Flood Victims Returning Home

Six Drowned in Texas Flood

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Six persons drowned today when tremendous rains flooded hundreds of persons from their homes in Dallas and a northern suburb, Garland.

One of the victims, drowned in his late-model Cadillac was W. L. Perryman, president of General

American Oil Co., an independent oil firm operating in six states and Canada.

Firemen axed through the car's back window to free a woman from the automobile which had been swept into a swollen creek, but Perryman drowned.

The body of Dr. Alfred W. Harris, a physician, was found during the morning.

Also discovered was the body of Judy Ritchie, 22, an employee of a bank.

One body remained unidentified at a late hour.

COUPLE KILLED

Robert Buck and his wife Adrienne, of San Antonio, who moved to Texas recently from East Point, Ga., both drowned when their car was swept from a road into a creek.

A policeman was hospitalized with a leg injury suffered in a rescue attempt.

The downpour, which had been falling at about an inch an hour, subsided at dawn and Mayor Eric Jonsson said "We think five is going to be all the loss of life, but if there's more rain we'll have more trouble."

PEOPLE SAVED

Firemen in boats plucked people from trees, rooftops, and the roofs of cars in flooded expressway underpasses.

"We had 15 people rescued by fire department boat in the White Rock Creek section in northeastern Dallas," a police spokesman said.

He said people in the Bachman Lake Area, north of Love Field, left their houses and climbed trees to await rescue.

Water got into the Ford Motor Co. assembly plant in northeast Dallas, damaging electrical motors and forcing the plant to close, idling 1,500 workers.

The new record of turbulent weather came as rivers and lesser streams throughout the eastern half of Texas poured flood waters toward the sea. Rains up to 21 inches had flooded wide areas, particularly to the east of Dallas.

All residents of the Underwood Trailer Court in North Dallas were evacuated. Water knocked two dozen trailers off their foundations and tumbled them about. The lot, situated on a creek, has 60 mobile homes on it.

Yanks Smash Big VC Camp

Complex Destroyed as Defenders Flee

SAIGON (UPI)—American infantrymen today swarmed over a Viet Cong supply complex believed to be the largest in South Viet Nam and destroyed it and tons of food and supplies with white phosphorous grenades and cigarette lighters. The defenders fled across the border into the sanctuary of neutralist Cambodia.

A battalion of the 1st Infantry Division sweeping the Communist "War Zone C" along the Cambodian border found enough food, livestock, and uniforms to outfit about six Communist regiments. They also seized motorized sampans used for transporting the equipment.

The camp was located beside the Da Ha River about 75 miles northwest of Saigon in the 1,000-yard wide buffer zone along the border where B52s do not bomb for fear of hitting Cambodia.

In Saigon, a military spokesman said 35 U.S. servicemen were killed in action last week and 547 wounded, a substantial drop from the previous week when 89 were killed and 635 wounded.

The Viet Cong suffered heavily during the same one-week period ending April 24 when 694 killed and 89 captured.

S. VIET TOLL
South Viet Nam lost 93 soldiers killed and 33 missing and other allied forces in the war reported 32 killed and 36 wounded.

Air Force officials disclosed today that the vital Mu Gia Pass "was put out of commission" again by giant B52 bombers which dumped thousands of pounds of explosives on it during a raid Tuesday.

ICY DRIP—This is an icy drip that did not drop. When temperatures dipped below the freezing point yesterday afternoon; raindrops formed icy droplets and spring was nipped in the bud.

Weatherman Cheered (?)

Three cheers for the weatherman. Just when everyone thought the freezing rain accumulating on trees and wires late yesterday afternoon would glaze highways, he raised the temperature.

Occasional rain with thundershowers today will end tonight, the weatherman reports.

Partly sunny and warmer is tomorrow's forecast and sunny with not much change in temperature is Saturday's prediction.

Temperatures will fall to 36 to 40 tonight, then climb to highs of 45 to 53 tomorrow.

Showers falling now and then throughout the day and night yesterday measured 5.0 of an inch in rain.

A reading of 40 was the low recording in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a. m. By 1 p. m., the mercury had skipped up to 52.

GM 1st Quarter Profits Below Record of 1965

NEW YORK (AP)—Profits of General Motors Corp. for the first three months of the year dropped $42 million below last year's record-breaking first quarter of $636 million, the world's largest manufacturer said yesterday.

The company, No. 1 automaker in the country, listed net income of $594 million of $2.07 a share.

Last year's record income was equal to $2.22 a share.

Sales rose to $5.7 billion from $5.6 billion in the first three months last year.

Frederic G. Donner, chairman, and James M. Roche, president, attributed the lower earnings to reduced worldwide unit sales, expenditures for capital improvements and other costs.

Worldwide factory sales totaled 1,979,000 units, down from 2.02 million in 1965. U.S. factory sales fell 31,000 units from last year's 1,588,000.

Seized After Bodies of Family Are Found

NEW YORK (AP)—A former mental patient was booked by police on a charge of homicide today in the fatal slabbings of his wife and their five children.

Police said the prisoner, Jose Torres, 23, had made a statement but they refused to disclose its contents.

Asst. Chief Inspector Joseph McLaughlin declined to say what kind of weapon was used. None was found at the scene.

Torres was seized several hours after the bodies of his family were found yesterday by a building superintendent.

The mother, Maria Rivera Torres, 24, was found on the floor of the family's apartment in Brooklyn. The youngest child, Jose Jr., a year old, was on the bed.

TWIN BEDS

In a second bedroom, containing twin beds, two children were found in each bed. They were Harry, 5, Yvette, 4, Maria Antoinette, 3, and Nancy, 2.

The victims, all in night clothes, died of multiple stab wounds.

Police said the apartment was neat despite the violence of the slayings.

$2,800 Blaze Damages House in Pontiac

Fire broke out in an upstairs bedroom, causing an estimated $2,800 damage early today to the home of Ray Fadden, 48 W. Stratmore.

Firemen said the blaze apparently started in a wall near a closed hot-air vent. No one was injured.

ALIVE AFTER ORDEAL — A length of 1½-inch pipe still impales truck driver Joseph Page as Yonkers, N.Y., police ease him from the cab of his truck last night. Page's tractor-trailer veered off the New York State Thruway and rammed a fence. The pipe whipped through the windshield, piercing Page in the lower abdomen, and plunged into the back of the seat. Page is reported in critical condition.

TYPICAL SCENE—This scene was typical at hundreds of homes along Lake Erie in Michigan and Ohio yesterday as high winds drove water over retaining walls. Hardest hit in the Toledo area were the Point Place and Lost Peninsula sections battered by Palm Sunday tornadoes in 1965.

Damage High for Lake Erie Landowners

Up to 2 or 3 Feet of Water Is Trapped by Protective Dikes

By The Associated Press
Thousands of refugees streamed back today to lakeside homes flooded yesterday by gale force winds which swept Lake Erie waters over the shore.

Up to two or three feet of water remained trapped behind protective dikes in some areas and many homes remained without electric or gas service, shut off by utility companies as a precaution in flooded sections.

Damage ran into hundreds of thousands of dollars along a 60-mile section of lake front stretching from near Detroit to 40 miles east of Toledo.

Up to 7,500 persons were evacuated from shore areas during the flooding yesterday.

Showers and thunderstorms drenched the Toledo area today, creating problems for authorities trying to pump floodwater out of areas where it was trapped by dikes built to keep Lake Erie waters out of low areas.

Once the water was smashed through or over the floodwalls by the 40-to 50-mile-an-hour winds it had no way to rout.

WINDS SHIFT

Winds died overnight to about six miles an hour and shifted to the southeast. It was a stubborn and fierce wind from the northeast which caused the flooding in effect reversing the flow of Lake Erie and showing its waters onto beaches along the southwest shore of the lake.

The Wheatley-Leamington area of Ontario, Canada, also was hit, and several small buildings were washed away.

Such northeasterly winds usually are not strong enough for long enough to cause flooding, a Weather Bureau spokesman said. Yesterday's situation, he said, appeared "the worst we've ever had." The lake level was back to normal today.

Most residents of flooded lowlands found refuge with friends and relatives. Some went to emergency quarters in schools and churches.

Others retreated upstairs to wait out the high water.

No fatalities, nor missing persons, were reported.

2 Bills Push Budget Well Over $1 Billion

LANSING (AP)—The House voted to spend some $744 million for schools and welfare yesterday — voting a 16 per cent hike for one and a 30 per cent boost for the other over this year's budget.

The school aid and social welfare measures are two of the largest single appropriation bills before the Legislature.

The Legislature's tentative budget stands well over $1 billion — as compared with Gov. George Romney's recommended $944.9 million.

These and other bills, however, are certain to be trimmed as the House and Senate work on each other's spending bills.

The $605.8-million school aid bill—an increase of $68 million—was approved 97-2 after several hours of debate and attempted amendments.

Only $257 million — and $65 million of the increase—count toward the total budget figure.

RESTRICTED FUNDS
The rest of the money represents restricted funds, over which the Legislature has no discretionary power.

These funds, including sales, liquor and cigarette taxes, go automatically into the School Aid Fund.

The welfare bill grew by $44.1 million—to $139.1 million—before it left the House on a 97-2 vote.

The money, however, is merely being transferred from one bill to another.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN

The funds, to finance the State Crippled Children's Commission, will be cut from a Senate bill.

The House-approved school aid bill increases the basic allotment factor.

It raises the per-pupil allocation from $255 to $280.50 per year. It is partially offset by an increase in the deductible mileage factor.

E. Java Volcano Erupts; Major Disaster Looms

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Streams of lava from an explosive eruption of Mt. Kelut volcano bore down today on a densely populated area of Eastern Java, and a major disaster threatened, reports from the scene said.

Thirteen deaths were reported, but the toll was expected to climb as communications with the stricken area were re-established.

China Readies Third N-Test

May Be the Largest and Include H-Blast

WASHINGTON (AP)—Red China is preparing for a third atomic explosion which "may be larger and may produce greater radioactive fallout than the previous two," the State Department reported today.

In making this statement, intelligence, press officer Robert J. McCloskey said it is "possible" that the next Chinese nuclear blast might include a hydrogen explosion.

But, McCloskey said, it will still be a long time before Communist China develops a "deliverable thermonuclear (hydrogen) weapon."

Red China's first atomic device was set off Oct. 16, 1964, and the second was last May 14. The first was reported about the size of the 20,000-ton TNT equivalent bomb dropped on Hiroshima, Japan in World War II, and the second was described as somewhat larger.

The State Department spokesman did not predict just when China's third nuclear test would be made. Other U.S. authorities have suggested it would come within a few weeks.

Georgia Educator to Speak to Pontiac School Group

A Georgia educator and member of the Atlanta Board of Education will be featured speaker tonight at the annual banquet of the Pontiac Education Association.

Dr. Horace E. Tate, associate professor of education at Fort Valley State College, Fort Valley, Ga., is scheduled to address more than 300 teachers at the PEA ceremony at Pine Knob Ski Resort in Independence Township.

Dr. Tate earned his doctorate degree from the University of Kentucky.

In 1963 he was appointed by Georgia Gov. Carl E. Sanders as one of two Negroes serving on the state's Commission to Improve Education.

The PEA will install new officers and honor retiring teachers at tonight's dinner.

Results of the PEA's election of officers were to be tallied late this afternoon.

Oh Boy, It's All Free! Free!

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sallie Ann Robbins, an enterprising young woman of my acquaintance, has brought forth a book that fulfills a great need in our society.

It is called "See America Free." Or, as it might be subtitled, "How I Learned to Stop Worrying About Bankruptcy and Take a Two Week Vacation Without Starving the Other 50."

In other words, Sallie Ann has produced a guidebook for freeloaders. And not a minute too soon.

Just about all of us have a vacation hanging over our heads. Vacations have become almost as inevitable as death and taxes. But if you start planning now, you can get through the thing with a minimum of financial catastrophes.

You can, for instance, save $1 by not buying Sallie Ann's book. Sallie Ann might not like that, but I always say that if you're going to freeload you might as well go all the way.

Therefore, I have picked out some of the 473 free attractions that happened to appeal to me and arranged them into a suggested tour.

Just clip this column and keep it in your hat-bag until your vacation rolls around and you will be all set.

FREE PAPER
We begin our tour by flying down to St. Petersburg, Fla., where, Sallie Ann tells us, newspapers are given away free any day the sun doesn't shine.

That only happens a few times each year, but I think it is worth the chance. Then we fly out to San Francisco where we can make a free visit to a Chinese fortune cookie bakery.

The next stop is Denver, Colo., which affords an opportunity to attend a sheep auction. Then on to Savannah, Ga., to watch how a company there makes paper bags.

Sallie Ann even found something free in Las Vegas. She reports that "a plush Nevada resort hotel and gambling casino takes visitors behind the scenes to the slot machine repair department."

SLIGHT DIFFERENCE
That should be very educational. Perhaps we will learn the difference between repairing a slot machine and "fixing" a slot machine.

While in the neighborhood, and because this flying around is getting pretty expensive, we drop over to Las Cruces, N.M., to visit the world's largest pecan orchard.

The tour winds up in New York where we can see post office handwriting experts "trying to decipher illegible addresses."

If all of this doesn't quench your thirst for thrills and excitement, I recommend a visit to Merkel, Tex., my old home town.

Once a week, without charge, you can watch the produce truck unloading at Carson's Grocery.

Getting Dirty a Duty

IRVING, Tex. (UPI) — Mayor Lynn Brown, in an effort to combat a water shortage, has suggested to residents that in "dirty car week" might be in order.

MIT Dropping CIA Contracts

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Massachusetts Institute of Technology says it plans to drop research contracts with the Central Intelligence Agency because the contracts are "subject to misinterpretation."

Max Millikan, director of the MIT Center of International Studies, said the contracts would be dropped "reluctantly" in June.

He said "because the contracts were subject to misinterpretation, particularly abroad, though also in this country, we decided it was best to terminate them."

Millikan said the contracts called for research on international developments, particularly communism and Red China.

Hike in Poverty Fund Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats writing new antipoverty legislation have decided to boost President Johnson's money request by $245 million and put more emphasis on job training programs.

After weeks of private meetings, Democrats on the education and labor committee agreed Wednesday night on a bill that more authority over how antipoverty funds are spent.

The bill would boost the fund authorization for the Office of Economic Opportunity—OEO—to $1.99 billion. Johnson had asked for $1.75 billion. The current authorization is $1.5 billion.

More significant for the future conduct of the war on poverty, however, is the increased control over the program that the bill would give Congress.

FOR FIRST TIME

For the first time the OEO would be told how much money it can spend on specific programs, how much it can spend on salaries of local antipoverty officials — $12,500 each yearly — and how it should operate certain programs.

For the most part, the bill the Democrats now hope to push through the full education and labor committee and the House calls for more emphasis on the successful programs, and a curtailing of the experimental projects.

Thus a big boost is earmarked for the popular Head Start preschool program for which the OEO had sought $227 million to take care of 710,000 children.
The bill says $400 million should be spent to give $45,000 the training.

Expansion of the Neighborhood Youth Corps is also called for, up from $500 million requested by the OEO for $54,000-vides jobs in public and non-

Girl Stowaway on Sub Sticky Wicket for British

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI)—After 12 hours of life in the British Navy, a 17-year-old brunette popped through a hatch of the H.M.S. Walrus yesterday and asked crewmen to stop the sub—she wanted to get off.

Barbara McVay, a Baltimore teen-ager, told officers of the homeward-bound submarine, she stowed away because,
"I wanted to go to England. I couldn't go legally, so I had to do it illegally."

She said her father, Sgt. V. M. McVay, was with the U.S. Air Force in Great Britain. Besides, she said, "I like English boys."

The 1,600-ton sub was about four hours at sea when Barbara emerged from a conning tower compartment, feeling groggy from carbon monoxide fumes.

met the ship about 15 miles from here.

A crew member of the submarine said the girl remained in the compartment until the vessel submerged, she would have drowned. "That place fills with water when the craft goes under," he said.

Capt. Douglas Scobie, a British naval attache in Washington, said when notified of the incident: "We certainly can't have that sort of thing going on in the British Navy. Taking away one of Baltimore's citizens is rather oversteering our appreciation of their hospitality."

The 5-year-old Walrus was one of three British subs docked in Baltimore on a goodwill visit since last week.

Barbara said she slipped past guards and boarded the vessel about 1 a.m. yesterday. She gave herself up at about 1 p.m.

"I did it myself . . . on a sudden impulse," she said.

The captain of the sub said he would not press charges against the girl, but nevertheless would investigate to see if the crew had helped.

When the girl left the ship, she waved to crewmen

profit agencies. The age of those eligible for the program would be increased from 22 to 25.

SIMILAR WORK

A program to provide similar work for the older, hard-core unemployed would increase from $10 million requested by the OEO to $100 million.

The bill also would make a major administrative change, taking the work experience program for older heads of families away from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and fitting it into the manpower training programs of the Department of Labor with a budget of $135 million.

It would write into the law something Congress has tried to get the OEO to do for the past two years — bring more women into the Job Corps. The bill says 10,000 of the 45,000 in the Job Corps shall be women.

Civil Service OKs 'No Pay Cut' Rule

LANSING (AP) — The State Civil Service Commission has adopted a policy that state workers downgraded through no fault of their own will not suffer a pay cut.

The commission adopted the policy in ruling on the case of Joseph Corcoran, who was downgraded from a Grade VII to a Grand VI-A position under government reorganization.

It ruled he could remain at his $21,005 salary rather than the $19,585 VI-A salary.

Bar Assn. Condemns OEO Legal Aid

In opposing the program of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) to provide free legal service to the area's indigent at an annual outlay of $451,000, the Oakland County Bar Association evidenced a realistic attitude toward the proposed assistance.

The OEO plan calls for the establishment of eight legal services offices, the employment of eight full-time attorneys and the necessary staff and clerical help.

It is the belief of the Association that the Oakland County Legal Aid Society, while presently providing more restricted legal aid to the needy than the OEO envisions, could be expanded and adapted to a matching basis at a cost far less than that entailed by the creation of a whole new legal aid setup under direction from Washington.

The Press, while sympathetic to the broad objectives of OEO, has from the outset felt that the program overlapped many welfare agencies now operating on State and local levels, resulting in a tremendous waste of public dollars.

Presumably, it was comparable viewpoint on the part of members of the legal fraternity that led to their almost unanimous rejection of the Federal program. We commend them for the action taken on behalf of taxpayers who find increasingly burdensome the proliferation of government spending programs.

Sleuths Who Detect Hidden Oil Meet to Air Clues

Millions of people think about the oil industry as a source of limitless wealth for lucky individuals who have an oil well in their backyard or on farm acres. There have been a few cases like that, but mostly such stories are a matter of fiction.

Finding new oil sources today is a technical and expensive business. The petroleum geologist is the modern oil prospector. His wildcatting is done on a highly scientific basis. He finds oil where none was thought to exist.

Geologists around the world, including 15,000 who belong to the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, look forward to the time when they can study rock samples from the depths of the earth, the moon or anywhere else in the universe.

All of 1966 is the Semi-Centennial observance of the AAPG. It is being celebrated this week at the Association's annual meeting in St. Louis, with 80 countries represented.

Few industries have a more direct bearing on the health, welfare and happiness of the world than the petroleum. Future supplies of oil for products used in every home, in all industries, on farms and by the government, depend now more than ever on the findings of the petroleum geologist.

Crossword Puzzlers Live in World of Words

Who was Peer Gynt's mother? Who was queen of Palmyra from 267 to 272 A.D.? What is the real name of the silkworm of Assam?

You don't know?

Then get with it, brother, but fast! For these are simple, basic facts any crossword puzzle fan should and must have at his pencil tip.

But you're not a crossword puzzle fan? You're NOT?

You're kidding. What are you, some kind of a nut? Or merely unsocial?

For crossword puzzling is an IN thing in the United States these days. Let a newspaper go to press without one and see what happens! More than 30 million adult Americans—and no one knows how many more kids—are crossword addicts. And don't try to induce them to kick the habit. They're hooked and they love it.

Why?

Well, for one thing, it's relaxing. It's a handy escape hatch from the headaches and problems we battle every day. Besides, what red-blooded scholar doesn't get a glow of quiet pride in the thought that he knows a three-toed sloth is an ai, and that a bird of fable is a roc?

But if by some unbelievable chance you are not now a member of the crossword cult, this is a good time to join up. For the trickiest puzzle of all is the gobbledygook found in the myriad communications being disseminated from Washington.

'No Sanctuary' Is Questionable

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON — The State Department says there is "no sanctuary" in the Viet Nam war.

Does this mean that, if Red Chinese planes attack U.S. planes or forces in Viet Nam and then flee back to "sanctuary" in their homeland, American planes will pursue them and bomb them in Red China?

Maybe. But until this is spelled out further in words or deeds, what the State Department said will have to carry a question mark behind it.

It is now one war and 15 years later than the Korean war in which the American policy was not to do any fighting in or over Red China even though the Chinese invaded Korea massively under the label of "volunteers."

It was this policy which brought on the historic clash in 1951 between President Harry S. Truman, who wanted to avoid direct war with Red China, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who wanted to bomb it. Truman finally fired him.

In a basic sense, Truman's position was similar to President Johnson's today.

Truman was determined to resist North Korean Communist aggression against South Korea, but if possible to limit the war to Korea since enlargement, through the involvement of Red China, might lead to World War III.

LIMITING THE WAR

Johnson has been determined to resist the aggression of the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese Communists against South Viet Nam while trying to limit the war to Viet Nam.

In Truman's case the "sanctuary" of Red China was preserved and later a truce achieved, even though the Red Chinese were up to their necks in Korea.

For the past 10 days the air war over North Viet Nam has been expanding dramatically, with U.S. fighter planes in a series of dogfights with Soviet-designed MIGs.

Robert J. McCloskey, the State Department press officer, was asked Tuesday if the Red planes had come into North Viet Nam from Chinese bases. He said "we have no information which would lead to such a conclusion."

REPEATS POLICY

But, explaining that he was repeating a position stated by Secretary of State Dean Rusk in the past, McCloskey said about the possibility the MIGs came from Red China: "There is no sanctuary" in the Viet Nam war.

At least saying there is no sanctuary in this war is further than the U.S. government was willing to go in the Korean war. But then the United States was far less equipped for a big war than now.

—But We Don't Discourage Easily!

David Lawrence Says:

Here's Good News for a Change

WASHINGTON—Every now and then, people get tired of the constant flow of unpleasant news and say, "Isn't there something good happening?"

There certainly are two interesting developments this week which belong to the favorable side of human events.

For the first time since the Communists took over the government in Moscow, the foreign minister of the Soviet Union had a conference with the head of the Roman Catholic Church in Rome.

Very little was disclosed as to the conversation, and only a brief communique was issued which officially described the conference as agreeing that "Men must work for the one goal of peace no matter what their political feelings or ideologies."

This is a significant advance. Religion and ideology have been in conflict inside Russia and, while taken recognition is given to the worship of the Christian and other religions, communism has been opposed to such beliefs.

It might well be wondered just why the Soviet government sanctioned Foreign Minister Gromyko's mission to Pope Paul VI.

TREMENDOUS INFLUENCE

But even in Moscow, there is an awareness of the tremendous influence wielded by the Vatican and the importance of making friends with the Roman Catholic Church, which has such a powerful impact on Latin America as well as other areas where most of the people are of the Roman Catholic faith.

It is a tactical move in diplomacy for the Communists to get closer to the Catholic hierarchy everywhere.

The good news is not, however, just in the international effort toward peace. There is something happening inside the United States which is also encouraging.

The city of Washington particularly has seen many "demonstrations" in recent months, but the one scheduled here this week at Constitution Hall is different from all the others.

It brings from across the United States 160 young men and women who say they have come to speak up and stand up for what they believe America stands for.

They put on a musical show which is called "Sing Out '66." It is sponsored by 158 members of the Congress of the United States, as well as by members of the diplomatic corps.

The musical grew out of the "Moral Re-Armament Demonstration for Modernizing America," which was held at Mackinac Island, Mich., last summer.

These young people are singing that "Freedom isn't free, You've got to pay a price, You've got to pay a sacrifice for your liberty."

It is certainly a refreshing experience to find the youth of the country joining in such an enterprise.

Bob Considine Says:

Fashion Show Has Lots of 'Show,' Little Fashion

PARIS — The endless war between this town's limpwristed couturiers and the female form divine reaches some kind of a peak, or perhaps depth, in the salon of Yves Saint Laurent.

His dresses soar at least three or four feet above the knees of his starving, mean-eyed models to whom he has brought what may be the ultimate indignity. They looked and walked like the last doomed covey of whooping cranes.

The only applause from the witnesses was evoked by the feature of the current showing — three models in transparent dresses.

Their emaciated bodies were quite visible through the translucent material.

A small clutch of sequins here, a smaller patch of sequins there, and voilà! — the cops could not legally arrest us for taking part in an exebession.

UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Yves is out to prove to the remaining males of Paris that the bosom and the hip line have been declared unconstitutional.

His dresses hang loosely from honey shoulders to just above knee line. They have about as much shape as an Hawaiian mummy, but the latter costs ten bucks and Yves' goodies start around $500.

When he employs belts he buckles them either where bosoms used to be or below what used to be hips.

The bra is out, too, if it's a suit you're looking for.

One girl removed the jacket of the suit she was modeling to reveal a blouse that apparently had been used in howitzary practice. It was holed in front, back and on each side.

Her poor girl turned on her squeaky, plastic, spate-heeled, square-toed shoes and glared about her like a trapped coyote.

Out of the back of the stole reached long-stemmed artificial white flowers that rose higher than her head.

MOBILE CORPSE

She looked so much like a mobile corpse in a short-sleeved shirt about a wife whispered, "The immediate family will leave in the first car."

There's little reason to doubt any more that Paris has been making patsies out of women — particularly American women — for longer than his shopkeepers have been robbing the passer-by.

Voice of the People:

More 'Frills' in Schools May Reduce Delinquency

People who complain about educational "frills" no doubt yell the loudest about all the trouble teen-agers get into. Why do they get into trouble, speeding in cars, standing on street corners, fighting, breaking windows, shoplifting, etc.? One reason might be that people call recreational facilities "frills" and something they can't afford. I'm glad I live in the Pontiac school system where swimming pools and auxiliary gyms are not considered frills. Better your tax dollars go for recreation than delinquency.

Terms Confiscation of Firearms 'Unfair'

I don't think confiscation of firearms is fair. Many citizens who own guns enjoy hunting and it is a good, clean sport. It isn't fair to stop the sale of firearms to respectable citizens. It isn't the gun that's the trouble, it's the wrong people who use them. Stores that sell guns should check into the person who is buying the gun.

Readers Disagree on Waterford School Vote

A note from school tells of a physical fitness demonstration at the Mall on May 7. The activities include tumbling, small apparatus, square and folk dancing, floor hockey, and others. How can Waterford be included in this event when there is no place for our children to do tumbling, practice dancing, etc? The note stated "Unfortunately not all of the schools in Waterford will be able to participate, but we encourage you all to attend." Thanks, again, Waterford "no" voters. This is only a trifle of what our children will miss out on.

Two Discuss Pay of Our City Firefighters

In reply to recent comments, firemen's hours are not as short as you may think. They work three 24-hour shifts a week, which yearly averages out to 56 hours per week. They work every other Sunday and it makes no difference if it's Christmas, Thanksgiving or another holiday. They do not make $7.09 an hour but in three years of service. After three years they make $2.42 per hour and pay eight per cent of their wages toward their pension. They pay board at the fire stations.

FIREMAN'S 24-HOUR WIDOWS

Regarding comments on pay for firemen, most offices work 40 hours a week, closing Sundays and holidays. Our firefighters work 56 hours a week, Sundays and holidays included. Their work demands 24-hour shifts away from their families to provide fire protection for all. If "30 years in a downtown office" had rewarded you a salary of $6,800, I suggest you picket your employer for a raise, not the fire department.

I compliment The Press editorial staff for the excellent article about safety standards in the U.S. Merchant Marine. A whole fleet of foreign vessels operates out of our East coast. I would guess that over 85 per cent of the passenger load would be Americans. Not one of these ships can pass an American inspection. If these ships are going to operate out of American ports carrying American passengers, they should be required to meet our safety standards.

REPLY

Michigan Employment Security Commission says there's no call for that age, but word-of-mouth recommendations may bring some jobs. If you belong to a church, perhaps you could put up a notice that you'd like odd jobs, and neighborhood storeowners might be persuaded to post the same notice for customers. You'd even make up a little bulletin of your own and leave it at homes near you. (Just don't put them in mailboxes—it's illegal.) Do a good job with any work you get and more will almost certainly follow. (Of course, Pontiac Press want ads are always a sure bet, but at your age you probably want to work near home.) Good luck.

Senate Okays Pupil Transportation, Health Bills

LANSING (AP)—The Senate completed session action on its own bills Wednesday by passing million-dollar measures for aid to bus riding schoolchildren and county health departments.

The bus bill will drop fares to 10 cents for children who ride commercial transportation to school. It's mostly designed for Detroit, where the school-age fare is 15 cents.

The state will allot eight cents per pupil trip to public or private transportation systems, with three cents going toward general maintenance in what advocates acknowledged was a subsidy to bus lines.

A ceiling of $1.25 million was placed on such aid for 1966-67. It is expected that about $1 million will go to DSR, the Detroit bus system.

STATE FORMULA

The state school aid formula has for a time included transportation aid to students traveling more than 1½ miles to school, mostly applying in suburban and rural areas. The bill required 26 votes to pass and had only 22 on the first roll call. A reluctant group then began voting "yes."

Injuries Kill State Grant

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP)—Airman 3. C. Gerald R. Wruck of Saginaw, Mich., died Tuesday night of injuries suffered Sunday in a two-car crash. Wruck, 29, was stationed at Sheppard Air Force Base here.

The health measure will increase state grants to county health departments from about $1.3 million to $2.3 million. It sets a floor of 25 cents per capita and $10,000 per county for state grants. Existing floor was $7,000, with additional money allocated statewide on a population basis.

Bills to license private police services and persons who sell animals for use in research also were approved.

The population of the Union of South Africa is now more than 11 million persons. When the British came about 150 years ago, it was about 50,000.

It's Anchors Aweigh in Seabee Drive

Fighting the war with a bulldozer — the vocation made romantic by war movies — is the object of a high-priority enlistment drive by the U.S. Navy.

The Navy has issued a call for skilled construction workers to serve in the famed Seabees. Navy construction battalions.

The war in Viet Nam has prompted the first call for Seabee volunteers, since World War II.

First authorized Jan. 5, 1942, the Seabees earned their reputation during the war as a so-called elite corps.

It was 24 years ago — March 5, 1942 — that the official name Seabees, a phonetic abbreviation of the first letters of Construction Battalion, was authorized.

It wasn't much later that a song, "We're the Seabees of the Navy," followed to mold the spirit of the corps.

The navy's enlistment drive spotlights several advantages of Seabee service.

The Navy will permit qualified training, although fight training won't be neglected.

Enlistments will be for a minimum of two years—half the normal length of other Navy enlistments and equal to the draft.

DIRECT RATING
Under the Navy's plan, a construction man will be rated directly as Petty Officer Third Class, worth $300 a month in base pay, if he has 32 months of building training or experience.

Second Class Petty Officer rating will be to those with four years experience and First Class Petty Officer rating for seven years, if one year was as subforeman.

Seven major ratings are open to Seabees — builder, construction mechanic, steelworker, construction electrician, engineer aide, construction equipment operator, and utilityman, plus subspecialty ratings.

The Navy has nearly 5,000 Seabees serving in Viet Nam. They have built docks, roads, power plants, and other construction projects, including 19 major jet airfields.

LBJ Wins on Rent Subsidies

WASHINGTON (AP) — By a one-vote margin, the Senate has approved funds for President Johnson's program of rent subsidies for low-income families.

But the administration and its Senate leaders had to use all their resources to get the votes needed for Wednesday's 46-45 victory authorizing $12 million in contract authority for the new program.

After that vote, the Senate passed, 72-12 a $2.8-billion supplemental money bill that included the rent subsidies funds.

Republicans led the floor fight against the new administration program, declaring that it was poorly prepared and could cost the federal government $6 billion over the next 40 years.

DIRKSEN COMMENT
Senate Republican leader

Everett M. Dirksen cried that the subsidies are "sure to become noxious in American life."

Democrats contended that the new plan could do a better job of providing good homes for low-income families than the present low-rent public housing program.

The estimated subsidies of $40 a month for each family under the program would be less than the $55 which public housing now costs, they said.

Robert C. Weaver, secretary of housing and urban development, has estimated the $12 million will finance 20,000 units of new housing for rent-subsidized tenants in projects built by non-profit organizations. None of the subsidies would go to private landlords.

The federal government would pay the difference between 25 per cent of a family's income and the rent needed to support the apartment project.

Only families now eligible for public housing — generally those with incomes below $5,760 a year — could qualify.

Voting to retain the money were 41 Democrats and 5 Republicans; opposed were 26 Democrats and 19 Republicans.

The 1965 housing bill authorized $30 million for the subsidies this year, and Johnson originally asked that figure. But Senate Democratic leaders decided not to try to go beyond the $12 million already approved in the House.

Princess Anne Will Have Her Broken Nose Set

LONDON (UPI) — Princess Anne, 15-year-old daughter of Queen Elizabeth, will enter a nursing home this weekend to have a painful and slightly swollen broken nose set.

Buckingham Palace announced yesterday the Princess broke her nose when she fell from a horse while riding to hounds.

A palace spokesman said the Princess would spend the rest of the week at the royal country estate at Sandringham. She flew there yesterday.

Princess Anne broke her nose Tuesday when her horse fell at a fence at Shroton Park, home of Lt. Col. John Miller, the crown equerry. Her party was following the Oxford University dragoons — a pack that does not hunt animals but follows a scented trail.

Medicine in Michigan—2

Medical School Growth May Not Meet Demand for Doctors

(EDITOR'S NOTE — The public says the field of medicine is undermanned. Medical schools are expanding, but possibly not as fast as the demand for doctors. Then, too, there is the question of whether doctors and osteopaths should compete or combine. Phil Brown examines the situation in a three-part series, of which this is part II. Today: The medical schools.)

By PHIL BROWN
Associated Press Writer

Expansion moves soon will enable Michigan to turn out at least 30 per cent more doctors a year—but the demand for doctors probably will spurt even faster.

Even without much population growth, Medicare and other welfare type programs could sharply increase the call for doctors and other health services.

While worrying about where tomorrow's doctors will come from, education planners also must decide whether the state wants to encourage training of both medical doctors and osteopaths.

"We have been told by the public — repeatedly so — that the field of medicine is undermanned," said Dr. Ernest Gardner, dean of Wayne state University's medical college.

175 NEW PLACES

A study committee said in 1963 that just to keep up with population growth, Michigan probably should add 175 new places in its medical school programs by 1971.

The state is in a position to do exactly that—if an osteopathic college is counted as medical school.

There is opposition to opening an osteopathic college in Michigan. But the House State Affairs Committee has approved a bill to insure state backing for the proposed school.

The bill still must be approved by the House Ways and Means Committee and by the full House, and the Senate, which already has passed the bill, must agree to House amendments.

About 25 new places will open next fall when Michigan State University begins instruction at its new two-year College of Human Medicine. Within several years, MSU plans to accept 64 students a year into the college.

Another 75 places will be available within three or four years as Wayne State University expands its medical school from a first-year class of 125 to one of 200 students. The University of Michigan plans to increase enrollment from 200 to 210 within the next several years.

Another 64 would open if the Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine in Pontiac is able to carry out its plans to start instruction in September 1970.

If the college doesn't open—or even if it does—the most likely means of training more doctors would be further expansion at MSU, Wayne or the University of Michigan.

MATCHING FUNDS

Dr. Stewart Harkness, the osteopathic college's associate dean, expects to know by the end of the year whether federal matching funds will be available for construction.

The college has sought state support to pay operating expenses, "but state support is not going to determine whether this college goes up or not," Dr. Harkness said.

The bill approved by the House committee would create a State Osteopathic College Authority to construct, operate and maintain an osteopathic college. Its financial implications for the state, though, still are unclear.

The committee action came after a survey it conducted among osteopaths and medical doctors. It showed 5,010 out of 6,700 M.D.s favored putting osteopaths on equal footing with them on the staffs of publicly supported hospitals.

OPPOSED SUPPORT

Medical doctors generally opposed state support for an osteopathic college and favored amalgamation of the two professions. Osteopaths continue to favor the school and oppose amalgamation.

"Whether we merge or not won't add a single physician," said Floyd Brooker, the college's executive officer. "The basic problem is a growing shortage of physicians."

Since 1952, the University of Michigan medical school has been taking in 200 students a year and graduating about 180. The 20 students who leave usually have not failed, but leave for other reasons, including illness, said Dr. John Tupper, associate dean.

Wayne's medical school has had 900 to 1,000 applicants each year for its 125 places. It graduates about 115 M.D.s each year, said Dr. Gardner.

He said Wayne has started a $46 million building program which will enable it to expand by 200 students in three or four years. About half the building funds, he said, are provided by the state, with the rest coming from the federal government and private sources.

The school spends about $7.8 million a year to operate. Dr. Gardner said, with about $2.8 million of that from the state. U. of M. officials said it would be difficult to separate funds for M.D. training from the budget of the entire U. of M. medical center.

MSU's new medical program grew smoothly out of existing programs in the biological and social sciences and medical technology. The school has estimated operating expenses will be $1 million a year at the start.

For construction, MSU had the help of a $2-million federal grant for a new $5.2-million biochemistry building and $4.7-million veterinary clinical and research building.

The National Science Foundation granted $1.2 million toward the biochemistry building and the Kellogg Foundation granted $1.25 million toward starting the over-all medical program.

Graduates of the two-year program will have to transfer to other medical schools to complete two more years of work for their M.D. degree.

Dr. Gardner has said Wayne could take all of them, and Dr. Tupper said U. of M. would be able to take some.

URGES COOPERATION

The State Board of Education has called for cooperation among MSU, U. of M. and Wayne to keep these medical students in Michigan.

It also has established a committee to investigate Michigan's medical education needs and prepare a plan to meet them.

If the state ever decides to support a third degree-granting medical school, MSU officials say they will be vigorous opponents.

But before a third four-year school is approved, U. of M. and Wayne say their programs must be fully supported.

POORLY SUPPORTED

The deans of all three Michigan medical schools have told the House State Affairs Committee that a state-supported osteopathic college at Pontiac would be inefficient, expensive and unnecessary.

The nation's five osteopathic colleges "are nothing more or less than poorly supported medical schools," Dr. Tupper said.

Because of the expense, the possibility of a private medical school opening in Michigan is remote, Brenneman said.

If there were to be a private medical school, one possibility mentioned has been Detroit's Henry Ford Hospital, which has a nurse training class of about 330 students, internships in diagnostic and pharmacy and a master's degree program in the basic sciences.

Hugh Brenneman, executive director of the Michigan State Medical Society, said it would cost significantly less to expand the existing medical schools, which already have programs in the basic sciences.

medical technology through capital outlay, he said, and other funds hopefully would come from private sources and from the federal government.

It also has about 280 interns and resident physicians in a postgraduate medical training program.

The osteopathic college expects building costs of around $27 million to open its first stage, said Brooker.

Members of the State Osteopathic Association have assessed themselves $3 million for Brenneman maintained, though, "there is no such thing as two different practices of medicine — you either practice medicine or you don't."

"There are no secrets in this profession," he added. "An osteopathic college, he said, wouldn't be teaching anything different."

Taft Is Running for House Seat

Takes Aim at Dem Rather Than GOP Foe

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Robert A. Taft Jr., defeated two years ago when he tried to follow his famous father into the U.S. Senate, is campaigning to win back a seat in the House.

The son of the late "Mr. Republican" is a candidate in the May 3 primary for the congressional nomination in the 1st District.

Taft, 49, had served only one term when he gave up the House seat to run against Democratic Sen. Stephen M. Young, and lost in one of the major upsets of the 1964 election.

The 1st District seat was captured by a Democrat, Rep. John J. Gilligan, who is unopposed for renomination.

FELLOW ATTORNEY

A fellow Cincinnati attorney, William E. Flax, has challenged Taft in the Republican primary. But Flax, a political novice, is given little chance.

Taft has ignored his Republican opponent to attack Gilligan and the national Democratic administration on domestic issues, particularly the rising cost of living. The Vietnamese war hasn't figured in the campaign.

Two other well-known Republicans also have opposition in the primary.

For the first time in a decade, Rep. William M. McCulloch is having to run for renomination in the 4th District. James M. Carpenter, a Lima businessman, is his opponent.

TERM OF FATHER

And in the 7th District, Clarence J. Brown Jr., serving out the term of his father, is opposed by H. Quinn Licklider of Springfield.

Brown, an Urbana newspaper publisher and radio station owner, defeated Licklider and several others last fall in a special election called after his father died.

Most Republicans who hold state offices are unopposed. An exception is Gov. James A. Rhodes, opposed again by William L. White, 74, a Mount Vernon businessman who lost to Rhodes four years ago. Rhodes has ignored White's campaign.

'Mopsy' Creator Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gladys Parker, 56, former cartoonist who drew "Mopsy" for 16 years, died Wednesday of lung cancer after a long illness. Miss Parker, a cartoonist since she was 13, had worked on newspapers in the east and at one time did a newspaper column called "Dear Gals and Guys," answering personal problem questions.

Smuggling Across the Iron Curtain Is Big Business

VIENNA (U) — Smuggling across the Iron Curtain has become a profitable business — boosted by the scarcity of consumer goods in Communist Eastern Europe and the appeal of Western products.

The great tourist stream that treks eastward each summer on holiday or weekend, gives smugglers a chance of trying to slip across the Iron Curtain under the noses of customs officials.

Nearly four million cars entered Yugoslavia last year and Czechoslovakia border checkpoints averaged up to 3,500 border-crossings a day.

A Vienna chauffeur stuffed the seats of his car with money, fixed a dozen radios under the dashboard, filled the space around the engine with watches and built a special compartment under the floor for lighters and ballpoint pens.

WOMEN'S STOCKING

A young student tried to enter Czechoslovakia on a bicycle and a rucksack with 500 pairs of women's stockings.

The same goods that appeal to Czechoslovaks pay off on the Hungarian black market. Numerous tourists have been sentenced by Hungarian courts for smuggling raincoats, c o m b s, nylon shawls and woolen yarn.

Smuggling into Hungary does not always cross the Iron Curtain. A Western group was arrested for smuggling goods from Czechoslovakia. Czechoslovakia produces shoes, textiles, and diamonds and old paintings.

HARD TO GET

Cars are hard to get in Hungary and one ring was charged with having smuggled 13 into the country. The sales agreements were made out as "gift affidavits."

Smugglers who get caught face prison terms of several years, fines equal to the duties they would have had to pay for contraband goods and confiscation of goods they were caught with and the car they transported them in. If they are foreigners, they are expelled from the country after having completed their prison sentence.

North and South Dakota were admitted to the Union on the same day, which was Nov. 2, 1889.

Tea to Honor OC Village Volunteers

City Federation of Women's Clubs Sponsors a Benefit Card Party

A tea honoring the 100 volunteers of the Oakland County Children's Village will take place Tuesday at 1 p.m. in the First Federal Savings of Oakland Building.

James VanLeuven, director of the Village announced that this event is the staff's way of saying "Thanks" to the volunteers.

Gold discs bearing the Oakland County emblem and inscribed "Children's Village Volunteers" will be presented by VanLeuven.

Mrs. Elizabeth W. Cady, director, Central Volunteer Bureau of Detroit, will be the speaker. The Hon. Donald E. Adams and Norman R. Barnard, both of the Oakland County Probate Court will welcome the volunteers.

Any interested adults who would like more information about the volunteer program may contact the Oakland County Children's Village, North Telegraph Road.

"Now if I were bidding" Mrs. William Herrmann, Woodbine Drive, gives her husband a few wifely words of advice on how to bid his hand. Proceeds from the party are to be given to the Pontiac Creative Arts Center, Inc. and Pontiac Salute to Youth.

She Wasn't at Liberty to Do This

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Dear Mrs. Post: When an unmarried woman goes to a dance with two married couples, is it all right for her to ask one of the husbands to dance as soon as they take off their coats?

This happened the other night, and the other wife and I were somewhat annoyed, and my husband was embarrassed and didn't know whether to go ahead and dance, or to say he would like to dance with me first. — Peggy.

Dear Peggy: I don't blame you for being annoyed. She had no right to ask either husband to dance, whether they had danced with their wives or not.

Asking for a dance is up to the man — not under any circumstances up to the woman. But once it had happened, I hope that your husband decided to carry it off with good grace and accepted her invitation.

There was little else he could politely do.

LUNCH AFTER FUNERAL

Dear Mrs. Post: We recently had a death in our family. After the funeral we asked several of our relatives and friends to come back to the house for lunch.

We have been criticized for this and were told that it was in very poor taste. I would like to know if there was anything wrong in this. — Edith.

Dear Edith: Giving a meal lunch party would have merited criticism, but to have asked a few relatives and friends to come to your house for something to eat before they returned to their more or less distant homes, was kind and proper.

Details concerning the announcement of an engagement are described in the booklet entitled, "Announcing the Engagement."

If you would like a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Oatmeal Facial

Put new and old techniques to work cleansing the complexion of small blackheads or whiteheads.

Apply slightly moistened oatmeal to the face. Let it dry. Then wash the face with a soap with hexachlorophene or antibacterial liquid cleaner. Remember not to pick at or rub the face. This encourages those bumps.

Tell Wolves You're Married to That Husky Bartender

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a cocktail waitress with a small problem. I am not married, but am not interested in dating because I have a boy-friend overseas. I'm trying to be true to him.

Well you know how some men are. Some of them just won't take no for an answer. I don't like to get nasty about it, but it's pretty hard to turn them down without telling them off.

Besides, it's rough on a girl's tips when she has to put a guy in his place. Any suggestions? SAVING MYSELF: DEAR ABBY: Just point out the huskiest bartender in the place and tell the wolves that HE'S your husband.

DEAR ABBY: Our son is to be married soon. It will be a large wedding in a fairly large church. Here is the problem: We really have no family.

I was an only child. My mother was an orphan. My husband is from a distant part of the country from a poor family. What is left of his family can't attend the wedding. We do not have many friends and our side of the church will look very empty.

We are terribly embarrassed as there will be only a handful on our side and the bride's family and friends will number nearly 200. We're red-faced and sick about it, and fear we will be laughed at.

I don't know what you can do, but thought I'd try for an answer. Thank you.

RED-FACED

DEAR RED-FACED: You have no reason to be embarrassed. Your family is small and you are not the type of people

Little Gals Step Out

Shoes for little girls follow the adult fashion line this spring.

The pointed toe is giving in to the rounder, wider look for pre-teens and the sling backs and straps that appeal to their mothers is also available in the shoe store to them. Look especially for the strap—sometimes a single T, sometimes double, sometimes circling the ankle.

Something's New Afoot

Expect to see sandals in abundance this spring. The trend is toward every variation on the sandal set on the pancake heel for wear on city streets and in the suburbs.

That pancake heel is also an indicator of something new afoot. Heels are getting lower and lower and the days of the three-inch are gone, the days of the flat, wide heel are fast upcoming.

Sorority Has Anniversary Celebration

The 35th anniversary of the founding of Beta Sigma Phi sorority was celebrated by the Pontiac chapters Wednesday at Holiday Inn.

Fifteen local chapters were joined by two from Rochester and two from Birmingham for the occasion.

The original chapter of the sorority was formed in Abilene, Kan. There are now 8,000 chapters and 185,000 members in 15 countries.

Toastmistress was Mrs. Russell Perkins, Pontiac City Council, Beta Sigma Phi president.

Mrs. Jack Payne presented a special message from the sorority's founder, received from the group's international headquarters in Kansas City.

Others participating in the program "Crown Every Moment" were: Mrs. William Cheal, Mrs. Donald Kline, Mrs. Ralph Ellsworth, Mrs. Bradley Scott and Mrs. Robert F. Schmidt.

COUNCIL HEADS

Mrs. Schmidt installed new city council officers. They are: Mrs. Perkins, Xi Gamma Alpha chapter, president; Mrs. Earl Krebs, Xi Gamma Delta, vice president; Evelyn Angell, Gamma Psi, recording secretary; Mrs. Robert Eversen, Xi Beta Theta, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Kline, Epsilon Rho, treasurer.

Musical entertainment was by "The Two Russes," Russell Perkins and Russell Lehigh.

Special guests were three international honorary members: Adah Shelly, Myrtle Shore of Ewart and Mrs. Florence Ford; also, two guest directors Mrs. Gerald Douglas and Mrs. Robert Lally, and member-at-large Marie Grams of Ann Arbor.

Surprise portion of the program was the presentation of a pin guard for 28-year member Mrs. Douglas Menzel.

Try 'Crazy Quilt' Cover for Chair

For attractive chair covers and backs, sew up some scraps just as you would if you were making an old-fashioned "crazy quilt." Sew them on to white cloth, hit or miss.

After you have good-size pieces, cut a top and back from them for the cushion and back. Pad and quilt either by hand or on the sewing machine. Bind with solid-color material, leaving enough, sewed double, to tie on the chair. These are washable, durable and reversible.

U.S. Hopeful of Turning Viet Tide by Early 1967

(EDITOR'S NOTE—How may the war in Viet Nam develop in coming months? The following story is the result of an investigation among high-level Washington officials by John M. Hightower, Pulitzer Prize-winning reporter who heads the AP's State Department staff.)

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON — U.S. officials hope to turn the tide of war decisively against Communist forces in South Viet Nam by early next year.

The hope is tentative, and authorities concede it could be upset by adverse military or political developments in the months ahead.

Nevertheless, it defines an important purpose of present strategic planning. President Johnson's advisers believe it represents a reasonable projection of the recent course of the war in Viet Nam plus the probable results to be obtained from the planned massive buildup of U.S. forces.

The critical point will be reached, strategists say, when manpower losses suffered by Communist forces under the pounding of American, South Vietnamese and allied troops and American planes begin to exceed the Communist capacity to replace manpower.

TALKS ARE DUE
The estimate that this point can be reached by early next year is expected to figure in the strategic review and planning session soon to be held by President Johnson in connection with a return here for consultation of Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Lodge is due back May 9. It will be his first trip here in about nine months, though he conferred with Johnson and other administration leaders in Honolulu last February.

Other important assumptions underlying the forecast of a turning point in the war are:

1. That the Viet Cong will not radically alter their strategy and seek to avoid combat in the months ahead in order to reduce their loss rate.

NO ALTERATIONS

2. That North Viet Nam and Red China will not radically alter the major dimensions of the war by intervention which would expand it into a different kind of conflict.

In summary, the projection of a turning point is based on the assumption that the war will continue to develop along the lines which have characterized the conflict in recent months.

According to figures and rough estimates now available from officials here, the Viet Cong suffered manpower losses in killed, captured, wounded and defections during the first four months of this year amounting to considerably more than 20,000 men. Government figures show a total of about 15,000 Communists killed in action and probably another 5,000 men counted as defectors.

In the same four months, however, the Viet Cong replacements were estimated at about 32,000, consisting of an infiltration of troops from North Viet Nam at 4,500 a month and recruitment in the South of guerrilla fighters, porters and the like at the rate of 3,500 per month.

U.S. military authorities estimate that the Viet Cong forces now have 111 combat battalions at their disposal and will have 155 by the end of this year. At that level, U.S. experts say, the Communists probably will require about 150 tons of supplies daily.

The dominant view in administration planning is that heavy and sustained air strikes against the Communist supply lines do and will put a ceiling on replacement capacity and do limit the ability of the Viet Cong to maintain their strength.

U.S. authorities also assume that the Viet Cong's ability to recruit fighters in the countryside in South Viet Nam is limited and will decrease as the war goes against them.

Similarly, authorities here say that Viet Cong defections increase and those of the South Vietnamese forces decrease in periods when relative political stability prevails in Saigon and when it appears that the Communists are being beaten militarily.

U.S. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and various military leaders said toward the end of last year that "we have stopped losing the war."

They have shied away, however, from making any over-all claims of victory or trying to lay down a blueprint for victory in the future.

Fear GI Killing of Dominican to Spur Strife

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — U.S. diplomats fear that the accidental killing of a shoeshine boy by a U.S. Army guard will touch off more anti-American incidents during the celebration this week of the Dominican revolution last April.

A military spokesman said the boy was killed Wednesday while shining the boots of a soldier who was guarding the American ambassador's residence. The guard dropped his rifle, it went off and a bullet struck the boy in the neck, the spokesman said. The boy died en route to a hospital.

Gen. Robert R. Linnell, commander of U.S. forces in the Dominican Republic, ordered a full investigation and told members of his staff to locate the boy's family so he could express his regrets.

The soldier was removed from duty at the embassy.

The revolution anniversary celebrations started on Sunday with an anti-American rally. So far there has been no violence.

The Fifth Rose. You don't see it. You drink it.

The Fifth Rose is what we call our new taste. This new taste makes Four Roses one of those rarest of things: a whiskey that actually tastes good. Not just smooth, and not bland. But good. And if that's not enough for you, this whiskey has another thing going for it: it holds its own in a mixed drink. (A trick that supposedly only the old-fashioned heavy whiskeys could pull off.) As you'd expect, this new taste wasn't something we came up with overnight.

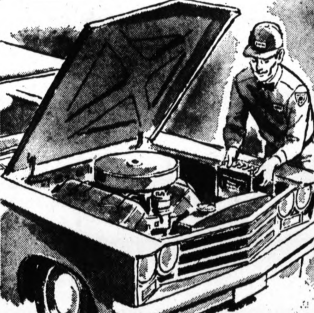

Far from it. For one thing, we had a cupboard full of 1,500 different whiskeys to work with. And before we found just the right combination (some 50 different tasting whiskeys and grain neutral spirits in all) a lot of new gray hairs had appeared on the scene. If you want a good tasting whiskey that stays good tasting no matter what you mix it with, ask for the whiskey with the Fifth Rose. Better known as Four Roses.

Old Days Had One Drawback---Work

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (U) — Just how life has changed for the average person since 1906?

BOYLE

Well, way back then you had to harness a horse before going for a buggy ride. If you were rich enough to own a new-fangled automobile, you cranked it by hand to start the engine. If you punctured a tire, you fixed it yourself.

Large families often kept a cow. It was milked by hand, too. Mother got enough exercise bending over a washboard on Monday to last her all week.

BUTTER CHURN

Millions of families still churned their own butter, raised their own chickens. Did junior want some ice cream? Okay, but he had to turn the handle on the home freezer.

You didn't push a button or pull out a plug to thaw out a refrigerator. But every morning or night someone had to empty the pail of water under the ice box.

Someone had to chop kindling for the kitchen stove and fetch it in.

Was the house too cold in winter? Well, someone had to clump down to the basement and shovel more coal in the furnace. There was no air-conditioning in summer. To cool off, you either used a hand fan — often given away as an advertisement by the local funeral home — or tug open a stuck window by brute strength.

CARRY A LOAD

People carried home their groceries from the store on foot. There were no shopping carts to push.

Few rugs were sent to the cleaners. They were beaten on a wire line in the back yard. Mother fought dirt in the home and on the front porch with a broom. It seemed to be in her hand half the day.

Neither children nor men thought themselves imposed on if they had to walk two or three miles to get to school or work. There was no meat tenderizer.

Everything is easier now. They've got machines to scratch your back or brush your teeth automatically, and soon they'll probably have one that will burp a baby.

Probably we'd all live longer, healthier and happier lives by going back to the patterns of 1906, when people did more for themselves and yawned less.

But who really wants to live like that?

Nobody. Particularly me.

St. Clair Grant OK'd

ST. CLAIR (AP) — The City Council received word from Washington Wednesday of approval of a $4.03 million grant for downtown urban renewal. A 35-acre downtown area containing 77 buildings is contemplated for renewal.

The mollusks that were spilled into the Pacific side of the isthmus were not disrupted so much because that ocean is a larger body of water and encompassed the land upheaval, he told members of the American Philosophical Society meeting here.

For about 70 million years, during the Tertiary period, there were no land barriers, and a long continual pattern of ocean currents flowed between the two American continents.

In the late Pliocene epoch, the land gradually rose out of the sea to form a bridge, across which land animals began to move.

Dr. Woodring bases his observations on studies with about 1,000 genera of marine mollusks.

'M' Prof Gets Post

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Prof. H. R. Crane, chairman of the University of Michigan physics department, has been elected a member of the National Academy of Sciences.

Effect of Rise of Isthmus Eyed

By Science Service

PHILADELPHIA — Clams and oysters of the Caribbean Sea underwent a greater shock than those of the Pacific when the Panama isthmus rose from the sea, some three million years ago.

The gradual upheaving of the land bridge separating the Pacific and Atlantic oceans disrupted and impoverished the ancient marine mollusks on the western part of the Atlantic Ocean, said Dr. Wendell P. Woodring, research associate with the Smithsonian Institution.

Ex-Yank Broadcasting

Kubek 'Boots' Chance

NEW YORK (UPI) — The ball headed straight for Tony Kubek and he booted it.

Maybe it was because he was a little over-anxious or a little rusty due to no spring training, but the former Yankee shortstop never even got close to the ball.

"I've had only one chance so far this season and I blew it," he laughed.

Kubek committed his bobbles recently in Pittsburgh where he always seems to have bad luck dating back to that fluke grounder which struck him in the throat and turned around the entire 1960 World Series.

This time it was different, though.

Instead of being down on the field, Tony was up in the broadcasters' booth doing the color commentary for NBC's major league baseball game of the week.

"This foul ball came right at me," Kubek said. "I reached out for it and my hand hit the microphone. I missed the ball and jammed the little finger on my right hand. So now I'm 0-for-one."

MEDICAL CASE

Kubek was forced to quit the Yankees last winter at the age of 28.

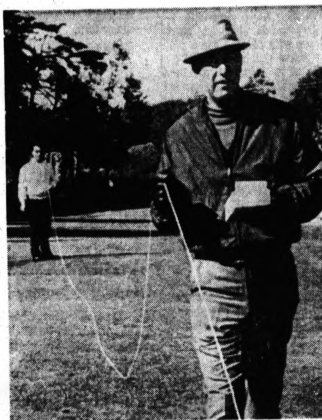

"It wasn't my decision, it was the doctors'," he says, in the matter-of-fact manner of a man reciting his medical case history.

"They told me I had a broken neck and it had healed, but that it had healed wrong and was calcified. They said complete paralysis could result if I jarred myself, got a bump on my head or moved too quickly.

"It worried me at first, but I've put it in the back of my mind now," Kubek said.

"There were a few adjustments I had to make. I used to love to play handball and I don't do that anymore. I just have to be careful."

Senators' McCormick
Has 21-Inning String
Without Giving Run

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike McCormick, the $50,000 bonus baby of the 1956 New York Giants, is making a come back as a Yankee Killer.

If things keep up like this they will have to build an annex on the Yankee Killer room in the American League. McCormick, a retrain at 27, has a string of 21 scoreless innings against New York, dating back to last July. His latest was a five-hit, 2-0 shutout for Washington Wednesday.

McCormick led the National League with a 2.70 earned run average for the San Francisco Giants in 1960 and had won 54 games by the time he was 23.

Arm trouble in 1962, the Giants' last pennant year, caused them to send him to Baltimore and he eventually went to the minors, in Rochester, N.Y., in 1964.

Lee MacPhail and Hank Bauer called me in the office at cutdown day," said McCormick. "They told me I was going to Rochester but promised I'd be back after a couple of good games."

SHOT HELPED

"They tell that to everybody but I probably would have been back if I had pitched good. It was terrible. It went like that for five or six weeks. Finally I went to the doctor and got a shot of cortisone. That helped. I think I was 5-8 when I went to him and I finished up 15-9, counting the playoffs."

Baltimore had no plans for McCormick in the spring of 1965 and sold him to Washington just before the season opened.

"Spring training was wasted last year," he said. "I don't think I was ready to start for Washington until May. But the arm has come around. It always takes me a time to get started in the spring."

"If I had the stuff when I was younger that I have now I would have been quite a pitcher. I don't throw as hard but I still have a pretty fair fast ball. Now I have better breaking stuff. The big thing is — nothing hurts."

Gil Hodges, the Washington manager, said McCormick had become a pitcher instead of just a thrower.

"He has done a real good job for us," said Hodges. "Last year he started and relieved. This year he will start more."

For '68 Olympics

IOC Limits Training

ROME (AP) — The talk in sports circles today was the decision by the International Olympic Committee to limit the period of high-altitude training for athletes in the 1968 Summer Games.

In an unusual move the IOC decreed Wednesday night that training in altitudes comparable to the altitudes of Mexico City—7,500 feet — in the last three months prior to the Games be limited to four weeks. Mexico City will be the site of the 1968 Games.

The rule does not apply to athletes permanently living and training in highland countries. Avery Brundage, IOC president, said in announcing the decision that anybody trying to circumvent the regulation would face possible disqualification.

New Keg Lead in ABC Meet

Rochester, N. Y. Team in First Place

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A clutch performance by anchorman Bob Bennett enabled Little Chef's Restaurant of Rochester, N.Y., to take first place Wednesday night in the regular-team division of the American Bowling Congress Tournament.

Bennett got two strikes and an eight-pin count in the final frame to boost Little Chef's total to 3,035, one pin more than Angelo's Roman Room of Batavia, N.Y., and Coca-Cola of Detroit. They had been tied for the lead since April 2.

Another Rochester team, Pat's Dairy, claimed first place in the booster division with 2,834.

Little Chef rolled games of 973, 1,041, and 1,021 as captain Dick Rago set the pace with a 643 series Bennett, the 5-foot-6 hero of the act, contributed 618. Pete Disalvo had 606, Al Bell, 603 and Frank Valance, 565.

Pat's Dairy spoiled a bid by Ridge Bowl of Chicago to repeat as booster-division champions. The 1965 Chicago titlists, who led the current tournament since April 1 with 2,765, dropped to second place after the new leaders rolled games of 966, 922 and 946.

Soccer Team Is Fined for Fielding Reserves

LIVERPOOL, England (UPI) — Everton was fined $5,600 by the English Soccer League Wednesday for fielding a weak team against Leeds April 16.

The manager of the Everton team fielded a team of reserves in a match a week before the semifinal cup matches.

Pistons Awaiting Draft After Losing Coin Flip

DETROIT (AP) — If New York grabs Cazzie Russell as its first pick in the National Basketball Association draft, Detroit will go after Lou Hudson of Minnesota, Dave Philip of Syracuse or Walt Wesley of Kansas.

That was the word from Pistons Coach Dave DeBusschere after Detroit by the flip of a coin — lost the right to first choice in the draft Wednesday.

The coin flip determined which of the last place teams in the two divisions of the NBA would get first choice in the May 11 college draft.

LITTLE CHANGE

Any possibility the Pistons might give the Knickerbockers a player in return for the Knicks' promise not to draft Russell appeared to vanish when New York Coach Dick McGuire said:

"No player on the Pistons would interest me except DeBusschere himself."

McGuire said "we haven't decided on our first choice, but we're very high on Russell." Russell was keeping mum on his intentions.

"If I have a preference," he said, "I think it wiser for me not to tell anyone at this time. There's no reason for me to antagonize anybody."

Army Still Seeks Football Mentor

WEST POINT, N. Y. — Army apparently is using the platoon system to find a new football coach.

But they still were looking today for a successor to Paul Dietzel, who abruptly quit the West Point job three weeks ago and signed a 10-year contract as football coach and athletic director at South Carolina.

It was disclosed Wednesday that more candidates had been talked to about the vacancy and one of them, Gene Ellenson, said: "They're interviewing a lot of people — about four the day I was there. I don't know how many of my chances. . . I feel like maybe I'm in the semi-finals."

Burgess Leads 8-6 Win

Chisox Have 'Smoky' Bat

By the Associated Press
Smoky Burgess, the catcher who could pass for one of those paunchy movie bartenders, doesn't worry about the tools of ignorance lugged around by most receivers.

Burgess lugged around only one tool — his bat.

And he used it Wednesday delivering a two-run pinch single that helped the Chicago White Sox to an 8-6 victory over Boston.

Top Names Missing in Texas Open

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Open had 144 entries without a favorite in the lot today as it moved out in the first round of the $80,000 golf tournament.

Only four of the top 20 money-winners and four of the four champions were in the field that is minus such big names as Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and the No. 1 and No. 3 money winners, Doug Sanders and Gary Brewer.

That's why it is so wide open and also there is the fact that the 6,700-yard Oak Hills Country Club course is in such good condition it is expected to be taken apart many times.

This was indicated Wednesday when Bobby Nichols shot a five-under-par 65 in leading a pro-amateur.

There were 66, 67, 68, 69s all over the place.

Frank Beard, who ranks fifth in the PGA money-winning list, is defending champion. There also are six other former Texas Open kings in the field — Phil Rodgers, Jay Hebert, Mike Sou-chak, Bruce Crampton, Wes Ellis and Gene Littler.

Tour champions here are Don Massengale, Bert Yancey, Dudley Wysong and Rodgers.

First money this year is $13,000.

A burly 38-year-old veteran, Burgess stands 5-foot-8 and weighs 192 pounds—most of it centrally located. He doesn't look the part but he happens to be the most prolific pinch hitter in baseball history. That's why the White Sox let the other guys wear the shin guards and chest protectors.

ADDS TO RECORD
Everytime Burgess delivers a pinch hit, he adds to his major league record. Wednesday's pinch hit was the 118th of his 17-year major league career. It helped the Sox to their 10th victory in 13 starts.

In the only other American League game played Wednesday, Washington blanked New York 2-0 on Mike McCormick's five-hitter. The other games on the schedule were postponed because of rain and cold.

Chicago broke a 5-5 tie in the seventh inning on two walks and a single by Ron Hansen. Then Burgess stroked his single and while he was chugging down the first base line, Ken Berry scored from third and Hansen took off from first and raced home with the Sox' third run of the inning.

McCormick, who was a $50,000 bonus boy with the New York Giants a decade ago, and won the National League earned run crown in 1960, is making a comeback as a Yankee-killer.

The shutout extended McCormick's streak to 21 scoreless innings against the onetime Bombers, who have now lost 12 of 14 starts.

McCormick got the runs he needed when Ken McMullen smacked a two-run double off Al Downing in the third inning. The hit was one of only three that Downing gave up but it was enough to beat the young left-hander.

THE LEFT SEAT, by Robert J. Sterling (Doubleday $4.95): The author of this dramatic and fascinating novel has been reporting and writing news of aviation for many years.

His main character is McDonald McKay, who is in training for the copilot seat — and eventually the "left seat" — pilot and captain of the big airliners.

Step by step the reader is taken through the arduous basic training in the class of young hopefuls — some of whom won't make it.

McKay was among the lucky ones who made it to copilot and years later to pilot. It was as pilot and captain that McKay faced the supreme test dreaded by any pilot, to say nothing of the others — a crash.

The story of the crash and its aftermath brings the book to its theme — the courage and integrity of the men and women who fly the big ships, and the terrible feeling of responsibility by a pilot who survived when his passengers didn't.

THE CASE OF RICHARD SORGE, by F. W. Deakin and G. R. Slory, Harper, $6.

Sorge was the spy who sent word to the Russians, from Tokyo, that the Japanese would enter World War II with a southward strike into the Pacific, rather than with an attack on Russia.

That was the crux of what a flimsy little ring of informers, under Sorge, accomplished in one of the classical cases of espionage.

It was an important contribution to the planning of the Soviets, but Sorge himself became a loser. He was executed by the Japanese in 1944, and it was 20 years later that the Russian government made him a publicly acknowledged hero.

The account is in deep contrast with the dashing exploits of fictional agents. It simply plods along with the minute details — the half-German, half-Russian Sorge becoming a German Communist; being recruited by the Russians; undergoing a seasoning period in China, and finally being sent to Japan in the 1930s as a pretended writer for German magazines.

A LAST LAMP BURNING, by Gwyn Griffin, Putnam, $6.95.

Griffin's reputation as a marvelous storyteller is well upheld in this big (512-page), complex and revealing novel.

The setting is Naples, Italy. The story begins with the death of a wealthy old man, whose several properties included a tumbledown building (it had been bombed during the war) in this slum. Many of the interwoven developments of the plot are con-

Solon Plans New Effort on Auto Safety

LANING (AP)—Sen. Roger Craig, D-Deerborn, said Wednesday he will try to develop state regulation of auto safety standards in the wake of this week's auto maker statements which removed some of their objections to government action.

Craig introduced a series of such bills which died in a Senate committee this year. He said he would try to revive the proposals as riders to House bills during the waning weeks of the legislative session.

He quoted John Bugas, Ford Motor Co. vice president, as saying that federal action in safety regulation should include states because of state experience and enforcement powers.

Bugas opposed Craig's bills at a Senate hearing earlier this year. Now, said Craig, "it is important that Mr. Bugas be given an opportunity to actually support regulation at the state level."

'Viet War to Last 5 Years'

By Esther Van Wagoner Tufty

WASHINGTON—The commandant of the U. S. Marine Corps, Gen. W. M. Greene Jr., told the 50 members of the Defense Advisory Committee on Women in the Services (DACOWITS) his personal prediction is that the war in Viet Nam would last five years and cost many dollars and lives. His forthrightness impressed the members of DACOWITS, who after three days in Washington will be guests of the Marine Corps at Parris Island, S.C., where Marines receive their basic training.

"The stake in Viet Nam is not just in keeping our pledge to the Vietnamese, although we will not waver on that, but our national security," said the General. He added, "We are fighting a disease (Communist aggression) and it will get worse if we don't stop it."

He's convinced the fighting men in Viet Nam know why they are there and that they could root out the Viet Cong and kill every Communist but he said this still would not do the job.

POLITICAL ENTITY

"We must help give the Vietnamese a political entity to permit them to govern themselves," he explained.

He spoke of the importance of "personal involvement by everyone" as necessary to military and economic victory.

Knowing the direct interest of DACOWITS in women in the military, he pledged that the Women Marines would be given more and more "independent duties" and that "more utilization of their talents would be made."

He had a word for parents. A wounded man in Viet Nam is brought back to a hospital in the states in five days, if his injury demands it.

He asked the DACOWITS to become even more attentive to the "dependents of servicemen and especially to be 'personally involved' in the Viet Nam situation.

Cong Has Killed or Abducted 4,000 Viet Officials in 2 Years

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Viet Cong terrorists have killed or abducted more than 4,000 Vietnamese government officials in the past two years, authorities report.

Red agents have been striking mainly at the countryside, decimating local leadership and paralyzing administration.

"Many villages today are virtually depopulated of their natural leaders," one official report said. "Their loss to Viet Nam is inestimable and will take a generation or more to replace."

In March alone, 32 village officials were killed, 20 were kidnapped — and many of these were found dead later — and 14 were wounded in terrorist attacks.

THREE CHIEFS

Those killed included three district chiefs.

The total of officials killed or abducted from the start of 1964 is 4,338.

Incomplete estimates of the nonofficial victims of Viet Cong terror in 1965 are 11,066 persons — killed, wounded or kidnapped.

According to captured Viet Cong directives, three-man "special activities cells" have been instructed to strike particularly at officials.

DEDICATED

The terrorists are generally young — many in their teens — strongly dedicated and highly militant.

The effort to disrupt organized administrative life of rural Viet Nam was accompanied by the growth of urban terror.

Terrorist acts in the Saigon-Cholon metropolitan area grew from 14 in 1962 to 103 in 1965. The capital has been struck by more than 60 Viet Cong attacks so far this year.

DEEP TANK—Film processing with a special solution takes place in this narrow plastic tube, a Brooks Deep Tank. The cover (held at left) holds a 36-exposure 35mm cartridge. When it covers the tube, the thin rod is pushed down, unreeing the film inside. The film is developed and fixed in four minutes.

New Film Processor Out

By IRVING DESFO
AP Newsfeatures

Some weeks ago, I described an unusual technique whereby a 36-exposure cartridge of black-and-white film can be developed and fixed in a tiny plastic jar in four minutes while the film remains inside the cartridge.

The ingenious Japanese manufacturer has another device for processing a 36-exposure roll of 35mm film.

It also requires no darkroom, can be used anywhere there is water handy and takes only four minutes to develop and fix the black-and-white film.

Called a Brooks Deep Tank, it too is distributed in the United States by Burrell Brooks Inc. of Englewood, N.J.

The gadget is a light proof plastic tube, three feet long and two and five-eighths inches in diameter, with a special light-tight cover.

ATTACHED TO COVER

Attached to the cover is a receptacle to hold the 36-exposure cartridge by a long rod which passes through the cover.

This long, light plastic tube becomes, in effect, a deep darkroom processing tank.

It is essential that the end of the film — the leader — remain outside the cartridge on rewinding the film after all the exposures have been made.

By anchoring the very end of the film and forming a loop out of the leader, the entire length of the film comes out of the cartridge after the cover is put on the tube and the rod is pushed down.

SPECIAL SOLUTION

Before the cover goes on however, the deep tank is filled with a special processing solution.

One liter of this concentrated liquid comes with the Brooks Deep Tank. It is poured in first.

Then one and a half liters of water is added to fill the tube up to a specified mark.

4 MINUTES LATER

Four minutes after the cover is put on and the film inside is unreeled by pushing down the rod, the film is developed and fixed.

The cover is removed revealing the processed film.

The film is cut at each end to free it, placed in a sink or pan of water for a 15-minute washing, then hung up to dry.

The monobath solution is said to remain effective for about six months even if unused.

AT PEAK LEVEL

With use, its strength may be maintained at peak level by adding a small amount of the concentrated solution. It comes in one-ounce jars.

The Brooks Deep Tank is a handy technique for processing black-and-white film from 35mm down to Miniox size, at home, when traveling or at a vacation resort.

During the trip itself, the working solution may be poured into a gallon jug or three quart bottles for safe transportation.

The plastic tube has a metal collar so that it can hang from a hook on a wall, a desk or a cabinet to prevent accidental tipping over at any time in use.

CLEVER MOVE

I think it clever of the Japanese to figure out these ingenious techniques to process films anywhere in four minutes without a darkroom.

There are many occasions — and some emergencies — when it is vital to know that your exposures are "on the beam" or that you've photographed the essential elements of some event or locality while you're still there.

These methods give you that information on the spot.

Pistol Used in Caterer's Shooting Traced

Say LBJ Aide Has Resigned

McNamara at Talks on N-Role

DETROIT (AP) — Authorities have traced the pistol used to shoot Robert Rosenberg, a Southfield man who told of being abducted for 12 days, to a store in Wichita, Kan.

Police said a clerk at Gateway Sporting Goods Co. in Wichita sold the pistol to a man who identified himself as Bob Boyd of Chicago on April 9, one day after Rosenberg disappeared.

Wreck Injuries Fatal

TRENTON (AP) — Thomas E. Sarnowski, 18, of Dearborn died here Wednesday of injuries suffered Saturday when his car overturned on I-75 in Brownstown Township, Wayne County.

Rosenberg, 32, a caterer, vanished from April 8 to April 20 when he staggered into a motel near Temperance, wounded in the back.

He told police he was abducted from his car in downtown Detroit and was bound, gagged and blindfolded for 12 days until

Dies in Indiana Crash

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (AP) — Elzie Lee Acree, 23, of Benton Harbor, Mich., died Wednesday when his car struck a large signpost on the Indiana Toll Road near here and overturned.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Undersecretary of State Thomas C. Mann, a key administration adviser on Latin American affairs, is reported to have resigned from the State Department's No. 3 job.

Mann declined comment on the reports. He has been undersecretary for economic affairs since March 1965 and previously had served 14 months as assistant secretary for inter-American affairs.

LONDON (UPI) — U.S. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara met with Western defense ministers today for talks aimed at giving allied powers a greater say in NATO nuclear strategy without putting more fingers on the atomic trigger.

McNamara met with members of NATO's nuclear planning working group from Britain, West Germany, Italy and Turkey for the two-days of confidential talks.

The five-nation group will report its findings to a special allied committee in Paris, organized by McNamara last year to promote great nuclear sharing within the organization.

These weapons are stationed in member countries of alliance under strict Anglo-American control.

The plan behind this effort is above all to enable nonnuclear allies to acquaint themselves with the conditions under which NATO may decide to use the tactical weapons placed in their respective territories. They would also be told where the weapons are kept and what targets they would aim at.

Officials said the talks, in particular, would center on how best to associate the non-nuclear allies with the deployment, targeting and use of NATO's "tactical" nuclear weapons.

SWEDISH RYE BREAD

Simmer Fish Fillets and Vegetables Together

If the word "jardiniere" puzzles you, think of the French word "jardin" or garden, and it will be easier to remember that the menu term jardiniere means "with young vegetables."

For example, take this recipe for Fish Jardiniere. The fish is poached right in the same skillet with finely minced vegetables. Fish Jardiniere does not involve a sauce.

It is a heartier meal-in-one dish because, as the National Fisheries Institute points out, it is low in calories yet high in nutrients. Fish fillets provide protein of the highest quality and the vegetables contribute valuable vitamins.

Fish Fillets Jardiniere

- 1 pound fish fillets, fresh or frozen (flounder, cod, sole, haddock or ocean perch)
 - 1/4 cup butter or margarine
 - 1 1/2 cups finely minced carrots
 - 1/2 cup finely minced onion
 - 1/2 cup finely minced celery
 - 1/4 cup finely minced leeks, white part only (optional)
 - 1 package frozen broccoli, stems removed and finely minced; flowerets cut into smaller pieces
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1 teaspoon sugar
- If fish is frozen, let partially thaw on refrigerator shelf or at room temperature. Melt butter in a large skillet; add minced vegetables except broccoli flowerets, and 1/2 teaspoon salt and sugar. Simmer over low heat until lightly browned.

Cover with hot water and add broccoli flowerets. Cover and cook 10 minutes.

Mixed Fruit Folded Into Lemon Mold

The "confetti" effect in "Confetti Fruit Squares" is provided by that longtime favorite of the entire family, canned fruit cocktail.

The bite-size pieces of five different kinds of fruit — cling peaches, pears, pineapple, seedless grapes and maraschino cherries — greatly enhance this easy-to-serve dessert.

Confetti Fruit Squares

- 1 can (1 lb. 1 oz.) fruit cocktail
- 1 cup shortbread-type cookie crumbs (about 15 cookies)
- 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
- 1 package (3 oz.) lemon gelatin

1 1/2 cups hot water
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
3 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup whipping cream

Drain fruit cocktail thoroughly. Blend crumbs with butter. Sprinkle about two-thirds of mixture in bottom of 8-inch square pan.

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Blend in lemon rind and juice and sugar. Cool until slightly thickened. Whip cream until stiff; fold into gelatin along with fruit cocktail.

Spoon gelatin mixture over crumbs in pan. Sprinkle remaining crumbs over top. Chill until firm. Cut into squares to serve. Makes 9 squares.

Fill small wedges of celery with peanut butter for a small fry snack.

Sprinkle fillets with remaining 1/4 teaspoon salt and lay them in the bottom of another large skillet. Pour vegetables and liquid over; simmer 8 to 10 minutes until fish is white and flaky. Drain off excess liquid and serve on a large platter. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

Yeast Breads—Plain or Fancy

By JANET ODELL,
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Several months ago we published news of a revolutionary new way of making yeast bread. The dough rises in the refrigerator and may be baked anywhere from two to 24 hours after preparing.

We hope that lots of our readers tried the original recipe and were satisfied with the results. If you followed directions exactly, you should have had delicious bread.

First of our bread recipes today is another one in this new manner. You'll find that men are specially fond of Swedish Rye Bread.

SWEDISH RYE

The "CoolRise" Way

- 3 to 3 1/2 cups flour
 - 2 1/2 cups rye flour
 - 1/2 cup warm water
 - 2 packages or cakes yeast
 - 1 1/2 cups warm milk
 - 1 tablespoon sugar
 - 1 tablespoon salt
 - 1/4 cup molasses
 - 2 tablespoons margarine
 - 2 tablespoons grated orange peel, Cooking oil
- Spoon or pour flours into dry measuring cup. Level off and pour measured flour onto wax paper.

Measure warm water into large warm bowl. Sprinkle or crumble in yeast; stir until dissolved. Add warm milk, sugar, salt, molasses and margarine. Add 2 cups flour.

Beat with a rotary beater until smooth (about 1 minute). Add 1 cup rye flour. Beat vigorously with a wooden spoon until smooth (about 150 strokes). Stir in remaining rye flour and orange peel. Add enough white flour to make a soft dough.

Turn out onto lightly floured board and knead until smooth and elastic, about 8-10 minutes. Cover with plastic wrap; then a towel; let rest on board for 20 minutes.

Divide dough in half. Shape into a round loaf. Flatten slightly. Place in greased 8-inch pie pans or on a greased baking sheet. Brush loaves with oil. Cover pans or baking sheets loosely with wax paper brushed with oil; then top with plastic wrap. Refrigerate 2 to 24 hours.

When ready to bake, remove from refrigerator. Carefully uncover the dough; let stand for 10 minutes at room temperature. Using a greased toothpick or metal skewer, puncture any gas bubbles which may have formed on the dough.

Bake at 375 degrees for about 35 minutes, or until done. If desired, brush with melted margarine. Makes 2 loaves.

Back to the conventional method of making yeast dough with a recipe for whole wheat hard rolls.

WHOLE WHEAT HARD ROLLS

- 2 cups warm water
- 1 package or cake yeast, active dry or compressed
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 tablespoon margarine
- 2 1/2 cups unsifted whole wheat flour
- 2 1/2 cups unsifted white flour (about)
- 1 egg white, unbeaten

Measure warm water into large warm bowl. Sprinkle or crumble in yeast; stir until dissolved. Stir in sugar, salt, margarine and whole wheat flour; beat until smooth. Stir in enough white flour to make a soft dough.

Turn out onto lightly floured board. Knead until smooth and elastic, about 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Punch down; turn out onto lightly floured board. Divide dough in half. Divide each half into 10 equal pieces. Form each into a smooth ball. Place in lightly greased baking sheets, about 3-inches apart. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Bake in hot oven (425 degrees) until lightly browned, about 15-20 minutes. Remove from oven; brush rolls with egg white and return to oven for 2 minutes. Makes 20 rolls.

Chocolate filling for sweet rolls may be a new idea. Try Chocolate Swirl Rolls at your next afternoon party or serve them with salad for luncheon.

Fish Before Flesh

The fashion of serving seafood appetizers probably began in Elizabethan England. The rule at that time was that on all church fast days one meat dish might be served if it was accompanied by a fish dish, and the fish was eaten first. People found that fish was a light and appetizing prelude to a meal, thus beginning the serving rule "fish before flesh."

- 1/4 cup warm water
- 1/4 cup milk, scalded
- 1/4 cup shortening
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 3 eggs, beaten
- 4 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour

Vegetable Oil Filling:

- 1/4 cup sugar
- 2 squares (1 oz. each) semi-sweet chocolate, grated
- 1/4 cup finely chopped walnuts
- 1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1/4 cup soft butter or margarine
- 1 egg, slightly beaten

Sprinkle yeast on warm water; stir until dissolved and set aside. Combine scalded milk, shortening, 1/4 cup sugar, and salt. Cool until lukewarm. Stir in 3 beaten eggs. Stir in 2 cups flour with spoon. Add dissolved yeast and mix well.

Stir in remaining flour; mix thoroughly. Brush top of dough with vegetable oil. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled.

Combine 1/4 cup sugar, chocolate, walnuts, and cinnamon. Mix well and set aside.

Turn dough out on floured surface; knead lightly 3 to 5 minutes. Roll out 1/4-inch thick. (It is easier to handle half the dough at a time.) Cut dough with floured 2-inch round cookie cutter.

Pat each circle into an oval about twice the original size. Butter entire surface of each oval and sprinkle with chocolate mixture. Roll up, turning open ends under along seam side, and place in greased 2-inch muffin pans, seam side down.

Let rise again until double (about 1 hour) in warm place and brush tops lightly with beaten egg. Bake in 400-degree oven 12 minutes. Serve with butter, if desired.

WHAT A SAUCE — Serve a successful Hollandaise Sauce everytime by following the recipe in the new American Dairy Association cookbook. It's a must for Eggs Benedict, delicious on broccoli or asparagus and adapts easily to a Bearnaise sauce for steaks.

Dairy Association Prints a Cookbook

What cook wouldn't like to master the art of making a successful Hollandaise Sauce every time? This tricky sauce no longer has to be a mystery. And now everyone, from brides to grandmothers, can serve a succulent sauce successfully every time, with this simplified version of the classic Hollandaise.

This sauce recipe, found in the American Dairy Association's new cookbook, "Modern Approach to Everyday Cooking," involves a new mixing technique. After lemon juice, water and salt are added, the mixture is transferred to a double boiler and cooked until thickened. It

Bean Recipe Just Enough for Twosome

Cooking for two or three — depending upon the cook's attitude and her ingenuity with convenience foods — can be a pleasure or a problem. Too often, the challenge becomes a chore, as a homemaker struggles to cleverly add appeal to those "second-time-round" main dishes that most recipes produce.

If that's the story at your house, you'll delight in this meal planned for the small family. The main attraction is Spicy Bean Pot, a hearty combination of canned pork and beans with tomato sauce, cubed cooked pork, a dash of cloves, and tangy-sweet orange slices. The dish is a quick-fix one and — here's a bonus — portions are pared down 'til they're just right for one meal.

Spicy Bean Pot
 1 cup cubed cooked pork
 1/4 cup chopped onion
 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
 1 can (1 pound) pork and beans with tomato sauce
 Generous dash ground cloves
 4 thick orange slices, peeled and cut in half.
 In saucepan, brown pork and cook onion in butter until tender. Stir in beans, cloves, and orange. Heat; stir now and then. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
 Associated Press Food Editor
 Typically American are up-side-down cakes. Our ingenious cooks make them many ways varying both their fruit topping and cake base.
 This recipe is the sort that's just right for family use. Its cake base is hearty and not tender. Stir in beans, cloves, and orange. Heat; stir now and then. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

APRICOT UPSIDE-DOWN CAKE — Made with wheat germ and canned apricot halves, this cake is a substantial and nutritious family dessert.

cake and adds not only nutrients but interesting texture.
APRICOT UPSIDE-DOWN CAKE
 1 can (1 pound 14 ounces) unpeeled apricot halves
 2 cups unsifted regular flour
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
 1/2 cup sugar
 1/4 cup wheat germ
 1/2 cup (1 stick) butter or margarine
 1 egg, beaten until it begins to thicken
 1/2 cup apricot preserves
 Drain apricots and reserve 1 cup of the syrup.
 In a mixing bowl thoroughly stir together the flour, baking powder, salt and nutmeg; stir in sugar, then wheat germ.
 With a pastry blender cut in 1/2 cup of the butter until particles are fine. Stir in the reserved 1 cup apricot syrup and the beaten egg.
 In a square metal cake pan (9 by 9 by 2 inches) over low heat, melt the remaining butter (2 tablespoons plus 1 teaspoon); remove from heat. Stir in the apricot preserves and spread evenly over bottom of pan.
 Arrange drained apricot halves cut-side up over the apricot preserve mixture. Carefully turn cake batter over fruit and spread evenly.
 Bake in a hot (400 degrees) oven until a cake-tester inserted in the center comes out without any batter adhering to it — about 35 minutes.
 Place pan on wire rack for 5 minutes. Turn out on serving plate. Serve hot.

Deviled Ham Is Base for Baked Egg Dish

Bake a platter of deviled ham and "egg nests" for a most memorable brunch and break away from the usual routine! They're simply made — toast, spread with lively-flavored deviled ham, is topped with beaten egg whites that make frothy "nests" to hold the egg yolks.

They're beautiful to look at and even better to eat — a marvelous way to start the day at breakfast or brunch, or later, if you like, for a savory supper. It's a good way to encourage the children to eat breakfast, too!

Ham and Egg Nests

4 eggs
 4 slices toast

1 1/4-oz. can deviled ham salt pepper
 paprika
 1 tablespoon chopped parsley,

Separate each egg, combining whites and keeping each yolk separate. Beat whites until stiff. Spread each toast slice with deviled ham and place on cookie sheet. Heap egg white on each piece of toast.

Make a depression in the egg white and carefully slide one yolk into each. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, and paprika. Bake at 375 degrees for 15 minutes, until whites are set and delicate, lightly browned. Sprinkle with parsley. Serves 4.

HAM AND EGG NESTS — Serve frothy "egg nests," baked on toast spread with lively-flavored deviled ham, for a memorable brunch or breakfast that looks as special as it tastes.

New Czar Faces Problems

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD — After working for Lyndon B. Johnson,

Jack Valenti may consider his new job as movie czar a vacation. But he'll find plenty of work to do.

The special assistant to President Johnson was elected as the $100,000-a-year president of the Motion Picture Production Code this week. He'll take over an office that is somewhat in disarray, having been unfilled since the death of Eric Johnston in 1968.

Valenti, whose headquarters will be in New York, will also face a formidable set of problems, the most serious ones concerning censorship.

The present situation harks back to why the job was created in the first place. In the 1920s, the bustling young film industry had no restraints. Some quick-buck producers purveyed nudity and blatant sex, much to the alarm of the nation's moralists. The alarm became more general after a series of scandals involving important film names. The cry arose in pulpits and editorials against wild Hollywood, and movie censor boards began to proliferate.

BANDED TOGETHER
The worried film moguls banded together in the Motion Picture Producers Association and hired Will Hays as president. As President Warren G. Harding's postmaster general and political chieftain, Hays had important connections in Washington and all over the country.

Decisions by the Supreme Court helped the producers in their drive for freedom of the screen. But some protectors of public morals felt that movies have gone too far in depicting sex and restraints are needed. The classification of films has been proposed to protect children from licentious movies. Such a system has long been employed in England and other countries. Sen. Margaret Chase Smith has announced hearings on the matter.

"Hays' chief function was to hold down the censor boards," says a veteran producer. "He had the political know-how, and he was strong enough to force the producers to clean up their

"That will be Jack Valenti's first job: dealing with the censors and classifiers," commented an observer. "He'll have his hands full."

Broken Law

Arrow Points to Court

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — R. C. Hyatt shot an arrow into the air — and it landed him in City Recorder's Court.

Hyatt said Wednesday he had violated a city ordinance which court officials confessed they had to search long and hard to find.

Neighbors of Hyatt said that the noise and the danger to their children prompted their complaint. Mrs. Dru Gardton told the court that Hyatt practiced his archery at 2:30 a.m.

GETS SENTENCE
Judge J. B. Beachum Jr., sentenced the archer to 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of $50 for court costs and a fine.

After the trial, Hyatt said he did do some shooting in the pre-dawn hours because that's when he gets home from his job.

Dame Anderson to Star
in Ypsilanti Theater

YPSILANTI (AP) — Dame Judith Anderson, one of the world's best known Shakespearean and classic actresses, has been signed to star in the Ypsilanti Greek Theatre's 1966 Festival production of "Orestes."

The theatre said today the Australian actress will expand her repertoire of classical roles by playing Clytemnestra for the first time in the trilogy by Aeschylus.

Key to Today's Music—3

Folk Rocker Is an American Antihero

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the third in a four-part "definitive guide" through the world of teen-age popular music.)

By PHILIP WERDELL
NEW YORK — (NEA) — Folk rock, the latest in pop music, is Bobby Dylan.

But this is not just a new fad, like a new dance. Dylan has actually changed the whole nature of pop music.

Today, the word is out to song writers in the industry that they had better listen to their Dylan.

For generations, pop music has been built upon superstars singing about superdrams and superdepressions. If Dylan is the new hero, it is because he is an antihero.

"I would not want to be bach, mozart, tolstoy, joe hill, gertrude stein, or james dean," sings Dylan. "They are all dead."

LACK HEROES

For years, adults explained pop music and its idols on the grounds that their children could find no real heroes in modern society. Everything is relative, every idea open to criticism, every leader fallible — so youth creates its heroes.

But what a strange hero, this cat Dylan. He's unabashed, non-conformist, unpretentious and not particularly heroic.

"The great books have been written. The great sayings have been said," says Dylan. And, therefore, it's quite logical that the great people are dead.

With this philosophy, Dylan lives in the hearts of American youth.

SEEN COMING

You could see it coming with James Dean. What was going to happen to the "rebel without a cause" when he himself realized that there was no cause?

He would say with Dylan I define nothing. Not beauty, not patriotism, I take each thing as it is, without prior rules about what it should be.

He just tells it as it is whether "standing there watching the parade" or "on the pavement thinking 'bout the government."

To preface his songs, Dylan says, "I am about to sketch you a picture of what goes on around here sometimes. Though I don't understand it too well myself, what's really happening."

BROUGHT HOME

Dylan has taken the flimsy illusions of pop music and "brought it all back home."

The average mother who really takes the time to listen to Dylan will certainly say something to the effect of "What is the world coming to?" or "I hope my little Johnny will have learned enough at home to disregard this trash."

A natural reaction, but maybe it isn't all that bad. Dylan does not preach nihilism. His "message," and he hates that word, is not pessimistic.

He only says, "I have given up any attempt at perfection." "Now," he asks, "what's so bad about that?"

I'M A POET

Dylan doesn't "define" beauty, but he does not say that it does not exist. Far from it. He is laughing at himself but sincere when he says, "I'm a poet and I know it."

One newspaper article found that many Harvard students feel that Dylan was the only poet who truly speaks to their generation. His songs read like the free verse of the "beat poets."

The images are not obscure, and the rhythmic rock music gives a simple form to the chaotic stream of impression and words.

Maybe Dylan is not a literary great, but he is literary, and he does take his "art" seriously. Cultural snobs will not be satisfied, but that's democracy.

HOLDS TRUE

The same holds true of patriotism. Dylan hardly writes modern editions of the "Star-Spangled Banner," but, on the other hand, you have to read the daily newspaper to keep up with what he says in his songs.

This is a quiet new form of patriotism—informed democracy.

Possibly it is too early to know if pop music is really changing. Bob Dylan and folk rock might go out as fast as they came in. Dylan himself hints that this might be human nature.

In his tune, "Maggie's Farm," Dylan concedes, "I try my best to be just like I am, but every-one wants me to be like them."

IMITATORS

There are plenty of people trying to be like Dylan. Like every pop star, he has a countless number of imitators — The Byrds, The Turtles, Sonny and Cher, Donovan, even, at times the Beatles.

It is probable that none of them will make Dylan be like them, but it is the first warning sign that his antihero philosophy may not have very many buyers.

Folk rock, with its new anti-romantic and anti-pathetic message, might become a victim of its own popularity.

The Milk of Kindness

PORTLAND, Tex. (UPI) — Larry Ray, a newsman, was driving when he saw a woman driving another auto with a wheel on fire. He flagged down the car, and then a passing milk truck. He borrowed a half-gallon of milk from the driver, and doused the fire.

Film Is Offered to High Schools by State Police

A film entitled "Operation Teen-Ager" will be offered to area high schools May 23-27 by the Pontiac Post of the Michigan State Police.

The 35-minute color film is a narration with four inmates of the Texas State Prison re-creating their personal lives, pointing out errors in their own past thinking and social factors that contributed to their lives of crime.

Interested schools are urged to contact the Pontiac post.

Movie Beats Traffic Fine

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — James Brown of Tampa was cleared of a traffic charge after showing court movies in city court of a string of cars — and a motorcycle cop — making the same illegal left turn.

"In this case I'll temper justice with mercy," Judge Tom Meyers said Wednesday. "Not guilty."

Brown is the organist at Tampa's Al Lopez Field and said he had seen the same infraction committed hundreds of times following home games of the spring-training Cincinnati Reds.

So after a patrolman gave him a ticket, Brown, 43, grabbed his camera and caught 16 cars and a motorcycle cop making the turn.

The film also showed a patrolman stopping traffic after a ball game to permit the turn.

(10) Socialism and Silk

by Don Oakley and John Lane

Wang Mang, Champion of the Downtrodden

Rome at its Height Drapes itself in Chinese Silk

Corruption, Intrigue, Assassination Doom the House of Han

The Seres (Chinese) send to Rome the fleecy product of their forests... all that a Roman lady may exhibit her charms in transparent gauze. Pliny the Elder

In 8 A.D., a popular Confucian scholar, Wang Mang, regent to the 4-year-old emperor, seized the throne of China, proclaimed a new dynasty and launched a sweeping program of reforms.

He nationalized the land and ordered that the great estates be broken up and given to those who tilled them.

He freed thousands of slaves, advanced low-interest loans to farmers and small businessmen and nationalized the chief industries.

But Wang Mang had attempted too much too quickly and had made too many powerful enemies, even — because of government bungling — among those he had tried to help.

After 15 years, the nation rebelled, Wang Mang was killed and the Han dynasty re-instated.

2 GREAT EMPIRES

The civilized world at this time was divided between two great empires in their heydays — China in the East and Rome in the West.

Though they had no diplomatic contact, the Silk Road across Asia brought vast quantities of that coveted fabric to Rome.

While the historian Pliny may have been mistaken about how the "Seres" — the Silk People — made silk and was somewhat of an old fogey about feminine fashions, he was right when he pointed with alarm to the huge sums that "luxury and the female sex cost us."

Many millions in Roman gold drained into the pockets of middlemen along the Silk Road over the decades. Thus little silkworms may actually have contributed to the decline and fall of the mighty Roman Empire.

BLOODY REVOLT

Before that, however, decay again infected the house of Han.

A bloody revolt by a religious sect called the Yellow Turbans undermined the central authority of the government.

Dowager empresses and palace eunuchs became the real powers behind the throne, which more often than not was occupied by a child — until he became old enough to be assassinated.

The corruption and cruelty of the eunuchs resulted in a general massacre of "the beardless ones" by the military in 189 A.D. and signaled the start of a period of civil war.

GLORIOUS PERIOD

The Han dynasty finally ground to an end in 220 A.D. Yet so glorious had it been that Chinese long afterwards were to call themselves Sons of Han.

Houston Budget Dips

Drug Man of Year Award Goes to Hart

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., was presented the Drug Field Man of the Year Award for 1965 Wednesday by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

The award was made by American Druggist Magazine and the American Retail Druggist Association.

Hart was voted the award in recognition of his sponsorship of a bill that would make it unlawful for medical practitioners to profit from drugs or anything else they prescribe for their patients.

Pair Arrested in Center Line School Damage

CENTER LINE (UPI) — Center Line Police yesterday arrested a Warren man and a 18-year-old Center Line boy in connection with vandalism at an elementary school here last month.

Authorities said James Sizemore, 21, and the juvenile were responsible for the vandalism at Ellis Elementary School, causing $5,000 damage.

Sizemore also was charged with breaking and entering and malicious destruction at Wolf Junior High School in February.

A total of $500 in supplies and equipment was stolen.

Junior Editors Quiz on SPACE BREATHING

QUESTION: How do astronauts breathe in space?

ANSWER: There is no air in space. When astronauts venture out beyond the layer of air surrounding the earth, they must take their air with them.

Oxygen is the part of air we must breathe in order to live. It can be made by chemical processes and compressed into steel cylinders.

The astronauts take enough of these along to last through their trips. We show some of the ways spacemen use oxygen.

At the upper left is an orbiting capsule with one or more astronauts inside.

These men may be in sealed space suits with tubes giving them oxygen from the capsule's main supply. If a suit is taken off, the oxygen must fill the capsule.

When an astronaut steps out alone into space, as was done last year (upper right), a long tube connected with the capsule will give him needed air.

Someday, perhaps, men will live on the moon, perhaps in large plastic domes as we suggest below.

Inside these domes, plants will be grown to help with the oxygen supply, just as most plants give off oxygen.

It will probably be possible to control living conditions inside such a dome so as to make them quite comfortable. At lower left, a man is exploring in a special moon suit. These will carry their own oxygen tanks.

FOR YOU TO DO: Draw your own version of a man walking in a moon suit, but remember that recent pictures show the moon's surface to be extremely pitted and rough. You will have to provide some special contraption which he could wear on his feet.

Unrest Hits 2nd Detroit High School

DETROIT (AP) — Unrest struck another Detroit school even as a leader of a student revolt at Northern High School reported Wednesday that dissident pupils and school officials were drawing closer to a settlement.

Charles Colding, 17, a senior who helped lead a four-day boycott of Northern, said there was progress in talks with Dr. Samuel M. Brownell, Detroit schools superintendent. The discussions were to continue today.

Meanwhile, eight Southeastern High School students were arrested and ticketed for creating an improper diversion in the Southeastern lobby.

The demonstration started when about a dozen students picketed in front of Southeastern. About 70 youngsters walked out of the building and joined pickets. Then, the teen-agers filed back into the lobby where another 300 youngsters gathered around.

Most Northern students stayed out of classes during the boycott, which ended Tuesday. The dissident pupils are protesting what they say is an inferior education at Northern. They also are demanding ouster of Northern Principal Arthur T. Carly. Carly has stayed away from his desk during the past three days, but Brownell said Carly still was principal.

'Playgirl of Ex-Canada Official Had Red Agents for Neighbors'

OTTAWA (UPI) — A former police commissioner said yesterday Soviet agents were neighbors of Gerda Munsinger, the alleged playgirl of Canada's onetime defense chief.

C. W. Harvison, former head of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, told a panel investigating the "Little Profumo" scandal that the Montreal building where Mrs. Munsinger once lived was a hangout for Russian agents. But he did not know if any visited her apartment.

Mrs. Munsinger, a former East German beauty queen, was identified in earlier testimony as a one-time Soviet spy who had an "illicit sexual relationship" with an associate defense minister in the cabinet of former Prime Minister John Diefenbaker.

The defense minister at the time was Pierre Sevigny who has said only that he once was "socially acquainted" with Mrs. Munsinger. The woman lived in Canada, between 1955 and 1961 and now lives in West Germany.

Harvison also testified that the blonde divorcee was under surveillance for three months prior to her departure from Canada. The apartment building, he said, was being checked before her background was known.

The formal inquiry into the alleged scandal began after Justice Minister Lucien Cardin charged Diefenbaker with mismanaging a case involving possible security leaks.

Diefenbaker was head of the former Conservative government, and Cardin was appointed by Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson who heads the Liberal party, now in power.

The case has been compared to Britain's 1963 scandal in which an assistant defense minister, John Profumo, resigned after being linked with playgirl Christine Keeler.

The charges that Mrs. Munsinger had an "illicit" affair with the former defense chief were made before the panel Tuesday by Commission Counsel John L. O'Brien. He also said that the woman knew at least two other former cabinet officials on a "first name basis."

South Viet Antieverything Demonstrations Real 'Gassers'

By TOM TIEDE

SAIGON, Viet Nam—(NEA)—If the antieverything demonstrations recently going on here weren't so serious, some of them would be quite funny.

To tell the truth, everybody taking part has rather a good time of it... shouting, snickering, singing, strutting, waving banners, and carrying on like an Oriental panty raid.

Indeed, it's kind of kicks, especially when they start throwing chemical bombs. Then it's a real gas.

Take one they had the other afternoon. Shortly before dusk, several hundred giggling teen-agers grabbed their placards and began charging up one end of a dust-and-dung filled street.

At the other end, bayonets fixed, 22 Vietnamese soldiers strung out in a skirmish line and waited with wide grins. It was to be a battle of

PARIS (UPI) — The American film "Rapture" won the International Women's Cinema Grand Prix yesterday.

Thirteen French movie actresses were supposed to vote on the best film of the year, but three did not show up and the other 10 started arguing about whether the absentees were entitled to vote by mail. Before the shouting had died, three more of the jurors walked out, and those that were left voted for "Rapture."

temerity vs. technology. The soldiers were outfitted with U.S. rifles, U.S. flak jackets, U.S. helmets, U.S. ammunition and tear gas bombs manufactured in Pennsylvania.

The kids, on the other hand, were armed with rocks — home-grown rocks.

The marchers stopped about 50 yards from the troops and there followed a few moments of confused merriment.

Everybody kept pushing the kid next to him out in front. Girls squealed. Boys bawled. Then, suddenly, from mid-crowd, a rock flew. Then another until the air and pavement were filled with missiles.

The soldiers danced, ducked, and playfully protected each other with wicker-woven shields painted green.

GAS GRENADES

A khaki-clad sergeant, red-faced and somewhat embarrassed, tossed a half-dozen gas grenades in front of the frolicking demonstrators.

The bombs hissed, popped and smoked.

And everybody began to cheer.

In time, the street began to look like a backyard brawl. People in shorts observed from the balconies of their homes.

Infants ran around collecting used grenade casings. Street vendors did a brisk business in iced coconut milk lipwound from the action.

But it was combat of a sort... with casualties even. Kids with swollen eyes grieved as they stumbled over garbage cans.

Gals with torn skirts shrieked and blushed. And fights within the fight broke out over who would carry the posters.

At first it appeared as if the youths wouldn't stand up under the gas.

REORGANIZE

But then somebody began passing out sliced lemons for stinging eyes and plastic bags as make-do masks. And in a moment the Kids Korps was reorganized.

"Man, man," they shouted.

"Let's rush 'em again!" And they did. And did again. And again. Kicking at the exploding grenades, launching rocks and having a heck of a time.

One boy fell on top of an explosion but was dragged clear by others.

STAYS WITH IT

Not 10 years old by the look of him, he could have been killed by overexposure to the chemical, but he sat up, got up, chuckled and ran out to get more rocks.

On and on the shenanigans went until vomiting, dinner bells, invading mothers and weariness were down the teen-age troopers.

Their attacks grew infrequent... and the gas began to thin out.

Then, finally, it ended.

The government forces lit up U.S. cigarettes and began to cackle among themselves. The kids slapped each other on the backs. The vendors closed their carts. The onlookers left their balconies and went inside. Night fell and the street was deserted.

But as the lamps lighted, one could still hear the laughter.

second row are Luci Johnson and her fiancé, Pat Nugent. President and Mrs. Johnson entertained the Kragas at a party that lasted until 3 a.m.

Johnsons' Party Swings Till Wee Hours

WASHINGTON (AP) — They could have danced all night at the White House—and they almost did.
A dinner-dance honoring Denmark's Prime Minister Jens Otto Krag and his actress wife lasted until President Johnson finally quit the dance floor at 3 a.m.

It was the longest Johnson party on record—and the swiftest.

The guest list of about 150 brought together Hollywood and high society—including comedian Bob Hope and boxing champion Jack Dempsey.
"The best in my life," blonde Mrs. Krag said of the party as she and her husband left at a polite 1 a.m. She had fox-trotted with Johnson and danced the frug with Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and watched the Watusi performed by Luci Johnson and her fiancé, Patrick J. Nugent.

GOT A LESSON
The result, she said, was terrific. "I learned from your president how to make a party," she added with a smile.

Mrs. Johnson retired at 1:35 a.m. but the President wouldn't quit even when the Lee Evans orchestra played "The Party's Over" five times. The other dancers agreed, greeting this tune with cries of "More! More!"

Danish-American friendship, got a big boost all around—in champagne toasts and dance-floor good will.

"I can plainly see why everyone loves Denmark," said Humphrey after dancing the frug with Mrs. Krag, who wore a pink gown of Paris lace made in Copenhagen.

WATCHING HUBERT
Watching Humphrey on the dance floor, comedian Hope dubbed it, "Minnesota a-Go-Go."

Mrs. Humphrey, who had kept pace with her dancing husband, finally put on her coat and came back to the dance floor to take the vice president home at 2:35 a.m.

But Johnson was still talking and dancing and waving the orchestra on.

Nixon Argues Case Before High Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was a new role for Richard M. Nixon, and he was a study in intensity. He wore a black suit and starched collar to argue his first case before the Supreme Court. Thirty-one times he was interrupted by the justices for questions, and only once did he lose his aplomb.

And then, what apparently was a matter of misunderstanding about California law landed with Nixon and Chief Justice Earl Warren, a former Californian, who had put the question, smiling.

Off to Nixon's right, in seats reserved for special guests, sat the former vice president's wife, Pat, and their daughters, Patricia and Julie.

TAKEN OFF
For the special day, Nixon told a reporter later, the girls had taken off from school. He must have read the magazine article at issue when it came out in February 1955, he said with a grin, because elsewhere in the same magazine was an article on his trip to Latin America.

Nixon was relaxed by then—the he shook hands with opposing lawyer Harold R. Medina Jr. on the grounds Life magazine had invaded his privacy.

His job was to try to convince the justices to uphold a $30,000 damage award to James J. Hill on the grounds Life magazine had invaded his privacy.

HELD HOSTAGE
Hill and his family had been held hostage for 19 hours in 1952 in their home in Whitmarsh Township, Pa., by three escaped convicts.

Three years later, the play "The Desperate Hours" opened on Broadway and Life linked its account of the fictional Hill family's ordeal at the hands of escaped convicts with the Hill family's real-life experience.

Newspaper headlines on what had happened to the Hills were reproduced in the magazine spread.

Seven times, Nixon asked the justices "to examine pictures that were printed with the article, and when they looked up he said in firm, measured tones: "That didn't happen to the Hills."

"PRIVACY PRICELESS"
To the Hills, who sued under a New York privacy law, "privacy was priceless," Nixon said. "At the very least," he added, the article involved "a reckless and wanton disregard" of their right to privacy.

Lawyer Medina, son of the widely known federal judge who presided at the 1949 trial of 11 Communist leaders, made his argument first.

Nixon listened intently from his seat at Medina's right elbow, taking notes on two pads as the lawyer for Time, Inc., asked the justices to throw out the New York court's damage judgment.

The thrust of Medina's presentation was that even if the arguments for decision later in the term.

article was not an exact account of what had happened to the Hills, the magazine could take the "newsworthy" fact of their ordeal and relate it to a "present newsworthy fact" in the opening of "The Desperate Hours" on Broadway.

Board Votes to Join County Data System

The Pontiac School Board last night voted to have the district participate in a proposed county-wide "teleprocessing" system.

At an estimated first-year cost not to exceed $25,000, Pontiac schools will join other districts in a data-processing network to automate both business practices and some classroom-related operations.

Mel Staebler, director of data processing for the district, said initial "get-ready costs" could be reduced to $15,000 depending on the number of participating school districts.

He reported that one to two years would be needed to set up the system.

Four other county school districts — Birmingham, Farmington, Walled Lake and Royal Oak — have agreed so far to joining the projected computer network.

STUDY REPORTED

Staebler reported to the board on his six-month feasibility study that revealed, for example, that the total manual processing of a 50-cent purchase order could cost $7.50.

Pontiac School Affairs

He also said there was a possibility that the data-processing network, whereby individual districts and schools would be linked with a central computer, might expand to include Detroit, Wayne County and Macomb County schools.

In other business last night, the board added a week on to the 42-week contracts for elementary school principals at a total estimated cost of $6,800.

Object of the extension is to provide a one-week workshop for the district's 27 elementary principals.

PAY RAISES

Also last night, pay adjustments totaling $1,476 were granted four secretaries promoted to higher classified jobs. The pay adjustments are retroactive to Oct. 18.

Minor changes in the boundary lines for the attendance areas of five elementary schools were given board approval.

The biggest change involved the Longfellow and Emerson Schools in the area bounded by Kenilworth on the east, Mount Clemens on the north, Featherstone on the south and East Boulevard on the west.

Students in this area have attended Longfellow School since the fall of 1963.

The board's action will switch 103 children to Emerson School next fall, with the provision that bus transportation would be provided as long as safety hazards exist.

In other minor changes, children living on LeBaron Street will be transferred from McCarroll School to LeBaron School, and children on Fourth, east of Joslyn, will all be switched to LeBaron School instead of being divided between LeBaron and Malkin Schools.

Appointments Made

Three appointments aimed at accomplishing a proposed reorganization of the central administration, and the promotion of two assistant principals, were approved last night by the Pontiac School Board.

In related action, the appointment of three new elementary principals was held up after objections from a group of parents were heard on one proposed appointment.

Board action last night filled two posts created in an administration reorganization plan.

All appointments are effective July 1. Salaries are yet to be determined.

John F. Perdue, 52, principal of the Whittier Elementary and Jefferson Junior High Schools, was named director of school-community and human relations, while Joseph L. Corbiel, 30, Pontiac Northern High School teacher, was appointed supervisor of noninstruction personnel service.

APPOINTMENTS

In other appointments, Bertum C. Van Koughnet, 32, McConnell School principal, was named director of community action programs.

Two assistant principals, Richard Craig, 50, and R. William Nunez, 33, were promoted to the principalship of their schools — Jefferson and Eastern Junior High respectively.

A demand by Bethune School parents that a man be appointed the new principal there prompted the school board to defer appointment for two weeks of principals for Bethune, McConnell and Whittier Schools.

Supt. of Schools Dr. Dana P. Whitmer planned to recommend Howard M. Caldwell Jr. at McConnell, Booker T. Yancey at Whittier and Mrs. Jeanne A. Tillson at Bethune.

PARENTS PRESENT

Unaware until last night of who was to be appointed, a delegation of Bethune area parents urged the board to appoint a man to be principal "to control both the students and the teachers."

Whitmer defended the proposed appointments on the basis that women get the same leadership training as men.

Board Member Dr. Robert R. Turpin suggested action be deferred to further consider the appointments.

Special Board Meeting Set

The Pontiac School Board last night designated May 16, at 5 p.m. as the time for a special board meeting to approve ballots and the election notice for the June 13 annual school election.

The deadline for filing nominating petitions is May 14.

May 16, is also the last day for residents to register to vote in the election.

U.S. Will Intensify Raids on North Viet Truck Traffic

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON — U.S. air attacks on truck traffic moving down from Red China will be intensified as the weather improves in the upper part of North Viet Nam, sources said today.

Bad weather in that region is gradually shifting southward. In the past several weeks U.S. fighter bombers have been raking truck traffic along routes connecting Hanoi with Red China. This has been particularly true along routes leading north-eastward from Hanoi, an area which was not subjected to armed reconnaissance before last winter's bombing pause, the sources said.

NIGHT TRAFFIC
Officials also forecast a substantial increase in the amount of such efforts at night, not only in the region between Hanoi and

Red China but lower down in North Viet Nam, along roads leading toward South Viet Nam. Poor weather has hampered such strafing strikes and has prevented accurate estimates of damage inflicted on truck convoys.

The Communist trucks move mostly at night and, when they are on the road during the day, are protected by camouflage.

U.S. sources said that, among other things, American pilots have found that the Reds have built trellises over certain stretches of highway and covered these structures with leaves and branches.

VEHICLES FOUND
They told of an instance in which a plane zoomed low to check out what appeared to be a single truck and found 25 vehicles moving along the highway well masked by camouflage. At night, these sources said, pilots have found to their surprise that trucks coming down from China sometimes run with their lights on.

A variety of methods are used to ferret out nighttime truck traffic. U.S. strike planes carry infrared sensors which can detect the heat from truck engines and thus betray the location of vehicles cloaked by darkness. Where such traffic is suspected, U.S. planes eject flares with multillumination - candle power brightness to light up the countryside.

Fulbright: 'No Sanctuary' Policy Perilous

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., hung a "very dangerous" label today on the administration's "no sanctuary" policy of hot pursuit of enemy fighters over Viet Nam.

DANGEROUS COURSE
"But if they come from China and we follow them into China to attack their airfields, I think we are pursuing a very dangerous course," he said. "It could escalate the war."

The issue was brought to the forefront when Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., told the Senate Wednesday that the developments must be viewed with gravest concern.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said it is "sound policy to let the Chinese know in advance what is in store for them if they attack our planes over North Viet Nam."

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, noted that there has been no official pronouncement

"And if they do, what then will our response be — further bombing? And if the scale of bombing increases, will China confine herself to air fighting — or will it send its troops to engage ours on the ground in South Viet Nam?"

Dirksen noted that hot pursuit of the enemy by U.S. planes had not been permitted in the Korean war, a decision he said may have lengthened that conflict.

Public Service Hearing

LANSING (AP) — The State Public Service Commission will hold a public hearing May 31 at Lansing on a proposed updating of its formal hearing rules, last revised in 1944. The commission regulates utilities and transportation systems.

Polish Object to Bombing of Cargo Ship

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Poland has sharply protested to the United States that one of its cargo ships was damaged in a U.S. bombing raid near Haiphong last week.

U.S. Ambassador John A. Groussak was called to the Polish Foreign Ministry and handed the protest note on Tuesday, a U.S. Embassy official said. The note, which reserved the right to claim damages, was forwarded to Washington.

The official Polish Press Agency — PAP — gave this report of the incident:

"During a piratical bombing of one of the ports near Haiphong, the Polish motorship Benowski was in port taking coal. Many bombs and rockets which exploded in the vicinity of the ship caused external and internal damage to the ship's equipment. The ship was forced to sail without finishing loading."

There was no mention of any casualties.

Singapore: Prize Sought by Both Sides

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

When Singapore split from the Federation of Malaysia to become one of the world's smallest republics, a wave of apprehension swept Washington, London and Canberra. The fears were not only for the future of Malaysia — formed only two years before — but for the whole of Southeast Asia.

In doubt was the big British base on Singapore from which Britain carried out its defense of Malaysia against "confrontation" by the Indonesia of President Sukarno.

Australia, already uneasy over Sukarno's close ties with Peking, saw the Communist threat enhanced should Singapore swing even slightly toward friendly ties with Indonesia.

For the Americans in South

Viet Nam, there arose the possibility that their efforts there could be outflanked.

RED CONQUEST
A Communist conquest of Singapore and Indonesia also would endanger the Philippines. Thus Singapore becomes both a strategic and ideological prize sought both by Peking and the nations oriented to the West.

And from this comes another problem.

Britain answered swiftly to the threat from Indonesia and today maintains 55,000 troops in the area, beside her three air bases on Singapore island and naval base.

But the threat of Indonesian "confrontation" seems to be receding, and Britain is hard-pressed financially.

WANTS REDUCTION
She would like to reduce her military commitments east of Suez.

For strategic reasons, Australia and the United States want her to remain strong in Singapore. Singapore wants her to remain both for strategic and economic reasons.

British bases supply employment for some 20,000 Singapore workers. British forces annually spend some $70 million.

This was the subject which this week carried through a round of golf and a lunch between British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and Singapore's anti-Communist Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew.

VOW COOPERATION

The promised economic cooperation between Singapore and Malaysia has not materialized. Industrial expansion is not keeping pace with a swiftly growing population which from today's 2,000,000 unemployed could rise in the next five years to 150,000.

The fears of a year ago did not materialize. But the new threat could be just as dangerous.

Says Chinese Soldiers New Labor Force

HONG KONG (U — Red China's three-million-man army has been converted into a huge labor force, a Swedish motion picture cameraman said here after spending six months on the mainland.

"Everywhere you go, soldiers are building roads, bridges and factory buildings," Wayland Wieslander told newsmen.

"Those who aren't in construction work are laboring in the fields alongside the peasants."

Despite the massive work program, the soldier apparently is not excused from a full program of military training.

"Throughout China," Wieslander said, "the Red army is in constant training. Because the army takes on this tremendous work load, the soldier gets a lot of respect from both the city worker and the peasant."

Wieslander, who first visited China in 1953, said progress there had been very impressive. "The country is still very poor but everyone is taken up with the idea of building for the future — even if they know it's beyond their lifetime," he said. "Thirteen years ago, when I visited there, I never saw a soldier in the mud digging the ground with the peasant — now it's different."

Mexico: No Action on Students

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Mexican government will take no action against striking law students who have seized control of Mexico's national university, a spokesman said Wednesday night.

Francisco Galindo Ochoa, the presidential press secretary, told a news conference: "The university enjoys full autonomy which was granted in 1929 and the problem is purely an academic conflict."

Galindo Ochoa denied reports published abroad that the university was under Communist control. He said the government was disturbed by reports saying the student strike movement was inspired or led by Communists.

The attorney general's office said previously it had arrested three foreign and five Mexican agitators after strikers seized several buildings Monday.

BATTLE GUARDS

Students battled campus guards Tuesday night, occupied the university radio station, smashed into the office of university President Ignacio Chavez and forced him to resign.

Previously, a 43-day strike by 7,000 of the university's estimated 70,000 students had called for Chavez' resignation because he had refused to fire law faculty dean Cesar Sepulveda. The dean had rejected student demands for changes in study rules.

All classes were suspended Wednesday and the campus was quiet, but additional violence was feared when a new president is chosen by a group made up of student leaders, the faculty and government representatives.

Galindo Ochoa said the violence Tuesday was touched off when an unidentified student was beaten and critically injured by a campus guard.

Rioting Shuts Spain College

BARCELONA, Spain (U — The rector of the University of Barcelona, Spain's second largest seat of learning, closed the 15,000-student institution indefinitely today because of student demonstrations against 4 disciplinary measures.

Club-swinging police broke up a tumultuous demonstration by an estimated 300 students yesterday at the school of philosophy and letters.

Twelve students were held for action by the National Court of Public Order.

No information was available on a Catholic priest on the university faculty, Father Alvarez Bolado, who student sources claimed was struck by the police and arrested.

Most of the university's students have been staying away from classes for more than a week.

By JACOBY & SON

When W. W. McGhee died in Lake Charles, La., last February, the bridge world lost one of its most lovable characters. When he lived in Chicago the players of that area thought enough of Bill to elect him president of the Mid-West Conference.

JACOBY After he moved to Fort Worth we thought enough of him here to elect him president of the Texas Conference.

He was everyone's friend but particularly close to all the Jacobys and we will miss him more than anyone except his own family.

Bill and Ginny McGhee won several tournaments with various Jacobys. Here is a hand from a team match. Bill held the West cards and opened the king of hearts against South's four spade contract.

He continued with the ace and then stopped to think. Ginny had played dummy, yet of hearts so he knew that South was out of hearts. Most players would lead another heart anyway on the theory that there is never any harm in forcing declarer.

There would be this time because at the other table this was done and Jim Jacoby lifted South proceeded to ruff and run off all his trumps. On the last trump lead the West opponent found himself unable to hold a high heart, three diamonds and two clubs and had to jettison the queen of clubs to give Jim his tenth and contract trick.

Bill anticipated this possibility and shifted to the king of clubs. A low club was played from dummy whereupon Ginny made the best of her hand and signaled comeeon with her nine spot. Bill continued with the queen of clubs.

South had to win that one in dummy but the squeeze was long gone. The best he could do was to run off his trumps but Bill hung on to his diamonds and our team won the board.

Two Stations Join Pirates

To Operate Full-Time off British Mainland

LONDON (AP) — Pirate radio stations, operating off the British mainland, are to be joined by two new ones that threaten to operate around the clock.

The new buccaners are Radio England and Britain Radio. Both are expected to broadcast from the same ship, the 480-ton Patricia, anchored outside territorial waters off the Essex coast.

The new pirates are reported to have transmitters with a joint power of 110,000 watts and are expected to be the first to cover the whole of Britain.

Reports say the Patricia will anchor between the highly successful Radio London and Radio Caroline.

POP MUSIC

Radio England will feature the tops in pop music. Britain Radio will concentrate on softer music. Both are expected to use American disc jockeys.

Postmaster General Anthony Wedgewood Benn admits that at present he cannot move against the pirates. In a written parliamentary reply to a Labor member of the House of Commons, he said legislation giving him power to make the pirates walk the legal plank would be introduced by Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government as soon as the legislative timetable permits.

Britain presently has no law against pirate radio stations. The postmaster general has said that they are operating on frequencies assigned to other stations by international agreements. Spokesmen for the pirates say this makes them unauthorized, not illegal.

Legalized radio in Britain is a monopoly of the state-supported British Broadcasting Corp. BBC does not broadcast commercials. The pirates do.

Workable Plan Demands Met

2 Added to Housing Unit; Inspector Hired

Pontiac city officials are quietly complying with requirements to have the city's 1966 Workable Program for Community Improvement recertified.

Without the fanfare of an official announcement, the city has:

• Added two persons to minority group housing study committee.

• Hired an assistant building inspector to be assigned full-time to the systematic housing code enforcement program.

Making these moves, the city has partially met the requirements set down by the regional office of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) when the workable program was resubmitted earlier this month after having once been rejected.

Recertification of the program is necessary for communities where there are federally financed projects such as urban renewal and public housing.

Receiving the resubmitted workable program, HUD officials told the city to expand the minority group housing committee by three more persons, furnish minutes of additional committee meetings, and hire a full-time inspector of the code enforcement program.

At the conference at the Chicago regional office, HUD officials warned that a second full-time inspector may be required before the program is recertified in Washington D.C.

The awards are in recognition of laymen who strengthen the effectiveness of the American system of freedom under law.

The 11 a.m. program is open to the public.

Rezoning Bids Sent to Board

Waterford Planners Recommend 2 Denials

The Waterford Township Planning Commission has forwarded four rezoning recommendations to the township board for final approval.

Of the rezoning requests involved, two are recommended for approval and two for denial. Denial is recommended on a request to rezone from small farm (AG-2) to extensive business (C-3) two lots on the southwestern corner of Lockhaven and Elizabeth Lake Road for establishment of a coin-operated car wash.

Also recommended for denial is a proposal to change from light industrial (M-1) to general industrial (M-2) five lots on Warren in Fairplains Subdivision.

Recommended for approval is a request to change the zoning from agricultural (AG-1) to multiple dwelling residential (R-2) property on Elizabeth Lake near Doremus for construction of apartment complexes.

NORTH OF M59
Rezoning of a 5.79-acre parcel of land off Crescent Lake Road, north of M59, from single family residential (R-1A) to R-2 also is recommended for approval by the planners.

The property is part of the proposed Crestbrook Estates Subdivision for which the preliminary land plan was approved by the township board last Monday.

The planners have also granted special approval to First Baptist Church of Drayton Plains for construction of a church on Sashabaw between Athens and Meigs, contingent on approval of the Oakland County Health Department, to allow parking over a septic tank field for the church.

Huron-Clinton Group Gets $67,053 for Park

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Park Authority in Detroit has been given $67,053 by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The money is to defray half the cost of developing 473 acres for recreational purposes in an area known as Willow Metropolitan Park.

Britisher Home After Laying Groundwork for Talks to End Rhodesia Crisis

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson's special envoy, Oliver Wright, flew home today with the mission to persuade the political leaders of black Africa that coming talks with the rebel Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith will not constitute a British sellout to Rhodesian white supremacists.

Wright arranged the negotiations in secret contacts with Smith and with Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd of South Africa.

It was the first breakthrough toward a Rhodesian settlement since Smith's white minority government declared independence from Britain last Nov. 1. In his talks with Smith, Wright produced agreement on the time, place and level of formal bargaining designed to achieve a basis for constitutional settlement.

The British demand that a settlement provide unimpeded progress toward eventual majority rule by Rhodesia's 4 million black Africans.

British sanctions against Rhodesia will continue until a constitutional settlement is reached. They failed to produce the almost immediate surrender which Wilson expected.

Firemen Pay Pact Okayed

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP—The fire department and the firemen's committee of the township board have reached agreement on salaries for the next fiscal year.

The firemen will get their requested maximum pay of $6,500, but in three years instead of two as requested.

Firemen will begin at $5,700, move to $5,900 after six months, $6,100 after one year, $6,300 after two years and $6,500 after three years.

The firemen had asked for a starting wage of $5,900, an increase of $200 at the end of the first six months, another $200 at the end of one year and $6,500 at the end of two years.

The township's original offer was $5,300 to start.

In addition, the township will pay for hospitalization insurance for the firemen and their families.

A state law which takes effect July 1 provides that firemen work only 63 hours a week. Township attorney Joseph T. Brennan noted that the township will cut the present workweek to the level enacted as soon as more personnel are hired.

At present, the five township firemen work a 72-hour week and are on call the balance of the time, according to Frederick O. Evans, attorney for the firemen. Evans also noted that the committee said it would try to cut the hours to 56 by the end of the year—the total demanded by the state law beginning a year from this July.

The firemen also will get six paid holidays: Christmas, New Year's, Memorial Day, July 4, Labor Day and Thanksgiving.

CLOSER COMMUNICATION—Closer communication between the firemen and the firemen's committee also is planned for the future. They will meet once a month, if need be, to air out differences.

The township board is to ratify the agreements at its regular meeting Wednesday.

"The settlement was a good one for both sides," said Walter Whitmer, chairman of the committee.

Brennan said this was the first time the township had collectively bargained to reach agreement with any group of employees.

NO REPRISALS

Evans said the committee promised that there would be no reprisals in any form for the firemen who worked to improve conditions in their department.

"I feel that they've made some good gains," he said.

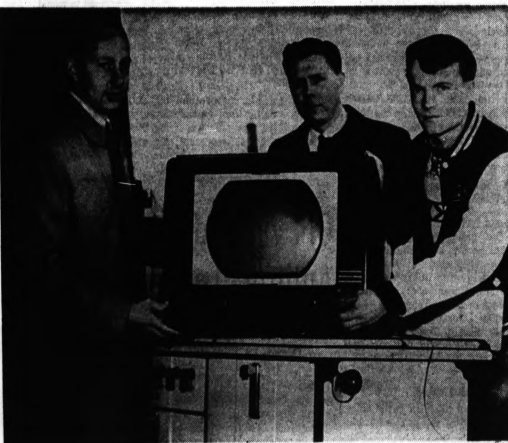

Evans credited Brennan with making the settlement possible.

GOING ONCE, TWICE, SOLD — This refrain will be heard often Saturday at the second annual auction sponsored by the Clarkston Jaycees. Funds from the event, which will begin at 11 a.m. at the city lot on M15, will be used for community projects. Collecting items for the auction are (from left) Gordon Spiering of 6088 Wealthy; Lewis Wint of 5229 M15 and Terry Kelley of 6952 Tappan. Sale items will be collected up to the time of the auction.

Ruling Sought on Avon Vote Petitions

AVON TOWNSHIP — The Township Board is seeking a legal opinion on petitions for a referendum on a recent rezoning ruling.

Township Attorney Robert Bout said there are sufficient names to place the question on the ballot but that there are some technicalities which he must clear up before the petitions are certified.

He said petitions of this sort normally "request" that a referendum be submitted to the voters but that these petitions "demand" a vote.

The statute, he said, provides that a vote on the question of upholding or rejecting an action of the board can be decided only by property owners of the incorporated area.

He said the petitions ask that the vote be put to all of the qualified electors.

'JUST TECHNICALITIES'

"These are just technicalities," he said, "but they must be checked."

More than 1,000 signatures were obtained on the petitions by residents of the Hamlin-Avon road area. About 1,300 names were needed to be valid.

Residents of the area are fighting the Township Board's decision to rezone 46.5 acres west of Livernois between Hamlin and Avon roads from general farm to light industry.

They claim the change will devalue their property and present a danger to the children because of increased traf-

'A NIGHTMARE'

They say it will "change a peaceful, safe neighborhood into a nightmare."

Board members have pointed out that this area is part of an industrial corridor in the master plan and that this is the first rezoning which fits in with the plan.

They also say the land is more suitable for light industry than for residential.

The rezoning request was made by R & C Robertson,

Weight Limit on Roads Eyed

Oxford Seeks Answer to Its Truck Problem

OXFORD — The Village Council is investigating the possibility of a weight limit on roads in the village in another attempt to rid itself of gravel trucks.

A representative of the gravel industry discussed the situation with the council Tuesday night but reached no decision.

A meeting between the gravel companies and the Oxford Chamber of Commerce will be set up "to see if differences can be settled."

"We feel the trucks are too heavy for our roads," said Village Manager Robert Smalley. "Besides that we get all kinds of dirt, noise and everything that is unwanted with these trucks going through town."

He said the trucks are also a hazard. During the summer, he said, an average of two trucks a minute go through town.

NOT TOO SUCCESSFUL

Last year the council attempted to ticket gravel truck drivers for excessive noise and dirt but was not too successful.

Smalley said the companies were fighting most of the tickets and that it is hard to determine excessive noise.

Programs OK in 3 Districts

Three Oakland County school districts are among 40 in the state whose programs for disadvantaged children have been approved by the State Education Department.

The programs will be financed by $30,186 in federal funds. The department has approved nearly 650 such projects to date costing $27.7 million.

The Oakland County districts and the funds they received are: Avondale, $29,216; Huron Valley, $19,466; and Novi, $15,673.

HERE COMES TROUBLE — The seance that causes all of the problems in "Blithe Spirit" here is staged by three members of the Farmington Players, who will present the Noel Coward farce this weekend and

Federal School Grant for Troy

TROY — A federal grant of $16,250 under the Open Space Land Program has been awarded to the school district by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The money will be used to purchase five acres of land adjacent to the proposed new school site in the area bounded by Wattles, Adams, Long Lake and Coolidge to be used for recreational purposes.

Under the Open Space Land Program, the federal government will reimburse a school district up to 50 per cent if it can guarantee that part of the land it buys will remain open space.

Under a policy recently adopted by the board of education, about three acres of an elementary site are to be designated for buildings, parking lots, service drives and landscaping, with the rest reserved for playgrounds.

Farmington Players to Do 'Blithe Spirit'

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — Mrs. Burke Martin, Mrs. George Nahstoll and Mrs. James Kommerster, and three from Farmington, James Allison, Mrs. Victor Hill and Mrs. Douglas Brown.

Performances are scheduled for 8:30 p.m. tomorrow and Saturday, for 7:30 p.m. Sunday and for 8:30 p.m. May 6 and 7.

The author, played by Edwin Budgen of White Lake Township, a widower who has taken a second wife.

ALSO IN CAST

Petitions Urge New School

Petitions bearing 256 signatures were received last night by the Pontiac School Board.

The petitions called for the school to give early consideration to planning a new and larger building to house McConnell School.

Supt. of Schools Dr. Dana P. Whitmer presented the petitions, stating that the large number of signatures indicated "a strong feeling" for a new school.

Whitmer added that the petitions appeared to be self-generated appeal to replace McConnell School, the first buildings of which were built in 1901.

He said the petitions were presented to him by officers of the school parent-teacher association.

PRESENT SITE

Whitmer noted that parents asking for a new building appeared content to have any future structure constructed on the present 3-acre site.

School Board President Monroe M. Osmon suggested McConnell parents be invited to the next board meeting to further discuss the school.

Shotgun-Toting Youth Wounds Schoolteacher

BAY SHORE, N.Y. (AP) — A language teacher who tried to intercept a youth roaming the corridors of Bay Shore High School with a loaded shotgun remained in critical condition today.

Police said his assailant, James Frampton, 16, was to be arraigned on a charge of first degree assault.

Frampton, who enrolled in the Long Island school two weeks ago after being discharged from a state training school for boys, unloaded a single charge at point-blank range into the stomach of John Lane, 48, of West Babylon, a French teacher, officers said.

Lane, who was hospitalized with grave wounds, consented Frampton Wednesday in a school corridor and ordered him to "drop the gun."

Worker Dies in Foam Test

DETROIT (UPI)—A fire extinguisher manufacturer employee apparently suffocated yesterday while demonstrating his product at a hangar at Metropolitan Airport here.

John Ward, 46, Dearborn Heights, wearing a rubber suit, walked into a North Central Airlines hangar filled with fire extinguishing foam.

He was demonstrating the fact that the foam could be entered by fire fighters, but Ward never emerged from the hangar.

He was found lying on the floor just inside the hangar door. He was an employee of the Kidde Fire Extinguisher Co.

Lehigh's wife and three children live in Urbana.

Dirksen Challenges LBJ to Hold Dems in Line on Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. M. Dirksen challenged President Johnson today to act — and not just talk — about the $3 billion the President fears Congress is going to boost his budget.

Johnson said at a White House ceremony Wednesday that the fault of Democrats in Congress way things are going "it looks like they may up the budget $3 billion this year" over the $113 billion spending budget he recommended for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

If that happens, Dirksen said in an interview, it will be all the fault of Democrats in Congress. "The Republicans are trying to hold spending down to prevent a tax increase," Dirksen said. "I would respectfully suggest that the President could be of help in this if he would direct a request to his party leaders to resist the increases he is complaining about. Thus far there has been no such request."

NOT LIKELY

An influential Democrat who didn't want to be quoted by name said there isn't likely to be one, either.

"The President picked the favorite items on the Christmas tree when he made his budget cuts," this Democrat said. "From the background of 30 years around here he knew exactly which items are the most popular and those are the ones he picked to reduce."

"He's jockeying the Republicans into voting against a lot of things the people back home want and then he's handing these programs to the people as a present from the Democrats."

Dirksen said he is not going to be deterred in trying to cut back spending on "Great Society" programs even if they appear to be politically popular.

Five Drowned in Texas Flood

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Five persons drowned today when tremendous rains flooded hundreds of persons from their homes in Dallas and a northern suburb, Garland.

One of the victims, drowned in his late-model Cadillac was W. L. Perryman, president of General

American Oil Co., an independent oil firm operating in six states and Canada.

Firemen axed through the back window of an auto to free a woman from the car which had been swept into a swollen creek, the man with her was trapped and drowned.

Robert Buck and his wife, Adrienne, of San Antonio, who moved to Texas recently from East Point, Ga., both drowned when their car was swept from a road into a creek.

A policeman was hospitalized with a leg injury suffered in a rescue attempt.

The downpour, which had been falling at about an inch an hour, subsided at dawn and Mayor Eric Jonsson said "We think there is going to be all the loss of life, but if there's more rain we'll have more trouble."

PEOPLE SAVED
Firemen in boats plucked people from trees, rooftops, and the roofs of cars in flooded expressway underpasses.

"We had 15 people rescued by fire department boats in the White Rock Creek section in northeastern Dallas," a police spokesman said.

He said people in the Bachman Lake area, north of Love Field, left their houses and climbed trees in a vain attempt to escape.

Water got into the Ford Motor Co. assembly plant in northeast Dallas, damaging electrical motors and forcing the plant to close, idling 1,500 workers.

The new round of turbulent weather came as rivers and lesser streams throughout the eastern half of Texas poured flood waters toward the sea.

The Dallas man drowned in his car was W. L. Perryman.

All residents of the Underwood Trailer Court in North Dallas were evacuated. Water knocked down dozen trailers off their foundations and tumbled them about. The lot, situated on a creek, has 60 mobile homes on it.

Five Children, Mother Slain; Father Held

NEW YORK (AP) — A former mental patient was booked by police on a charge of homicide today in the fatal slayings of his wife and their five children.

Police said the prisoner, Jose Torres, 23, had made a statement but they refused to disclose its contents.

Asst. Chief Inspector Joseph McLaughlin declined to say what kind of weapon was used. None was found at the scene.

Torres was seized several hours after the bodies of his family were found yesterday by a building superintendent.

The mother, Maria Rivera Torres, 24, was found on the floor of the family's apartment in Brooklyn. The youngest child, Jose Jr., a year old, was on the bed.

TWIN BEDS

In a second bedroom, containing twin beds, two children were found in each bed. They were Harry, 3, Yvette, 4, Maria Antonette, 3, and Nancy, 2.

The victims, all in night clothes, died of multiple stab wounds.

Police said the apartment was neat despite the violence of the slayings.

TYPICAL SCENE—This scene was typical at hundreds of homes along Lake Erie in Michigan and Ohio yesterday as high winds drove water over retaining walls. Hardest hit in the Toledo area were the Point Place and Lost Peninsula sections battered by Palm Sunday tornadoes in 1965.

Red Chinese H-Test Seen

Anticipated in May as Prestige-Builder

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese government sources said today that Red China's third nuclear explosion, expected early next month, may be a preliminary hydrogen bomb test.

They said the year's interval since Peking's last atomic explosion would have given Chinese scientists enough time to put them on the verge of thermonuclear capability.

They said the blast may come in two weeks, if weather permits, as part of a Chinese Communist effort to boost their international prestige during May Day celebrations in the Communist world.

Sources in Washington reported last night that the U.S. government has advised its allies to expect another atomic explosion on the Chinese Mainland in the near future.

There was no indication of how the U.S. government acquired its information, but the Central Intelligence Agency accurately predicted the first Chinese atomic explosion.

Japanese security officials said Peking probably was preparing a uranium 235 device sufficiently compact to be fitted on a missile as a warhead.

2 Bills Push Budget Well Over $1 Billion

LANSING (AP) — The House voted to spend some $744 million for schools and welfare yesterday — voting a 16 per cent hike for one and a 30 per cent boost for the other over this year's budget.

The school aid and social welfare measures are two of the largest single appropriation bills before the Legislature.

The Legislature's tentative budget stands well over $1 billion — as compared with Gov. George Romney's recommended $944.8 million.

These and other bills, however, are certain to be trimmed as the House and Senate work on each other's spending bills.

Only $257 million — and $63 million of the increase — count toward the total budget figure.

RESTRICTED FUNDS
The rest of the money represents restricted funds, over which the Legislature has no discretionary power.

These funds, including sales, liquor and cigarette taxes, go automatically into the School Aid Fund.

The welfare bill grew by $4.4 million—to $139.1 million—before it left the House on a 97-2 vote.

The money, however, is merely being transferred from one bill to another.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN

The funds, to finance the State Crippled Children's Commission, will be cut from a Senate bill.

The House-approved school aid bill increases the basic allotment factor.

It raises the per-pupil allocation from $255 to $290.50 per year. It is partially offset by an increase in the deductible mileage factor.

This means that instead of subtracting the equivalent of $4.60 mills on the local school district's total state equalized valuation from its per-pupil allotment, the equivalent of 5.06 mills will be subtracted.

Aid to low-valuation high-tax districts will account for another $33.2 million—an increase of $10 million over current spending.

Both bills contribute significantly to the Legislature's hike in the budget.

Discounting the appropriation transfer, the social welfare bill is $30 million more than that recommended by Romney, and the school aid bill is $36 million more.

Damage High; Residents Wait Wind Change

Thousands Evacuated as Water Is Pushed by Northeast Winds

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Thousands of lakefront evacuees waited for a change in the wind today in order to clear out their flooded homes, impounded by huge Lake Erie waves.

Damage ran into hundreds of thousands of dollars as stubborn northeast winds kept much of the lake pinned in its western corner.

Waterfront houses were flooded up to four feet in an area near Toledo, Ohio, and north into hard-hit Monroe and east to Port Clinton, Ohio. The Wheatley-Leamington, O. t., sector across the lake also was hit, with several small buildings washed away.

Most residents of flooded lowlands found refuge with friends and relatives. Some went to emergency quarters in schools and churches.

Others retreated upstairs to wait out the high water.

GALE WINDS

Winds of 30-35 knots with gale force gusts were forecast to continue until daytime, when strong east-to-southeast winds would take over. This could run the water quickly back into the lake and its regular easterly flow.

Meanwhile, perhaps 8,000 people — including up to 6,000 in the Monroe area and 1,500 in Lucas County, Ohio — had been evacuated. Some went out by rowboat and amphibious vehicles.

No fatalities, nor missing persons, were reported.

Jeeps with National Guard drivers accompanied by sheriff's officers and other police patrolled stricken sections against looting.

GROUPS HELP

The Red Cross and Civil Defense aided in the worst Lake Erie flooding since 1952.

The floods began yesterday morning when waves up to 16 feet smashed over protective walls along the coast.

At Luna Pier, Mich., about 1,800 people were moved out of 400 homes as water swept in up to three feet deep, Monroe City Defense Director Robert Gull dersdale said.

Occasional rain with thundershowers today will end tonight, the weatherman reports.

Partly sunny and warmer is tomorrow's forecast and sunny with not much change in temperature is Saturday's prediction.

Temperatures will fall to 35 to 40 tonight, then climb to highs of 45 to 53 tomorrow.

Highland Park Teachers Strike

Officials Report All Schools Operating

HIGHLAND PARK (AP) — Members of the Highland Park Federation of Teachers turned down a new contract offer today and struck the 7,600 pupil suburban Detroit school system. But school officials said all schools were continuing to operate.

Members of Local 684 of the American Federation of Teachers, which represents more than half of Highland Park's 467 teachers, decided to strike following a marathon bargaining session that had gone through the night.

Pickets were assigned to all schools.

Norman Weinheimer, superintendent of public schools, said "All schools are operating and all classes are covered."

SCHOOLS NUMBERED

The district has six elementary schools, two intermediate schools, one high school and one junior college.

Weinheimer said the district would seek a court order to halt the strike.

"Our next move no doubt will have to be the seeking of a court injunction against the teachers strike since we simply have no more funds to offer for a settlement."

STRIKES BY PUBLIC EMPLOYEES, including teachers, are prohibited by Michigan law, but recent amendments have removed automatic penalties for striking.

TEACHER REJECTION

The strike followed teacher rejection of a contract settlement reached during a 20-hour bargaining session.

Threat of Strike

Great Lakes Transit Deadline Saturday

Mechanics at the Great Lakes Transit Corp. have voted to go on strike at midnight Saturday if a new agreement between UAW Local No. 417 and the corporation is not reached, union officials announced today.

The current contract expires at that time. A strike vote was taken Monday, and the letter affirming the deadline was presented to the company yesterday.

The corporation provides bus transportation from the Birmingham area to Detroit.

Local 417 president Dean Spooner said this morning that the union and corporation are "far from reaching any agreement." Both sides were to meet today with state and federal mediators at the Birmingham office in an effort to reach a settlement.

The big stumbling blocks are fringe benefits and wages, according to Spooner.

The union is asking for fully paid Blue Cross insurance for employees and their dependents, and a 12-cent hourly increase. Mechanics presently earn $3.19 an hour.

The corporation has offered an increase between eight and nine cents per hour.

Great Lakes Transit also operates garages in Roseville and Wyandotte.

Policemen doubted him then.

But he made it official by failing to file for the July 26 Democratic primary election. Yesterday was the deadline.

The Arkansas Gazette called Faubus' action "the most unbelievable" aspect of the state political scene.

"WITH REGRET"

Faubus, 56, a former Ozark Mountain schoolmaster, said he made the decision to quit "with regret."

"I might never run for anything else," Faubus said. "But I might come back in two, four, six or eight years."

Faubus' absence from the ballot may give the Republicans their first chance to elect a governor since Reconstruction.

Winthrop Rockefeller, brother of New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, is running again. He came closer to winning than any other Republican when he opposed Faubus in 1964.

'GM Violated Antitrust Law'

Supreme Court Rules in Discount Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court decided today General Motors Corp. violated the antitrust law by trying to ban sale of Chevrolets through discount houses in the Los Angeles area.

Justice Department counsel contended such sales would increase competition at the retail level and thus benefit consumers.

GM attorneys argued the auto giant had to have a dependable dealer organization and said discount houses are not needed to create price competition.

Justice Abe Fortas delivered the unanimous decision.

"CLASSIC CONSPIRACY"

Fortas said the high tribunal found in today's case "a classic conspiracy in the restraint of trade."

In 1957 a number of Chevrolet dealers in the Los Angeles area began selling cars through discount houses and referral services.

Under the discount house plan, customers were quoted prices for various models. The customers signed purchase agreements calling on the discount house to furnish cars at quoted prices. After the signing of an agreement, the name of the dealer who would furnish the car was given the customer.

Under the referral service plan, the customer was informed a particular model could be obtained at a discount. No price was quoted, but the customer was sent to a dealer who quoted a discount price.

Neither discount house nor referral service took title to cars involved in their transactions.

The Justice Department said GM and three Southern California Chevrolet dealer associations conspired in 1957 to end such sales. The result, the department contended, was an unreasonable restraint of trade in violation of the Sherman Act.

Hike in Poverty Fund Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats writing new anti-poverty legislation have decided to boost President Johnson's money request by $245 million and put more emphasis on job training programs.

After weeks of private meetings, Democrats on the education and labor committee agreed Wednesday night on a bill that would give Congress a lot more authority over how anti-poverty funds are spent.

The bill would boost the fund authorization for the Office of Economic Opportunity—OEO—to $1.99 billion. Johnson had asked for $1.75 billion. The current authorization is $1.5 billion.

More significant for the future conduct of the war on poverty, however, is the increased control over the program that the bill would give Congress.

FOR FIRST TIME

For the first time the OEO would be told how much money it can spend on specific programs, how much it can spend on salaries of local anti-poverty officials — $12,500 each yearly — and how it should operate certain programs.

For the most part, the bill the Democrats now hope to push through the full education and labor committee and the House calls for more emphasis on the successful programs, and a curbing of the experimental projects.

Thus a big boost is earmarked for the popular Head Start preschool program for which the OEO had sought $327 million to take care of 710,000 children. The bill says $400 million should be spent to give $45,000 the training.

Expansion of the Neighborhood Youth Corps is also called for, up from $300 million to $563 million, enough to enroll 500,000 young men and women in the program that provided jobs in public and non-profit agencies. The age of those eligible for the program would be increased from 22 to 25.

SIMILAR WORK

A program to provide similar work for the older, hard-core unemployed would increase from $10 million requested by the OEO to $100 million.

The bill also would make a major administrative change, taking the work experience program for older heads of families away from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and fitting it into the manpower training programs of the Department of Labor with a budget of $135 million.

It would write into the law something Congress has tried to get the OEO to do for the past two years — build more women into the Job Corps. The bill says 10,000 of the 45,000 in the Job Corps shall be women.

Civil Service OKs 'No Pay Cut' Rule

LANSING (AP) — The State Civil Service Commission has adopted a policy that state workers downgraded through no fault of their own will not suffer a pay cut.

The commission adopted the policy in ruling on the case of Joseph Corcoran, who was downgraded from a Grade VII to a Grand VI-A position under government reorganization.

It ruled he could remain at his $21,005 VI-A salary rather than the $19,585 VI-A salary.

Girl Stowaway on Sub Sticky Wicket for British

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI)—After 12 hours of life in the British Navy, a 17-year-old brunette popped through a hatch of the H.M.S. Walrus yesterday and asked crewmen to stop the sub—she wanted to get off.

Barbara McVay, a Baltimore teen-ager, told officers of the homebound submarine she stowed away because, "I wanted to go to England. I couldn't go legally, so I had to do it illegally."

She said her father, Sgt. V. M. McVay, was with the U.S. Air Force in Great Britain. Besides, she said, "I like English boys."

The 1,600-ton sub was about four hours at sea when Barbara emerged from a conning tower compartment, feeling groggy from carbon monoxide fumes.

The Walrus turned back and left her aboard a boat which met the ship about 15 miles from here.

A crew member of the submarine said the girl remained in the compartment until the vessel submerged, she would have drowned. "That place fills with water when the craft goes under," he said.

Capt. Douglas Sobie, a British naval attaché in Washington, said when notified of the incident: "We certainly can't have that sort of thing going on in the British Navy. Taking away one of Baltimore's citizens is rather oversteering our appreciation of their hospitality."

The 5-year-old Walrus was one of three British subs docked in Baltimore on a goodwill visit since last week. Barbara said she slipped past guards and boarded the vessel about 1 a.m. yesterday. She gave herself up at about 1 p.m.

"I did it myself . . . on a sudden impulse," she said. The captain of the sub said he would not press charges against the girl, but nevertheless would investigate to see if the crew had helped.

Bar Assn. Condemns OEO Legal Aid

In opposing the program of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) to provide free legal service to the area's indigent at an annual outlay of $451,000, the Oakland County Bar Association evidenced a realistic attitude toward the proposed assistance.

The OEO plan calls for the establishment of eight legal services offices, the employment of eight full-time attorneys and the necessary staff and clerical help.

It is the belief of the Association that the Oakland County Legal Aid Society, while presently providing more restricted legal aid to the needy than the OEO envisions, could be expanded and adapted to a matching basis at a cost far less than that entailed by the creation of a whole new legal aid setup under direction from Washington.

The Press, while sympathetic to the broad objectives of OEO, has from the outset felt that the program overlapped many welfare agencies now operating on State and local levels, resulting in a tremendous waste of public dollars.

Presumably, it was comparable viewpoint on the part of members of the legal fraternity that led to their almost unanimous rejection of the Federal program. We commend them for the action taken on behalf of taxpayers who find increasingly burdensome the proliferation of government spending programs.

Sluths Who Detect Hidden Oil Meet to Air Clues

Millions of people think about the oil industry as a source of limitless wealth for lucky individuals who have an oil well in their backyard or on farm acres. There have been a few cases like that, but mostly such stories are a matter of fiction.

Finding new oil sources today is a technical and expensive business. The petroleum geologist is the modern oil prospector. His wildcatting is done on a highly scientific basis. He finds oil where none was thought to exist.

Geologists around the world, including 15,000 who belong to the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, look forward to the time when they can study rock samples from the depths of the earth, the moon or anywhere else in the universe.

All of 1966 is the Semi-Centennial observance of the AAPG. It is being celebrated this week at the Association's annual meeting in St. Louis, with 80 countries represented.

Few industries have a more direct bearing on the health, welfare and happiness of the world than the petroleum. Future supplies of oil for products used in every home, in all industries, on farms and by the government, depend now more than ever on the findings of the petroleum geologist.

Crossword Puzzlers Live in World of Words

Who was Peery Gyn's mother? Who was queen of Pymyra from 267 to 272 A.D.? What is the real name of the silkwoman of Assam? You don't know?

Then get with it, brother, but fast! For these are simple, basic facts any crossword puzzle fan should and must have at his pencil tip.

But you're not a crossword puzzle fan? You're NOT? You're kidding. What are you, some kind of a nut? Or merely unusual?

For crossword puzzling is an IN thing in the United States these days. Let a newspaper go to press without one and see what happens! More than 30 million adult Americans—and no one knows how many more kids—are crossword addicts. And don't try to induce them to kick the habit. They're hooked and they love it.

Why?

Well, for one thing, it's relaxing. It's a handy escape hatch from the headaches and problems we battle every day. Besides, what red-blooded scholar doesn't get a glow of quiet pride in the thought that he knows a three-toed sloth is an ai, and that a bird of fable is a roc?

But if by some unbelievable chance you are not now a member of the crossword cult, this is a good time to join up. For the trickiest puzzle of all is the gobbledygook found in the myriad communications being disseminated from Washington.

'No Sanctuary' Is Questionable

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON — The State Department says there is "no sanctuary" in the Viet Nam war.

Does this mean that, if Red Chinese planes attack U.S. planes or forces in Viet Nam and then flee back to "sanctuary" in their homeland, American planes will pursue them and bomb them in Red China?

Maybe. But until this is spelled out further in words or deeds, what the State Department said will have to carry a question mark behind it.

It is now one war and 15 years later that the Korean war in which the American policy was not to do any fighting in or over Red China even though the Chinese invaded Korea massively under the label of "volunteers."

It was this policy which brought on the historic clash in 1951 between President Harry S. Truman, who wanted to avoid direct war with Red China, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who wanted to bomb it. Truman finally fired him.

In a basic sense, Truman's position was similar to President Johnson's today.

Truman was determined to resist North Korean Communist aggression against South Korea, but if possible to limit the war to Korea since enlargement, through the involvement of Red China, might lead to World War III.

LIMITING THE WAR

Johnson has been determined to resist the aggression of the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese Communists against South Viet Nam while trying to limit the war to Viet Nam.

In Truman's case the "sanctuary" of Red China was preserved and later a truce achieved, even though the Red Chinese were up to their necks in Korea.

For the past 10 days the air war over North Viet Nam has been expanding dramatically, with U.S. fighter planes in a series of dogfights with Soviet-designed MIGs.

Robert J. McCloskey, the State Department press officer, was asked Tuesday if the Red planes had come into North Viet Nam from Chinese bases. He said "we have no information which would lead to such a conclusion."

REPEATS POLICY

But, explaining that he was repeating a position stated by Secretary of State Dean Rusk in the past, McCloskey said about the possibility the MIGs came from Red China: "There is no sanctuary" in the Viet Nam war.

At least saying there is no sanctuary in this war is further than the U.S. government was willing to go in the Korean war. But then the United States was far less equipped for a big war than now.

—But We Don't Discourage Easily!

David Lawrence Says:

Here's Good News for a Change

WASHINGTON—Every now and then, people get tired of the constant flow of unpleasant news. And I say, "Isn't there something good happening?"

There certainly are two interesting developments this week which belong on the favorable side of human events.

For the first time since the Communists took over the government in Moscow, the foreign minister of the Soviet Union had a conference with the head of the Roman Catholic Church at Rome.

Very little was disclosed as to the conversation, and only a brief communique was issued which officially described the conference as agreeing that "Men must work for the one goal of peace no matter what their political feelings or ideologies."

This is a significant advance. Religion and ideology have been in conflict inside Russia and, while taken recognition is given to the worship of the Christian and other religions, communism basically is opposed to such beliefs.

It might well be wondered just why the Soviet government sanctioned Foreign Minister Gromyko's mission to Pope Paul VI.

TREMENDOUS INFLUENCE

But even in Moscow, there is an awareness of the tremendous influence wielded by the Vatican and the importance of making friends with the Roman Catholic Church, which has such a powerful impact on Latin America as well as other areas where most of the people are of the Roman Catholic faith.

It is a tactical move in diplomacy for the Communists to get closer to the Catholic hierarchy everywhere.

The good news is not, however, just in the international effort toward peace. There is something happening inside the United States which is also encouraging.

The city of Washington particularly has seen many "demonstrations" in recent months but the one scheduled here this week at Constitution Hall is different from all the others.

It brings from across the United States 160 young men and women who say they have come to speak up and stand up for what they believe America stands for.

They put on a musical show which is called "Sing Out '66." It is sponsored by 158 members of the Congress of the United States, as well as by members of the diplomatic corps.

The musical grew out of the "Moral Re-Armament Demonstration for Modernizing America," which was held at Mackinac Island, Mich., last summer.

These young people are singing that "Freedom isn't free. You've got to pay a price. You've got to pay a sacrifice for your liberty."

Bob Considine Says:

Fashion Show Has Lots of 'Show,' Little Fashion

PARIS — The endless war between this town's limpwristed couturiers and the female form divine reaches some kind of a peak, or perhaps depth, in the salon of Yves Saint Laurent.

His dresses soar at least three inches above the CONSIDINE knees of his starving, mean-eyed models to whom he has brought what may be the ultimate ignominy. They looked and walked like the last doomed covey of whooping cranes.

The only applause from the witnesses was evoked by the feature of the current showing — three models in transparent dresses.

Their emaciated bodies were quite visible through the translucent material.

A small patch of sequins here, a smaller patch of sequins there, and voilà — the cops could not legally arrest us for taking part in an exhibition.

Yves is out to prove to the remaining males of Paris that the bosom and the hip line have been declared unconstitutional.

His dresses hang loosely from honey shoulders to just above banter knee. They have about as much shape as an Hawaiian mummy, but the latter costs ten bucks and Yves' godests start around $500.

When he employs belts he buckles them either where bosoms used to be or below what used to be hips.

The bra is out, too, if it's a suit you're looking for.

One girl removed the jacket of the suit she was modeling to reveal a blouse that apparently had been used in howitzer practice. It was holed in front, back and on each side.

Out of the back of the stole reached long — stemmed artificial white flowers that rose higher than her head.

MOBILE CORPSE

She looked so much like a mobile corpse in a short-circuited shroud that my wife whispered, "The immediate family will leave in the first car."

There's little reason to doubt any more that Paris has been making patsies out of women — particularly American women — for longer than its shopkeepers have been robbing the passer-by.

Voice of the People:

More 'Frills' in Schools May Reduce Delinquency

People who complain about educational "frills" no doubt yell the loudest about all the trouble teen-agers get into. Why do they get into trouble, speeding in cars, standing on street corners, fighting, breaking windows, shoplifting, etc.? One reason might be that people call recreational facilities "frills" and something they can't afford. I'm glad I live in the Pontiac school system where swimming pools and auxiliary gyms are not considered frills. Better your tax dollars go for recreation than delinquency.

Terms Confiscation of Firearms 'Unfair'

I don't think confiscation of firearms is fair. Many citizens who own guns enjoy hunting and it is a good, clean sport. It isn't fair to stop the sale of firearms to respectable citizens. It isn't the gun that's the trouble, it's the wrong people who use them. Stores that sell guns should check into the person who is buying the gun.

'Sprays for Insects Harm Fish and Birds'

Several years ago our area was sprayed for mosquitoes. In a short time we found many dead fish on the shores of our lakes, and only now do we begin to have our song birds back. Now, we are going to be sprayed again. They tell us this is with only five ounces per acre but this will poison bugs. These bugs will poison fish and our song birds will get their share. We vote again soon — let's see who is on our side.

Readers Disagree on Waterford School Vote

A note from school tells of a physical fitness demonstration at the Mall on May 7. The activities include tumbling, small apparatus, square and folk dancing, floor hockey, and others. How can Waterford be included in this event when there is no place for our children to do tumbling, practice dancing, etc.? The note states "Unfortunately not all of the schools in Waterford will be able to participate, but we encourage you all to attend." Thanks again, Waterford "no" voters. This is only a trifle of what our children will miss out on.

MOTHER OF FOUR

Why does Waterford Township have to vote again on the school bond issue they rejected? It was turned down because the majority realizes we will not get "something for nothing," especially if that something happens to be swimming pools and raising the height of district boundaries for elementary schools. I understand that we would not be able to get a loan from the State until all other means of obtaining a loan had failed. If we could get a loan elsewhere, our already-high taxes might go even higher. Let's have more "no" votes in June.

Two Discuss Pay of Our City Firefighters

In reply to recent comments, firemen's hours are not as short as you may think. They work three 24-hour shifts a week, which yearly averages out to 56 hours per week. They work every other Sunday and it makes no difference if it's Christmas, Thanksgiving or another holiday. They do not make $7,659 until they've put in three years of service. After three years they make $2,42 per hour and pay eight per cent of their wages toward their pension. They pay board at the fire station.

FIREMAN'S 24-HOUR WIDOWS

Regarding comments on pay for firemen, most offices work 40 hours a week, closing Sundays and holidays. Our firefighters work 56 hours a week, Sundays and holidays included. Their work demands 24-hour shifts away from their families to provide fire protection for all. If "30 years in a downtown office" hasn't rewarded you a salary of $6,800, I suggest you picket your employer for a raise, not the fire department.

Comments Editorial on Maritime Inspection

I compliment The Press editorial staff for the excellent article about safety standards in the U.S. Merchant Marine. A whole fleet of foreign vessels operates out of our East coast. I would guess that over 85 per cent of the passenger load would be Americans. Not one of these ships can pass an American inspection. If these ships are going to operate out of American ports carrying American passengers, they should be required to meet our safety standards.

REPLY

Michigan Employment Security Commission says there's no call for that age, but word-of-mouth recommendations may bring some jobs. If you belong to a church, perhaps you could put up a notice that you'd like odd jobs, and neighborhood storekeepers might be persuaded to post the same notice for customers. You might even make up a little bulletin of your own and leave it at homes near you. (Just don't put them in mailboxes—it's illegal.) Do a good job with any work you get and more will almost certainly follow. (Of course, Pontiac Press want ads are always a sure bet, but at your age you probably want to work near home.) Good luck.

U.S. Will Intensify Raids on North Viet Truck Traffic

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON — U.S. air attacks on truck traffic moving down from Red China will be intensified as the weather improves in the upper part of North Viet Nam, sources said today.

Bad weather in that region is gradually shifting southward.

In the past several weeks, U.S. fighter bombers have been raking truck traffic along roads connecting Hanoi with Red China. This has been particularly true along routes leading north-eastward from Hanoi, an area which was not subjected to armed reconnaissance before last winter's bombing pause, the sources said.

NIGHT TRAFFIC

Officials also forecast a substantial increase in the amount of such efforts at night, not only in the region between Hanoi and

Red China but lower down in North Viet Nam, along roads leading toward South Viet Nam. Poor weather has hampered such strafing strikes and has prevented accurate estimates of damage inflicted on truck convoys.

The Communist trucks move mostly at night, when they are on the road during the day, are protected by camouflage.

U.S. sources said that, among other things, American pilots have found that the Reds have built trellises over certain stretches of highway and covered these structures with leaves and branches.

VEHICLES FOUND

They told of an instance in which a plane zoomed low to check out what appeared to be a single truck and found 25 vehicles moving along the highway well masked by camouflage.

At night, these sources said, pilots have found to their surprise that trucks coming down from China sometimes run with their lights on.

A variety of methods are used to ferret out nighttime truck traffic.

U.S. strike planes carry infrared sensors which can detect the heat from truck engines and thus betray the location of vehicles cloaked by darkness.

Where such traffic is suspected, U.S. planes eject flares with multimillion-watt candlepower brightness to light up the countryside.

Fulbright: 'No Sanctuary' Policy Perilous

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., hung a "very dangerous" label today on the administration's "no sanctuary" policy of hot pursuit of enemy fighters over Viet Nam.

But Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said in a separate interview this is a "recognized doctrine" of warfare which he does not believe invites the danger of Red China's intervention in the conflict.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said it is "sound policy to let the Chinese know in advance what is in store for them if they attack our planes over North Viet Nam."

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, noted that there has been no official pronouncement telling where the advanced MIGs, which have engaged U.S. planes in dogfights, came from.

DANGEROUS COURSE

"But if they come from China and we follow them into China to attack their airfields, I think we are pursuing a very dangerous course," he said. "It could escalate the war."

The issue was brought to the forefront when Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., told the Senate Wednesday that the developments must be viewed with gravest concern.

"What will be the Chinese response if her territory is bombed or her airspace invaded?" he asked. "Will the Chinese seek to strike at our bases — in Viet Nam or Thailand, or aboard our aircraft carriers?"

"And if they do, what then will our response be — further bombing? And if the scale of bombing increases, will China confine herself to air fighting — or will it send its troops to engage ours on the ground in South Viet Nam?"

Dirksen noted that hot pursuit of the enemy by U.S. planes had not been permitted in the Korean war, a decision he said may have lengthened that conflict.

Public Service Hearing

LANSING (AP) — The State Public Service Commission will hold a public hearing May 3 at Lansing on a proposed updating of its formal hearing rules, last revised in 1944. The commission regulates utilities and transportation systems.

Polish Object to Bombing of Cargo Ship

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Poland has sharply protested to the United States that one of its cargo ships was damaged in a U.S. bombing raid near Haiphong last week.

U.S. Ambassador John A. Gronowski was called to the Polish Foreign Ministry and handed the protest note on Tuesday, a U.S. Embassy official said. The note, which reserved the right to claim damages, was forwarded to Washington.

The official Polish Press Agency — PAP — gave this report of the incident:

"During a piratical bombing of one of the ports near Haiphong, the Polish motorship Beniowski was in port taking coal. Many bombs and rockets which exploded in the vicinity of the ship caused external and internal damage to the ship's equipment. The ship was forced to sail without finishing loading."

There was no mention of any casualties.

LIMA, Peru (AP)—Search

planes today sighted the wreckage of an airplane that disappeared with 49 passengers and a crew of six in the rugged Andes. It was not known immediately if there were any survivors.

Five of the passengers were Americans. Lines Aereas Nacionales said search planes located the smashed four-engine Constellation near Huancayo, about 60 miles southeast of Lima. The plane vanished Wednesday.

AT THE SCENE

Rescue parties went to the scene.

The Lima airport said the plane radioed a distress call 10 minutes after taking off, and police at Cuzco said they had a report it crashed at Cuzco, 170 miles south of Lima.

The airline said the plane carried 43 passengers and a crew of 6.

The Americans were the pilot,

William Jones of Miami, Fla.—third Peace Corps volunteers—Gerald Francis Flynn, 26, of Seattle, Wash., Paul L. Bond, 24, of Jonesboro, Ark., and Troy M. Ross, 25, of Boise, Idaho—and George A. Hoffman, 42, a geologist.

Flann and Bond were based in Ecuador and Ross in Cuzco.

The passengers also included a Canadian, three Germans, two Swiss and one Spaniard, the airline said.

NEW YORK—Profits of U.S. corporations are averaging 11 per cent higher than a year ago.

If this gain holds, the total net income after taxes for all of 1966 would rise to more than $44 billion from last year's $44.5 billion. Very rarely have first quarter results been in as good a position as the nation's 20 million individual shareholders.

The first 132 of the nation's larger corporations to report on first quarter earnings show only 18 trailing year ago. The total for the 132 is $3,054,596,000 against $2,748,858,000 in the first three months of 1965.

As the flood of earnings reports grows, the total will rise. Many of the 11 per cent gain for the first report will come close to being the final result when that becomes known weeks from now.

The giants have impressive figures. Six companies so far have reported first three months' profits in excess of $100 million. These are: American Telephone & Telegraph $455 million, Jersey Standard Oil $294 million, Texaco $176 million, Gulf Oil $127 million, IBM $124 million, Du Pont $102 million.

CHIEF DROPOUT

The steel industry is the chief dropout from the profits parade in the first quarter. Nine companies to report so far show a combined drop of 17.5 per cent from the 1965 level. Some big companies were considerably behind the average. U.S. Steel trailed a year ago by 32 per cent and Youngstown Sheet & Tube by 35 per cent.

But the steel industry expects the comparison with last year to look much better when the entire 1966 results are in. That is because last year's first quarter was unusually good, due to big orders by customers stockpiling against the threat of a strike.

are: American Petroleum Corp. $135 million, Gulf Oil $127 million, IBM $124 million, Du Pont $102 million.

Successful Investing

(Q) "I am 32, estranged from my husband, and earn $135 a week. I have no children, and my assets consist of about $2,500 Series E bonds; $5,500 in permanent savings; I expect a settlement of $4,000 from an accident. I don't look for immediate profit but would like to build up principal over a period of years. I had in mind Merck; IBM; Xerox and Bristol-Myers. Also, should I cash in some early E bonds and buy a later issue, in view of the increased interest on new bonds?" M.B.

(A) The increased interest to 4.15 per cent on savings bonds applies equally to all E and H Series outstanding.

Your choice of stocks for long-term capital enhancement is excellent and I commend you to it. Merck is one of the best pharmaceuticals. IBM has an outstanding record, which should continue. Xerox sells at the very high price earnings ratio or multiplier of 60, based on my earnings estimate of $4.10 a share for 1966. The growth record here has been one of the most outstanding of any issue and I believe Xerox can still be bought, if you are willing to assume the high price risk present in all high-multiple stocks.

Bristol-Myers is strong in pharmaceuticals, toiletries and proprietary drugs. The shares have increased about 1,200 per cent in value over the past decade.

(Q) "I have deposited my stock with a member firm for my convenience. Do I give up any of my control by doing so?" A.D.

(A) Unless you have a margin account—which permits your broker to lend your stocks—he acts solely as a custodian and you lose no control at all. He will probably hold your shares in bulk form to save you the bother of signing when sales are made and will neither lend them nor hypothecate them.

are up without exception. Gulf

Oil gained 18.6 per cent over year ago figures. Jersey Standard was up 11.1 per cent. Phillips Petroleum had record profits for the first quarter.

Most railroads are well ahead this year. Norfolk & Western led 12 per cent in front of the 1965 first quarter. Two that were out of step were Southern Railway and Seaboard Air Line, both showing a decline this year in profits, and blaming bad weather.

2 EXCEPTIONS

With only two exceptions, the 14 big utilities to report so far topped year-ago figures. Down were Consolidated Edison of New York and El Paso Natural Gas.
