"There is darkness over the world today because Christ is crucified..."

The Life of Christ—30

Jesus' Sacrifices Are Lesson for Whole World of Today

By BISHOP FULTON J. SHEEN

(Bishop Sheen has told of the birth of Christ in a manger, His death on the cross, the Resurrection and Ascension. Bishop Sheen writes that Christ has promised His disciples that they would follow Him to heaven. Today Bishop Sheen concludes his story of The Life of Christ.)

The Ascension was necessary to equip His Apostolic Body for their universal mission. By withdrawing His bodily presence to that unseen region, which bears no special relation to any nation or people He proclaims in the Ascension the common destiny of all the adopted sons of God. Even the best of men would not feel at home in Heaven with all of its splendor unless they would find there, One Who was their brother in the Fatherhood of God. Joseph's brethren would have felt ill at ease in one of the most regal courts of the world, if their brother were not already there upon the throne.

When He ascended into Heaven, He took with Himself His human nature like our own in all things, save sin. When He took upon Himself this human nature from His Mother Mary, He made it possible for Himself to suffer. She gave Him a body on which might be visited all the effects of sin, though He Himself was sinless.

His birth and His life, therefore, made Him a victim for sacrifice and identified Him with the human race. The Ascension was necessary in order to bring Him into a state of perfect union with the Father, and in order to send the Spirit that we might be other Christs.

His continued life in Heaven, with His Glorified Humanity, is accepted by the Father on His Mercy Seat as our Intercessor. Once He offered Himself for us, the just for the unjust, whenever we identify ourselves with Him as victims, we behold in Him the expiation of our sins, and also our admission into the presence of the Father.

Officers Ask Aid of Churchgoers

Request Appeal Sunday From All Pulpits for Slaying Clues

Oakland County Sheriff Frank W. Irons today asked the Pontiac Press to publish his appeal urging every church and clergyman to request parishioners to render help in the stymied investigation of the slaying of 7-year-old Barbara Gaca.

"Our leads have dwindled to nothing. We have hit a blank wall in the investigation, but we feel that someone, somewhere besides the killer does know something that will help us," said Irons. "We think that the girl did know the slayer. Much of our investigation discloses that. We have information, which can't be revealed, that the little girl had great faith in her slayer, otherwise she never would have entered that car."

"Maybe someone going to church somewhere on Easter Sunday will be able to give us the information, the tip or lead that we need."

"You must remember—that the person committing such a crime is ill and may strike again. Who knows whose child will be next?" "You must protect your children going to school and playing in the street. It's your moral and civic duty to give any information that (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

3 Killed as Car Hits Witnesses at Crash Scene

2 Midland Women, Man Die Viewing Damage of Minor Accident

MIDLAND (P)—Two women and a man were killed shortly after midnight as a speeding car plowed into a group of witnesses standing beside US 10 examining a minor accident.

Killed were:
Mrs. Edna Bradley, 32, Midland widow.

Mrs. James Carroll, 52, of Midland.

Kenneth Skutt, 36, of Route 3, Midland.

Midland County sheriff's men said witnesses reported a car driven by Earl Adrian Blades, 41, of Route 1, Beaverton, ran into the group at a high rate of speed.

It was about 12:30 a.m. a half mile west of here.

The group was standing on the shoulder of the highway viewing minor damage from a collision involving three cars. The cars had been in rear-end collisions.

The bodies of Mrs. Bradley, Mrs. Carroll and Skutt were flung 150 feet, sheriff's men said.

All were dead on arrival at Midland Hospital.

Two of the group by the road, Ernest N. Crosby of Route 2, Farwell, and Mrs. Roy Hahn of Sanford, said they escaped by jumping into a water-filled ditch.

Mrs. Hahn and her husband had driven up to give aid in the earlier mishap. Sheriff's men said Hahn told them Blades was driving at "75 or 80 miles an hour."

Blades was held temporarily for questioning by Midland County Prosecutor James R. Rood. He was released pending further investigation.

Prior to the time that Blades drove up three eastbound cars had been involved in the end-to-end collision. All stopped and the occupants got out to look over damage. Blades also was driving east.

Mrs. Bradley and Mrs. Carroll were riding in a car driven by Mrs. Sadie Ensign of Midland, mother of Mrs. Bradley. Also in this car was Mrs. Hubert Rands of Crown Point, Ind.

The other two cars were driven by Crosby and Ralph Farver of Route 1, Hope.

Apparently Skutt was a bystander associated with none of the others.

Battling Golfers Get Late Start Today in Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga., (P)—Despite a noticeable limp, Ben Hogan, the relentless pursuer, set out today in another attempt to take the lead in the 19th Masters Golf classic.

Hogan was close on the heels of Cary Middlecoff—in both strokes and time. Middlecoff, led the Texan by four strokes at the start of today's play.

Middlecoff's starting time was noon; Hogan's 30 minutes later. Hogan showed a pronounced limp yesterday but it didn't keep him from firing a fine 69 and moving up into second place.

Pontiac Mother Gives Birth to 21st Child

A Pontiac mother gave birth to her 21st child Tuesday in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Mrs. Blas C. Ortega, 44, of 138 Irwin Ave., and her four-day-old daughter, Vickie, went home from the hospital today.

Eight of the Ortegas' other 14 living children, three girls and five boys, are at home. Five attend school in Pontiac.

The father, who brought his family here about 3½ years ago, works for the city.

John Hamilton Found in Two Feet of Water by Mother, Boys

John B. Hamilton, 21-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Cass W. Hamilton of 9135 Waltham, White Lake Township, drowned yesterday afternoon shortly after the tot was dressed for play.

Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy Charles G. Rahn said the drowning is the county's first this season.

The child, who was to be two years old June 29, was found in two feet of water on the north-east section of a peninsula on Pontiac Lake by two youths helping the mother search for the child.

While the mother called the White Lake Township Fire Dept., Harrison Hook, 15, of 2265 Hampden, and Charles Judge, 12, of 9464 Bonny Brier, attempted to revive the child.

Dr. L. G. Rawley pronounced the child dead after further attempts by firemen also failed to revive him.

The tragedy was the second in two months for the Hamiltons and their four small children.

They moved to White Lake Township two months ago after their house trailer home in Midland was destroyed by fire.

Thirty-five Boy Scout members from three troops immediately began collecting funds from neighbors to help the Hamiltons. Over $100 had been collected by this morning.

Sun to Be Pleasant on Easter Toggery

It looks like a dry and generally pleasant Easter weekend for most of the nation.

Pontiac will enter the Easter parade under clear skies and pleasant temperatures.

After tonight's low of 39, the U.S. Weather Bureau says the mercury will rise to 68 tomorrow, with fresh to strong winds. Tomorrow night will continue fair with little change in temperatures.

Temperatures in downtown Pontiac yesterday ranged from a low of 32 to high of 64 by mid-afternoon. This morning at 8 o'clock the thermometer registered 50 degrees, rising to 71 by 2 p.m.

Hundreds of Easter lilies, accented by bright yellow daffodils and pussy willows bloomed in the channel gardens of Rockefeller Center today.

Rockefeller Center planted more than 1,100 white lily plants, each bearing six to eight blossoms, in the gardens. The floral display is the first of the annual 10 seasonal displays which will conclude with chrysanthemums in late October.

Predawn Services of Praise to Open Nation's Observance of Easter Sunday

By GEORGE CORNELL

AP Religion Reporter
The story of Christ's resurrection will ring out across the land this Sunday—in music and in words, in pageants, parades and stirring panoramas.

From the high vistas of the Rockies to the quiet woods of New England, hundreds of thousands of Americans will gather under the open sky to celebrate the wonder of Easter.

There will be colorful, moving services in parks and stadiums, on mountaintops and canyon rims and waterfront piers, besides splashing waterfalls, in churches, theaters, cemeteries and city squares.

Many of the spectacles will begin before dawn, and the drama of Christ's passage through the night of death into the splendor of a new life will be retold as the sun rises on the land.

More than 75,000 people are expected for predawn services in a huge natural amphitheater in Oklahoma's Wichita Mountains. A cast of more than 1,000 will take part in the pageant, called "The Pathways to Immortality."

An ocean of calla lilies and people—about 75,000 lilies and 20,000 people—are expected to fill Hollywood Bowl for the 35th annual sunrise services there.

Another throng of approximately 35,000 will jam Salem Square in Winston-Salem, N.C., where Moravian Bishop J. Kenneth Pfohl, for the 25th consecutive year will intone at sunup: "The Lord is risen." Then a procession will move to the Moravian graveyard God's Acre.

At the Grand Canyon in Arizona, former Gov. Howard Pyle, now administrative assistant to President Eisenhower, will narrate the Easter story, against a breathtaking background of earth and music.

Principal services in Washington, D.C., will be in Arlington Cemetery, at the Army's Walter Reed Hospital, the Carter Barron Amphitheater and the Navy Medical Center at nearby Bethesda, Md.

Worshippers Fill Churches for Good Friday Services

Christians crowded the churches to overflowing in Pontiac yesterday at the Good Friday services from 12 noon to 3 p.m. commemorating Christ's death on the cross more than 1900 years ago.

Hundreds gathered downtown in Central Methodist Church, where several ministers presented meditations on "The Seven Last Words from the Cross." Prayers were offered and familiar hymns sung.

Parishioners flocked to All Saints Episcopal Church on Williams St. for the annual Tre Ore Service.

Bethany Baptist opened wide its doors to hundreds unable to go to the downtown service. The Salvation Army Citadel welcomed worshippers for prayer and meditation. Favorite hymns were sung by those attending.

Pontiac citizens filled the First Baptist and Marimont Baptist Churches last night, serving those who found it impossible to attend an afternoon service.

Catholics have thronged St. Vincent De Paul, St. Benedict's, St. Michael's and St. Joseph's churches for the Mass of the Pre-Sanctified, Veneration of the Cross, Way of the Cross, Stations of the Cross and the Tre Ore Services.

Mass has been read both morning and midnight and morning preaching.

Margins Sliced in Three Races for State Posts

But Apparent Winners Keep Leads Pending Official Canvass

DETROIT (P)—Errors uncovered in the unofficial Wayne County vote tabulation have narrowed the slim margins by which Republicans won two offices in Michigan's spring elections Monday.

The errors were discovered yesterday by Mrs. Marguerite Montgomery, chairman of the Wayne County Canvassing Board, after completing the recheck of Detroit's 22 wards.

"Other obvious errors that have shown up may have to go uncorrected unless there is a recount," Mrs. Montgomery said.

On the basis of the unofficial tabulation, Republicans appeared to have won three races and Democrats five. However, the count was so close in the contests won by two Republicans and one Democrat that the apparent winners may lose in the official tally.

In the recheck of Detroit wards, Democrat Dr. Lynn N. Bartlett, trailing incumbent Republican Clair L. Taylor by 2,184 votes in the race for superintendent of public instruction, picked up a total of 208 votes.

John M. Veale, trailing his Republican opponent Stephen Nisbet by 978 votes in the state board of education contest, picked up a net of 200.

In another close race the failure to count "straight" ballots had cost Democrat Connor D. Smith at least 33 votes in his bid for a seat on the State Board of Agriculture.

Smith finished with an unofficial lead of 2,661 over Dale Stafford, Greensville Newspaper publisher. Margins of Democratic victories in the University of Michigan Board of Regents race were increased proportionately. Mrs. Montgomery said, Mrs. Montgomery said the official canvassers can change the totals where an error, such as a failure to add the straight votes, is found. Some other types of errors cannot be fixed unless there is a recount, she said.

Meanwhile, in Lansing, Secretary of State James M. Hare disclosed "there are substantial differences between unofficial and official returns" in some counties. Hare said he would ask the State Board of Canvassers to investigate.

City Valuation Up $21 Million

Totals for Tax Spread Reported by Assessor as $216,590,480

Property valuations in Pontiac, for tax assessment in 1955, total $216,590,480, according to Pontiac City Assessor W. R. Ransom. This is an increase of $21,001,930 over the total a year ago.

Report of the final figures was released today by Ransom, following completion of work after the annual city board of review sessions.

The increased valuation will enable the city to increase its revenue over last year without increase in the actual tax rate, as each mill spread on the tax roll will bring in additional cash from the larger tax base.

The assessor's valuations for this year totaled $217,492,630, but the board of review reduced the figures by about $900,000 after public hearings and study of the rolls.

The final valuation total for this year is broken down as follows: Real estate $126,290,380; personal property, $90,300,100.

Corresponding figures for 1954 were: Real estate $120,286,375; personal property, $75,302,175.

School Faculty Raps Ban on Oppenheimer

SEATTLE, Wash. (U-P)—A ban against Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer as a guest lecturer at the University of Washington has done "great damage" to the institution in the opinion of the faculty senate.

The university's senate, an advisory committee, has announced it disagreed by a vote of 56-40 with the decision to ban Oppenheimer, a noted atomic scientist.

Oppenheimer had been suggested as a guest lecturer this spring but his name was withdrawn at the request of Dr. Henry Schmitz, university president.

Schmitz said Oppenheimer's appearance would "not be in the best interest of the university."

The university has been in a bitter uproar ever since the ban was announced.

Discovers Son Hanged on Return From Church

TANEYTOWN, Md. (U-P)—A mother returned home yesterday from the three-hour Good Friday passion service at her church to find her 29-year-old son hanged.

Dr. J. T. Marshall, Carroll County medical examiner, ruled the death of Wirt Patterson Crapster a suicide and said the Princeton graduate, who was on leave from medical college, had been mentally depressed some time.

His mother, Mrs. B. Walter Crapster, found her son's body hanging from the rafters of their home when she returned from church.

Deer to Blame in Most Crashes on Thoroughway

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (U-P)—New York's billion-dollar turnpike, the safest in the world, would be twice as safe if it weren't for the deer.

Those sleek, brown-eyed animals cause more than half the accidents on the highway. In the turnpike's first six months, at least 132 cars smashed into them.

Densons of persons have been hurt and at least one man was killed by these collisions. One motorist told a typical story:

"I slammed on the brakes but I hit the deer head-on. The animal bounded about 25 feet ahead of me. My car was thrown over in the left lane, sideways."

"I drove off the highway, but before I pulled the deer away another car had hit it. It swerved, careened, and then straightened up."

What gives insurance companies gray hairs about all this is a decision of the state's Court of Claims, saying that a motorist is liable for damages if he hits a deer.

New York state doesn't quite know what to do. The cost of fences along the 427-mile turnpike way, it says, would be astronomical.

Science Creates $40 Housing Development---for Ants

WASHINGTON (U-P)—Science has done what the home builders have never done, and never will. It has come up with a $40 housing development.

The project is in operation at George Washington University and is populated by a large family for formicidae, order of hymenoptera. That's the professor's name for the common ant.

The professor is Dr. Willard Caldwell, an associate in psychology at the school. He is deep in a study to try and find out how smart an ant is.

The houses where the ants live in the community add up to a maze. One group lives in a dark house, the other with sunlight pouring in through plastic "windows." In between the two families is a black line, under which is an ultra violet light.

Idea is to see whether an ant living in darkness can find the light quicker than the one living with a light in its eye.

"We haven't gone too far, yet," Dr. Caldwell said, "and we don't know what we will discover. But it could add to our knowledge of the behavior of lower forms of life."

Mumps Cases Show Sharp Decline Here

Mumps, which had flared to a seasonal high in Oakland County, dropped back sharply during the past week, according to Dr. John D. Monroe, health director for both Pontiac and the county.

In the weekly communicable disease reports issued by the two departments, new cases of mumps totaled only half as many as during the week ended March 25.

Complete breakdowns for the city and county, for the week ending April 2, are published below with comparative figures for the previous week and the same week a year ago.

Big $200,000 Globe Nearing Completion

WELLESLEY, Mass. (U-P)—A $200,000 rotating world globe of steel, 30 feet in diameter, is nearing completion at Babson Institute of Business Administration.

The 40-ton sphere, faced with some 500 plates, was constructed outdoors but a small theater building eventually will be built around it for geography lectures. A permanent staging on one side of the sphere will give technicians access to any of it for boundary changes to keep it up to date.

The institute already has a contoured relief map of the United States measuring approximately 90 feet from coast to coast.

New Canada Post Office Named by the Numbers

The name: "Wonowon." The item was reported today in the Postal Service News, official Post Office Department publication.

life. Ants will gather around a stepped-on cream puff. But are they sensitive to light? And are some ants smarter than others?"

Another question the experiment may answer is whether ants really need light to get around. After all, most self-respecting ants live down under.

Dr. Caldwell has tried similar experiments with the lowly earthworm and found that although some of them are awful dumb, some are pretty sharp. "Take Elmer, there," said the professor, pointing to a well-fed worm asleep under a few blades of grass in the worm housing development.

It all sounds pretty baffling to a layman who looks upon ants and worms as something that shouldn't have happened in the first place—except for the worms to fertilize the good earth and serve as a come-on for the much smarter fish.

But the professor is deadly serious.

"If we can figure out the reasoning powers of these lower critters," he said, "we will have a start and can work up from there. You can't tell. We might learn that ants and worms have personalities, like people."

What would prove remains to be seen. But it might be of great interest to another ant or another worm.

GE Scientists Discover How to Make Garnets

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (U-P)—General Electric Co. scientists now can make garnets as well as diamonds.

The company states that a member of its diamond-making team, Dr. Robert H. Wentorf Jr., has made the semi-precious stone from mountain rock. The company announced recently that its scientists had produced diamonds in the laboratory.

Wentorf used natural hornblende, from Gore Mountain in the Adirondacks, and placed it under high pressure at elevated temperature.

Other scientists had synthesized garnets from laboratory materials. While garnet is familiar as the deep red birthstone of January, the hornblende is dark green.

Wentorf said he formed garnet from the hornblende by loss of water at a pressure of more than 375,000 pounds per square inch and at a temperature of about 2,200 degrees Fahrenheit.

The garnet findings were expected to prove valuable in other scientific studies.

TODAY'S ASSIGNMENT FOR JUNIOR EDITORS

Jesus Is Arisen

Three days after the crucifixion Mary Magdalene and other women went to the tomb early in the morning. They found the stone had been rolled away from the door of the tomb. An angel told the women not to be afraid but to go tell the disciples Jesus had risen from the dead. Joyfully the women ran to tell the disciples. Jesus later talked with his disciples. He told them to teach all nations what he had taught them. "And lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

This is the 12th and last of the Easter stories. Each story's picture is drawn like a stained glass window. You can look at your church's windows for ideas on how to best color this series.

Old Locomotives Falter En Route to Scrap Heap

DUPO, Ill. (U-P)—The final trip of the last 11 steam locomotives in service on the Missouri Pacific Railroad ended last night in a humiliating manner. They were unable to make it under their own power.

The funeral journey started at Bush, Ill., 112 miles to the south, with two of the old locomotives pulling the other nine.

Their speed was cut to three to five miles an hour when one of the double-header locomotives exhausted its water supply. The coal supply too was almost gone.

A call was sent out for help, and a sleek diesel locomotive came to the rescue. It pulled the 11 weary steamers the final few miles to a junkyard where they will be cut up for scrap.

Release of Copper Opposed by ODM

WASHINGTON (U-P)—The Office of Defense Mobilization states it is "strongly opposed" to release of copper from the U.S. government's stockpile of strategic metals. Copper industry representatives are reported to be urging such a release, claiming an acute shortage of copper for industrial consumers.

The ODM said that last week it diverted 17,500 tons of copper to domestic industry, from purchases it had made for delivery in April, May and June, just as it diverted a similar amount late last year.

But as for release of copper from the stockpile itself, the ODM said the law provides that only under emergency conditions can the President draw on the stockpile, and then for defense purposes strictly.

Air Bases in Africa to Be Finished in May

WASHINGTON (INS)—The Army Engineers have announced that America's 372 million dollar system of four huge air bases in North Africa will be completed five months ahead of schedule in May.

The last of the bases, at Boulhaut 35 miles east of Casablanca, French Morocco, is to be completed in about a month at a total cost of 23 million dollars, which is five million dollars less than the original estimate.

Sale Could Solve Carver School Problem

ROYAL OAK TOWNSHIP — Some 262 tenants of Oakdale Gardens Housing Project located in the tension-charged Carver School District have paid deposits on shares in a cooperative ownership association to purchase the project, Eugene R. Henderson, manager of the 580-dwelling units, said today.

Membership in the cooperative is now open to non-residents of the project, Henderson said, and 30 already have signed up. A minimum of 103 additional purchasers is needed before the group can purchase the project from the U. S. Housing Administration. "Members of the Crystal Beach Housing Project in Pontiac may very well be interested in moving to Oakdale Gardens," Henderson pointed out. "The government is going to dispose of the 30 temporary units there, and those people will soon be without homes."

Sale of the Oakdale Gardens project to tenants offers a possible solution to the problems that have beset the Carver School District, which has been the center of strikes, violence and recall action against school board members. Currently only about 64 property owners in the all-Negro district are eligible to run for school board positions or vote on bond issues. The addition of a possible 1,180 property owners, in the event the cooperative association buys the housing units, could solve the Carver School difficulties by bringing adequate representation to the district, authorities believe.

Map Strategy to Hunt Bandits

Police, FBI in Search of Trio Who Robbed Bank of $305,000

NEW YORK (AP)—Police and the FBI say they have mapped a master plan in their hunt for the bandit trio who robbed a Queens bank of $305,000.

A two-hour conference yesterday was attended by Police Commissioner Francis W. H. Adams and James Kelly, special agent in charge of the FBI in New York, along with their top aides.

The combined strategy will eliminate duplication of effort in tracking down the three men who carried out the smooth executed looting of the Chase Manhattan Bank branch in Woodside, Queens, Wednesday.

In addition to Redmond (Ninny) Cribbins, partially but not positively identified as one of the robbers, authorities listed as "suspects" two other ex-convicts, Archie Stewart and Joseph Kress, who served prison terms for a Brooklyn robbery in 1934.

Officials also disclosed that threatening telephone calls were received by the bank's manager and by the teller who was kidnapped outside his home by the robbers in order to gain entrance to the bank before it opened for business.

The phone threats, however, were put down as crank calls.

Rita Hayworth Sues to End Film Contract

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Rita Hayworth wants Federal Court to terminate her contract with Columbia Pictures Corp.

She stated in a complaint filed yesterday that the studio failed to start "principal photography" for a forthcoming film, "Joseph and His Brethren," by the expected starting date. She walked out on the picture before it got started for this same reason.

The red-haired actress, previously suspended by the studio, signed a contract with Columbia Dec. 28 to make two films. She asks for full payment of the $150,000 agreed on as her salary for making the Biblical drama.

THE LITTLE BLUE DUCK

An Easter Story

BY WALT SCOTT

Jail Texas Couple for Seven Years in Forgery Spree

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—A nomadic life was over and prison beckoned today for a talkative, friendly Dallas, Tex., couple sentenced to seven years for check forgeries.

Alvin Witherspoon, 31, and his pretty wife, Billie, 29, said they were glad it was all over. Witherspoon said he had cashed checks—all bogus—in "Almost any place you can name" since they started their carterail odyssey eight years ago.

They still face many more charges. The sheriff's department said it had 21 "holds" on them—nine from Texas and 12 from Alabama, Louisiana, Nebraska, and California. Local police have six more.

Witherspoon, redheaded and freckle-faced, said their forgeries probably amounted to "many thousands of dollars." Both were concerned about their four children who will stay with grandparents while the Witherspools are in prison.

Japan Wants Russia to Rush Peace Talks

TOKYO (AP)—Japan released today the text of a sternly worded note to Russia urging that peace talks "be started promptly" in New York City.

The note, which was turned over to Russia's U.N. representative Friday in New York for transmission to Moscow, had the effect of rejecting Russian suggestions to hold the talks either in Tokyo or Moscow.

Denies Bid to Block Rehiring of Teachers

IRVING, Tex. (AP)—Judge Charles Long has refused a plea from 14 Irving citizens for a restraining order against the town's interim school board.

The board was appointed by the county after voters March 27 abolished the Irving Independent School District and its board of trustees. Petitioners for the injunction said the board was rehiring teachers fired by the old school board which had ousted Supt. John L. Beard.

Beard's Feb. 16 ouster precipitated a walkout of about 200 school employees, most of them teachers who protested the manner of Beard's dismissal. A new election has been set for April 16 to re-create a school district and name a new board.

Honor of Georgia Upheld by Offer to Buy New Bike

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Four-year-old Johnnie Warden, who settled for two dollars when an unidentified Georgia motorist knocked him off his tricycle, is getting a new bike.

And the honor of Georgia is upheld. Robert M. Gamble, an Atlanta public relations counsel, wired the Associated Press last night that the story of the hit and run driver who smashed Johnnie's tricycle, paid the boy two dollars "damages" and fled, was "revolting to all Georgians."

"To reestablish our state's honor and restore Johnnie's faith in humanity," he said, "please have Officer Irwin (J. W. Irwin, who investigated) purchase suitable tricycle replacement and mail invoice to me."

Irwin said he'd do it. Johnnie was slightly injured when struck by the car which witnesses told Irwin had Georgia tags. The officer said the driver offered the boy a dollar.

"A dollar isn't enough," said Johnnie, who settled for two. Police are seeking the driver on a hit and run charge.

Police Official's Office Burglarized 2nd Time

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—The office of Police Inspector E. P. Bogasch, burglarized March 25, has been ransacked again.

Investigating officers said yesterday the inspector was perturbed no little over the recurring entries but all that they could find missing on the second job was a sheet of 3-cent stamps. The burglar broke glass out of two doors to gain entry.

An automatic pistol and $100 in cash was taken in the first theft.

The New Terry Moore Takes Acting Seriously

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Terry Moore was in her bedroom getting dressed and I was in her sitting room sitting. "Sweetheart!" crooned Terry from behind the curtains—a certain urgency in her voice.

Naturally I thought she was in distress and was eager to assist if only to zip up her bikini bathing suit. I also thought she meant me when she said "Sweetheart." As I rose to rush chivalrously to her aid, her nice mother—who was also in the sitting room sitting—called back:

"Yes, dear."

"Where are my earrings?" caroled Terry.

"They're right here," sighed her mother, as mothers will.

The "new Terry" soon bounded out in a completely backless black tuxedo outfit that hugged each little—and big—curve. I've known and like Terry a few years and she's never looked sizzling. Yet nothing about her was uncovered except her back.

"We're moving to New York so I can study acting here," announced Terry, popping onto the sofa beside me.

"I want to make people realize that the publicity about me being a sexy playgirl wasn't true." The left shoulder of Terry's union suit—as she called the tuxedo pants—fell down, and Terry put it back in place.

"Why, I could be out in Hollywood now sitting beside a swimming pool, sipping my root beer—I'm a Mormon—but I want to prove I'm an actress."

Terry's mother, who's so devoted that she took up cameraing so she could take the proper pictures of her daughter, spoke up. "Dear," she asked, "couldn't you turn the music off during the interview?" A recorder was playing Terry's favorites.

"No, but I'll turn it down a little."

"In Hollywood," explained her mother, "she constantly has music in every room. I've written to her father that he may've escaped her music but I haven't."

Terry confessed how busy she is. She'd just done the big Theater Guild TV show, is reading movie and stage scripts, and will soon be seen in "Daddy Long Legs" with Fred Astaire and Leslie Caron.

"There's a nasty rumor that I was dropped by 20th Century Fox," Terry said above the strains of David Wayne doing the new "Archie and Mehitabel" record. "I was NOT!"

"My contract was picked up. But I went off salary to come here."

"I made as much money at Fox last year as Marilyn Monroe. My salary's in four figures. I picked up $45,000 in 3 weeks at Las Vegas."

I suggested to Terry that the Korea incident hurt her, though in my opinion she did nothing wrong.

"Oh, how they gave it to me. But only in Hollywood," Terry shot over to the record-player and put in a new record. She came back and sat down on one of the shapeliest derrieres in America.

"All because somebody who didn't know what a bikini was said it wasn't a bikini!"

"Anyway, they say I'm No. 1 with the Air Force," Terry admitted.

"Bob Hope asked that I go to Greenland with him at Christmas. The Air Force said 'No, sir, we want Terry to have her own show.'"

"And with my mother and father along, we went to Iceland, Scotland, the Azores and Bermuda. But you still hear about a bikini which wasn't a bikini."

Terrible Terry's strategy now is to study at the Actors Studio and to keep out of romances—publicly, anyway. She insisted on a non-glamorous part in the TV show.

"The uglier, dirtier you look, the better actress people think you are. The idea is to get as messed up as you can."

So farewell, everybody, to Terry the Playgirl.

"Naturally," she added softly, "I have men I'm interested in, but nobody knows who and I'm not about to tell. And they're not married men, either!"

I said goodbye—since I'm a married man and she's not interested in us—and walked to the elevator. The music rose in the room. Terry had turned up the record-player, for she shall have music wherever she goes.

Free World Pastors Are Invited to Russia

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A Russian church group has invited four Baptist clergymen, three of them Americans, to visit the Soviet Union on a preaching mission this summer.

The Rev. Dr. V. Carney Hargroves, president of the American Baptist Convention, said last night that he had received such a bid from the Russian All Union Council of Evangelical Christian Baptists.

Similar invitations, Dr. Hargroves said, went to Dr. Arnold Ohm, of Norway, secretary of the Baptist World Alliance; Dr. Joseph Jackson, Chicago, president of the National Baptist Convention, Inc.; and Dr. Theodore Adams, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Richmond, Va., an official of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Dr. Hargroves, pastor of the Second Baptist Church in suburban Germantown here, said a final decision on the invitation will not be made for about two weeks.

Detroit Buying Speed Timers

Police Are Purchasing Six Electronic Devices to Curb Drivers

DETROIT (INS)—Detroit Police Commissioner Edward S. Piggins states that the department is going to purchase six electronic timing devices to control speeding by motorists.

Piggins said orders have been placed for four so-called speed meters and two radar units. The radar sets are placed in the trunks of police scout cars.

The commissioner said 30-day trials of the devices had proved highly successful and were "very favorably received by motorists" stopped by policemen and warned they had been speeding.

Cost of the speed meters is $400. The radar units cost $1,100 each. Piggins said the devices would be effective if used in the vicinities of schools and parks. He said:

"First, they are not in any sense a substitute for the motorcycle officer or scout patrol car. They are intended to complement the existing force which must be strengthened."

"For instance, the devices are useless in heavy traffic where only motorcycles and patrol cars are effective."

Piggins said permission must be obtained from the Federal Communications Commission before the radar units can be put into use.

He added all units should be in operation within two months.

Death Ends Career of Early Songwriter

ENCINO, Calif. (AP)—The man who wrote "I Didn't Raise My Boy to Be a Soldier"—a controversial song of World War I—died last night at his Encino home.

He was Al Piantadosi, 71, who got his first fame as a musician as "Ragtime Al" in the early 1900's in New York's Chinatown. He collaborated with Irving Berlin on some early numbers and in 1914 became a charter member of ASCAP, a songwriters' and publishers' organization.

Among his other songs were "Pal of My Cradle Days," "The Curse of an Aching Heart," "Baby Shoes," and "That's How I Need You."

Change in Tabulating Election Votes Needed

Election tabulating in Michigan reached an all time low in the recent spring election.

It is time that changes were made in the law.

The voting public has the right to know the results not later than the following morning after an election. One outstate precinct had not reported its complete tally four days after the election.

Nearby Macomb County had 10 missing precincts which were not found until Wednesday forenoon. These precincts were predominately Democratic, and as a result caused a switch in positions for the State Board of Agriculture.

In a close race such as this one a few thousand votes can mean the difference between winning and losing a post. The voters of the State of Michigan are entitled to far better service than they are getting from the paid precinct workers.

Certainly all precincts are not guilty, but corrective measures should be taken to assure a rapid and accurate count.

Thursday the State Senate delayed action on a revised Michigan election code to allow Sen. William S. Broomfield (R-Royal Oak) time to submit a measure making it mandatory for precincts to post results before closing on election day.

Sen. Broomfield said, "There was a great deal of interest in this election and I think the people have a right to know the results the following day."

The PONTIAC PRESS is 100 per cent behind this proposal.

The voters have the right to expect prompt results from any election whether it be City, County, State or national.

Easter

Once more we are at the eve of Easter, the most inspiring and uplifting of all our religious festivals.

Our deep spiritual satisfaction comes from the sublime story of the Crucifixion and Resurrection—of hope crushed to Earth arising again.

Easter comes at a most appropriate time. It is in perfect harmony with the Springtime and the awakening of all Nature from its Winter sleep. It gives mankind a joyous opportunity for reaffirmation of faith in Christ's teachings.

While the major emphasis is spiritual, there is another aspect of the Easter story which hasn't been lost on history. Those areas in which it neither is known nor celebrated are among Earth's backward lands. In countries now under the iron heel of Soviet totalitarianism the freedoms of worship, choice and expression have ceased to exist.

Let us then in our services of praise tomorrow again give reverent thanks to our Creator for the great gift of the Resurrection and the rich meaning it has for Christians everywhere.

Book Burning Evil as Old as Printing

An exhibit brought together by the University of Kansas offers dramatic evidence that the evils of book burning and censorship are virtually as old as printing.

The research done at Lawrence resulted in the collection of some 200 of the countless books which have been the targets of would be censors and book burners.

Included in the wide range of subjects are the Bible, the Koran, Homer's epics, Shakespeare's works, Moby Dick and the Sherlock Holmes mysteries.

Among other authors whose works have been banned or burned are ELIZABETH BARRETT BROWNING, GEORGE ELIOT, THOMAS HARDY, GEORGE BERNARD SHAW, BALZAC and WALT WHITMAN.

Books banned include such standard works as Andersen's Fairy Tales, the Robin Hood stories, Alice in Wonderland, Gulliver's Travels, Paine's Rights of Man and Huckleberry Finn.

The research done on this project brought forth some disturbing facts. For instance, it was discovered that almost every volume in the university's libraries had been banned some time in some place.

The University of Kansas is to be commended for reminding us of a basic fact. Book burning and censorship have no place in a nation whose constitution guarantees its people freedom of speech and press.

Chinese Granted Visas

There seems to be no strong argument against the State Department's decision to permit return to their homeland of 76 Chinese students.

These students were denied exit visas because it was feared they would be able to tell the Peiping government too much about how to make A and H bombs.

They are all that remain of some 5,000 Chinese students in this country when the Communists took over control of China in 1949. Although some of these long ago were allowed to go home, most of them elected to stay here. The 76 denied visas were the physicists and engineers among them.

The State Department emphasizes that no deal was made for the release of U. S. airmen and civilians held in the Chinese capital. But it is to be hoped that granting of visas will make it easier for U. N. Secretary General Dag HAMMARSKJOLD to win freedom for the Americans.

Big shots are only little shots who keep shooting.

The People's Business

Fights Delinquency

New Federal Agency Set to Aid Local Communities

WASHINGTON (UP)—When adults are upset, children are too. That, says Philip G. Green, explains why juvenile delinquency is increasing in these days of cold war and atomic bombs.

Green is the brand new director of the government's brand new Juvenile Delinquency Services Division, which aims to help states and local communities cope with their delinquency problems.

Although he took office only a week ago, Green already has set up 10 long-range goals to improve methods of dealing with the problem.

At his introductory news conference yesterday, Green explained his thesis that juvenile delinquency reflects the fears and troubles of society as a whole.

Right after World War II, juvenile delinquency took a nose-dive as everyone relaxed in the belief peace had arrived, he said. But it spurted sharply in 1948 when people started worrying about aggression and cold war. By 1953 it had risen 45 per cent and "appears to be still growing," he said.

His new division aims to "overcome ignorance and apathy" on the subject of juvenile delinquency. As Green put it: "We can't wait for international peace before offering services to delinquents."

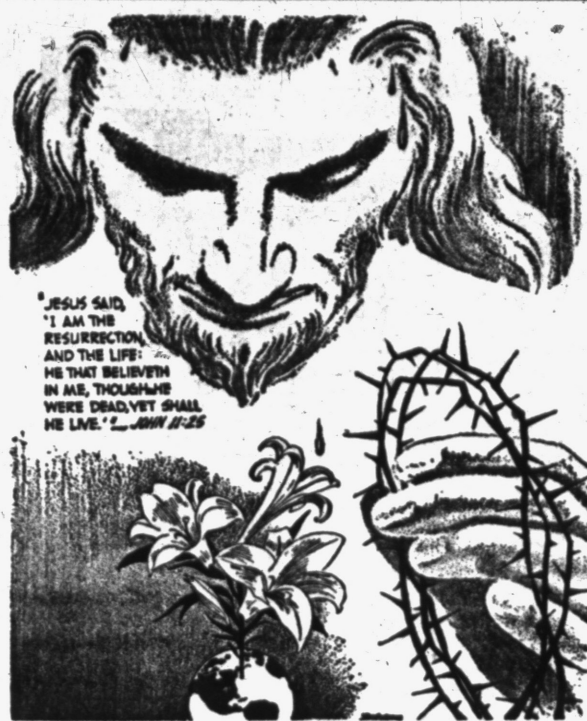

His division, part of the Federal Children's Bureau, will offer advice to states and local communities on how to improve their programs to curb delinquency. It also will send consultants to assist in the plans, when it can.

President Eisenhower has requested $3,000,000 to launch a five-year program of grants to the states to strengthen their anti-delinquency programs.

The money would be used for such things as surveying what needs to be done, training personnel to work with juveniles, and coordinating work of various agencies dealing with them.

Green's long-range goals emphasize more local services for delinquents.

They include: At least one specially trained juvenile police officer in every city over 20,000; with a regular juvenile division in larger cities; separate detention facilities for youngsters; at least one special institution for emotionally disturbed children in each state; expert physical and psychological examinations for children in serious trouble; trained social workers for all juvenile courts; and complete educational, health and recreational programs at all training schools for delinquents.

Easter Most Joyous Day Celebrated by Christians

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Easter, the commemoration of Christ's Resurrection, is the principle feast of the Christian year, greater even than Christmas. It is also the most joyous of all Christian days. Indeed, it was at one time known as the "Sunday of Joy."

Christians rejoice over the tremendous fact that Jesus rose from the dead. They are happy, too, over the ending of the long stern season of Lent. And Easter comes at what has always been the happiest time of the year—the Springtime, when after months of gloom and difficult living man sees all life being renewed before his eyes.

This is another one of those times when the Church calendar and the world of nature fit together perfectly. The earth itself has been dead all winter. Now its resurrection is an illustration of the Resurrection that Easter celebrates.

It is not strange that everyone feels the need to wear new clothes at Easter, or that there was once, in fact, a superstition that it was unlucky not to wear new Easter apparel.

Another pleasant old superstition was that even the sun was so happy on Easter morning that it danced in the sky. It was hard not to take this notion seriously, and even wise old scholars debated the question quite solemnly.

They did finally come to the conclusion that the sun did not dance, but there were many who did not accept this verdict. There may be some remote original connection between the popular Easter sunrise services and the desire to get out early to see if the sun would express its joy so playfully.

In old times it was a very lucky omen to see a lamb first thing on Easter morning. Of course, it was always lucky to see a lamb, since the only two forms the devil cannot assume are those of a lamb and a dove. But the lamb was the special Easter omen, because Easter is the feast of the Lamb of God that was slain and rose again.

Modern Americans would perhaps be surprised to know that the observance of this greatest, happiest of all festivals was neglected and unobserved until comparatively recent times in this country.

"Well, I am doubly interested, for last year I put my OK on bringing a phenologist to address our salesmen. He conducted a 6-week course and each man paid $50 tuition.

"As a result of that course, moreover, our sales output increased very definitely.

"So how could this phenologist be unscientific and yet pep up our salesmen?"

That's a fair question, but easily answered. For no field of activity requires more assurance and confidence than does salesmanship. Unless a salesman is sure of himself, then he creates a vague aura of uncertainty. That soon affects the prospect, who indirectly grows doubtful of the merchandise and thus doesn't buy.

So let a glib talking phenologist stand up before salesmen and assure them positively that he is giving them a surefire, 100 per cent effective plan to diagnose personality, and he can give the sales crew new assurance.

Thus, they will go forth with supreme confidence, even though their system of character analysis is unsound.

And the resulting confidence will actually zoom sales.

That is one of the interesting things about psychology, for some of the most effective personalities

Arthur Robertson Suggests Forming Club to Raise Money for Pontiac Foundation

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full names, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

The other night the conversation got around to the Pontiac Foundation. No one seemed to know for sure if it still was a going concern, whether any plans had been made, or if any land had been acquired for building.

No one seemed to know much about it except that it had been mentioned occasionally in the papers, and that Mayor Bill Donaldson was still the motivating factor behind the idea. He can't do it alone.

I am assuming, of course, that everyone knows that the Foundation is the means by which we will some day have a civic center, or whatever name you would like to give it.

I would like to hear some comments from interested citizens concerning ways and means to have the public contribute to this worthy project.

I think there are a lot of people in this town who would contribute a spare dollar or two now and then if they knew that something was actually being done about a new center. How about forming a club, and giving it a name so that all could contribute regularly to this excellent project?

How about some letters to the editor? Let's see if we can't stir up as much interest as was recently shown in the fluoride squabble.

Give Starlings Cold Welcome, Urges Reader

Now is the time for all bird lovers to come to the aid of our city. I mean we should begin now to concentrate an attack on a tribe of birds that becomes a nuisance in the fall—namely, the starling.

The starling came from Europe some years ago. He is probably the most energetic of all birds. In fact, he is so alert and enterprising that he is multiplying at a tremendous rate, even at the expense of some of our most beautiful birds, especially the bluebird.

Some starlings stay here all winter. Others migrate South in great flocks then return early in spring. They have all arrived now and are busy finding nesting places and some are even building nests!

Of the dozen or so black birds in Pontiac, he can be identified by his yellow flat beak.

Timid Salesmen Will Do Better Job If They Can Exude More Positiveness

Pete's shrewd question brings out an odd fact about salesmanship. Greater confidence, even though based on unsound doctrines, may actually raise a salesman's batting averages temporarily. But true salesmanship must be founded on scientific techniques for long-time success.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
 Case N-396: Pete W., aged 41, is a very successful sales manager for a famous American company.

What to do now? Destroy nests and more nests. Plug all holes in which he starts building a nest. Take down bird houses that are infested with starlings. Even get a permit to shoot him but be sure you are not shooting the purple martin.

Give the starling no rest. No place to live. Show him he is not welcome in our city and he will leave. He is smart though and the fight will not be easy. We must begin now and destroy starlings all spring and summer. I'm sure that we will be glad that we did.

Chaining Dogs Cruel, Says a 'Dog Lover'

Why chain the dogs the whole year through? It's a crime, as a big majority of the dogs that are chained now are walking skeletons for the want of food and drinking water. They lie in the boiling sun in the summer, and can't find any shade. The doghouse is so hot they can't stand it.

They should tie the people making these laws to a doghouse for one week and see how they would like it. Why should we pay for dog licenses if you have to chain the dog? Let's put it up to a vote. Let the taxpayers have their say.

Why not build fences around school yards like Detroit does? There wouldn't be any trouble then. Teach the children not to call their neighbor's dogs to follow them to school for the dog catcher to pick up.

You are a fortunate man to have lovely daughters, but you should have a son to leave behind as Dr. Brady the Second. I have a nephew, 20, college sophomore, who wishes to be a doctor. Answer — Thank you, Ma'am, but I'm not sure I'd want a son of mine to study medicine today. After all, the Yankee public regards almost any trick "doctor" as entitled to the same respect and consideration a real doctor enjoys — or did enjoy at one time.

Pentagon Leaks Displease Ike

Believe President's Ire Over Release of Secrets Led to News Ban

WASHINGTON (INS)—President Eisenhower's belief that military information of value to Russia has been released dealt another blow to the Pentagon public relations setup today in the midst of a news "blackout."

Officials said there is increasing evidence that the President's displeasure was communicated to Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson ten days or two weeks ago and played a part in his tightening of information controls.

Wilson, ill with a cold the first four days of this week, returned to his office yesterday, but said he would have no comment until his regular news conference next Tuesday.

White House Secretary James C. Hagerty's statement that Eisenhower believes government officials have released too much technical and military data was the latest incident in a two-week series of events, including these:

1. Newsmen protested that quantities of information they had never been able to get about the atomic submarine Nautilus had been included in Navy articles sold to a national magazine.

2. Eisenhower disowned a prediction that the Red Chinese would invade the Matsu islands by mid-April—a forecast allegedly made at a background news conference by Adm. Robert B. Carney, chief of Naval operations.

Explorer Scouts on Motor Trip to Niagara Falls

Seven Pontiac explorer scouts and two adult advisors left Thursday on a motor trip to New York City and Niagara Falls.

William J. DeGrace, vice chairman of the Pontiac District committee and coordinator of explorer activities, is heading the tour. Assisting him is King Stetler, advisor of Explorer Post 66.

Boys making the trip are Emil Frisch, Robert Franks and Robert Birchmeier of Post 66; Don Hardy, Bruce Gilles and Don Hegeman of Post 13, and Raymond Fischer of Saginaw.

In New York, they will view the annual Easter Parade down Fifth Avenue. They are scheduled to return on Tuesday.

Members of both local units made a similar trip last summer to Colorado, Wyoming and New Mexico.

CHURCHILL: A Man and an Era (16)

Taxpayers Give Chuckles to Revenue Men

WASHINGTON (UP)—Never let it be said that the folks at Internal Revenue aren't people.

Take the case of the woman in Kansas. It was the first day of the year 1955. She marched into the Wichita office and confronted Lynn R. Broderick.

The woman said she needed help in filling out her return. The polite Mr. Broderick told her she had until April 15 to file her tax return.

"But I am expecting a new exemption for 1955," she said. "And not only that, I have a refund coming from 1954 and need the money to help with the hospital bill."

Quickly, the agent helped the expectant mother fill out her return, and very shortly the woman got her refund for 1954.

Some agents have it a little rough. One person in the Midwest had a notion that he had been overcharged. So he went to the revenue office, spied a collector and belted him a heavy one.

Then the taxpayer marched to the courthouse and pleaded guilty. He waved a $10 bill under the judge's nose, enough, the man City and Niagara Falls.

Income Tax Staff Works Long Hours

With the April 15 deadline for filing 1954 income tax returns only five days off, the staff of the Internal Revenue Service office in Pontiac has scheduled maximum hours of operation to aid taxpayers.

Lyle D. Russell, administrative supervisor of the local office at 53½ W. Huron St., said his staff will be on duty to help residents fill out their forms from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. each day next week through Friday.

Today, the office will be open until 4:30 p.m.

Russell added that taxpayers who only had a few questions to ask about their returns should call the office at Federal 2-0208.

thought, to cover a fine for simple assault. When his honor heard the whole story he fined the man $250, and threw in a six-month jail sentence for good measure.

In Dallas, a tycoon was reminded in polite language that one of his hired hands was in arrears in her quarterly tax payments. Time wasted for awhile, then the Internal Revenue people got a note from the big shot.

"I married the lady," he said, "and gained an additional exemption, just in time."

In Washington, the big office on

St. Patrick's Day got three envelopes from the same person, each containing a $100 bill. The letters were signed "A Repentant Sinner Named Mike."

All of which prompted the district director of the Internal Revenue Service to remark that "repentance is a wonderful thing for delinquent taxpayers."

The department sort of winked at an unsigned letter which came from one of our best federal penitentiaries. The writer said that he and his buddy had committed a bunch of robberies that had netted several hundred dollars.

"You understand," the prisoner said, "I intend to make an honest tax return. But may I deduct for expenses such as firearms, ammunition, and the hire of a getaway car? It seems I have enough trouble without arousing the ire of your office."

Line 14 on page one of form 1040 asks the taxpayer if he paid for help in preparing his return, and if so, how much. One woman in Baltimore wrote "Yes—one apple pie."

A woman in Louisiana put down a deduction item for the repair of a tombstone.

Agent Taylor Crow of Denver likes to tell about the woman in his area who sent in a couple of wilted $5 bills. She apologized in a letter:

"I live in a neighborhood where you have to watch your belongings," she said. "I keep my money in my bra—and accidentally sent bra, bills and all to the laundry." The Denver office accepted the legal tender.

So much glue is used in making sandpaper that it is considered a byproduct of the meat packing industry.

"Who Goes Home?"

By DON D. TULLIS

Maurice Edelman, writing in Holiday magazine, tells some interesting facts about the British Parliament. Centuries ago there were no lights on the London streets and dangers lurked on every side for the lone traveler after nightfall.

When Parliament ended the day's session a watchman's voice sounded through the corridors of the Palace saying "Who goes home?" That was the signal for a company of linkmen to assemble ready to escort the members to their several abodes. Their torches were lighted to show the dangerous pitfalls and their numbers were sufficient to insure the members against being molested by questionable characters.

Today this scene is changed, so far as London the city is concerned, but there is no change in the old customs in Parliament. Things remain much as they were in the beginning. At each day's close this same cry still resounds within the Palace walls, "Who goes home?"

It has little meaning now, for the members look after themselves, but the call overleaps the ancient walls and becomes a universal challenge to all people as they approach life's end. With the change of customs down the years, the facts remain unchanged—we are all born as was the first child and we die as all have died since Adam.

Even Jesus bowed to this universal law. "It is well for us that He did. In His triumphal entry his followers thought He was headed for a throne, but He knew that at Paradise's End He would pass into the shadow of a Cross. His experience reminds us that there is but one way Home, and the pathway forever skirts a hill named Calvary.

We may live victorious lives but one day we too will come to Paradise' End. Our triumphs will end like His. We are wise if we can enter the gathering gloom at day's end with heads unbowed and with eyes of faith that can pierce the clouds that cover our cross and see beyond it the morning glow in "Joseph's Lovely Garden." This is the real, the lasting triumph.

When the challenge comes "Who goes home?" let us rejoice in the fact that we need not travel the difficult trail alone. At the door through which all must pass to the land of "Somewhere Else" stands the divine Linkman, whose torch will light our footsteps and whose strength will undergird our weakness. ALL THE WAY.

But Do You Really UNDERSTAND the Bible?

Many people maintain that the Bible is so simple and clear that anyone can understand it.

Yet today the Christian world is divided into conflicting opinions as to what the Bible means. Sincere and equally learned Bible scholars take different meanings from the same words, and there are many Christian sects which disagree on basic Bible questions.

The average Christian who wants to understand the Bible, finds all this confusing... wondering which interpretation to accept, whom to believe. The result is that the Bible often gathers dust on the family bookshelf, when it should be bringing joy to the hearts of men.

Catholics, of course, join with Christians everywhere in recognizing the complete Bible as the inspired Word of God. It could not be otherwise, for it was the Catholic Church which assembled the books of the Bible nearly 1600 years ago, and which preserved its precious message on parchment for a thousand years before the invention of the printing press.

It is unfortunate, however, that some of the most devoted Bible readers do not understand it. As a matter of fact, Holy Scripture is seldom correctly understood unless we have certain preliminary knowledge concerning God's revealed truth.

In writing the New Testament, its authors took into account that a knowledge of God's revelation already prevailed. The books they wrote were intended to instruct and confirm teachings already known—not to announce something entirely unknown. When you have this preliminary knowledge, the Bible is neither contradictory nor confusing.

The Bible, properly understood, can exert a tremendous power for good in your personal and family life. But to understand it, you should know something about those who wrote the Bible... the way they thought, spoke and the characteristics of the language they used. By whom was the Bible translated... how can we know these translations are correct? What are the common sense rules to be followed in understanding the Bible? These and other important questions concerning the intelligent use of the Bible are answered in a pamphlet which we will send you free on request. Write TODAY for your free copy. Confident Living

Winning Out Over Death Greatest of All Victories

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

One of the greatest physicians was Sir William Osler. Osler once wrote he had watched many people die, but, at the last, he had never seen an expression of fear on a human's face but only a sudden look of wonder, incredulous wonder.

As a minister, I, too, have watched many pass on to the life beyond. I remember calling on one hospital patient and asking how she was. She looked up at me with a beautiful smile and said: "Physically, I am going to die. But, spiritually and mentally, I'm all right. I have no fear of life I have no fear of death."

DR. PEALE

This was a woman who had won the greatest of all victories. As the Bible says, "Death is swallowed up in victory." And this is the message of this Easter and every Easter.

It was best expressed perhaps on the first Easter, when two women, going to anoint the body of One they had seen placed in a tomb, were asked, "Why seek ye the living among the dead?" And then they were told, "He is not here, but is risen." Easter comes to remind us of the sublime fact that there is no death and that we, too, are immortal. This truth dominates the landscape of human life and history because the promise of Jesus that we can live forever has outlasted any other promise ever made.

Almost two thousand years ago, this itinerant preacher and healer, this carpenter from Galilee, looked around at the world of His day. He faced the mighty power of Rome spreading out from her seven hills to her outposts in all the corners of the known world. He spoke quietly and said: "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away."

Well, the Caesars have passed and the Holy Roman emperors after them and the kings after them and the dukes and dictators after them and today the words of Jesus Christ constitute the greatest controlling force in human affairs.

What is the vitality and power in this message that has caused it to go on working so mightily in the hearts of men while so many other ideas have been forgotten? What is the power in these words of Jesus that has changed so many lives and conquered death?

The answer is a simple one. It is that we can live forever; that we need have no fear of life and no fear of death.

What can this message do in you personally if you receive it? You become a resurrected person. You are transformed, converted to a new way of life. Your spirit becomes filled with the indomitability of faith. You get this new life so deeply implanted within you that, when crises come to you, as they sometimes do, you can meet them and not be afraid for you have the secret of victorious power.

I saw this demonstrated recently in an unforgettable manner. I was at a luncheon where we were being entertained by a college glee club. During the program, a man came to me and said: "Something terrible has happened. The wife of the college president is here in the audience. We have just been notified that her husband has died of a heart attack. Neither she nor the choir members have been told. We would like you to break the news to her."

I sat through the rest of the concert praying for the poor woman and dreading having to tell her that her world had crashed about her. Finally, we were able to take her into another room and, just before I began to speak to her, the director of the choir, an old friend, decided that this was his duty. He put his arm about her and whispered in her ear.

I watched her face and could see the kaleidoscopic series of impressions passing over it as her mind grappled with the sudden shock. There was incredulity, then amazement, then disbelief, then pain and then a wild searching for something. And, finally, I could watch it coming up inside her—the indomitability of the resurrected spirit. I saw all the glory of it. She was oblivious of all of us as she struggled with shock and grief. But then spiritual power came and with it control. A strange beauty rested on her face and calmness came.

I was able to tell her later how wonderful I thought she was. Like my other friend, she had no fear of life, no fear of death. No fear could shake her. She simply explained, "My husband and I are Christians. We live in the power of the resurrection."

Now, I will grant you that life is hard and he is unrealistic who says it isn't. It can be very difficult. But it is never too difficult for those who carry this great message of eternal life in their hearts. They have the secret of real victory.

You may struggle with difficulties, pain, heartache, sickness, even death. But if you are not afraid of it, nothing can overwhelm you, nothing can destroy you. In the long run, if you keep the faith you can have victory.

Of course, the greatest of all victories is the victory over death. Death has been presented to us as a horrible thing. We have been made afraid of death. This is a beautiful and wonderful world. Personally I want to stay here as long as possible and I shall be sorry to leave it. But I cannot believe that anything less beautiful or less good awaits us on the other side. The very orderliness of the Universe belies it.

The seasons follow one another in absolute regularity; the stars come nightly to light the sky; and even phenomena such as Halley's Comet flash across our dark horizons to return at an appointed time years later. So, too, eternity must follow a plan as glorious as that we find in mortal life; perhaps even more so.

The essence of faith is that what we call death is not death at all. The life of the soul is eternal life. The body, the temporary home of the soul, dies, but not the soul, the permanent self. The end of mortal life is but the translation of the soul into immortality. And, when it comes, it will be just another expression of God's unbounded love and kindness.

When one of the greatest geniuses of our time, Thomas Alva Edison, was dying, his doctor said that Edison was trying to say something. He leaned over and plainly heard these last words, "It is very beautiful over there." Now this was a man of science, who, in searching for his incandescent bulb, performed hundreds of exact experiments. He only reported what he saw. He never guessed.

Could the habits of a scientist's lifetime be replaced at the last by poetry and hallucination, even at death? He saw something and he sent back word that it exists. He said that it's beautiful on the other side. So we know that the promise of eternal life is true.

The message that Easter brings to you and to me is that we can live forever and that our loved ones who have gone on before still live and wait for us. On some bright morning, when we cross over, they will be awaiting us with the same old smile on their faces. And we shall be reunited, never to be separated again. Meanwhile, in our deeper moments, we will have the tender knowledge that they are nearby. He has given 'His angels charge' over us to keep us in all our ways.

Commit these great words from the Bible to memory and cherish them in your heart, for they are glorious words and true: "I am the Resurrection and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live and whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die."

Joyce Pixley Weds Richard Yerex

Joyce Marie Pixley wore a fingertip veil fashioned of Venetian lace this afternoon for her marriage to 1st Lt. Richard R. Yerex. The veil was brought from Venice by Joyce's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vern A. Pixley of Rochester, during a recent tour of Europe.

Richard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy S. Yerex of Detroit. The Rev. Donald Olsen performed the two o'clock ceremony in First Baptist Church of Rochester.

Two hundred and fifty guests were present as the bride approached the altar wearing a floor length gown of lustrous silk tulle in crystal white.

Borrowing the graceful lines of an 18th century French court dress, the basque was designed with deeply cut décolletage edged with exquisite heirloom Venetian lace in bertha effect.

The fitted sleeves tapered traditionally to her wrists and the full skirt of Watteau pleats ended in a wide train with a scalloped hemline.

Tiny pearls accented the princess cap formed of Venetian lace, which held her finger tip veil, and she carried an arrangement of white roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Wayne Dennis of Rochester attended the bride as matron of honor, and other attendants were Mrs. Milton Manley of Birmingham and Mrs. Robert Heenan of Flint.

They wore gowns of white crystal silk in ballerina length, detailed with scalloped portrait necklines, fitted bodices and short sleeves.

Matching DuBarry bonnets with crimson satin bows at the back and blending bouquets of happiness roses completed their ensembles.

Don Pixley, brother of the bride, from Rochester served as best man and seating the guests were Howard Jeahnig, Peter MacFarlane and Dean Luedders of Detroit and Laurence Shepard of Rochester.

Mrs. Pixley greeted the guests at a reception held at Detroit Boat Club wearing a ballerina length gown of wedgewood blue silk. Her hat was of pink straw and she pinned a corsage of pink carnations to her purse. Mrs. Yerex chose a ballerina length gown of French blue silk, and she also pinned an arrangement of pink carnations to her purse.

The new Mrs. Yerex was wearing an ensemble of Dior blue shantung with navy accessories.

Using Old Carton?

If you've been using an old carton to carry kitty in, abandon it. There's now a car carrier that's domed with a strong sheet of clear plastic that lets kitty look out and keeps her calm. It's lined in plaid, finished in leather.

Pick Petticoat

No matter what the silhouette you choose this spring (long-torso or wide-skirted) pick the right petticoat for wear under it. It can mean everything to the line of your suit or dress.

Organization Important When Starting Business

By ANNE HEYWOOD

"How do you start a children's swap shop?" a reader writes. "I have heard of people who can run very successful ones, and I would like to start one in my community, which could certainly use one."

"We have two children, a boy and a girl. When they outgrow things, they're frequently in very good shape—clothes and toys and furniture and equipment."

"It seems a waste to throw them out or just give them away, when we could use extra money."

"I know lots of other couples must have the same problem, on a farm and was the youngest of six."

"It was taken for granted that things got passed down, scooters and mittens and all kinds of things. But how do you go about for articles to swap."

The first thing this woman must do is see what the zoning laws are in her neighborhood. If she cannot operate a business there, then she will have to pay rent on a shop in a business neighborhood.

If she works at home, the problem is much simpler. It involves clearing one room in her house which will be the shop, and putting up a little sign.

The next step is to advertise for articles to swap.

She should put ads in her local paper, tell all her friends, talk to the people at her children's school, make announcements the PTA and women's clubs, and the scouts and the churches.

Little by little, articles will come in and her stock will begin to grow.

It's a good idea to insist that all articles be sterilized before she accepts them. This is a necessary health precaution.

Aside from that, though it is in decent condition, although it is not necessary nor profitable for her to undertake any major repairs or reconditioning. The rules must be "as is."

There are many ways of charging for such swaps, but I think the best is ten per cent on each item. If a $12 crib is exchanged for a $12 set of trains, she makes $1.20 from each.

The person who brings in merchandise to swap must set a price, a reasonable one. After that, it's a straight ten per cent from each "swapper."

175 Attend Good Friday Breakfast

In a dramatic first person narrative, Mrs. Lawrence D. Graves told the story of Mary Magdalene at the Congregational Women's Fellowship Good Friday Breakfast. One hundred and seventy-five guests heard the tale of a woman brought up in hate; of a woman who never learned the meaning of love until she came in contact with Jesus.

Badly treated by her father, Mary was sold into slavery at an early age. Her master was kind, but the tyrannical Roman rulers of Palestine were ruthless in their dealings with her.

Possibly unknown is the fact that Mary Magdalene was at one time rich and famous as a professional dancer in Alexandria. Her wealth was forfeited when she tried to kill a Roman who had used her ill.

In her later years Mary, along with her good friends Peter, James and John, became a follower of Jesus. She foresaw with dread his betrayal and death. It was she who on Easter morn found the empty tomb.

It was only in these later years that she found an undreamed peace and happiness.

"There are still Mary Magdalenes in the world," concluded Mrs. Graves, "and I beg of you as you come in contact with them to be merciful—be gentle—they need your Christian love."

Mary Louise Lindquist sang two solos, "Panis Angelicus" by Cesar Franck and "He Was Alone" by Theodore Paxson. She was accompanied on the piano by Charles Wilson.

Mrs. M. K. Burton gave the invocation and Mrs. G. H. Hedrick the benediction. Special guests were Mrs. D. R. Olson of Birmingham, president of the Michigan Congregational Women's Association, and Mrs. C. F. McClure of Detroit, president of the Detroit Association.

Styrofoam cathedral windows surrounded with greens were the table decorations made by Mrs. Philip Vierech. The speakers' table had a bouquet of calla lilies and purple heather, backed by a styrofoam cross.

General chairman of the breakfast was Mrs. D. R. Wilson. Her committees included program—Mrs. Ross Tenny, Mrs. W. H. Vann, Mrs. Stanley Kipp and Mrs. C. H. Purdy; dining room—Faye Donelson; food—Mrs. Stanley Kipp and Mrs. S. E. Kline, and tickets—Mrs. J. A. Rammes. Mrs. O. H. Lundbeck is president of the Women's Fellowship.

Hosts for the dinner will be their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Thatcher of Parklane drive. The couple is pictured admiring one of the 90 paper weights which form their collection.

Pattern Carpet Popular

The swing of fashion in carpet and rugs this spring is definitely toward pattern.

Glad to see it back? It's nice to have a change from plain carpet, of course, but better still—pattern always was the answer to traffic with no trouble at all.

Twenty patterns have forged ahead the past few years, but the newest rugs have design that's more definite than that.

Pattern is precise for the most part, rather than free and flowing, but it is pattern that's more positive than the earlier color mixtures as the sketched samples show.

Even the new leaf, floral, and scroll motifs are smaller and more controlled than they have been and geometrics are seen.

New patterns are achieved in many ways. By pile that is high and low; by different kinds and weights of yarn used together; by loops combined with cut pile; and of course, by contrast of colors.

And there often is an artful combination of these.

Synthetics are firmly established; and they have much to offer of new luxury at a price and new soil resistance.

All synthetics are more varied than they were at first. Nylon, for example, now comes in two-tone effects for the first time (see lower right).

And cotton strikes out in all design directions—any kind of rug may be made of cotton.

Rappi Makes Chic, Young Creations

Sophisticated but Sweet, Simple Is This Design

Rappi is an exponent of the young, making young designs for young, slight figures. This model, cut in junior sizes, is an excellent illustration of her fashion philosophy, combining as it does, certain important style points with an overall air of sweet sophistication.

The low V-necked bodice with three quarter sleeves to push up above the elbow or wear with just a few casual folds below it, has strategic bosom darts that fan out to form a lovely bustline.

The cummerbund is separate but is slippitched on to maintain its curve. In back, it crisscrosses and is hooked at the darts. The full, effective skirt is made of half-inch released pleats starting with a box pleat in center front.

Rappi made her original in a silk print but suggests other fabrics such as novelty cottons, rhan-tung, silk taffeta or brocades. This pattern is cut to DESIGNER MEASUREMENTS, NOT Standard Pattern Measurements.

Size 11 requires 4 1/2 yards of 35 inch material for dress and 1/4 yard of 35 inch material for interfacing. To order Pattern No. 1215, address SPADEA SYNDICATE, INC., P. O. Box 535, G. P. O., Dept. P-4, New York 1, N. Y. State size. Send $1.00.

Airmail handling 25 cents extra. American Designer Pattern Booklet No. 11 is available for 25 cents. Make check or money order payable to SPADEA SYNDICATE, Inc. and add 4 cents for handling.

The long-torso sweater comes in cashmere now for a look of graceful, casual elegance.

Young Love Can Be Real Heartache

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

When you're 14 years old and abysmally in love, life can be one hideous disappointment after another. Particularly when all of life is tied up in one 15-year-old boy who is unconscious.

His sins of omission are so many. His indifference is so chilling. His silence is frustrating. He's like a slippery eel. You can't make him stay still long enough to find out how you stand with him.

What he does about you is so important. What he doesn't do, so disappointing. If you could only be sure of him. If you could only count on him. If he'd only do what you want him to do!

It's hard to realize how little time some boys have for romance. And how well they can get along without it. Six days a week they're wrapped up in algebra, sports, workbenches, chores. Girls hardly get a passing thought.

Come a party, some high occasion, girls get their full attention, however. Girls are a necessary part of the plot at such moments, and the boys are glad of it. But their lives are so full of a number of things that they can only take girls in small doses. And not too much of any one girl at any time.

It won't always be like that. which should be heartening news to girls who are languishing for boys who pay scant attention. There will come a time!

Meantime, we run into problems like this girl's:

"Dear Miss Woodward: I have been going with this boy during the year, but lately he has been taking me for granted and telling my friend that he might take another girl to a dance.

"Do you think I should play hard-to-get or act as if nothing has happened?"

Well, nothing much has happened yet. Except that it's become quite clear that you've been taking him for granted. You count on him to take you places when you go. He's not expected to take any other girl to any dance. Not while you're still around.

Your hurt and disappointment over the very possibility that he might do as he threatens have warped your little heart into thinking it's time to play games with him. You're going to act as though you've cooled off. And that's supposed to snap him to.

But it won't. He'll think you don't like him any more and he'll bow out.

Despite the way you like him, he doesn't belong to you. His dating is still experimental. It's still spasmodic. It's still special occasion. If you want him to think of you when those high moments roll around, give him nothing but the pleasantest memories to carry with him in between times.

It would be nice if all happy beginnings could have happy endings. And if happy beginnings started a chain of delicious happenings. But it doesn't always work out that way. Particularly when you're fourteen and your hopes rise so high on such little provocation. As in this girl's case:

"Dear Miss Woodward: On New Year's Eve I asked this boy to a party and we both had lots of fun. For the first few days after the party he acted as if he liked me. But he asked another girl to the next basketball game! He isn't going with anyone now and doesn't even know that I like him. Should I keep it to myself?"

I can't help wondering what good it would do to broadcast your secret? He's not going with anyone now perhaps because he doesn't want to go with anyone. He's not ready to bother.

Many Excited Youngsters Await Joyful Occasion

By MARILYN SHEARER

Many excited children will tumble into their beds this evening to drift in slumber to magic dreamland.

They will see big white Easter bunnies, with fluffy powder puff tails, delivering baskets brimming over with surprises to good little boys and girls.

Fluffy yellow chicks will be running up and down

the lanes of dreamland.

This is the place where trees are made of cotton candy and plants bear

colorful arrays of Easter eggs, in place of flowers.

Chocolate rabbits and chickens will be seeking shelter from the warm sun that could possibly mar

their beauty.

There is no end to the wonders found in the dream of a child as he slumbers through the night, before rising at an early hour to see what good fortune has been bestowed upon him.

The children will bounce out of bed and survey the house with a searching eye for easter eggs, stuffed animals of various sizes, and a basket they have looked forward to.

Jelly beans will no doubt be mixed in with the breakfast which mothers will try to get the youngsters to eat before getting dressed in their new Easter duds.

Rain or shine you can be sure the "little ladies" will insist on fashionable fitted and duster styled coats, and shiny patent leather shoes.

Junior will be admired as he arrives at the church wearing his new suit, stiffly starched shirt, and a colorful bow tie.

As the family sits in the church pews, where the air is sweetly scented by the flower blanked altar, the children will, for a time, forget the excitement of the early morning's activities.

They will join in the reverence which is especially significant of the great day on which Christ was resurrected.

Following church and Sunday school families will enjoy visits with relatives and perhaps a traditional ham dinner at grandmoth-

Learn How to Get

Always Answer Invitation Promptly

By EMILY POST

A reader writes me as follows:

"I am a buyer of stationery and have charge of wedding invitations and announcements. Having had a problem with customers about enclosing response cards with wedding invitations, I am writing to ask your opinion about their use.

"Does the fact that response cards are becoming more general make it 'the proper thing'? There has been such a great difference of opinion among the staff and the management in general that I feel an opinion from an authority will be the only way to solve this problem."

From the standpoint of good taste, reply cards are not considered correct. It is taken for granted that people will have the good manners to reply when R.S.V.P. is included on the invitation. However, since so many people are very lax about this, I think anything that encourages the response of the guests is too practical to repudiate.

Dear Mrs. Post: In two weeks time I will be celebrating my twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. My husband is leaving on a business trip next week and will be gone for two months and therefore will not be home on our anniversary.

"Would it be proper to invite just my women friends in on that day to a buffet party to celebrate the occasion, or would any celebration be out of the question without my husband?"

Answer: To have an anniversary party without your husband would be very strange, and I do think it would be nicer to have a party either before he goes away, or when he comes back home. It is not important that the party be given on the exact day.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am expecting a baby shortly and if it is a girl would like to name her for my mother-in-law who has an unusually pretty name. Is it necessary to add any suffix to her name in the way that Jr. is added when a boy is named for his grandfather?

Answer: The correct feminine suffix is Yr. (Younger). However, until she is grown, I don't think there will be any confusion between the two, and even then there is apt to be very little since your mother-in-law is Mrs. John Jones and your daughter, Miss Mary Jones.

Shirley Jones of Oklahoma All Tied Up

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
HOLLYWOOD (INS)—After slipping into a projection room at MGM and seeing a few scenes of "Oklahoma!" I don't wonder Shirley Jones is being wrapped in cotton wool and being kept solely for Rogers and Hammerstein plays and pictures. She is like a flower—so delicate. Todd-Ao is superb. The huge curved screen with audience participation has the effect of Cinerama with none of its disadvantages.

The next Rogers and Hammerstein picture will be "South Pacific." Twentieth Century-Fox owns the original "Lillem" from which R and H took "Carousel" and Darryl F. Zanuck has been dickering to get it for his studio.

A very shrewd stroke of showmanship is the plan of Rogers and Hammerstein to send Shirley to Paris and Rome this summer to play Laurey, her screen role, in the stage play "Oklahoma!" Rouben Mamoulian, who directed the original Broadway company, starts rehearsals May 19.

Until the "sowbelly and segregation" furore in the South completely dies down, Paul Douglas is going to have a self-imposed exile. After he finishes "Joe Macbeth" in England, he'll remain abroad to star in a film for Cubby Broccoli and Irving Allen.

I wonder if Jan Sterling will make a picture abroad? She's a fine actress, and I'm sure she has had any number of offers. Nothing has been said about Jan going to Europe with Paul, but she's very much in love with her husband and I doubt if she'd stay away from him for the six months or more he plans to be away.

There's none of the reported rudeness in James Dean's manner, and he certainly is not in the least spoiled over his sudden leap to fame in "East of Eden."

I talked to him at the Villa Capri where he was having dinner with pretty Lilli Kardell, Swedish actress brought here by Universal-International. He's very modest about the praise he has received and grateful to the critics. He said he felt Elia Kazin is largely responsible for his success.

Veterinarians Suggest Bank for Dog Blood

CHICAGO (UP)—Now it's blood banks for dogs.

A group of veterinarians has recommended in the Journal of the American Veterinary Medical Association that "stables" of donor animals be maintained to insure adequate supplies of blood at animal hospitals.

Most of the donor dogs could be obtained from municipal dog pounds, according to the plan.

Hemorrhagic shock during operations is a common occurrence among dogs, the veterinarians said, and delay in administering transfusions because of a lack of blood can be fatal.

Keeping stocks of blood for canine transfusions would be easier than maintaining human blood banks, the veterinarians said, because research indicates it is not necessary to match blood types in dogs.

The Miracle of Easter

As Related in the Gospel According to St. Mark

AND the chief priests and all the council sought for witness against Jesus to put him to death; and found none. For many bare false witness against him, but their witness agreed not together.

And there arose certain, and bare false witness against him, saying,

We heard him say, I will destroy this temple that is made with hands, and within three days I will build another made without hands.

But neither so did their witness agree together.

And the high priest stood up in the midst, and asked Jesus, saying, Answerest thou nothing? what is it which these witness against thee?

But he held his peace, and answered nothing. Again the high priest asked him, and said unto him, Art thou the Christ, the Son of the Blessed?

And Jesus said, I am; and ye shall see the Son of man sitting on the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of heaven.

Then the high priest rent his clothes, and saith, What need we any further witnesses?

Ye have heard the blasphemy: what think ye? And they all condemned him to be guilty of death. And some began to spit on him, and to cover his face, and to buffet him, and to say unto him, Prophecy; and the servants did strike him with the palms of their hands.

And as Peter was beneath in the palace, there cometh one of the maids of the high priest:

And when she saw Peter warming himself, she looked upon him, and said, And thou also wast with Jesus of Nazareth.

But he denied, saying, I know not, neither understand I what thou sayest. And he went out into the porch; and the cock crew.

And a maid saw him again, and began to say to them that stood by, This is one of them.

And he denied it again. And a little after, they that stood by said again to Peter, Surely thou art one of them: for thou art a Galilean, and thy speech agreeth thereto.

But he began to curse and to swear, saying, I know not this man of whom ye speak.

And the second time the cock crew. And Peter called to mind the word that Jesus said unto him, Before the cock crew twice, thou shalt deny me thrice. And when he thought thereon, he wept.

And straightway in the morning the chief priests held a consultation with the elders and scribes and the whole council, and bound Jesus, and carried him away, and delivered him to Pilate.

And Pilate asked him, Art thou the King of the Jews? And he answering said unto him, Thou sayest it.

And the chief priests accused him of many things; but he answered nothing.

And Pilate asked him again, saying, Answerest thou nothing? behold how many things they witness against thee.

But Jesus yet answered nothing; so that Pilate marvelled.

Now at that feast he released unto them one prisoner, whomsoever they desired.

And there was one named Barabbas, which lay bound with them that had made insurrection with him, who had committed murder in the insurrection.

And the multitude crying aloud began to desire him to do as he had ever done unto them.

But Pilate answered them, saying, Will ye that I release unto you the King of the Jews?

For he knew that the chief priests had delivered him for envy.

But the chief priests moved the people, that he should rather release Barabbas unto them.

And Pilate answered and said again unto them, What will ye then that I shall do unto him whom ye call the King of the Jews?

And they cried out again, Crucify him.

THEN Pilate said unto them, Why, what evil hath he done? And they cried out the more exceedingly, Crucify him.

And so Pilate, willing to content the people, released Barabbas unto them, and delivered Jesus, when he had scourged him, to be crucified.

And the soldiers led him away into the hall, called Praetorium; and they called together the whole band.

And they clothed him with purple, and platted a crown of thorns, and put it about his head,

And began to salute him, Hail, King of the Jews! And they smote him on the head with a reed, and did spit upon him, and bowing their knees worshipped him.

And when they had mocked him, they took off the purple from him, and put his own clothes on him, and led him out to crucify him.

And they compel one Simon a Cyrenian, who passed by, coming out of the country, the father of Alexander and Rufus, to bear his cross.

And they bring him unto the place Golgotha, which is, being interpreted, The place of a skull.

And they gave him to drink wine mingled with myrrh: but he received it not.

And when they had crucified him, they parted his garments, casting lots upon them, what every man should take.

And it was the third hour, and they crucified him. And the superscription of his accusation was written over, THE KING OF THE JEWS.

And with him they crucify two thieves; the one on his right hand, and the other on his left.

And the scripture was fulfilled, which saith, And he was numbered with the transgressors.

And they that passed by railed on him, wagging their heads, and saying, Ah, thou that destroyest the temple, and buildest it in three days, Save thyself, and come down from the cross. Likewise also the chief priests mocking said among themselves with the scribes, He saved others; himself he cannot save.

Let Christ the King of Israel descend now from the cross, that we may see and believe. And they that were crucified with him reviled him.

And when the sixth hour was come, there was darkness over the whole land until the ninth hour.

And at the ninth hour Jesus cried with a loud voice, saying, Eloi, Eloi, lama sabachthani? which is, being interpreted, My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?

And some of them that stood by, when they heard it, said, Behold, he calleth Elias.

And one ran and filled a sponge full of vinegar, and put it on a reed, and gave him to drink, saying, Let alone; let us see whether Elias will come to take him down.

And Jesus cried with a loud voice, and gave up the ghost.

And the veil of the temple was rent in twain from the top to the bottom.

And when the centurion, which stood over against him, saw that he so cried out, and gave up the ghost, he said, Truly this man was the Son of God.

There were also women looking on afar off: among whom was Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James the less and of Joseph, and Salome;

(Who also, when he was in Galilee, followed him, and ministered unto him); and many other women which came up with him unto Jerusalem.

And now when the even was come, because it was the preparation, that is, the day before the sabbath,

JOSEPH of Arimathea, an honourable counsellor, which also waited for the kingdom of God, came, and went in boldly unto Pilate, and craved the body of Jesus.

And Pilate marvelled if he were already dead: and calling unto him the centurion, he asked him whether he had been any while dead.

And when he knew it of the centurion, he gave the body to Joseph.

And he bought fine linen, and took him down, and wrapped him in the linen, and laid him in a sepulchre which was hewn out of a rock, and rolled a stone unto the door of the sepulchre.

And Mary Magdalene and Mary the mother of Joseph beheld where he was laid.

And when the sabbath was past, Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James, and Salome, had bought sweet spices, that they might come and anoint him.

And very early in the morning the first day of the week, they came unto the sepulchre at the rising of the sun.

And they said among themselves, Who shall roll us away the stone from the door of the sepulchre?

AND when they looked, they saw that the stone was rolled away: for it was very great.

And entering into the sepulchre, they saw a young man sitting on the right side, clothed in a long white garment; and they were affrighted.

And he saith unto them, Be not affrighted: Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth, which was crucified: he is risen; he is not here: behold the place where they laid him.

But go your way, tell his disciples and Peter that he goeth before you into Galilee: there shall ye see him, as he said unto you.

And they went out quickly, and fled from the sepulchre: for they trembled and were amazed: neither said they any thing to any man; for they were afraid.

Now when Jesus was risen early the first day of the week, he appeared first to Mary Magdalene, out of whom he had cast seven devils.

And she went and told them that had been with him, as they mourned and wept.

And they, when they had heard that he was alive, and had been seen of her, believed not.

After that he appeared in another form unto two of them, as they walked, and went into the country.

And they went and told it unto the residue: neither believed they them.

Afterward he appeared unto the eleven as they sat at meat, and upbraided them with their unbelief and hardness of heart, because they believed not them which had seen him after he was risen.

And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature.

He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned.

And these signs shall follow them that believe: In my name shall they cast out devils; they shall speak with new tongues;

They shall take up serpents; and if they drink any deadly thing, it shall not hurt them; they shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover.

So then after the Lord had spoken unto them, he was received up into heaven, and sat on the right hand of God.

And they went forth, and preached every where, the Lord working with them, and confirming the word with signs following. Amen.

RECLAIMED BRICK, CLAPBOARD — Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Uden selected this reclaimed brick and white clapboard one-story model at 2315 Middlebelt Rd. near Pontiac for their new home. Chosen for the convenience of floor plan as well as the large pie-shaped yard which allows the Udens to develop a full-scale landscape project, this new area of homes was planned by Houseman-Spitzley, Inc. The Udens are fond of flowers, shrubs and small trees. They have executed a master plan with the help of a landscape architect which will be completed this year. The floor plan of the house itself includes a living room, activity room, kitchen, dinette, dining room, three bedrooms and two bathrooms. There is also a two-car garage. The kitchen faces the front of the house with the large picture windows of the living and activity room overlooking the scenic backyard with its wide lawns and landscaped areas.

Your Neighbor's House

Landscaping Vital Part of Home Plan

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE

In the spring a house-hunting couple's fancy often turns to new homes on lake sites where green grass, trees and shrubs will have plenty of room to form a frame of natural beauty for the house.

A case in point—the new colonial ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Uden at 2315 Middlebelt Rd., near Pontiac.

What started out to be a Sunday drive for this near-retirement couple turned out to be a new home on a pie-shaped lot of more than a half-acre of level ground.

"We were in no hurry to buy. But we both knew that when we found what we wanted it would have areas for planted landscaping which was to include all of the trees and shrubs we have admired so much all our lives," said Mr. Uden. He is associated with the Pontiac Motor Co.

Located in the new Hammond Lake development, the Uden house is placed parallel to Middlebelt and is angled from the side of South Hammond Rd. A one-story model, its exterior is of reclaimed brick and white clapboard.

The house plan includes a kitchen and dinette which faces the front of the house and a living room, dining room and an activity room with large picture windows overlooking the backyard. Two bathrooms, three bedrooms and a fully-plastered two-car garage are also included in the plan.

Using the same reclaimed brick, the builder constructed a central wall which faces kitchen, living room and activity room. The two-way fireplace is placed in this unit.

Knotty cedar wainscoting has been used in the dinette and the dining room.

The kitchen, equipped with white steel cupboards including a white hood over the cooking area, is floored in terra cotta, beige and black tile. Parallel walls house built-in cupboards.

Documentary print wallpaper in gray, red and green, covers the dinette walls. A divider separating the kitchen and dinette is an open shelf arrangement holding china curios and plants.

For furnishings, the Udens selected natural birch woods.

The living room and activity room floor is covered in carmel-colored sculptured carpeting. Wall colors are green and accent colors in upholstered furniture are in deep rose.

A central entrance hall leads to the living area and the bedroom wing. This is papered in a scenic paper picking up the colors of the adjacent rooms.

With the help of a landscape architect, the Udens began last fall to plant their borders and their flower gardens.

Their master plan is shown on this page with a number key which tells what each is. Many along the border edges flanking the fence are selected for foliage as well as flowers. Others are strict complementary foliage with the edges facing the house planted with miniature shrubs and flowers forming a border for the larger plantings.

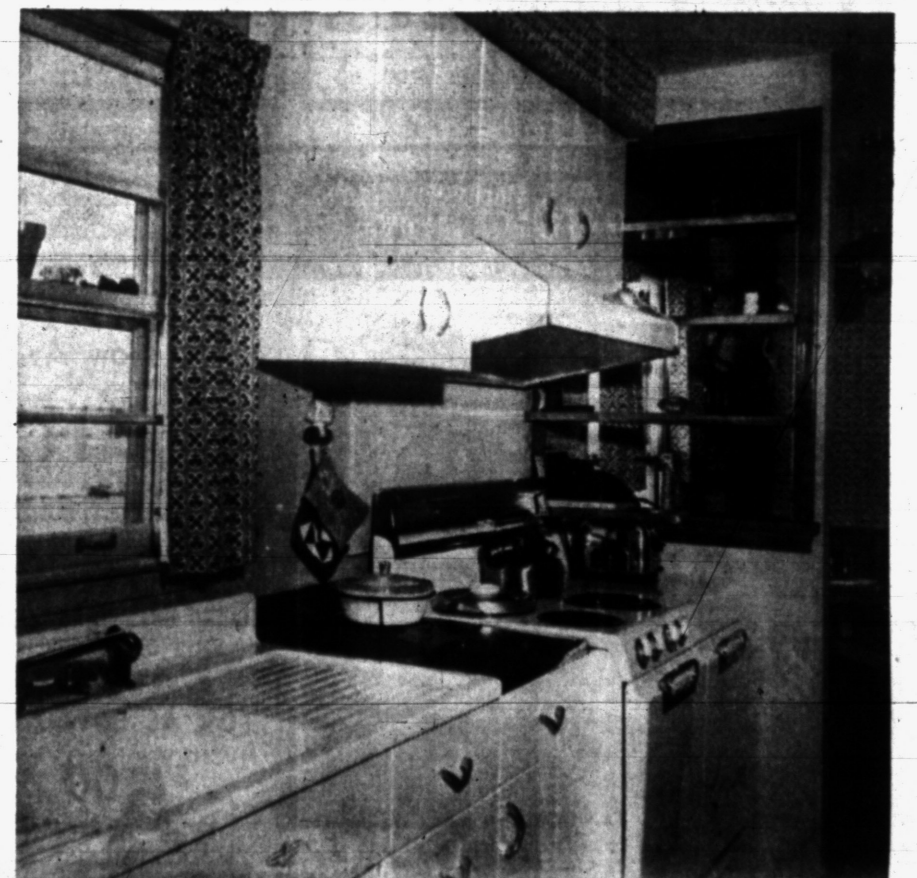

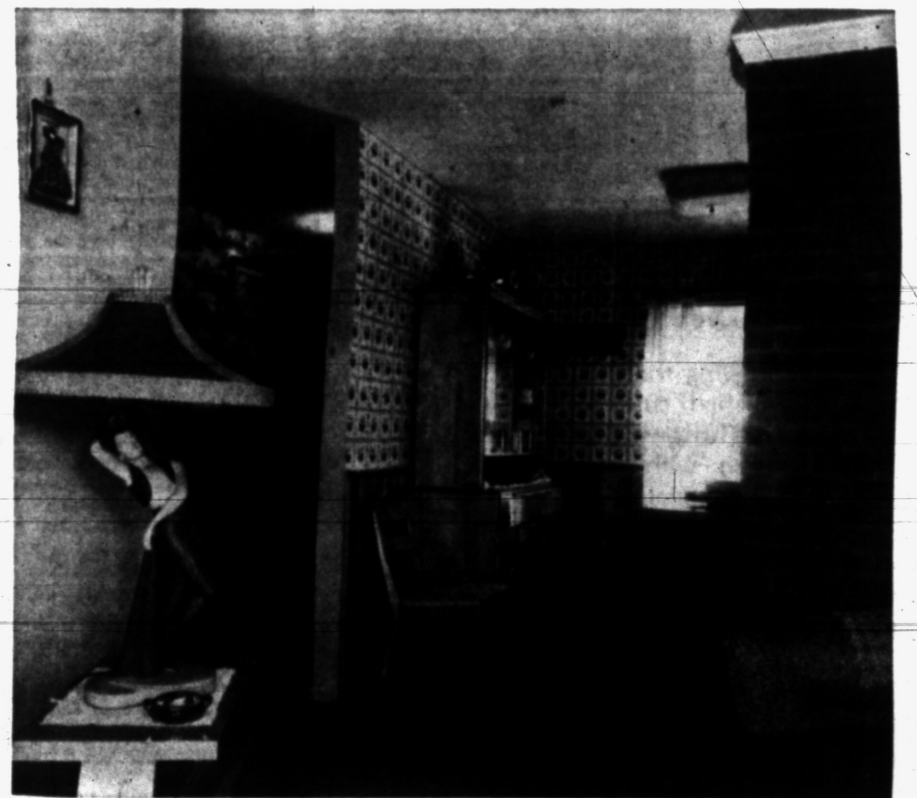

Mr. Uden likes the idea of a master plan to begin with.

"Even if you do your plantings in a progressive fashion, you know what your yard will look like when it is complete," said Mr. Uden.

In a few years when Mr. Uden retires he plans to spend a great deal of time caring for his yard and gardens. Plantings chosen are the type which require little pruning and many of the border perennials are miniatures which reach maximum growth in a short time never outgrowing the nearby plants which are just a little larger.

The flowering shrubs begin with the early springtime and several are still blossoming in the late fall. Roses, too, were selected with a full season of flowering in mind.

W. R. Wittrup of Livonia was responsible for the master plan adopted by the Udens.

KITCHEN IN WHITE — The top photo shows the open plan of the Thomas Uden home with a central wall of reclaimed brick facing the living room, dining room, kitchen and dinette as well as the activity room. Note the central hallway which provides an entrance to the bedroom wing or the living area without going through the remainder of the house. The lower photo is of the kitchen with its white steel cupboards and hood with concealed automatic fan over the cooking area. One wall of this room is of the reclaimed brick with the others painted green. The dinette at the end is papered in a small documentary print with the wainscoting in knotty cedar.

Pink and Gray Leading Bathroom Color Parade

NEW YORK (UP)—Pink and gray have edged out white, blue and yellow as favorite bathroom colors.

So report ceramic tile contractors, who install most of the floor and wall tile in the nation's new bathrooms. Contractors report pink the favorite color, gray next, and then green, yellow and blue. Suntan and peach come next, and the tile men say that white, once the predominant color, rarely is asked for.

Peace of World Up to Women?

Refugee Offices Chief Says Averting of War Lies in Understanding.

WASHINGTON (UP)—Mrs. Dorothy D. Houghton, head of the government's refugee programs, says she is no feminist.

"But if all the women of the world knew and understood each other, there would be no wars," she said in an interview.

One of the top women in the Eisenhower administration, Mrs. Houghton, former president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, is chief of the Foreign Operations Administration Office for Refugees, Migration and Voluntary Assistance. Her immediate boss is Harold E. Stassen, director of the agency.

She is responsible for all American aid to refugees from behind the Iron Curtain, to refugees in the Middle East, to the thousands of persons displaced in the Far East by Communist aggression. It is work which she says gives her "great satisfaction."

"My interest in international affairs probably began when I was a student at Wellesley College," the clubwoman and educator said. "There, for the first time I met young people from all over the world."

Now, in a year, Mrs. Houghton meets thousands of many nationalities.

Since her appointment in 1953, she has travelled more than 100,000 miles by air. She probably ranks second only to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in the number of miles she has flown in the course of her duties.

"Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt isn't even in competition with me any more," she said.

Her women's club work helped to prepare Mrs. Houghton for her present job. As federation president, she inaugurated aid programs for refugees and personally conducted four "world cooperation tours" to Europe, the Near East, Mexico and South America.

Although today she is a global-minded woman, Mrs. Houghton readily says "I have had to push my horizons far since I left Red Oak, Ia., in 1908 to go to Wellesley."

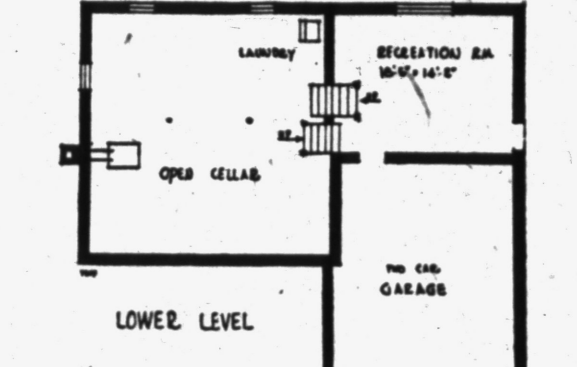

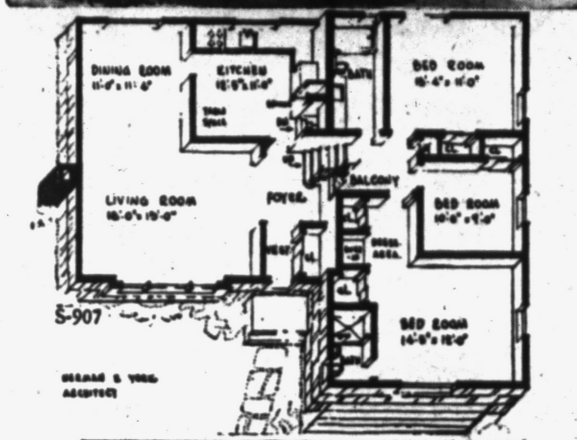

The wife of a bank president, she still considers Red Oak her home and makes frequent trips there to see her family. All four of her children live in Iowa.

A grandmother of eight, she believes in running her office "like a family." Members of her staff still remember their surprise when she summoned them to her office shortly after taking over the job. They had expected a serious policy discussion. They found ice cream and cake. Now, they have come to expect the frequent informal gatherings which distinguish the conduct of her office.

Recent studies indicate that the United States has more than three million alcoholics.

PROCESS ENGINEER

Process engineer wanted, by local production machine shop. Must have machine shop experience and be able to design and draw tooling. Some knowledge of estimating desirable. College degree not essential. Good starting salary and prospects with a small but growing business for the right man. All applications confidential. Write Pontiac Press, Box 23.

SPLIT-LEVEL — Building experts say the split level is increasing in popularity throughout the country because it provides greater value. Its economical design makes possible at little or no additional cost such luxuries as the two-car garage and huge recreation room for TV viewing, as in Plan No. S-907 by Architect Herman York, 90-04 161st Street, Jamaica 32, N. Y.

A Well Organized Plan Speeds Spring Cleaning

NEW YORK (INS) — Why look wilted and feel wretched during spring cleaning?

Take your time, spreading the job out over several well-planned days. And take advantage of the products on the market that can aid in the task.

Begin by making a survey of the house and schedule cleaning chores room by room. Leave time in the schedule for an afternoon beauty nap.

When ready to work dress for comfort in either slacks, shorts or housedress, wearing low heeled shoes. A bit of makeup and touch of cologne are good for the morale and in case the doorbell rings.

Next list your supplies, which should include a hand lotion that will protect hands and nails from deeply imbedded dirt and the ravages of rough soaps and work.

Cleaning aids that might help include:

Bottled detergents to make quick liquid suds for washing dishes, nylons, rayons, silks and woolsens. Window cleaner with spray applicator for cleaning windows, mirrors, television set safety glass and other glass surfaces.

New oven cleaner which comes with its own applicator. Use the applicator to apply the cleaning paste and wipe clean with a cloth.

Bottled bleach for cleaning and sanitizing bathroom and bathroom fixtures, and kitchen tile, sink, refrigerator and range.

Ammonia to clean grease-stained areas.

Bottled turpentine for bothersome paint spots — and for the man of the house to use in the painting jobs which should be a

Treat That Knot Before You Paint It

Before painting over a knot, be sure to fill any cavities with plastic wood putty and then apply a sealer to the area to prevent the sap in the knot from staining the new coating.

This sealer may be a product made especially for the purpose—or shellac.

When you use shellac, remember that you usually need alcohol to "cut" or thin it. The label on the can will let you know the proportions to use.

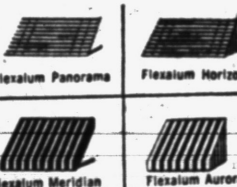

Choose Windy Day

Air feather pillows on a cloudy, windy day, rather than in the sun, since the sun's rays draw the natural oil out of the feathers. A small amount of starch in the ticking of a pillow will help keep feathers from poking through.

Make Garage 'Auto Foyer'

Old Idea Is Practical for Use Here in U.S.; Locate Centrally

A drive-in home may sound like a bright new idea, but actually it dates back to the 15th century.
Residents of charming old Venice built their homes so gondolas could ease right into embrasures from which passengers stepped directly into the house. This very practical idea spread throughout Europe where carriages drove into inner courtyards and pulled up under protective cover.

For mobile Americans, the "auto-foyer" makes good sense.
It means a change from the unsightly storeroom-type garage to a more civilized entranceway integrated with the rest of the house. Modern materials that are both rugged and handsome such as ceramic tile have helped make this possible. In the moderate-price field, the split-level house with the garage on the lower level closely approaches this plan.

It makes sense because almost everyone arrives at a house in a car. They should alight in a pleasant area, step quickly and easily into the living quarters. For the growing number of important architects and homeowners who realize this, here are some new ideas culled from the field.

Locate the drive-in right in the center of the house. Its exterior should complement the rest of the house design.

Automatically operated, swing-up doors that are shuttered have proved popular. Shade trees, flowers and shrubbery can soften any austere lines.

The interior floor should be practical and decorative. Easy-to-clean quarry tile is an ideal flooring because the hardest wear can not damage. Storage should be recessed. Steps into the house and walls may be finished in color-fast ceramic tile which lasts virtually forever and offers wide decorative possibilities and windows high up in the wall will keep the area bright with sunlight.

A BERMUDA HOUSE—Here is a new idea for the back yard in summer. Made of aluminum framing, aluminum screen and a mildewresistant canvas awning roof, this portable shelter can be erected almost any place on the lawn. It provides an airy substitute for a screened porch—an insect-proof retreat for outdoor dining. Blinds can make it suitable for outdoor sleeping or use as a beach house. This model comes knocked down in a kit and measures 9 by 12 feet when erected. The total weight is about 185 pounds.

Old Timers in New Guise for Summer

Old materials in eye-catching, new guises will be one of the distinctive notes in 1955's crop of summer furniture, according to heads of the National Association of Summer Furniture Manufacturers.

Redwood table tops and chair seats will enhance outdoor settings because of thinner-than-usual strips of the redwood that give the pieces a more graceful appearance.

Aluminum, in a new goldanodized, non-marring finish will accent an old favorite, rattan, for seating pieces and occasional tables and anodized aluminum is likewise available in bronze, pink and turquoise.

The color selection of sturdy sailcloth for lounge chairs will be extended from the usual green or red to a wide range of fade-proof pastel shades. Even steel will appear in a new guise—simulating a basket weave—for chair backs.

A Nation in Wood

National housing authorities report the average American family dwelling contains 10,500 board feet of lumber. Douglas fir lumber, noted as a framing material and for its structural qualities, is the most popular single commercial lumber species sold in the nation.

Proper nailing is a prime factor for deriving service from hardwood floors.

Three Billion Goes for Do-It-Yourself

To maintain and beautify their homes, do-it-yourselfers last year spent approximately $3 billion.

The Do-It-Yourself Information Bureau estimates that nearly a third—or $940 million—of this sum went for paint and wallpaper.
Estimates are considerably higher for 1955.

Some expect such expenditures to rise more than 30 per cent.

Two and Three Tone Car Colors Increase

Automobile makers now report that the orders for two and even three-tone color combinations on new cars are constantly increasing.
Body refinishing shops also report more two-tone paint jobs.

Although it compounds problems for the retail car dealer to stock these various color styles, the trend does reflect the increasing popularity of smart colors and brighter hues—especially among the women buyers.

Will U. S. Act to Slow Our Housing Boom?

By WILLIAM KERWIN
WASHINGTON (INS) — Government officials are reported divided on whether federal housing credit should be tightened to take some of the zing out of the nationwide housing boom.

Members of the government's top-level national housing council are said to be unable to reach a unanimous agreement after two secret meetings on the politically explosive problem.

The difference of opinion is similar to the dispute inside the housing industry between builders and lenders over whether easy credit may spark too much building and a new round of inflation.

Informed sources say there were these developments at the housing council sessions:

1. The treasury department, taking the lenders' view, urged fast government action to stiffen credit terms for veterans and, to a lesser extent, tighten federal housing administration rules.

2. A contrary stand, supporting builders' arguments, was expressed by the government's highest housing leaders, including labor secretary James P. Mitchell who reported no alarming evidence that the building boom is getting out of hand.

3. However, council members agree to support legislation to give President Eisenhower flexible power to ease or tighten housing credit as economic conditions rise or decline.

Officials say that housing administrator Albert M. Cole, who presided at the two meetings, plans to call another council conference in the near future, possibly later this month, to resume the study.

Meanwhile, the administration's position on the housing boom is described as "one of concern but not alarm." And FHA commissioner Norman P. Mason is even more optimistic.

Mason says: "The sustained production of well over one million homes a year in this country is an activity your government naturally watches with interest."

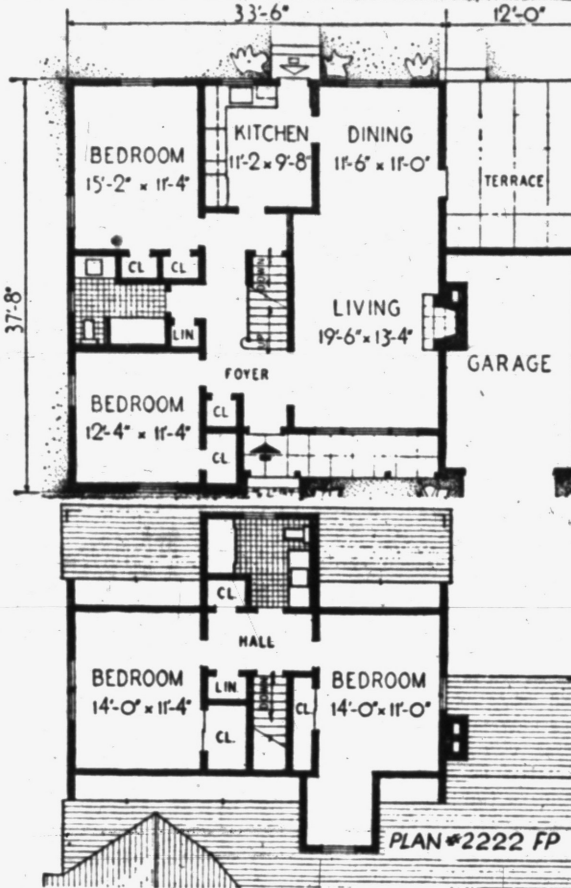

"But the present situation, in my opinion, calls for neither apprehension nor for alarm. One financial leader, in a recent interview, has told us: 'Don't be afraid of prosperity!' I like this type of confidence. It's highly contagious." FHA officials say Mason bases his optimism on the extensive reports flowing into his Washington headquarters from FHA's 75 field insuring offices on local housing conditions.

These reports are buttressed by some 200 separate and detailed market analyses made each year by FHA's six regional offices on the real estate market. Moreover, FHA is conducting its annual rental housing survey across the country which is expected to provide the latest official information on the situation. It will be used by Cole and other officials in any future action they may take to slow down the housing boom.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

FLEXIBLE PLAN—A small house with big possibilities, this plan can be used to fit a budget. The house can be built either as a two-bedroom cottage with expansion attic, or as a complete four-bedroom house with two bathrooms. The first floor comprises 1,447 square feet of floor space; finished second floor adds 590 square feet. This is plan B-2222FP by Alwin Cassens Jr., architect, 145 S. Franklin Ave., Valley Stream, N. Y.

Tax Agents Get All Sorts of Figures

WICHITA, Kan. (UP)—A Kansas farmer stirred up an argument among Internal Revenue Service agents when he sent in his income tax return.

Attached to the properly filled form was another paper listing depreciation of farm equipment. This, too, seemed to be in order, but the information was written on the back of a picture of a nude woman such as is used on calendars.

"We can't figure out," said one agent, "whether the farmer thought we would be so busy looking at the girl that we wouldn't check his return thoroughly or whether he was trying in a subtle way to show us his tax payment had stripped him."

Garden Class for Adults

TRAVERSE CITY (UP)—Northwestern Michigan College has announced an adult education class in gardening, beginning April 12. Ed Wyatt, Traverse City horticulturist, will instruct the class.

Makes Nylons Last

A pinch of starch in the rinsing water will help make nylons last longer. The extra thickness provided by the starch doesn't effect sheerness, but does help prevent snags.

Always cook cheese at low temperature to keep it from becoming tough and stringy.

Gas Stations Pose Problems in City Planning

CHICAGO (UP)—Gas stations can become a problem, according to the American Society of Planning Officials.

They can create traffic congestions along major streets and highways. Unregulated stations can become a fire and explosion hazard. Too many stations can lower the property values of neighboring residential areas, and abandoned stations can create blight.

As a result, the society said, many cities have tried to restrict the number of stations within their borders.

But, the society said, courts generally have viewed such attempts with disfavor, contending that they tend to constitute a monopoly for already existing gas stations.

The society said in a report, "Regulation of Filling Stations," that courts might be more lenient in dealing with gas station regulations if they are based on sound traffic considerations or on site improvement or curb-cut factors that would tend to reduce congestion at heavily traveled intersections.

Maple Offers Economy

Maple flooring has a denseness of grain which offers a maximum of resistance to dirt, making it simple to keep clean and economical to maintain. Use a good penetrating sealer on kitchen floors of maple and birch for happy floor housekeeping.

Good yeast bread needs plenty of kneading. Knead until you can see small bubbles under the surface of the dough as you stretch it gently. Cooking experts say it is almost impossible to over-knead.

Spare Gilt on Books

Be careful to avoid wetting gilt of painted title lines when cleaning books. Ordinary books can be cleaned with a soft cloth wrung from thick soapsuds, then wiped with a clean, damp cloth.

$1,000 Troublesome for Bank Customer

KEARNEY, Neb. (UP)—Three recent bank holdups in Nebraska have made some bank officials jittery.

A young man entered the bank here, threw down a large roll of small bills, and requested a $1,000 bill. Some one immediately called for Police Chief Thurston Nelson.

Nelson found that the man wasn't playing confidence games and wasn't planning to hold up anyone. He was a salesman who just didn't want to carry a large roll of bills around.

The salesman settled for two $500 bills.

Merchant Likes Playing Cupid

Loans Store as Chapel, Persuades Colleagues to Give Presents

McALESTER, Okla. (UP) — A local hardware store owner, Har-race Collier, is fast becoming popular in launching marriages.

Collier has twice turned his store into a wedding chapel, complete with altar and potted plants.

He has encouraged local merchants to join him in showering the couples with household gifts, including kitchen equipment, linens and groceries.

The 56-year-old merchant said he started his novel practice one day when an engaged couple was in his store discussing their coming marriage.

Collier asked where they were going to get married, and the young man replied that they were undecided. They couldn't afford a big wedding.

"Why not have the ceremony here?" the businessman said.

Collier said now they have a baby and a happy home, and he feels that the sense of security given them by the help from the merchants has been an important factor in putting the marriage on a firm foundation.

Collier believes struggling young couples faced with modest salaries and spiraling living costs need some help in setting up housekeeping.

He said he has drawn no criticism from local churches. Collier's main problem is finding room for the crowds that attend the weddings.

"Anybody who wants to come is welcome," he said, "as long as they bring a household gift of some kind."

Packs Your Petticoat

The trickiest storage idea of the season is a plastic bag designed especially to hold those bulky petticoats and crinolines which take up so much space in a lady's closet. Made of clear Utron vinyl plastic, with pretty printed top and bottom, the petticoat storer is a cone-shaped garment bag called a "Stor-A-Flare."

You just roll your petticoat sideways, slip it into the bag waistband first, and it hangs neatly in one-tenth its normal space. The little bags sell in sets of three.

FAR EASTERN LOOK — William Pahlmann, decorator of international fame, demonstrated the adaptation of far eastern decorating techniques to comfortable American living recently with a simple room setting. Mr. Pahlmann gave a cool and casual effect to his room setting by using white lacquered "shoji" in front of a jade green wall (the used felt for a wall covering), in the Japanese fashion. Room was furnished with a chintz couch and chair grouping on a terrazo floor of vinyl tile.

Emphasizing the good decorating principle that every room should have a focal point, Pahlmann chose as the center of attention the new, easily available, easy to play electric organ with "Touch-Response" percussion. The spinet model used, and other new models, by Hammond, can approximate tones of popular percussion instruments of many countries in addition to an extremely wide range of organ tones.

Despite Court Decision

Watery California Town Has Houseboat Problem

SAUSALITO, Calif. (UP)—If you must live on a houseboat, don't park it on the city streets.

So says Sausalito's city council, and that's what all the fuss is about in this picturesque community that is 20 minutes from downtown San Francisco but seems as far removed as Venice.

And like Venice, Sausalito has a few watery streets. To be sure, they are not gondola-laden canals. But the law calls them streets, and they are made of nothing but water.

Sausalito's officials are mighty tired of seeing houseboats parked in the middle of them.

Specifically, there are eight of these streets, created in 1870 when the state of California made a tidelands grant to Sausalito. The city has the option of filling this area—which it doesn't choose to do—but "access by the people to navigable water shall be kept clear." That is state law.

Four of these streets — Mono, Turney, Pine and Johnson — run vertically from the waterfront to San Francisco Bay. They are crossed by four arterials paralleling the shoreline.

Like any other streets, these aquatic thoroughfares divide the area into a series of "blocks." It's okay with the city if the arks moor there—just so a strong tide doesn't carry them out into the streets where they begin cluttering up the right-of-way.

Down through the years the city has judiciously treated the watery streets just like their paved counterparts elsewhere in the town. When it was necessary to post notices of some proceeding or assessment, city officials hopped in a boat, rowed down the streets and sank posts into the muddy bottom 12 feet below the surface of the streets. Thereon they posted the notices.

Sausalito police have never purchased a seagoing squad car to patrol the salty beat, but City Attorney John Ehlen says it may be necessary in the future.

The houseboat battle started several years ago when one Don-lon J. Arques, decided adverse possession or "squatters rights" entitled him to stay put—street or no.

Ehlen went to bat for the city and dug up the musty statute holding that access to navigable water must be kept clear. A superior court judge ruled that the city had title to the underwater streets and it was a misdemeanor worth $500 and 30 days in jail to trespass on said streets.

Take Your Baby on Trip in New Portable Bed

Take a tip from the airline company and try taking baby along in a "Baby Traveler." This portable auto and plane bed has a water repellent mattress and rolled edge hinges to protect fingers. The interchangeable, plastic-covered hook-over arms are designed to allow use in either a cross-car or hammock position.

The headboard, mattress and bumper are softly padded and covered in printed plastic. Complete with sanitary beads for baby's amusement, the flat-folding bed sells for $8.98.

Insures Speedy Clean-Up

When using a paint roller, it's a good idea to line the roller paint tray with aluminum foil when you're using an oil-base paint. This facilitates your clean-up job after your painting project is finished.

Patients to Get Automatic Beds

Completely Mechanical Device Can Save Half of Nurse's Time

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — The push-button age has now produced a completely mechanical hospital bed.

The invalid's "dream bed" can save approximately half a nurse's time in these days when the nursing profession is badly understaffed.

Named the Beem Bed after its surgeon-inventor, Dr. Marvel Beem of Los Angeles, more than 10 years' work and a third of a million dollars went into its development.

It was unveiled recently at Stanford University Hospital here. This is the first hospital to receive a permanently installed Beem Bed.

An array of buttons along the shiny metal edge of the bed's adjustable tray offers the patient his choice of services. If he'd like to wash his hands, for example, he presses the one marked "lavatory."

With a soft hum of machinery, a gleaming porcelain wash basin emerges from beneath the bed and rises to his side.

Still another button causes a 2-foot-square section of the bed to slide off to the side and up comes a built-in toilet complete with sewer connection and flushing control.

Among other innovations are a built-in stretcher on wheels, called a "guernsey," an automatic bed oscillator, a "Balkan frame" for traction of splinted limbs and built-in scales enabling the patient to weigh himself while lying down.

Just Cook and Serve

Select your glass cooking dishes with an eye toward using them at the dining table. Colors of both individual and family-size glass casserole dishes now are coordinated with dinnerware. Used together, they make handsome table settings and cut down on dish-washing chores.

For refinishing a waxed surface which has been scratched or spotted, wipe with bottled gum turpentine and then re-wax.

A Home Needs Traffic Lanes

Choose Your Furniture in Relation to Room,
Allow Space to Walk

ATLANTA (UP)—A house, like a highway, needs traffic lanes. Many of the "accidents" in home decorating result when the housewife fails to provide them. The result is a crowded, jumbled room which looks as formidable as a traffic jam on a Sunday afternoon.

One of the best ways to assure that a room has these traffic lanes is by choosing furniture sized in relation to the size of the room.

Select furniture with the completed room in view, whether you're buying one piece or several. Remember to include accessories in this planning—such items as lamps, pictures and mirrors. Once the basic planning is done, inject your own personality by one extravagant touch.

Actually furniture arrangement is controlled not only by the architectural design of the rooms but also by its purpose in relation to the occupants.

An artistic father, for instance, might want space left in his bedroom for his easel. A bridge fan might prefer a studio-type bed and two permanently placed game tables. A teacher might want to make part of the room a study.

There can be no specific rules for furniture arrangement simply because each room is different. But here are some general suggestions:

In a living room, try for an inviting conversation grouping, again providing those vital traffic lanes.

Plan adequate reading area with sufficient light, and ample table surface for ashtrays and other small accessories. Select sofa and large chairs with special care, always keeping in mind the amount of space each will take. Do not over-furnish or overcrowd with too many chairs (folding chairs are easily handled and stored, when extra seating is needed). In a small room, a short sofa is sufficient.

In the dining room, make sure there's plenty of space for serving while the table is in use. Use a sideboard and large cabinets only when the room is big enough to take them easily.

If there is room for table and chairs only, the room can be made to look adequately furnished by use of patterned window hangings or by covering the walls with a decorative paper.

In a bedroom, after you've planned for adequate sleeping and storage facilities, provide a restful spot to read or relax, as space permits. Most bedrooms have room for bedside lamps, books, and radio either on tables or on wall shelves.

BEHIND IT ALL—The house next door is a little too close to permit use of a conventional window in this attractive dining room. However, a floor-to-ceiling panel of translucent glass block floods the room with cheerful daylight and hides unsightly outside views. Small planters anchored into the mortar joints of the panel emphasize the sparkling surface of the glass block. The high insulation value of the glass block helps to keep the house warmer in winter, cooler in summer.

Pamper Corner Can Serve as Powder Room

Every housewife deserves a pamper corner. This should be a spot that can be used by her and her friends just for glamour. The little nook should have a place for powder and puff, pins and stuff—all the things a girl enjoys for primping.

Sure it is fine to have a vanity table in your bedroom, but much more cosy to have one in a little secluded spot that friends can enjoy too when they come to visit.

Look around for waste space. You may find it behind a staircase, a foyer outside the bathroom door or even in a closet.

VANITY TABLE built on the inside of a closet door offers more privacy even though you use it with the door open.

Put a plate glass mirror panel on the inside of the closet door. A shelf made in a half-moon shape at your local lumber yard may be attached with brackets to the door just below mirror. You can have it covered with a glass or painted a bright color. Hang an attractive skirt around it. Put some pockets in the skirt to hold everything from hair pins to curlers.

Behind the skirt place some hooks for shoes. If there is enough space left so that dresses will not be crushed when the door is closed, additional narrow shelves may be put behind the skirt on the door to hold boxes, belts, etc.

A very attractive and cozy little powder spot may be made behind a flight of stairs. The entire area might be wallpapered or painted for extra charm. A fluorescent light above the table can give adequate light. The bench or chair used with the little vanity should also be a storage unit. It can hold endless useful paraphernalia from strings of beads to a home permanent wave kit.

Wherever the vanity table is, there should be a feeling of privacy. When you curl your lashes you'll want to feel it is your little secret. Ditto that hair tinting job. As a matter of fact it might not be a bad idea to keep your cosmetics secrets under lock and key, away from the youngsters if not the prying eyes of others.

One of the good reasons for having your vanity table out of the bedroom, too, is to get it out of the way. Husbands have a way of picking on vanity tables, especially when they do not have much closet or drawer space of their own. If you keep it in some secluded spot it will not cause too much excitement in your household.

U.S. Borrowers Meet Their Debts

The annual mortgage delinquency survey of the Mortgage Bankers Assn. of America covers 1,719,000 mortgage loans.

Total delinquencies at the end of last year amounted to 42,135, or 2.45 per cent as compared with 42,525, or 2.52 the preceding year. As for GI home loans, only 22 of one per cent were over-due three months or more.

Ridin' a Tractor Down on Farm Comfy, Now

Driving a tractor down on the farm needn't be uncomfortable. You can use a new vibrationless backrest that can be attached to any tractor seat pan.

The rest is made of welded steel tubing with the backrest suspended by four coil springs fastened to the frame.

Upholstery is an inch thick pad of rubberized hair, and the whole thing adjusts automatically for any weight operator. Maker is the L. A. Young Spring & Wire Corp. of Detroit.

French Painter's Original Designs Printed on Fabric

PARIS (INS)—This spring American ladies will be able to decorate their homes with fabrics patterned after designs now worth $30,000.

Fabrics for wall and furniture decoration printed with designs by the French painter Raoul Dufy will be on sale throughout the United States.

Dufy, who died in 1953, was not only a great painter but also keenly interested in interior decoration. He composed designs for tapestries and fabrics to be used for home decoration. Some of his designs are humorous. All are famous for their depth, color contrast and fine artistic feeling.

During his life Dufy traveled widely on different continents including America. Themes of his fabrics include the Jungle (with elephants), the rose (a pattern of cabbage sized flowers), the dance (with ballerinas), Africa (a pattern of exotic fruit and ferns), hunting scenes, and amusing designs of skaters, tennis-players, etc.

The French fabric house "Corot" has acquired the exclusive rights to print Dufy designs on fabric for home decoration. These fabrics will be available in leading U.S. stores.

PATTERN 340

Some birds are so sociable that they like to make nests in a community house. This miniature New England meeting house with twelve compartments for nests is sure to attract purple martins and swallows. These summer visitors more than pay their way by destroying countless insects. This house should be set atop a post at least 10 feet from the ground and well apart from trees or buildings. I have found that a barrier against cats and squirrels, fixed around the post a couple of feet below the house is necessary to attract martins. Pattern 340 is in full detail with each step in cutting and assembling in perspective sketches. Price 25c. A packet of patterns for a wide variety of bird houses will be postpaid for $1. Color Blending Is High Factor

Decorator Lists Shades
That Blend to Make Your Room Success

By CHARLES E. DAY Member, the American Institute Of Decorators

CHICAGO (UP) — Of all the parts that go into the making of a room, I think that color probably is the most important ingredient.

A room filled with magnificent antiques with a badly colored background can be a failure, whereas the proverbial "orange crate and remnant of chintz" school can be charming, if the color is pleasing.

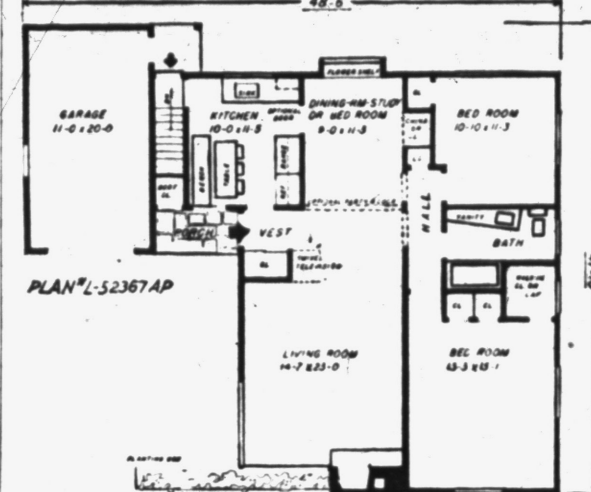

Psychologically, color can change moods of persons. High colors can be overly stimulating, drab colors can be depressing.

It would seem best to follow the middle road and contrive rooms that have a peaceful, tranquil quality. This can best be done by keeping walls, carpet and much of the upholstery in one tone, leaving color for small pieces and accessories.

Here is a glossary of colors with their complements. Although I have thought of these in terms of the living, dining and library rooms, I think the same principles carry over to other rooms.

Beige—A warm restful background for cool colors such as jade green, bristol blue, emerald green; a particularly good background for pine, bleached woods, and natural walnut case pieces. For accessories, try gleaming brass, accents of black lacquer.

Gray — A calm, serene color, calling for accents of warm persimmon, ruby red, gold or yellow; a fine background for mellow mahogany pieces. Again, black is a FLEXIBLE PLAN — This plan can be used for either a two-bedroom or three-bedroom house. A partition can make a third bedroom out of the dining-study space. A large walk-in closet off the front bedroom can become an extra lavatory. A location for a swivel television is indicated. This is plan L-52367AP designed by Alfred H. Ryder, architect, for the Architects' Home Plan Bureau, Box 141, Bethlehem, Conn. The house covers 1,146 square feet, exclusive of garage and porch.

Blue—From deep tones to pale ones, blue is a restful, receding color giving even the smallest area a sense of space. Yellows, oranges and reds are "at home" with blues. Any wood tones are enhanced by a blue background and white painted pieces always are successful.

Green—From emerald through celadon, from mossy green to citron, greens remain a perennial favorite. With yellow greens, use yellows, copper shades and "salmony" pinks. Both tones lend themselves to pickled pines, bleached woods and mahogany. Darker furniture is good with the lighter tones.

Red—A difficult color for backgrounds; red is exciting and stimulating color and is best handled by experts.

Pink—A most feminine color and seldom suited for living rooms; it should be reserved largely for bedrooms.

Purple—Another difficult color that must be used in small doses. It can give a depressing, even funeral quality.

Yellow—Even though the color of sunshine, yellow needs care in execution. Remember that the depth of yellow fades greatly under artificial light so deep tones of yellow must be used to hold their character.

White, emerald, bright blues are good with yellow, and for a neutral, stick to grays rather than beiges. Pine is a poor color against yellow and if mahogany is used, be sure it is of brown rather than red tone.

Brown—In the rich Van Dyke or tobacco shades, the brown range is a perfect setting for modern furniture. As brown can vary considerably, let the wood tones guide you. With natural walnuts, use a reddish brown; with bleached woods, use a greenish shade. With all, use a quantity of beige hangings and floor coverings. With this coloring, use high color accents such as peacock blue, turquoise, bitter greens and bright tangerine.

White—With white any other shade is beautiful, but avoid that "snow storm" look in a room by using large areas of dark woods, floors, and pictures to give contrast. Be sure that the lighting of a white room is more than adequate to eliminate dingy shadows.

Racks Give More Space in Your Refrigerator

For extra refrigerator room housewives might try the new, lightweight wire racks. Each rack holds three 12-ounce plastic containers.

The containers are shatterproof and tight-lidded but flexible enough so they can be bent into a pouring spout.

Junior Travel Kitchen Plugs Into Car Lighter

They call this a junior traveling kitchen. It is an electric pot for coffee, eggs, stews, soups, or to heat the baby's formula. Here is the unique thing about it — you can plug it in to a six or twelve volt auto battery through the cigarette lighter or into the 110 volt house electric circuit while you are traveling.

The pot has an eight-cup capacity. The American Appliance Corp., N.Y., displayed the appliance "at the new sports and vacation show in New York.

Trend Swinging Toward Colonial in Home Styles

WASHINGTON (INS) — Grandmother would feel right at home amidst the household accessories and knick-knacks on display for spring shoppers.

A trend back to rural colonial America is evident in everything from pots and pans to aprons and towel holders.

And equally as striking in the displays is the prominence of copper and brass. The two bright shiny metals used individually or in combination are edging out the dull-finish, black wrought iron which has been so faddish for two or three years.

One prominent distributor of textile products for swank retail establishments is going all-out this year on a "country" theme.

Roosters, horseshoes and other farm fixtures are printed on domestic cotton and the pattern is used throughout the set, including matching aprons for men and women.

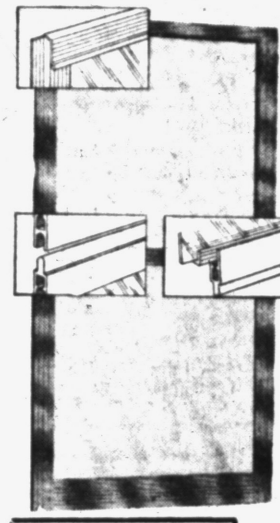

Colors are available in a full range from the standard, and pastels to complementary charcoal and pink. To accentuate the rural tone, the sets are also made from bed ticking.

Brass and copper are used widely this year in planters, trivets, ash trays, bowls and vases as well as cooking utensils. Domestic products are highly finished while the "hammered" metal ones—actually not a manufactured "effect"—are imports.

TUNE IN MICHIGAN NEWS, MON., WED., FRI. 7:30 - 7:35 WPON

Both Crazy About Roy

Ex-Spouse 'Stakes Rival' to Free Lodging in Cooler

CHICAGO (UP)—Roy Ferguson's first and second wives don't often see eye to eye about things.

For instance, wife No. 1 is paying $3.50 a week to keep wife No. 2 in jail.

But they agree on one thing: Roy's a wonderful guy.

The present Mrs. Ferguson, 52-year-old Alma, said she didn't mind the county jail so long as she has Roy.

"I'd go through this all over again for him, any time," she said.

The former Mrs. Ferguson, who now uses the name of Mrs. Theresa Pritchard, said she had seven happy years of marriage until Alma "entered the picture."

Mrs. Pritchard, 42, threw Mrs. Ferguson into the cooler Tuesday because she hadn't come up with $25,000 she was ordered to pay for allegedly stealing Roy's affections.

Mrs. Pritchard can keep her there for six months, at which time the judgment against Mrs. Ferguson would be considered paid.

All she has to do is pay her love rival's $3.50 weekly rent at the county lockup.

Mrs. Pritchard shrugged, "I haven't the slightest idea how long I'll pay to keep her in jail."

As might be expected, the two women had different stories of how one of them came to be behind bars and the other was left, in a manner of speaking, holding the keys.

Mrs. Pritchard divorced Roy in 1949, charging cruelty and four days later he married Alma.

The former Mrs. Ferguson retaliated by bringing a $50,000 suit charging that Alma "wood and won him (Roy) from her." In April, 1954, a circuit court jury awarded her $25,000 and included a malice count which enabled Mrs. Pritchard to jail Alma if she didn't pay up.

Languishing in jail, Mrs. Ferguson insisted she never was a love thief.

Roy and Mrs. Pritchard had already reached the parting of the ways when fate threw him in her path, Mrs. Ferguson said.

She explained that she was stranded behind a flooded viaduct in 1949 and Roy, a fellow candy company employee, was sent out to rescue her.

They later went to a movie together, Mrs. Ferguson said, but two previous marriages had soured her on love and "there wasn't any romance between us then."

Roy told her he was having trouble with his wife, according to Ferguson's present spouse, and she was surprised when he asked her to marry him.

Since then, she said, "my marriage has been beautiful."

Principals Charged in Texas Land Fraud

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—An examining trial has been set April 16 for J. Paul Little charged earlier this week with theft of $277,344 in connection with Texas' 100-million-dollar veterans land program, rocked by scandal since last November.

Former Texas Land Commissioner Bascom Giles was named at the same time in four separate charges in which the same thefts were alleged. Giles is under two indictments and charges involving more than $1,700,000 in veterans land deals.

Everett Looney, Little's attorney, asked the hearing to determine if there is enough evidence to bind Little over to the grand jury.

They plan to be married this weekend.

Woodward, twice a widower, has five daughters and two sons.

Rescue Couple in Flooded Auto

Teenagers Spend 33
Hours Trapped in Car
Under Bridge

BRISTOL, N. H. (U)—Two teenagers, rescued from a car trapped in the raging Smith River for 33 hours, were recovering today at Franklin Hospital.

Nancy Willis, 14, and Albert Paine Jr., 16, suffered shock and exposure during their ordeal.

The harrowing experience began Wednesday night when Nancy, learning how to drive, lost control of Paine's automobile on Route 3A.

The car plunged down a 50-foot embankment and was swept 400 feet down the swift river before it came to rest on a rock under a bridge.

Hundreds of men and boys from Bristol and surrounding communities searched for the couple but were unable to see them because the car was obscured by the bridge. The roar of the current drowned their cries for help.

Water seeped into the car and rose as high as the seat. The hood of the car was sprung when it hit the rock and the hood deflected the water from rising higher.

Nancy and Albert spent Wednesday night huddled under a blanket in the car. They kept their spirits up with light banter and by reading an old joke book.

But most of the time they prayed. A classmate of Albert, Mason Westfall, 16, was the first to sight the half-submerged car. He summoned other searchers and rescue apparatus was called from the fire department.

Firemen, using block and tackle, lowered a 55-foot ladder across the rampaging river to reach the car.

At Franklin Hospital, Nancy's biggest worry was, "I wonder if he's sore because I wrecked his car?"

County Medical Society Awaits Report on Vaccine

Oakland County Medical Society is ready to swing into action immediately if, as expected, the Salk polio vaccine is pronounced effective in the report to be issued Tuesday by the University of Michigan evaluating team.

Virtually all of the county's medical men have volunteered to administer the vaccine in free clinics to some 30,000 Oakland County school children in grades one and two.

"A host of volunteer workers," said Dr. F. M. Adams of Birmingham, OCMS polio committee chairman, "have been recruited to aid in the program. Doctors are scheduling their participation to meet the convenience of the public."

Asked whether adults and older children could receive vaccinations for polio immunization from their family physicians, Dr. Adams pointed out "an unknown quantity of the vaccine will be available through regular professional channels."

"Our information is," he continued, "that nowhere near enough will be sold to hospitals and doctors for mass immunization."

"After studying the incidence charts showing what age groups polio strikes most often," Dr. Adams said, "our recommendation is that the commercial supply be given to pregnant women and 5-and 6-year-olds first."

Parke, Davis & Co., biggest manufacturer of the vaccine at its Rochester biological unit, has already announced that supplies of the Salk-type polio preventive will be limited for some time. Cost for a three shot series, according to the pharmaceutical firm, will be $6, plus the doctor's fee for administering the vaccine.

It is little known throughout the state because organizing efforts are centered in the capital city area.

"The Southern Gentlemen" are affiliated with the more widely known Citizens Council in Mississippi, and are taking advice from the Mississippians.

Chairman J. B. Easterly is the key man. He is hopeful of statewide expansion and says feelers are out in New Orleans, Shreveport, Alexandria, Monroe and Lake Charles.

"We want the world to know we're not Ku Kluxers or anything similar," he says, "and we don't believe in rough stuff."

The "Southern Gentlemen" are not against the Negro, Easterly says.

"We're dedicated to the present Southern way of living and believe the segregation issue is the most important thing in Louisiana today."

General Telephone Plans to Pick Bargaining Agent

A National Labor Relations Board decision issued April 5 paved the way for an election among Plant and Traffic employees of General Telephone Company of Michigan to determine a certified bargaining agent for future negotiations with the Company.

The decision came as a result of a petition filed last June by the CWA-CIO for representation of the Company's employees in the two departments throughout the state who had heretofore been represented by the IBEW-AFL.

As a result of the decision, an election will be held under the direction and supervision of the NLRB among the employees in the units found appropriate by the board.

A hearing aid amplifier so tiny that it virtually can be covered by a 3 cent postage stamp is the last scientific development with the use of an electronic transistor.

The device has been perfected for Acousticon International, according to S. W. Williams, of Hunting Woods, distributor in Oakland County. The new amplifier, which will be a boon to the hard-of-hearing, can operate a 20-watt high fidelity speaker. The tiny size opens new designs and convenience for personal use.

Salk Shot Code to Be Revealed

Report to Give Names of Children Receiving Real Vaccine

AN ARBOR, Mich. (U)—Parents of children in 11 states, Canada and Finland who participated in last year's Salk polio vaccine tests will learn by the end of next week who got the actual vaccine and who got a neutral control substance.

Robert Voight, chief statistician at the poliomyelitis evaluation center at the University of Michigan, said yesterday the coded vaccination records of some 749,000 children are being mailed to health departments in areas where children took part in the mass experiment.

From these records, health officials will learn for the first time which of the children who were given an injection received the Salk vaccine and which were given placebo (dummy shots). In placeboes are as ineffective against polio as water.

It already is known in 33 other states comprising what the evaluation center calls "observed control areas" that all second graders were inoculated with the vaccine while first and third graders received nothing. The names of the latter were recorded simply to serve as a control group.

Lists will be mailed to Michigan, Ohio and Illinois Monday, the day before the official report on the vaccine is made in Ann Arbor.

Warwick has a population of some 43,000.

Rescue Squad Umpires Game of 'Hide and Seek'

During a game of "hide and seek" yesterday, the lad scooted into a trash barrel. His companions couldn't find him until the game was over and Francis tried to get out.

A fire department rescue squad had to cut the container open to free him.

Old England Is Changing

LONDON (U)—There may always be an England, but the fact that a man who has divorced a wife can attain the highest political office in the land is evidence that the old country is changing.

True, Sir Anthony Eden's divorce was not as spectacular one.

There were no correspondents, no titillating testimony, no dark backdrop. It was just that Beatrice Beckett, daughter of banker-publisher Sir Gervase Beckett III, decided after more than 20 years as Mrs. Eden that she wasn't suited temperamentally to be the wife of a man wholly absorbed by statesmanship. She went to New York in 1946 and stayed there.

Eden divorced her on grounds of desertion in 1950.

Not so long ago the circumstances would have been a scandal to shake a government. As it was, there was just a ripple of interest.

In August 1952 Eden compounded what would have been a grave misdeed in the 19th Century by marrying Clarissa Churchill, then 32 and a niece of Sir Winston.

Corsi Mulling New Job Offer

Fired State Department
Employee Blames Foes for Dismissal

WASHINGTON (U)—Edward J. Corsi, blaming "enemies" for the abrupt end of his special immigration post, was undecided today whether to accept another job surveying possible resettlement of immigrants in Latin America and elsewhere. Corsi's present assignment—that of helping speed a lagging program to admit 214,000 refugees into the United States—ends tomorrow. That job suddenly was ruled "temporary."

Corsi—a Republican with a public service record dating back to the Hoover administration—blamed "enemies with the department as well as out" for the unexpected termination of his refugee immigration job. But he mentioned by name only Rep. Walter (D-Pa.). He said he believed the State Department was yielding to Walter's demands that he be ousted.

In recent weeks, Walter repeatedly has charged the Italian-born Corsi with past associations with Communist front groups. Corsi yesterday described Walter's attack as "entirely unwarranted, unfounded and insincere." The Pennsylvania Democrat co-authored the McCarran-Walter immigration law. Corsi has been an outspoken critic of that law, which he called "un-American" and "discriminatory."

Yesterday, the State Department apparently concerned lest the Corsi matter rekindle a furor over its security system—let it be known the former New York state industrial commissioner would be offered a new spot.

Pollock Corp. Sold to St. Regis Paper

NEW YORK (INS)—St. Regis Paper Co. has announced that it has acquired the Pollock Paper Corp. of Dallas, Tex.

Roy K. Ferguson, president and chairman of St. Regis Paper, made the disclosure at the annual meeting of stockholders.

Ferguson told stockholders that the move represents a "real progressive step for St. Regis."

The Pollock Paper Corp., with sales in 1954 exceeding $35,000,000, is a leading manufacturer of waxed paper used in baking and other industries. It operates a paper mill with one machine at Columbus, Ohio, for production of a wide range of waxing and specialty papers.

It also is an important manufacturer of set-up folding boxes and cartons, corrugated containers and paraffin cartons used in the packaging of food. In addition, the firm does a substantial paper jobbing business.

Red Pastors Want 2 Treaties Annulled

MOSCOW (BY PHONE TO LONDON)—The Soviet Council of Ministers today called on the Parliament to annul the treaties of friendship and alliance which Russia signed with France and Britain during World War II.

The move was in retaliation for the British and French ratification of the Paris agreements to rearm West Germany.

The Soviet Union had threatened to annul the treaties if the two Western nations approved the pacts enlisting West German troops in Western defense.

Cancellation by the Supreme Soviet — the Parliament — was a foregone conclusion.

Plans Polio Vaccinations

TRAVERSE CITY (U)—Dr. Gerald Behan, director of the Tri-County District Health Department, said Friday plans are being made to inoculate 2,164 first and second grade school children with the Salk polio vaccine, providing the April 12 report on the vaccine is favorable.

Two Men Injured in Bus-Car Crash

WILLIAM H. CARTIER, 28, of 10 S. Sanford St., and Robert Deveroux, 23, of 2822 Leach Rd., both were treated at Pontiac General Hospital for cuts suffered last night when their auto struck the rear of a bus in front of 819 Oakland Ave.

The bus was driven by Scott L. Wright, 42, of 259 S. Jessie St., who told Pontiac Police he had stopped to pick up passengers.

Eden Team — Prime Minister Anthony Eden and his present wife, Clarissa Spencer Churchill, niece of Sir Winston, board plane for an austerity honeymoon in 1952. Eden's first marriage ended in divorce in 1950.

It was a civil marriage in a registry hall. The Church of England, strongly opposed to the remarriage of divorced persons, would not have permitted a religious ceremony.

The wedding brought some sharp comment from conservative ecclesiastical quarters. But it died down and the divorce raised no serious obstacle to Eden's ultimate promotion.

Now Eden, as prime minister, will recommend to Queen Elizabeth who shall be bishops of that same established Church of England which could not approve his second marriage.

There may yet be further repercussions. There is feeling in some quarters that the church should change its policy toward remarriage of innocent parties to divorcees.

But his divorce and subsequent marriage did underline for Eden—previously almost exclusively a foreign affairs man—the fact that a prime minister must pay diligent attention to the home front.

There has been a fairly successful effort in Britain to keep foreign relations out of political party wrangles. Now Eden is sure to be plunged headlong into controversy, and there is speculation whether he can get angry enough in public to scrap as effectively as Churchill did.

Domestically, Eden is expected to follow the Churchill path.

GETTING FEEL OF NEW JOB — The Rev. Theodore A. Tuenge, pastor of Zion Evangelical and Reformed church at Mount Clemens, visits a cow on a farm to get the "feel" of his forthcoming chores as a cattle attendant for a shipment of 70 heifers for needy farmers in Germany. Two other Michigan churchmen will "ride herd" on the shipment.

Michigan Pastor to Serve as Cowboy on High Seas

MOUNT CLEMENS (U)—A Mount Clemens clergyman is going to serve as a shipboard cowboy for a time this summer.

It is in the interests of the CROP program of farm aid to Europe.

The Rev. Theodore A. Tuenge, pastor of the Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church, is going to take a cargo of 70 heifers to Germany for needy farmers.

Soon the church is to take part in a statewide drive in support of the project.

The heifers are to be given farmers impoverished by World War II or who otherwise have been unable to get a start on herds. Michigan's contribution will be known as the "Wolverine Shipment."

In order for him to make the trip, the Rev. Mr. Tuenge's congregation of 900 members has given him a two-month leave of absence.

One particular condition is attached to the donations to the German farmers: Each farmer must pledge to give his first-born female calf to another needy family.

The Rev. Mr. Tuenge said many of the cattle to be sent to Germany will be registered stock.

"The important thing is that they be good and sound for dairy use," he said.

The Rev. Mr. Tuenge said the heifer shipment is part of the "Christian Rural Overseas Program" among churches in the United States. He said it is a phase of church world service including the distribution of food in foreign countries.

Two other ministers are to be named to accompany the Mount Clemens pastor. They leave July 6 aboard an American freighter for Bremerhaven.

This is not entirely new as an overseas project for the 38-year-old Rev. Mr. Tuenge.

The pastor, who raised goats in Bay, Mo., when he was a rural minister in that state, was put in charge of a shipment of goats intended for Greece shortly after World War II. However, a shipping strike interfered and it was called off.

The Rev. Mr. Tuenge doesn't anticipate any language troubles in Germany. He spent much of his boyhood in Germany and speaks German fluently.

New Brain Fathered by Remington Rand

According to the Wall Street Journal, Remington Rand Corp. was the first to tap the commercial market with a giant brain in 1951 when it brought out "Univac."

Remington now has 46 either in actual use of scheduled for delivery later this year.

IBM has orders for 129. With 109 of the orders for bigger and faster models than its current 702. These big calculators will cost IBM more than one million dollars to build but they will return nearly 50 million dollars each year to the company in rentals.

Remington Rand also has announced a new "Univac II," bigger, faster and better than its predecessor. The first Univac went to the Census Bureau where it is still analyzing myriads of monthly reports on unemployment and other statistical data.

Atom Rays Help Preserve Food

Stanford Tests Show
Radiation Kills Grain
Pests, Stops Sprouting

SAN FRANCISCO (INS)—Use of atomic energy for the preservation of foods was outlined in San Francisco this week.

Preliminary designs of possible equipment for the irradiation of grains and potatoes were shown by William E. Chamberlain, assistant to the director of American Machine and Foundry Company's atomic energy department, at a Stanford Research Institute and atomic industrial forum.

Chamberlain said preservation, or the increase in storage life, of certain foods upon exposure to nuclear radiation appears to be one of the most immediately promising applications of atomic energy.

Annual loss in stored grains through infestation now averages about 150 million bushels, valued at $250,000,000, according to Chamberlain.

Chamberlain said that research has demonstrated that relative small amounts of gamma radiation will destroy insect pests in grain, or make them sterile. He also pointed out that the sprouting or germination of potatoes, onions, and other tubers can be prevented without any damage or change in flavor or appearance.

Two types of designs for crop irradiation are a possibility—mobile and semi-mobile or fixed, Chamberlain said. He added the mobile irradiator might be built into a railroad car for treatment of grain at the elevator, and that a semi-mobile irradiator could be used for treating grain being unloaded from ships or railroad cars.

Growing Kittens Keep Mama Cat Out of Chimney

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The white cat of James Victor 'has been evicted from the plugged-up chimney atop Victor's house, and her three kittens now are earthbound.

Victor didn't want the cat to keep her brood in the chimney for several reasons. Neighborhood children kept crawling over the tile roof to examine the kittens. Robins have nests under the eaves, and the shrieks of the anguished birds were disconcerting, to say the least.

But when Victor had the kittens deposited in a blanket hideaway he fashioned in the garage for the mother cat, he failed to reckon with her obstinacy. She took her brood back to the chimney.

The creaking noise of tile chipping under the children's feet, and the shrill cries of the birds went on, but today Victor brought the kittens down again. This time they stayed down. They are 12 days old, and too big for mother cat to carry in a leap from the front porch to the roof.

The term "free lance" originated from the practice during the Middle Ages of knights and roving soldiers selling their services to any state leader needing them.

Tell Ships' Stewards to Join AFL Union

'LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Ships' stewards in the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union have been advised to resign and join the AFL Seafarers' International Union to protect their jobs.

The 200 delegates to the ILWU convention passed a resolution yesterday urging the stewards to sever their allegiance. Only 24 hours before, the National Labor Relations Board announced in San Francisco that Harry Lundeberg's SIU defeated Harry Bridges' ILWU for stewards' bargaining rights on 145 Pacific Maritime Assn. ships. About 2,000 ILWU stewards are involved.

The ILWU delegates named Bridges as the only nominee for the office of president, so he will serve another two years unless an election among the membership, to be held within 60 days, doesn't turn up a write-in candidate with more votes than Bridges gets.

Bridges, 55, has been head of the ILWU since it was organized in 1937.

Leaders of Cub Scouts Schedule Roundtable

Third in the series of cub scout leaders roundtables will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Webster School, sponsored by Pontiac District, Clinton Valley Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

Louis Gilson, cub day camp director, will discuss summer programming and show films on cub pack activities.

Lanza's One Big Bundle of Talent and Problems

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Hollywoodites speculated today as to what's wrong with Mario Lanza, and his friends agreed: the portly singer sports a king-sized ego that may cover up an inferiority or fear complex.

To some fans the tempestuous tenor is a tragic figure hit by personal, financial and career troubles for nearly three years. Others are impatient that this strapping, talented man can't settle down.

Monday, he failed a $100,000 job in Las Vegas because of a claimed case of laryngitis. What really went wrong?

Lanza actually had laryngitis, those close to him agree. But the ailment was aggravated beyond repair—and possibly subconsciously caused—by his anxiety over such an important job. This same nervousness, friends say, caused him to resort to record-playing on a TV program last fall.

Lanza's throat began bothering him on the train even before he arrived in Las Vegas.

"He became so worried he couldn't sing and that aggravated the condition," explains writer Ben Hecht, a close friend of the tenor.

"He just sat in his room for four days. The day of the performance I talked to him at my hotel for hours. I looked down his throat and it was red as H—."

"He seemed in good spirits but when he got back to his own hotel he didn't feel good again. He was so upset because he couldn't sing he was almost suicidal. He did not want to go on the stage to apologize so he took some sleeping pills and passed out."

Hecht describes Lanza's ego as "the biggest I've ever seen. He thinks he's the greatest." But other friends think Lanza's bellowing covers up some problems.

"These troubles made him feel pushed in a corner and afraid of performing in front of audiences," one friend said. "He belongs on records and in films where he can work at leisure."

Despite Lanza's troubles he is not washed up.

CBS-TV wants him for another "Shower of Stars." Two night club owners told me they would book him for Las Vegas again in a minute "because he is a great talent and a great draw."

Pigeons Invade Store, Scramble Merchandise

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—It was almost like a woman's rummage sale as five pigeons invaded Save Rite Drug Store Friday and knocked down some merchandise from top shelves while flying around.

The pigeons apparently entered the store through a skylight. The pigeons swooped around the store, caused $10 to $15 damage, and finally were driven out a rear window by police and employees using rakes.

Some of the first volunteer Union troops sent to Washington during the Civil War were housed in the Senate and House.

Deduct Extra $5 for Strike Fund, UAW Asks Big 3

DETROIT (AP)—The CIO United Auto Workers Union has asked the nation's Big Three automakers to start deducting union dues at the increased rate of $7.30 a month from the paychecks of hourly rate employees.

The boost from $2.50 a month was approved overwhelmingly last week at the UAW convention in Cleveland. The additional $5 is earmarked for building up a $25 million dollar strike fund to support the union's battle for a guaranteed annual wage for its 1½ million members.

Disclosure yesterday of the UAW request to General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. brought no indication from the auto companies of whether the new rate would be deducted under the so-called "check-off" system or considered an assessment and not deductible.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Police said Cleser Ford, 37, stabbed in the chest and speeding to a hospital for attention—ran his automobile through a red light last night and hit a car.

Accident Investigator G. H. Hoskins said Ford, stabbed in a dice game fight, was the only person in either car seriously injured. His condition was described by hospital attendants as "not too good."

Middlecoff Leads Masters on Hot 137

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Cary Middlecoff calls the huge Augusta National a "waiting course"—and the rest of the golfers in the elite Masters Tournament were waiting today to see if the former molar mauler from Memphis falters in the third round or keeps a firm grip on his four-stroke lead.

That isn't exactly what Middlecoff had in mind when he used the term, but history has proved time and again that in this classic championship those who wait for the pace-setter to stumble quite often are rewarded.

After shooting his spectacular 31-34-65 yesterday for a 137 total, the tall, 34-year-old 1949 U. S. Open champion, who registers out of Kiamas Lake, N. Y., commented: "This is the 10th time I've played here. Last year was the first time I learned that this is a 'waiting course.' You have to wait for things to come your way. You can't force birdies on this course. You begin trying to force a birdie, you wind up with a bogey."

Jackie Burke, the first-round leader, knows exactly what Middlecoff means. The birdies came his way in droves Thursday when he got his 67—good for a four-stroke lead—but he caught a batch of bogies yesterday and took a 76. This dropped him into a tie for third place with Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., who had rounds of 72-71-143.

Thus, Burke, who also uses Kiamas Lake as his golfing address, was six strokes behind instead of four strokes ahead after the second round, a shift of 10 strokes in one day.

Ben Hogan, from Fort Worth, Tex., sometimes called the "boss" of the Augusta National course because of his consistently good showings here, made his bid for the lead with a fine 68 in the second round. But he fell short under Middlecoff's terrific onslaught and had to settle for second place at the midpoint of the tournament with a 141.

Next in line with a 72-72—par 144 was youthful Bob Rosburg of San Francisco. Mike Souhak, the big boy from Durham, N. C., was in sixth spot with 71-74-145. Former U. S. Open champ Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N. C., tied with Souhak for second place after the first round, had a lot of company at 146.

Middlecoff, who turned pro in 1947 and gave himself two years to determine whether to be a golfer or a dentist, made only one bad shot during his sparkling round. He looked up on an iron shot to the 17th green and got his only bogey of the round—and that bogey prevented him from tying the competitive course record of 64 set by Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill., in the first round of the 1940 Masters. Par is 36-36-72. But the 65, which Cary called "about as good a round as I ever played," is the lowest ever scored in a Masters except for Mangrum's 64.

The former Tennessean described his golfing strategy for the Masters this way: "I play 'em all for pars and if a birdie wants to hit me, that's fine."

Middlecoff was besieged by birdies on the front nine. He started out with one on the first hole by canning a 20-foot putt, then got four in a row on No. 6 through No. 9.

Then, at No. 13, he got an eagle-3 with a 75-footer that brought a roar from his tremendous gallery and a leap of exultation from Middlecoff himself.

"I was strictly trying to get that one down in 2," he said with a grin. "But it went in like it had eyes."

Although he said he thought he had a good chance to win, Middlecoff wouldn't predict he could hold his lead through the final two rounds—he remembered what happened to Burke, and he remembered what happened to him in the 1947 Masters.

NEW YORK (UP)—Workaday worries and pressing problems will be laid aside Monday for peanuts, popcorn and pennant talk when President Eisenhower, a converted outfielder, throws out the ball that formally launches the 1935 major league baseball season.

The President, who can still throw with medium speed, is scheduled to make his ceremonial toss at 1:30 p.m. in Griffith Stadium, Washington, whereupon a couple of fellows who can buzz the ball a little faster—Lou Kretlow of Baltimore and Bob Porterfield of Washington—will take over and hook up in the American League inaugural.

The only other game to be played Monday will start at 2:30 p.m. in Cincinnati where Bob Bush of Chicago will oppose Art Fowler of the Redlegs in the National League bid-offer.

Twenty-four hours later, on Tuesday, all 16 big league clubs swing into action.

Kansas City, the newest entry in the major leagues, is almost assured of a sellout crowd for the inaugural between the Tigers and Athletics. Ned Garver, an old hand at pitching openers, is slated to face Alex Kellner of the A's.

Boston opens at Baltimore with Frank Sullivan tabbed to go for the Red Sox and either Jim McDonald or Joe Coleman for the Orioles.

In National League activity Tuesday, the Phillies play host to the Giants with Robin Roberts due to face Johnny Antonelli. Max Surkont of the Pirates has been named to face Carl Erskine of the Dodgers at Brooklyn, and Gerry Staley of the Redlegs probably will oppose Warren Spahn of the Braves at Milwaukee.

St. Louis is at Chicago and the probable pitchers for that game are Brooks Lawrence and Paul Minner.

Can Willie Mays keep up his '54 pace? . . . Can Chuck Dressen boost the Senators into first division? . . . Is Bobby Shantz on the way back again?

All these questions and others will start being answered when the umpires yell 'Play ball!' next week.

NHL Foes in 'Clutch' Test

MONTREAL (AP)—The Montreal Canadiens, with a new grip on their confidence, move into another clutch assignment against the Detroit Red Wings tonight in the fourth game of the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup playoffs.

Detroit, winning 15 straight games for a NHL record before giving in to the Canadiens 4-2 Thursday, have a 2-1 edge in the playoffs. A victory tonight would send the best-of-7 series back to Detroit's home ice Sunday with the Red Wings overwhelming favorites for their seventh Stanley Cup, symbol of hockey supremacy.

Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion pulled the Canadiens back into the series in the third game. He scored three goals as the playoff moved to Montreal ice, two of them within 12 seconds of the first period.

The Canadiens also had high-scoring Jean Beliveau back in form in the triumph. He scored Montreal's other goal while playing his best game of the series after being bothered by an infection.

That pair, working overtime without the suspended Maurice Richard, will have to click again tonight, for the Canadiens can't plan on holding Detroit's great "production line"—Ted Lindsay, Gordie Howe and Dutch Reibel—scoreless again as they did Thursday.

Both teams had a leisurely day off yesterday, going through their paces at the Forum for motion picture cameras at separate times. It's a matter of Stanley Cup custom to take movies of the playoff teams as well as to film the games.

Another hotel lobby incident popped up yesterday, too. Carl Voss, referee-in-chief of the NHL, spotted linesmen George Hayes and Bill Morrison sitting in the lobby of the hotel where the Red Wings were housed. Voss ordered the pair out of the hotel, although they said they were registered at another hotel and were only keeping an appointment with a friend.

Voss explained: "It has been our policy during the series to keep officials away from the hotel where a team is staying."

Hockey fans in this area will be able to watch the 4th game of the Stanley Cup championship series between the Detroit Red Wings and the Montreal Canadiens from Montreal's Forum tonight.

The telecast will start at 9:30 p.m. and will be seen over CKLW TV, channel 9. The game will be carried on radio from the start at 8:30 p.m. over WJLB and the Stroh Hockey network (which includes WKMH Dearborn).

Sunday night's game from Olympia will be broadcast over the radio hookup and will be televised by WXYZ-TV (channel 7) at 9:30 p.m.

The speedy Ashburn suffered a slight concussion and an injury to his left knee while Ennis came up with a chest bruise and a slightly pulled muscle in his left knee as the result of the crash yesterday.

Both players rested at the hotel here today while their teammates took on the Kansas City Athletics.

However, Trainer Frank Wiechec said Ennis probably will be able to start in the season's opener against the New York Giants, National League and world champions, on Tuesday at Connie Mack Stadium.

But Wiechec went on, Ashburn's status is doubtful. X-rays were taken last night and the results of the film were awaited today to show whether Mantle will need a rest for a week or so or will be able to play within a few days.

The injury puts Ashburn's consecutive-game streak in the National League in jeopardy. He has played in 730 straight games and it was expected that he'd challenge the loop mark of 822 games set by Gus Suhr, the former first baseman of the Pittsburgh Pirates, which ended in 1937.

Mantle's long fly caused the collision and turned into an inside-the-park home run. Apparently Ashburn's head rammed into Ennis' chest. Ashburn was knocked unconscious by the collision while Ennis had his wind knocked out. Both left the field under their own power but Ashburn was limping noticeably. The Phils won the game 8-6.

Stars Upset Trotters

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—The College All-Americans, paced by Jack Stephens, former Notre Dame ace, and ex-Michigan State College star Al Ferrari, defeated the Harlem Globetrotters last night 99-96.

Stephens scored 28 points. Ferrari tallied 23. It was the 6th victory of their current road tour for the Collegians.

Whether he can carry his speed over a longer distance and possibly qualify for the still longer Derby is the question he'll be asked to answer today. The Gotham is at a mile and one-sixteenth, three-sixteenths of a mile shorter than the Kentucky Derby. He'll carry 120 pounds in the Gotham, the same as his rivals.

Although he failed to win a rich stake last year, Simmy picked up $94,675, a part of which came from finishing second to Summer Tan, one of the Derby favorites, in the rich Garden State stakes. He also was runner-up to Georgian in the Washington Park Futurity.

Tigers Buy 2 Players

DETROIT (UP)—Detroit Tigers had two new infielders in the fold today.

They claimed Ron Samford, 25-year-old 2nd baseman and shortstop, from the New York Giants yesterday for the $10,000 waiver price. Thursday, they bought Harry Malmberg from the Cleveland Indians in a straight cash deal.

CAMP LEJEUNE, N. C. (UP)—University of Michigan baseball team lost an exhibition game to the Camp Lejeune Marines yesterday, 8-6.

Coan and Evers Are Early Surprises With Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP)—Gil Coan and Hoot Evers, a couple of veteran outfielders fighting for their major league lives, have been the surprise standouts of the Baltimore Orioles during spring training.

They've performed better than even the most rabid Baltimore fan had dared hope. And ironically, they'll probably alternate in the outfield when the season opens Monday.

Their careers have been strikingly similar. Both started playing full-time in the majors in 1946, although Coan was sent back to Chattanooga the following year for seasonings.

Both have been hampered by numerous damaging injuries. And both tailed off sharply after hitting .300 several years.

Now, under the expert and patient handling of Manager Paul Richards, they show signs of regaining their old form. The Orioles could use them.

Coan has always had the natural ability, but he has never attained the heights predicted for him. The nearest was a modest .303 batting average in 1950 and 1951. He hit .279 for Baltimore last year and his fielding lapses caused Oriole fans to shudder.

Evers' problem was a strange weakness for chest high pitches. After swatting .314, .303 and .323 for Detroit (1948-50), the right-handed swinger went into a tail-spin. His highest mark since was a .262 and last year he hit only .152 while shuttling between the Boston Red Sox, New York Giants and Detroit.

Yanks, Dodgers in 'Home' Series

BROOKLYN (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Yankees, second best in last year's pennant races, open an intra-city series at Ebbets Field today in what once was termed a "World Series Preview" by New Yorkers.

Both managers will use three pitchers in three-inning takes. The Yankees' Caggy Stengel will open with Tom Morgan, following with Don Larsen and Jim Konstanty. It will be only the second appearance of the spring for Larsen, bothered by a sore arm all spring after coming to the Yankees in the winter deal with Baltimore.

Manager Walt Alton will use Don Newcombe, Johnny Podres and Billy Loes.

County Golfers on U. of D. Links Squad

A trio of Oakland County golfers are members of the University of Detroit links squad, which opens its season Monday against the University of Michigan team at Ann Arbor.

Letterman Ray Conlon of Ferndale, back for his 3rd season on the team, could be one of the top shooters in the Missouri Valley Conference. Among the newcomers is Tommy Watrous, a sophomore from Royal Oak.

Watrous, former Shrine High star, is the son of Oakland Hills Country Club pro Al Watrous. He was the state prep medalist in 1952 and '53 and will be a regular. Also on the Titan squad is Lionel Balanger of Southfield Township, another sophomore.

Inactive Tigers May Get Rusty, Says Boss Bucky

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Manager Bucky Harris of the Detroit Tigers fears his club may be rusty because of idleness on the road north from their Lakeland, Fla., training camp.

Yesterday's open date made five idle days out of nine since Detroit left Lakeland. And the Tigers will rest again Monday in Kansas City before meeting with the Athletics Tuesday in the season opener.

"We're going to need some batting practice," Harris said. "I sure hope we can get in all three games here."

Mann Loses Backstroke, Has Chance for 'Triple'

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Shelley Mann lost her chance for four titles in the National AAU Women's Indoor Swimming Meet but today she goes after a triple for the second straight year.

The tall, brown-haired 17-year-old high school senior from Arlington, Va., defends her 1954 title in the 100-yard butterfly. She already has won the 400-yard individual medley and 100-yard freestyle.

Miss Mann's role as favorite to repeat as winner of the 100-yard backstroke didn't hold up and that spoiled her chance of four individual titles.

Although she lost that crown, Miss Mann wasn't shut out yesterday. She and three teammates of the Walter Reed Hospital Swim Club of Washington, D. C., took the 400-yard freestyle relay.

That one, a repeat victory from last year, had to survive a protest from Gus Papenuth, coach of the Lafayette, Ind., Swim Club.

The doubleheaders was a last minute request of Cardinal Manager Eddie Stanky after the Tigers arrived here. Stanky said he wanted to get another look at some young pitchers he had. Harris agreed to the proposal.

The extra games will give Harris that much more time before deciding the batting lineup he'll open with.

Shantz OK in 2nd Time Out

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Bobby Shantz, the Kansas City Athletics' question-mark hurler, yesterday took another step along the comeback trail with his second straight impressive performance.

Shantz, sidelined by arm trouble last year, held Richmond of the International League to one run and six hits in seven innings as the A's pounded out a 10-3 win.

Shantz now has allowed only two runs in his last 12 innings of pitching and his control has shown steady improvement.

State OK Is Needed for Track Purchase

DETROIT (UP)—State racing commissioner James Inglis today said the proposed purchase of the Detroit Race Course by Texas millionaires Clint Murchison and Sid Richardson of Dallas, will have to be approved by the Michigan attorney general's office.

The two Texans offered to buy the track for $5,000,000. The money was to be borrowed and repaid out of profits. After the track was paid for, they proposed that it would belong to Boys Inc., a charitable organization which then would receive all profits over 10 per cent. The 10 per cent would go for operating expenses.

Tennis Entries Open

Entries are now being taken for the Michigan State Girls' Open tennis tournaments scheduled May 12-22 at Kingswood School, Cranbrook, in Bloomfield Hills. Competition will be held in four divisions for girls under 15 and girls under 18.

AP's Pre-Season Poll Has Cleveland, Milwaukee Teams Winning Pennant; Tigers Tabbed for Fifth

NEW YORK (AP)—Apparently ignoring the results of last fall's World Series, major league writers today selected the American League Cleveland Indians and the National League Milwaukee Braves to meet in the next fall classic.

Of the 110 scribes who voted in the annual Associated Press pre-season poll, 61 selected the Indians to make it two American League pennants in a row. The Yankees, picked to repeat as runners-up, drew 47 first-place votes and the third-place Chicago White Sox attracted the remaining two votes.

Based on total points, with a first-place vote worth 8 points, a second place vote worth 7 points and so on down the line to 1 point for eighth place, the Indians nipped the Yankees, 831 points to 800. The White Sox totaled 658 points to far outdistance the fourth-place Boston Red Sox (480) and the fifth-place Detroit Tigers (469). Washington (346), Baltimore (260) and Kansas City (116) finished poor also-rams.

The Braves surprisingly were awarded a larger margin over the defending champion Giants than Cleveland enjoyed over the Yankees. Milwaukee received 60 first-place votes to only 28 for the Giants and 19 for Brooklyn. The St. Louis Cardinals, only other team to receive first-place recognition, drew three top ballots.

On point total, Milwaukee received 807 points to the runner-up Giants' 750 and the third-place Dodgers' 720. The Cards earned fourth place with 627 points followed in order by Cincinnati (467), Philadelphia (342), Chicago (209) and Pittsburgh (136).

Neither the Indians, Yankees, Braves nor Giants received a second-division vote. Two writers named the Dodgers and White Sox for fifth. An oddity is the fact that only two teams in each league—Baltimore and Kansas City in the American and Chicago and Pittsburgh in the National—received last-place votes. The Athletics had 105 cellar votes and the Pirates 85.

Richie, Ennis Collide Chasing Mantle's Drive

Ashburn's Consecutive Game Streak in Peril; Del Appears OK

The speedy Ashburn suffered a slight concussion and an injury to his left knee while Ennis came up with a chest bruise and a slightly pulled muscle in his left knee as the result of the crash yesterday.

Both players rested at the hotel here today while their teammates took on the Kansas City Athletics.

However, Trainer Frank Wiechec said Ennis probably will be able to start in the season's opener against the New York Giants, National League and world champions, on Tuesday at Connie Mack Stadium.

But Wiechec went on, Ashburn's status is doubtful. X-rays were taken last night and the results of the film were awaited today to show whether Mantle will need a rest for a week or so or will be able to play within a few days.

The injury puts Ashburn's consecutive-game streak in the National League in jeopardy. He has played in 730 straight games and it was expected that he'd challenge the loop mark of 822 games set by Gus Suhr, the former first baseman of the Pittsburgh Pirates, which ended in 1937.

Ashburn was knocked unconscious by the collision while Ennis had his wind knocked out. Both left the field under their own power but Ashburn was limping noticeably. The Phils won the game 8-6.
