Pontiac Press Photo

THE BIG BELL — Workmen yesterday unloaded the 77 cast bronze bells which will soon be installed at the Kirk-in-the-Hills in Bloomfield Township as the world's largest carillon. Here workmen ease down the largest of the priceless collection, the six-ton bordon bell. In the making in Holland for 14 months, the carillon was donated by a member of the congregation who wishes to remain anonymous.

Trapped in South Africa

Hope Fades for 400 Miners

2 Rock Slides Seal Pit Near Johannesburg

Rescue Teams Carry Canaries for Detection of Deadly Gas

COALBROOK, South Africa (UP) — Rescue teams worked against dwindling hopes tonight to save about 400 men trapped deep in a coal mine.

The miners were trapped yesterday by two rock slides at the Clydesdale Colliery, 35 miles south of Johannesburg.

Loss of 400 men would make this the second worst mining disaster in history. There was a loss of 1,549 men at Henkeiko Colliery in Manchuria in 1942.

A report by a mine official that rescuers had made contact with some of the trapped men stirred hope momentarily today. But the contact was denied later by the Department of Mines.

Canaries were carried into the Clydesdale shafts by rescue teams as a precaution.

Canaries are often used in mine disasters to test the air, because they are more susceptible to gas than human beings.

The mines department said there was no evidence of a gas explosion.

A fresh air base can now be established not far from the rock barrier and efforts to reach the trapped men are being carried out from this area, the department said.

NEW ESTIMATE

Originally 500 African Negroes and 6 white men were believed entombed. But the Department of Mines and mining officials agreed late today on a new estimate—about 400.

Mixed rescue teams of whites and Negroes worked side by side to get an emergency supply of air to the men. But 20 hours after the miners were trapped the rescuers still had not reached them.

"It's sheer Hell down there," said one rescue worker who emerged from the pit after digging through the night.

Another said that the chances

Spears' Wife Admits Contact 2 Weeks Ago

Doesn't Believe Doctor Bombed Plane; Hoax on Insurance 'Kind Act'

DALLAS, Tex. (UP) — Dr. Robert Vernon Spears' young wife admitted Thursday night she met the ex-convict and naturopath in Dallas two weeks ago—and that it was William Allen Taylor who died in a Nov. 16 airliner crash.

But she doesn't believe Spears placed a bomb aboard the plane which carried 42 persons to their deaths in the Gulf of Mexico, the 36-year-old woman said in a dramatic radio-television interview.

Here was her answer when she was asked if she believes Spears—a man with a 33-year criminal record—bombed the airliner:

"Regardless of his past . . . regardless of what he has done or said, or what has been said about him, I know he is a very kind person to me, and to others . . . I do not believe he was capable of putting a bomb on a plane."

She said Spears gave his reservation on the flight to Taylor, a 55-year-old long-time friend from Tampa, Fla. He told her that he read the next day that the plane had crashed and seized the opportunity to disappear.

Spears told her of the deception during a secret visit to Dallas two weeks ago, she related. He hoped his young wife and two infant children would benefit from more than $100,000 in life insurance he carried.

"Did he mention Al (William Allen) Taylor?" she was asked.

"Yes, he did," she replied evenly.

"What did he say?"

"He (Spears) said that he

Precipitation for the period will total about one-quarter inch in most sections. More snow is expected about Tuesday or Wednesday. Partly cloudy and continued cold is Sunday's outlook.

Flu Outbreak Is Possible, Health Director Warns

With a cautious eye to the future, Oakland County Health Director Dr. John D. Monroe today issued a warning to area residents to take precautionary measures against a possible flu epidemic already heralded by national health agencies.

He cited also an increase in the number of Pontiac deaths attributed to pneumonia.

With a full week left in the month, seven cases of pneumonia were fatal to Pontiac residents since the first of the year. Four deaths resulted from pneumonia during the month of January in 1959.

Health agencies have pointed to the lung disease as one of the "complications" that can result from flu.

"I'm not alarmed now," said Dr. Monroe. "We have to see what happens the rest of the month. We're over the hump, but we have to wait and be sure."

Although Oakland County and Detroit metropolitan area residents seemed to be hardest hit last week by the flu outbreak, some of which has been identified as the "Asian strain," the "hump" is not past, according to the U.S. Public Health Service.

One official said the flu virus is so widely spread across the nation that further outbreaks are inevitable. A large number of flu cases are expected in the next month, he said.

Dr. Monroe said there have been causes of death identified as flu already this year, but that it was too difficult to determine the exact number.

"Very little immunization has been done," said the health director. "It is possible that we could have an alarming outbreak that is much more severe than we've been having.

TOUGH ON OLDSTER

"Older people don't do too well when they contract the disease, and infants don't, either. They should be isolated from those in a household who have the flu.

"Don't treat the illness lightly. Stay away from crowds for awhile, keep your resistance up with a well-balanced diet and rest. And it is never too late to be vaccinated for the rest of the winter."

The doctor said inoculations could be administered only by family physicians, but that there should be enough vaccine to go around.

"We know that there is more vaccine available now than there was before," he said. "But, prevention is most important. There is no drug that can cure the disease or kill the bug."

Kremlin Reports 9 Cases of Smallpox in Russia

GENEVA (UPI)—The Kremlin reported today that nine Soviet citizens are suffering from smallpox. It was the second time the once-dreaded disease had been reported in Russia in less than a year.

In response to an inquiry, the Russians assured the World Health Organization (WHO) that "all necessary steps" are being taken to vaccinate "all possible contacts."

China's Boast Has Flaw

TOKYO (UP)—Communist China boasted today it exceeded its major industrial and agriculture targets for 1959 by 31 per cent over the previous year. But a Peiping radio broadcast admitted that vital grain production had fallen short of its goal.

Idea Born During Stroll

Chance Played Role in 'Kirk' Bell Story

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

Had it not been for a hot summer afternoon in 1958, Kirk-in-the-Hills might not be the benefactor today of the world's largest cast bell carillon.

After workmen yesterday had carefully unloaded the 77 bells and mounting equipment in front of the Bloomfield Township Presbyterian church, the Rev. Harold C. De Windt sat back in his office and recalled how a once-in-a-lifetime vision had come true.

"A member of our parish, who wishes his name be kept anonymous, visited me one hot day the summer before last," the Rev. De Windt recalled.

"Since it was so stuffy in my office we decided to take a stroll in the garden around the church. As we were walking leisurely he looked up at the tower and asked what sort of bell went there."

De Windt said he remembered answering it would take more than one.

"Well, why don't we put a set in," the Rev. De Windt said his visitor replied.

Although he tried to talk him out of the potential gift, saying the parish needed funds even more to complete remodeling after a disastrous 1957 fire, the minister said the gentleman insisted.

Workmen unloaded three huge vans which trucked the bells, weighing roughly 66 tons, from New York docks where they had arrived from the manufacturer, Petrus Aarle-Rixtel in Holland.

When carillonneur Phillip Steinhaus strikes the keyboard for the inaugural recital, hoped to take place for Easter, the music from the majestic collection is expected to float through the hilly township for about eight miles around.

Besides use for Sunday afternoon recitals and other regular church functions, Rev. De Windt said the carillon will have a clock mechanism which will be set to strike every hour during daylight.

Providing this time will be the largest of the 73 cast bronze bells—the bordon bell weighing 11,917 pounds.

Yesterday, while members of the parish and passers-by examined the big and smaller bells glittering in the sunlight, this bell

Living Costs Drop Mite in December

WASHINGTON (UP)—Living costs as measured by the government declined one-tenth of one per cent in December. It was the first drop in four months.

Lower prices for food, clothing and durable commodities were largely responsible for the decline. Costs of services continued to climb.

The labor department announced today that its consumer price index declined to 125.5 per cent of the 1947-'49 base period.

This is 1⅓ per cent above the level of December 1958. The December drop wiped out a slight November increase and returned the index to the October level.

New Dikes Thrown Up

HONOLULU (UP) — Fifteen giant bulldozers today were hastily erecting a new dike in an attempt to save another threatened area from erupting Kilauea's lava on Hawaii Island.

The barricade was being put up near Kumukahi Point as an ever-widening river of molten lava continued to pour out of Kilauea's fiery fissure north of Kapoho Village.

Sullenberger Off to Battle Creek

Transfer to VA Hospital for Treatment and Rest Finally Okayed

After five days in the Oakland County Jail, Dr. Neil H. Sullenberger was transferred to the Veterans Administration Hospital at Battle Creek this morning.

VA hospitals at Ann Arbor and Battle Creek had previously denied admittance to Sullenberger, reportedly because veterans have protested that this would constitute preferential treatment for the Pontiac surgeon.

A VA spokesman said, however, that the hospitals' refusals were based on the fact that Dr. Sullenberger's service disability had not been established.

He volunteered to accept hospitalization for treatment and rest after being faced with a possible arson charge.

Oakland County Prosecutor George F. Taylor said the Adjudication Division of the VA office had decided that the doctor was entitled to treatment.

Sullenberger was an Air Force flight surgeon during World War II. Taylor said the surgeon was entitled to a full disability pension on his discharge but turned it down.

Taylor and Floyd Cremer, director of the Oakland County VA office, said Sullenberger's admission was due largely to the efforts of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Detroit.

Sullenberger agreed to remain in the hospital until discharged by other doctors. He was fired from the staff of Pontiac General Hospital in 1958 on charges of unprofessional conduct.

MSU Board of Trustees Chairman Is Re-Elected

EAST LANSING (UP)—The Democratic majority on the Michigan State University Board of Trustees, with a lone Republican concurring, re-elected a Democrat as chairman today.

Re-elected for a second term was Dr. Connor D. Smith of Pinconning.

One Democrat and one Republican replaced two Democrats on the six man board to give Democrats a five-one plurality. Newly seated were Warren M. Huff, Plymouth Democrat, and Frank Merriman, Dechorville Republican.

Pontiac General Sets Up Depreciation Fund

Hospital Finances Better

By PETE LOCHBILER

Figures showing a brighter financial picture at Pontiac General Hospital were released today, after the Board of Trustees took what was described as "the biggest single step towards the future success and security of the hospital."

They also showed that for the first time in at least 12 years—perhaps the first time in the hospital history — annual operating costs on a per patient basis dropped.

These happy conclusions came after an appraisal of 1959's financial operation which hospital officials unanimously agreed was "very conservative and accurate."

The Board of Trustees voted last night to reverse a four-year dearth of funds for new equipment and major repairs.

Trustees voted to set up again a cash fund to cover depreciation, with a $187,000 goal this year.

It was James Clarkson, Board chairman, who stressed the importance of such a fund.

"Not many publicly owned hospitals can say that they are self-supporting," he said. "But we are going to have to be, because it is obvious that no more funds are going to be forthcoming from the city now that the expansion program is nearly finished."

About $300,000 in accumulated funds for depreciation was thrown into the expansion program several years ago at the insistence of the City Commission.

TIGHT BUDGET

"Since then, we haven't had one dime of our own with which to buy a chair that wasn't budgeted or major equipment in case of a breakdown," said Clarkson.

"We're still at the zero point. But we hope to start building up depreciation funds now."

In recent years, the hospital has had available to cover depreciation only the $950,000 which the city gave it to buy new equipment and furnishings in connection with the expansion program.

No money has been set aside for such maintenance projects as redecorating, for instance.

Nor had special funds been set aside Clarkson pointed out, to cover such unexpected — but mammoth — costs as have been involved in the replacement of worn-out heating, electrical and plumbing installations in the hospital's old-east wing.

Banking money for depreciation this year will probably result, Clarkson admitted, in a minimum of cash at the fingertips of the hospital's administration.

"We are prepared, however, to let the administration borrow from

Dr. Pauli Hospital Chief

The Board of Trustees of Pontiac General Hospital last night approved the election of Dr. Theodore H. Pauli as chief of staff.

Dr. Pauli, a veteran staff member at Pontiac General, served as vice chairman last year. He was chief of staff in 1949.

Dr. Kenneth Vandenburg was elected 1960 vice chairman; Dr. Everrette Gustafson, secretary-treasurer; and Dr. Wellington C. Gibson was named delegate to the hospital's executive committee.

'Xway Protest Hopeless Act'

Mackie Says County Taxpayers Can't Force Northwestern Extension

Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie says a group of Oakland County taxpayers are contemplating "a hopeless legal action" in their attempt to force completion of a four-lane extension of Northwestern Highway.

A squabble over the expressway, proposed to run from Eight Mile Road to U.S. 23 near Fenton, was brought up in the last of three highway investigations by Sen. John H. Stahlin (R-Belding).

"Stahlin apparently is promoting this nuisance lawsuit to breathe life into his dead horse investigation," Mackie said.

"If the suit is filed — and I have been told Sen. Stahlin advised newsmen it has indeed been filed — I hope he is paying the attorney's fees and is not using innocent citizens and their money," he added.

ASK LEGAL PROCEEDINGS

Through their attorney, Harry D. Wise Jr. of Pontiac, the group of some eight county residents yesterday asked Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams to initiate legal proceedings to compel performance of a 25-million-dollar highway bond contract executed May 1, 1957.

Wise, who said the taxpayers developed homes and businesses in hopes that the expressway would further the growth of the area, claims the contract has not been lived up to.

Mackie, however, told reporters after receiving a letter from Wise

Thought 3 Children Were Trapped in Flames

Firefighter Injured in Orion Twp. Blaze

By LEE WINBORN

An Orion Township fireman was badly injured last night in a heroic attempt to enter a flaming home where he believed three children, and perhaps an older woman were trapped.

Another fireman also suffered a minor injury in the $20,000 blaze that gutted a two-story frame home at 1143 Long Lake Blvd., a mile east of Lake Orion.

It was later discovered the family was away.

Taken to Pontiac General Hospital with first and second degree burns of the hands and face was Boyd Haddix, 28, of 172 N. Andrews St., Lake Orion.

Haddix was the first fireman to enter the burning building. The sudden thrust of air, caused when he opened the front door, set off an explosion that sent him hurtling through the porch door.

His arm was cut when it went through a pane of glass in the door. He was listed in satisfactory condition today.

An auxiliary fireman, Charles Gilmore, 30 of 618 Pleasant Ridge Rd., Orion Township, had to have a piece of foreign matter removed from his eye. He was taken to the Orion Medical Center for treatment.

It was first thought that the three children of the homeowners, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Arnot, were in the house.

CALL FOR HELP

On the scene battling the flames in below freezing temperatures were firefighters from Oxford and Addison Townships, called to assist the Orion firemen.

The children are Paul, 10; Debbie, 5; and Linda, 3.

The next report was that there was a woman, probably the children's baby sitter, trapped inside. Her car was in the driveway.

As soon as the flames and smoke were dispelled sufficiently firemen searched the building and found no one inside.

Orion Fire Chief Jack Caylor said the fire started in a closet under the stairs. The cause is still undetermined.

The Arnots own Paul's Hotel in White Lake Township. Their home is near Bunny Run Country Club.

City Hospital Reveals New Facilities, Rates

Pontiac General Hospital today announced special facilities are forthcoming for both critically ill patients and those who are on the way to recovery.

Special room rates for each type patient should prove to be financially attractive, said Harold B. Euler, hospital administrator.

The Board of Trustees approved the rates last night.

The hospital plans to open two new units — one for intensive care, the other for mostly self-care—Feb. 8 on the fifth floor of the remodeled east wing.

There'll be lots of registered nurses on duty to attend to the needs of the critical patients in the intensive care unit — one nurse for each five patients, plus nurses' aides.

Extra cost for the intensive care has been set at $15 a day, or about $40 less than it usually costs to hire round - the - clock private nurses.

"The extra hospital charge will be covered by many types of hospital insurance — including Blue Cross, whereas most insurance does not cover the cost of private nurses.

In the self-care unit, patients will have to do just about everything for themselves except make their beds. They'll have to walk to the nurses' desk for medication and to the floor kitchen for meals.

The unit is designed primarily for persons recovering from operations or entering the hospital for routine checkups.

Only one nurses' aide will be on duty each shift.

The hospital said it would reduce room rates in the unit by $4 a day per patient.

There are 12 ward beds planned for the intensive care unit. The self-care unit will comprise 20 ward beds, five privates and six semi-privates.

Spears' Wife Knew Doctor Not Dead

(Tayide) was on the plane," she said.

"He was sorry it had to happen to him, or anyone else."

"Did he indicate when the change of plans occurred for Al Taylor rather than Bob Spears to board the plane?"

"Not any actual time as to when the change was made, no," she answered.

Her account was made public here about the same time an Arizona friend of Spears, Dr. William A. Turska, told in Phoenix of finding a case of dynamite cached near a desert cabin where he had Spears after the crash.

Mrs. Spears denied that her husband planted a bomb in the National Airlines-operated plane or had anything to do with the crash.

Turska, freed after six hours of questioning by the FBI in Phoenix Thursday, said he understood investigators found dynamite fuses in Spears' luggage. An FBI spokesman declined comment.

Both the Civil Aeronautics Board and a Senate Aviation subcommittee have been trying to determine whether bombs caused the Nov. 16 crash and that of another National Airlines plane Jan. 6 near Bolivia, N.C.

that he was living up to the terms of the contract.

"Your request is presently under consideration and as soon as we have determined upon a course of action we will write you further," the letter read.

Wise said he would allow Adams "a reasonable time" to act. He didn't elaborate.

If Adams does not act, the attorney said, he would have no other recourse than to file suit in behalf of the residents.

Mackie said the first phase of the project, to run from Eight Mile road to U.S. 24 (Telegraph road) was scheduled to start next year.

'HASTILY PLANNED'

Wise countered by saying the entire project was supposed to have been finished by last year.

"Mackie told Stahlin's committee last week the project was hastily planned by the late Republican Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler.

The planned Walter P. Chrysler expressway and a new interstate route connecting U.S. 16 and Telegraph will run roughly parallel to the proposed Northwestern extension, Mackie said, thus doing away with any need for an immediate construction start.

Meanwhile, he added, bondholders on the issue are collecting interest.

506 Miners Trapped; Rescue Hopes Fade

The disaster could be the worst in postwar mining history. The worst mining disaster recorded was the loss of 1,549 men on April 26, 1942, at Benkeiko Colliery in Manchuria.

An explosion damaged the mine's surface ventilator and cut off the air supply for a time but it was restored this afternoon.

There was fear of a spread of deadly methane gas.

The mine is operated by Clydesdale (Transvaal) Collieries Ltd., a firm with mining interests in the Orange Free State and the Transvaal.

The colliery is 14 miles from Vereeniging, which is 35 miles south of Johannesburg.

First warning of impending disaster came Thursday afternoon when the earth began splitting on the surface near the Clydesdale mine.

Wide cracks later appeared across tar - covered paths between Sloabberg and Holfontein, towns in the area. Police were forced to divert traffic onto side roads.

Relatives and friends of the trapped workers rushed to the pithead as soon as they received news of the rock fall. They stood in hushed groups as the rescuers prepared to go down into the mine.

After the explosion wrecked the surface ventilator, cutting off the supply of air to the trapped miners, the first task facing the rescue teams was to get air through to them.

Roberts Sponsors Probe Request on Obscene Mail

Rep. Farrell E. Roberts (R-West Bloomfield Township) has sponsored a resolution passed in the House of Representatives yesterday calling for a five-member committee to probe distribution of obscene materials in Michigan.

Roberts acted after the Legislature heard an appeal from Mrs. Cecil M. Harden, special assistant to Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield.

She said Michigan was the first state to have its Legislature meet officially with a Post Office Department representative on the problem.

According to Mrs. Harden, the distribution of obscene literature is a half-billion dollars a year racket and is usually aimed at young teens.

Ohio Crash Claims 2nd County Victim

An auto crash near Wilmington, Ohio, Jan. 13 claimed its second victim from Royal Oak last night.

George Lehman, 79, of 222 Rhode Island Rd., died of injuries received in the accident that killed his wife, Mary, 77, while they were en route to Florida for a vacation.

Their automobile left U.S. 68 about four miles north of Wilmington, swept through a ditch for 300 feet and hit a tree, according to highway patrol officers in Ohio.

The car caught fire, but passing motorists quickly put out the blaze. Mrs. Lehman, however, was already dead from a fractured skull.

Lehman was rushed to Clinton Hospital at Wilmington where he succumbed to internal injuries.

the depreciation fund during tight periods," he said.

Harold B. Euler, hospital administrator, warned that the cash shortage is still serious.

The hospital will go into the red tomorrow in issuing its bi-weekly payroll, he pointed out. It had to borrow in 11 months last year to meet the payroll.

The Board of Trustees had anticipated funding depreciation in cash when it adopted a 1960 budget predicting a small profit this year.

In comparison, the hospital ran nearly $175,000 in the red last year if depreciation is figured as an operating cost.

No funds were banked last year to cover depreciation — figured at $174,000.

"Nevertheless, depreciation is a real operating expense and we must include it in our figures to show the hospital's true financial picture," Clarkson insisted.

Still unaudited figures put the hospital's 1959 operating loss at $174,702 — with depreciation figured as a loss.

This compares with an operating loss of $354,166 in 1958, again figuring in the depreciation that was not covered by cash.

The hospital budget for last year had anticipated an operating loss of $45,000, not including depreciation. In this respect, the hospital did $46,000 better than it anticipated.

Last year's operating losses were offset, partially, by a $12,600 reduction in the $100,000 debt it owes the city and $20,700 in public donations.

Euler described the reduction in per-patient-day operating costs as "a really significant accomplishment."

The operating cost for 1959 averaged out to $43.35 per day for each patient treated. This was 51 cents less than the cost in 1958.

In comparison, between 1950 and 1957 the cost rose steadily, from $21.46 to $39.63.

With the exception of last year, the rate has risen steadily over the 12 years the hospital's books have been audited by its present auditors.

Chance Played Role in 'Kirk' Bell Story

seemed to attract the most attention.

It is actually the "father of the carillon." On it inscribed alongside a large cross:

On the other side: "Roy—I Faithful Was Shod Aboard With Blessings."

On four of the sister bells of the largest one are dedications, supposedly to the donor's wife and three children.

The entire collection, including the mammoth job of installing the bells in the 187-foot tower, cost around $110,000, Rev. De Windt said.

A section of scaffolding was already in place yesterday as crews prepared to lift the bells and mounting equipment into the tower with a 135-foot boom crane. Some stones from the tower will have to be removed, Rev. De Windt said.

The carillon contains more bells than any other in the world. It took 14 months to manufacture.

In actual tonnage, however, it ranks third behind those at the Riverside Church in New York City and the Rockefeller Memorial Chapel at the University of Chicago.

"We listened to the tone of all kinds of bells made all over the world — English bells, French bells, and Dutch bells," Rev. De Windt recalled after the donor gave the go ahead on the project.

Stereophonic recordings of carillons in this country made of all types of bells were studied to determine the choice.

"It was thought that those from Holland had the finest quality," Rev. De Windt said. The Netherlandi company, which this year is celebrating its 300th anniversary of business, was given the contract.

"Furthermore," Rev. De Windt said, "All the equipment to operate the carillon is manufactured in this country, so if anyting goes haywire we won't have to go far for repairs."

Waterford Dentist Badly Hurt in Crash

Dr. Burnell W. Ross, 32, a Waterford Township dentist, was seriously injured at 4 a.m. today when his car failed to make a turn on Sashabaw road and slammed into a stone wall, according to Waterford Township police.

Dr. Ross was on his way to his home at 6280 Snow Apple Dr., Clarkston, when he lost control of his car on the icy pavement-curve, hit the wall and careened off the left shoulder of the road, coming to a stop on the front lawn of the home of Woodrow Holden, 4323 Sashabaw Rd.

Dr. Ross was taken to Pontiac General Hospital with a possible concussion and cuts on the head. Although he was still unconscious at noon today, attendants said his condition was satisfactory.

The mines in Northern Lapland supply about three-fourths of Sweden's entire iron ore production.

Gen. Klenke currently commands Volunteer Training Unit 17 at the Grosse Isle Naval Air Base.

GRADUATED IN 1929

He was graduated in 1929 and became a second lieutenant in 1934. He was the only Marine private ever put on flying status as such.

Contemporary prints—the works of some 80 artists—will be displayed beginning Sunday at the Little Gallery, 915 E. Maple St., with the opening of the Contemporary Printmakers Show.

The exhibit will continue through Feb. 27.

Presenting a cross-section of present-day tendencies in the graphic arts, Peggy Dedelle, owner of the gallery, said many famous names are included in the group of artists but "emphasis is on youth and experiment rather than reputation."

Eight countries will be represented in the show—the Americas, Europe and Asia—she said.

ENGLAND, U. S. PREVAIL

"England, which is traditionally a stronghold in the fine print field, and the United States, where a great surge of interest has developed in the past few years, are especially well represented," she said.

The list also includes printmakers whose origins lie in Chile, China, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, Russia and Switzerland.

Truck production this week was scheduled at 31,219, the highest level of output since May 21, 1955, when 31,579 units were built. The industry turned out 29,788 trucks last week and 24,485 in the same week a year ago.

The combined car-truck output of 209,234 was the highest since the week ended April 30, 1955, when the all-time high of 216,404 vehicles was built, Automotive News said.

Canadian manufacturers scheduled 10,688 cars and trucks this week, compared with 10,562 last week and 8,575 in the same week a year ago.

Kefauver Asks Drug Official:

Pill Cost Varies...Why?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators want to know why an American buyer has to pay $1 a batch for tranquilizer pills that can be bought in Paris for 77 cents.

The Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, which is looking into drug pricing, called more medical experts to testify today.

Chairman Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) said he also wants more light shed on allegations that a dispute involving patent rights on newly developed medicines has been slowing the government's search for cancer cures.

Kefauver told the head of a Philadelphia firm Thursday its prices for tranquilizer drugs were "completely out of line." He said it is time to see whether something can be done about that.

Kefauver was addressing Walter A. Munns, president, and other officials of Smith Kline & French. Munns insisted the firm's prices are reasonable.

The subcommittee staff had produced evidence which, it said, showed that druggists pay $3.03 for 50 tablets of the tranquilizer chlorpromazine produced by Munn's company under the name Thorazine. The tranquilizers then are sold to the public by the druggest, the staff said, at a price of $5.05 for 50 tablets.

WALTER A. MUNNS

The chart listed prices for 50 tablets of this drug, manufactured by a French firm, as 51 cents to the druggists of Paris, and 77 cents to the French patient. Canadian druggists pay $3.75 for 50 French-produced tablets of the medicine, the evidence showed, and retail them for $7.05 to the public.

While criticizing high prices, the subcommittee brought out: That Munns got a salary of $140,000 last year, that Francis Boyer, now chairman of the firm's board, held stock in the company which last year entitled him to dividends of over $940,000; and that company dividends accruing last year to the firm's honorary chairman, C. Mahlon Kline, amounted to $1,300,000.

The number of permanent injuries is nearly twice as great for younger workers as for older workers, according to the U. S. Department of Labor.

Court Appoints Special Guardian for Ketkos

DETROIT (AP)—A judge appointed a special guardian yesterday for Anthony and Agatha Ketko, owners of a treasure hoard found in a roomful of junk.

Among the cash, bonds and other valuables totaling more than $40,000, police found bank books listing $32,535.60 in deposits. Officials of the banks refused to say, whether the money still is on deposit.

The treasure came to light when the Ketkos were evicted from their apartment Jan. 11.

Mrs. Gladys Schimanski, a special deputy sheriff attached to Receiving Hospital's psychiatric ward, told Judge Murphy: "Our doctors have examined Mr. and Mrs. Ketko and they suggest a guardian be appointed."

* * *

The judge also suggested the couple might be placed in an old folks' home.

Soviet Rocket 'Biggest Ever'

Pacific Test Vehicle Forerunner of Heavy Space Satellite

MOSCOW (AP)—A leading Soviet scientist said today the superrocket fired into the Pacific Wednesday was the biggest the Soviets have launched and the forerunner of a heavy space satellite with equipment that can bring it back to earth.

Prof. V. Dobronravov said the test rocket's last two stages reached a speed of more than 26,000 kilometers an hour — better than 16,172 miles an hour.

* * *

The Soviet rocket that carried the satellite which photographed the moon last fall weighed about 3,323 pounds (without fuel) in the last stage. The satellite itself weighed only 614 pounds.

Sputnik III, launched on May 15, 1958, weighed 2,925 pounds.

The United States put a 1,700-pound satellite, Discoverer VIII, into orbit in November, its maximum altitude to about 1,000 miles from the earth.

Dobronravov wrote in the Moscow Pravda, organ of the Moscow branch of the Communist Party, that this week's Soviet test firing shows "the final stage of the future largest space rockets will be able to develop not only the first astronautical speed of 11.2 kilometers (about 7 miles) per second but even a greater speed, sufficient for flights not only to the moon but to the planets of the solar system, too."

THE LADY AND THE GIANT

By Clarence Budington Kelland

© 1959 by Clarence Budington Kelland © 1959 by The Curtis Publishing Company Distributed by NEA Service

THE STORY: Although Madam Clark Janeway has retained Orrin Applegate to be her lawyer, Orrin has had dealings with her sister-in-law, Oscar. He is further perplexed because Lossie Post, his young neighbor, has seemed to fall under her charm.

XI

The presence of the patent medicine show in town did not cut into the receipts of Stubb's. Newell, for the medicine show was free and attracted mostly local people and canawlers, while the audiences for the Cardiff Giant were mostly excursionists.

Lossie and I, when time hung heavily, used to stroll down to the field where the troupe had established itself and watch the performance.

Almost every time we saw Oscar, Madam Janeway's butler, lurking on the edge of the crowd, making himself inconspicuous, but always watching with a curiously avid expression upon his cadaverous face.

"As if," Lossie said with puckered brow, "he were an addict and couldn't help himself."

Fond as she seemed to be of Madam, and often as she was in Madam's house, she could not get used to Oscar. "He makes chills run up and down my spine," she said.

SHE DIDN'T PRY

Now Lossie isn't a busybody and she doesn't poke and pry into other people's affairs. But she did take to studying Oscar and watching his movements with a sort of childlike curiosity. And so it came about that on an afternoon—I think it was a Thursday—she mixed me up in the matter.

Madam Janeway was away in Binghamton, whither she had gone alone.

I came home from the office a bit early to find Lossie waiting for me in the hammock between our two houses. She jumped up at sight of me and was mysterious and excited.

"You come along with me, Orrin," she commanded.

I held back. "What trouble are you trying to get me into now?" I demanded.

"All right," she said, "then I'll go by myself."

She knew that would fetch me. Sullenly, I followed her. She pressed her finger to her lips, cautioning silence. I listened. Someone was inside. I heard a thud, and then, after seconds, another thud.

"Lift me up," she commanded, and I took her under the arms and hoisted her so that she could look through a small, square window. The thuds continued, spaced by 10-second intervals.

"What's that noise?" I asked impatiently, and was rewarded by a kick from her heels. So I dropped her and hoisted myself up and looked inside.

In a moment my eyes accustomed themselves to the change in light and I saw Oscar standing in his shirtsleeves next to a table. And on the table were a dozen large and heavy knives.

At intervals he would select one, poise it and hurl it with might and main at something. The something was a broad board or pair of boards fastened together to make a surface some four feet wide by six feet high.

And on this surface was outlined a female figure in what I took to be tights. It was at this figure that Oscar threw his knives, one after the other, so that the woman was outlined with quivering blades.

He never missed. Each knife, as thrown, struck point foremost on the very line outlining the figure. Never had I seen such an exhibition of skill or so sinister an exhibition of steadiness of hand.

I lowered myself and faced Lossie. "How did you know?" I asked.

"I didn't. I only suspected he was up to something. Because every afternoon he comes out here and stays alone in the barn. Butlers don't behave so."

"But what does it mean?"

"It means," she said, "that the—the old vampire is better at other things than being a butler."

* * *

We were a little surprised that Madam Janeway refused to go with us to see the medicine show, which continued its stay in Syracuse, because she was always so eager for entertainment and amusement.

RESENTED CANAL

However, as I said to Lossie, everybody is entitled to a couple of inconsistencies. To which Lossie replied that I would be a great deal more interesting if I would develop a couple myself.

And there was another oddity. Madam would have nothing to do with the canal.

It was almost as if she resented it and had some private reason for avoiding even conversation about the great, historic, man-made waterway.

She had never a kind word to say for canawlers, but always referred to them with contempt. Which was unlike her, for she was a tolerant woman with a soft spot in her heart for the lowly and unfortunate.

* * *

Canawlers were a part of our everyday life, always with us, living their own peculiar, nomadic lives. They were a tribe unto themselves, with a different set of morals and manners.

When Lossie and I were children we never were admonished to have no dealings with canawlers or to stay away from the ditch and the boats that traversed it.

We were not forbidden because it never occurred to our fathers and mothers that a pair of well-brought-up children of our social class ever would so far forget themselves as to go near such people.

I would never have done so, but Lossie was a cat of another color.

Lossie was an obedient little girl and would very seldom disobey a direct command. But she had her own ideas regarding that area of behavior about which there was no direct order.

"If," she would say, "they don't tell us not to, then we can."

New Pact Gives Japan More Voice in Defense

The new 10 year United States-Japanese security treaty signed in Washington on Jan. 19, has been carefully worked out to give Japan the same status as other free world allies where U.S. troops are stationed.

Under this treaty, which marks the end of Japan's rehabilitation process, the U. S. agrees to consult Japan before basing nuclear weapons on the islands and before sending Japan-based U.S. combat troops, other than ground forces to fight in other areas. We retain the right to seven air bases while recognizing full Japanese sovereignty over the territory.

The U.S. also agrees to come to Japan's aid should the islands be attacked. Under Japan's postwar constitution, the U.S. cannot call upon Japan for troop aid overseas even if attacked. Its pledge to help defend America is limited to Japanese territory.

Important steps leading to this pact were the San Francisco Peace Treaty of September 1951 and Japan's admission to the United Nations in December 1956 under U.S. sponsorship. By February 1958 all U. S. ground troops had been withdrawn and five of the 12 air bases have been returned to Japanese hands.

Japan's present Premier, Kishi, is friendly to the U.S. So long as he holds power our Seventh Fleet, planes and supplies stored in Japan will have no unnecessary interference. But some U.S. commanders fear that a less pro-Western premier could render them useless.

The treaty is subject to Congressional approval and Japanese Diet ratification. There'll be no real opposition to it in this country but Japan's Communists and Socialists plus the loud opposition of Russia and Red China to the new alliance may cause Premier Kishi some difficulty when the matter is brought before his government.

Has Over Three Decades of Service

Retiring after over 30 years in his chosen work is KARL D. BAILEY.

He became Oakland County Extension Agent 29 years ago after teaching vocational agriculture at Holly for several years.

★ ★ ★ ★

He organized here the first county-wide 4-H fair, and his contributions toward a better production from our soil have covered a wide area.

More than any other factor, his teachings have been responsible for keeping us among the top farm production counties in the state, in spite of the inroads of industry and subdividing.

Locally, he also organized the Oakland County Soil Conservation District.

For the past decade he has been Horticultural Agent for Southeastern Michigan, this area including Oakland County.

Mr. Bailey has served as president of the State Association of County Agricultural Agents. Twelve years ago he was given the coveted distinguished service award by the national association.

He was the prime mover in organizing the fruit growers of Southeastern Michigan into organizations that have done much for horticulture in this area.

Nobody in the history of Oakland County ever has done more for its farmers and fruit growers than has KARL D. BAILEY.

Dr. Rhee's Trade Ban Causing U.S. Concern

From 1955 until last June, South Korea's economy was in fair condition all things considered. Now inflation threatens and there is talk of devaluing the currency. The wholesale price index has risen steadily and now stands at 135.

The reason for this trend grows out of Korean President RHEE's ban on trade with Japan because that country agreed to allow Koreans living there to go to North Korea if they wished. Repatriation of the comparatively few who desire to go is being handled by the International Red Cross.

Before the trade ban was put into effect, 19.5 per cent of Korea's imports came from Japan and 76.2 per cent of Korea's exports were bought by Japan. To cut off this trade in a fit of anger doesn't make sense.

These matters are of direct concern to the United States. Korea depends on us for aid to meet its balance of payments. It's one thing to give aid to Korea for legitimate needs but quite another to make up self-inflicted deficits.

One of the top promoters of the annual Pontiac barbershop quartet show, that perennial good Scouter,

The event is at Pontiac Northern High School at 8:15 Saturday evening, and the outside talent comes in the shape of quartets from Jersey City, Gary, Muskegon, Detroit and Wayne. The cost of this talent for the evening is one grand. An after-glow meeting at K. of C. hall follows the program.

Will It Hold?

David Lawrence Says:

Reds Try Hoax... Almost Make It

WASHINGTON—The Communists have put over a gigantic hoax. They have almost persuaded a gullible world to believe that the West German people are responsible for the outbreaks of anti-Semitism in recent weeks.

Actually, proof now has been obtained that the whole thing is a Communist plot.

The Soviet government maintains an active apparatus of agents in all countries, including the United States. The same technique that was employed in West Germany was used throughout the world.

It is one of the boldest pieces of propaganda that the Communists have ever tried. Will they continue to get away with it?

LAWRENCE

Already they have been assisted by the persons who pooh-pooh all Communist espionage and artificial provocations. Yet no such coordinated activity as the world has been witnessing could possibly be just the work of hooligans or persons bent on playing pranks.

Some individuals doubtless can be found who engaged in it without inspiration, but the facts now coming to light show that the Communists, acting through their apparatus in East Germany, started it all in West Germany as a political maneuver to discredit the Adenauer government.

A dispatch from Bonn on January 20 says:

"The West German government announced today that it has proof the Communists are behind many recent anti-Semitic incidents. An official spokesman said after a full-scale cabinet meeting that the ministers discussed at length the question of Communist inspiration of the rash of anti-Jewish activities.

"He said that the interior ministry, in cooperation with the state governments, will publish a white paper on the subject at some future date still to be determined."

BY CONFESSION

Some of the evidence comes in the form of a confession by Bernhard Schlottman, 22, treasurer of the Neo-Nazi National Students' Federation, that he was under East German secret orders to stir up Neo-Nazi activity in West Berlin.

The West German Defense Ministry has issued a paper based on reports of its intelligence service. It says that, at a special meeting on January 23 last year, the central committee of the Communist Party in the Soviet Zone laid plans to develop anti-Semitic incidents as a means of damaging the reputation of the Bonn government. The committee's propaganda section was instructed to start a campaign to indicate that anti-Semitism was being revived.

The report further says that the East German Communist authorities planned the organization of "Action Commandos" to desecrate Jewish monuments, while the Communist underground in West Germany was given orders to cooperate in any activities that could create unrest in the federal republic.

Students in an East Berlin university, according to the report, were advised that anti-Semitic demonstrations would be staged in West Berlin and that they should take part not only in these but, in any rally, whether it was for or against the Jews.

In December, the defense ministry says, an order was issued by the East German authorities that incidents were to be created in due time prior to the "summit" meeting in May.

What could be more natural than for a propaganda chief sitting in Moscow to order Communist agents everywhere, including those in the United States, to stir up antagonism against the West German government on the theory that this would weaken Chancellor Adenauer's influence with the other governments of the free world and bring about the withdrawal of the Allies from West Berlin?

The game is plain to see, and from now on more and more evidence can be expected to be revealed showing how the Communists engineered the anti-Semitic disturbances for political purposes. It certainly should show the American people that in their midst are active Communists who do Moscow's bidding.

Voice of the People

Urges General Opposition to Possible Germ Warfare

I was very much interested to see a news article in the Jan. 12 Pontiac Press on the protest against germ warfare being carried on at Frederick, Md. A short time ago I was there and joined these people in their quiet waiting and silent prayer. This seems little to do to call attention of persons at the germ warfare center, Frederick, and the rest of the U. S. to the implication of what's being done there.

Most would probably agree it's better to die from an atrocity than to perpetrate it or threaten to perpetrate it on another, that it's better to hazard one's body than one's soul. It seems particularly ill-befitting a Christian and humane nation to think of doing otherwise.

Surely that germ warfare will never be used can only be accomplished through determined effort. We can support our President, Congressmen, Statesmen by letting them know how we feel. We can donate time to organizations promoting international understanding. And we can take time to listen to the "voice within" and act accordingly.

'No Wonder We Have So Much Flu'

I'd like to know why men have to expectorate all over the streets of Pontiac. Even in the dime store the other day a well-dressed man spit on the floor right in front of us. No wonder we have so much flu and other disease. Why not carry disposable tissues and stop this spitting on our sidewalks?

Religious Question Brings Letters

In response to Mrs. Brill, how small can some people get? In the death of a loved one, would she want a minister at the funeral? Yet she would tax churches.

I wonder how much she favors Jim Hoffa and his crowds of union bulldozers. That's where we get taxes. Because of high labor costs we're paying $15,000 for a $5,000 house. Schools are entirely on the homeowners and each one costs five times more than 20 years ago.

Dr. Crane said recently: "Latest discoveries in astronomy further emphasize Deity at the center of this vast, complex universe." A local minister said in his pulpit, "Out of man's fear and awe came God." Perhaps this explains religious emphasis in scientific matters, or maybe these astronomers are being unduly influenced by their personal religious beliefs.

Can any reader enlighten me as to what these discoveries are and why I should put credence in Dr. Crane's statement? I've noticed several letters signed Agnostica in Voice of the People, but never any signed Atheist. I wonder why that is?

In New York State 70 per cent of the law breakers are those who have been arrested before. That proves to me that sentences are too mild and crooks haven't enough respect for the law. Dr. William Brady's Mailbag:

A Little Extra Cholesterol Will Do You No Harm

In days gone by, some surgeons advocated prophylactic appendectomy — removal of the vermiform appendix at an early age so the young person would not be subject to appendicitis. They maintained that the appendix is of no use to anybody — except surgeons.

Classical and current medical literature records no authentic instance of prophylactic appendectomy, to the best of my knowledge, although some operators consider it advisable to remove the appendix whenever they open an abdomen.

DR. BRADY

The gall bladder, like the appendix, has no use, no essential function. At any rate removal of the gall bladder has no apparent effect on the digestive process. The capacity of the gall bladder is less than the amount of bile secreted by the liver in one-half hour.

Cholesterol enters into the composition of most gallstones and in some instances a large single gallstone is almost pure cholesterol.

A considerable amount of cholesterol is present in the blood of a healthy person and indeed every cell in the body contains some cholesterol.

Also, no matter how businesslike the doctor who keeps you on a diet that purports to reduce the level of cholesterol in your blood, there is no scientific basis for the assumption that high cholesterol level has anything to do with coronary thrombosis, arteriosclerosis, chronic joint disability or other degeneration.

However, the cholesterol routine keeps the patients coming regular for measurement of the level of cholesterol in their blood and instructions about diet according to the findings.

Best and Taylor, in their Physiological Basis of Medical Practice, said this in a milder way than I do:

"Much of the earlier work upon cholesterol metabolism . . . has been proved to be erroneous."

Anyone who vomits repeatedly is likely to bring up some bile. This does not signify that the person is "bilious" or that "bilious-ness" is the cause of the illness. It means only that vomiting (reverse peristalsis) first empties the stomach and then the duodenum, where bile is normally present.

Physiologists know that the amount of cholesterol in the bile does not vary with changes in the blood cholesterol level, and that cholesterol continues to be excreted in the bile upon a cholesterol-free diet.

I'm sorry about this, but, after all, I have been telling you all along that the cholesterol thing is the business.

Signed letters, not more than one page of the words long pertaining to general health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Preview of School Bridges Gap

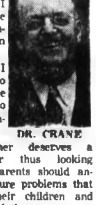

Karen's fear about starting to school was changed by a "preview party" which the tactful kindergarten teacher held for next term's incoming youngsters. This is a plan that all progressive schools should adopt, for this period can be one of the greatest emotional shocks in a person's entire lifetime if it isn't handled deftly.

By GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE D-459: Karen B., aged 5, is due to enter kindergarten next term.

"Dr. Crane, Karen is very shy," her mother began, "and I am afraid she will not be content away from me.

DR. CRANE

"So what can I do in advance to help her become better adjusted to the school situation?"

Karen's mother deserves a compliment for thus looking ahead. Smart parents should anticipate such future problems that will confront their children and thus try to avoid them.

The first great shock in the emotional life of a child is when it finds itself separated from its parents.

So "custion" that shock. Vaccinate your toddler by slow stages to being away from Mamma.

To begin with, let him get well acquainted with some affectionate neighbor, who can then serve as baby sitter for an hour while Mamma goes shopping.

Later, this baby-sitting period can lengthen to an entire evening.

As the child grows older, deftly encourage it to spend the afternoon at the home of a playmate. Ultimately, see if it will spend a night with Grandma or a favorite cousin.

Meanwhile, let it get accustomed to a classroom atmosphere by taking it to Sunday school from early infancy.

A Sunday school lets the child learn to cooperate with other youngsters and also be away from Mamma for half an hour or longer.

PREVIEW PARTIES

During the last day or so of the semester, the kindergarten teacher invites the mothers of next term's class to bring their youngsters to school.

At this happy social event, ice cream is served and the newcomers are given a chance to see what a jolly, happy place the kindergarten room really is.

Thus, the child learns to place a pleasant "halo" on its being old enough to attend school.

You parents, too, should always remind the youngster that BIG children have the privilege of going to school. Keep the emphasis on this idea that school means a child is BIG or ALMOST GROWN UP.

Prior to the opening day, too, Mamma should see that her child gets well acquainted with others of its age in the same city block or general farm neighborhood.

For children feel less afraid if they set off to school with playmates and familiar faces.

Remember, it is an "unknown" place or person that usually scares children. The "known" holds less fearful aspects.

So urge your PTA and the teachers in the kindergarten or the first grade to hold these "preview parties" for next semester's incoming tots.

For many neurotic ailments that persist even into adulthood can be traced to the emotional shock that kindergarten children receive when they aren't tactfully prepared for leaving Mamma. "Cushion" this major event.

stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit).

Discuss them in PTA meetings, for the best teachers in the entire school system should be in the kindergarten room.

A child's first teacher can make or ruin his future educational career!

NEA Resumes Its Original Name

NEW YORK (NEA)—There's a new, yet old, name in the nation's newspapers this week — Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

It takes the place of one which has appeared on newspaper features for nearly 40 years — NEA Service, Inc.

"There are two principal reasons for the change," said Herbert W. Walker, NEA President and General Manager. "First, we wish to emphasize the words 'newspaper' and 'enterprise' because we believe that newspapers must be more enterprising than ever to compete today.

"Second, we want to avoid confusion with the 'other NEA's' — the National Editorial Assn., the National Education Association and others."

The spelled out version of the familiar NEA goes back many years to the organization's origin as an arm of Scripps newspapers.

NEA's founder was Miss Ellen Scripps, sister of the newspaper pioneer, E. W. Scripps. By day she was a proofreader for her brother's newspapers in Cleveland, later Cincinnati.

By night she prepared a short feature consisting of about 10 brief, interesting items which she called "Miscellany."

BROADENED

This became so popular with readers of the expanding Scripps group that "E.W." instructed his executives to develop this into a broad scale feature service.

This service, known as Newspaper Enterprise Assn., originally served only the Scripps and Scripps-Howard papers. Eventually the demand form other newspapers for this service became so great that a separate corporation was launched to service newspapers generally. This new service was named NEA Service, Inc.

ELLEN SCRIPPS

NEA now reassumes the original name in the belief expressed by its executives that "Newspaper Enterprise is a worthy cause to which we are dedicated and that there should be no confusion with other organizations."

The services of Newspaper Enterprise Assn. now go to more than 1,000 newspapers in the United States and Canada, as well as to many in foreign lands.

(Editor's Note: The Pontiac Press has been a subscriber to the NEA Service for many years.)

Under the executive editorship of Boyd Lewis at NEA editorial headquarters in New York, the service has pioneered in practical newspaper color, created a world-wide service of "News Behind the News, News Ahead of the News and News Plus Significance," done creative research for women's pages and won many awards, including that for John Strohm, first accredited American reporter to tour Red China.

Another NEA activity of prime importance is the production of comics. Under the supervision of Ernest Lynn, feature director, the comics have increased in number to 16 daily strips and panels and 19 Sundays.

The trend lately has placed emphasis on humorous comics with modern art styles. Typical of these are NEA's three newest additions, "Tizzy," "Morty Meekle" and "Short Ribs."

Committee to Stay Eying Top Secrecy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee set up four years ago to investigate unwarranted secrecy in government has survived an attempt to scuttle it.

That was proposed Wednesday by Rep. Robert R. Barry (R-NY), who called the subcommittee "a waste of time and money."

The parent Government Operations Committee turned aside Barry's proposal by approving a report of the subcommittee, headed by Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif).

Jackson Firm to Expand, Add Electronic Line

JACKSON (UPI) — Mechanical Products Corp. said today it plans a quarter-million dollar expansion of its facilities here and that the expansion over a period of time will add "a couple hundred" persons to its employment total.

The new facilities will be built to handle a new line of electronic equipment, described as microwave and communications equipment.

President's Time Too Limited for Formosa Visit

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The Nationalist Chinese Foreign Office said today it had been informed President Eisenhower would only visit Japan on his wing through the Far East in June.

Announcement that Eisenhower would stop in Japan on his way home from the Soviet Union raised hopes in Nationalist China, the Philippines and South Korea that he would also visit those allies of the United States.

Foreign office spokesman James Shen told a news conference the U.S. government had informed the Nationalist Embassy in Washington the President's time would be too limited for him to make other stops.

One defect of the democratic system is that only the party not in power understands how to run the government . . . Fishing tackle is getting more elaborate and expensive each year. In fact, it's getting hard to tell which end of the pole has the sucker. —Earl Wilson.

Hollywood Actors Watch Day-by-Day Play

Finch-Tregoff Trial Characters Well Cast

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It's no wonder that a flock of Hollywood names have been dropping in to watch the Finch murder trial. It has more drama than a month of Perry Masons.

The protagonists are well cast. There is the smooth, urbane Dr. R. Bernard Finch, listening intently to the testimony and breaking into a toothpaste - ad smile when a witness utters some unconscious humor. During the recesses, he talks to newsmen with the geniality of a physician answering questions about flu symptoms.

Sharing the defendants' table is Carole Tregoff, young, buxom, red-haired. The state has portrayed her as the doctor's mistress and co-conspirator in the death of his wife.

The legal battery is imposing.

Defending Carole are Rexford Eagan, with the look and pugnacity of a pro football tackle, and young Donald R. Bringgold, with whom she often converses. Dr. Finch receives the counsel of Grant Cooper, equally urbane and ingratiating.

The state's case is being presented with vigor by Dep. Dist. Attys. Frank N. Whichello and Clifford Crail, both bald and distinguished, both bristling with outrage for the acts they claim the loving pair committed. Crail is especially ready to snap back at the defense attorneys, accusing them of trying to scare the state's witnesses.

Not the least impressive of the courtroom cast is Superior Judge Walter R. Evans. A big man, especially imposing as he strides to the bench in his black robe, he reminds one of Sen. Estes Kefauver. He has the height and long face of the senator and the same calm, deliberate manner of speaking, though without the bucolic overtones.

No one is fooled by his gentle approach, however, his stern look quickly indicates he is a no-nonsense kind of judge, and he can deliver decisions with whiplash style.

The press, of course, plays a part in the courtroom drama, though not an obtrusive one during the proceedings. Reporters and photographers are allowed to roam freely during recess, and all the principals have been completely cooperative. The press numbers 30 to 40.

The courtroom, in the new County Building is a large, wood-paneled room with a marble wall behind the bench curved like a cinemascope screen. Attendance is SRO at all times; there is always a line in the hall waiting to get in.

One of those attending every day is Cornwell Jackson part owner of the Perry Mason TV show. His wife, Gail Patrick, who produces the show, also appears frequently.

Reports 2 Died From Germ Warfare Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep Robert W. Kastenmeier (D-Wis) says secret research in biological warfare has accidentally caused two deaths and made 464 persons sick since 1950.

He said Thursday the cases occurred at Ft. Detrick in Frederick, Md., where the military is conducting research.

Both deaths—one in 1958 of a Frederick electrician who went in to the installation to replace light bulbs—were from anthrax, Kastenmeier said. He said anthrax and the other diseases involved "can scarcely be said to bear out the 'humane' tag the Army has tried to put on biological and chemical war."

State Fires Kill Five Children

3 Perish Near Evart and 2 Die at Adrian; Parents Away

By The Associated Press

Flames racing through two dwellings Thursday night killed five sleeping children in Michigan.

A fire in a two-story home just south of Evart took the lives of Brenda Hubbard, 7, her sister Vicky, 8, and a brother Frank, 12. All were stepchildren of Hubert Rockafellow.

Two young children perished in a trailer home fire at Adrian. They were Janette Bell, 5, and her brother James, 3.

Their foster parents Mr. and Mrs. Lee French Jr. were visiting friends when the fire broke out.

STARTS IN HEATER

Firemen said the blaze started in an overheated coal heater.

Evart policeman Raymond Walters said Rockafellow had left the three children asleep while he went into Evart to pick up a son who was playing high school basketball.

The mother Wilma, 31, was at work in an Evart factory.

Firemen said an overheated wood stove apparently started the blaze, which was fought by fire departments from Evart, Reed City and Chippewa Lake.

Williams Names Price of State's Convention Votes

LANSING (UPI)—Six-term Gov. G. Mennen Williams, who virtually ruled himself out as a presidential contender yesterday, put Michigan's 51 convention votes up for bids today.

* * *

The price: support of a "strong, liberal, forward-looking" program he intends to help write. Are there any contenders he dislikes?

"I don't like Nixon."

Williams said he considered "all Democrats on the horizon are head and shoulders above Vice President Richard M. Nixon, probable Republican candidate.

The nation's 48-year-old dean among governors said he will maintain a "friendly relation" with all Democratic White House possibilities, including conservative Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Texas), although he said "I don't believe in many of his policies."

Peak Production of Cars Slated

Fewer Workers May Build More Than in '55 Record Quarter

DETROIT (AP) — Auto makers have scheduled peak production of 2,278,500 vehicles in the first quarter of 1960 with 136,000 fewer hourly rated employes than in the record output year of 1955.

The current quarter's production of cars and trucks is expected to top the first quarter of 1955 by 149,500 units.

General Motors, Ford, Chrysler, American Motors and Studebaker-Packard now employ 587,000 production workers against a 1955 average of 723,000.

Automation and use of overtime are making possible greater production with few workers.

General Motors now has approximately 350,000 hourly rated workers compared with the 1955 average of 410,000; Ford 125,000, against 140,395; and Chrysler 80,000, against 130,000.

American Motors has 22,000 production workers at its Kenosha and Milwaukee, Wis., plants.

The company had 23,500 workers in 1955 but the number fell below 10,000 before the firm made a comeback with its compact Rambler.

Studebaker - Packard, which is making a comeback with its compact Lark, has approximately 9,900 production workers at South Bend, Ind.

The company employed 20,000 in 1955 but the number fell below 5,000 during the five-year period.

Five of six Buick-Oldsmobile-Pontiac assembly plants are on six-day schedules. Overtime also is being paid in other GM automobile plants.

FIRST TO SIGN — Gov. Williams signs a petition to put a constitutional convention proposition on the November ballot. The plan, backed by the League of Women Voters and the Junior Chamber of Commerce, needs 300,000 signatures. Looking on, Wednesday in Lansing, are Mrs. Howard Lichterman of Huntington Woods, head of the Women's League, and Fred Warner, Sandusky, Jaycee president.

John's Not John at the AEC— Everything's Jake

WASHINGTON (AP)—You might cause quite a scramble if you barged into a meeting of the Atomic Energy Commission and yelled: "Hey, John, you're wanted on the phone."

It happens that all four members of the AEC have the same first name — John A. McCone, chairman; Dr. John H. Williams, scientist member; John S. Graham; and John F. Floberg.

The room who shares the nation's atomic destiny insist the situation causes no confusion.

McCone, being the boss, is always addressed at meetings as either "Mr. Chairman" or "Mr. McCone."

Grant FM Station

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Communications Commission has granted an application for an FM radio station to Wright and Maltz, Inc. of Mount Clemens on 102.7 megacycles.

Canadian Ford Plant to Stop Making Cars

TORONTO (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. of Canada Limited will halt passenger car production at its nearby Oakville plant between Jan. 29 and Feb. 5, Karl E. Scott, executive vice-president of Ford of Canada has announced.

He said the shutdown would avoid overstocking of new cars in advance of peak selling months.

The shutdown will affect about 2,800 workers at Oakville, and 300 men at Windsor plants supplying components for Oakville will be affected for two to six days. Truck production at Oakville will continue as usual.

Ferris Institute Budget Runs Near $3 Million

BIG RAPIDS (UPI) — Ferris Institute has submitted a budget of $2,833,019 to the Legislature for operation of the college in the 1960-61 school year.

The new budget is $636,546 greater than the current operating budget.

In the budget request, President Victor F. Spathelf noted that the enrollment at Ferris Institute has increased 375 per cent in the last eight years.

16 Months on a Futile Quest

Seek Screen, Get Red Tape

WASHINGTON (AP) — A poignant tale of man's fight for privacy and the fearful odds against the individual battling the state has unfolded in the pages of the Congressional Record.

The post office employes in Milwaukee merely wanted some sort of screening in front of the toilet stalls in the men's room of the hilltop station.

After a 16-month campaign waged all the way up to the Postmaster General's office, Rep. Henry S. Reuss (D-Wis) is about ready to give up. Thirty-seven letters and unnumbered phone calls have failed.

His final letter to Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield said plaintively:

"If we can't solve this small problem to the satisfaction of all concerned, I really feel that we are all doomed."

OPENED IN 1958

The Battle of Hilltop Station opened quietly on Sept. 24, 1958, when Reuss wrote to Frederick C. T. John, Milwaukee postmaster, that the men's room in the newly completed station opened directly on a lounge and lunch room.

When anyone entered the rest room, he said, the three doorless toilets were fully exposed to view.

John replied that a screen inside the door took care of the problem, and besides, the matter involved national policy. He turned the matter over to the regional operations director, C. E. Knudson, who told Reuss postal regulations require open toilets so inspectors can keep an eye on employes suspected of stealing mail.

Reuss, after some personal observations, wrote again to John to say the screen actually shielded only one of the three stalls. He suggested it be extended.

John, sensing national policy again, referred the matter to Knudson. The regional director replied that extending the screen would cause undue congestion at the entrance.

"Additional study," he assured Reuss, "is being given the matter."

Summer gave way to fall and fall to winter. The correspondence multiplied. Reuss offered to pay the $5 cost for some half-doors for the stalls, but was turned down.

Came spring and Reuss turned to Summerfield. "Something can, and in fact must be done about this situation," he declared.

Something Wild. Mom cable to take measurements for a partition to go into the lunch room in front of the door. After some months and another Reuss letter to Summerfield, the partition was erected, but, alas. It was so close to the door it banged the postmen's hands.

Reuss renewed his appeal for half-doors. Summer gave way to autumn and then winter. The postmen are still pressing the issue. Reuss says he hasn't given up, but he is barren of ideas on how to proceed. He would be delighted to receive suggestions.

John Factor Suing Over Touhy Book

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Factor has filed a 4-million-dollar libel suit over a book by the late Chicago gangster, Roger Touhy.

Touhy, convicted of kidnaping Factor, maintained in the book he was innocent.

Factor filed a similar suit in Chicago before Touhy was slain in gangland fashion Dec. 16. In his latest action, the Beverly Hills broker names as defendants Tom Duggan, Los Angeles television commentator; television station KCOP, Los Angeles; Ray Brennan, co-author of the Touhy book, "The Stolen Years"; the book's publisher, Pennington Press, Inc., and various distributors.

* * *

Factor maintains he was libeled and that his right of privacy was invaded. He says Duggan and KCOP slandered him in discussions of the book and case.

First cathode ray tube was devised and built in 1897.

Four Dem Bills in State Hopper

Deal With Research Loans, Consumer Aid, Quality Seal and Aging

LANSING (AP)— Four bill to carry out Gov. Williams' proposals to the 1960 Legislature appeared in the House Thursday.

They are early arrivals of about 150 of the governor's proposals to be introduced by Democrats. More will be tossed into the Legislative hopper today before lawmakers quit a day earlier than usual and go home for a long weekend.

An industrial FHA measure designed to attract private capital for industrial research and expansion would guarantee private loans with state capital.

It calls for a constitutional amendment to allow the state to borrow up to 10p million dollars in faith and credit bonds to give the plan financial footing.

"The state would not loan any money," said Rep. Frank D. Williams, (D-Detroit), the sponsor. "It would only make private loans better risks for investors."

A MORTGAGE PLAN

A mortgage insurance premium similar to that charged by the FHA would be paid by the investor in return for a guarantee on his loan. Mortgage defaults, if any, would be paid from a reserve built up with premium payments.

A similar measure failed last year.

Submitted for the first time was a bill to establish an Office of Michigan Consumer Protection representative. The new official, said Rep. Josephine E. Hunsinger (D-Detroit), the sponsor, would "ferret out practices which victimize the consumer" and conduct investigations of factors which affect costs of goods and services.

Reps. Harry T. Emmons (R-Ken) and Joseph G. O'Connor (D-Detroit) joined in proposing a state commission on problems of the aging. It was another plan that met defeat last year.

The commission would send out information on the aging and serve as a clearing house to exchange information among state departments and local groups and governments. It calls for a $29,600 allocation for first-year operations.

One of the governor's pet programs, the seal of quality bill for top Michigan agricultural products, made its 11th appearance in the past 12 years. Rep. F. Charles Raap (D-Twin Lake) noted it had backing from the Michigan Farmers Union, Michigan Farm Bureau, Michigan State Grange and other agriculture groups. It died last year in the House Agriculture Committee.

Red Pacific Rockets a Threat: Mansfield

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON — The age-old concept of "freedom of the seas" is strictly for the birds, in the opinion of Senate Assistant Majority Leader Mike Mansfield.

The high-ranking member of the Foreign Relations Committee believes that President Eisenhower should immediately ask the United Nations to amend the ancient tradition before Russia decides to test atomic missiles three miles off shore from Manhattan, Boston, Florida or California.

Mansfield is indignant that the has done nothing to protect Soviet intentions to test missiles in the Central Pacific this month. The President, in fact, told his news conference last week that he could take no action because we ourselves have used the Pacific as a proving ground in the atomic age.

Mansfield says thats entirely different. The U. S. painstakingly negotiated with all surrounding nations before making nuclear tests in the area.

EIGHT DAYS' NOTICE

By contrast, Kremlin bosses arrogantly served only eight days' notice for ships of all flags to clear out of navigational lanes in a 27,000-square mile area between Jan. 15 and Feb. 15.

Subsequently they expanded the area to 45,000 square miles of sea which is almost entirely surrounded by U.S. and British territories.

"This is America's backyard," the Montana Democrat said with a wince, as he pointed out that the circle drawn by Russia lies only 225 miles from U.S.-owned Palmyra, 800 miles from our big missiles development base at Johnston Island, 1,100 miles from 50th-state Hawaii, and 1,000 miles from the Marshall islands which we administer as a trust territory for the U.N. The area is also adjacent to Britains Phoenix Island, and the U.K.-U.S. jointly-held Canton and Enderbury isles.

Carried to its logical conclusion, Mansfield insists, Russia would have every right to set up a missiles testing range only three to 12 miles off the coastline of the United States, unless the U.N. take action.

Tit-for-tat, we could also begin testing our missiles on Russia's doorstep of Siberia and the North Sea, and the Soviets would have to go to war to stop us.

The concept of freedom of the seas is completely outmoded, Mansfield believes, just as other rights have had to undergo radical change in the space age.

Pittston Calamities Commonplace

The Basement Was Gone

PITTSTON, Pa. (AP) — The other night Mrs. Frank Baccaro was climbing the stairs from the basement of her comfortable home here when she heard a loud rumbling noise behind her.

"Frank," she gasped, "Go see what happened in the basement."

Her husband gingerly picked his way down the stairs—and stared into a pit about 35 feet deep where the basement floor had been.

It was another coal mine subsidence, of the type that's become commonplace in this area since a year ago today when the ice-clogged Susquehanna River broke into a coal mine in this anthracite area around Wilkes-Barre and Scranton.

Billions and billions of gallons of water poured into the Knox Coal Co.'s River Slope mine. Twelve of the 82 minutes in the shaft never were seen again.

The river kept roaring into the Knox shaft, despite expensive efforts to dam the flow, and soon the waters had snaked through many of the underground passages honeycombing the ground under this area. Mines were flooded from the break here as far as Wilkes-Barre, nearly nine miles downstream.

The United Mine Workers says 10 coal mines were lost forever, with them went 2,500 mine jobs—one third of those available in the area.

"Before it happened," says Mayor Patrick O'Brien, "we had 18,000 people here. Now we have 13,000, and they're still leaving."

"There's nothing for them to stay for right now," he continues. "Some, of course, still work in the remaining mines, but only about 200 days a year. Most of the folks now working are women in garment factories, while the husbands—rough and burly coal miners all—stay home to take care of the house and children.

"Some of the men go to vocational training schools we've established here, but they have to go elsewhere to use the trade they learn."

The economic impact, while major, has not been as terrifying to many as the subsidences, when the undermining force of the underground stream sucks ground suddenly into a yawning cavern below.

You see streets blocked off here and there. At night, many times, coils of rope are hung from trees or hydrants. Should someone be caught in a subsidence, the ropes are handy for use as life-lines. So real is the threat that not one rope has ever been stolen.

Most subsidences have been outside homes. Folks have awakened to find entire backyards gone, for example. Volunteers from all around come quickly to fill these voids. At the Baccaros, it took 20 huge truckloads of slate (a rock fill common to this area) to fill the void.

Pontiac Symphony Concert January 26

Will Feature Three Musicians

The Jan. 26 concert of the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra will feature three musicians well known to local audiences.

Celia Merrill Turner, associate conductor, will occupy the podium. Sharing the spotlight with Mrs. Turner will be artists Francesco DiBlasi and Jerry Libby. Mr. DiBlasi, permanent conductor for the orchestra for the past six years, will play the solo trumpet in Saint Saens' "Concerto for Trumpet, Piano and Strings, Opus 65." Mr. Libby will play the piano part of the concerto.

Mrs. Turner has just been given the post of theater editor for the newly organized Detroit FM radio station WQRS, called the Fine Arts Station. A graduate of the Juilliard School of Music, she made her debut as a symphony conductor in 1942 at the Brooklyn Academy of Art. Winning this honor in competition, she directed the WNYC Symphony.

In addition to conducting, Mrs. Turner is well known in the musical world as a violinist, composer and teacher. Her "Chippewa Symphony" built on the culture and heritage of the Pontiac area Indian days was commissioned by the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra in 1956 and given its premier performance in the spring of 1957 under Mrs. Turner's baton.

Mother of three children, aged 3, 8 and 11, she is in private life Mrs. Kenneth E. Turner Jr. Her activities with the Will-O-Way Apprentice Theater led her to her most recent teaching experience as director of drama and music at the City and Country School of Bloomfield Hills, a special elementary school for gifted children.

Francesco DiBlasi began his formal musical education on the trumpet at the age of four. Tutored by his grandfather, he was by the age of six so proficient on the instrument that he was invited to play solos in the Detroit area.

His piano training began at nine under Mrs. Samuel Mumford. While still in high school, he studied harmony and counterpoint with Misha Bistritzky, as well as other orchestral instruments. Considered by Fowler Smith, head of music in the Detroit schools, one of the most talented and well-rounded musicians produced by their system, he went on to study at the Juilliard School of Music in New York.

During this period he conducted several operas and for three years sat in on all-of the Toscanini rehearsals. He was selected to conduct the New York Little Symphony, an orchestra made up of musicians from NBC and the New York Philharmonic.

A succession and variety of conducting and orchestral engagements followed and was climaxed by two years as conductor of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo.

Since 1951 he has been a member of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and has made numerous guest appearances with the Scandinavian Symphony and Chamber Music Workshop of Detroit.

In 1953, he reorganized the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra and became its permanent conductor. He has been instrumental in bringing a broad range of guest soloists to appear with the orchestra in recent years, and has worked tirelessly to build a strong civic symphony capable of fine technical performance. His encouragement of young musicians is evidenced by the high proportion of youthful players in the orchestra.

Mrs. Allan H. Monroe, board member of the Pontiac YWCA was given a citation for efforts of the "Y" on behalf of patients at Pontiac State Hospital. Presenting the award were Kenneth Lane (left), director of the Flint office of vocational rehabilitation, and Dr. Walter H. Obenauf, medical superintendent of Pontiac State Hospital. The hospital and vocational office are cosponsors of the patient group therapy program which began at the Pontiac YWCA in November 1956.

Group Provides Incentive

'Y' Aids Mental Patients

For three years members of the Pontiac YWCA board of directors have provided special parties and refreshments for a group of patients from Pontiac State Hospital.

The patients meet each Wednesday evening in a project known as the Personality Adjustment and Group Therapy program, sponsored by the Flint office of Vocational Rehabilitation and the Pontiac State Hospital under the direction of Kenneth Lane.

Dr. Walter H. Obenauf, medical superintendent of the hospital, said "The warm relationship existing between patients and the community symbolized by the "Y" board has brought hope and incentive to the patients to want to get well and again become useful members of society."

"The 'Y' group, as it is affectionately called by the patients, is one of the wisest investments we have ever made in motivating the mentally ill patient that he is of value to society and to himself.

"The success of the patient group in the Pontiac YWCA has activated a similar project in Mount Clemens and further expansion within Michigan is anticipated," said Mr. Lane.

Ted Panaretos, community relations director, and Douglas Everhart, psychiatric caseworker at the hospital, and Kay Veddar of the "Y" board are therapists for the program.

The project is planned to help the patient gain confidence, reassurance and greater self esteem in order to make an adequate transition from the hospital into the community.

The interaction of the patient group is positive in that patients who are too frightened to re-enter society are helped and encouraged by patients who already are back in their community and making an adjustment.

"Patients already in the community find the program a stabilizing influence and a safety valve in case of a reoccurence of their illness and the possibility of a return to the hospital," Dr. Obenauf said.

LOUISE HENDRICKSON

Long-Time Friendship Started in Sweden

Ingemar's Quiet, Dignified Parents Visit vonReises

By MARGARET BROWN

In quiet contrast to the widespread acclaim for Ingemar, however, is the role played by Jens and Ebba Johansson who bear their distinction as parents of the world's heavyweight boxing champion with dignity and simplicity.

The Johanssons were in Bloomfield Hills Thursday as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gustav vanReis of Westview street.

A native Swede, Mr. vonReis and the Johanasons are longtime acquaintances, hailing from the same Swedish town, Goteborg.

The day after Ingemar earned his coveted title, he and his family, accompanied by a retinue which included his manager, several Swedish reporters and brother Rolf, his trainer and sparring partner, flew from New York to Florida as guests of the vonReis family at Hillsboro Beach.

When the Johanssons were interviewed by the press Thursday morning, excited conversations reverberated throughout the household, lending a holiday-like air to the occasion.

Mrs. vonReis, her daughter and small granddaughter bustled in the kitchen, photographers chatted in one corner and, in another corner, the Johanssons, who had arrived at 3 that morning, answered reporters' questions with the aid of interpreter Mr. vonReis.

Having just acquired their bearings after the trip here, the Johanssons that same morning were readying for an auto trip to Florida with their solicitous hosts.

"We are driving south so they can get a closer glimpse of just what America is like," said Mr. vonReis, founder and president of Detroit Broach and Machine Co. Ingemar is expected to join the foursome later this month.

The Johanssons have a daughter Eva and two other sons — Rolf, mentioned above, and Henry, the oldest, who is a mechanical technician in Goteborg.

Seventeen-year-old Eva is a student at exclusive Pine Crest School in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Brother Ingemar made it possible for her to attend the school.

"He knows the value of an education and wants only the best for his sister," the family said.

"How long do you plan to stay here?" queried one reporter. "As long as our hosts will have us," laughed Mrs. Johansson. VonReis quickly interpreted, adding, "And they are welcome as long as they want to stay!"

Mr. Johansson's face lit up with interest and pride when asked how his son's inclination for the fight field was developed.

"There has been an enthusiasm for boxing in our family ever since I can remember," he explained.

In his earlier years, Mr. Johansson, who has been a stone worker, also trained to fight.

"Are you ever afraid Ingemar may be injured in the ring?" his mother was asked.

"Oh yes, there is always that danger," she reflected, adding that she wouldn't mind at all if Ingemar succeeded in television and motion picture work instead.

Ingemar just completed a movie about the Korean conflict with actor Alan Ladd, scheduled for release in April or June. "He's had little acting experience," said his parents.

"But producers and directors in Hollywood are very happy about his performance," interjected Mr. vonReis. Teen-age girls, incidentally, may sigh upon hearing that "Ingo" even sings in the film.

The Johanssons beamed with a silent pride as publicity stills and magazine photos of their famous son circulated about the room.

The handsome Swede is in Hollywood this week, rehearsing for an appearance on the Dinah Shore Show Sunday. "He went to Las Vegas Wednesday night where he met his favorite crooner — Frank Sinatra," the family added.

When the Johanssons were asked how they felt at Ingemar's winning the championship title, their two voices simultaneously rang a joyous exclamation that would have been clearly understood had they spoken in Sanskrit, "Wonderful!"

During their interview another very special award for Ingemar was delivered — a replica of a splendidly intact Grecian urn, dating to 510 B.C., bearing the title "Sportsman of the Year."

The family last saw Ingemar about two weeks ago. Heading for Paris where he was to board a jet for New York, the husky fighter drove 24 hours non-stop from Sweden to Switzerland.

"He has marvelous stamina," said Mrs. Johansson proudly.

'GETTING MARRIED? . . .'

One question about which most everyone is curious was fired point blank at the close of the interview: "Is Ingemar going to get married?"

Mr. and Mrs. Johansson looked at each other, shaking their heads somewhat noncommittably, "Uh — we don't think so."

Pontiac Press Photo

There's little doubt about which of his parents world's heavyweight boxing champion Ingemar Johansson resembles. Sprightly Ebba Johansson and her husband, Jens, of Goteborg, Sweden, are the very special guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gustav vonReis of Bloomfield Hills.

Jaycetts Planning Party

* * *

At the present time, Jaycetts are also working on a community project making cloth toy bags to be hung on beds, and collecting books and toys for the pediatric department of the Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

Miriam Unit to Observe Anniversary

The Augustana Lutheran Church Women of St. John's Lutheran Church, Miriam group, met Tuesday evening with Mrs. Helen Dovre of Pingree avenue.

Group discussion on "Witnessing for Christ" was led by Mrs. Harry Hahn. Cancer pads were sewed during the evening.

Her Mom Didn't Tell Her, Says Abby

She'll Be in More 'Hot Water'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: How much water does a girl who weighs 85 pounds and is five feet tall need in a bathtub? She thinks she has to have it up to her neck. She acts like she is the only one in the family who has to take a bath. When she gets through, no one else has any hot water. Please put this in the paper. She won't listen to me. She is 12.

ABBY

HER MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If your daughter at 12 "won't listen" to you on such a minor matter, prepare yourself for some major disappointments. Children should be taught that "sharing" with members of the family is expected. If your daughter doesn't learn this soon, she'll probably be in hot water up to her neck all her life.

DEAR ABBY. My wife and I have been married for 21 years. While she was away visiting relatives for two weeks, I found a picture of a strange fellow hidden under the paper lining of a drawer. I became very upset and angry and wrote her a letter (I included this picture) and I told her she needn't bother to come home. I figured she would not have this picture hidden unless she was hiding something else. She called me up when she got my letter and said this fellow had been dead for years and that I had a lot of nerve accusing her of wrong-doing. Who is right?

ANGRY HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND: You had no right to suspect the worst and accuse her of wrong-doing before hearing her explanation. And to tell her "she needn't bother to come home" was about as fair as a judge sentencing a defendent without hearing the case.

DEAR ABBY: What makes you women so nervous?

CHARLIE

DEAR CHARLIE: You men!

DEAR ABBY: I am a waitress with so many "beefs" a Yorkshire pudding would go well with me. In the first place why do people call me "Girlie"? I am 54 years old. I have "ironed" embroidered on my uniform pocket, but people still call me, "Girlie." Also, what can I do about old men who can read the menu without their glasses but put them on to see my legs better?

OFF MY CHEAT

DEAR OFF: If you are 54 and people still call you "Girlie" and old men put on their glasses to look at your legs, don't get yourself in a stew. You have nothing to beef about.

Teaching Roster Sparkles With Brilliance

Women Advancing MSUO Principles

A number of women instructors are contributing to the liberal arts concepts of Michigan State University Oakland where the principle, "... critical thinking is more productive to society than adjusting" is in operation.

Female faculty members include Mme. Helene Desparment of Grosse Pointe, wife of the French consul general; Mrs. Nadine Poplitko of Rochester, former news editor of the Voice of America and Russian instructor at the U.S. Army Intelligence headquarters at Oberammergau; Dr. Helen Kovach of Pontiac, who speaks eight languages, holds two doctorates and is working on a third; Dr. Gertrude White of Franklin, assistant professor of English who writes mystery stories, and Dr. June Collins, assistant professor in anthropology and sociology and who is a Brownie leader and has written a text book.

The list concludes with Mrs. Isabel Himelhoch of Birmingham who is lending her talents for development of a music program; and Dr. Mary Ann Cusack of Detroit, the first woman in this country to receive a PhD with a major in radio and television.

Mme. Desparmet travels three hours each day to Rochester to teach classes five days a week. The mother of five children, she is a certified anthropologist who has supervised diggings on the border of the Sahara in Africa where she found ancient Roman ruins.

Dr. White is a member of the Detroit Women Writers Club and formerly was head of the history department at Ringswood School Cranbrook, an instructor at Wayne State University and a book reviewer. She has sold a successful mystery thriller.

June Collins gives lectures to professional groups on "Flight to the Suburbs" and "The Child and His Heroes." The mother of two children, she also paints puppets in the interest of pre-school religious training.

Mary Ann Cusack, a graduate of Manhattanville College, Columbia University and WSU, is a former staff member of the New York Times and United Press in Detroit and Chicago. Champ Pie Baker Uses Some Different Tricks

Oakland County's Champion Cherry Pie Baker for 1960 is 15-year-old Bonita DeSota of Madison Heights. She was judged best by a panel of six judges at the annual contest in Berkley on January 16.

Bonita will represent the county at the state contest at Grand Rapids, Jan. 28 and 29, sponsored by the Michigan Cherry Commission, Michigan Cherry Producer Association and Michigan Canners and Freezers Association.

Here is Bonita's prize recipe:

Cherry Pie Filling

1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 cups cherries (drained)
1 cup cherry juice
½ teaspoon red food coloring
½ teaspoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon almond flavoring

Pie Crust

2 cups sifted flour
⅔ tablespoons salt
⅔ cup salad oil
¼ cup cold milk

Heat cornstarch on stove, adding slowly the cherry juice. Bring to a boil stirring constantly. When thick and clear, add sugar. Remove from heat and add coloring, lemon juice, almond flavoring and salt. Let stand while making crust. Mix in cherries when ready to fill pie. Bake 30 to 40 minutes at 400 degrees.

Mix flour and salt. Pour oil and milk into one measuring cup (but don't mix), add all at once to flour. Stir until mixed. Press into smooth ball.

Give Nature Little Time

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. "As a teen-ager of 14 I have a problem I would like to have you answer. My measurements are hips, 36 inches, waist 26 and bust 32. At my age it seems to me that my bust should be bigger. What do you think? Are other girls my age worried about such things?"

A. Yes, many girls your age are worried about a bust 'problem.' Neither they nor you should be. Few girls have their full share of curves by the age of 14. Just give nature a little more time. Your hips and waist are in perfect proportion.

Q. "I start high school soon and I have very hairy legs, like a monkey. What should I do?"

A. Either use a depilatory on your legs to melt the hair away, or shave them.

Q. "Are there any medicines that will remove dark blotches from the face? I have distracting blotches across my nose and over my upper lip. I have had these as long as I can remember."

A. I do not know about medicines which will remove blotches but I suggest that you see a skin Specialist. He will be able to advise you. There are procedures which might be employed.

Q. "Could you please give me an exercise for slimming the hips? My husband thinks I should lose some weight but I don't think I am overweight. I am 22 years old, 5 feet 5 inches tall and weigh 128 pounds. My bust measures 34 inches, waist, 26 and hips 36. What is your opinion?"

A. My opinion is that your husband is hard to please. However I am sure that it is pleasant for you to have him take an interest in the way you look. If you have a medium frame, your weight is just right. If you have a very small frame you might lose a few pounds, around six to eight. Your measurements are in good ratio.

Q. "Is it dangerous for a 12-year-old girl to diet?"

A. A girl of this age needs many more calories than a mature person. Of course a well-balanced diet is also most important to her. If she needs to lose weight, I suggest that she do so under the direction of her family physician.

Tomorrow: "If Your Thighs Produce Sighs, Try Two Exercises."

This exercise for the hips entails swinging the legs apart, swinging them toward each other and crossing them without bending the knees. Cross the right leg above the left, then the left above the right.

Half-Hour Wait Long Enough

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I'm in the dog house and am hoping you can get me out. Last week my best girl and I were invited to dinner at the house of a young married couple — mutual friends of ours.

As we both work at opposite ends of town I was to meet her at a certain place at a certain time and we would then go to dinner together. I waited a good half hour and there was no sign of her. As it was getting late I went ahead, thinking perhaps she had misunderstood about our meeting place and went directly to the house.

When I arrived she was not there but came in about fifteen minutes later very much perturbed at me for not having waited. (She was unexpectedly detained at the office. She claims that I should have waited for her at the appointed place until she arrived. How long is a man supposed to wait for a woman

Answer: A half hour is all that a woman should expect a man to wait for her. In your case, it would have been wise to have telephoned her office to see if she had left, and receiving no answer you should then have called your dinner hosts to ask if she had arrived. Having been told that she was not there, you should have explained the situation to them and asked them what they wanted you to do.

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband's brother and his wife are having a party in two weeks to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary. We of course have been invited. However, I am in mourning for my mother who died four weeks ago. Will you please tell me if it will be proper for me to go to this party?

* * *

Answer: You may certainly go to a small family celebration in honor of your husband's brother's 25th anniversary, but not if it is to be a real party to which friends outside of the family are invited.

County Sets Road Mark, Bucks State Death Trend

By DICK SAUNDERS

Oakland County set a modern traffic record in 1959.

In a year when the state death toll showed an upward trend, Oakland recorded its lowest since World War II.

There were 82 traffic deaths in the county, according to unofficial totals recorded throughout the year by The Pontiac Press.

The previous low was 83 in 1942. The toll was 96 in 1958.

Traffic officials in Lansing say that records for years before 1945 don't make an accurate comparison. Due to gas rationing and fewer cars, the toll for war years were low.

A lack of cars and drivers also affected prewar years, although a rather frantic "last fling" before the war saw 150 killed during 1941 in Oakland.

While most of the credit goes to county law enforcers, authorities praised motorists for their cooperation.

"If the man behind the wheel doesn't heed our warnings and practice more driver safety, all the enforcement in the world won't hold the toll down," said Sheriff Frank W. Irons.

Sgt. Lorenz Ahlgrim, commander of the Pontiac State Police Post, said: "It looks like we should be praising the woman behind the wheel."

Statistics show that 66 traffic victims in 1958 and 1960 were males, while the number of female fatalities dropped from 30 in '58 to 16 last year.

"We must continue to improve in order to say we're doing a good job," asserts Irons.

Ahlgrim agrees. "If we merely have one good year, and then another bad year we haven't really accomplished traffic safety. Now we have a good trend to point to."

STEADY DECREASE

Since 1955 the toll has dropped each year. In 1955 there were 140 killed in county traffic. The next year the toll dropped to 114, then to 103 in 1957.

"The continual ice storms of January and February made it almost impossible to speed," said Irons. "The death toll for those two months was half of what it was for the preceding year."

There also were fewer multiple fatality accidents in 1959. The 96 deaths in 1958 resulted from 80 accidents. Last year's toll of 82 came from 78 accidents. There were four double fatals. No accidents resulted in more than two deaths.

One accident in 1958 killed four, and there were three triple fatals and seven double fatals.

In 1958 pedestrian fatals topped the list with 25 deaths. Second high was accidents in which vehicles struck a fixed object, contributing 24 deaths.

For both years the largest group of victims was between 20 and 30 years old. This age group numbered 16 dead in 1958 and 19 last year.

The number of children killed dropped to 8 last year. It had been 11 the preceding year.

Of the nonpedestrian victims in 1959, 52 were driving and 13 were passengers. In 1958, there were 42 drivers and 29 passengers among the county traffic victims.

The ages of last year's victims totaled 2,865 years. Figuring a lifetime expectancy of 70 years per victim, they still had a total of 2,785 years to live.

Weekend days were still the worst accident periods. In 1958 there were 18 accidents and 23 deaths on Saturdays.

Last year Sunday was the worst day, totaling 19 accidents and deaths. Friday was next with 15 fatal accidents, but two were double fatals.

Most traffic victims were killed between 6 p.m. and midnight in both years. That period claimed 32 victims in 27 accidents during 1958.

In 1959 the evening hours claimed 29 lives in 27 accidents.

DECEMBER WORST

The worst month last year was December when 12 were killed; the best was February with 3 deaths.

In 1958 the low of 3 was in June, while three months—April, July and December—were high with 11 deaths each.

Most notable during the past year was the fact that traffic deaths reached double figures in only one month, while double figures were reached in five months during 1958.

In other classifications last year, 11 were killed in head-on collisions, 11 in rear-end smashups, 5 when their cars overturned, 5 at intersection collisions, and 4 in car-train accidents.

Five were killed while driving or riding on motor scooters or motorcycles.

HOW THEY DIED

The worst toll affected the driver who lost control and struck a tree. Such collisions killed 16 persons.

In similar accidents, 8 died smashing into abutments, 3 hitting an embankment, 2 a utility pole, and one man when he ran his motorcycle into a store.

Attempting to hold the 1960 death toll to a lower figure will be a big job, law enforcers say. Continued vigilance on the part of police and sheriff's deputies, and more careful driving are stressed.

"We point to the lack of multiple fatals last year with pride," said Sgt. Ahlgrim. "While we boast of nothing worse than a double fatal, there is never to be," he said.

"Our first complaint of the new year was a triple fatal on the Dixie. I hope it's our last," he said grimly.

Northern Math Classes Study Income Tax Forms

By ED BANTALA

Leo Kawiecki's mathematics classes at Pontiac Northern High School are covering a unit on federal income taxes.

In order that the students gain experience in working with income tax forms, they will be filling out an actual tax form, 1040A.

Included in the unit is a study of social security and withholding tax statements.

The income tax booklets and forms are being supplied by the U.S. Treasury, Internal Revenue Service.

Today was the last day of regular school for January seniors. They attended classes throughout the day and carried a "senior clearance card" signed by teachers.

CHECKED OUT

When the cards had been signed, seniors reported to the main office and completed the checking-out process.

Caps and gowns today were distributed in the clinic. Boys were requested to wear the traditional white shirt and tie. Girls were requested to wear heels.

The senior Class Day Luncheon will be held Tuesday at the Rotunda Inn.

Baccalaureate services will be held Sunday in Northern's auditorium.

Commencement will be held Thursday evening at Central. Dr. Roy Alexander, dean of students at Michigan State University-Oakland, will be the key speaker.

Northern's Catalina Club show will be entitled "Catalina in News Print." Two performances are scheduled for April 8 and 9 in the Northern natatorium.

TAX STUDY — Pontiac Northern High School mathematics teacher Leo Kawiecki and two of his students, Audrey Ladd and Roger Sneed, look over an oversize income tax form that will help in the study of filing returns to the Internal Revenue Service. Walled Lake Represented at Songfest

BY KAREN TUTTLE

A solo and ensemble contest will be held Feb. 6 at Wayne State University. The following entrees will represent Walled Lake High in the district contest: Al Straub, Bill Rogers, Diane Slinker, David Eicher and Ingeborg Trovote, all orchestra members.

A number of Walled Lake's bandsmen are making solo and ensemble entries for the district contest. These students include Gary Saxton, Leo Zehnder, Ward Sutton, John Rutledge and Frank Serritoni.

Others are Carol Anderson, Marilyn Matthews, Bobbi Bailey, Doug Adams, Mike Crawford, Dennis Garrels, Jim Menton and Dodie Duckwitz. Bruce Attar, Larry Reichert, Bob Hartle and David Nicolay have also submitted entrees.

The junior class headed by Jim Holt, president, has started a banking program in preparation for its senior trip. Funds will be submitted monthly by those students who wish to take part in the program.

Group pictures for the 1960 Vikine yearbook were taken by Powell's Studios on Tuesday. Additional informal shots of clubs and organizations will be taken by the high school photography staff at a later date.

The Inter-Lakes Debate tournament held at Walled Lake High found Farmington High School varsity champions. The Falcons have won the trophy for the past three years. Southfield was presented the Jayvee trophy. Approximately 75 debaters participated in the tournament.

Avondale Jr. Prom Is 'Blue Paradise'

By IRVIN GINGRICH

"Blue Paradise" is the name of Avondale's junior prom this year. The dance will be held 8 p.m. Saturday.

The "Blue Notes" will supply the music. Chairmen heading the various committees are Diana Owen, Kitty Mildebrandt, Judy Chamberlain, Jean Newman and Elaine Landry. It is anticipated that the dance will be a fine success.

It was announced in a recent senior class meeting that there would be no senior trip this year. The reason for the action taken was the lack of interest on the part of the seniors.

This past week has been filled with both excitement and quite a lot of anxiety on the part of many students. The reason is that the first semester of the school year has officially come to an end.

Exams were held on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

Dramatics Club Holds Tryouts

Waterford Slates Cyrano de Bergerac

By JOHN TEEUWISSEN

Tryouts at Waterford Township High School for the next Dramatics Club presentation, "Cyrano de Bergerac," will be held Monday evening by the club.

Edmond Rostand's famous play, set in France in 1640, tells of Cyrano of the long nose and his love for the fair Roxanne.

Because of his preposterous nose, Cyrano is afraid to tell Roxanne of his love, thinking that she will laugh at him.

His plight is further complicated when a handsome young man asks Cyrano to write for him and tell him what to say so that he may win the hand of Roxanne.

DEFEAT WALLED LAKE

In the second round, A. J. Lowe and Dick Copus, affirmative, bowed to Southfield. Waterford's negatives, Tim Patterson and John Teeuwissen, defeated Walled Lake and Pontiac Northern.

Waterford High students will be taking semester finals next Tuesday and Wednesday, a fact which is viewed with varied feelings. A four-day weekend following them should help soften the situation.

To get the short vacation off to a good start, the Student Council is sponsoring a Recreation Night Wednesday evening.

There will be dancing, volleyball, table tennis and other games. Refreshments will also be sold. The small admission price of ten cents will provide an evening of enjoyable and inexpensive entertainment.

Brandon Journalism Class Sets Deadline

Students Suggest Favorite Meals to Staff

By PAT VILLELLA

As we have seen throughout the year, many new and unique things have been brought before the students of St. Fred's and much has been accomplished.

As in many schools, the Student Council accomplishes much good for the entire student body. At the weekly meeting of the Student Council, the problem of having a school production or letting the senior class put on the traditional senior play was thoroughly discussed.

As no conclusion was made, the problem will be brought before the senior class for discussion.

The school nurse and the manager of the cafeteria both addressed the Student Council on the problems which are encountered by them in preparing good and nutritious lunches. The idea of having the favorite dishes of the teen-ager was proposed.

Miss Meloch, the school nurse, stressed the problem of not getting enough nutrition from our hamburgers and cokes. During a discussion period she asked for suggestions.

LIKE TO EAT

It was suggested that the students express what they would like to eat and what their favorite foods are and have the women in the cafeteria prepare them.

Also, the idea of painting some of the tables was suggested. These tables could be painted by the Student Council or some of the student body.

With the fourth edition of the Ramrod coming, the Press Club is making plans for a dance and a "Name The Baby" contest. The student body will be able to view two baby pictures and try to guess which senior girl and boy they are.

The only clues given will be the different captions under the pictures every day.

These captions will tell something about the person, whether it be the dress of the person on a previous day or some club or activities in which they participate.

The winner of the contest will be announced at the dance being held Thursday of next week. The prize is $10 and a picture of the two babies.

Bagwell Offers Suggestion

Proposes Citizens' Group for Constitution Reform

LANSING (AP) — A dispute over constitutional reform simmered along today with something new injected — the idea of a citizens' commission on the question.

Republican Paul D. Bagwell tossed out the suggestion to GOP legislative leaders, saying there was a need for "clarifying the atmosphere."

He spoke against a background of division in both Republican and Democratic ranks on a con-con plan backed jointly by the League of Women Voters and the State Junior Chamber of Commerce.

There was a chance a Republican policy stand might emerge from a Saturday meeting of the GOP state central committee, the first of the year.

The Democratic rift split Gov. Williams, who endorsed the new con-con scheme, and August Scholle, AFL-CIO state president, who promised to work to defeat it.

Bagwell, who championed a 1960 plan for constitutional overhaul when he was the GOP governor nominee, said he had hoped "political confusion and bickering" on the new plan could be avoided but turmoil now threatened.

He said the air could be cleared by creation of a constitutional commission encompassing all sections and major interests in the state.

Bagwell reiterated his advocacy of con-con in principle.

But he refrained from specific endorsement of the new joint proposal, and in referring to it omitted mention of the junior chamber's support. In 1948-49, Bagwell was national president of the junior chamber.

The current proposal probably would give Democrats a near-equal voice in a 1960 rewrite convention. Under the 1958 approach, Republicans undoubtedly would have had a top heavy majority.

Some influential members of the Republican Senate majority frown on con-con, particularly the new version, and Bagwell is taking pains to avoid offending them insofar as he can.

Tough Bill Hits at Drunk Driving

Legislators in Lansing Would Legalize Tests for Alcohol in Blood

LANSING (AP) — A bipartisan group of legislators is making another try at legalizing chemical tests for drunk driving.

This year they are armed with a state survey showing intoxicants are involved in more than half of Michigan's fatal auto accidents.

Led by Rep. Harry T. Emmons (R-Byron Center), 10 Republicans and five Democrats introduced a bill yesterday setting up penalties for persons revealed by chemical tests to be driving under the influence of alcohol and for those who refuse to submit to tests.

A test showing five-hundredths of one per cent by weight of alcohol in a driver's blood would indicate he was driving under influence of intoxicants.

Conviction for a first offense could bring a maximum 30-day jail sentence, $200 fine and suspension of a driver's license for 30 days.

Repeated violations and an alcoholic content in the blood of more than 15 one-hundredths of one per cent would bring stiffer penalties ranging up to five years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

Arresting officers having "reasonable grounds" to believe a driver had overindulged could order a test. The State Health Department would set up testing and equipment standards.

Only physicians, nurses or other qualified persons could withdraw blood for tests but breath, saliva or other tests could be administered by others.

The legislation also authorizes tests on persons killed or knocked unconscious in accidents.

Cottage cheese consumption has increased 80 per cent in the past decade. And local grocers, with an eye toward informing their customers of the latest trends in tastes, have constantly been increasing their investments in newspaper advertising. Since 1950, they have upped their expenditures a spanking 130 per cent.

NEW SEARS WAREHOUSE — Sears Roebuck and Co. reports the recent completion of its new warehouse and service center at 461 N. Saginaw St. shows, "fields in downtown Pontiac." The statement comes from Store Manager Howard Nelson, who says the building was constructed at a cost of $500,000. A warehouse sale will be announced for February to celebrate the opening. The 30,000 square foot building has modern mechanical handling equipment and will be used to supplement pool stock in Detroit, from where most deliveries have been made. Warehouse shops will repair all appliances for the public.

Michigan School Study Second Phase to Be Launched at MSUO in Two Weeks

The second phase of "Studying Michigan Schools" will be launched in Oakland County Feb. 6 at Michigan State University Oakland.

An invitation is being extended to all Parent-Teacher Associations and Parent-Teacher Organizations of the Oakland County area to send delegates to the all-day statewide program.

Among the featured speakers will be Lewis Schimmel, Pontiac Board of Education member and director of the Municipal Advisory Council.

Schimmel will speak on school financing and participate on a panel moderated by Dr. James Covert, superintendent of Royal Oak Schools and president of the Michigan Assn. of School Administrators.

Other panelists include Eugene Richardson of the Michigan Department of Public Instruction, who will treat the problem of "Teaching Staff"; Dr. Harry Hahn of the Oakland County Schools, who will discuss "Educational Programs"; and D. B. Warner, MSUO chancellor, who will present problems of higher education in Michigan.

As such, the conference will present a symposium of experts on the four educational issues found to be of major concern in last year's statewide survey.

The program is designed as a followup on the statewide survey and will stress ways and means of bringing the important facts and information on crucial school problems to the citizens of this area.

Another main objective of the conference is to provide local groups interested in problems of education with an opportunity to examine and discuss the pertinent issues and to provide local PTA's and PTO's with the information and suggested methods for accomplishment.

Featured speaker of the day will be Dr. Lyna Bartlett, state superintendent of public instruction.

Dr. William Emerson, superintendent of Oakland County Schools, will keynote the day's activities, preceded by a welcoming address from Dr. Lowell Eklund, director of continuing education at MSUO, and the invocation by the Rev. Edgar Lucas of Rochester.

Mrs. Charles W. Nekdrett of Pontiac, president of the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers, will chair the meeting.

Upon completion of the symposium, Carl Anderson of Eastern Michigan University and a member of the state's Studying Michigan Schools Committee, will discuss local PTA and PTO responsibilities and functions with an eye to "involve the state citizenry in the resolution of these problems."

The Oakland County program has been planned by a committee headed by Eklund and including Mrs. William Wright of Pontiac, program chairman of the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers; Merrill Bates of Bloomfield Hills and the Michigan Assn. of School Boards; Don Baldwin, superintendent of Rochester Community Schools; and Al Cowan of the State Department of Public Instruction.

Those interested in attending the conference have been asked to make their reservations at the earliest date by contacting the director of continuing education at MSUO. A conference fee of $3 (includes luncheon) must accompany the reservation.

Safety Measure Report Asked of Adrian Firm

LANSING (AP)—The State Water Resources Commission has ordered an Adrian firm to report on steps it has taken to prevent another spillage of deadly chromium solution into the Raisin River.

The Hurd Lock and Mfg. Co. was also ordered to submit drawings outlining its preventive action.

Several hundred gallons of a poisonous chromium concentrate seeped into the river on Dec. 21 when a heating coil broke at the plant.

The threat to water supplies at Deerfield, Blissfield and Dundee was ended when the three downstream communities shut off their river intakes until the solution flowed by their areas and into Lake Erie.

Solve THIS Problem!

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) — School officials had to pay storage on desks which arrived ahead of completion of a new school here. At the same time temporary chairs had to be used in another new school. Desks for the incomplete building couldn't be diverted to the other school because they were too small for the age groups there.

Dow Chemical's Export Families Learn Culture

EAST LANSING (UPI) — A course to avoid "cultural shock" for businessmen traveling to foreign countries is being experimented with this week at Michigan State University.

Seven men and their wives from the Dow Chemical Co., Midland, are participating in MSU's first attempt to provide a small, intensive program to satisfy cultural training needs of international business.

The objectives of the first program are to make it possible for the businessman and his family to adapt and adjust to a country foreign to them, build self-confidence in being able to live in a foreign country, and introduce the American family to the language of the country in which they will be living.

Wins AMC Award

DETROIT (UPI) — James L. Rosman of Lansing, executive secretary of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, has won an American Motors conservation award for successful leadership of a campaign to keep copper mining interests out of the Porcupine Mountains State Park. The award includes a check for $500.

Teamsters Fix Alleged

Impeached Judge Barred Ever Practicing Law

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—Former Judge Raulston Schoolfield, whose troubles sprang from the U.S. Senate's investigation of the Teamsters Union, has been ordered barred from the practice of law for life.

The judgment, preceded by Schoolfield's 1958 impeachment as a Chattanooga Criminal Court judge, was handed down in a Chancery court suit Thursday brought by the Tennessee and Chattanooga Bar Association.

The case against the 54-year-old fiery, controversial lawyer was heard in a packed court room here Jan. 11. Schoolfield brought a host of witnesses—including many public officials — to testify as to his character.

He declined immediate comment on the decision but the case is expected to land ultimately before the Tennessee Supreme Court.

Schoolfield's name was brought up in 1957 during the Teamsters Union investigation by the U.S. Senate investigators. A committee witness mentioned him in connection with $20,000 in union funds allegedly paid to fix a criminal case involving several Teamsters members here.

At his impeachment trial the following spring in the Tennessee Legislature, Schoolfield denied any wrongdoing. The State Senate, however, deliberating on 22 indictments by the House, convicted him of three charges.

He was convicted of improperly accepting the gift of an automobile purchased with contributions from persons with cases in his court, dabbling in partisan politics and using obscene language in his official capacity. He was ordered removed as judge but not barred from holding public office in the future.

U.S. Beckons Cuban Envoy

Philip Bonsal Called Home for Consultations After Castro Blast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States summoned Ambassador Philip W. Bonsal home from Havana today, less than two weeks after he returned to his post.

There were strong indications of official exasperation at indignities authorities feel America has suffered at the hands of Fidel Castro.

The big question remained, what can Washington try next to change the course of the bearded Cuban Premier without hurting its relations with the other psychologically sensitive Latin American states?

Diplomatically, Uncle Sam was in the unhappy shoes of the visitor being kicked in the shins by a small boy of the family while not daring to lift his fist in reprisal.

Bonsal was expected to arrive in the late afternoon. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said Thursday the career diplomat was being returned for "consultations." He had returned to Havana on Jan. 10 after a month of similar consultations.

The new move falls short of a break in relations with the Castro regime. But U.S. officials made plain they are in no hurry to send Bonsal back. The Havana embassy meanwhile will be tended by the No. 2 man there, Daniel M. Braddock.

The new low in U.S.-Cuban relations was struck Thursday after Castro went on a radio-TV broadcast. The Spanish ambassador became so outraged at Castro's allegations of criminal ties by his embassy that he stormed the broadcasting studio. Castro kicked him out of Cuba, and he too leaves there today.

Baltimore Police Check Collision Safety Device

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Three Baltimore police cars are being used to test a safety device designed to lessen the chance of auto passengers being hurled against the dashboard in a collision.

The gadget is attached to the front and rear bumpers. When the bumper is struck, a spring is tripped causing the car seats to move backward.

The backward movement of the seat at the moment of impact is planned to take up the concussion of the crash and check the forward plunge of passengers.

Eye Red China Arms Role

U.S. Considers Trading Recognition for Peiping Participation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is holding the door open for Red China to participate in a global disarmament program — if negotiations ever reach that point.

Officials acknowledge that inspection stations on Red Chinese territory would be essential to make any arms control plans effective. This need, in turn, could some day force this country to take a new look at its policy of nonrecognition of Communist China.

This country has negotiated informally with Red China on other matters without recognizing the Communist regime, and officials said their present stand "has no bearing on recognition. But the issue could be raised either by the Red Chinese or on their behalf by the Soviets in connection with working out any disarmament agreement. Recognition might be presented as the price of Red China's participation.

The link between Red China and disarmament was brought to the fore Thursday by statements in Peiping and Washington.

In the Chinese capital, Foreign Minister Chen Yi declared that his country would not be bound by any disarmament agreement reached without its formal participation or without the signature of its delegates.

In Washington State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said that if substantial progress is made toward controlled disarmament during the forthcoming negotiations at Geneva, "then it would be logical to consider participation in such a disarmament program by other countries including Red China."

Negotiations reopen in Geneva March 15. Ten nations will take part—five Allies and five Communist countries. They include the Big Four—the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union—but Red China is not among them.

Policemen Get SO Tired of:

'I've Got Friends at City Hall'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that policemen get tired of hearing — or overhearing:

"Don't try to push me around, Sonny. I've got friends at city hall."

"Officer, would you mind watching my child while I go into this store? I won't be gone but a minute."

BOYLE

"First of all, let's just get one thing straight: Are you a public servant or not?"

"What if I did belt her one? She's my wife — not yours."

"He couldn't be very smart. He's still on foot."

"How is it so many cops buy apartment houses in Florida when they retire?"

"Why aren't you out catching bank robbers instead of annoying law abiding citizens?"

"Whaddaya mean I was doing 70? If this buggy ever got over 60, the engine would fall out."

"You must be mistaken, officer. My boy wouldn't do a thing like that."

"Give me a ticket if you want to—I'll let the mayor tear it up."

"Hurry, officer, the baby's due any minute."

"There's a tea spot in it for you if you just forget all about it."

"He directs traffic like he thinks he's Toscanini."

"I lost all my money in a poker game, officer. Can you lend me bus fare home?"

"I bought five tickets to the policeman's ball, and this is the reward I get."

"I'll have you transferred so far out in the suburbs you'll be doing bird calls."

"What stop sign? I thought it was a shaving cream ad."

"When's the last time you paid for an apple?"

Enlarge Detroit Marketing Area

Form 3-State Dairy Unit to Counteract Big Firms

DETROIT (AP)—A group of five dairy farmer cooperatives in Ohio, Michigan and Indiana agreed yesterday to form a three-state milk marketing federation.

The organization will be known as the Great Lakes Milk Marketing Federation. A group spokesman said it will represent more than 20,000 dairy farmers in three states in all phases of milk marketing.

Glenn Lake of North Branch, president of the Michigan Milk Producers' Assn., was named president of the new group. Don Fatchett of Blissfield was elected vice president and Harry Homer of Canton, Ohio, secretary-treasurer.

Other directors are Harry Rowland and Byron Dalton of the Milk Producers Federation of Cleveland, William Ruttencutter of Akron Milk Producers, Inc., and Jack W. Barnes of the Michigan Milk Producers Assn.

Lake said "the objective of the Great Lakes Milk Marketing Federation is to put dairy farmers on an equal basis with the people they must deal with. It will enable dairy farmers to work together on a broad regional basis and help counterbalance the concentration of economic power now in the hands of large dairy concerns."

Meanwhile, at Washington, the Agriculture Department has issued an order enlarging the Detroit federal milk marketing program area and redesignating it the Southern Michigan marketing area.

The new order goes into effect Feb. 1. It will be administered by George Ivine of Detroit, administrator of the Detroit program since 1951.

Under the program, the department sets minimum prices which handlers are required to pay dairymen.

The expanded marketing area includes 28 counties and 18 townships in five other counties, extending regulation milk handling to the main centers of population in Michigan now unregulated — Battle Creek, Bay City, Flint, Grand Rapids, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Lansing and Saginaw—and the intervening and adjacent areas.

The present price minimums will continue.

TV Networks Agree to Culture at Night

NEW YORK (AP)—Three television networks have announced agreement on devoting an hour each week of prime evening time to cultural programs. The project will get under way next November, after the election.

NBC, ABC and CBS said Thursday they developed their plan in meetings here and in Washington with John C. Doerfer of the Federal Communications Commission. The agreement was worked out in Washington Jan. 19.

In a speech two weeks ago, Doerfer suggested such programs by the networks on a rotation basis.

Under the tentative schedule ABC will lead off the week with a half-hour educational program on Sunday night. The network will offer another half-hour on Tuesday evening.

CBS has offered either a full hour series on Thursday nights, or a half-hour each on Monday and Friday nights.

Once every third week, on a rotating basis, each network will make available to local affiliates, out of time to be devoted to these programs, a half-hour for regional presentation of cultural or educational programs.

Hoodlum Tells of 'Finch Job'

Insists He Was Hired to Kill Doctor's Wife, Then Reneged

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The prosecution plowed into the final stages of its massive case in the Finch murder trial today following testimony by a hoodlum that he positively was hired to kill Barbara Jean Finch, not to seduce her.

The state contends Dr. R. Bernard Finch and his red - haired mistress Carole Tregoff paid Jack Cody to kill the tennis - playing surgeon's estranged wife — and that they did the job themselves when Cody failed to go through with the bargain.

The defense suggested Thursday that Cody was approached to get divorce evidence against Mrs. Finch and that Cody bragged he would get it if he had to sleep with the doctor's wife himself.

Cody, 29, bad check passer on leave from the Minneapolis workhouse, heatedly denied this.

"I was hired to kill her, that's all," said Cody, who describes himself as a former dance hall bouncer, butcher, gambling hall shill and ladies' man.

Mrs. Finch, attractive 36-year-old brunette socialite, was shot to death July 18 outside the Finch estate in suburban West Covina. The state contends the crew-cut doctor and his attractive paramour killed Mrs. Finch so she couldn't win a large divorce settlement.

Ford Proposing New Air Cars

Has Plan for Levacars Carrying 20-75 Persons to Use Rails

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ford Motor Co. proposed today a new railway passenger system for the nation to use cars that would slide over the rails on a film of air, at 200 to 500 miles an hour.

Using the "levapad" principle, which Ford engineers developed, a small car last year at Dearborn, Mich., the new system could use railway rights of way. Special rails would be laid alongside the existing rails for the "Levacars."

A model of the Levacar was demonstrated Thursday in New York. Alex L. Haynes, director of engineering research and advanced project study for Ford, said the purpose of the Levacar would be to replace the airplane and the limited passenger train in journeys of 200 to 1,000 miles. It could not be used for commuter travel.

The Levacar would carry from 20 to perhaps 75 passengers. It would look somewhat like an aircraft fuselage. Gas turbines or pure turbojets would power it.

Levapads — discs underneath the car with many holes in them through which air is forced — furnish the lifting power. The film of air between the car and the rails is one-tenth of an inch or less.

The Levacar, thus, operates on a totally different air-support principle than air-cushion vehicles like the Curtiss-Wright air car, which can ride two to four feet off the ground, or the air-jet military vehicles which can rise to tree top height, or even higher.

Forward power is by jets in the rear of the car or propellers. Because of its high speed, the Levacar would be controlled by electronics.

There would be an engineer, but he would sit back and let electroncis take over as high speed was reached. A film of air also grips the sides of the rails and holds the car to them as the flanges on wheels hold a train on the track. Haynes said the air film also would serve as a lubricant.

To get by in New York, you have to be one jump ahead of the next fellow—particularly if you're walking and the next fellow is driving . . . The headlines about unfair prices for drugs made Ima Washout so nervous she had to buy more tranquilizers. —Earl Wilson

Who? Kennedy and Humphrey!

In Hot Race for Primary

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey are squared off for a crucial political prizefight in the Wisconsin primary April 5. The prize could be the Democratic presidential nomination. It could just as well be a standoff.

Kennedy got into Wisconsin with both feet Thursday. His camp figures it's a gamble because Wisconsin is next door to Humphrey's home state of Minnesota, and Humphrey has been mending his Wisconsin fences diligently.

But they also figure this: If the Massachusetts senator wins big in Wisconsin, he'll knock Humphrey out of the race. And he'll open the door for bigger states to swing their convention delegates onto his bandwagon.

Humphrey welcomed Kennedy's entry in Wisconsin, and he expects a hard fight. He said polls taken by Kennedy forces in the state show considerable voter sentiment for Kennedy. Humphrey added that his limited campaign funds don't permit him the luxury of a poll of his own.

Kennedy also announced his entry in the Nebraska primary May 10. Humphrey hasn't decided about that one yet. Unlike Wisconsin, this primary is not binding on convention delegates—it amounts to a popularity contest between candidates.

The Republicans have a problem. Because Vice President Richard M. Nixon is the only GOP presidential candidate in sight, there is no heat of battle or clash of rivals to keep their cause constantly in the public eye.

Waterford Twp. Board Awaiting School Name

The Waterford Township Board of Education last night again expressed appreciation of the excellent presentation of the Student Council at Tuesday night's meeting on renaming the high school. The issue was referred to the school names committee, directing its recommendation back as soon as possible.

The school board had changed the name of Waterford Township High School to the Thomas A. Edison High School, because of the construction of a second senior high school to be known as the Charles F. Kettering High School. Students had objected to the change.

In other business, Eugene Cleland representing the firm of Smith & Smith Architects, reviewed final outside site plans for the new high school now under construction on a 55-acre plat near Hatchery road.

Cleland told the Board that the Detroit Edison Co. refuses to install overhead electric wiring with pole connections and that the Board of Education will be required to pay for underground wiring to the school from Hatchery road. Edison will reimburse the Board for the amount it would cost for overhead installations, however.

The outside school plans include a football field, tennis court, track, and parking facilities for some 500 cars. Assistant administration Supt. Edward Hill told the Board that 40 per cent of the 565 seniors at the high school ride to school in their own cars, and that the parking lot is "tight."

The building committee reported on several school sites in the Huntoon Lake-Pontiac Lake area for the two new elementary schools scheduled for construction this year.

Test borings so far have been unsatisfactory for holding a large building, and other land is being considered.

Assistant Supt. James Dearden Herder was authorized to check the possibility of purchasing two additional parcels of land adjoining the new Kettering High School for easements to the property.

Thomas Belton, director of the Waterford Township Recreation Dept., was present to discuss a specific plan of procedure and a policy for his department. He said that new members joining the recreation board do not have this type of information. The Board tabled the matter for further study.

Supt. William Shunck presented recommendations for the Board to request the Waterford Township Board to enact an ordinance governing the operation and speed of motor vehicles on the school district property.

At the present time, the Waterford Township police have no jurisdiction over motor vehicle violations on school property. This matter was also tabled for consideration.

The Board authorized the investment of $725,000 in United States Treasury Bills from several debt retirement funds.

A request from the Student Council to have the high school library open two evenings a week and on Saturday afternoons was discussed, and further information will be acquired before action is taken on this issue.

Williams Meeting With Experts on National Topics

LANSING (AP)—The third in a series of conferences to bring Gov. Williams up to date on national issues will be held Jan. 29-31, on disarmament and peace.

The governor announced yesterday seven experts on the subject have been invited to meet with him at the Inglis House Conference Center on the University of Michigan campus.

The earlier sessions were devoted to economic development and education. They were held at Mackinac Island and at Haven Hill Lodge near Milford, with the governor paying expenses.

Williams told newsmen that although he sees little chance of landing a spot on the Democratic national ticket he plans to keep plugging.

He said he will continue efforts in behalf of a liberal platform, steer clear of personalities in state primaries and is undecided on a seventh term candidacy.

De Gaulle Defies Armed Resistance in Algeria

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle stood pat today on his policy of self-determination for Algeria in the face of a threat of armed resistance by rightwing Frenchmen in that North African territory.

De Gaulle told the army its job is to restore peace so Algerians can eventually decide their own future.

House Labor Chief to Quit

Puts Rep. Powell in Line for Position of Committee Chairman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Graham A. Barden (D-NC), chairman of the House Labor and Education Committee, announced today he is retiring from Congress this year after 26 years of House service.

Powell, a Negro and ardent civil rights champion, is due to go on trial in New York City March 7 on a three-count indictment charging income tax evasion and aiding in preparation of a fraudulent tax return.

Barden's announcement, ending 13 terms in Congress, was unexpected, and raised potentially critical questions over the course of labor and education legislation at an election-year session of Congress.

It also revived the possibility long discussed behind the scenes, of splitting Barden's committee — one new committee to govern education and one with sole jurisdiction over labor.

Barden, a hard-listed southern conservative, said he was quitting Congress because "I want to go home."

At 63, Barden said he wanted time for his boats, fishing, his grandchildren, his friends and his wife.

County Receives Radio Payment for Patrol Cars

Reimbursement in the amount of $2,634 has bee made to Oakland County as the federal government's share for 12 new two-way radios now installed in sheriff's cars.

The check in this amount was presented to Robert Y. Moore, chairman of the Board of Auditors, by Henry Fink, of the state office of civil defense.

The federal government participated in the 50-50 purchase of the radios with the county as the radios will be used in case of a national emergency. The county had paid the full amount to purchase the radios.

Local Van Driver Wins Safety Honor

Arthur Bannerman, 451 S. Telegraph Rd., today was named to membership in North American Van Lines, Inc., Vanguard, an elite corps of drivers who lead the fleet in safety, damage prevention, customer relations and equipment maintenance.

Bannerman ranked in the top 10 per cent of 550 eligible drivers.

In announcing the award, James D. Edgett, North American president, said Bannerman was "an inspiration to all drivers everywhere and a credit to his company."

The Pontiac resident has been driving for North American since 1954, covering an average of 60,000 miles each year in 48 states.

City Bus Talks to No Avail

Neither Side Willing to Alter Its Stand in Seven-Week Strike

Management officials representing Pontiac City Lines, Inc., met again yesterday with representatives of striking bus drivers and mechanics.

But no break was reported in the seven-week bus strike.

Apparently neither side has altered its position. A union representative said that the drivers' request for a 23-cent hourly increase in wages and benefits was rejected, while the company offered only to renew the old contract without increased wages.

State and national mediators have scheduled a similar negotiation session Wednesday in Saginaw; where drivers and mechanics are striking against another affiliate of National City Lines, Inc., parent of the Pontiac bus company.

Stove in Kennel Explodes, Ten Toy Poodles Perish

Five minutes after returning from the kennel fire, the township fire department was called to extinguish a blaze in a small barn owned by Albert Richardson, 3635 Union Lake Rd.

The poodles, two of them mothers of a total of 14 national champions, had been isolated in a small kennel because they were expecting offspring, Olson said.

"They were the best in the country," Olson said.

"I had been in the kennel less than 10 minutes before the fire broke out, feeding and locking them up in their individual pens for the night."

"As I came out of the larger kennel from making a check I noticed smoke coming from the isolation kennel. When I opened the door flames shot out at my face."

"There wasn't anything I could do," Olson said.

Olson said that he had noticed that the oil burner hadn't been working properly earlier in the day but had been unable to repair it.

NO INSURANCE

He said there was no insurance on the dogs. "To insure such prize dogs would cost from $15 to $20 for $100 in insurance."

Damage to the kennel was estimated by Chief Price at $500. Sixty poodles in the main kennel were unharmed.

"A witness said that just before the fire broke out several children were seen running from the barn, but there's nothing definite on it yet," Price said.

A large hunter's tent was the only thing destroyed in the barn fire, he said.

Owner Won't Fight Injunction

White Lake Dragstrip Sags

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — The operator of Pontiac Speedway said today he will not contest an injunction in Circuit Court keeping him from constructing a dragstrip.

Robert Amos, co-owner of the track, said he has "resigned" himself to the fact that he cannot complete the dragstrip being built adjacent to the Speedway on M59.

"I'll just wait to see if zoning restrictions on the land are lifted," Amos said.

Nearly $60,000 has already been spent for construction of the dragstrip, according to Amos.

He had threatened the Township Board with court action in November when his request to the Zoning Board of Appeals to rezone 15 acres of his property was denied.

The Township filed the injunction against Amos when it found that he was constructing a dragstrip on property zoned agricultural.

His request to have the land rezoned was denied because "a dragstrip would adversely affect the interest of the township as a whole," the Zoning Board of Appeals stated.

Rochester Pair Advises Oxford

2 Give Ideas on How to Run Proposed Plan of Incorporation

OXFORD — The Citizens Study Group on city incorporation has received pointers on how to proceed on a proposed incorporation program for Oxford from two Rochester village officials.

The two told the study group of Rochester's experience in presenting a program for expansion and incorporation to its citizens.

The pair's appearance at the Oxford meeting was part of the local group's plan to learn from other village and city officials what procedures should be set up to a possible change from village to city government.

The investigators also want to know how far to extend the village boundaries and what areas should be included as plans progress.

The study group has invited an official from the Michigan Municipal League to attend its next meeting Feb. 17.

Set Nature Lecture for Area Scout Unit

A lecture on "Exploring Nature" will be presented when adult leaders of Boy Scouts in the Clinton Valley Council meet Sunday for a training session at Avon Park Lodge in Rochester.

Rainer Brocke, Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority naturalist, will be the main guest speaker. He will show slides to accompany his talk.

About 40 persons from the districts of Pontiac, Manatow, Ottawa and Macomb, all part of the Clinton Valley Council, are expected to attend the program scheduled from 2 to 5 p.m.

Rochester Man Leaves Soon for Holland

Named to Direct U.S. Garden Exhibit

By LEE WINBORN

ROCHESTER — Being born with a green thumb is more rewarding with each passing year to internationally famous horticulturist Harm Drewes of Rochester.

Drewes' latest honor is his appointment by the U.S. government to serve as field coordinator and acting director general of the U.S. exhibit at the 1960 Floriade in Rotterdam, Holland.

A native of Groningen, Holland, Kinseli, Drewes (pronounced Drayvis) is looking forward to returning to his homeland on Feb. 1 to assume his new duties.

Before coming to the United States in 1928, the Rochester horticulturist, now 68, had already made a name for himself breeding new varieties of spinach.

He was hired as plant breeder at the old D.M. Ferry Co. (now the Ferry-Morse Seed Co.) and started work at the Oakview Breeding Station near Rochester.

He and his family lived in the white farmhouse at Rochester and Auburn roads for 13 years. Later they moved to 336 Linwood St. where he and his wife now live.

On Dec. 1, 1940, the expert on plant breeding and genetics became superintendent of the 850-acre stock and seed farm. He served in that capacity until his retirement in 1957.

Drewes feels the fact that he traveled so extensively for the company, making contacts at home and abroad, contributed to his selection to oversee the U.S. exhibit in Holland.

For his accomplishments, Drewes was awarded the coveted Silver Medallion Award for Horticultural Achievement by the American Seed Trade Assn. in 1958.

As field coordinator and acting director general of the Floriade, it will be Drewes' responsibility to supervise the thousands of plants in the 3½-acre U.S. plot. The plants were donated by American botanical gardens, arboretums, government agencies, industry and flower societies from all over the country.

The American exhibit, the first of its kind the U.S. has taken part in outside the country, is cosponsored by the Foreign Agriculture Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture and American Horticulture Council.

It will be open from March 25 to Sept. 25.

TO STAY ABROAD

Drewes and his wife plan to stay abroad a year to see their families, renew old friendships and revisit the places they have not seen for years.

The Rochester Kiwanis Club will honor Drewes at its regular meeting Monday night.

At that time, Dr. John Carew of the horticulture department of Michigan State University, will review his old friend's accomplishments. Dr. Carew will be introduced by Rochester Kiwanian Mason Case.

Other distinguished guests will be W. K. Von Weller, Honorary Council of the Netherlands, and R. H. Coulter of the Ferry-Morse Seed Co.

Hayward Plays Final Game for Central on Foreign Court

By BILL CORNWELL

Continued undisputed possession of 1st place or else a forced share of the Valley lead will be at stake for the unbeaten Chiefs in this important contest with the runnerup Saginaw squad.

Coach Art Van Rynin's PCH cagers, Michigan's 3rd - ranked Class A high school outfit in this week's Associated Press poll, enter tonight's duel with a 4-0 league record and an over-all mark of 6-0.

The racehorse Trojans, coached by veteran Larry Laeding, stand 2-1 in the Saginaw Valley and 4-2 altogether.

Their lone league defeat was a 61-59 setback Jan. 8 at the hands of city rival Arthur Hill on the Hillite court. Their latest success was a 60-55 non-conference win over Bay City Handy last Tuesday on the Saginaw floor.

Tonight the Chiefs swing into the 2nd lap of a three-game Valley road trip which will conclude next Friday at Arthur Hill. They opened the journey last Friday with a 56-44 conquest of Flint Northern.

The 1st round of the Valley schedule comes to an end with this game, although Saginaw High still has to meet Flint Central next Tuesday at Saginaw in a contest postponed by last Friday's bad weather.

Pontiac's battle with the Trojans also marks the close of Bill Hayward's prep basketball career. Hayward, a 6 - foot - 2 forward and defensive stalwart, is a mid-year graduate and this will be his farewell appearance in a PCH uniform.

Van Rynin will string along with the same starting quintet that has been all-conquering to date — George Fed and Hayward at forwards, Bill Pritchett at center and Phil Rabaja and Booker Hurner at guards.

Backboard control likely will be the key factor in the outcome of this struggle and Pontiac's chances in that department rest squarely on the shoulders of the 6-2 Fed and the 6-4 Pritchett.

The Trojans boast a formidable rebounding tandem of their own in 6-1 center Ernie Thompson and 6-3 forward Jerry Tillman. Both players also rate among the Valley's leading scorers, Tillman averaging 17.5 points per game and Thompson 14.7.

Dan Broughton, a 6-foot-1 forward, and guards John Ramey (6-2) and John Jacobson (5-10) probably will complete Saginaw's starting lineup. John Bowen, a 6-3 forward-guard just promoted to the varsity by Laeding, may see heavy duty.

The Trojans know they must win this one to stay in title contention and the Chiefs can expect to have an all-out fight on their hands at the 8 o'clock tipoff.

All-Star Pin Points

two things other bowlers are asked to ignore. Despite that I've been a successful tournament shooter for two decades and a few seasons ago I gained the National Individual Match Game Championship. Most people who break the rules that I do are in for trouble, however, for here's what I do wrong:

1. I have finger holes that fit far too tight, so glove-like that when I release the ball spectators can sometimes hear the fingers pop.

2. On the follow through my arm goes to the right instead of toward the pins.

The extra-tight finger holes are not advised because a bowler could easily strain the tendons in his hand with such a fit. It is difficult to prescribe how much looseness should be allowed, but there is general agreement that finger holes should be comfortably snug.

A bowler could encounter great trouble if he lets his right arm follow the same path as mine after delivery. It is only common sense in any game involving throwing to have the propelling arm continue in the direction of the target after the ball has departed.

Eastern Bloc Stands Pat in NFL Commissioner Feud

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—An eastern bloc that has steadfastly prevented the election of Marshall Leahy of National Football League commissioner offered a compromise proposal today that Austin Gunsel be given the job on a one-year "trial" basis.

If this move failed, it appeared unlikely that the bickering owners could decide upon a successor to Bert Bell during the present meeting. In that case, Gunsel would continue to serve as interim head of the NFL's top another year.

Art Rooney, president of the Pittsburgh Steelers, said he would propose the election of Gunsel on a short-term basis when the owners reconvened today.

George Preston Marshall of the Washington Redskins, Carroll Rosenbloom of the Baltimore Colts and Frank McNamee of the Philadelphia Eagles were the other owners behind Gunsel.

George Halas of the Chicago Bears, who has abstained from voting in the last several ballots of this grife-torn election, originally was a Gunsel backer. There were reports that Mrs. Walter Wolfner, president of the Chicago Cardinals, was ready to join the Gunsel camp in an effort to resolve the two-day stalemate.

Nine votes were necessary for the election to the office held by Bert Bell from 1946 until his death last Oct. 11.

Leahy, the home-loving, 48-year-old San Francisco Forty-Niners' attorney, had six or seven votes on the 14th or 15th ballot, depending upon varying sources in this most confused of NFL meetings.

Presiding officer Joe Donoghue of the Eagles announced that the final ballot taken last night just before adjournment at 10:52 p.m. (EST) was the 14th and Leahy had seven votes. Another NFL source told UPI that a 15th vote was taken and Leahy had six votes.

Halas continued to abstain, presumably on the grounds, that he did not wish to alienate any owners in his aim to expand the NFL to 14 clubs by the addition of Dallas and Minneapolis-St. Paul.

That was just about the way the votes were distributed when the owners broke up their meeting Wednesday night after the first eight ballots.

Gunsel, who went into the election Wednesday with at least six supporters, received a single vote on only one ballot yesterday. But his backers had not given up hope of putting over the 50-year-old former FBI agent.

The Eastern bloc insisted it would never vote for Leahy as long as he stipulated that the league office be moved to San Francisco. His opponents also thought his asking price of $75,000 annually for a five-year contract was exorbitant.

In his last year in office, Bell received $80,000, including a bonus and $10,000 annually.

"I think Gunsel deserves the job for at least one year," Rosenbloom said. "And I don't think we should let go all those faithful, experienced aides who have worked for Bert Bell all these years."

Rooney said: "Gunsel has had two major decisions since he's been in office and handled them well. I think we should give him the job for a year and let him prove himself. If it didn't work out, the owners could always elect someone else next year."

DETERMINED — The determined look of Bill Bryce is with good reason. Waterford is lodged in a three-game losing streak going into a home tilt against Pontiac Northern tonight. Bryce has failed to be a steady performer.

Huskies Expect Trouble Trying to Protect Lead

By CHUCK ABAIR

The unbeaten first place team meets the No. 3 quintet in the feature of a full Inter-Lakes basketball schedule tonight, yet the game is rated a tossup.

Such an arrangement, typical of the torrid loop race this winter, will be at the Waterford gym where the Skippers take on Pontiac Northern.

The Huskies have won all four league games as compared to a 3-3 record for their neighbors for an edge that way but a consensus of opinion still keeps the area rivals "even."

A very good reason is the way things went Tuesday when both met outside opponents. While PNH was taking a trouncing from fast Class B team West Bloomfield, Waterford was making an outstanding showing in giving powerful "A" school Highland Park a busy evening.

Northern has dropped all its non-league games and now stands 4-4 over-all after having a win streak snapped at three. The Skippers are locked in the throes of a losing skein which has reached three for a 4-6 season mark.

The teams are fairly even in all other respects although the home cagers will have a slight height advantage featuring rugged 6-3 rebound specialist Bill Bryce.

Bryce, Bob Newman and Ray Robinson have been inconsistent scorers following good starts. Little Ed Stigers has carried the offensive load with Dave Goff coming into his own with 33 digits the last two starts.

Northern has showed good scoring punch at times featuring Bruce Norton, Hard - working Steve Thompson and Mike Fedynik have been close behind while Dennis Vincent concentrates on the boards. Dennis Harbert could provide some help in this department.

The league standings are the most important factor for PNH but the Huskies also have thoughts of revenge. They took an 80-57 lacing at the Skipper gym a year ago and are 0-2 in the cage series.

Improved Walled Lake goes to Berkley and Farmington clashes with Southfield completing the schedule. Victories for Farmington and Waterford would result in another 1st place tie.

The probable starting lineups at WTHS:

Northern		Waterford
Fedynik	F	Robinson
Thompson	F	Newman
Vincent	C	Bryce
Capistrant	G	D. Goff

Bruins Stop Howe but Not Ullman

Stocky Center Fires 3 Goals as Wings Win

Detroit Holds 3-Point Lead in Second Place Over Leafs

DETROIT (UPI)—Just when the Boston Bruins thought they had stopped the Detroit Red Wings scoring punch by stopping Gordie Howe, up popped Norm Ullman to fire a three-goal hat-trick to beat the Bruins, 5-2, last night.

It was the first hat trick in a five-season National Hockey League career for Ullman, and the first by any Red Wing this season.

The stocky, 24-year-old center fired a goal that tied the score at 1-1 early in the second period, and added two more within 35 seconds in the final frame.

His first was a solo effort that came when Detroit was a man short.

The Boston power play let the puck get away in the Detroit zone and it rolled nearly the length of the ice to the Bruin end. Ullman broke away and beat the defenders to the puck and whipped it past Boston goalie Harry Lumley with 1:25 gone in the period.

His next two were almost identical and both were set up by linemate John Mc Kenzie.

Mc Kenzie fed passouts from behind the Boston net to Ullman, coming in on the goal, and Ullman simply fired the puck past Lumley both times. The goals were the 11th, 12th and 13th of the season for Ullman.

Bronco Horvath gave Boston a 1-0 lead at 12:22 of the first period and tied Chicago's Bobby Hull for the NHL scoring lead in the process.

After Ullman's first goal tied it up, Jerry Melnyk put the Wings temporarily ahead with a goal at 3:37 of the second period.

Melnyk's goal, his seventh of the season, came on a rebound from rookie Brian Smith. But Boston's Don Mc Kenney scored midway in the period to make the score 3-2 going into the final frame.

It was a goal by Detroit defenseman Marcel Pronovost that proved to be the winning one, and Ullman got an assist on that one.

Pronovost shot and Lumley stopped it, Ullman shot the rebound from that shot with the Boston goalie prone on the ice.

Ullman, a native of Provost, Alta., now has 36 points for the season on 13 goals and 23 assists and is second high scorer behind Howe for the Wings.

Howe was blanked, but it took some great saves by Lumley, who kicked out 36 shots in the game, to keep him from scoring.

The win gave Detroit a three-point lead over the Toronto Maple Leafs in second place of the NHL. The Wings have a game tomorrow at Montreal against the league-leaders and return home Sunday to face the cellar- dwelling New York Rangers.

Promoter Waits Decision From N.Y. Commission

NEW YORK (AP) — Syracuse boxing promoter Norman Rothschild Thursday awaited a decision by the New York State Athletic Commission on a charge that he had committed an act detrimental to the best interests of boxing.

The commission reserved decision yesterday after Rothschild admitted paying $10,000 to unlicensed Gabe Genovese to obtain the signature of welterweight champion Johnny Saxton for a Sept. 12, 1956 title fight against Carmen Basilio.

"The decision will be announced shortly," said commission chairman Melvin Krulewitch after listening to the upstate promoter's testimony.

Bob-Sledders Want Championship Site

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP) — Competing bob-sledders rested today while American and West German delegations tried to influence the International Bobsledding Federation in its choice of a site for the 1961 world championships.

Tomorrow and Sunday, the competitors settle the world two-man championships on the 1,700-meter Olympic slide with defending champions Eugenio Monti and Renzo Alvera of Italy favored to win for the fourth straight year.

Lake Placid, N.Y., and Garmisch - Partenkirchen, Germany, are the leading candidates for the '61 championships to be awarded today at a meeting of the IBF's World Congress.

PIN SKIPPERS—Pontiac Northern wrestlers gave Waterford a sound trouncing on the mats yesterday, 54-0, scoring eight pins in the process. Two of the pins were scored by Mal Oswalt (left) in the 120 pound class and Jim Miller in the 165 pound division.

Northern Matmen Romp, Vikings and Cranes Lose

A rare shutout posted by the hustling Pontiac Northern Huskies highlighted a busy night for local wrestlers Thursday.

PNH handed Waterford a 54-0 walloping at the Skipper gym scoring nine pins in the rout despite the use of three second-team members. Northern opened with four successive falls and coasted along from there on.

Northern could do no wrong in its event. Coach Bill Willson sent 154-pounder into the 165 match and he responded with a pin as an example.

Mike Cosgrove won a decision and John Van Sickles, competing a heavyweight, scored a pin but they were the only Walled Lake winners. Jack Ormon and Bill Florence had pins to pace Berkley's 34-5 breeze.

Farmington, now 5-1-1, took the 1st nine bouts for a 31-0 lead and held on. Jerry Cassell's 35-second pin for the Falcons featured the match.

Cranbrook suffered its first defeat as against a triumph and tie although Butch Heaverrich, Ted Seyfarth and Lou Beer won.

West Team Must Stop Wilt, Cousy

East NBA All-Stars Favored

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The National Basketball Assn. tonight sends forth a whole bevy of talent, including sensational rookie Wilt Chamberlain, as the East and West clash in the 10th annual All-Star game.

The East is a slight favorite because of the 7-1 Chamberlain of the Philadelphia Warriors and veteran Bob Cousy of the world champion Boston Celtics.

Chamberlain leads the NBA in scoring (1,874 points — 37 plus average) and rebounding and shows promise of smashing virtually all records, Cousy, who has been selected for every game since his All-America days at Holy Cross, holds the most over-all records of the classic (7), including most points scored (122) and most assists (56).

Coach Red Auerbach of the Celtics apparently doesn't mind his East club being cast in the role of favorite.

"I think we have the better club and we should win," Auerbach declared. "If I have the better club, I want to be favored."

West coach Ed Macauley of St. Louis said the underdog rating gives his club the feeling of "everything to win, nothing to lose."

"We can go out and play our game with a relaxed attitude and if we win it would be a pretty good upset over a pretty good ball club."

Macauley feels the East's strength lies in the "tremendous talent" of its backcourt which includes Cousy, ranked by many observers as the greatest ball handler in the game. The East also has the edge in rebounding with Chamberlain and 6-10 Bill Russell of Boston.

There will be no national television coverage of the game, which is being played in Philadelphia's Convention Hall for the first time. Officials expect a capacity crowd of some 13,000 for the 9 p.m. (EST) start. About 3,000 general admission tickets will be sold at the gate.

The West won 124-108 at Detroit last year but the East holds a 6-3 edge in the series.

At the National Basketball Assn. conference table today, Max Winters' plans for his new Chicago franchise and players' plans for a pension fund were discussed.

Neither Minneapolis owner Bob Short nor any other league executive brought up the issue of whether Minneapolis will try to shift its franchise after this season. Short said he would not consider the matter again until he saw the year's final financial results.

League President Maurice Podoloff said the Chicago team, admitted to the NBA last September, will get five of the first nine picks in the annual draft. Chicago will get first choice in the first round and, by agreement of the league's board of governors, will get to pick in that round in place of St. Louis, will get first choice in the second Boston and Philadelphia. Then it will get first choice in the second round.

The only player it won't be able to draft is the University of Cincinnati's All America Oscar Robertson, claimed by the Cincinnati Royals as a territorial choice.

Full Slate for Parochials, Tonight

Shamrocks, Rams at Home

A full slate of games, including two on Pontiac courts, was on tap tonight, as the Suburban Catholic basketball circuit began its final round of action.

St. Michael, currently sharing 2nd place although one game back of St. Benedict (6-1), tangles with a strong Crusader five from St. Clement on the Madison Junior High court.

Shamrocks expect a hot battle from their guests, one of the most improved clubs this year, in the parochial loop. North Siders defeated Crusaders in their opener, 57-39 and are still rated the edge, tonight. Varsity game starts at 8:15 p.m.

On the other side of town, at St. Frederick's gymnasium, the Rams also face a difficult assignment, in Ferndale St. James. However, Rams dumped the Dales 56-46 for their only victory, starting the season, and are favored again this time.

Orchard Lake St. Mary is at St. Rita's tonight, aiming for its 7th straight, and a continuing string of SCL wins. Eaglets are favorites, as are the St. Benedict Ravens, at RO St. Mary. Eaglets dumped Vikings 62-38 in the season's first game.

Shamrocks will go with all but one of their usual starters, Al Tunny has been hit by the flu, and Don Mountain will move in with Art Robak at forward. George Drake, center, Tom Dabbs and Pat Campbell, at guards, complete the opening roster. Jim Hurren, who did a good rebounding job last week, will also see considerable action.

League Leader Ohio State at Purdue Court

MSU-Iowa Is Feature TV Contest Saturday From E. Lansing

CHICAGO (UPI) — League-leading Ohio State, unbeaten in three Big Ten contests on its home court, takes to the road for the first time to face Purdue tomorrow night.

The game is one of three on the weekend card, and it carries the added attraction of displaying two of the nation's outstanding sophomore stars in Jerry Lucas of Ohio State and Terry Dischinger of Purdue.

Lucas has appeared in 12 games, scoring 330 points for a 27.5 average to rank fifth among the nation's scorers. Dischinger is eighth in the overall picture with 344 points in 13 games for a 26.5 mark.

Dischinger, however, has the edge in the conference over his rival. The Boilermaker center is No. 1 marksman in the league, cramming 123 points for a 30.8 average compared to Lucas, who ranks fourth, with 79 points in three games for 26.4.

Dischinger also holds the edge on rebounds, 30.7 points per game to 26 for Lucas.

The Buckeyes ran up a string of three home court victories over Illinois (97-73), Indiana (96-95) and Northwestern (81-64) to grab an impossible lead in a possible sweep toward their first Big Ten title in a decade.

The Boilermakers are 21-8 in league play, beating Indiana and Wisconsin and losing to Illinois and Iowa.

In other games, Iowa will seek its fifth straight conference victory and a possible jump into first place in a matinee TV clash with the Spartans at Michigan State.

The second place Hawkeyes, on the other hand, are the stingiest crew in the league, permitting only an average of 65.2 points to league rivals.

Minnesota will seek its third straight victory and a possible promotion to second place in a game with Northwestern in the Wildcats' floor.

Prep Front

By BILL CORNWELL

Throughout his high school basketball days at Pontiac Central, Harrison Munson always seemed to grow an inch or two in rival Saginaw Valley cities on the eve of a conference game involving the Chiefs.

Every time the Chiefs had an important league game on the way, Munson suddenly shot up to heights of 6-4 and 6-5 through the eyes of newspapers in other Valley towns. At least it seemed that way to PCH coach Art Van Ryzin.

"I never knew a boy could grow so fast," Van Ryzin used to say with a big smile.

"Every time I read something about him, he's an inch taller — 6-3 this week, 6-4 the next and 6-5 the week after that. I wonder what's he been eating."

We must humbly confess that we too were guilty of the same practice on a few occasions until Van Ryzin set us straight. Actually Munson never exceeded 6-2 during his prep heyday.

MUNSON

Now, however, the sports writing profession can honestly call Munson 6-3 without batting an eyelash. Harrison admits he's grown about one inch taller since enrolling at the University of Detroit.

Munson, a scholastic giant whose poorest grade in three years of high school was a single B, has embarked on a promising college basketball career at U-D.

Veteran U-D coach Bob Calihan hints strongly that Munson will gain a starting position on the varsity unit next season as a sophomore and give the already-loaded Titans much additional strength.

The Titan freshman quintet is unbeaten thus far this season in six games and Munson has been the driving force behind the success story. His aggressiveness under the boards has made him the team's No. 1 rebounder and he's averaging close to 27 points per contest.

In the preliminary to Tuesday night's Detroit-Notre Dame contest, Munson fired 27 points and controlled the backboards to spark the Titan frosh to an 81-74 victory over Toledo.

Brendan McNamara, Detroit's freshman coach, has worlds of praise for Munson. "His biggest weakness is defense where he has a tendency to let himself be outmaneuvered," McNamara says. "We'll iron that out in time."

Munson was a mighty big reason for Pontiac Central's great success last season when the Chiefs won the Valley title, reached the semifinals of the state tournament and posted an over-all 18-2 record.

He set a new season rebounding record at PCH by grabbing 277 off the boards in 15 games for an average of 18.4 per contest.

Maybe that's why Munson's height became exaggerated. The way he hauled down rebounds, he probably looked like Wilt Chamberlain to Valley foes.

Oakland Posts Application for AFL Franchise

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—A $25,000 check has been posted with a formal application for an Oakland franchise in the American Football League, it was announced Thursday.

Ed Jackson, East Oakland automobile dealer, said his financial syndicate has mailed the money to the league.

"This puts us very close to the franchise," Jackson said.

The syndicate includes Ernie Nevers, former Stanford star, who probably will be general manager of the Oakland team if the franchise is obtained.

On the basis of handicap, the 40-foot cutter Carousel, sailed by Ash Bown of San Diego, still was the leader. Carousel, the defending champion, had covered 502 miles of the course.

Start Tourney With 67s

Littler, Knight Lead Crosby

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Gene Littler and Dick Knight, leading the storm-lashed Bing Crosby Golf Tournament field by three strokes after the first round, braved Pebble Beach's exposed seacliffs today.

The steady San Diegans shot brilliant 67s over the forested Monterey Peninsula Country Club course, yesterday, enjoying considerably more protection from the blustery winds and driving rain than players venturing out on the Pebble Beach and Cypress Point layouts.

More of the same bad weather was on tap today as a chilling midwinter storm held its grip on the Monterey Peninsula.

Only 31 pros broke par in first-round play of this 72-hole tournament, and 10 of them did it at Monterey Peninsula Club.

Of the 150 pros competing for the $50,000 prize money, 59 struggled in with scores of 80 or worse.

Straight-shooting Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., battling rugged weather at Cypress Point, finished with a superb 71, one under par, to establish himself as a threat to the leaders going into the second round. He moves to Monterey Peninsula Club today for a little protection from the weather.

Trailing Littler and Knight by three big strokes are Paul O'Leary, Bellflower, Calif., Tommy Jacobs, Arcadia, Calif., and Ken Venturi, Palo Alto, Calif.

2nd Weekend on Tap Here in Invitational

Bowlers From Eight Cities Compete; One '59 Champ Eliminated

The second weekend of the 23d Annual Elks Ladies International Invitational bowling tournament starts Saturday afternoon and continues through Sunday afternoon.

Bowlers from Pontiac, Battle Creek, Detroit, Kalamazoo, Grand Haven, Saginaw, Alpena and Muskegon will be taking part the two days at the Lodge 810 alleys.

Competition will run through Feb. 14 before champions are decided.

LaBatt's of Pontiac took the early team lead last week with 2984. The score to beat in doubles is 1272 held by Jean Peiffer and Nancy Tasker of Royal Oak. Heading the singles pack is Eileen Wheeler of Pontiac at 658 with Gladys Deary's 1280 and a 1502 by Hazel Smith the best starters in all events. All but the Smith scores include handicaps. Deary is from Pontiac and Smith Muskegon.

One defending champion has already fallen by the wayside. Alice Havranek took singles (704) and all events actual (1604) honors last year but bowed out early Sunday.

None of the other defenders wil be in action this weekend.

LaBatt's could be hard to catch. The Ale & Pilsener five rolled only one pin short of last year's winner — Ricky's Pizza House. The doubles score has bettered last year's high of 1285 by a Hillsdale duo. A total of 1880 won all events handicap in 1959.

Lead Shared by Two

Waterford Recreation Class B basketball league is all tied up at the top, with Kuhn's Auto Wash and Dickie's Marathon clubs sharing the place with 5-1 records.

Both were winners last night. Dickie's dumped Gabriel Golden Greeks 61-36, and Kuhn's defeated M59 Sunoco.

Top scorers were Casey Cavell, 14, for Dickie's and Ernie Savas with 13 for Gabriel.

More snow and cold is anticipated around the Oakland County area but the weather will likely have little effect on this sector's prep basketball runs with the biggest list of games this season scheduled tonight.

Things should be jumping all around with every league going full steam and several good "outside" contests planned.

Avondale, Birmingham, Holly and Romeo all have crucial games in their respective conference races as they battle to stay in contention for championship honors.

The Yellowjackets, now sharing the Oakland B top rung with Troy, face the difficult task of repeating against strong Fitzgerald at the Spartan gym. Troy has been off form of late should have enough to get by Madison as Lake Orion should beat Oak Park with a good chance of taking over 2nd place.

Birmingham fell off the Eastern Michigan's top perch Tuesday but could move right back up to share the lead by winning at Mt. Clemens. Current pacesetter Port Huron is idle. Ferndale has been coming along fast and should romp over Royal Oak Kimball. East Detroit also gets after a portion of first against Hazel Park.

Holly has rolled along in the Wayne-Oakland waiting in the wings to hopes Clarenceville would get dumped but the surprising Trojans have refused to slip. Their initial setback could very well come tonight at Brighton. Holly will be hosting West Bloomfield. Bloomfield Hills goes to Clarkston and Milford vs. Northville.

Romeo, considered so far to be best of a weak lot in the Tri-County, can take a big step towards the crown by whipping L'Anse Creuse in a 1st place duel. Rochester goes to Lapeer. The latter pair show a combined 1-13 record.

In the South Central, Ortonville should pile up another triumph meeting North Branch. Second place will be settled at least for the time being by the Imlay City at Oxford contest. Millington takes on Maple Grove at home.

Armada puts its Southern Thumb lead on the line against an Anchor Bay five which is "hungry" following two straight setbacks. Almost entertains New Haven. Memphis tries again against Capac and Brown City goes to New Haven.

Elsewhere, Royal Oak Dondero travels to Fordson, Utica vs. Fraser, South Lyon is guest of Boysville, Lutheran East meets Lamphere, Marlette is at Vassar, Royal Oak Shrine matches hoops with St. Patrick, Farmington OLS vs. St. Agatha, Roseville plays at Warren Lincoln and Country Day vs. Hurdn.

Country Day has another tilt Saturday at home with Maumee, Ohio. Cranbrook, still winless, makes its seventh attempt Saturday on the Crane court against Ann Arbor University School.

BIG NIGHT AHEAD — Dick Smith and his Avondale mates have a big night ahead as they play an important Oakland B contest at Warren Fitzgerald. Smith has added steady scoring to Jacket cause this season while still excelling as a playmaker.

Star Trackmen Aid in Arena Christening

LOS ANGELES (AP) — World famous athletes combine talents tonight to christen Los Angeles' new Sports Arena as a site for indoor track and field competition.

This is a brand new sport for Los Angeles, long known for its tremendous support of outdoor track, and a capacity turnout of more than 13,000 is assured.

Waern has run the mile under four minutes six times, and with Herb Elliott of Australia temporarily out of action, may be the best miler in the world.

In field events, Parry O'Brien is a standout in the shot put, Charlie Dumas in the high jump and Bob Gutowski and Don Bragg in the pole vault. Bragg has won two indoor meets this winter with marks of 15-3 and 15-4.

Wife Divorces Segura; He Liked Sports Best

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mrs. Pancho Segura won a divorce from the professional tennis star when she testified that he preferred the excitement of sports competition to home life.

Mrs. Virginia Segura told Superior Judge Elmer D. Doyle yesterday:

"He was never at home more than a month or two out of a year. It wasn't a normal way to live. I asked that he be at home more, that he cut down on traveling and he said he wouldn't—not even if it meant losing me."

Rosary Service Set for Michael Noonan

Veteran golf greenskeeper Michael (Mike) Noonan, for 40 years a well known figure at several area country clubs, is dead. Mike died last Saturday at Riviera, Calif., after a long illness. He was 78.

A rosary service will be held tonight at the Davis chapel, State Ave., at 8 o'clock, followed Saturday by mass at 10 a.m. at St. Vincent de Paul church. Burial will be in Mt. Hope cemetery.

Mike was greenskeeper at Bloomfield Hills from 1919 to 1940, was employed at the Wilson Foundry plant, 1943-45, and spent the next five years at Indianwood CC, as greenskeeper. He was generally regarded as dean of the area's greenskeepers.

Two daughtrs, Patricia Warshuis of Milwaukee, and Alice Ann Garrity, Riviera, Calif., and a son, Mike Jr., Riviera, survive.

A field of 53 jumpers will compete in the two-day event to determine the eight men who will represent the U. S. in the winter Olympics to be held at Squaw Valley, Calif., beginning next month.

Lloyd (Snowball) Severud, coach of the U.S. Olympic ski jumping squad, is confident his 1960 team will be one of the strongest ever to compete in an Olympiad.

"It has to be one of our best because there are so many outstanding men in the tryouts," he said.

Some of the top challengers include Willie Erickson, the current national champion from Iron Mountain; Anstein Samuelstuen of Steamboat Springs, Colo.; Jon St. Andre of Ishpeming, on leave from the Army; and the Kotlarke brothers, Gene and Glenn, of Duluth, Minn.

Samuelstuen holds the national distance record of 310 feet, set at Steamboat Springs.

Maki nearly eclipsed the mark in competition at Pine Mountain near Iron Mountain last winter but his 317-foot effort was ruled a fall because one hand grazed the snow as he touched down.

Severud said he has only one worry—the wind.

Gusts up to 20 miles an hour have hampered practice sessions this week and "we'll have to call it quits for a while if it gets much higher," Severud said.

No distance record is expected in the Olympic tryouts because the Suicide Hill slide is a stern test of form and isn't noted for long leaps.

Each of the 53 hopefuls will make nine leaps — three Saturday morning, three Saturday afternoon and three more Sunday — with the best six efforts figured in the scoring.

Judges consider both distance and form in awarding points and will select the eight-member Olympic squad late Sunday.

American Skiers Early Leaders in Pre-Olympic Test

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland (AP) —Three American girl skiers were leading after the first run of the women's slalom event of the International "white band" ski races today.

The white band is the second in a series of pre-Olympic events in which the American men's and women's teams are taking part.

Beverly Anderson of Mullan, Idaho, clocked the fastest time of 52.7 seconds down the 150-meter drop, 51-gate course with an approximate length of 470 meters on the Salzatrain slope. In second place was blonde Linda Meyers of Mammoth Lake, Calif. with 53.2 seconds, followed by Betsy Snite of Norwich, Vt. with 53.6 seconds.

Canadiens Slam New York, 11-2

By The Associated Press

Gump Worsley, for one, firmly believes that the Montreal Canadiens are using machine guns instead of hockey sticks. And you can't blame the New York goaltender in face of last night's evidence.

The National Hockey League leaders fired 43 shots at Worsley. Thirty-two of them he stopped but 11 got past as the Canadiens put on the biggest scoring display of the season with an 11-2 victory. The previous high of the 1959-60 campaign was Montreal's 9-2 triumph over Chicago.

Phil Goyette paced the Canadiens with three goals but Maurice Richard, his brother Henri, and Bernie Geoffrion each came up with two. Montreal built up a 9-0 lead before Ken Schinkel spoiled Jacques Plante's shutout bid late in the third period. For Goyette, it was his second straight hat trick at home.

Jean Beliveau, who with Marcel Bonin completed the scoring, added three assists to his one goal and moved within one point of the league leaders—Bronco Horvath of Boston and Bobby Hull of Chicago. Each has 57 points.

Horvath got his 30th goal for the Bruins last night to move into a tie with Hull, but the Detroit Red Wings turned back Boston 5-2.

Medical Doctor Is Business Wizard

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Medical student Armand Hammer worked his way through college. By the time he graduated, he had earned a million dollars and was thinking of retiring.

Today, 38 years and many more millions later, he's still going strong and isn't thinking of retiring.

He's recognized as one of the world's greatest salesmen. And he's a doctor who has never practiced medicine.

At 61, he's getting his feet wet in the oil business after amazing successes in international trade, selling art objects in quantities never known before, distilling, raising cattle.

He has two explanations for his successes:

"Grab opportunity by the forelock."

"One thing leads to another."

New York City-born Armand Hammer entered Columbia University, intent on being a doctor like his father.

In his freshman year, he and his brother, Harry, a chemist, formed a business, Harry manufactured industrial chemicals and pharmaceuticals. Armand sold them.

"We expanded while other people, expecting a slump, contracted. We put in big inventories and the demand developed overseas.

"I worked during the daytime and studied at night. I got my lecture notes from my roommates and was able to keep up with my studies (he graduated at the top of his class) and my business.

"By the time I was 23, we were employing several hundred persons. I had a medical degree and a million dollars."

"I got out of college in July 1921," he says. "I was offered an internship at Bellevue Hospital but it didn't start until January. I had read of the terrible famine in Russia and decided to do what I could about it.

"I bought a complete field hospital from the government and went to Russia and did relief work. I found people dying like flies.

"After I had worked among the Russians for a while, I asked them how much grain they needed to get by until the next harvest. They told me. I said I'll bring over boats filled with grain if you will fill the boats with something you want to sell.

"I came back to the United States and arranged a contract with Ford Motor Co. and 38 other American firms to sell their products in Russia. I organized Hammer Industrial Co.

"I found out that the government was selling art treasures from the Czarist palaces. With my brother, Victor, who had studied art, I started buying."

With the art treasures they brought back, Armand, Victor and Harry established Hammer Galleries in New York City and started selling the art objects through department stores. This shocked art circles.

"But we figured that if you give people bargains, they will buy," Hammer says. "We opened what we thought would be a two-week sale at Marshall Field's in Chicago. It went on for two years."

Later on, one thing led to another for Hammer.

"I had 5,000 shares of stock in American Distillery Co.," he relates. "In 1943, the company declared a dividend of one barrel of whisky for each share of stock.

"I bottled my whisky and went to Gimbel's Department Store and arranged for them to sell it. There were customers lined up for five blocks outside the store. The war was on, you know, and whisky was scarce.

"I realized I would soon be out of whisky at that rate. A chemist friend suggested, 'Why don't you make alcohol out of potatoes and use it to make blended whisky?'

"I got government approval and bought a plant at Newmarket, N.H., and potatoes in Maine. It was the first potato alcohol plant in the United States.

Once again, one thing led to another.

"We were selling a distillation by-product as cattle feed," Hammer says. "I established Shadow Isle Farms at Colts neck, N.J., and raised cattle as I could show buyers how good our feed was. We raised Black Angus cattle and had the first million-dollar cattle sale in the country."

Hammer was president of Mutual Broadcasting System for a year and then came to Los Angeles for a visit three years ago.

"An accountant friend told me about the tax advantages of drilling for oil," he says, explaining his latest venture. He invested in Occidental Petroleum Co., a 40-year-old firm with depleted wells, and became its president two years ago.

"When I came along, the company was worth only $130,000," he says. "I agreed to loan the company some money if it would drill wells for itself and for me. I guess I had beginner's luck. Both of the first wells came in — one with an oil field. The company now has a value of 12 million dollars."

"The oil business is romantic," Hammer says. "It gets into your blood. I like it better than anything I have ever been in."

But Hammer likes to dream, too, about the one career he passed up—medicine.

"I think I would have made a pretty good doctor," he grins. "I have always renewed my license to practice every year. If anything ever happens, I'll have something to fall back on."

Grain Futures Drag Continuing Dullness

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market still showed no signs today of climbing out of its draggy trade as prices continued within small ranges.

Old crop wheat contracts had a little buying support but the overall volume of business meager. Other grains and soybeans were slightly lower during the first several minutes.

Israel bought 709,080 bushels of red and hard wheat overnight and West Germany took 800,000 bushels of corn. In addition Turkey asked offers on 3,700,000 bushels of wheat and 4,000,000 bushels of corn for purchase next week.

News Is Good, Stocks Climb

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued its recovery into the second session with key sails and industrials joining "glamor" stocks in the advance early this afternoon.

Trading, however, was about as light as it was yesterday, causing some brokers to say there was little conviction about the rebound.

Stocks had ample justification for a technical bounce, analysts said, and there was a good background of economic news. Corporations were higher than a year ago, auto assemblies moved to a four-year peak and the steel industry had plans for plant expansion.

The Russian and American missile firings focused attention once more on the "science" stocks which were aided further by specific company reports and Wall Street comment.

Pivotal issues were up from fractions to about a point generally while high-priced International Business Machines recouped about 5 points of recent losses.

Ampex and Texas Instruments rose about 2 each. Motorola, ahead more than 3 in early trading following word of record sales, clipped the gain to about a point. Universal Match spurted about 3 points.

Magnavox had news of a British acquisition and Lear a new record in earnings. Both were up a point or so. General Tire gained 2 on talk about possible future developments.

Thiokol, Republic Steel, U. S. Rubber and Texaco were up about a point each, the last named after raising the dividend to 65 from 60 cents.

Rails put on a sturdy performance, Santa Fe and Southern Railway rising about a point and other leading carriers adding sizable fractions.

ARTHUR HEATON

Added to Staff of United Fund

Heaton Gets New Post, to Enliven Interest of Organized Labor

The appointment of Arthur Heaton, 74 Forest St., to the staff of the Pontiac Area United Fund was announced today by Leonard T. Lewis, UF president.

Heaton will assume a new position to broaden and expand participation and active interest of organized labor in support of the UF and its 52 member agencies, Lewis said.

Heaton has been active in community services work for many years.

He has served on the Board of Directors of Family Service of Oakland County and the Oakland County chapter of the American Red Cross.

LONG-TIME RESIDENT

He is also a member of the Oakland County Citizen's Committee of Pontiac State Hospital and the PTA and Institute Planning Committee for Michigan State University Oakland.

The new UF staff member is a long-time resident of Pontiac and has been an employe of General Motors Truck & Coach Division the past 24 years.

"The appointment of Heaton will mean a closer relationship between the Fund and labor in the Pontiac area," Lewis said.

Pontiac General Drops 7 Doctors

Move Aimed at Easing Indigent Patient Load From South Oakland

Pontiac General Hospital has dropped seven doctors from its medical staff in a new move to keep out non-paying patients from south Oakland County.

The seven doctors will have offices outside of the north Oakland County area which the Board of Trustees has decided is the hospital's true patient area.

The offices are in Royal Oak, Detroit and Farmington.

Harold R. Euler, hospital administrator, said "several" of the doctors had been sending to the hospital only indigent patients who are not covered by welfare.

Three of the doctors, he said, had been told the hospital would refuse to admit any more of their indigent patients.

James Clarkston, Board chairman, called for a geographical boundary that would limit the hospital's medical staff to those doctors whose offices are in the northern part of the county.

At his suggestion, the line was drawn along the southern boundaries of Milford, Commerce, West Bloomfield, Bloomfield and Avon Townships.

With the exception of Bloomfield Township and the incorporated communities within it, the area the hospital outlined coincides with the patient area assigned to Pontiac by the Greater Detroit Area Hospital Council.

"We are determined not to be a dumping ground for south Oakland County patients who cannot pay their bills," said Clarkson.

"There are other hospitals nearer those patients than we are and it is to those hospitals that they should go."

The hospital has gone on record stating it will take nonpaying patients only from Pontiac and the north Oakland County patient area.

Nonpaying patients are those who can't afford to pay for hospital treatment themselves and do not qualify for welfare aid.

Sanford Brown to Talk to Pontiac Dems Sunday

Officers for the coming year will be elected at the meeting scheduled for the Fisher Body Division UAW local hall, 821 Baldwin Ave.

MSUO Registers 535 Students

Enrollment Falls Off 35 From First Quarter, School Official Says

Michigan State University Oakland has registered 535 students for the second quarter, university officials have announced.

This is 35 fewer students than were enrolled in the September class of 570.

About 70 of the fall-quarter enrollees have dropped out for one reason or another, but half of their places have been taken by new students.

The percentage of dropouts among the freshmen in the new university's charter class is about 10 per cent, far less than the national level average of 27 per cent during the freshman year, officials said.

The small number of withdrawals is especially unusual, Chancellor D. B. Varner said, in view of the fact that the academic program at MSUO is as rigorous as any in the country.

"The charter class also lacked the psychological benefit of having upperclassmen to serve as living examples that someone no smarter than they could survive a rugged set of studies," Varner said.

Ingham Prosecutor Denies Scott Charge

Ingham County Prosecutor Jack Warren today denied receiving support from the AFL-CIO International Barbers Union for his role in a dispute involving jurisdiction of Michigan barbers.

Warren, acting as a private attorney, filed a suit recently in behalf of a Holt barber. Mark Kinnison, alleging that Robert P. Scott, ex-Pontiac Teamster official, used the State Board of Examiners of Barbers "to accomplish forceful collatment" in the State Barbers Union.

The State Barbers Union and the AFL-CIO group are rival organizations. Scott controls his own union, the International Barbers Union, is behind the suit.

Warren said today, "Any statement that an offer of union financial support was made to me is completely false."

Leroy Sprague, committee coordinator for Local 60 of the State Barbers Assn., claimed Walter Sheridan of the U.S. Senate's McClellan Committee was investigating Warren's part in the dispute.

Warren said he talked to Sheridan on the phone, "and Sheridan asked whether the union was playing any part in Kinnison's case and I denied to Sheridan that there was any connection."

Warren said undue pressure was used by Scott to get Kinnison to join the State Barbers Assn.

Scott, 53, of Waterford Township, said yesterday that Warren previously told four union men he had been approached by a member of Detroit Local 522 who offered financial support for Warren in the Kinnison case.

Scott said he believed Sheridan had contacted two of the four men who told him about Warren's previous statement.

He said the union offer was made "in retaliation against me because the union resents me beating them in court."

Scott last year successfully fought his expulsion from the International Barbers Union in Oakland County Circuit Court. The union contended he was guilty of "dual unionism" and that he belonged to the State Barbers Assn.

"I'm not a member of the association," Scott said.

It was indicated Sheridan's interest in the dispute was a part of the McClellan Committee policy to investigate all rumors of retaliation by unions.

Suffers Burns at Fumes Ignite

Gasoline Fire Brings Warning From City Fire Marshal

A Pontiac man suffered first degree leg burns last night as he filled a blow torch with gasoline from a glass container in the basement of his home.

Russell J. Locke, 60, of 890 Glendale St., was treated at Pontiac General Hospital and released.

Pontiac firemen said that escaping fumes reached the basement hot water heater and ignited.

Locke dropped the container. Glass splinters went into Mrs. Locke's hand. She was treated and released from the hospital.

Pontiac Fire Marshal Charles E. Metz warned area residents against storing gasoline in their homes. He also emphasized that gasoline should not be kept in glass containers.

Another safety precaution, Metz said, was not to transfer gasoline from one container into another.

"When such rules are broken lives are lost," he said.

Held With 3 Others
Teen Girl Carves Initials on 'Good Guy'

DETROIT (AP) — "That's what I get for trying to be a good guy." a 45-year-old widowed father of five children said of the bloody, eight-inch letters admittedly carved on his back by a scissors-wielding teen-age girl.

Earl A. Thomas was reported in good condition today. The initials, "R. W.," slashed on his back from his waist to his shoulder blades were beginning to heal.

Joan (Rusty) Wierda, 17, a high school student, and four young men were held in jail for investigation. Police said she, Gerald R. White, 17, Leslie Saunders, 20, Robert G. Holcomb, 23, and Donald Demankowski, 24, probably would be charged today with either kidnaping or robbery or both.

Officers said the girl told them she carved the initials on Thomas' back because "I hate my father and he (Thomas) looks like him." They said she has the name "Joan Rusty Wierda" carved on the inside of her left leg.

Thomas, who was found lying bloody and battered in an apartment building hallway yesterday, told police he met the girl and Demankowski, identified as a Pittsburgh ex-convict, in a restaurant and agreed to drive them home at their request.

Once at the girl's apartment, Thomas said he was invited in for coffee. He said that when he entered he was attacked by the couple and at least one other man waiting inside the apartment.

Thomas said, Demankowski and the other man took his car keys and $65 and then beat him unconscious. He said that when he came to, the girl and two other men were watching him. He said he had been thrown on a couch and stripped of his outer clothing.

"I waited there for a long time," he said. "Every time I moved or made a noise one of them would kick or slug me."

Thomas said that after about two hours he grabbed a chair and battered his way to the door with it and escaped. An apartment resident heard the row and called police. Officers found Thomas at the foot of the stairs. The girl and her companions were gone but rounded up.

Kalamazoo Safety Group to Help Child Drivers

KALAMAZOO (UPI) — Kalamazoo has a new safety organization.

Richard van Linder was named president of the association, set up at a meeting of 75 parents, teachers and others interested in safeguarding youngsters who operate small motor vehicles.

In Pontiac Saturday Night
Quartets to Harmonize

There won't be any "missing chords" at Pontiac Northern High School tomorrow night as barbershop quartets come to Pontiac for a big one-night stand.

The Pontiac Chapter of the Society for Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, Inc. will present its annual Holiday of Harmony show.

The ever-popular close harmony songfest will begin at 8 p. m. in the high school auditorium.

Some of the country's finest exponents of this type of singing will be on hand. Heading the star-studded show will be The Easteraires.

Hailing from Jersey City, N. J., they were medalists in the 1959 SPEBSQSA international championship contest.

But not all the foursomes are male. Of local interest will be the "Yankee Misses" of Royal Oak.

The quartet is made up of Sue Arabian, Marilyn Hamilton, Marcia Witmer and Alice Farsakian. Representing the Royal Oak Chapter, they are the top women's barbershop quartet in the world.

Many other quartets from Pontiac, from Michigan and the Midwest will appear on the program. Tickets can be purchased at the door or from any local member.

They are also on sale at Hallman Drugs in Waterford Township and Coonan's Drugs in Pontiac.

At Home Tina Misses Charming Italian Lies

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Miss Tina Louise zoomed home from Rome and is back beautifying our streets—but she misses those European wolves and their charming lies.

She knows nothing about Gamble Benedict and her Romanian boy friend — but Tina's own Roman boy friends are just delightful prevaricators.

"You didn't believe what those men told you, did you?" we asked Tina, just back from three months of European picture-making, after a fling in Hollywood.

"I don't believe what any men tell me!" Tina looked over a teacup at us. "But the American men don't lie nicely. You get used to the Italian men calling you 'Treasure' and 'My love'—and with the guitar-playing to boot!"

"No, I didn't," she said, suddenly.

"Now wait a minute!"

"You see some bare legs, arms and bare shoulders—but I had a double who went into the water," she said. "I can't like to you."

You can't imagine how relieved we were after that.

Tina's going back soon to join that American group that includes Ava Gardner, Van Heflin, Anita Ekberg, Brazilian playboy Baby Pignatari and the others. Cost of Living in Detroit Area Down .1 Per Cent

DETROIT (AP) — The cost of living dropped one-tenth of one per cent in the Detroit area between November and December, the U. S. Department of Labor announced today. The drop was the same as that nationwide.

The change will have no immediate effect on the paychecks of auto workers whose salaries are tied by contract to the cost of living index.

The department said the index stood at 124 in December and that figure was .6 above the level of a year ago.

Allan L. Breakie, president of the Michigan Osteopathic Hospital Assn., today cited "Pontiac's welcome and the reception of the program set up here" as factors making the organization's conference a "most gratifying success."

Pontiac is host to the conference for the first time. The two-day session was scheduled to conclude at 3:30 this afternoon.

Administrators and key personnel of 16 osteopathic hospitals in Michigan are participating in a workshop program set up on a panel and question and answer format.

"This type of conference affords the opportunity for all of our employes to have a round table discussion of their problems," said Breakie.

"As a group of administrators, we are realizing the importance of keeping our key personnel abreast of the changes in hospital operations today. We are finding the answers to problems by talking to one another."

Topics covered yesterday included dietary problems, operating room scheduling, responsibilities of nursing directors, proper orientations of new employes, inventory controls and medical records.

Pontiac General Decides to Issue Credit Cards

The credit card has penetrated into the staid realm of the hospital.

The Pontiac Credit Bureau will clear the credit ratings of applicants.

There'll be some advantages for holders of credit cards, said Harold B. Euler, hospital administrator.

Holders won't have to give the hospital any advance deposit, for instance. This can amount to as much as $150 for patients without medical insurance.

More than 90 per cent of the hospital's patients are covered by hospital insurance—80 per cent of them by the Blue Cross insurance written by the Michigan Hospital Service.

Notwithstanding this, Euler believed the cards would encourage public good will towards the hospital and quicker, fuller settlement of hospital bills.

Applications for credit cards will be accepted beginning Monday, he said.

Spears' Wife Admits Contact 2 Weeks Ago

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Dr. Robert Vernon Spears' young wife admitted Thursday night she met the ex-convict and naturopath in Dallas two weeks ago—and that it was William Allen Taylor who died in a Nov. 16 airliner crash.

But she doesn't believe Spears placed a bomb aboard the plane which carried 42 persons to their deaths in the Gulf of Mexico, the 36-year-old woman said in a dramatic radio-television interview.

Here was her answer when she was asked if she believes Spears—a man with a 33-year criminal record—bombed the airliner:

"Regardless of his past regardless of what he has done or said, or what has been said about him, I know he is a very kind person to me, and to others . . . I do not believe he was capable of putting a bomb on a plane."

She said Spears gave his reservation on the flight to Taylor, a 60-year-old long-time friend from Tampa, Fla. He told her that he read the next day that the plane had crashed and seized the opportunity to disappear.

Spears told her of the deception during a secret visit to Dallas two weeks ago, she related. He hoped his young wife and two infant children would benefit from more than $100,000 in life insurance he carried.

"Did he mention Al (William Allen) Taylor?" she was asked.

"Yes, he did," she replied evenly.

"What did he say?"

"He (Spears) said that he

Searchers Use Canaries to Find Deadly Gas

2 African Rock Slides Entomb Men 600 Feet Underground

COALBROOK, South Africa (AP) — Rescue workers carrying canaries to detect deadly gas worked against fading hopes tonight to reach 506 men trapped deep in a South African mine.

A report that rescuers had made contact with some of the entombed miners stirred hopes momentarily. But the report was later denied by the Department of Mines. The report of contact had come from a mine official.

With the denial, hopes of saving the men—six whites and 500 African Negroes—once again sagged.

They were trapped Thursday by two rock slides 800 feet underground at the Clydesdale Colliery, 40 miles south of Johannesburg.

Mixed rescue teams of whites and Negroes worked side by side to get an emergency supply of air to the men. But 20 hours after the miners were trapped the rescuers still had not reached them.

"It's sheer Hell down there," said one rescue worker who emerged from the pit after digging through the night.

Another said that the chances of getting any out seemed hopeless.

The disaster could be the worst in postwar mining history. The worst mining disaster recorded was the loss of 1,549 men on April 26, 1942, at Honkeiko Colliery in Manchuria.

An explosion damaged the mine's surface ventilator and cut off the air supply for a time but it was restored this afternoon.

There was fear of a spread of deadly methane gas.

The mine is operated by Clydesdale.

'Xway Protest Hopeless Act'

Mackie Says County Taxpayers Can't Force Northwestern Extension

Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie says a group of Oakland County taxpayers are contemplating "a hopeless legal action" in their attempt to force completion of a four-lane extension of Northwestern Highway.

A squabble over the expressway, proposed to run from Eight Mile Road to U.S. 24 near Fenton, was brought up in the last of three highway investigations by Sen. John H. Stahlin (R-Belding).

"Stahlin apparently is promoting this nuisance lawsuit to breathe life into his dead horse investigation," Mackie said.

"If the suit is filed — and I have been told Sen. Stahlin advised newsmen it has indeed been filed — I hope he is paying the attorney's fees and is not using innocent citizens and their money," he added.

ASK LEGAL PROCEEDINGS

Through their attorney, Harry D. Wise Jr. of Pontiac, the group of some eight county residents yesterday asked Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams to initiate legal proceedings to compel performance of a 25-million-dollar highway bond contract executed May 1, 1957.

Wise, who said the taxpayers developed homes and businesses in hopes that the expressway would further the growth of the area, claims the contract has not been lived up to.

Mackie, however, told reporters after receiving a letter from Wise that he was living up to the terms of the contract.

Wise has not received any official replies in writing from either Adams, Mackie or Stahlin, all recipients of letters from Wise.

If Adams does not act, the attorney said, he would have no other recourse than to file suit in behalf of the residents.

Mackie said the first phase of

Idea Born During Stroll

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

Had it not been for a hot summer afternoon in 1958, Kirk-in-the-Hills might not be the benefactor today of the world's largest cast bell carillon.

After workmen yesterday had carefully unloaded the 77 bells and mounting equipment in front of the Bloomfield Township Presbyterian church, the Rev. Harold C. De Windt sat back in his office and recalled how a once-in-a-lifetime vision had come true.

"A member of our parish, who wishes his name be kept anonymous, visited me one hot day the summer before last," the Rev. De Windt recalled.

"Since it was so stuffy in my office we decided to take a stroll in the garden around the church. As we were walking leisurely he looked up at the tower and asked what sort of bell went there."

De Windt said he remembered answering it would take more than one.

"Well, why don't we put a set in," the Rev. De Windt said his visitor replied.

Although he tried to talk him out of the potential gift, saying the parish needed funds even more to complete remodeling after a disastrous 1957 fire, the minister said the gentleman insisted.

Workmen unloaded three huge vans which trucked the bells, weighing roughly 66 tons, from New York docks where they had arrived from the manufacturer, Pritsen, Aarle-Rixtel in Holland.

When carillonneur Phillip Steinhaus strikes the keyboard for the inaugural recital, hoped to take place for Easter, the music from the majestic collection is expected to float through the hilly township for about eight miles around.

Besides use for Sunday afternoon recitals and other regular church functions Rev. De Windt said the carillon will have a clock mechanism which will be set to strike every hour during daylight.

Providing this time will be the largest of the 77 cast bronze bells —the bordon bell weighing 11,917 pounds.

Yesterday, while members of the parish and passers-by examined the big and smaller bells glittering in the sunlight, this bell

Living Costs Drop Mite in December

WASHINGTON (AP)—Living costs as measured by the government declined one-tenth of one per cent in December. It was the first drop in four months.

Lower prices for food, clothing and durable commodities were largely responsible for the decline. Costs of services continued to climb.

The labor department announced today that its consumer price index declined to 125.5 per cent of the 1947-49 base period.

This is 1% per cent above the level of December 1958. The December drop wiped out a slight November increase and returned the index to the October level.

Flu Outbreak Is Possible, Health Director Warns

With a cautious eye to the future, Oakland County Health Director Dr. John D. Monroe today issued a warning to area residents to take precautionary measures against a possible flu epidemic already heralded by national health agencies.

He cited also an increase in the number of Pontiac deaths attributed to pneumonia.

With a full week left in the month, seven cases of pneumonia were fatal to Pontiac residents since the first of the year. Four deaths resulted from pneumonia during the month of January in 1959.

Health agencies have pointed to the lung disease as one of the "complications" that can result from flu.

"I'm not alarmed now," said Dr. Monroe. "We have to see what happens the rest of the month. We're over the hump, but we have to wait and be sure."

Although Oakland County and Detroit metropolitan area residents seemed to be hardest hit last week by the flu outbreak, some of which has been identified as the "Asian strain," the "hump" is not past, according to the U.S. Public Health Service.

One official said the flu virus is so widely spread across the nation that further outbreaks are inevitable. A large number of flu cases are expected in the next month, he said.

Dr. Monroe said there have been causes of death identified as flu already this year, but that it was too difficult to determine the exact number.

"Very little immunization has been done," sai dthe health director. "It is possible that we could have an alarming outbreak that is much more severe than we've been having."

TOUGH ON OLDSTER

"Older people don't do too well when they contract the disease, and infants don't, either. They should be isolated from those in a household who have the flu.

"Don't treat the illness lightly. Stay away from crowds for awhile, keep your resistance up with a well-balanced diet and rest. And it is never too late to be vaccinated for the rest of the winter."

The doctor said inoculations could be administered only by family physicians, but that there should be enough vaccine to go around.

"We know that there is more vaccine available now than there was before," he said. "But, prevention is most important. There is no drug that can cure the disease or kill the bug."

Sullenberger Off to Battle Creek

Transfer to VA Hospital for Treatment and Rest Finally Okayed

After five days in the Oakland County Jail, Dr. Neil H. Sullenberger was transferred to the Veterans Administration Hospital at Battle Creek this morning.

VA hospitals at Ann Arbor and Battle Creek had previously denied admittace to Sullenberger, reportedly because veterans have protested that this would constitute preferential treatment for the Pontiac surgeon.

A VA spokesman said, however, that the hospitals' refusals were based on the fact that Dr. Sullenberger's service disability had not been established.

He volunteered to accept hospitalization for treatment and a rest after being faced with a possible arson charge.

Oakland County Prosecutor George F. Taylor said the Adjudication Division of the VA office had decided that the doctor was entitled to treatment.

Sullenberger was an Air Force flight surgeon during World War II. Taylor said the surgeon was entitled to a full disability pension on his discharge but turned it down.

Taylor and Floyd Cremer, director of the Oakland County VA office, said Sullenberger's admission was due largely to the efforts of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Detroit.

Sullenberger agreed to remain in the hospital until discharged by other doctors. He was fired from the staff of Pontiac General Hospital in 1958 on charges of unprofessional conduct.

Pontiac General Sets Up Depreciation Fund

By PETE LOCHBILER

Figures showing a brighter financial picture at Pontiac General Hospital were released today, after the Board of Trustees took what was described as "the biggest single step towards the future success and security of the hospital."

The figures showed that under one system of figuring the hospital made a $1,000 profit last year.

They also showed that for the first time in at least 12 years—perhaps the first time in the hospital history — annual operating costs on a per patient basis dropped.

These happy conclusions came after an appraisal of 1959's financial operation which hospital officials unanimously agreed was "very conservative and accurate."

The Board of Trustees voted last night to reverse a four-year dearth of funds for new equipment and major repairs.

Trustees voted to set up again a cash fund to cover depreciation with a $187,000 goal this year.

It was James Clarkson, Board chairman, who stressed the importance of such a fund.

"Not many publicly owned hospitals can say that they are self-supporting," he said. "But we are going to have to be, because it is obvious that no more funds are going to be forthcoming from the city now that the expansion program is nearly finished."

About $300,000 in accumulated funds for depreciation was thrown into the expansion program several years ago at the insistence of the City Commission.

TIGHT BUDGET

"Since then, we haven't had one dime of our own with which to buy a chair that wasn't budgeted, or major equipment in case of a breakdown," said Clarkson.

"Were still at the zero point. But we hope to start building up depreciation funds now."

In recent years, the hospital has had available to cover depreciation only the $350,000 which the city gave it to buy new equipment and furnishings in connection with the expansion program.

No money has been set aside for such maintenance projects as redecorating, for instance.

Nor had special funds been set aside, Clarkson pointed out, to cover such unexpected — but mammoth — costs as have been involved in the replacement of worn-out heating, electrical and plumbing installations in the hospital's old east wing.

Banking money for depreciation this year will probably result, Clarkson admitted, in a minimum of cash at the fingertips of the hospital's administration.

"We are prepared, however, to let the administration borrow from

Dr. Pauli Hospital Chief

The Board of Trustees of Pontiac General Hospital last night approved the election of Dr. Theodore H. Pauli as chief of staff.

Dr. Pauli, a veteran staff member at Pontiac General, served as vice chairman last year. He was chief of staff in 1949.

Dr. Kenneth Vandenburg was elected 1960 vice chairman; Dr. Everette Gustafson, secretary-treasurer; and Dr. Wellington C. Gibson was named delegate to the hospital's executive committee.

Thought 3 Children Were Trapped in Flames

Firefighter Injured in Orion Twp. Blaze

By LEE WINBORN

An Orion Township fireman was badly injured last night in a heroic attempt to enter a flaming home where he believed three children were trapped. But, perhaps an older woman was also trapped.

Another fireman also suffered a minor injury in the $20,000 blaze that gutted a two-story frame home at 1143 Lang Lake Blvd., a mile east of Lake Orion.

It was later discovered the family was away.

Taken to Pontiac General Hospital with first and second degree burns of the hands, and face was Boyd Maddix, 23, of 172 N. Andrews St., Lake Orion.

Maddix was the first fireman to enter the burning building. The sudden blast of air, caused when he opened the front door set off an explosion that sent him hurtling through the porch door.

His arm was cut when it went through a pane of glass in the door. He was listed in satisfactory condition today.

An auxiliary fireman, Charles Gilmore, 30 of 658 Pleasant Ridge Rd., Orion Township, had to have a piece of foreign matter removed from his eye. He was taken to the Orion Medical Center for treatment.

It was first thought that the three children of the homeowners, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Arnot, were in the house.

CALL FOR HELP

On the scene battling the flames in below freezing temperatures were firefighters from Oxford and Addison Townships, called to assist the Orion firemen.

The children are Paul, 10; Debbie, 5, and Linda, 3.

The next report was that there was a woman, probably the children's baby sitter, trapped inside. Her car was in the driveway.

As soon as the flames and smoke were dispelled sufficiently firemen searched the building and found no one inside.

Orion Fire Chief Jack Caylor said the fire started in a closet under the stairs. The cause is still undetermined.

The Arnots own Paul's Hotel in White Lake Township. Their home is near Bunny Run Country Club.

City Hospital Reveals New Facilities, Rates

Pontiac General Hospital today announced special facilities are forthcoming for both critically ill patients and those who are on the way to recovery.

Special room rates for each type patient should prove to be financially attractive, said Harold B. Euler, hospital administrator.

The Board of Trustees approved the rates last night.

The hospital plans to open two new units, — one for intensive care, the other for mostly self-care—Feb. 1 on the fifth floor of the remodeled east wing.

There'll be lots of registered nurses on duty to attend to the needs of the critical patients in the intensive care unit — one nurse for each five patients, plus nurses' aides.

Extra cost for the intensive care has been set at $15 a day, or about $40 less than it usually costs to hire round - the - clock private nurses.

The extra hospital charge will be covered by many types of hospital insurance — including Blue Cross, whereas most insurance does not cover the cost of private nurses.

In the self-care unit, patients will have to do just about everything for themselves except make their beds. They'll have to walk to the nurses' desk for medication and to the floor kitchen for meals.

The unit is designed primarily for persons recovering from operations or entering the hospital for routine checkups.

Only one nurse—plus aides—will be on duty each shift.

The hospital said it would reduce room rates in the unit by $4 a day per patient.

There are 12 ward beds planned for the intensive care unit. The self-care unit will comprise 20 ward beds, five privates and six semi-privates.

Spears' Wife Knew Doctor Not Dead

(Taylor) was on the plane," she said.

"He was sorry it had to happen to him, or anyone else."

"Did he indicate when the change of plans occurred for Al Taylor rather than Bob Spears in his place?"

"Not any actual time as to when the change was made. . . ," she answered.

Her account was made public here about the same time an Arizona friend of Spears, Dr William A. Turska, told in Phoenix of finding a case of diphtheria cached near a desert cabin where he hid Spears after the crash.

Mrs. Spears denied that her husband planted a bomb in the National Airlines-operated plane or had anything to do with the crash.

Turska, freed after six hours of questioning by the FBI in Phoenix Thursday, said he understood investigators found dynamite fuses in Spears' luggage. An FBI spokesman declined comment.

Both the Civil Aeronautics Board and a Senate Aviation subcommittee have been trying to determine whether bombs caused the Nov. 16 crash and that of another National Airlines plane Jan. 6 near Bolivia, N.C.

506 Miners Trapped; Rescue Hopes Fade

The colliery is 14 miles from Vereeniging, which is 35 miles south of Johannesburg.

First warning of impending disaster came Thursday afternoon when the earth began spilling on the surface near the Clydesdale mine.

Wide cracks later appeared across far - covered road between Sasolburg and Heilbron, towns in the area. Police were forced to divert traffic onto side roads.

Relatives and friends of the trapped workers rushed to the pithead as soon as they received news of the rock fall. They stood in hushed groups as the rescuers prepared to go down into the mine.

After the explosion wrecked the surface ventilator cutting off the supply of air to the trapped miners, the first task facing the rescue teams was to get air through to them.

Russia Gives to WHO

GENEVA (UPI) — Russia has contributed a million rubles ($250,000 at tourist exchange rates) in services and supplies to the UN/World Health Organization's malaria eradication campaign for 1960, it was announced yesterday. Up to 1959, the United States contributed 85 per cent of the total $11,600,000 expended on the program.

Winter Gripping the Country in a Vice of Ice

By The Associated Press)

One of the winter season's coldest spells held an icy grip across the eastern two thirds of the country today. A fresh surge of Arctic air from central Canada dispelled any hopes of immediate general relief.

Most of the southland shivered with other cold spots. The mercury dropped to below freezing along the Gulf Coast and into northwest Florida.

Miami was chilled with one of the coldest mornings of the season with a reading of 40 above. It was 27 at Tallahassee and 32 in Jacksonville. New Orleans and Atlanta each reported a frosty 27 and it was 29 in Mobile, Ala.

The coldest weather was in the northern plains as the new supply of cold Canadian air moved into the north central region.

Roberts Sponsors Probe Request on Obscene Mail

Rep. Farrell E. Roberts (R-West Bloomfield Township) has sponsored a resolution passed in the House of Representatives yesterday calling for a five-member committee to probe distribution of obscene materials in Michigan.

Roberts acted after the Legislature heard an appeal from Mrs. Cecil M. Harden, special assistant to Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield.

She said Michigan was the first state to have its Legislature meet officially with a Post Office Department representative on the problem.

According to Mrs. Harden, the distribution of obscene literature is a half-billion dollars a year racket and is usually aimed at young sters.

Ohio Crash Claims 2nd County Victim

An auto crash near Wilmington, Ohio, Jan. 13 claimed its second victim from Royal Oak last night.

George Lehman, 79, of 223 Rhode Island Rd., died of injuries received in the accident that killed his wife, Mary, 77, while they were en route to Florida for a vacation.

Their automobile left U.S. 68 about four miles north of Wilmington, swept through a ditch for 300 feet and hit a tree, according to Highway patrol officers in Ohio.

The car caught fire, but passing motorists quickly put out the blaze. Mrs. Lehman, however, was already dead from a fractured skull.

Pontiac General Finances Show Big Improvement

the depreciation fund during tight periods," he said.

Harold B. Euler, hospital administrator, warned that the cash shortage is still serious.

The hospital will go into the red tomorrow in issuing its bi-weekly payroll, he pointed out. It had to borrow $11 months last year to meet the payroll.

The Board of Trustees had anticipated funding depreciation in cash when it adopted a 1960 budget predicting a small profit this year.

In comparison, the hospital ran nearly $175,000 in the red last year if depreciation is figured as an operating cost.

No funds were banked last year to cover depreciation — figured at $174,000.

"Nevertheless, depreciation is a real operating expense and we must include it in our figures to show the hospital's true financial picture," Clarkson insisted.

Still unaudited figures put the hospital's 1959 operating loss at $174,762 — with depreciation figured as a loss.

This compares with an operating loss of $334,160 in 1958, again figuring in the depreciation that was not covered by cash.

The hospital budget for last year had anticipated an operating loss of $45,000, not including depreciation. In this respect, the hospital did $46,000 better than it anticipated.

Last year's operating losses were offset, partially, by a $12,-600 reduction in the $100,000 debt it owes the city and $20,700 in public donations.

Euler described the reduction in per-patient-day operating costs as "a really significant accomplishment."

The operating cost for 1959 averaged out to $43.35 per day for each patient treated. This was 31 cents less than the cost in 1958.

In comparison, between 1950 and 1957 the cost rose steadily, from $21.46 to $39.63.

With the exception of last year, the rate has risen steadily over the 12 years the hospital's books have been audited by its present auditors.

"It probably went up continually during those years for which we have no audited figures," said Euler.

Three big factors are behind the more economic operation of the hospital last year, Euler said: Higher occupancy rates, lower ratio of the number of employes per patients, and "punch-penny" thrift throughout the hospital.

Last y ar's occupancy averaged nearly 94 per cent, way above the average 85 per cent the year before. The medical staff and the community as a whole are responsible largely for the increased occupancy, Euler said.

The hospital began a cutback in the employe ratio in 1957.

Euler expressed hopes that the hospital could maintain or even lower its level of operating costs this year, although he stressed that such a feat would be difficult.

the project, to run from Eight Mile road to U.S. 24 (Telegraph road) was scheduled to start next year.

'HASTILY PLANNED'

Wise countered by saying the entire project was supposed to have been finished by last year.

Mackie told Stahlin's committee last week the project was hastily planned by the late Republican Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler.

The planned Walter P. Chrysler expressway and a new interstate route connecting U.S. 16 and Telegraph will run roughly parallel to the proposed Northwestern extension Mackie said, thus doing away with any need for an immediate construction start.

Meanwhile, he added, bondholders on the issue are collecting interest.

Chance Played Role in 'Kirk' Bell Story

seemed to attract the most attention.

It is actually the "father of the carillon." On it inscribed alongside a large crush:

"To The Glory of God—Kirk in The Hills Anno Domini 1959."

On the other side: "Boy—A Faithful Man Shall Abound With Blessings."

On four of the sister bells of the largest one are dedications, supposedly to the donor's wife and three children.

The entire collection, including the mammoth job of installing the bells in the 187-foot tower, cost around $110,000, Rev. De Windt said.

A section of scaffolding was already in place yesterday as crews prepared to lift the bells and mounting equipment into the tower with a 135-foot boom crane. Some stones from the tower will have to be removed, Rev. De Windt said.

The Carillon contains more bells than any other in the world. It took 14 months to manufacture.

In actual tonnage, however, it ranks third behind those at the Riverside Church in New York City and the Rockefeller Memorial Chapel at the University of Chicago.

"We listened to the tone of all kinds of bells made all over the world — English bells, French bells, and Dutch bells," Rev. De Windt recalled after the donor gave the go ahead on the project.

Stereophonic recordings of carillons in this country made of all types of bells were studied to determine the choice.

"I was thought that those from Holland had the finest quality," Rev. De Windt, The Netherlands company, which this year is celebrating its 300th anniversary in business, was given the contract.

* * *

"Furthermore," Rev. De Windt said, "All the equipment to operate the carillon is manufactured in this country, so if anyting goes haywire we won't have to go far for repairs."

BIRMINGHAM — A Bloomfield Township man has been named the first brigadier general in the history of the Michigan Marine Air Reserves.

GRADUATED IN 1930

He was graduated in 1929 and became a second lieutenant in 1934. He was the only Marine private ever put on flying status as such.

Brig. Gen. Frederick E. Leek, Commander of Marine Air Reserve training, presented general's stars to Klenke.

Contemporary prints—the works of some 40 artists—will be displayed beginning Sunday at the Little Gallery, 915 E. Maple St., with the opening of the Contemporary Printmakers Show.

The exhibit will continue through Feb. 27.

Presenting a cross-section of present-day tendencies in the graphic arts, Peggy DeSalle, owner of the gallery, said many famous names are included in the group of artists but "emphasis is on youth and experiment rather than reputation."

Eight countries will be represented in the show—the Americas, Europe and Asia—she said.

ENGLAND, U. S. PREVAIL

"England, which is traditionally a stronghold in the fine print field, and the United States, where a great surge of interest has developed in the past few years, are especially well represented," she said.

The list also includes printmakers whose origins lie in Chile, China, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, Russia and Switzerland.

Mrs. Joseph F. Page

Service for Mrs. Joseph F. Page, 74, of 539 Townsend St., will be held tomorrow in Paoli, Pa. at 2 p.m. in the Church of the Good Samaritan.

Burial will also take place in Paoli.

Mrs. Page died Wednesday at her home after a short illness.

She was a member of Christ Church Crashbrook and on the Board of Directors of the Girls' Friendly Society.

Surviving are her husband, a daughter, Mrs. Pierre G. Fuger, Grosse Pointe; three sons, Joseph of Fairfield, Conn., Clemson, Gladynne, Pa., and Richard of Birmingham; 15 grandchildren and a great-granddaughter.

Local Trucking Firm Fined in U.S. Court

The White Owl Express Co., Inc., 212 Osmun St., yesterday was fined $1,000 in a Grand Rapids Federal Court for having faulty equipment on its trucks and failing to require its drivers to maintain daily logs.

U.S. District Judge W. Wallace Kent sentenced the company on eight counts of faulty equipment and two counts of the daily log violations.

NEA Resumes Its Original Name

NEW YORK (NEA)—There's a new, yet old, name in the nation's newspapers this week — Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

It takes the place of one which has appeared on newspaper features for nearly 40 years — NEA Service, Inc.

"There are two principal reasons for the change," said Herbert W. Walker, NEA President and General Manager. "First, we wish to emphasize the words 'newspaper' and 'enterprise' because we believe that newspapers must be more enterprising than ever to compete today.

"Second, we want to avoid confusion with the 'other NEA's' — the National Editorial Assn., the National Education Association and others."

The spelled out version of the familiar NEA goes back many years to the organization's origin as an arm of Scripps newspapers.

NEA's founder was Miss Ellen Scripps, sister of the newspaper pioneer, E. W. Scripps. By day she was a proofreader for her brother's newspapers in Cleveland, later Cincinnati.

By night she prepared a short feature consisting of about 10 brief, interesting items which she called "Miscellany."

BROADENED

This became so popular with readers of the expanding Scripps group that "E.W." instructed his executives to develop this into a broad scale feature service.

This service, known as Newspaper Enterprise Assn., originally served only the Scripps and Scripps-Howard papers. Eventually the demand fom other newspapers for this service became so great that a separate corporation was launched to service newspapers generally. This new service was named NEA Service, Inc.

ELLEN SCRIPPS

NEA now reassumes the original name in the belief expressed by its executives that "Newspaper Enterprise is a worthy cause to which we are dedicated and that there should be no confusion with other organizations."

The services of Newspaper Enterprise Assn. now go to more than 1,000 newspapers in the United States and Canada, as well as to many in foreign lands.

(Editor's Note: The Pontiac Press has been a subscriber to the NEA Service for many years.)

Under the executive editorship of Boyd Lewis at NEA editorial headquarters in New York, the service has pioneered in practical newspaper color, created a world-wide service of "News Behind the News, News Ahead of the News and News Plus Significance," done creative research for women's pages and won many awards, including that for John Strohm, first accredited American reporter to tour Red China.

Another NEA activity of prime importance is the production of comics. Under the supervision of Ernest Lynn, feature director, the comics have increased in number to 16 daily strips and panels and 19 Sundays.

The trend lately has placed emphasis on humorous comics with modern art styles. Typical of these are NEA's three newest additions, "Tizzy," "Morty Meekle" and "Short Ribs."

Committee to Stay Eying Top Secrecy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee set up four years ago to investigate unwarranted secrecy in government has survived an attempt to scuttle it.

That was proposed Wednesday by Rep. Robert R. Barry (R-NY), who called the subcommittee "a waste of time and money."

The parent Government Operations Committee turned aside Barry's proposal by approving a report of the subcommittee, headed by Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif).

Jackson Firm to Expand, Add Electronic Line

JACKSON (AUPI) — Mechanical Products Corp. said today it plans a quarter-million dollar expansion of its facilities here and that the expansion over a period of time will add "a couple hundred" persons to its employment total.

The new facilities will be built to handle a new line of electronic equipment, described as microwave and communications equipment.

President's Time Too Limited for Formosa Visit

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The Nationalist Chinese Foreign Office said today it had been informed President Eisenhower would only visit Japan on his wing through the Far East in June.

Announcement that Eisenhower would stop in Japan on his way home from the Soviet Union raised hopes in Nationalist China, the Philippines and South Korea that he would also visit those allies of the United States.

Foreign office spokesman James Shen told a news conference the U.S. government had informed the Nationalist Embassy in Washington the President's time would be too limited for him to make other stops.

One effect of the democratic system is that only the party not in power understands how to run the government . . . Fishing tackle is getting more elaborate and expensive each year. In fact, it's getting hard to tell which end of the pole has the sucker. —Earl Wilson.

Her Mom Didn't Tell Her, Says Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: How much water does a girl who weighs 85 pounds and is five feet tall need in a bathrub? She thinks she has to have it up to her neck. She acts like she is the only one in the family who has to take a bath. When she gets through, no one else has any hot water. Please put this in the paper. She won't listen to me. She is 12.

ABBY

DEAR MOTHER: If your daughter at 12 "won't listen" to you on such a minor matter, prepare yourself for some major disappointments. Children should be taught that "sharing" with members of the family is expected. If your daughter doesn't learn this soon, she'll probably be in hot water up to her neck all her life.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been married for 21 years. While she was away visiting relatives for two weeks, I found a picture of a strange fellow hidden under the paper lining of a drawer. I became very upset and angry and wrote her a letter (I included this picture) and I told her she needn't bother to come home. I figured she would not have this picture hidden unless she was hiding something else. She called me up when she got my letter and said this fellow had been dead for years and that I had a lot of nerve accusing her of wrong-doing. Who is right?

ANGRY HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND: You had no right to suspect the worst and accuse her of wrong-doing before hearing her explanation. And to tell her "she needn't bother to come home" was about as fair as a judge sentencing a defendent without hearing the case.

DEAR ABBY: What makes you women so nervous?

CHARLIE

DEAR CHARLIE: You men!

DEAR ABBY: I am a waitress with so many "beefs" a Yorkshire pudding would go well with me. In the first place why do people call me "Girlie"? I am 54 years old, I have "Irene" embroidered on my uniform pocket, but people still call me, "Girlie." Also, what can I do about old men who can read the menu without their glasses but put them on to see my legs better?

OFF MY CHEAT

DEAR OFF: If you are 54 and people still call you "Girlie" and old men put on their glasses to look at your legs, don't get yourself in a stew. You have nothing to beef about.

Champ Pie Baker Uses Some Different Tricks

Oakland County's Champion Cherry Pie Baker for 1960 is 15-year-old Bonita DeSota of Madison Heights. She was judged best by a panel of six judges at the annual contest in Berkley on January 16.

Bonita will represent the county at the state contest at Grand Rapids, Jan. 28 and 29, sponsored by the Michigan Cherry Commission, Michigan Cherry Producer Association and Michigan Canners and Freezers Association.

Here is Bonita's prize recipe:

Cherry Pie Filling

1 tablespoon cornstarch
4 cups cherries (drained)
1 cup cherry juice
½ teaspoon red food coloring
1 teaspoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup sugar
1 teaspoon almond flavoring

Pie Crust

2 cups sifted flour
1½ teaspoons salt
⅔ cup salad oil
⅓ cup cold water

Heat cornstarch on stove, adding slowly the cherry juice. Bring to a boil stirring constantly. When thick and clear, add sugar. Remove from heat and add coloring, lemon juice, almond flavoring and salt. Let stand while making crust. Mix in cherries when ready to fill pie. Bake 30 to 40 minutes at 400 degrees.

Mix flour and salt. Pour oil and milk into one measuring cup (but don't mix), add all at once to flour. Stir until mixed. Press into smooth ball.

Give Nature Little Time

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. "As a teen-ager of 14 I have a problem I would like to have you answer. My measurements are hips, 36 inches, waist 26 and bust 32. At my age it seems to me that my bust should be bigger. What do you think? Are other girls my age worried about such things?"

A. Yes, many girls your age are worried about a bust 'problem.' Neither they nor you should be. Few girls have their full share of curves by the age of 14. Just give nature a little more time. Your hips and waist are in perfect proportion.

Q. "I start high school soon and I have very hairy legs, like a monkey. What should I do?"

A. Either use a depilatory on your legs to melt the hair away, or shave them.

Q. "Are there any medicines that will remove dark blotches from the face? I have distracting blotches across my nose and over my upper lip. I have had these as long as I can remember."

A. I do not know about medicines which will remove blotches but I suggest that you see a skin specialist. He will be able to advise you. There are procedures which might be employed.

Q. "Could you please give me an exercise for slimming the hips? My husband thinks I should lose some weight but I don't think I am overweight. I am 22 years old, 5 feet 5 inches tall and weigh 128 pounds. My bust measures 34 inches, waist, 26 and hips 36. What is your opinion?"

A. My opinion is that your husband is hard to please. However I am sure that it is pleasant for you to have him take an interest in the way you look. If you have a medium frame, your weight is just right. If you have a very small frame you might lose a few pounds, around six to eight. Your measurements are in good ratio.

Q. "Is it dangerous for a 12-year-old girl to diet?"

A. A girl of this age needs many more calories than a mature person. Of course a well-balanced diet is also most important to her. If she needs to lose weight, I suggest that she do so under the direction of her family physician.

Half-Hour Wait Long Enough

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I'm in the dog house and am hoping you can get me out. Last week my best girl and I were invited to dinner at the house of a young married couple — mutual friends of ours.

As we both work at opposite ends of town I was to meet her at a certain place at a certain time and we would then go to dinner together. I waited a good half hour and there was no sign of her. As it was getting late I went ahead, thinking perhaps she had misunderstood about our meeting place and went directly to the house.

When I arrived she was not there but came in about fifteen minutes later very much perturbed at me for not having waited. (She was unexpectedly detained at the office. She claims that I should have waited for her at the appointed place until she arrived. How long is a man supposed to wait for a woman

Answer: A half hour is all that a woman should expect a man to wait for her. In your case, it would have been wise to have telephoned her office to see if she had left, and receiving no answer you should then have called your dinner hosts to ask if she had arrived. Having been told that she was not there, you should have explained the situation to them and asked them what they wanted you to do.

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband's brother and his wife are having a party in two weeks to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary. We of course have been invited. However, I am in mourning for my mother who died four weeks ago. Will you please tell me if it will be proper for me to go to this party?

* * *

Answer: You may certainly go to a small family celebration in honor of your husband's brother's 25th anniversary, but not if it is to be a real party to which friends outside of the family are invited.

County Sets Road Mark, Bucks State Death Trend

By DICK SAUNDERS

Oakland County set a modern traffic record in 1959.

In a year when the state death toll showed an upward trend, Oakland recorded its lowest since World War II.

There were 82 traffic deaths in the county, according to unofficial totals recorded throughout the year by The Pontiac Press.

The previous low was 88 in 1949. The toll was 96 in 1958.

Traffic officials in Lansing say that records for years before 1945 don't make an accurate comparison. Due to gas rationing and fewer cars, the tolls for war years were low.

A lack of cars and drivers also affected prewar years, although a rather frantic "last fling" before the war saw 150 killed during 1941 in Oakland.

While most of the credit goes to county law enforcers, authorities praised motorists for their cooperation.

"If the man behind the wheel doesn't heed our warnings and practice more driver safety, all the enforcement in the world won't hold the toll down," said Sheriff Frank W. Irons.

Sgt. Lorenz Ahlgrim, commander of the Pontiac State Police Post, said: "It looks like we should be raising the woman behind the wheel."

Statistics show that 56 traffic victims in 1958 and 1959 were males, while the number of female fatalities dropped from 30 in '58 to 16 last year.

"We must continue to improve in order to say we're doing a good job," asserts Irons.

Ahlgrim agrees. "If we merely have one good year, and then another bad year we haven't really accomplished traffic safety. Now we have a good trend to point to."

STEADY DECREASE

Since 1955 the toll has dropped each year. In 1955 there were 140 killed in county traffic. The next year the toll dropped to 114, then to 103 in 1957.

"The continual ice storms of January and February made it almost impossible to speed," said Irons. "The death toll for those two months was half of what it was for the preceding year."

There also were fewer multiple fatality accidents in 1959. The 96 deaths in 1958 resulted from 80 accidents. Last year's toll of 82 came from 78 accidents. There were four double fatals. No accidents resulted in more than two deaths.

One accident in 1958 killed four, and there were three triple fatals and seven double fatals.

In 1958 pedestrian fatals topped the list with 25 deaths. Second high was accidents in which vehicles struck a fixed object, contributing 24 deaths.

Last year the latter category claimed 28 lives while pedestrian accidents killed 17.

For both years the largest group of victims was between 20 and 30 years old. This age group numbered 16 dead in 1958 and 19 last year.

The number of children killed dropped to 8 last year. It had been 13 the preceding year.

Of the nonpedestrian victims in 1959, 52 were driving and 13 were passengers. In 1958, there were 42 drivers and 29 passengers among the county traffic victims.

The average age of 1958's traffic victim was 39 as compared to 36 for last year's average age.

The ages of last year's victims totaled 2,955 years. Figuring a lifetime expectancy of 70 years per victim, they still had a total of 2,785 years to live.

Weekend days were still the worst accident periods. In 1958 there were 18 accidents and 23 deaths on Saturdays.

Last year Sunday was the worst day, totaling 19 accidents and deaths. Friday was next with 15 fatal accidents, but two were double fatals.

Most traffic victims were killed between 6 p.m. and midnight in both years. That period claimed 32 victims in 27 accidents during 1958.

In 1959 the evening hours claimed 29 lives in 27 accidents.

DECEMBER WORST

The worst month last year was December when 12 were killed. The best was February with 3 deaths.

In 1958 the low of 3 was in June, while three months—April, July and December—were high with 11 deaths each.

Most notable during the past year was the fact that traffic deaths reached double figures in only one month, while double figures were reached in five months during 1958.

In other classifications last year, 16 were killed in head-on collisions, 11 in rear-end smashups, 5 when their cars overturned, 5 at intersection collisions, and 4 in car-train accidents.

Five were killed while driving or riding on motor scooters or motorcycles.

HOW THEY DIED

The worst toll affected the driver who lost control and struck a tree. Such collisions killed 16 persons.

In similar accidents, 6 died smashing into abutments, 3 hitting an embankment, 2 a utility pole, and one man when he ran his motorcycle into a store.

Attempting to hold the 1960 death toll to a lower figure will be a big job, law enforcers say. Continued vigilance on the part of police and sheriff's deputies, and more careful driving are stressed.

"We point to the lack of multiple fatals last year with pride," said Sgt. Ahlgrim. "While we boast of nothing worse than a double fatal, there is more to be said.

"Our first complaint of the new year was a triple fatal on the Dixie. I hope it's our last," he said grimly.

MESC Head Named to New 1-Year Term

DETROIT (AP) — J. T. Hammond of Benton Harbor has been elected to a new one-year term as chairman of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

Hammond, a Republican representing management, has been a member of the commission five years. He is a former state senator.

Other commission members are Republican Chester Cahn of Birmingham and Democrats Walter Campbell of Muskegon and Tom Downs of Detroit.

Syracuse has blanked Pitt twice in their 15-game football series. This year the Orange won 35-0.

Queen Elizabeth I made a fortune as a speculator in the 16th Century coal market. She "obtained" a lease of the rich Durham coal fields for only 20 pounds a year.

Rail, Bus Use Seen Increasing

Up During Series of Airline Crashes; but No Connection Definite

NEW YORK (AP) — Some ground transportation facilities today reported increases in passenger traffic in the period of the recent series of plane crashes. But they saw no definite connection between the two factors.

"We have noticed in the past couple of weeks some increase in long-haul travel," a Pennsylvania Railroad spokesman said. "This is generally true throughout the system.

"But whether it's attributable to the trouble the airlines have been having, or to the inclement weather prevalent in some parts of the country, we are unable to determine. It may be a combination of both."

A spokesman for the New York Central Railroad said, "we've had some increase in the last two or three weeks," but "it always happens at this time of the year whenever there's a stretch of bad weather."

Snow in the Midwest and fog in the East have interfered with some airline operations in recent weeks.

"Whenever the weather is bad, people come back to us," the New York Central spokesman said. "It's typical."

However, the Pennsylvania spokesman noted that in the past the railroad had noted that ordinarily after a plane crash, or a succession of airline difficulties, "we experience a temporary increase in travel."

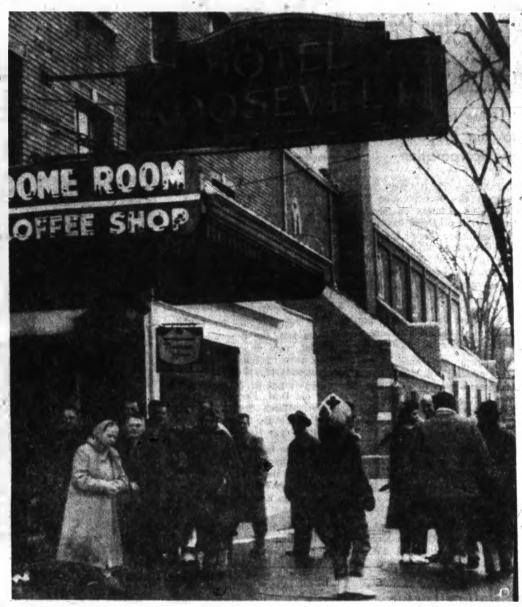

Signe Hasso Settles Suit Over Sons Death

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Signe Hasso has settled a $150,000 suit she brought over the traffic death three years ago of her son Henry Hasso, 22.

Terms of the settlement were not made public. It was reached at a pre-trial hearing in Superior Court Thursday.

Miss Hasso's suit named two of her son's friends as defendants. Her complaint said Hasso was riding in an automobile driven by Louis K. Wills, 29, and owned by John Brascia, 26, when it struck a power pole in the San Fernando Valley Jan. 15, 1957.

SCHOLLE JOINS STRIKERS — AFL-CIO workers struck and started picketing Thursday at Hotel Roosevelt in Lansing, home of Union officials and Democratic legislators. AFL-CIO Michigan President August (Gus) Scholle was staying at the hotel at the time and joined the picket line for half an hour after checking out. Scholle, not shown here, told pickets: "Get out your long underwear and boots and keep walking." Federal and state mediators are on hand today trying to straighten out the dispute over a new contract.

Tries Out White Algae Flour

She Bakes Cookies for Space Men

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—A 11-year-old girl popped a batch of sugar cookies into the oven and came up with, guess what? Sugar cookies for space men.

Green algae, a kind of seaweed, long has been considered a likely source of food and oxygen for space travelers. One drawback: The stuff looks like scum and tastes like hay.

Boeing scientists tried blanching some under fluorescent lights. It came out looking sort of like flour.

Encouraged, Pilgrim asked Vicki to do the baking bit. She used algae in place of flour—green algae in one batch, white algae in another.

* * *

Williams Meeting With Experts on National Topics

LANSING (AP)—The third in a series of conferences to bring Gov. Williams up to date on national issues will be held Jan. 29-31, on disarmament and peace.

The governor announced yesterday seven experts on the subject have been invited to meet with him at the Inglis House Conference Center on the University of Michigan campus.

The earlier sessions were devoted to economic development and education. They were held at Mackinac Island and at Haven Hill Lodge near Milford, with the governor paying expenses.

Williams told newsmen that although he sees little chance of landing a spot on the Democratic national ticket he plans to keep plugging.

He said he will continue efforts in behalf of a liberal platform, steer clear of personalities in state primaries and is undecided on a seventh term candidacy.

Open Way for Ann Arbor to Annex Township Site

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A Circuit Court decision has cleared the way for an election on the proposed annexation to the city of 117 acres in Pittsfield Township.

Visiting Circuit Court Judge William J. Weipert Jr. dismissed two cases yesterday which had contested the election. He said alleged "health hazards" in the area overshadowed the question of whether the procedures in calling the election were correct.

Airline Crash Survivors Continue Trip by Boat

MONTEGO BAY, Jamaica (AP) —Two survivors of the Colombian airliner crash that killed 37 persons said today they will make the last leg of their jinxed trip to Ecuador by ship.

"I don't care if we have to go to Greenland to get a ship," said Ian Kelton, 47, a United Nations official traveling with his wife to a new assignment in South America.

The Keltons, two Dutch passengers and five crew members escaped virtually unhurt in the crash early Thursday of the Avianca airliner from New York. All 17 Americans aboard were killed.

* * *

There had been one interruption before the Super-Constellation of the Avianca Colombian National Airline met tragedy on this Caribbean holiday island. A coughing engine forced a 10-hour stopover for repairs in Miami. Four passengers quit the plane there.

Kelton, a Scotsman attached to the U.N. Food and Agricultural Organization, told relatives who telephoned that he and his wife were "both excellently all right."

"We are not even blemished," he said. "But I think we might dispense with planes for a while. We intend to wait for a ship if we can get one to Ecuador. We might have to go to Miami to get a ship. I don't care if we have to go to Greenland."

When the big plane overturned and exploded in flames after setting down here, the Keltons wrenched their way out through an emergency exit and splashed through a swampy lagoon to safety.

"There was absolutely no warning of the crash," said Kelton.

Jack Benny's Daughter Sheds Second Husband

She testified Thursday that her husband allowed his parents to support them. She was granted $400 monthly alimony for five years or until remarriage and $300 monthly support for their two children.

* * *

Avon, Holly, Maples and Romeo Seek 1st Place

Bowlers From Eight Cities Compete; One '59 Champ Eliminated

The second weekend of the 23d Annual Elks Ladies International Invitational bowling tournament starts Saturday afternoon and continues through Sunday afternoon.

Bowlers from Pontiac, Battle Creek, Detroit, Kalamazoo, Grand Haven, Saginaw, Alpena and Muskegon will be taking part the two days at the Lodge 810 alleys.

Competition will run through Feb. 14 before champions are decided.

LaBatt's of Pontiac took the early team lead last week with 2944. The score to beat in doubles is 1272 held by Jean Peiffer and Nancy Tasker of Royal Oak. Heading the singles pack is Eileen Wheeler of Pontiac at 659 with Gladys Deary's 1860 and a 1502 by Hazel Smith the best starters in all events. All but the Smith scores include handicaps. Deary is from Pontiac and Smith Muskegon.

One defending champion has already fallen by the wayside. Alice Havranek took singles (704) and all events actual (1804) honors last year but bowed out early Sunday.

None of the other defenders wil be in action this weekend.

LaBatt's could be hard to catch. The Ale & Pilsener five rolled only one pin short of last year's winner — Ricky's Pizza House. The doubles score has bettered last year's high of 1265 by a Hillsdale duo. A total of 1880 won all events handicap in 1959.

Lead Shared by Two

Waterford Recreation Class B basketball league is all tied up at the top, with Kuhn's Auto Wash and Dickie's Marathon clubs sharing the place with 5-1 records.

Both were winners last night, Dickie's dumped Gabriel Golden Greeks 61-36, and Kuhn's defeated M59 Sunoco.

Biggest Prep Slate Tonight

More snow and cold is anticipated around the Oakland County area but the weather will likely have little effect on this sector's prep basketball fans with the biggest list of games this season scheduled tonight.

Things should be jumping all around with every league going full steam and several good "outside" contests planned.

Avondale, Birmingham, Holly and Romeo all have crucial games in their respective conferences as they battle to stay in contention for championship honors.

The Yellowjackets, now sharing the Oakland B lop rung with Troy, face the difficult task of repeating against strong Fitzgerald at the Spartan gym. Troy has been off form of late should have enough to get by Madison as Lake Orion should beat Oak Park with a good chance of taking over 2nd place.

Birmingham fell off the Eastern Michigan's top perch Tuesday but could move right back up to share the lead by winning at Mt. Clemens. Current pacesetter Port Huron is idle. Ferndale has been coming along fast and should romp over Royal Oak Kimball. East Detroit also goes after a portion of first against Hazel Park.

Holly has rolled along in the Wayne-Oakland waiting in the wings in hopes Clarenceville would get dumped but the surprising Trojans have refused to slip. Their initial setback could very well come tonight at Brighton. Holly will be hosting West Bloomfield. Bloomfield Hills goes to Clarkston and Milford vs. Northville.

Romeo, considered so far to be best of a weak lot in the Tri-County, can take a big step towards the crown by whipping L'Anse Creuse in a 1st place duel. Rochester goes to Lapeer. The latter pair show a combined 1-13 record.

In the South Central, Ortonville should pile up another triumph meeting North Branch. Second place will be settled at least for the time being by the Imlay City at Oxford contest. Millington takes on Maple Grove at home.

Armada puts its Southern Thumb lead on the line against an Anchor Bay five which is "hungry" following two straight setbacks. Almost entertains New Haven, Memphis tries again against Capac and Brown City goes to New Haven.

Elsewhere, Royal Oak Dondero travels to Fordson, Utica vs. Fraser, South Lyon is guest of Boysville, Lutheran East meets Lamphere, Marlette is at Vassar, Royal Oak Shrine matches hoops with St. Patrick, Farmington OLS vs. St. Agatha, Roseville plays at Warren Lincoln and Country Day vs. Huron.

Country Day has another tilt Saturday at home with Maumee, Ohio. Cranbrook, still winless, makes its seventh attempt Saturday on the Crane court against Ann Arbor University School.

BIG NIGHT AHEAD — Dick Smith and his Avondale mates have a big night ahead as they play an important Oakland B contest at Warren Fitzgerald. Smith has added steady scoring to Jacket cause this season while still excelling as a playmaker.

Star Trackmen Aid in Arena Christening

LOS ANGELES (AP) — World famous athletes combine talents tonight to christen Los Angeles' new Sports Arena as a site for indoor track and field competition.

This is a brand new sport for Los Angeles, long known for its tremendous support of outdoor track, and a capacity turnout of more than 13,000 is assured.

Perhaps the most interesting event on the schedule is the mile run—11 times around the boardwalk—featuring lean Dan Waern of Sweden and a 19-year-old Oregon sophomore, Dyrol Burleson.

Waern has run the mile under four minutes six times, and with Herb Elliott of Australia temporarily out of action, may be the best miler in the world.

In field events, Parry O'Brien is a standout in the shot put, Charlie Dumas in the high jump and Bob Gutowski and Don Bragg in the pole vault. Bragg has won two indoor meets this winter with marks of 15-3 and 15-4.

Wife Divorces Segura; He Liked Sports Best

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mrs. Pancho Segura won a divorce from the professional tennis star when she testified that he preferred the excitement of sports competition to home life.

Mrs. Virginia Segura told Superior Judge Elmer D. Doyle yesterday:

"He was never at home more than a month or two out of a year. It wasn't a normal way to live. I asked that he be at home more, that he cut down on traveling and he said he wouldn't—not even if it meant losing me."

Judge Moore Speaks to County Optometric Unit

Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore yesterday addressed the Oakland County Optometric Society in Ferndale, speaking on juvenile delinquency, its problems, causes and effects.

Judge Moore said juvenile delinquency could be greatly reduced if more attention were paid to the problems of youth at all levels of society.

The jurist also complimented the society on its fine work in its clinic at the Oakland County Children's Home, Pontiac.

You may have discovered that except for some pastry and hot-roll mixes many of the packaged mixes for home baking cost almost the same as a similar product made from scratch in your own kitchen.

Glamour Issues Spark Market

NEW YORK (UP) — Blue chips and "glamour" issues advanced in fairly active trading today as the stock market pushed its recovery into the second straight session.

* * *

The electronic, missile - rocket section, still under stimulation of the Russian and American missile launchings, posted gains of 1 to 3 points, roughly.

Steels, motors, oils, chemicals, aircrafts and nonferrous metals were among the gainers.

Brokers saw the advance as a technical recovery aided by news of expanding outlays for steel plants, a gain in carloadings over a year ago and the highest auto assemblies in more than four years.

U. S. Steel rose more than a point while gains of about a point were posted for American Motors, Republic Steel, U.S. Rubber, Westinghouse Electric and Southern Railway. U.S. Gypsum rose more than 2.

Motorola, which had record sales, rose more than 3 claims of better than 2 were posted for Texas Instruments and Ampex. Magnavox, which has acquired control of a British firm, was up more than a point. Lear gained about a point following a published report of record new orders.

To Face Jan. 28 Assault Charge After Gunplay

Martin Moore, 40, of 180 Raeburn St., released from Pontiac General Hospital Wednesday, demanded examination Thursday in Commerce Township Justice Court on a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder.

Justice John C. Weick set the pretrial hearing for Jan. 28. Moore was released after posting a $1,000 bond.

Moore is charged with assaulting Elmer C. Bolin, 40, of the F. Grand Traverse Rd., Commerce Twp., Jan. 12.

Sheriff's deputies said an argument between the two erupted into gunplay.

Both were hospitalized with gunshot wounds. Bolin said Moore attacked him and he acted in self defense.

MSUO Registers 535 Students

Enrollment Falls Off 35 From First Quarter, School Official Says

Michigan State University Oakland has registered 535 students for the second quarter, university officials have announced.

This is 35 fewer students than were enrolled in the September class of 570.

About 70 of the fall-quarter enrollees have dropped out for one reason or another, but half of their places have been taken by new students.

The percentage, of dropouts among the freshmen in the new university's charter class is about 10 per cent, far less than the national level average of 27 per cent during the freshman year, officials said.

The small number of withdrawals is especially unusual, Chancellor D. B. Varner said, in view of the fact that the academic program at MSUO is as rigorous as any in the country.

The charter class also lacked the psychological benefit of having upperclassmen to serve as living examples that someone no smarter than they could survive a rugged set of studies," Varner said.

Adult Education Fund to Halt in 12-18 Months

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — The Fund for Adult Education will go out of business in 12 to 18 months and the education division of the Ford Foundation will take over, it was announced Thursday. Since 1951 the fund has received Ford Foundation grants totaling 45 million dollars to use independently in developing liberal education for adults.

Religion, TV Not Mixing

Shows Sugary, at Poor Times

By LOUIS CASSELS

A few years ago, religious leaders were hailing television as the greatest evangelistic medium in history.

They saw in TV a matchless opportunity to reach the homes of millions of people who never go to church.

Today, when church leaders talk about television, it is in tones of frustration, disappointment and bewilderment.

They are unhappy with both the quantity and the quality of religious programs.

The National Council of Churches recently surveyed television stations from coast to coast to find out how much free time they were providing for religious programs. The average station was devoting less than 2 per cent of its total broadcast time to such programs.

Moreover, religious programs are usually scheduled at off-hours, when they are least likely to command a large audience. A large proportion are broadcast on Sunday morning — when one half of America is at church and the other half is sleeping late or reading the papers.

POOR USE OF TIME

If religious television programs were extraordinarily good, they might be able to overcome these handicaps (and TV stations might be willing to give them more and better time.)

But the sad fact is that churches, by and large, have not made very good use of the little bit of TV time available to them. "With few exceptions," says Paul Molloy, TV columnist of the Chicago Sun-Times, "religious programs are poorly produced, poorly promoted and poorly presented." Not many churchmen would argue with that verdict.

The vast majority of religious broadcasts—perhaps 90 per cent of the total — are straight "devotional" programs. The TV camera is simply focused on an actual church service, or on a preacher delivering an inspirational talk in a TV studio.

That kind of program may appeal to pious shut-ins who are unable to attend church. There is no evidence that it has much attraction for the "unchurched masses" that TV was supposed to reach.

In trying to get away from the devotional format, churches have experimented with dramatic shows and panel programs. Some of these have been very good. The National Council of Catholic Men won critical praise last fall with a three-part dramatization of the Mass, "Frontiers of Faith" on NBC and "Look Up and Live" on CBS, both sponsored by the National Council of Churches, have frequently offered superb programs.

But it takes time, talent, imagination and money to produce a good dramatic program. Churches have not always been able or willing to invest these resources in their programs. And they have learned that a dull show remains a dull show, even when it has an underlying religious theme.

It may be that churches are going to unnecessary trouble in attempting to dress up religious programs with dramatic or topical interest.

The record shows that the most successful religious programs on television have made no pretense of offering entertainment. They have been forthright exercises in religious education.

BISHOP SHEEN, PROFS TOPS

Another is the tremendously popular college-level religion class conducted over station WMAL-TV in Washington, D. C., by Prof. Edward W. Bauman of American University. His first course last year on the life and teachings of Jesus was such a big hit that it is being followed up this year with an equally serious and scholarly treatment of the Old Testament.

Prof. Alexander Miller of Stanford University has won similar audience response in the San Francisco area with a solid series of lectures on Christian beliefs.

Prof. Miller sees no need for churches to disguise or sugarcoat their message in order to get it across to television audiences.

"The church's main concern—on television as anywhere else—should be Biblical theology," he said. "We can do a good job at this sort of thing. And people are interested because Biblical theology is exciting stuff."

5 New Shows Bowing In TV Turnover Ahead

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — The next seven days is the opening of TV's "little season," with five new shows bowing in. It's a time to watch the program schedules carefully because some time changes are occurring.

There are other items of interest, too. Tonight, for instance, there is the Mort Sahl-Eddie Cantor special, "The Future Lies Ahead," on NBC (8:30-9:30 p.m. Eastern Standard Time), while on CBS' Desilu Playhouse there is the delayed "Meeting at Apalachin," dramatic treatment of a real life meeting of big time criminals which was postponed at the request of authorities until after conclusion of the trials of the real participants (9-10 p.m.).

Bing Crosby's annual golf tournament with a pack of stars and a lot of pros, will take place at 5:30 p.m. Saturday on ABC. And NBC starts its weekly hour-long series of public affairs shows, "World Wide 60" at 9:30 p.m. that night with a look at "Castro's Year of Power."

On Sunday at noon CBS presents the first of its "TV Workshop" series with "The Brick and the Rose." While Ed Sullivan on CBS is presenting an Oriental type show, highlighted by the Japanese Takaranuka Dancers, NBC will exhibit another in the "American Heritage" series — "Destiny, West," about John Charles Fremont (both 8-9 p.m.).

Kate Smith comes back with a regular weekly song show at 7:30 p.m. Monday night on CBS. The big mix - up is Tuesday, when NBC's Startime permanently moves up an hour to 8:30 p.m. with "The Wonderful World of Jack Paar." Meanwhile, the Arthur Murray Party goes into the 9:30 p.m. time spot, followed by "M Squad," taken out of NBC's Friday night schedule.

"Be Our Guest," the new George de Witt musical variety show starts on CBS at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, and on Thursday night the same network will show the first of a series of revues at 10 p.m. — this one with Mickey Rooney as star.

Playhouse 90 Cast Good, Script Bad in 'Treason'

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI) — Playhouse 90, a program whose grip on the CBS-TV schedule seems to grow weaker every time it wins an award, closed out its latest phase with a production guaranteed not to win any awards.

The last in the regularly-scheduled Playhouse 90 offerings was David Davidson's adaption of a Maurice Edelman novel called, "A Dream of Treason."

PLAYS DIPLOMAT

The diplomat, played by Richard Basehart, had to leak a secret American policy paper to the French as part of a delicate diplomatic maneuver Basehart didn't want any part of the stunt but he succumbed to expediency when his superiors held out the lure of a much-wanted overseas assignment that would help his emotionally taunt wife regain her health.

The diplomat maneuver backfired. The fellows who put Basehart up to it were, unfortunately, caught in an airplane crash. This left Basehart holding the old mail pouch, for no one seemed to be around to support his admittedly implausible story.

Although he was given an opportunity to lie and thereby avoid the treason rap, Basehart held out for the truth. In fact, he got rather stuffy about it, even though nobody believed him.

At this point, a provocative theme was held out to us. And then the story took a quick run out powder on the theme when a witness who was supposed to be dying regained consciousness to support Basehart and give us our happy ending.

What would truth have been worth if all hands had perished in that plane crash?

The cast, which included Leora Dana as an alcoholic, tortured wife, lovely Susan Oliver as a love-starved teenager, and Alexander Scourby as a business-like security officer, did an excellent job.

Basehart gave a strong performance and behaved creditably even while obliged to don a trench coat and walk down some dark corridors.

Playhouse 90 now moves into a catch-as-catch-can status. I'm looking forward to better productions than this Thursday night finale.

THE CHANNEL SWIM: Bob Denver, who portrays Dobatnik Maynard Krebs on CBS-TV's Dobie Gillis show, visits the Perry Como Music Hall on NBC-TV Wednesday, March 9. (To get a shave?) . . . Tuesday Weld, of the same series, portrays a teenage novelist on the Friday, Feb. 12 episode of 77 Sunset Strip on ABC-TV.

Masquerade Party, knocked off CBS-TV this week, will turn up on NBC-TV, in living color, starting next Friday, Jan. 29, former M Squad slot. Same cast: Bert Parks, emcee; Lee Bowman, Sam Levenson, Audrey Meadows and Faye Emerson on the panel.

Ann Blyth, James Donald, Louis Hayward and Torin Thatcher are the leads in "The Citadel," the film adaption to be seen on ABC-TV Friday, Feb. 19 . . . Robert Young will be the host and star.

French Call Off Ban on Flights Over Sahara

PARIS (AP)—The French government Thursday night cancelled a ban on air flights scheduled to have gone into effect today over a large section of the Sahara where French atomic blasts are planned. No reason was given. A previous government announcement said there would be several test alerts.

At Home Tina Misses Charming Italian Lies

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Miss Tina Louise zoomed home from Rome and is back beautifying our streets—but she misses those European wolves and their charming lies.

WILSON

She knows nothing about Gambie Benedict and her Romanian boy friend — but Tina's own Roman boy friends are just delightful prevaricators.

"You didn't believe what those men told you, did you?" we asked Tina, just back from three months of European picture-making, after a fling in Hollywood.

"I don't believe what any men tell me!" Tina looked over a teacup at us. "But the American men don't lie nicely. You get used to the Italian men calling you 'Treasure' and 'My love'—and with the guitar-playing to boot!"

Tina—whose figure got famous in "Li'l Abner" and "God's Little Acre"—filmed "The Siege of Syracuse" with Rossano Brazzi, who plays Archimedes.

"In it, I swim in the nude," she announced.

"You really did?" We couldn't believe it.

"No, I didn't," she said, suddenly.

"Now wait a minute!

"You see some bare legs, arms and bare shoulders—but I had a double who went into the water," she said. "I can't like to you."

You can't imagine how relieved we were after that.

Tina's going back soon to join that American group that includes Ava Gardner, Van Heflin, Anita Ekberg, Brazilian playboy Baby Pignatari and the others. "I will miss the charming lies and the flowers and the plants," she repeated. "It is wonderful to be lied to by somebody who fills your house with flowers. That is passe here in Amreica. The flowers, not the lies."

When Kim Novak and Dick Quine flew back to Hollywood, she had her Siamese cat, Pyewacket, aboard, with special permission . . . Sir Douglas Fairbanks is going into the bowling business in England.

EARL'S PEARLS: TV's a wonderful thing. You can sit in your living room and see all the things your neighbors can't afford.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Eli Wallach never drinks too much at parties because he knows when he's had enough. His wife tells him.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Tommy Leonetti found an easy way to diet—he eats only what his wife can cook . . . That's earl, brother.

Report Aneurin Bevan in Very Weak Condition

LONDON (AP)—Aneurin Bevan, the Welsh miner who rose to be Britain's No. 2 Socialist, was reported "very weak" today in his fight for life after a major abdominal operation.

Mr. Bevan is very weak," said a medical bulletin issued this morning on the 62-year-old deputy leader of the British Labor Party.

Charge Jewelry Firm in Detroit Racket

DETROIT (AP) — Police accused three officials of a Detroit jewelry firm yesterday of duping housewives of thousands of dollars.

They were named in warrants charging conspiracy to violate the false advertising law and conspiracy to cheat and defraud.

Recorder's Judge John P. O'Hara signed the warrants, climaxing a two-month investigation of the activities of Viking Enterprises, Inc., by police and the Better Business Bureau.

Det. Sgt. John McConnell said the women answered newspaper ads asking for "women to fill our jewelry orders from home."

The women, he said, were sold "sample jewelry kits" for $400, although, he said, the kits were worth only about $100. McConnell said the women were told parties would be arranged by Viking at their homes and they could sell the jewelry at these parties.

But McConnell said the women complained that the parties were few and those who did sell jewelry said they had trouble collecting commissions from Vikings.
