The hit-run traffic death of a Madison Heights father of five in Bloomfield Hills today triggered an areawide police search for the driver of an apparently damaged, light blue car.

Killed while on his way home from work early this morning was 39-year-old Melvin Letrich of 29106 Spoon

ROBERT THORSEN

Charge Broker With Murder

Birmingham Man's Mother-in-Law Slain

DETROIT (AP) — A Birmingham brokerage firm employee was charged yesterday with the Dec. 5 slaying of his mother-in-law in her Detroit home.

Robert Thorsen, 31, of 2352 Buckingham, stood mute in Recorder's Court and was held for examination Dec. 18. A plea of innocent was entered for him.

Thorsen was accused of beating and strangling his mother-in-law, Mrs. Dorothy Thomas, 62, whose body was found in her Detroit home.

Max Silverman, assistant Wayne County prosecutor, said Thorsen had handled some stock transactions for Mrs. Thomas, whose husband left her an estimated $70,000 estate last July.

Silverman declined to outline the evidence which led to the murder warrant against Thorsen.

He said that police believed a ransacking of Mrs. Thomas' home had led police to believe that the slaying had been done by a burglar.

Letrich's body was found by a passerby at 1:40 a.m. today.

Slitter said it appeared that Letrich was hit when he got out of his own car to fix a flat tire on southbound Woodward Avenue south of Trowbridge Road.

There were no witnesses to the accident.

Letrich's car was parked in the curb lane of Woodward Avenue. The impact buried his body about 70 feet down the pavement.

Slitter asked all area residents, particularly employees of automobile bump and paint shops, to notify Bloomfield Hills police if they have any information concerning the hit-run car or its driver.

Guards Kill 23 Inmates for Revenge

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Mutilous prison guards bent on revenge for the slaying of 10 comrades went gunning for riotous convicts and killed 23 before the shooting spree in Villa de Voto penitentiary was brought under control at 4 a.m. today.

A police spokesman said 10 guards were killed and 4 critically injured when 400 convicts attempted a mass break out of the crowded prison.

After the rioters, surrendered, more than 100 guards went on a rampage. Police, in announcing 23 prisoners were killed, did not give the number wounded.

The 15 hours of rioting and gunfire in Villa de Voto's dark, damp cells and corridors finally ended about two hours after 100 guards, believed to have been most active in the vegetal retaliation, sped through the prison gates.

The rioting at Villa de Voto, where 2,100 transient prisoners and convicted criminals were being held, erupted at 1:15 p.m. Tuesday when six prisoners made a break for freedom.

They were armed with revolvers and pistols crudely assembled from smuggled parts.

They moved quickly, firing on guards and seizing 20 hostages, including a prison chaplain. The leaders were joined by the 400 inmates in two cell blocks and they barricaded themselves there.

Hernando Beiro, a hostage in one cell block, said the rioters told two captives guards to eat their supper and then shot them in the back.

Judge Leopoldo Insaurralde, sent to talk to prisoners at their request, returned after 15 minutes and reported the rioters were in an ugly mood and vowed to fight to the end. He said the hostages were in grave danger.

Wild shooting continued into the night, until Col. Miguel Puiva, director of penal institutions, announced at 10:30 p.m. that the hostages had been freed and "the mutiny is over."

Prisoner Deal Appears Close to Completion

Castro Reply Awaited
by U.S. Negotiators on 1,113 Captives

From Our News Wires
H A V A N A — Negotiations for the ransom release of 1,113 Cuban invasion prisoners were reported today to be on the verge of a successful conclusion.

A source close to the negotiators headed by New York attorney James B. Donovan said "We are awaiting an answer this afternoon," presumably from Fidel Castro.

It was understood the only hitch to announcement of a successful end to the talks was government verification that Donovan's list of foodstuffs and medicines conformed to Castro's ransom demand as outlined previously.

Donovan was expected momentarily to meet again with Castro to iron out the last details of the prisoner swap.

In Washington, the Maritime Trades Department of the AFL-CIO said the freighter African Pilot, which is being loaded with goods to be exchanged at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., would sail for Cuba Friday night or Saturday morning.

A spokesman for the union said the time for the sailing was set during a conference at the Justice Department today. The African Pilot's cargo was reported to consist mainly of baby foods and medicine.

Large stores of donated drugs and food were being assembled near Miami, Fla., in case the exchange goes through.

In Washington, the Kennedy administration is considering giving drug manufacturers a $25-million tax deduction on medicines donated for the proposed prisoner exchange.

Administration sources said that if this deduction is granted, it would be based on the wholesale value of drugs assembled for shipment to Cuba if Fidel Castro released the captives. The retail value of the drugs is $2 million.

The tax deduction proposal was worked out within the administration after key members of Congress had made it clear they would not go along with the (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Swimming in New Building

Mystery: MSUO's Big Splash

It was a quiet night on the campus of Michigan State University.

Physical Education Director Hollie Lepley stood in a snowdrift and proudly appraised the $1.5-million MSUO Intramural Building—a black unfinished hull resting like an age-old monster in the moonlight.

It was then that Lepley heard the splashing.

He would hear those splashes for two weeks because students were sneaking into the building at night and using the pool. What Lepley couldn't figure out was how they got into the locked building.

HOW?

Only one piece was missing from all the stories—How did 75 or more students get into a building that was completely sealed?

Well, it wasn't. And Lepley, a former

ROMNEY'S PLACE — Governor-elect George W. Romney leaves his new East Lansing home after discharging a few chores for his wife Lenore during his lunch hour yesterday.

At a morning press conference, Romney announced plans to rent for two years the $68,000, split-level, 11-room suburban home.

Romney Takes Time Out to Help Wife

By JIM DYGERT

Snip went the scissors. Snip, snip.

The man with graying hair was cutting material samples from the hem of draperies for his wife in the house they had just arranged to rent for two years.

He moved from room to room snipping the samples as he consulted a note from his wife.

"Lenore says I have to do this," observed Michigan's Governor-elect George W. Romney, "so I have to do it."

"Besides, it saves her a trip up here."

It was Romney's lunch hour yesterday, the only time available for the homey task in a crammed schedule of preparations for taking over the state's chief executive office Jan. 1.

Arrangements to rent the $68,000 home in suburban East Lansing from dairy farm owner Henry E. Crouse had been announced by Romney at a morning press conference.

The Romneys will move into the unfurnished 11-room, split-level house at 1045 Rosewood Ave., East Lansing, about the end of January.

They will live in another rented home in the same neighborhood while the Crouse home is being furnished, Romney said. He expected this to take about a month.

Romney said he and Lenore had looked at many homes in the Lansing area, with the Missus doing most of the searching, before they made a decision.

The house, built in 1948, has five bedrooms, four baths, a two-car garage and a screened sun-porch along with a spacious patio visible through large windows along one side of the living room. "We wanted to be close to the outdoors as we have been in Bloomfield Hills," Romney pointed out.

The Romneys learned of the Crouse home through friends. Mrs. Crouse said her youngest son was acquainted with Romney's two sons while they were students at Cranbrook School in Bloomfield Hills.

Romney said a young couple will stay in his Bloomfield Hills home during his two-year term as governor.

However, "We expect to return to Bloomfield Hills for weekends frequently," he added.

$400 A MONTH

Romney aides said the rental will be $400 a month.

Mac, JFK Air Woes; Hint at Katanga Crisis

1st Session of Nassau
Parley Lasts 2 Hours;
Leaders Grave

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan began the first of their formal meetings of their little summit conference today.

They were believed to be dealing with the possibility of a new crisis in the Congo.

The meeting lasted two hours. It broke up at 11:50 a. m. EST. The two leaders were smiling, but nevertheless appeared grave as they began their session in a luxurious seaside mansion at 9:50 a. m. EST.

Indications were that a series of top-ranking problems would be taken up quickly, including the deep British-American controversy over the future of the Skybolt missile.

The President was accompanied by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and Undersecretary of State George W. Ball. The prime minister had with him Foreign Secretary Lord Home and Defense Secretary Peter Thorneycroft.

The U.S. and British government chiefs plunged into two days of study of complex cold war problems under a cloud of gloom generated by the Skybolt controversy.

SOVIETS IN CONGO

U. S. leaders reportedly feel there is a very real danger of a renewed Soviet thrust into the Congo should the crisis generated by the secession of rich Katanga Province lead to the collapse of the moderate Leopoldville government.

The British did not appear to be as concerned as their American allies about the Congo prospects. One of Kennedy's aims at this meeting in his sun-plashed British island resort was to emphasize to Macmillan U.S. views of what might be done to defend the Congo against any new Soviet attempt at penetration.

A U.S. spokesman announced Tuesday night that the United States is sending an eight-man military mission headed by Lt. Gen. Louis W. Truman, a cousin of former President Harry S. Truman, to the Congo to survey the military needs of the U.N. force there prior to the supplying of more American equipment to the U.N. troops.

Jury Considers on Murder Trial

Defense Is Concluded
for Three Pontiac Men

The murder trial of three men accused in the July 30 killing of Pontiac grocer Eutimias Vasilou took to the jury today in Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams' court.

In final testimony heard yesterday, defense attorneys sought to discredit formal statements incriminating the accused, Joseph Page, 26, Benny Spell, 23, and R. G. Straman, 28, all of Pontiac.

Included were signed statements by Page and Spell, which their attorney said were obtained under duress.

The statements asserted that Straman drove Page and Spell to the Boulevard Market, 249 Orchard Lake Avenue, where the grocer was slain. Straman claimed he was being framed by Rufus Wilson, awaiting sentence for another slaying.

The jury went out at 10:05 a.m. to a Christmas verdict.

Congo Will Get U.S. Supplies

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A high-level U.S. military mission was dispatched to U.N. headquarters today to begin carrying out a White House promise of new military equipment to boost the U.N. force in the Congo.

A U.N. spokesman said the mission, led by Lt. Gen. Louis Truman, would go to the Congo after conferring with Secretary General U. Thant, who has warned that the U.N. will exert all pressures short of shooting to end the secession of Katanga Province, ADLAI, THANT CHAT

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson conferred with Thant for nearly two hours Tuesday night on the explosive Congo situation. He said the United States acted at the secretary general's behest.

Cold Due to Return to Nation?

By United Press International

Cold wave warnings were extended to Minnesota and North Dakota today in what could mark the beginning of the end of a winter's eye heat wave over much of the nation.

The weather bureau said temperatures would be 20 degrees lower than yesterday and snow would fall in parts of the two states.

Closer to home, two inches of snow fell on Chippewa County in the Upper Peninsula overnight and heavy fog soaked in parts of Lower Michigan.

The snow was reported at Sault Ste. Marie, while the fog was scattered across the map and locally heavy.

At Detroit both Metropolitan and Willow Run airports were closed for about seven hours last night and early today.

Spokesmen said both incoming and departing traffic was held up from 7:30 p.m. to 2:30 this morning.

Elsewhere, sections of the country which just a week ago suffered severe crop losses due to frost returned in balmy weather with temperatures reaching into the low 70s.

Latest Record Even Joshes Lady Bird

NEW YORK (UP) — When President Kennedy finishes his stewardship in the White House he will still be a young man and many Americans have wondered about his "retirement" plans.

"I'm going to be a night club performer," says a voice on a recording. It resembles that of the President as it is heard on radio and television.

The voice is that of Christopher Weeks, a night club performer who is cast as the president on the latest record, "My Son, the President," released late last week on the Clan label.

Unlike that other record about the family living on Pennsylvania Avenue, this is a self-styled musical satire. It was issued slightly less than two months after another satire, "My Son, the Folk Singer," became a runaway best-seller.

Weeks, as the president, does not make any attempts at singing. He more or less talks certain parodies to well-known folk tunes. In one sequence, called "Jackie's Not Home," and set to the tune of "Blue Tail Fly," Weeks' Kennedy sounds like he might be imitating James Cagney.

INAUGURATION SPEECH

The record opens with an inauguration speech.

"Ask not what this recording can do for you," the voice pleads. "Ask what you can do for this recording, recording, recording..."

Cuba become a big issue in one skit, "The Great Debate."

"My opponent says it should be pronounced Cu-bah," the voice says. "I say it should be pronounced Cuh-ber. That's my Cuban policy."

An old gag is given a new twist when "Hail to the Chief," the official presidential march, is played.

"Jack, they're playing our song," a familiar-sounding breathless voice which in reality is that of Fran Stacy, a good-looking brunette from Boston.

The second family, as in the other record by Vaughn Meader, is lampooned.

LADY BIRD

"What do you think of Lady Bird?" the presidential voice asks the First Lady after a party at the White House.

"Is she the wife of Senator Byrd?" the First Lady's voice asks.

After it is made known that she is the wife of the vice president, the presidential voice asks:

"What did you think of her singing the Battle Hymn of the Republic?"

"Loved hymn, hated her," was the reply.

In a talk-song called "On Top of Old Rocky," the presidential voice speaks a lament about the personal wealth of the governor of New York. But he also speculates on the future of newly elected Rep. William Scranton and Gov.-elect George Romney of Michigan.

"Scranton belongs in Pennsylvania, not on Pennsylvania, and... 'Romney can't get to the White House in such a small car.'"

Clan, a label of Ambassador Recording Corp., reports an initial sale of 200,000 copies of this LP which has been spotted in dime stores across the country.

The script was written by gag writers Harold Geller, Jack Vaughan and Greg Levy.

Weeks, the star, was born in Brooklyn. Sid Ascher's jacket notes reports that Weeks went through Harvard "on a sight-seeing bus."

Ex-Premier Dia Awaits Trial in Senegal

DAKAR, Senegal (AP)—The loser in a struggle for power in this West African Republic, former Premier Mamadou Dia was under military custody today awaiting trial for "abuse of authority."

President Leopold Senghor ordered the left-leaning Dia seized by paratroopers yesterday after Senegal's national assembly voted to abolish the office of premier and, in effect, to give strongman powers to Senghor.

Dia tried to seize the helm Monday. But a majority of the assembly rallied to Senghor, and the president quickly moved troops to immobilize his rival.

Senghor then waited for formal action by the assembly before ordering the soldiers to seize Dia in his home.

Although members of the same party, Senghor and Dia had been feuding over economic programs to be followed by this nation which won independence from France in 1960. The Paris-educated Senghor favored private enterprise while Dia had socialistic aims.

The assembly authorized Senghor to call a national referendum to approve constitutional reforms making the president the head of the government as well as chief of state. In the meantime he will rule as a strongman under emergency powers.

750 May Die

Estimate Christmas Toll

CHICAGO (AP)—A Christmas holiday death toll of between 650 and 750 has been estimated for the nation by the National Safety Council.

The 182-hour span from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Christmas day, the council said, also could bring disabling injuries to between 27,000 and 33,000 persons from auto accidents.

One of every four impending traffic deaths is likely to be that of a pedestrian.

The estimates were based on an evaluation of traffic experience in past Christmas periods and an evaluation of this year's traffic volume.

During a comparable nonholiday period at this time of year, the Council said, 470 persons are killed and 28,000 injured in traffic.

Howard Pyle, safety council president, said studies of past Christmas weekend accidents showed more than half the drivers involved had been drinking and that speed—driving too fast for conditions—was a factor in seven-eighths of the accidents.

The most deadly span of the Christmas holiday weekend for pedestrians has been the last six hours of Christmas eve, with the final hours of Christmas night almost as lethal to walkers.

Safest Air Routes Lead to West Berlin

BERLIN (UPI)—Allied officials handling vital air traffic into this isolated city call the Berlin corridors the safest air routes in the world.

In the last few months additional navigation and weather aids have been installed at both ends of the air lanes linking West Berlin and West Germany.

Some of the new electronic gear guiding Western pilots safely across Communist East Germany looms atop the big hangars of West Berlin's Tempelhof Airport.

U.S. Air Force officers refuse details on the various types of equipment—apparently antennas and radar domes.

But they said that, despite the extremely narrow airspace available to commercial and military planes, the Berlin run is now almost foolproof.

"Only a chimpanzee could go astray," said one of them.

THREE CORRIDORS

Under four-power agreements concluded shortly after World War II, Allied air traffic over the Soviet zone is restricted to three corridors, each only 20 miles wide.

Soviet radar stations and occasional fighter patrols make sure Western aircraft rigidly stay in bounds.

"We consider these flights rather routine," said Capt. Donald Millard, information officer at Frankfurt's Rhein-Main Air Base.

U.S. Air Force transports normally fly about 250 corridor and training missions into Berlin.

Skybolt Missile Threat Disturbing to British

The Skybolt skirmish is the reason behind the Nassau meeting now in progress between President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan of Great Britain.

British Defense Minister Peter Thorneycroft is antagonized by our threat to kill the Skybolt missile program. Thorneycroft is really in a snit and has told U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara that Britain will have to reconsider not only its defense policy but the whole Anglo-American alliance.

The British appear to be in a shaking rage. The Daily Sketch calls it "fury". The Scotsman, with more characteristic understatement, suggests that the transatlantic alliance might be somewhat soured.

The Skybolt debate seems to have a good deal of logic and right on both sides. Britain originated the program for a long-range missile which, like Skybolt, could be launched by a bomber in flight while the plane itself was 1,000 miles from target.

Several years ago we got into the Skybolt project and our studies seemed feasible. Thereupon, Britain dropped her own Blue Streak missile program and decided to buy Skybolt from us.

At that time, they granted us permission to base nuclear subs at Holy Loch. The effort was to be of mutual advantage; it would extend the useful lives of both the British Vulcan and the U.S. B52 bombers.

According to President Kennedy, our tests of Skybolt are not successful. A total of $657 million has already been spent and another $500 million committed. Completion of the missiles by us would require another $2.5 billion, and the President questions whether it is worth it.

The crux of the matter seems to be that we have other weapons and can get along without Skybolt, but the British have been depending on it. As a replacement for Skybolt we have offered the Hound Dog missile, and they claim this is nothing but a "second-rate H bomb weapon."

Let's hope this meeting can resolve our differences and solve the nuclear weapons problem.

U.S. Should Examine Its Own Free-Spending

Attorney General ROBERT F. KENNEDY flew off to South America for a Monday luncheon date-talk with President Joao Goulart and a look-see at the free-spending Brazilian government.

Our government has been looking askance at the liberal use of our aid money in Brazil.

Our South American ally is having a hard struggle to maintain a democratic government in the face of pressing economic problems.

Washington fears that unless the Brazilians get their financial status onto a sound basis despite citizen pressure for more government and lower taxes, even American aid will not prevent some kind of a totalitarian take over.

Among the observations of the Washington experts are these:

- Brazil has had a steady inflation for some years.
- The government's budget is out of balance, and another deficit is due.
- The gold reserve is dwindle-ding, and there is not enough to cover foreign claims.

- The country has severe balance of payments problems.

Our government, it is reported in Washington, is going to go slow on any more loans to Brazil until she gets her house in order. Undoubtedly Bobby will lay it on the line, and President Goulart is expected to take firm action to straighten out the mess.

This is prudent thinking, of course. But it occurs to us that since we recognize Brazil's troubles, we might take a look at our own books. To some degree, every ailment they've diagnosed in Brazil exists in the United States.

If financial sanity is good for Brazil, we would like to think it is good for us as well.

Facets of Early History Made Available to Press

The Press in indebted to

It represents a history of the American Revolution published in 1854, originally in possession of Judge Erastus Thatcher, elected Pontiac's first mayor in 1861 and the grandfather of the donor's late husband; and pages of historical manuscript dealing with the establishment of various municipalities in the Washington area as well as first government buildings in the Capital.

Added to our reference library, this contribution of early Americana should prove valuable to the editorial staff.

The MAT had himself a warm and festive noon a short time ago as guest of the Lake Orion Senior Citizens Club, this year under the presidency of Samuel E. Stewart.

The enthusiastic group of "youngsters" was enjoying their Christmas get-together, had a fine sing fest of carols and listened to a couple of readings superbly given by Mrs. Sylvia Shafer. Incidentally, there are some mighty good cooks among the group, and this trencherman would not be averse to having lunch with them again and again and again.

Always glad to yield the floor—er, column—to someone more interesting than your scrivener (really, I didn't think there were that many) we call on

A. G. Rossman of Oxford, who writes interestingly about his father, George Rossman.

Approaching a January 3rd 90th birthday, this senior citizen lagged his buck this year, and has only missed the hunting once in the last 57 years, bringing back a trophy on most every trip.

Seems that the year he missed, the hunting season conflicted with the birth of an other son—or vice versa... The MAT's sure, however, that he was glad to settle for a stork instead of a buck.

A Mighty Tight Squeeze

David Lawrence Says:

JFK Should Admit Steel Error

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy has dashed cold water on the hopes of businessmen generally for a better relationship with the Administration.

He now says that, if he had it to do all over again, he would act exactly as he did in the controversy over steel prices in April of this year.

This means he condones the use of coercive measures—threatening to withdraw defense contracts, hauling the steel companies before a federal grand jury, sending out FBI men to wake up newsmen to elicit from them what steel executives might previously have said about prices.

It was this whole series of tragic blunders that led to a break in the stock market and a downturn in American business as tens of thousands of workers were forced out of jobs in the steel industry alone.

In the President merely disclaimed for reasons of pride to concede when he has made an error? Or does he really feel as hostile to business today as he did in the steel episode? Is this an indication of what could happen again?

What the President said over television and radio on the three major networks on Monday night was not refuted before the big audience and only one side of the story was given to the American people. Here, in part, is what Mr. Kennedy said about the steel dispute.

ACCEPTED AHEAD

"The steel union had accepted the most limited settlement that they had had since the end of the second war. They had accepted it three or four months ahead."

"They did it in part, I think, because I said that we could not afford another inflationary spiral, that it would affect our competitive position abroad."

"So they signed up. And then when their last contract was signed, which was the Friday or Saturday before, then steel put its prices up immediately."

"It seemed to me that the question of good faith was involved, and that if I had not attempted, after asking the unions to accept the noninflationary settlement, if I had not attempted to use my influence to have the companies hold their prices stable, I think the unions could have rightly felt that they had been misled."

"Now, supposing we had tried and made a speech about it and then failed. I would have thought that would have been an awful setback to the office of the presidency."

"Now, an unfortunate repercussion of that was the strong feeling that the government might interfere in a good many labor-management matters, or that it might interfere in the whole question of the free-enterprise system."

"REGRETTABLE CONCLUSION" "It was regrettable that that general conclusion was drawn from this particular incident."

Given the problem that I had on that Tuesday night, I must say I think we had to do everything we could to get it reversed."

But what are the facts? The President didn't give all of them. He didn't tell his audience that Roger Blough, head of the U.S. Steel Corp., did reveal in a published interview as early as Feb. 26 that there would have to be a price rise. Mr. Kennedy also didn't mention that the steel companies had granted wage increases for three years without an increase in their own prices.

The President argues that he was troubled by a "question of good faith." But "good faith" with whom? He explains that he had persuaded the steel unions to accept a "noninflationary settlement."

What did his promises to the labor unions have to do with the conditions faced by the companies, which were already in a "profit squeeze" due to three years of wage increases without any corresponding increase in prices? (Copyright, 1962)

Bob Considine Says:

French, British Go Ahead on Big Supersonic Jet Liner

LONDON—While the dialogue continues in the U.S. as to whether it's worth the expenditure to build the R570, which might in turn lead to a supersonic jet liner, the British and French are going steadily forward with the job of building a supersonic job which will carry 100 CONSIDINE passengers and their luggage across the Atlantic in three hours.

The British aircraft corporation and France's Sud Aviation, which created the Caravelle, have agreed on the specifications of their aircraft.

It will be a sleek, delta-winged Dart with a long, pointed nose.

Both the British and the French lost a bundle in the hard-fought North Atlantic jet liner competition last year. Hence their unusual joint effort at one-umpmanship.

If they reduce the transatlantic flying time by 50 per cent they will do to Pan Am and TWA, our flag carriers, what the British, French, Germans, Italians and Dutch did to our transatlantic steamship business a generation ago.

There has been a great deal of indifference shown in the U.S. to a supersonic jet liner in the U.S.

There is, of course, historical justification for such a stand. The British put the Comet 4 in operation nearly 11 years ago.

CONFIDENCE ROCKED It was a sensation for a time, being the first pure jet commercial aircraft, but public confidence was rocked by successive and costly air catastrophes traced to fundamental engineering flaws.

Britain recovered, years later, with the Comet 4 and Turboprop models, but never regained the lead.

During that period the U.S. still lagged in its own jet liner development, and the Russians converted their twin-engine bomber into the TU104.

They offered it in world markets, but nobody would buy. Then Boeing brought forth its 707, based on SAC's jet tanker and with antecedents running back to the B-27. The company has sold about 430 of them at better than $5 million a copy, as against 1,000 Comet 4s and no TU104s.

Hence, the built-in indifference at home to the upcoming Concord. But in this case we're not at all sure it is wise to spot two determined competitors as much of a lead as they soon will have in such a basically inevitable field as the supersonic.

Goldwater

The Arizona (Phoenix) Republic

A group of prominent conservatives met in Chicago for the apparent purpose of edging Sen. Barry Goldwater into the 1964 presidential race.

It's obvious that Senator Goldwater is going to find himself in something of a dilemma when he has to decide whether to go for broke. On one hand, if he takes the big plunge there will be a chance of winning the once Solid South to the Republican cause and getting the conservatives of the entire country into one camp, so far as the presidential elections are concerned. On the other hand, few senators have ever willingly left what has been called the most exclusive club in the United States. It's a lot to ask anyone to give up a fairly certain victory in a Senate race for the dubious chance of hitting the jackpot and winning a lease on the White House.

We suspect he is telling the truth when he says he would prefer to settle for another term in the Senate. Not because he wouldn't like to be President — but because his primary interest always has been in advancing the cause of conservatism. And the loss of his staunchly conservative voice would be felt on Capitol Hill regardless of whether he was President or not.

Perhaps the most important thing the Republicans could achieve by nominating Goldwater would be to place the conservatives of the country —

'JFK Too Often Forgets Those Who've Helped'

It's a shame Kennedy spent so much of the taxpayers' money to put Meredith in college and the wife of a man who was killed there has just been forgotten.

Let those miners in Kentucky go hungry. He just wanted their votes and now they're forgotten.

'Shouldn't Rely Upon U Thant'

U Thant is not a neutral at all. He and his troika of assistants with the pronounced Soviet list are aggressively moving for more power all over the world. Whether it be in the Congo or other trouble spots the United States seems committed to supporting U Thant even though it may not be to our best interests.

'Sidewalk Signs Continue to Litter'

I still see those miserable signs with which the High Five Folies authorities messed up our downtown sidewalks. They've now litter-bugged our city for seven weeks. This is nothing but outrageous vandalism. My husband and I have been a paying sponsor for these events but we're resigning right now.

I agree with the letter that the whipping post would certainly be a strong deterrent. The very thought of it might be a deterrent to some of these young people who can't be trusted.

Just Another Citizen

Sees Gain in Economy

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's economic improvement will exceed the national average next year, predicts the research chief of the State Economic Development Department.

Dr. Paul A. Herbert predicted a year ago that 1962 would be a year of economic progress for the state.

"The mild recession for the United States forecast by some economists for the later part of 1962 did not occur in Michigan," Herbert said.

Although Michigan will show additional improvement in 1963, Herbert said, this will not necessarily mean the state has solved its employment problem or a dependency on a single industry, automobile and truck manufacturing.

"Most forecasters now do not expect a dip in business until next summer and then only a mild drop before business starts its upward again," Herbert said.

"If there is a decline, it will not be as serious here as in some states that compete with Michigan."

"This will be a refreshing reversal in form because in late years any nationwide decline was particularly severe in Michigan," he said. "Now it appears that while Michigan will not regain all of the ground it has lost, it will do better than many of its competitors in 1963."

North and South, East and West

In a recent Dallas realist believe Barry could carry six or seven Southern states, something no other Republican could do. The big question mark, of course, is the populous Eastern states.

Nelson Rockefeller didn't help Goldwater resolve his dilemma when he spoke before the National Association of Manufacturers in New York City. He said he was a conservative when he assailed President Kennedy's failures to fulfill campaign promises on economic growth. Senator Goldwater still has plenty of time to answer the one big question facing him: Can he contribute more to the conservative cause by running for the presidency or by seeking re-election to the Senate in 1964.

The Saturday Review

President Kennedy made a wise choice in Francis Keppel as his new U.S. Commissioner of Education. Dean of the Harvard Graduate School of Education, he is youthful, vigorous, imaginative, and thoroughly conversant with the educational innovations and reforms that promise to transform schools in the years ahead.

During the decade-long debates over the quality of our schools, Keppel has never been on the defensive. He listened to the criticism from within and without the profession and never called all critics "enemies of the school." He has firm convictions about excellence in education but he is not committed to any ideology of the past.

In 1947, when Keppel was only thirty-two, James B. Conant made him dean of Harvard's languishing Graduate School of Education. In fifteen years Keppel transformed the school from a weak and neglected branch to a strong institution to which educators everywhere look for leadership. Harvard delectates now are sought for the top professorships in education.

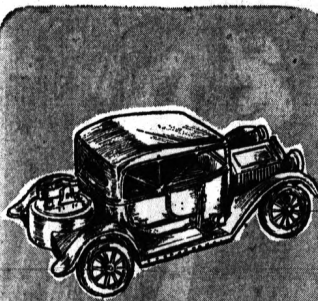

Harvard has sponsored experimental programs in team teaching, programmed learning, educational television, and curriculum reform. It has taken the lead in promoting the Master of Arts in Teaching Program which provides carefully selected liberal arts graduates with professional education and a year of intensive internship before sending them out as secondary school teachers.

Keppel will find himself in a post with little direct control over American schools, but the post offers great potentialities for educational leadership in a profession that urgently needs such leadership.

Is Sweeping England

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan is the vocalist on a rock 'n' roll record that is sweeping Great Britain.

The record was born at the Llandudno Conservative Party Conference last summer, when Macmillan compared the Labor party's hesitancy to take a stand on the Common Market issue to an old music hall song, "She Didn't Say Yes."

Macmillan spoke the words of the song to the delegates. The first stanza goes:

"She didn't say yes, she didn't say no,
"She didn't say come and she didn't say go."

The speech was taped and broadcast and caught the ear of Nicholas Luard, who owns "Private Eye," a British satirical magazine.

Luard rounded up a chorus, guitars, drums and other instruments and transposed the recording of Macmillan's voice over the rock 'n' roll background.

"The boy has a great voice," Luard said today. "We can't print enough copies."
Macmillan's reaction was not known.

Jury Duty Now Tops for Snobs

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK — Serving jury duty is a very "in" activity these days among the cognoscenti.

Used to be, it was definitely "out." People of middle income and above would avoid jury duty as a distasteful, time-consuming, confining job. But that has changed.

Now serving time in the box has a definite snob appeal—perhaps thanks to PHYLLIS Perry Mason and BATTELLE E. G. Marshall—and a great many Americans are avidly waiting their opportunity to lay down a little piece of law to increase their own stature in the community.

"I think the entire concept of contributory negligence is outmoded, don't you?" is a suburban housewife's post-venture gambit. "And of course, privacy went out when mass merchandising came in..."

You hear a bit of repartee like that and naturally you're jealous. No idle chit-chat about the children or the Marxist theory seems to stand up any more. You want to get in that courtroom and throw around a few habeas corpus and res ipsa loquitur yourself.

My authority for this trend toward status via jurisprudence is John Lane, president of the second-largest of the American bar associations, the National Association of Claimants' Counsel of America.

ENCOURAGING TREND

"Frankly, we're encouraging the trend—now that jury duty is actually becoming desirable," says Lane.

In fact, virtually all states, eager to please the willing juror will now schedule his or her tour of duty (which averages about two weeks) to fit the juror's social and business schedules.

It is quite possible that in some places, a courtroom vacation for husband and wife could even be arranged.

Obviously, Lane contends, it is status rather than salary which is attracting people. The pay is only $5 to $7 a day (plus food, travel and lodging when necessary). So it is the snob appeal that is increasing interest in jury duty.

During the days of actual service, the juror can feel smug and superior (sorry, I can't possibly discuss the case at the present time, he can inform fascinated neighbors).

He can turn off radio and TV with a righteous air and insist that the kids skip all legal news from the papers.

Then, after the session has been served, he can expound on the law—and indelium. He can tell his friends and family, with authority, that this or that legal television program is authentic or hogwash.

He can be, for the moment, as smart as Perry Mason—and the listener as stupid as Hamilton Burger!

Will Test Man in Kidnap Case

SOUTH HAVEN (P)—A 42-year-old Flint man was scheduled to undergo a polygraph test today in connection with the alleged kidnapping and assault of his ex-wife and their 11-year-old daughter, state police said.

Henry McKay was being held in South Haven City Jail on charges of kidnapping and police said further charges were pending the contacting of prosecutors in Allegan and Van Buren counties.

McKay turned himself in yesterday at the South Haven State Police Post after being sought in connection with the alleged kidnap-assault of his ex-wife, Mrs. Eileen Cheney, 43, and their daughter, and the injury of a second woman.

Both Mrs. Cheney and the child were treated and released from South Haven Hospital.

Pa. Governor Decides Not to Press His Luck

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Even governors knock on wood sometimes.

Gov. David Lawrence told newsmen Tuesday at his weekly news conference how proud he is that he has reached this stage of his four years as governor without a scandal of any kind.

The 73-year-old chief executive paused, then banged his knuckles on top of his oak desk twice.

"Yes, Virginia,
a Santa Claus"

Sixty-two years ago, an eight-year-old girl wrote to the New York Sun to ask quite simply: "Please tell me the truth — is there a Santa Claus?" The newspaper's reply, which has become one of the Christmas season's classics, was in part, as follows:

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas, how dreary the world would be if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sight and sound. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished . . .

"Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children or men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in this world . . .

"No Santa Claus? Thank God! He lives, and lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood."

Finds Ideal Christmas Tree...and His Wife's Bad Side

By HAL BOYLE

ANYTOWN, U.S.A. (AP)—Just like every other average American husband, Wilbur Peeble had two big Christmas duties.

One was to pick out a nice present for his wife which she could exchange with the most week for something she really wanted, his other chore was to buy the family tree.

As he set out on his annual tree hunt, Wilbur's wife, Trellis Mae, said helpfully: "Try to find one that doesn't have a bad side."

Stumbling through the frigid night, Wilbur mumbled bitterly to himself.

"First one that doesn't have a bad shape. Find one that doesn't have a bad side. For 20 years she's been giving me that same old business," he mumbled.

BY THUNDER!

In the darkness, Wilbur squared his jaw and vowed, "Well, by thunder, this year I will find one!"

Stamping his feet in the cold, Wilbur looked over hundreds of trees in half a dozen corner lots. Each had something wrong with it.

When he complained about the Reports Reds Building Vast 'Science City'

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Sen. William Benton of Connecticut cut back from a trip to the Soviet Union, reports the Soviets are building a vast new "science city" deep in Siberia. He calls it "one of the most extraordinary scientific centers in the world."

Writing in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post, Benton said the center, with 16 separate scientific institutes and designed to house 50,000 research workers, "is a striking symbol of the Soviet intellectual challenge to the West."

He said the center is the first of several which the Soviet Union plans to build across Siberia. He said it could be matched in this country only if the theoretical research departments of several universities were combined with research divisions of several industrial giants.

Benton, publisher of Encyclopedia Britannica, said he was the first American to see the new center in operation.

defects to the dealers, they only smiled tolerantly and replied: "Well, you know how it is, sir—every tree has a bad side. That's the way nature makes them."

It was after midnight and Wilbur was about to give up. Then he came to the last corner lot. A little old man stood alone amid his trees that had yet to find a home.

"I want a tree that doesn't have a bad side," said Wilbur abruptly. "Nothing else will do."

The old man looked him over. "Son, you have come to the right place," he said. "I've been selling Christmas trees, man and boy, for half a century, and this year—for the first time—I've got an absolutely perfect tree."

STANDS ALONE

He led Wilbur to the back of the lot. There, alone in shimmering beauty, stood a 10-foot tree, the like of which Wilbur had never seen.

Every needle was bright green and firm and strong. The branches arched in flawless symmetry. Wilbur inspected it with a flashlight for 15 minutes, but could find no flaw. His quest was over.

"How much do you want for it?" he asked.

"I had intended to spray this tree with preservative and donate it to the Smithsonian Institution," said the little old man. "But, recognizing in you a fellow artist, a man with a true soul, I could be talked into parting with it for $22.95."

"I never heard of paying $22.95 for a Christmas tree," objected Wilbur.

"Not $22.95 for just a Christmas tree," corrected the old man. "But $22.95 for the only perfect Christmas tree you will ever see in your life."

Wilbur sighed, paid, took the tree home and set it up in its stand. Then he lay down on a sofa to rest.

Trellis Mae had been visiting it a little to the left. The two women did turn the tree, then stood back for another look.

bor, who had come to borrow a cup of sugar. Wilbur watched at Trellis Mae. "Now the bad side of the tree," she commented the neighbor finally, "but I think I'd turn it a little to the left." The two women did turn the tree, then stood back for another look.

"Yes, you're right," agreed Trellis Mae. "Now the bad side hardly shows at all."

Wilbur sank back on the sofa and groaned.

Moral: Wives don't really believe in perfect Christmas trees—or perfect husbands.

Pontiac Retail Store has joined with hundreds of Pontiac dealers throughout the nation in a "Drive for a Safe Holiday" campaign.

The purpose of this safety effort, according to Henry Gotham, manager of the Retail Store, is to hold the line on traffic accidents.

"Drive with good tires, properly adjusted brakes, lights and turn signals working and windshield wipers and defrosters functioning properly."

"Allow plenty of time for holiday travel. On long trips make frequent stops."

"Drive in keeping with road, weather and traffic conditions."

"Make allowances for unpredictable driver and pedestrian actions."

Fitting He Should Be Buried in U.S.

Laughton's Book Tells Love for America

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD—It is only fitting that Charles Laughton should come to final rest on American soil.

The latter years of the great British-born actor, who will be buried today at Forest Lawn, were marked by a love affair with his adopted land. The testament of this romance is included in a book published during his fatal illness.

"The Fabulous Country," Laughton selected his favorite writings about the United States, works of famous authors which he often read on his tours through the nation. He introduced each passage with a comment of his own.

Among his comments: New York City—"One of the best things that can happen in New York is when friends come from England on their first trip to America—what excitement to show them their first real skyscraper, to take them to the Radio City Music Hall, particularly if it is Christmas, for the audience there is a warm American family audience; to take them on the Staten Island ferry, to the best musical in town, to the wealth of restaurants and museums."

'GREAT COMFORT'—

New England—"When Elsa and I were first in New York we visited New England several times. After the clangor of the city, New England gave us great comfort.

We had not known in the Old World that the New World had 'antiques,' or that there were charming old houses. We both remember with great pleasure Farmington, which is near Hartford, Conn., and its graceful white-painted houses. Old wooden houses were a revelation to us, as were clams, clam chowder, Boston cream pie, which we loved, the woodlands in spring, mountain laurel and the blazing colors in fall."

The South—"I have many memories of the South—of Chapel Hill in North Carolina where Thomas Wolfe was educated. It was spring and I have never seen such a burst of blossom. There was a backyard with cherry trees, and there were cardinal birds among the pink blossoms. I will never forget that."

Chicago—"Chicago has many memories for me, and the best was the first. Elsa and I had just come to America and we were in a play together in Chicago. We had a small apartment overlooking the lake in a hotel on Lake Shore Drive, and the weather was bitter cold."

'PRODIGAL COAST'—

California—"Elsa and I were in New York first and then Chicago and afterward in California. It was only in California that we began to look around. We got to the mountains, the lakes, the deserts and the sea, to San Francisco, the Monterey Peninsula, the old missions, and started to learn about the beasts, the birds, and the flowers of the prodigal West Coast."

The wilderness—"A wilderness was a new idea to me. It took some absorbing. There are no wildernesses in England. I did not see my first wilderness until I returned to America after my first visit. There were no houses and I kept on asking the Pullman porter if this was still New Mexico."

Bobby's Trip to Brazil Underlines Concern

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy's unheralded trip to Brazil has underlined sharp U.S. concern with that country's deep economic and political problems.

The attorney general returned to Washington Tuesday after conferring in Brasilia, Brazil's capital, with President Joao Goulart. It was believed he emphasized Washington's worry over the Goulart administration's failure to stem a ravaging tide of inflation.

President Kennedy has also signaled his concern over Brazil's problems—a key nation in South America because of its size and influence.

Within the past few weeks the President has had a series of conversations with such figures as Adhemar de Barros, newly elected governor of Sao Paulo; former president Juscelino Kubitschek, and the U.S. ambassador to Brazil, Lincoln Gordon.

EXPANDS TRIP

The attorney general expanded a trip to Panama in order to make the 12-hour visit in Brazil. The communique which followed the 3½-hour Kennedy-Goulart discussion was the usual diplomatic statement that the talks were "useful."

The attorney general was unavailable for comment on his return.

The major cause for the urgent U.S. concern is galloping inflation. President Kennedy noted at his news conference last week that Brazil's inflation "eats up our aid" but he also remarked that "there is nothing really that the United States can do."

On the other side, Brazilians contend a definite improvement of the financial situation is in the works, through measures planned for after the Jan. 6 plebiscite, which is expected to return the country to the presidential system of government.

Then, Brazilian sources say, Goulart will have the necessary authority to carry out the reforms.

Re-Elected Leader of NAACP Chapter

DETROIT (AP) — Edward M. Turner, a Detroit attorney and president of the local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, won re-election yesterday by a two-to-one margin.

Turner's victory ended a power struggle within the chapter. His victory over Detroit Insurance Executive Ernest Shell was by a vote of 562 to 284. The chapter has about 22,000 members. Turner said "this is not a personal victory." He said the real winners were the members who "rallied to defend the branch against the power tactics of a few misguided leaders."

Plan to Film Banned Novel

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Producer Joseph E. Levine says his company will make Henry Miller's controversial novel "Tropic of Cancer" into a $2-million movie.

Levine, president of Embassy Films, said Tuesday first shooting is scheduled in Paris, setting for the book, next summer.

Gen. Lemnitzer Visits Italian NATO Bases

VERONA, Italy (AP) — Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, new U.S. commander in chief in Europe, visited U.S. and North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in northern Italy today.

He flew here from Paris and then toured installation of the U.S. army's Southern European Task Force (SETAF).

Dis-track-fed Driver Hooks Himself

LANSING (AP) — Angered by a string of railroad cars blocking a grade crossing, a Lansing man called on his experience as a railroad worker to solve the problem.

He jumped from his auto, unhooked a boxcar, and then drove through as the locomotive started up with only part of its train.

Police located the man and said they wanted him to do some explaining. Uncoupling a train is a felony in Michigan. It carries a maximum 10-year prison term.

Johnson Gets On-the-Job Training Helping President

EDITOR'S NOTE — Almost two years ago Lyndon B. Johnson stepped out of the limelight that focused on him as Senate leader and into the supporting cast as vice president in the Kennedy administration. What has he been doing? How strong is his position? Jack Bell, chief of the AP Senate staff, analyzes the situation.

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—In contrast to the fanfare which President Kennedy, Johnson has

BACKGROUND OF THE NEWS SPECIAL REPORT

marked his years as a Senate leader, Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson is digging deeper into government than any predecessor.

With the encouragement of contrast to the fanfare which President Kennedy, Johnson has ing stood for vigorous counteraction.

As chairman of the Space Council, Johnson sits in a spot former President Dwight D. Eisenhower insisted must be reserved for the chief executive. Kennedy got the law changed to make Johnson the head man.

The council includes the secretaries of state and defense, and the heads of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the Atomic Energy Commission and the Federal Aviation Agency.

The council's job is to recommend to the President the course to pursue in the space race.

PEACE CORPS SETUP
As chairman of the Peace Corps' advisory council, Johnson was instrumental in getting the Peace Corps set up as a separate lead the world toward individual freedom.

The vice president spends a great deal of time with the Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity.

Strange activity for a man from Texas who used to vote against civil rights legislation in Congress? Not at all if you look at the new Lyndon Johnson.

The vice president has become an "equals rights" man. He says he is convinced that America's own image in this respect must be improved if this country is to lead the world toward individual freedom.

Johnson walks with care steps on Capitol Hill. He is presiding officer but not a member of the Senate. He served in the House and Senate long enough to avoid the pitfalls of an outsider trying to tell members what they ought to do.

That, perhaps, is the key to the Johnson operation: Keep your balance sheet clean, take on any job you're asked to do, but don't get tagged with empire building. If things go right, the empire will come to you.

thought was too inexperienced to be president.

ON-JOB TRAINING
Kennedy has gone out of the way to reciprocate by giving Johnson on-the-job training in the executive department far beyond that to which former Vice President Richard M. Nixon pointed in his unsuccessful bid for the presidency in 1960.

The restless energy which always has driven the rangy Texan spills out now in his work as a member of the "insiders" executive committee of the National Security Council, his statutory task of presiding over the Space Advisory Council, his chairmanship of the Committee on Equal Employment Opportunities, his job as head of the Peace Corps' advisory council and his participation in Cabinet sessions.

Kennedy has sent Johnson as his representative to 22 foreign countries and tabbed him to preside over an international manpower conference.

In other days, it used to be something of a news story when a vice president was called to the White House to confer with his chief. Johnson is in and out of the place almost daily, participating in the high policy decisions.

JOHNSON KNEW

Johnson, for example, knew almost as soon as Kennedy did that the Russians had shipped offensive missiles into Cuba. The vice president is represented as hav-

Pontiac City Affairs Re-Establish Civic Committee

The City Commission last night moved to re-establish the city's civic improvement advisory committee.

Under the new setup, the committee will be increased by five members, to a total of 75.

The old 70-member committee has been inactive since last April's municipal election.

Each commissioner will now appoint 10 members from his district. Five additional members at large will be appointed by Mayor Robert Landry.

Several commissioners felt the former committee concerned itself with too many areas of city government, thus limiting the committee's effectiveness.

The new committee will concern itself mostly with housing and neighborhood renewal and improvement needs. City officials will keep the members informed on the city's urban renewal needs and project plans.

APPROVE PURCHASE

Also approved was an agreement with the Michigan State Highway Department for purchase of property on the north side of East Huron Street at Parke Street.

is needed for the Perimeter Road right of way.

Under the agreement, the state would buy the entire parcel and sell part of it back to the city for about $61,000.

The money will come from local state gas and weight tax funds, already available.

The property would eventually be needed for work on the Clinton River drain project.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business, City Clerk Olga Barkeley was authorized to advertise for bids on the demolition contract for Pontiac's second urban renewal project, R44.

There are 49 structures in the R44 project area marked for purchase and clearance. Negotiations are already under way for their purchase.

The entire R44 project area lies west of South Saginaw Street and east of the Grand Trunk Western Railroad main line tracks.

Bids are to be opened at City Hall at 2 p.m., Jan. 28.

The contract will be awarded by the commission and must meet qualifications as prescribed by the Urban Renewal Administration, city codes and local officials.

Public hearings were completed on the following items:

—Plans to construct a combined sewer and drainage system, West side and New York Avenue.

—Special assessment roll for curbs and gutters on portions of Corbin Avenue.

—Special assessment roll covering 22,000 sq ft of unpaid weed-cutting bills for 1961.

The weed cutting roll was continued following the hearing.

Public hearings were slated for Jan. 15 on the following zoning ordinance introduced last night:

—Proposed rezoning of two lots at 115 East Columbia Avenue from residential to commercial.

—Proposed rezoning of one lot at 140 Palmer St. from residential to commercial.

—Proposed rezoning from residential to commercial of lots 129-133 on the north side of Fisher Street from Shelby to the Clinton River.

City Meetings Rescheduled

Commission Runs Into Conflict on Holidays

City commissioners last night approved changing the dates for their next three regular meetings due to holidays and other conflicts.

Regular commission meetings are held every Tuesday. Because Christmas and New Year's Day both fall on Tuesday, the next two commission meetings will be held one day late—on Dec. 26 and Jan. 2.

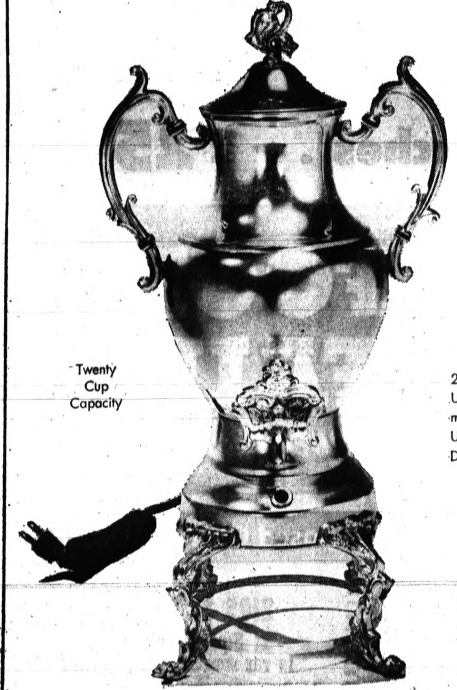

The Jan. 8 meeting has been rescheduled for Jan. 7 so commissioners may attend the annual banquet of the Pontiac Board of Realtors on Jan. 8.

All three rescheduled meetings will begin at 8 p.m.

In addition, due to the City Commission meeting Jan. 2, the City Planning Commission has moved its first meeting of 1963 to Jan. 9.

The planning commission normally meets in the City Commission meeting chambers the first Wednesday each month.

French Cloud Over Bahamas Meeting

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON — The balm Bahamas are providing the backdrop for what may go down in history as the most crucial talks that President Kennedy has yet held with another head of state.

The conference between President Kennedy and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan comes at a time when a cloud no bigger than a Gull's nose is darkening our vital Anglo-American relations.

To cancel or not to cancel the Skybolt, on which Britain has based her nuclear deterrent, is only a storm warning of the rough seas that could lie ahead.

The future of our common defense, the trade which provides the life-line for our economy, and the course that our closest ally may take for the next several decades are at stake.

Concern is frankly felt in White House circles at rumors that French President Charles de Gaulle has served Macmillan with a subtle ultimatum.

The French strongman now at the pinnacle of his power since the overwhelming vote of confidence in recent French elections, has reportedly offered the British premier his choice of two courses.

Macmillan can orient his nation toward Europe, and by joining France in developing a nuclear force win coveted membership in the Common Market; or he can tighten the Anglo-American alliance at the expense of that membership.

The United States has enthusiastically backed British efforts to join the Common Market, but the de Gaulle government has repeatedly raised the ante.

If true that France is now willing to lower its terms for exchange for British cooperation in developing a "third force" between U.S. and Soviet might, we may be in for trouble.

REMEMBER SUEZ
Free world diplomats shudder to recall the last time that Britain and France acted in concert behind our backs.

It was only six years ago that the two nations jointly bombed Egypt from the air, and then landed an invasion force during the Suez crisis.

Quick action by the United Nations and the United States effected their withdrawal, and the resultant embarrassment forced Sir Anthony Eden's resignation as prime minister, but many Britishers have never forgiven us.

De Gaulle's current wooing of his cross-channel neighbor comes at a strategic moment, when British anti-American feeling is at the boiling point over our plans to cancel the mutually conceived Skybolt project.

The United States has spent a half-billion dollars developing this nuclear tipped weapon, to be fired from an airplane in flight, but five consecutive test failures indicate that another $2.5 billion would have to be spent to perfect a weapon which by then might be passe.

Certainly no one wants to spend such colossal funds and effort on an impracticable weapon, but if the project is to be abandoned, we should offer Britain another means of maintaining its nuclear capability.

After all, our ally junked its own Blue Streak program in order to cooperate with us on the ill-fated Skybolt.

Above all, we should not force an embittered Britain into an Anglo-French nuclear pact that leaves us bereft of our most valued ally.

Former Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, now Kennedy's representative for trade negotiations, has sounded a warning that the Common Market is "developing signs of a new kind of European nationalism or protectionism."

reaches a graceful and fruitful arrangement with Macmillan during their current negotiations, America could become increasingly isolated both in trade and defense.

The Russian bear, nipped repeatedly by the Red Chinese, is with the Kremlin could leave us making flirtatious passes at de Gaulle in the cold outside.

Throws Hat in Ring in East Grand Rapids

EAST GRAND RAPIDS (UPI) — John J. Collins, 43, announced today he would be a candidate for mayor of this suburban community next February in the primary. Collins, completing his third term as a commissioner, will seek the post being vacated by Robert W. Richardson who already has announced he will not seek re-election.

Bar to Take No Stand on Constitution

LANSING (AP) — Partly because its leaders don't want to go to court, the State Bar of Michigan will take no official stand — pro or con — on the proposed new state constitution.

Meeting to review actions by the general assembly on 61 committee reports at the September convention, the 22-member board of commissioners decided, 10-5, against recommending either approval or rejection of the document by voters in April.

At the same time, however, the board backed a general assembly endorsement of the controversial civil rights provision of the proposed constitution.

The issue of total endorsement was tabled by the general assembly for consideration by the board of commissioners after the Nov. 6 election, with a suggestion that a poll be taken among the state bar's 9,200 attorney members.

Milton E. Bachmann, executive secretary of the state bar, said the poll idea died as the board voted to withhold any expression of official support or disapproval of the constitution.

The decision, Bachmann said, was based on the fact that Michigan has an "integrated" bar — meaning that membership is compulsory for attorneys — and "We have members on both sides of the political fence."

Board members recalled that in Wisconsin, which also has an integrated bar, a fight to keep the group from taking a stand on a controversial issue was carried all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court.

"I'm sure that knowledge was taken into consideration by the board," said Bachmann.

The concern apparently was a whichever position the bar organization took, one or more of its own members might seek court action to prevent it.

Thus the group represented by more members (56) than any other in the 144-delegate constitutional convention will have nothing official to say about the total product.

Panama Canal transits now average more than 12,000 vessels annually compared with 1,075 in 1915, first year of the waterway's operation.

Try Three-Act Turkey Treats

Christmas would not be Christmas without a big, succulent roast turkey to add savor to the pine-filled air.

Whenever the oven is opened to baste the turkey, its warm, delicious aroma lends a feeling of expectancy to the holiday atmosphere.

The turkey is the star attraction at Christmas dinner. But that's only the first act. It performs equally well in a second act and a finale.

CIDER BAKED TURKEY is the feature on Christmas Day. It is baked and basted with apple cider, which gives a distinctive note to the drippings.

The dressing is a savory blend of bread, vegetables, spices and chicken broth. Sliced mushrooms and garlic are nice additions.

ACT II — served on the following day — uses leftover dressing and turkey with a cranberry surprise in the dressing balls.

They are topped with tangy tomato sauce.

Here's how they're made: 3 cups turkey dressing, one (7-oz.) can whole cranberry sauce, six servings sliced turkey, one (8-oz.) can tomato sauce.

Divide dressing into six portions. Shape into balls. Press a hole in the center and fill with cranberry sauce.

Press dressing over sauce to conceal it. Place dressing balls on a greased baking pan.

Bake at 400 degrees for about 30 minutes. Meanwhile, heat tomato sauce for topping.

THE FINALE of any turkey is turkey soup. The turkey bones are cooked with vegetables, a spice-laden "bouquet garni" bag, and bits of leftover turkey. Piquant tomato sauce in the broth lends color and flavor.

A Wonderful Christmas Gift

Dishwasher Is Mother-Saver

Before your Christmas shopping, stop and think about who the really is — a busy homemaker with scarcely enough time to complete each day's chores.

A thoughtful gift that means extra hours to a hard-working housewife is an automatic electric dishwasher.

Instead of standing over the sink three times a day, wrinkling her hands in hot dishwasher she'll be able to put all the dirty dishes, pots, and pans directly in the dishwasher, where they'll remain out of sight until there's a full load to be done — at the twist of a dial or a push of a button.

When the dishes are clean and dry, they can be put away, or left in the dishwasher until time to set the table again.

There are three basic types of electric dishwashers to choose from — portable, convertible and built-in. Both portable and convertible models can be put to work as soon as delivered, since they need no plumbing or wiring.

Both types are rolled to the sink at dishwashing time, the cord plugged into a standard electric outlet, and the hose attached to the hot water faucet. A release button on the faucet attachment permits the drawing of hot or cold water while the dishwasher is operating. When not in use, a portable or convertible dishwasher can be rolled back against a wall to serve as extra counter space.

There Will Be No Rest Jan. 1 for Area Clerk

New Year's Day a holiday? Not for Waterford Township Clerk James Seeterlin.

While others are sleeping in after a night of revelry or switching dials to keep tabs on the various bowl contests, Seeterlin will be at the township hall to accept petitions from political candidates.

But, why New Year's Day?

"That just happens to be the filing deadline for charter townships," the clerk explained.

Candidates in regular townships must file by 4 p.m. on the seventh Monday before the Feb. 18 primary election.

In Waterford, the county's only charter township, the ruling specifies the sixth Tuesday before the primary.

A check of the calendar finds that Jan. 1 is the day of decision for Waterford Township political hopefuls.

Township officials were in the process of checking whether the holiday filing deadline was appropriate when a directive from state election headquarters in Lansing confirmed that Jan. 1 was the date to be observed.

How does Seeterlin like the idea of being on duty while others rest?

"Oh, I don't mind," he said. "The same thing happened a few years ago when we were a regular township. The seventh Monday before the primary fell on New Year's Day."

Encephalitis, or sleeping sickness, claimed 182 lives in South Korea during the summer of 1961, body robbed him again.

The time-honored juvenile pastime of playing store reaches new heights of realism with this Play Fair Market equipment, with up-to-the-minute merchandizing aids, an efficient shopping cart, and complete stock.

SALEM, N.H. (UPI) — Parishioners of the Lawrence Street Congregational Church are praying that one of their visitors will take a walk.

A skunk has taken up residence in a church closet. Each night the church doors and windows are left open in the hope it will go away.

Dickey called police then got change from his home office to continue his trade — and some-

JOLIST, III. (AP) — The police station first box provided a help per yield.

Collector Walter Osman made the weekly withdrawal Monday from the box into which motorists drop their 50-cent fines for over-time parking.

Checking tickets and receipts, Osman opened a package which contained $4,400 in old $100, $20 and $10 bills. There was no explanation enclosed with the money — not even a parking ticket.

Mr. Shnoo's Zoo

AP Feature

Chapter 15

Mr. Shnoo got up very early on the morning of Christmas eve. He did not know what time the Queen would arrive but he intended to be ready for her.

He dressed carefully in his best blue suit. He shined his shoes and selected an elegant tie and put in sparkling, white handkerchiefs in his breast pocket.

He went outdoors. It was a fine day. Even the sun was shining, which was unusual at this time of year. Crookshank went hurrying by, his head hunched down between his shoulders.

"Merry Christmas!" called Mr. Shnoo gaily.

Crookshank did not answer but rushed on. Mr. Shnoo shrugged. He was too happy to be annoyed. He whistled a gay tune as he strolled along.

Presently he noticed that the path he walked on was damp. As he went on, the path became wetter and wetter until Mr. Shnoo's feet began to get quite soggy. In fact, by now, there was water rushing over his shoes.

He stopped in amazement and looked all around. There seemed to be a flood of water coming down the street, filling the gutters, rolling over the sidewalks and spreading out to the animal cages. Even while Mr. Shnoo stood there, the water rose halfway up his legs.

Attendants began to run from the animal houses shouting "Flood! Flood!"

The lions roared in surprise and the leopards growled and leaped against the doors of their cages.

Snakes slithered to the pipes and lighting fixtures on their ceilings. The monkeys climbed onto the reindeer's antlers and the seals were washed right out of their pools.

Ducks swam down the road and an old sea lion floated over to visit the polar bear.

"Where is it coming from?" cried Mr. Shnoo as the attendants rushed by carrying chickens and prairie dogs and other small creatures that could not swim.

WATER MAIN BURSTS

"The main water line has burst over beyond Molly's house!" shouted a man sailing by on a raft loaded with small animals.

Mr. Shnoo waded over to Molly's house. By the time he reached there he was swimming.

The hippopotamus was not at all disturbed. She had floated out of her pool and was calmly swimming up and down the big mammal house.

Mr. Shnoo pulled himself up on Molly's back and tried to think what to do. Presently Molly swam right out the door and Mr. Shnoo could see lots of water pouring out of a big round hole in the main water pipe that ran beside the house.

"Good heavens!" he thought. "There's enough water there to drown us all!"

Without waiting another second he shut his eyes and stood on his head and wiggled his toes. This was a very hard thing to do on top of Molly's slippery back but he finally managed it and he said "Selbuort Gnippop" three times real quicky.

When the last word was out he fell into the water over his head and when he came up, Molly was gone.

"Help! Help!" spluttered Mr. Shnoo because he thought he was going under again.

"Quit calling for help and come help me!" cried someone. Mr. Shnoo shook the water out of his eyes and saw Molly nearby with Santa sitting astride her neck, facing backwards and pushing a paddle as hard as he could.

Mr. Shnoo climbed aboard and Santa handed him a paddle and shouted, "Back her up! Full steam astern!"

Mr. Shnoo faced around to Molly's rear and he and Santa paddled furiously while Molly, sensing what was wanted for her, paddled her own feet in reverse. Little by little she was backed up to the big hole in the water pipe.

"Now!" shouted Santa. "Give her all you've got!" He gave a mighty shove and Mr. Shnoo gave a mighty shove and Molly gave a mighty shove and stop! Molly's end went right in the hole and the water was stopped.

Tomorrow: The Queen Comes

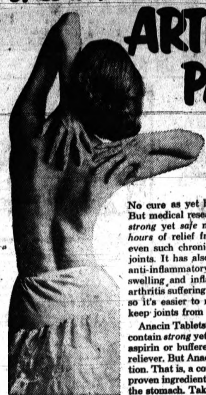

Attendants ran, shouting 'Flood! Flood!'

One tablespoon of water is usual for foods. But if there isn't enough ally added to a slightly beaten egg of the egg to go around you can when this mixture is to be used as a teaspoon or two of water a dip in breading chops or simi-for dipping the last pieces of food.

Strong Yet Safe—Gives Hours of Continuous Relief from Minor

ARTHRITIS PAINS

Reduces swelling and inflammation so it's easier to move afflicted limbs again

No cure as yet has been found for arthritis. But medical research has established that the strong yet safe medication in Anacin gives hours of relief from arthritis' minor pains — even such chronic pain arising from deep in joints. It has also been found Anacin has an anti-inflammatory action that helps reduce swelling and inflammation — a basic cause of arthritis suffering. In minutes — pain is relieved so it's easier to move around and this helps keep joints from 'locking' or 'stiffening'. Anacin Tablets are so effective because they contain strong yet safe medication. Anacin, aspirin or buffered aspirin has only one pain reliever. But Anacin is like a doctor's prescription. That is, a combination of three medically proven ingredients. And Anacin does not upset the stomach. Take as directed.

Junior Editors Quiz on— GEOGRAPHY

QUESTION: Is Lake Itasca the only source of the Mississippi River?

ANSWER: There has been a great deal of controversy about the headwaters of the mighty Mississippi, the river which drains one third of the United States. Hunting for the source, Zebulon Pike, in 1805, got no closer to it than 100 miles. Lewis Cass, in 1820, went further and discovered Cass Lake.

In 1832, the superintendent of Indian affairs for Michigan, Henry Rowe Schoolcraft, pushed beyond and came to a sheet of water surrounded by forest, blue as a summer sky." This, he decided, was the true source of the Mississippi.

Indians told of a smaller lake to the south, connected by a creek, but Schoolcraft did not consider this important. He named the main lake "Itasca," combining the Latin "veritas" (truth) and "caput" (source).

In 1881, Captain Willard Glazier pushed his way through swamps to the smaller lake which he claimed was the great river's source.

But authorities now generally accept Lake Itasca as the main source of the Mississippi, although they say there are other lakes which combine with Itasca to get Ol' Man River rollin' along.

FOR YOU TO DO: Look at our map and think of the romance and majesty of a river whose feeder streams on the west carry water from the Rocky Mountains and those on the east from the Great Smokies and other eastern ranges.

If the bigness of it gets the better of you, open your mouth and break into the chorus of that wonderful song, "Ol' Man River."

Merry Christmas to All

Plan a Festive Holiday Party for Children and Adults

FOR THE CHILDREN — Candy Cane Punch makes it a story-book party for the children. Made pink with strawberry jelly and tangy with peppermint ice cream, the delightful beverage is guarded in this picture by militant gingerbread boys. Candy cane stirrers make the punch cups more exciting. Children always respond to special efforts made in their behalf.

THREE COLORS

Moppets Will Love Party

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Christmas time is party time. It's a time when we can let our imagination take over—when we can make gay and giddy decorations—when we can go all out with light-hearted entertainment ideas.

Children are so pleased when you do something special for them. Cater to their love of stories with a parade of gingerbread boys circling the punch bowl.

If you keep your dough about half an inch thick, you won't have any trouble with breaking when you take them off the cookie sheet.

The creamy punch is made with strawberry jelly and peppermint stick ice cream. The bubbles come from lemon-lime carbonated beverage.

Elsewhere on this page you will find other ideas for Christmas parties for both young and old.

SANTA'S CANDY CANE SURPRISE

- | | |
|------------------------------------|---|
| 2 (10-ounce) jars strawberry jelly | 4 pints peppermint-stick ice cream |
| 2 cups boiling water | 12 (7-ounce) bottles lemon-lime carbonated beverage |

Beat jelly until smooth. Gradually beat in boiling water, mixing until smooth. Chill jelly mixture and lemon-lime carbonated beverage until serving time.

Just before serving time, spoon 3 pints of ice cream into a punch bowl. Allow to soften slightly. Gradually add chilled jelly mixture, stirring slightly to combine with ice cream. Slowly pour in chilled lemon-lime carbonated beverage.

Float scoopsful of remaining ice cream on top. Makes about 45 punch-cup servings.

STORYBOOK GINGERBREAD BOYS

- | | |
|------------------------|---|
| ½ cup shortening | 1 teaspoon allspice |
| 1 cup dark brown sugar | 1 teaspoon cinnamon |
| 1½ cups dark molasses | 1 teaspoon cloves |
| 7 cups sifted flour | 1 teaspoon ginger |
| 2 teaspoons soda | 1 (7-ounce) bottle lemon-lime carbonated beverage |
| 1 teaspoon salt | |

Cream together shortening and brown sugar. Add molasses and beat until well blended. Sift together flour with soda and spices. Add flour mixture to molasses mixture alternately with lemon-lime carbonated beverage, mixing to form a stiff dough. Chill dough thoroughly.

Roll out one-half dough about ¼-inch thick. Using a gingerbread boy cutter, or a cardboard pattern, cut in gingerbread boy shapes. Carefully transfer to a lightly greased baking sheet. Then roll out remaining chilled dough and repeat procedure. Bake in 350-degree oven for 12 to 15 minutes.

Remove from baking sheet and cool on wire rack. Decorate with Creamy Icing. Makes about 3 dozen Storybook Gingerbread Boys.

CREAMY ICING

- | | |
|----------------------------|----------------------------------|
| 1 tablespoon shortening | 1½ to 2 tablespoons scalded milk |
| 1 cup confectioners' sugar | ½ teaspoon vanilla extract |

Combine shortening and sugar in a bowl. Stir in scalded milk and beat until fluffy. Add vanilla extract. Spoon frosting into a pastry tube and force through tube to decorate Gingerbread Boys, making eyes, nose, buttons and ruffles on arms and feet. If desired, press cinnamon candies into frosting "buttons." Makes enough frosting for 3 dozen Gingerbread Boys.

Bacon Appetizers Different, Delicious

Holiday entertaining calls for something a bit fancy in the way of party foods. Whether it's a holiday brunch, an after-the-show snack or an appetizer before dinner, Bacon Surprises and Hot Bacon Crunches fit the holiday mood. A festive manner of serving these delicacies is to tuck them in a styrofoam wreath on the party table.

Bacon Surprises

- ½ pound bacon
- 10 ounce package frozen artichoke hearts
- 10 to 12 (½ inch) cubes cheddar cheese

Cook artichoke hearts according to directions on package. Partially cook bacon. Place a cube of cheese between 2 artichoke hearts. Wrap a slice of bacon around each artichoke heart and fasten with a wooden pick. Broil until bacon is done. Serve hot. Makes 10-12.

Hot Bacon Crunches

- ½ pound bacon
- ½ pound chicken livers
- 1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine

Drain and slice water chestnuts. Spread about 1 teaspoonful of chicken liver pate on a slice of water chestnut. Cover with another slice of water chestnut. Cut each slice of bacon in half and partially cook.

Wrap each water chestnut in a slice of bacon and fasten with a wooden pick. Broil until bacon is done. Serve hot.

Alternate Method: Put cooked chicken livers through a grinder twice, using fine plate.

Candied Poodles Are Great Fun

Invite winsome candied poodles to spend the Christmas season with you. Everyone will welcome them, including the well-behaved youngsters.

Candied Poodles

- 2 cups crisp rice cereal
- ¼ cup light or dark corn syrup
- ¼ cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt

Heat cereal in shallow pan in 350 degrees (moderate) oven 4 to 5 minutes. Combine syrup, sugar and salt in 2-quart saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until sugar is dissolved and mixture reaches full boil. Remove from heat. Stir in cereal. Form mixture into poodle shapes. Decorate with candies such as licorice or gumdrops for eyes, mouths, tails, etc. Use for Christmas party favors.

Note: If cereal mixture hardens while working with it, place over hot water.

Meanwhile, roll fruit in confectioners' sugar to coat thoroughly. Beat egg whites with cream of tartar until foamy; then gradually add ½ cup sugar, beating until peaks are formed. When gelatin mixture is partially set, beat with egg beater until smooth. Blend in vanilla and almond extract.

Whip cream until thick and fold into mixture. Fold in beaten egg whites and fruit. Pour into pie shell and chill about 2 hours. Just before serving, garnish with additional candied fruit and coconut.

Stir Fruit and Nuts Into Chocolate Candy

Line an 8-inch square pan with wax paper, leaving a 2-inch overhang on each side. Combine 1-1½ cups evaporated milk with 2 cups sugar in a saucepan. Bring to a full rolling boil, stirring constantly. Boil 5 minutes, stirring constantly (225 degrees on candy thermometer).

Remove from heat and stir in 2-6-ounce packages of semi-sweet chocolate pieces. Stir until smooth. Stir in one pound candied fruit. Pour into prepared pan. Chill. Cut into 24 1½-inch squares.

Angel Pie Has Fruity Jewels

Studded with the bright colors of candied fruit, this snowy coconut pie makes a perfect dessert for the holiday entertaining. Serve in party style with steaming coffee in your best china cups.

Christmas Angel Pie

- 1 envelope (1 tablespoon) gelatin
- ¼ cup cold water
- 2 tablespoons granulated sugar
- 3 tablespoons flour
- ½ teaspoon salt

- Confectioners' sugar
- 2 egg whites
- ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
- ¼ cup granulated sugar
- ¼ teaspoon pure vanilla
- ¼ teaspoon almond extract
- ½ cup whipping cream
- 1 baked 9-inch pastry shell flake coconut

Sprinkle gelatin on cold water to soften. Combine in saucepan 2 tablespoons sugar, the flour, and salt. Gradually stir in milk. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil. Boil 1 minute; then remove from heat. Stir in softened gelatin. Let cool until partially set.

It's the season to be merry! Everyone loves this time of year. Both youngsters and oldsters alike enjoy the decorations, the old Christmas custom of exchanging gifts, and most of all visiting with friends.

Couples Cross in Bid to Visit Each Other

TOPEKA, Kan. (P)—Mr. and Mrs. Ed Guy of Topeka and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hutton of Tampa, Fla., formerly were neighbors.

The Guys drove to Tampa recently to visit their former neighbors, only to be told the Huttons had gone to Kansas, arriving in Topeka the same day to visit the Guy home.

File Cross-Complaints After Street Assault

ADA, Okla. (AP) — Ada police said cross-complaints were filed in city court by Elmer West and R. West, both of Ada, follow-

West said East assaulted him with his automobile and also cut his ear with a knife. East said West hit him in the head.

Each charged the other with assault and battery.

A Girl ; . . No Mail

MELBOURNE, Australia (R)—Postmaster George Casey at Emerald, a township of Victoria's Dandenong Ranges, made a delivery of a different kind the other day—an 8-pound baby girl. The mother was waiting outside the post office for a taxi to the local hospital, but the baby wouldn't wait so Casey looked after the emergency. He said later: "Was I surprised! I usually deliver mails."

Get Off My Shoulder

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — Cat-napping train riders in crowded European trains, an inventive German has designed a "cat-nap kit." It resembles a U. S. child's car seat. When told and suspended from the overhead luggage rack, the kit provides two levels of comfort — one for pillowing the head, and the other, lower level, for resting the arms. No sleeping on other passengers' shoulders!

Don't Risk Arguments for Party

Q: My nephew (my sister's son) was recently married to a girl of whom his parents do not approve. They were married very quietly in the bride's hometown with just her family present and they left immediately after the ceremony for a short honeymoon.

My sister and her husband did not of course go to the wedding. My nephew, of whom I am very fond, and his bride have returned to this city to live and I would like to give a party for them.

Would this be proper in view of the fact that his parents do not approve of the marriage?

Also, should they be invited to the reception knowing how they feel? I believe that what is done is done and we can only hope for their happiness.

A:—In order to avoid any possible discord between you and your sister, I would strongly advise you to discuss the party with her and ask her if she would have any objection to your giving it, and be guided by what she says. If she has no objection, tell her that you hope she and John will come.

Q: My mother died recently after a long, lingering illness. I would like to know if it would be proper for me to send Christmas cards this year to my friends.

A: If you feel up to it, yes. There is no reason why you should not wish others happiness because you yourself are in sorrow.

Details concerning the announcing and christening of a baby are described in the new Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "The New Baby."

attending a dance last Saturday brought toys which they distributed to youngsters from the Oakland County Children's Center at the Christmas party.

Coeds Fete 40 Needy Children

The Association of Women Students at Michigan State University Oakland gave a party Tuesday afternoon for 40 children from the Oakland County Children's Center. Each little guest received a toy.

These toys had been given by MSUO students as their admission to a campuswide dance sponsored by the AWS Dec. 9. Last week the girls wrapped the toys in bright paper.

At the party Tuesday the children were entertained by the modern dance group, Men's Octet and the Meadow Brook Theatre Guild.

Karen Roose, Rochester, and Elizabeth Davis of L'Arche, were cochairmen of the event.

Chooses Inaugural Gown

Mrs. George Romney, wife of the governor-elect, displays the gown she will wear at the Inaugural Ball. It is a blush orchid satin with bead trim which she said came "right off the rack" and was the first one she and her husband looked at. She declined to say where the dress was purchased.

DETROIT (AP)—Mrs. George Romney will wear a blush orchid gown with a bead trim for the inaugural ball of her governor-elect husband's inauguration day Jan. 1.

"Blush orchid" is the phrase Mrs. Romney herself chose to describe the gown.

Mrs. Romney — the slim Lenore, who campaigned to help win votes for hubby George in the tough election fight—said he and she picked up the gown at a quick visit to a dress shop.

"George chose it, I tried it on, and away we went," she said.

It's a new shade for Mrs. Romney. Her favorites have been blues and coral tones.

NOT 'BIG THING'

The Republican governor-elect's wife said she won't make a "big thing" of the gown.

"The inaugural is important, not the dress," she said. Besides, the blush orchid was the "first and only dress" she and George looked at and "When you practically grab a dress off the rack, it doesn't seem right to make a big thing of it."

Romneys will come from near and far for the ball at Lansing.

The only missing member of the immediate family will be son Scott, 20. Scott is in England as a missionary, part of the Mormon church training.

Mitt, 14, the other son, and the two daughters and sons-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Loren Keenan of Birmingham and Dr. and Mrs. Bruce Robinson of Boston, will be on hand.

Romney's two brothers, Miles and G. Maurice, will come from Salt Lake City. Other relatives will come from California, Idaho and Maryland.

The Romneys will celebrate Christmas at their Bloomfield Hills home. After the first of the year the family will live in a rented home in East Lansing until they move into a new home, already chosen but requiring preparation.

Make Cheery Greeting for the Postman

During this holiday season when suburban and country families have more guests than usual, why not set out a cheery greeting for them—the postman—by putting a Merry Christmas—cover on your rural mailbox?

Buy one of these in bright-striped weatherproof material for just one dollar—or decorate the box yourself with red or green striped foil and paint on "Merry Christmas." Another idea is to use green washable plastic yardage in a holiday pattern.

Come New Year's, wipe the cover with soap or detergent suds, and pack it away for 1963.

Corsage for Baby Shower

Corsage for the guest of honor or at a baby shower can be made by taping small items needed for baby's care onto the ends of pipe cleaners. The stems may be tied together with pastel ribbons.

SEW SIMPLE
By Eunice Farmer

"Dear Eunice: I have just purchased some lovely brocade for an after-five costume. This will be my first experience sewing brocade and I would like any helpful suggestions you could give."

Mrs. A. B.

First, be sure to choose a simple pattern. Too much detail and broken lines will detract from the beauty of the fabric. I would also suggest you underline the dress with a lightweight, firm sheath lining.

You will be working with both layers of fabric as if they were only one and this will prevent the fabric from pulling apart at the seams and darts. If the brocade is scratchy, use a matching taffeta or satin material for all facings.

If you are making a dress and jacket, plan the fabric so that you can wear the jacket with a solid colored dress as well (very new this year) and get double-duty out of your ensemble.

WINNER OF WEEK

"I sew constantly to keep myself and three girls clothed. After making pajamas for each girl, I quilted matching fabric for three robes. I used outting flannel and quilted the entire piece of material before cutting it out. Quilting gives added warmth and body and the robes launder beautifully. If you live in a cold climate, you may wish to use the quilted material for the pajamas as well."

Mrs. Donald E. Shank, Fine, New York, is the winner of this week's Tailor Tip pressing board for this suggestion.

EASILY MADE SCARVES

"Dear Eunice: My Christmas list contains many male relatives from their teens to middle age. I find it difficult to shop for them so I have decided to make them wool scarves. I'd like to know how to fringe the ends and also wonder how to finish the side raw edges to keep them flat?"

Mrs. M. A. M.

Fringe the ends to the desired length. Machine stitch with a small stitch, just above the last row of fringe. Be sure to cut the scarf on the lengthwise grain to prevent stretching. If the fabric doesn't ravel, simply turn over about 1/4 inch and machine stitch close to edge. If you have a sewing machine that has a zig-zag stitch, you may use this to finish the raw edges. (You often can find enough suitable fabric for scarves among your fabric scraps).

CHRISTMAS GIFT

Purchase a narrow striped cotton material and add a band about 5 inches wide to the hem of pillow slips and the top sheet. If you prefer, you may sew on strips of striped bias binding.

The monogram is made by cutting the striped cotton on the bias. If you have a sewing machine that has a zig-zag stitch, it will be perfect for applying the monogram. If not, turn under a narrow hem and hand applique.

AVOID EXTRA BULK

Mrs. E.J.K. says: "A slick trick for chubby gals who like gathered skirts. To eliminate the extra 'bulk' around the waistline and still keep the fullness of the lower edge of the skirt, make 1-inch darts, about 4 inches long every 6 inches across the skirt. Now gather as usual and see how 'slim' it makes you look."

YOUR SEWING GLOSSARY

Lengthwise grain: This is the direction of the grain which runs the length of the selvage. Any arrow on your pattern that refers to the lengthwise grain means that any point on this line must be the same distance from the selvage edge of your fabric.

Tompkins Unit Holds Party

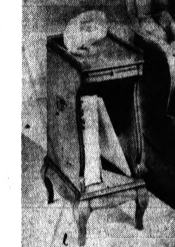

Fannie E. Tompkins Temple No. 41 gathered Monday evening for its annual Christmas party and gift exchange.

Plans for the installation of officers were discussed. Plans also were made to give Christmas gifts to shut-ins.

Committee chairman for the evening was Mrs. Lewis Grimm.

Total $42.00

Dear Miss Feeley: I have just finished secretarial school and have gotten my first job—$55 a week, or $42.20 after deductions. I'm living at home, but feel I should pay some board. What do you think would be a fair amount, since I will have most of my meals at home? My mother says she'll leave it to me.

Rose G., Memphis, Tenn.
Dear Rose: Congratulations on the job. I think you can well afford to pay $18 a week for room and board—which is certainly the minimum you could expect to live on if you were maintaining your own establishment.

This should give your mother a small windfall. After years of working for love, a little money is like icing on the cake.

And it's a good thing to learn to really live on your income when you start in as a wage-earner. This will allow you at least $5 a week for savings, and about $19 to divide among such items as clothing, lunches, transportation, recreation, medical, etc.

It will be a tight fit, granted. But the clothes you've been wearing to school will probably tide you over for awhile. The small amounts you allot each week to specific items may seem hopelessly meager at first.

But remember, they'll grow. And you don't need a new dress or a dentist appointment every week.

Dear Mrs. R., I doubt if money is your problem. It's more apt to be your time and attention that your younger daughter feels deprived of.

The eldest child invariably has the first demands on family finances. And marked talent should certainly be developed. But what you can and should share equally between the girls is your interest.

Moving your activities into the younger daughter's area—her school, her hobbies, her outside interests—could make a great difference. Most of us don't set any words on fire at 10.

But we're just as hungry for recognition, genius or not. Try to plan more family outings centered around your younger daughter, promote inexpensive home parties for her crowd. And whatever you do, don't dwell on the talents of your older girl to outsiders. In the presence of your 10-year-old.

If you have a money problem, write Mary Feeley in care of The Pontiac Press. She will answer questions of greatest interest in her column.

Save Trouble Inspect Toys

Inspect your child's toys to make sure that wooden ones haven't splintered, that wheels haven't loosened and that button eyes are secure. A little time spent this way may save trouble later.

Color Your Hair

Don't Worry Your Head

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
Someone once said that gentlemen prefer blondes but marry brunettes. Don't let that worry your little head! Today, hair coloring has become such a precise art that a woman need no longer fear that she will look as though she fell into a coal bin, headfirst, or stuck her head into a can of red paint, if she decides to tint her hair. She can have the color, she, or the man in her life, prefers. And remember, that there has been a big swing in recent years toward brunettes.

Fashions in hair styling and coloring change from time to time, but glossy healthy hair is the necessary ingredient for glorified tresses. We sometimes forget that our hair is a living part of our body and that our emotions, the food we eat, the exercise we take and our general life habits affect it. Adequate amounts of vitamins and minerals, fine health and general exercise are reflected in its beauty. Poor health habits and malnutrition lead to dull mousy locks. The average head has about 125,000 hairs. Each hair has its follicle and root below the surface and its shaft above the skin. The size of the hair (its coarseness or fineness) varies greatly with the individual. Sometimes an anesthetic will cause the hair to fall out to a greater-than-normal degree.

Some shedding is normal, but heavy hair "fall-out" is a temporary condition. The hair will return to its normal thickness. Prolonged emotional strain can cause certain types of baldness. The hair usually grows back when the strain is relieved. Besides proper nutrition and cleanliness, give your hair an extra bonus by stirring up circulation in the scalp with daily massage.

Unit Holds Annual Party

Dooley's Last Laos Hospital Doctorless

BAN HOUET SAI, Laos (AP)—The last of the late Dr. Thomas Dooley's hospitals in Laos survives in this sleepy little Mekong River town—handicapped by the lack of a doctor and the nearness of unfriendly territory.

Three young Americans are carrying on the work of the jungle doctor who died of cancer in January 1961 after founding small hospitals in this undeveloped Southeast Asian kingdom.

Dooley's death and world politics may have combined to bring medical missionary work once practiced here.

Of the three hospitals Dooley started in Laos, only this one survived the two-year civil war that raked the kingdom as leftist, rightist and neutralist factions vied for power.

ON SHOESTRING

Even Ban Houet Sai is doing its work on a shoestring.

The last doctor left in October; another may come next summer.

Zola A. Watson of Portland, Ore., is director of nurses in the Dooley Foundation which runs the hospital.

"This is not an ideal setup until we get a doctor," she says.

Miss Watson's companions are Tim Ford, a 21-year-old former Army medic from Indianapolis, Ind., and Reginald F. Gordon, 25, a surgical technician from Schenectady, N.Y.

SEVERAL INTERESTED

Miss Watson says several physicians have indicated they want to work in this remote corner of Laos after finishing their postgraduate studies next June.

About a dozen Laotians call at the clinic every day on an outpatient basis. An average of five to nine patients lie in the cramped hospital ward.

Treatment in most cases is for malaria and malnutrition. Difficult cases are sent to Chiengrai, across the river in Thailand.

The hospital consists of a wooden building—set on stilts in Southeast Asian style—nestled amidst trees on the top of a hill that overlooks the glistening river, at this point the border with Thailand.

10-BED WARD

It includes a 10-bed ward, a clinic and a poorly equipped operating room where a stretcher serves as the operating table.

and a motor launch that will move out into the countryside. Field operations will be limited to an 18-mile radius. Outside that area lies territory controlled by the pro-Communist Pathet Lao. The Americans have been advised by right-wing garrison commanders here to stay out of the Communist zone.

RIGHTISTS IN CONTROL

Ban Houet Sai and part of the river bank are controlled by the rightists.

Inside the area the three Americans are active and whenever their battered jeep bounces along a rutted village road, children wave and shout in greeting. Government officials also praise their work.

"As long as Ban Houet Sai is a free city I'm staying here unless the military tell us to leave for security reasons," Miss Watson says. "I am staying here until I get a doctor, and until then I am sending patients to doctors."

The 200-year-old paintings of Dresden, Germany, by Bernardo Bellotto, are used today as a guide in its reconstruction. The East German city was severely damaged by air raids in World War II.

Walled Lake Picks Manager

E. V. Mercer Tapped for Job

Popular Mayor Vote
on April Ballot

WALLED LAKE—E. V. Mercer, Walled Lake's representative on the Oakland County Board of Supervisors, was appointed city manager here last night. Besides naming Mercer to the $7,200 a year post, the City Council also agreed to submit a proposal in the April 1 election which will ask that the mayor be elected by popular vote.

Under the present city charter, the mayor is chosen from the seven candidates elected to the council. He is selected by a vote of the councilmen.

Following this procedure, it took 169 ballots and nearly three hours to elect a mayor in 1961. Last year, the election of a mayor was continued for two meetings.

Mercer, 71, of 415 E. Walled Lake Drive, was appointed acting city manager and acting assessor nearly two months ago by the council.

The two posts formerly were held by Harold L. Millspaugh who resigned to take a job with Washburn County.

Mercer was elected by a 6 to 1 ballot last night. Councilman Wendell G. Kellogg Jr. cast the lone dissenting ballot.

When Mercer was proposed as permanent city manager two weeks ago by Councilman Harold Ackley, Kellogg and Mayor Louis E. James expressed surprise over the move.

ASK MEETING
They asked for a private meeting in which they could interview Mercer as they had with another city manager candidate.

Earlier, the council had met with a 25-year-old city treasurer-collector from Illinois who had applied for the job.

James and Kellogg also asked for an interview with Mercer since he never had made formal application. Mercer agreed to the interview.

Ackley said Mercer would be a better choice since he was familiar with the problems "unique to Walled Lake."

Man Faces Charge of Stealing Purse

WALLED LAKE—A Livonia man who police say changed this mind about returning a woman's purse he found here Sunday will be arraigned in Circuit Court Monday on a charge of grand larceny.

Norman Derrick, 30, waived examination on the charge yesterday before Walled Lake Justice of the Peace Gene Schmelz.

Police Chief James A. Decker said the purse, containing $112, belonged to Mrs. Gladys Hartford of Willis. She had been shopping in a local store

CAROL ANN PIFER

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin E. Pifer of 9180 Cooley Lake Road, Walled Lake Township, have announced the engagement of their daughter Carolyn Ann to Gerald M. Flaskowski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark T. Flaskowski of 1979 Baylis St., Union Lake. No wedding date has been set.

AIR PATROL MOVES IN—The top floor of a former bowling alley at 500 N. Pontiac Trail, Walled Lake, has been donated for use by the Civil Air Patrol, Inter-Lakes Group 6310, by two businessmen. Presenting the key to the new headquarters to Maj. S. N. 4,800 Volts Jolt Home

SHELBY TOWNSHIP—A freak electrical accident left eight persons homeless here yesterday, as 4,800 volts entered the wiring of the Charles W. Mitchell house destroying every electrical appliance and extensively damaging its seven rooms.

The mishap occurred when placed the purse on top of her car with other packages while she opened the door.

She forgot the purse was on the car and it fell off as she drove away.

Decker said Derrick admitted that he picked up the purse and followed Mrs. Hartford in his car, intending to return it. He changed his mind after following her for a few blocks, according to Decker.

However, the police chief said a witness saw the incident, took down Derrick's license number and called police.

Derrick was being held today in the Oakland County Jail in lieu of $2,500 bond.

Board Looks for Architects

CLARKSTON—Board of education members are in the process of interviewing prospective architects for a new elementary school in the vicinity of Pine Knob and Clarkston - Orion road.

Plans call for the completion of the district's fifth elementary school by the fall of 1964. It will contain 14 classrooms and accommodate approximately 500 pupils.

The site, purchased recently by the board for $17,797.50 is a 20-acre parcel from the George Miller farm.

Robert DeCassini, 24, of 3738 Alida St., Avon Township, was attempting to uproot a tree in an ash dump near the Mitchell home, 3651 Hamlin Road.

Tugging at the tree with a cable attached to a bulldozer, DeCassini had almost completed removal when the line snapped, flipping the tree over two main power lines of the Detroit Edison Co.

As the lines touched, balls of electrical fire began to travel along the lines toward the Mitchell home.

Mrs. Mitchell, 28, was standing in her yard when she saw the fire heading toward her home and rushed inside for protection. As she entered, flames shot out of every electrical fixture in view and her electric stove exploded.

She grabbed her two children and ran back outside. Four other children were in school.

Township Fire Department Captain Marvin Meltz said every electrical appliance in the home was destroyed, either by melting or exploding.

Meltz said a "rough" esti-

Skin Diver Retrieves
Body in Icy Clinton

SHELBY TOWNSHIP—The body of a 7-year-old boy, missing since early Monday, was found by a skin diver yesterday afternoon in the icy waters of the Clinton River here.

Danny Downey, one of seven children of Mr. and Mrs. William Downey, 6019 Auburn Road, disappeared Monday. A 6-year-old playmate, Eddie Mickle, told police his friend had fallen in the water.

More than 95 firemen, skin divers and residents assisted Shelby Township and state police as they combed the river for the child's body.

He was found just upstream from a fence stretched across the river bottom and about 35 yards downstream from where he fell in, police said.

The river is up to 30 feet wide and 8 feet deep in that area and flows at a swift rate.

mate of the damages would be $6,500 to the home and $2,000 to the contents.

When firemen arrived there were fires in the appliances and walls in the attic, basement and main floor of the house, he added. Mitchell was working in Rochester at the time of the accident.

He and the rest of the eight-member family are presently living with his father in Avon Township.

To Name Senior Honorary Donor of Rotary Check

A senior at Avondale High School will be selected by Principal Rosco V. Crowell to be named honorary donor of a $250 check presented to the school district recently by the Auburn Heights Rotary Club.

Merne LaFave, club president, gave the check to the school board on behalf of the club.

The gift is to be used for the high school library.

LaFave said that club members hope to present a similar gift, which will be donated in the name of some outstanding student, each year to the district.

Walled Lake Building

WALLED LAKE—The Inter-Lakes Civil Air Patrol—which has held meetings everywhere from Pontiac to Wixom and from Northville to Milford—finally has found a home in Walled Lake.

The second floor of a building at 500 N. Pontiac Trail, owned by two area businessmen, has been donated for use as headquarters of Inter-Lakes Group 6310.

CAP members, who worked for three months cleaning and renovating the interior of the quarters, have been presented a key to the building by owners Gaylord Vreeland and his brother William.

The key was presented to Major S. N. Domingue, group commander.

The CAP now is conducting a drive in this area to collect chairs and desks for use at Saturday morning classes.

Group 6310 is an administrative organization of the Civil Air Patrol which aids in the growth of squadrons throughout West Oakland County.

Troy Commission Picks Possible Center Locations

TROY—The City Commission action is in the north and west sections of the city. Purpose of reducing the lot size is to encourage land development and to ultimately increase the city's population potential, the commission has agreed.

The city plans to make an offer on one selected land parcel after appraisals are made and bids from landowners are opened, according to City Manager David E. Firestone.

Three of four areas are located near the intersection of Wattles and Livermore roads, where the present city hall is located.

The fourth plot being considered is on the north side of 16-Mile Road between Livermore and Crooks roads.

The sites were chosen from a group of 12 presented to the planning commission, city commission, city hall study committee and the city's planning consultant, Vilcas-Leman & Associates of Southfield.

The commission has also set Jan. 10 for a public hearing regarding requirements on minimum residential lot size for several local undeveloped parcels of land.

But Victims Won't Be Laughing

Purse Snatchers Enjoy Holiday

Women's purses and their contents have always been the subject of countless jokes, but to law enforcers they are no laughing matter.

It's not that policemen are without a funnybone. They just realize from experience how easily accessible most women make their handbags to purse snatchers.

careless female shoppers several thousand dollars annually.

A purse snatcher can usually be sure that a wallet is hidden somewhere among all those "necessary" items and will be looking for the first opportunity to help himself.

"This is the worst time of year for this crime," said Pontiac detective Thomas Mitchell. "Women are carrying more money than normally, and the thief knows it."

If a woman is fortunate enough not to be carrying any money when her purse or wallet is stolen, she still faces the inconvenience of reporting the loss of important credentials, driver's license and credit cards to the proper authorities.

The following is a list of suggestions from the Pontiac Police Department that will foil the purse snatcher.

Carry the purse with your arm through the strap and tucked securely under your arm.

'JUST CHECKING'

Don't leave your purse at one end of the counter and walk to the other end. If detected, the thief can claim he was just checking who owned the purse so he could return it.

At a counter, keep the purse resting on top of it with your hand on the clasp.

Never leave your purse open after making a purchase.

Photographs on this page, posed by Mrs. Helen Campbell, secretary in the Pontiac Police Detective Bureau, and detective Mitchell point out how and how not to tempt a thief.

Romney to Get Office Early

LANSING (UPI)—Gov. Swainson extended—and Gov.-elect George Romney accepted—an offer today to turn over the use of the executive offices in the State Capitol to the incoming governor the day before he is inaugurated.

In a letter to Romney, Swainson said he would make the office available to the governor-elect at 8 a.m. Monday, Dec. 21, if he wished to make use of the facilities in final preparation for the inauguration the next day.

Swainson also said he hoped Romney would be able to indicate beforehand which civil service personnel would be retained in the executive office and which ones would be transferred to other civil service assignments.

Romney told newsmen he considered Swainson's offer a "gracious" one and pointed out that it would permit his staff to prepare for the post-inauguration reception in the executive office.

Romney indicated that notification of office personnel would be expedited. He was surprised to learn, he said, that some notices had not yet been issued.

To Require Antismog Car Part

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—In three years every vehicle registered in a smog district in California must be equipped with a smog control device.

The Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board (MVPCB) yesterday approved two automotive smog control devices which paved the way for the program which affects more than 75 percent of the vehicles in the state.

The program will be instituted under previous legislation. However, a new plan for staggered dates by which such devices must be installed is a modification of the original laws and must be approved by the state legislature.

The two devices approved yesterday were Crankcase Emission Control Devices manufactured by the Walker Manufacturing Co., Racine, Wis., and the AC Spark Plug-Division of General Motors Corp.

They are the first two such devices to be certified by the MVPCB in their efforts to control the emission of automotive hydrocarbons believed to contribute to air pollution.

Average price of the devices to the individual automobile owner was listed as $18 for the AC product and $15.20 for the Walker product.

Russians Explode Two More Bombs

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. Atomic Energy Commission reports two Soviet atmospheric nuclear tests in the vicinity of Novaya Zemlya, Russia's Arctic islands test site.

Both of yesterday's blasts were described as of intermediate yield, meaning their explosive power was equivalent to that of 20,000 to 1 million tons of TNT.

The tests were the 33rd and 34th announced by the AEC in the current Russian series. The last announced test was on Nov. 17.

Firm to Test Smog Control Device in Cars

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co. said yesterday it has developed a smog control device for automobiles which will be refined and produced by Maremont Corp. of Chicago if tests are successful.

The Minnesota firm said that under an agreement with Maremont, it will supply Maremont with internal components made of a corrugated ceramic material and that these elements will be incorporated into the new afterburner built by Maremont. Maremont is a leading producer of mufflers and other automobile parts.

The California Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board accepted the Minnesota company's afterburner prototype for full scale testing last month. Five other devices also have been accepted for testing.

The new device incorporates corrugated ceramic heat exchangers and a ceramic combustion chamber.

Pistons Greet Cellar After 113-110 Defeat

By The Associated Press

The Chicago Zephyrs if you'll pardon the expression, are moving like the wind. For the Zephyrs, anyway.

The newest team in the National Basketball Association won its third straight game — the first time Chicago has ever won three in a row—Tuesday night 113-110 over the Detroit Pistons.

The Zephyrs, in third place in the Western Division by percentage points over the Pistons before the game, moved a full game ahead of Detroit, which absorbed its fourth straight loss and fell into the cellar.

STREAK BROKEN

threegame losing streak with a 103-102 decision over the Cincinnati Royals.

In San Francisco, the Warriors, who had lost 14 of 15 previous starts, moved out of the Western Division cellar with a 130-110 victory over the St. Louis Hawks as Walt Chamberlain clicked for 61 points.

The Chicago victory gave the two-year old club a 12-22 record, with the season short of the halfway point. The club won only 18 in its entire first NBA campaign. The Zephyrs and the Pistons duelled through five lead changes in the fourth quarter and the score was 105-105 with 2 minutes, 44 seconds to play.

John Cox, high for Chicago with 29 points, put the Zephyrs ahead with a field goal, and then St. Green hit a long jump shot and two clinching free throws.

KEY BASKET

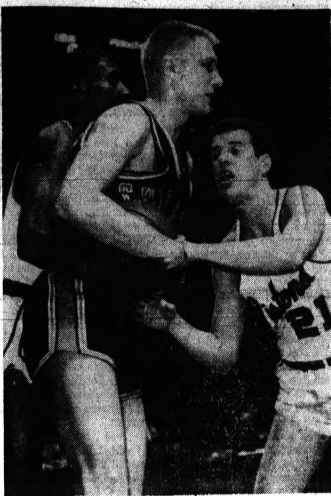

Walt Bellamy was second to Cox with 19, while Don Ohl led the Pistons with 25. The Knicks-Royal battle was a corker, as the New Yorkers battled back from a 13-point deficit in the first half to lead by 98-93 in the final quarter.

Oscar Robertson, who topped the Royals with 28 points, led the Cincinnati comeback and tied the score at 100-100 on a free throw, with 53 seconds left. Johnny Green, who led the Knicks with 27, sank one foul shot, and Tom Hawkins converted two of the Royals.

Two free throws by Gene Shue put the Knicks on top with seven seconds left. Robertson drove for the winning basket but missed, and Hawkins missed the foul shot as the buzzer sounded.

The Warriors, behind Chamberlain's balanced scoring display, had little difficulty with St. Louis, opening up a 28-point bulge in the fourth period. Will collected 16 points in each of the first two quarters, contributed 17 in the third stanza and finished with 12 in the final.

Cliff Haggard topped the Hawks with 19 points while the San Francisco defense held high-scoring Bob Pettit to 16.

Place Eddie Machen in Mental Hospital

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (AP)—When boxer Eddie Machen parked his car Dec. 12 and began writing a note to explain why he wanted to kill himself, he may have written the ending of his fighting career.

Chances for his hope of a try in the foreseeable future at heavyweight champion Sonny Liston's title appeared gloomy Tuesday when Machen was committed to a state hospital for the mentally ill.

The 30-year-old contender-rated 11 heavyweight challenger by the World Boxing Association—was committed after a brief Superior Court hearing. Napa State Hospital doctors described Machen as an "acute schizophrenic" and a "paranoid" in need of treatment and dangerous to himself and others.

At nearly the same time, Jack Urch, executive officer of the state athletic commission, said Machen's California boxing license expires Dec. 31.

Obviously he's not going to fight before the end of this year," Urch said.

MEDICAL CLEARANCE

Before Machen could be issued a new license, Urch said, the athletic commission would require a complete medical clearance.

"We just don't know," said Kenneth Gray, special investigator for the commission. "We don't know how these things will affect a person's boxing career."

Urch said it was the first time in California's history — to his knowledge — that a boxer had been committed to a hospital for mental health reasons.

Machen was taken to the Napa State Hospital for observation and his own protection after a state highway patrolman found him in a car parked near Vallejo. The boxer was writing what was described as a "farewell letter" to his wife, Charlotte, and had a loaded pistol in the car.

Machen told officers he was depressed because of financial troubles stemming from his difficulty in getting a worthwhile fight. "Everything was all wrong," officers quoted him as saying.

His commitment was for an indefinite period—"until his mental well-being is restored." Doctors at the hearing would not commit themselves on how long this could be.

BECAME VIOLENT

Dr. Roy Wagner, Napa Hospital psychiatrist, said that Machen was depressed and quiet when he was admitted there. Since then, however, the psychiatrist said, Machen has become violent twice and knocked out two attendants.

Dr. Wagner said Machen was given heavy doses of tranquilizers. Another Napa doctor said it would be dangerous to release the boxer to a private mental institution for treatment.

Mrs. Charlotte Machen, who attended the hearing, agreed that her husband needs help now.

"Yes, he does need help at this time. He'll have to have help... that's for sure," she said.

Lions' Defense Best in NFL

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Detroit Lions, runnerup to Green Bay for the National Football League's western division title, won NFL team defensive honors today.

The Lions gave up 3,217 yards while compiling an 11-3 record and replaced Baltimore as the total defense champ. Detroit also won laurels in ground defense, limiting opponents to 1,231 yards. Pittsburgh won the ground defense title in 1961.

Skippers Lose Third Straight; Holly Triumphs

Fast Start Carries Wayne; Troy Storms Past Falcons

Waterford and Rochester were still looking for first basketball victories today.

The Skippers got off to a slow start against Wayne and never recovered, 78-70. Troy made Rochester's record read 0-4 with a 59-36 decision.

Holly moved into a tie for first place in the Wayne-Oakland Conference by edging Brighton 45-41 in overtime.

Bob Reader and Paul Moran turned in brilliant scoring performances but could not keep the Skippers from losing their third game.

Reader, the 6-4 senior center, dropped in 26 points and Moran pumped in 25. But it wasn't enough to offset the balanced Wayne attack.

Waterford fell behind 17-5 in the first quarter and could never catch up.

PLENTY OF FOULS

The Skippers capitalized on 31 Wayne fouls to keep the game close. Waterford scored 36 of its points from the line. The Skippers missed only nine.

Rochester luffed off to a 7-0 lead in the first five minutes.

The Falcons folded after 6-8 center Mike Wilson sprained an ankle in the opening seconds of the second period and was forced to leave the game.

Holly upped its W-O mark to 3-0 and gained a deadlock for first with Bloomfield Hills and West Bloomfield.

Jack Bennett's two free throws in the last seconds of the first overtime period gave Holly its win. The game was knotted 11-11 at the end of regulation time.

Acton Sparkles as Alma Wins Over Albion

ALMA (U) — Alma College jumped to an early advantage and was never headed last night as it walked over Albion, 74-54, in a Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association basketball game.

The victory was Alma's fourth in five starts and leaves the Scots at a 2-4 mark in league play. Albion stands 0-4 in season play and holds a 0-2 record in the MIAA.

Will Anglers Disclose Closely Guarded Secrets?

Survey Seeks Top Fishing Waters in Oakland County

Oakland County contains some of the best fishing waters in Michigan. It also has some of the other end of the angling ladder.

But this is expected when an area contains over 400 bodies of water ranging from an acre on up.

The Press sports department is undertaking what many will describe as an impossible task. Pinpointing the "best of the best" fishing waters in Oakland County.

Fishermen are noted as being the world's best liars when it comes to telling about catching large fish over the years or "the ones that got away." The fish in the world when it comes to keeping a newly located "hot spot" under his hat.

SECRETIVE CLAN

The Press isn't attempting to lift the lid on the "spot" only the name of the lake, stream, or pond where it is located.

A real good fishing hole doesn't stay secret very long. Fishermen are among the most observant of the sports clan when it comes to spotting someone else taking a good mess of fish.

To aid in the tabulation of the "best of the best," a ballot can be found on this page.

It is broken down into species of fish.

What waters are best for bluegills; for black bass; rainbows; and so forth. There is also a category for the best all-around lake, one where a fisherman can try for all species listed with a reasonable chance for success.

There is also space for listing the best all-around lakes in Lapeer County.

Fishermen are asked to list three lakes or streams, in order of preference, under each category. The same lakes can be repeated for the different species.

Fishermen entering the Press Big Fish Contest or phoning to find out about a large catch of bluegills, pike or bass, generally name the lake without hesitation.

Only one entry was turned down last year, in the rainbow trout division, because the angler didn't want the name of the lake printed.

TAKES TIME

Good fishermen have the philosophy that it takes more than the name of a lake to catch fish. They claim that it takes a long time to discover the right spot and time of feeding for the various species on a given lake.

They also say that the average angler will give up on a new lake if he doesn't succeed in one or two trips.

The results of this survey will be published on The Press outdoor page.

Commission Approves Seven-Point Program

The State Conservation Commission has approved sponsorship of a seven-point legislative program and authorized a departmental change that will result in closer coordination of all conservation activities at the district level.

The commissioners voted to ask the legislature to:

- Require resident fishing licenses for angling on the Great Lakes waters off Michigan's shoreline.
- Require resident fishing licenses for all Michigan anglers over 17 years of age.
- Create a special three-day, non-resident fishing license costing $2.
- Provide half the cost of Conservation Department administration from the state general fund.
- Abolish bounties on predators.
- Authorize return to the game and fish fund revenues gained from the leasing of Conservation Department land mineral right.
- And outlaw the use of 12 caliber rim fire rifles for deer hunting in southern Lower Michigan.

The commissioners refused, however, to ask the legislature to cut the cost of other non-resident fishing and hunting licenses after Gaylord Walker, the department's chief deputy director, said such action might result in the loss of $600,000 a year or more.

The reduction in non-resident license fees had been requested last month by the East Michigan Tourist Association, which said the move would help bring more visitors to the state.

The change asked concerning the licensing for all persons over 17 would make it mandatory for resident wives of fishermen to also have licenses. Under present law a spouse is covered by the license her husband purchases.

EFFICIENCY MOVE

The department reorganization, voted by the commissioners is designed to provide greater efficiency and flexibility in field operations, commissioner Robert Brevitt of Battle Creek said.

Brevitt said under the new setup, which will come into effect sometime after the first of the year, field management for forestry, fish and game work, law enforcement and fire protection will be coordinated in 12 district offices by a district manager.

The district offices already exist, but their operations are limited to law enforcement and fire protection while the other functions are coordinated at regional level headquarters in Marquette, Roscommon and Lansing.

Decline in Lake Superior

Lamprey Losing Battle

A recent progress report to the Great Lakes Fishery Commission has provided the most optimistic news to date that the sea lamprey is on its way out as a menace to lake trout populations in Lake Superior.

During last month's meeting at Ottawa, Ont., the commission was told that only 9,200 lampreys were captured this year at electric barriers in 29 chemically-treated Lake Superior streams.

This is an 87 per cent drop from last year's catch of 68,200 lampreys at these same barriers, according to Leo Erkila, in charge of sea lamprey control for the U.S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries.

A comparable decline in lamprey numbers was recorded in 1962 at barriers operated in streams on the Canadian side of Lake Superior.

Erkila reported that the bureau plans to re-treat 58 tri-

Coon Hunters Elect Faure; License Time

Weather will be the key to ice fishing on area lakes this weekend.

A forecast of temperatures in the 40s and rain today may put a damper on any treks onto area lakes. Only the smaller lakes were covered with sufficient ice last week.

These will open up if it rains and the wind picks up. Until the cold snap hit a couple of weeks ago, it began to look as if there would be no fishing until after Christmas.

Fred Faure was elected president of the Pioneer Coon Hunters Club at the annual banquet Saturday at the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club.

Other officers for 1963 will be Archie Matheson, vice president; Jack Hamilton, secretary-treasurer; and James Berdon, Carl Kennady, Ernest Latimer, John Feldman, Freeman Peace and Lewis M. Wren, directors.

Fourteen members of the club reported taking a total of 145 racoons. Thirty-seven of the coons were served to the 97 people who attended.

Edward Tucker, biologist for the Conservation Department, showed a movie, "Missouri Cottontail."

Sportsmen will be digging into their billfolds after Christmas.

Fishermen will be purchasing 1963 licenses and trout stamps; new state park vehicle stickers will be needed; registrations on boats expires Dec. 31.

FLORIDA FISHING

For anyone heading to Florida here is the latest fishing report:

Sea trout, redfish and small to medium snook are being taken in the sheltered areas of the Thousand Islands and other coastal areas from Fort Myers through the Everglades.

Heavy seas pushed large schools of bluefish and Spanish Mackerel shoreward and these fish are now being caught from piers on the east coast of the state, particularly around Sebastian Inlet, Stuart and the Palm Beaches.

Sail fishing is best out of Marathon and bonafish are hitting in the Keys. Bridge fishing is slow.

Under a permit system set up by Daw's division, in cooperation with game men, commercial loggers will be permitted this winter to carry cuttings on an estimated 50,000 acres of state forest lands to provide for deer this winter.

The cuttings provided enough food from the tops and branches of felled trees to carry about 20,000 deer through the severe winter or last year, Daw said.

In addition to the commercial cuttings allowed, in which the timber interests concentrate on the merchantable timber, the department conducts some activi-

Timber Cuttings to Aid Deer Herd

LANSING (UPI)—Last winter's severe weather caused extensive loss to the deer herd despite efforts by public and private groups to provide food for the animals, conservation officials report.

While the actual impact of these losses will not be fully felt until next year's harvest of deer now in the yearling age range, every effort is being made to guard against a similar loss in the event this winter brings as much ground-covering ice and as long a seige.

The state effort toward providing browse for the deer herd is centered largely around the forestry division headed by T. E. Daw.

Under a permit system set up by Daw's division, in cooperation with game men, commercial loggers will be permitted this winter to carry cuttings on an estimated 50,000 acres of state forest lands to provide for deer this winter.

The cuttings provided enough food from the tops and branches of felled trees to carry about 20,000 deer through the severe winter or last year, Daw said.

In addition to the commercial cuttings allowed, in which the timber interests concentrate on the merchantable timber, the department conducts some activities itself to provide other browse areas in the northern Lower Peninsula. The Milwaukee Braves and Boston Red Sox, one-time city rivals, will play in the 1963 Hall of Fame game at Abner Doubleday Field, Aug. 5.

Former major league players will be inducted into the hall of fame in ceremonies before the game.

This work is already under way in the Pigeon River state forest, where heavy-duty tractors recently were put into service to slash through an area of poor quality trees.

Cuttings of low grade trees, many of them aspens, are also planned this winter in a 200-acre area in Sturgeon River state forest. This project was designed to determine whether the cuttings will improve conditions for deer in the Upper Peninsula. The Sturgeon River state forest is in Dickinson County.

In all, the department plans to clear cut between 3,000 and 4,000 acres of non-merchantable stands of trees at deer yard sections of the northern lower peninsula. All but 200 acres of this will be in state forests, in Otsego, Montmorency, Cheboygan, Missaukee, Kalkaska, Manistee, Benzie, Roscommon, Ogemaw, Alcona, Lake, Osceola, Mecosta, Gladwin, Arenac, Clare and Midland Counties, Daw said.

HABITAT IMPROVED

The department work improves habitat conditions for small game at the same time as it adds to the browse areas for deer.

insula. Commercial operations areas in the northern Lower Peninsula are not practical in much of these areas, Daw said.

Parks Division Shift Urged by Legislator

State Rep. Riemer Van Til (R-Holland), chairman of the Interim Study Committee on State Parks and Public Lands, feels the division of parks and recreation should be removed from the jurisdiction of the Conservation Department.

He recommends that the division be transferred to the Department of Administration, in order to free the Conservation Department from such details as "basketweaving and ball games."

Van Til emphasizes that the recommendation is his own, and not the official views of his committee.

He said, however, that he believes the committee will "go along" with his recommendations when it meets soon to prepare the report for presentation to the legislature.

"The division of parks and recreation has a great job to do in Michigan, and must remain distinctive in order to carry out its programs properly," Van Til stated.

TREMENDOUS JOB

"The Conservation Department does not belong in the recreation business," he added. "They have a tremendous job of their own to do, and they shouldn't be concerned with basketweaving and ball games."

The transfer, he said, would free the division from any possible bias from other state agencies. It would also, he noted, help alert other departments such as Highway, Water Resources and Health to the "important roles they must play in the development of finer recreation programs."

Van Til further declared that the state's Inter-Agency Council on Recreation must be given the money and authority to perform ade-

City Receives Federal Loan

City Manager Robert A. Stierer announced last night that Pontiac has received its first direct federal loan to get the city's second urban renewal program (R44) under way.

City officials say they anticipate rapid spending in the new project due to an accelerated property acquisition program.

In effect, the loan gives city officials some spending money for use until the first R44 project preliminary loan notes are sold early next year.

'Press Strike Could Be Long'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz warned yesterday that the New York newspaper strike could continue for the rest of the winter.

Wirtz' gloomy statement followed an apparently fruitless bargaining session between the New York Publishers Association and the striking printers supervised by William E. Simkin, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. Wirtz did not attend the negotiations.

Both sides meet again today in renewed efforts to end the 12-day-old strike which resulted in the shutdown of nine papers with a daily total circulation of 5.7 million.

Federal mediators emerging from yesterday's joint talks, the first in a week, said "Nothing has been accomplished. There has been very little to be optimistic about."

Can Man of 40 Really Cry?
Chaplin Did—on Broadway

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Does a man 40 years old ever break down—while talking a business deal on the telephone—and burst into weeping?

That's what handsome Sydney Chaplin does in the play, "In the Counting House," and it's in dispute. Some people think that a good-looking guy with all sorts of gals interested in him wouldn't be crying—especially since the business he's in is lingerie.

For any man to cry or weep on stage is a difficult dramatic assignment. For good-looking Chaplin to do it is especially difficult. Ostensibly he's crying because he has decided to go back to his wife—and never to leave the lingerie business. Now here's the salient point. Chaplin was eager to do the crying on stage. And did he ever cry real tears?

"Sometimes I didn't—but sometimes I did!" he told me.

Kay Medford's one of our special favorites in "Counting House," especially when she draws, "Believe it or not, I used to date a ballplayer in Jersey City. He was a left-handed outpuncher." She adds, "Do you know 'the 2 Guys from Harrison'? He's one-third of 'And another wondrous line by Playwright Leslie Wheeler. 'Minor surgery is surgery performed on somebody else.'"

Mimi Benzell gave her children a different kind of Christmas present. She turned in her notice to leave "Milk and Honey" Dec. 22—rather than early in '63—so she can have the holidays with them. . . Princess Grace and Rainier long for a little privacy in their skiing this winter and are passing up Gestad—the Swiss hangout of Liz Taylor, Richard Burton, Onassis and Maria Callas, to winter-vacation at Villars-sur-Ollon. Overheard at a New York auction sale recently: "Sold—to the lady with her husband's hand over her mouth."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Little Bruce Prochnok, who has the title role in "Oliver!" was dancing on stage in the Toronto tryout, and one lady nudged her friend in the audience and said, "Look at that Oliver Twist."

EARL'S PEARLS: Mark Russell at the Blue Angel figures the ideal Kennedy running-mate in '64 would be "an A.T. & T. stockbroker who's working as a doctor in a steel mill." . . . That's a real brother.

Does Illness Stem From Faulty Body Chemistry?

New Drugs Prove Big Help to Many Mental Patients

(Editor's Note—Drugs have proven useful treatments for various mental illnesses. Here is an up-to-date report on their effectiveness. This is the third in a series of five special reports on mental health.)

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK—The devil still of mental illness. "The devil still of mental illness," she said, "but I don't bother to holler back."

Thus did a tranquilizer drug bring one woman a ticket back toward mental health. From then on, she could cooperate with psychiatrists to work out an understanding of her emotional illness.

The "mood drugs," such as tranquilizers to calm excited minds and psychic stimulants to combat depression, are part of an exciting chemical era in mental illness. There are two great objectives.

One is to develop far more effective drugs for various types of mental illness.

The other is increasing, if controversial, evidence that much mental illness may stem from faulty body chemistry.

If specific chemical errors could be pinpointed, they probably could be corrected to prevent or cure mental ills, much as vitamin C combats scurvy.

Psychiatrists are divided over prospects of such chemical control.

Tranquilizers, coming on the scene about eight years ago, and antidepressants, are having tremendous impact. Men and women sick for months or years have described the mental effects as the lifting of a curtain or cloud, or brightening of a dark room.

Drugs have provided a bridge to home for many thousands of men and women. Many continue taking them.

EARLY TREATMENTS

With early, prompt use of drugs, through clinics or private physicians, many persons would never have to go to mental hospitals in the first place, declares Dr. Nathan S. Kline, director of research at Rockland State Hospital, New York.

Other psychiatrists are less convinced of the value of drugs. Some 30 different tranquilizers and more than a dozen antidepressants are available now. Some say equally good or better results are obtained with intensive psychiatric treatment of patients, but admit to the shortage of psychiatrists.

The National Institute of Mental Health has set up the Psychopharmacology Service Center to speed the screening and testing of new compounds.

To many researchers, a great encouraging fact is that mood drugs do affect the brain, even though the mechanisms are not fully understood.

And certain other drugs, such as mescaline and LSD, actually produce hallucinations or other symptoms of severe mental illness in healthy persons—more reason to suspect that faulty body chemistry could be the reason for at least some types of mental illness.

ABNORMAL CHEMICALS

In another sign, scientists have found abnormal chemicals, or abnormal amounts of regular body chemicals, in the blood and urine of schizophrenic patients. Whether these are the result or, possibly, the cause of mental illness is not yet known.

A few conditions now are known in which an inherited chemical defect, or dietary deficiency causes mental retardation in children. Damage is avoided if the trouble is detected in time.

And studies of twins indicate some people may inherit a vulnerability to schizophrenia, the flight from reality which constitutes the major type of serious mental illness.

In the traditional view, mental illness is born from breakdown in human relationships, or from extreme emotional stress. The wounded mind may withdraw, or turn to behavior relieving its stress and pain. Some scientists believe mental illness is a result of both environmental reactions and faulty chemistry.

Psychotherapy presents puzzles. It is a method of listening to patients and helping them discover reasons for their behavior, and new insights. There are many approaches.

But psychiatrists do not understand how it works, or why one method helps some patients, but not others. It is difficult to prove conclusively that psychotherapy works at all.

Yet thousands of persons obviously are relieved of their distress, and manage to resume useful lives. Psychotherapy itself is a target of research to determine which methods are best for what types of patients, and when. Researchers are exploring other questions:

What goes wrong in our ways of rearing children that so many become emotionally ill? What special stresses do adolescents undergo, and how can they be handled? What are the full causes predisposition to schizophrenia detected, and preventive measures started?

Research dollars are increasing. This year about $18 million is being spent in research by the institute, the National Association for Mental Health, state governments, universities and other organizations.

In 10 years, says the institute's Dr. Robert H. Fols, we can expect to have the basic knowledge for far more effective action against mental illness.

U.S. to Put 200th ICBM on Line

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States puts its 200th intercontinental ballistic missile on the firing line today when the Air Force declares combat ready its last squadron of Atlas ICBMs. Qualified authorities estimate the Russians have perhaps 75 to 100 ICBMs.

Activation of the 12-missile Atlas squadron at Plattsburgh Air Force Base in northern New York marks the end of the first phase of the U.S. missile buildup.

TO HAVE 1,000

From now on, the new U.S. missile squadrons will comprise the more powerful Titan IIs and the advanced Minuteman solid-fuel weapons.

Within two years, the United States will have in place more than 1,000 nuclear-tipped intercontinental missiles capable of striking targets more than 6,300 miles away.

The Atlas represents the first generation of U.S. ICBMs. Its development began in 1955, and the first Atlas was emplaced a little more than three years ago at Vandenberg Air Force Base in California.

Since then a total of 126 Atlases have been arrayed at bases stretching from coast to coast. Each missile is aimed at a target in the Soviet Union.

Prisoners May Be Free by Christmas

HAVANA (U) — Hope mounted today that 1,113 Bay of Pigs prisoners may be freed from Fidel Castro's prisons by Christmas in exchange for U. S. food and medicines.

New York attorney James B. Donovan led a team of negotiators into a new round of talks with Castro Tuesday night.

Large stores of donated drugs and food were being assembled near Miami, Fla., in case the exchange goes through.

In Washington, the Kennedy administration is considering giving drug manufacturers a $25-million tax deduction on medicines donated for the proposed prisoner exchange.

Administration sources said that if this deduction is granted, it would be based on the wholesale value of drugs assembled for shipment to Cuba if Fidel Castro released the captives. The retail value of the drugs is $52.

The tax deduction proposal was worked out within the administration after key members of Congress had made it clear they would not go along with the direct use of federal funds for the payment of what they called ransom.

Previously the administration had unsuccessfully sought clearance of influential members of the House and Senate appropriations committees to put up $13.5 million in available Central Intelligence Agency funds to pay for medical supplies.

It was stressed in administration quarters that the tax deduction proposal awaits final, official approval.

ARRIVE YESTERDAY
Donovan, who arranged the trade of U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers for Russian spy Rudolph Abel early this year, arrived yesterday on a third trip to Havana in his effort to effect the release of the Cubans captured in the invasion of April 1961.

With him were Alvaro Sanchez and Mrs. Virginia Betancourt, officials of the Cuban Families Committee, composed of prisoners' relatives.

They went to the home of Mrs. Beria Barreto, another negotiator and son after Castro summoned them.

Mrs. Barreto said the prisoners may be freed soon — "God willing."

Sources close to the negotiators said the prisoners, if freed, probably will be flown to Miami in chartered planes.

Castro demanded $62 million for their liberty but agreed later to take food and medicine instead of cash.

DETAILS OF REPORTS
Havana relatives of the prisoners perked up on hearing reports from the United States of the shipment of tons of these supplies to Opa-Locka airfield near Miami.

The reports included these details:
Castro demanded $23 million worth of drugs, $6 million in equipment, $9.5 million in powdered milk and $14.5 million in baby foods. He supplied long lists of the drugs wanted. This totals only $53 million at manufacturer's list prices, but Donovan said some time ago Castro could put his own value on the stocks.

It was understood the prisoners would be released on delivery of 20 per cent of the amount demanded and a pledge for the balance.

ROBERT THORSON

Birmingham Man's Mother-in-Law Slain

DETROIT (AP) — A Birmingham brokerage firm employee, who was involved in a minor auto accident Dec. 5 while hurrying home after hearing of his mother-in-law's death, was charged yesterday with her slaying.

Robert Thorson, 31, of 2332 Buckingham, stood mute in Recorder's Court and was held for examination Dec. 28. A plea of innocent was entered for him.

Thorson was accused of beating and strangling his mother-in-law, Mrs. Dorothy Thomas, 62, whose body was found in her Detroit home.

Max Silverman, assistant Wayne County prosecutor, said Thorson had handled some stock transactions for Mrs. Thomas, whose husband left her an estimated $70,000 estate last July.

Silverman declined to outline the evidence which led to the murder warrant against Thorson.

Weather Outlook Normal for 5 Days

Near normal temperatures are expected in the area for the next five days.

The highs will range from 31 to 35, and the lows from 15 to 22.

It'll be colder Thursday and Friday, and then minor variations until warmer Sunday and Monday.

Precipitation will total from one to two-tenths of an inch in snow flurries Thursday.

The lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac, preceding 8 a.m. was 31. At 7 p.m. the thermometer recorded 33.

ROMNEY'S PLACE — Governor-elect George W. Romney leaves his new East Lansing home after discharging a few chores for his wife Lenore during his lunch hour yesterday.

At a morning press conference, Romney announced plans to rent for two years the $68,000, split-level, 11-room suburban home.

Romney Takes Time Out to Help Wife

The man with graying hair was cutting material samples from the hem of drapes for his wife in the home they had just arranged to rent for two years.

He moved from room to room snipping the samples as he consulted a note from his wife.

"Lenore says I have to do this," observed Michigan's Governor-elect George W. Romney, "so I have to do it."

"Besides, it saves her a trip up here."

It was Romney's lunch hour yesterday, the only time available for the home task. In a crammed schedule of preparations for taking over the state's chief executive office Jan. 1.

Arrangements to rent the $68,000 home in suburban East Lansing from dairy firm owner Henry E. Crouse had been announced by Romney at a morning press conference.

The Romneys will move into the unfurnished 11-room, split-level house at 1045 Rosewood Ave., East Lansing, about the end of January.

They will live in another rented home in the same neighborhood while the Crouse home is being furnished, Romney said. He expected this to take about a month.

Romney said he and Lenore had looked at many homes in the Lansing area, with the Mrs. doing most of the searching, before they made a decision.

The house, built in 1948, has five bedrooms, four baths, a two-car garage and a screened porch along with a spacious patio visible through large windows along one side of the living room.

"We wanted to be close to the outdoors as we have been in Bloomfield Hills," Romney pointed out.

The Romneys learned of the Crouse home through friends. Mrs. Crouse said her youngest son was acquainted with Romney's two sons while they were students at Cranbrook School in Bloomfield Hills.

Romney said a young couple will stay in his Bloomfield Hills home during his two-year term as governor.

Gifts of Glitter

Get That 'Gilty' Feeling

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

There's a good chance that all that glitter is gold this Christmas.

Gold bag and belt ensembles, slippers, shoes, hat, dresses and even slim leotards made of the glittering material abound.

The latest toy we've seen in the area this year is a walking dog.

His legs are constructed so that he picks up his feet at different times and moves ahead, sniffing the ground just like a live hound dog. He can bark and pick up a bone.

Another new item is a complete workshop for youngsters. Battery operated, the table saw cuts Styrofoam rather than wood. It has a lathe, a buffer, jigsaw, sander, grinder and polisher.

When the blade comes in contact with a small finger or hand, it automatically stops.

For dad, there is a new-type valise to hold his wallet, cuff links, tie clip and change. Designed as a lazy Susan, it is anything but feminine and holds pens and pencils in the center.

Long-handled shoe horns for the tall man, are gold with fine leather covering the handle.

There's pretty glass instant coffee and tea holders with a gold spoon attached.

For stormy afternoons, kiddies would never become bored with a cartoon theater with its own projector and screen. Ten slide disks come with this gift.

Possible Crisis Included in the Nassau Parley

Top-Ranking Officials From Both Countries Accompany Leaders

NASSAU, Bahamas (U) — President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan began the first of their formal meetings of their little summit conference today.

They were believed to be dealing with the possibility of a new crisis in the Congo.

The two leaders were smiling, but nevertheless appeared grave as they began their session in a luxurious seaside mansion at 9:50 a.m. EST.

Indications were that a series of top-ranking problems would be taken up quickly, including the deep British-American controversy over the future of the Skybolt missile.

The President was accompanied by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and Undersecretary of State George W. Ball. The prime minister had with him Foreign Secretary Lord Home and Defense Secretary Peter Thorneycroft.

The U.S. and British government chiefs plunged into two days of study of complex cold war problems under a cloud of gloom generated by the Skybolt controversy.

SOVIETS IN CONGO
U.S. leaders reportedly feel there is a very real danger of a renewed Soviet thrust into the Congo should the crisis generated by the secession of rich Katanga Province lead to the collapse of the moderate Leopoldville government.

The British did not appear to be as concerned as their American allies about the Congo prospects. One of Kennedy's aims at this meeting in this sun-splashed British island resort was to emphasize to Macmillan U.S. views of what might be done to defend the Congo against any new Soviet attempt at penetration.

A U.S. spokesman announced Tuesday night that the United States is sending an eight-man military mission headed by Lt. Gen. Louis W. Truman, a cousin of former President Harry S. Truman, to the Congo to survey the military needs of the U.N. force there prior to the supplying of more American equipment to the U.N. troops.

Jury Considers on Murder Trial

Defense Is Concluded for Three Pontiac Men

The murder trial of three men accused in the July 30 killing of Pontiac grocer Eftimias Vasiliou went to the jury today in Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams' court.

In final testimony heard yesterday, defense attorneys sought to discredit formal statements incriminating the accused, Joseph Page, 36, Benny Spells, 23, and R. G. Stroman, 29, all of Pontiac.

Included were signed statements by Page and Spells, which their attorney said were obtained under duress.

The statements asserted that Stroman drove Page and Spells to the Boulevard Market, 240 Orchard Lake Avenue, where the proprietor Vasiliou, 59, was shot.

Stroman claimed he was being framed by Rufus Wilson, awaiting sentence for another slaying.

The jury went out at 10:05 a.m. to weigh a verdict.

GM to Junk Compact Unibodies

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. will make major engineering changes on its 1964 model compact cars.

Word has circulated for months that the smaller-sized Buick, Oldsmobile, Pontiac and Chevrolet models would change from unitized to the once-standard frame and body construction next fall.

Latest report is from the trade magazine Automotive Industries. It says GM has now awarded contracts for production of chassis frames for the Special, F5, Tempest and Chevy II for '64.

The magazine said two outside suppliers, A. O. Smith of Milwaukee and Chrysler of Detroit (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Swimming in New Building

Mystery: MSUO's Big Splash

It was a quiet night on the campus of Michigan State University.

Physical Education Director Holle Lepley stood in a snow drift and proudly apprised the $1.5-million MSUO Intramural Building—a black unfinished bulk resting like an age-old monster in the moonlight.

It was then that Lepley heard the splashing.

He would hear those splashes for two weeks because students were sneaking into the building at night and using the pool. What Lepley couldn't figure out was how they got into the locked building.

FOR 2 WEEKS

Every night, for two weeks, there was Lepley in the snowdrift, there was the locked building, and there were those splashes and mocking laughter from inside.

Lepley changed all the brand-new locks for brand-new ones.

He sent a memo to the students warning that the water was still under treatment and might cause skin discomfort.

Word filtered back that chemistry students had run laboratory tests and found the water safe.

More word from the underground told Lepley not to worry; the students had set up a lifeguard system.

A student technical crew controlled mechanical equipment including electrical circuits to which switches had not yet been connected.

How? Only one point was missing from all the stories—How did 75 or more students get into a building that was completely sealed?

Well, it wasn't. And Lepley, a former

University of Nebraska swimming coach, finally pieced together a remarkable new theory of getting into the pool. Says he:

"Just climb down a dry drainage well and do an Australian crawl from down under and through a horizontal conduit which carries pipes into the boiler room, and there you are."

"And only one person has to go in this way. Then he opens the door for the rest of the party."

Lepley let it be known that Big Brother would be watching that drainage hole from now on.

As the splashing ceased and moonlight stillness again muffled the MSUO campus, Lepley closed his file on the case he calls, "The Mystery of the Night Divers and the Phantoms of the Pool."

Congo Will Get U.S. Supplies

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A high-level U.S. military mission was dispatched to U.N. headquarters today to begin carrying out a White House promise of new military equipment to beef up the U.N. force in the Congo.

A U.N. spokesman said the mission, led by Lt. Gen. Louis Trum, would go to the Congo after conferring with Secretary General U. Thant, who has warned that the U.N. will exert all pressures short of shooting to end the secession of Katanga Province.

ADLAI, THANT CHAT U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson conferred with Thant for nearly two hours Tuesday night on the explosive Congo situation. He said the United States acted at the secretary general's behest.

Informal sources said the U.S. contribution would consist mainly of air transport equipment. The United States has been doing all it could for a long time to support the U.N. operation in the Congo, Stevenson told newsmen. "This request from the secretary general for new equipment is only a further step in the program for aerial support."

Stevenson said he knew nothing about possible use of U.S. troops in the Congo or about any new Soviet power bid in the divided African nation.

FEAR RED THREAT U.S. sources at the Bahamas meeting of President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan said U.S. leaders fear a new Kremlin attempt to extend Soviet influence into the Congo if the continued secession of Katanga results in the fall of Premier Cyrille Adoula's moderate central Congo government. The sources in Nassau said Truman's group will survey the military situation in the Congo as well as the equipment needs of the U.N. force.

Thant's call for U.S. aid came as the chief of his Congo mission, Robert K. A. Gardiner, hastened to U.N. headquarters to discuss the explosive situation caused by attempts to bring Katanga and the central government together.

The U.N. has more than 18,000 troops in the Congo, but India wants to pull out her contingent of more than 5,000 because of her border conflict with Red China. Troops of the big powers have been barred from the U.N. Congo force so far to prevent the area becoming a cold-war battle ground.

Truman, 54, a cousin of former President Harry S. Truman, is a 1932 graduate of West Point. He has been a member of the Pentagon's top strategic planning group and head of the military advisory mission in Pakistan. He is deputy commander of the U.S. Continental Army Command at Ft. Monroe, Va.

Mona Lisa Receives Royal Reception NEW YORK (AP)—The woman with the world's most famous smile—Mona Lisa—arrived here today to a royal welcome amid security precautions befitting the queen of the art world.

The Leonardo da Vinci masterpiece came here on a brief visit to these shores aboard the SS France. It will be highlighted by an exhibition at the National Gallery of Art in Washington where President Kennedy will officiate at the opening.

Guards Murder 23 in Revenge Spree (Continued From Page One) The home occupied by Romney's predecessor, Gov. John B. Swainson, in another suburban area near Lansing was valued at about the same figure as Romney's new residence.

"But I'm paying less rent," Romney smiled. After snipping off all the red material samples his wife requested, Romney took a tape measure he had sent his driver out to get and consulted his wife's note again.

Then, with the assistance of the driver, 22-year-old Fred Glasman of Grand Rapids, and press aide Richard Millman, Romney set about taking the room measurements Lenore wanted.

A few minutes later, after eating a lunch of hamburgers and a malted milk during the ride back to his interim office in the Lewis Cass building, he resumed the day's schedule of meetings with legislators.

Compact Unibodies Out (Continued From Page One) On the other side of the coin is the position of American Motors and Chrysler. AMC has had unibody construction since the 1940 Nash and continues to be a strong advocate of the system.

"We feel it eliminates useless weight and eliminates the need for a separate body frame," a spokesman said. "Tests show a unibody is safer and repair costs are equal or less than the frame-body style."

NEW APPOINTEE — Robert K. A. Gardiner (left) of Muskegon, Republican candidate for state attorney general in the Nov. 6 election, chats with Governor-elect George W. Romney yesterday moments before Romney announced his appointment of Gardiner as his executive assistant for legislative programs.

"We feel it eliminates useless weight and eliminates the need for a separate body frame," a spokesman said. "Tests show a unibody is safer and repair costs are equal or less than the frame-body style."

Paul Ackerman, a Chrysler vice president, said he assumed GM's decision was based on "manufacturing considerations" but said he was "perfectly satisfied" with unibody construction.

Ackerman said unibody cars are a "little more economical to build" but said either style was "equally satisfactory" from an engineering and styling standpoint.

INTERCHANGEABLE? Another industry source said he believed GM was making the move so it could have more interchangeability in the compact lines—meaning they could all use a similar frame-body style.

He said he thought the frames would be of a "torque box" design like that used on the big Oldsmobile or Pontiac models.

It has a square look, as opposed to the cruciform or "X" shaped frames on the big Buicks, Chevrolets and Cadillacs.

The GM compacts, with the exception of the Corvair, are expected to compete in 1964 in the intermediate-size field with cars like the Ford Fairlane.

The Fairlane, Mercury Meteor, Thunderbird and Lincoln Continental all use unitized bodies.

There have been reports that at least the T-Bird and Lincoln may go back to frame-body construction in a year or two.

Automotive industries said the Pontiac factory will start receiving equipment for its frame installation after the first of the year, with most machines in place by April.

'Guiding Star' Right on Beam

Transit 5A Satellite Issues Steady Signal

P.O. ARGUELLO, Calif. (AP)—Transit 5A, the guiding star satellite which rocketed skyward with a brilliant visible steady signal from its polar orbit today.

The signal will help ships and submarines determine their positions more accurately. Seconds after Transit 5A's launch at 8:26 p.m. (Pacific time) Tuesday, the colorful trail of the satellite's rocket booster reflected the setting sun's rays like technicolor skywriting.

It was seen by hundreds from San Diego to San Francisco, Calif., and one observer 900 miles away said he saw a glow in the sky at launch time.

The 140-pound satellite was launched atop the four-stage, solid-fuel Blue Scout rocket by the Air Force for the Navy. It went into orbit an hour and a half later.

Transit 5A is to be the first of a four-satellite network which by the end of 1963 should enable ships anywhere in the world to fix their positions quickly, in any kind of weather.

Such information is particularly vital to Polaris-launching submarines which must know their positions precisely before firing their missiles.

Current celestial navigation techniques require clear skies. LIT BY FIREBALL A brilliant fireball lit up the sky as the setting sun's rays bounced off the rocket while its third stage was ignited at 330,000 feet.

Police and newspaper office switchboards in cities within a 350-mile radius were deluged with calls from persons who saw the fireball and the sunset-tinted rose, green and white rocket exhaust which followed.

Birmingham Area News To Unveil Master Plan at Hearing

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — A large crowd is expected to attend a hearing here Jan. 2 when the newly completed master plan for Bloomfield Hills is unveiled to the public.

Because of the anticipated size of the audience at the public hearing, it will be held in the Vaughan Elementary School auditorium rather than the smaller City Commission chambers.

The school is located at 1600 Vaughan Road. The master plan, a guide to the ultimate development of the city, was drawn up by Vilcan Lemann Associates, Inc., a Southfield firm of professional planning consultants.

The city commission is expected to set a hearing on a new Bloomfield Hills zoning ordinance at its next meeting. The hearing on the master plan is held by the City Planning Commission.

Birmingham Chapter No. 220, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold its final meeting of the year at 7:45 p.m. today in the Birmingham Masonic Temple.

Cold Due to Return to Nation?

By United Press International Cold wave warnings were extended to Minnesota and North Dakota today in what could mark the beginning of the end of a winter's eve heat wave over much of the nation.

The weather bureau said temperatures would be 20 degrees colder tonight and Thursday with snow flurries on Thursday. Low tonight 27. High Thursday 33. Southerly winds at eight to 12 miles per hour, changing to northerly at 10 to 15 miles per hour this afternoon.

Closer to home, two inches of snow fell on Chippewa County in the Upper Peninsula overnight and heavy fog socked in parts of Lower Michigan.

The snow was reported at Sault Ste. Marie, where the fog was scattered across the map and locally heavy.

At Detroit both Metropolitan and Willow Run airports were closed for about seven hours last night and early today.

Spokesmen said both incoming and departing traffic was held up from 7:30 p.m. to 2:30 this morning.

Elsewhere, sections of the country which just a week ago suffered severe crop losses due to frost resulted in blizzard weather with temperatures reaching into the low 70s.

It was then, reports from the prison said, that the guards rebelled against their orders and went on a manhunt.

'U.N., Pull Out of Katanga'—Schweitzer BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Dr. Albert Schweitzer called today for the United Nations to pull its troops out of Katanga and for the United States to keep hands off.

The 87-year-old medical missionary, philosopher and author, who has spent nearly a half century in Equatorial Africa, said Katanga is and should remain independent of the rest of the declared Belgian Congo.

He declared reason and justice demand an immediate troop withdrawal and international acknowledgment of the independence of President Moïse Tshombe's copper-rich land.

Schweitzer disclosed his views in a statement published by a liberal Brussels newspaper, La Demiere Heure.

To Cite Shakespeare at Laughton Rites HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Friends have decided to say goodbye to Charles Laughton with readings from his favorite works: The Bible and Shakespeare.

British writer Christopher Isherwood, who will also be a pallbearer, was named to read selections from Laughton's love letters to the actress.

The famed actor died Saturday, at 63, at his Santa Monica home. He had been ill with cancer for many months.

Plans Request to Radio, TV GOP Out to Answer Kennedy WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican National Committee plans to ask the radio and television networks for a "comparable" forum to offset President Kennedy's national rocking chair interview.

But when the Republicans would put on the airways to speak for the GOP—assuming the forum is granted—is uncertain.

The Republican most frequently mentioned by members of his party is former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

But Eisenhower worked hard for the GOP in the recent campaign, and there is some reluctance to ask him to assume a big new task.

is best summarized by Rep. Clarence J. Brown of Ohio, a veteran of 24 years in Congress.

PUBLIC RELATIONS "It was the cleverest piece of political public relations I have ever seen," Brown said. "The President handled himself very ably."

However, Brown added, "Many of the President's statements could be subject to further discussion."

The Republican National Committee laid the groundwork for a comparable forum with a statement, issued Tuesday by its public relations director, William B. Sprague Jr.

"Republican National Committee officials have decided to seek from the three major television networks facilities at some future date comparable to those accorded President Kennedy," it said.

BENEFIT "While we do not at this time contemplate a flat demand for equal time, we feel that the program resulted in substantial benefit to the Democrats and their probable 1964 candidate."

"Thus in all fairness we would hope to be granted facilities for favorable and full exposure of the Republican viewpoint."

"A format which will best serve the interests of the Republican party and the networks by insuring a maximum degree of audience interest will be worked out through careful planning."
