room's grand staircase.

The room was built on land in sections and bolted into the City of Detroit in 1912. When the ship was scrapped in 1956 portions of the room found their way to a Cleveland warehouse.

AP SPECIAL REPORT

"I think it's the finest thing that can happen to a juvenile court anywhere," Warneke said.

"I can tell you one thing, it has reduced juvenile crime in this county."

The jurors are volunteers from the three high schools here. To qualify for jury duty they must be a high school pupil, make passing grades, and have a valid drivers license.

VOTING AGE

Arkansas law requires that jurors be of voting age, which is 21 in this state, so the teen-age jury's power is limited to recommending a verdict and a punishment. The judge has not failed—in four months—to go along with the jury's finding and recommendation.

Municipal Judge Robert D. Ridgeway, who also has occasion to employ the teen-age jury in juvenile cases, also has gone along with the youngsters' decisions.

"They do a mighty good job," he said. "They have shown very logical and intelligent reasoning."

Hot Springs, which got its idea for the teen-age juvenile jury from similar situations elsewhere, was worried at first about the effectiveness of such a system. But the doubts have been put away.

SAME SENTENCES

"Ninety-nine times out of 100, I would have handed down the same sentences those teen-agers did," Warneke said.

"If the jury recommends a punishment and I deliver it, then it works out with the parents," he said. "But if it hadn't been the jury's sentence, I'd have been in a fight with the parents as soon as the court was over."

Although a defendant can ask not to be heard by the teen-agers, none has so far. Several have submitted to questions from the jury, with one unusual turn of events.

"You lied to us, didn't you?" a girl juror asked a defendant,

NO HESITATION

"Yes, I did," the defendant responded without hesitation.

The names of juveniles charged or convicted of crimes cannot be published in Arkansas, according to state law, but the teen-age jury, in its own way, spreads the word.

"You can bet that by the time those jurors get back to their schools and talk about their cases, half the county knows what happened and who was being tried," Warneke said.

This deters crime, he claimed. Ridgeway agreed.

OWN AGE

Do the defendants resent being punished by persons from their own age group?

Iva Harris, Juvenile Court probation officer, questioned a defendant—convicted and sentenced to the State Reformatory for Boys—about whether he had received fair treatment or if he thought teen-agers should not have a voice in his punishment.

"Ma'am," he said, "I shook hands with that jury and told them they did a good job."

Perhaps the biggest blessings are received by the young jurors, Warneke said. They lose their fear of the law and the courts, they are others of their age charged, convicted and sentenced, and they learn the significance of civic responsibility.

But best of all, Warneke said, they make the community aware of juvenile problems and they show that there are teenagers who want to do something about it.

Red China Explodes 2nd A-Bomb

215 Cong Die as Viets Trap Five Red Units

Yank Killed in Other Fight; U. S. Planes Hit Guerrillas in South

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Government forces pulled out of an area near Bac Lieu, in the southern Mekong River delta, today after trapping five Viet Cong companies and killing 215 Viet Cong.

To the north, Viet Cong guerrillas jumped two U.S. Marine reconnaissance patrols about 14 miles west of the Da Nang air base, killed one Marine and wounded six or seven others, including a helicopter pilot.

A U.S. spokesman said U.S. Navy planes from the carrier Oriskany hit Red targets in South Viet Nam yesterday. No strikes against Communist North Viet Nam were reported.

A U.S. military spokesman said 18 South Vietnamese were killed and 77 wounded in the two-stage battle near Bac Lieu, 135 miles southwest of Saigon. It began at dawn yesterday and raged until late at night. Four Americans were wounded.

The operation netted a considerable haul of Communist supplies including Soviet-made guns.

SCOUT SWAMPS

The fighting began at 6 a.m. when a government battalion scouting swamps encountered a guerrilla force.

A reconnaissance company was flown in by helicopter and by 11:30 a.m., the Reds were put to flight.

Half an hour later a scout plane spotted a concentration of Viet Cong about 30 miles north of the area. Two Vietnamese companies were quickly flown to the spot.

The Communists put up a hard fight despite a pounding by armed helicopters and fighter bombers. By late afternoon, the government flew in a battalion of reinforcements.

PINNED DOWN

Fighting resumed today, and two Vietnamese battalions were pinned down three hours before the Reds were routed by four air strikes with napalm bombs.

"They were a well-trained unit," said a U.S. adviser at the scene.

Capt. John Brown of Beverly, Mass., a helicopter pilot, said: "For the first time over here I actually saw the Viet Cong stand up out of their holes, take aim and fire right at me."

Romney Asks Citizen Aid in Bid for Fiscal Reform

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney has asked a cross-section of Michigan citizens to fill in the blanks on his fiscal reform "questionnaire."

At the end of a 2½-hour citizens meeting on fiscal reform yesterday, Romney asked the group of some 700 citizens to take his budget and revenue alternatives and "write me within the next month to tell me what you think."

"Those of you who represent groups should ascertain the viewpoint of your membership," he added.

Romney, in the meeting, used charts, graphs and his chief fiscal advisors, State Controller Glenn Allen, Revenue Commissioner Clarence Lock, Aud. Gen. Allison Green and Mark Littler, chairman of his task force on expenditure management.

Romney presented the group the following alternatives for Michigan's future:

- "A drastic slash in the level of state services to avoid higher taxes, deficits or deficit financing;

- "Deficits and another period of general state difficulty;

- "The high cost of deficit financing;

- "An increase in taxes to support an adequate level of state services and to safeguard our state's fiscal integrity."

SUPPORT REFORM

In show-of-hands votes, the group supported fiscal reform in this legislative session. The group included representatives of state agencies, local officials, political leaders, businessmen, and labor, church, civic, farm, educational and veterans organizations.

They expressed nearly unanimous approval of an increase in taxes, pay-as-you-go financing for state building when times are good, and a state income tax.

Michigan is caught in a "morass of ups and downs" when it comes to revenue, Romney said. "This has resulted in government by expediency."

Virtually the only exception is the State Highway Department, he said, because it has been required to survey its needs on a 20-year basis and does its building on five-year plans.

Queen Dedicates British JFK Memorial

RUNNYMEDE, England (AP) — On the hallowed fields of Magna Carta, Queen Elizabeth II with Mrs. John F. Kennedy at her side today dedicated Britain's memorial to the late American president.

It was a sultry, sunny day, the hottest May since 1953.

The solemn ceremonies unfolded only a short distance from the spot where Magna Carta, with its precious liberties, was signed 750 years ago.

With the queen's dedication, the rectangular, memorial of Portland stone, and some of the historic ground immediately around it, became American property.

They were the gift of the British people to millions of whom Kennedy was a revered figure, symbolizing a young and vigorous America.

President Johnson asked Secretary of State Dean Rusk to accept the memorial on behalf of the American people.

"I do so with the joy and sadness which shall forever mark those of us who with John Fitzgerald Kennedy," said Rusk, who also was Kennedy's secretary of state.

"When the American people learned about this tribute to our beloved president we were deeply moved — not only because you decided to share with us this Runnymede which is a common and precious symbol but also because what you have done reflects so sensitive an understanding of John F. Kennedy himself."

President Kennedy would have been the first to recall that his own state of Massachusetts in 1641 had adopted a "Body of Liberties" in response to a need for a fundamental law resembling Magna Carta.

'Weapon Built to Cope With U. S. Threats'

Peking Officials Say Tests Are for Purpose of Abolishing N-Arms

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China said today it had exploded its second atomic bomb aimed at developing nuclear weapons to cope "with nuclear blackmail and threats of the United States."

Peking radio made the announcement and added that the nuclear tests also were "for the purpose of abolishing all nuclear weapons."

"China is conducting necessary nuclear tests within the defined limits and is developing the nuclear weapon for the purpose of coping with nuclear blackmail and threats of the United States."

The Chinese nuclear explosion erupted over the western area of mainland China at 10 a.m. Peking time today, the broadcast said. It called the test a success.

The explosion probably was in remote Sinkiang Province of northwest China last Oct. 16 exploded its first atomic device. President Johnson has said this came at Lap Nor, a lake in the Sinkiang desert.

Two weeks before the first explosion, both Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Canada's Foreign Secretary Paul Martin had warned that such a Red Chinese move was imminent.

The Chinese coupled their first announcement with a blast at the United States — in almost the same words they used this time — and made a bid for a world conference of heads of state to discuss nuclear disarmament.

Ironically, just yesterday an American official in London said the world's great powers have until early 1968 to stop the spread of atomic weapons.

By then, some 20 countries will be able to make atomic bombs, the informant said, listing India, Pakistan, Japan, Indonesia, Israel, the United Arab Republic and Sweden.

A communique broadcast by Peking radio referred to "an atomic bomb" but the first one, at least, was believed to have been an atomic device. This did not have the refinements of a real bomb.

As it had before, Peking said that China "is developing nuclear weapons for defense only."

"China," said the broadcast, "will never be the first to use nuclear weapons. It is the sincere hope of the Chinese people that there never will be a nuclear war."

Red China still lacks the capability of delivering a bomb over great distances. Its rocket development is in its infancy.

Dispute Strike Right Policy

Taking issue with a Wednesday policy statement of the State Board of Education, the Oakland County Township Supervisors Association yesterday voiced opposition to the right of teachers, police and firemen to strike.

In a meeting at Howe's Lanes in Clarkston, the association went on record as supporting the Hutchinson Act which calls for the firing of striking public employees.

John Richard, West Bloomfield Township supervisor, said that allowing public employees to strike would result in chaos.

The motion to support the Hutchinson Act was offered by Duane Hursfall, Independence Township supervisor, and supported by Waterford Township Supervisor James E. Seeterlin.

Wait Until Fall on Fiscal Reform, Senator Urges

LANSING (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Raymond Dzendzel declared yesterday the legislature should wait until its certain-to-be-held fall session to discuss fiscal reform.

Dzendzel, speaking after a Democratic caucus discussed taxes and expenditures, asked "How are you going to get fiscal reform in four or five weeks when we've already had since 1959 to work on it?"

The legislature is due to recess June 25 and adjourn for the year July 30, following consideration of any vetoed bills.

Opposition was also aimed at Senate Bill 475 which would require one voting machine for every 300 voters. This also was considered an undue expense.

The Association honored J. Wesley Duncan, retired Rose Township Supervisor, for his long tenure of public service.

Junta Threat Follows Strafing

'Will Bomb if Needed'

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — With two junta planes circling overhead, the chief of the Dominican junta armed forces warned today that rebel holdouts in Santo Domingo will be bombed again "if the situation warrants it."

Gen. Francisco J. Rivera Caminero, armed forces secretary, told the Associated Press he personally ordered yesterday's strafing attacks on the rebel radio.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. Security Council called unanimously today for a cease-fire in the Dominican Republic and asked Secretary General U Thant to send a personal representative to the strife-torn country.

Personally ordered the attack, said Rivera Caminero after emerging from an early morning conference with Gen. Antonio Imbert Barreras, president of the junta. "If the situation warrants it, we'll attack again."

School Bus, Car Collide;

No Injuries

A bus load of youngsters en route to St. Benedict School in Waterford Township escaped injury this morning when a car slammed into the front of the bus.

The accident occurred at 7:30 a.m. on M59 near Sharon.

Police said the bus, which was headed southeast on M59, had stopped to pick up passengers when a car driven by Bernard Shoemaker, 20, of 67 Henderson, struck it.

Shoemaker's car was headed northbound on M59.

Before hitting the bus, Shoemaker sideswiped another car driven by Lois Thompson, 42, of 7327 N. Shaker, Waterford Township, who had stopped because the bus was taking on passengers.

An unidentified third car directly behind Mrs. Thompson's auto swerved around her car when it stopped. Shoemaker's car was directly behind the unidentified auto.

Lois Shuler, 19, of 100 Washington, a passenger in Shoemaker's car, was treated for injuries at Pontiac General Hospital and then released.

All other persons, including Dorothy Walker, 44, of 868 Kettering, driver of the Bee Line school bus, escaped injury.

The children were transported to school from the accident scene by another bus.

House Groups Okay Traffic Safety Bills

LANSING (AP)—An unsatisfied judgment bill, designed to protect innocent victims of the uninsured motorist, and a package of traffic safety bills were swept out of House committees today in a late floor of legislation reaching the House floor.

All bills must be reported out of committee in the house of origin today if they are to be acted upon in this session of the legislature.

The unsatisfied judgment fund pushed hard by Secretary of State James Hare and opposed by most Michigan automobile insurers, is aimed at assisting the "hardship cases." Hare said these are persons who would suffer extreme financial damage as a result of an accident with one of Michigan's 600,000 uninsured drivers.

Automobile underwriters, who would have been assessed one percent of their Michigan premium in committee hearings. They suggested as a possible alternative uninsured motorist coverage riders on existing policies.

Romney Gets Job Injury Bill

Compromise OK'd in Senate by 35-1 Vote

LANSING (AP)—The workmen's compensation bill was headed back to Gov. George Romney today, backed by 35-1 Senate approval of compromise benefit scales and conditions.

It's the second time around for the bill, which would put Michigan on top of the major industrial states in payments to injured workers or survivors of killed workers.

Romney's promised signature will mean that workers injured after Sept. 1 will collect benefits on a scale ranging from $38 to $91 weekly.

Lengthy Struggle

Republican Senate approval of the scales, wrote "lines" to a lengthy struggle between Romney, who feared discouragement to industrial expansion in the state, and Democrats, who wanted an immediate scale ranging up to $100.

The legislature earlier approved a bill putting the $64-$93 scales into effect but Romney indicated he would veto it.

Gradual implementation of the scales was a major feature of the compromise worked out last week.

Less controversial features of the bill include:

Elimination of the 500-week limitation on benefits.

Extension of widows' benefits from 450 to 500 weeks.

Elimination of the $10,500 ceiling on payments for silicosis (a lung disease).

Cadd was previously listed serious at Pontiac General Hospital. The accident happened at Orchard Lake Avenue and South Saginaw.
