'Hoffa Doesn't Care if Teamsters Robbed'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate rackets subcommittee today harshly condemned Teamsters President James R. Hoffa as a man who doesn't care whether union racketeers rob or steal members' money.

The subcommittee concluded in a formal report to the Senate that Hoffa defiantly refused to cleanse Teamsters locals of criminal elements and brazenly ignored the welfare of his 1.6 million members.

Investigators found further that Hoffa used every available means to thwart clean-up campaigns by court-appointed monitors. Hoffa even rewarded, tainted local officers by promoting them to jobs high in the International Union, they said.

Hearings on which the subcommittee's report and findings were based were held in January 1961.

Chairman John F. McClellan, D-Ark., explained that issuance of the report was delayed until after the trial for bribery of Antonio (Tony Ducks) Corallo, former New York Teamsters of Solid and "one of the most powerful figures in the New York area."

Corallo was convicted last month. McClellan's subcommittee charged that New York Local 239 continued as part of Corallo's racket empire after his sham resignation as vice president in 1958.

It said Hoffa not only knew of but acquiesced in Corallo's continued racketeering control.

REPLACEMENT — Immediately after resigning, the subcommittee said, Corallo placed on the union payroll two criminal henchmen who collected salaries exactly equal to his.

The Corallo associates, Anthony (Candy) and John Spada, were in fact nothing more than "dummy" men who signed names for thousands of dollars from Teamsters.

Hoffa evidently acquiesced also in an earlier scheme by Corallo to restore convicted extortionist Sam Goldstein to the local's presidency six months after his jail term, the investigators said.

Goldstein collected his full salary during part of his term in the penitentiary, they added.

The subcommittee recalled that Bernard Stein, Local 239's secretary-treasurer, attributed to Hoffa the statement that he didn't care whether officers of the local robbed, stole or dealt under the table as long as they weren't caught.

Hoffa's sworn denial that he ever said a word is unimportant, the senators said. They explained, "This subcommittee has heard the overwhelming evidence must conclude that Hoffa, in callous disregard of the welfare of the Teamster membership, in fact does not care whether officials off any segment of the Teamsters Union are robbing, stealing, dealing under the table, or indulging in any other improper or criminal activity."

Swainson said the Michigan Supreme Court had faced up to its responsibility with courage and without evasion.

Find Ex-Publicist for County GOP Guilty of Charge

A verdict of guilty on a contempt-of-court charge was handed down yesterday against Charles A. Ferry, former publicist for the Republican Committee of Oakland County and now press agent for State Sen. John Stahlin, R-Bellingham.

A similar charge against Stahlin was dismissed because of legislative immunity.

The action grew out of a $1-million libel and slander suit against the two brought by Richard Durant, a leader of Wayne County Republican conservatives.

Wayne County Circuit Judge Joseph Moynihan said Ferry could avoid paying a $50 fine if he appeared next Tuesday to give a deposition in Durant's lawsuit.

The defendants had failed to appear as ordered to give a deposition July 10.

Not Hurt, Just Dead, Says Fallen Lad

MEMPHIS — The bus driver got quite a scare when Perry could smile boy suddenly toppled from his bicycle and lie motionless on the sidewalk.

The driver stopped the bus, hurried across the street and bent over the crumpled form.

GOP Asks Aid in District Plea

State Organization Eyes Public to Help Finance High Court Appeal

LANSING — The Republican State Central Committee appealed today for public donations to finance a U.S. Supreme Court appeal of a Senate reapportionment order from the Michigan Supreme Court.

Republican State Chairman George Van Fursen said $10,000 had been received from the Oakland County Republican organization, although the heavily populated county figure is pale beside representation under the court's order.

The state court a week ago struck down a 1962 amendment to the state constitution as a basis for "equal protection" guarantee in the federal constitution and ordered Senate reapportionment returned to that of the 1960 constitution.

The GOP launched its campaign for funds in appeal to readers of its publication, "Plain Talk," asking "a buck to defend voters' rights."

"Frankly, we anticipate that Democrats will join Republicans in contributing to the fund, for this same distinctly bipartisan partisan politics," said Van Fursen.

"Every dollar we receive will be earmarked for use by the three state senators who are serving for the people of Michigan in this discriminatory Senate redistricting case," the chairman said.

Van Fursen said several donations, ranging from $4 to $100, had been received already from people "who are deeply concerned by the Michigan Supreme Court's decision to abolish present Senate districts" set up in the 1962 amendment by action without regard to population trends.

Sens. Frank Beale, John Fitzgerald and Paul Younger, all Republicans, have petitioned U.S. Supreme Court Justice Potter Stewart to hold up execution of the state court's order that the legislature redistrict the Senate on a population basis.

Sen. Nelson II, 24, Birmingham, walked away from the state hospital late yesterday afternoon.

Nelson, a trusty with the dairy barn crew, was discovered missing about 4 p.m.

He was committed to the hospital at 10:30 by the Oakland County Circuit Court after being charged with breaking and entering during the night time.

At the court turned into the center island court at Cranbrook Road, Smith jumped out of the car and was picked up by Bloomfield Hills police. He was not injured.

Bloomfield Township police then halted Corrado just north of Cranbrook Road.

Age, Youth Vie in Race

EDITOR'S NOTE — Following is another in a series of articles published by The Pontiac Press to aid voters in the Aug. 7 primary. Only those offices in which there is a contest will be covered.

Young will have its fling in the primary election to nominate a Republican for the state representative race in District 1.

And as so often happens, age and experience will seek to bar the way.

Michael L. Carl, a 27-year-old political science student, has conducted a vigorous campaign to unseat incumbent Rep. Lloyd L. Anderson, 54 and a seasoned veteran of three previous legislative campaigns.

From the outset Carl took the initiative in calling Anderson's record in the House of Representatives and challenging the incumbent to public debate.

The two faces off in a series of meetings, outlining their platforms and qualifications to GOP voters throughout their district.

WELL-KNOWN POE — Carl faces a man well-known to voters after many years of public service and participation in community affairs.

Anderson has spent three terms — the last six years — representing some 120,000 residents of the 1st District.

Prior to his election in 1956, he was Waterford Township supervisor and representative on the Board of Supervisors for six years.

The veteran politician also was a school board director in Independence Township for seven years starting in 1948 and has been active in the Boy Scout movement and United Fund and Red Cross fund-raising drives.

In contrast, Carl is making his first bid to capture the public eye.

A longtime Oakland County resident, he got a taste of politics during the state's constitutional convention where he served as a sergeant-at-arms.

He is a graduate of Milford High School and studied political science at Ferris Institute and Michigan State University before interrupting his schooling to accept the common assignment.

ARMY VETERAN — Carl is a veteran of three years in the army from 1953 to 1956, including a stint in Germany.

In the Aug. 7 primary, Republican voters will choose between Carl and Anderson — now set for the November 6 election. In the November general election, Coleman is unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

Buttressed for the two Republicans — the 1st District — is Oakland County's largest geographical political district.

It consists of 14 townships — Pontiac, Waterford, White Lake, Highland, Oakland, Orion, Independence, Springfield, Rose, Addison, Farmington, Groveland and Holly.

Anderson lives in Waterford at 3709 Lincolnshire St.

Carl resides in Highland at 3325 Highland Blvd.

The Day in Birmingham

Cranbrook Offers Series to Aid Young Scientists

BIRMINGHAM — The Cranbrook Institute of Science announced today that it is offering a series of four programs designed for young scientists during August.

The junior program (fourth grade and up) is scheduled for July 31, Aug. 7, 14, and 21 at 1 p.m. The junior-junior sessions (first through third grade) are set for Aug. 2, 9, 16 and 23 at 1 p.m.

The first junior program is "Learning about Space," followed by "Fish are Interesting," "Our Bird Neighbors" and "Nature Identification."

Junior-junior programs are "What Stars Do You See?" "Wild Animal Families," "Summer is an Adventure" and "How to Explore."

There will be a $1 fee for Institute members and $2 for nonmembers.

Lawrence E. Good, of the U.S. Department of Commerce in Detroit, will be the guest speaker Friday at the noon meeting of the Birmingham Senior Men's Club at Birmingham Community House.

He will discuss "The Common Good—Threat or Challenge?"

Good is considered an authority on the subject of world trade, having been president of the H. M. Robins Co., the oldest U.S. export-management firm in Detroit.

Two study committees of Bloomfield Township Board members were formed to review the procedures necessary before a subdivision is approved and to make recommendations for an engineer for the building department.

The appointments were made by Township Treasurer Homer Case, in the absence of Supervisor Arno Hulet who is vacationing.

A $7,700 contract has been awarded by Bloomfield Township for the construction of a sanitary sewer line extension to serve a new subdivision.

The study is expected to start in mid-September. The first phase, limited to defining the nature and magnitude of the health hazard, will take about six months. How to proceed with the second phase, preparation of recommendations for action, will be decided when the first phase is completed.

Terry said the study will be concerned not only with tobacco, but all other factors which may be involved, including automobile exhaust and air pollution.

The reports, if confirmed, represent a major victory in Ben Bella's drive to make Algeria a one-party socialist state.

HEADQUARTERS — Viet Premier Benieu Krim and Mohammed Bouidif of the Ben Khedja regime set up headquarters in Tizi Ouzou.

In a statement telephoned to Algeria by guerrilla forces, the Ben Bella faction called the Ben Bella followers "Fascists" and appealed for the nation to rally around legal authorities.

From western Algeria, regular troops backing the Ben Bella faction slowly rolled eastward, pushing Czech and Soviet common and modern tanks and heavy weapons.

Charging crowds in the town of Tizi Ouzou and Ben Bella and his followers arrived. Tizi is about 150 miles southwest of Algiers.

TIME ONLY QUESTION — It seemed odd in position of time before the Ben Bella faction takes control of Algiers.

The country appeared dangerously near civil war — now four weeks after obtaining its hard-won independence from France.

Thunderstorms rumbled over scattered sections of the country early today.

Reports of storm activity came from parts of the Middle West, southern Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, portions of the Atlantic coastal states and the Rocky Mountains.

The Chicago Weather Bureau said a convective storm, damaged a ranch and rodeo arena south of Midland, Texas, before Tuesday midnight.

Two funnel clouds were reported in the upper Great Lakes during a storm in the Green Bay, Wis., area late Tuesday. No damage was reported.

ment in this: Could they find a charge?

The constitution provides in Article IX:

"The House of Representatives shall have the sole power of impeaching civil officers for corrupt conduct in office, or for crimes and misdemeanors."

These are the only bases for impeachment.

Could four Democrats be charged with corruption because they ruled differently than three Republicans when ordered by the U.S. Supreme Court to determine whether the 1962 amendment rearranging the Senate violates the 14th (equal protection) Amendment to the U.S. Constitution?

Was the order a crime or a misdemeanor?

Sen. Feinstein told a newsmen after his speech he believes there has been "a misinterpretation of justice" and that this would constitute "malfeasance."

(Webster's dictionary describes malfeasance as:

"Doing an act which a person ought not to do; evil conduct; an illegal deed.")

Feinstein said "if the court is going to take over the will and voice of the people in this (trapdoor) fashion, it would warrant impeachment."

He conceded, however, he had not seriously discussed impeachment with fellow senators, but said he had talked it over "with my people who want to know how to get them (the four who ordered reapportionment according to population) out of there."

Earnings Up 75 Pct. at Diamond Salt Co.

ST. CLAIR — Earnings and sales of Diamond Crystal Salt Co. for its first quarter were 75 per cent ahead of last year, Charles F. Moore, company president reported yesterday.

Earnings totaled $271,000 for the three months ended June 30 compared with $153,000 for the same period last year, equivalent to 24 cents per share against 13 cents in 1961.

The action grew out of a $1-million libel and slander suit against the two brought by Richard Durant, a leader of Wayne County Republican conservatives.

Wayne County Circuit Judge Joseph Moynihan said Ferry could avoid paying a $50 fine if he appeared next Tuesday to give a deposition in Durant's lawsuit.

Kentucky Town Lacks Fireman for Each Officer

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP)—The Ashland Fire Department now has more officers than firemen.

With a 56-hour work week for firemen now effective under a new state law, city officials declined each of the three platoons at the three fire stations should have an officer in charge.

This meant the appointment of another captain and six drivers whose rank is comparable to a police sergeant.

There already was a chief, two assistant chiefs, six captains and six drivers.

The result: 22 officers, 20 fire-

U.A.R. ROCKET — Flame belted from 36-foot Kaber rocket, part of the United Arab Republic's arsenal, during a test firing Saturday at an unnamed base in Egypt's western desert. The firing took place two days before the 10th anniversary of Nasser's overthrow of King Farouk. Twenty of the new rockets started in the parade marking the anniversary.

7 in House to Eye UP Rocket Site

To Conduct Hearings, Inspect Areas; Hogan Among Legislators

LANSING (AP)—A seven-member House committee crept to promote a rocket launching site in the Upper Peninsula will conduct hearings and inspect sites there Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

One of the seven legislators is Henry Hogan, R-Birmingham. Chairman Gilbert E. Barsley, R-Ann Arbor, announced today his committee's Upper Peninsula tour will open Thursday night with a hearing at the Keweenaw Club, near Copper Harbor.

Friday the committee will inspect terrain, roads and harbors of the Keweenaw Peninsula. Friday night members will be guests at a dinner at Michigan Tech in Houghton and will conduct a public hearing there, beginning at 8 p.m.

Saturday the legislators will inspect the Victoria Falls area of Ontonagon County, ending their tour that night with a dinner meeting with business and civic leaders at Ironwood.

"We don't want anyone to jump to the conclusion we are suggesting anything like Cape Canaveral for the Upper Peninsula," Rep. Barsley said, but added in a statement:

"We think a proper investigation and a modest start, carefully coordinated with all interested parties, including our Canadian friends, is a desirable goal. We have been in contact with officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and they have shown interest in the work of this committee."

ALSO GOING
Legislators accompanying Barsley will be Reps. Allison Green, R-Kingston; Walter Nakulka, R-Clawson; Russell Helman, D-Detroit Bay; Joseph Mack, D-Ironwood; Hogan and Gail Handy, R-Eau Claire.

Barsley said these educators will be on hand at the Keweenaw Club to discuss plans with the committee and study maps of possible rocket sites.

Dr. Wilbur Nelson, chairman of the aeronautical engineering department at the University of Michigan; Dr. Leslie Jones, director of the university's high altitude rocketry program; Prof. Edward Lester of the university's aeronautical engineering department; Dr. J. R. Van Pelt, president of Michigan Tech; Dr. Edgar Hardin, president of Northern Michigan College, and others from both the Tech and Northern faculties.

Coal Executive Dead

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)—Charles Allen Gibbons, 61, president of the Susquehanna Coal Co. and for many years associated with the coal industry, died Tuesday.

PIN-WORMS A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fighting, now-picking, a tormenting red-tail are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms...only parasites that medical experts say infect 1 out of every 8 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it. Topical Pin-Worms...they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W Tablets do...and here's how they do it: Pin-Worms secrete coating which the tablets dissolve into the bowels before they die. Then—Jayne's most...medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms outsize and small.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermicide...small, easy-to-swallow tablets...special sizes for children and adults.

Life Sentences of 2 Commuted by the Governor

LANSING (AP)—Two convicts serving life sentences for separate murders during the 1930s have had their sentences commuted, paving the way for their parole. In commuting the sentences, Gov. Swainson said he was following the recommendation of the parole board.

The prisoners are William Hansen, formerly of Manistee, and Peter Wells, formerly of Jackson.

Hansen, 58, was sentenced in 1935 for the shotgun slaying of a former FBI friend. He plans to live with a relative in Dearborn. Wells, 63, was sentenced in 1934 for the fatal slaying of a gas station operator in Jackson during a holdup attempt. He plans to live with a relative in Michigan Center.

African Entry Assails Miami Beauty Contest

JOHANNESBURG South Africa — The recent Miss Universe contest in Miami was "more like a cattle contest than a beauty competition," said Miss South Africa on her return today.

Miss Lynette Gamble, 18, said furthermore, "there are so many waxes about, these contest girls have to fight to keep away from them."

Lynette, who is a cousin of Hollywood dancer Juliet Frenzy, failed to reach the finals at Miami.

She said the wrong girl won, adding: "nobody thought Miss Argentina should have won. This is not our grapes, but I thought Miss Israel should have won."

She also had some caustic remarks to newsmen about American clothes.

"My clothes made those of the American girls look silly," she said they wear tacks (sandal) with everything."

Turncoat's Mother Succumbs in London

LONDON (AP)—Lady Gwendolen MacLean, mother of renegade British diplomat Donald MacLean, died today at the age of 82.

She suffered a stroke July 16 at her country home near Beaconsfield, in Buckinghamshire. Her son, now self-exiled in the Soviet Union, was notified by cable but told Western newsmen he had no plans to go to her.

MacLean and a fellow foreign office employee, Guy Burgess, de-fected to the Soviet Union in May 1951. Last April the British government issued warrants for their arrest on charges of violating the British Official Secrets Act if they ever return to this country.

MacLean, who has an American-born wife and three children, and Burgess, a bachelor, both live now in Moscow.

MacLean, who personally favors tax cutting now, told newsmen that the "burden of proof" will rest with the advocates of the repeal of individual and corporate taxes.

Kennedy Wants Proof of Need for Cut in Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., said yesterday there will have to be "a preponderance of evidence" in support of an immediate tax cut before President Kennedy will propose a cut.

Humphrey, who personally favors tax cutting now, told newsmen that the "burden of proof" will rest with the advocates of the repeal of individual and corporate taxes.

"I think the President is es-entially cautious and conservative, and is keeping an open mind on this," Humphrey added. Kennedy indicated at his news conference yesterday that he will wait until next month, when July figures on unemployment and other economic indicators become available, before making any deci-

Hoodlums' Sentences Move in Right Direction

The Press heartily commends Circuit Court Judge H. Russell Holland for the evenhanded justice meted out to two hoodlums who last spring went on a rampage of property damage of the most vicious sort.

In imposing the maximum sentence, the Court evidenced a reassuring reversal of a growing attitude of indulgent sentimentality on the part of the judiciary in passing sentence on offenders, particularly if youth or psychopathic irresponsibility could be adduced in defense.

The time for which this pair was adeptly apprehended by the police and justly concluded in Judge Holland's courtroom was one of the most wanton and senseless ever to come to our attention. In shattering the glass windows of some 50 stores with damage in the neighborhood of $13,000, the criminals' only proceeds were sheer destruction — nothing of material worth, no booty of any kind.

We think that the realistic and uncompromising action of the bench in this case will have a most salutary effect in deterring others with lawlessness in their minds.

State's Woes Are Paltry Compared With Illinois

If, as philosophers say, misery loves company, Michiganders need go no further than neighboring Illinois to find an atmosphere congenial and compatible — a hands-across-the-lake rapport springing from comparable state fiscal mismanagement complete with all attendant woes.

For that sovereign state can match Michigan almost blow for blow in the ineptitude that has brought both states to financial insolvency.

A poor politician, Governor Otto Kerner, elected in 1960, proved an equally poor administrator. He was long on appointing committees and short on effective follow-up.

A $13 million deficit inherited from his Republican predecessor has in two short years zoomed to $168 million — to be viewed by us with much chagrin as we take a pride-swallowing back seat with our paltry $75-to-$90-million deficit (depending on who or which party interprets it!).

Mainly responsible for the Illinois debacle is the same executive-legislative anomaly that has plagued the Wolverine state — a governor of one party at loggerheads with the legislature controlled by the opposing — with both commonwealths basing revenue on sales tax while eschewing a levy on income.

Drawing on an old bit of wags' speculation on what the governor of North Carolina said to the governor of South Carolina, we wonder what the governor of Illinois says to the governor of Michigan.

Don't Delay Installation of Auto Seat Belts

More and more is being said favoring the use of seat belts as a protective measure for all passengers in cars.

Since it is practically universally agreed that seat belts are the most effective single item of protective equipment presently available to reduce injuries and fatalities from traffic accidents, what are we waiting for? To show how strongly General,

Motors feels on the subject it is distributing to its dealers more than a million copies of a new folder entitled "Fasten Your Seat Belts."

If General Motors has come to the conclusion that safety belts will help reduce accidents, we can't help but be impressed that with its vast engineering facilities GM's experts know what they are talking about.

G.M. executive James M. Roche, vice president in charge of Distribution Staff, has gone on record as saying, "When accidents do occur, we believe that approved type seat belts, properly installed and consistently worn, have definite protective value."

Statements like the above currently are being repeated by almost everyone connected with automobile safety. Since this is a recommendation of experts we should all heed their warning and make provisions for our own safety by installing seat belts.

One bad accident might make safety belts useless.

The Man About Town

Meters' Time Runs Out in Florida City

By HOWARD V. HELDENBRAND

The MAT had a nice visit recently with longtime Pontiac resident

Nels Knudsen here, accompanied by the Miasus, for his summer escape from Hollywood, Fla. En route, he attended the Kiwanis International convention at Denver around the first of the month.

Of particular interest was his account of steps taken by Hollywood in connection with its business-district parking problem. Like Pontiac, the city had metered parking, which the citizens — the merchants particularly — decided was becoming detrimental to downtown shopping and business generally.

Well, a year ago, the taxpayers voted to spread an annual amount of $50,000 on the tax rolls to amortize the city's investment in parking facilities, thereby demetering themselves and establishing a two-hour free parking.

The man from Florida says that the increased business resulting and general all-around satisfaction have exceeded everyone's fondest hopes. All this seems quite pertinent, since Pontiac seems to be enmeshed in a parking predicament comparable to the one apparently solved by the southern city.

Frank Foster, former local dentist and businessman covering a wide span of years until he "expatriated" himself to San Angelo, Texas, six years ago, was back a short time ago for a week's visit.

Mrs. Alfred Tollefson of 1310 Stanley Ave., doesn't hesitate to stick her meteorological neck out. She postulates the prediction that at 2:48 p.m. on July 30 the temperature will be 100.

The MAT's got it down on his desk calendar — and if she's right, she and he are going into business together!

Bea, Mrs. Mary C. Adams of 1322 Baldwin phoned in a horticultural scoop. She reports 30 king-size buds plus some tiny ones. Like a good fisherman, she threw the tiny ones back in and didn't even count 'em!

Hugh Allen in Knoxville News-Sentinel: An impromptu talk is one that a man's secretary has been working on for three weeks.

After two weeks' hospitalization following a heart attack, Clarence J. Nephew Jr. of 4545 Wagon Wheel Drive is home and making time recovery.

Slight Detour in the Road

Taylor—New Look for Joint Chiefs?

WASHINGTON — Does President Kennedy's appointment of Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor to be chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff represent a renewed emphasis on ground forces?

This question is a vital one now as the far-reaching development of missiles and nuclear weapons seems to be bringing about a balance of power.

One school of thought nowadays assumes that local wars are to be the order of the day and that this phase of American defense policy has been neglected.

General Taylor holds that view. He has been intimately identified in recent months with the buildup of forces in Berlin and in dealing with the "guerrilla" warfare problem in Southeast Asia.

There are, however, fundamental differences of opinion here as to what constitutes the safer strategy for the United States. The rivalry between the armed services has by no means been adjourned.

The Air Force and the Navy, whose chiefs differed vigorously with Gen. Taylor as to the role of the chief of staff of the Army, are bound to resume their lively debate over the way the money provided for national defense shall be spent.

Gen. Taylor, like a good many other men of positive views in the armed services, has been a controversial figure. He voluntarily retired as chief of staff of the Army in 1959 after he found himself in a one-to-three position versus the heads of the Navy and the Air Force and the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who repeatedly sided against him.

He felt that President Eisenhower, being an Army man, should have supported his views on building up conventional forces. After retiring, Gen. Taylor wrote a book, "The Uncertain Trumpet," which caused a lot of discussion as he reflected the view he had unsuccessfully advocated in the meetings of the joint chiefs.

Mr. Kennedy was very much impressed with the book and used it as ammunition on the political stump in many campaign speeches.

It was the basis on which the Democratic presidential nominee criticized President Eisenhower for having failed to increase and modernize conventional forces, for having relied too much on the "massive deterrent" policy, and for setting budget ceilings on national defense.

MANY FETTERED When Gen. Taylor was selected as personal adviser to President Kennedy shortly after the Cuban crisis, he was asked to resign. "I had hundreds of shots of vitamin B1 complex and B12, countless nerve tonics and all sorts of gland pills or capsules," he wrote. "Then, all of a sudden, the veil lifted and again I can take my rightful place in my community — and my deepest gratitude goes to you for helping me keep my self-confidence and self-respect."

"Now then, I have talked with many who felt as I did and I was amazed to learn that their doctors had not considered that possibility or taken steps to find out about the infection."

"invasion" fiasco, many high officers in the armed services were a bit perturbed. Some of them felt that, since he was to be at the President's side constantly, it meant that the Joint Chiefs of Staff would be virtually subordinated to Gen. Taylor.

For that reason, some of the top officers in the Navy and Air Force said this week that they feel it is much better for Gen. Taylor to have the full responsibility as chairman of the joint chiefs than to be exercising influence on military matters at the White House as a personal assistant to the President.

The comment among various officers in the armed services is whether Gen. Taylor's appointment as head of the joint chiefs means the beginning of an effort on his part, with the cooperation of Secretary of Defense McNamara and President Kennedy, to centralize control of the armed services.

Dr. Harold Hyman Says:

True Depression Sickness Not Just Hypochondria

Most persons who have gone through periods of depression insist that the suffering they endure is worse than that inflicted by pain. And I am inclined to agree.

What intensifies the suffering is the fact that physical findings and lab tests all come out negative.

The depressed patient complains of feeling weak, let down, blue, disinterested, easily tired, aimless, peevish, down in the mouth, lower than a snake and so forth.

But all the reports come back saying there's nothing the matter. Finally, both patient and family conclude that the complainant is a neurotic, hypochondriac, and sick, wallowing in sorrowful Sisyphus or a malingerer who is trying to get out of duties, obligations and chores.

It is quite true that, in many instances, a depression is blown up out of all proportions. But it is also true that the depression that his previously conscientious woman and man of good will is as real as a boil on the end of a nose.

Sometimes a genuine depression is a manifestation of the frequently encountered manic-depressive condition so vividly described by a correspondent who wrote to thank me for advocating such treatments.

"Some night," she wrote, "I was praying to die. I felt there was no hope for me. My doctor said he could find nothing wrong with me. And my husband and children took me for a chronic complainer."

Since I had seen eight doctors within the course of a year, you could hardly blame them. "I had hundreds of shots of vitamin B1 complex and B12, countless nerve tonics and all sorts of gland pills or capsules."

"Then, all of a sudden, the veil lifted and again I can take my rightful place in my community — and my deepest gratitude goes to you for helping me keep my self-confidence and self-respect."

UNDULANT FEVER? "I wonder," writes another correspondent, "if some of these depressions, like mine, aren't the result of undulant fever?"

For years I was treated as a hypochondriac until one doctor discovered I had undulant fever.

"Now then, I have talked with many who felt as I did and I was amazed to learn that their doctors had not considered that possibility or taken steps to find out about the infection."

Voice of the People:

Asks What Is So 'Stupid' About Reapportionment

Representative Ford, the Republican from Grand Rapids, says the reapportionment decision is "stupid." Kent County, his county, has 383,187 people and two senators or one for each 181,593 people.

Oakland, another Republican stronghold, has one senator for 669,583 people. If we followed the Kent County ratio, Oakland County would have four senators. Does Rep. Ford think senators from Kent County are preferable to senators from Oakland County?

'November Election Is Most Crucial'

In 17 weeks we face the most crucial election in the history of our country. American voters send men to Congress on Nov. 6, who will tip the scales between liberalism which leans toward communism, and conservatism, which veers away from communism.

The job of pulling the nation out of the socialist ditch pit is far from simple. This is no struggle between the states. But it is a titanic battle to save the United States from an imperialist conspiracy — international communism, which has already killed more than 100 million people in its march to world control.

'U.S. Government Had Better Beware'

Now that Gus Scholle and friends have decided that the citizens of Michigan can no longer have the type of government for which they voted, we suppose we can expect they will try to push their opinions on the federal level.

For instance, can Mr. Scholle have overlooked the fact that in the United States Senate, Utah has many more votes as New York?

Can it be that it will be decided that the founders of our country voted "unconstitutionally" in setting up this check and balance?

Look out George Thomas and Ben. Here comes Gus!

Armament

The London Observer

Is it in the self-interest of every country that can obtain nuclear arms of its own to do so?

The British position is ambiguous because it is not clear to the independent and Soviet Union. This paradoxical situation is due to our nuclear striking capacity being largely "integrated" with the much greater striking forces of the United States, yet remaining (as government spokesmen occasionally remind us) under ultimate British control. Some Americans feel it is sufficiently integrated to be, in effect, part of an allied system and therefore unlikely ever to be used independently. But the Gauls argue, as British spokesmen have themselves frequently argued, that it could be used independently of American wishes.

President De Gaulle invokes this possibility. His thesis is that no state should be dependent on another state for its ultimate safety.

If the De Gaulle thesis is correct, then this must be applied to a partitioned state or to a small state like Israel — indeed, ultimately, to every great and small state in Africa and Latin America. But the thesis corrects.

The stability of the international situation throughout the world today is based on an accidental balance of power between two large industrial powers. It was accidentally achieved because their avowed purpose was to out-build each other in armaments. But the power which they wield is so formidable that it has imposed an extreme caution in their direct dealings, as we have seen throughout all the disputes over Berlin, and even in their direct dealings, as we have seen in the strange phenomenon of disputed territories, such as Korea and Viet Nam.

It means that the governments of the United States and the Soviet

Recession Plan

Sales Management

Want a Recession? If "Shun any personal responsibility for maintaining a growing economy."

Blame Washington for any bad news — and spread the idea there's no use working for growth because the Administration is out to "get" business.

State people by stressing Wall Street's blunders, forget that the pendulum always swings too far and that hundreds of stocks were too high.

Spread the idea that ours is a mature economy, with no growth possibilities.

Ignore much good news as employment highest on record and that March and April set new highs in retail sales.

Stress cancellations and ignore the good news and added business.

Slow down on research and development.

Shut the advertising.

Eliminate incentives.

Cancel expansion plans.

Order orders for modernization.

Keep new product introductions under wraps.

In other words, accentuate the negative. If most of us do that, we can make one ring-a-ding of a business recession.

Castro 'Invites' Cuba to Santiago for Rally

KEY WEST (U.S.)—Support the U.S. government staged a huge patriotic rally in Detroit and made it plain that everyone in Boston who wanted to be considered a good American had better attend.

That's about what's happening in Cuba where final preparations are under way for a gigantic July celebration at Santiago de Cuba, a city of 100,000 near the island's eastern tip. It's as far from Havana as Santiago de Cuba as it is from Detroit to Boston—around 600 miles. It will be an even longer journey for those who live west of Havana, of course.

For weeks, the island's radio and television stations have been dinging one slogan into Cuban ears—"Everyone with Fidel at Santiago on the 26th."

The nation's principal TV network already has shifted its main studios to Santiago until after the celebration and all its programs are organizing from there.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro arrived at Santiago yesterday to prepare for the major address he will deliver on the 26th.

The date marks the ninth anniversary of the unsuccessful attack he staged against the military barracks there. He was captured and sent to prison but the date now is revered by his followers as the birthday of the Castro revolutionary movement.

Thousands of Cubans already are pouring into Santiago, Havana Radio said today, and elaborate plans have been made to feed and house them.

U. of M. Work on Satellite Done

First of 20 Groups to Finish Assignment on Data-Collecting 'Eagle'

ANN ARBOR (U.S.)—University of Michigan scientists and engineers have completed work on the United States' Eagle satellite project, the university has announced.

They are the first of 20 groups to finish assignments on the data-collecting satellite, said Fred T. Haddock, U. of M. radio astronomer and project director.

Testing of the equipment, designed and built largely on the U. of M. campus was completed last weekend at Goddard Space Flight Center near Washington, D.C.

Completed about six weeks ahead of schedule, the packages will record spectra of radio bursts from the sun and Jupiter which cannot be observed from the earth, Haddock said.

In addition to the flight equipment, which will circle the earth as much as 70,000 miles in space, the university has developed ground station equipment.

Other universities working on the satellite included the University of California, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the State University of Iowa, the University of Minnesota and Stanford University.

GOP in County Pledges $1,000 in Ballot Battle

The Oakland County Republican Committee has pledged $1,000 and plans to solicit more funds in order to bring the State Senate redistricting case before the U.S. Supreme Court again.

"We wholeheartedly endorse asking the U.S. Supreme Court to delay the redistricting of the Michigan Supreme Court," said Charles L. Lyle, county GOP chairman.

Lyle said the $1,000 already pledged and any other funds raised would be used to pay legal costs for the appeal now scheduled for the highest court in the country.

"Although Oakland County would gain in representation from last week's Michigan Supreme Court decision on reapportionment," said Lyle, "we feel this gain should not be at the expense of those people of the state who would then be without adequate representation."

"If we are forced into a state-wide primary this fall, Oakland County stands to lose representation because of the confusion in the minds of the people faced with a slate of 128 or more candidates in an at-large election."

U.S. House Quiet Compared to Commons

LONDON—The American House of Representatives is a chamber of quiet compared to the British House of Commons. The repartee in the latter is by turns, witty, truculent, abusive and dry.

A member hailed Prime Minister Macmillan as he entered Commons the other day and called congratulations. They were barred.

"May I compliment the prime minister on keeping his head whilst surrounded by those who were losing theirs?" he asked.

Macmillan stared at the joker for a moment. "A macabre jest," he answered.

There was another reference in the House of Lords to Macmillan's ruthless sacking of virtually the bulk of the high ranking members of his government.

SLASH AT LORDS

The first arose during a solemn debate on whether British motorists are to be obliged by law to put seat belts in the front seats of their cars.

"If we are going to lay down such a law for the British people," interrupted the Liberal Lord Bea, "would it not also be wise to insist that seat belts hereafter be worn by all members of the government's Front Bench?"

Complaints from regions which once dared not lift a voice of protest against Britain have given the British Foreign Office one more reason to feel relieved over shifting the "White Man's Burden" elsewhere.

NO POLO PLAYERS

The Emir of Katarina, Northern

Nigeria, has dispatched to London a sharp criticism of an embassy sent there by the foreign office.

He is not the sort who can hit a really good nearside bank-hander, the polo playing Emir bitterly protested.

Off course horse betting is going very well in Britain. One London bookie who owns several betting shops now plans to build one that will hold 800 punters, as the poor alphas are known here.

The British are a betting race from top to bottom. Incredible sums are wagered each week in the football (soccer) pools, and both and poor alike dream of winning a vast and tax-free prize for the investment of a penny or two.

The big players are far from being phlegm. The other night at Crookfield, as fancy a card room as one could imagine, the main chips being played in the game of Chemin de Fer I was watching were of one hundred pound denomination.

That's two hundred and eighty bucks a clip, and some of the players were rattling stacks of them. At such houses, unlike our joints in Las Vegas, neither the state nor the feds take a cut.

NO 'HOUSE'

Members at Crookfield pay $24 a year fees plus a charge of about three dollars for the use of a chair at a table for up to three

There is no house to be against. Only fellow players at the table. Thus no dice or roulette games are to be seen in the spreading realm of British gambling.

Informants said the committee promised to act on the suggestions by next Tuesday, giving members time to consult their governments, who have or once had troops in the Congo force.

They said Thant told the group the United Nations is spending so much money on its Congo operation that by early 1963 even the proceeds of the $200-million emergency bond issue would be used up.

French-born, conducted the final questioning, which had to do with Canada. Not one of the 16 dairy queens knew the name of the capital of Canada. One said Perth and another Canberra.) None could name its principal river nor Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

They should have named the content of the dreary questions, snapped the duchess, biting the end off her big black cigar.

United States railroads spent $95,530,000 for forest products last year compared with $32,612,000 in 1959. Cattle purchases last year totaled $51,284,000.

DONNIE? CINDY? — That's what this boy (left) and girl seem to say when asked their names. She did not return.

Waterford OKs Funds for Civic Center Survey

Appropriation of funds for a topographical study of civic center property was approved Monday night by the Waterford Township Board after a lengthy discussion.

Up to $500 will be allowed for the survey of the approximately 30-acre parcel at Tubbs and Crescent Lake roads.

Board members discussed at length the study both for the entire area and also for the buildings are proposed.

The latter would have cost about $300.

Board members indicated, however, that they felt the additional expenditure would be more practical so the entire area could be readily made.

UNESCO Body Bars Red China

Cultural Affairs Unit Votes to Halt Observers From Non-U.N. Lands

PARIS (U-P)—A UNESCO committee on cultural affairs has closed the door to any indirect appearance of Red China in the United Nations. It was disclosed yesterday.

The committee is one dealing with a convention on the preservation of mankind's cultural heritage in case of war. UNESCO (the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization) sponsored the international convention.

On a motion by French delegate Louis-Philippe May, the committee voted 18-11 yesterday that observers from non-signatory countries can attend its sessions only if invited by UNESCO's acting secretary general following approval by the UNESCO executive board. The Red bloc is heavily outnumbered in the 24-man board.

The effect of this was to nullify a previous committee decision to drop restrictions on the nationality of observers. The committee's original ground rules limited observers to countries which are already members of the U.N. or UNESCO.

In a lively debate the committee last week removed the limitation—an action which, as U.S. observer Max Isenbergh pointed out, would allow even the Red Chinese to send an observer.

The issue popped up again in a message from Communist North Viet Nam asking the committee to admit Mai Van Bo, North Viet Nam's commercial representative in Paris, as an observer. Approval would have set a precedent for the admission of Red Chinese observers since North Viet Nam like Red China, is not a U.N. member.

May, opposing North Viet Nam's admission as an observer, successfully pushed forward an amendment to last week's action.

Regardless of votes on the executive board, the French amendment effectively blocks North Vietnamese or any Red Chinese attendance. The present committee session ends July 26. The UNESCO board does not meet again until August. The committee's next scheduled meeting is in 1966.

Civil Aeronautics Board investigators were reported to be particularly interested in the testimony of Bernard Kinnear, 37, a former New Zealand Air Force pilot instructor who was among the survivors.

Congressional Dem Revolt Mushrooming

By EUTH MONTGOMERY
WASHINGTON — The White House is viewing with thinly disguised alarm the number of Democratic senators who are attempting off the party reservation in this crucial election year.

President Kennedy tried valiantly to distract public notice from the fact, by blaming "Republicans and a handful of Democrats" for the defeat of medicare, but actually that "handful" was a lousy 21.

JFK was fully aware that a third of all Senate Democrats voted against him on this "mammoth" bill, and White House insiders let it be known that they had never seen him so angry.

What actually should disturb Kennedy more, however, is the score-sheet on his $4,672,000,000 foreign aid authorization bill which passed the Senate three days later.

Unlike the highly controversial medicare bill, foreign aid ordinarily commands bipartisan support, and this year was no exception. It carried by a respectable margin of 56 to 27.

The significant twist, however, is that more Democrats than Republicans voted against it, and most of the eighteen Democrats recorded against the foreign aid bill by vote or pair also voted against JFK's medicare bill.

Some like Sen. Allen Ellender of Louisiana are just plain against "foreign giveaways," but others were revolting against the administration's House compromise that gives President Kennedy discretion to continue aid to Communist countries like Yugoslavia and Poland.

This should give the President pause. Only three months after he chaired an unprecedented, $120,000,000 in the Gallup popularity poll, he is faced with an inter-party revolt in the exclusive off the party reservation in this crucial election year.

A leader, to be effective, must not march too far in advance of his troops.

In an election year Congress is usually sensitively attuned to the grassroots, and if this is a reliable indicator the country is far more conservative-minded than the President's White House advisers.

Senatorial mail is reflecting widespread disgust with the gigantic foreign aid program, and each day's headlines tend to emphasize its lack of concrete accomplishment. For instance:

Penn. into which we have been pouring millions of dollars, has just rewarded our efforts by a military coup d'etat and the arrest of its legally elected president, Manuel Fraga.

Argentina since last March has been dominated by military "gringos," who deposed President Arturo Frondizi and annulled the national elections.

Despite this fact, we continue to flood Argentina with our tax money, and the economy now is in Washington for more.

Like Argentina, Iran is also demanding that we pick up its budget-deficit check; yet we have the largest national debt in the history of the world.

"NOT ENOUGH"

Iran's prime minister has just resigned with an angry blast at the U.S. for not giving it more give-away, although we have lavished $120,000,000 in economic aid and a classified amount of military equipment on Iran during his 11 months in office.

India, to whom we have shipped incredible billions, is now shopping in Red Russia for jet planes. Brazil, another favored recipient of U.S. largesse, is in such a chaotic political state that President Kennedy had to postpone his scheduled July visit.

If our foreign aid program is supposed to stabilize governments, it is a dismal failure. If it is intended to win friends or encourage democracy, it is not succeeding.

If its purpose is merely to spend the U.S. into poverty it has not done so, because our balance of payments position is distressing, as are our unemployment figures. Senators and representatives have an understandable desire to be re-elected. That fact, rather than any personal animosity toward the President, explains why an increasing number of them are preparing to give foreign aid a rough time when the appropriation bill reaches the floor in late August.

Michigan State University's spring term scholarship list showed the Montague heavily finished with a straight "A" average.

The university also said Miss Fleming will be a member of the junior class next fall.

She carried a heavy enough scholastic load in her first year to carry her through her required freshman and sophomore work, permitting her to make up the year of school she missed because of her Miss America duties.

foreigners, could he find an old friend with a heavy accent to play a small role as a judge? He said he could and he enlisted a friend.

Next day the agent called to complain that the man hadn't shown up. Telly said he would take care of it. He couldn't reach his friend, so he appeared for the interview himself, faking a heavy accent. He was hastily accepted.

He was summoned to the office of the show's producer, David Susskind. "I understand you speak English very well," Susskind said. "Yes," Telly admitted. He was then offered the leading role in "Winners," the short-lived series on actual trials.

He has worked ever since. In television and then in films like "Young Savages," "Birdman," "Cape Fear," "The Intern," "The Grand Duke and Mr. Pimm," and now "The Man from the Inner Club" with Danny Kaye.

Telly, a stocky man with wavy hair and a wandering nose, is dis-lighted but, not dazzled. "If the bubble bursts, I can always go back to teaching," he says.

Houses Passes 1 Bill: Pay Solon's Widow

LANSING—A single bill was passed by the House and sent to the Senate yesterday.

It appropriates to his widow the remainder of the legislative salary of former Rep. William C. Sterling, D-Monroe, who died June 7.

The Senate failed by one vote to override a veto by Gov. Swainson of a bill regulating safety provisions of vessels for hire.

Swainson said he vetoed the measure because it carried a provision that rules and regulations of the state must be approved by the legislature before they become effective.

The vote was 22-7, one short of the necessary two-thirds majority.

Could Win Academy Award

New Movie Find Turned to Films, TV at 35

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD—It is not given to many men to find a totally new career at age 35 and to make a whopping success of it.

Just that has happened to Telly Savalas, a man with an improbable name and a face to match. He has worked steadily in the two and a half years since he turned actor, and he may well be the favorite for next year's supporting-actor Oscar.

Who says so? But Lancaster says so. So do I.

You have only to see "Birdman of Alcatraz" to see what we're talking about. Telly (short for the Greek version of Aristotle) plays the con in the next cell, and his comedy brightens the otherwise stolid theme.

Telly performs like a veteran, which he isn't.

He was a Garden City, Long Island boy, who enlisting in the war, ended up to per cent disabled. He came back after a long hospitalization, studied psychology until he became disenchanted with it, got a job with the State Department helping to improve the American image overseas.

Born to Greek immigrants, he spoke Greek well, understood Turkish and other Middle East cultures. His work prompted a job as a news producer at ABC, then he resigned to raise funds for a little theater project in Stamford, Conn.

Raising the cash was easy, making the theater go wasn't. The enterprise ended in disaster, and Telly retired to the home of an aunt in Garden City to hide from his creditors.

She persuaded him to get active in community life. Among other things, he taught in adult education.

HOW IT HAPPENED

One day a phone call came from a television casting agent, who said she knew he had worked with foreigners, could he find an old friend with a heavy accent to play a small role as a judge? He said he could and he enlisted a friend.

'Do You Really Like It? I - Uh - Made It Myself'

By PHYLLIS BATTLE

NEW YORK — One cannot help being continually amazed at how much a modern-day American can create with no creative talent.

Once upon a time, men were proud and women were diligent. In those days, an artistic achievement — whether it was a home-baked pie or an oil painting — was beautifully turned out and looked as though it had been produced with ease. That was a deception.

Today, when men are in a hurry and so's their old lady, the deception works in reverse. Creations are produced quickly and easily, and look like they were immensely complicated to concoct.

Nobody cares to work hard over a "masterpiece" of ingenuity any more. To knit a set of tiny garments, as the gossip columnist describe them, a woman needs only flip a switch on her handy home knitting machine. The result is more polished than the booties it took her mother a month to pick out.

To compose a painting for man merely dubs in colors on canvas — following an instruction sheet, a prefabricated outline, and a set of numbers even a juvenile could do justice to.

Erug the baby can play the organ, without expensive lessons, and the same goes for his tone-deaf sister. There are push-button devices now which enable you to strike a single note — and out pours an entire chord. Foolproof fingering instructions are the big thing instead of sheet music. Also, if anybody laughs when anybody sits down at the organ anymore.

Add to this the packaged mixes that make five-minute cakes that look like grandmother's two-hour production, and embroidery attachments on sewing machines, and foolproof cameras that need no setting, you get the picture — of how little an expert with absolutely no imagination or ability.

FORM IT YOURSELF

One of the last great artistic artifices was a form-it-yourself device which allows everyone to be a sculptor. It was a set of plastic forms about which you simply patted on clay, and the inventor assured me seriously:

"Even if you try very hard, you cannot botch this. It must be a perfect piece of sculpture. It's the utterly fool-proof fake!"

I can't tell you how many times I have a Venus de Milo in the parlor.

Where will Venus sit? Undoubtedly, it will be placed on one of the housewife's machine-embroidered doilies atop the bookcase her son put together in 18 minutes, which contains do-it-yourself books describing all the other standardized, prefabricated, unimaginative furnishings in the room.

I don't know how long this trend toward following the big print will last. The manufacturer claim, naturally, that it is excellent therapy for the weary mind to paint pictures (even if their creations are no more creative than a child's coloring books), and sculpt their own statues (even though the old-fashioned mud pie displayed a great deal more individuality).

But I would suppose that the day of disillusionment must, inevitably, come.

When Mrs. X visits Mrs. Y, and discovers that her still-life, her Madonna bust, her seven-layer mix and her organ rendition of "The Lost Chord" are identical to her own — may she not stop to wonder whether she has wasted her time and effort, however little was involved, on the ultimate of creative nothingness?

At this point, perhaps the American public will put a stop to their modern slogan: "Look, Ma — no brains, no imagination, no talent," and return to the healthier hygiene of individuality.

Meantime, give me one of those glass-blowing kits, miss — if you really GUARANTEE it blows as good as Venetian!

What's missing to make the one Tom Collins that pleases the hard-to-please?

Mental Hospital Can Mean a New Life

By EDWARD J. MARRAITY

GRAND RAPIDS — For some, an introduction to life. For others, an oasis of new strength to face old problems. And for still others, their lifetime home.

This, in essence, is the picture of Pine Rest Christian Hospital. The World's largest church-related mental hospital, located 11 miles south of Grand Rapids at Cutlerville, Pine Rest is affiliated with Christian churches of reformed denominations but accepts patients of other denominations.

Treatment for nearly 600 in patients is provided by a staff of more than 300 persons. The staff includes psychiatrists, physicians, dentists, psychologists, therapists, social workers, pharmacists, pastors and psychiatric attendant nurses.

"We try to understand the relationship of mental illness and correlate it to man's spiritual nature," says Dr. Stuart Bergman, psychiatrist, clinical director and acting superintendent.

"Man is mind, body and spirit. We try to treat the whole man," he explains.

STRIKING FACILITY

One of the hospital's most striking facilities is the quietness of retreat and adjoining day school.

The retreat residence houses 125 mentally handicapped children.

About half attend the day school which also provides education or training for 115 more children transported daily from nearby areas by the Christian Foundation for Handicapped Children. All draw a full measure of tender care and attention.

The school starts five grades below kindergarten level.

Principal Alfred Bloem, pointing to a needlecraft class for girls of various ages, explains that it is geared toward useful output.

The room holds sewing machines, cooking range, sink and similar items. A sign asks its occupants: "What are you cut out to be?"

"The object of this room is to prepare the pupils — whenever possible — to be happy and useful," says Bloem. "Some will progress well enough to take jobs, some enough to help out at home while others will require further institutionalizing."

Farther along, the visitor finds instructor Harold Eiten in session with six pupils in an "advanced" class. Two teen-age boys proudly display their knowledge of driver training, using toy autos and Eiten's homemade simulated highway on a table top.

EXPLAIN TRAFFIC
The youths explain which car has the right of way at an intersection and which way the traffic flows on a given portion of expressway.

Instructor John Brock directs a group of boys in the manual training shop with power saws and other machine tools. All are intent on projects with plastic.

Away from the retreat, a group of older patients — 18 years and on — engage in handicraft work of a remunerative nature. They are in the care of physiotherapist Roger Sikma.

Most are handicapped to some extent by brain injuries but all are aware that their work brings a cash reward. One section is turning out men's jewelry — tie clips and cuff links. Another is busy at rug work.

The idea of jingling coins in the pocket as a therapeutic measure for mental patients started last Christmas, says Sikma.

A number of his charges were fashioning Christmas wreaths from pine cones picked up on the hospital grounds. A local florist helped market them and found a ready response among buyers. Proceeds went to the makers and to the day school.

Another buyers outlet for patient-produced goods is at the annual sale day—a project of Christian Women's circles. Sale day participants have contributed more than $33,000 to the hospital through their once-a-year efforts since 1914.

"Adult patients," too, are kept busy in a variety of therapeutic tasks. An arts and crafts shop is one of several key facilities. Pine Rest is set up to cover all patient needs except surgery.

Several major categories of the therapy are emphasized in care of patients at Pine Rest.

Among them are psychotherapy, involving a close doctor-to-patient relationship; electrotherapy, known also as shock therapy and being relegated more and more to the background; chemotherapy, bringing into play the newest advances in drugs; spiritual therapy, an integral part of the hospital's philosophy, and fast-acting adjunctive therapy.

Resourceful Secretary Makes an Appointment

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Tucson Mayor Lew Davis was swamped with work for several weeks. Finally he had time to dig through a pile of appointment requests.

He noticed a familiar name. He took a second look and realized his secretary, Mrs. Rae Dellinger, had requested an appointment the next afternoon in order to discuss the mayor's appointment schedule.

State Dept. Talks of Lesser Role for U.N.

By Ray Crowley

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Within the State Department there is now a strong behind-the-scenes discussion on the future role of the United Nations in U.S. foreign policy. This discussion has been going on for the past several months. It has now moved up to office head and assistant secretary level.

A series of classified papers are being circulated on proposed changes in this country's relationship to the United Nations.

Final decisions have not been made. But there is strong pressure for major changes. They would be tried piecemeal — one at a time.

The changes decided on will likely be pushed with the United States acting in a behind-the-scenes role. Experts at the Department of State believe we should back other countries suggesting the changes, rather than to be the prime mover.

These discussions are not foretelling a U.S. withdrawal from the United Nations. They do suggest that the United Nations Security Council and General Assembly probably will not have the same part in future U.S. policy as was envisioned by some a year or two ago.

The discussions center on four major areas.

FOREIGN AID
An influential State Department group thinks there should be increasing emphasis on major foreign aid by individual countries and by consortiums in which several countries work together, rather than directly through the United Nations.

Under this plan, U.N. aid would concentrate on surveys, public health, administrative aid and other such general welfare activities.

There formerly had been a strong feeling in the State Department that more and more of the world's major foreign aid should be channeled through the United Nations.

Some key State Department circles discount this idea now.

Already, important officials within the department would like to see the U.N. gradually assume a lion's share of technical and economic aid to the Congo, with the U.N. share relatively limited.

These State Department men have been impressed with the effectiveness of most British and French aid to their former colonies, in contrast with the limited U.N. aid to the Congo.

These same diplomats would like to see some arrangement in which, eventually, Netherlands technicians would be moving back into Indonesia in numbers. As one State Department expert explains it:

"The Belgians have the most experience in the Congo, the British and French in their former colonies. These countries have the technicians who can do the jobs to be done."

"They're willing to put up the money because of their long-standing economic and business ties. Let's face it, the United Nations doesn't have the money and it hasn't been able to get the number of technicians it needs for the Congo alone."

CRISIS BETWEEN POWERS
The sentiment of some influential officials in the State Department is summarized by the comment of one of them:

"We're not looking for things to put into the hands of the United Nations."

Though Berlin, for example, might well be discussed from time to time in the U.N. General Assembly, the general aim will be to try to keep Berlin as a discussion between the principal powers concerned.

OTHER DISPUTES
The thinking among the same influential State Department group is that more and more disputes should be taken out of the U.N. General Assembly and handled by small, interested and responsible groups of nations.

The U.N. rule might be to help get these nations together for discussions. These groupings might be called special U.N. committees.

Major questions such as disarmament, or atom test bans, could be taken up by the small groups of countries most closely involved.

"Such a small group would have a better chance of getting something done than would a debate in the General Assembly," says one experienced diplomat.

Already, in the Congo, the major behind-the-scenes talking to get to the bottom of the situation is between the U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld and Premier Cyrille Adoula.

of the Congo central government together, is by the United States and other leading nations working quietly but directly with the two principals and their advisers.

The U.N. role in these discussions is dwindling.

"But there's a U.N. umbrella which in Africa nations take the 'curse' off our discussions," says one State Department official.

Again, as in the case of a dispute between the U.N. Secretary-General and the Netherlands over Western Guinea, these state department men see the U.N. rule primarily of getting the two countries together to negotiate — not of stepping in to settle the question.

PRESERVING ORDER
A change is already evident here in Rwanda and Burundi (formerly Ruanda - Urundi). African nations granted their independence since the Congo experience, U.S. diplomats worked behind the scenes as Belgian advisers and Belgian military forces could be kept in Rwanda and Burundi approval.

This was done in the belief that the Belgian forces and ad-mines would be better able to keep order without trouble than would U.N. forces.

There is considerable disagreement in the Department of State over what the future policy should be on the use of U.N. troops as a stabilizing force.

Some officials want a small U.N. force permanently ready, trained to make the mistake the U.N. force made in the Congo. Some want no U.N. force except for emergencies.

In general, there's a strong feeling among some influential officials in the Department of State that the United Nations will be more effective from the U.S. standpoint if a good many of the questions that come before that body can be taken out of General Assembly debate.

They would be put in the hands of quiet committees where the United States will have the same influence as do senior members of the committees of the U.S. Congress.

Congress Okays Foreign Aid Bill

$206.5 Million, Bars on Loans to Reds, U.N. Are Removed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has sent President Kennedy a foreign aid bill stripped of bars on aid to Communist countries and also minus $206.5 million Kennedy wanted.

The compromise $472,000,000 measure went to the White House Tuesday after winning House approval, 221 to 161.

It authorizes $206.5 million less than the administration asked, and that figure could be trimmed further when Congress acts on a bill to appropriate the money.

ELIMINATES BAN
The compromise eliminates Senate-voiced provisions to withhold aid from Communist Poland and Yugoslavia, and limit assistance to India.

To provide aid to Communist nations, Kennedy must decide if it will help promote their independence, and serve the security interests of the United States. Aid cannot go to a nation he concludes is dominated by international communism.

TACKLED ON BAN
The House tackled on the U.N. loan ban, also eliminated in conference. It prohibited U.S. loans to help the world organization until all U.N. members have paid their bills for peace-keeping operations in the Congo and the Gaza Strip.

Kennedy administration opposed both aid barriers.

The Senate already has authorized a $700-million loan to the United Nations, and the revised foreign aid bill clears the way for House action later on a loan to bond purchase to help the organization.

August Declared Apprenticeship Month in City

In ceremonies yesterday attended by business and labor leaders in his office, Mayor Robert Landry officially designated the month of August as Apprenticeship Month.

Similar proclamations at the state and national level were enacted recently honoring the 25th anniversary of the National Apprenticeship Act.

Landry urged employers and union organizations, not now training apprentices, to take appropriate steps to assure the development of skilled workers in the community.

He also urged those presently training apprentices to strengthen and expand their programs.

Placed on Probation for Plane Bomb Joke

DETROIT (AP) — A New York college student was sentenced to probation for joking that he was taking a bomb onto an airplane.

Ronald Frumkes, 19, of Harrison, N.Y., a student at the University of Bridgeport in Bridgeport, Conn., got the reprimand and probation penalty from U.S. District Judge Theodore M. Mackinowicz.

The judge told Frumkes he should have known better, that he had acted thoughtlessly and could have caused a panic.

U. of M. Course to Use Computers for Weather Data

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Computers and weather will be the subject matter of a new course to be developed at the University of Michigan.

The university has received a $25,000 grant from the National Science Foundation for development of a graduate course in the application of electronic computers to problems in meteorology.

E. Wendell Hewson, professor of meteorology in the department of engineering dynamics, will supervise the development of techniques for applying computers to typical problems in meteorology.

Electronic data processing devices may in time be used to tackle such frontier meteorological problems as weather control and analysis of the atmosphere on other planets, Hewson said.

The use of computers in the science of weather and climate is increasing steadily, he said. Digital computers now are being used by the Weather Bureau and armed services in forecasting.

Committees OK Appropriations

Compromise Measure to Finance Post Office, Treasury, White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House and Senate conference committee yesterday agreed on a compromise $4,689,781,000 bill to finance the Treasury and Post Office departments and the White House in the coming year.

It was the first regular appropriations bill to clear a conference committee this year for final action by both chambers.

The total was $45,965,000 less than President Kennedy asked. The House had voted $5,461,000 and the Senate $3,528,558,000.

The bill would provide for about 2,800 more internal revenue service employees to check on income tax returns.

The bill's major totals include $4,500,000 for the Post Office, $970,385,000 for the Treasury, including the Coast Guard, Secret Service and other agencies, and $11,637,000 for the executive department.

CYCLING OLDSTERS — Airman J.C. Orval Price greets his grandparents at Fairchild Air Force Base near Spokane, Wash., this week as they arrive for a visit on their well-traveled motorcycle. Mr. and Mrs. Orval Price of Terre Haute, Ind., both about 58 years old, they say, were ending a 5,500-mile tour with a visit to their grandson.

OK Assessment Plan for Replacing Facilities

City commissioners last night approved a resolution expanding the city's special assessment formula to establish lower assessment rates for the replacement of some public facilities.

Changes in the formula affect special assessments for three types of improvements: curbs and gutters, black topping and grading and graveling.

A fourth amendment affects the special assessment formula for owners of corner lots.

"In most cases, when the city has had to construct these types of improvements, we have charged one basic special assessment rate," explained City Manager Robert A. Stierer.

"Under the present formula, the same rate would be applied regardless of whether the same black-topped street, for example, was being laid where a gravel road had been or it was merely replacing an old black-topped street.

"The new, amended formula doesn't change the special assessment rate for construction of improvements where they don't already exist, but does specify a lower rate for the replacement of some existing improvements.

CALLED COMPROMISE
"The lower rate for replacement is a compromise between the full assessment rate or no assessment at all."

He said the city felt "it isn't fair to the public" to charge the full rate for replacement of facilities originally built partly by special assessments, and the city "couldn't afford" to replace them for nothing.

"So we came up with a compromise rate that should act as an inducement to property owners to not mistreat public improvements, but still not throw the entire cost on the city."

For curb and gutters, the standard assessment is $3.50 per front foot.

This was amended to allow for a special assessment of $2.50 per front foot for replacement of existing curb and gutter where more than 50 per cent of the curb in any given project is in need of repair.

If less than 50 per cent is in need of replacement, the entire cost will be paid by the city.

$4.50 'AVERAGE'
According to city engineers, the average contract cost to replace curbs and gutters is $4.50 per front foot.

For black topping the standard rate is $2.50 per front foot.

This is amended to allow a special assessment rate of $1.50 per front foot where a black-topped street is to be replaced and a previous assessment has been levied against frontage property.

Similar reductions are added for grading and graveling streets that are narrower than the normal residential street.

In the case of corner lots, the side lot assessment formula for improvements has been reduced.

Previously assessments were applied to 50 per cent of side lot frontage up to 150 feet, with the city paying for 40 per cent of the frontage.

This has been expanded to allow a lower percentage in cases where the lot abuts sanitary sewer and water mains.

In these cases, 25 per cent will be assessed and the city will pay 75 per cent.

PONTIAC, MICHIGAN

Mrs. Lillian Jose of Union Lake, Mrs. James Bullock of Euclid Avenue, Birmingham, and Mrs. Theodore Burgman of Detroit, cohostess for the benefit luncheon, gathered for their picture on the terrace of the Stollman home following the benefit affair for Bar-Ilan University, Israel.

200 Attend Luncheon

Benefit University in Israel

Some 200 women attended the benefit luncheon for Bar-Ilan University (American University of Israel) Tuesday afternoon at the Lake Angelus residence of Mrs. Max Stollman.

Guest speaker for the occasion was Mrs. S. L. A. Marshall, charter member of the American Women for Bar-Ilan University. Mrs. Marshall recently returned to her Birmingham home after two months in Israel, including a visit to Bar-Ilan with her 11-year-old daughter Sharon.

This trip was the topic of her talk. She also told of living conditions and life on a kibbutz, or cooperative settlement. There are approximately 200 of them in Israel.

Mrs. Marshall travels extensively on behalf of the University, helping establish chapters and raise funds for Bar-Ilan's operation. Her husband, military news analyst, is an honorary fellow of Bar-Ilan.

The eight-year-old establishment, supported entirely by the American and Canadian chapter members, currently boasts an enrollment of 1,000 students.

Students at Bar-Ilan come from all over the world. Since the University does not deny admittance to any deserving student, about 75 per cent of the enrollment is on scholarship.

Recently, Bar-Ilan was presented a new physics building—the Aorannan Lincoln Physics Building—as a gift from the United States.

A grant from the U. S. will enable the University to embark upon agricultural research to enable underdeveloped nations the use of soybeans as a high source of protein food in diets.

Mrs. S. L. A. Marshall, guest speaker, of Westchester Way in Birmingham (left) views the gardens with Mrs. Max Stollman, cohostess for the American Women for Bar-Ilan (American University of Israel) benefit luncheon Tuesday. Some 200 women attended the affair on the lawn of the Stollman's Lake Angelus residence.

Balmain Collection Restrained, Elegant

PARIS UN-Quiet, restrained, classic and elegant—those are time-honored words that have to be used to describe Pierre Balmain's fall and winter collection show today.

Put them altogether and you get wearability, the most desirable of all fashion qualities. This was the main theme of the Balmain show which began the second day of French fashion house openings for the coming season.

There is a lot of fun in describing the designer's more flamboyant evening gowns. Take the ones where the ostrich plumes fan out from the chest reaching as high as the eye, and making a ticklish situation for a dancing partner.

But for the main portion of his collection, there is no fooliness—all good sense and good taste.

LONG, SLIM

Balmain's suit silhouette is long and slim, high-waisted, wide-shouldered with padded sleeves, mostly crisply man tailored. Skirts are pencil slim.

His long jacket suits with side vents and notched lapels are the kind you would wear like the models did with slouch hats, and carrying a walking stick.

For collars and cuffs, or short-type fabric collars were worn over shorter jackets, or cool-necked blouses, or double-breasted suits.

Coats follow the same general silhouette: Slim and high waisted, with wide, padded shoulders. Occasionally there is fullness from the shoulder blades, emphasized by well-seamed insets.

Balmain encircles the waistline with cummerbunds, or criss-crosses it with panels that tie to one side or another. Bateau and cowl and camisol necklines were typical on heavy crepe after-five dresses.

He spells out nearly everything in black or white. A few exceptions are gray, beige, quiet checks or plaids in autumn hues in the suit collection.

ELABORATE

Both elaborate and sedate among his evening costumes were black and white. He added jewelry to these. Sometimes from one end to the other in the form of sequins, jet beads and crystals.

But the twinkling costumes are nothing like the relentless parade of clinking chandelier-like ball gowns that New York witnessed a few weeks ago. For somehow the Frenchman manages to be as quiet and tasteful with glitter as he is with wool.

Mate Needs Security—Abby

She Can Get Job at 50?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: You are all wrong about a husband OWING his wife and children protection through life insurance.

He owes his children security in the event of his death, but why his wife?

Since when does a woman need life-long protection? She should go back to being self-supporting the same as before marriage.

If a man has no children or if they are grown he is nuts to insure himself, because statistics show that women are outliving men by 7 to 10 years, and she will be out living it up while he pushes up tulips.

Marriage is a contract between two living people, not a meal ticket for a woman with or without a husband. Your statement needs retraction.

NOT INSURED

DEAR NOT: Where is the average widow, age 50, going to get a "job"? Most women have spent the best years of their lives running a home and raising a family, and are "out of training" or ill equipped to support themselves. What would you suggest? The glue factory?

DEAR ABBY: I met a man where I work and fell for him hard. He told me he was divorced. I have heard that he is not divorced, only separated, from his wife.

He spends a lot of time at her place but says it's because of the kids. How can I find out for sure if he is living under the same roof with her.

MYRTLE:

DEAR ABBY: Raise it! DEAR ABBY: Where do you get off telling people it is "proper" for them to knit in company? No lady knits when she is a hostess or guest, for she must give her full attention to others.

Knitting requires concentration. A knitter must count stitches and no one can do justice to a conversation while knitting.

If someone wants to be good company, she should leave her knitting home.

AN ABBY READER

DEAR READER: Being no knitter, I cannot speak from experience, but I have seen women knitting in theaters and while watching television and they do it without dropping a stitch or a word or a hat of loud moans.

How's the world treating you? For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of The Pontiac Press.

For Abby's looker, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, care of The Pontiac Press.

Featured in Oleg Cassini's fall 1962 collection is this long jacket daytime costume with self fabric fringe—Mexican inspired detail. A bias-cut silk ascot accents the beige wool outfit with taupe overblouse of antique tulle.

Cranberry red and briar brown cross one another's "plaid" in this three-piece Harry Fischel suit of imported lurex tweed. An open Chanel-type jacket shows a leather-shaded overblouse. The deep pleat in skirt completes the "wrapped look."

Hound's-tooth checks in bright green and black—a three-piece Davidson suit for autumn. The very slender skirt yoked in black crepe matches its own sleeveless blouse and edging for the jacket. The hat is by Lilly Dache.

Cheerful and Practical Too

An inexpensive and practical decorating trick is to line your laundry room cabinets and shelves with adhesive-backed plastic in a bright color or gray print.

This provides a waterproof surface which can be wiped off weekly with soap or detergent suds.

There are many reasons why children steal.

Later confess to me that he did. I'm at my wit's end, Dr. Crane. What is wrong with Archie?

Thievery is usually an evidence of a juvenile emotional state. In an older boy like Archie, or in an adult, it shows lack of proper emotional development.

Infants and toddlers, as well as dogs and cats, will take the possessions of others and think nothing about it. But older children are supposed to have learned property rights, and you parents must be responsible for this necessary education.

Tact and diplomacy, scolding or reprimands, are required, and if nothing else works, have no hesitation in resorting to the heavy switch or hair brush techniques.

With an older child who still shows the baby traits of lying and stealing, it is usually more helpful to suggest that his pals will look on him as being in the infant or "diaper" state by such juvenile acts.

"But Archie has me stumped. He has been chronic in his thievery and lying. In the past few years at school he has stolen clothing and books and bicycles."

"We then put him in a private school, but now he has been expelled for stealing gold watches and then selling them for cash."

"He always swears to God that he didn't do it, but will goods, though the evidence proves that he did, it is a good idea to put a little fear of God into the youngster for this double violation of the Ten Commandments through use of God's name in vain.

Some timid children steal to obtain money for buying friends via the candy or soda which they can offer their classmates.

Others steal as a means of striking back at society or some hated rival who, like a steplather, has apparently won the major portion of their mother's love from them.

Archie's father died when the boy was six. His mother showered double attention on him till she married three years later. Then she diverted part of her affection to her new husband.

But Archie was accustomed to a double dose of affection and attention. Now that his daily quota was cut in half, he felt panicky and jealous of the rival.

A dope addict will likewise steal and even kill in order to gain morphine to keep his former dope input up to normal. Children may also become law-breakers in an attempt to do likewise as regards their input of affection.

I also find a disproportionately large number of foster children who steal, partly in an attempt to get even with society, which they vaguely feel has dealt them an unfair hand in life.

Many stealers, too, are sexually misadjusted. This fact also explains frequent instances where children set plastic in a bright color or gray print.

Send for my bulletin "Sex Education from 2 to 20 years," enclosing a 4 cent stamped, addressed envelope, plus 20 cents.

Some timid children steal to obtain money for buying friends via the candy or soda which they can offer their classmates.

Others steal as a means of striking back at society or some hated rival who, like a steplather, has apparently won the major portion of their mother's love from them.

Archie's father died when the boy was six. His mother showered double attention on him till she married three years later. Then she diverted part of her affection to her new husband.

But Archie was accustomed to a double dose of affection and attention. Now that his daily quota was cut in half, he felt panicky and jealous of the rival.

A dope addict will likewise steal and even kill in order to gain morphine to keep his former dope input up to normal. Children may also become law-breakers in an attempt to do likewise as regards their input of affection.

I also find a disproportionately large number of foster children who steal, partly in an attempt to get even with society, which they vaguely feel has dealt them an unfair hand in life.

Many stealers, too, are sexually misadjusted. This fact also explains frequent instances where children set plastic in a bright color or gray print.

Cheerful and Practical Too

An inexpensive and practical decorating trick is to line your laundry room cabinets and shelves with adhesive-backed plastic in a bright color or gray print.

This provides a waterproof surface which can be wiped off weekly with soap or detergent suds.

There are many reasons why children steal.

Thievery is usually an evidence of a juvenile emotional state. In an older boy like Archie, or in an adult, it shows lack of proper emotional development.

Infants and toddlers, as well as dogs and cats, will take the possessions of others and think nothing about it. But older children are supposed to have learned property rights, and you parents must be responsible for this necessary education.

Putt Towards Top of Hole on Slant

By SANDRA HAYNIE
 Written for NEA

Here are a few putting tips I have found useful.

If you are inside, watch the others putt and study how they roll. You can learn a great deal this way.

If your partner puts ahead of you, she may be able to give you some sound advice, although I believe you should do your own reading of the greens.

Aim at the high side of the cup, on a green that slants where the hole is.

If you come up to the hole on the high side, there is a chance the ball may drop in even if you are a bit off line.

If you watch the professional, you will notice they almost always shoot to the high side.

The amateur usually will shoot to the down side. That's why we refer to the high and low sides of the cup as the pro and amateur sides.

Coarse grass tends to make the ball jump and deflect from its straight course.

On short putts, the ball will be traveling slower and roughness and bumps will have greater effect than they will on a faster-traveling long putt.

Playing during, or after, a rain, it is well to remember the casual water rule.

Casual water is defined as "any temporary accumulation of water which is visible before or after the player takes his stance and is not a hazard in itself or is not in a water hazard."

Snow and ice are casual water, unless a local rule says otherwise.

A ball in casual water may be lifted and dropped without penalty as near as possible to the spot where it lay, but not nearer the hole.

One thing always to remember in putting is that distance is more important than direction. The old saw "Never up, never in," is still good.

NEXT: Off-green putts.

Cleaning Aid for Draperies

Suds draperies often, so dirt and dinginess can't get a "hold" on the fibers. Remove them from an automatic washer before the spin cycle, so wrinkles don't get "pressed in."

Iron, if necessary, before the fabric has fully dried — but only enough to smooth it out. Hang still slightly damp, stretch seams and edges, and finish drying on the rods.

Wash More Now

Novices may wonder how tiny adults can accumulate such enormous amounts of laundry. But new mothers quickly discover that even doll-sized shirts and socks and diapers pile up rapidly — not to mention sheets and towels and receiving blankets.

That's one reason why many prospective parents give top priority to new laundry equipment as they plan pre-baby purchases.

The Square Six Dance Club will begin lessons Aug. 10. Further information may be obtained by contacting Volney Shaler.

Bring Food to Weekend Hostess?

By the Emory Post Institute

Q: I have a friend who owns a summer cottage. Her friends are always welcome to go. I would not think of taking food to this friend's house here in the city but I think a summer cottage is quite different as she has many visitors and it is not fair to her to supply all this extra food.

I find we are fortunate to have a friend with a cottage to which we can go and the least we can do is to supply some of the food. What is your opinion?

A: You should not take fresh food that would have to be eaten over the weekend as this might easily upset the menus planned by your hostess, but it would surely be welcomed if you wished to bring a canned or smoked item, a delicacy not to be found in the country store, candy, or, perhaps, a bottle of wine.

Q: In my capacity as secretary, I have to make many business calls for my employer. When announcing myself, do I say, "This is Miss Doe, Mr. Brown's secretary," or do I say, "This is Mary Doe, Mr. Brown's secretary."

Would it make a difference if I were calling the president of a company, or a mere clerk?

A: "This is Miss Doe, Mr. Brown's secretary" is correct no matter who you call.

Q: When requesting the orchestra leader in a hotel dining room to play "Happy Birthday" to a friend, is it necessary to give him a tip?

A: Unless the orchestra leader asks those in the dining room what they would like to hear, he should be given a tip when asked to play a special tune.

Landlubbers, Mind Boat Ps & Qs

NEW YORK (UPI)—One way to enjoy a weekend on a small boat is to curl along a wardrobe you'd need on the Queen Mary. It's also one way to assure you'll not be invited back by the owner of the small craft.

Yet boats owner report the occasional weekend guest who shows up in high heels (deadly on the bright work, or varnish, of a boat) with wardrobe sufficient for two weeks at a resort hotel.

"The only place for a suitcase is overboard," said Joseph Choate, executive secretary, the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers (NAEBM). Choate owns a 14-foot sailboat and crews on larger ships on charter.

"To rather see a guest come aboard with his clothes in a paper bag than see a suitcase," said Peter Smith, assistant editor of The Rudder, the nation's oldest boating magazine. Smith sails a 24-foot sloop.

Reason for the antisluit attitude of boat owners: Space aboard a small craft is at a premium. A suitcase takes up lots of that space, and it also in rough weather can bounce around a cabin like a lion cub.

As boating increases—the number of small craft in U.S. waters has grown from 3,710,000 in 1951 to a current 7,175,000, says NAEBM—so does the number of guests invited aboard by proud owners.

Yet proud owners wish, just wish, that guests would exercise some of the same thoughtfulness they show a host and hostess when invited for a weekend some place other than on the water. At least the owners we talked to agreed on some general suggestions for the guests who like to be invited back.

MINIMUM OF GEAR

About the suitcase. Pack clothes, and keep gear to a minimum, in duffel bag, the paper bag that Smith suggested, or as John C. Conover, a New York public relations executive, said "even a pillow case." Takes up less space and rolls with motion of the boat.

Conover, a sailor since childhood and owner of a 24-foot sloop, Galatea II, said safety of everyone aboard is one of the prime reasons why guests on small craft need some guidance.

Those boarding the Galatea for the first time get a "quickie" tour to learn where fire extinguishers are, how to use them, where the first aid kit is, and where life jackets and pillows are stowed.

Conover and every other owner interviewed also agreed on one thing—there should be no question about who is captain of the craft, for safety's sake. The owner is the one who knows the waters, how his boat behaves in any weather, and how best to meet a crisis if nature is capricious with wind and rain.

"I even give guests an elementary course in how to operate my boat... just in case," said Jack Wolfson, UPI's boating editor, and owner of a 13-foot power craft.

Wardrobes for the guests should be simple, owners agree. Adele Simpson, the fashion designer, is the "cabin girl" on the Elida (Adele spelled backwards), a 47-foot cutter which she and husband, Wesley, sail.

DUCK TROUSERS

Her recommended wardrobe for a girl: duck trousers or bermudas; long sleeved shirts because sunburn can be dangerous on the water; a warm sweater for the cool evenings at anchor; and above all else, rubber-soled shoes—"you ought to see what heels or a leather sole can do to the bright work," said Mrs. Simpson.

If there is a chance your host will take guests ashore for dinner, just check out in advance on plans so you can be prepared with a simple cotton dress acceptable in almost every shore-side dining spot.

Some comments and advice from all boat owners with whom I talked: "You can tell the character of a person within five minutes after he or she boards; the proximity on a boat brings out either the best or the worst in a person."

—Don't try to handle gear just to be helpful. If you're a novice on a small craft, play it honestly. Don't try to pull off yachting terms you've just read upon, although most owners would prefer that you at least say galley instead of kitchen; and above all, don't ask questions in the middle of a crisis.

Wait until later and then the captain will be glad to explain what he did, and why. Smith's advice was—"When in doubt, go below."

—Don't throw stuff overboard. The waters, like the lands, are not supposed to be garbage pails.

LITTLE MAKEUP

—Don't put on shore-side makeup complete with eyeshadow and false eyelashes when on a small boat. You not only look ridiculous in the world of the outdoors, but the stuff messes up bunk coverings and towels.

—Don't expect cocktails until the anchor is dropped. Every boat owner to whom I talked has made the no-hard-hat rule. As Conover said, "You don't imbibe on a boat for the same reason you don't drink while driving; you're in charge of a lot of people's safety."

—Don't insist on helping in the galley. Most skippers' wives are used to meal preparation in close quarters and would rather do it; another person often is just in the way.

Adele Simpson remembered with laughter the time a French-born friend proud of her cooking abilities was invited to sail for a weekend and announced that SHE would show them how even French cuisine could be adapted to a boat.

Said Adele, "Well, we humored her and stocked up everything she ordered in advance. So what happened? Out on Long Island Sound we ran into rough weather. Our 'cooking expert' headed for the topside and held onto the rail most of the weekend."

In Evening Ceremony

Speak Wedding Vow

A candlelight ceremony in the First United Missionary Church Saturday night before a double-banked altar of white gladioli and chrysanthemums marked the wedding of Donna Jean Young and James E. Teets with Rev. Orville Eastman officiating.

Parents of the couple are the Gordons Youngs of Phillips Drive and the Edmonds H. Teets also of Shimmings Road.

A beautiful gown of white Chantilly lace with a sweet-heart neckline was accented with a chapel train and long sleeves. A tulle of seed pearls secured the bride's shoulder-length veil. The new Mrs. Teets carried a white rose cascade with a red rose center.

Sister of the bride Judy Young was maid of honor in a pink lace dress, carrying white carnations and a headpiece with crystals and pink nylon netting.

Bridesmaid Mary Lou Teets, sister of the bridegroom, was dressed identically to the maid of honor, except she carried orchids. Flower girls were Diane McBride, cousin of the bride, and Della Teets, sister of the bridegroom.

Best man Don Teets, brother of the bridegroom, was assisted by Richard Young, brother of the bride, Duane Fox, and William Dean.

A reception for 250 guests was held at the American Legion Hall in Auburn Heights, after which the couple left for a honeymoon.

Ex-Army Man, Formerly of City, Wed in Las Vegas

Las Vegas, Nev., was the scene for the recent marriage of retired U.S. Army Sgt. Ralph Wilson, son of Mrs. Jacob Wilson of East Hopkins Street and the late Mr. Wilson to Mrs. Edith Harman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Josef Grob of Mienberg, Germany.

The newlyweds are now making their home in Pacifica, Calif. They plan a trip to Pontiac in early fall.

Sergeant Wilson was a former Pontiac resident before his Army career.

Will Sell 'Shares' in Meeting

To help finance the largest single meeting of Catholic Women in the world and to involve as many women as possible in convention participation, the Detroit Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women has launched a unique scheme of marketing "shares" in the 31st NCW National Convention coming to Detroit Nov. 3-7.

In each parish or organization affiliated with DACCW, a volunteer broker is now equipped with "stock certificates" and has the suggested minimum goal of securing 200 investors.

While the certificates have no cash value, they will be the means of admission to some specially designated activities prior to and during the convention.

DIVIDEND PLANNED

As a dividend, holders of stock certificates will receive a stockholder's report giving exclusive late news of convention events.

A master list of stockholders will be kept in the convention office in Detroit and a progress chart displayed there will record the progress of each affiliated organization toward its goal.

The official broker in North Oakland County is Mrs. G. P. Maurice Finnegan, Mrs. Marian Hubbard, Mrs. Floyd Sanchez and Mrs. Marshall Sprague.

Honor Couple in 25th Year of Marriage

A surprise open house Sunday for the Jasper Prices at their home on East Calgate Avenue honored the couple on their wedding anniversary.

Hosts for their parents' celebration were the Jack Prices of Southfield, the Albert Prices of Rochester, and the Douglas Prices of Arlington, Va. Raymond Price of Pontiac and Leonard Wood, Mo.

Joining some 100 guests from Lansing, Charlotte, Rochester, Farmington, Highland Park, Detroit and Indiana were Mrs. Price's brother and sister-in-law, the Frank McCourts of Ossineke, and her mother, Mrs. William McCourt of East Chicago Avenue.

If Push-Ups Too Strenuous

Mild Exercise for Mature

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

For a few days this week I am answering some requests which have come from readers through the mail. For instance:

"You may already have used this idea in your column and I may not have seen it, but it occurred to me that you might be interested in approaching the angle of exercise aimed specifically at mature people, those who are a little beyond the age for the strenuous variety. You could offer them exercises that are a bit easier to do, but still effective over a period of time."

"I fall into this category, which is the reason for the special interest. I find that I get a backache. I try some of the typical abdominal and hip-reducing exercises."

SHOULD BE MILD

It is true that exercise should be mild for those who are not accustomed to it, and also that it should be less strenuous as one grows older. You do not have to knock yourself out for results. In fact, some of the best motions are of the stretching variety. Also, you will find that many exercises are easy when you use one leg rather than two.

For instance: Lie on your back with your legs and arms resting on the floor. Lift your left leg up with a stiff knee. Lower your leg. Lift your right leg with a stiff knee. Lower the leg. Continue, alternating left and right.

If you lift both legs it increases the pull on the back tremendously. If you use one leg at a time, it is a good, mild exercise for mature folks.

This same thing is true of the following exercise. Lie on your back with your arms resting on the floor overhead and your legs straight. Lift your left arm and your left leg at the same time. Touch. Return arm and leg to the floor. Do the same thing with the right arm and leg. Continue, alternating left and right. If you raise both legs at the same time, this becomes a very strenuous exercise.

If you would like to have my leaflet, "Six Introductory Exercises," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 25 to Josephine Lowman in care of the Pontiac Press.

New Wardrobe

You can multiply any lace (tablecloth) into an entire wardrobe by supplying it with several "petticoats" in different colors.

Simply machine-seam enough lengths of washable fabric to match the width of your tablecloth, trim to fit the shape (round, oval, or oblong), and stitch a small hem all around.

Remember to select "petticoat" fabrics that are as sudsy as the cloth they line. Incidentally, nylon and Orlon lace needs no ironing.

—your thoughtful tribute of flowers at the time of bereavement. It means so much to the family to know you are thinking of them.

'Dashing Still'

The evolution of the wash-wear summer suit dates back to about 1855, when men considered themselves "dashing" in suits of nankeen or some similar cotton fabric in greyish yellow. A gay tie and a buttonhole flower were the only splashes of color permitted. Pity the poor slave who had to launder these suits by hand without the aid of efficient modern soaps, detergents, and washing machines!

Here's How to Wash Plastics

To wash molded plastic and plastic-surfaced luggage, wipe the entire surface with a sponge or cloth dipped into hot soap or detergent suds. If the surface is textured, use a well-lathered soft brush to coax ground-in dirt from the indentations. After rinsing, let luggage dry in an airy place, away from extremes of heat or cold.

Soft pieces, such as the popular cotton canvas carryalls, are best "shampooed" by using dense suds to wipe the surface — working quickly with overlapping strokes, and rinsing as the job progresses.

SEW SIMPLE By Eunice Farmer

"When I make a dress with a gathered skirt, the waistline often stretches and becomes too loose. Is there any way I can avoid this?" Mrs. E. H.

Dear Mrs. E. H.:

The waistline of all dresses should be reinforced, especially those with pleated or gathered skirts. Immediately after you have joined the bodice and skirt, check your pattern instructions to see whether the waistline seams should be pressed UP (toward the bodice), or DOWN (toward the skirt).

Before pressing, baste the seams to your garment in the correct position. Now, from the inside of your dress, baste seam tape over the seam line.

Lastly, machine stitch from the RIGHT side of your dress, about one-eighth inch from the seam line. This stitching will be made through all thicknesses of fabric, including the seam tape. This will hold the waistline seam firm and avoid stretching.

If you don't happen to have any seam tape, an excellent substitute is the selvedge of your fabric. This is woven very firm and will not stretch.

Dear Eunice farmer:

"Please tell me why kick pleats or box pleats gap at the bottom after hemming and pressing? I have tried opening the seams, clipping, etc., without much luck." Mrs. H. M.

Dear Mrs. H. M.:

First: To insure an even pleat that will not be stretched out or snape, machine baste the pleat line (which is a continuation of your seam). This should be pressed before marking the hemline of your skirt.

To avoid a pleat that gaps at the bottom, press the seam inside the pleat OPEN, clipping at the top of the hem so that the rest of the seam will lie flat. Holding the pleat in it's natural, folded position, machine stitch the INSIDE fold of the hem (as shown) about one-eighth inch from the fold. This will keep the pleat nice and flat.

Dear Eunice,

"Is there any set rule about the back closing of a dress? Should the right side lap over the left?" Mrs. E. J. D.

Dear Mrs. E. J. D.:

Just pretend the back slide fastener is a side fastener that has been shifted into a new position. This is the easiest way to determine which direction it should be lapped. If there is a pleat in your skirt, it must be lapped over in the same direction as the fastener.

No Violence Expected at Strike-Bound Plant in West Branch

WEST BRANCH (U)—City police and Ogemaw County sheriff's officers patrolled a strike-bound toy plant here today, but no violence was expected.

Nonstriking workers for the Evans Products plant said they would attempt again to enter the one-story building, but said they would not try to force their way through pickets.

Store Thursday picketers for United Steel Workers Local 5891 have used telephone poles and packed cars to seal off entrances to the 100,000 square foot plant.

Strikers are under Circuit Court Judge Dennis O'Keefe's "peaceful picketing" injunction, which limited the union to five pickets Friday. But the sheriff's office said pickets every day since Thursday have numbered in the dozens.

WORKERS SPLIT
Plant manager Ralph Hoult said of his 225-employee staff: "There are about 70 out (on strike) and 70 or 80 who want in, and the rest are on the fence."

The strike was called during the holiday Wednesday, and Thursday a woman picket was knocked down but not injured by a company truck, the Ogemaw County Herald reported.

Friday nonstrikers were prevented from entry. A train approaching the plant loading platform had to inch through a crowd of pickets who assembled on the tracks.

Saturday and Sunday the picketing continued but no attempt was made to enter the plant. Monday and Tuesday nonstrikers were turned away from the plant, which makes wheeled toys.

O'Keefe yesterday rejected a union request that his injunction be quashed.

The union sought to have the case taken instead to the National Labor Relations Board, but O'Keefe said indications of violence gave him jurisdiction.

Flip, Spin Not Forceful Enough

'JFK Needs Gesture Lessons'

BY DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Back in May a couple of North Carolina State College students made a trip here to offer President Kennedy some advice on how to improve his forensic style.

The students, Edwin S. Cain and Stanley W. Mason Jr., said they had made a three-month study of the President's platform manner and found that he was "too short of forceful gestures."

For the most part, they said, the President limited himself to "the fish stabbing movement with finger extended and the downward chopping motion with the open hand."

They reasoned that his speeches and public statements would be far more effective if he would expand the range of his gesticulations.

Toward that end, they presented to Commerce Secretary Luther H. Hodges, for transmittal to the White House, 10 placards illustrated with arm and hand movements recommended for Kennedy's use.

When I first read about their mission, I had a feeling that the youths, one of whom was only a freshman, were perhaps being a little presumptuous in appointing themselves as presidential elocution advisers.

But in the light of subsequent events, I am beginning to think that maybe they were prophets in disguise.

As everyone knows, the President's legislative program has been taking a beating in Congress lately. And, at the same time, the public opinion polls indicate that his popularity rating has slipped.

Can this be because he isn't getting his message across to Congress and the people? And can that be because his gestures are faulty?

GESTURES DESCRIBED

Selecting an answer to these questions I tuned in yesterday on the President's televised news conference and carefully made notes on the gestures he employed.

It was my observation that the President is not at all devoted to the fish-slab and chop as the Moon-Cain study indicated. His most commonly used gesture is what I would classify as "the tweak."

It is accomplished by putting the thumb and forefinger together and giving a little twisting motion. No speaker could stab a fish with that gesture, except possibly a Red herring.

The President also made use of what is known as oratorical circles as "the swizzle stick spin." Here the forefinger is pointed downward and revolved, as though stirring the ice in a highball glass.

I noted that Kennedy occasionally emerged from a swizzle stick spin with a sort of backward flip.

Other mannerisms, more or less self-explanatory, included "the windshield wiper swipe" and "the forefinger palm punch."

My observations led me to conclude that the President could benefit from a few rostrum pounding and arm-awhiling lessons.

Gestures like he uses would never persuade a high-lee shoe specialist to campaign for meadvice.

Reds and Peronists Banned in Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—Argentina's military-controlled government outlawed Communism and Peronist parties and candidates Tuesday night in decree clearing the way for new elections promised next year.

President Jose Maria Guido issued four decrees that also banned "other totalitarian parties" and their candidates. Electoral courts were given power to supervise political party activities.

The decrees were aimed principally at followers of former dictator Juan D. Peron who spearheaded the 1955, they specifically prohibited Peronist propaganda, Peronist songs and displaying Peron's portrait.

Windows Snag County Plans

Oakland County's new $1.4-million administrative wing under construction at the Oakland County Service Center has window problems.

In a joint meeting with contractors and architects yesterday, the Special County Building Committee and board of auditors delayed the addition of an estimated $13,198 in material needs to original contract specifications.

The items will be paid for from a $77,000 contingency fund established to handle such problems.

Construction has bogged down in recent weeks awaiting authorization for a list of items needed before further work could begin.

The items were hashed out and approved at yesterday's meeting — all but two.

One is that the alignment of sun shades on windows on the south side of the structure varies up to 1 1/2 inches.

The other is that, if constructed according to original plans, the county won't be able to wash the windows on the outside.

The sun shade problem first came up when fixtures to which the shades are attached, rotated or moved with the weight of the shade.

Big Changes Planned in '64 Cars

EDITOR'S NOTE — The auto industry is getting ready to introduce its 1963 line of cars. Here's a long-range look at some of the things to expect a year from now, when the industry brings out its 1964 models.

By ROBERT IRVIN
UPI Automotive Editor
DETROIT — American carmakers work years ahead in planning the new models they introduce each fall.

The 1963 models which will be seen in September are "odd" cars to the engineers, stylists and product planning people at the auto companies.

They finished with those models long ago. Now they are looking up many plans for the 1964 cars. Tooling orders already are being made for '64. One line, the Chevy II, may be dropped.

Ford is planning major body shell changes. Perhaps because of this, Ford is already two months behind in ordering tools for the '64 cars.

Big changes are expected, too, at Chrysler. The 1964 models will be the first that the firm's new chief stylist, Elwood Engel, had a full crack at. Look for new body shells here, too.

Engle, who styled the Lincoln Continental when he worked at Ford, joined Chrysler last December. Because of the long lead time required to bring out a completely new car, Engle was unable to make wholesale changes on the '63 Chrysler models.

American makers will bring out a completely new Rambler American in 1964, with the wheelbase lengthened from 100 to 106 inches.

The trend toward larger cars will start with the 1963 models. It will be even more pronounced in 1964.

General Motors, which plans extensive body shell changes through passenger cars. The Corvair will all divisions, appears ready to drop its compact size Chevy-II line of cars in 1964.

TO BE REPLACEMENT
 Replacing the Chevy II—which may be heard from again if the tools and stampings are sent to GM of Argentina as rumored—will be a new line sized with the 63 Ford Fairlane, Buick Special, Olds 88 and Pontiac Tempest.

This will become the standard steel Chevrolet and the series models will take the names of the present big Chevys—Impala, Bel Air and possibly Biscayne—although the latter name may be dropped.

On top of this line will be a new line of cars—as yet unnamed from 5 to 10 inches bigger than the present top line. Some sources say the line would compete with the big Olds 88 and Buick Electra.

Other sources say the new top Chevy line will be built on an Olds 88 chassis—a little smaller than the '58"—and would use under-components from the '63 series such as spring and suspension systems.

The Chevy II, brought out last fall, is doing well, is expected to sell 400,000 units in the current model year, and in June was the No. 2 compact, with 38,195 sales to pace-setting Rambler's 46,115. Falcon was third with 31,796 and Corvair fourth with 30,429.

The reason for the big changes now planned apparently is this: Carmakers feel the swing in customer preference is back to bigger cars.

Compacts will continue to grab a large share of the market, but they won't reach the 50 per cent figure once estimated by some industry executives.

Pontiac City Affairs

Award Airport Contract

The general contract for construction of improvements at Pontiac Municipal Airport this year was awarded to O. E. Gooding & Co., of Ypsilanti, at last night's City Commission meeting.

The Gooding firm's bid of $307,622.30 for the contract was lowest of five bids submitted to the Michigan Department of Aeronautics in Lansing last week.

A complete tabulation of bids was presented to commissioners last night.

Bidding was recommended by department officials. The bid was $12,578 under the estimated $320,000 price tag put on the project by consulting engineers.

Improvements include widening the east-west runway taxiways and installation of high intensity lighting on the runway.

Work is slated to begin Aug. 6.

The schedule calls for completion of construction by November.

Estimates place total cost of the 1962 improvement program at $338,100, including $4,100 for land acquisition.

Of the total, $294,675 is being paid with federal and state funds.

In other business, commissioners reappointed H. Malcolm Kahn to the Pontiac Police Trial Board. Kahn is currently chairman of the board.

The Pontiac attorney will serve a five-year term on the seven-man board.

Commissioners also approved a two-year lease for office space in the basement of the terminal building at Pontiac Municipal Airport to McCafferty Aircraft, Inc.

Special assessment rolls were ordered prepared after no objections were voiced on the city's plans to construct curbs and gutters on portions of Third, Cameron and Madison avenues.

Final approval was given resolutions to vacate two city alleys after no objections were heard at public hearings.

One alley divided Lots 1 and 5 and Lots 127 and 130 in Merrimac subdivision. The other alley bisected property belonging to the Clark Coal Co., 45 Forest St.

The proposed construction of a sidewalk on the west side of Tassaniana Avenue, Michigan Avenue to the existing walk, was deleted from this year's public improvement program at the request of Commissioner Dirk M. Kirby.

Kirby made the request because the special assessments would be spread on only four homeowners.

THREE PROJECTS
 Cost estimates were accepted on three sidewalk construction projects and public hearings on each were slated for next Tuesday.

The locations and estimates for each project are as follows:
 Alton Avenue, Motor to Bagley: Assessed cost, $2,560; city cost, $2,894.63; total, $5,454.63.

North side of Northway Drive, East Boulevard to Astor: Assessed cost, $1,374.11; city cost, $2,348.32; total, $3,722.43.

East side of East Street, Houston to 100 feet north of Western: Assessed cost, $2,160; city cost, $2,892.08; total, $5,052.08.

Commissioners also gave tentative approval to a request from Borman Food Stores, Inc., for a new SDN license at 29 S. Glenwood Ave.

It was agreed that the Aug. 7 meeting will be held on Aug. 8 at 8 p.m. due to the primary election falling on a regular meeting night.

LIBRARY OFFICIAL DIES
 DETROIT (AP)—Mrs. Kathleen Brown Stobins, personal director of the Detroit Public Library, for the past nine years, died yesterday in Harper Hospital. She was 66.

Jersey Baby Sitters Lay Down the Law

ROSELLE, N.J. (AP)—Sixteen age-baby sitters, claiming that some parents have an obvious disregard of fair business practices, have banded together and laid down the law to their employers.

The girls, all 16 years old, drafted a stringent code of fair employment practice for the 308 families living in the Lockwood Village apartments, where the group does most of its sittings.

Adele Macy, spokesman for the sitters, said two offending parents have been put on an unfair list.

The Confederation of Babysitters does not consider itself a union, Miss Macy said, "but we have to cooperate to protect our selves."

GUIDELINES
 The six regulations, with Miss Macy's comments, are:

1. Baby sitters must be paid the amount promised. "Some customers have been contracting to pay 75 cents an hour, then have renege and paid only 50 cents."

2. A minimum one-day notice must be given in an emergency. "Some persons call us on an hour's notice."

3. Notify the sifter if the television set is not working. "If we know there's no television we can bring a book."

4. No introduction of additional children. "Some persons recently have told us they have only two children and then before they leave they bring over three children of neighbors."

5. Time-and-a-half for afternoon assignments and for all hours after midnight. "The added charge for day work is because the children are all awake and it takes a lot more work to keep them quiet."

6. Treatment as baby sitters and not as servants. "Some customers act as if we were in the pre-Civil War slave era. We are experienced baby sitters and expect to be treated as such."

ARMY ACCEPTING SOME MEN WITH PAST PSYCHOSES

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department said yesterday the Army is accepting some men with psychoneurotic histories, and has done so for a number of years.

"This does not represent any significant change in Army policy . . . over the past several years," it said.

Army sources said the regulations covering acceptability of certain men with mental and emotional problems go back at least as far as 1949.

Defense Department spokesmen said Army regulations provide that men will be accepted for service if they have a history of psychoses that were of brief duration and associated with a toxic or infectious process.

Abortion Halted in Drug Case

Legal Trouble Stops Woman Who Took Pills That Deform Babies

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A Phoenix woman broke into tears when she learned that legal compulsion had halted plans to abort her three-month pregnancy.

The woman, who has taken a drug blamed for the births of numerous malformed babies in Europe, had been scheduled to enter Good Samaritan Hospital today for the operation.

"I don't know what I'll do now," she said when informed hospital administrator Stephen Morris had canceled the operation.

The woman says she took some sleeping pills containing the drug, thalidomide, during her first weeks of pregnancy. She decided on an operation after a severe three-day run of medical specialists, recommended abortion.

IN ABEYANCE
 Arizona law forbids abortion except to save the life of the mother.

"Everything is being held in abeyance until the legal determination is made," Morris said. "It should be cleared up in a couple of days."

Both State Atty. Gen. Robert Pickrel and Maricopa County Atty. Charles N. Roman said they had not yet been approached officially. Pickrel said he would refer all inquiries to Roman.

Roman said he would "have no choice but to prosecute any abortion performing abortions, regardless of their humanitarian motives if someone insisted a complaint be substantiated there was evidence to substantiate the charge."

The woman said Tuesday she and her husband, a high school teacher, don't want to risk bringing a malformed child into the world.

"We weren't concerned for ourselves but we were concerned for our unborn child," she said.

Three Sentenced for Break-In at Catering Firm

A Pontiac man and two teen-agers were sentenced to terms of hard labor at Jackson Prison yesterday by Circuit Judge William J. Beer for a June 16 break-in at a local catering firm.

Sentenced to 2½ to 15 years of hard labor was James Fox, 22, of 478 Wyoming St.

Richard W. Williams, 19, of 126 Wall St., and Richard P. Molina, 17, of 229 Racine St., were given terms of 1½ to 15 years of hard labor.

They were captured minutes after a pre-dawn break-in at the Pontiac Catering Service, 644 Going Ave. About $15 worth of cigarettes and groceries taken from the firm was found in Molina's car.

A witness, whose home is opposite the catering service, telephoned police when he saw the three breaking into the firm.

Molina, Fox and Williams pleaded guilty to breaking and entering June 26.

U.S. Has Latin Americans Puzzled

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Contributor

Criticism of President Kennedy's Alliance For Progress is sharpening in Latin America against a background of bewilderment over U.S. policies.

There is confusion about how the United States decides its attitudes toward political-military actions among its neighbors.

This week's visit to Ecuador's president Carlos Jua Arseno.

To impose a provisional regime, but toward tooting in favor of Vice President Arseno.

Arseno had been suspected, at least, of being inclined to the far left. The Army forced him to break relations with Cuba and the Communist bloc. Now Arseno seems to be picturing himself as a moderate conservative at a rate, he has his audience in Washington.

Then came Peru. Again, the military nullified a popular election, insisting it did so to protect democratic processes. This time the United States reversed the procedure and suspended diplomatic relations.

JUNTA SHOCKED

The military junta in Lima was shocked. It pleaded that it should be given a chance. Possibly it had both Ecuador and Argentina in mind. The response from Washington was to go even farther and cut off military aid to the new regime.

The conclusion some Latin Americans draw from all this is that the U.S. view of military interference with constitutional governments depends upon circumstances.

In Santiago, the influential Chilean newspaper La Tercera commented ironically that the Argentine and Peruvian experiences showed that the United States was "disposed to make political compromises with the Junta del Este."

In Argentina, the widely read Sur magazine accuses the Alliance of distorting the aims of Punta del Este, of encouraging total state control of planning, of permitting the whole Alliance idea to become bogged down in heavy-handed state bureaucracy.

"The highly publicized Alliance contrasts too vividly with the microcosm results that it has so far shown," the paper said. "The immediate consequence has been a large-scale questioning regarding this aid, which has brought only discredit on its originators."

WHERE'S THE SHOW — Lt. David L. Ahrens, Idaho Air National Guard pilot from Boise, is perplexed upon arriving at Lewistown, Idaho, just 70 days early for the Air Fair. No one informed him the fair was postponed until Sept. 30.

News Analysis

When the Punta del Este charter was adopted a year ago, Latin American nations were supposed to qualify for Alliance aid by respecting democratic processes and avoiding coups and dictatorships.

The principle suffered when Argentina's military kicked out the constitutional president, nullified an election and applied for more Alliance assistance. The United States lent a cooperative ear.

Technically he is the constitutional president of Ecuador, but Arseno got there only after the Ecuadorian army kicked out his predecessor, Jose Velasco Ibarra.

Originally the army planned to...

PRESIDENT ARSENOS

But it concedes that it may take a little longer to mention all-numeral numbers.

By switching to ANC, the company is able to use all 10 numeral openings on the telephone dial for the present instead of the seven on which letters appear.

MEANS CHANGES

"This means that hundreds of new prefix combinations can eventually be made by using numerals instead of letters."

The Anti-Digit Dialing League said that it's possible to get 912 million different phone numbers with letter prefixes using present telephone company arrangements, and an astronomical 1.15 billion under future plans.

Sun-Distorted Rail Cause of Wreck?

DIJON, France (UPI) — The train wreck which killed 38 persons and injured 47 near here Monday may have been caused by a rail distorted by summer heat, it was reported today.

Engineer Michel Bostan said he sensed an "abnormality" in the track seconds before the crash.

Investigating technicians said the wreck may have been caused by a rail "deformed" by the sun which has been baking the rail line for several days.

A spokesman for the management of the nationalized French railways confirmed that the distorted-rail report is "one of the theories we are investigating."

'Ma Bell' Hit by Guerrillas

Group Battles All-Number Dialing Plan

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A rilla tactics against "Ma Bell," the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company is known in their battle to preserve such colorful exchange prefixes as Yukon, Sea, and Brighton.

WONT TELL ALL

The telephone company understandably will not reveal all the details of its being subjected to the payment of bills with an extra penny or two, just to start up the company's bookkeeping, or the punching of random holes in computerized cards.

Today 13 million of the 77 million telephones in the United States have ANC. The total will climb to more than 100 million by 1975. Booming growth is rapidly using up all the available letter combinations for name prefixes, the company contends.

Carl V. May, another league founder, said it's opposed to such "juvenile" means of protest as harassing telephone operators or overpaying phone bills.

"There are legal channels to voice our protests, and we plan to use them," he said. "We are getting a hearing before the state public utilities commission and we will tell them that the company numerals for our bank accounts, as not being available in expecting people to exert like machines."

The phone company takes issue with the memory objection, declaring that in the short period of time between looking up a number and dialing, it's almost as easy to remember seven numbers as two letters and six numbers.

Second N-Blast High Over Sea Delayed Again

HONOLULU (AP) — The United States' second high-altitude nuclear test shot over Johnston Island is off for another 21 hours — but Tuesday night's postponement was only one-tenth as hard for scientists to make as Monday night's.

In Ban Involving Schools

Graham OKs Prayer Rule

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham says he agrees with the recent U.S. Supreme Court decision banning official prayer in public schools.

"The particular decision was all right," he told newsmen yesterday. "But I'm disturbed over talk of taking religion out of government. I'm afraid of where that will lead."

Debbie to Remain in Hospital Awhile

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — A spokesman says actress Debbie Reynolds will remain in St. Joseph's Hospital one or two more days after suffering a miscarriage.

"I am convinced that 95 per cent of all Americans want God in our life," Graham, en route to his home in North Carolina, recently finished an evangelistic meeting in Fresno, Calif.

San Francisco Bay area residents have developed other guerrilla tactics against "Ma Bell," the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company is known in their battle to preserve such colorful exchange prefixes as Yukon, Sea, and Brighton.

Today 13 million of the 77 million telephones in the United States have ANC. The total will climb to more than 100 million by 1975. Booming growth is rapidly using up all the available letter combinations for name prefixes, the company contends.

Hopes for the blast rose Tuesday as troublesome clouds drifted away, then fell when the overcast returned. Less than an hour before blastoff, Joint Task Force 8 officials looked glumly at the clouds and rescheduled the test for tonight.

Joint Memorial Slated

MANILA (AP) — The United States and the Philippines will jointly create a memorial park on Corregidor as a living symbol of friendship between the two countries, the Foreign Office announced Tuesday.

Miss Reynolds and her husband, millionaire shoe manufacturer Harry Karl, expected their first child in September. She lost the baby Tuesday.

On Future Government

Favors Puerto Rico Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy notified Puerto Rico's governing body today that the people of Puerto Rico should vote on their preference for independence, statehood or permanent commonwealth form of government.

Kennedy's views were in a letter the White House said Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson would deliver today to Gov. Luis Munoz Marin. Kennedy appointed Johnson to represent the people of the United States on the celebration today of the 10th anniversary of the founding of the commonwealth government.

The Munoz letter was dated July 10. Kennedy's answer was dated July 24.

The President said he is aware that the commonwealth relationship is not perfected and has not realized its full potential. He said he is in full sympathy with the aspiration of Puerto Rico for the maximum development of the commonwealth system.

JFK LETTER

"I see no reason," Kennedy said, "why the commonwealth concept, if that is the desire of the people of Puerto Rico, should not fully developed as a permanent institution in its association with the United States. I believe that this is a proper time to recognize the need for growth."

LEJ CHEERED

Hundreds cheered Johnson Tuesday night on his arrival in San Juan.

Munoz had written the President that he believes the time has come for growth and improvement of the commonwealth system. He said he intended to ask the Puerto Rican Legislature to vote on a law that would submit to a vote of the people proposals to perfect the commonwealth within its association with the United States.

JFK'S LETTER

"I see no reason," Kennedy said, "why the commonwealth concept, if that is the desire of the people of Puerto Rico, should not fully developed as a permanent institution in its association with the United States. I believe that this is a proper time to recognize the need for growth."

Lyon Unit Votes to Close School

SOUTH LYON — A $300,000 loss in operating revenue has forced the Lyon Township Board of Education to vote to close the district's newest school and abandon its sports program for the 1962-63 year.

Supt. Frank Bartlett said today that the rejection by voters of operating tax renewals on three occasions in as many months is blamed by the school board for its action.

Discontinuation of classes at the Sayre School, opened 16 months ago and since then used by 6th, 7th and 8th graders, and the elimination of athletics are among a number of curtailments made by the school board.

About $75,000 in instructional and operating expenses have been trimmed from this year's budget of $733,000, according to Bartlett.

He said he has been instructed by the board to recommend additional declines in line with anticipated revenue.

SET DOUBLE SESSIONS
"The board has stated that it will not operate on a deficit budget," the superintendent said. The displacement of the 480 students at the 20-room Sayre School will make it necessary to schedule half-day sessions for most students in the district, Bartlett added.

"Seventh and eighth graders from the Sayre school will have to attend classes at the South Lyon High School in the afternoon. Grades nine through 12 will only be able to attend morning classes."

Bartlett said there will be no reduction in staff during the school year because contracts already have been signed. Vacancies caused by resignations will not be filled, however.

Other items to be excluded from the school program in the fall, according to Bartlett, include:

Driver education, bus transportation for students living less than 1 1/2 miles from school and special education pupils, the hot lunch program and field trips.

In addition to elimination of all coaching assignments, the junior high school's librarian post and clerk's job will be eliminated.

There will be no testing and in-service programs for teachers and teaching supplies have been reduced to a minimum, Bartlett said.

The economy measure also eliminates the use of school facilities for functions other than meetings of Parent-Teacher Associations and the school board.

In keeping with the reduction of overall cost, school board members each agreed to relinquish their pay of $500, a savings of $1,500 yearly.

The deficit of the proposals to renew operating funds leaves the school district with only the county allocation of $37 mills to operate on this year.

"The board has made it clear that it will not submit another millage proposal to the voters unless it resolves a petition to do so," said Bartlett. "They feel that three times is enough."

Voters turned down a 6.5 mill renewal request in May and again in June. On July 16, two proposals were presented to voters, one of them alternate, but neither higher than the millage that had expired.

MARY ANN RAAB

An Oct. 13 wedding is planned by Mary Ann Raab and Randall T. Murphy, announce the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Raab of 315 S. Broadway St., Lake Orion. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Murphy of Detroit.

During the contest the girls will be rated by a panel of out-of-town judges on poise, personality, beauty, appearance and public speaking ability.

They will make two appearances on the stage of the junior high school here, first in street dress and then in formal attire.

A winner and two made of honor will be picked. They will reign over the annual Romeo Peach Festival Labor Day weekend, Sept. 1-3.

Traditionally the queen is crowned by the governor in impressive coronation ceremonies that highlight the holiday celebration, which also will feature a children's parade and a gala Floral Parade on Labor Day.

Other activities will include a humorous "mummer's" parade, a dawn patrol for fliers at the Romeo Airport, baseball games, a carnival, special concerts and an area-wide art exhibition.

During the two weeks prior to the festival, the queen and her attendants will make numerous appearances on television and radio and at public events to advertise the festival.

Candidates Will Speak
FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP—Republican candidates for county and state offices will speak at a public meeting of the Republican Organization for District 4 July 31, 8 p.m. Friday before Royal Oak Municipal Judge Elmer E. Hartwig.

Surgeon demanded examination at his arraignment yesterday before Judge Hartwig.

Greer, the father of two children, and whose wife is pregnant, was found dead after a fist fight with Sargeant Saturday.

Surgeon was released on a $2,000 bond.

Out-of-Town Judges Will Choose Beauty on Aug. 14

ROMEO — The climax of pre-Peach Festival activities will be the selection Aug. 14 of a queen to reign over the three-day event. Beauty queens from 11 area communities are expected to compete for the crown, according to Peach Festival chairman James Schocke.

Towns where candidates already have been picked include Oxford, Utica, Waterford Township, Dryden, Lake Orion, Roseville and Romeo.

A winner and two made of honor will be picked. They will reign over the annual Romeo Peach Festival Labor Day weekend, Sept. 1-3.

Traditionally the queen is crowned by the governor in impressive coronation ceremonies that highlight the holiday celebration, which also will feature a children's parade and a gala Floral Parade on Labor Day.

Other activities will include a humorous "mummer's" parade, a dawn patrol for fliers at the Romeo Airport, baseball games, a carnival, special concerts and an area-wide art exhibition.

During the two weeks prior to the festival, the queen and her attendants will make numerous appearances on television and radio and at public events to advertise the festival.

Asks Examination in Fist Fight Death
ROYAL OAK — Examination of Theodore Sargeant of Clawson in the parking lot death of Donald Greer of Howell, will be held at 1:30 p.m. Friday before Royal Oak Municipal Judge Elmer E. Hartwig.

Surgeon demanded examination at his arraignment yesterday before Judge Hartwig.

Greer, the father of two children, and whose wife is pregnant, was found dead after a fist fight with Sargeant Saturday.

Site Near Milford Eyed by Huron Valley Group Planning Fund Drive

MILFORD — A 10-acre site has been offered as a gift to the Huron Valley Community Hospital Association to locate a proposed 100 bed medical facility. It was announced today.

The association also announced that the campaign to raise funds to finance the construction of the hospital will begin in early September.

Dr. W. D. Hackett, D.O., of 1600 Cooley Lake Road, Milford Township, is the first to offer the Association property as a possible site for a hospital.

The acreage is located northeast of Milford on Cooley Lake Road and, according to John Rippling, vice president of Professional Facilities Corp., Hazel Park, consulting firm for the association, it is suitable enough for future expansion.

The offer currently is being reviewed by the association along with the desirability of the land to major roads.

The fund raising drive will be conducted by Borill, Inc., of Kansas City, Mo., a professional fund-raising firm.

Tentative plans are to raise about 30 percent of the total $2 million needed to build a hospital. Private investors would put up the remainder according to the association.

The 16-member board of directors of the association will meet a p.m. tomorrow at the Community National Bank branch, 609 Main St., to elect officers and establish committees.

The directors, elected to six-month terms, include Wesley McAttee, Gleason Tapp, Lee BeGoff, Elmer Conrad, Robert Verker, Edward Eick, Emmet Lieb and Louis F. Oldenburg.

Others are Stephen Gerard, Dr. Owen Whitson, D. O., Benjamin Threlcott, Clarence Johnson, Fr. Lawrence Edwards, William Knapp, Dr. Norman Kreiger, M.D. and Edward Sharpe.

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The Westerns Women's Club will sponsor a teen-age dance at 8 to 11:30 p.m. Friday at its club house, 7200 Cedar Bank Road. The Teen-Twist will feature music by Bob Garrett and the Hurricanes.

3 on Youth Mission Team to Join Rochester Church

ROCHESTER — Three college students from widely separated parts of the nation will join the congregation of the Abiding Presence Lutheran Church here Saturday for a two-week stay as part of a national Youth Mission team. Peggy Long, 21, of Davis, Calif.; Lois Schatz, 21, of Jersey City, N. J.; and Larry Wolff, 20, of Pelton, S.C., will endeavor to win some 3,000 homes in addition to evangelistic and youth work.

They also will help organize a Junior Luther League and plan a Senior Luther League program for the congregation. Rev. Lloyd D. Ruse, pastor of the church, said today.

As participants in the Youth Mission program, the three have received training for their volunteer summer work through correspondence and in a 10-day course in Philadelphia. They already have served two-week assignments in three other congregations.

The program is a recent development of the Lutheran Church Women and the Board of American Missions of the Lutheran Church in America.

It is designed to help build vital congregations with emphasis on evangelism and youth work. Team members serve without pay, the only cost being a congregation being their room and board.

LEARNING TO FLOAT — Ann Marie Starr, 9, of 18 S. Andrews St., Lake Orion, learns to float on her back at the swimming classes held daily at the Lake Orion village park.

Still Room in Orion

Get in the Swim
LAKE ORION — Although almost 200 youngsters from 5 to 15 years of age have signed up for swimming classes at the village park here, there's still room for more.

Openings are still available for the third two-week session, Aug. 22, according to Mrs. Harry McGaugha, who is in charge of the instruction program.

Head instructor for the daily 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. classes is Barbara Pavlovic of Royal Oak, a student at Western Michigan University.

Barbara's assistant instructors are Marcia Bottomly of Lake Orion, Annette Schram of Pontiac and Steve Zemek of Lake Orion. Carol Gallinat and Gregg Shell, both of Lake Orion, are serving as aides.

Classes are held both for beginners and advanced beginners in the 5-to-7 age group, for beginners in the 8-to-15 range, and for intermediate swimmers in both age groups.

The swim classes are sponsored by the Child Guidance Club for the ninth straight year.

The record was for 12,721 pounds of milk and 677 pounds of fat. A five-year-old, the cow was milked twice daily for 305 days while on test.

The official production record was supervised by Michigan State University.

The record was for 12,721 pounds of milk and 677 pounds of fat. A five-year-old, the cow was milked twice daily for 305 days while on test.

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP — Edith Irene Teggerdine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin J. Teggerdine, 623 Warden Road, Independence, will speak vows at a wedding ceremony Saturday evening at the First Baptist Church of Clarkston.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Bailey, 8702 Siskabaw Road.

Nuptial vows were repeated before an altar decorated with white gladioli, anemones and ferns with Rev. David Dece performing the ceremony.

The bride wore a floor-length gown with a Chantilly lace bodice and tulle, a portrait neckline trimmed with seed pearls and sequins, full length tapered sleeves of Chantilly lace, and a skirt of matching lace over pleated tulle and taffeta.

Miller Orchestra to Play at Metropolitan Beach
The Glenn Miller Orchestra under the direction of Ray McKinley will provide music for dancing under the stars at Metropolitan Beach near Mount Clemens Sunday.

Having Some Trouble Giving Away Street
OXFORD — Sometimes you can't even give something away.

Half a dozen residents found out it can be at least difficult at the village council meeting here last night.

They want to dedicate their privately owned street, Cottage Court, to the village so that the village will take over its maintenance.

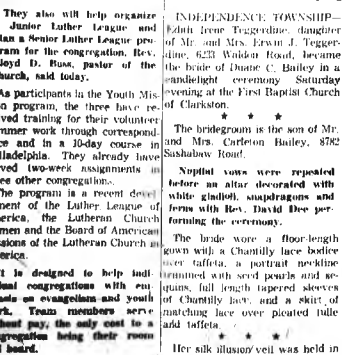

Trouble is, there are no owners involved. All of them must agree to giving away their 312-foot street, and then title to the property must be clearly established first, according to Village Manager Robert Sandley, who advised it will take a while to work out such details.

Dems Schedule Picnic
WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — The annual picnic of the White Lake Township Democratic Club will be held Sunday at Davenport Park.

Serving his brother as best man was Gordon Bailey of Independence Township, while serving the guests were Gary Mann of Oxford, a cousin of the bridegroom; the bridegroom's uncle, and Dr. H. R. C. Bailey of Pontiac, brother-in-law of the bride.

A reception was held in the church parlor following the wedding ceremony.

After a honeymoon in northern Michigan the newlyweds will reside in Drayton Plains.

Idaho Doesn't Separate Young Criminals

BOISE Idaho (UPI) — Robert Oliver Miller has a new playmate Marshall Nadeau, 14, entered Idaho State Prison here July 19. Robert, now 18, was 13 when he became a prisoner last February. The boys may get to know one another quite well.

Two police officers. Both the officers were struck in the spine, and probably will be paralyzed for life.

Marshall is serving an indefinite term for bludgeoning his mother in the head with a hammer, then stabbing her. She died a few days later in the hospital.

Warden L.E. Clapp says neither boy receives any special treatment. They mix freely with burglars, murderers and perverts. All are housed in the prison which huddles at the foot of the mountains on Boise's eastern outskirts—a few hundred yards from a residential section.

There is no provision in Idaho law for special treatment for some youthful offenders.

If a crime against a person is committed, the prosecuting attorney has the right to say whether a child is to be tried as a juvenile or adult.

A child tried as an adult and found guilty is imprisoned with other adults. There are no separate facilities.

Not everyone in Idaho is happy about this situation.

The Idaho Children's Commission was created by the last legislature to study the problem and make recommendations.

Jeanne Jewett, commission secretary, said one recommendation will be that the juvenile court shall have original jurisdiction in such crimes. Juvenile authorities will determine whether youthful offenders shall be tried as youths or adults.

YOUTH PUZZLED

Marshall, who could be eligible for parole in 10 years, seemed puzzled after Third District Judge Merlin Young pronounced sentence.

A few hours later he exchanged his neatly-pressed slacks and checkered sportcoat for prison garb.

Warden Clapp hopes Marshall will be easier to handle than Robert. "We have time to work with the Nadeau boy," he said.

The warden explained in similar cases in the past "we've had good luck" with rehabilitation, and the youths have become useful citizens.

Clapp is worried about Robert.

with him, and I had some long talks with the boy," the warden explained.

Things are little better now, he's beginning to adjust.

Clapp seemed hopeful that Marshall would be less of a problem. The boy's only hope for freedom lies in his ability to adjust and accept rehabilitation.

Unlike Robert, who knows he will be released in 18 more months, Marshall could spend a lifetime behind bars.

Red China Build-Up for Defense Only

GENEVA (UPI) — Communists have told Britain that Peking's military build-up opposite Quemoy and Matsui is for defensive, not offensive, purposes, informed sources said today.

The sources said Red Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi gave this explanation to British Foreign Secretary Lord Hume here.

Chen Yi came to Geneva for the signing of the Lane agreement.

The two leaders met for wide ranging discussions on international problems at Chen Yi's residence Monday.

Chen Yi was said to have stated that the military build-up had been necessitated by the threatening attitude of Marshal Chiang Kai-shek's regime on Formosa.

Sewage Plant Building to Begin in Wyoming

WYOMING — Heavy construction equipment began trickling into the city of Wyoming yesterday following the City Commission's approval of a $2,657,000 contract for construction of a sewage treatment plant.

Winner of the contract was William A. Pope Co. of Chicago.

Representatives of the firm said construction would begin Aug. 6.

Ike Got More Opposition Aid Than JFK

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower got a lot more help from the Democrats in Congress in his first 18 months than the Republicans have given President Kennedy.

Eisenhower said thanks to the Democrats in public. Kennedy is beginning to rail against the Republicans. They expressed themselves in different ways.

Twice — after the 1963 congressional session and again after the one in 1964 — Eisenhower broadcast to the people reported gratefully how Congress treated his programs.

Kennedy has never made such a report. He had practically no criticism of the Republicans last year. But now he's getting heated although only in news conferences. The one this week was an example.

There's a political irony, and embarrassment for Kennedy, in the two situations.

In Eisenhower's first two years Republicans so thinly outnumbered Democrats that the latter, if they had been so-minded, with the help of just a few Republican deserters, could have been a wrecking crew.

Under Kennedy the Democrats in Congress enormously outnumbered the Republicans. By voting together, they could have rammed through any Kennedy program, even if Republicans solidly voted against. The Democrats didn't stick together.

Whole batches of them deserted party ranks to join the Republicans, who—unlike the Democrats in Eisenhower's time — have ganged up to annihilate most of the President's projects.

In his broadcasts Eisenhower, like a typical politician, didn't want to give the Democrats any support by the Democrats and unnecessary advertising. So, even while praising them, he avoided mentioning Democrats by name. In 1963 he praised the "unprecedented unity that crosses party lines" and the "high sense of duty" in the Congress he dealt with.

Actually, the Democrats beat him to it in claiming credit for help.

Lyndon B. Johnson, now vice president but then Democratic leader in the Senate, said: "Practically every major item of the President's program" had been supported by the Democrats and it turned out, fateful—for the Republicans because in 1954 this was the party lineup in Congress.

In the Senate—48 Democrats, 47 Republicans, one independent; in the House—219 Republicans, 213 Democrats, and one independent.

That year the Republicans lost control of Congress to the Democrats, who have beaten them in every election since.

Now this is the lineup in the Democratic-run Congress. Kennedy deals with: in the Senate—64 Democrats, 35 Republicans, one vacancy; in the House—262 Democrats, 134 Republicans, one vacancy.

He claimed "54 hits" out of 61 legislative projects for a "balancing average of .883."

The elections that year were tremendously important—and, as Kennedy—as his legislative frustrations pile up — is increasingly caustic about the Republicans and is even getting a little critical of the Democrats who joined the Republicans against him.

His criticism comes just as the 1962 congressional election campaigns get under way.

At his news conference this week, he said Republicans, with very few exceptions, had "opposed every measure that we put forward" and were "joined by some Democrats who, for a great many years, have opposed a good many Democratic programs."

He sounded wistful as he said: "Now we don't get any Republicans any more for any measure" — except for foreign ones like aid and trade — and even there the Republican leadership opposed it.

Brazil Threatened by Agarian Reform

MACKINAC ISLAND (AP) — An agarian reform program in north-east Brazil is a "replica" of the Chinese agarian movement that preceded communism in China, a Brazilian told a Moral Re-Armament meeting yesterday.

Gen. Hugo Brehm, former Brazilian ambassador to Bolivia and Pakistan said Brazil is in "exactly the same position as China in 1946."

He said Brazil has the same problems of corruption and inflation. Gen. Brehm is attending the MRA's assembly of the Americas.

Two-Tone Salad Mousse Fetes the Happy Bride

Bridal showers are the nicest kind of parties. Nothing seems to equal the exuberance of the guests, the radiance of the prospective bride, the prettiness of the decor and the attractiveness of the food.

So if you're feting a June bride with a May shower, you'll want your party to be the loveliest ever.

And here's the perfect answer—PARTY MOUSSE. It's a pink and red delight that looks almost too beautiful to eat. But just one taste and you'll find that it's even more luscious than lovely.

The bottom layer of PARTY MOUSSE combines lemon-flavored gelatin, savory tomato sauce and seasonings, along with celery, olives and shredded turkey or chicken.

The top layer gets its charming pink color from unflavored gelatin. Tangy tomato sauce, mayonnaise and lemon juice and features slices of avocado. And here to dip the avocado slices is lemon juice to prevent their discoloring.

PARTY MOUSSE
Layer 1
1 pkg. unflavored gelatin
¾ cup water
1 (8-oz.) can tomato sauce
¾ cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce
Avocado slices
Lemon juice
Soften gelatin in ¾ cup water. Dissolve with ½ cup boiling water. Add tomato sauce, mayonnaise, lemon juice and Worcestershire Sauce; mix well. Chill until slightly thickened. Dip avocado slices in lemon juice to prevent discoloration. Arrange in bottom of 1½ qt. mold. Pour in gelatin mixture. Chill until set.

Layer 2
1 pkg. lemon flavored gelatin
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup hot water
1 (8-oz.) can tomato sauce
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ cup chopped celery
½ cup sliced ripe olives
1 (5-oz.) can boned turkey or chicken, shredded (about 1½ cups)
Dissolve gelatin and salt in hot water. Add tomato sauce and lemon juice. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in celery, olives and turkey (or chicken). Pour into mold on top of Layer 1. Chill until set. Unmold on bed of lettuce. Serves 6.

For Caesar Salad, add a sliced clove of garlic to ½ cup of the olive oil, heat until garlic browns, then remove and discard garlic, add the bread cubes and saute over moderate heat until evenly golden.

English Invent Beany Treats

Most of us think of sandwiches as a real American institution truly our own as hamburgers and popcorn. It may come as a bit of a surprise that our English cousins are not only sandwich fans but have heartily adopted . . . and adapted . . . our navy bean sandwich. They've added their own special touches and here are several of the British versions you may want to try.

Egg and Bean Sandwich

Butter large rounds of toast and cover plentifully with heated, canned baked beans. Place a fried egg on each, cover with thinly sliced cheese and do with butter. Brown lightly under grill and serve very hot. A garnish of fried tomatoes is sometimes added.

Double Decker

Mix canned baked beans with curry powder to taste, heat to blend and mash. Spread buttered toast with catsup and a layer of the beans, add meat covered with slices of olives and crisp bacon. Top with third piece of toast, placing the buttered side down.

Party Snack

Brown ¼ lb. dried chipped beef in a little butter. Add a medium sized can of baked beans to which 2 tablespoons of catsup and 1 teaspoon brown sugar have been added. Mix all ingredients and heat thoroughly. Serve in slices of toast with pickle chips or chutney.

Cinnamon Flavors Cod a la Greece

Adapted from a cookbook of Greek recipes, this dish is a delightful flavor change.

Skillet Cod and Potatoes
1 pound fresh cod (small tail end in one piece)
Salt and pepper to taste
1 tablespoon flour
½ cup olive oil
3 medium-sized onions (cut in thin strips)
¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 cup water
1½ cup currents rinsed in hot or warm water and drained
4 small potatoes (pared and quartered lengthwise)
Wash and dry fish; sprinkle with salt and pepper and coat with flour. In a 10-inch skillet heat the olive oil, add the onions and cook until golden. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and cinnamon; add water and bring to a boil.

Add cod, currents and potatoes; simmer, covered, until fish and potatoes are cooked through. If there seems too much oil to serve with the fish and potatoes, spoon over a plain cooked green vegetable. Makes 3 servings.

Pilots, Passengers to Be Quizzed

Aviation Survey Planned by State Unit

Air travel throughout the state is expected to give a great deal of information on aviation and its economic importance to Michigan during Michigan Aviation Fact Finder, July 28-Aug. 3.

James D. Ramsey, director of the Michigan Department of Aeronautics, has announced Fact Finder as a statewide aeronautical survey comprehensively covering all 127 licensed airports in the State of Michigan.

Fact Finder will not only show how many airplanes fly when, where and why, but will also show their economic importance to the communities throughout the state, according to Ramsey.

Cooperating in Michigan Aviation Fact Finder are the Federal Aviation Agency, with their control towers, air route traffic control centers, flight service stations; the U.S. Weather Bureau, recording weather and its effect on air traffic throughout the state during Fact Finder; the airlines, distributing questionnaires to each operating passenger and the Civil Air Patrol, Boy Scouts, and local organizations throughout the state, gathering information from each arriving and departing general aviation pilot and passenger.

Michigan Aviation Fact Finder will rely heavily on local coordinators, CAP personnel, and other interviewers who will be requesting explicit information from each pilot and his passengers.

In a Copy of the 39-Foot Galleon Nina

Seven Plan to Duplicate Columbus' Original Voyage

MADRID (UPI)—A Los Angeles scientist and six companions plan to rediscover America in a carbon-copy of Christopher Columbus' 39-foot galleon Nina.

John Marx, a 28-year-old skin diver and submarine archaeologist from California, said he and six Spaniards including a direct descendant of Columbus plan to cross the Atlantic by the same route the explorer used 470 years ago.

"But at least we know that the earth is round," he said.

The vessel and all the equipment aboard will be hand-made, right down to the hand-forged nails that will hold together the five different kinds of wood that were used to build the 39-foot vessel.

Marx said there's nothing strange about the hand-made kick. "If you're on a yacht with a deep freezer and a cocktail in your hands you don't know what Columbus and his men went through."

CREW IS ABOARD
The crew includes Cristobal Colon (Christopher Columbus), the Duke of Veragua—a direct descendant of the famed explorer.

The government, however, still has to approve his signing as a member of the crew. No date has yet been set for the trip but they hope to leave before Aug. 16.

The man behind the venture is Lt. Carlos Etxayo, of the Spanish Navy. Etxayo, 42, has written two books on Columbus and received a 10-year leave of absence to work on the project.

He is convinced his study—and about $20,000—have led him to build a faithful reproduction of the Nina. According to records he has studied, the vessel could have been as long as 58 feet. But he thinks 39 feet is the more likely figure. Marx joined the crew because the records showed that there was an Englishman aboard and the Californian says his ancestors came from Britain.

"The hardest thing for the crew so far is getting used to the idea that they can't smoke during the voyage," Marx said.

"The only modern items on board when we leave for the voyage will be passports and one camera. If we are forced to have a radio on board when we leave port it will be the first thing that goes overboard when we get out."

THE REAL McDOD

Candles will be used for lighting, cooking done on deck in a sand box. There will be no maps, books, matches, life preservers and "not even a bobby pin" aboard, Marx said.

The crew will have canvas clothes and be armed with swords. The Spanish Army Museum is finishing four artillery pieces for them similar to those used by Columbus in his voyage.

Navigation instruments, kept to bare minimum and following

Playa's research, consist of a to the exact timetable of the explorer they must leave Palos before Aug. 10.

Each of the crew will get a quart of water and two quarts of wine every day. The food stores include salted beef, sardines, beans, sugar, salt and sardines. Cheese will be eaten only when it is too rough to cook on board. Goat and "several" chickens will complete the live stores.

The rest of the crew is made up of four Basque fishermen. They form the backbone of the crew which, at times, will have a lot of rowing to do when there is no wind for the two sails.

After the tests end, the crew will sail the Nina to the Atlantic port city of Palos where Columbus originally left on his first trip. To keep to the exact timetable of the explorer they must leave Palos before Aug. 10.

According to U.S. archaeologist Ruth Walker of Scarsdale, N.Y., Columbus originally landed on the small island of San Salvador in the Bahamas.

Now used as a missile base by the United States, it has been chosen by the crew of the Nina for their first landing place in the Americas.

They expect to arrive there in the middle of October.

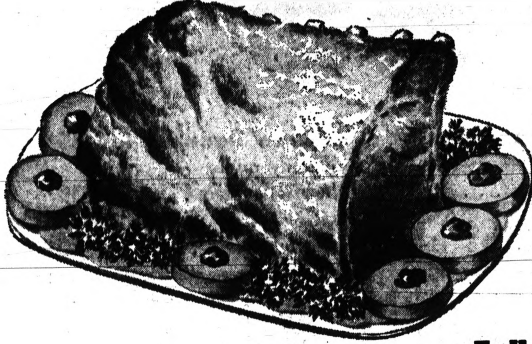

Mayors Planning Strike-to-Back Highway Stand

IMPERIA, Italy (U)—The Mayors of Riviera resort towns between Imperia and Ventimiglia called a strike yesterday to back up demands for a new super highway.

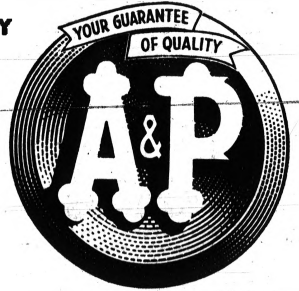

The mayors said they and all municipal workers will remain idle Friday and Saturday because the national government has been delaying plans to build a Riviera superhighway between Ventimiglia and Savona, just west of Genoa.

The mayors said a superhighway was essential for the Riviera's tourist trade.

Help Him Develop It

Does Child Have Physical Coordination?

By LEBLIE E. NASON, Ed. D.
Professor of Education
University of Southern California

In your child afraid to play games with other children? Is he too shy to play on bars and jungle gyms or climb trees? These are the skills that bring happiness to school play groups. But first the child must have the assurance that his body will do his bidding. He must have coordination.

And coordination is more a DR. NASON matter of development and training than most people think.

A first grade teacher noted that several children in her room did not enter into games on the playground. I suggested that they might lack the coordination necessary for success in the games.

She tested them in climbing jungle gyms and batting, throwing and catching balls. Their lack of coordination and confidence was evident.

DAILY PRACTICE

This wise teacher encouraged these children to practice daily climbing on bars and jungle gyms. She saw to it that they got plenty of practice in throwing and catching balls.

By the end of the school year all had gained in coordination; all were able to climb with confidence and throw and bat balls with more skill.

Best of all, they now enjoyed playing games.

Parents too can be a real factor in this type of child development.

Andy is a junior high school boy with excellent coordination. In fact, he excels at any physical activity which he tries.

"When did you start Andy's training in coordination," I asked his mother.

"Before he could creep!" she answered. "I got him a tumbling cone by with loose rings. He laid on his stomach on the floor and spent hours taking the rings off the cone and putting them back on."

"He has always had a table in the corner of his room with a supply of pencils, crayons and cheap newspaper as well as blocks, wood, odd pieces of wood and glue."

WANTED PAPER

"Andy 'wasted' hundreds of sheets of newspaper in the drawing pictures with assurance and skill."

"Fortunately we had trees for climbing. We have always encouraged swimming, ball-playing, fort-building, and other activities in which Andy developed skill and control in the use of his muscles."

"Summer is an excellent time to encourage children to develop coordination."

If your little boy is awkward at throwing and batting balls; if your little girl is awkward at hop-scotch or jump rope, you may be able to find some other child to help provide practice.

School playgrounds and summer development programs afford many opportunities in this field. They have trained supervisors and equipment for the various activities.

Through practice your child will discover that his body can be made to do his bidding. This confidence is an important part of good mental health.

Caution: It is best not to try to make your child a champion. Being second or third best is not failure. At this age sports should be fun.

You Can Get Soaked on a Swimming Pool

TORONTO (U.P.) — The Ontario Swimming Pool Association warns you can get soaked on a pool as well as in it.

The group, which describes itself as a "sort of Better Business Bureau of our own," says fly-by-night pool builders are operating in the province.

John Flah, a director of OSPAA, says, "You may think you've saved a lot of money, but after a while the cracks start and you find you've been taken in. Then it's too late — the contractor you dealt with has moved on."

OSPAA says this year a good pool costs from $2,000 up.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY

I happened to run into Waldemar von Zedwitz right after I finished writing yesterday's article. When I told him about it he said, "Here's a hand I played yesterday and not 30 years ago."

The opponents were vulnerable and we were not so I decided to open with a weak four-heart bid. My partner should have given me loway, but he didn't and I found myself in a slam.

"We've opened the ace of spades and shifted to the deuce of diamonds. I knew that he wasn't the sort of player who would lead from a king at that point, so I went right up with dummy's ace of diamonds. I cashed six trump tricks and discarded all dummy's diamonds. West threw the eight that West was holding three clubs and two spades and East two spades and the king of diamonds that I could have spread my hand and eluded on a squeeze, but I played the hand anyway."

Do you see how the squeeze would operate from then on? Waldy simply led a club to dummy's ace, ruffed a club and played his last trump. West had to discard a spade to hang on to the good club. Waldy threw dummy's last club and East had to discard a spade to hold the king of diamonds.

Now both dummy's spades were good, irrespective of the location of the queen.

100 Navy Men to Test Shelter

Officers Also to Join Underground A-Attack Study in Hot Weather

WASHINGTON (AP)—One hundred Navy officers and men will go underground next week for a test of atomic attack shelter living in cold weather.

This will be the second such test. A party of 100 Navy men spent two weeks in the same experimental shelter last February to experience underground living in cold weather.

Two officers—who took part in the February test—and 98 enlisted volunteers will enter the shelter at the National Naval Medical Center in nearby Bethesda, Md., the morning of Aug. 1.

The planned duration of their stay will not be announced until the test is begun, the Defense Department said today.

The objective is to determine the shelter's size, shape, materials, sanitary facilities and sleeping arrangements are fit for prolonged use in hot weather.

During the cold weather test in February, temperatures within the shelter reached 81 degrees although structure had no heating system.

The experimental shelter is a buried steel arch structure 25 feet wide by 48 feet long.

It is equipped with five double rows of bunks. The men will sleep in shifts.

FILTERED AIR
Buried six feet underground, the shelter has a ventilating system that provides filtered air.

It is designed to provide protection from air blast, mass fires, radiation, radioactive fallout and chemical and biological agents.

Data will be used by the Navy in construction of protective shelters for military personnel, but the information gained will be made available to the office of civil defense.

Eddie Returns to Club, Aims Barbs at Liz

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Eddie Fisher returned to the night club he and Elizabeth Taylor divorced last year and aimed a few barbs at his now-extraneous wife.

He remained silent on divorce plans.

"It was a year ago when I was here last," Fisher told a capacity Desert Inn audience Tuesday night. "Not much has happened since then."

Fisher appeared cautious and serious when he walked on stage last night. He loosened up after a few songs and commented on the filming of "Cleopatra" in Rome. He left Miss Taylor when she began dating Richard Burton.

"You know they started that picture so long ago," Fisher said. "They could have used the original cast. I wish they would have."

The audience broke into several songs with applause and brought him back three times for bows.

Nuns Work Fast as 295 Evacuated in Hospital Fire

NEW YORK (AP)—Nuns helped evacuate 295 patients today when a fast-moving fire broke out in a loft of St. Mary's Hospital in Brooklyn.

No patient was injured. The three-alarm blaze was brought under control within 20 minutes.

Where the evacuated patients would be placed was not determined immediately. All 295 of them, including 65 newborn infants, were taken temporarily to a lawn surrounding the block-square, five-story, 77-year-old red-brick building.

Later, patients who had been on operating tables when the flames started were returned for treatment.

Cruse of the blaze was not determined at once.

1st State to Protect Cubs
PITTSBURGH (AP)—Pennsylvania was the first state to give protection to cub bears. In 1925, a legislative act declared that a bear to be legally taken in the commonwealth must be "not less than 1 year old."

As a cub, a bear born in January of February weighs 50 to 80 pounds by autumn. By the time the second hunting season rolls around, a young bear weighs 120-150 pounds.

Memphis Hotel Hit by 4th Fire in Week

MEMPHIS (AP)—The 130-year-old Memphis Hotel was damaged severely today by its fourth fire in less than a week. No one was injured.

Firemen from Richmond and Emmett, both about six miles from the southern St. Clair County village, helped Memphis firemen fight the flames in the three-story frame hotel's unoccupied third floor.

The fire, of undetermined origin, burned out much of the third floor—an open, unused former dance floor. Lower floors had extensive water damage.

Winnie Putting Weight on His Fractured Thigh
LONDON (AP)—A medical bulletin said today Sir Winston Churchill is now able to bear a part of his weight on his fractured left thigh.

The 87-year-old wartime prime minister's doctors added that he is doing so well it is hoped no further medical bulletins will be needed.

Anti-Castro Leader Reportedly Seized

KEY WEST UP — Havana radio announced yesterday the capture and execution of an anti-Castro guerrilla leader known only as "Carla Linda."

The report of the capture was given casually during a broadcast account of a revolutionary defense committee meeting in Pinar del Rio in western Cuba.

After describing other actions more at the meeting, the radio said the seizure and execution of Carla Linda was announced to the assembly and that defense committee members had aided in the capture.

Carla Linda, whose name means "beautiful face," was reported last September to be the leader of a large group of counterrevolutionaries active in the Sierra de Organos Mountains in Pinar del Rio Province.

Throughout Cuba, there are more than 100 mountain peaks reaching a height of 10,000 feet or more.

Pleads Not Guilty in Grain Theft Case

ST. LOUIS UP — Grain speculator Louis W. (Jimmy) Butler, who failed in his attempt to corner the soybean market, pleaded innocent yesterday at his arraignment on charges of stealing grain, selling it, and using the proceeds to play the soybean market.

Butler and Thomas E. Thompson, who pleaded innocent to the same charges earlier, were indicted by a federal grand jury June 15 with five counts of violating the National Stolen Property Act.

The government contends Butler, who served as a consultant for federal grain and Thompson transferred grain from elevators of the company to the Best Grain and Land Co. of Missouri, a firm owned by Butler.

The government said the grain was then shipped to southern markets and the proceeds used by Butler in his attempt to corner the soybean market.

W. Berlin Official Says Red Threats Have Been Bluff

CHICAGO (UPI) — Otto Bach, president of the West Berlin parliament, said yesterday the situation in his divided city looks "more dangerous abroad than it looks from the inside."

"Up to now, Communist threats have been all bluff," he said.

Bach said he did not believe Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev would sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany Communist leader Walter Ulbricht because the latter "is a Stalinist and a cat's paw."

The German leader told a news conference that East and West could negotiate if the Soviets would agree to let American troops remain in Berlin and to the establishment of an international committee to guarantee free access to the city.

The still is a bird of the plow, family remarkable for the length of its legs. The bird is found in Europe, Asia and the Americas.

GM to Start Addition at Saginaw Division

SAGINAW, Mich.—General Motors Corp. said yesterday it will start construction in September on a 200,000-square-foot addition to its Saginaw Steering Gear Division Plant No. 4.

The multi-million-dollar project is scheduled for completion in the summer of 1963.

Company spokesmen said the addition would not affect the division's employment level.

GI Court Martialled; Deserted to E. Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—A U.S. Army court martial yesterday sentenced an American soldier to two years hard labor and dishonorable discharge for deserting to Communist-ruled East Berlin.

He is Pfc. David-A. Wilson, 22, of Ashland, Ky.

He pleaded guilty, admitted to being absent without leave for 14 months. He said he had lived with a girl in East Berlin before aiding the Soviets to return him. The findings and sentence are subject to review.

India Population Now More Than 454 Million

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—India's population is now more than 454 million, official figures showed yesterday.

The government announced that a recheck showed that a census figure for March 1, 1961, had been three million persons short. The 1961 census showed a rate of population increase of 2.13 per cent a year in the past decade.

7,000 Families Affected by Cut in Detroit ADC

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit slashed $2 million yesterday from its supplemental Aid to Dependent Children budget in an economy move that will affect more than 7,000 families in the city.

The action drops regular city supplemental funds to 5,335 families and 1,000 over-age children (18 or older) and other relatives.

The Welfare Department would, however, review these cases and aid would be given under city welfare standards which are lower than regular state ADC payments if continuing need were proven.

The cuts were seen as an attempt to pressure the State Department of Social Welfare, which changed its aid formula to Detroit June 28, a move city officials have estimated would cost the city $2,780,500 a year.

In 1949 the Massachusetts Institute of Technology appointed its first professor of cryogenics (super cold).

Good Roads' Group Appeals to Con-Con

LANSING (AP)—The Michigan Good Roads Federation yesterday sent letters to every constitutional convention delegate urging reconsideration of two points when the convention reconvenes on Aug. 1.

The federation asked reinstatement of constitutional provisions against diversion of motor vehicle taxes for any purpose other than road construction and restoration of the present system of electing the state highway commissioner.

State Group Approves Manistee Development

LANSING (AP)—The State Economic Development Department has approved and sent to the Area Redevelopment Administration in Washington an over-all economic development program for Manistee County.

Approval of the program will mean communities, industries and businesses in the county can apply for federal loans to help finance local projects.

Income tax was introduced in Canada in 1917 as a wartime levy.

Cadillac Awarded 2 Army Contracts

DETROIT (AP)—Cadillac Motor Division of General Motors Corp. has been awarded two Army contracts totaling $57,839,81 for production of armored reconnaissance vehicles and self-propelled howitzers.

The contracts, to be carried out at Cadillac's Cleveland ordnance plant, are expected to boost employment at the plant from the present level of fewer than 1,000 workers to at least 4,300, a company spokesman said. Production should be under way by Jan. 1, he added.

April Vote Seen on Constitution

Reapportionment Press Delays Hearing Date on Time Issue

LANCING (UPI)—It was all but decided today that the vote on the proposed new constitution will take place in April of next year.

A crush of other matters, mostly in connection with the recent Supreme Court ruling on Senate apportionment has delayed the state attorney general's office in preparation of briefs in the court case on the con-con question.

A spokesman for the attorney general indicated that it was "very unlikely" that the briefs would be ready before Aug. 8, the deadline for filing questions on the November ballot.

The case to get the new document on the fall ballot was brought by Republican con-con delegates eager to give their candidates in the fall election the extra campaign issue.

GIVE 90 DAYS
An Ingham County Circuit Court case before the State Supreme decision on the matter shoved the Court which gave Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley 90 days to prepare his arguments. That action came about three weeks ago.

A spokesman for the Republican con-con delegates accused Kelley of delaying tactics to insure an April 1963 vote.

The apportionment battle appeared to have washed out any chance of an early decision anyway since the constitutional convention is expected to remain in session for some time when it returns Aug. 1.

The con-con session had been planned as a one-day affair but delegates are now calling for review of the con-con apportionment, the plan for the Supreme Court and other parts of the new document.

Both Parties Hit in Romney Talk

'Economic Pressure Groups Filled Power Hole Left by Citizens'

DETROIT (AP)—George Romney yesterday slapped both political parties in charging a "travesty of the democratic process" in Michigan.

Romney told an audience arranged by the Wayne State University political science department, "We have seen the tragic consequence of a state dominated first by one economic minority group and then by another."

"It is no secret that one party is under the control of one economic pressure group while the other is too largely under the influence of a few large corporations," he said.

The result is a "travesty of the democratic process... frozen into a pattern of inertia of the same. This came about because the people of Michigan left a power vacuum into which the pressure groups have moved."

He became a candidate for governor, Romney said, because he was "increasingly concerned with citizen apathy in this state..."

Philippine Rains Force Half Million From Homes

Some areas were under five feet of water after seven days of monsoon rain. Seventeen deaths were reported.

What, No Dining Area Around Home Plate?

LONDON (UPI) — Home plate has nothing to do with dining, a London newspaper carefully explained today.

For the benefit of millions of Britons who saw their first game of baseball—a sophisticated version of "rounders"—from the United States via Telsat Tuesday night, the Daily Sketch printed a rough idea of the rules.

"Baseball," it said, "is played in a diamond-shaped pitch. The batters take their places one at a time in a chalked area next to the home plate.

"This plate has no edible confections, consisting as it does of a piece of rubber 17 inches wide.

SLUR ON SLAB

"The pitcher, a slob who stands on a slab 50 feet, 6 inches from the batter, has to throw the ball over the home plate . . .

"Here baseball terminology acquires the same average charm. Instead, the batter must hit the ball which has been delivered correctly, a 'strike' is called.

"Should the pitch miss the strike zone, however, it is sneeringly dismissed as a 'ball'."

"If the batter succeeds in clearing the ball, he has made a 'hit.' He then runs as fast as he can to either first, second or third base.

"Should the batter hit the ball right out of the grounds, he has made a home run which is better than invitation to tea at the White House."

The Sketch warned its readers that "there is a risk that those damn (New York) Yankees will soon be part of our lives."

The economics of baseball, it said, are "big business. A few years ago the New York Giants were paid $37 million by a TV company to move to San Francisco."

"Imagine," it said, "anyone paying Chelsea (a British soccer team) to move to Leeds."

Kaat Mourns, Tigers Celebrate

Scowls Way to No. 297

By The Associated Press

If it had been anyone else, he might have smiled. But not Earl Wynn.

The ancient right-hander of the Chicago White Sox had things going all his own way. He had a four-hit shutout and was just two outs away from his 20th major league victory—a major milestone in his quest of 300.

But Wynn's scowl—as much a trademark as his smooth, easy pitching motion—darkened his broad face as usual as he pitched to Bob Johnson, leading off the last of the ninth in Washington.

Johnson, who was only one year old when the 42-year-old Wynn broke into organized baseball, refused to be intimidated and rapped out a single.

Wynn, who has had his difficult ties since arm trouble sidled him last season, took a deep breath and bore down as he were a World Series. Harry Bright grounded into a double play and Chuck Hinton fled to center.

And old Earl, apparently in his last season, had a 4-0 decision, the 19th shutout of his career and just three victories shy of the coveted 300 circle, which has been reached only 13 times.

Wynn's shutout, the best pitching performance in the American League Tuesday night, was the third straight victory for the White Sox and pulled them into a tie for fifth with Baltimore, which split a pair with the Los Angeles Angels.

The Orioles won the first 3-2 but left them three games back in leading New York, which beat Boston 5-3. Cleveland edged Kansas City 5-4 and Detroit got by Minnesota 4-3 in the others.

Wynn struck out four, walked only one and didn't allow more than one runner on base in his effort against the Senators. Joe Cunningham, Mike Hershberger and Al Smith had home runs in support.

RELEASER HELP

The Yankees' Whitey Ford got credit for his 10th victory against five losses in downing the Red Sox, but had to have help when Boston threatened in the ninth.

Bill Skowron drove in two runs with a double and a triple, and the Yankees beat Boston for the seventh time in eight starts.

Steve Barber and Baltimore had a 3-1 lead going into the ninth of the opener at Los Angeles, but the Angels put runners on second and third with one out, and Hoyt Wilhelm had to come in to put out the fire. He allowed a run-scoring single to Steve Bando, then struck out the next two.

The Angels salvaged a split by ripping into Chuck Estrada for five runs in the third inning of the second game and coasting in Edie Pearson drove in three runs and scored another for Los Angeles.

Cleveland's Dick Donovan won his 13th victory against five losses in downing the Red Sox, but had to have help when Kansas City pulled to within one run with a two-run rally in the ninth. Willie Kirkland's three-run homer in the first started him on a early lead.

The Angels salvaged a split by ripping into Chuck Estrada for five runs in the third inning of the second game and coasting in Edie Pearson drove in three runs and scored another for Los Angeles.

Colavito's Hit Produces First Win Over Twins

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — The loss of two teeth, the Detroit Tigers celebrated today their first victory over the Minnesota Twins this season.

Kaat, former Hope College hurler, literally knocked off the mound in the seventh inning last night by a steaming grounder off the bat of Bubba Morton.

The Twins Southpaw in the mouth, knocking out two teeth.

Kaat left the game with the Twins ahead 3-2 and the batters full of Tigers with one out. Len Sledge came on and pitched Al Kalish and Rocky Colavito to end the inning.

But Sledge gave up a game-tying home run to Norm Cash in the eighth. It was the 27th run-tripper of the season for the left-handed Tiger slogger. His last four hits, and six of his last seven, have been homers.

In the ninth, Vic Werz, pinch-hitting for winning pitcher Jim Bunning (10-6), advanced. Running for Werz, Frank Lary slugged to second on a sacrifice.

WINNING HIT

Colavito then lined a single to left field to score Lary and win the game, 4-3. The first Tiger victory over the Twins in seven meetings this year.

The Twins opened the scoring in the second inning when Earl Batley, pinch-hitting for starter

Tommy Green, scored on a sacrifice bunt. In the third, Green singled again in the fifth, advanced to second on a first-base bunt, and scored on a double by Rich Hall.

Rollins then scored on Bob Allison's single to put the twins ahead.

The Tigers had scored twice in the third. Woe doubled and scored on a double by Kaline, who then scored on a single by Colavito.

Each team managed 10 hits. It was the third loss in five decisions for Sledge.

Mets Lead Loop in Miller Boys

By The Associated Press

It took only one pitch for Robert G. Miller to prove he is a true New York Met.

Robert G. Miller is a left-handed pitcher. The Mets also have a left-handed pitcher, who is right-handed, and thereby lead the National League in Robert Miller.

Robert L. record is 0-7. Robert G. never had thrown a ball for the Mets before Tuesday night. Then he threw one. Now he is 0-1.

Del Crandall hit his first and only delivery for a home run in the bottom of the 12th to give the Milwaukee Braves a 5-4 victory over the Mets. It was the ninth straight loss the Mets who are only one game over the 250 mark.

Up at the other end of the league, Willie Mays continued his hitting rampage, homering twice in the 10th and 11th to lead the San Francisco Giants to a 3-1 victory over the Houston Astros. The win moved the Giants to within a game of the league-leading Los Angeles Dodgers, who were edged 3-2 by the St. Louis Cardinals.

10TH VICTORY

Joy Jay hit his 14th victory as the Cincinnati Reds won over Pittsburgh 4-1 and the Chicago Cubs beat the Philadelphia Phillies 5-3.

Houston right-hander Dick Farrell, who admitted recently that he occasionally mixed a wet pitch into his repertoire, couldn't find any way to stop Mays until it was too late. He served up two homers to the Giant center fielder, who leads both leagues in the department, in the first and fourth innings.

In the sixth he hit Willie with a pitch. That didn't work, either since Mays went on to score the Giants' final run on Orlando Cepeda's single and Felipe Alou's sacrifice fly.

Jack Sanford got his 13th win—and seventh in a row—over the Giants with help from Don Larsen who came on in the seventh after the Cubs scored their only run.

The Dodgers, who meet the Giants in a three game series in Los Angeles starting Friday, again got power hitting from Frank Howard but their tattered baseline speed was missing.

DOUBLED OUT

THE PALMER METHOD

by Arnold Palmer

THE DELAYED HIT

The secret of the delayed hit is a quick weight shift to the left as the downswing begins. The delayed hit, which means a late uncocking of the wrists, produces more clubhead speed and more power.

Clamp the left heel down flat onto the ground as the downswing starts. Fight an early wrist uncock by slinging down slowly.

As the deliberate downswing progresses, the right heel comes off the ground — an indication of a good weight shift to the left — and the right elbow comes back into the body. Make sure the right shoulder gets definitely lower than the left. A level shoulder arm will catch up the late hit. The right elbow comes back to the body and stays there until after impact.

Adds Runnels, Berra, McBride to AL Team

Houk Seeks to Bolster All-Stars

Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — American League All-Star manager Ralph Houk, bent on strengthening his lineup for the second inter-league test next Monday at Chicago, today picked Pete Runnels, the club's leading batter, and his own Yogi Berra, an All-Star standby for more than a decade.

In a further bid to stem the rising National League tide, the Yankees skipper also added Los Angeles' Ken McBride, the hottest pitcher in the league, and left-hander Jim Kaat of Minnesota to his staff. Drugged was Boston's Bill Monbouquette, who hasn't hurled a complete game in nearly a month.

A 5-1 winner at Washington earlier this month, the Nationals go into the second All-Star meeting at Wrigley Field with five victories and a tie in their last seven meetings with the rival circuit. Another victory would even the over-all series at 16 games apiece. At one point the Americans led 12 games to 4.

TWO LEFT-HANDERS
Houk, taking advantage of the rule which permits addition of three players to bring the squad to 28, obviously chose two left-handed hitters because of the Nationals' deficiency in the southpaw hitting department. National League Manager Fred Hutchinson, who will add three players to his squad Thursday, thus far has only two southpaws — Warren Spahn and Sandy Kousser. The latter is expected to be dropped from the squad because of a hand injury which currently has him on the sidelines.

Keg Teams Settle Score on City Softball Diamond

Two bowling establishments, won over Motor Car, 9-5. At Beaudette, Oakland Automotive defeated Harry's 12-7 and Langdon's won over Dixie Tool, 12-6, in International League games.

UAW No. 584 defeated Pontiac Police, 14-1; and Arco Realty won over Hi-Way, 4-1 in American League games.

The 300 team was behind 11-4 going into the 6th inning. Led by Don Quackenbush's four hits, Ralph Alice's three hits, the winner put across 10 runs in the last two innings. How's got 12 runs on 16 hits and 200 hits had 13 hits. Fred Milliron had 4-for-5 for How's.

U. S. Girls to Be Set for '64 Says Champ

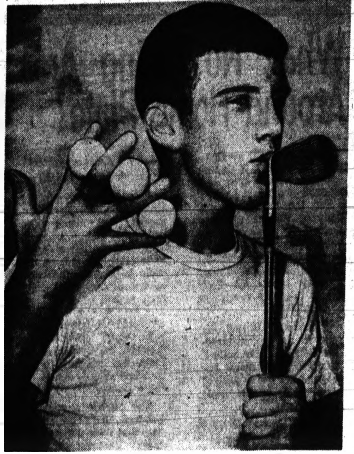

CLEVELAND (AP) — A 20-year-old Cleveland girl, who may be the fastest female runner in the world at 200 meters, says Russia's advantage in women's track will be wiped out by the Olympic year of 1964.

The surprising prediction comes from Vivian Brown, a junior at Tennessee State, who over the weekend upset Russian champion Maria Iktina in the big meet at Palo Alto, Calif.

"In 1964 we'll be ready to beat the Russian girls," Vivian said Tuesday on returning from California. "We're sincere workers. It takes intestinal fortitude and we're beginning to show we have it."

"We have girls 14 and 15 already giving us a lot of competition. There's a 14-year-old girl from the coast named Tammy Davis, who can do the 80-meter hurdles in 11.2. In two years she'll be down to the 10s."

Miss Brown, who comes from a family of 14 children, earned a grant-in-aid scholarship to Tennessee State after a three-week test demanded by track coach Ed Temple in 1960.

QUITE A DAY — John Quinlan, 15, of Turtle Creek, Pa., plants a kiss on an iron and displays three golf balls symbolic of three aces in one day at the Pinehurst Golf Club near Pittsburgh.

Say, Let's All Read Those Golf Books

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Fifteen-year-old John Quinlan, who says he learned to play golf by reading books, wrote a record of his own at the Pinehurst Golf Course recently — three holes in one on the same course on the same day, two of them on consecutive holes.

Here's how it went on the par-61 course, which has 11 par 3 holes:

Quinlan knocked his 8 iron too short into the hole on the 129-yard 13th.

He scored a second ace on the 145-yard 14th, with a 6 iron.

On his second round, he aced the 15th again.

The youngster had 65 and 65 for the two rounds.

'Old' Deer Problem Before Commission

By ART UNDERWOOD
LANSING (UPI) — Deer trouble is on the horizon again.

The Conservation Department has announced that it will ask the commission at the August meeting for an increased antlerless deer kill this year in the interest of herd management.

The proposed killing of fawns and does will, in all likelihood again touch off a wave of screaming, wailing and gnashing of teeth on the part of protectionists.

The legislature may be in session as a result of the appointment battle, and the deer question could again come up there as a diversion from the game of "neat, neat, who gets a seat?"

Without going into numbers the deer problem goes something like this:

Some years ago the Conservation Commission was given control over the deer herd in Michigan in the interest of better game management.

HERD MANAGEMENT

An integrated management program designed to keep herd levels consistent with the amount of food available was worked out by game experts. Part of the program was a determination that it was desirable to kill does as well as antlered deer to keep the size of the herd under control.

The desire to keep herd numbers within certain limits has been basic reason behind it — winter starvation and crop damage.

A given number of acres can support only a fixed number of deer depending on the kind of cover on the land, according to the experts.

At the desirable level of deer feeding on orchards and farm crops but these will not be serious because deer prefer natural browse where they don't have to expose themselves.

This brings us really around to the people who cry the loudest about antlerless kills destroying the herd.

They want to be able to see deer in the fields. They want deer herds visible to the tourists fleeing down highways. They want the deer to stop, and presumably spend money.

Some hunters join the chorus because they want to score every time they walk into the woods.

These people put on the pressure and the commission, being a basically political body, reacts by overruling the experts and ordering bucks — only seasons.

NUMBER INCREASES

The herds build up, a severe winter kills the state and the thickets pile up with the bodies of deer. Game men find it difficult to understand why people would rather have deer starve than provide sport and food.

Lamprey Battle Faces Crisis

The dedicated group of men battling the sea lamprey in the Great Lakes has entered a period of crisis.

Last week James W. Moffet, chief of the Great Lakes Fish and Wildlife Service, went before a House appropriations subcommittee to perform the annual ritual of requesting funds.

Moffet told the congressmen that although the anti-lamprey campaign has cost more than $7 million during the 11 years it has been under way, the end is not yet in sight.

Almost as Moffet was speaking, a widely circulated national news magazine hit the streets with a story which presented the idea that the end was in sight, the era of the lamprey ended.

The magazine story was apparently pegged on a report that the lamprey had been dealt a death blow by development of a selective poison and the use of this poison in treating breeding streams.

The poison, combined with the use of electric wires at the mouth of spawning streams, has cut deeply in to lamprey populations.

As Moffet pointed out, however, biologists have universally come to the conclusion that the lamprey will never be completely eradicated in the Great Lakes. The area is too vast and the foe too tough.

The sea lamprey is only one of five kinds of lamprey found in the area. The electric lamprey is also a parasitic variety but has caused less trouble.

Formula Proposed for Land Payments

WASHINGTON — Officials of the Fish and Wildlife Service proposed today a different formula for paying counties in which federal refuges are located.

Daniel H. Janzen, director of the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, told a House merchant marine subcommittee the proposed formula would provide such counties with an annual return of about three-fourths of one per cent of the cost of acquiring land for refuges.

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., is considering various proposals for reimbursing counties for land taken off tax rolls.

The service has begun a program of acquiring an additional 4 1/2 million acres of wetlands in order to preserve historic breeding grounds for ducks and other wild fowl. Much of this land would be acquired in North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota.

McMahon Is New Coach of Chicago Zephyrs

CHICAGO — Jack McMahon, who has worked both sides of pro basketball's fence, became new coach of the Chicago Zephyrs of the National Basketball Association today with this promise:

"I've never been with a team and I don't intend to have one in Chicago." He has a two-season contract.

The 32-year-old McMahon comes to the one-season old Chicago NBA club after leading the Kansas City Scouts to the best record, 58-28, last winter as the American Basketball League made its debut.

Cowboys Turn Airdales in Grid Camp Practice

MARQUETTE, Mich. (UPI) — Dallas Cowboys coach Tom Landry sent his players through a pass-protection drill at full speed Tuesday.

The National Football League worked on heavy hitting in the morning and then in shoulder pads and helmets for a lighter afternoon session.

AGE, BATTLE — Despite their size, the St. Bernard is all of five and a half. The 180-pound hefty and the pound and a half pug-squarers were in a 'Kids' Dog show in Palisades, N.Y.

Flame Wins Mackinac Race

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP) — Flame, a 40-foot cutter owned by James Doane of Chicago, was declared the over-all first division winner Tuesday in the 333-mile Chicago-to-Mackinac yacht race.

Flame finished first in the fourth section of the division with an elapsed time of 63 hours 47 minutes and 51 seconds and a corrected time of 53:14.06.

Gypsy, a 53-foot cutter owned by Charley Kotovic of Milwaukee, was runner-up in the division, finishing first in the sixth section with an elapsed time of 58:49.20 and corrected with 54:30.59.

Second division honors went to Sixth Girl of Chicago's Columbia Yacht Club, which led the division's first section with an elapsed time of 70:53.58 and a corrected time of 56:22.46.

Gypsy won the trophy for the best corrected time total of the Chicago-to-Mackinac race and last week's Port Huron-to-Mackinac race.

State Seeking Funds in P-R Court Battle

LANSING (UPI) — Further attempts will be made to get a release of $400,000 in federal funds withheld under a contested allotment regulation, state conservation director Gerald Eddy said today.

The fight is the state's claim for the Pittman-Robertson allotments started three years ago.

Eddy said he would ask for the law to be considered by the full U. S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia. A panel of three federal judges recently split in a decision on whether Michigan and three other states were entitled to additional funds.

The battle over allotments resulted from a federal ruling that the funds should be distributed on the basis of the number of persons holding hunting or fishing licenses. Officials from Michigan, Wisconsin, Colorado and Minnesota contend the allotments should be based on the total number of licenses sold because in these states an individual can hold several hunting licenses.

Judge Orders Cleanup Task as Sentence

In Red Wing, Minn. there lives a man who, as might well think, never leaves his house anything out of the window of his car. This is the story.

The fellow, apparently three from Red Wing to Elsworth about four times a week, a distance of about thirty miles. During the trip, he was in the habit of drinking beer and throwing the empty cans out on the highway.

Apprehended and brought to trial, he pleaded guilty to two counts involved in the case. He paid a fine of $100 for possession of beer in a moving car and $25 for depositing debris on a public highway.

Then the judge went a step further. He ordered the man to pick up beer cans and other debris from both sides of U.S. Highway 10 for a distance of 1 1/2 miles. Also, the judge ordered that when he had completed his cleanup chore satisfactorily, 37 1/2 of the fine would be refunded.

Clem Labine will be wearing No. 28 with the New York Mets this season. The relief pitcher wore No. 41 with the Dodgers.

Seeded Players Win, but Seixas Is Upset

HAVESFORD, Pa. (UPI) — Seeded Whitney Reed, No. 1 ranked player in the U.S. States, and national junior champion Charles Seixas headed today's third round of men's singles in the Pennsylvania Lawn Tennis championships.

Al advanced as expected yesterday but a big upset came when Ned Neely of Atlanta, Ga., defeated Reed in the third round. Seixas, former U.S. and Wimbledon champion and Davis Cup star, had won the Pennsylvania championship seven times since 1946.

Reed's loss was a surprise. He received this money and during fall and early spring months (the total is usually double the May figure).

Take 'Mental Knapsack' on Camping Trip

Each spring, long before the snows are off the ground, then away from the chores of child-rearing and dad, a rabid fisherman, was going to whip the local waters to a froth. Yet, two hours after they arrived their tent was down, the car re-packed, and they were headed non-stop back to Ohio — mom had accidentally packed their seven-year-old's tackle box in place of deer.

When the time comes to look the front door for the fifth time — four last-time trips inside having been made to turn off the water heater, check the stove burners, write a note to the milk man, and to transfer the note to the talkman from the kitchen table to the back porch — most families will have all of the equipment necessary for an enjoyable camping trip stowed away in their car.

From observations made through the years, it is apparent that the one piece of equipment which is most neglected is also the one which provides the most enjoyment on any camping trip. Before rushing out of the driveway, let's run through the items in your "mental knapsack" and check them off to make certain we haven't forgotten any of the essentials:

SENSE OF HUMOR — Several years ago a couple registered for four days in Fort Wilkins state park campground — mom was looking forward to a few days neighbor — chances are he will can't be done. Sit tight, and the odds are in your favor that the weather will break by tomorrow.

WITSABOUTYOU — There is nothing that can dull the fun of a camping trip as quickly or permanently as misplacing or losing a good wristwatch, an expensive camera, or a valuable tool and reel.

It takes so little time to check your watch or glasses with another member of the family before using the shower... or, if beachcombing, fishing or swimming, keep all of your valuables locked in the car for safekeeping — car keys accepted, as they cannot be classified as valuable items inside a locked car.

INTEREST — Too many vacationers arrive in a campground with a closed mind towards any type of recreation other than their present interests. If they are fishermen, and the trout are on strike, the whole trip is a fizzle as far as they are concerned... and one unhappy camper can quickly sour things for the entire party.

OPTIMISM — Fortunately, most of the rains along the Great Lakes are of a short duration, so don't get panicky from the first down-pour and break camp with the idea of "getting away" from the rain. If

Businessman-in-Politics Idea Is Taking Root in Nation

EDITOR'S NOTE — The clash between President Kennedy and Big Steel raised questions whether businessmen should take a more active role in politics. This first of three articles tells of the new "businessman-in-politics" movement.

By ROGER LANE

AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK — Across the land, the idea is taking root in the business community that the businessman belongs in politics from the precinct level on up.

It is not a brand new idea, but a conviction seems to be growing in some sectors that the businessman has held too aloof too long, mistakenly feeling he hasn't the time or, as a Ford Motor Co. executive put it, that "politics are sordid and a little dirty."

WONDERING ALOUD

Some prominent industrialists are also wondering aloud if past aloofness on their part isn't a basic cause of what they believe is a misunderstanding of the business community in Washington.

Thomas R. Reid, who heads the Ford Company's large citizen and government affairs program, recently chided businessmen for retreating, he said, "into a sullen, fearful silence."

"It is rather for them to be active and articulate in working for the kind of government under which our free enterprise system can grow and prosper," he said.

In a reversal of old positions, more than 250 business corporations, including some of the biggest, are systematically spurring management personnel to wade into politics, and run for office soon.

GROWTH PREDICTED

There are predictions of great growth of the businessman-in-politics movement despite some doubt within the business community itself of methods used or goals to be achieved.

In historical sense businessmen have always been active in American political life from the time of the founding fathers.

The latest businessman-in-politics movement was given fresh impetus by the government-Big Steel clash over a price hike last April; the resultant debate over business-government relations; and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's call for businessmen "to get into politics—and quick."

Some companies, even before these recent events, started political education activities programs stressing free enterprise economics and some of the evils of socialism and communism just as unions dwell on welfare and civil rights questions.

'TOO MANY LIBERALS'

Explaining the origins of his firm's activities in this field, Thomas B. Bartel, a vice president of Quaker Oats Co., said:

"We just got to thinking there are too many free-thinking liberals in both parties and that we need to get back to encouraging principles of conservatism."

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce reports that in the last 3½ years possibly 300,000 persons, mostly businessmen, have taken its "Action Course in Practical Politics" in 1,700 communities.

A leading force in the businessman-in-politics movement is a small non-profit agency backed by the General Electric Co., Standard Oil of Indiana and many other firms of similar stature. Its purpose: "To arouse the business community from its inertia."

HEADED BY HOOVER

Called the Effective Citizens Organization, its advisory council is headed by former President Herbert Hoover. On its council are Henry Ford II, James A. Farley, George M. Humphrey, secretary of the Treasury under Eisenhower and Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston.

The citizens group urges the generals of finance and industry and their lieutenants to get out after office hours and join the political troops, as foot soldiers, if need be.

The result, the organization argues, will be an infusion of new and talented blood into both the Republican and Democratic party ranks of doorbell ringers and office holders, with benefits to the nation's public life—and indirectly to the business community.

Some conservative Republican corporation holds the aim as "restoring the balance" in federal executive and legislative policy shaping, which they say is labor and liberal dominated.

RECENT EXPRESSION

One recent expression of the businessman's acceptance of his role in politics was the choice of Syracuse industrialist David H. Jaquith as Conservative party nominee for governor of New York.

Said Jaquith: "I am taking President Eisenhower's words to heart."

Jaquith, a follower of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., reflected widespread sentiment in business in calling for "less government instead of more" and urging an end to the "liberal stranglehold over both political parties in New York."

He said it would take a miracle to win over Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and the Democratic nominees, not yet chosen, but felt that by running he could codes that to numbers it is still steer the Republican party "small potatoes."

Even by optimistic reckoning scarcely five per cent of the nation's business ventures have joined in the businessman-in-politics movement. Many of these are growing cautiously, even timidly, into strange territory until recently regarded as "off limits."

In a very real way, of course, some corporations always have been hip-deep in politics—going back to the days of the railroad and utility barons, exerting influence through lobbying, trade associations and individual contributions to candidates.

It's the coming out from behind the scenes that is new.

Farley, 75, directed the Democratic party machinery in the heyday of the New Deal. Now he heads Coca-Cola Export Corp., a business empire sprawling into 114 countries.

Hot Mama Defends Brood-to-Be

Refuses to Duck Out

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

After almost suffocating in a barn fire while trying to save her future babies yesterday, Mrs. Mallard Duck is a very frustrated and disconsolate bird as she mopes around the yard today.

Yesterday, all was peace and quiet as the duck sat on 14 precious eggs that had taken 14 long days to produce. Her big self-made nest in the Hayes Feed and Pet Supply Co., at 5523 Orchard Lake Ave., in Sylvan Lake, was warm and comfortable. Suddenly the quiet of the little barn was shattered by the crackling of burning wood and hot smoke poured through the area like thick smog, choking off air and sunlight.

Now, Mrs. Duck had no idea of leaving that nest regardless of what happened.

So she sat and tucked her head under her wing which acted as a screen against the smoke, and breathed deeply.

She disregarded the squawking of 140 baby chickens around her who were not so fortunate and eventually suffocated from the smoke.

Outside, the howl of fire sirens, the chatter of people running to a fire and eventually the swishing of water through big hoses filled the air. Mrs. Duck just sat and "ducked" the whole thing.

CARRIED ON
A West Bloomfield Township fireman, Frank Dickie, gently carried the bird out of the barn.

Mrs. Duck was no sooner outside than she wheeled around, flapped her wings and went tearing back into the burning building.

She settled down and once again showed her head down under her wing.

Finally Dickie and several buddies picked up the defenseless mother-nest and all— and carefully set them outside again.

"This was just too much!" The excitement and invasion of the duck's privacy ruined by motherhood must and she sat back from the whole thing.

Today the nest and all of the big white eggs in cold cold water in another small shed on the farm soon property and Mrs. Mallard Duck wonders if it was all worth the effort.

Impeachment Threat Raised Against Court

Grand Rapids Senator Challenges Decision by State Bench

LANSING (AP)—Some Republicans angered by a Michigan Supreme Court order to reappoint the State Senate on a population-only basis still are raising threats of impeachment proceedings in the legislature.

The latest came in the Senate yesterday from Sen. Charles R. Feenstra, R-Grand Rapids, in his speech challenging the court's decision as one "against the people."

If necessary to avoid reapportionment, he said, the court's 4-3 Democratic majority, Feenstra said, he would favor impeachment proceedings. The court set an Aug. 12 deadline for legislative action.

Before the court ruled on the reappointment suit brought by Attorney General George A. Omer, the Michigan Supreme Court, state AFL-CIO president, Rep. Allison Green, a Kingston Republican and House minority leader, suggested impeachment of the justices struck down a constitutional amendment restricting amendment adopted by voters in 1962.

The Senate, which would judge-and-jury in an impeachment, has the necessary two-thirds Republican majority to kick out the four Democratic justices who ordered reapportionment. (The GOP holds a 25-10 margin in the Senate in the case of a vacancy.)

In the House of Representatives, Republicans hold a 50-51 margin, and it is the house which first would have to vote impeachment before there could be any Senate action.

While a House majority could not impeach without it, it would take a two-thirds Senate vote for removal from office. But once the House voted impeachment, the justices would be suspended pending Senate trial.

One big question facing angering is this: Could they find a charge?

The constitution provides in Article IX.

As Berlin Talks Wind Up

Rusk, Gromyko Still Tied

GENEVA (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko are still tied in their talks without any significant peace treaty with Communist East Germany and turn over to East Germany the control of Berlin's supply routes from West Germany.

Rusk arranged to fly back to Washington this evening. Gromyko is leaving for Moscow Thursday.

Soviet-American contacts on Berlin are to be resumed later in Washington.

Rusk and Gromyko had three long sessions, largely devoted to Berlin, in the past five days. Informed sources said the two discussed the Berlin problem in a spirit of mutual understanding of the issues faced by both sides.

The sources said there was recognition on both sides that the Berlin problem remains one of great seriousness. Nothing happened during the Geneva talks, they said, to aggravate it or create a new crisis.

Regular delegates of the Soviet Union and the United States carried on in the Berlin disarmament conference today a debate on disarmament that one diplomat technically couldn't appeal it until after the jury had handed down its decision in the case.

"Certainly, I plan to take this as high a court as I can until I find a law that says it's legal for a city to take property from one man and give it to another," he added. "But we'll have to wait and see what the jury's verdict is first."

Cooney's motion asked the judge to direct the jury to decide that Pontiac has "no necessity" to take the disputed property. The motion had been under study since July 13.

The motion was based partly on Cooney's charge that it is a violation of general law for a government to condemn private property for resale to private individuals.

Judge Beer, in his decision, held that "the urban renewal process here involved on this record is for a public purpose."

The action grew out of a $1 million threat and stander suit against the two brought by Rick and Durant, a leader of Wayne County Republican conservatives.

Wayne County Circuit Judge Judge Wayne County said Feenstra could avoid paying a $50 fine if he appeared next Tuesday to give a deposition in Durant's lawsuit.

The defendants had failed to appear as ordered to give a deposition July 10.

GOP Members of Legislature Hold Caucuses

Republicans Waiting for Answer on Move to Stay Court Ruling

LANSING (AP)—Gov. John B. Swainson goes before a joint session of the Legislature today to discuss the State Supreme Court appointment decision.

"Let us hope the governor's message provides a better explanation of his thoughts on this vital matter than his recent state-wide television appearance," Sen. Carlton H. Morris, R-Kalamazoo, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said.

A Senate Republican caucus was called for this morning.

Senate Democrats met following yesterday's session. The Senate set a 2 p.m. session today, but House members were called in at 10 a.m., primarily for a GOP caucus.

Meanwhile, unaffiliated Republican senators hoped to get federal approval to maintain the status quo and block the State Supreme Court, order directing reapportionment of the Senate.

Three GOP lawmakers asked the U.S. Supreme Court yesterday to delay the state court's 4-3 ruling that Senate Republicans must be reapportioned on a population basis by Aug. 30.

SENATE HEARING
Justice Potter Stewart, assigned to handle emergency cases from promptly while the high court is in summer recess, scheduled a hearing Friday at Littleton, N.H., for oral arguments.

Swainson is expected to tell the legislature that he will accept nothing less than a plan based on reapportionment on a population basis.

The governor indicated last week that he would reject outright the constitutional convention's proposed formula for a Senate weighted 80 per cent for population and 20 per cent for area. But he declined to come up with a specific plan of his own.

Swainson told newsmen yesterday.

Consider Recess Till Court Ruling

Legislators Awaiting Verdict on Delay of Reshuffling Deadline

The state legislature may recess today until early next week to await a federal judge's ruling on delaying the Senate reapportionment deadline, according to State Sen. Everett E. Roberts, R-Oakland.

"We can't do much until we know what the ground rules are," Roberts explained this morning.

Oral hearing are set for Friday before U.S. Supreme Court Justice Potter Stewart on delaying the Senate reapportionment deadline, Roberts said.

A decision is expected Monday on Tuesday, he added.

The Senate Judiciary Committee is to start hearings Tuesday on a bill plan to place before the voters on Nov. 6 a GOP proposal covering around the constitutional convention's 80 per cent population and 20 per cent area plan backed by George W. Romney, candidate for governor.

Meanwhile, two bills to slow reapportionment delays to await Monday are waiting in committee for the results of the federal appeal.

If the delay is denied by Justice Stewart, says Roberts, the Senate can start early next week on alternative proposals to reconstitute the Senate.

Both Democrats and Republicans were scheduled to caucus this morning, Roberts said.

Pontiac Cracks 'Hoffa Doesn't Care Another Record if Teamsters Robbed'

Biggest Increase Over 1961 in Auto Industry Reached by Division

Pontiac Motor Division sales this year show the greatest increase over 1961 in the automobile industry.

Frank V. Bridge, the division's general sales manager, said 50.9 per cent more Pontiacs and Tempests have been sold this year than in the same period of 1961.

Pontiac sales were third last in the auto industry for the entire 12 months of last year. The third-place finish was the best in the division's history.

A total of 30,961 Pontiac Motor Division cars have been sold this year, Bridge said.

In the second quarter of the year Pontiac sold 123,410 cars, the top second quarter sales figure in the division's history, Bridge said. It surpassed a record set in 1953.

Bridge also pointed out that Pontiac dealers delivered 13,577 cars in the July 10-20 sales period, a 56 per cent increase over the 8,904 units sold in the same period a year ago.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate rackets subcommittee today harshly condemned Teamsters President James R. Hoffa as a man who doesn't care whether union racketeers rob or steal members' money.

The subcommittee concluded in a formal report to the Senate that Hoffa defiantly refused to cleanse Teamsters locals of criminal elements and brazenly ignored the welfare of his 1.6 million members.

Investigators found further that Hoffa used every available means to thwart clean-up campaigns by court-appointed monitors. Hoffa even rewarded tainted local officials by promoting them to jobs high in the International Union, they said.

Heatings on which the subcommittee's report and findings were based were held in January 1961.

Chairman John L. McClellan, D-N.J., explained that issuance of the report was delayed until after the trial for bribery of an anti-trust lawyer (Tommy Dunne) by former New York Teamsters leader and "one of the most powerful underworld figures in the New York area."

Corrallo was convicted last month. McClellan's subcommittee charged that New York Local 2520 continued as part of Corrallo's racket empire after his sham resignation as vice president in 1958.

It said Hoffa not only knew of but acquiesced in Corrallo's continued behind-the-scenes control.

"REPLACEMENTS"
Immediately after resigning, the subcommittee said, Corrallo placed on the union payroll two criminal lieutenants who collected salaries exactly equal to his.

Pontiac area residents will have a chance to paint the house on poor concrete Thursday through Saturday as the weatherman predicts no rain before Sunday or Monday.

A crane grabs part of the roof and drops it to the ground as the courthouse quietly awaits a similar fate in the background. A few blocks away, the city's

Bella Claims He's Now in Power

Rides Into City to Cheers; Cites Algerian Victory

ALGIER (UPI) — Troops supporting dissident Vice Premier Ahmed Ben Bella today were reported fighting to capture the Eastern Algerian city of Constantine.

ALGIER (AP) — Dissident Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella rode into Tiziaret today with a show of military might and told cheering crowds that he and his supporters have taken over power in Algeria.

Ben Bella brought with him three other members of the seven-man National Liberation Front's political bureau that expects to run the country.

He declared in a brief speech that he and other members of the political bureau "have given ourselves authority."

The radical deputy premier who won out in a power struggle with moderate Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda, pledged: "The country is going to realize an era of peace, prosperity and fraternity. I want to make this clear to everyone, including Europeans."

Ben Khedda, who favors closer ties with France than Ben Bella wants, yielded to the political bureau in face of threats of arrest. He fled to the army-backed left flank.

MAY BE PREMIER

Ben Bella is expected to be named chairman of the political bureau and possibly take on the premiership as well.

Col. Houari Boumedienne, chief of the Algerian army who was fired from Ben Khedda, traveled with Ben Bella to Tiziaret.

A cannon saluted their arrival and then Ben Bella reviewed a military parade that included heavy mobile weapons. The parade included U.S., Czech, Yugoslav and Italian equipment.

Ben Bella's imminent takeover of power raised the prospect of strife in the newly independent nation with reports of mounting restlessness among Berber tribesmen.

Rivalry between Algeria's Arabs and the Berber minority has been long-standing and the tribesmen particularly hate Ben Bella.

Deputy Premier Belkacem Krim, who backed Ben Khedda in the power struggle, went to his native Kabyl Mountains in an effort to quiet the Berbers in the interest of national unity.

shall have the solid power of impeaching civil officers for corrupt conduct in office, or for crimes of misdemeanors."

These are the only bases for impeachment.

Could four Democrats be charged with corruption because they ruled differently than their Republican counterparts when ordered by the U.S. Supreme Court to determine whether the 1952 amendment to the 14th Equal Protection Amendment was in the U.S. Constitution?

WAS IN A CRIME

Was the order a crime or a misdemeanor?

Sen. Feinstein told a newsman after his speech he believes there has been "a misinterpretation of justice" and that this would constitute "malfeasance."

(Webster's dictionary describes malfeasance as:

"Doing an act which a person ought not to do; evil conduct; an illegal deed.")

Feinstein said if the court is going to take over the will and voice of the people in this (treaty portion) fashion, it would warrant impeachment."

He conceded, however, he had not seriously discussed impeachment with fellow senators, but said he had talked it over "with my people who want to know how to get things done."

He also said he would request reappointment according to popular opinion out of there."

Solons Awaiting Swainson Speech day that he thought the chances were very good that the legislature would come up with a re-appointment plan acceptable to the State Supreme Court.

The legislature could complete the job in quick order, he said, observing that when lawmakers decided to raise their own pay they "did it in five minutes."

Morris led off a two-hour flood of oratory in the Senate yesterday as lawmakers sat behind their desks for the first time since the court action July 18.

TO HANDLE BILLS

He told senators his committee would handle any appointment bills the legislature devises to comply with the court ruling.

The address, spiced with attacks on State AFL-CIO President August Scholle, the man responsible for the suit which resulted in the court action, opened the floodgates.

Republicans, stung by the court's decision that the Senate is illegal, suggested impeachment proceedings, a collapse of the executive branch and imminent chaos.

Democrats countered by suggesting that July 18 be made a state holiday and telling the majority that "if you had treated the people right you wouldn't have this problem today."

"Are we going to stand here for two weeks and accuse each other or sit down here with level heads and work this out?" Sen. Stanley Novak D-Detroit, said.

The request for a stay of the state court decision was filed in Washington by Republican Sen. John Fitzgerald of Grand Lodge, Frank Beale of St. Clair, and Paul Younger of Lansing, plus two other qualified voters as intervening defendants in the case.

They urged the federal court to "preserve the status quo and to prevent irreparable injury" pending a ruling on an appeal.

The Michigan Court order was described as containing "utterly unreasonable remedial provisions." The senators said chaotic results were bound to follow unless the day was granted.

In an answering brief, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said that the defendants, in requesting a stay, were asking the court to improve "a prerogative for an Aug. 7 Senate primary if the stay is granted."

"Should this court grant a stay of proceedings and subsequently object intervening defendants' appeal on the merits, the State of Michigan will be without a valid Senate."

His passenger, William C. Smith, Jr., 31, of Woodward, is being held for investigation of the theft of the automobile.

Eleven police cars took part in the chase that started in Bloomfield Hills about 2:30 a.m. and ended there less than a half-hour.

LANSING (AP) — County clerks have been ordered to prepare for any eventuality in the Aug. 7 primary election.

Although the State Supreme Court has canceled the primary for the State Senate only, the state elections division noted this has been appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court with a request for a stay order.

Robert M. Montgomery, director of elections, ordered county clerks to be ready for an Aug. 7 Senate primary if the stay is granted.

All paper ballots should be printed as originally planned, Montgomery said, with the Senate candidates included. If a stay is not granted, a sticker can be gummed over the Senate office to block it out.

Absentee ballots also will be sent out with the Senate race included. The Senate voters simply will not be counted if no stay is granted.

Leaders Eye Possible Stop of Mass Protests in Georgia Incident

ALBANY, Ga., (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. announced today "Day of Atonement" because of violence after a marching demonstration by Negroes, backed by a federal court ruling.

ALBANY, Ga., (AP) — Negro leaders weighed today a possible suspension of mass racial demonstrations after violence climaxed a protest march in this uneasy southern Georgia city.

The ripple of violence, in which two officers received minor injuries, came Tuesday night just a few hours after a federal judge's action cleared the way for Negroes to renew their anti-segregation activities.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., an Albany, integration leader who preaches nonviolence and passive resistance in the Negro's fight for equality, termed the incident regrettable. He said he would halt demonstrations temporarily if he feels Albany Negroes cannot stick to a strict nonviolent campaign.

The trouble developed when 470 officers moved into the Negro section to disperse about 2,000 Negroes in the vicinity of a bus terminal.

State trooper Claude Hill of Tifton was struck by a rock, bruised his face and knocking out a tooth. Bottles and rocks rained onto the pavement as two lines of officers broke up milling crowds of Negroes.

The minutes flew in 20 Negroes and one white man marched from a church to the downtown area and were jailed for parading without a permit. Several hundred officers started the march but most dropped out before reaching the area where police had warned demonstrators would be arrested.

Police Chief Laurie Pritchett said, "There was no violence on our part—the officers never took their night sticks from their belts."

IONIA (UPI) — John Nelson II, 21, Birmingham, walked away from Ionia State Hospital late yesterday afternoon.

Nelson, a trusty with the dairy farm crew, was discovered missing about 4 p.m.

He was committed to the hospital by the Oakland County Circuit Court after being charged with breaking and entering during the night time.

He was determined to get an education.

RISBEE, Ariz. — Sobha Dass Nelson, 37, of Risbee, was determined to get a degree from the University of Arizona.

Nelson worked a regular 40-hour week at a Risbee copper mine, then made a 200-mile daily round trip to Tucson for classes. On school days he averaged no more than four hours of sleep.

Nelson said he used 5,000 gallons of gasoline and drove 80,000 miles in the two years he needed to complete his college work.

LANSING (AP) — County clerks have been ordered to prepare for any eventuality in the Aug. 7 primary election.

Although the State Supreme Court has canceled the primary for the State Senate only, the state elections division noted this has been appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court with a request for a stay order.

Robert M. Montgomery, director of elections, ordered county clerks to be ready for an Aug. 7 Senate primary if the stay is granted.

All paper ballots should be printed as originally planned, Montgomery said, with the Senate candidates included. If a stay is not granted, a sticker can be gummed over the Senate office to block it out.

Absentee ballots also will be sent out with the Senate race included. The Senate voters simply will not be counted if no stay is granted.

Financier's Dealings With Agriculture Dept. Hit on Two Fronts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman John A. McClellan of the Senate Investigations Subcommittee said today that "a new session" government action in cases like that of Billie Sol Estes causes people to wonder what goes on in the Agriculture Department.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate and House investigators today attacked Billie Sol Estes' business dealings with the Agriculture Department on two fronts.

For the first time since their inquiries began, the Senate Investigations Subcommittee and a House Government Operations panel planned to hold simultaneous hearings on the Estes case.

The House Subcommittee pushed further into Estes' grain storage operations. It called E. E. Turner, an investigator in the Dallas suboffice of the Agricultural Marketing Service, to testify.

The Senate group sought information on how Estes engineered transfer of cotton allotments to his West Texas farmlands under sales contracts which the Agriculture Department calls illegal.

Twisted and John Spaul, were in fact nothing more than "dummies" who siphoned tens of thousands of dollars from the union treasury, the subcommittee charged.

Hoffa earlier accused as well as in earlier scheme by Corallo to restore convicted extortionist Sam Goldstein to the local's presidency six months after his jail term, the investigators said. Goldstein collected his full salary during part of his term in the penitentiary, they added.

The subcommittee recalled that Bernard Stein, Local 235's secretary-treasurer, attributed to Hoffa the statement that he didn't care whether officers of the local robbed, stole or stole from the table as long as they weren't caught.

Hoffa's sworn denial that he ever said such a thing is unimportant, the senators said. They explained: This subcommittee by force of the overwhelming evidence must conclude that Hoffa, in callous disregard of the welfare of the Teamster membership, in fact does not care whether officers off any segment of the Teamsters Union are robbing, stealing, dealing under the table, or indulging in any other improper or criminal activity."

Plan Study on Smoking, Air Pollution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Plans for a broad scientific study of the impact of smoking and air pollution on health were announced today by Surgeon General Luther L. Terry of the Public Health Service.

A conference of representatives of several federal agencies, medical groups and the tobacco industry decided yesterday a 12 member committee of scientists should be named to conduct the study.

The study is expected to start in mid-September. The first phase, limited to defining the nature and magnitude of the health hazard, will take about six months. How to proceed with the second phase, preparation of recommendations for action—will be decided when the first phase is completed.

Terry said the study will be conducted not only with tobacco, but all other factors which may be involved, including automobile exhaust and air pollution.

Putt Towards Top of Hole on Slant

By SANDRA HAYNIE

Written for NEA

Here are a few putting tips I have found useful. If you are inside, watch the others putt and study how they roll. You can learn a great deal this way.

If your partner puts ahead of you, she may be able to give you some sound advice, although I believe you should do your own reading of the greens.

At the high side of the cup on a green that slants where the hole is.

If you come up to the hole on the high side, there is a chance the ball may drop in even if you are a bit off line.

If you watch the professional, you will notice they almost always shoot to the high side.

The amateur usually will shoot to the down side. That's why we refer to the high and low sides of the cup as the pro and amateur sides.

Coarse grass tends to make the ball jump and deflect from its straight course.

On short putts, the ball will be traveling slower and roughness and bumps will have greater effect than they will on a faster-traveling long putt.

Playing during, or after, a rain, it is well to remember the casual water rule.

Casual water is defined as "any temporary accumulation of water, which is visible before or after the player takes his stance and is not a hazard in itself or is not in a water hazard."

Snow and ice are casual water, unless a local rule says otherwise.

A ball in casual water may be lifted and dropped without penalty as near as possible to the spot where it lay, but not nearer the hole.

One thing always remember in putting is that distance is more important than direction. The old saw "Never up, never in" is still good.

NEXT: Off-green putts.

Cleaning Aid for Draperies

Such draperies often, so dirt and dinginess can't get a "toehold" on the fibers. Remove them from an automatic washer or before the spin cycle, so wrinkles don't get "pressed in."

Iron, if necessary, before the fabric has fully dried—but only enough to smooth it out. Hang still slightly damp, stretch seams and edges, and finish drying on the rods.

Wash More Now

Novices may wonder how tiny infants can accumulate such enormous amounts of laundry. But new mothers quickly discover that even dried shirts and socks and diapers pile up rapidly—not to mention sheets and towels and receiving blankets.

That's one reason why many prospective parents give top priority to new laundry equipment as they plan pre-baby purchases.

Bring Food to Weekend Hostess?

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: I have a friend who owns a summer cottage. Her friends are always welcome to go there. Last weekend another friend and I were asked to go and I took a canned ham to the hostess which I thought she could serve over the weekend.

My friend said that it was an insult to take food to one's hostess. She said that when the owner of the cottage visits us she does not supply the food. I would not think of taking food to this friend's house here in the city but I think a summer cottage is quite different as she has many visitors and it is not fair to her to supply all this extra food.

I think we are fortunate to have a friend with a cottage to which we can go and the least we can do is to supply some of the food. What is your opinion?

A: You should not take fresh food that would have to be eaten over the weekend as this might easily upset the menus planned by your hostess, but it would surely be welcomed if you wished to bring a canned or smoked ham, a delicacy not to be found in the country store, candy, or, perhaps, a bottle of wine.

Q: In my capacity as secretary, I have to make many business calls for my employer. When announcing myself, do I say, "This is Miss Doe, Mr. Brown's secretary," or do I say, "This is Miss Doe, Mr. Brown's secretary."

Would it make a difference if I were calling the president of a company, or a mere clerk?

A: "This is Miss Doe, Mr. Brown's secretary" is correct no matter who you call.

Q: When requesting the orchestra leader in a hotel dining room to play "Happy Birthday" to a friend, is it necessary to give him a tip?

A: Unless the orchestra leader asks those in the dining room what they would like to hear, he should be given a tip when asked to play a special tune.

Play It Cool With Chilled Soups

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Home Editor
Time was, if you served a chilled soup, people would have thought you either a poor cook or completely out of your mind. In European countries this was not true. But now it is considered the gourmet thing to do to serve as a first course a chilled soup.

The quickest and easiest chilled soup is made by putting a can of consommé in the refrigerator for about 4 hours. Spoon the jellied soup into chilled dishes, garnish with chopped parsley or a dollop of whipped cream.

If you want to take a little more time and trouble, here are three suggestions for cold soups. One is made with canned soup, one with frozen soup and the third from the raw ingredients.

Borscht has many versions. This is probably as simple as you can get. If you like beets at all, you'll enjoy it.

Borscht
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed beef broth
1/2 cup chopped canned beets, chilled
1/2 cup cold beet juice
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated onion
Sour cream

Keep can of soup in refrigerator 5 to 4 hours. Just before serving, open soup and mix with beets, beet juice, lemon juice and onion. Serve in chilled bowls, garnish each serving with sour cream. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

Although the name Vichyssoise is apt to intimidate most people, it refers merely to a cold potato soup. How can you make it any easier than with frozen potato soup as a base? We'd like to see this soup garnished with chopped chives.

Vichyssoise With Horseradish
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) frozen condensed cream of potato soup
1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese
1 1/2 teaspoons horseradish
1 soup can water

Place unopened can of soup in pan of hot water for 30 minutes. In blender, combine soup, cheese, and horseradish. Gradually add water; beat until smooth (Strain if desired). Serve immediately in chilled bowls, or place in refrigerator until ready to serve. Makes 3 servings.

Cucumber soup will give you something to talk about from the minutes guests take the first sip. Cucumbers are rarely cooked in this country. Try this recipe when you feel real daring.

Chilled Cucumber Soup
1 cup chopped scallions or onions
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
4 cups unpeeled diced cucumbers
1/2 cups chicken stock
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon crumbled celery
1/2 teaspoon crumbled celery
1/2 teaspoon ground white pepper
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
1/2 teaspoon fresh lemon juice
3 tablespoons flour
1 cup cold water
1 cup heavy cream
Thin slices cucumber for garnish
Saute scallions or onions in butter or margarine. Add cucumbers and chicken stock. Cover through a coarse sieve. Add salt and cook until cucumbers are very soft, about 10 minutes. Put in blender. Cook for 5 minutes. Stir in cream just before serving. Serve cold, garnished with cucumber slices. Makes 6 servings.

ROCKY ROAD BROWNIES — Miniature marshmallows and melted chocolate provide a luscious, double topping on these Rocky Road Brownies. They're made with Royal Dark 'n' Sweet Chocolate Pudding for rich, chocolate flavor and easy preparation — and they're baked in a foil pan for convenience in storing and transporting to the picnic grounds.

Baked Beans Cook at Back of Grill

These baked beans are a natural for the picnic basket — the fishing or hiking trip for Dad and the kids... supper in the backyard... a picnic on the beach. Baked beans, Boston brown bread and a pot of full-bodied coffee and you have fresh air appetites well in hand.

1 pound Canadian bacon
1 cup diced onion
1 clove garlic minced
1 quart cans pork and beans
2 teaspoons Kitchen Bouquet
1/2 teaspoon marjoram
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 cup molasses
Cut Canadian bacon into 1-inch thick slices and then into large cubes. Fry in skillet over outdoor grill until brown and slightly crisp. Add onion and garlic and saute until just tender, about 5 minutes. Add beans, Kitchen Bouquet, marjoram salt and mustard. Drizzle molasses over top and mix lightly but well.

Cover and cook over low heat at back of grill about 30 minutes. Remove cover and continue cooking 15 minutes longer, stirring occasionally. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Raisin Bread Blends Well With Sandwich Fillings

These raisin bread sandwiches will stay fresh in your freezer for 2 to 3 weeks, ready for eating under the sun or stars. Spread bread with butter to the edges to prevent soginess. Take your choice of cooked or canned chicken, turkey, seafood or meats, dried beef, chivers and peanut butter fillings. Wrap well in transparent wrap or heavy waxed paper.

Brownie Frosting Rocky Road Type

Have you ever made brownies, the top of the brownies with foil and place them in the refrigerator or on a cool place until it's time to tuck them into the picnic basket.

Rocky Road Brownies
1 cup sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup corn oil margarine, melted
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
2 packages (regular size) Royal Dark 'n' Sweet Pudding
1/2 cup coarsely chopped pecans
2 cups miniature marshmallows
1 cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces

Especially appropriate for picnics, the brownies can be baked, stored and transported in the same foil pan. After cooling, just cover

Old-Fashioned Hot Salt Will Keep Food Warm

If you want to keep a barbecue sauce, potato salad or a similar dish hot during the outdoor picnic, there is one easy trick to remember: hand down from our grandfathers. Heat rock salt thoroughly in the oven and put it in a bowl.

Then set the bowl of whatever you want to keep warm inside the big bowl which has the rock salt in the bottom. Nestle it down into the hot rock salt. This will keep whatever you want in the small bowl hot from one to four hours.

Dates in Butter-Syrup

Serve an all-in-one pancake topping for breakfast. In a saucepan, melt butter; blend in maple syrup and stir in chopped fresh California dates. Serve with pancakes, French toast or waffles.

Herbs and Wine Dress a Salad

All those who like a salad dressing high in flavor but low in acid will appreciate Sherried Herb Dressing. Its foundation is cream cheese; its seasonings are Sherry and such herbs as rosemary, dill, chives and mustard. Once it is well blended, it will keep for days in the refrigerator without separating.

Sherried is produced in varying degrees of sweetness in California. The dry, or least sweet, is best for this recipe. Dry Sherry also has the one most often preferred as an appetizer-beverage. Usually it is served just slightly chilled, although these warm days, many Sherry enthusiasts are pouring over cracked ice and adding a twist of lemon.

Sherried Herb Dressing
1 (2-oz.) package cream cheese
1/2 cup California dry Sherry
1/2 teaspoon finely chopped fresh or crumbled dry rosemary
1/2 teaspoon dried dill
1 tablespoon chopped chives or green onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/2 teaspoon freshly ground pepper
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1/2 tablespoon lemon juice

Soften cheese; gradually blend in Sherry beating until mixture is smooth. Add herbs, salt, mustard, pepper, lemon juice and rind. Stir in mayonnaise and mix well. Cover and chill an hour or longer before using. Especially good on crisp lettuce wedges, or with cabbage, tomatoes or cucumbers. Makes about 1 1/2 cups.

Coat Salad Bowls for New Finish

How do you feel about washing your wooden salad bowl? Many gourmets insist the salad bowl should never be washed, only wiped dry with absorbent paper. However, most Americans prefer washing it after every use. The trouble is, grease-cutting detergents tend to remove the "seasoning" and permit wood to absorb water. This may cause the bowl to crack.

The Spanish Olive Oil Institute suggests a periodic heavy treatment for salad bowls: coat the clean dry surface lavishly with olive oil and leave it over night. If it seems dry in the morning, wood has absorbed as much oil as it will take, wipe with paper towel. The wood will have a deep lustrous color and will be impervious to water or stains.

Also good for cutting boards, wooden counter tops and other wooden kitchen ware.

Is It Ripe?

Refrigerate Picnic Food Warns Health Officer

Food poisoning can spoil many outings and vacations this summer, warned Dr. John D. Monroe, Director of the Oakland County Department of Health today. Health authorities estimate there are as many as 1,000 cases of preventable food poisoning each year in the United States. The California State Department of Health reports 100,000 cases annually in that state alone.

The most frequent cause of food poisoning is failure to keep foods properly refrigerated in warm weather, Dr. Monroe said. This applies to cooked as well as uncooked foods. Outbreaks have even resulted from placing cooked chickens in tables previously used for uncooked chickens.

For example at a large company annual picnic in Indiana during August, 1959 the lunch included baked ham sandwiches. After the ham was cooked it was allowed to remain unrefrigerated for some time before serving. At the height of the picnic about 1,000 of the picnic guests were stricken with abdominal cramps, nausea, vomiting and diarrhea. The two hospital cases.

Easy as Anything

Make Sunday brunch a meal to look forward to all week! Drain (can 1 lb.) sliced tomatoes; stir time before serving. At the height of the picnic about 1,000 of the picnic guests were stricken with abdominal cramps, nausea, vomiting and diarrhea. The two hospital cases.

New Version of Cheese Fondue A Hearty Dish

The family of fondues has two definite branches as you've probably noticed since the Swiss fondue sprang into prominence a year or so ago. Before that, fondue usually meant a soufflé-like dish, a little more stable than a true soufflé, because it contained bread crumbs or cubes. Now we have a combination of the two. Baker Swiss Fondue has the reliability of the old, the flair of the new.

This rich cheese dish should be baked in a casserole. It's not the chafing dish type. But like it's foreign relative, this one is flavored with wine. A white dinner wine such as a Sauterne or Chablis from California is an ideal choice. The same wine, well chilled, will make a very pleasant mealtime beverage. Then complete the menu with a green salad and a simple fruit dessert.

The amounts listed in the recipe below will serve three or four persons. Double, if you wish, with the assurance that any dish, as left over can be reheated satisfactorily in a slow oven.

Baked Swiss Fondue
1 cup diced or shredded Swiss cheese
1 cup small cubes soft salted butter
3 strips bacon, crisp cooked and crumbled
1/2 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon dry or prepared mustard
3 eggs, well beaten
1/2 cup California Sauterne, Chab-lis or other white dinner wine

1 tablespoon grated Parmesan

Combine Swiss cheese, bread and crumbled bacon in a buttered 1-quart baking dish. Seal milk with salt and mustard. Stir into cheese; blend in wine. Pour over bread and cheese in casserole. Sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese.

Set casserole in pan of hot water. Bake in a moderately slow oven (325 degrees F.) about 35 minutes or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Serve at once.

Smoked Salmon Filling

Smoked sausage (sometimes referred to as smoky links or smokies) are low in fat compared to most sausages. In the process of smoking, these sausages have most of the fat taken out. This is not true of the average fresh sausage. When you cook fresh sausage, as we all know, the fat fries out and your pan becomes full of grease. Use us with precooked smoked sausage. In addition to the health qualities of less fat, there is less shrinkage in the frying pan. One frozen smoked pork link will contain approximately 75 calories.

Combine dairy sour cream, crumbled blue cheese, a small amount of wine vinegar, salt, pepper and a dash of Tabasco sauce for a tasty blue cheese dressing for vegetable salads.

100 Navy Men to Test Shelter

Officers Also to Join Underground A-Attack Study in Hot Weather

WASHINGTON (AP)—One hundred Navy officers and men will go underground next week for a test of atomic attack shelter living in hot weather.

This will be the second such test. A party of 100 Navy men spent two weeks in the same experimental shelter last February to experience underground living in cold weather.

Two officers—who took part in the February test—and 88 enlisted volunteers will enter the shelter at the National Naval Medical Center in nearby Bethesda, Md., the morning of Aug. 1.

The planned duration of their stay will not be announced until the test is begun, the Defense Department said today.

The objective is to determine whether the shelter's size, shape, materials, sanitary facilities and sleeping arrangements are fit for prolonged use in hot weather.

During the cold weather test in February, temperatures within the shelter reached 82 degrees although the structure had no heating system.

The experimental shelter is a buried steel arch structure 25 feet wide by 46 feet long.

It is equipped with five double rows of bunks. The men will sleep in shifts.

FILTERED AIR

Buried six feet underground, the shelter has a ventilating system that provides filtered air. It is designed to provide protection from air blast, mass fires, radiation, radioactive fallout and chemical and biological agents.

Data will be used by the Navy in construction of protective shelters for military personnel, but the information gained will be made available to the office of civil defense.

Eddie Returns to Club, Aims Barbs at Liz

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Eddie Fisher returned to the night club where he met Elizabeth Taylor last year and aimed a few barbs at his now-stranded wife.

He remained silent on divorce plans.

"It was a year ago when I was here last," Fisher told a capacity Desert Inn audience Tuesday night. "Not much has happened since then."

Fisher appeared cautious and serious when he walked on stage last night. He loosened up after a few songs and commented on the filming of "Cleopatra" in Rome. He left Miss Taylor when she began dating Richard Burton starting with her in the movie.

"You know they started that picture so long ago," Fisher said, "they could have used the original cast. I wish they would have."

The audience broke into several songs with applause and brought him back three times for bows.

GI Court Martialized; Deserted to E. Berlin

BERLIN (U)—A U.S. Army court martial yesterday sentenced an American soldier to two years hard labor and dishonorable discharge for deserting to Communist-ruled East Berlin.

He is Pfc. David A. Wilson, 22, of Ashland, Ky.

He pleaded guilty, admitted to being absent without leave for 14 months. He said he had lived with a girl in East Berlin before asking the Soviets to return him. The findings and sentence are subject to review.

India Population Now More Than 454 Million

NEW DELHI, India (U)—India's population is now more than 454 million, official figures showed yesterday.

The government announced that a recheck showed that a census figure for March 1, 1961, had been three million persons short. The 1961 census showed a rate of population increase of 2.15 per cent a year in the past decade.

7,000 Families Affected by Cut in Detroit ADC

DETROIT (U)—Detroit slashed $2 million yesterday from its supplemental Aid to Dependent Children budget in an economy move that will affect more than 7,000 families in the city.

The action drops regular city supplemental funds to 5,812 families and 1,400 over-age children (18 or older) and other relatives.

The Welfare Department would, however, review these cases and aid would be given under city welfare standards which are lower than regular state ADC payments if continuing need were proven.

The cuts were seen as an attempt to pressure the State Department of Social Welfare, which changed its aid formula to Detroit June 29, a move city officials have estimated would cost the city $2,780,500 a year.

In 1949 the Massachusetts Institute of Technology appointed its first professor of cryogenics (super cold).

'Good Roads' Group Appeals to Con-Con

LANSING (U)—The Michigan Good Roads Federation yesterday sent letters to every constitutional convention delegate urging reconsideration of two points when the convention reconvenes on Aug. 1.

The federation asked reinstatement of constitutional protection against diversion of motor vehicle taxes for any purpose other than road construction and restoration of the present system of electing the state highway commissioner.

State Group Approves Manistee Development

LANSING (U)—The State Economic Development Department has approved and sent to the Area Redevelopment Administration in Washington, an overall economic development program for Manistee County.

Approval of the program will mean communities, industries and businesses in the county can apply for federal loans to help finance local projects.

Income tax was introduced in Canada in 1917 as a wartime levy.

Cadillac Awarded 2 Army Contracts

DETROIT (U)—Cadillac Motor Division of General Motors Corp. has been awarded two Army contracts totaling $37,839,81 for production of armored reconnaissance vehicles and self-propelled howitzers.

The contracts, to be carried out at Cadillac's Cleveland ordnance plant, are expected to boost employment at the plant from the present level of fewer than 1,000 workers to at least 4,300, a company spokesman said. Production should be under way by Jan. 1, he added.

April Vote Seen on Constitution

Reapportionment Press Delays Hearing Date on Time Issue

LANSING (UPI) — It was all but decided today that the vote on the proposed new constitution will take place in April of next year.

A crush of other matters, mostly in connection with the recent Supreme Court ruling on Senate apportionment has delayed the state attorney general's office in preparation of briefs in the court case on the constitution question.

A spokesman for the attorney general indicated that it was "very unlikely" that the briefs would be ready before Aug. 8, the deadline for placing questions on the November ballot.

The case to get the new document on the fall ballot was brought by Republican con-con delegates eager to give their candidates in the fall election the extra campaign issue.

GIVE 90 DAYS
An Ingham County Circuit Court case before the State Supreme decision on the matter showed the Court which gave Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley 90 days to prepare his arguments. That action came about three weeks ago.

A spokesman for the Republican con-con delegates accused Kelley of delaying tactics to insure an April 1963 vote.

The apportionment battle appeared to have washed out any chance of an early decision any way since the constitutional convention is expected to remain in session for some time when it returns Aug. 1.

The con-con session had been planned as a one-day affair but delegates are now calling for review of the con-con apportionment, the plan for the Supreme Court and other parts of the new document.

Both Parties Hit in Romney Talk

'Economic Pressure Groups Filled Power Hole Left by Citizens'

DETROIT (AP) — George Romney yesterday slapped both political parties in charging a "travesty of the democratic process" in Michigan.

Romney told an audience arranged by the Wayne State University political science department. "We have seen the tragic consequences of a state dominated first by one economic minority group and then by another. It is no secret that one party is under the control of one economic pressure group while the other is too largely under the influence of a few large corporations," he said.

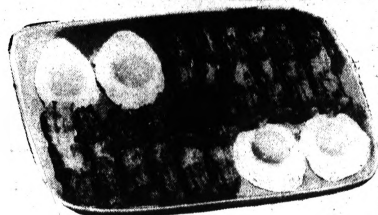

The result is a "travesty of the democratic process... frozen into a pattern of more of the same." This came about because the people of Michigan left a power vacuum into which the pressure groups have moved."

He became a candidate for governor, Romney said, because he was "increasingly concerned with citizen apathy in this state."

Philippine Rains Force Half Million From Homes

MANILA, Philippines (AP)—More rain was forecast today with most of the plains of central Luzon island under water and more than half a million people driven from their homes.

Some areas were under five feet of water after seven days of monsoon rains. Damages deaths were reported.
