

Swift Police Action Quells Racial Violence in Detroit

From Our News Wires
DETROIT — Detroit, less than nine months ago the scene of the nation's worst recent outbreak of racial violence, was calm today after authorities moved state and local police and National Guardsmen swiftly to quell violence following the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Gov. George Romney announced an 8 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew would remain in effect over the weekend, with a decision to be made Monday on whether the emergency proclamation could be lifted.

"We think it is better to overreact than underreact," said Romney and Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh in a joint conference at Detroit police headquarters.

Romney said the commitment of state police and Guardsmen to assist city police yesterday were "precautionary steps."

Their action followed scattered and sporadic incidents of rock throwing and window breaking, mostly by young Negroes.

Two youths were shot to death, both while allegedly engaging in looting. Police said one of the deaths was an accident.

Three persons were wounded by gunfire, at least two of them by police. Three policemen were injured.

Robert Vaughn, 18, of Detroit was killed after a looting incident in Highland Park, when he backed into the pistol of an officer searching him. Highland Park police chief William Stephens said.

Detroit Police said a second youth, an 18-year-old Negro, died this morning of a gunshot wound. They said he was shot and another youth wounded by Detroit police during a looting incident shortly after midnight.

Incidents of rock-throwing and looting ceased shortly after dark; when an 8 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew, declared first by Cavanagh for Detroit, then by Romney for the entire county, took effect.

ARMORED TANK POLICES DETROIT—A Detroit Police armored vehicle in a phalanx of squad cars starts off north down Detroit's 12th Street today in a show of force after violence erupted yesterday throughout the city. Negroes beat a taxi driver and burned his cab on 12th, and sporadic rock and bottle throwing took place, as the police headed into the area of last summer's July riot. Two persons were reported killed before the violence was quelled.

New Outbursts Wrack D.C., 19 in U.S. Die

By The Associated Press
A new outburst of violence wracked the nation's capital today and crack Army paratroopers joined 4,000 federal troops there. In most other cities hit by violence spawned by the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the dawn brought a respite.

A wave of looting swept Negro sections of Washington, D.C., and new fires were reported in neighborhoods seared by hundreds of blazes.

Nineteen persons have died in racial disorders since King was killed Thursday night, including nine in Chicago and five in Washington, two in Detroit, one in Tallahassee, one in Minneapolis, where police said a Negro killed a white neighbor, and one in Memphis, where King was murdered.

Chicago was hit by waves of fires, shootings and looting in a predominantly Negro West Side area last night and early today. Some 3,000 National Guardsmen shifted from one trouble spot to the next. At least 20 buildings were burned to the ground.

Federal troops, ordered by President Johnson, guarded the White House and Capitol after aiding police and National Guardsmen to bring a raging Negro outburst under control. Some 550 persons were injured, 2,000 arrested.

Washington, Detroit and Memphis were under curfew.

GUARD BACK-UP
National Guardsmen were also backing up police in Detroit and the greater Boston area. A unit of 500 guardsmen moved into Pine Bluff, Ark., to keep peace after police and Negroes exchanged sporadic gunfire during the night.

Guard troops operating from armored personnel carriers in Nashville flushed snipers from buildings on the campus of Tennessee A&T University. Two students were wounded, neither seriously.

Five policemen and National Guardsmen were injured in an exchange of gunfire with snipers near the predominantly Negro North Carolina A&T State

Looting, Burning in D.C.

GIs Guard Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, operating from a White House turned into a fortress, has ordered federal troops to protect the capital against violent Negro unrest which has spurred him to schedule an address to Congress Monday night.

Johnson today was moving on several fronts to combat destructive Negro reaction to the assassination of the Rev. Martin Luther King.

Even as he disclosed his actions, roving looters smashed into stores within two blocks of the White House.

Black clouds of smoke from incendiary fires hung low over the city.

The violence in Washington and other urban centers prompted Johnson to cancel plans for weekend conferences in Honolulu on Vietnam policy and a meeting there with President Chung Hee Park of South Korea.

GENERAL TO FLY IN

Instead, the White House said Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. commander in Vietnam, will fly to Washington to confer with Johnson—probably today.

Working into early morning hours today, the chief executive was in shirt sleeves, his tie undone, his collar open.

The White House police force was on a 12-hour work basis instead of the normal 8. It was believed the Secret Service agents also were working overtime.

Czech Cabinet Resigns; Government Shuffle Due

PRAGUE (AP) — The Czechoslovak Cabinet resigned today, paving the way for a sweeping government reshuffle with Oldrich Cernik as the new premier, the news agency CTK said.

The Communist party's central committee nominated the 47-year-old Cernik Thursday to form a new government. It called on Communist members in the cabinet to resign. The Cabinet agreed today, "after a short discussion," CTK said.

CTK said the government's resignation was accepted by President Ludvik Svoboda who asked Cernik to form a new government.

CTK said the central committees of the National Front, the Socialist party and the Czechoslovak Peoples party would meet today and Monday to discuss their representation in the new government.

The new Cabinet was expected to be sworn in Monday or Tuesday and probably would be introduced to the National Assembly at the end of the week to make a policy statement, the agency said.

SUN, LIGHT WINDS Will Warm Area

Sunny skies and light variable winds, mostly southerly, will hike temperatures in the Pontiac area into the 50s over the weekend.

The U.S. Weather Bureau announces the following day-by-day official report:
TODAY — Sunny and becoming warmer. High 50 to 55. Fair and not so cool tonight. Low 32 to 37. Winds variable becoming southerly at 10 to 15 miles per hour.

TOMORROW — Partly sunny and warmer.

MONDAY — Mild with chance of showers.

Precipitation probabilities in percent are: near zero today and tonight, and 20 tomorrow.

The low temperature in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 28. The 12:30 p.m. reading was 46.

Aid Reaches Khe Sanh

KHE SANH, Vietnam (AP) — Relief forces landed in Khe Sanh today and some of the allied outpost's defenders already were pushing outward to join the offensive against North Vietnamese troops who besieged them for 76 days.

The enemy siege was officially declared broken Friday after a 20,000-

In one trench, the rangers reported finding the bodies of three North Vietnamese soldiers, all well equipped. They apparently were hit when U.S. artillery and air strikes pounded the trenches.

MARINES TAKE OFFENSIVE

Earlier, about 1,000 U.S. Marines had moved nearly two miles southwest of the base in an effort to root out North Vietnamese troops lurking in the hills near the Laotian border.

South Vietnamese troops were expected to take over defense of most of the two-square-mile fortress, opening the way to withdraw some of the Marines or send them out on additional offensive thrusts.

U.S. commanders once expected one of the biggest battles of the war to develop at Khe Sanh, and estimated that 20,000 enemy troops surrounded the base.

But the latest estimate was that only 7,000 enemy soldiers remained and the rest had withdrawn into the mountains toward Laos under massive U.S. air attacks.

The relief force set out Monday on Operation Pegasus, and parts of it swept the mountains east, south and west of Khe Sanh today.

The biggest push involved a Marine column of tanks, artillery and engineers reopening Highway 9, the only overland supply route to the base. The column was reported three miles east of Khe Sanh on its westward push.

Highway 9 has been closed since August, partly by enemy action and partly by monsoon weather.

In the Central Highlands, enemy ground fire brought down an Air Force F100 Supersabre 28 miles east of Pleiku.

It was the 244th U.S. warplane reported lost in combat over South Vietnam.

U.S.-Hanoi Talk Plans Go Slowly

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials report arrangements with North Vietnam for preliminary discussions on peace talks are "moving forward" very slowly but are still on the track.

The State Department officially disclosed last night the North Vietnamese have been notified through diplomatic channels that President Johnson has agreed to "establish contact."

The unintended disclosure was forced, officials said, by a report that North Vietnam's Deputy Foreign Minister Hoang Van Loi had said in Algiers the United States had not replied to his government's proposal for preliminary discussions.

"In accordance with the President's statement of April 4," the State Department said, "We immediately proceeded to take steps to establish contact."

"Apparently the deputy foreign minister is not fully informed."

Johnson announced Sunday a limited bombing halt over North Vietnam and asked for peace talks.

Hanoi responded Wednesday morning with a statement it was ready to make contact. Several hours later Johnson announced: "We will establish contact."

'Sharp-Nosed' Man Hunted as Assassin

ASSASSIN SUSPECT—A Memphis artist based this sketch on description of a roomer in the building from which Dr. King was shot.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—A neat, clean man with a long, sharp nose—the type of man who seems out of place in a flophouse—was the object of a widening search today as the assassin of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Both U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark and Frank Holloman, city police director, said they were optimistic of a break soon.

But no arrests were announced, and police declined to reveal details of their investigation.

King, the chief exponent of nonviolence in the civil rights struggle, was slain by a single bullet Thursday night as he leaned over the second-floor balcony of a motel, talking with aides on the ground.

He had come back to Memphis to lead a mass march in support of striking garbage workers, and he was killed just one week after another march he led flared into brief window breaking and looting in the downtown area.

As his body was borne back to Atlanta Friday by his widow in a chartered plane, union leaders and civil rights workers throughout the country continued planning for the Monday march.

The bullet that killed King came from a communal bathroom in a flophouse behind the motel.

Police were looking for the man who had checked into the place, paying for his $8.50-a-week room with a crisp $20 bill.

Bessie Brewer, manager of the rooming house, told police the man gave his name as John Willard. "He was a clean, neat man," about six feet tall, she said.

Charles Q. Stephens, who had the room between that taken by Willard and the bathroom, described the man as "clean shaven" and had a long, sharp nose. He had normal eyes and a square chin, thick hair at the front and receding on each side.

Others said they saw the man walk away after the shot was fired.

Clark, who made an eight-hour visit Friday said evidence "indicates a single individual" was involved in the assassination. "There is no evidence of a widespread plot."

The investigation already has widened to several states, he said, and "will spread as far as the evidence takes us."

EVIDENCE PILES UP

Clark also said that evidence in the case was considerably more than police "usually get in cases like this," but he refused to elaborate.

"A number of studies of prints that may establish the identity" of the sniper are being made by police and FBI agents with the aid of the FBI laboratory in Washington, he said.

When he checked in, the man did not have with him the pump-action Remington rifle and telescopic sight that killed Dr. King.

No one in the building recalled seeing him after that until about 5 p.m. Stephens said that about that time the man went down the hall to the bathroom.

At 6:01 p.m. the shot cracked.

Photography Discussion Set Monday

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Professional photographer Joe Clark will lead a round-table discussion on photography with the Bloomfield Camera Club Monday.

The discussion, scheduled for 8 p.m., will take place at the Cranbrook Institute of Science, located on Lone Pine Road.

Clark, a photographer for Life magazine, also has his own commercial studio.

The meeting will be open to the public.

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Robert W. Handrahan, 5567 Westwood, has been appointed sales manager for Kimberly-Clark of South Africa Pty. Ltd.

Handrahan has been Detroit district sales manager for the Kimberly-Clark consumer products division since 1965, and was previously a company sales representative in Detroit.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Subject to the approval of the Federal Communications Commission, the assets of radio station WYSI of Ypsilanti have been sold to Robert Koch, 1865 Standish, a company spokesman has announced.

The station sold for $135,000 on terms, the spokesman said.

City Is Quieter Than Normal

Pontiac was quieter than normal last night as extra police patrolled the city in 12-hour shifts.

A curfew was not imposed on residents, but most taverns were closed by 10 p.m. when notice was received from the State Liquor Control Commission to ban sales of alcoholic beverages.

Liquor restrictions for Oakland, Wayne and Macomb counties will remain in effect until further notice.

There were no incidents over the night stemming from the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King, according to police.

Pontiac's Army National Guard unit Co. E, Long Range Patrol (Airborne), 425th Infantry — was put on standby for possible use in racially tense areas, especially in Detroit.

The company's commanding officer, Capt. Eric F. Schultz, said the National Guardsmen stayed at the army on Water Street overnight and would remain there until further orders.

Ohio Car Crash Kills 6 Detroiters

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — Six Detroit residents, including four from one family, died Friday night in a two-car head-on wreck on U.S. 23 north of this southern Ohio city.

The three survivors of the accident, also from Detroit, were seriously injured.

The Ohio Highway Patrol identified four of the dead as Ted Wiley, 34, his wife, Pansy, 34, and their children, Tammy, 2, and Gary, 12. Richard Garcia, 45, and Mary Boyd, 48, also died.

Garcia was driving a car that went over a concrete divider on the four-lane highway, the Patrol said, and collided with the oncoming, southbound car carrying the Wiley family.

India Mishap Kills 11

NEW DELHI (AP)—Eleven men were killed and 29 injured when steel scaffolding inside a big factory chimney, under construction collapsed Friday at Kola in Rajasthan state, an official report from there said.

Under this plan, students could accelerate their training or have greater opportunity to repeat classes they failed.

On the other hand, students who graduate early wouldn't be eligible for jobs, or sometimes college admission, at age 15. The plan could interfere with students' summer plans and teachers' further professional training. In addition, the plan would be expensive.

A number of area churches and religious organizations are planning memorial observances in honor of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The Oakland County Ministerial Association will sponsor a silent march and memorial service Monday, Rev. C. George Widdfield, rector of All Saints Episcopal Church, announced today.

The procession will leave the parking lot of St. Vincent de Paul church, 150 E. Wide Track, at noon and will move west on Jackson to Bagley, then south on Bagley to the Newman AME church, 233 Bagley, where a 1 p.m. service is planned.

The Rev. Edward D. Auchard, pastor of the Orchard Lake Community Church, Presbyterian, 5171 Commerce, will lead a brief service of prayer and memorial at 8 tonight in the sanctuary. All are invited.

The Waterford Township Ministers Fellowship will hold a memorial service at 3 p.m. tomorrow in Drayton Plains Community United Presbyterian Church, Waterford Township.

TROY SERVICE

The Troy Pastors Association will sponsor a service of prayer and hope for Dr. King and the nation at 3 p.m. tomorrow at St. Thomas More Church, 4580 Adams, Troy.

An interdenominational service, the observance is planned to emphasize the Christian principles threatened by the tragedy of King's death.

"We will reflect on our part in the national problem and make a proclamation of hope for the nation," said a spokesman.

Burning-Permit Ban Is Eased

The ban on issuing burning permits in Oakland County was eased yesterday by the Conservation Department.

"Recent rains have curtailed the grass fire threat in some areas," said District Fire Supervisor C. G. McLarty of the Pontiac Lake office, "and permits can be issued at the discretion of local fire chiefs."

He pointed out, however, that conditions can quickly become volatile this time of year, causing local bans to be reimposed.

Year-Round Class Plan Viewed

Plans for year-round schools are not concerned with providing quality education, a Pontiac schools study reports.

Alternatives generally stress economic efficiency as their goal and therefore are concerned with serving more students and not with the quality of education provided," the report said.

A longer school year, debated for years, is constantly receiving attention from educators.

"When actual cost savings available from these various alternatives are considered," the study says, "it appears that the potential savings are far less than anticipated by their proponents."

Supporters of year-round school plans claim they will save taxpayers money by reducing facilities costs.

The Pontiac school group, however, comments that savings will be "minor" since 80 per cent of a school system's operation costs are for personnel.

A recent four-year study of an 11-month school year in New York State showed that slow learners and advanced students would benefit.

Students would get five or six weeks off in the summer, or possibly longer Christmas and Easter vacations instead.

Some educators say the traditional summer vacation during June, July and August may become a thing of the past. Pontiac school administrators have some other ideas.

"If it is desired to use the capital facilities of the school system more intensively with resultant savings to the taxpayers, it seems much more logical to do so through the use of optional, self-supporting programs," they recommended.

ALTERNATIVES OUTLINED

Such programs would include adult education, enrichment and special programs funded by the federal or state governments.

The local report suggests that school boards "do not possess sufficient political power to institute major changes in the life style of the community (by going to a year-round system)."

"The best recommendation to be made is that a school plan should be tailored to the educational needs of the community," Pontiac's school administrators say.

Plans studied by the Pontiac group were:

• Staggered four quarter plan. The school year would be separated into four 12-week terms with three-fourths of the students in school at one time while the rest are on vacation.

Teachers would be employed for either three or four quarters, depending on employment needs.

Its advantages include constant use of facilities, reduction in number of schools needed and textbook and equipment costs, better salaries for teachers without a summer employment problem.

Disadvantages include student vacations during unconventional seasons, costlier maintenance and textbook replacement, a requirement for summer air conditioning, need for more administrative staff, uncoordinated extracurricular activities.

Fifteen school districts throughout the nation which tried the four-quarter system from 1910 to 1930 abandoned it. They found costs greater than for normal school operation and faced parental opposition in regard to vacations.

Required year-round school or 11-month plan. Students and teachers would go to school for 48 weeks, with possibly a one-month vacation in the summer.

Under this plan, students could accelerate their training or have greater opportunity to repeat classes they failed.

On the other hand, students who graduate early wouldn't be eligible for jobs, or sometimes college admission, at age 15. The plan could interfere with students' summer plans and teachers' further professional training. In addition, the plan would be expensive.

Voluntary summer program. This program provides for an extended summer session following the conventional school year.

The summer session would last from four to 12 weeks. It would provide an opportunity for remedial and enriched or accelerated course work.

Slower students could get special attention while bright students could accelerate without any interference with their camp, work or vacation plans, the report said.

Some teachers could be employed year-round and there would be little difficulty in maintaining school buildings since all facilities would not be needed for classes.

A disadvantage would be that only a small percentage of students would participate, thus producing a small return on the added investment.

Double shift plan. This is the split session idea with one-half of the students attending in the morning and the rest in the afternoon. Students would be split by interest areas of grade levels.

Buildings and equipment need would be reduced but the accrediting agency's requirement of a six hour day would not be met.

Scheduling of elective subjects and extracurricular activities would also present problems.

Ann Arbor Mace Report Eyed

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The New York City Police Department is worried.

Lawmen in Philadelphia fret. Patrolmen in West Coast cities wait anxiously for a decision.

All are looking to Ann Arbor where a decision is expected soon on the use of a chemical spray now in the hands of more than 3,000 police agencies in the United States and Canada.

The tear gas-like spray has a trade name of Mace and is manufactured by General Ordnance Equipment Corp., a division of Smith & Wesson Gun Co. The spray comes in a canister which is carried on a policeman's gun belt and, when attempting to subdue a belligerent prisoner, the officer sprays the chemical into his face.

BRINGS TEARS
The spray brings tears to the eyes of the victim and temporarily immobilizes him. An application of clear water or a solution of baking soda to the face washes away the effects of the spray.

Until last month the manufacturers of Mace had received few complaints about their product at their headquarters, Pittsburgh, Pa., headquarters.

On the contrary, scores of law agencies complimented the company on the effectiveness of the spray, and a half-dozen medical societies lauded it as a humane and harmless weapon for policemen.

But then came St. Patrick's Day, 1968, and two Negro policemen scuffles in Ann Arbor.

The first started when a youth tried to prevent city patrolmen from towing his car from an accident scene. A crowd gathered and soon the policeman and the youth were on the ground struggling with the crowd closing in around the two.

TEEN-AGER SUBDUED
A second officer fought his way through and sprayed the youth with Mace. The chemical subdued the teen-ager, and the crowd, muttering angrily, was ordered away by police.

A short time later, 25 persons appeared at an Ann Arbor hospital where those injured in the traffic accident had been taken. Authorities called police manufacturers of Mace had when the crowd began roaming, receiving few complaints about their product at their headquarters, Pittsburgh, Pa., headquarters.

A second brief battle occurred with Mace again employed on three men arrested.

The next day Ann Arbor's Human Relations Commission bitterly denounced the use of Mace, "accused the police of brutality in the arrests and demanded the weapon be discarded."

COUNCIL DEBATE
The Ann Arbor City Council debated about Mace for two hours, and when the group was unable to reach a decision on the subject, Chief Walter E. Krasny, a 30-year police veteran, said he would temporarily withdraw use of Mace.

The chief promised to have University of Michigan technicians examine the spray and submit a report on it to the Council.

He took that step when several councilmen pouted over out-of-state medical reports about the harmlessness of Mace, complaining that they had "never heard of these doctors."

News of the withdrawing of Mace from the 100-man Ann Arbor Police Department created a minor tremor from Brunswick, Me., to Thousand Oaks, Calif. Police departments, penal institutions and government agencies which had been carrying Mace as confidently as they issued guns and night sticks stopped short. The Ann Arbor Police Department began getting confidential inquiries from other law agencies.

"Everyone wants to know what we've found out about Mace that nobody else knows," said Ann Arbor command officer says. "It's like they think we've found strychnine in mom's apple pie."

NO REPORT YET
The Ann Arbor Police Department isn't planning to reveal its findings until the Ann Arbor City Council meets on Monday.

There are few indications what the findings will be, although Staff Capt. Walter V. Hawkins has been closely guarding a loose-leaf notebook now six inches thick containing data and medical information on Mace.

"We'll be glad to let everyone know what we've found out at the City Council meeting," Chief Krasny says. "We want to set everyone's mind at ease — one way or the other."

One city councilman who voiced loud objection to Mace has said Ann Arborites are "used to guns and nightsticks . . . it's this chemical stuff we don't know about . . ."

Italy Students Fight University System

ROME (AP) — Seething student resentment against an antiquated university system has exploded in the past few months into anarchy on the campuses, challenging the entire Italian establishment.

Disillusioned after years of denying facilities and teaching methods, student activists have extended their protest to Italian society in general. They express scorn at what they see as its scum for mass consumption.

The slogans of the revolt are "Student Power" and "Global Dispute with the System." The heroes include Che Guevara and Rap Brown. Traditional leftists—Communists, Socialists and independent intellectuals—are ridiculed by this new, isolated breed of angry young man.

Sporadic student strikes have given way to vandalism, violence and sit-ins that last for weeks.

SEEK TO RESIGN

Almost all Italy's 33 state-run universities have been hit by demonstrations since fall. In some schools the academic year is in danger of being nullified. The rector of Florence "dinosaurs of culture,"

"barons," and "snake-charmers." Since they are allowed to carry on professional or political careers, some of the professors are not around to hear the name-calling.

A few show up for classes no more than four times a year. Prime Minister Aldo Moro and Foreign Minister Amintore Fanfani are professors.

WANT EXPANSION

The students want an end to more courses they feel would prepare them for an industrialized world-like market research and public relations.

They complained that one architectural professor in Milan perennially gave his classes a single project: design a Greek temple capable of holding 10,000 persons.

The budding architects say they want to know how to design a one-family flat to hold four people.

The system has had to cope with a postwar student population explosion whose dimensions were unforeseen. There now are five university students for every 1,000 persons in Italy, compared with 3.7 in 1945.

Faculties and facilities have not kept up. The ratio of permanent and non-permanent professors to students is 1 to 31.1 compared to the 1957 ratio of 1 to 29.3.

"My students want more seminars," laments a Florence history professor. "But this year I am alone with 300 students. How am I supposed to hold seminars?"

The dropout rate skyrockets. Rome University's student population of 60,000 grows by 20 per cent a year, the number of graduates by 0.9 per cent.

Parliament has passed piecemeal laws appropriating millions of dollars for more teachers, school buildings and scholarships in the next five years.

A fundamental reform law has been blocked for two years by political bickering. With the close of the legislature imminent, the full bill stands no chance of passage now.

It would require professors to teach full-time, establish departments to group similar subjects now listed under different schools, and include students and lecturers on university governing bodies.

Some students would not be happy even if the bill became law. They charge it would allow loopholes for faculties to govern without them and would leave intact what they describe as the professor-dictator system.

The students' aims are not clear. "We must first create chaos in the structures of the university," says a Pisa student. "Then we will take up the question of what type of university we want."

In Rome the students paint the walls of lecture halls. They read the works of Marx, Mao and Herbert Marcuse, professor of philosophy at the University of California at San Diego.

Actor Shows Up Critics of Contract With Studio

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — His fellow actors shook their heads three years ago upon hearing that Robert Wagner signed an exclusive contract with Universal. It seemed to them like something out of the dark ages.

Wagner now has demonstrated the wisdom of his move. He is star of a new television series, "It Takes a Thief," which has proven its strength by being renewed for a full ABC season.

The exclusive player contract had virtually disappeared at the film studios until Wagner signed his deal. Thirty years ago, nearly every important performer was tied to a studio, but economic reverses forced the companies to trim their contract lists until they finally were nonexistent. All actors became free-lancers, and the successful ones preferred it that way. It meant bigger salaries and more independence.

That's why it seemed strange when Wagner signed his Universal deal. After all, he had been that route before. He received the full treatment at 20th Century-Fox in the 1950s. His most famous role was as Prince Valiant, which he somehow survived. After leaving Fox, he free-lanced with fair success.

'ROUGH TIME'

"But after I got back from making some pictures in Europe, I had a rough time," he admitted. "I know I had matured as a performer, but I couldn't get the studios to see it. I sat around for almost two years, except for the time I went East and played 'Mister Roberts' in summer stock. Then came 'Harper.'"

Wagner sought the role of the hedonistic playboy, but studio boss Jack L. Warner gave an unquotable reply in the negative. "He remembered how I convinced Natahe to leave Warner," said the actor, referring to his former wife, Natalie Wood. "Fortunately, Paul Newman went to bat for me, and I got the role."

It proved crucial to his career, breaking him out of the colorless image he had accumulated. His telephone started ringing again, and among the callers were the executives who run Universal.

"They are very persuasive gentlemen," Wagner conceded. "They told me they wanted to take over some young players and use them exclusively in all fields—TV series, features, television features, guest shots. I would be paid for each, with a guaranteed minimum per year. So far my earnings have exceeded the minimum each year."

BEST RESULTS

The payoff really came when Universal sold "It Takes a Thief" to bolster ABC's sagging ratings at midseason. The series did just that, despite its formidable opposition of Red Skelton, Jerry Lewis and a movie. Wagner said he has been told that "It Takes a Thief" has produced the best results of the new ABC series; no wonder it was picked up for 26 weeks in the 1968-69 season.

Why has the series succeeded?

"I think it's well-produced," he observed. "The studio hasn't stinted on quality, photographically and in the writing. And I think the character I play intrigues the public. He actually years, except for the time I went East and played 'Mister

'Speech Freedom' Campus Casualty?

"It can't happen here," of course, but certain developments in American intellectual life suggest how it did happen in Russia and elsewhere. Freedom of speech on the campus is being throttled by pressure from the academic New Left, from professors and students alike, charges Dean VIRGIL K. WHITAKER of Stanford University's Graduate Division.

"Even during the darkest days of Sen. Joe McCarthy we would never have tolerated or even dreamed of the inroads upon the right of free speech on a university campus that have occurred within the last two or three years," he says.

"The darkest day in the history of Stanford was surely that in which DEAN RUSK decided that he could not safely speak in Stanford."

If faculties tolerate suppression of free discussion by the New Left, they will inevitably have to face attacks upon them by the Old Right—and they will deserve them, WHITAKER warns.

The right to proclaim truth as one sees it is not doing very well on the American campus today, he says. For many students and teachers, what really determines the right or wrong of what a person does is not basic principles but where he stands on certain overriding issues like the war in Vietnam.

WHITAKER says that many faculty members seem to feel that the "right" attitude on Vietnam or similar social problems of today is adequate justification for "the most flagrant breaches of various kinds of scholarly obligations."

The New Left has no national political power—nor will it get any, if Americans have learned any lesson from other countries where groups with all the answers and all the truth on their side have gained control.

Baseball Winners Find Victory Cost Is High

What price glory? A pretty steep price, baseball officials have learned. Although the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals led the National League in attendance in 1967, the club's net profit of $600,000 was the same as in 1966, when there were 300,000 fewer paying customers.

The balance sheet probably will look worse in 1968. The St. Louis payroll (including $217,000 for the three first-string outfielders alone) is around 30 per cent larger this year than last.

Other teams also have found that winning more games does not mean making more money. The Chicago Cubs, who went from last place in 1966 to third place in 1967, enjoyed a 54 per cent increase in attendance. But all of the Cubs' 1967 profit of $342,000 and more, will be spent on enlargement of Wrigley Field.

The payroll of the American League Champion Boston Red Sox is up by 30 per cent, with the result that prices for all reserved seats in Fenway Park have been increased.

At least seven additional major league baseball teams have raised admission prices on higher-priced seats. This approach has its limits. Beyond a certain indefinable point, the law of diminishing returns takes over. And increasing the price of general admission, bleacher and children's tickets carries the risk of alienating the hard-core baseball faithful.

But these are thoughts for late in a season that has not yet begun. It will begin, weather permitting, on Monday, April 8, when the Washington Senators meet the Minnesota Twins at D.C. Stadium. Perhaps envisioning a first-division finish, the Senators have boosted the price of opening day tickets by 25 cents.

tried a more devious, but just as useless stratagem. He began writing "Deceased" across all junk mail envelopes and returning them to senders, reports Saga magazine.

In due course, his "widow" began receiving junk mail from people trying to sell her tombstones for her husband's grave.

No Escape From Persistence of Junk Mailers?

Sleet and snow and gloom of night may give the postal couriers trouble occasionally, but literally nothing seems to deter the junk mailers.

There was the California woman awhile back who stuck a notice on her mailbox to the effect that "No person named 'Occupant' lives here." It didn't work.

Let's Take Time Out for Marigolds

By EVERETT DIRKSEN

Every state of the union has an official floral emblem. The United States has none. For years I have promoted the marigold and introduced bills in Congress to make it our national flower emblem, but success with the marigold has eluded me.

DIRKSEN

Perhaps now, while we are beset with such restless fevers, we should take time out for the marigold.

The marigold grows in every state. It is a riot of color. Planted in mass, the yellows, gold, mahoganies, ivories and oranges of the marigold—whether plain, ruffled or speckled, whether dwarf or tall—enhance the brilliance of the sunshine.

Thoughts of the marigold could, for a few hours, dispel the gloom of these dark days, gloom brought upon us by such ideas, for example, that God is dead.

Where, by the way do the cynical and unbelievers find support for this awful doctrine? Certainly not in the massive and steadfast faith of the hundreds of millions who find comfort in the belief that there is a living, imperishable God.

A cruel war plays upon the hopes of our people. It is a war of massive cost. We hope to examine the alternatives of retreat, attrition, and sharp escalation. Is there a solution other than victory or negotiation?

At the moment we are bowed with fiscal despair. The international gold balance runs against us. It has been climbing, and is becoming dangerous to our economic health. The public debt and the annual interest have been escalating.

We may be confronted with two successive budget deficits of more than $20 billion each. Can deficits of that size be managed in the absence of additional taxes and deep cuts in spending?

There is racial ferment in the cities. Who shall say at the moment what its dimensions will be and how intense it may become.

Already the political thunder rolls out across the land. It will become louder and more intense and engross the attention of all of the people. Unlike the people of other countries, preoccupation with presidential politics with us is a national indoor occupation.

We have become a market-conscious country and the gyrations of the stock market each day set off a host of fayers and fears.

Abroad, the heads of central banks—and there are 107 of them—are beginning to entertain grave doubts that as a free nation we are willing as a people to face up to the grim realities of the moment.

And, to say the least, the realities are both real and grim.

What a pleasant escape it would be to take a little while to take time out for marigolds.

If the Congress were to consider the bill that would make the marigold our national floral emblem, it would not, of course, foreclose on the chances of any other flower.

Devotees of the carnation, suburban apostles of the petunia, the worshipers of the rose, the friends of the zinnia or the gladioli, or those whose preference is some other flower, would have their day in Congress. One by one, they could offer their amendments and let the Congress work its will on a choice of our national floral emblem.

Perhaps the very thought of the beauty and fragrance of the wide spectrum of flowers, would sweeten the acids of our spirit.

Let us take just a little time out for marigolds.

(The Carl Hight Jr., Syndicate)

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

"And the multitudes that went before and that followed cried, saying, Hosanna the Son of David: Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hosanna in the highest. And when He came into Jerusalem, all the city was moved..." Matthew 21: 9, 10.

Jesus' triumphal entry into the city marked the first Palm Sunday. It is to be devoutly wished that His spirit and truth could enter all the cities of the world this Palm Sunday.

Confident Living:

By NORMAN VINCENT

PEALE

What a remarkable man! Eighty-four years of age, in superb physical condition, he stands straight as an arrow. Eyes sparkling and alert, no glasses—his face glows with health and his mind is sharp and keen.

Host at a dinner, his conversation scintillated with wit and discernment. He spoke of books he had been reading and seemed acquainted with many fields of modern thought.

DR. PEALE

This man heads a business which he started years ago and built up on his own until today it is a leader in its field. And at 84 he still pretty much runs it.

Indeed, at the table that evening he made a quick deal with a man sitting next to him. Without understanding the details of the transaction I could judge that he knew his business.

Later the other man said, "He got that deal settled to his own advantage. Don't think he didn't! But he was fair. He always is."

Presently our host asked me if I believe that any person by means of faith and right thinking can achieve a bigger, better life. My answer was that I most certainly do—that my main aim is to help people realize this tremendous fact. He then told us the amazing story of a crisis he went through in his youth.

As a teen-age boy he had felt terribly inferior. All the members of his family were scholars, teachers and the like—but he didn't seem to have that kind of brain. Moreover, he was only 5 feet 2 and had an enormous inferiority complex about being so short.

One afternoon at home when the rest of the family were out, he got so dismally discouraged that he decided to end his life. He went to the bathroom, medicine cabinet looking for some poison to take. All he could find was laudanum.

Not knowing anything about it or exactly how it would work, he did not quite have the nerve to take it. So he passed up the suicide attempt.

At the public library the librarian evidently sensed the misery in the boy. She gave him some books on creative living and the power of faith. He read them and reread them.

He noticed an item in the newspaper which said the average height of United States Army men was 5 feet 8 1/2. He suddenly decided that he was going to do something about his height problem. He would find out what kinds of food and exercise might make him taller, and he would do whatever it might take.

He put his height objective at 5 feet 8 1/2. He went to work to make himself that stature.

"And what is your height now?" I asked. He replied smiling, "It is 5 feet 8 1/2. That is what I grew to and that is still my height. Some men shrink a little with advancing years, but I have maintained my desired height."

As a result of the crash program for growing taller he also became a champion swimmer—even got into the Olympic games. At 84 he still swims 20 laps a day in a 75-foot pool.

But the big thing, of course, is that he applied dynamic faith to making himself an outstanding person mentally in business and in relations with people.

The remarkable experience of this man underscores the fact that cultivation of faith and positive thinking can release wonderful potentials to become the effective, better self that everyone aspires to be.

That bigger self in you, greater than anything so far manifested, can be grown tall and strong. And there is no better time than now to start becoming as big as you want to be.

Novel Theory on LBJ's Decision

By NOEL GROVE

NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The theories of Johnsonian motivation in withdrawing from the presidential race flew fast and thick after the bombshell dropped last Sunday night, but perhaps one of the most novel came from a lady staff worker in the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Lyndon Johnson's sense of responsibility as a parent played a bigger part in his decision not to run than most people imagine, confided the member of OEO's public affairs division.

"I told everybody weeks ago that he wanted to get out, and now that Luci and Lynda both were married in presidential weddings, he'd do it," she said.

"He believes in giving those girls equal treatment. Believe me, if Lynda weren't married yet, I don't care what the polls say, he'd be in there plugging for another term."

'Urge Extra Precaution to Prevent Grass Fires'

It's the time of year for grass fires. The damage and loss of property can run into thousands of dollars. There is also the risk of life and limb to firemen as well as others if there should be a vehicle collision. The damage to expensive fire equipment on these WHARF roads is taking its toll. This rough, rutted condition put one of our trucks into the ditch, narrowly missing a tree.

Of the 11 fires we had in two days, nine started from trashburners and careless burning of rubbish, one cause unknown and one from kids building a bonfire.

It would seem that people would not burn when conditions are so volatile. If a person needs to burn trash, burn it after dark when the wind has gone down and there is more moisture in the air. If there is any doubt about the safety of burning, DON'T.

Gives Views on Recent Strikes in Holly

Do Holly employees expect parents to vote yes on millage after this second surprise bus and cook strike? Bus drivers don't wait for children to catch the bus but the children must wait because drivers decided to surprise us with a strike. Will the food be better prepared if cooks get what they are asking? Voters don't mind paying for things that are worth their cost.

'Let's Cut Out Frills in Building Schools'

I agree with Mrs. Reuben on building a new school costing several millions of dollars. Let's build a school but not such a fancy one. The fancy school breeds discontent and vandalism. Children hear parents complain that fancy schools are not needed and use vandalism in the schools out of resentment. Let's have better teachers, pay them more, cut out frills and return the emphasis on the three Rs.

Question and Answer

Are there a statutes of limitation on murder and armed robbery? If so, what are they?

C. H. CRUM

REPLY

Mr. Lyons of the Prosecutor's Office tells us that, according to Public Acts 1954, Act 100, Sec. 24, there is no statute of limitations on murder and it is six years for armed robbery. However, that six years is recorded only for time of residency in Michigan. In other words, it won't work to commit an armed robbery and then leave the State for six years. The authorities start counting again when you move back.

WASHINGTON — The theories of Johnsonian motivation in withdrawing from the presidential race flew fast and thick after the bombshell dropped last Sunday night, but perhaps one of the most novel came from a lady staff worker in the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Lyndon Johnson's sense of responsibility as a parent played a bigger part in his decision not to run than most people imagine, confided the member of OEO's public affairs division.

"I told everybody weeks ago that he wanted to get out, and now that Luci and Lynda both were married in presidential weddings, he'd do it," she said.

"He believes in giving those girls equal treatment. Believe me, if Lynda weren't married yet, I don't care what the polls say, he'd be in there plugging for another term."

The President may have overlooked the possibility of the Vietnam "backlash" vote in making his withdrawal decision, according to the first call Nixon workers made at a telephone conference before the Wisconsin primary.

The lady on the line identified herself as a Republican, so the caller followed with, "Well, you're going to vote for Nixon, aren't you?"

"Nope!" was the answer. "Well, who are you going to vote for?"

"Johnson," was the reply. "He got us into this mess, and he can just get us out of it."

"Little can be done about winning over a voter who looks on electing a president as a punishment, rather than a reward."

It was the kind of line that must have wound the gals up in '23.

The old caddy sidled up to one of the red, white and blue-embazoned sweet young things in the McCarthy entourage during a stop at Beaver Dam, Wis.

"How do you like Wisconsin?" he asked.

"Oh, fine," she responded, with sparkling teeth and campaign friendliness. "I like it fine."

He paused, leaped forward again: "We're second in cranberries, you know."

It might take some drastic promises, but if any candidate is seeking to court the Indian vote, he should heed the story told recently by Dr. Thomas A. Billings, director of OEO's Upward Bound program.

A month or so ago, claims Billings, a national public opinion agency asked a group of American Indians what they thought about this country's involvement in the current war.

Twenty per cent polled said we should get out of South Vietnam.

Eighty per cent polled said we should get out of America.

Chronology of Siege at Khe Sanh

SAIGON (AP) — The siege of Khe Sanh began before dawn Jan. 21 with a strong North Vietnamese ground attack and the first of what became routine heavy shelling.

The ground attack against nearby Hill 861 was repulsed but damage on the main base was heavy. Enemy artillery hit the main Marine ammunition bunker which sent thousands of pounds of live ammunition into Marine position.

Two North Vietnamese divisions spent a month preparing the siege before the opening shots were fired.

Jan. 22 — Small Marine and Vietnamese militia units were evacuated under heavy fire from the Khe Sanh Village two miles southwest of the Marine base and air strip.

CAMP OVERRUN

Feb. 7 — Lang Vei Special Forces camp was overrun four miles west of Khe Sanh as the North Vietnamese used tanks for the first time in the war. The U.S. Command rushed anti-tank weapons to Khe Sanh.

Feb. 12 — Despite massive bombing by B52s and smaller jet bombers, enemy engineers had driven assault trenches within a few hundred yards of the Khe Sanh main perimeter at several points.

PROBE ROUTED

March 1 — South Vietnamese rangers beat back a 500-man enemy probe of the eastern perimeter in the first ground attack at the main base. Five more follow.

March 8 — U.S. Command set up a special provisional corps for closer direction of expected battles at Khe Sanh and other points in northern two provinces. U.S. reinforcements continue to pour into the region, but none for Khe Sanh.

March 20 — Some military sources report enemy activity around Khe Sanh has definitely slowed down. Estimate of enemy strength around Khe Sanh drops from 20,000 to 15,000.

April 1 — A 20,000-man force of U.S. Army infantrymen, Marines and Vietnamese troops launches Operation Pegasus to lift Khe Sanh siege.

HELP ON WAY

April 4 — Meeting surprisingly light opposition, part of allied force drive to within one-half mile of Khe Sanh base. There is no explanation from Hanoi, but a Soviet informant in London suggests that the North Vietnamese have lifted the siege as a token toward preliminary negotiations. Marines move farther out of base than they have since January.

Near-Disaster at Sea for City Couple

BY ED BLUNDEN

A Pontiac couple has returned from a winter cruise in the Caribbean with more than memories of moonlight on the water — their ship almost went down.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl McHugh of 111 Oneida started what was supposed to be a 14-day cruise out of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., on March 15.

Aboard the 20,000-ton luxury liner Federico C., they visited Nassau, San Juan, St. Thomas Island, Martinique and Trinidad.

"About two hours out of Trinidad, we heard a hard, grinding sound and then a thump. Within minutes the ship started to list," said McHugh, who retired as a salesman at Pontiac Retail Store.

"I was attending a Kiwanis Club meeting and my wife was sunbathing on an upper deck. She was knocked right out of her chair," McHugh recalls.

OIL POURING OUT

"A voice came out of the PA system and told everyone to be calm. The pumps started and the list was corrected in a little while. However, oil was pouring out of the ship, and this caused some worry," he said.

Although no one was badly hurt in the incident, the seawater and oil mixed in the hold to ruin most of the passengers' luggage, including the McHughs'.

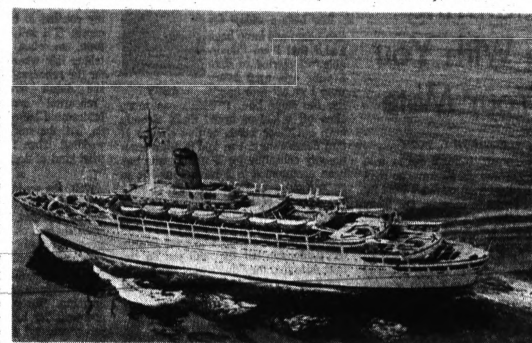

The crash caused a ripple of excitement in the surrounding area, and the story of how the SOS was sent and ships in the area responded to what appeared to be a tragedy in the making appeared in several island papers as well as the Miami Herald.

'CRUMPLED HULL'

The newspaper accounts say the "glamorous cruise ship" apparently struck and crumpled its hull on a rock ledge 100 yards off Diamond Rock at the northwest tip of Trinidad.

All passengers were taken in which something untoward happened. He said last year a cruise ship got stuck in the mud and a voyage from Fort Lauderdale to the M.L.L. ran was delayed.

For the McHughs, it was the previous year he and his wife took a Great Lakes cruise the same ship," he said.

Reserve Call-Up Debated; Pentagon Moves Slowly

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon is moving at an unexpectedly slow pace in carrying out the call-up of Reservists and National Guardsmen for the Vietnam war announced last Sunday by President Johnson.

Army staff officers had expected the necessary administrative machinery would be starting up by Thursday, but the go-ahead didn't come.

The explanation given by Pentagon authorities was that Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford has been marking time because of the press of other business.

Preparations for the President's trip to Honolulu to talk about the possible negotiations with North Vietnam were given top priority by Clifford, they said, until it was announced Friday the Honolulu conference was being canceled.

MEETING POSTPONED

The meeting is to be held later. Meanwhile, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, was scheduled to fly into Washington today to confer with Johnson.

Plenty of Decent Men in World-- Widow Needs to Make New Friends

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What a widow to do? I'm not ready for a rest home yet, being only 41 years old. I have two attractive, well-behaved children, a nice home, no debts, and a good steady income. No worries, except where to find a decent man who wants a decent woman.

I've been a widow for two years and have been told that I am "desirable." I started to date a year ago, and a very nice man went out with hands me the same line ("What's one more slice off a loaf of bread that's already been cut?"—or words to that effect.) If that doesn't work, I'm told that it's emotionally unhealthy for a woman who has been accustomed to a normal sex life to go without sex. Then they try to save my mental health by volunteering to provide me with a normal sex life. (Now it's therapy.)

Then there are men who want female companionship but they tell you on the first date that they don't want you to get "serious" as they don't want to get that involved.

Have men always been this way, Abby? Or is this a new breed?

DEAR POPULAR: No, it's not a new breed. Such men have always been around, but your luck is unusually bad to have encountered them all the first year. There are plenty of decent men in the world. You need new friends.

Dear Abby: I am 28 years old and wear dentures. My problem is having people (strangers) come up to me and say, "My, but you have beautiful teeth. Are they your own?"

Abby, I consider this a very personal question for a stranger to ask, so I say, "Yes, they are." (Then I say to myself, "Well, after all, I DID pay for them, so they ARE my own.") Then I feel awfully guilty because I lied.

Isn't there some way I can answer these people without telling them the truth, and still keep from lying?

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Yes. When someone comments on your "beautiful teeth," say, "Thank you," and ignore any subsequent questions regarding same. Then change the subject. If the person is so rude and insensitive as to repeat the question, say, "If you'll forgive me for not answering, I'll forgive you for asking."

DEAR ABBY: I was married nearly two months ago, and had asked some of my cousins to be my bridesmaids. One cousin (I'll call her Myrtle) lives out of town, so when she accepted, I wrote telling her when she should be in town for the rehearsal. She wrote back saying she didn't have to come to any "rehearsal" because she had been a bridesmaid before and she knew what to do, but she said she'd be there for the wedding. Then I wrote back telling her what kind of dress to wear and so forth.

Well, the wedding was scheduled for 4 p.m. That time came, and no Myrtle. We waited for her for five minutes, and since there was no word from her, we were advised to go on with the ceremony, which is what we did.

Just after the ceremony began, in comes Myrtle. She wasn't dressed or anything. We couldn't stop everything and wait for her to get dressed, so we just proceeded without her.

She didn't stay for the wedding, and left no message. Her whole family got mad at me, so I wrote Myrtle a letter apologizing and explaining why we couldn't wait. That was over a month ago and still no word from her. They are still mad, so what's my next move?

CARBONDALE, KAS. DEAR CARBONDALE: You have made enough moves. The next move should be Myrtle's—in the form of an apology. And by the way, a bridesmaid should attend the rehearsal, even though she's been a bridesmaid before. Each wedding is different.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "H" IN ORANGE COUNTY: Don't ever be ashamed to admit you were wrong. It's one way of saying you're smarter today than you were yesterday.

Hate to write letters? Send it to Abby care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Scholarship Prize Granted to Three for Artistic Talents

Three Oakland County High School students were awarded Bloomfield Art Association Scholarships for the spring class term at the organization's Birmingham Art Center. The winners were announced by Mrs. William Lyman, Scholarship Chairman.

Byron Coons, a Birmingham Seaborn junior, won the Ruby Williams painting scholarship for his oil painting, "Byron is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Wells of Tullamore Street."

A scholarship was awarded to Diane York, a senior at Birmingham Seaborn, for her ceramics. Diane is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hayward York of Lahser Road.

Stuart Schulman, a senior at Oak Park High School, won a scholarship for his sculpture "Seated Figure." Stuart, who has studied under sculptor Sergio DiGiusti, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schulman, Oak Park.

The scholarships, which are open on a competitive basis to all high school students enabled the winners to enroll in the class of their choice for the ten-week semester which will begin April 8.

The Bloomfield Art Association faculty, drawn from the universities and art schools in the area, includes some of the most outstanding artists in Michigan and the country. High school art students are afforded a rare opportunity to pursue their courses in a completely professional atmosphere.

Ask to Bring Dish With You for Your Mate

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I can't agree with your statement that guests have no right to state what they want or don't want for dinner. You forgot to consider the many people who suffer from food allergies.

My husband is allergic to 25 food groups and I am sure any hostess would be distressed to have caused him an allergy attack. Even the wrong brand of food can make a difference. I have always understood that etiquette was based on consideration.

It seems to me far more thoughtful to warn my hostess before we come to dinner than to have her distressed.—Mrs. R. W.

Dear Mrs. W.: I did not forget to consider people with allergies, but I do not think very many people are allergic to as many foods as your husband. His case must be considered exceptional, and my answer would be to make an exception.

But rather than limiting your hostess' menu by listing 25 taboo foods, I suggest that you ask if you may take a ready-prepared dish for your husband that could be easily heated on the stove. Another alternative would be to ask if you might join the party after dinner.

ANNOUNCEMENTS FOR A SECOND

Dear Mrs. Post: We are expecting our second child in late March. Is it proper to send announcements for a second baby?—Laura

Dear Laura: Yes, indeed. Friends will be just as interested in your second child as they were in the first. Send announcements to good friends and distant relatives—anyone you think would care to know.

PHYLLIS DILLER

Zany Comic Phyllis Diller Real Homebody at Heart

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Women's Editor

Is a comedienne always funny? No, not even Phyllis Diller.

In town for a couple of hours Friday to autograph her new book, "Phyllis Diller's Marriage Manual," Miss Diller relaxed in an office at Hudson's for a brief interview.

Except for the hair which is definitely Phyllis Diller style, the TV, screen and nightclub personality is an attractive woman with warm brown eyes and a pleasant smile. It is only when she comes out with that raucous laugh that you reconcile her with the public image.

Of medium height, she's slender. She wore a gold, blue and green print dress, turquoise shoes and hat and a full length white knit coat.

"I adore hats," she said. We forgot to ask her how many she has.

"Were you a show off as a child?" we asked.

"No, I was painfully shy and I think I tried to be funny to cover up my shyness. You know, if you can get people to laugh, everyone relaxes and it's o.k."

BOOKS

When does she find time to write books, we wanted to know.

"Oh, I just keep a file and toss things in. It's a day-to-day thing. I'm getting a wonderful collection on food for the cookbook I'm going to write."

"I'm a fabulous gourmet cook, French and Italian and that sort of food. I used to be big with pies and I baked cookies every day for the kids. But I'm no good with cakes and dough."

We asked about wine cookery on which she turned thumbs down.

"I like to bring out the flavor of meat or vegetables and I think wine hides it. My cookbook will have lots of garlic in it, though."

NO REGRETS

Miss Diller has no regrets that the days when she was chief cook, bottle washer, diaper changer and cleaning woman are past. She says she's willing to work very hard to get everything at home running smoothly, then to sit back, relax and enjoy life.

"But I hate the drudgery of housework."

It took some doing, but she and her second husband, Wardie Donovan, have an excellent staff in their Los Angeles home and the wheels of the household run with no friction.

She has five children, he has two. Only three still live at home, her youngest son and his two sons.

HOMEBODY

At heart, this zany woman is a homebody, she insists. Fun, when she's not working, is fooling around the neighborhood in a tiny sports car, going to the beach, playing the piano, entertaining, cooking, or just sitting.

It's back to Los Angeles at the end of this week. She may not take the road again for a while because she is all set with a new television series in the fall—the new Phyllis Diller show will be on prime time, its staff says.

The engagement of their daughter, Margaret Elaine, to Patrick James Schooley, is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Norman W. Batchelor of Motorway Drive. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Schooley of Flier Street. The bride elect, a senior at Providence Hospital School of Nursing, and her fiancé will wed November 29.

Cranbrook Exhibit on Photographs

Cranbrook Academy of Art Galleries has currently on display an exhibition of fine art photographs by Charles Swedlund, an instructor in photography at the State University College, Buffalo, N.Y.

The photographs are the result of his exploration of high contrast, film out-of-focus images and multiple exposure. All deal with the nude.

Swedlund says this of his work:

"All of these multiple images were created in the camera. To me, this is important. None were made in the dark-room."

The exhibit will remain up through April 14.

Jack-of-All-Trades Is Mrs. Strawder

By YOLANDA BENAVIDES

A self-described jack-of-all-trades, Mary Strawder (Mrs. Robert) appears at her best when there's work to be done, whether at the community, neighborhood or family level.

Contrary to those who shy away from getting "personally involved," you'll find Mary quite at ease, knee deep in the middle of several civic projects.

And I soon found myself right beside her, this time in a Head Start classroom of energetic preschoolers at St. Michael's Catholic Church.

"Just have a seat," smiled Mrs. Strawder, as she hustled to find a lost puzzle part for a frantic little man of three or four. "I'm substituting for one of the teachers for awhile so just make yourself at home."

AIDE

Substitute teaching. I discovered is one of several odd jobs she performs as community aide for Head Start at St. Michael's, the largest of six such centers in the area.

Aside from tabulating a daily absentee count, handling a majority of the clerical work, shopping for classroom aids, and making personal house visits to parents, she also finds time to recruit new youngsters.

Mrs. Strawder became involved in the program over a year ago when she enrolled her youngest daughter.

What she termed as merely "curiosity" soon made her an active participant as a teacher's assistant.

Her personal involvement, however, isn't limited to such community projects as Head Start.

As corresponding secretary for the Fisher Street Block Club, this mother of eight was one of the organizers of the neighborhood for an all-out cleanup drive.

BLOCK CLUB

Commonly called the Block Club, an idea sparked by the OCCOE, the first meeting was held in March, 1967.

Florida Vacation Told

Mrs. Harry Pearce of Sylvan Lake has returned from three months in Belvoir and Sarasota, Fla. She spent several days in Newton, Iowa en route home.

Within the span of a year, three dilapidated houses have been torn down (the last went Saturday), 40 junk cars have been towed away, vacant lots have been cleared off, and a youth-operated organization now polices the nearby playground.

"Not only has the appearance improved," says Mrs. Strawder, "but neighbors have been drawn closer together in the process."

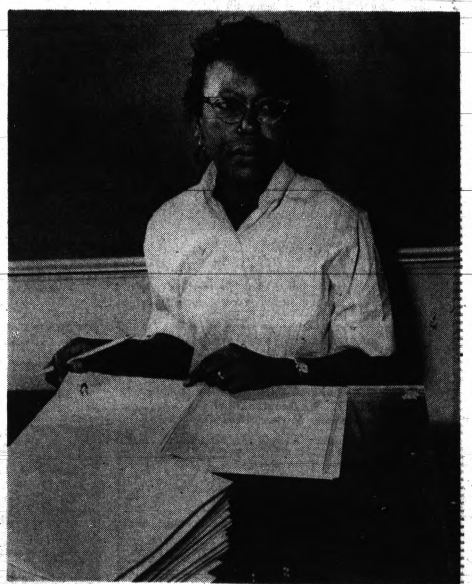

"Of course we still got a lot to do; but it's worth it if our street looks better and we're hoping the idea will catch on in other neighborhoods."

Mary Strawder is a strong believer in personal improvement as well. After two years of night school courses at Pontiac Central High, Mary will receive her high school diploma in June, a goal she's had to put aside while raising eight children ranging in age from 23 to four.

"My husband said he would be glad to help me out and I was determined to make it this time," she reflected.

And the kids, she says, now beaming, "they want a graduation picture of me to show to their friends."

Obviously, they know a good thing when they see it, I thought.

MRS. ROBERT STRAWDER

Husband's Behavior Stems From Fear

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: After four years of happy marriage, our daughter is expecting her first child. But her husband's attitude toward her pregnancy has us all very worried. He is already so jealous of the baby he won't have it mentioned.

We can see the tension his resentment of her pregnancy is causing our daughter. None of us can understand his inconsiderate treatment of a wife he has always adored and been so proud of.

ANSWER: I don't know enough to explain it.

All I can do is to offer you the explanation of such resistance to parenthood that some highly experienced psychiatrists have developed.

In general, their opinion of it seems to be that it's due to a particularly painful childhood, experienced by the relative person, a childhood so painful that he's had to make a point of forgetting the hopelessness of his multiple reaches for his parents' loving awareness of him.

But as murder—will out, so will the wound we have chosen to forget instead of living through.

So this young man's resentment of parenthood isn't necessarily "jealousy" of his baby at all. It's far more likely to be terror, unsuspected terror, that he's doomed to impose on his child the same pain that he suffered as a child. And that his own prospective parenthood has so stirred up his memories of hurt that he's got no alternative but to tell himself he doesn't want the child in order to protect it against his own parental failures.

So, what you are calling his "jealousy" of this unborn baby just could be love for it—love distorted by that terror of wounding it. And it's just possible that if you could perceive its real meaning, you could just let him wallow in this false jealousy of his until his baby is born—and he himself gratification in marriage, though extremely pleasant, has its limitations. Unless a child is born to testify to its fruitfulness, it is sterile.

So, in your position, I would neither fuss at nor criticize this hurt young man's resistance to parenthood. He's shown you all that he can love his wife. But he has met his wife. He has yet to meet his baby. In mercy's name, let's give him time. Let's withhold judgment until evidence rates it.

Woolen Blankets Need Extra Care

To keep woolen blankets new looking and lovely, handle them carefully especially when you wash them. Never put a woolen blanket through a wringer after washing it. Instead place it in thick towels, covering it well before pressing it through the wringer.

Avoid changing temperature of water from hot to cold. Only tepid water should be used. It is best to dry woolen blankets indoors on a flat surface, after they have been patted out and stretched to size.

The Charles Beals of Utica announce the engagement of their daughter, Denise Charles Wilson II. He is the son of Mrs. Lawrence Wilson also of Utica and the late Mr. Wilson. The bride elect has attended Macomb County Community College where her fiancé is now a student.

PTA to Serve Italian Dish at Donelson

A spaghetti dinner, sponsored by the PTA, will be served Tuesday between 5-7 p.m. to Donelson School on West Huron Street.

Preschool children will be served free.

Profits are earmarked for playground and gymnasium equipment.

In charge of arrangements for the dinner are Mesdames Harold Floyd, Lloyd Huntley, Alexander Mach, Mel Hall, and Kenneth Burr, PTA president.

Alumnae Group Sets Installation

Detroit North Suburban Alumnae of Alpha Omicron Pi will install Mrs. Andrew Horvath as president for the 1968-69 year.

Also taking office will be Mrs. Elton Krueger, vice president; Mrs. Robert Hoover, secretary; Mrs. Richard Jensen, treasurer.

The meeting will take place at 8 p.m. on Tuesday in the Southfield home of Mrs. Carl Holdampf.

Unit Tells Plans

Plans for a garage sale, a mother's day tea and proposed sponsorship of a foreign child were discussed at a recent meeting of Epsilon chapter of Beta Theta Phi sorority.

Mrs. Paul Lowry hosted the group in her East Kennett Road home, where an initiation of new members also took place.

Student Protesters Charge Capitol

LANSING (AP)—Yelling "We want Romney," about 100 Negro and white youths protesting the death of Dr. Martin Luther King charged through the State Capitol Friday and were headed off only yards from the executive office.

Two Negro men, a minister and a state representative, stood in a hallway leading to Gov. George Romney's second-floor office and tried to calm the excited demonstrators.

"We want to see the governor," demanded a Negro youth. "You saw him once," replied the Rev. Archibald Mosley, pastor of Lansing's Trinity A.M.E. Church. "You must realize that if he doesn't want to see you again, he won't come out."

Mosley and Rep. Raymond Hood, D-Detroit, helped turn the crowd around, and the youngsters headed down to the first floor. Most of the Negroes left the building, while the white youths gathered in the rotunda and sang freedom songs for about half an hour.

STEP SESSION

The charge toward Romney's office followed a two-hour session on the capitol steps.

Negro youngsters from nearby schools had converged on the capitol about 1 p.m. They listened intently as one of their members spoke over a portable public address system.

"What are we going to do now? What's left for us?" he asked, then answered: "All that looting that happened in Detroit and other cities—we don't want that to happen here."

"What did it get them? Nothing," Romney joined the crowd, now swollen to more than 150, and immediately was surrounded.

He talked with demonstrators for about 15 minutes, telling one Negro man, "I would rather die with a Bible in my hand."

"I'd rather die with a gun," the man shouted back.

MSU HIKE

Just as Romney returned to his office, another 150 young people—most of them white—wound up a nearly three-mile hike from Michigan State University.

Rev. Mr. Mosley, who said he just happened by, addressed the crowd.

"I would like to take my hat off to you, as a black clergyman, for the respect you show a black clergyman. Thou shalt love thy brother. And even though you may feel love is an outmoded virtue, you can get more from giving affection..."

He led the group in prayer before several of the young people took turns at the microphone.

Pointing out that the governor had left before the MSU students arrived, the leaders started chanting, "We want Romney. We want Romney."

"This is a public building,"

What's your ? idea of
true religion

Unitarianism is a way of life, life of vigorous thought, constructive activity, of generous service—not a religion of inherited creeds, revered saints, or holy books.

Unitarianism is not an easy religion. It demands that people think out their beliefs for themselves, and then live those beliefs. The stress is placed upon living this life nobly and effectively rather than on the preparation for an after-existence.

If you have given up "old time" religion, Unitarianism has the answer for you.

EQUALITY SIGNS

And the throng moved into the building, ran upstairs waving "All Men are Equal" signs and headed for Romney's office.

Ironically, as the youths bounded through the Capitol yelling for Romney, the House was approving a resolution honoring Michigan's "highest chology at MSU and a close associate of King, told the group the civil rights leader America's great leaders, the man of peace and the apostle of nonviolence, who led in measures of sanity the 20th century's major crusade for human rights."

Earlier in the day, the MSU students and nearly 850 Negro and white classmates met at the student union for a memorial service for the slain civil rights leader.

Dr. Robert Green, associate professor of educational psychology at MSU and a close associate of King, told the group the civil rights leader America's great leaders, the man of peace and the apostle of Hannah, who had attended part of the memorial session, had issued a statement, saying: "Informed of the assassination of Dr. King, I was more heart sick than ever before in my life, and I remember vividly the shock and grief of the horrible assassination of President Kennedy in Dallas."

"What would please him most would be the knowledge that all of us will honor him by taking a searching look at his unfinished work."

State House Passes Wiretap Bill, King Memorial Resolution

LANSING (AP) — A bill allowing law officers to tap telephones and use other means of electronic surveillance under certain conditions was passed by the House Friday and sent to the Senate.

Approved also were two tenants' rights bills, a measure allowing policemen to issue tickets for minor ordinance violations, a $34-million spending bill and a memorial resolution for Dr. Martin Luther King.

The House, which Thursday night adjourned its session after learning of King's death, Friday praised the Nobel Prize winner as "one of America's great leaders, the man of peace and the apostle of nonviolence."

The Senate passed a resolution, sponsored by Sen. Basil Brown, D-Highland Park, calling for a period of mourning for the slain civil rights leader.

OFFICIAL MOURNING

Gov. George Romney, meanwhile, declared an official period of mourning through Dr.

King's funeral and asked that all flags on public buildings be flown at half-staff.

The Senate approved a bill allowing school districts to set up school psychological services, but turned down another which would have altered state payment of tuition grants to resident students enrolled in private, nonprofit institutions of higher education.

The wiretap bill, introduced by Rep. Hal Ziegler, R-Jackson, and passed 63-22, would permit use of eavesdrop evidence in court if it were obtained under a warrant issued by a Circuit Court judge or Appeals Court judge.

Ziegler said the procedure outlined in the bill could be followed constitutionally because of a 1967 decision of the U. S. Supreme Court.

OBTAINABLE

An eavesdropping warrant could be obtained by a prosecutor or the state attorney general if he convinced a judge that a crime had been or would be committed, and that conventional means of getting evidence had failed or would likely fail.

The court-issued warrant would restrict law officers to monitoring a particular person, location or telephone line. Warrants would be valid for 30 days but could be extended by the court.

A person who claimed to be the victim of electronic surveillance not legally authorized by a warrant could sue for actual and punitive damages and legal fees.

"It is absolutely necessary, if we're going to solve the problem of organized crime, that police be able to wiretap," Ziegler said.

TOOLS NEEDED

"Let's not continue to have law enforcement officers hunting bears with a switch," added Rep. Loren D. Anderson, R-Waterford Township. "Let's give them the tools to work with."

Rep. Jackie Vaughan, D-Detroit, charged that "this bill, more than any other bill, indicates a police state."

Approved also was a bill spending $33.9 million in state general fund money for the present fiscal year and another $246.743 from restricted funds. If signed into law, it would push Michigan's 1967-68 general fund spending to about $1.146 billion.

5 New Laws Are Signed by Romney

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney signed five bills into law Friday, including one to permit Michigan's prison industries to operate on a steady production schedule.

The new law permits the prisons to manufacture products for inventory instead of waiting for orders to be received.

Other bills signed would:

- Provide for an increase in license renewal fees for both real estate brokers and salesmen and provide for annual licensing instead of the present three-year system.
- Designate all members of the armed forces officially stationed in Michigan as residents to enable them to buy resident fishing and hunting licenses.
- Provide for a new system of licensing all hospitals in the state.
- Require that the Public School Employees Retirement Board include at least one member who is a retired public school employee and one other with experience in the insurance, actuarial or industrial investment fields.

Dems Cancel Dinner Plans

LANSING (AP) — Because of the state of emergency declared in Wayne County, Michigan Democrats have postponed indefinitely all Jefferson-Jackson Day activities set for Saturday in Detroit.

A dinner featuring Massachusetts Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, a luncheon and reception will be rescheduled at a date to be announced later, said Democratic State Chairman Sander Levin.

The annual Democratic fundraising activities were postponed "in light of the possibility of a continuing curfew in Detroit and considering the general inappropriateness of holding a festive political gathering at this time," Levin said.

Interesting Foyer Welcomes Visitors

By JODY HEADLEE

Home Editor, The Pontiac Press

Architectural interest is created in the slate-floored foyer of the Thomas C. Gamalskis by the gently curving staircase carpeted in antique bronze plush. Artificial plants add a permanent touch of green to the staircase planter.

The foyer's gold-banded mirror is served by a walnut shell on a gray-green scroll base. Decorative accents include a brushed-gold figurine and paper flowers in shades of blue and green in a bronze goblet.

Advancing a smooth traffic pattern, the foyer opens onto the formal living room, a combination television room and study, a powder room and the family room at the back of the house.

The family room is carpeted in a paprika loop and draped in beige boucle highlighted by a paprika thread. A beige brick fireplace wall introduces a pleasant contrast to the deep stained provincial birch paneling.

Emphasizing a contemporary note is the black fireplace hood. A willow is planted in the redwood container on the raised hearth.

painting with the earth tones of green, gold and paprika stressed. The sofa's throw pillows are paprika and aqua.

Walnut step tables topped by ceramic lamps with paprika shades light the sofa and its companion pieces of matching aqua armchairs framed in walnut.

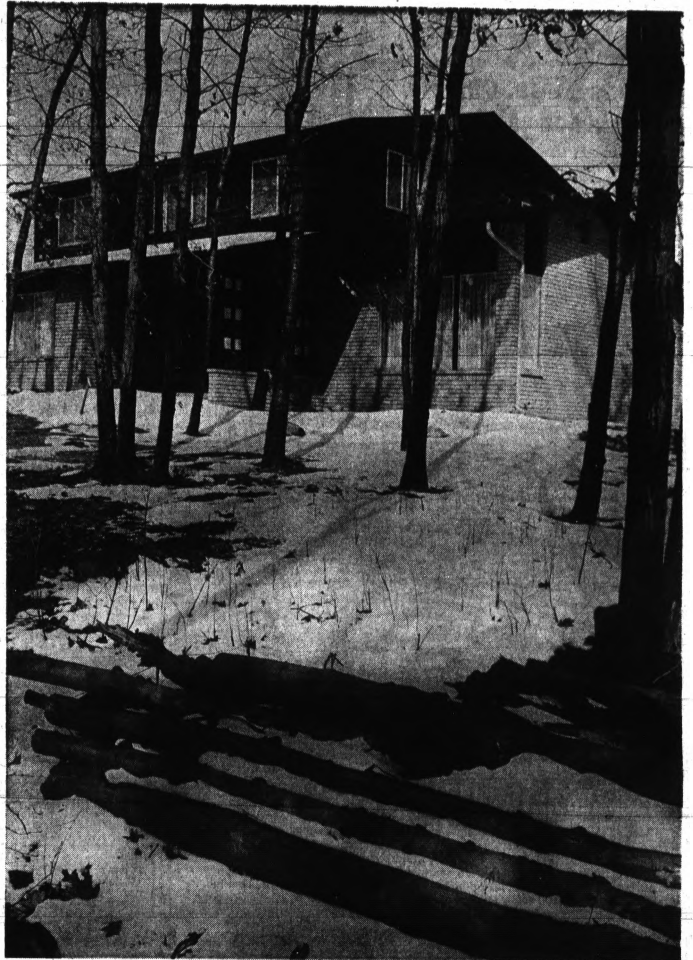

A button-back shades-of-gold easy chair is found before the fireplace.

On the room's coffee table in front of the broad window wall are white figurines on a raised platform and a foliage plant in a black cylindrical container.

Residents of Avon Township, the Gamalskis have four children, Andrew 10, Jon 9, Jamie 4 and Nancy 5 months.

The great upsurge in home building in the past 20 years produced many interesting design changes.

One of the most distinctive was the splitlevel which caught on quickly and continued to hold on to a considerable share of the market.

Advantages of the split, in addition to its suitability for construction on sloping land, include an extra level or two at a modest extra outlay and not too many steps to climb at any one time.

And the garage can use some of the cheaper underground area, saving on construction and property costs, as in the case of an attached or detached garage.

Also — and this is just a comfort extra — you are literally inside the house when you drive into the garage.

DIFFERENT This particular house, designed by architect Lester

Cohen, is somewhat different from the first splitlevels, but retains its advantageous characteristics.

Distinctively today is the curved stair, which rises gracefully from the foyer to the living level up to the curved bedroom hall. In all, there are seven rooms, 2½ baths, a two-car garage, spacious hall areas and convenient closets—all in a plan with over-all dimensions of only 32' by 38' 6".

The flagstoned entry porch is sheltered by a decorative stone wall on one side and a charming planter on the other. Inside, there's a second planter in the wide foyer, along with a handy clothes closet.

The foyer acts as an efficient traffic control center. There's the entry from the garage, the half-stair to the second level, the half-stair to the basement level, and next to that, a way up to the kitchen (no need to take groceries or gear up the formal front stairs).

This "artery" also leads back to the mud room, where you find the laundry equipment, a yard. Off to the side is a family room, with sliding glass doors out to a lawn terrace.

Up from the foyer, you reach a landing to the living room, kitchen and dining room. A corner fireplace and a bow window add to the appeal of the living room.

The dining room is beyond through an arch. Here the special features are sliding doors offering a broad view and access to a dining deck outside.

KITCHEN The adjacent kitchen opens to the deck too, but this service entry feature does not interfere with outdoor dining and could be screened from the dining section of the deck at party time. The extra stair for use to

Z-35 STATISTICS

Design Z-35 has a living room, dining room, kitchen, three bedrooms and two baths, with a habitable area of 1588 square feet. On the lower level are a family room, a lavatory, laundry, two-car garage, foyer and basement. Over-all dimensions are 32' by 38' 6". There is a rear lawn terrace reached via sliding glass doors in the family room, and a rear deck accessible from the dining room and kitchen.

the lower level is near the door to the kitchen.

A charming open rail balcony is shown for the curved bedroom hall, so that you can look down past the living room to the foyer below. This adds to a feeling of spaciousness.

All three bedrooms have excellent closet space. The family bathroom has an alcove tub and toilet, and a double sink vanity with a handy linen closet.

The master bedroom enjoys a double exposure privacy in the back corner of the bedroom level, with a noise buffer formed by the dressing room which has four closets, a vanity built-in and a stall-shower bathroom.

Despite its modest over-all dimensions, Design Z-35 has 1588 square feet of habitable area on the living and bedroom levels, not including the family room downstairs. It's all wrapped up in a pleasant exterior.

Ceramic Tiles Handy Floral Base

Bringing the beauty of the flower garden into the home can present problems because of the constant danger of spilling dirt and water from vases.

A good way to solve this is to surface window sills, tables or anywhere you set flowers with a waterproof and stainproof material such as ceramic tile.

The many colors of ceramic tile available today make it possible to choose a shade that will complement the colors of your favorite flowers.

Plan Now for Summer Retreat

A "happy hour hut" in your backyard can provide a real space adventure. If you have only a small plot of land.

Get a jump on spring by planning such a pied-a-terre around your home where you can lounge, dine, play games without being a cause celebre in the neighborhood if you choose to wear a grass skirt or engage in a family squabble.

Though we live in an outdoor age, many people still stay cooped up except for occasional trips to their little back yard to tend a garden or to hang up wash. When they want air, they go for a walk. They think of patios as something for the rich, requiring lots of land.

If one has a small lot, one must work with the number of feet one can corral for such an enterprise. It might cost a little more than you anticipate when you entertain the idea, but think of the investment in fun.

For example, say your back yard is 20 by 10. It has been a straggly garden. Divide it so that only a small strip remains as a garden (and it should be a better garden, limiting the effort required of it.) Three-fourths, or whatever you apportion, will be your happy hangout in good weather.

You should plan the "hut" so that it faces the garden, and at the same time screens you from view. You should be facing the least populated section of your community, but even so, a fence along the garden side should give you added privacy.

The other side of your hut will be screened. A do-it-yourselfer can figure out a three-sided enclosure that will serve this purpose, perhaps with one of the see-through plastic roofs. But if you don't want to make such a unit permanent, an awning-like arrangement is best.

If it is a little distance from the house, think of it as the kind of awning arrangement churches erect for weddings. Sides and top covered with canvas draped from stanchions, side flaps that may be used up or down.

A far better arrangement — as one that is used by people in large cities who have garden apartments—is to have an awning extend the length of the house at the back door where you can have a convenient patio. Side flaps on the awning provide privacy. The space will look very small until you take over for this purpose and begin to plan it.

Concrete slabs, brick, flagstone, give solid, attractive appearance that will provide more usage than a dirt walk.

If you have a nice big tree on a little bit more land, you may consider planning a patio around it with gravel, chips of bricks, leaving breathing space for the tree.

Isolate yourself from view with canvas screens that may be used in sections for semicircles or complete circles, to screen out sun, wind or whatever. Make them out of lengths of canvas that will provide the height you need. Insert sturdy reeds, light metal rods or plastic material every few feet through pleats in the canvas.

The rods should be long enough (at least a foot) below the canvas so that they can be pushed into the ground around your happy tree. (The rod should fit into the canvas very tight when it is inserted.)

A number of small screens is safer than a large heavier one. There are all sorts of niches where you can build such a happy hour spot once you realize that it doesn't require much space.

Measure available outdoor space, sketching the area. Figure a spot off the beaten path. Decide how it should be screened from view wholly, partially, temporarily or whatever.

If you plan to use an awning, get a price from a fabricator. If it is more than you can afford, perhaps you'll go to another weatherproof material. Weigh the investment in terms of its return.

Use your imagination in designing your fun spot. Just because you haven't seen a happy hour hut anywhere doesn't mean it can't be done.

A Jewel, Say Lawnmen

New Bluegrass Lawn Seed on Market

"Many are called, but few are chosen in a fine lawn grass seed. So it becomes quite an smut discoloration appears in chosen," certainly describes breeding program to com location when nationwide summer, rust showers well the progression from first,mercial release of sufficien research finally does confirm the merit of a new variety, as autumn, and so on ad infinitum. with the 0217R brand of Fyking Kentucky bluegrass. RESISTANT

Fyking, almost alone among the present coterie of elite bluegrasses, appears to be reasonably resistant to most major bluegrass diseases.

While Windsor, even vaunted Merion, fall to stripe smut, this new variety has been grown widely does not strike Fyking. As with Merion, Fyking is not much bothered by spring leafspot, perhaps the most prevalent of bluegrass diseases.

Absolute immunity to disease can hardly be claimed until a variety has been grown widely for perhaps a decade or longer, means it will spread by but preliminary indications are rithozes as a good bluegrass that here in Fyking is finally a should. In rithoze growth, as "different" variety for which high hopes can be held.

Fyking has much in its favor to begin with; after all, it is a variety has been grown widely Kentucky bluegrass. That for perhaps a decade or longer, means it will spread by but preliminary indications are rithozes as a good bluegrass that here in Fyking is finally a should. In rithoze growth, as "different" variety for which high hopes can be held.

At least until events prove otherwise, the sod, or an appreciable amount of the seed in a bluegrass blend, is a real mark of quality.

Tillers are the side shoots from the base of the plant that contribute so much to a sod's "carpet-like" qualities. Dense growth like this is hallmark of this grass. It was selected not only for the abundance of its tillers, but for their persistence as well. With many varieties heavy seed yield is paramount, which calls for a grass in which most tillers develop seedheads. Not so Fyking.

Committed to a seedhead a grass stem ends its useful lawn life and must be replaced by a new tiller budded from the basal crown. With fewer tillers throwing seedheads, this variety Kentucky bluegrass stays denser during those difficult summer months following the June seeding season. Its live, green tillers continue to carry their share of the load, producing food for growth and spread rather than drawing upon underground food reserves to make new tillers.

It is not only in such growth characteristics that it excels. Take its delightful emerald hue throughout the growing season. Most bluegrass foliage blemishes because of seasonal disease attack.

Leafspot causes lesions in spring, crownrot and stripe

Seed supplies and sod plantings are now sufficiently built so that for the first time homeowners and lawnmen can be sure of securing this jewel among the lawn bluegrasses.

Plumbing Repairs for Handyman

There are three good reasons why it pays to take care of your plumbing:

- The whole family is inconvenienced when something breaks down
- Plumbing repairs don't come cheap.
- Plumbing represents about 10 per cent of the home's value, and should be in top-notch condition if you decide to sell.

A booklet that tells you how to maintain your plumbing in good condition, how to make simple repairs, and what repair jobs should be done only by qualified plumbing contractors is available for 25 cents from the Plumbing Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, 35 E. Wacker Drive, Chicago, Illinois 60601.

Exterior stain-type finishes — combining pigment, water repellents and preservatives — have proven extremely durable on rough sawn Southern Pine siding.

Handyman's Commandment

Thou Shalt Follow Manufacturer's Directions

Forget about that customary set of 10 home handyman resolutions for the new year. Instead, let's consider a single resolution that might be worded this way:

I resolve to read and follow the instructions on the container of whatever I buy!

Don't throw up your hands in indignation. Of course—you say—you read the instructions. And, of course, you follow them. But do you? REALLY? Let's take a typical example.

A man purchases a can of paint. He takes it home and reads the directions on the back of the can. He discovers that the manufacturer recommends a particular kind of thinner, which he doesn't have on hand.

Not anxious to make another trip to the hardware or paint store, he uses the thinner he happens to have on hand. He has used it in the past and found it quite satisfactory, ignoring the fact that it was used with a different type of paint.

FIXES BLAME

When the result isn't quite what he thought it would be, he blames the paint or, if he is the kind of person who lacks confidence in his own ability, he feels that he somehow failed to do the job properly because of his ineptness.

The examples of failure to follow instructions, whether deliberately or carelessly, are endless in their variety. But there is one phase of this matter that affects the great majority of do-it-yourselfers. And it's the reason for the question of whether you really do follow instructions.

To explain it, let's get back to that can of paint. Assume that the purchaser followed the directions in every detail, including the use of the proper thinner.

When he finished his project, he had half a can of paint left. Rare indeed is the occasion when the amount of paint and the surface to be covered come out even.

This table with its attached benches is always ready for a picnic or a party. There is no storage problem for, with either of the finishes described here, it may stand outdoors the year around. All materials are listed. Every detail is shown, and actual-size guides are given for cutting angles of legs and braces. Pattern 203 is 35 cents. It is also in Packet No. 38 for $1. The Pontiac Press Pattern Dept., P.O. Box 50, New Windsor, New York 12550.

Carefully tightening the cover on the paint can, the man placed it on a shelf and went on to other things. During the next two or three months, he performed other do-it-yourself tasks, some of which involved the use of other paints, varnishes, shellacs, adhesives and waxes.

Then, one day, he found a new use for the remainder of that paint he had placed on a shelf.

Did he read the instructions again? If he was like most of us, he did not, since once we have used a product we are inclined to feel that we know how to handle it.

What he did not realize was that, having used many other products since he bought the first paint, including some that are similar but not identical, he had only a general idea of its proper usage. After all, paint is different kinds of paint, each cures, with its own particular properties. Perhaps, then, that single instruction on the container of paint. But it really isn't. Not in this day and age, when there are literally thousands of adherents to definite procedures. I use it.

Custom Designed Minirugs Draw Decorators' Attention

It's not only miniskirts that are attracting attention, but minirugs, too — small area carpets in unusual, and often exclusive, design, color and shape.

Modern technology has brought custom designed carpeting within the reach of the family of average means and, increasingly, homemakers are turning to these rugs to highlight home decor.

The trend, actually, brings full cycle the 18th Century tradition of having showpiece area rugs created specifically in an exclusive design for an individual buyer.

These rugs were cherished as family heirlooms — some even as work of art — and were passed from one generation to another.

As time passed the cost of hand producing these rugs became exorbitant. Now, however, as in other areas of manufacture, the technology of rug manufacture has progressed so far that it is again possible to create unique designs, shapes and sizes within price ranges comparable to those of other types of carpets.

ACCIDENT

Richard Kline who heads Rugcrafters, one of the largest organizations of rug artisans specializing principally in this field, says the actual business of custom rug making on a broad scale, came about quite by accident.

During World War II, when imports of rugs from abroad were curtailed sharply, Kline sought out the hundreds of Carolina and Georgia crofters — hill dwellers — who made patchwork rugs of unique design in their own homes for sale to the public.

He felt sure these native rug weavers could reproduce designs of his own selection so he went ahead with the idea. Hence the name Rugcrafters, and the growth of the company.

As the need grew for new tools and equipment as well as a concentrated source of artisans, Kline shifted his custom rugmaking to Puerto Rico where, today, his manufacturing studio embraces the entire custom art that includes weaving, looming, design, rug sculpture, color dying and the like.

Today, Kline notes, an area rug in size up to about 9 x 12, can be custom produced in weeks where in the past it took months or even years.

The rugs are made in the traditional 18th Century Savonnerie and Aubusson styles, but, Kline notes, the fashion move is in every direction — this includes contemporary, modern, pop art and even abstracts — in both design and color.

Kline has made specially designed minirugs for a clientele that ranges to White House inhabitants, the greats in art, business and the entertainment world.

Temperature Is Important

If you're planning to paint the exterior of your home this year, be sure to wait until the weather is consistently warm. You should paint only when the temperature is above 40 degrees during the day and night.

If you begin painting during the first warm days of spring and the temperature drops, your paint job may suffer.

in Hardboard

Leather, long associated with warmth and masculinity, is now available in a textured hardboard panel. The textured panel features a surface with the look and feel of fine Moroccan leather. Its plastic finish is washable.

This new paneling lends a rich note to a study, family room, entrance hall or bedroom.

Textured leather panels in brown, tan, green or white can also be used for table and furniture tops.

Textured leather comes in panels 4' x 8', ½" thick, and can be installed directly over existing walls with an adhesive. They require no care other than occasional damp cloth dusting. Matching moldings are available.

Local building materials dealers have complete information on this textured leather paneling.

Federal, state and local governments own 47 per cent of the forest land in the West. Privately owned land amounts to only 32.8 per cent of the total.

PRACTICAL TOO—Worldly treasures are set off by colorful carpeting. The brown and gold tweed of 100 per cent "Antron" nylon, turns an ordinary foyer into a charming collector's corner. The outstanding color contrasts of this carpet can bear up to traffic, thanks to fiber noted for its unusual ability to minimize the appearance of soil.

Seal Knots With Sealer

Knots in wood contain sap which can bleed through and discolor a finish coat of paint.

To avoid this problem fill cavities with wood putty or patching compound.

When this is dry, sand the area smooth and then seal the area with knot sealer or shellac. After this precautionary measure, you'll be ready to finish the wood.

Expand Library With Bookcase

Dress up a lonely looking corner and expand library space at the same time with a floor-to-ceiling corner bookcase.

Build it of western hemlock finished to match other woodwork.

PATTERN 325

Curtains and draperies transformed this room. A good deal of know-how is needed for such a job—fixtures and how to place them; a valance shelf or a cornice box; how to take measurements and estimate fullness to avoid waste; sewing details. Pattern 325, which covers all with illustrations, is 35c. It is also in the Decorator Project Packet No. 50 for $1.

Buying New Home—Investigate Heating

Are you planning to buy a new home this summer? If so, that needs to be done is extra sure you check the heating tending the pipe and installing the radiation.

Buy far the largest number of homes are bought during the summer months. Since the heating system is shut down then, home shoppers often don't check it out as thoroughly as they should, especially if they're shopping for their first home.

When they turn on the system in the fall, they find, to their chagrin, that it's noisy or drafty or there are cold spots that can't be heated no matter how high the thermometer is set.

Hydronic heat is a quality type. Water is the heating medium, and the fuel can be whatever you prefer, or whatever is the best bargain in your locality.

In hydronic heat, the water is heated by a compact boiler and piped to radiation in the various rooms. These days, the radiation most often is baseboard. It gives off clean, even, draft-free heat that's quiet too.

One of the advantages of hydronic heat is the ease with which it can be extended to additional rooms or to the basement or attic if you decide to convert either into a living area. The existing boiler usually

Holy Week Opens With Palm Sunday

Palm crosses will be blessed and distributed at the 8 a.m. service of Holy Communion, and 9:15 and 11 a.m. festival services of prayer and sermon tomorrow in All Saints Episcopal Church, Williams and Pike.

Holy Communion will be celebrated at 7 a.m. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and at 10 a.m. Thursday.

The Adult Choir will sing the Lord Nelson Mass by Haydn at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The ancient Office of Tenebrae will be read at All Saints Church on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings at 7:30 p.m. The service is a dramatic attempt to show the significance of the final hours of Jesus' life.

The distinctive feature of the office is the gradual elimination of all light from the church and then the return on one lighted candle, showing that although it looked as the forces of darkness had triumphed in the death of the Christ, actually the light could not be put out.

Lake Louise Church Calls New Pastor

The Rev. Archie I. Woodward has accepted the call to become pastor of the Lake Louise Church of the Nazarene, 85 W. Seymour, Ortonville. He comes to the church from Colling Church of the Nazarene in Unionville.

The new pastor previously served churches in the Detroit area and was for several years an evangelist making his home in Iola, Kan. near the International Headquarters in Kansas City, Mo.

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Woodward have three children in active church work. Mrs. Margie Kemp is director of a church affiliated with preschool work in Detroit.

A son, Larry, is pastor of the Church of the Nazarene in Sandusky and the Rev. Mrs. Joyce Hughes is the wife of the Rev. Harold Hughes of Hillcrest Church of the Nazarene. She is a minister in her own right.

Saints on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings at 7:30 p.m. The service is a dramatic attempt to show the significance of the final hours of Jesus' life.

The distinctive feature of the office is the gradual elimination of all light from the church and then the return on one lighted candle, showing that although it looked as the forces of darkness had triumphed in the death of the Christ, actually the light could not be put out.

The congregation will join the choir, a narrator, and two readers in a choral reading of the Palm-Sunday Gospel according to St. Matthew.

At 7 p.m. the Rev. Hugh C. White Jr., director of National Committee for Industrial Mission, will lead a dialogue on "The Dilemmas of Our Age."

Holy Communion will be celebrated at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, and women of the church will observe a Quiet Day beginning at 10 a.m. with Holy Communion.

The Rev. Maurics Geary of St. David's Catholic Church in Detroit will lead the meditation on "Prayer." Lunch will be provided at noon with the program closing at 2 p.m.

ST. STEPHEN EPISCOPAL
The Blessing of Palms and Parish Eucharist will be at 8 and 10 a.m. tomorrow in St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, 5500 N. Adams tomorrow.

ST. JOHN METHODIST
The Chancel Players will present a play entitled "Family Portrait" by Lenore Coffey and William Cowen at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow in St. John Methodist Church.

The play takes place the night of Jesus' betrayal. Costumes of the period will be worn.

Those participating include Betty DeWid who portrays Mary Cleophas; Anna Graham, Mary the mother of Jesus; Richard Clemmons, Judas; Lynn Foster, Mary Magdalene; Edwin Denham, Nathan; and Raphael Hooks, the organist.

George Glazier plays the trumpet, Anna Clawson serves as director. In charge of technical equipment is Vernon Hooper.

FRIENDSHIP
The Rev. Eddie A. McDonald, new pastor of Friendship Baptist Church, will be installed along with officials of the church at 3:30 p.m. tomorrow.

The Rev. J. J. Blackshire of Greater Mt. Calvary Missionary Baptist Church, will conduct the service.

LAKELAND U.P.
The Youth Choir of Lakeland United Presbyterian Church will present "The Glory of Easter" a cantata by John W. Peterson at the 10:45 a.m. worship service tomorrow.

Soloists include Cheryl Allison, Patricia Buchanan, Lorraine Johnson, Harold Buchanan Jr., Michael Metheny, Vincent Allison, Mark Allison, Sara and Jean Lambert, Mrs. Ray Grambau is director of the group.

The traditional selection, "The Palms," will be played as a cornet solo by Loren Vaughn.

JERUSALEM — Situated on a hill and surrounded by the valleys of Cedron, Hinnon and Tyropelon is the city of Jerusalem. It is distinguished today by the Old City and the New City. The picture above taken from the Mount of Olives shows the Old City enclosed by a heavy wall with seven gates. The Golden Gate located just behind the olive tree but not visible in the picture marks the site where Jesus is supposed to have entered Jerusalem at that first Palm Sunday, a few days before His crucifixion. The Garden of Gethsemane and Basilica of Gethsemane are located at the foot of Mount Olives facing the Golden Gate.

Palm Sunday Rites Date Back Some 1900 Years

"No Greater Love." "Hocanna to God in the Highest," "The Holy City" and "The Palms" will be among the many cantatas and anthems choirs will sing tomorrow as Christians throughout the world mark the triumphant entry of Jesus into Jerusalem more than 1900 years ago.

The Day known as Palm Sunday will begin the most solemn week of the liturgical year. It is the first day of Holy Week.

Palm Sunday with its traditional blessing and distribution of palms and processions will usher in Holy Week for many Protestant churches and in all Roman Catholic churches of the area.

LAKE ORION METHODIST

Two worship services are scheduled for Palm Sunday, tomorrow.

Junior high young people will preside at the 8 a.m. service when the Rev. Timothy Hickey preaches on "Anticipation."

Baptism at 6:00

A baptismal service will be held at 6 p.m. tomorrow in St. James Missionary Baptist Church, 345 Bagley. All candidates are asked to be at the church by 5:30 p.m., Pastor V. L. Lewis said.

Pilgrim Holiness to Hear Quartet

The Calvarymen's Quartet of Flint will sing at the 10 a.m. Sunday School and 11 a.m. worship hour tomorrow in Pilgrim-Holiness Church, Baldwin and Fairmount.

The Sunday School will enter into the last session of the contest, titled "Twelve Apostles Plan."

This is an attendance contest which began March 1. During this time the Pilgrim Sunday School has also been in competition with several other schools throughout the East Michigan District.

If the local SS wins the contest William Beadle, SS superintendent, will be elected superintendent of the year for the district.

Church members will enter an exhibit entitled "The Resurrected Christ" with the theme "Good News for Modern Men in a Troubled World" at the Pontiac Mall tonight in cooperation with other area churches.

Tim Wood Reaches New Heights in Figure Skating World

By JERE CRAIG

For Tim Wood the next move is perfection.

The brilliant figure skater, the teen-age son of Bloomfield Hills physician, has just returned from two months of performing that saw him reach new heights in his award-filled competitive career.

Only a judge's imperfect recording of his grade kept Tim from becoming a gold medalist at the Olympic Games.

Thursday evening he was honored in Cleveland at John Carroll University with a convocation in his honor. It's rare when a sophomore is so recognized by any institution of higher education.

Tim is the United States men's figure skating champion. That was accomplished in January at The Spectrum in Philadelphia. He entered the competition rated third best.

Continuing his outstanding skating, the 19-year-old pride of the Dr. Kenneth Wood family placed a frustrating second in the Winter Olympics at Grenoble, France, and also was the runner-up at the World's Championships in Geneva, Switzerland, during February.

Tim and the other leading men's women's and pairs skaters then toured Europe giving 15 exhibitions in 13 stops during a three-week period.

Admittedly he returned home weary physically and mentally. He will cut back significantly on his skating for the next two and a half months, concentrating his efforts toward exhibitions tonight in Cleveland and May 8 in Toronto.

In fact, one of his immediate aims is a trip to Florida, leaving his custom made two pairs of skates at home.

Currently sitting out a semester of classes in political science at John Carroll (where, incidentally, he is the only collegian in the country to earn a varsity letter in figure skating), Tim will return to school June 19 for the summer session.

At that time, he will resume his daily strenuous practice routine under the eyes of coach Ronnie Baker. It will be a wiser Tim Wood in the workouts.

Figure skating competition consists both of compulsory figures (counting 60 per cent of the total score) and free skating. In both the Olympics and World's judging he was in strong positions to win the gold medal after the compulsory judging.

Only a careless mistake by the Canadian judge at Grenoble cost Tim what would have been the U.S.'s second gold medal (Peggy Fleming won the only one).

The Canadian judge graded Tim one-tenth of a point behind the eventual winner, Austria's Wolfgang Schwarz. The difference determined the gold medal.

The major improvement in Tim's skating over the past year that elevated him from the third best in the U.S. to the second best amateur in the world was his compulsory figures. Last summer and fall he spent countless hours perfecting them.

Intent on capturing the world title next winter at Colorado Springs, Tim will again stress his figures.

"You want your figures so perfect that nobody can touch you," he explains intently. "Like Peggy, after the figures she is so far ahead no one can touch her."

So now it is concentration on the little things in refining the figures. In addition, he and Baker must remake the music on which he builds his freestyle routine.

His smooth five-minute exhibition this winter was blended to excerpts from "Triumphal Entrance of the Boyards" (Johann Halvorsen), "Pagliacci" (Rugiero (Leoncavallo), "Masaniello" (Daniel Auber) and "The Black Swan" (Peter Ilich Tchaikovsky).

The last two selections will be replaced in order to keep his routine fresh. This is a major project since the music must be fashioned together smoothly before the routine can be developed on the ice.

Tim's ambitions are twofold: pursue a career in law school, most likely at the University of Michigan; and recoup some of the expenses incurred during his 10-year-competitive career by turning pro.

Already he has had a good offer to teach at Lake Placid, N.Y., and the touring ice shows would welcome a skater of Tim's magnitude with a lucrative contract.

But he will wait at least a year striving to become "untouchable" with his figures.

Break in Sports Schedule Follows Dr. King's Death

By The Associated Press

Baseball's Presidential opener and a National Basketball Association playoff game are among the major sports events that have been rescheduled in the aftermath of the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King.

Rain Intercedes for Julius Boros at Greensboro

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Julius Boros remained in a tie with Billy Casper for the lead in the $137,500 Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament as second round play began anew today, thanks to Boros' old pal, the weatherman.

Each had a six-under-par 65, fashioned in Thursday's opening round to lead Al Geiberger by a stroke.

But Boros needed a big assist from the weather Friday to remain a co-leader. Play was cancelled because of rain after the second round was half completed nullifying all scores to that point and reshuffling the schedule.

The second round was reset for today with a 36-hole windup arranged for Sunday to make up the lost time.

Casper was one of 67 players who slogged around the soggy 7,034 yards of the Sedgwick County Club before the end came Friday. He fashioned a fine 66, three under par, for a 133 total and the early lead.

TOO LATE

Boros, meanwhile, started with a two-stroke penalty when he was four minutes late for his 12:48 p.m. date at the first tee.

After a 40-minute wait the round was cancelled and all the scores went down the drain.

Grief and concern over the civil rights leader's death, coupled with racial unrest in some areas, resulted Friday in a handful of significant postponements involving both professional and amateur sports.

The American League baseball opener at Washington between the Senators and Minnesota Twins was set back from Monday to Tuesday. Cincinnati's National League home opener against the Chicago Cubs, also scheduled for Monday, was postponed until Wednesday.

The Houston Astros said they would go ahead with their Monday night home opener against Pittsburgh in the Astrodome, but reacted to President Johnson's call for a national day of mourning for Dr. King Sunday by calling a scheduled exhibition meeting with the Twins.

The Detroit Tigers-St. Louis Cardinals' exhibition game at St. Petersburg, Fla., Sunday also was cancelled.

The NBA reset Sunday's Eastern Division playoff game at Boston between the Celtics and the Philadelphia 76ers for next Wednesday night. The Sunday contest, second in the best-of-7 Eastern finals, was to have been nationally televised (ABC-TV).

No decision was announced on the status of the second game of the Western Division final series between San Francisco and Los Angeles, scheduled for Sunday night on the Lakers' floor.

The National Hockey League was to decide today whether Sunday's playoff game at New York between the Rangers and Chicago Black Hawks, set for national television (CBS-TV), would be played. Two American Basketball Association playoff contests scheduled for Sunday also were up in the air. A decision was to be announced today.

The Reds-Cubs baseball opener was postponed after Mayor Eugene Ruehlmann called for a Day of Commitment on the part of Cincinnati citizens Monday in memory of the slain Negro leader.

USC Ace Takes 3 Gold Medals to Pace Gymnasts

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Makoto Sakamoto of the University of Southern California captured three gold medals Friday in the individual championships of the NCAA Gymnastic Championships at the University of Arizona.

Sakamoto captured the title in the all-around, high bar, and parallel bars as he successfully defended his 1967 title. The University of California led the four teams qualifying for the finals Saturday night by edging Iowa 186.75 to 186.40. Southern Illinois held third spot.

A three-man sweep in the trampoline event was the highlight of the afternoon session Friday.

Michigan captured the "first three places in the trampoline contest as competition was under way to determine the all-around title and the teams to enter the Saturday team title event.

George Huntzicker held first place in the trampoline event with a score of 9.55. Wayne Miller and Dave Jacobs, both of Michigan were tied for second with a score of 9.50.

Pat Arnold of Arizona took first place in the still rings with a score of 9.50.

Tom Galioto of New Mexico won the side horse competition with a 9.60 score. A tie for the floor exercise title was held by Toby Townson of Michigan State and Sid Freudenstein of California with a score of 9.50.

Cardinals Victorious, 3-2

Wilson Sputters in Tuneup

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Earl Wilson got his last tuneup Friday for the opening-day pitching assignment with the Detroit Tigers, but the engine was sputtering.

Wilson worked the first three innings and gave up two of the runs as the Tigers lost their next to last exhibition game of the season, 3-2 to the St. Louis Cardinals.

The big righthander, a 22-game winner last year, will open Detroit's American League season on Tuesday against Boston at Tiger Stadium.

He allowed three hits, giving up the two runs on one of the hits in the second inning of the game at St. Petersburg. After Tim McCarver got his first of two singles, Mike Shannon hit back to the pitcher. Wilson's fielder's choice attempt at second base was late.

BASES LOADED

With one out, Dal Maxvill walked and the bases were loaded.

Gibson lifted a sacrifice fly, and when third baseman Don Wert missed the throw from leftfielder Jim Northrup, Shannon scored behind McCarver.

Al Kaline singled and scored for the Tigers in the first inning on Norm Cash's double.

Mickey Stanley scored the last Tigers run in the seventh.

Bob Tolan's single in the ninth inning drove in the winning run for the Cardinals. His base hit came off southpaw Les Cain with one out after Phil Gagliano had tripled and Detroit manager Mayo Smith had ordered right-handed hitter Dick Simpson passed intentionally.

BEST BETS — Managers Mayo Smith of the Detroit Tigers (left) and Red Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cardinals, whose clubs were meeting in an exhibition game in Florida today, are hopeful they'll meet this fall, too. The Tigers have been picked to win the American League flag while the World Series champion Cardinals are the choice in the National League. The nation's sports writers did the picking.

Regional Theater in Lead Role

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Regional theaters, more and more, are turning the tables on Broadway.

Instead of concentrating on me-too revivals of proven hits or good-for-you classics, they are branching out to find new dramas of their own.

Perhaps even more important, some of the things they have initiated are being readied for the Broadway from whence all creativity has traditionally followed. Established writers, too, like Albee, Chayefsky and Miller are putting new works on, far from Shubert Alley.

Following are highlights of recent and current ventures into thespic originality across the nation:

Ann Arbor, Mich., University of Michigan Theater — world premier of "Amazing Grace," a play by Studs Terkel about the "impersonality of society."

Atlanta, Ga., Theater Atlanta — a hometown-oriented comedy, "When the Kremlin Managed the Atlanta Braves," based by David Rogers on the novel.

Boston, Mass., Theater Company of Boston — first American showing of John Arden's "Left-Handed Liberty," an offbeat examination of the Magna Carta.

Buffalo, N. Y., Studio Arena — world premier of a pair of new pieces by Edward Albee, "Box" and "Quotations from Chairman Mao Tse-tung."

Dallas, Tex., Theater Center — two firsts — the just-opened world premier of Paddy Chayefsky's "The Latent Heterosexual" starring Zero Mostel, and the American premier of a play about an antihero in long-ago war, "Vasco," by Lebanese author Georges Schehada.

Milwaukee, Wis., Repertory Theater — smalltown nobility is the theme of "Oh, Pioneers," by Douglas Taylor who previously pioneered with the same troupe in "The Sudden and Accidental Re-education of Horse Johnson."

Philadelphia, Pa., Theater of the Living Arts — "A Scaffold of Marionettes," called by playwright C. Lester Franklin an exploration of "the Negro-white myth."

Providence, R. I., Trinity Square Repertory — world premier of "Years of the Locust," by Norman Holland, concerned with the wit and perversion of Oscar Wilde.

Pontiac, Mich., Oakland University Meadow Brook Theater, new company headed by John Fernald, former director of the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts, performed the American premier of "And People All Around," based by George Sklar on 1964 civil right murders in Mississippi.

San Francisco, Calif., American Conservatory Theater — after extended concern with standards, the company's first original, "Don't Shoot, Mable, It's Your Husband," a freaked-out farce by Jerome Kilty.

Seattle, Wash., Seattle Repertory — another first original, "Christopher" by Clarence Morley.

St. Paul, Minn., Minnesota Theater Company — first American showing of "Tango," by the Polish avant-gardist, Slawomir Mrozek.

Tallahassee, Fla., Florida State University — "No Silver Saints," by Robert Waldron, a joint professional-student enactment of the story of Heloise and Abelard.

Washington, D. C., Arena Stage — world premier of "The Great White Hope," a jolting fictional account of the life of Jack Johnson, first Negro heavyweight boxing champion.

An original production of the Yale University Drama School, starring Michael Lombard (foreground) and entitled "We Bombed in New Haven," has been scooped up for Broadway release next fall.

Meadow Brook in Fore

Meadow Brook Theatre at Oakland University, one of the regional groups mentioned in the accompanying story, next season will present the world premiere of a new comedy by Ron Chudley entitled "The Second Coming of Burt." Presentation of this new comedy is another example of how regional theaters, the OU group included, are turning the tables on Broadway with new material. Chudley's play is one of seven presentations scheduled by Meadow Brook next season.

Hockey Playoff on TV Tomorrow

Merely finishing first in the National Hockey League after a long season of 74 games against 11 other teams doesn't win the championship. The leader must also put its prestige on the line in at least 12 postseason games in vying for the Stanley Cup.

A minimum of five Stanley Cup playoff games will be broadcast live and in color on the CBS Television Network beginning tomorrow.

The Stanley Cup is the oldest trophy competed for by professional athletes in North America. It was donated in 1893 by Frederick Arthur, Lord Stanley of Preston, Canada's sixth governor general, who purchased it for his country's amateur hockey champions.

The cup became the symbol of professional hockey supremacy when the National Hockey Association took possession in 1910. It has been competed for only by NHL teams since 1926.

To reach the playoffs, a team must finish at least fourth in its six-team NHL division, then enter rounds of best-of-seven games against members of its own division.

* * *

The teams finishing first and third taking on each other, while at the same time the second- and fourth-place finishers compete. Winners of the opening rounds then meet to decide a division finalist.

People in the News

By The Associated Press

All four Negro stars scheduled to take part in Monday night's movie Academy Awards have withdrawn in mourning for Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the American Broadcasting Co. said yesterday.

They are Sammy Davis Jr., Diahann Carroll, Sidney Poitier and Louis Armstrong.

Davis, scheduled to sing, will be replaced by Shirley Jones, ABC said. A board member of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference headed by King, Davis will attend King's funeral.

ABC said Poitier would be replaced by Jack Lemmon in presenting the best actress award. Miss Carroll, to have been a copresenter of the short-subjects award, will not be replaced. A replacement for Armstrong, who was to sing, has not been announced.

King Hussein, Nasser Talk

Arab Summit Is Topic; Jordan Chief Bitter

CAIRO (AP) — King Hussein of Jordan arrived today for talks with President Gamal Abdel Nasser on defense against Israel.

Hussein was bitter that other Arab states did not give Jordan military backing against recent Israeli raids, informants said.

Sources in Amman said other subjects to be discussed included the possibility of an Arab summit conference and the Middle East peace mission of U.N. special envoy Gunnar Jarring.

Hussein is scheduled to fly to Baghdad after his Cairo talks for discussions with Iraqi President Abdel Rahman Aref.

TO VISIT CAIRO

Jarring will visit Cairo early next week, probably Monday, in yet another effort to solve the Arab-Israeli impasse on issues left by the Middle East war last June, the semi-official newspaper Al Ahran said.

Jarring recently reported to U.N. Secretary General U Thant his failure to achieve any headway in four months of contacts in the area so far, but said he would continue his efforts, Al Ahran said. It said he contacted Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad Thursday to fix a date for another visit to Cairo.

In Beirut, Lebanon, the newspaper Al Jarida said Pakistan is sending 37 planes and 10,000 volunteers to defend Jordan against another Israeli attack.

In a dispatch from Amman, the paper said the planes included fighters and bombers complete with crews, but did not give further details. It said the volunteers already are on their way to Jordan.

APOLLO SPACECRAFT RECOVERED — Frogmen secure cables to the Apollo 6 spacecraft preparatory to hoisting it to the hangar deck of the U.S.S. Okinawa 360 miles from Hawaii yesterday. Despite the malfunctioning of three Saturn rocket engines, which prevented the spacecraft from achieving the desired orbit, the splashdown in the Pacific was close to the intended spot.

Wilson Shuffles Staff; Woman in Fiscal Post

LONDON (AP) — In a Labor government reshuffle Friday night, a female dynamo who once said her politics were as red as her hair moved up to the sixth-ranking Cabinet position.

She is Barbara Castle, 56, formerly transport minister, now appointed by Prime Minister Harold Wilson to be the secretary of state for employment and productivity. She thus takes charge of controlling prices and income—a keystone of the Labor government's austerity campaign to make devaluation work.

In other changes Labor minister Ray Gunter was promoted to minister of power and Agriculture. Fred Peart, who fought the hoof and mouth disease outbreak, was appointed Lord privy seal and leader of the House of Commons. Patrick Gordon Walker, onetime foreign secretary, was dropped as minister of education.

The energetic Mrs. Castle, seen by her supporters as having the potential to become Britain's first female prime minister.

She came prominently into the public eye last year when she ruled that automobiles and drink don't mix and bulldozed through a bemused Parliament a bill authorizing police to make random checks of motorists with breath-testing devices.

Pubs, bars and taverns moaned that their business was cut in half or more. But the highway death toll dropped dramatically.

Now one of the leading leftists in the Wilson government, Mrs. Castle has been an ardent supporter of leftist causes since childhood. Before becoming a minister, she often took part in anti-bomb marches at Aldermaston and elsewhere.

King Fund Begun

SAGINAW (AP) — Nate W. Katter, bakery owner and a member of the Saginaw County Board of Supervisors, has proposed establishment of a scholarship fund as a memorial to the slain Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Katter started the fund with a $50 donation.

Groom, Best Man Wore Handcuffs

In handcuffs, Richard E. Shano, 27, and another inmate of the Rock Island County, Ill., jail, Anna Marie Holmes, 19, exchanged marriage vows yesterday before magistrate Robert Ohrberg in the county courthouse. A brief wedding march included three deputy sheriffs and three process servers.

The deputies took the handcuffs off the bride and her matron of honor, Mrs. Phyllis Herditsky, 19, but made Shano and the best man, Carl Detienne, 38, wear theirs. After the ceremony the wedding party marched across the street to the jail for a reception during regular visiting hours.

Actress Wins Divorce Ruling

Gina Lollobrigida said yesterday she and her estranged husband, Milko Swofic, obtained a divorce ruling from a Vienna court.

The actress, who is making a movie in Catania, Sicily, added that she still hoped for an annulment from the Vatican's Sacred Rota, for which she applied last year.

She and Skofic, a Yugoslav-born physician, were legally separated Oct. 10, 1966, after 17 years of marriage. She was granted custody of their only child, Andrei Milko.

Under Italian law the 39-year-old actress' marriage is not considered dissolved—and she cannot remarry—until the Sacred Rota grants an annulment.

Replacement F111As Arrive in Thailand

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Two U.S. Air Force F111A aircraft arrived at the Takli Royal Thai air base Friday to replace the two swing-wing craft that were lost last week, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said.

The spokesman said the two fighter-bombers arrived from the Nellis Air Force base in Nevada. The Takli base is about 150 miles north of Bangkok.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Embassy announced completion of the operation at Takli to recover the F111A that went down in northeast Thailand March 30.

It said that, following location of the wreckage, the crash site was secured and all the plane's components have been accounted for.

Future King's Grades Good

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP)—Prince Charles, heir to the British throne, has begun his second term at Cambridge University with his private life still a mystery. But his tutors say he is showing good academic progress.

PRINCE CHARLES

The Prince of Wales has established himself as a courteous, soft-spoken and self-effacing student at Cambridge's Trinity College. His fellow undergraduates now hardly bat an eye when the 18-year-old son of Queen Elizabeth II strolls into a lecture room.

"The main thing that's happened since he arrived last October is that nothing has happened," shrugged one of Charles' fellow students at Trinity. "He'll be king some day and I guess he just can't afford to take risks."

The risks he avoids are being seen in one of dozens of pubs here, or being seen with one of the 300 coeds who study among 3,000 males.

POLITE REFUSALS
He has politely but firmly refused to accept invitations to tea or sherry parties from anyone who is not among his close circles of friends. A local nurse, Vivien Morgan, 21, received a note of "regrets" after she and some friends invited Charles to "bring his own bottle" to help celebrate the end of nursing exams.

UNIQUENESS PASSES
His Royal Highness prefers to entertain friends in a weekend cottage in nearby Norfolk—always chaperoned and accompanied, as a minimum, by his aide, a 36-year-old Royal Air Force squadron leader who also lives in Trinity.

Last term, Charles joined Trinity's theater society, and the exclusive Pitt Club, and the musical society. He plays a handy game of squash and is heard now and then tuning his cello.

FRIENDLY GESTURE
As a gesture to the 10 students who share his dormitory section—and its communal showers—the lanky, long-haired Charles invited them up to get acquainted.

"He was very friendly—he's it is, but you never see him. He must be lonely."

Roberts disagrees, claims the prince is living "as normal a life as possible. At Cambridge, the burden of studying and of socializing is up to the individual."

Charles recently acquired, a snappy new blue sports car, seen by some as a sign of a coming thaw in his public social appearance. "But that's up to him—it's his decision, and his business," Roberts said. The prince is too young to drive at Cambridge without university permission.

IMPECCABLE REPUTATION

Meantime, students say tidbits of gossip concerning Charles are as hard to come by as compliments from tutors. The prince has emerged with an impeccable reputation.

A fellow anthropology student recalls he was "a bit amused" once to see Charles, sitting next to him in a laboratory, toss some old bones nonchalantly in the air.

And a student in a nearby room heard Charles spinning a melody on his cello late one night. The student mischievously turned up his portable radio full blast when the British Broadcasting Corporation signed off for the night with the national anthem "God Save the Queen."

Roberts emphasizes it should all be put in the perspective of historical, tradition-bound, unfrilled Cambridge life.

HE'S A "LEGACY"
"Charles' grandfather King George VI and his great-grandfather Edward VII both came here," he said, "and Charles is a student like any other."

Trinity's motto is "semper idem"—"always the same"—and royalty or not, it still is.

gone out of his way to meet us," said one.

But few others have shared the honor, and many interviewed said they'd really rather not. It's hard to wrest admissions of awe for the monarchy from egalitarian but class-conscious British undergraduates—even at prestigious Trinity. A college that numbers intellectual giants going back to Sir Isaac Newton among its alumni can afford to be a bit blasé about royalty.

Elaborate preparations, firm but subtle hints to students from tutors, and the British sense of fair play account for Charles' exceptional privacy. Then, too, the glamor wears off in time.

UNIQUENESS PASSES

"The uniqueness of the situation, has passed," says Trinity's student president, Alan D. Roberts. "The students aren't curious anymore. I suppose you could describe it as a kind of apathy."

"He's isolated," says a blonde, 18-year-old from one of Cambridge's two women's colleges. "I don't know whose fault

An epic drama of adventure and exploration!

LESS THAN AN HOUR AGO, you were rocketed up from New York's Kennedy spaceport, to embark on a journey that will take you out into the far reaches of the Universe.

Your first stop is the slowly turning wheel of Space Station One, in orbit high above the Equator. The winged ship that has carried you up from Earth nudges gently into the docking section, and you disembark into the 600-foot-diameter space city, to await the shuttle service for the Moon.

In just two days, you will be landing on that once-unattainable world, to confront a mystery that has risen out of the past and is now baffling the Twenty-First Century's keenest minds...

Inside Clavius, the 150-mile-wide Moon crater, you are met by scientists from the newly-built space and time which begins millions of years ago before the human race existed—and ends with Man confronting his destiny among the stars. It is a story that will sweep you across the stark beauty of the lunar plains, awaiting the slow dawn as the Earth wanes in the sky. From the Moon it will take you half a billion miles to the greatest of all the planets, mighty Jupiter, lord of the Solar System. And even then, your journey will just be beginning; for across the light-years, the stars are waiting and watching.

As no other movie has done, 2001: A SPACE ODYSSEY reveals the strangeness, beauty and wonder we will discover on the Moon, the planets, and among the stars—in the year 2001.

King Considered Almost a Messiah by His Closest Followers

NEW YORK (AP) — Black and white, religious leaders looked on Dr. Martin Luther King with a kind of awe. They saw something of the Old Testament prophet in him. And his closest followers looked on him almost as a messiah.

He had a "charisma," as the theologians put it, an inspired quality, an inner force pressing him on, and firing his words.

It showed up most obviously in his eloquence, a sort of swelling tide that built up as he went along, carrying him with it, generating a rhythm of its own, like a chant or litany, with receding theme lines.

"I've been to the mountaintop," he said again and again in a talk he gave only hours before he died, the phrase recurring like a keynote. "I've been to the mountaintop and I see the promised land."

It was a reference to Moses of old, who viewed the lush valley of the Jordan from Mount Nebo, but who died before he could enter it with his people, the fugitive slaves from Egypt.

REGULAR FEATURE

For the last decade, ever since the boycott led by him won integration on Montgomery, Ala., buses in 1955, he has been a regular feature of major church conventions and many interfaith conferences.

In a sense, Christian and Jewish bodies looked to him as guide—as an interpreter, pathfinder and a stimulant—in the tangled, agonizing struggle to right the wrongs of racism.

At his call, an interdenominational army of clergy, including many of the foremost churchmen of the country, converged on Selma, Ala., in 1965, more than 5,000 priests and ministers in a period of 30 days.

"Walk together, children, don't you get weary," King told them, along with a host of others, Negro and white, in starting the 54-mile march to the state Capitol in Montgomery.

WASHINGTON MARCH

Again, at his call, the nation's religious leadership joined in mobilizing the vast 1963 march of 200,000 on Washington, D.C., a moving sea of many skin tones and churches that surrounded the Lincoln Memorial.

"I have a dream," King told that remarkable multitude, the phrase resounding again and again as he spoke. "I have a dream that one day on the red hills of Georgia the sons of former slaves and the sons of former slave-owners will be able to sit down together at the table of brotherhood."

"I have a dream that one day even the state of Mississippi, a state sweltering with the people's injustice, sweltering with the heat of oppression, will be transformed into an oasis of freedom and justice."

"I have a dream that my four little children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin but by the content of their character."

Strangely, in this Negro Baption, there was always a note of ultimate triumph.

"The dawn will come," he said. Yet he was no temporizer. "We know through painful experience that freedom is never voluntarily given by the oppressor," he said in his moving letter from a Birmingham jail. "It must be demanded by the oppressed."

"For years now I have heard the word 'Wait!' It rings in the ear of every Negro with a piercing familiarity. This 'Wait!' has almost always meant 'Never.'" from the first, he had that fur-ther sort of sight that knew the reality even while it still lay ahead.

As if by some premonition, he elated, seeing the coming light.

Lenten Guideposts-34

Hot Dog Vendor Thanks God as He Helps Others

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the 34th in a series of 44 articles to be published by The Pontiac Press during Lent telling personal stories of faith in action in the lives of sincere people. Some contributors are famous, others relatively unknown.)

By SIDNEY FIELDS
Guideposts Roving Editor

Four years ago two Harlem churches and the Union Settlement House rented a store on a corner at New York's East Side so school kids could have a place to study.

No one was more delighted for the children's sake than Isidoros Pantelaros, the hot PANTELAROS dog vendor on the corner.

"Houses where kids live are too crowded for study," he explained. "Too much noise. No good for education."

He utters the word's education" as if it is a holy word. He never went beyond the third grade.

Nine months after the study center opened it was suddenly closed. The hot dog man hunted down one of the women who worked in the center and wanted to know why. No money. Pantelaros promptly offered $20 a month to help reopen it.

"EVERYBODY HELPS"

"It is nothing $20 a month," he explained later. "Everybody helps. Now is 65 children. They laugh. They learn. Is good for education."

He is a chunky little man of 58, with a constant grin, a prominent scar across his forehead and a deep faith in God.

They call him Pop up there around his corner. They always say "Pop" with affection whether it's a kid, the decent people searching for some sun or the thoughts that infest the neighborhood.

Pop tends his cart from 8 in the morning until 7 at night, six days a week, summer and winter. On the Sabbath he goes to church, then comes home and rests.

If a kid hasn't got the 15 cents for a frankfurter he gets it anyway. Pop knows it's often the difference between lunch and no lunch.

SAVED POLICEMAN

Recently, he nodded at a policeman passing by, glanced up and saw a man on a roof aiming a bottle at the officer's head. Pop leaped, pushed the cop aside, the bottle missed him by inches.

The next day a man jabbed a knife at Pop, cut his wrist and snarled, "Why'd ya help that copper?"

Pop stemmed the trickle of blood with a paper napkin and said, "Is sad you hate. For me is no time to hate."

The man was a drug addict whom the policeman had once arrested and Pop could only pity him. Pop is full of compassion — for everyone.

Born in Pyrgy, a tiny town on the Greek Island of Chios, near Turkey, Pop was only 4 when his father, a struggling farmer, died, leaving five children.

When he was 10, he went to work. Pop was still in his teens when he came to America alone.

A BUS FOR GREECE

In the spring of 1965 Pop went to Pyrgy to see his two brothers and two sisters and his niece. When he returned here he asked his friends where he could buy a bus.

Pop grinned and explained with great patience that 72 boys and girls in Pyrgy have to walk six miles to a nearby town to attend high school. Pyrgy has his friends where he could buy a bus. The walk over high hills and across a rickety bridge and with the frequent rains it is difficult for them and often dangerous.

"If they don't get to school, they lose education," Pop said. "I need bus."

He finally found a bus with a 1956 body but a more recent motor. He had it overhauled, cleaned it himself and then had it painted blue and white, the Greek national colors. He paid the $1,750 for all that work and another $1,000 for shipping and import taxes.

"Now, two times a day bus is taking children to school and back to home," Pop said. "Who knows? From school is maybe a nurse, a good carpenter, a writer, a doctor."

NEEDS LITTLE FOR SELF

Pop sends each of his brothers and sisters $20 every month and another $50 to keep his niece in school. But he tells you that he doesn't drink, smoke or gamble and needs so little for himself.

After work he goes home, cooks his supper and prepares with his special hot dog sauce of tomatoes, oil and onions. Then he watches some TV, prays and goes to bed.

"So much I have for to give my thanks," he said. He points to the big scar across his forehead. When he was a boy he fell six floors from the roof of his house.

He puts his hands together in a gesture of prayer and remembers that in World War II, when he was a merchant seaman, his ship was torpedoed 1,800 miles off Perth, Australia. He jumped, made it to a life boat. After 10 hours another ship picked him up.

"God has given me back my life two times," Pop said. "So always I have a debt to him I try to say 'thank you' every way I can."

A Junior Editors Quiz About GEORGE WASHINGTON

QUESTION: Why is George Washington called "The Father of His Country?"

ANSWER: Washington won a top spot in our history books by a combination of qualities. Brave and resourceful, he was careful in making decisions. Once he made a decision, he pushed it through with determination.

Under his thinking was a foundation of honor, integrity, love of God, love of country. He was the man to fill the hour, and a more difficult hour never existed to test a man's strength.

Consider that he was suddenly called to command, in his own words, "raw militia, badly officered and with no government." Then, after winning what seemed an impossible victory, he had to organize a new nation.

We bring up a typical incident to show how truly Washington acted as the father of his country. It was after the victory but before the troops had been disbanded. They had not been paid and conditions were chaotic. A group of officers called on Washington to organize a monarchy with himself as king.

But Washington had been fighting to oppose tyranny — not to grab power for himself. "I view this suggestion with abhorrence," he cried, "banish it from your minds!" The suggestion was not made again. America remained a republic. "The Father of His Country" had seen to that.

Former Michigan Residents Retire in Harlingen, Texas

Mr. and Mrs. Lee E. Tayler who lived in Grosse Pointe Farms, Michigan before Mr. Tayler's retirement, enjoy lounging around their apartment swimming pool in Harlingen, Texas.

Mr. Tayler was formerly Director of Commercial Sales for the Detroit Edison Company. He and Mrs. Tayler came to Harlingen as winter visitors for several years. They planned in advance to move to Harlingen after retirement in 1966. As stated by the Taylers:

"We wanted to get away from snow and ice. We liked the size of Harlingen (43,000). We liked the people. No matter where you go you will find no more friendly and hospitable than the people of Harlingen. We like our church, the civic activities and the opportunities for Mr. Tayler to keep busy employing the knowledge and experience gained from his many years in the sales department of his company."

"Harlingen is rightfully proud of its fine Valley Baptist Hospital. Planning is underway to enlarge its facilities. It has the very best in equipment and is staffed with trained, competent personnel. In the medical field the people of Harlingen are also fortunate for the many outstanding physicians, dentists and specialists available to them for a city of its size. This is surely important for older people."

For further information on Harlingen, Texas, write Lee E. Tayler, P. O. Box 189, Harlingen, Texas 78550. (Adv.)

Child's Farm Labor Curbed

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Champaign County extension adviser Earl Bantz has informed farmers that the new child labor law, effective this year, does not permit youths under 16 to perform certain jobs on the farm.

Among the listed hazardous operations are:

Handling or using a blasting agent including dynamite, blasting caps, primer cord and black powder.

Handling or applying anhydrous ammonia, certain toxic herbicides, pesticides and fungicides and cleaning equipment.

Driving a truck, bus or automobile on a public road.

Operating or riding a self-unloading bunk feeder wagon, feeder trailer, forage box wagon or auger trailer wagon.

Operating or riding on a dump or hoist wagon, fork-lift rotary tiller, or power-driven earth-moving, or trenching equipment.

Wilson and Rex Sweat Out Result of Rachel's Cooking

By EARL WILSON

LONDON — What's all this about movie marriages being ephemeral? A day after Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor told us they celebrated their fourth anniversary, I sat in with Rex Harrison and Rachel Roberts as they told us their sixth with Rachel off "cooking a steak and kidney pie somewhere — I'm not absolutely certain where," Rex said.

"I haven't got the address," he confessed, "but she's been cooking it since a quarter to four, and I'm just waiting for the phone call."

It was now after 7 — and the sedate but plush atmosphere of their suite at the Hotel Connaught in Mayfair, and Rex discussed the talents of his wife.

"She's a marvelous cook," he said. "We went out this morning before lunch to the butcher and got the steak and the kidney and the onions and the whole kibboosh."

"In our villa in Portofino, we have two kitchens, one the cook uses, one Rachel uses. I've learned a lot from watching Rachel. The first steak and kidney pie Rachel made in Italy we called mouse pie because it came out a very dark gray color. It was really the most extraordinary looking thing I've ever seen. It was really mouse gray."

Harrison laughed and laughed as he remembered it.

Suddenly he got a phone flash from Rachel who was at a friend's flat.

"It's all blowing up!" he reported. "No, no, I don't mean it's exploded. It hasn't actually risen yet but it looks promising."

And then Rachel arrived in person wearing a new ring from Cartier's and some spectacular tiger boots.

THE WEEKEND WINDUP

Joe Kippness of Kipp's was asked how he felt about Melina Mercouri entering his plush place in slacks. "The average person," he said, "would rather see Melina in slacks than somebody's secretary as a fashion plate." — Furrier Mike Forrest!

Phil Greenwald, the Concord's entertainment boss, was offered Rowan and Martin for a one-nighter, for $12,500. He recalled they'd worked there in '56 for $150. — Bob Fisher, co-author of "Happiness Is Just a Little Thing Called a Rolls Royce," sublet Ina Ball's apartment.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Since the invention of TV, some people don't think the movie is round — they think it's rectangular. — Shelby Friedman, Dallas.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Barbara Lacey knows how to keep people happy: "Find out what kind of advice they'd like — and that's what you tell them."

EARL'S PEARLS: It must be spring. The swallows showed up in Capistrano, the students are showing up in Fort Lauderdale, and the tax collectors are showing up everywhere.

"There's a girl in my history class," writes Columbia student Don Gastwirth, "who wears such tight sweaters that I can hardly breathe." ... That's earl, brother.

Swift Police Action Quells Racial Violence in Detroit

From Our News Wires.
DETROIT — Detroit, less than a nine months ago the scene of the nation's worst recent outbreak of racial violence, was calm today after authorities moved state and local police and National Guardsmen swiftly to quell violence following the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.
Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh, saying, "We think it is better to overreact than underreact," and Gov. George Romney, calling his moves "precautionary steps," quickly committed city police, State Police and National Guard troops to action in Detroit.

Their action followed scattered and sporadic incidents of rock throwing and window breaking, mostly by young Negroes.

Two youths were shot to death, both while allegedly engaging in looting. Police said one of the deaths was an accident.

Three persons were wounded by gunfire, at least two of them by police. Three policemen were injured.

BACKED INTO PISTOL

Robert Vaughn, 18, of Detroit was killed after a looting incident in Highland Park, when he backed into the pistol of an officer searching him, Highland Park police chief William Stephens said.

Detroit Police said a second youth, an 18-year-old Negro, died this morning of a gunshot wound. They said he was shot and another youth wounded by Detroit police during a looting incident shortly after midnight.

Incidents of rock-throwing and looting ceased shortly after dark, when an 8 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew, declared first by Cavanagh for Detroit, then by Romney for the entire country, took effect.

Gov. George Romney and Mayor Cavanagh were holding a morning press conference regarding the racial unrest.

ARMORED TANK POLICES DETROIT—A Detroit Police armored vehicle in a phalanx of squad cars starts off north down Detroit's 12th Street today in a show of force after violence erupted yesterday throughout the city. Negroes beat a taxi driver and burned his cab on 12th, and sporadic rock and bottle throwing took place, as the police headed into the area of last summer's July riot. Two persons were reported killed before the violence was quelled.

Aid Reaches Khe Sanh

KHE SANH, Vietnam (AP) — Relief forces landed in Khe Sanh today and some of the allied outpost's defenders already were pushing outward to join the offensive against North Vietnamese troops who besieged them for 76 days.
The enemy siege was officially declared broken Friday after a 20,000-

In one trench, the rangers reported finding the bodies of three North Vietnamese soldiers, all well equipped. They apparently were hit when U.S. artillery and air strikes pounded the trenches.

MARINES TAKE OFFENSIVE

Earlier, about 1,000 U.S. Marines had moved nearly two miles, southwest of the base in an effort to root out North Vietnamese troops lurking in the hills near the Laotian border.

South Vietnamese troops were expected to take over defense of most of the two-square-mile fortress, opening the way to withdraw some of the Marines or send them out on additional offensive thrusts.

U.S. commanders once expected one of the biggest battles of the war to develop at Khe Sanh, and estimated that 20,000 enemy troops surrounded the base.

But, the latest estimate was that only 7,000 enemy soldiers remained and the rest had withdrawn into the mountains toward Laos under massive U.S. air attacks.

The relief force set out Monday on Operation Pegasus, and parts of it swept the mountains east, south and west of Khe Sanh today.

SUPPLY ROAD

The biggest push involved Marine column of tanks, artillery and engineers reopening Highway 9, the only overland supply route to the base. The column was reported three miles east of Khe Sanh on its westward push.

Highway 9 has been closed since August, partly by enemy action and partly by monsoon weather.

In the Central Highlands, enemy ground fire brought down an Air Force F100 Supersabre 28 miles east of Pleiku.

U.S.-Hanoi Talk Plans Go Slowly

WASHINGTON — U.S. officials report arrangements with North Vietnam for preliminary discussions on peace talks are "moving forward" very slowly but are still on the track.

The State Department officially disclosed last night the North Vietnamese have been notified through diplomatic channels that President Johnson has agreed to "establish contact."

The unintended disclosure was forced, officials said, by a report that North Vietnam's Deputy Foreign Minister Hoang Van Loi had said in Algiers the United States had not replied to his government's proposal for preliminary discussions.

"In accordance with the President's statement of April 4," the State Department said, "We immediately proceeded to take steps to establish contact."

"Apparently the deputy foreign minister is not fully informed," Johnson announced Sunday a limited bombing halt over North Vietnam and asked for peace talks.

Hanoi responded Wednesday morning with a statement it was ready to make contact. Several hours later Johnson announced: "We will establish contact."

That was followed by the official word through diplomatic channels and officials said Friday night they were waiting for President Ho Chi Minh to make the next move.

President Johnson's cancellation yesterday of his Hawaii conference with his top Saigon officials did not affect the peace talk prospects in any way, administration officials said.

Nation's Cities Hit by Rioting; 16 Persons Die

By The Associated Press

Racial violence spawned by the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. continued during the night in several of the nation's cities. But relative calm had been restored in most sections by dawn.

Sixteen persons died, including nine in Chicago and four in Washington. Parts of both cities were heavily damaged by fire. Two youths died in the Detroit area and one in Tallahassee, Fla.

Chicago was hit by waves of fires, shootings and looting in a predominantly Negro West Side area last night and early today. Some 3,000 National Guardsmen shuttled from one trouble spot to the next. At least 20 buildings were burned to the ground.

Federal troops, ordered by President Johnson, guarded the White House and Capitol after adding police and National Guardsmen to bring a raging Negro outburst under control. Some 350 persons were injured, 2,000 arrested.

Washington, Detroit and Memphis were under curfew.

GUARD BACK-UP

National Guardsmen were also backing up police in Detroit and the greater Boston area. A unit of 500 guardsmen moved into Pine Bluff, Ark., to keep peace after police and Negroes exchanged sporadic gunfire during the night.

Guard troops operating from armored personnel carriers in Nashville flushed snipers from buildings on the campus of Tennessee A&I University. Two students were wounded, neither seriously.

Five policemen and National Guardsmen were injured in an exchange of gunfire with snipers near the predominantly Negro North Carolina A&T State University in Greensboro. Guard troops also were called to Raleigh and Durham.

Some windows were smashed in midtown Manhattan as groups of Negro youths moved into the Times Square-theater district area of New York, but the Harlem and Bedford Stuyvesant Negro areas were relatively peaceful after sporadic violence the night before.

The complaint, as far as East feels, is the poor maintenance accorded local roads by the County Road Commission. He feels a change in the administrative setup of the commission might change the situation.

Looting, Burning in D.C.

GIs Guard Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, operating from a White House turned into a fortress, has ordered federal troops to protect the capital against violent Negro unrest which has spurred him to schedule an address to Congress Monday night.

Johnson today was moving on several fronts to combat destructive Negro reaction to the assassination of the Rev. Martin Luther King.

Even as he disclosed his actions, rising looters smashed into stores within two blocks of the White House.

Black clouds of smoke from incendiary fires hung low over the city.

The violence in Washington and other urban centers prompted Johnson to cancel plans for weekend conferences in Honolulu on Vietnam policy and a meeting there with President Chung Hee Park of South Korea.

GENERAL TO FLY IN

Instead, the White House said Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. commander in Vietnam, will fly to Washington to confer with Johnson—probably today.

Working into early morning hours today, the chief executive was in shirt sleeves, his tie undone, his collar open.

The White House police force was on a 12-hour work basis instead of the normal 8. It was believed the Secret Service agents also were working overtime.

Czech Cabinet Resigns; Government Shuffle Due

PRAGUE (AP) — The Czechoslovak Cabinet resigned today, paving the way for a sweeping government reshuffle with Oldrich Cernik as the new premier, the news agency CTK said.

The Communist party's central committee nominated the 47-year-old Cernik Thursday to form a new government. It called on Communist members in the cabinet to resign. The Cabinet agreed today, "after a short discussion," CTK said.

CTK said the government's resignation was accepted by President Ludvik Svoboda who asked Cernik to form a new government.

CTK said the central committees of the National Front, the Socialist party and the Czechoslovak Peoples' party would meet today and Monday to discuss their representation in the new government.

The new Cabinet was expected to be sworn in Monday or Tuesday and probably would be introduced to the National Assembly at the end of the week to make a policy statement, the agency.

EDUCATION MINISTER

Unofficial reports said Jiri Hajek would move from his post as education minister in the old government to that of foreign minister, Martin Dzur would move up from deputy to defense minister and Gen. Josef Fazel, who survived Stalinist persecution, would be minister of interior.

Ota Sik, chief architect of the economic reform in Czechoslovakia, was expected to become one of the five deputy premiers, together with Gustav Husak, a Slovak leader once persecuted under the Stalinist regime, Frantisek Hamouz, foreign trade minister in the old government, former party secretary Lubomir Strougal and Prof. Peter Coltka.

Sun, Light Winds Will Warm Area

Sunny skies and light variable winds, mostly southerly, will hike temperatures in the Pontiac area into the 50s over the weekend.

The U.S. Weather Bureau announces the following day-by-day official report:

TODAY — Sunny and becoming warmer. High 50 to 55. Fair and not so cool tonight. Low 32 to 37. Winds variable becoming southerly at 10 to 15 miles per hour.

TOMORROW — Partly sunny and warmer.

MONDAY — Mild with chances of showers.

Precipitation probabilities in per cent are: near zero today and tonight, and 20 tomorrow.

The low temperature in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 28. The 12:30 p.m. reading was 44.

PHYLLIS DILLER

Zany Comic Phyllis Diller Real Homebody at Heart

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Women's Editor

Is a comedienne always funny? No, not even Phyllis Diller.

In town for a couple of hours Friday to autograph her new book, "Phyllis Diller's Marriage Manual," Miss Diller relaxed in an office at Hudson's for a brief interview.

Except for the hair, which is definitely Phyllis Diller style, the TV, screen and nightclub personality is an attractive woman with warm brown eyes and a pleasant smile. It is only when she comes out with that raucous laugh that you reconcile her with the public image.

Of medium height, she's slender. She wears a gold, blue and green print dress, turquoise shoes and hat and a full length white mink coat.

"I adore hats," she said. "We forgot to ask her how many she has."

"Were you a show off as a child?" we asked.

"No, I was painfully shy and I think I tried to be funny to cover up my shyness. You know, if you can get people to laugh, everyone relaxes and it's o.k."

BOOKS

When does she find time to write books, we wanted to know.

"Oh, I just keep a file and toss things in. It's a day-by-day thing. I'm getting a wonderful collection on food for the cookbook I'm going to write."

"I'm a fabulous gourmet cook, French and Italian and that sort of food. I used to be big with pies and I baked cookies every day for the kids. But I'm no good with cakes and dough."

We asked about wine cookery on which she turned thumbs down.

"I like to bring out the flavor of meat or vegetables and I think wine hides it. My cookbook will have lots of garlic in it, though."

NO REGRETS

Cranbrook Exhibit on Photographs

Cranbrook Academy of Art Galleries has currently on display an exhibition of fine art photographs by Charles Swedlund, an instructor in photography at the State University College, Buffalo, N.Y.

The photographs are the result of his exploration of high contrast, film out-of-focus images and multiple exposure. All deal with the nude.

Swedlund says this of his work:

"All of these multiple images were created in the camera. To me, this is important. None were made in the darkroom."

The exhibit will remain up through April 14.

days when she was chief cook, bottle washer, diaper changer and cleaning woman are past. She says she's willing to work very hard to get everything at home running smoothly, then to sit back, relax and enjoy life.

"But I hate the drudgery of housework."

It took some doing, but she and her second husband, Warde Dopovan, have an excellent staff in their Los Angeles home and the wheels of the household run with no friction.

She has five children, he has two. Only three still live in home, her youngest son and his two sons.

HOMEBOODY

At heart, this zany woman is a homebody, she insists. Fun, when she's not working, is tooling around the neighborhood in a tiny sports car, going to the beach, playing the piano, entertaining, cooking, or just sitting.

It's back to Los Angeles at the end of this week. She may not take to the road again for a while because she is all set with a new television series in the fall—the new Phyllis Diller show will be on prime time, its star says.

Ask to Bring Dish With You for Your Mate

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I can't agree with your statement that guests have no right to state what they want or don't want for dinner. You forgot to consider the many people who suffer from food allergies.

My husband is allergic to 25 food groups and I am sure any hostess would be distressed to have caused him an allergy attack. Even the wrong brand of food can make a difference. I have always understood that etiquette was based on consideration.

It seems to me far more thoughtful to warn my hostess before we come to dinner than to have her distressed.

Mrs. R. W.

Dear Mrs. W.: I did not forget to consider people with allergies, but I do not think very many people are allergic to as many foods as your husband. His case must be considered exceptional, and my answer would be to make an exception.

But rather than limiting your hostess' menu by listing 25 taboo foods, I suggest that you ask if you may take a ready-prepared dish for your husband that could be easily heated on the stove. Another alternative would be to ask if you might join the party after dinner.

ANNOUNCEMENTS FOR A SECOND

Dear Mrs. Post: We are expecting our second child in late March. Is it proper to send announcements for a second baby?

—Laura

Dear Laura: Yes, indeed. Friends will be just as interested in your second child as they were in your first. Send announcements to good friends and distant relatives—anyone you think would care to know.

The engagement of their daughter, Margaret Elaine, to Patrick James Schooley, is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Norman W. Batchelor of Motorway Drive. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Schooley of Flier Street. The bride elect, a senior at Providence Hospital School of Nursing, and her fiancé will wed November 29.

Plenty of Decent Men in World—Widow Needs to Make New Friends

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What is a widow to do? I'm not ready for a rest home yet, being only 41 years old. I have two attractive, well-behaved children, a nice home, no debts and a good steady income. No worries, except where to find a decent man who wants a decent woman.

I've been a widow for two years and have been told that I am "desirable." I started to date a year ago, and every man I go out with hands me the same line. ("What's one more slice off a loaf of bread that's already been cut?"—or words to that effect.) If that doesn't work, I'm told that it's emotionally unhealthy for a woman who has been accustomed to a normal sex life to go without sex. Then they try to save my mental health by volunteering to provide me with a normal sex life. (Now it's therapy.)

Then there are men who want female companionship but they tell you on the first date that they don't want you to get "serious" as they don't want to get that involved.

Have men always been this way, Abby? Or is this a new breed?

DEAR POPULAR: No, it's not a new breed. Such men have always been around, but your luck is unusually bad to have encountered them all the first year. There are plenty of decent men in the world. You need new friends.

Dear Abby: I am 26 years old and wear dentures. My problem is having people (strangers) come up to me and say, "My, but you have beautiful teeth. Are they your own?"

Abby, I consider this a very personal question for a stranger to ask, so I say, "Yes, they are." (Then I say to myself, "Well, after all, I DID pay for them, so they ARE my own.") Then I feel awfully guilty because I lied.

Isn't there some way I can answer these people without telling them the truth, and still keep from lying?

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Yes. When someone comments on your "beautiful teeth," say, "Thank you," and ignore any subsequent questions regarding same. Then change the subject. If the person is so rude and insensitive as to repeat the question, say, "If you'll forgive me for not answering, I'll forgive you for asking."

DEAR ABBY: I was married nearly two months ago, and had asked some of my cousins to be my bridesmaids. One cousin (I'll call her Myrtle) lives out of town, so when she accepted, I wrote telling her when she should be in town for the rehearsal. She wrote back saying she didn't have to come to any "rehearsal" because she had been a bridesmaid before and she knew what to do, but she said she'd be there for the wedding. Then I wrote back telling her what kind of dress to wear and so forth.

Well, the wedding was scheduled for 4 p.m. That time came, and no Myrtle. We waited for her for five minutes, and since there was no word from her, we were advised to go on with the ceremony, which is what we did.

Just after the ceremony began, in comes Myrtle. She wasn't dressed or anything. We couldn't stop everything and wait for her to get dressed, so we just proceeded without her.

She didn't stay for the wedding, and left no message. Her whole family got mad at me, so I wrote Myrtle a letter apologizing and explaining why we couldn't wait. That was over a month ago and still no word from her. They are still mad, so what's my next move?

CARBONDALE, KAS.

DEAR CARBONDALE: You have made enough moves. The next move should be Myrtle's—in the form of an apology. And by the way, a bridesmaid should attend the rehearsal, even though she's been a bridesmaid before. Each wedding is different.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "H" IN ORANGE COUNTY: Don't ever be ashamed to admit you were wrong. It's one way of saying you're smarter today than you were yesterday.

Scholarship Prize Granted to Three for Artistic Talents

Three Oakland County High School students were awarded Bloomfield Art Association Scholarships for the spring class term at the organization's Birmingham Art Center. The winners were announced by Mrs. William Lyman, Scholarship Chairman.

Byron Cook, a Birmingham Seaholm junior, won the Ruby Williams painting scholarship for his oil painting, Byron is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Wells of Tulumore Street.

A scholarship was awarded to Diane York, a senior at Birmingham Seaholm, for her ceramics. Diane is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hayward York of Lahser Road.

Stuart Schulman, a senior at Oak Park High School, won a scholarship for his sculpture, "Seated Figure." Stuart, who has studied under sculptor Sergio Di Guistini, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schulman, Oak Park.

The scholarships, which are open on a competitive basis to all high school students enabled the winners to enroll in the class of their choice for the ten-week semester which will begin April 8.

The Bloomfield Art Association faculty, drawn from the universities and art schools in the area, includes some of the most outstanding artists in Michigan and the country. High school art students are afforded a rare opportunity to pursue their courses in a completely professional atmosphere.

Today's Woman

Jack-of-All-Trades Is Mrs. Strawder

By YOLANDA BENAVIDES

A self-described jack-of-all-trades, Mary Strawder (Mrs. Robert) appears at her best when there's work to be done, whether at the community, neighborhood or family level.

Contrary to those who shy away from getting "personally involved," you'll find Mary quite at ease, knee deep in the middle of several civic projects.

And I soon found myself right beside her, this time in a Head Start classroom of energetic preschoolers at St. Michael's Catholic Church.

"Just have a seat," smiled Mrs. Strawder, as she hustled to find a lost puzzle part for a frantic little man of three or four. "I'm substituting for one of the teachers for awhile so just make yourself at home."

AIDE

Substitute teaching, I discovered is one of several odd jobs she performs as community aide for Head Start at St. Michael's, the largest of six such centers in the area.

Aside from tabulating a daily absentee count, handling a majority of the clerical work, shopping for classroom aids, and making personal house visits to parents, she also finds time to recruit new youngsters.

Mrs. Strawder became involved in the program over a year ago when she enrolled her youngest daughter.

What she termed as merely "curiosity" soon made her an active participant as a teacher's assistant.

Her personal involvement, however, isn't limited to such community projects as Head Start.

As corresponding secretary for the Fisher Street Block Club, the mother of eight was one of the organizers of the neighborhood for an all-out cleanup drive.

BLOCK CLUB

Commonly called the Block Club, an idea sparked by the OCCOE, the first meeting was held in March, 1967.

Florida Vacation Told

Mrs. Harry Pearce of Sylvan Lake has returned from three months in Belie and Sarasota, Fla. She spent several days in Newlin, Iowa en route home.

Within the span of a year, three dilapidated houses have been torn down (the last went Saturday), 40 junk cars have been towed away, vacant lots have been cleared off, and a youth-operated organization now polices the nearby playground.

"Not only has the appearance improved," says Mrs. Strawder, "but neighbors have been drawn closer together in the process."

"Of course we've still got a lot to do; but it's worth it if our street looks better and we're hoping the idea will catch on in other neighborhoods."

Trucks with engines of 1,000 horsepower and capacities of 100 tons are being built.

Power Failure Halts Fisher Body Output

Power trouble at Fisher Body Division yesterday resulted in the sending home of some first-shift production employees at 10 a.m. and the rest of the production employees at 10:18. About 1,200 employees were affected.
A temporary feeder was installed to replace the faulty underground cable, which caused the problem, according to a spokesman from plant engineering. He added that although the cable is still being fixed, the plant will be ready for production Monday.

Forest Job Call

LANSING (AP) - The State Conservation Department reports it is looking for young men with a high school education or the equivalent to fill jobs as forest technicians and forest fire aides. Applicants must be at least 19 and must have some work experience in the fields they hope to enter. Applications will be accepted by the State Civil Service Department at Lansing until April 22.

Letters Stolen

Some $180 worth of letters were stolen from the Walake Drive-In Theatre marquee in Commerce Township last night, leaving the sign to read "Hell on Wheels." Oakland County Sheriffs department reported.

Tom Kibbs, 16, of 4649 Jamm, Orion Township, reported to Pontiac police early today that two stolen from his car, parked near Pontiac Northern High School. They are valued at $150.

Bonds Sold to Pay for Sewer Interceptor

"Bonds worth $16.9 million to finance the giant Clinton-Oakland Interceptor Sewer have been sold. Construction of the six-township facility is expected to start in about a month - almost on schedule."
Winning bid on the bonds went to a group headed by the Bank of the Commonwealth of Detroit and Haley, Stuart and Co., Inc., of Chicago. The average interest cost was pegged at 4.95 percent.
The interceptor will be built to serve areas in the townships of Avon, Pontiac, Waterford, Independence, West Bloomfield and Orion. About 33 miles of sewer line will be installed as well as a pumping station and meter chamber.
The Oakland system will empty into the Detroit treatment system joining it in Macomb County near Rochester. Detroit will be paid a per-cubic-yard fee from users.
The $16.9 million will be returned to the County Department of Public Works through 46-in. fees. Each community will be responsible for their own lateral sewers.
Area officials feel the sewer will be a spur to development of the north-central county area. Further large interceptors projecting northward and east and west are in the master plan for development of this area.

Two Projects in Detroit Get Federal Funds

LANSING (AP) - The State Education Department reports two federal grants have been approved by the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare for rehabilitation projects in Detroit's inner city.
One three-year project involves $243,900 in federal funds and $27,100 in state funds.
The grant to the Education Department Vocational Rehabilitation Division will be for job-placement services for some 1,200 inner city residents.

JOINT OPERATION
The program will be operated jointly with Goodwill Industries of Detroit. The grant also will enable the addition of 14 staff members "to work with the disadvantaged unemployed."
A second grant of $355,996 in federal funds and $118,332 in matching funds from the United Fund of Greater Detroit will go to the Detroit League for the Handicapped for an addition to their present rehabilitation facility.
The primary objective will be to expand job training programs for the disabled and disadvantaged.
