Spacemen Spot Missile Launch

MANNED SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP)—The Gemini 5 space pilots spotted the fiery launch of a military missile today as they sped on toward the midpoint of their world record eight-day space journey.

"I see it! I see it!" pilot Charles Conrad Jr. said excitedly. "There it goes. He's out over the water. See him. We can still see it quite clearly."

Gunmen Yield; Hostages Safe

Cornered in Nevada House After Chase

PERNLEY, Nev. (UPI)—Two armed gunmen surrendered to an army of law officers today after barricading themselves inside a rural ranch house with eleven hostages.

The two men were cornered in the house after a wild gun-shot-filled chase from a Sparks, Nev., restaurant.

The suspects kidnaped a couple last night from their home in San Jose, Calif., and took them to Sparks, where one of the hostages slipped a note to a waitress asking for help as they stopped at a restaurant.

The men meekly walked out the front door of the barricaded house and surrendered to FBI agents and Nevada highway patrolmen.

The gunmen held four hostages at the time they surrendered. They had turned loose five children and an unidentified man earlier.

The remaining hostages carried the desperadoes' guns out the back door as the men left through the front with their hands raised.

One of the abductors was believed to be James Robert Gourlay, 22, a soldier on leave from the San Francisco presidio.

The San Jose couple was Omar Ponder, 19, and his wife, Wanda, 18.

The abduction took place after a family party at the Ponder home. Gourlay, wanted by San Jose police in connection with three armed robberies, apparently mentioned the robberies during the party. Family members said he became angry when questioned further about them.

After most of the guests had left about 10 p.m., Gourlay and his companion brought out guns and forced the Ponder family to leave with them. Ponder's sister-in-law, Mrs. Irene Ponder, told police her 10-year-old son saw the actual abduction while she was out of the room.

WRECKAGE IN WATER — A rescue boat ties up to a portion of the wreckage of a U.S. Marine Corps C130 transport that crashed into Hong Kong Bay with 71 persons aboard today. The plane veered into the water just after taking off from Kaitak Airport en route to South Viet Nam. Thirteen managed to escape. Most passengers were returning from leaves in Hong Kong.

Falls in Harbor at Hong Kong; 13 Survivors

Casualties Are Mostly Marines Flying Back to Viet After Leave

HONG KONG (AP)—Fifty-eight U.S. servicemen, most of them marines flying back to Viet Nam after leave, were killed today after their transport plane crashed into Hong Kong Harbor just after taking off.

"Except for 13 known survivors, it now appears all others aboard the flight are dead," said an American official on the scene.

Divers pulled two bodies from the torn and twisted wreckage and said they believed there were at least 20 still inside the fuselage.

Two large cranes lifted the wreckage seven and a half hours after the crash from 30 feet of water and began towing it to the British Royal Air Force dock for removal of the bodies.

An operations officer at Hong Kong's Kaitak Airport said there were 71 persons aboard—six crewmen and 65 passengers—when the C130 Hercules took off for Da Nang and Saigon. He said the manifest indicated two were Navy men and the rest Marines.

He said seven other Marines were supposed to have made the flight but did not show up on time.

RETURNING TO BASE

The Marines were returning to the Da Nang Air Base 380 miles north of Saigon after rest and relaxation leave in Hong Kong, a Marine Corps spokesman in Da Nang said.

The survivors were brought to Queen Elizabeth Hospital in Kowloon, across the bay from Hong Kong. Their identities were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Hospital officials said they were suffering from shock, burns and fractured limbs but

Cong Prisoner for 20 Months

Viet Policy Critics Disgust GI

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)—Army Sgt. Isaac Camacho was in Viet Nam listening to a radio report on President Kennedy's assassination, moments later a Viet Cong rifleman hit him on the head and knocked him cold.

The U.S. Special Forces soldier spent the next 20 months, many of them CAMACHO in hunger and pain, as a prisoner of the Communists. He got away June 10, the first American to escape Viet Cong captivity.

Back home now, still thin and nervous, the chain-smoking sergeant is less than happy with those Americans who protested the U.S. role in Viet Nam. Frankly, he's disgusted with some of his fellow countrymen.

"I'd hate to say what I think of these people," he said in an interview yesterday.

After his escape and after eluding his captors through jungles and rice paddies, Camacho stumbled into an American Special Forces party—fellow "Green Berets."

Sent to a hospital, he says the first thing he remembers seeing was headlines telling of peckets back home protesting U.S. action in Viet Nam.

"These people are very disheartening to the troops over there facing death today," he said.

Home on a month's leave at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Eloreaga, Camacho spoke of life under the Viet Cong.

medicine, endless monsoon rainstorms, the equatorial sun and constant threats of execution. He lost 45 pounds as a prisoner.

EXHAUSTING DAYS

Finally, he escaped. Then, there were four exhausting days of wandering through the sodden jungle before sighting an American soldier.

"When I saw that green beret of the American Special Forces soldier," Camacho said, "I wept."

"I crawled out of the hut where the villagers were hiding me," he recalled. "I was weak and wobbly, but I made it out to that soldier and we embraced with joy."

Camacho cannot give details of how he escaped or who helped him because this would jeopardize lives of three companions believed still Viet Cong captives.

RECALLS NIGHT

He recalls the night of Nov. 22, 1963 . . . he and the other three Americans were in a Special Forces camp at Hiet Hoa, 18 miles from Saigon.

"We had been listening to radio reports about the assassination," he said. "We went to sleep feeling very sad that night."

About 1:30 a.m., Nov. 23, about 500 Viet Cong crashed through the camp, taking them by surprise.

"I was busy fighting at the edge of our defense line when I caught a glimpse of this Viet Cong coming from the side," Camacho said.

CAUGHT IN HEAD

"He caught me in the head with the butt of his rifle. I was out for about three minutes.

When I came to, they had me tied around the arms and were prodding me to a clearing outside the camp. My buddies were tied up also."

They told us they were going to shoot me and one other man, and take the other one

Deny Orion Rumors of Police Chief Firing

Rumors that Lake Orion Police Chief Neal Leonard has been fired were denied today by both Leonard and Village President Clarence B. Rossman.

Rossman told Leonard Saturday evening to leave Sgt. Leslie Perkins from duty for insubordination.

Perkins is still on duty, however, on orders from Leonard, who said he was advised by the village council to keep the sergeant on the job.

Rossman said this morning that he plans to discipline the chief for disobeying his orders, but he has taken no action to relieve him from duty.

There was also a rumor that George Perry, village building inspector, had been fired, but this too was denied by Rossman. "He's doing a fine job," the village president said, "and I have no quarrel with him."

MADE CHARGE
Rossman charged Sgt. Perkins with insubordination at the Aug. 16 council meeting when the sergeant refused to remove Attorney Robert V. Parenti from a seat at the council table.

Parenti's contract as village attorney was terminated by Rossman effective last June 1, but he has been retained by the council.

Perkins refused to unseat Parenti without orders from the council, which did not support Rossman's demand.

Rossman has called an emergency meeting of the council for 7:30 tonight.

The meeting will be held in the village Youth Center, according to the president.

The president said he may ask state or county law officers to attend the meeting to help maintain order.

Storm Becomes First Hurricane of 1965 Season

WASHINGTON (AP)—Storm Anna, moving over the Atlantic toward the northeast with no apparent threat to coastlines or the Gemini 5 flight, became a hurricane today — the first of the 1965 season.

The Weather Bureau gave Anna the hurricane designation at 11 a.m., as the storm maintained a steady northeast course at 22 miles an hour about 440 miles southeast of Cape Race, Newfoundland.

Winds at the center of the hurricane had increased to 35 to 40 miles an hour and reports to the Weather Bureau from ships said gale force winds extended for 150 miles in all directions.

Minister Still Serious After Dixie Ambush

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The Rev. Donald A. Thompson, a big man weighing nearly 300 pounds, held his own today despite 12 buckshot wounds received when he was shot from behind in a civil rights ambush.

The 59-year-old pastor of REV. THOMPSON's integrated First Unitarian Church was hit by the shotgun blast Sunday night behind his fashionable apartment building only two and one-half blocks from the state capital.

Board to Eye Area for Park

Concurring that development of a proposed township park on Loom Lake would take years to fulfill, Waterford Township board members last night, none-the-less, agreed to consider purchase of the 13-acre area.

The land, which includes 1,800 feet of lakeside frontage, is currently owned by the township school system.

The schools had bought the parcel to provide for construction of Mason Junior High School which opens this fall.

In the interim, school officials decided there was no need for that portion of land bordering Loom Lake.

Board members Frank Richardson, William Dean Jr. and Township Clerk Elmer Gagnier will meet with Supt. of Schools Dr. Don O. Tatroe to discuss terms for possible purchase of the land which includes approximately five acres of swamp.

With adequate supervision and protection, the proposed park would apparently be an asset to the immediate neighborhood. The area reportedly is used as a lover's lane by teen-agers.

It would become only the second township-maintained park in Waterford, according to township officials.

Although the township owns park lands, the Drayton Plains ball park is the only one it maintains.

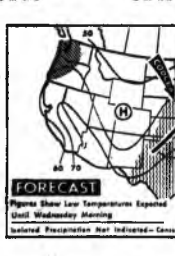

Resignation Forces Danish Cabinet Shuffle

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Finance Minister Poul Hansen, 52, resigned today because of his health. Economy Minister Henry Grunbaum, 54, succeeded him.

Grunbaum's successor as minister of economy is Ivar Norgaard, editor of Aktuelt, the leading Socialist newspaper.

The Weather

Fall U.S. Weather Bureau Report
PONTIAC AND VICINITY — Mostly sunny and a little warmer, high 76 to 82. Partly cloudy and not so cool tonight, low 55 to 62. Wednesday partly cloudy and mild with scattered showers or thundershowers, high 78 to 84. Southwest winds 8 to 16 miles today and 5 to 10 miles tonight. Thursday outlook: Showers ending and turning cooler.

NATIONAL WEATHER — Showers and thundershowers are expected tonight in the Mississippi Valley and upper Lakes and the southeast quarter of the nation. Rain is forecast for the Pacific Northwest. It will be warmer south of the Lakes and mid-Atlantic Coast and cooler in the northern Plains.

Teams of Jackson detectives, cooperating with FBI and state investigators, pressed around the clock work on the case.

There was no word on the assailants that lay in wait for Thompson in the apartment parking lot.

Thompson's blood-soaked coat revealed a tight pattern of 12 buckshot holes about four inches in diameter in the upper left shoulder.

"Cowardly Ambush" — "Cowardly night-time ambush" was Gov. Paul Johnson's reaction to the attack. He offered use of state investigators, and added he was certain Jackson police were making a complete investigation.

"I have said," Johnson said, "that law and order will prevail as long as I am governor and I mean just that."

The minister's condition, Baptist Hospital said, remained serious. "About as well as could be expected," a hospital spokesman said.

Police said they were working under the assumption it was a civil rights shooting.

TWO YEARS — Thompson, who has been a pastor two years in Jackson, is a secretary for the Mississippi Council on Human Relations and a member of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

He was only a few steps from the apartment building's rear door when gunshots were fired at him.

Found lying conscious in a pool of blood, he told officers he had just returned from a church board meeting.

He said he had driven NAACP youth leader Johnny Frazier, a Negro member of his church, home to a Negro section.

12-GAUGE GUN? — The first shot missed, he said, and a second hit him.

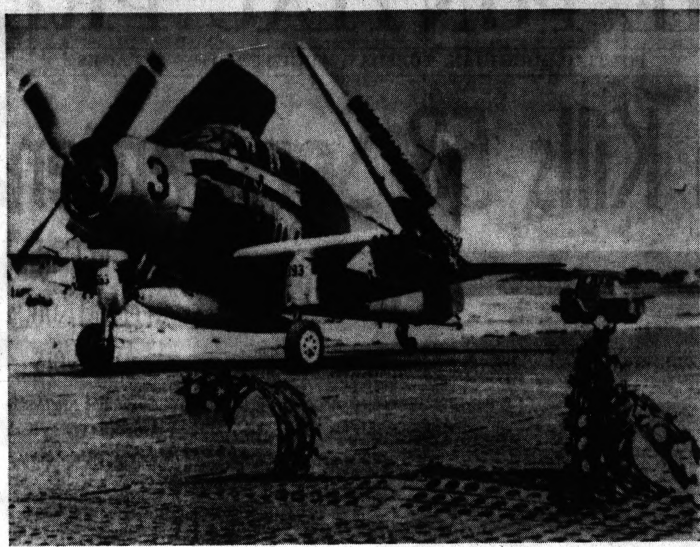

Police believe the shots came from a 12-gauge gun up to 50 feet away.

Mrs. Thompson, a small gray-haired woman, told newsmen she heard the shots in her seventh-floor apartment, but did not realize what had happened until a nightwatchman told her.

"I had no idea," she said, "that anyone would try to shoot my husband."

She said her husband had received threats over the telephone.

Earlier Sunday night, she said, an anonymous caller asked for the "Minister Thompson" or something like that, and when told he was out, said, "I'll send him something through the mail."

Mortar Shell Leaves Jagged Hole in Viet Airfield After Cong Sneak Attack

Witnesses said the four-engine Hercules veered suddenly to the left after taking off and plunged into the water about 40 feet off an industrial suburb on Hong Kong Island.

SAW CRASH — "To me it looked as if it was either control failure or the pilot lost his No. 1 engine and possibly both his No. 1 and No. 2 engines," said C. J. Davis, secretary of the Hong Kong Aero Club who saw the crash.

A Chinese sampans boatman, who pulled two survivors from the water, said "There were two explosions and the plane caught fire and sank."

Divers also reported there was evidence that the plane had been on fire before it crashed.

The boatman said the plane rose about 500 feet, made a sharp left turn, plunged nose first into the end of the shore and then somersaulted backward into the water. He said the plane sounded as though it had engine trouble.

EXTINGUISHED FLAMES — The crash into the water apparently extinguished the flames aboard the plane, but oil seeped from the wreckage, spread across the water and ignited. Smoke billowed hundreds of feet into the air.

A Marine investigation team was ordered from Da Nang to Hong Kong to investigate the crash. The Marines regularly fly personnel from South Viet Nam to Hong Kong for leave, a U.S. military spokesman in Saigon said.

On the fighting front, B52 bombers of the U.S. Strategic Air Command made another raid on South Viet Nam today, attacking a Viet Cong installation 55 miles south of the big Da Nang air base, a U.S. military announcement said.

The brief announcement said "a number" of B52s made the early morning strike in Quang Tin Province.

Thirty planes made up the attack force on most previous B52 raids, but under new security restrictions the number is no longer announced nor is the type and amount of bombs dropped.

The announcement today also did not say where the B52s flew from to make the strike. It was assumed, however, that they came from Guam.

The Viet Cong shelled a U.S. military base today, damaging 45 U.S. and Vietnamese air force planes and four U.S. Army helicopters, a U.S. military spokesman said.

NOT SERIOUS — He said none of the aircraft were seriously damaged and all would be repaired within three days.

U.S. sources reported earlier that two helicopters were destroyed, but the spokesman did not confirm this.

The spokesman said the guerrillas fired 82 mortar shells into the base, destroyed 27 aircraft, killed four U.S. servicemen and wounded 72 others.

Vietnamese military units began a sweep southwest of the base, the direction from which the firing came, and were reported to have captured two Viet Cong suspects. The base is about 12 miles north of Saigon.

N. Viet Terms for Talks 'U.S. Must Agree to Pullout Proviso'

MOSCOW (AP) — North Viet Nam said today any negotiations with the Vietnamese must be preceded by an American agreement to withdraw all troops.

A statement from the North Vietnamese Embassy here left unclear whether the withdrawal had to be completed before talks could open. But it made acceptance of this and other Vietnamese terms a precondition for talks.

The terms require the United States to abandon the Saigon regime. The Johnson administration has said repeatedly that it will not do this.

The statement reiterated the four points in terms laid down April 8 by Premier Pham Van Dong of North Viet Nam.

BASIS FOR SOLUTION — Then the statement, in Russian, added: "This position is the basis for any political, and the most correct, solution of the Vietnamese problem and only the recognition of this basis creates favorable conditions for peaceful regulation for the Vietnamese people, and then it would be possible to consider the convocation of an international conference on Viet Nam like the Geneva conference of 1954."

In addition to the troop withdrawal, the four points include: recognition of basic national rights of the Vietnamese people, settlement of South Viet Nam's internal affairs "in accordance with the program" of the Viet Cong, peaceful reunification "any foreign interference."

Monroe Monster Myth, Says Lie Detector Test

DETROIT (AP) — A machine says the Monroe Road "Monster" is a myth.

The machine is the polygraph and state police used it to give a lie detector test to Mrs. Ruth Owens, 37, and her daughter Christine Van Acker, 17.

The polygraph test was administered by Detective William Lamphreys.

Even though the device pooched the monster, Mrs. Owens and Miss Van Acker still maintained they were telling the truth about the girl being attacked by a huge, hairy creature the night of Aug. 13, Lamphreys said.

"I know what I saw and no one can change my mind," said Miss Van Acker as she left the State Police Redford post for her Monroe home. The women said they passed an earlier lie detector test administered last week by a private operator.

VOLUNTEERED — Mrs. Owens and Miss Van Acker had volunteered to take the state police polygraph test after officials voiced skepticism of the monster reported in a swampy area five miles north-east of Monroe off Monroe Road.

Hubert J. Owens, stepfather of Miss Van Acker, backed up the two women.

"I'm going to look for this creature, whether it's beast or human," he said. "If it's human, I'm going to bend a gun barrel over its head, and if it's a beast I'd like to bring it back alive."

One of the persons who first reported seeing the monster changed his story last week.

David Thomas, 22-year-old cousin of Mrs. Owens, who said it attacked his car, admitted that he knew it was a person "with something like a fur coat drawn up over its head."

"I could see regular pants legs," Thomas told a newswoman. "Meanwhile, two unhuman-type hairs, each with a root an inch and a half long, will be sent to the state police laboratory at Lansing for testing, said Det. Patrick Lyons of the Flat Rock post.

The hairs were reported taken from the bumper of Thomas' car.

Birmingham Area News

90 Residents Ask Action in Coolidge-Maple Area

BIRMINGHAM — In the continuing negotiations for peaceful relations between Birmingham and Troy, Birmingham officials have the backing of at least 90 residents.

The City Commission last night received a petition from residents of the area which has been under discussion by representatives of the two cities.

At least 90 home owners urged the commission to proceed "in haste and good faith" to straighten out the traffic situation in the Maple-Coolidge area.

They specifically asked that traffic from a multimillion-dollar development there be routed onto Coolidge in Troy rather than into Birmingham.

The development now under construction will extend from the northeast corner of Elton and Derby east to Coolidge.

MEETING TOPIC — The petitioners were assured that the matter would be brought up at a meeting scheduled for today between city managers R. S. Kenning of Birmingham and Paul A. York of Troy.

Kenning noted that the sentiment expressed in the petition is basically like that of Birmingham officials.

Plans for the development now indicate the only access and egress will be into Birmingham near Pembroke Elementary School.

The anticipated traffic problems are among those under discussion between the two units.

2ND DISAGREEMENT — Another area of disagreement is the Walker Well, owned by Birmingham but used by Troy for water.

Troy asked for an extension of the water purchase agreement, and the Birmingham commission substituted for a long-term agreement extension of the contract on a month-to-month basis.

Kenning last night asked commissioners to authorize automatic monthly approval until they wish to terminate the agreement but the commission decided it preferred to consider the arrangement every month.

The water agreement for September was approved.

Report No Violations in Spy Case

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said today there is no evidence that any public official acted illegally in the Margaret (Peggy) Allen-State Police spy case.

In a statement issued with Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson and Ingham County Prosecutor Donald Reigley, Kelley said:

"There is no evidence of any action by any public official, past or present, which could be the subject of criminal prosecution. There have been no violations of law."

Miss Allen, a former Democratic caucus secretary in the House of Representatives, acted as a State Police undercover agent and was a key witness at a recent trial which brought gambling convictions to persons connected with the Stieren Assembly Club of Oakland County.

Following her undercover work, Miss Allen was not required for the current legislative session. She said some state officials had spoken to her unfavorably of her work and that her role led to her losing the secretarial job.

FOLLOWED INTERVIEW — The Kelley-Bronson-Reigley statement followed an interview with Miss Allen last week. It continued:

"At the very beginning of the proceedings, Miss Allen specifically and on her own initiative stated that she had never made the statement that she had been intimidated as far as her testimony was concerned."

"Again and again during the course of the interview, Miss Allen responded in the negative when asked if anything said to her by any state official led her to believe that, either directly or by implication, her job would be in jeopardy if she testified. She stated that no effort was made to keep her from testifying by any state official."

"Under these circumstances, it is clear that there are no elements of any charge relating to obstruction of justice or, indeed, to any other criminal act, is not supported by the evidence."

"INDICATED DISPLEASURE" — "While there is no evidence that any attempt was made to limit Miss Allen in her role as a witness, it appears that some legislators did indicate their displeasure with her role as an undercover agent."

"Both publicly in the newspapers and privately to her, a few members of the House of Representatives made it clear that they were opposed to her doing this undercover work. Some were disturbed by the attendant publicity, while others contended that it was improper for her to get involved in activities outside of her regular employment."

Settlement Hopes Up in 4-Month Latin Crisis

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — The Dominican crisis reached the four-month mark today amid renewed optimism that a settlement may be near.

Since military officers supporting former President Juan Bosch started an uprising April 24, residents of the Dominican Republic have seen about two weeks of fighting and 3½ months of talking.

Most of the talking has been directed by a three-man committee from the Organization of American States (OAS), which yesterday presented a revised peace formula to the country's military junta and the rebels.

The rebels under Col. Francisco Caamaño Deno announced their willingness to accept the formula and permit the installation of a provisional government to run the country until elections can be held.

The junta under Maj. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrera, which had accepted an earlier version of the peace plan two weeks ago, announced it would study the revisions. The changes were made at the insistence of the rebels.

The OAS mediators said they hoped both sides in the crisis would sign within 48 hours and permit the rapid installation of a new government.

Optimism was high until the rebels' voiced objections to several points, which have been the object of negotiations since then.

Estimates of the number of Dominicans killed since the uprising began run from 1,600 to 3,000 and above, with an additional 3,500 wounded.

Brave Youth Lost Leg, but Starts College

SEATTLE (AP) — The Post-Intelligencer said today in a dispatch from Amchitka, Alaska, several Russian vessels steamed slowly Wednesday past that Aleutian island where the United States plans to explode an underground nuclear device.

DETROIT (AP) — Ricky Andrews of Ferndale got the first installment of a $4,000 college scholarship Monday, and you could call it part payment for the leg he lost as a school safety boy and part reward for his achievement since.

Ricky, 18, lost the leg Jan. 8, 1958, when he pushed four classmates from the path of a car that jumped a curb where he was on safety patrol duty. He was a student then at Washington School in Ferndale.

Mervyn G. Gaskin, board member of the Automobile Club of Michigan and president of Taylor and Gaskin, Inc., took a special interest in the Andrews boy.

It was Gaskin who decided to pay $4,000 so Ricky could study mathematics and science this fall at Graceland College in Iowa.

HE EARNED IT

Ricky, a plucky lad, earned it, too.

He was graduated from high school last June in the top four per cent of his class.

He swam with the Ferndale High School swimming team for two years, although he walks with use of artificial leg. The youth also played a little baseball, basketball and football.

To Gaskin, Ricky symbolizes the dedication of youngsters serving in school safety patrol programs across Michigan.

ON PATROL

This year approximately 65,000 safety patrolmen will be on duty near Michigan schools.

"The courage and devotion of such youths as Ricky," said Gaskin, "is the reason the safety patrol program has been successful."

Air Strike Aim Is to Pressure Hanoi Into Talks

BY STEWART KENSLEY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Intensified air attacks against North Viet Nam following the recent U.S. ground victory are designed to increase pressure on the Communists for peace talks at a time when they appear to be facing critical decisions in the guerrilla war. U.S. officials said the repeated battering yesterday of a major hydroelectric complex at Ban Tach in North Viet Nam was ordered by Washington to take advantage of possible indecision by the Communists over whether to increase their war effort or move toward the peace table.

The attacks by U.S. planes

on the Ban Tach complex were the first on such an important industrial installation.

They were accompanied by a series of raids on communications facilities about 30 miles from Red China — the closest U.S. planes have yet come to the border.

Officials believe that "some pretty important things" are going on in Communist strategy councils, particularly in light of last week's battle at Chu Lai in South Viet Nam in which U.S. Marines killed more than 500 Viet Cong troops.

APPARENTLY UNDECIDED
After the victory, officials said that in light of the heavy punishment they had been taking in the ground and air war the Communists were apparently undecided about what course to follow in the future.

This view was underlined last night by McGeorge Bundy, President Johnson's adviser on national security affairs, who was asked on an hour-long television discussion if the recent military developments had brightened the outlook for possible talks.

"I believe it to be true that military success of the kind which we have seen in recent days does help bring nearer the day when there will be an effective negotiation," Bundy replied.

Appearing with Bundy on the program were Secretary of State Dean Rusk and U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations Arthur J. Goldberg.

RECENT EXPRESSIONS
Referring to recent expressions of optimism on the situation, Rusk said that Johnson's declaration that "we are not going to be pushed out of South Viet Nam and that we shall meet our commitments..." has made a big difference in the situation.

Rusk said another reason for the optimism was that the Communists were not getting the support from international opinion that they thought they would.

This makes a difference, Rusk said, "because I think they were hoping at one time that there would be a buildup of international opinion that might cause the United States to change its attitude towards our commitment."

"We would hope very much that the time will come when it will be recognized by the other side that pushing this matter militarily is not worth the risk at the end of the trial," he said.

In addition to the recent blows the Viet Cong have taken in recent weeks, there have been hints in Moscow, Paris and at the United Nations that the Communists may be less opposed than previously to Johnson's suggestion for "unconditional discussions" to end the war.

Although administration officials provide no specific information to document their attitude, they have appeared somewhat more optimistic during the past few days regarding the course of events in Viet Nam.

Present Regime Denounced

Viet Student Rally Demands Election

HUE, Viet Nam (UPI) — Nearly 2,000 young Vietnamese massed in the center of this politically conscious city tonight to denounce South Viet Nam's government for the fourth consecutive night.

Students broadcast to the crowd for more than an hour

over loudspeakers set up in front of the main bridge spanning the river.

The youngsters called for an elected government instead of the present military regime. They said American troops were welcome in their country, but criticized them for being careless in discriminating between Viet Cong guerrillas and innocent Vietnamese civilians.

The crowd halted traffic on the bridge which serves as the main thoroughfare between the two halves of this riverside city 400 miles north of Saigon.

Police were present during the meeting, but there were no disorders and no violence.

REGIME OPPOSED
A group of student leaders told UPI they opposed the present regime because it was "militaristic and tyrannical government."

The leaders were not vocal against their dashing young prime minister, Air Vice Marshal Nguyen Cal Ky, 35. Most of their criticism was directed against Maj. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, who heads the military junta which is supposed to set policy for Ky's administration.

"We want the government to be a legal one, with very clean politics," the student leaders said.

"They said the government should be elected by the people."

FUTURE TALKS
"We think this government should be the legal representative of the Vietnamese people in future conferences with other countries," they said.

Student leaders would not elaborate on the kind of conferences they had in mind, or whether these might be directed toward a negotiated peace with the Viet Cong.

Failure Feared in Attempt to Halt Leukemia

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — A young mother is keeping a desperate bedside vigil, fearful that an attempt to expose her leukemia-stricken daughter to chicken pox has failed.

Mrs. Sharon Evans said yesterday her daughter, Joy Lynne, 4, passed the 21-day incubation period for chicken pox Sunday with no sign of having the disease.

Mrs. Evans, 24, deliberately exposed her daughter to chicken pox three weeks ago after reading of some leukemia cases reportedly arrested by the disease.

The youngster is bedridden and in periodic pain, her mother said. Doctors say Joy Lynne is expected to live less than one month.

Cholera Into Russia

GENEVA (UPI) — The World Health Organization reported yesterday that a cholera outbreak in Iran and Afghanistan has spread to neighboring districts of the Soviet Union.

Extend Iceland's Area

Volcanic Isle Permanent

WASHINGTON — A volcanic island that burst up from the Atlantic off Iceland in 1963 has taken its place among the world's permanent geographical features.

Such isles, when formed of pumice and ash, can wash away in time. But lava eruptions have covered much of the new island called Surtsey with a hard shield that can withstand the sea's pounding for thousands of years, reports Dr. Sigurdur Thorarinsson in National Geographic.

Surtsey is still growing at the rate of about one acre a day, the Icelandic volcanologist says. As the island is extending seaward, the southernmost point of Iceland differs every day from what it was the day before.

At the end of March 1965, the 16-month-old island measured one square mile in area, or more than half the size of New York City's Central Park.

Surtsey is providing a rare opportunity to study the emergence of life on a barren land, Icelandic and American scientists have launched a long-term biological research program, supported by the United States Office of Naval Research.

During its early weeks, Surtsey was entirely sterile. Its slopes blasted periodically by red-hot bombs and slag. But much of the island's surface has cooled, and life is obtaining a foothold.

State Park Graveyard Holds Old Settlement
MEXIA, Tex. (AP) — One of the country's most unusual graveyards in the state is located inside the boundaries of 1,600-acre Fort Parker State Park.

Obscured by tangled undergrowth and fallen tree limbs, the cemetery is all that remains of the old Springfield settlement established in 1838 and abandoned 35 years later.

Half the nation's peanuts are grown in three states — Alabama, Florida and Georgia — where about 50,000 farmers produce a crop valued at $70 million a year.

Park Tax Loss Aid Is Urged

Today in Washington

Rusk Believes Reds Don't Want War Over SE Asia

U.S. Compensation Wanted for Gogebic

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress was asked today by Sen. Philip A. Hart and Rep. Raymond F. Cleveland, Michigan Democrats, to compensate local governments for tax losses resulting from the federal purchase of the Sylvania tract in Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

They introduced companion bills in the Senate and House calling for payments to Gogebic County governmental units over a 20-year period. The payments would decline with the years.

The Forest Service is buying the 18,000-acre tract, once the private playground of wealthy industrialists, for use as a recreational area. Both Hart and Cleveland had strongly urged the purchase.

However, Hart said compensation for tax loss is especially important in the case of Gogebic County, which is sparsely populated and suffering a high unemployment.

CAN'T ABSORB
"It cannot be expected to absorb or immediately replace the loss of tax base from Sylvania," Hart said.

"Of course, commercial development and increased employment that the Sylvania recreational area will create will, in time, offset the loss and probably far surpass it. But this will take time, probably at least 20 years."

Sylvania now pays about $30,000 in local property taxes. This is shared by Gogebic County, Watersmeet Township and the Watersmeet School District.

The Hart-Cleveland legislation would make up the entire $30,000 for the first 10 years. After that, payments would be reduced by 10 per cent each year and phase out entirely on the 20th year.

The money would be paid out of income received by the Forest Service for sustained-yield timbering and other sources.

Bout With Car Ends With a Buffalo Victory

AUGUSTA, Kan. (AP) — Buffaloes may be a vanishing animal on the American scene, but there's one not anxious to go. Hit by an auto driven by John Johnson, of Wichita, Kan., the 1,300-pound animal was knocked to the pavement. It got up, shook itself and headed back to a nearby ranch for boys operated by Glenn Cunningham, former famous mile runner.

The car was extensively damaged and had to be hauled away.

Ball Check Bounces

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Vance Bingham, a police sergeant who heads the police forgery detail here, runs down a bad check passers. Recently, someone gave him a bad check for $5 for the policeman's bail.

U.S.-VIET NAM: Secretary of State Dean Rusk says it is his impression "that the Communist world does not want a general war over Southeast Asia."

As a result, Rusk said on a television program last night, Red China is talking tough about Viet Nam but is taking care not to get into the war. He noted that "There is a certain caution and prudence in their action, more so than in their words."

FOREIGN AID: Sen. J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has made what he termed a reluctant pass for passage of the $3.36-billion foreign aid authorization.

Fulbright told the Senate yesterday of the results of a Senate-House conference in which two key Senate amendments were dropped.

They would have provided a two-year authorization instead of the one-year program and initiated a congressional investigation of the entire aid program.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., a leading opponent, denounced the conference report as a "capitulation" to the House and the administration.

Final action on the measure was scheduled later today.

IMMIGRATION: House Republicans launch a drive today

to restrict immigration to the United States from western hemisphere nations including Canada and Mexico.

Rep. Clark MacGregor, R-Minn., with the support of the House GOP leadership, planned to offer an amendment to limit hemisphere immigration to 115,000 a year. It was 139,000 last year, 147,000 the year before.

This is expected to be the major battle as the House considers the administration-backed proposal to overhaul immigration laws.

A final vote on the measure is expected Wednesday.

VIET NAM "WHITE PAPERS": The White House has beaten Republicans to the punch in the battle of the Viet Nam "white papers."

It issued yesterday a 27-page pamphlet entitled "Why Viet Nam?" which contains papers, letters and other documents explaining the U.S. commitment to help the Southeast Asian nation.

House Republican leaders, meanwhile, were still putting staples in their white paper. It is called "Viet Nam: Some Neglected Aspects of the Historical Record."

They plan to unveil it at a news conference tomorrow.

Fifth Spacecraft Trip Test for Moon Flight

Despite a postponed launch and a malfunction that developed in orbit, Gemini 5 is now riding on top of the world with prospects that it will go all the way for the eight-day, 121-orbit, 3.5 million-mile expedition initially envisioned. Although the mechanical difficulty scratched one of the mission's objectives—a rendezvous with another orbiting body—the spacecraft yesterday simulated such a maneuver with scientific precision.

Since Americans are traditionally prone to wax a bit blasé over scientific marvels with which they are no longer strangers, the fifth flight of the space program inaugurated four and a half years ago less gripped the public consciousness than its precursors.

But Gemini 5 holds unprecedented interest for National Aeronautics Space Administration scientists and future astronauts who will carry our flag into space, since the projected performance of "Five" would parallel a round-trip journey to the moon—the target date for which falls within this decade.

The grueling physical and psychic tests that the two astronauts—veteran GORDON COOPER JR., and rookie CHARLES (PETE) CONRAD—will undergo and the awesome scientific and functional exactions imposed on their capsule will shed crucial light on human and technological adaptability for a lunar look-see.

Should Gemini stay aloft the prescribed limit, it would exceed by four days the previous U.S. record of four days for a multi-manned spacecraft flight and by three days the Russian record for a single-man orbital adventure.

Meanwhile, the voyage is piling up good marks for American progress in space conquest with highest accolades for the voyagers.

Incentive The Motive for Human Endeavor

Nowhere has an all-embracing welfare state attained fuller bloom than in New Zealand. There, by virtue of government subsidy, unemployment and extreme poverty have been eliminated, and adequate housing, health service and education are built-in responsibility of the state.

But few visitors to the country sense an atmosphere of well-being. They complain of poor service, of a take-it-or-leave-it attitude toward work when other jobs are readily available, of a lack of competitiveness, and what they regard as an air of backwardness compared to the United States.

Observes The Wall Street Journal: "The point is simply that any society deliberately fashioned in the framework of governmental gratuities for everything from planting wheat to painting water colors is bound to grow mediocre or worse."

"That is practically an immutable law, whether the people concerned are New Zealanders, Swedes, Russians, Britons or Americans, and it should not be particularly difficult to see why."

Everyone favors the elimination of poverty and of human distress and misery in all its forms. In this endeavor, government inevitably plays a role.

The problem is how to help those who truly need help without sapping the initiative, the independence and the ambition of vast masses of people. When that happens, national decadence and decline must follow, no matter how great any country's material wealth may be.

It is estimated that only 7 per cent of cigarette smokers will read the warning printed on the package that smoking may be hazardous to health, and that 2 per cent of these won't know what "hazardous" means.

ONE wonders which of these may be most likely to cause the human race to become extinct: Atomic war; over-population; deadly germs brought to earth by space travelers; conquest of man by insects; pollution of air, land and water.

Ike, LBJ Handle Congress Alike

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON—President Johnson, like former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, has had a charmed life with Congress, a lot better than Presidents Harry S. Truman and John F. Kennedy ever had.

In one way the Johnson-Eisenhower methods are the same: almost totally avoid personal attacks on the men of either party in the Capitol, although Johnson is sometimes a little more snappish.

The virtue in this technique is that it denies anyone an excuse for hitting back. If he wants to criticize, he has to look for a reason. It served Eisenhower well.

After eight years in the White House he wound up the most unmolested president of the century. But there the Eisenhower resemblance ends.

War hero Eisenhower came to office with such universal good will that jabbing at him would be like trying to demolish a national monument. Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy tried to get rough and landed in oblivion.

DEPENDENT ON PRESTIGE
But, while Johnson had 24 years in Congress before becoming president, Eisenhower had none. He had to depend on his prestige and the advice of his aides in dealing with House and Senate.

He wasn't in the same class with Johnson in getting Congress to do what he wanted. But, then, he never worked at it as hard as Johnson.

In his first two years Eisenhower's own Republicans controlled both houses. Even so, he had trouble getting action from the Republicans.

FEELBE MINORITY
Besides his inactivity in understanding Congress, Johnson has had the enormous advantage, starting out, of dealing with a House and Senate where his Democrats so outnumber the Republicans that the latter are a feeble minority.

Nevertheless, Johnson has worked on the Republicans to play ball with him, and has had astonishing success in the Senate, at least. There the Republican leader, Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, is one of his greatest assets.

The result is that the Republicans have been so badly immobilized that their House leader, Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, seemed hard pressed to find an issue to use against Johnson.

He'll need some kind of issue if the Republicans hope to recapture seats in the House in the 1966 election.

VIET ISSUE
Ford seems to think he can make an issue of Johnson's handling of the Vietnamese war.

But former Vice President Richard M. Nixon believes that what may hurt Johnson in the 1968 presidential race is what he does at home.

He said last week Johnson would be defeated "by what happens domestically and not what happens in Viet Nam."

A Case Of Deflation

David Lawrence Asks:

Is Liberalism Cloak for Despots?

WASHINGTON—The American people are coming to the climax of a struggle which has plagued free democracies for more than a century both in this country and Europe.

It is a contest growing out of a fundamental challenge—should society be organized on the basis of "voluntary co-operation" or "compulsory co-operation?"

This doctrine of compulsion is inherent in socialism, communism, nazism and fascism, which have emerged in various forms in the last half-century in different parts of the world.

But is this something new—is it a modern trend, or is it an old form of despotism disguised under the name of "liberalism?"

This correspondent happened the other day to be rereading the essays of Herbert Spencer, the great British philosopher, who published them in 1851—more than 114 years ago.

"They read as if he were writing about today's America, today's England, today's France, and today's Russia."

Spencer's main criticism was directed against the misuse of the word "liberalism."

He traced the differences between the political parties in England, and what he said might seem to be describing the evolution of parties in American politics, too. He wrote:

"We see that in the one party there was a desire to resist and decrease the coercive power of the ruler over the subject, and in the other party to maintain or increase his coercive power."

"It seems needful to remind everybody what liberalism was in the past, that they may perceive its uniqueness to the so-called liberalism of the present."

Spencer declared that the real test of "liberalism" is whether "the lives of citizens are more interfered with than they were."

"The function of liberalism in the past was that of putting a limit to the powers of kings. The function of true liberalism in the future will be that of putting a limit to the powers of parliament."

Small wonder that Herbert Spencer entitled one of his essays "From Freedom to Bondage" as he wrote:

"How little the men who drew up the American Declaration of Independence and framed the republic, anticipated that after some generations the legislature would lapse into the hands of wirepullers; that its doings would turn upon the contests of office-seekers; that political action would be everywhere vitiated by the intrusion of a foreign element holding the balance between parties; that electors, instead of judging for themselves, would habitually be led to the polls in thousands by their 'bosses'; and that respectable men would be driven out of public life by the insults and slanders of professional politicians."

Surely there's nothing new under the sun—"modern" liberalism is at least 114 years old, is it not?

Bob Considine Says:

Partly Crippled Gemini 5 Gave U.S. a Needed Jolt

CAPE KENNEDY—We were all getting pretty jaded about our space achievements, weren't we?

It took a partly crippled spacecraft, labeled Gemini 5 and two gully astronauts named Cooper and Conrad to bring us to our senses and make us realize all over again, that history has few if any parallels for the sheer drama of flying off this earth.

Even as the astronauts were flung toward Heaven on top of a rocket belching millions of horsepower, CBS News Director Fred W. Friendly was being quoted as saying that hereafter his network would light up only half an hour before blast-off.

Why should the networks engage in an "excitation as stupid as the arms race?" That's what Fred rhetorically asked from his headquarters in the corporation that virtually invented overkill in TV news coverage.

He may have second thoughts in the wake of the exuberantly tense weekend.

Neither ABC nor NBC plan as of now to place any such embargo on pre-launch innuities.

If CBS persists with the new policy it will be interesting to see how "Captain Kangaroo" measures up in the Nielsen ratings with NASA's Commander Wally Schirra in the hour leading up to the Gemini 6 launch.

Perhaps in the end the "Captain" will prevail, and a morning suds opera will take precedence over what has always seemed to me to be a breathtaking sight of astronauts climbing into their capsule by the dawn's early light.

People can get jaded awful quick in these times.

We simply took for granted that the tens of thousands of parts in the 10-story tall rocket and the complex capsule sitting on its peak would work like a $10 watch. And they did... for a time.

Suddenly, planes and ships were rushing across the lone-some reaches of the Pacific fighting to get to a point 500 miles northeast of Hawaii where two brave men—fathers of six kids—threatened to be dunked after completing only six of their proposed 121 laps.

LIKE OUTFIELDERS

With that danger past and it appeared that they might go for a full day in their crippled craft, a great rescue force in the Atlantic stirred itself and began to roam back and forth like good center fielders waiting for a high fly to descend.

Perhaps we needed a shaking up of this nature, costly as it promised to be.

It served to remind us that a lot of brave men are performing an absolute wonder in our midst and hundreds of television kids—threatened to be calling in to the stations demanding to know why the football game wasn't on.

Riots Add New Stress to Society

BY BRUCE BOSSART
The incredible Negro riot in Los Angeles, with its smaller echoes in Chicago and Springfield, Mass., puts new stress upon a terrible dilemma in American society.

Taking full effect this summer are the most sweeping national civil rights laws adopted in a century. Yet they are directed largely at old grievances in just one region—the South.

There really are no new laws to assuage the statistics of social and economic despair which engulf so many of the Negroes who have migrated to the northern big cities, toward what they thought was a brighter hope.

Reflecting still the crippling neglect that marked their past, they have been mostly spurned in the North as in the South. They have found the form but not the substance of opportunity.

A grinding isolation has become for many Negroes an official "policy of poverty." But down in the hot streets, it is now clear they are a cauldron of hatred.

It is a hatred which defines that dominant white establishment as an enemy. In calm hours, the call of the embittered is for a kind of instant revolution whose magic will

Minister Gives Reply to Editorial Comments

From your editorial "Cleric Gives Approval to Prenuptial Mating," it is obvious that you failed to ascertain my beliefs. Your assertions that I give "tacit endorsement of licentiousness," that I mock "the sublimity inherent in wedlock," that I am a "free-love apostle," are contrary to the fact as even a cursory reading of my sermon would reveal. Your attack and others like it have caused me immeasurable damage; I have been forced to resign from a respected public position, my next door neighbor refuses to speak to me, my church has been subjected to great embarrassment by the necessity of explaining that their minister is not a "free-love apostle." You have a perfect right to disagree with my opinions but you have no right to hold me up to public condemnation for views I do not hold.

'Praise Is Due Officers for Jobs Well Done'

One thing that makes me disgusted is the overplay of news pertaining to police brutality and the small articles that appear with limited information of a job exceptionally well done by our police officers.

Praise is due Sgt. Conley and his men for the quick recovery of the jewels stolen from a city jeweler, and the clean, quick capture of a man who had shot a fellow police officer. Keep up the good work, men.

'Fighting Among Americans Is Degrading'

I am sure everyone is aware of present world problems. In my opinion there is about as much fighting between Americans as there is between Vietnamese and Americans. I consider this situation very degrading to American citizens.

Crime and racial problems are overtaking the once-called strongest nation, when most people worked for each other instead of against each other.

'Man Faces Threat of Population Explosion'

The population explosion is the number one threat facing mankind. Overpopulation may result in mass starvation or in catastrophic war. If man is to avoid anarchy and war resulting from starvation, there must be instituted a worldwide program of birth control or eventually resort to compulsory sterilization in a frantic effort to curb the population.

For centuries we have been enabling the unfit to reproduce themselves at an alarming rate, guarding them from disease and death, protecting them and supporting them. Thus, we are placing an ever greater burden on the fit. The more fit there are, the larger the burden.

Agree to End War in Yemen

Cease-Fire Said OK'd by Nasser and Feisal

JIDDA, Saudi Arabia (UPI) — King Feisal of Saudi Arabia said today he and President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic have reached full agreement on means to end the civil war in Yemen.

"We are in full agreement with President Nasser without conditions or restrictions," Feisal said at the end of three days of talks with the Egyptian leader.

Feisal gave no details of the agreement, but the semi-official Middle East news agency said the two leaders had agreed to a cease-fire.

Earlier today, informed sources said the Feisal-Nasser talks had hit snags on two issues.

Sources said the snags were two conditions raised by Nasser for ending the 3-year-old civil war: preservation of the republican form of government in Yemen and ouster of the royal family from any future government.

EXCLUDE ROYALTY
The Nasser conditions would exclude the family of the Imam, or king, Mohammed El Badr, who was deposed in the 1962 revolution.

Saudi Arabia has backed the royalists supporting El Badr in their guerrilla comeback.

King Feisal was reported opposed to the conditions on grounds they contradicted his desire for self-determination among Yemen's five million residents.

The report of snags conflicted with a dispatch published here which said Nasser and Feisal had "reached unconditional agreement on all points."

Feisal said last night a settlement of the strife was "more than certain."

House Full of Ghostly Fascination

GUILFORD, Conn. (AP) — Patrolman Nicholas Heery, sent to investigate reports of ghostly doings at a deserted farm house, opened the front door and a strange figure swooped at him, knife in hand.

"I opened the door twice, and both times the knife went into the doorframe," Heery said. The figure was a dummy, one of several in the house. All were made from sheets rigged on wires strung to make the dummies plunge downstairs and lunge through doorways.

"Somebody spent a lot of time on that house," Heery said. "It was fascinating to see."

The report of strange happenings came from Frederick Bennett, the owner, after he had stopped by the old house to see if vandals had damaged it. Bennett, who owns a fuel oil business in Guilford, found a mannequin lying in state in the living room, a booby-trapped kitchen, and one bedroom rigged so that a person outside could pull wires to raise the lid of a chest, lift the sheet off the bed and jangle the bedsprings. Bennett and Heery agreed that the haunting was probably the work of ingenious youngsters.

U.S. Gets Its Two Cents In With Dull New Quarter

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — It doesn't shine and it doesn't jingle and it costs only 2 cents to make.

But it buys 25 cents worth of goodies, and it works in vending machines. It also should last a long while.

That's the new quarter put into production yesterday at the Philadelphia mint. The copper-nickel alloy coin bonded with a core of pure copper was ordered to preserve the nation's dwindling silver supply.

There's no silver in it, just as there will not be any silver in the new dimes when they are minted next December.

Other than that, it looks like the old quarter, the same familiar size with George Washington on one side and the American eagle on the other.

BRAND-NEW DATE
What catches the eye is the date — 1965. No other coins were minted this year with that date.

Production started with U.S. Mint Director Eva Adams and Robert A. Wallace, assistant secretary of the Treasury, on hand.

The new silverless quarter, metalwise, is worth about two cents. The old quarter was worth 25 cents. The new half-dollars, scheduled for production Nov. 1, will be 40 per cent silver.

Once-Rising Star May Now Be Falling

Soviet Official Has Trouble With Spy Game

By LEON DENNEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In Russia's unending struggle for power, Aleksandr Shelepin has long been regarded by Kremlinologists as a front runner for the job once held by Stalin and Nikita Khrushchev.

At 47, he is the youngest of the faceless men who now rule Russia. He is also the most ambitious.

However, as boss of Moscow's vast espionage network, GRU (Glavnoye Rovedyvatel'noye Upravleniye), Shelepin lately has had a spell of bad luck that may send him into oblivion and not to the Kremlin's top.

Scores of his spies were recently caught and jailed or expelled from the United States, Britain, France, Switzerland, Norway, West Germany and from a number of countries in Latin America, Asia and Africa.

Top Red bureaucrats are known to have been shot or exiled to Siberia for lesser "acts of negligence." But Shelepin seems to assume he can violate with impunity the rules of the espionage game.

USEFULNESS AT END

Everyone knows that once a spy is exposed his usefulness is at an end. You give him a pension and pack him off to grow roses.

But Shelepin merely changes his agents' names and sends them again as "diplomats" to spy in some other country.

Khairoullam Shalkarov, one of Moscow's top secret agents, has achieved the remarkable feat of being caught in three Southeast Asian countries.

SENT BACK

The Ceylonese government recently said that he was a Soviet intelligence agent who once operated as a Soviet military adviser in Laos under the alias "Colonel Khakunov." Ceylon sent Shalkarov back to Moscow.

Colombo's press added the information that Shalkarov interfered on behalf of the Reds in Ceylon's recent elections.

If this information is true, Shalkarov (or whatever his real name) is an ineffective as well as an unskillful agent. Ceylon's elections finally brought about the fall of the entrenched pro-Red regime and its replacement by the pro-American national government of Premier Dudley Senanayake.

In 1958, Shalkarov was masquerading as a diplomat in Thailand and was expelled for "activities most dangerous to security and peace."

SECOND TIME

Why he chose his Thailand cover-name of Shalkarov a second time in Ceylon will probably never be known in the West. But it does argue a considerable lack of finesse on the part of Shelepin and his department in the GRU which is concerned with the provision of cover stories for Red spies.

To be sure, Shalkarov can claim that he is not the only Red agent to be expelled from Ceylon.

As soon as Premier Senanayake came to power he deported two Red Chinese "diplomats," nine North Koreans, two North Vietnamese and 10 East German Communists.

However, Shalkarov's third consecutive failure is a more serious affair for Shelepin because of the damage done to Russia's prestige in an Asian and former colonial country.

Compared to this performance by the GRU, the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency looks like a model of efficiency.

Facts, Figures From a Writer's Mailbag

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Teen-age marriages are from two to four times as likely to wind up in divorce as marriages by those in their 20s.

Worried about radioactive fallout? Some researchers think its effects can be minimized by taking vitamin B, calcium, hormones and antibiotics.

What's our most popular sport? More than 40 million Americans went to thoroughbred racing tracks, more than 26 million to harness tracks, more than 31 million saw major or minor league baseball games, almost as many attended a college or professional football game, but—some 57 million went for a ride, and got their own exercise.

Breathing is said to be about the only free thing left. However, it now costs about $500 or $700 for a baby to take its first breath. That's the average price for being born today.

Animal lovers will be pleased to know that rodeos are getting safer. At one time, up to 5 per cent of the livestock performers in such shows were hurt. The figure has been cut to a tenth of 1 per cent.

Our quotable notables: "A gossip is one who talks to you about others; a bore is one who talks to you about himself; and a brilliant conversationalist is one who talks to you about yourself"—singer Lisa Kirk.

What's in a name? If Smith moved to Germany, he'd be Schmidt. In Russia, he'd be known as Kuznetsov, in Poland Kowal, in Italy Ferraro, in Bulgaria Kovac, in Hungary Kovars, in France Lefevre. And in England, if he were trying to forget the fact that one of his ancestors was a blacksmith, he might call himself Smythe.

Living takes a lot of nerve nowadays. That may be why the human brain has an estimated 100 billion nerve cells.

History lesson: Can you name the only U.S. president who studied to be a physician? He was William Henry Harrison, our ninth chief executive, who died April 4, 1841, after only a month in office. In his youth, he completed half of a 32-week medical course at the University of Pennsylvania.

Fluid content: The average American drank only one gallon of wine last year, compared with the average Frenchman's consumption of 35 gallons. But the typical American also put down 32 gallons of milk, 14 gallons of soft drinks, and nearly eight gallons of tea.

Folklore: A branch from a mountain ash will keep witches out of your house. A sore on the tip of your tongue is a punishment for having told a lie. Put on your right sock and shoe first in the morning, or you will have bad luck before bedtime. If you drop a plate of food, you will hear bad news soon.

ALMANAC SAYING

Worth remembering: "By the time a man can afford to lose a golf ball, he just can't hit it that far"—the Farmers Almanac.

Paper work for Uncle Sam: We now fill out more than a billion forms a year for U.S. federal agencies. That's slightly more than five each for every person in the population.

Odd bits of lore: Their tail feathers help birds to hear better. Fly casting was practiced as early as 10 B.C. The only purple-colored animal is the blebok, a small South American antelope. The average child eats nearly $6,500 in food by the time he's 18.

It was Jonathan Swift who observed, "How is it possible to expect mankind to take advice when they will not so much as take warning?"

Train Derailment Blamed on Vandals

MUSKOGON (AP)—A derailment of six units of a Grand Trunk Western railway freight train here Monday resulted in damages which railroad officials estimate could reach $200,000.

Railroad detectives said "it appears that vandals battered the lock on a switch and threw it partially open."

No one was injured as two diesel engines and four boxcars from the train left the main tracks and tore up a length of rail roadway in an industrial section on the southeast side of the city. The mishap occurred next to the Muskegon County Road Commission garage.

'Ring' Back After 4 Years

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Ring, the part-shepherd and part-collie pet of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Roberts, is back home again after an absence of four years.

After the dog disappeared in 1961, the family searched the neighborhood for him and offered a reward for his return. They finally gave up and acquired two more dogs.

When Mrs. Roberts opened the front door one night recently, a familiar-looking animal bounded in and up to Ring's favorite resting place on the living room couch.

Although the dog was minus the collar and license tag he had on when he disappeared, he had the same body scars that Ring had. It is believed he was stolen and found his way back home.

This Is No Mirage

OASIS, Wis. (AP)—This little town of 350 persons in Waushara County Township, for the third time in 17 years, voted to continue the long-time prohibition on the sale of intoxicating beverages. The dries outvoted the wets by a total of 70 to 47. Take another look at the name of the town.

YOUNG FRIENDSHIP — A couple of youngsters hit it off at the Iowa State Fair at Des Moines yesterday. James Bride, 2, of Monmouth, Ill., found a Hereford calf, hugged him, led him around the beef cattle barn and didn't want to let go. The boy's father, Fred Bride, finally persuaded him to visit some other exhibits.

Respected State Man Is Georgia Escapee

WARREN (AP)—"Everything had been going great for us," says a 23-year-old Warren man who built a life of respectability under a pseudonym after fleeing a Georgia prison camp 2½ years ago.

Now, the FBI has identified Jack Howard, 23, as prison farm escapee Jackie Lee Ford. A chain of legal machinery has been set into motion. Ford, who as a machine shop foreman never missed a day of work, faces extradition proceedings through Wayne County Circuit Court next month.

PERSONAL BOND

He is under $1,000 personal bond on a federal charge of unlawful flight to avoid confinement.

His wife, Linda, whom he married in December 1963, expects their first child Oct. 26.

Ford, under the name of Howard, says he is making payments on the two bedroom house he purchased in Warren last May.

He said he fears solitary confinement or death at the hands of other prisoners if he is returned to Georgia. He said some prisoners believe he pointed out to authorities the inmate who fatally stabbed a fellow prisoner at a state prison at Reidsville in 1962.

WAS TRANSFERRED

Ford said he was transferred at his request to a prison camp at Warm Springs Nov. 29, 1962. "It was okay there for a while until some guys came up from Reidsville," he said. "I'd been dead in another week or two, probably. So that's when I left."

He said he was serving a sentence of up to 10 years at the time for burglary.

"Since he's been up here," Mrs. Howard said, "you couldn't have found a better person."

"We made him a foreman and trust him with the keys to the shop," said Myron Scott, a part owner of Allen Tool & Machine Co. where Ford is employed.

NEVER MISSED

"He's never missed a day in two years," Scott said. "We'll back him up all the way. We want to do all we can to keep him here."

Scott said he hopes to ask Gov. George Romney not to sign extradition papers.

Free-Lamb Threat

Brings Out Members

LAWSON, Mo. (AP)—Mary's little lamb might have been welcome in school, but apparently would not be welcome in the homes of the members of the Lawson Rotary Club. President Charlie Black, some weeks ago, announced that he would send a little lamb from his farm to the home of the first Rotarian who missed attending a meeting. Since then, the club has had perfect attendance at its weekly meetings.

Scientists estimate that there are more than one million earthquakes annually with only about 700 of them strong enough to be felt.

First It Was a Highway . . .

NY Tenants May Have to Move Again

NEW YORK (AP)—Hundreds of families moved out of their homes to make way for an express highway in Manhattan may be moved again for a low-income housing project.

The housing is to be built for other families forced to move when their homes are razed for the same highway project, the Lower Manhattan Expressway.

City officials said three months ago when the $110 million roadway was approved that housing developments would be built in the old Italian neighborhood for families forced to relocate.

An estimated 2,000 families will be displaced by the planned 2.4-mile expressway.

But several hundred families who did not want to live in a project set out to find other homes in the neighborhood out of the path of the expressway. Most moved into a block bounded by Grand, Broome and Mulberry streets and Centre Market Place.

OLD NEIGHBORHOOD

Now, the city apparently wants this area for the housing project.

"I was in the path of the expressway, and so I moved here so I can stay in my old neighborhood," said Mrs. Genevieve D'Argento. "And now they want to chase me from here."

The parish priest, Rev. Gerard LaMontain of the Church of the Most Holy Crucifix, said, "I guess you could say that these people have jumped out of the frying pan into the fire."

First word of the planned housing project came when persons identified as employees of the City Housing Authority conducted a door-to-door survey of the area.

SLAMMED IN FACES

Many doors were slammed in their faces, but a few who left them open said the block probably would be leveled for a low-income project. Some said they were told they would have to move by next June.

A spokesman for the housing authority said yesterday that the study was "only a preliminary survey" and the area was "only a proposed site."

"Nothing has been approved yet," he said. "We are just gathering some facts and figures."

Any such project would be subject to public hearings by the City Planning Commission and the board of estimate and to final approval by the mayor.

Alarm Note Was a Slip

NEW YORK (UPI) — Joseph Finazzo, 74, handed a slip of paper to the teller at Brooklyn's Roosevelt Savings Bank yesterday.

"This bottle contains acid," the note said. "Deposit in brown paper bag bills of various denominations. Do not scream for help or you will get hurt."

The alarm sounded. A guard grabbed Finazzo, who later explained that he had been depositing $100 in his account. Unfortunately, police discovered, he unwittingly used a deposit slip on which someone else had penned the threatening message.

Los Angeles International Airport handled 10.7 million passengers in 1964, a gain of 1.7 million passengers over the year before.

Tellers Tells Tale;

Robbery Attempt Fails

ROANOKE, Va. (AP)—A young man walked up to the window of Mrs. Ruby Robertson, teller at the First Federal Savings Loan Association here, flashed what seemed to be a toy pistol and told her nervously he needed some money.

She asked him if he weren't kidding, and when she heard him say definitely he was not, she said equally seriously: "I'm sorry, but we're fresh out of money." The man looked dejected, turned and fled.

Hen Dyes Her Eggs

PARIS, Ky. (AP)—Mrs. Charles McCann says her pet pullet lays ready-made Easter eggs. The eggs are normal on the inside but the shell is of a blue-green tinge.

Bandit Swaps Gun

for Driver's 2 Dollars

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Albert Stober, 38, had stopped for a traffic signal when a bandit slid into the car on the passenger side. Holding a gun, he demanded money. As he handed him $2, Stober knocked the pistol from the bandit's hands. The thief grabbed the $2 and beat a hasty retreat, leaving the pistol behind.

South Viet Nam's 'Barefoot Army' Meeting Jungle Enemy on Own Terms of Attack

CHAU THANH, South Viet Nam (AP) — Something new, something encouraging, is happening in this area of the Mekong River delta.

The barefoot army known as the PFs, the popular forces, is going out at night, out into the rice paddies, out into the mangrove swamps and the jungles, to meet the Viet Cong on its own terms of ambush and sneak attack.

For a long time, the PFs seldom stirred at night from their sandbagged, barbed wire-encrusted watchtowers at the edge of every little hamlet and village. Now hardly a night goes by without some squad making deadly and swift contact with an unruly band of Viet Cong.

"These are the fiercest and most loyal fighters in the country," said Lt. Col. Donald L. Roberts of Fort Angeles, Wash., sector adviser to Vinh Long province. "They know who the enemy is. They know where he is."

LOCAL FIGHTING

Unlike the regular Vietnamese army, the PFs fight only in the vicinity of their own hamlet or village. Equipped with World War II carbines and sportsman's shotguns, the PFs are full-time soldiers who live in camp with their wives and children and come under the leadership of the district or village chief.

A similar force of full-time home guards called the regional forces, or the RFs, operates in company strength under direction of the province chief. These usually are uniformed and equipped with mortars and automatic weapons.

PFs and RFs accounted for 70 per cent of all Viet Cong casualties," said Capt. James Orr of Atlanta, Ga. They are fighting for their homes and families, right there in their own back yard."

With the unrelenting sun shafting down through the banana and coconut trees, this correspondent climbed into a sampan and went to visit PF outposts.

DISTRICT LEADER

Maj. Luong Dinh Bay, district leader trained in a French officer candidate school, rode the bow of the sampan, automatic rifle cradled at the ready, his deep black eyes constantly roving the canal bank.

Capt. Jack Miller of Canton, Mo., the major's American adviser, sat in the stern, pointing out how the PFs in the area had cleared the canal bank of defense foliage to deny the Viet Cong a hiding place.

Chau Thanh District, slowly undergoing pacification, has about 110,000 population, most of the men fishermen and rice farmers.

"Encouraged by the Viet Cong, these people haven't paid any rent to the land owners in four years," said Capt. Miller, "so naturally they weren't particularly concerned about the government cause. But now the VC is really putting on the pressure for tax money. This year they want half the crop. The people are beginning to think that maybe the government isn't so bad. It's my hope that maybe next harvest, no VC taxes will be collected in this district at all."

POORLY EQUIPPED

He looked at the squad's weapons and an expression of disgust came over his face.

"I never thought I'd see the day when as an American I'd be fighting an enemy with superior weapons. The VC has mortars and machine guns. I've been fighting to get better weapons for the popular forces. But headquarters is afraid more sophisticated weapons will wind up in Communist hands. Hell, these guys take twice as many weapons as they lose."

PLEASE OFFICER

All day, traffic flowed along the muddy canal, an old man alone in a sampan under a pink parasol, a young woman standing up front on another, doing the poling while her husband in the back did the steering, the river merchant moving from hamlet to hamlet in his junk, offering pots and dishes and clothes in exchange for shrimp and rice and bread, shrimp fishermen pulling their long nets from the murky waters.

The popular forces guarded it all, every bridge, every culvert, every trail along the bank. By day, they walked the dusty roads, barefoot, rifles slung

"These are all five-year veterans," he said.

All day, traffic flowed along the muddy canal, an old man alone in a sampan under a pink parasol, a young woman standing up front on another, doing the poling while her husband in the back did the steering, the river merchant moving from hamlet to hamlet in his junk, offering pots and dishes and clothes in exchange for shrimp and rice and bread, shrimp fishermen pulling their long nets from the murky waters.

The popular forces guarded it all, every bridge, every culvert, every trail along the bank. By day, they walked the dusty roads, barefoot, rifles slung over their shoulders. At night they sat for hours, watching, waiting, at who knows what risk to themselves or their families.

KILL 13 CONG

At the Luc Hoa outpost, which recently killed 13 Viet Cong and confiscated 11 Communist weapons on a night operation, the major called on Le Van Liem, 25, the platoon leader, to tell what pressures were put on him by the VC.

He told how the VC had called on his aged parents one night and threatened to kidnap and shoot them if he took a platoon leader's job with the PFs.

"I sent word that I will shoot them myself," Liem said. "I told them my parents are old, and I'm ready to do that to save 50 of my friends who are young and must remain alive to fight for their own parents and friends."

The major's brother and stepfather were killed by the VC. Still, he finds no real satisfaction in the statistic that his district, his PFs, are third in the country in killing VC.

"I would rather count the number of village chiefs who haven't been killed, the number of teachers who have escaped kidnapping since we made ourselves strong. Those are the only statistics," he said.

South Lyon Voting for Teen Queen

SOUTH LYON — Getting ready for the Gala Days celebration during the Labor Day weekend, shoppers here are picking South Lyon's new Teen Queen.

Four area girls are competing for the honor of reigning at the festivities held from Sept. 4, 5 and 6.

Each has a canister in four downtown stores and shoppers are depositing coins to indicate their favorites.

Among the girls vying for the Teen Queen crown are Sheila Minton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Minion, 4218 Ada, sponsored by the Jaycees, and Connie Blevins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Blevins, 180 Woodland, sponsored by the Jaycee Auxiliary.

Teachers Hired Without B.A.'s

Utica Class Increase Leaves Staff Shortage

UTICA — An apparent teacher shortage this year has forced the board of education to hire non-degree teachers, mainly in the lower elementary grades.

The school district found itself in a bind when it began trying to fill more than twice as many positions as it has in other years.

The need for an increased staff is the result of a return in many areas to full-day sessions. Half-days were instituted last year when voters turned down a four-mill tax bond issue.

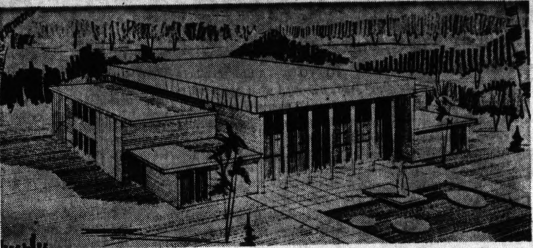

A bond issue and millage proposal subsequently were approved in December 1964 making it possible to restore some of the school program.

To fill the increased teaching positions, Asst. Supt. Floyd Ebeling had to find 172 teachers. The shortage of teachers in the lower elementary grades meant the district had to turn to the non-degree teachers.

EYE PAY HIKE

A non degree teacher with 60 to 90 hours towards her degree may teach for 90 days with a special certificate. One with more than 90 hours may work a year with a special certificate.

The board of education last night tentatively discussed raising the salary for non degree teachers from $4,800 to $4,900 but no action was taken.

ARTIST'S SKETCH — This drawing of a proposed educational unit for DeLima Junior College, Oxford, shows the beginning of final plans for development of a program to include separate residence halls and educational buildings on campus. The school is located on a 770-acre estate surrounded by lakes and woods. It is on the south outskirts of Oxford.

Bookstores' Hours Given in Clarkston

CLARKSTON — Bookstores at all seven Clarkston schools will be open Aug. 30 through Sept. 3 from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 3:30 p.m., according to Floyd F. Vincent, administrative assistant.

In addition, the Clarkston High School bookstore will be open from 7 to 10 p.m. Sept. 2.

The kindergarten fee is $2. Book rental for the first eight grades is $5 and for the high school $6.

The following charges have been established for supplies and materials to be used in various classes: Art fee, $5; mechanical drawing I fee, $10; mechanical drawing II and III fee, $4.50; towel fee, $4; shoe fee, $3.25, and shop card, $2.50.

Book rental and fees must be paid in full when receiving books, emphasized Vincent.

Junior College by Oxford to Start Classes on Sept. 8

OXFORD — DeLima Junior College, on the south outskirts of the village, will open its doors to its first freshmen class on Sept. 8.

Located at 775 W. Draher, the 770-acre campus has seven lakes, large garden areas, pine groves, and playing fields which provide opportunities for seasonal sports, swimming, canoeing and fishing.

The school is dedicated to the education and training of young Christian women in the ideals of a liberal arts tradition, according to Mother M. Lucille, O. P., president of the college.

"The college will offer associate in arts and associate in commerce programs to help prepare young women for further education leading to the baccalaureate degree and to seek higher secretarial and supervisory positions," she said.

Conducted by the Dominican Sisters of the Congregation of St. Rose of Lima, the college has a faculty of 16 members whose specialties include accounting, biology, business, English, history, humanities, languages, philosophy, psychology, secretarial science, sociology, speech and theology.

"The college plans to expand with the needs for higher education to bring to the Pontiac-Oxford-Lake Orion area the best educational program possible," Alec A. Lazar, director of development at the college, said.

Girls interested in seeking further information on admission policies can write to Sister M. Michaelene, O. P., registrar.

Campus tours may be arranged any time between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Students are advised to call the director of development for an appointment.

Opens Friday Evening

'Stay All Day' Is Fair Byword

"Come early and stay all day." Michigan State Fair officials are urging the public this year.

The fair opens Friday evening and runs through Labor Day, Sept. 6.

As always, agriculture and industry will be well represented at the fair.

The state's farmers will be competing with their best livestock and crops. Automotive and other industries will have extensive exhibits.

In the community arts field (this year), there'll be prize-winning exhibits of canning, baking, needlework, hobbycraft, fine arts plus a food show and fashion show.

COOKING EXHIBITS

And while the men are looking over the animals and watching the judging, the women will have an opportunity to see cooking and other demonstrations in the new Community Arts Building.

Entertainment, as always, will be big at this year's fair.

Music Shell shows will star the Serendipity Singers and the NBC television "Hullabaloo" dancers with special guest stars the Four Tops, Lesley Gore, Johnny Rivers and Tony Clarke from Friday through Sept. 1. From Sept. 2, through Labor Day, the Music Shell shows will have the Supremes, the singing group which has made "the Detroit Sound" internationally famous, and ballad singer Jack Jones with the Jimmy Wilkins Orchestra.

HONORS BAND

An honors band, made up of the top high school musicians in the state, will play concerts in the Music Shell Sept. 3 through Sept. 5. Guest soloist will be trumpeter Carl (Doc) Severinsen, assistant director of the TV Skitch Henderson Orchestra.

To Show Farm Home at Fair

A home designed for farm families will be introduced at the Michigan State Fair by the Homestead Corp. of Warren.

Details on the home, which incorporates suggestions of Carlton M. Edwards, Michigan State University's rural housing specialist, will be available at the Homestead exhibit across from the agricultural building.

The state fair opens Friday evening and runs through Labor Day, Sept. 6.

In front of the Grandstand, meshowile, the Barnes and Carruthers Circus will perform three shows daily from Aug. 28, through Sept. 3.

STROLLING MUSICIANS

Other entertainment highlights of the fair will be strolling musicians throughout the grounds; shows in the Coliseum Grove featuring acts from theatrical and dance schools; round and square dancing in the Old Timers' Grove; Avenue A-Go-Go with music and features for the teen-age set; children's contests and features such as the TV Fun Circus; and the shows and rides on the Gay Midway.

In the Coliseum, 15 free horse shows are scheduled, with Appaloosas, giant Clydesdales and Percherons, Arabians and Morgans, and a host of ponies stepping through their paces.

The Detroit Mounted Police will perform at each horse show except on Labor Day.

Students Educated 'by Appointment'

Flexibility Key to Troy School Setup

By JANICE KLOUSER

TROY — High school students will get their "education by appointment" this year under a new program known as the Stanford School Scheduling System.

The purpose of the plan is to "introduce increased flexibility into the schedule in an attempt to achieve increased flexibility in learning," according to Principal Joseph E. Bechard.

The idea is to give the student the responsibility for his own education in the hopes of increasing his maturity level.

Troy is pioneering in the field as it is one of only 25 schools in the country which has adopted the system.

Under the new program, the class size, the length of class meeting, and the number and spacing of classes will vary according to the nature of the subject, the type of instruction and the level and ability of the pupils.

NOT LESS THAN 2

Instead of the traditional six- or seven-period day, the school day is divided into 24 "modules" or periods of 16 minutes each. However, no class will meet for less than two "modules" or 32 minutes. The longest period is 80 minutes.

Each course consists of a large group meeting, a small group meeting and independent study.

The large groups may be comprised of up to 100 or more students, and meet one, two, or three times a week. The small groups of 10 to 20 students, meet two, three or four times a week.

As an example, a biology teacher may give one lecture to a large group instead of the traditional five lectures a week.

BACK TO LAB

A student may then come back to the lab later where the teacher is available on a "one-to-one" basis.

An English class may meet once a week in large groups of 75 to 250 students or twice a week in small groups of 15 for an hour. A student may also make an appointment to meet individually with the teacher.

"A teacher can lecture 100 students at a time as well as 20," said Bechard.

ally consist of three modules, or 48 minutes, while a typical lab meets for four or five modules, or about 80 minutes.

FREE FOR APPOINTMENTS

Under this schedule the teacher is free 40 to 50 per cent of the time for appointments. For the student, 43 per cent of his time is not scheduled.

During the unscheduled time, however, the student must be working somewhere in the building, either in open lab or in study hall.

The labs are supervised and available to students when the schedule allows, enabling the students to complete required assignments and to pursue subject matter in depth.

MORE CLASSES

"The student can enroll in more classes than before," said Bechard, "and this allows him to explore subjects in his interest area as well as required subjects."

As the student moves up through the grades, the time spent in scheduled classes decreases.

"You can't divorce the physical and philosophical aspects of this program," said Bechard.

"We feel that each subject should determine the length of the class and how often it meets. The class structure has never changed and there are different demands on students today than there were several years ago.

AVOID ROT

"Their knowledge has increased and this requires a different approach to education. We have to teach problem solving instead of rote," the principal said.

"We have to remember that the boys and girls we are teaching will one day be walking on the moon or flying to Mars."

With normal scheduling, the principal and faculty make the schedule and fit the students into it.

computer at Stanford University.

IMPOSSIBLE FOR HUMAN

"There are 70,000 units of time to be scheduled," said Bechard, "and it's impossible for a human being to do it."

The system is being carried out with the approval of the Michigan State Committee of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Evaluations will be made at regular intervals under the direction of Dr. Loyal Joos, director of tests and measurements for the Oakland County Board of Education.

High school credit will be given on the established criteria, even though most classes meet for reduced periods of time.

Mourners Gather for Funeral of Companion

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A young Catholic priest wounded in a burst of shotgun fire last week in Hayneville, Ala., was off the critical list at a Montgomery hospital today, while at a New Hampshire church, mourners gathered for the funeral of a slain companion.

Father Richard Morrisroe, 26, of Chicago, was reported rallying somewhat yesterday by Baptist Hospital authorities, who changed their description of his condition from critical to serious and said he has "a good chance for survival."

In Keene, N.H., meanwhile, funeral services were scheduled for 77-year-old Jonathan Daniels, an Episcopal seminary student fatally wounded by shotgun slugs in the same incident in which Morrisroe was hit.

The two were shot down last Friday afternoon in front of a small grocery store at Hayneville in nearby Lowndes County.

Thomas L. Coleman, 55, a prominent Hayneville resident and special deputy sheriff, was charged with murder and assault with intent to murder in connection with the shootings and is free under $12,500 bond pending action by the county grand jury.

IF INDICTED

The jury meets Sept. 13, and, if indicted, Coleman could be called to trial two weeks later.

Klan leaders delivered angry replies yesterday to charges by Alabama Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers that Daniels' death was "another Klan murder."

Robert M. Shelton, imperial wizard of the United Klans of America Inc., said at his home in Tuscaloosa that if Coleman is a Klan member, "I have no knowledge of it." He added, "I suggest Mr. Flowers get his facts straight."

Any statement that he (Flowers) has in regards to the people of Alabama in regard to segregation doesn't need answering or explaining," the Klan official said.

'SPEWING PROPAGANDA'

The Alabama grand dragon of Shelton's United Klans, Robert Creel of Birmingham, said the attorney general was "just spewing propaganda."

He also accused Flowers of not being specific.

"He uses the words Ku Klux Klan," said Creel. "There is no such organization in existence. Those words are public domain. If he is going to make an accusation against us, I wish he would say United Klans of America. Then we might be able to retaliate."

The Klan leader continued by saying Flowers was "nothing but an echo of LBJ and Martin Luther King. We don't pay much attention to him."

"He's just an echo of the Great Society seeking the Negro vote. And if he wants it, he should join hands with King in seeking the Negro vote and not attack an organization trying to save this nation."

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—A man went into a Western Union office here and wrote out a wire saying "Have not received any money yet. Let me know when you can send."

As the clerk was reading the message, the intruder whipped out a pistol, forced the man to hand over $386 and fled.

China Showing Downed Chiang U2s?

By The Associated Press

TOKYO (AP)—A film seen here today showed what appeared to be four U2 planes with Nationalist Chinese markings on display in Peking.

The film, released by a Japanese agency, showed the planes riddled with holes and badly damaged.

A statement from the Japanese agency said the planes were shot down over Red China on Sept. 9, 1962; Nov. 1, 1963; July 7, 1964, and Jan. 10, 1965.

Nationalist Chinese markings could be seen clearly on the fuselages. The exhibition opened Aug. 20, the agency said.

MEXICO CITY (AP)—At least four persons were dead in Mexico City today in the aftermath of an earthquake that rocked hundreds of square miles of central Mexico during siesta time yesterday.

The fatalities were blamed on fallen power lines.

The two-minute quake broke wall plaster and windows in the tourist-packed capital and caused some buildings to sag. Some residents got dizzy as the city quivered and lights flickered.

In Jalapa, capital of the Gulf Coast state of Veracruz, residents ran into the streets in near panic. Sharp jolts also were felt at Oaxaca, Veracruz, Juarez and Puebla.

Seismologists reported the epicenter in the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, about 350 miles southeast of Mexico City.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—The Iraqi government said today, "It is impossible" that it will use poison gas against the Kurdish rebels in northern Iraq.

"The Iraqi government officially announces that it is impossible that it will resort to such barbaric methods," a statement from the Iraqi Embassy said.

"In addition, Iraq does not possess poison gas of any kind and does not intend to obtain it."

The leader of the Kurdish rebels, Mullah Mustafa Barzani, claimed last week his forces had captured documents showing the Baghdad government was preparing to use gas against his tribesmen.

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Nineteen Latin American nations are meeting in Mexico City to draft a treaty outlawing nuclear weapons from Latin America.

Mexican Undersecretary of Foreign Relations Alfonso Garcia Robles said the denunciation of Latin America would give its people "invaluable benefits."

He added: "We will also contribute in the effort to curb the ruinous nuclear armaments race."

Cuba is the only Latin American nation not represented at the meeting.

ain, Italy, Japan, Norway, the Netherlands, Sweden and Yugoslavia.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Work at the regional headquarters of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency (UNRWA) in Belrut was paralyzed today by an employees' sit-in strike for higher pay.

A spokesman for the agency, which aids more than 1.2 million Arab refugees from Palestine, said all 318 local employees at the headquarters were in their offices but refused to work.

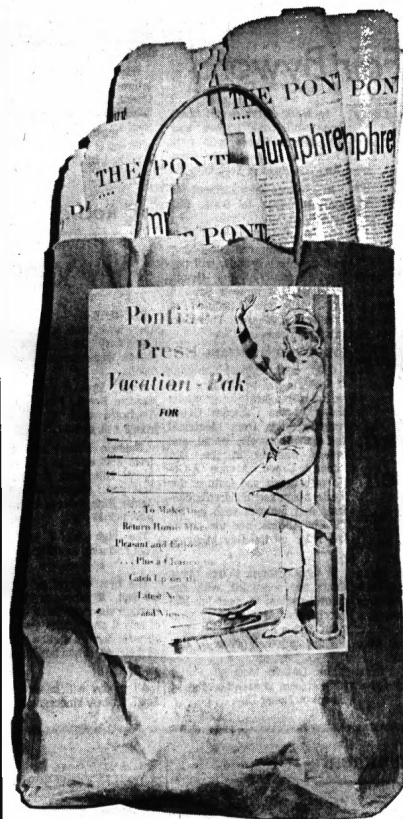

The spokesman said 12,000 employees in UNRWA's field offices in Lebanon, Jordan, Syria and Gaza were still at work.

The employees in Beirut are demanding an 8 per cent raise decreed by the government for all employees in Lebanon. The U.N. agency rejected the demand, saying its employees had been raised 18.9 per cent since 1960.

'Keep My Paycheck'

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—State Rep. Harold Smith, 71, complained on the floor of the Arizona state legislature that the $20 he was being paid as a lawmaker during the time the special session was being held was costing him $23 a day in withdrawn Social Security benefits. The legislators were sympathetic and removed his name from the state payroll.

This Is Hospitable Form of Bribery

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: We recently moved from our old home to another one that is nearer our children's school and where we hoped that they could find more playmates. But our older one—a girl of 7—is shyer than her brother and less able to make new friends. What worries me is that she tries to bribe the little girls who live on our block to play with her. I have told her that we can't buy friends with colas and offers of candy.

ANSWER: Why did you tell her that? Because some child guidance book told YOU that?

Fellow parent, don't you offer candy and drinks to people you want to get to know? When you want to make a hit with people who don't know you, don't you offer to share your belongings with them; your best china, best recipes?

Don't you use the appeal of these belongings of yours to suggest that their owner is even more appealing? Or are you "bribing" them to like you with this appealing hospitality?

You know, we just can't afford to disappear like this—and let our child guidance expert define our child's behavior for us. Let disappearing in exactly what we do when we operate on the expert's opinion without first testing its sense against our own experience.

We become the child who is seen and not heard. Like a repressed child, we accept the expert's view that soliciting friendship by offering hospitality is "bribery" without any protest.

any use of our own brains and experience at all. How can you expect to become a real flesh-and-blood woman to your child if you don't put yourself into what you think and say to her?

The experts aren't around her. She can't make friends with the absent experts. Nor can she make friends with a button that releases a lever marked "bribery" and immediately responds with the automatic answer: "We can't buy friends with colas and candy."

If we are not levers operated by the experts, this kind of thing becomes simple. When the child wants to offer sodas and candy to possible friends, we think: "What a lovely hospitable impulse!"

And delighted at her wish to entertain, give her the sodas and candy, so conveying our pleasure in her hospitable impulse that she finds delight in it, too—and plays out her hostess role in fine, self-confident style.

The Herbert James Butlers (Loretta Geneva Priest) chose the First Church of God for their Saturday vows and reception. Their parents are the Marjoli A. Priests, Joelyn A. Butlers, and the Donald M. Human Interest Wins

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE W-466: Rodney S., aged 22, is a graduate student in geology.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I have an interesting problem for you."

"Because my funds were low, I rented a little room on the top floor of a private home. It had only one small window, so I felt as if I were in a dungeon."

"For I come from the West where we can look for miles in every direction. That little room of mine made me feel as if I were suffocating. I developed claustrophobia."

"Then I happened to buy a couple of pictures at a rummage sale. They included landscapes, trees and a distant mountain. Well, sir, after I placed them on the walls of my dark little room, I didn't feel as hemmed in."

"For those pictures acted much as additional windows for when I viewed the scenes, I felt as if I were looking miles away at the distant horizon."

"Why wouldn't such pictures be good even in prisons to help eliminate that shut-in impression?"

ART THERAPY
Rodney has discovered a valuable point concerning the psychological therapy that art can offer.

In my classes at Northwestern University on Applied Psychology, I would routinely stress the tranquilizing effect of art.

And I have included a chapter therein in my widely used college textbook, "Psychology Applied."

First of all, you don't have to be a "born" artist, for skill with a drawing pencil or brush is learned.

And many busy professional men nowadays employ painting and sketching as a relief from their materialistic daily duties.

Physicians and dental surgeons are thus noted for using art as a constructive hobby. Winston Churchill is another example, as well as former President Eisenhower.

So please be more respectful even of the crude drawings by the cavemen in the Stone Age.

For many of you in this latter year of 1965 still can't draw animals or human beings any better than those pictures left us by the cavemen!

The best teacher of art is available to everybody, for that is Prof. Nature. ACCENTUATE IDEAS

The main purpose of art is to reproduce what is already out there in nature. But artists have the privilege of highlighting a scene to accentuate a given idea.

"Highlighting" by an artist is thus similar to "headlining" by a newspaperman.

And here are a few psychological rules of art:

• Action is depicted by having an object or runner off balance in his body.

But the entire picture can be balanced by having a streamer flowing back behind the runner that restores the total scene to equilibrium.

• The apparent center of the page is not the actual mathematical center but is about 60 per cent from the bottom. This is the line you should make for the horizon. It is called the "golden section."

• Equal space does not mean equal balance! For a child or puppy far outweighs a much larger inanimate object, such as a boulder.

For psychological weight is based on "human interest" value, not area.

TO MARY PRISON LIFER — Mavis Upton, 21, a London, England, typist, plans to marry a prisoner serving a life term soon. The man she plans to marry was sentenced for killing her boyfriend in 1963. The prisoner, Barry Tomkys, 26, will be released for the ceremony at Tavistock registry office, then he will be returned to Dartmoor Prison.

Grand Jury Probe Urged by Romney in Ticket Case

MACKINAC ISLAND (AP) — Gov. George Romney Monday termed the investigation into alleged wholesale traffic ticket fixing in Wayne County "wholly inadequate" and called for a grand jury probe.

"It would seem, in the interest of improving Wayne County government, the logical thing would be the calling of a grand jury to completely and thoroughly air this matter," Romney said.

"If we don't get a grand jury investigation, though, I promise you I'll get the matter investigated," he said.

"Up to this point," he said, "investigative steps appear wholly inadequate."

The Wayne County prosecutor's office is investigating the accusations of three Wayne County sheriff's deputies and a former deputy that a sergeant and an inspector in the road patrol were involved in the fixing of thousands of traffic tickets over the past five years.

The accused men, Sgt. Paul Paciorek and Inspector Dan D. Martin, were suspended from the force Saturday by Sheriff Peter Buback.

"This whole matter is most distressing since it tends to make a mockery of the Wayne County taxpayers' effort in the field of traffic safety and good government," Romney said.

The governor, in a statement issued from his Mackinac Island summer residence, called for "a change in the (ticket) system that would guarantee that this could not recur."

Such a change was ordered into immediate effect Monday by Buback.

Buback said the "foolproof" new system requires numerical, rather than alphabetical, filing of all tickets. It also requires daily logs of all tickets, kept by patrolmen, and receipts for all tickets both by officers in charge and by justices of the peace handling the tickets in court.

Paciorek Monday turned over to the prosecutor's office 3,000 "voided" or "canceled" tickets he said he had kept at his home.

"to prove I was not the one responsible."

Paciorek has accused Martin of ordering him to void tickets in '85 to 98 per cent of the cases.

Martin has denied the charge. Accusations of ticket fixing were first revealed by The Detroit News in a copyrighted story 10 day ago.

U.S. Diplomat to Leave Viet Position Soon

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Deputy Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson will leave his post in South Viet Nam soon, informed sources said today.

Johnson arrived here soon after Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor became ambassador in June 1964. Taylor replaced Henry Cabot Lodge, who has since returned to the post for a second tour of duty.

Johnson's role was considered unusual because he was second man in the diplomatic mission, though having the rank of ambassador. He handled many political assignments and much of the routine diplomatic business here, while, Taylor, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, often concentrated on military matters.

Lodge is scheduled to present his credentials Wednesday to Maj. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, chairman of the directorate that governs the country.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Curiosity almost killed E. T. Beasley's cat and it actually was responsible for starting a fire, firemen who put out a blaze in the Beasley home reported.

The curious kitty apparently got into a radio in the den and bit into a hot wire, burning her mouth and singeing her whiskers. She was treated by a veterinarian.

Foresee Rejection of West Draft

Russia Sets N-Treaty Reply

GENEVA (UPI) — The Soviet negotiator at the 17-nation disarmament conference said today the Kremlin will be responding "shortly" to the treaty proposed by the United States banning the spread of nuclear weapons.

It was a foregone conclusion that the Russian response would be an outright rejection.

Semyon K. Tsarapkin, the Russian delegate here, told newsmen today he is preparing his formal reply to the American proposal, tabled by the United States last Thursday.

Tsarapkin was expected to submit his reply Thursday.

The conference met for only 30 minutes today. The only speaker was the Canadian negotiator, Gen. E. L. M. Burns. He said the American draft treaty was "a joint product" of the United States, Britain, Canada and Italy.

WANT MODIFICATIONS

Burns said Canada realizes that some nations want modifications in the proposals and that all members of NATO are prepared to consider amendments.

Even Britain has some reservations. Lord Chalfont, the chief British negotiator, said, as it now stands, the treaty would permit an association of nations to get control over nuclear weapons.

He has said he will try to amend the draft if serious negotiations with Russia ever begin.

In his off-the-cuff statements to newsmen, Tsarapkin charged that West Germany is anxious to get control over nuclear weapons.

Former West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has said that if the treaty is signed it will "deliver" Europe into the hands of the Soviet Union, but the current government in Bonn supports the U.S. position on banning the spread of nuclear weapons.

Tsarapkin has demanded that the West scrap its plans for a multilateral nuclear force (MLF) under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

This is the plan advanced by the late U.S. President John F. Kennedy. Russia contends it would open the door to the acquisition of nuclear weapons by West Germany.

Russia says it fears such a development, and the West so far has refused to bow to Moscow's demands to drop its plans for the MLF. The issue is one of the points on which the disarmament conference has become snagged.

Debate Vote of Confidence for New Greek Government

ATHENS (UPI) — The Greek parliament today opened a vote-of-confidence debate on the government of Premier Elias Tsirimos. Renewed antigovernment rioting was considered a strong possibility.

Tsirimos was given a 50-50 chance to survive the vote, expected Friday.

Former Premier George Papandreu planned to boycott the parliamentary session. Papandreu controls a majority of the ruling Center Union party deputies.

His ouster July 15 by King Constantine precipitated the prolonged political crisis and frequent street demonstrations and rioting.

The Center Union party under Papandreu's leadership was expected to hold a caucus prior to the parliamentary session to plan strategy.

RIOT SHADOW

With the shadow of further rioting hanging heavy over the capital, the police issued an order that a scheduled demonstration at the Gloria Theater tonight must break up peacefully without a march in the streets.

The government yesterday banned all street demonstrations indefinitely and warned it would take stern measures against violators. Indoor demonstrations were exempt from the ban.

The 58-year-old Tsirimos was named premier by Constantine last week.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

This Type of Hernia Just an Annoyance

Q—What causes hiatus hernia? How can I adjust to this condition? Why is surgery not recommended? What is the prognosis?

A—The opening in the diaphragm that allows the esophagus to pass from the thorax into the abdomen is a point of natural weakness—so much so that over 50 per cent of all persons over 60 years of age have some degree of herniation here.

The percentage increases with age and with a tendency to obesity.

You might adjust to it by reducing if you are overweight and by sleeping in a semi-reclining position.

In this position gravity allows the portion of your stomach that has escaped through the hiatus into your chest to drop back into its normal place.

Operation is the treatment of choice because it will correct the cause of your discomfort. If you have some condition that would make an operation an unwarranted hazard your doctor would advise against it.

AN ANNOYANCE

This type of hernia is an annoyance rather than a threat to life except in rare instances in which the stomach does not slide back into place when you stand up.

As a result of this strangulation, gangrene of the incarcerated portion may occur and an emergency operation would be necessary.

Q—Can taking Gelusil frequently over a long period have any bad effects on a person with gastritis and duodenal ulcer? Would the diets usually prescribed for these two illnesses clash?

A—Gelusil contains magnesium trisilicate and aluminum hydroxide. These are not absorbed into the blood and can safely be taken in large amounts.

The only unwanted results of taking an excessive dosage might be a slight constipation or an interference with the absorption of phosphorus from the digestive tract.

The diets usually prescribed for gastritis and for peptic ulcer are bland (low in roughage and irritating spices) and would not clash.

South has no trouble making six spades. All he has to do is to draw trumps, discard his two hearts on dummy's 10 diamonds and concede a club trick.

The contract would be reached easily by normal bidding methods following a 3-3 opening spade bid by South.

Six spades by South is also reached via the Vanderbilt Club convention after West overcalls with one heart. North's double is not for business. Instead it shows that North has the strength to make a positive response and is forcing to game.

Thus, when North jumped to four spades he was inviting a slam and South is able to ask for aces and settle for six when he finds that one ace is missing.

The use of this particular type of double is one of Harold Vanderbilt's early inventions. He found that an overall of an opening club bid might make it hard for responder to get into competition. Thus, since a double shows a positive response an immediate bid denies the strength for a positive response.

How does the Vanderbilt convention handle the situation when responder wants to double for business? Responder must pass. The chances are that club bidder will reopen with a takeout double whereupon responder just leaves it in.

What would happen with this hand if West failed to overcall? North would respond one spade and North and South would have to go down if they bid six spades. How would other club conventions fare against West's heart overcall? North would bid a spade and the slam would be lost.

In Slack Trading

Market Shows Irregular Gain

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market showed an irregular gain early this afternoon in slack trading.

Scattered gains by blue chips helped buck up the over-all market.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .5 at $33.5 with industrials up .8, rails up 2 and utilities up 4.

Brokers said the list was making a mild technical recovery after three straight days of decline.

The background of business news was fairly encouraging and included a report that machine tool orders in July were 12 percent above a year ago.

Selective strength was displayed among chemicals, electrical equipment, electronics, rails and office equipment but the rise on balance was very slight.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.37 at 888.44.

The averages were helped by General Electric's rise of a point and duPont's gain of a point and a half.

NEW HIGH

IBM made a new high as it advanced more than 4. Polaroid gained 2, Xerox more than a point.

Prices were generally higher in quiet trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were mostly unchanged, U. S. Treasury bonds continued to edge downward.

Waterford Hires Planning Dept. Aide

Waterford Township Board last night hired a 23-year-old Indiana University graduate student, Curtis Rossow, as an assistant to Planning Director Vernon Wiggins, overriding the objections of Trustee Loren Anderson.

Anderson, the lone dissenter in a 6 to 1 vote count, questioned the need for a third person in the department.

He implied that the more than $6,000 annual salary to be paid Rossow could be put to better use elsewhere in the yet-to-be proposed 1966 budget.

However, Wiggins voiced the need for a three-man department and satisfied the majority of board members when he explained the extent of the new official's duties.

According to Wiggins, an overload in zoning issues — for which he sees no letup — is the foremost reason the assistant planner's position is necessary to the functioning of the department.

Rossow, who is expected to assume the post next month, will also serve as zoning administrator, and review subdivision plats in addition to other relevant chores, Wiggins pointed out.

RESIGNATION
The Planning Commission had been a three-member operation prior to the resignation of former Planning Director Robert Dieball last year to enter private business.

secretary in the department.

Trustee Rudy Mansfield stated that the appropriation for the position was in the current budget, thus the board was merely deciding on whether to approve or reject Rossow.

After the meeting, Anderson said, "I don't see any reason why we should have a precommitment on the 1966 budget until we actually have a 1966 budget. There isn't that sense of urgency."

"This might be one of the areas in which we have to cut expenses," said Anderson.

"That $6,000 could do good in another area," he noted, pointing to the need for a new fire station.

Also at last night's meeting, the special assessment roll for the Cass Lake Road sidewalk project was approved at a public hearing, and Sept. 20 was set as the public hearing date for the proposed Athens street-lighting project.

The Athens street-lighting project covers that area between Sashabaw and Lawrence. Total estimated cost is $258.

SEVEN LIGHTS
Seven lights would be installed. The township would pay 10 percent of the total cost.

Average assessment would be $7.50 per property owner, according to Supervisor James Settelin.

In other business, a request to split two lots of supervisor's plat No. 8 into three separate parcels was approved. The plat is located on Louella near Sashabaw.

Also, reports were submitted by the treasurer, clerk and police department.

ESTIMATED RECEIPTS
The clerk's budget report indicated that $631,864 of the total $530,212 estimated receipts for 1965 had been received as of July 31.

The report also showed that total disbursements for the first seven months were $487,591 compared with total estimated expenditures of $578,563.

The police report listed 832 complaints for last month, 426 of which have been closed.

A total of 79 persons — 59 adults and 20 juveniles — were arrested during the period, and 188 traffic tickets were issued by the township justices of the peace.

Crimes included 145 larcenies, 103 malicious destructions of property cases, 21 breaking and enterings and eight stolen cars.

To Study Camp Site Shortage

A State Senate committee headed by Sen. Carl W. O'Brien, D-Pontiac, plans a pre-Labor Day tour of state parks to learn why thousands of tourists can't find camping room.

The five-man study group was authorized under a Senate resolution by Sen. Terry Trout, D-Romulus.

O'Brien pointed out that 30,000 persons were unable to find camping sites in state parks over the July 4 weekend and that 150,000 tourists faced the same problem last summer.

"It's ridiculous to spend money to attract tourists to our beautiful state only to have them disappointed by a cold 'no vacancy' sign in the state parks," O'Brien said.

The senator added that the state should seriously consider expanding camping facilities if its billion-dollar tourist industry is to grow and prosper.

Members of the study committee hope to find through their tour the extent of the problem and determine how much state money would be needed to correct it.

Swimmer Is Victim of Heart Attack

A Detroit man who was found floating face down in 20 inches of water near a dock in Union Lake Sunday morning was the victim of a heart attack, according to an autopsy made yesterday.

Harry Dawson, 36, had told friends that he was going to take an early morning swim in the West Bloomfield Township lake.

He was found by a friend and was first presumed to have drowned.

Rebuilding Is Started in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES — The machinery of rebuilding the city's riot-torn south-central area created into motion today, following renewed verbal sniping and new appeals for federal intervention.

Help for the riot area was forming on various fronts and a blue ribbon commission appointed by Gov. Edmund G. Brown planned to begin its probe of causes with Gov. Brown as one of the first witnesses.

On the eve of the state hearing, top labor officials called on President Johnson to appoint a presidential commission to investigate the riots. The proposal was made by the Los Angeles County Labor Federation's executive board.

William Pollard of the national AFL-CIO civil rights department — here to work with local union leaders — said national action is needed to prevent recurring riots in Los Angeles and elsewhere.

Mayor Samuel W. Yorty said he had wired President Johnson for the third time, asking that the riot area be declared a federal disaster zone.

FEDERAL LOANS
As such, low-interest federal loans would be available to business men and Army Engineers would assist in the Watts section clean-up campaign.

A prediction that "riots will happen again in this country" was made yesterday by former Sen. Barry Goldwater.

The 1964 Republican presidential candidate, said on a nationally televised news program that he thought disrespect for law and lack of economic opportunity were twin causes of the riots.

"I think we'd better get on with the job of providing training, providing incentive, and providing integration," Goldwater said.

Auto Mishap Is Fatal in Novi

Theodore L. Lattimer, 58, of Livonia died in Botsford General Hospital, Farmington Township, yesterday afternoon 12 hours after his car ran off Grand River Ave. in Novi.

Novi Police Chief Lee BeGole said Lattimer was traveling east on Grand River when he apparently lost control of his car just west of Novi Road at 1:37 a.m. Monday.

The vehicle crossed over the westbound lane, traveled 141 feet on the shoulder of the road and then rolled over several times, the officer said.

The victim was thrown from the vehicle and was found lying face down on the pavement, according to BeGole.

He was pronounced dead at the hospital at 1:37 p.m. yesterday.

The chief said this was the third fatal accident in a one-mile stretch of Grand River within the past two weeks.

Minuteman 2 Shot 9th Success in Row

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — An Air Force Minuteman 2 rocket was fired out of an underground silo Monday on a target 5,000 miles away in the South Atlantic, its ninth straight test flight without a miss.

The three-stage push-button missile streaked into the sky in a 30-minute flight which the Air Force called "extremely successful."

Eventually, 1,000 Minuteman 2 missiles will be on stages, replacing the shorter-range Minuteman 1. Minuteman 2 has a range of about 7,000 miles compared to about 5,000 for the earlier model.

Zee, whose real name is Jack B. Zitzer, lives in Harper Woods but has offices at 2221 Coolidge, Oak Park.

The Oakland County Prosecutor's Office brought the charge against Zee Aug. 11 because his application for certification as a psychologist had been denied by the Michigan Department of Education.

Developing Missile Sub

Chinese Nuclear Power No Longer a Joke

By TOM NOLAN
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The weapons experts who dismissed the first Chinese Communist nuclear explosion last October as an "atomic firecracker" now have some startling new evidence to consider. Although nobody is panicking, it is causing no little concern.

Peking is building a new long-range submarine capable of firing atomic missiles. It is estimated that within three years, possibly sooner, the Chinese Reds will be able to project a genuine nuclear threat across the Pacific Ocean.

Just a few years back, the words "Red Chinese Navy" were almost always good for a laugh in U.S. military circles. At best, they conjured up an image of a bunch of motorized junks flitting in and out of the fog around Hong Kong.

Although this image may still hold true for Peking's surface fleet, the Red Chinese undersea navy is altogether a different story.

Literally from scratch, Peking has built in less than a decade a submarine fleet which in numbers may be the third largest in the world.

The latest breakdown in "Jane's Fighting Ships" ranks Red China fourth with 30 subs. Russia is first with 198 (85 of which are nuclear-powered), Great Britain third with 50, and France fifth with 22.

HIGHER RATING

Some sources now put the Red Chinese quantitative sub strength at 55, greater than Britain's.

Most of these subs are the Soviet type W-class craft, which have a round-trip range of roughly 30,000 miles. They are armed only with conventional torpedoes.

But construction reportedly is under way on a larger Soviet type sub of the G-class, equipped with verticle tubes for missile launching. Its total range is over 40,000 miles.

This would give Peking the means of delivering nuclear payloads to American coastal cities. Current Chinese Communist missiles are believed to be accurate only up to 200 miles. Red China's longest range bomber, the TU-4, travels a total of about 4,000 miles.

CURRENT STRATEGY

Current Peking submarine strategy follows Mao Tse-tung's ideas on guerrilla warfare which interweave offensive and defensive actions to fit the circumstances. Until 1959, Peking sub training was mostly defensive in posture. Since then, it has been evolving to the offense.

In the early 1960s, U.S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters announced that joint Sino-Soviet submarine operations were being undertaken in the western Pacific.

In 1963, India uncovered evidence that Chinese Communist subs were operating in the Bay of Bengal and Indian Ocean.

On the balance sheet, Red

China—even with a fleet of missile-firing subs—does not pose much of a threat to the U.S.

LITTLE COMPARISON

One military source notes that comparing Peking's primitive missiles to the heavy U.S. arsenal is like arguing the advantages of Poland's cavalry squadrons against Hitler's Panzer divisions in 1939.

But no nuclear threat is regarded lightly by military men anywhere. Developing a delivery system for missiles opens a Pandora's box of potential military threats.

Charles de Gaulle has advanced a theory that Russian aggression against any U.S. ally in Western Europe would be highly unlikely to bring U.S. intervention by strategic nuclear bombing.

De Gaulle reasons that the U.S. would be deterred by the threat of immediate Russian retaliation against American cities. A similar theory may soon be argued by U.S. allies in Southeast Asia.

DETER REACTION

A few Chinese Communist missiles poised off the coast of California might, the theory goes, deter American nuclear reaction to open aggression by Peking in Asia.

To at least one American nuclear scientist, Dr. Edward Teller, the Red Chinese nuclear threat may be a blessing in disguise, since it may prompt early U.S. development of an effective missile defense.

"That the Chinese bomb is a real threat to peace, no one can doubt," says Teller. "Yet, if it elicits the correct positive response from us, we might find ourselves in the end in a much improved situation."

To Teller, the best missile defense is based on a rocket which need not hit the incoming warhead to destroy it, but which neutralizes it by merely approaching it. This can be done, he says, only by a nuclear explosion.

ONLY NATION

Only the U.S. among Western nations, he argues, has the nuclear technology to develop such a device at this time.

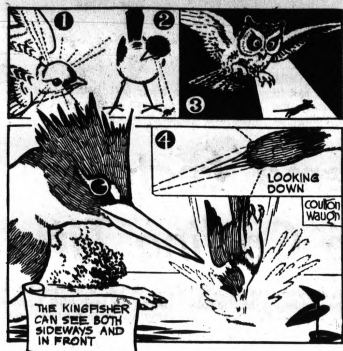

"This defensive unit can be wired up in such a manner that, if fired, it would explode at a safe distance from the ground," says Teller. "We can give our allies instruments which cannot be used except in self-defense. If anybody wants to change the wiring, he will destroy the rocket."

Junior Editors Quiz on BIRDS' EYES

QUESTION: Why do most birds have eyes on the sides of their heads?

ANSWER: Most animals either belong to those which prey or those which are hunted. The hunters must catch prey in order to live.

Their eyes are usually in front, so that they can focus together and enable the hunter to see the animal he is to catch.

With hunted animals, the great thing is to avoid being caught. Many of them, including most birds, have eyes on each side (1), so that they can see wide areas on both sides and be alert to danger.

Birds which hunt insects, as in (2), can cock their heads to one side and focus one eye down on the prey in front to find out just what it is and where it is.

The owls are exceptions to the rule that birds have eyes on the side. Hunting at night (3), they need to gather in every ray of light and to focus both eyes on such active prey as mice. So, their large eyes are set in front.

The kingfisher has an unusual combination of both front and side view. As we see in (4), his vision extends well to both sides, which enables him to get a wide view of the pond over which he lies looking for fish.

But when he spots one, he can look straight ahead and his eyes will focus together. This enables him to see a fish so sharply that he can plunge down and seize it in his bill.

FOR YOU TO DO: You may think it impossible to see two things at once as a bird does. But fix your eyes on some point straight ahead and notice how far you can see on both sides. You can pick out objects to the right and left and be actually looking at them both at the same time.

SEEK QB JOB — Dick Vidmer (left) and Wally Gabler are the top contenders for the starting quarterback berth for the University of Michigan team which started football practice yesterday. Gabler is a senior from Royal Oak who was No. 3 signal caller last season. Vidmer, a sophomore, has been sidelined since the spring of 1964 because of fractured leg.

State Okays Quinella Bets

Possible Replacement for Twin Double

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley has advised State Racing Commissioner Berry Beaman that the so-called "Quinella" form of betting would be legal at Michigan race tracks.

The racing commissioner, however, will have to follow the state administrative code and adopt a rule governing such a form of betting, Kelley said in his advisory letter Monday.

In the Quinella, the bettor picks two horses in a race to finish first and second. The horses may finish either first and second or second and first to constitute a winner.

Beaman proposed trying out the Quinella at Michigan tracks after he banned the twin double. The last twin double was allowed at the Detroit Race Course Saturday.

Quarterback Search Starts at Michigan

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Michigan Coach Bump Elliott began his search for a quarterback and a split end—plus help at several other positions—with the opening of football practice Monday.

Despite the fact that he admits the weakness at quarterback and end, Elliott said he would be surprised if his defending Big Ten and Rose Bowl champions passed more this season.

Dick Vidmer and Wally Gabler are expected to continue their personal battle for the No. 1 quarterback's job.

SOPH PROMISING Vidmer, a sophomore, showed much promise in 1964 spring drills and again last year until he suffered a broken leg.

Gabler, a senior from Royal Oak, ranked behind Bob Timmerlake and Frosty Evanszewski last year, and has displayed passing ability.

"They were both close during spring drills and they have to be rated as 'close right now,'" Elliott said of the two.

"We're going to have to rely on our halfbacks and fullbacks more this year and will probably take to the air a bit more," Elliott added.

He called Steve Smith, a senior end from Illinois, one of his best pass catchers but added that he would have to make a few changes to fill his needs at end.

MOVED TO END Jack Clancy, a halfback in 1964 but sidelined last season because of injury, will be given a try at end.

With Charlie Kines, Tom Mack and Bill Yearby returning, Elliott feels he has a good nucleus at tackle.

Bob Mielke is the most experienced guard, while team captain Tom Cecchini is expected to hold down the job as No. 1 center with Frank Nunley playing a linebacker on defense.

The Wolverines will practice twice a day through Saturday, then will be limited to one session a day with the start of classes next Monday.

Top Doubles Team Pushed in Net Play

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Marty Riessen and Clark Graebner, the leading American team in the National Doubles Tennis Championships, were in trouble for a half-hour Monday but finally won their first match at Longwood Cricket Club.

After dropping the first set to an Ivy League alliance of John Reese of Harvard and Cambridge, Mass., the Riessen-Graebner duo got going and won 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Law Takes Toll of San Francisco Nine

By The Associated Press

The San Francisco Giants started the day on the wrong side of Warren Giles and finished it on the wrong side of Verg Law.

Law, Pittsburgh's hard-throwing Mormon Elder, tumbled the Giants into third place in the tight National League pennant race Monday night by taming them 6-2 with a six-hitter.

The Giants barely had begun to miss Juan Marichal, slapped with a $1,750 fine and eight-game suspension by NL President Giles for his bat-swinging tantrum in San Francisco the day before, when Law collared them for the fourth time in four tries this year.

The Pirate veteran, whose only time in 16 major league seasons was a $25 rap for missing a team bus — he persuaded his manager to donate the sum to a church fund-raising drive — is giving Marichal a run for his money in the league ERA derby. Law's 1.98 earned run average is second only to Marichal's 1.78 mark among NL starting pitchers.

YOUNG AWARD

Law, a Cy Young Award winner for the world champion Pirates in 1960 and a sore-arm case for three years afterward, almost captured comeback of the year honors last season with 12 victories — five of them shut-outs.

With a 15-9 record to date, he could match his 1960 high of 20 victories this year.

The 35-year-old right-hander from Idaho has been a particular thorn to the Giants, yielding only five runs in his four complete-game victories over Willie Mays & Co.

He ended Mays' home run streak Monday night by stopping Willie in three official trips to the plate. Mays, with six homers in his previous six starts, was closing in on Dale Long's major league record of home runs in eight consecutive games.

The Pirates handed Warren Spahn his 15th loss as Roberto Clemente and Gene Alley each raped four hits, Clemente boosting his league-leading batting figure to .340.

San Francisco dropped 1½ games behind the first-place Los Angeles Dodgers, who whipped New York 8-4, and one game behind the Milwaukee Braves, who regained the second spot with a 7-6 victory over Cincinnati. In the other game scheduled, St. Louis trounced the Chicago Cubs 10-2.

Law settled down after giving up runs in the first and fourth innings while the Pirates chipped away at Spahn, now 5-15. Clemente drove in the two runs with a first-inning triple and fifth-inning single before the Pirates broke it open with a four-run seventh, Manny Mota singling across the lead run.

FIVE RUNS

Ron Fairly capped a five-run rally in the fifth inning with a three-run homer and singled another run home in the seventh as the Dodgers overpowered the Mets behind a shaky Don Drysdale. Drysdale gave up 11 hits and needed help from Bob Miller in the eighth en route to his 17th victory of the season and 18th in 20 career decisions with New York.

Milwaukee scored four runs in the fifth, two on Gene Oliver's 17th homer and two on a single by Felipe Alou, for a 7-1 lead over the Reds. Cincinnati rallied for five in the seventh, knocking out winner Ken Johnson, as Pete Rose hit a two-run triple and John Edwards a two-run homer.

Curt Flood drove in four runs with two singles and a double and Bill White lashed a single, double and triple good for three

Physicals Scheduled

Coach Art Paddy has issued a call for all West Bloomfield High School football and cross country candidates to report at 11 a.m. tomorrow in the school gymnasium for physical examinations.

Candidates for positions on the Avondale High School 1965 football team will meet for physical examinations Friday at 8 a.m. at the high school. Coach Dick Bye said equipment would be issued following the exams.

RBI as the Cardinals battered ex-teammate Larry Jackson and the Cubs. Curt Simmons picked up his ninth victory against 11 losses by spacing 10 hits, including a ninth-inning homer by Chris Krug.

Indian Hurler's Record Beaten Worse Than Face

By The Associated Press

Once on the mound, however, Kralick came apart at the seams.

Before three innings were over, Kralick was gone, charged with six hits, six runs, a wild pitch and a throwing error as the Angels romped to an 8-2 victory.

Cleveland Manager Birdie Tebbetts classified the Kralick-Bell fisticuffs — which took place Sunday night — as "a little quick temper thing. It was just one of those things that happen in August, when tempers are short and the pressure is heaviest."

Tebbetts went on to compare the fight with San Francisco pitcher Juan Marchionello hitting Los Angeles catcher John Roseboro over the head with a bat in a game at San Francisco Sunday.

But where Roseboro suffered a two-inch gash on his head, Kralick lost a tooth and required nine stitches when plastic surgeon to repair the damage.

ROOMMATES

The incident took place in a Washington hotel room Sunday after the two pitchers, who are roommates, returned from dinner. Both admitted they were joking around and kidding each other. Then, said Bell:

"One word was said and bam — Jack jumped up and swung. So I swung, too."

Tebbetts said there would be no fines unless the two pitchers were unable to work when he called on them. If they were unable to play he said he would dock them a day's pay until they could.

Then he went ahead with his plans to start Kralick against the Angels.

Kralick accepted the challenge. "I can't afford not to," he said.

So he's one day richer and one loss poorer.

Meanwhile, the Minnesota Twins stretched their American League lead to 7½ games by edging the New York Yankees 4-3 in 10 innings while Baltimore nipped second-place Chicago 2-1 in 12 innings and ended the White Sox' 10-game winning streak.

Kralick had considerable difficulty against the Angels. Of the six hits he allowed, one was a bunt single, another a topped roller in front of the plate and still another a shot off his glove.

Broncos Cut 3 From State

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — The Denver Broncos of the American Football League cut three more players Monday, including two veterans.

The two were halfback Don Stone of Arkansas, who has been with the club since 1961 and tackle Jim Perkins from Colorado, a regular for three seasons.

Also trimmed were kicking specialist Terry Nystrom of Northern Michigan, defensive back Bob Sack and Carl Charon, both of MSU, linebacker Larry Jordan, center Don Shackleford, defensive tackle Stan Fanning and end John Dowler.

damage to win it for the Angels, driving in three runs with two doubles and a single in support of rookie Marcelino Lopez, who won his 14th.

The Twins, trailing 3-2 after Cleve Boyer's two-run homer in the seventh, tied the score in the ninth on a single by Zolo Versailles and Tony Oliva's double.

Then they won it in the 10th against reliever Jim Bouton on two walks and a single by Jerry Kindall.

The Orioles and White Sox were locked in a duel until the 12th when Brooks Robinson drove a walk off Hoyt Wilhelm and scored on Curt Blefary's triple. Baltimore starter Steve Barber left for a pinch hitter in the ninth after allowing just four hits and Chicago starter Juan Pizarro left in the 11th after surrendering only seven hits.

U.S. Swimmers Win Sixth Medal in Games

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — The United States won its sixth gold medal with a victory in the men's 800-meter freestyle relay but had to share honors with four other nations Monday in the swimming competition of the World University Games.

Osamu Taurumine of Japan upset favored Americans in the 200-meter breaststroke. Hilda Zeiler of Yugoslavia won the women's 400-meter freestyle. Maria Egervari took the women's 100-meter butterfly, and a British girl, Joy Newman, proved best on the three-meter springboard.

"My time was three seconds slower than I normally swim in," Anderson said. "We're all tired and whipped from competing in our national championships before coming here."

Gary Ilman of San Jose, Calif., anchored the Americans second relay victory, clocking 8:10.9 for the four 200-meter legs.

WIDE MARGIN

Roy Saari of El Segundo, Calif., opened up a 10-meter margin after Dick Roth of Athens, Calif., had given the Yanks a little edge on the first leg. Then Don Roth of Mono, Park, Calif., and Ilman stood off a great rally by the Russians for a victory.

The Russians were second in 8:14.4 followed by Japan in 8:19.1.

Anderson, a 20-year-old University of Southern California

Hilda Zeiler, a husky Yugoslav, barely edged Bep Weetling of Holland for the gold medal in the women's 400-meter freestyle. Both were timed in 5:8.9 but the electric eye gave the Yugoslav the triumph.

Maria Egervari of Hungary took first place in the women's 100-meter butterfly. Her time of 1:11.2 beat out Russia's Ludmila Egorova, 1:11.9, and another Hungarian, Eva Erdelyi, 1:12.2.

Miss Newman flashed an imaginative and daring routine of free dives in taking the diving medal with 272.1 points. Beguslaw Marcinowska of Poland was second and Zouza Szaghy of Hungary was third.

Golf Women in Fast Start

30 Entries Break 80 as Amateur Begins

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Winning big in California and Texas is a good way to prep for the U.S. Women's Amateur Golf Championship which entered the second round of qualifying play today over the Lakewood course. Sue Lance, 18, a cool shooter from Woodland Hills and winner of the 1964 California junior crown, and Jeanie Butler, 19, a scrambler from Harlingen who won the 1964 Texas women's title, paced Monday's 38-hole qualifying round with par 73s.

Thirty of the 95 competitors shot 79 or better over the 6,175-yard layout, indicating it will take at least 159 in the 36 holes of qualifying play to win one of the 32 berths for match play starting Wednesday.

Two Michigan women didn't fare well, however, Grosse Ile's Joyce Kazmierski had 40-43 and Sharon Miller of Battle Creek shot 41-44-85.

Barbara McIntire, 1964 winner from Colorado Springs, Colo., carded a 79 when she clipped a bad round by hitting into a trap near the 18th green. Her first blast out trickled only 18 inches and her second shot from the sand barely reached the fringe. She was lucky to get two over-par six on the finishing hole.

Figure 1: Schematic representation of the experimental design. The diagram shows a sequence of events: a 10-second fixation period, followed by a 10-second presentation of a stimulus (a 10x10 grid of dots), and then a 10-second response period. The stimulus is a 10x10 grid of dots, with some dots highlighted in red. The response period is divided into two parts: a 5-second period for the subject to respond and a 5-second period for the subject to be informed of the result. The entire sequence is repeated for 10 trials. The diagram is labeled 'Figure 1' and 'Schematic representation of the experimental design'.

Rejects Idea of 'Silicon Life'

Space Scientist Says Carbon Base Needed

BLACKSBURG, Va. (UPI) — Scientists in times past have speculated that life on other worlds might consist of strange forms built around the element silicon instead of carbon as on earth.

This notion was rejected today in a paper read at a scientific conference on exploration of Mars and Venus which is being held this week at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

The paper was written by Dr. Cyril Ponnamperuma of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Ames Research Center in Moffett Field, Calif., who had done a lot of experimentation with prelife molecules.

He said chemical studies indicate that carbon, nitrogen, and oxygen "have unique properties which qualify them for their role in living matter."

Molecules in which they are the basic elements, with carbon serving as the anchor, are the "vehicle of life."

UNLIKELY PROSPECT
"Silicon biology," Ponnamperuma said, "thus appears to be an unlikely prospect."

Ponnamperuma expressed the belief that "if life exists elsewhere, it will be very similar to ours, at least chemically."

In landing instruments on Mars to hunt for living organisms, a project the space agency plans in 1971, scientists would be justified, Ponnamperuma said, "in designing our life detection experiments on the basis of what we know about life on earth."

Ponnamperuma and several other scientists have created so-called biological molecules out of nonbiological materials under conditions assumed to have existed on earth before the advent of life.

Such molecules on the ancient earth are assumed to have gotten together in the course of time and evolved into living cells.

It may also be that prelife molecules have formed on Mars but have not united into organisms of any kind.

Thus, Ponnamperuma warned, the mere "finding of biological molecules on the surface of Mars will not be proof enough that life exists there."

To establish that it does or doesn't, he suggested, the planet must be studied with instruments capable of detecting truly living forms.

Lynda Bird Johnson, 21-year-old daughter of the President, took a back road into Canada last night to see a performance of Anton Chekhov's Russian classic, "The Cherry Orchard," at the Stratford (Ont.) Festival theater.

Miss Johnson and her party took the back road to keep the theater trip a secret. Afterwards, she attended a theater party and chatted with members of the cast.

LYNDA BIRD Earlier in the day, Miss Johnson, trailed by Secret Service escort, viewed the Erie County Fair at Buffalo.

'Modesty' Lives Up to Name in New Role

Italian actress Monica Vitti has really gotten into her new film role as girl secret agent modesty blaise — but modestly.

It's what Modesty, a female James Bond, gets out of that Miss Vitti herself refuses to do. "I am unwilling to strip completely before the cameras," she was quoted in the weekly magazine Europe, out today.

Miss Vitti says the film will "be sexy enough without my strip-teases."

Margaret, Lord Snowdon Drive to Rome

Princess Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon, drove to Rome last night to spend a few days with American art writer Milton Gendel.

The princess and Lord Snowdon took turns at the wheel on the drive north from southern Italy. They had spent two weeks on the Emerald Coast on northeastern Sardinia as guests of Prince Karim Aga Khan.

Gendel and his wife, Judith, accompanied the royal couple on part of their tour of Puglia, in the heel of Italy.

'Rediscovered' Ex-Governor Undergoes Surgery

Former West Virginia Gov. William C. Marland is recovering from "diagnostic surgery" at Methodist Hospital in Rochester, Minn.

Marland, 48, was West Virginia's youngest chief executive at the time of his election in 1953. He dropped from sight in 1959 until he was discovered driving a Chicago cab for $100 a week in March.

When discovered, Marland, who now works at a Chester, W.Va., race track, said he had suffered from too much drinking.

Just Like Old Times

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) — Teen-agers entering the Paramount theatre here were given a taste of the Old West when they were lined up and asked to "check their weapons" before entering to see a movie. Floyd H. Gainous, manager, said he took the action because he had been getting complaints from patrons about being shot with water guns.

'Paladin' Is In Tune With Hawaii Melody

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HONOLULU—Hawaiian notes: The most famed recent immigrant to these islands intends to stay. Richard Boone says the Hawaiian life has worked out to perfection for him, his wife and son.

"We love it here," the television star told me. "I expect to be concluding a deal soon to appear in a series for next season. It will be shot in location here. If it goes a second season, then we will put up a studio. I think it will be a great service to the many Hollywood companies I have shot here."

Boone returned to Hollywood to appear in "War Lord" with Charlton Heston; otherwise, he has spent the past year in Hawaii. As a sideline, he directed a group of amateur players at Kona. "They did a Hawaiian version of 'The Drunkard,' and it was a small-scale riot," reported Boone.

Richard Harris, who survived 11 trouble-wracked months of "Mutiny on the Bounty," is now appearing in "Hawaii." When he stepped onto the location here, he was immediately struck by the similarity to the "Bounty" beachhead in Tahiti.

He recalls: "It was like a replica of a bad dream. Any minute I expected Marlon Brando and Trevor Howard to come walking down the beach. If they had, I would have run to the water and started swimming out to sea, never to return."

Harris, one of the uninhibited new breed of London-trained actors, manages to find recreation while not working. He reported that he has been thrown out of two Waikiki night spots so far.

It's possible that Honolulu has more live entertainment per square mile than any American town outside of Las Vegas. Everywhere you go there are luring guitars and sinuous hula maidens. Hawaiian music is somehow more appealing here; like some Italian wines, it doesn't travel well.

Standouts on the night circuit: Martin Denny at the Kahala Hilton; the surfers at the Hong Kong junk; Sterling Mossman at the Barefoot Bar.

Diplomat's Soft Answer Turns Away Earl's Craft

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Foy D. Kohler, our ambassador to Russia, is a practitioner of "diplomatic diplomacy" — the soft answer, the understatement, the eloquent smile, the understanding nod ... he skillfully handles even table talk with a velvet glove ... no something even more subtle ... a slithering glove.

The ambassador excited my admiration when I had a delightful two-hour lunch with the Kohlers at Spass House in Moscow. "Do you think our conversation is being bugged?" I asked.

"We assume it is," he smiled — his most warlike statement.

Maybe I could draw him out on how long he would be here. "What is the usual tour of an ambassador?"

"An ambassador serves at the pleasure of the President," he said, with a slight bow.

I was proud to be invited to lunch. We were students at Ohio State 35 years ago. He was the top campus politician, studying for foreign service. I was the Ohio State Lantern political editor, often writing about him.

Now at the head of the table in the official ambassadorial residence, he was chatting smoothly in French or English — he also speaks Russian fluently — with ex-French Ambassador to Russia Maurice De Jean, a visitor to Moscow. De Jean had been dean of the Moscow diplomatic corps.

"You know you left, we no longer have a dean," Kohler told De Jean. Ambassadors next in seniority were from countries not recognized by the U.S.

"The Ambassador from North Viet Nam ... well, with them we have ..." Kohler passed to grape for the slithering glove.

"No relations?" somebody at the table said.

"Special relations," Kohler smiled. He had found it.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL ...

Vice Pres. Humphrey sent his "Funny Girl" program backstage to have it photographed by Barbara Streisand, for his dir. Sybil Burton. Christopher showed her in-laws, visiting from Akron, around Arthur's (her husband's dir. I will attend school in N.Y. with Sybil's dir. Kale) ... Xavier Cugat and his Charo will TV-tape a tour of Madrid, with Ariane Dahl.

Keely Smith's groom, Jimmy Bowen, gave her a post-wedding gift (a 5-carat diamond pendant ... Raymond (Perry Mason) Burr's heir is treated for an intestinal ailment he got while entertaining GIs in Viet Nam ... The Ronnie Gramms (actress Sign Land) named their dir. Timothé Jane.

REMEMBER QUOTE: "Too many of us worry about what people think of us when they don't." — Griffin (Ga.) Daily News.

EARL'S PEARLS: Joe E. Lewis told his wife, "Remember this—if you lived in night clubs, you'd be home now!"

Buddy Hackett, a huge hit at the Latin 'a, said he now goes into bed thinking: "I wear those golf shoes with spikes. But I really needed them when I was drinking, and used to fall down a lot." ... That's earl, brother.

Ask Neutrality in Birth Control

Catholic Conference Opposes Senate Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Catholic Welfare Conference, official agency of the Roman Catholic hierarchy in the United States, said today that "government should neither penalize nor promote" birth control but pursue a policy of strict neutrality.

The NCWC took the stand in registering its opposition to a bill by Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, to create new federal offices for dissemination of birth control information both in this country and in undeveloped countries.

The Catholic statement was made in testimony prepared for delivery before a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee by William B. Ball of Harrisburg, Pa., a noted constitutional lawyer who often speaks for the NCWC on church-state issues.

Ball said he was testifying as general counsel of the Pennsylvania Catholic Conference, but that his statement had the "express approval" of the NCWC.

For the government to take an active role in promoting birth control programs, he said, would "pose serious dangers to civil liberty, while offering no genuine prospect of relieving the problems of poverty."

COERCION RESULTS
"If the power and prestige of government is placed behind birth control programs, he said, would 'pose serious dangers to civil liberty, while offering no genuine prospect of relieving the problems of poverty.'"

Ball said the proposed legislation also raised a question of "racial egotism."

"No one asserts that it is the intention of the proponents to limit the production of American Negro offspring," he said, but "no one can doubt that the fact this will result if large-scale programs of government-supported birth control realize their intended goals."

This is true, he said, because the programs are aimed primarily at the poor, and "Negroes dominate in numbers our public assistance rolls."

Ball said the Catholic Conference speaks "with sensitive appreciation of the anxieties" about population growth which prompted the legislation.

He said it "does not oppose, but rather welcomes, the furthering of research upon population growth."

Do-It-Yourself Gadget for Washing Airplanes

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Howard Showalter is operating one of the latest do-it-yourself appliances. It's a jet spray wash for airplanes. The appliance is coin-operated. A plane wash job often costs $20, but you can do it for $1.50 in the new facility.

Tiny Squirt Works Best

ALBUQUERQUE (UPI) — City hall's water fountain will be just a little squirt — about 18 inches of spouting water.

Maintenance chief George Hendrix had a wet time making this decision.

Wind kept blowing higher spouts off path, and the water landed on concrete walks instead of in the fountain. Several times it got out of control and shot about 50 feet into the air.

Finally they settled for a little squirt.

Fumes Force 3,000 to Flee

EAST BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — Some 3,000 persons were evacuated from their homes early today when dangerous chemical fumes blanketed a four-square-mile area after a general alarm fire broke out at a chemical plant.

Police said oxygen was administered to 300 persons who inhaled the fumes. No serious injuries were reported.

Police and firemen pounded on doors and used loudspeakers to rouse the residents. The residents, many in nightclothes, along with pet animals were sheltered in schools and firehouses throughout the city.

The people returned home at 5:15 a.m. — nearly 4½ hours after they were evacuated by Fire Chief Vincent Grande.

The fire began in a small storage trailer containing organic peroxide, used in making plastics.

The trailer was located behind the plant of the Chemirad Co., Teterboro, N.J.

Cause of the fire was undetermined. The blaze was confined to the trailer.

Archbishop Cody at a news conference following his arrival in Chicago yesterday, indicated he believes negotiations are the most effective means of solving racial problems.

"It is a dastardly thing for people to turn to violence to try to settle those problems best settled around the conference table by reasonable people," the prelate said.

Archbishop Cody, who assumes spiritual guidance of some 2 million Catholics in the Chicago area, said he has no objection to priests participating in civil rights demonstrations.

The officers told Smith for a ride he was jailed on complaints of reckless driving and driving under the influence of alcohol.

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Clarence Wayne Smith, 54, driving around the city with a horse in the back seat of his car, told police: "The horse was lonely so I took him for a ride."

Red Party in Russia Still Select Group

By HENRY SHAPIRO
 MOSCOW (UPI) — Nearly half a century after the Bolsheviks seized power, the ruling Communist party is still an organization of the elite.

Its membership rolls have grown from 80,000 in April 1917 to the present 12 million out of a total population of 229 million.

Although the overwhelming majority of the people were born after the revolution and take the Soviet regime for granted, only the chosen few may be elected to party membership.

Rules for admission are tightening rather than relaxing as highly recommended citizens get their party cards.

"Not quantitative growth," a recent Pravda editorial said, "but quality is needed to raise higher and higher the calling of a party member."

SET EXAMPLE

"Only the more advanced, the more conscientious representatives of the working class, the peasantry and the intelligentsia who are loyal to the ideas of communism, who can set an example by their work and maintain high ethical standards can be accepted," the authoritative party newspaper said.

The fact that these criteria are not universally applied has been the subject of a series of recent party pronouncements which demanded the removal of "undesirable elements" from membership.

The party organizations of the Georgian Republic and of the Kharkov area in the Ukraine have been particularly scored for permitting the infiltration of careerists and ideologically and morally unqualified persons.

Soviet Communists claim that party members enjoy no special privileges with regard to remuneration for work or advancement in career.

On the contrary, they say, members must accept stricter party discipline and a greater only the carefully screened and sense of responsibility and show higher standards of performance than ordinary citizens.

It is true, however, that the key positions in the government, politics and diplomacy and economics can be held only by Communists. The most vital sensitive occupations are reserved for members of the party or the Kom-somol (young Communist organization).

But trusted nonparty members may achieve positions of eminence in science, culture and economics.

Unlike the Romanians and the Hungarians, whose present attitude seems to be, "He who is not against us is for us," the Soviet Party does not consider mere acceptance of Communist policy as sufficient for party membership.

INDOCTRINATED

The Russians expect a Communist to be thoroughly and consciously indoctrinated.

Among other things he must be a confirmed atheist.

"Religion and communism are incompatible," is an established party dogma here, although some foreign Communist parties do admit churchgoers to their ranks.

Intellectuals and professional revolutionaries organized and led the Russian revolution, but the rank and file came largely from the working class.

With the transformation of society, the composition of the present membership has changed and it now is made up of 55.6 per cent industrial workers, 17.1 per cent peasants and 47.3 per cent white collar workers and intellectuals.

Says Cities Await School Plan Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Office of Education says plans are well advanced across the country to put into effect multimillion-dollar projects for disadvantaged children as soon as the funds are available.

A spot check by the office found 19 major cities with projects ready to go, some prepared to spend local funds to get started while awaiting congressional action. An appropriation bill is pending in the House but would have to go through the Senate after action there.

The cities, and their proposed expenditures, in millions of dollars, included Detroit 12.

Gold Findings Spectacular in Maine Area

MONTREAL (UPI) — Drillings in the Pembroke, Maine, area have produced gold findings similar to those that led to the spectacular gold discoveries of New Mexico, Utah or Arizona.

Charles D. Robbins Jr., president of Dolans Mines Ltd. of Montreal, announced that his firm found the "most spectacular drill hole findings ever produced on the east coast of the United States or Canada."

Dolans Mines has been conducting drillings in the Pembroke area since gold was reported in undisclosed amounts several months ago.

Robbins said a single hole drilled this summer showed a strip 9.7 feet wide and containing 3.85 ounces of gold, 3.14 ounces of silver and 2.44 per cent copper per ton.

"Usually you find 2 ounces of gold a ton in strips 1 to 4 feet wide," he said. "But finding it in a 17-foot wide strip is like the gold mines in New Mexico, Utah or Arizona."

FIND 2.15 OUNCES

Robbins said 2.15 ounces of gold per ton were found in a strip 17.3 feet wide, including the 9.7 foot wide strip.

Mining costs presently are estimated at $10-$15 per ton with gold selling at $35 an ounce, according to Robbins.

Work on Highways to Stop for Holiday

LANSING (AP) — The Highway Department says all construction and maintenance work that might interfere with Labor Day weekend traffic will be suspended from 5 p.m. Friday until Tuesday morning, Sept. 3.

Department Director Howard Hill has instructed district engineers to schedule construction and repair activities so one-way traffic will be eliminated in repair zones.

Construction work will be continued only on emergency projects and on new highways not open to traffic.

150 Young Republicans to Attend 4-Day Camp

LANSING (AP) — More than 150 youthful Republicans will attend a four-day camp Sept. 2-5 on St. Mary's Lake, five miles north of Battle Creek.

The youngsters from 48 counties will hear Gov. George Romney, Lt. Gov. William Milliken, state chairman Mrs. Elly Peterson and GOP legislative leaders during their sessions.

Deny Orion Rumors of Police Chief Firing

Rumors that Lake Orion Police Chief Neal Leonard has been fired were denied today by both Leonard and Village President Clarence B. Rossman.

Rossman told Leonard Saturday evening to release Sgt. Leslie Perkins from duty for insubordination. Perkins is still on duty, however, on orders from Leonard, who said he was advised by the village council to keep the sergeant on the job.

Rossman said this morning that he plans to discipline the chief for disobeying his orders, but he has taken no action to relieve him from duty.

There was also a rumor that George Perry, village building inspector, had been fired, but this too was denied by Rossman.

"He's doing a fine job," the village president said, "and I have no quarrel with him."

MADE CHARGE
Rossman charged Sgt. Perkins with insubordination at the Aug. 16 council meeting when the sergeant refused to remove Attorney Robert V. Parenti from a seat at the council table.

Parenti's contract as village attorney was terminated by Rossman effective last June 1, but he has been retained by the council.

Perkins refused to unseat Parenti without orders from the council, which did not support Rossman's demand.

Rossman has called an emergency meeting of the council for 7:30 tonight.

MEETING PLACE
The meeting will be held in the village Youth Center, according to the president.

The president said he may ask state or county law officers to attend the meeting to help maintain order.

Stones Didn't Roll In MANCHESTER, England (UPI) — Security guards holed down 200 screaming girls who mobbed a furniture van which pulled up outside a television studio where the Rolling Stones were to appear. The fans got wet for nothing... the van contained only furniture.

Space Champ Also Mechanic

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — U.S. space champ Gordon Cooper and copilot Charles Conrad fixed a broken sighting device, warmed up their chilly space suits and soared into their fourth day in space today assured the Russian endurance record would fall to them.

Gemini Control gave the Gemini 5 spacemen a go-ahead for another full day toward their goal of eight days in space. After they warmed up the temperature system in their $28,000 space suits, Conrad reported they were "comfortable" after a chilly night.

The parts floated around the cabin and he "sure had a hard time getting 'em back." But he did.

Space suit temperatures that fell to a chill 45 degrees were warmed up to a pleasant 58.

"Comfortable" was the word from Conrad as he talked with Gemini Control.

SYSTEMS FUNCTIONING
All systems were functioning as they sped at five miles a second toward the 1 1/4 million-mile mark of their planned 3.140-million-mile flight.

Cooper early today smashed the U.S. record for total length of time in space. And at 9:46 p.m. EST tonight, the 119-hour Russian mark set by Valerie Ryskovsky will be passed.

Cooper and Conrad entered their fourth day in space at 9 a.m. EST during their 46th orbit.

They had the signal to keep on for another day. Flight control officials were running this eight-day voyage on a day-to-day basis.

'LOOKED GOOD'
But they stressed that it "looked good" for a full eight-day, 121-orbit mission with splash-down in the Atlantic next Sunday.

One of the persons who first reported seeing the monster changed his story last week.

David Thomas, 22-year-old cousin of Mrs. Owens, who said it attacked his car, admitted that he knew it was a person "with something like a fur coat drawn up over its head."

"I could see regular pants legs," Thomas told a newsman.

Meanwhile, two 24-inch type hairs, each with a root an inch and a half long, will be sent to the state police laboratory at Lansing for testing, said Det. Patrick Lyons of the Flat Rock post.

The hairs were reported taken from the bumper of Thomas' car.

Pontiac Shatters 10-Day Sales Mark
Pontiac Motor Division reported today that its sales during the second 10 days in August were the highest for this period in the history of the company and were 14 per cent above a year ago.

E. R. Pettengill, Pontiac general sales manager, said sales for the period totaled 20,570 units, surpassing the previous record of 18,072 set a year ago.

Pettengill also pointed out that this marked the 27th 10-day sales record in the 1965 model year.

Monster Myth, 'Says' Machine
WOMEN STILL INSIST MONROE BEAST REAL

DETROIT (AP) — A machine says the Mentel Road "Monster" is a myth.

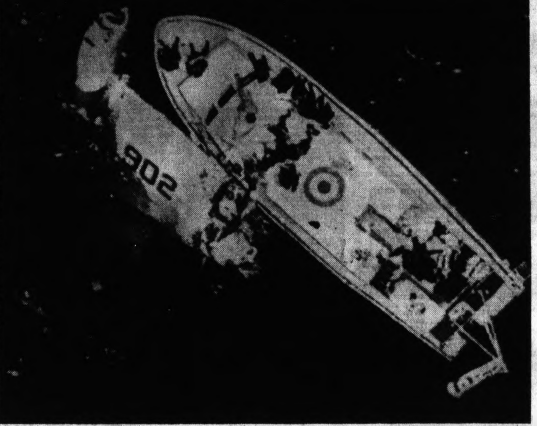

The machine is the polygraph and state police used it to give a lie detector test to Mrs. Ruth Owens, 37, and her daughter Christine Van Acker, 17.

The polygraph test was administered by Detective William Lamphier.

Even though the device pooh-poohed the monster, Mrs. Owens and Miss Van Acker still maintained they were telling the truth about the girl being attacked by a huge, hairy creature the night of Aug. 13, Lamphier said.

"I know what I saw and no one can change my mind," said Miss Van Acker as she left the State Police Redford post for her Monroe home. The women said they passed an earlier lie detector test administered last week by a private operator.

Cong Prisoner for 20 Months
Viet Policy Critics Disgust GI

WRECKAGE IN WATER — A rescue boat ties up to a portion of the wreckage of a U.S. Marine Corps C-130 transport that crashed into Hong Kong Bay with 71 persons aboard today. The plane veered into the water just after taking off from Kaitak Airport en route to South Viet Nam. Thirteen managed to escape. Most passengers were returning from leaves in Hong Kong.

Cong Prisoner for 20 Months

Viet Policy Critics Disgust GI

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) — Army Sgt. Isaac Camacho was in Viet Nam listening to a radio report on President Kennedy's assassination, moments later a Viet Cong rifleman hit him on the head and knocked him cold.

The U.S. Special Forces soldier spent the next 20 months, many of them in hunger and pain, as a prisoner of the Communists. He got away June 10, the first American to escape Viet Cong captivity.

Back home now, still thin and nervous, the chain-smoking sergeant is less than happy with those Americans who protested the U.S. role in Viet Nam. Frankly, he's disgusted with some of his fellow countrymen.

"I'd hate to say what I think of these people," he said in an interview yesterday.

Home on a month's leave at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Eloreaga, Camacho told of life under the Viet Cong.

He mentioned malaria without medicine, endless monsoon rainstorms, the equatorial sun and constant threats of execution. He lost 45 pounds as a prisoner.

EXHAUSTING DAYS
Finally, he escaped. Then, there were four exhausting days of wandering, through the so-den jungle before sighting an American soldier.

"When I saw that green beast of the American Special Forces soldier," Camacho said, "I wept."

"I crawled out of the hut where the villagers were hiding me," he recalled. "I was weak and wobbly, but I made it out to that soldier and we embraced with joy."

Camacho cannot give details of how he escaped or who helped him because this would jeopardize lives of three companions believed still Viet Cong captives.

RECALLS NIGHT
He recalls the night of Nov. 22, 1963... he and the other three Americans were in a Special Forces camp at Hiet Hoa, 18 miles from Saigon.

"We had been listening to radio reports about the assassination," he said. "We went to sleep feeling very sad that night."

About 1:30 a.m., Nov. 23, about 500 Viet Cong crashed through the camp, taking them by surprise.

"I was busy fighting at the edge of our defense line when I caught a glimpse of this Viet Cong coming from the side," Camacho said.

CAUGHT IN HEAD
"He caught me in the head with the butt of his rifle. I was out for about three minutes. When I came to, they had me tied around the arms and were prodding me to a clearing outside the camp. My buddies were tied up also."

They told us they were going to shoot me and one other man, and take the other one (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Showers Forecast for Pontiac Area on Wednesday
A few scattered showers will dampen the Pontiac area tomorrow, the weatherman reports.

Skies will be partly cloudy with temperatures 55 to 62 tonight. Highs tomorrow will range from 78 to 84. Thursday's forecast is showers ending and turning cooler.

13 Are Saved as Craft Falls at Hong Kong

Casualties Are Mostly United States Marines on Viet Nam Leave

HONG KONG (AP) — Fifty-eight U.S. servicemen, most of them marines flying back to Viet Nam after leave, were killed today after their transport plane crashed into Hong Kong Harbor just after taking off.

"Except for 13 known survivors, it now appears all others aboard the flight are dead," said an American official on the scene.

Divers pulled two bodies from the torn and twisted wreckage and said they believed there were at least 20 still inside the fuselage.

Two large cranes lifted the wreckage seven and a half hours after the crash from 30 feet of water and began towing it to the British Royal Air Force dock for removal of the bodies.

An operations officer at Hong Kong's Kaitak Airport said there were 71 persons aboard—six crewmen and 65 passengers—when the C-130 Hercules took off for Da Nang and Saigon. He said the manifest indicated two were Navy men and the rest Marines.

He said seven other Marines were supposed to have made the flight but did not show up on time.

RETURNING TO BASE
The Marines were returning to the Da Nang Air Base 300 miles north of Saigon after rest and relaxation leave in Hong Kong, a Marine Corps spokesman in Da Nang said.

The survivors were brought to Queen Elizabeth Hospital in Kowloon, across the bay from Hong Kong. Their identities were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Hospital officials said they were suffering from shock, burns and fractured limbs but (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Chinese Saves Lives of Seven
Dodges Burning Oil, Pulls Men From Water

HONG KONG (AP) — Seven of the 13 known survivors of the U.S. Marine plane crash today owe their lives to a 29-year-old Chinese barge foreman, eyewitnesses reported.

"They said Ng Kam-shing was working aboard his barge when the C-130 troop transport crashed into Hong Kong Bay with 71 U.S. servicemen aboard.

"There was fire all about from burning oil," said one witness, "but Ng jumped into a small sampan, picked up two other barge workers, and began rowing to where the plane was sinking."

"He dodged the burning oil and got close to the plane where he picked up two survivors trying to swim away. Then they pulled back and picked up a third."

"The sampan was small and already it was overcrowded, but Ng and the other two men stopped to pick still another man out of the water."

"They delivered those four men to persons on shore and then turned around and went back and got three more Marines who were trying to swim through the oil covered water."

MATILDA WILSON HALL — Construction of Oakland University's $2.5 million classroom building and lecture hall complex began in March and is scheduled for completion in January 1966. Credit for this early completion date is due largely to the precast structural wall system. Designed by O'Dell, Hewlett & Luckenbach Associates of Birmingham and fabricated by Michigan Structural Concrete Corp., the 13-ton wall section forms the finished exterior wall and acts as the structural system carrying the floor and roof.

Minister Still Serious After Dixie Ambush

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The Rev. Donald A. Thompson, a big man weighing nearly 300 pounds, held his own today despite 12 buckshot wounds received when he was shot-gunned from behind in a civil rights ambush.

The 59-year-old pastor of REV. Thompson's interdenominational First Unitarian Church was hit by the shotgun blast Sunday night behind his fashionable apartment building only two and one-half blocks from the state capitol.

Teams of Jackson detectives, cooperating with FBI and state investigators, pressed around the clock work on the case.

There was no word on the assailants that lay in wait for Thompson in the apartment parking lot.

Thompson's blood-soaked coat revealed a tight pattern of 12 buckshot holes about four inches in diameter in the upper left shoulder.

'COWARDLY AMBUSH'
"Cowardly night-time ambush" was Gov. Paul Johnson's reaction to the attack. He offered use of state investigators, and added he was certain Jackson police were making a complete investigation.

"I have said," Johnson said, "that law and order will prevail as long as I am governor and I mean just that."

The minister's condition, Baptist Hospital said, remained serious. "About as well as could be expected," a hospital spokesman said.

Police said they were working "under the assumption it was a civil rights shooting."

TWO YEARS
Thompson, who has been a pastor two years in Jackson, is a secretary for the Mississippi Council on Human Relations and a member of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

He was only a few steps from the apartment building's rear door when gunshots were fired at him.

Found lying conscious in a pool of blood, he told officers he had just returned from a church board meeting.

He said he had driven NAACP youth leader Johnny Frazier, a Negro member of his church, home to a Negro section.

12-GAUGE GUN?
The first shot missed, he said, and a second hit him.

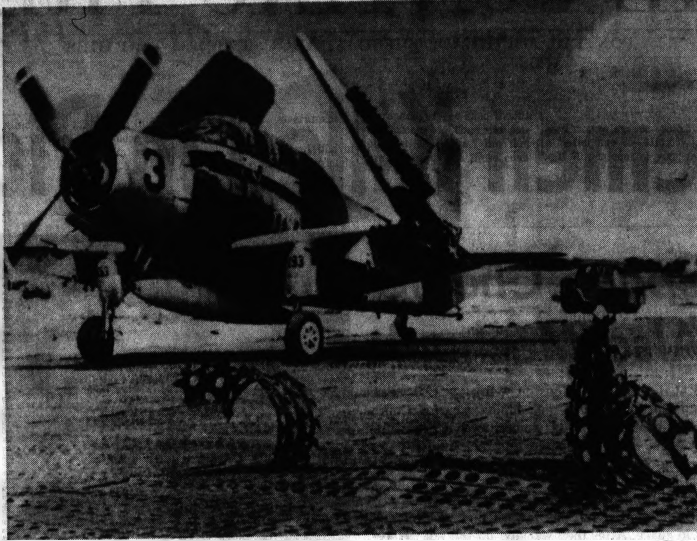

Police believe the shots came from a 12-gauge gun up to 50 feet away.

Mrs. Thompson, a small gray-haired widow, told newsmen she heard the shots in her seventh-floor apartment, but did not realize what had happened until a nightwatchman told her.

"I had no idea," she said, "that anyone would try to shoot my husband."

She said her husband had received threats over the telephone.

Earlier Sunday night, she said, an anonymous caller asked for "the Minister Thompson" or something like that, and when told he was out, said "I'll send him something through the mail."

that none appeared to be in critical condition.

SAW CRASH
"To me it looked as if it was either control failure or the pilot lost his No. 1 engine and possibly both his No. 1 and No. 2 engines," said C. J. Davis, secretary of the Hong Kong Aero Club who saw the crash.

A Chinese sumpman boatman, who pulled two survivors from the water, said "There were two explosions and the plane caught fire and sank."

Divers also reported there was evidence that the plane had been on fire before it crashed.

The boatman said the plane rose about 500 feet, made a sharp left turn, plunged nose first into the end of the shore and then somersaulted backward into the water. He said the plane sounded as though it had engine trouble.

EXTINGUISHED FLAMES
The crash into the water apparently extinguished the flames aboard the plane, but oil seeped from the wreckage, spread across the water and ignited. Smoke billowed hundreds of feet into the air.

A Marine investigation team was ordered from Da Nang to Hong Kong to investigate the crash.

The Marines regularly fly personnel from South Viet Nam to Hong Kong for leave, a U.S. military spokesman in Saigon said.

B52s Make Another Strike at Viet Cong

SAIGON (AP) — B52 bombers of the U.S. Strategic Air Command made another raid on South Viet Nam today, attacking a Viet Cong installation 55 miles south of the big Da Nang MOSCOW (UPI) — North Vietnamese Ambassador Nguyen Van Kinh today renewed Hanoi's demands that U.S. troops withdraw from Viet Nam as the price for the start of peace talks. He denied he had said such talks could begin without total troop withdrawal.

The brief announcement said "a number" of B52s made the early morning strike in Quang Tin Province.

Thirty planes made up the attack force on most previous B52 raids, but under new security restrictions the number is no longer announced nor is the type and amount of bombs dropped.

The announcement today also did not say where the B52s flew from to make the strike. It was assumed, however, that they came from Guam.

The Viet Cong shelled a mortar the Bien Hoa Air Base near Saigon early today, damaging 45 U.S. and Vietnamese air force planes and four U.S. Army helicopters, a U.S. military spokesman said.

NOT SERIOUS
He said none of the aircraft were seriously damaged and all would be repaired within three days.

U.S. sources reported earlier that two helicopters were destroyed, but the spokesman did not confirm this.

The spokesman said the guerrillas fired 10 mortar rounds at the base and 22 other shells of 75mm caliber, possibly from a howitzer or recoilless rifle. An official announcement earlier had said 30 to 50 mortar rounds had been fired at the base.

U.S. and Vietnamese casualties were described as "light" and no deaths were reported. The base's artillery batteries did not return the fire because the mortars apparently were located in a populated area, U.S. sources said.

PREVIOUS RAID

Last Nov. 1, Viet Cong guerrillas fired 82 mortar shells into the base, destroyed 27 aircraft, killed four U.S. servicemen and wounded 72 others.

Vietnamese military units began a sweep southwest of the base, the direction from which the firing came, and were reported to have captured two Viet Cong suspects. The base is about 12 miles north of Saigon.

The U.S. spokesman said 22 of the damaged planes were American and the other 23 were American planes turned over to the Vietnamese air force. Seventeen of the U.S. planes and all of the Vietnamese aircraft were propeller-driven Skyraiders.

Military authorities said the shelling also destroyed 25 empty fuel tanks, eight rocket launchers and four trucks. Three jet engines were reported damaged.

OTHER REPORTS
The U.S. spokesman reported these other developments: Guerrillas mined a train 400 miles north of Saigon, near Hue, killing four civilians and wounding 10 others. The guerrillas withdrew after a plane was sent to the scene.

A U.S. Air Force pilot was shot down deep in North Viet Nam but was rescued six hours after he ejected.

The pilot, who was not identified, was on a bombing mission with three other F105 Thunderchiefs when ground fire downed his plane about 75 miles south of Hanoi.

The planes were striking at an airfield under construction 20 miles west of Thanh Hoa.

During one six-hour period today, the astronauts were "going to be pretty busy" with experiments, Gemini Control said.

But no new rendezvous maneuvers were scheduled after yesterday's successful trailing of a "phantom" rocket.

COOPER'S TOTAL
At 12:39 a.m. EST today, Cooper racked up a total of 97 hours and 59 minutes in space—his elapsed time aboard Gemini 5 and the 34-hour, 20-minute flight he made solo aboard the Faith 7 capsule in May 1963.

Eating and sleeping habits fell into a pattern after the first hectic day when the oxygen feed system to the fuel cells providing electric power almost choked out.

Cooper, who likes to nap, reported five hours sleep last night in two periods.

The plane caught fire but the pilot managed to eject. He reportedly was picked up in good condition by a rescue helicopter.

Viet Cong mortarmen also shelled a Vietnamese army regimental headquarters in the vicinity of Tan Uyen, about 20 miles northwest of Saigon. "Moderate" government casualties were reported.

Pakistan Says India Shelled Town, Killed 20

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — The Pakistani army charged today that Indian troops shelled a village a mile inside Pakistan, killed 20 persons and wounded 15 others.

The announcement said eight shells landed in the village of Awan, in the Gujrat district of West Pakistan. The announcement gave no other details.

Tropical storm Anna was blowing in the Atlantic more than 900 miles northeast of Bermuda and headed northeastward. It posed no threat to the Gemini 5 flight.

POINTED AWAY
Its direction pointed it away from the primary Atlantic recovery area in Bermuda-Cape Kennedy waters.

The astronauts may be able to see the storm from a distance, Gemini Control said.

And as they soared on, approaching the 14th million-mile mark at five miles per second, a flight official radioed up to them:

"You sound real sharp."

Gemini Control said the astronauts had a go-ahead for 63, meaning completion of 81 and splash-down on the kind over the Atlantic tomorrow should it become necessary to cut the flight short. But the odds were in favor of a 121-orbit flight ending next Sunday.

Birmingham Area News

90 Residents Urge Action on Coolidge-Maple Area

BIRMINGHAM — In the continuing negotiations for peaceful relations between Birmingham and Troy, Birmingham officials have the backing of at least 90 residents.

The City Commission just received a petition from residents of the area which has been under discussion by representatives of the two cities.

At least 90 home owners urged the commission to proceed "in haste and good faith" to straighten out the traffic situation in the Maple-Coolidge area.

They specifically asked that traffic from a multimillion-dollar development there be routed onto Coolidge in Troy rather than into Birmingham.

The development now under construction will extend from the northeast corner of Elton and Derby east to Coolidge.

MEETING TOPIC
The petitioners were assured that the matter would be brought up at a meeting scheduled for today between city managers R. S. Kenning of Birmingham and Paul A. York of Troy.

Kenning noted that the sentiment expressed in the petition is basically like that of Birmingham officials.

Plans for the development now indicate the only access and egress will be into Birmingham near Pembroke Elementary School.

The anticipated traffic problems are among those under discussion between the two units.

2ND DISAGREEMENT
Another area of disagreement is the Walker Well, owned by Birmingham but used by Troy for water.

Troy asked for an extension of the water purchase agreement, and the Birmingham

Following her undercover work, Miss Allen was not rehired for the current legislative session. She said some state officials had spoken to her unfavorably of her work and that her rule led to her losing the secretarial job.

FOLLOWED INTERVIEW
The Kelley-Bronson-Reigis statement followed an interview with Miss Allen last week. It continued:

"At the very beginning of the proceedings, Miss Allen specifically and on her own initiative stated that she had never made the statement that she had been intimidated as far as her testimony was concerned."

"Again and again during the course of the interview, Miss Allen responded in the negative when asked if anything said to her by any state official led her to believe that, either directly or by implication, her job would be in jeopardy if she testified. She stated that no effort was made to keep her from testifying by any state official."

"Under these circumstances, it is clear that there are no elements of any charge relating to obstruction of justice or, indeed, to any other criminal charges. Any contrary implication is not supported by the evidence."

'VALUABLE PRIZES'
The Viet Cong regarded the Americans as "valuable prizes," Camacho said. In each village, people led the streets to catch a glimpse of them.

Once they reached the Viet Cong camp, they were put to a stockade that was home for almost two years.

They slept on a bamboo bed and had one blanket. They got fed three times a day, mostly rice with occasional dog or elephant meat.

"They tried to indoctrinate us, and became angry when we ignored them."

Both publicly and in the newspapers and privately to her, a few members of the House of Representatives made it clear that they were opposed to her doing this undercover work. Some were disturbed by the attendant publicity, while others contended that it was improper for her to get involved in activities outside of her regular employment.

Board to Eye Area for Park

Concurring that development of a proposed township park on Loom Lake would take years to fulfill, Watford Township board members last night, nonetheless, agreed to consider purchase of the 13-acre area.

The land, which includes 1,800 feet of lakefront, is currently owned by the township school system.

The schools had bought the parcel to provide for construction of Mason Junior High School which opens this fall.

In the interim, school officials decided there was no need for that portion of land bordering Loom Lake.

Board members Frank Richardson, William Dean Jr. and Township Clerk Elmer Fangerbom will meet with Supt. of Schools Dr. Don O. Tatroe to discuss terms for possible purchase of the land which includes approximately five acres of swamp.

ADVANTAGE SEEN
With adequate supervision and protection, the proposed park would apparently be an asset to the immediate neighborhood. The area reportedly is used as a lover's lane by teenagers.

It would become one of the second township-maintained park in Watford, according to township officials.

Although the township owns park lands, the Drayton Plains park is the only one it maintains.

Icebergs will be marked with easily identifiable color patches by the Coast Guard this year to aid in keeping track of the drift of these masses.

Loan Note Sale to Be Finalized

Final action is scheduled tonight by the City Commission on the sale of $3.1 million in preliminary loan notes for the $30 million renewal project.

Commissioners are expected to authorize the sale of the loan notes to the Bank of America, apparent low bidder with an interest rate of 2.38 per cent and an $82 premium.

Funds from the sale will be used to pay off outstanding loan notes and to operate the R29 project for the next six months.

Air Strike Aim Is to Pressure Hanoi Into Talks

BY STEWART HENSLEY
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Intensified air attacks against North Viet Nam following the recent U.S. ground victory are designed to increase pressure on the Communists for peace talks at a time when they appear to be facing critical decisions in the guerrilla war.

U.S. officials said the repeated battering yesterday of a major hydroelectric complex at Ban Tach in North Viet Nam was ordered by Washington to take advantage of possible indecision by the Communists over whether to increase their war effort or move toward the peace table.

The attacks by U.S. planes

on the Ban Tach complex were the first on such an important industrial installation.
They were accompanied by a series of raids on communications facilities about 30 miles from Red China — the closest U.S. planes have yet come to the border.

Officials believe that "some pretty important things" are going on in Communist strategy councils, particularly in light of last week's battle at Chu Lai in South Viet Nam in which U.S. Marines killed more than 500 Viet Cong troops.

APPARENTLY UNDECIDED
After the victory, officials said that in light of the heavy punishment they had been taking in the ground and air war the Communists were apparently undecided about what course to follow in the future.

This view was underlined last night by McGeorge Bundy, President Johnson's adviser on national security affairs, who was asked on a hour-long television discussion if the recent military developments had brightened the outlook for possible talks.

"I believe it to be true that military success of the kind which we have seen in recent days does help bring nearer the day when there will be an effective negotiation," Bundy replied.
Appearing with Bundy on the program were secretary of State Dean Rusk and U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations Arthur J. Goldberg.

RECENT EXPRESSIONS
Referring to recent expressions of optimism on the situation, Rusk said that Johnson's declaration that "we are not going to be pushed out of South Viet Nam and that we shall meet our commitments . . . has made a big difference in the situation."
Rusk said another reason for the optimism was that the Communists were not getting the support from international opinion that they thought they would.

This makes a difference, Rusk said, "because I think they were hoping at one time that there would be a buildup of international opinion that might cause the United States to change its attitude towards our commitment."
"We would hope very much that the time will come when it will be recognized by the other side that pushing this matter militarily is not worth the risk at the end of the trial," he said.

In addition to the recent blows the Viet Cong have taken in recent weeks, there have been hints in Moscow, Paris and at the United Nations that the Communists may be less opposed than previously to Johnson's suggestion for "unconditional discussions" to end the war.
Although administration officials provide no specific information to document their attitude, they have appeared somewhat more optimistic during the past few days regarding the course of events in Viet Nam.

Present Regime Denounced

Viet Student Rally Demands Election

HUE, Viet Nam (UPI) — Nearly 2,000 young Vietnamese massed in the center of this politically conscious city tonight to denounce South Viet Nam's government for the fourth consecutive night.
Students broadcast to the crowd for more than an hour over loudspeakers set up in front of the main bridge spanning the river.

The youngsters called for an elected government instead of the present military regime. They said American troops were welcome in their country, but criticized them for being careless in discriminating between Viet Cong guerrillas and innocent Vietnamese civilians.

The crowd halted traffic on the bridge which serves as the main thoroughfare between the two halves of this riverside city 400 miles north of Saigon.

Police were present during the meeting, but there were no disorders and no violence.

REGIME OPPOSED
A group of student leaders told UPI they opposed the present regime because it was "militaristic and tyrannical government."

The leaders were not vocal against their dashing young prime minister, Air Vice Marshal Nguyen Cal Ky, 35. Most of their criticism was directed against Maj. Gen Nguyen Van Thieu, who heads the military junta which is supposed to set policy for Ky's administration.

"We want the government to be a legal one, with very clean politics," the student leaders said.

They said the government should be elected by the people.

FUTURE TALKS
"We think this government should be the legal representative of the Vietnamese people in future conferences with other countries," they said.

Student leaders would not elaborate on the kind of conferences they had in mind, or whether these might be directed toward a negotiated peace with the Viet Cong.

Failure Feared in Attempt to Halt Leukemia

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — A young mother is keeping a desperate bedside vigil, fearful that an attempt to expose her leukemia-stricken daughter to chicken pox has failed.

Mrs. Sharon Evans said yesterday her daughter, Joy Lynne, 4, passed the 21-day incubation period for chicken pox Sunday with no sign of having the disease.

Mrs. Evans, 24, deliberately exposed her daughter to chicken pox three weeks ago after reading of some leukemia cases reportedly arrested by the disease.

The youngster is bedridden and in periodic pain, her mother said. Doctors say Joy Lynne is expected to live less than one month.

Extend Iceland's Area

Volcanic Isle Permanent

WASHINGTON — A volcanic island that burst up from the Atlantic off Iceland in 1963 has taken its place among the world's permanent geographical features.

Such isles, when formed of pumice and ash, can wash away in time. But lava eruptions have covered much of the new island called Surtsey with a hard shield that can withstand the sea's pounding for thousands of years, reports Dr. Sigurdur Thorarinsson in National Geographic.

Surtsey is still growing at the rate of about one acre a day, the Icelandic volcanologist says. As the island is extending seaward, the southernmost point of Iceland differs every day from what it was the day before.

At the end of March 1965, the 16-month-old island measured one square mile in area, or more than half the size of New York City's Central Park.

Surtsey is providing a rare opportunity to study the emergence of life on a barren land. Icelandic and American scientists have launched a long-term biological research program, supported by the United States Office of Naval Research.

During its early weeks, Surtsey was entirely sterile, its slopes blasted periodically by red-hot bombs and slag. But much of the island's surface has cooled, and life is obtaining a foothold.

State Park Graveyard Holds Old Settlement

MEXIA, Tex. (AP) — One of the country's most unusual graveyards in the state is located inside the boundaries of 1,600-acre Fort Parker State Park.
Obscured by tangled undergrowth and fallen tree limbs, the cemetery is all that remains of the old Springfield settlement established in 1838 and abandoned 35 years later.

Half the nation's peanuts are grown in three states — Alabama, Florida and Georgia — where about 30,000 farmers produce a crop valued at $70 million a year.

Park Tax Loss Aid Is Urged

U.S. Compensation Wanted for Gogebic

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress was asked today by Sen. Philip A. Hart and Rep. Raymond F. Cleveland, Michigan Democrats, to compensate local governments for tax losses resulting from the federal purchase of the Sylvania tract in Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

They introduced companion bills in the Senate and House calling for payments to Gogebic County governmental units over a 20-year period. The payments would decline with the years.

The Forest Service is buying the 16,000-acre tract, once the private playground of Gogebic County, for use as a recreational area. Both Hart and Cleveland had strongly urged the purchase.

However, Hart said compensation for tax loss is especially important in this case because Gogebic County is sparsely populated and suffering high unemployment.

CANT ABSORB

"It cannot be expected to absorb or immediately replace the loss of taxes paid by Sylvania," Hart said.

"Of course, commercial development and increased employment that the Sylvania recreational area will create will, in time, offset the loss and probably far surpass it. But this will take time, probably at least 20 years."

Sylvania now pays about $30,000 in local property taxes. This is shared by Gogebic County, Watersmeet Township and the Watersmeet School District.

The Hart-Cleveland legislation would make up the entire $30,000 for the first 10 years. After that, payments would be reduced by 10 per cent each year and phase out entirely on the 20th year.

The money would be paid out of income received by the Forest Service for sustained-yield timbering and other sources.

The car was extensively damaged and had to be hauled away.

Rusk Believes Reds Don't Want War Over SE Asia

U.S.-VIET NAM: Secretary of State Dean Rusk says it is his impression "that the Communist world does not want a general war over Southeast Asia."

As a result, Rusk said on a television program last night, Red China is talking tough about Viet Nam but is taking care not to get into the war. He noted that "There is a certain caution and prudence in their action, more so than in their words."

FOREIGN AID: Sen. J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has made what he termed a reluctant pass for passage of the $3.36-billion foreign aid authorization.

Fulbright told the Senate yesterday the results of a Senate-House conference in which two key Senate amendments were dropped.

They would have provided a two-year authorization instead of the one-year program and initiated a congressional investigation of the entire aid program.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., a leading opponent, denounced the conference report as a "capitulation" to the House and the administration.

Final action on the measure was scheduled later today.

IMMIGRATION: House Republicans launch a drive today

to restrict immigration to the United States from western hemisphere nations including Canada and Mexico.

Rep. Clark MacGregor, R-Minn., with the support of the House GOP leadership, planned to offer an amendment to limit hemisphere immigration to 115,000 a year. It was 139,000 last year, 147,000 the year before.

This is expected to be the major battle as the House considers the administration-backed proposal to overhaul immigration laws.

A final vote on the measure is expected Wednesday.

VIET NAM "WHITE PAPERS": The White House has beaten Republicans to the punch in the battle of the Viet Nam "white papers."

It issued yesterday a 27-page pamphlet entitled "Why Viet Nam?" which contains papers, letters and other documents explaining the U.S. commitment to help the Southeast Asian nation.

House Republican leaders, meanwhile, were still putting staples in their white paper. It is called "Viet Nam: Some Neglected Aspects of the Historical Record."

They plan to unveil it at a news conference tomorrow.

Fifth Spacecraft Trip Test for Moon Flight

Despite a postponed launch and a malfunction that developed in orbit, Gemini 5 is now riding on top of the world with prospects that it will go all the way for the eight-day, 121-orbit, 3.5 million-mile expedition initially envisioned. Although the mechanical difficulty scratched one of the mission's objectives—a rendezvous with another orbiting body—the spacecraft yesterday simulated such a maneuver with scientific precision.

Since Americans are traditionally prone to wax a bit blasé over scientific marvels with which they are no longer strangers, the fifth flight of the space program inaugurated four and a half years ago less gripped the public consciousness than its precursors.

But Gemini 5 holds unprecedented interest for National Aeronautics Space Administration scientists and future astronauts who will carry our flag into space, since the projected performance of "Five" would parallel a round-trip journey to the moon—the target date for which falls within this decade.

The grueling physical and psychic tests that the two astronauts—Veteran GORDON COOPER JR. and rookie CHARLES (PETE) CONRAD—will undergo and the awesome scientific and functional exactions imposed on their capsule will shed crucial light on human and technological adaptability for a lunar look-see.

Should Gemini stay aloft the prescribed limit, it would exceed by four days the previous U.S. record of four days for a multi-manned spacecraft flight and by three days the Russian record for a single-man orbital adventure.

Meanwhile, the voyage is piling up good marks for American progress in space conquest with highest accolades for the voyagers.

Incentive the Motive for Human Endeavor

Nowhere has an all-embracing welfare state attained fuller bloom than in New Zealand. There, by virtue of government subsidy, unemployment and extreme poverty have been eliminated, and adequate housing, health service and education are built-in responsibility of the state.

But few visitors to the country sense an atmosphere of well-being. They complain of poor service, of a take-it-or-leave-it attitude toward work when other jobs are readily available, of a lack of competitiveness, and what they regard as an air of backwardness compared to the United States.

Observes The Wall Street Journal: "The point is simply that any society deliberately fashioned in the framework of governmental gratuities for everything from planting wheat to painting water colors is bound to grow mediocre or worse."

"That is practically an immutable law, whether the people concerned are New Zealanders, Swedes, Russians, Britons or Americans, and it should not be particularly difficult to see why."

Everyone favors the elimination of poverty and of human distress and misery in all its forms. In this endeavor, government inevitably plays a role.

The problem is how to help those who truly need help without sapping the initiative, the independence and the ambition of vast masses of people. When that happens, national decadence and decline must follow, no matter how great any country's material wealth may be.

It is estimated that only 7 per cent of cigarette smokers will read the warning printed on the package that smoking may be hazardous to health, and that 2 per cent of these won't know what "hazardous" means.

ONE wonders which of these may be most likely to cause the human race to become extinct: Atomic war; over-population; deadly germs brought to earth by space travelers; conquest of man by insects; pollution of air, land and water.

Ike, LBJ Handle Congress Alike

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON—President Johnson, like former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, has had a charmed life with Congress, a lot better than Presidents Harry S. Truman and John F. Kennedy ever had.

In one way the Johnson-Eisenhower methods are the same, almost totally avoid personal attacks on the men of either party in the Capitol, although Johnson is sometimes a little more snappish.

The virtue in this technique is that it denies anyone an excuse for hitting back. If he wants to criticize, he has to fight for a reason. It served Eisenhower well.

After eight years in the White House he wound up the most unloathed president of the century. But there the Eisenhower resemblance ends.

DEPENDENT ON PRESTIGE
But, while Johnson had 24 years in Congress before becoming president, Eisenhower had none. He had to depend on his prestige and the advice of his aides in dealing with House and Senate.

He wasn't in the same class with Johnson in getting Congress to do what he wanted. But, then, he never worked at it as hard as Johnson.

In his first two years Eisenhower's own Republicans controlled both houses. Even so, he had trouble getting action from the Republicans.

FEELBLE MINORITY
In Eisenhower's last six years Congress was in control of the Democrats and he got a great deal of help from them, with Johnson running the Senate.

Besides his expertise in understanding Congress, Johnson has had the enormous advantage, starting out, of dealing with a House and Senate where his Democrats so outnumber the Republicans that the latter are a feeble minority.

Nevertheless, Johnson has worked on the Republicans to play ball with him, and has had astonishing success in the Senate, at least. There the Republican leader, Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, is one of his greatest assets.

The result is that the Republicans have been so badly immobilized that their House leader, Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, seemed hard pressed to find an issue to use against Johnson.

VIET ISSUE
Ford seems to think he can make an issue of Johnson's handling of the Vietnam war.

But former Vice President Richard M. Nixon believes that what hurt Johnson in the 1968 presidential race is what he does at home.

He said last week Johnson will be defeated by what happens domestically and not what happens in Viet Nam.

This would seem to indicate the Republicans aren't quite sure where Johnson is vulnerable.

A Case Of Deflation

David Lawrence Asks:

Is Liberalism Cloak for Despots?

WASHINGTON—The American people are coming to the climax of a struggle which has plagued free democracies for more than a century both in this country and Europe.

It is a contest growing out of a fundamental challenge—should society be organized on the basis of "voluntary co-operation" or "compulsory co-operation?"

This doctrine of compulsion is inherent in socialism, communism, nazism and fascism, which have emerged in various forms in the last half-century in different parts of the world.

But is this something new—is it a modern trend, or is it an old form of despotism disguised under the name of "liberalism?"

This correspondent happened the other day to be rereading the essays of Herbert Spencer, the great British philosopher, who published them in 1851—more than 114 years ago.

They read as if he were writing about today's America, today's England, today's France, and today's Russia.

Spencer's main criticism was directed against the misuse of the word "liberalism."

He traced the differences between the political parties in England, and what he said might seem to be describing the evolution of parties in American politics, too. He wrote:

"We see that in the one party there was a desire to resist and decrease the coercive power of the ruler over the subject, and in the other party to maintain or increase his coercive power."

"It seems needless to remind everybody what liberalism was in the past, that they may perceive its unlikelihood to many of the 'liberalism' of the present."

Spencer declared that the real test of "liberalism" is whether "the lives of citizens are more interfered with than they were."

"The function of liberalism in the past was that of putting a limit to the powers of kings. The function of true liberalism in the future will be that of putting a limit to the powers of parliament."

Small wonder that Herbert Spencer entitled one of his essays "From Freedom to Bondage" as he wrote:

"How little the men who drew up the American Declaration of Independence and framed the republic, anticipated that after some generations the legislature would lapse into the hands of wirepullers; that its doings would turn upon the contests of office-seekers; that political action would be everywhere vitiated by the intrusion of a foreign element holding the balance between parties; that electors, instead of judging for themselves, would habitually be led to the polls in thousands by their 'bosses'; and that respectable men would be driven out of public life by the insults and slanders of professional politicians."

Surely there's nothing new under the sun—"modern" liberalism is at least 114 years old, if not older.

Bob Considine Says:

Partly Crippled Gemini 5 Gave U.S. a Needed Jolt

CAPE KENNEDY—We were all getting pretty jaded about our space achievements, weren't we?

It took a partly crippled spacecraft, labeled Gemini 5, and two gutty astronauts named Cooper and Conrad to bring us to our senses and make us realize all over again, that history has few, if any parallels for the sheer drama of flying off this earth.

Even as the astronauts were being launched from the top of a rocket belching millions of horsepower, CBS News Director Fred W. Friendly was being quoted as saying that hereafter his network would light up only half an hour before blast-off.

Why should the networks engage in an "escalation as stupid as the arms race?" That's what Fred rhetorically asked from his headquarters in the corporation that virtually invented overkill in TV news coverage.

He may have second thoughts in the wake of the excruciatingly tense weekend.

Neither ABC nor NBC plan as of now to place any such embargo on pre-launch innuities.

If CBS persists with the new policy it will be interesting to see how "Captain Kangaroo" measures up in the Nielsen ratings with NASA's Commander Wally Schirra in the hour leading up to the Gemini 6 launch. Perhaps in the end the "Captain" will prevail, and tomorrow's opera will take precedence over what has always seemed to me to be a breathtaking sight of astronauts climbing into their capsule by the dawn's early light.

People can get jaded awful quick in these times.

We simply took for granted that the tens of thousands of parts in the 10-story tall rocket and the complex capsule sitting on its peak would work like a $1,000 watch. And they did... for a time.

Suddenly, planes and ships were rushing across the lonesome reaches of the Pacific fighting to get to a point 500 miles northeast of Hawaii where two brave men—fathers of six kids—threatened to be dunked after completing only six of their proposed 121 laps.

LIKE OUTFIELDERS
With that danger past and it appeared that they might go for a full day in their crippled craft, a great rescue force in the Atlantic stirred itself and began to roam back and forth like good center fielders waiting for a high fly to descend.

Perhaps we needed a shaking up of this nature, costly as it promised to be.

It served to remind us that a lot of brave men are performing an almost wonder in our midst and hundreds of television viewers are ungrateful enough to be calling in to the stations demanding to know why the football game wasn't on.

Riots Add New Stress to Society

BY BRUCE BLOSSAT
The incredible Negro riot in Los Angeles, with its smaller echoes in Chicago and Springfield, Mass.,

puls new stress upon a terrible dilemma in American society.

Taking full effect this summer are the most sweeping national civil rights laws BLOSSAT adopted in a century. Yet they are directed largely at old grievances in just one region—the South.

There really are no new laws to assault the statistics of social and economic despair which engulf so many of the Negroes who have migrated to the northern big cities, toward what they thought was a brighter hope.

Reflecting still the crippling neglect that marked their past, they have been mostly spurned in the North as in the South. They have found the form but not the substance of opportunity.

A grinding isolation has become for many Negroes an embittered alienation. Pins on maps in bureaucrats' offices marked out their living zones as "pockets of poverty." But down in the hot streets, it is now clear they are cauldrons of hatred.

It is a hatred which defies that dominant white establishment as an enemy. In calm hours, the call of the embittered is for a kind of instant revolution whose magic will

Minister Gives Reply to Editorial Comments

From your editorial "Cleric Gives Approval to Pre-Nuptial Mating," it is obvious that you failed to ascertain my beliefs. Your assertions that I give "tacit endorsement of licentiousness," that I mock "the sublimity inherent in wedlock," that I am a free-love apostle, are contrary to the fact as even a cursory reading of my sermon would reveal. Your attack and others like it have caused me immeasurable damage; I have been forced to resign from a respected public position, my next door neighbor refuses to speak to me, my church has been subjected to great embarrassment by the necessity of explaining that their minister is not a "free-love apostle." You have a perfect right to disagree with my opinions but you have no right to hold me up to public condemnation for views I do not hold.

'Praise Is Due Officers for Jobs Well Done'

One thing that makes me disgusted is the overplay of news pertaining to police brutality and the small articles that appear with limited information of a job exceptionally well done by our police officers.

Praise is due Sgt. Cooley and his men for the quick recovery of the jewels stolen from a city jeweler, and the clean, quick capture of a man who had shot a fellow police officer. Keep up the good work, men.

'Fighting Among Americans Is Degrading'

I am sure everyone is aware of present world problems. In my opinion there is about as much fighting between Americans as there is between Vietnamese and Americans. I consider this situation very degrading to American citizens.

Crime and racial problems are overtaking the once-called strongest nation, when most people worked for each other instead of against each other.

'Man Faces Threat of Population Explosion'

The population explosion is "the number one threat facing mankind. Overpopulation may result in mass starvation or in catastrophic war. If man is to avoid anarchy and war resulting from starvation, there must be instituted a worldwide program of birth control or eventually resort to compulsory sterilization in a frantic effort to curb the population.

For centuries we have been enabling the unfit to reproduce themselves at an alarming rate, guarding them from disease and death, protecting them and supporting them. Thus, we are placing an ever greater burden on the fit. The more fit they are, the larger the burden.

Agree to End War in Yemen

Cease-Fire Said OK'd by Nasser and Feisal

JIDDA, Saudi Arabia (UPI) — King Feisal of Saudi Arabia said today he and President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic have reached full agreement on means to end the civil war in Yemen.

"We are in full agreement with President Nasser without conditions or restrictions," Feisal said at the end of three days of talks with the Egyptian leader.

Feisal gave no details of the agreement, but the semi-official Middle East news agency said the two leaders had agreed to a cease-fire.

Earlier today, informed sources said the Feisal-Nasser talks had hit snags on two issues.

Sources said the snags were two conditions raised by Nasser for ending the 3-year-old civil war: preservation of the republican form of government in Yemen and ouster of the royal family from any future government.

EXCLUDE ROYALTY

The Nasser conditions would exclude the family of the Imam, or King, Mohammed El Badr, who was deposed in the 1962 revolution.

Saudi Arabia has backed the royalists supporting El Badr in their guerrilla comeback.

King Feisal was reported opposed to the conditions on grounds they contradicted his desire for self-determination among Yemen's five million residents.

The report of snags conflicted with a dispatch published here which said Nasser and Feisal had reached unconditional agreement on all points.

House Full of Ghostly Fascination

GUILFORD, Conn. (AP) — Patrolman Nicholas Heery, sent to investigate reports of ghostly doings at a deserted farm house, opened the front door and a strange figure swooped at him, knife in hand.

"I opened the door twice, and both times the knife went into the doorframe," Heery said.

The figure was a dummy, one of several in the house. All were made from sheets rigged on wires strung to make the dummies plunge downstairs and lunge through doorways.

"Somebody spent a lot of time on that house," Heery said. "It was fascinating to see."

The report of strange happenings came from Frederick Bennett, the owner, after he had stopped by the old house to see if vandals had damaged it.

Bennett, who owns a fuel oil business in Guilford, found a mannequin lying in state in the living room, a booby-trapped kitchen, and one bedroom rigged so that a person outside could pull wires to raise the lid of a chest, lift the sheet off the bed and jangle the bedsprings. Bennett and Heery agreed that the haunting was probably the work of ingenious youngsters.

U.S. Gets Its Two Cents In With Dull New Quarter

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — It doesn't shine and it doesn't jingle and it costs only 2 cents to make.

But it buys 25 cents worth of goodies, and it works in vending machines. It also should last a long while.

That's the new quarter put into production yesterday at the Philadelphia mint. The copper-nickel alloy coin bonded with a core of pure copper was ordered to preserve the nation's dwindling silver supply.

There's no silver in it, just as there will not be any silver in the new dimes when they are minted next December.

Other than that, it looks like the old quarter, the same familiar size with George Washington on one side and the American eagle on the other.

What catches the eye is the date — 1965. No other coins were minted this year with that date.

Production started with U.S. Mint Director Eva Adams and Robert A. Wallace, assistant secretary of the Treasury, on hand.

The new silverless quarter, metalwise, is worth about two cents. The old quarter was worth 23 cents. The new half-dollars, scheduled for production Nov. 1, will be 40 per cent silver.

This Is Hospitable Form of Bribery

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE:
 We recently moved from our old home to another one that is nearer our children's school and where we hoped that they could find more playmates. But our older one—a girl of 7—is shy than her brother and less able to make new friends. What worries me is that she tries to bribe the three little girls who live on our block to play with her.

 I have told her that we can't buy friends with colas and other of candy.
ANSWER: Why did you tell her that? Because some child guidance book told YOU that?

Fellow parent, don't you offer candy and drinks to people you want to get to know? When you want to make a hit with people who don't know you, don't you offer to share your belongings with them: your best china, best recipes?
 Don't you use the appeal of these belongings of yours to suggest that their owner is even more appealing? Or are you "bribing" them to like you with this appealing hospitality?

You know, we just can't afford to disappear like this—and let some child guidance expert define our child's behavior for us. Yet disappearing is exactly what we do when we operate on the expert's opinion without first testing its sense against our own experience.
 We become the child who is seen and not heard. Like a repressed child, we accept the expert's view that soliciting friendship by offering hospitality is "bribery" without any protest.

The experts aren't around her. She can't make friends with the absent experts. Nor can she make friends with a button that releases a lever marked "bribery" and immediately responds with the automatic answer: "We can't buy friends with colas and candy."
 If we are not levers operated by the experts, this kind of thing becomes simple. When the child wants to offer sodas and candy to possible friends, we think: "What a lovely hospitable impulse!"
 And delighted at her wish to entertain, give her the sodas and candy, so conveying our pleasure in her hospitable impulse that she finds delight in it, too, and plays out her hostess role in fine, self-confident style.

 This spring I bought an inexpensive jar of cold cream at the dime store and applied this with a soft cloth. It rubbed away the soap and water marks far easier than anything I had used and left a soft pliable new looking finish to the heavy plastic curtain. Helped my hands, too.—MRS. R.H.S.

DEAR POLLY — My suggestion is for those busy homemakers who have children all ages and a refrigerator door that is opened and closed several times an hour when the children are home from school and always looking for snacks. I clip a piece of paper to the inside of the refrigerator door and write on it what is in the refrigerator to eat. At a glance one can tell without shifting everything around.
 If a child drinks the last of the milk or eats the last piece of fruit, he crosses that item off the list so others know there is no more.
 Also when time comes for me to prepare a meal or even a pickup lunch, I can look at this paper and decide in a minute what I can prepare with the least effort.

DEAR POLLY — I am 13 years old. I help my mother with the housework and I am always interested in learning new Pointers. Usually one of my jobs is to wax the floors. Before I use a cloth to wax a floor I soak it in cold water and wring it out well. I have noticed that the damp cloth does not absorb the wax and I can save a great deal of wax that would otherwise be wasted as it soaked into the cloth.—L.C.

letter from a teen-ager? One of our future homemakers and doubtless a good one, too. Years ago I learned from an expert that a damp sponge mop was better for waxing the kitchen floor (with liquid wax) than a dry one. I have done this for a long, long time and know how good it is.—POLLY.

'Night Stands' Now Used in Living Room

Bedside tables or "night stands" are as likely to be found flanking a living room sofa as not, these days.
 In working storage shelves, drawers and compartments inside the bedside convenience, designers have created handy and handsome living room pieces too.

Styles are as varied as the inexhaustible choice of bedroom furniture.
 These accessory bedroom pieces are likely to be a bit less expensive than a comparable size and convenience piece, labeled living room only.

FINE DETAILED
 Fine detailing of cabinetry and specially selected hardwoods of dressers, chests, and beds is repeated on the night tables of a group.

If the large pieces are ornamented with veneer inlays of rare, exotic or colorful woods the smaller units will carry the same details.

Art Is Salvation

Human Interest Wins

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE CASE W-456: Rodney S., aged 22, is a graduate student in geology.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I have an interesting problem for you."

"Because my funds were low, I rented a little room on the top floor of a private home."

"It had only one small window, so I felt as if I were in a dungeon."

"For I come from the West where we can look for miles in every direction."

"That little room of mine made me feel as if I were suffocating. I developed claustrophobia."

"Then I happened to buy a couple of pictures at a rummage sale. They included landscapes, trees and a distant mountain."

"Well, sir, after I placed them on the walls of my dark little room, I didn't feel as hemmed in."

"For those pictures acted much as additional windows for when I viewed the scenes, I felt as if I were looking miles away at the distant horizon."

"Why wouldn't such pictures be good even in prisons to help eliminate that shut-in impression?"

ART THERAPY
Rodney has discovered a valuable point concerning the psychological therapy that art can offer.

In my classes at Northwestern University on Applied Psychology, I would routinely stress the tranquilizing effect of art.

And I have included a chapter thereon in my widely used college textbook, "Psychology Applied."

First of all, you don't have to be a "born" artist, for skill with a drawing pencil or brush is learned.

And many busy professional men nowadays employ painting and sketching as a relief from their materialistic daily duties.

Physicians and dental surgeons are thus noted for using art as a constructive hobby.

Winston Churchill is another example, as well as former President Eisenhower.

So please be more respectful even of the crude drawings by the cave-men in the Stone Age.

For many of you in this latter year of 1965 still can't draw animals or human beings any better than those pictures left by the cave-men!

The best teacher of art is available to everybody, for that is Prof. Nature.

ACCENTUATE IDEAS

The main purpose of art is to reproduce what is already out there in nature. But artists have the privilege of highlighting a scene to accentuate a given idea.

"Highlighting" by an artist is thus similar to "headlining" by a newspaperman.

And here are a few psychological rules of art:

• Action is depicted by having an object or runner off balance in his body.

• But the entire picture can be balanced by having a streamer flowing back behind the runner that restores the total scene to equilibrium.

• The apparent center of the page is not the actual mathematical center but is about 60 per cent from the bottom. This is the line you should make for the horizon. It is called the "golden section."

• Equal space does not mean equal balance! For a child or puppy far outweighs a much larger inanimate object, such as a boulder.

For psychological weight is based on "human interest" value, not area.

Foresee Rejection of West Draft

Russia Sets N-Treaty Reply

GENEVA (UPI) — The Soviet negotiator at the 17-nation disarmament conference said today the Kremlin will be responding "shortly" to the treaty proposed by the United States banning the spread of nuclear weapons.

It was a foregone conclusion that the Russian response would be an outright rejection.

Semyon K. Tsarapkin, the Russian delegate here, told newsmen today he is preparing his final reply to the American proposal, tabled by the United States last Thursday.

Tsarapkin was expected to submit his reply Thursday.

The conference met for only 30 minutes today. The only speaker was the Canadian negotiator, Gen. E. L. M. Burns. He said the American draft treaty was "a joint product" of the United States, Britain, Canada and Italy.

WANT MODIFICATIONS

Burns said Canada realizes that some nations want modifications in the proposals and that all members of NATO are prepared to consider amendments.

Even Britain has some reservations. Lord Chalfont, the chief British negotiator, said, as it now stands, the treaty would permit an association of nations to get control over nuclear weapons.

He has said he will try to amend the draft if serious negotiations with Russia ever begin.

In his off-the-cuff statements to newsmen, Tsarapkin charged that West Germany is anxious to get control over nuclear weapons.

Former West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has said that if the treaty is signed it will "deliver" Europe into the hands of the Soviet Union, but the current government in Bonn supports the U.S. position on banning the spread of nuclear weapons.

Debate Vote of Confidence

For New Greek Government

ATHENS (UPI) — The Greek parliament today opened a vote of confidence debate on the government of Premier Elias Tsirimokos. Renewed antigovernment rioting was considered a strong possibility.

Tsirimokos was given a 50-50 chance to survive the vote, expected Friday.

Former Premier George Papandreu planned to boycott the parliamentary session. Papandreu controls a majority of the ruling Center Union party deputies.

His ouster July 15 by King Constantine precipitated the prolonged political crisis and rioting.

RIOT SHADOW

With the shadow of further rioting hanging heavy over the capital, the police issued an order that a scheduled demonstration at the Gloria Theater tonight must break up peacefully without a march in the streets.

The government yesterday banned all street demonstrations indefinitely and warned it would take stern measures against violators. Indoor demonstrations were exempt from the ban.

The 58-year-old Tsirimokos was named premier by Constantine last week.

In order to survive the parliament test, the former Socialist party leader must get at least 151 votes of the 300-member parliament.

Tsirimokos is the second Center Union party member to bolt the party in an attempt to pull the government out of its worst political crisis since the Communist guerrilla threat in the late 1940s.

Constantine's first Premier-designate George Athanasiadis-Novas went down to defeat in a confidence vote.

The king dismissed Papandreu in a showdown dispute over a proposed cabinet shuffle in which Papandreu attempted to take over the Defense Ministry portfolio.

Papandreu has taken his case to the people and the popular 77-year-old statesman now insists the only way out of the political struggle is general elections.

Tsirimokos, however, said he believed he has the necessary votes to establish his government. He is counting heavily on Center Union party deputies who refuse to follow Papandreu's course.

Grand Jury Probe Urged by Romney in Ticket Case

MACONAC ISLAND (AP) — Gov. George Romney Monday termed the investigation into alleged wholesale traffic ticket fixing in Wayne County "wholly inadequate" and called for a grand jury probe.

"It would seem, in the interest of improving Wayne County government, the logical thing would be the calling of a grand jury to completely and thoroughly air this matter," Romney said.

"If we don't get a grand jury investigation, though, I promise you I'll get the matter investigated," he said.

"Up to this point," he said, "investigative steps appear wholly inadequate."

The Wayne County prosecutor's office is investigating the accusations of three Wayne County sheriff's deputies and a former deputy that a sergeant and an inspector in the road patrol were involved in the fixing of thousands of traffic tickets over the past five years.

The accused men, Sgt. Paul Paciorek and Inspector Dan D. Martin, were suspended from the force Saturday by Sheriff Peter Buback.

"This whole matter is most distressing since it tends to make a mockery of the Wayne County taxpayers' effort in the field of traffic safety and good government," Romney said.

The governor, in a statement issued from his Mackinac Island summer residence, called for "a change in the (ticket) system that would guarantee that this could not recur."

Such a change was ordered into immediate effect Monday by Buback.

Buback said the "foolproof" new system requires numerical, rather than alphabetical, filing of all tickets. It also requires daily logs of all tickets, kept by patrolmen, and receipts for all tickets both by officers in charge and by justices of the peace handling the tickets in court.

Paciorek Monday turned over to the prosecutor's office 3,000 "voided" or "canceled" tickets he said he had kept at his home

"to prove I was not the one responsible."

Paciorek has accused Martin of ordering him to void tickets in '95 to 98 per cent of the cases.

Martin has denied the charge. Accusations of ticket fixing were first revealed by The Detroit News in a copyrighted story 10 days ago.

U.S. Diplomat to Leave Viet Position Soon

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The U.S. Deputy Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson will leave his post in South Viet Nam soon, informed sources said today.

Johnson arrived here soon after Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor became ambassador in June 1964. Taylor replaced Henry Cabot Lodge, who has since returned to the post for a second tour of duty.

Johnson's role was considered unusual because he was second man in the diplomatic mission, though having the rank of ambassador. He handled many political assignments and much of the routine diplomatic business here, while, Taylor, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, often concentrated on military matters.

Lodge is scheduled to present his credentials Wednesday to Maj. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, chairman of the directorate that governs the country.

Kitty's Curiosity Ends in a Fiery Cat-astrophe

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Curiosity almost killed E. T. Beasley's cat and it actually was responsible for starting a fire, firemen who put out a blaze in the Beasley home reported.

The curious kitty apparently got into a radio in the den and bit into a hot wire, burning her mouth and singeing her whiskers. She was treated by a veterinarian.

Teen Limits Crop to Keep Out of Pickle

GRAND LEDGE (AP) — A Grand Ledge high school boy is beating the summer's cucumber labor problem—he's picking his own.

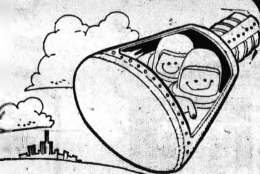

By restricting his crop to one acre, Dan Schroeder, 18, has been able to market nearly four tons of potential pickles while commercial producers have been having labor problems caused by a ban on Mexican migrant laborers.

Richard Jones, advisor to Schroeder's chapter of the Future Farmers of America, advised a one-man cucumber operation for this summer because of the broccoli ban. He said there would be a ready market because many large pickle growers in the area were giving up their crops.

Schroeder planted his acre in early June and has picked 12 times so far, selling his crop to an Eaton Rapids pickle company.

Dodgers Criticize 'Light' Suspension

NEW YORK (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers, to a man, bitterly denounced the National League President Warren Giles' ruling today, charging the punishment meted out to San Francisco pitcher Juan Marichal was "much too lenient."

"Marichal should have been suspended at least for the rest of the season," said outfielder Wally Moon, the Dodgers' player representative.

"The very nature of the act warrants the stiffest suspension possible. There should be an automatic rule calling for a year's suspension of any player hitting another with a baseball bat."

CRITICIZE DECISION

Outfielder Ron Fairly was even more caustic of Giles' levee, an eight-day suspension of the Giants' ace pitcher and a fine of $1,750 for slugging Dodger catcher John Roseboro on the head with a bat last Sunday.

"Marichal should have been barred from baseball for life," declared Fairly. "There should be no room in baseball for a player who deliberately tries to maim another with a baseball bat. If that had happened in the street, Marichal would have been arrested and thrown into jail."

Hardly anyone spoke of the game at Shea Stadium in which the Dodgers defeated the New York Mets 8-4 retaining their one-half game lead over the Milwaukee Braves.

Roseboro, the victim of Marichal's unwarranted act, appeared the least concerned. The soft-spoken catcher sat out the game mainly because New York started a left-handed pitcher. A patch covered a two-inch gash inflicted by Marichal's bat.

"I feel all right," he said. "I had a slight headache Sunday night, but it has gone away. I could have played. I'd just as soon forget what happened."

"I'm no fighter. I don't like to fight. I don't remember the last time I ever fought anybody. It must have been while I was in high school."

Home Run Beats Tigers

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "Play five and stay alive" might be good advice for Detroit's Tigers, who were holding their own Monday night until they went into the sixth inning and got shutdown.

The sixth inning Kansas City victory followed Sunday night's game which the Tigers won 2-1 in five innings against Boston. The game was called in the sixth because of rain.

Harrelson's shot went over the left fence of Finley Field. It was his 18th home run of the season.

The sixth inning Kansas City victory followed Sunday night's game which the Tigers won 2-1 in five innings against Boston. The game was called in the sixth because of rain.

Perhaps the Tigers might consider hiring a rainmaker, since it was only the third time in 15 games that the cello-dwelling Athletics had beat Detroit.

Harrelson got his winning run off Julio Navarro, who had relieved Mickey Lolich in the second inning.

No Solution Apparent; Feud Hearing Resumes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Any plan for ending the bitter row threatening athletes' careers and United States track and field fortunes remained a secret today as a Senate investigation of the feud entered a climactic phase.

There was no sign of a peace move from the Amateur Athletic Union as its top officials awaited their turn on the witness stand.

The Senate Commerce Committee is investigating a jurisdictional feud between AAU and the National Collegiate Athletic Association. The NCAA gets its chance to testify Wednesday. It also has said nothing of any plans for restoring peace.

Neither was there any advance hint of the talk to be taken in testimony by Earl H. (Red) Black. He helped the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur arrange the temporary truce which smoothed the way for 1964 Olympic Games. Black is former head football coach at the West Point.

The battle has flared anew to the bitterest heights in modern sports history, threatening suspension of brilliant young athletes from competition and a consequent effect on U.S. track and field power in the 1968 Olympics.

The committee is exploring whether anything short of action by Congress could bring the warring factions into a permanent peace plan.

Coach Fired After Illegal Grid Practices

Grosse Pointe School Barred for '65; Can Play Other Sports

DETROIT (UPI) — The players and coaches at Austin Catholic High School of Grosse Pointe took getting ready for the upcoming high school football season serious.

So serious that they have been practicing illegally in "Canada" for the past two weeks.

Monday the school was suspended from all interscholastic football competition for 1965 for violation of pre-season training rules.

The school was barred from playing football after Catholic League Director Ralph Owen caught 28 players and three coaches practicing football in Sarria, Ont., about 60 miles northeast of Detroit.

School officials fired head coach Mike Rhodes, 42, for violating the rules. He had been a coach for 20 years.

The rules state that no football practice is allowed to begin between Dec. 1 of one year and Monday of the week preceding Labor Day of the following year.

SPORTS POWER

Austin, a power in the state in basketball, swimming and golf, has been trying to reach a higher status on the gridiron in the past two years.

The school reached the heights in basketball in 1958 when Dave DeBusser led the Friars to the state championship. DeBusser later starred at the University of Detroit and is now player-coach of the Detroit Pistons of the National Basketball Association.

He is currently playing baseball for Indianapolis of the Pacific Coast League, a farm club of the Chicago White Sox.

"They even had left the country to break the rule," Owen said.

Austin will not be suspended from other sports and would be eligible for football again in 1966.

FEELS PRESSURE

Lema indicated he was feeling the pressure of Palmer's charge.

"I was loose enough 'till I hit the greens," he said, "then I could feel the pressure."

He said he was concerned until he heard that Palmer, playing in a threesome just ahead of him, had bogied the 17th hole.

"I told myself then, 'you're a fool if you blow it now.'"

Playing it cautiously, Lema used two putts to get down from 25 feet and register a par on the 183-yard hole. He got a lucky break on the next hole when his second shot was too long, but hit the gallery and bounced back to the green about 30 feet from the cup.

Palmer blamed a couple of bad long iron shots early in the round for his undoing.

"Perhaps they took too much time," he said.

The victory raised Lema's 1965 earnings to $88,016. Palmer earned $17,000 for second place, giving golf's all-time top winner $47,712 this year.

Palmer said he was in a real mood to play good golf "and I played pretty well most of the day. I felt charged all day," he said.

FIRST... SECOND — Tony Lema (left) flashes a big smile as he throws his ball to the gallery yesterday after winning the World Open with a 279. Arnold Palmer is pleased with a birdie putt on the 15th green, but his surge left two strokes short and he had to settle for second place.

Tony Lema Lectures Self to Carling Title

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Champagne Tony Lema gave himself a little lecture as he stood on the 16th green. Today he valued the speech at $35,000 for it helped him capture first prize in the $200,800 Carling World Golf Championship.

Lema withstood a patented charge by Arnold Palmer Monday to win the richest golf tournament, fashioning a 44-36-70 over the par 36-35-71 Pleasant Valley Country Club course.

Palmer, who had tied Lema as late as the 69th hole, blew the lead himself with bogeys on the 16th and 17th greens to wind up with a 34-35-69 and a second place total, two behind Lema.

Joe Campbell holed a 12-foot birdie putt on the 18th green taking third place with a 282, slipping past 35-year-old Sam Snead and U.S. Open champion Gary Player who had 283 totals.

PGA champion Dave Marr was a stroke further back with Homero Blancas, the third round co-leader with Lema. Blancas, bolstered by a bad back, hallooed to a 38-36-75.

Law Takes Toll of San Francisco Nine

By The Associated Press
The San Francisco Giants started the day on the wrong side of Warren Giles and finished it on the wrong side of Vern Law.

Law, Pittsburgh's hard-throwing Mormon Elder, tumbled the Giants into third place in the tight National League pennant race Monday night by taming them 6-2 with a six-hitter.

The Giants barely had begun to miss Juan Marichal, slapped with a $1,750 fine and eight-game suspension by NL President Giles for his bat-swinging tantrum in San Francisco the day before, when Law collared them for the fourth time in four tries this year.

The Pirate veteran, whose only fine in 16 major league seasons was a $25 rap for missing a team bus — he persuaded his manager to donate the sum to a church fund-raising drive — is giving Marichal a run for his money in the league ERA derby. Law's 1.98 earned run average is second only to Marichal's 1.78 mark among NL starting pitchers.

YOUNG AWARD
Law, a Cy Young Award winner for the world champion Pirates in 1960 and a sore-arm case for three years afterward, almost captured comeback of the year honors last season with 12 victories — five of them shutouts.

With a 15-9 record to date, he could match his 1960 high of 20 victories this year.

The 35-year-old right-hander from Idaho has been a particular thorn to the Giants, yielding only five runs in his four complete-game victories over Willie Mays & Co.

He ended Mays' home run streak Monday night by stopping Willie in three official trips to the plate. Mays, with six homers in his previous six starts, was closing in on Dale Long's major league record of home runs in eight consecutive games.

The Pirates handed Warren Spahn his 15th loss as Roberto Clemente and Gene Alley each rapped four hits, Clemente boosting his league-leading batting figure to .340.

San Francisco dropped 1½ games behind the first-place Los Angeles Dodgers, who whipped New York 6-4, and one game behind the Milwaukee Braves, who regained the second spot with a 7-6 victory over Cincinnati. In the other game scheduled, St. Louis trounced the Chicago Cubs 10-2.

Law settled down after giving up runs in the first and fourth innings while the Pirates chipped away at Spahn, now 5-15. Clemente drove in the two runs with a first-inning triple and fifth-inning single before the Pirates broke it open with a four-run seventh, Manny Mota singling across the lead run.

FIVE RUNS
Ron Fairly capped a five-run rally in the fifth inning with a three-run homer and singled another run home in the seventh as the Dodgers overpowered the Mets behind a shaky Don Drysdale. Drysdale gave up 11 hits and needed help from Bob Miller in the eighth en route to his 17th victory of the season and 18th in 20 career decisions with New York.

Milwaukee scored four runs in the fifth, two on Gene Oliver's 17th homer and two on a single by Felipe Alou, for a 7-1 lead over the Reds. Cincinnati rallied for five in the seventh, knocking out winner Ken Johnson, as Pete Rose hit a two-run triple and John Edwards a two-run homer.

Curt Flood drove in four runs with two singles and a double and Bill White lashed a single, double and triple good for three

RBI as the Cardinals battered ex-teammate Larry Jackson and the Cubs. Curt Simmons picked up his ninth victory against 11 losses by spacing 10 hits, including a ninth-inning homer by Chris Krug.

SEEK QB JOB — Dick Vidmer (left) and Wally Gabler are the top contenders for the starting quarterback berth for the University of Michigan team which started football practice yesterday. Gabler is a senior from Royal Oak who was No. 3 signal caller last season. Vidmer, a sophomore, has been sidelined since the spring of 1964 because of fractured leg.

State Okays Quinella Bets

Possible Replacement for Twin Double

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley has advised State Racing Commissioner Berry Beaman that the so-called "Quinella" form of betting would be legal at Michigan race tracks.

The racing commissioner, however, will have to follow the state administrative code and adopt a rule governing such a form of betting, Kelley said in his advisory letter Monday.

In the Quinella, the bettor picks two horses in a race to finish first and second. The horses may finish either first and second or second and first to constitute a winner. Beaman proposed trying out the Quinella at Michigan tracks after he banned the twin double. The last twin double was allowed at the Detroit Race Course Saturday.

Quarterback Search Starts at Michigan

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Michigan Coach Bump Elliott began his search for a quarterback and a split end — plus help at several other positions — with the opening of football practice Monday.

Despite the fact that he admits the weakness at quarterback and end, Elliott said he would not be surprised if his defending Big Ten and Rose Bowl champions passed more than one session a day with the start of classes next Monday.

Junior halfback Carl Ward missed Monday's opening practice because of an upset stomach.

SOPH PROMISING
Vidmer, a sophomore, showed much promise in 1964 spring drills and again last year until he suffered a broken leg.

Gabler, a senior from Royal Oak, ranked behind Bob Timberlake and Frosty Evashevski last year and has displayed passing ability.

"They were both close during spring drills and they have to be rated as close right now," Elliott said of the two.

"We're going to have to rely on our halfbacks and fullbacks more this year and will probably take to the air a bit more," Elliott added.

He called Steve Smith, a senior end from Illinois, one of his best pass catchers but added that he would have to make a few changes to fill his needs at end.

MOVED TO END
Jack Clancy, a halfback in 1964 but sidelined last season because of injury, will be given a try at end.

With Charlie Kines, Tom Mack and Bill Yearby returning, Elliott feels he has a good nucleus at tackle.

Bob Mielke is the most experienced guard, while team captain Tom Cecchini is expected to hold down the job as No. 1 center with Frank Nunez playing a linebacker on defense.

The Wolverines will practice twice a day through Saturday, then will be limited to one session a day with the start of classes next Monday.

Top Doubles Team Pushed in Net Play

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Marty Riessen and Clark Graebner, the leading American team in the National Doubles Tennis Championships, were in trouble for a half-hour Monday but finally won their first match at Longwood Cricket Club.

After dropping the first set to an Ivy League alliance of John Reese of Pennsylvania and Hewlett, N.Y., and Chum Steel of Harvard and Cambridge, Mass., the Riessen-Graebner duo got going and won 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

Tam Crows Champion
Blair Kanin former junior club champion at Tam O'Shanter added the men's club title last weekend by defeating Alan Rothberg, 2-up in the 36 hole final. Katmin junior champ at 17 is now 20.

Briton Has Rare Chance for Amateur Golf Sweep

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Benallack, the first golfer ever to win the British and English amateur championships in the same year, will get a chance to add the United States title to his collection at Tulsa's Southern Hills Country Club Sept. 15-18.

If he succeeds, he'll become only the fourth man to win the British and U. S. titles in one year and the first since Lawson Little did it for the second time in 1935. The others were England's Harold Hilton in 1911 and Bob Jones in 1930.

Benallack is one of eight members of the British Walker Cup team who plans to stay over for the first stroke play in the U. S. Amateur after the cup matches at Baltimore Sept. 3-4.

They and the 10 playing members of the U. S. Walker Cup team are the only entrants exempt from sectional qualifying Aug. 30-31.

Mishap Mars Boat Trials
The U. S. Golf Association said Monday that 1,512 entries for the Amateur had been accepted and the 18 exemptions leave 132 places in the final field to be filled from 1,494 players in the 36-hole sectional qualifying rounds at 36 locations.

The Britons are Benallack, Joe Carr of Ireland, playing captain of the team, Clive Clark, Gordon Cosh, Rodney Foster, Sandy Saddles, Ronnie Shade and Peter Townsend.

The 10-U. S. team members U. S. champion; Deane Boman, are Bill Campbell, the defending former winner of both the U. S. and British championships; Don Downing Gray, Mark Hopkins, Allen, Dave Eichelberger, Dale Moray, Billy Joe Patton, Ed Tuttle and Dr. Ed Updegraff.

Two former U. S. champions and one former British titleholder are among the players who have to qualify. They are Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City, 1949-50 U. S. champion; Harvie Ward of San Francisco, 1955-56 U. S. champion, and Richard Davies, American winner of the British title in 1962.

Novice driver Clark Williams of Detroit, attempting to qualify Such Crust, was thrown from his craft when its right suspension dug into the water and spun the boat. A Coast Guard patrol craft picked up Williams. Doctors said he was uninjured. The twin-engined Such Crust was not damaged.

Fred Alter of Detroit piloted Blue Chip to a 105.71 mph average speed on the qualifying course.

Lowest speed of the day came from Gale's Roostertail, operated by Detroit's Jerry Schoenlath, at 102.759 mph.
