

Holiday Car Mishaps Claim 8 Lives in County

Wind Poses New Threat in Rain-Ravaged West

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A predicted wind storm posed a new threat to Portland, Ore., today as the flood-swollen Willamette River lapped near the top of dikes.

The harbor patrol said the forecast of winds up to 45 miles an hour "could raise havoc" in the harbor.

The river subsided slightly during the night, and emergency dikes held.

Huge Toll in Wake of India Storm

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Thousands are homeless and at least 750 persons are dead on Ceylon and the nearby island of Rameswaram, ravaged by a cyclone and 15-foot tidal wave, according to reports reaching here today.

The disaster area, off India's southeastern tip, is still virtually isolated and communication is patchy. Villages have been without food or water since Wednesday morning.

Officials said about 250 persons were known dead on Ceylon and another 500 on Rameswaram, a 16-mile long island between Ceylon and the Indian mainland.

Unofficial estimates in newspapers at Colombo, the capital of Ceylon, said the death toll would reach 2,000.

Ceylon air force planes dropped food to 14 Ceylonese villages isolated by high water and washed out roads.

PROPERTY DAMAGE

Property damage is estimated at $150 million.

U.S. Ambassador Cecil B. Lyon asked Ceylonese Premier Mrs. Srimave Bandaranaike what help was most urgently needed. Britain, West Germany and Cuba also offered assistance.

Two Indian navy vessels reached Rameswaram and rescued about 200 persons. No planes were able to land on the island because of washed out runways. The island's rail link with the Indian mainland was washed away.

Railway officials said 115 persons aboard a passenger train hit by the 15-foot tidal wave that swept across the eastern end of Rameswaram were believed drowned.

A spokesman said the six-coach train left Pamban on the western end of the island shortly before midnight Tuesday and was pulling into a station at the easternmost city of Dhanushkodi several hours later when the disaster struck.

Clouds lifted to 3,000 feet and civil defense officials in hard-hit Humboldt County sent helicopters on rescue missions. Clean-up operations increased as the weather outlook brightened.

The death toll stood at more than 40 in the Far West five-state flood plague. More than 14,000 persons were homeless and property damage was estimated in the millions of dollars.

After cresting yesterday at 29.8 feet, the murky Willamette began to recede. Officials said only a three-foot concrete parapet held back the water.

Carried by the debris the river was a broken raft of logs, which passed under Portland's 10 bridges without doing any damage.

Forecasters predicted the Willamette's fall would be slow.

Oregon Gov. Mark Hatfield said, "We're over the hump in the state as whole, but the situation remains critical in Portland."

FAMILIES EVACUATED
More than 1,200 families were evacuated in the North Portland area as the Columbia River threatened to inundate the section. Army engineers insisted the evacuation was precautionary, but they declined to guarantee deaths along the river. More than 7,000 persons were homeless in Oregon.

Floodwaters were receding in some California areas. Cold or temperatures were forecast for today, promising more discomfort for about 7,000 flood refugees.

The dropping mercury was a mixed blessing. Mountain areas, especially the Sierra on the Nevada-California border, were reducing flood threats from melting snow.

Washington State weather forecasters called for snow to night in the northwest and Eastern portions of their state and rain elsewhere.

PREDICT CREST
Predictions are that the Spokane River will crest and may cause some damage.

In Idaho, the Portneuf River dropped to a flood level of 6½ feet as the weatherman predicted lessening rainfall for a 24-hour period.

Flood conditions in Reno had declined by midafternoon yesterday as the Truckee River marked a steady, decreased flow. Earlier it had washed into streets in Vista, east of Reno.

WILL GO ON

Rescue operations in California by 48 helicopters scattered over the northern coast will go on today, officials said. Dense fog and rain kept the aircraft on the ground most of yesterday, although a few got through late in the day.

Many of the helicopters were from the carrier Bennington, which arrived at the flood rescue center of Eureka, Calif., on a mercy mission.

Seven physicians in the Eureka area worked 12-hour shifts in helicopters taking injured victims and bodies from the stricken 70-mile square district. Receding floodwaters left mud and assorted debris laying thick in houses.

Several County Vacancies

New Prosecutor Filling Staff

When Oakland County Prosecutor-elect S. Jerome Bronson takes office Jan. 1, he will bring at least five new assistant prosecutors to fill vacancies.

Bronson, the first Democrat elected to the office since the 1930s, and his newly appointed staff members will take the office Monday.

They, and John D. Murphy, the county's first Democratic clerk, will be sworn in at an 11 a.m. ceremony in the Supervisors Auditorium at the courthouse. Circuit Judge William J. Beer will preside.

Bronson said that his staff is not yet complete and that he is still interviewing candidates for specialized fields, particularly in Appellate Court work.

Those already named by Supply Exchange. From 1954 to 1956 he was city manager of Otsego.

Stelt is a 1947 graduate of the University of Michigan, majoring in psychology and engineering. A graduate of the Detroit College of Law, he is to be admitted to the Oakland County Bar Association Monday afternoon.

Admitted to the bar in 1934, Schmier has served as a felony trial lawyer in the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office and as the civilian legal counsel for the Material Command of the Army Air Force.

VIRGINIA GRADUATE

For two years following his 1961 graduation from the University of Virginia Law School, Vanderkloot was a special agent for the Intelligence Corp of the U.S. Army, and is now associated with the Detroit law firm of Hill, Lewis, Andrews, Adams, Goodrich and Power.

Paige, who received his degree from the Detroit College of Law in January, is with the law office of Bond and Dillon in Sylvan Lake. He was employed with General Motors Truck and Coach Division in sales promotion while studying for his degree.

Freeway Crash Leaves 5 Dead

Death traveled Oakland County highways during the past 48 hours, claiming at least eight lives in four separate single-car traffic accidents.

Early this morning five persons, including a mother and her three sons, died in an accident on I-75 in Independence Township.

Dead are: Mrs. Glen Miller, 27, her three sons, Deland, 8; Glen Jr., 6, and John, 4, and Michael Carter; 20, all of Flint.

Others killed were Mrs. Bryce J. Stevens, 34, of 981 Carlisle; William Wageshik, 37, of 1470 Ladd, Commerce Township; and Rosemary Pittman, 20, of 315 Romeo, Rochester.

The accident which killed Mrs. Miller, her sons and Carter took place at 1:46 a.m. The driver of the car, Mrs. Miller's husband, Glen, 27, is in serious condition at Pontiac General Hospital.

State Police said the six were apparently returning from a holiday visit in Detroit.

Officers said the vehicle was traveling at a high rate of speed when it left the north-bound lane of the wet and fog-shrouded freeway.

The car struck a guard rail, then straddled the rail until it hit a pillar of the Holcomb Road overpass, officers said.

CAR DEMOLISHED

The 1957 model car was demolished. Police said the vehicle left the road 243 feet south of the point of impact and they said there was no evidence of skid marks on the shoulder.

Police believe Mr. and Mrs. Miller and Carter were in the front seat and the three boys were in the rear of the car, when the crash occurred.

STRUCK TREE

Mrs. Stevens died at 7:15 a.m. yesterday morning as the result of injuries she received in an accident which took place about 5:30 a.m. in Pontiac.

Police said the car she was driving was traveling west on Montclair at a high rate of speed when the mishap occurred.

LOST CONTROL

Officers said the woman apparently lost control of the car, it crossed the street, went over a curb and onto the lawn in front of the Pontiac Board of Education Maintenance Garage.

The car continued across the lawn, hit a second curb and

Threaten to Tumble New Viet Regime

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—More trouble brewed in Saigon today for Premier Tran Van Huong's government. The Buddhist hierarchy announced it will resume its campaign to topple him.

Buddhist spokesman Thich Nahat Thien said Huong's regime "is still allowing newspapers to attack and slander us, is still arresting Buddhist students and followers, and just last night organized a group of hoodlums to set fire to our headquarters."

As he spoke, the government ordered a battalion of paratroopers into Saigon and extended martial law for another month.

Ostensibly, the move was to head off further trouble in the wake of the Christmas Eve bombing of a hotel housing U.S. officers. But the paratroopers would be handy to handle fresh Buddhist demonstrations.

"The government continues to oppress us," Thien told a news conference. "We have only one weapon. That one is to sacrifice ourselves."

Tornado Rips Across Dixie; Two Are Killed in Georgia

MACON, Ga. (UPI)—Slashing viciously through central Georgia, a roaring tornado hopped and skipped a deadly course early today that left two men dead and more than a dozen persons injured.

The tornado aimed its full force at a community near here where it killed two men in house trailers and severely injured members of their families.

Then it knifed 39 miles north-eastward to Milledgeville where it shattered plate glass windows as it roared down the town's main street and lifted the roof from a department store and leveled an ice company.

Police at Milledgeville said they were conducting a block-by-block search for injured persons. Five persons were treated at a Milledgeville hospital and released before dawn.

The twister first nosed toward the Glynn section of Macon where it did little more than twist tree tops, but then it skipped five miles eastward and touched down at a small community on Highway 129.

It was there the tornado claimed its first victims. Bill Edwards, 43, and James H. Pittman, 45, were killed in the wreckage of their house trailers and members of their families were rushed by ambulance to a Macon hospital.

DIXIE TORNADO—One of the random tornadoes which swept across middle Georgia last night shattered this frame house north of McDonough. The area in Henry County was the worst hit by the violent storms, which uprooted trees, smashed houses and flattened barns.

Mercury to Dip Now That Santa Made His Trip

Temperatures will start dipping today, says the weatherman. A low of 20 to 27 is expected tonight, to be followed by a high of 24 to 30 tomorrow. Skies will be partly cloudy through Monday.

Today in Pontiac, winds are easterly to northeasterly at eight to 15 miles an hour. They will become northerly at the same speed tonight and tomorrow.

The mercury dropped from its early morning reading of 35 to-day to 34 by 2 p.m.

Abstentions Prevent Majority

17th Vote Fails to Elect Italian Leader

ROME (AP) — Parliament failed today in its 17th vote to elect a new president of Italy.

Abstentions by Christian Democrats kept veteran Socialist Pietro Nenni from getting a majority.

The Christian Democrats had held a postmidnight party meeting in hopes of closing ranks behind a single candidate, but they failed.

STRONGEST CONTENDERS

Foreign Minister Giuseppe Saragat, a Democrat Socialist, and Nenni are the strongest remaining contenders. Saragat got no votes in the latest ballots, however, with his followers among the 372 who abstained from voting.

Augusto de Marsanich, Italian Social Movement (Fascist) got 40 votes and Alcide De Gasperi, Socialist party of Proletarian Unity, 33. Other ballots were scattered.

AN 18TH BALLOT WAS SCHEDULED TONIGHT.

Nenni led the 16th ballot Friday night with 349 votes, a simple majority of 482 is needed to elect a successor to Antonio Segni, who resigned the presidency because of ill health.

The postmidnight meeting of almost 400 Christian Democrat lawmakers was the most important party gathering. They were trying to decide whom to back after their official candidate, former Premier Giovanni Leone, withdrew Christmas eve.

There were reports the divided Christian Democrats might turn to Saragat.

INTRAPARTY RIVALRIES Political sources saw such a move as a way for the Christian Democrats to get around their own intraparty rivalries and mend cracks in Premier Aldo Moro's coalition, seriously weakened by the presidential election.

A Saragat candidacy backed by the Christian Democrats probably would be strong enough to break the deadlock, providing Nenni's Socialists return to the ranks of Saragat supporters.

Moro, a Christian Democrat, heads a coalition of his own party, the Saragat Democratic Socialists, the Nenni Socialists and the Republicans. The four parties failed to agree on a single candidate when the presidential election opened Dec. 16.

The Christian Democrats backed Leone; the other three coalition parties rejected Leone and supported Saragat.

Two Projects to Begin in School System's Plan

BIRMINGHAM — Next week will mark the beginning of two projects developed under the school system's Birmingham Plan.

The first Team Teaching Training Institute will be held Tuesday and Wednesday at Berkshire Junior High School.

Scheduled for Monday at the school is a workshop for the development of a program for the academically able in the elementary schools.

The team teaching sessions will be attended by 44 teachers who volunteered to work on the new program.

of the first team teaching schools in the country.

Prior to serving as superintendent in Greenwich, Smith was instrumental in the organization and operation of the nation's first team teaching school in Lexington, Mass.

The two team teaching institutes will be held from 8:45 a.m. to 3:15 p.m.

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Dr. Elizabeth Drews, Michigan State University authority in education for the academically able, will be the keynote speaker and consultant for the other workshop.

About 12 teachers will attend the sessions under the chairmanship of John Malloy, diagnostician for the school system.

Participating in a panel discussion will be four elementary principals, Grant Barber of Pierce, James Liddle of Bloomfield Village, Fritz Finis of Adams and Marjorie Tate of Quanton.

The workshop will be held from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The Birmingham Plan is a five-year project geared toward improvement of the district's educational program.

Operating funds for the plan were provided by a seven-tenths mill levy approved by district voters in June.

Staff Readied by Prosecutor

Heights, noted that when he assumes his duties he will eliminate the title of senior assistant prosecutor.

Five of the 13 assistants held the senior position.

HOLDING TITLE

Those with the title were William E. Lang, Edward J. Edwards, Robert L. Temple, Edward Shipley and James E. Roberts.

Temple, defeated by Bronson in last month's election, yesterday announced his resignation, effective Dec. 31. He will return to private practice and be associated with Bruce O. Wilson in the firm of Wilson & Temple, Birmingham.

Barry announced his resignation today, effective Thursday. He will become a partner in the Bloomfield Hills law firm of Merideth and Nichols.

Barry had been with the prosecutor's office since 1956.

Earlier, two other assistants, Daniel C. Devine and Charles J. Porter, announced they would join Richard P. Condit in private practice when his appointed term as prosecutor ended Dec. 31.

Among those remaining will be Robert D. Long who will continue in the same capacity of chief assistant prosecutor under Bronson.

Vinson Closes Capitol Career

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After more than 50 years in Congress, Carl Vinson has formally closed his government career by slipping out of the nation's capital on Christmas Day while no one was looking.

Vinson, dean of the House of Representatives and probably its most powerful and respected single member, boarded a train at the nearly deserted Union Station yesterday for the trip back to Milledgeville, Ga., and his 600-acre farm.

No one except a couple of newsmen were on hand for the final leave-taking. The 81-year-old Vinson refused help with his two suitcases and wouldn't even let anyone get a redcap.

He clearly did not want any tear-filled farewells and had let word pass around on Capitol Hill that he planned to stay until the opening of the 88th Congress Jan. 4.

"But there wasn't going to be anything much doing next week, so I decided I might as well get on back to the farm," Uncle Carl explained.

Boy Listed as Fair After Shooting

A 7-year-old Novi boy is in fair condition at Pontiac General Hospital after being accidentally shot in the head Thursday afternoon with a .22-caliber rifle.

James Higgins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Higgins, 4595 Pontiac Trail, was accidentally shot by his 11-year-old brother, Alvin, while the pair played with the weapon behind their home, according to sheriff's deputies.

The single-shot rifle was a Christmas present to the boys from Allan Lively of 103 W. Woodward Heights, Hazel Park, officers said.

Lively gave the boys the rifle about 5 p.m. and took them outside to fire it, according to deputies.

After a short time Lively went back into the house to get something to eat, while the youths continued to play with the weapon, officers said.

THREW TIN CAN

Deputies said James threw a tin can into the air for Alvin to shoot. The 11-year-old followed the can, with the rifle, as it fell.

The weapon discharged and the bullet struck James in the head, grazing his skull, deputies said. They said the boy's left arm was paralyzed after the shooting.

To Eye Water System Law

Ordinance Would Govern Operation

Waterford Township Board members Monday night will consider adoption of an ordinance pertaining to the operation of the central water system.

Besides providing for management procedures, the ordinance also specifies rates and establishes rules and regulations governing the system.

The Township Board reviewed language of the ordinance at a special meeting three weeks ago.

In other business Monday, the board will discuss a proposed pension plan for employees other than police and firemen who already are covered by a pension program.

Funds for the pension plan were set up in the 1965 budget approved last October by the board.

MOST SUITABLE

Different pension programs have been studied by the board in the past year — in an effort to find the type most suitable for township personnel.

The board also will open bids on two new cars for the building department.

Cambodia Charges Viet, Thai Violations

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (UPI) — Tiny Cambodia complained today of border troubles with two of its neighbors, South Vietnam and Thailand.

The Cambodians charged that their borders had been violated three times in three days — once by the South Vietnamese, once by the Thais and once from Thailand by the "Free Cambodia" refugee organization.

This country had carried on a running dispute for more than a year with South Vietnam over alleged border raids by Vietnamese and American troops fighting Communist guerrillas.

There also have been off-and-on again troubles with Thailand.

The border troubles apparently are related to Cambodia's political shift from pro-American neutrality to a pro-Communist attitude. This change-over began more than a year ago, coinciding with a turn for the worse in the American-backed Vietnamese government's anti-Communist guerrilla war.

CHARGE STRAFINGS

The Cambodians charged today that four Vietnamese helicopters and an observation plane machine-gunned several dwellings Thursday in the Cambodian border village of Scatun 100 miles east of here.

They charged that the helicopters landed about 50 men, including one American, and carried off some belongings of the villagers after surrounding the town and firing on it for an hour.

The government charged that the Americans and South Vietnamese had engaged in "deliberate aggression aggravated by acts of banditry."

The second Cambodian charge said a Thai police boat violated territorial waters off Koh Province in the Gulf of Siam and seized a small boat carrying four men, forcing it to follow to Thai territory.

DEMAND RELEASE

The foreign minister demanded that the four men be released immediately.

A military source charged that free Cambodia raiders attacked the village of Tikhem Romeas Wednesday night, killing two soldiers and a provincial guard, wounding three others, and carrying away seven prisoners.

The Cambodians charge that the refugee radio, which broadcasts antigovernment statements, operates from South Vietnam with U.S. backing.

PONTIAC POLICE PROBE CITY SHOOTING

Pontiac police are investigating the early morning shooting of Thomas Francis, 35.

Francis, who refused to give police his address, is under observation at Pontiac General Hospital with a bullet wound in the left side.

Police said he was shot by Tony Stollitz, 72, of 491 Franklin as he attempted to push his way in the Stollitz's home.

Two men with Francis said he had told them that the Franklin address was an after-hours drinking establishment.

The pair, Robert Brown, 23, of 404 Virginia, Royal Oak, and his brother, Paul D. Brown, 25, of Detroit, were in their car when the shooting took place, police said.

W. Berliners Allowed Visits

BERLIN (UPI) — Thousands of West Berliners, laden with Christmas gifts, began lining up before dawn today to visit relatives in the divided city's Soviet sector.

The Communists opened six narrow passages through their Berlin wall, its cold stone outline often lighted by night snow, to let an expected horde of West Berliners into usually forbidden East Berlin.

An estimated 85,000 persons surged into East Berlin yesterday. As many or more were expected today, with another crowd anticipated on New Year's Day.

The Christmas pass agreement was the result of prolonged negotiations between East German and West Berlin officials.

The present pass period began Dec. 19 and will end Jan. 1. Another two-week pass period is scheduled for Easter.

West Berliners must return from Soviet Berlin every night by midnight — except New Year's Eve, when all-night visits will be permitted.

66 Tremors Shake Japan Island Chain

TOKYO (AP) — Sixty-six tremors, ranging from slight to strong, today jolted the tiny island of Oshima, about 100 miles south of Tokyo, Japan's Central Meteorological Agency said.

The agency said the island with a population of 12,000 and the nearby Izu Island chain, have been hit by a series of earthquakes since Dec. 9. Some of the tremors were felt in Tokyo and vicinity.

The agency said two of the 66 quakes today registered four on the Japanese scale of seven, strong enough to send cups, saucers and dishes tumbling from the shelves.

Residents of Oshima, known for its active volcano, Mt. Mihara, fear the series may lead to a major eruption. But seismologists in Tokyo dispelled the fears and predicted the tremors eventually will subside.

OTHER QUAKES

Quakes also have been felt in Miyake with a population of 6,000, Iijima, 4,000, and Toshima, 350, tiny volcanic islands of the Izu chain in the Pacific about 180 miles south of Tokyo. The agency said a series of earthquakes jolted Oshima in 1956, 1957, 1959 and 1961 but no serious damage resulted.

Hong Kong Firemen Rescue Trapped 14

HONG KONG (AP) — Fourteen people trapped for more than three hours on the upper floor of a blazing plastics factory building were rescued early today by firemen wearing breathing apparatus.

Cause of the fire, which destroyed the factory, was not immediately known. Property damage was estimated at $10,000.

Run Away in Sheriff's Car

The prisoner, Tommy Luke, 24, slipped out of the jail kitchen Christmas Eve and took the brand new police car to nearby Hurlock Md., to see a girlfriend.

He brought the car back early Christmas morning after being told to return it by Sheriff Calvert Creighton over the police radio.

Today Luke was in a security cell.

Originally sentenced for driving on a revoked license, he was charged with: breaking out of jail; unauthorized use of the police car; and breaking the jaw of the girlfriend, with whom he said he had settled a score.

Back From World of Silence

Hearing Son Speak Best Gift of All

BEATRICE, Neb. (AP) — There will never be another Christmas for Mrs. John Stewart like that of 1964. That was the day her 14-year-old son came back from a world of silence.

"It was the only Christmas present I ever prayed for and I got it!" she exclaimed after son Douglas said to her: "Merry Christmas!"

"It's out of this world. I can't believe it. This is the best Christmas ever in my life," Mrs. Stewart said as she stood by her son's bed at the Beatrice State Home.

Since last spring, Mrs. Stewart had lived with a knowledge that her son might never speak again.

RESULT OF INJURY

She was told this could be one of the results of injuries suffered in March when Douglas was thrown from a tractor and dragged under the wheels.

There was brain damage and when no improvement was shown after several weeks, Douglas was believed to be a hopeless paralytic case. In June he was sent to the Beatrice State Home, Clinical Director Dr. H.M. Hepperlin said, "We were told there was no hope of recovery."

Douglas remains bedridden and has only partial use of his arms.

Yet recovery there was, although, said Dr. Hepperlin, "there was nothing special that we did medically."

Why then?

BECAME MOTIVATED

"I'm sure the main thing was tender, loving care and having other youngsters around. The entire staff took a special interest in this boy. Somehow he became inspired and motivated," Dr. Hepperlin said.

A nurses aide, Hazel Gaines, said:

"Every day I'd go into his room and talk to him. It must have been about three months before there was any indication he even noticed me. Then I noticed he followed me with his eyes."

"Later he responded with little whistling sounds."

"I told him, 'Douglas, if you can make those sounds, we can make words instead.'"

KEPT SECRET

"We just kept working and slowly he did."

For about a month the fact Douglas could speak was kept a secret from Mrs. Stewart — in preparation for Christmas.

For Mrs. Stewart it was a hard-starting day — first, a snow storm delayed her departure from home, in Lynch, Neb., then car trouble on the way caused more delay.

At the end, though, there was "the only Christmas present I ever prayed for."

Train Derails; No One Hurt

IRON MOUNTAIN (AP) — The Milwaukee Road's Copper Country Limited, carrying 50 passengers, derailed near this Michigan-Wisconsin border city last night.

No one was injured.

Michigan State Police said the second of two diesel engines pulling the six-car train hit a split rail, tearing up 700 feet of track.

Railroad officers said the train remained upright. They made arrangements for passengers to continue the trip by bus.

The train was southbound from Calumet, in Michigan's copper country, to Milwaukee. It had completed 120 miles of the 250-mile trip when the accident occurred.

Mishap Proves Fatal

DETROIT (AP) — Bennie Sanders, 59, of Detroit died Friday of injuries suffered Wednesday when he was struck by a car as he crossed a Detroit street.

Shots Fired at House in Dixie Town

RIPLEY, Miss. (AP) — The Council of Federated Organizations reported early today shots were fired into a house where two white Oberlin College students were staying while working with other volunteers to rebuild a burned-out Negro church.

Law enforcement agencies in the Ripley area could not be contacted about the report.

COFO said that one student, Dick Cooper, tried to follow the car from which the shots were fired. Cooper later was arrested for running a stop sign, a COFO spokesman said.

The other student, Jerry Van Kora, attempted to follow the assailants in another car. He said several shots were fired at his auto and he returned to the Negro home where he had been staying.

TO RESUME WORK

The band of white volunteers — mostly students from Oberlin — planned to resume their work of rebuilding the Antioch Baptist Church today following Christmas worship services Friday.

The church was destroyed by fire last Oct. 30 following a civil rights rally.

"The need to build comes out of evil, but the desire to rebuild comes out of love," Dave Jewell, an associate professor of Christian education at Oberlin, told the overflow crowd at the Christmas services.

Facing Military Court

MADRID (AP) — Left-wing Spanish poet Carlos Alvarez Cruz, who was tried and freed last October after he wrote a poem defending executed Spanish Communist leader Julian Grimau Garcia, was before another court today.

He was summoned before a provincial military court to answer charges of illegal activities. Officials said these grew out of testimony at this October hearing before the National Civil Court of Public Order. Normally military courts try political crimes only when they involve violence.

BIRTHDAY PRESENT — Mrs. Stefaniya Rukas of Kaunas, Lithuania, is reunited with her husband, Konstantinas, 59, of Hartford, Conn., and their daughter, Nijole, 26, at New York's Kennedy Airport yesterday after 23 years of separation. Mrs. Rukas, who celebrated her 58th birthday yesterday, was separated from them by Soviet secret police 23 years ago and spent 15 years in Siberian labor camps.

Labor Camp Victim Joins Family in U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mrs. Stefaniya Rukas, who was kidnapped from her Lithuanian home by the Soviet police in 1941 and interned in a Siberian labor camp for 15 years, was reunited yesterday with her husband and daughter she had not seen in 23 years.

With Christmas joy expressed in tears, Mrs. Rukas was greeted by her husband, Konstantinas, and their now-grown daughter Nijole.

She was whisked to her new home in Connecticut and a sumptuous holiday dinner. On June 13, 1941, as a precaution against a mounting wave of Stalinist terror against Lithuanian intellectuals, Rukas, a schoolteacher, took 3-year-old Nijole away from their home in Kaunas. They found refuge at the nearby farm home of Rukas' mother.

Mrs. Rukas, then 34, remain at home. The secret police came that night and sent her off to Siberia.

EMOTIONAL REUNION

Not until yesterday, in an emotion-fraught reunion at Kennedy International Airport here, did Mrs. Rukas again set eyes on her husband and daughter.

With tearful hugs and kisses, the Rukas family was reunited on Christmas. It also was Mrs. Rukas' 58th birthday.

Nijole, a pretty 26-year-old brunette graduate student, cried unabashedly and said of her mother: "She looks wonderful!"

Mrs. Rukas, her dark hair now flecked with gray, also was in tears.

"I am so happy but I am also very tired," she said. Her long separation from her family was climaxed by 20 days of traveling.

Rukas, 59, now a Hartford, Conn., machine operator, and Nijole told the story of their troubled years while waiting for Mrs. Rukas' flight to arrive from Montreal, where it had been diverted Thursday because of the fog and rain that made New York airports inoperable.

Forcibly taken from her home at midnight, Mrs. Rukas was banished to a labor camp at Bakchar in Siberia. She worked there for 15 years until 1956 until the more lenient Soviet regime that followed Stalin permitted her to return to Kaunas.

Rukas and his daughter eventually escaped Lithuania and managed to reach a displaced persons camp in Hamburg, West Germany, in 1947. They emigrated to the United States in 1950 and took residence in Hartford.

This We Believe . . .

Because our contacts with the clergymen of our community are frequent and varied, we must admit that we have sometimes been guilty of taking their selfless devotion for granted. May we then at this time express our appreciation for the many gracious services they render without complaint and often with little or no reward.

What Is Meaning of Fight Over GOP National Chairmanship?

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sound and fury of a violent political storm rages over the head of a young man who was almost unknown a year ago — Dean Burch, chairman of the Republican National Committee.

It's an imposing title that Burch, 36, carries. But what does it mean? Is the party chairman a man of power — a gray eminence lurking behind the throne — or is he simply an administrator or figurehead?

One former national chairman, Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, sees the national committee as a party housekeeper and not worth any "bloodletting" in the Republican dispute.

Not so, says Robert E. Smylie of Idaho. One of the leaders of the Burch-must-go forces in the GOP, Smylie says the way things are now the national chairman is neither "a mere figurehead, nor a housekeeper."

DOESN'T KNOW

"Smylie doesn't know anything about the national chair-man's job," retorts William E. Miller, who was Barry Goldwater's running mate and Burch's predecessor as party chairman.

Generally, the job of chairman is to keep the party machinery oiled and humming between elections, to see to it that money is raised, to cool off party feuds and to rally the troops during campaigns.

Many chairmen have been little more than front men who have tuxedo, will travel. Most have been noted political figures working part time at it. Burch, protégé of Goldwater, is a full-time chairman with a $30,000-a-year salary.

One thing to keep in mind in trying to define the duties of a chairman is that time, events, the pressure cooker of politics and the man himself all have a hand in molding the job.

For instance, the chairman of a party out of power, such as Burch, must function differently from the chairman of a party in power, such as the Democrats' John F. Kennedy.

Bailey must labor in the shadow and under the orders of the unquestioned supreme commander of the Democratic party, President Johnson.

And this is a key to the present GOP battle crackling around Burch.

With no president to answer to, will he step into a vacuum of leadership, tighten his control of party machinery and reinforce a conservative image that GOP liberals and moderates feel will destroy the party?

WOULD NOT USE

"As the months wear on," Smylie said of Burch at the recent GOP governors meeting in Denver, Colo., "the present chairman will tend ever more strongly to create and solidify the image of a party that the people would not use."

A president provides most of the image for the party in power. He has that magnificent forum of the White House, under the concentrated glare of international publicity.

Who provides the image for the party out of power, in this case the Republicans? The national chairman certainly contributes to it, for his finger is on the party's propaganda button. The mimeograph machines grind at his command.

Newsman rush to him when they want the GOP position on this or that. He can be on camera and in the news daily. By his control of the propaganda organs it is possible for him to help one politician, hurt another, boost himself.

HEART OF MATTER

Thus "Who will be the voice of the GOP?" is at the heart of the Republican battle over the chairmanship.

Those who want Burch ousted argue that he would create too conservative an image of the Republicans, that he would be a constant reminder of Goldwater's campaign and crushing defeat.

But others argue that the party image will be made on Capitol Hill, not in the offices of the national committee.

Burch and Goldwater say the GOP leadership — and thus most of the image-making — will lie securely in the hands of the Republican leaders in Congress, as practically always is the case for the party out of power.

ADMINISTRATOR

A spokesman described Burch as feeling that his role as chairman would be an administrator — more of a creative administrator than a housekeeper, however.

Burch thinks the basic function of the national committee, says the spokesman, is to provide "organizational and financial assistance" to local and state party organizations.

And he believes his main contribution as chairman, says the spokesman, would be in making the committee "a continuing organization, functioning day in and day out, and not just jumping into action once every four years."

Whatever the varying views on the national chairmanship it apparently is important enough to fight over — and be the central issue of a GOP summit conference of Goldwater, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

After their meeting Wednesday, Dec. 10, in New York it was even more obvious that Burch was on the spot.

In essence, the three men who have carried the GOP presidential banner in the last three elections agreed that Burch must have widespread support in order to pull the party together from its shattering defeat. A simple majority of votes on the Republican National Committee would not be enough, they indicated.

The national committee is scheduled to meet Jan. 22-23 in Chicago to consider the problem of its leadership. As the situation stacks up now, the vote would be extremely close.

Flint Teen Is Shot by Pursuing Police

FLINT (AP) — A 16-year-old boy was shot and critically wounded by a Flint police officer Friday night as he fled from a parked car which police said he was attempting to burglarize.

Richard Scott of Flint was taken to Hurley Hospital as a police prisoner. He suffered a head wound.

Flint police said Patrolman Gilbert Darby shot the youth. Darby and fellow officer Darwin Storms said they surprised the boy attempting to break into a parked auto. The two officers said they fired three warning shots during the chase.

The first petroleum well was drilled near Titusville, Pa., in 1859, with driller Edwin Drake striking oil at a depth of 69½ feet.

Chicken Dish Had Its Start Years Ago

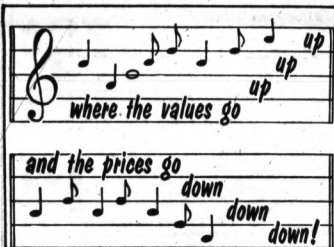

NEW YORK (AP) — Some decades ago a polo player named Foxhall Keane suggested serving creamed chicken to the chef of Delmonico's restaurant here.

The dish was named "chicken à la Keane," but through the years the "Keane" has been corrupted to "King."

Ike Pointed Up FDR 'Boo-Boo'

Call for Total Surrender Casual Remark

By LYLE WILSON
United Press International
Nearly 22 years after the event, Gen. Ike now says that President Franklin D. Roosevelt made a bad mistake when at Casablanca in 1943 he called for Germany's unconditional surrender.

Eisenhower said Hitler used FDR's demand to sustain the German people's will to fight.

The general figured that many American casualties were suffered because FDR's boo-boo prolonged the war.

Here is how it came about: FDR and Prime Minister Winston Churchill conferred Jan. 14-24, 1943, in Casablanca.

Also present were French Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, African high commissioner of the French Vichy government, and Gen. Charles de Gaulle of the Free French.

INSIDE STORY

The inside story of that conference shows that FDR's demand for Germany's unconditional surrender was little more than a careless flamboyance of speech.

FDR had overwhelmed Churchill's objections and on Jan. 24, 1943, set up a Casablanca press conference.

The press conference was a chancy idea. Churchill was resentful of the whole idea.

De Gaulle was angry because some recognition was being given Vichy's Giraud. Giraud was insulted by de Gaulle's obvious contempt.

ILL TEMPER

FDR was concerned lest the ill temper of all concerned mar the occasion.

Some months later in September 1943, FDR was host to a hush-hush White House briefing for a selected group of news reporters.

On the afternoon of Sept. 15, it was one of a group of 20 reporters at the White House when FDR chose to tell us about the press conference and his demand for unconditional surrender.

My typed notes of that White House briefing, now 21 years past, quote FDR like this:

"Churchill and I went to that press conference cold; no agreement on who would say what. We had been busy the preceding half-hour or so trying to get de Gaulle and Giraud together—to shake hands.

"Winston and I had had no conversation before the conference and when we went out there, the reporters were waiting.

"Churchill asked me to lead off. I was telling the reporters what we had accomplished at Casablanca when I thought of Grant and Lee at Appomattox. Lee asked for terms and Grant replied 'unconditional surrender.'

"I told that story and put emphasis on the unconditional surrender by the Germans. Churchill accepted it right there."

FDR's history was garbled. It was at Fort Donelson the Union Gen. U.S. Grant demanded unconditional surrender. But however that may be, it is obvious that FDR's demand was not a considered proposition but merely a casual idea. Off the top of his head.

High Court Delivers a High-Handed Decree

You never know what the U.S. Supreme Court is going to do next—and it rarely fails to follow script.

Latest in the series of weird interpretations is the Court's 5-4 decision setting aside state law convictions of trespassing by civil rights sit-in demonstrators in the dining facilities of various stores.

Since convictions were obtained before the passage of Federal Civil Rights laws under which the convicted might have claimed protection, the Court has held that posterior passage of such acts absolves the offenders of prior guilt.

At issue here is not so much the fate of the individuals affected, but the dangerous precedent established that guilt is nullified by laws subsequently passed contrary to those under which offenders were tried and convicted.

It is significant that even Justice HUGO BLACK, long known for his liberal viewpoint and devoted to the cause of civil liberty, couldn't go along with the majority decision and well expressed the judgment of the dissenting minority.

In essence, he said, it represents a protest against "this tendency to go beyond the decisions of Congress, this tendency to sanction the judicial exercise of powers reserved to Congress, this tendency to flout and ignore the validity of state laws."

We commend Justice BLACK for the soundness of his conclusions in this case, with the hope that some of it will rub off on certain of his fellow justices.

Population of U. S. Outrunning Transport

As the population of the United States goes to 196 million next year, with 260 million projected for 1980, something pretty sensational will have to come to pass in the realm of public transportation if the citizenry is to continue gratifying its mounting urge to move to and fro.

Although still but gleams in the eyes of traffic engineers, concepts are taking form on what it will take by the century's end to provide land transportation for the country's 300 million-plus inhabitants.

Since Manhattan Island, which most people think of as New York City, with its 2 million souls squeezed into 22 square miles, offers the greatest challenge, it is there that the transportation experts are doing their laboratory work and peering into their crystal balls.

Here are some of the things they see:

- High speed trains hitting 100 miles per hour that will move people into core cities from suburban areas as far as 80 miles away.

- Automated highways where most of the driving will be done by electronic control.

- Underground moving sidewalks that will speed pedestrians about the city, with the idea extended to "carveyors" that would move buses and cabs about on short trips.

The big unanswered question is whether major expansion will be in the direction of highway or rail travel.

Advocates of the rails argue that virtually all highway improvements simply attract more vehicles and thus create more congestion, that modernization of rail networks, now 40 years behind the times, would attract multitudes from those now utilizing private transportation.

Those in favor of expanded and scientifically controlled highways would have motorists pay for use of highways by means of mileage meters installed in all vehicles. The meter bill, controlled by magnetic elements imbedded in roadways, would do away with gasoline taxes and toll charges.

But regardless of the miracles of transportation that the future may unveil, automobiles will tighten not lighten their hold on the affections of all Americans—and the long-range planners would do well to start with that premise.

Which, incidentally, bodes very well indeed for our state and city.

Viet Problem More Obvious

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON—The American problem in Viet Nam becomes more obvious the worse the situation gets. It's more than just helping the people fight the Communists; it's trying to get them to lose the fight.

The American-supported war, despite the billions of dollars in military and economic help poured in there, is going downhill while the Communists, united under a dedicated and single purpose, are getting stronger.

The South Vietnamese through their own disunion—there are Buddhist, Catholic, military, political and student factions—are doing as much to lose the fight as anything the Communists can do to them.

Over the past weekend came the sixth upheaval in government over the past 13 months, starting with the coup that ended in the assassination of President Ngo Dinh Diem in November 1963.

This time a group of young army officers dissolved the legislature and arrested some of its members, thus establishing military instead of civilian control.

FACTIONS STRUGGLE
Thus, while the factions struggle for control in Saigon, the Communists overrun the countryside and the American ambassador, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, slides deeper into frustration. There's no end in sight to this chaos.

Washington faces this situation: If the United States could pull out of Viet Nam, almost certainly the country would be lost to communism. Eventually perhaps all Southeast Asia, which is under the shadow of Red China, would fall under Communist rule.

If the United States continues help—and American lives and wealth continue to be lost—and the endless coups go on, chaos and the loss of Viet Nam seem inevitable.

If the United States felt it had to pull out, and thereafter South Viet Nam was lost, American prestige around the world would suffer heavy damage.

The Vietnamese military men are probably banking on that: the idea that the United States, no matter how harsh it sounds, will be willing to endure repeated frustrations rather than admit defeat to the world by pulling out.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODIE ISHMAEL

For Mrs. Julia Brier, the Christmas of 1849 was almost the supreme test of her faith. Abandoning a broken wagon, she and her husband, their three young sons, and two other men, started walking across Death Valley en route to California.

The three men went ahead in search of water, leaving her with the boys, the oldest of whom was nine. Throughout the long day and night they struggled across the salty wastes, trying to keep the men in view. When Kirk, the youngest, gave out she carried him on her back. She said, "Many times I felt I should faint and as my strength departed I would sink to my knees. But I never lost hope. We needed all our hope and faith."

At midnight she found her husband by a small fire, where he had returned to wait for her. He had found water six miles further on. It was three o'clock on Christmas morning when they reached the springs and the life saving water.

"Oh how good it was," she recalled later. "I have always believed Providence placed it there to save us, for it was in such an unlikely place. . . . He was with that awful night or the morning would have risen on the dead."

Days of All Faiths:

Celebration of New Year's Day

By Dr. HOWARD V. HARPER

There are many different New Year's Days and many different ways of celebrating them, but every culture has one at some time of year. And psychologically all the celebrations have one thing in common. The end of one cycle of living and the beginning of another.

This is why Julius Caesar named the first month of his calendar after the two-faced God Janus. The month faces two ways, toward the past and toward the future.

Some people greet the New Year with regret, wishing they could hold on to the past. Others are glad to see the old year go and a new and hopeful one come. But in nearly all countries, whatever the mood may be, the occasion is one of great (sometimes extreme) festivity. In China and Japan New Year's Day is everybody's birthday. In China it is the only holiday observed by the whole country.

We all know what the Western world does about it. Parties, horns, bells, "Auld Lang Syne," drinking, traffic accidents, hang-overs. A few people go to church at midnight on New Year's Eve, but most are far from church in person or thought.

CHRISTIANS REJECTED JANUARY FIRST

When Julius Caesar established his new calendar and decreed that January 1 was to be considered New Year's Day, Christianity had not yet appeared on earth. But when the Christians did come along they would have nothing to do with this date. In their minds it was too close to the Roman Saturnalia with all its licentiousness and debauchery. Church Councils condemned the January celebration as diabolical. They forbade dancing and required fasting on January 1.

The Christians said March 25 was the beginning of the year, and indeed of all things, for it was the day on which Jesus was conceived. And so it remained in the Christian Church until the sixteenth century, when most of Europe adopted the Gregorian calendar and the Saturnalia was ancient history and no longer a threat. (England kept the Julian calendar, and the March 25 New Year until 1752, which means we kept it here in the American Colonies until that time, too.)

Any impartial observer, looking around America today, would probably say the early church was right in its apprehension. The Saturnalia seems to have crept back in and to have crowded out any religious element in our New Year's celebration.

NEW YEAR SUPERSTITIONS

If your pockets or your cupboards are empty today, you are in for a year of poverty.

If your fire goes out on New Year's Eve it means a year of bad luck. In the old days people were very careful about this. They had no matches and the only way they could start a new fire was to borrow live coals from a neighbor. But the neighbor was most unlikely to oblige, because there was another superstition that said it was bad luck to let anything go out of the house on New Year's Eve.

To assure that you will have money throughout the year, put some on your doorstep last thing at night on New Year's Eve, and retrieve it first thing New Year's morning.

Whoever gets the last drink out of the bottle on New Year's Eve will prosper during the coming year.

If the first person to come into your house on New Year's Day is a woman or fair-complexioned man, it's bad luck. People used to take this so seriously that the community hired a man with a reputation for being lucky to go around and be the first in every house after midnight on New Year's Eve.

Soviets to Force U.N. Showdown?

By MAX HARRISON

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Recent developments have led some U.N. diplomats to conclude that the Soviet Union has decided to force a U.S.-Soviet showdown on the controversial issue of peace-keeping assessments.

The Russians are still going through the motions of meeting with negotiators, but there is a widespread belief at U.N. headquarters that chances for a compromise settlement are becoming more and more remote.

The current speculation is that the Soviet Union has become convinced that it can win in a U.N. General Assembly confrontation and would like to embarrass the United States by forcing a test of strength.

Those who hold this view reason that the Russians may have interpreted U.S. willingness to bargain as a sign of weakness.

Until Tuesday night it had been taken for granted that both the United States and the Soviet Union wanted to avoid a confrontation in the assembly and that a formula would be found.

Then the situation suddenly changed.

Readers' Opinions Differ on Area Entertainment

The Pontiac City Commission is to be commended for its action in denying a dance-entertainment license to a bowling alley. Contrary to action taken in Waterford, this will force a recreational facility, which advertises "family fun" and promotes youth bowling, to remain a more pure form of recreation.

Maybe the police that will be freed for other duties can be loaned to our rich cousins in Waterford who obviously feel that strippers, booze, bowling and kids will mix well. The way most bowling lounges and alleys complement each other, a court ruling is needed banning minors from using either facility.

My family will continue to bowl at the alleys where booze and strippers are absent. Take a bow Commissioners Irwin and Hudson, dust off your dancing shoes and head for Waterford.

A CONCERNED YOUTH LEADER

As a teenager and bowling fan of Pontiac, I am strongly against the existence of such entertainers as strippers being allowed to perform in public bowling alleys.

It's about time to put an end to the practices going on in some bowling establishments. Adult entertainment of this kind doesn't have any business being around such public places where children are allowed.

A CONCERNED TEENAGER

'Clarkston Jaycees Reviewed Literature'

Last week the Clarkston Jaycees reviewed different types of publications being sold across the counter of stores within the Pontiac area. We were appalled at what we saw. We believe all parents should be made aware of this type of publication. Many of the covers are made to appeal to young people but in many cases the cover has nothing to do with the stories or advertisements inside.

We support the move to eliminate this smut-type literature from the store counters and welcome the community committees which are being formed throughout the country. We shall do whatever is necessary to wage a successful campaign against moral degradation in whatever form it may appear.

THE CLARKSTON AREA JAYCEES

Says Policemen Cannot Be Baby Sitters

The Pontiac Police and Oakland County Sheriffs Department handle accidents, foot patrol, building security checks, school safety, traffic enforcement, breaking and entering, stolen auto detail, sex offenses, juvenile offenses, missing persons, liquor license investigations and policing such establishment, gambling and narcotic law. They have no time for phone calls, bad checks, court appearances, the charge of auxiliary police, uniforms, equipment, training, recruiting, administrative paper work and police records.

"Concerned" wants the police to be a babysitter for a girl who had no business being out a three a.m. Why didn't she call her parents or why didn't "concerned" take her home?

POLICEMAN'S WIFE

'Socialist Program, Better Life for All'

We Socialists don't grieve for DeLoon, we honor him as a great social scientist. I can't remember a time when capitalism was not in trouble. There were recessions, depressions, wars, strikes and racial strife, and now chronic unemployment due to automation.

The Socialist Labor Party is the bearer of the principles and a program to eliminate the uncertainties and to bring about a better life for all.

Soviets to Force U.N. Showdown?

By MAX HARRISON

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Recent developments have led some U.N. diplomats to conclude that the Soviet Union has decided to force a U.S.-Soviet showdown on the controversial issue of peace-keeping assessments.

The Russians are still going through the motions of meeting with negotiators, but there is a widespread belief at U.N. headquarters that chances for a compromise settlement are becoming more and more remote.

The current speculation is that the Soviet Union has become convinced that it can win in a U.N. General Assembly confrontation and would like to embarrass the United States by forcing a test of strength.

Those who hold this view reason that the Russians may have interpreted U.S. willingness to bargain as a sign of weakness.

Until Tuesday night it had been taken for granted that both the United States and the Soviet Union wanted to avoid a confrontation in the assembly and that a formula would be found.

Then the situation suddenly changed.

Just as the negotiators were preparing agreement, the Russians announced they had received instructions to inject a series of conditions which obviously were unacceptable to the United States.

At the heart of the controversy is Article 19 of the U.N. Charter which says that any country loses its assembly vote when it is two years in arrears in paying its assessments.

The Russians and six other Communist countries are in this position. They contend the assessments for the peace-keeping operations under Article 19. The United States had claimed enough votes to suspend the Soviet voting rights, and the Russians apparently had enough doubts so that they were not anxious for a test.

Many countries are becoming impatient with this arrangement, and some year-end decisions now become urgent. One of these is the election of nonpermanent members of the Security Council to fill seats becoming vacant Jan. 1.

When the Russians agreed to the no-vote truce, they apparently wanted to avoid a confrontation over Article 19. The United States had claimed enough votes to suspend the Soviet voting rights, and the Russians apparently had enough doubts so that they were not anxious for a test.

Since then the United States has been under heavy attack from African countries on the Congo problem, and there has been increasing talk around U.N. headquarters about a possible U.S. defeat if a showdown comes on Article 19.

WATCH SQUIRRELS — Having a good time watching a red squirrel as he leaps from tree to tree are (from top), Steve, John and Timothy McMillan. The boys who arrived from the Congo this week are guests of the Edwin Johnsons of Watkins Lake, Waterford Township.

McMillans Return From the Congo

Mrs. Hector McMillan, who arrived in Pontiac from the Congo this week, will speak of the uprising and revolt in the Congo at the 7 p. m. service tomorrow in First Baptist Church.

Mrs. McMillan, the former lone Reed, is a missionary from First Baptist.

With sons Kenneth, Paul, David, Stephen, John and Timothy, she is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Johnson of 3977 Lakewood, Watkins Lake, Waterford Township.

Mrs. McMillan's husband was killed Nov. 24 in the Congo by the rebels. In her own words she told The Pontiac Press what happened:

"While many people see only the acts that took place, there will be some who through it all can see the ways of the Lord."

"And we as a family are trying to look at it as a reasonable thing planned of God, for the fulfillment of His will."

"In July we left Bongondza station in our two-ton truck to meet our sons who had finished their school year. We collected the five younger boys at Rethy Academy and brought them safely down from the mountains to Stanleyville."

"We had to wait several days for the older boy, Ken, to come over from Kijabe, Kenya. He was to pass through Boyulu station."

TRUCK CONFISCATED

"Hector, my husband, decided to go to meet him as it was only one day's journey. He took the next son, Paul, and drove the truck. This is the last we saw of the truck as it was confiscated shortly after, along with 14 other mission vehicles."

"The other four boys were with me at Kilometer 8 when the rebels took Stanleyville during the week of Aug. 4. We were not mistreated but were very restricted."

"Hector and the other two boys were held in the same form of house arrest at Boyulu for one month."

"In September, by special permission of the rebel government, Hector and the two boys were brought to Kilometer 8, where we remained together as a family, along with four other missionary families in similar circumstances."

"In October, when feeling was very strong against Americans, the five missionary fathers were separated from us and placed in a hotel room in the center of Stanleyville."

"The three Americans were kept there until the day of liberation, Nov. 24, but my husband, who was Canadian, and another British man were released after a week."

"For three more weeks we were able to be together as a family."

"On Nov. 24 planes flew over at 6 a. m. This greatly excited the rebels who were guarding us in a house across the road. Carrying a pistol and a rifle, they ordered us to stand in the back yard."

"Then separating the two men from us, we were asked to go back into the house. Nine women and 14 children sat down in the living room at Kilometer 8."

"The rebel with the pistol fired four times into the midst of the group. We fell to the floor and remained still. After he went out the back door, we found that Ken and Paul were wounded."

"The two men were fired upon. The British missionary fell but was uninjured, the bullet having only grazed his head. My husband was killed instantly."

"Mercenaries, led by one of the American missionaries who had been held in town, came to our rescue, and in 12 hours were able to have Ken cared for in a hospital in Leopoldville."

"A bullet was removed from his hip and a piece of bullet was taken from Paul's cheek."

"When we came out as missionaries in 1941 we were never guaranteed our safety, and did not expect our life would be easy."

"Hebrews Chapter II is full of desperate experiences that the early missionaries endured. We believe that all of this is a part of the great struggle for the soul of Africa."

"Therefore, we think it not strange and go on to a future we believe is planned by God and a part of a great work which we trust will be done in Africa."

Enrollment Climbs in Alaska

Once again this year the enrollment at Alaska Methodist University in Anchorage has increased, passing the 400 mark for the first time.

Total enrollment this fall is 421 which is a gain of 33 per cent over the 316 students last year.

All but 14 of the students are from Alaska, meaning that the university is service the higher education needs of the 49th state and helping to train leaders for Alaska's future.

Despite the Alaskan earthquake of March 27 which damaged buildings and destroyed equipment, A.M.U. has continued its academic program almost uninterrupted. Building, occasioned by the increasing enrollment, continues on the campus also.

Currently under construction are a student union, a dormitory and a married student-faculty apartment building. In the near future, construction will start on a new classroom building, a gymnasium and a chapel.

School of Missions at Oakland Park

The annual School of Missions of the Oakland Park Methodist Church will be held Jan. 3 through Feb. 7 on five consecutive Sunday evenings. Sessions will begin at 5 p.m.

"The Church's Mission Among New Nations" will be the theme. Leaders for the school include Ruth Ridley, primary age children; Mrs. Clayton Gillies, children of junior age; Troy Bell, youth; and Glen Kaminisky, adults.

Classes will be held for two hours each night with a time of fellowship and refreshments at the close of each session. The school is for the entire family. Caroline Waldron, chairman, said.

Both the present building program, and the buildings and equipment damaged in the earthquake, are benefiting financially from the special Alaska Earthquake Appeal offering received in Methodist churches.

Of the total of $1,590,000, the university has been allocated $650,000 for rebuilding, repairs, tuition in assistance to students and other needs.

Alaska Methodist University is a project of the National Division of the Methodist Board of Missions. It came into being in 1957 largely through the contributions of thousands of Methodist churches through Advance Special (missionary) gifts.

Forest Lake Chosen for Reception

A luncheon-reception in Forest Lake Country Club followed the marriage of Rosemary Patricia Reedy to Robert Marvin Brinkman, today, at St. Hugo in the Hills Church, Bloomfield Hills.

The Rev. Robert Walsh of Alexandria, Va. performed the ceremony for his niece, daughter of the John Reedys of Club Drive.

MINK COLLAR

White mink collared the bride's Empire princess gown of white satin shantung and fashioned a petite circlet for her imported illusion veil. She carried butterfly orchids.

With Maureen Reedy, her sister's maid of honor, were the bridesmaids, Mrs. Robert Reedy, Marie Brinkman and Nancy Ferdinand.

They wore floor-length gowns of emerald satin and velvet, and carried white muffs.

The bridegroom, son of the Marvin Brinkmans of Grosse Pointe, had a William Fitzgerald for best man. Guests were seated by Al Rutledge, Frank Carter, William Hodgeman and Robert Reedy.

The couple will honeymoon in Florida.

Fabulous Ornaments Center of Attraction

By SIGNE KARLSTROM Friends are admiring the Robert F. Lytle's Christmas tree and callers are stopping in to view the artistic work of Mrs. Lytle.

With painstaking hands and hours and hours of work, Mrs. Lytle has made dozens of ornaments — hand blown eggs which she has covered with bright velvet ribbons, rick-rack and sequins.

Some even have a window cut out to show a Christmas scene pasted inside with a figure in the foreground.

After having dinner at the Village Woman's Club with the Lytles the next evening, Mr. and Mrs. George Cutter, Dr. and Mrs. Luther Leader and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Woolfenden marched directly to the Lytle home to study the beautiful intricate Christmas ornaments.

HOME FROM COLLEGE

Home from the University of New Mexico is daughter Jane Lytle and Bob Jr. from Alma College.

Gathering at the Don Ahrens' home on Christmas Day were daughter, Jane, daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Byrnes Jr., and their five children.

Wed today at St. Hugo of the Hills, were Rosemary Patricia Reedy, daughter of the John Reedys of Club Drive, and Robert Marvin Brinkman, son of the Marvin Brinkmans of Grosse Pointe.

To Grandmother's House

They All Came Home

By MADELEINE DOEREN Some 23 grandchildren and 24 great-grandchildren gathered for Christmas supper, Friday, in the home of Mrs. Harvey Wheeler on West Cornell Avenue.

"This is the 54th year I have held open house from five until midnight. With their parents, there'll be 75, which is how many years old I am," explained Mrs. Wheeler.

"We thought 'how many years young'!"

FAMILY HELPS

"My daughters bring salads, rolls and desserts and 'take over' the children. The men carve a big ham (it was baking when The Press photographer and I were there on Thursday) and make about 100 sandwiches right on-the-spot.

"Just think," she added, "My first Christmas tree cut and hauled from the woods near Standish by a young lad cost twenty-five cents."

This was no time, however, to even think about inflation!

High point of the celebration this year was the arrival from Madrid, Spain, of Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Harold Tunney. Mrs. Tunney is Mrs. Wheeler's granddaughter.

"This is the first time the entire family has been together in five years," said Mrs. Ralph Bowers a daughter who lives across the street. "Harold has been with the Air Force in Spain for over three years."

The Wheeler sons are Keith, of West Beverly Avenue and Kennoff of Waverly Street, Drayton Woods.

Daughters include Mrs. s. Walter Millage of West Brooklyn Avenue, Mrs. Keith Morgan of Farmer Street, Mrs. Bowers, Mrs. C. B. Chamberlain of Sashabaw Road and Mrs. J. R. Stump of Mary Sue Drive, Independence Township.

Ann Bowers, 6, is the youngest grandchild and three-month-old Elise Keeler, the youngest great-grandchild.

THREE DECADES

Mrs. Wheeler, born in Grayling, was married in Standish and has lived in Pontiac for 36 years.

She always enjoys lighting the holly centerpiece which has been in the family some 30 years. It rests on a lattice-work base (an inverted bowl) of English china that belonged to her mother-in-law.

Other Guests

Mrs. Pearl Peterson and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Keenan and their son Sheldon of Chicago, were among the guests Christmas Day in the Bloomfield Hills home of Gov. and Mrs. George W. Romney.

One Photograph Is Worth Thousands of Complaints

DEAR ABBY: I recently came across a picture in the paper of three women as they stood in the receiving line at a tea honoring Lady Bird Johnson.

They were Mrs. Frank Lausche and Mrs. Stephen Young (the wives of Ohio's senators) and Mrs. Anthony Celebrezze, the wife of our Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare.

They were all beautifully dressed and bedecked with orchids.

Both Mrs. Lausche and Mrs. Young were standing in their stocking feet!

Now if this doesn't convince the shoe industry that their shoes are killing our feet, I don't know what it will take. I would appreciate your opinion.

RUTH CHASE

DEAR RUTH: Amen! The Senators' wives should have urged Mrs. Celebrezze to get the message to her husband in the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. Stylish, but uncomfortable shoes, are certainly affecting our health and welfare. And the answer could be "education."

DEAR ABBY: I would like a few opinions on a problem I've been having. I was going with a man of 60. I am 47. I was very fond of him and he led me to believe that the feeling was mutual.

Three weeks ago he asked me to move into his house and live common-law with him until we found out if we were compatible. He says at our age there is nothing wrong with it. If we were teenagers, it would be different.

Of course, I flatly refused. He said if all I wanted out of him was an escort, I could count him out. I enjoy his company. Should I go out with him again if he asks me? He has money and could get plenty of other women.

TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: I say let one of the other women have him. She can also have the pleasure of moving in (to find out if they are compatible) and perhaps wind up being a housekeeper with sleep-in privileges.

Respectable couples (at any age) still get married before they live together.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me if I have a right to be resentful. Apparently my husband's mother doesn't know I'm alive.

She writes letters to him and they all begin, "My dear son, Bertram." She never mentions my name, but she does inquire about our children.

Her letters are always 10 or

Yule Party for TBI Unit

12 pages long. If she would send a small "regards" to me in her letters it would mean a lot to me. I never did anything to hurt her. I am a good wife to her son, and a good mother to her grandchildren.

She lives a long way from here and we don't see her very often, but she remembers the children with gifts, and my husband, too. I wonder if she knows her son's wife is living?

I asked my husband once, and he said, "Mother is a little peculiar." Should I write and introduce myself to her?

IGNORED

DEAR IGNORED: No. Perhaps your husband was being kind. By "peculiar" he might have been trying to tell you that his mother's mental horizon is pretty narrow.

Don't demand that your husband account for his mother's actions. He's probably as uneasy about his mother's attitude as you are — and equally helpless.

DEAR ABBY: I just found out that my girlfriend kept a diary of our dates and she wrote a bunch of stuff in it that never happened.

It was all out of her imagination. Her mother read it and now she refuses to let me date her.

Abby, we never did anything wrong. What can I do?

NOT GUILTY

DEAR NOT GUILTY: Proclaim your innocence and hope her mother believes you. And next time you become interested in a girl who goes in for creative writing, suggest she use an outlet other than her diary for her talents.

Pontiac Mall Shopping CenterIn Marriage Choice*Head Should Rule HeartBY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE CASE U-45: Ellen G., aged 17, is a high school senior.
"Dr. Crane," she began, "I am in love with a college boy who has just had his first year of pre-law."
"We want to get married. He thinks we should wait till he is through school, but I tell him we should elope now."

"Our parents would oppose our marriage. I know, for they think we are too young, but I just know we'd get along all right."

"Don't you think early marriages are O.K., Dr. Crane?"

INFATUATION OR LOVE

Girls like Ellen often confuse mere physical magnetism or sexual infatuation with true love.

In both, you get butterflies in your stomach when being kissed and feel giddy, tingly and agog.

So your physical reactions are not a reliable test of whether you are compatible. Use your head more than your heart. In true love you think of the best interests of the OTHER party to your romance. Infatuations are selfish.

Ellen owes a debt of gratitude, plus over $10,000, to her parents for having fed, housed and clothed her thus far.

And she may have 3 or 4 children in the future, so she is also obligated to play fairly with them.

THINK AHEAD

When you marry, you cast the proxy votes of those future unborn children.

They expect you to furnish them a home and normal conveniences, which Ellen's boyfriend can't do if she forces him to drop out of college for this elopement.

How can a boy without a trade or a profession expect to support a wife, pay doctor bills for babies, and operate an automobile on unskilled labor wages?

Ellen's parents can't subsidize them and her boyfriend's parents are also unable to do so. Ellen would thus ruin her boyfriend's economic future just to indulge her selfish desires for erotic thrills now!

So—if they marry—they'll probably be forced to live with their in-laws.

With a squalling baby in the house within a year, and with another older woman in control, Ellen will grow resentful, frustrated and soon begin nagging.

WILL BE RESENTFUL

Her husband, too, will feel hamstrung as he watches his former classmates advancing toward their law degree.

And in 10 years more, those law students will be in active practice with homes in attractive residential suburbs and driving new cars.

But Ellen's husband, if he isn't divorced by that time, will be living in a shack or still sponging off the in-laws for house rent.

Ellen will be bedraggled and fault-finding with 4 or 5 kiddies hanging to her skirts.

The divorce rate among these young couples is terrific and you can see why.

For happy marriage is a big job even when you don't start out with one or two strikes against you.

"Love flies out the window," runs an old adage. "When poverty walks in the door," is still a truism.

Jesus said the poor would be with us always, and that is true for a lot of people are feeble-minded outright and others, like Ellen, park their brains when they want to marry!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20¢ to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his book-lets.)

Why Grow Old?
By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
Q. My husband reads the mail and also reads your column, so please answer my question in the column without any name. I am 5 feet tall and weigh 110 pounds. My bust measures 37 inches, my waist 29 inches and my hips 38 inches. I am 50 years old. Do you think my waist is out of line?

A. You are a very few pounds overweight. You would have a better figure with a couple inches less in your waist measurement. Take waist slimming exercises and watch your diet for a loss of about five pounds.

Q. Some time ago you published exercises for scoliosis sufferers. Will you please publish them again? I know several arthritis sufferers who were helped by these mild exercises.

HELPFUL EXERCISES
A. I will be glad to give you a few of them.

1. Lie on the floor on your back. Bend the knees and place the feet on the floor. Separate the knees. Bring them together. Continue separating and bringing together.

2. Make circles with your left knee. Keep it bent. Circle outward. Do the same thing with your right knee.

3. Stand tall. Walk in place, lifting your knees up high in front of you.

Q. I am a daily reader of your column and keep hoping to see exercises for shoulders and arthritis of the shoulders that will help?

A. The only really effective way is loss of weight. Some plastic surgeons will remove fatty tissue from an overlarge bust. This operation is very successful. Sometimes a bust is large enough to be a real burden.

The brassiere straps cut into the shoulders and arthritis of the shoulders has sometimes been blamed on this condition.

Q. Will it make you fat to drink water at meals?

A. No. The only way you can accumulate fatty deposits is to eat too much.

You'll Want to Care Well for Christmas Plants

Flowering plants make ideal Christmas gifts. Their color and beauty remain bright long after the last Christmas tree decoration has been tucked away.

The Society of American Florists says the giving of flowering plants is growing more and more popular. A wide variety of holiday season plants is available at neighborhood florist shops.

Of all the beautiful flowering plants available during the yuletide season, probably the one that carols "Merry Christmas!" the clearest is the poinsettia. While its crimson blossoms are most closely allied with the holidays, poinsettias also are available in a delicate shade of off-white. A hybrid plant has been produced, too, that has a dainty pink bloom.

HATE DRAFTS

Poinsettias should be kept in a warm room, away from drafts. They will keep their blooms longer if they are given plenty of light and sufficient water at room temperature.

Jerusalem Cherry, a merry little tree, does not have blossoms. However, its tiny round fruit are as bright as Christmas baubles. Another plant of the same sort is the Christmas Pepper. Its fruit, when ripe, is a bright, bright red; and the contrast of wholy and partially ripe peppers is especially appropriate to the yuletide season.

Both of these plants prefer a cool evening temperature of approximately 55 degrees F., though they will tolerate temperatures as high as 65 degrees F. with no ill effect. Keep them in a sunny window because they love light.

CYCLAMENS

Cyclamens, always popular, are handsome even when not in bloom. The flowers are breathtakingly beautiful, looking like a cloud of butter-lilies, hovering over the plant.

Cyclamens, available in a wide range of colors, should be kept moist by immersing the pot in water. The crown of the plant should be kept dry to discourage rot. The cyclamens should be treated to cool evenings. The same temperatures as those suitable for the Jerusalem Cherry are right for it.

Son Can't Fill Father's Educational Gap

By MURIEL LAWRENCE When our college sophomore DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: son was home last summer, he dated a girl whose father offered him a job with an excellent beginning salary and commission.

As my husband did not go to college himself, he knows how important a degree is. He got Ed to refuse the offer and return to school.

Now we've been told that he's quitting it after this semester to take the job and marry this girl. My husband is so crushed that he can't even talk about it to me. He is drinking too much.

Answer: I hope he can hear me. His disappointment in Ed is "crushing" him, I think, because it has been added to the hurt of deep disappointment in himself.

If he will finally come to terms with his own educational lack, Ed's decision for it will become manageable. He will be able to feel sadness over it instead of this intense despair.

If our own educational lack has blocked our ambitions, it is so easy for us. We don't consciously say to ourselves:

"Ed's college degree will enable him to do what I could not do. Through him I will become an insider among business colleagues and friends whose gossip about college days, their fraternities and alumni reunions has always made me feel such an outsider."

His social status will pay me back for the humiliations I have felt when I have been forced to confess my educational lack to personnel managers and employment resumes."

No, we don't think this consciously. We commission Ed to justify us without any awareness of the hopes we have invested in his educational and social success.

Naturally, when he refuses to realize these hopes for us, we feel cheated and "crushed" by disappointment.

Our answer is to come finally to terms with the original disappointment—our discouragements over our own educational disadvantages.

To do this we may have to finally feel the resentment we have avoided feeling toward the parents and circumstances that denied us the advantages of college.

Breakfast for Couple After Vows

A breakfast in Bedell's followed the vows of Norine Helen Blake and Dennis Robert Allen today in the Sacred Heart Church, Auburn Heights.

The couple will begin their northern honeymoon after an evening reception in the Ledbury Drive home of her parents, the Francis P. Blakes.

HAND-BEADED

Hand-beaded Alene detailed the bride's princess gown of white silk bombazine, worn with illusion veil and jeweled t.r.a. She carried white carnations.

Attending the sister were honor matron, Mrs. Robert Crosswell, and the Blake twins Louise and Marilyn, as bridesmaids.

Pink satin cummerbunds accented their gowns of white satin with cranberry velvet bodices. Their bouquets were pink-tipped white carnations.

Sarah Skillman of Birmingham was flower-girl.

Robert Crosswell was best man for the son of the Glenn R. Allens of Henrydale Street, Avon Township.

Ushers were Chief Quartermaster USN David Blake, Norfolk, Va., John Chamberlain, James Allen and Raymond Blake. Mark Blake carried the rings.

Roast Beef Is Star of New Year's Day

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

By the time you're ready to plan your dinner for New Year's Day you'll be tired of poultry in any form—maybe also of ham.

This is the time to consider a roast of beef as the main attraction of the meal. It may be one of the few times during the year when you splurge on such a cut of meat.

If you are buying a standing rib roast, allow $\frac{1}{2}$ pound per serving; $\frac{1}{4}$ pound per serving will be enough in a boneless, rolled roast. There's never any problem with leftover roast beef.

Roasting of this kind of beef is always done in a 325-degree oven.

The old-fashioned cook "seared in" the juices a high temperature first—or so she thought.

What she was actually doing was driving out the delicious meat juices into the pan, leaving the meat dry and shrunk.

Lower temperatures throughout the cooking period produce a handsome looking roast that is plump and juicy.

Place the roast, fat side up, on a rack in an open, low-sided pan. Do not add water. Do not cover. Insert a roast meat thermometer. Approximate roasting times are given below:

Standing ribs

	Internal Temperature	Approximate Time*
Rare	140 degrees	22-26 min. per lb.
Medium	160 degrees	26-30 min. per lb.
Well done	170 degrees	33-35 min. per lb.

Roasted rib roast

Internal temperatures are the same, but add 5 to 10 min. per lb. to above times. *The smaller number of minutes per pound is for larger roasts. (6-8 pounds.)

Time your cooking so that the roast can sit for about 15 minutes on a heated platter after it is done. This makes for better flavor and makes carving easier.

Canned Bartlett pears make attractive garnishes for any roast. Take your choice from the recipes below.

BARTLETT PEARS ROSE

1 can (1 lb. 13 oz.) Bartlett pear halves
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup rose wine
Red food coloring

Drain pear syrup into saucepan. Add wine and a drop or two of red food coloring to tint a pale pink. Add pear halves and bring to simmer. Chill in syrup overnight. Drain and serve with roast beef, garnishing with sprigs of parsley.

CURRENT GLAZED PEARS

1 can (1 lb. 13 oz.) Bartlett pear halves
1 cup red currant jelly
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Drain pear halves, measuring $\frac{1}{2}$ cup pear syrup into saucepan. Add jelly and lemon juice. Heat until blended. Add pear halves and bring to simmer. Chill in syrup several hours. Drain and serve on roast beef platter with a twist of lemon in center of each pear half. Note: Any bright red jelly like red cherry, strawberry or mixed fruit may be used in place of currant jelly.

SPICED CINNAMON PEARS

1 can (1 lb. 13 oz.) Bartlett pear halves
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup red cinnamon candies
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Drain pear halves, measuring $\frac{1}{2}$ cup pear syrup into saucepan. Add lemon juice and cinnamon candies. Heat until blended. Add pear halves and bring to simmer. Chill several hours. Drain and serve with roast beef.

Yoursire pudding is to roast beef what ham is to eggs. In the olden days when meat was roasted over an open fire, the pudding was placed under the roast for the last few minutes of cooking to that it might absorb the rich drippings from the beef itself. Serve it, cut into squares, with gravy.

Fruit in Sandwich

For an unusually tasty sandwich, mix well drained canned fruit cocktail with cottage cheese; spread between slices of buttered toasted rye or cracked wheat bread.

Anchovy Sauce

Drain and mince anchovies; add them to hot olive oil or melted butter. Use this sauce for hot cooked drained spaghetti.

Party Food for New Year's Eve Always Festive

New Year's Eve parties are usually informal, carefree occasions. It's the time you invite your friends for an evening of casual conversation, maybe some dancing and, finally, a toast to the new year at midnight.

The food you serve is informal too. This is a time to make up dips and spreads for snacking. In addition to the usual crackers, add a tray of raw vegetables, maybe even some Melba toast for weight watchers.

An old Scandinavian tradition and one that some Italians observe too is eating herring on New Year's Day. Some hostesses always include herring in their New Year's Eve buffet. Serve it pickled, right from the jar; serve it on dark pumpkin bread as a sandwich with chopped egg, marinated onions and a pinch of dill. Or add it to potato salad. Other hostesses plan for oysters in some form. If you have a chafing dish, prepare oyster stew or creamed oysters to spoon over rice.

Stuffed Eggs Hold Surprise of Herring

Herring has long been the mainstay of the canape tray. Now Schmaltz herring is used imaginatively in creamy stuffed eggs combined with sour cream.

Herring Stuffed Eggs
8 hard cooked eggs
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup minced herring
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sour cream
1 tablespoon chopped celery
1 tablespoon chopped capers
Salt and paprika
16 small strips of herring
Parsley sprigs
Shell eggs and cut into halves lengthwise. Scoop out yolks carefully, reserving egg whites for refilling.

Mash or sieve egg yolks and blend in herring, sour cream, celery and capers. Add salt and paprika to taste. Restuff egg whites, heaping the filling high.

Garnish each egg half with a strip of herring and a tiny sprig of parsley. Chop onions in jar of herring and sprinkle over the top of the herring strips. Chill until ready to serve. Makes 16 stuffed egg halves.

With a little imagination, some of the simplest foodstuffs can make the fanciest concoctions, as witness the attractive little open sandwiches.

The secret is in the seasoning of the spreads and Tabasco liquid red pepper sauce adds zesty sparkle to various spreads.

Using rye or pumpernickel bread, spread with any of the mixtures and garnish with the appropriate topping: hard-cooked egg, smoked salmon, sliced shrimp, olives, parsley and dill.

Twin Tree Molds, to serve with crackers, are made by packing a mixture of cream and Cheddar cheeses, mayonnaise, minced onion, whipped cream and Tabasco into cone-shaped stilet glasses sprinkled with parsley. The molded mixture is removed after chilling.

Those who love mushrooms will love mushrooms vinaigrette, made by marinating the partially cooked vegetable in vinegar, oil, Tabasco and garlic.

Twin Tree Molds
Butter or margarine
Parsley, minced
 $\frac{1}{2}$ pound sharp Cheddar cheese, grated
1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup mayonnaise

1 teaspoon Tabasco
1 teaspoon minced onion
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup heavy cream, whipped
Grease 2 cone-shaped stilet glasses (approximately 12 ounces each) with butter. Generously sprinkle each glass with parsley. Blend cheeses, mayonnaise, Tabasco and onion. Fold in whipped cream.

Carefully spoon mixture into molds. Chill about 2 hours. Unmold. Serve with crackers. Yield: 2 molds.

A 3-cup mold or 4 6-ounce custard cups may be used.

Mushrooms Vinaigrette
1 pound mushrooms, quartered
1 tablespoon salt
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup wine vinegar
6 tablespoons olive oil
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon Tabasco
1 garlic clove
3 tablespoons chopped green pepper, optional
Cook mushrooms in small amount of water until barely tender. Cool. Place in bowl; sprinkle with salt. Add vinegar, oil, Tabasco, and garlic clove; toss gently. Chill stirring occasionally. Sprinkle with chopped green pepper, if desired. Yield: Approximately 8 snack-type servings.

OPEN SANDWICHES
Cream Cheese:
1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese
2 tablespoons milk, optional

$\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon Tabasco
6 slices rye or pumpernickel bread, sliced in half
Cream or whip cheese until spreadable; add milk, if desired. Blend in Tabasco. Spread on bread. Garnish with slice of smoked salmon or one of the suggested garnishes. Yield: 12 open sandwiches.

Ham Spread:
2 cans (24 ounces each) deviled ham
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon minced onion
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon Tabasco
3 slices rye or pumpernickel bread, sliced in half
Combine all ingredients. Spread on bread. Garnish. Yield: 6 open sandwiches.

Date Pudding Is Steamed an Hour Served Warm

A butter-cream sauce adds a fine touch to a not-too-rich pudding made with fresh dates.

Steamed Date Pudding
1 cup fresh dates
1 egg
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon each baking powder and baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon cinnamon
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon nutmeg
1-3 cup coffee beverage
Pit and slice dates. Beat egg slightly; gradually beat in the brown sugar; beat in butter to combine.

Sift together the flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg; stir into egg mixture alternately with coffee. Fold in dates.

Turn into a 1-quart mold that has been buttered and sprinkled with sugar. Cover lightly; place on rack in deep kettle of boiling water; have water come half-way up sides of mold. Cover and steam 1 hour. Let stand 5 minutes; turn out. Serve warm with Butter Cream Sauce.

To make sauce, put $\frac{1}{4}$ cup butter, $\frac{1}{4}$ cup light cream and $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar in a saucepan; stirring until sugar is dissolved, heat just to a boil. Stir in 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Pudding and sauce make about 8 servings.

Serve Punch With Base of Pineapple

Drink a toast to the New Year with this popular pineapple punch. Canned pineapple juice is the perfect base for the refreshing blend. It's enhanced with citrus juices, papaya nectar, rum, brandy and sparkling champagne. Its bouquet is as fragrant as that of tropical flowers.

Another great pineapple punch favorite is a tangy sherbet punch that's fizzy and frothy. Plan this one for the tots and teenagers.

Golden Holiday Punch
2 (46-ounce) cans pineapple juice
1 pint orange juice
1 (12-ounce) can papaya nectar
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup lemon juice
1 pint dark rum
 $\frac{1}{2}$ pint brandy
1 large bottle champagne (about 26 ounces)

Combine all ingredients except champagne. Cover and refrigerate 24 hours to mellow flavors. Pour over ice in punch bowl. Add chilled champagne just before serving. Makes about 1 gallon.

Pineapple Sherbet Punch
1 (46-ounce) can pineapple juice
1 pint orange juice
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup lemon juice
1 quart ginger ale
1 quart pineapple sherbet
Chill ingredients. Blend juices; add ginger ale and sherbet, stirring until sherbet is softened and partially dissolved. Garnish punch bowl with ice ring. Makes about 2 quarts (20 servings).

Ring Around the Fruit Is Creamy, Frozen

Prepare 1 box (64 ounces) fluffy white frosting mix as directed on package. Whip 1 cup heavy cream until stiff and add $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon each vanilla and almond extract. Fold into cool frosting. Spoon into $\frac{1}{4}$ quart ring mold, overwrap with plastic wrap and freeze until firm.

When ready to serve, dip mold in pan of warm water and unmold on serving plate. Fill center with 1 package of frozen fruit, partially thawed. May use peaches, strawberries or raspberries. Makes 6 servings.

Plain Pudding Is Glamourized

Convenience foods make "Almond Fantasy" a breeze to prepare. Moreover, you whip up this dessert well ahead of serving-time to give it time to be chilled properly.

It would be hard to picture a handier convenience food than roasted diced almonds. Packaged in attractive tins, these almond morsels are always ready for immediate use in recipes.

Almond Fantasy
1 package (44 oz.) instant chocolate pudding mix
2 teaspoons instant coffee powder
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon rum extract
2 cups miniature marshmallows
1 tablespoon chopped crystallized ginger
1 cup whipping cream
1 cup roasted diced almonds
1 can (84 oz.) fruit cocktail, drained

Prepare pudding as package directs. Stir in coffee powder, rum extract, marshmallows and ginger. Whip Cream. Fold into pudding mixture along with almonds and fruit cocktail. Spoon into individual dessert dishes. Chill until ready to serve.

Frost Sausage Mold

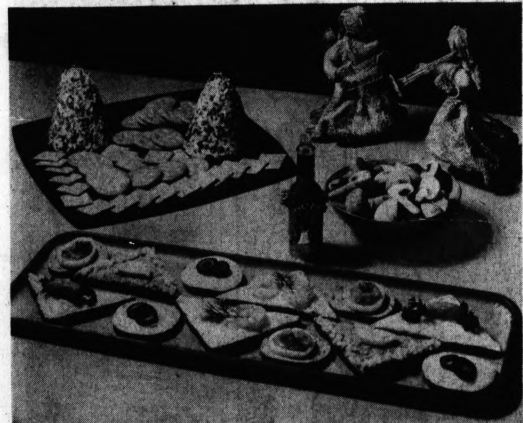

Scrumptious appetizers which can be made ahead of time are a real boon to a busy hostess. Frosted liver sausage mold is certain to be a favorite. The spicy sausage mold can be made a day ahead, stored in the refrigerator and quickly frosted with cream cheese and sprinkled with chopped nuts at the very last minute.

Served with crackers or party rye, it makes an appetizer with that "I'll have another" flavor.

Frosted Liver Sausage Mold
1 pound liver sausage
1 envelope (1 tablespoon) plain gelatin
1 cup tomato juice
2 tablespoons grated onion
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce

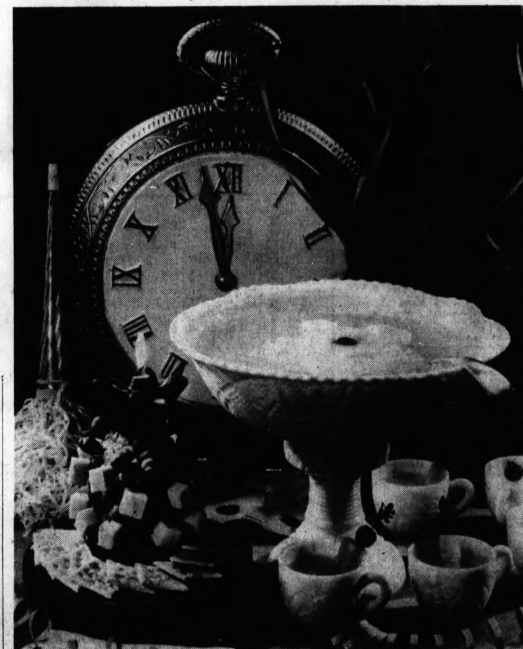

Pour into lightly oiled 3-cup bowl. Chill until firm. Unmold on serving plate.

Stir cheese until smooth. Frost liver sausage with cream cheese. Sprinkle with chopped nuts or minced parsley. Yield: About 2 cups.

DO WORK AHEAD—Holiday parties are more fun for the hostess when she serves food prepared ahead of time. Open sandwiches with a variety of toppings, cheese molds and mushrooms vinaigrette are simple to make, delightful to eat.

NEW YEAR'S PUNCHES—Your guests will enjoy a tasty punch served from your most attractive punch bowl. You can make the non-alcoholic kind for the under-age set. Pineapple juice is the base of whichever you choose.

PET SITTER

A cat lover's brood waits while Israel chops some liver for their dinner.

Two dogs exercise their caretaker with a romp in Central Park.

WHO SITS WITH THE PET sitter's pets while the pet sitter is busy sitting with other people's pets? This is the dilemma of Leonard Israel, a professional pet sitter in New York City who is so busy he must ask friends to stop in to see his dog.

Israel got into the pet sitting business after 19 years as a police reporter on a now defunct newspaper. When the daily folded, he began casting about for job possibilities. A movie he saw inspired him to start Animal Sitters Un-Limited.

"No one thought I was serious," reflects Israel on the early days of his new enterprise. "Even the girls at the telephone company giggled when I placed the listing in the directory."

Israel's service was the first "Sitters—Animal" in the Bronx Yellow Pages. He still gets double-takes when he walks along the street with his charges. But he isn't certain whether the stares are for the animals or for his bright red uniform which has the name of his firm lettered in white on the back of the jacket.

In the year he has been in business, he has acquired 40 regular clients and a number of "sometime" callers for his services. Israel has also widened his scope from just dog-walking to special services such as feeding goldfish, watering the flowers, caring for parakeets or changing a monkey's diapers.

On a recent job, he sat with a German shepherd so the owners could go to a movie "because when the dog's alone, he howls."

Israel enjoys his new venture and is thinking of expanding it to include birthday parties for pets complete with catering—"I'll even supply the guests if they want."

A special service also includes feeding orphaned kitten with a medicine dropper.

Israel in uniform arrives to take charge of baby monkey.

Select Lake Retirement Site

By JODY HEADLEE
Home Editor, Pontiac Press

The A. W. Prances of Kirkway Drive, Bloomfield Hills, took into account their love of nature and the outdoors when they selected their retirement home site on Lower Long Lake.

Every fall, flocks of Canada honkers and mallards enjoy the hospitality of the Prances and other area residents before winging their way to points unknown. Some stay on as long as the lake doesn't freeze solid.

A former director of design and research at Chrysler Corporation, Prance designed the contemporary home, combining spaciousness and the convenience of built-ins to top advantage.

Beams, a cornice overhang, which conceals indirect lighting fixtures and the divider planter, separating the living room from the bedroom hall, are constructed of selected figured birch.

"This might be called our United Nations grouping," said Mrs. Prance, pointing out the chair arrangement before the ledgerock fireplace. "The chairs came from the United States mainland and the brass cigarette tables from Hong Kong."

ROYAL BLUE CHAIRS

"On the fireplace, the spider came from Italy and the dragonflies and crickets from Hawaii." The chairs are covered in a royal-blue fabric and framed in walnut.

Removable white leather seats are used on the polished-walnut window table. Completing the table grouping is a tall, iridescent vase filled with shimmering lunaria.

Modern tile pictures above the chartreuse sectional repeat the room's accent shades of green and blue. Lighting the corner is a hanging white globe with brass overlay.

Square, gold stools with brass legs fit under the inlaid prayer table of bleached walnut. A massive gold leaf lamp with matching silk shade is accentuated by the turquoise pair of small statues on amethyst bases.

Carpeted in sand beige, the nearby den has walls of tangerine. The long couch under the blue and silver marlin has a walnut base with a built-in travertine marble end table. Cushions and back of the couch are covered in a tangerine and black tweed.

A brass and black pole lamp-table serves the two black Mr. and Mrs. contour chairs.

Near the wall of built-in in the den, a doorway leads to the kitchen and lakeside family room. The plastic laminate of the kitchen counters repeats the pale yellow of the room's walls. In the informal eating area, a white rectangular table, banded in black,

The adjoining family room features turquoise walls to blend with the turquoise tile flooring the two areas. Its ceiling is a pale yellow.

A wall-to-wall modern sectional, upholstered in pumpkin and black tweed, has a polished black base. Displayed on the built-in shelves are mementos of the Prances' many trips. The room opens onto a broad deck for summer sunning and dining.

The master bedroom continues the contemporary vein of decoration. Bleached mahogany furniture in tones of gray prove an interesting complement to the turquoise walls and carpeting of the room.

Silk taffeta draperies in a butterfly and leaf pattern repeat the wall turquoise and the antique-white of the king-size bedspread.

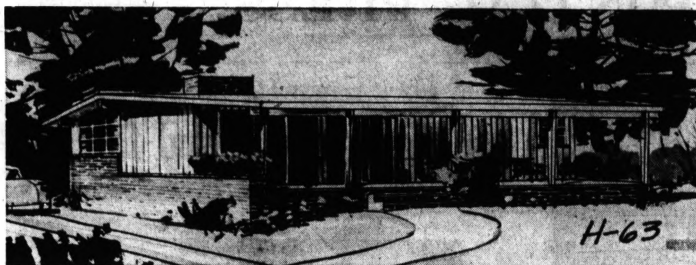

Antique-White Accents Used Against Turquoise Setting In Master Bedroom

Living Room Window Wall Reveals Scenic Beauty Of Lower Long Lake

H-43 STATISTICS

Design H-43 has a living room, dining area, kitchen, two bedrooms, a spacious bath and a porch running the width of the house. There are 864 square feet of living area, not including the porch. Over-all dimensions, which do include the porch are 34' by 36'. The plans call for a partial basement under the living room to handle the heating unit and provide extra storage space.

OPTICAL ILLUSION: While the over-all dimensions of this two-bedroom house almost form a square, the low-pitched roofline, full porch and brick planter combine to give a desirable appearance of width.

Economy House Has Smart Styling

A composite quote of what some recent letter writers have been telling us might sound something like this:

"Give us a house in which economy of construction is the dominant feature. It should have at least two bedrooms and a sizable living room — the kind of house that could be used as a regular home for some persons, a lakeside or mountain retreat for others. But don't wait until the spring or summer to show it to us. We want to see the plans during the winter so we can get going on it several months ahead of time."

And then the almost unanimous comment: "Just because it's a small house that isn't expensive, don't overlook appearance. We want a house that looks nice as well as costs less."

We asked architect William G. Chirgott what he could do about these requests. In Design H-43, he has given the answer — an attractive five-room house, with contemporary styling, maximum use of floor space and tidy over-all dimensions of 36' by 34', with 864 square feet of living area.

The friendly exterior of this latest House of the Week features a low-pitched roofline which continues over a full porch and a decorative brick planter that extends beyond the corner of the structure to give an added appearance of width.

PLEASING COMBINATION
Although other materials could be substituted, the outside is a pleasing combination of brick veneer and either redwood or cedar vertical siding capable of taking stain for a minimum of future upkeep.

A white gravel asphalt rolled roof is specified for economy of material as well as for its reflective insulating value.

The covered porch provides a welcome introduction to the house and also serves as an outdoor living area with large sliding glass doors which extend almost the visual length of the L-shaped combined dining-living room.

Foyer Flooring Subjected to Wear
Of all the materials that go into a new or remodeled home, none is subjected to rougher wear than the flooring, particularly in the entrance and foyer.

An attractive yet durable material such as quarry tile should be used in these areas. It's waterproof, so wet overcoats and clothing won't damage it.

It's also slipproof which means added safety, particularly when there are youngsters in the house. And ceramic tile can be scratched or dented.

First commercial Bessemer production of steel in the U.S. began at Wyandotte in September, 1864. The year's steel production was 10,000 tons, almost entirely by the crucible method.

Capitol Gets Much Needed Face-Lifting

By BOB VOGES
Associated Press Writer
LANSING — There will be a new look at the State Capitol next year.

More than half of the membership of the Senate and House is changing and new officers also are moving into a number of other top state jobs.

Items: — A cleaning of the grimy old Capitol building, the first since construction was started in 1872.

MODERNIZE CHAMBERS — A modernization of the House and Senate chambers, hopefully expected to be epic and span and ready for business at the start of the 1965 legislative session.

The start of an ambitious new complex of state office buildings.

Even those who spend most of their working hours there didn't realize how dirty the Capitol was until a cleaning and washing job was started.

The dome is a shiny white — this could be painted because the dome structure is mostly made of sheet metal and cast iron.

OHIO SANDSTONE

But the Ohio sandstone of the main building, which seems to soak in and absorb dirt, couldn't be painted.

"Part of the front was sand-blasted and they nearly ruined it," said Gus Langius, director of the State Building Division.

Researchers from Michigan State University cooperated in trying to find the best method of cleaning the Capitol face.

The best method, it was agreed, was to spray first with a nonorganic chemical and then wash it off with water and steam under pressure.

LIKE DETERGENT

Langius described the chemical as similar to the detergent that a housewife uses to wash her dishes.

This process turns the original grey color of the sandstone into a warm yellow tone.

It was hoped that the entire front of the building could be cleaned in time for the inauguration on Jan. 1 of Gov. George Romney and other state officials.

But winter weather caught up with the cleaners just as they were approaching the south side of the front of the building. The water and steam couldn't be used in below freezing temperatures because it would freeze into the stone and injure it.

LOOK A MESS

The House and Senate chambers right now look like a mess. Both are being modernized but it is promised they will be ready when the legislature convenes.

The old wooden floor of the House was torn out and concrete was poured.

A new wiring system is being installed that is promised as both safe and versatile.

Housekeeping officials at the Capitol are becoming very safety-conscious. During the renovation work, supporting cables were loosened and a 500-pound chandelier crashed to the floor below, just outside the secretary of state's office.

NARROWLY MISSED

The chandelier narrowly missed a secretary reporting early for work.

"Just imagine if it had gone down when a bunch of visiting school kids were there," shuddered John Gahner, head of the State Property Management Division.

For the sake of safety, the elaborate glass panels on the ceiling of the House are being taken out and plastic panels will be substituted.

One of the 126 plate glass panels cracked and a sliver of glass came down — while, fortunately, no one was there — and penetrated like a dagger into a desk.

POOR LIGHTING

House members long have complained about poor lighting in the chamber so 100 watt bulbs are replacing the previous 60 watters in the chandeliers and stronger lights will be placed above the new plastic panels. The desks in both the House and Senate are being refinished at the woodworking shop of the Ionia State Prison.

A new wooden floor is being laid in the Senate. Both houses will get new wall-to-wall carpeting to replace the tattered rugs scuffed by the feet of so many legislators.

The new carpeting is being specially woven and will feature the state seal plus an outline map of the state.

HUGE HOLE

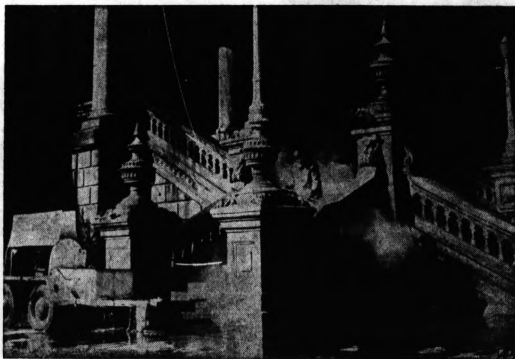

Legislators, looking out their windows to a four-block area directly west and behind the Capitol, will see a huge hole in the ground with the start of construction on four new state projects.

Gov. Romney, when he dug in a spade for the first shovelful of dirt, warned that people must be patient and it will take a long time before the dream of a complete Capitol complex is realized.

Under construction now is a two-level underground parking area, to accommodate 2,000 cars.

The footings, foundations and substructures also are being built for a four-story highway department building, a four-story building to house the treasurer, secretary of state and revenue departments and a seven-story building to house other departments of state government.

CLEANING UP THE CAPITOL—A combination of a detergent-like chemical, steam, and water is being used to clean the dirty face of the State Capitol at Lansing. It's the first general washup the grimy structure has had since it was built.

Former Agent Dies

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Elizabeth C. Ingersoll, 59, a literary agent for more than 25 years, died Friday. Mrs. Ingersoll, former wife of publisher Ralph M. Ingersoll, and Madeline Brennan had operated a literary agency office in New York until 1961 when they moved to Baltimore. She was born in Dallas, Tex.

The first chaplain of the House of Representatives was the Rev. William Lynn, A Presbyterian, he served from March 4, 1789, to Jan. 4, 1790.

Dies of Crash Injuries

WYANDOTTE (AP) — Mrs. Mary D'Annunzio, 77, of Wyandotte died Friday night of injuries suffered Dec. 20 when the car in which she was riding struck a tree in this Detroit suburb.

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (UPI) — A Waynesburg woman has given birth to three children this year—two on New Year's and one on Christmas. Mrs. Robert Conklin gave birth to twin girls on Jan. 1. She presented her husband with a boy Christmas day.

New Bumper Plating Machine Is Now in Operation at Pontiac

Pontiac Motor Division has put into operation a revolutionary new bumper plating machine which may be the answer to one of the oldest questions in the plating business.

The machine, an industry innovation, allows Pontiac to apply a uniform thickness of finish to any design of bumper specified by the styling engineers, thus solving a problem which has, up until now, haunted bumper platers.

Call the contour plating machine, it was designed for Pontiac by the General Motors Section at the GM Technical Center.

According to Pontiac's Plating Superintendent Thomas J. Doyle, the new plating machine also gives more adequate corrosion protection, eliminates the waste of costly scrap nickel and, since at no time is the part submerged in any solution, makes for neater and safer working conditions.

"Accelerated tests are now in progress which show the results of this new process to be superior in providing corrosion resistance on our bumpers to any other method we have had in the past," Doyle said.

BUMPERS BOLTED

The machine works from the principle of plating bumpers as they are stamped — using a male and female die. Bumpers are bolted onto a male die, travel into a cell where the female die, designed to conform to the shape of the bumper, descends to enclose the bumper.

Then electrolyte is pumped through, the current is turned on and the plating begins.

The machine itself consists of a series of cells, each of which performs one step in the finishing process. Beneath each cell is a supply of the solution required — cleaning solution, rinse water, plating solution, etc.

The solutions are pumped through the dies and around the bumper in the plating and electrocleaning cells.

COPPER STRIKE

Basically the work stations in the contour plating machine include cleaning the bumpers, a cyanide copper strike, triple-nickel plating, nickel strike, bright nickel and conventional chromium.

Before the bumpers are fed into the machine they have already been through a cyanide copper strike and bright acid copper plating and have been buffed bright.

The entire machine operates on a 15-second cycle with the total time required for processing plus transfer placed at 30 seconds. Thus the line turns out a finished bumper every 30 seconds.

It takes about 20 minutes for a pallet to move through the entire process.

Upon completion of the cycle, the pallet moves to an unload station, is picked up by a conveyor, inspected and sent to a spray painting machine which paints the backs of the bumpers.

Philadelphia is known as the "Mother Mint of the Country," since it was established by Act of Congress in 1792 and the first coins were struck the same year. The present building was built in 1839, and remodeled in 1893. A new one will be started in 1965.

Air Patronage Is Less Than One Per Day

North Central Airlines (NCA) patronage at Pontiac Municipal Airport fell short of the one-passenger-per-day mark on outbound NCA flights during November.

There were 26 passengers on outbound flights compared to 25 in the month before and 26 in October last year, according to NCA officials.

Outbound flights carried less air express in November over October, decreasing from 769 pounds to 649 pounds.

At the same time, outbound flights carried more air freight in November than in October, jumping from 853 pounds in October to 1,389 pounds last month.

AIR MAIL DROPS

For November, air mail on outbound flights dropped to 679 pounds from 856 pounds in October.

Inbound NCA flights carried nine pounds of air express, 3,583 pounds air freight and 1,515 pounds of air mail in November.

This compared to 65 pounds air express, 3,353 pounds air freight and 725 pounds air mail in October.

Kick Test Tells Much To 'Lumberjack'

'I'll Put 'er Right . . . About . . . Here'

Sawdust Flies As Tree Is Felled

'Sorry, Jim, You Missed Your Mark'

Birmingham 'Bunyans' Win Again

The undefeated "lumberjacks" of Birmingham's forestry and parks department have gained permanent possession of the coveted chromed handsaw.

In beating out competition at the fifth annual Inter-City Forestry and Parks Field Day, Thursday, they won the trophy which will go with their chromed ax.

The ax is a keepsake from their three years of victory over Oak Park.

The champs faced a new opponent this year — Ferndale in trying to topple the record holders.

TOOK HONORS

Ferndale took honors in the spur climb and tractor drive. Pontiac proved to have the best power sawers.

Darrel C. Middlewood, superintendent of the Birmingham department, is anticipating a tougher time next year.

This year's competition, he said, "was closer than the score indicates."

A new event this year was felling, in which tree stubs were sawed down in predetermined directions.

The "feller" coming closest to a wooden stake is the winner. Birmingham scored a victory here by one-half inch.

Although many of the skills involved are used by the men almost daily, Middlewood admitted his team had "a little extra practice."

Next year the "kings of the hill" will be defending their title in Pontiac, in a yet-undetermined forest.

Hayward Northern Key Against Pontiac Central

By DON VOGEL.

Pontiac Northern basketball coach Dick Hall turned drummer for a few minutes yesterday.

The veteran mentor wasn't hovering over traps and snares. He was praising the play of PNH star Roger Hayward.

"He's the best in the state," lauded the coach. "There's no doubt about that in my mind. All other coaches who have seen him play this season agree. 'Roger's a great one.'"

Why is the 6-4 senior so highly regarded?

"He brings the ball down for us," explained Hall. "He's a good playmaker."

But more important is Hayward's contribution in the scoring and rebounding departments. In the Huskies four games, he has averaged 22 points and 17 rebounds.

Hayward, who is in his third season as a regular, moves inside on defense where his height and 200 pounds are put to effective use under the boards.

Most successful teams have a star, but it takes four other players to win games.

Pontiac Northern has two wins against competition that will do well this season. The victories were over Roseville and Mount Clemens. Highland Park and Flint Southwestern won close tilts from the Huskies.

at Northern Dec. 29 — and games with Ann Arbor, Detroit Catholic Central and powerful East Detroit.

Northern's front line averages over 6-4. Larry Frye and Dave Sudbury are both 6-4.

Frye has come on strong in the scoring department with 19, 17 and 18 points in his last three games.

"He is a tremendous rebounder," Hall stated. "And he's only a junior. Larry should get better."

Sudbury, a senior, has played key roles in two games.

John Bailey, a 5-10 senior guard, is an exceptional shot and Hall occasionally moves him to forward.

The coach considers guard Larry Curran as the best playmaker on the team. The 5-10 junior has impressed with his driving layup shots.

"Cushist is gaining confidence with each game," said Hall. "This was his big problem when the season started."

Hall is taking a close look at junior guard Bob Harris, 5-9. He indicated that Harris may break into the starting lineup against PCH.

"Harris did a very good defensive job for us in the Roseville game," according to the coach, "and his shooting during practice this week has been very impressive."

The Huskies, defending I-L champions, open league play Jan. 8, against Walled Lake.

Bill Bradley Picks Oxford, Courtroom

CRYSTAL CITY, Mo. (U-P) — All-America Bill Bradley has forsaken the court for the courtroom, much to the dismay of the National Basketball Association.

The 6-foot-5 Princeton senior has chosen to enter law school after completing two years at Oxford University in England on a Rhodes scholarship.

His decision came just before he left for school from his Crystal City home, where he had been spending the holidays.

The news undoubtedly is a crushing blow to the New York Knickerbockers of the NBA, who were expected to snatch Bradley as a territorial choice in the 1965 draft.

Instead, American basketball fans probably will be seeing the last of Bradley on the basketball court when he ends his collegiate career in the spring. He had led Princeton to Ivy League titles in his sophomore and junior years, and the Tigers are on a losing streak with Bradley averaging more than 27 points a game.

White starred in football for the University of Colorado, went on to Oxford and now is a U.S. Supreme Court Justice.

Dawkins, former Army football great who went on to Oxford and won high praise as a rugby player, now is serving overseas in the Army.

Police Nab Ex-Champ

DE VER (U-P) — Sonny's Liston's arrest and release Friday afternoon for alleged drunk driving was punctuated throughout by vocal outbursts and profane resistance on the part of the ex-champion.

The trouble started when three Denver policemen pulled Liston and a companion over to the curb and ordered the pair out of their car.

Liston at first refused. After a brief argument, he was led from the car by the arm.

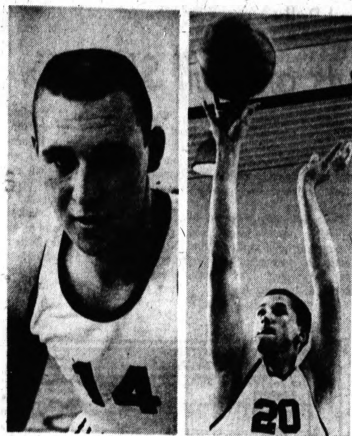

"Then," said patrolman Edward E. Nelson, "he refused to show us his driver's license and said we would 'have to take it off him to get it.'"

"We kept asking him not to make us fight him," Nelson said. "We told him we weren't pros and tried to reason with him to get him to cooperate with us."

Liston's response at this point was to shove both officers away from him and refuse to get into the patrol car.

Close Battle Expected Today in Grid Game

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (U-P) — College football standard-bearers from the North and South square off today in the 27th game of the colorful Blue and Gray classic.

The teams appear evenly matched with plenty of offensive punch to provide a close, high-scoring battle.

The Southerners will be seeking a second consecutive victory. The Grays hold a 15-10 edge in the series which began in 1928.

Quarterback Tom Myers of Northwestern will lead the Yankees. Myers threw 281 completions for 3,836 yards and 21 touchdowns during the past three years.

Directing the Stars will be Bob Schweickert of Virginia Tech, who tossed 55 completions during the past season for nearly 1,000 yards.

Other highly-touted teams participating in this tournament include Illinois, St. Joseph's Pennsylvania and Villanova.

Kansas City, Mo., is the site of the big eight-tournament which also begins Saturday, and any one of five teams is capable of winning this one.

BEST PLAYER

The choice will be between Kansas, Kansas St., Nebraska, Oklahoma St. and Missouri. Nebraska is the only team to defeat number-one ranked Michigan this season. But Kansas has probably the best player in the tourney in 6-11 Walt Wesley and will be looking to beat if the big man is up to par.

USSR Sextet Rallies for Tie

ST. PAUL (AP) — The St. Paul Steers jumped off to a 3-0 first-period lead but had to settle for a 3-3 tie with the Russian National hockey team in St. Paul Friday night.

The Russians are undefeated on their American tour but suffered their second straight tie. They tied Rochester, who, like the Steers, are members of the U.S. Hockey League, 1-1 Tuesday night.

The Steers ran up three goals in the first 14 minutes. But the Russians had tied it by 17:11 of the second period. Attendance was 2,356.

action Saturday at San Jose, Calif.

The Dons are 6-0 thus far on the season and should get relatively little competition from any of their conference opponents.

The final major tournament beginning Saturday is the West Classic at Portland, Ore. Oregon State should have a slight edge as the favorite but Tennessee and Portland U. could be the surprise finalists. Seventeen holiday tournaments are scheduled to begin Monday.

Injured Olympian Gets Job Offers

PHILADELPHIA (U-P) — Olympian heavyweight boxing champion Joe Frazier, who has been unable to work because of a broken thumb suffered in Tokyo, had a number of job offers to consider today.

Frazier's only pay since the Olympics was a $100 Christmas gift from his employer two weeks ago and Christmas looked bleak for his family, his and three children.

After Frazier's plight became known, Mayor James N.J. Tate called to offer him a job with the city's Department of Recreation.

Other job offers followed, as did gifts, including food, baskets of fruit, toys and cash contributions totaling more than $800.

Plant Employees in Yule Spirit

Fisher Body plant salaried employees contributed almost $1,000 for charitable purposes during the Christmas holidays, according to Alger V. Conner, director of industrial relations.

Conner said the contributions were made in lieu of an in-plant exchange of Christmas cards upon the recommendation of a majority of salaried employees.

"Most of the salaried employees felt this project to be very worthwhile and in keeping with the true spirit of Christmas," Conner said.

"The donations were given to the Children's Village Donation Fund, Tribute Fund and the Christian Children's Fund after a study by a committee of four employees."

Injuries Are Fatal to 1 Twin Hit by Car Before Yule

NEWAGO (UPI) — Penelope Sue Kay, one of two 13-year-old twin girls struck by a car the day before Christmas, died early today in Grant Hospital.

Her sister, Patricia, was seriously injured.

The two girls, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Kay of rural Newago, had just stepped from a school bus near their home shortly after noon Thursday when they were struck by a car driven by George Albert Rues, 72, of Newago, police said.

The accident occurred on M37 at the 104th Street intersection, about three miles south of Newago.

Newago state police said the accident is under investigation.

Red Foley, Wife Are Injured in Fire

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Country music singer Red Foley and his wife were injured today when fire swept their luxury apartment.

Fire Chief Paul Hinds said Foley received a "badly burned hand." His wife was overcome by smoke.

Full extent of their injuries was not immediately known.

Hinds said the fire apparently started on a sofa, set drapes aflame and burned a door and rugs in the apartment.

"We don't know just how it started yet. There were lamps lighted near the sofa, and it could have been a short in the wiring," Hinds said.

Holiday Spirit in Appalachia

WHITESBURG, Ky. (AP) — A full meal, some warm clothes, a new toy, pieces of candy—all gifts from strangers—made this Christmas stand out for families in Appalachia's poverty pockets.

Food and clothing were still being distributed today by volunteers through eastern Kentucky.

Rain pelted those who worked Christmas Day in Letcher County.

"We were drenched but these children couldn't have been happier if it had been Santa Claus himself," said Fire Chief Remous Day.

Toys, food and clothing were collected by Asheville, N.C., college students. Hams and turkeys came from Bloomington, Ill. A truckload of goods arrived from Garden City, Mich. Cincinnati sent 2,000 new toys.

Santa Comes In Loud and Clear at Two Hospitals

Headed by Richard Dengate, 969 Hadley, Independence Township, and Brother John Bauer, S.J., of Colombar College, the operators visited both St. Joseph Mercy and Pontiac Osteopathic hospitals.

Using han, talks as speaker units, the children were able to get through to Santa loud and clear at his remote outpost.

He broke the record by about 100 miles.

A company spokesman said adverse winds may have altered his plans.

Fine to Dine With Frankenstein

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD—Lunching with Fred Gwynne during his workday is no easy matter.

It's not that Fred isn't a good conversationalist. He is. He's a neat eater, too. It's just that—well, you have to look at him.

There's something about his appearance that is as appetizing as his appetite. Maybe it's the high, cleft forehead or the ape-like brow or perhaps the screws at each side of the neck. Fortunately, Fred's talk makes you almost overlook his makeup as Herman, the gentle father of CBS' "The Munsters." He's such a bright and accomplished fellow—former advertising copy writer, Shakespearean actor, author and illustrator of books—that you wonder why he's doubling for Frankenstein's monster in the television series.

"I'm enjoying it," said Fred. He's also doing a good job of supporting his wife and children. "The Munsters" has been nudging into the top 10 in audience ratings and looks set for a long ride.

I had expected Fred to be chafing under his monster makeup, which drove Boris Karloff to distraction.

TOOK 5 HOURS

"But the makeup took five hours to put on in those days," Fred said. "Now it's down to two hours. Before, they built up the brow with layer after layer of tissue and spirit gum. The entire upper head is now a single unit that fits on me."

"Sure, I can't wait to get the stuff off every night. And it really bugs me when the same makeup man doesn't do the job. That happened once, and I was angry as an old maid."

"On the other hand, this role is like having my own private gymnasium. I've never been in such good physical shape. My back feels great. The reason is the way I move."

"Something seemed wrong to me when I saw the first few rushes. Finally I figured out what it was: Whenever I bent or turned my neck, I became a human being in a monster suit. I realized I had to move as though I had a spinal fusion, the back, neck and head moving as one unit."

NO IDENTIFICATION

Fred, who enjoys his privacy, cited another good aspect of the role: He is not identifiable in public. This wasn't the first time when he was playing Officer Muldoon in "Car 54, Where Are You?"

He told of going to a recent basketball game with fellow cast member Al Lewis. Fans came up to Al and said, "Say, don't you play that Dracula character on 'The Munsters'?" Then they would take a sweeping glance up at Fred, take a second look and move on.

The memory of it brought a monsterish smile from Fred.

Gifts Bring Joy to 7 Orphans

Sisters Lost Mother,
Father Back in 1961

LEVITTOWN, Pa. (AP) — "They were tippling around at about 6 p. m., and started opening presents in the playroom at about 7," Liz Schaefer, 25, said Friday of her seven orphaned nieces.

Christmas has been a joyous time for the seven Schaefer sisters because of the efforts of Aunt Liz and the children's grandmother, Kate Schaefer, 67. The mother of the girls died giving birth to her daughter, in March 1961. Their father died in an auto accident three months later.

"It was a hectic day," a tired Aunt Liz said in an interview Friday night. "But I think it's wonderful to be able to do things for the children. They were all so thrilled with the presents."

The Schaefer girls range in age from Eleanor, 12, to Georgette, 3. There are also Linda, 11, Barbara, 10, Marie, 8, Janice, 7, and Pamela, 5.

"The girls played with their new toys all day," Miss Schaefer said. "Last night they went to visit Georgette (who lives with an aunt and uncle in Philadelphia) but today everyone was together here."

The happy children had asked for—and received—the sort of presents that all little girls want: dolls and toy dishes, games and toy animals, and clothes for the older girls.

Asked about her plans for the children for 1965, Miss Schaefer replied: "I haven't had a chance to even think about the new year yet. I've been too busy thinking about Christmas."

A Junior Editors Quiz About MUSIC

QUESTION: How was music started?

ANSWER: We can not tell exactly, but it is quite possible that it started as an expression of pleasure in rhythmic bodily movement.

When we walk, we push our bodies off balance, but we throw a foot forward and are back to balance again. This sense of coming back to balance seems pleasant, like coming back home after a walk.

Primitive people possibly enjoyed swinging back and forth, off-balance, back to balance, and then accented this by clapping hands or beating a hollow log, a kind of drum. Singing to this rhythm would be a natural development, and the beauties of music, through finer singing and better instruments, would follow. Music had a great importance to ancient peoples.

They felt its beauty and associated it with the forces which they thought governed life—as, for example, the Chinese, who believed that music was a reflection of universal order and had magic powers.

The Greeks were especially interested in music; they thought that the stars and planets sang in harmony together.

FOR YOU TO DO: Clap hands like this: clap, clap, clap, pause, clap, clap, cvlap. Now try clap, clapclap, clap clap, pause, clap, clap, clap. Now try clap, clapclap, clap clapclap. Try a little song chant to go with these rhythms. Do you see where music started?

Robert Kennedy Pays Visit to JFK's Grave

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. elect Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., brother of the late President John F. Kennedy, paid a Christmas Day visit yesterday to the Kennedy grave in Arlington National Cemetery. Military authorities said Kennedy arrived at the hillside gravesite early in the morning and stayed for a few moments. The authorities said other visitors to the grave were few in number during the day.

Freeway Accident Kills Four in Family, Youth

Oregon River Subsides; Rain Plagues California

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Oregon's swollen Willamette River subsided last night handing downtown Portland a Christmas reprieve from a massive flood threat. In water logged Northern California, rain was expected to hamper rescue and cleanup operations in scores of devastated communities.

Huge Toll in Wake of India Storm

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Thousands are homeless and at least 750 persons are dead on Ceylon and the nearby island of Rameswaram, ravaged by a cyclone and 15-foot tidal wave, according to reports reaching here today.

The disaster area, off India's southeastern tip, is still virtually isolated and communication is patchy. Villages have been without food or water since Wednesday morning.

Officials said about 250 persons were known dead on Ceylon and another 500 on Rameswaram, a 16-mile long island between Ceylon and the Indian mainland.

Unofficial estimates in newspapers at Colombo, the capital of Ceylon, said the death toll would reach 2,000.

Ceylon air force planes dropped food to 14 Ceylonese villages isolated by high water and washed out roads.

PROPERTY DAMAGE
Property damage is estimated at $150 million.

U. S. Ambassador Cecil B. Lyon asked Ceylonese Premier Mrs. Sirimavo Bandaranaike what help was most urgently needed. Britain, West Germany and Cuba also offered assistance.

Two Indian navy vessels reached Rameswaram and rescued about 200 persons. No planes were able to land on the island because of washed out runways. The island's rail link with the Indian mainland was washed away.

Railway officials said 115 persons aboard a passenger train hit by the 15-foot tidal wave that swept across the eastern end of Rameswaram were believed drowned.

A spokesman said the six-coach train left Pamban on the western end of the island shortly before midnight Tuesday and was pulled into a station at the easternmost city of Dhanushkoti several hours later when the disaster struck.

The death toll stood at more than 40 in the Far West five-state floor plague. More than 14,000 persons were homeless and property damage was estimated in the millions of dollars.

After cresting yesterday at 29.8 feet, almost 12 feet above flood stage, the murky Willamette began to recede. Officials said only a three-foot concrete parapet held back the water.

Among the debris the river carried was a broken raft of logs, which passed under Portland's 10 bridges without doing any damage.

Forecasters predicted the Willamette's fall would be slow.

Oregon Gov. Mark Hatfield said, "We're over the hump in the state as a whole, but the situation remains critical in Portland."

FAMILIES EVACUATED
More than 1,200 families were evacuated in the North Portland area as the Columbia River threatened to inundate the section. Army engineers insisted the evacuation was precautionary, but they declined to guarantee dikes along the river. More than 7,000 persons were homeless in Oregon.

Floodwaters were receding in some California areas. Cold temperatures were forecast for today, promising more discomfort for about 7,000 flood refugees.

The dropping mercury was a mixed blessing. Mountain areas, especially the Sierra on the Nevada-California border, refrize, reducing flood threats from melting snow.

Washington State weather forecasters called for snow tonight in the northwest and eastern portions of their state and rain elsewhere.

PREDICT CREST
Predictions are that the Spokane River will crest and may cause some damage.

In Idaho, the Potomac River dropped to a level of 6 1/2 feet as the weatherman predicted lessening rainfall for a 24-hour period.

The Weather Bureau in Boise reported the gradual reduction of south Idaho streams and that the Snake River on the Idaho-Oregon border had crested slightly below flood stage.

Flood conditions in Reno had declined by midafternoon yesterday as the Truckee River marked a steady, decreased flow. Earlier it had washed into streets in Vista, east of Reno.

WILL GO ON
Rescue operations in California by 48 helicopters scattered over the northern coast will go on today, officials said. Dense fog and rain kept the aircraft on the ground most of yesterday, although a few got through late in the day.

Many of the helicopters were from the carrier Bennington, which arrived at the flood rescue center of Eureka, Calif., on a mercy mission.

Seven physicians in the Eureka area worked 12-hour shifts in helicopters taking injured victims and bodies from the stricken 70-square mile district. Receding floodwaters left mud and assorted debris laying thick in houses.

PLENTY OF WORK FOR SANTA—The Fischer children in Aberdeen, S. D., had their stockings hung by the chimney with care yesterday—all 11 of them. Among the children are the Fischer quintuplets born Sept. 14, 1963, and now almost 1 1/2 years old. The father, Andrew, holds Mary Ann; Julie has Cathy; and Evelyn cuddles Maggie. Then comes Dannie and his sister, Denise, who holds 2-month-old Cynthia. The quint Margaret is held by Charlotte, and Mrs. Fischer holds the lone boy quint, Jimmie. (Copyright 1964, Curtis Publishing Co.)

Several County Vacancies

New Prosecutor Filling Staff

When Oakland County Prosecutor-elect S. Jerome Bronson takes office Jan. 1, he will bring at least five new assistant prosecutors to fill vacancies.

Bronson, the first Democrat elected to the office since the 1930s, and his newly appointed staff members will take the office Monday.

They, and John D. Murphy, the county's first Democratic clerk, will be sworn in at an 11 a.m. ceremony in the Supervisory Auditorium at the courthouse. Circuit Judge William J. Beer will preside.

Bronson said that his staff is not yet complete and that he is still interviewing candidates for specialized fields, particularly in Appellate Court work.

Those already named by Bronson are John I. Bain, 33, of 26293 Springfield, Farmington Township; James R. Stelt, 39, of 265 Ascot; Walter D. Schmier, 56, of 8577 Hendrie, Huntington Woods; William R. VanderKloot, 27, of 30015 Cheviot Hill, Franklin; and Bernard Paige, 27, of 1921 Beverly, Sylvan Lake.

LOST ELECTION

Currently an attorney with the Sun Oil Co., Bain, a graduate of the Detroit College of Law, was an unsuccessful candidate in the Nov. 3 election for state representative. He lost to Republican incumbent Raymond Baker.

Move Troops Into Saigon

Extend Martial Law After Hotel Bombing

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The Vietnamese government ordered a battalion of paratroopers into Saigon today and extended martial law for another month to head off further trouble in the wake of the Christmas Eve bombing of a U.S. officers' hotel.

All armed forces in the capital were placed on maximum alert.

U. S. authorities put stringent new security measures into effect. Bomb squads opened all Christmas gift packages for patients at the U. S. Navy Hospital.

Special demolition teams roamed all 67 U.S. installations in Saigon in search of terrorist bombs as a precaution against a repetition of the Brink Hotel bombing that killed two Americans and injured 68 others. Less than a dozen of the injured Americans were still hospitalized.

Some U. S. sources charged that a general laxity of security preceded the blast, presumably the work of the Communist Viet Cong.

VIRGINIA GRADUATE

For two years following his 1961 graduation from the University of Virginia Law School, VanderKloot was a special agent for the Intelligence Corp of the U. S. Army, and is now associated with the Detroit law firm of Hill, Lewis, Andrews, Adams, Goodrich and Power.

3 Others Die on Area Roads

Death traveled Oakland County highways during the past 48 hours, claiming at least eight lives in four separate single-car traffic accidents.

Early this morning five persons, including a mother and her three sons, died in an accident on I-75 in Independence Township.

Dead are: Mrs. Glen Miller, 27, her three sons, Deland, 8; Glen Jr., 6, and John, 4, and Michael Carter; 20, all of Flint.

Others killed were Mrs. Bryce J. Stevens, 34, of 981 Carlisle; William Wasagshik, 37, of 1470 Ladd, Commerce Township, and Rosemary Pittman, 20, of 315 Romeo, Rochester.

The accident which killed Mrs. Miller, her sons and Carter took place at 1:46 a.m. The driver of the car, Mrs. Miller's husband, Glen, 27, is in serious condition at Pontiac General Hospital.

State Police said the six were apparently returning from a holiday visit in Detroit.

Officers said the vehicle was traveling at a high rate of speed when it left the north-bound lane of the wet and fog-shrouded freeway.

The car struck a guard rail, then straddled the rail until it hit a pillar of the Holcomb Road overpass, officers said.

CAR DEMOLISHED
The 1957 model car was demolished. Police said the vehicle left the road 245 feet south of the point of impact and they said there was no evidence of skid marks on the shoulder.

Police believe Mr. and Mrs. Miller and Carter were in the front seat and the three boys were in the rear of the car, when the crash occurred.

STRUCK TREE

Joe Daws, 71, of Quincy, killed yesterday morning as his pickup truck ran off a Branch County road and struck a tree.

Terry Bentley, 17, of Benton Harbor, killed Saturday when the car in which he was riding ran off the road and struck a parked truck in Benton Township, Berrien County.

Bad Weather Ups Traffic Toll

Millions of Motorists Jamming Highways

By The Associated Press
Traffic deaths for the extended Christmas weekend took a sharp upward turn yesterday, running far above the nation's daily average toll, as millions of motorists jammed highways on the holiday.

In Michigan, the weekend count stands at 26, including eight in the county.

Around the nation, rain, ice and snow-slicked highways, along with fog in some state areas, made driving conditions hazardous.

The count of deaths on highways since the start of the 48-hour holiday period was nearing 300 late this morning. The National Safety Council has estimated the final count will be between 550 and 650.

State traffic victims include: Arthur L. Seward, 18, and James E. Dempsey, 14, both of Bilety, killed last night when the car in which they were riding left a Newaygo County road and struck a tree near Fremont.

STRUCK TREE

Joe Daws, 71, of Quincy, killed yesterday morning as his pickup truck ran off a Branch County road and struck a tree.

Terry Bentley, 17, of Benton Harbor, killed Saturday when the car in which he was riding ran off the road and struck a parked truck in Benton Township, Berrien County.

Eddy Yee, 64, of Detroit, fatally injured Thursday night when struck by a car in Detroit.

Jesse Palmer, 74, of Farwell, killed Thursday when struck by an auto as he walked across U.S. 10 in Farwell.

HIT TREE

Harvey M. Crawford, 65, of Coleman, killed Thursday when his car hit a tree near Mount Pleasant.

Edwin Godin, 38, Detroit, killed Thursday when struck by a car in Detroit.

Mercury to Dip Now That Santa Made His Trip

Temperatures will start dipping today, says the weatherman. A low of 20 to 27 is expected tonight, to be followed by a high of 27 to 34 tomorrow. Skies will be partly cloudy through Monday.

Today in Pontiac, winds are easterly to northeasterly at eight to 15 miles an hour. They will become northwesterly at the same speed tonight and tomorrow.

The mercury dropped from its early morning reading of 35 today to 31 by 1 p.m.

DIXIE TORNADO—One of the random tornadoes which swept across middle Georgia last night shattered this frame house north of McDonough. The area in Henry County was the worst hit by the violent storms, which uprooted trees, smashed houses and flattened barns.

Pontiac's Jim Howenstine Sizes Up Stub

Kick Test Tells Much To 'Lumberjack'

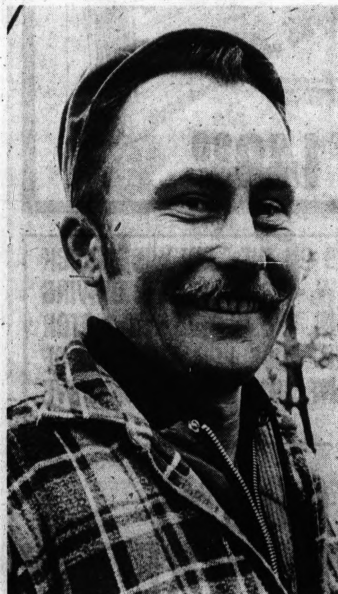

'I'll Put 'er Right . . . About . . . Here'

Sawdust Flies As Tree Is Felled

'Sorry, Jim, You Missed Your Mark'

'Okay, Birmingham, There's Always Next Year'

Birmingham 'Bunyan's' Win Again

The undefeated "lumberjacks" of Birmingham's forestry and parks department have gained permanent possession of the coveted chromed handsaw.

In beating out competition at the fifth annual Inter-City Forestry and Parks Field Day, Thursday, they won the trophy which will go with their chromed ax.

The ax is a keepsake from their three years of victory over Oak Park.

The champs faced a new opponent this year — Pontiac sent a team to join that of Ferndale in trying to topple the record holders.

TOOK HONORS

Ferndale took honors in the spur climb and tractor drive. Pontiac proved to have the best power sawers.

Darrel C. Middlewood, superintendent of the Birmingham department, is anticipating a tougher time next year.

This year's competition, he said, "was closer than the score indicates."

A new event this year was felling, in which tree stumps were sawed down in predetermined directions.

The "feller" coming closest to a wooden stake is the winner. Birmingham scored a victory here by one-half inch.

Although many of the skills involved are used by the men almost daily, Middlewood admitted his team had had "a little extra practice."

Next year the "kings of the hill" will be defending their title in Pontiac, in a yet-undetermined forest.

Plant Employees in Yule Spirit

Fisher Body plant salaried employees contributed almost $1,000 for charitable purposes during the Christmas holidays, according to Alger V. Conner, director of industrial relations.

Conner said the contributions were made in lieu of an in-plant exchange of Christmas cards upon the recommendation of a majority of salaried employees.

"Most of the salaried employees felt this project to be very worthwhile and in keeping with the true spirit of Christmas," Conner said.

"The donations were given to the Children's Village Donation Fund, Tribute Fund and the Children's Children's Fund after a study by a committee of four employees."

Injuries Are Fatal to 1 Twin Hit by Car Before Yule

NEWAGO (UPI) — Penelope Sue Kay, one of two 12-year-old twin girls struck by a car the day before Christmas, died early today in Grant Hospital.

Her sister, Patricia, was seriously injured.

The two girls, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Kay of rural Newago, had just stepped from a school bus near their home shortly after noon Thursday when they were struck by a car driven by George Albert Bass, 72, of Newago, police said.

The accident occurred on M37 at the 104th Street intersection, about three miles south of Newago.

Newago state police said the accident is under investigation.

Red Foley, Wife Are Injured in Fire

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Country music singer Red Foley and his wife were injured today when fire swept their luxury apartment.

Fire Chief Paul Hinds said Foley received a "badly burned hand." His wife was overcome by smoke.

Full extent of their injuries was not immediately known.

Hinds said the fire apparently started on a sofa, set draper afire and burned a door and rugs in the apartment.

"We don't know just how it started yet. There were lamps lighted near the sofa, and it could have been a short in the wiring," Hinds said.

Holiday Spirit in Appalachia

WHITESBURG, Ky. (AP) — A full meal, some warm clothes, a new toy, pieces of candy—all gifts from strangers—made this Christmas stand out for families in Appalachia's poverty pockets.

Food and clothing were still being distributed today by volunteers through eastern Kentucky.

Rain pelted those who worked Christmas Day in Letcher County.

"We were drenched but these children couldn't have been happier. If it had been Santa Claus himself," said Fire Chief Remous Day.

Toys, food and clothing were collected by Asheville, N.C., college students. Hams and turkeys came from Bloomington, Ill. A truckload of goods arrived from Garden City, Mich. Cincinnati sent 2,000 new toys.

Santa Comes In Loud and Clear at Two Hospitals

Headed by Richard Dengate, 9699 Haldie, Independence Township, and Brother John Bausef, S.J., of Colombar College, the operators visited both St. Joseph Mercy and Pontiac Osteopathic hospitals.
