GM Accuses UAW of Starting Strike Too Soon

Faubus Cheered by No Ruling on Private Schools

He plans a televised speech tonight dealing with tomorrow's referendum on the school dispute.

The referendum will decide whether Little Rock's four closed high schools reopen on an integrated basis.

Faubus shut the schools to avoid compliance with court-ordered integration. He wants the schools to operate as private and segregated institutions.

U. S. Dist. Judge John E. Miller, sitting at Fort Smith, Ark., yesterday declined to handle the private school issue.

He dismissed petitions of the Little Rock School Board and the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

SEEK INJUNCTION

The School Board had asked if it could legally lease its schools to a private corporation. The NAACP petitioned for an injunction to prevent any such leasing.

Judge Miller said he lacked jurisdiction to rule on the questions. He said it was a matter for a three-judge court.

Wiley Branton, attorney for the NAACP, said there was a possibility he might appeal to the U. S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Louis today.

Or, Branton said, he might sit back and wait. If any private school corporation didn't admit Negroes, he added, he might ask a court to put it under the Little Rock School Board's court-decreed program of gradual integration.

"LAW IS SETTLED"

"You cannot put public facilities to private use and then discriminate against their use," Branton said. "Even if schools are leased to a private corporation, the law is well settled and we have no doubt we could get qualified Negroes in them."

The Justice Department gave notice that it would oppose a private school plan aimed at avoiding integration.

Faubus, obviously pleased by Judge Miller's refusal to rule, said: "The School Board asked for these instructions and the federal court has not stopped them from

Fiery Vanguard Climbs Upward

Seventh Try at Shoofing Rocket Into Space May Be Successful

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A fiery Vanguard rocket was launched toward space today carrying a satellite that may help solve many of the mysteries of the earth's weather.

Confirmation on whether the United States finally had placed its fourth satellite in orbit was expected from Washington in two hours.

The 72-foot, bullet-shaped rocket housed a 20-inch, 21½-pound satellite which, if orbited successfully, could spot large storm masses such as hurricanes and typhoons as they build up around the earth.

This was the seventh try at shooting a composite three-stage Vanguard with only one success chalked up to date.

The main mission of the seeing eye moon was to measure the cloud cover around the world to aid meteorological studies. Two light sensitive photoelectric cells were carried in the satellite to do the job.

The 22,600 pound rocket began to accelerate rapidly as it rose steadily into the cloud-filled Florida skies.

★ ★ ★

After about 10 seconds the olive drab and white missile ended its vertical flight and curved toward the southeast.

It was a tiny white dot in the sky as it darted in and out of the clouds.

Landing Craft Turns Over; 5 Men Missing

8 Correspondents on Amphibious Vehicle in Formosan Waters

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — A small amphibious vehicle with eight news correspondents overturned in heavy seas during a supply landing operation today. Five of the men are missing.

The missing were listed by a competent source as three Chinese and two foreigners. The names were not given.

The landing vehicle reportedly was swamped by high waves and not hit by shellfire.

★ ★ ★

The group was reported to have included Keyes Beech, Chicago Daily News; Robert Martin, U.S. News & World Report; Peter Kalischer, CBS News; Wade Ringham, CBS Television; Fred Waters, United Press International; Bertram Jones, London Daily Express; Frank Robertson, Sydney Sunday Herald; James Mossman, London Daily Mail; H. E. Teglers, Berlingske Tidende; and 11 Chinese correspondents. None had indicated any intention of going ashore when they left on the trip.

ABOARD U. S. COAST GUARD CUTTER OFF NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—The American Columbia clinched the America's cup today by defeating the British Sceptre by about half a mile.

Hurricane Howls Toward Coast of Carolinas

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Hurricane Helene bore down on the Carolina coast with rising fury today and the Weather Bureau urged residents in low-lying areas to flee to high ground immdiately.

"People within the reach of the forecast tides and sea floods should evacuate immediately before rising water cuts off escape. This is an emergency warning for the area from Beaufort, S. C., to Cape Fear, N. C."

The bureau ordered up hurricane warnings along the entire coast from Cape Fear, N. C., to Savannah, Ga., a stretch of more than 200 miles.

Rigged TV Quiz Charges Mount

Another Ex-Contestant Reports 'Twenty-One' Was Rehearsed Show

NEW YORK (AP) — A second former contestant on television's "Twenty-One" quiz show was quoted today as saying rigged answers and off-camera rehearsals were employed on the program.

In a New York Post interview, artist James Snodgrass, 35, said he had figured in a much-publicized incident on "Twenty-One" in mid-1957.

The artist, competing with contestant Hank Bloomgarden, was ruled to have given a wrong answer to a medical question. The ruling brought a storm of protest from doctors. They said Bloomgarden's answer, termed correct, was just as wrong as the one Snodgrass gave.

Snodgrass was quoted by the Post as relating that he was given answers to questions before programs went on the air, was rehearsed in mannerisms to use and finally was told when to lose. A similar story concerning the show was told earlier by former contestant Herbert Stempel.

Producers of the program have denied allegations of any rigging.

Snodgrass told the newspaper that he had given the grand jury documentary material relating to his testimony on his experiences.

He said that, before leaving the show at the $4,000 mark as directed, he wrote and mailed himself a registered letter before each appearance in which he listed the questions and answers he was given in advance plus various stage directions.

He said he had retained the letters in an unopened state. The Post said the district attorney's office had turned them over to police for laboratory tests on whether they had since been unsealed.

UF Set to Kick Off Special Gifts Drive

A major division of this fall's Tenth Anniversary Pontiac Area United Fund Campaign will get off to an early start Monday afternoon, when over 40 Special Gifts Division volunteer workers meet for a kickoff buffet supper at the Hotel Waldron.

Following Monday's kickoff, the United Fund workers will begin calling on over 230 leading contributors who have given $100 or more to the fund in the past. This year's Special Gifts goal has been set at $73,039.10.

★ ★ ★

"We're depending on this important group of conscientious givers to set the pace for a successful 1958 campaign," stated Alfred C. Girard, Special Gifts chairman.

The buffet type kickoff supper is a United Fund innovation this year. The Community National Bank is hosting the event as part of its public service advertising for the United Fund campaign.

Traditionally the Special Gifts Division of the Commercial Division has launched a pre-campaign solicitation for funds from selected individuals and firms in the Pontiac-Waterford Township area. In recent years the advanced solicitations have amounted to almost 50 per cent of the Commercial Division's collections.

DRIVE OPENS OCT. 21

The official campaign kickoff for the continued support of the fund's 55 community service agencies will be held Oct. 21. Beginning on that date over 4,500 volunteer workers will devote their time, talents and energy to pushing this year's drive over the top.

★ ★ ★

As Special Gifts Chairman, Girard will discuss ways and means of increasing the donations from the advance givers. He and his workers are shooting for 100 per cent of their quotas by the official kickoff date. They are planning a solicitation utilizing the "giving yardstick" scale as a pledge guide.

Campaign Chairman Philip J. Monaghan and Commercial Division Chairmen Berkeley Voss and Judge Clark J. Adams also will be on hand to encourage the Special Gifts Torchlighters.

MSU-U. of M. Game Hits Block on TV

DETROIT (AP) — Circuit Judge Theodore R. Bohn today halted ticket sales for closed-circuit television showing of the Michigan-Michigan State University football game next Saturday.

The order was issued in a suit brought by State Rep. John J. Fitzpatrick (D-Detroit) who said his aim was to get the game televised on an open circuit so that anyone might see it at home.

But at East Lansing, where the sell-out game will be played, MSU athletic director Clarence (Biggie) Munn said National Collegiate Athletic Assn. (NCAA) regulations prevented Fitzpatrick hitting his target.

Fitzpatrick said his suit would be filed under a 1951 law barring: state institutions from televising any event to be used as entertainment for which a fee is charged unless provision is also made for the transmission at the same time to television owners generally in the state.

Says Union Condones Hit-and-Run Walkouts

Over 45,000 Workers Idled at 20 Corporation Plants Across the Country

DETROIT (AP)—General Motors Corp. today accused the United Auto Workers Union of staging what amounts to a general strike in advance of the Tuesday morning deadline set by the union.

Vice President Louis Seaton, head of the GM bargaining team, told newsmen the company believed the series of hit-and-run walkouts which idled over 45,000 workers at 20 GM plants across the country today were condoned by UAW leaders.

Walter Reuther, UAW president, replied that GM simply was reaping the fruits of action in canceling out contracts several months ago when they knew such action would result in a large amount of resentment among the workers.

Seaton said "there is a so-called strike deadline Tuesday, but actually we have a strike now. It's surprising because generally the union uses the strike threat as a pressure move.

"But this time the strike is under way and the effect of that pressure is diminished."

The union last night warned its members to avoid picket line incidents. Two such outbreaks were reported yesterday on the eve of Reuther's personal entry into the last-ditch talks.

GM, biggest of the auto makers and with 250,000 UAW members among its 325,000-man work force, gave no indication it planned to sweeten its offer of a three-year contract with concessions almost identical to those on which Ford and the UAW settled Sept. 17.

Chrysler reported seven Detroit plants down today, with 10,400 idled. It said 6,700 were off jobs in four plants outside Michigan. But its total jobless had shrunk from 26,240 yesterday.

The seriousness of the work stoppages was emphasized when Chrysler announced it had postponed public introduction of all but one of its 1959 models because of what the firm called "the erratic labor situation."

The most serious incident occurred at the Detroit Cadillac plant, where more than 8,500 workers stayed off the jobs with several hundred forming picket lines.

The violence developed when Dr. Douglas J. Wood, Cadillac medical director, whose home is in Birmingham, attempted to drive out of the executives' parking lot.

GM spokesmen said more than 150 pickets thronged about Wood's car, kicked in the side panels and smashed the windshield and side windows. The doctor, who was uninjured, backed into the parking lot again and later left in a taxicab by a side entrance.

More than 20 other Cadillac executives, including General Manager James Roche, remained in the plant for more than an hour after the incident and finally left their cars in the parking lot and went home by taxi.

In the other incident, some supervisory workers at the suburban Warren Technical Center told police the distributor wires on their cars were torn loose by persons unknown while several hundred pickets from the plant's 3,300 workers ringed the plant.

The UAW said its first knowledge of the two alleged incidents came from GM negotiators shortly after they began a night bargaining session. UAW Vice President Leonard Woodcock interrupted the meeting to send two of his top aides to the Cadillac plant to warn pickets not to take part in any incidents.

Woodcock said the union would make a thorough investigation of the alleged violence and if it found the reports were true, would take steps to make certain there was no repetition.

Reuther led his bargaining team to GM headquarters after failing Wednesday in his drive to get a settlement from Chrysler.

Hoffa Plans Drive to Get 250,000 Men

CHICAGO (AP)—Teamsters President James R. Hoffa says his union plans to sign up shop and factory workers in companies that operate large fleets of trucks.

Hoffa told newsmen yesterday the recruiting will be handled by his union's industrial division, an 18-month-old unit headed by Robert Wishart of Minneapolis.

Hoffa said the division now has about 100,000 members who work in machine shops, factories and warehouses that use considerable transportation.

He estimated there were "easily 250,000" potential members in the field, and he said the Teamsters were ready to finance the drive and meet jurisdictional challenges.

The Teamsters Union already places its total membership at 1,618,000.

"We don't intend to start wars with anybody," Hoffa said.

He said the campaign will be to organize unorganized workers.

Asked if the drive would bring the Teamsters into conflict with the AFL-CIO, he replied:

"No more than in the past."

Hoffa held a news conference at the close of the three-day annual meeting of the Central Conference of Teamsters. The sessions brought together 600 delegates from 12 midwestern states and central Canada.

Expressing confidence in Hoffa and other officials and supporting plans for a Teamster Union convention in February—an opportunity for the union to drop its court-appointed monitors.

Pontiac Workers Ordered to Return

Members of Pontiac Motor Local 653 were told yesterday at a mass meeting to return to work by the local's president, Charles A. Beach.

The local went on strike Monday in a dispute over whether certain finishing work should be done by the local's members or by workers from Fisher Body Local 596.

Beach told an overflow crowd of some 500 that he had received telegrams from the International urging the men to return so as not to weaken the position of the national union's bargaining team.

Beach said he still was not certain as to whether or not the strike was a jurisdictional one as he had conflicting reports on the position of Local 596.

Summerfield will be escorted to the modern building at 735 W. Huron St. in a 20-car caravan which will meet him at the Pontiac Municipal Airport when his plane arrives at 1:45.

The postmaster general will be accompanied by Ralph T. Wills, his deputy executive assistant, Earl A. Barnhart, regional installation manager for the U.S. Post Office Dept., and Arnie Betts, assistant regional operations director.

A long list of local, county, and national dignitaries are expected to be on hand also, according to Robert C. Miller, acting Pontiac postmaster, and Stuart E. Whitfield, cochairmen of the program arrangements.

Dedication of the new post office marked the first time that the city has a post office building specifically designed for postal service. Former facilities were housed in the downtown Federal Building on East Huron.

Dr. Milton H. Bank, pastor of the Central Methodist Church, will present the invocation. The Rev. Thompson Marcero, pastor of St. Vincent de Paul Church, will give the benediction.

Mayor William W. Donaldson and other city commissioners will be in attendance at the Saturday afternoon ceremonies.

As part of the historic day, members of the National Association of Letter Carriers, Pontiac Branch 320, will host the State Association of Letter Carriers at a 6:30 dinner at the Congregational Church on East Huron. Barnhart will be principal speaker.

Gloomy Picture of Transportation Systems Painted

Cities Asked to Join in Pushing Relief for Bus Lines

By PETE LOCHBILER

Pontiac and other Michigan cities with ailing bus companies were asked yesterday to unite behind relief legislation.

Municipal representatives painted a gloomy picture at a special session of the Michigan Municipal League convention in Detroit.

Despite predictions that the legislature will be less likely to go for relief proposals this year than last, when measures to aid financially-striken bus lines floundered, the league was called on to come up with new legislation.

"Whatever plan is chosen, we've all got to work together behind it, or else we will certainly fail again this year," said Kalamazoo's Mayor Glenn Allen, whose city is involved in a complex court battle to save its faltering transportation system.

Some of the other worried cities whose representatives called for concerted action:

Ann Arbor, the only city so far to win unquestioned relief, but whose bus finances are still faltering:

Jackson, which fostered the relief plans two years ago and now finds its plans challenged in court and its bus revenues sinking;

Grand Rapids, a larger city, which, like Pontiac, has been able to keep its head above water through rate increases and service cuts;

Muskegon, the first city to adopt a direct subsidy plan, which has been dependent on the city treasury to keep the buses running.

St. Joseph and Benton Harbor, which together find themselves in the same position as Grand Rapids and Pontiac;

And Bay City, whose bus lines folded this summer, to be replaced by a smaller-scale system that so far seems to meet the minimum requirements of its 55,000 population.

Pontiac was not represented at the meeting, nor were several other cities which may find themselves knocking at Lansing's door in the near future.

★ ★ ★

It was expected, though that all affected Michigan cities (with the exception of Detroit) will be asked to meet early this fall to review their situations again before League officers make a final decision on a legislative line of attack.

★ ★ ★

Rep. Emil Peltz (R-Rogers City), who championed relief legislation in the House last spring was the one who sounded the pessimistic note.

He believed that the Legislature would approve tax relief for bus companies only when accompanied by the municipal leasing agreements which most cities and bus companies have viewed with distaste.

"This is the type of legislation we tried to get through last spring, and failed. We're going to have an even more difficult time this year with the same type of bill, but we're not going to get anything better," Peltz predicted.

Even Peltz had inner doubts about the wisdom of tax relief. "To grant one type of tax relief would amount to opening the door for other tax exemptions," said the chairman of the House roads and bridges committee.

Peltz also doubted that relief from gas and weight taxes would offer a permanent solution.

City representatives, though, believed that a moratorium on taxes for one, two or three years would help tide over bus lines as their patronage figures continue to drop from the post World War II peak.

"There is a minimum core of public transportation riders, but until we find out what that figure is, we can't make any sound financial predictions," one representative said.

Peltz reminded his listeners that there were two basic principles

3 Boys on Scooter Badly Hurt

Police Uncover Hit-Runner

ALLEGAN (UPI) — Police tracked down a 66-year-old motorist early today and arrested him in the hit-run maiming of three young motor scooter riders.

★ ★ ★

The motorist, Jeffery B. Jones, of Hamilton, said he thought he had hit a car. He was located by State Police through a tip from an alert gas station attendant and charged with leaving the scene of an accident.

The three youngsters were identified as Calvin Ensing, 13; James Moored, 13, and Steven Nelson, 11, all of Burnips. All three were reported in critical condition today.

Doctors said Ensing had two fingers ripped off one of his hands and may lose a third finger. They said Moored has two broken legs and one may have to be amputated. Nelson received multiple fractures of his arms and legs.

One of the most controversial bills before the 1958 session of the Michigan Legislature was one which would have tightened regulations governing motor scooter operation. The bill, which was defeated would have forbidden more than one person on a scooter at a time, raised the minimum driver's age to 16 and prevented the operation of scooters at night.

The three youngsters were riding the motor scooter last night returning from a sparrow hunt when an auto swerved into their lane, smashed into them and sped on into the night.

Down the road, a gas station attendant paused while filling the tank of a car. He noticed the left front fender was scraping against the tire. The left headlight was banged up and there were scratches on the bumper.

He called State Police who began a house-by-house search of rural Allegan, county seat of Allegan County, bordering Lake Michigan.

This morning, State Police found the car the gas station man thought was suspicious.

They identified Jones as its owner and promptly arrested him.

He told them he thought he had hit a car, police said.

and threes and rolled to a protected area in a successful follow-up to an overnight airdrop mission by Nationalist transport planes.

The Communists, who had been loosing bursts of three to five shells at intervals at outgoing and incoming craft, opened up heavily on the beach itself 25 minutes after the last of the craft reached shore. Obviously hoping to catch work parties in the open, they fired more than 100 shells in two or three minutes.

Two or three LSTs (Landing Ship, Tank), two Nationalist patrol craft, and what seemed to be a destroyer could be seen on the horizon.

Newsmen who flew over the convoy sighted two or three destroyers of the U.S. 7th Fleet far offshore.

The night parachute mission also was carried out under Communist fire. Nationalist planes dropped more than 400 cases of supplies to Quemoy in the first two hours.

Sources close to President Chiang Kai-shek let it be known they feel even the present massive supply effort eventually will fail.

They contended the United States must choose between a firm declaration to defend the islands, and thus perhaps persuade the Reds to abandon the blockade, or face the prospect of an eventually enlarged war with bombings by both sides.

Rochester Man Dies Following Accident

Theodore F. W. Burck, 73, of 1228 N. Main St., Rochester, died yesterday at Pontiac General Hospital following an accident Sept. 11 near his home when he was struck by a car.

Oakland County sheriff's deputies said Burck stepped off the curb on N. Main street into the path of a car driven by Alan D. Coventry of 2085 Airport Rd., Pontiac.

member of the Big Three, and is preparing now for a secret ballot among 98,000 Ford workers on acceptance of the three-year contract which would provide workers with an additional 24 to 30 cents an hour over the life of the contract. The UAW's National Ford Council approved the pact yesterday. Ford workers now average $2.62 hourly.

GM and UAW sources said considerable progress has been made in settling differences on insurance, death benefits and health insurance but the main issues—wages, supplemental insurance pay and severance pay were still to be resolved.

GM reported latest stoppages included 1,600 at its Detroit Fleetwood Body plant; 4,000 at its Flint Fisher Body No. 1; 2,000 on its Flint Buick assembly line; and 535 at its road machinery plant in Euclid, Ohio.

Ask Bus Line Relief Push

which the Legislature is loath to violate:

(1) In Michigan, roads are paid for by the user through taxes; and (2) these taxes go into highway funds which are not to be diverted for other purposes.

"When we exempt taxes for highway use, we are siphoning off from those funds that are eventually distributed to the State Highway Commission, the counties and the cities for roads.

"Is it fair to exempt a few cities at the expense of everyone else?"

In answer, it was pointed out that if cities are forced to run their own municipal bus lines, they would be tax exempt anyway.

A report from Jackson, which won tax relief under a municipal leasing agreement in 1955, was discouraging.

"The lines are still losing money and voters will be asked this fall to approve a municipal system," said Mayor Harold D. Miller.

As a result, Jackson and Kalamazoo, which adopted the Jackson plan, now find themselves in a court battle to overturn Adams' opinion.

Miller said that under the plan, the city leases the bus equipment and hires the bus company to operate the lines. The company is allowed to make up to 10 per cent profit, but so far it hasn't cleared that much.

City Manager George F. Liddle made another pessimistic report covering the subsidy plan adopted in the Muskegon area two years ago.

"We lost $13,000 in the first 14 months of operation, which was bad. But during the first seven months of this year, we also lost $13,000, which is worse.

★ ★ ★

"In a sense, we started out in the basement and are now digging a hole further into the ground."

When the Bay City lines folded, Mayor James Tanner said, the city went busless for 45 days.

"No one seemed to grumble too much. Voters even turned down a proposal for a municipal system by a five-to-one margin."

Early this month, he said, a private firm began experimenting with 9-passenger station wagons, making 15-minute runs along an established route.

"It seems to be working out well and the company plans to purchase six more station wagons," Tanner said.

At the same time, he added, the unused buses were purchased by a new firm, which runs them now for school children during the hours they go to and from school.

Ann Arbor, which this summer won Adams' approval of its lease arrangement on the technicality that buses are stored and serviced on city property by city crews, reported that the financial situation will be "critical" next year anyway.

Pontiac, where the Pontiac City Lines, Inc. reports that operating costs are eating up 97.1 per cent of its revenues, is eying the statewide picture with interest.

City Commissioners are waiting to see what kind of recommendation the league comes up with before deciding on what stand the city will take.

If the league decides that tax relief must go hand and hand with leasing agreements, the city may find itself faced with an uncomfortable decision.

While looking for some kind of relief, both City Manager Walter K. Willman and the Commission have viewed leasing agreements with alarm.

Pontiac Detectives Nab Trio on Theft Charges

Held are Robert A. Garrison, 22, of 274 W. Brooklyn St., Neil Watson, 23, of 4404 Clintonville Rd., and Robert A. Putnam, 23, of 244 W. Brooklyn.

The three admitted stealing a 10-foot boat early yesterday morning from the truck of Stanley Kucharek of 533 Calgary St. They also admitted taking a coat from the auto of Dorothy Davis of 368 Newport St. yesterday morning.

★ ★ ★

Detectives said the trio also confessed to four burglaries of groceries and gas stations in Waterford and Pontiac townships.

Ontario Gets Beer; Long Strike Over

TORONTO (UP) — Beer was on tap in Ontario today for the first time in more than a month.

The official end of a strike by 1,200 brewery warehouse workers came last night with the signing of a new contract between the brewers and the union, and the first delivery of beer reached some bars in Toronto a few minutes before closing time.

The strike had lasted 41 days and supplies ran out in most parts of the province about a month ago.

The workers' new contract calls for wage increases totaling 26 cents an hour spread over a three-year period.

Will Congress Be Called?

ANN ARBOR (UP) — Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-NY) believes southern resistance to the Supreme Court's integration orders may require a special session of Congress. He said if the situation worsens and school closings become more prevalent a special session will be imperative.

NORMAN E. WINDIATE

Amvets Post No. 12 Elects New Leader

Windiate, of 3498 Erie Drive, Orchard Lake, has been a member of the post since 1947, holding numerous elective positions in the past.

★ ★ ★

The newly elected commander has announced that the combined Pontiac area Amvets, Posts 12 and 113, will hold their annual "White Clover Sale" in the city on Oct. 3 and 4.

The white clovers symbolize the Amvet slogan "Think of Me" and all funds from their sales go to assisting needy Amvets and their families in this area.

Let Contracts on New School

Waterford Board Gives Job to Pontiac Firm as Low Bidder

Construction contracts for a new Waterford Township elementary school were awarded, and two additional school site purchase-offers were approved at a special Board of Education meeting last night.

The Bundy Construction Co. of Pontiac received the contract with a low bid of $263,870 for construction of the Laura Smith Haviland elementary school.

The same architectural plans will be used as those in the recently completed Cooley, Monteith, McVittie, Beaumont and Burt elementary schools, according to superintendent William Shunck.

Total cost of the Haviland School, to be erected on an 11-acre site in the Cass-Elizabeth Rd. area, completely equipped and landscaped will be approximately $300,000. It is the last school scheduled for construction on the $3½-million school bond issue approved by voters in 1956.

An offer to purchase a 50-acre site for $65,000 for a future second senior high school, was approved by the board of education. The plat is located north of Hatchery and east of Crescent Lake roads. The offer is subject to adequate percolation tests.

Another offer to purchase a 5½-acre plat, known as the Dill property on the north side of Walton boulevard, and east of Frankman road, was also approved by board members and the purchase price was $16,900.

The property is in the Jayno Adams School area.

The Day in Birmingham

Police Investigate Theft of Several Video Sets

BIRMINGHAM — Police today were investigating the theft of several television sets last night from the Birmingham Television store, 1842 S. Woodward Ave.

★ ★ ★

The burglary was discovered at 1:30 a.m. by officers checking stores in the business area.

★ ★ ★

An adjoining office building of the Hamburger Builders Co. also had been broken into at the rear, according to Birmingham Police Lt. Robert Schauley.

Nothing was found missing, however, and it was theorized the burglars may have broken into that building by mistake.

The Oakland County Chapter of the American Assn. for the United Nations will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Birmingham Community House.

Speakers will be Dr. Francis A. Arlinghaus, director of evening classes at the University of Detroit. He will talk on "The United Nations and World Opinion."

A film, entitled "Assignment Children," featuring Danyy Kaye and the world-wide services of the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund, will be shown.

Refuses to Rule on Private Schools

Judge in Integration Fight Unemotional at Hearing

By RICHARD DAW

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—U.S. Dist. Judge John E. Miller, who had the first word in Little Rock's emotion-charged integration battle, is himself a decidedly unemotional man.

"Nobody likes to be ordered to do something. Talk reason to them and give them a chance. It pays off."

The wiry jurist, who in 1956 approved the Little Rock School Board's gradual integration plan, used his practice of "talking reason" yesterday when he declined to rule whether Little Rock public schools could become private ones and thus avoid integration.

He heard arguments from attorneys of the School Board, the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People and the federal government, and then — without leaving the bench—delivered a crisp summation and decision.

The crux of the matter involved the constitutionality of Arkansas laws under which the schools would be leased, Miller said, and his court had no jurisdiction over that at this time.

An intensely earnest man, Miller believes that a judge "must be completely dedicated to the law to the exclusion of all other things."

He applies his belief strictly, holding no civic club memberships and allowing himself few outside interests.

His personal associations also are limited. "A federal judge has no business being in activities that might tend to make him less effective," he says.

Born on a farm in southeast Missouri's Stoddard County, Miller found law intrigued him even before he was old enough to know what it really was all about.

"I never considered doing anything else from the time I was old enough to go into the courthouse in town and hear the lawyers talking," he said.

★ ★ ★

Miller came to Arkansas in 1912 to begin practicing law at Searcy after receiving a degree from Kentucky State.

Father of 5 Killed on Job

BATTLE CREEK (AP)—A father of five, 31-year-old Dearol Sherman of Hastings, was killed today in an accident at the Michigan Carton Co.'s paper mill here. Sherman's arm was caught in a paper machine belt which flung him into the air and then dashed him to the ground.

MR. and MRS. JAMES L. PARKER

Josephine Lessard Now Mrs. James L. Parker

WATKINS LAKE — James L. Parker claimed Josephine Lessard as his bride in a double-ring rite Saturday afternoon at the Evangelical United Brethren Church in Port Creek near Flat Rock. Officiating was the Rev. Walter L. Eldred.

The bride, who is the daughter of Rolland Lessard of Riviera Beach, Fla., and the late Mrs. Lessard, had made her home with her sister, Mrs. Mark Ferstle of Carleton.

★ ★ ★

Maid of honor was the bride's sister, Suzanne. Bridesmaids were another sister, Cathie, and Charrie Parker, sister of the bridegroom.

After their honeymoon in northern Michigan the newlyweds will make their home in East Lansing while completing their education at Michigan State University.

Recapture Escapee in Running Gunfight

DETROIT (UP) — Wayne County sheriff's deputies captured a fugitive from the Bay County Jail after a running gunfight in which 20 shots were fired last night in suburban Dearborn Township.

Deputies spotted William W. Hartman, 38, of Port Huron, hiding in a garage after receiving a tip from neighbors. The garage is owned by a former employer of Hartman.

Hartman fled when police arrived. Deputies chased the fugitive and after firing 20 times, trapped Hartman in a vacant lot. Hartman escaped from the Bay County Jail Sept. 14. He was awaiting trial on an armed robbery charge.

Liquor Pay Plan Action Requested

LANSING (UPI) — The Liquor Control Commission was asked today to clear the "aura of mystery" about a plan intended to save the state 16 million dollars last spring by deferring liquor payments to distillers.

The action was requested by Sen. John P. Smeekens (R-Coldwater) in a letter to Commission Chairman Joseph L. Wisniewski.

The plan was intended to provide a stop gap saving by creating a 90-day waiting period for payment of liquor supplies.

Smeekens said he wanted to know if the plan worked. Commission Business Manager George Burke said the plan worked and that there was "nothing mysterious about it."

Burke said a final fiscal report will be made in about 10 days.

★ ★ ★

School Board Honors Retiree

Mrs. Lola King Given Framed Resolution for Serving Pontiac

Pontiac's Board of Education paid tribute to Mrs. Lola King, who retired from the board after 16 years of service this year, at its meeting last night at McConnell School.

Mrs. King was presented with a framed resolution by Glenn H. Griffin, president of the board, which "expressed the appreciation of a grateful community, better because of her unselfish service."

The resolution cited Mrs. King as an "outstanding friend of education and a champion of the cause for better schools."

In other business, the board awarded a contract for clearing the site of the Square Lake Elementary School to the low bidder, the Al Mazen Co. of Ferndale, at a cost of $944.49. Eight bids were received, the highest $53,525.

The board approved the renewal of student accident insurance for the forthcoming year at a cost of $1.50 per pupil.

After hearing a report by Lester Stanley, chairman of the Home-School Communications Committee on last year's parent-teacher conference program, the board voted to extend the program through the 1958-59 school year.

Kenneth Shirley Spaulding, 43, a self-employed land clearing expert, said it was he and not an uncle who took Shirley Ann 13, Wednesday night from in front of the grandmother's home and brought her on a flight to Florida.

PRODUCES ORDER

An earlier report listed Cecil Spaulding, the girl's uncle from Tallahassee, as taking Shirley Ann away in a car.

The father produced an order from the 6th Judicial Circuit Court of Pinellas County (St. Petersburg) dated Oct. 4, 1956, which awarded him permanent custody of both Shirley Ann and a son, Sheril Douglas Spaulding, 5.

Spaulding confirmed a statement by the child's grandmother, Mrs. Myrtle Spaulding, that he seized the boy in a similar incident last January in Des Moines, Iowa.

★ ★ ★

"She (the wife) had the children hidden from me for over a year and a half," Spaulding said. "In January, I could only get Sheril."

The father said his daughter came to his home in St. Petersburg with him "with her own permission and that of the courts of Florida."

He said she resisted when he picked her up in a car while she was playing in front of the grandmother's home.

'CHOSE TO COME'

"A few miles away I got her quieted down and gave her a choice," said Spaulding. "She chose to come to Florida with me."

Spaulding said he tried and failed to get the courts in both Des Moines and Jackson to honor the Pinellas County court order.

Mrs. Spaulding has been in St. Petersburg two months seeking a rehearing of the order.

Spaulding claimed his children were "brainwashed" by their grandmother. He said he plans to send Shirley Ann to a child guidance clinic at St. Petersburg for a thorough test and will hire a private tutor to help the child.

The sheriff's office and city police said they had received no report from Jackson authorities for a pickup on Spaulding.

Jackson police said no charges have been filed against the father, but he is wanted for questioning.

Yes, but Did He Laugh at Friars Club Film?

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — The Friars Club made a TV pilot film of a "Man of the Hour" program—principally a rib (that particular week) of Ed Sullivan. Phil Silvers came on to say Ed's forte was introducing acts: "He'd always get the name wrong but he'd introduce them." Abbe Lane presented Ed with an award — which turned out to be a photo of Steve Allen . . . An executive of Ed's newspaper was represented as saying, "On TV, he can't sing, dance, act or do impressions. He's been with our paper 25 years—and he can't write, either."

WILSON

Bert Wheeler contended during the old-timer representation that he had (during prohibition) asked a cop in Philadelphia where he could buy some whisky. The cop had pointed to a Presbyterian church. "See that?" he said. "That's the place where it CAN'T be bought."

Elvis Presley's mgr. Col. Tom Parker is off to Hollywood to "adjust" some of Elvis' movie contracts for his return to civilian life in March 1960. Colonel Parker figures Elvis will be worth more in 1960 than now, because then he'll have "more appeal to adults." (Tom passed out pictures of Elvis as his own calling card.)

Dick Shawn's takeoff on the rock-'n'-rollers is hilarious. He impersonates a 20-year-old cat saying, "The papers say we're sick. Oh, we know what the papers are sayin'! We got people readin' it to us." He also claims that Elvis must be seen in person to be appreciated: "On TV, they've toned him down to an orgy."

Officers Installed by Pontiac DeMolay

Installed this week as Master Councilor of the Pontiac Chapter Order of DeMolay was Danny Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Reynolds, of Rochester.

Her parents found her floating on top of the tub's water and rushed her to a hospital, where she died an hour later.

U. of M. Report Alters Saying

Rich and Poor Couples Having About the Same Number of Children

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—The rich get richer and the poor get children, goes an old saying. But the new word at the University of Michigan is that this isn't quite true.

A research study here says both income groups are having about the same number of children.

This is especially the case of city people, says Dr. David Goldberg, of the University of Michigan Institute of Public Administration.

Goldberg spent a year going over records compiled by U of M's Detroit Area Study and other statistical agencies.

He found that early in marriage close home and kinship ties are the main factors in considering additional children.

Later, he said, after two or three children have arrived, the question is similar to that of purchasing a luxury item—"Can we afford it?"

The pattern for large or small families also depends on whether the husband or wife is the chief decision maker.

"Men are primarily influenced by such factors as status and income," Goldbert said. If a man is earning $12,000 and thinks he can afford more children, the couple will have them if the main decision is up to him.

A woman, Goldberg said, is influenced by such factors as whether she likes to spend her leisure time around the home.

2 Weeks Left for Farmers

Oct. 10 Deadline to Ask Top Payment Rate on Federal Soil Bank

EAST LANSING (AP)—Two weeks remain for farmers to ask establishment of a maximum payment rate for their farm under the 1959 federal soil bank program.

Oct. 10 is the deadline for this step in participating in the conservation reserve.

Charles Beer, farm management specialist at Michigan State University, observed the earlier the rate is established the more time a farmer has to make up his mind whether to go ahead and take part.

Beer said that operators of farms where income has been low or where the operator has worked off the farm now may find the program attractive even if inducement has been lacking in previous years.

The same applies, he said, if a farmer wants to retire but continue living in his farm home or if he is in a situation where rental payments for crop land will open up opportunities for adjustments in farming practices.

Stepson Examined in Bludgeon Slaying

ST. JOHNS (AP) — The Justice Court examination of bachelor farmer Vincent Hengesbach, charged with the bludgeon killing of his stepmother, went into the second day today.

Hengesbach, 52, was seized in the slaying of Mrs. Anna Hengesbach, 63-year-old widow whose body was found Sept. 8 in a cornfield behind her home near Westphalia. She had been missing for a week.

Hengesbach, who lived with his stepmother but never spoke to her, has denied any connection with the crime. State Police gave him two lie detector tests but said both were inconclusive.

Testifying yesterday were Hillary Hafner, Clinton County sheriff's deputy; Daniel C. Myre, State Police crime laboratory technician, Dr. Charles E. Black, state pathologist, and Glen Osgood, Clinton County coroner.

Price Reductions Give Pontiac Sales Head Start

Recent announced price reductions will definitely put Pontiac Motor in a more competitive position with its new line of 1959 cars than at any time in recent years. It is a little over 10 years since Pontiac's last price cut.

★ ★ ★

Like any other business, price is of paramount importance in the automobile industry. Auto buyers are like a housewife shopping for the groceries, they are all looking for bargains. The car with the lowest price tag and the most dollar value is the car they want.

★ ★ ★

The 1959 Pontiac has both lower prices on most models and increased dollar value.

The announcement that the Pontiac Division is cutting prices while the other four GM divisions are either up or about the same simply means that Pontiac Motor is going all out for a larger share of the market.

The new lower prices on the '59 Pontiacs are further notice that General Manager Semon E. "Bunky" Knudsen is fighting for second place among General Motors five auto divisions.

Pontiac and this area are fortunate in having a division head striving to put the Pontiac car in its rightful place among the leaders in the automobile industry.

Nature's Display Gets Off to an Early Start

★ ★ ★

Always first in the color parade, the sumac in the hedgerows is putting on its vivid red and the sassafras its yellow hue.

Some of the maples are gradually going from green to pink and then red in their usual sequence, while the elm, hickory, ash, poplar, apple and pear trees have started toward their customary yellow.

But none of the trees have yet assumed a display that would warrant a passing judgment on what they will be when in full color. That time is yet several days away.

★ ★ ★

Our Man About Town is keeping his usual daily touch with what's going on in nature's autumn extravaganza. In his daily column on this page he will tell you when and where the show is at its best.

What Is It That Makes Michigan So Great?

In the current issue of Look is a 60-page feature, profusely illustrated in colors, showing what the 12 middle western states mean to the nation, and the world.

This area of over 49 million people produces nearly one-half of America's food, 43 per cent of its beer, one-third of its manufactured products and leads the nation in houses of worship.

In extolling the reasons for the greatness of each of the individual states, Ohio's football fans are rated as tops. Indiana has an ambulance driver that sees more pain every day than most of us do in a lifetime.

★ ★ ★

Illinois gets a rating for Chicago's slums and its integration problems, also for Marshall Field's. Missouri's entry is a St. Louis woman with untold millions whose greatest ambition is to live it up.

Wisconsin is the land of milk and honey. Kansas is the heart of American psychiatry. Minnesota has a prosperous farmer who admits it. North Dakota boasts of an editor with no problems.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

In the Michigan story, Detroit and most everywhere else are practically ignored, in order that we may be singled out in an elaborate setting of over three pages, citing Oakland County's Cranbrook as the outstanding example of culture in the midwest.

"How Do I Get Permission to Leave the Room?

David Lawrence Says:

Oklahoma Approves Segregation

WASHINGTON — The mess of conflicting "legalities" in which the American people find themselves today over the "integration" question is best illustrated by the fact that in one state of the Union —namely, Oklahoma—it still is the "law of the land" to permit segregated public schools.

LAWRENCE

This paradox comes about because the Congress of the United States in 1907 entered into a binding compact with the people of Oklahoma specifically permitting them to maintain white and colored schools, respectively.

The act of congress, which was embodied in the constitution of the State of Oklahoma and ratified by the people of that state, declared:

"That provisions shall be made for the establishment and maintenance of a system of public schools, which shall be open to all the children of said state and free from sectarian control; and said schools shall always be conducted in English: provided, that nothing herein shall preclude the teaching of other languages in said public schools: and provided further, that this shall not be construed to prevent the establishment and maintenance of separate schools for white and colored children."

It will be noted that, at the same time this was passed by Congress and ratified by the people of the State of Oklahoma as a part of their constitution, it was specifically stipulated in the "enabling act" passed by Congress that the constitutution of Oklahoma "shall make no distinction in civil or political rights on account of race or color."

Thus a differentiation was made between "civil or political rights," on the one hand, and the rights involved in the maintenance of separate schools, on the other.

As late as June, 1950 — four years before its decision overruling the "separate but equal" doctrine in a case involving state laws — the Supreme Court of the United States had an opportunity to declare this act of Congress invalid, but did not do so.

The case before it concerned a Negro who had been admitted to a white college, but who was given a desk apart from the other students, as provided by Oklahoma state law.

The Supreme Court said that, once admitted, a Negro had to be given equal treatment with the whites and that this state law violated the fourteenth amendment.

The citizens of Oklahoma today can insist on the benefits given by a statute passed by Congress. The fourteenth amendment, of course, does not restrict Federal laws, but applies solely to state laws.

It would be possible for some litigant to argue that, without any state laws on the subject, "Separate but equal" educational facilities are still legal in the State of Oklahoma because they have been authorized by an act of Congress which has never been repealed and which has never been ruled invalid by the Supreme Court of the United States.

It is true that an act of Congress was also involved in the district of Columbia case, decided on May 17, 1954, when segregation was condemned in local schools.

But an act of Congress providing for the governing of a territory or a Federal district is not the same thing as an act of Congress which deals with the admission of a state and its rights under a written constitution.

It will be suggested that the Supreme Court would simply say in such a new case that it is "unthinkable" for one state to be ruled by a Federal law while the others are not.

Certainly from time to time the Supreme Court has insisted that the "enabling act" which creates a new state does not add or subtract "civil or political rights" from the state but places it in these respects on a footing equal to the other states of the union.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Pressure, Cold Compress Usually Stops Nosebleed

Most frequent cause of nosebleed is a punch on the nose, or, if your insurance doesn't cover brawls, say, collision with a door which someone has carelessly left open or closed without notifying you of the hazard. I've lost more patients by such cracks . . .

DR BRADY

Second in frequency is injury of the septum or partition between the nostrils by the fingernail in the practice of picking the nose. Fortunately, when bleeding of this nature cannot be stopped by ordinary efforts the doctor can locate the bleeding spot by using speculum and head light, cauterize it and stop the bleeding.

Old household methods of stopping nosebleed are:

(1) Keeping nostrils closed by gentle pressure of finger and thumb on sides for five minutes, the patient sitting quietly, breathing through mouth.

(2) Applying something very cold to the forehead between the eyes or to nape of neck, preferably ice.

Breathe only through the open mouth, and do not blow the nose even gently for an hour or two.

★ ★ ★

Frequent nosebleed in a child, particularly when the bleeding is obviously from only one nostril, may indicate presence of a foreign body and therefore calls for examination by a physician.

AVOID STYPTICS

The use of styptics such as alum, adrenalin, tampons or other agents to control nosebleed is safe only in the hands of the physician.

Remember, the loss of a half pint or a pint of blood is of no particular consequence to a blood donor, so the loss of half an ounce or an ounce via nosebleed need cause no alarm.

How much fact or how much fancy there may be in the familiar idea that occasional nosebleeds may be good for a person with plethora, high blood, or a tendency to apoplexy (stroke, cerebral hemorrhage), I don't know. All I can say is that it probably does no harm.

Perhaps we don't bleed people for such conditions nowadays because we or our medical fathers found it was not effective.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

"I do some baking and also drink about three cups of coffee daily, and that takes lots of sugar. Would it be injurious in any way to use saccharin instead of sugar for sweetening my coffee. If not, how much may I use? I am 70." (Mrs. H.M.C.)

Anwwer—One-fourth of a grain of saccharin has the sweetening capacity of about a teaspoonful of sugar. It is harmless for any one to use a few grains of saccharin (up to five grains) a day.

"Would like to know if you agree with Adelle Davis's advice about yogurt. In her book she says . . ." (J. F. B.)

Answer—One-fourth of a grain books in my working library. I have not found anything in Adelle Davis' books to disagree with.

Downtown Carnival Days Bring Letters of Praise

We wish to take this way of commending the Chamber of Commerce and the merchants of downtown stores in Pontiac for the successful outcome of their Carnival Days.

★ ★ ★

We particularly want to comment on this, for we feel besides benefiting the merchants and patrons of the stores, it also brought families together in fun and gave children enjoyment which otherwise they might not have had.

★ ★ ★

Teenagers, children, adults, merchants and the City of Pontiac all benefited by these Carnival Days. We would recommend a repeat performance.

James Lafnear, President
Pontiac Lodge 132

The downtown Carnival Days were the best thing we've had in Pontiac in ages. Every day seemed like the friendly Saturday-nights-in-town they have in small villages. I certainly hope this becomes a regular thing with the merchants.

I read a quotation from J. Edgar Hoover in the Voice of the People. May I contribute another? "My concern over the increase in total crime and the toll in dollar costs is matched by my concern over the disturbing growth of juvenile crime. Little Rock Integration Must Clear 2 Hurdles

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Little Rock voters tomorrow take their next critical step in the nation's white-hot integration controversy when they register their preference between intgration or segregation of the school system.

The referendum results and steps expected to follow are critical for those Southerners who consider a private school plan the last-ditch maneuver to keep Negroes out of all-white schools.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus, who ordered the referendum, says he will open the four high schools he closed Sept. 12 regardless of the ballot outcome.

He has said that if integrationists win he will permit all Little Rock schools, with their 20,308 students, to desegregate without further interference.

★ ★ ★

If segregation forces win, the next step in Faubus' plan is to open the high schools as private institutions with a corporation operating them on a segregated basis. The high schools had an enrollment of 3,698 before students began transferring out of the district.

★ ★ ★

Regardless of the balloting results, immediate court challenges are expected.

The ballot reads:

The referendum will not instantly solve some problems. For instance:

★ ★ ★

What does the losing faction plan to do next?

And exactly how many voters reside in the school district?

W. H. Laubach, Election Committee scretary said, "We won't make an exact count unless the governor requires it." Presumably Faubus would call for a total only if the referendum results are close.

Most referendums require only a majority of those voting to decide an issue.

Should the integration forces cast the larger vote tomorrow, they will have to go to court to win because of the "qualified electors" restriction on deciding the victor.

The School Board, fearing federal contempt action against its members, sought a decision from U.S. Dist. Judge James E. Miller on whether it can legally lease the schools. Miller refused to rule, saying it involved constitutional questions requiring a three-judge tribunal.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Offers Tips to Cure Stage Fright

Jim wishes he could get rid of his stage fright, as do most of you readers. But you should actually be grateful to your shaking hands and knocking knees! For stage fright protects your heart! Scrapbook this case record and send for the booklet named below if you are a singer or public speaker.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

"Dr. Crane, I was elected president of my class," he began, "but I am a victim of stage fright.

DR. CRANE

"Whenever I get up to speak, my hands shake so much that my paper rattles and I can't even read my notes.

"Is there any way to control one's nerves and stop this shaking of the hands?"

BRAVO, STAGE FRIGHT

Before answering Jim fully, let me remind you to be grateful for your stage fright!

For it is really a safety valve to protect your heart and intestines.

When your nervous energy in the brain reaches a high pitch, the shaking of your hands and even the knocking of your knees help drain off that excess energy.

If, however, you clasped your hands and otherwise prevented your skeletal muscles (those fastened to bones) from shaking, then that energy would short-circuit across into the nerves that control your heart, your intestines, lungs, sweat glands, etc.

Your heart would then race so fast you might even faint. And you'd get spastic colitis, plus many other unpleasant reactions.

So the next time you see your hands shaking as you try to make a speech or sing a solo, just to yourself, "Bravo, stage fright, you are protecting my heart."

COUNTER TRACTION

But you can drain off energy via your hands and still look as cool as the proverbial cucumber, just by seizing your music or speech notes in both hands and then pulling in opposite directions.

Thus, a tug of war, so to speak, is produced, and the counter traction of one hand will almost completely neutralize the tremor of the other.

You can still feel as jittery as a cat, but at least you will not advertise this fact to the public.

As soon as you get well launched into your talk, your gestures will also drain off your extra nervous energy.

Then illustrate it with some actual cases from real life. These can be told as short stories (narratives).

★ ★ ★

As such, they will hold the interest of the audience far better than dry exposition (explanatory words without any dramatic incidents).

Furthermore, it is easy to tell stories, for most people are fairly adept at narration. Thus, they talk verbatim.

Memorized talks tend to sound artificial. Meanwhile, you are likely to be thinking of what sentences are on the next page of your manuscript and thus you pay little attention to the audience.

SPEECH FORMULA

Most of the great orators of America have spontaneously hit upon the anecdotal or narrative formula for a speech.

Start out with you main theme or text. It helps to quote some distinguished figure from history if the latter has a relevant remark that matches your topic.

Then document your main idea with several relevant cases, told as stories.

If it is an emotional theme, like a Mother's Day address, come down the home stretch in verse. Recite a poem that contains your climax thought.

★ ★ ★

Send for my booklet "Public Platform Strategy," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit). It contains further practical hints.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Says Pamphlet Not Used Here

Michigan GOP Raps Blistering Attack Again Walter Reuther

DETROIT (AP) — State Republicans have denied a statement by Democratic Lt. Gov. Philip A. Hart that the Kamp pamphlet is being circulated in Michigan.

★ ★ ★

Written by Joseph P. Kamp, of Westport, Conn., the pamphlet attacks United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther. It was repudiated by national GOP leaders after it appeared in California.

Paul D. Bagwell, Republican candidate for governor, said he was angry at the thought the pamphlet would be used in Michigan. Bagwell termed Kamp an "extremist and a reactionary."

★ ★ ★

Lawrence B. Lindemer, state GOP chairman, said the official Republican party position "is one of condemnation from Meade Alcorn (national chairman) right on down."

Distribution of the pamphlet "Meet the Man Who Plans to Rule America" has been financed by a group of Eastern Republicans.

Chicago's Mayor Nixes Puffing on Peace Pipe

CHICAGO (UPI) — Descendants of the warlike Potawatomi Indians found yesterday it just doesn't pay to fight city hall — or to try to get along with it.

Led by their chief, Scott Thundercloud, six braves and two princesses asked that Mayor Richard J. Daley sign a peace treaty ending the hostilities between Chicago and six tribes which warred against early residents of Fort Dearborn.

★ ★ ★

Following the Fort Dearborn massacre in 1812, Thundercloud said, "The Indians went into hiding . . . afraid of white man's revenge." No treaty had ever been signed.

Daley was all set to write the 144-year-old war off the books when Corporation Counsel John Melaniphy stepped in.

"The mayor doesn't have any power to sign a treaty with these Indians," he said. "It's a matter for the federal government. And, anyway, Chicago was not in existence at the time of the Fort Dearborn massacre."

Crestfallen, the Indians asked Daley to proclaim Saturday "Indian Day" in Chicago. Daley went along with that but wouldn't wear a war bonnet — or smoke a peace pipe. The mayor doesn't smoke.

Leaving the mayor's office, the Indians went to the commissioner of streets and asked his cooperation in making this Saturday the best "Indian Day" ever. All they wanted was a permit to send up smoke signals from a busy intersection in Chicago's Loop.

"Sorry, no fires are allowed in the streets," the red-faced red faces were told.

Waits for Accident; Finds Her Son Dead

PISCATAWAY, N.J. (AP)—Mrs. Etta Powell was delayed getting home to her two sons yesterday. An accident down the road had tied up traffic for half a mile and held up her bus.

When she finally got home, police were waiting.

They told Mrs. Powell that her 11-year-old son Richard had been killed by a truck while her other son Floyd Thomas, 14, watched helplessly.

It was the accident that had delayed Mrs. Powell's bus.

Segregationist Quits Negro College in Texas

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The Rev. E. A. Munroe, white segregationist Baptist minister, who enrolled at a Negro college hoping he would be refused entrance, has quit school.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

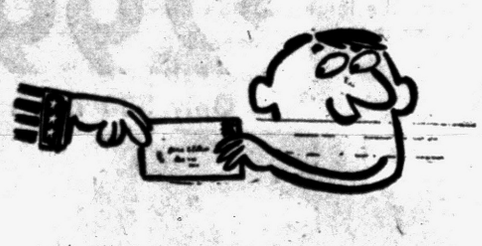

University President S. M. Nabrit said Munroe could receive 70 per cent of his fees by withdrawing by the end of the week.

"There's no problem there," said the Rev. Mr. Munroe. "I just stopped payment of the check I gave them."

Eddy Gilmore Writing for Hal Boyle—

Shurr, It's a Mad Day Making Movie in Erin

DUBLIN (AP)—This is a story about a Scotsman who organized an airplane trip to Dublin to watch an Englishman direct an American in a film about Ireland on a location built by an Irish Jew.

The Scot is Jock MacGregor.

The Englishman, producer-director Michael Anderson.

The American, James Cagney.

The Irish Jew, Louis Elliman, who has constructed a miniature Hollywood 12 miles south of the Irish capital.

The film, "Shake Hands with the Devil."

It was a mad day, featured and interrupted by everything from Eamon de Valera to whispered suggestions of sabotage.

The morning began with a news conference in the skies, 16,000 feet above the Irish Sea. The conference was given by beautiful Dana Wynter, just in from California.

No cheesecake dummy, Miss Wynter discussed everything from medicine to mink with a degree of quick intelligence that stunned 47 British journalists asking the questions.

To one who queried, "Do you think that sex is here to stay?" Miss Wynter replied:

★ ★ ★

"Well, if it isn't, neither am I."

At Dublin Airport the chartered plane was met by kilted colleens playing bagpipes and beating drums.

This was followed by a conducted tour of Dublin.

"Here is the statue of that great Irish patriot, Charles Stewart Parnell," said the guide with a brogue as thick as a Liffey fog.

★ ★ ★

"Parnell was a man of great perception. You'll notice his right hand is pointing. He's pointing to Mooney's Irish House, home of fine whisky."

Cagney hove into view.

"My ancestors came from Cork," he said, "and I've come to the conclusion that I love Ireland."

He was followed by that talented Irish character actor, bearded Noel Purcell, noted for many roles. "Welcome to Ireland," roared Purcell.

Philadelphia-born Walter Seltzer, the producer, was host to a huge luncheon beneath a circus tent.

★ ★ ★

In the evening the Irish Tourist Board gave a reception. A reception by the Irish Tourist Board means the guests are on the receiving end of a large amount of Irish whisky.

Halfway through the pouring, an Irish girl started playing an Irish harp.

An airline official dashed in and announced the plane couldn't take off because "a part is missing."

"Sabotage," muttered someone.

Truman Rings Doorbells

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Harry Truman rings doorbells in San Francisco today to kick off a four-day nationwide "Dollars for Democrats" drive.

About 100,000 other party volunteers will be doing the same thing as Democrats in 42 states conduct a campaign through Monday. They hope to raise a multimillion dollar campaign chest.

★ ★ ★

California has set the biggest state goal—$250,000—in the drive linked with the "Don't Pass the Buck, Give a Buck" campaign of the American Heritage Foundation.

The Republicans have a similar "Back Your Ballots With Your Buck" drive, which started Sept. 14 and winds up on President Eisenhower's birthday, Oct. 14.

At Least 48 Drown in Mexico's Floods

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The confirmed death toll from floods in the west coast state of Sinaloa climbed today to 18 as receding waters exposed more bodies.

At least 48 persons are now known to have lost their lives in two weeks of flooding throughout central and north Mexico from the worst rains in 51 years. More than 40,000 were homeless.

Officials said scores of persons still are missing around the port of Mazatlan in Sinaloa and the death count there might reach more than 100.

More rain was falling at Mazatlan and in the mountains.

New Ailment Now Plagues Steak Eaters

CHICAGO (UPI) — A scientist reports that a new ailment has risen to plague steak eaters.

What's more, the condition is aggravated by the side effects of a few predinner cocktails and the distraction of steak house conversation.

The findings were announced yesterday by Dr. Robert G. Zach, a radiologist with the Monroe, Wis., clinic, in a speech before the 23rd annual meeting of the Mississippi Valley Medical Society.

Zach said the ailment, which he calls steak house disease, is fairly common, affecting about 4 per cent of the population.

The symptom is an intense pain in the stomach, usually after swallowing large pieces of meat, particularly steak. Zach said the irritation is caused by the formation of constricting rings in the gullet, and the condition often may be mistaken for a heart attack or cancer.

The mellowing effects of cocktails and conversation can aggravate the condition, Zach said, because "under such circumstances a person often swallows pieces of meat larger than usual and causes esophageal irritation."

★ ★ ★

No drug has been found to cure the ailment, Zach said, but sufferers can be helped if they will learn to chew their food carefully.

New tractors designed especially for pulling jetliners can move a 300,000 pound aircraft at six miles an hour. They cost $25,000 each.

Dulles Scores Red Chinese

U.S. Will Not Retreat in the Face of Force, He Declares

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Secretary of State Dulles conferred with top Western diplomats today after serving notice that the United States will "make no retreat in the face of force" on Formosa.

In a speech before the Far East-American Council of Commerce and Industry in New York last night, Dulles charged that Red China—aided by Soviet arms, supplies, and moral support — is "threatening war against us in the Formosa area."

"The United States is not prepared to retreat in the face of armed force," he declared. But, he added, "our position is otherwise flexible."

Dulles said the United States welcomed Peiping's willingness to resume the U.S.-Red Chinese talks and was prepared, "in accord with our United Nations Charter obligation, to settle the dispute by peaceful means."

"We believe that the Soviet Union, if it wanted to see a peaceful solution, could make that possible," he said.

★ ★ ★

The secretary spoke amid indications that the gloom into which the Formosa crisis had plunged Washington was lifting slightly.

Spirits were bolstered by a pentagon estimate that Nationalist China is strong enough to hurl back any Red Chinese invasion attempt against Quemoy without U.S. armed help.

There was a feeling in U.N. circles that the Reds were easing their pressure in Formosa — perhaps in the face of a solid Western front.

★ ★ ★

The Warsaw talks continued to drag on despite reports of deadlock.

U.S. Ambassador Jacob Beam told newsmen in the Polish capital he would meet again next Tuesday with the Red Chinese envoy, Wang Ping-nan.

The main fear at this stage appeared to be that Peiping is not as experienced at international fencing as Moscow, and might accidentally step over the brink.

High above the earth the air grows hotter. At an altitude of 30 miles it is about 170 degrees Fahrenheit.

Jayne's Hubby Must Pay More Alimony

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jayne Mansfield's strongman husband Mickey Hargitay was denounced in court last night and ordered to pay $300 monthly support to his daughter by a former marriage.

★ ★ ★

Hargitay, former Mr. Universe, was in court to answer a petition by his former wife Mrs. Mary Hargitay that the child support payments for Tina, 9, be raised to $415 a month from $20 a week.

Said Superior Court Commissioner John P. Oliver: "He (Hargitay) is more interested in his own pursuits than in his own flesh and blood.

"It's a sad commentary that in the time this man has had $69,000 pass through his hands he has paid $800 for his child, whom he testified he hasn't even seen since December of 1956."

★ ★ ★

Earlier testimony disclosed that Hargitay under a contract received 10 per cent of Miss Mansfield's income. Hargitay said he had paid as much as $250 monthly support for Tina.

Bob Considine Says:

Challenge of Jet Age Takes Many Shapes

NEW YORK — The enormous challenge of the jet age of transportation takes many shapes and forms. As we move into an era of breathtaking change, operators of craft which soon will be carrying millions of persons about the world at speeds which would have caused Richard the Lion Hearted to faint, have been forced to plan and dream on a titanic scale.

American Airlines has found it expedient to order four billion — yes, billion — gallons of kerosene, not to keep the price stable in the years to come but to encourage and enable the refinery to be built. All the lines are devising new ways and means of expanding their markets, improving their food, conquering such ancient problems as delivering a customer's baggage to him before he busts a gusset.

Millions of dollars have been spent on suppressing the noise of jet engines, thousands of hours of research have gone into just how much room in the new jets should be allotted to radar gear and how much to the preparation of sandwiches. The width of the average beam of the average passenger has engaged the attention of thoughtful planners. The interior decorator has been asked to cope with the problem of peace of mind and comfortable quarters in the stratosphere. My friend V. J. Skutt, president of the world's largest health and accident insurance company, Mutual of Omaha, burns the midnight kerosene getting ready for the incredible day when every flight of a big jet may involve an insurance risk of perhaps $1,000,000.

This advanced thinking is reaching some kind of crest in Pomona, N. J., headquarters of the National Aviation Facilities Experimental Center. This is a government body headed up by one of the most brilliant airmen of them all, Lt. Gen. Pete Quesada (ret.)

It is settling down on the reconstructed site of the old Atlantic City naval air station, once a field which offered a shelter to carrier-based planes whose carriers were headed toward Norfolk, or some such, to have their bottoms shaved.

Out of Pomona will come new ideas which will shape the whole jet age: New ideas in take-offs and landings, control at great heights, the building and location of great aerial one-way highways, better communication between air and ground, new radar techniques, keener recognition of traffic problems, enlightened approaches to weather, jet streams, visibility, blind flying. The charter of the new government body requires it to think beyond domestic needs to intercontinental traffic and on into space problems.

It's quite possible that this remote airdrome and laboratory in southern New Jersey could become the world's foremost commercial airport too. It is hard today to conceive of any other port of U. S. entry except New York.

But how are we really to know? Perhaps the great winged airships of the immediate future, flying in over the Atlantic, will put down at this Jersey pilot-plant which guides all commercial and military techniques. After all, a considerable percentage is going on somewhere else in the country after arrival.

My personal misgiving about the jet age is whether it will meet the challenge of leg room. Outside of the average Broadway theater there is no more uncomfortable seating arrangement on earth (or in space) than the average airplane. For years I've been cursed with the problem of the guy in the seat ahead of me tipping back into my coffee or Swiss steak.

If we are eventually to have lunch in New York and arrive in Los Angeles in time for breakfast, a novel switch due to the speed of the plane and the difference in time, let us not arrive with the bends caused by being packed in like a lot of sardines with their eyes open.

That's something for the geniuses at Pomona, N. J., to figure out.

Temporary blindness may be caused by glaring automobile headlights or reflected sunlight and the blindness can last as much as three seconds.

May End Search for Missing Pair

2 Americans Overdue More Than Month in Canadian Wilds

SENNETERRE, Que. (UPI)—An extensive air search for two young Americans who are more than a month overdue on a 250-mile canoe trip in Northwestern Quebec was scheduled to end today.

★ ★ ★

An RCAF plane yesterday flew low over five of the dozen or so waterways that the boys could have taken, but saw nothing.

Detective Louis Patenaude of Quebec Provincial Police said last night "We will fly over all the remaining routes tomorrow if the weather is good."

Robert Carey, 23, of Rosedale, Ill., and Allen Price, 21, of Ann Arbor, Mich., set out on Aug. 1 to paddle and carry their canoe from Lake Waswanipi, 80 miles north of this northwestern Quebec town, to Rupert House, on the Quebec shore of James Bay.

★ ★ ★

He said the boys took sufficient food for 15 days and expected to supplement their supply by hunting and fishing.

Prof. Percival Price, father of Allen and professor of music at the University of Michigan, arrived here last weekend to join in the search.

Fan Club for Kennedy

CHICAGO (UPI) — Movie stars have nothing on young, handsome Robert F. Kennedy, chief counsel to the Senate Rackets Committee. A group of teenage girls saw him on television and immediately formed a "Robert F. Kennedy Fan Club."

To Use Diner's Card for Repairing Auto?

NEW YORK (AP)—Diners' Club credit cards, originally intended for restaurant patrons, may be used in the future by the motorist who needs a flat fixed or a discombobulated piston repaired.

The company is negotiating with the Mercury-Edsel-Lincoln Division of Ford Motor Co. on a plan under which club members would be given charge privileges for auto repairs.

★ ★ ★

It's understood that 3,300 Mercury-Edsel-Lincoln dealers are being invited to join in the plan. Some already have signed, according to Ford spokesmen here.

Diners' Club cards are honored by some 5,000 gasoline stations around the country, a spokesman said.

Russians Jam Church —Tears Tell the Story

By BEVERLY DEEPE
Fourth in Series
Written for The Associated Press

Below me was a mass of praying humanity.

The wooden benches were invisible under the crowd. People stood on the stairways. They were packed six deep in the side door which opened onto a pile of rubble.

★ ★ ★

This was a Baptist church service in Moscow which I was visiting as a member of the U.S.-U.S.S.R. student exchange. Two other members and Victor, our Russian translator, came to church with me.

An elderly man in a dark gray suit at the church door motioned us upstairs to the balcony. All the seats in the church were filled, except for a long narrow visitors bench next to the railing.

The old women among the 1,500 worshippers wore black or brown dresses with white or printed bandanas. Only three wore dark straw hats with simple trim.

★ ★ ★

And—although the Communist line says religion is for old women—I noticed about every fifth person in the congregation looked under 35.

(The American Baptist Convention headquarters in New York says the Baptist Church in the Soviet Union has grown from 28,900 members in 1912 to 530,000 members today. Baptists say 8,000 converts have been baptized since Jan. 1, 1958, and more are on probation).

★ ★ ★

Between each verse of the hymn, the music stopped and the minister recited the next one. There were no hymnals in the church. Some members carried the verses in books printed in the old pre-Revolutionary orthography. Many carried the verses in their hearts.

I shall remember this singing for years—a slow, melancholy, almost despairing singing that reverberated from the high white ceiling and the undecorated walls.

★ ★ ★

The minister's sermon interwove Scripture readings with Christian principles to be followed by the congregation. A woman across from me wiped her eyes as the minister instructed the worshipers to remain strong despite many troubles and temptations. I saw other women blowing their noses.

A stifled sobbing rose throughout the congregation when the closing prayer asked forgiveness for wrongdoing and Christian acts omitted from their lives.

Throughout the service, white slips of paper fluttered from the balcony and were passed to the front of the room. From them, a minister read greetings from other Baptist churches behind the Iron Curtain. The congregation responded: "Greetings." Other messages requested prayers for the sick.

As we left the church, Victor—a member of the Young Communist League — said: "It was jammed. This surprised me."

It surprised me too, for I kept thinking of the pressures against church-going which I had noted in this atheistic society—a society which pulls children from worship on Sunday morning for a movie sponsored by Communist youth organizations.

This is a society in which a Russian Orthodox professor repeats the Soviet government line on why the Russian Orthodox Church in the United States and the Soviet Union are separated.

"Heretics won't recognize the power of the metropolitan in Moscow because of their own political views and because they are supported by the U.S. government," he said.

This is a society whose Academy of Science and Museum of Religion in Leningrad labels the Roman Catholic Pope as "the banker and capitalist" and terms the Vatican "the great financial center."

★ ★ ★

And I thought: Religion in the Soviet Union can meet these obstacles only with tears such as I saw in this service, and the words: "We pray. We don't criticize."

'Revolution Is Over' —Lebanese Premier

In his first broadcast since becoming premier, Karami called on the nation's 1½ million people to "wash the blood off the face of Lebanon."

★ ★ ★

The former leader of rebels in Tripoli, where the revolution began May 10, appealed to his comrades in arms to "lift your barricades. A new era which will bring you the fruits of revolution has begun."

★ ★ ★

Karami's statement that the rebels would now benefit from their armed attempt to overthrow former President Camille Chamoun was certain to anger supporters of the pro-Western President who retired Tuesday.

58-Acre Site of Police Raid May Be Bought for Around $135,000

APALACHIN, N. Y. (UPI) — A fancy hilltop home that is famous for more than its lavishness or architecture is on the market here. It is the 58-acre estate of Joseph Barbara, and the site of the notorious "gangland convention" last Nov. 14.

★ ★ ★

The large fieldstone house, two tenant houses, stone and glass "banquet hall," stable, corral and carpeted garage is reported to be available for somewhere between $125,000 and $135,000. It is being offered for sale by Russell C. Terry, real estate agent in nearby Vestal, N. Y.

★ ★ ★

The home bounded into the news when state police broke up a convention of about 60 known hoodlums just as they were about to eat steaks fried at the 14-foot stone barbecue outside the summer house. The raid touched off state and federal investigations, caused Barbara to drop his beverage distributing business and resulted in considerable police harassment for most of the delegates.

Director John Huston Also Great Joker

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — John Huston, the director, is said to have a bellyful of courage and a brainful of gall. In Hollywood, where he is seldom seen but often discussed, they call him a "mad genius."

He is known for making great actors of previously uninspired men. He also has made shivering fools of his friends through his hobby of practical joking. He remembers with fiendish affection the time, on a foreign location, when he planted a locked dispatch case in John Garfield's closet and advised the late actor that it contained $200,000 intended for the Israelis, and was being sought by sinister forces.

He has just returned from French Equatorial Africa, where he directed "The Roots of Heaven" in 138-degree heat, and he is asked how he made out.

"Well," says Huston with a wide and innocent smile, "we had pretty close to 100 per cent incidence of casualties, Malaria. Heat. Dysentery. But as long as nobody gets killed, it's okay. I'm pleased to say that I've never lost an actor."

The great director, son of the late Walter Huston, is as charming a man as you'd hope to meet, handsome in his homeliness, rangy enough to make Gregory Peck look plump.

Huston is the man who has succeeded in putting more realistic, unhappy endings on his movies than any other director in Hollywood history. A happy end is the commercial way.

"So they say," he says. "But my particular philosophy is that men never get what they go after. Or when they get it, it's worthless, a hollow husk."

After slightly more than 50 years of tasting life in its sweetest and rawest stages, it is his own personal philosophy that "the reward is in the doing—not in the accomplishment of the goal. I suppose I think, unconsciously, that today is rather more important that tomorrow, and what one does is infinitely more important than what one accumulates."

He explains, "If a person has the 'quality' of the part, it's more important to me than if he can manufacture the illusion. That camera gets very close—it can see through makeup.

★ ★ ★

"So—somebody can be great for a part without ever having been in a movie. And a fine actor doesn't necessarily 'come off' on film."

'Support Little Rock' Movement Continues

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Public schools in 20 north Louisiana parishes (counties) remained closed today to support Little Rock's battle against school integration.

★ ★ ★

Two of the 20 parishes were scheduled to close schools for parish fairs—Jackson and LaSalle. But school officials said they sympathized with the move to "support Little Rock."

Three north Louisiana parishes kept schools open. They were Caddo, where the school closure move began, and Ouachita and Morehouse parishes.

An editorial in the Shreveport Journal Saturday urged that schools close one day to protest integration of the races in Little Rock's Central High School.

And 30 Citizens Councils throughout the state pushed the move in telegrams sent to parish school officials.

Seven church congregations earlier this week called for a one-day statewide school closing as a demonstration of feeling in the racial matter.

Cyprus Commander Escapes Explosion

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Maj. Gen. Douglas Kendrew, British director of operations on Cyprus, narrowly escaped death today in an explosion that authorities attributed to EOKA rebels.

★ ★ ★

An electrically wired mine went off under a bridge near the Government House as the general drove over it in his staff car.

The blast missed the staff car, but blew an escorting military police truck off the road and injured two of its occupants.

Britons and Turkish Cypriots are the chief targets of EOKA, a Greek Cypriot underground organization campaigning for union of this British Mediterranean colony with Greece.

★ ★ ★

The explosion, less than 400 yards from Government House, ripped a yard-wide ditch in the roadway and flung blocks of concrete in all directions. Telephone and power lines were torn down.

Gen. Kendrew, who has been directing anti-EOKA operations here for two years, was not scratched. This was the first attempt on his life by EOKA.

Selective Service to Draft Doctors

LANSING (AP)—The draft of eligible doctors will be resumed in Michigan, State Selective Service headquarters announced today.

★ ★ ★

Local boards have been instructed to resume pre-induction examinations of all doctors eligible for service. They will be subject to draft like all other regular registrants unless they apply for a commission in the armed forces.

★ ★ ★

The induction of doctors had been postponed for more than a year. Col. Arthur A. Holmes, State Selective Servie director, said the restriction was lifted because not enough doctors have been volunteering for active duty to meet service requirements.

New Faces on White House Staff

Further Changes Expected Soon

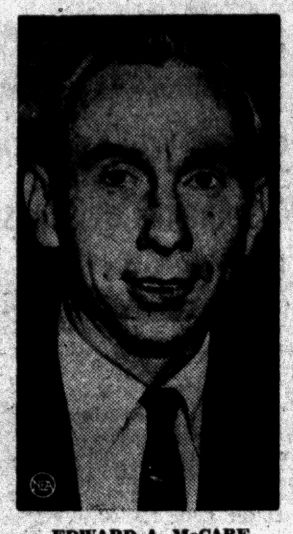

MALCOLM C. MOOS

ROBERT E. MERRIAM

BRYCE N. HARLOW

EDWARD A. McCABE

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Sherman Adams' departure climaxes the greatest upheaval in the White House staffs since President Eisenhower took office nearly six years ago.

Further changes are more than likely.

Within the past few weeks, four key jobs have been in the process of changing hands.

Adams' resignation leaves only three men in the White House who have held so-called policy positions with unbroken records since Mr. Eisenhower took over from his predecessor in January, 1953.

They are Maj. Gen Wilton B. Persons, Deputy Assistant to the President, News Secretary James Hagerty and Gerald D. Morgan, Special Counsel to the President.

The newest member of the President's office family is Malcolm C. Moos, a political science professor from Johns Hopkins University, who is taking the place of the departed Arthur Larson as chief speech writer.

Robert E. Merriam, who came to Washington after an unsuccessful bid to become mayor of Chicago, is taking over as Assistant for Interdepartmental Affairs. He moves up from deputy director of the Bureau of the Budget.

★ ★ ★

Interior Secretary Fred Seaton, who has been mentioned as a possible Adams' replacement, had this interdepartmental affairs post several years ago when he was at the White House. Since he left, several persons filled the role. Now it is being put under Merriam's single direction.

Bryce N. Harlow is being promoted from the rank of administrative assistant to Special Assistant for Legislative Matters.

Edward A. McCabe, who has been serving as an associate special counsel, will work on legislative matters under Harlow.

One key job that remains vacant is that of economic advisor to the President, which Gabriel Hauge left recently for a post in private business.

The 39-year-old Robert Merriam actually began his political career as a Democrat, serving as a Chicago alderman. He switched to the GOP when he began exposing corruption in the Democratic-controlled city government. He is the son of the late Charles Merriam, a noted University of Chicago expert on government who failed twice to win election as mayor.

★ ★ ★

Malcolm "Mac" Moos, 42, has combined a career of teaching with active participation in politics. His work on behalf of Wendell Willkie and Thomas Dewey during their presidential bids led one conservative Republican to label him "no better than a Democrate — and a New Deal Democrat at that." Moos is co-author of a history of the Republican Party.

Lean and energetic, Moos' writing talents were "discovered" by Gabriel Hauge during the first Eisenhower campaign. Sherman Adams called on him to help with writing chores over the years since.

McCabe, who was born in Iceland but came to the U. S. as a child, specializes in labor legislation. He joined the White House staff last January after service with several special congressional labor committees.

Harlow's pre-White House experience also was gained chiefly by working with congressional committees. A native of Oklahoma, he was a member of the Army's legislative liaison staff during his military service.

In seniority at the White House — after the three men with unbroken service — are Thomas Stephens and Lewis L. Strauss. Stephens, the President's Appointments Secretary, was in the original Eisenhower landing party, but was in private business for three years until returning to his present post early this year.

Strauss, the retired head of the Atomic Energy Commission, took on the job of Special Assistant for Atomic Energy Matters three months after Mr. Eisenhower took office. He still holds it.

There are six White House aides in jobs rated below the policy level who claim unbroken service since January, 1953. They are Homer Gruenther, an assistant to Gen. Persons; L. Arthur Minnich Jr., assistant to the White House Staff Secretary; William J. Hopkins, executive clerk of the staff; James M. Lambie, a special assistant; Ann Whitman, Personal Secretary to the President, and Mary Jane McCaffrie, Mrs. Eisenhower's secretary.

★ ★ ★

Three military men assigned to the President at the start of his term also are still with him. They are military aide Col. Robert L. Schulz, Air Force aide Col. William G. Draper, and personal physician Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder.

Football Rally at High School Becomes Riot

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — About 150 students turned a high school football rally into a riotous melee here last night and attacked cars driven by Negroes and whites.

No injuries were reported although one white woman said she was slapped by one of the youths.

The demonstration erupted at Broad and State Line avenues, on the border of Texas and Arkansas. It involved students of Texarkana, Ark., High School and Texarkana, Tex., High.

★ ★ ★

The trouble began on the Arkansas side. Police dispersed the youths. The crowd then retreated across the street to Texas and yelled curses at the Arkansas officers.

The small Texarkana, Tex., police force struggled with the youths for about an hour. Reinforcements arrived and the officers broke up the mob.

A newsman at the scene said the students ripped radio aerials off six or seven autos of Negroes and smashed the car windows.

At least two cars containing white persons also were attacked.

Ask Them to Movies With You

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: If friends should pay us an unexpected visit just as my husband and I are about to go to the movies, could they be offended if I asked them to come back another time, or must we stay home and entertain them?"

Answer: If the movie is one that you especially want to see and it is playing just the one night, you could say, "John and I are just on our way to the Bijou to see . . . Tonight is the last night it is being shown here and we do want very much to see it. Wouldn't you and Henry like to see it, too?" If they say no, it would not be rude to go, and ask them to come another evening.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I live in a small town and belong to the Baptist church. However, the Methodist minister and his wife happen to be close friends of mine, and I would like him to perform the ceremony in the Methodist church even though I do not belong there. I have been told that this would be improper and a slight to the clergyman of the Baptist church. Will you please advise me?"

Answer: I am sorry but it seems to me that to be married by the Methodist minister in his church would be a very definite slight to your own Baptist minister.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married shortly to a man in the service. He is a staff sergeant in the Air Force. I would like to know how his name should correctly appear on the invitations. Should it be Mr. John Jones or Sergeant John Jones?"

Answer: His name should appear as John Jones and directly beneath in smaller type, Sergeant, U.S. Air Force. It would be unusual but not wrong to put Mr. before his name.

Dear Abby....

Is Chivalry Quite Dead?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: There are two young business girls who ride the same bus to work with me in the morning and they are both obviously pregnant. Since the bus is packed by the time I get on, I have no seat to offer them, but it just kills me to see them standing up all the way to work while dozens of healthy young men sit calmly reading their papers and looking the other way.

ABBY

"I can understand why a man would hesitate to give a woman his seat when he knows she is out in the business world competing with men on equal terms, but I think in the case of expectant mothers, a concession should be made. One man on the bus muttered, 'Why should I give up my seat to them? They should be home anyway.' Have your any thoughts on the matter?"

ALFRED G.

DEAR ALFRED: Expectant mothers would RATHER be home so I think it's safe to assume they are working because they have to. Only a boor would remain seated while a pregnant woman stands.

"DEAR ABBY: I want to say to that woman who complained because her husband is getting bald, 'Now, isn't that terrible?' Look yourself over Lady, Is your shape what it used to be 30 years ago? Isn't your own hair a little grey and didn't you have a few wrinkles?

"My husband is bald all right and he wears glasses and has store teeth, but he has a heart of gold and I love him. When he comes over to me in the evening while I'm watching TV and puts his bald head on my shoulder, I am the happiest person in the world. It's not what's ON his head but what's in his heart that counts."

HAPPY WIFE

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: I have been married to a man who loves to slap women around. He gave me three black eyes (not all at once) and I missed my kid sister's wedding because I was so beat up I didn't dare to let my family see me like that. He has lots of good qualities, such as being a very good father to our children. I really love him, but when he gets mad he starts swinging. Do you have any suggestions on how to calm him down a little bit?"

BEAT UP

DEAR BEAT: Don't irritate him—learn to duck, and don't take his abuse so good-naturedly or he might get the idea that you like it. (Do you?)

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: What does man do when he is married to a back-seat driver? My wife scares the life out of me by grabbing for the wheel, or pulling at my arm, or letting out screams when we are in in no danger whatsoever. We can't talk in the car because she is always butting in with, 'Watch that man behind you' or 'Move over to the right!' It's getting so I'd rather take a beating than drive my old lady anywhere. Have you any suggestions?"

DRIVEN NUTS

DEAR DRIVEN: Back-seat drivers belong in the back seat. Tell the little woman if she can't control herself she will have to take the bus or a taxi. Her "helpful" assistance is a real hazard.

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: I am 13 and and my brother is 15. When we do the dishes he sings right in my ear. Also when I am on the phone my brother goes and tells my father that I have been talking for an hour when I have been talking only a few minutes. What can you do with a brother like that? Don't tell me to talk to my parents. He is their favorite."

LITTLE SISTER

DEAR LITTLE: I'd like to see the child who didn't think the "other one" was the favorite. Right now, your brother is a pest, but when you are 16 and he is 18, he'll come in mighty handy. Patience, Honey!

★ ★ ★

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NO ANGEL": Right now, try hard to avoid temptation—in a few years it will start avoiding you.

Barnard Alumnae Meet Dr. Mead

By LYDIA ROTHMAN

Barnard College Club of Detroit had a rare treat Thursday when they entertained an illustrious alumna.

Noted anthropologist and author Dr. Margaret Mead took time out from her busy lecture schedule (she is lecturing at the Birmingham Town Hall) to relax with Barnard College aluminae from this area at a tea held at the Bloomfield Hills home of Mrs. David H. Lynn.

Dr. Mead was graduated from Barnard in 1923 and received her M. A. from Columbia University in 1924 and her Ph. D. from Columbia in 1929. She is now professor of anthropology at Columbia as well as associate curator of ethnology at the American Museum of Natural History in New York City.

The word anthropology used to make the general public shudder. People envisioned small bearded men running around measuring heads and checking on our four footed relatives — the monkeys.

Largely through her work and whiting such books as "Growing Up in New Guinea," "Coming of Age in Samoa," and "Keep Your Powder Dry," Dr. Mead has made the public conscious of the work of the anthropologist. Also, she has contributed tremendously to developing the fields of cultural and social anthropology.

Social anthropology, a relatively new branch of anthropology, deals with the psychological and sociological interpretations of cultures and societies. It is a science becoming more and more useful for dealing with modern cultural and industrial problems.

The tea talk, which began quite casually as alumnae caught up on news of old classmates, developed into a fascinating and stimulating discussion with Dr. Mead.

With her delightful sense of humor and vast knowledge and understanding of world problems, Dr. Mead discussed everything from the situation in Red China to local school problems.

Regarding the Red China situation, she said: "Russia is not a current threat because it has worked too hard to rehabilitate cities and industry to want to lose these things through war. Also, she added, "Russia is underpopulated and can hardly risk losing more people."

"Red China on the other hand, is overpopulated (a recent census disclosed a before unknown hundred million people) and has neither cities nor industry, so it has no fear of a war."

Although she offered no concrete solution to the problems of war and communism, she did stress the absolute necessity of bringing our own educational systems up to date to prepare students — not only in sciences — to be intelligent citizens who will be able to cope with world problems.

Parents' Self-Interest Doesn't Hurt Youth

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Before Jill's date came to take her to the Beach Club, she came downstairs to show herself off to her parents. She was wearing her new red pique off-the-shoulder dance frock, and through the hair piled on top of her head, she's twisted a little wreath of red berries.

Her father gave her a wolf whistle of approval and her mother said, "You look beautiful, dear."

Jill said, "All I need now is your good rhinestone earrings, Mother."

"What you mean is you want to keep them for yourself," Jill said.

After a pause her mother said, "That's just half-true. I don't want to lend my earrings. But I don't want you to go out looking like a Christmas tree either."

This is the kind of thing we're going to have to get used to saying to children.

Today psychology has made us very conscious of the fact that our discipline is not motivated by 22-carat devotion to them.

We know that we overprotect Jimmy after a cold because we don't want him to catch another and give us more trouble. We are aware that we refuse our earrings to Jill because we want to keep them for ourselves. Where our grandparents could claim 22-carat motives for their treatment of youngsters, psychology now denies us their certainty of absolute righteousness.

Modern children know this—and sometimes try to make us ashamed of our 10-carat motives.

We don't have to be. Gold alloyed with baser metals still pans out as gold.

We protect Jimmy after a cold because we are interested in his comfort as well as in our own. Though we wish to keep our earrings to ourselves, we also wish to protect Jill against sensational public appearance.

While admitting the alloy in our love for Jimmy and Jill, we must not forget to credit ourselves with the genuine gold it contains.

Words Show Change in Morals, Thought

By RUTH MILLETT

So many words and phrases I used to hear in my childhood I never hear any more.

For instance, what ever happened to:

"The porte-cochere"? Houses used to have them. Now we call 'em carports.

"The grass widow"? There are more of them around than ever before, but the term is now divorcee, and it doesn't sound nearly as gay or daring.

"Taking sonny to the woodshed" or "giving him a taste of peach tree tea"? Now we reason with him when he does something he has been told over and over not to do.

"Drunkard"? Alcoholic is the term these days — and somehow it sounds more respectable—though the effect on the individual and his family is just the same.

"Fast"—not to describe a motor car, but to describe a girl with a too obvious and too uncontrolled yen for the opposite sex? Today it's hard to tell the good girls from the bad girls — so there's not much need for a substitute for "fast."

"A family man"? With all the emphasis on "togetherness" there is today, with Papa and Mama serving jointly as PTA officers, and so on, every husband and father is a "family man." So no replacement for this particular descriptive term is necessary. Just say he's married — and it will be assumed he's a "family man."

"Comfortable as an old shoe"? We describe that kind of person today as being well-adjusted.

★ ★ ★

"High strung or nervous"? Some women are still high strung and nervous but "neurotic" is how we describe them now.

"Bully"? A mean kid isn't a bully today. He's aggressive and his aggressiveness is supposed to be channeled into the right outlets.

"Granny"? There are lots of grandmothers around. But nowadays very few of them will answer to "Granny."

"Keeping company"? That has turned into "going steady" — only going steady isn't nearly as permanent as keeping company used to be.

Height Is Fine

Lose Weight if You Want to Model

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
(The Friday Question Box)

Q. "I am 16 years old and a sophomore in high school. I weigh 170 pounds. My measurements are bust 36, waist 28, hips 40. I have a fairly large frame. I am proud of my height but I believe I'd better lose some weight. I wonder if I could ever be a model. My friends say that I am just the right height and weight. I am six feet tall."

A. You should lose some weight. Since you have a fairly large frame, perhaps you only need to lose 15 pounds. I imagine the modeling profession would require a greater loss of weight. You are a splendid height for a model but should take hip-slimming exercises for the loss of a couple of inches. I'm so glad to hear a teenager say she is proud of her height. Since you feel this way, you probably have lovely posture.

Q. "Can varicose veins be cured? Can exercise remedy this?"

A. Varicose veins can be successfully treated, sometimes by injections and sometimes they are removed by surgery. The treatment depends upon the individual condition and the physician's evaluation of the situation. Sometimes if they are gotten early enough, they can be controlled by simpler methods, such as the use of an elastic stocking, etc.

Q. "Does coffee cause gray hair?"

A. So far as I know, there is no sound basis for this belief.

Q. "I have a bald spot on my head about the size of a dollar. It is most embarrassing to me. I do not have a disease of the scalp; this was caused by a burn. Is there any way I can make the hair grow out again?"

A. I do not know how to make the hair grow. However, you can buy an artificial hair piece just the right size to cover the bald spot and comb your hair over it. No one will ever know the difference.

Q. "I am slightly confused. Some people tell me I am underweight; others say I am just right. Please set me straight. I am 14 years old, 5 feet 6 inches tall, and weigh 108 pounds. I am of medium bone structure. My measurements are bust 33, waist 23, hips 35."

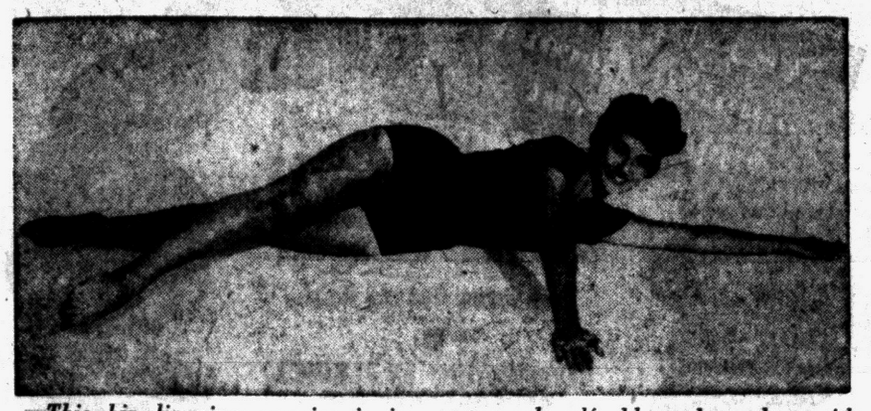

A. Your measurements are fine but you are a lot underweight. You should gain at least 10 pounds.

Q. "Will you tell me where I can buy a chin strap, or something to help a person who has good posture and takes exercises every day. I am in my late thirties and not fat, but I have developed a double chin."

A. Often women who develop a double chin have poor posture or are overweight. However, since neither is one of your problems, you've evidently just gotten a small accumulation of fat under the chin. The following exercise is helpful: Lower your head backward as far as comfortable, hold it in this position while you chew vigorously, opening and closing your mouth in an exaggerated way. Practically all cosmetic houses have chin straps.

Truman Talks in California

Supports Pat Brown, Sharply Attacks GOP Economic Policies

By ALAN CLINE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Former President Harry Truman lambasted Republicans last night at a $100-a-plate fund-raising Democratic party dinner and 500 partisans roared approval.

A voice shouted, "Give 'em hell, Harry," before he started and the 74-year-old ex-President replied: "I'm a good Baptist and I've never given anybody hell. I just tell the truth about Republicans and they think it's hell."

★ ★ ★

He told Atty. Gen. Edmund G. Brown, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate: "Well, Pat, you've done something I've never been able to do. You've got some metropolitan papers for you." Three Hearst papers in Los Angeles and San Francisco endorsed Brown, who is opposed by Sen. William F. Knowland, Republican.

"It's not the working press," Truman said in another aside, "it's the editors and publishers. I give 'em hell every time I can."

★ ★ ★

Republican economic policies came in for sharp attack. He declared some 20 million persons are represented in Washington by lobbyists, "leaving 150 million who need a lobbyist in the White House. I'm sorry to say they have not got one."

Truman never mentioned President Eisenhower, but he demanded election of a Democratic Congress "to warn a weak and vacillating leadership."

He spoke out for measures to make the United States "safe and strong" and contended Republicans will "not do this because they set dollars above defense and the interests of business above the national interest."

NATO Chief Believes Danger of War Less

NEW YORK (AP)—Gen. Lauris Norstad, commander of NATO forces, says the danger of war in Europe has lessened.

But he warns that the threat of a Communist invasion "is only in abeyance" because of the strength of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Norstad, who addressed a dinner of the National Security Industrial Assn. last night, said "it is difficult for me to imagine a military situation along the NATO line from which aggression could possibly expect a clear profit."

★ ★ ★

He said the threat is "in abeyance only because our strength in place, while not complete, is much too formidable to be challenged at a cost acceptable to an aggressor."

The association Norstad addressed is composed of representatives of 500 manufacturers with Defense Department contracts.

Bagwell Asked to Talk by Wayne UAW Local

DETROIT (AP) — Republican gubernatorial candidate Paul D. Bagwell has been invited to address a United Auto Workers Union local here Sunday.

Bagwell received the invitation, which he said was his first to appear before a UAW group, last night at a political forum sponsored by the Detroit Junior Board of Commerce.

He said he accepted the invitation extended by Paul Silver, president of Local 351 of the UAW, and treasurer of the Wayne County Democratic committee.

Lt. Gov. Philip A. Hart, who is seeking to unseat Republican Sen. Charles E. Potter, and John B. Swainson, Democratic candidate for Hart's present job, also spoke at the junior board of commerce meeting.

Hood Slashes Chicago Crime Reporter

CHICAGO (UPI) — A newspaper reporter assigned to investigate Chicago's pornography racket was hospitalized yesterday, his face slashed four times by a hoodlum's straight razor.

The reporter, Miller Davis, 37, of the Chicago Daily News, was lured to a street-corner rendezvous Wednesday night, dragged into a darkened doorway, and slashed by one attacker while another pinned his arms behind him.

★ ★ ★

"Now look in the mirror," the razor-wielder said as he fled.

Miller returned to his office following the attack, but fainted in the Daily News city room. He was to have gone to police headquarters yesterday in an attempt to pick out his attackers from a photographic "rogue's gallery."

ORDERS HOSPITALIZATION

But his doctor ordered him hospitalized for observation instead.

It was the first attack on a Chicago crime reporter since 1930, when Jake Lingle of the Chicago Tribune was shot to death as he walked through a railroad station tunnel.

The attack on Davis appeared to be connected with a tightening police crackdown on the racketeers who peddle obscene photographs, motion pictures, and books throughout the city.

Davis had been assigned to accompany police on raids of bookstores and photographic studios. The raids have uncovered huge stocks of smut and pornography.

Davis was with police Tuesday night when they raided a Southwest Side baby photography studio and found 500 lewd photographs and negatives. They arrested Frank Novak, 38, a 270-pounder who insisted the pictures were his "private collection."

Late yesterday, Davis was in the Daily News city room when he received a telephone call from a man who said he was a member of the Park District Police force.

'ARE YOU DAVIS?'

The caller told Davis another pornography raid was scheduled within a few hours and asked that he join the police squads on a near North Side street corner.

Davis, a slightly built man, was waiting on the corner when a car pulled up and a man asked "Are you Davis?"

Davis said he was. Instantly, a man jumped from the car and jerked the reporter's suit jacket down from behind, pinning his arms to his side.

The other man pulled out a straight razor and flashed it across Davis' face, cursing as he did so.

At Henrotin Hospital, where he received emergency treatment, a nurse said the cuts on Davis' cheeks appeared to be superficial. It appeared later, however, that the reporter might be suffering from shock.

Newspaper Says Greece Will Not Quit NATO

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—The influential Athens newspaper Kathimerini, which usually voices government views, said today Greece has no interest in pulling out of NATO in protest against the Cyprus partnership plan that Britain plans to apply on Oct. 1.

Kathimerini's comment was at variance with that of most Athens newspapers which have warned Greece might withdraw from NATO.

Students will only be allowed to join two organizations this year. Therefore, each student will be able to do a better job in his organization than he would if he belonged to several clubs.

Heil Heads Milford Seniors

Milford High School seniors, going under the assumption that organization is the key to success, have spent the past few weeks building the organizational machinery that will carry the class through their final high school year.

Paul Heil, president, has appointed the following committees: Social, service, finance, trip club and graduation arrangements.

Disc Data and Chatter

Music in the Round

by Dick Saunders

Well, we had to wait until September but we now have this year's most exciting new Dixieland LP by far.

Just released, "Wilbur DeParis Plays Cole Porter" (Atlantic 1288) by the fabulous De Paris Band, is our choice for the top rung in 1958. It's much better than his last LP effort.

This band has great ideas. Their arrangements are superb and most of all the band can swing you right out of your shoes.

For some kicks (if you remember back 20 years) try "K. C. Lo The 30's" (Capitol T-1057) by a gang of artists from that era of rowdy music. Included are Julia Lee, Walt Brown, Pete Johnson, and many others.

Other good buys in the LP department are "Baubles, Bangles, and Beads" (Columbia CL-1211) by the Kirby Stone Four (this outfit swings); and a beautiful set of two 12-inch LPs "Songs Of America" (Columbia C2L-13) by The Norman Luboff Choir.

FIVE ACES: At the top of the heap this week with no questions asked is "It's All In The Game" by Tommy Edwards. "Nel Blu Di Pinto Di Blu" has really taken a dive (right out of the top five).

Second this week is "Rockin' Robin" by Bobby Day. In third spot is "Tears On My Pillow" by the Imperials. Fourth place goes to "Bird Dog" by the Everly Brothers and "You Cheated" by The Shields is fifth.

Since Return to God and Nature

Ex-Executive Making Desolate Area Bright

SPARTA, Wis. (AP)—Because a Chicago business executive wanted to return to nature and to God, strange and wonderful things are happening in this frequently desolate area of central Wisconsin. Jobs coming out of nowhere, for instance. And rabbits coming out of hats in church.

Earlier this year, John Linton resigned his $16,000-a-year job as superintendent of a Chicago machine tool plant and moved his wife and four youngsters from their $40,000 suburban home to a broken down farmhouse in a remote part of Monroe County.

The roof sagged and leaked. There was no electricity, no running water, no inside plumbing.

"In fact," says blonde Mrs. Linton, "there was not even any outside plumbing."

Gradually the house was made livable, the impoverished soil was revived, orchards and gardens planted. The Lintons and children —David, 3; Nanette, 9; Jan, 11, and John, 13—even put in three acres of cucumbers.

The peach, apricot and pear trees in the orchard, whose produce in this area of long, cold winters is seen mostly in magazines, may not work out either, but the Lintons still are hopeful.

Early in this venture, the Lintons began attending the Leon Congregational Church, swelling the total of its 10 regular worshippers. Then the minister resigned and the parent church decided not to send a new minister because of the small membership.

Linton, Canadian - born son of a Baptist evangelist, offered to preach the next Sunday to fill the gap. Seven adults were in his first audience, 10 in his second. Now the pews are filled, and Linton has the pulpit on a regular $10-a-Sunday basis.

★ ★ ★

At the beginning of each service, Linton has an object lesson for the children: A Bible story, illustrated sometimes by magic tricks.

Mrs. Linton and Nanette form the nucleus of a choir. Enrollment in the Sunday school has reached 50.

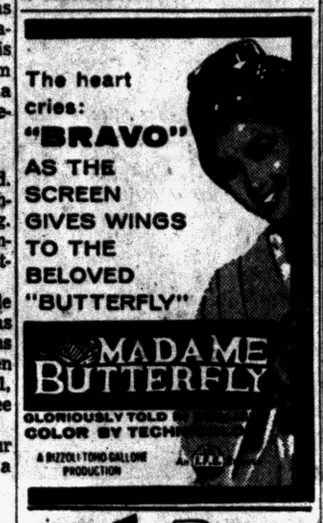

Meanwhile, planting done and cucumbers subdued—if not quite conquered—Linton turned to community affairs.

A small factory in the community was faltering. Linton contacted some of his old business associates, was assured of work and financing for small aircraft and optical components.

Articles of incorporation were filed today. Hiring of the unemployed from among his congregation—and elsewhere in the community—begins shortly. Within six months, Linton hopes to employ 30 persons.

"I'm afraid I will use my heart instead of my head in hiring my help," he said. "I'm sure that I can develop unskilled workers into machinists."

A STRANGER IS IN TOWN

He is representing a company considering your town and several other towns as a place to put a manufacturing plant. But he isn't talking about that. He isn't even calling on the chamber of commerce or the town officials; not today, maybe never. They may never know he was here.

He came just to talk to people along the street and get an impression of the town. It may be a good impression or it may not be. That depends on the people he meets. At least he will know what they think of their town.

He will be influenced perhaps by a merchant, a cab driver, a barber, a service station attendant, a banker — perhaps by you.

Every citizen is a spokesman for his community, a good spokesman or a poor one. Your enthusiasm for your town can attract industry and put money in your pocket. Your lack of enthusiasm will send industry searching elsewhere.

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD — How many of you bright little boys and girls remember Mischa Auer, whose comedy was extremely popular on the screen about twelve or more years ago?

Well, Mischa is back in town after ten years in Europe. He was a luncheon guest of make-up chief Wally Westmore in the Paramount commissary and took time out to say he is a grandfather for the first time. His son, Tony, has just had a baby.

Five of the years Mischa spent in France, where he was active in French motion pictures. When asked why he came back he said he didn't want to forfeit his American citizenship, so now he is going to settle down here. He suddenly finds himself well-known again because of the release of his old movies on TV.

It will be very interesting to see if Fess Parker, who won world-wide fame as Davy Crockett for Walt Disney, will do as well without Walt. Fess has terminated his contract with Disney, who was never one to hold an actor against his will.

On "The Hangman" set at Paramount Fess said he had bought the Harold Shumate story, "The Old Maiden," in which he will be starred in conjunction with Batjac Productions. For the first time he says he will be playing a strictly modern character.

Fess was the idol of every child, but I suppose the coonskin era couldn't go on indefinitely. However, Walt does very well by everyone under contract to him.

The world-wide search to find an actor to replace Gordon Scott in "Tarzan" has Johnny Weissmuller at the mouth. Johnny, Johnny' whose "Tarzan" was so popular it started a riot in Moscow when it was shown not too long ago, has taken off almost fifty pounds.

He is completely off alcohol and he looks great. For eight years he has been seen as "Jungle Jim." He feels since they want his son to play the son of Tarzan, why shouldn't he be all right for Mr. Tarzan?

I don't know what the answer to this is—maybe Sy Weintraub, president of Sol Lesser Productions, who plans to spend $1,500,000 on "Tarzan's World Adventures," might have the answer. Also Paramount who is in on financing.

Approves Overhaul of State Constitution

DETROIT (AP) — Proposed overhauling of Michigan's constitution proved by municipal officials of the state's cities and villages.

A resolution calling for all-out support of revision was unanimously adopted yesterday at the Michigan Municipal League convention.

The endorsement was the first by a non-political group of wide influence. It asked for support of a proposal to call a constitutional convention which will be on the November ballot.

Revision of the constitution, drawn up in 1908, would permit consolidation of independent state agencies, tax policy reforms, lengthening of executive and legislative terms of office, and appointment by the Governor of his State Administrative Board. The board presently is elected.

About two per cent of the total land of the U. S. is used for residences and urban industrial development.

Finish Examination of Accused Driver

Examination of a 31-year-old Pontiac man, charged with leaving the scene of a fatal accident, concluded yesterday before Waterford Township Justice of the Peace Donald E. Adams.

Bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court for arraignment on the charge at 9:30 Oct. 6 is George E. Stansfield, of 22 Augusta Ave. Justice Adams released Stansfield on a $1,000 bond.

Police say Stansfield admitted being the driver of the hit-run car which late Sept. 9, ran down and killed Elmer Robinson, 28, a Arkansas man employed as a cook on a road construction crew. The accident occured on Dixie Highway.

The proved reserves of natural gas in the United States reached a figure of about 211.7 trillion cubic feet which was a peak at that finding.

That's the gist of an ad Debbie Reynolds is running in a Hollywood trade paper for the desert resort hideaway where she and Eddie Fisher and their children spent many holidays.

The couple's three-year marriage collapsed under pressure of reports that the singer was dating Elizabeth Taylor.

Miss Reynolds' attorney said yesterday that the actress will file for divorce after "a number of financial matters are ironed out."

Do Fall Bulb Planting in October

By WAYNE B. SIEFERT
County Horticultural Agent

One consolation to the prospect of frosted garden beds and fallen leaves is the thought of beautiful spring bulbs like tulips and daffodils.

Though the usual planting time is not until October, a little planning often improves results. When planning colors, also plan on the number of bulbs for each location.

One of the rules often followed with tulips is to get mass color effects. This means block planting of a single color rather than a single row. These plants seem most effective when used in sheltered locations near the foundations.

Hyacinths are another attractive spring plant which seems more effective in single color clumps of six or eight. They are often chosen as edgings for sidewalk plantings or paths.

* * *

Daffodils are well adjusted for both solid beds and as a border planting. Often they may be used as single plants in rock gardens or to accentuate walls or single trees or shrubs. These versatile plants prosper for many years in most locations, and unlike tulips or hyacinths, need not be dug for many years.

A common rule of thumb in planting these bulbs might be as follows: spring bulbs should be three times as deep as the height of the bulb. The distance between plants follows the same rule.

WINTER MULCHING

Though many feel it unnecessary, I think there is real value in using some sort of protective material on the soil. As I see it, the primary value is preventing early spring growth when the flower buds may be killed by freezing. A great many materials fit this requirement well. Leaves are commonly used though sawdust, peat, straw and wood shavings are very helpful.

Though it is a temptation to apply this mulch when the soil is unfrozen, we know this proves to be harmful. If one can allow deep freezing first, then apply mulch, it prevents early thawing in the spring. The longer one can prevent thawing, the more certain one can be that frost time will be over when the bulbs begin to grow.

SELECT CHRYSANTHEMUMS

Many of you may be anxiously watching fall chrysanthemums and beginning to wonder if they will finally make it before Christmas. If you have to sweat it out every fall wondering if they will bloom this year, why not put an end to it by putting an end to them?

During the months of September and October, local nurseries are offering many improved varieties of hardy chrysanthemums. The big advantage to buying now is the chance to see them as they naturally bloom.

* * *

If you would like a plant that blooms the first week in October and has red and yellow flowers, go to your favorite nursery during that time and get just what you would like.

These plants are very easily transplanted, and at this season are readily divided into as many as six individual plants. Before dividing and transplanting, the flowers should be cut off to three inch stalks. This will stimulate new shoot and root growth and help winter survival.

CANNAS, DAHLIAS

Are you growing one or both of these colorful blooming plants this year for the first time? Or have you already tried and found the roots spoiled during the winter?

First, let us look at the easy part, the harvesting. Both of these plants will bloom heavily until the first frost, and if protected, will grow actively until mid-October. After they have been killed down by frost, prepare to dig the clumps.

With dahlias, extreme care should be taken to avoid cutting or twisting the bulb-like roots. Once the clones have been lifted, they should be allowed to dry for several hours, until much of the soil is dry enough to crumble off easily.

At this point the tops should be lopped off within four inches of the crown. These undisturbed crowns then need to be stored in a moist place with temperatures between 35 and 50 degrees. Here is where much of the difficulty develops. Where can one find a moist place? One way is to put them in a crate of peat moss, vermiculite or sawdust. If temperature is the problem, then perhaps a neighbor's basement or barn might be a possibility.

SALAD FASHIONS — Keeping in style with the latest fashions are Miss Cornelia Cucumber, (left) and Miss Sarabella Spud. They are in Charlottesville, Va., ready for a garden party. The cucumber is 16 inches tall and weighs three pounds while the potato is 13½ inches around the middle and weighs two pounds, five ounces.

Last Garden Page

Today's garden page of the Pontiac Press will be the final one of the 1958 season. It will return again in March with tips and hits for your spring gardening.

5 Civilians Killed in Raid

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Five civilians were killed and four seriously injured by an armed Darul Islam band of 350 men which invaded the village of Taragong near Bandung last night. The raiding party burned 24 houses and looted 16. Darul Islam seeks to make Indonesia a Moslem religious state.

Cheryl to Remain in Custody of Grandmother

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Cheryl Crane will remain in the custody of her maternal grandmother Mrs. Mildred Turner, a Juvenile Court has ruled.

The 14-year-old daughter of actress Lana Turner has been in her grandmother's custody since last April, when she killed her mother's lover Johnny Stompanato.

The girl's probation officer told the court yesterday that Cheryl is making a satisfactory adjustment to her probation program.

The court continued further action until Dec. 11, pending a decision on an appeal by Cheryl's father, restaurateur Stephen Crane. He asked that the custody order be set aside.

Ike Airs Views on School Issue

Deplores Move to Block Basic Human Right to Public Education

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower says the closing of some schools to avoid integration has dealt a material setback to "a fundamental human right—the right to a public education."

Eisenhower also said yesterday such school closings in Virginia and Arkansas have set back progress toward achieving the "ideal of the equality of man."

★ ★ ★

"I fervently hope that soon the schools will reopen and that progress toward our goal will resume," the President added in a letter to J. Albert Rolston, head of a group working to reopen schools in Charlottesville, Va.

Virginia's Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. commented that he wished Eisenhower had "considered the disastrous consequences of the tragic situation" before the Supreme Court ruled. The federal government supported arguments for integration before the court.

Eisenhower's letter was in reply to a telegram sent by Rolston seeking an expression from Eisenhower.

Schools in Charlottesville and Front Royal, Va., and Little Rock, Ark., have been shut down in conformity with Virginia and Arkansas state laws requiring such closings to avoid integration under federal court order.

Eisenhower told Rolston, chairman of the Charlottesville Committee for Public Education, he deeply regrets these school closings.

Lynn Bari Loses Custody of Son to Ex-Husband

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Custody of their 10-year-old son John has been taken from actress Lynn Bari and given to her former husband, movie producer Sid Luft.

★ ★ ★

"I am convinced that this mother would prefer to be relieved of the care and responsibility of this child," Superior Judge Wallace L. Ware said in making the order yesterday.

"How could he say that? I've just lived for John!" the actress sobbed, throwing herself into the arms of her present husband, Dr. Nathan H. Rickles, as the judge left the courtroom.

Luft testified he and his present wife, singer Judy Garland, feel the boy should be in a public school and their home. Miss Bari said the boy is in a boarding school because he was failing in public school.

Historic Town Welcomes Ike

LIGONIER, Pa. (AP) — This picturesque mountain community, site of a fort that played an important role in the French and Indian War, tingled with excitement today. The town's 3,500 citizens are playing host to President Eisenhower.

Top item on the agenda was a speech by the President, climaxing a bicentennial celebration that began last week and ends tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

The site of the presidential speech was partially restored Ft. Ligonier along Loyalhanna Creek in this forest-covered valley about 50 miles east of Pittsburgh.

Ft. Ligonier was built 200 years ago on orders of British Gen. John Forbes during the struggle between French and English forces for control of unsettled land west of the Alleghenies.

Forbes' primary objective was Ft. Duquesne, a French outpost located at what now is Pittsburgh. To maintain a line of supplies, he built Forbes Road across the Alleghenies. Ft. Ligonier, named for Sir John Ligonier, commander in chief of the British army, was designed as a place for troops to rest and replenish their supplies.

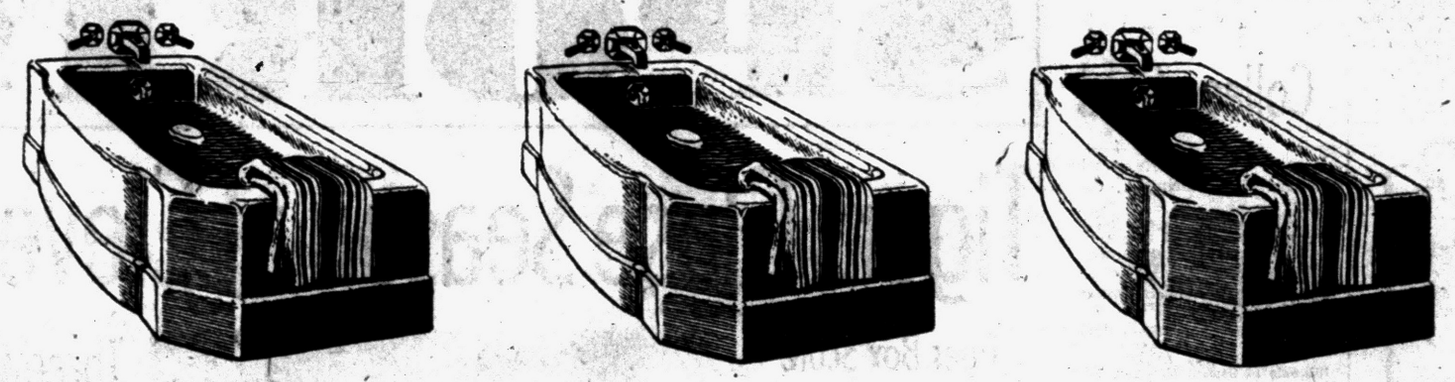

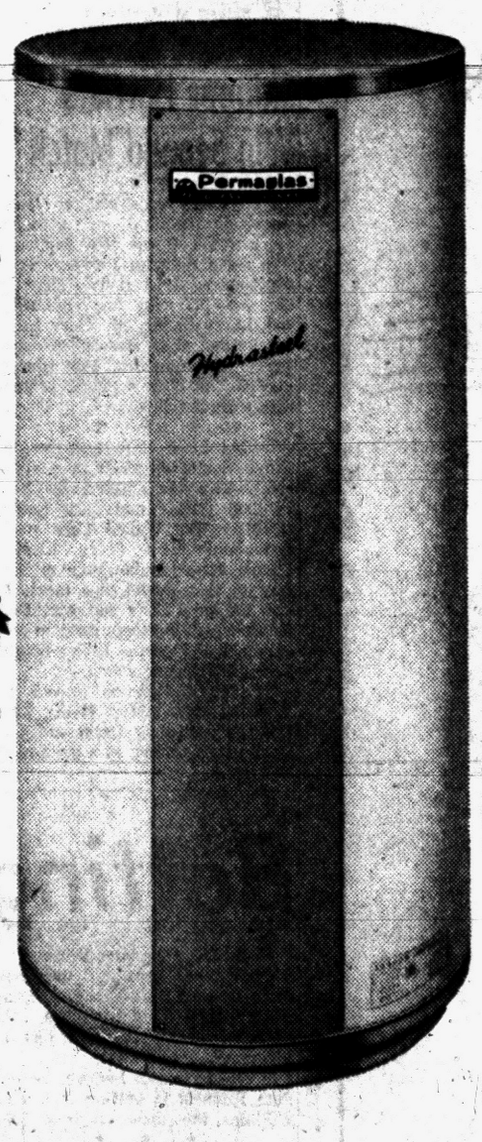

★ ★ ★

The garrison withstood several severe attacks by the French and Indians. Later, after the British drove the French from Ft. Duquesne, Ft. Ligonier served as a refuge for settlers during the Indian war.

Michigan State Meets California; Wolverines Host Southern Cal

College Grid Card Moves Into Gear

Spartans Hold Panitch as Key to '58 Success

MSU Will Have Edge in Manpower Against California Saturday

EAST LANSING (AP)—Five inches can spell victory or defeat when a team is trying to sneak across a touchdown in football.

And five inches can mean a lot when it figures in the measurement of the height of a quarterback.

Mike Panitch, a stubby 5-7, will quarterback the Michigan State team in its 1958 football debut Saturday. Directing California will be quarterback Joe Kapp, who stretches to a lean 6-2.

Panitch has had plenty of seasoning as an apprentice signal-caller. Last year, as relief man for Jim Ninowski, he completed 19 of 33 passes for 267 yards and two touchdowns. He also runs well on the option and gained 183 yards in 41 carries.

"Panitch always moved the team when he got in," coach Duffy Daugherty praised. "We have every confidence in him."

His height is a handicap, however. Coaches plan to substitute Jim Wulff on defense. And Panitch has to stretch up to see over his line when passing.

He jumped into a lead in total offense for the Pacific Coast conference with his 216 yards. Kapp completed nine of 13 pass tries and personally made two touchdowns.

Last season, Kapp collected 197 yards rushing and completed 38 of 77 pass tries for 580 yards.

California, like Michigan State, will substitute entire elevens. Michigan State will have the manpower edge, however.

The Spartans, playing on home grounds, will suit more than 60 players. California will be limited to its 37-man traveling squad.

Good weather is promised for the 1:30 p.m. kickoff. Advance ticket sales indicate an attendance of 55,000 but the prospects of a good day may up the turnout to near 60,000.

BRITON—Co-captain of the Albion College football team which plays Kalamazoo Saturday afternoon is senior Lanny Leak of Clarkston who was All-MIAA guard last season.

Michigan Rated One Touchdown Pick Saturday

Expect Game to Draw 72,000 in '58 Opener With Southern Cal

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Southern California and Michigan, two former gridiron powerhouses in the process of rebuilding, collide tomorrow.

The Wolverines rate about a one touchdown favorite for a clash that's expected to draw 72,000 fans to Michigan Stadium.

Coach Don Clark's Trojans already have taken a giant step toward a comeback from the worst season in USC history. They upset Oregon State 21-0 last weekend.

Michigan, which finished in the Big Ten's second division for the first time in 21 years last season, will be starting its campaign.

Both clubs are close to full physical strength. Sophomore-strong Southern California incurred only minor injuries in its victory over Oregon State. The Trojans will be able to unveil speedy halfback Angelo Coia.

A knee injury prevented Coia, who has raced 100 yards in 9.5 seconds, from making his debut last week. The USC line, spearheaded by tackle Dan Ficca and Monte Clark, averages 211 pounds, three pounds less per man than Michigan's.

Ony sophomore center Dick Syring will be out of Michigan's lineup. He has a hip injury, but may be able to play part of the game tomorrow. Senior Jim Dickey will start in his place.

The Trojans are seeking their first victory over Michigan in three starts. They were trounced by the Wolverines 49-0 in the 1948 Rose Bowl and lost 16-6 last year.

"They're very dangerous — we'll have to really be ready, if we're going to beat them," Michigan scouts warned the squad.

Saturday also will be high school band day with 12,500 youngsters from all parts of Michigan on hand representing 190 schools and communities.

★ ★ ★

Skipper Harriers Win Second Match

Waterford's cross-country team yesterday squared its season's mark at 2-2 with a 24-37 win over Van Dyke High, at Berkley. Skipper runners finished with eight of the top 10, with Ray Robinson 2nd, Larry Harms 4th, Gary Eichbrecht 5th, Chet Hensley 6th and Larry Chapman 7th. Fist runner in was Van Dyke's Chuck Teaney with a 10:26 time.

★ ★ ★

Walled Lake High harriers defeated Southfield 20-39 in a night meet, Thursday, paced by Ray Taulbee (11:01) and Jack Hobbs (11:03). The Walled Lake pair, and Southfield's Jerry Liedler (11:08) staged a hot race all the way in this Inter-Lakes meet. It was Walled Lake's 2nd win. Don Smith's club finished sixth in the top 10, had 13 home before Southfield's 5th runner got in.

Oak Park harriers bowed to Thurston yesterday, 15-49, with Dick Jaros, Larry Orrin and Eddie Dudek finishing in a dead heat at 11:38.6.

ON SAME TEAM—A pair of outstanding Oakland County grid products will see action tomorrow afternoon when the University of Michigan meets Southern Cal at Ann Arbor. Johnny Walker (above) of Walled Lake, is a secind string fullback, while Darrell Harper of Royal Oak is slated to start at tailback. Both were members of The Press All-County teams.

Future Series With Air Force Aim of Titans

U. of D. Slight Favorite Tonight to Win Second Game of Season

DETROIT (UPI) — With a future spot on the Air Force Academy schedule in the balance, the University of Detroit has to look good tonight against the Falcons at 8:15 p.m.

Admittedly shooting for a major college schedule to rank with Army and Navy, the Air Force Academy is going into its fourth year of operation and soon will begin adding the top college teams to its schedule.

Coach Wally Fromhart, apparently mindful of the Academy's intentions plus the fact that a capacity growd of 22,000 is expected, went through a series of personnel shuffles this week in the wake of the Titans' victory over George Washington last week.

Detroit is favored but the Titans also were favored last season and then were upset, 19-12, by the Falcons.

Heading the Falcons into Titan Stadium is Brock Strom and Tom Joswiak who starred for Detroit Catholic Central. The 6-foot, 3-inch 204-pound Detroiter has been the Cadets' leading pass receiver for the two years the Academy as been playing varsity ball.

Strom, also a senior and captain of the Falcons, is from Ironwood giving Michigan two of the key players on the Academy team.

Strom, one of the few at the Academy working toward a degree in missile techonology, excels both on the field and in class. He was voted the falcons' outstanding lineman last year by his teammates and also was on the superintendent's merit list.

Hillsdale-Chips Clash in Small College Feature

Both Elevens Loaded With Gridders From Pontiac Area

By The Associated Press

Saginaw's annual Red Feather football game Saturday night may have a bearing not only on Michigan's mythical small college championship but small college football rules in general.

The contest, featuring Hillsdale and Central Michigan, will be played for the most part under professional football's rules.

The goal posts at Saginaw Arthur Hill Stadium are being moved up to the goal line — usually they are 10 yards behind the goal in college games. Unlimited substitution will be allowed—and extra points will be from the two-yard line and a conversion, whether kicked, run or passed, will be worth only one point.

The business of moving the goal posts to the goal line is an experiment, of course, there is a good chance the NAIA may ask its small college members if they would like to try it on a national basis next season.

The game will have quite a Pontiac area flavor to it as both teams are stocked with Oakland County players.

Hillsdale, the slight favorite, has captain Walt Poe of Pontiac and Earl O'Shaughnessy of West Bloomfield in the starting backfield along with Jerry Schaffer, second string quarterback from Troy.

Three Games May Determine AL 3rd Place

Kaline Sidelined After Beaning by Shaw; Bill Hoeft Hurls Tonight

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Detroit Tigers, minus slugger Al Kaline, open their final series of the 1958 season tonight against the Cleveland Indians. The series could decide third place.

Detroit belted the Chicago White Sox 7-1 yesterday to take a half-game lead over the Indians and the Boston Red Sox in the battle for third place and its subsequent share of World Series money. The Tigers are 76-75 for the season. Boston and Cleveland are 75-75.

Kaline was hit on the back of the head by a pitched ball by Bob Shaw in the sixth inning of yesterday's game but was saved from possible serious injury by his protective helmet. He was taken to a hospital for X-rays.

After an examination of the Tiger batting star, Dr. Joseph Cole, White Sox physician, said Kaline may be able to play before the three-game series with the Tribe ends Sunday.

Shaw was the third of four White Sox hurlers. He succeeded Dick Donovan and Hal Trosky Jr., the latter making his Major League debut. Donovan was the loser.

Detroit scored three times in the third inning, picked up two more tallies in the fifth, one in the sixth and one in the ninth on Gail Harris' 20th homer of the season off Tom Qualters, the last of the White Sox pitching quartet.

Batting Races Near End

By The Associated Press

Those aren't typographical errors. That's the way the fighting four have hit thus far against the clubs they'll be facing when the season closes this weekend, and in the parks where they'll be swinging.

For the record, Mays leads the NL race with a .3458 average as his Giants play the St. Louis Cardinals in three at San Francisco. Ashburn is second at .3439 as he and the Phillies open a three-game finale at Pittsburgh.

Mays, 27, has hit Cardinal pitching at a .359 clip for the season with 28 hits in 78 at bats. But while he batted .422 in the 11-game series at St. Louis, he's had only a .273 average against the Cards in eight games at San Francisco.

Ashburn, 31, is batting .514 against the Pirates for the season, with 22 hits in 71 at bats. He hit .386 against the Bucs in their 11 games at Philadelphia, but he's hit only .185—five hits in 27 at bats—at Pittsburgh.

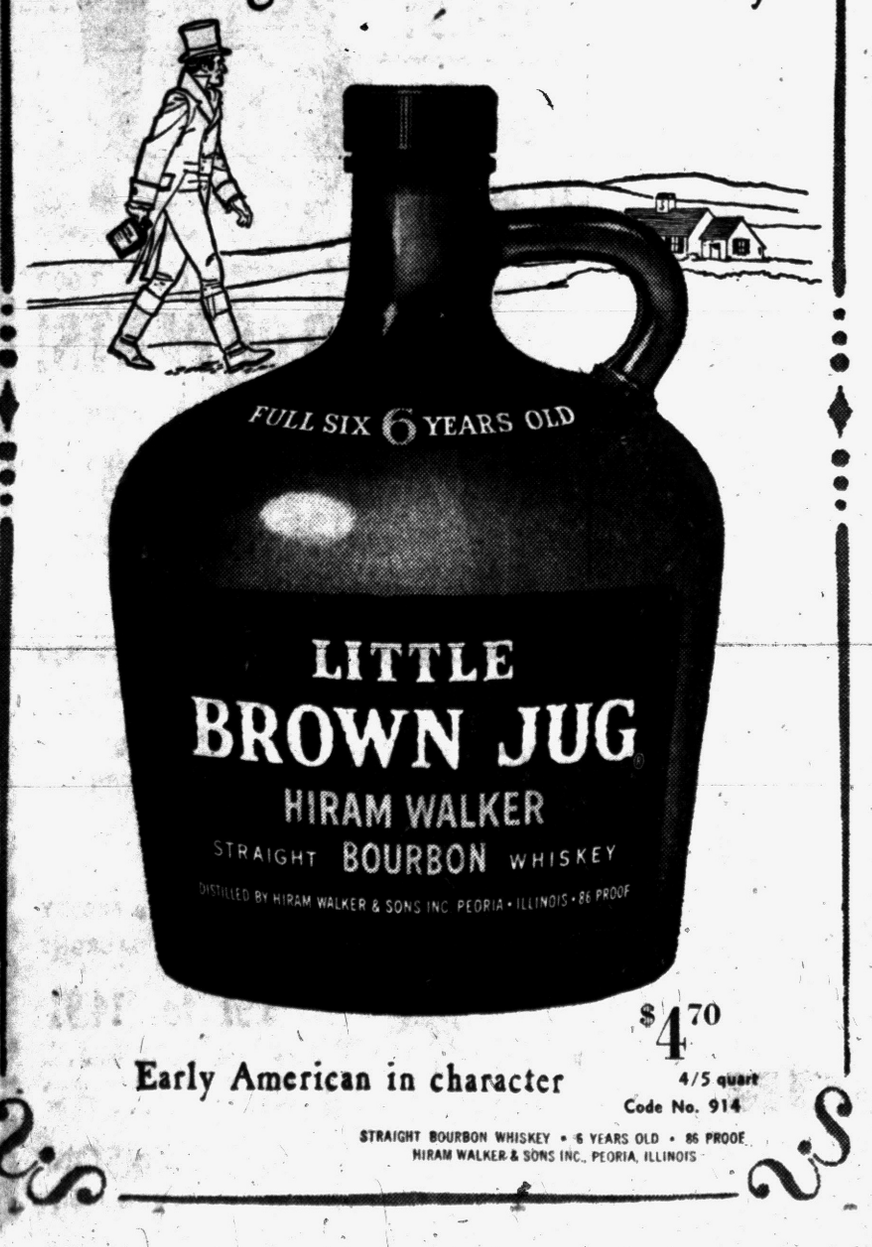

Runnels, 30, picked up from Washington last January for Norm Zauchin and Albie Pearson, has batted .373 against his old mates for the season-swinging for a dandy .475 mark in 11 games at Boston, but managing only a .222 average at Washington.

Williams, 40, the defending champ shooting for his sixth title, is batting .327 against Washington for the season. He was .375 against the Senators at Boston, but is hitting only .235 at Washington with four hits in 17 at bats.

Both Mays and Ashburn have won the title once. Mays, currently on a .528 streak over the last 11 games, took the 1954 championship with a .345 average. He came from third with three hits on the final day to beat teammate Don Mueller .342 and Duke Snider of the then Brooklyn Dodgers .341.

OSU-SMU Feature Game

Big Grid 11's to Start

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There are some untested reputations at stake this weekend with the big boys stepping into the spotlight as the college football season has its first full schedule.

This is the case tonight in Miami's Orange Bowl where Big Ten darkhorse Wisconsin meets the Miami Hurricanes. The Badgers, in their first trip South, are rated No. 14 in this week's Associated Press poll of writers and broadcasters, while the Hurricanes are a step below at No. 15.

Tonight's other top action finds Georgia Tech, a 13-0 upset victim of Kentucky last week, meeting Florida State (2-0), while Detroit (1-0) meets the Air Force Academy. Denver (0-1) is at Utah State (0-1) in the other top game.

Tomorrow everyone gets going with the Big Ten and the Ivy League opening their campaigns with only one league game between them while independents Oklahoma, Notre Dame, Army and Navy begin the season.

One of the big attractions pits No. 1 ranked Ohio State, the 1957 Big Ten champ, and defending Rose Bowl king, against Southern Methodist on the Buckeyes' campus. The Bucks were the experts choice to be national champ this year, while SMU is 20th in the ratings. Don Meredith's passing poses a challenge for the running of Bob White and Don Clark for the Ohioans.

The East has two top affairs with Pitt (No. 7) playing Holy Cross, while Army (No. 8) meets the Atlantic Coast conference's South Carolina, 8-0 upset conquerer of Duke last week.

Elsewhere in the East, Boston College (1-0) is at Syracuse, while Princeton and Rutgers continue a rivalry that began in 1869, the oldest in the country. Brown at Columbia is the only Ivy League tilt, with Yale playing Connecticut and Penn hosting Penn State in some out-of-league games.

The South has a few rumbles going on, biggest of which will be Mississippi-Kentucky at Memphis, after banging a three-iron to the Tenn. Ole Miss (No. 9) with a 1-0 record, takes on the Wildcats, 2-0 and unscored upon. Navy begins its season against William & Mary, while 11th ranked Mississippi State plays 18th ranked Florida (1-0). Bear Bryant has his first game at Alabama with 16th ranked Louisiana State.

Court Action Promised

'M'-MSU TV Hits Block

DETROIT (AP) — Court action to block closed-circuit telecasting of the Michigan-Michigan State football game Oct. 4 was promised today by state rep. John J. Fitzpatrick (D-Detroit).

Fitzpatrick said he had instructed attorney Jerome P. Cavanagh to file suit today in Wayne County circuit. He said his aim was to get the game televised on an open circuit so that anyone might see it at home.

But at East Lansing, where the sell-out game will be played, MSU athletic director Clarence (Biggie) Munn said national Collegiate Athletic Assn. (NCAA) regulations prevented Fitzpatrick hitting his target.

Fitzpatrick said his suit would be filed under a 1951 law barring: state institutions from televising any event to be used as entertainment for which a fee is charged unless provision is also made for the transmission at the same time to television owners generally in the state.

Michigan State's 76,000-seat spartan Stadium has been sold out for weeks for the Michigan-Michigan State game. Munn tried and failed perviously to get NCAA approval for open telecasting, but he did get NCAA aproval for closed-circuit showing.

C. W. (Larry) Smith enterprises of Detroit contracted to televise the game over closed circuits to theaters with 43,000 seats in Michigan and Ohio. "We went into this with the idea of giving more people a chance to see the game," Munn said at East Lansing. "I gues only 76,000 will see it if that's the law. A lot of fans will be disappointed."

Wyandotte Has 1-0 Record to Show Thus Far

By BILL CORNWELL

Winning streaks have been mighty rare things for Pontiac Central football teams in recent years, but there's no time like the present to start building for one.

The Chiefs will try to run their current victory string to two straight tonight when they collide with Wyandotte High School at Wisner Stadium.

It is the first home game of the season for PCH and kickoff time is 8 p.m.

Pontiac's 1958 campaign got off to a roaring start last week at Waterford when the Chiefs ran wild in the 2nd half for a 26-0 conquest of the Skippers.

★ ★ ★

A member of the Border Cities Conference, the pesky Dottes had a 3-2 league record last year for a 3rd place finish and they won seven out of nine games altogether.

They were impressive in last Friday's season opener at home with a 33-6 rout of Trenton as they rushed for better than 300 yards.

The Chiefs have nothing but bitter memories of their previous meeting with the Dottes. Wyandotte was the 1957 opener and PCH took a sound 32-7 licking.

In their attempt to avenge that loss, the Chiefs hope their offense and defense are somewhere near equal to a week ago when they gained 371 yards on the ground while limiting Waterford to 91.

Senior halfback Jimmy Gardner, a newcomer to PCH grid ranks, may see action against the Dottes. Gardner never came out for football until this fall, but he has been an impressive two-way performer in squad drills.

Quarterbacking the Wyandotte team will be Dan Nagy, a clever faker and ball handler. Halfback Tom Gulyas is the Dottes' No. 1 running threat.

Steffey and Skaggs Take 'Shoe' Honors

Herb Steffey won the singles title and then teamed with Leonard Skaggs to win the doubles crown in the city horseshoe inter-league tournament at Oakland Park. It was the last "shoe" activity of the season.

Steffey breezed past four foes to take the singles championship, defeating Floyd Bartley in the best-of-five finals, 25-16, 19-25, 25-22, 25-20.

Skaggs and Steffey conquered three teams on their way to the doubles title. They took three straight from the team of James Clarkson and Milt Swigert in the best-of-five finals, 25-12, 25-5, 25-1.

Harness Driver After 100 Wins on Raceway

DETROIT (UPI)—George Sholty, 25-year-old Logansport, Ind., driver-trainer, needs but four victories in the final two nights of racing at Wolverine Harness raceway to become the first driver to win 100 in 1958 on Michigan tracks.

The diminutive driver chalked up his 96th and 97th first place entries last night as 4,189 fans watched him guide Justa Scott and Dr. Ward past the finish marker.

Reds Drop Undesirables

MOSCOW (AP)— The newspaper Soviet Sport Thursday disclosed that in the past three months some 30 players have been ousted from Soviet soccer teams and 100 other athletes have received warnings for assorted types of misbehavior.

The paper made the disclosure as it raised a cry to kick out drunkards, hooligans and incorrigibles from the ranks of Soviet athletes.

At the same time Soviet Sport called for strict application of the sports committee's June decision to launch "ideological educational work" among teams.

"If ideological education work is not brought to the masses of athletes, the strongest words will remain only words," Soviet Sport said.

Waterford Hosts Lapeer Tonight

Waterford takes to the friendly confines of its own gridiron for the 2nd time in as many Fridays tonight at 8 needing an all-out impressive performance to avoid entering the loss column again.

A fast Lapeer eleven is certain to provide another big test for the charges of Dave Freeman. The Panthers walloped Caro 27-6 while Waterford was dropping a 26-0 verdict to Pontiac a week ago.

More of the same drive which enabled the Skippers to hold PCH scoreless in the 1st half could give the locals the edge in the game otherwise rated a tossup. Both schools are anxious to settle a 6-6 deadlock of last fall.

Freeman has made three line changes inserting big Barry Campbell, Duane Hooper and John Pilkenton into the starting forward wall in hopes of providing more running room for backs Mike Ewer Jim Hoke, Wendy Meyer and Bill Bryce. Hard-running Dick Finkbeiner has been recovering from a leg injury and may also see considerable service.

★ ★ ★

With the exception of halfback Rich Kolloff, Lapeer will be in top shape. Kolloff has been sidelined since Saturday when he had a tooth pulled.

That tussle will be only one of several big area battles on tap today and tomorrow.

Birmingham will host Royal Oak Dondero and Romeo will be at Avondale in outstanding non-league night contests while top afternoon attractions today matched Ferndale and Southfield and Rochester and Farmington.

Walled Lake and Cranbrook are other local teams in tuneups. The Lakers are at Howell tonight and the Cranes visit Lake Forest, Ill., tomorrow afternoon.

On the league front tonight, Holly finds out if it has the stuff that makes a champion at Northville. The Mustangs have dominated play in the Wayne-Oakland League in recent years and are strong once more.

West Bloomfield and John Lucadam should make it 2-0 at Clarenceville but Clarkston's injury-riddled Wolves will have trouble doing the same at Milford although the Redskins are "down" after bowing at Avondale. Bloomfield Hills debuts against a much bigger Brighton eleven.

Oxford and North Branch meet in the lone South Central tilt while Millington and Ortonville play outside foes and Imlay City is idle.

Parochials Open Title Race Sunday

By H. GUY MOATS

Suburban Catholic League's grid forces were being aligned today for the first full-scale engagement of the season. Every loop club will be in action during the weekend, but with only one Pontiac eleven showing before the home folks.

St. Frederick (0-1) is host, Sunday afternoon, at Wisner Field to a scrappy St. Clement squad that dropped its non-league opener a week ago to Warren High. Rams also were on the short end of their opener at Wyandotte St. Patrick, but today were rated an edge over the Center Line club in Sunday's encounter.

Shamrocks, with a number of changes in lineup, that followed St. Michael's dismal showing against West Bloomfield, last Friday, face another tough foe at Ferndale, Sunday afternoon. Their foes are members of the St. James crew, which won its opener over Nativity by a single point, 7-6. Game will mark coach Jim Niebauer's baptism in SCL play.

Pontiac area's 3rd Catholic club sees action in its season's, and league, opener at Royal Oak St. Mary, Sunday afternoon. While Rev. John Rakoczy, St. Mary (Orchard Lake) coach, has not seen the Royal Oak crew in action, Rev. John Gabalski, former Eaglet star himself, witnessed the Irish' first game. He doesn't think the Eaglets will have too much trouble.

In the other SCL encounter, Sunday, last year's champion Detroit's St. Rita tangles with runnerup St. Benedict and the fur is likely to fly, at the Ben's home field.

Shrine, playing in the Detroit Catholic league, west side, opens its season Sunday at Lakeshore. Ron Horvath's club is rated an edge. He has lettermen at all positions.

Rams' mentor, Gene Wright has in mind several shifts among his probable starters against St. Clement. They include Steve Pocs at end in place of Stan Poniatowski whose performance last week, didn't measure up to expectations. Jerry Dirker will go at right guard, replacing Frank Palopoli who has developed a back ailment.

Rest of the Ram starters will probably be about the same as in the opener, including the veteran backs, Jack Lyon, Tom Derocher, Jim Kennedy and Tom Nisbett.

Clement's coach, Al Baumgart said he wasn't certain of his starters, and would not commit himself until after this afternoon's workout. Rams' coach says Center Line is "A scrappy, hard-working club that looked pretty good against Warren. Could be dangerous."

Niebauer has seen the St. James eleven in action, says the Dales have a very fast man in their right halfback, and a good, big line. Dales used all-SCL end last year, Larry Yezak, at fullback in the opener, and he may go at that spot Sunday. Jim has shifted Tom Dabbs to quarterback to replace Mike Flynn who goes to left-halfback. Bill Flanigan again is at fullback, with Chuck Steinhelper at right half. Chuck played an outstanding game for Shamrocks in last week's Keego game. Other changes in Shamrock starters may include George Drake at end in place of Paul Pruente who is ill; Ron Call at the other flank; Dick Williams at center.

St. Mary's starters may include Bill Votruba and Mike Witkor at ends; Joe Bator and Bob Argazinski, tackles; Bob Dobski and either Joe Wasik or Bob Kula, guards; Dick Zolinski, center, and backs, Tony Kostecki, Frank Prelewicz, Frank Bartos and William Krul.

Want 'M'-MSU Ducat?

Are you among the many football fans still looking for a ticket to the University of Michigan-Michigan State University game Oct. 4 at East Lansing?

The U. of M. Club of Detroit, which has been sponsoring railroad gridiron excursions to Michigan's road games since 1920, is sending three special trains to next week's 'M'-MSU classic.

Each train departs from Detroit. Two run on the Cheasepeake & Ohio with a stop at Plymouth along the way. For the benefit of Oakland County residents, the 3rd runs on the Grand Trunk with stops at Royal Oak, Birmingham and Pontiac.

It's strictly a package deal. For the price of $12.50, you can buy a reserved seat in Spartan Stadium, a ride to the stadium door and a return trip home.

Hugh Rader Jr., a 1938 U. of M. graduate and chairman of the transportation committee which operates these excursions, announces that nearly 1,000 tickets are still available for the big game.

★ ★ ★

Ducats are being sold on a first come-first served basis, said Rader, and all necessary arrangements can be made by stopping at Lippman's sporting goods store opposite the Sheraton-Cadillac hotel in downtown Detroit or by calling WO-2-7000 or TO 8-7900.

No ticket applications will be accepted after Sept. 30.

The Grand Trunk train leaves Detroit at 9:30 a. m., arrives in Royal Oak at 9:55, Birmingham at 10:02 and Pontiac at 10:20. It is due to reach Spartan Stadium at 12:30 p. m., an hour in advance of the kickoff, and heads for home 30 minutes after the game.

NFL Kicks Off 39th Campaign

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

For six straight years attendance records of professional football crowds have shot upward and as the NFL opens its 39th season Sunday, commissioner Bert Bell predicts another jump in attendance for the 72 forthcoming contests.

★ ★ ★

Three new coaches plus one returnee to the coaching ranks will be on the sidelines for Sunday's activities.

Buck Shaw has taken over the Philadelphia Eagles, Ray McLean is at Green Bay, Frank Ivy is the Cardinals' head boss and George Halas returns to the Bears after a two year absence.

A total of 2,836,318 spectators attended the 72 regular season games and this year the NFL is looking to the three million mark.

★ ★ ★

The two big games Sunday is Detroit's invasion of Baltimore and the 79th meeting between the Chicago Bears and the Green Bay Packers.

Off to a slow start in pre-season activity, the Colts picked up momentum in their final two encounters against the New York Giants to win twice 28-21 and 42-21. They will be 7-point favorites against the Lions.

Tobin Rote, who had somewhat of a slump in pre-season games, may have come out of it. He completed 14 of 22 passes for 176 yards against Cleveland last Saturday.

The game will be telecast back into Michigan over channel-2 at 1:00 p.m.

★ ★ ★

Other games on the National Football League docket has the Cardinals and the Giants opposing each other for the 33rd time. The game will be played in Buffalo.

★ ★ ★

Pittsburgh plays its opener at San Francisco and Washington and Philadelphia square off in the Eagles' new home site at Franklin Field the home of Penn University.

Columbia May Win Cup Today

American Yacht Holds 3-0 Edge in Series Now

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP) — Unless Columbia is swallowed by a whale almost everyone along the America's Cup waterfront expects her to win the 107-year-old trophy today with the greatest of ease.

The American defender has shown such superiority over Sceptre, the British challenger, that few doubt but that she'll win whether it blows hard or soft.

She's piled up her 3-0 margin in the best-of-seven series with victories in light, moderate and heavy air. Even when a fourth race was called because the yachts couldn't finish within the time limit, Columbia was a mile ahead.

In fact, with one exception the only time the yachts have been together has been at the starting line. In one race Sceptre caught a light puff when the 70-foot American sloop was becalmed and edged ahead briefly.

Braves' Fan Wants Ailing Frick's Ticket

With the World Series sold out, an unsuccessful applicant thought he saw another chance. He wrote ticket director Bill Eberly that he had noted baseball commissioner Ford Frick was hospitalized after an appendectomy.

Laker Harriers Lose

Despite a first place finish by Steve Rogers, the West Bloomfield cross country team dropped a 26 to 30 decision to Melvindale yesterday. The Lakers are now 1-1 and meet Waterford Tuesday.

Strikes and Spares

By Joe Wilman

Timing, the third bowling fundamental, is impossible to achieve unless you've mastered the first two — footwork and armswing. Timing is the result of coordinating good footwork and good armswing into one smooth movement. When you have good timinng, you have blended together the movements of your arms, shoulders and hands with movements of your hips, legs and feet to produce a rhythmic motion.

We show perfect timing today. The bowler has released the ball just as his left foot slides toward the foul line. If the right arm and the left leg seem to be moving in unison at this point, a bowler can be sure he has good timing.

A mistake in either footwork or armswing anywhere along the line can destroy your timing. Taking too long or too short a step, using too long or too short a push-away motion, bringing the ball back too far or not far enough in the backswing — these are all errors that can ruin your timing.

For proper timing, be sure you have correct footwork and proper armswing habits. Then, work to blend these movements together in one coordinated movement. The result will be good timing and higher scores.

Jets to Cut Time of Long Hops by One-Third

Flying Above Storms Gives Quiet Ride

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Americans are always in a hurry, but they like to do their rushing in comfort.

The airlines are committing approximately three billion dollars to the launching of jet service for American travelers that essentially will do two things: get people to their destinations faster, and do it more comfortably.

There will be other dividends such as speedier air mail deliveries and new and faster air freight service. But the success or failure of the huge financial investment in jet air travel will depend on the degree to which it pleases the customers.

CUT TIME

The airlines estimate that jets, cruising between 550 and 600 mph, will shave between 35 and 40 per cent off present flying times. This means, for example, that Pan American World Airways will cut its New York to Paris flying time from 12 hours to six hours and 30 minutes, and its Boston-London time from 10 to five and one-half hours.

American Airlines will reduce its New York-to-Los Angeles time from about eight to about five hours. Trans-World Airways will cut its time from about four hours and 45 minutes. Westbound flights across the U. S. take longer because of prevailing head winds.

Delta Airlines is typical of a medium-size line which will soon begin offering jet service between closer points. For example, its DC-8s, which will be going into service in 1959, will fly Chicago-Miami in two hours and 25 minutes, New Orleans-Chicago in one hour and 54 minutes, Atlanta-Dallas in one hour and 37 minutes and Atlanta-New York in one hour and 41 minutes.

But time in the air won't be the only saving available to jet travelers. On the ground, the planned streamlined handling of planes, passengers and baggage will mean total trip-time savings.

PROMPT TAKEOFF

There will be no delays at the end of runways, waiting in line for take-off. This would take too much fuel. So jets will be given immediate priority for take-off. The same goes for landing. There will be little "stacking" of jets because of their rapid fuel consumption.

Because the jets fly above the bad weather—sometimes at 35,000 feet—en route weather delays will be negligible. Flight times will be less affected by adverse winds, and all flight planning will be more precise. The results should be a great improvement in meeting schedules.

Being above weather means flying over most turbulence and hence a smooth ride. But even when a jet goes through weather on climb or let-down the jet's wings are so constructed that they will absorb most of the bouncing.

Outside the plane, the noise of the jet engine is a problem. But inside the plane, the noise level is low, because the planes fly so fast they leave much of the sound behind. Also, the jet engine is vibrationless.

"Jets pamper their passengers with twice as many galleys, movable reading lights, greatly increased spaciousness, call buttons, fresh air outlets, emergency oxygen systems that present each passenger a mask automatically if the cabin pressure altitude gets too high, and, finally, a toilet that actually flushes."

NO RATE BOOST NOW

Present plans indicate there will be no immediate increase in rates for this super-deluxe flying. The Civil Aeronautics Board, however, is making a long-term study of the airline rate structure. So it's possible that there will be a rate increase for all flying within a year or so.

The airlines believe that a rate boost is essential to help finance their huge investment in improved service.

One Boeing 707 costs five million dollars. United Airlines is spending 275 million dollars on jet planes and spare parts. American is spending 500 million dollars on planes, training and facilities.

These are typical examples of what jet speed and comfort are costing the airlines. Thus, the question-mark on future rates, and a three per cent drop in airline revenues during the past few months, make this whole jet adventure rather hazardous.

Discussions of the financial future of airline business, however, are far from pessimistic. The airlines are confident that Americans will take to jets with the same enthusiasm they have accepted every major improvement in travel.

And some airline officials are already talking about the advent of supersonic passenger flights within the next 10 to 15 years.

Pianist Cliburn Gives New York His Prize Money

NEW YORK (AP) — Pianist Van Cliburn—first musician ever to receive a ticker-tape welcoming parade up Broadway—has turned over to the city the prize money he won in last spring's Moscow music festival.

Handing over the $1,250 check yesterday, Cliburn specified that the city's Commerce and Public Events Department use the money on behalf of creative artists and cultural welfare.

The 24-year-old Kilgore, Tex., pianist said the parade last May honored not only himself but all musicians. He added: "Now musicians can take their place beside athletes."

Prices on Grains Slip Somewhat

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain futures prices eased slightly in early transactions today on the board of trade. Activity was brisk at times, but offerings to sell met a good reception.

★ ★ ★

Dealers said the weakness appeared to be related to failure of expected export business to develop overnight and the prospect that it now has been deferred over the weekend. Some dealers said, too, that there appeared to be no significant change in the Formosa situation.

★ ★ ★

Prices had firmed up in spots near the end of the first hour, with wheat ⅝ cent a bushel higher to ⅜ lower, December $1.94⅜; corn was ⅛ to ½ lower, December old type contract $1.15⅝; oats ⅛ lower to ⅛ higher, December 64⅛; rye ¼ to ½ higher, December $1.33¼; soybeans unchanged to ½ lower, November $2.20⅛.

Doomed Negro Meets Alabama Governor in Clemency Hearing

Sources close to the governor say they expect him to commute Wilson's sentence to life imprisonment. Wilson then would have to serve 15 years before he would be eligible for parole.

Wilson was given the death sentence for robbing Mrs. Estelle Barker, 82, at her home at Marion, Ala. The woman testified Wilson threatened her life, choked her and tried to rape her. Wilson took $1.95 in the robbery.

Instead of being charged with attempted rape, which carries a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison, Wilson was indicted for robbery and nighttime burglary, both capital offenses. He was tried only on the first indictment. He had served two prison terms for grand larceny.

Although the small amount of money involved is immaterial under Alabama law, it triggered a torrent of protests both from the United States and abroad. Many of the letters which flooded into Folsom's office asking clemency for the Negro contained checks for $1.95.

★ ★ ★

The death sentence was upheld by the State Supreme Court. Later, in denying a request for a rehearing of the case, the high court emphasized that the Negro was convicted not merely of taking $1.95 but of a crime of violence.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles telegraphed Folsom to tell him that the case was causing great concern overseas.

All Signs Pointing to Hart for Senate

A check of national-level party officials shows bipartisan agreement that all signs point to a win for the Democratic Senate candidate, Lt. Gov. Philip A. Hart.

"Let's put it this way," one high-ranking Democrat said. "We think Potter has just about as much chance as Payne did—no more." He referred to Sen. Frederick Payne (R-Maine), easily beaten by Democratic Gov. Edmund Muskie in Maine's September election.

GOP campaign planners don't basically disagree with their opponents. They say Potter has less chance than any other incumbent Republican senator. And they concede the Republicans will lose some seats this year.

Air Line Pays Dividend

CHICAGO (AP)—United Air Lines, Inc. declared the usual quarterly dividend of 12½ cents a share and a three per cent stock dividend on the common stock, both payable Dec. 15 to holders of record Nov. 14. A similar stock dividend was paid last December.

About 100,000 American children suffer eye accidents every year, some of them resulting in permanent vision impairment or total blindness.

Drugs Way Up on Rising Mart

NEW YORK (AP)—Drugs made big upward strides in a stock market that was slightly ahead on average in fairly active trading early this afternoon.

Some drug issues rose close to 5 points. Key issues in other groups were content with gains ranging to a point or so. There was a sprinkling of fractional losers.

★ ★ ★

Parke, Davis continued to soar on a 3-for-1 stock split proposal and enthusiasm spread to sister drug stocks. Traders were reported acting on the theory that stock splits were probable in Pfizer, Warner-Lambert and others in the group.

Aircrafts recovered a bit. Nonferrous metals were active and higher. Rails, with carloadings at a new high for the year, improved.

★ ★ ★

Trading was brisk among drugs as they moved ahead. Warner-Lambert and Parke, Davis gained close to 5. Pfizer added more than 3. Schering and Merck rose about 2 apiece while Sterling Drug advanced more than a point.

Loew's was active and fractionally higher as a proxy fight became possible in a controversy about separating film producing facilities from the rest of the firm.

Martin Co. spurted ahead suddenly, rising more than a point, following publication of a Wall Street report that higher earnings are expected. Consolidated Edison was up a fraction as it announced arrangements for a 100 million dollar credit.

★ ★ ★

Fractional gains were made by Boeing, Douglas and General Dynamics.

Orion Elects Officers For Community Center

ORION TOWNSHIP — William Kopp, superintendent of Camp Oakland Boy Scout camp, last night was named president-elect of the Orion Community Center, Inc.

The selection of Kopp, 29, of 468 Park Island Rd., was made at the organization's annual meeting at Blanche Sims Elementary School.

Named to the Board of Directors were James Sheldon, Kopp, William Schwickert and Trimble.

All except the president-elect assume their duties immediately. Kopp will take over a year from now, following the one-year term of Louis Gudemoos which began last night.

Money alone cannot do the job, Starrs said. Volunteer help in constructing the section will be necessary. It will cost $3,965.

Progress reports revealed that membership has doubled during the past year. There now are 428 persons holding annual memberships, plus 19 special members.

The treasury has been increased from a balance of $1,940 to $3,724, it was reported. Sixteen local clubs have pledged to help raise funds by sponsoring at least one benefit event during the year.

In closing the meeting, Starrs said:

"Istead of a gavel, I present to the Board of Directors this chromeplated shovel, which Sunday broke ground for the center. It symbolizes the spirit of cooperation which will put this project over."

Hefty Queen Lost Plenty to Win Crown

CHICAGO (AP)—It was a graduation exercise of sorts for the 1,000 once-heftier ladies, with 206-pound Mrs. Dorothea Pearson at the head of the class.

"I never got used to my diet," she told fellow members of the Illinois TOPS — take off pounds sensibly—Club.

★ ★ ★

Ceremonies concluded with a banquet board of fruit, turkey and rice, relishes, tossed salad and baked Alaska. The menu was announced in advance to give members a chance to plan their calorie counts.

New Detroit Airport Formally Dedicated

DETROIT (AP)—Federal, state and local officials participated in formal dedication of the new Detroit Metropolitan Airport today.

★ ★ ★

Detroit's Mayor Louis Miriani, Paul Morris of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, Joseph F. Flaugh, vice chairman of the Michigan Aeronautics Administration and airlines officials headed some 500 dignitaries participating in the ceremony.

Detroit Metropolitan is designed to accommodate jet passenger planes and features a new $8½ million terminal building housing a soundproofed waiting room for jet plane passengers.

Several airlines already have announced transfer of operations to Detroit Metropolitan from Willow Run Airport. The new airport is some 14 miles closer to downtown Detroit. It formerly was known as the Detroit-Wayne Major Airport.

Individuals' Savings Hit Record High

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Savings of individuals in savings accounts, U.S. saving bonds and life insurance hit a new record high of $274,500,000,000 at the end of June.

★ ★ ★

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board said Americans apparently decided to sock away money into savings during the depth of the recession in the second quarter of this year.

★ ★ ★

Individual savings amounted to $6,284,000,000 in that three-month period, the Board said. This showed the public's preference for putting savings into banks and savings bonds where they can be readily withdrawn and do not fluctuate in value, it added.

Discover Dynamite Near Water Tower

★ ★ ★

Deputies reported that a railroad maintenance man discovered three sticks of 40 per cent dynamite beneath a water tower near Holly this morning.

★ ★ ★

The tower is located about 1,000 feet north of Academy Rd., in Holly Township, according to deputies. No information was released as to what the dynamite was doing there, but authorities said it had been there for "several days."

Take A-Weigh Bonus From Pickle Packers

LANSING (AP) — Pickle packers in Eaton County won't have it so good any more.

The Foods and Standards Division of the State Agriculture Department reported that one scale in the Eaton County pickle factory was giving farmers credit for 105 pounds of pickles for each 100 pounds delivered. About 300,000 pounds of pickles were received daily during the canning season.

It was explained that employees did such a good job of cleaning rust off the counter weight that they also cleaned off the metal.

Arkansas Gazette Publisher Raps Local Prejudice

KINGSTON, Okla. (AP) — Hugh B. Patterson Jr., publisher of the Arkansas Gazette, said last night if the South is to have better schools there must be a stronger stand against "the tide of prejudice and political demagoguery that is tearing them asunder."

★ ★ ★

Patterson, keynote speaker at a regional conference on public relations for schools, made no direct reference to Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus' order closing Little Rock high schools in a move to prevent racial integration.

But the Little Rock publisher said public education "is suffering severely" and added: "It is likely to suffer more, or for a time, become nonexistent."

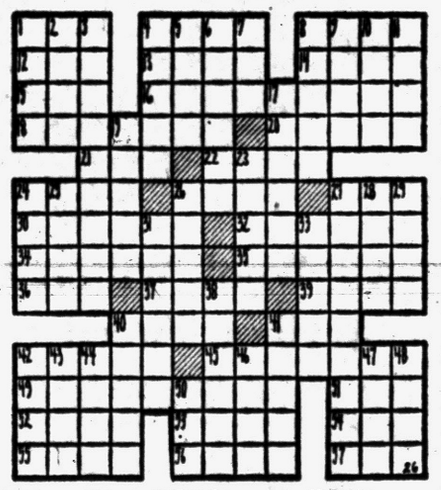

★ ★ ★

"Our children," he said, "are being taught by precept and example, a lesson in subterfuge, defiance, mob rule and contempt for judicial process."

About two-thirds of all families in America own an automobile and two-car families are increasing rapidly.

Sponsors Look for Future Signs

It Spells the Bitter End Unless Public Is Willing to Forgive, Forget

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA)—Chet Huntley, NBC-TV's newscaster, flew to Paris to interview De Gaulle's minister of information, Jacques Soustelle. And, after they exchanged hellos, the first thing Soustelle said was:

"Tell me, M. Huntley, what's happening to those quiz shows in America?"

It's a question that carries an answer worth millions—in salaries to quiz show employes, fees to quiz show producers, commissions to quiz show advertising agencies, profits (or losses) to quiz show sponsors.

Since "Dotto" lost its spots, the fat quiz show industry has been shaking on the edge of disaster.

Its leaders are watching the ratings with the eye of a sick man reading a thermometer. If it seems that the public has lost faith and interest in the quizzes, they'll be through. If, on the other hand, the public seems to be willing to forgive and forget, te quizzes will continue.

★ ★ ★

In the quiz show factories, producers and others await their fate with a mixture of anger, stunned silence and confusion. They don't seem to know what hit them.

Others try to fight back, talking about the quiz-show accusers as "blackmailers" and the investigating New York district attorney Frank Hogan, as a "political opportunist"—he's running for the Senate this year.

Many of them feel that they've been trapped into this grim position by accident. They all profess innocence of rigging or otherwise influencing the outcome of their shows, of course, and claim that anybody who did rig a show was just plain stupid.

"What's to gain rigging a show," one producer says, "compared with what's to lose? So you keep a popular contestant on for another week—in the long run, it isn't any one contestant who makes a show a success or not, it's the cumulative impact of a lot of contestants."

Over at "The $64,000 Question," the first and most popular for a long time, they claim they've lost many potentially popular contestants on the very first question. There was Randolph Churchill, who flubbed right at the beginning and a pardoned murderer who was making "terrific copy" but bowed out at $8,000. And, they say, they had one very "dull" contestant who went all the way.

★ ★ ★

To them, that's proof that not only didn't they rig their show, but they didn't even try to control the contestants. They put their faith, they insist, in picking out the best contestants possible before the show goes on the air.

Others echo that sentiment.

Drama Probes Historic Secret

'The Plot to Kill Stalin' Vividly Portrays Drive for Power in Russia

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—"The Plot to Kill Stalin," the first Playhouse 90 offering of the new season on CBS-TV last night, was a fascinating drama that imaginatively probed a secret chapter of history.

Under the direction of Delbert Mann, this superb Fred Coe production took the television audience inside the Kremlin and inside the minds of a group of men whose ruthless drive for power has resulted in no peace in our time.

Seldom has TV drama presented such a gallery of vivid characterization by an outstanding cast. Life in a police state, as staged with remarkable realism, appeared as grim for the chiefs of police as for the prisoners.

Melvyn Douglas brilliantly portrayed the aging Stalin — relentless, crafty, bold, suspicious. As his private secretary, his confidante Poskrebyshev, Eli Wallach played a man of unprincipled, mindless loyalty.

Oscar Homolka, in the role of Khrushchev, was a politician whose falsely jovial manner failed to disguise his lust for power. As Beria, E. G. Marshall played a suave killer. Luther Adler's Molotov and Thomas Gomez's Malenkov were equally memorable.

The world may never learn the entire truth about the secret conflicts within the Kremlin in recent years. But on the basis of known facts, David Karp projected a highly plausible fiction in his fine script.

★ ★ ★

"The Plot to Kill Stalin" was drama, not history. As such, it attained a high degree of dramatic truth. Beneath its absorbing documentation of persons and situations that had crowded the front pages in recent years was a strongly constructed drama of a group of men's struggle to attain and preserve power.

A tougher gang of power-mad rascals never has been pictured on American television.

Says American GIs Soviet Slave Laborers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Imprisoned American GIs are working as slave laborers in Soviet coal mines, says a former prisoner.

John H. Noble of Bloomingdale, Ill., said some have been held as long as 14 years. They were former German prisoners taken by the Russians in the closing days of World War II, he told the National Exchange Clubs convention yesterday.

Noble said the U.S. government has been hampered in efforts to release the men because it is unable to prove through records that they are alive.

Fearful Algeria Balloting on DeGaulle Constitution

ALGIERS (AP)—In an atmosphere heavy with fear, voters in scattered parts of Algeria cast ballots today on Premier de Gaulle's proposed new constitution for France.

The voters were given a yes-no choice on a document that makes no provision for Algeria itself. De Gaulle has withheld any indication what the future will be for Algeria under his Fifth Republic which the constitution will establish.

Moslems, who make up 90 per cent of Algeria's population, went to the polls in fear of the two forces which have been fighting over this North African territory for four years.

By participating in the three-day referendum, they risk the wrath of nationalist rebels seeking independence for Algeria. The rebels have demanded a boycott of the referendum.

French military commanders have issued orders to their 500,000 men to "win the battle of the referendum." Rebels charge this means herding voters to the polls in trucks and making sure of a "yes" vote by force.

Army authorities called on observers to distinguish between military protection and escort by force. Polling is being conducted in different areas on the three days to simplify army protection of the 7,000 voting places, some mobile. The French said they feared rebel attacks on the polling places.

The approximately one million European settlers in Algeria favor the con titution in the belief it will preserve French rule here. On the other hand, some Socialists in France favor it as setting up a strong enough French government to grant at least limited Algerian independence despite settler and army opposition.

Voting on the constitution in France will take place Sunday.

Polio Epidemic Continues Unabated

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit's polio epidemic continued unabated today as medical authorities in the area planned to open special clinics to administer special low-cost inoculations of Salk vaccine.

A total of 595 cases, many of them paralytic, have been reported this year in Detroit and surrounding communities. This compares with 224 cases in the same period last year. Twelve deaths have resulted, compared with two a year ago.

Falsies Dispute Displaces Crisis in Formosa

TAIPEI (AP)—When lawmaker Wang Meng-yun rose to address the Chinese Nationalist Parliament today, he didn't have the Formosa Strait crisis in mind.

What he was thinking of were falsies and other things which in his view overemphasize sex.

Specifically, Wang suggested, women under 35 should be forbidden to wear bras. Premier Chen Cheng thanked Wang for his suggestions but turned them down as impracticable.

Board to Open Bids on School Notes

Sealed bids for the purchase of notes for Waterford Township School district with the par value of $300,000 will be received and opened at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Board of Education offices.

The loan is in anticipation of undistributed state appropriations for the 1958-59 school year, as state aid for September was only 75 per cent of the amount expected.

Only 50 per cent of the full amount is anticipated in October, according to superintendet William Shunck.

The notes must be dated September 2, 1958, and will mature May 31, 1959. They will bear interest at rates not exceeding 4 per cent yearly, according to specifications.

Financier Caught Short

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — R. C. Longan, chairman of Henrico County supervisors, was in New York to sign four million dollars in county bonds. He found he had left his wallet at home and had to float a loan from companions.

An average motorist in 1929 got about 12 miles to the gallon of gasoline. An average driver today with higher-powered and usually heavier cars gets about 15.5 miles to the gallon.

Virginia School Ruling Possible

U.S. Court of Appeals Calls Urgent Session on Desegregation Delay

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The future educational course for 11,000 Virginia high school students may be decided in Baltimore tomorrow at an emergency session of the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals.

A three-judge court will hear arguments—and probably rule—on appeals for a year delay in desegregation orders handed down by federal judges in the case of Warren County High School in Front Royal and six secondary schools in Norfolk.

The 1,000-pupil school at Front Royal, Warren County's only high school, has been closed under state law since Sept. 15 because of a federal court order that 22 Negroes be admitted.

Three senior and three junior high schools in Norfolk have been ordered desegregated, and their opening date has been postponed twice, the last time until next Monday.

A negative ruling tomorrow in Baltimore probably would mean the assignment by the Norfolk School Board of 17 Negroes to the schools, which have a combined enrollment of nearly 10,000 students. Such an assignment, in turn, would lead to automatic state closure.

Taste of City Proves Undoing of Big Bear

BUENA VISTA, Colo. (AP) — A big black bear who gave up mountain life for a whirl in the city is dead.

The 153-pound bear wandered into town Wednesday, made his way into an orchard, stuffed himself with apples and then climbed into a tree to take things easy.

Authorities tried unsuccessfully to run the bear back into the mountains before shooting him.

142 Tin Sheets Stolen Without a Murmer

NOGALES, Ariz. (AP) — Armano Alfaro, construction material dealer, told police that 142 sheets of galvanized tin worth $350 were stolen from his truck during the night.

"Didn't hear a rattle," he said.
