

New Shooting Increases Tension Over Berlin

U.S. Asks Reds Not to Create New Incidents

State Department Urges Caution in Statement on Berlin Shootings

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States called on the Soviets today to avoid shooting incidents on the East-West Berlin border "which could seriously jeopardize peace and the public order in Berlin."

The call was in a State Department statement issued in the wake of an outbreak of shooting incidents involving West and East German police.

The U.S. view was that the West Berlin police acted in self-defense Wednesday in firing back as the Communists shot at refugees fleeing the Soviet sector of the divided city.

One East German policeman was reported wounded by the West German shots.

Since then, Communist police are reported to have fired into the Western sector again.

State Department Press Officer Joseph W. Reap said:

"It is regrettable that action by East Berlin authorities forced West Berlin police to defend themselves. We have repeatedly emphasized to Soviet authorities in Berlin the urgent necessity of avoiding incidents on the East-West Berlin sector borders which could seriously jeopardize peace and the public order in Berlin."

DECLINES COMMENT

Reap said he was directing his remarks to the first shooting incident, not the second on which he had no official comment yet.

He also declined comment on whether the incidents would seriously jeopardize the possibility of a peaceful settlement of the explosive Berlin issue.

Other authorities took the view that the shootings, while deplorable, need not, in themselves, be the spark that would set off a general conflagration. They said deliberate intent would be the more likely cause of any war, and neither side has shown intent to start a war.

However, it was stated also that the shooting heightens tension.

Hoping to Agree on Chief for U.N.

Reds, Americans Not Together Yet; Support Builds for Bureau

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States and Soviet Union hoped today that agreement would be reached on selecting a temporary U.N. secretary-general.

But a U.S. spokesman said no agreement had been reached with the Soviet Union as yet on the man for the job, or on all aspects of a formula for resolving the deadlock.

Support appeared to be building up for Burma's Ambassador U. Thant as the most likely individual for the temporary post.

Diplomats engaged in negotiations to reach agreement had been reached through intermediaries on two aspects:

1. If there is general agreement on the man and his authority, the first action to name him would be taken in the Security Council. It would then go to the assembly.

2. He would serve with the title of interim secretary-general until April, 1962. That is the expiration date of the second five-year term of the late Dag Hammarskjöld.

A U. S. spokesman, asked if the United States and the Soviet Union had agreed on U. Thant for the post, said:

"I would say that the United States and the Soviet Union have not reached agreement on any facet of this issue. The situation is fluid and no agreements have been reached at all."

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valentin Zorin expressed willingness to talk directly to U. S. diplomats. The last informal contact was on Monday.

Delegates Will Call It Home

INAUGURATION DAY — Michigan's constitutional convention held its first session in Constitution Hall Wednesday. The hall—a specially remodeled auditorium in the Lansing Civic Center—will be the delegates' permanent meeting place for several months. They voted Wednesday to make the hall their official home—reserving the right to hold some meetings in other parts of the state. On the podium just below the state seal is Stephen S. Nisbet, Fremont, president of the convention. In front of him is Fred I. Chase, secretary.

'Troika' Spurring Con-Con

LANSING (AP)—Organization of Michigan's constitutional convention moved ahead briskly today under the guidance of a "troika" of three vice presidents who will help the assembly rewrite the state's basic law.

Two Republicans and a Democrat were elected unanimously Wednesday to assist President Stephen S. Nisbet in selecting members of committees that will examine the present 1961 constitution section-by-section.

The trio consists of American Motors President George Romney, former State Senator Edward Hutchinson and AFL-CIO attorney Tom Downs. In a show of unanimity, each was nominated by a member of his own party and seconded by the opposition.

Nisbet said he planned to discuss the appointment of committee chairmanships with his three-man team before deciding whether they all should go to Republicans, who hold 59 of the convention's 144 delegate seats.

Exact duties of the vice presidents were not spelled out, although some delegates expected them to act as group leaders for their respective parties.

The delegates were under orders to spend their weekends working.

"You're not going home to take a vacation," Nisbet warned them at Wednesday's second con-con session. "We haven't worked that long yet."

He suggested the 144 convention delegates spend their time reading the mountain of research material compiled for them by various groups.

The committee on permanent organization of the convention scheduled a meeting this morning.

Nisbet said he expected to continue meetings with Romney, Hutchinson and Downs over the weekend and would probably have committee assignments by Monday. The first formal proposals for constitutional change probably won't come until later in the week, he said.

Each delegate was asked to fill out a questionnaire on his abilities and preferences to help in making the committee assignments.

Recommendations on procedure which the committee on organization made to the full convention Wednesday were adopted with little protest except for objections, led mostly by delegates who live considerable distance from Lansing, on a five day work week.

Delegate Donald M. Habermehl, B-Albion, said scheduling sessions for Monday night would not allow sufficient time for meetings at home.

Red Fires Shot at W. German but Misses Him

Second Incident in Day Adds to West's Worries Over Divided City

BERLIN (AP)—Communist police fire across Berlin's brick curtain, the second such incident in less than 24 hours, added to the trigger tension of this divided city today.

West Berlin police said Communist police threw rocks across the wall at Bernauerstrasse and a Red police officer fired a single shot from his submachine-gun at a West Berlin policeman. No one was hurt.

West and East Berlin police traded fire Wednesday night across the border at Bernauerstrasse and an East German policeman was wounded.

The first incident occurred during a chase of two East German refugees across border rooftops. One refugee, crying "freedom," plunged to his death when he jumped five stories and missed a West Berlin fireman's net. The other refugee was captured by the East Germans and taken away.

As a result of the two incidents, Mayor Willy Brandt disclosed he was discussing with the Western powers the reinforcement of West Berlin police to make the borders secure. The shooting of the East German policeman was expected to raise a diplomatic storm.

Vopos, Communist police, threw rocks across the wall into West Berlin. One rock smashed the windshield of a truck on the roadway. A police patrol car was called, and an officer went up to the wall and called out to the Vopos to stop throwing rocks.

RED FIRES SHOT

A Vopo officer approached the wall, aimed his submachine gun and shouted, "Go back." Then the Vopo fired at the police officer. The bullet missed, and police on both sides drove back.

The two shootings were the most serious since the Communist barred wire and concrete blocks across the heart of Berlin on Aug. 13.

In a separate incident, Communist guards trained their guns on a Lebanese pacifist who tried to carry a 50-pound wooden cross through the Brandenburg Gate into East Berlin.

BULLETIN

DALLAS (AP)—An aide to Sam Rayburn said today a biopsy disclosed the presence of an incurable cancer.

He said surgery would not be resorted to "because there is nothing they can do. It is all over him."

Dr. Robert F. Short, who conducted the biopsy this morning at Baylor Hospital, said a formal bulletin would be issued later in the day.

Asked how many time doctors gave the veteran speaker of the House, one of Rayburn's close associates said, "it may be a matter of just a few days." (Earlier story, page 2).

Best Opening Yet for Pontiac Autos

Popular acclaim for the 1962 Pontiacs is giving the division its best introductory period in history. It was announced today.

Deliveries by dealers in the last 10 days of September totaled 20,528. There were 14,813 Pontiacs sold, and 5,713 Tempests.

Sales also zoomed to an all-time high for a 10-day period in the Pontiac sales zone. During the last 10 days of September, sales of 1962 Pontiac cars totaled 1,978 in this area comprising Michigan and northern portions of Ohio and Indiana.

Pontiac's last sales record for a ten-day introductory period was 18,354 cars sold between Oct. 1 and 10, 1959.

KNUTSEN PLEADED

Pontiac Motor Division General Manager S. E. Knutsen, who had earlier predicted half a million Pontiac sales for 1962, hailed the new model's reception.

"We are extremely pleased to report that Pontiac Motor Division experienced the most successful and encouraging introduction period in its history."

"The enthusiastic reception given the 1962 Pontiacs and Tempests by our customers has never been greater. This keen interest in our new cars is especially rewarding for us."

"It more than justifies our constant efforts to produce the greatest value in the automobile industry."

"By building the best and most reliable car we know how and by striving to make it even better each year, we are able to fulfill our obligation to our customers."

Believe Abortion Ring Smashed With 3 Arrests

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL, JR.

An abortion racket which supposedly netted a half million dollars a year was believed smashed today with the arrest in Livonia of a Bloomfield Township doctor and his two assistants from Oakland County.

Charged with manslaughter by abortion were Dr. Bernard W. Weiss, 43, of 1135 Charrington Road, his alleged assistant Hugo J. Pollak, 45, of 165 E. Hazelhurst St., Ferndale, and Mrs. Lillian Broad, of Oak Park, the doctor's nurse.

Their arrest followed an eight-month investigation by a team of State Police and Livonia detectives.

All three accused demanded examination when they appeared in court this morning before Livonia Municipal Judge Robert H. Lorton. He set examinations for Oct. 23 at 9 a.m. and released each on $7,500 bonds.

The investigation was climaxed Tuesday when an autopsy on a 37-year-old Madison Heights mother of four reportedly showed she did not die from a coronary thrombosis, as stated on the death certificate signed by Dr. Weiss, but that a criminal abortion had been performed.

According to Asst. Oakland County Prosecutor Richard P. Condit, Dr. Weiss was making $3,000 a week, and performing up to 17 operations a day.

SAYS DEATH ADMITTED

Condit added that relatives of the deceased woman said Dr. Weiss, an osteopath, had sought to buy their silence, after admitting to them she died during an illegal operation at his clinic in Livonia Sept. 22.

She was Mrs. Louise D. Eagle, a divorcee. Condit said the doctor also admitted falsifying the death certificate.

"Preliminary indications reveal that there was no coronary thrombosis, as stated in the death certificate, and signed by Weiss, and that a criminal abortion had been performed on the deceased," Condit said.

The arrest of the doctor followed the arrest of two Detroit men.

Albert Biccilli, 46, of 2013 Schaffer, is awaiting trial for abortion in Oakland County Circuit Court after a Ypsilanti hospital reported a bungled abortion. Biccilli is a former Pontiac beauty shop owner.

The second man, Jack B. Harwood, 31, of 1944 Ohio St., is on probation in the county after serving three months in the county jail earlier this year for attempting an illegal operation on a 29-year-old woman.

Say Abortion Ring Ended With Arrests

Royal Oak girl, Harwood pleads guilty to the Feb. 27 attempt.

FRIEND ARRESTED

Police arrested and later released a male friend of Mrs. Ingle who had taken her to Dr. Weiss' clinic, 31204 Five Mile Road, Livonia, for the operation.

After waiting outside the clinic for an hour the friend went inside and inquired, Condit said. He was told Mrs. Ingle was dead.

She was buried three days later in the White Chapel Cemetery in Troy. Her body was exhumed Tuesday on a petition of Condit's and signed by West Bloomfield Township Justice of the Peace Elmer C. Dietrich.

Dr. Richard E. Olsen performed the autopsy.

An inquest will be held before Dietrich, Condit said, to determine the exact cause of death.

A police detective said a sister, brother-in-law and close friend, who apparently were aware of the operation, went to see Dr. Weiss to have some insurance papers signed. They were identified as Mrs. Helen Palm, the sister of the deceased, and her husband, Kenneth, both of 316 E. Maple St., Grand Park, and Mrs. Violet Huff, 2400 Edward St., Berkeley, described as Mrs. Ingle's close friend.

"They got a little angry when they saw this happened and this is when the doctor offered them $5,000," said Detective Thomas McPhail of the Redford State Police Post.

He said that one of them accused the doctor of killing Mrs. Ingle. After her sister said Mrs. Ingle made this much as an employee of the C. M. Smilie & Co., 1130 Woodland Heights, Ferndale, a tool manufacturer, first Condit, said Dr. Weiss then offered the relatives $40,000.

The prosecutor said the doctor wrote a check for $5,000 after the writing out on a prescription slip that Mrs. Ingle had died during the operation and that he had falsified the death certificate.

The relatives then, according to Condit, accompanied Dr. Weiss to the bank to supply to cash the check. He found, however, that he had but $2,100 in his account. Later he sought a loan from the bank to make good the check but bank officials, Condit said, told him he would need his wife's signature.

Dr. Weiss promised to return the next day and deposit money to make the check good. The relatives, however, never sought to cash the $5,000 check but instead went to tell their friends a female attorney who in turn alerted Condit.

Area Girl, Friend Robbed While on Tour of Paris

PARIS (UPI) — Two American girl students, one from Bloomfield Hills, on a sightseeing tour of Paris were held up at gunpoint and knife-point and robbed of their handbags here Tuesday.

Peggy Ann Mayne, 222 Lone Pine Road, Bloomfield Hills, and Margaret Wagner, Denver, Colo., said they were visiting the famous artists' tourist spot near the Church of Sacre Coeur on the hill of Montmartre when robbed.

The Place du Tertre is a tourist mecca on Montmartre Hill and usually is crowded with American and other foreign tourists.

The two girls were offered a sightseeing tour of the city by two young men who pulled up alongside them in a small German car. The answer from the girls was a prompt "No thanks."

"Then we saw they had a gun and a knife," Miss Wagner said. "They grabbed our handbags and since they were armed we just let them go."

The men drove off and the girls reported the holdup to local agencies.

Man Arraigned for Changing Nickels to Slugs

A Pontiac machine operator was arraigned this morning before Federal Judge Theodore Mackowicz in Detroit and charged with changing nickels into quarter-sized slugs.

Clide Mays, 30, of 867 Harvey St., was arrested by secret service agents and Pontiac city police last night.

Detroit secret service agents said examination for Mays will be held Oct. 19 on charges that he used a press at the Pontiac Motor Division to flatten out nickels.

About 120 altered coins were found in coin changers at the division in three months beginning in June and ending in August, agents said. The coin changers are installed at the Bureau of Mines using automatic vending machines.

County's Students Told of Health Scholarships

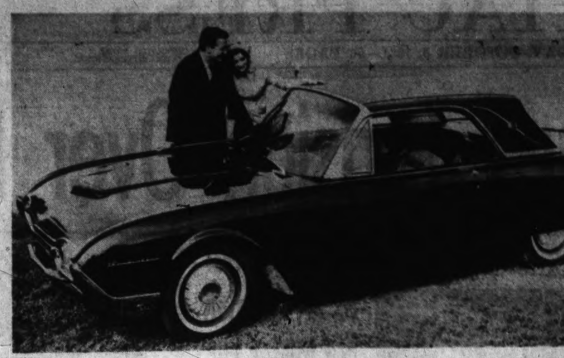

A total of 85 high school students and counselors throughout Oakland County yesterday met in Pontiac to become acquainted with the health scholarship program of the National Foundation, an agency supported by the State of Michigan.

Meeting in the Civic Room of First Federal Savings of Oakland, 761 W. Huron St., the students heard lectures on careers in nursing, physical therapy, medical social work, and medicine.

The students were selected to represent their junior and senior high schools and carry information about these fields to their fellow students, according to Richard E. Spence, administrator of the foundation's Oakland County Chapter.

Okay Rezoning at Shop Center

Planners Approve of Ordinance Which Will Return to Commission

An ordinance to rezone some 9 acres of land from residential to commercial for expansion of the proposed Glenwood Plaza Shopping Center has been approved by the City Planning Commission.

The proposed ordinance will be returned to the City Commission for a public hearing next Tuesday night.

Final approval by commissioners will be contingent on the signing of an agreement between the city and shopping center developers concerning the method of access to the center and means of providing suitable buffer zones between the center and surrounding residences.

The ordinance, if okayed next Tuesday, would not be in effect until Oct. 20. If the agreements are not finished and signed by Oct. 20, the ordinance will be nullified until such time that they are signed.

The area to be rezoned lies to the east and south of the center at Glenwood and Perry streets. All property has been purchased by the center's developer, a Fordale attorney who in turn alerted Condit.

Red Chinese Buy Huge Grain Supply

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist China has purchased 5.89 million metric tons of grain on the world market for 1961 delivery to ease its food situation.

Informed sources reported this today said that the Peking regime has indicated it would shop for large quantities of grain also in 1962.

To pay for these purchases it is selling gold on the London market.

There is no mass starvation as yet on mainland China, specialists in the area said, but the populace is suffering severely in some provinces because of what Peking called natural calamities affecting the harvest.

Thunderbird Line Offering New Roadster, Landau in '62

Two new models and over 100 engineering improvements are offered by the 1962 Thunderbird line. The new models were released today by Lee A. Iacocca, Ford Motor Co. vice president and Ford Division general manager.

The two added models are a two-seat sports roadster and a vinyl-covered hardtop Landau model.

Combined with the regular hardtop and convertible, the two new models increase the luxury car line to four models — widest selection in Thunderbird's sixty-year history.

All four models will be introduced in Ford dealer showrooms Oct. 12. Ford dealers in this area are John McCalliff Ford, Inc., 630 Oakland Ave., Pontiac, and Beattie Motor Sales, 5806 Dixie Highway, Waterford.

Thunderbird retains its streamlined styling, distinctive roofline and round fenders. New is square-body design grille.

The new sports roadster features a molded fiberglass tonneau cover with padded head rests which transform the four-seat convertible into a two-seat car.

CHROME SPOKES

Special features include wire wheels with chrome-plated spokes and rims and simulated knock-off humps. Narrow band whitewall tires will be an optional feature.

The Landau model has a vinyl-covered roof available in black or white colors. There is a distinctive "S" bar on the side of its rear floor panels.

The swing-away steering wheel, ordered by nearly 77 per cent of Thunderbird buyers since it has been available in 1961, is now standard equipment.

Better riding and maintenance characteristics are expected from prolonged service times and improved coating of the body. An improved suspension.

Says Recognition Leans on Syrian, German Peoples

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Feroz Ibrahim Aboud said today the neutral Sudan will recognize neither the secession of Syria from the United Arab Republic nor the division of Germany — unless the peoples of those countries accept the actions.

The African leader called for firm opposition to colonialism in all its forms.

These statements, in a speech at a national press luncheon just after his first working meeting with President Kennedy, were interpreted to mean that Aboud regards Communism as a threat to be as much a threat as the old Western colonialism against which new African nations are reacting.

After a hour-long luncheon session, Kennedy said newsmen the talks had gone "very well, just fine" and Aboud said the conversation touched on various international problems and were "very successful." "Neither participant gave more details during an impromptu chat outside the White House."

Frances Promises Winds to Bermuda

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Frances promised gale force winds for Bermuda by Friday, as the season's sixth tropical storm moved north-northeast toward cool temperatures, which will weaken it.

Small craft in the Bermuda area were advised to remain in port.

The Weather Bureau at Miami said Frances, with peak winds of 60 miles an hour, was located at 11 a.m. today near latitude 28.0 N. and longitude 70.4 west. That is 410 miles southwest of Bermuda, and 600 miles east of New Smyrna Beach, Fla.

The forecast track of Frances would take the storm west of Bermuda.

To Run Test on Rayburn

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — A surgeon at Baylor University Medical Center announced today that he will take a tissue sample from ailing House Speaker Sam Rayburn for a diagnosis.

The surgeon referred to it as a "diagnostic biopsy." A spokesman for the hospital said a biopsy is frequently but not always a test for cancer.

The 73-year-old Rayburn has had severe back pains for three months and has been losing weight. He reported at Baylor Monday on the advice of a doctor in Bonham, Tex., his home town, for exhaustive medical tests.

The surgeon, who asked that his name be withheld, probably will decide, upon the basis of the diagnostic biopsy, whether to operate.

"Mr. Rayburn has a fairly comfortable night," a bulletin issued by the surgeon said, "A diagnostic biopsy will be done sometime today. The question of whether surgery will be involved will depend to a great extent upon the result of the biopsy. There is no major change in his general condition."

The surgeon said Wednesday that Rayburn is seriously, though not critically, ill.

"Any man who has been ill for three months is in serious condition," he said.

All Major Airlines to Use Metropolitan

DETROIT (AP) — All 11 major airlines serving Detroit agreed today to centralize their operations at Detroit Metropolitan Airport by the spring of 1964.

The University of Michigan, which owns Willow Run Airport, said it would continue to operate that field for private craft.

James M. Dwyer, managing director of the Wayne County Road Commission and manager of Metropolitan Airport, said a $21-million expansion program will be begun at Metropolitan soon to ready the field for its expanded traffic.

Five airlines already are using Metropolitan.

U. N. Hears Material, Rhodesian Mercenaries Help Beef Up Forces

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — The United Nations said today it has reports that President Moise Tshombe was building up his Katanga army with war material and mercenaries brought in from Rhodesia.

Mahmoud Khari of Tunisia, the U. N. negotiator in the Congo, held a news conference here but could not confirm the reports because U. N. observers have been refused permission to visit Kolwezi, Jadotville and Kipushi in Katanga.

All three places figured in the fighting between U. N. and Katanga forces that ended 16 days ago. Katanga's two jet air force was based at Kolwezi, a garrison of Irish troops surrendered at Jadotville, and Tshombe's temporary headquarters was at Kipushi near the Rhodesian border.

EVERYTHING TO KILL

Asked what kind of war material was being brought in, Khari said, "Everything that can be used to kill people."

Katanga's Interior Minister Godefrid Munongo in a statement yesterday in Elizabethville said his government has 150,000 men ready to fight if the ceasefire with the United Nations is broken.

Khari said he could consider Tshombe's refusal to permit visits to Kolwezi, Jadotville and Kipushi "a rupture in the cease-fire negotiations." He referred to the cease-fire concluded with Tshombe at Ndola in Rhodesia on Sept. 20.

The Day in Birmingham

Department to Exhibit Fire-Fighting Apparatus

BIRMINGHAM — A public fire-fighting demonstration will be conducted Wednesday by the Birmingham Hills fire department as part of its observance of Fire Prevention Week, which begins Sunday.

The demonstration will be held at the Birmingham Open Hunt Club starting at 7:30 p.m.

Fires will be set and extinguished with various types of fire department equipment to show the value of different types of apparatus, according to Public Safety Director Robert J. Stadler.

The program will conclude with an exhibition of the equipment used by the departments participating in the Box O' Alliance Agreement.

The agreement is a mutual assistance pact that makes the equipment and manpower of five departments available in case of emergencies.

The alliance, formed in 1957, in Long Lake, Mich. Road and streets in the Birmingham Hills, Bloomfield Hills, Bloomfield Village, Cranbrook and Troy.

Wayne L. Cumbie of 861 Coolidge Road has been named president of the Michigan Association of Credit Bureaus at the group's 49th annual convention in Traverse City. Other new officers included Allen Walker of Akron, first vice president; and Genevieve Stieger of Traverse City, second vice president and first woman ever named to the organization's board.

Bloomfield Township Supervisor Paul Hulet said today he does not expect the backtracking of streets in three subdivisions to get under way until Spring.

Approval to go ahead with the paving of Hammond Lake Drive, Long Lake, Mich. Road and streets in the Bloomfield Heights Subdivision was given this week by the State Municipal Finance Commission, which informed the township it could sell $125,000 in assessment bonds for the project.

Drain construction on the streets is in progress now, but Hulet said the paving deadline in the county is Nov. 15 and work could not be completed by that time and it will be delayed.

The annual fall rummage sale sponsored by the Women's Service of the First Methodist Church will be held Oct. 12 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the church.

Release From Jury Duty Due to Partner's Illness

Circuit Judge H. Russell Holland said today he "won't remotely aware" that Paul F. Bonfigli was to appear before his court on a traffic offense when he excused him from jury duty.

The judge said he excused Bonfigli, 39, of 911 James K. Blvd., Sylvan Lake, because a business partner of Bonfigli's was ill and that serving on the jury panel would serve as an undue hardship on his business.

The girls' handbags contained their passports as well as their airline tickets, a wrist watch, glasses and about $30 in cash.

Thunderbird Line Offering New Roadster, Landau in '62

Two new models and over 100 engineering improvements are offered by the 1962 Thunderbird line. The new models were released today by Lee A. Iacocca, Ford Motor Co. vice president and Ford Division general manager.

The two added models are a two-seat sports roadster and a vinyl-covered hardtop Landau model.

Combined with the regular hardtop and convertible, the two new models increase the luxury car line to four models — widest selection in Thunderbird's sixty-year history.

All four models will be introduced in Ford dealer showrooms Oct. 12. Ford dealers in this area are John McCalliff Ford, Inc., 630 Oakland Ave., Pontiac, and Beattie Motor Sales, 5806 Dixie Highway, Waterford.

Thunderbird retains its streamlined styling, distinctive roofline and round fenders. New is square-body design grille.

The new sports roadster features a molded fiberglass tonneau cover with padded head rests which transform the four-seat convertible into a two-seat car.

CHROME SPOKES

Special features include wire wheels with chrome-plated spokes and rims and simulated knock-off humps. Narrow band whitewall tires will be an optional feature.

The Landau model has a vinyl-covered roof available in black or white colors. There is a distinctive "S" bar on the side of its rear floor panels.

The swing-away steering wheel, ordered by nearly 77 per cent of Thunderbird buyers since it has been available in 1961, is now standard equipment.

Better riding and maintenance characteristics are expected from prolonged service times and improved coating of the body. An improved suspension.

Will Remove Some Tissue

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — A surgeon at Baylor University Medical Center announced today that he will take a tissue sample from ailing House Speaker Sam Rayburn for a diagnosis.

The surgeon referred to it as a "diagnostic biopsy." A spokesman for the hospital said a biopsy is frequently but not always a test for cancer.

The 73-year-old Rayburn has had severe back pains for three months and has been losing weight. He reported at Baylor Monday on the advice of a doctor in Bonham, Tex., his home town, for exhaustive medical tests.

The surgeon, who asked that his name be withheld, probably will decide, upon the basis of the diagnostic biopsy, whether to operate.

"Mr. Rayburn has a fairly comfortable night," a bulletin issued by the surgeon said, "A diagnostic biopsy will be done sometime today. The question of whether surgery will be involved will depend to a great extent upon the result of the biopsy. There is no major change in his general condition."

The surgeon said Wednesday that Rayburn is seriously, though not critically, ill.

"Any man who has been ill for three months is in serious condition," he said.

Area Girl, Friend Robbed While on Tour of Paris

PARIS (UPI) — Two American girl students, one from Bloomfield Hills, on a sightseeing tour of Paris were held up at gunpoint and knife-point and robbed of their handbags here Tuesday.

Peggy Ann Mayne, 222 Lone Pine Road, Bloomfield Hills, and Margaret Wagner, Denver, Colo., said they were visiting the famous artists' tourist spot near the Church of Sacre Coeur on the hill of Montmartre when robbed.

The Place du Tertre is a tourist mecca on Montmartre Hill and usually is crowded with American and other foreign tourists.

The two girls were offered a sightseeing tour of the city by two young men who pulled up alongside them in a small German car. The answer from the girls was a prompt "No thanks."

"Then we saw they had a gun and a knife," Miss Wagner said. "They grabbed our handbags and since they were armed we just let them go."

The men drove off and the girls reported the holdup to local agencies.

Man Arraigned for Changing Nickels to Slugs

A Pontiac machine operator was arraigned this morning before Federal Judge Theodore Mackowicz in Detroit and charged with changing nickels into quarter-sized slugs.

Clide Mays, 30, of 867 Harvey St., was arrested by secret service agents and Pontiac city police last night.

Detroit secret service agents said examination for Mays will be held Oct. 19 on charges that he used a press at the Pontiac Motor Division to flatten out nickels.

About 120 altered coins were found in coin changers at the division in three months beginning in June and ending in August, agents said. The coin changers are installed at the Bureau of Mines using automatic vending machines.

County's Students Told of Health Scholarships

A total of 85 high school students and counselors throughout Oakland County yesterday met in Pontiac to become acquainted with the health scholarship program of the National Foundation, an agency supported by the State of Michigan.

Meeting in the Civic Room of First Federal Savings of Oakland, 761 W. Huron St., the students heard lectures on careers in nursing, physical therapy, medical social work, and medicine.

The students were selected to represent their junior and senior high schools and carry information about these fields to their fellow students, according to Richard E. Spence, administrator of the foundation's Oakland County Chapter.

Civil Servants Crowd Washington Night Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — Back in 1945 a printer working for the government enrolled in one of the adult night schools that thrive in Washington.

When he started he had no college credits. This year he won his Ph. D. degree. In the meantime his salary climbed to $18,500.

Such rewards help explain why an estimated 9,000 federal employees in the metropolitan Washington area are enrolled in college courses.

The Civil Service Commission said today these civil servants comprise about half of all the adult night students signed up for the area's accredited colleges this academic year.

In the opinion of commission officials, in few places will you find the response to working adults to the educational call better than among the public servants of the federal government.

STUDENTS TELL WHY

Ask why and you get answers like these:

Most say they seek self-improvement. Some say "to learn to do my job better—now." Others want to finish work on degrees which they began before entering government service. Some, mostly newcomers, use night school as a way to meet new people or to master an art they have longed to pursue.

Their ages range from the early 20s to the late 50s. Their jobs range from executive administration to printing clerks. A few are single, but most are married. Their professions embrace the sciences, the arts, the crafts.

Their motivation, says a faculty member, is high.

The courses they take range from accounting to zoology. One school lists 431 separate courses which night students may take this year.

There are six accredited universities in the area: American, Catholic, Georgetown, George Washington, Howard, and Maryland. In addition hundreds take undergraduate and postgraduate courses at the Agriculture Department's graduate school, which does not grant degrees but whose credits are accepted by the Civil Service Commission.

Classrooms are all over town. In the Federal Triangle area in downtown Washington 18 agencies head rent.

Bachelorhood's Fine but Not for Young Folks

LONDON (AP) — Sidney Thain, a sprightly 105-year-old, got married for the first time Wednesday. The bride was Mrs. Maud Franklin, a 73-year-old widow. More than 1,000 well-wishers cheered the couple after the ceremony in Camberwell register office.

Sidney, a retired newspaper vendor, said: "I feel as happy as the flowers in May."

There are an estimated 2 million to 3 million active coin collectors in the United States today, an increase of 200 to 300 per cent in the last few years. The most widely collected series is the Lincoln cent.

Schools Crowded

NEW YORK (UPI) — More than 46 million Americans between the ages of 5 and 34 years were enrolled in school in 1960, compared with 30.3 million 10 years ago, reports the National Industrial Conference Board. In comparison new public construction for education in 1960 totaled $1.1 billion and in 1950 only $1.8 billion.

Cheese Support Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government is stepping up its price support of American cheese. Uncle Sam bought only 228,000 pounds of cheese in the year ended March 31, but since then has purchased nearly four million pounds. The support price currently is 38 cents a pound, about three cents higher than a year ago.

Tire treads wear almost twice as rapidly at 70 miles an hour as at 45 m.p.h.

Scotch More Popular

NEW YORK (UPI) — Americans drank 7,912,000 cases of scotch in 1960, an all-time record, and by 1964 they'll be knocking it off at a rate of 10 million cases a year, according to a distillery director from Scotland. The director, Tom Scott of George Ballantine & Sons, Ltd., said scotch also is getting more popular in Europe.

Maybe We're Not Hungry

NEW YORK (UPI) — The average expenditure for food per household during the past eight years has increased less than 20 cents a week, despite a growing number of processing steps required, the National Association of Retail Grocers reports.

Georgia once had 5.5 million acres planted to cotton but the acreage has dwindled to the present level of about one-half million acres.

Nasser Could Touch Off Blowup in Middle East

Undoubtedly, the Syrian squabble is a blow to Nasser's and his ambitions. It would seem that he is wise in not using force to quell the difficulty.

Controlling and handling the United Arab Republic by force could only lead to useless bloodshed. It would be easy for some of Syria's Arab neighbors such as Jordan to quickly smear the Egyptian President and his imperialism.

After all, that's the way he referred to the United States and we have this on first-hand information from top ministers in his government in an interview last spring. A similar charge could harm him no end, so instead he cries "capitalist dictatorship" in Damascus.

He is banking on the Syrians seeing the mistake they have made and rejoining his fold in the U.A.R. Syria's marriage to Egypt lasted less than four years and we can't help but wonder what is in store for the whole area.

The entire Arab race and culture is one of intense rivalries among themselves. To have effective political control of this part of the world seems next to impossible to us.

In all fairness to Nasser, it must be recognized that the Near East has been relatively stable in the last year or two. But what the future holds for this culture is an unknown quantity.

Everywhere you look there is latent jealousy and suspicion.

Iraq has resisted Nasser. Tunis is not on speaking terms with the Cairo leadership, even after Bizerte. Jordan is unstable with Hussein feuding with Nasser.

To date communism has been kept out largely because of Nasser's prestige and his control of the U.A.R. We would like to think that this most recent rebuff will not kindle a fresh uprising in the Arab world.

Red China Has Purpose in Admitting Downgrade

Now that it suits the purposes of the top Communists running China, admissions are being made that all is not well under the enlightened leadership of the peoples government there.

Most of the world has known for some time that things were going from bad to worse in Red China, with famine widespread, and industrial quotas falling far below expectations.

But very little of this news came from Red China itself.

Now the leaders there have abruptly changed their style. All of a sudden, the roof leaks in Paradise.

Isn't it an interesting coincidence that these "damaging" admissions come at the same time the giant Chinese nation is trying to occupy a seat in the United Nations.

"Anyone can see we would be harmless in the U.N. Poor little old us can't even keep our own country in good shape, why would we be any trouble in the U.N.?"

This pious talk comes shortly after Red Chinese leader Chou En-lai has announced that his regime is willing to coexist peacefully with the United States, if the U.S. drops its opposition to a U.N. seat for Peking.

Chou "wishes to live together in peace with the peoples of all countries, including the United States of America."

The clank of respectability is being gathered about so quickly it threatens to pull out at the seams. It was only a few months ago that the top Chinese leaders were nagging Khrushchev that he was too easy on the West, the communism's march to victory was dragging under his leadership.

Then Chou's point of view was that only war could solve the differences of the Communist and noncommunist world.

Does anyone still doubt that a basic tenet of the Red dogma is "any means to the end?"

Specious Speculation

You have to look on the bright side. Maybe Russia's exploding of four medium size atomic bombs in one week means she is destroying her nuclear stockpile.

Then again, maybe it's just a fall clearance sale to make room for heavier merchandise.

The Man About Town

Queer and Quaint

Mother Nature Is Showing Us Some Peculiar Actions

Self made man: Often one who, in the making, got the head rather large.

A potato brought in by O. C. Goedert of Milford had grown around the ring on a metal harness snap which it had almost completely enveloped in its darkened efforts to grow.

A tomato that weighs three pounds was grown in the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Calhoun of Ortonville, and is scheduled to be exhibited at a local store.

On his lot on East Walton Blvd. L. C. Barner of 32 Hudson St. has grown a pumpkin that weighs 60 pounds. It measures 58 inches in circumference.

An Easter lily blossom from the garden of

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Jordan of Clarkson is fully as large and beautiful as any blooming indoors at Easter time.

The sunflower champion seems to rest with

August Willoughby of Drayton Plains, who had to get an extension ladder to measure the tallest—a trifling over 17 feet.

"You say a lot about peaches but hardly mention plums," phones

Mrs. Dorothy Perin of Rochester, who says a limb in her yard, "no larger than your little finger," bore 55 plums that weighed a total of five pounds.

A cucumber grown in the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Aden Mansford of Drayton Plains is 30 inches long, 15 inches round and weighs 12 pounds, and Mrs. Mansford asserts is so large that, what to do with it, is a big pickle.

Largest potato reported to date was grown by Bryce Allean of Lake Orion. It weighs a trifling over two pounds, and is all one tuber, not a regular sized spud with a bunch of suckers.

Several well intentioned housewives are endeavoring to arouse the hatred for elderberry pie which we expressed a few years ago, and

Mrs. John G. Sutphin of Oxford challenges us to "smother our big mouth" in one of her baked. Thanks, Mrs. Sutphin, but I've learned to like elderberry pie, just as I have spinach, the latter on my doctor's orders.

An interesting observation comes from

Max Johnson, employed on one of the gigantic earth moving machines on the new T. Freeway. He says, "We call 'em ground hogs."

In the gardening line, most everybody will agree with

I Was Hit by a Mirage

David Lawrence Says:

U.N. Adopts a Double Standard

WASHINGTON—Notwithstanding the eloquent speeches and the big fanfare in the United Nations every now and then about human rights, the organization is rapidly losing the respect of mankind because of its refusal to take any action in the case of Cuba.

Much plous talk, moreover, has been heard at the U.N. General Assembly about the rights of man and the humane considerations that should guide member states in handling their governmental affairs. But it is a paradox that no such guidance has been attempted in the case of Fidel Castro.

Perhaps it is because behind Castro stands the Soviet Union, and there is timidity about offending Moscow. Many of the African nations are among the "non-aligned" group.

It's strange how quickly they line up if there's a riot in the streets of a South African town but say nothing by way of protest when day after day human beings are placed before firing squads in Havana and shot to death.

Why is such cruelty ignored? These episodes are taking place just 90 miles away from the United States. Once upon a time, when Spain's military executors were engaged in killing Cuban patriots, the United States intervened and helped Cuba to win her independence.

Today, there is instead a blind indifference to the cruelties of the Cuban dictator not only by the United States government but by virtually all the other nations that call themselves humane and which make high-sounding speeches extolling the United Nations as an exponent of human rights.

Capillary Blood Vessels? Refer It to the Marines

When the physiologist, Samson Wright, M.D., F.R.C.S., pre-eminent in his field, states ("Applied Physiology," Oxford University Press) that "calcium diminishes permeability of capillary endothelium," I can't follow him. I know what endothelium is. It is the tissue, composed of a single layer of flat cells, lining the abdominal or peritoneal cavity, the thoracic or chest cavity, the joints, the blood vessels and the heart and pericardium (the sac surrounding the heart).

Capillary vessels are hypothetical tubes or pipes, too small to be visible to the naked eye, which convey blood from the smallest visible arteries to the smallest visible veins.

The old timers, Dr. BRADY compared up capillaries, microscopic vessels having walls composed of a single layer of endothelial cells, a gossamer network traversing or permeating all the tissues and organs.

No one has seen under the microscope an isolated capillary vessel. If anyone ever does, I hope he or she will hold it there until I can see it too. Otherwise I won't believe it.

When the blood has passed through the ultimate microscopically visible arteries it is too coarse or seeps through the tissue or organ, between or around the cells, which absorb the oxygen and nutrient they require for growth, repair and function. Work and pour into the blood the carbon dioxide and other by-products of metabolism, which the blood carries back through the venicles (smallest visible veins) and larger veins to the heart and lungs, liver, kidneys and intestine.

It is understandable that the arteries, particularly the finest or ultimate branches called arterioles, dilate and contract. That's what their muscle coat is for — involuntary muscle, like the muscle coat of the stomach and intestine. But when you ask me to assume that gossamer tubes composed of nothing but endothelium contract or dilate I must refer you to the Marines.

What makes them so sure it doesn't contain many trace minerals like Dr. Crane says? C. M.

After taking it for three or four months I noticed I was quite improved and now after taking it for nearly a year I am almost well.

However, the "authorities" say it is not off the market here. The fact remains that it helped me.

This Idea Might Interest Leaders in Washington

The government should pay the railroads for not shipping the corn that the farmers are being paid for not raising. And we might consider paying the railroads for not selling it. Then maybe I can get a small allowance for not eating it, and the garbage man can get something for not carrying away the cobs.

'Crane Is Correct About Sea Water'

Some time ago Dr. Crane said in his column that drinking concentrated sea water was good for arthritis as the sea water was full of minerals which we were liable to be deficient in.

It sounded reasonable to me and certainly would not be harmful so I tried it.

After taking it for three or four months I noticed I was quite improved and now after taking it for nearly a year I am almost well.

However, the "authorities" say it is not off the market here. The fact remains that it helped me.

Has Different Views on Work Laws, Now

I have read many articles about "Right to Work" laws and laws curbing labor leaders' activities and policies. I was opposed to such laws until I honestly viewed this past GM strike.

We have helped create a monster and are through our own spats helping it survive and grow.

This recent strike demonstrated that we need legislation to control this so-called "champion" of the workman.

Mr. Reuther was loudly protesting for the benefit of The Press that the SUB payments are inadequate for the workman to live. Yet, he pays the workers $35 a week and further you have to put in a waiting week to receive this money that you and I paid out of our pay checks for such an emergency.

It is time that we, the exploited working class, rise to the situation and ask for legislation to put control of the union back in the dues paying members' hands.

One course of action seems clear, the election of all international representatives and the International executive board should be carried out by secret ballot through all locals and all votes counted by a CPA to insure honest elections.

Only then will we have an honest democratic union run by the people who pay the ticket.

Girl on Errand for Dad Is Slain

7-Year-Old Attacked, Killed in Field a Few Blocks From House

ELMHURST, Ill. (AP)—A 7-year-old girl, riding a bicycle on an errand for her father, was brutally slain in a weedy field a few blocks from her home Wednesday.

Sheriff's officials said the blue-eyed, blonde-haired girl, Yvonne Elliott, had been dragged from her bicycle, bound and gagged, sexually molested and apparently strangled.

The child's nude body, with her hands tied behind her back with a rolled rag and with another rag stuffed in her mouth, was found by her father, Edward Elliott, 27, a machine setter. The slayer had taken the girl's long-sleeved red shirt and knotted it tightly around her throat.

WAS STILL ALIVE

"It's terrible," cried Elliott, who had sent Yvonne to a store five blocks from their home to get him some cigarettes. "It was still light outside. I thought nothing of it. My God, this is awful."

When Yvonne had not returned from the store an hour after she left home, Elliott told deputies he walked down the street and found her bicycle alongside a field of tall weeds. He ran home and telephoned his wife, Loreta, 24, who was at work. Then he and a neighbor set out with flashlights to search the field.

ARRIVED SAME TIME

Elliott said his wife arrived at the field just as he came upon his daughter's body. Loreta, 24, The Elliotts, who moved here three years ago from Clinton, Ark., have three children, Beverly, 6; Ricky, 5, and Judy, 1.

Woman Burned by Coffee Wins $375,000 Suit

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A jury has awarded $375,000 to a woman who claimed her throat was burned by restaurant coffee containing cleaning fluid.

The verdict was handed down in Allegheny County Common Pleas Court Wednesday in favor of Dorothy Fritz, 43, of New Kensington. It was one of the biggest awards ever made in the court.

Mrs. Fritz said she drank the coffee June 1957, in a restaurant operated by the Isaly Dairy Co. A chemist and five doctors testified tests showed the coffee contained trisodium phosphate which is used to clean coffee urns.

In her suit, Mrs. Fritz claimed she was hospitalized nine times over a four-year period.

Frank Palms Book Dead; From Old Detroit Family

The Book estate, which Book helped direct, built and operated the Book Building and the former Book-Cadillac Hotel, now the Sheraton-Cadillac.

Cubans Will Recall Man in Philippines

HAVANA (AP)—The Cuban government agreed Wednesday night to recall its charge d'affaires in the Philippines but rejected charges leveled by the envoy operated a Communist propaganda center.

Philippine President Carlos P. Garcia demanded the recall of the diplomat, Andres Arino Salar, last Monday. The action came after Arino's assistant, Jorge Freire Gonzalez, defected and accused Arino.

Gonzalez sought asylum after he had been ordered to return to Havana. He charged the embassy had been converted "into a center of pro-Communist and subversive propaganda."

KNIGHT AND 'WITNESSES' — Former California Gov. Goodwin J. Knight (left) presents his wife and Paul Mason, former state motor vehicle department director, to a Los Angeles press conference Wednesday at which he asserted they overheard J. Howard Edgerton offer him a choice of state jobs if he would abandon plans to run for governor. Edgerton was acting as a representative of former Vice President Richard Nixon when he made the offer by telephone last month, Knight said. Nixon, also a candidate for governor, has called Knight's charges false and libelous.

Takes 60 Years for Government to Check Project

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP)—After more than 60 years, the federal government has decided to check up on the status of a building project it authorized.

City officials received a letter from the Army Corps of Engineers Wednesday, asking whether that new wharf on the Chattahoochee River had ever been completed.

"I am happy to report that the work has been done," said Mayor R. Ed Johnson. "In fact it was finished in 1899."

The Engineers said they want to close their files on a permit which was issued to the city by Elihu Root, President William McKinley's secretary of war.

Cotton growers in North Carolina estimated their 1951 boll weevil loss at about $25 million, one of the worst years in the state, both for the growers and the processors in the area where he lives.

Finds Young Girls Think Large Families Fashionable

American Birth Rate Gives Writer Claustrophobia

By PHYLIS BATTLETT
NEW YORK — When I was little-girl-dreaming-age back in Ohio, it was fashionable for little-girl dreamers to say they wanted to be married and have two children. One boy. One girl. These were depression days, and even youngsters had small demands.

Today's little girls think big. They boast merrily that they will have four children, or six. And since they marry often before they have put away childish dreams, they are going about having the considerable quantities of babies they stipulated that they wanted.

After all, times are good. If young papa can't swing the finances, papa's papa will help out. Nobody except an arch-cynic like Philip Wylie would openly condemn tender young motherhood.

But what will happen to this ever-growing populace of American infants? I have been reading statistics. And in behalf of these children, and of all of us, I have developed a severe case of claustrophobia, not to mention vicious hunger pains.

In less than 15 years, at our present rate of growth, we all possibly will be cut down to about half the land we now circulate about on.

The world population total, less than 3 billion today, will be 3.9 billion by 1975—and, we not only will have to make room for the newcomers—we will have to help support them with our taxes.

Forty years from now, there will be twice as many people in the United States as there are today. Barring, of course, devastating acts of man or God. Today's large families of infants may find their middle age fraught with competition for space, salary, food.

In another 700 years (and who knows, medical science may allow 1961's infants to live and see it), the world will be so jammed that each human being would have exactly one square foot of space to himself.

Immense skyscrapers would have to circle the globe, if the world's people are to have room enough to lie down—in shifts, of course.

Highway traffic is bad enough now. Do not even think of its condition in the coming generation, or you will not be able to digest your dinner.

About that dinner . . . it seems incredible to many Americans that food ever could become scarce. Yet two-thirds of the world's speedily expanding population already is underfed.

Of course, U.S. optimists keep saying that if we teach our great agricultural technology to Asians and Africans, they should be able to feed their own; and of course, we can send the needy of the Far East our considerable farm surpluses.

TAKE ANOTHER LOOK

But this theory overlooks the fact that in the underdeveloped countries, farmland is scarce, and as for those surpluses we would donate, an agricultural expert has pointed out that: if our surpluses were divided equally among the world's needy today, they would amount to the equivalent of one cup of rice per person!

A medical journal, which listed these statistics, attributes the trouble to a combination of sociological, economic and medical progress. The sociological and economic "progress" have stimulated the birth rate to increase wildly, and the medical progress has kept the burgeoning population alive.

Since 1945, when antibiotics were introduced, almost all communicable diseases have dropped by 50 per cent. Diphtheria is down 52 per cent, scarlet fever, down 80 per cent, whooping cough, down 82 per cent, TB, down 78 per cent, syphilis, 71 per cent.

The upshot is that with increasing swiftness, in the lifetime of today's youngsters, the world will become more cramped, more hungry, more tense and pressured because of overpopulation.

It's already an old story to scientists and historians, but the message still hasn't gotten through to young parents who consider it fun and fashionable to have copious families.

Perhaps America's young mothers should be reminded that only in the realm of the couture clothing industry are the adjectives "fashionable" and "smart" considered synonymous.

Shakespeare at White House Cheered by Audience, Actors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Actors and audience hailed a historic performance of Shakespeare at the White House Wednesday night.

The unusual theatricals in the famous East Ballroom were ordered by President and Mrs. Kennedy in honor of visiting President Ferik Ibrahim Aboud of the Sudan.

Mrs. Kennedy, whose devotion to the arts is well publicized, told the players she thought it was "sacrilege" to have had to cut the immortal bard down to 30 minutes.

But, just getting Shakespeare back into the White House for a signation scene from "Trollius and Cressida," the 90 guests got a sampling of everything from gow to ribaldry. Other excerpts were from "Henry V," "As You Like It," and "The Tempest."

In the audience and called on by President Kennedy for a bow was the British actor, Sir Ralph Richardson. He has done a bit of Shakespearean acting himself and found Wednesday night's event most gratifying.

Kennedy jokingly suggested that when Richardson returns to England he tell his countrymen "there is an American author named Shakespeare who is worth playing over there."

Construction Up in Waterford

September Total Rises
More Than $500,000
Over August

Construction work in Waterford Township jumped more than one-half million dollars in September as compared to the previous month, and was almost $300,000 more than the same period last year.

The total for September was $1,234,285 as compared to August's $686,363 figure.

The largest single permit issued from the township building department was for the new Central Methodist church now under construction on Highland near Cass Lake roads. Cost of the building was $700,000.

There was a slight drop in the number of houses constructed this month and property owners had one-half as much remodeling or additions to their houses in September as in August.

For the first time a new type of building permit has been issued — for bomb and fallout shelters.

The first of five township residents to complete this project was Joseph Green of 4090 Cass-Ezra-beth Lake Road and township inspectors have approved the basement-shelter.

Waterford's building permit valuation, which has been rising steadily for the past ten years, now stands at $7,975,265 in 1961, as compared to last year's $5,985,304 figure.

Geologists Probe Foundations of Lake Superior

HOUGHTON, (UPD) — Lake Superior, the least explored and most remote of the Great Lakes, is being probed to its foundation by a team of geologists.

An "expedition" sent out by the Universities of Michigan and Minnesota aboard a former navy patrol vessel are drilling nine cores across the lake.

The deposits brought up are expected to provide a cross-section of the lake's history, from its ancient bedrock to more recent sedimentary layers.

The research is being supported by the two universities and the National Science Foundation.

School Aids Bills Professor to Outline Target for Convention

Extension of Education Acts Means $4 Million a Year to Michigan

LANSING (AP)—The presidential signature on two school aid bills means about $4 million a year to Michigan, the State Department of Public Instruction estimated today.

President Kennedy signed two measures.

One extends for two years the program of aid to school districts crowded with children of federal workers.

The other extends for a similar period the Defense Education Act, providing support to teaching of science, mathematics and foreign languages and also allowing grants to college students.

Michigan received about $1 million last year for aid to school districts with federal worker pupils.

RECEIVES $2.3 MILLION

The state received $2.3 million during the last fiscal year under the Defense Education Act. The largest part of this, about $1.5 million was spent in support of science, mathematics and foreign language programs.

Lynn M. Bartlett, state superintendent of public instruction, was among those going to Washington to plead for continuance of the two programs.

Michigan was one of the first of the states to make its educational program eligible for the money received under the aid to education act.

Valuable programs would have to be jinked if the aid were not continued, Bartlett argued.

Although Michigan receives a smaller amount under the aid allowed to compensate for educating children of federal workers, abandoning this program would have meant financial disaster for some school districts.

Hints Russians May Quit World Nuclear Agency

VIENNA (AP)—The chief Soviet delegate to the East-West International Atomic Energy Agency declared today he would advise the Soviet government to pull out of the atoms-for-peace organization.

Delegate Vasily Emelyanov said the reason was "lack of East-West cooperation." He claimed "the Western powers are pursuing a policy of dictating to other countries what to do in the agency."

Emelyanov made his statement to reporters.

"I do not know my government's intentions but there is a strong possibility that the Soviet Union will withdraw from the agency and give up its membership," he said.

New Turn Given to GOP Battle

Ex-Campaign Manager Charges Knight Tried to Buy Off Nixon

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The question of who tried to keep whom out of the 1962 California Republican governorship race took a new turn today.

Robert Finch, former campaign manager for Richard M. Nixon said Goodwin J. Knight tried to deal Nixon out of the contest.

This new claim is that Knight proposed, if elected governor, to swing the 1964 California Republican presidential delegation to Nixon if the former vice president would stay out of the gubernatorial race.

COUNTER CHARGES

Knight, on the other hand, declared Wednesday that an emissary of Nixon tried to lure him, Knight, out of the governorship by promising, in return, virtually any state political appointive office he wanted.

Finch said that Knight offered the delegation deal last August but that Nixon told him it was too early to talk about the 1964 presidential race.

When Knight announced his gubernatorial candidacy Sept. 11 he said that, if elected and Nixon desired, he would head a presidential delegation for Nixon in 1964. But his statement then did not include any reference to Nixon staying out of the governorship race.

Knight denied to newsmen that he had proposed the deal for Nixon to stay out.

To Attend Trade Fair

Rocky Sending Dairy Call to Gov. Swainson

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is sending a dairy call to Michigan's Gov. John Swainson to fill a promise that he would do so if "Roger Maris breaks Babe Ruth's home-run record."

Rockefeller thus seems to be siding with those baseball fans who argue that the New York Yankee player's 61 homers in 162 games this season surpasses Babe's 60 in 154 games.

The call was a home Rockefeller offered when he and Swainson bet on the outcome of the American League pennant race. Rockefeller chose the Yankees over the Detroit Tigers and won a bushel of apples from Swainson.

Wit James Thurber in Critical Condition

NEW YORK (UPI)—Humorist James G. Thurber was reported in critical condition today following emergency brain surgery Wednesday night.

Thurber, 66 and blind, was admitted to Doctors Hospital Wednesday and was wheeled into the operating room by nightfall.

He had attended the opening night of Noel Coward's Broadway musical "Sail Away" Tuesday, and appearing in good spirits, made a brief speech early Wednesday morning at a party for the cast.

Associated mainly with the New Yorker magazine, Thurber acted in his own last Broadway play, "A Thurber Carnival," a review of his drawings and humorous stories. He had a 12-minute part in which he dictated letters of monumental absurdity trying to straighten out his business and personal affairs.

Rocket Meeting Barred to Reds

U. S. Takes Measure Because Americans Are Banned in Russia

WASHINGTON (U) — Russian space scientists will not be allowed to attend next week's American Rocket Society meeting in New York because the Reds have not permitted Americans to go to a similar meeting in Russia, the State Department said Wednesday.

The U.S. retaliation will prevent 11 Soviet scientists now in Washington from going to the New York meeting.

In explaining its action, the State Department said the Russian scientists were allowed to come to the International Astronautical Federation annual meeting now under way here because this is a qualification affair.

U.S. officials have long sought unsuccessfully to get the Soviets to admit American visitors with freedom matching that accorded Russians coming to the United States.

In imposing reciprocal barriers, the State Department hopes eventually to persuade the Russians to ease their bars against Americans. Press Officer Joseph W. Reap said about the scientists:

"The Soviet government was officially informed last May, and has been reminded several times since, that the attendance of a Soviet delegation at the American Rocket Society Oct. 9-14 meeting in New York depended on the Soviet government's agreeing to grant approval for an American delegation to attend a comparable meeting in the U.S.S.R."

Father of 9 Killed by Gravel Crusher

DEWITT (AP)—A construction worker, the father of nine children, was killed near DeWitt Wednesday when the drive shaft of a gravel crusher struck him in the chest. Ingham County Coroner Dorwin Hoffmeyer identified the victim as Thomas Leach, 45, of Millersburg, Presque Isle County. Leach was repairing the gravel crusher when it suddenly went into gear, the coroner said.

Leach was employed by the Gilliland Construction Co. of DeWitt. He was working on a U.S. 16 bypass project west of DeWitt in Clinton County. Leach was dead on arrival at the St. Lawrence Hospital in Lansing. He leaves a widow and nine children.

Layers Guard Missile Re-Entry Into Atmosphere

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (U) — Thin layers of reinforced plastic and ceramic materials protect Atlas and Titan missile nose cones from the 13,000-degree heat which sears them when they plunge back through the earth's atmosphere after soaring more than 700 miles high.

The nose cones slam into the so-called heat barrier of the atmosphere at a speed of nearly 18,000 miles an hour. As the blistering heat increases in intensity, the layers of plastic and ceramic melt away one at a time, carrying the heat with them.

Without this protection, the cones, which weigh more than a ton, would burn to a crisp — making delivery of a nuclear warhead impossible, if the rockets were launched in wartime.

Stars Moan Over Children Following in Their Footsteps

By DON THOMAS
AF Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD—Maureen O'Hara met Danny Thomas recently in the corridors of St. John's Hospital. "Why did we let them do it?" wailed Danny. The reason for his lament: both his daughter, Mario, and Maureen's daughter, Bronwyn, are making their debuts in show business.

Reported Maureen: "Danny got so worked up about it that the nuns had to come out and shoo him."

She herself is disappointed but resigned to Bronwyn's decision. "Ah, me!" Maureen sighed. "Where have I failed?"

"Knowing the heartbreaks, the pitfalls, the dangers of the acting life, a mother naturally wants to shield her daughter from them. I've done everything I could to discourage Bronwyn. Now all I can do is hope that I have given her the strength to withstand the heartbreaks, the pitfalls, the dangers."

KNOWS HER MIND

Bronwyn seems able to handle them. At 17 she is a strong-minded, determined, Auburn-haired version of her thin-faced mother. She knows what she wants. "To be an actress," she declared at her Bel-Air home. "Not for the glamor of it; that never appealed to me. I want to act in things that require some depth and understanding, not just anything. I won't stay in acting unless I can do that."

She is starting modestly. Her first professional role is as a sorority girl in a "Bachelor Father" sequence over ABC next week.

"I would have had the bigger role in the story except for one thing," Bronwyn said. "I can't really complain about the reason: the producer said I couldn't play a witch."

Her billing: Bronwyn Fitzgerald-Simon.

She explained that Bronwyn means "lovely white breast of a dove" and Fitzgerald is an old form denoting "illegitimate" son of Simon. "Makes quite a story," Bronwyn declined to use the name O'Hara. "I won't trade on my mother's name," she said. "If I make it, I'm going to make it on my own."

For Great Book Groups

Open Registration in Area

Registrations now are being accepted for the Great Books Discussion Groups which start Tuesday in four area communities, according to Mrs. James D. Worley, program coordinator.

The reading and discussion courses, which require no special educational background, will be held in Oxford, Lake Orion, Clarkston and Waterford Township.

The Great Books Discussion Groups will meet every other week for two-hour sessions. World problems will be discussed and the works of history's greatest philosophers and writers will be studied.

Memberships in these classes is open to all adults in the area and there is no tuition fee.

QUALIFIED LEADERS

Moderators of the discussion groups all have completed authorized leadership guidance courses under the auspices of the Great Books Foundation, Mrs. Worley said.

"The function of the leaders—or moderators—is to keep the discussion alive, yet under control, and to ask questions which bring out the ideas in the text to make the discussions stimulating to all participants," she explained.

The participants, not the leaders, supply the answers, making it necessary for each person in the course to "think for himself," she said.

Mrs. Worley said persons interested in joining the discussion groups may do so by contacting her at 2433 Ferncliff St., Royal Oak.

Further information may be obtained by notifying the following libraries: Mrs. Lillian Crawford, Oxford Township Public Library, 3 Meacham St., Oxford; and Mrs. Kenneth Valentine, Waterford Township Public Library, Community Activities Building, Waterford Township.

Others are Mrs. Phillip Smith, Independence Township Public Library, 88 N. Main St., Clarkston; and Mrs. Lillian English, Orion Township Public Library, 5 Lapeer St., Lake Orion.

NEWS OF THE AREA

Man Held in the Slaying of Alleged Dope Peddler

ROYAL OAK TOWNSHIP — An Escorpe man, charged with first-degree murder in the slaying of an alleged dope peddler here March 16, was being held today in the Oakland County Jail.

Michael A. Overell, 24, waived examination yesterday in his arraignment before Royal Oak Township Justice of the Peace Lomita C. Cash.

Overell, who is accused of the March slaying of Richard White, 36, of 26083 Westview St., was arraigned here following his extradition from Ohio.

He will appear Monday for arraignment in Oakland County Circuit Court.

Overell was arrested Tuesday in the Cleveland suburb of Lakewood, Ohio, for shoplifting and assault. A warrant was issued Oct. 19 for his arrest on the murder charge and he was returned here yesterday by State police detectives after waiving extradition proceedings.

According to township police, White was awakened from sleep about 1 a.m. on the day he was murdered by the ringing of his doorbell. White's wife Marie said he went to the door.

Mrs. White told police she heard voices and then two shots. She went to the door and found her husband on the floor groaning, a bullet hole in his neck. He was dead when police arrived.

Mrs. White told police she saw two men pour their car which was parked in front of the house after the shooting. Traces of heroin were found at the door and two capsules were discovered where the car had been parked.

Action Delayed on Zoning Law

Move Would Change One Stretch of Property in W. Bloomfield Twp.

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A proposal amending to the zoning ordinance that would provide for multiple dwellings in one section of the township was tabled last night when it was learned there was an omission in the parcel description.

The amendment proposal which will be returned to the planning commission Tuesday for correction, would rezone a stretch of Woodward Wilson Street from commercial to multiple housing.

The multiple dwelling amendment would only apply to this area in the Sylvan Manor subdivision and does not include the entire block, according to Supervisor John C. Reharr.

The zoning amendment will be up for consideration again by the township board at its Oct. 18 meeting. At that time a date for a public hearing would be scheduled if the reclassification meets with the approval of the board.

The township board, in another action, agreed to assist the Cass Lake Park subdivision association, to the extent of $500 in surveying and determining the ownership of a parcel of property on Rosedale Street.

Half of the property has been blocked off, according to Reharr, and prevents easy access to the lake.

Injured was Linwood E. Havens, of 3811 Genesee Road who was alone in his car at the time of the accident. Nurses at the hospital said he apparently suffered only cuts and bruises.

Lapeer County Undersheriff Carter Scramlin said Havens lost control of his car on Genesee Road, just west of Maple Road, at about 11:30 p.m.

Havens' car went off the right side of the road, skidded nearly 300 feet and tumbled into a ditch where it hit the culvert.

127 Watch 144 Go Through 2nd Organization Session

LANSING (P)—Delegates to Michigan's constitutional convention outnumbered spectators 144 to 127 as the convention swung through its second organizing session in Lansing's Civic Center.

There were exactly 90 spectators in the 181 public seats within Constitution Hall itself.

There were 14 seated in the hall's plush lobby watching what was happening via closed circuit television, and there were 23 looking through two plate glass windows at the back of the hall and listening via loudspeaker to what was going on.

As an opening day, when fewer than 2,000 turned out in the civic center's 4,000-seat main auditorium, there were empty seats everywhere—except in the delegates' area. Member attendance again was 100 per cent.

Where did the 90 who watched from the little 181-seat Constitution Hall gallery come from? A rundown on aisle seats on one side found:

A representative of real estate interests, a secretary from AFL-CIO state headquarters who came to see labor attorney Tom Downs of Detroit sworn in as a convention vice president; Howard Stoddard, Lansing banker and chairman of the convention preparatory commission; wife of delegate Francis Finch, R-Mattawan.

Also a Michigan State University student taking notes for his political science studies; a member of the executive board of the Lansing County Young Republicans Club; a housewife, who explained, "I've been interested in politics all my life;" a candidate for sergeant at arms of the convention, a housewife who ran for convention delegate but lost; a representative of the Citizens Research Council of Michigan, a member of the convention's staff, and a consulting engineer.

Set Bid Opening for School Work

BRANDON DISTRICT BOARD to Add 11 Classrooms to High School

ORTONVILLE — Contractors' bids for major construction and renovation projects in the Brandon District will be opened at a board of education meeting here Nov. 1.

A $205,000 bond issue to finance the projects was approved by school district voters in the June 12 election. The State Municipal Finance Commission last week authorized the sale of the bonds.

The 11-classroom addition at the high school will replace the present Brandon Junior High School building on Cedar Street between 7th and 8th graders now are attending classes.

The 15-year-old Junior High school building will be sold or torn down when the new facilities are completed.

The school board has hired Ward Holmes Co. of Lansing for architectural work in connection with the building program.

To Assist Church in New Fund-Drive

ROCHESTER — Rev. Gordon Morrish of Philadelphia will be here for the next two weeks to head the annual fund raising crusade St. Paul's Methodist Church.

Rev. Mr. Morrish is an ordained Methodist minister and member of the department of field service and finance of the Methodist Church.

During the past eight years, he has assisted 131 different churches in their fund raising programs. The local church has a financial goal of $110,000 for the coming year.

Speaker at the sessions will be Rev. Alfred Eddy of Oxford.

Rev. Mr. Eddy began his ministry in the Methodist Church in 1924, and now, although retired, he still remains active filling the pulpits of vacationing Methodist ministers and those of other denominations.

The three services are open to the public and will be held at 7:30 each night and at 11:15 a.m. Sunday.

Elmwood Church recently purchased 7 acres as a future church site at 2700 Crooks Road and will conduct a building fund campaign during the last two weeks in October.

Rev. Charles Swafford from the National Board of Missions of the Methodist Church will conduct the crusade.

Commission Hopefuls Must File This Week

ORCHARD LAKE — Candidates seeking the two expiring Village Commission posts in the Nov. 7 election here must file their non-nominate petitions by 4 p.m. Saturday.

The commissioners whose terms are expiring are Charles Neuman and John C. Hall. The new terms are for three years.

Monday is the deadline for voter registration.

NEW VILLAGE HALL — Wolverine Lake officials began conducting village business this week in the new $11,000 village hall at 45 Glenary Road. The site was donated by the State Conservation Department. Funds to build the office-garage had been set aside in the budget for several years and no additional taxes were needed for its construction. Future plans call for an addition to house offices only and conversion of the new building vehicle maintenance garage. Office space has been provided in the new hall for the police department.

JFK OKs Regulating Mexican Farm Help

WASHINGTON (P) — President Kennedy yesterday signed a bill regulating the recruiting of farm workers from Mexico, but said the measure does not include provisions "which I believe necessary to protect domestic farm workers."

The President said studies clearly show that the Mexican labor program "is adversely affecting the wages, working conditions and employment opportunities of our own agricultural workers, large numbers of whom are unemployed or underemployed."

Congress ignored a number of significant recommendations made by Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg intended to set stricter standards for the importation of workers and provide safeguards for U.S. farm labor.

In explaining why he signed the bill into law, Kennedy said he is aware that some Mexican workers still will be needed next year in some areas, and went on: "I am also aware of the serious impact in Mexico if many thousands of workers employed in this country were suddenly deprived of this much-needed employment."

"These considerations impel me to sign (the bill) despite its shortcomings," he said.

ASSURES STANDARDS

Kennedy said Goldberg has assured him that every lawful stand will be used to prescribe standards for the recruitment of Mexican workers and protect the wages and working conditions of U.S. farm employees.

The bill Kennedy signed into law extends until Dec. 31, 1963, an act first passed in 1951. It also wove several restrictions into the program.

Under agreement with Mexico authorized by the law, 35,000 workers from that country entered the United States to do farm work last year.

The new extension measure contains these provisions:

1. A ban on importing the workers unless reasonable efforts have been made to attract U.S. employees at working conditions comparable to those for Mexicans.
2. A requirement that the Mexicans be used only for temporary or seasonal employment.
3. A stipulation that the imported workers cannot be used to operate power-driven, self-propelled harvest, planting or cultivating machinery.

The agreement with Mexico under the act provides various protections for the imported workers including a 50 cents an hour minimum wage.

Kellogg Center to Be Site of Conference on News

EAST LANSING (UPI) — Michigan State University's department of information services and school of journalism will sponsor the MSU newspaper editorial conference at Kellogg Center Saturday, editor's day at the university.

The two-day meeting, followed by a luncheon, will be devoted to the topic of the constitutional convention which opened this week.

To Dedicate New Sanctuary

ROCHESTER — Special services and an organ recital will be held here Sunday to mark the dedication of the new First Congregational Church of Rochester.

Guest speaker will be Rev. Samuel Oliver of East Lansing, interim superintendent of the Michigan Congregational Christian Conference. His sermon is entitled "The Good Shepherd."

Rev. Mr. Oliver will speak at services scheduled for 9:30 and 11 a.m. The services are to be conducted by Rev. Robert H. Jacobson, pastor.

Ole Forch, who formerly was associated with Wayne State University and a Detroit radio station, will be guest soloist at the organ recital from 8 to 9 p.m.

First services were held in the church July 30.

The focal point of the church's chapel is a stained glass window based on the theme of the Good Shepherd. The window was designed by Jacques Le Chevalier, dean of the School for Religious Art, Paris, France.

Traffic Toll at 1,119

LANSING (P) — Traffic accidents have claimed 1,119 lives in Michigan so far this year, provisional figures compiled by state police showed today. The total for the same date a year ago was 1,138.

RIGHT ON SCHEDULE — Rochester's project of expanding its sewage treatment plant to double its capacity is nearing the halfway mark toward completion due the middle of March. Workers are pictured here laying the brick for the walls of the blowers building which is one of the main phases of the $425,000 expansion program. The present plant is in the background. When finished, it is expected the facility at the east end of Third Street will serve village needs for the next 30 years. The O. W. Burke Co., Detroit, is general contractor.

Intraparty Feud at State Con-Con

Dem Hits Charge He's Soft on GOP

LANING (AP)—A top leader of the Democratic delegation at the constitutional convention hit back hard Wednesday at an intraparty charge they were being too soft on Republicans.

John Kelsey of Warren raised the issue at a Democratic caucus. He told fellow Democrats:

"I enjoy bipartisanship, but I dislike seeing prominent members of this group praising Republicans... saying such things as 'He hasn't got a dishonest bone in his body.'"

"We were elected as partisans. We have an election coming in 1962. We should refrain from getting into print with some of these statements."

Tom Downs, who had been elected only an hour earlier as the topranking Democrat of the convention — getting one of the three vice presidential spots — answered Kelsey.

Downs recalled that on Monday night Stephen S. Nisbet, then a Republican candidate for convention president, came before the Democrats to outline his views. He was elected president the following day.

ADMITS STATEMENT

Said Downs: "I did tell the caucus that Stephen Nisbet did not have a dishonest bone in his body. I also said he was not a new deal Democrat."

"We've got to face up to the situation that we are a minority party at this convention. (Republicans have 50 seats to the Democrats' 45). I've seen the situation in the legislature when we had 50 Democrats to 45 Republicans and we never got our fair share of committee appointments."

"The Republicans have given us a fair shake thus far in this convention."

He pointed out that in pre-convention talks between leaders of both parties at the convention, it was agreed Republicans would have a 2-1 edge on all committees and two vice presidencies to the Democrats' one.

"Let me say this," he added, "that any time I think that the Republicans or Steve Nisbet are wrong, I will oppose them."

CASSINO RISES AGAIN — This is a partial view of the reconstructed Italian town of Cassino north of Naples. At left are the ruins of old Cassino, completely destroyed in violent fighting between the Allies and the Germans after the Allied landings at Salerno in September 1943. The photo was made from famed Monte Cassino Monastery located on a plateau overlooking the area. The monastery and its library also were destroyed in the fighting but have since been rebuilt.

Dad Signs Contract

Family Car School Bus

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A father has signed as a common carrier, for $1.30, to transport his two daughters to a private school in the family Cadillac.

The Glenshire Central School District announced Wednesday that Walter F. Wessendorf Jr., a lawyer, had signed the controversial contract. It now goes to the State Education Department for expected approval.

LOWER BIDDER

Wessendorf was the lower of two bidders on a contract to take daughters, Marcia, 7, and Charly, 5, from their home in suburban Westmore to Albany Academy of Girls, a one-way trip of slightly less than eight miles.

Under the contract, Wessendorf will be paid $130 a month for 10 or more here.

months. The district said that he would be paid retroactively for last month, when the state approved the contract.

State law requires school districts to provide transportation for pupils of nonpublic schools within a 10-mile area of the pupils' homes.

To meet the requirements of school transportation, Wessendorf obtained licenses from the Public Service Commission for his two 1959 Cadillacs.

Says JFK to Get Bad News on Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Andrew F. Schoepel, R-Kan., predicted today that President Kennedy will get some disappointing political news about his program in a 10-city series of regional conferences next month.

Schoepel, a member of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said in an interview he believes that teams of cabinet members and other officials sent to discuss domestic issues with local representatives will find many Kennedy proposals unpopular with the people.

"The people are going to be telling their senators and House members what they think about these programs," Schoepel said. "I think they will have more confidence in their elected representatives than in any political promises these teams make."

Kennedy announced Wednesday that meetings will be held in Chicago, St. Louis, Houston, Nashville, Detroit, Cleveland, New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco and Los Angeles beginning Nov. 7, to discuss four broad topics with civic, local and state officials.

Unnoticed Kennedy Prays at Cathedral

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unnoticed by other worshippers, President Kennedy knelt in prayer at the back of St. Matthew's Cathedral.

He had slipped out of the White House for 20 minutes to join in Wednesday's day of prayer on the half of peace and freedom which he had proclaimed.

mayors, Kennedy said the topics to be covered will include full employment and economic growth, opportunities for youth, opportunities for senior citizens and opportunities for the nation's cities.

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said the administration is seeking "detailed information of the impact of legislation enacted in the last session of Congress in these areas."

Administration spokesmen had indicated clearly that efforts would be made to build up support for a general aid-to-education bill, for urban development, new ways of boosting employment and for medical care for the aged—all topics likely to highlight the next session of Congress.

Schoepel said he noted that no present effort is being made to sound out farmers on a new program to replace the one-year farm bill passed in the last session.

"If the administration gets around to this, I think it is going to find some widespread disappointment among the farmers for its failure to come up with a workable program after all of the promises that were made in the 1960 campaign," Schoepel said.

omit details The White House said another series of meetings will be scheduled soon in four or five additional cities at which other topics will be discussed. But it gave no other details.

Politicians generally regard the conferences as having been initiated by Kennedy in an attempt to broaden the base of support for his New Frontiers program, portions of which encountered rough handling from a conservative Republican-Southern Democratic coalition in the session which ended last month.

The White House said the conferences were requested by governors and mayors, but there were some clear indications that the prompting came from Kennedy. All of the states in which they will be held, except New York, have Democratic governors.

The retired field marshal said he did not see a single case of malnutrition during his three-week visit to the Chinese mainland but saw "bags of it" in Hong Kong, the British crown colony filled with Chinese refugees.

Montgomery, 73, told a news conference Western press reports that the Chinese are starving and are in trade with Communist China.

Viscount Montgomery Very Impressed

'Mao Tse-Tung Great Guy'

TORONTO (AP)—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery says Red China's Mao Tse-tung is a "great guy—an uncommon man in an age of common men."

The British World War II commander arrived in Canada Wednesday night from a visit to Red China where he met the Communist leader and received a red carpet reception.

Montgomery, 73, told a news conference Western press reports that the Chinese are starving and are in trade with Communist China.

Historian Calls Civil War 'Last Gentleman's War'

ANN ARBOR (UPI)—The Civil War was the "last gentleman's war," according to a noted historian, Prof. Harry Williams of Louisiana State University said in a series of lectures on the Civil War that no other war has brought so much fraternizing between the enemies.

Williams said there are many accounts of soldiers visiting back and forth across the lines. On one occasion, he said, during a lull in a battle, the boys in blue and gray went berrying together. Some times they joined in brief swins.

Knight Offers Proof of Job Offer From Financier

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Goodwin J. Knight has named Los Angeles financier J. Howard Edgerton as the man he says tried to lure him out of the 1962 governor's race.

Knight, California's governor from 1953-58, said Edgerton acted on behalf of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, now in a bitter struggle with Knight for the Republican's gubernatorial nomination. Nixon and Edgerton denied the accusation.

Knight's Charges

Knight, 64, told a nationally televised news conference on Wednesday that:

Nixon told Knight that Edgerton would contact him on Nixon's behalf, and that Edgerton later offered him, Knight, any state job he wanted—up to chief justice of California's Supreme Court—if he would withdraw.

Knight had made the charges before—but had not identified Edgerton until Wednesday's news conference. He also presented to newsmen his wife Virginia and Sacramento attorney Paul Mason, Knight's former state motor vehicle director. Both said they overheard the Sept. 8 telephone call when the alleged offer was made.

Telling the Truth

Mrs. Knight, 45, told newsmen: "My husband is telling the truth." Mason said Knight "was quite exactly what Edgerton said."

Knight gave this version of the sequence of events leading to the Sept. 8 phone call:

June 20, 1961—Knight met Nixon at a Los Angeles reception. Nixon said: "I still want to have a talk with you."

July 18 or 19—Edgerton phoned Knight, said Knight had asked Edgerton to talk with Knight about Knight's plans.

July 29—Knight and Nixon talked briefly. Nixon said: "You will be hearing from Howard Edgerton very soon."

Didn't Want to Run

Sometime later—Edgerton invited Knight to lunch with him Aug. 3. Edgerton told Knight that Nixon doesn't want to run. Knight repeated he'll run.

Aug. 7—Knight, Nixon and Edgerton met at Nixon's home. Nixon said he doesn't want to run for governor, believes Knight could be elected, says he will endorse him. Nixon said he'll communicate with Knight thereafter only through Edgerton.

Sept. 7—Edgerton tried to call Knight, who was in Sacramento, but could not reach him.

Sept. 8—Knight returned Edgerton's call, got alleged offer, signaled his wife and Mason to listen in on the phone conversation.

Edgerton, a former Knight supporter, acknowledged that Knight had called him from Sacramento Sept. 8. But as for offering any deal, he said in a public letter to Knight, "Goodie, this just simply is not the fact."

"Any statement that I made in the conversation was completely without Dick Nixon's knowledge and certainly without any authority."

"It was merely my personal effort to try and prevent another 1958 debacle in the party."

Is Campaign

Edgerton was referring to the 1958 Democratic electoral victory when Knight was persuaded to step aside as governor and let former Republican Sen. William F. Knowland run for that position. Knight ran for Knowland's Senate seat. Both lost badly. (Knight claims—and Nixon denies—that Nixon engineered the switch so he could have complete control of California's GOP organization. Knowland has claimed he was not a party to any backstage maneuvering and fully expected to contest Knight in the gubernatorial primary that year.)

Edgerton added in his letter to Knight:

"At no time up to the present moment have I ever asked you not to run for the governorship. I did caution you against doing anything prematurely and without getting the counsel and advice of some of your best and oldest political friends."

"I indicated I still felt Nixon was going to run. . . . I reiterated that Nixon would be hard to beat . . . and asked whether you had given any thought to an appointive job of any kind in the event you stayed out of the race."

Edgerton ended up as governor. Nixon reiterated the stupidity of a party standpoint of the two of you lambasting each other."

At the conference Wednesday, Knight said Edgerton had been his supporter until his 1958 defeat—and then had joined the Nixon camp. However, Knight told newsmen, he held no personal rancor against Edgerton for the switch.

In a statement following his public letter, Edgerton gave this version Wednesday:

July 21—He invited Knight to his office, the visit had "nothing to do" with Nixon; they had "a general chat about his (Knight's) political plans." Knight did not say he'd be a candidate.

About the end of July, Edgerton invited Howard Ahmanson, a Republican leader and Knight's hunch at his office. They again discussed "the general political situation"—and Nixon had "absolutely nothing to do, directly or indirectly," with this luncheon or the previous meeting.

Aug. 7—The meeting at Nixon's home was arranged by Edgerton at Knight's request.

Edgerton also stated: "I have never heard Mr. Nixon state that he was appointing me as an emissary to deal with Mr. Knight or anyone else, nor was I an emissary."

Nisbet Picks 3 Apostles to Share Con-Con Duties

LANSING — A conservative, moderate and a liberal will share duties as the three top assistants to President Stephen S. Nisbet at the constitutional convention.

Delegates chose an apostle for each political philosophy Wednesday when they elected three vice presidents for the convention.

Edward Hutchinson, Republican from Farmville, is the conservative. A lawyer and former state senator, he is recognized as an authority on the state constitution that the convention will rewrite.

George Romney, Republican from Bloomfield Hills, is the moderate. He is president of American Motors Corp. and chairman of the Citizens for Michigan Organization that spearheaded the drive for the convention.

Tom Downs, Democrat from Detroit, is the liberal. He is an attorney, a representative for the Michigan AFL-CIO and a member of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

The convention still trying its wings, has yet to define the duties and powers of its vice presidents. It was safely said, however, that the men picked for the jobs are all mentally sharp, familiar with the constitution, and highly regarded in their respective fields.

Hutchinson is a veteran of the capitol scene. Soft-spoken and not given to flamboyant oratory, he hardly fits the public image of a senator, which he was for 10 years after four years in the House of Representatives.

MR. REPUBLICAN
To a good many lawmakers, he was known as "Mr. Republican."

He is an acknowledged conservative.

For several years, Hutchinson was chairman of the powerful Senate Business Committee, which screens the governor's appointments. Colleagues frequently turned to him for an explanation or interpretation of one session or another of the state constitution.

Democrats found him reasonably cooperative, but when his determined jaw was set and his mind made up, he was a hard man to move.

Hutchinson was born 46 years ago in Farmville and lives there still. He grew up in a political atmosphere. As a boy, he was a page in the Senate, where his grandfather served for 18 years.

He had barely received his discharge papers in 1946 after five years of Army duty when he ran for the legislature. He won election seven times in a row, usually with only token opposition.

He tasted defeat for the first time last year when he quit the Senate and lost a bid for the GOP nomination for lieutenant governor.

RAN UNOPOSED
Romney, ebullient, nationally known industrialist, made his first active political filing when he ran unopposed for delegate to the constitutional convention from Oakland County.

He was mentioned frequently as a potential candidate for both governor and Senate last year, but flatly disavowed any interest in either and said he would decline either nomination.

Now 54, he became president in 1954 of the then fledgling American Motors Corp., born of the Hudson Motor Car Co. and Nash-Kelvinator Corp. To the surprise of many, he turned red ink into black by concentrating on compact cars. — Ramblers — and drove the company to a before-tax profit of $165 million last year.

Romney came to the convention from a bargaining table where his company had offered the industry's first profit-sharing plan for production workers. The United Auto Workers bought it quickly.

He is a leader of his church—the church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Mormon), and has long been prominent in Detroit Civic Affairs. He assumed the GOP label reluctantly, preferring to classify himself as a non-partisan citizen interested only in riding the state of what he considered an outdated constitution.

Tom Downs, 45, could easily be mistaken for a college professor, and he often thinks like one.

INTENSE THINKER

"Tom is intense, a thinker," said a friend. "When his mind is wrapped up on some problem, he can be a bit absent-minded."

"He's the academic, white-collar type of unionist rather than the two-fisted bargaining-table kind."

A lawyer and University of Michigan graduate, Downs is a Democrat of long standing. He was a friend of G. Mennen Williams before Williams was elected to the first of his six terms as governor and helped promote his early campaigns.

He is widely known in union circles. The AFL-CIO employs him as a specialist in government and legislative matters and in developing education programs for union members.

Williams named him to the Employment Security Commission, one of the more important appointive positions, and he was reelected by Gov. Swainson this year.

3 Planes Land at Lisbon With Engine Trouble

LISBON, Portugal (UPI)—Three World War II Flying Fortresses — all of them with engine trouble — limped into Portugal Wednesday night at the end of a harrowing transatlantic flight. Two of them nearly collided at sea.

As the three four-engine B-29s lumbered into Lisbon airport, one had two engines staggering, a second had one smoking and a third had one in flames.

It was a relieved group of crewmen and passengers who piled out of the three big bombers when they all made it down safely.

Corrects Error of $8,000 But Loses Purchase

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—When Helen Kirschner checked her purchases after leaving a department store she was astounded to find $8,000 in the sack instead of two tiny batteries she had bought.

Store officials were apologetic and grateful when she returned the bundle of cash just as they were locking up Tuesday night. A sales clerk had given Mrs. Kirschner the wrong sack—one containing the department's receipts for the day.

What with all the excitement, Mrs. Kirschner was all the way home before she remembered that her two batteries still were at the store.

In 1960, Sweden's exports rose by 12 per cent in volume and 16 per cent in value.

Education Council Ponders Big Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — College and university officials from across the nation gathered here today to ponder one stark fact of academic life and a host of problems.

The fact: College enrollment will increase by more than 1 million students in the next five years.

WHAT ARE ANSWERS?

The problems: Where are the professors to teach them? The dormitories to house them? The classrooms they need? The laboratories? And what of the thousands of young people who must be turned away?

The American Council on Education, representing 1,222 institutions and organizations, will face up to these questions and countless others in its annual two-day meeting.

The problems are not all in the field of numbers, the council president, Logan Wilson, told a news conference.

QUALITY NEEDED

"Quantity of education is not enough," said Wilson, formerly president of the University of Texas. "There is also a great need for higher quality. The public is asking for higher standards."

Wilson said there is a need for national standards of excellence in both higher education and in secondary schools — but these standards should be established on a voluntary basis.

Abraham Ribicoff, secretary of health, education and welfare, told council delegates the American people must demand the best in education for their children — and demand it from themselves.

OK There but Not Here

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Sen. Thurston Morton, R-Ky., former GOP national chairman, said Wednesday the Kennedy Administration is doing a good job on the Berlin issue but has "gone hog wild in spending" at home.

state and local agencies and the federal government.

'NOT IN FOCUS'

"I believe the American people want their children to receive an excellent education," he said. But he added, "the issue is not in sharp focus for the individual American father and mother."

Ribicoff said, in a prepared address: "When school districts or boards of education budgets are slashed, there is little righteous indignation heard from parents."

"When states do not meet their responsibilities to colleges and universities little is said. When urgently needed legislation is stalled in a congressional committee by a single vote, the public does not make its voice heard."

In the last congressional session, President Kennedy's federal aid program for public school construction and teachers' salaries failed to clear the House Rules Committee by a single vote.

To Run for Governor

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Burnet R. Maybank, 37-year-old son of the late Sen. Burnet R. Maybank Sr., D-S.C., announced Wednesday he will be a candidate for governor of South Carolina in the 1962 Democratic primary.

Two Men Convicted in Fraud Conspiracy

DETROIT (UPI) — Two Detroiters, who concocted a scheme to defraud newspapers by submitting forged counterfeit puzzles to cash contests, were free on bond today following their conviction in federal court.

The men, Walter Rex Johnson III, and Harry Balk, were found guilty Wednesday on all counts by a jury of six men and six women.

Johnson was charged with four counts of conspiracy in two indictments and Balk was found guilty of two counts in the second indictment.

Judge Thomas P. Thornton, who Tuesday dismissed charges against

Mrs. Ann Johnston — the wife of one of the defendants, deferred sentencing until completion of an investigation by the probation office. The charges against the woman were dropped because of insufficient evidence.

Long Dry Spell Hurting Citrus Crops in Florida

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Florida citrus has literally stopped growing in most areas of the state because of the record-breaking dry spell.

A 15-county survey on crop conditions by Florida Citrus Mutual was made public Wednesday.

Groves are being irrigated constantly where facilities are available.

Warren O. Johnson, head of the Lakeland Weather Bureau Station, said total rainfall this year is 30.19 inches. Normal is 60.54 inches.

Heat and rainfall in the early citrus season are primary factors in citrus size.

U. S. Diplomat Was Arrested for Espionage

Girl Testifies to Affair With Blackmailed Envoy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fish, secretary of the U.S. Embassy in Warsaw, Poland, testified today to continue unflinching the story of her love affair with a married American diplomat that led to his arrest on a charge of giving secret documents to Polish Red agents.

She told Wednesday how Polish police burst into her room on Koszykowa street in Warsaw last Dec. 22 and photographed her in bed and undressed with Irvin C. Scarbeck, 41, at that time second send her a fake telegram that her nonexistent brother was dying in a Frankfurt hospital. With this, Scarbeck arranged the hoax telegram and gave her a visa from Polish authorities.

The German, Frankfurt police official Friedrich Cordes, told how Scarbeck arranged the hoax telegram and gave her a visa from Polish authorities.

she lived with Scarbeck in his apartment there and that Scarbeck paid for a doctor to treat a serious illness she had. Scarbeck later returned to the United States and was arrested here June 13.

Scarbeck's wife, Karen, 37, by whom he has three children, said through Miss Diemer's testimony without visible emotion. She has said she's sticking by her husband.

During Cordes' testimony, Mrs. Scarbeck was allowed to sit at the defense table to help with the interpreting job. She is German-born and met Scarbeck while he was serving in Germany. They exchanged smiles and a few words as she joined him at the table.

Miss Diemer said when the police agents burst in on her and Scarbeck, they called her a prostitute and hauled her off to a police station. There they suggested, in the interpreter's words, that "as you are acquainted with an American who happens to be a diplomat, could you cooperate with us?"

The nature of the cooperation was not immediately brought out.

Kitty Hitches Auto Ride Without Even a Meow

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Low all Eberly left home at Knoxville early one morning to drive to work in Des Moines. When he got out of his car he heard a "Meow."

Out from under his car came the family cat, wet and muddy. It had made the 40-mile trip on the back springs, apparently unhurt.

Tourists Get Plane, Finally

88 Californians Wait 48 Hours for Return Flight From England

LONDON (UPI) — A chartered airliner arrived here today to pick up a weary band of California tourists who had been stranded for more than 48 hours at nearby Gatwick Airport.

"The flight will leave as soon as possible..." said an airport official. "It depends on how soon all the passengers report here."

The 88 Californians, members of the British-American Club of Los Angeles, had a charter agreement with the non-scheduled President Airlines to fly them back to the United States.

The airline, whose operations have been disrupted since one of its planes crashed in Ireland last month, announced Wednesday night that a plane was on the way to take the Californians home today.

However, they heard the same story earlier. At this point, as one traveler put it, "We'll believe the plane is on the way when we see it."

About 100 Irish-Americans from Chicago, stranded in Ireland for six days by the airline's operating difficulties, finally got a flight home Wednesday.

Revenues Increase at Mackinac Bridge

ST. IGNACE (AP)—Traffic was down but revenues were up at the Mackinac Bridge in September, Freddie M. Brown, bridge authority chairman, said Wednesday.

Brown said traffic was down 2.6 per cent over September 1960, but revenues were up 66 per cent.

He said 126,620 vehicles crossed the bridge in September to bring in revenues of $549,881, compared with 128,252 vehicles and $516,004 in September, 1960.

For the first nine months of this year, traffic totaled $94,819 vehicles and $3,615,374 in revenues compared with $93,332 and $3,638,166 for the first nine months of 1960.

4 Included for First Time in Business 'Who's Who'

Four prominent businessmen from the Birmingham-Ferdale area have been included for the first time in "World Who's Who in Commerce and Industry," according to Jackson Martindell, publisher of the new book.

Martindell is chairman of Marquis-Who's Who, Inc., which also publishes Who's Who in America. Those listed for the first time from this area include: David Mosher, 1187 Glenhurst Circle, Bloomfield Township; John D. Tebben, Pine Valley Farms, Haven Road, Dryden; Gay W. Yankee, 6115 W. Lincoln Road, Birmingham; and Dr. Vincent F. Holata, 13238 Kingston Road, Huntington Woods.

Meeker is employed with the sales department of Ford Tractor Division. Tebben, of John D. Tebben & Co., 975 S. Hunter in Birmingham, is a top management consultant, working with industry and over-all management of business. A golf pro at the Old Club on Hawans Island across from Algonquin where he built the club's golf course this year, Yankee owns Miracle Mile Golf Center, 2241 Franklin Road.

Dr. Holata is a chemist working with the Ethel Corporation, 1400 W. 8-Mile Road, Ferndale. According to Martindell, "Who's Who in America" editors have pre-arranged for this edition, and reported more than 8,000 new visits about 24,000 more. This is the first volume in the business biography series to emphasize worldwide coverage to top business leaders, but it is the twelfth in the series.

Record Offers Proof House More Efficient Than Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate was almost twice as talkative as the House during the congressional session which ended last week.

But despite all the talk—or perhaps because of it—fewer bills were introduced in the Senate and fewer bills were passed by the Senate. Also, fewer bills that were originated in the Senate were signed into law by President Kennedy, and fewer Senate-originated bills were vetoed.

Statistics compiled by the Congressional Record—the official record of the House and Senate happenings—showed that the Senate spent 1,005 hours in session during the 146 days it met this year.

The House met on 147 days, but remained in session only 503 hours and 43 minutes.

10 HOURS PER MAN

This boils down to a bit more than 10 hours average for each of the 100 senators and about 1 hour and 20 minutes for each of the 437 House members.

In maintaining its position as the nation's greatest deliberative body, the Senate used 12,753 pages of the Congressional Record to print its words and deeds compared with 7,480 pages for the House.

An appendix of 7,878 pages boosted the entire record for the session to a bulky 28,122 pages. This cost the taxpayers $2,390,370 at the $5-a-page rate House leaders say it costs to print the record.

A total of 14,026 bills and resolutions were introduced in the House and Senate between Jan. 3 and Sept. 26, when Congress adjourned. Of these 3,071 originated in the Senate and 10,955 in the House.

The Senate passed 1,133 bills and resolutions and the House 1,322. Through Sept. 26 President Kennedy had signed 591 of these into law and had vetoed 6 others—5 of which originated in the House and 1 in the Senate.

Many of the other bills failed to reach Kennedy's desk because they were passed by only one chamber.

'Disabled' X15 Spans Desert

Remove Stabilizer Fin, Fly Without Electronic Device on Purpose

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, CALIF. (AP)—An X15 rocket plane, deliberately disabled for test purposes, roared across the desert at 2,850 miles an hour Wednesday.

Air Force officials said the experimental ship went through its ordeal in fine shape.

The plane was flown with one of its four stabilizing fins removed and, at times, without the help of its automatic stabilization system, an electronic device that makes corrections faster than a human can think.

Maj. Robert Rushworth piloted the X15 during its 19-minute ride. The plane was dropped from a B52 bomber mother ship, reached a top altitude of 70,000 feet and landed in a dry lake bed. The X15 has gone 3,645 m.p.h. and 109,000 feet high.

About one million acres of land are converted each year in the U.S. to residential, commercial or industrial purposes, diminishing farm lands.

Syria Getting Back to Normal

New Rulers Making Promises of Better, Freer Life for People

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI) — Ancient and storied Syria began returning to normal today just a week after dissident army officers overthrew Egyptian rule and established an independent nation once again.

Still flinched with their almost bloodless victory, the new rulers of this once-occupied land came up with one promise after another of a better, freer life for its people.

The night time curfew has been lifted.

The revolutionary council promised discharged soldiers they would get their old jobs back.

Interior Minister Adnan al-Kuwatli Wednesday night advanced the time of general elections. He said they would be held in two or three months instead of four months as previously announced.

Al-Kuwatli, speaking over Damascus radio, also promised a 25 per cent profit-sharing plan.

He said a government "of the people for the people" would "erase all traces of the tyrannical, terrorist regime" of United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Only five nations have extended formal recognition to the new regime so far — Jordan, Turkey, Iran, Pakistan, Cuba and Guatemala — but the diplomatic lines are out for more support.

Expects Federal Employees Not to Duck Call-Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy expects federal employees to set an example and not try to duck active military service if called up from the reserves.

It was learned today that Kennedy has sent a memorandum to this effect to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. Copies went to the heads of all federal departments and agencies.

The memorandum declared the President's belief that in the present call-up of active service units "civilian government personnel who have voluntarily participated in and obtained benefits from those programs should promptly report when their organizations are recalled."

Such government workers, Kennedy said, should not be deterred unless absolutely essential to national security in their jobs.

Bus Driver Collapses but Boy Saves 35

WEST SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — A school bus driver collapsed at the wheel Wednesday but a 10-year-old boy saved 35 children aboard by pulling up the emergency brake.

The children, ranging in age from 6 to 11, were being driven home from King's Highway Elementary School.

The driver, Isaac Martin of West Springfield, slumped over the wheel as the bus approached Elm Street and King's Highway. He died before arrival at Providence Hospital, Holyoke.

The 10-year-old's identity was withheld at his parents' request.

'36 Atlantic Crossing Unforgettable

Dick Merrill's Flying Career Had Many High Points

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — It is difficult to pin down a particular highlight in the life of Dick Merrill, the dean of U.S. airline pilots who was given a consultant's desk by Eastern Air Lines this week. He flew from one plane to another, from rickety air-mail planes to 600-m.p.h. DC-8s, in flying the equivalent of 320 trips around the earth or 35 junkies to the moon.

But he won't forget his flight across the Atlantic with Harry Richman in "The Lady Peace."

"He was a pistol, that Harry," Merrill told us the other day. "Spent money like it was going out of style. One day he took me out to Floyd Bennett Field and showed me a Vultee he had just bought."

"I said, 'Harry, let's take that airplane and fly it to Europe. Then we'll get her up and fly her right back. It's never been done.' He thought I was a nut, I guess. But he was game, so we took it to the coast for some extra tanks."

"While we were there I ran into Sid Shannon one day and he said, 'Dick, what are you guys going to do about your flotation?' I said, 'Listen, if you're flying a single-engine plane across the ocean and you start worrying about flotation, well, you never should have started on the trip.'"

"But he had read a magazine piece which said the British used ping pong balls in the wings and fuselages of their old Handley-Page bombers. It seemed crazy, but Richman liked the idea. He bought 20,000—maybe 40,000—ping pong balls.

"They didn't play a game of ping pong on the coast for three years, at least. We spread them around the plane, everywhere there was space."

Merrill took the heavily loaded plane off from Floyd Bennett and 18 hours later set it, and its passenger and the ping pong balls, down at Croydon. It was September 1936.

COULDN'T GO BACK

"We should have turned right around and come back," Dick told us.

"But how could a couple of guys like us be that close to Paris and not drop in? Maurice Chevalier had us out three straight nights. What a ball! But it ended, finally, and now we had a little problem."

"To may it all the way home, I had to overload that airplane more than 100 per cent. Vultee said her take-off maximum load should be 8,000 pounds. We weighed 15,500.

"There was no strip long enough for the run we'd need, so we found a beach at Southport, near Liverpool. Mist had rolled two miles before it lifted. I thought the three would burn up. But they held."

"So now we're over the middle of the ocean and I see Richman listening to the weather reports. 'Why bother?' I yelled to him. 'We're going anyway, no matter what the guy says. Where else is there to go?'"

"Then the trouble. A dump valve busted loose, and we blew one whole tank of fuel. I switched on the auxiliary but there was no gauge to tell us how much—if any—thing was in it. So we just toiled along, expecting the engine to quit any second. But it kept running, and kept running, and a long time later I looked out groggily and there was this rocky coast. Newfoundland."

'A NOSE FINISH'

"I put her down in a peat bog, and she nosed over at the end of a nice smooth run. That was a tight one. A nose finish, you might say. I don't think I ever won a big bet by a nose, but I won that one."

Merrill won another in the woods near Fort Jervis, N.Y., one storm-tossed night in the '30s. "A fellow called me in Miami from New York, before I took off on that one and said bring him some stone crabs. Leave the stone crabs down here," I told him. "It's too rough for them to fly."

LAST FLIGHT — End of the line for Capt. Dick Merrill, noted Eastern Air Lines pilot, came Tuesday when he arrived in Miami from New York on his last flight before retirement: A group of 32 Eastern pilots, representing 218 million miles of flying, lined up to greet Merrill upon his arrival at Miami International Airport.

THERE'S SIDE BLOW! — An impromptu geyser was created from the 66-inch main line from Quennahoning Dam to Bethlehem Steel's plant at Johnstown, Pa., when it broke Wednesday under a street. Sections of the plant were closed because of the lack of water. The gusher not only threw water more than 100 feet into the air but also carried with it stones and rocks, some of them bigger than a man's fist.

Georgia Hamlet Elects 2 Mayors, 2 Councils

AUBURN, Ga. (AP) — This north Georgia hamlet has only 374 residents but it has two mayors, two sets of councils, and two town clerks. Voters re-elected Mayor R. H. Bivell Wednesday. At least some of them did.

The others dropped their ballots in another box and elected John Chesser.

VOTES EQUAL

Oddly, each received the same number of votes—49. Neither was opposed in his own box. Both elections were held in the Town Hall, with separate ballot boxes and separate poll workers sitting at tables on opposite sides of the hall. A few citizens voted in both boxes.

The issue that splits the town is law enforcement. Both sides agree to that. Chesser and two incumbent councilmen say the dispute stems from the operation of a "speed trap" and its elimination last year when the council majority fired the town's only policeman. EACH BLAMES OTHERS

Bivell claims that the other side is opposed to having a policeman. And both groups claim it's the other that has blocked the hiring of another officer.

A decision on which was the legal election may come Tuesday when Superior Court Judge Richard B. Russell III rules on who is the legal town clerk.

Each faction has its own clerk.

Teamsters Press Machinists to Join

ST. JOSEPH (AP) — Machinists Union spokesman say the Teamsters Union is recruiting support for certification to represent 1,250 production workers at the Whirlpool Corp. in St. Joseph.

The workers now are represented by International Association of Machinists, AFL-CIO, Lodge 1918. The local's contract with Whirlpool expires next March 31.

Sylvan B. Riley, Lodge 1918 business agent, said the teamsters must obtain signatures of 30 per cent of the plant's employees before they can petition the National Labor Relations Board for a representation election.

Suggest U.N. Library Be Named After Dag

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Ford Foundation has suggested that the new U.N. library now nearing construction be named for Dag Hammarskjöld, the late U.N. secretary general.

The foundation put up $6.2 million for the building. The United Nations released today a letter from Henry T. Heald, president of the foundation, saying it would be honored if the library were named "the Dag Hammarskjöld Library."

Farm production of the U.S. has increased about one-third the past decade by improved methods but the land area remains about the same.

Lufthansa Unveils Model of Supersonic Jet Liner

BONN, Germany (AP) — The West German Lufthansa Airline Wednesday unveiled a model which it said was its idea of the supersonic passenger jet of the future.

Its nose is needle-shaped and its arrow-like swept wings are mounted on the rear half of the fuselage. Two short stubby struts the front. The model has four engines. Gerhardt Heitje, a member of Lufthansa board of directors, said its supersonic passenger planes would not be put into service before 1970.

Princess Margaret Preparing for First Baby

LONDON (UPI) — Princess Margaret and her newly titled husband came home to London Friday from Scotland to prepare for the birth of their first baby in three or four weeks time.

Margaret, now "Her Royal Highness Princess Margaret, Countess of Snowdon," and Antony Armstrong-Jones, now by grace of the Queen "Viscount Linley and Earl of Snowdon," are returning from their summer Scottish holiday.

TONY'S DEBUT

It will be Tony's debut in London as a peer of the realm, entitled to bedeck himself in ermine on state occasions and to sit in the House of Lords. His earlism was announced Tuesday.

Fancy new titles or not, the Armstrong-Joneses—a number of the country's national newspapers say they're going to keep on calling Tony "Mr. Jones"—will be having their baby with quite an economy touch. A lot of hand-me-downs await the newcomer, and as for baby outfits, "friends and neighbors"—the friends being hundreds of British citizens—have been generous.

The hand-me-downs will come from Queen Elizabeth and include the big navy blue pram (baby carriage) used for Prince Andrew, now 20 months old, as well as Andrew's play-pen, crib and other infant accessories as he outgrows them.

MANY GIFTS AWAIT

In the area of clothing, a huge store of gifts awaits the princess's first child—who will be "Viscount Linley" if a boy and "Lady (given names) Armstrong-Jones" if a girl.

Enough layettes—including an embroidered gown made by women prisoners in Holloway Jail—have been received to completely outfit a dozen babies. By custom the princess, when she has made her selection, will donate the rest to charity.

Although the child is to be born at Clarence House, home of Queen Mother Elizabeth which Margaret shared until her marriage on May 6, 1960, a small newly-decorated nursery will be ready for it at the Armstrong-Joneses Kensington Palace apartment. Tony himself has supervised the decorating. In Margaret's favorite colors of pink and ivory, with matching curtains and furniture.

The parents-to-be are expected to move into Clarence House about Oct. 20. Princess Margaret is to have her old two rooms with bath suite there, with a guest bedroom along the corridor for Tony. The Queen Mother also will remain at home until the child is born.

Last baby born at Clarence House was Princess Anne, now 11. Queen Elizabeth was then Princess Elizabeth and was then her official residence.

Workers Warned Strike Would Harm Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—The government told workers throughout Argentina Wednesday that a general strike called for Friday by the General Confederation of Workers would cause great damage to the nation.

A government statement gave no indication of what steps might be taken should the workers go ahead with the one-day strike, called to protest the high cost of living.

The Maine sardine canning season has officially closed with a pack of 1.9 million cans. If on one day every person in the United States ate one can of sardines, the entire pack would be consumed.

Senators Flooded With Reserve Deferment Requests

WASHINGTON (UPI)—I reserve and national guard units to serving you can, in some way, help Robert stay out.

Robert is a specialist 4th class in the National Guard. Like thousands of others he has been recalled to active duty because of the Berlin crisis.

The appeal was made by Robert's mother to a senator. She asked him to try to get Robert's deferment until he finished college. But the National Guard Bureau denied the senator's request.

The last-ditch "write your senator" appeals have flooded capital offices since Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara ordered re-

MOM'S TAKE LEAD

Mother often take the initiative in bringing a case to the attention of a senator and their appeals are the most emotional.

One South Carolina mother, whose son had been ordered to report, wrote "many boys have not tried to go to school or put any time in the service and are still free to roam the streets, rob, play pool and are a drain on the taxpayers of the state."

Her son, a physical education and history major at college, was not granted his request for a deferment until he finished school. The Army ruled that he did not qualify under the Labor Department's list of critical jobs.

Two other reservists in South Carolina, however, a combination policeman-fireman and county agent, were transferred from the ready to the standby reserve and their orders canceled.

A professor of history at a North Carolina college wrote:

"The prospect of losing my job, my campus home, and perhaps my teaching career due to the emergency peacetime callup are not happy ones."

The professor was transferred to the standby reserve, not because he was unhappy, but because he was difficult to replace at the school.

Traffic Lights Control Speakers of Road Confab

SOUTHPORT, England (UPI)—A set of traffic signals was used to control the oratory Wednesday at the annual meeting of the National Road Safety Congress.

Speakers started on the green light, were reminded by an amber light that their time was about up, and finally stopped by a red light.

Would Cut Congo Claims From U.N. Contributions

BRUSSELS (UPI)—Three Belgian senators have offered a bill proposing that physical and material damages suffered by Belgians in the Congo, particularly Katanga, and caused by the United Nations forces be paid for out of Belgian financial contributions to the world organization.

The bill, presented by liberal senators Norber Hoguardy, Pierre Wamant and Pierre DesCamps, provides for the creation of a three-member committee of former Belgian Congo judges to estimate the damages.

An auxiliary tank for installation in an automobile fuel line is said to prevent vapor lock.

FALL COOKOUT — A well-balanced meal rich in dairy essentials can be cooked on the grill. Creamy corn soup dotted with butter is a perfect flavor blend with breadfruits toasted over the wood charcoal briquets. Fresh fruits and vegetables are on the menu. For another appetizing "meal-male," grill a loaf of French bread with cheese and onion seasoning tucked into every other slice. Follow with cool glass of milk. It's an energizing lunch for young or old.

Dairy Foods in Menu Insure Healthy Cookout

You may be going to your own back yard, to the nearest park, or some miles away for your cookout, but the menu is the important thing. For something different in the way of meats cooked over wood charcoal briquets, try piping hot Creamy Corn Soup and nippy Grilled Cheese Loaf. Include ever popular grilled hot dogs and french sliced tomatoes and lettuce, milk to drink, and fresh fruit for dessert, and you have a tasty and nourishing meal.

Dairy foods have a great deal to do with the appeal and pep of a meal. The corn soup featured here is rich in milk with all its high quality nutrients, especially bone and muscle building calcium. The butter adds unbeatable flavor as well as essential Vitamin A. The unusual grilled cheese sandwich is a good source of protein, since one ounce of cheese is equivalent to about the same amount as one serving of meat. Here are recipes for a healthful outdoor lunch.

Grilled Cheese Loaf

- 1 large loaf French bread
- 1/4 cup soft butter
- 3 teaspoons chopped pimiento
- 2 cups shredded Cheddar cheese
- 1/2 cup chopped green onion (including tops)

Slice bread in half-inch thick slices. Spread butter between every other slice. Combine remaining ingredients and sprinkle between buttered slices. Wrap loaf in heavy duty aluminum foil and seal. Place on grill for fifteen minutes. Turn about every three minutes to avoid burning and heat evenly. When bread is heated and cheese slightly melted, pull back foil and break bread off in "sandwiches." Makes about 10 sandwiches.

Creamy Corn Soup

- 2 teaspoons butter
- 2 teaspoons minced onion
- 1 can (1 lb. 1 oz.) cream style corn
- 1 can (12 oz.) whole kernel corn
- 3 cups milk
- salt and pepper to taste

Melt butter in saucepan, saute onion until transparent but not brown. Add corn and milk; heat slowly over grill. Do not allow to boil. Season to taste. Makes 6 cups.

Fancy Fudge Fixin's

NEW YORK (UPI)—Home-made fudge and divinity for gift-giving looks twice as good when you mold it in a fancy pattern in a disposable aluminum foil pan. Hold a fancy-shaped cookie cutter in the center of the pan and pour fudge around the outer edges. Decorate with walnut halves. When fudge is firm, remove cutter and fill empty space with divinity. Decorate with nuts.

When pickles soften it may be because the brine was diluted too much.

An Occasional Treat

Salty and sweet treats—raisins, peanuts, marshmallows and pretzels make a hit with most youngsters in their lunchbox. But surprise them occasionally by substituting a nickel or dime so they can buy a candy bar instead.

CHUTNEY PEARS — East meets West in a delightful relish that you can easily make at this time of year. Butter smooth Bartlett pears are simmered in a spicy sauce, then chilled for perfect flavor. Serve these pears as an accompaniment to the main course. Seal some in hot sterilized jars for future enjoyment.

East Indian Way to Cook Pears

Chutney—a relish of East Indian origin—becomes distinctly Western when made with golden Mountain Bartlett pears. This spicy mixture of fruit, sugar, ginger, vinegar and spices give an exotic enhancement to your party entree, whether it's a fancy casserole or a week's allotment of steak.

It's the peak of the season and many quality Bartlett pears will be shipped throughout the States. A generous supply of Bartletts on hand will forestall or solve many a kitchen crisis. Pears on the menu appear throughout the day—as breakfast fruit; laced with cream, sugar and cinnamon for a luncheon dessert; as an appetizer; a meat accompaniment; a salad or taste-tempting dessert. Any time of day is the ideal time for a cold and juicy pear eaten from the hand, with or without a portion of cheese and a few crisp crackers.

- Chutney Pears
- 4 Bartlett pears, halves or quarters
 - 1 lemon, thinly sliced
 - 2 cups brown sugar
 - 1 cup raisins
 - 1 cup crystallized sugar
 - 1/2 cups vinegar
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 cups vinegar
 - 1 teaspoon black pepper
 - 1 teaspoon nutmeg
 - 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
 - 1/4 teaspoon allspice
- Combine sliced lemon, sugar, raisins, finely chopped ginger, vinegar, and seasonings. Bring to boil, add pears and simmer gently until tender, 10 to 15 minutes. Thicken with cornstarch if desired. Chill. Makes 8 servings.

Salad Lovers Will Go for New Ideas

Tired of the same old salads? This new offering may beguile you. The main ingredients for this combination are chicken or turkey, oranges and water chestnuts. For the usual background, spinach or other salad greens and chives are used. The recipe includes a mayonnaise dressing enlivened with soy sauce and other seasonings.

- East-West Salad
- 6 cups torn spinach leaves (packed down) or other salad greens
 - 2 cups diced cooked chicken or turkey
 - 1 can (5 ounces) water chestnuts—(drained and cut in wide slices)
 - 2 large oranges (peeled, sliced and diced)
 - 1/4 cup chopped chives
 - 2/3 cup mayonnaise
 - 2 tablespoons lemon juice
 - 1 teaspoon sugar
 - 2 teaspoons soy sauce
 - Salt and pepper
- In a large salad bowl toss together the spinach, chicken, water chestnuts, oranges and chives. In a small bowl, mix together the mayonnaise, lemon juice, sugar, soy sauce and salt and pepper to taste. Pass dressing with salad, or just before serving, toss dressing with salad. Makes 6 servings.

Beef on the Hoof Can Be Tenderized Quickly

GAINEVILLE, Fla. — Tenderizing steaks while still on the hoof is being tested at the University of Florida Agricultural Experiment Station. Agricultural scientists are injecting a protein-splitting enzyme called papain into cattle shortly before they go to slaughter. The experiment station says initial tests have been satisfactory—the meat is more tender. Papain is the ingredient found in most commercial tenderizers sold to housewives.

Any Pork Chop Cut Offers Tempting Eating Now

As the seasons change, so do food preferences. With cooler weather, more shoppers look for roasts and meats for stews. If searching for a roast, then check lamb, veal and turkey roasts this week, suggests the Marketing Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawver. Some retailers report slight reductions at wholesale and are planning to highlight these meats. Fryers, continue at relatively low prices.

A few changes are evident in fresh fruits and vegetables, due mainly to weather conditions and the seasonality of foods. The first Florida grapefruit and oranges are here. The full production of Michigan mushrooms is beginning. Cooler weather has improved apple quality and supplies are growing. Potato supplies are heavy and quality is generally excellent.

Agricultural economists at Michigan State University predict that retail prices for pork will be about the same as a bit higher than last October. This does not mean there are no ways to save when buying pork. Smoked picnic shoulder usually hits its "low" retail price in October and remains at or near this until April.

Sliced bacon reaches a high price peak in August and this extends into October. Other pork cuts, except ham, tend to start a downward price trend in October and reach their low in December.

The pork loin is usually cut into a rib-roast, center cut pork chops and a loin-end roast. Because so many shoppers prefer the meaty center chops, and because there is such a small amount in every hog, this cut is priced the highest of the three. Even though there is often quite a difference in their price per pound, there is relatively little difference in the portion of lean, fat and bone in the three cuts. The loin cuts generally have about 67 per cent lean, 18 per cent bone and 15 per cent fat and skin.

If shoppers prefer center cut pork chops, some stores are offering them at 20 cents less than their usual price per pound this week. Pork chops 1/2 to 1 1/2 inches thick develop the best flavor and are thoroughly cooked when first browned, then slowly cooked with the lid on for 45-60 minutes.

Looking for a good eating apple? The McIntosh at about 10 cents per pound is probably the best choice, as it will be more mature than others this early in the season.

This is another week for peak supplies of Tokay grapes. This is one of the most important grape varieties. The thick, fairly tough skins are a cheerful red; the flesh is firm and juicy.

Enjoy homegrown vegetables while they last. Frost is already reducing supplies of some. Vegetables now at thirty prices are cabbage, onion, green peppers and potatoes.

Need to replenish some canned foods? Check supplies of apple sauce, fruit cocktail, peaches, pears, beans, tomatoes, peas and soup. Peas and carrots, spinach, broccoli and grape and orange juices are frozen items with special price tags this week.

For Crunchy Slaw

To make cole slaw crisper, crisp, shredded finely, sprinkle with a few drops of cold water and bury a half dozen ice cubes in the cabbage for about 1/2 hour. Retrieve partially melted ice cubes and drain cabbage. If necessary, before adding dressing.

You can glaze a boneless pork shoulder butt just as you would a ham.

Bumper Crop of Apples Harvested

Pontiac Press Home Editor

Aren't you glad that Michigan raises such good apples? We are. Relatives of ours who live in Florida get so hungry at this time of year for crisp, juicy Michigan apples that they try to send them a basket annually.

According to Consumer Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawry, Michigan produces four important varieties of apples—the McIntosh, Jonathan, Northern Spy and Delicious. The first three are all-purpose apples, but the Delicious is best when eaten raw.

Michigan's harvest is larger than usual and you can expect to find apples in abundance at good prices everywhere. Their color is the best in years, due to our cool days and damp nights this past summer.

Upside-down Apple Pecan Pie is the newest twist in apple pies. After baking, you turn it out of the pan upside down and have a pie with a glazed nut-crusted crust. The juicy apples lie in between the crusts.

Upside-down Apple Pecan Pie
2 tablespoons soft butter
½ cup brown sugar (packed)
30 pecan halves
1 package instant mixing pie crust mix
6 cups sliced apples
¼ cup granulated sugar
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg

Heat oven to 450 degrees (hot). Line 9-inch pie pan with 13-inch circle of aluminum foil leaving 1 inch over-hanging edge. Spread butter over bottom and sides of foil. Press pecan halves round side down in butter. Gently pat brown sugar into butter.

Prepare pastry for 9-inch two-crust pie as directed on package. Divide into two parts. Roll one part into an 11-inch circle. Ease into pan.

Combine rest of ingredients. Pie mixture over crust in pan. Cover with top crust, seal and flute. Prick with fork to allow steam to escape. Brush lightly with milk.

Bake 10 minutes at 450 degrees; decrease to 375 degrees and bake 35 to 40 minutes longer, or until done.

Uses for Salt
NEW YORK (UPI)—Salt is handy around the house.

Janet Vaughn, of the University of Vermont, reports salt removes most stains from handkerchiefs and stains and discoloration from earthenware. A dash also takes the bitter taste out of coffee.

apples are tender. Remove from oven, let stand 5 minutes. Invert on serving plate. Serve warm.

Success Tip: Turn up over-hanging edge of foil to catch bubbling juices.

You may not want to bother with pickling crab apples, but you like spiced apples for serving with meat and fowl. Pickling apple wedges will be the solution to your problem, madam.

Apple-Wedges
Use any hard-ripe apple which holds shape in cooking.

2 quarts prepared apples

2½ cups sugar
2 short sticks cinnamon
2 teaspoons each whole allspice and cloves

1 piece ginger root
1½ cups water
2 cups cider vinegar
Red food color

Wash, rinse and drain apples. Boil sugar, spices (tied in piece of cheesecloth), water and vinegar until sugar dissolves; let simmer 10 minutes. Cool. Peel, core and cut apples into thick slices; cut slices to form wedges. Drop into salt water (3 tablespoons salt to 1 quart water).

Add food color a few drops at a time to pickling syrup. It should be bright red. Put drained wedges into pickling syrup. Stir until apples are tender but not soft.

Loosely pack wedges into pint or half-pint fruit jars. Bring pickling syrup to boiling. Pour over apples. Put lid on jar; screw band tight. Note: Leftover syrup may be canned and used for basting pork, ham, etc. It usually takes 2 or more weeks for the wedges to become uniformly colored and well flavored.

A hot chicken sandwich turns out to be something special when it has applesauce in with the chicken and an applesauce gravy over the top. Just the thing for chilly fall days.

Hot Chicken Sandwich with Special Gravy

2 cups apple sauce
1 teaspoon prepared horseradish
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons cold water
1 cup chicken bouillon
8 slices bread, toasted
Sliced cold chicken

Combine apple sauce, horseradish and mustard. Blend cornstarch and water until smooth. Combine chicken soup, 1 cup of the apple sauce mixture and corn starch; cook until slightly thickened. Spread 4 slices toast with remaining 1 cup of seasoned apple sauce. Top with chicken slices and remaining toast. Serve with the hot apple sauce gravy. Makes 4 servings.

UPSIDE-DOWN PIE — It's apple pie time with a bottoms-up apple pie that's glistening with a buttery, brown sugar glaze and topped with crunchy pecans. Upside-down Apple Pecan Pie is a new twist for the traditional fall favorite.

Onions and Raisins Layered in Beef

Tired of ground beef served the same old way? Then try this recipe, inspired by Mexican cuisine and American shortcuts!

Mexican Meat Patties
2 pounds ground chuck beef
6 teaspoons dry onion-soup mix
2 tablespoons raisins (rinsed in hot water, drained and chopped)
12 large pimiento-stuffed olives (thinly sliced)
2 tablespoons fat (if needed)

Make 12 flat patties of the beef. Sprinkle 6 of them with the onion-soup mix (just as it comes from the envelope) and the raisins; place olives over. Put remaining 6 patties over these; mold edges together thoroughly with fingers. Brown rapidly in hot heavy skillet, using fat. If needed, reduce heat and cook slowly until just pink in center or entirely done through. Makes 6 servings.

Date for Lunch

Surprise the lunch box crowd in your house with this delicious date, orange and cream cheese sandwich filling. Simply blend softened cream cheese, chopped fresh California dates and a bit of orange marmalade or grated orange rind; spread between buttered slices of whole wheat bread.

Always refrigerate cakes with custard or cream fillings or toppings.

Molasses Zips a Dip

Like hot dogs? Try 'em with this zippy dip. To half cup mustard, add 1 teaspoon New Orleans molasses, 2 teaspoons sharp pickle relish. Good over hamburgers, too.

Symposium Aims to Save World for Children

Philosopher Deplores 'Cute' U.S. Adults

DURHAM, N. C. — A John D. Boss said: "Actually, adults are the problem. They have tried to return to the state of childhood what he termed efforts of American adults to be 'childlike' by cut" despite their age.

Speaking at a Duke University symposium on health and other problems of children, Dr. George age, our delight in childhood entertainments, our artificial youthfulness, our love of the 'cute.'"

He spoke at a symposium designed to introduce this novel concept: The world's one billion children constitute a single unit—

"commonwealth of children," transcending all national, racial and cultural boundaries—and that all of them need better support from their elders if world peace is to be achieved.

Speaking on the subject "What Is a Child?" Dr. Boss said: "Pediatricians have their own concepts of childhood. At the Johns Hopkins Hospital for instance, it was once agreed that a person ceases to be a child at the age of 14. But a person may stop being a physiological child without ceasing to be attached to his old doctors, and frightened by new ones. The use of age groups has been a great convenience to schoolteachers and statisticians, but it has been only a convenience."

In a talk Wednesday night, Dr. Grayson Kirk, president of Columbia University, said that the Soviet Union cannot be entirely blamed for the world's troubles.

He declared that a "world revolution" has been under way for some time, with some developing countries choosing a mixed economy and rejecting features of both communism and capitalism.

Dr. Kirk added that today's American children must realize that "though the Soviet Union is today a great and ever-present danger to the Western world, much of the trouble and confusion of our day would have existed in about the same form if the Romanoff (non-Communist) dynasty still ruled in Moscow."

Club Chooses Kennedy Aide

Attorney General Quits Same One for Refusal to Admit Negroes

WASHINGTON (AP) — McGee Bundy, one of President Kennedy's chief advisers, has been elected a member of Washington's exclusive Metropolitan Club—the same club Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy quit because it refused to admit Negroes.

Bundy, it was learned Wednesday, was elected to membership without the usual waiting period because he is a high government official. The club is said to have a 10-12 year waiting list.

NOT AVAILABLE

The President himself, it was learned, has never accepted membership in the Metropolitan Club, although it automatically renders honorary memberships to each president and vice president. The White House said Bundy, Kennedy's special assistant for national security affairs, was not available for comment on his membership. The club told news men it never gives out information on members.

The attorney general, the club executive's brother, resigned from the club last month.

Other top government officials have resigned from the Metropolitan, Washington's oldest social club, because of its policy of not admitting Negroes as members or guests.

Angler, Biddle Duke, State Department protocol chief, resigned in April because the club refused to lift its Negro ban.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has urged Pakistan and Afghanistan to agree quickly on some compromise formula for reopening their closed border.

Lucky Boy Escapes Injury in Long Fall

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Luck was with 2-year-old Michael Richardson when he fell 54 feet from a third floor apartment, landed on a 30-inch square of sand surrounded by concrete.

The youngster, son of Ethel Richardson, apparently escaped escaped injury Wednesday last was admitted to Mercy Hospital for observation.

Mrs. Richardson told police her son apparently wandered out onto the balcony and slipped through the railing.

Claim Plasma Was Sabotaged

Police in Milan, Italy, Say Someone Polluted 27 Bottles of Blood

MILAN, Italy (UPI) — City police said today that someone polluted 27 bottles of blood plasma in an apparent attempt to sabotage Milan's blood donor program.

A doctor said 540 persons could have been killed if the pollution had not been discovered in time.

"The pollution of 27 bottles was more than a coincidence," said Dr. Waldo Molla, technical director of the Milan Transfusions Institute.

He and Dr. Vittorio Formignani, president of the Milan Blood Donors Association, filed formal sabotage charges with Milan police.

One police official said he believes the saboteur is "somebody inside the association."

Molla said someone took bottles from the refrigerator, removed the rubber lids and inserted germs. Then the refrigerator was unplugged.

The director said that any patients who received blood "would have suffered shock since the altered quality of plasma would have had toxic consequences."

"The number of fatalities would have been anybody's guess, but from a theoretical viewpoint the death toll could have been 100 per cent — 540 persons dead — since there is enough blood in the bottles for 540 transfusions."

It's More Tactful to Telephone

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: The invitations to my daughter's wedding were sent out two weeks ago. Some of the guests to whom we sent invitations have sent regrets. As the number of guests had to be limited, there were some people we had to omit from the wedding guest list and when I received these regrets, I immediately invited others in their place.

I have heard that the guests to whom these invitations were sent are offended and considered themselves "second choice" and refuse to come to the wedding. I thought they would be happy to be sent invitations and I am very upset over their attitude. Will you please tell me if I was wrong to have sent them invitations in this instance?

BETTER METHOD

A: It would have been more tactful if, instead of sending belated invitations, you had telephoned these people personally and explained that you would be able to have a few more guests at the wedding than you had originally thought, and would like to have them if they care to come.

Q: When the parents of an engaged couple are friends and live in the same town, is it necessary for the groom's parents to pay the ceremonial call on the bride's family after the engagement has been announced?

FORMALITY UNNECESSARY

A: The rule is really for people who do not know each other so that the families may meet. When the families are intimate friends a formal visit is not required.

Q: The daughter of friends of ours is going to be married shortly and my husband and I were invited to the wedding and reception. My husband will be unable to go as he will be out of town on a business trip at that time. Would it be proper to have my seventeen-year-old son go in his place?

A: Not without first telephoning the bride's mother and asking if he may come to the wedding in your husband's place.

The Emily Post Institute offers readers booklets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like the booklet entitled "The Bride's Trouseaux" send ten cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped, draped envelope to The Emily Post Institute, care of The Pontiac Press.

The Emily Post Institute cannot answer personal mail, but all questions of general interest are answered in this column.

Q: I have been asked to be the maid of honor at a friend's wedding. I have been told by another friend that the maid-of-honor is expected to give a shower for the bride-to-be. I hadn't counted on giving one as my finances are limited and I can just about manage to pay for my wedding clothes. However, I want to do what is expected of me and if it is an obligation, I will try to meet it.

A: There is no such obligation. All of the social customs expected to buy their own wedding clothes but this is the only "must." If any of the attendants can give a party for her, they would be doing so, but this is not a requirement.

Says Art Lends Security

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — The national youth council is searching for emotional security, says a woman who has helped to put art out for all to see.

We've live surrounded by violence, perpetual and dreadful, in real life, in the movies, in the theater... we live with the haunting specter of the atomic bomb," Mrs. Beryl S. Austrian said.

"I think people have turned to art forms seeking emotional security. It is the human spirit's yearning for decency."

"It would not surprise me but what most of us would take something beautiful with us to the fallout shelter," she said.

Mrs. Austrian, red-haired, blue-eyed and an art collector in private life, is boss of the company which she founded in the depression years. Called Intramural, Inc., it specializes in interior design of lobbies of apartment houses and offices.

More than 100 New York apartment building lobbies bear the Austrian touch—all most all these "urban farm porches" are showcases for paintings and sculpture.

She Has Apparently Made Hers

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A certain girl and I married brothers. When she introduces me to people she says, "This is my HUSBAND's sister-in-law." To me it is my husband's sister-in-law as I am HIS. What do you think?

DEAR PUZZLED: Your "sister-in-law" is getting down to the fine technicalities. According to Webster's unabridged dictionary a "sister-in-law" is the sister of one's husband or wife; also the wife of one's husband's or wife's brother. I presume the "sometimes" means when you want to bring the relationship closer, which obviously is not the case here.

DEAR ABBY: My birthday is soon. I will be 11 years old. If her would not mind, I would like to have a party at my party. My mother said she would give the party.

and I am very happy about it, but there is one thing that is spoiling it for me. My mother says I am not to tell anyone that it is my birthday because she doesn't want them to buy presents. Now, Abby, I think that presents are most of the fun of a birthday party. How can I explain this to my mother?

UNHAPPY: Your mother is very thoughtful to be considerate of the guests' pocketbooks, but I agree with you. Presents ARE great fun at a birthday party. I hope she reconsiders.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old high school senior. I've been dating a certain girl for about four months. For a while I really was crazy about her. The laster has worn off now, and I don't care to date her any more. I don't want to tell her outright, and I don't want to keep her wondering and waiting. What would be least painful to her?

NO BEAST: DEAR NO BEAST: If you have made no commitments to her (such as asking her to go steadily, just start dating another girl or two. If you had an "understanding," and she dated only you, tell her that you want to date others, and she should, too.

CONFIDENTIAL TO GREG: There is no such thing as a "missed opportunity." The ones you missed were used by somebody else.

"Are things rough?" Let Abby help you solve your problem. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and send to The Pontiac Press.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 30 cents to Abby, The Pontiac Press.

Knits Know No Season for Wearing

Knits know no season for wearing anymore! For sweaters, jackets and denims will chase the chills in winter and go on in chic through varying climates.

Smart girls with a talent for knitting their own should start the ball rolling right now, since Oct. 7 through 14 has been dedicated to knitting fans and would-be-knitters as National Knit Yourself Week. From Maine to Hawaii, from Texas to Alaska, the click of the needles will be heard throughout the land.

A changing personality this year is the pullover — it's the long pull. Lean-lined, racy and generally missing the waist entirely, these are sweaters meant for the casual life, paired off with pants or hopping tailored skirts. Looking like it has been built on giant needles is a high-length pullover, worked in a simple pattern and set in a striped effect, and completely muffled the neckline with a high roll-over turtle neck collar.

Other long sweaters get a new twist when they are softened on high with pseudo scarf collars and easy wide-away cowls. No jesting matter are the "jesters," loose-lined and long, and worked in multi-colored blocks using a stockinette stitch. Fat tassels and chunky wool balls are frequently used to fringe the bottom of these jesters and give them a gay insouciance that is the perfect complement for at-home stretch pants and boots, at any time of the year.

Jackets, when they are knit, take their own special fashion stance for many-season wearing. Warm enough to team up with a dress as an autumn ensemble, they shed their outdoor skin as winter comes and turn up with separate skirts as undercover agents to a heavy coat.

LIKE TWEED

Looking more like tweed than tweed itself is the handsome cutaway that is knit in a pattern stitch for a roundabout check motif, curves gently over the hip in the latest couture-endorsed silhouette.

Other cardigans, slightly shorter, collar their neckline with Peter Pan or Johnny collars, often knit in a stitch that contrasts with that used in the body of the sweater. And, for the sport enthusiasts, there are extra-length denim-coats, knit on the same loose-lined cardigan lines, to put on for a day at the football stadium, or, come spring, can turn up at a baseball game. One such coat is colored with a deep shoulder-wide fling that converts into a kangaroo hood in button beneath the chin when the weather is at its coldest.

Since evenings on the town, year-round, demand the extra little cover-up for bare shoulders, there are many little jackets, capes, shrugs and stoles to knit yourself that have been given the full glamour treatment. Replacement for the ubiquitous mink is the time capelet worked in a furry angora yarn and just big enough to hug the shoulders and button at the curve of a deep décolletage.

LACY STITCHES

Shrugs are knit in lacy pattern stitches, then lined to match a dress, while waist-length boleros, knit in easy-to-do stockinette stitch or a seed stitch, can be overlaid with sequins and jewels, or even luxuriously collared in fur. Straight stoles, the better to wrap up with, can be knit in stitches that effect a hand-loomed look, and made as long as the knitter wishes.

Enthusiastic teen-age knitters, like their older sisters and mothers, will find an assortment of clever coverage to knit themselves. Borrowed-from-the-boys are bulky pullovers and jackets to work in school colors, both for themselves and their leasest. Dickies and flannels for shirts also appeal to teeners, since they take little time, can be made for both wearing and giving.

The "thing," a special design for young hand knitters, is a vertical stopeple, open on top and bottom, and knit on the bias. Slipped over the head, it can turn in rapid order from a turtle necked collar for sweaters, to fill-in for polo coats, to a hood-and-fill-in at the same time.

Since yarn of all weights is available in a wide range of fashion and basic shades, according to the National Hand Knitting Yarn Association, there is no limit to the fashion appeal of these knit-it-yourself "goodies."

Going to great lengths this season are the pullover sweaters. Completely timeless, this sweater can start the day with slacks for campus or casual activities, do the sporting rounds and finish up before a fire with after-dark stretch pants.

Have You Tried This?

Smoked Pork Chops Are Best for Fall Casserole

Pontiac Press Home Editor

When the autumn mist creeps over the hill at twilight, it's good to know that you have a hearty dinner casserole in the oven. Add potatoes for baking, an oven desert and your meal cooks without much waiting.

Mrs. Lorne Frecher shares her favorite pork chop recipe with us today. She does church work, is a volunteer at Beaumont Hospital and belongs to a garden club.

CHOPS IN CASSEROLE

By Mrs. Lorne Frecher

6 thick smoked pork chops
4 apples
2 medium onions
1/2 cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon cinnamon

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
Juice of 1 lemon
1/4 cup water tarragon
salt and pepper

Rub chops with salad oil; sprinkle with tarragon, salt and pepper. Brown over high heat.

In a deep baking dish make a bed of chopped corned unpeeled apples and sliced onions. Add half the cinnamon and sugar. Place chops on this mixture and sprinkle with remaining sugar and cinnamon. Dot with butter.

Four lemon juice and water over chops. Cover and bake 30 minutes at 325 degrees. Uncover and bake another 10 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Newlyweds Head North After Birmingham Rites

The James G. MacFarlans left for a Northern Michigan honeymoon following candlelight vows repeated to Rev. Kenneth Gass Saturday evening in St. James Episcopal Church, Birmingham.

The Walter H. Killings of Walnut Lake, parents of the former Carolyn May Killings, were hosts at a buffet dinner-reception in the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall, Keego Harbor. The bridegroom is the son of the Alex McVeens of Birmingham.

A cascade of Eucharist lilies and ivy complemented the bride's floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace and tulle over tulle, styled with long tapered sleeves and Sabrina necklines. Her bouffant veil of silk illusion was caught by a crystal tiara.

Honor maid Barbara Shank, Birmingham, and bridesmaids Joanne DeMonaco, Detroit, Mrs. James Wheeler and Mrs. Roland Johnson.

The bridegroom's sister, both of Bay City, appeared in toast ring over apricot tulle and tulle Chantilly lace bodices. They were matching Dior headbands and carried cascades of burnt orange tulle. Yellow roses were included in the honor maid's bouquet.

In the square side were best man Dale Baker, Redford; and ring bearer Roland Johnson, Bay City; Raymond Najor, Birmingham; and Edgar Stein, Royal Oak.

Cymbidium orchids complemented moss green lace over tulle for Mrs. Killings and bride-embroidered nylon over tulle for the mother of the bridegroom.

Organization Is Observing Anniversary

The Waterford-Clarkston Business and Professional Women's Club with other business and professional women's clubs throughout the nation, this week is celebrating National Business Women's Week in observance of the 50th anniversary of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

The local club started its scholarship fund in 1957. In the five years, it has supported the fund by assisting Gladis McClood who is a graduate of Wayne State University and is now providing a scholarship for Jane McClood of Clarkston, a student at Michigan State University-Oakland.

President Mrs. H. C. Timney, in evaluating the help given these students said that a total of $1,500 has been given to assist in their education.

Other activities in which the club has participated during the years included a donation to the Cancer Society of Waterford, which was used to buy equipment; a contribution to Albanian and gifts to neglected children through the Oakland County Probate Court.

The club has helped in the registering of voters and in the bicycle registration through the schools. The club held its first Blood Bank in 1957 and this has continued to be an annual event. This year's Blood Bank has been scheduled for Friday from 3 to 9 p.m. at the Waterford Community Center on Williams Lake Road.

Elizabeth's a 'Model' Monarch

She May Change Clothes 6 Times a Day-on Tour

Queen Elizabeth, the world's most traveled monarch, is fast becoming the world's most fashionable monarch as well. She has been forced to combine an adherence to high-stepping high fashions with the more somber pace of royal dignity . . . and has in fact become the world's most influential fashion model.

Dazzling and regal on state occasions Elizabeth of England is a bejeweled figure who looks—in one of her twelve-hundred-dollar ball gowns—as if she has stepped from the pages of a fairy tale. But in private life she prefers the very simple things: woolen dresses, country tweeds and may wear tartan kilts folk days on end at her castle in Scotland.

SHE'S A SPENDER

Fully aware that her unique position as Britain's Queen enabled her to "sell" British-styled clothes more easily than any other top fashion model, Elizabeth does not hesitate to spend freely in an endeavor to bolster Britain's all-important export trade. On tour abroad she will change outfits five or six times a day. Of the seventy-eight hours spent in her state visit to Paris she spent fourteen hours and twenty-eight minutes changing clothes.

It's only recently that Elizabeth has begun experimenting with sophisticated clothes and her visit to Paris evoked "ohs" and "ahs" from the fashion-conscious Parisians. Her essentially feminine figure, 36-34-35, has led her to take an interest in clothing even to the point of suggesting ideas for future creations to her designers.

EXCLUSIVELY HER

Although, in her far-reaching travels, Elizabeth constantly encounters new people, she need never fear meeting another woman wearing the same dress. Her stately gowns are seen piecemeal in different rooms and not even the chirpy little workroom assistants know what the finished creation will look like until it is publicly revealed in its jeweled splendor.

To get your figure back in shape after the baby comes, exercise as soon as your doctor permits. This abdominal exercise, described in the column today, is a good one to start with.

When Doctor Says 'Go'

Swing Back Into Shape

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Most women are extremely interested in keeping their figures when they become mothers. Well,

MRS. BILLY R. AUDAS

Becomes Bride of Billy Audas

At home in Washington, D.C. following their Sept. 3 marriage in La Paz, Bolivia, are Mr. and Mrs. Billy R. Audas of Pontiac. The former Millie Urquola is the daughter of Sr. Daria Urquola and the late Sr. Teodoro Urquola of La Paz. Mr. Audas is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Audas of South Johnson Avenue. Both are graduates of Western Michigan University.

It is not necessary to lose your figure because you're having a baby.

If you were careless and gained many pounds during pregnancy, or if you gained a few which you want to lose, do not procrastinate. Begin dieting and exercising just as soon as your physician says you can do so. You should consult your doctor about this because individual cases differ.

It is bad policy to let any overweight you acquired linger on, since you may become accustomed to the change in yourself and fail to do anything about it. Usually, a woman can begin calorie counting soon after the arrival of her baby, unless she is nursing it.

If the latter is the case, she will not be able to diet in the usual way until the child is weaned. However, the mother need not add more overweight pounds to those she already has.

Exercise is an important part of every reconditioning program. Your abdominal muscles have had quite a stretching and they need exercise to snap them back into condition. A woman usually can begin exercising six weeks after delivery. However, your physician should give you the "Go" sign. Do not begin until he says you may.

Abdominal exercises are the ones you will require. Begin with as easy one like the following: Lie on the floor on your back with your arms resting on the floor and your legs straight. Bend the left knee up close to the abdomen. Straighten the leg toward the ceiling. Slowly lower leg to the floor with a stiff knee. Do the same with your right leg and continue, alternating left and right.

If your muscles are strong enough, you can bend both legs at the same time and stretch them toward the ceiling and lower them to the floor simultaneously.

If you gained weight, you will have to count calories as well as exercise.

If you would like to have my leaflet, "Reconditioning After Childbirth," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 21. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

St. Andrew, who became patron of the century, was earlier, the patron saint of Scotland in the eighth century of Russia.

Newborn Ought to Be in Pictures!

By RENE CAPPON
NEW YORK — New parents-to-be are usually poured full of well-meant advice on all sorts of subjects, from nursery decor to midnight colics and diaper rash.

But no one prepares them for another inevitable problem — the baby photographer, a special level of snake oil salesman and child psychologist who is as enterprising as a con artist and as ubiquitous as a virus.

The beginnings of infant portraiture are hazy, but most likely go back to the barbaric days of humanity.

When the first ingenious cave dweller scrawled an infant's physiognomy on the fire-lit wall, he must have been rewarded with an extra mastodon's steak by the mother. The artist instantly realized he had a racket, and there's been no stopping him since.

Today, thanks to Mr. Daguerre, his craft is refined and rationalized and that little one perched switched has matured into a full-grown vintage.

The baby photographer may creep into a maternity ward to snap a smiling arrival "on speculation," which is about as chancey as an election in an Iron Curtain country.

They acquire your name off some list or other and spy your wife with sales talk over the telephone.

And they'll materialize as the valuable strings attached to those offers of one (1) free baby photograph by companies purveying infant services or furnishings.

You didn't fail to stick up on Baby's First Picture in the hospital — how could you? — and you're equally helpless while the gratis photo mushrooms into additional orders for a dozen others.

"They change every day at this age," the vaunting salesman says. "So while we're in it, we might as well . . ."

Any feeble indication of sales resistance is drowned in baby oil. Your wife, the photographer purrs, is the most beautiful he's photographed in years. This assignment isn't work, it's sheer pleasure (though not to the point of giving you those additional prints at cost).

His way with children is just as impressive.

CAMERA SAYS

Well before our daughter consented to sittings at her doing Dad, a hulking, leather-jacketed, cigar-chomping cameraman reduced her to paroxysms of grinning delight. His presence even quelled her objection to being dressed up.

So now our daughter in three months of life has been photographed professionally more often than Elizabeth Taylor in a year. There are scraps of pictures, in color or black and white, square-shaped, oval or round, in albums, baby books, on desks and mantel pieces, in wallets and handbags.

HALT! Obviously, it's long past time to call a halt.

In fact, I've developed some cunning defenses against further inroads on our balance of payments position, but I'll have to tell you about those some other time.

Right now we're having the baby photographed, courtesy of a high chair manufacturer, and the man says he'll let us have six extra prints for a mere $7.20 each.

Carmen Guzman a Bride

Married in Orchard Lake

Our Lady of Refuge Church, Orchard Lake, was the setting for the Saturday morning nuptials of Carmen Guzman of Keego Harbor and Rudy Ortiz. Rev. Giles Barakat performed the ceremony. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guadalupe Guzman of Harrison Street, the bride was given in marriage by her brother William J. Guzman, Royal Oak, and Mrs. John C. Ortiz Sr. of North East Boulevard are the parents of the bridegroom.

The ballroom — lengthy wedding gown of white tulle and lace and chiton over tulle — featured a scalloped neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. The bridegroom's pearl gift necklace and earrings and a finger ring, wedding attire, and a pearl crown, completed the bride's ensemble.

Mrs. Robert Mellado was matron of honor. Serving as bridesmaids were Mrs. Cooper Mellado, Mrs. Henry Cruz, Mrs. William J. Guzman, Royal Oak, and Mrs. Fred Mora, Waterford.

Mary H. Guzman, Royal Oak niece of the bride and the bridegroom's nephew Vincent Hernandez were flower girl and ring bearer respectively.

Best man, Robert Mellado and usher, Cooper Mellado, Henry Cruz, Peter Guzman and Fred Mora of Waterford, comprised the escort list.

After the reception in Fisher Body Union Hall, the newlyweds left for Niagara Falls. They will live in Keego Harbor.

Wives Work Harder When Hubby Retires

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When she confided in a friend that her retired husband had announced he was going to start having lunch at home each day, one wife summed up her reaction with: "Oh, murred. I wouldn't know what to serve for lunch. I never eat any myself."

There was Mrs. Harry S. Truman, or at least that's the story as presented in an article about former President Truman in retirement.

This is just by way of pointing out the fact that while men are given all kinds of advice on how to cope with the retirement years, everyone seems to assume that the wife of a retired man has no problems.

After all, say the experts, (men of course) the wife keeps on as before to be a housewife so she has no major adjustments to make.

The truth of the matter is that to women who have been able to plan their days for years without consulting anyone else a husband suddenly freed from his job presents a few problems.

They may seem minor to the experts — but they aren't so minor to the wife.

There's that daily lunch to prepare that cuts into her horner routine. If the husband has set up office or shop in his own home as so many retired men do, the wife may suddenly find herself a combination secretary, office boy and first assistant. That is especially true if a man has retired from an executive job where he is used to giving orders and being waited on.

And, of course, some retired men can't find enough to do to keep themselves busy and their minds occupied — and then the housewife finds that she hasn't time for her woman friends or her own activities — so busy is she being a constant companion to her husband.

Some wives claim that would be delightful if their husbands wanted to do things or even to talk to them. "But all my husband wants is for me to be around," they claim.

So there are plenty of adjustments on both sides of the family when a man quits his job for good — one of the main ones for the wife being that when her husband retires, her own responsibilities increase.

You can retire, men, but you could be a nuisance around the house. See Ruth Millett's booklet, "Happier Wives (Hints for husbands)." Just send 25 cents to Ruth Millett Reader Service, care of The Pontiac Press.

Mothers Plan Sale and Party

Future events were planned when the Mothers' Club of the Pontiac Boys' Club met Tuesday in the club rooms.

swers, from boys and girls alike, ran such a note of optimism and willingness to face the facts of the world that the Red hordes of Russia might well read some of our findings before taking any further steps that might lead to war.Do these young people think they could stand up to the rigors of battle? Yes! Are they worried about the draft? No! Do they think the present draft system fair? Yes!
Do they think the service period should be shorter? No!"The build-up should be a lot bigger," stoutly maintained Joseph Hara, 15, of Gary, Ind."It will convince the enemy that we mean business," chimed in Pat-tie Pierce, 15, of Dayton, Ohio.But Edith Schwartz, 14, of Bridgeport, Conn., ventured the opinion that President Kennedy is spending too much money on the project.Assuming they do go into service, which branch would the young men choose?The Air Force won this popularity contest in a walk — at 35 per cent. The Army and Navy tried after that at 21 per cent, and the Marines brought up the rear at 12. About 8 per cent did not venture an opinion.While 70 per cent of the boys, and 30 per cent of the girls called the present draft system fair, they'd have some changes made too.Three quarters of those questioned think a student should be allowed to get through college before being drafted and 12 per cent of the boys (but only half as many girls) think that girls should be drafted too.More than a quarter voiced the opinion that stars with only short athletic careers ahead of them should be granted deferments.

SERVICE HELPS

Over all, only about a fifth of the young people said they resented the prospect of a draft."People who have been in the service say it helps a lot in later life," explained Joe de Lauter, 16,of State College, Pa. But Ann Lindsay of Bonifant, Pa., asserted
"a lot of people get out who shouldn't."On the question of whether they would face up to battle dangers,Correct Child's Getting down to the gritty facts of the case, we asked whether these young idealists could kill someone trying to kill them.Back came the answer — 87 per cent yes, 9 per cent no and 4 per cent did not know."Duty to my country includes self preservation," rationalized

Henry Feinberg, 18, of Gary.Having chosen his service, theoretically, and accepted the draft, what do the young men want to good old American tradition, 83 per cent of those answering said posed to 17 per cent who would set-give orders for once," noted Wil-said they had changed any plans because of the Berlin situation.

And only 4 per cent of the boys thought they'd like to get married

Trace Jet Crash to Coast Refuse

Study Finds Careless Dumping of Garbage Spurs Gull Increase

BOSTON (AP)—It appears now that untidy habits of businessmen increasing the food supply of seagulls and causing a gull population explosion—may be to blame for the birds that threaten the safety of take-offs and arrivals of jet planes at airports.

The gulls were partly to blame, a study indicated, for the crash here of a plane one year ago today that killed 62 persons. Apparently the birds were sucked into the jet engines as it took off. The Massachusetts Audubon Society was asked to find out why so many gulls were in the harbor.

Audubon Society investigation ranged all the way from Martha's Vineyard, south of Cape Cod, to northeastern Maine. It involved catching and dyeing some 1,600 gulls different colors with harmless stains.

"Fantastic" public cooperation, the Audubon Society's director of education, William Drury, said, resulted in 600 individual reports of the colored gulls which gave an accurate pattern of places where Boston's gulls come from.

The investigation showed parent gulls are feeding their young in the Boston area with such man-made tidbits as cooked lobster, hamburgers, fish filler remnants and bugs of garbage.

Drury said the remedy is enforcement of pollution control—the prevention of dumping of refuse from fish cleaning from boats and fish wharves, sharp restriction of dumping of garbage, and processing to prevent raw sewage from reaching Boston area waters.

PIOMBINO, Italy (UPI)—Lampo, Italy's famed "railroad hound", is dead. The dog that would jump aboard trains, have lunch and leap off at the next station fell under the wheels of a train.

Lampo — the name meant "flash" — was known to almost every dining car waiter in Italy. Railroad authorities decided to put up a monument to Lampo.

263 Hepatitis Cases Reported in County

A liver disease—caused by poor sanitation habits and facilities—has more than doubled its number of cases in Oakland County this year compared to last year.

During 1960, there were 112 cases of infectious hepatitis reported in the county; as of Sept. 27, there were 263 cases reported this year. The disease at present is widespread in the state.

Among causes seen by the Oakland County Department of Health are: sanitation breakdowns in some communities during excessive damp periods this summer, breakdown in habits of personal cleanliness, and rapid expansion in suburban areas where families have moved before adequate sewage and water treatment facilities were available.

The disease spreads from person to person by the intestinal-oral route. Contaminated hands and contaminated water are believed to be the major sources of infection.

Symptoms of infectious hepatitis include loss of appetite, nausea, fever, muscle pains, abdominal distress and yellowing of the eyes and possibly the skin.

The virus disease is more common in children, but usually is more severe when adults are infected, according to the health department. Death hardly ever results.

Treatment by a blood serum, gamma globulin, is usually undertaken. However, each family doctor will decide for himself what treatment is best pursued.

The Oakland County Health Department advises the best way to prevent infectious hepatitis is to maintain a high standard of personal cleanliness (especially washing of the hands) and to support efforts to improve community sanitation.

Delay Examination of Murder Charge

The Pontiac Municipal Court examination of John A. Haase, 19, of 181 S. Marshall St., on a charge of first-degree murder has been postponed until Oct. 11.

It had been scheduled for yesterday before Judge Maurice E. Finnegan. Haase demanded examination when charged, before Finnegan last Friday.

He will remain at the Oakland County Jail without bond. Haase is charged with the shotgun slaying of Janet M. Olsen, 18, of 115 E. 24th St., at the Haase home last Thursday night.

There are 4,654 broken or disrupted homes in the U.S. headed by women, the census showed, and 1,221,000 headed by men, mostly as the result of divorces or deaths.

Sees Passing of the Corner Drugstore

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Andrew A. Romano, who has been a druggist for 50 years, told members of the Pharmacy Society of Rochester at a dinner in his honor that he believes the corner drugstore will soon be a thing of the past.

"I wonder what the next 50 years will bring," he said. "I believe we will be so far advanced that there will be drugs to conquer all the major diseases of today and there won't be any reason for the neighborhood pharmacy." He said he believes that pharmacies of huge chain stores will replace the small, independent druggist.

Alpha, Beta, Gamma Particles a Real Hazard

3 Rays Peril Man After N-Attack

ANN ARBOR (UPI)—There are three types of radiation rays from atomic bomb fallout that are dangerous to humans. There also are two ways by which radiation can cause damage, and two types of damage.

Arthur G. Solari, chief radiological safety officer of the radiation control service at University of Michigan, says the radiation rays given off by nuclear fallout debris in the atmosphere from an atomic bomb explosion consist of alpha, beta and gamma particles.

Damage to humans can be done from external radiation, or particles that have been absorbed into the body. The two types of damage that can be done are called somatic and genetic.

Somatic damage is that done to tissues and structure of the body. Genetic damage is to the reproductive organs that would demonstrate its damage in mutations or imperfections of offspring.

Scientists have only a rough idea of the amounts of radiation that can cause somatic damage. Their knowledge of how much radiation can cause genetic damage is almost speculative, but they believe it requires less damage to cause genetic effects than it takes to cause somatic damage.

TYPES OF PARTICLES

Fallout radiation consists of all three types of radioactive particles but they differ in characteristics. Alpha particles are extremely short-range, only about one-thousandth of an inch. Beta particles disperse their power over about seven inches. Gamma particles carry their punch great distances. Both alpha and beta particles can be easily stopped.

Ordinary clothing, even a plastic covering, would be enough to shield against alpha and beta particles.

It's those long-range gamma particles that can drive through anything ordinary. It takes about six feet of solid concrete . . . or several inches of lead to shield against gamma rays. It becomes obvious, then, that gamma rays become the villains in externally caused radiation. But once inside the body through breathing radioactive dust or eating radioactive food, it's the alpha and beta particles that are the bulls in the china shop.

The Japanese fishermen aboard the Fortunate Dragon who were exposed to fallout from an American test explosion several years ago, suffered radiation from breathing coral dust that fell over their ship, and also suffered terrible skin burns because those alpha and beta rays were in contact with their skins and they had failed to wash it off.

GREAT VARIETY

Fallout consists of a great variety of radioactive elements all with different rates of decay. Some become harmless in a few hours, others decay in days or weeks. Some, like Cesium 137 and Strontium 90, pack their radioactive punch for long years.

In the time immediately after a nearby atomic bomb explosion, external radiation from direct contact with alpha or beta particles, or lack of adequate shielding from gamma rays is the most dangerous.

But weeks after the explosion, the danger comes from the possibility of internal radiation. Natural settling of radioactive dust and other radioactive materials brought to earth by rains, clear the atmosphere of much of the radioactivity. It's still there, but it's in the ground.

MOSAIC WORLD — Geography is being made more interesting for West Berlin school children with the help of this giant mosaic globe. Located on their school grounds, it is made from more than 150,000 pieces of mosaic stone in various colors.

It becomes absorbed then by vegetation. A field of beans or carrots or other vegetables growing where radioactive dust has settled takes up radioactive particles. Livestock feeding in pastures where the grasses have absorbed radioactivity in turn absorb the radioactive materials. Humans eating the meat or drinking the milk or such livestock absorb those materials into the body.

The long-lived radioactive materials then become the great hazard, some more than others. Strontium 90 acts chemically very much like calcium, so it becomes lodged in the bone structure of humans and the deadly rays beat out their destruction for years.

Cesium 137 acts chemically much like potassium and is absorbed in virtually every tissue of the body. Its radioactive half-life is 33 years, even longer than Strontium 90, and it stays in the body hammering explosive forces at all the body cells.

Strontium can be more dangerous because it concentrates in the bones. The attack is likewise concentrated. Fallout shelters protect from external radiation. But if in a nuclear war, the world's soils become saturated with so much long-term radioactive fallout that the foods they grew became dangerous to human consumption, there would be little to be gained by surviving the bombs.

Man could not wait 25 or 33 years to eat his next meal.

Watch That Step

CHATTANOOGA — Walter Parrish, a shoe salesman from the suburban Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., highway, Parrish was treated for that sinking feeling as he drove his car along the edge of the famous Lookout Mountain. His car plunged over a precipice and landed about 100 feet below the highway. Parrish was treated for minor injuries.

Lions and Bears Have Heated Rivalry

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

The Chicago Bears will be at Tiger Stadium Sunday, so just forget about season records.

No rivalry has been so intense as that between the Bears and the Lions, which dates back to 1934 when the franchise was brought to the Motor City. The teams have met 32 times and the Bears have won 34 times, the Lions 16 with two ties.

One thing the Lions have a tough time doing, against the Bears is to produce an effective passing game. Bobby Layne, who led the Lions through the great championship years, had his poorest days against the boys from Illinois tech.

He always felt he took more physical punishment from the Bears than from any team in the league.

Last year's games were typical of how the Bears handle the Detroit passing attack. In the first game, the Bears went on a rampage by throwing Lion passers for 157 yards in losses and allowed a net of only 14 yards. The Lions were whipped, 28-7.

In the second game in Detroit which the Lions won, 36-0, the Bears still managed to scuttle East Morrill and Jim Nowinski by allowing only 41 yards passing.

The victory was paced by Nick Pietrosante's great running which netted him 104 yards rushing.

The Bears haven't been too effective this year, having been

Records Not Important Sunday

Wilson hasn't been too successful against his old teacher George Halas. Since taking over the Lions he has been beaten by the Bears six times in eight tries.

The Bears will be at full strength as fullback Rick Casares is ready for full time duty. He was hurt in the opener against Minnesota and has seen only limited action. He and Willie Gailimore give the Bears a strong 1-2 running punch. Game time is 1:30 p.m. Sunday and the Lion ticket offices at the stadium will be open two hours before game time with plenty of bleacher seats available.

Here's the new High Torque power for every weight class—light, medium and heavy... the most powerful engines in Chevrolet history... sure saving power and dependability for every job!

There are plenty of powerful reasons for Chevy superiority. High torque reasons. Reasons that range all the way from a mighty new High Torque 409 V8* for heavy, right down to the thrifty Six*... including the High Torque 261 Six* that's available for the first time in light-duty.

Lots of other reasons, too. Like the new work styling with downward-sloping hoods that let drivers see up to 10% less of the road directly ahead. Like Chevrolet's proved Independent Front Suspension for even smoother riding, easier working trucks. Position Is Rich

MSU Filled at Fullback

EAST LANSING (AP)—Duffy Daugherty always insisted that his No. 1 offensive team shouldn't be referred to as the varsity, or the starters.

Daugherty explained he starts one of two teams, on the offense or the defense, depending on the flip of the coin.

"All 22 are starters," he said.

George Salinas is a case in point. He's listed as the No. 2 fullback because he's a junior, weighs only 183 pounds and runs behind Ron Hatcher, the burly 214-pounder.

Salinas, in his supposed second-string role, made 94 yards and four touchdowns against Wisconsin. Hatcher made the other. Hatcher ran for 22 yards.

The statistics were off base on this one. They didn't show how Hatcher were down the opposition, geared them to his running power and then left to let the change-of-pace boy—Salinas—come in and scout through.

Behind the two is an almost unnoticed fellow named Roger Lopes, a sophomore fullback weighing 215. Lopes carried only two times against Wisconsin and picked up five yards.

Benny Paret Named Boxer-of-the-Month

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Benny Paret of Cuba, who regained his world welterweight title last Saturday with a decision over Emilio Griffith, New York, was named boxer-of-the-month in the latest National Boxing Association ratings.

The NBA also gave a rating to heavyweight challenger Tom McNeely, of Arlington, Mass. Wednesday—the first time the young heavy had cracked the group's top 10—in its September ratings.

McNeely, unbeaten in 23 fights was given the No. 10 spot. He is Floyd Patterson in Toronto in December scheduled to fight champion R. Joe Erskine of Britain returned to the top 10, taking over ninth.

He and McNeely replaced Mike DeJohn of Syracuse and Dick Richardson of Wales.

Sonny Liston of Philadelphia No. 1 contender until suspended because of difficulties with the law, will not be given a rating, said Tony Petronella, chairman of the NBA's rating committee.

A New Patriot

BOSTON (AP)—The American Football League's Boston Patriots signed tackle Dick Klein, formerly of the National Football League, and released rookie fullback Mel West Wednesday.

Mets, Colts Ask Player Revision

National League's New Entries Not Satisfied With Personnel List

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Mets and Houston Colts, who come into the National League next year, have asked league officials to revise the list of players who will be available to them to include higher caliber players.

Mets President George Weiss and Colts General Manager Paul Richards are not satisfied with the list of players offered them for the $75,000 draft figure. The Associated Press learned Wednesday night.

"Just say we have had a few conferences with National League club officials," Richards said in refusing to confirm or deny the information. "Things may improve."

Weiss was not available for comment.

Richards had been quoted previously as saying:

"The American League talent pool of last year (for the new Washington and Los Angeles teams) are not only hurting Houston and New York, but are hurting the National League and all baseball. It is to their own benefit to offer us a better grade of players."

The 120-man list as revealed by The Associated Press includes such veterans as Robin Roberts, Ted Schenfield, Richie Ashburn, Gil Hodges, Johnny Antonelli and many minor league players.

2 Bucs Enter World Series of Fishing

GROVE, Okla. (AP)—Two members of the Pittsburgh Pirates will be in a world series this year.

But it won't be for the baseball title they helped win last fall. Pitcher Harvey Haddix and second baseman Bill Mazeroski are entered in the world series of sport fishing contest here Oct. 22-23.

Mazeroski hit a Series-winning home run in the seventh game of last fall's baseball playoff.

Top Trotters Entered in Kentucky Futurity

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Eight of the nation's top three-year-old trotters are entered for Friday's $38,330 Kentucky Futurity, the third jewel in trotting's triple crown.

Harlan Dean, winner of the Hambletonian, is not eligible.

Duke Rodney, one of four co-favorites, has one jewel under his belt for his victory in the Yonkers Futurity, but his break of stride in two heats of the rich Hambletonian has insured against a sweep.

Hillsdale Rated First in NAIA Football Poll

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Hillsdale (Mich.) College, without firing a shot, captured first place in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) weekly football ratings.

After last week following impressive victories over St. Joseph's and St. Benedict's, Hillsdale (2-0) will play at Northern Michigan (2-1) in this week's top small college game.

Northern Michigan, last week's leader, dropped to fifth place after losing to Bradley 14-8.

Humboldt (Calif.) State (2-0) moved up a notch to second following a 27-13 victory over Williamette, Texas A & I (2-0) moved from fourth to third by beating Trinity University and Southeastern Louisiana (3-0) gained fourth place with a 39-0 triumph over Corpus Christi.

Pittsburg (Kan.) State (3-0), unscored upon, now is sixth. Wofford (S.C.) College (2-0-1) is seventh; Central Oklahoma (3-0) is eighth; Arkansas Tech (3-0) ninth, and Lenoir Rhyne (1-1-1) slipped from sixth to tenth.

Hillsdale is listed 2nd behind Texas A & I in the 1st 1961 Associated Press small college poll. Northern Michigan is No. 8.

Red Wings Play Final Exhibition

Meet Leafs in Rematch Tonight Following 2-2 Deadlock Yesterday

BRANDON, Man. (UPI) — The Detroit Red Wings tangle with the Toronto Maple Leafs in the final game of a Red Wing pre-season Western trip here tonight. It will be the fourth exhibition game with a National Hockey League foe for the Wings this season.

Last night the two teams battled to a 2-2 tie at Winnipeg, Man., to give the Red Wings a 3-0-2 record going into tonight's contest.

Red Tully put the Leafs ahead with the only first period goal and Bruce MacGregor tied it up for Detroit in the second period.

Dave Keon slammed the puck through goalie Terry Sawchuk early in the third period to give the Leafs a brief lead. However, Vic Stastuk knotted the score in the middle of the third period with the last goal of the game.

Sawchuk minded the nets the entire game and was credited with 27 saves. John Bower made 27 saves for Toronto before leaving the game at the end of the second period. He was replaced by Jerry Cheever, who was credited with six saves.

Pistons Beat Knicks to Atone for Loss

MIDLAND (UPI) — The Detroit Pistons, who lost their first exhibition game of the year to New York Tuesday, got revenge by drubbing the Knicks, 126-109, last night.

Ronnie Ray Scott, the Pistons' 27 points, Bailey Howell contributed No. 1 draft choice, led Detroit with 20 points toward the Pistons' winning effort.

Willie Naulls, who was ejected from the contest in the third quarter, led the Knickerbockers with 19 points.

The Pistons also announced last night that guard Burt Price, 6-foot 4-inch Wittenburg (Ohio) College graduate, had been cut from the roster. Now, the Pistons have 13 players on their list, one above the 12-man limit which must be reached by the start of the National Basketball Association season, Oct. 21.

Another 'Breather' Friday for PCH

By CHUCK ABRAH

A pair of interest-packed Inter-Lakes games will be among the headlines on the high school football news around the Oakland County 'twees tomorrow night.

Biggest attention will be on the new Walpole Lake stadium where the high-spirited Pontiac Northern Huskies and the Vikings will be matching unbeaten records.

Waterford and Southfield are both anxious to bounce back after dropping close loop openings. They collide tonight at Skippersville. Berkley will be guest of an improved Farmington eleven.

Walpole Lake has been the power of the I-L and is favored again this time but PNH showed in a comeback win over Southfield that it has the stuff to be a contender all the way.

Viking fans will be dedicating their new athletic field and will be hoping for a happy occasion.

but coach Dave Smith admits his team will be facing the "best team we've met this year."

Walpole Lake took two non-league contests before defeating a surprisingly tough Farmington club last week. Northern took Lake Orion before whipping Southfield.

The home team will have the edge on size and depth but must cope with a strong Huskie backfield and hard-working line. Dave Shields, Rick Risher, Chris Payne and Bill Young head the Red and White offense. Smith has power runner Mike Buffmeyer and some quick legs headed by vet Mike Hinckley.

Both teams should be well set physically for the game although injured Viking defensive ace Pat Fitzgerald will not be ready to play as expected. He was hurt at the start of the season.

In the Wayne-Oakland race, Clarkson goes to Holly in the top game of local interest. West Bloomfield will host Brighton. Bloomfield Hills is at Clawsonville and Northville should keep rolling past Milford.

Avondale will have its work cut out trying to stay unbeaten in the Oakland B at Troy. Madison travels to Fitzgerald and Clawson vs. Oak Park.

It's North Branch at Millington in the only South Central tilt. Thumb action will have Alhambra at Armada and New Haven vs. Dryden.

Elsewhere, Oxford and Lake Orion meet in a battle of neighbors. Utica entertains South Lake. Royal Oak Dondero plays Highland Park, East Detroit vs. Roseville. Country Day meets Hoston, Lamphere takes on Lutheran West. RO Shrine is at St. Ambrose. Ortonville vs. Genesee and South Lyon hosts Monroe Catholic Central.

Midland Pays First Football Visit to City

Chiefs Battle Chemics in Valley Contest at Wisner Stadium

By BILL CORNWELL

It's just one "breather" right after another these days for the winless Pontiac Central football squad.

Already frustrated to the breaking point in three previous games, the Chiefs encounter their 4th Saginaw Valley Conference "push-over" of the season here Friday evening.

This time the foe is a hard-nosed Midland football team, one of the Valley's three new members and a gridiron power in prep circles for the past several years.

The Chemics, ranked 7th in this week's Class A poll, pay their first football visit to the city of Pontiac tomorrow night when they square off against the Chiefs in an SVC encounter at Wisner Stadium at 8 o'clock.

Midland is coached by veteran Bob Stoppert, who has had only one losing season in 22 years of coaching. Stoppert became head grid coach at Midland in 1953 and the Chemics' gridiron stock rose sharply.

Pre-season favorites to make a strong bid for Valley honors in their first year of league membership, the Chemics bring a 2-1 record to Wisner plus a tough, well-conditioned outfit.

Their lone setback was certainly no disgrace, a 13-6 loss to subveteran Bay City Handy, currently rated 2nd in the AP poll.

They opened the 1962 campaign with a 13-6 victory over defending champion Flint Northern and last week Stoppert's regulars played slightly more than two quarters while hammering out an easy 26-7 conquest of Saginaw High.

Paul Delbert's Huron Street griders are still searching for that elusive first win. They thought they had it a week ago at Saginaw, but mistakes were costly as Arthur Hill rallied for a 13-13 tie.

Errors have hurt the Chiefs dearly in every one of their three games. They dropped a 26-6 decision to Flint Central in the opening contest, then lost to top-rated Bay City Central, 13-0.

Midland's high ranking is due largely to a rock-ribbed defense that has limited three opponents to a combined rushing total of 180 yards. This will test the Chiefs' attack thoroughly because thus far the PCH offense has been mostly a running game.

Delbert may have to loosen up the Chiefs' aerial arm because errors have hurt the Chiefs dearly in every one of their three games. They dropped a 26-6 decision to Flint Central in the opening contest, then lost to top-rated Bay City Central, 13-0.

Fumbleitis, which has plagued the Chiefs in their last two outings, has been the subject of concentration in this week's practice sessions, along with defense. Delbert is very concerned about the Chiefs' fumbling habit and the inability of the defense to stop the opposition at crucial moments.

Jockey Injured
SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP)—Jockey Gilbert Hernandez suffered a fractured collarbone in the seventh race at Bay Meadows Wednesday when his mount, Little Duke, fell on him in the stretch turn.

BRIGHT LIGHT—Pontiac Central football fans haven't had too much to cheer about during the 1961 season, but some of the Chiefs' most sparkling play has been turned in by 200-pound junior tackle Dick Richards, pictured here diving for a loose ball in a practice session. Richards and his PCH teammates face Saginaw Valley rival Midland Friday night at Wisner at 8 p.m.

Rochester Takes Aim at 'The Untouchables'

By DON VOGEL

Will the "untouchables" finally get touched?

This question will be foremost in the minds of Romeo and Rochester fans who will attend Romeo's homecoming game against the Falcons Friday at 7:30.

The Bulldogs have not yielded a point in triumph over Richmond, Waterford Kettering and Oxford. This defensive record has earned them the "untouchables" tag.

While the defense has been turning back the opposition, Romeo's attack has rolled up an impressive 111 points.

Rochester will carry a potent attack into this traditional contest. The Falcons were held to one touchdown in a setback at Mt. Clemens, but showed plenty of power in downing good Utica and Troy eleven.

In the preseason forecasts, this Tri-County League game was supposed to be in the breather class for Rochester. The Bulldogs had few experienced players on hand when practice opened, and coach Ernie Maule figured this would be a rebuilding year.

Maule, in his first year at the helm of the Bulldogs, has succeeded in building faster than even he thought possible.

The coach said, "Team work is the only reason I can give for the success we have enjoyed so far. We have no real stars on the team and this has been a help in keeping the boys playing as a unit."

"It's true that (Bill) Triefelt had a good night against Oxford, but before that game, John Hanley and Chris Palmer turned in good performances."

"Our second unit has scored almost as much as the first team, and this keeps the starters hustling."

The Bulldogs average 177 along the line, two pounds lighter than their Rochester counterparts.

Coach Gene Kenley's Falcons will be attempting to make the same shambles of the Romeo defense as the San Francisco 49ers made of the Detroit Lions' vaunted unit last Sunday in a National Football League game.

GOOD SPEED

"They have to contain us, also," pointed out Kenley who has directed the Falcons to five straight wins over Romeo. "We have just as much speed in the backfield as they do."

"Our scouting report shows Romeo's backs are real fast, and the players have plenty of hustle. We are expecting a tough game."

Stopping Mitzelfeld will only be one of the problems for the Bulldogs. Halfback Pete Long and fullback Ed Dando have the speed to go all the way. Veteran quarterback Bud Baldwin is one of the main reasons for Rochester's success.

Opening the holes for the ball carriers is a large, mobile line, anchored by All-County center Jay Oveson.

Tackle John Thom and guard Ed Fliss are top performers in the line.

Although the Falcons have lost once, they are being tabbed slight favorites because Rochester has played stiffer competition than Romeo.

Kettering travels to Cranbrook for a Friday afternoon non-league contest. L'Anse au Loup and Lapeer battle on the Panthers' field in the first league game for both teams.

Jockey Equals Record With 8 Wins in Row

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Jockey Johnny Sellers, who gained prominence this year by winning the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness, rode eight straight winners at the Atlantic City Race Track to equal an American record.

The 24-year-old native of Los Angeles won the last three races on Tuesday's program and the first five Wednesday to match Howard Craig's feat at Waterford Park, W. Va., on July 24 in 1951.

Hoople Calls Upsets Against 'M'-Syracuse

By MARION AMOS B. HOOPLE
Purdue of Reverses

Eggs! My millions of loyal followers will be rewarded this week by the juiciest upset of the 1961 season.

Yes, dear readers, the Hoople System gives you the Terrapins of Maryland to shakele Ernie Davis and his Syracuse cohorts. After carefully weighing all factors, including the long range weather forecast and the early October tide situation in Maryland, I predict a stunning 16-14 triumph for the Terrapins, Hak-kaff!

My big pick in the Midwest is Notre Dame to avenge its humiliating, 51-19 trouncing by Purdue last year. The Irish will down the Boilermakers, 34-24, this Saturday. Also in the Midwest, visiting Army will eke out a 24-22 victory over Michigan.

The other contests on the day's card should go according to form: Go on with the forecast:

Monroe Deputies in Trouble After Letting Rocky Go

MONROE (UPI) Two Monroe County deputies were in hot water today because they stopped baseball star Rocky Colavito and another motorist for 'speeding and let them off with a warning.

Sheriff Charles G. Harrington said yesterday, "no one is going to travel through Monroe County at 80 miles an hour — and that includes Rocky Colavito."

Deputies Clyde T. Guthrie and Ralph Brown stopped Colavito Sunday night and let him go. Guthrie was given a 15-day suspension and Brown let off with a reprimand.

BATS FOR BOOKS — Third baseman Steve Boros, left, and rookie catcher Bill Freehan of the Tigers exchanged bats for books yesterday as they enrolled at the University of Michigan for the "off" season. The former Wolverine athletes had applied for permission to register late during the ball season.

Wolverines Favored Over Cadets

No Army 'Shockers' to Worry 'M'

DETROIT (AP) — Army doesn't who scouted Army, says their passing many shock troops any more. None like Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard, who stormed through Michigan 28-7 in 1945. But it does have a potent weapon through the air.

Like the modern Army that relies more on missile weapons than infantrymen, the Cadets of 1961 move swifter through the air lanes. Coach Dale Hall's Cadets bring their passing attack to Michigan Stadium Saturday for one of their always popular clashes with the Wolverines.

This will be the first test for Michigan's pass defense. The Wolverines were impressive in all other aspects of the game when they opened with their 29-6 thrashing of UCLA. But the Bruins didn't pass much—the hard-running Michigan line wouldn't give them time—and so coach Bump Elliott must regard his pass defense as an unknown quantity.

Assistant coach Jocko Nelson,

This past summer, according to one story building up the Cadets, many of the Army players were on maneuvers in Europe and their main training consisted of commando tactics.

Dick Eckert, a 180-pounder with a rifle arm, is Army's quarterback and top passer. The Cadets still feature the lonesome end. Paul Zmuda plays the lonesome end on Hall's first string. Unbeaten Army has conquered Richmond and Boston University.

A 253-man contingent of Cadets will come to Ann Arbor for the eighth game in the Michigan-Army series. Michigan lost the first five and won the last two. The most recent game was in 1956 when the Wolverines won 42-14.

Wall Between Friends at Festival Time

Impact of Divided Berlin Grows Greater

By PHIL NEWSON
UPI Foreign News Analyst
BERLIN — The concrete and barbed wire wall thrown across Berlin by the Communists joined West Berlin industry, but essentially it remains a story of human tragedy.

It is a chilling look at a divided world, a twice-told tale that can not lose its chilling impact.

The impact becomes the greater because this is October festival time in Germany, and in West Berlin, where gaiety and freedom can blend to become indistinguishable, the lights of a gay carnival reflect against the night sky only a few hundred yards from the wall.

The only crossing point between East and West left open to foreigners now is on the Friedrichstrasse.

Here, separated by a distance of less than 100 yards stand American GIs on the one hand and East German Vopos (so-called People's Police) who guard the

The division suddenly becomes very real.

"Check Point Charlie," the Americans call it.

"ALWAYS CHECK HERE"

"It's best that you always check in here, sir, before going over," he says. "That way we'll know if you don't come back."

compartments to prove that he is smuggling nothing in.

On the return trip he will open it again to prove that he is smuggling no one out.

Ahead lies the concrete maze.

A woman East German doctor achieved the impossible the other day, threading it at high speed with her 12-year-old son in the car before the Vopos had a chance to shoot.

Now comes the heartbreak.

There are seven breaks in the wall, one for foreigners, two for West Germans, and four for West Berliners who have business in the Eastern sector.

At each of these silent crowds the East Germans gather. Their silence hangs heavy in the air.

Wrestlers Follow Con-Con Into Ring

LANSING — Leaping Larry Wee Davey and Billy the Kid were back performing in their old arena Wednesday night, only temporarily inconvenienced by the constitutional convention.

Leaping Wee and Billy are wrestlers who for several years have been accustomed to performing in the main auditorium of Lansing's Civic Center on Tuesday night.

They were ousted Tuesday so the constitutional convention could convene. The convention had even said they couldn't make the last switch from the constitutional to a wrestling arena in one night.

Warren E. Meade, chairman of the wrestling committee of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, sponsors of the show, estimated the date shift would mean a loss of about $2,000.

Meade offered to make a deal with the con-con people, if the State Board of Athletic Control would approve.

He said he would not seek damages if the State Board of Athletic Control would approve women wrestlers for one night only.

Gov. Swainson was forced the issue and threw it in turn to David Gudeley of Muskegon, board chairman.

"No," said Gudeley flatly. He might be old fashioned, the chairman explained, but women wrestlers have never been allowed in Michigan.

"It would destroy the entire concept of womanhood," he said.

"We think too much of our ladies in Michigan to allow them to wrestle."

The Veterans of Foreign Wars accepted the decision and agreed to move up the show one night. They didn't mention the fact that the convention also features women — 11 delegates.

So Leaping Larry Chene, Crusher Carter, Wave Davo Duncan, Bad Boy Joe and Billy the Kid changed the script and wrestled one night later for the good of the constitutional convention.

Bette Davis Suing Magazine for Story

NEW YORK (AP)—Bette Davis has filed a million-dollar libel suit against Modern Screen magazine, charging an article in the May issue depicted her as an aging has-been actress with no future.

The suit, against Dell Publishing Co., came to light Wednesday when Dell moved in State Supreme Court to strike out portions of the complaint, including those alleging malice.

Miss Davis, twice an Academy-award winner, contended the article had conveyed the impression that she was "a pathetic, grotesque, ridiculous and eccentric person who occupied herself by morosely ruminating about her past glories and by facing the future hopelessly and fearfully."

The result, says Miss Davis in her suit, was to hold her up to public ridicule and contempt.

Netherland's Won't Enter New Guinea Dispute

THE HAGUE — The Netherlands does not intend to enter into negotiations with Indonesia on the Dutch New Guinea dispute, Premier Jan de Quay told Parliament Wednesday.

Such discussions would not guarantee the right of self-determination for New Guinea Papuans, he said.

German Youths Rebuild Nazi-Bombed Cathedral

COVENTRY, England — Fourteen German youths, all skilled craftsmen, and two German girls started work today on rebuilding the vestries of the Coventry cathedral destroyed by Nazi bombers in World War II.

The project, costing 10,000 pounds ($28,000), is sponsored by German Christians who gave it the title "Operation Reconciliation."

Best Opening Yet for Pontiac Autos

Popular acclaim for the 1962 Pontiacs is giving the division its best introductory period in history. It was announced today.

Deliveries by dealers in the last 10 days of September totaled 50,528. There were 14,813 Pontiacs sold, and 5,715 Tempests.

Sales also zoomed to an all-time high for a 10-day period in the Pontiac sales zone. During the last 10 days of September, sales of 1962 Pontiac cars totaled 1,978 in this area comprising Michigan and northern portions of Ohio and Indiana.

Pontiac's last sales record for a ten-day introductory period was 18,354 cars sold between Oct. 1 and 10, 1959.

KNUDSEN PLEASSED
Pontiac Motor Division General Manager S. E. Knudsen, who had earlier predicted half a million Pontiac sales for 1962, hailed the new models' reception. "We are extremely pleased to report that Pontiac Motor Division experienced the most successful and encouraging introductory period in its history."

"The enthusiastic reception given the 1962 Pontiacs and Tempests by our customers has never been greater. This keen interest in our new cars is especially rewarding for us."

"It more than justifies our constant efforts to produce the greatest value in the automobile industry."

"By building the best and most reliable car we know how and by striving to make it even better each year, we are able to fulfill our obligation to our customers."

JFK Expected to Talk Tough With Gromyko

Will Tell Russian That West Is Not Bluffing in Vow to Fight on Berlin

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy is expected at his meeting Friday with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to stress that the West is not bluffing in its pledge to fight if necessary for its rights in Berlin.

The President, according to U. S. officials, undoubtedly will couple this warning with an offer to negotiate the smoldering issue of Russia's "first" recognition of the West's vital interests in the beleaguered city.

Officials said Kennedy wants Gromyko to take back to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev a very clear understanding of the extreme peril, involving the possibility of nuclear war, if the Kremlin misinterprets the Allied determination.

There may be some written message for Khrushchev, officials said, but they thought it more likely the President would simply tell Gromyko what he wants him to report to his boss.

The State Department arranged the White House meeting after Secretary of State Dean Rusk in three New York talks with Gromyko found evidence that the Russians might be getting some idea of the basis on which the Allies would be willing to enter formal negotiations.

'BETTER ATMOSPHERE'
Rusk was said to have reported to Kennedy that while there was no real "give" in the tough Russian position, there was a somewhat better atmosphere with Gromyko inclined to discuss issues instead of dictating terms. Officials cautioned, however, against expecting any early diplomatic breakthrough.

The White House, in announcing Wednesday that the Kennedy-Gromyko meeting had been set for 4 p. m. (Pontiac time) Friday had nothing else to say on the subject.

Officials said the meeting could be critical — a turning point in determining whether the Berlin crisis is going to be settled at the conference table or on the battlefield.

Gromyko, who has been attending the U. N. General Assembly in New York, plans to return to Moscow this weekend for the Oct. 17 opening of the 22nd congress of the Soviet Communist party.

Rusk will sit in on the Gromyko meeting with Kennedy, as will his top advisers on the Berlin issue. Asst. Secretary of State Foy D. Kohler and Soviet affairs expert Charles E. Bohlen.

Talks Focusing 'Troika' Leads Convention on Local Issues

Ford Negotiators Plan to Keep Phone Lines Humming Today

DETROIT (AP)—Federal mediators, acting as observers, today joined Ford Motor Co. and United Auto Workers Union negotiators for a settlement of a strike which has shut down Ford operations.

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers Union planned to keep the phone lines humming today in a concerted effort to get the company back into car production by the first of next week.

Their top negotiators decided Wednesday the best way to end the strike that shut down Ford plants from coast to coast Tuesday was to give priority to effecting settlements on working conditions at individual plants.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther and Ford's vice president for labor relations, Malcolm L. Deane, postponed further discussions on a national contract on working conditions until 2 p. m. Friday.

Dense agreed with Reuther's suggestion the time could be spent more profitably by the union and the company setting up direct phone contacts with the plants to clear away the roadblock of local disputes.

About half of the union's 85 bargaining units have completed settlements with plant managers on problems as washup time, parking lot and cafeteria facilities, protective clothing, overtime room, choice of hours and seniority plan.

The U.S. stand was conveyed to the Soviet delegation by other means. There was no immediate Soviet reaction.

To avert the Soviet veto of a secretary general candidate in the 11-nation Security Council, the United States had proposed that the veto-free, 100-nation General Assembly name a temporary successor.

FOLLOWS SOFTENING
The switch in American tactics came after the Soviets in turn had softened their position.

The Soviets first put up their so-called troika plan for a three-man secretary general with three advisers, none with a veto.

LANSING API—Organization of Michigan's constitutional convention moved ahead briskly today under the guidance of a "troika" of three vice presidents who will help the assemblage rewrite the state's basic law.

Two Republicans and a Democrat were elected unanimously Wednesday to assist President Stephen S. Nisbet in selecting members of committees that will examine the present 1961 constitutional section-by-section.

Each delegate was asked to fill out a questionnaire on his abilities and preferences to help in making the committee assignments.

Recommendations on procedure which the committee on organization made to the full convention Wednesday were adopted with little protest except for objections, led mostly by delegates who live considerable distance from Lansing, on a five day work week.

Delegate Donald M. Habermann, R-Alpena, said scheduling sessions for Monday night would not allow sufficient time for meetings at home.

AGAINST COMMITMENT
Delegate Joseph M. Snyder, D-St. Clair Shores, said he was against "committing ourselves to an irrevocable schedule."

But delegate Richard C. Van Dusen, chairman of the committee on organization and a Republican from Birmingham, said the convention could establish whatever meeting times it wished and the schedule of 8 p. m. meetings on Monday, 7 p. m. meetings on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and 10 a. m. meetings on Friday, was only meant as a guide for delegates.

The clinching argument for five-day regular work week for convention delegates was provided by delegate Lee Boothby, R-Niles, who at 28 is one of the youngest members.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (U.P.) — The United States today was reported to have agreed in the main to a Soviet plan for picking a temporary U.N. secretary-general. Support was building up for U Thant of Burma to take over the vital executive position.

The U.S. stand increased hopes that a way will be found to break the U.S.-Soviet deadlock with its threat of paralysis for the administrative arm of the world organization.

Informed diplomats said the United States agreed with reservations to Soviet insistence that the Security Council nominate the successor to the late Dag Hammarskjöld.

The reservations are that the United States and the Soviet Union first agree on the candidate and on his powers, informants said.

Red Policeman Fires Shot at West Berliner

Second Such Incident in Day Adds to West's Worries Over City

AP Photo/... The first incident occurred during a chase of two East German refugees across border rooftop. One refugee, crying freedom, plunged to his death when he jumped five stories and missed a West Berlin fireman's net. The other refugee was captured by the East German police and taken away.

As a result of the two incidents, Mayor Willy Brandt said he was discussing with the Western powers the reinforcement of West Berlin police to make the borders secure. The shooting of the East German policeman was expected to raise a diplomatic storm.

Vopos, Communist police, threw rocks across the wall into West Berlin. One rock smashed the windshield of a truck on the roadway. A police patrol car was called, and an officer went up to the wall and called out to the Vopos to stop throwing rocks.

RED FIRES SHOT
A Vopo officer approached the wall, aimed his submachine gun and shouted, "Go back!" Then the Vopo fired at the police officer. The bullet missed, and police on both sides drew back.

The two shootings were the most serious since the Communists began erecting their wall of barbed wire and concrete blocks across the heart of Berlin on Aug. 13.

Bernauerstrasse is about the toughest point along the 35-mile wall. The houses there are in Communist territory, the sidewalks in the West.

In a separate incident, Communist guards trained their guns on a Lebanese journalist who tried to carry an 8-pound wooden cross through the Brandenburg Gate into East Berlin.

Edmond Khayat dragged the 10-foot cross about three miles up to the gate as a one-man demonstration for peace and good will. At the gate two Vopos pointed their submachine guns at him. He wouldn't retreat. After many words, the Vopos turned Khayat around and pushed him.

The change in the U.S. position removed one hurdle in the path of getting a successor named. There still remains the Soviet demand that whoever is named shall have three deputies from Communist, West and neutral nations with whom he must consult.

SEEK AGREEMENT
Nations seeking to work up an acceptable formula were reportedly trying to get the Soviets and Americans to agree that the Security Council secretary general should appoint a certain number of assistants whom he could call on for advice if he chose.

Believe Abortion Ring Smashed With 3 Arrests

An abortion racket which supposedly netted a half million dollars a year was believed smashed today with the arrest in Livonia of a Bloomfield Township doctor and his two assistants from Oakland County.

Charged with manslaughter by abortion were Dr. Bernard W. Weiss, 43, of 1139 Charrington Road, his alleged assistant Hugo J. Pollak, 45, of 165 E. Hazelhurst St., Ferndale, and Mrs. Lillian Broad, of Oak Park, the doctor's nurse.

Their arrest followed an eight-month investigation by a team of State Police and Livonia detectives.

It was climaxed Tuesday when an autopsy on a 27-year-old Madison Heights mother of four reportedly showed she did not die from a coronary thrombosis, as stated on the death certificate signed by Dr. Weiss, but that a criminal abortion had been performed.

According to Asst. Oakland County Prosecutor Richard P. Condit, Dr. Weiss was making $3,000 a week, and performing up to 17 operations a day.

SAYS DEATH ADMITTED
Condit added that relatives of the deceased woman said Dr. Weiss, an orthopedist, had sought to buy their silence, after admitting to them she died during an illegal operation at his clinic Sept. 22.

She was Mrs. Louise D. Ingler, a divorcee. (Condit said the doctor had admitted falsifying the death certificate.)

"Preliminary indications reveal that there was no coronary thrombosis as stated in the death certificate, and signed by Weiss, and that a criminal abortion had been performed on the deceased," Condit said.

The arrest of the doctor followed the arrest of two Detroit men. One is awaiting trial for abortion (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1).

Whitey Ford Finally Shines Alone

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — Whitey Ford, a Yankee who could hardly get his name in the papers during his greatest year, gave the nation a glittering demonstration of his pitching skill Wednesday in the first game of the World Series.

He shut out Cincinnati with a masterful two-hitter and won the game 2-0 with the muscular support of Elston Howard and Moose Skowron, who belted home runs, and the dazzling fielding of Clete Boyer at third.

There was no Mickey Mantle overshadowing Whitey, as he had on so many other occasions during a season in which Ford won 25 and lost only 2. Mantle, weak from a hip operation, lurked in the park of the Yankee bench. He probably will miss today's game, too.

Roger Maris, who so often eclipsed Ford during the season while en route to his record of 61 home runs, was unable to hit the ball out of the infield in four at-bats. Boyer had himself a day that thrilled the 62,387 in the chairs and must have mesmerized the millions whose eyes followed the action on television whenever the commercial could be safely interrupted.

tion in Orleans County Circuit Court and the other is on probation after serving three months in the county jail for an attempted abortion in Royal Oak.

FRIENDS ARRESTED

Police arrested a male friend of Mrs. Ingie who had taken her to Dr. Weiss' clinic, 31204 Five Mile Road, Livonia, for the operation.

After waiting outside the clinic for an hour the friend went inside and inquired, Condit said. He was told Mrs. Ingie was dead.

She was buried three days later in the White Chapel Cemetery in Troy. Her body was exhumed Tuesday on a petition of Condit's and signed by West Bloomfield Township Justice of the Peace Elmer C. Dietrich.

Dr. Richard E. Olsen performed the autopsy.

An inquest will be held before Dietrich, Condit said, to determine the exact cause of death.

Condit said a sister of Mrs. Ingie's, who was aware of the operation, went to see Dr. Weiss and accused the doctor of killing her sister. Condit said the doctor first offered her $5,000 to keep quiet.

After her sister said Mrs. Ingie made this as an employee of the C. M. Smilie & Co., 1130 Woodward Heights, Ferndale, Condit said Dr. Weiss then offered the relatives $30,000.

The prosecutor said the doctor wrote a check for $5,000 after first writing out on a prescription slip that Mrs. Ingie had died during the operation and that he had falsified the death certificate.

The relatives then, according to Condit, accompanied Dr. Weiss to the bank, where he cashed the check. He found, however, that he had but $2,100 in his account. Lated he sought a loan from the bank to make good the check but bank officials, Condit said, told him he would need his wife's signature.

Dr. Weiss promised to return the next day and deposit money to make the check good. The relatives, however, never sought to cash the $5,000 check but instead went to tell their story to a Ferndale attorney who in turn alerted Condit.

TAKEN IN DETROIT

Dr. Weiss was arrested while driving in Detroit by troopers of the Center Line State Police Post.

Detective Thomas McPhail of the State Police, who did the investigating on the case, arrested Polak and State Police Detective George Craft arrested Mrs. Broad.

McPhail and Craft were assisted in the investigation and surveillance of the doctor's residence, located on S. 10 Mile Road, by L. Robert Turner and Frank Brandmuhl of the Livonia Police Department.

They were to be arraigned this afternoon by Municipal Judge Robert Lorton in Livonia. They are jailed in the Livonia jail.

Prepare Trials for 118 Negroes

White Man Also Among Group Protesting Move in Mississippi

MOCCOMB, Miss. (AP)—Officers untangled details today of a mass demonstration by 118 Negroes and one white man and began preparation for trials in city and youth courts.

Police said a white man attacked the white demonstrator before officers rescued him. He was jailed for his own protection, they said.

City Judge Robert Brumfield will try 19 of the demonstrators over 18 years old and Judge Hansford L. Simmons will conduct Youth Court for 100-junior and senior high school pupils.

The pupils walked out of a school program Wednesday in what they called a protest against officials for not allowing two sit-in demonstrators to re-enter school immediately.

Released on bond
School officials said Brenda Travis, 16, and Isaac Lewis, 20, were released from jail Saturday on $1,000 cash bond. They were arrested after a sit-in attempt at the McComb bus station Aug. 20.

The demonstration ended on the steps of City Hall when the pupils started praying and making speeches. They were arrested for disturbing the peace and bond was set at $100 each.

The jailed white man, 22-year-old Bob Zolner of Atlanta, is a field worker for the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee.

During the demonstration officers also arrested the Rev. Donald Lloyd Gaston, 45, of Detroit, Mich., and Robert Moses, 26, of New York, both Negroes. Moses has been conducting voter registration schools in the McComb area since he arrived Monday to help in the work.

Thunderbird Line Offering New Roadster, Landau in '62

Two new models and over 100 engineering improvements are offered by the 1962 Thunderbird line. Details on the new models were released today by Lee A. Iacocca, Ford Motor Co. vice president and Ford Division general manager.

The two added models are a two-seat sports roadster and a vinyl-covered hardtop Landau model.

Combined with the regular hardtop and convertible, the two new models increase the luxury car line to four models — widest selection in Thunderbird's six-year history.

All four models will be introduced in Ford dealer showrooms Oct. 12. Ford dealers in this area are John McCall Ford, Inc., 630 Oakland Ave., Pontiac, and Beatrice Motor Sales, 3806 Dixie Highway, Waterford.

The Thunderbird retains its streamlined styling, distinctive roofline and round fenders. New is a square-back design grille.

CHROME SPOKES
Special features include wheels with chrome-plated spokes and rims and simulated knock-off wheels. Narrow band whitewall tires will be an optional feature.

The Landau model has a vinyl-covered roof available in black or white colors. There is a distinctive "S" bar on the side of its rear pool panels.

The swing-away steering wheel, ordered by nearly 77 per cent of Thunderbird buyers since it has been made available in 1961, is now standard equipment.

Better riding and maintenance characteristics are expected from prolonged service times and multiple coating of the body. An improved suspension system is also being developed.

The relocation payment will cover the cost of relocation of persons outside the area through Aug. 31.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Hurricane Muriel flew northward in the Atlantic today in a low-pressure system that was expected to take it to a polar graveyard.

The season's sixth tropical storm grew into a hurricane Wednesday with winds up to 80 miles per hour spinning around the center.

The latest report placed the hurricane's center near latitude 28.1 north, longitude 71.2 west or 500 miles east of Cape Canaveral, Fla., and 460 miles southwest of Bermuda.

Will Remove Some Tissue To Run Test on Rayburn

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—A surgeon at Baylor University Medical Center announced today that he will take a tissue sample from ailing House Speaker Sam Rayburn for a diagnosis.

The surgeon referred to it as a "diagnostic biopsy." A spokesman for the hospital said that a biopsy is frequently but not always a test for cancer.

The 73-year-old Rayburn has had severe back pains for three months and has been losing weight. He reported at Baylor Monday on the advice of a doctor in Bonham, Tex., his home town, for exhaustive medical tests.

The surgeon, who asked that his name be withheld, probably will decide upon the basis of the diagnostic biopsy, whether to operate.

"Mr. Rayburn has a fairly comfortable night," a bulletin issued by the surgeon said. "A diagnostic biopsy will be done sometime today. The question of whether surgery will be involved will depend to a great extent upon the result of the biopsy. There is no major change in his general condition."

The surgeon said Wednesday that Rayburn is seriously, though not critically, ill.

"Any man who has been ill for three months is in serious condition," he said.

Short Session Bid Fails in Murder Trial

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Testimony for the prosecution continued today in the circuit court trial of J. Otto Peebles on a charge of murder after an unsuccessful defense move to shorten the sessions.

Attorney Harold S. Sawyer said the defense was willing to concede such items as pictures taken by police, bloody clothing and spent bullets. He noted that such matters produced by the prosecution required about a week in the first trial which ended July 21 in a hung jury.

Peebles is accused in the March 8 slaying of his wife, Louise. She was shot to death and a companion, Roy Staples, suffered crippling bullet wounds in the shooting at a home on nearby Silver Lake.

A Rockford industrial plant operator, Peebles claims temporary insanity as a defense.

MONTVOD, Uruguay (AP)—The Soviet Union's sixty-man diplomatic staff in Uruguay may soon be limited to its activities, sources close to the government executive council said Wednesday.

They said Soviet and other international delegations here are expected to be accorded treatment similar to that imposed upon Soviet diplomats in the Soviet Union.

Area Girl, Friend Robbed While on Tour of Paris

PARIS (UPI)—Two American girl students, one from Bloomfield Hills, on a sightseeing tour of Paris were held up at gunpoint and knife-point and robbed of their handbags here Tuesday night.

Peggy Ann Mayne, 22, Lone Pine Road, Bloomfield Hills, and Margaret Winger, 16, Deerpark, said they were visiting the famous artists' tourist spot near the Church of Sacre Coeur on the hill of Montmartre when robbed.

The Place du Tertre is a tourist mecca. Montmartre Hill and usually is crowded with American and other foreign tourists.

The two girls were offered a sightseeing tour of the city by three young men who pulled up alongside them in a small German car. The answer from the girls was a prompt "No thanks."

"Then we saw they had a gun and a knife," Miss Winger said. "They grabbed our handbags and since they were armed we just let them go."

The men drove off and the girls reported the holdup to local gendarmes.

The girls' handbags contained their passports as well as their airline tickets, a wrist watch, glasses and about $30 in cash.

JFK Tests New Attack on Discrimination

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—President Kennedy is testing a new attack on discrimination in the United States along a 50-mile Maryland highway corridor.

He has sent his generals behind the lines.

Their aim is to knock out discrimination by restaurants toward Negro travelers.

Their weapon is persuasion. They want the home town people to persuade the restaurant owners that the community will back them if they end discrimination.

School Aids Bills to Benefit State

Extension of Education Acts Means $4 Million a Year to Michigan

LANSING (AP) — The presidential signature on two school aid bills means about $4 million a year to Michigan, the State Department of Public Instruction estimated today.

President Kennedy signed two measures.

One extends for two years the program of aid to school districts crowded with children of federal workers.

The other extends for a similar period the Defense Education Act, providing support to teaching of science, mathematics and foreign languages and also allowing grants to college students.

Michigan received about $1 million last year for aid to school districts with federal worker pupils.

RECEIVES $2.2 MILLION

The state received $3.2 million during the last fiscal year under the Defense Education Act. The largest part of this, about $1.9 million, was spent in support of science, mathematics and foreign language programs.

Lynn M. Bartlett, state superintendent of public instruction, was among those going to Washington to plead for continuance of the two programs.

Michigan was one of the first of the states to make its educational program eligible for the money received under the aid to education act.

Valuable programs would have to be junked if the aid were not continued, Bartlett argued.

Although Michigan receives a smaller amount under the aid allowed to compensate for educating children of federal workers, abandoning this program would have meant financial disaster for some school districts.

Wayne Physician Installed as Head of Practitioners

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Dr. B. R. Crandall of Wayne was installed Wednesday as president of the Michigan Society of the American College of General Practitioners in Osteopathic Medicine and Surgery. He succeeds Dr. S. P. Malachuk of Detroit.

The general practitioners met as part of the third annual convention of the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons which concluded Wednesday night in Grand Rapids.

Dr. W. Clemens Andreen, 51, of Wyandotte, took office Wednesday night as 1961-62 president of the association which also named his "general practitioner of the year."

Besides Dr. Crandall, the general practitioners society named Dr. Paul H. Ribbentrop of St. Clair Shores as president-elect and Dr. James C. Gaudagh of Mayville as secretary-treasurer.

A task force from the White House started a campaign Sept. 25 to convince the people such action is needed in the international cold war. The different approach was staged suitably on an Army proving ground at Aberdeen, Md.

With more and more diplomatic representatives from Africa traveling between the two cities, the State Department has said it is gravely worried over "segregation incidents."

Pedro Sanjuan, assistant chief of protocol in the State Department, has said that "during a period of two weeks four African ambassadors were humiliated by private restaurant owners on Route 40 in Maryland."

"One of them was refused a cup of coffee while en route to present his credentials to the President of the United States," Sanjuan and other White House representatives declared "statistics prove that the majority of these (discrimination) incidents are likely to take place" on Route 40 north of Baltimore.

Sanjuan told the 200 invited guests at Aberdeen ("Through your influence in your community you can do a great deal to convince those who own segregated establishments that here in Maryland—for all the world to see—the ideals of freedom and democracy must be practiced.")

With Sanjuan at the luncheon were Harris Wofford, President Kennedy's special assistant on civil rights, John Field, executive director of the Committee for Equal Employment Opportunity, Irving Maness, deputy administrator of the Small Business Administration, Richard H. Sanger of the State Department's bureau of African affairs.

A telegram from President Kennedy asking for support of the campaign was read.

Historian Calls Civil War 'Last Gentleman's War'

ANN ARBOR (UPI)—The Civil War was the "last gentleman's war," according to a noted historian, Prof. Harry Williams of Louisiana State University. Williams said there are many accounts of soldiers visiting back and forth across the lines. On one occasion, he said, during a lull in a battle, the boys in blue and gray went berrying together. Sometimes they joined in brief swims.

Says JFK to Get Bad News on Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Andrew F. Schoepel, R-Kan., predicted today that President Kennedy will get some disappointing political news about his program in a 10-city series of regional conferences next month.

Schoepel, a member of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said in an interview he believes that teams of cabinet members and other officials sent to discuss domestic issues with local representatives will find many Kennedy proposals unpopular with the people.

"The people are going to be telling their senators and House members what they think about these programs," Schoepel said. "I think they will have more confidence in their elected representatives than in any political promises these teams make."

Kennedy announced Wednesday that meetings will be held in Chicago, St. Louis, Houston, Nashville, Detroit, Cleveland, New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco and Los Angeles beginning Nov. 7, to discuss four broad topics with civic, local and state officials.

mayors, Kennedy said the topics to be covered will include full employment and economic growth, opportunities for youth, opportunities for senior citizens and opportunities for the nation's cities.

Pierre-Salinger, White House press secretary, said the administration is seeking "detailed information of the impact of legislation enacted in the last session of Congress in these areas."

Administration spokesmen had indicated clearly that efforts would be made to build up support for a general aid-to-education bill, for urban development, new ways of boosting employment and for medical care for the aged—all topics likely to highlight the next session of Congress.

Schoepel said he noted that no present effort is being made to sound out farmers on a new program to replace the one-year farm bill passed in the last session.

Viscount Montgomery Very Impressed

Mao Tse-Tung Great Guy

TORONTO (AP)—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery says Red China's Mao Tse-tung is a "great guy—an uncommon man in an age of common men."

The British World War II commander arrived in Canada Wednesday night from a visit to Red China where he met the Communist leader and received a red carpet reception.

Montgomery, 72, told a news conference Western press reports that the Chinese are starving and

DIDN'T SEE STARVATION

The retired field marshal said he did not see a single case of malnutrition during his three-week visit to the Chinese mainland but saw "bags of it" in every, some clear indications that the prompting came from Kennedy. All of the states in which they will be held, except New York, have Democratic governments. Politicians generally regard the conferences as having been initiated by Kennedy in an attempt to broaden the base of support for his New Frontiers program, portions of which encountered rough handling from a conservative Republican-Southern Democratic coalition in the session which ended last month.

The White House said the conferences were requested by governors and mayors, but there were some clear indications that the prompting came from Kennedy. All of the states in which they will be held, except New York, have Democratic govern-

It's More Tactful to Telephone

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: The invitations to my daughter's wedding were sent out two weeks ago. Some of the guests to whom we sent invitations have sent regrets. As the number of guests had to be limited, there were some people we had to omit from the wedding guest list and when I received these regrets, I immediately invited others in their place.

I have heard that the guests to whom these invitations were sent are offended and considered themselves "second choice" and refuse to come to the wedding. I thought they would be happy to be sent invitations and I am very upset over their attitude. Will you please tell me if I was wrong to have sent them invitations in this instance?

BETTER METHOD

A: It would have been more tactful if, instead of sending belated invitations, you had telephoned these people personally and explained that you would be able to have a few more guests at the wedding than you had originally thought, and would like to have them if they care to come.

Q: When the parents of an engaged couple are friends and live in the same town, is it necessary for the groom's parents to pay the conventional call on the bride's family after the engagement has been announced?

FORMALITY UNNECESSARY

A: The rule is really for people who do not know each other so that the families may meet. When the families are intimate friends a formal visit is not required.

Q: The daughter of friends of ours is going to be married shortly and my husband and I were invited to the wedding and reception. My husband will be unable to go as he will be out of town on a business trip at that time. Would it be proper to have my seventeen-year-old son go in his place?

A: Not without first telephoning the bride's mother and asking if he may come to the wedding in your husband's place.

Says Art Lends Security

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — The national year to collect art indicates we're searching for emotional security, says a woman who has helped to put art out for all to see.

"We live surrounded by violence, perpetual and dreadful, in real life, in the movies, in the theater... we live with the haunting specter of the Hiroshima bomb," said Mrs. Beryl S. Austrian said.

"I think people have turned to art forms seeking emotional security. It is the human spirit's yearning for decency."

"It would not surprise me but what most of us would take something beautiful with us to the fallout shelter," she said. Mrs. Austrian, red-haired, blue-eyed and an art collector in her own right, is the company which she founded in the depression years. Call it Intra-mural, Inc. It specializes in interior design of lofts and apartment houses and offices.

More than 100 New York apartment buildings loomed before the Austrian touch-almost all these "urban front porches" are showplaces for paintings and sculpture.

Antique lovers will find an assortment of china, glass, furniture and silverware among the wares at the second annual Northern Oakland County Antique Show sponsored by the sisterhood of Temple Beth Jacob Sunday through Tuesday. Examining items to

She Has Apparently Made Hers

By AMIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A certain girl and I married brothers. When she introduces me to people she says, "This is my HUSBAND's sister-in-law." To me I am as much HER sister-in-law as I am HERS. What do you think?

DEAR PUZZLED: Your "sister-in-law" is getting down to the fine technicalities. According to Webster's unabridged dictionary a "sister-in-law" is the sister of one's husband or wife; also the wife of one's brother; SOMETIMES the wife of one's husband's or wife's brother. I presume the "sister-in-law" means when you want to bring the relationship closer, which obviously is not the case here.

DEAR ABBY: My birthday is soon. I will be 11 years old. I want to have about 8 children in my party. My mother said she would give the party, and I am very happy about it, but there is one thing that is bothering me. My mother says I am not to tell anyone that it is my birthday because she doesn't want them to buy presents. Now, Abby, I think that presents are most of the fun of a birthday party. How can I explain this to my mother?

DEAR UNHAPPY: Your mother is very thoughtful to be considerate of the guests' pocketbooks, but I agree with you. Presents ARE great fun at a birthday party. I hope she reconsiders.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old high school senior. I've been dating a certain girl for about four months. For a while I really was crazy about her. The luster has worn off now, and I don't care to date her any more. I don't want to hurt her. I don't want to tell her outright, and I don't want to keep her wondering and waiting. What would be least painful to her?

NO BEAST: DEAR NO BEAST: If you have made no commitments to her (such as asking her to go steadily), just start dating another girl or two. If you had an "understanding," and she dated only you, tell her that you want to date others, and she should, too.

CONFIDENTIAL TO GREG: There is no such thing as a "misused opportunity." The ones you missed were used by somebody else.

"Are things rough?" Let Abby help you solve your problem. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and send to The Pontiac Press.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, The Pontiac Press.
