Ike Promises Atomic Defense, Also Tax Cuts

Perrone Expected to Hide Till Jan. 14

Officials Believe He Wants Time to Study Case

Racketeer Named With 3 Others in '48 Shooting of Walter Reuther

DETROIT (AP)—Reports circulating in Detroit today indicated that Santo (Sam) Perrone, union-busting Detroit racketeer, probably would remain in hiding until Jan. 14, before voluntarily surrendering to face charges in the 1948 assassination attempt on CIO President Walter Reuther.

Perrone and his son-in-law Carl Renda, who both built scrap metal fortunes, were charged yesterday with two others in the near fatal shooting of Reuther which now threatens to involve "prominent Detroit names" in management and union circles.

Authorities said Perrone probably would remain in hiding until Jan. 14, the date Renda faces a preliminary examination in Recorder's Court, in order to gain an insight on the prosecution's case.

Earlier police said a Detroit bondsman and attorneys indicated Perrone would surrender today.

Some police officials predicted that "prominent Detroit names" would figure in the case and might even replace the four "John Does" now listed on the warrant. Police, who broke the long investigated case wide open yesterday, have not given any hint to the identities of the other four.

In 1951, Perrone and four associates were charged with conspiracy to smash union organizing at the Detroit Michigan Stove Co. Perrone pleaded guilty in May, 1952, and was placed on probation.

Renda, who has no police record, figured in the Kefauver crime committee hearings with his father-in-

Army Cuts Would Affect GMT, Other State Plants

WASHINGTON (AP) — A plan to halt production of tactical trucks and trailers for the Army would affect contracts totaling $195,000,000 held by Michigan industries, the Army said today.

A spokesman said current planning by the Defense Department calls for the cancellation of contracts with four Michigan companies on July 1.

Two plants outside of Michigan also would lose contracts under the plans.

Michigan plants affected, the spokesman said, are the Dodge Truck Division of Chrysler Corp.; General Motors Truck and Coach Division at Pontiac; Reo Motors Inc., Lansing, and Checker Cab Co. of Kalamazoo.

Dodge holds contracts totaling $29,000,000 for 1½-ton ambulances and other service vehicles; GM's contract is for $86,000,000 worth of 2½-ton trucks; Reo holds contracts totaling $68,000,000 for 2½-ton trucks; and Checker Cab has contracts totaling $12,000,000 for 1½-ton cargo trailers.

Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich), named yesterday by President Eisenhower to a special congressional committee to survey defense cutback plans, has asked Army Secretary Stevens for a report on how the proposed production cutbacks will affect Michigan area workers.

Nearly 10,000 workers are employed at the four Michigan plants. However, the Army vehicles are produced on assembly lines also producing civilian vehicles.

Industry spokesmen said it is im-

First Candidate Files for Seat

4 More Republicans, 3 Dems May Seek Post Held by Estes

Richard Van Dusen of 1722 Pine St., Birmingham, became a candidate for the vacant state representative's seat for the third district by filing a petition late yesterday with Oakland County Clerk Lynn D. Allen.

Van Dusen's is the only petition received so far, according to Allen, "but from conversations and the number of petitions issued I expect about seven others to be filed before the 4 p.m. deadline today."

Allen said he anticipates three candidates from Democratic aspirants for the Feb. 11 special election and about five from Republican ranks.

The vacancy was created by the resignation of Howard R. Estes of Birmingham in November. The Republican representative left politics to devote full time to his new job as manager of the Oakland County Infirmary.

If Allen's predictions of the filing of additional petitions comes true a special primary will have to be held Jan. 21.

Light Snow Will Fall Here Tonight, Friday

Pontiac area residents can expect snow flurries, cloudy skies and little change in temperature tonight and tomorrow, according to the U. S. Weather Bureau.

A low of from 22 to 26 tonight is expected to rise to a high of from 32 to 35 on Friday.

Wednesday, the mercury rose from a low of 25 to a high of 30 degrees in the city. A trace of snow also was recorded in the area.

At 8 a. m. today the reading was 25, but by 2 p. m. in downtown Pontiac the temperature rose to 30 degrees.

Dogs Chase Rabbits; Deputies Chase Both

The outcome of a "check on barking dogs" complaint, investigated today by Oakland County Sheriffs Deputies Harry Jones and Herbert Cross, was written up in their daily report as follows:

"Dogs chasing rabbits. Unable to catch rabbits or dogs."

U. S., Reds OK A-Pool Parley in Washington

Date for Preliminary Talks Not Set; Dulles and Zarubin to Confer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Russia were agreed today on starting preliminary atoms-for-peace talks in Washington, but the important question of timing was still up in the air.

The Soviets announced the agreement last night in Moscow and the State Department quickly confirmed it.

Russia said its ambassador in Washington, Georgi M. Zarubin, would represent it at the talks to set a time, place and subject matter for full scale negotiations. No date was mentioned.

The State Department, within an hour, announced Secretary Dulles would "proceed at an early date to have the procedural conversations." That was another goad to the Soviets to get the talks going.

Time is short for Dulles, who is expected to leave two weeks from today for Berlin and the Foreign Ministers Conference there Jan. 25 among the United States, Russia, Britain and France.

Dulles has been pressing for early negotiations ever since President Eisenhower proposed, in his Dec. 8 address to the United Nations, that the world unite to strip the atom of "its military casing and adapt it to the arts of peace."

Under the Eisenhower plan, atomic materials and know-how would be pooled for peaceful purposes by the United States, Russia and other nations with a contribution to make. An international agency, under United Nations auspices, would control the pool. The hope is that such international effort might ultimately lead to control of atomic weapons also.

Dulles has said he planned to discuss the idea with Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov at the Berlin conference, originally proposed for Jan. 4. But when the meeting was postponed to Jan. 25, he instructed Charles E. Bohlen, U. S. Ambassador to Moscow, to take it up with Molotov.

Last night's Soviet communique, reporting talks yesterday and last Thursday between Bohlen and Molotov, said Bohlen sought preliminary atom conversations in Washington before Jan. 25 or at Berlin during the foreign ministers' get-together.

At yesterday's meeting, the communique said, Molotov told Bohlen Russia "considers it desirable" to get going and agreed to start in Washington.

Crash of Navy Plane Kills Six

Farmers Rescue Eight From Wrecked Ship in Panama Canal Area

PANAMA, Panama (AP)—Six men were killed and eight injured in the flaming crash of a U.S. Navy photographic plane in a jungle area near the Trans-Isthmian Highway last night. The four-engine plane was bringing a photo reconnaissance platoon to the Canal Zone area from Miramar, Calif.

Capt. William A. Thorn, commanding officer at the Coco Solo Naval Base, announced the casualties. Thorn said it appeared the plane had undershot by 2½ miles its destination—France Air Force Base near Colon, on the Caribbean side of the isthmus.

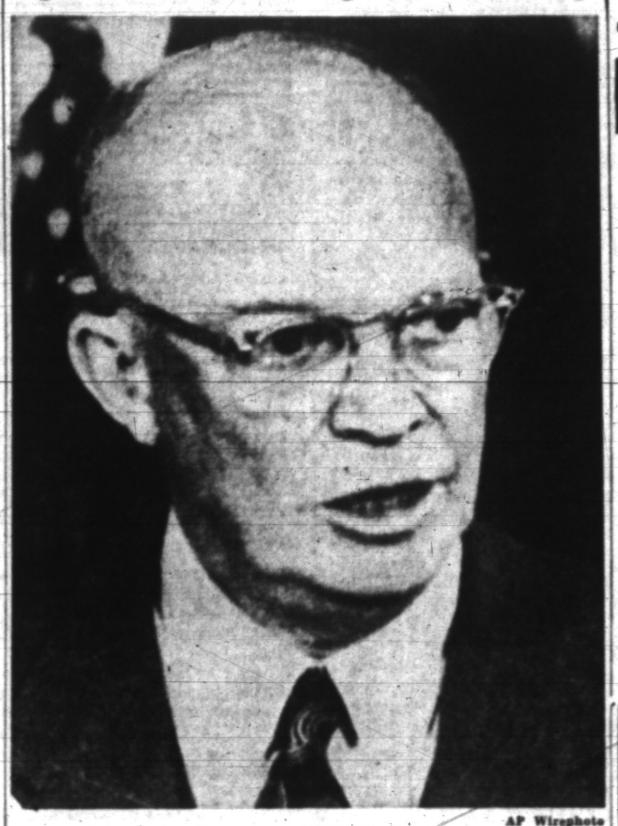

He said Levi Anderson and Janies Hyatt, two farmers living near the crash area, did "heroic service" in dragging several of the injured men to safety from the flaming wreckage. The survivors were taken to Coco Solo Naval Hospital with severe burns.

Names of the casualties were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Others Change Views Too

Senator Reverses Seaway Stand; Will Vote Approval

WASHINGTON (INS) — Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) said today he has reversed his position and will vote to approve the controversial St. Lawrence Seaway.

The disclosure is of interest in view of the fact that the Senate rejected the proposed project by three votes in June 1952—the last time it was considered.

A survey showed that several other 1952 opponents now have an "open mind." Sen. George Aiken (R-Vt), who has campaigned 20 years for the project, predicted there will be enough "switched votes" to make Senate passage "reasonably safe."

Asked about the outcome in the House, Aiken said the result depends on whether Speaker Joseph W. Martin and Majority Leader Charles Halleck (R-Ind), "are good enough party men to push it along."

Martin is a native of Massachusetts where there has been strong opposition to the seaway. But Aiken claimed that sentiment there is shifting.

Aiken said a Southern filibuster would mean that the U.S. would lose control of the project. Canada, he said, will "go it alone" if the bill is defeated.

In the uncommitted category are Sens. Hugh Butler (R-Neb), a 1952 dissenter, Stuart Symington (D-Mo), and Massachusetts' one Republican, Leverett Saltonstall and John F. Kennedy, a Democrat.

Symington replaced Sen. James P. Kemp (R-Mo), another 1952 opponent. Saltonstall has also voted against the measure.

Farmers Mart Opens Saturday

New Co-op Market Site Is on County 4-H Club Grounds Here

The Pontiac area's newly-independent farmers market will open Saturday morning at Oakland County 4-H Fairgrounds, Perry St. at Walton Blvd.

Emmett DeConick of West Bloomfield Township, chairman of Oakland County Cooperative Growers, Inc., said market hours at the fairgrounds will be 7:30 a.m. until 1 p.m. every Saturday until spring.

"When spring produce starts to come in," he said, "we plan to go back to a Tuesday-Thursday-Saturday operation—the same as in the Mill street market."

DeConick said eggs, apples, poultry, flowers, baked goods, cabbages, carrots, potatoes, turnips and other winter produce would be sold.

Some 20 growers who sell farm produce at the market turned out this week to clean the big quonset building and lay out stalls. DeConick says coal-burning stoves will "take the chill off" the building.

Heading the new "co-op" with DeConick is Leroy Currin of Milford, vice chairman. Mrs. Allie Johnston of Oxford is secretary-treasurer.

The farmers formed the "co-op" after Oakland County sold its share in the former market at 40 Mill St. to Pontiac City. City officials are using it for off-street parking. The city and county formerly operated the Mill street market together.

State of Union Message Discloses Budget Slash

Country's Basic Economy Is Healthy, Assures President; Wants Vote at Age 18

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today new tax cuts "can and will be made."

He also told Congress America's defense plans are geared to use of atomic weapons "if they are needed to preserve our freedom."

The President, in his State of the Union message, outlined a program he said would build the military might of the United States, bolster other free nations against communism, and maintain a healthy economy at home.

Proclaiming encouraging developments in the struggle for global peace, Eisenhower said in a 7,000-word address prepared for a joint session of the House and Senate:

"Slowly but surely, the free world gathers strength. Meanwhile from behind the Iron Curtain, there are signs that tyranny is in trouble and reminders that its structure is as brittle as its surface is hard."

In his address to an election year Congress almost evenly divided politically, the President also:

—Prediced a Federal spending budget of about $66,000,000,000 for the fiscal year starting July 1—about 12 billion dollars less than the original Truman administration budget for the current year.

—Called for legislation to strip U. S. citizenship from Communists convicted of conspiring against the government in the future.

—Disclosed that more than 2,200 employes now have been separated from Federal jobs under the Eisenhower administration's new security program. The previous total, announced last Oct. 23, was 1,456.

—Sketched plans to combat any business recession or depression, but again declared the nation's economy is basically sound, and said his administration is determined "to keep it growing."

—Recommended a Constitutional amendment to give American youths the right to vote at 18 years of age instead of 21.

—Declared foreign military aid must be continued, but that economic aid can be cut except in Korea "and a few other critical places."

—Confirmed that the special farm message he will send to Congress Monday will call for a new government price support program "with enough flexibility to attract the production of needed supplies of essential commodities and to stimulate the consumption of those commodities that are flooding American markets."

His support of a flexible price support program was certain to divide farmers as well as Congress members.

—Renewed his appeal for an increase in the federal debt ceiling, now 275 billion dollars. The House approved his request for a 15-billion-dollar hike last August, but the Senate Finance Committee rejected it.

—Urged amendment of the Atomic Energy Act to permit sharing with "our allies certain knowledge of the tactical use of our nuclear weapons."

—Announced that during the next fiscal year the U. S. will

GOP Leaders Laud Ike Talk, but Dems Cool

WASHINGTON (INS) — Republicans warmly praised the program set forth in President Eisenhower's State of the Union message today but Democrats showed little enthusiasm.

The chief executive's call for a delay in excise and corporation tax cuts won general bipartisan approval, but there was sharp division on his proposal for flexible farm price supports.

Chairman Daniel A. Reed (R-NY) of the House Ways and Means Committee, who battled the President on tax issues at the last session, displayed a conciliatory attitude on the request for extension of present excise and corporation levies.

Reed said the matter "will receive the attention of our committee as soon as its work on the tax revision program permits. I am encouraged that the President has held out hope for further reductions in taxes. The load must be lightened if we are to preserve a strong and dynamic economy."

Rep. Carl Vinson (D-Ga), ranking minority member of the House Armed Services Committee, took issue with the President's proposal to bolster air power at the expense of ground forces.

Vinson said: "This country cannot be properly defended by air and naval power alone. I am afraid the administration is embarking on an economy program with the objective of balancing the budget at the expense of a well-balanced defense program, by making too drastic a cut in the ground forces."

GOP leaders predicted enactment of most of Eisenhower's recommendations, but House

Doctor Massages Heart to Keep City Woman Alive

A 42-year-old Pontiac woman was kept alive by heart massages after her heart stopped beating three times Tuesday during an operation at an osteopathic clinic at 32 Auburn Ave.

Chief nurse, Mrs. George Lintz, said the patient, Mrs. Ernest Lilge of 1450 Otter Dr., is progressing well after Dr. B. F. Dickinson of Royal Oak interrupted a gall bladder operation to massage the heart at intervals during a half-hour period.

The operation requiring the heart massages came to light late yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Lilge is reported in fair condition today.

Dr. Dickinson, who said he has kept up with latest reports of artificial heart stimulations, started massaging the patient's heart immediately after it stopped beating.

The first attempts, said Dr. Dickinson, failed to revive the woman for more than a few minutes. The heart was massaged for two minutes each time.

While Dr. Dickinson was making the final attempt, his assistant summoned the Pontiac Fire Department for a resuscitator.

"When finally Mrs. Lilge's heart assumed normal rhythm, the resuscitator was applied," Dr. Dickinson said.

Fire department officials said that 9,000 pounds of oxygen were used for one hour.

Dr. Dickinson, who was assisted by Dr. M. C. Worster of Pontiac, said he reached the heart through a surgical opening in the left ribs. He explained that new anesthetics make heart massages possible during operations.

3 Missing Servicemen From County Among 38 Listed as 'Presumed Dead'

Sgt. Depki was reported missing in action in January 1951, but his family still holds out hope that he

In a letter written only days before his disappearance Sgt. Depki told his family he was eligible for rotation but that most of his company had been wiped out in the early phases of the war and company records were scrambled.

He joined the Michigan National Guard in Detroit while attending Western High School and planned to make the army his career.

Surviving are his parents and one sister, Mrs. Aryel Zalewski of 7616 Arcola, Detroit.

Cpl. Riddle joined the army in March of 1950 and was sent to Japan in July 1950. He arrived in Korea in September of the same year and was reported missing in action in December.

He was with Co. A, 32nd Infantry regiment of the 7th Division. Shortly before his disappearance he was awarded the combat infantryman's badge for

Birmingham Youth Group Will Peddle Polio Dimes on Street Saturday Jan. 16

BIRMINGHAM—The local battle against crippling infantile paralysis which struck down eight residents during 1953 is well under way.

Monday night members of the Birmingham Youth Council sold a "Fighting Dime" to Mayor Ralph Main, and secured approval to conduct an all-day street sale Saturday, Jan. 16.

The ten-cent piece enclosed in copper will be hawked by Youth Council members that day as their contribution toward the $75,000,000 sought nationally to fight the disease.

A Mother's March on Polio will be conducted Jan. 28, with city mothers seeking contributions to the drive. Mrs. Ralph Moxley is in charge of this project, and John B. Taylor is the Birmingham chairman for the March of Dimes.

"Because of the current popular interest in the charity racket's quiz," states Taylor, "we should like to make clear to the citizens of Birmingham that this campaign is conducted solely by volunteers and not by professional collectors."

In the search for preventive measures, $26,000,000 is being sought for research on gamma globulin vaccine, which will be tested on some 1,200,000 second grade children beginning Feb. 8.

1953 Birmingham Fire Loss $251,200

BIRMINGHAM — Fire losses for 1953 were estimated at $251,200 by Fire Chief V. W. Griffith yesterday, with insurance paid estimated at $226,665.

Most of the year's loss took place at two major fires, the spectacular $150,000 Lawson Lumber Yard fire Feb. 14, and the $80,000 blaze at the St. James Church July 29.

Insurance lagged almost $2,000,000 behind the value of property endangered by fire, according to Griffith's report. He estimated the total insurance carried on property endangered at $6,719,000, while $8,419,575 worth of property was endangered.

In 1952, the fire loss was estimated at $7,708 or $0.37 per capita, based on a 21,000 population figure. The per capita loss this past year, based on a 22,000 population, is $11.42.

possible to determine how many workers would lose their jobs if the cutbacks take effect. A continued high rate of civilian production would absorb many of the workers, they indicated.

In addition to the four companies, many supplier plants would be affected by the cutbacks.

Stevens said the contemplated cutbacks were necessary because of a reduction in the size of the armed forces.

A pending reduction in the size of the Armed forces by 500,000 was announced yesterday.

Other Army spokesmen said the contemplated reduction in vehicle production follows the end of the shooting war in Korea and a lesser need for tactical vehicles.

Ferguson said he was not taking the position that military economies which are justified should be ignored solely to maintain contracts in Michigan.

"I am most anxious to make sure that the effects of any cutbacks are distributed equally throughout the nation and not concentrated in my home state," he said.

GOP Leaders Laud Ike Talk; Dems Cool

Congressional comment included:

House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck, Ind. — "The President outlined a program geared to the hopes and aspirations of the American people for a prosperity based on peace instead of war. This program will enlist the support of members of both parties because it is clearly in the best interests of the nation."

House Majority Whip Leslie Arends (R-Ill) — "With his customary frankness, honesty and sincerity, he presented the outline of a program designed to favor no special group or interest but to promote the welfare of all the 160 million American citizens."

House Minority Whip John W. McCormack (D-Mass) — "It's not what is proposed but what is accomplished that is important. One thing is certain that so far as accomplishments are concerned, the Democratic Party is the party of responsibility. President Eisenhower and the people cannot look toward the Republican Party because it is badly split."

'Our Town '54' Topic for Panel

Fair Employment and Housing in Pontiac Are Subjects at Temple

Program for the fireside gathering at Temple Beth Jacob Friday at 9:15 p.m. will consist of a panel discussion. This informal gathering will follow the Sabbath Eve service at 8:15 p.m.

The group will discuss the progress being made in fair employment practices, and housing in Pontiac. It has chosen "Our Town 1954" for the topic.

On the panel will be Everett C. Spurlock of the Urban League of Pontiac, Ralph T. Norvell, who for the past year has been chairman of the Pontiac FEPC Committee, and Mrs. John D. Monroe a member of the housing committee and a director of the Urban League auxiliary.

Moderating the discussion will be Rabbi Sanford E. Saperstein, spiritual leader of the Congregation.

This is another in a series of such meetings held periodically after Friday services. They deal with cultural topics and social issues.

The rabbi pointed out that the discussion of social issues by a religious institution is appropriate because each person must try to live up to the ethical and moral challenge of his faith.

He must do this by paying attention religiously to every problem facing our nation and the world, so long as that problem contains such issues.

He said, "Judiasm has insisted that we apply constantly the ethical incites of the prophets to the special problems of our generation just as we do to our personal lives."

law. The hearings partly ripped the mask off labor racketeering in Detroit.

The committee heard how Perrone, nearly illiterate as a witness, had a $100,000-a-year contract with Briggs Manufacturing Co. to haul scrap metal away from the company. The contract was terminated by Briggs shortly after the committee hearings.

The Detroit Times said today the prosecution will attempt to prove that the conspiracy to kill Reuther, then president of the CIO United Auto Workers, had two motives.

One motive involved an attempt by gamblers to control numbers and horse betting in all automobile plants, and the other involving labor disputes.

The Times said it will be contended that some of the alleged conspirators were in the plot for one motive and some for the other.

Perrone vanished from his fashionable home in suburban Grosse Pointe Shores eight hours before police began their search to arrest him.

Accused with him were his college-educated son-in-law, Carl Renda, 35, also a fortune hunter in scrap metal; Peter Lombardo, 51, inmate of Leavenworth Penitentiary as a carrier of counterfeit money, and Clarence Jacobs, 48, Tecumseh, Ont., television shop owner once involved in alleged alien smuggling.

The formal charges said the four men—and four "John Does"—did "feloniously, wickedly and with malice aforethought" try to kill Reuther at his home the night of April 20, 1948. A shotgun charge was fired at Reuther through his kitchen window.

The next year a similar attempt was made on the life of Victor Reuther, a co-official in the CIO president's Auto Workers Union.

Rewards totaling more than $200,000 are outstanding in both incidents.

Renda and Jacobs were arraigned on the charges yesterday —the former in Detroit and the latter in Windsor, Ont. Renda supplied $25,000 bond for his release pending examination Jan. 14. Jacobs was remanded to jail without bond.

Meantime, Wayne County Prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien said flatly, "we definitely have a motive." But he refused to disclose it.

O'Brien also said he did not know whether the Walter and Victor shootings had any connection.

In the Essex County Court at Windsor a letter from O'Brien was read which said "Jacobs participated in the actual shooting (of Walter)."

Later O'Brien said, however, that he did not mean that Jacobs was the triggerman. He refused to say exactly what he did mean.

Jacobs pleaded ignorance of anything concerned with the case. He was arraigned on Canadian extradition charges [illegible] to an international extradition hearing Jan. 14.

Motorist Fined $60

BIRMINGHAM — Clifford John Culver, 43, of 8247 Vassar, Mt. Morris, was found guilty of reckless driving by Justice of the Peace John J. Gafill yesterday, and paid a fine of $50 plus $10 costs.

President's Message Assuring on Defense

—Called again for expansion of the social security program to cover 10 million more Americans, and for a substantial increase in benefits.

—Urged extension of unemployment compensation to 6½ million workers not now covered.

* * *

—Described the controversial Taft-Hartley Labor Law as "basically sound" but in need of improvements he will recommend in a special message Monday.

* * *

—Advocated a system of "limited government reinsurance service" to permit private and nonprofit hospital and medical insurance companies now operating to offer "broader protection to more of the many families which want and should have it." He promised to elaborate in a special message Jan. 18.

* * *

—Appealed again for Congressional approval of the St. Lawrence Seaway as vital to national security.

* * *

Eisenhower went before the legislators just 24 hours after opening of the second session of the 83rd Congress.

His message, carried to the nation by television and radio, came at the start of a political year which will be climaxed by the November Congressional elections.

Republicans now hold only a slim margin of control at the Capitol and the Democrats are hopeful they can slip into the saddle. Meanwhile, the administration must win some degree of support from the Democrats for any success in putting through the program Eisenhower said has one objective —"The building of a stronger America."

He told the legislators he believes "both of our great parties" can back it.

As for tax cuts in addition to the income tax reductions and expiration of the excess profits levy which were effective Jan. 1, the President said:

"As additional reductions in expenditures are brought gradually but surely into sight, further reductions in taxes can and will be made."

* * *

At another point, he declared: "Despite the substantial loss of revenue in the coming fiscal year, resulting from (Jan. 1) tax reduction now in effect and tax adjustments which I shall propose, our reduced spending will move the new budget closer to a balance."

* * *

The President said the tax revision program will be set forth in detail in his Jan. 21 budget message. Informed sources have predicted cuts totaling about 1½ billion dollars annually.

* * *

Calling today for a thorough revision of the entire tax structure, Eisenhower declared:

"We should now remove the more glaring tax inequities, particularly on small taxpayers; reduce restraints on the growth of small business; and make other changes that will encourage initiative, enterprise and production."

On the other side of the picture, however, the President said again that corporation income taxes should be kept at the current rate of 52 per cent for another year instead of being allowed to drop to 47, and that excise taxes on such items as liquor, tobacco, gasoline and automobiles—also scheduled for an April 1 cut—should be maintained at prevailing rates.

* * *

On the foreign policy and national defense fronts, where Eisenhower already has made an open bid for cooperation from the Democrats, he said America has gained the initiative during the last year in the struggle against communism—and means to keep it.

* * *

"American freedom," he declared, "is threatened so long as the world Communist conspiracy exists in its present scope, power and hostility."

Referring to his Dec. 8 United Nations speech calling on Russia to join with the U. S. and other atomic powers in creation of an international atomic pool for peaceful use, the President said:

* * *

"A truly constructive Soviet reaction will make possible a new start toward an era of peace, and away from the fatal road toward atomic war."

* * *

In his prepared text, Eisenhower took no note of Moscow's announcement last night of willingness to join the United States in discussion of the President's proposal in Washington.

Today's message was in three main sections dealing with protection of "the freedom of our people," maintenance of a strong, growing economy, and "the human problems of the individual citizen."

In the first section the President reviewed the world situation and found it encouraging. He said the United States is prepared to meet any renewal of armed aggression in Korea, that American bases in Okinawa will be maintained indefinitely, and that he will ask Congress to authorize "continued military assistance" to Indochina.

"We also shall continue military and economic aid to the Nationalist government of China," he said.

* * *

Eisenhower's demand that convicted conspirators against the government forfeit their U.S. citizenship was aimed squarely at the Communists.

"The subversive character of the Communist party in the United States has been clearly demonstrated in many ways, including court proceedings," he said.

The President said Atty. Gen. Brownell soon will go before Congressional committees to recommend "needed additional weapons with which to combat subversion . . ."

In that section of the message dealing with the administration's determination to sustain prosperity, Eisenhower — in what appeared to be an oblique allusion to increased unemployment — declared:

* * *

"At this moment, we are in a transition from a wartime to a peacetime economy. I am confident that we can complete this transition without serious interruption in our economic growth.

* * *

"But we shall not leave this vital matter to chance. Economic preparedness is fully as important to the nation as military preparedness."

Hadley Child Loses Life in Highchair

LAPEER (AP)—The 20 months-old-son of Mrs. Henry Reppuhn, of Hadley village, died of strangulation today when he slipped in a highchair and caught his neck on the chair tray.

Mrs. Reppuhn told Coroner Henry Merz she left the infant unattended in the highchair for 10 minutes while she fed chickens in the backyard. When she returned, she found the infant unconscious.

Maid of Cotton Is 20-Year-Old El Paso Girl

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—A demure Texas college lass won the annual Maid of Cotton contest last night, topping 19 other beauties from the 12-state "Cotton Kingdom."

The new maid is Beverly Louise Pack of El Paso, a junior and "most beautiful girl" at Texas Western. She's the third Lone Star State entry to win the title in the past four years.

The blue-eyed brownette, who hopes to teach modern dance after graduation, was visibly shocked by the judges announcement. "I just don't know what to say," cried the willowy 20-year-old.

* * *

Alabama's Hope White, of Uniontown, was chosen first alternate. And Missouri's Martha Garner, of Poplar Bluff, No. 3.

Miss Pack stands 5 feet 5½, weighs 118. More intimate measurements are not made public in this sedate contest, which frowns on such standard procedures as swim suit parades.

The winner is chosen for beauty, poise, personality and family background—in more or less equa parts.

Her prize: A wardrobe especially designed by top names in the fashion field, a six-month tour of the United States, England, France and Germany, and a convertible auto.

The tour starts as soon as Miss Pack is outfitted in New York and completes a "cram course" in modeling technique. She'll leave for New York in a couple of days.

She's sure it will be great fun. "I'll love every minute of it," she said. "It's like something you dream of."

Petroleum companies produced and delivered a record of 136.5 billion gallons of gasoline during 1952 to set an all-time industrial record.

Alarm Is Bypassed

STEVENS POINT, Wis. (AP)—After two burglaries, management of the Copps Co. rural grocery store, wired all doors and windows with a new alarm system. In a third burglary nearly $4,000 was stolen. The alarm system was bypassed when the thieves chopped a hole in the roof and lowered themselves into the store.

Theater Manager Beaten and Robbed

Arthur H. Sanford, manager of the Oakland Theater, was beaten up and robbed Tuesday night in Detroit as he was driving home from a business meeting.

Sanford said three men jumped in his car when he stopped for a red light on Woodward near Alexandrine and forced him to drive onto a side street.

There they frisked him at knifepoint and took his wallet containing about $50, a watch, a ring and a ruby tie clip.

Boston U. Fires Suspected Red

Professor Was Linked to Commie Spy Ring by FBI Report

BOSTON (AP)—Boston University has fired Prof. Maurice Halperin, who was named last November in an FBI report as a link in a Communist espionage ring in high U.S. government circles.

The university announcement said yesterday that Halperin was dismissed "for the good of Boston University" after he failed several times to appear before a school review board assigned to consider his "fitness to teach."

Reached by telephone in Mexico City, where he went late in November, Halperin told the Boston Herald:

"It is very much to be regretted that Boston University has succumbed to the ways of hysteria, manipulated by unscrupulous politicians. It has done a disservice to its own good name and to the cause of academic freedom."

Halperin said he went to Mexico "because my wife has been ill because of the pressures." His wife, Edith, is on leave of absence from the Brookline school system.

The 47-year-old fired director of BU's Latin American regional studies has been under suspension since Nov. 18, the day after his name was read from an FBI report by Atty. Gen. Brownell before the Senate (Jenner) iternal security subcommittee in Washington.

The FBI report listed Halperin as one of several one-time government officials who were "participants in this (spy) operation or were utilized by principals in this ring for the purpose of obtaining data in which the Soviet is interested."

Halperin held government posts in the Office of Strategic Services, the State Department and the United Nations.

Fire losses in the U. S. in 1953 may exceed the $1 billion mark, the highest rate in the nation's history.

Social Security Growth

Year end reports reveal the increasingly important place of Social Security benefits in the economic life of the home community and the Nation at large.

Last month in Oakland County, according to Rex A. C. Atwood, manager of the local office, 14,138 persons were receiving Old Age and Survivors insurance (Social Security) benefits. Monthly total of these payments is $688,041.

At the end of December the average monthly payments, according to figures released in Washington, were $49 for a single person, $84.75 for a retired man and wife and $111 for a widowed mother with two minor children.

The number of Social Security recipients, including those in Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, has reached 5,970,000, a 1953 increase of 1,000,000.

It is worth noting that about 40 per cent of all persons over 65 who are without income from employment or self-employment, are now getting Social Security checks.

Another significant development was noted in a report by Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. It showed that for the first time since the system was inaugurated more Americans were receiving Social Security benefits than are getting direct cash relief.

It is Mrs. Hobby's opinion that the expansion of the system as proposed by President Eisenhower, will reduce further the need for public assistance in the years ahead.

That, we believe, is a consideration to which both chambers will give due weight when the Administration Social Security bill reaches the debate stage.

Ceylon Snubs Peiping

Some good news for the free world has come from the tiny independent island state of Ceylon in the Indian Ocean.

This news is the more welcome because it has the reverse psychological effect of Ceylon's rice and rubber deal with Red China last year.

Then the island government decided to sell its raw rubber to Peiping instead of the United States for two reasons. One was the higher price offered by Red China and the other that Peiping could make payment in rice desperately needed to feed the people of Ceylon.

This made the Chinese think that Ceylon's government was sympathetic toward Communism. As a result Peiping proposed to send a trade mission to Colombo. Then came the surprise brushoff straight from Prime Minister Kotalawala.

"We sell you rubber and you sell us rice in return," his statement said. "Ceylon does not have any other friendship or dealing with Communist China, nor does she want it."

Talk like this should end all doubt as to where Ceylon stands in the cold war.

Magsaysay's Big Task

Filipinos, having elected Raymon Magsaysay their new President, are looking forward eagerly to many long overdue reforms.

In that expectation and the difficulty of even half fulfilling it, lies the greatest danger confronting the islands' new government.

Veteran observers point out that Magsaysay, hero of the successful war against the Communist Huks, was elected because the people believe him capable of wiping out feudalism and corruption. Equally serious evils are bribery, official and private greed, usury, tax dodging, land grabbing and poverty.

It is true that American influence has helped establish new standards in health, education and politics. Also true is that all this has had little effect on the feudal economic system and the poverty it has imposed on the masses of the people in a rich agricultural land.

No well informed observer could expect the new President to eliminate over night a system that has existed longer than anyone now living can remember. But there are factors which should help him considerably. Among them is the spadework done by previous governments under U. S. prodding toward collection of income taxes, curbing usury and giving land to the landless.

Even more important are Magsaysay's determination to do everything he can for his people and his administrative ability. In addition, the new President will need the united support of the people if this young republic is to reap the full benefits of its natural resources.

Backer of Socialism Says Nothing Can Halt It, Not Even a Cold War With Reds

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests, unless the letter is critical in its nature.)

It's being asked everywhere how long is this cold propaganda war between capitalism and socialism going to last?

It will last as long as we still have our exploitive capitalistic monopolies. Until the monopolies are socialized and made to serve the public without exploiting it. Until only competitive businesses are left to free and private enterprise.

Just how the monopolies, as land, natural resources, public utilities, etc., will be socialized, the public will decide when it is aroused enough to do it.

Until then, nothing is going to stop educational socialistic propaganda and the cold war will still be on.

Must Consider God if We Are to Gain Peace

As we enter into a new year our prayers and hopes are foremost of all for peace. Peace and goodwill among men and therefore among nations. Not the man-made peace with China or Russia.

I say man-made when only politicians and dictators are involved, but to gain this peace we here in America and part of Europe must invite and include God and Christ, the Prince and creator of real peace into these meetings.

But, will our peacemakers have the courage to stand up for the Prince of Peace at these meetings with Russia? Would they humble themselves before God rather than men . . . especially Russia?

God gives a stern warning to the U. S. "For when they, the nations, shall say peace and safety . . . then sudden destruction cometh upon them as travail upon a woman with child and they shall not escape!"

Before leaving this world our Lord said to His disciples, "My peace leave I with you, not as the world giveth, but as I give."

That's Different

David Lawrence Says:

Items Like Rubber Now Sold to Soviet; Why, oh Why This Surrender to Reds?

WASHINGTON — For five months now the United States has been appeasing Communist Russia without letting the American people know the facts.

The Soviet government has known that a gradual relaxation in shipment of strategic articles for use behind the Iron Curtain has been going on — but the people of this country have been kept in the dark.

Secret diplomacy usually arises because of a fear that to tell the people the truth will bring restraints on the policy adopted.

In this case, there is no evidence that the United States ever got anything in return for the valuable concessions made to the Communists.

For the last few months America publicly has been in the position of begging the Communists, in vain, to set a time and date for a peace conference to settle the Korean problem.

Several hundred American boys have been held as prisoners, despite the terms of the armistice providing for their return. Yet important concessions have been made which allow Russia to build up her armament for World War III.

The official facts now indicate that British diplomacy has won one of its biggest triumphs.

This correspondent wrote on Dec. 23 calling attention to a British government public statement that the embargo on trade with the Communists on strategic articles was being relaxed.

In that dispatch, the British were accused of defying the United States Congress.

But apologies are due, for it turns out that the London government had the secret approval of the United States government, permitting her to engage in the enlarged trade in strategic items with Red China and Communist Russia.

The new policy, it now is officially conceded by the Foreign Operations Administration here, began to go into effect by degrees five months ago.

It is disclosed also that there have been continuous conferences with congressional staff members on it and that there were varying reactions from certain members of Congress.

Whoever these members were, they did not see fit to enlighten the American people, though, of course, Moscow and Peiping knew all the time the items of trade that were being sanctioned.

Under the new policy, for instance, rubber has been taken off the "strategic" list. In both World War I and World War II rubber was so considered.

Evidently it doesn't matter to the Eisenhower administration if rubber is exported for the trucks that carry ammunition to kill American boys in Korea or in countries where the Communists may resume their aggression.

Evidently rubber for the tires of the MIGs and the bombers that constitute the Communist air force is not to be considered "strategic" any more, just because there's money to be made in it among the British colonial possessions.

It would be safer for the American government to buy and stockpile such rubber to keep it out of the hands of the Communists.

The other "strategic" items now being allowed have not been made public, but it is admitted that the list has been contracted, while the list of so-called "non-strategic" items has been expanded.

The argument is made here that a stricter control is being exercised now over the items that remain on the "strategic" list and that other nations have agreed to these controls.

It is also contended by the Foreign Operations Administration that the Russians lately have been compelled to ship out gold to get foreign exchange with which to buy needed articles. It is pointed out that this shows how the embargo has been pinching.

But there is no explanation as to why, when an embargo is becoming effective, it is suddenly decided to relax it. What did the United States and the Western countries get by way of concessions from the Communists, if anything?

The four-power conference is about to start in Berlin, but the Allies have been throwing away their economic leverage. Today the Communists know the West will not use military power to gain its ends, and, since the West is forfeiting its economic trump cards, there seems no logical reason why the Communists should not continue to act arrogantly and to prosecute their "cold war" tactics throughout the world.

Case Records of a Psychologist

Says Tobacco Has Bad Effect on Your Blood

Jesus said that anybody who places a stumbling block in front of youth is so evil he should be drowned with a millstone tied around his neck. Are you setting a bad example before your children and the other youngsters in your block? Face some of these daily moral issues and help young men like Ronald, instead of confusing them.

By DR. GEORGE. W. CRANE

Case J-388: Ronald F., aged 16, is a newspaper carrier.

"Dr. Crane, I've carried a paper route for two years and now I have over $500 in the bank to help me go to college.

"I think newspaper boys resist the stampede by tobacco and liquor advertisers better than the average high school kid.

"For we are independent merchants. We earn our own money. We learn to analyze people and think for ourselves. So we are not the drifters who act like sheep.

"But what can I say to defend my not smoking or drinking, especially when other kids argue 'Why make a fuss about it? What harm can it do?'

"I'd like some good scientific arguments about tobacco and liquor to help defend my side of the question."

Nowadays tobacco costs the average cigaret smoker $90 per year. This money is burnt up on the end of the cigarets.

The use of tobacco, unlike liquor, doesn't predispose you to auto accidents. It doesn't fog your memory until you can't study or remember school data.

But it does increase the carbon monoxide content of your blood thus reducing your "wind" for athletics.

It is also regarded as a leading cause for cancer of the mouth, throat and lungs.

It damages the heart and raises blood pressure, which is why doctors invariably try to take their heart patients off tobacco.

It also fouls your breath and reduces your "kiss appeal."

Its use also advertises the fact that you blindly follow social pace-setters and haven't a mind of your own. That you are a social sheep who acts by impulse instead of logic.

Alcohol is far worse than tobacco, for each drink reduces your ability to think, so it is easier to take the second and third, etc.

Soda pop, candy bars and even cigarets don't do this. If you eat six candy bars in a row, you are still a rational person.

But even the first sip of alcohol starts slowing down your reaction time. And that makes you a greater hazard as an auto driver or operator of a factory machine.

It isn't the drunken drivers, moreover, who are the greatest danger on the highways, but the guys with just one beer. Ostensibly sober, they are slower in their motions and more careless.

With the reduction in mentality during a drinking spree, a person becomes child-like, so he can be "pumped" for secret information or led into immorality, which is why so much delinquency is associated with the liquor glass.

Morality is simply a field of social architecture where we lay down the blueprints for good character.

And there must be definite limits, not only for the size of a house and its foundations, but also for the proper construction of a personality.

That which does the most good for the most people over the longest period of time, is automatically moral.

Liquor and tobacco do not do the most good for the most people over the longest period of time. Therefore, they are wrong.

Economically, they violate that yardstick. Medically, they violate it. Psychologically, they violate it. So they are harmful, despite the fact many supposedly good people have been stampeded into using them.

Applications for Grover Whalen's greeting sinecure form on the right. Grover held the job down for 35 years. The job did the same for him.

There is no salary implicated with the job. Grover came through all investigations with flying vacuums.

There are some emoluments and appurtenances. The official greeter is permitted to keep all the links he can shake out of the other fellow's cuffs.

Spats and cane are optional but the gardenia in the lapel is a must. The smile cannot be acquired. You must be born with a silver glove-stretcher in your mouth.

Some of Grover's greatest triumphs were on the spur of the invitation, Gertrude Ederle, Lindbergh, Rickenbacker, Pershing, MacArthur, Eisenhower, the Dukathlon for Windsor, Churchill and a guy who just happened to be walking by on a rainy day.

The position entails great responsibility as far as the wrist. The guest of the flashlights is given the freedom of the city. Subject to no parking signs, white lines, traffic lights, rent laws, impairing the drinking habits of committees, building restrictions, long waiting lists, no jaywalking and that's where you came in.

So you can see what a beautiful job it is for a young man with no future.

Grover offered to break me in as a summer replacement. But a gardenia doesn't look right in my lapel unless I lay down.

Adequate Daily Iodin Food Ration Fine; Too Much as Medicine Is Not So Good

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

A friend has given her son, now 16 years old, one drop of iodine in a drop of water once a week over a period of 3 years to make him grow. He was five feet tall at the age of 13. He is now 5 feet 7 inches tall . . . She advises me to do the same for my son . . . (Mrs. A. A.)

There ars many liquid forms of Iodin (iodine is an older spelling) or Iodide (compound of Iodin with another element, such as iodide of potash, iodide of sodium). So "a drop of iodine" is a vague uncertain quantity.

However, it is most probable that the boy got no more than he, and every other growing boy or girl, needs to maintain optimal nutrition.

R. D. L., attorney, writes:

Years ago, traveling through Ireland, I often observed jaunting carts put to sea on receding tides to harvest seaweed for the manufacture of iodine. The people advised me that a daily ration of iodine would preserve me in the best of health — and it has done just that.

For more than twenty years past I have taken daily, with few exceptions — three drops of U. S. P. tincture of iodine in fruit juice, milk or water. I not only enjoy excellent health but I look, feel and can work or play like a man of forty, although I am sixty-four.

In twenty years the strength of U. S. P. Tincture of Iodine has been changed twice — for what reason heaven knows — perhaps the doctors and druggists and teachers who revise the Pharmacopoeia wanted to keep everybody confused.

Even so, the attorney probably didn't get more iodin than he needed. At least he mentions no trouble such as too much medicinal iodine or iodide might cause.

But it is useless for people to ask me whether I approve their practice of taking this or that dose of iodine or iodide at this or that interval. That's a question to submit to one's physician.

I recommend only an adequate daily ration of iodin for every man, woman and child. This can't do any harm.

For [illegible] daily ration of iodin send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for the pamphlet the Iodin Ration.

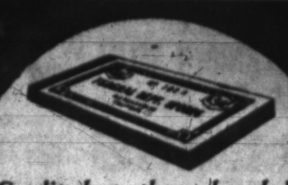

A little iodin is good for everybody, but if you choose to take more than a little you must do so at your own peril.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

Rainskirt Latest Gadget

NEW YORK (UP)—The newest item in rainwear starts clothing protection where the umbrella leaves off. A Manhattan firm (Jence Lowry Creations, 1658 Broadway) is making a clear plastic wrap-around skirt to shield the lower part of the body from rain. The skirt, which slips around regular clothing, is impervious also to oil, grease, and common chemicals.

Save Time for Loafing

LINCOLN, Neb. (UP) — A few minutes of morning planning for household chores will save time and energy throughout the day, says one home management authority. Clara Leopold of the University of Nebraska Extension Service says the few minutes should be devoted to organizing work, and also scheduling a definite time for loafing. Several short rest periods are better than one long one.

More than half the employed women in the U. S. are married.

Has Rude Awakening

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UP) — Gilbert Martin, 50, couldn't explain to police here recently how he and his pickup truck ended up submerged in the Cumberland river. "I knew the river was there," he said, "But I just wasn't paying attention."

More Research Essential in Cigarette-Cancer Issue

Editor's Note: Is there a link between cigarettes and lung cancer? What are the essential known facts as of today? INS science writer John Geiger has watched the cigarette-and-cancer controversy grow for five years—and interviewed the scientists and reported their findings, pro and con, as they appeared. The following article is the first of a series of three on what science really knows about smoking and lung cancer.

By JOHN GEIGER

NEW YORK (INS) — No one can say—for certain—that where there's smoke, there's cancer.

No one can say—for certain—that there isn't.

For every scientist who is convinced that tobacco and lung cancer are related, there is at least one other who is certain they are not. For every experiment showing a link, there is another showing none.

The American Cancer Society estimates that some 22,000 Americans alive today will be dead—of lung cancer—on Jan. 6, 1955.

On the basis of past statistical studies, some of them will come from the ranks of the 56 million Americans who now smoke 400 billion cigarettes a year. Some will be non-smokers. Most will be men. There will probably be—as in the past—more big-city victims than farmers.

But the significance of the findings—always the crucial question in science—is open to dispute.

The really serious point is that there probably will be more lung cancer victims in 1954 than there were in 1953—because this deadly form of a deadly disease has been on a rampaging upswing for 20 solid years. The curve still points upward. No one knows why, and 95 of every 100 victims die.

This is the urgency that makes New Orleans' Dr. Alton Ochsner and St. Louis' Dr. Evarts Graham—two of America's greatest lung surgeons, who struggle daily with lung cancer's ravages and see more tragedy than hope—state flatly that cigarette smoking is linked to the disease.

The same urgency was expressed by the World Health Organization in a resolution it adopted claiming that the link has, for all practical purposes, been proved.

These scientists—and their reports—have drawn most attention in recent months. But theirs is a minority report. On the other extreme, some researchers say there is no evidence at all of a cigarette-and-cancer connection. But most scientists agree with the American Cancer Society's Director of Statistical Research, E. Cuyler Hammond, who said recently:

"The evidence is circumstantial, of a type which should lead to suspicion but not to conviction. It does, as it were, place the suspect on the scene where he could have committed the crime but it does not prove that he did so.

"Furthermore, there is the indisputable fact that the millions of people who smoke like the proverbial chimney haven't got cancer and show no signs of it.

There is evidence on the cancer-and-cigarette question from all over the world, but it is all basically of just two kinds.

One is based on animal experiments—chiefly on mice—in which the effects of cigarette tars, extracted from the smoke of dozens of cigarettes consumed by automatic smoking machines, were examined.

The other is based on statistical surveys of the smoking habits of lung cancer victims.

In the view of most scientists there are gaping holes and obvious contradictions in both sets of evidence, and only one thing is clear: More research is necessary.

Pesky Squirrels Driving Town's Citizens 'Nuts'

JENKINTOWN, Pa. (INS) — The squirrel population of Jenkintown is driving the civilian population "nuts."

The city council devoted the bulk of a recent meeting to discussing the bushy-tailed animals and decided to ask the Pennsylvania Game Commission to "conduct a campaign to extinguish the squirrels."

Police Chief Frank A. Sweeney hinted that citizens might take the law into their own hands to combat the menace.

City Councilman A. J. Miller passed along the tip that the nuisance in his immediate neighborhood is kept at a minimum by the marksmanship of Donald M. Steele, a former captain of the University of Pennsylvania rifle team.

Citizens voicing complaints said the squirrels destroy thousands of dollars worth of furniture and outside awnings each year and annoy home-owners by peeping in windows.

Rail Signal Set for Sylvan Lake

State Will Finance New Train Warning System on Orchard Lake Rd.

Traffic warning signal changes to increase safety at the Grand Trunk Western Railroad crossong on Orchard Lake road in Sylvan Lake are nearing realization.

A letter from the State Highway Department received by Syl-Van Lake City Manager Ernest Ethier indicates the state will finance changes from a two to a three-circuit signal system.

After the Grand Trunk submits plans for alterations, the state said it will give the railroad a contract to make the conversion, Ethier explained.

Plans call for widening the road at the intersection and changes in the flasher system, Ethier stated giving motorists earlier warning of trains involved in switching operations.

Ethier requested the move after a motorist was killed Sept. 25 at the crossing in a collision with a switch engine.

Congress Lists Big Problems, Many of 'em

WASHINGTON (UP) — The big issues before the second session of the 83rd Congress:

Taxes—President Eisenhower expected to recommend to Congress that it keep tax rates at about where they are now; House Ways and Means Committee to go to work next week on a general tax revision bill that would mean some new tax cuts; administration expected to resist pressure from some members of Congress for another individual income tax cut.

Farm—Eisenhower planning to submit a special message to Congress Monday outlining a modified new agriculture program; present price support law on six basic commodities expires at end of this year; farm state congressmen expect existing law to be extended without much change, regardless of administration recommendations.

Taft-Hartley — Eisenhower planning to submit recommendations in special message Monday; many congressmen expect this to be a particularly controversial issue in this election year; Eisenhower expected to urge some changes advocated by labor, and others advocated by employers.

Social Security—Eisenhower expected to renew his recommendation of last year for broader old age insurance coverage; many congressmen also favor increasing benefits, which Eisenhower may recommend; some congressional sentiment for a minimum $45 a month pension to cover all over age 65, but most members expect this plan to get nowhere.

Trade—Present reciprocal trade agreements law expires June 12; Republicans split on question of whether higher tariffs on many items are in order to protect domestic industry; Eisenhower awaiting recommendations of study commission before making his recommendation on foreign trade.

Budget—Eisenhower planning to submit federal spending program for fiscal 1955 to Congress Jan. 21; Administration reportedly has abandoned plans for balanced budget in next fiscal year.

Foreign aid—Administration expected to recommend continuance of foreign aid program for another year, but on a reduced scale and with emphasis on military assistance.

Exterminator Needed

SALT LAKE CITY (UP)—After a defense attorney had dismissed eight prospective jurors for a recent trial in Federal Court here, the ninth was questioned and gave his occupation as exterminator. "Well," commented Judge Willis W. Ritter, "just what we need at this stage of the game."

A pound of coffee 10 years ago cost about 30 cents.

Fur Hats Back in 1953

NEW YORK (UP)—The fur hat, missing for many years is back. This time it brings a friend — the fake fur hat. Milliners are featuring real ermine, minks and leopard. Fake favorites include leopard-printed velvet, plush cut to look like broadtail, and wools knit to look like Persian lamb. One style rule: Don't overdo the fur. A fur hat looks good with the sleek wool dress, the softly tailored suit, or the cloth coat.

The 1953 rice crop is believed to have set a new record.

Thief Makes Bad Guess

WELLINGTON, N. Z. (UP)—William Henry Butcher came to a sorry end after he stole 44 pairs of trousers from a parked car. He found them to be unfinished and took them to a tailor to have them completed. The tailor told Butcher to return later. He did and found two detectives waiting for him. Of all the tailors in Wellington, Butcher had picked the owner of the trousers.

World war II veterans outnumber World war I in the American Legion 2 to 1.

Partial Payment Made

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UP) — The St. Louis Institute of Music experienced the law of diminishing returns when a conscience-stricken thief returned loot taken in two burglaries of the firm. John P. Blake, president, said he was happy to receive $112 in the mail from the thief, but it was still $59 short of the stolen amount.

More dirt has been moved to bury pipe lines, most of which carry oil, or its products, than all that required to build all existing canals.

Students to Get Book on Capitol

Copies Explaining How State Legislature Works to Be Given at Lansing

LANSING (UP)—The thousands of Michigan schoolchildren who visit the State Capitol every year will be given a new booklet starting next week that tells them what they are seeing and how the legislature works.

The Michigan Historical Commission announced that it is publishing a 96-page booklet entitled "Your Capitol and Mine" in conjunction with the 75th anniversary of the Capitol building.

The Capitol was dedicated on Jan. 1, 1879, and its diamond jubilee passed on New Year's day without notice.

"Your Capitol and Mine" was written by Ellen C. Hathway, a fifth grade teacher at Ferris School in Highland Park.

Dr. Lewis Beeson, executive secretary of the Michigan Historical Commission said copies probably will not be distributed to each child who visits the Capitol.

"Every teacher accompanying a group will receive a copy and we'll give her one copy for every five or 10 pupils she has along. We don't have enough for every child," Beeson said.

The Historical Commission secretary said although the booklet is primarily for children, it will be given to adults, too.

Meanwhile, Capitol guides braced themselves for the annual invasion of boys and girls from all parts of the state starting Jan. 13 when the Legislature meets for its 1954 session.

Stricken Rabbi Offers Himself as Guinea Pig

TORONTO (INS) — Canada's leading rabbi, nearly blinded by a baffling disease, is offering himself as a research guinea pig to spare others from such a fate.

Rabbi Abraham Feinberg is spiritual leader of Toronto's Holy Blossom Temple which embraces Canada's largest Reformed Jewish congregation.

He is a victim of dendritic caratitis, a little known virus which has attacked the cornea of his left eye.

Rabbi Feinberg has launched a two-fold fight: urging Canada's provincial governments to press study into virus diseases, and submitting himself to researchers.

He recently went to Chicago to be analyzed by the American Academy of Opthalmology and Otolaryngology.

"These specialists," he said, "are participating in the highest type of religion. I want to give them my aid, and see if they can possibly be of help to me."

Rabbi Feinberg, an American citizen living in Toronto since 1943, is undergoing treatment by Dr. H. L. Ormsby.

Lonely Observers Chart Earth's Tilt

WASHINGTON (UP) — Five small observatories spaced around the world maintain a continuous record of the earth's varying tilt. The results serve as a valuable guide to map-makers the world over.

The observatories are located in Gaithersburg, Md., Ukiah, Calif., Mizusawa on Honshu Island in Japan, Carloforte on San Pietro Island off the southwest coast of Sardinia, and Kitab in Soviet Turkistan. All five stations are on the same parallel of latitude, 39 degrees, eight minutes, to insure identical study conditions for identical stars.

Because the earth constantly wobbles on its axis as it rotates, latitudes shift slightly. By plotting the course of the stars, the observers record the varying rotation.

In a 14-month cycle, known as the Chandlerian Period, the axis at the North Pole may shift as much as 60 feet. Each night, sky conditions permitting, latitude astronomers chart the positions of 12 pairs of stars in the heavens. Each pair of stars is equidistant north and south from the point directly overhead. In a year's course, 144 stars are charted in this manner.

Notes on the nightly observations are assembled at the International Latitude Service's central office near Turin, Italy. Results are published periodically.

The two United States observatories are maintained by the Coast and Geodetic Survey. Both are one-man operations.

Consider Curbs on Probe Group

McCarthy's Committee May Discuss Limits on Its Inquiry Power

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) called a meeting of his Senate investigations subcommittee today and said moves to curb or surrender part of its Red-hunting powers "may be discussed."

He has described as "a lie" published reports that he has agreed, under urging from Eisenhower administration officials, to switch emphasis in his group's investigations from communism to other fields.

The main objective of today's closed door meeting, he said, is to act on his own requests for contempt of Congress citations against three balky witnesses in his recent investigations of alleged spying at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

* * *

He named the three as Corliss Lamont, wealthy New York writer; Albert Shadowitz, who McCarthy said, refused to answer questions with the explanation that Dr. Albert Einstein had advised him not to cooperate with the subcommittee; and Abraham Unger, a New York City lawyer. McCarthy said Lamont refused to answer questions, and refused to cite in justification the Constitution's guarantee against self-incrimination. He said Unger "conducted a filibuster."

* * *

But McCarthy added he was willing at today's meeting to "discuss anything the other senators have in mind," including a controversial proposal by Sen. Mundt (R-SD), that the Senate create a powerful new committee to carry the main load of investigating subversion and un-American activities.

Mundt is a member of McCarthy's subcommittee, which has been all-Republican since its three Democratic members resigned in a row with McCarthy last July.

McCarthy told reporters he "would not favor" Mundt's proposal.

Mundt had said he thought Communist investigations were too big a job for a subcommittee to handle and that his plan would avoid duplication of effort.

Coal Slide Sweeps Miner Down Chute

RAVENSDALE, Wash. (AP)—Cascading coal freed by a mine cave-in swept one miner from sight 400 feet below the surface here yesterday and trapped another for nearly four hours until he was rescued.

Rescue workers still are digging for Harry English, 39, of nearby Black Diamond. Little hope is held he will be found alive when the coal chute down which he disappeared is cleared of 35 feet of coal and broken timbers.

A happier fate was experienced by Roy Coutts, 25, working companion of English when the slide occurred. Fellow workers found him two hours later, pinned down by a rock which rested on his left leg and right arm. His head was covered with coal but he could breathe.

Coutts was reported in good condition at a hotel in Enumclaw, a few miles from here and approximately 30 miles southeast of Seattle.

No Bones About It, School Skeleton Stolen

DENVER (AP)—R. A. Wright, assistant principal at East Denver High School, complained to police yesterday that someone rattled off with the school biology department's brand new skeleton.

Make no bones about it, he informed officers, the school wants its skeleton back. The frightening figure set East High back $225 only a few weeks ago.

Dead Woman Rides Bus to Meet With Daughter

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Although dead, Mrs. Hattie L. Ebright, 82, kept a date to meet her daughter here.

Mrs. Ebright boarded a suburban bus at Holt, Mich., to come to Lansing. She was to meet her daughter, Mrs. Nettie Wood, 54, at Lansing's Main street intersection.

Mrs. Wood was waiting on the curb when the bus discharged its passengers. When her mother did not appear, Mrs. Wood boarded the bus and found Mrs. Ebright dead in her seat.

Coroner Harry E. Leadley said she had died of a heart attack.

Ike Promises Future Tax Cuts in Annual Message

Stresses Atomic Defenses; Asks Vote for 18-Year-Olds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Following is the prepared text of President Eisenhower's State of the Union message to Congress:

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, members of the Eighty-third Congress:

It is a high honor again to present to the Congress my views on the State of the Union and to recommend measures to advance the security, prosperity and well-being of the American people.

All branches of this government—and I venture to say both of our great parties—can support the general objective of the recommendations I make today, for that objective is the building of a stronger America. A nation whose every citizen has good reason for bold hope; where effort is rewarded and prosperity is shared; where freedom expands and peace is secure—that is what I mean by a stronger America.

Toward this objective a real momentum has been developed during this administration's first year in office. We mean to continue that momentum and to increase it. We mean to build a better future for this nation.

Much for which we may be thankful has happened during the past year.

First of all we are deeply grateful that our sons no longer die on the distant mountains of Korea. Although they are still called from our homes to military service, they are no longer called to the field of battle.

Inflation Brought Under Control

The nation has just completed the most prosperous year in its history. The damaging effect of inflation on the wages, pensions, salaries and savings of us all has been brought under control. Taxes have begun to go down.

The cost of our government has been reduced and its work proceeds with some 183,000 fewer employees; thus the discouraging trend of modern governments toward their own limitless expansion has in our case been reversed.

The cost of armaments becomes less oppressive as we near our defense goals; yet we are militarily stronger every day. During the year, creation of the new cabinet Department of Health, Education and Welfare symbolized the government's permanent concern with the human problems of our citizens.

Segregation in the armed forces and other federal activities is on the way out. We have also made progress toward its elimination in the District of Columbia. These are steps in the continuing effort to eliminate interracial difficulty.

Some developments beyond our shores have been equally encouraging. Communist aggression, halted in Korea, continues to meet in Indochina the vigorous resistance of France and the Associated States, assisted by timely aid from our country. In West Germany, in Iran, and in other areas of the world, heartening political victories have been won by the forces of stability and freedom.

Slowly but surely, the free world gathers strength. Meanwhile, from behind the iron curtain, there are signs that tyranny is in trouble and reminders that its structure is as brittle as its surface is hard.

There has been in fact a great strategic change in the world during the past year. That precious intangible, the initiative, is becoming ours. Our policy, not limited to mere reaction against crises provoked by others, is free to develop along lines of our choice not only abroad, but also at home. As a major theme for American policy during the coming year, let our joint determination be to hold this new initiative and to use it.

Outlines Three Major Objectives

We shall use this initiative to promote three broad purposes: First, to protect the freedom of our people; second, to maintain a strong, growing economy; third, to concern ourselves with the human problems of the individual citizen.

Only by active concern for each of these purposes can we be sure that we are on the forward road to a better and a stronger America. All my recommendations today are in furtherance of these three purposes.

I—Foreign Affairs

American freedom is threatened so long as the world communist conspiracy exists in its present scope, power and hostility. More closely than ever before, American freedom is interlocked with the freedom of other people.

In the unity of the free world lies our best chance to reduce the Communist threat without war. In the task of maintaining this unity and strengthening all its parts the greatest responsibility falls naturally on those who like ourselves, retain the most freedom and strength.

We shall, therefore, continue to advance the cause of freedom on foreign fronts.

In the Far East, we retain our vital interest in Korea. We have negotiated our security system for the Pacific and which I shall promptly submit to the Senate for its consent to ratification.

We are prepared to meet any renewal of armed aggression in Korea. We shall maintain indefinitely our bases in Okinawa.

I shall ask the Congress to authorize continued material assistance to hasten the successful conclusion of the struggle in Indochina. This assistance will also bring closer the day when the associated states may enjoy the independence already assured by France. We shall also continue military and economic aid to the Nationalist government of China.

Profound Changes in South Asia

In South Asia, profound changes are taking place in free nations which are demonstrating their ability to progress through democratic methods. They provide an inspiring contrast to the dictatorial methods and backward course of events in Communist China. In these continuing efforts, the free peoples of South Asia can be assured of the support of the United States.

In the Middle East, where tensions and serious problems exist, we will show sympathetic and impartial friendship.

In Western Europe our policy rests firmly on the North Atlantic treaty. It will remain so based as far ahead as we can see. Within its organization, the building of a united European community, including France and Germany, is vital to a free and self-reliant Europe. This will be promoted by the European defense community which offers assurance of European security. With the coming of unity to Western Europe, the assistance this nation can render for the security of Europe and the free world will be multiplied in effectiveness.

In the Western Hemisphere, we shall continue to develop harmonious and mutually beneficial cooperation with our neighbors. Indeed, solid friendship with all our American neighbors is a cornerstone of our entire policy.

Keep Military Aid, Cut Economic Help

In the world as a whole, the United Nations, admittedly still in a state of evolution, means much to the United States. It has given uniquely valuable services in many places where violence threatened. It is the only real world forum where we have the opportunity for international presentation and rebuttal. It is a place where the nations of the world can, if they have the will, take collective action for peace and justice. It is a place where the guilt can be squarely assigned to those who fail to take all necessary steps to keep the peace. The United Nations deserve our continued firm support.

In the practical application of our foreign policy, we enter the field of foreign assistance and trade.

Military assistance must be continued. Technical assistance must be maintained. Economic assistance can be reduced. However, our economic programs in Korea and in a few other critical places of the world are especially important, and I shall ask Congress to continue them in the next fiscal year.

The forthcoming budget message will propose maintenance of the presidential power of transferability of all assistance funds and will ask authority to merge these funds with the regular defense funds. It will also propose that the secretary of defense have primary responsibility for the administration of foreign military assistance in accordance with the policy guidance of the secretary of state.

The fact that we can now reduce our foreign economic assistance in many areas is gratifying evidence that its objectives are being achieved.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER

By continuing to surpass her prewar levels of economic activity, western Europe gains self-reliance. Thus our relationship enters a new phase which can bring results beneficial to our taxpayers and our allies alike, if still another step is taken.

This step is the creation of a healthier and freer system of trade and payments within the free world—a system in which our allies can earn their own way and our own economy can continue to flourish. The free world can no longer afford the kinds of arbitrary restraints on trade that have continued ever since the war. On this problem I shall submit to the Congress detailed recommendations, after our joint Commission on Foreign Economic Policy has made its report.

As we maintain our military strength during the coming year and draw closer the bonds with our allies, we shall be in an improved position to discuss outstanding issues with the Soviet Union.

Indeed we shall be glad to do so whenever there is a reasonable prospect of constructive results. In this spirit the atomic energy proposals of the United States were recently presented to the United Nations General Assembly. A truly constructive Soviet reaction will make possible a new start toward an era of peace, and away from the [illegible]

Since our hope is peace, we owe ourselves and the world a candid explanation of the military measures we are taking to make that peace secure.

As we enter this new year, our military power continues to grow. This power is for our own defense and to deter aggression. We shall not be aggressors, but we and our allies have and will maintain a massive capability to strike back.

Defense Planning in Atomic Age

Here are some of the considerations in our defense planning:

First, while determined to use atomic power to serve the usages of peace, we take into full account our great and growing number of nuclear weapons and the most effective means of using them against an aggressor if they are needed to preserve our freedom.

Our defense will be stronger if, under appropriate security safeguards, we share with our allies certain knowledge of the tactical use of our nuclear weapons. I urge the Congress to provide the needed authority.

Second, the usefulness of these new weapons creates new relationships between men and materials. These new relationships permit economies in the use of men as we build forces suited to our situation in the world today.

As will be seen from the budget message on Jan. 21, the air power of our navy and air force is receiving heavy emphasis.

Third, our armed forces must regain maximum mobility of action. Our strategic reserves must be centrally placed and readily deployable to meet sudden aggression against ourselves and our allies.

Fourth, our defense must rest on trained manpower and its most economical and mobile use. A professional corps is the heart of any security organization. It is necessarily the teacher and leader of those who serve temporarily in the discharge of the obligation to help defend the republic. Pay alone will not retain in the career service of our armed forces the necessary numbers of long-term personnel.

I strongly urge, therefore, a more generous use of other benefits important to service morale. Among these are more adequate living quarters and family housing units, and medical care for dependents.

Studies of military manpower have just been completed by the national security training commission and a committee appointed by the director of the office of defense mobilization. Evident weaknesses exist in the state of readiness and organization of our reserve forces. Measures to correct these weaknesses will be later submitted to the Congress.

Fifth, the ability to convert swiftly from partial to all-out mobilization is imperative to our security. For the first time, mobilization officials know what the requirements are for 1,000 major items needed for military uses. These data, now being related to civilian requirements and our supply potential, will show us the gaps in our mobilization base.

Thus we shall have more realistic plant-expansion and stockpiling goals. We shall speed their attainment. This nation is at last to have an up-to-date mobilization base—the foundation of a sound defense program.

Urges St. Lawrence Seaway Approval

Another part of this foundation is, of course, our continental transport system. Some of our vital heavy materials come increasingly from Canada. Indeed our relations with Canada, happily always close, involve more and more the unbreakable ties of strategic interdependence. Both nations now need the St. Lawrence Seaway for security as well as for economic reasons. I urge the Congress promptly to approve our participation in its construction.

Sixth, military and non-military measures for continental defense must be and are being strengthened.

In the current fiscal year we are allocating to these purposes an increasing portion of our effort, and in the next fiscal year, we shall spend nearly a billion dollars more for them than in 1953.

An indispensable part of our continental security is our civil defense effort. This will succeed only as we have the complete cooperation of state governors, mayors, and voluntary citizen groups. With their help we can advance a cooperative program which, if an attack should come, would save many lives and lessen destruction.

The defense program recommended in the 1955 budget is consistent with all of the considerations which I have just discussed. It is based on a new military program unanimously recommended by the joint chiefs of staff and approved by me following consideration by the national security council.

This new program will make and keep America strong in an age of peril. Nothing should bar its attainment.

The international and defense policies which I have outlined will enable us to negotiate from a position of strength as we hold our resolute course toward a peaceful world. We now turn to matters which are normally characterized as domestic, well realizing that what we do abroad affects every problem at home—from the amount of taxes to our very state of mind.

To Continue Probe of Security Risks

Under the standards established for the new employe security program, more than 2,200 employes have been separated from the federal government. Our national security demands that the investigation of new employes and the evaluation of derogatory information respecting present employes be expedited and concluded at the earliest possible date.

I shall recommend that the Congress provide additional funds where necessary to speed these important procedures.

From the special employment standards of the federal government I turn now to a matter relating to American citizenship. The subversive character of the Communist Party in the United States has been clearly demonstrated in many ways, including court proceedings. We shall recognize by law a fact that is plain to all thoughtful citizens — that we are dealing here with actions akin to treason — that when a citizen knowingly participates in the Communist conspiracy he no longer holds allegiance to the United States.

I recommend that Congress enact legislation to provide that a citizen of the United States who is convicted in the courts, of hereafter conspiring to advocate the overthrow of this government by force or violence be treated as having, by such act, renounced his United States citizenship.

In addition, the attorney general will soon appear before your committees to present his recommendations for needed additional legal weapons with which to combat subversion in our country and to deal with the question of claimed immunity.

II—Strong Economy

I turn now to the second great purpose of our government: Along with the protection of freedom, the maintenance of a strong and growing economy.

The American economy is one of the wonders of the world. It undergirds our international position, our military security, and the standard of living of every citizen. This administration is determined to keep our economy strong and to keep it growing.

At this moment, we are in transition from a wartime to a peacetime economy. I am confident that we can complete this transition without serious interruption in our economic growth. But we shall not leave this vital matter to chance. Economic preparedness is fully as important to the nation as military preparedness.

Subsequent special messages and the economic report on Jan. 28 will set forth plans of the administration and its recommendations for Congressional action.

These will include: Flexible credit and debt management policies; tax measures to stimulate consumer and business spending; suitable lending, guaranteeing, insuring and grant-in-aid activities; strengthen old age and unemployment insurance measures; improved agricultural programs; public works plans laid well in advance; enlarged opportunities for international trade and investment.

This mere enumeration of these subjects implies the vast amount of study, coordination and planning, to say nothing of authorizing legislation, that altogether make our economic preparedness complete.

If new conditions arise that require additional administrative or legislative action, the administration will still be ready. A government always ready, as this is, to take well-timed and vigorous action, and a business community willing, as ours is, to plan boldly and with confidence, can between them develop a climate assuring steady growth.

I shall submit to the Congress on January 21 the first budget prepared by this administration, for the period July 1, 1954 through June 1955.

This budget is adequate to the current needs of the government. It recognizes that a federal budget should be a stabilizing factor in the economy. Its tax and expenditure programs will foster individual initiative and economic growth.

Pending the transmittal of my budget message, I shall mention here only a few points about our budgetary situation.

2-Year Budget Cut to Be $12 Billion

First, one of our initial acts was to revise, with the cooperation of the Congress, the budget prepared before this administration took office. Requests for new appropriations were greatly reduced. In addition, the spending level provided in that budget for the current fiscal year has been reduced by about $7,000,000,000.

In the next fiscal year we estimate a further reduction in expenditures of more than $5,000,000,000.

This will reduce the spending level over the two fiscal years by more than $12,000,000,000. We are also reducing further our requests for new appropriations.

Second, despite the substantial loss of revenue in the coming fiscal year, resulting from tax reductions now in effect and tax adjustments which I shall propose, our reduced spending will move the new budget closer to a balance.

Third, by keeping new appropriation requests below estimated revenues, we continue to reduce the tremendous accumulation of unfinanced obligations incurred by the government under past appropriations.

Fourth, until those claims on our government's revenues are further reduced, the growth in the public debt cannot be entirely stopped. Because of this—because the government's bills have to be paid every month, while the tax money to pay them comes in with great unevenness within the fiscal year—and because of the need for flexibility to manage this enormous debt, I find it necessary to renew my request for an increase in the statutory debt limit.

The new budget provides for a lower level of taxation than has prevailed in preceding years. Six days ago individual income taxes were reduced and the excess profits tax expired. These tax reductions are justified only because of the substantial reductions we already have made and are making in governmental expenditures.

As additional reductions in expenditures are brought gradually but surely into sight, further reductions in taxes can and will be made. When budget savings and sound governmental financing are assured, tax burdens should be reduced so that taxpayers may spend their own money in their own way.

Revision of Tax System Proposed

While we are moving toward lower levels of taxation we must thoroughly revise our whole tax system. The groundwork for this revision has already been laid by the committee on ways and means of the House of Representatives, in close consultation with the Department of the Treasury.

We should now remove the more glaring tax inequities, particularly on small taxpayers; reduce restraints on the growth of small business; and make other changes that will encourage initiative, enterprise and production.

Twenty-five recommendations to-

950 Out of 1,000 Will Live

1954 Babies Have Best Ever Chance for Survival, Health

By PATTI SIMMONS

WASHINGTON (NEA)— Baby New Year 1954 is a pretty lucky fellow.

He's got a better chance for survival than any of his Jan. 1 predecessors, the Children's Bureau declares.

What's more, the child born in '54 is likely to live a longer life than the youngster born during any previous year.

Survival chances, points out the bureau, have been improving rapidly for the last 25 years. The following reasons, some appearing only five to 10 years ago, help tell the story:

A continuous upward trend in the proportion of hospital births, starting about 15 years ago. Last figures show that close to 90 per cent of all births were in hospitals.

Better pre-natal care available to more people.

Improved standard of living, including better diet. The old idea that a mother-to-be eats for two "quantity-wise" has been junked.

Medical advances including "miracle" drugs and greater availability of medical care.

A tendency in the last four to five years toward less anesthesia in childbirth. "Heavy use," explains Dr. Katherine Bain of the Children's Bureau, "lessens a child's chances for survival."

A long life isn't the only thing Baby New Year has to look forward to.

He or she may never have to suffer polio or rheumatic fever. "Within the next couple of years it looks like there will be a preventative for polio," Dr. Bain points out. "Also great strides are being made on rheumatic fever."

More has been learned about epilepsy in the last five years. Likewise, she adds, "it looks like medicine is on the track of blindness in premature babies."

About one out of 14 babies is born prematurely, it's estimated according to the last available figures. That means an infant weighing under five and a half pounds.

However, in 1954 there will be fewer deaths among premature babies.

To a lesser degree than prematurity, birth injury and congenital malformation take their toll of young lives. But many more babies are being saved each year from dying of diarrhea, enteritis, pneumonia and influenza.

Nevertheless, according to the last (1952) figures on the subject, a baby born in New Zealand has a slightly better chance for survival than your child born in the United States.

Nations measure infant mortality rate by the number who die their first year, per 1,000 live births.

The history of infant-saving in this country has made dramatic strides. For instance, 85.8 out of 1,000 died in 1920 as compared to 47 deaths out of 1,000 in 1940.

Of 1,000 newborn infants, under mortality conditions at the beginning of the century, 772 would live to reach 20 years of age. Today the figure is more than 950 out of 1,000.

Mindszenty Aide Gets Church Post

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Imprisoned Josef Cardinal Mindszenty's former private secretary has resumed church offices after serving a 4-year prison term.

The Cardinal's aide, the Rev. Ondras Zakar, was included on a list of church appointments yesterday in Magyar Kurir, official organ of the Roman Catholic Church in Hungary. The publication disclosed he is now an assistant parish priest in Budapest.

The priest was one of six defendants sentenced along with Mindszenty in February 1949. The Cardinal, convicted of treason on charges he plotted against the government and traded in U.S. currency, was sentenced to life in prison. Zakar, charged with failure to report on Mindszenty's activities was given a six-year term. Later it was reduced to four years.

Reformed Bandit Sees 50th Year of Married Bliss

TARZANA, Calif. (AP)—Reformed bank and train robber Al Jennings and his wife have just celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

Al is 90, his wife Maude, 73.

Jennings was leader of a gang that looted trains and banks in Oklahoma, Arkansas, Texas and Kansas in the '90s but one of his robberies failed and he and his gang were arrested. President McKinley reduced Jennings' life sentence and President Theodore Roosevelt later pardoned him and restored his civil rights.

Jennings often has said that he has been at odds with the law, but never with his wife, whom he met after his release from prison.

"I never was afraid of Al," she told newsmen. "He was the cutest thing when I married him, and he still is."

Pro-Egypt Premier Chosen by Sudan

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP)—Ismail El Azhari, leader of a majority party favoring union with Egypt, has been elected the first prime minister of Sudan.

The House of Representatives cast 57 votes for El Azhari, head of the National Unionist party, last night and 37 for Mohd Ahmed Mahgoub, opposition leader whose faction wants independence.

The almost million square mile territory in Northeast Africa has eight million population. It elected its first Parliament in November as the initial step in deciding the future of the territory. It has been under joint British-Egyptian rule with the British predominating. Under terms of a British-Egyptian agreement, the Sudanese will decide in a plebiscite next year whether they will be independent or will join with Egypt.

Warning Issued by Mrs. Luce

Tells Administration of Growing Red Strength in Italy

By JOHN SCALI

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce has cautioned top officials here there is new danger in Italy of slowly rising Communist strength, it was learned today.

Mrs. Luce, who conferred yesterday with President Eisenhower, is reported to be urging continued American economic and military aid to Italy to bolster its pro-Western government.

Neither Mrs. Luce nor the President, reliable sources said, believes there is any imminent threat that Italy's already powerful Communist party can seize power.

The ambassador is confident, it is said, that the current political crisis caused by Italian Premier Giuseppe Pella's resignation can be solved quickly without playing into Communist hands.

However, she is reported concerned about the long range threat posed to Italian democracy by the new, non-violent tactics adopted by Italy's Reds.

By exploiting Italy's serious unemployment problem and pressuring non-Communist unions to cooperate in strikes, The Red leaders are reported to have gained added influence and prestige in Italy during the past year.

* * *

This opens up the grim possibility, she is said to fear, that the Communists might actually be able to take over the country in a year or two if there is an unexpected worsening of Italy's economic and political plight.

As a demonstration of American support for Italy's present government, the State Department late yesterday announced it was drafting "a substantial program" of defense orders for Italian factories as well as a plan for limited economic aid.

No specific figures were disclosed. But responsible informants said the combined program would total about 300 million dollars during the next six months. This would be some 40 million dollars less than Italy got during a similar period last year.

Foreign aid specialists in the Eisenhower administration believe this amount should be sufficient for this fiscal year, provided a follow-up program can be devised for the 12-month period beginning next July 1.

Mrs. Luce has reported during her round of conferences here that Russia is pouring millions of dollars into Italy to back up its dream of turning it into a Communist state.

Petrillo, Recording Firms OK Contract

NEW YORK (AP)—Major recording companies and the AFL American Federation of Musicians have agreed on a five-year contract.

James C. Petrillo, AFM president, and Milton R. Rackmil, record manufacturers' representative, jointly announced the agreement yesterday.

They said details of the pact, covering wages and working conditions for musicians who make records, would not be disclosed until formal signing.

The announcement said terms also include additional contributions by recording companies to a music performance trust fund. The amount was not specified.

The new contract replaces one which expired Dec. 31.

Climber Reaches Highest Peak in Hemisphere

Is English-Born; Gls Love Him

First Appeared on TV in 1950 and Soon Signed Long-Term Contract

NEW YORK — Three-year-old Lester Townes Hope stood on his aunt's door-step with his tummy sticking out hoping to make her laugh, which meant a piece of his favorite lemon cream pie.

Little did Aunt "Louis" know that her little nephew would some day shorten the Lester Townes to Bob and make millions of people all over the world laugh.

Bob was born in Eltham, England, May 29, 1903, the fifth of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Hope's seven sons. When he was four, the family moved to Cleveland, Ohio, and he has since adapted the city as his hometown.

Mrs. Hope had dreams of young Lester becoming a great singer. But one evening while singing a solo, his boyish soprano started to crack. This brought gales of laughter much to Bob's delight, and it was then he knew comedy was his forte.

His first professional stage appearance was in a Fatty Arbuckle show in Cleveland with his partner, George Bryne. The pair danced, and Hope sang in a quartet and played the sax.

When the show closed they had enough experience to go on to vaudeville, which eventually led to New York.

After that he played many dates in Chicago and out West, eventually working up to top billing in the "big time."

In 1933 he returned to New York to star in "Roberta," "Bally-hoo," "Ziegfeld Follies" and "Red, Hot and Blue."

Hope started in radio as a guest of Rudy Vallee. His brand of comedy caught on, and in 1938 he was the star of his own radio show.

That same year he played in his first motion picture, "The Big Broadcast," and he has been starring in radio and movies ever since.

On June 8, 1950, he was signed to an exclusive long-term NBC contract for radio and television, and made his TV debut on Easter Sunday 1950.

Jan. 25 Big Four Meeting Already Doomed by Reds

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign News Editor

It is a sad commentary on our time that practically no one expects any great success to come from the Jan. 25 meeting of the four-power foreign ministers in Berlin.

If, indeed, the meeting ever comes off at all.

The latter doubt is cast because of the familiar pattern already shaping up.

Before the foreign ministers ever can meet, representatives of Russia on the one hand and the United States, Britain and France on the other, must decide where in Berlin the conferences will be held.

Berlin dispatches have said the Western Allies will insist that the meetings be held in the Allied-controlled Western sector of the city, preferably in the former Allied Control Authority Building.

The Russians may be expected to be equally firm in insisting that at least some of the sessions be held in the Russian-controlled Eastern sector.

Based on past performance, that alone might be enough to throw off the whole conference.

In fact, such a difference over what would seem such a trivial matter could very well be illustrative of all the difficulties to be overcome before any agreement between East and West can be reached.

The United States, Britain and France want the chief efforts of the conference to be devoted to working out peace treaties for Austria and a unified Germany.

Russia already has served notice that she will use the Jan. 25 meeting as a springboard for a five-power meeting including Red China.

Increasing the difficulties in the way of success at Berlin is the fact that differences between the two sides have existed for nearly eight years and become more firmly cemented with each passing day.

Russia is certain to set up a stiff price for any agreement which might lead to a unified Germany.

First and foremost will be an uncompromising demand that any plan for a European Defense Community with German troops participating be scrapped.

In effect, German neutrality would be the price for German unity.

A "sleeper" also is expected to be a demand that present trade restrictions between East and West Germany be lifted, even before unification is achieved.

Such a move would be an attempt to nullify the Western ban on shipment of war goods to Communist areas.

Finally, the Reds are expected to propose a "provisional" German government which would prepare the way for "free" German elections, an obvious move to take over the whole of Germany as they did Czechoclovakia.

It may be said in advance the United States will agree to no part of the Russian plan.

Ironically, it also may be said in advance that Russia doesn't expect it to, but that the Reds' main purpose continues to be to spread disunity among the Allies with special attention to economically weak and politically unstable France.

'Contraption' Victim Wills Large Estate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 93-year-old Columbus man who was so suspicious of electricity he used gas to light his small frame house has left an estate of $104,233.10.

Joseph Buff, a strong-willed man who condemned automobiles as "new fangled contraptions," was killed by one last Nov. 27. A bicycle rider until he was 90, Buff had refused an offer of an automobile ride home from a visit the night he was killed.

Buff, whose will was probated yesterday, left some of the money to a church and an orphanage, the rest to his nieces.

Ike Promises Future Tax Reductions but Asks Delay on Excise Levy Cuts

ward these ends will be contained in my budget message.

Without attempting to summarize these manifold reforms, I can here illustrate their tendency. For example, we propose more liberal tax treatment for dependent children who work, for widows or widowers with dependent children, and for medical expenses. For the business that wants to expand or modernize its plant, we propose liberalized tax treatment of depreciation, research and development expenses, and retained earnings.

Because of the present need for revenue the corporation income tax should be kept at the current rate of 52 per cent for another year, and the excise taxes scheduled to be reduced on April 1, including those on liquor, tobacco, gasoline and automobiles, should be continued at present rates.

Immediate extension of the Renegotiation Act of 1951 is also needed to eliminate excessive profits and to prevent waste of public funds in the purchase of defense materials.

Farms Must Share in Prosperity

The well being of our 160 million people demands a stable and prosperous agriculture. Conversely, every farmer knows he can not prosper unless all America prospers. As we seek to promote increases in our standard of living, we must be sure that the farmer fairly shares in that increase. Therefore, a farm program promoting stability and prosperity in all elements of our agriculture is urgently needed.

Agricultural laws now in effect successfully accomplished their wartime purpose of encouraging maximum production of many crops.

Today, production of these crops at such levels far exceeds present demand. Yet the laws encouraging such production are still in effect.

The storage facilities of the Commodity Credit Corporation bulge with surplus stocks of dairy products, wheat, cotton, corn, and certain vegetable oils; and the corporation's presently authorized borrowing authority—$6,750,000,000—is nearly exhausted. Some products, priced out of domestic markets, and others, priced out of world markets, have piled up in government hands.

In a world in which millions of people are hungry, destruction of food would, of course, be unconscionable.

Yet surplus stocks continue to threaten the market, and in spite of the acreage controls authorized by present law, surpluses will continue to accumulate.

We confront two alternatives. The first is to impose still greater acreage reductions for some crops and apply rigid federal controls over the use of the diverted acres.

This will regiment the production of every basic agricultural crop. It will place every producer of those crops under the domination and control of the federal government in Washington. This alternative is contrary to the fundamental interests, not only of the farmer, but of the nation as a whole. Nor is it a real solution to the problem facing us.

The second alternative is to permit the market price for these agricultural products gradually to have a greater influence on the planning of production by farmers, while continuing the assistance of the government. This is the sound approach.

To make it effective, surpluses existing when the new program begins must be insulated from the normal channels of trade for special uses. These uses would include school lunch programs, disaster relief, emergency assistance to foreign friends, and of particular importance the stockpiling of reserves for a national emergency.

Flexible Farm Price Supports

Building on the agricultural laws of 1948 and 1949, we should establish a price support program with enough flexibility to attract the production of needed supplies of essential commodities and to stimulate the consumption of those commodities that are flooding American markets. Transition to modernized parity must be accomplished gradually.

In no case should there be an abrupt downward change in the dollar level or in the percentage level of price supports.

Next Monday, I shall transmit to the Congress my detailed recommendations embodying this approach. They have been developed through the cooperation of innumerable individuals vitally interested in agriculture. My special message on Monday will briefly describe the consultative and advisory processes to which this whole program has been subjected during the past ten months.

I have chosen this farm program because it will build markets, protect the consumers' food supply, and move food into consumption instead of into storage.

It is a program that will remove the threat to the farmer of these overhanging surpluses, a program, also, that will stimulate production when a commodity is scarce and encourage consumption when nature is bountiful. Moreover, it will promote the individual freedom, responsibility and initiative which distinguish American agriculture. And, by helping our agriculture achieve full parity in the market, it promises our farmers a higher and steadier financial return over the years than any alternative plan.

Part of our nation's precious heritage is its natural resources. It is the common responsibility of federal, state and local governments to improve and develop them, always working in the closest harmony and partnership.

Natural Resources Must Be Protected

All federal conservation and resource development projects are being reappraised. Sound projects now under way will be continued. New projects in which the federal government has a part must be economically sound, with local sharing of cost wherever appropriate and feasible. In the next fiscal year work will be started on 23 projects that meet these standards.

The federal government will continue to construct and operate economically sound flood control, power, irrigation and water supply projects wherever these projects are beyond the capacity of local initiative, public or private, and consistent with the needs of the whole nation.

Our conservation program will also take into account the important role played by farmers in protecting our soil resources. I recommend enactment of legislation to strengthen agricultural conservation and up-stream flood prevention work, and to achieve a better balance with major flood control structures in the down-stream areas.

Recommendations will be made from time to time for the adoption of:

A uniform and consistent water resources policy;

A revised public lands policy; and

A sound program for safeguarding the domestic production of critical and strategic metals and minerals.

In addition we shall continue to protect and improve our national forests, parks, monuments and other natural and historic sites, as well as our fishery and wildlife resources. I hope that pending legislation to improve the conservation and management of publicly-owned grazing lands in national forests will soon be approved by the Congress.

Would Continue 2-Cent Gas Tax

To protect the vital interest of every citizen in a safe and adequate highway system, the federal government is continuing its central role in the federal aid highway program. So that maximum progress can be made to overcome present inadequacies in the interstate highway system, we must continue the federal gasoline tax at two cents per gallon. This will require cancellation of the ½ cent decrease which otherwise will become effective April 1, and will maintain revenues so that an expanded highway program can be undertaken.

When the commission on intergovernmental relations completes its study of the present system of financing highway construction, I shall promptly submit it for consideration by the Congress and the governors of the states.

It is apparent that the substantial savings already made, and to be made, by the post office department can not eliminate the postal deficit.

I recommend, therefore, that the Congress approve the bill now pending in the house of representatives providing for the adjustment of certain postal rates.

To handle the long term aspects of this, I also recommend that the Congress create a permanent commission to establish fair and reasonable postal rates from time to time in the future.

III—Human Problems

Along with the protection of freedom and maintenance of a strong and growing economy, this administration recognizes a third great purpose of government: concern for the human problems of our citizens. In a modern industrial society, banishment of destitution and cushioning the shock of personal disaster on the individual are proper concerns of all levels of government, including the federal government. This is especially true where remedy and prevention alike are beyond the individual's capacity.

Of the many problems in this area, those I shall first discuss are of particular concern to the members of our great labor force, who with their heads, hearts and hands produce so much of the wealth of our country.

Protection against the hazards of temporary unemployment should be extended to some 6½ millions of workers, incuding civilian federal workers, who now lack this safeguard.

Moreover, the secretary of labor is making available to the states studies and recommendations in the fields of weekly benefits, periods of protection and extension of coverage. The economic report will consider the related matter of minimum wages and their coverage.

Taft-Hartley Act Changes Planned

The labor management relations act of 1947 is basically a sound law. However, six years of experience have revealed that in some respects it can be improved. On Jan. 11, I shall forward to the Congress suggestions for changes designed to reinforce the basic objectives of the act.

Our basic social security program, the old-age and survivors insurance system, to which individuals contribute during their productive years and receive benefits based on previous earnings, is designed to shield them from destitution. Last year I recommended extension of the social insurance system to include more than 10,000,000 additional persons. I ask that this extension soon be accomplished.

This and other major improvements in the insurance system will bring substantial benefit increases and broaden the membership of the insurance system, thus diminishing the need for federal grants-in-aid for such purposes. A new formula will therefore be proposed, permitting progressive reduction in such grants as the need for them declines.

Federal grant-in-aid welfare programs, now based on widely varying formulas, should be simplified. Concrete proposals on 14 of them will be suggested to the appropriate committees.

The program for rehabilitation of the disabled especially needs strengthening. Through special vocational training, this program presently returns each year some 60,000 handicapped individuals to productive work. Far more disabled people can be saved each year from idleness and dependence if this program is gradually increased. My more detailed recommendations on this and the other social insurance problems I have mentioned will be sent to the Congress on Jan. 14.

Socialization of Medicine Opposed

I am flatly opposed to the socialization of medicine.

The great need for hospital and medical services can best be met by the initiative of private plans. But it is unfortunately a fact that medical costs are rising and already impose severe hardships on many families.

The federal government can do many helpful things and still carefully avoid the socialization of medicine.

The federal government should encourage medical research in its battle with such mortal diseases as cancer and heart ailments and should continue to help the states in their health and rehabilitation programs.

The present hospital survey and construction act should be broadened in order to assist in the development of adequate facilities for the chronically ill, and to encourage the construction of diagnostic centers, rehabilitation facilities, and nursing homes.

The war on disease also needs a better working relationship between government and private initiative. Private and non-profit hospital and medical insurance plans are already in the field, soundly based on the experience and initiative of the people in their various communities.

A limited government reinsurance service would permit the private and non-profit insurance companies to offer broader protection to more of the many families which want and should have it. On Jan. 18, I shall forward to the Congress a special message presenting this administration's health program in its detail.

Teacher Training, Building Lag

Youth—Our greatest resource—is being seriously neglected in a vital respect. The nation as a whole is not preparing teachers or building schools fast enough to keep up with the increase in our population.

The preparation of teachers as, indeed, the control and direction of public education policy, is a state and local responsibility. However, the federal government should stand ready to assist states which demonstrably cannot provide sufficient school buildings.

In order to appraise the needs, I hope that this year a conference on education will be held in each state, culminating in a national conference. From these conferences on education, every level of government from the federal government to each local school board—should gain the information with which to attack this serious problem.

Asks Decent Homes for All Americans

The details of a program to enlarge and improve the opportunities for our people to acquire good homes will be presented to the Congress by special message on Jan. 25.

The program will include:

Modernization of the home mortgage insurance program of the federal government;

Redirection of the present system of loans and grants-in-aid to cities for slum clearance and redevelopment;

Extension of the advantages of insured lending to private credit engaged in this task of rehabilitating obsolete neighborhoods;

Insurance of long-term, mortgage loans, with small down payment for low-income families;

Continuation of the public housing program adopted in the housing act of 1949.

If the individual, the community, the state and federal governments will alike apply themselves, every American family can have a decent home.

The internal reorganization of the Veterans Administration is proceeding with my full approval. When completed, it will afford a single agency whose services, including medical facilities, will be better adapted to the needs of those 20,000,000 veterans to whom this nation owes so much.

My few remaining recommendations all relate to a basic right of our citizens—that of being represented in the decisions of the government.

I hope that the states will cooperate with the Congress in adopting uniform standards in their voting laws that will make it possible for our citizens in the armed forces overseas to vote.

In the District of Columbia, the time is long overdue for granting national suffrage to its citizens and also apply the principle of local self-government to the nation's capital.

I urge the Congress to move promptly in this direction and also to revise district revenue measures to provide needed public works improvements.

The people of Hawaii are ready for statehood. I renew my request for this legislation in order that Hawaii may elect its state officials and its representatives in Washington along with the rest of the country this fall.

Urges 18-Year-Olds Be Granted Ballot

For years our citizens between the ages of 18 and 21 have, in time of peril, been summoned to fight for America. They should participate in the political process that produces this fateful summons. I urge Congress to propose to the states a constitutional amendment permitting citizens to vote when they reach the age of 18.

I want to add one final word about the general purport of these many recommendations.

Our government's powers are wisely limited by the Constitution; but quite apart from those limitations, there are things which no government can do or should try to do.

A government can strive, as ours is striving, to maintain an economic system whose doors are open to enterprise and ambition—those personal qualities on which economic growth largely depends.

But enterprise and ambition are qualities which no government can supply. Fortunately no American government need concern itself on this score; our people have these qualities in good measure.

A government can sincerely strive for peace, as ours is striving, and ask its people to make sacrifices for the sake of peace.

But no government can place peace in the hearts of foreign rulers. It is our duty then to ourselves and to freedom itself to remain strong in all those ways—spiritual, economic, military—that will give us maximum safety against the possibility of aggresive action by others.

Spiritual Welfare Above Materialism

No government can inoculate its people against the fatal materialism that plagues our age. Happily, our people, though blessed with more material goods than any people in history, have always reserved their first allegiance to the kingdom of the spirit, which is the true source of that freedom we value above all material things.

But a government can try, as ours tries, to sense the deepest aspirations of the people, and to express them in political action at home and abroad. So long as action and aspiration humbly and earnestly seek favor in the sight of the Almighty, I can se no end to the road ahead for America and no human limit to the service we can perform.

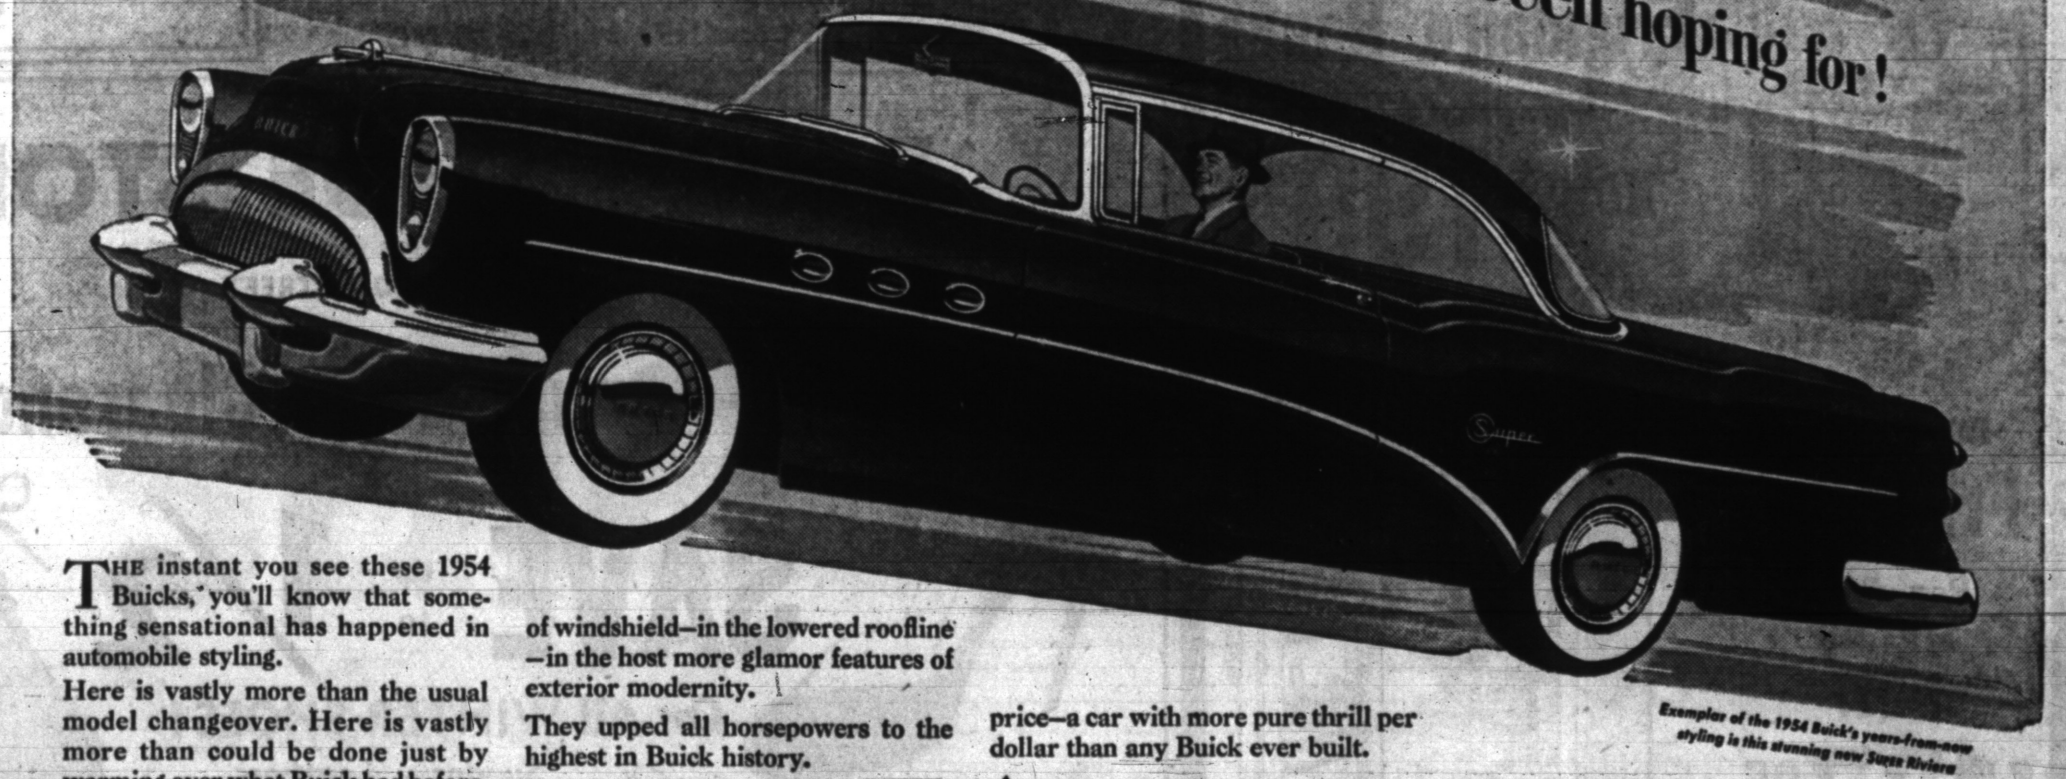

70-Year-Old Woman Falls From Vehicle

A 70-year-old woman who was returning from a doctor's office was treated at Pontiac General Hospital for hand and head bruises yesterday when she fell out of a taxicab making a left turn at Montcalm Ave. and St. Clair St.

The passenger, Mrs. Janette Loomis of 739 St. Clair St. told Pontiac Police that the door of the cab swung open and "I fell to the pavement."

Driver Jack R. Carpenter, 45, of 60 Douglas St., was quoted by police as saying he realized the woman had fallen from the cab after he completed the turn.

The '54 BUICK's got it—
The BIG CHANGE you've been hoping for!

THE instant you see these 1954 Buicks, you'll know that something sensational has happened in automobile styling.

Here is vastly more than the usual model changeover. Here is vastly more than could be done just by warming over what Buick had before. Here is something accomplished by going far beyond artful face-lifting.

Here is that rarity of rarities—a completely new line of automobiles.

But Buick didn't stop with the bolder, fresher, swifter-lined beauty you see in raised and lengthened fender sweep—in the huge and back-swept expanse of windshield—in the lowered roofline—in the host more glamor features of exterior modernity.

They upped all horsepowers to the highest in Buick history.

They engineered a new V8 for the SPECIAL—and in the process came up with new Power-Head Pistons that boost gasoline mileage in every engine.

They brought to market a sparkling newcomer with a famous name, the Buick CENTURY—a car with phenomenal horsepower for its weight and price—a car with more pure thrill per dollar than any Buick ever built.

And they did all this without change of the price structure which, for years, has made Buick the most popular car at its price in the world.

We invite you in to inspect these great beauties, these great performers, these great buys. Then you'll see why the Detroit previewers are already saying, "Buick's the beautiful buy!"

Catahoula Hound Dog to Tour U. S.

Alice Caddy's Art to Be Shown With Husband's Book

It's not her dog, really. Her husband, novelist Ben Lucien Burman, gave it melancholy fame in his books after he stumbled across it down in the Louisiana swamps.

But Alice Caddy was the first person to put a Catahoula hound's portrait on paper, and by now she undoubtedly could draw one in her sleep.

What has started the hound traveling was the fact that it got hung, in the artistic sense, on the walls of the Algonquin Hotel, a New York hostelry noted for its literary and theatrical clientele but not necessarily for art.

This fall, however, the Algonquin was persuaded to lend its lobby walls to its first art exhibit, a one-woman show by Mrs. Burman which also marked the debut of her husband's newest book, "The Four Lives of Mundy Tolliver," one of the big literary hits of the year.

The fact that all the work in Mrs. Burman's show was taken from illustrations she has done for her husband's books since the days of "Steamboat Round the Bend" and "Blow for Landing" is no mere literary coincidence.

The Burmans have been a writer-illustrator team almost since the day, back in the 20s, when she had to lend Ben 5 cents for carfare to get uptown from Greenwich Village to find out he'd sold his first big-money short story.

Alice Caddy was going strong in those days, doing magazine covers and fashion illustrations. But she listened to the music of the steamboat whistles her husband keeps writing about, and first thing she know she was married and keeping house in North Africa, where Ben Burman wrote his first novel.

Not long after that when they were traveling down the Mississippi, Mrs. Burman got out her sketch pad and drew the river folk her husband talked with.

His publisher asked for the sketches, and Alice Caddy became part of the family byline.

Along with the Catahoula hound dog, Mrs. Burman likes best to draw any kind of an animal, plus the same sort of simple people her husband writes about.

Brought up in Canada, where she decided on an art career because she admired her grandfather's watercolors, Mrs. Burman has a shy sense of humor which sparkles in sketches like the one of the Catahoula or the top-hatted fox she created for "High Water at Catfish Bend," a children's book her husband did last year.

"I'm anxious to do another children's book," she says. "But I wouldn't want to stop roaming."

While her husband is writing a book, Mrs. Burman thinks about the illustrations she'll do. "It takes me two months to get in the mood, then a month to do them," she explains.

But she takes sketch notes, just as her husband writes down background material. Nobody along the river or in the Cumberland Hills had ever minded this until last election day in Manchester, Ky., when she was dodging around the town square with her pad and pencil.

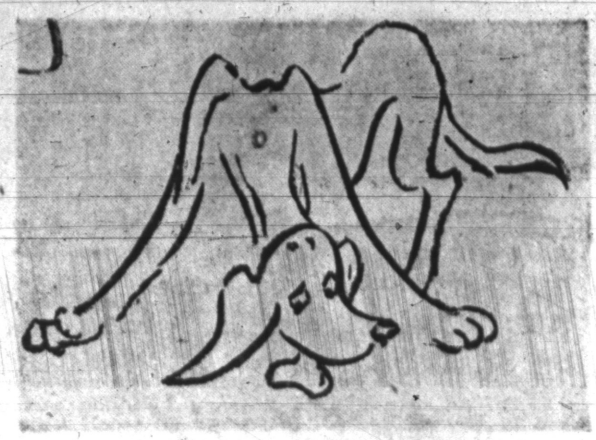

A hill woman, in town to vote, rushed to the mayor to tell him there was "a Russian spy in the square, going around taking people's pictures."

It is doubtful whether the Catahoula hound dog would interest the Russians much, but it is now starting to tour the country as an art show, along with the roustabouts, darkies, steamboats and hill people that were on exhibit in New York.

With them travels the manuscript of "The Four Lives of Mundy Tolliver."

"We're calling it the Caddy-Burman train," Mrs. Burman pointed out.

CATAHOULA HOUND DOG

Mary Margaret McBride Says:

Food Campaign Blasted From Behind the Counter

We literally stirred up a tempest in a teapot when we started that campaign to have hot dishes hot, cold dishes cold and tea, coffee and other comestibles served as they should be in public eating places.

So far eaters have done the complaining here, but now comes blasts from the other side of the counter.

"The average human being will wait for his train, his bus, his birthday, even for love, but when he is hungry, he is the most impatient and unreasonable animal alive," complains restaurant worker Evelyn Brens of Mount Vernon, N. Y.

"Many diners want Waldorf-Astoria service but Bowery prices. A waitress is expected to greet them with a Sir and bow and recite everything on the bill of fare orally in spite of the fact it is written there on the menu in black and white."

MISS McBRIDE

Miss Brens also goes after the diner who looks up into the waitress' face and asks fatuously, "Is the roast beef good today?"

Also on her black list are diners with regal complexes who barely grunt a greeting, snarl about food and service, and leave a dime tip.

On top of this is an editorial from the Hotel World-Review, trade paper of public eating places, cautiously commenting upon our campaign and counter-charging that diners go on arguing or reading their newspapers while hot food turns to cold, cold to tepid.

"And at luncheons and banquets especially," adds Dick Huntington, executive editor of the Review, "they refuse to sit down at the time they are supposed to, and as a result, the wonderful food the chef has prepared so carefully sits on plates in an oven or on a steam table and gradually spoils.

"It is the guest's own fault if the food is not perfect when he has kept the entire kitchen and dining room staff waiting for a half hour or more."

Editor Huntington obviously tried to be fair. He even reminded me that I might have added to my list of gripes ice cream served on plates so hot that it melts before the waiter can get it to the table.

Maybe after this we'll begin recruiting hotel and restaurant staffs as well as consumers and try to bring about not only better food, better served, but politer, more understanding patrons. Could be that, united, we'll turn all the country's eating places into gourmet heavens with everybody on both sides of the country happy.

Last-Minute Bid Ought to Be Frank

Hostess Is Paying Indirect Tribute to Fill-in Guest

By EMILY POST

This question comes from a hostess: "When asking someone to a party to take the place of one who has begged off at the last minute should the hostess explain the situation frankly, or make the guest think that she (or he) was included in the guest list from the very beginning?

"My husband thinks it would be wrong to make a guest think he (or she) is second fiddle. What do you have to say about this, Mrs. Post?"

Answer: Correctly, this situation is handled frankly. Hostess explains: "Mrs. Jones has begged off. Will you do me a great favor and come in her pace?"

To be asked to fill in is rather a compliment because it means that you are an intimate friend of the family. A hostess asks only those she knows best and likes most to do this.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am not an effeminate man and would be very shocked to have anyone think it of me; that's why I would like your opinion. Do smart men ever wear two rings at one time? I have two rings of which I am equally fond and both of them are unobtrusive.

Answer: If they fit and look well together on the same finger, that would be best. Not so good, but not necessarily bad, would be to wear one on the little finger of your right hand and the other on the third finger of your left hand, if you have good-looking hands.

Gadget Cleans Rug With 'Dry' Soapsuds

NEW YORK (UP) — Now there's a vacuum cleaner attachment which does the bulk of the work when you clean rugs and upholstery with "dry" soapsuds.

The attachment consists of a spray gun fitted with a fine screen, plus a jar to be filled with soap and water. Slight pressure on a valve button releases the soapy water, which is broken into "dry" bubbles when it strikes the screen.

Girl Shouldn't Refuse Date Invitation Just Because It Doesn't Promise Love

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

A date bid is an invitation to fun—no matter how you come by it. The phone can ring and there's a he on the other end asking if you're free to do whatever it is on the evening he has in mind.

The phone can ring and there's a she on the other end asking if you'll take a chance on a date with a boy neither of you has ever seen but her date is bringing along. Or the she can be asking you to go along with two or three couples as partner for a boy you both know very well.

Whether you make the date yourself or have it made for you, it's still an invitation to fun. Fun to be going somewhere special, to do something exciting and nice. Fun to be going with someone who can turn out to be exciting and nice.

Yet how many girls look a gift date in the teeth with a supercilious air because they can't see it as just fun. It has to be blazing romance or else!

Here's a gal who has mounted a very frisky high horse over a date bid that has come her way because . . . well, here's what she writes:

"Dear Miss Woodward: My two best girl friends are going steady with boys who are good friends. The two boys have another friend who asked them to fix up a date with me.

"I consented because I thought we would all have a good time. Now my girl friends tell me he only asked me out because he wants to be with his friends.

"Shall I still go out with him knowing that, or should I refuse him altogether?"

Somehow you've taken this bit of behind-the-scenes information as a personal insult. Your nose is out of joint over the thought that this boy didn't want a date with you for your own precious sake but just to make it six.

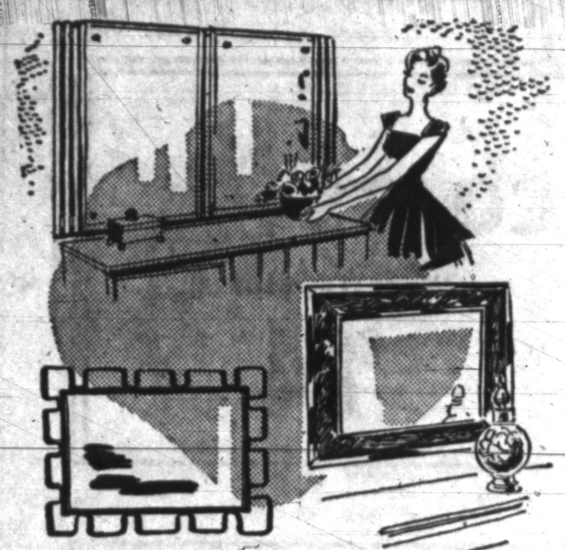

He apparently doesn't go steady—so if he wants to go out with his two boy friends he has to find a girl. His generous thought was that their two girl friends might like to include a third girl that they know well and like. You were elected.

If the three boys know each other and the three girls know each other, the date is likely to get off to a good start. He was willing to take a chance on their recommendation—you.

So why can't you take the same chance? The invitation didn't come your way because he's been smitten by you. You're just the happy thought that fills the bill for an evening of fun.

Turn it down and you'll miss a good time. Turn it down and you'll miss the chance to get acquainted with a boy who might turn out to be a congenial and permanent ornament to your calendar.

You can have two or three hours of fun with him while you're out with your girl friends. Isn't that worth accepting?

Handsome New Frames Increase Mirror Beauty

By ELIZABETH HILLYER

Should a mirror be framed or unframed? Which is more fashionable today?

Both framed and unframed mirrors are in style, but the trend runs toward interesting new frames for the mirror that is to be important decoration.

Unframed mirror is more likely to be mounted on the wall than hung. It becomes a mirror wall or panel, or comes in extra large sizes for extra usefulness with dressing tables and in dressing rooms.

There's a new interest in mirrors now, for two reasons. Mirror itself is especially fine in quality.

One new process has been developed to produce fine polished plate glass of optical excellence for mirror use—both sides of the glass are ground simultaneously. And handsome design of new frames makes mirror extra appealing.

Here are three from the showings of home furnishings for spring that are now being previewed in Chicago and Grand Rapids: Twin panels framed with vertical birch rods, a framing that is an open tracery of black wrought iron and a deep shadow box.

* * *

Mrs. C. C. W. "If I buy a new sofa I like that is covered in a rough textured fabric in brown, with gold metallic and black and white threads, should the living room walls be changed from gray to brown?

"One chair is flame colored, two others are smaller and a deep gold. The rug is beige, draperies are white and there are both light and dark woods in the room."

Mrs. S. J. "Curtains for the window on a stair landing have always been a problem for me because the landing is so small and the sill is hardly above the floor.

"I have used floor-length draperies to match those in the living room, but they are in the way on the landing. What do you suggest?"

It is more important that the landing be free of drifting drapery which may be dangerous—than that the living room windows be matched.

Use a short curtain inside the window frame or a decorative blind on the landing window. The curtain could match the wall and thus fade it to make the landing seem larger.

Tin Baron OKs Girl's Wedding

Drops His Objections to 18-Year-Old Daughter Marrying Briton

EDINBURGH (INS) — Powerful tin baron Antenor Patino capitulated to love today and consented to the marriage of his dazzling 18-year-old daughter, Maria Isabella, to 20-year-old James Goldsmith of London.

After a two-minute hearing it was officially announced that a Scottish court had withdrawn, at Patino's request, the temporary injunction he obtained Tuesday against the marriage.

The wedding, climaxing a love affair which covered two continents, will be possible as soon as the court notifies the registrar's office that the injunction has been lifted.

The three judges instructed clerks to hurry the process of notification so that it will be completed within a couple of hours and the couple will be able to be married in any of the 300 registrar's offices in Scotland or by any minister of the church.

(From Cannes, France, the prospective bridegroom's father, Frank Goldsmith, said he was "very pleased" at Patino's decision to withdraw the injunction, saying:

("The whole thing has become so public it has become absolutely silly. From the girl's point of view it has become essential she get married after all this publicity.")

Sources close to the Patino family said that Antenor Patino, whose father left $200 million on his death, relented after he received an emissary from the pair.

Two Youths Tell of 15 Auto Thefts

Two 17-year-old youths, arrested Monday by Pontiac and State Police, appeared at separate hearings yesterday after they told authorities they stole 15 automobiles and broke into at least 25 business places and homes.

Herbert Lentz, of 4635 Franklin Rd., waived examination when he appeared before Pontiac Judge Maurice E. Finnegan and was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court on an auto theft charge. He was returned to Oakland County Jail after failing to post a $2,000 bond.

His companion, John W. Schram, 17, no known address, was immediately arraigned before Circuit Judge Frank L. Doty on the same charge after violation of his probation. Schram, who was on probation for auto theft, pleaded guilty and will appear for sentencing Monday. He is being held without bond.

Sgt. Albert W. Foster Sr., head of Pontiac auto theft bureau, said that State Troopers Henry A. DeLooff and Harold D. Wade of Pontiac Post were instrumental in the pair's arrest after a year's investigation.

Dr. Clayton Marsh of 35 Lorraine Ct. said today the address listed in police records for Schram was incorrect. Dr. Marsh resides at the Lorraine Ct. address and said Schram had never lived there.

Motorist Counts Animals Killed Along Highway

LANSING (AP) — Karl H. Schnoor of Fair Haven drives 40 miles between Fair Haven and Detroit every day of the week.

As a hobby, he counts the number of dead animals he sees along the road.

Schnoor has turned his figures over to the State Conservation Department and they report he counted 466 domestic and wild animals killed during the year by cars.

The count included 109 cats, 30 dogs, 58 pheasants, 30 rabbits, 39 opossums and 12 raccoons. Also killed trying to get to the other side were one chicken and one domestic duck.

The month of August took the highest toll, he said, with 62 carcasses spotted.

Schnoor noted that he undoubtedly missed many animals that died in the brush as the result of road injuries or were thrown off the road after being hit by cars.

Fish Are Put to Sleep

LANSING (UP) — Frisky trout are put to sleep to cut down the cost of transporting them from hatcheries for planting in Michigan lakes and streams. The Conservation department says sodium amytal is put in the water of the transport tank to quiet the fish so more can be carried each trip. Once returned to untreated water, the fish revive and show no after effects.

IRON LUNG STRATEGY—Polio patients at the Children's Memorial Hospital, in Omaha, Neb., play their own kind of football game and are just as enthusiastic about it as any player running for a touchdown in an open field. Games like this one help keep the patients in a proper spirit.

Asking Pay, Benefits for Missing Soldiers

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Defense Department plans to ask Congress to grant permanent authority to continue the pay of servicemen listed as missing during war or peace.

Present legislation permitting accumulation of pay and allowances of missing personnel in Korea expires Jan. 31. Congress is virtually certain to extend this authority.

Informed sources said, however, that the department wants the provision to cover servicemen missin in such peacetime accidents as plane crashes or ship sinkings.

About 3,200 men will be listed as missing in action in Korea after the Pentagon completes its notification to next of kin this week of 3,856 who are "presumed dead."

The U. S. bought its first military aircraft in 1909, just six years after the Wright Brothers made their first historic flight on the sand dunes in North Carolina.

Island Linked With Mainland Only by Plane

CHARLEVOIX (AP) — Joseph McPhillips' flying service was the only transportation link with the mainland for Beaver Island residents today as a winter schedule went into effect.

The motorship North Shore which nine months of the year transports mail, passengers and supplies to the Lake Michigan island 35 miles northwest of here, has been berthed for the winter.

McPhillips will carry the mail and keep islanders supplied until April 1 when the navigation season on the lake reopens.

Dies of Accident Injuries

DETROIT (UP) — Mardig Gasperian, 64, Detroit, died Wednesday of injuries he suffered Tuesday when struck by a car in Dearborn. He was listed as the suburb's first traffic fatality of 1954.

Apartment Owner to Ask Restitution

DETROIT (INS)—Detroit police today sought to determine ownership of the apartment that was raided by four Bethune precinct clean-up officers early New Year's Day.

The occupant of the apartment, Mrs. Carrie Bernoudy, 30, has charged her lodging was illegally invaded and damaged in the raid. Mrs. Bernoudy has indicated she will charge the officers with malicious destruction of property.

However, Houston Gant of the same address yesterday said he owned the property and merely leased it to Mrs. Bernoudy. Gant said he would not seek a warrant against the police but would ask only for restitution of damaged furnishings.

Loss at $25,000 in 2 State Fires

Tavern Burns at Fife Lake; Barn, Livestock Destroyed at Hersey

By the Associated Press

Two northern Michigan fires Wednesday destroyed a tavern at Fife Lake and a barn and livestock near Hersey with losses totaling more than $25,000.

The blaze that destroyed the lakeshore tavern at Fife Lake, Grand Traverse County, apparently had been burning several hours before it was discovered.

Sheriff Richard Weiler, who estimated loss at $16,000, said the building was virtually destroyed and the fire was spreading to a nearby warehouse before an alarm was turned in.

In Osceola County 16 head of cattle, 45 pigs and the barn on the Walter Novak farm near Hersey were lost in a fire believed to have started in the pig sty. Novak saved 16 dairy cows and two heifers. He estimated his loss at $9,500.

97.97 Per Cent of Pontiac City, School Taxes Paid

Pontiac city and school tax collections through Dec. 31, 1953 were $4,769,870, representing 97.97 per cent of the total, according to City Treasurer M. M. Ashbaugh.

Some 97.6 per cent of the assessment was collected over the same period in 1952, he stated.

Judge Rules Against Self in Lawyer Role

Oakland County Circuit Judge George B. Hartrick played the unique role Wednesday of acting as presiding judge and defense counsel in a civil case and then ruling against himself.

The story started when Robert Mott of 3316 Magnolia St., Walled Lake, appeared in court without a lawyer to defend him in a suit asking $1,315.

Castle and David Thomas, co-partners in a wholesale bakery at 8831 Michigan Ave., Detroit, were suing Mott for that amount which they said he owed for purchase of a truck, bakery route and baked goods.

Mott denied their claims.

Judge Hartrick defended Mott in the trial which lasted almost an hour and then ruled that Mott would have to pay $250 for baked goods purchased from the company plus $200 for use of the truck supplied by the firm.

GOP Businessman Wins Senate Seat

TRAVERSE CITY (UP)—Complete returns showed today that Republican John Minnema, Traverse City businessman, defeated Raymond Murphy, Antrim County Democrat, by a vote of 6,102 to 2,790, in the 27th District state senatorial race.

Minnema succeeds the late Felix Flynn of Cadillac, who died in office. A special election was held in the five-county district Monday.

TURKISH PRESIDENT TO TOUR U. S.—There will be two unhappy grandchildren in the Turkish "White House" when President Celal Bayar and his wife leave Ankara for their trip to the U. S. later this month. The girls are the children of the president's daughter and Dr. Ahmet Gursoy, a physician and a member of parliament. To keep the children in good spirits, they have promised to bring back some real American dungarees. The president and his wife will tour the U. S. for one month before returning to Turkey.

Landlady Given Car by Former Residents

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—The tradition of giving a flashy new auto to a successful coach has become well established in this home of the University of Oklahoma.

But Miss Hettie Loar, who runs a rooming house, also has one. Miss Hettie has helped more than 600 Oklahoma students through school in the last 21 years by the jobs she's provided.

During a homecoming party for her former residents, about 40 of her "old boys" gave her a corsage. Tied with ribbon to the flowers was the key to a shiny new car—sitting at the curb outside.

Trellis' Morning Chatter Finally Leads to the Point

HOMETOWN, U.S.A. (AP)—"What makes men hold on to their money so?" demanded Trellis Mae Peeble, America's most average housewife.

* * *

"Dear," he said, "a wife's conversation is like a jigsaw puzzle—it takes a fellow some time to make any kind of pattern out of it. What are you trying to get at? I don't know any man who is holding on to his money."

* * *

"Well, Winthrop Rockefeller is. I read it in the newspaper before you got up."

"Is he? How does he do it?"

"By refusing to give it to Bobo."

"What's a Bobo?"

"Oh, don't act so dumb. Bobo is Winthrop's wife," said Trellis Mae, who always spoke of famous people by their first name.

* * *

"Why won't he give it to Bobo?" replied Wilbur, who was trying to read an article about the electric power problem in India.

* * *

"Well, they are separated, and Winthrop moved to Arkansas to forget it all. Now he wants to settle six million dollars on her, but his lawyer says Bobo is holding out for ten million dollars. Isn't that a silly thing to quarrel over?"

"It could be a matter of principle," said Wilbur. "And four million dollars is a pretty big principle."

"If she takes the six million dollars," mused Trellis Mae, "it says she could invest it so as to get about 120,000-tax-free dollars a year. That's not so much, is it?"

"Only about 325 bucks or so a day, including Sundays and the 29th of February during Leap Years," dryly remarked her husband. "But, of course, if she took it in silver dollars it would make quite a jingle in her purse."

"Whose side are you on, anyway?" asked his wife.

"I don't believe in mixing in family quarrels. I wish they'd kiss and make up—even if it puts 50 divorce lawyers in a breadline."

"Well, I certainly think you'd be more generous than Winthrop. Remember what you told me when we had our first big quarrel and I threatened to leave you?"

"No, indeed," said Wilbur cautiously.

"You told me I could have half of everything you owned."

"Yeah, that was nice of me. But what did I own then?"

"You didn't own anything. You were even overdrawn at the bank."

Wilbur looked at her suspiciously.

"Is our account overdrawn again?" he demanded. Trellis Mae nodded.

* * *

"I thought this conversation finally would lead somewhere," said Wilbur crossly. "Why can't you be more careful about your check stubs."

* * *

"I will," promised his wife. Grumbling as he started to leave for work, Wilbur held out his hand for his usual two-dollar lunch money and cigarette allowance. Trellis Mae put only a single dollar in it.

"A buck for lunch," griped Wilbur. "A mouse can't live on that."

"My mouse can," said his wife. She kissed him.

"G'bye, Bobo," he said.

"G'bye, Winthrop."

Drivers Cause Crashes

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—The Nebrask State Accident Record Bureau made a survey of 1952 accidents and said it wasn't the roads nor the vehicles which caused the most accidents. It was the "drivers who caused 79.7 per cent of the accidents by violating or disregarding some traffic rule."

7 States Produce Billion Pounds of Meat Yearly

Based on live weight statistics on cattle, hogs and sheep produced in 1952, the National Live Stock and Meat Board reports that seven of the 48 states each produce more than a billion pounds of meat annually.

These states in order are, Iowa, Illinois, Texas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska and Indiana.

The board also reports that six other states produce between one half billion and one billion pounds. In order these states are Ohio, Kansas, Wisconsin, South Dakota, Oklahoma and California.

Texas led all states last year in the combined production of beef and veal, with Iowa in second place and Nebraska third. Texas also produced more lamb than any other state, with California second, and Colorado in third place.

Iowa led all states in 1952 in the production of pork with Illinois second, and Indiana third.

Approximately two-thirds of the nation's meat supply is produced west of the Mississippi River and about 68 per cent is consumed east of the Mississippi.

Honey can be used, measure for measure, as a substitute for sugar in baked apples, puddings, custards and pie fillings.

Oriental Chops Quite Different

Most of us like pork chops and here we present a brand new version—quite different and, we think, very good.

We have borrowed from the cooks of the East, who are more than expert in combining varied textures into one harmonious whole, mixing the blandness of pork, the crispness of water chestnuts and the delicate flavor of canned broiled mushrooms.

Oriental Pork Chops

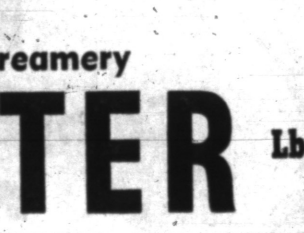

4 loin pork chops, 1 inch thick
2 teaspoons Kitchen Bouquet
2 tablespoons fat
1 tablespoon finely minced onion
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon rubbed marjoram
3-ounce can sliced broiled mushrooms
8-ounce can water chestnuts
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon vermouth or sherry, optional

Brush chops on all sides with Kitchen Bouquet. Place fat in Dutch oven or large frying pan over moderate heat. Brown chops quickly on all sides. Add onion and cook 1 minute. Add salt, marjoram and broth from mushrooms. Cover tightly and allow to simmer over low heat until chops are tender, about 20 minutes.

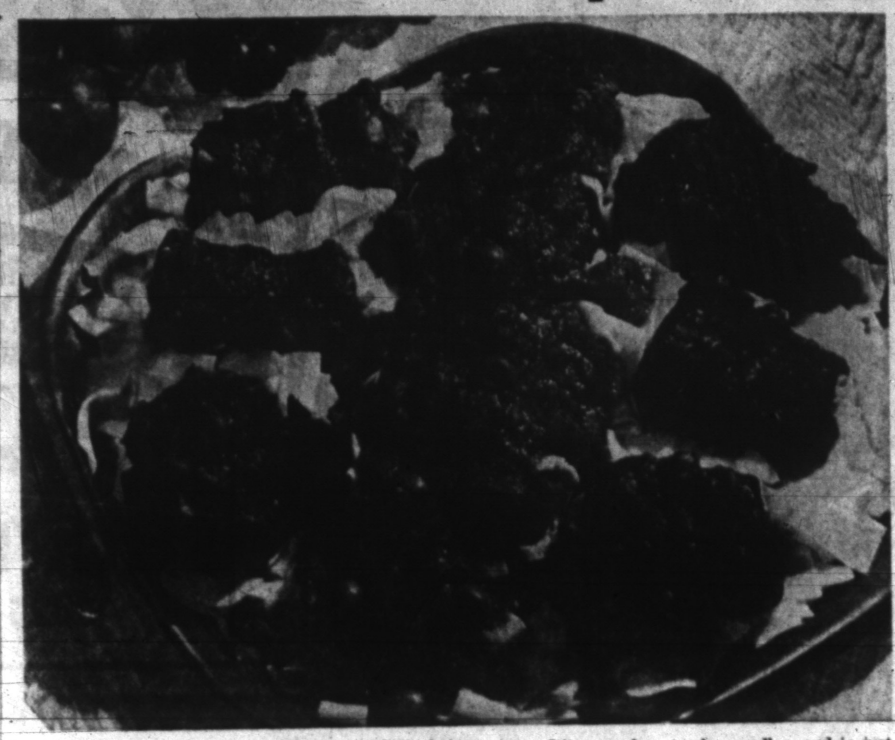

In the meantime drain chestnuts, reserving broth, and cut in slices about the thickness of the mushrooms. Add sufficient water to the chestnut broth to make 1 cup.

When chops are tender pour in ¾ cup of the chestnut broth. Combine and add cornstarch with remaining chestnut broth, stirring until sauce thickens. Add vermouth if desired. Add mushrooms and chestnuts and let heat thoroughly, but not boil, about 5 minutes. Serve immediately with hot buttered rice. Yields four servings.

Keep your ironware cooking utensils dry and oiled, so they won't rust. When it's properly cared for, ironware improves with age.

Serve Succulent Spanish Ribs

SPANISH SHORT RIBS—This hearty dish is mighty fine eating! Beef short ribs are cooked to juicy tenderness in a prize sauce made with canned tomatoes. It's served on tender noodles, and is just the dish for post-holiday meals.

Beef Casserole Has Unusual Seasoning

Family Ground Beef Casserole

1 pound ground beef
¾ cup uncooked rice
1 medium onion
2½ cups canned tomatoes (No. 2 can)
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon curry powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon onion salt
3 tablespoons soy sauce
Dash pepper
3 strips bacon

Wash rice and cook in boiling, salted water until tender. Finely chop onion and cook until lightly browned in 1 tablespoon hot fat. Add ground beef and brown. Mix with cooked rice, seasonings and tomatoes.

Pour into 1½ quart casserole; top with bacon and bake at 375 F. until bacon is crisp, about 30 minutes. 4-6 servings.

Lima Bean Soup Good With Sandwich Lunch

Creamy Lima Bean Soup

2 cups cooked large dry lima beans
4 cups milk
2 tablespoons finely diced onion
2 tablespoons finely diced carrot
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Put drained lima beans through coarse strainer or grind. Heat milk in top of double boiler. Cook onion and carrot in hot butter 5 minutes. Add to hot milk along with lima beans. Cook over boiling water 10 minutes. Stir in salt and pepper. Divide parsley among 4 soup bowls. Pour hot soup over it. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

Quick and Delicious

For a quick and delicious luncheon or supper dish, try a frankfurter omelet. Slice frankfurters into discs and brown lightly in a skillet. Then pour the egg mixture over the frankfurter slices and cook until golden-brown on one side; now turn and lightly brown on other side.

Skewered Lamb Fun to Serve, Eat

Skewered Lamb

1 small onion
½ teaspoon salt
Freshly-ground pepper (to taste)
¼ teaspoon dried crushed oregano
1 to 1½ pounds lean boneless lamb (cut in about 1-inch cubes)
Small onion wedges
Squares of green pepper

Grate onion fine; mix onion pulp and juice with salt, pepper and oregano. Roll lamb in onion mixture; put in tightly covered jar and refrigerate overnight. At serving time, arrange lamb cubes on skewers alternately with onion wedges and green pepper squares. Broil until meat is cooked through but onion is still partly crisp. Makes 4 servings.

Savory Cole Slaw Favorite With Men

Savory Cole Slaw

⅓ cup undiluted evaporated milk
¼ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup cider vinegar
3 cups finely cut green cabbage

Mix evaporated milk, sugar, salt and pepper, let stand about 5 minutes to dissolve sugar. Gradually stir in vinegar. Chill. (Makes about ¾ cup dressing.) For salads mix ½ cup of dressing with cabbage; chill until ready to serve. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Curry Adds Zip to Soup

Cream of tomato soup just loves to have you add a zip of curry powder for extra flavor. Sprinkle it into the soup and let it blend as the soup heats. An elegant company touch is to top the plain soup with a spoonful of whipped cream seasoned with a little curry powder.

Easy Resolution to Keep Is to Serve Basic 7 Foods

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Among the New Year resolutions we make, let's include one about food; and let's make it one that we keep all during the year.

Let's resolve to serve our families meals that include the "Basic 7" groups of food. Let's concentrate on nutrition with the very worthwhile goal of seeing children with healthy bodies, clear eyes and energy to spare; a goal also of good health for all the adult members of the family.

Age, sex, family income—all have little to do with the fact that "Basic 7" foods are necessary for each individual. Amounts may differ; kinds within a group may differ. But each of us needs the following foods every day in the year:

Leafy, green and yellow vegetables, raw or cooked. This group provides vitamin A and some essential minerals. Try to have at least one salad each day.

Citrus fruits, tomatoes and raw cabbage: one or more servings a day to provide the necessary vitamin C. Included also in this group are raspberries, strawberries, pineapple and cantaloupe.

Potatoes, other vegetables and fruits: eat one or more servings of potatoes daily and two servings of other vegetables and fruits. This group of foods yields valuable amounts of vitamins and minerals.

Milk and dairy products: drink milk or eat its equivalent in cheese or other dairy products every day. We never outgrow our need for milk and need one pint to one quart daily. More, of course, is needed for children, pregnant women and nursing mothers.

Meat, poultry, fish and eggs: serve one serving daily of meat, poultry or fish, if possible, and three or more eggs a week. Dried peas, beans, nuts or peanut butter are included in this group.

Bread, flour and cereals of the enriched or whole grain type should be served three times a day. This group includes macaroni, noodles and spaghetti if they are made with enriched flour.

Butter and fortified margarine: two or three servings a day are recommended.

The above is merely a list of the foods in the "Basic 7." Later articles will discuss more in detail the part each type of food plays in good nutrition, substitutions that may be made and economy tips for buying, storing and cooking.

But let's each one of us homemakers responsible for the feeding of a family resolve to serve the most nutritious meals possible within the framework of the budget, the likes and dislikes with which we have to work.

Woman Prefers Jail to Payment of Fine

CARLSBAD, N. M. (AP)—Fifty-one-year-old Mrs. Frances Supina began her seventh month in county jail today. She entered a cell last July 6 rather than pay a $1,000 fine for contempt of court.

District court ruled she had violated an order not to rent a garage apartment at her home on swank Riverside Drive where property deeds contain restrictions against such renting.

"I'm not guilty of anything," she said grimly from her cell today, "and I don't owe anybody anything. I'm going to stick it out."

A hearing is planned in which the state will try to establish a lien against apartments owned elsewhere in the city than Riverside Drive in order to collect her fine. No date has been set.

Beef Simmers in Prize Sauce

Noodles or Rice Add Heartiness to Flavorful Post-Holiday Dish

Purse - string purchasing and mighty fine eating both are found in the hearty dish of Spanish Short Ribs, served on cooked noodles or rice.

The ribs are prepared with a delicious tomato sauce and simmered gently to succulent tenderness. The bonus flavor of the sauce combined with the tender, juicy ribs gives a dish you'll be as proud to serve on Sunday as any other day.

Spanish Short Ribs

2 pounds beef short ribs
Flour
2 tablespoons shortening
1 small onion
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ cup stuffed olives
Cooked noodles, or rice

Cut ribs into serving pieces. Dip in flour and brown slowly in shortening. Drain off fat. Add sliced onion and rest of ingredients, except noodles.

Cover and simmer slowly about 2 hours, or until ribs are tender. Serve the ribs and sauce on cooked noodles or rice. Four servings.

Pretty Bridge Snacks

Pinwheel sandwiches are pretty to serve when the bridge club is coming. To make them, start with a loaf of unsliced bread. Trim the crusts from the bread and then slice it lengthwise. Spread the long slices with the desired filling and roll each into a short cylinder; wrap tightly in waxed paper and store in the refrigerator. Before serving cut each sandwich cylinder into even slices.

Japanese Farmer Hits Jackpot of Old Coins

TOKYO (INS) — A Japanese farmer digging vegetables in his garden hit the jackpot when he unearthed an antique Chinese pottery filled with coins believed to be 600 years old.

Raro Kumazawa, the 57-year-old farmer who made the strike on the outskirts of Tokyo discovered some 25,000 ancient coins in the vase.

Both the vase and the coins were expected to bring a fortune to the lucky man.

ORANGES—TOPS IN VITAMIN C—We are now at the peak of the citrus fruit season, with oranges coming to us from both Florida and California. Serve them often in any form and be assured of your full quota of vitamin C.

Good Eating, Good Health in Oranges, Citrus Fruits

By JANET ODELL

The orange in the toe of the Christmas stocking is no longer the treat it was in Grandpa's day; all citrus fruit is available twelve months of the year and is an accepted part of our national diet.

One nutrition expert has said that vitamin C (the vitamin found in great quantities in citrus fruit) actually helps hold your body together; it is vital to the material which helps hold the body cells together like cement between bricks.

Since the body cannot store vitamin C for any length of time, you need a daily supply of it. In the winter citrus fruit is the ideal way to obtain the necessary amounts of this essential vitamin.

We are now at the peak of the citrus fruit season. Navel oranges, the ones that can be divided into large attractive segments, are packed and shipped from November to May. Valencias are in the market from April to November.

Because oranges require from nine to 12 months to ripen, the trees often contain both flowers and fruit. The California oranges are all tree ripened.

Puzzling to the fruit industry is the fact that the Valencias take on a greenish tinge after they are fully ripe. Ripe navel oranges are always golden globes.

Unlike other fruit, oranges are cut from the tree with pruning shears. After a hot water and borax bath and a thorough scrubbing, they are waxed, polished, graded and individually wrapped before shipping.

Buy oranges with firmly textured skins. Avoid the puffy, spongy fruit. The best citrus fruit is always heavy.

Discoloration or "russeting" of the skin does not harm the fruit. This russeting is caused by the activity of the rust mite, a tiny insect that works on the skin of the fruit, but does not permeate the flesh.

Getting your daily supply of vitamin C from oranges is pleasant. After all, you have a choice of fresh, canned or frozen orange products. They can be appropriately served for any meal or for between-meal snacks.

Memory Feat Amazing

CHEPACHET, R. I. (UP)—William V. Wallace, who has a photographic memory, can describe any item listed on any one of the 1,200 pages of a popular mail order catalog. You name the page, and Wallace will tell you what's on it, along with the various prices listed.

Avoid Those 2nd Helpings! Best Way to Cut Calories

A well-known food scientist made the statement recently that a "calorie should be judged by the company it keeps." If one is trying to lose weight by cutting down on foods, those fewer calories must be in the good company of proteins, minerals and vitamins.

That non-seen calorie is a term of measuring the energy-giving, or fuel, value of a food. The senior citizen of over 60 years of age who is doing less strenuous work needs fewer calories in a day than when he or she was more active. If more food is eaten than necessary for daily activities, the excess calories are converted into body fat.

Every food has some caloric value. Beverages like water, tea and coffee have none; they get a count only from added foods. The foods with a relatively low caloric count are those with a high amount of water and cellulose or little fat.

These, and most are needed daily, include: Fruits, vegetables, lean meat, fish with little oil, poultry, skim milk, cottage cheese and eggs. Cereals, and bread made from cereals, are not as low in calories as the foregoing foods. But they are inexpensive sources of energy, supplementary protein and some of the B vitamins. It's usually the fats and sweeteners used with them that raise their caloric total.

Fats, pastries, frosted cakes and other rich desserts are the weight adders. They should be eaten in moderation and only after protein, mineral and vitamin food needs have been met.

The fewer calories permitted on a weight-watching diet can be maintained if one avoids second helpings. When a person can not be satisfied with a normal serving, part of this ravenous appetite can be appeased by a mid-morning or mid-afternoon snack of unflavored gelatin in fruit juice or water.

Unflavored gelatin is all-protein, and an envelope of this gelatin contains only 28 calories.

Fruits or salads could start the meal and take the nip off a too hearty appetite.

Those fewer calories can also be made more exciting by attractive service. For example, the two cups of milk required a day for the senior citizen can be taken in coffee, tea, eggnogs, cream soups or custards.

RAF Plane Crash Kills 15, Injures One

ALDBURY, England (AP)—A Royal Air Force team from Thorney Island battled on the rugby field yesterday afternoon at Reading and lost, 26-6.

Then the eleven climbed into a two-engine Valeta transport plane and headed south through a blizzard for home. Thirty miles north of London, the aircraft smacked into snow-swept Toms Hill.

Only two of the 16 RAF passengers and crewmen were pulled out alive. One died soon after he was brought to a hospital.

The last survivor, a footballer, was reported in critical condition.

Custom Has New Twist

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP) — Bobby Roberts, 11, asked his father for money to buy bubble gum for his classmates when told he was going to have a new brother or sister.

Big Spud Crop Heralds Jump in Consumption

The potato is making a comeback in the role of featured vegtable, according to Lee Thomson, director of the produce division of the National Association of Retail Grocers.

A better undetstanding of the nutritonal value of the potato and a greater appreciation of its versatility in meal preparation is expected to increase its per capita consumption to 105 pounds in 1953 as compared with 96 pounds last year, Thomson said.

He pointed out that this year's late potato crop nationally is about 10 million bushels over last year and the rices are expected to remain at value levels. The potatoes on fall markets, he said, are generally "all-purpose" potatoes with better-than-average keeping qualities for storing in the home.

If properly prepared and cooked, potatoes are an excellent source should be considered an essential part of everyone's diet, particularly those of children and young people and including those of the calorie-conscious group, Thomson declared.

"Persons who spurn the so-called fattening foods should realize that a small potato, baked or boiled, has only about 50 calories, and it's easy to contol the amount of butter or margarine used," he said.

Stolen Pass Takes Teenager Into Court

BOSTON (AP)—John D. Kirnon, 17, got into Municipal Court today on a free pass—charged with larceny.

He presented a free pass to the cashier at the Fenway Theatre last night and went in to see "Texas Badman."

Miss Marion Grace, the cashier, had him arrested. She told police the pass was among the items in her handbag which was stolen the previous day.

Banana Candy Minus Cooking

Let the children make banana candy. All you need are some golden ripe bananas, a little lemon juice and some confectioner's sugar. Just mash the bananas, mix in the sugar and mold the candies with your fingers.

Banana Candy

1¼ cups sifted confectioners sugar
½ cup mashed bananas
2 teaspoons fresh lemon juice
Colored sugar, colored spangles, chocolate decorettes, nuts, glazed cherries and cinnamon drops

Gradually add confectioners' sugar to bananas and lemon juice. Shape into 1-inch balls. Roll each into colored sugar, colored spangles or chocolate decorettes. Top with nuts, glazed cherries, or cinnamon drops, if desired. Makes about 2 pounds.

Old Favorites Are Combined in One Recipe

Who can forget the plump and glistening baked apples that were a regular feature of the old-fashioned kitchen? Who doesn't remember the rice pudding that was baked in a slow oven and had indescribably delicious flavor?

There's a new recipe that combines the best features of both those old-fashioned treats to make one grand and glorious dessert. It's Cinnamon Apples baked with Rice and served with Custard Sauce.

Baked Rice and Cinnamon Apples

½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon cornstarch
¾ cup water
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
4 teaspoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon red cinnamon candies
6 medium baking apples
3 cups cooked rice
½ cup milk

Mix together sugar and cornstarch in saucepan. Stir in water, lemon rind, lemon juice and cinnamon candies. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture boils and candies are melted. Core apples; pare one-third of the way down from stem end. Turn rice and milk into a greased shallow baking dish; place apples on top. Spoon small amount hot syrup over each apple. Bake uncovered in a moderate oven, (350) 45 minutes, basting frequently with remaining syrup. Serve with Custard Sauce. Yield: 6 servings.

Custard Sauce

2 cups milk
2 eggs
¼ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla

Scald milk in top of double boiler. Beat eggs slightly; stir in sugar and salt. Slowly stir in scalded milk; return to double boiler. Cook over hot, not boiling water, stirring constantly, until mixture coats the spoon. Remove from heat at once; cool. Add vanilla.

Delicious Coffee Requires Few Simple Directions

By International News Service

NEW YORK — One of the first things by which guests judge a cook's abilities is her coffee.

It's not at all hard to make a good cup of coffee — every time — if you follow a few simple suggestions.

First of all, you must use only fresh coffee to get the really good beverage you want. It's best to buy only enough coffee to last your family a week, or even less, if you can manage it.

Coffee that has been exposed to the air for any longer time loses a great deal of its flavor.

It's important, whether you buy coffee already ground or grind it yourself, to make sure you have the proper grind for the type of coffee maker you have.

Next, have that coffee maker sparkling clean. You just can't make good coffee in a pot thats stained with the traces of left-over coffee. No mere rinsing will remove the oils that stick to the pot.

It takes a thorough scrubbing with plenty of soap suds or detergent to get a coffee maker bright and shining.

As for making the coffee, no matter what type of coffee maker you use, one or two rules always apply.

Coffee experts recommend — for a full-bodied brew — one standard coffee measure, or its equivalent, two level measuring tablespoonsful of fresh coffee to each three-quarters of a measuring cup of freshly drawn, cold water.

Finish by brewing your coffee exactly the length of time recommended for your type of coffee maker — none of this letting the coffee brew and brew and brew.

Pineapple-maple milk treat: For a different and nourishing breakfast beverage add ½ cup unsweetened pineapple juice and 1 to 2 tablespoons maple syrup to 2 cups chilled milk. Shake thoroughly and serve cold.

Dessert Blends Cherries, Mint

Smart hostesses are looking for festive recipe suggestions appropriate for holiday entertaining. Cherry Mint Ice Cream made with bright red maraschino cherries and tinted a delicate green carries out the traditional color theme fitting right into the holiday party mood.

Every guest on your list will enjoy the delicious flavor of maraschino cherries accented with mint in this refreshing frozen dessert.

Cherry Mint Ice Cream

½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1½ cups milk
½ teaspoon salt
2 eggs, separated
Few drops mint extract
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
¾ cup coarsely chopped maraschino cherries (about 30 cherries)
Green food coloring

Combine sugar and cornstarch in top of double boiler; gradually stir in milk. Place over direct heat and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Place over boiling water and cover; cook 10 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Beat egg yolks. Stir a little of hot mixture into beaten egg yolks; then stir into milk mixture. Cook over hot, not boiling water, stirring constantly, for three minutes. Remove from hot water and cool.

Beat egg whites until stiff; add salt and fold into cooled custard. Add mint flavoring. Pour into refrigerator tray and freeze until frozen about 1-inch from sides of trays.

Turn into mixing bowl. Beat with rotary or electric beater until light and fluffy. Fold in heavy cream and maraschino cherries. Add enough food coloring to tint mixture a light green. Pour into freezing tray or mold. Freeze until firm. Stir occasionally during freezing process.

Unmold and garnish with whipped cream and additional maraschino cherries, if desired. Makes about 1½ pints.

Considerate Manager Aids Thief's Getaway

OMAHA (INS) — Ray Whisman, manager of an Omaha Safeway store, noticed a customer hurrying to a car in the store's parking lot and asked: "Did you get fixed up?"

"Yeah," replied the customer.

Whisman did not know how well "fixed up" the customer was until he returned to the store and learned the man had just brandished a .45 caliber automatic and cleaed out a cash register.

Lettuce Baked in Curry Sauce

Unusually favorable weather has brought Arizona and California lettuce to market ahead of time and in great quantity. That means lower than normal prices.

Iceberg, or crisphead, lettuce is generally eaten raw in salads and sandwiches. It is also delicious cooked, the way many Europeans prepare it.

Curried Lettuce Casserole

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ cup flour
1 cup chicken broth or consomme
½ cup milk
1 cup diced celery
1 tablespoon chopped onion (1 small onion)
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon each sugar and curry powder
2 medium-sized heads iceberg lettuce
2 medium-sized apples
2 cups buttered soft bread crumbs
Whole pecan halves

Melt butter or margarine; stir in flour. Gradually add chicken broth or consomme and milk; add celery and onions and cook until thick. Add seasonings.

Cut lettuce into serving size wedges. Slice apples ¼ inch thick. Arrange lettuce, apples and curry sauce in alternating layers in 2-quart casserole. Pour on the sauce. Cover casserole.

Bake 30 minutes. Remove cover. Sprinkle with bread crumbs. Garnish with pecans. Bake another 10 minutes. Serves 6-8.

Molded Salad Sparks Buffet

Are you looking for suggestions for your next buffet supper . . . something that will be as striking as the gay decorations in your party room but, at the same time, easy to make and serve?

A famous consumer test kitchen has prepared a molded fruit salad that would be a delicious accompaniment with a baked ham. Add piping hot rolls and potato sticks . . . and for dessert, a tray of fruit cake and assorted cookies. Top it off with coffee and rest assured that your meal will be a big success.

Buffet Fruit Salad Mold

1 No. 2 can pineapple tidbits
Orange juice
4 envelopes plain gelatin
1½ cups water
½ cup lemon juice
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
6 ounces cream cheese
1 cup real mayonnaise
2 oranges, peeled and diced
2 avocados, peeled and diced
Salad greens

Drain pineapple, reserving juice. Add enough orange juice to pineapple juice to make 2 cups. In a large mixing bowl soak gelatin in 1 cup cold water. Combine fruit juices with remaining ½ cup water, sugar and salt. Heat. Add to gelatin and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Blend cream cheese and real mayonnaise. Mix thoroughly with gelatin mixture. Chill in refrigerator until slightly thickened. Fold in pineapple, oranges and avocados. Pour into a 9½x5½x2¾ inch loaf pan. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with salad greens and additional orange and avocado, if desired. Yield: 8 to 10 servings.

1-3 cup lightly packed thin strips onion (1 medium-small onion)
½ teaspoon wine vinegar
2 eggs, salt and pepper
⅓ cup lightly packed tiny bread cubes (made from French bread or rolls with crusts left on).

Melt 2 teaspoons butter in skillet; add onion and cook over low heat 5 to 7 minutes, until onion is still somewhat crisp but not brown.

Dry Milk Bolsters Beef in Nutritious Skillet Pie

Three plentiful nutritious foods—beef, potatoes and nonfat dry milk—are combined in a stick-to-the-ribs recipe. It's a skillet pie with nutritious nonfat dry milk to enrich both the meat filling and the potato garnish.

Economical nonfat dry milk adds to the flavor as well as the nutrition of the meat filling. It is available at the grocer's in foil-lined one-pound packages which will yield five quarts of fresh nonfat milk for as little as nine cents a quart.

Here's our one-dish meal feature, Skillet Pie:

Skillet Pie

3 tablespoons butter
½ cup chopped onion
½ chopped green pepper
1 pound lean beef, cut in cubes
¼ cup nonfat dry milk
3 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups water
½ cup sliced, cooked carrots

Melt butter in large skillet over medium heat. Saute onion and green pepper until tender. Add beef. Cook until tender, about 10-15 minutes. Sprinkle nonfat dry milk powder, flour, salt and pepper over surface of water. Beat with rotary beater until just blended. Pour gradually into meat mixture, stirring rapidly. Continue to cook until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Stir in sliced cooked carrots.

Potato Garnish

¼ cup nonfat dry milk
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons water
2 medium potatoes, cooked and mashed

Add nonfat dry milk powder, salt and the water to mashed potatoes; beat well. Arrange in ring over rim of meat mixture, leaving center free. Broil about 3 inches from heat until potatoes are browned, about 3 minutes. Serve at once.

Mules Head Startling

Tenderizer, Blue Cheese Improve Thrifty Steaks

One of the cleverest discoveries of food science is that you can tenderize the stubbornest cuts of steak with a salt derived from a tropical melon. And what a boon to budgets papaya salt has proved!

"Take advantage of the good buy in chuck, blade, flank or round steak," says the January issue of a current magazine, "to broil juicy-tender with meat-tenderizing salt."

Gourmet Steak
(Topped with blue cheese)

1 chuck or blade steak (cut 1, 1½, or 2 inches thick)
Meat-tenderizing salt
3 ounces (about 4 tablespoons) blue cheese

Sprinkle steak lightly and evenly on both sides with meat-tenderizing salt; prick completely through in several places with 2-tine fork; cover with waxed paper; let stand at room temperature, allowing ½ hour for each ½-inch thickness. Time accurately.

Make shallow diagonal cuts 1 inch apart on both sides of steak; stuff one side with half the blue cheese; place, cheese side up, on broiler rack in heated broiler oven.

Broil with top of meat 3 inches from unit or tip of flame for half the time called for in broiling timetable for thickness of meat and doneness desired; turn; broil for remaining time.

Remove steak from broiler oven; quickly fill diagonal cuts in top side with remaining blue cheese; place on heated serving platter; serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

BROILING TIMETABLE

THICKNESS	TOTAL TIME* Rare	Med.	Well done
1 inch	8	10	12
1½ inches	12	14	22
2 inches	16	18 to 20	30 to 32

Reels in Two for One

EAST AURORA, N. Y. (UP) — While fishing, Austin Bennett felt a strike and began reeling line. Then he felt a second strike, much heavier, and pulled harder. He opened the 16-pound Northern Pike and found he had hooked another fish first — a three pound bass that was still alive.

Trabert Eliminates Aussie Ken Rosewall

ADELAIDE (AP) — Tony Trabert, U. S. Davis Cup star from Cincinnati, crushed Australia's Ken Rosewall in straight sets today 6-3, 6-3, 6-2 to enter the final of the South Australian Tennis Championships.

Trabert's victory set the stage for another struggle between him and Lewis Hoad, 19-year-old Aussie star. Hoad outlasted Trabert in a bristling five-set key match in the recent Davis Cup challenge round.

Hoad put on a great rally to defeat titleholder Rex Hartwig 4-6, 4-6, 7-5, 6-1, 6-2 in the other semi-final today. He and Trabert play for the championship Saturday.

Settle Prisoner Rift Tentatively

South Korea Minister Drops Threat to Free 22,000 POWs

SEOUL (AP)—American and South Korean leaders meeting separately today apparently settled—at least temporarily—a rift on the tense problem of disposing of prisoners of war.

South Korean Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tai dropped his threat of violence to free more than 22,000 unrepatriated prisoners of war while "new (Allied) arrangements" are tested.

Meanwhile, the Communists failed to answer a repatriation commission request for their views on what to do with the prisoners after Jan. 22, the date set by the armistice for freeing them as civilians.

The U. N. replied earlier that they should be released according to truce terms. There was no indication that the Communists would change their all-out opposition to the release before a Korean political conference meets.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, 8th Army commander, flew to Tokyo for conferences with Gen. John E. Hull, U.N. commander.

An official spokesman said the two generals were "smoothing out a number of prisoner details and tying up some loose ends."

The spokesman added:

Pyun threatened Tuesday to invade the Indian custodial troops in the Korean neutral zone.

Taylor issued a cold, brief statement at Seoul Wednesday night that 8th Army troops were pledged to protect Indian troops against an attack.

Pyun had threatened to attack the Indians because of a roster check or headcount of anti-Communist prisoners, during which 135 POWs asked and were granted repatriation to Red China.

President Syngman Rhee met with Cabinet officers Thursday to consider the Taylor statement and afterwards Pyun said in an interview:

"We are now making new arrangements as a test and if the arrangements pass the test we do not have to use force against the Indians."

Taxi Kills Bus Driver for Detroit's 5th Fatality

DETROIT (UP) — Francis Devaney, 50, became Detroit's fifth traffic fatality of the new year when he was struck by a taxicab late Wednesday, police reported today.

Devaney, a DSR bus driver, was struck while crossing a street on his way home from work. The taxi driver, Robert Kraus, 24, was held for investigation of manslaughter.

Mayor Hubbard Hearing Delayed

Will Resume Monday; Ex-Tax Assessor Tells of Pressure

DETROIT (AP) — The ouster hearing of Dearborn's Mayor Orville Hubbard was ordered adjourned until Monday after a former tax assessor for the Detroit suburb told of quitting after pressure was exerted to lower the tax assessment of a department store.

Joseph Schaefer testified yesterday that he was told by Carl L. Farmer, Dearborn's board of assessor chairman, that the board would be "in trouble" if it failed to lower the assessment of the local branch of People's Outfitting Co.

Schaefer told Kent County Probate Judge Wallace Waalkes Jr. that Farmer suggested Schaefer's job depended on the lowering of the assessment.

The witness said he did not agree but signed the tax rolls "so that that community's taxes could be collected."

He added that he resigned in 1950, giving poor health and "the type of things that were going on in the assessor's office" as the reasons.

Farmer is awaiting trial on a perjury charge. He is accused of lying when he told the grand jury investigating Dearborn's political affairs that other members of the board joined him in approving the assessment cut for People's.

The tax reduction for the department store amounted to $132,000.

James Henry Wineman, People's secretary, was recalled to the stand.

He had told Judge Waalkes, who is presiding by appointment of Gov. Williams, that Hubbard had hesitantly accepted a television set from the company on Wineman's insistence.

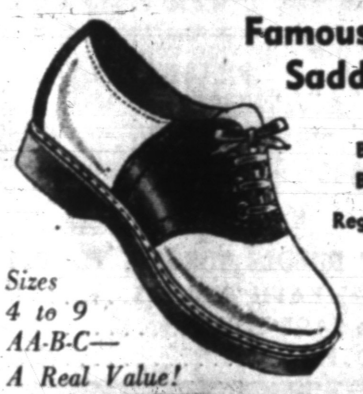

Wineman had testified that the TV set was a token of appreciation for the mayor's cooperation in listening to the firm's arguments. He added that Hubbard had made no promises to help.

Wineman was excused after brief questioning yesterday.

A passenger with Dillon, Marvin Maynard, 29, also of Utica, was admitted to the hospital with concussion, and bruises to the knee, ankle and shoulder. His condition is also listed as fair.

Oakland County sheriff's deputies said that Dillon was turning left into a private drive in Avon Township, turned into the path of Snider's auto and the two cars collided.

Set State GOP Policy Goals

Republican Body Backs 4-Year Terms in State, County Jobs

LANSING (UP)—The Michigan Republican Policy Committee set forth its goals for the 1954 legislative session today, headed by endorsement of four-year terms for major state and county offices and the legislature itself.

The policy committee, composed of key legislators and elective GOP state officials, produced a 13-point program on major issues — and said it might have more recommendations later.

The policy committee proposed that the legislature, controlled by the GOP, submit to the people next fall a constitutional amendment to give major state and county officials and legislators four-year terms, instead of their present two-year terms.

It called for passage of the plan developed by Rep. Rollo G. Conlin (R-Tipton) to amend the sales tax diversion portion of the constitution to put the public school allotments on a current basis.

This is the first step, the committee said, toward "bringing sanity to the state tax structure."

Fiscal officials have objected for years that the state is being bankrupted by the present diversion plan. It gives the schools their share of the sales tax out of one year's collections on the basis of a ratio always two years old.

The committee said it recognized this was not an overall solution to fiscal problems, but that it would bring stability to both state and school finances.

The GOP leaders said they would cut Gov. Williams' budget, to make it fit current revenues and that no new taxes would be passed.

They reiterated their previous endorsement of a $2 to $4 a week increase in the weekly workmen's compensation benefits now ranging from $28 to $35.

Many K-F Employes Still Out of Work

DETROIT (UP) — Communities housing laid-off employes of the Kaiser Motors Corp., are in a state of "localized economic slump" the CIO United Auto Workers reported yesterday.

Some 60 per cent of 3,704 laid-off Kaiser employes who replied to a union survey said they were still out of work. Another 10 per cent said they were employed but the jobs were "unsatisfactory."

And when the results of the survey were announced, only 699 workers reported they were still employed by Kaiser.

Kaiser sold his Willow Run plant to General Motors recently following a sharp reduction in the company's automotive output and the cancellation of an air force contract last June.

Nearly 12,000 K-F employes were laid off following the Air Force cancellation.

Youth of U. S. Seek Higher Type Jobs

CARBONDALE, Ill. (UP) — Young Americans no longer want to follow in their fathers' footsteps, a Southern Illinois university survey shows.

The survey of 1,962 high school seniors showed most of the students had their sights set on occupations and professions much higher than those of their parents, said Dr. Alice Rector, SIU student employment supervisor.

Dr. Rector said four times as many youths desired professional jobs as there were fathers in such occupations.

The survey indicated an increasing number of young people will move from rural or small town areas to large cities where there is need for their professions.

She said the survey also showed more student counseling was needed because students were limiting themselves unnecessarily in their choice of occupations due to lack of knowledge of various fields.

Old age pensions were adopted by Germany in 1854.

Bride Also Soloist at Her Own Wedding

ALTON, Ill. (UP) — Mrs. Kenneth Lawson has revealed how she was able to be both bride and soloist at her recent wedding.

A short time before the wedding at the Upper Alton Baptist Church was to get under way, she received a telephone call from the scheduled male singer. He couldn't make it—laryngitis.

Mrs. Lawson, a voice student at Shurtleff College when she was Evelyn Broyles, was equal to the emergency.

She and the bridegroom exchanged vows to the music of her own voice on a tape recording she had made previously. Fortunately, she had recorded "Always" and "Through the Years."

Mother, Grandmother

BRISTOL, Conn. (UP) — Mrs. William Duchaine, 37, became a mother for the fifth time in Bristol hospital. Four hours later, she became a grandmother. She and her daughter gave birth to girls.

3 Reasons to Name Brimstone Corner

BOSTON (UP)—Here are three reasons why the intersection of Park and Tremont streets is known as "Brimstone Corner:"

1. Brimstone was stored in the church cellar during the War of 1812 for the making of powder.
2. The corner got its name from the "thunder and lightning" preaching of early ministers at the church.
3. The devil, passing by, dropped into the church and never came out—a theory that is the subject of a gay poem entitled "A Legend of Brimstone Corner," by Boston's historian, Mark A. De Wolfe Howe.

Burglary Is Selective

DANIELSON, Conn. (UP) — A burglar broke into three offices in Danielson and escaped with $124. The bandit took the money from the attorney's office, the office of the town medical examiner and the office of the town court judge.

Ring Perches in Curl

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP) — Mrs. Bessie Martin recovered her missing ring when a regular customer dropped into her beauty shop to have her hair fixed. Mrs. Martin was combing the woman's hair, which had been piled on top of her head the week before and sprayed with hair lacquer to keep it in place, when she spotted the ring nestled in a curl. She silently slipped it out of the woman's hair and onto her finger.

Pick State Chief of Corrections

Gus Harrison Naming Sudden; Seen as Move to Nip Discord

IONIA (AP)—By the sudden appointment of Gus Harrison as State Corrections Director, the State Corrections Commission today hoped it had spiked growing discord within the penal system.

The elevation of Harrison from acting director at least a month ahead of schedule was seen as the commission's counter move to its suspicions that veteran parole board member A. Ross Pascoe was attempting to sabotage Harrison and was working privately with senators against the confirmation of the appointment of some of the commissioners.

It was learned that Harrison had seriously considered recommending to the commission that Pascoe be fired. Harrison's elevation, however, has put this move in abeyance.

The commission made its intentions clear by ordering the drafting of a stiff letter to all department personnel officially notifying them of Harrison's appointment, declaring the commission's full confidence in Harrison and demanding "the loyalty and cooperation of every staff member" for the new director.

It was learned that Harrison had been thinking of asking for Pascoe's discharge on the grounds of insubordination. Pascoe, however, is under civil service, and it was believed Harrison did not feel he had a strong enough case against Pascoe.

Harrison, 37, has been acting director at $12,000 a year, since the commission took over the penal system in October. He receives the same salary as permanent director.

Born in Ansonia, Conn., Harrison graduated in sociology from Michigan State College in 1938 and joined the department the same year as a prison social worker. He took graduate work at MSC in 1940 and 1941 and was made State Supervisor of Paroles in 1947.

FORT ERIE, Ont. (UP)—Two Buffalo men unearthed what appeared to be a rare button while digging for relics at this historic old fort. They treated their find with a special fluid, then examined the button with a magnifying glass. It turned out to be from a Buffalo department store, without the slightest historic value.

Lanza Sings in Absentia, in New Film

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A handsome young Englishman opened his mouth to sing. The voice was unmistakably that of Mario Lanza.

This strange circumstance has been happening on the set of "Student Prince." MGM's refurbishing of the Sigmund Romberg operetta. I watched while Edmund Purdom sang a love song to Ann Blyth. At least Purdom went through the motions. Lanza supplied the voice.

This is the picture that launched law suits asking millions of dollars in damages. Lanza walked out on the production, leaving it high and dry. He later had a change of heart and made a deal whereby the studio could use the recordings of his voice for the sound track.

Purdom was chosen to step into Lanza's roomy costumes. He is rather slim and tall with a well-chiseled face and brown hair. Director Richard Thorpe reported he was doing admirably.

"After the first 15 seconds on the screen, you'll forget entirely that you are hearing Lanza's voice," said Thorpe.

When the scene was over, Purdom came over to discuss his future. He believes that the illusion will succeed.

* * *

"It's not like Larry Parks' impersonation of Al Jolson," said the handsome protege of the Oliviers. "In that picture, Parks was portraying a well-known personality. All his songs were done with gestures and dances, just as they would have been done on a stage before an audience.

"'Student Prince' is different. The fellow does not step before an audience and start singing; all the songs are worked into the plot. Lanza had never done that on the screen. Virtually all the singing in his pictures were arias or songs delivered in the grand style. Only in the beginning of 'The Great Caruso' was there a song which he did spontaneously."

Purdom has never met Lanza, but is well acquainted with his style. When the young actor was selected for the part, he ran the Lanza pictures over and over to observe how the tenor delivered his songs.

"Oddly enough, Mario exerts very little when he is singing on the screen," he commented. "If pictures were taken while he was singing for the recordings, he would probably be amazed at the straining he does.

"I was faced with a problem in trying to simulate his singing. It is such a big voice with such a kick to it that you have to do one of two things: you have to appear big with a huge, padded chest, or you have to appear to be straining every muscle. Synchronizing the lip movement was easy to acquire; making the delivery of the songs seem authentic was much more difficult.

"I do it best by turning the recording up as loud as I can. In that way, I can drown out my own ineffective organ. And the voice almost seems to enter into me."

That's the system that Parks used for the Jolson pictures; he played the songs at a deafening volume.

Despite Purdom's modesty, he is reported to have a nice voice of his own. He's baritone, but director Thorpe reported that he becomes a tenor when he has to strain in the closeups.

Purdom is the son of English author and dramatic critic, Charles B. Purdom. Having appeared in repertory and in Shakespeare at Stratford-On-Avon, he came to New York to play in the "Cleopatra" shows done by Vivien Leigh and Laurence Olivier. Six different studios offered him contracts, and he chose one at MGM.

His only two film chores before "Student Prince" were bits in "Titanic" and Julius Caesar." He married an English dancer named Anita Phillips and they have a year-old daughter.

City Councilmen End Deadlock, Elect 2 Mayors

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—The Hamilton City Council, deadlocked over the election of a mayor, worked its way out of the dilemma yesterday by electing two mayors. Arthur Wilson of the People's party will serve during 1954 and Arthur Fiehrer of the Forward Hamilton party will serve during 1955.

The deadlock arose as a result of a situation in which the People's party had three council members, the Forward Hamilton party three members and then there was Herbert Mich, elected as an Independent.

Votes taken Monday were 3-3-1 with Mich voting for himself. Yesterday, however, the Forward Hamilton members broke party lines and voted for Fiehrer to serve during 1955.

Mich refused to vote, declared he was a candidate himself.

E. H. Perrson, director of law, expressed belief the dual election was legal even though unusual.

The infant is the daughter of Mrs. Geralda Francisca de Jesus, wife of a rural storekeeper. The hospital disclosed the baby has two completely separate hearts and respiratory systems, one digestive system, four arms and three legs.

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Fred DeHass, former Marine, reported his car stolen last night while he was bowling.

Later, the 6-foot 4-inch, 230-pound DeHass walked out of the bowling place and saw his car moving in a slow line of traffic.

He dashed into the street, grabbed the driver's collar and ordered him to pull to the curb. The driver meekly complied.

Flirt Gets in Trouble

BAYTOWN, Tex. (UP)—A bloody 13-year-old youth told police he had been beaten with a board by a man he identified, but he was slightly puzzled as to why he was beaten. He couldn't decide whether it was because he flirted with the man's wife, or because he later threw a brick through the windshield of the man's automobile. Police advised him to leave other men's wives and automobiles alone.

Lost Rod Snares Fish

WATERFORD, Conn. (UP)—Capt. Earle Wadsworth, skipper of the Sunbeam II and the Hiram, swears it happened. A fisherman lost his line overboard. The captain's son John, 17, dived into the water to recover the rod. When he found it, a fish was hooked on the other end.

New Development in Clover Reported

LINCOLN, Neb. (UP)—A U. S. agriculture department agronomist stationed at the University of Nebraska experiment station says it now appears possible to develop "coumarin-free" varieties of yellow-flowered sweetclover.

The agronomist, G. T. Webster, said plant breeders have been tryint for several years to develop strains of sweetclover free from coumarin—a substance present in all common varieties that gives the plant a bitter taste and is indirectly responsible for ailments in livestock fed spoiled sweetclover hay.

He said hybrids have been produced at the Nebraska station which, when crossed with other varieties, may produce coumarin-free varities that have most of the other characteristics of the common yellow-flowered types.

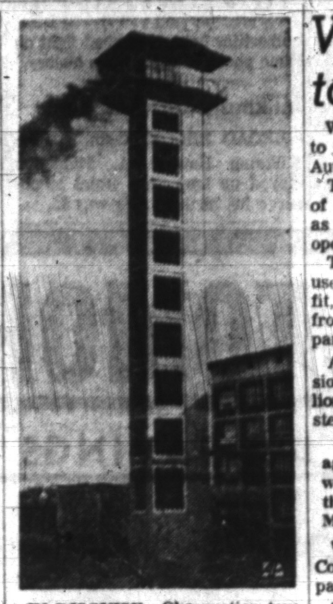

We Are Not First With Eagle Symbol

WASHINGTON (UP) — The bald eagle symbol of the United States served in the fifteenth century as the symbol of the Iroquois Indians.

The Iroquois Confederacy was made up of six nations whose units were distinguished by a particular animal totem—a deer, wolf, or bird. Over all was the eagle, according to the Smithsonian Institution.

In the report, Dr. William N. Fenton of the National Research Council pointed out that the symbol of the Iroquois Confederacy was "the great tree of peace" on the topmost branch of which perched the eagle alert for any approaching foe.

What Will Congress Do to TVA Expansion Needs?

WASHINGTON (AP)—What's going to happen to the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) in 1954?

That question was in the minds of friends and foes of TVA alike as the new session of Congress opened.

The vast government agency can use its power revenues as it sees fit, but it must get appropriations from Congress to finance its expanding power program.

And Congress, at its past session, refused to appropriate 30 million dollars for starting a new steam-electric plant near Memphis.

TVA undoubtedly will ask funds again this year to start the plant which it says is needed to meet the growing power needs in the Memphis area of the valley.

Will the anti-TVA members of Congress again block the power expansion program?

There has been some talk of selling the TVA's power facilities to private industry. However, no bill has been proposed to authorize such a sale.

But Rep. Dondero (R-Mich), chairman of the House Public Works Committee, is planning early hearings on his bill to amend the TVA Act so that municipalities served by the agency could construct their own supplemental power plants or buy power from private sources.

His bill would eliminate the "sole supplier" clause in TVA contracts which prohibits municipalities and cooperatives from obtaining power elsewhere.

The measure also would abrogate TVA's control over local resale rates.

Just how this measure, if adopted, would affect the TVA is a matter of conjecture. Some say it would cripple the agency. Others declare the effect would only be minor.

Dondero contends that some such bill is necessary so that TVA's wholesale customers can build supplemental power plants or seek additional power from private sources.

He says the agency cannot look forward to continuing appropriations for power expansion "for the benefit of a single region at the expense of the rest of the country."

Some members of Congress may take their cue from President Eisenhower, who once referred to TVA as "creeping socialism."

That reference, during a news conference, has never been fully explained, but Rep. Priest (D-Tenn) and other congressmen from the TVA area point out that President Eisenhower last year in a campaign statement said TVA would "continue to go forward at maximum efficiency" in the event of his election.

Parking Is Hazardous Near Police Station

CLAREMONT, N. H. (AP)—Olney Quimby found the front end of his automobile supported by concrete blocks. The two front wheels, tires and tubes, had been stolen.

A year ago—on the same spot, in the same way—he lost one wheel, but from a different car.

It takes 500 tons of equipment to build dial telephone switching facilities serving only 10,000 telephones out of one central office, according to current practices.

Jap Island Now Strong Bastion

Hokkaido Rapidly Being Made Into One of Asia's Fortresses

SAPPORO, Japan (UP)—Japan's nothern island of Hakkaido, once considered a ripe plum for Communist aggression, is rapidly being forged into one of Asia's strongest free bastions.

With powerful Russian air and ground forces only seconds away on Sakhalin and the Kurile Islands, the undermanned drfenders of the frigid island kept nervous eyes turned in that direction throughout the Korean conflict.

But today, the gradual growth of the new Japanese safety forces plus a general "beefing up" of American air and ground strength, has turned Hokkaido into a confident fortress.

Both American and Japanese observers are convinced that the Japanese-American defense team could give a god account of itself if forced to do so.

The backbone of the rapidly growing force is the First Cavalry Division which has been in constant combat-training on the island for almost two years. The cavalry has recently been brought up to full strength and American officers consider it a crack outfit.

The Japanese have built their "national safety force" into a potent 28,000-man Northern Corps on Hokkaido, Americans speak of the corps in glowing terms.

The United States Air Force has the frontline role here, however. Any Soviet attack on Japan probably would come first in the air, with fleets of jet bombers and fighters from the islands immediately north of Hokkaido.

Curious Soviet jet pilots once had the antagonistic habit of circling over Hokkaido at will. They went so far as to shoot down an American B-29 bomber which was on reconnaissance off the coast near Nemuro.

The Japan Air Defense Force countered by rushing Sabre-jets to Hokkaido early in 1953 with "shooting orders" and strengthening its radar-warning network across Japan's northern frontier.

Air Force officers say the Russians now are flying higher and only occasionally approaching Hokkaido shores on brief "look and run" passes.

It has been a terrific moral victory for the Air Force in one of the remote but potentially explosive "cold war" fronts.

Other than driving Soviet planes from Hokkaido skies the most encouraging factor to Hokkaido's defenders, has been the impressive development of the tough, ready Japanese Northern Corps.

"We do not yet have enough strength to defend Hokkaido by urselves," said Brig. Gen. Toshio Nakano, commander of this corps. "But we are growing quickly."

The Japanese "army" of two divisions on Hokkaido is stationed in 13 newly constructed camps. Two additional posts now are being built.

The divisions are equipped with the basic American infantry weapons. Their artillery consists of modern American-built field pieces, including monster eight-inch cannons.

A new defense highway system, however, is rapidly being pushed towards completion.

As for internal security, the Japanese authorities are confident they could prevent any "fifth column" action should the island be invaded from the north.

"We have fewer Communists on Hokkaido than anywhere else in Japan," said National Rural Police Chief Shigeru Yanakawa. "I do not think they would give us trouble."

Oil engineers of the U. S. have drilled to 20,521 feet, compared with the height of Mt. Everest of 29,002 feet.

Oregon Hopes It's Found an Ancient Skeleton

BURNS, Ore. (UP)—Students of Oregon history hope there may be more significance in the finding of the remains of what apparently was a 19th century rifleman in a rocky grave near this central Oregon community.

A hunting party found the partial skeleton of a man with an ancient muzzle-loading rifle, a wooden ramrod and a powder horn lying beside it.

The bones were sent to the University of Oregon for study which authorities hope may shed light on some phase of early state history.

Grow Orchids in Your Home

U. of M. Expert Says Simple Care Will Bring Exotic Blooms

ANN ARBOR—With just a little coaxing, orchids will prove themselves adaptable house plants and will bring you exotic hints of faraway lands.

Some attention, however, must be given to such simple requirements as watering, humidity, fresh air, temperature changes and cleanliness.

Perhaps the most rewarding plants to start with would be some of the cheaper varieties of Cattleyas and Laelias, according to Walter F. Kleinschmidt, superintendent of the University of Michigan Botanical Gardens.

Once you have the plants, put them by a south window, so that they can obtain full benefit of the sunlight. Cut down direct sunlight in middle and late afternoon. Venetian blinds are ideal for this.

It's advisable to keep the plants on a small table. Then you can move them away from the cold at night. Put trays filled with moist gravel on the table, and set the potted plants on slats or screens just above the gravel; which should be kept moist.

Evaporation from the gravel usually will keep the plants healthy. But if yours is a steam-heated house, it's wise to syringe them regularly.

Be careful not to over-water. If the room lacks sufficient moisture, a small humidifier may be attached to the radiator.

Orchids need fresh air. You can open any window except the one near the plants. Let in just enough air to keep the room from being stuffy, Kleinschmidt warns, since sudden, drastic changes in temperature can be disastrous to orchids.

Cleanliness is important. Wipe the leaves once or twice a week with a soft, damp cloth. Occasionally add several drops of vegetable oil emulsion insecticide to a pint of lukewarm water, and sponge the foliage to remove dust and dirt from the stomata, or breathing pores.

Helicopter Is Threat to Whale Fishermen

LONDON (INS)—Hearty whale fishermen, who have pursued their hazardous profession for hundreds of years, were threatened with extinction today by a technological development — the helicopter.

The Society of British Aircraft Constructors in London said experts are predicting that Moby Dick and his pals soon may be attacked from the skies.

Helicopters have been used for some time to locate whales and lead the fishermen to their prey.

Now, the Society said, "there is a possibility that helicopters may go further than their present search role and actually attack the whale.

"The suggestion is to fit a helicopter with a harpoon gun and inflation equipment, so that it would therefore be possible for more than half the catcher vessels to be replaced by six or eight large helicopters operating from the factory ship."

Car Sent to Junk Pile

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (UP)—A state motor vehicle inspector who stopped a woman's car for routine inspection found it had no brakes, lights, horn or windshield wiper and only one workable window. She was ordered to have it towed away, which was done by a junk dealer who paid her $10 for the remains.

Chicken's Life Shorter

Erosion Putting Phosphorus on Bottom of Sea

WASHINGTON (UP) — The world's supply of phosphorus is slipping away, but the chances are it will return before the starvation level is reached.

The reserves of this element, essential for plant growth, are estimated at about 26,000,000,000 tons. World consumption is 25,000,000 tons a year. Since each adult requires about a pound of phosphorus a year, the supply is expected to last about a thousand years if the present rate of population continues.

The problem is not one of actual loss, D. P. Hopkins, a British chemist, points out. The element is merely becoming unavailable by sinking to the bottom of the sea or forming chemical bonds with other materials.

Ben Hogan, 'Athlete of Year', Picks Open as Best

By BOB MYERS

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Golf wizard Ben Hogan seemed to get a genuine glow of pleasure out of his selection as America's outstanding male athlete of 1953, and in discussing the events of last year, unloaded a surprise.

* * *

Advised that he had been named the athlete of the year in the 23rd annual Associated Press poll, the third golfer in history to win the award, Hogan exclaimed:

* * *

The 41-year-old Texan, as you know, scored a golden triple in '53 in capturing the Masters, the United States Open, for the fourth time, and the British Open.

Which gave him the biggest boot?

"The U. S. Open," Ben replied, without hesitation.

"No," Hogan continued. "If I were to win the U. S. Open 50 times, I'd still get the biggest kick out of it.

* * *

"Understand, the British Open is a great tournament. But I just can't get it into my head that it is better than ours.

* * *

"The people over there think theirs is the best, and they should feel that way. Maybe I underestimate the world impact in winning the British Open. But we still think the U. S. Open is bigger."

Hogan, who spends the winters here as the resident professional at the select Tamarisk Country Club—at a most lucrative fee—plans much the same tournament program this year as last.

* * *

He'll play in the Masters, the Colonial in his hometown of Fort Worth and the National Open, as well as such pro-amateur events as the coming Palm Springs and Seminole tournaments.

* * *

Gene Sarazen became golf's first national winner in 1932, and Byron Nelson won the title in 1944-45, sandwiched in between a line of champions that includes Dizzy Dean, Joe Di Maggio, Jesse Owen, Joe Louis, Carl Hubbell, Tommy Harmon, Glenn Davis, Bob Mathias, Don Budge and others.

Third place for 1953 went to jockey king Willie Shoemaker, followed by college football stars Johnny Lattner and Paul Giel, baseball Roy Campanella, track star Mal Whitfield, homerun hero Ted Williams and mile runner Wes Santee.

'MALE ATHLETE OF '53'—Bantam Ben Hogan, relaxing with his wife Valerie at the Tamarisk Country Club in Palm Springs, Calif., hears the news that he's been named "Male Athlete of the Year" in the annual Associated Press poll. Winner of golf's triple crown last year, Hogan said it was his U. S. Open victory that gave him his biggest thrill. Rocky Marciano was runnerup to Hogan in the poll. AP Wirephoto

Dayton Picks Hugh Devore to Fill Football Vacancy

By FRITZ HOWELL

CINCINNATI (AP) — The coaches, not the players, were football's men in motion today as the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. neared the end of its hitherto listless 48th convention.

Hoping to line up one of nine or more head coaching jobs, aspirants were scurrying around to see various athletic directors before all head back to their home bases Saturday.

Dayton University filled its coaching berth last night by hiring Hugh Devore, former St. Bonaventure, Notre Dame, NYU and Green Bay Packer mentor, but still looking for grid chiefs were Toledo, Minnesota, North Carolina State, Idaho, Texas A&M, Pennsylvania, Iowa State, Kansas and several smaller schools. Nebraska is seeking an athletic director.

* * *

Meanwhile it looks as if fans will get another game-a-week controlled television program next fall, with no regional broadcasts or small college games on the list; that the NCAA's move for a nationwide eligibility setup will be overwhelmingly defeated, and that the NCAA is worried a bit about the growing popularity of the professional game.

* * *

The 1953 television committee was to submit its report today, along with a resolution relative to plans which a new group, which takes over Feb. 1, will supervise.

The resolution will be minus the 1953 mandate which restricted a college to a single schedule appearance on the nation-wide hookup, and will urge the new committee to look into the possibilities of offering games via delayed television on film, live broadcasts to theaters, and through the various subscriber setups.

20 Captains on Squads

Bowl Heroes, Cavazos and Wells, May Highlight Annual Senior Bowl Contest

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—The ball-carrying duel of the football season should develop before the eyes of a national audience Saturday when Bobby Cavazos of Texas Tech and Billy Wells of Michigan State close their brilliant collegiate careers in the 5th annual Senior Bowl game at Mobile.

* * *

Cavazos, who scored three touchdowns in Tech's 35-13 rout of Auburn on New Year's Day, will exhibit his talents for Coach Steve Owen's "South" team. Wells, whose gaudy runs sparked Michigan State's comeback victory over UCLA in the Rose Bowl, no doubt will start in Paul Brown's "North" backfield.

Both sides will be loaded with talent, there being no fewer than 20 captains or co-captains on the two squads, but it is the Cavazos-Wells duel that will get my patronage.

Dan Bucceroni, the ex-sailer and Olympic champion from Philadelphia, scored an impressive victory over Hein Ten Hoff, the big German, in their Tuesday night heavyweight fight at Milwaukee, but it is difficult to find a man on the Broadway boxing beat who rates him a real contender for Rocky Marciano's title.

Their typical reaction was about the same as that of Rocky's manager, Al Weill, who shrugged and said "it's a win." Despite his record of 46 victories against only three losses, Bucceroni is not thought to hit hard enough to stem the champion's relentless attack.

* * *

It' been a long haul, but professional basketball finally has caught on solidly here and is for the first time consistently outdrawing the college game at Madison Square Garden. Crowds of over 12,000 on a heavy schedule in the National Basketball Assn. protend higher player salaries and growing prosperity for a sport which once was limping badly.

Many ascribe the increasing popularity of the money game to its policy of encouraging television.

Hoosiers Face Supreme Test in League Play

Saturday's Battle at Minneapolis Rated One of Top Big 10 Tilts

CHICAGO (AP)—Indiana's supreme Big Ten basketball test at Minnesota Saturday night is one of the pivotal games in what conference coaches are calling the wildest title race in years.

"It's the wildest race we've had since I can remember," says coach Harry Combes of Illinois. "The teams that have been 'down' for years are 'up' now and can upset anybody."

Biever, captain and guard of the Wildcats, flunked a history course for the fall quarter. His loss is a terrific blow to the Wildcats who held highly favored Illinois to a 66-65 victory Monday.

Howie Braun, who has scouted Minnesota for Illinois, said he would pick the Gophers to defeat Kentucky, the nation's No. 1 team, if they should meet again in the NCAA tournament.

"When Kentucky defeated Minnesota 74-59 at Lexington Dec. 28, Kentucky had the incentive to win and the Gophers didn't," said Braun. "Minnesota had games with Illinois and Indiana coming up right after the one with Kentucky. You know which of those Minnesota really wanted to win."

The Hoosiers, who have won their 1st two Big Ten games by only 5 points, will be seeking their 1st victory at Minneapolis in eight seasons when they meet the Gophers.

In the only Big Ten action last night, Ohio State compiled a 6-3 all-game record by trimming Pittsburgh 74-55. Sophomore Robin Freeman pumped in 22 points and Paul Ebert added 21.

Injured Eagle Being Treated at Game Farm

The eagle blundered into a trap and broke its leg. When well, it will be banded and released.

Conservation department biologists said golden eagles are reported in Michigan with "moderate regularity." One was reported illegally shot last fall near Saginaw.

It's Time Out!

Pitching Poses Biggest Chore for Tebbetts

Birdie Will Have Four Rookie Right Handers in Reds' Camp

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — "From what I know of the Reds, our most important job will be to get the pitching, especially right-handed pitching, straightened out."

That was one of the first statements made by Birdie Tebbetts soon after his appointment as Cincinnati manager following the conclusion of the 1953 baseball season.

Art Fowler (18-10) was purchased from Atlanta, Bill Powell (14-9) was bought from Charleston, George Zuverink (13-8) was acquired from Indianapolis and Jim Melton (10-10) was obtained from St. Paul. They will be among 12 rookie hurlers reporting, with nine other newcomers, to the Reds' spring training camp at Tampa, Fla., next month.

Coaches Hurt Pro Cage Game

Veteran Referee Says Many in NBA Act Like Cheer Leaders

NEW YORK (INS)—Veteran professional basketball official John Nucotola has charged that coaches are "hurting and holding back the great game of professional basketball more than anything else."

Forty rinks are entered—20 each from Canada and the United States.

The bonspiel runs four days, concluding Sunday afternoon when the new champion will be crowned. Defending title holders from Timmins, Ont., who curled under the colors of the McIntyre Club, are not defending their championship.

Munn's Football Record Issued

MSC Service Releases 'Complete' Figures on Coaching Career

EAST LANSING (AP)—The sports information service at Michigan State College acknowledged in a left-handed sort of way today that Biggie Munn, due to move up to athletic director, has coached his last football game.

Service issued Munn's "complete" coaching record.

Counting in the Rose Bowl game, Munn has won 54, lost nine and tied two at Michigan State. Counting the two East-West games he coached in and the Rose Bowl game, Munn has won 39 of his last 41.

It notes he has won from 14 of the 15 Big 10 teams he played at Michigan State, has taken Michigan and Indiana four in a row and Notre Dame three in a row.

During that span, he won 151 games, lost 35 and tied 10.

Near-Riot Ends Pro Wrestling Show Here

First professional wrestling show of the year here ended in a near-riot at the Pontiac Armory last night, when the ring collapsed during the main event and several spectators entered into a free-for-all with the participants.

Braves Sign Nine

Red Sox Hand Zarilla Unconditional Release

By UNITED PRESS

Boston Red Sox and their former neighbors, the Milwaukee Braves, made most of the news today as major league teams pepped up preparations for the 1954 spring training campaign.

Boston gave outfielder Al Zarilla, a 10-year American Leaguer, his unconditional release, announced a 34-game spring training schedule and said 12 rookies would report for pre-training workouts at Sarasota, Fla., Feb. 15.

The 33-year-old Zarilla's major league service included two separate stints with both the Red Sox and Browns plus a tour with the White Sox. His best year was 1948 when he batted .329 for the Browns.

Two of the 12 youngsters who will get a head start in the Red Sox conditioning program are outfielder Kai Olson and pitcher Bill Henry, who were with the team late last season.

Joe Cronin, Boston general manager, said the club's exhibition schedule would include seven games with the Braves. Red Sox against the Pittsburgh Pirates at Sarasota March 6.

Braves, who made a happy switch from Boston to Milwaukee last year, reported they had signed nine players so far for 1954. General manager John Quinn said right handed pitchers Dave Jolly and Ben Johnson, cather Walter Linden and bonus players Joe Jay and Mel Roach were the latest to come to terms.

Gymnast Starts Work on Try for High Jump Mark

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Tumbler Dickie Browning, Illinois junior from Dallas, Tex., has opened training sessions for a shot at a new high jump record.

Under the direction of his gymnastic coach, Charley Pond, Browning for the first time yesterday attempted to somersault backwards over a high jump bar.

He cleared six feet. And he also went over the 7-foot mark, but at this height he was wearing a harness with ropes attached as a precautionary measure.

World's high jump record is 6-11½ set by Walt Davis of Texas AM last summer.

Britons Win Eighth Straight, Over Alma

ALBION (UP) — Albion College won its 9th straight basketball game of the season and its 4th in MIAA warfare Wednesday night by defeating Alma 74-58.

No Brotherly Love Lost When NHL Rivals Meet

BOSTON (AP) — Brotherly love will be conspicious by its absence on and after Jan. 20 when the Boston Bruins' Lynn Patrick matches coaching wits with his younger brother Murray.

"Naturally I'm happy that 'Muzz' has returned to the National Hockey League as coach of the New York Rangers," Lynn explained. "But when we meet as rival coaches in New York on Jan. 20, there will be no display of brotherly love. I want my Bruins to beat his Rangers every time they meet."

Rangers Eye Playoff Spot After Beating Hawks, 4-3

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Boasting a three-game winning streak for the 1st time in two years, the New York Rangers today were within striking distance of a berth in the Stanley Cup playoffs of the National Hockey league.

Rangers, who'll have a new coach in Murray Patrick starting Saturday, beat the last place Chicago Black Hawks 4-3 last night to move within four points of the fourth place Boston Bruins.

Two-goal splurges in each of the 1st and 3rd periods gave the Rangers victory in the only game played in the league. In between scores, however, they showed little in the way of an offense as the Hawks tied the count with a goal at 1:58 of the 1st period and another near the end of the 2nd.

* * *

Camille Henry and Don Raleigh gave the Rangers a 2-0 lead before George Gee counted for the Hawks. Pete Conacher knotted the score with the 1st of his two goals. But in the 3rd period Harry Howell and Nick Mickoski gave the Rangers a two-goal margin with counters within 65 seconds of each other. Conacher got his 2nd goal for Chicago four seconds before the game ended.

Bronco, Price Scrap Tops Motor City Card

DETROIT (UP)—Henry Bronko, a rising ring star with an eye on Al Gronik's state welterweight crown, takes on Chuck Price tonight in the feature six-round bout at Motor City Arena.

In another six-rounder, heavyweight Oscar Pharo meets Al Hunter, a 225-pound puncher. Bob Brooks squares off against Gordon Meadows (Pontiac) and Calvin Hill meets Chet Wiley in a pair of four-round preliminaries.

Maple Tankers Defeat Chiefs

Birmingham Team Wins Eight of Nine Events for 58-23 Victory

Birmingham swept eight of nine individual 1st places to hand Pontiac High's swimming team its 1st loss of the season 58-23, in the Maples' pool Wednesday night.

Chiefs travel to Saginaw Friday to meet Arthur Hill in a Saginaw Valley Conference meet.

Summary:

50-yard free style—Dehaan (B) 1st; Terry (B) 2nd; Shellenberg (P) 3rd. Time 25.8 seconds.

100-yard breast stroke—Sheehan (B) 1st; Keavy (P) 2nd; McLarty (P) 3rd. Time 1 minute 9 seconds.

UM's Ray Fisher Named College 'Coach-of-Year'

Wolverine Pilot Is Honored for Winning NCAA Title

CINCINNATI (AP)—The University of Michigan's veteran baseball coach, Ray Fisher, was named "Coach of the Year" last night by the American Assn. of College Baseball Coaches. It was little wonder.

For 33 years Fisher has coached the Wolverines and brought Michigan 16 Big Ten titles, shared or outright. The latest was last year's and with it the NCAA championship.

Warren Giles, National League president, presented Fisher the award on behalf of the association. He recalled that Fisher had started as a professional ball player and made a great contribution to baseball.

Fisher, a New Englander, started his baseball career in the Connecticut League as a pitcher. In his first two years he won 36 and lost 6.

From there he went to the New York Highlanders, forerunners of today's Yankees. In World War I Fisher served in the Air Force and joined the Cincinnati Reds after his discharge.

It was from the Reds that Fisher went to Michigan in 1921. He's been on the Wolverine campus ever since.

Last Rites Are Held for Dorais in Detroit

Six high school coaches who played for Dorais in his 17-year span at U of D carried his casket. There was a solemn requiem high mass. Internment was at Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

Accuracy at Foul Line Brings Exhibition Win for Lumbermen

An exhibition contest between Pontiac Rcreation League's Poole Lumber and Waterford Recreation loop's Manny's Ringside produced one of the season's best games Wednesday night in the Pontiac High gymnasium.

Poole five relied on accuracy at the foul line to take a 55-50 victory. Both teams connected for 21 baskets, but the Lumbermen sank 13 free throws, five more than Manny's for the margin of victory.

Elks 723 moved into a tie for 2nd place in Class B by downing Pontiac Merchants, 46-43. Elks, sparked by C. Woodmore's 22 points, overcame a 33-28 3rd-period deficit with an 18-point spurt in the finale.

Hypnotist Signed by Canadian Puck Team

HAMILTON, Ont. (AP)—There's a new man in the Hamilton Cubs lineup. He's a hypnotist.

Cubs defeated Quebec Frontenacs 3-1 in a game in the Ontario Hockey Association.

Mr. "V," a 31-year-old Hamilton man named Sam Vine, treated players Cummy Burton, Bob Robinson, Joe Zorica, Lou Dietrich and goalie Dennis Riggin before the game.

Riggin made 37 saves. Zorica scored one goal and got an assist and the others were in good form.

Love of Fighting Is Listed as Foremost Ingredient for Top Boxer Along With Giving, Taking Punches

By GRANTLAND RICE

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif.—How can you tell a good fighter? You can't from a number of things, according to Mickey Walker. "You can't call a man a good fighter because he has a good left hook," Mickey was telling me.

* * *

"You can't call him a good fighter because he has a good right hand. You can't call anyone a good fighter just because he can throw a good punch or take a good punch. Then, how can you tell a good fighter? I'll tell you.

* * *

"The first thing he must have is a love of fighting. He must be part bum in that ring. He must love every bit of it, and still carry the punch and the ability to take a punch.

* * *

"Take Dempsey here." Jack was listening in. "He loved it in the ring. He wanted to knock your head off. He was a tiger. But outside of the ring he is a turtle dove."

Dempsey winced slightly. "No, I mean it," Mickey continued. "I've seen him in his restaurant when people, pepped up by a few drinks, tried to tear his vest off for a souvenir. Or his tie. I've never seen him get sore. You never found him in any argument. He's rarely sore at anybody. He's always a gentleman.

But in that ring—he was close to murder. In the ring you've got to be part thug. Dempsey was. Gene Tunney was. I know I was. Harry Greb was. I never got to know Jim Jeffries until long after he was through. But Jim was a great guy with a fine philosophy."

* * *

"I'll give you another one," Mickey Walker continued. "That's Rocky Marciano. Marciano is a true fighting man. He wants to take you apart in the ring. He actually likes fighting. But outside of the ring he is a gentle fellow.

* * *

"Maybe he likes fighting," Walker added with a grin, "because he can hurt anywhere he lands and nobody can hurt him. They can hit him on the chin, in the stomach, over the heart—it's all the same. It never seems to hurt."

Mickey believes Marciano will be hard to take for some time. "He can be hit," Mickey says, "but what good does that do? And when he nails you the fight is about over. Rocky is a very tough young man."

Chiefs Resume Cage Action at Lansing

Committee Wants to Keep Sport Clear of Anti-Trust Suits

NEW YORK (AP)—A committee sat down with commissioner Ford Frick today to formulate legislation by which baseball hopes to keep itself clear of future charges that it operates in violation of certain federal regulations.

Last November the Supreme Court reaffirmed a 31-year old decision that baseball is a sport, not a business, and therefore outside of the scope of laws restricting monopolies.

But at the same time there were warnings that unless baseball immediately set its house in order it could look for congressional action that might bring about results less pleasant.

As the result, Frick was empowered by the major and minor leagues to appoint a committee to make an exhaustive study of all phases of the sport and recommend legislation.

The committee consists of George Weiss of the New York Yankees; Bob Carpenter, Philadelphia Phillies; Branch Rickey, Pittsburgh Pirates; Frank Lane, Chicago White Sox; Johnny Murphy, farm director of the Boston Red Sox; Fresco Thompson, Brooklyn vice president; Frank Lawrence of the Portsmouth club in the Piedmont League; Ed Mulligan of Syracuse and Earl Mann of Atlanta.

Abel Calls Rollins Best of NHL Goalies

NEW YORK (AP)—Chicago Black Hawks, cellar-occupants of the National Hockey League, have two "silver linings"—goalie Al Rollins and defenseman Bill Gadsby—in the opinion of their coach Sid Abel.

"Rollins has been tremendous this season. I'd call him the most valuable player in our league—even over Gordie Howe and Red Kelly of Detroit," Abel said today.

Black Hawks, who have won only eight of 39 games this season, face the New York Rangers in tonight's line NHL tilt.

Dykes Blasts Giambra to Become Title Contender

By BEN FUNK

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Bobby Dykes, the lanky Texas fighter who was considered "washed up" a few months ago, jumped back into the headlines today as a contender for Bobo Olson's middleweight title.

Dykes, a 2-1 underdog, returned from the ranks of almost forgotten boxers last night when he chopped out a unanimous decision over promising Joey Giambra in a nationally televised 10-round bout.

* * *

Two years ago this month, in Miami Stadium, Dykes came close to the welterweight throne when he held Kid Gavilan to a split decision. A month later, he followed up with a victory over Gil Turner.

Then the stringbean Texan who now calls Miami home lost four fights in a row and his friends figured he was through. But after a long layoff, Dykes began a serious comeback as a middleweight.

* * *

Last night, before a crowd of 3,556 in the Miami Beach Auditorium, where he has never been beaten, Dykes was a superb boxer and counterpuncher as he slashed his way to a one-sided decision over Giambra, the fifth-ranking middleweight contender.

* * *

Judge Carl Gardner gave Dykes seven rounds to two for Giambra and called one even. Judge Morris Feingold scored it 4-3-3 for Dykes and Referee Eddie Coachman gave it to Dykes 6-2-2.

Pontiac High's basketball team, winner in two of its four pre-holiday starts, swings back into action Friday night against one of the leading schoolboy quintets in Michigan.

Although Coach Cecil Nickel lost all five starters from his 1953 MHSAA tourney finalist team, the Big Reds again rank among the state's top Class A powers. Sexton roared undefeated through a 16-game schedule last year and added four more victories in tournament play before bowing to Dearborn Fordson, 53-47, in the finals.

Squad lost no time starting another streak this year, sweeping past five straight opponents including Saginaw Valley Conference teams Flint Northern and Saginaw Arthur Hill.

Pontiac will match the Lansing club in height, with both teams averaging around 6-feet 1-inch. Nickel will start Clyde Acre (6-2½) and Art Gowen (6-2) at forwards, Bill Cunningham (6-3) at center, and Al Zoss (6-1½) and Neil Nickel (5-11) at guards. The latter is Nickel's son.

Pontiac Coach Art Van Ryzin will go with John James (6-3) and Dave Ballard (6-3½) at forwards, Marv Caswell (6-1) at center, and Dick Ayling (6 feet) and Walt Poe (5-10) at guards. Caswell, who will alternate with Leroy Moore and Dick Blacklaw, was moved from forward to pivot to capitialize on his shooting ability. Bob Johnston will spell Ballard at one forward slot.

Fans attending Friday's game are offered the following route to Sexton: Enter East Lansing on M-16. Turn left on Harrison Road to Kalamazoo street. Turn right on Kalamazoo and follow street to school.

Reserve game is set for 6:30 p.m., with the varsity contest scheduled to get under way at 8 o'clock.

Brownie Ties Give Merchant Pain in Neck

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis Browns (now the Baltimore Orioles) may have severed connections with St. Louis, but the city still has some ties left.

Originally, the ties were priced at $1.50 each.

With the Browns gone, you can get them at 9 cents apiece — three for two-bits.

7th-Ranked Crusaders Win 9th Straight

By BEN PHLEGAR

NEW YORK (AP) — Holy Cross, long a power in Eastern basketball, appears headed for one of its best seasons since the Crusaders won the NCAA title back in 1947.

* * *

Off to an all-winning start the Crusaders polished off their ninth victim last night—a 91-62 breeze over American International — in a triumphant return from the South where they won the Sugar Bowl tournament.

* * *

Togo Palazzi, a silky smooth operator from Union City, N.J., leads the Holy Cross attack and needs just over 100 more points to wind up his career as the second highest scorer in the school's history. He added 22 last night despite limited service.

* * *

The Crusaders still face a tough road. They meet Notre Dame in Boston next week and have future engagements with Niagara and unbeaten Connecticut, which won its 11th game last night, 104-48 over New Hampshire.

* * *

Among the other nationally ranking clubs, only Duke, No. 8, and Navy, No. 18, saw action last night and both won with ease. The Blue Devils from Durham, N. C., swamped Virginia Tech 82-45. Don Lange set a Naval Academy scoring record of 43 points as the Middies overpowered Johns Hopkins 94-50.

* * *

A couple of other individual scoring records also were shattered. All America Tom Gola established a La Salle mark of 41 points in a 97-62 romp over Loyola of Baltimore and Bevo Francis scored 48, a Butler Fieldhouse record, as little Rio Grande clipped Butler 81-68.

* * *

Fordham, generally figured to be the best of a mediocre assortment of New York City teams, was upset 53-49 by St. Francis of Brooklyn. The Rams had lots only once before, to Louisiana State in the Sugar Bowl.

* * *

Louisville folded in the final quarter and bowed to Notre Dame 72-52. Gene Shue scored 34 points as Maryland beat Clemson in an Atlantic Coast Conference game.

UP Deer Are Yarding, Others on Summer Feed

LANSING (AP) — Deer have gone to yards in the northern Newberry district and are in the vicinity of yards in most other parts of the Upper Peninsula, state conservation department reported today.

Field workers said winter conditions are developing normally in the peninsula with variable cold spells and snowstorms reported.

In the Lower Peninsula, deer were still feeding on their summer range except in the Gaylord district, where they were in the vicinity of wintering swamps.

Sedgman, Gonzales in Tennis Feature

PHILADELPHIA (INS) — Frank Sedgman of Australia meets rugged Pancho Gonzales in the feature match of the three-day round-robin professional tennis tournament in Philadelphia tonight, and a victory will give him the $4,000 1st-prize money.

Sedgman shot into the lead last night when he defeated Don Budge, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4, and Gonzales lost to Pancho Segura, 6-4, 6-3.

Murphy Eyes Comeback

BOSTON (AP) — If the Massachusetts boxing commission will renew his license, Irish Bob Murphy will attempt a comeback here on Jan. 18.

After an erratic career, Murphy was ordered into retirement for "the good of boxing" by the NBA on Nov. 29. He has been matched tentatively with Roger Wiley of Beverly for an eight-round semi-final bout on the Callahan A. C. program topped by Boston welterweights Tony DeMarco and Wilbur Wilson.

Pasadena Rose bowl can seat 100,188 persons.

Two Writers Pick 17 of 22 All-Pro Stars

NEW YORK (AP)—Jack McDonald of the San Francisco Call-Bulletin and Al Buck of the New York Post came closest to picking The Associated Press All-Pro football team than any of the other 48 sports writers who took part in the voting.

Both McDonald and Buck named 17 players who made the 22-man squad. Buck named 10 of the 11 men who made the offensive team.

Joe Falls of the Detroit AP Bureau named 10 of the players on the defensive 11.

They were McDonald, Buck, Hugh Brown of the Philadelphia Bulletin, Charles Chamberlain of the Chicago AP Bureau, Lloyd Larson of the Milwaukee Sentinel, Art Daley of the Green Bay Post-Gazette, Chuck Johnson of the Milwaukee Journal, Chris Edmonds of the Milwaukee AP Bureau, Lou Effrat of the New York Times and Russ Newland of the San Francisco AP Bureau.

Iona College played its first Madison Square Garden basketball game on Dec. 15, 1951, and bowed to Seton Hall 70-60.

All-Americas Dot Lines of North, South

Dohoney, Mims, Jacoby, Hilgenberg, Roberts, to Play in Senior Bowl

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — If spectators at the Senior Bowl football game Saturday can take their eyes off the star-studded backfields, they should see some slam-bang action on the line.

The 1st three All-America teams are represented on the North Squad while the Southerners have two 1st string All-America guards.

North coach Paul Brown has chosen All-America Don Dohoney for defensive work. The big end was largely responsible for the great Paul Giel being held to a net gain of only 23 yards by Michigan State in its game with Minnesota.

Also on the defending team are center Jerry Hilgenberg, Iowa's 2nd string All-America, and tackle George Jacoby, 3rd-string All-America from Ohio State.

They'll run up against the South's two All-Americas, Crawford Mims of Mississippi and J. D. Roberts of Oklahoma. Mims, also on the All-Southeastern Conference honorary squad, was named the outstanding player in the Miami North-South game.

North's tentative offensive line: Northwestern's Joe Collier and Illinois' John Ryan, ends; Bob Fleck, Syracuse, and Don Chelf, Iowa, tackles; Mike Takacs, Ohio State, and Ray Cataloni, Boston University, guards, and Jim Neal, Michigan State, center.

'Catfish' Smith May Be Headed for Aggies

COMMERCE, Tex. (UP)—There was talk today that Milburn (Catfish) Smith, the coach with the longest unbeaten string in college football, might be headed for Texas A&M.

Smith, whose East Texas State teams haven't been beaten since October, 1951, resigned Wednesday. He said he had been offered several "propositions, . . . so attractive I owe it to my family to consider them."

Coach Ray George of A&M resigned last Monday.

Al Dark 'Traveling Man' for New York Giants

NEW YORK (AP)—Alvin Dark of the Giants copped the "jack of all trades" title in the National League for 1953. He performed at six different positions.

Dark, captain of the team, played 110 games at shortstop, 26 at second base, eight at third, 17 at two outfield spots and even appeared as a pitcher.

29 League Games on Prep Card

Maples, Viking Fives Engage in Important Tests

Birmingham, Ferndale Boast Clear Records in Season's Play

Prep cagers jump back into league competition Friday night with 29 of 31 games on the area schedule counting in conference play.

Early leadership of two loops is at stake in Friday's feature contests. Niles Freeland's surprising Walled Lake quintet goes to Farmington to meet the rangy Falcons, winners of four straight after a loss in their opener.

Vikings have lost only to Birmingham in five games.

Birmingham is involved in an important game at Ferndale. Each has won one Eastern Michigan League game and both teams are undefeated overall. Maples have won five straight, Ferndale has taken three in a row.

Four other Oakland County teams have perfect records and see action Friday night. Rochester (5-0) entertains Mt. Clemens St. Mary. Milford (4-0) and Clarkston (3-0) play Wayne-Oakland League contests against Brighton and Keego Harbor, respectively.

OL St. Mary, winner of its only two games, goes to RO St. Mary in one of three Suburban Catholic circuit encounters.

Bi-County has its 1st league activity carded with unbeaten Warren going to Utica and Lake Shore, also undefeated, at Eastland.

Top games involving county fives include Waterford at Southfield, Lapeer at Oxford, Romeo at Lake Orion, Clawson at Avondale, Troy at Fitzgerald and St. Fred's vs St. Mike's at Pontiac High.

The schedule:

Pontiac at Lansing Sexton; Waterford at Southfield; Walled Lake at Farmington; St. Fred's vs St. Mike's at PHS; Van Dyke at Berkley; MC St. Mary at Rochester; Lapeer at Oxford; Romeo at Lake Orion; Keego Harbor at Clarkston; Milford at Brighton; Northville at Clarenceville; Clawson at Avondale; Troy at Fitzgerald; Madison at Roseville; Birmingham at Ferndale; Hazel Park at Mt. Clemens; East Detroit at Port Huron; Orionville at Mayville; Imlay City at Millington; North Branch at MSD; Warren at Utica; Center Line at Lakeview; Lake Shore at Eastland; Armada at Almont; Brown City at Capac; Memphis at Dryden; Royal Oak at Wyandotte; South Lyon at Hartland; Mt. Carmel at Shrine; St. James at St. Rita; OL St. Mary at RO St. Mary.

Furman's Selvy Again in Front of Scoring Race

NEW YORK (UP) — Furman's Frank Selvy, who won the nation's major-college basketball scoring title as a junior last year with a record average of 29.5 points a game, evidently was only warming up. This year he's out in front again with a phenomenal 36.6-points-per-game pace.

The six-foot, four-inch sharpshooter has scored 26, 45, 50 and 38 points in his last four games through Tuesday night, and by hitting for 50 against Cincinnati in a consolation game of the All-College Tourney at Oklahoma City, became only the 2nd player in major-college history to reach that level for a 2nd time.

LSU's Bob Pettit, runner-up to Selvy in this week's NCAA Service Bureau standings, is the other. Only 14 other players have scored 50 or more even once.

More than 70 per cent of the forest fires in the Rocky Mountain region are started by lightning.

Lack of U.S. Collegiate Hockey Talent Deplored

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UP) — A warning that the NCAA hockey tournament will mean little this side of the border if teams consisting of Canadians play for the title has been sounded by Ralph (Cooney) Weiland, former National Hockey League all-star center now coaching Harvard.

"They had better get western college hockey under control," Weiland said. "I can see a big difference in the last three years since my first trip west as a college coach. On teams like Denver and North Dakota, the Canadians outnumber Americans three to one."

Weiland's views were shared by Norm Wood, Harvard hockey captain.

"We're not crying because we lost six straight during our Chirstmas vacation trip into the Midwest," Wood explained, "actually the best team we played was Minnesota, which does not have any Canadian players. But we noted that the Canadian sophomore players on the Denver team were 23-34 years old and most had played junior hockey at home before entering college."

Lloyd Mangrum Tourney Choice

LA Open Gets Touring Golfers Off, Running in New Season

LOS ANGELES (UP)—All is ready for the start of the 1954 tournament campaign for the nation's finest golfers, leading off tomorrow with the 28th annual Los Angeles Open with a purse of $20,000.

Lloyd Mangrum heads the lineup as the favorite to win the event for the 4th time and the 2nd year in succession. Mangrum, whose 4-under par 280 won the 1953 event, has played impressively in practice the past week or more and appears to be on top of his game.

Top money this year amounts to $4,000 and 2nd will be worth $2,300.

Maskin Wins Award

CINCINNATI (UP) — George Maskin of the Detroit Times was given the American Association of College Baseball Coaches award last night for the best feature story of 1953 for papers with a circulation of more than 50,000. He was one of four newspapermen honored at the meeting.

Job Seeker's Original Ad Brings in Tons of Offers

NEW YORK (INS) — A cheery story from Ohio may start a whole new trend in job-seeking, and if it does a man named Victor Wagle of Springfield ought to get top billing for it.

Because of him, there might even be a change in our vocabulary: Instead of talking about wangling a job, we might begin boasting of "wangling a job."

Victor Wagle is 31, and head of a family. Also he recently was out of work, why I can't imagine in the light of public evidence about his bright and original mind. At any rate, after duly chasing around for a job, he did what lots of us finally do — decided to put an ad in the paper.

"Undependable, sloppy, liar, cheat, drunkard, allergic to work," his ad ran, "Man needs job, $75 week. Married, three children to support."

I'm not sure what Dale Carnegie would think about this as a way to make contacts and influence personnel managers, but there's no question that Wagle finagled himself into a ton of propositions, including two offers of a job as bartender.

"Actually," he told the press, "I'm just the opposite of all those things, but I thought the psychology would work."

He's got something there and it strikes me that lots of us might learn a thing or two about business relations from this topsy-turvy little episode.

When I was in business, writing promotion for national magazines, I occasionally had to sign up a junior copyrighter or layout man, and though I didn't realize it at the time, I now see that too many young applicants acted out the timeworn adage, "if I don't blow my own horn nobody else will."

If they had been applying for a spot with a hot swing band, that approach might have been their best bet, but in most office jobs, it's a few decibels too noisy.

Certainly on that magazine, the least boastful applicants made the best impression, those who would simply state their qualifications, without benefit of ballyhoo, and then name a previous employer as reference. The best spokesman of all was a proof-book showing copy or sample layouts but of course that approach isn't always possible.

Real beginners couldn't have a proof-book to show, and in most other fields, it's apt to be fairly awkward to carry around samples. Bookkeepers can't lug a set of ledgers with them and piano-makers — well, you get the idea.

Anyway, the reverse English approach usually is effective psychology, and far from working only in one direction, the light touch can be a two-way street.

As witness this perfect opposite number to the Wagle job wanted stunt, which by coincidence appeared in the help wanted columns of the San Antonio News in Texas a few days later.

"Executive director wanted," it read. "Age 24 to 30, to sit at desk from 9 to 5, watch other people work. Must be willing play golf every other afternoon. Salary over $350 week to start. P. S. We don't have this job but we just thought we'd like to see in print what everyone is applying for!"

Maybe Victor Wagle ought to move his family to Texas.

See New Hormone Making Plants Grow

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (UP)—Dr. Karl Hamner, botany prpfessor at UCLA, has predicted that it will be possible in the future to cause plant blooming by injecting a synthetic flowering hormone.

Dr. Hamner and other botanists recently have been experimenting on the flowering stimulus which appears to be a new plant hormone.

Scientists already know the mechanism in leaves which aids in regulating the manufacture of flowering hormones according to the length of the day.

Recently Dr. Hamner determined the rate at which hormones move through the stem to the buds and the manner in which they may be diverted or destroyed after they have been manufactured and before they reach the bud.

Wanted Man Is at Hand

LANDER, Wyo. (UP) — Fremont County officials had no difficulty arresting Don Chapman of Pinedale for questioning in a car theft. He was sleeping in the city jail, where he had asked for a night's lodging.

Nurseries Multiply as Mothers Work

CHICAGO (UP)—The first day nursery in the U. S. opened in New York City 100 years ago, but today there are more than 3,500 throughout the country.

The American Society of Planning Officials cited those figures in a study of the development of the day nursery as a national institution.

Behind the figures, the society said, is the story of mothers joining the labor force in ever-increasing numbers through the depression of the 1930's, through World War II, and in the present period of defense status.

The society said the number of working married women with children under 18 rose from 1,500,000 to 5,262,000 during the years from 1940 to 1951.

The need for day nurseries can no longer be classified as a temporary or emergency one, the society said.

Lie Detector Experts Know the Guilty Ones

CHICAGO (UP)—The lie detector experts assert that many guilty persons give themselves away before actually taking the test.

John E. Reid and Fred E. Inbau, authors of a new book on lie detection, said that a guilty person:

Will insist on explaining that he is nervous and that the test will not come out right.

Grains Active, Wheat Strong

CHICAGO (AP)—Grains rose firm in quite active dealings on the board of trade today.

As trading progressed soybeans recovered their initial losses, going ahead of the previous close.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was ⅜ to ¾ cent higher, March $2.09⅞, corn ⅜ to ⅝ higher, March $1.55⅛, oats ¼ to ½ higher, March 79⅝, soybeans ½ to 1 higher, January $3.08¾, rye ⅝ to 1 cent higher, March $1.21⅞ and lard 5 to 15 cents a hundred pounds lower, January $17.60.

Market Quiet, Sag Develops

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned quiet today as a lower price tendency developed.

There was just about an even division between gains and losses today at the opening, and then a few issues starting dropping back.

Hudson Motor Car, yesterday's most active issue with a gain of ⅛, opened today on a block of 3,000 shares up ⅛ at 12⅝. Later it extended its gain to ½ point.

Aside from the aircrafts and a few chemicals, there were no backward areas in the list. Most divisions were narrowly mixed or steady.

Among lower stocks were Boeing Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Consolidated Edison, Union Carbide, General Electric, and International Paper.

Higher were North American Aviation, which started on 2,000 shares up ¼, American Telephone and American Cyanamid.

State Unemployment at 16-Month Peak

DETROIT (AP)—Michigan's unemployment figure has climbed to 138,600—the highest total in 16 months—according to a report today by the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC).

The MESC report placed the number of idle workers in the Detroit area at 82,000.

Max Horton, MESC director, said the unemployment figure as of Dec. 15 of last year erased all gains made in the numbers of jobs in the first half of 1953.

The MESC said 4.9 per cent of the state's labor force was idle as of Dec. 15. The percentage for the Detroit area was set at 5.4 per cent.

Horton said claims filed by unemployed workers reached 117,000 in the week ending Dec. 31. The total included 59,800 in the Detroit area.

New Car Sales Second Highest

Registration Figures to Show 1953 Below Only Record 1950

New passenger car sales last year apparently were the second highest in auto industry history.

R. L. Polk & Co., auto industry statisticians, said today final registration figures will show approximately 5,775,000 new cars licensed in the United States in 1953.

Record year for new car registrations was 1950 when 6,326,438 new cars were initially licensed.

Polk also reported that a record 50 million motor vehicles are in use in the United States. Its surveys show that on July 1, 1953, passenger car registrations totaled 42,202,349 and truck registrations 8,692,574.

Car registrations were up 6.12 per cent over 1952 while truck registrations increased 3.24 per cent.

The Polk survey showed that of the cars registered last July 1 more than 30 million were vehicles manufactured since 1926.

California again led all states in car registrations, having 4,377,250 cars in operation.

Agriculture Troubles Hit Farm Real Estate Prices

WASHINGTON (INS)—The Agriculture Department reported today that falling farm prices and drought during the four-month period ending last Nov. 1 dropped farm real estate prices in all but one state.

At the same time, real estate dealers and other associated with farm property were quoted in a survey as believing either that values will remain stable through April or continue to fall.

The lone exception to the decline in value during the four months was New Jersey, where there was no change at all. In Delaware and Montana, the price decline was less than 1 per cent.

Sharpest drops in farm property values were felt, however, in the 1953 drought belt, which extended through Kentucky and Tennessee westward to Utah.

The November index of average value per acre for the nation was 121 per cent of a 1947-49 base. This figure was 3 per cent below the July average and 6 per cent less than one year earlier.

In the one-year period, only three states—New Jersey, Delaware and North Dakota — showed any increase in farm real estate values. But in each case the gain was only 1 per cent.

Kaiser Unveils Cars, Trucks

Newsmen See Entire Line Including Willys Commercial Vehicles

By JOHN R. CLOCK
Pontiac Press Staff Writer

TOLEDO — Kaiser Motors took the wraps off its 1954 line of cars and trucks for newsmen here today.

Details of the sports car were announced yesterday, but this was the first time newsmen had seen the new two-passenger, long and low sportster.

Blocks for the F-head engines of the Kaiser Darrin are made in Pontiac by Willy's Wilson Foundry Division.

The division also turns out engine blocks for all Willys-built vehicles, as well as producing a variety of castings for other customers.

Details of the new models are being withheld pending public introduction within the next 60 days, but it can be reported that Kaiser Motors is increasing power output and, of course, restyling the line for the current year.

Whether Kaiser plans to change the prices of its 1954 models is as yet unknown. So, too, is the future of its smaller Henry J model. It was not shown today.

Fee is $10 per month for parking from 7 a.m. until 9 p.m., said Eckman. Spaces are rented on a "first-come, first-served" basis and no night, Sunday or dead storage parking will be allowed, he added.

Buick Cuts Prices on Four '54 Models

DETROIT (UP) — Four models in the 1954 line of Buick cars which go on display Friday will be reduced in price from $50 to $521, it was announced today.

The Buick Division of General Motors Corp. said the biggest reduction will be on the Century estate wagon down $521 to $3,172. A $50 cut was made on the super convertible, dropping the factory list price to $2,700.

Imagination????
It will do wonders for this 100 year old inn, with a modern Class C bar and dining room. The present owner only serves sandwiches and soup but the kitchen is fully equipped to handle complete dinners and banquets, which haven't been promoted to any extent. This would be an excellent opportunity for partners to really go to town by operating it to its capacity. Property and all may be purchased for $25,000 down No. 1312.

Not Much!!!!
This tavern is only doing a $37,000 gross on beer and wine. You probably couldn't make over $10,000 or $12,000 a year in this set up and besides it would take 3 people to operate it. Located about 85 miles from Pontiac and the owner wants about $8,000 down on property and all. You might phone for details on No. 1538.

Winter Wonderland
A Class C lounge that does a wonderful business both summer and winter. Located in the winter sports area of lower Mich. It is one of the nicest spots we have to offer. You may purchase property and all or just the business and lease the property. Call now for an appointment to get the figures on No. RG.
