38 VC Surrender in Largest Single Defection of War

ONE COLOR

From Our News Wires

SAIGON — Tired, hungry and scared, a platoon of 37 guerrillas and their 15-year-old girl nurse stumbled out of the jungle and surrendered in the largest single Communist defection of the war, U.S. spokesmen said today.

★ ★ ★

"They were afraid to die. They stated they lacked food and were disenchanted with the Vietcong cause," the spokesmen announced.

The platoon surrendered Tuesday at the village of Loc An, 365 miles north of Saigon.

Although 61,000 Communists have defected since 1964 including 25,000 so far this year, none before came in so large a group, the spokesmen said.

The commander of the platoon said life in his Communist-controlled village had been a miserable existence.

'NO COMPENSATION'

"We've had to pay high taxes and work hard with no compensation," Tran Tuwy, 40, told newsmen through an interpreter.

Some of the defectors said they had wanted to surrender for some time but couldn't because of North Vietnamese troops in the area.

The mass defection was a shot in the arm for the U.S.-South Vietnamese Chieu Hoi — or Open Arms-program to attract defectors to the government side.

★ ★ ★

The number of defections has been dropping after a big spurt at the beginning of the year.

HEAVY BARAGE

In other developments, North Vietnamese gunners hit the U.S. Marine forward post at Con Thien yesterday in the heaviest artillery barrage in more than two months and probed a nearby Marine position with a ground attack.

In the same area just below the Demilitarized Zone, a Marine fighter-bomber accidentally dropped a bomb on American positions and added to the U.S. casualties.

The barrage of artillery and mortar fire and the ground probe by an estimated company of North Vietnamese killed seven Marines and wounded 77.

'U.S. Not Bombing Reds' Thai Routes'

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP) — Military sources report U.S. planes are now bombing Communist infiltration routes into Thailand from Laos, but the U.S. embassy in Thailand categorically denies it.

An embassy spokesman also directly denied a report from the military sources that some American planes have been shot down over Thailand, and said the embassy knew nothing of any Communist antiaircraft guns or missiles in the country.

In contradicting the reports, the spokesman said no U.S. armed forces of any kind are carrying out bombing missions on Thai soil, and added: "No U. S. planes have been lost to hostile fire from within Thailand."

The military sources were equally firm.

These same sources say:

● The Communists have sought to counter the raids by positioning antiaircraft guns and surface-to-air missiles in the extreme northeastern corner of Thailand.

● Some American planes have been shot down over Thailand although there has been no official statement on the losses.

These disclosures made yesterday by officers here, appear to indicate a worsening insurgency situation for the Thais, confronted more and more with Communist penetration of their borders.

The problem has required some American actions similar to early U.S. efforts in South Vietnam, officers said.

★ ★ ★

They declined to be specific but said the actions involve U.S. air commandos in Thailand.

★ ★ ★

Eglin AFB is a major Air Force Tactical Command facility where air commandos—Air Force counterparts to the Army's Green Berets special forces — are trained.

Earlier last year the Pentagon acknowledged U.S.-flown helicopters were being used to ferry Thai troops into the northeast section for counterinsurgency operations.

But the Pentagon said then that U.S. pilots were under strict orders to avoid involvement in combat and would be replaced as soon as enough Thai chopper pilots had been trained.

★ ★ ★

The United States has undertaken a major buildup in Thailand the last few years with total American strength now exceeding 35,000 men, including some 1,000 air commandos. The commandos help train Thais in counterinsurgency operations.

3 Supervisor Panels View Airport Development Plan

A preliminary plan for the future development of Oakland-Orion Airport was unveiled before three committees of the County Board of Supervisors today.

★ ★ ★

The plan calls for ultimate construction of two 7,000-foot runways and two smaller runways. One each of the larger and of the smaller would run east-west and the other two would run north-south.

The report was submitted by Robert E. Peckham, head of an East Lansing aviation consultant firm. It is part of the Master Plan for Oakland-Orion Airport which had not been completed in time for the meeting.

Labeled "a feasibility study" the documents, including map, graphs and an aerial photo of the area were accepted in a unanimous vote of the committee members.

★ ★ ★

The complete master plan will need acceptance of the entire Board of Supervisors when it is submitted later.

'DESIRABLE PROJECT'

Peckham said the project was "feasible, desirable and logical," but did not give a cost estimate.

In his recommendations, he supported a multi-phase construction plan. It would first call for construction of two runways, about 3,500-feet long, pointing east-west and north-south.

Also in the first stage would be the construction of ground facilities at the site, such as hangars, a terminal, and cargo areas. This would be a "nucleus" for the complete plan, he said.

★ ★ ★

At the site now, a sod field, are based about 85 planes. Ultimate plans call for 700. Peckham said the 7,000-foot runways could handle jet planes up to the size of DC9s, an intermediately large commercial carrier.

★ ★ ★

Also at the site would be the government's Instrument Landing System for all-weather flying. Installation of this was projected for the year 1975.

In listing the problems of construction he listed the estimate that 2.4 million cubic yards of earth would have to be moved for the first phase and 10 million in the second.

★ ★ ★

Hearing the report were supervisors' committees for aviation, ways and means and buildings and grounds.

Pearl Attack Recalled

PEARL HARBOR (AP) — The tolling of the bell and the playing of taps—these were among the simple ceremonies today for the 26th anniversary of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

The events were low keyed—in contrast to the silver anniversary last year when Capt. Mitsue Fuchida, the Japanese aviator who led the attack, was present.

Romney Works on 'Neutral Viet'

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. George Romney of Michigan said today he was working on a proposal for neutralization of North and South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos as one possible alternative to the war.

Romney, only announced candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, discussed his plan before boarding a plane for Paris on the first leg of a tour of Europe, the Middle East and Asia.

He also said he had told the Soviet ambassador in Washington that he would "welcome the opportunity to confer with top leaders" of the Soviet Union and would like to meet with Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

He said, however, that he knew of no arrangements for a meeting with the Soviet premier.

Romney, whose wife is accompanying him on the tour, said he hoped his talks with leaders of government and private individuals in the many countries he would visit would provide information for working out his neutralization proposal.

'BEING DETAILED'

"It is in the process of being detailed," he said.

The governor said the information he obtained from his private talks abroad would not be discussed until he returned to the United States.

Asked whether he thought the Vietnam problem should be placed before the United Nations, Romney replied that "we should use any international agency" in search for peace.

In Police Chase

Pontiac Youth, 17, Is Killed

A 17-year-old Pontiac boy was shot and killed by city police early today when he attempted to escape apprehension in a stolen car.

KING

Jimmie King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Singleton of 411 S. Jessie, died about 2 a.m. in Pontiac General Hospital.

The shooting followed a chase — first in cars, then on foot — during which officers warned the youth several times that they would fire, police said.

★ ★ ★

Patrolmen Travis A. Lively and Dennis Mutrynowski were on patrol at Auburn and Saginaw about 12:35 a.m. when King drove past their patrol car.

★ ★ ★

A routine check of the passing car found that it had been reported stolen in Pontiac Tuesday. The chase began.

STARTED IN PURSUIT

Police said the officers started in pursuit east on Auburn and pulled in front of the vehicle just west of Jessie.

Police said King, who had been stopped by the patrol car's blocking maneuver, started again when Lively got out to approach the youth and veered the automobile toward the officer.

Shots fired at the fleeing car's tires missed their mark, and another volley of bullets smashed out the rear window.

King reportedly jumped from the still-moving vehicle on the 500 block of Auburn and ran west, ignoring shouted warnings from both officers.

Both patrolmen then fired at the youth. King was wounded twice in the leg and once in the lower abdominal region, authorities said.

Police said it was not yet determined which officer fired the fatal shot.

Short Holiday Truces

SAIGON (UPI) — This year's holiday cease-fires will be kept as short as possible because of past Communist military buildups and Hanoi's refusal to talk peace, a top South Vietnamese official said today.

Tran Van Do, foreign minister, ruled out any extension of the Christmas and New Year truces unless there is a "good prospect" of peace talks with the Communists.

Rain and Snow Will Follow Fog

Dense fog hovered over Michigan early this morning but few accidents were attributed to the weather in the Pontiac area.

The U.S. Weather Bureau predicts light rain and drizzle throughout the day with rain changing to light snow or snow flurries tonight. No accumulation of snow is likely, the Bureau reported.

Temperatures will become colder tonight, the low falling to 28 to 32 degrees.

Mostly cloudy and colder with a chance of snow flurries is tomorrow's forecast, and clearing and not so cold is the outlook for Saturday.

★ ★ ★

Morning east-to-southeasterly winds at six to 14 miles per hour will become east-to-northeasterly at eight to 16 miles per hour tonight.

PROBABLE PRECIPITATION

Precipitation probabilities in per cent are: 60 today, 50 tonight and 30 tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

A year ago from Dec. 4 through Dec. 8 fog, rain and drizzle blanketed the Pontiac area. Five inches of snow arrived on Dec. 9.

★ ★ ★

The low temperature prior to 8 a.m. was a mild 38. At 12:30 p.m. the mercury stood at 44.

Misconceptions Cloud Fair Housing Views

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the first of two articles on major questions surrounding open housing ordinances at the local level and fair housing legislation at the state level.)

The Pontiac City Commission soon will be called upon to act on a proposed open housing ordinance for the City of Pontiac.

Tuesday, the State Legislature will reconvene. Topping the legislative docket is action on a proposed State Fair Housing law.

Much has been said both pro and con in recent weeks concerning fair housing legislation.

★ ★ ★

One group formed to study the matter is the Fair Housing Coordinating Committee. It was organized by interested citizens and organizations shortly after formation of the New Detroit Committee.

MAJOR GROUPS

Among the major groups represented on the Fair Housing Coordinating Committee are the Michigan Council of Churches, Michigan State AFL-CIO, Michigan Catholic Conference and Michigan Chamber of Commerce.

The committee has contended that here is a great deal of misinformation about the nature and effects of fair housing legislation.

Thus, it concentrated much of its efforts on compiling results of many studies made in cities and states where fair housing laws have been in effect for some time.

★ ★ ★

The findings of this intensive survey have been used to answer frequently voiced misconceptions and questions about fair housing legislation.

Here is a sampling of those questions and answers compiled by the committee.

Q — Is there really any need for this kind of legislation?

A — Nearly 1 million citizens of Michigan suffer the humiliation and frustration of knowing that their housing choice is extremely limited — not by their ability to pay, but because they were born with dark skins. In housing, discrimination is the rule rather than the exception.

The few Negroes who have acquired housing on an unrestricted basis have often had to use extraordinary means. The ordinary channels through which the average citizen seeks and acquires housing are closed to nonwhites.

Q — Isn't fair housing really forced housing?

A — No. Nobody can force you to sell or rent your property against your will. If you have not offered your house for sale or rent, nobody has any right to demand that you sell or rent to anybody. The only requirement of fair housing laws is that persons who decide to sell or rent and who publicly offer housing for sale or rent must then deal with those who respond without regards to the prospective buyer's religious affiliation, nationality, or the color of his skin.

Q — Suppose a prospective buyer or tenant is engaged in a disreputable occupation. Or suppose I know he wants to turn my single-family home into a rooming house. Or suppose he simply can't afford my asking price. Must I sell or rent to someone like that?

A — No. You may reject any prospective buyer or tenant for these and many other reasons, but not for religion, race, color or national origin.

Q — But what about MY rights? Shouldn't I have the right to dispose of my property in any way I see fit?

A — Yes, within limits. Property rights are not an absolute as some people have been led to believe. Zoning laws restrict the uses to which you can put your property.

Building, health and safety codes require that you construct and maintain your property in accordance with legal standards. A fair housing law would affect your property only after you make known your intention to cease to own or occupy it.

Q — What about my neighbors? If I sold my house to Negroes the neighborhood would change and my neighbors' property values would go down.

A — First, property values are not related to race, but to supply and demand. Values decline, for example, if there is a sudden increase in the number of houses for sale in a given area, because greater supply usually means lower prices.

This could happen if your neighbors were to panic and leave the neighborhood all at once. So, property values are really up to your neighbors themselves. Actually, scientific surveys show property values are much more likely to increase in the long run than decline in integrated neighborhoods. A fair housing law prohibiting "block busting" tactics by real estate agents who promote panic selling would help stabilize property values.

Secondly, fair housing legislation does not lead to mass movements of minority groups into all-white neighborhoods. In 21 states and more than 45 cities where fair housing laws are in effect, no such mass movements have taken place.

Neighborhoods change because of the limited supply of housing available to Negroes. A fair housing law would relieve pressure on specific neighborhoods by making the whole housing market available.

Q — But Negroes don't know how to keep up their property.

A — Not true. In cities across Michigan and the rest of the nation there are many racially mixed and predominantly Negro neighborhoods where anyone would be proud to live.

Even though the homes in these neighborhoods are, on the average, many years older than the homes many whites occupy, they are well kept up. Negro home owners are probably more active in neighborhood and block improvement associations than whites.

U.S. Expected to Ask Security Council to Meet on Viet Soon

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States is expected to call for a meeting of the U.N. Security Council soon to launch new attempts toward a negotiated settlement of the Vietnam war, informed sources said today.

The sources predicted U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg would relay a request from the White House for a meeting of the 15-nation council some time this month.

★ ★ ★

A U.S. informant said he assumed that "my boss might come back from Washington with some further information on the timing of the council session."

Goldberg spent Wednesday in Washington for a Cabinet meeting, and it was generally believed that he discussed the Senate resolution adopted last week asking President Johnson put the war before the United Nations.

There was speculation that further U.S. action may have been delayed by differences which have arisen with Saigon over participation of the Communist Vietcong in any council debate on Vietnam.

The split came into the open after it was learned that the Vietcong National Liberation Front had expressed a desire in October to send representatives to the United Nations.

★ ★ ★

A State Department spokesman referred inquiring newsmen to Goldberg's statement to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on Nov. 2. Goldberg said the United States would vote in favor of the Vietcong participating in a council meeting on the war.

Ambassador Nguyen Huu-Chi, South Vietnam's observer at the United Nations, called on Secretary General U Thant when he heard of the Vietcong approach and asserted that his government would object to a "propaganda"i visit here by the Vietcong.

'CREATION OF HANOI'

The South Vietnamese Foreign Ministry said earlier that Saigon would "refuse to accept the presence of the National Liberation Front as a separate delegation in any peace talk."

Suspended JP Is Guilty of 3 Perjury Counts

Suspended Royal Oak Township Justice of the Peace Lonnie C. Cash yesterday was found guilty of three of four perjury charges brought against him by the Oakland County Grand Jury in May 1966.

★ ★ ★

A Circuit Court jury of 11 women and one man returned the verdicts against the 43-year-old father of six after deliberating nearly two and a half days.

Following Cash's indictment by the then grand juror, Circuit Judge Philip Pratt, Cash an ordained minister, was suspended from performing any of his judicial duties by an order of the circuit court bench.

Cash's trial, which ended last Friday, ran for nearly six weeks.

He was found guilty of lying to Pratt when he testified that money had never been set aside for him by numbers men.

TRAFFIC FINES

On the other two counts, he was convicted of lying when he told Pratt that he had never kicked back a portion of traffic fines to the then township police and fire coordinator Ernest Wilson; and that he had seen a state policeman allegedly consorting with a known prostitute.

The jury found Cash innocent of a charge that he had lied when he said that he had never given money to members of the township board to vote on a matter in which he had an interest.

★ ★ ★

Circuit Judge James S. Thorburn will sentence Cash on Jan. 4. Perjury carries a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison.

NEW YORK (AP) — Four grim men pushed their way into the small, crowded auditorium in the basement of Maimonides Hospital in Brooklyn. They had been up all night.

"I think, first of all, I'm sorry to have to report to you that we have bad news, not good news."

The speaker, Dr. Adrian Kantrowitz, 49, disclosed Wednesday that his 22-man medical team had failed in the second attempt in four days to transplant a human heart. The transplant of the healthy heart of a dead 2-day old boy into the breast of a 2½-week-old boy was completed but the child died 6½ hours later.

Controversy Still Clouds Mental Health Programs

The cloud over Oakland County's mental health program remained today despite efforts to control the situation in which disgruntled staff members threaten to quit and leave the programs foundering.

★ ★ ★

Employes in various capacities have either left the program or voiced discontent in recent months and now 11 of 13 staff members at the Oakland Training Institute (OTI) have handed in resignations dated Jan. 3.

The OTI operation has been termed a key to future programs, and the directorship has changed hands four times in the last 16 months.

Under fire has been Dr. Robert E. Walden, director of the Community Mental Health Services Board which administers OTI and other mental health programs.

However, after a closed door session Tuesday, the 11 board members announced that Dr. Walden would not be fired at this time. They also announced, however, that an "evaluation report" on him was being prepared.

Dr. Walden will be asked to appear before the board in another closed-door session sometime next week, an official announced.

This confrontation is to take place before the official meeting of the board which was postponed one week in face of the crisis. They are now scheduled to meet at 1:30 p.m. Dec. 15, at the board offices, 1880 S. Woodward, Birmingham.

Meanwhile, other staff members have indicated that the problems do not lie entirely with Dr. Walden, but with the mental health board itself.

★ ★ ★

A group at OTI has blamed the "chaotic and confusing" conditions on lack of leadership. Other persons connected with other phases of mental health programs have charged the board is attempting to make a "scrapegoat" of the director.

The other dissenting members, who did not want their names announced at this time, called for a reorganization of the board.

AMC Offer Irks Auto Workers

News Blackout Still Shrouding GM Talks

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers union Wednesday indicated dissatisfaction with a completely new economic offer made by financially troubled American Motors Corp. for a new national labor agreement.

Meanwhile, UAW and General Motors Corp. bargainers continued work in subcommittee meetings under a news blackout imposed Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

Both UAW President Walter P. Reuther and Leonard Woodcock, vice president in charge of the UAW GM Department, attended Wednesday's session. A union spokesman said they would be back at the bargaining table today.

AMC EYES LENIENCY

AMC bargainers did not disclose details of the firm's offer, made when the union and company reopened negotiations Wednesday. No date for new talks was set but the union said it would give the AMC offer detailed study before making a counter proposal when negotiations resume.

AMC bargainers, pointing to the firm's $72 million loss in the last fiscal year, indicated hopes American Motors would receive lenient treatment from the union.

★ ★ ★

AMC Vice President Frank Armstrong said the company cannot meet the economic guidelines of the recent Ford and Chrysler settlements with the UAW. The Ford and Chrysler pacts, most likely to be matched by GM, call for roughly $1, an hour more in wages and fringe benefits over the three-year life of the contracts.

Dems to Eye Antiwar Proposal

BIRMINGHAM — The Birmingham - Bloomfield Democratic Club will hold a special meeting Monday to consider a resolution denouncing the war in Vietnam and warning leaders of its possible consequences.

★ ★ ★

The 8 p.m. meeting was called by a group of club members. It will be held in the Martha Griffiths Lounge of the Birmingham Community House.

The resolution to be discussed states that "the war now being waged by the U.S. against a portion of the people of South Vietnam and against the state of North Vietnam is immoral and by international law illegal."

According to resolution, the international consequences are that "this warfare, to a constantly increasing degree, menaces the peace of the world and the lives of its inhabitants."

★ ★ ★

The resolution, if approved, would put the club on record as saying that "Our course of action in Southeast Asia has caused revulsion among a large and increasing portion of our citizens, including members of the Democratic party."

★ ★ ★

"This revulsion will make it morally impossible for many citizens, including members of the Democratic party to vote for Lyndon B. Johnson, or for anyone who supports his policies in Southeast Asia," the resolution reads.

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP— The township library will be closed all day tomorrow for a special one-day staff institute, according to library director Rose Vainstein.

The library has engaged Katerine G. Harris, former director of reference services at the Detroit Public Library, to assist with the program. Miss Harris is the daughter of Pontiac's late school superintendent, James H. Harris.

According to Library Board President John D. Rumsey, the library plans to conduct the institute on an annual basis for continuing in-service training of library personnel.

The library will reopen to the public at 9 a.m. Saturday.

Kidnap Suspect Is Arraigned

A Flint man accused of forcing his alleged ex-girlfriend to accompany him from her Pontiac home to an area motel Tuesday night was arraigned on a kidnaping charge yesterday and demanded preliminary examination.

★ ★ ★

Remanded to Oakland County Jail on lieu of $4,000 bond set by Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum was 26-year-old Donald C. Olmstead.

Examination was scheduled for Tuesday.

He was arrested by city police officers and Oakland County sheriff's deputies about 11:45 p.m. Tuesday — more than two hours after he allegedly abducted at gunpoint Linda McConaghie, 24, from her home at 1265 Featherstone.

★ ★ ★

Deputies located Olmstead's car at the King Motel, 1300 N. Opdyke, Pontiac Township, about 10:30 and found that he and the woman were in a room there.

★ ★ ★

Police stood by at the scene after Olmstead threatened to shoot the woman if they attempted to arrest him.

★ ★ ★

Misconceptions Shroud Fair Housing

Q — Then why do so many Negroes live in slums?

A — Because so many Negroes are poor. Because hardly any new housing is being built within their means, the poor of all races have little choice other than taking apartments or houses in the oldest sections of our cities. But these are not the people who can afford to move into your neighborhood. Most Negroes who have moved into all-white areas have incomes equal or higher than their new neighbors.

Q — Why do Negroes want to move into white neighborhoods anyway? Wouldn't they be happier among their own kind?

A — Negroes DON'T want to move into white neighborhoods as such. They want the same things their white counterparts want when they look for homes. Things like the right number of bedrooms, the right size lot, a good school for their children, a place not too far from their jobs, etc.

* * *

Many Negroes can afford good housing anywhere, but because they encounter or anticipate hostility and discrimination they are forced to take second choice. Many Negroes would choose to live in predominantly Negro neighborhoods, but they want the RIGHT to choose..

(Next: Are fair housing laws unconstitutional?)

Yank Prisoners Refuse to Break

LOS ANGELES (AP) — North Vietnam is believed to be holding 300 American fliers captive but not a single one is known to be a turncoat, says an Air Force Academy official.

Maj. Keith D. Young, who trains cadets in survival, evasion, recovery and escape, said in a speech Wednesday that 750 Air Force and Navy aircraft have been lost over North Vietnam.

He estimated at least half the fliers must be in North Vietnamese custody. Hanoi has not released the exact figure.

"I know of none" who have broken in captivity and renounced the U.S. role, Young asserted.

Coeds Auctioned to Raise Funds

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A foreign student exchange program at Portland State College raised money Wednesday by auctioning off 12 of the school's loveliest young women.

The high bidder would get a half-day date with his purchase.

The coeds, who wore dark sacks over their heads, sat on a bench. The bidders had to judge the quality of the merchandise solely on the basis of legs.

But it seemed that most of the male students were more concerned about next week's final exams than they were about the girls.

CAMP VIEW — Camp Pontiac, a corrections-conservation facility on White Lake Road, includes living, eating and recreation quarters and a gym under construction by the inmates. Present population is about 95 boys age 17 to 22 who have been sentenced to prison in circuit courts.

Camp Pontiac Sees Goal as Teaching Social Living

By BETTY ANN SCHULTZ

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — "We try to teach the boys how to go home and live with their neighbors."

* * *

This is the aim set by the administrators of Camp Pontiac, a corrections camp for male lawbreakers age 17 to 22. The facility, part of the state Department of Corrections, is on White Lake Road west of Teggerdine.

The 95 inmates see no fences, bars or guns confining them. In fact, two-thirds of the time, only one correction officer stands guard.

The residents of this temporary lodging are continuously coming and going, staying an average of seven to eight months, reports S. J. Gilman, superintendant of the state's corrections camps.

* * *

"The young offenders make acquaintances rather than friends, there are no close ties," observed Gilman and Napoleon Jones, supervisor of Camp Pontiac. The attribute this situation to a lack of mutual trust.

CONSERVATION WORK

The camp, located on state Department of Conservation land, combines corrections with conservation. The boys work weekdays from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m., maintaining conservation and recreation areas in the 40 surrounding miles. Daily pay is 25 cents from the Corrections Department.

The maintenance work the inmates do "wouldn't get done otherwise," stresses Don Vanness of the conservation department at the camp. It has been estimated that the corrections-conservation program throughout the state provides $1.5 million worth of manpower yearly.

The area served by Camp Pontiac boys includes Holly and Ortonville game areas, eight area recreation sites and the Dodge State Park No. 4.

* * *

The boys work in groups of eight or ten under the supervision of one conservation department foreman. The major problem during work time is caused when the boys shirk jobs and cause friction, said Vanness.

ACTIVITIES

During evenings, almost every inmate is occupied with an enrichment activity, said Gilman. The most popular are the welding and auto mechanics classes each week at Clarkston High School. The ten-week course, enrolling 25, was promoted by Howard Grossman, assistant deputy director of the Bureau of Correctional Facilities.

About 30 boys are engaged in remedial courses and another 15 in craft classes.

Group counseling provided by local individuals and organization is cited as "very valuable" by Gilman, who also serves as the national chairman of the Correctional Camps Committee of the American Correctional Association.

* * *

Other programs are sex education by Marilyn Sandergath, a nurse with the Oakland County Health Department; Bible study classes by area ministers and priests; and a work pass program now allowing four boys to work in local factories.

TRUST SHOWN

The boys also like the recognition of trust shown by the absence of maximum security measures. The security here is "more compassionate and humane," Gilman said.

So far this year, of the 15 boys who have escaped, three are still free.

Usually, they are caught within 24 to 48 hours. The penalty for this offense is an added sentence of one and a half to four and a half years which must be spent in a prison, not a camp.

* * *

ADVANTAGES

Other attractions of the correction camp are better prospects for parole, better food, the work pass program and the relatively relaxed atmosphere. A recreation room includes a television set and card tables and the inmates are building themselves a gym.

The camp is also popular because most inmates come from the southern part of Michigan and are thus close to those who would visit them, the state superintendent points out.

This enviable confinement, from a prisoner's point of view, costs the state about $4.30 per man per day. The inmates serve as cooks and building and grounds keepers.

* * *

Camp Pontiac, 20 years old next May, is one of ten corrections camps in the state. However, only Camp Brighton is also for young offenders.

RESTRICTIONS

Both camps take offenders who are convicted in Circuit Court and sentenced to prison, except those convicted of murders, sex and capital offenses.

The other state camps include one parole camp, one probation camp for offenders age 16 through 22, and six adult honor prison camps. Inmates number 7,000 including 145 women.

After World War II, the increase in lawbreakers, the resulting shortage of prison space and the Conservation Department's need for a larger labor source brought about the camp program, explains Gilman. The present director of the Department of Corrections, Gus Harrison has since expanded the camp program, which included a record 13 camps in 1956.

* * *

Three camps have since been abandoned because of shorter sentences and more paroles, reports Gilman.

Pay Push Seen for Utica Police

UTICA — An attempt to further increase police salaries here next July probably will be made by the Utica Police Chapter of Local No. 1277.

The union has just recently won time-and-a-half pay for overtime, longevity pay up to 15 years and a reduction in the length of time necessary to meet maximum pay.

Officer Russell Wilson, union steward, said that a police officer in Utica starts at a salary of $5,650 and can now reach a maximum of $6,650 in three years.

He said a 3.5 per cent pay hike had been promised for July, but that it would still leave Utica's pay scale far below the county average. The men earlier this year won $150 pay increases, full hospitalization and seven paid holidays.

Meeting Tonight on Farmington Area Study Bid

FARMINGTON — A party which may conduct the Future Farmington Area study will present its bid to do the job at a public meeting tonight.

A representative of the Institute for Community Services of Michigan State University will present the proposal before officials of Farmington Township and the city, and the villages of Wood Creek Farms and Quakertown.

The meeting is at 8 p.m. at East Junior High School, 25000 Middle Belt, north of 10 Mile.

The Future Farmington Area Study Committee then will decide whether or not to hire the institute, said committee head Dr. John H. Richardson, a veterinarian in Farmington.

* * *

The institute had been uncertain that it would be able to submit a proposal because of lack of personnel. The study will examine alternative forms of government for the 36-square-mile Farmington area.

PROPOSAL LAST MAY

The institute submitted an original proposal last May. The project was halted because of refusal of funds from the township.

* * *

Township officials said the study may have confused the unsuccessful township incorporation vote this Fall.

* * *

The study fee, estimated by Dr. Richardson to be about $3,500, will be paid by the Farmington area governments and possibly some area organizations.

County Prosecutor to Seek Emergency Phone Number

OAKLAND TOWNSHIP — A single telephone number for county emergency calls will be sought by the end of the month.

* * *

So promised S. Jerome Bronson, county prosecuting attorney, speaking before about 30 residents present at the Oakland Township Civil Defense group last night at the Township Hall.

He said he would make the proposal to the law enforcement committee of the County Board of Supervisors.

"A single number could be the critical factor in saving a life or apprehending a criminal," he said.

CITES EXAMPLE

The prosecutor had earlier pointed out that a motorist traversing Woodward Avenue could pass through nine separate governmental units within a period of minutes.

"That such a person would know which number to call for the concerned emergency is unlikely," he pointed out.

He said if tele. one districting would make one single number impractical, he would recommend regional numbers.

* * *

Bronson, whose topic was "Crime! What To Do?", took the opportunity presented at last night's meeting to once again lash out at the proposed Public Safety Corps in Avon Township.

'SOCIAL GROUP'

I personally doubt the answer to increasing crime is arming all residents of the county. I doubt that more guns in the hands of residents is the answer to the problem," he said.

"The body of expert police opinion says that such groups if organized and structured tend to become a social group exercising political power. Its existence can prevent the community from its obligation to provide professional police," said Bronson, who decried the scarcity of full-time professional forces in the county.

"It takes months if not years to become a good policeman. The individual (layman) is not really very well trained in the use of firearms," he said.

"If he makes an error in judgment, it would cost the taxpayers a considerable sum in needless litigation," he added.

CAN BE BENEFICIAL

Bronson pointed out that a civilian defense adjunct to police departments is something else.

He said that supplementing the work of a law enforcement agency, such as Civil Defense attempts to do, can be beneficial to the community.

The need for more local law enforcement bodies and the consequent need for higher taxation was stressed by the prosecutor.

* * *

He suggested that growing areas such as Oakland Township might combine into a northeastern county agency supported by nearby cooperating communities.

Fire in Highland Causes $6,000 Damage to House

HIGHLAND TOWNSHIP — Fire burned out the kitchen and caused an estimated $6,000 damage to the Ernest Gaedt home at 2311 Middle yesterday.

Flames which spread from the partition above the kitchen stove were reported at 11:08 a.m. yesterday to the Highland Township Fire Department, said Chief Asa Smith.

The fire was brought under control by 12:30 p.m. by the Highland, Milford and White Lake Township departments.

While flames severely damaged the kitchen, smoke damaged the rest of the house and contents, reported Smith.

The cause of the fire is undetermined, said the chief.

Firestone Acquires Ligon Family Firms

Several area seat belt manufacturing firms owned by members of the Ligon family were acquired yesterday by Firestone Tire and Rubber Co.

James T. Ligon of Almont, president of Hamill Manufacturing Co., Washington, completed the transactions with Firestone at the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club.

Firestone exchanged stock for the assets of the companies.

The acquired companies are North Hill Products, Inc., and the Romeo Warehouse and Storage Corp., both of Romeo; the Yale Manufacturing Corp. of Yale, the Kinsman Co. of Almont; and the Bayview Manufacturing Co. of Ubly.

Holly Twp. OKs Plat

HOLLY TOWNSHIP — The Township Board has given tentative approval of a plat for a 12-lot subdivision on Quick Road west of North Holly Road.

The proposed subdivision is being developed by James Herrington, Holly Village manager, on a portion of his farm.

Rochester School Bus Drivers Agree to Resume Work Today

ROCHESTER — School buses resumed regular schedules here this morning following a one-day "mass sickness" of all 43 drivers.

Schools Supt. Douglas Lund said a meeting took place yesterday afternoon with Lyle Kettridge, president of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes Local No. 202 and Harvey Clark of union headquarters.

He said while no comminment was made on either side, the drivers had agreed to go back to work today and tomorrow in anticipation of another negotiation session at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

No contract exists with the bus drivers.

* * *

Lund revealed that secondary school attendance was at 80 per cent yesterday and elementary attendance at 88 per cent.

SUBNORMAL ATTENDANCE

"The normal absence percentage for this time of year is about 8 per cent," he said.

* * *

Bus drivers last spring won union recognition and have been in negotiation with the Board of Education since April 5.

* * *

They are paid on a scale of $2.45 to $2.70 an hour. Their last raise was granted in September 1966, according to Lund.

State Order Warns Branches on Auto License Holdbacks

LANSING (AP) — The secretary of state's office has sent a letter to all license plate branch offices, warning managers against holding back choice, low-numbered license plates.

"The setting aside of desirable registration plates for yourself, friends or relatives is poor public relation, poor business practice and poor politics," said Richard Cook, deputy secretary.

Louis Berklich, manager of the Rochester branch of the Secretary of State's office, was earlier taken to task by a citizen for his admitted withdrawal of 16 such plates for distribution to office helpers and friends.

"Many branch managers apparently did not get the message," Cook said. "Since Nov. 1, the department has received hundreds of letters, telephone calls and newspaper clippings critical of the manner in which some registration plates were issued."

* * *

Cook said he was offering only two choices to managers who held out desirable plates: submit a resignation or surrender the plates, pay the $2 replacement fee and purchase plates with undesirable numbers.

HEAR FURTHER

Managers who failed to sell plates on a first-come, first-served basis will hear from him further, Cook said.

Although there have been numerous complaints, a department spokesman said as yet there have been no firings of branch managers for holding out low-number plates.

Independence Told Taxes Hurt Owners of Land

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP—Local officials forced to plan for the future were criticized sharply here Tuesday night as Robert Kraud, 7840 N. Holcomb, appeared before the Township Board.

"In this country at the present time — and it's not only contiguous to Clarkston — a man who decides to own acreage cannot own it for any length of time before the local establishment raises the tax base until he's forced off it," said Kraud, an account executive with Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, stockbrokers in Detroit.

He further charged that such taxation is confiscatory.

"We have progressed nicely until recently. Nobody has fought the changes vehemently. They have been gradual. Let's not encourage them with new legislation.

* * *

"The area will grow. There is no way to stop it, but there ought to be room for people with a normal-size lot and for those who desire acreage as well."

PLANNERS ATTACKED

Kraud also attacked the township planning commission on the basis of a decision it made, he said, despite objections of 75 per cent of the people involved.

The matter concerned rezoning from agriculture to residential of land north of I-75 expressway along Holcomb.

"The Township Board has since reversed the decision," Kraud pointed out, "but it seems to me there ought to be a review of appointments to the commission to see if members are capable of handling the task they are appointed for."

* * *

The Township Board recently began adoption proceedings for a new zoning ordinance, which despite previous planning commission recommendations, has left agricultural land in an agricultural zoning category in the township.

Michigan Still 3rd in Apples

LANSING (UPI) — Despite a 22 per cent drop in its apple crop this year, Michigan managed to hang on to its third-place ranking among apple-producing states.

The Michigan Crop Reporting Service announced yesterday that Michigan had produced 11.5 million bushels or 525 million pounds of all varieties of apples this year. Last year, growers harvested 14.7 million bushels or 675 million pounds.

Michigan thus fell far behind its rivals — Washington, which produced 27.1 million bushels, and New York, which harvested 22.5 million bushels in 1967.

A spokesman for the Crop Reporting Service said an estimate of dollar loss to orchardists wouldn't be made until final figures are in late in December. He said the sharp drop was due to cold and wet spring weather that hampered pollination.

* * *

Jonathans continued to be the most popular variety grown in Michigan, followed by McIntosh, Northern Spy and Red Delicious. The four accounted for three-fourths of the Michigan crop.

Nationally, the leaders are Red Delicious, McIntosh, Gold Delicious and Rome Beauty. Those, along with Jonathans and York Imperials, make up 70 per cent of the national crop.

* * *

Nationally, commercial apple production was down 5 per cent from 1966 to 5.4 billion pounds, 8 per cent off the per cent in the East, down 13 per cent in the central states, and down 22 per cent in the West from 1966 levels.

Oxford Lions Plan Paper Sale for Needy

OXFORD — Lions Club Goodfellows here will sell newspapers from 3 to 9 p.m. tomorrow and from 6 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday to raise Christmas money for needy families.

New Local Idea Tried to Cure Juvenile Behavior Problems

The old ways may not be the best ways to handle juvenile behavior problems, several social experts testified yesterday at a conference of social agency representatives.

At the second meeting of a new interagency committee, the juvenile authorities, decided to attack the problems in a new way.

A subcommittee was appointed to meet with juveniles in an effort to determine exactly what it is that is causing behavior problems.

Most agency representatives admitted they have not really been successful in treating juvenile social ills.

* * *

According to Robert Janes of Family Services, "We have in the past tried to plan programs which in many instances fall short of the clientele or group which we are trying to help."

* * *

"Do we really know the problems the youth feel? We really don't.

"We have to find out from them what the score is," he said.

Janes said the agencies, with the help of volunteers, should be "moving away from the idea that they are problem youth to the idea that we are living in a community that has problems."

The subcommittee appointed will arrange for informal interviews with different groups of youth over the next month and the full membership of the interagency committee will meet Feb. 7 to discuss how new approaches in solving juvenile problems can be developed.

The meeting was arranged through the city's youth assistance department and the Pontiac School District's child accounting department.

Officials from the department are hopeful they can set in motion a program which will have "action teams," concentrating on specific target areas where juvenile behavior incidents are highest.

* * *

According to Howard Dell of the citizens' committee on youth "These kids won't come to any agency based program. We'll have to work with them in their own neighborhoods."

Five Greeks Jailed for Illegal Meeting

SALONIKA, Greece (AP) — A Greek military tribunal Wednesday sentenced five former members of a leftist youth organization to prison for violating a temporary military law forbidding meetings of five or more persons.

* * *

The law, imposed soon after the April 21 coup by the ruling military regime, was repealed a month after their arrest.

One man received five years, the others 13 months each.

Francis Cardinal Spellman

Catholics and non-Catholics alike grieved over the sudden death at 78 of FRANCIS Cardinal SPELLMAN, as messages of condolence poured in from all parts of the world.

CARDINAL SPELLMAN

Since his appointment in 1939 as Archbishop of the New York Diocese, Cardinal SPELLMAN gained stature as one of the foremost leaders of the Nation's 45 million Catholics as his influence broadened in the commercial, governmental and diplomatic sectors of America.

The first of five children born to a struggling Massachusetts grocer, the churchman set the priesthood as his objective upon graduation from Fordham, a Jesuit College in New York.

He rose in the church establishment in the United States and Rome, and achieved the first highlight of his career when during the Pontificate of Pius XII he was raised to membership in the College of Cardinals.

Cardinal SPELLMAN lived a humble, ascetic life though his gregarious personality and sly Irish wit attracted countless members of all levels of society.

As Vicar of the Armed Forces, he brought spiritual comfort and cheer to American soldiers of World War II and those now involved in the Vietnam conflict, his custom being to visit the embattled troops at Christmastime.

★ ★ ★

Perhaps the best epitaph that could be written for Francis Joseph Spellman, one that so well reflects his spiritual and secular endeavors, is the sentiment he expressed when named Archbishop of New York: "I shall pray as if everything depended on God. I shall work as if everything depended on me."

'Thank You' the Open-Sesame to People's Hearts

So Thanksgiving Day is past. Are we still thankful? Do we say so?

A strong case can be made that the two warmest words in our vocabulary are "thank you."

Spoken sincerely and accompanied by a sincere smile, "Thank you" can be a powerful ambassador of good will. The key word, of course, is "sincere."

★ ★ ★

A newspaperboy in a mideastern city never failed to smile and utter an obviously sincere "thank you!" when he called to collect for the paper or when he had a chance to deliver the paper in person to the subscriber.

★ ★ ★

When this boy's father died shortly before the youngster finished school, his subscribers vied to help him get a job. Today he is well on his way to a successful career, despite lack of a college education.

A motorist almost wrecked his car to avoid striking a small dog which ran into the street. A boy of 10 stood frozen with fright as he watched. Then his face lighted up and he called out joyfully to the driver: "Thank you, mister! Thank you for saving my dog!"

★ ★ ★

He made a friend of the driver for life.

Every day can be Thanksgiving Day if we choose to make it so. And saying "thank you" — sincerely — is a handy, inexpensive way of making people feel good — including the one who says it.

Seems a shame we ever miss a chance to do it, doesn't it?

Solon Proposes Review of Federal Bureaucracy

Many years ago, the Hoover Commission saved taxpayers millions of dollars by pinpointing wasteful or unnecessary Federal spending. Updating the spectacle of government extravagance, WILBUR D. MILLS, D-Ark., has repeatedly expressed alarm over uncontrolled spending in Washington.

★ ★ ★

He now calls for a new Hoover-type commission to make sweeping reviews of domestic spending programs, old and new. He points out that whenever a new President has been elected a new program is enacted and added on top of the programs of previous presidents. The result has been soaring costs, as well as duplication and overlapping of manifold Federal programs.

★ ★ ★

One question that the congressman believes should be considered by his proposed investigative commission is whether state governments, and private enterprise, should take over some of the chores performed by Washington.

As far as many millions of citizens are concerned, the answer is already plain without the help of a commission. The trend toward centralized government and government in business threatens both economic and public liberty — and should be reversed now.

Viet War Keeps U.S. Marking Time

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON — This is one of the strangest moments in American history, a marking-time moment.

MARLOW

To see Congress do a half - baked job, as it has done in 1967, the year before a presidential election year, is not unusual. In the past it could be taken to mean energies were being reserved for what lay ahead. But more than the upcoming election is on the American mind now and Congress is reflecting a national condition, like holding the breath before making a move, even though this country is up to its neck in war, which is an active thing.

The nation seems to be waiting to see how the Vietnamese war turns out before using its enormous vitality for its chores and its housework. The war is the root of the present condition.

America is pretty well divided into hawks and doves on the war. The hawks at least know what they want, which is to force the North Vietnamese to stop their aggression.

But the doves are a mentally motley crew. Few seem to have any clear idea, thought through, on how to settle the war without creating vast new problems for the United States or the people of Southeast Asia if the United States pulls out or makes fatal concessions in order to get out.

NOWHERE IN SIGHT

Yet, the end is nowhere in sight for hawks or doves, despite the optimistic pronouncements of the Johnson administration. This by itself is baffling for both sides.

But one thing is clear: Their concern with the war—in some cases their obsession with it—diverts their interest and energies from far-reaching and constructive efforts for the problems at home.

Add to them the multitude of people who have no strong feeling about Vietnam either way. They may be ill-informed on how the United States got into the war or puzzled to know how stopping communism in far-off Asia can affect American safety in the future.

They may be vague on the rightness or wrongness of the war, their ideas going perhaps like this: So long as we're in it, we ought to try to win it. Or, we'll have to trust the President to know what he's doing. Or, President Johnson should never have gotten us into it and the best thing is to get out.

TROUBLED BY WAR

But no matter what their thoughts on the conflict, the people are troubled by the war, just as Congress is. And, judging from the way Congress has performed this year, there seems to be an attitude, not necessarily deliberate, of letting pressing things at home wait until the war is solved.

★ ★ ★

Another way to say it is that the dilemma of Vietnam is like a sleeping pill.

No Cinderellas Need Apply!

David Lawrence Says:

Wage-Price Controls Needed

WASHINGTON — Almost everybody here talks about inflation, but nobody does much about it. Economists give plenty of advice, but few are willing to point to the real reason why America is passing through one of the most critical periods in its business history.

LAWRENCE

The realistic fact is that there is a costly war going on in Vietnam, but no wage-and-price controls have been imposed by Congress.

As a consequence, national labor unions are free to threaten strikes and to compel the adoption of higher and higher wage scales. Industrial management then is faced with the necessity of increasing prices.

This week the big steel companies, one by one, have announced an increase of $5 per ton for certain types of steel which account for nearly 40 per cent of the industry's shipments. The head of Armco Steel Corp. calls the industry a "victim" rather than the "instigator" of inflation.

But the steel industry is the victim also of something else — the heavy influx of foreign steel from many countries in the world.

Efforts to get Congress to establish a series of quotas to prevent present imports from increasing substantially in the next few years have thus far proved fruitless.

So obviously the steel companies, in order to conserve profits, have found themselves compelled to increase the prices of certain kinds of steel which their competitors from abroad do not supply in big enough quantities to fill the needs of customers in this country.

The steel industry, moreover, has to move its prices upward to meet the demands for increased wages by the steelworkers. Critical negotiations with the unions are to be held in the next few weeks.

Everybody in government is aware of the fundamental changes in the wage-and-price structure of industry generally that are being made, but little attention is being paid to the impact of such changes on the national economy as a whole.

Perhaps there is a key in what is reported in a UPI dispatch from Miami, which says:

"The AFL-CIO Executive Council on the eve of the federation's convention, assured the Johnson administration it will have little trouble with labor in next year's election."

As far as votes in the 1968 election are concerned, labor can muster many times the number that management can.

So the problem comes right back to the doorstep of the incumbent administration in Washington and the majority party in Congress. It is their responsibility to watch out for the future of the national economy and to avoid a depression.

Bob Considine Says:

Memories Stirred of Day That Will Live in Infamy

NEW YORK — Where were you (if you were at all) when Pearl Harbor was bombed? What did you say when you got the startling news?

CONSIDINE

Douglas MacArthur spent the first five minutes of a war that was to be peculiarly his own by cursing the short-sighted U. S. War Department and the Philippine Commonwealth for denying him the troops and weapons he had been pleading for since the previous July.

Later in the month, when the Japanese bombed Manila after he had declared it an open (undefended) city, MacArthur came up with one of the more memorable understatements of the war:

"His (Japan's) present actions can only be deemed completely violative of all the civilized processes of international law.

★ ★ ★

"At the proper time I bespeak due retaliatory measures."

WAINWRIGHT CALLED

The word came to Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright by phone. In his memoirs, written after nearly four years in Japanese prisons, he wrote:

At 4:35 a.m. on the morning of Dec. 8 (which was 7:35 Sunday morning in Pearl Harbor) the phone in the room next to my pitch-black bedroom rang with sharp insistence. I got up and strode for it, sensing it was bad news.

"Yes?"

★ ★ ★

It was Col. Pete Irwin, MacArthur's assistnt chief of staff for operations.

"Adm. Hart has just received a radio from Adm. Kimmel informing him that Japan has initiated hostilities," Irwin's voice said.

I started to dress with one hand. With the other hand I jiggled the phone and called my aide, Johnny Pugh.

"Johnny!"

"Hello? . . . yes, general."

"The cat has jumped."

Winston Churchill's wonderment turned to joyful torrents of relief. He was at Chequers, having dinner with U.S. Ambassador John Winant and Averell Harriman, when the first radio reports crackled the news. He bounded for what amounted to his "hot line" to President Roosevelt and reached FDR in two or three minutes.

"Mr. President, what's this about Japan?" he shouted.

"It's quite true," FDR called back. "They have attacked us at Pearl Harbor. We are all in the same boat now."

★ ★ ★

"This certainly simplifies things," Churchill said. "God be with you."

'GREATEST JOY'

In his magnificent memoirs Churchill wrote:

"No American will think it wrong of me if I proclaim that to have the United States at our side was to me the greatest joy.

"I could not foretell the course of events. I do not pretend to have measured accurately the martial might of Japan, but now at this very moment I knew the United States was in the war, up to the neck and in to the death. So we had won after all!

"Yes, after Dunkirk; after the fall of France; after the horrible episode at Oran; after the threat of invasion, when, apart from the air and the navy, we were an almost unarmed people; after the deadly struggle of the U-boat war . . . after 17 months of lonely fighting and 19 months of my responsibility in dire stress, we had won the war."

Your editorial "Weigh Corrective Measures Affecting Court Decisions" was so much appreciated that I passed it on to friends who do not live where they can read The Pontiac Press.

★ ★ ★

The Constitution was written by men who believed in a Great Creator. Let those who think they prefer a godless nation seek one. Such a place will be easy to find. But let the nation God has blessed remain free.

★ ★ ★

I am thankful for the memory of school teachers who led our class in reciting the Lord's Prayer and the salute to the American Flag. The claim that in order to safeguard freedom of religion we must force the teacher and his pupils to ignore God is a farce and a tool in the hand of the atheist to lead us into godlessness. It is time our legislators put an end to the destruction of the Constitution by the Supreme Court.

I am a 14-year-old boy and recently my mini-bike was stolen from my garage. Why would a parent let a child get away with stealing a bike and having it around without wondering where it came from? Some stolen bikes are dismantled and parts sold to other kids. I worked and saved my money to buy the mini-bike. Something ought to be done with the kids who are stealing.

'We Must Preserve Our Freedom of Press'

Are we a leading nation of the world to be deprived of one media of communication, the daily newspaper? Paper after paper has closed its doors since World War II because of pressure from union strikes or large syndicates. This leads to controlled thinking and if you are not well informed it would have you believing that opinions printed were yours. Pontiac is fortunate to have a newspaper that publishes unbiased news.

★ ★ ★

The day that newspapers are controlled by monopolies — unions or syndicates — will be a sad day for the public reader and could lead to government controlled papers. The time to avoid this from happening in America is now.

'Americans Want True and Honest Leaders'

We are not afraid to die and for 200 years we have died defending America and the world. We did not die for freedom, justice or peace but because our leaders said we must. We knew our leaders to be true and honest and the wars necessary.

★ ★ ★

We die now in a necessary war but our leaders are no longer true or honest. Our President has forced the war to continue and has turned the government into a tool of his own lust for power. We would give our lives for our own ambitions or for all humanity but not for the President, the government or the people. We are not afraid to die, but give us something to die for.

Hippies, Astronauts on Linguistic Flight

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Quick now—what do the hippies and the astronauts have in common?

You were expecting maybe a joke here, but this is a serious question. I just used that approach to get your attention.

WEST

The answer is that both have a flair for neology, which is the coinage of new words.

And, as I shall presently demonstrate, it is pretty difficult for us squares to tell which words were invented by whom.

The similarity between hippied talk and astronaut talk became apparent to me just now as I was looking over a new book on the hippie movement published by Time magazine.

In the back was a glossary of hippie terms, which somehow seemed vaguely familiar. At first I couldn't place the connection. Then I remembered.

Last October, on the 10th anniversary of the launching of the first Soviet Sputnik, the publishers of the Random House Dictionary had sent me a glossary of space age terminology.

I dug it out of my files and found it was prefaced by a statement by Jess Stein, the dictionary's editor-in-chief.

Stein noted that he had to include 13,000 new words and new meanings for words to bring the dictionary up to date.

'EXPANSION'

"Not since Shakespeare's time has the English language gone through as vigorous and exciting expansion," he said.

Which is a nice way of saying that not in a long time has the language taken such a beating.

Now I am going to give you a little test. Listed below are 10 words — five from the hippie glossary and five from the astronaut glossary. See how many you can correctly identify.

1. bang-bang; 2. innerspace; 3. snappers; 4. drop; 5. beat-beat; 6. mike; 7. boil-off; 8. downers; 9. doghouse. 10. egads button.

Okay. Now check your answers. Numbers 2, 3, 4, 6 and 8 are used by hippies.

For your further edification, here are the definitions:

Bang-bang — a missile control system; innerspace — physical recesses believed affected by drugs; snappers — amyl nitrite ampoules; drop — take LSD; beat-beat — a missile-tracking system;

* * *

Mike — a microgram of LSD; boil-off — vapor loss from rocket fuel during countdown; downers — tranquilizers; doghouse—a bulge on the surface of a rocket; egads button — a rocket destruction switch.

Clues in Navy Defectors' Backgrounds

By JACK V. FOX
United Press International

The four young men who appeared on Moscow television seemed so typically American, so clean-cut, so well-mannered.

So the propaganda effect was all the more damning as they told the Russian people they were all the more damning as they told the Russian people they were sailors who turned their backs on their country because they were ashamed of what it was doing in Vietnam.

They had walked off the United States Ship Intrepid in Tokyo, they said, because they concluded that helping launch carrier strike planes in the Tonkin Gulf was making them accomplices to "murder."

In their home towns, the reaction was astonishment and bewilderment because a glimpse into their backgrounds seemed to reveal only one thing in common — they were so "normal," so highly unlikely to become deserters.

Last week United Press International sent four reporters to those home towns.

IN DEER COUNTRY

One went to Mount Pocono, Pa., in deer and ski country where Michael Lindner, 19, had lived in a white house on the road to Scranton.

Another visited the sunny suburban home in Jacksonville, Fla., where Richard Bailey, 19, grew up with a family cabin cruiser for recreation and a business-executive father who flew carrier missions 15 years ago.

A third rapped with the brass door knocker bearing the inscription "God bless our home" at a one-story house in the Italian section of Catonsville, Md., where John Barilla, 20, lived.

* * *

The last made inquiries in San Jose Calif., where Craig Anderson, 21, once moved with a swinging motorcycle crowd, played all-league tackle and went through the wrenching tragedy of the suicide of his father.

NOT NORMALITY

Out of this pocking into their lives emerged a different picture than "normality." There had been one consistent strain of doing badly in school.

None had ever been interested in politics but there had been stresses, rebellion against parents and authority, a refusal to take on responsibility.

Michael Lindner's family moved to Mount Pocono two years ago from Millbury, Ohio. Mike lived there one year before enlisting in the Navy. His father, Charles, has worked for years for the army as a civilian employe, and he and Mrs. Lindner are employed at the U.S. Army Signal Corps Tobyhanna Depot where their combined income is $18-$14,000 a year.

* * *

As a new boy in Mount Pocono Junior-Senior High School, Lindner retired into a smiling blandness few could penetrate.

GRADES FAILING

He had a high I.Q. but his grades were so bad he did not graduate with his class in the spring of 1966. He went to summer tutoring and got his diploma just before going into the navy.

Clarence Dennis, a former Marine captain and father of four young boys, was a teacher of Mike's.

"People say Mike was such an average boy," says Dennis. "He wasn't. He had a deep-seated resentment of any authority."

* * *

Richard Bailey had lived in Jacksonville since moving from Philadelphia in 1948 Richard was good-looking, dark, blond, intelligent and was well-liked.

FATHER NAVY FLIER

His father, Homer, enlisted in the Navy in 1942. He served as a flight instructor and was recalled in the Korean War. Richard's Mother, a diabetic, entered the hospital last week, suffering from shock over her son.

Bailey says the family never had any trouble with Richard except for his failure to study during later grades in school. At one time, in an attempt to make him study, Bailey sold the family television set.

The Rev. M. McCoy Gibbs, pastor of the Arlington Methodist Church, also is a psychologist. He says young Bailey was a classic example of "youth versus parents today."

* * *

In a letter to his parents on Aug. 22, Bailey wrote:

"When I stand back here in the Tonkin Gulf and take a look at the mess we have gotten into, I wonder if I want to live there (the United States) when I get out. The war is the thing now and I think Mr. (President) Johnson and his cronies are using the war as a diversion from the domestic problems in the states now..."

AN AVERAGE BOY

If there was an "average" boy among the four it would be John Barilla. A quiet neat lad, he finished high school with only fair grades, worked in a supermarket before enlistment and played the accordion on the Ted Mack amateur hour among other TV programs.

His parents have been badly hurt. Thumping his chest with two fingers, Barilla said: "If he was a bum, I could just say so and not feel so bad or worry so much. But he wasn't a bum. He was a good boy."

Mrs. Barilla was crying.

"I'm not ashamed," she said. "How could I be ashamed. He's a wonderful son. I just want Johnnie home."

* * *

Craig Anderson's grandfather, Henry Anderson Sr., was a captain in the San Jose fire department and retired in 1956. His father, Henry Anderson Jr., also became a fireman and was injured in 1954.

DEATH ON LAWN

On June 13, 1963, Craig returned from swimming with his best high school friend, Dennis Hamil, to see an ambulance in the neighborhood. The father had stepped out on the front lawn and fatally shot himself.

The family sued the city for $21,500 in death benefits, asserting the 1954 accident had resulted in "acute paranoid schzophrenia and severe depression". The suit was settled for $11,000.

Young Craig was good-looking, athletically gifted and named all-league defensive tackle in his high school senior year. His high school work was average.

* * *

Craig took up weightlifting and moved with a motorcycle crowd but did not appear to be a "gang."

In 1965, Anderson enlisted in the Navy. When Craig reported for active duty, he wore a beard and hair to his neck and refused to put on the uniform. An officer sent him home, called his mother and the next day Craig returned and put on the uniform.

Holiday Sign-Up

PORTLAND, Ore., (AP) — Army recruiting stations in Oregon will remain open longer during the Christmas holidays "to accommodate the additional young men and women who will be in downtown shopping areas," says Capt. Gene E. Moore, main station commander.

Married women account for a full 46 per cent of the growth in the total labor force since 1960.

Big Problem for GIs in Viet Is Boredom

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press Newsfeatures

WASHINGTON — Boredom, and waiting—that's the biggest mental problem for the men in Vietnam between combat demands or working hours. They think—and talk, about home, their wives, children and girlfriends.

BAULCH

Those are impressions Associated Press reporter Kelly Smith, a young woman with a sharp eye for human values, got in three months of touring the battlefront. Just back she gave me these other impressions:

The men can usually tell you the time of day back home . . . they know exactly how many days they have left before leave or return home . . . their favorite television shows are combat fiction stories . . .

Pocketbooks are hard to get . . . they miss chocolates and fresh fruit (chocolate can't be mailed) . . . many like do-everything combination pocket knives as presents . . . many letters, photographs and small packages are more enjoyable than those lumped into one bundle. Letters from home are always welcome.

* * *

Generally, they're impressed by the Vietnamese countryside—the hills, broad beaches and cliffs—depending, of course, on where they are.

NOT ALWAYS HOT

Vietnam is not always hot. Soldiers in the highlands sleep under blankets and sweaters at certain times of year. But when it's hot, it's searing.

In the field, the GI's helmet is his catch-all as in past wars—his shaving bowl, coffee pot, camera case, wash basin, cigarette package holder.

Vietnamese children learn quickly some American words—"You buy?", "How much?", "GI," "Okay," "Number One" (nice guy), "Number 10" (lousy guy).

* * *

The men learn to bargain for everything, in the Oriental fashion, even for soft drinks.

Christmas Discharge

The Defense Department has ordered early release for men due for separation between mid-December and January 2 so they can be home for Christmas.

It's figured the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine personnel involved will get out one to two weeks early.

The Christmas leave policy, as in the past, is to insure that most servicemen outside Vietnam have a chance for Christmas or New Year's—with the period running from Dec. 16 through January 2.

* * *

The policy applies overseas where the military mission permits, but not in Vietnam.

Military commanders have been told to schedule the leaves so servicemen can travel during non-peak periods and not have to fight the usual transportation problems which occur close to the holidays

SANTA and the PIGWIDGEN

By LUCRECE BEALE

By LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: The elves give Claus four gifts to destroy the Pidgwidgen: an arrow, a ring, a mouthharp and a dagger dipped in poison. The magic of each will work only once.

CHAPTER SEVEN
The Giant

What did it matter, thought Claus, if the magic of the elves' marvelous gifts would work but once? Each weapon was so powerful that it could destroy the Pigwidgen. And once only would it be needed.

Claus thanked the elves and climbed aboard the Sopchoppy River Ferry.

Patrick Tweedleknees poled the raft back through the dark and perilous currents.

At the river's end they clambered out of the hole and started on their way to the land of frost and never-ending snow where the Pigwidgen was said to dwell.

* * *

Day and night they traveled north. They stopped only for a few hours' sleep or to hunt for a bit of food in the forests.

DARK MANSION

One night they came upon a mansion standing dark and empty against the moonlighted sky.

It was a cold night and so they crept through the doorless entrance of the mansion to find warmth.

Using Tweedleknees' firefly flashlight they found themselves in an empty hall from which four long and one short corridors led.

* * *

They tiptoed into the short corridor and lay down on the floor and fell asleep.

POINTED TO HILL

When dawn came they went back to the hall and out the flapping, doorless entrance. Tweedleknees stood there yawning noisily.

Claus clapped his hand over the elf's mouth. He pointed at a nearby hill.

"What is it?" sputtered Tweedleknees behind Claus' hand.

* * *

"It's not a hill!" gasped Claus. "It's a sleeping giant!" He pointed at the mansion where they had spent the night. "And that isn't a mansion. It's the giant's glove!"

HUMP STIRS

Suddenly the mighty hump stirred.

"L-let's get out of here!" stuttered Tweedleknees.

He and Claus started off as fast as their trembling legs could carry them.

* * *

Unfortunately the only place to run was straight up a mountain side.

FELL TO GROUND

They had hardly started when a grinding, crunching caterwaul split their ears.

They fell to the ground and shivered and shook.

When they peered down at the hump they saw the giant had merely turned on his back and was now peacefully snoring.

* * *

"What an oaf!" grumbled Tweedleknees. He was ashamed to have been so afraid. "I should have given him a good clouting while we were there."

'HE MAY WAKE'

"Come on," urged Claus. "He may wake soon."

They scrambled up the rocky mountain.

They had only to disappear on the other side to be safe and the giant would never know they had been there.

But when they reached the top Tweedleknees turned and glared down at the hump far below.

'NOT AFRAID'

"I'm not afraid of giants," he bragged. "In fact, I think I'll just finish off that giant before we go."

Before Claus could stop him, Tweedleknees put all his weight behind a colossal boulder and shoved it off the top of the mountain.

The boulder rocketed down the mountain side and bashed the head of the sleeping giant.

* * *

"What have you done?" cried Claus in alarm.

LITTLE DAMAGE

"Demolished a giant!" said Tweekleknees gleefully.

But the boulder had done the giant no more harm than an acorn dropped from a tree. It had merely awakened him and he was very annoyed.

* * *

He lumbered to his feet. Seeing Claus and Tweedleknees at the top of the mountain he gave a bellow and started after them.

Khufu, largest and oldest of the great Egyptian pyramids, contains 2.3 million blocks of stone, weighing an average of 2½ tons apiece. It took 20 years and the labor of 100,000 men to build the pyramid.

'Vibration Dampers' Being Tested for Use in Tall Buildings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Slam-bang devices that work much like a cocktail shaker are being tested to cut the cost of making buildings resistant to earthquakes.

* * *

Called vibration dampers, they someday may be put to work reducing wobble in automobile wheels and destructive shaking in rocket engines.

Dr. S.F. Masri of the University of Southern California believes the dampers when perfected will cut the tuning-fork vibrations of tall buildings during major tremors by 80 to 90 per cent.

"If we can reduce the vibrations significantly, we wouldn't have to spend so much to make buildings resistant against earthquakes," said Masri, assistant professor of civil engineering. "We could achieve the same low level of tremor damage with cheaper buildings."

A report on Masri's government-funded research was released by the school today. In an interview Masri explained how the dampers work.

The devices basically are tubes containing weights. When vibration starts, the weights slide back and forth, hitting the ends of the tube with an impact that opposes, or "dampens" the vibration.

* * *

Masri proposes putting many small tubes in the walls at upper levels of high buildings. "The weight—perhaps a clump of tiny particles in a frictionless medium such as oil—sloshes in the opposite direction from that of the building and the container," he said. "On a small, repeated scale, it's very much like the reduction of motion that takes place when a car collides with another head-on."

He had no figures on the cost of such an installation but said it would be much less than making buildings stronger or designing them to vibrate "in tune" with earthquakes.

* * *

Masri envisioned pencil-size dampers attached to car wheels to reduce the high-speed shaking that causes tire wear. Similar devices, he said, could stop the noise-generated vibrations that sometimes tear rocket engines apart.

Masri is working with models and computers now and said much research needs to be done before such devices can be marketed.

Tiny MICE to Squeal on Space-Age 'Bugs'

SEATTLE (UPI) — Not only will spacecraft and jet airplanes of the future have horsepower in their engines, but they're likely also to have mice in their subsystems.

But these are nice mice and new too, pussycat.

Mice stands for Microelectronic Integrated Checkout equipment, a method developed by the Boeing Co., to analyze operational equipment in jet airplanes and spacecraft while in flight.

MICE is designed to squeal on any malfunctioning aircraft or spacecraft system. It does this by tapping off part of the voltage of any subsystem and passing this voltage through an electronic "gate."

* * *

If the voltage stays within specific limits, the system is working correctly. If the voltage strays outside the limits, a signal indicates the subsystem should be examined.

Another technique designed to check voltages generates several pulses proportional to the voltage magnitude. For testing, MICE would simply count the pulses. Too many beats would show a defect.

Test work has shown many benefits of MICE. Thirty MICE tests built into a spacecraft or airplane would add only one pound.

Furthermore MICE would be more reliable than current test systems because of the inherent reliability of microcircuits, according to George Rickey and Paul Kraabel, Boeing engineers who helped develop the equipment.

* * *

For space vehicles, MICE could offer more precious space for scientific equipment at no sacrifice to data for the system is so small it could fit neatly into a cat's mouth.

In superjets of the future, such as the SST being developed by the Seattle-based aerospace firm, MICE could turn the airplane into a flying laboratory, keeping check on thousands of operating units which must function properly for maximum safety.

* * *

One question remains, however. Will airline stewardesses put up with MICE inside a jetliner?

Official Ineligible by 1.1-Foot Margin

ARVADA, Colo. (AP) — By a margin of 1.1 feet, Sidney E. Koon has been declared ineligible to serve on the City Council.

He was elected Nov. 7, Koon says he has been voting in Arvada since 1955.

* * *

David R. Braden, Jefferson County assessor, testified in district court that Koon's house is 1.1 feet north of Arvada. Judge Christian D. Stoner then declared Koon's council seat vacant.

Koon said he's not bitter, but he intends to visit the assessor's office "and see about getting back some of that tax money."

Mrs. Romney Says, 'Get Involved'

LENORE ROMNEY

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Women's Editor

Five years in the political arena haven't changed Lenore Romney's beliefs about people and the necessity to get involved in civic and governmental affairs.

In an interview Tuesday, Mrs. Romney discussed the general condition of the country and why she and her husband are committed to more politicking.

★ ★ ★

Getting an interview with Mrs. Romney right now called for some precise timing.

She has not spoken with the press since Gov. Romney announced his candidacy as a presidential nominee. At that time, she was just out of the hospital after a fall Nov. 5 which resulted in a broken shoulder.

★ ★ ★

After Thanksgiving, the Romney's went to Arizona for a brief vacation. They returned Sunday with three days to make final preparations for a month's trip abroad.

★ ★ ★

The only way I could get any time with the state's first lady was to go to a funeral with her and talk to her enroute from her Bloomfield Hills home to Detroit and back. This might be called an expressway interview.

The governor's wife has a becoming tan and looks rested. She wears a sling on her injured arm which is now less painful and healing well. But it will be another two months before she has full use of it.

TIME OF CRISIS

This is a time of grave crisis for our country, Lenore Romney says; we're on the brink of disaster.

"If my grandchildren were to come to me someday and ask, 'Where were you when this was happening?' how would I feel if I had to answer, 'It was too difficult to get involved personally.'?"

"We have to step up to the problems and at least say that we tried to solve them."

This is one reason the Romneys have decided to get into the 'big picture.'

"No one is crusading and that's what's needed. People think it's corney to speak on the importance of family life, but it isn't. J. Edgar Hoover told me not long ago that most of our crime problems today are a result of the breakdown in family life."

★ ★ ★

The Romneys left this morning for four weeks overseas. They fly first to Paris where they will have three days with their younger son, Mitt.

On leave of absence from Stanford University, Mitt is on a two-year missionary tour of duty for the Mormon Church.

His mother says with some pride that he now speaks such fluent French that he is often mistaken for a native. But it bothers her that he has trouble getting into French homes when the inhabitants learn he is an American.

One of the things Mrs. Romney hopes to learn while in Europe is the attitude of the people and how deep is their resentment of us, our wealth, our ways and our arrogance.

'GREAT' SOCIETY?

For she thinks it is arrogant for us to speak about THE Great Society. Who says it's great? By what standards?

In her mind, a great society would have moral strength, excellence within and be creative. It would not depend upon dollars.

Mrs. Romney is not going to Vietnam with the governor. Most of the flying in the war zone will be by night and sleeping in a plane seat is not for her right now.

So, the day before Christmas she will settle in Israel and spend the holidays in the Holy Land.

It is the first year that the Romney family will be separated at Christmas time. This saddens her a bit, but she feels that her experiences in Israel at this time may give her something special to bring back to her children and grandchildren.

★ ★ ★

A delayed Christmas is planned after the Romneys return on Jan. 4. By then, there should be a new grandchild; daughter Jane (Mrs. Bruce Robinson of Ann Arbor) is expecting her fourth child momentarily.

After 10 days or two weeks at home, Mrs. Romney expects to go to New Hampshire to start the now-familiar round of speech making for her husband. The March 1 primary will be only weeks away.

When she started her public speaking on the political platform five years ago, she was surprisingly good. Experience has only made her more polished. She says it is now easier to think on her feet.

But she says she's a trial to some reporters for she never writes out her speeches — just goes over the points beforehand and speaks "off the cuff."

She will continue to hammer at those ideas that have become associated with the name of Romney.

Get involved. Be aware of the critical aspects of the present situation.

INDIVIDUAL

Get back to the individual and make him count. Don't expect successful programs of help to come from the top down. Get the people most interested to start the kind of programs they want and need. Then ask the experts to help.

She is not completely pessimistic. She is encouraged by the way business and industry are stepping up with job offers and training and by their endorsement of open housing.

"But we have to get out of the old groove. It's going to take creative, fresh thinking and the help of innovative genius — which we have in this country — to continue the breakthrough that has begun."

We asked what Mrs. Romney regrets most about public life.

She said that personally she is able to do much of what she has always done — alone and with her children. But when she is with the governor in public, she cannot have anonymity.

★ ★ ★

"When we were in Arizona, we had to take our meals in our hotel room. We went to the dining room the first night, but too many people wanted to talk with George — ask him to do things or give his advice — often on problems he had no knowledge of."

She dislikes having to see herself in the press all the time and to have her husband misunderstood.

For, she insists, the national press does not understand him.

"They call him a square. Well, it's not the worst thing in the world to be a square."

But she is rather philosophic about the unpleasant moments. "It's something to be gotten through if it is worth it. And I believe it is."

QUOTES TRUMAN

Then she explained, using an oft-quoted statement from President Truman, "If you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen."

"Well, I don't enjoy the kitchen on a hot summer day, but I prefer to spend a short time there preparing a meal I like, rather than eat the fare someone else prepares and that I don't like. It's better to sweat out a little heat than to eat that fare."

The national press isn't likely to misunderstand Romney's wife.

Try Talking Way Back to Cloud but Next Time Watch Clock Hands

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl who will be 16 in two months, and my mother finally agreed to let me go in cars alone with boys. Well, to make a long story short, this real neat kid who is 18 asked to take me to a drive-in movie last Friday night, and I was on cloud sixteen because I've liked him for a long time. My mother said I had to be in by 12:30.

ABBY

Well, at exactly 12:22 we pulled up in front of our house and we started to talk, and it was 2:10 before we noticed what time it was. Boy, did we ever say good-night fast.

Abby, I swear to God all we did was talk, but I guess my mother doesn't believe me. Now she's grounded me for a whole month. Do you think this is fair? How can I get my mother to give me another chance?

GROUNDED

Dear Grounded: "In" means "in the house," not in front of it. I think the penalty is a little too stiff for the "crime," but since you're such a great "talker," maybe you can talk your mother down to two weeks.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: During World War II I went with a very nice young man, but he went off to the service. When the war was over he returned and called me to resume our friendship. I refused to see him because I was already interested in someone else.

I am now a widow, and he is still a bachelor. How can I let him know that I am available without demeaning myself?

AVAILABLE BUT PROUD

DEAR AVAILABLE: The ideal way would be to have a mutual friend get the news of your availability to him. If you have no mutual friend, send the gentleman a Christmas card, bearing your name only. If he doesn't rush back to your empty arms, don't blame him. Maybe it's his turn to be proud.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: A few years ago I clipped a little poem about "dirty dishes" out of your column, had it framed and hung it over my sink. Well, I just had my kitchen redecorated and the painters took down everything, and when it came time to put things up again, I couldn't find that little framed poem.

I am just heartsick because I used to look at it so often and it gave me a real lift. Will you be an angel and run it again? I will buy another frame for it if you do. Thank you, Abby.

SANTA ANA READER

DEAR READER: Here's the verse:

"Thank God for dirty dishes,
They have a tale to tell;
While other folks go hungry,
We're eating very well.
With Home and Health and Happiness
We shouldn't want to fuss,
For by this stack of evidence,
God's very good to us."

DEAR ABBY: Here is what the security guards of the 71st transport battalion want for Christmas: Sgt. Burge: To be alive for next Christmas. Sgt. Author: To be home with my new car. Spec. 4 Hoppenjans: More mail. Spec. 4 Tomazzoli: Assigned to an airborne unit. Pfc. Keading: A fifth of good Scotch. Pc. Barnes, 8x10 picture of my girl. Pfc. McSorely: More mail. Pfc. Phillips: Phone call to my girl. Pfc. Crowther: The war in Vietnam to end. Pfc. Gnozales: A car waiting for me when I get home.

Pfc. Rosario: My girl waiting for me when I get home. Pfc. Allison: A civilian suit. Pfc. Godfrey: More mail. Pfc Kilkenny: A discharge. Pfc. Monroe: Electric guitar. Pfc. Cooper: Money. Pfc. Sexton: My girl waiting for me when I get home.

Nativity Traditions Grow

The Wise Men's gift of myrrh and frankincense mentioned in the nativity story were semi-liquid resins from two trees.

Myrrh is derived from a family of trees that includes the pistachio nut tree. A related tree appears somewhat like both teak and mahogany, furniture wood, in India.

Frankincense, was derived from the species of Boswellia, a tree related to the gumbo-limbo trees of the Florida Keys.

★ ★ ★

Beautiful little holly trees sprang up from Christ's footprints, is an old story. Beasts, in reverence never touched these trees; men called them holy and for centuries holly has been a symbol of Christmas.

★ ★ ★

The holly tree, one of the exception-to-the-rule hardwoods, remains green and retains its leaves all year round.

A large concentration of holly can be found in Arkansas and along the eastern coast.

Polly's Pointers

This Is Novel Idea

DEAR POLLY — As a minister's wife, I have known of many money-making ideas but the most novel was carried out by an adult group who contracted with a large restaurant that had a need for extra party waitresses.

The class was divided into groups and each person was to be available at a specified time if a call came. The hours were short, the tips large, and not only did they have fun but their treasury was soon replenished. — A. M. B.

DEAR POLLY — The lady with the tarnished silver mesh bag could brighten it with blackboard chalk. Rub the tarnished purse well and rub off with either the palm of her hand or a soft flannel cloth —EVELYN

DEAR GIRLS—Silver mesh bags are a bit hard to come by so I could not try this but it was the only suggestion (which proves there are not many around any more) received and sounds well-worth a try.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—Mothers with babies who are just learning to hold their bottles could slip a terry cloth coaster over the bottle.

This will make it much easier to hold and it is not so likely to slip out of baby's hands.—MRS. G. B.

DEAR POLLY — We, like Betty, had the odor of mildew on a carpet. A wool carpet had been stored in our basement and, when we were ready to lay it, we discovered the slight mildew odor.

We laid it out in the sunshine for awhile but, after bringing it into the closed room, the odor seemed to return. I dusted the entire rug with baking soda and left it on for about a week. It certainly did not look nice but once the carpet was vacuumed, the odor was gone.—WILDA

DEAR POLLY — I am confined to a wheeelchair and when I go to the kitchen, which has a tiled floor, the rubber on the chair wheels picks up that inevitable dust and it has to be wiped off before I go on the carpeted floors in the other rooms. This is very hard work for me so I would like to know if there is any treatment that could be given this rubber to keep it from picking up the dust.—CARRIE

DEAR POLLY — An apron made out of outing flannel is a wonderful thing to wear when handling a baby. He will not slip off the lap and will feel good nestled up against this soft material while being dressed after a bath.

* * *

We have an extra closet in our home and there I keep all sizes of clothes that my children have outgrown so, in an emergency, I can be of some immediate help in supplying necessary garments.—HELEN.

He's in love with Amy. Amy Vanderbilt of etiquette fame is shown at her New York home with her fiance, attorney Curtis Kellar, whom she will soon take as her fourth husband. Soon will be "probably at the end of February," Amy says. Whenever the wedding ceremony takes place, all eight children by the couple's previous marriage will be present.

Variety of Wines Suggested

A starter wine cellar is always a welcome Christmas gift suggestion for almost every adult.

For the beginning wine drinker, a gift of rack and wines will yield a high volume of pleasure during the holiday season. Further, it is a perfect item to delight the wine enthusiast who has a well-established cellar.

California vintners, who put out three-to-five-bottle Christmas packages, have found that a bell-ringer with a beginner is a range of wines, to suit different tastes and occasions. In a three-bottle package, they find a popular combination is a white, a rose, and a red. In a bigger selection, a California Champagne or dessert wine helps round out a more complete selection.

Most racks hold six to a dozen bottles. In these instances, it may be most attractive to give one or two white dinner wines a Rose or two, a couple of reds and a California Champagne or other sparkling wine.

Does Budget Suffer With Job Changes?

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Many families are perplexed when their wage-earner is offered a new job in a new city. Will the raise in salary justify the move to possibly higher living costs? Will the extra money vanish in more costly rent, food, clothing? Perhaps it is "safer" to stay with the smaller salary in the smaller town, where living costs are moderate?

MARY FEELEY

Where can the average family turn to find the answers to these knotty questions?

A fine source of information about metropolitan cities and their comparative costs of living, is the up-dated City Worker's Family Budget, recently issued by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

With U. S. Urban (a pretend city) established as the norm, at 100, there is a sweeping range in living costs, percentage-wise. Many metropolitan cities are over 100 per cent: New York, 111; Boston, 110; Buffalo, N. Y., 106; Chicago checks in at 103, and Milwaukee, Wisc. at 106 per cent.

In contrast to these highs, there are Southern and Middle Western Cities with comfortable lows: Austin, Tex. at 87; Dayton, Ohio at 95, and Atlanta, Ga. at 92 per cent.

MODERATE

To convert these statistics into money, we find that a worker's family can live modestly in Milwaukee for $9,740. The same family can live just as well in Atlanta, Ga., for only $8,434.

How much does all this really mean to the family contemplating a move to a larger city? Remember, first, that the figures are based on a family of four: an employed husband, aged 38; his wife, not employed outside of her home; a daughter aged 8, and a son of 13.

The moderate living costs established for this family, as defined by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, are the estimated dollar cost required to maintain this family at a level of adequate living — to satisfy prevailing standards of those goods and services necessary for health, efficiency and the nurture of children, and for participation in community activities.

Certainly not sirloin steak and movies every night; nor beans and joylessness, either. This family lives somewhere in between.

Measuring and comparing the differences in living costs among cities, provides only a clue to the answer. The whole answer must be determined by the facts at hand: the size of the family, the ages of the children and the wage-earner, the differing standards of living and individual preferences for food, for recreation, and for participation in society.

Then, too, these statistics are based on an established family. They do not take into account moving costs and the money market for home buying in the new city. All of these costs should be explored before the contemplated move is made.

This Family Budget for City Workers was originally presented for the period from 1951 to 1959. The new, up-dated budget shows an increase of from 39 to 48 per cent from 1959 to 1966. It is interesting to note, however, that this fantastic increase reflects the rise in the standard of living as well as the increase in consumer goods and services for this period.

Only 15 per cent of the 39 reflects the rise in the cost of living, which means that 24 per cent represents the upgrading of standards.

If your family is faced with the decision of moving to a large salary in a larger city, or looking ahead to retirement on a smaller income in a smaller community, you'll want to study the statistics in the new City Worker's Family Budget, which is available through the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402 for the price of 30 cents. It's a good starting point on which to base your decision.

Wax your dust pan occasionally and you will find that it stays clean much longer and looks more presentable.

Child Who Hates Parent in Teen Groove

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: Eleven years ago my sister's husband left her, and she started a dressmaking business that let her stay home with her little girl. Her life has been hard work and sacrifice.

Yet two Sundays ago, her girl, now 16, told her mother she "hated" her. She had a tantrum because she was asked to join us all in a family dinner instead of dating a boy friend. Mrs. Lawrence, what's wrong with young people today, so cruel and so hard toward parents?

ANSWER: Conformity is what's wrong with them.

You people must not take this kid's "hate" of her mother so seriously. It's largely synthetic—a cultural plastic. The kid's culture requires them to hate us as it commands boys to grow long hair and girls to miniskirt themselves into toddlers.

If they don't hate us, they're outcast by their contemporaries. For their culture's bastardized Freudianism has convinced them that any affection for us is suicide — Dr. Freud's "castration."

Thus, to like us is to forfeit all ability to relate to a member of the opposite sex — and damn themselves to Freudian death.

That's why they exaggerate into hate the naturally envious resentment they feel at us who are managing a survival in a world they fear they can't manage themselves. Myself, I find this conforming hate of theirs tiresome. For hate, like conformity, turns people into consummate bores.

So, when told by my teenager that she "hated" me (and I was so informed more than once), I said, "Well, I sure hope you get over it. For of all drearily monotonous feelings there are, hate is the dreariest to oblige oneself to feel all one's life."

And she did move past it.

I did not refuse wounded response to these hate declarations because I'm so smart. I refused it because I knew that I had served her life as well as I could. So surely did I know this I didn't care whether she knew it or not.

Though I would have appreciated her good opinion of my parenthood. I didn't need it. Her bad opinion of it could not destroy what I knew of my struggles to serve her life well.

Your sister has lost her awareness of her similar struggles. She has lost it to this kid's culture-cultivated scorn for them. So, if she wants the child to move on into a more balanced view of her, she must recover her own balanced view of herself.

They return. That is, they do if they haven't used drugs to send themselves so far into outer space that earthly gravity can't reach them. Then, indeed they may wander psychedelic galaxies indefinitely, like so many space-weary Flying Dutchmen.

Lady Cabdriver Began in WWII

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Once this city's only female cab driver, Madge Ricker has relinquished her unique title, now that cab companies have opened their employment lists to women.

Miss Ricker, who began her job when the shortage of men during World War II forced the firm for a time to hire women, has been driving a cab for 24 years.

* * *

"People talk to cab drivers," or she says, "whether they are men or women, because they figure they'll never see them again and they can tell them all their troubles.

Pair's Home No Secret Anymore

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President's daughter and her Marine fiance lost a major skirmish in their battle for some privacy—their newly rented house has been discovered in a quiet Arlington, Va., neighborhood.

The Wednesday disclosure, three days before their wedding, was sure to disappoint Lynda Bird Johnson and Capt. Charles S. Robb.

Robb earlier told reporters he and his bride-to-be had rented a furnished house in the "Washington metropolitan area." But Robb said he preferred not to discuss it any further "just so that we do have some privacy."

"I think you will understand," added the 28-year-old Marine.

But it didn't take long for their secret to leak out, especially when neighbors spotted some unusual telephone installation going on at 3556 Valley St.

* * *

The house, located in a cul de sac development—one of a cluster of 15 homes, reportedly in about the $50,000 range—is an L-shaped, ranch-style dwelling.

INTERIM HOME

The couple had planned to live there for a brief time until Robb reports March 29 to Camp Pendleton, Calif., on his way to a year's duty in Vietnam.

* * *

The first family was saddened by the death Wednesday night of pastry chef Clement Maggia, 74, who had been in the process of completing a 5-foot tall, 250-pound wedding cake.

Maggia died of a heart attack after dining with his wife and relatives at a Washington hotel. The executive chef and instructor at the Greenbriar resort hotel in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., had baked the cake there and come to the White House Monday to put the five layers together and apply the elaborate white fondant icing.

* * *

Mrs. Johnson's press secretary, Elizabeth Carpenter, expressing the sympathy of the first family on the death of the internationally known Italian-born chef, said: "Those of us who knew him these past few days enjoyed his presence, and particularly his enthusiasm."

She said Mrs. Maggia told the White House it was her husband's "crowning glory to be asked to decorate the cake."

* * *

Earlier Robb paid his $2 for a marriage license at the District of Columbia marraige license bureau. He went alone but was quickly surrounded by photographers. Robb apologized to the clerk for the resulting commotion.

He and Lynda were supposed to have a free night Wednesday from the round of partying in their honor. They were out somewhere together when the news came of the chef's death and the secret of their house got out.

AP Wirephoto

Neighbors say this house in Washington's suburb of Arlington, Va., will be occupied by Lynda Bird Johnson and Marine Capt. Charles Robb when they return from their honeymoon.

Men Are Not Mice---We Hope

By BETTY CANARY

When hordes of field mice chomped their way across farmlands in Europe this summer, they wrecked crops and also human lives. They came by the millions and cleaned entire fields. It was not the first time, of course, and it re-emphasized the belief that the story of the Pied Piper of Hamlin was not all legend.

* * *

Many factors are involved in the explosion of mice, but the end result is simply that when their population exceeds their available food supply, they are on their way. It is migrate and eat or die.

I read about the mice and remembered a book written some time ago by Sally Carrighar. In "Icebound Summer," she gave a beautifully drawn picture of life in the Arctic, and, threaded through other stories of the North, was the strange migration of the lemmings.

Every few years the creatures, close cousins to the mouse, when their numbers have increased too rapidly, move out across the snow in a compulsive migration towards "someplace else."

SELF-DESTRUCTION

In a chapter called "The Sea Was Their Solace," Miss Carrighar describes the lemmings' journey as they scramble over every obstacle, letting nothing deter them in their rush to their goal, which is self-destruction.

It was inevitable that the human population increase would be compared to the mouse explosion in Europe, and I have read several such accounts, including one where Yale University's Dr. Harold G. Cassidy was quoted as saying, "There is no doubt at all that we are exploiting the earth the way a parasite does its host," and, "... if our host earth is killed, we have nowhere else to go."

* * *

After recovering from the initial shock of being placed on the mental level of a mouse and a lemming, we have to face facts. The biologists just might be right.

Of course, we all know new food sources are a possibility in helping mitigate the catastrophe of too many people. And then, even the most conservatives are coming closer to believing that taking "the pill" might prove a better answer for human beings than swallowing the bitter pill of reproducing ourselves out of existence.

* * *

I'm still holding fast to the fact that man is the thinking animal. I cannot believe it will be as the lemmings go, so goes homo sapiens.

Puzzles Sent to Viet GIs

BELLEVUE, Wash. (AP) — Because Mrs. Calhoun Shorts likes to work jigsaw puzzles, she thought this sort of activity might bring pleasure to some Vietnam servicemen. Although she had never done anything similar before, she decided to try to make some puzzles on her husband's electric jigsaw.

* * *

Using calendar covers and greeting cards for pictures, she first glues these onto basswood. Then sawing freehand she cuts the design into as many as 125 pieces. Before packing them Mrs. Shorts works each puzzle —just to make sure that no piece is missing.

Burglar Bathes

'Big, Brassy' Fashion Zipper Look

There's plenty of zip in the fashion picture this fall.

The big and brassy industrial zipper is one of the most popular accessory and trimming looks on cotton sports wear styles.

Coats, dresses, suit jackets, even mini-skirts are zippered all the way up the front, the National Cotton Council reports.

Designers especially like the shiny "hardware" look of the big zippers contrasted with the plush, velvety texture of wide wale cotton corduroy. Many of the new flared tent-dresses and long pantsuit jackets in corduroy feature big industrial zippers fitted with brass ring pulls.

Although zippers usually run the hem to the edge of the neckline, many new styles have zippers that are set diagonally across the front, or off to one side, from shoulder to hip.

POCKETS

Even pockets are closed with the big zippers. This is the case with one new raincoat made of autumn gold cotton canvas. There are three zippers: one up the front, and two on patch pockets.

A summer wedding is planned by Carrie Vought and Melvin J. Boomer Jr. The bride elect is the daughter of Mrs. Bernice Vought of South Genesee Avenue and the late Max Vought. Her fiance, a student at Oakland Community College, is the son of the senior Melvin Boomers of Oxford Street.

Features Toys and Dolls

Yule Exhibit at 'Village'

DEARBORN, Mich. — An enchanting Christmas exhibit, "Toys and Dolls," opens Friday in the special display area of Henry Ford Museum at Greenfield Village. It will continue daily, except Christmas, through the holiday season.

★ ★ ★

"Toys and Dolls" includes playthings from the 18th through the early 20th century, highlighted by a group of more than 100 dolls recently acquired by the Museum.

In its collection are figures that resemble famed people in American history — Betsy Ross, Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Charlie Chaplin and Shirley Temple — plus several antique American and European dolls.

Some older dolls wear original dresses, while others are attired in period costumes to give today's youngsters an idea of what people wore in earlier generations.

REAL RUN

Dolls from the Museum's own Toy Shop, plus numerous early wood and metal toys, are included in the display. An electric train of the 1920s is set to operate at scheduled times for visitors to watch.

In addition to the opening of the Christmas exhibit, Frank L. Horton, director of research, Old Salem, Inc., will deliver the second in the current series of Antiques Lectures in the Henry Ford Museum Theater Friday at 8:30 p.m.

Horton will present an illustrated talk about "The Museum of Early Southern Decorative Arts" at Old Salem, N. C. An authority on architecture, Mr. Horton has been supervising the restoration of twenty 18th century buildings at Old Salem since the early 1950s.

★ ★ ★

Information on the Antiques Lecture Series and the Christmas Exhibit may be obtained by calling the Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn.

On Dec. 15 the traditional "Christmas at Greenfield Village" opens with several of the historic homes decorated as their original owners would have done them at Christmas time. They represent outstanding examples of period decorations used during various eras of America's past.

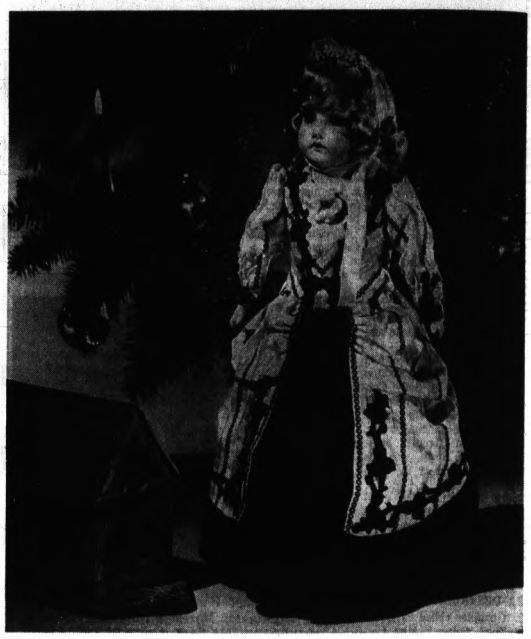
Rounding out the holiday program, the Greenfield Village Players will offer a live production of "Cinderella" on the stage of the Henry Ford Museum Theater, beginning Dec. 22, with a 7:30 performance. This production, always a delight to children, is being produced this year to appeal to the entire family.

Performances are at 2:30 each afternoon and at 7:30 each evening, with the exception of the 24th, when there will be no evening performance.

★ ★ ★

Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village are open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays; the Museum remains open to 6 p.m. on weekends. On Christmas and New Year's days they will be closed to permit employes to celebrate the holidays with their families.

Those chrome chairs will not mark the floor or linoleum if you apply strips of adhesive tape to the bottom of the chair legs. The table may also be treated in the same way.



An enchanting Christmas exhibit, "Toys and Dolls," recalls what youngsters looked forward to finding Christmas morning in years gone by. The special display in Henry Ford Museum at Greenfield Village includes playthings from the 18th through early 20th century, highlighted by a recently acquired Museum collection of more than 100 dolls.

Don't Forget Gifts for Pontiac State Hospital Patients

"Increasing community awareness and interest in the welfare of the Pontiac State Hospital patients, especially at Christmas time, reached an all-time high last year when, for the first time, each and every one of our 2400 patients received gifts on Christmas morning", according to Ted A. Panaretos, the hospital's community relations director.

★ ★ ★

Panaretos said he thought that the reason for a large part of last year's success was the well in advance Christmas gift suggestion list put out by the hospital and the excellent cooperation of the news media in publicizing the patients' needs.

★ ★ ★

Probably the most important consideration the community can make in planning gifts for state hospital patients is voiced by Donald W. Martin, M.D., medical superintendent of Pontiac State Hospital.

NEW ITEMS

He states that "All Christmas donations should be new because of the therapeutic effect on the patients who quickly realize that their presents are of a personalized nature, and not just 'used' second-hand gifts to second-choice recipients."

★ ★ ★

Gifts should be donated unwrapped and accompanied by gift paper and ribbon, in order that employees and volunteers may prepare each gift for a patient's individual needs.

All donations should be mailed or brought to Mr. Panaretos at the hospital's community relations department.

Further information can be obtained by contacting this department.

CARDS NOW

Immediate Christmas needs are for new Christmas cards and stamps in order that patients may mail out these cards.

All clothing donated should be washable and in sizes, small, medium or large.

All containers must be plastic, cardboard or tubes — no glass.

Trained to Truth

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The minister's wife threw into the garbage a poorly baked pie presented by one of the Parishioners. Rising to the occasion, the conscientious pastor wrote the donor: "I can assure you a pie like yours dosen't last long around this house."

Case No. E-508

Don't Compete With Him

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CAST E-508: Anne G., aged 19, made a sad mistake.

Anne had been a pretty high schooler, much sought after by the boys of her senior class.

DR. CRANE

When she arrived at the university, she also rated a lot of attention because of her classy chassis. Many college men asked her for dates.

She began to settle down on one who was rather serious-minded and a good athlete.

★ ★ ★

But he was out for football, which monopolized every afternoon and thus left him little time at night to study, for he'd be sleepy.

Anne felt that he didn't love her because he begged off when she wanted him at her beck and call.

He even declined a couple of dance invitations, since it was the middle of the football season.

Anne grew incensed, feeling that if he loved her, she should come ahead of all other obligations and duties.

So they finally had a dramatic quarrel.

THROUGH

Anne threatened that if he didn't take her to the next sorority party, she was through.

But he tried to explain that he was swamped with football and school work, so he asked her to be more reasonable and wait till the pressure eased up.

Anne refused to cooperate.

She broke off and started dating another fellow.

It was doubly hard on her former suitor, for he was really in love with Anne and would have made a splendid husband.

But Anne was too self-centered and addicted to the "Narcissus Complex," where she admired herself in the mirror.

★ ★ ★

Anne soon became embroiled in an "affair" and had a miscarriage.

She dropped out of college and later became a "tramp," still trying to capitalize merely on her beauty and figure.

One of the main troubles with Anne was the fact she did not take the long range viewpoint.

She focussed on present dates and excitement, instead of the permanent happiness of secure marriage.

Like many girls, too, she couldn't understand her boy-friend's devotion to football.

Many wives make this same mistake of growing unduly jealous of their husband's job!

★ ★ ★

Girls, please wake up to reality!

A stable type of man is sincerely committed to his vocation.

For men are more interested in "things" whereas women are more concerned with "people" and social events.

Whether your man is a doctor or teacher, editor or merchant, farmer or professional athlete, don't try to compete with your husband's job!

That was Anne's great mistake.

A successful wife knows her husband loves her, but she also realizes that she must play second fiddle to his work!

For mature males are wedded to their vocation!

★ ★ ★

A smart wife is thus willing to be her husband's Mistress," so she doesn't try to compete with his lifelong devotion to his job!

Swingers—Alice, Gertie and Annie

Now Introducing---'The Girls'

By YOLANDA BENAVIDES

Don't let their ages fool you. You couldn't ask for a livlier trio than Alice Rapson, Gertie Wardell and Annie Gray, who are all courting their 89th birthdays.

"THE BABY"

"I'm the baby of the three," smiled Alice, who was officially 89 last month.

"But that makes me the boss," retorted Gertie the elder by about two months. "I get to tell 'em what to do."

All three are senior members of the Quick Sewing Circle over which Mrs. Rapson currently presides. The rest of the 'girls' are in their 60's.

"We started out with 23 but most of our original members have passed away and now there's just a couple of us left," said Mrs. Rapson.

★ ★ ★

"We nicknamed it the "23 Skidoo Club," because we couldn't fit anymore in."

The group has been active now for over 50 years, 22 of which have been devoted to making cancer pads for the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

★ ★ ★

As a result of their efforts which now reaches around the one million mark, they were recognized with the Cancer Society's service award seven years ago.

"We complete about a hundred pads at every monthly meeting, said Mrs. Rapson.

"But Alice is the one who really gets everything done," joked Annie.

"That's my only trouble," quipped Mrs. Rapson, who's hard of hearing. "I end up sewing and sewing while everybody else just visits."

★ ★ ★

There's no trouble in sight for Mrs. Rapson today, though, because the women are celebrating another year together with a Christmas luncheon at Ted's.

"We may be old but we have a good party," said Mrs. Wardel.

With a spunky trio like this around, it seems inevitable.

Pontiac Press Photo

The 'baby' of the trio, Mrs. Alice E. Rapson of James Street hands needle and thread to Mrs. John Wardell of South Johnson Street and Mrs. Annie J. Gray of North Johnson Street. Sharing honors as the oldest members of the Quick Sewing Circle (all three are 89 this year) they took time out today to join the rest of the 'girls' for a Christmas dinner at Ted's.

To complement one of her favorite combinations this season, the open collared shirt and kilt, every chic young lady would love a double strand of matinee length cultured pearls.

Simple Solution

To keep the straps on children's garments, such as overalls or jumper dresses, from slipping off the shoulders, cut a slit in one strap where the two straps cross. Use buttonhole stitch and buttonhole around the edge of the slit. Then thread the other strap through the slit before fastening.

For Christmas Gift Giving

Make Fast, Easy Pillows

By JOANNE SCHREIBER

Is Christmas all sewed up? If you're one of the many talented women who sews gifts for practically everyone on your Christmas list, chances are your sewing machine is working overtime right now. Somehow, our gift lists get longer, and our time - to - sew shorter each year.

★ ★

If you're still on the look-out for gifts that are quick - and-easy to sew, here's a quartet of suggestions from the Talon design department.

★ ★ ★

These four pillows might be just what you need for young and light - hearted gifts to brighten the bedrooms of misses, to perk up the playrooms or to add a lively color accent to the living room.

★ ★ ★

Each of the four covers shown is proportioned to fit a 10-inch round pillow, which you can make yourself or buy ready - made. The decorative felt covers may be slip-stitched to the pollow covers, or attached with snap fasteners for quick changes.

★ ★ ★

The lemon wedge pillow is the simplest of the four, requiring only ⅜-yard each of gold, lemon and white felt. The wedges may be machine-stitched to the felt circles.

MOSTLY YOUNG

The pigtailed girl is the pillow most likely to appeal to young girls. She is made from ⅜-yard white felt, a new felt scraps and double - fold bias tape for hair. Her hair style and her coloring can be adapted to reflect the style and coloring of her young owners.

★ ★ ★

The butterfly, with its intricate wing pattern, is mounted on a black felt body and has antennae of black pipe cleaners. In pink and purple, it pairs nicely with the pink daisy pillow, made of only ¼-yard of felt and a fluffy thread pompon.

For patterns and instructions on making the pillow cover, the thread pompons and the pillow slipcovers, send 50 cents to Stitchin' Time, P. O. Box 503, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y., 10019. Ask for Pillow Talk, leaflet No. J202. Be sure to include your name, address and zip code.

These pillows make good projects for scout troops or sewing groups as well as Christmas gifts.

You'll find the directions and patterns so easy that you'll be able to whip up plenty of pillows on a last-minute basis.

A perky pigtailer, a circle of lemon wedges, a double-winged butterfly and a double daisy — these are bright and colorful felt pillow covers and easy to sew for Christmas.

Meeting Focus Is on Chanukah

Symbols and customs peculiar to the holiday of Chanukah were explained at Tuesday's meeting of the Sisterhood of Congregation B'Nai Israel. Rabbi Israel Goodman was the speaker.

A sample table setting for a children's Chanukah party was prepared by Mrs. Irwin Posner.

A film entitled "No Wreath, No Coronet," depicting the life of Emma Lazarus, was shown. This was in commemoration of the 80th anniversary of the death of the poet, whose most famous lines appear on the pedestal of the Statue of Liberty.

When mailing a package, dampen the string before tieing it. The string shrinks as it dries, making a safer and more securely tied package.

Artists Plan Yule Party

A Christmas party, complete with cooperative dinner, will be held by members of the Pontiac Society of Artists Friday at 8 p.m.

Along with a gift exchange, there will be a creative corsage contest highlighting the event taking place in the Community Services Building.

Triple Whammy

FORT MORGAN, Colo. (AP) — The Drew family can't complain about a lack of togetherness. Don Drew broke his right arm at work at a meat-packing plant.

The same day his son, Vernon, fractured his right arm while playing football. It wasn't a surprise when Don's mother, Mrs. Marie Drew, phoned to say that she too had broken an arm as the result of a fall.

Puzzle Gifts Amuse Tots

If that little extra Christmas gift for the preschooler in your heart or home is puzzling you this year, maybe that's the answer. Puzzles!

From maps to animals to nursery rhyme characters to every-day objects, colorful wood puzzle plaques delight and fascinate youngsters long past the holiday season.

★ ★ ★

According to Playskool Research, puzzle plaques also help preschoolers "learn while playing" by providing a sense of achievement and self-confidence through solving the puzzle problem.

Union Leaders Complaining, but Still Support LBJ

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Labor leaders are voicing union complaints to a steady stream of Johnson administration officials, but continue to promise political support to President Johnson on Vietnam and other tough 1968 election issues.

"We have criticized some of his policies severely," AFL-CIO Vice President Paul Hall said of Johnson, but he defended the President against major war critics in Congress whom Hall said were "trying to play with the lifeblood of the American servicemen in Vietnam."

Hall, in his criticism of those he said were using the war issue for their own political ambitions hit at Democratic Sens. Robert F. Kennedy of New York, Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota and William Fulbright of Arkansas.

McCarthy has announced plans to oppose Johnson in some Democratic primary elections for the 1968 presidential nomination.

Crew's Reaction to Crash

Mired Jet's Tape Made Public

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal officials yesterday made public a tape recording of the reactions of members of the crew of a mired jetliner who watched another plane crash on takeoff while their own craft was stuck in the mud at Greater Cincinnati Airport.

Delta Airlines and the Airline Pilots Association objected to public disclosure of the tape. But the National Transportation Safety Board, conducting an investigation of the crash of a Trans World Airlines plane last Nov. 6, overruled the protest.

A Delta airliner had become mired alongside a runway before the TWA jet aborted takeoff and crashed. All 36 persons aboard the TWA plane were rescued, but one died four days later.

In its decision, the safety board said the request by Delta and the pilots to keep the tape confidential was contrary to the board's purpose. The safety board's "first obligation is to the public," it said.

The incomplete tape registering the Delta crew members' immediate reaction to the TWA crash went like this (it was not clear how many persons were talking):

PHRASES CAUGHT

"All those people are killed . . ."

"I . . . I just wondered if us sitting here . . . I don't know . . ."

"Shhhhh:"

Seconds later another conversation went this way:

* * *

". . . voice recorder. . ."

"Sure it's running:"

At another point a voice in the Delta cockpit said:

OFF THE RUNWAY?

"I guess we're off the runway. I don't know. . ."

Then, a few seconds later:

"I wonder if the exhaust of our engines had any effect on him."

"No, he was in reverse already when he went by."

Guatemala Capital Beset by Deadly Urban War

GUATEMALA (AP) — Starting home one evening, a prosperous businessman was about to get in his car when four men wearing national police uniforms stopped him.

Thus Carlos Herrera Dorion, 65, was kidnaped almost in the heart of the city. He was fortunate. Police rescued him four days later without payment of the $150,000 asked.

* * *

The day after that case was solved, another prominent industrialist, Jaime Oswaldo Recines, was machine gunned to death while driving to his plant outside the city. A specially assigned police bodyguard, riding at his side, was gravely wounded.

In the same week, Guatemala newspapers reported two other kidnapings and three murders.

SWIFT VIOLENCE

These are recent examples of swift, muffled violence going on behind the modernistic glow and bustle of this mountaintop capital in Central America. It's the product of a deadly urban war that has claimed over 1,000 lives —perhaps as many as 4,000—in 16 months.

The conflict is a threat to badly needed stability in a country that has known only thin stretches of peace since U.S. intervention prevented a leftist take-over in 1954.

* * *

Behind the violence are four recognizable elements: extremists from the left and right, organized hoodlums and a clandestine police-military operation combating all of them.

A Castroite guerrilla threat to the government of Julio Cesar Mendez Montenegro seems to be liquidated. But diehards have moved into the urban centers in an effort to acquire new financing for their operations through kidnapings and holdups.

RIGHT-WINGERS

At the same time right-wing extremists, originally mobilized under the name of Mano Blanca (White Hand) to fight the leftist guerrillas, would like to topple the military-backed Mendez regime. They feel its increased taxation and reforms threaten traditional privileges. Some high-ranking officers are known to be sympathetic to the rightists, whose strategy of urban violence is aimed at frightening investors and weakening the national economy.

Men in key positions for political evaluation say that despite the upsurge in violence during November, the urban conflict is in its final stages. Internal security, thoroughly reorganized with some U.S. aid, is being beefed up with a $10.3-million budget in 1968. Armed forces funds have been trimmed from $14.6 million in 1967 to $14.1 million in next year's $200-million national budget.

* * *

These sources believe President Mendez Montenegro has solidified his position. They expect him to become the first democratically elected president to finish out his term of office since Juan Jose Arevalo in 1951.

Guatemala needs sharp reforms. Of its 4½ million people, 40 per cent live totally outside the national economy.

* * *

About 77 per cent of the 3 million rural population cannot read or write.

So far, the privileged classes have resisted much change. In some cases they've demonstrated a willingness to negotiate a softening of reforms, as with last year's tax bill. Their part in the urban war, however, is a sharp reminder they are prepared with other alternatives if pressures fail.

Nothing 2nd Class About Postmaster

CONDON, Ore. (AP) — The roads were out in the great floods of Christmas week, 1964.

Mail was piling up in the Condon Post Office and none was coming in.

Postmaster Al Riney borrowed a Jeep and took it through.

"I went out on cow trails and stubble fields," he recalls with a smile, remembering the 230 miles he drove that day to Pendleton and back.

* * *

It was night when he got home. And it was Christmas Eve.

PLAYED SANTA

He sorted the mail and packages he had just brought in, then delivered them.

"I played Santa. That was more fun than the rest of it."

Why did he do it?

* * *

For much the same reason he has turned the Condon Post Office into a place of unusual service and a center of information.

WAY TO BE RUN

He thinks that's the way a post office ought to be run.

Riney, 43, a onetime machinery salesman, has been postmaster since 1961.

Sometimes he talks like the manager of a supermarket.

"Right now," he said the other day, "I'm featuring hunting bulletins. You've no idea how many hunters stop in to check the racks.

"There's a new bulletin on boning deer, I've put that out by the hundreds. And I've got them on venison stew and other things."

The bulletins are from the Oregon State University Extension Service and the State Game Commission.

"This is a bet we are missing all over the country," he said. "We are a government agency and we should cooperate to help our brother agencies.

"How many people get into those offices? But everyone gets into the post office."

CENTRAL PART OF LIFE

In most small towns — Condon has some 1,200 residents — the post office is a central part of the people's lives. They go there daily to pick up their mail.

At the front of Condon's post office a planter is filled with flowers during the growing season.

Inside is a bulletin board where nonprofit organizations can place posters of coming events. If a football game or other affair of public interest is canceled, Riney puts a notice on the board.

Two tables hold bulletins Riney gets from the county agriculture agent, from the State Parks Department and from game and fish agencies.

"This is a second class post office," said a resident, "but the service is strictly first class."

Computer Watches for Ohio River Flooding

CINCINNATI (UPI) — A computer located at the Weather Bureau office here keeps watch on the flood-conscious Ohio River Valley.

As a storm approaches, the computer races through its electronic memory, relates current observations to historical information, and pinpoints potential flood areas.

In minutes, the computer can provide accurate and timely river forecasts and flood warnings to the residents of the Ohio River's low-lying areas.

Carl Relyea, hydrologist in charge of the Weather Bureau's river forecast center, said the IBM 1130 system has been in use for about a year. "But already we have it printing out daily river forecasts for a nine-state, 136,000-square-mile region."

* * *

"If we still did our forecasting with slide rules, calculators, charts and tables, we could not possibly provide as much vital information to the river pilots, farmers and industrial plant managers who need it to do their jobs," Relyea said.

Mexican Issue: Should Diana Go Nude?

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Diana faces life. The question preoccupying Mexico these days is: With or without her pants?

Diana, Mexico's leading topless lady, stretches the tape measure at 58-44-60. She is a bit on the hefty side, but Diana has legions of admirers, and is doing all right for a girl who weighs 1.5 tons.

Diana, a bronze statue, has graced one of the main intersections of Mexico City for almost 30 years. The landmark once again has become a national issue.

The crux of the battle: Should Diana lose the half bikini she wears?

Originally sculpted in the nude, she caused a public uproar as "an affront to public decency" on unveiling some 30 years ago. Eventually sculptor Juan Olaguibel was forced to whip up a bronze bikini bottom for her.

STILL UPSET

The "pro-nude" group wasn't happy. The forces of modesty were outraged that she remained topless.

So when Diana disappeared from her pedestal before dawn one day last month, her admirers set up a howl.

Deluged with complaints, city hall promised Diana would not fall victim—as feared—to bureaucratic cover-up, in the form of a bronze bra.

* * *

Artists and sculptors got up petitions, demanding an end to "this morbid and antiesthetic travesty." (Her half-bikini).

One newspaper known for its continuing "antipornography" drive demanded in a front page article that Diana be replaced by another statue — preferably a fully clothed male hero.

Olaguibel, meanwhile, has revealed that he knew only one girl with a perfect enough figure to model for the statue, and he had a hard time getting her to pose in the nude.

"She did so only on the condition that I never reveal her identity," he said.

And he never has.

Junior Editors Quiz on VAMPIRES

QUESTION: Are there really such things as vampires?

* * *

ANSWER: Many primitive people believed in witches and demons. They thought diseases were caused by them and they used elaborate ceremonies to try to drive them away.

Perhaps the most horrifying demon was the vampire, who was supposed to be the restless ghost of some dead person who would come out of a grave at night and suck blood from someone who was living.

Today we realize that such notions were as untrue as those of vicious old witches whipping around the night sky on broomsticks.

There is, however, a real vampire of the animal world, who actually does fly out at night and suck blood from living animals. This is the vampire bat of the tropical parts of America.

This is, of course, not a ghost or deman but a little animal who has developed blood-sucking habits in order to keep alive. But its face (lower right) has such a vicious look that we can understand how some of the old superstitions may have arisen.

Other kinds of bats are not harmful like the vampire. Most are useful to man since they devour such quantities of insects.

Space Watcher Unveiled

U.S. Answer to Orbital Bomb?

ELGIN AFB, Fla. (UPI)—The Air Force believes its new 5,000-eyes radar space watcher may be the answer to the orbital bombardment system being developed by Soviet Russia.

The $62-million unit, located in an isolated part of the Florida panhandle, was unveiled yesterday.

Called a phased array radar but referred to by the Air Force as simply FPS85, the system is expected to double the United States' satellite detection capability.

It also will watch the country's southern approaches for ballistic missiles launched from submarines.

"It is a highly significant step toward better space defense," said Col. Jack Gabus, director of ...ense systems testing ...ir Force.

★ ★ ★

The FPS85 was designed long before Russia announced that it was developing an orbital bombardment system, but it is expected to be able to detect orbital bombs approaching the United States from the south.

The new radar, expected to be operational early next year, employes an array of beams from 5,184 small transmitters housed in a building with a white, slanted surface larger than a football field.

It can detect, track and help identify several hundred objects simultaneously while maintaining surveillance for unknown objects in space.

A high speed computer feeds its findings into the North American Air Defense Command headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo.

The Air Force said the system's specific capabilities were secret, but Gabus said it has a range of several thousand miles, can cover a 120-degree arc toward the south and can determine the path of satellites or missiles in one or two minutes.

"Essentially what this does is that it equals the capability of the rest of the system space watching by itself," Gabus said.

Thief Leaves Area Victim Tight-Lipped

His wife told Oakland County sheriffs deputies yesterday that her husband was driving home in his pickup truck when his false teeth bothered him.

Thomson took his teeth out and put them in the glove compartment.

When he got back in his truck the next morning and looked for his teeth, he found his lower dentures stolen and his uppers still there.

Dog Makes Short Work of Break-In Case

Two 15-year-old juveniles were apprehended only one hour after a break-in was reported at a Springfield Township home last night, thanks to the assistance of the Pontiac State Police's tracking dog, Yul.

The German Shepherd and his handler, Trooper Richard Chartier, tracked through about a mile of wood and swamp to the front door of one of the suspects' homes following the break-in at the Edgar Faler residence, 8833 Andersonville.

State Police said $12 was taken from the Faler home.

The burglary occurred at 7:30 and the two juveniles were taken into custody at 8:30 and turned over to juvenile authorities.

★ ★ ★

According to State Police, the youths admitted breaking into the house and taking the money.

The money was returned to Faler.

Holly Man, 29, Hurt in Crash

A 29-year-old Holly man was injured shortly before 9 last night in a two-car collision on Dixie Highway near Hatfield in Waterford Township.

The injured man, Dewey T. Harvey of 4325 Cogghall, is listed in fair condition at Pontiac General Hospital.

Driver of the other car was identified as Robert I. Chambers of 5897 Strathdonway, Waterford Township.

According to township police, Harvey said the steering mechanism of his car failed, causing him to lose control of the vehicle.

Woman Behind Famed Television Puppets Is Dead

NEW YORK (AP) — Cora Baird, the woman behind one of the most famous puppet teams since Punch and Judy, died Wednesday after a long illness. She was 54.

The Bill and Cora Baird Puppets captivated audiences around the world and became a television staple in the 1950s.

★ ★ ★

Some of their hundreds of puppets became celebrities in their own right. There was Bubbles La Rue, a strip-teasing doll, and there was Slug O'Brien, the honky-tonk piano player with a cigarette dangling from his lip.

On numerous tours sponsored by the State Department, the couple performed before audiences in the Soviet Union, India and Afghanistan. They helped Latin Americans convince their children to drink more milk and played industrial shows, world's fairs and a host of promotions.

Mourners Gather for Spellman Rites

NEW YORK (AP) — Light rain fell from a somber sky as churchmen and laymen from many faiths gathered today for the two-hour funeral service for Francis Cardinal Spellman at St. Patrick's Cathedral.

Mourners flocked into the cathedral for a final glimpse of the reposing cardinal before the huge brass doors closed at 10:30 a.m. to prepare for the funeral Mass beginning at 1 p.m.

★ ★ ★

Nine cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church were to conduct the rites, with Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, ranking civic leaders and leading clergy of four faiths attending. The White House had not announced whether President Johnson would attend.

Village Devastated by VC Fire Attack

DAKSON, Vietnam (AP) — The simple Montagnards of Dakson had only recently learned how to use matches, and flamethrowers were beyond their imagination.

Then, in one horrifying hour these weapons of fire, wielded by Communist troops, wreaked death and destruction amongst them.

* * *

"They threw fire at us" was how the survivors described the attack one of the most vicious of the war against Vietnam's civilian population.

Sixty thatched-roof houses, built in four neat rows late last year, were razed just after Monday midnight. The ashes blew across carcasses of water buffalo slaughtered near the hamlet's bamboo fence.

ROWS OF BODIES

A day later rows of bodies of women and children were lying under the one shady tree on the hill. On the lid of a basket were the bodies of a tiny brother and sister, still clinging to each other. Like all the other bodies at Dakson, they were blistered by the flamethrowers.

By late Wednesday, 63 bodies had been dragged from the bunkers where the population hid when the Vietcong forces first launched their attack. More were expected to be dug up. American and Vietnamese officials at the scene estimated that as many as 114 civilians may have died.

* * *

At least 47 were wounded, 33 burned seriously. Four hundred villagers were missing, presumedly driven into the jungled countryside by the Communists.

Scores more of the 2,008 population of Dakson are probably injured. Some were dragging themselves into the provincial hospital at Song Be Wednesday.

The province chief, Lt. Col. Nxuyen Duong Huy, described it as "a calculated Communist attempt to frighten the Montagnard population away from the government—the stakes are high."

The people are from the Steng tribe, a 20,000-strong Montagnard group that comprises nearly half the population of Phuoc Long Province.

* * *

The Steng women go bare-breasted and the men wear simple loincloths. They are nomads who move back and forth across the neighboring Cambodian border. Many have been used by the Communists for years to carry loads.

The Saigon government late in 1966 won several thousand Stengs to its side and these people settled in "New Life" hamlets around Song Be, the province capital that sits lonely and vulnerable in the Vietnamese piedmont 80 miles northeast of Saigon.

'PAWNS' IN WAR

"The Stengs are pawns in this war," one American refugee officer commented.

The Vietcong has made it clear this year that it wanted them all back under Red control. Emissaries visited the new hamlets, warning inhabitants that their houses would be burned unless the Montagnards returned to the jungles.

* * *

Dakson was singled out as an example.

The Communists tried three previous attacks on it; two of these were beaten off, the third partly succeeded.

DEFENSE RETREATS

This week's attack was probably by more than one battalion, American officers say. The defense force of 120 men retreated to the southern edge of the hamlet.

According to survivors the Vietcong shouted through bullhorns: "Evacuate your houses. You must return with us. Evacuate your houses."

Some of the people fled in the darkness. Other cowered in the flimsy bamboo houses. Many crawled into the deep bunkers dug into the houses' earthen floors.

The Vietcong moved with precision, according to one of the wounded survivors, a man named Duot. He heard them shouting in his language for him to get out and leave, but he was too frightened to move.

CRAWLED OUT

H esaw a shadow in his doorway, then a jet of flame shot out, searing his back and shoulders. As his house began to burn he crawled out.

All around him, he said, men were running and "flames were shooting in the air." Americans at Song Be across the valley said the hamlet seemed to be ablaze in minutes.

Some of the dead were charred in the houses. Most appeared to have died as the jets of the flame throwers shot into the tiny houses and into the openings of the bunkers, asphyxiating those not killed in the thrust of flame.

The Communists made little attempt to chase the defense force that had retreated to the south. Instead they melted back into the jungle.

The wounded began dragging themselves into Song Be within a few hours. They crawled or were carried down the valley and across the river.

Nurse Linda Mudge, from Mansfield, Pa., said: "I have never seen people so filthy. They had been crawling around in the mud all night. Their wounds were packed in mud."

* * *

Dr. Herbert Rosenbleeth, from Flemington, N.J., added: "I picked up a little girl to move her from a litter to a bed. Her flesh came away in my hands. She was dead."

Dr. Henry Wirts, from York, Pa., another American surgeon at the hospital, said: "It was awful. Even a big U.S. hospital would have been taxed to the limit to treat the 33 serious burn patients that came in here."

OUT OF SUPPLIES

Thdocors ran oueof preottle

The doctors ran out of petroleum jelly and intravenous fluids, and fresh supplies were flown from Saigon.

* * *

A boy named Dieu Do, age 3, his head, chest and arms bandaged, clung to his sister. His mother lay back in the hopsital bed with her forearms bandaged.

"We have to rebuild Dakson and get the people back in there," said province chief Huy. "It is important that we show the Vietcong that the people will not be driven out. Right now the Montagnards are a little frightened. But they want to go back and build."

* * *

He named several other "New Life" hamlets in the region. "If Dakson is not rebuilt, then the people in these hamlets will decide that we cannot help them. They might return to the Communists. We would lose them."

'NEED MORE GUNS'

Dakson and the other hamlets, he said, need "more barbed wire, more guns."

But at the ravaged community Wednesday one man was talking about losing 12 of his 13 children. An old woman flailed at herself and wailed over the body of a son. An old man picked at the rubbish of his burned house. Another squatted in the skeleton of his home and lit a cheroot from the embers.

* * *

Nearby, a bare-breasted Montagnard girl was winnowing rice. An American who saw her observed:

"Life must go on for these people."

VIETCONG VICTIM — Swathed in bandages from head to fingertips, a tiny victim of the Vietcong attack on Dakson "New Life" hamlet sits on his sister's back at the entrance of Song Be Hospital where their mother lies seriously burned. The Vietcong attacked the Montagnard hamlet with flamethrowers and grenades, killing 114 and seriously burning 33.

Bond Change for University

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The University of Cincinnati plans to buy more growth stocks in the future instead of sticking to high-grade corporate bonds that yield a fixed return.

The board of directors approved the change after Philip M. Meyers, the board's finance committee chairman, delivered a lecture on practical finance.

Meyers said it now takes $400,000 invested at straight interest to pay a professor's salary.

'Ugly Americanism' Takes Beating

Retired Execs Boost U.S. Image

By ROGER DOUGHTY
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (NEA) — Ugly Americanism, a commodity that Chairman Mao and Gen. de Gaulle would like the rest of the world to believe is the chief export of the United States, is taking a beating all over the world, thanks to a dedicated group of retired executives who combine youthful enthusiasm with experience.

They make the International Executive Service Corps America's most successful road show since "Hello Dolly."

The IESC, a nonprofit organization, offers the executives the opportunity to become some of the nation's most valuable exports in the foreign aid program.

The idea has been so well-accepted that there are currently about 10 times as many would-be workers as there are projects. It's in matching the right problem-solver to the proper problem that the organization really excels.

According to Doug Murphey, a 60-year-old former vice president of a New York advertising agency, "Most of our people come in when they get bored with golf or they decide to get out of their wife's hair.

In my case, I felt I could be useful in selling the free enterprise system. If you're successful in business you believe in the system and want to sell it."

Murphey, who works as an IESC recruiter, recently returned from Colombia, where he helped one of that country's largest firms get established in the direct mail advertising business.

This is the idea behind the IESC:

* * *

● A company in a developing country submits a problem to IESC. If the organization approves, a volunteer is chosen from a pool (about 4,000 men at present).

Not every project is approved, however, and if IESC doesn't happen to have an expert on hand who can deal with the specific problem, the recruiters launch a manhunt of the sort made famous by the Canadian Mounties. They usually get their man.

● The executive chosen receives no salary but does get living allowance (which averages about $1,000 a month and is paid by the company to which the executive is assigned), in addition to roundtrip air transportation for the executive and his wife, if he gives in to her request to "Take me along." Most projects last less than four months.

IN 40 COUNTRIES

So far the IESC has worked in more than 40 countries and has taken on 400 projects this year.

Charles H. Brown, vice president in charge of public relations, feels that 500 projects a year should be the limit.

"At that rate," says Brown, "we can maintain high quality and if theres one thing a man in charge here wants it's quality."

* * *

The man in charge in this case is Frank Pace Jr., and his credits mark him as the ideal man to run the organization. At one time or another Pace has been director of the Budget, secretary of the Army and chairman of the board of General Dynamics.

'GENERALLY DYNAMIC'

Says one of Pace's staffers: "The best way to describe Frank is to say he's generally dynamic."

IESC came into being in 1964 with two basic objectives: to aid in the task of economic development in growing business abroad while providing an opportunity for retired businessmen to put their know-how to work where it could do the most good.

Those goals remain the same today as IESC men work in Latin America, the Middle East, Africa and the Far East.

In addition to support from industry, individuals and foundations, IESC receives money through government grants and the Agency for International Development.

Lloyd E. Raymond, a 65-year-old metallurgist with 40 years' experience, is typical of the type of man attracted to IESC.

Raymond, who recently returned from Brazil, spent two months on his project acting as an industrial adviser and part-time psychologist.

"I cleared up the technical problems for the company I was assigned to in no time at all," recalls Raymond, "but I found that the real problem stemmed from the fact that the man who was running things lacked confidence in his own ability.

He proved to be an excellent businessman, one of the best I've ever seen, but he'd just taken over the company after the death of the former president.

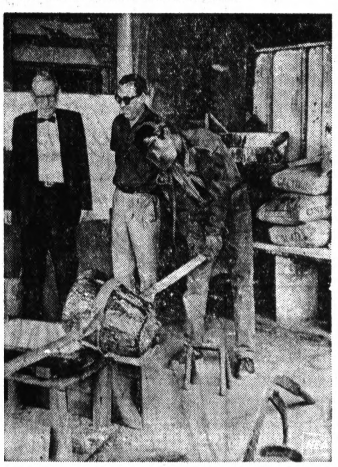
"The deceased man owned about 66 per cent of the business and was the type who insisted that he make every decision, no matter how minute.

As a result, the man who took over after his death had reached a point where he hadn't made a decision in years and felt that he was incapable of making one. My biggest job was building up his confidence and showing him just how good he was. After that, everything came easy."

"Mr. Raymond's experience is quite typical," says Pace, "and it's the reason why we seek out well-rounded individuals for our program. Our men are specialists in their own fields, but they're adaptable enough to handle almost anything that might come up.

"They have to be because we can never be sure what the real problem will be until our man arrives on the scene. And then it's too late to decide we sent the wrong person."

"We've had very few examples of Ugly Americanism," says Brown, "despite the fact that a lot of people told us we'd run into it. Our people have helped stimulate the economies of underdeveloped nations, increased America's prestige abroad and learned something in the process. They seem to feel that that beats riding a rocking chair."



METALLURGY IN BRAZIL — Lloyd Raymond, who has 40 years of experience as a metallurgist, looks things over in Brazil, where he spent two months as an industrial adviser and part-time psychologist.

Baltimore Is Fighting Back Against Sanctions by NEA

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The National Education Association has condemned Baltimore's public schools. Deficient, neglected and dilapidated are among the words of censure.

Though smarting from the slap, Baltimore, which nurtured Edgar Allan Poe, Ogden Nash and H. L. Mencken, is striking back with a campaign of its own to show "the progress and the quality of our school system."

★ ★ ★

An investigative team, said the NEA's Executive Committee, found "teachers underpaid buildings underequipped schools understaffed and the school system underfinanced."

The NEA also said:

- "De jure segregation has been replaced by de facto segregation in the Baltimore schools, and the painful process of resegregation has begun."
- "Baltimore's fiscal authorities have consistently slashed budget requests and the cumulative effect of their short-sighted actions has caused severe problems."
- More than 90 per cent of the 4,600 children attending four-hour double shifts are Negroes, and 26 of the 30 elementary schools with no libraries are Negro.

CAMPAIGN

And so it launched, at its convention in Miami last summer, the national campaign to persuade business and industry, teachers and parents, that Baltimore is guilty of "tragic neglect of children in the inner city schools."

The Public School Teachers Association, NEA's local affiliate which sought the action, blamed election-year politics for the city's cutting $5.1 million from a $139.5-million school budget.

★ ★ ★

City and school officials accused the teacher association of acting out of spite after losing a representative election to the rival Baltimore Teachers Union.

The NEA said it was invoking only partial sanctions. It did not censure the head of government, or urge teachers to boycott classes, as it had previously in Florida.

★ ★ ★

Reaction was immediate.

"We ought not to stand idly by and let this smear take place," said Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin, a Republican noted for his liberal views and rapport with minority groups. McKeldin left office Dec. 5.

"We realize there is unfinished business in our school system, but I think any reasonable individual looking at this year's school budget, and the vast increase it calls for, will realize that we do not merit sanctions of any kind."

"We feel the action taken is totally unwarranted," said Dr. Thomas Goedeke, acting superintendent of schools.

"I don't think Baltimore public schools differ from other large city systems. You could duplicate the conditions we have here in Detroit, Chicago, Pittsburgh, New York, Washington, Philadelphia and Boston."

Charles Laubheim, executive secretary of the Baltimore Teachers Union, criticized the rival association.

"I have never run across a teacher anywhere who believed in sanctions," he said. "If they work, they're like some heart surgery—the operation is successful, but the patient dies."

★ ★ ★

Actually, imposing sanctions was not a sudden act. Storm warnings were up as early as the spring of 1966.

Teachers marched on City Hall after the mayor announced school funds would be cut. The local association imposed sanctions of its own. And teachers picketed the home of the City Council president.

CYCLE RESUMES

This year, the cycle began again as budget time approached. The NEA team of eight investigators publicized its findings on the schools in April.

In May, the 2,000-member union, an affiliate of the American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, called a two-day strike, and 1,200 teachers stayed away from their classrooms.

★ ★ ★

A condition of ending the walkout was the school board's promise of a representative election between the union and the 6,000-member association. This was held in June, with the union winning the exclusive right to bargain with the board for all of the city's 8,000 teachers.

City Council made the school budget cuts that month, and sanctions followed in July.

"The poor in Baltimore are overwhelmingly Negro, and the affluent in Baltimore are overwhelmingly white," said the NEA report.

"It is difficult to justify the expenditure for the number of football stadiums and swimming pools for the senior high schools in white neighborhoods, while children in the slum areas attend school in firetraps.

"The poor are not poor out of choice. Negroes did not create the ghetto.

"These people have been victims of the kind of system which, as George Bernard Shaw said, forces a man to be a bootblack and then points to his occupation as proof of his inferiority."

Goedeke said three schools built in 1962, six in 1963, five in 1964 and six in 1966 were inner city schools.

Orville Berwick of the teacher association and the group's president, James E. Wall, said the school fund cut was used to reduce property taxes by 31 cents per $100 valuation because City Council President Thomas J. D'Allesandro III was running for mayor this year.

★ ★ ★

D'Alesandro won the Democratic nomination in September, was elected in November and took office Dec. 5.

"All they had to do was put 17 cents back—reduce the cut to 14 cents," Wall said.

"Berwick and I asked D'Allesandro to do this in direct conversation before he went into the council chamber. We were willing not to request any sanctions. Then he started calling his aides in to brush us off."

McKeldin says: "We agreed on this thing," he said. "We gave them $20 million more for books, more for salaries, enough to give every teacher a $600 raise.

"There was no complaint. Everyone said, 'We're satisfied.' They had to do something spectacular, so they asked for sanctions. I think it's a matter of spite."

But McKeldin sided with the NEA on ghetto schools.

We've just solved the who-gets-up-to-change-the channel problem.

U.S. Senate Bill Proposes Regulation of Warranties

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It was new, it was groovy, it was expensive—and it was leaky.

So the Fairfax County, Va., motorist took his gleaming new car back to the dealer to fix it so he could keep dry when it rained.

Thirty-seven round trips later the car was aging, less than groovy now and depreciating fast. But it was still leaky.

"Admittedly this was extreme," said Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash. "But it was symptomatic."

* * *

The chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee discussed the leaky car yesterday in presenting legislation which would provide federal regulation of warranties offered by manufacturers of cars and other products.

"Too frequently, there's a seemingly endless succession of return trips to a dealer to obtain the repair which should have been performed on the first visit," Magnuson said. "Even when a product is properly repaired, many complain that prices charged to correct minor defects are exorbitant."

He was seconded by Chairman Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., of the Senate Appropriations Committee, who joined in introducing legislation to help give the consumer a fighting chance to win guarantee disputes.

Magnuson ticked off complaints received from consumers:

Too late he discovers that only parts not labor are covered by the warranty.

● Or "he cannot take the product to the dealer but must ship it to the factory bearing the mailing cost himself."

● Or "every part comes within the guarantee except the very part which does not work."

● Or "the guarantor does not guarantee repair or replacement but only that he will 'make an effort' to repair it."

Magnuson's bill would require sellers of all products to specify in guarantees and warranties what parts would be covered for repair, the duration of coverage and the type of damage the consumer is protected against.

It would force the seller to state the costs the buyer must bear under the agreement and the parts and types of damage not covered by the guarantee.

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) would also be directed under his proposal to develop an abbreviated version of various guarantees which would be required in all advertising that cites the warranty in its list of selling points.

* * *

An advisory council created under Magnuson's bill would investigate performance and servicing under guarantee agreements and recommend either voluntary industry codes or federal regulation to improve consumer treatment.

Magnuson, who plans hearings on his bill next year, also cosponsored two companion measures proposed by Hayden.

One would basically insure that car manufacturers pay the dealer a fair price for making repairs under car guarantees.

* * *

The other bill would create warranty and quality control standards for household appliances and provide a means for consumers to enforce warranty claims.

Romney Says LBJ Viet Talk Is Hogwash

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Gov. George Romney of Michigan used the word "hogwash" Wednesday to characterize what he thinks the administration of President Johnson has been telling Americans about Vietnam.

Romney told an estimated 10,200 people at Kansas State University that he borrowed the word from Alf M. Landon, the 1936 GOP presidential nominee, and added that he admired Landon's choice of words.

* * *

Romney, a candidate for Republican nomination for president, spoke out on the Vietnam issue one day before he is scheduled to leave on a four-week tour that will take him both to the Soviet Union and South Vietnam.

He said he had heard a report from Moscow that Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin would meet with him, but he said he had no official word.

Romney attacked the Johnson administration in a question and answer session following his speech at the Landon Lecture Series, sponsored by Kansas State University.

He said the Johnson administration has changed the stories used in defense of the war.

* * *

In 1965, he said, the administration was trying to justify its course by saying the United States' presence in Vietnam was aimed at helping the South Vietnamese build a viable nation.

Today, he said, the administration is talking about "self-interest and national interest."

"The Johnson administration has Americanized the conflict in Vietnam," Romney said. "We can't hand these people a nation any more than we can hand a child an education."

A study indicates that natural gas requirements in the United States will increase from 17.8 trillion to 25.5 trillion cubic feet by 1975.

Biculturalism Urged for Canada

OTTAWA (AP) — A four-year 67-million government study designed to keep French and English Canada from splitting apart says basic changes in Canadian government, education and judicial services must be undertaken to make "living in French" possible everywhere in the nation.

The 1,600-page report was presented to the House of Commons Tuesday by the Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism with the endorsement of Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson.

★ ★ ★

The survey said linguistic and cultural inequality for French Canadians had helped to create the nation's present mood of crisis in which separatists, backed by French President Charles de Gaulle, have called for the independence of French-speaking Quebec province.

The report placed emphasis on "the impossibility of living a full life in French outside Quebec" and stressed proposals that would enable Canada's approximately 6 million French-speaking citizens to lead this "French life" elsewhere in the country.

MODEL OF TOLERANCE

Ironically, the report held up Quebec as a model of tolerance for the consideration it has shown its English-speaking minority in the 100 years that Canada has been of confederation.

The commission recommended:

—Ontario and New Brunswick should declare themselves officially bilingual and recognize French in their legislature, schools and courts. Other provinces should follow suit when their French-speaking population reaches 10 per cent.

★ ★ ★

—Establishment of "bilingual districts" anywhere French-Canadians or another minority make up 10 per cent or more of the population. Fifty-four such districts identified by the commission would offer schooling and government services in a second language.

—Acceptance of French in all provincial legislatures and the availability of appropriate services for French-speaking minorities.

—Declaration that English and French are the official languages of Parliament and of the federal courts, government and administration—a particularly sore spot with many French-Canadians.

—Provision in all provinces to permit parents to educate their children in whatever "official" language they choose.

★ ★ ★

—Establishment of a completely bilingual capital area, akin to the District of Columbia, that would take in Ottawa and Hull, Que., its twin city across the Ottawa River.

—Adoption of a new section in Canada's constitution, the British North America Act, guaranteeing minority education rights.

Gilles Gregoire, a separatist member of parliament, called the report a show of "good faith" but said it was of no consequence because Quebec will be independent by the time the federal government gets around to implementing the recommendations.

But there was praise from another French-Canadian. Claude Ryan, publisher of the Montreal daily Le Devoir, said the report offered "a program of equality based on precise definitions." He called it "realistic, supple and applicable."

★ ★ ★

A. B. Patterson, a leader of the Social Credit party, warned that any attempt to pressure the provinces into accepting the report "could have very serious and unfortunate results."

Import Flow Adding to Steel Industry Woes

PITTSBURGH (AP) — There's a steady and growing flow of foreign steel into the United States adding to the problems of the nation's steel industry.

The shipments are coming from 42 nations.

★ ★ ★

Some of the countries are hardly considered steel-producing nations for instance, Costa Rica, British Guiana and the Dominican Republic.

Five Communist-ruled nations are on the list: Poland, East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Lithuania.

JAPAN NAILS

If you live in a home built recently, chances are good the nails came from Japan. Japan leads all other nations in exporting steel to America.

Until a decade ago, this country exported more steel than it imported. The situation was reversed in 1959, and since then foreign producers have steadily increased imports to America. Last year, imports hit a record 10.7 million tons, 11 per cent of U.S. steel consumption. Imports in the first nine months of this year ran 3 per cent ahead of last year.

★ ★ ★

In the current steel price increase in this country, fear has been expressed by some that higher domestic prices may push up imports.

Industry people say import tonnage will go up, but not because U.S. prices are going up. They say foreign prices will increase right along with domestic prices, and assert that any stepup in imports will be caused by worldwide economic factors which led to substantial foreign imports in the first place.

2ND PRICE HIKE

Wednesday, U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's biggest steelmaker, and second-ranked Bethlehem Steel Corp. announced their second price hike in a week. U.S. Steel went up $5 a ton on galvanized and aluminum-coated sheets, and Bethlehem went up $5 a ton on galvanized sheets.

Last Friday, U.S. Steel boosted its price on cold rolled sheets, and a number of other producers, including Bethlehem, followed suit.

★ ★ ★

Foreign producers are able to carve deeper inroads in the American market for the simple reason they can make steel cheaper because of lower labor costs.

"The Japanese could undersell us by $40 a ton if they wanted to," one Pittsburgh steel executive said.

GETTING SUBSIDIES

But foreigners are having profit problems, too. A number of foreign steelmakers are getting subsidies from their governments just to keep above water.

Right after American price boosts were posted, Japanese and German steelmakers indicated they, too, would go up on their American prices.

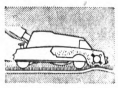
CLEAN BETTER Because

2 Powerful Suction Fans spread extra suction power evenly across the entire nozzle and lift the carpet off the floor, creating a cushion of air under the carpet.



2 Cleaning Actions as the lint removing brushes revolve, the grit removing beater bars effectively beat the carpet on the cushion of air, loosening the deep down embedded dirt and grit causing them to come to the surface. The revolving brushes sweep the grit, dirt and lint into the suction fan jet stream and into the large throwaway bag.

CHOCOLATE NOG PUNCH — Here's a holiday drink you can safely serve to young and old — it's a non-alcoholic eggnog punch. Chocolate ice cream gives it a rich flavor. Top each glass with whipped cream and chocolate curls.

Has Ice Cream in It

Chocolate Eggnog Good

One of the most convenient of convenience foods is dairy eggnog. Its appearance in the grocer's dairy case means your Christmas shopping had better be about finished! The quickest way to enjoy this holiday beverage is to pour it straight from the bottle or carton and sprinkle each serving with nutmeg.

★ ★ ★

But, dairy eggnog is as versatile as it is convenient.

Everyone, in general, and chocolate fanciers, in particular, will like this recipe for Chocolate Nog Punch. Chocolate ice cream and chocolate syrup give the dairy eggnog a different flavor while club soda adds a sparkling lightness.

★ ★ ★

No punch bowl for the beverage? Then choose your prettiest pitcher (nice if it can be see-through glass) and decorate it with ribbon and a sprig of holly or mistleltoe. Accompanied by a tray of butter cookies, Chocolate Nog Punch is an ideal beverage to serve during the holiday season.

Chocolate Nog Punch

1 pint softened chocolate ice cream
1 quart chilled dairy eggnog
½ cup chocolate syrup
1 quart chilled club soda
1 cup whipping cream, whipped (½ pint)
Shaved unsweetened chocolate

Combine softened ice cream, eggnog and chocolate syrup; mix well. Pour into punch bowl or pitcher. Add chilled club soda gradually, stirring gently. Float whipped cream on surface of punch, if desired, or spoon on to each glass; garnish with shaved chocolate. Makes about 11 cups of punch or 20 to 22 one-half cup servings.

Sandwiches Tokyo Style

Never a dull meal when one turns to a hot sandwich for an entree. The Tokyo Special Sandwich calls for ingredients with which the Japanese cook loves to work; ingredients which today are commonplace to American cooks.

For 4 hot sandwiches, combine a cup of chopped, canned tuna with two tablespoons finely chopped onion and ¼ cup slivered water chestnuts. Make a paste of two teaspoons cornstarch, 1 tablespoon milk, ¼ starch, 1 tablespoon milk, ¼ teasoon each of salt and ground ginger. Stir in one well-beaten egg. Add this to tuna mixture.

Butter both sides of four slices enriched bread and place on a baking sheet. Top each slice with ⅓ cup tuna mixture.

Blend together 3 tablespoons fine, dry bread crumbs with 2 teaspoons melted butter and sprinkle over the sandwiches. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) for 10 to 12 minutes.

Celery Is Good Lightly Cooked

Dice those heavy ribs of celery (after removing the leaves) and cook in a small amount of salted boiling water just until tender-crisp.

Mix with cooked carrots, peas or chopped broccoli; add butter and serve as a delicious vegetable accompaniment to meat, poultry, fish or eggs.

Color Almonds

You can turn white blanched almonds into bright colored decorations for cakes and cookies by soaking them in food color-water solutions.

Freeze Uncovered

To prevent iced and decorated cakes from rubbing off on the wrappers when freezing, place the frosted cake in the home freezer overnight or until frozen, then remove and seal in freezer wrap.

"STATUS SYMBOL"

As you pass through Foodland doors, you'll probably notice the Spartan Stores' insignia proudly displayed there . . . but have you ever wondered why it's there — what it stands for — or more important, what it means to you? Well, now that you're through the door, let's get the inside story.

'Way back in 1917, a group of twenty-seven food store owners banded together with the idea of pooling their money, so that they could buy in greater quantity and reduce their individual costs. Their idea was a good one, and by 1933 they had grown to 181 members and had leased a small warehouse. Today, Foodland Stores, along with more than 500 other Spartan Stores, own the largest food warehouse in Michigan . . . and now they're building another in Plymouth, Michigan.

Along with all of this, Foodland Markets share the biggest "Buy Power Rating" in Michigan, which enables them to buy the widest variety of national brands, regional brands, and local brands available today . . . and buy them at a savings. And it stands to reason that when you buy something for less, you can sell it for less...and that's exactly what they do.

Another nice thing about Foodland Super Markets is they're locally owned. That means that money you spend there isn't sent to a home office in some other city — it stays home and keeps working for you.

Behind the Spartan on Foodland doors, there are 50 years of experience in serving Michigan homemakers, and all of this know-how and buying power, and modern warehousing and variety of products and brands ...linked with the efficiency, the courtesy, and the willingness of the people who work in Foodland Markets to please you, should be reason enough to shop the stores with the Spartan on the door . . . . . featuring this week . . .

Food Manufacturers Are Acquiring Restaurant Chains

At a rate unprecedented in the history of the food service industry, restaurant chains are being taken over by the country's major food manufacturers.

The total number of such acquisitions for this year presently stands at eleven — and a half dozen are believed in negotiation.

The current issue of Nation's Restaurant News, noting that "a psychology of consolidation has taken hold of the mass feeding industry, and no one is more aware of it then the packers and canners of this country," reports these developments in the growing trend:

Last month Del Monte Foods reached agreement to acquire Service Systems, Inc. — a $30-million, 300-plus-unit contract feeder based in Buffalo, N.Y.

At the same time Burger Chef was acquired by General Foods. Just prior to that Foodmaker, Inc., which operates over 250 Jack-in-the-Box drive-thrus, announced it was holding merger talks with Ralston Purina.

Shortly before that, $160-million ABC Consolidated was picked up by Ogden Crop., which, among other interests, controls some canning and packing companies.

Other completed or pending acquisitions include: The Baskin-Robbins ice cream chain to United Fruit, 300-unit Burger King to Pillsbury, Schrafft's to Pet, Inc. (pending) and Uncle John's to General Host.

Nation's Restaurant News cites these factors as uppermost in these wholesale takeovers:

● The restaurant chains actually welcome the change. Many are running dangerously thin on money and management talent at a time when both have become crucial to growth.

● Food suppliers, profit-pinched by rocketing labor costs and slow-growth supermarkets, and seeking new avenues of expansion. They are frankly enhanced by growth prospects of food service with its high rate of return on investment and high-flying growth rate.

● The Justice Department, through inaction, appears uninterested in such mergers and acquisitions.

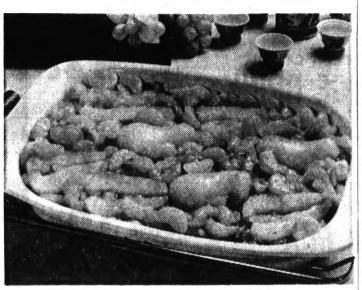
Nation's Restaurant News points out that there is virtually no speculative element involved for the food suppliers. The chains they are buying are firmly established and have already demonstrated their growth ability.

Another advantage for the food manufacturer making the acquisition is that it gets a captive research laboratory to test products.

* * *

As for the acquired restaurant chains, they gain added security in such areas as improved computer technology, advanced management techniques, warehousing and delivery, real estate development and franchising.

But most important — it provides the chains with a cushion against an explosion of the growth bubble.



JAPANESE SAKE MANDARIN COMPOTE

Sake in Fruit Compote Gives Unusual Flavor

A fruit compote can be an homemaker's best friend even though it's two-faced. In fact, the double-dealing tendencies of this dish are its main advantages.

A tangy fruit compote can stand on its own as a companion dish to a meat entree or as a separate dessert; but it's also a delicious accomplice — and a very "saucy" one at that!

Consider the marvelous results if you mixed pears, Japanese mandarin oranges, crushed pineapple, graham cracker crumbs, brown sugar, slivered almonds and then laced the whole thing with Japanese Sake before you set it to bubbling in the oven.

The combination of the assorted fruits and the unusual flavor of the Sake — the national drink of Japan — adds up to a really tasty sauce guaranteed to enhance any festive meal whether turkey, duck, goose, baked ham or beef roast.

When Sake is used in cooking, the alcohol evaporates in the heat, and only the flavor of the rice-and-water brew remains.

Another ingredient that gives this sauce such excellent taste are the mandarin oranges. These little pertectly uniform segments are seedless, rindless and ready to use just right out of the can.

When you're having guests in for a holiday meal, make this wonderful compote. If there's any left over (and don't bet on it!) you can heat it the next day and serve it as a sundae sauce over ice cream or custard.

Mandarin Compote

1 11-ounce can Mandarin orange segments, drained
1 1-pound can Bartlet pears halves, drained
1 8-ounce can crushed pineapple, drained
½ cup graham cracker crums
2 tablespoons brown sugar
½ cup slivered almonds (optional)
½ cup Sake

In 1-quart casserole place half of pears, Mandarins and pineapple. Sprinkle fruit with half of crums and sugar, dot with half of butter. Repeat layering; top with nuts, if desired.

Pour Sake over all. Bake at 450 degrees for 15 minutes or till bubbly. Makes 4 to 6 serv-

Add Rye Flour to Dough for French Bread

Nothing succeeds so much as homemade French-type bread!

Crusty Rye Loaves

1 package active dry yeast
1¼ cups warm water
1½ teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon each sugar and soft butter or margarine
1 cup stoneground whole rye flour
2½ cups (about) unsifted regular white flour
2 teaspoons white cornmeal

Dissolve yeast in warm water; stir in salt, sugar and butter, then unsifted rye flour. Work in white flour with spoon and then hands; dough will be sticky.

Knead on floured board for 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl; turn to grease top; cover. Let rise at 80 degrees in draftfree place until doubled — about 40 minutes.

Punch down; cover; let rise again until doubled — about 30 minutes. Punch down; turn out. Divide in half; shape each half into a 12-inch long roll; taper ends.

Sprinkle cornmeal along two places on large greased cookie sheet and place bread rolls over cornmeal. Let rise until doubled —about 40 minutes.

Bake in a hot (400 degrees) oven until browned and crusty—about 30 minutes. Serve hot or reheat.

JINGLE BELL FUDGE—Combine two 6-oz. packages (2 cups) butterscotch flavored morsels and ½ cup chunk-style peanut butter in top of double boiler. Place over hot (not boiling) water until butterscotch melts. Remove from water. Stir until blended. Add two-thirds cup sweetened condensed milk and stir just until blended. Spread in foil-lined 8-inch square pan. Press ½ cup chopped peanuts into surface, if desired and chill until firm. Cut into 1-inch squares. Makes 64 squares.

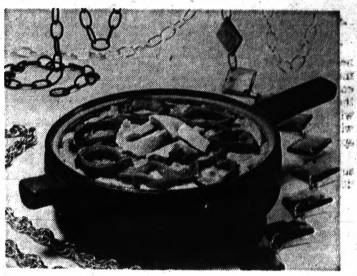
Convenience Foods Aid to Quick Meals



TUNA IN CHAINS

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Does your family get rather sketchy meals during the pre-holiday rush?

Even women who are at home full time are apt to get busier than usual now and women who work and keep a home going are even busier. .

So how about a few ideas for simple dinners? Make use of convenience foods.

If you have a favorite casserole, double the recipe and freeze half for later use.

Make up a big batch of spaghetti sauce or chili and do the same thing.

* * *

If you're fixing chicken, fix three or four and freeze what you don't use right away.

Here's a quick casserole dish that will use some of the left-over fowl.

CHICKEN MASHED POTATO TOPSY

1 package mashed potato flakes
1 tablespoon butter, melted
¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning
1 egg

Filling

½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped onion
1 can (4 oz.) sliced mushrooms
2 tablespoons butter
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1½ cups chopped, cooked chicken

Combine ¾ cup dry mashed potato flakes with melted butter and poultry seasoning; set aside. Prepare remaining potatoes in 4-serving recipe, reducing water to 1 cup. Stir in egg.

Cook celery, onion and mushrooms in butter until tender. Stir in mushroom soup and chicken. Combine well and heat thoroughly. Pour into 9-inch pie-pan.

Spoon mounds of potatoes around edge of filling in 9-inch piepan or shallow casserole. Sprinkle with buttered potato flakes. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes.

Pork chops cook quickly. Simmer chops in canned beef gravy with special seasonings.

PORK CHOPS CHARCUTIERE

4 pork chops (about 1 pound)
1-3 cup sliced shallots or green onion
Salt and pepper
1 can (10¾ ounces) beef gravy
½ teaspoon prepared mustard
4 sweet midget gherkin pickles, cut in half

In skillet, brown chops and cook shallots until tender. Pour off fat. Season with salt and pepper. Add gravy and mustard. Cover; cook over low heat 45 minutes or until tender. Stir now and then. Add pickles the last 5 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

When you use canned spaghetti sauce, half the work of a dish is already done.

This Stroganoff-type main dish goes well with a fruit filled gelatin salad and green beans topped with pimiento.

SPAGHETTI BEEF STROGANOFF

¾ lb. round steak
2 medium onions
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 (4 oz.) can sliced mushrooms
¼ cup water
1 envelope brown seasoning and broth
1-3 cup sour cream
2 (15½ oz.) cans spaghetti with tomato cheese sauce

Cut beef into 2" x 1" strips. Peel onion; slice thinly. Melt butter. Add onions and cook until tender. Remove onions from pan. Add meat and brown well.

Return onions to pan. Add mushrooms and liquid, water, brown seasoning and broth to meat. Cover and cook gently for 20 minutes.

Stir in spaghetti with tomato sauce and cheese and sour cream. Heat thoroughly. Makes 4 servings.

For an oven meal, use slices of hams, yams and apples. Finish the dinner preparations while this dish bakes.

HAM, SWEET POTATO APPLE CASSEROLE

¼ ham slices (about 1 pound) ¾" thick
1 can (1 pound) yams, cut in half
8 apple slices
Cinnamon
Nutmeg
Honey
1 can (10½ ounces) mushroom gravy

Cut ham into 8 pieces. In shallow baking dish (10x6x2"), alternate ham, yams, and apple slices down center of dish. Sprinkle with cinnamon, nutmeg; brush with honey. Pour gravy around sides. Bake at 400 degrees for 25 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Tuna is always the housewife's friend. It is tasty, economical and quick. Here is a "mod" recipe for today's fashion conscious people.

TUNA IN CHAINS

1 Can (8 ounces) cut green beans Water
1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed Cheddar cheese soup
2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna in vegetable oil
2 tablespoons chopped onion
¼ teaspoon dried leaf thyme
1½ cup packaged pre-cooked rice
1½ cups shredded Cheddar cheese
Pimientos

Drain beans; add enough water to bean liquid to make 1¼ cups. Combine with undiluted soup in saucepan. Stir in beans, tuna, onion and thyme. Bring to a boil, stirring occasionally.

Put rice in a 1½ quart casserole. Add hot tuna mixture; stir to combine with rice. Sprinkle with cheese. Cover. Bake in 400 degree oven, 20 minutes.

Remove cover; stir mixture. Cut pimientos crosswise to make rings; place around edge of casserole to resemble a chain. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

SPAGHETTI BEEF STROGANOFF

HAM, YAM AND APPLE CASSEROLE

Put New Touch in Chef's Salad With Sardines

This is a variation of the popular chef's salad.

New Tossed Sardine Salad

3 cups mixed torn salad greens packed down
2 medium tomatoes, seeded and cut in thin strips
1 medium cucumber, sliced thin
¼ cup chopped parsley
1 tablespoon minced shallot
¼ cup thin strips cheddar cheese French Dressing (see note)
1 can (3¾ ounces) bristling sardines

In a shallow serving bowl, mix the salad greens with the tomatoes, cucumber, parsley, shallot and cheese. Toss with half of the French dressing.

Drain sardines, cut in half crosswise and arrange over the top. Sprinkle with remaining dressing. Makes 4 servings.

Note: Mix in a screw top jar 2 tablespoons olive oil, 1 tablespoon red wine vinegar, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper and ½ teaspoon seasoned salt. Shake well before using.

Careful Cooking Is Secret of Omelet

With care, you can turn out a high and puffy omelet.

Puffy Omelet

4 eggs, separated
¼ cup cold water
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter

Beat egg whites with water and salt until stiff. Beat yolks until thickened and lemon color; fold into egg whites.

Have a 10-inch iron skillet hot enough so that drops of water sprinkled in it will sputter. Add butter to skillet and spread. Add egg mixture; spread evenly.

Gently cook until puffed and slightly browned on bottom — about 5 minutes. Bake in a slow (325 degrees) oven 12 to 15 minutes or until a knife inserted in center comes out clean.

Cut through center but not through bottom of omelet; fold over away from pan handle; slip onto serving platter, or cut into serving portions in pan and remove with spatula. Makes 3 servings.

Glazed Onions Call for Syrup

Maple glazed onions and California walnuts are a change of taste treat served with the holiday goose, roast beef or ham.

Boil together for five minutes 1 tablespoon butter, ½ cup maple-flavored syrup and ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Add a 1-pound can drained, whole, small onions and heat through. Stir in ½ cup toasted California walnuts and serve at once.

Ghanaian Boy Writes to U.S.: Need Your Bag

WASHINGTON (AP) — "With much pleasure to call your attention to it that I have seen your bag from one of my friends. And moreover I am interesting in it," the letter began.

"So you should kindly send me one. I am great need of it. I am a school boy of 11 year old and reading form one and I am haven about 13 books and have no where to put them in."

Officials of the U.S. Interior Department's Bureau of Land Management, who received the letter recently, say they sent a bright yellow plastic litter bag to young Danquah Kofi in Kadjeb-Akan, Ghana.

"Join BLM operation cleanup," it says on the bag.

"While our supply is low just now," a bureau spokesman said, "I'm sure we can find a few bags for someone as resourceful as Danquah." Danquah's letter didn't say where his friend got the litter bag.

Congress Toughens Bad-Meat Law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the first time in 60 years, Congress has moved to strengthen the law protecting Americans from the meat of "4-D" animals—dead, dying, diseased or disabled.

* * *

Final action on the meat inspection measure, now before President Johnson for his signature, came yesterday when the Senate accepted a compromise worked out by House-Senate conferees. Earlier, the House had approved the bill 336 to 28 on a roll call vote.

Rep. Graham Purcell, D-Tex., termed the bill "truly a victory for the American people—the consumer, the processor, the producer."

The bill authorizes matching federal grants to help the states bring their inspection of intrastate meat plants up to federal standards imposed on plants which ship from state to state. The Agriculture Department could take jurisdiction if a state had failed to start its program within two years, or allow a third year if progress had been started.

The department could move at once against any plant known to produce adulterated meat if the home state ignored warnings from Washington.

The bill also requires imported products to meet the same standards required of domestic meats.

Chairman W. R. Poage, D-Tex., of the House Agriculture Committee charged that the bill "puts a blackjack in the hands of the agriculture secretary . . . tells the states that Simon Legree is going to stand over you."

* * *

He argued that the House bill, which merely would have authorized the matching federal grants, would have served as a lure for improvement which few if any states could ignore.

That measure enjoyed broad support from the states as well as the industry, he said.

He predicted the states, angered by federal intrusion in their affairs, would refuse to give the cooperation essential to achieve the goal of "clean

Speck Observes a Quiet Birthday

JOLIET, Ill. (UPI) — Richard Speck, sentenced to death in the electric chair for the murder of eight nurses, observed his 26th birthday yesterday with no special visitors and no observance of the occasion.

"We only allow extra visitors if there is a death in the family," said Warden Frank Pate.

State Gambling Case

Suspect Is Arraigned

BAY CITY (AP) — Michael Joseph Maggio of Erie, Pa., became the third member of an alleged gambling ring to plead innocent to federal charges.

He entered his plea during arraignment Wednesday on charges of transporting "wagering paraphernalia and pursuing a racketeering enterprise in interstate commerce.

U. S. District Judge Stephen Roth of Flint released Maggio on $4,000 bond.

Two other defendants, Joseph Giacalone of Swartz Creek and John Juarez of Flint, previously entered innocent pleas in arraignment in Flint.

The output of the nation's sort-coal mines, which was reported to be 510 million tons last year, is expected to reach 530 million tons in 1968.

Education Bill Peacemaking Bid Apparently Has LBJ Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate sponsors of the $14.2-billion aid to education bill have apparent White House backing in efforts to overcome Southern objections to federal school desegregation enforcement procedures.

The new peacemaking effort, designed to avoid long debate as Congress heads toward final adjournment, contrasted with bitter words exchanged during Wednesday's session.

At one point, the usually mild-mannered Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield told one senator he was "off his rocker."

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., manager of the bill, said an amendment will be offered to provide some assurances sought by Dixie senators.

FIXED DATE

Morse said the proposal will involve a fixed date, perhaps Aug. 1, by which the Department of Health, Education and Welfare must announce annually whether a school district will receive federal aid. If a cutoff or denial notice were not issued by then, the district would receive the money throughout the school year starting in September.

HEW uses this financial weapon to push for desegregation.

This amendment would substitute for one sponsored by Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., and strongly supported by other Southerners who had made clear its adoption was their price for not blocking passage of the full bill this year.

Russell's proposal would bar HEW from holding up or denying aid applications to any district once the school year has started.

More said Russell's plan would mean a district could drag its feet until the school year had begun and then do anything it pleased about integration for a year.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., fighting for Russell's amendment, angrily declared orders had come from the White House and HEW to kill all weakening civil rights amendments.

* * *

Mansfield and Morse denied this.

But Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, said he could believe Stennis' charge. He said an amendment he had sponsored, which would have cut the total authorization in the bill by $2.4 billion, was "blitzed by orders which came down from the mountaintop."

MANSFIELD RETORT

Mansfield shot back: "The senator from Ohio is off his rocker. No senator in this body is going to take orders from any mystical mountaintop."

Highway Snipers to Knuckle Under?

OCEANSIDE, Calif. (AP) — On five occasions, motorists have complained this week of a highway sniper along Interstate 5.

The attacks have shattered windshields and car windows. No injuries have been reported.

Viet-Style Trench War Eyed

By HORST FAAS

BU DOP, Vietnam (AP) - The chaplain stood in the open and recited the Mass.

Huddled in trenches, men of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division looked toward him and listened. They wore their combat gear. They were filthy, covered with the red dirt that covers everything here.

* * *

"This will be a different Christmas than you have had before," said Chaplain Arthur M. Calter of Boston. "There will be no jingle bells, no Christmas trees. But don't forget, Christ is with you in these trenches."

There are many trenches now at Bu Dop, along the Cambodian border 80 miles north of Saigon. The American infantrymen have been digging in since they moved here beside a Special Forces camp and its airstrip to counter a major Communist buildup. There has been heavy action as the Americans probed the surrounding brush and rubber plantation country, trying to learn where the enemy is and what he plans.

HAD TO DIG

The infantrymen have had to dig because the enemy is well equipped with mortars, rockets and heavy machine guns. The GIs have gone deep with their sandbagged bunkers and they have linked them with trenches. Much of life here has gone underground.

It is hot, dirty work, but the GIs do it unceasingly because they have seen the death and destruction brought by enemy guns. Leaves have been stripped from trees, huge branches are crunched off and plunge to the ground.

* * *

Armored personnel carriers brought into defensive positions around the airstrip are dug in and sandbagged.

Only the artillery and the men who work the big U.S. guns are exposed. They are protected as much as possible, but they must be able to fire point-blank when the enemy moves only yards away.

ANOTHER MASS

There was another Mass the other day at an artillery position hit by a mortar round during a heavy attack. A veteran of 19 years in the Army was killed there and a score of men were wounded.

The almost continual sound of outgoing rounds from U.S. artillery pieces and mortars has made it difficult to tell when the enemy is firing his own heavy guns—until the rounds start exploding in American positions.

* * *

Tuesday night there was a B52 strike only a little over a mile from the American lines. The clear night sky soon was covered by a cloud of smoke that rose from explosion of the bombs and the dust they churned.

Most of the movement outside bunkers and trenches is by elbow, flat on the ground. The machine guns crack through the rows of the rubber trees. Every man struggles along carrying at least a double load of ammunition.

'OUR JOB'

"Our job," said one U.S. officer, "is to find out if the Vietcong is still there and where his defenses are. We have found they are all around.

"We want to try and locate them and bring in air strikes."

* * *

The way this is being done is by men crawling along in the dust, inching forward on elbows, then perhaps dodging from one rubber tree to another, lugging weapons and ammunition. Often they move out through a nearby cemetery, taking advantage of the protection offered by the headstones and grave markers.

* * *

One company sweep moved out this morning. There was little initial action. The company stopped and I was sitting behind a tree about five yards from the company commander. Then one round from an enemy rocket exploded about five yards away.

CAME RUNNING

Rpt 3rd graf from end Bu Dop Faas eyewitness A086-87

It felt like a hot iron had hit my legs, but there was not too much pain. The medics came running and bandaged my legs. Then they lifted a poncho and carried me to an armored personnel carrier. A few minutes later we were at the airstrip and a helicopter for evacuation to a hospital.

It only took about 25 minutes. It was part of the action at Bu Dop.

PHOTOGRAPHER WOUNDED — Wounded Associated Press photographer Horst Faas lies on a stretcher while awaiting evacuation from Bu Dop yesterday. Faas, 34, was hit in the legs by rocket fragments. He was reported in satisfactory condition. Faas won a Pulitzer Prize in 1965 for his work in Vietnam.

Most GOP Governors Say: Back Viet, Replace LBJ for Peace

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Most Republican governors agree the GOP must support the basic Vietnam war commitment in the 1968 election campaign while offering a fresh White House team dedicated to ending the fighting.

Opinions gathered by the Associated Press from GOP state executives who begin campaign planning sessions here Friday focused on the theme that President Johnson has become so locked in his position that only a new president can negotiate peace.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York will report at the conference on an in-depth study of potential campaign issues, including Vietnam. The governors, most of them moderates, hope it will form the basis of recommendations for specific platform plans.

Although they seemed in general agreement on issues, all but a few governors were refraining from committing themselves to any potential presidential nominee until next year's primaries show significant trends.

'WANT WINNER'

Of the 20 governors willing to participate in the AP canvass, 13 said they have no choice now for the nominee. Gov. John A. Love of Colorado, retiring chairman of the Republican Governors Association, seemed to sum up this group's views in saying: "I want a winner. I want to elect a Republican president."

Michigan Gov. George Romney's announced candidacy for the nomination appeared to have little impact on his colleagues.

* * *

Romney drew the support of only Govs. John H. Chafee of Rhode Island, incoming chairman of the association, and New York's Rockefeller. Both of them previously had put themselves in his corner.

Rockefeller, who has said he is not a candidate and doesn't want to be president, had the open support of Govs. Tom McCall of Oregon, Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland and his brother, Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas. Another governor who asked that his name not be used favored Rockefeller or Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois.

'ALTERNATIVES'

Five governors said they think Rockefeller would rate the best chance to beat Johnson in the general election. One picked former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and one Romney. The rest said any of the leading candidates for the nomination could do the job.

Gov. Daniel J. Evans of Washington, expected to be named keynote speaker of the 1968 GOP convention, said the Republicans should emphasize that "the present administration has used up many of its alternatives and that a new administration could reopen all alternatives."

* * *

"As with Korea, I believe that ultimate negotiation and armistice comes with a position of military strength," Evans said. "When this was achieved in Korea, a new administration succeeded in reaching an armistice. Such a result could occur now but I think it would be much more likely with a new president and a new administration."

* * *

New York's Rockefeller, who has supported Johnson's basic Vietnam course, declined to comment on this issue.

Gov. Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania said it would be a "critical mistake" for the Republicans "to approach the Vietnam problem in a manner that would give aid and comfort to the enemy."

LBJ Coming Up With Unexpected

AP Wirephoto

LBJ AND 'LECTURER' — President Johnson sits in his White House office yesterday with David Lilienthal, chairman of the private Development and Resources Corp., which is trying to promote the economic and social development of South Vietnam. Lilienthal was one of the President's "guest lecturers" at his Cabinet meeting yesterday, reporting on his second trip to Vietnam and the South Vietnamese government.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson continues to mix the tried and true with the totally unexpected—like making another anti-inflation pitch to business leaders after breaking tradition to give the press a rare peek at a Cabinet meeting.

The President's orthodox economic sentiments were delivered at an off-the-record dinner meeting of the prestigious Business Council, composed of about 190 leaders of the biggest industrial and financial corporations. His text was made public later.

Johnson gave the public a secondhand look at a formal Cabinet meeting earlier Wednesday by admitting three reporters and permitting them to take complete notes and report their findings. The reporters weren't shooed out until Director Richard Helms of the Central Intelligence Agency began briefing the Cabinet on latest national security developments.

★ ★ ★

In his speech to the Business Council, Johnson coupled his anti-inflation plea with a new attack on trade protectionists, a call for expanded exports, an appeal for voluntary business efforts to promote a healthy balance of payments and some pointed remarks about a recent attack on the dollar by speculators.

'CANNOT REST'

Johnson said the speculative attack has been "decisively repelled" but added "We cannot rest on this victory."

He declared "we must look beyond gold" to the kind of supplementary monetary reserves agreed on in September by most non-Communist nations.

★

The reserves needed to finance expanding world trade, he said, "need not rest on the uncertainties of gold production, consumption and speculation."

His wage-price appeal was a familiar one: Labor should "restrain its demands for excessive wage increases" and business should "refrain from avoidable price increases" and "intensify its competitive efforts."

IMPORT RESTRICTIONS

As for import restrictions, Johnson said the race for trade cannot be won if the United States is "confined by the quotas or high tariff walls the protectionists demand."

At the Cabinet meeting, Chairman John W. Macy of the Civil Service Commission reported on efforts to make it easier for citizens to do business with their government.

★ ★ ★

When Macy said some agencies are staying open Saturdays and one evening a week, the President wanted to know how much this was costing.

Not much, Macy replied.

'SHOCKED AT DELAY'

When Macy said a determined effort is being made to get bureaucrats to answer their mail more promptly, the Chief Executive commented: "I've been shocked at some of the delay here in the White House."

He ordered each Cabinet secretary to determine—and report to him by Dec. 20—how long it takes their departments to respond to mail from Congress members and the public.

Johnson added that as a senator, he made it a rule to answer mail within 24 hours. But he noted with tongue in cheek that Cabinet officers generally are not running for public office and may not be so concerned about voters' feelings.

Heart Transplant Key: Can Body Be Fooled?

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Science Writer

In a South African hospital bed this week, a 55-year-old grocer lived with the heart of a young woman beating in his breast. He hoped this strange heart would fool his body into believing it was his own.

Louis Washkansky existed with what can be described as a benevolent but vital infection. On this pivot his life turned.

★ ★ ★

His heart was that of 25-year-old Denise Ann Darvall, struck by an automobile and fatally injured.

Her heart was well, but she was dead. The heart of Washkansky was dying, but the rest of his body was well. Doctors in a five-hour operation transplanted her heart into Washkansky's body.

SECOND ATTEMPT

Three days later, on Wednesday, doctors attempted the operation at Maimonides Hospital in Brooklyn, transplanting the heart from a dead baby into the breast of a 2½-week-old boy. The patient lived only 6½ hours.

"We do not know at this time why this transplanted heart failed," said Dr. Adrian Kantrowitz, the chief surgeon.

Asked if he and his medical team are going to try again, he said: "We certainly are."

Despite the infant's death, the fact remains that in the case of Washkansky, 20th century medicine has brought mankind to this point: A transplant has been effected, and the patient lies in a Cape Town bed hoping his body will not recognize that his new heart is a foreign organ.

NOT EASY

Human bodies are not easy to fool.

Washkansky's body has spent 55 years, from the time it was a microscopic union of two cells, learning what was its own, and what was not. To this genetic understanding, it owed its survival. As it was beset by virus and bacteria, or even such small things as wooden splinters, it dealt with them on one basis: They did not belong; they must be disposed of.

★ ★ ★

The body is a complex system with many weapons for self-defense. It produces antibodies—tiny, carefully designed bits of protein that can pursue and capture and neutralize the protein-coated viruses that threaten health. It produces certain white blood cells to chase down and dissolve bacteria and other body invaders. These cells have still other means of producing immunity to disease, mysterious means that science has not been able to pinpoint.

HARMLESS INVADERS

These weapons that protect a person from his microscopic enemies also trouble him. Antibodies are produced against even harmless invaders, and sometimes the antibodies sensitize a person to harmless, common elements—pollen, dust, the hair of a dog. So it is with transplanted organs—kidneys, spleens, lungs and hearts. This danger follows all transplants.

Doctors now use powerful drugs and radiation to suppress the body's immunity mechanism and forestall rapid rejection of new organs. But this leaves the patient vulnerable to infection, and he must be protected by antibiotics and sterile procedures.

★ ★ ★

So Louis Washkansky lived his first days under the eye of doctors and nurses alert for signs of rejection. As a guard against infection he lived in an oxygen tent.

His operation was the world's first transplant of a human heart. In past years, doctors have transplanted 600 kidneys from one person to another, and a number of lungs and spleens. They have transplanted dog hearts with some success, but never a human heart, although they came close at least once.

FAILING LIFE

In 1964, University of Mississippi surgeons held on to the failing life of a patient in hopes that they could find a suitable donor, a person who was dying but whose heart was undamaged.

The heart of their patient—a big man who was never identified—was fading fast. At the end, they decided to try a small chimpanzee's heart to at least temporarily sustain life. The heart was put in place and shocked into beating. It worked for about an hour, then failed.

Since that time, work with animals and the increasing use of transplanted kidneys have given surgeons a much broader experience. It also has raised more and more questions about the ethics of transplants.

"Wait," say some doctors. "Wait for the development of artificial hearts, hearts that work on electricity and can be implanted in the body without fear of rejection, and without question as to where and how the replacement heart was obtained."

PREVENT TROUBLE

"Grandstanding," say other doctors, contending that the proper aim should be to prevent heart trouble, not engage in risky operations to replace sick hearts.

But transplants will continue. They reflect the frustration of the doctor with a patient 99 per cent healthy, yet dying for want of one vital part. In Washkansky's case, said the South African doctors, the surgery was "his only chance." He would have lived only a few more days at most.

At Stanford Medical Center, where doctors have been waiting months for the right circumstances to transplant a heart, Dr. Norman Shumway put it this way:

"It has to be an extreme case, a terminal case, because legally you are killing a person when you take this heart out and throw it away. At the moment he goes into the operating room, he's alive. You have to assume he would be dead without the transplant in a few weeks or months."

BRAIN ACTIVITY

What of the donor? Doctors must be certain this life is beyond recall. In South Africa, surgeons watched the electrical activity of the brain of Denise Darvall as it failed. To them, it was the signature of death.

Then they had to work fast, to remove her heart, and fasten it into place in the grocer, his own heart removed. In the critical moments of the operation, Washkansky was fed refreshed blood by a heart-lung machine. In five hours it was done, and Washkansky rested, his immunity mechanism deadened by drugs and his body protected by antibiotics. His new heart pumped well and strong. His blood pressure was up, and his blood was guarded by still more drugs against the possibility of clots.

Louis Washkansky's future, after the first critical days, was still a question. Said one South African doctor, "The body could decide in five to 10 years time that it doesn't want this heart."

And his living left questions for society to answer: Where will it end? Who shall judge the conditions for transplanting? Who will safeguard the donor's rights? What if someone important—perhaps a prime minister—were dying and needed a new heart? Who could be certain that a healthy heart was not taken prematurely? And what if two patients were dying and only one heart was available?

Dearborn Gets Florida Facility

DEARBORN (AP)— The city of Dearborn is now the owner of an 88-unit apartment in Clearwater, Fla., which it plans to use as a retirement center for its senior citizens.

The purchase was completed Wednesday when Mayor Orville Hubbard presented a check for $1,051,111 to the Tampa, Fla., office of the Federal Housing Administration, the previous owner.

★ ★ ★

The eight-story apartment tower, now called "Dearborn Towers," is located on an inlet of the Gulf of Mexico. Other features include a swimming pool and boat marina.

Dearborn outbid 27 other prospective buyers in the FHA's Washington office Nov. 14 with an offer of $1,076,111.

The city's bid was accompanied by a $25,000 bond which served as down payment following FHA approval of the offer.

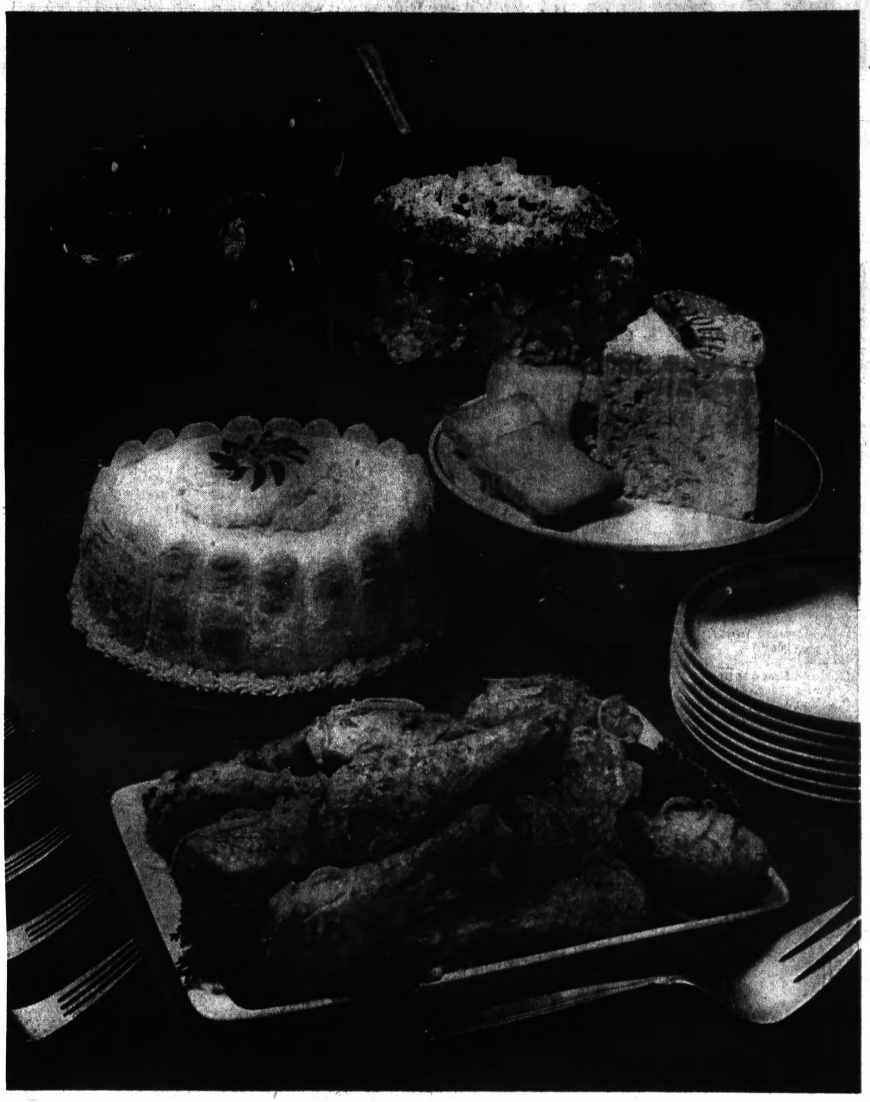
Feasting With Flair



Man's first encounter with raising chickens came about 1000 B.C., and chickens have been turning up at feasts ever since. Now, as then, chicken is a festive treat that adds considerably to the holiday fun when friend entertains friend.

Chicken shows its friendly nature by the company it keeps. On the holiday buffet, for instance, it goes beautifully with other dishes made with canned pineapple, unflavored gelatine and Roquefort cheese. All are the quality foods that add flair to your festive entertaining. There follow two menus that make use of this varied quartet of ingredients.

For your next party, try Chrysanthemum Chicken, a most elegant combination of chicken thighs and drumsticks simmered with juice and herbs. According to the National Broiler Council, chicken parts offer convenience plus, and you can find them at most supermarkets in many combinations. The dish looks elaborate enough for your best buffet — and cooks to perfection in just about a half hour.

With the main course, serve tangy Roquefort and Pineapple Buffet Salad. The salad is a most unusual combination of macaroni with sour cream, pineapple tidbits, Roquefort and other intriguing ingredients. Canned pineapple adds flair to a wide variety of party dishes. It's great as a note of sweet flavor and vivid color in just about any salad you create, for instance.

Roquefort, known as the King of Cheese and Cheese of Kings always has a red sheep seal on its foil. This seal assures you that this cheese is the authentic monarch of all blue-veined cheese, and that it is cured by an age-old process in the caves of Roquefort, France. Serve a bit more of this distinguished cheese after dessert, too.

With such a splendid menu, dessert just has to be special. And that describes Eggnog Charlotte, perfect for the season's entertaining. Into the charlotte go the traditional eggnog ingredients and unflavored gelatine, which provides the molded shape and texture. As for other gelatine dishes, there's little cooking involved — only the few minutes required to dissolve the unflavored gelatine in liquid.

The gelatine dish is molded in a spring-form pan lined with lady-fingers and garnished handsomely with whipped cream, maraschino cherries and chopped pistachios, or anything else you fancy.

For other holiday parties there's an alternate menu, equally spectacular, making use of the same companionable foods. This season, be the hostess with the mostest compliments.

HANGING ON — New York Rangers' Bernie Geoffrion hooks his stick around the waist of Detroit's Floyd Smith (17) during the first period of their game in New York last night. Action occurred near the Rangers' goal as Smith was trying to assist a teammate. No penalty was called. The teams battled to a 3-3 standoff.

Hot 4th Period Triggers Victory Over Chicago

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Pistons staged a 44-point final period to bomb the Chicago Bulls 135-121 and extend their winning streak to four straight in a National Basketball Association game Wednesday night.

It was the Pistons' sixth victory in their last seven games as they halted the Bulls, who had won three straight.

Dave Bing, the league's leading scorer, drilled in 15 of his 40 points during the last quarter flurry to turn the game into a runaway after Chicago had led 63-56 at halftime.

Detroit began its comeback in the third quarter to go ahead 91-90 as Bing tipped in eight points and Jimmy Walker seven.

Walker finished with 24 points while Dave DeBusschere added 26 for the Pistons. Bob Boozer's 30 points were high for Chicago.

STILL IN THIRD

The Pistons are in third place in the NBA's Eastern Division, 2½ games behind the league-leading Boston Celtics and two games behind second place Philadelphia.

Detroit is idle tonight but resumes action Friday against Los Angeles at Cobo Hall.

★ ★ ★

Everywhere else around the NBA Wednesday night, nice, quiet predictable games were moving into the fourth quarter when ala Dave Bing, things began to happen.

Mel Counts pumped in 15 in the fourth quarter as Los Angeles overtook Baltimore 136-125.

Sam Jones got 12 in the fourth period, sparking Boston's 115-113 squeaker over New York. And Billy Cunningham threw in 15 in the final period in Philadelphia's 106-107 comebacker over Cincinnati.

In the American Basketball Association, Indiana edged Kentucky 100-97 in overtime. Anaheim crushed Houston 124-100 and Minnesota beat New Orleans 119-113 in overtime.

HIGH-STEPPERS — Michigan's Willie Edwards (52) hangs in the air as he battles Duke's Steve Vandenburg (in back) for a rebound during the first half of their game in Ann Arbor last night. At right is Michigan's Rich Bloodworth. Duke won the game, 93-72.

Defense Lax as 'M' Falls to Duke, 93-72

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Michigan was swept off its $7.2 million basketball court Wednesday night by a second half Duke surge that netted the Blue Devils a 93-72 victory.

"I can hardly believe it," said a disbelieving Dave Strack, Wolverine coach. "Whatever I said to the team at the half, I better forget it and never say it again.

"There's got to be a key to this club of mine somewhere, We'd better find it fast."

Duke, with a front line averaging 6-feet-7, burst out of a narrow 41-39 halftime lead to outscore Michigan 52-33 in the second half for its second victory without a loss. Steve Vandenberg, a 6-7 junior, scored 13 of his career high 23 points in the second half and senior center Mike Lewis, who led all scorers with 32 points, hit 16 in the final 20 minutes of play.

"Our weakness was defense on the inside," said Strack. "They worked on it and that's the mark of a good team."

Michigan, using a full court press against Duke's zone press, was called for 18 personal fouls to 14 for Duke. But Strack didn't blame the officials for the loss.

"You can't let the calls affect you," said Strack. "You can't blame a loss this big on one or two bad calls."

SOPH STOPPED

Michigan forward Dennis Stewart sat out most of the second half with four personal fouls and Duke held sophomore sensation Rudy Tomjanovich to 14 points, his lowest total this year. Tomjanovich had 14 rebounds in the first half but was cut off with 15 for the game.

Duke ended with a 53-46 edge in rebounding and hit on 37 of 77 floor shots for a 48 per cent shooting edge. The Wolverines managed 27 of 74 field goal attempts for a mediocre 37 per cent.

'68 Nominations Made for 'Hall'

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Football Foundation announced today that 32 former college coaching standouts, including Bud Wilkinson, Frank Leahy and the late Red Sanders have been nominated for induction into the foundation's Hall of Fame in 1968.

Executive director Harvey Harman said that the official ballot, which will include the names of the 32 under consideration, will be mailed out to the foundation's 5,000 members of this week.

In the balloting for 1967 honors, that group selected only one coach, Earle "Greasy" Neale, for entrance into the hall this year.

Among others nominated were Heartly "Hunk" Anderson, who succeeded Knute Rockne at Notre Dame and went on to coach at North Carolina State and Michigan, Jim Tatum, who coached at North Carolina, Oklahoma, and Maryland; and Wally Butts of Georgia.

Wings, Rangers in 3-3 Standoff

Ullman's Tally Deadlocks Tilt; Detroit in Third

NEW YORK (AP) — Norm Ullman's third period goal earned the Detroit Red Wings a 3-3 deadlock with the New York Rangers Wednesday night in a National Hockey League game.

The tie kept the third-place Wings one point ahead of New York in the NHL's East Division race.

Ullman scored the tying goal midway in the final period, sending a rebound home after Ranger goalie Ed Giacomin stopped Bruce MacGregor's shot.

Gordie Howe's rebound shot, from a goal-mouth scramble tied it 2-2 early in the period but Rog Fleming sent the Rangers in front one minute later on a deflection of Wayne Hillman's drive from the point.

BOUNCE BACK

Stunned by Alex Delvecchio's goal in the second minute of play and outshot 18-4 in the opening period, the Rangers bounced back for a 2-1 second period lead on goals by Don Marshall and Jean Ratelle.

Marshall intercepted a pass, swept in on Detroit goalie Roy Edwards and scored on his own rebound, at the 14:49 mark. Less than 1½ minutes later Ratelle slammed the go-ahead goal past Edwards.

Edwards, a 30-year-old rookie, was brilliant in the Wings' cage, stopping 30 shots over the last two periods. Giacomin finished with 31 saves in the Ranger nets.

★ ★ ★

Chicago's Stan Mikita, the defending NHL scoring king, outgunned teammate Bobby Hull four goals to two Wednesday night, leading the Hawks to a 7-2 romp over Pittsburgh that sent them into a fourth-place tie with New York in the East Division.

Minnesota's expansion club played Toronto to a 1-1 standoff, but the tie gave the Maple Leafs a share of the East lead with idle Boston. Los Angeles nipped St. Louis 3-2 and Oakland topped Philadelphia 4-2 in other games.

In registering the first four-goal game of his nine-year NHL career and adding an assist on Hull's second goal of the night, Mikita climbed from 12th to fifth place in the individual scoring race.

Goalies Johnny Bower of Toronto and Gary Bauman of Minnesota hooked up in a brilliant dual on the North Stars' ice. The home club outshot the Leafs 30-18 but both goaltenders came up with spectacular saves during the scoreless third period.

Mike McMahon scored Minnesota's goal on a 50-foot slapshot in the first period and Wayne Carleton connected for Toronto late in the middle session.

CITY'S WELCOME — Coach Bob Duffy of the Pontiac Tomahawks was given a key to the city by commissioner Robert Irwin. Duffy, former college star and coach at Colgate, and ex-NBA player, is head coach of the Tomahawks, the city's new franchise in the North American Basketball League. The T-Hawks join the Pontiac Firebirds of the MFL as Pontiac representatives in minor league pro sports.

Eager Tomahawks Head for Columbus

Their pride suffering but still holding onto third place in the Eastern Division of the North American Basketball League, the Pontiac Tomahawks will travel to Columbus, Ohio Saturday hoping to find a winning combination.

The Pontiac pros are burdened with a 1-4 record after two high-scoring losses to powerful Lansing and Battle Creek, the top two teams in the division.

Columbus is the team the Tomahawks defeated for their high point of the season and Saturday's long trip would be much more enjoyable were they to return with another conquest.

Coach Bob Duffy has conferred with Detroit Pistons' officials this week in hopes of getting rookies Sonny Dove and/or Paul Long on option, thus strengthening the Pontiac squad.

★ ★ ★

Former PNH All-County star Mike Fedynik impressed in his brief appearance last week and may be one of the players who gets a longer look from the youthful mentor against the Comets.

DISSATISFIED

Playmaking and backline defense have been lacking much of the season and Duffy has indicated he isn't satisfied with the efforts of those seeing a lot of playing time.

The absence of Ex-Saginaw star Ernie Thompson last week — he was attending a teacher's conference in Miami — didn't help the Tomahawks' cause.

Joe Maddrey played his best game while Jim Patterson was below par but still scored 20 points and grabbed 18 rebounds. The 6-7 ex-Hamilton High School ace is returning to the scene of his biggest moment.

In 1962 he led the Hamilton Taft High School squad to the Ohio State championship in Columbus. Saturday's game is at the Ohio State Fairgrounds Coliseum.

MSU's Raye Is Selected for East-West Contest

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Michigan State quarterback Jimmy Raye and Michigan offensive tackle Ray Phillips have been maned to the East squad for the 43rd annual East-West Shrine football game Dec. 30.

The scrambling Spartan quarterback led his team to a Big Ten title in his junior season but slipped with the team during his senior year.

Phillips, the only other player from the state to be named, was instrumental in opening holes for junior halfback Ron Johnson, who set a new all-time Wolverine rushing record this season.

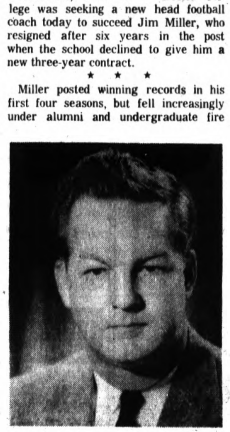
Jim Miller Leaving BC--- Fails to Get Extension

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — Boston College was seeking a new head football coach today to succeed Jim Miller, who resigned after six years in the post when the school declined to give him a new three-year contract.

★ ★ ★

Miller posted winning records in his first four seasons, but fell increasingly under alumni and undergraduate fire during a second straight losing campaign this fall. He said after the announcement that he didn't have any immediate future plans.



JIM MILLER

"I've been too busy thinking of ways to win football games to give any thought to anything else," the 47-year-old coach said at his home in Dover Wednesday night.

"I may stay in football or get into some other business if I get an attractive offer. I know a lot of pro football people and college coaches. Something might turn up."

★ ★ ★

The announcement from the college said the two had "agreed to terminate their relatinnship in an amicable manner," and Miller also indicated no complaints.

EX-U. OF D. COACH

Miller, a native of Massilon, Ohio, was a starting guard for three years at Purdue and captain in 1941. He began coaching at Indiana schools after three years in the Navy, spent three seasons (1959-61) as head coach at the University of Detroit, then came to BC in 1962.

Play at Flint Central

Chiefs Face Best in State

There's nothing like starting Saginaw Valley Conference basketball play against the best in the state.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac Central will do just that Friday at Flint. The Chiefs will meet Flint Central at 8 p.m. in Bellenger field house. And if the host Indians appear to be looking down on the Chiefs it is understandable.

★ ★ ★

Flint Central is tall and experienced. The Indians reached the state Class A title game last spring and preseason ratings say they will be the champion this time around.

Coach Stan Gooch doesn't try to downgrade the team. His only concern is that Pontiac Central will be the opening game for the Indians.

"We are starting much later than normal," he said, "and this will be a factor. Pontiac has played one game and it will help them; We had a scrimmage with another team and it was of some benefit."

Gooch's only lamentation is that "everyone is pointing for us already. And the season hasn't started."

Actually, starting a week later than normal probably has helped the Tribe. In the past they have played their first game right after Thanksgiving and several of the players were just getting the feel of a basketball after playing football.

ONE OF THREE

This happened last year and Pontiac Central handed the Indians one of their three defeats. They won 20.

Gone is the 1-2 scoring punch of Tim Bograkas and Freels Bacon. But Dwight Pinnix (6-4) and Paul Stokes (6-6½) return as cocaptains. Battling for the other starting slot in the front line are letterman Rick Bower (6-6) and junior Ken Brady (6-7).

Ron Pruitt (5-9) returns at guard along with Herb Washington (6-0).

Pontiac Central coach Fred Zittel has been busy trying to correct mistakes made in the opening victory over Roseville.

"We played well at times," he said, "but some of the boys made errors they shouldn't have. Roseville is a good team, much better than a lot of people think."

The Chiefs have a little more height than usual this season, but nothing to compare with Flint Central's towering front line.

★ ★ ★

Rudy Churchwell (6-5) is the tallest. Top scorer Alton Wilson (6-1) and Walter Causey (6-3) will probably be the forwards with Frank Russell (6-2) and Ardell Shelton (5-10) at guard.

★ ★ ★

Len Cole (6-4) could very well move someone out of the starting lineup against Flint Central. The Chiefs make their home debut Friday, Dec. 15, against Bay City Central.

STARTER — Frank Russell will be a starter for Pontiac Central Friday night when the Chiefs take on strong Flint Central at Flint's Balenger fieldhouse.

SENIOR DRAGON — One of the key players in Lake Orion's attack this winter will be Larry VanInwagen, a 6-1 guard-forward, who is a good ball handler and defensive performer. VanInwagen and his teammates invade Rochester for an Oakland A League game tomorrow night.

Big Cage Guns Trained on Tough O-A Targets

The big guns will be trained on a couple of tough targets when action opens tomorrow night in the Oakland A League basketball race.

Lake Orion and Romeo, both impressive in earlier victories, take on league foes and the results should give an indication of how well those two will fare in this year's race.

Orion and Romeo were the preseason favorites in the O-A scramble, and Orion will be after its first league triumph at Rochester, while Romeo has a date at always tough Avondale.

In other O-A games, Troy visits Madison and Utica entertains Clawson.

★ ★ ★

The power is expected to assert itself in the Wayne-Oakland League where a full slate of action is on tap.

EASY ASSIGNMENT

Highly-regarded Northville (2-0) appears to have an easy assignment against twice-beaten Milford (0-2). Holly, 1-0 in league play and 1-2 over-all, is expected to provide a stiff test for West Bloomfield (1-0), the team picked to give Northville a run for the championship.

★ ★ ★

The other two games find once-beaten Clarkston visiting Bloomfield Hills.

Lake Orion, making a bid to regain respectability in the athletic world, has a tall quintet that should hold its own with any team in the rebounding department.

Scoring could be a problem for the Orion crew, however. While the team ran up 76 points in bombing Oxford last week, only forward Bill Foss (6-5) showed any consistency in the shooting department.

★ ★ ★

Rochester is a more formidable opponent than Oxford, so Foss and his mates should get a good workout on the Falcons' court.

Romeo has routed a couple of foes, Marysville and Lapeer, and, like Orion, the Bulldogs have lots of height plus ability to score.

★ ★ ★

It could be a long night for the Avondale Yellow Jackets who are making their first start of the campaign.

Holly, which displayed an ability to come back in the victory over Brighton last week, saw a four-point lead fade in the final 12 seconds of play Tuesday night in a 61-59 overtime loss to Fenton.

West Bloomfield's aggressive Lakers disposed of Clarkston last week, 57-51, coming through with a balanced attack that the Wolves couldn't handle.

The Lakers have a veteran squad, and that, coupled with the home-court advantage, points to a West Bloomfield victory.

Clarkston showed a reluctance to shoot against the Lakers last week, and coach Bud McGrath will likely have the Wolves banging away at the basket a little more often when they invade Hills' Andover.

Andover has a tall quintet capable of keeping defensive pressure on its opponents, which may be bad news for the Wolves.

Grid Aides Quit; Coach Under Fire

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The University of Utah, with five assistant football coaches who've resigned, was expected to take up the future of Mike Giddings, the head coach, Friday at an athletic board meeting.

Giddings, with a 3-7 record not counting Saturday's non-NCAA victory over Hawaii, had no comment on the resignations announced Wednesday by the university athletic department. Giddings has been under fire for weeks over several incidents.

PNH Tankers Splash Past L. Stevenson

Team captain Dave Pennybacker won two events last night in leading Pontiac Northern's swimming team to a 67-38 victory over Livonia Stevenson.

★ ★ ★

Pennybacker won the 200-yard freestyle in 2:02.1 and he turned in a time of 4:29.3 in taking the 400-yard freestyle event.

★ ★ ★

PNH won eight of 11 events in posting its second straight victory of the campaign.

Kevin Dushane took the 100 backstroke for PNH and helped the winning 200-yard medley relay team.

Fought to Wire Last Season

Farmington Tests PNH Hopes

The two teams who fought down to the wire for the Inter-League title last season will tip off the race Friday night at Northern High School.

Farmington's Falcons, who led the I-L title chase until the last game, will visit PNH tomorrow in one of two league openers.

Walled Lake and Livonia Stevenson will test their relative cage strengths on the Vikings' floor, while Waterford Township will travel to Lapeer.

★ ★ ★

Northern (1-1) is favored to wear the I-L crown, again. Most of the key players who sparked the Huskies' 48-45 title clinching win against Farmington in the final game of the 1966-67 race will be ready for duty Friday.

PNH has a 1-1 record in non-league outings while the Falcons, who have never won in Pontiac, are 0-2. New coach Ray Boyle needs to improve their defense.

In two starts, the Falcons have allowed 83 points (to Livonia Bentley) and 71 (to Southfield). Northern has shown an ability to score and is a solid favorite.

Personal fouls have hurt the Huskies, and they were particularly lacking around the backboards in their overtime loss Tuesday at Highland Park — especially when Bob Traylor and Don Hayward ran into foul trouble.

TOUGH TEST

Waterford, the team expected to give PNH the most opposition in the battle for first place, coasted past Milford and will have a sterner test at Lapeer.

The Panthers gave unbeaten Romeo a rough time and are always tougher at home. They will test the Skippers' defense with a run-and-shoot style.

WTHS coach Bob Taylor has two games yet in which to find the combination he wants to use in the I-L race, so some switching can be expected at Lapeer and West Bloomfield (Tuesday).

Walled Lake's new mentor John Oswald had a successful debut against Plymouth last week, winning 55-53 with a final-period outburst. Then Saturday the Rocks edged Stevenson, 78-75.

The home court advantage and the revenge factor — the Vikings were the first team Stevenson defeated in I-L basketball — will also help the Walled Lakers.

But the Spartans showed improvement with their 81-58 rout of Detroit Thurston Tuesday and are confident of bettering their 2-6 record — that put them ahead of Walled Lake — in last year's I-L campaign.

Oxford Wildcats Looking for Improvement on Court

Embarrassed in their opener, Oxford's Wildcats now turn their attention to play in the Central Suburban League and they'll be trying to make their followers forget that fiasco at Lake Orion last week.

The Cats journeyed to Orion for their debut and put up little resistance in dropping a 76-20 decision.

Oxford isn't that bad and the team will be trying to prove it in a game at Harper Woods tomorrow night.

The Wildcats couldn't penetrate the defense of the tall Orion quintet last week, and their shooting was off noticably from all angles.

★ ★ ★

Action continues in the Southern Thumb League with a full slate on tap tomorrow.

THUMB SLATE

Almont (1-0) entertains Armada (1-0), Memphis (0-1) is at Anchor Bay (1-0), Capac (1-0) visits Richmond (0-1) and New Haven (1-0) visits Dryden (0-1).

Imlay City (0-1) will be looking for its first victory in opening the South Central League season at home with Brown City providing the opposition.

Ortonville has dropped two in a row and the Black Hawks will try to get onto the winning side of the ledger against a visiting Hartland quintet tomorrow night.

The Black Hawks are a young squad and their fortunes are likely to improve as the season progresses.

★ ★ ★

Novi will be making its second start in a game at Manchester, while Emmanuel Christian stays home to entertain Roeper School of Bloomfield Hills.

LEAGUE GAME

Royal Oak Dondero, a loser to Warren Cousino Tuesday, plays host to Border Cities League foe Fordson in an effort to rack up its first victory.

★ ★ ★

Elsewhere, Utica Stevenson visits Center Line, Madison Lamphere is at Chippewa Valley, Roseville is at Port Huron Northern, Royal Oak Shrine at Detroit Holy Redeemer and East Detroit at Port Huron.

★ ★ ★

A Saturday encounter will find Cranbrook visiting Culver Military Academy.

Groves' Long Win Streak May End

All streaks come to an end sooner or later and this weekend is likely to see the winning string of Birmingham Groves snapped.

The Falcons have a string of 35 straight victories in regular season play, and come late Saturday night, they'll have made it 37 in a row with wins over Livonia Franklin and Royal Oak Kimball, or they will have lost to one or both and will be starting on a new streak.

★ ★ ★

Chances are they'll be ready to start working on a new streak.

Groves owns a 2-0 record to date, that coming on wins over Seaholm (55-48) and Cranbrook (67-47), but the competition is getting a little tougher and the end of that streak could come at Franklin tomorrow night.

The game at Franklin is the opener for both teams in Northwest Suburban League play and it should give both an idea of what's ahead this season.

★ ★ ★

Kimball has a lot of potential and will making its debut on the Groves floor Saturday night.

OTHER GAMES

Other games in the Northwest loop tomorrow night have Detroit Thurston at North Farmington and Oak Park at Wayne John Glenn.

★ ★ ★

The Raiders of North Farmington, who opened last week with a 44-43 win over Kettering, will also play back-to-back games this weekend.

After tomorrow, the Raiders take on township rival Farmington on the Falcons floor Saturday night.

Birmingham Seaholm, with one victory in three starts, journeys to Hazel Park to open the Southwestern Michigan Association campaign.

★ ★ ★

Ferndale plays host to Southfield in the other SEMA contest.

The preseason forecast is that another banner year is in store for Ferndale's Eagles, state champions two years ago.

EMU Quintet Falls, 102-78

CHICAGO (UPI)—Loyola ran over Eastern Michigan Wednesday night 102-78 despite a 28-g-Tusnmbmbmbmbm point effort by the Hurons' Tuggle Bowens.

★ ★ ★

Loyola took a commanding first-half lead 50-28 largely on the strength of 11 straight points in the closing minutes of the first period.

Bowen's 28 points made him the game's high man. Loyola's Jim Tillman hit 26. No one else was over 13.

The faster, hot-shooting Ramblers made nearly 50 per cent of their field shots. The taller but slower Hurons never were closer than 19 points from Loyola in the second half.

White Sox GM Has Assurance for Shortstop

CHICAGO (AP) — At first, little Looie couldn't believe it.

"You mean I'm coming back to the White Sox?" he asked from his Maracaibo, Venezuela home.

"You bet you are," said General Manager Eddie Short of the Chicago White Sox by long distance phone.

This happened recently. Short made a deal with the Baltimore Orioles that brought Luis Aparicio back to the White Sox at the age of 33.

★ ★ ★

The Sox, thus, turned back the calendar five years to bring back the one-time darling of the Comiskey Park fans.

Little Looie may not steal bases like he used to—only 18 last year—and his .233 average at bat last season doesn't look good. But Short says he is a better and stronger hitter now.

Tennessee Tech Fires Grid Coach

COOKEVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — After 13 years as head football coach at Tennessee Tech, Wilburn Tucker was fired Wednesday.

The faculty committee on athletics recommendation, accepted by the administration, included an offer for Tucker to remain as a full-time instructor in the department of industrial technology.

Parochial Teams Looking for Answers

Answers important to a few local teams should be available after results are in on tomorrow night's action in the Northwest Parochial League.

Orchard Lake St. Mary was the preseason pick to win the title, while the Lakers of Waterford Our Lady were a solid choice to finish near the bottom.

So far, the OLSM quintet has done nothing to indicate that it won't win the title, but the Lakers have shown too much punch for a basement dweller.

Another team looking for answers tomorrow night will be Pontiac Catholic (0-2) and the Titans will be looking for their first win on the OLSM court.

★ ★ ★

Waterford Our Lady, with a 2-0 record, journeys to St. Francis de Sales (1-0). In de Sales, the Lakers will be taking on a squad picked to battle OLSM for top honors.

OTHER GAMES

In the other games on the Friday slate, Royal Oak St. Mary (0-2) visits Farmington Our Lady (1-0) and St. Rita (0-1) entertains St. James (0-2).

★ ★ ★

OLSM's Eaglets dropped their opener to St. Ladislaus, 67-63, but they bounced back last week to trim Ferndale St. James, 47-37.

Greg Fior and Tim Megge provide the scoring punch for the Eaglets.

Most of Pontiac Catholic's offense is wrapped up in forward Sam Brady, meaing the Titans will have to come up with a more balanced effort to stay with OLSM. A loss and the Titans will have their answer: No title this year.

The Titans opened with an 87-69 loss to Redford St. Mary and they were dumped by Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows last week, 56-51.

★ ★ ★

Waterford OLL could be the surprise of the loop, and tomorrow's game should determine just how good the Lakers are.

The Lakers trimmed St. Rita in their opener, 67-57, and turned in a 55-37 decision over Ortonville Tuesday night.

Dennis McCulloch and Brian Haskins provide a sizable share of the scoring fireworks for the Lakers.

CAGE PIONEER — Senior Chuck Clark is a walk-in who made good at Oakland University. He will be one of the starters when the Pioneers play Wayne State Friday night at OU.

Pioneers Host Wayne

Walk-In Benefits OU

Two walk-in players could play key roles for their respective basketball teams Friday night when Wayne State invades Oakland University.

★ ★ ★

Top scorer for the visiting Tartars is Reginald Piggee, a freshman, who enrolled at Wayne last fall after spending six years in the service.

★ ★ ★

Senior Chuck Clark is the unheralded OU player.

A walk-in is an athlete who has not been recruited. He is a student who requests to try out for the team.

Piggee, 6-3, did just that at Wayne. Clark enrolled at Oakland three years ago when the school didn't have a basketball team.

"Chuck was the fifth player at his high school (Blissfield)," said OU coach Dick Robinson. "He didn't score in double figures and being only 5-11 and 145 pounds didn't excite any scouts."

Three years can make a difference. Clark is now 6-2 and weighs around 190. "He also has matured considerably," said Robinson, "and this has helped his play."

INTRAMURAL PLAYER

Clark was playing in the intramural program when OU added intercollegiate basketball with a jayvee schedule last season. He tried out for the team and this season is a regular.

★ ★ ★

He scored 22 points last Saturday in the opening loss to Adrian and was the top rebounder.

Oakland will try for its first varsity victory at 8 p.m. against a Wayne team that has a 1-2 record. The Tartars rolled over Michigan Tech, 75-60, in the opener paced by Piggee's 23 markers and lost to Ferris State, 80-67.

Terry Cupples a 6-4 sophomore, is the other major scoring threat for the Tartars. Marty Goldsmith, a junior transfer from Henry Ford Community College, is the playmaker. He prepped at Ferndale.

Cupples scored 18 last night as Wayne dropped a 76-71 decision to Olivet. The Tartars trailed by six at the half and never could catch up as Olivet won its first in two outings.

Robinson is making some adjustments in OU's offense which he hopes will get the shooting percentage over 40. Against Adrian, the Pioneers were guilty several times of forcing shots and finished with a 35 per cent mark.

The probable starters for Oakland will be Clark, Gordy Tebo, Gary Lincoln, Bob Papak and Jay Shutt.

Oakland's junior varsity will seek its second straight victory in the preliminary game against Wayne State's jayvees starting at 5:50 p.m.

The Pioneers also are home Saturday. They will play defending MIAA champion Kalamazoo.

Niagara's Super Soph Pours In 57 Points; Louisville Trims Kansas

By United Press International

Calvin Murphy looks like he'll be the nation's best "one-man" team this winter.

But when it comes to the regular five-man clubs, the Louisville Cardinals seem ready to challenge UCLA for the No. 1 spot.

★ ★ ★

While Murphy, Niagara's sophomore phenom, pumped in 57 points, almost personally outscoring the entire Villa Madonna team in a 114-66 triumph, the best game Wednesday night was being played before 17,000 fans in Lawrence, Kan.

★ ★ ★

In the first key showdown of the young season, second-ranked Louisville, the class of the Missouri Valley Conference, turned back fourth-ranked Kansas, the defending Big Eight champion, 57-51 in a pressure-packed contest.

NORTH CAROLINA WINNER

The only other team ranked in the top 10 in action was fifth-ranked North Carolina, which turned back Kent State 107-83 despite a 41 point outburst by the losers' Doug Grayson.

Murphy, popping in jump shots from all over the court, hit on 23 of 47 field goals while cracking the old Niagara record of 49 points in a single game set by Al Butler in 1960.

Murphy, who scored 41 points in his varsity debut in a losing cause Saturday night against LIU, has now scored 98 points in two games for an average of 49 points per game.

He may become the first sophomore to lead the nation in scoring since Oscar Robertson turned the trick a decade ago.

The Louisville - Kansas duel was a strategic battle between two clubs who battled in the consolation round of last year's NCAA Midwest Regionals with Kansas winning 70-68.

SEE-SAW GAME

This time, Louisville's 1-2 punch of Wes Unseld and Butch Beard was the difference. Unseld and Beard each scored 20 points in the see-saw game in which the lead changed hands 10 times before Louisville took the lead for good with six minutes remaining on Unseld's layup.

Larry Miller and Rusty Clark scored 24 and 23 points as North Carolina took a 64-37 lead at halftime and breezed to the triumph over Kent State.

Mike Lewis and Steve Vandenberg combined for 55 points as Duke crushed Michigan 93-72. Sub Jim Lewis scored the last three points as West Virginia upset 15th-ranked St. John's 65-63. Lewis' layup with 48 seconds left put the home team ahead 64-63 and he added a foul shot with a second left.

In other games Cornell stunned Syracuse 88-70, St. Bonaventure triumped over Gannon 105-85, Kentucky beat Xavier of Ohio 111-76 and Columbia downed CCNY 79-46.

North Carolina State beat Maryland 65-62, Penn upset Rutgers 71-70, Brown topped Canisius 81-62, New Mexico topped Pepperdine 93-58, Providence beat Assumption 89-80, Army edged Seton Hall 74-70, Virginia Tech beat Wake Forest 71-67, Loyola of Chicago whipped Eastern Michigan 102-78 and Oklahoma City beat SMU 90-73.

Grid Fans Crack Two Attendance Marks in Big 10

CHICAGO (UPI) — Attendance at Big Ten football games surpassed three million for the third straight year, the conference announced Wednesday, with two records set.

★ ★ ★

The 54-game home schedule drew 3,080,445 spectators, an average of 57,045 per game, a new high for total attendance. The full season total of 3,528,587 for 64 games also set a record.

★ ★ ★

Purdue had the highest average attendance, selling out 97 per cent of its seats. Ohio State sold 94.6 per cent while Michigan State had a 90.3 per cent figure.

Wisconsin was low in attendance with 68 per cent.

Routs Highlight Cage Activity

The 'haves' picked on the 'have-nots' last night as teams in Waterford Township's Continental League opened the recreation basketball campaign.

★ ★

Spencer Floor romped past Genesee Supply in the opener, 98-77, Glenn's Auto Sales rolled past Powell's Trucking in the second game, 101-61, and Day's Sanitary No. 1 routed Buckner Finance in the nightcap, 77-51.

Jim Nyberg tossed in 28 points, John Herrington picked up 25 and John Keller added 18 to spark the Spencer Floor attack. The winners led at halftime, 49-31. Sam Diehm led all scorers for the losers with 31 markers.

Glenn's bolted to a 24-5 lead after one quarter and hiked it to 53-22 at intermission. Dick DeWeese topped winners with 21 points, one of five players in double figures for the auto five. Dave Dodd collected 33 for Powell's.

★ ★ ★

Jerry Hill led a balanced Day's Sanitary attack with 24 markers. The winners cruised to a 48-16 edge at halftime and coasted through the second half. Jerry Powell tossed in 22 points for the losers.

Pro Gridiron Playoffs Taking Shape

NEW YORK (AP) — With the Green Bay Packers and Dallas Cowboys already having clinched their division titles in the National Football League, the outline of the post-season playoff schedules in pro football have begun to emerge.

Baltimore and Los Angeles still are battling for the Coastal Division championship but this race could end this weekend. It might carry over to the final game of the season, Dec. 17, when Baltimore plays at Los Angeles. The eventual survivor will play Green Bay Dec. 23 at Milwaukee.

BIG CONTEST

Cleveland and St. Louis meet Sunday at St. Louis in a game that could decide the Century Division and the opponent of Dallas Dec. 24 in the Eastern Conference playoff at Dallas.

The American Football League race also has two races still going. Oakland has the edge on San Diego for the Western Division title but each has three to play. New York and Houston are tied in the East with three to go.

* * *

If the race is decided at the end of the regular season Dec. 24, the AFL title game will be played Dec. 31 in the home city of the Western Division winner Oakland or San Diego. If there is a tie, playoffs between New York and Houston the game will be at New York Dec. 31 with the championship game set back to Jan. 7.

North Squad Signs Talented Roster

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—First-day signings indicate that the North squad being selected for the annual Blue-Gray football game Dec. 30 will bring impressive credentials into the all-star foray.

The first group of North players announced Wednesday consisted of the nation's total offense leader, three all-Big Eight linemen from Nebraska and two players from Notre Dame.

Just hours after it was announced that quarterback Sal Olivas of New Mexico State led the nation's major colleges in collecting yardage, Blue - Gray officials said they had signed him for their game.

AFL HONOREE—Defensive halfback Jack Lentz had two pass interceptions Sunday in helping Denver to upset the New York Jets in the American Football League and the former Holy Cross standout has been named the AFL's Defensive Back of the Week.

Gabriel Key Figure in Rams' Title Plans

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Roman Gabriel, the Los Angeles Rams' No. 1 quarterback, was in action down on the playing field in Memorial Coliseum. Atlanta was putting on a pass rush and the big guy was wallowing around, warding them off. He succeeded and completed the pass.

"Gabriel is the strongest, most powerful quarterback I've ever seen."

The observation came from a man who has seen all the great quarterbacks, college and professional, for some five decades. Clark Shaughnessy.

"Gabriel has developed impressively," added Shaughnessy who incidentally coached the Rams to the Western Conference championship in 1949.

On another recent occasion, another old timer wise in the ways of pro football, George Trafton, a former Ram assistant coach and a member of the professional football's Hall of Fame declared with typical Trafton finality:

"You know who has made the Ram team this year? I'll tell you. The big fellow."

Gabriel, 6-4, a muscular 230, is the big fellow, of course, and he is, if not the sole factor, a vital one in the Rams' resurgence to championship contention this year.

It will be big Gabe, naturally, who will lead Los Angeles against the defending world champion Green Bay Packers Saturday in Memorial Coliseum.

It's a game the Rams must win to keep in the running, one game behind the Baltimore Colts, for the Coastal Division title in the National Football League's western wing.

Grid Buddies in Rival Jobs for AFL Game

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Lou Saban, twice Coach of the Year in the American Football League, and his former assistant who succeeded him at Buffalo, Joe Collier, will coach rival teams in the AFL All-Star game Jan. 21 at Jacksonville.

They were named Wednesday by Milt Woodward, AFL president. Players for the two teams will be named in about 10 days.

Saban, 45, was Coach of the Year in 1964 and 1965 when he led the Buffalo Bills to league championships. He left the pro ranks for one year as head coach at the University of Maryland but returned this season as coach of the Denver Broncos.

Collier, 35, succeeded Saban as Buffalo coach in 1966. He had been an assistant to Saban at Buffalo and before that at Western Illinois University.

England Ties Russians

WEMBLEY, England (UPI — England gained a 2-2 tie with Russia in a soccer match Wednesday night on a second-half goal by Martin Peters. Right winter Igor Chislenko scored both Russian goals in the first half.

Rams, Packers Among Best

Defensive Battle Looms

NEW YORK (AP) — The clash of the Los Angeles Rams and the Green Bay Packers in the Memorial Coliseum Saturday afternoon shapes up as the big defensive battle of the season in the National Football League.

The Rams rank first in rushing defense, allowing an average of 76 yards a game in the first 12 games.

* * *

Vince Lombardi's battle-tested defensive warriors are first in total defense, yielding 230 yards a game, and also first in pass defense, giving up 90 yards a game.

* * *

Los Angeles rates higher than Green Bay on offense although neither club is among the leaders. Baltimore's over-all attack is best with a 374-yard average. Cleveland's running attack is first with 160 yards and Washington's passing barrage has averaged 275 yards. The Rams are sixth in offense and the Packers are ninth.

Pro Leagues Closer to Merger

Soccer Loops Apart in Court Battle

NEW YORK (AP) — Any announcement that the two professional soccer leagues in the United States have merged is premature.

A spokesman for the U.S. Soccer Football Association, governing body of the sport in America, said in London Wednesday that recognition had been extended to the National Professional Soccer League. Last year the USSFA withheld sanction of the NPSL and recognized only its rival, the United Soccer Association.

* * *

Officials of both the NPSL and USA, who declined to be quoted directly, said in New York that any announcement now of a merger was premature. Merger talks between the two leagues have been held up while the NPSL has an $18 million anti-trust suit pending against the USSFA and the USA.

LEAGUES TO MEET

The London announcement was made by Roy Peskett, British representative of the USSFA. He said, "Next week the two leagues will meet Sir Stanley Rous in Zurich, Switzerland, to rectify the agreement."

Sir Stanley is president of the FIFA, the Federation International de Football Association, which is the international governing body of the sport.

Peskett said each league would operate separately and would have 10 teams, with the league champions meeting to determine the North American pro soccer title.

Teams in the NPSL last year were Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Atlanta, Pittsburgh, Oakland, St. Louis, Chicago, Toronto and Los Angeles. Teams in the USA were Washington, Cleveland, Toronto, Detroit, New York, Boston, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Chicago, Houston, Vancouver and Dallas.

The San Francisco situation was clarified recently when the USA team merged with Vancouver.

Devaluation Brings Yanks to Horse Mart

NEWMARKET, England (AP) — American race horse breeders took advantage of the devaluation of the pound and purchased some highly prized mares at Tattersalls' Bloodstock Sales at Newmarket Wednesday.

Mrs. Marion duPont Scott of Montpelier Stud, Va., landed one of the biggest buys, bidding in Lord Carnarvon's mare Ann Boleyn for $41,580.

Ann Boleyn was sired by Tudor Minstrel and has been mated with Reko, the French triple classic winner.

Jeremy Tree's 8-year-old mare heiress, sired by Rockfella, was purchased for Charles Engelhard of Far Hills, N.J. for $34,020.

Another fancied mare, Silk Purse, was bought for $18,900 on behalf of Mrs. Susan B. Fisher of Pharamond Farm, Highland, Mich.

Two more mares were purchased for Michael Ford of Omaha, Neb. — for $18,900 and Yola for $30,240.

GALLIPOLIS, Ohio (UPI) — Tony Bass scored 36 points to lead Rio Grande College to a 113-102 victory over Detroit College Wednesday night.

BOWLING

One more mark stood between John Whitehead and Nick Coates and their quests for 700 series last Friday night at two Pontiac area bowling sites.

Coates rolled a 256-255—697 for Twin Pines Dairy in the Huron Bowl Classic but he couldn't reach 220 and the elusive 700 figure in his third game.

Doug Swords took high game honors that night with 212-268—666 for Herks Auto Supply. Ed Strasiuk had a 265 (660) for Reese's Standard Service.

Bob Chamberlain (215-247—663) had a good night for Cooley Lanes; and West Side Lanes' Tom Keeley registered a 225-256—652.

At Howe's Lanes, the Senior Classic almost had a 700 but Whitehead's 257 final game lacked nine pins of fulfilling its mission. He also had a 232 in rolled a 666.

Mikita Sparks Hawks' Victory

Chicago Romps Past Pittsburgh, 7-2

By the Associated Press

Chicago's Stan Mikita is giving teammate Bobby Hull a run for the money again as the Black Hawks sprint uphill in the National Hockey League race.

* * *

Mikita, the defending NHL scoring king, outgunned Hull four goals to two Wednesday night, leading the Hawks to a 7-2 romp over Pittsburgh that sent them into a fourth-place tie with New York in the East Division.

Minnesota's expansion club played Toronto to a 1-1 standoff, but the tie gave the Maple Leafs a share of the East lead with idle Boston. New York and Detroit battled to a 3-3 deadlock, Los Angeles nipped St. Louis 3-2 and Oakland topped Philadelphia 4-2 in other games.

* * *

In registering the first four-goal game of his nine-year NHL career and adding an assist on Hull's second goal of the night, Mikita climbed from 13th to fifth place in the individual scoring race.

TWIN GUNS IN RESERVE — Oakland Community College coach Don Nichols points with pride to the strong substitutes he has on the Auburn Hills quintet. Two identical reasons for his confidence are twins Don (left) and Ron Kirkwood. Berkley High School graduates, the 6-1, 155-pound forwards have made rapid progress and have seen duty in all four of the Nikes' games.

Both Oakland Community College entries in the Michigan Community Junior College AC basketball Northeastern Division race will see action tomorrow night.

The Auburn Hills quintet (3-1) will attempt to regain first place in the division by entertaining Delta JC at Hazel Park High School.

Game time is 8 p.m. The visitors will come into the game off a 124-76 beating last night by Saint Clair JC, the MCJCAA basketball powerhouse.

The victory tied Saint Clair with Auburn Hills at 2-0 and the Nikes anticipate making it 3-0 tomorrow. Coach Don Nichols, though, must guard against the squad's looking past Delta to next Wednesday's Port Huron trip to meet the high-flying Saint Clair County Skippers.

SEEK FIRST

Highland Lakes's OCC cagers, meanwhile, are anxious to enter the win column Friday against Mercy College in the Cobo Hall preliminary tilt to the Detroit Pistons-Los Angeles game.

The Highlanders have been beaten by Saint Clair and then Concordia Lutheran (nonleague) in their two outings. In addition, coach Lynn Reed has suspended two regulars this week for disciplinary reasons after last Saturday's loss in Ann Arbor.

Last night, Auburn Hills downed Concordia, 103-92, in the prelim to the Pistons' game at Cobo.

Ed Holloman's eight points enabled Auburn Hills to spurt away from Concordia after the game was tied at 81 with three minutes to go.

The former Oak Park star finished with 24 points but teammate Glenn Lehnoff (of Southfield) pumped in 31 for game honors.

Tom Cox grabbed 16 rebounds and added 25 points to the attack. The game was an Inter-Divisional affair and doesn't count in the league standings.

Pros Offer Answers to League Bowlers

Bowling . . . the nation's No. 1 participant sport . . . really comes to life in August and September. This is the time when millions of Americans across the country will begin to think of their 1967-68 league season ahead.

These millions of weekly league bowlers, and oftentimes twice-weekly bowlers, will ask themselves many bowling questions during the year.

What should I concentrate on? When should I correct my movement? Should I practice before the league beings? Should I practice after the league ends?

Les Schissler, one of the nation's top professional bowlers, who only 10 years ago was just beginning his bowling career, gives the answers to a number of the questions that league bowlers will face . . . the same questions he faced during his league bowling days.

Here are his answers:

Q. Should I practice before the league begins bowling?

A. Yes, if at all possible. Bowl one or two games and get the "feel" of the lanes. A league bowler may not have bowled in almost a week and this will help out him in the bowling rhythm. Forget about scoring; just bowl for the proper motion. If possible, bowl on the lanes you will be competing on.

* * *

Q. If my first few balls are not good hits, how long should I wait before correcting my movement?

A. Here is where prior practice will help greatly and give you an early warning about any possible changes in your style. Make only slight adjustments in your style going into the third or fourth frame. Look at your follow through motion first; this is often where the problem can be most quickly solved.

* * *

Q. A bowler may score a terrific game through all 12 frames. Then his next game is a "complete bust." Why?

A. After scoring extra well, a bowler tends to do one of three things immediately in his next game: 1) begins to PRESS to duplicate his score 2) begins to RELAX because he's just scored a big game 3) forgets to CONCENTRATE. If you score a big game, and want to duplicate the feat, DON'T PRESS, DON'T RELAX AND CONTINUE TO CONCENTRATE.

* * *

Q. Shall I practice after a good series? After a poor series?

A. Practice is all-important at any time. It's fine to go ahead and bowl after a good series; knowing your good points and practicing them is essential. But it's still O.K. to practice after a bad series; but forget about keeping score and concentrate on your rhythm and the proper "bowling basics."

Negroes Not Backing Move

Official Discounts Threatened Boycott

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — America's showing in the 1968 Olympic Games won't be impaired by a threatened boycott of Negro athletes, says the president of the U.S. Track Coaches Association.

Carl Cooper, USTCA head and track and field coach at the University of Arizona, predicted Wednesday that the boycott will not gain any momentum and there will be no reduction of the strength of the American squad.

"I do not believe the boycott is a real national threat," Cooper declared. "There may be one or two hotheads, but I don't think it will gain any momentum.

* * *

"Personally I believe all this talk of a boycott has been stirred up by one sociology professor on the San Jose State College campus."

STARTS CAMPAIGN

Cooper was referring to Harry Edwards, former San Jose State athlete and now a professor at the California school. Edwards is credited with starting the boycott campaign.

* * *

"I think that most of the Negro athletes believe as our high jumper, Ed Caruthers, does," Cooper said. "Most of the Negroes believe in the Olympic program and they don't think this is the way to accomplish what they want.

* * *

"It's not wrong for these athletes to seek equal rights for their people, but it's wrong to do this by sabotaging the Olympic Games. It's dead wrong.

"Those of us in the Olympic program are only interested in the performance of athletes and I hope it never comes to a time that race, color or creed enters the Olympic movement."

Ex-Pilot Led Way to Space

'Laid Groundwork for Modern-Day Flights'

MARIPOSA, Calif. (UPI) — An 80-year-old retired test pilot claims little knowledge about outer space, but boasts of having helped men get there.

Retired Air Force Col. John A. Macready, veteran of two world wars and at one time an Army test pilot, said he "helped establish the groundwork which led to the space flights of today."

Macready, enjoying retired life on a hillside ranch 10 miles east of this central California community, held the world altitude, endurance and distance records for fixed wing aircraft 45 years ago.

On Sept. 28, 1921, Macready set an altitude record of 34,509 feet while flying a LePere airplane over Dayton, Ohio.

★ ★ ★

"Flying at that height in those days was just as mysterious as going into outer space today," he reminisced.

EARLY HAZARDS

The current altitude record, held by the X15 rocket plane, is above 67 miles.

"There were so many uncertainties up there and we had no idea what to expect," Macready said.

"Even though the discoveries we made are considered commonplace and taken for granted now, our experiments and efforts were the first steps into space."

★ ★ ★

He said sub-zero temperatures and a lack of oxygen were the most dangerous problems that plagued test pilots of his day.

ENDURANCE RECORD

In 1922 Macready and co-pilot, Oakley G. Kelly, flew a Fokker T2 plane for 35 hours and 18 minutes while circling San Diego, Calif. to establish an endurance flight record.

"It was merely a matter of staying in the air," he said.

"We had taken off from San Diego and discovered the plane would not make it over the Sierras because it carried too much fuel. We turned back and flew around San Diego until we could land."

Thr following year Macready's 26-hour and 50-minute flight from New York's Roosevelt Field to San Diego proved the feasibility and safety of flying nonstop across the United States four years before Charles Lindbergh's more famous flight across the Atlantic.

Today the plane Macready flew for his distance and endurance records is on display in the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C.

But Macready still modestly asserts: "I was a test pilot and just did my job."

Adults Enjoy the Christmas Season, Too

By The Associated Press

What's the mystery of Mr. Claus? Why is this rather stout, long-bearded gentleman, always adorned in red, so eagerly awaited?

Just ask any child who has been "good as gold" all year. Sant's traditional arrival on his supersleigh, filled with the goodies requested, is the big moment of that year.

But what about adults? Is Christmas only for kids?

Complaints to the contrary, adults enjoy the hustle and bustle of Christmas shopping.

★ ★ ★

The sounds of carols and bells, the scents of trees and greens, the sight of glowing lights and gaily-wrapped gifts more than balance the time and effort it takes to come up with the justright gift for everyone on the list.

Planning, preparing, shopping for Christmas may sometimes be tiring — but it's also inspiring. And that's because of this fellow, Santa!

Today, Santa is a symbol, very much alive in the minds and hearts of children and grown-ups alike.

He is a symbol of unity, gaiety and, most of all, generous giving.

The idea of Santa is a happy and light-hearted one, but because giving at Christmas represents the giving of one's self through gifts, the Santa-symbol is linked, too, to the deeper spiritual meaning of Christmas.

Slavic Yule: 2 Holidays and 2 Santas

BELGRADE (UPI) — In Slovenian Catholic homes children awake on Christmas morning to find the presents that Bozicek (Santa Claus) has left under the tree.

In Serbian Orthodox homes, a youngster burns a yule log in the kitchen oven and recites couplets expressing good wishes for the family. But there is no Santa Claus, no Christmas tree and no presents.

In Communist homes throughout the country, Christmas officially doesn't exist but something very much like it takes place on New Year's Day.

The celebration is immensely varied in Yugoslavia — between different parts of the country, between city and village and between believers and nonbelievers.

★ ★ ★

Although Communist authorities do not recognize Christmas, they tolerate it. Last year record shops were allowed to sell Christmas sacred music for the first time, and they did a booming business despite some grumbling from loyal party members.

The first Christmas in Yugoslavia is the Catholic Christmas December 25, observed mostly in Slovenia and Croatia. It follows the pattern of Christmas in Western countries.

On Christmas Eve, families gather around the Christmas tree and a creche made of gypsum, wood, paper or clay, then go to midnight mass.

After Mass, they have a short meal consisting of meat, bread, wine and slivovitz (plum brandy).

★ ★ ★

Presents are opened under the Christmas tree after the family arises on Christmas morning, and turkey or roast chicken provides the main course for Christmas dinner.

NO YULE TREES

In villages, Christmas trees are not part of the tradition and Catholic children put boots in the window to be filled with presents. Villagers also usually dine on suckling pig instead of poultry.

Merchants are not allowed to put up Christmas decorations, but in Slovenia and Croatia the Catholic shopkeepers easily get around this by putting up "New Year decorations" and "New Year trees" about December 23 or 24.

Elsewhere in the country, decorations go up just before New Year's Day, which the Communists promote as the big holiday of the season.

★ ★ ★

On New Year's Eve, or earlier, the Communist-sponsored Deda Mraz (Grandfather Frost), who looks exactly like Santa Claus, passes out gifts to children at places where their fathers work.

Project Grows at Berkeley

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Nearly 400 special education students from minority backgrounds have enrolled this fall at the University of California's Berkeley campus.

The figure is more than double the total enrolled last year.

The students were enrolled under the campus Educational Opportunity Program which provides assistance in three key areas.

First the students are helped in gaining admission. Then they are given whatever financial or academic assistance is necessary to stay at the university.

★ ★ ★

About 65 per cent of the students are "special action" cases admitted as exceptions to entrance requirements.

DISCRETIONARY BASIS

State regulations allow the university and the state colleges to admit 2 per cent of freshmen and transfer applicants on a discretionary basis.

A university spokesman said performance among last year's "special action" students was "the highest of any risk group yet admitted to the university."

The total group finished the first quarter with 52 per cent doing "C" average work or better. By the third quarter 67 per cent were doing as well.

Nearly all the 400 students enrolled this year are undergraduates, divided about equally between freshmen and continuing students. About half are over 22 years old.

Wife's Present a Yule Ordeal

'Women Never Know What They Want'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of life's little ordeals for a husband is finding out what to give his wife for Christmas.

The rest of the year the average housewife is only too explicit in expressing her wants.

But at the approach of Yuletide wives suddenly elect to become mysterious.

"And what do you want Santa Claus to bring you, dear?" asks the husband.

'NOTHING AT ALL'

"Oh, nothing—nothing at all," replies the wife.

So, if you're the husband, you start using the kids as intermediaries in the matter.

* * *

"Find out if your mother wants a bottle of perfume."

Back comes their report: "Mama don't want no perfume. She says she'd just as soon go on using that after shave lotion you won on a punchboard."

"How about a nice big electric blanket?"

"Mama says our electric bills are already too high."

PLASTIC SUB?

You begin to get exasperated.

"Ask your mother," you tell the kids ironically, "whether she'd like a one-man plastic submarine. I can get one for $15,000 that's a bargain."

* * *

"Oh, boy, Pop, that's a great idea!" the kids yell. But they later report back dolefully:

"Mom don't want no submarine. She says you know that she can't swim and that, besides, it gives her claustrophobia even to hang up clothes in the closet, let alone going for a ride in a submarine."

Finally, take your problem to a neighbor.

DON'T BE PRACTICAL

"Of course your wife said not to buy her something that was silly and expensive," he says with a superior air. "So did my wife.

"But the last thing any wife wants for Christmas is anything that's practical. I'm buying my wife a silk evening stole decorated with rhinestones handpainted by a noted artist who once shook hands with Picasso."

So, on the last shopping day before Christmas, you hasten to the department store. They don't have any rhinestone-studded silk evening stoles. Panic grabs you.

"But we do have—marked down to $127.49 from $350—a lovely house robe made of genuine African ostrich feathers," says the salesman. "It's the only one we have left in stock."

Well, Christmas morning your wife breaks down and cries when she sees her ostrich-feathered houserobe.

"It's the one thing in life I've always wanted," she says, then adds reproachfully: "But you shouldn't have—it looks so terribly expensive."

* * *

Along about February when you ask why she isn't wearing it, she answers:

"It was beautiful but awfully impractical. I exchanged it for a hair dryer and a new set of dishes."

Most in Poll at Princeton OK Viet War

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Fifty-four per cent of Princeton students responding to a poll on Vietnam felt United States involvement there could be justified, it was announced today.

Also, 27 per cent of the 1,800 respondents to the poll distributed last October believed the bombing of North Vietnam should be escalated.

One-third favored immediate termination of the bombing, 17 per cent advocated immediate, unilateral withdrawal of American troops, while 7.8 per cent advocated an invasion of North Vietnam.

N-WEAPON USE

Nearly 11.5 per cent would condone the use of nuclear weapons in the conflict.

Some 9.2 per cent indicated they would refuse to serve in the U.S. Army if drafted, while 11 per cent said they would volunteer for service in Vietnam if drafted.

The poll was distributed to Princeton's 3,200 undergraduates by the American Whig Cliosophic, a student political debating group.

Shutterbug Tours Globe to Glean Recipe Settings

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

William Lanyon, a New York art director - turned - photographer, traveled 49,000 miles to 25 countries on five continents in search of food.

★ ★ ★

No, it wasn't a case of hunger, or a jaded palate seeking exotic fare; it was merely a last-minute photo assignment for a unique cook book: picnic recipes around the world photographed in authentic settings.

The idea itself was the brainstorm of Mary Ann Zimmerman, a former magazine editor who specialized in articles on food, decorating and gardening subjects.

It grew out of her personal experiences in devising palatable picnics while traveling in Europe with her three sons.

★ ★ ★

It was more economical than dining out and it was more practical in so many countries where the dinner hour starts very late. She found she could make tasty picnic snacks with native specialties and started collecting recipes.

FOOD PHOTOS

When a publisher approved the idea of the global picnic recipe search, Mrs. Zimmerman insisted on one point: authentic, on - the - spot color photos to go with the native foods.

She wanted none of the elaborate studio set-ups usually used by commercial photographers with artificial atmosphere.

Fortunately, Lanyon also was an advocate of on - location shooting with natural backgrounds and they had worked together previously on a magazine and on free-lance projects.

★ ★ ★

The worldwide food and photo safari posed many problems but advance preparations and instant improvisations surmounted adverse weather and lighting conditions, language difficulties and an inflexible time schedule and itinerary.

COLORFUL BOOK

The result of the partnership is a colorful, appetizing "Tupperware Book of Picnics, Parties & Snacks Around the World" by Mary Ann Zimmerman and photos by William Lanyon. It is a paperback published by Banjamin Co./Rutledge ($1), distributed by Simon & Schuster, and has 209 recipes from 25 countries illustrated by 60 pages of color photos.

Lanyon's equipment consisted of two Rolleis, a Mamayaflex with three extra lenses and two hand-held light meters for careful checking of exposures.

He shot throughout with Ektachrome X for color and Panatomic X for fine-grain black and white. Film for the entire trip was distributed throughout the luggage and was never questioned by customs officials.

★ ★ ★

As a tourist, there were no restrictions imposed on Lanyon. If he had indicated he was a photographer coming to take pictures, he would have found himself entangled in red tape in many countries and required to get a work permit.

HECTIC PACE

Since he was never longer than two or three days in any one city, Lanyon was never able to check on his exposures or shooting by having a roll of film processed. But he checked his cameras constantly to make sure the shutters worked properly and weren't sticking.

"We went from the extreme cold of the Swiss Alps to Rome where we hit a rainy spell," he recalled, "and from there to the heat and humidity of Bangkok and I didn't dare take chances with a shutter sticking.

"On the last exposure of most rolls of film, I'd look into the lens and watch the diaphragm as I clicked the release. If the shutter opened and closed, I didn't care how out-of-focus or distorted my face photographed."

★ ★ ★

"I tried to capture the flavor of a city, as well as of the food, in the photographs. It was raining in Rome so I set two pies on a ledge outside the hotel window and shot from the safety of the room.

IMPROVISATION

In Dublin, when two special dishes were prepared, it was raining in torrents and far too gloomy for any outdoor picture, and we had a plane to catch. I found a Dublin poster in the hotel and arranged the two dishes on it as a substitute for outdoor realism. One has to improvise in emergencies."

★ ★

It seems to me that if Lanyon's food photographs aren't a tasty testimonial to a successful venture . . . I'll eat them all! In the original, of course!

Key Won't Work in His Car Now

BOWLIN GGREEN, Ky. (AP) —Frank Long walked out of his home Wednesday, car key in hand and ready to drive to work.

The key didn't do him any good: Somebody has stolen the car door.

Flying Femme Blows Cool

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Jean Saile, Pontiac Press reporter, wife of a commercial artist and mother of six children, is taking flying lessons. This is the 16th in a series of articles on her impressions on flying.)

By JEAN SAILE

The image of an unflappable, cool and dashing, quick-on-the-uptake woman pilot has been shot down.

MRS. SAILE

My self-appointed goal for soloing has come and gone and I am still dependent on dual instruction.

Fourteen hours of air instruction passed, and while I executed several successful landings, I also flubbed quite a few.

I guess piloting to me is going to be like piano practice was many years ago — many hours of hard work on the arpeggios and finally a successful presentation.

* * *

I learn one step at a time — none of this everything suddenly falling into place for me.

'CONDITIONS WORSE'

"You were better — much better," said Art Trowbridge. (God bless all confidence-building instructors.)

"Flying conditions were three times worse than the last time you flew, and yet you got in several successful landings," he continued.

Okay. But those bubbles — those airy hops into space — my too-quick grab at the yoke and the succeeding reflex that puts the nose wheel down first — leave very little of the glamor of flying to soothe my ego.

"You're going to be all right — as long as the nose wheel holds out," said Trowbridge.

ITEM OF CONCERN

Nose wheels apparently have a habit of snapping off if hit too often with the full impact of the plane's weight.

This is an item that concerns Trowbridge considerably. It also concerns me, but it doesn't do much for my flying skill.

We were using the short runway at Pontiac - Oakland and entering from the southwest — my first experience in this direction.

* * *

The sudden appearance of a pond and a considerable incline right at the approach to the runway shot the first landing.

'LEVEL IT OFF'

The second was really pretty good. On the third I jerked the wheel too quickly — we bounded into a climb attitude — Trowbridge said, "Level it off, get it down!" — I said "I'll never make it!" — He said, "Yes, you will," — and somehow we were down.

Again the next landing was better. The lesson proceeded in such a manner until Trowbridge asked for clearance to use the long runway which meant landing into a considerable crosswind.

Me? Today? Land into a crosswind?

* * *

"Slip it in," ordered the instructor. "Get that wing down into the wind. Use opposite rudder. Hold it straight. You're doing fine. Watch that wing! Hold it straight!"

I did it. I slipped into a crosswind landing. The plane was on a diagonal path when we hit the runway, but we hit the runway! And we stayed on it!

Hallelujah!!!

Open Housing Bill Has Varied Meanings

By JANE DENISON

LANSING (UPI) — What would open housing mean to you? Not emotionally, but realistically?

That depends on a lot of things—whether you're a buyer or a seller, a renter or a landlord, a member of the majority or a minority, discriminating or discriminated against.

"Open housing" is a catch-all phrase for a 25-page bill Gov. George Romney and leaders of both parties feel is necessary to insure all Michigan citizens the right to buy or rent property they can afford.

To do this, the House Civil Rights Committee has recommended passage of a bill that will be ready for debate when the Legislature returns Dec. 12.

* * *

It is designed to ban discrimination in real estate transactions on the basis of race, color, religion or national origin. The system devised to do this is a complex one.

It would work like this:

● Who's Covered?

Any person, group or business — with just five exceptions — seeking to sell or rent property would be barred from discriminating.

You would be exempt if you rent the other half of a duplex in which you live; if you rent rooms in your home; if you rent or sell without publicly advertising the property; or if you sublease for not more than one year.

In addition, a religious group would be allowed to give preference to members of that faith when dealing in real estate. They could not discriminate on other grounds.

● What's Forbidden?

Unless you were exempted, you could not refuse to negotiate or to engage in a real estate transaction because of race, color, religion or national origin.

*

That ban would extend to showing property, handling mortgage applications for housing or home improvement; "blockbusting," and retaliating against someone for complaining of bias.

PRACTICES

Each of these acts is described as an "unfair housing practice." In all, 30 unfair housing practices are described.

The bill is so worded that if you wanted to sell or rent, you couldn't stake a sign on your lawn to be free to discriminate. You would have to comply with the law.

● Who Would Enforce This?

The State Civil Rights Commission (CRC) would be the watchdog agency, although if you believe you are the victim of discrimination, you could go either to Circuit Court or to your local civil rights commission.

You could complain only to one agency or to one court, and not to two or three.

* * *

● How Would The CRC Act?

If you feel you have been discriminated against, you would have 90 days to file a formal complaint with the CRC. If the CRC or the attorney general find out about discriminatory actions, they could file on their own.

ACTUAL DEAL

If you complain, you would have to swear you were actually trying to close a deal and not trying to harass or entrap the owner or broker. If you are complained against, you would be notified and given time to reply.

Once the complaint is filed; the CRC would investigate and could get court authority to inspect the property and gather evidence. If the CRC did not believe the complaint were justified, it would be dismissed.

If the CRC found sufficient grounds, however, it would try to erase the wrong by "conference, conciliation or persuation." If conciliation failed, the CRC would issue a formal charge and more courtlike procedures would begin.

* * *

The CRC could at any time go to court for an injunction to halt the alleged unfair housing practice. It would hold a formal hearing. It could issue subpoenas as requested by either side.

CRC ORDER

After the hearing, the CRC would order you to stop the unfair housing practice. It could issue other "appropriate orders," including transfer of the property and reporting in compliance with its orders. It could also require you to post notices at your place of business.

In addition, the CRC could ask the Circuit Court to order you to pay damages to the person you discriminated against. The court would decide the amount.

If you are a builder, a real estate broker or salesman, the CRC could ask the court to fine you up to $1,000 for a first offense and up to $2,000 for violating a previous commission order. It could also tell your licensing agency of any offense and your license could be suspended or revoked.

State Bars Hard Liquor Until 12 New Year's Eve

LANSING (AP) — New Year's Eve celebrants in Michigan will have to do without hard liquor until the New Year actually arrives this year.

But once the clock strikes midnight on Sunday, Dec. 31, bar patrons not only will be able to purchase hard liquor, but will have an extra two hours in which to drink it.

★ ★ ★

The State Liquor Control Commission has sent a directive to all retail licensees and enforcement agencies outlining the policy for New Year's Eve — which falls on a Sunday this year.

The directive pointed out that, in keeping with Michigan law, only beer and wine — but not hard liquor — may be sold on Sunday.

USUALLY 2 A.M.

Under the law, bars normally may sell hard liquor from midnight Sunday until 2 a.m. Monday — the hour at which sales are halted. An extra half hour is allowed for clearing the premises, but bars must be closed by 2:30 a.m.

In view of the circumstances, the commission has ordered that the rule prohibiting sale and serving of alcoholic beverages for consumption on the premises after 2 a.m. be suspended until 4 a.m.

★ ★ ★

The extension of hours of operation will be in effect throughout the state unless otherwise prohibited by local ordinance, the commission said.

The extension does not, however, apply to licensees selling packaged beer and wine and hard liquor.

IT'S THE PRESIDENT CALLING — Marika Wilson, (right) 16, of Livermore, Calif., shows how she and her friends lined up to talk to President Johnson Tuesday. Marika said they had spent a dollar phoning the White Hounse to hear President Johnson's voice in a recorded message. Instead they got Vice President Humphrey. Marika and her companions then sent a letter of protest, which prompted the President's call.

Protest Letter Brings LBJ Call

LIVERMORE, Calif. (AP) — President Johnson personally telephoned greetings Tuesday to Marika Wilson on her 16th birthday.

It happened because Marika and three young companions sent a protest letter to the White House.

★ ★ ★

Marika said they had spent a dollar phoning the White House number to hear President Johnson's voice in a recorded message.

Instead they heard the recorded voice of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

NOT ALWAYS POSSIBLE

Marika said a White House letter had explained that the President couldn't always tape the daily message for the phone call recording. Other important people then would substitute, it said.

Marika said she and her friends replied that the recording phone shouldn't respond if the President personally didn't tape the message. "You feel you've wasted your money," she explained.

A White House staff member phoned the James R. Wilson home on Monday. He told Mrs. Wilson the President wanted to call and talk to the children—Marika, her sister, Tasia, 11, her brother, Peter, 9, and Holly Sikes, 15, a friend who invested 25 cents in the first phone call.

"Oh, have him call tomorrow. It's Marika's birthday," exclaimed Mrs. Wilson.

STANDING BY

All the kids were by the phone when the President called at 7 a.m.

"He told us he agreed everyone should get his money's worth."

'Gunsmoke' Reloads, Gets City Slickers

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD For a television series once deemed dead and buried, "Gunsmoke" is showing amazing life.

THOMAS

Earlier this year CBS announced that the veteran Western had run its course and was being put out to pasture. Then the network changed its mind and said the series would come back for its 13th season-on Monday night at 7:30. That seemed to the trade like a death sentence, since the early evening juvenile audience was not likely to take to an adult Western.

★ ★ ★

"I thought we would lose in the new time slot," admits "Gunsmoke" producer John Mantley. "At 7:30 the children are supposed to control the set. And we were up against 'The Monkees' and Chuck Connors with animals—'Cowboy in Africa.'

"I was astonished when the first ratings showed us ahead of the other two. I had hoped to start low and then build. Instead, we started high and have climbed. In one recent rating we were No. 6, and no one could have been more surprised than I."

BIG-CITY VIEWERS

Mantley, asked to analyze the performance, theorized that perhaps the show is now getting the big city audience.

"The pattern of our ratings on Saturday was always the same," he said. "We were seldom in the top 30 of the 30-city Nielsen. But we leaped up in the national ratings. That meant we had a small urban audience, but a large one among suburban and rural viewers.

★ ★ ★

"That doesn't seem the case on Monday nights. We seem to get city viewers who found it inconvenient to watch Saturday because they were entertaining or going out."

Mantley believes the quality of "Gunsmoke" has never been higher, largely because the shows have been "heavy Matt." He explained that the shows are categorized as "heavy Matt" or "light Matt," depending on the involvement of Jim Arness, who plays Matt Dillon.

'HEAVY MATT' EARLY

"Jim likes to do the 'heavy Matt' shows at the beginning of the season, since they involve a lot of action and he likes to get that out of the way," said the producer. "They are usually the best shows, because 'Gunsmoke' is Matt Dillon, and vice versa.

"Usually the 'heavy Matts' are spread throughout the season. But this year CBS decided to put them on early. That's why the shows have been so good."

'Japanese Realized Defeat by 1944'

TOKYO (UPI) — The Japanese warlords who made Dec. 7, 1941, a day of infamy realized by 1944 they had lost World War II, according to the newly found diary of Prince Konoye.

Konoye said in his 74-page diary, published today in part by Tokyo newspapers, that the successful U. S. invasion of the island of Saipan convinced Emperor Hirohito's warriors that America had beaten them.

"But none of the Army and Navy leaders have the courage to state their conclusion publicly," he wrote.

Konoye would have known what they said in private. Three times before Pearl Harbor he served as Japanese Prime Minister. As Japan roared toward war, Konoye was the last Tokyo leader to try to stop it. In the summer and early fall of 1941 he tried to arrange a summit conference with President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

★ ★ ★

Washington wanted signs of Tokyo's good faith. Gen. Hideki Tojo, Konoye's war minister, said no. Konoye quit in October and Tojo attacked Pearl Harbor.

WRONG ONE WAY

But in his diary Konoye was wrong about Saipan in one way.

"If the enemy (the United States) starts operating from its bases in Saipan, the whole country will come under the orbit of bombing by the enemy.

"The Japanese Navy may become inert and the enemy may land on Japan. In that case . . ." he wrote darkly.

Actually the fall of Saipan — the last survivors of a 30,000-man garrison made a final suicide charge July 7, 1944 — led directly to the U. S. conquest of other Marianas Islands, Tinian in particular. It was from Tinian 13 months later that B29 superfortresses flew the missions that dropped atomic bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

★ ★ ★

The diary, discovered by a clerk rummaging through old documents, says that Japanese leaders in 1944 were toying with various ways for ending the war in an honorable fashion.

TO ARMAGEDDON

Konoye leaned toward sending the fleet out to a Pacific Ocean Armageddon and using news of the certain defeat as the cushion on which to present the Japanese public a surrender statement from the emperor. "It isn't too bad an idea," he said.

Lighthouse Staff Removed Before Lake Freezes

HOUGHTON (AP)—Lighthouse staff members from the Rock of Ages, southwest of Isle Royale, and the Huron Islands, west of Marquette, were removed by Coast Guard cutter Wednesday in anticipation of the winter's freeze of Lake Superior.

For the first time, however, crews at lighthouses on Passage Island and Manitou Island will remain until the end of December.

Due to the extended navigation program now prevailing in good weather on Lake Superior, there is still considerable shipping by larger type ships.

The lightkeepers will be removed by helicopter around Dec. 30.

Stokely: Want U. S. to Lose in Vietnam

PARIS (UPI) — Stokely Carmichael set about preaching black power to Parisians today after authorities took his name from a list of "undesirables." Cheering Frenchmen heard him call for a U.S. defeat in Vietnam.

The first thing he did after release from 12 hours of detention at Orly Airport was tell 3,000 persons at an antiwar rally that he would like to see America lose the Vietnam war.

"We do not want peace," the 25-year-old black power advocate shouted. "We want the Vietnamese to defeat the United States." The crowd roared its approval.

State Okays Teacher Permit Extension

LANSING (AP) — Working down to the wire, the State Board of Education gave its final approval Wednesday to a proposed change in the Teacher Certification Code which would extend 60-day and 90-day teaching permits.

The change, aimed at cutting a reportedly critical shortage of fully certificated teachers in the state, still needs a final check by Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley and the signature of Gov. George Romney.

Current 60-day teaching permits expire Friday. Without the change, those working under 60-day permits would be teaching illegally if they continued in their classrooms after that date, or the districts in which they taught would be liable for financial penalties.

In other action, the board approved 1968-69 budget requests for the State Department of Education and community colleges.

Conductor to Quit

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Carl Karapetian, conductor of the Grand Rapids Symphony Orchestra the past four years, announced Wednesday his resignation effective the end of the current season. He plans to make guest appearances with other orchestras next season.

State Court Nixes Lawyer Press Curbs

LANSING (AP)— A proposed set of rules governing the amount of information to be released by lawyers involved in criminal cases has been turned down by the Michigan Supreme Court.

The proposal, submitted by the commissioners of the State Bar of Michigan, would have revised the Canons of Professional Ethics governing the conduct of attorneys.

By a unanimous 8-0 decision, the high court refused to consider the proposed revision. It made no comment on its action.

Under the State Constitution, Michigan's Supreme Court establishes the rules under which all courts are operated.

By OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

There is no bonus for playing too fast, and the higher the contract the more desirable it should be to stop and work out your best line of play.

JACOBY

The game was rubber and East was faced with quite a problem at his first turn to bid. Should he sacrifice at six spades or should he hope to beat the diamond slam? Eventually, East decided to try for a plus and passed.

West thought of doubling but came to the conclusion that his ace and king of spades weren't guaranteed tricks. He was quite happy that he hadn't doubled when he saw the dummy.

South looked over dummy for all of one second. Then he ruffed the spade; led the queen of diamonds, drew trumps, lost the club finesse and a spade trick when East took his king of clubs and led back a spade.

South asked, "Could I have made the hand, and was my play correct?" The answer to the first question is "Yes" and to the second "No."

South's line of play based his chance of success on the location of the king of clubs. The correct line of play would make the hand irrespective of the location of the king of clubs, provided nothing broke to badly.

At trick two South should have led dummy's ace of clubs and continued with another. East would be in with his king but would be unable to do anything about getting a second trick for his side.

If East had held three clubs to the king he might well duck the second club on the theory that South, not West, started with the club singleton. If he did go up and did lead a third, club, South would have to decide about how to play the diamonds. If West held the three clubs to the king, South would not have been worried at all.

Knife Surgery Fails; Pilot Dies

LOWELL (UPI)—A pilot died near the wreckage of his single-engine plane last night despite efforts of a physician who performed an operation with a pocket knife in an attempt to save his life

★ ★ ★

Sheriff's deputies said the plane crashed in a wooded area of a marsh about 15 miles east of the Kent County Airport after circling over a group of houses several times.

The pilot, identified as Lee Normen Sanborn, 45, Grand Rapids, crawled part way out of the wreckage, then collapsed.

★ ★ ★

The swampy ground prevented rescuers from bringing an ambulance close to the plane, so police put the injured pilot on a stretcher and had just started to carry him out of the marsh when a doctor arrived at the scene.

Architect Resigns Cathedral Post Over 'No Control'

COVENTRY, England (AP) — Sir Basil Spence, who designed Coventry Cathedral, has resigned as its consultant architect after a clash with the provost, the Very Rev. Harold Williams.

Spence said Wednesday night he found it "impossible" to work with the provost.

★ ★ ★

The trouble came to a head when the cathedral hired local architects to remove oak panelling from the bishop's room as maintenance.

"They are planning to rip out the wonderful oak panelling and they call it maintenance," Spence told newsmen. ". . . For the past five years I have been absolutely on the rack, never knowing what was happening and with no proper control on what went into the building.

Airlift Will Muster 101st Month Early in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The decision to airlift 10,000 troops to Vietnam from Ft. Campbell, Ky., represents a speedup in original plans for their deployment to the combat zone, it was learned today.

* * *

Though costly, the airlift is advancing by at least a month the date when the 15,000-man 101st Airborne Division can be reunited and fully combat-ready in Vietnam. A formal announcement to this effect is expected when the airlift is completed.

One brigade of the 101st has been in Vietnam since July 1965, Giant C141 transports began the airlift of the rest of the division Friday and the operation is scheduled to be completed within the week.

With 373 flights and approximately 22,000 flying hours involved, the cost of the airlift was estimated at $17.5 million, or $1,750 per man if the planes returned to the United States empty. The cost of flying a C141 is $803 an hour.

* * *

The airlift was planned before Gen. William C. Westmoreland's recent visit to Washington, but Pentagon sources said this was the kind of speedup action he had in mind when he said he would like to have the rest of his troops as soon as possible.

Levin Seems Shoo-In for Dem Post

LANSING (AP)—With no opposition in sight and support of top party leaders assured, State Sen. Sander Levin appeared today to be a virtual shoo-in as Michigan's next Democratic state chairman.

The 36-year - old Berkley attorney said Wednesday that he would be a candidate to succeed Zolton Ferency, who announced his resignation last week after nearly five years as party chief.

* * *

The Democratic State Central Committee meets Dec. 17 in East Lansing to elect a successor to Ferency, whose refusal to support renomination of President Johnson and criticism of national party policies caused a party furor.

Levin's announcement drew statements of support from such party leaders as former six-term Gov. G. Mennen "Soapy" Williams and the state's two top elected Democratic officials Secretary of State James M. Hare and Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley.

'A LEADER'

Both Williams and Hare said they viewed Levin, now serving his second term in the Senate, as a leader who could pull the party together.

"Sander Levin will make an excellent chairman," said Williams. "He is an able, progressive and issue-oriented senator who has provided thoughtful leadership."

* * *

The former governor said Levin has "an excellent rapport with all members of the party, including Young Democrats and Democrats," adding that he believes "he will pull the party together and inspire it to be a hard-hitting organization.

* * *

"Of course this is just my opinion as a Democrat," Williams added. "The State Central Committee will make the actual selection."

Hare said he "is definitely committed" to Levin.

'CREATE UNITY'

"I've known him for 10 years and he is the kind of catalyst person who will pull the party together," he added.

* * *

A low point for the party was marked by the 1966 elections which saw Ferency lose a bid to unseat Republican Gov. George Romney and Democrats win only two statewide posts and lost control of the Legislature.

* * *

Kelley expressed delight that Levin had become a candidate, saying his "experience in government plus his experience in the party organization make an outstanding combination that will serve not only the Democratic party, but the people of Michigan."

* * *

The attorney general said he felt it was important to note "that support has come to Levin not only from the leadership, but from the grass roots."

COUNTY SUPPORT

Several local party groups have voiced support for Levin, including the Oakland County Democratic Committee, which he once headed.

FOOLING THE WEATHERMAN — With temperatures in Minneapolis area well above freezing, local skiers are still able to practice their techniques on man-made snow. Liz Raye, 18, of Minneapolis, dressed in a sunny weather outfit, has her ski boots adjusted by ski instructor Steve Peer. Buck Hill, a local ski area, has over a foot of snow which was produced by snow-making equipment.

Washtenaw Won't Rehire 4 Deputies Fired in Row

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Four deputies, fired after their union organization threatened legal action again the board of supervisors, will not be rehired even though the union has withdrawn its threat, says Washtenaw County Sheriff Douglas J. Harvey.

The four deputies, members of the executive board of the Washtenaw Deputies Association, were fired Monday when they refused to order withdrawal of plans for a union recognition suit against the supervisors.

The deputies' association said it wanted to force the board to recognized it as the legal bargaining agent for the deputies on salaries and fringe benefits.

When Harvey issued his ultimatum, three deputies who served on the association's executive board resigned their association posts to avoid being fired.

FOUR FIRED

The four who refused and were fired were Sgt. William H. Stander, association president, Cpl. Harold Kerr and Deputies Alfred Bland and Fred Postill.

After a meeting with the association's representatives Tuesday night, Harvey said he would not reinstate the fired men and declared their actions had endangered a pay raise and new fringe benefits now being considered by the board of supervisors.

Harvey refused to rescind his action after he was advised by one of the two remaining members of the association's executive board, Deputy Roy Couch, that no lawsuit had been started against the supervisors and none is contemplated.

The deputies' association has voted to file charges with the State Labor Mediation Board, asking that Harvey be cited for violating the Hutchinson Act which forbids discharge of employes for union activities.

Jet Wins Race to Parking Spot

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — An ex-Air Force jet pilot won an air-land race with a tractor-trailer truck Wednesday and landed his crippled single-engine plane on an interstate highway.

Gilbert R. Worth, 35, of Greenville, Miss., said, "It was hair-raising, especially when we went beneath two underpass."

Worth and his wife had been in Memphis for a business meeting and were returning home when the engine died. He began looking for a place to land and saw I-55 below.

"All I could see on the road was a big semi truck, and I was sure I could outrun him," Worth said. He dropped down about 100 yards ahead of the slowing truck.

Army Meal in Short Order

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — How long does it take to prepare dinner for 200 persons? The U.S. Army can do it in an hour.

A new field kitchen, developed at the Army's food laboratories at Natick, Mass., does it by using microwave ovens and huge blenders—all mounted on a normal-size truck. A blender, for example, can toss salad for 100 men in two seconds.

★ ★ ★

The new kitchen was displayed Wednesday during the annual conference on exploring food systems of the future held at Cornell University.

★ ★ ★

R. Paul Larsen of East Lansing was elected educational coordinator for the society.

About 1,000 delegates are here for the society's three-day sessions.

Trial Is Started for Ex-Fire Chief

BAY CITY (AP) — Trial of Peter F. Connelly, former fire chief of Hamton Township, is under way in Circuit Court on charges of embezzling Civil Defense funds and larceny of Civil Defense funds.

★ ★ ★

He is accused of selling state-owned Civil Defense equipment acquired from a warehouse in Jackson. He was arrested last October in an investigation by the state attorney general's office. The trial began Tuesday.

Grounded Ship Works Loose

Crewmen Taken From Tanker in River Mouth

ASTORIA, Ore. (AP) — An oil tanker grounded in the stormy mouth of the Columbia River early today but worked herself free and headed into port.

Before she did, Coast Guard helicopters had plucked 11 crewmen from the wave-swept decks.

★ ★ ★

The 572-foot David E. Day, carrying 150,000 barrels of gasoline, diesel oil and fuel oil, went aground about 12:30 a.m. 1,000 yards off Cape Disappointment light on the Washington side of the river channel.

She swing broadside to the breakers, and 20-foot waves washed over her decks.

RISK DANGER

Crewmen risked being washed overboard as they went on deck to be taken off by two helicopters from the Astoria Coast Guard air station.

★ ★ ★

While the rescue moved slowly through the night, the ship got out an anchor and, with her engines still working, managed to swing her bow into the seas.

Just after 3:30 a.m., three hours after the grounding, Capt. S. E. Valentine, Nevada City, Calif., radioed that she was free, and canceled an order for the tug Salvage Chief.

STANDS BY

The cutter Magnolia, which had planned to put a line aboard, stood by a quarter-mile away. Also at the scene were a 44-foot Coast Guard motor life boat, which reached the vessel's side shortly after the first distress call, and the cutters Yocona and Ivy.

★ ★ ★

The ship reported no obvious damage as she headed into the calmer waters of the river to pick up a river pilot off Astoria, then continue upriver to Portland.

She is owned by Atlantic Richfield line with home port of Wilmington, Del., and had taken on her cargo in San Pedro, Calif.

Trading Is Heavy

Mart Continues Vigorous Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued a vigorous rally early this afternoon. Trading was heavy.

Gains outnumbered losses by a ratio of about 7 to 4.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 3.76 at 896.04.

* * *

Having penetrated the 885-890 resistance zone Wednesday, the market had a go-ahead from the viewpoint of chart action, analysts said.

At the same time, inflationary implications were in the spread-ing steel prices. News that capital spending is on the upbeat after mild declines earlier this year also helped stocks.

Steels, motors, rubbers and aerospace issues were generally higher.

AVERAGE UP

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .8 at 318.9 with industrials up 1.6, rails off .2 and utilities up .7.

Fractional gains were made by such stocks as U.S. Steel, General Motors, Bethlehem, American Motors, Goodrich, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward and International Harvester.

* * *

Among the very active issues, Avco spurted about 4 points while gains of a point or better were made by Lockheed, International Paper, St. Regis Paper and Whittaker.

Prices advanced in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. Siboney was active and fractionally higher. Levin-Townsend Computer rose about 3 and Synalloy 2. Equity Corp. and Bunker Ramo gained fractions in brisk dealings.

TV Set 'Fallout' Dangers Cited

Industry Is Asked to Join National Check

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Electronics Industries Association has been asked by the U.S. Public Health Service to take part in a nationwide check for possible excessive radiation from TV sets.

The health service said Wednesday an extensive survey of TV sets in Pinellas County, Fla., indicates radiation danger found in some General Electric Co. color television sets may be an industrywide problem.

★ ★ ★

The incidence of excessive radiation from some big-screen GE color sets was discovered last July. Since then, the health service said, 112,000 potentially dangerous receivers have been located and corrected. About 9,000 receivers have not been found.

★ ★ ★

The potential for biological damage from TV-radiation is quite low, said Dr. William H. Stewart, U.S. surgeon general. Prolonged radiation exposure can cause damage to sex organs resulting in possible sterility or genetic damage that could lead to birth defects.

★ ★ ★

General Electric said in a statement it would continue cooperation with the health service. GE sets involved were those manufactured between September 1966 and May 1967. No problem has been found with black and white sets.

Major Burn Center Dedicated in Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A major center for the treatment of burns has been dedicated at St. Francis Memorial Hospital.

The $500,000 facility is expected to begin admitting patients within 10 days. Its 6,000 square feet of floor space will be available to all qualified surgeons.

★ ★ ★

To prevent cross-infection, a major cause of death from burns, the new center is isolated, its air filtered and supplies brought in and removed through compartments. Visitors see patients from glass-enclosed corridors and talk to them through a sound system.

Armed Pair Robs Pastor, Choir at Yule Practice

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Two holdup men broke in on the pastor and 15 choir members who were practicing a Christmas program Wednesday night at the St. Paul United Presbyterian church and robbed them of $67.

The men, both about 21, held up the Rev. Arthur Honore in his office, then disconnected his telephone, warned him to stay put and joined the choir downstairs.

★ ★ ★

"We were beginning chorus No. 4 of Handel's 'Glory to the Lord,' when someone from behind said not to move," one of the singers told police. "At the same time another man walked from the front of the church with a yellow bandana over his face."

Everyone was ordered to hand over their purses and billfolds. After rifling them, the men left by the church front door.

Burr Is Honored by B'nai B'rith

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — Actor Raymond Burr, who has made numerous trips to Vietnam to entertain American troops, last night was presented the 1967 Human Relations Award of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith.

★ ★ ★

The star of television's "Ironside" series received the award at the league's annual appeal dinner.

In a document called the "Round Robin," 39 U. S. Senators and Senators-elect declared on March 2, 1919, that negotiators should concern themselves with a League of Nations only after peace was established.

Museum's Bronze Horse Art Not a Thoroughbred

NEW YORK (AP) — The Metropolitan Museum of Art says its famous bronze horse, long considered a masterpiece of ancient Greek art, is a 50-year-old fake.

The museum startled 800 patrons attending a seminar on art forgery Wednesday night when it revealed for the first time that the horse it regarded as "the quintessence of the ancient Greek spirit" was merely a famous fraud.

★ ★ ★

The horse was probably cast in Paris shortly after World War I rather than in Greece around 470 B.C., the museum said.

The 15-inch statue purchased by the museum in 1923 was even acclaimed by the Encyclopedia Britannica for its beauty and grace. It was so famous and popular that several thousand plaster casts were made and sold. They are still on sale.

FORGER UNKNOWN

The museum doesn't know who the forger was but a thin line and a couple of holes gave him away, said James V. Noble, Metropolitan vice director for administration and the man who saw through the whole thing.

The line was a filed-down mold-mark which proved the horse was cast in a process not developed until the 14th Century.

★ ★ ★

One of the holes was for an iron or bronze spike used on life-sized statues to chase birds away. It's unneeded on a 15-inch statue, Noble said. The other hole was for a bridle attachement but it was too far from its proper spot, Noble explained.

He first made these deductions in 1961, immediately took the horse off the museum floor and began an investigation that ranged through museums around the world.

WIRES REVEALED PROBE

His probe ended in a museum parking lot last September with a gamma ray shadow-graph which revealed iron wires inside the horse. "That was it," Noble said. The ancient Greeks molded their statues around wax and later melted the wax out.

What do you do with a famous fraud? Exhibit it as "one of the most important classical art forgeries ever discovered," Noble said.

★ ★ ★

The museum will do just that starting today.

Real St. Nick Came From Asia Minor

BARI, Italy (UPI) — There really was a Santa Claus.

But he did not have a big white beard and he did not even wear a red suit.

Santa Claus was St. Nicholas and he rests under a solid silver altar in the Bari Cathedral.

He was born in Asia Minor in the year 270 and his body was brought to this southern Italian port city in 1087 when the Saracens overran Asia Minor.

★ ★ ★

Paintings that have come down to us show St. Nicholas as a clean-shaven figure with bishop's miter and staff.

KIND TO CHILDREN

In his day he won reknown for his kindness to children.

Sailors and travelers took back with them to northern Europe tales of "Sanctus Nicolaus" — his name in Latin — and he became Santa Claus.

Oddly enough, St. Nicholas is almost forgotten in Italy on Christmas Day. As St. Nicholas he is honored on his feast day, Dec. 6.

★ ★ ★

As Santa Claus, he is a relative newcomer to Italian youngsters. The idea of Santa Claus as the distributor of presents to children is new here, imported along with greeting cards and Christmas trees in the postwar boom.

Traditionally Italian children get their presents from an old witch "La Befana" on the feast of Epiphany.

However, St. Nicholas is nonetheless honored. He is the patron saint of children, sailors, thieves and pawnbrokers.

Paths of Lady Bird, Secretary Cross During Lunch---in NY

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Lady Bird Johnson came to New York to have lunch and get away briefly from all the bustle of the White House wedding preparations.

WILSON

Her press secretary, Liz Carpenter, came from Washington to see "Henry, Sweet Henry," and a preview of "How Now, Dow Jones?" and then went to lunch with her husband Les Carpenter at Le Grenouille with Mollie Parnis.

As the Carpenters sat down, they noticed some familiar faces. "What's all the Secret Service doing here?" Liz asked.

They soon found out. It was for the VIP at the next table with Mary Lasker—Lady Bird Johnson.

Without planning it, the two visitors from Washington had arrived at the same N.Y. restaurant at the same hour—something for the probability experts to figure out.

Lady Bird when busy shopping here has been known to take a sandwich and have lunch incognito in Paley Park sitting on a bench there among the trees on the side of the old Stork Club.

★ ★ ★

Merle Oberon, Carol Channing, and Hugh O'Brian will be among the wedding guests from the entertainment world, plus George Hamilton, whose gentlemanly attitude has been appreciated by the Johnsons.

Octogenarian Alice Longworth, Teddy Roosevelt's daughter, another wedding guest, will be watching the ceremony from the identical spot where she married the late Senator Nick Longworth 61 years ago.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Jim Mulholland says he tried to become a hippie, "but it didn't work out—I was justa weed among the flower children."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Morty Schnapp complained about his recent stock market purchase: "I haven't seen anything go down so fast since Kate Smith got into an elevator."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "'Logic' is an organized procedure for going wrong with confidence and certainty."

EARL'S PEARLS: The Lambert Bros. catalogue of expensive diamond and pearl gifts carries the line: "Help Stamp out Rhinestones!"

"I'd rather tell my troubles to a bartender than to a psychiatrist," notes Jack Herbert. "I never heard of a psychiatrist giving you one on the house." . . . That's earl, brother.

Strike Is Ended

MUSKEGON (AP)—A strike at Dresser Crane Hoist & Tower Division ended Wednesday as members of Local 644, Allied Industrial Workers Union, ratified a new contract, 546-307. The pact reportedly includes an economic package of about 57 cents an hour over a three-year period. The 900 workers struck at 12:01 a.m. Friday when the old contract expired.

38 VC Surrender in Largest Single Defection of War

From Our News Wires

SAIGON — Tired, hungry and scared, a platoon of 37 guerrillas and their 15-year-old girl nurse stumbled out of the jungle and surrendered in the largest single Communist defection of the war, U.S. spokesmen said today.

★ ★ ★

"They were afraid to die. They stated they lacked food and were disenchanted with the Vietcong cause," the spokesmen announced.

The platoon surrendered Tuesday at the village of Loc An, 365 miles north of Saigon.

Although 61,000 Communists have defected since 1964 including 25,000 so far this year, none before came in so large a group, the spokesmen said.

The commander of the platoon said life in his Communist-controlled village had been a miserable existence.

'NO COMPENSATION'

"We've had to pay high taxes and work hard with no compensation," Tran Tuwy, 40, told newsmen through an interpreter.

Some of the defectors said they had wanted to surrender for some time but couldn't because of North Vietnamese troop in the area.

The mass defection was a shot in the arm for the U.S.-South Vietnamese Chieu Hoi — or Open Arms-program to attract defectors to the government side.

★ ★ ★

The number of defections has been dropping after a big spurt at the beginning of the year.

HEAVY BARAGE

In other developments, North Vietnamese gunners hit the U.S. Marine forward post at Con Thien yesterday in the heaviest artillery barrage in more than two months and probed a nearby Marine position with a ground attack.

In the same area just below the Demilitarized Zone, a Marine fighter-bomber accidentally dropped a bomb on American positions and added to the U.S. casualties.

The barrage of artillery and mortar fire and the ground probe by an estimated company of North Vietnamese killed seven Marines and wounded 77.

'U.S. Not Bombing Reds' Thai Routes'

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP) — Military sources report U.S. planes are now bombing Communist infiltration routes into Thailand from Laos, but the U.S. embassy in Thailand categorically denies it.

An embassy spokesman also directly denied a report from the military sources that some American planes have been shot down over Thailand, and said the embassy knew nothing of any Communist antiaircraft guns or missiles in the country.

In contradicting the reports, the spokesman said no U.S. armed forces of any kind are carrying out bombing missions on Thai soil, and added: "No U. S. planes have been lost to hostile fire from within Thailand."

The military sources were equally firm.

These same sources say:

● The Communists have sought to counter the raids by positioning antiaircraft guns and surface-to-air missiles in the extreme northeastern corner of Thailand.

● Some American planes have been shot down over Thailand although there has been no official statement on the losses.

These disclosures made yesterday by officers here, appear to indicate a worsening insurgency situation for the Thais, confronted more and more with Communist penetration of their borders.

The problem has required some American actions similar to early U.S. efforts in South Vietnam, officers said.

★ ★ ★

They declined to be specific but said the actions involve U.S. air commandos in Thailand.

★ ★ ★

Eglin AFB is a major Air Force Tactical Command facility where air commandos—Air Force counterparts to the Army's Green Berets special forces — are trained.

Earlier last year the Pentagon acknowledged U.S.-flown helicopters were being used to ferry Thai troops into the northeast section for counterinsurgency operations.

But the Pentagon said then that U.S. pilots were under strict orders to avoid involvement in combat and would be replaced as soon as enough Thai chopper pilots had been trained.

★ ★ ★

The United States has undertaken a major buildup in Thailand the last few years with total American strength now exceeding 35,000 men, including some 1,000 air commandos. The commandos help train Thais in counterinsurgency operations.

U.S. Ambassador to U.N. Considering Quitting Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg is considering resigning soon from his post as top U.S. representative at the United Nations.

Goldberg has discussed his resignation with President Johnson and it is understood that Johnson is agreeable to his desires.

But Goldberg has not submitted his resignation formally, according to information available here, and no time has been set by him and the President for him to leave his post.

Goldberg spent yesterday in Washington, attending a Cabinet meeting and conferring with administration officials.

★ ★ ★

Afterward it was learned he had talked with the President on several occasions, going back some time, about ending his career at the U.N.

SINCE JULY 1965

Goldberg, 59, has been Johnson's ambassador to the world organization since July 1965.

He has told friends he does not consider himself a career public official and is understood to have been interested in returning to the provate practice of law, probably in New York.

However, there has also been speculation he might be returned to the Supreme Court by the President when a vacancy develops there.

★ ★ ★

Goldberg is known in government circles and at the U.N. as a "dove" on issues arising out of the Vietnam war and there have been reports from time to time he was dissatisfied with administration handling of war policy problems.

CALLED FOR NEGOTIATIONS

On several occasions Goldberg has been the spokesman for U.S. statements defining Vietnam war and peace aims and calling on North Vietnam to negotiate.

★ ★ ★

Recently, in congressional testimony, he announced the United States is prepared to have representatives of the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Vietcong in South Vietnam, invited to attend U.N. Security Council discussions of peacemaking problems.

★ ★ ★

The question of how to handle this issue without creating new problems either at the U.N. or in Saigon is believed to be one of the most urgent matters now involving Goldberg.

Congress Near Adjournment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only the possibility of last-minute disputes over antipoverty and foreign aid bills appears threatening plans to adjourn Congress by the end of next week.

A controversial meat inspection measure cleared both houses yesterday and leaders expect action before adjournment on such major bills as Social Security benefit increases, hikes in postal rates and federal pay, and perhaps elementary and secondary education.

Left behind until next year in the drive for adjournment will be such bills as interest disclosure, higher education, crime prevention, civil rights and President Johnson's proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

In a move related to the tax proposal, Senate-House conferees finally agreed late yesterday on a proposal aimed at cutting planned federal spending by some $4.1 billion this year. The spending cut is attached to a normally routine measure to keep agencies going which have not received their annual appropriations.

Rep. Frank T. Bow, R-Ohio, said he will try to increase the spending cut to $5.7 billion. Expected approval of the measure next week will mean an end to the threat of payless paydays for government workers in the Peace Corps, Agency for International Development and Office of Economic Opportunity.

Speaker John W. McCormack told a news conference yesterday he thinks a Dec. 15 adjournment is possible.

Democratic Leader Carl B. Albert told applauding members later, "We are looking forward and hoping we will be able to adjourn the Congress late next week."

Fleeing From Stolen Car

Police Kill Pontiac Teen

A 17-year-old Pontiac boy was shot and killed by city police early today when he attempted to escape apprehension in a stolen car.

KING

Jimmie King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Singleton of 411 S. Jessie, died about 2 a.m. in Pontiac General Hospital.

The shooting followed a chase — first in cars, then on foot — during which officers warned the youth several times that they would fire, police said.

★ ★ ★

Patrolmen Travis A. Lively and Dennis Mutrynowski were on patrol at Auburn and Saginaw about 12:35 a.m. when King drove past their patrol car.

★ ★ ★

A routine check of the passing car found that it had been reported stolen in Pontiac Dec. 5. The chase began.

STARTED IN PURSUIT

Police said the officers started in pursuit east on Auburn and pulled in front of the vehicle just west of Jessie.

Police said King, who had been stopped by the patrol car's blocking maneuver, started again when Lively got out to approach the youth and veered the automobile toward the officer.

Shots fired at the fleeing car's tires missed their mark, and another volley of bullets smashed out the rear window.

King reportedly jumped from the still-moving vehicle on the 500 block of Auburn and ran west, ignoring shouted warnings from both officers.

Both patrolmen then fired at the youth. King was wounded twice in the leg and once in the lower abdominal region, authorities said.

Police said it was not yet determined which officer fired the fatal shot.

Pearl Attack Recalled

PEARL HARBOR (AP) — The tolling of the bell and the playing of taps—these were among the simple ceremonies today for the 26th anniversary of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

★ ★ ★

The events were low keyed—in contrast to the silver anniversary last year when Capt. Mitsue Fuchida, the Japanese aviator who led the attack, was present.

Rain and Snow Will Follow Fog

Dense fog hovered over Michigan early this morning but few accidents were attributed to the weather in the Pontiac area.

The U.S. Weather Bureau predicts light rain and drizzle throughout the day with rain changing to light snow or snow flurries tonight. No accumulation of snow is likely, the Bureau reported.

Temperatures will become colder tonight, the low falling to 28 to 32 degrees.

Mostly cloudy and colder with a chance of snow flurries is tomorrow's forecast, and clearing and not so cold is the outlook for Saturday.

★ ★ ★

Morning east-to-southeasterly winds at six to 14 miles per hour will become east-to-northeasterly at eight to 16 miles per hour tonight.

PROBABLE PRECIPITATION

Precipitation probabilities in per cent are: 60 today, 50 tonight and 30 tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

A year ago from Dec. 4 through Dec. 8 fog, rain and drizzle blanketed the Pontiac area. Five inches of snow arrived on Dec. 9.

★ ★ ★

The low temperature prior to 8 a.m. was a mild 38. At 12:30 p.m. the mercury stood at 42.

Misconceptions Cloud Views of Fair Housing

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the first of two articles on major questions surrounding open housing ordinances at the local level and fair housing legislation at the state level.)

The Pontiac City Commission soon will be called upon to act on a proposed open housing ordinance for the City of Pontiac.

Tuesday, the State Legislature will reconvene. Topping the legislative docket is action on a proposed State Fair Housing law.

Much has been said both pro and con in recent weeks concerning fair housing legislation.

★ ★ ★

One group formed to study the matter is the Fair Housing Coordinating Committee. It was organized by interested citizens and organizations shortly after formation of the New Detroit Committee.

MAJOR GROUPS

Among the major groups represented on the Fair Housing Coordinating Committee are the Michigan Council of Churches, Michigan State AFL-CIO, Michigan Catholic Conference and Michigan Chamber of Commerce.

The committee has contended that here is a great deal of misinformation about the nature and effects of fair housing legislation.

Thus, it concentrated much of its efforts on compiling results of many studies made in cities and states where fair housing laws have been in effect for some time.

★ ★ ★

The findings of this intensive survey have been used to answer frequently voiced misconceptions and questions about fair housing legislation.

Here is a sampling of those questions and answers compiled by the committee.

Q — Is there really any need for this kind of legislation?

A — Nearly 1 million citizens of Michigan suffer the humiliation and frustration of knowing that their housing choice is extremely limited — not by their ability to pay, but because they were born with dark skins. In housing, discrimination is the rule rather than the exception.

The few Negroes who have acquired housing on an unrestricted basis have often had to use extraordinary means. The ordinary channels through which the average citizen seeks and acquires housing are closed to nonwhites.

Q — Isn't fair housing really forced housing?

A — No. Nobody can force you to sell or rent your property against your will. If you have not offered your house for sale or rent, nobody has any right to demand that you sell or rent to anybody. The only requirement of fair housing laws is that persons who decide to sell or rent and who publicly offer housing for sale or rent must then deal with those who respond without regards to the prospective buyer's religious affiliation, nationality, or the color of his skin.

Q — Suppose a prospective buyer or tenant is engaged in a disreputable occupation. Or suppose I know he wants to turn my single-family home into a rooming house. Or suppose he simply can't afford my asking price. Must I sell or rent to someone like that?

A — No. You may reject any prospective buyer or tenant for these and many other reasons, but not for religion, race, color or national origin.

Q — But what about MY rights? Shouldn't I have the right to dispose of my property in any way I see fit?

A — Yes; within limits. Property rights are not an absolute as some people have been led to believe. Zoning laws restrict the uses to which you can put your property.

Building, health and safety codes require that you construct and maintain your property in accordance with legal standards. A fair housing law would affect your property only after you make known your intention to cease to own or occupy it.

Q — What about my neighbors? If I sold my house to Negroes the neighborhood would change and my neighbors' property values would go down.

A — First, property values are not related to race, but to supply and demand. Values decline, for example, if there is a sudden increase in the number of houses for sale in a given area, because greater supply usually means lower prices.

This could happen if your neighbors were to panic and leave the neighborhood all at once. So, property values are really up to your neighbors themselves. Actually, scientific surveys show property values are much more likely to increase in the long run than decline in integrated neighborhoods. A fair housing law prohibiting "block busting" tactics by real estate agents who promote panic selling would help stabilize property values.

Secondly, fair housing legislation does not lead to mass movements of minority groups into all-white neighborhoods. In 21 states and more than 45 cities where fair housing laws are in effect, no such mass movements have taken place.

Neighborhoods change because of the limited supply of housing available to Negroes. A fair housing law would relieve pressure on specific neighborhoods by making the whole housing market available.

Q — But Negroes don't know how to keep up their property.

A — Not true. In cities across Michigan and the rest of the nation there are many racially mixed and predominantly Negro neighborhoods where anyone would be proud to live.

Even though the homes in these neighborhoods are, on the average, many years older than the homes many whites occupy, they are well kept up. Negro home owners are probably more active in neighborhood and block improvement associations than whites.

U.S. Expected to Ask Security Council to Meet on Viet Soon

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States is expected to call for a meeting of the U.N. Security Council soon to launch new attempts toward a negotiated settlement of the Vietnam war, informed sources said today.

The sources predicted U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg would relay a request from the White House for a meeting of the 15-nation council some time this month.

★ ★ ★

A U.S. informant said he assumed that "my boss might come back from Washington with some further information on the timing of the council session."

Goldberg spent Wednesday in Washington for a Cabinet meeting, and it was generally believed that he discussed the Senate resolution adopted last week asking President Johnson put the war before the United Nations.

There was speculation that further U.S. action may have been delayed by differences which have arisen with Saigon over participation of the Communist Vietcong in any council debate on Vietnam.

The split came into the open after it was learned that the Vietcong National Liberation Front had expressed a desire in October to send representatives to the United Nations.

★ ★ ★

A State Department spokesman referred inquiring newsmen to Goldberg's statement to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on Nov. 2. Goldberg said the United States would vote in favor of the Vietcong participating in a council meeting on the war.

Ambassador Nguyen Huu-Chi, South Vietnam's observer at the United Nations, called on Secretary General U Thant when he heard of the Vietcong approach and asserted that his government would object to a "propaganda" visit here by the Vietcong.

'CREATION OF HANOI'

The South Vietnamese Foreign Ministry said earlier that Saigon would "refuse to accept the presence of the National Liberation Front as a separate delegation in any peace talk."

Suspended JP Is Guilty of 3 Perjury Counts

Suspended Royal Oak Township Justice of the Peace Lonnie C. Cash yesterday was found guilty of three of four perjury charges brought against him by the Oakland County Grand Jury in May 1966.

★ ★ ★

A Circuit Court jury of 11 women and one man returned the verdicts against the 43-year-old father of six after deliberating nearly two and a half days.

Following Cash's indictment by the then grand juror, Circuit Judge Philip Pratt, Cash an ordained minister, was suspended from performing any of his judicial duties by an order of the circuit court bench.

Cash's trial, which ended last Friday, ran for nearly six weeks.

He was found guilty of lying to Pratt when he testified that money had never been set aside for him by numbers men.

TRAFFIC FINES

On the other two counts, he was convicted of lying when he told Pratt that he had never kicked back a portion of traffic fines to the then township police and fire coordinator Ernest Wilson; and that he had seen a state policeman allegedly consorting with a known prostitute.

The jury found Cash innocent of a charge that he had lied when he said that he had never given money to members of the township board to vote on a matter in which he had an interest.

★ ★ ★

Circuit Judge James S. Thorburn will sentence Cash on Jan. 4. Perjury carries a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison.

Heart Switch in NY Fails

NEW YORK (AP) — Four grim men pushed their way into the small, crowded auditorium in the basement of Maimonides Hospital in Brooklyn. They had been up all night.

★ ★ ★

"I think, first of all, I'm sorry to have to report to you that we have bad news, not good news."

The speaker, Dr. Adrian Kantrowitz, 49, disclosed Wednesday that his 22-man medical team had failed in the second attempt in four days to transplant a human heart. The transplant of the healthy heart of a dead 2-day old boy into the breast of a 2½-week-old boy was completed but the child died 6½ hours later.

Controversy Still Clouds Mental Health Programs

The cloud over Oakland County's mental health program remained today despite efforts to contol the situation in which disgruntled staff members threaten to quit and leave the programs foundering.

Employes in various capacities have either left the program or vioced discontent in recent months and now 11 of 13 staff members at the Oakland Training Institute (OTI) have handed in resignations dated Jan. 3.

The OTI operation has been termed a key to future programs, and the directorship has changed hands four times in the last 16 months.

Under fire has been Dr. Robert E. Walden, director of the Community Mental Health Services Board which administrates OTI and other mental health programs.

★ ★ ★

session Tuesday, the 11 board members announced that Dr. Walden would not be fired at this time. They also announced, however, that an "evaluation report" on him was being prepared.

Dr. Walden will be asked to appear before the board in another closed-door session sometime next week, an official announced.

This confrontation is to take place before the official meeting of the board which was postponed one week in face of the crisis. They are now scheduled to meet at 1:30 p.m. Dec. 15, at the board offices, 1880 S. Woodward, Birmingham.

Meanwhile, other staff members have indicated that the problems do not lit entirely with Dr. Walden, but with the mental health board itself.

★ ★ ★

A group at OTI has blamed the "chaotic and confusing" conditions on lack of leadership. Other persons connected with other phases of mental health programs have charged the board is attempting to make a "scapegoat" of the director.

★ ★ ★

The other dissenting members, who did not want their names announced at this time, called for a reorganization of the board.

AMC Offer Irks Auto Workers

News Blackout Still Shrouding GM Talks

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers union Wednesday indicated dissatisfaction with a completely new economic offer made by financially troubled American Motors Corp. for a new national labor agreement.

Meanwhile, UAW and General Motors Corp. bargainers continued work in subcommittee meetings under a news blackout imposed Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

Both UAW President Walter P. Reuther and Leonard Woodcock, vice president in charge of the UAW GM Department, attended Wednesday's session. A union spokesman said they would be back at the bargaining table today.

AMC EYES LENIENCY

AMC bargainers did not disclose details of the firm's offer, made when the union and company reopened negotiations Wednesday. No date for new talks was set but the union said it would give the AMC offer detailed study before making a counter proposal when negotiations resume.

AMC bargainers, pointing to the firm's $72 million loss in the last fiscal year, indicated hopes American Motors would receive lenient treatment from the union.

★ ★ ★

AMC Vice President Frank Armstrong said the company cannot meet the economic guidelines of the recent Ford and Chrysler settlements with the UAW. The Ford and Chrysler pacts, most likely to be matched by GM, call for roughly $1 an hour more in wages and fringe benefits over the three-year life of the contracts.

Dems to Eye Antiwar Proposal

BIRMINGHAM — The Birmingham - Bloomfield Democratic Club will hold a special meeting Monday to consider a resolution denouncing the war in Vietnam and warning leaders of its possoble consequences.

★ ★ ★

The 8 p.m. meeting was called by a group of club members. It will be held in the Martha Griffiths Lounge of the Birmingham Community House.

The resolution to be discussed states that "the war now being waged by the U.S. against a portion of the people of South Vietnam and against the state of North Vietnam is immoral and by international law illegal."

According to resolution, the international consequences are that "this warfare, to a constantly increasing degree, memaces the peace of the world and the lives of its inhabitants."

★ ★ ★

The resolution, if approved, would put the club on record as saying that "Our course of action in Southeast Asia has caused revulsion among a large and increasing portion of our citizens, including members of the Democratic party."

★ ★ ★

"This revulsion will make it morally impossible for many citizens, including members of the Democratic party to vote for Lyndon B. Johnson, or for anyone who supports his policies in Southeast Asia," the resolution reads.

Kidnap Suspect Is Arraigned

Examination was scheduled for Tuesday.

He was arrested by city police officers and Oakland County sheriff's deputies about 11:45 p.m. Tuesday — more than two hours after he allegedly abducted at gunpoint Linda McConaghie, 24, from her home at 1265 Featherstone.

★ ★ ★

Deputies located Olmstead's car at the King Motel, 1300 N. Opdyke, Pontiac Township, about 10:30 and found that he and the woman were in a room there.

He's in love with Amy. Amy Vanderbilt of etiquette fame is shown at her New York home with her fiance, attorney Curtis Kellar, whom she will soon take as her fourth husband. Soon will be "probably at the end of February," Amy says. Whenever the wedding ceremony takes place, all eight children by the couple's previous marriage will be present.

Variety of Wines Suggested

A starter wine cellar is always a welcome Christmas gift suggestion for almost every adult.

For the beginning wine drinker, a gift of rack and wines will yield a high volume of pleasure during the holiday season. Further, it is a perfect item to delight the wine enthusiast who has a well-established cellar.

California vintners, who put out three-to-five-bottle Christmas packages, have found that a bell-ringer with a beginner is a range of wines, to suit different tastes and occasions. In a three-bottle package, they find a popular combination is a white, a rose, and a red. In a bigger selection, a California Champagne or dessert wine helps round out a more complete selection.

Most racks hold six to a dozen bottles. In these instances, it may be most attractive to give one or two white dinner wines a Rose or two, a couple of reds and a California Champagne or other sparkling wine.

Does Budget Suffer With Job Changes?

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Many families are perplexed when their wage-earner is offered a new job in a new city. Will the raise in salary justify the move to possibly higher living costs? Will the extra money vanish in more costly rent, food, clothing? Perhaps it is "safer" to stay with the smaller salary in the smaller town, where living costs are moderate?

MARY FEELEY

Where can the average family turn to find the answers to these knotty questions?

A fine source of information about metropolitan cities and their comparative costs of living, is the up-dated City Worker's Family Budget, recently issued by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

With U. S. Urban (a pretend city) established as the norm, at 100, there is a sweeping range in living costs, percentage-wise. Many metropolitan cities are over 100 per cent: New York, 111; Boston, 110; Buffalo, N. Y., 106; Chicago checks in at 103, and Milwaukee, Wisc. at 106 per cent.

In contrast to these highs, there are Southern and Middle Western Cities with comfortable lows: Austin, Tex. at 87; Dayton, Ohio at 95, and Atlanta, Ga. at 92 per cent.

MODERATE

To convert these statistics into money, we find that a worker's family can live modestly in Milwaukee for $9,740. The same family can live just as well in Atlanta, Ga., for only $8,434.

How much does all this really mean to the family contemplating a move to a larger city? Remember, first, that the figures are based on a family of four: an employed husband, aged 38; his wife, not employed outside of her home; a daughter aged 8, and a son of 13.

The moderate living costs established for this family, as defined by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, are the estimated dollar cost required to maintain this family at a level of adequate living — to satisfy prevailing standards of those goods and services necessary for health, efficiency and the nurture of children, and for participation in community activities.

Certainly not sirloin steak and movies every night; nor beans and joylessness, either. This family lives somewhere in between.

Measuring and comparing the differences in living costs among cities, provides only a clue to the answer. The whole answer must be determined by the facts at hand: the size of the family, the ages of the children and the wage-earner, the differing standards of living and individual preferences for food, for recreation, and for participation in society.

Then, too, these statistics are based on an established family. They do not take into account moving costs and the money market for home buying in the new city. All of these costs should be explored before the contemplated move is made.

This Family Budget for City Workers was originally presented for the period from 1951 to 1959. The new, up-dated budget shows an increase of from 39 to 48 per cent from 1959 to 1966. It is interesting to note, however, that this fantastic increase reflects the rise in the standard of living as well as the increase in consumer goods and services for this period.

Only 15 per cent of the 39 reflects the rise in the cost of living, which means that 24 per cent represents the upgrading of standards.

If your family is faced with the decision of moving to a large salary in a larger city, or looking ahead to retirement on a smaller income in a smaller community, you'll want to study the statistics in the new City Worker's Family Budget, which is available through the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402 for the price of 30 cents. It's a good starting point on which to base your decision.

Wax your dust pan occasionally and you will find that it stays clean much longer and looks more presentable.

Heart Transplant Key; Can Body Be Fooled?

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Science Writer

In a South African hospital bed this week, a 55-year-old grocer lived with the heart of a young woman beating in his breast. He hoped this strange heart would fool his body into believing it was his own.

Louis Washkansky existed with what can be described as a benevolent but vital infection. On this pivot his life turned.

★ ★ ★

His heart was that of 25-year-old Denise Ann Darvall, struck by an automobile and fatally injured.

Her heart was well, but she was dead. The heart of Washkansky was dying, but the rest of his body was well. Doctors in a five-hour operation transplanted her heart into Washkansky's body.

SECOND ATTEMPT

Three days later, on Wednesday, doctors attempted the operation at Maimonides Hospital in Brooklyn, transplanting the heart from a dead baby into the breast of a 2½-week-old boy. The patient lived only 6½ hours.

"We do not know at this time why this transplanted heart failed," said Dr. Adrian Kantrowitz, the chief surgeon.

Asked if he and his medical team are going to try again, he said: "We certainly are."

Despite the infant's death, the fact remains that in the case of Washkansky, 20th century medicine has brought mankind to this point: A transplant has been effected, and the patient lies in a Cape Town bed hoping his body will not recognize that his new heart is a foreign organ.

NOT EASY

Human bodies are not easy to fool.

Washkansky's body has spent 55 years, from the time it was a microscopic union of two cells, learning what was its own, and what was not. To this genetic understanding, it owed its survival. As it was beset by virus and bacteria, or even such small things as wooden splinters, it dealt with them on one basis: They did not belong; they must be disposed of.

★ ★ ★

The body is a complex system with many weapons for self-defense. It produces antibodies—tiny, carefully designed bits of protein that can pursue and capture and neutralize the protein-coated viruses that threaten health. It produces certain white blood cells to chase down and dissolve bacteria and other body invaders. These cells have still other means of producing immunity to disease, mysterious means that science has not been able to pinpoint.

HARMLESS INVADERS

These weapons that protect a person from his microscopic enemies also trouble him. Antibodies are produced against even harmless invaders, and sometimes the antibodies sensitize a person to harmless, common elements—pollen, dust, the hair of a dog. So it is with transplanted organs—kidneys, spleens, lungs and hearts. This danger follows all transplants.

Doctors now use powerful drugs and radiation to suppress the body's immunity mechanism and forestall rapid rejection of new organs. But this leaves the patient vulnerable to infection, and he must be protected by antibiotics and sterile procedures.

★ ★ ★

So Louis Washkansky lived his first days under the eye of doctors and nurses alert for signs of rejection. As a guard against infection he lived in an oxygen tent.

His operation was the world's first transplant of a human heart. In past years, doctors have transplanted 600 kidneys from one person to another, and a number of lungs and spleens. They have transplanted dog hearts with some success, but never a human heart, although they came close at least once.

FAILING LIFE

In 1964, University of Mississippi surgeons held on to the failing life of a patient in hopes that they could find a suitable donor, a person who was dying but whose heart was undamaged.

The heart of their patient—a big man who was never identified—was fading fast. At the end, they decided to try a small chimpanzee's heart to at least temporarily sustain life. The heart was put in place and shocked into beating. It worked for about an hour, then failed.

★ ★ ★

Since that time, work with animals and the increasing use of transplanted kidneys have given surgeons a much broader experience. It also has raised more and more questions about the ethics of transplants.

"Wait," say some doctors. "Wait for the development of artificial hearts, hearts that work on electricity and can be implanted in the body without fear of rejection, and without question as to where and how the replacement heart was obtained."

PREVENT TROUBLE

"Grandstanding," say other doctors, contending that the proper aim should be to prevent heart trouble, not engage in risky operations to replace sick hearts.

But transplants will continue. They reflect the frustration of the doctor with a patient 99 per cent healthy, yet dying for want of one vital part. In Washkansky's case, said the South African doctors, the surgery was "his only chance." He would have lived only a few more days at most.

At Stanford Medical Center, where doctors have been waiting months for the right circumstances to transplant a heart, Dr. Norman Shumway put it this way:

"It has to be an extreme case, a terminal case, because legally you are killing a person when you take this heart out and throw it away. At the moment he goes into the operating room, he's alive. You have to assume he would be dead without the transplant in a few weeks or months."

BRAIN ACTIVITY

What of the donor? Doctors must be certain this life is beyond recall. In South Africa, surgeons watched the electrical activity of the brain of Denise Darvall as it failed. To them, it was the signature of death.

Then they had to work fast, to remove her heart, and fasten it into place in the grocer, his own heart removed. In the critical moments of the operation, Washkansky was fed refreshed blood by a heart-lung machine. In five hours it was done, and Washkansky rested, his immunity mechanism deadened by drugs and his body protected by antibiotics. His new heart pumped well and strong. His blood pressure was up, and his blood was guarded by still more drugs against the possibility of clots.

Louis Washkansky's future, after the first critical days, was still a question. Said one South African doctor, "The body could decide in five to 10 years time that it doesn't want this heart."

And his living left questions for society to answer: Where will it end? Who shall judge the conditions for transplanting? Who will safeguard the donor's rights? What if someone important—perhaps a prime minister—were dying and needed a new heart? Who could be certain that a healthy heart was not taken prematurely? And what if two patients were dying and only one heart was available?

Dearborn Gets Florida Facility

DEARBORN (AP)— The city of Dearborn is now the owner of an 88-unit apartment in Clearwater, Fla., which it plans to use as a retirement center for its senior citizens.

The purchase was completed Wednesday when Mayor Orville Hubbard presented a check for $1,051,111 to the Tampa, Fla., office of the Federal Housing Administration, the previous owner.

★ ★ ★

The eight-story apartment tower, now called "Dearborn Towers," is located on an inlet of the Gulf of Mexico. Other features include a swimming pool and boat marina.

Dearborn outbid 27 other prospective buyers in the FHA's Washington office Nov. 14 with an offer of $1,076,111.

The city's bid was accompanied by a $25,000 bond which served as down payment following FHA approval of the offer.

Feasting With Flair

Man's first encounter with raising chickens came about 1000 B.C., and chickens have been turning up at feasts ever since. Now, as then, chicken is a festive treat that adds considerably to the holiday fun when friend entertains friend.

Chicken shows its friendly nature by the company it keeps. On the holiday buffet, for instance, it goes beautifully with other dishes made with canned pineapple, unflavored gelatine and Roquefort cheese. All are the quality foods that add flair to your festive entertaining. There follow two menus that make use of this varied quartet of ingredients.

For your next party, try Chrysanthemum Chicken, a most elegant combination of chicken thighs and drumsticks simmered with juice and herbs. According to the National Broiler Council, chicken parts offer convenience plus, and you can find them at most supermarkets in many combinations. The dish looks elaborate enough for your best buffet — and cooks to perfection in just about a half hour.

With the main course, serve tangy Roquefort and Pineapple Buffet Salad. The salad is a most unusual combination of macaroni with sour cream, pineapple tidbits, Roquefort and other intriguing ingredients. Canned pineapple adds flair to a wide variety of party dishes. It's great as a note of sweet flavor and vivid color in just about any salad you create, for instance.

Roquefort, known as the King of Cheese and Cheese of Kings always has a red sheep seal on its foil. This seal assures you that this cheese is the authentic monarch of all blue-veined cheese, and that it is cured by an age-old process in the caves of Roquefort, France. Serve a bit more of this distinguished cheese after dessert, too.

With such a splendid menu, dessert just has to be special. And that describes Eggnog Charlotte, perfect for the season's entertaining. Into the charlotte go the traditional eggnog ingredients and unflavored gelatine, which provides the molded shape and texture. As for other gelatine dishes, there's little cooking involved — only the few minutes required to dissolve the unflavored gelatine in liquid.

The gelatine dish is molded in a spring-form pan lined with ladyfingers and garnished handsomely with whipped cream, maraschino cherries and chopped pistachios, or anything else you fancy.

For other holiday parties there's an alternate menu, equally spectacular, making use of the same companionable foods. This season, be the hostess with the mostest compliments.

Trading Is Heavy

Stock Mart Rally Continues

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market rally continued early today in heavy trading.

★ ★ ★

Gains outnumbered losses by 2 to 1.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average rose 1.79 to 894.07.

★ ★ ★

Ability of the average to penetrate the resistance zone of 885-890 Wednesday encouraged those who put store on chart action. In addition, the spreading steel price increases and news that capital spending is on the upbeat this quarter after mild declines earlier this year form a bright backdrop for stock action.

Steels, motors, farm implements, aerospace issues, electronics and a wide variety of assorted issues advanced. Mail order - retails were easy. Coppers were mixed.

FRACTIONAL GAINS

Fractional gains were the rule among most of the blue chips in the steel, auto and other heavy industries.

★ ★ ★

Gains of a point or more were made by International Minerals, Schenley, Occidental Petroleum and General Dynamics.

Also up a point or more were Raytheon, MGM, U.S. Smelting and Standard Oil of Indiana.

Opening blocks included: Combustion Engineering, off ⅜ at 78 on 12,500 shares; American Photocopy, up ¼ at 127¼ on 11,000; American Telephone, off ⅛ at 50 on 12,000, and KLM, off ½ at 75½ on 10,600.

On Wednesday the Associated Press Average of 60 Stocks rose .2 to 318.1.

Prices advanced on the American Stock Exchange.
