ITS LOADED — Jersey City Police Chief Austin J. Conley examines boxes in trunk of 1947 sedan where almost $2.5 million of what an FBI agent said appeared to be legal U.S. currency was found yesterday.

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Two workmen renovating garages on a quiet city street poured into the trunk of an old car and found almost $2.5 million in money that an FBI agent said appeared to be legal U.S. currency.

Cached with the money discovered Tuesday in the rear of a dusty, auto were three pistols, ammunition and files stolen from the offices of the Hudson County prosecutor on May 9, 1961. Also found was a quantity of electronic equipment of the type used by bookmakers.

FBI agent R. W. Bachman said one of the stolen files contained material on a police investigation July 4, 1961, in which Joseph (Newbie) Moriarty, was arrested for book-making and possession of lottery tickets in Jersey City. The second file concerned a Moriarty associate.

Moriarty, 47, was picked up that time while riding in a 1947 Plymouth—the same make auto in which the money was discovered. The gambler, known to police as “king of the numbers runners” in Hudson County, was sentenced to a 2-to-3 year prison term last March 2.

JUMP INTO CASE

Both the FBI and Jersey City police jumped into the case, but the FBI got possession of the money by obtaining a warrant for its seizure because of a $30,000 lien the federal government has against Moriarty for unpaid income taxes.

Bachman, a special agent in charge of the Newark FBI office, said the money was in two large leather bags and a box. He said it reportedly was hidden in wrappers of a Rathenford, N.J. bank — from which $37,000 was stolen on August 27, 1953 by an armed bandit.

Bachman said the money totaled approximately $2,400,000, including a “few thousand-dollar bills” with the rest in $100s, $50s, $20s and $10s. The guns, wrapped in 1949 newspapers, were an automatic pistol, a 45-caliber revolver and a 32-caliber revolver.

Investigators found fingerprinting equipment near the car. In another garage, they found a 1952 auto which contained adding machines, phone equipment and typewriters—instruments of the bookmaking trade.

Moriarty, whose prison term stemmed from conviction of possession of lottery slips, had been arrested many times and his activities “have been the subject of political disputes.”

In one of his earliest arrests, in 1947, police seized $21,000 in cash and a quantity of numbers slips in his home in Jersey City.

When they arrested him in 1950, police seized more than $50,000 in cash at the home.

Traffic Deaths Running Below Expected Rate

After Slow Start Toll on Nation's Highways Averaging Two an Hour

By The Associated Press

Traffic deaths on the nation's highways averaged two an hour after a slow start Tuesday.

Boating ..... 23
Drowning ..... 4
Miscellaneous ..... 2
Total ..... 32

The count of the nation's traffic deaths for the Independence Day celebration, with a spurt in the late hours Tuesday night, averaged two an hour, a little below the normal mark for a nonholiday period.

The first highway fatality—in Ohio — was reported more than four hours after the count started at 6 p.m. (local time) Tuesday.

The toll mounted in the early morning, with more than a score of deaths in the next several hours. In other violent deaths, three persons were killed in boating accidents, two others drowned and four lost their lives in miscellaneous accidents.

The National Safety Council estimates that at the end of the 30-hour midweek holiday period at midnight tonight local time the traffic death toll may be between 118 and 120.

Shower weather appeared in prospect in many sections of the nation but the council expects that nearly all of the country's 76 million motor vehicles will be in motion sometime during the holiday period.

Today is the third one-day observance of the Fourth of July since World War II. In 1956 there were 137 traffic fatalities for the 30-hour period and in 1961 the death toll for a similar period was 105.

Might Use Voting Machines

Pontiac School District voters may find balloting faster and smoother next year—with a possibility of using voting machines and splitting at least one large precinct, the Washington Junior High precinct.

The two measures are among proposals being considered in study being prepared for presentation to the Pontiac Board of Education this fall, according to Vernon L. Schiller, elections director of the board.

If approved, the two moves would help prevent tie-ups such as those which occurred in some precincts during the 6,625 voter record turnout this June.

The Washington and LeBaron precincts did not report their last election results until an hour after other precincts were finished.

Washington had a total of 1,189 voters, many of whom did not appear at the polls until after 6 p.m.

SECOND IN NUMBER

LeBaron was second in the number of precincts recording highest ballots cast, with 619. The total count in late partly because the vote tallies were personally brought to the central counting station at 40 Patterson St. instead of being telephoned in.

In at least one other precinct, Webster, voters turned back in the evening when they saw a long slowly-moving line wrapped around the school hall.

Up to this year, the school administration had not thought of using voting machines economically feasible and justifiable, Schiller said today.

“We looked at it very closely for this year,” he said, “and decided the machines were not worth the extra money.”

“However, if voters continue to turn out in future years as they did this year, then voting machines may become economically feasible,” he added.

The cost for the machines would add another $150 to $200 to the current total election cost of $1,500, he said.

“Of course,” he said, “if we split precincts and add voting machines, it could run up $500 to $600 a year.”

Commissioners Act New River Plan Okayed

A new plan for an estimated $2.6 million in improvements to the Clinton River in Pontiac has been approved by the City Commission.

The plan would place a burden on the city's capital improvement fund, but would cost taxpayers a hike of about 50 cents per $1,000 of assessed value on their county tax bills next year.

Last night, commissioners unanimously approved a resolution outlining the plan and declaring it a necessity. They then turned the project over to the Oakland County Drain Commission.

An earlier plan had been submitted and approved by the former Commission March 27 but was later rescinded by the present Commission.

The new plan and original plan differ in the amount of retarding and the method of financing.

The original plan called for an estimated $4-million project from just west of the Grand Trunk Western Railroad on the south side of Orchard Lake Avenue to East Boulevard.

The new plan starts at the same point but goes only as far as Union Street on the city's East side, thus completing only the downtown portion of the original project and saving $1.6 million off the estimated cost.

Expect Jam-Up at County Parks

Largest Crowds of '62 Foreseen; Warn Worst Traffic 7 to 10 P.M.

The largest crowds of the year were expected to jam Oakland County parks and beaches today.

Police warned that there would be more tie-ups than on an ordinary Friday evening.

Pontiac state police reported that the heaviest traffic during the early hours of the Fourth of July holiday would be on the city's northbound freeways between 5 p.m. and 7:30 a.m. today.

However, no fatal automobile accidents were reported.

Cars were lined up for two blocks at the entrance of Dodge Park No. 4 at 8 a.m.

Long lines of holiday motorists also were reported at Kensington Park and other recreation sites in the area.

State police and Oakland County Sheriff's deputies agreed that traffic was heavy but not above normal for a summer holiday.

Deputies said there were no more tie-ups than on an ordinary Friday evening.

Mayor Robert A. Landry and Commissioners Milton R. Henry and Winford E. Bottom had strongly opposed the original $4-million plan, charging that it put too heavy a burden on the capital improvement fund for too long.

PRAISES PLAN

Last night, Landry praised the new plan as “saving city taxpayers more than $1 million.”

“It cost is much lower than the $4-million program okayed by the previous Commission with no questions asked,” the mayor said. Henry echoed his sentiments.

In Oakland Jetport Decision

The Federal Aviation Agency has been accused of retreating and thus tending to confusion in its failure to formally approve a proposed major jet airport in Pontiac and Orton Townships.

The attack was launched by James D. Ramsey, director of the Michigan Department of Aeronautics, in a letter to J. M. Beardslee, FAA assistant administrator at Kansas City.

Ramsey revealed the contents of his letter yesterday.

The FAA had announced through U. S. Rep. William S. Richardson (D-Oakland County) that the proposed jet airport was being rejected for lack of air space in the vicinity.

Ramsey declared that the FAA earlier had informally approved

Algerian Split Grows, Boosting Threat of War

Premier Consolidates Hold on Government, but Military Rebellions

ALGIERS (AP) — The threat of civil war mounted in newly independent Algeria today amid reports of growing opposition among nationalist army commanders to Premier Youssef Ben Khedda's regime.

Boistered by a tumultuous Moslem welcome for himself and his ministers, Ben Khedda set up headquarters in Algiers and, with the discreet assistance of the French, consolidated his hold on the government apparatus.

But Ben Khedda apparently could not command the loyalty of Modern military units in the interior, and rebellious Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella renewed his defiance from abroad.

In the hills south of Algiers, 1,800 deserters from the French-equipped local security force joined 4,000 former Modern guerrillas in support of Ben Bella's call for radical leftist revolution in the new nation.

Junior-Sized Patriot

UP SHE GOES — A flag-conscious American boy is 11-year-old Paul Roselli of 628 Tex St. For the last two years he has faithfully hoisted “Old Glory” daily at his home. GMC employees going to and from work say they feel better when they see Paul's flag flying in the Roselli yard.

All-American Boy Really Loves His Flag

For some people the Fourth of July celebration is the ONE time in the year to shake the mothballs out of the American Flag for outdoor display.

However, for 11-year-old Paul Roselli of 628 Tex St., sending the American Flag up a pole is an everyday occurrence, as thousands of GMC Truck & Coach Division employees well know.

During the day, anytime after 8 a.m. and before 5:30 p.m., GMC workers can look out the administration building windows and see “Old Glory” in all her glory waving high in the breeze on a 25-foot flagpole in the Roselli yard.

A couple of years ago when Paul became fascinated with the huge company flag atop the nearby GMC building, he decided this was a good reminder to people of America's importance.

Every day he watched that Flag go up.

The youngster figured out that if a big corporate like GMC thought so much of the American Flag, it must be a symbol of something pretty fine. Up in the attic he went and came down with a tiny flag on a small stick.

Every day for a year, Paul would place that flag in the ground at the end of the driveway and pull it up at sundown.

Now his parents bought him a slightly larger flag which he placed on the garage — daily.

Still not quite satisfied, Paul finally saved money from his allowance and odd jobs until he could buy a large 3 by 5-foot flag.

In the meantime, he kept begging his dad to install a corporate-like flagstaff.

His dad delayed Sam Roselli from granting his son's wish, but eventually the steel pole was imbedded in cement.

JFK Proclaims Readiness for Partnership

Addresses Governors in Philadelphia; Sees ‘World of Law’

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — President Kennedy proclaimed today from the birthplace of American independence that the United States is preparing for a “declaration of interdependence” — a working partnership with Europe.

The transatlantic partnership will not be built cheaply or easily, Kennedy predicted, but it holds the promise of “a world of law and free choice, banishing the world of war and coercion.”

The President aimed his message at the peoples of all nations, but his Fourth of July address was written for a gathering of governors of the states and territories, for thousands of Philadelphians massed outside Independence Hall and for nationwide radio and television broadcasts.

The founders who pledged their lives, fortunes and sacred souls in the break with Britain on July 4, 1776, Kennedy said in his prepared address, unleashed a revolution of a national aspiration which remains the most powerful force on earth today.

But in the same hall, the President went on, was drafted the American Constitution “which stressed not independence but interdependence,” and which the union of sovereign states which has become Europe's inspiration.

‘FAR TO GO’

It was much more than a generation after the Declaration before America built workable federal institutions and three quarters ago, the builders of the “new house of Europe” also have far to go.

“That I will say, here and now, on this day of independence, that the United States was ready for a declaration of interdependence—that we will be prepared to discuss with a united Europe the ways and means of forming a concrete Atlantic partnership — a mutually beneficial partnership between the new union emerging in Europe and the old American union founded here a century and three quarters ago.”

“All this will not be completed in a year—but let the world know that this is our goal.”

“In urging the adoption of the Constitution, Alexander Hamilton told his country New Yorkers to think continually. Today Americans must learn to think intercontinentally.”

“Acting on our own, we cannot establish justice throughout the world—we cannot insure its do (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

In Saskatchewan Strike

Physicians Go to Court

REGINA, Sask. (AP)—Saskatchewan's new compulsory medical care plan was challenged today in court by 700 doctors who are striking against the program.

The striking doctors remained firm in their demands that the Premier Woodrow Lloyd's Social government repeal the medical care program. In Saskatoon, Hans Tait, chairman of the so-called Keep-Out-Doctors Committee, said he planned to stage a mass march to Regina later this week to protest the program.

Letter From Canada Tells Doctor's Woe

A Pontiac area doctor, who asked not to be named, today released a bitter letter from a Saskatchewan physician who is leaving Canada because of the province's attempt to force doctors into the medicare plan.

The local doctor said his Saskatchewan friend was a general practitioner who had received part of his training in the United States and returned to his home country to do people there.

"Saskatchewan has an odor, and one that is not pleasant," he said. "You probably know of the situation, but as of the first of July, we close offices and leave the province offering emergency care only."

"I suppose this amount to a strike. I am clearing out, sacrificing the works. Can't tell the difference."

State Official Hits FAA Jelpert Case

all, even before it was officially proposed by the board, Ramsey stated in his letter:

"I find myself at a complete loss as to how your agency (FAA) proceeds in such matters and as to how you can expect private airport sponsors to properly plan and coordinate such facilities with you."

"In this particular instance the County of Shelby... was willing to accept the FAA's plan and take such steps as were available to it to provide the future airport needs."

The letter explains how certain county officials had requested an internal review of air space for the proposed site in 1961 and were advised by the FAA that the site was acceptable in this respect.

"There was no concern on our part or that of Oakland County relative to receiving an affirmative reply from you because there had been no material change either in air space requirements or procedures since the affirmative reply had been received," Ramsey wrote.

"If this is all we can expect, it would appear that the airport system will have to continue to grow as it has in the past without any suitable long range planning and subject to day-to-day changes in policies and procedures," the letter said.

NATIONAL WEATHER — Scattered showers and thunderstorms are expected tonight in the South Atlantic states, northern Plains and the upper and central Mississippi Valley with showers in the Northwest and the southern Plains. A cold front will bring rain and thunderstorms to the Midwest and Northeast. Warm weather will blanket the rest of the nation.

Named as defendants were Premier T. C. Douglas, leader of the New Democratic party who headed the provincial government when the medical care insurance act was introduced in the legislature. The 11 members of the provincial Cabinet.

The registrar of the Court of Queen's Bench in Saskatoon issued a writ giving the defendants 15 days to enter a defense.

The mother of a 10-month-old boy who died Sunday while the parents sought desperately to find medical help reportedly blamed the government for the infant's death.

"If they had not forced the doctors to strike, my Carl would be alive today," Mrs. Peter Demosoff was quoted as saying by the Toronto Star.

SEE CONTROL

The striking doctors contend the compulsory medicare program opens the way for government control of medical practice. A government source estimated only about 100 of the province's 700 doctors would work under the plan.

The doctors are insisting on an alternative program that would not be compulsory. The government claim the doctors are worried only about their pocketbooks, since few of the doctors working under the plan would be able to match their incomes under non-regulated practice.

No major problems were reported in this provincial capital. Both Regina hospitals said they were normally open.

One Regina clinic where 40 doctors normally operate was deserted. Some volunteer doctors providing free emergency service at 43 designated hospitals throughout the province were beginning to show the strain of overwork.

Dr. J. E. Leddy, emergency care coordinator for Saskatoon, said he had seen a number of patients appearing at the hospitals still operating in the area.

He said a doctor working at one hospital delivered 11 babies in 48 hours and had no sleep during the strike.

Two patients flown to Regina from the interior died shortly after their arrival but officials said the deaths had been seen here on the advice of doctors in their communities and indicated their deaths could not be blamed on the doctors' strike.

The doctors, on the other hand, said the "no work no pay" government" in the province of medical care and proposed that instead government subsidies be given to voluntary practice.

When the government persisted, the doctors decided to implement a long-standing threat to strike.

NOTED TO OFFERS

The Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons had voted in 1959 to oppose such a medicare plan.

Today a Pontiac-area doctor commented:

"The way the Saskatchewan plan works, I'd refuse to work under it, too."

He referred particularly to a Saskatchewan provision which would give the government in charge of payment rates to physicians according to conditions and quality of service.

"If I can see 10 heads in 10 minutes, why see 10 heads in half an hour," the area physician said, claiming the plan encouraged a "speed-up" and decrease in standards.

Some form of the tax bill said they thought the timetable signaled its eventual doom.

A timetable for the bill was set up by the Finance Committee chairman, Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., as the committee ended its public hearings Tuesday.

Byrd said his group would begin a series of hearings on the tax proposals a week from today. If it doesn't finish with the bill within a week, he said, the measure will be held out until the next session will begin July 13 on the President's trade expansion bill. These hearings are expected to last about a month.

Deaths Shadow Shriners Fun

5 Lodge Brothers Die During Festivities at Toronto Convention

TORONTO (AP)—Hundreds of North American Shriners carried on their merriment celebration today. But the festivities were shadowed by the deaths of five U.S. lodge brothers held in one day by heart attacks.

Hest, excitement and lack of sleep was blamed for the deaths of the five visiting members who came here to celebrate the opening of the Shrine's 98th annual convention.

DIED IN PARADE

Three of the lodge members collapsed during a huge parade staged by 10,000 of the estimated 50,000 Shriners and their wives, that wound through the center of Toronto for more than five hours.

The other two died in their hotel rooms during the night. All were listed as victims of coronary thrombosis.

Convention officials said the bodies were being sent to their home towns. They were identified as:

Bryan Dowling, 63, South Arlington, Va., found dead in his midtown hotel room.

Dr. Bernard C. Friesch, 59, of Pittsburgh, Pa., pediatrician, also died in his hotel room.

Horace C. Wright, 73, Webster, N.Y., collapsed after marching eight blocks in the parade.

William H. Lee, 65, Philadelphia died after marching two blocks.

Paul Platchek, 50, Lyons, Ill., fell after 23 blocks.

Witnesses said Lee and other members of Philadelphia's Lu Lu Temple were executing a fancy cross-march maneuver when he collapsed.

High point in Tuesday's festivities was the gala parade boasting five miles of bands, floats, carrying clowns and festopied marchers in glittering costumes.

MINOR INCIDENTS

Only minor incidents of shoving were reported as picketing started Tuesday.

A sprinkling of white persons were among the NAACP pickets. They carried signs with such slogans as "Khrushchev could stay here. Negro Americans, fight!" and "Twelve Southern cities have open hotels. Why not Atlanta?"

Ten hotels and six restaurants were being picketed in protest of the exclusion of some delegates to the NAACP convention. The NAACP said picketing would continue for the duration of the convention which ends Sunday.

The Klan leaflets said in part: "Thousands of NAACP members are here to take over your city and to do your thinking unless you dare to stand your ground and join the thousands of white people who have decided that the white man shall retreat no further!"

About 35 carloads of Klansmen assembled on a vacant lot beside a highway outside Atlanta to watch a cross-burning ceremony and hear charges against integrationists.

Herbert Hill, NAACP labor secretary on employment discrimination, told the NAACP convention that Negroes are losing the battle for economic equality and job opportunity despite progress in other fields.

NEW RIVER PROPOSAL Given OK by Pontiac

Mr. J. asserted "we might as well tell the whole story."

"You can cut it any way you want," he said, "this method of financing will relate the county taxes to Pontiac taxpayers by 50 cents per $1,000 of assessed value next year."

"There are also some factors now evident that were not known at the previous Council meeting."

Commissioner Charles H. Harmon said the city was bound to the project.

"We can't afford to drop the project," he said. "The federal government would hold up urban renewal and the state could stop perimeter road plans."

The city has already claimed a total of $215,614 of the cost as credit toward its share of urban renewal costs and, according to administrators, holds the possibility of obtaining up to $1.3-million in credit.

The occasion was the first since 1914 to bring a president to Independence Hall on July Fourth.

Woodrow Wilson was the speaker then.

But this was the first assemblage in history of the chief executives of the states, territories and possessions at the shrine where Thomas Jefferson's earth-shaking Declaration was embraced by the men of the American colonies.

The Day in Birmingham

GM Employing Monkeys for 'G' Forces Research

BIRMINGHAM — Experiments with monkeys riding in a whirling device are being conducted here by General Motors to provide information on a spacecraft's ability to withstand "G" forces upon re-entering the earth's atmosphere.

The research project is being carried out by GM's biological sciences department of the Defense Research Laboratories in the Giesler Building, 1600 N. Woodward Ave. Dr. Norman L. Barr, of Birmingham, heads the department.

According to Dr. L. R. Halstad, GM vice president in charge of research, the findings of the scientist may help discover a way for spacecraft to escape their craft, if necessary, during re-entry.

The laboratory's space flight acceleration profile simulator can accelerate from zero to 500 Gs in 10 seconds, extreme re-entry acceleration conditions, said Dr. Halstad.

A planned modification will permit it to reach 500 Gs in two seconds, he said.

A mass trying to escape from a spacecraft during the entry would encounter acceleration forces reaching 350 Gs, added Halstad.

Up to the present, approximately 90 Gs has been the highest load that man has been subjected to. "This occurred on an impact accelerator at Holloman Air Force Base in New Mexico."

FIRST TESTS ON MONKEYS

Initial tests on the GM device have been made with squirrel monkeys. Riding without any form of fitting couch support, the monkey, similar to man in anatomical structure, has sustained 400Gs.

"A considerable amount of information evidence exists to indicate that man may be able to withstand extremely high acceleration loads with high speed over periods of time not as long as previously investigated," said Dr. Halstad.

"Once man's natural limitations are known definitely, artificial means or techniques for extending these limitations may be investigated, he added."

BERLIN (AP) — Five Berliners involved in attempts to escape through the Berlin wall were given prison terms from five to 15 years by a Communist court today.

3 Railroad Heads Insist Line Mergers Necessity

WASHINGTON (AP) — The heads of three major railroads said yesterday mergers must come quickly to provide more efficient rail service and head off mass bankruptcy.

Mass bankruptcy, they told the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, would be a step toward creating the greatest monopoly of all-nationalized railroads.

James M. Symes, board chairman of the Pennsylvania Railroad; Leonard H. Murray, president of the Soo Line; and Jervis Langdon Jr., president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, joined in opposition to a bill by subcommittee chairman Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn. Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., said the bill would have the effect of creating an 18-month freeze on all mergers.

Kefauver said it would only block mergers which would tend to lessen competition and create a monopoly.

Symes said the proposed merger of Pennsylvania with the New York Central would strengthen competition but it probably would take several years to prove it under the terms of Kefauver's bill.

Other modes of transportation are the real competitive factor in railroads today," he said. "We need to be healthy in order to compete."

Murray, whose line was created in 1900 by a three-way merger, said he felt the merger had made it possible for the three lines to give better service and compete more effectively with other means of transportation.

Delay in approving other mergers, he said, would damage the already weak railroad industry.

"Mergers are one of the very few means in our industry of lowering costs and improving efficiency without expenditure of funds for plant facility," Murray said. He added that under the present law the Interstate Commerce Commission has adequate authority to protect the public interest.

Independence Day Meaning

(In keeping with our policy of running guest editorials from time to time, our Fourth of July message has been written by Robert A. Landry, mayor of the City of Pontiac.)

By ROBERT A. LANDRY

In view of the many attacks being made throughout the world against the freedom of the individual, it is proper that Americans should again consider the significance of the Declaration of Independence adopted by the Congress of the 13 United States of America on July 4, 1776.

In the light of present day events, our duty as American citizens is to reassert the principles in the Declaration of Independence which were the basis for the United States Constitution adopted the first Wednesday in March, 1789.

The freedoms which we enjoy today were the result of the Declaration of Independence. The United States Constitution which followed 13 years later is recognized as one of the greatest documents ever produced by the brain of man.

The declaration, that all men are created equal, and are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, among these being life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, is the cornerstone of our democratic government.

The reference in this declaration of principles to the importance of reverence for deity and the rights of the individual is basic in our government today.

The Bill of Rights is contained in the first ten articles of the U. S. Constitution. An examination of these guarantees of individual liberties reveals that the principles set forth in the Declaration of Independence were closely followed by our founding fathers in the establishment of this great Nation.

On July 4, 1962, it is proper that our citizens re-examine these two great documents and take stock of their blessings and privileges of liberty under a government where dictatorial powers are used to advance the prestige and power of the state. It is our task

Maintenance of Lawns Becoming Big Business

Now that the Federal farm bill is dead a few statistics on the ordinary home gardener seem in order. There has been a huge revolution in the maintenance of front and back yards in recent years.

Like the farmer, the home gardener has been given an invaluable assist by a wide range of new fertilizers, weed killers, insect sprays and plant disease treatments, plus improved equipment.

With about 1.2 million homes going up every year, adding 150,000 acres of new lawns and gardens, the garden supply industry has grown to a giant valued at $4- to $6-billion.

While it's easier than ever to go broke maintaining the family estate, a lot of back-breaking work has been taken out of it. Yet, there are a few who seem to cherish this back-to-earth movement, like our own MAT. He recently moved from quarters surrounded by concrete.

Most of us are still looking for a growth inhibitor that will keep the grass from growing more than two inches high.

today to preserve our institutions of freedom and to prevent the further encroachment of totalitarian forces.

We must aid and assist the cause of freedom wherever and whenever possible. The right of free assembly, the trial by jury, our security against excessive bail, and the privileges of the Fifth Amendment protecting all citizens against the use of autocratic power by the state is a priceless asset given to every American citizen by the American Constitution.

On July 4, we are proud to celebrate this important day and do our best as American citizens to carry on the torch of freedom against the enemies of our country, both foreign and domestic.

Every citizen must do his part to make the Constitution the shield and protector of all persons so that the rights and privileges guaranteed under this great document will always be available.

For the future years, may our land be bright with freedom's Holy Light.

Want Key to Recent Advertising Puzzle

By HOWARD V. HELDENBRAND

So much interest was shown last week in the method of affixing the key to the Pontiac MAT advertising page that the MAT persuaded the Advertising Department to bare its soul, and tell all.

Yes, the keys were put on by hand. Twenty young ladies worked just short of two days attaching 63,000 of them. Three miles, give or take a few feet, of tape (Scotch not red) were used in the operation.

As the TV boys would say, this item comes to you live, but portions of it were taped. Tsk-tsk-tsk.

Good news for homeowners. It has just come to the column's attention that Grand Rapids now offers a callup repair service. Since today even the most modest American home cannot be considered complete without a considered callup, without a considered service, even though distant, is most reassuring.

From the American Legion Magazine the following, headed is reprinted: Two criminals reported to the prison infirmary for a medical experiment. On being told the research would be hazardous, one backed out. As he was leaving, the scared prisoner turned to his cellmate.

"Good luck," he said, offering his hand. The gesture was coldly scorned. "Don't ever speak to me again," rasped his cellmate. "You've disgraced the uniform!"

The many friends of Bishop and Mrs. Ivo I. Curtis now of Los Angeles, will be delighted to know that they were both recipients of awards granted by Carleton College, Northfield, Minn., their Alma Mater.

Of the eight achievement awards conferred by the institution, the former Rector of the local All Saints Episcopal Church and his wife received two, the only figures in religious life given recognition by the school.

The MAT's congratulations to the popular couple and best wishes for a pleasure-filled and relaxing vacation usually spent around these parts.

Friends and associates recently gathered for a testimonial dinner at the Elks Temple in honor of William B. Kelly of 221 S. Sanford St., retiring after 38 years service as supervisor, Service Parts Material department, GMC Truck and Coach Division.

American Revolution Set Example

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—It is a day of glory in the long human story—this day on which the oldest republic in the New World celebrates the 186th anniversary of its independence.

The revolution of the original 13 American states against foreign domination set in movement a slow-building political hurricane that has since stormed the winds of change to every continent.

The successful example of the American revolt became the pattern for scores of others, since then—some wise, some foolish, some honest, some cynical.

But nearly two centuries after the revolt of the American colonies, it could hardly be said that half the people of earth have either true political liberty or freedom from hunger, pain.

The liberty Americans are now born to—liberty denied to millions elsewhere—was largely taken for granted. As a holiday reminder, here are what some famous minds have said about the importance of independence and liberty across the centuries:

PROCLAIM LIBERTY

"Proclaim liberty throughout the land unto all the inhabitants thereof"—from the Old Testament given in 1753 on the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia.

"A love of liberty is planted by nature in the breasts of all men"—Dionysius of Halicarnassus, 20 B.C.

"No favor produces less permanent gratitude than the gift of liberty, especially among people who are ready to make a bad use of it"—Livy.

"Those inquire what liberty is? To be slave to nothing, to no necessity, to keep fortune at arm's length"—Seneca.

"Only in states in which the power of the people is supreme has liberty an abode"—Cicero.

"Liberty is the power that we have over ourselves"—Hugo Grotius.

"Give me the liberty to know, to utter, and to argue freely according to conscience, above all liberties"—John Milton.

"Learn liberty is better than fat slavery"—John Ray.

"Freedom of man under government is to have a standing rule to live by, common to every one of that society, and made by the legislative power vested in it; a liberty to follow my will in all things, when the rule prescribes not, and not to be subject to the inconstant, uncertain, unknown, arbitrary will of another man"—John Locke.

"Liberty or death"—Joseph Addison, 1713.

Both processes are helpful in every respect. Neither is harmful in any way. And neither can be hastened or assisted to any appreciable degree by the efforts of the physician.

By contrast, use of the anticoagulants is wholly the responsibility of the medical attendant.

Employed with a combination of skill and good fortune, anticoagulant drugs give promise of producing a significant reduction in the chances for a severe stroke of the vascular accident and in the amount of damage that's done once the accident has occurred.

"They that can give up essential liberty to obtain a little temporary safety deserve neither liberty nor safety"—Benjamin Franklin.

"Free people remember this maxim: We may acquire liberty, but it is never lost"—J. J. Rousseau.

"Liberty is not a fruit that grows in all climates, and so it is not within the reach of all people"—J. J. Rousseau.

"Among a people generally corrupt liberty cannot exist. Liberty must be limited in order to be possessed"—Edmund Burke.

"The natural progress of things is for liberty to yield and government to gain ground. The tree of liberty must be refreshed from time to time with the blood of patriots and tyrants. It is its natural manure"—Thomas Jefferson.

"The greatest dangers to liberty lurk in insidious encroachments by men of zeal, well-meaning but without understanding"—Justice Louis D. Brandeis.

"Liberty is the only thing you cannot have unless you are willing to give it to others"—William Allen White.

"Where the spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty"—New Testament.

Here Are the Steps Leading to Feared Coronary Attack

In general, these are the steps leading to the onset of the dreaded coronary attack:

1—Hardening of the vessel wall (coronary arteriosclerosis or atherosclerosis).

2—Thickening of the hardened wall with resultant narrowing of the vessel's channel. In severe instances, the narrowing may progress to total blockage (coronary occlusion).

3—Roughening and ulceration of the hardened wall with resultant leakage of blood (coronary thrombosis).

4—And, most often, a combination of these changes with thrombosis of the previously narrowed or stopped-up blood vessel.

In general, these are the ways in which nature and your doctor combine their efforts to combat coronary stoppage or closing:

They vessels, that run under the skin, are the highways for blood to and from the heart. They are the highways for blood to and from the heart. They are the highways for blood to and from the heart.

Now, establishment of the collateral circulation and canalization of the thrombus are wholly nature's response to the vascular injury.

Both processes are helpful in every respect. Neither is harmful in any way. And neither can be hastened or assisted to any appreciable degree by the efforts of the physician.

'Legislators' Pay Increase Unfair to Taxpayers'

These Legislators in Lansing are due for a radical change. They have voted themselves a 40 per cent increase in salary. This is the highest in all but six Southern states and Alaska. They avoided a state income tax for instance taxes.

The following increases are to help pay the salary increases: barrel of beer, $1.35 increased to $1.75; 5¢ cents increase on a bottle of beer; cigarettes 5¢ to 7¢ cents increase. How long will we tolerate these unjust conditions?

Feels Nurses' Aides Are Being Underpaid

I am interested in the great need for trained personnel in hospitals, doctors' offices and nursing homes. I was left with my own four sons at the age of 46. I decided to go into nursing. I was hired by a compassionate administrator of a home for the aged. My salary was $175 a month for which I was given food, also.

How many people are aware of the wages a hard working nurse's aide receives? Most are working for $1 an hour and in many convalescent homes, even less.

In most convalescent homes it is a practice for aides to do the patient's washing and ironing. You bring your own food, also.

Raises in pay from three to six months apart. It is time the aide began to share in the $300 a month asked for some patients now in convalescent homes. Let the aide be paid a wage comparable to the work demanded of them.

'Unfair Practices in Little League'

I was in Michigan for a month's vacation and attended four Little League games. Why are the umpires so unfair with the Pirates? My nephew said, "We play the Pirates and we'll win as the umpire hate that team."

Where is the president of this league?

'School Sororities Are Worthwhile'

We have four fine sororities in Pontiac. Why create a large disturbance because a daughter was not asked to join? These clubs donate money to civil organizations. They sponsor successful dances which are open to the teenage public. These are well-chaperoned. This is something Pontiac does not provide for its older teenagers.

'Can't Citizens Remove Officials?'

If the City Commission and City Manager are ruled by two of the City Commissioners, then why don't the taxpayers vote to eliminate the City Manager and the other Commissioners?

The people had better wake up when it is voting time and remember these one-sided things. It is our money that is supposed to pay for the things for betterment of our city.

Stiletto Heels

(Toronto Globe and Mail)

The Ontario Court of Appeal has decided that if women insist on wearing stiletto heels they should be prepared to take the consequences. A Toronto woman had caught the tiny heel of her shoe in a hole in the floor of the Federal Building, and fallen. Mr. Justice W. D. Roach spoke for the court in dismissing her appeal for damages.

Persons who wear shoes with heels so small that they can fit into such holes, and so styled that when they happen they are liable to lose their balance and fall, must accept the risk.

This is a sensible judgment. It would have a happy result if it could persuade women to eschew stiletto heels for broader and more dependable heels; it would have an even happier result if it could persuade designers to produce shoes with soles that were not so destructive. The fact for precarious stiletto heels cost too much in the way of physical health and property damage.

Pencil heels have produced corns, bunions, and ingrown toenails on the feet of millions of women, according to foot specialists here and abroad. They have damaged the general health of many women by distorting their carriage or trapping them into accidents. They have cost millions of dollars in wrecks, rugs and floors, including the floors of aircraft.

Perhaps the most horrifying of the charges against them, however, is that their consistent use thickens the ankles of young women, so that by the time they reach their thirties their limbs resemble those of a plane beam.

Or, as an ancient Toronto poet put it: "In about 10 years' time the lobby of ankle-watching on Toronto streets is going to have lost a lot of its charm." If women will not abandon stiletto heels in the interest of their backs, perhaps they will do so for the sake of their ankles.

Disbelieving K

Memphis Commercial Appeal

Boss Khrushchev declares the American rocket, Ranger, did not hit the moon. Next thing you know, the old stoic will say he doesn't believe the coup jumped over it, either.

The Financial Times says that after a lightning loss of Common Market capital Mr. Heath remains confident that the outline of the package agreement can be agreed between the Six and Britain by the end of July.

The importance which most people on the Continent attach to Britain's entry into the Common Market may turn out to be Britain's secret weapon in the negotiations. If by the end of July the British team can argue that a few more days' work might go the package deal up, events might move with surprising speed.

The Guardian (Liberal) feels that Mr. Heath's belief that the draft agreement between Britain and the Six is possibly by the end of July is highly encouraging. It says that his faith with European Ministers have given grounds for the optimism with which he now views the prospects of making speedier progress in Brussels.

The paper says the Government has good reasons for wishing to adhere to the provisional timetable which set itself at the start of the negotiations.

The attempt now being made at Brussels to reconcile Commonwealth and European interests is a complex and delicate operation. Mr. Macmillan needs to be able to put before the Commons the Prime Minister in September a fair picture of the whole bargain, not just isolated fragments of a settlement. Again, the Commons will enquire, the Government must hope to make a start next session with the mass of consequential legislation which will be necessary to bring the Common Market into effect, says The Guardian.

Adenauer

The Atlantic Monthly

The stability of the Federal Republic has been largely founded on economic expansion and the personal success of Dr. Adenauer. The Chancellor's days in office are now numbered, and he is expected to retire by the end of October, 1963.

Only by sparing himself and taking longer holidays will he be able to carry on until then, and he has evidently begun to realize this. While remaining chairman of the Christian Democratic Party, he has installed a much younger man, Dr. Josef Diefenbus, fifty-four, as the party's general manager. But he has left the question of the succession to the chancellorship wide open. As for the two younger contenders, the well-known Defense Minister Franz-Josef Strauss has suffered setbacks over NATO policies and as a result of alleged corruption in the granting of government contracts.

Foreign Minister Gerhard Schröder, on the other hand, is in the ascendant. But uncertainty over the succession will become more and more critical.

Common Market

British Information Services

Britain's possible entry into the Common Market is again in the forefront of British comment. The Financial Times says that after a lightning loss of Common Market capital Mr. Heath remains confident that the outline of the package agreement can be agreed between the Six and Britain by the end of July.

President's Laughter Upsets Reviewer

Book Spoofing JFK a Hit at White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Back-

Two new books have been in frequent evidence recently around the White House. "The Quotable Mr. Kennedy," a serious collection of highlights from the speeches and statements of the President, and "Who's in Charge Here?" a superb collection of news photographs with hilarious quotations attributed to some of the world's more prominent figures.

Both volumes are the work of Gerald C. Gardner, an imaginative young New York and New Jersey public relations man.

One of the nation's more serious book reviewers was preparing to blast "Who's in Charge Here?" on grounds that it was in bad taste, disrespectful and unworthy of public perusal. The reviewer then heard that the President himself had seen the book and laughed heartily at some of the photographs in which he was involved.

(Sample: A picture of the President talking on the telephone while his daughter, Caroline, stands beside him. The caption shows Kennedy saying, "No, this is her father.")

The reviewer was unable to believe reports that Kennedy accepted the book in good humor. He said stories to this effect were designed to further the disrepute for Kennedy.

"This is not true. 'Who's in Charge Here?' probably has received more circulation around the White House than any volume since 'Profiles in Courage.' And the President thinks it is a very funny spoof.

What this situation illustrates is the fact that the President's supporters sometimes become far more evangelical in his behalf than he would ever be — or, for the matter, any member of his family. This is a form of political dedication which on occasion can be quite a bother to the honoree.

TASK FORCE

For some weeks, a special task force of public relations experts has been operating out of the White House in an effort to generate public support for the President's liberalized foreign trade program.

It is distinctly a White House operation, yet there exists at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. a split personality when it comes to the problem of linking the special task force with the Chief Executive.

One of the task force principals is Carl Levin, on leave of absence from his distilling industry post to help the trade program. Levin's assignment was announced by the White House. He works as an adjunct of the White House.

A few weeks ago, Levin mailed to a number of people in the communications field a set of pertinent questions and answers concerning the program. This is one of the functions of his task force.

Yet, Levin's letter of transmittal said of the accompanying material, "since it was not prepared at the White House but is a com-

Seaman Helped by Coast Guard

Needed Blood Flown, Soiled to Liner for Injured Youth

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Coast Guard carried out a midocean mercy mission by plane and cutter yesterday to aid an injured Norwegian seaman.

The plane, from Argentina, Nid., successfully dropped six pints of blood to the Coast Guard cutter Casco halfway between Newfoundland and England, the Coast Guard announced.

The cutter transferred the blood to the Cunard liner Carinthia, en route to Greenock, Scotland.

The Carinthia on Sunday had picked up the 17-year-old seaman from the Norwegian motor ship Gylfe. The lad had fallen 25 feet into the vessel's hold and had lost blood. The Carinthia was the closest vessel with a doctor aboard.

The blood came from the Army Hospital at Ft. Dix, N.J., and was flown to Argentina by the Military Air Transport Service.

Coast Guard headquarters here had no information on the boy's condition since the transatlantic. It could not supply his name.

Marries Off Daughter, Needs Written Report

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Newly wed Mrs. Ronald Francis Carrier must make a formal written report informing her father of her marriage.

Her father, school Supt. O. Perry Walker, gave his daughter away upon her marriage to Dr. Ronald Carrier, but since Mrs. Carrier is a teacher she must comply with school board regulations and inform the superintendent of her marriage.

Considine's Having Fun in Italy

Dinner on Rapido Goes Whoosh, Splat, Zip

By BOB CONSIDINE

VENICE — Here this: No more rap against the Italian telephone system. I've been knocking it since the war. 'Scuse.

Yesterday we left a hot and humid Rome for this ever enchanting Venice. The elderly D.C. of Allatla made a stop at the incongruity tiny airport of Florence. There would be a half-hour wait.

Could we grab a cab and give a girl scholar who's traveling with us a last glimpse of Michelangelo's David?

Impossible, the captain of the plane said. For one thing, he might not use the whole half-hour. For another, the Florence airport doesn't come equipped with taxis.

Then the phone rang in the little terminal building. The captain chatted a bit, shrugged, and had the beautiful stewardess Maria announce that a storm was coming our way; there would be an indefinite delay.

Someone grumbled, "Whoever heard of a plane not taking off because a storm was coming?"

FLIGHT CANCELED
It struck with savage vigor a few minutes later, an inferno of glass-breaking hail, high winds and great thick tapestries of rain.

It surely would have belted our fragile bark out of the sky, had we not been warned and taken off. The flight was canceled.

So we saw David after all, and he's looking fit as ever. It's little wonder he flattered that bum Goliath.

Allatla is not an airline to leave 18 Americans and an Indian couple stranded in Florence. We were bused to the city (but not by Maria, alas), piled with whatever our luggage could take, then put aboard the streamlined Rapido for the four-hour rail trip to Venice. At 8 p.m. the two leaders of our little expedition — I serve only as a change of the exchequer — were bused to the city (but not by Maria, alas), piled with whatever our luggage could take, then put aboard the streamlined Rapido for through the door of our dizzy, swaying train compartment.

NO DINNER
"There is no dinner in the Wagon Lits," the head announced with a fierce black and white smile.

"No dinner!" my babes groaned. "Right," he said. "Dinner is no follow me."

He was saying "now," not "no." It was a mess out of all the players move at two or three times normal speed. The three waiters who took care of the crowded diner could have fed a full jet plane of passengers a 10-course meal on a flight between New York and Bridgeport.

You can do a lot of things in the diner of the Rapido, but mulling is not one of them. The split second we were seated, a waiter plunked down plates with the emphasis of a man slipping down the gin game in the runny of the same name.

He frowned at our request for a cocktail, then sped off and brought a bottle of cognac.

There was no menu to study. The soup clattered into place without a skipped drop, before the bottle could be opened. Half-way through the soup the waiter started to scold. He struggled and was a temporary victory; temporarily because he had raced off and returned with the veal piccata and fried potatoes. Stand! Bang, came a dab of salad, whose wait 3 1/2 minutes through the cheese, split said the coffee, stop shouted the check. The Rapido, apparently propelled by the waiters, sped through the night at just under the speed of sound, squealing now like a surprised pig.

"What's the hurry?" I asked a waiter as she shot back with the change.

"Second serving at Bologna!" he shouted and was off.

The diners fled as we plunged into Bologna enjoying the asylum of a brandy. I stayed behind.

Two Wagon Lits men sauntered in, and the waiters served them leisurely and delicious-looking pasta.

U.S. Navy to Sink Radioactive Ship

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The Navy will sink the radioactive Destroyer Escort Fullam Saturday 18 miles south-east of Cape Henry.

The Fullam, used in 1958 nuclear tests in the Pacific, is radioactive to the extent that scrubbing her clean would cost more than she's worth, a Navy spokesman said.

Though she is not considered dangerous, federal regulations prohibit her sale or use in her present condition.

The Fullam will be destroyed by U.S. 2nd Fleet ships firing shells and torpedoes and airplanes using air-to-surface Ballyup missiles.

Flying will be under direction of Rear Adm. R. D. Hogle, who flies his flag aboard the carrier Forrestal.

The Fullam, a Fletcher class destroyer, was built in Boston in 1940.

She will be towed to the target area by the salvage ship Recovery.

Average maximum April temperature in Ouanagouou, Upper Volta, is 103 degrees.

To Ask Publicity Florida Pioneers Bask in Sun on Rostow Study

Symington to Ask State Dept. Remove Secrecy to End GOP Attacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., said yesterday he will urge the State Department to take the secrecy label off a controversial foreign policy document and make it public.

Symington told a newsmen he was confident that full publicity on the study document, prepared by Walt W. Rostow, would end Republican attacks on it.

Some Republican leaders have protested that the study was based on a false assumption that Soviet Russia was mellowing and that this should lead to more of a "be nice" policy by the United States.

Rostow is head of the State Department's Policy Planning Council.

President Kennedy said last week Rostow was acting under instructions and "very responsibly" in getting up a paper for the National Security Council, so it could be determined whether changes should be made in the foreign and defense policies of the 1950s.

Symington said he would make his request for full publicity to Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Crew of 3 Lands as Fire Engulfed Bomber Cockpit

WARNER ROBINS, Ga. (AP) — A six-engine strategic bomber was brought in for a safe landing as flames swirled into the cockpit and smoke brought visibility to near zero.

The plane, with a crew of three from MacDill Air Force Base, Fla., landed at Robins Air Force Base Tuesday after the aircraft developed trouble while on a low-level navigation mission.

The pilot was Lt. Don Burger; the copilot was Lt. M. Schuman; and the navigator was Lt. Lawrence Day. They were treated for smoke and heat irritation.

Safety officers said the fire apparently started from the electrical system.

Florida Pioneers Bask in Sun While Carving Out 'Frontier'

CAPE CORAL, Fla. (UPI) — You can be a pioneer and own your own ranch house on the new frontier. It's all part of a plan.

The new frontier is the area of population explosion can be found in those planned communities that dot the maps in various parts of the country, but particularly in Florida, which last went through the frontier stage about 300 years ago.

Some of them, of course, are aimed primarily at elderly persons who have called it a career and simply want to spend their remaining years basking in the sun.

But not all are so designed. One of the exceptions is Cape Coral, a waterfront community located just across the Caloosahatchee River from Fort Myers and six miles from the Gulf of Mexico.

The Gulf American Land Corp., developer of Cape Coral, has drawn the plans for Cape Coral with the approval of the county commission.

To begin with, though most of the homes are ranch-style, care has been taken to eliminate the same-old same-old that dulls so many development communities.

The company itself offers 23 models to choose from. And the owner of a home has the right to have his home built by an outsider.

RIGHT ON WATERWAY
Being a waterfront community, about 70 per cent of the homes will be located directly on the 220 miles of waterway that has been cut through the area. And those that don't will still have rights on the waterway.

Basic to any planned community is zoning. The developers of Cape Coral have set aside areas for shopping centers and industrial parks for light, clean industry. The latter is intended to provide not only jobs but an expanded tax base in case the residents decide to incorporate.

One shopping center is already in existence. It was built and quickly doubled in capacity, by a mutual association set up by residents of Cape Coral.

Four years ago, the Cape Coral area was real frontier — nothing but wild wasteland. But vision, money and lots of hard work have converted it into a site where some day — perhaps within the next ten years — some 65,000 people will live.

Already, there are 1,000 year-round residents in Cape Coral. They are, for the most part, families who have had the courage to pull up their roots and move to an unsettled area and make a new life. They are, indeed, latter-day pioneers.

CHANCE FOR NEW LIFE
And the opportunities for a new life are there. One resident, a retired Army colonel, has started a newspaper. Another is organizing a commercial bank. A one-time farmer from Virginia now heads the Cape Coral security force.

There soon will be, too, apartment buildings, a telephone exchange exclusively for Cape Coral, and an electric power substation.

There is already, built by the developer, a 21-million yacht and request club with olympic class swimming pool, a teen-age club, a 620-foot fishing pier, bathing benches and a golf course.

Life on the old frontier was never as rough.

If You're Mink Owner, You're One in 1,666

MILWAUKEE (AP) — If you can afford to own mink you're a rarity.

Officials at the International Live Mink Show here said industry figures show that only one in every 1,666 American women wears mink.

Stretcher Bearers Find Him Unbearable

OLEAN, N.Y. (AP) — When on an ambulance run struggled down twisting flights of stairs, carefully carrying a man on a stretcher.

At the bottom, they put the stretcher down to rest.

The "victim" apiled some mail in his mailbox, calmly got up and removed it, then lay down again with the remark: "I might want to read this in the hospital."

Recently, when northern lights illuminated the sky over Washington, several radio frames telephoned their stations to ask where the fire was.

Plan to Show 'Bird Man' Film to Jail Inmates

DETROIT (UPI) — Prisoners at the Wayne County Jail will be treated to a private screening of the movie, "Bird Man of Alcatraz", next Monday in the jail's chapel.

Also on hand for the first showing of the life story of convicted murderer Robert Stroud, as portrayed by Burt Lancaster, will be local law enforcement chiefs.

The prisoners will be ushered to their seats by armed guards who will remain posted during the showing of the film.

"Bird Man of Alcatraz" deals with the life of a convict who learned six languages and became an expert on the treatment of birds during 53 years in prison, 43 of the years spent in solitary confinement.

Los Angeles registered 2,470,000 residents in 1960, an increase of 25 per cent in 10 years.

Open White House Twice Usual Time

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House, long closed to tourists on legal holidays, will be open today for twice the usual time.

Visitors may tour the mansion between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. Regular tourist hours on weekdays are from 9 a.m. until 11 a.m. A long ban on holiday tours was broken Monday night at his vacation home in the absence of Gov. John A. Volpe, who is attending the national Governors Conference.

Massachusetts Now Permits Golf on Sunday

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — A revised "blue laws" bill went into effect yesterday in Massachusetts in time for the Fourth of July holiday.

Li. Gov. Edward F. McLaughlin Jr. signed the measure into law Monday night at his vacation home in the absence of Gov. John A. Volpe, who is attending the national Governors Conference.

The bill, enacted Monday, contains 43 changes in the old "Sunday laws."

MORE LIBERAL

The new provisions grant permission to:

Sell food seven days a week in stores employing no more than two persons.

Keep gift shops and antique stores open on Sundays and holidays.

Show real estate on Sundays and holidays.

Bowl and play golf on Sundays and holidays.

Would Transport Chiang Troops to Mainland China

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., says that if he were president he would seriously consider transporting Chiang Kai-shek's troops on Formosa to China.

"The only alternative," he said, in an interview published today by the Long Beach Independent, "is to lose all of Asia and the Western Pacific, including eventually Australia and New Zealand."

He said he did not believe an American-supported invasion of China would lead to a major war.

"The Russians already are supplying Red China," he said. "The question is how much naval and air support we would give and for how long."

Antimony, a metal that isn't very metallic, is produced mainly in China, South Africa, Bolivia and Mexico. Antimony and other semimetals are under study for possible use in faster transistors.

Newsman's Wife Dies

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — The wife of a longtime Grand Rapids newspaperman, 85-year-old Mrs. John M. Kelly died yesterday at St. Mary's Hospital following a cerebral hemorrhage. Her husband has been managing editor 13 years at the Western Michigan Catholic and is a former city editor of the defunct Grand Rapids Herald.

It is claimed that a process of hydrogen fluoride alkylation can produce gasoline with a 105 to 108 octane rating at less than half the cost of current fuels.

Let's talk about the advantages of shopping

... at Osmun's

We've been taking a poll.

Nothing scientific, mind you. Just some questions we asked to find out why Osmun's customers keep coming back after the first sale. The answers, we think, speak for themselves.

1. "I don't feel like a 'Customer' here. Everybody is very helpful,—but they're not pushy."
2. "High quality of the clothing . . . so many famous brands that I know whenever I buy a suit it's going to fit right."
3. "It's very convenient having more than one charge plan to choose from."

4. "You feel very flattered when somebody offers to sew on a button or touch up the press on your trousers just to help out."

5. . . . I mean it helps to get advance notice of important sales before they're announced in the newspaper. Those extra few days give me the best selection."

These (and other) comments make us feel very happy because they reflect the kind of thinking that has made Osmun's your store.

Is our poll accurate?

It ought to be. It's been going on for over 30 years.

But Don't Hold Your Breath

Someday You'll Use Solar Cells

EDITOR'S NOTE:—Where will we get electricity when all the coal and oil are burned up? From atomic energy, of course, but what happens when all that's gone? Then there's that space age, the solar cell. It will turn out electricity, however. Well, maybe not forever, but as long as there's a sun to shine.

LOS ANGELES (P)—Someday you may draw all the electricity you can use from the paint on its roof and walls.

Don't hold your breath until it happens—but that's one possible earthly application of a space age gadget called the solar cell.

As you read this, solar cells are labor them.

They are converting sunlight into electricity for radios and other instruments in many satellites.

The satellite Vanguard II, powered by solar cells, has been transmitting data from space for four years and is likely to continue for many more years, perhaps even centuries.

The ultimate lifetime of a solar cell never has been determined. There's nothing to wear out, and it needs no maintenance.

About the only thing that can quiet it is damage from intense radiation or from meteorites.

That's why solar cells, or something like them, will be aboard satellites for years to come despite the hours and hours of skilled labor and money required to produce them.

A one-square-yard solar panel costs about $20,000.

Scientists now are hunting cheaper ways of converting the sun's energy into electricity. In place of costly crystals now used in solar cells, they'd like to develop a spray paint or a thin film, applied in two layers, which would do the same thing.

The solar cells most commonly used today are thin slivers of silicon crystal, about one-fourth the width of a safety razor blade.

They are sliced from a rod of crystal artificially "grown" from molten silicon.

Silicon is heated until it melts. A bar is dipped into the hot liquid and withdrawn. The silicon crystallizes quickly into a rod which can be cut into slivers.

The slivers are frosted with another chemical, such as boron or arsenic, and placed in a furnace to bake. This bonds the two layers together. Then two wires are attached, one to each layer of the sliver.

When sunlight hits the cell it dislodges some of the electrons in both layers. They start moving around, trying to find a spot vacated by some other dislodged electron. Some do find an "empty chair." Some do not. Those that fail keep moving, and this sets up an electrical current which can be drawn off through the attached wires.

The pressure of the incoming light rays keeps the electrons moving in a current as long as the cell is in sunlight.

TOO LITTLE TO MEASURE

The current each cell generates is almost too little to measure. Assembled into a panel like those on the Ranger moon satellite, the combined cells can deliver quite a jolt.

Each of the two 6-foot panels on Ranger 4, which crashed into the moon last April, contained 4,346 cells capable of putting out a total of 90 watts—15 more than you call into play when you turn on a 75-watt light bulb.

Dr. Bernd Ross, research scientist for Hoffman Electronics, where the solar cells for three-fourths of all U.S. satellites are made, predicts hundreds of applications for solar cells will open up as soon as less expensive materials can be found.

The firm already has marketed a small transistor radio powered by solar cells. Soon it will install solar-powered emergency call boxes on Los Angeles freeways.

Stranded motorists will be able to send a radio signal for help just by pushing a button.

"It may be some time before solar cells on roofs will power the average American home," says Ross. "Utility companies have a great deal invested in generating plants and transmission lines, and they will be able to deliver electricity economically for years to come."

Dr. Borna praised the progress that has been made and urged Grand Rapids citizens to keep up the good work. In some areas, new facilities are only in the blueprint stage, he pointed out.

There still is work to be done.

Bridge That's Truly Free Will Soon Link 2 States

ST. LOUIS (P)—Seven large bridges over the Mississippi River link Missouri and Illinois at St. Louis and an eighth will soon be built.

One of the bridges is known as the "Free Bridge"—but it isn't. The city built the bridge and intended it to be used without cost after bonds had been retired. The bonds have been paid off but the city has never removed the tolls.

The new bridge will be free.

Grand Rapids has added a handicapped youth program.

Known as Butler Hall, the facility, which opened in November, provides occupational therapy for 21 young people, who do low-profit simple work for local manufacturers in a sheltered workshop setting.

Lincoln School Foundation, a United Community Services and critics of the Grand Rapids scene, seen the expansion in child care facilities as just part of the recent enthusiasm in the city which spurred many developments, including two huge urban renewal projects.

"Success breeds success," Dr. Borna said. "Enthusiasm is contagious. People who have seen one project succeed are encouraged to work for another."

And he added, "Grand Rapids has lagged in its facilities for youth."

Among the new aids for children in the city are two homeless residences for children who need outside placement because of delinquency or unavailable home environments.

They are the Christian Youth Home, Inc., which provides a residence for 15 girls, and the Christian Home for Boys, Inc., which runs Wedgwood Acres, a recently opened facility for boys from 12 to 16 years of age.

Both organizations are supported by private donations.

For retarded youngsters who have completed all the schooling and training possible, the Pine Rest Christian Hospital Association, an institution partly supported by gifts from members of the churches of the Reformed Person, has since 1946 trained Grand Rapids' retarded children who have brain self-care, most of the time in day, crowded rented quarters in one of the Grand Rapids junior college buildings.

In June a campaign was successfully completed to raise $350,000 for construction of a Lincoln School building on an 80-acre site outside the city. It will train 150 students, 58 more than present capacity. Construction is expected to start soon, with a hoped-for deadline for completion of Jan. 1.

Another UCS service, the St. John's Home, an orphanage which is run by the Catholic Service Bureau, was housed since 1892 in a dark forbidding Charles Dickens-type building on a Grand Rapids hillside.

In October the new well-lighted $250,000 brick building is scheduled for opening to house 46 to 64 homeless children. The move was raised by the Roman Catholic diocese of Grand Rapids.

Also now under construction is the new Kent County Children's Home for Dependent or Neglected Children. The new building will have space for accommodating 28 boys and 14 girls, with classrooms, workshops, a chapel, gymnasium and food service area.

In addition it will house the Juvenile Court with office space for caseworkers and other personnel. The $1,040,000 structure replaces the present Kent County Children's Receiving Home, which accommodates a maximum of 15 to 17 children.

Dr. Borna praised the progress that has been made and urged Grand Rapids citizens to keep up the good work. In some areas, new facilities are only in the blueprint stage, he pointed out.

There still is work to be done.

Agonizing Wait Begins in State Reapportionment Suit

LANING (AP) — An agonizing wait is now before legislators and others with important stakes in a suit by August Scholle, Michigan AFL-CIO president, to force the State Senate district system.

"I am convinced that it is the most important matter in our generation," Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley told the high court yesterday. The decision, he said, "will affect all the people of this great state and affect their type of government for generations to come."

The court heard its minutes of arguments on the historic dispute, then took the case under advisement. Court observers predicted a decision would be handed down this month.

Kelley, siding with Scholle, contended the Senate apportionment violates the equal protection of the laws guarantee of the U.S. Constitution. He said the population in Oakland County District is 77 times as much as the 12th District in the western Upper Peninsula.

INTERVENING SOLONS

Edmund E. Shepherd, former state solicitor general, argued for Republican state senators intervening in the suit that the apportionment was approved by voters when they amended the state constitution in 1952.

The 54 districts, based on both area and population, were drawn up "as a system of checks and balances to protect the people against excesses of the majority," he said.

Sen. John W. Fitzgerald, R-Grand Ledge, one of three Republican senators intervening as defendants, said afterward that Michigan will be headed toward a unitary central legislature if the court agrees that both houses should be apportioned strictly according to population.

The court heard the case two years ago, but took a second look at it under orders from the U.S. Supreme Court. The federal court ruled, contrary to the Michigan court, that disputes over legislative apportionment are a proper matter for judicial review.

Six of the eight justices now on the court heard the case two years ago. Justices Leeland W. Carr, Harry F. Kelley and John S. Bethman, voting with the majority, upheld the apportionment system.

Justices Thomas M. Kavanagh and Theodore Souris supported Scholle's argument. Justice Eugene F. Black went with the majority, but on the ground that Scholle had no remedy in the courts even though he believed his constitutional rights had been violated.

The recent Baker vs. Carr decision by the U.S. court supplied the remedy.

TO PLAY KEY ROLE

If the judges stick with their previous opinions, Justice Otis M. Smith of Flint will play a key role in the decision. Smith and Justice Paul L. Adams are recent additions to the court and Adams has disqualified himself from the case since he argued for the state when he was attorney general two years ago.

Theodore Sachs, attorney for Scholle, asked the supreme court to cancel the Aug. 7 primary election for senators and scheduled.

'Doomed Killers Given Blades'

Ex-Con Says 6 Death Row Inmates Prepared Months in Advance

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—An ex-convict claims six killers in San Quentin Prison death row obtained 14 hacksaw blades through the plumbing system months before Monday's unsuccessful escape attempt.

The ex-convict, released last April after serving a forgery sentence at San Quentin, told the San Francisco Chronicle the blades were attached to strings and pulled up from a floor below through pipes connecting two toilets.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown ordered an investigation of the attempt to break out of death row, the first since 1945. The killers, awaiting execution in the gas chamber, cut through bars of their cells, clubbed two guards, seized their guns and held them hostage for three hours. They surrendered after a barrage of tear gas bombs.

Elect Liz Taylor to School Board; Don't Worry . . .

OKEMOS (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor is elected secretary of a school board. That's right. This Elizabeth Taylor, however, is not the glamorous and controversial actress. Newly elected as secretary of the Okemos School Board is Mrs. Elizabeth S. Taylor, attractive grey-blond housewife, wife of a Michigan State University professor of philosophy and mother of two daughters, 18 and 14.

"I get kidded about it all the time," she admitted on the name's same business. "I've learned to take it in stride."

via a special primary, giving the legislature a chance first to re-apportion the Senate.

Kelley called on the court to "act boldly," but said the legislature should have a "reasonable but definite" time limit on mapping out a new apportionment without holding up the regular primary election.

Sachs proposed election of the senators from the state at-large if the legislature drags its feet, drawing the candidates from among those who filed for the primary. Kelley suggested appointment of the bipartisan board of state canvassers to do the job if the legislature does not heed the court's directive to reapportion.

Both Sachs and the attorney general felt there was ample time for adoption of a reapportionment plan before the Nov. 6 general election, especially since the legislature is still in session. Justice Kelley asked Sachs to explain why the Senate districting plan, drawn along county boundaries, is not valid when the U.S.

Senate is made up of two members from each state, large and small. "Because the states are sovereign governments and counties are not," Sachs replied. Sachs lashed into the Senate's refusal to confirm Scholle's appointment by Gov. Swainson to the State Conservation Commission, but was interrupted by Carr, who questioned whether the dispute had any bearing on the case.

Sen. Carlton H. Morris, R-Kalamazoo, chairman of the Senate Interim Judiciary Committee, said he is on the "argument" and asserted that a ruling for Scholle would be a political decision. His committee has offered legal counsel to help act in the case. Fitzgerald assailed talk by some Republican lawmakers that the legislature should impeach the high court if it rules for Scholle. "This wild talk of impeachment is out of the question and should be given no credence," he said.

'JFK, Mateos Fixed on Cuba'

Salinger Says Neither Changed Other's Mind on Trip to Mexico

WASHINGTON (U) — President Kennedy and President Adolfo Lopez Mateos of Mexico discussed their conflicting positions on Cuba fully and frankly, but neither changed the other's mind, the White House said yesterday.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger gave that reply to newsmen's questions about discussions between the two presidents during Kennedy's weekend trip to Mexico City.

"There has been no change in American policy on this subject, and as far as I know, there has been no change in the policy of the Mexican government," Salinger added.

The U.S. government has broken diplomatic relations with the regime of Prime Minister Fidel Castro, has limited exports to some food and drugs and has tried to nullify any Castro influence on the rest of the hemisphere.

The Mexican government, on the other hand, still recognizes the Castro regime and has followed a more friendly policy toward Cuba.

Getty Is the Man Paying $532,000 for Rembrandt

LONDON (U) — American oil millionaire J. Paul Getty was the mystery buyer who paid $532,000 last week for Rembrandt's portrait of St. Bartholomew.

"I did not want a lot made of it at the time because there is always so much broo-ha-ha when anybody buys a painting of that value," Getty said.

Getty may send the painting on a tour of British galleries. It will probably wind up in his collection at Sutton Place, his palatial home near Guildford, in Surrey.

Could Make Vassals of Europe, Japan, Maybe U.S. Reds Using Oil to Create Power Monster

WASHINGTON (U) — Senate investigators were told today that oil is the principal weapon of the Soviet economic offensive and in the last eight years has created "a power monster."

"In a matter of another decade or two, it will have produced for the Soviet Union an industrial capability that could make economic vassals of Europe and Japan . . . and that could undermine the security of the United States," Samuel Nakasian testified.

Nakasian, a New York lawyer specializing in foreign trade and investment, said the Soviet bloc is exploring increasing quantities of oil at cut-rate prices in return for equipment and materials needed to strengthen its industrial base.

He appeared before the Senate internal security subcommittee at a hearing conducted by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y.

Keating, in an opening statement, called Soviet oil exports "the latest and in some ways the most effective weapon the Soviets have found in their well-stocked arsenal of weapons against free private initiative."

"The Soviets are dumping oil at bargain prices throughout the free world" for political and military as well as economic reasons, he said.

Nakasian testified that in the last 10 years "the Soviet bloc has increased petroleum exports from a minor five million barrels to a colossal quarter of a billion barrels annually."

Crude oil to the West is priced at about half the price charged satellite nations, he said.

And he said that since 1953 the Soviet Union has developed a huge network of pipelines, by drawing on Europe and Japan for pipe and other materials.

He also said the Soviet Union appears to be incurring no resistance in placing orders for oil tankers in the shipyards of Finland, France, Denmark, the United Kingdom and Japan.

"The conclusion is inescapable," Nakasian said, "that the technology of free work is making a critical contribution toward development of the Soviet bloc into one of the world's greatest petroleum producing areas."

Italy, West Germany, Japan and Sweden are among the major importers of Soviet oil, Nakasian said, and they in turn provide Russia with important industrial equipment.

He testified that action by the United States alone to control exports "has little or no effect on the Soviet's ability to exploit the western markets for its own ends."

"If the free world is to prevent the Soviet economic offensive from undermining its security," he added, "A common agreement must be reached by the great industrial powers."

Local Institution Wins Loan Bid

Community Bank OK'd to Continue Financing City's Urban Renewal

Community National Bank will continue financing loans for urban renewal operating expenses in Pontiac.

City commissioners gave final approval to the bank's low bid for a $3,597,000 loan at last night's City Commission meeting.

The bank offered to buy the preliminary loan notes at a 1.5 per cent annual interest rate. They offered the lowest rate of five bidders for the notes.

The loans are made every six months.

Part of the money is used to retire outstanding loan notes and the rest to finance urban renewal operations in the R20 project. The notes have a maturity of six months.

This was the fourth such loan. Community National also has been low bidder on the previous three loans. Bids are received from major banks throughout the nation.

This is the city's second largest loan for urban renewal to date. The last loan, in December, was for $3.71-million.

David S. Teel, assistant city manager, explained the drop was due to forthcoming federal funds. A $38,000 progress payment is expected in the near future to help repay outstanding notes.

WHL PAY OFF

When the project is completed, applied federal grants and income from resale of property, plus the city share of cash payments are required, will have paid off all outstanding loans.

Community National's bids have ranged from 1.44 to 1.6 per cent on the four loans.

Others bidding for the current loan notes were Morgan Guaranty, Bankers Trust Co. and Solomon Bros. & Hutzler, all of New York City, and The Bank of America and First National City Bank of San Francisco.

All It Takes Is Faith

... and a Phony Sword

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—An alert priest, armed with a mock sword, trapped a would-be burglar who attempted to loot the parlor in the Immaculate Heart Church of Phoenix.

The Rev. Dominic Fonseca said he was awakened by the ringing of an alarm he had wired to the parlor. The only weapon he could find with a stage prop sword. The intruder didn't know the difference and Father Fonseca held the man at bay until police arrived.

Pontiac City Affairs

Insurance Bid Accepted

Acting on a recommendation from City Finance Director Marvin M. Alward, City Commissioners last night accepted the low bid submitted for fleet liability insurance and moved to reauthorize for workmen's compensation insurance bids.

The contract for public liability and property damage coverage for the city vehicles was awarded to Michigan Mutual Liability Co.

Michigan Mutual submitted a low bid last week of $11,897.98 for the contract but didn't bid on workmen's compensation insurance for waste collection and disposal employees.

The only other bid was $12,236.65 for fleet insurance and $228,446.31 for workmen's compensation submitted by Nationwide Mutual Insurance Co.

DOWN SLIGHTLY

That firm, however, stated it would accept only a package deal. The fleet insurance cost this year is slightly less than it was a year ago.

An amendment to a section of the Water Revenue Bond Ordinance was also introduced and given preliminary approval.

The ordinance establishes water rates to be charged after Detroit water is in use here and spells out the financing procedure for Pontiac's water system improvements.

The amendment, requested by the city's bond counsel, merely changes a maturity date in the ordinance so as to conform with state regulations.

In other business, commissioners granted final approval to a request from Charles Gierlein and Thomas Reeling, owners of the Pink Poodle Lounge, 21 E. Pike St., to add space to their establishment.

Motorist Shows Police Concern Is Unnecessary

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP)—Maybe police concern over the auto device supposed to warn motorists of radar traps is unnecessary.

State trooper L. A. Cataris reports a driver passed his radar check point within the speed limit, then turned around, came back and said: "Never buy one of these radars — all I heard as I passed you was a weak beep."

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Jack Frost doesn't turn plants brown here, he makes plants healthier.

Frost is a former Ohio engineer who moved to Florida and turned a gardening hobby into a commercial plant growing career.

Plumbers to Get Raise in Frisco

Wage, Fringe Hikes of $2.22 an Hour by 1965 to Hit Top Rate in U.S.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Wage and fringe increases totaling $2.22 an hour in three years will give San Francisco area union plumbers an hourly wage rate of $7.50 an hour by July 1, 1965.

"This is believed to be the highest rate for plumbers and steam fitters in the country," Joseph Mazzola, business agent for Plumbers Local 2, says.

The contract covers San Francisco, Marin, Sonoma and Mendocino counties. The present contract provides a $4.50 hourly wage plus 76 cents in fringe benefits.

"Starting July 1, 1965, wages will be $5.71 1/2 per hour, with fringe benefits of $1.83 1/2 per hour for a total of $7.55," Mazzola said.

The work day for plumbers and steam fitters will be cut from eight to seven hours on that date.

Fringe benefits include provision for dental and optical care, supplementary death and disability allowances, unemployment aid, vacations, and a convalescent home at Clear Lake, Calif.

Hartford Company Sold

HARTFORD (AP)—Plastic Plaque Products of Hartford has been sold by retiring owner Leo Basson to Charles Fred of Port Huron, for an undisclosed sum and is expected to be moved to the new owner's city within one month. The firm, with five employees, has been located at Hartford since 1961.

Cubans Unable to Meet Quota

Communist Party Boss Admits Sugar Output Below Estimates

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP)—Cuban Communist chief Blas Roca said yesterday Cuba will be unable to meet its sugar commitments with the Soviet bloc and other countries this year. He blamed the low sugar crop on poor government planning and incertitude.

"We do not mind admitting our mistakes," Roca told The Associated Press. He contended, however, that the Cuban economy is now on the upswing and the situation looks brighter.

The 56-year-old Roca, rated as Cuba's No. 2 man after Premier Fidel Castro, heads Cuba's three-man delegation to the Uruguay-Communist party Congress which closes tomorrow.

He denounced the United States for "the economic blockade they imposed on us. Of course this blockade seriously hurt us since our industry and even our tastes and whole national way of life was tailored to the American way."

But he asserted "we are surprised that stage and are effectively reorganizing our industry and inner production despite the U.S. blockade."

Growing popular unrest had been reported lately in Cuba because of worsening economic conditions.

Roca said the sugar crop this year amounted to only 4.9 million tons or about 1.5 million tons less than expected. The Cuban economy depends almost entirely on sugar exports.

'Around World' Slated for Debut on the Stage

NEW YORK (AP)—"Around the World in 80 Days" is being reshaped into a stage musical by Michael Todd Jr., son of the hit movie's producer.

Sammy Fein and Harold Adamson have been commissioned to write six songs to supplement the original film score by Victor Young, and a revamped script is being prepared by Sig Herzig. First exhibit of the work is to be at the St. Louis Municipal opera this month.

this is the sixth of its type transferred to Viet Nam to replace obsolete models. The 1,000-ton ship carries a crew of 50.

Businessmen of South Africa rarely grow taller than five feet.

Does She Nag? Well, Stand Up to Her!

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

My sister-in-law has nagged her 15-year-old son into a nervous cough. The doctor practically told this to my brother. Though the boy is an outstanding student, she's after him night after night to get all his homework.

I've heard her pester him for a whole afternoon about mailing a birthday card to her mother. She's a very nervous woman herself. As my brother says, he has his real estate business to escape into but the boy has no escape.

ANSWER: We should not run away from naggers either into business offices or nervous coughs. All such evasion does is to add to the poor things' problem: their unconscious conviction that nobody can be trusted to fulfill their obligations to them.

This that is a neurotic conviction is proved by the nagger's inability to register facts. Take your sister-in-law. Though her son has clearly proved that he can get good school marks by the use of his own energies, she does not trust them.

LIVES WITH PAST
She believes that unless she pushes him to study, he won't study.

Once we note this blind suspiciousness of the nagger, we realize that at all but with someone in her past — often a partner ent whose unreliability so frightened her that she has never dared to recapture the brighter things it aroused in her.

We begin to see why any encounter with normal resistance to what she wants is certain evidence that we, too, intend to let her down. We perceive that she is confusing us with people in her past who hurt her deeply.

Sometimes, if we can sufficiently appreciate our own record of responsible behavior toward the nagger, we can confront her with the disparity between her suspiciousness of us and what we deserve.

Instead of running away from her into devotion to a real estate business, we can turn on her and say, "It's time for you to meet your family. I am your husband who feeds you, shelters you and is faithful to you. This is your son who does much of what you expect him to do. I don't know who you are confusing us with but the confusion is making us all unhappy. We have not let you down in any serious way and now want to be treated as the reliable people we are."

PUT UP WITH IT?
But if we are not sure of our reliability, we will put up with the nagger's hounding distrust of it. Instead of standing up for our responsible treatment of her, we will allow her to pursue us with the reproachful demands that belong to somebody in her past.

When they become too persistent, we will run away from her. That we are also running away from the moral obligation to declare ourselves as we are to her is what we do not see.

Yet that is what she needs. When we duck out, we simply reinforce her harassing belief that she is the only responsible person in the world. When we duck out, we justify her nagging.

Larry Mattinglys Honeymoon in South After Church Wedding

Before a flower-banked altar Saturday evening, Kay Adler became the bride of Larry Mattingly with the Rev. Philip Somers of Marimont

Baptist Church performing the ceremony.

Parents of the newlyweds are the Auston Adlers of Ernest Court and the Webb Mattinglys of Stanley Avenue.

The bride appeared in imported white silk organza over tulle and taffeta, styled with a deep lace drop extending from a draped waistline to the chapel train. Her veil of French illusion was attached to a Swedish crown of pearls and crystals. She carried white orchids, roses and Stephanotis and wore the bridegroom's diamond gift pendant.

Her maid of honor, Carmen Williams, and bridesmaids, Reba Adler, aunt of the bride; Mrs. Donald Asselin, cousin of the bride; and junior bridesmaid, Debbie Adler, sister of the bride, wore lilac-pink peau de soie styled with white shirred bodices and carried pink carnations and roses.

Best man was William Stone, Garden City, and assisting with the seating were Gary Wilborn, Dayton, Ohio, cousin of the bride; Sam Pankey, cousin of the bridegroom; and Randy Adler, brother of the bride. Ringbearer was her younger brother Charles.

Mr. and Mrs. Mattingly left for a honeymoon in the South after the church reception and will return to a home on Stanley Avenue.

The mother of the bride wore a turquoise silk linen sheath and corsage of pink sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's mother chose a moss green lace over silk. Her flowers were yellow roses.

Kay Adler, daughter of the Auston Adlers of Ernest Court, and Larry Mattingly, son of the Webb Mattinglys of Stanley Avenue, were married Saturday in Marimont Baptist Church.

Attractive, Pretty Hand With Cream

To gain the maximum beauty benefit from the use of hand lotion, apply it to your hands as carefully as you apply your foundation make-up to your face.

Try using Swedish formula hand cream and massaging it into the skin thoroughly, using the same motion you would to pull on a long pair of snug fitting gloves. Start at the finger tips and massage one finger at a time using short, firm strokes that work toward the center of the hand. Continue massaging over the palm and back of the hand, past the wrist and onto the arm until all of the cream is absorbed and the skin feels soft and smooth. This daily routine will keep your hands looking beautifully smooth and attractive. If hands are especially rough or cracked, use the hand cream several times a day.

One Set for Each

It's a good idea to keep two sets of clean towels, distinguished by different colors or patterns, near the kitchen sink — one set for drying dishes, the other for wiping hands.

Billups-Evans Vows Told

Couple Honey-mooning at Fair

Spending part of their honeymoon in Seattle at the World's Fair are Mr. and Mrs. Edgar P. Billups, who will reside on West Pike Street on their return.

Janet Dee Evans and Edgar P. Billups spoke their vows June 23 before Rev. George Widdfield at All Saints Episcopal Church, where the altar was decorated with white and gold bunting and pink and white carnations.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Evans of Lakeland Avenue, Sylvan Lake and the late Dr. and Mrs. E. P. Billups, Leaskville, N. C.

The reception was held in the Rose Kneale Room of the church with 300 guests present.

The new Mrs. Billups wore a Chantilly lace and tulle floor length gown with crosses over pleats at the waist. The bodice of fitted lace was accented with long lace sleeves. Holding the bouffant veil of silk illusion in place was a cap of pearlized beads with trillium flowers. She carried two prayerbooks covered with phalaenopsis orchids and Stephanotis. Matron of honor was Mrs. Charles W. Whom of Ann Arbor.

Attendants were Marjorie Baker and Mrs. Richard Kistner.

Bridesmaids and matron of honor were gowned alike in white with organza and tulle street length dresses with headpieces of bands of bows with a double veil. They carried blue delphiniums, yellow daisies, blue cornflowers and pink roses.

The best man was Thomas Butler of Philadelphia, Pa. Assisting with the seating were David Evans of Evanston, Ill., and Richard Muehlberger of Bloomfield Hills.

For her going-away costume, the bride chose a pink summer suit and wore her flowers.

The mother of the bride wore a blue silk sheath with lace trim. The bridegroom's aunt also wore a blue silk dress with a white hat and shoes.

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH SOMOGYI

Celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday will be Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Somogyi of Stirling Avenue. The couple has two daughters, Mrs. Gunnar Gustavson of Montroyal Avenue and Mrs. Claude Parcels of Drayton Plains, and four grandchildren.

Supermarket Subs for Sewing Circle

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assoc.
What's the real neighborhood social center for busy housewives living in the suburbs?

Why, it's the supermarket, of course. And it has gained its place just as naturally as the country store once turned the cracker barrel into a sort of round table.

For a week or two at a time, a housewife may not have time to visit a neighbor. But every day — if she takes herself to the supermarket that most of her neighbors patronize — she can visit up and down the aisles and while standing in line at the check-out counter.

While she picks a cantaloupe and matches up potatoes according to size, she can find out just about everything that is going on in the neighborhood.

If a conversation gets really interesting she just parks her basket and stands and talks as though she were at an afternoon tea or morning coffee.

Of course, she does her marketing at the accepted time in her neighborhood — the time that is sure to be the most crowded.

Managers of markets may wonder why women crowd in at certain hours of the day instead of making their marketing easier by going at off hours.

The reason is, of course, that women don't like an empty store any more than they like to be the first to arrive at a party.

They want a crowd around — even though it means standing in line — because in the crowd there will be familiar faces and a chance to turn what could be a boring chore into a bit of pleasant chit-chat.

That is what has turned the neighborhood supermarket into the neighborhood social center.

Learn something new, read Ruth Millett's booklet, "Happier Wives (Hints for husbands)." Just send 25 cents to Ruth Millett Reader Service, care of The Pontiac Press, P.O. Box 489, Dept. A, Radio City Station, New York 13, N.Y.

Garments Shape to Hanger's Cue

With today's popular "sloped" shoulder lines, wide jutting hangers can leave unsightly wing-tips in their wake. To retain your garment's shape it's best to button it up on a padded or wooden contour hanger, shoulders nicely eased into place.

If you don't have enough wooden hangers, the National Institute of Dry Cleaning has a clothes-saving tip: strengthen two wire hangers by taping them together. Then bend them to match the shoulder line of each garment.

Abby Says: Not Always

More Blessed to Give?...

By ANSGAR VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A minister and his wife who live in our neighborhood have a brood of children who are happy, outgoing and generous — especially with communicable diseases.

Their children are never too ill to stay at home and instead of welcoming

ABBY: "Slow me down, Lord. Ease the pounding of my heart by quieting my mind. Steady my hurried pace. Give me calmness amidst the confusion of my day. Break the tension of my nerves with nothing music that lives in my memory."

Girl Needs to Be Told About Food

By the Emily Post Institute

Q: I have been asked by a boy I know to go on a picnic with him and several other couples next Saturday. Nothing has been said about the food and I don't know whether or not I am supposed to bring the food for myself and for my boy friend.

I have been told that the girl always brings the food for a picnic. Will you please advise me on this matter?

A: Unless it is an established custom in your community for each girl, when she is invited to go on a picnic, to bring the food for herself and her boy friend, he would hardly expect you to do so without having even discussed the question of food with you.

Q: Our son is going to be married shortly. We approve of the girl and their marriage, but her parents are deeply opposed to the marriage because of religious differences and will have nothing whatever to do with it.

Would it be permissible for us, the parents of the groom, to send out wedding announcements? We have numerous friends and relatives and would like them to know of the marriage.

A: Under the circumstances, it will be best for your son and his bride to announce their own marriage as follows:

Miss Mary Jones and Mr. Henry Smith announce their marriage etc.

When and how to introduce people seems to puzzle many. The new Emily Post Institute booklet entitled "Introductions," gives helpful information on this subject. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Emily Post Institute, care of The Pontiac Press.

that the Lord will watch over their souls, but don't you think they could serve Him by giving Him a little help? "POXED IN AND POXED OUT"

DEAR POXED: A meane, mump or pox doesn't assume a more lovable quality just because it came from a minister's child. Advise the offending Mama and Papa that it's not always more blessed to give than to receive.

This wonderful "prayer" was sent to me by a friend. Does anyone know the author? "Slow me down, Lord. Ease the pounding of my heart by quieting my mind. Steady my hurried pace. Give me calmness amidst the confusion of my day. Break the tension of my nerves with nothing music that lives in my memory."

"Help me to know the magical restoring powers of sleep. Teach me the art of taking minute vacations ... of slowing down to chat with a friend, to read a good book, to look at a flower."

"Remind me each day of the fable of the hare and the tortoise, that I may know that there is more to life than speed. Let me look upward toward the branches of the tree that grow great and strong because it grew slowly. Slow me down, Lord, slow me down."

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem. This girl in my office eats onions for lunch every day and I have to work with her. Her breath could almost knock you down. I mean it. Don't tell me to eat onions, too. I can't stand them.

Fishermen Given Tips on Treating Their Catch

Writer Bradford Angier, in the July issue of Better Homes & Gardens, offers these fish frying tips to make your summer's catch more delicious:

Open and clean your catch as soon after landing as possible. Leave on the head and tail where the sweetest meats lie.

To scale a fish, scrape from tall toward head — the edge of an ordinary dime-store tablespoon does the job, or use knife or scaler.

To keep your catch moist and tender, and to bring out its delicate flavor, cook only till the fish loses its translucent look.

Before the fish goes in the pan, says the article, salt inside and out. The taste will be further enhanced if you also sprinkle the inside with pepper and lemon juice.

Cheese and Nuts Will Liven Macaroni Salad

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cheese, out macaroni, salad makes a tangy, nourishing lunch.

Cook ½ pound (2 cups) of elbow macaroni according to package directions. Drain. Rinse with cold water. Drain again.

Combine with 1 cup (about ½ pound) grated cheddar cheese, 2 ½ cups of chopped walnuts, 2 tablespoons of capers and ½ cup of french dressing. Toss lightly. Chill. Serve on crisp lettuce. Serves 4 to 6.

Scant the Sugar

Ever mix instant onion with melted butter and spread the mixture over the tops of muffins before baking? This topping is fine for muffin batter that contains only a small amount of sugar.

The farmer now receives less than 40 cents of the food dollar, 10 cents less than a decade ago.

Line Up Ice Cream on Orange Slices

Minty raisin topping for brownies: Make brownies from a mix or your favorite recipe. As they come from the oven, place raisin cream patties all over top. Sprinkle with California raisins. As patties melt, swirl with raisins for pretty rocky road effect.

Topping will harden again as it cools and contrast deliciously with the sweet chewy raisins.

Cottage Cheese Boxes Have Additional Uses

The new colorful plastic cottage cheese containers have many uses for children. The 12-ounce size makes excellent cereal bowls for the young ones. The smaller ones in which sour cream and dips are now marketed, are ideal for children's parties. They can be used for ice cream, pudding, fruit mixtures.

Also, small favors may be made using the container as a base and making a flower pot with ice cream as the earth and lollipop as flowers.

Honey Gives Ideal Taste to Summer Drinks

Summer drinks seem to taste better when sweetened just a bit with honey. A teaspoonful of honey stirred in just before serving will make the beverage smooth and refreshing.

Sometimes hot drinks can be just as refreshing in midsummer as cool ones. Try this hot honey lemonade: Combine the juice of 1 lemon and 2 tablespoons honey in a glass. Add enough hot water to fill the glass to within 1 inch of the top.

Green Bean Salad

Drain a can of blue lake green beans, marinate in your favorite salad dressing and chill until dinner time. Toss beans and dressing with greens, sliced radishes, and just as refreshing in midsummer as ripe olive wedges.

Ask Probe GOP for Cotton Deals

Agriculture Officials Want Justice Dept. to View Sales Under Ike

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Agriculture Department said yesterday it would ask the Justice Department to investigate allegations that Eisenhower administration farm officials permitted manipulation of sales of government-owned cotton.

The Government Accounting Office (GAO) said in a report to Congress Monday that some private companies were allowed to buy more than $400 million in cotton from the government from 1953 to 1958 at prices support levels, then sold it back to themselves at prices "which may have been less than fair value."

The GAO said this was an "apparent conflict of interest." It suggested that Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman ask Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy to consider legal action to recover money that may have been lost by the government under the arrangement.

Horace Godfrey, administrator of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service of the Agriculture Department, said today the matter would be referred immediately to the Justice Department.

Godfrey said he would have done this before now but was prevented from doing so until the GAO report was issued.

Labor Leader Heckled at Convention

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Labor leader James C. Carey, who believes the National Education Association is cutting its own throat by opposing teacher unions—even though he didn't get to say it in his speech to the NEA convention Tuesday night.

Carey, president of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, and vice president of the AFL-CIO, was snarled at the end of his speech—the spot he had reserved for his roundhouse punches—when a voice from the balcony of the Denver City Auditorium interrupted him.

Carey departed from his prepared text, spoke extemporaneously for four or five minutes—and through one more shouted remark—then sat down to a round of polite applause.

Whip Rezoning for 2nd Time

Commission Defeats Move Affecting Area of Residential Land

A move to rezone some 37 acres of residential and cemetery property at N. Perry and Ariene streets was defeated for the second time at last night's City Commission meeting.

The vote was a 3-3 deadlock, with one commissioner, Mayor Pro-Tem Wilfred E. Bolton, absent.

Because the rezoning request by National Business Brokers, Inc., of Pontiac, was met with a protest petition signed by 69.8 per cent of affected property owners, the rezoning needed approval of 75 per cent of the commission to pass.

This would have necessitated a 6-1 vote favoring the rezoning. Instead, commissioners Loy L. Ledford, William H. Taylor Jr. and Charles A. Harmon voted to approve a motion denying the request.

The motion was offered by Ledford, in whose district the proposed shopping center would have been built.

The same request was denied by a 4-3 vote of the previous commission last January.

SIDE WITH RESIDENTS
Commissioners voting against rezoning sided with residents of the area who protested a commercial development on the site and city planners who recommended the rezoning be denied.

Planners said a commercial development there would contradict recommended land use in the recently adopted Pontiac General Development Plan, that it was too close to Glenwood Plaza Shopping Center and to Pontiac Northern High and Madison Junior High School.

Containing that the city needs commercial development to boost its tax base were commissioners Dick M. Kirby, Milton R. Henry and Mayor Robert A. Landry.

About 12 residents of the affected area attended the meeting to speak against rezoning. Two supported the request.

Insists It's Fatal to Oppose Teacher Unions

For more than half an hour after the session ended, Carey stayed on the platform. He argued unionism with some of the 100 or so delegates who crowded around him from the great majority he heard apologies and thanks.

INTEGRITY PROBLEM
Earlier, a slight murmur of dissent ran through the crowd when Carey said, "The abandonment of teachers today—without unionism—is not only economic; it is a predicament also of integrity. There is more and more evidence that teachers cannot afford integrity and honesty."

The two shouts from the balcony—possibly from the same man—came when Carey was discussing the situation in New York City, in New York last year the United Federation of Teachers, an affiliate of the AFL-CIO, won bargaining rights for the 40,000 city teachers with an overwhelming victory over the NEA.

The first shout was, "Five hundred thousand dollars," and the second a few minutes later was "That's a lot of money." They were in obvious reference to a statement made by NEA Executive Secretary William G. Carr that the labor union had lost about a half million dollars in the New York fight.

'90 PCT. EXAGGERATION'
After the first shout, Carey paused and then said, "This is an exaggeration. With all respect to Dr. Carr, and a 50 per cent exaggeration but a 30 per cent exaggeration."

As special police cleared the platform and the lights went down in the auditorium, Carey told newsmen, "I stand by everything you read in my prepared text. I'll finish it right here and now if they'll let me."

The points the delegates never got to hear:
"Unionism in teaching will spread because only unions, not professional societies, can push legislation through state legislatures and Congress."
"Only unions, with the help of liberal groups, can assure legislation to construct schools, assist in raising teachers' salaries, and promise academic freedom."

SHOULDN'T OPPOSE
"At the very least the NEA shouldn't oppose unionism. It is cutting its own throat if it does. Teachers are welcoming union-

Wants Removal of Saint Statue From City Area

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A Norfolk businessman says he'll go to the U.S. Supreme Court, if necessary, to have a statue of St. Francis of Assisi removed from the city's botanical gardens.

Eugene Barry, Jr., operator of an automobile driving school, asked the City Council Tuesday to take away the statue on the grounds its presence on public property violates the doctrine of separation of church and state.

Mayor W. Fred Duckworth told Barry, a Methodist, the city council will study the matter.

The Marion Crosby Garden Club donated the $4,000 statue to the botanical gardens. It was placed there in May.

Like to Visit Bonn Aug. 1

BONN (AP)—Former President Eisenhower will arrive in Bonn Aug. 1 for a one-day visit, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said yesterday. He will be accompanied by his wife and two grandchildren and a party of friends. On a European visit, Eisenhower will come from Stockholm and fly from Bonn to Paris.

Since adult penguins usually outnumber the chicks, they are often killed in the fray.

Kennedy Pictures Raise Old Question

Do Movies Help, Hurt America's Image?

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — On this patriotic holiday both the President of the United States and his brother, the attorney general, are in the process of being depicted as heroes in two motion pictures. Prominence of the Kennedy name on film makes more significant than ever the question whether Hollywood movies enhance America's image abroad or give it a black eye.

How will these presentations of the country's first family, "PT 109" and "The Enemy Within," react on foreign moviegoers?

Movie characterization of a living president shatters precedent.

Watches Step in 'Ugly American'

Brando to Deny 'Mutiny' GooFs

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD — Movies and commentaries

Marlon Brando is planning a magazine article to answer the writings that he good off on "Mutiny on the Bounty." It will mark the first time he has replied to criticism. He doesn't care what is written about his personal life, but he is concerned about reflections on his professionalism.

Brando's adherents point out that his behavior on "The Ugly American" has been spotless. Except for two or three days when he was absent with a virus, he has always been in the film.

Brando quits work early on Wednesday afternoon about 4:30, so he could continue his court-approved visits to his son by Anna Kashfi.

No more Marilyn Monroe imitations for Edie Adams and not because of MM's current troubles. Edie has worried that she will become too identified with the devastating satire (which Marilyn really enjoys watching).

"When I did my last television special, I did the Marilyn impression against my better judgment," she says. "I figured that would be the end of it." Then the Television Academy asked if it could use a short clip from the show on the Emmy telecast. Imagine my chagrin when they picked out the Marilyn bit! That will be the last time."

Preview time: "Birdman of Alcatraz" is a fascinating study of the double murderer turned bird expert, Robert Stroud. Director John Frankenheimer again impresses as a bright new talent by the way he balances prison violence with the gentleness in handling the birds.

YEARS IN SOLITARY
Burt Lancaster is ideal casting as the prisoner, who spent over 40 years in solitary. He successfully conveys Stroud's compassion for the birds and his defiance of bridling by any human being. It is unfortunate that the producers saw fit to paste on a standard prison-break ending to what was otherwise a new and different view of the resilience of the human spirit.

"Boys Night Out" is another sex farce, but this one lacks Doris Day and Cary Grant-Rock Hudson. This one portrays Kim Novak as a graduate student seeking research on the sex life of subbanites. She shows four male "partners" to get her up in a lavish apartment.

As is necessary in such films, the script remains astonishingly innocent, though not without much steaming and heavy breathing by the males, played by James Garner, Tony Randall, Howard Duff and Howard Morris.

There are moments of real hilarity, long lagers in between. "Lolita" is now playing in the theaters, as you may have read. It seemed to this viewer a modern horror play built of satire and sex imagery. It is sometimes amusing, often repellent. The best features are Peter Sellers and Sue Lyon, who is destined for a long career, during which she may live down having been Lolita.

Recommend Repair Job on London Tower Bridge

LONDON (AP) — Engineers recommended yesterday an $7,804,000 (£2,465,000) repair job on Tower Bridge, the city's most famous span across the Thames River.

They said rainwater has seeped into the timbers which support the bridge's two sections that raise to allow ships through. The bridge will be closed weekends for three months while repairs are made.

Drives 1962 Pontiac to Qualifying Mark for Firecracker

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — The fifth major stock car race of the year, the 1962 Pontiac Firecracker 250, will be held today for the $35,000 pot of gold awaiting the winner.

Edwin Barba Matthews of Asheville, N.C., seeking his first big payoff in five years, was on the pole in the 1962 Pontiac. He drove to a new track record during qualifying for the 250-mile race—the Firecracker 250.

Matthews guided the sleek red machine twice around the 1/4-mile high banked oval at an average speed of 106.49 miles an hour. The old mark of 104.74 was set by Glenn (Fireball) Roberts of Daytona Beach.

On Matthews' right, also in a new Pontiac, was Bob McQuinn of Miami, Fla. Rounding out the top 10 were Johnny Allen of Atlanta, 1962 Pontiac; Roberts, 1962 Pontiac; David Pearson, of Spartanburg, S.C., the defending champion, 1962 Pontiac; Joe Weatherly of Norfolk, Va., 1962 Pontiac; Junior Johnson, Ronda, N. C., 1962 Pontiac; Jack Smith, of Spartanburg, S.C., 1962 Pontiac; Fred Lorenzon, Elmhurst, Ill., 1962 Ford; and Marvin Panik, Daytona Beach, 1961 Ford.

The Pontiac jockeys hoped to snap a three-race victory string held by the Holman-Moody Ford team from Charlotte, N.C. Nelson Miller of Daytona Beach captured the Rebel 300 for convertible at Darlington, S.C., and the Charlotte 600. Lorenzon won the Atlanta 300 June 24.

Al Feels Great After Running in 1st Workout

DETROIT — Al Kaline peeled off his uniform with a grin. The first time he had worn it, it had been distorted by his face was distorted by his face.

"I feel wonderful," said Kaline after the workout. "I ran for about 90 minutes and everything felt a lot better than I thought it would. I thought my legs would ache."

Kaline will work his way back into condition gradually, restricting his exercise to running for about 10 days before he starts throwing.

B&L Increases Lead in Waterford League

Bob & Larry's Bar opened a two-run game lead in Waterford Class C softball last night with a 7-1 victory over runnerup Lakeland Park.

A bases loaded triple by Dean Perko highlighted a five-run second inning for the winners. Al Servino and Bill Spier combined for a three-batter that snapped Lakeland's five-game winning streak.

Lady Wood collected a double and two singles to pace Dixie Bar past Hastings Chevrolet 13-4 in the other "C" game.

There are no games tonight.

After Two Season Golf Famine

Souchak May Feast

By BILL CORNWELL

Burly Mike Souchak won the 1960 Buick Open golf championship with a record-smashing 72-hole score of 282.

The power-hitting ex-Duke University football player has not won a single event on the PGA tour since that time.

"Iron Mike" has fond dreams of ending that two-year victory famine this week in the 8th annual Buick Open tournament which begins a four-day run Thursday at Warwick Hills Country Club.

Souchak's "starvation" on the professional circuit is a puzzling case, indeed.

One of the longest betters on the tour and also one of the circuit's finest iron players, it is difficult to imagine a golfer of Souchak's caliber going so long without a triumph.

CASH EVASIVE

Not only has Souchak failed to win an event, he's even had trouble collecting money — in large amounts, at least always played well over the sprawling Warwick course and this could be his week to snap out of the doldrums.

His Souchak's slump persists, however, then Casper is an excellent bet to win his 2nd Buick title.

Casper also seems to play well over the 7,200-yard layout and, in contrast with Souchak, round William is enjoying a terrific year on the tour.

STANDINGS

Joe Fisher got five hits in as many trips and knocked in five runs to lead Moose to a 2-3 triumph over Pirates in Junior League competition.

The Detroit Tigers' relief corps has allowed only four runs in its last 2-1 victory against the Yankees.

Jack Ellis, former Northwestern quarterback, has been named head coach of the team.

Twin Bill Today at J.C.

A holiday Class A City Baseball League double-header will be played today at Javey Park. C-1 Local 801 clashes with Don Nicholas at 5:30 p.m., followed by an S-clock battle under the lights between league-leading Detroit and Chicago, 6:05 p.m.

day's and Friday's rounds getting under way at 7 a.m.

An 18-hole playoff to complete the starting field was held Tuesday and Detroit pro Howard Brown shot a two-over-par 74 to lead nine qualifiers.

Other qualifiers were Detroit pros Willie Mosley and Sherry Wells and six amateurs — Bob Little, Athens, O.; Gene Funk, Bloomington, Ill.; Wayne Ebertson, St. Charles, Ill.; Dick Marr, Don Taylor and Doug Main, all from Flint.

Twenty-two golfers completed yesterday's trials and one of the 13 casualties was Pontiac amateur Chuck Canterbury who carded an 85.

The price of admission to the rich tournament is $1 in advance and $2 at the gate. Parking is free, Warwick Hills is just west of Grand Boulevard on the Dixie Highway.

Dick Hoover of St. Louis, one of America's best keepers over the past few years, has been given quite an honor by his fellow competitors on the Professional Bowlers Association tour.

The 32-year-old veteran has been voted the "Pro" according to an announcement by PBA officials.

A big reason for his winning the coveted honor was the reputation he has built up as being great in the clutch.

Don Carter has been everybody's champion in bowling and kept rolling on the winter tour by leading in the winnings but he rates below the solid 200-pound Hoover for key shots.

A consensus of pros at one stop was taken on a logical candidate to throw a deciding strike in the ABC Masters.

After a slow start, Hoover took the Baltimore Open and went on to win over $11,000 during the winter and spring. He has been very successful in many other events, in television competition and a member of the famed Fallstaffs.

Dick had earned over $20,455 on the lanes in 1961-62 starting the summer tourney excursion with an other highlight being the ABC duo title of 21. He won the ABC Masters in 1956 and '57 and was runner-up to Carter here in Detroit two years ago.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new D.C. stadium was put to its first test when the major league All-Star baseball game will be played for the first time on July 10) was built by an ambassador and certified by the Fine Arts Commission of Washington and Norm Cash of the Detroit Tigers.

The $24 million playground, financed by Federal funds, boasts a special runway for umpires, "so that fans can't spit on their necks," and a "jail" for fractious customers.

There will be a quorum of single games of qualifying and a cut to 32. Another cut to 16 will follow and those left will battle head-to-head. Scoring will be on 60 per cent handicap, 100 scratch system.

Two Sheboygan, Wisconsin women had a scintilla of series. One hit 419-418-417 and the other 106-107-108.

Herb Case says Detroit Bowling Association hoping to increase interest all the more in its annual big tourney by reducing entry fees and constituting $15,000 to prize fund to greater appeal to little guys. It will be the golden jubilee of the event and special pens will be given out as souvenirs of the occasion. Other plans in the mill by the GDBA are for setting up an average book and awards program.

THE PALMER METHOD

CROOKED SHOTS?
CHECK SHOULDERS

Crooked shots with iron can often be traced to crooked shoulders of address. This may be true even though the swing seems good.

If the shoulders (and, later, the hips) line up left of the target, a pull will often result.

A push will sometimes find the shoulders in this position.

Take a look at your divot in comparison to the line to the target. There's your check. The answer, of course, is to straighten up the shoulders at address. Then you'll get the divot where it belongs.

Henley Awake for Big Week of Scull Meets

HENLEY, England (AP)—The drowsy riverboat town of Henley shook itself awake today and took on its annual cherished role as the capital of the rowing world.

Nothing much happens in Henley for 51 weeks of the year, but the annual four-day Royal Regatta brings top class competition from around the globe.

There was a record 11-nation entry with 190 starters for the racing which started this morning.

Hotels were packed and hundreds of people were camped in houseboats moored along the lovely River Thames course.

The twist is being danced in the town's plush night spots and the pubs have been given a reprieve from Britain's licensing laws, staying open most of the time.

By Saturday night, with beer cans littering the streets, Henley will look more like a western rodeo town than a tranquil and lovely spot in the English countryside.

Moore hit a 236 game in a 632 series in the King & Queen loop. High scorers in Monday's Men's Student League at Auburn were A. Moore 220-692, Ron Moore 220-573, A. Sheffer 541, K. Parker 540, S. Saunders 528, F. Polasek 543, and A. Rogers 522.

Laver Seeks Grand Slam

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—Rod Laver, shooting for an unprecedented tennis grand slam, met Neale Fraser and Marty Mulligan met Dr. John Fraser today in all-Australian men's singles semifinals matches of the Wimbledon Tennis Championships.

Laver, who hopes to become the first player since Don Budge in 1938 to win the Australian, French, English and American titles in the same year, was favored to beat Neale Fraser, a former champion here, who ousted American collegiate champion Raphael Osuna of Mexico in the quarter-finals.

The other semifinal match between Dr. John Fraser, Neale's "kid" brother, and young Mulligan, is rated a toss-up.

The women's singles semifinals are scheduled for Thursday with Vera Sukova, the unseeded Czechoslovakian housewife who scored a stunning upset over Darlene Hard of Long Beach, Calif., yesterday, meeting former champion Maria Bueno of Brazil and Karen Hantze Sussman of San Antonio, Tex., playing Ann Haydon of Britain.

Mrs. Sukova's victory over Miss Hard, American champion seeded No. 2 here, was as startling as Tuesday of last week's elimination of top-seeded Margaret Smith of Australia by the unheralded Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach. Mrs. Sukova took advantage of Darlene's nervousness and perhaps her worst performance in an international meet to win in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3.

LEADING BLUEGILL—Hubert Alexander, 72 N. East Blvd., caught this one pound eight-ounce bluegill Sunday while fishing Lake Oakland. It is the largest entry this summer in the Press Big Fish Derby's bluegill division. A grub fished shallow over the drop off took the 10½-inch fish.

It Wasn't Weed He Hooked

"My buddy thought I was fooling when I told him to 'get the net, 'then they quit.'"

Hubert Alexander, 72 N. East Blvd., was fishing Lake Oakland Sunday with Hank Nideg of Pine Knob Rd.

"About a minute before I hooked some weeds," said Alexander, "and told John to get the net ready. I knew I had weeds, but he didn't. I broke my hook off on when I put a new one on and tossed out again—bang!"

"The rod bent and I called for the net. John told me to quit kidding. Then the line started to cut through the water and he knew I wasn't fooling this time."

The fish turned out to be a pound and a half bluegill. This 10½-inch fish is now leading the Press Big Fish Derby's bluegill division.

"I thought I had a bass on at first," related the lucky Pontiac angler.

USED GRUB

Alexander took his prize using a white grub. He was fishing three feet down in about 17 feet of water.

"We caught six good gills just under the surface," he said, "then they quit."

If Alexander's bluegill is not topped by the Sept. 4 Derby deadline, he will receive a $25 savings bond.

Other leaders in the contest remain the same.

Rick Coxen of Berkeley tops the pile class with his record 20-pound 5-ounce northern. A 6½-pound largemouth taken by Cliff Hamacher of Lake Orion is the leading bass.

Although there have been reports of rainbows 16 to 20 inches caught in the county this season, no entries have been received.

The Derby is open to all residents of Oakland County. The fish must be caught in Oakland County waters. Private and commercial waters, Lakes Angelus and Sherwood are excluded.

Entries must be brought to The Press for recording and photographing is considered.

Only weight is considered.

TOP AWARDS

Pike and bass division winners will each receive a $30 bond. A $25 bond will be awarded for the heaviest rainbow.

There is only one prize in each division and a fisherman cannot win more than one class.

Bluegill fishing on county lakes is holding up well. The fish have moved to deeper water. Leon, Middle Straits, Little Silver, Union and Crescent have been producing good bluegill catches.

Perch are hitting on Long Lake near Orion, Square and Sughan. Night fishing for catfish at Kent, Deer, Cass and Macedonia has been good.

Bass fishing is best after dark with any of the county's many good bass waters producing on a "hit or miss" basis.

Montana Action May Help Battle to End Bounties

LANSING (UPI) — Recent action by the state of Montana lends fuel to the Michigan Conservation Department's argument against the "stupid" paying of bounties on predatory animals, a department official claims.

Montana just last month dropped the last of a series of bounties dating back to 1883 — a $30 payment on mountain lion. That state paid bounties on some 160 of the animals killed last year.

"In Montana as in Michigan," the department said, "conservation officials have found bounties to be ineffective for holding down predator populations or increasing game numbers."

The Michigan department pays out $200,000 a year in bounties on fox alone. Much smaller amounts are paid for coyote and bobcat which are killed by bounty collectors.

Russ McKee, a department spokesman said Montana has found out that bounties won't keep down the populations of even large animals which are much less popular than fox.

"Trying to control a very popular animal like fox is ridiculous," he said. "It's a bit like trying to control field mice or sparrows. Fox populations go up and down in a very peculiar, seasonal manner. We're always going to have them yet this stupid bounty continues."

UBGES TRAPPING

McKee said the money wasted on bounties would be better used by increasing the state's trapper program against such predators as fox.

"The department advocates control of the individual fox who is constantly raiding chicken yards, for instance," he said.

McKee said most fox live on field mice, rabbits and berries "but once in a while you get a nuisance rascal." These animals can be better controlled by setting up traps than by paying bounties on any fox killed by a hunter, he said.

Attempts have been made for years to get a bill through the legislature repealing bounties. The latest try was this year, when department advocates got legislation through the state Senate to do away with them. The measure was killed, however, in the House.

A second gimmick to stop bounty payments also failed. The Senate refused to allocate any money for the bounties but the House finally got its way on the last day of the session and wrote the appropriation into the department's budget.

Pontiac Sportsmen Going to Canada, Alaska Was Deer After Green Beans?

Mrs. Ralph St. Amant opened the shades in the bedroom of her home at 2187 Richmond Rd., Pontiac Township, this morning and saw a deer raiding her garden.

"It was the first deer I have seen near our home," she said. "We've never seen any tracks in the area, either."

"The deer, my husband, who has done a lot of deer hunting, said was a yearling doe. Just took her time. She didn't seem nervous."

"After a while, the deer slowly walked back to the woods behind the house."

"Maybe she liked my green beans."

Robert Thompson Jr., of Highland landed a 5-pound bass Monday while fishing White Lake.

ARCTIC BOUND

Howard Shelley and his wife Jennifer, of Pontiac, are off on a tour of Northern Canada that will take them into the Arctic Circle.

They will be seeking material for a 1962-63 lecture film.

The itinerary calls for stops at Big Bear Lake, where two camps recently have been opened, in the Northwest Territory; a visit to an Eskimo village; fishing for Arctic Char at Bloody Falls; barren ground for musk oxen and caribou (with cameras); and a stopover at Victoria Island.

Returning to Seattle on July 20, the Shelleys will join Pontiac sportsmen Bob Oliver, Dr. Vernon Abbott, Al Hubbard, Louis Cole, Bob Eldred and his son, Bob, Bruce Annett, Art Hutchings and Alfred Lee for a fishing trip to Alaska.

SHOOTING AWARD

Larry F. Wharf of 416 Elm St., Pontiac, has received the distinguished Expert Medal, highest rifle qualification award of the National Rifle Association. He is a member of the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club.

The American Medical Association has entered the fishing picture. Following are two of the AMA's tips:

1. In removing a hook from a fish, hold the fish under the gills so only its body, not its head, can flop and wiggle. Try to grab a slippery fish and remove the hook at the same time is an easy way to get hooked.

2. Never try to pull a hook out if you become imbedded beneath the skin. Your physician will snip off the back end of the hook and push it through the wound. If necessary he will administer antibiotics and tetanus toxoid.

KENT LAKE CATCH — This near limit catch of largemouth bass was made last week at Kent Lake. Holding the nine bass are James Walton (left) and William Anderson, both of Millford. The Kensington Park lake is open to fishing from dawn to 11 p.m. Anglers have been making fair to good catches of bass and crappies late in the day and after dark.

Molasses, Cyanide Are Fatal to Fish

LANSING ON — Molasses and cyanide were blamed today for the killing of thousands of fish recently in two separate incidents investigated by the Water Resources Commission.

One case still being probed occurred in the Shiawassee River, which was contaminated by industrial cyanide for about 10 miles north of Owosso. Investigators still are attempting to track down the source of the poison, which killed several thousand fish.

Thousands more perished in Bean Creek when some 10 tons of molasses escaped through a leak in a storage tank of the Addison Milling Company, south of Jackson.

Copies of a special 32-page edition of "Our Public Lands," the U. S. Bureau of Land Management's quarterly magazine, are now available. The Department of the Interior announces.

BOTTLE NIBBLERS — Marvin Robinson, director of animals at Omaha's Roseview Park Zoo, watches two eight-week-old chipmunk cubs nibbling away on their milk. That's right—nibbling. Robinson says the cubs, from northwest Nebraska, chew up 84 nipples a week, tearing them as though they would real meat. They are bottle fed every four hours.

Smallmouth Bass Is Part Wildcat, Bulldog

Ever hear of a fish that's one-quarter wildcat, one-quarter bulldog, and the remainder about equally divided between plainness and brains? This cagy fighter is the smallmouth bass.

Occasionally he's caught by perch fishermen who dangle their baits from public pierces and sometimes by panfish addicts with cane pole, bobber, and cricket. But these are not the true smallmouth. They are only the stupid individuals or the middle kids kicked out by the lordly guardians of piscatorial genealogy who maintain the pure stock.

We've been said with some authority that pound for pound, the smallmouth bass is the gamest fish that swims. No doubt some people will take issue with this. Nevertheless, when taken from cold water lakes or streams on tackle fitted to the job, he's a fish to test anyone's mettle.

It remained for trout fishermen, with time on their hands during summer doldrums, to make the first improvement in tackle. These gentlemen when shifting to smallmouth brought along their slim bamboo and used natural bait and line leaders.

By getting out of those old flat-bottom boats and wading along shorelines, they were able to provide consistent top-weight catches.

CHANGES MADE

When the spinning rod and reel came along, the range of the water was doubled and tripled. Elms, basses, too, was the old problem of trying to get distance without snapping off the crawler.

The tackle makers followed quickly with myriads of miniaturs, the tiny spoon, the rubber frog, and the plastic worm. Along with their natural counterparts these new imitations proved exceedingly effective. The bass, however, only set the stage for what was to follow.

The really big news was the discovery of a new fishing ground, the Great Lakes — so vast and so rich that even today true students of the sport feel the surface has been only scratched.

The smallmouth in big water is a rover. He's here today and gone tomorrow, and the reasons for his moves are not at all understood. It may be food, it may be weather, or it may be a foot-loose urge that goes along with his battling spirit. At any rate, don't guarantee the neighbors a mess of fish on the basis of yesterday's success.

Big-lake bass travel in schools and will cruise the bays or rocky shoals where minnows, crabs, or frogs are found.

Since the extent of these grounds are sizeable and often continuous on a shoreline such as Lake Michigan's, locating fish even with fish tackle can be a major problem. Finding them isn't the only problem; the schools scare easily.

The neophyte in a shaly tin boat who throws out an anchor and rattles on, will fish on barren bottoms.

Pocket water is the type to look for—said bottom pockets on a rocky shore. Where the bottom of the lake is interlaced with ridges and resembles the face of a sponge, that's bass water. Fish the deep spots on the lee side of the rocks.

A shallow bay grown up to reeds is another favorite hangout. Minnows and frogs will abound in such a cover, and the fish are not far away. Finding a hole in this forest of stems requires searching.

LOOK FOR STONES

If there's one single place you can count on finding a bass, it's in the shadow of a big stone. This is the old, old moshak, the bow bag of the area. He'll have a hole hollowed out around the base and will charge out to do battle with all intruders.

Wading water is not the only place where bass are found. Small-

In Autobiography: 'Men and Decisions'

Adm. Strauss Tells of His Political Life

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON—One of the most painful chapters in recent congressional history are about to be broken open again with the publication this week of Admiral Lewis L. Strauss' autobiography, "Men and Decisions."

Only nine times in the past 120 years has the Senate declined to confirm a president's nominee for his own cabinet.

Unlike the wholly imaginary situation in the best-selling novel, "Advice and Consent," the reasons ordinarily have been petty, and unworthy of a democracy.

The ninth case—that of Strauss—was certainly no exception. The mood and complex of the current Congress is a curious one. Although the party in control of the executive branch also has topped the house of Congress, and the President's personal popularity is high, practically none of his "must" legislation has been adopted.

For the first time in memory has yet reached the White House, although the July 1 legal deadline has passed.

If President Kennedy can have so little cooperation from his own party on Congress it is understandable that President Eisenhower could be double-crossed three years ago by a Senate controlled by the opposition.

It is almost inconceivable, however, that men with sufficient patriotism to be elected and re-elected to the U. S. Senate could act from the cheap motive of personal animosity.

By so doing, he and his cohorts deprived Eisenhower of a secretary of commerce whose public service began without pay during World War I under food administrator Herbert Hoover, and continued at critical intervals throughout the remainder of his public career.

Because Democratic Sen. Clifford P. Anderson of New Mexico viciously disliked him, he made a personal vendetta of it, vote-swapping, cajoling and threatening other senators to fall into line against Strauss.

Love and friendship are largely chemical reaction, and no one can quarrel with a U. S. senator who personally dislikes a member of the opposition party on the executive branch.

CONFIRMED 5 TIMES
The Senate had three times previously confirmed him: To the rank of rear admiral during World War II, to the Atomic Energy Commission as a Truman appointee, and to the chairmanship of the AEC under Eisenhower.

That was before Anderson took a personal dislike to the man who had loyally served under five presidents.

Most of the other Senate rejections of presidential cabinet nominees have been equally inexplicable from a rational viewpoint.

Because of a party-line feud, Congress three times refused to confirm Strauss' appointment of Caleb Cushing as secretary of the Treasury. Years later he was confirmed at attorney general in the cabinet of President Pierce.

The Senate would not confirm Roger B. Taney as Treasury secretary under Andrew Jackson, although he later served as chief justice of the Supreme Court with Senate blessing.

Perhaps the case of Henry Stanbery was most nearly like that of Strauss. The Senate readily confirmed him as President Andrew Johnson's attorney general, just as it did Strauss for the vital role of atomic energy chairman. When President Johnson was impeached, Stanbery resigned from the cabinet to defend him before the Senate.

With the successful outcome, Johnson reappointed his attorney general, but the Senate rejected him.

That is what happened when the accepted Strauss' resignation from AEC and appointed him secretary of commerce. The Senate quickly refused to confirm the man to whom, perhaps more than any other, we owe the decision to go ahead with the development of the hydrogen bomb. Without it, we would have been defenseless against Russia.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY

When today's hand was played at the Bridge Deck in Dallas, 13 South players opened with one trump and every North player jumped to game.

This some consistency extended to the opening lead. Every West opened the four of spades, but right there things changed. Ten South players called for the nine from dummy. East won with the queen and led the suit back whereupon the ace had to be played from dummy. South could count seven or eight tricks without the clubs, but had to knock out the club ace some time or other and as soon as the club was played West rose with that ace and set the hand with three spade tricks.

Three South players knew enough to make the unusual play of second hand high at trick one. Then they proceeded to knock out the ace of clubs, but after this play West could not run the spade suit. If he tried to cash, South's ten would not have a spade to return.

UPTON N.Y. (AP) — Physicists have turned up a fascinating new piece of practically nothing—a new kind of neutrino.

The independent neutrino is one of the particles or pieces from the nuclei of atoms. Today's announcement said scientists have shown there are two different kinds of neutrinos.

Amazingly, the neutrino has no mass or weight. It has no electric charge. It is kind of poltergeist in nuclear physics.

You could—say one physicist did at Christmas—give a friend a billion or so neutrinos.

Buy a penny box of matches, take out the matches and give them the empty box. At any instant, up to 100 billion neutrinos would be streaming through the box, or any square inch of space or solid matter anywhere.

The neutrino is so close to being nothing, and so weak in its force, that almost all of them zipping in from the sun and space speed through the earth without hitting anything. The neutrino doesn't even "know" the earth was there.

To a neutrino all solid matter and atoms are pretty much empty space.

This proving there are two distinct kinds of neutrinos represents a prodigious feat. The experiment cost about $900,000, paid for by the Atomic Energy Commission.

It was done by physicists at Columbia University and the Brookhaven National Laboratory here, using the world's most powerful atom-smasher, a 42-foot thick wall of steel from old battleships and cruisers, and 10-ton spark chamber where neutrinos occasionally hit something and could be induced to leave their ghostly signatures.

Out of 100 trillion shot through the chamber, only 50 produced tell-tale reactions.

The only known difference between the new and "old" neutrino is where they come from, and how they react with other bits of matter. For each type of neutrino, there also is an antineutrino, or bit of antimatter.

For physicists, the great significant fact is that the new neutrino is coupled only with a mu meson, while the "old" neutrino is associated only with an electron in the beta decay of radioactive atoms. The story is told in physical review letters.

But even people who are not neutrino buffs can appreciate elements of the experiment, and some of its significance.

The finding has no practical application, physicists say. But it is one step toward understanding the deepest puzzle in physics—what atoms really are, and hence what you and everything in the universe really are made of.

MAY LEAD TO SOMETHING That understanding may bring stupendous benefits, much as earlier fundamental discoveries led to atomic energy.

But it also muddies the waters a bit, scientists say, for the strange "zoo" of nuclear particles is increasing in confusing fashion.

Yet the physicists were puzzled because in some weak nuclear reactions, not all the energy could be accounted for. The neutrino, an almost nothing, could be the missing link.

About seven years ago, scientists at Los Alamos found evidence the neutrino did indeed exist. They detected an antineutrino associated with an electron when radioactive atoms break down in what is known as beta electron decay. Subsequently other physicists detected the real matter form, the mu meson type of neutrino, pulse from the AGS lasted only 100 billionths of a second. So in total, there were only about three to four seconds of actual observing time within the chamber.

Even so, it took 800 hours of operation of the AGS, at a cost of $1,000 an hour, to get the 50 neutrino "hits" or reactions. Other equipment cost about $100,000. Yet, in all those hours, each

$2.5 Million Found in Car Linked to Bookie

IT'S LOADED — Jersey City Police Chief Austin J. Conley examines boxes in trunk of 1947 sedan where almost $2.5 million of what an FBI agent said appeared to be legal U.S. currency was found yesterday. Workmen renovating recently sold garages on a quiet Jersey City street discovered the cash that also included three pistols, ammunition and stolen police files.

JERSEY CITY, N.J., (U.P.) — Two workmen renovating parallel rows of recently sold garages on a quiet city street, peered into the trunk of an old car and found almost $2.5 million in money that an FBI agent said appeared to be legal U.S. currency.

Cached with the money discovered Tuesday in the rear of a dusty auto were three pistols, ammunition and files stolen from the offices of the Hudson County prosecutor on May 9, 1961. Also found was a quantity of electronics equipment of the type used by bookmakers.

FBI agent R. W. Bachman said one of the stolen files contained material on a police investigation July 3, 1951, in which Joseph (Newsboy) Moriarty was arrested for book-making and possession of lottery tickets in Jersey City. The second file concerned a Moriarty associate.

Moriarty, 47, was picked up that time while riding in a 1947 Plymouth—the same make auto in which the money was discovered. The gambler, known to police as “king of the numbers runners” in Hudson County, was sentenced to a 2-to-3 year prison term last March 2.

JUMP INTO CASE

Both the FBI and Jersey City police jumped into the case, but the FBI got possession of the money by obtaining a warrant for its seizure because of a $50,000 lien the federal government has against Moriarty for unpaid income taxes.

Bachman, special agent in charge of the Newark FBI office, said the money was in two large leather bags and a box. Much of it reportedly was bound in wrappers of a fluff-erford, N.Y., bank — from which $37,000 was stolen on August 27, 1953 by an armed bandit.

Bachman said the money totaled approximately $2,400,000, including a “few thousand-dollar bills” with the rest in $100s, $50s, $20s and $10s. The guns, wrapped in 1949 newspapers, were an automatic pistol, a .45-caliber revolver and a .32-caliber revolver.

Investigators found fingerprinting equipment near the car, in another garage, they found a 1952 auto which contained adding machines, phone equipment and typewriters—instruments of the bookmaking trade.

Moriarty, whose prison term stemmed from conviction of possession of lottery sales, had been arrested many times and his activities have been the subject of political disputes.

In one of his earliest arrests, in 1947, police seized $27,000 in cash and a quantity of numbers slips in his home in Jersey City.

When they arrested him in 1951, police seized more than $50,000 in cash at his home.

Envisions Ties With Europe

ALGERIENS (U.P.) — The threat of civil war mounted in newly independent Algeria today amid reports of growing opposition among nationalist army commanders to Premier Youssef Ben Khedda's regime.

Backed by a tumultuous Muslim sect for himself and his ministers, Ben Khedda, got up headquarters in Algiers and, with the discreet assistance of the French, consolidated his hold on the government apparatus.

But Ben Khedda apparently could not command the loyalty of Muslim military units in the interior, and rebellious Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella renewed his defiance from abroad.

In the hills south of Algiers, 800 deserters from the French-joined local security force (quipped 4,000 former Moslem guerrillas in apparent support of Ben Bella) sign for radical leftist revolution in the new nation.

REPORTED WAVING

From eastern Algeria came reports of new armed support for the dissidents. Col. Tahar Stiri, commander in eastern Algeria, reportedly described Ben Khedda as a “counter-revolutionary” and he voiced support for Ben Bella.

In western Algeria, officers around Oran and Ben Bella's home village of Marnia were reported waving between the two factions.

The unknown factor—and the key in any Algerian power struggle—was the 40,000-man national army in exile, which was preparing to march into Algeria from Morocco and Tunisia.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic is believed to have split in the Algerian leadership. His efforts thus far have failed.

Ben Bella flew into Cairo from Libya Tuesday night to confer with Nasser's regional commander Ben Khedda for dismissing three top nationalist army commanders Saturday for allegedly planning a military coup to install Ben Bella in power.

Ben Bella called the dismissals “a violation of the principles of the Algerian revolution.”

Traffic Deaths Running Below Expected Rate

After Slow Start Toll on Nation's Highways Averaging Two an Hour

| Boating       | 2  |
| Drowning      | 2  |

| Total         | 32 |

The count of the nation's traffic deaths for the Independence Day celebration, with a spurt in the late hours Tuesday night, averaged two an hour, little below the normal mark for a nonholiday period.

The first highway fatality in Ohio — was reported more than four hours after the count started at 6 p.m. (local time) Tuesday.

The toll mounted in the early morning, with more than a score of deaths in the next several hours. In other violent deaths, three persons were killed in boating accidents, two others drowned and four lost their lives in miscellaneous accidents.

The National Safety Council estimates that at the end of the 24-hour midweek holiday period at midnight tonight local time the traffic death toll may be between 110 and 120.

Slower weather appeared in prospect in many sections of the nation but the council expects that nearly all of the country's 76 million motor vehicles will be in motion sometime during the holiday period.

Today is the third one-day observance of the Fourth of July since World War II. In 1936 there were 137 traffic fatalities for the 30-hour period and in 1951 the death toll for a similar period was 105.

Pontiac School District voters, ballots cast, with 619. The total may find balloting faster and smoother next year—with a possibility of using voting machines and splitting at least one large precinct, the Washington Junior High precinct.

The two measures are among proposals being considered in a study being prepared for presentation to the Pontiac Board of Education this fall, according to Vernon L. Schiller, elections director of the board.

If approved, the two moves would help prevent tie-ups such as those which occurred in some precincts during the 1958 voter election, almost this June.

The Washington and LeBaron precincts did not report their last election results until an hour after other precincts were finished.

Washington had a total of 1,189 voters, many of whom did not appear at the polls until after 6 p.m.

Algerian Split Grows, Boosting Threat of War

Premier Consolidates Hold on Government, but Military Rebellious

ALGERIENS (U.P.) — The threat of civil war mounted in newly independent Algeria today amid reports of growing opposition among nationalist army commanders to Premier Youssef Ben Khedda's regime.

Backed by a tumultuous Muslim sect for himself and his ministers, Ben Khedda, got up headquarters in Algiers and, with the discreet assistance of the French, consolidated his hold on the government apparatus.

But Ben Khedda apparently could not command the loyalty of Muslim military units in the interior, and rebellious Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella renewed his defiance from abroad.

In the hills south of Algiers, 800 deserters from the French-joined local security force (quipped 4,000 former Moslem guerrillas in apparent support of Ben Bella) sign for radical leftist revolution in the new nation.

JFK Proclaims Readiness for Partnership

Addresses Governors in Philadelphia; Sees ‘World of Law’

PHILADELPHIA (U.P.) — President Kennedy proclaimed today from the birthplace of American independence that the United States is preparing for a “declaration of interdependence” — a working partnership with Europe.

The transatlantic partnership will be built cheaply and easily, Kennedy predicted, but it holds the promise of “a world of law and free choice, banishing the world of fear and coercion.”

The President aimed his message at the peoples of all nations, but his Fourth of July address was written for a gathering of governors of the states and territories, for thousands of Philadelphians massed outside Independence Hall and for nationwide radio and television broadcasts.

The leaders who pledged their lives, fortunes and sacred honor in the break with Britain on July 4, 1776, Kennedy said in his prepared address, unleashed a revolution of a new world—a aspiration which remains the most powerful force on earth today.

But in the same hall, the President went on, was drafted the American Constitution “which stressed not independence but interdependence,” and welded the union of sovereign states which has become Europe's inspiration.

‘FAR TO GO’

It was much more than a generation after the Declaration before American built workable federal institutions, Kennedy said, and the builders of the “new house of Europe” also have far to go.

“But I will say, here and now, on this day of independence, that the United States will be ready for a declaration of interdependence—that we will be prepared to discuss with a united Europe the ways and means of forming a concrete Atlantic partnership.”

He stressed the need for partnership between the new union now emerging in Europe and the old American union founded here a century and three quarters ago.

“All this will not be completed in a year—but let the world know that this is now our goal.”

“In mying the adopting of the Constitution, Alexander Hamilton told his fellow New Yorkers to think continually of today. Americans must learn to think internationally.”

“Acting on our own, we cannot establish better relations with the world—we cannot insure its do- (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Commissioners Act

New River Plan Okayed

A new plan for an estimated $2.5-million in improvements to the Clinton River in Pontiac has been approved by the City Commission.

The plan wouldn't place a burden on the city's capital improvement fund, but would cost taxpayers a hike of about 50 cents per $1,000 of assessed value on their county tax bills next year.

Last night, commissioners unanimously approved a resolution outlining the plan and declaring it a necessity. Then they turned the project over to the

Expect Jam-Up at County Parks

Largest Crowds of '62 Foreseen; Warn Worst Traffic 7 to 10 P.M.

The largest crowds of the year were expected to jam Oakland County parks and beaches today. Police warned that highway traffic in the area should be at its peak between 7 and 10 p.m.

Pontiac state police reported that the heaviest traffic during the early hours of the Fourth of July holiday moved on the county's northbound trunkline between 8 p.m. yesterday and 2:30 a.m. today.

However, no fatal automobile accidents were reported.

Cars were lined up for two blocks at the entrance of Dodge Park No. 4 at 8 a.m.

Long lines of holiday motorists also were reported at Kensington Park and other recreation areas in the area.

State police and Oakland County Sheriff's deputies agreed that traffic was heavy but not above normal for a summer holiday.

Deputies said there were no more deaths than on an ordinary Friday evening.

Michigan Air Official Lashes FAA Action

In Oakland Jetport Decision

The Federal Aviation Agency has been accused of retreating and thus leading to confusion in its failure to formally approve a proposed major jet airport in Pontiac and Orland Townships.

The attack was launched by James D. Ramsey, director of the Michigan Department of Aeronautics, in a letter to J. M. Beardslee, FAA assistant administrator at Kansas City.

Ramsey revealed the contents of his letter yesterday.

In it he implied that matters other than the question of availability of air space for the county-proposed site were involved in the FAA's decision.

The FAA had announced through U. S. Rep. William S. Bromfield (Oakland County) that the proposed jet airport was being rejected for lack of air space in the vicinity.

Ramsey declared that the FAA earlier had informally approved

All-American Boy Really Loves His Flag

For some people the Fourth of July celebration is the ONE time in the year to shake the mottos out of the American flag for outdoor display.

However, for 11-year-old Paul Roselli of 628 Tex St., sending the American flag up a pole is an everyday occurrence, as thousands of Truck & Coach Division employees well know.

During the day, anytime after 8 a.m. and before 5:30 p.m., GMC leaders can look out the administrative building windows and see “Old Glory” in all her glory, day and night in the breeze on a 25-foot flagpole in the Roselli yard.

A couple of years ago when Paul became fascinated with the huge company flag atop the nearby GMC building, he decided this was a good reminder to people of America's importance.

Every day he watched that flag go up and down the pole.

The youngster figured out that it was a big corporation like GMC thought as much of the American flag. It must be a symbol of something pretty fine. Up in the attic he went and came down with a big flag on a small stick.

Every day for a year, Paul would have that flag up on the ground at the end of the driveway and pull it up at sundown.

Soon his parents bought him a slightly larger flag, which he placed on the garage — daily.

Still not quite satisfied, Paul finally saved money from his allowance and odd jobs until he could buy a large 5- by 7-foot flag.

In the meantime, he kept helping out to install a corporation-like flagstaff.

fall, even before it was officially proposed by the board, Ramsey stated in his letter: "I find myself at a complete loss as to how your agency (FAA) proceeds in such matters and as to how you can expect prospective airport sponsors to properly plan and coordinate such facilities with you. "In this particular instance the County of Oakland... was willing to accept responsibility and take such steps as were required to it in providing for future airport needs. The letter explains how certain county officials had requested an informal review of air space for the proposed site in 1961 and were advised by the FAA that the site was acceptable in this respect. "There was no concern on our part or that of Oakland County relative to receiving an affirmative formal reply from you because there had been no material changes either in air space requirements or procedures since the informal reply had been received," Ramsey wrote. "If this is all we can expect, it would appear that the airport system will have to continue to grow as it has in the past without any sensible long range planning and subject to day-to-day changes in policies and procedures," the letter said.

Men returning from the island, where the explosion was planned, said they felt they had lost time when they were delayed by two previous attempts to explode.

Senators' Debate Might Stall OK of Tax Revision

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy's tax revision bill will end up on a shelf—at least temporarily—unless the Senate Finance Committee reaches agreement on it by July 17. Since agreement isn't likely in that period, the measure may be shelved until a final vote is taken on the bill when Congress pushes into its adjournment crunch. A timetable for the bill was set up by the Finance Committee chairman, Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., as the committee ended its public hearings Tuesday. Byrd said his group would begin executive sessions on the tax proposals a week from today. If it doesn't finish with the bill within a week, he said, the measure will be put aside and public hearings will begin July 18 on the President's trade expansion bill. These hearings are expected to last about a month.

Today Pontiac has three new representatives on the Oakland County Board of Supervisors. The City Commission last night appointed Robert F. Jackson, Dr. Roy V. Cooley and Michael McAleer to fill posts formerly held by Philip E. Rowston, Wayne O. Anable and Mrs. Les Hill.

The new supervisors will take over duties immediately. They serve one-year terms. Jackson, 35, of 1122 Maurer St. is a claims adjuster for Equitable Life Assurance Society. He is a son of the late T. W. Jackson, a former Pontiac postmaster. He was nominated for the position by Commissioner Loy L. Ledford.

Dr. Cooley, 41, of 641 Bartlett St. was District 1 commissioner from 1952-58. A native of Pontiac, he has been active in many civic organizations.

He was nominated by Commissioner Milton R. Henry. McAleer, of 321 Auburn Ave. is a Baldwin Rubber Co. employee and president of United Rubber Workers Pontiac Local 118. McAleer has been active in veterans groups locally.

He was nominated by Commissioner Dick M. Kirby. Both Jackson and McAleer are serving on a commission appointment for the first time. Rowston, Anable and Mrs. Hill originally were reapportioned to new terms last April by the former commission.

Their appointments were rescinded by order of the present commission May 22.

A man trying to escape from a spacecraft during the entry would encounter acceleration forces reaching 500 G's, said Hafstad.

"Up to the present, approximately 90 G's has been the highest load that man has been subjected to. This occurred on an impact accelerator at Holloman Air Force Base in New Mexico."

Justice Dept. Official Raps Critics

'Prayer Ruling No Hostile Act'

ATLANTA (UPI) — A top Justice Department official has said the Supreme Court decision declaring official school prayers unconstitutional should not be construed as a hostile act toward religion.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Burke Marshall, head of the department's civil rights division, said critics of the ruling were not advancing the nation's religious heritage by violent attacks on the court.

He acknowledged that it would be difficult to reconcile the rights on each side. But he said the court might take a position that it is unconstitutional for states to maintain a legal system which allows those businessmen who open their doors to the general public to refuse service to Negro customers in a systematic way.

Marshall said the high court was motivated by a belief that the First Amendment to the Constitution means that government should steer clear of writing or endorsing official prayers.

"This was surely not a startling innovation or a radical conclusion," Marshall said in a speech before a lawyers conference at the annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

"No one would argue," he said, "that the state could compel the creed of a particular religion to be read aloud in a classroom each morning."

"There are too many members of other creeds, with equally deep religious convictions, who would be offended. And that is precisely what the First Amendment was intended to prevent."

"We do have a spiritual and religious heritage but its heart is not in the adoption by any state of any official prayer or other religious observance," he said. "It is in the preservation of the United States as a place in which our citizens—in the language of the court—can pray when they please to the God of their faith in the language they choose."

"In my judgment this heritage has not been advanced by the attacks on the court during the past week." In the same spirit, Marshall said the court must rule in another controversial field—issues arising from Negro civil demonstrations at lunch counters in Southern and border states.

Joseph E. Gandy, the fair president, said the corporation made plans to build a new future use of the grounds and buildings.

In obtaining official approval of the International Bureau of Expositions, the fair agreed to limit its run to one year.

Harry Lee, father of Robert E. Lee, was the man who described George Washington as "first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

ABBY Says: Not Always

More Blessed to Give?...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A minister and his wife who live in our neighborhood have a brood of children who are happy, outgoing and generous... especially with communicable diseases.

Their children are never over 10 to stay at home, and instead of welcoming these happy children, many neighborhood and Sunday school parents are beginning to dread their arrival.

Girl Needs to Be Told About Food

By the Emily Post Institute

Q: I have been asked by a boy I know to go on a picnic with him and several other couples next Saturday. Nothing has been said about the food and I don't know whether or not I am supposed to bring the food for myself and for my boy friend.

I have been told that the girl always brings the food for a picnic. Will you please advise me on this matter?

A: Unless it is an established custom in your community for each girl, when she is invited to go on a picnic, to bring the food for herself and her boy friend, he would hardly expect you to do so without having even discussed the question of food with you.

Q: Our son is going to be married shortly. We approve of the girl and their marriage, but her parents are deeply opposed to the marriage because of religious differences and will have nothing whatever to do with it.

Would it be permissible for us, the parents of the groom, to send out wedding announcements? We have numerous friends and relatives and would like them to know of the marriage.

A: Under the circumstances, it will be best for your son and his bride to announce their own marriage as follows:

Miss Mary Jones and Mr. Henry Smith announce their marriage

When and how to introduce people seems to puzzle many. The new Emily Post Institute booklet entitled "Introductions," gives helpful information on this subject. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Emily Post Institute, care of The Pontiac Press.
