

U.S., British Leaders Begin Talks in Bermuda

Retail Merchants Back Proposed City Expressway

The Retail Merchants Assn.—representing some 150 merchants in Pontiac—has gone on record as supporting the proposed north-south Pontiac Central Artery expressway designed by the Oakland County Planning Commission.

The Board of Directors of the association, an affiliate of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, overwhelmingly approved construction of the $20 million road.

Directors voted to "do everything possible to bring it (the expressway) to reality."

This endorsement followed similar ones of the chamber and the new Greater Downtown Pontiac Assn., the latter formed this year to promote the welfare of the downtown area.

John W. Hirtinger, manager of the chamber, pointed out to the RMA board members the advantages and disadvantages as listed by the county planning commission.

CLOSE TO DOWNTOWN

As proposed, the 4½-mile divided highway would pass within several blocks of the central business district. It would begin at the intersection of Franklin and Square Lake roads, and link with Telegraph road, 400 feet south of Pontiac Lake road.

The Federal Government would carry $18,000,000 of the costs because of the route's limited access. Pontiac and the state would share the balance of $2,000,000.

The road would be similar to the Detroit Expressway system. Within the city, motorists could leave the 350-foot wide road at 12 ramp connections.

INTERSTATE LINK

It would be a direct link in the interstate chain of highways, and would connect the Detroit area to points around Bay City and further north.

Earlier this month, the Chamber of Commerce asked the City Commission to give "careful consideration" to the proposal.

Chamber members said the road would serve the largest number of people, and also be a great advantage to the city.

Only 6 Paper Precincts Left

Voting Machines Provided for Most Oakland Citizens

Only a relative handful of Oakland County Voters will be without voting machines in the coming spring election, the county clerk's office said.

There are 3,827 registered voters in six outlying precincts who still will have paper ballots April 1, the clerk's office reported.

It means the huge majority of 312,700 voters have the facilities of automatic voting.

Four communities are involved in the latest switch to voting machines: Addison Township, with one precinct; Bloomfield Hills, two precincts; Pontiac Township, six precincts, and Royal Oak Township, four precincts.

Royal Oak Township last fall had machines in only two of its precincts.

Still without machines are Lyon Township, South Lyon, Holly Township, two precincts in Brandon Township, and the one precinct of Northville that is in Oakland County.

Old Man Winter to Keep Grip on Pontiac Area

Although today's weather report foretold mostly fair and warmer with a high of 44 to 48, predictions for tomorrow indicate that Old Man Winter is somewhat reluctant to loosen his grip on this area.

Friday's forecast of some rain possibly mixed with snow and colder, high 40 to 44, is a familiar outlook.

Tomorrow night will be mostly cloudy and continued cool, with the mercury expected to dip to the same 30 to 34 low expected tonight.

Saturday will be mostly cloudy with little change in temperatures. Downtown Pontiac's lowest temperature preceding 8 a.m. was 28.

The mercury read 45 at 2 p.m.

Strike Perils Big British Port

All Southampton Traffic May Be Bugged Down if Unrest Spreads

LONDON (AP)—Britain's mounting industrial unrest threatened today to cripple the big transatlantic terminal port of Southampton.

Cabinet orders sending navy tugs to escort the liner Queen Mary out of the port in the early morning brought angry charges of strike breaking from 10,000 striking Southampton shipyard workers. Union leaders appealed to 2,000 dockers who deal directly with the operation of port traffic to join in a sympathy protest against the government intervention.

The shipyard workers claimed repairs on the $1,000-ton Queen Mary had not been finished when the nationwide shipyard strike began last Saturday.

The walkout of 230,000 workmen idled 70 shipyards and stopped work on 300 ships under construction.

Crewmen aboard privately owned tugs refused to help move the New York-bound Queen Mary, and shore gangs declined to cast off her mooring lines. Cunard office workers handled the lines and six government tugs got her out of the harbor.

The big American liner United States slipped in and out of Southampton during the night before the sailing of the Queen Mary reached a showdown.

Put together, the strikes and strike threats added up to the worst industrial unrest in Britain since the general strike of 1926.

House Passes Bill by 71 to 25; Goes to Senate

Provides for Selection of New Jurist in 1958 in November Vote

The House of Representatives at Lansing yesterday passed, 71 to 25, a bill for a fifth circuit judge in Oakland County. The new place on the bench would be filled for the first time at the November, 1958, election.

The measure now goes to the Senate and, if passed there, to Gov. Williams' desk for approval.

Rep. Farrell E. Roberts, Republican, of West Bloomfield Township, one of the bill's backers, explained how support was won after the measure was turned down by the House Tuesday, 48 to 44.

"The people in Oakland County were riled up when they heard the bill was rejected," he said. "So we got busy, letting the House members know what really had happened."

"The result was almost unanimous Republican support yesterday."

Also backing the bill were the county's three other Republicans: Reps. Lloyd L. Anderson, Waterford Township; Donald A. Brown, Royal Oak, and Theodore F. Hughes, Berkley.

Democrats Reps. Leslie H. Hudson, Pontiac, and Walter T. McMahon, Hazel Park, voted against it.

Hudson repeated an earlier attempt to have the measure amended to permit the new judge to be appointed by the Governor, but was voted down 55-42.

This was where the partisan battle centered. An appointment by Democratic Gov. Williams presumably would be a Democrat. Republicans felt a judge with GOP affiliation would win in a general election.

The fight exploded on the House floor Tuesday when bi-partisan support of the Republican-favored bill broke down.

Although an appointee would have to run in the next general election, politicians felt that a Democrat—as an incumbent—would have the advantage on the non-partisan, judicial ballot, even in predominantly Republican Oakland County.

Hudson and McMahon had indicated they would support the measure as it came out of the Republican-controlled judiciary committee.

Girl Friend's Car Eyed by Probers

FROM OUR WIRE SERVICES

WASHINGTON — Senate investigators developed testimony today that Teamsters funds were used to buy a $3,115 automobile for the girl friend of West Coast union boss Frank Brewster's horse van driver. Brewster insisted the car was bought for the use of union organizers. But Senate rackets committee investigator Pierre Salinger said the woman, Mary James of Bothell, Wash., maintained Terry McNulty, Brewster's driver, paid for the auto registered in her name.

As Brewster returned to the witness stand for the fourth day, committee chairman John L. McClellan told newsmen he is considering asking the union leader to turn over all of his personal financial records or have them subpoenaed.

However, Brewster told reporters that the committee already has all of his financial data except the private checkbook he uses for household expenses. He added: "They can have that if they want it."

McClellan also announced that he has received another telegram from Teamsters President Dave Beck saying that Beck will appear before the committee with his personal financial records next Tuesday, the date set by the Senate investigators.

The senator said, "It still is not clear whether he intends to make his records available for the committee's inspection or whether he merely means to have them physically present."

Should Beck try to prevent lengthy examination of the documents, McClellan said he will order that they be submitted to the committee.

As for the automobile purchased with union funds, Salinger said McNulty stated in an interview that he gave the $3,115 in cash to the late Gordon Lindsay, Western Conference secretary-treasurer, in June, 1954, when the car was brought from Los Angeles dealer Harry Apple.

Carmine Bellino, another committee investigator, said the union had no record of a payment by McNulty, but only a Western Conference check for $3,115 — signed by Brewster and Lindsay — and paid to Apple for a car registered in Miss James' name.

Brewster declared this was "All news to me."

McClellan asked him: "This is a pretty loose business transaction, isn't it, with union money?" Brewster replied: "I thought Gov. (Continued on Page 57, Col. 1)

Ike, Macmillan Confer in Private, Exchange General Views

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (INS) — President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan today formally opened the Bermuda conference hoping to achieve what diplomats politely refer to as rapprochement.

Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles conferred privately before the opening session at the surf-side Mid-Ocean Club.

Dulles went for an early morning swim despite chill and gusty winds, but strong cross-currents kept him from venturing far out.

Allied briefing officers reported that last night the Americans and British confined themselves to a general exchange of views at dinner, the first informal meeting of the conference principals.

At today's session, both Eisenhower and Macmillan — old wartime friends — made opening statements couched in general terms before beginning a detailed examination of various aspects of the Middle East crisis.

It was the first face-to-face meeting of top American and British officials since Britain and France invaded Egypt last November.

The full delegations of both nations — more than 30 persons in all — sat in at the session. They used the big mahogany table normally used by the Bermuda legislative council.

LIKE TALKS FIRST

Eisenhower, since he is chief of state and also chief of government, made the first statement at the conference. He and Macmillan then agreed to hold two two-hour meetings a day for the four-day duration of the conference.

The President, who is still nursing a slight cough, rose at 7 o'clock to prepare for the first session.

The meeting on this picturesque Coral Isle will cover half a dozen other problems, but these will be overshadowed by (Continued on Page 57, Col. 4)

Australian Attends City Meeting

Pinpoints Public Apathy

By DENNIS HAWKER
Visiting Australian Journalist

I got to musing Tuesday night as I listened to the deliberations of the City Commission.

My mind conjured up the figure of a tall red-skinned man in a feathered headdress sitting quietly in the meeting chamber in that new municipal building on the hill which is a symbol of the city's progress.

Chief Pontiac—a great organizer of Indian civilization — seemed proud as he listened to details of the further development of the area over which he ruled 200 years ago.

He saw and heard the city's administration providing services for the citizens from birth to death—from hospitals through the gamut of police, fire, water, airport, library, health, park and recreation, traffic, engineering and public works services to cemeteries.

He knew from his own experiences in the councils of his people the importance of local government in the life of a community.

But there was surprise written on his face as he glanced along the rows of empty public seats and realized that the commissioners and city officers outnumbered the public gallery.

His amazement deepened as he noted that in 15 public hearings on intention to assess householders for street improvements only one property owner asked to be heard.

But Chief Pontiac had never been an international traveler and could not know that the symptoms of public apathy apparent in Tuesday night's meeting find an echo in most democratic countries.

JUST LIKE HOME

Australia is no exception. Like Pontiac, my home city (whose administration is in the hands of elected aldermen) has a record of low percentage ballots; its citizens voice opinions only when their pocketbooks are affected; and voices are raised more often in opposition than support of municipal projects.

Yet it is an odd fact that in both countries municipal representatives and local government officials never seem to become disillusioned — as well they could.

They seem to accept lack of public support as part of the democratic pattern which makes life in the two countries so similar.

It is interesting — although not necessarily profitable — to ponder how much better a city could be were its citizens prepared to take greater interest in their own well-being.

Firm Publishes Annual Report

To Use Newspaper Space

NEW YORK (AP) — A 108-year-old corporation has come up with something new in the way of presenting its annual corporate report. The report will be published in newspapers.

Chas. Pfizer & Co., Brooklyn manufacturer of drugs and pharmaceuticals, is setting out to make its account of activities and earnings interesting and informative to the public as well as stockholders — and devised the newspaper publication idea to insure that the public will see it.

Pfizer's forthcoming report will be published March 31 as a 16-page supplement to the New York Times. On April 14 it will be published also in the Chicago Tribune and the Los Angeles Times. The combined circulation was put at more than 3½ million.

Half of the 16 pages will feature multicolor illustrations depicting the company's work both in experiments and in detailing the items it now produces.

Accompanying articles will explain matters in detail. There will be the usual balance sheet and earnings statement.

Sports, Builders Show Set

5,000 Expected to Attend Event

Joycees of Waterford to Stage Exhibit Friday, Saturday and Sunday

On Friday, Saturday and Sunday more than 5,000 persons are expected to attend the third annual Sports and Builders Show to be held in the CAT Building on Williams Lake road, Waterford Township.

The affair sponsored by the Waterford Township Junior Chamber of Commerce will feature 40 booths for exhibits of every description, according to Arthur Salley, general chairman.

Landscaping scenes have been set up along with sports equipment and home appliances demonstrations. New interior and exterior decorating ideas will be presented to show the latest builders' commodities.

The show will open at 6 p.m. Friday. On Saturday and Sunday the doors will be opened from 1 p.m. until midnight and tickets will be available at the door. All children under 12 years old must be accompanied by their parents.

Twelve Waterford Township girls have entered the beauty queen contest, according to Donald Arsen, contest chairman. They will be judged for their talent following a dinner at 7 p.m. Friday in the Old Mill Tavern.

SUNDAY FINALE
Preliminary judging of the township's most beautiful girls will take place at 9 p.m. Saturday and the final winner will be selected at 9 p.m. Sunday.

Shirley Swanson, of Albion, currently reigning as Miss Michigan, will be present Sunday night to aid festivities.

Among the features to be presented on the stage during the weekend will be a dog demonstration, tap dancing acts, baton twirling and a professional magician.

Ben Hardesty, national flycasting champion, will be on hand to keep the fishermen interested.

Each year the Waterford Township Junior Chamber of Commerce members donate all proceeds of their show to some community project. This year they have purchased a light utility panel truck for the fire department.

FULLY EQUIPPED
The $3,500 truck is fully equipped to make short runs in handling emergencies.

So far the big, heavily loaded fire trucks have had to answer drownings, heart attacks and inhalator calls, costing the taxpayer thousands of dollars a year, according to Edward Smith, fire chief.

"This show is presented yearly to stimulate interest and an awareness of sport and builders' commodities in the lake-land area," Salley concluded.

Judges for the selection of the beauty queen are Mrs. Helen Reese, Mrs. Thomas Belton, Mrs. Shirley Redmond, Willis LaVine and Burt Anselmy.

Woman Hurt as Car Skids on Icy Road

Oakland County Sheriff's Department reported the woman was driving south on Joynly road near Clarkston road in Orion Township. She told deputies her auto skidded out of control and hit a tree.

Oil Strike Threatens to Hit 4 More Firms

With a threat that four more major companies may join the three-week oil and gasoline strike tomorrow, negotiations between union and three suppliers were broken off by federal mediators today for "two or three days."

Walter V. Thornton, secretary-treasurer of Local 11-389 of the Oil, Chemical, and Atomic Workers Union, said workers at Texaco, Shell, Gulf and Cities Service were ready to strike "unless the companies move toward settlement."

No progress was reported after day-long sessions yesterday between the OCAW and Socony Mobil, Standard, and Gulf Oil.

The union is striking Socony, Standard, Pure and Sinclair, blocking normal source of supply to Pontiac area terminals.

The strike, which began at Socony Feb. 28, has also cut off 40 per cent of Detroit's gasoline and fuel oil.

With contracts expired between the union of terminal and pipeline workers and the companies, the workers are asking higher wages in the new contracts.

Trial Spotlights Nurse's Record

Doctors Prosecutors Suggest That Logbook Was Altered

LONDON — The prosecution suggested today that a nurse's logbook had been altered in the case of the rich widow Dr. John Bodkin Adams is accused of poisoning.

Atty. Gen. Sir Reginald Manningham-Buller started the court with his attack on the records which attorneys for the 58-year-old doctor have used in challenging testimony given from memory by prosecution witnesses.

Holding up one of the little red books while nurse Caroline Randall was on the stand, the prosecutor asked the middle-aged woman to look at the entry for Aug. 23, 1950. He then asked her if something had been cut out of the page at the bottom.

The nurse replied "Yes," and added she could not say whether she might have cut out anything from a record she had made. She also said she did not remember what was on the page.

The entry cited was made three months before Dr. Adams' 81-year-old patient, Mrs. Edith Alice Morrell, died. The prosecution charges the doctor drugged her to death to benefit from her will.

The defense sprung the nurse's logbooks, as a surprise two days ago and Manningham-Buller admitted he had not known of their existence. The books were not mentioned in the preliminary hearing when the government accused Adams of also killing two other patients who lived near Mrs. Morrell in Eastbourne, Victorian haven for the wealthy retired.

The prosecutor declared someone had written some words in green ink, while the rest of the writing was in blue ink. He also asserted two words had been cut through.

The judge, Sir Patrick Arthur Devlin, leaned forward from his

Refiners Keep Out of Gas Price War

WINDSOR, Ont. (INS) — Refiners' representatives declared today they would have no part of Windsor's current gasoline price "war."

One representative said, "If the retailers want to ruin themselves that's up to them." Another estimated weaker stations would be forced to close if the "war" lasted as long as two weeks.

Prices have been cut as much as 7.7 cents a gallon since the "war" started.

The trouble reportedly started when certain filling stations opened with prices more than two cents lower than other dealers. Other retailers said customers raced for the cheaper gasoline because of a two-cents-a-gallon provincial tax imposed recently.

Dealers cut prices to regain the customers and some have been selling their regular grades at cost.

Lack of Vaccine Delays Project

County Medical Group Postpones Polio Shots for Adults 15 to 50

A temporary shortage of polio vaccine has forced a postponement of the Oakland County Medical Society's adult immunization program.

The society's board of directors last night agreed to delay the start of the age 15-50 project until there is enough vaccine on hand to insure its success.

At present, the board was told by the head of its polio committee, Dr. Frederick Adams of Birmingham, the drug companies are unable to say when they will have enough Salk vaccine to immunize the 300,000 adults eligible in the county.

Priority on the vaccine is given to public health agencies for the 1-14 age group and for pregnant women.

The doctors said polio vaccine is in extremely short supply in the Pontiac area for the present, but advised adults to seek shots from their private physicians from available stocks of the drug.

The Oakland County Osteopathic Society, through its president, Dr. L. J. Sindars of Berkley, has agreed to participate in full with the adult immunization program as soon as it begins.

Yesterday, the State Health Dept. revealed it was unable to continue its 1-14 free polio immunization the Oakland County Health Dept. has enough vaccine on hand for two more weeks of free shots under the state program.

Broomfield Votes for Budget Slashes

Oakland County Congressman William S. Broomfield (R-Royal Oak) said today he has voted to cut the $72 billion federal budget by $141 million on the first three appropriation bills before Congress this year.

He backed cuts of $61 million in the Interior department; $22 million in the Treasury department, and $58 million in the Post Office.

"I believe we can and must reduce government spending by eliminating those activities which are not absolutely essential or are not the proper concern of the federal government," said Broomfield.

He added that no essential services had been eliminated by the cuts.

However, the Navy announced that the takeoff was postponed until 9 a.m.

The Day in Birmingham Clarify School District Area for March 25 Vote

BIRMINGHAM — Pointing out that many are mistaken in their conception of the territory of the Birmingham School District, the Citizens Committee on Education this week explained that it not only includes the City of Birmingham but also the whole area of Franklin and Bingham Farms, parts of the cities of Troy and Bloomfield Hills and parts of the townships of Southfield, Bloomfield and West Bloomfield.

"Another common misconception, a committee spokesman said, is the idea of an official relationship between the school system and city and township governments. There isn't. These governmental bodies have no voice in school administration. The only connection is they are working together on mutual problems."

These officers together with Muriel Bruise, retiring president, will constitute the club board for next year.

Mrs. Wilbur A. Fears will review "Three Saints and a Sinner" at the book review tea tomorrow.

These facts were revealed as the committee continues its campaign to inform voters of the need to restore the 3.5 mill levy and adopt an additional 2.5 levy at next Monday's special election. They pointed out that the restoration of the levy that expired in December, plus the 2.5 increase is necessary to meet next year's operating costs.

Concrete Ballast to Keep Her Level

Mayflower II Tall, Narrow

PLYMOUTH, England (U)—"An old-fashioned lady with a high and a strange looking hat." That's the way a shipwright at Brixham describes the Mayflower II, the 180-ton replica of the sailing ship which took the Pilgrims to America in 1620.

Just like that pioneer vessel which every American schoolchild knows from his earliest history book, the modern Mayflower is only 26 feet wide, has a mainmast projecting 80 feet up and rectangular sails which make her look as broad on top as below.

But despite the top-heavy appearance, high winds won't blow her over during her sailing voyage to the United States this spring. The ship draws 11 feet 6

Betty Field to Marry

NEW YORK (U)—Betty Field, stage and screen actress, and Atty. Edwin J. Lukas, 35, obtained a marriage license yesterday. Miss Field, who gave her age as 39, was divorced in Mexico last May from playwright Elmer Rice.

Waterford Changes Fluoridation Dates

A change in dates for the fluoridation program, scheduled for three Waterford Township schools, was announced today by Dr. B. W. Ross, dentist in charge of the program.

The summer treatments will begin June 17 - 24 at the Jayno Adams school. From June 25 - July 2, children from the Waterford Village school will be treated, and July 3-22 the Williams Lake school children have been scheduled.

Orientation of college-student help was advanced one week by State Dental health officials, making the change in the Waterford Township schedule necessary, Dr. Ross said.

He added that 593 students of 3,710 and 13 years of age have registered for fluoridation treatments that will be given in three township schools as a test for the entire district.

Outstanding Leader Lost by Filipinos

When the United States Army requisitioned 110 trucks of a transportation company in the Philippines right after Pearl Harbor, the manager of the company went along with the trucks to Bataan.

 The manager was RAMON MAGSAYSAY.

He escaped from the doomed bastion on Bataan shortly before it fell and took off through the jungle hills. From the post of an obscure guerrilla captain fighting the Japanese invaders he rose to the presidency of his country. His landslide victory in 1953 made him an international figure.

 MAGSAYSAY already was recognized as the most energetic figure in Asian politics. Earlier, as Secretary of National Defense, he personally led the fight that broke the back of Communist-led Huk in his 7,000-island nation.

 As president of 20 million Filipinos he continued to build strong ties of friendship between his country and the United States.

In his sudden death in a plane crash we have lost one of our most steadfast friends in the Pacific. The world has lost a tireless enemy of communism.

MAGSAYSAY'S successor, CARLOS P. GARCIA, is expected to carry on his policies, including friendship for this country, and the fight against the doctrines of the Kremlin.

 Major test of how well MAGSAYSAY sold his people on allegiance to ideals of the Free World will come in the fall, when his people go to the polls to elect a president.

The race will be wide open, and will be watched with keen interest by nations on both sides of the Pacific.

SEATO Emphasizes Economic Development

The final communique from the third annual conference of chief ministers of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization meeting in Australia and attended by Secretary Dulles, indicates that the Communist threat in that area is not a military one.

The existence of SEATO has deterred the military threat and therefore infiltration and economic and political pressures now seem to be principal Communist weapons.

 Such tactics can be very successful in the underdeveloped economies of some of these countries. Red China, for example, sends in cheap manufactured products but doesn't reveal that these goods are not available to its own people.

At present Indonesia seems to be the prime target. President Sukarno's statement that he wants Communists in his government adds to the weakness of his stand. Burma's border is controlled by Red China and the situation there is "sensitive."

 In the past year Asia received 70 per cent of all U. S. economic and technical aid. Western Europe's share dropped from 66 per cent to eight and only Greece and Turkey among NATO powers got any such help. Economic aid to Asia from the U. S. will total $1.14 billion in 1957.

The shift of emphasis shows how well Western Europe has recovered. But it also shows the Communist danger in Southeast Asia.

The Council of Ministers knows that it is just as important to give economic aid to Southeast Asia as military. It has therefore recommended certain actions to relieve the burden of defense and to contribute toward economic development of this region and better use of its natural resources.

"The liver, rather than the heart, is the seat of the affections," declares a biologist. Maybe so, but it's hard to imagine some one singing, "Peg O' My Liver, I Love You."

The Man About Town

Several Bear Same Titles; Pioneers Usually Honored

Automobile: A vehicle that some of us can remember when it cost more to drive it than to park it.

Among the 423 lakes in Oakland County there is a profuse repetition of names. It seems that in the early days if a lake had any length at all, it was Long Lake, so we have 17 of them. If it was small and round like a silver dollar, it was Dollar Lake, so we have a number of them. Among the numerous Longs we have only one Short.

If its waters were not clear, it was Mud Lake, and 15 of them spread over the map. However, quite a number of them have in recent years been given more dignified names, including one inside the Pontiac City limits, now Crystal Lake.

Most of the lakes drew the names of the pioneers who first owned them. It seems odd that more did not get Indian names, the most outstanding being Pontiac, Tispico and Sashabaw.

Some were named for their shape, so we have 11 Crooked, three Straits, 6 Crooked and a Hog Back, also on Ox Bow. Some for their shores, like Walled. Many bear the names of birds and animals, and there's a Rattlesnake and a Turtle. Also a few flowers.

When that fruit grew here, a few were named Cranberry. Orchard got its name from the trees on its Apple Island. Cass was named for General Lewis Cass, and Elizabeth for his wife.

A few have the same name as the townships in which they are located. And some of the great number of Fish Lakes are having difficulty in deserving that name.

Chairman of the arrangements for the third annual Flower Show of the united garden clubs of the Pontiac area, Mrs. Fred Bohman, tells me it is none too early to circle its date on our calendars. It will be on May 25.

"This is a get together proposition that we needed in Pontiac and all of Oakland County," says

Frank Van Atta, president of the recently organized law enforcement association. He says it already is accomplishing some good results.

According to Prosecuting Attorney Fred C. Ziem, much of the crime in our county has features that show it to be a spill over from a neighboring large city.

Pontiac City Director of Law,

William A. Ewart, is much interested in the pioneer background of our community, and is making a further study on it.

Here in Oakland County we've done a lot of subdivision platting during the last few years. But we've yet to break a record we made over a half century ago. The largest subdivision ever put on the market in our county was "Urbanrest," in Royal Oak Township. It was platted late in the last century and contained 2,100 building lots.

Now on a western vacation trip, a card from

David Lawrence Says:

Department of State Needs Help

WASHINGTON — Sometimes—in fact, too often in government—the obvious is overlooked.

Today it is obvious that no one man can run the entire government of the United States, and in the same sense no one man can run the Department of State, either.

The tasks are too big, and the position of the United States in world affairs is more exacting than at any time in its history.

A cabinet whose members are freed from administrative responsibilities and which could sit as a council to the president every day if necessary would help him shape national and international policies.

The problem in almost every government department is the same—the responsibilities have grown so large that no one executive head can administer and also have time to think about the making of policy.

ALWAYS DELEGATES

Although the Constitution gives the president the duty of conducting foreign relations, this has always been delegated to a secretary of state. He, in turn, has had to rely on ambassadors abroad with the natural limitations imposed upon them in getting prompt information concerning world problems.

But today, with intercontinental telegraph and telephone, communication is instantaneous. Cablegrams and reports by telephone and letter pour in every hour from all parts of the globe. No one man at the head of the Department of State can examine them all and have time for anything else. Also, personal diplomacy—direct contacts with the heads of other governments—is tremendously important and takes time away from Washington.

Congress has authorized a number of assistant secretaries to administer the different divisions of the Department of State, but what is needed is a world policy council of which the secretary of state would be chairman. This would be the policy-making instrument of the department, and it should not be left to staff men and subordinates to carry on.

NEED RELIEF

There is need also, of course, for a divorce of administrative duties from policy-making in every one of the other major departments and, particularly, in the overburdened U. S. joint chiefs of staff. But the most acute need at the moment is to give the secretary of state a freer hand and the aid of a council of men of great ability and national stature to help formulate world policies.

The suggestion is not new, but it has an even more compelling reason in the state of world affairs today than when it was first mentioned by this correspondent in an article on Nov. 14, 1953—before the present secretary of state was selected and when the whole concept was presented on an impersonal basis. Here is the way it was set forth at the time:

"Last May (1952) this writer was sitting in General Eisenhower's office in Paris chatting with him, about fundamental principles of governmental organization. The general listened attentively to some thoughts about present-day government derived from many years of intimate contact with the government at Washington. Before I began, the general had said:

WANTS IDEAS
 "I want new ideas. I don't know what the future holds in store for me but, if I am called to a high position of responsibility, I will want new ideas."

"The main idea that I suggested was based on this realistic fact: Our national government today has become too big to be run by one man."

"Even some of the big government departments are too big to be run by single cabinet officers to whom vast powers are usually delegated."

"The truth is that we need a policy-making board of five men in the Department of State, four of whom should be completely separated from any administrative responsibility. The secretary of state should be the chairman."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Time to Discard Fable of Dampness as 'Danger'

Said the great Dr. Osler, in the sixth edition of his famous "Practice" (1906):

"Chronic rheumatism...is most common among the poor particularly was her women, day-laborers, and those whose occupation exposes them to cold and damp."

This pronouncement by the foremost medical authority of his time greatly strengthened the belief of millions that weather, climate, real or imagined dampness, and cold caused joint disability.

It seems to me, in the light of the progress we have made since Osler was at Hopkins, that we should now put aside 19th century concepts and apply newer knowledge to the problem of chronic joint disability.

Before we put Osler back on the shelf, let me quote one thing he said that seems prophetic: "The affliction...[chronic rheumatism]...more commonly comes on insidiously in persons who have passed the middle period of life."

THAT'S RHEUMATISM
 That's a good description of the rheumatism—which I call physical degeneration of joint tissues and believe to be the nature of at least nine out of ten cases of chronic joint disability.

The cause of such physical degeneration of joint tissues, or the chief cause at any rate, is nutritional deficiency through the years from childhood on.

You will notice I haven't even mentioned chronic arthritis—because I don't know anything about it. I don't believe any one does know enough to define it.

I do not mean to imply that acute or chronic arthritis doesn't happen. It happens, all right, though rarely, in certain cases of septicemia, gonorrhea, undulant fever, tuberculosis, etc.

I merely contend that, nine times out of ten, there's no sign of inflammation in the affected joint or joints, and therefore it's a mistake to call it "arthritis."

Pathological and microscopic examinations of the affected joint show only the signs of degeneration. Any one who believes a medicine can prevent, arrest, or retard the degeneration process in joint or other tissues is sadly mistaken.

(Tomorrow, I'll describe precisely what changes occur in the process of physical degeneration of joint tissues what I call rheumatism.)

Signed letters, not more than one page or two words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady. If a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

cause their busts are deemed too full.

We psychology counselors are deluged with such extremes. A fat girl cries because she is overweight, but the next patient may cry because she has skinny legs.

So learn to be logical. Your personality is not a single unit affair.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
 Case U-334: Verna W., aged 16, is the high schooler who cried because she had a slight fuzz on her upper lip.

After taking her out to see the wounded vets at Hines Hospital, I then knew her perspective would be widened so she'd not make such a mountain out of her molehill.

"But we have other helpful advice," I added. "If, after you try our psychological prescription, you still feel you want that fuzz removed, it can be accomplished by electrolysis."

"But literally millions of happy wives have won husbands with far more fuzz on their lip than you have."

Then I explained that it is a violation of the 10 Commandments to worship idols.

Yet that is exactly what people do who fearfully bow down to their physical defects and daily admit their slavish devotion thereto.

Some girls cry and develop complexes because of flat busts, while others are equally unhappy be-

'Schools Doing Fine Job in Training for Disaster'

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full names, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

Once again we're receiving tornado warnings, and parents are wondering about their children during school hours. I happened to be in our Four Towns School when an alert was sounded for a tornado and air raid drill.

In very orderly fashion over 400 children, in only a matter of seconds, were all in designated places in the lower hall with faces to the wall, older children had arms outstretched to protect the little ones.

If all schools are as well organized for such a tragedy as ours is, I'm sure parents have nothing to fear. I am so thankful that our children are being trained so well.

Volunteer Gives Answer to Letter

Waterford Township volunteer firemen do an efficient and effective job in all cases. They take their obligation seriously, constantly training to know and practice the latest methods in fire-fighting, civil defense and first aid.

All fires are identified on the volunteer's short-wave radio as to kind and location. All fires are considered dangerous until under control. Even false alarms cannot be ignored. Grass fires are not reported if permits are issued for them and they are burned under supervision according to rules. Not all grass fires remain just that. Recently a grass fire ignited a house and endangered another. Later, a woman collapsed trying to fight a grass fire herself and a rescuer was necessary.

Firemen are ordered to observe all safety measures in getting to fires. State laws govern the drivers even when flashers and sirens are used.

No one is more interested than volunteers in having fully equipped, paid crews, but that seems a long way in the future. When petitions for millage increase are circulated to support such a department, will you still be a "Waterford Booster?"

Presents Facts About Southfield

Many readers are not familiar with the facts of the present Southfield Township dilemma. If no charter is approved by June 7, there will be a City of Southfield, composed of the area south of 13 Mile road. A second petition making this a reality is currently pending with the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

perfect dental endowment. How many of you readers have 32 unblemished teeth in your jaws?

Others have need for eye glasses or hearing aids or arch supports or corsets or uplift brassieres, etc.

And many men wear toupees and corsets, too, to look more youthful.

So learn to take a more detached view of yourself. Try to laugh at your former misery. For humor correlates with a wide social perspective.

Introverted, self-centered folks don't have as good a sense of humor as the extroverted people. For example, do you think a Calvin Coolidge type would laugh as readily as a Bob Hope? Or the men at an engineering convention as much as those at a sales convention?

COMPLIMENT CLUB
 Verna's previous preoccupation with self was now somewhat demolished so I prescribed the "Compliment Club," and gave her that booklet.

She was to pay three sincere compliments every day; one to each of three different people.

I told her she could praise her classmates or teachers or the bus driver or her parents and the like.

But she was to keep it up for 30 consecutive days without a break. Then she was to report back to me.

Well, she was a good patient. She faithfully stuck to her bargain; and tomorrow I'll give you her final report. Watch for it.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 25c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

ANCIENT ROME
4. A Toy Chariot

Roman children played with toys just as children today do. A Roman boy was quite accustomed to seeing big chariots drawn by two horses clattering along narrow, cobblestone streets. So it was natural for him to have a toy chariot. If it were large enough to hold him, it could be harnessed to a goat from the family farm. The real chariots usually held only the driver. The sides curved back, the rear was open and there was a step to help the driver get in. These chariots were painted with bright colors and encrusted with gilded designs.

Here is a chariot which you can make for yourself. Paste the drawing on stiff construction paper. A bright yellow paper will give an effect of gold on the inside. Color the decoration and cut out the parts carefully. To form the body, fold back sides 1 and 3, fold side 4 underneath and fold and paste side 5 under it. Bring tab A up and paste it inside the front of the chariot (2) at the bottom. Paste tab B of the decorative front handle (6) under the front of the chariot (under 2).

Paste flap C of the stairs (7) on the floor of the chariot at the open end, rear. Fold it down at D and up at U. Then the steps will look as they do in the small drawing at the upper left. Fasten the wheels (8 and 9) to the sides of the chariot with brass fasteners pushed through the indicated holes in 1 and 3.

Reds Claim Iron Ore to Last 2 Centuries

MOSCOW (U.S.) — Soviet geologists claim to have charted in the Kursk - Belgorod basin 350 miles south of Moscow enough iron ore to keep the world's iron and steel production going at its present level for two centuries.

A mining combine with headquarters in Gubkin has opened both deep and open-pit mines in the basin. Because a layer of water clay many feet thick covers the ore deposits Soviet scientists have resorted to artificial freezing methods to mine the iron. Main mine shafts are sunk through a column of frozen earth nearly 300 yards deep, then reinforced with iron tubings.

Government scientists here predicted large-scale mining would start this spring in the great basin, from which iron ore will be readily available to the Moscow industrial area.

Hypnosis Widely Used in Childbirth Today

By JOSEPH R. MARSHALL
INS Staff Writer

"But I'm frightened to death of anesthesia," Mrs. Julia M. said. Her pretty young face was twisted in a frown. "I'm terribly afraid of not knowing what is going on."

"And I hate to have a needle stuck in my spine," she leaned forward, pleading. "Doctor, isn't there any other way you can do it?"

She had just learned her child would have to be born by caesarean section—major surgery requiring anesthesia.

"Maybe there is a way," said the obstetrician, pushing aside his patient's chart. "I'm sure you have heard of medical hypnosis. We have found it helpful in obstetrics in combination with chemicals, a sort of hypno-narcosis."

Mrs. Julia M. nodded, still frowning. "I know," she said, "but isn't there some way you can use hypnosis on me so you can operate without any chemical anesthesia? Can't you use it so I won't be unconscious?"

"Perhaps," the doctor said, "but we usually don't try to use it to produce anesthesia for major surgery."

"Although just about everybody can get real relaxation from hypnosis, only a small percentage can undergo major surgery under hypnosis alone. But in a special case like yours we can try. First you'll have to learn to go into a deep state. Then we can train you so you can go through the operation without pain and watching everything you want."

A doctor who has spoken words similar to these on many occasions is William S. Kroger, associate professor at Chicago Medical School, on the attending staff of Edgewater Hospital, and one of five doctors and dentists who conduct "seminars on hypnosis" around the country.

He and other obstetricians and gynecologists are using hypnosis on patients like Mrs. Julia M. and for such things as pain relief (usually along with chemical anesthesia), removing fear and anxieties especially with reference to forthcoming surgery, control of menopausal symptoms, menstrual dysfunctions, alleviation of frigidity and halting some habitual miscarriages where there is no organic cause.

In surgery—like caesarean section—hypnosis is being used for control of pre and post-operative pain, apprehension and the like, control of the post-operative cough reflex, increased rate of healing through comfort and control of capillary bleeding.

Most frequently, obstetricians use hypnosis in normal childbirth. Twenty-five per cent of mothers with hypnosis training have found they need no chemical anesthesia. The rest find they need only have to one-fourth as much chemical anesthesia.

Many obstetricians believe, but others deny, that "natural childbirth" is simply hypnosis by another name plus unnecessary exercises. They base their belief on two major arguments: If mothers fail to learn relaxation in natural childbirth training, they admittedly fail natural childbirth. The percentage of success—measured by ability to go through delivery without narcotics—is just about identical in both methods.

But even these obstetricians give "natural childbirth" great credit for teaching that unendurable pain in childbirth is not necessarily natural.

The baby was delivered from the abdomen by forceps. Mrs. Julia M. saw it immediately, ecstatically.

Ten days later, without post-operative pain, discomfort, loss of appetite or insomnia, she left the hospital.

Julia M. was an unusual case. As noted: "Since hypnosis is a multi-tion with chemo-anesthetics . . . advantages, and if its results are an obstetrician who used the same faceted tool, its utility can be especially if unwarranted claims not sensationalized."

Seek Postmaster's Job

BOYNE CITY (AP) — Acting Postmaster Emmett Green says he has ordered a new supply of forms from Washington after the regular supply was exhausted by applicants for the $5,300-a-year post-master's job in Boyne City, vacated Jan. 1 by Roy Winegarden who retired after 24 years in the post.

Trains on the London-to-Brighton line were stopped while a large dog was rescued from a tunnel at Haywards Heath.

But Guild May Encounter Some Snarls and Back-Biting

Animal Artists Get Ready to Unionize

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK (INS) — Perhaps animals are being unduly alarmed, but foresees many a snarl and snarl in the forthcoming formation of the "American Guild of Animal Artists." Local No. 1.

Anytime you get 18 dogs together with a finger-painting monkey, a talking raven, a sexy duck and a souped-up alligator (the allegedly gets shock treatments before each performance on Broadway)—I say you are in for a crash of temperaments and possibly teeth.

All these animals, and many other four-legged or two-winged stars of stage, screen and TV, are scheduled to meet next month at a cocktail party in a Manhattan hotel.

Their deadpan purpose is to form a union for the usual reason: To get more money for less work, and obtain old-age benefits.

"You may scoff at the idea all you like," said Peggy Foldes, the young woman who heads up the movement to get all the animal "stars" and lesser performers into an organization to protect the rights of the many talented breeds who cannot speak up for themselves.

ANIMAL THESPIANS

"Right now, on Broadway, there are as many performing animals as there are men and women stars. On TV—well, there's 'Lassie,' the dog; 'Corral No. 5,' the skunk who smells up the Godfrey show; 'Baby,' the raven on Steve Allen; 'Blondie,' the Jackie Gleason duck; 'Clem,' a lamb for Ed Sullivan; 'Randy,' the donkey on Howdy Doody, and so on.

"Then, in the modeling field, there are almost more dogs than babies. The top ones, those young wolfhounds that advertise Wolf-schmidt vodka, stand under hot lights for hours and don't get paid a cent.

"Some union must be formed to see that these kids get either paid off or laid off—on a nice farm, with all the vodka they can drink."

The fact that animal talents have never been unionized has caused—we are told—a great disparity in working conditions and salaries.

Minimizes Cut in British Force

Norstad Says Pullback in Europe Won't Affect NATO's Basic Job

BRONX, N.Y. (AP) — Gen. Lauris Norstad said today the cut in British forces in Europe "will not have any serious effect" on NATO's "basic job."

The American commander of Atlantic Pact forces in Europe told a news conference he applauded the fact England was willing to listen to arguments put up by her allies against her proposals to cut her forces in Germany by about 25,000 men, or nearly a third.

He said the compromise plan announced yesterday by which British forces will be reduced this year by 13,000 men, "proves the maturity of the alliance."

Norstad said also:
1. The NATO allies, if necessary, could swing into action against an aggressor with full atomic capability.

2. No new legislation is needed from the U.S. Congress for the United States to turn over live atomic warheads to its NATO partners.

3. There is no danger that British and French troop withdrawals will result in NATO being turned into a "German-American show."

Asked whether American forces have atomic weapons ready for use in Germany he said he couldn't reveal whether the weapons are stored "a million miles or a hundred yards from here."

Envoy Back in Canada

OTTAWA (INS) — Soviet Ambassador to Canada Dmitri Chuvahin returned to Ottawa yesterday after spending 10 weeks in Moscow. Earlier reports had hinted that Chuvahin might not return to Canada, following complaints of espionage by embassy staff members.

Up to now, the animals themselves have been dependent upon the aggressiveness and business acumen of their masters—"which means that 'Lassie' got $100,000 last year, while equally talented dogs were atrociously underpaid."

"A dog named 'Mr. Eve,' for instance, came up from Florida to appear on TV. He didn't go around rescuing people like Lassie does, but he spoke the word 'mama,' which is something Lassie couldn't do in a thousand years. They sent him home with a measly $500."

When AGAA is formed officially on April 2, such grievances as "Mr. Eve's" will be ironed out. As in most unions, the Animal Artists Guild will try, it is promised, to give every member a fair shake.

Among rights to be fought for are: (1) Minimum wages; (2) first-class travel and hotel accommodations for performers; (3) stand-ins for long-haired stars who work under klieg lights, and (4) establishment of reasonable retirement ages, from 12 years for dogs to 85 for turtles. And better bites at everything.

Penny-Ante Thief Loses Two Ways

LONDON, Ky. (AP) — It's not often a dishonest person will deliberately lower the amount of a check he has stolen.

A check for $805.80, taken from a mailbox here, was altered to read $8.05. The thief apparently thought he would never get by if he tried to cash it for the original amount.

He cashed the check at a grocery and the store, in turn, presented it to a produce house in payment for $8.05 in vegetables. Somebody at the produce house finally noticed the discrepancy and notified police and postal authorities.

They arrested the culprit.

Centennial Called Off

CHARLEVOIX (AP) — City Council has dismissed plans for a proposed centennial celebration this year because of a reported lack of interest.

Cleared as Suspect

CHARLEVOIX (AP) — A 37-year-old Kewadin man was cleared Tuesday in the death of William Case, 70, but jailed on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. Sheriff Glenn E. Rose said Case, whose body was found Sunday before his rural East Jordan home, apparently was the victim of exposure. Wallace Smith was released from questioning after State Police lie detector tests, Rose said.

State's Land Purchase Called Fair by Chamber

LANSING (AP)—The $30,000 deal made by the State Highway Department for purchase of a 2½-acre plot near Grand Rapids was "fair" in every respect, in the opinion of the Grand Rapids Chamber of Commerce president.

Gerald E. White, attorney and C. of C. president, said yesterday "there was nothing wrong" with the state's contemplated settlement with Darling Freight Lines, Inc., on the purchase price.

White was one of four witnesses who testified during the fourth day of a hearing ordered by Gov. Williams to learn why the Highway Department agreed to pay $30,000 for property appraised two years ago at $11,000.

State Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler and Deputy Commissioner George M. Foster were among those summoned for appearances today by Aud. Gen. Frank S. Szymanski, who called the hearing.

CALLS HEARING

In another development, Sen. Haskell L. Nichols (R-Jackson), chairman of the Highway Committee in the Republican-controlled Senate, called a separate hearing to look into the case. The hearing, open to the public, is set for next Wednesday in the Senate chamber.

White testified he, along with Mayor Paul Goebel of Grand Rapids, called officials of the Highway Department and the Darling Company together last Feb. 19 to speed agreement on purchase of the disputed property, tied in with a Grand Rapids expressway development.

The Highway Department

Consumers Power Co. for property owned by Consumers which lies in the path of the expressway project.

SEEMS FAIR

Over objections of Deputy Atty. Gen. Joseph A. Sullivan, chief investigator for the state, White testified the tentative $30,000 purchase price, taking into account the land value and the damages Darling would suffer, seemed to him to be fair. Sullivan complained that White was not qualified to judge the settlement.

The $30,000 figure was arrived at, White said, on the understanding that Consumers would give the trucking company permanent access to its terminal building across the property to be sold. This, he said, was what prompted the company to lower its asking price to $30,000 from the $141,500 value put on the property by Harry J. Fuller, Grand Rapids appraiser.

Fuller's estimate was considerably higher than those of two appraisers hired by the state, William T. Broersma of Grand Rapids and Ward S. Van Dusen of Detroit.

Broersma placed its value at $11,800 in December, 1954, and at $16,500 last January. Van Dusen made an estimate of $31,200 in May, 1955.

Broersma, however, conceded his appraisal did not take into account such factors as loss of business, costs of building a spur track over the property to connect with a railroad, and costs of liability insurance. Consumers, insisted Darling take out if it were to have access to the land, White said.

New Jersey Nun Takes Exam in Accounting

CONVENT STATION, N.J. (U)—Sister Kathleen Mary of the Sisters of Charity became New Jersey's first CPA nun recently when she passed the state's Certified Public Accountant examination. Sister Kathleen worked from 9 to 5 in a Newark, N.J., accounting office for some time to fulfill the requirements necessary before taking the exam. A graduate of the College of St. Elizabeth, she received an M.A. degree in business administration from Boston University and held a position in the accounting field before entering the Sisters of Charity in 1947.

Bird's Cries Save 4

REDWAY, Calif. (U)—Mrs. Elsworth Carey today credited her parakeet with saving her and her four children as fire raged their home. Mrs. Carey said she was awakened by the bird's frenzied cries. She got her children out of the house, but couldn't save the bird.

Military Needs Weren't as High in Those Days

Budget of 1790 Allowed Army One Clerk

WASHINGTON (U)—Nearly everyone seems to have ideas about cutting President Eisenhower's budget for running the government next year.

Letters are pouring into Congress from constituents eager to see some whacking done. The House formally has asked Eisenhower if he has spotted any fiscal branches he would like pruned. Republicans and Democrats alike publicly at least—claim to be highly interested in saving money.

Yet because of the shaky condition of the world, no one has said much about the biggest item of all—the $3 billion dollars Eisenhower thinks is necessary for national security.

Gadgets like atomic cannon and airplanes that break through the sound barrier cost big money. But for the money-savers in the audience let's take a nostalgic look back to the times when defense wasn't so expensive.

ALL FOR ECONOMY

The first Congress, in 1790, was all for military economy, too. Secretary of War Henry Knox, like many a cabinet officer later, put up a bitter argument that Congress was overdoing it and that his department was being trimmed too far. But the early legislators paid no attention to him.

They authorized an army of only 840 men. Of these, 672 actually were in service, and they were expected to fight off Indians along a thousand mile frontier.

In fairness, it should be said that Knox didn't fritter away much money on paper work. He got by with only one clerk.

By 1795, business had picked up considerably although the military still had slight resemblance to today's Pentagon. The new secretary, James McHenry, had doubled the clerical staff and now had two.

FRENCH OFFICER

In his book, "The American President," Sydney Hyman tells of a French officer who dropped around to pay his respects.

To his surprise, the visitor found no sentinels at the door. Inside two clerks scribbled away "in the midst of the solitude." They apparently explained where the boss was, for the French officer observed:

"Mr. McHenry's name figures in the state budget for $2,000, a salary quite sufficient in a country where the secretary of war goes in the morning to his neighbor, the barber, to get shaved."

But for economy dreamers there are better dreams yet.

During the days of the Continental Congress things were really run on a minor league scale. From June 20 to Aug. 12, 1784, the commander of the army was its highest ranking officer, Capt. John Doughty.

Doughty commanded a few fellow officers, very few, and he didn't need many.

In the whole Army at that time there were only 80 privates.

Alfred Vanderbilt Weds Chicago Drama Student

CHICAGO (U)—A young Chicago postgraduate, who had ambitions for a stage career, has become the third wife of Alfred Gwynne sportsman, her parents disclosed yesterday.

Vanderbilt, 44-year-old heir to one of America's greatest fortunes and Jean Harvey, 20, member of a socially prominent and pioneer Chicago family, were married in Mexico City March 12, her parents said.

The bride's mother Mrs. Daggett Harvey said none of the family members attended the wedding. She added that Vanderbilt and his bride now are in Florida and probably will live in his Long Island, N.Y., home.

Vanderbilt, owner of Native Dancer among other famed race horses, was divorced last December by Mrs. Jeanne Murray Vanderbilt in Gooding, Idaho. They have two children. His first marriage, to the former Manuela Hudson in 1938, ended in divorce in 1942. They have a daughter, Wendie.

In recent months Miss Harvey had been in New York City studying dramatics in preparation for a stage career and Vanderbilt had been her frequent escort.

Her paternal grandfather Byron Harvey was the son of Fred Harvey, founder of the Harvey restaurant system.

Says Suburbs Belong to City

Towns Share Benefits but Not Responsibility, Contends Planner

SAN FRANCISCO (U)—A city should have power to annex its suburbs without their consent, William Zeckendorf declared Wednesday.

"The free-loading, carpetbagging suburbanites aren't entitled to any voice in the decision," he said.

Zeckendorf is president of Webb and Knapp, Inc., New York, and a big operator in urban development.

The test for annexing a suburban town, he said, should be simply:

"Can the town get along without the city, the mothership? If it can't, it belongs."

Asked if his idea wasn't undemocratic, Zeckendorf retorted:

"Not at all. 'It's the suburban towns who are violating democracy because they don't fully share the responsibilities of their metropolitan region.'"

"They are satellites—with maybe 20 police chiefs, 20 mayors and 20 planning commissions. And it is the central city that supports every one."

"They're not entitled to enjoy the city's art museums, and all the cultural and social assets of the central city—and then go on home and pay their little local taxes."

Zeckendorf aired his views at a press conference, then spoke at the convention of American Society of Planning Officials.

Baggage in Same Place

RICHMOND, Va. (U)—A traveling couple here reported to a tourist court manager that they had been robbed of $1,500 and their baggage. The manager called police. The police found their possessions in their cabin—they had forgotten the number and thought they were next door.

Rocket Tests Wind Conditions in North Canada

FT. MONMOUTH, N.J. (U)—The Army announced today it is firing rockets from deep in northern Canada to measure icy winds as high as 80 miles.

The experiments are expected to lead to more accurate predictions of cold weather during the winter months. They were planned by scientists of the U.S. Army Signal Engineering Laboratories here.

The Army said the first specially equipped "Aerobee" rocket was fired last Nov. 12 at Ft. Churchill, Man. A series of nine more launchings are scheduled during the 1957-58 International Geophysical Year, the first on next July 19.

The Aerobee sprays 18 packets of high explosives into the air at pre-set intervals during its ascent.

When the four-pound charges explode, sensitive instruments on the ground record the barely audible blasts.

Scientists measure the time lag between each explosion and the arrival of the sound at the earth. From this data they compute important facts about the direction, speed and temperature of polar winds.

Greeks Reject Offer by NATO

British Approved Plan Called for Mediation of Cyprus Dispute

NICOSIA, Cyprus (U)—Greek Cypriots and the Greek government have rejected a British-approved offer by NATO to mediate for peace on Cyprus.

British Colonial Secretary Alan Lomax-Boyd told the House of Commons yesterday London was willing to let the North Atlantic Treaty Organization try to settle the controversy over the strategic British colonial island in the east Mediterranean. The plan was for NATO to attempt conciliation among Britain, Greece and Turkey—all NATO members.

Within hours, Greek and Greek Cypriot leaders declared their opposition.

The Turkish government made no official statement, but a source close to the Foreign Ministry said Turkey would welcome NATO conciliation. He added that Turkish delegates at the U.N. already had made such a proposal.

Most of the 400,000 Greek Cypriots want Cyprus united with Greece. The 100,000 Turkish Cypriots oppose this.

In Athens, Greek Premier Constantine Karamanlis in a statement attacked Britain's acceptance of the NATO conciliation offer. He said it ignored a U.N. adopted 55-0 on Feb. 26, calling for resumed negotiations aimed at attaining democratic, peaceful conditions on the island.

U.S. to Spend $125,000 on Car Accident Study

WASHINGTON (INS)—A Federal researcher said today the government plans to spend $125,000 on studying auto accidents during the coming year and would spend more if Congress appropriated the money.

Dr. Robert H. Felix, director of the National Institute of Mental Health, told a House appropriations subcommittee he thought his department "could do more to determine causes of auto accidents."

He said researchers knew that the major cause of accidents was knowledge of "the human factor—why do they speed?"

Ike Sends Note to 12-Year-Old Who Lost Legs

PHILADELPHIA (U)—President Eisenhower has sought to rally the spirits of a 12-year-old boy who lost both legs in a fall under a freight car Feb. 10.

In a letter delivered this week to Gerry Corkery, the President encouraged the boy: "Please get well soon." This was followed by another "get well" message, given to Gerry in the children's ward of Episcopal Hospital, this one from Sherman Adams, chief presidential assistant. With it was an autographed picture of the President.

The Eisenhower letter said: "I know just how hard it is for an active boy like yourself to face the problems that you have, but I am also completely confident that you will courageously return to your school and home routines. 'I like to think that there must be compensations in misfortune such as yours, and, difficult as it is for you to accept now, I am sure you will discover many as you grow older.'"

The President said he learned about the accident from Rep. James Byrne (D-Pa.), whose family has been close to the Corkerys for years.

An obligatory 25 per cent pay raise faces private industry in Chile, Santiago reports.

Labor Bosses Out Front as Probe Spreads

THE BREWSTER STORY—Frank Brewster, West Coast boss of the Teamsters union, sits at the extreme right as he continues testimony before Senate racket investigators. The lawyers are Jerry Griffin (beside Brewster) and John Pickens. At the committee table from lower

HOFFA IN TROUBLE — James R. Hoffa, vice president of the Teamsters and one of its most powerful officials, is surrounded by members of the press as he steps from an airliner during one of his trips back to Detroit following his arrest by the FBI on a charge of bribery in connection with the Senate investigation into racketeering in labor unions. Hoffa told the newsmen: "This is a court case and not a publicity matter. It will be tried in court."

JUST CHECKING — Questions fly from Senate investigators as Frank W. Brewster, west coast teamsters boss, takes a close look at some checks during one of the Washington hearings. Brewster was asked about a series of checks drawn on the union's Western Conference accounts under the signature of Dave Beck, head of the International Union, and Brewster: the money was earmarked for the "Public Relations Division" of the Los Angeles Teamsters Joint Council No. 42.

BECK QUIZZED — Dave Beck, voluble head of the International Teamsters Union, runs the gamut of expressions as he answers newsmen's questions during an interview before a television panel following his recent return from Europe. The labor leader arrived back in the United States to land in the middle of a cross-fire whose target is the activities of Teamsters officials. Beck said yesterday that members of the union will be asked to give moral and financial support to officers indicted for contempt of Congress.

Democrat Took Prize at Republican Dance

WICHITA, Kan. (U) — Sedgwick County Democrats still are chuckling about the Young Republicans' Christmas dance. Richard Hollingsworth, deputy county attorney, won the door prize, a television set. He's a Democrat.

PARIS, Tex. (U) — A shoplifter caught in the act attacked a department store manager with an unusual weapon. He hit J. V. Simonetti on the head when Simonetti caught him with two pairs of pants he lifted from the store. The weapon was a rum bottle he carried in his hip pocket.

Tragedy Points Up Unsafe Homes for Aged

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The federal government's spotlight may soon be beamed at crowded and dangerous conditions in private nursing and old age homes across the country.

It is already probing in two states where disasters have occurred.

This comes mainly as a result of the blaze which recently swept an old age home in Warrenton, Mo., snuffing out over 70 lives.

The tragedy has spurred Uncle

Sam to take a hard look at public assistance programs that feed federal relief funds to feeble and aged persons in private institutions.

BROUGHT TO LIGHT

It has brought to light the unhappy fact that some states may not be enforcing standards of safety set up for these homes.

Under the law, states that receive funds for old age assistance on a matching basis from the government must establish standards for nursing homes when residents of these homes receive payments. Practically every state in the Union operates under this arrangement.

It is now revealed that the Social Security Administration has asked Missouri to provide names of any victims of the Warrenton fire who received public assistance checks.

KILLED 14

A similar inquiry is being made in Iowa where a convalescent home in Council Bluffs burned, killing 14 persons just five days before the Warrenton disaster.

"We're checking into the situation in these states to see whether they have carried out their responsibilities," explains Jay Roney, Director of the SSA Bureau of Public Assistance.

"We want to find the reasons for laxity in applying standards of safety and operation."

Officials at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare all agree that the headline-making Missouri fire dramatizes the critical problem of housing for the nation's senior citizens.

STIR ACTION

And some feel that it will stir action both on the local level and here in Washington to improve conditions.

"If anything, it's going to make many communities realize that such a fire could have occurred in their own backyard," says one member of the department's staff on aging.

The key question right now, however, is what action the U.S. plans to take against states who fail to carry out regulations protecting institutions where federal money is channeled.

"If what we find out in Missouri and Iowa indicates a need for more information and further inquiry, then we'll have to go ahead," says Roney.

OTHER STATES

By that he means that other states might need to be checked as to their enforcement of old age home conditions.

"It's conceivable that the outgrowth of this would be amendments of the public assistance plans calling for more assurances from the states to stick to their standards," says Roney.

He's careful to add that it's too early to say this will come about with any certainty.

There is no question that a step in this direction would kick up a storm of protest from many states who jealousy guard their right to control local conditions. Numerous states are unhappy with present set-ups that require federal standards when public assistance is involved.

POOR CONDITION

Today there are some 25,000 private nursing and convalescent homes in the U.S., but many of them are in such poor condition that states have written them off in estimating their present needs.

Under the Hill-Burton Act, which has been in effect three years, 12 million dollars have been appropriated especially for nursing homes in 35 states.

At present 61 of these homes are in the planning or construction state at a cost of eight to ten million dollars in federal funds, matched by 20 million dollars from the states.

They'll operate as non-profit or public agencies and should help to ease off the tremendous demand for such facilities.

Congress is being asked to appropriate another five million dollars during this session for the following fiscal year.

A STARK REMINDER OF TRAGEDY — This blackened shell was all that remained of a private home for the aged in Warrenton, Mo., after fire snuffed out the lives of 70 residents.

Early Evidence of Spring — Small Fry With Marbles

WASHINGTON — It hardly seems like spring until small fry knuckle down to a game of ring. This, of course, is the traditional game played with marbles.

Time obscures the origin of marbles, the National Geographic Society says. Youngsters in ancient Egypt, Greece, and Rome tawed just as purposefully as today's boys and girls in T-shirts and blue jeans. The Latin expression relinquere mures — in effect, "getting away childish things" — probably refers to a form of marbles that Roman children played with nuts.

MILLIONS MADE EACH YEAR

In years gone by, the small spheres of many colors have been made of many substances: marble chips (hence the game's name); alabaster (alloys); prettily banded agate (agates); painted and glazed clay (clay); and colored glass.

Most marbles are manufactured from glass today. Countless millions are turned out each year by plants in Clarksburg, W. Va., and Ottawa, Ill., two major centers. Machines pop out 200 a minute.

Blobs of molten glass drop onto threaded rollers set side by side. The cooling bits ride the grooves down, becoming perfect spheres.

NOT ALL TOYS

Not all these millions of marbles roll in the direction of toy stores. Industry uses vast quantities for such purposes as road sign reflectors, safety signals on the backs of cars and trucks, oil filters, and for graining lithographic plates. Some find their way into museums, for workers have found that a casket slips more easily into its crypt over a handful of strewn marbles.

Pin-ball machines gulp marbles, as do some manufactured games. A factory in St. Marys, W. Va., shipped 14,000,000 Chinese-checkers marbles in six months.

Marble shooting is so lastingly popular among youngsters that many cities and states sponsor marble contests with referees and scorekeepers. A national tournament has been held for years at Asbury Park, N. J.

In one of the city parks of Lima,

Peru, is a delightful statue of a boy shooting marbles.

These affairs aren't restricted to males. A few years ago, a solemn little Amish maiden — dressed in the white cap and matronly gown of her sect — won the girl's national championship at Asbury Park.

Magsaysay Said Enemies Planned to Wipe Him Out

NEW YORK (P)—Eight days before Philippine President Ramon Magsaysay died in a plane crash, he expressed belief political enemies were set on killing him, it was reported today.

In a dispatch from Manila by Walker Stone, editor in chief of Scripps — Howard newspapers, Magsaysay was quoted as saying concerning his forthcoming bid for re-election:

"They're going to try to bump me off in this campaign. They know they can't win if I live."

Stone wrote that he talked with the Philippine President March 9 at Malacanang Palace in Manila in what may have been Magsaysay's last interview with a foreign correspondent before he was killed.

"He was extremely confident of re-election in November," the dispatch said. "But he voiced one qualification, the possibility of assassination."

"What he said then may become a footnote of history—and a major political issue if investigation proves his plane was sabotaged."

Magsaysay died three days ago in a plane crash on a mountain-side in a remote section of Cebu Island.

Investigations are under way, but no evidence of sabotage so far has been reported.

Drug Addicts Mostly Youths

Chicago Officer Says Youngsters Form Bulk of Recent Users

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—There are between 50,000 and 60,000 drug addicts in the nation today, and the vast majority of those who have become addicts in the past three years are young persons in or under the military age bracket. Policewoman Lois Lundell Higgins of Chicago said today.

She said juvenile addicts in the United States spend $250,000 a day on narcotics.

Mrs. Higgins, director of the Crime Prevention Bureau of Illinois, addressed the California Juvenile Officers Assn. conference, which has drawn persons interested in combatting delinquency from many parts of the world.

The vast majority of teen-agers who become drug addicts do so through wrong companionship, which could be prevented by closer parental concern over their children's activities, Mrs. Higgins said.

"Generally, while they are in the high school age bracket, comes the introduction to the marijuana cigarette through a friend or a bunch of the guys who already smoke them," she explained.

"Here the desire to 'escape' is rarely the motivating factor—it is the desire to be recognized as a 'regular' and 'one of the gang' which leads to tragedy."

Her answer to the problem:

"Know your children. Know where they are and what they are doing. Know their companions."

"In the home, concentrate on building a social sense of values in the child. In the school, be certain that the child's social education keeps pace with the rest of his education. In the community, maintain the influence of good adults throughout the child's recreational hours."

"This is the perfect prevention program — the way to build good citizens."

6 GIs in Nuernberg Attacked and Beaten

NUERNBERG, Germany (AP)—Rivalry for American business was blamed for an attack early today by Bavarian youths who injured six American soldiers, one of them critically.

The names of the soldiers were not announced immediately. Eight of the Bavarians were arrested.

Police said a large group of young Germans attacked the GIs with steel rods and beer bottles in a Nuernberg inn. The innkeeper said the proprietor of a rival establishment had promised the youths 50 marks ($11.90) for beating up his American patrons. Both inns cater chiefly to Americans.

Burglars Even Stole Tavern Owner's Teeth

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Tavern owner Russell G. Goodpaster told police he could understand why burglars took 25 cases of whisky, 15 bottles of wine, $100 from three cigarette machines, four cigarette lights and a pistol, but—

Why did they take the set of false teeth from the unlocked safe?

School Board Meets Tonight

Data for B-I-E Day, Building Program Top Evening's Agenda

Consideration of the building program will occupy the Pontiac Board of Education at its meeting tonight.

Assistant Superintendent Otto C. Hufziger will present the building program. Included will be a report on site development for the new senior high school, rehabilitation projects at several schools and a report on the Franklin Rd. site.

The board will choose a date for Business, Industry, Education Day.

A committee of teachers from Crofoot and Pontiac Senior High School will meet with the board to discuss parking space.

Shaving While Driving Costs Student $75

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Traffic provides enough close shaves on freeways without drivers resorting to electric shavers. Municipal Court has ruled.

"Face shaving while driving, like kissing a girl, constitutes recklessness," Judge Gerald C. Kepple said in fining UCLA student Jerry Prod $75. Prod, 18, was accused of traveling 55 m.p.h. while shaving.

About 200 mining firms in the U. S. produce more than one million tons each year on a basis of each unit. Daily coal output is said to be in excess of one million tons.

Bob Considine Says:

Golf Goes Ahead of World Affairs

HAMILTON, Bermuda (INS)—The hard news that came out of the last Bermuda conference could have been engraved on the head of a pin by a pained Spencerian penman.

The big question back in those remote days of December 1953 seemed to be "did President Eisenhower play golf today?" Jim Hagerly would glare at the questioner in such briefings and growl, "No he did not play golf today."

Then the fellow would ask, "Did he have a golf club in his hand, like for practice?" Hagerly would try not to be ill there in front of everybody in the press briefing room at the Castle Harbour Hotel.

The contrast between that conference and this are still striking, however, even if historians may have difficulty remembering either a generation hence.

The big formal question in '53 was Indochina. Georges Bidault, who was here as assistant to French Premier Joseph Laniel, who spent most of the time in bed ailing, assured one and all that Communism could be defeated in that part of the fading French empire with a few hundred million more United States dollars.

THE BIG THING
But the question that stands out in the memory of those briefings was whether Ike played or practiced or just swung.

There was no way for reporters interested in such things to know, since they were barred from the grounds of the Mid-Ocean Club—as they are this time—but now it would seem there are even more important things in life. Whether these matters can be solved here or light thrown upon them in way of news releases is doubtful.

President Eisenhower landed in Bermuda at Albany's Pier. Man who owns it has seven daughters.

The Eisenhower-Macmillan caterer is neutral, so to speak. He is Henry Goldsmith, imported from Vancouver, British Columbia, Point Gray Golf and Country Club to handle these esteemed appetites and take charge of service in general.

The chef is Paul Wirthin, a regular at the club. His larder has been fortified with such extras as 69 pounds of fresh smoked British Columbia sockeye salmon and 78 pounds of grouse, pheasant, partridge and antelope.

Most of special food was provided by oil millionaire Harold Siebens of Calgary. White House Secret Service men will make routine taste tests.

LIVE FOREVER
Want to live indefinitely? Then come to Bermuda and eat at the Waterlot Inn.

In "Entertainment Guide" of "The Bermuda Weekly" it fearlessly states "Waterlot Inn—for that extra something in the way of 'old Bermuda' charm—relax in the waterside of this 300-year-old Bermuda home—This is the Place That Visitors Have Been Coming Back to for Almost 100 Years! You try it too—and become one of the 'regulars'."

"Chintzy" is the way a reporter described the decor of the Mid-Ocean Club's interior. Exterior is shocking purple, which isn't too much out of place in this colorful place.

There was the usual distress over rooms at Castle Harbour. A British reporter of note, told by Bermudian clerk he must share his room because of a shortage.

roundly demanded a room of his own.

The poor clerk made the mistake of saying that the White House had assigned the rooms, whereupon the Fleet street titan boomed in John Bullish tones: "a loud snoring man from Bulgaria."

White House has ruled who sleeps where and when in a part of the British Commonwealth? This is intolerable, my good man, absolutely intolerable." P. S.—He is believed to be rooming with a loud snoring man from Bulgaria. "You mean to tell me that the

Films to Focus Spotlight on Dad's Roaring Youth

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Modern youth is having a post-war fling to the tune of rock 'n' roll, cypso, the moaning of Elvis and the roar of hot rods with twin pipes. Educational standards are higher than ever and colleges and universities are jam-packed, but adults are viewing with alarm and historians are wondering if 1950-60 will go down in their books as The Roaring Fifties.

But now it's a revoltin' turn of events.

Not for today's "crazy kids" but for yesterday's "crazy kids" — youthful grandparents and Mom and Dad, who have been lifting eyebrows, and voices, about Junior's dirty blue jeans and "awful" flat-top, sister's ballet flats and capri pants, and the entire youthful whirl.

Revoltin' for yesterday's "crazy kids" because Hollywood has rediscovered the jazz age!

A whole cycle of movies headed for the Bijous and Ritzes are turning the spotlight on the Roaring Twenties.

MUCH WAILING

After all this wailing about, and at them, modern youth is about to discover that Grandma was a flapper, Dad brewed "bathtub gin," Cousin Charles was a flag-pole sitter and Uncle Bert broke his leg in a Charleston contest at Dreamland.

Yes, modern youth will be coming home from the movies in a few months with sly grins and "oh, what's wrong with me" looks. There will be complete disbelief in Grandpa and Dad's favorite lines—"Now when I was your age . . ."

And there will be strange wonderment, no doubt, and maybe even guarded questions, about whether Grandma ever got caught in a speakeasy raid or if Mom really looked like the "cat's pajamas" in rolled stockings.

To arms, you oldsters. Like old movies on TV, your past is being revived.

SHOW BLUSHES

Before dimming the lights, so the blushes won't show, you better forget about your objections to Elvis and rock 'n' roll, and don't tremble when the kids mention a drag race. Because if you do, you're in trouble.

You'll find yourself caught between Rudy Vallee's "Hi, Ho, Everybody" and Helen Morgan's smoldering torch songs from atop a piano. Or between a Statz Bearcat rooster peeling up to 50 on a dirt road and a Model-T Ford that won't run until somebody hammers at the magneto and spins in the timer.

You may have to explain some other things, too, about that frantic decade you've been hiding in the closet. Such things as Scotch "right off the boat," gang wars on crowded streets, soda jerks who juggled banana splits, flamboyant movie queens with Russian whirlwinds at their sides and skirts two inches above the knee.

PORK-PIE HATS

Not to mention pork-pie hats, raccoon coats, 60 ukulele choruses of "It Ain't Gonna Rain No More" at 3 a.m., the contortions of the "Black Bottom" and "The Bunny Hug," the "Voo-do-deo-deo" and "Boop-boop-a-dee" singing, and bell-bottom trousers.

Oregon Pair Facing Wire-Tapping Trial

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Portland gambler James (Big Jim) Elkins and his aide Raymond Clark will be brought to trial here April 16 on federal wire-tapping charges.

U.S. Dist. Judge William G. East yesterday postponed until then their trial, which had been scheduled earlier for March 26.

The federal indictment accuses the pair of making illegal tape recordings of telephone conversations. The tapes were subpoenaed by federal authorities after they were seized in a sheriff's department raid on Clark's home. Later the raid was declared illegal.

New, Costlier Shrimp

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A new, more expensive species of shrimp, called the royal red and having a flavor similar to lobster, went on sale here today.

The shrimp is the result of a year's research and exploration by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in waters 1,000 or more feet deep 100 miles off Daytona Beach and St. Augustine.

Shrimp fishermen customarily work in depths no greater than 300 feet.

'My Fair Lady' Keeps 'Em Waiting in Line

NEW YORK (NEA)— They still line up outside the Mark Hellinger Theater just off Broadway. The scalpers still get fantastic prices for a pair of tickets. The standing room — 30 spots a performance — is still eagerly snapped up every night.

At the ripe old age of one year, "My Fair Lady" continues to be Broadway's biggest hit. There seems to be no let-up in sight; at the moment, tickets are sold out through the summer and September seats are going fast.

When the first anniversary was reached — March 14 — the management stopped taking money to the bank long enough to recapitulate:

In its one-year run, "My Fair Lady" was seen by 656,215 customers — SRO at every one of the 4154 shows. (One was stopped in the middle because Rex Harrison's stand-by developed laryngitis and couldn't finish.)

$15,000 PER WEEK

These 656,215 eager viewers paid in $3,403,520. This was more than enough to pay off the show's production cost — it was recouped in a fast 32 weeks. Since then, "My Fair Lady" has been rolling along, netting a decent $15,000-per-week profit.

But, on top of that $15 million box office gross, "My Fair Lady" has had financial ramifications even more astounding. The Columbia album of the show, for instance, sold more than a million copies in its first 11 months on the market.

Only two albums have ever sold more — "Oklahoma!" and "South

WITH A LITTLE BIT OF LUCK — Some of these hopefuls lined up outside the Mark Hellinger Theater in New York will get standing room tickets for "My Fair Lady."

Pacific" — and both of those were on the market considerably longer.

ALBUM SALES

The album sales, totalling up to March 3, amounted to $3,380,000. This includes eight months of sales at $4.98 per copy, the last four months at the increased $5.98 cost.

Put the two gross figures together and you'll see that "My Fair Lady" on stage and record, is getting very close to a $16,000,000 business. And, actually, it's even bigger when you consider the indirect results of the show.

Biggest single beneficiary of these indirect benefits was Vic

Damone, somewhat of a has-been in the pop music field until he recorded "On the Street Where You Live" from the show's score. It made him a big hit again; the record sold over a million, he got a summer replacement TV show as a result, he's once again commanding a hefty figure for personal appearances.

REVIVE 'BRIGADOON'

The composers of "My Fair Lady" also benefitted indirectly. One of their earlier shows, "Brigadoon," is about to be revived by New York's City Center. And a book version of "My Fair Lady," around 1966 or so, you may see one of the few times this has been published for a musical, is doing well at the bookstores.

There are no stories to be told about angels putting up pinnacles for financing the show and winding up with huge profits. "My Fair Lady" was angled exclusively by the Columbia Broadcasting System — to the tune of $401,000. CBS, for its faith and generosity, now earns 40 per cent of the profits — about $6,000 a week.

And the network also put the record of the show in its recording division — Columbia — and has first crack at the TV rights. Undoubtedly, it'll be some years before these are utilized, but say, around 1966 or so, you may see Rex Harrison and Julie Andrews doing "My Fair Lady" on TV.

The touring company of "My "Fair Lady" has just been launched. It opens in Rochester, N. Y., on March 18.

It comes to Detroit for three weeks this spring.

Brian Aherne and Anne Rogers head this production, which cost the Liza Company (that's "My Fair Lady's" official corporate title) another $325,000 to produce.

Currently, producer Herman Levin (he gets 30 per cent of the profits) and his staff have one big headache — tickets. There are two girls at the office that do nothing but handle ticket requests; the switchboard operator answers all incoming calls with a polite inquiry — "Is it about tickets?"

There's a nine-person staff at the theater that goes through the near-3,500 ticket orders that come in each week's mail; and there's the usual box office staff handling in-person purchasers.

STYLES, JEWELRY

Dress designers have come out with "My Fair Lady" styles, mostly copied from the show's brilliant racetrack scene with costumes in startling black and white. There is, "My Fair Lady" jewelry. And, newest on the bonanza bandwagon, there's a take-off record album, "My Square Laddie," which has Reginald Gardiner, Nancy Walker and Zasu Pitts doing slightly ribald take-offs on the show's score.

It's been a good year for "My Fair Lady" — and, in a sense, for George Bernard Shaw. The late Irish playwright, whose "Pygmalion" is the basis of the show, never lived to see his greatest Broadway triumph. But his estate has been enriched, so far, by $104,917.70.

He Didn't Look Before He Slept

MOUNT STERLING, Ky.—There is nothing like a bed when you're exhausted—but look before you sleep.

This man didn't. He broke a pane of glass in a rear door, paused long enough to shed his topcoat and shoes, then turned down the spread and jumped in.

Police arrived an hour later and escorted the man to a less comfortable bed in jail.

After promising to replace the glass in the store's rear door, he was fined $60 for drunkenness.

World's Newest Nation, Ghana, Rich in Minerals

WASHINGTON — Ghana, the world's newest nation, takes its name from a mighty African empire that flourished for some 800 years before Europeans came to the Dark Continent.

Although the new state is not situated within the ancient borders of Ghana, the tribesmen of the former Gold Coast Colony trace their ancestry to Ghanaian refugees who were driven to the coast by 9th-Century Moslem invaders, says the National Geographic Society.

Porguese traders bestowed the name Gold Coast on a narrow strip of land on the underside of Africa's hump just north of the Equator. Later the name was extended to a rectangular area stretching some 330 miles along the coast and 400 miles into the interior. Thus the former colony's boundaries embrace the Gold Coast proper as well as Ashanti, British Togoland and the Northern Territories.

Ghana, approximately twice as large as the state of Mississippi, has a population of 4,500,000; all but 7,000 are Africans. Accra, the capital, is a European-type city of 134,000 residents.

Ghana's Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah, who was educated in the United States and England, has worked hard to raise the living standards of his countrymen. In the past five years alone, the number of schools has tripled.

However, Ashanti and the Northern Territories, still in the grip of old tribal customs, have resisted modernization. Most of Nkrumah's political opposition is concentrated there. The chiefs fear that a strong central government will infringe upon their prerogatives.

While a plentiful gold supply gave the tropical country its former name, the precious metal has long been supplanted as a source of wealth by the cacao bean, from which cocoa and chocolate are made. Ghana leads the world in cacao production. In fact, so close is the economy geared to cacao that a steadily sliding price for the beans on the world market already presents the new government with a fiscal headache.

RICH MINERAL RESOURCES
Ghana is particularly rich in untapped mineral resources. The "closed forest"—a humid region stretching from the barren coastal strip deep into Ashanti country—boasts one of the world's biggest deposits of bauxite, an estimated 225,000,000 tons. It properly developed, engineers believe it capable of producing 210,000 tons of aluminum annually.

To this end, Great Britain and Ghana have embarked on a joint $400,000,000 venture to exploit the bumper bauxite deposit. Current plans call for the damming of the muddy Volta River and erection of a huge hydroelectric station. A smelting plant will be built 12 miles from the dam, and a railroad will run from there to Tema, a port which is being improved at a cost of $30,000,000.

Cut-Price Gas Prank Starts Chain Reaction

ELLENSBURG, Wash. (U. P.) — A sign proclaiming gasoline at 28.9 cents a gallon went up here.

Next day operators blanketed the streets with matching signs. A price war was on.

Yesterday prices jumped 4 cents. The war was almost over and faces were red.

The first price-cutting sign, it was discovered, had been placed by an unknown prankster on an abandoned service station, long out of business.

United States entrants, with a total of 56 winners, have won the largest number of Nobel Prizes.

He Really Got Service

MANITOWOC, Wis. (U. P.) — Lefoie Murray has his jacket back, but he insists he didn't call the laundry. Murray reported to police he tossed the jacket on a kitchen chair and left the house for a moment. When he returned the chair was bare. It was returned several days later by a laundry deliveryman who Murray maintains made a pickup at the wrong house.

Separated Twins Both Doing Fine

Pair Joined at Forehead Healthy 3 Months After Historic Operation

WASHINGTON (U. P.) — Government scientists have told of a possibly historic operation in which they separated twin baby girls who had been joined at the forehead.

The House Appropriations Committee, which made public the story today, was told this was "the first operation of this kind in which, at least until the present time, both twins have survived."

Dr. Pearce Bailey, director of the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness, gave the account of the intricate operation performed last December on Virginia Kate and Teresa Kay Bunton of Mountain City, Tenn. The twins then were 4 months old.

Today, a little over three months after the operation, the twins were reported in "good health." They still are at the clinical center of the National Institutes of Health in nearby Bethesda, Md., where the surgery was performed.

There have been a number of cases where Siamese twins, joined at the head, were separated only to have at least one of the twins die. One of the most famous of these cases involved the Brodie twins of Chicago. Rodney Dee Brodie survived, but Roger Lee, his twin brother, died after 34 days.

Mail 48 Years Late but Message Not Urgent

FORT WORTH, Tex. (U. P.) — Mrs. Myron Baker got a postcard her uncle, Will Davies, mailed her from England 48 years ago.

It was delivered without explanation at her former home in Fort Thomas, Ky., and a cousin forwarded it here.

The message wasn't too urgent. It just said, "Greetings."

Heads Boys Republic

DETROIT (U. P.) — Gaylord W. Gillis Jr., president of Edson Moore & Co., has been re-elected president of Boys Republic. The institution in Farmington Township, was founded more than 50 years ago for needy boys. It has a one million dollar building program under way.

To raise funds for national defense, Saudi Arabia has raised its zakah (religious) tax, Jidda learns.

Formosa Builds With U.S. Aid

Steel Works, Jet Fuel, Chemicals Are Made; Food Supply Critical

WASHINGTON — Formosa, the Chinese Nationalist stronghold less than 100 miles from the Communist mainland, is taking big steps on the long road to self-sufficiency, writes Frederick Simpich, Jr., in the National Geographic Magazine.

Spurred by American aid, Formosa's electric system has doubled output. New steel works, mills, and chemical plants supply an increasing proportion of local needs.

Western innovations greeted me everywhere I went," observes Mr. Simpich. "I was told with pride of increased sugar yields; engineers showed me plans for a new cross-island highway; I visited a refinery that cracks out jet fuel for fighting planes."

Formosa was christened by Portuguese explorers: The name means "beautiful," a fitting description of the verdant island.

"Shaped like a tobacco leaf," writes the author, "240-mile-long Formosa confronts the continent of Asia with a western plain that spans the length of the island. Its back is turned to the Pacific where gray cliffs rise precipitously toward peaks that soar more than 10,000 feet."

REFUGEE PROBLEM SERIOUS
Food production on the island is critical because of a refugee-swollen population of ten million and an extremely high birth rate. Half off all Formosans till tiny farms averaging three acres each. Worked entirely by hand, such farms produce 1,800,000 tons of rice and almost a million tons of sugar annually.

"In some districts," Mr. Simpich writes, "three or even four crops are harvested yearly. But, despite this bounty, so great is the demand for arable land that strips along some city boulevards are green with vegetables. I even saw garden growing between railroad tracks."

Most of the two million refugees from the mainland crowd into the already bulging cities. Taipei, the capital, is particularly over-crowded. When Mr. Simpich asked Mayor Kao Yu-shu exactly how big Taipei was, he replied, "Last September our census showed about 700,000. But now... who knows? It grows every day."

Mayor Kao has inspected cities in the United States and Europe in search of ideas to improve Taipei. "From all I've seen," he told the author, "I should like to copy Lisbon; we hope to build a new city on the outskirts and attract the slum dwellers to move."

Snow Tunnel Avoids Shovel; —on the Level!

HOUGHTON — While some folks talk of spring, a young couple who live near here daily leave home through a tunnel of snow. Jack and Betty Kolehmainen figure their igloo-like entrance will stay up till May, because that's the way it goes with snow in the Upper Peninsula Copper Country.

Not everyone gets six feet of snow on his sidewalk starting in November. But the Kolehmainens live in Lingsa, four miles south of Porcupine Lake, in a slight hollow where the snow blows in huge drifts.

Tired of the constant fight against the avalanche, Kolehmainen decided to trade his shovel for a tunnel. He's studying engineering at Michigan Tech, so figuring out a solution was good practice.

He dug down four steps to ground level, then burrowed 17 feet through the snow to his kitchen door. After that he shored up the sides and top with timbers.

The result is a snug walk, enclosed against the bitter wind that sweeps across the surrounding fields. And—no shoveling needed.

What happens when it thaws? The Kolehmainens aren't worrying too much. During a recent warm spell the whole tunnel sank slightly—but it held.

Kolehmainen thinks his handiwork will last out the snow season—and he's ready to save the tunnel timbers for next winter.

Can't Jail Peeping Tom, He's Not Right Breed

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — The woman complained to police that a dog kept jumping up in the air and looking in her front room window.

Patrolman J. R. Moddy, who investigated, said if it had been a cat he might have booked him as a peeping tom but he couldn't find any law covering peeping dogs.

Kept Title Up-to-Date

TORRANCE, Calif. — For six weeks members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union were on strike at the National Supply Co. here.

A headquarters for the walkout was set up and telephone callers would get this answer: "Strike Headquarters." After the strike was settled recently callers to the headquarters got this answer: "Ex-strike headquarters."

Spotter Really Listener

LISBON, Ohio — G. H. Burton of nearby Columbiana, in charge of the Firestone Park defense station, is not exactly an airplane spotter.

Although co-workers say he can identify an approaching plane long before most, Burton is considered to be more of an airplane "listener." He is totally blind.

Hippo Is Useful Though Clumsy

Living on Vegetation, Renders Valuable Aid to Keep Streams Open

WASHINGTON—The big-mouthed hippopotamus may not win any bathing beauty contests, but in rivers and swamps of Africa it takes front place as a useful resident.

Such was the verdict recently in Nyasaland, southeast Africa, where British officials declared that hippos perform valuable service in keeping lakes and streams free of clogging reeds and other vegetation.

Protests that the animals had been destroying crops and molesting people were dismissed in view of the fact that they eat and trample aquatic plants that would crowd out fish and impede navigation. It was ruled that they may be killed only when obviously dangerous, or when caught in the act of raiding gardens and fields.

FOUR-TON BEHEMOTH

The common hippopotamus—whose name comes from Greek words meaning water horse—is no zephyr in action. Some of the largest are 14 feet long and weigh more than four tons, says the National Geographic Society. A single tusklake tooth may tip the scales at seven pounds.

Dozing during the day in sun-warmed rivers, deep pools, or oozy mud holes, they forage after dark. When food is scarce, they may wander far in search of unfenced cultivated fields of corn, rice, or sugar cane.

VFW Post 1370 Would Vitalize Membership

A campaign has been launched to reactivate VFW Post 1370, Cmdr. Clayton Hall announced today.

The Pontiac Post, once noted for having one of the finest drum and bugle corps in the state, has dwindled in membership since its 1,300 strong in the immediate post-war years, 1945-47.

Sgt. Leon Rhyndress was chosen first military instructor for drill squads in the new program. Said Rhyndress:

"We urge all past members of this organization to come back to the old homestead; sign up and get in good standing. We encourage new members to join us, so that we may once again be one of the finest posts in the country."

Rhyndress announced that the drum and bugle corps will meet at the post building, 398 S. Saginaw St., every Tuesday night. Regular meetings will be held on Wednesday nights.

Too Slow on the Draw, Man Shoots Himself

He was practicing with his .357 Magnum revolver when the weapon discharged before clearing his holster. The bullet entered his upper thigh.

Fans Munch on Carrots During Basketball Game

STANTON, Neb. — Raw carrots have replaced candy bars as fan-food at Stanton High School basketball games.

Stanton seniors recently offered raw carrots for sale at 5 cents each and now about 30 pounds are consumed at each game.

To Vote on School Issue

SCOTTVILLE, Mo. — Voters of Mason County's Central School District will ballot April 24 in a special election on a $952,000 bond issue for financing a new high school for 400 pupils and six new elementary rooms to house district school children.

Begins Study of Polio Shots

House Group to Probe Why Few U.S. Citizens Have Been Inoculated

WASHINGTON (INS)—A House subcommittee sets out today to find out why, after two years, only one in ten eligible Americans has received three-shot protection against polio.

Chairman L. H. Fountain (D-NC), said his group would also try to "obtain authoritative information concerning the present supply of Salk vaccine."

Dr. Leroy S. Burney, U. S. surgeon general, heads a list of witnesses from the Public Health Service, which has been under fire because of Salk vaccine supply troubles.

A subcommittee source said figures from Burney's office show that, as of March 1, only 11 million men, women and children in the priority age groups have received the three Salk shots considered necessary for immunity.

The figure contrasts sharply with predictions made when the mass inoculation program began almost two years ago, and falls far short of official estimates in recent months.

Fountain, who heads an inter-governmental relations subcommittee, began looking into the polio situation last fall. Its disclosures of alleged price-fixing by vaccine manufacturers led this month to a federal grand jury investigation.

Accident Hospitalizes Birmingham Boy, 9

A 9-year-old Birmingham boy is in satisfactory condition today in Pontiac General Hospital, following a two-car collision yesterday on Telegraph road near Pontiac Lake road.

William A. Borycz was injured when the car driven by his mother, Mrs. Millicent E. Borycz, 32, of 7170 Merrybrook Rd., collided with one driven by Mark M. Abend, 32, of Detroit, Waterford Township police said.

Mrs. Borycz was uninjured, and Abend was treated and released at Pontiac General Hospital.

Civic Center Drawings Viewed

Preliminary drawings of the proposed Pontiac civic auditorium were viewed for the first time yesterday by a committee striving to make the building a reality by March 15, 1961—the city's 100th birthday.

The nine members of a Centennial Auditorium Subcommittee of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce agreed that they liked what they saw.

City Post Office to Shut Windows on Wednesdays

The Pontiac Post Office will suspend window service on Wednesday afternoons starting April 3, Acting Postmaster Leslie H. Dean said today.

The move is designed as an economy measure and is made possible by the lack of business after noon on Wednesdays, Dean added.

He said many banks, law and medical offices and businesses close at noon Wednesday, which has cut post office business to a trickle.

The early closing will apply to both the Main Post Office and the Huron Gardens Branch, Dean said.

Border Patrolman Found Dead in Office

DETROIT (INS)—A 26-year-old U. S. Border patrolman was found dead in the patrol's Detroit office early today, an apparent suicide victim.

Police said Michael Scibetta was found with a bullet wound in the head. His service revolver lay on a desk.

Officers said Scibetta left three letters for a brother and two friends in which he said, "I'm not a happy person and would be better off dead."

Basically, the planned auditorium consists of two sections connected by a lobby. One section consists of two half circles, and the other part is a hexagonal auditorium.

Final plans, along with a scale model, are expected to be submitted May 1, according to Ralph T. Norvell, chairman of the Centennial Committee.

DONATE $15,000

A donation of $15,000 from the Pontiac Foundation, a civic organization with a goal of a civic auditorium, kicked off preliminary sketches and planning by the Detroit architectural firm of Smith, Hinchman & Grylls, Inc.

Three members of the firm met with the committee at noon at the Waldron Hotel to present floor plans and discuss details of the proposed auditorium.

Norvell said today the committee thought, by the time final drawings and costs are submitted, that the auditorium would cost between $3½ to $4,000,000. He stressed that this was the committee's "hope" and not an estimate from the architects. Means of raising the money is still undecided, he added.

As outlined by the designers, the auditorium will be located to the south of the City Hall and between Hill street on the east and South Park on the west.

Maximum planned capacity for the auditorium is 6,760 persons. The building will have 100,000 square feet of floor space.

USE FOR MEETINGS

The circular section, to be divided by sliding partitions, will be devoted to meetings. The auditorium, with seats for 4,300, will be for theater events, sporting events like basketball, hockey, boxing, and tennis and other activities like conventions, commencements, ice shows, banquets, concerts, builders and automobile shows.

A unique feature of this section will be a 120 by 90-foot ground floor which will be tilted to give better vision for all during theatrical performances.

Tax Writers Back 15-Month Extension

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) said today House leaders have agreed to go along with a plan to increase from a year to 15 months an extension of present rates on corporation and excise taxes.

In view of this, Byrd told a reporter, the Finance Committee heads undoubtedly will vote for the longer extension to July 1, 1958. The House already has voted an extension to April 1, 1958. Unless Congress acts, the business tax rates will drop April 1, cutting revenues three billion dollars a year.

Byrd said the longer extension would have the advantage of making the tax dates correspond with

Hopes to Open Straits

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Coast Guard said yesterday it hopes to open the Straits of Mackinac to navigation March 31 or April 1.

But it told the Ice Committee of the Lake Carriers' Assn. it is doubtful if the St. Mary's River can be opened until April 10 or later.

Ice conditions in the Straits of Mackinac are about average, but ice is 24 inches thick in the White Fish Bay area of Lake Superior, the Coast Guard reported.

The lower lakes are almost free of ice, and the 30-day weather outlook is for normal or above normal temperatures.

22 Educational Study Projects Approved

WASHINGTON (AP)—The office of Education reported yesterday that it approved 22 cooperative educational research projects during January and February.

Federal funds totaling $416,131 were earmarked to help finance the work. Cooperating colleges, universities and state departments of education also will contribute funds.

The office said it has approved 38 research projects since the program was started last September. A total of $742,361 in federal funds has been allocated.

Eleven of the new agreements concern education of the mentally retarded. One part of the research will be conducted by Wayne State University of Detroit. Other projects approved this year include: Special abilities of pupils—University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Bound Over on Charge of Robbing Cab Driver

O. C. Truett, 29, of 22 Rockwell St., accused of robbing a Pontiac cab driver at knife-point, was bound over to Circuit Court Wednesday when he appeared before Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum.

Truett was returned to the Oakland County Jail pending arraignment Monday, after he failed to furnish the required $500 bond. Approximately five dollars was taken from the driver.

To Offer Chicago-to-Europe Service Seaway Line Scheduled

CHICAGO (U)—Direct passenger ship service will link the Midwest United States with European ports when the St. Lawrence Seaway opens in 1939.

Anthony Veder of Rotterdam, Netherlands, co-owner of the Fjell-Oranje Lines, announced here yesterday that two combination passenger-freighters accommodating 300 passengers each will provide the first deluxe passenger service in history between Chicago, Montreal and the seaports of France, Great Britain and the Netherlands.

The vessels, he told a news conference, will be in the 7,000-8,000 ton class, have a draft of 26-28 feet and a speed of 18 knots.

He estimated the ocean travel time at 9 to 10 days plus an as yet undetermined time through the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Seaway.

Construction of the vessels, which also will carry 7,000-8,000 tons of freight has not yet started, he said, although contracts have been placed.

Veder and his colleague, Kristoffer Olsen, said no estimate of fares has been made.

The Fjell and Oranje Lines pioneered in all-water freight service between the Great Lakes and Europe in the 1920s.

Egypt's Tourist Trade Hit by Suez Trouble

CAIRO (U)—There is no tourism season this year because of the triplicate aggression against Egypt. All foreigners hesitate to visit the country because of present unstable conditions, declared Rashad Morad, general manager of the Tourist Department.

New Turnpike Missing From Oklahoma Map

OKLAHOMA CITY (U)—The Oklahoma Turnpike Authority is a little more than unhappy with the State Highway Department. As a promotion for this year's 50th anniversary of Oklahoma statehood, the Highway Department published a golden anniversary highway map. It left out one thing—the new 8-mile Will Rogers Turnpike from Tulsa to the Missouri Line, which has been under construction 18 months and opens in May.

Announcer's Tongue Slipped Just a Little

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (U)—Radio announcer Keith Ashton's tongue slipped a little during his broadcast.

"The 34th Wyoming legislature is now in its final week of lawbreaking," he said. After a short pause he backtracked: "Apparently that should be lawmaking."

Brilliant Minds Conflict in Adams' Murder Trial

LONDON (NEA)—Here are capsule closeups of the main figures in the Eastbourne murder trial:

Scene: The Central Criminal Court, better known as the Old Bailey, London.

Accused: Dr. John Bodkin Adams, 55-year-old Irish bachelor, who was Eastbourne's leading family doctor, a Sunday school teacher, and chairman of the local YMCA. He was also personal physician to the Chief Constable of Eastbourne.

Charge: Dr. Adams is accused of murdering with an overdose of drugs Mrs. Edith Morrell, wealthy and eccentric widow of Eastbourne.

In addition, the Crown contends that he drugged to death at least two other rich patients. Altogether, the deaths of 17 of Dr. Adams' patients, most of them elderly widows, is under investigation by Scotland Yard.

Judge: Mr. Justice Devlin, 51, who is tipped for Britain's highest judicial post, that of Lord Chief Justice. When Devlin gave up a $45,000-a-year law practice to become a high court judge at one-third that sum, he scarcely felt the pinch; his wife is the daughter of Sir Bernard Oppenheimer, the diamond magnate.

By a curious twist of fate, he made his name in a poisoning trial, prosecuting for the Crown in the famous case of Mrs. Sarah Hearn, accused of a double arsenic murder.

Prosecutor: Melford Stevenson, Queen's Counsel, known at the exclusive Garrick Club as a wit and a good judge of wine. As a major during the war, he was legal adviser to Viscount Montgomery, handled the case against five German U-boat men who machine-gunned seven British survivors of a ship torpedoed in the South Atlantic.

Hobby: Golf. He plays a precise, broad-shouldered game, drinks little, chain-smokes.

Defense: Geoffrey Lawrence, Recorder of Canterbury, who is of less than medium height, sparely-built, speaks with a deceptively soft voice, where Stevenson is apt to bluster.

Lawrence drives his own comfortable, but unpretentious sedan. His hobby is music, and he plays several instruments brilliantly and rather dreamily, but his eyes are quick, and his movements sharp as a bird.

Star Witness: Detective Superintendent Herbert "Bert" Hannam, 46, head of Scotland Yard's murder squad, whose hobby is pastry-cooking, and who is known at the Yard as "The Count," owing to his rather dandified dress.

Hannam made his name in 1933 for his brilliant solution of the so-called "Towpath Murders," the brutal stabbing of two teen-age girls, whose bodies were thrown into the Thames. He is an expert on forgery, serves as the Yard's liaison man with the Bank of England. He once worked closely with J. Edgar Hoover in stopping the smuggling of dollars from dollar-shy Britain. Hannam lectures at the Detectives' Training School, has a 23-year-old son, Kenneth, who is a policeman.

Man Listed as Dead Just Paperwork Victim

MEXICO CITY (U)—Estrada Rendon, an assault victim, was officially dead but police couldn't find the body where it was supposed to be, in the morgue of Juarez hospital.

They were sent there by the district attorney to verify officially the death of the man who has "three wounds from a sharp knife." Rendon was known to have been given first aid by the Red Cross and then sent to the hospital. Finally it was learned Rendon was dead only on paper and recovering fine.

By clerical error on hospital records, his name was switched with that of a heart attack victim.

Bathroom Faucets Easy to Identify

CINCINNATI (U)—Here's one stolen car that police figure they won't have any trouble spotting. The owner's description added that it "has two bathroom faucets affixed to its hood" as radiator decorations.

Cause No Major Damage

Rain, Hail Pound Texas as Streams Engulf Roads

DALLAS (U)—Torrential rains flooded streams and roads in central Texas yesterday and five tornadoes skipped across portions of the state without causing any major damage.

Thunderstorms continued to lash portions of south central Texas today, but the rain was tapering off in other areas.

A freak spring storm blanketed Dalhart in the Panhandle with 3 inches of snow and hail the size of golf balls pounded parts of the hill country in central Texas.

A father and son believed drowned when heavy rains caused streams to overflow later turned up safe as the water began receding. Pleasanton Arthur Lewis, 42, of Buda, Tex., 13 miles south of Austin, was trapped on the Williamson Creek bridge when floodwaters stalled his pickup truck. He got out of the vehicle and clung to a tree until an ambulance crew rescued him. His truck was washed away.

Some 8 or 10 miles east, his son Burton Lewis, 17, was having a similar experience. The boy was on a school bus returning from a track meet when it was caught in a terrific hail storm in Creedmoor, 12 miles southeast of Austin. Windows of the bus were knocked out and the engine stalled. Young Lewis borrowed a car to go for help and the vehicle stalled in high water on a bridge. He was forced to hang on to the bridge railing until help arrived.

Heavy rains also fell in north central Texas and along the Gulf Coast, which was lashed by a storm of hurricane force last weekend. Lighter rain fell in portions of the drought-seared range country of west Texas.

A tornado dipped down at Giddings, destroyed two barns and overturned a house trailer. The other twisters were reported sighted at Big Spring, Stanton, Crane and Seminole in west Texas, but there was no property damage or injuries. Another unconfirmed twister was reported near Beeville in south Texas.

Ronald Christian, about 19, was killed and his wife was critically injured, when their car hit a culvert in Waxahachie during a heavy rain. Austin got more than an inch of rain in 30 minutes.

Big Great Lakes Ships Arrive in Detroit

DETROIT (INS)—The first ships down from the Upper Great Lakes arrived in Detroit during the night. The ships are the limestone carriers, the Calite and the Clymer. They sailed from Rogers City Tuesday.

Imperial Oil Co. tankers have been sailing from Sarnia to Toledo and Cleveland for the past week, but the limestone carriers were the first of the big cargo vessels to make the Lake Huron passage.

Sanity Hearing Set for Sniper

Three Psychiatrists to Testify Tomorrow on Taylor's Condition

A Circuit Court sanity hearing at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow will determine if Gary Addison Taylor, Oakland County's confessed "phantom sniper," will be prosecuted on a charge of assault with intent to murder.

Three psychiatrists who have examined Taylor in Oakland County Jail will testify whether the 29-year-old Southfield Township factory worker is sane and capable of standing trial.

If Judge Frank L. Doty rules Taylor insane, it means that a criminal examination March 29 will be called off and Taylor will be committed to a mental institution.

Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem said that if Taylor is committed, he still will be liable for prosecution if he is ever judged sane and released.

Taylor admitted wounding three women with a .22 caliber rifle from his car the night of Feb. 7 and also a dozen other shootings since last December in which no one was hurt.

Ex-Hobo Sends Thanks

MIDLAND, Tex. (U)—The Police Department here got a Christmas card from a man in Long Branch, N.J., who wanted to thank them for the kindness they showed him when he was a hobo in 1933.

Security for You

Relative Can Take Over SS Payment

By RAY HENRY
Associated Press Writer

Many thousands of people getting Social Security payments every year become incapable of handling their money due to mental or physical troubles.

To meet such problems, the Social Security Administration usually follows a simple course: It continues to make the payments, but pays them to someone—usually a close relative—who'll handle the money in the best interests of the incompetent person.

Of course, the Social Security Administration has to be told of such cases before it can take any action.

Suppose, for example, your mother is dead and your aged father who's receiving Social Security payments is living with you. And, suppose, tomorrow he's hit by an automobile and totally paralyzed. Naturally, in this condition, he isn't able to handle his Social Security money and should have someone to do it for him.

NEAREST OFFICE

Your first step should be to visit the nearest Social Security office and explain the situation. This is he course to follow whether you're taking care of your father at home or he's being treated in a hospital.

Since you've taken the trouble to explain the situation to the Social Security office, you'll be asked if you want to be named as the person to handle your father's Social Security money.

If your answer is "yes," you'll be asked to fill out an application form. Among other things, the application will include questions designed to show your interest in caring for your father. This information isn't sought to pry or to cast doubt on your interest. It's only to protect incompetent persons from people who might try to take advantage of them.

AFTER COMPLETION

After you've completed the application, the Social Security office will start two investigations.

First, it will seek medical evidence to show that your father is actually incompetent and unable to handle his own money. To get this evidence, it'll go to doctors and hospitals treating him. You may be asked to help get such evidence.

Second, it'll investigate you to determine whether it should let you handle your father's money; whether you'll handle it in his best interests. This investigation probably will be confined to members of your family, the family doctor and clergyman and, perhaps, your father's former boss.

FOR PROTECTION

Again, this information is sought as a necessary step to protect incompetents.

After the investigations, assuming nothing unusual shows up, the Social Security office will recommend to Social Security headquarters that you be named to handle your father's money.

If your father remains incompetent for very long, the Social Security people will probably call on you to see how things are working out. It may even ask you to account for the money you've received for your father.

Although few of the cases involving incompetents will exactly parallel this example, the procedure followed in most cases is the same.

In any case, if someone close to you should become physically or mentally incompetent and you feel he's not capable of handling his own money, don't hesitate to get in touch with your nearest Social Security office. It's handled hundreds of such cases and will be able to advise you.

(Questions on Social Security problems may be addressed to "Social Security," in care of The Pontiac Press. Questions will be answered by mail from the Pontiac office of the Social Security Administration. There is no charge for this service.)

Educational Researcher Says Michigan Should Add 31 Institutions

LANSING (U) — The director of a study of higher education believes Michigan should make a greater financial effort in this direction, considering her population and wealth.

Dr. John Dale Russell, chief researcher for a special legislative committee on higher education, said that Michigan's present facilities are not commensurate with her 4.45 per cent of the national population.

He made a 140-page preliminary report on his work to the committee yesterday. It included no specific recommendations on finance. He said these would come later.

Russell said the state needs 31 additional post-high school institutions if it is to meet a "reasonable" standard of educational service, in view of its population and wealth.

Taking 4.60 per cent of the national total as a reasonable figure for the state, he said, Michigan would have had to have enrolled 5,330 additional students in the fall of 1935 to measure up.

RELATIVELY PROSPEROUS

He quoted at length from statistical data to show that Michigan is a "relatively prosperous state," including figures on individual income, auto registrations, taxes paid, manufactured goods produced, savings bonds held and life insurance in force.

For example, he said, in 1935 per capita income was $2,005 as against the national total, is "considerably below the expectancy from the state's population and economic status," he said.

On the other hand, Michigan is far above average in the award of master's and second professional degrees, with a percentage of 5.22.

To reach the level of suggested reasonable attainment in granting of bachelor's degrees, the state would have to award 1,730 more than it did in 1935-36, he said.

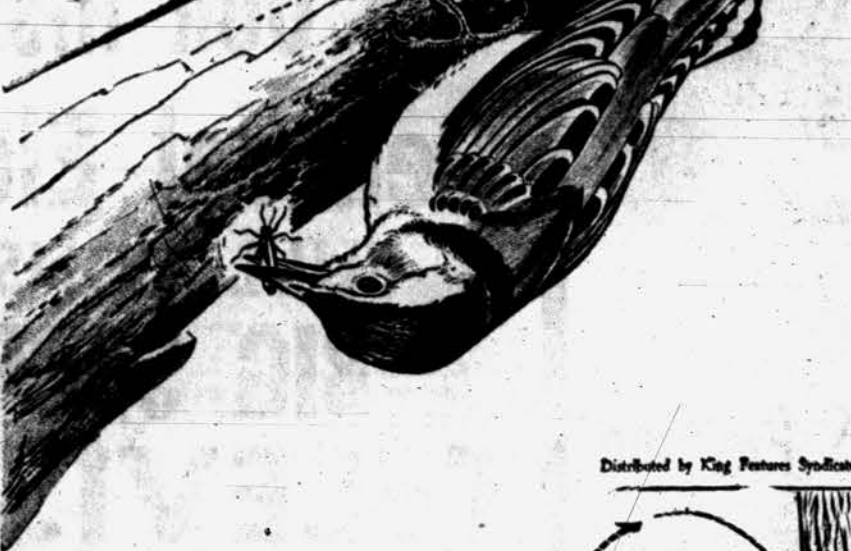

Warns of Smog Hazard

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (U) — California smog could cause "immediate disaster," an Assembly subcommittee says. Experts agree disaster could hit Los Angeles with high concentrations on air pollution causing deaths, an Assembly Public Health subcommittee said in a report.

Dr. White Plans to Take Up Golf When He's Older

WASHINGTON (U) — Dr. Paul Dudley White, President Eisenhower's heart specialist, says he plans to take up golf again "when I am old enough." White will be 71 June 6.

Right now, he told a House Appropriations subcommittee recently, he hasn't time for golf.

Dr. White discussed his plans while appealing for continued federal financial help in the fight to curb heart disease. His testimony was made public today.

Exercise, he said, is necessary to good health.

"What about playing golf?" asked Rep. Fogarty (D-R.I.), a victim of one heart attack.

White told the Rhode Island lawmaker he thought it "is good" for someone with a heart history like Fogarty's to play golf.

"Do you play golf?" asked Rep. Taber (R-N.Y.).

"I haven't had the time," White answered, "but I will take it up again when I am old enough."

Scrap Resumes on Boys School

3 Legislators Demand State Sell Property Near Whitmore Lake

LANSING (U) — The scrap over relocation of the Boys Vocational School was resumed today in the House.

Three lawmakers demanded that the state sell a 278-acre tract acquired near Whitmore Lake at a cost of $90,268 last summer as a new site for BVS, now located in Lansing.

The demand was presented in bill form by Republican Reps. Adrian De Boon of Owosso, and George W. Sallade and James F. Warner, both of Ann Arbor.

In a statement, they said: "It is difficult to understand a policy that would permit the state to build its public institutions in areas where there is almost unanimous opposition to the proposed project."

"Every population study available indicates that Whitmore Lake is in the heart of a rapidly expanding residential and industrial area."

"It would appear that the state might be guilty of extreme shortsightedness to erect BVS in this vicinity."

The lawmakers said other communities in the state had expressed a willingness to take the school, and that these should be considered.

Radiological Monitoring Classes to Start April 1 at Pontiac High School

Fifteen openings are still available for a Civil Defense Radiological Monitoring Course to be given weekly April 1 through June 17 at Pontiac High School. Robert A. Stierer, assistant CD director for Pontiac, announced today.

He said 15 applications have been received from Pontiac city employees, and from Birmingham and Berkeley.

The course will be held each

Monday night from 7 until 10. Instructor will be Victor Lindquist, PHS science teacher and graduate of a University of Michigan radiological course.

Fred T. McDermott, state industrial hygienist for the Michigan Department of Public Health, will assist Lindquist.

Stierer said applicants should be civil defense personnel from Oakland County, or persons willing to make their course training available to CD organizations.

Applications may be secured from Stierer at the City Hall, 33 S. Parke St., or at the county CD office at 1 Lafayette St.

Space Hops in 50 Years

PHILADELPHIA (U) — Interplanetary travel will become "commonplace" in the next 50 years, World War I ace Eddie Rickenbacker told an audience of Rotarians.

3 University Heads, State Solons Meet

LANSING (U) — Heads of the state's three largest universities and a group of legislators will meet tonight to talk upward revision of tuition fees.

The session was arranged by the University presidents who have opposed any steep boost in tuition rates against rising pressure for a 20 to 30 per cent increase from many legislative leaders.

In disclosing Tuesday that the meeting would take place on the Michigan State University campus, Sen. Elmer R. Porter said "they want the meeting closed to the press."

Yesterday, a written invitation to attend was addressed to capital newsmen by Robert N. Cross, a liaison man for the University of Michigan.

Macmillan Tops in Service

By International News Service

With his dandy mustache and look of Edwardian elegance Harold Macmillan could be an English squire with no greater worries than keeping his hedges and coupons neatly clipped.

But Macmillan is Prime Minister of Britain at a time when the country is beset by economic worries at home and declining prestige abroad. It is a time for toughness.

And Harold Macmillan can be tough while maintaining his aristocratic demeanor.

The man who will meet President Eisenhower in Bermuda Wednesday proved the special character of his toughness more than 40 years ago on the battlefields of France. Wounded three times, he lay all night in a No-Man's Land reading Horace in the original until he was rescued at daybreak.

Since that time, while building dual careers in the publishing business and politics, Macmillan has had plenty of opportunity to show the flint-like nature of his character.

In the mid-1930s he fought the leadership of the Conservative party, branding them a "collection of extinct volcanoes." In 1936, furious at the Conservative government's refusal to move against the rising European dictators, he became an "independent conservative."

Son of an Indiana-born mother and a scion of the Macmillan publishing family, Macmillan got to know Gen. Dwight Eisenhower when he was assigned to the post of British Minister Resident in French North Africa. He remains a firm believer in the Anglo-American alliance.

Macmillan has had broader experience in government at the top level than any Briton now active—he served as minister of housing, defense minister, foreign secretary and chancellor of the exchequer before succeeding Sir Anthony Eden in January.

Sixty-three years old, he has been married since 1920 to Lady

Dorothea Cavendish, a daughter of the ninth Duke of Devonshire. They have three daughters, a son and 11 grandchildren.

"I married a quiet publisher," Mrs. Macmillan, a woman of vitality and wit, said recently, "and look what I got."

Texans to Bat Bats

AUSTIN, Tex. (U) — The house has unanimously passed a bill allowing persons with bats in the belfry to kill them. It has been illegal in Texas since 1917. Rep. J. B. Walling of Wichita Falls said the bats constitute a health hazard.

Costa Rica now has 214 ocean-going vessels registered under its flag, San Jose learns.

Words Reflect World History, Geography

WASHINGTON — A wealth of geographical information lurks behind the average American's everyday vocabulary. Hundreds of familiar things commemorate — in name — the places that first gave them prominence, says the National Geographic Society.

For example, two staples of American cuisine, the frankfurter and the hamburger, owe their names to the German cities of Frankfurt and Hamburg. The sardine was christened for the Mediterranean island of Sardinia, whose coastal waters swarm with the tiny but toothsome fish. And the orange native to Tangier became known, suitably enough, as the tangerine.

Camembert, a soft, richly flavored cheese, takes its name from the village in Normandy which first produced it. Limburger, Cheddar, and Gorgonzola are other noted cheeses named for their Belgian, English, and Italian places of origin.

Mayonnaise, a variant of the original term mahonnaise, refers to Mahon, a port on the island of Minorca, where the salad dressing was first whipped up by an inspired chef.

Endurance races are known as marathons because, in 490 B.C., an Athenian courier ran an incredible 150 miles in two days for the Greek reinforcements who ultimately defeated the Persians in a great battle on the Plain of Marathon.

EMPERIAL LAP DOG

A popular dog, once bred exclusively for the Chinese imperial family at Peking, is known as Pekingese. The flashing, golden-throated canary is, naturally, a native of the Canary Islands.

Bayonets were first used in Bayonne, France.

Champagne was originally fermented in the French province of that name, and Port wine is a product of Oporto in Portugal.

Revenue for Detroit

DETROIT (INS)—An estimated $175 million was added to Detroit tax assessment rolls during a 12-day review by Common Council. The review, notable for its uneventfulness, ended yesterday.

SPEECH WINNERS—Stephanie Boyland, left, a junior at Waterford High School, placed first in the Knights of Pythias Speech Contest Tuesday. The runner up was Barbara Hutchings, a senior. The pair scored among eight Waterford and Pontiac High contestants to advance to the state contest.

2 Waterford High Girls Top Area Speech Contest

Waterford High School walked off with top honors in the Knights of Pythias district speech contest held Tuesday evening at Fellowship Hall, Waterford Township.

The winner is Stephanie Boyland, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Setzer, 3664 Shoals, Drayton Plains. Stephanie is a junior at Waterford High.

Her alternate is a senior, Barbara Hutchings, 17, daughter of Mrs. Margery Hutchings, 27 Ramona Terrace, Waterford Township.

They won out among eight contestants, four from Pontiac High and four from Waterford.

Stephanie will compete June 8 in the state contest against winners from six other districts at Pontiac Lodge 19, 18½ W. Huron St.

The topic at the district meet was "Youth Looks at the Future." The eight contestants were chosen from 225 students who competed in elimination rounds at the two schools.

Winner of the state contest goes to the regional finals covering a 10-state area.

Centenarian Once Had Brush With Sioux Chief

RUSHVILLE, Ill. (U) — A man who once had a brush with Crazy Horse, chief of the Sioux Indian nation, now is in his 100th year.

Joseph Estes says he was on a wagon train that operated between Cheyenne and Deadwood, Wyo. Crazy Horse, another Indian and an interpreter rode toward Estes' outfit.

"Crazy Horse told us not to fire any guns or cause any trouble and we wouldn't be hurt. Then he and his Indians took off and we got through all right."

Estes attributes his longevity to peppermint candy and the fact that he "has taken care of himself."

General Douglas MacArthur was the youngest man ever to serve as the head of the United States military academy located here.

Denies Rumor 'Palace Guard' Isolates Ike

RUTHERFORD, N.J. (U)—Presidential secretary Bernard M. Shanley today denied that any "palace guard" prevents persons differing with the views of the White House staff from seeing President Eisenhower.

"Undoubtedly you have been reading many of the columnists who now indicate that a so-called palace guard is preventing the President from seeing members of the Congress and other people who would give him views other than those he is receiving from his staff."

"The President has given me full authority to determine his schedule from day to day. I therefore have a very grave responsibility to make certain that those who see the President represent not only different viewpoints but also are responsible spokesmen for his particular cause."

"The President is an inveterate reader and because of his vast experience . . . he personally would see to it that these diverse views were presented to him."

Shanley was counsel to the President for 25 months and has been presidential secretary for the past two years.

Norman's New Trucks Will Be 1st at Fire

NORMAN, Okla. (U) — Norman got four new fire trucks and the memories of the fire ladders went back when they got their 1930 Southern trucks now being retired.

A boy with a bicycle was hanging around the station when a fire alarm came in.

The boy jumped on his bicycle—and was waiting at the scene when the truck arrived.

MACAROONS FROM A MIX — Rich, yummy and chewy — coconut macaroons from a new mix are baked on specially treated paper to prevent sticking. Shown here is the almond variation.

Now, Slick as a Whistle — Non-Stick Macaroon Mix

"Once upon a time there was a cooky that homemakers didn't bake very often because they stuck to the pan."

Fairytale? Not at all. This story is about old-fashioned macaroons, those moist, chewy coconut cookies, luscious to eat — but next to impossible to make!

This month, however, brings a unique pair of mixes to grocery shelves—Coconut Macaroon Mix and Chocolate Coconut Macaroon Mix. In the time it takes to brew a cup of coffee or steep a pot of tea, two dozen delicious macaroon cookies can be baked and ready to eat.

Both flavors of the coconut cookies have the same method of preparation. Hot water is stirred into the coconut cookie mixture, then the cookies are dropped by teaspoons onto a special baking paper sized to baking sheets and inserted in each package of the mix.

This special "no stick" paper prevents the macaroons from sticking — it has been treated to repel the caramelization of sugar and coconut that takes place during the baking of the macaroon cookie.

Recipes for homemade macaroons combat the stickiness problem in several ways — each involving considerable fuss. The cookies can be baked on greased brown paper... then steamed from the paper with a hot wet towel. Or, the sheet can be heavily greased and floured with the recipe calling for a "standing period" for easier removal of the cookies.

EASY TO KEEP

Macaroons from the new mixes store easily — they stay fresh for weeks in an airtight container.

For variety in your cookie baking, try adding 1 tsp. grated orange rind to dry Coconut Mac-aron. Or mix in 1 cup miniature chocolate bits to dry Chocolate Macaroon mixture. Then proceed as directed on package.

The special "no stick" paper provides immediate removal of the cookie from the baking sheet, thus eliminating the "standing period" before cookies could be removed from the brown paper. For the paper, the firm first to the baker who, for years, has baked macaroons on a greaseproof liner sprayed with tiny particles that repel caramelization.

For eight months the company's research department tested various papers to find one offering instant "release." Once satisfied, the parchment type paper was cut and sized to standard baking sheets.

As with other prepared mixes, the tedious work of assembling ingredients is "built into" the new macaroon mixes. Recipes for homemade macaroons usually have an egg white-coconut or almond base. The Coconut Macaroon Mix, however, contains sugar, non-fat dry milk, corn syrup solids, starch and coconut.

Perk Up With Broth

Are you subject to those mid-morning slumps when energy deserts you and spirits sag? Try a perk-up, pep-up cup of hot beef broth, spiced if you like with a bit of curry or Worcestershire or tarragon. The hot broth will work wonders, and provide a good measure of energy for the rest of the busy morning.

Sunday brunch: Pork chops and apple rings accompanied by cornbread and lots of hot coffee. Nice to linger over with company!

Time to Bake Traditional Lenten Hot Cross Buns

A traditional feature in many homes during Lent is the serving of Hot Cross Buns.

For busy homemakers who like to bake Hot Cross Buns, we present a tested recipe for a basic dough that is keyed to modern homemaking efficiency.

Our recipe, which makes four dozen Hot Cross Buns, can be kept in the refrigerator for about five days. So it is possible to prepare enough dough at one time to make two or more servings of Hot Cross Buns.

No need to scald the milk, for our recipe also features a convenient method of preparation with instant nonfat dry milk powder. Simply add the powder to the flour and the yeast is dissolved in warm water. Also, it is possible to enrich the recipe without increasing the quantity by using the dry milk.

1/2 cup warm water
1/2 cup hot water
6 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup salt
1/2 cup cinnamon
1 egg, beaten
3/4 cup sifted flour
1 cup instant nonfat dry milk powder
1 egg yolk, slightly beaten

Sprinkle or crumble yeast into warm water; stir until dissolved. Into the hot water stir sugar, shortening, salt and cinnamon; cool to lukewarm; add yeast.

Add egg and 2 cups of the flour; beat until smooth. Sift together remaining flour and dry milk powder; stir into mixture. Add raisins or currants.

Place dough in a greased bowl; brush top with soft shortening. Cover tightly with waxed paper. Store in refrigerator at least 2 hours before using (will keep in refrigerator about 5 days). When ready to use, punch down dough and cut off amount needed.

Shape into balls 1 1/2 inches in diameter; place in greased 8-inch square pan. Brush with egg yolk; cover; let rise about 1/2 hour or until doubled in bulk. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) about 30 minutes.

When cool, make a cross with confectioners' sugar frosting atop each bun. If desired, sprinkle lightly with confectioners' sugar.

HOT CROSS BUNS — A traditional highlight of the Lenten season is the serving of Hot Cross Buns. This tested recipe, enriched with instant nonfat dry milk, is keyed to modern homemaking efficiency.

Asks Close Relation of Church and State

Speaking before a Presbyterian men's group at Montreal, N. C., Dr. Edward W. Grant declared that the present-day separation of church and state is not what the founding fathers had in mind. It was not the original idea to keep religion out of government, but to keep a church from dominating government. "The church," stated Dr. Grant, "is the only conscience the government has. When a church is silent, the state can have no conscience."

Dr. Grant is a prominent Presbyterian layman and a former Christian education executive.

If you're opening a can of pears for dessert, sprinkle a dash of ginger over each serving—for a different twist.

Light as Summer Cloud Is German Schaum Torte

Dessert parties are popular for both afternoon and evening affairs. Today, when many folks are counting calories, yet still love yummy desserts, this idea of an invitation to come for "dessert" seems a welcome solution to the problem.

This gives each guest a chance to come fortified with a pre-snack to suit his diet.

Schaum Torte is a meringue but has a definite distinction all its own.

The original came from a German cook who had no electric beater nor modern range. It required stamina and vigilance to make the perfect torte for which she was famous.

Today's cook, with modern conveniences, can be an expert on the first try.

First Prize Schaum Torte

6 egg whites
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 cup sugar
1 quart ice cream
1 pint strawberries

Line a 13x9-inch baking pan with 2 layers of wrapping paper. Heat and set the oven at 300 degrees.

Combine egg whites and salt in a large mixing bowl. Sift together 1 cup sugar and baking powder. Now beat the egg whites until they stand in peaks when beater is lifted.

Add sugar and baking powder slowly and continue beating about 2 minutes. Then beat in vinegar and remaining 1 cup sugar. Beat well. This meringue should look dull, but not overbeat.

Use a rubber scraper to make sure the sugar is thoroughly mixed into the egg whites. Scrape this meringue into the paper-lined pan and smooth it evenly over the top. Bake in a slow oven for 1 1/2 hours. It will rise, then settle.

The top should be the color of coffee with cream. Cool on a cake rack. Don't worry if the top cracks and looks queer. It will taste wonderful! Let this torte stay in the pan until serving time. Keep cool and dry (not in refrigerator).

At serving time, cut into eight pieces. Use a broad spatula to lift each piece onto a dessert plate. Top with ice cream, then add sliced strawberries or peaches around or over the ice cream.

Unmold onto greens. Serve with sliced meats and cheese. Makes 8 servings.

Form Spaghetti in Gelatin Mold

Spaghetti Mousse is perfect for buffet meals or a smorgasbord. Tart and tasty, it features shrimp and stuffed olives.

Unmold it on a platter covered with lettuce or other greens. It's good to serve with sliced meats and cheese.

Spaghetti Mousse

1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin (1 envelope)
1/2 cup cold water
1 1/2 cups boiling water
1/2 cup lemon juice
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 or 5 drops tabasco
4 ounces elbow spaghetti
2 cups chopped cooked shrimp
1/2 cup sliced pimiento-stuffed olives
1/2 cup chilled undiluted evaporated milk

Sift gelatin in cold water in a large bowl. Add boiling water and stir until completely dissolved. Stir in lemon juice, sugar, salt and tabasco. Chill until partially set.

Meanwhile, cook spaghetti. Add 2 teaspoons salt and spaghetti to 3 cups boiling water. Boil rapidly, stirring constantly, for 2 minutes. Cover, remove from heat and let stand 10 minutes. Rinse spaghetti with cold water and drain well.

Mix spaghetti into chilled gelatin with shrimp and olives. Whip evaporated milk until peaks are formed. Fold into spaghetti mixture and turn into 1 1/2 quart mold. Chill until firm.

Unmold onto greens. Serve with sliced meats and cheese. Makes 8 servings.

Streusel Muffins Always Popular at Breakfast Time

Muffins are always popular at breakfast time. Try these streusel muffins.

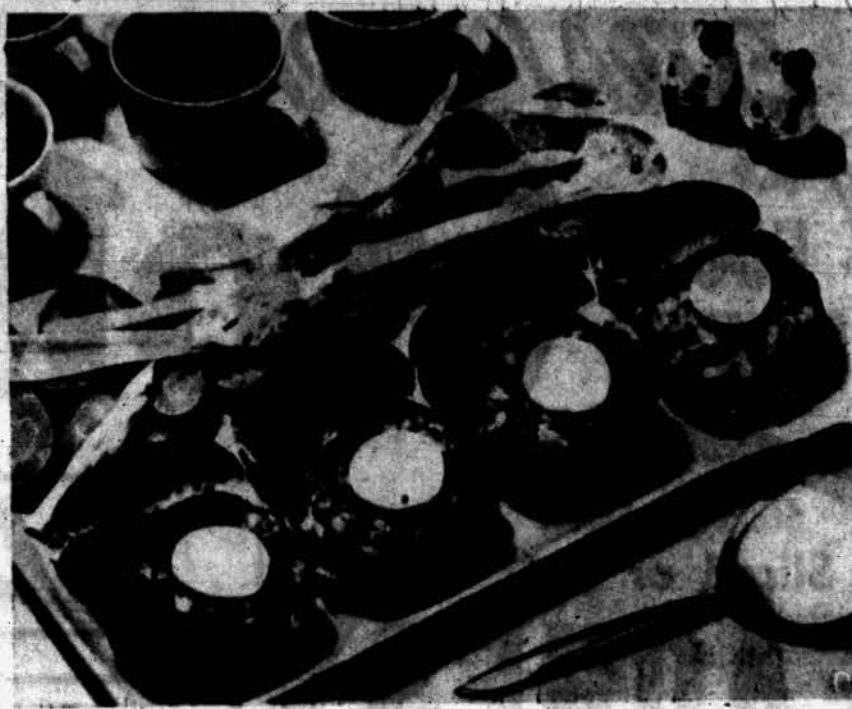

Combine 1/2 cup butter or margarine, 1/2 cup sugar and 1/2 cup sifted enriched flour to make streusel topping. Mix until crumbly.

Sift together 2 cups sifted enriched flour, 1 tablespoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt and 2 tablespoons sugar. Combine 1 beaten egg, 1 cup milk and 2 tablespoons melted shortening.

Add liquid to flour mixture. Stir only until flour is moistened. Fill greased muffin cups 3/4 full. Spoon about 1 tablespoon streusel topping over each muffin.

Bake in hot oven (425 degrees Fahrenheit) 20 minutes. Makes about 1 dozen 2-inch muffins.

Fold crushed pineapple (drained) into soft vanilla ice cream; place in freezing compartment of refrigerator until ice cream is firm and serve for a company dessert.

PLANKED PORTERHOUSE STEAK—Here's a treat no meat eater can resist — planked Porterhouse steak served sizzling hot with garnish of broiled tomatoes and halved mushrooms. Use a T-bone, Porterhouse, club, sirloin or even hamburger steak for this succulent entree.

You Can't Beat Broiled Steak

For elegant treatment of an elegant meat, plank a Porterhouse steak. The deliciously tender and flavorful meat is a handsome sight served sizzling hot on a planking board. The broiled steak-on-a-board may be accompanied by colorful vegetables which have been pre-cooked and arranged on the plank with the meat, then popped under the broiler for a quick, final, browning.

Any beef steak may be planked — T-bone, club, sirloin and even ground beef shaped as a steak. Lamb chops and steaks are frequently planked, and thick ham slices may be broiled and served on a planking board, too.

The ideal planking board is made of well-seasoned hardwood, and is oval in shape. It is grooved so that juices are retained on the board rather than lost in the oven. Before it is used, the plank should be heated in the oven, then rubbed with unsalted fat. After using, the plank should not be washed—simply wiped with absorbent paper to remove surplus grease, then rubbed with more paper or clean towel until clean.

To plank a steak, follow these directions:

1. Select a T-bone, Porterhouse or club steak cut 1½ inches or more in thickness. Slash edges of fat at two-inch intervals to prevent curling during broiling.

2. Place steak on rack of broiler pan and broil 3 to 5 inches from heat source. Allow 15 to 18 minutes per side for a medium-cooked steak 1½ inches thick. Season cooked side with salt and pepper. Turn meat with tongs and broil second side about 10 minutes.

3. Place broiled steak in the center of preheated plank. Arrange precooked vegetables around steak if you wish. Any two or three of the following might be used: Hot mashed potatoes, buttered peas, green beans, Brussels sprouts, julienne carrots, crumbed tomato halves, French-fried onion rings, mushroom caps or sliced whole mushrooms.

4. Brush vegetables with melted butter or margarine and return to broiler for 2 minutes or until second side of steak is cooked to preferred doneness and vegetables are hot. Season steak with salt and pepper and serve immediately.

Want a fish sauce with zip to it? Add capers or pimientos to white sauce and serve over fish—looks pretty, too.

Bright Red Apples Liven Up Menu

During the Lenten season you'll want to take full advantage of the spicy, fresh apples still plentiful because this versatile fruit, served in salads, for appetizers and in desserts, makes a real contribution towards brightening meatless menus. Choice quality apples, including popular varieties like the rosy red, all-purpose Washington Winesaps, are in good supply and these may be successfully used in any of your fresh or cooked dishes.

For a quick and satisfying lunch-on-a-snack, or when the teenagers gather to watch television at your house, here's a delicious-tasting fresh red apple and tuna mix that's heaped in hamburger rolls for service. Or, for a novel and different appetizer, offer a tray of fresh apples, cut into thick slices, with today's shrimp dip. For the dip you can use fresh, frozen or canned shrimp.

Fresh Apple and Tuna Buns
1 1/2-oz. can tuna, drained and flaked
1/2 cup celery, finely chopped
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Dash of ground cloves
1/4 cup mayonnaise

4 hamburger rolls
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
2-3 Winesap apples
Cut 2 apples into small diced pieces and mix with tuna, celery, lemon juice, cloves and mayonnaise. Chill well. Scoop out centers of rolls and spread with softened butter or mayonnaise. When ready to serve, fill with tuna-apple mixture. Cut remaining apple into wedges of thick slices and garnish each roll. Makes 4-6 servings.

Apple Fingers With Shrimp Dip
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon horseradish
1/2 teaspoon Tabasco sauce
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 teaspoon grated onion
1/2 teaspoon catchup
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper

Cook Meat at Low Heat

To serve meat at its best, cook at low heat for uniformly cooked meat, juicier and more tender meat. Less watching is required during cooking. It's more easily carved. There's more meat to serve and the servings are more attractive.

1 1/2-oz. can shrimp, drained, coarsely chopped
2-3 Winesap apples
Combine all ingredients except shrimp and apples in a bowl. Stir in shrimp. Chill thoroughly. Cut apples into thick slices, to serve as fingers. Makes 4-6 servings.

Chicken Liver Sauce Makes Spaghetti Better

Good cooks always have a few superb dishes in mind that can be prepared easily from ingredients at hand. This one may well become your specialty of the house. From the freezer you'll need a package of frozen chicken livers; from the pantry, canned spaghetti sauce with mushrooms and noodles or rice or spaghetti.

Thaw the package of chicken livers (8 ounce size) as directed. Brown lightly in 2 tablespoons of butter or margarine. Then stir in 2 cans (10½ ounces each) of spaghetti sauce with mushrooms. Heat over low heat about 5 minutes. Serve with pride over hot spaghetti, rice or noodles. Makes about 4-6 servings.

Extra Special Treat: Pineapple Macaroons

There's always a demand for cookies. These Pineapple Macaroons are extra special with crushed pineapple mixed right in the batter to add a delicious, subtle goodness.

Mix together ½ cup of sweetened condensed milk with 2 cups of shredded coconut. Add 1 cup of crushed pineapple, thoroughly drained, and a dash of salt. Drop by spoonfuls on a well-greased baking sheet, one inch apart. Bake at 350 degrees until delicately browned; about 12 minutes. Yield: about 2½ dozen macaroons.

Salt
1 tablespoon shortening
4 cups sliced tart cooking apples
1/2 cup Sultana raisins

Combine molasses and water; pour over apple mixture. Top with browned pork chops. Cover and bake 1 hour. Remove cover and bake ½ hour more. Yield: Four servings.

Combine 1 beaten egg and ½ to ¾ cup milk and add to flour mixture to make a soft dough. Turn out on a lightly floured board or pastry cloth and knead gently 30 seconds.

Roll out to rectangle ¼ inch thick and spread with currant or mint jelly. Roll up like jelly roll, sealing edge. Then slice into 1-inch pieces and place cut side down into lightly greased muffin cups.

Bake in moderately hot oven (350 degrees) 15 to 20 minutes. Makes about 1½ dozen rolls.

Campfire Girls Fete 47th Year Meal to Trick Doldrums

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Forty-seven years ago this week the Campfire Girls organization was started, an organization that trains young girls to become responsible citizens as well as capable homemakers. In honor of this birthday one group of Campfire Girls — the lively Bluebirds of McConnell School — gave themselves a dinner party. Now Bluebirds are the youngest group of Campfire Girls. But wise leaders like Mrs. John Vanderlind of Judson Street know that with the right direction they can plan, shop for and cook food. Her girls justified her faith in them. Not only did they carry through with the meal, but they cleaned up after themselves better than some older groups Mrs. Vanderlind has had. She just turned over the kitchen and dining room to them.

What did they have to eat? Hamburgers, of course. They wanted to buy green beans by the pound and fix them from scratch. But the store where they did their shopping had only frozen beans; the girls had to compromise.

Sliced tomatoes and chocolate pudding completed the menu. The girls divided the jobs to be done and with eight-year-old ingenuity carried through, even to table decorations. For some of the girls it was their first experience in preparing an entire meal.

Did they enjoy the experience? We think if their leader were willing, the Bluebirds would probably come over for dinner once a week — and do all the work themselves! Mrs. Vanderlind hopes that with the advent of spring she can plan some cook-outs for her 12 cooking students. Their enthusiasm will carry them along in high style.

For 47 years devoted leaders have given time and energy to helping Campfire Girls. For 47 years schools have stood back of the organization and have sponsored the groups. We hope that the cooperation will continue for many times 47. Happy Birthday, Campfire Girls.

Banana Malted Milk Is Any-Age Drink

All ages enjoy this sweet nutritious beverage.

Chocolate Banana Malted Milk:
2 small or medium-sized, fully ripe bananas
2 cups instant chocolate-flavored malted milk powder
2 cups homogenized milk

Make sure bananas are speckled with brown and are not green at the tip. Peel and mash fine with a fork.

Add malted milk and milk; beat well. Pour into glasses. Makes 3 medium-sized servings.

Have the late winter doldrums made you bored with the clothes you're wearing and the foods you're eating?

Though you might add a spring-time touch to your wardrobe, spring-type dishes served on a cold March night will hardly set dad and the youngsters hurrahing. Instead, simply add new interest to a typical hot and hearty dish.

Bolled beef with horseradish sauce accompanied by red cabbage with apples, for example, will perk up any appetite with its sweet and sour zestiness.

What's more, you can make a delicious soup by adding some cooked rice or noodles to the beef's leftover liquid.

Bolled Beef with Horseradish Sauce:
3 pounds brisket beef

1/2 cup sliced onions
1/2 cup sliced carrots
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 clove garlic, cut in half
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons sugar

Place beef in 4-quart pot. Add remaining ingredients. Cover with boiling water. Cover pot and simmer until meat is tender, (about 3-4 hours) adding boiling water, if necessary to keep meat covered. Serve with horseradish sauce. Yield: 6-8 servings.

Horseradish Sauce:
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup chopped onions
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 cups liquid from beef
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/2 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 cup horseradish, drained

Saute onions in butter until golden brown. Add flour and blend. Slowly stir in pot liquid and all other ingredients except horseradish. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Just before serving, stir in horseradish. Serve hot. Yield: 1 1/2 cups sauce.

Red Cabbage with Apples:
1 head (about 2 lbs.) red cabbage
1 cup boiling water
2 apples pared, cored and sliced
2 tablespoons malted butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup vinegar

Shred cabbage. Place in kettle. Add boiling water. Cook, covered, 12 minutes. Add remaining ingredients and cook an additional 10 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

New Trick for Bread:

Ever try mixing a little ground white pepper with lightly salted, melted butter or margarine and brushing it on slices of French bread before slipping it in the oven to heat through.

You can pep up commercially prepared mayonnaise to be used for cole slaw by adding sugar, vinegar, salt and pepper to it.

ALL ON THEIR OWN — These four Campfire Girls who belong to a group at McConnell School known as the Lively Bluebirds show how they prepared a meal for themselves. On the left, Constance Joy Vanderlind of Judson street and Evelyn Foote of Whittemore street are fixing hamburgers. The little dark-haired girl wielding the egg beater is Helen Weber of South Jessie street. Carefully, so as not to spill a drop, Lorraine King of Perkins street pours milk into the bowl for chocolate pudding. Eight other girls also helped, but the camera wasn't big enough to catch everyone. Mrs. John Vanderlind, leader of the group, opened her kitchen to the novice cooks.

Prize Rhubarb and Rhubarb Dishes Displayed at Utica Rhubarb Festival

Pontiac Press Home Editor

Last Saturday we saw the box of rhubarb that sold for $1,800. Not only did we see that particular rhubarb, but we also saw the place where it was grown and heard Emil Martin tell how his family has grown hothouse rhubarb for over half a century.

Michigan's second annual Rhubarb Festival took place in Utica on Saturday. Like all festivals, it had the pick of the crop competing for prizes. It had a queen, a ribbon-cutting ceremony and a dance.

In addition, it had a cooking school where Joanne Fredrick of Consumers Power showed various ways of using rhubarb in cooking. And it had a contest for dishes containing rhubarb, mainly rhubarb pie. Goodness, there are a lot of ways to make rhubarb pie.

Other interesting ways of using rhubarb were shown. One contestant made a batch of sweet dough and used a thick rhubarb sauce for filling a coffee cake. Another made shortbread and sandwiched them together before baking with a thick rhubarb sauce.

Alternate spoonfuls of sweetened rhubarb and whipped cream were used to fill cream puff cases. One of the junior contestants made a gelatin salad with rhubarb. And in place of the usual custard in a blitz torte, a rhubarb filling was used.

The following recipe comes from Mrs. Norman Wolgast of Mt. Clemens. Five of the eight dishes she entered in the cooking contest won ribbons—two firsts and three seconds. We asked her to send us her jelly recipe.

HOT HOUSE RHUBARB AND APPLE JELLY

4 cups apple juice
4 cups hot house rhubarb juice
4 cups sugar

Wash and cut apples into quarters without peeling. Barely cover with water and boil fruit until tender. Strain juice through jelly bag. Wash rhubarb and cut into one-inch pieces. Cook, adding small amount of water to get it started. Boil until tender.

Strain rhubarb juice through jelly bag. Mix with apple juice.

Measure and boil 15 minutes, add sugar and boil rapidly to jelly stage, about 15 minutes more.

As a fruit to serve with meat rhubarb is excellent. Try this recipe that uses pork chops or pork tenderloin.

PORK IN THE PINK

4 pork chops or pieces pork tenderloin
2 cups bread crumbs

4 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
Salt and pepper
1 cup fresh sliced rhubarb or 1 package frozen rhubarb
Mix crumbs, margarine, or butter, sugar and seasonings. Grease a shallow casserole. Put layer of crumbs, add meat, pour in rhubarb, top with rest of crumbs. Bake in 325-degree oven for 50 minutes. Makes four servings.

Stow Away Some Pork in the Freezer Now

Today's grocery store is a treasure chest loaded with gifts of meat, produce, dairy products and staple items. While some foods increased in cost this week, a few others decreased, reports the Consumer Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Sawyer. It will pay to do some "arm chair" shopping, study food ads and make a list before starting to the store.

MEATS—A lighter beef kill has helped to up the retail cost of many beef cuts. How much one has to spend will help determine if chuck roast and ground beef will be the buy or whether more expensive steaks will be selected.

U.S. Prime or U.S. Choice grades of top round steak can be broiled. True, they won't match other steaks in tenderness and flavor, but they can be less expensive. A large round steak may be divided into two different kinds of meals; the top for broiling and the bottom for braising.

Fresh pork cuts are receiving emphasis in many markets. Loin roasts or chops will cost several cents a pound less this week than they will in the near future. An extra "bit" of freezer space might be filled with a rib-end roast or the meatier center cut pork chops. Lenten demands for plenty of fish will be adequately met. Quality of fresh Lake Erie perch is improving. Cod, haddock, and ocean perch filets are the thrifty selection. The average 10-ounce package of fish sticks will serve three, but the shopper should remember that the proportion of actual lean meat does not compare with the same size serving of other fish without brooding.

Both hen and tom turkeys are as reasonably tagged as other poultry products. Choose those that are frozen solid, with unbroken outside wraps.

EGGS & DAIRY—Milk, cheese, and eggs are teamed to add extra protein for meatless days.

Large size eggs continue to be the wise choice at the dairy counter. Each carton contains 24 ounces of protein value for less than 50 cents in many stores. To keep the grade the shopper pays for, keep them refrigerated until ready for use.

A large cottage cheese salad is sensible and saving in cents. Some stores have marked large 20-ounce cartons at about half the price per pound of that usually asked for in small size cartons. Large size families might take advantage of this difference.

FRUITS & VEGETABLES—Bananas are a top-flight fruit value. At the peak in quality and supply they can fit into this week's fruit bowl without denting the strictest budget.

Michigan apples have a real price advantage over other apples, but shoppers should remember to refrigerate them for longer keeping. Hothouse rhubarb can answer the need for something colorful, tasty and tart. Two pounds will make a generous 8 or 9-inch pie.

Large No. 24 heads of lettuce are as much as 7 to 9 cents more than a week ago. Quality varies, so the smart shopper will always "hand weigh" the head, and look for rust and other damage before placing it into the shopping cart.

Up Milk Quota the Easy Way

If you have a hard time getting your family to drink enough milk, try serving it so they eat it. Milk in cooked and other prepared foods can add nutritive value and extra flavor as well as insure the right amount of milk in the diet.

Here are some ways to add milk to your family's daily diet: At breakfast use milk instead of water for cooking cereals; make homemade soup with milk or flavor fluid milk with chocolate or crushed fruits.

A one-dish meal might be built around a casserole using meat, chicken, cereal, or vegetables. A real treat is a chicken and noodle dish with a cream sauce and buttered crumb topping, or macaroni and cheese—each of these uses plenty of milk.

Desserts bring milk to the table in the form of cream, pumpkin and custard pies. Other desserts include ice cream, milk sherbets, both baked and stirred custards, bread, rice, and cornstarch puddings, and Bavarian creams.

In case you're wondering how much is enough milk each day, here are recommended amounts: Children, 3 to 4 cups; teenagers, 1 quart or more; adults, 2 or more cups; expectant mothers, 4 or more cups; and nursing mothers, 6 cups. Remember milk products such as cheese and ice cream and prepared dishes made with milk can provide some of this quota.

Large Packing Number Means Smaller Fruit

Most fruits are sized according to how many can be packed in the standard size box in which they are shipped. When a foods ad says "Florida oranges—176s," this simply means there are 176 oranges in the standard orange box. These are actually medium sized fruit. Some boxes have small oranges that take 288 to fill the box.

Grapefruit listed as 70s, 80s, or 90s, are small size. Those listed as 54s and 64s are medium sizes. The larger the number, the smaller the fruit.

Boon to the Working Wife

Cooking Proves Relaxing

By DOBOTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

In this day of tension, frazzled nerves and mounting psychoses, I've found the most effective therapy for a working wife is a peaceful session in the kitchen, among the pots and pans.

After a day of frantic telephones and frenzied typewriters in the office, cooking is fun. It's a form of relaxation that works better, for me at least, than rushing out to a night club or the movies.

Other busy career women seem to have made the same discovery, among them Mary Merrill, costume designer for TV and Broadway shows, and Mildred Falk Loew, magazine editor and mother of two children. Together they have written a unique prescription for busy women called "The Weekend Cookbook," in itself a reflection of the change in the pattern of American living in recent years.

Since both authors are themselves part of the growing army of working women, and since both like to entertain their friends, they have worked out a system that should make life simpler for millions of their sister toilers, who try to fill the multiple role of business woman, wife, mother and gracious hostess.

More and more the social part of the average family's life is concentrated on weekends. That's the time for fun and good food and seeing one's friends. But women who work in an office all week often find themselves rushing frantically around at the last minute before guests arrive, and then doing a dervish from living room to kitchen, with neither time nor energy to enjoy their friends and take part in the conversation.

Paris Cuts Hems, Cuffs for Spring

NEW YORK (INS)—If you want your spring coats and suits to look very French this year, crop a couple of inches off hem and cuff.

Shorter coats and shorter suit jackets with shorter sleeves are endorsed by most of the top French designers this spring. Although coats have become shorter, the skirts shown under them—and the skirts of suits, too—stayed just about calf length.

Balenciaga apparently is the only designer who favors making skirts as short as jackets and coats, judging from import designs shown today to members of the Fashion Group, Inc. Some of this designer's skirts were a good 17 inches off the floor.

Dior, however, liked longish skirts, coats seven-eighths length, and sleeves just to mid-forearm.

Balenciaga preferred three-quarter-length coats, with jackets on suits stopping just under the waistline. Chanel's coats had shorter, cuffed sleeves, and Castillo of Lanvin offered very full, elbow-length sleeves on dropped-shoulder coats.

The French imports were almost all light-colored—beige, gray or dullish pale green. Dresses, on the other hand, were in blue or in bright prints.

PEO Chapter Greets Guests

Five members of CL Chapter, PEO, attended the recent meeting of AW Chapter held at the home of Elda Sutter on West Iroquois road. Mrs. W. O. Fagen, formerly of Chapter E.H. Des Moines, was also a guest.

Taking part in the musical program were Miss Sutter, Mrs. Charles Morgan, Mrs. George W. Putnam and Mrs. Charles Buck. Mrs. Joseph Bara served as co-hostess.

Mrs. W. J. Teeuwissen of Drayton Plains was reinstated after several year's leave-of absence.

Meals Discussed

Members of Huron Gardens Extension Group met at the Holbrook avenue home of Mrs. Ethel Wright Tuesday evening for a cooperative dinner and meeting. Mrs. Leonard Barnes conducted the evening lesson on "Thrifty Meals."

concentrated on weekends. That's the time for fun and good food and seeing one's friends. But women who work in an office all week often find themselves rushing frantically around at the last minute before guests arrive, and then doing a dervish from living room to kitchen, with neither time nor energy to enjoy their friends and take part in the conversation.

Miss Merrill and Mrs. Loew, through long experience in their own homes, have assembled an array of four weekend dinner menus for each season of the year—spring, summer, autumn and winter. These are accompanied by menus for brunches, luncheons, cocktail parties and dessert coffees planned to cover the span of a weekend.

With each menu are recipes and detailed instructions.

Alpha Chapter Holds Meeting

Mrs. Jack Greathouse was welcomed as a member of Alpha Chapter of Beta Theta Phi sorority when the group met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Floyd Oswald on Woodbine drive. Mrs. Harold Davidson assisted the hostess.

Good Insurance Against Dowager's Hump

It's Restful to Sleep Without Pillow

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Many beautiful women sleep without a pillow! There is no medical reason for using a pillow. It is merely a question of habit. Actually it is very restful to lie on one's back without a pillow. I think most people feel the need of one when on their side.

Large pillows are conducive to a dowager's hump because they push the head forward. If you cannot sleep without a pillow why not try a very small compact one?

Most of you know that a dowager's hump is the hump at the base of the neck in the back. This can be very unattractive when a woman has an otherwise lovely neck.

This defect is caused by poor posture and an accumulation of fat in this spot. Massage and corrective exercises are helpful.

One must also remain aware of posture during the day, trying to stretch the back neck by keeping the chin parallel to the floor and pushing toward the ceiling with the top of the head. If possible, add to this the habit of sleeping and resting on your back without a pillow.

WEARY ALL OVER

Fatigue seems to hit many folks at the back of the neck. An ache in this spot can make one weary all over. The following therapy will be helpful: First do some simple exercises, such as rolling your head in a circle to the right and then to the left. Make the circles as large as possible and do the exercise slowly, in a lazy manner.

Fatigue seems to hit many folks at the back of the neck. Exercise will help you.

Here is another effective one: Stand tall. Raise your arms side-ward, shoulder height, with palms facing the front. Now lower your head backward as you pull your arms back as far as comfortable. Lift head and return arms to side-ward, shoulder height position. Continue, slowly.

After doing these exercises for a while, massage your neck, digging in with your fingers. Now lie down on the floor or on your bed (the floor is better). Instead of a pillow place a hot water bottle under your neck.

The exercises and massage and heat will give you relief from the ordinary neck ache which is caused by strain, physical or emotional.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Your Stiff Neck," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 18 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Tomorrow: "Asks About Growth of Hair on Face, Thighs."

Dona Felisa Rincon de Gautier (left), mayor of San Juan, Puerto Rico, confers in Washington with Mrs. Dorothy McCullough Lee, former mayor of Portland, Ore., who is now a member of the Subversive Activities Control Board.

Puerto Rico Likes Gals in Politics

San Juan Mayor Explains Secret to Washingtonians

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Dona Felisa Rincon de Gautier, mayor of San Juan since 1935, is representative of the esteem and confidence the men of Puerto Rico extend to their women in public life.

Women have had the vote in Puerto Rico since 1932 and enjoy the same rights men have. The mayor told members of the Woman's Press Club at a luncheon in her honor. In fact, she said, there are more Puerto Rican women in government than men.

"The secret," explained Mrs. de Gautier, "is that they never antagonize the men. The men are very generous, and very pleased."

"Another thing, no matter how much the women have to work, they are always women. After a day in their offices they go home and change their clothes to look pretty for their menfolk."

Dona Felisa, as she is affectionately called by her associates and citizens, is the wife of Genaro Gautier, a San Juan lawyer.

OWNER OF SHOP

She was owner of one of the city's largest dress shops before she got actively interested in politics with the Popular Democratic Party in 1940.

Four years later she was urged to run for mayor, but listened to the advice of her husband and father and declined.

Both men gave her their full support when she did run for the office and have been her biggest boosters ever since, she says.

When she first took office, the streets of San Juan had many goats and beggars and only five garbage trucks.

Now, the goats and beggars are off the streets, but provided for, and there are close to 100 well-manned garbage trucks.

OFFICE OPEN HOUSE

One of the most practical and popular innovations made by the lady mayor, however, is the open house she holds in her office every Wednesday.

Anyone may come. Its chief purpose is to afford an opportunity for citizens to voice please, or complaints, express appreciation, or make suggestions. Hundreds come.

But every day is a long day, sometimes 16 hours, for this remarkable woman whose work has been praised on both sides of the Atlantic.

In 1936 she was president of the sixth Inter-American Congress of Municipalities in Panama. In 1935 she was a representative of both that organization and the American Municipal Assn. to the International Congress of Local Authorities in Rome.

Mrs. de Gautier came to Washington to confer with the State Department before embarking on a second lecture tour of South American countries.

The department has sponsored both tours for the lady mayor who was named "Woman of the Americas" in 1934, an annual honor bestowed by the non-official Inter-American organization, Union of American Women.

Dieters Can Eat Fat-Free Topping

Mrs. Taylor Makes "Whipped Cream" From Apple 'n' Egg

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Today's recipe is one that will appeal to dieters, especially those on a low-fat diet. It is for Mock Whipped Cream and is an old-fashioned recipe Mrs. Hazel Taylor got from her grandmother.

Mrs. Taylor, a 25-year veteran of VFW Auxiliary work, has retired from club work, she says. She does crocheting, sewing and other needlework, some of it for her 12 grandchildren.

MOCK WHIPPED CREAM

By Mrs. Hazel Taylor

3 egg whites
Sugar
1 medium tart apple, peeled
One-eighth teaspoon cream of tartar
Beat egg whites until foamy.
Amounts of sugar in this recipe vary. Mrs. Taylor uses only one tablespoonful, but another cook says she uses one cupful. You might start with the tablespoonful and add as much more as you desire.

Sprinkle sugar on eggs and keep beating. Grate apple into egg whites and beat again. Add cream of tartar last. Beat until mixture is consistency of whipped cream.

This amount will cover a whole cake and keeps well. It is very good with bananas.

Women of Moose to Aid Fund Drive

Women of the Moose, Chapter 360, made plans to participate in the Childhood Nephrosis drive, when they met Monday evening at Moose Hall.

Pontiac Chapter members will conduct the initiation for Detroit Chapter 337.

Young Pair Should Part at the Door

Girl Is Advised Not to Entertain Fiance After Midnight

By EMILY POST

A reader asks: "Will you please settle the following argument for us? When a young couple arrives home after midnight, even though they are engaged, is it proper for the young man to come into the house and remain for any length of time?"

"I claim he should see his fiancée to the door and, after making sure that she gets in safely, bid her goodnight. My daughter disagrees with me and thinks it is perfectly proper to ask him in for a cup of coffee. Who is right?"

Answer: At such a late hour when everyone else in the house has gone to bed, you are certainly right. She would run the risk of criticism by anyone who is temperately unkind.

"Dear Mrs. Post: About 10 years ago I started to have guests autograph a dinner-cloth that I bought expressly for this purpose. It is now almost completely filled with names. I made it a point to embroider over each name before the penciled writing wore off, and it has turned out very pretty."

"During these 10 years several friends who signed the cloth passed on. I thought of embroidering a gold star either before or after these names. Would this be in good taste? I would very much appreciate your opinion."

Answer: No, please don't embroider such a reminder of sadness!

"Dear Mrs. Post: The other evening while we were having dinner, the telephone rang and my father answered it. It was one of Mother's friends. When she asked to speak to my mother, Father said, 'We are having dinner right now. I'll have her call you later.'"

"My mother thinks he was very rude to her friend and that he should have called her to the telephone. This has caused quite a feud and we need you to settle it."

Answer: Your father was entirely correct. There was nothing rude in answering the way he did.

About 70,000 one-room schools were open in 1930-31 compared with 20,000 in 1936. More than 55,000 have been abandoned since 1941.

Specialized Size in Lingerie Aids Proper Fitting

The woman doesn't exist who hasn't had a hard time being properly fitted in lingerie. She may go to her favorite store and ask for a size 32 slip only to find, when she gets it home, that it was cut for a giant or a dwarf.

Lately, however, something hopeful has happened to eliminate this guessing in lingerie sizes. Designers and manufacturers are turning out lingerie in specialized sizes, which means that a woman can now buy a ready-made slip, petticoat or nightgown that's made to fit her particular figure type. It's cut to special measurements: for the junior figure, the large figure, for the average figure.

Let the saleswoman measure your own proportions next time you shop. And when you get it home, you'll find that even the prettiest and most fragile gown washes quickly in gentle suds and gives long wear.

Spraying on perfume with an atomizer is the most satisfactory way of applying it. It creates a cloud of scent about you.

Add Baking Soda to Bath Relieve Dry Winter Skin

Dry skin is a perennial winter problem. And while a soap and water bath gives temporary relief from the itching that accompanies dry skin, once you're out of the tub and are dried, powdered and ready for bed or dressed to go out, that prickly feeling resumes.

Rubbing yourself down with oils and lotions gives some measure of comfort, but there's an old-fashioned remedy that is being prescribed by doctors these days that gives long lasting relief. This is a baking soda bath, a mild alkaline bath which contains properties similar to those found in the famous baths in Wiesbaden, Germany and other world-famous spas.

Draw a tubful of warm water, add a half-pound of baking soda and just lie in the tub and relax. You don't need to touch the wash cloth, scrub brush or soap, since baking soda is also a mild detergent, and fatty acids and oils are whisked away leaving your skin sweet, fresh and clean without benefit of irritating scrubbing.

When you step out of the tub, don't rub with a towel... just pat yourself dry. And don't apply powder, as it has a drying effect.

Repeat the bath every day during cold weather, and you'll find that you can control your dry skin problem.

Incidentally, this type of bath is a wonderful way to soothe aches and pains from long hours of standing, walking or general housework. Just make the water hotter... one hundred degrees to one hundred and eight.

EUGENIA LEE THOMPSON

Eugene Thompson of East Mansfield avenue announces the engagement of his daughter, Eugenia Lee, to James Brady Ryerse. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Ryerse of North Perry street. No date has been set for the wedding.

Group Marks 26th Birthday

Mrs. Robert Boggs of Pontiac Story League told of "The Annual Sunday School Picnic," "The Spring by the Side of the Road" and "The Madonna" following the luncheon meeting of the January-March Group of First Presbyterian Church.

Labor-Saving Inventions Dig Early Grave for Dad

Pop Must Work Harder and Harder So Mom Can Work Less and Less

By RUTH MILLETT

If dad's been groaning about meeting all the payments on the labor-saving devices with which you've modernized your kitchen and paying the repair bills on them, better hide the recent issue of "U.S. News and World Report" from him. In big blue letters on the cover are the words, "Revolution in the Kitchen."

It's reading that is bound to make dad as blue as the lettering. For two of the big men of the country in the food-processing and home-appliance fields have good news for the housewife and bad news for the man who foots the bills.

Here are a few of the things they are dreaming about now to make life easier for the housewife:

A machine that will press out disposable plastic plates in the kitchen; an efficient way of disposing of paper and cans, to work like a garbage disposer; washer-dryers that receive clothes right from the hamper and finish them so they don't need ironing.

It looks like a life of ease ahead for the housewife — with all the big businesses dreaming up more and more ways of saving her steps and stooping.

But what about dad? Is anybody worrying about making it easier for him to pay for all these fine labor-saving devices? If not, the woman of the future will wear out at least two husbands, because men will have to work harder and harder so women can work less and less.

Ever walk through an old cemetery and see how many men are buried beside two and three "beloved wives?"

Back in the early days of our country when life was rugged for women, it wasn't unusual for a man to outlive several wives.

So much has already been done to make life easier for women that they are already outliving their husbands. And if the trend keeps up — as it apparently will — 100 years from now women may be living long enough to bury several husbands.

Killer Widmark of Films Takes' On Offbeat Role

By LEE BELSER
HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Ever since Richard Widmark pushed an old lady downstairs in a 1947 movie, he has lived up to the label of a real killer-diller.

Now, in the most offbeat role of his career he'll be sniveling instead of sneering—as the gentle, adulated Dauphin in George Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan."

Widmark, who just returned to Hollywood after finishing "Saint Joan" in London, always had been interested in the Dauphin because it is such a fey, oddball type of role.

declared, "It was about the easiest thing I've ever done. Everybody's got a screw loose somewhere—and I do mean everybody."

The actor, whose demonic portrayals on the screen have sent chills down the spines of many a moviegoer, had to get up at 3:30 a. m., so he could reach the London studio in time to go through four hours of "Dauphin" makeup and be ready to start shooting promptly at 8:30.

SUCH A FREAK
"I know now what Lon Chaney must have felt like," Widmark said with a wry grin. "I was such a freak I wouldn't leave my hotel room for two weeks!"

Widmark suffered a shaved head a la Yul Brynner and five daily layers of rubber skin glued to his face to make him appear as wrinkled and aged as an old persimmon.

It is an interesting phenomenon that Widmark, who has made his living for years by playing the genus criminal, was, a decade ago, considered too well-bred, too intellectual and altogether too upper-class to handle the role that made him famous—Tom Udo, the killer in "Kiss of Death."

So what happened? Director Henry Hathaway liked the way Widmark read the part so he ordered the actor's high, well-shaped forehead be lowered with a lace hairpiece. After that it was all up to Dick—the angle of a hat, the morose gleam in the eyes, the jerky, hysterical laugh. "I have never minded being a tough guy," Widmark insisted, "if it's a good script."

Barbara Soule Becomes Bride in Rochester Rite

St. John Lutheran Church in Rochester was the setting for the Saturday evening wedding of Barbara Ann Soule and Walter Eugene Larson. The Rev. Walter C. Gerken performed the 7:30 o'clock ceremony in the presence of 250 guests.

Barbara is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cameron C. Soule of Rochester. Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Larson of Oneida road are Walter's parents.

For her wedding Barbara wore a ballerina-length gown of Italian silk, fashioned with a fitted bodice and full skirt. The scalloped Sabrina neckline was accented with appliques of sequins, and a sequin tiara secured her fingertip veil of silk illusion.

She carried lilies-of-the-valley centered with a white orchid on a white Bible, a gift of the bridegroom.

Myrna Maass served the bride as honor attendant. Other attendants were Carol Cooper and Judith Soule, sister of the bride. Deborah Boike performed the duties of flower girl.

GOWNED IN GREEN
All of the attendants wore mint green crystallette ballerina-length gowns with matching accessories. They carried colonial bouquets of yellow daisies.

Rod Larson served his brother as best man. Seating the guests were Richard Cole, Edward Proksch, Louis Guzman, James Albright and Jerry Larson, cousin of the bridegroom.

A reception was held in the church parlors immediately following the ceremony. Mrs. Soule greeted her guests wearing a rose lace dress with matching accessories and a corsage of roses.

Mrs. Larson chose a black and white ensemble with black accessories and a rose corsage for her son's wedding.

MRS. WALTER EUGENE LARSON

For traveling to northern Michigan, the bride changed to a pink suit with black accessories. She wore the orchid from her bridal arrangement. On their return the newlyweds will reside in Rochester.

Girl Best Aid to Hair Beauty Is Good Brush

Hair care for teenagers differs with the type of hair, the climate in which you live, the condition of your hair and whether you have a permanent or not.

You may have to wash your hair once a day if you're an oily scalp. But if your hair is very dry, you'll want to wash it only once every week or 10 days.

In either case, a girl's best friend is her hair brush. Next to vigorous brushing comes the right shampoo for your type of hair, followed by a cream rinse.

Always towel your hair dry before you dampen it and set it. Never put it up wet immediately after finishing a shampoo.

Use rubber-coated bobby pins and a nylon wave net to hold the curls in place while you sleep. And next morning brush your waves into place.

New Styles Accent Shapeliness

NEW YORK (NEA) — Sheaths and jackets get entirely new treatment at the hands of top designers in the resort and cruise collections.

Sheaths are shapely, not straight and stark, and they take on a new softness via draping, trouser pleating, back fullness and panels. These are adaptations which make for a new ease of movement uncommon with the straight sheath.

The little jacket becomes a part of the silhouette rather than an addition. It may match the dress fabric or contrast with it but it looks new and different.

It sometimes stands away from the waistline or it may take the form of the jockey jacket. The white organza jockey jacket appears with woven striped cottons; jockey jackets in vivid colors are worn with dotted voiles.

For late day and dinner wear, the sheath gets a side-front drape. Or, colorful prints with split overskirts are used over sheaths. This treatment emphasizes the high-waisted look.

Ever full skirts get a gentle, softening treatment with pleats.

Committee Told for D. of I. Initiation

Nora Ashton, regent of Our Lady of the Lakes Circle, 497, Daughters of Isabella, announces Mrs. John Schurkenkamp and Mrs. Constant DeJager are cochairmen of the dinner being held Sunday at the annual initiation of the circle.

Spring coiffures graced by ribbon touches, show that hair, though short, can achieve completely different looks for day and evening. Chignon look (left) is created through use of a band of woven-edge ribbon decorated with bows of the same velvet. The 1930 hair style with a 1937 touch (center) appears combed smoothly back from the forehead, and dipped into a deep wave over each ear. There's a flat, smooth velvet bow on top. For evening, hair is styled back from face without part and given a fake chignon which is covered by tiny cap of velvet ribbon.

She Wrests Success From Defeat

By ANNE HEYWOOD

We may not have much control over what happens to us in life, but we have control over what we do about it and how we react to it.

I thought of this the other day when a friend telephoned to tell me that Elinor, a mutual friend of ours, had bought a house in the country. It sounds like a simple, everyday kind of statement, but there's a real story behind it.

Elinor and her husband had one of those idyllic marriages. They lived in the country and were very happy.

Then a series of tragedies struck them, and Elinor found herself alone and nearly penniless. She had to move to the city, where she could live relatively inexpensively with her sister.

Elinor is not a city type, and was not a bit happy about it, but she knuckled down and refused to admit defeat.

She had no business training, so the only job that seemed possible was as a saleswoman in a department store. She applied at several stores and finally got a job in the toy department.

NOT VERY GOOD

"I wasn't very good at it," she told me, "because I never had any children and didn't know much about toys. But on the same floor with us was the outdoor furniture department. I had to pass through it on my way in and out and to lunch.

"It always brought back pleasant memories, for Ed and I had enjoyed our terrace and patio so much. But aside from that, I had always found outdoor furniture and barbecue equipment fascinating.

"I asked for a transfer to that department, but was told that it wasn't a busy one and didn't require another salesclerk.

"I was awfully disappointed, but there was nothing to do but keep on struggling with toys.

"One day," she continued, "while I was passing through the department on my way to lunch, a customer stopped me angrily and demanded help in picking out a porch chair.

"I suppose I should have insisted that I didn't belong in that section, but I didn't. Instead, I grabbed the opportunity to sell the kind of merchandise I like.

"My enthusiasm must have rubbed off on the customer. Before I was through, she had bought several hundred dollars' worth of porch and terrace furniture.

"I helped her with planning and everything. When the buyer heard about it, I was immediately transferred to her department!"

That was seven years ago. Elinor is now consultant on outdoor decor for a big decorating shop. She has made enough money to buy herself the house in the country which she once had to give up forever!

Widows Flock to Pray as Eastbourne Repents

By TOM A. CULLEN
EASTBOURNE, England (NEA)—Whatever other emotions it has stirred in their breasts, the murder trial of Dr. John Bodkin Adams at London's Old Bailey has sent Eastbourners scuttling to the churches.

A first-class religious revival is on in this seaside resort (pop. 37,000), with church attendance at its highest peak since the war. And not only the orthodox faiths, but the spiritualists have been doing a brisk business.

All winter long the wealthy widows and spinners with whom Dr. Adams' name has been linked in the Scotland Yard murder probe have been rapping out messages from the grave.

Tables have tilted, ouija boards moved, trumpets emitted strange, astral squawks, crystal balls have been called into play as Eastbourne's mediums rallied to the unsolicited aid of Scotland Yard.

GHOST EVOKED

The ghost of Mrs. Edith Morrell, the elderly widow whom Dr. Adams is accused of murdering with an over-dose of drugs, was successfully evoked by a clairvoyant calling herself "Moujik," but the widow had no light to shed on her own death.

She was followed by a whole parade of wraiths wearing lisle stockings, ground-gripper shoes and with lace shawls around their shoulders, the ghosts of the aged spinners whom Dr. Adams used to treat in their rose-bowered guest homes.

They, too, were unable to elude date about their deaths.

Another noticeable change is that this town is now wide-awake. Time was when one tip-toed through Eastbourne for fear of disturbing the slumbering.

Some said it was the amount of ozone in the air, but a local chemist to whom I talked had a more startling explanation.

PILL ADDICTS

"This town," he told me, "is full of women who practically live on barbiturates. Many of them are addicts who get intoxicated on pills."

But not any longer. Eastbourne is full of women who have dumped their pheno-barb into the ashcan, emptied their sodium amylal down the drain.

Tabloid headlines four inches high with the words "poison," "widow" and "murder" have made barbiturate a nasty term in this refined resort.

EASTBOURNE AWAKE

So now Eastbourne is awake and in a penitent mood. The truth is that the Scotland Yard probe into the deaths of 17 of Dr. Adams' patients did more than shock this community.

It stirred up latent devils. It lifted the lid on a whole Pandora box of evil talk. It set the tongues wagging under the hair-driers, across the bridge-tables and over the teacups. Eastbourne indulged in a veritable orgy of gossip.

Now Eastbourne is ready to don the hair-shirt. Now its widows are looking into their hearts and finding evidence of empty, wasted lives.

MANY FRIENDLESS

Many of them are friendless and lonely, having outlived their families. They leave their money to a chauffeur, a worthless nephew, or to the Distressed Gentlefolk's association.

Too much money, idleness and boredom—this sums up the story of Eastbourne's widows.

Preachers have reaped a rich harvest in sermon texts from the Scotland Yard probe. "Pride Cometh Before a Fall," "He Who Exalteth Himself Shall Be Humbled," these are typical topics announced for church services.

LOOKS DOWN

For too long Eastbourne has looked down its aristocratic nose at neighboring Brighton. Hardly a day passes but some local Pharisee intones, "We thank Thee, God, that we are not like Brighton with its Sunday trippers, its London cockneys and its vulgar post-cards."

But Brighton's crime record is no more lurid than Eastbourne's. Back in the 1920's Eastbourne was the scene of two brutal murders, occurring within the space of four years, on the stretch of shore west of Eastbourne pier known as "The Crumbles."

The first victim was an 18-year-old London typist, Irene Munro, murdered while on holiday in Eastbourne in August, 1920, her head being crushed by a rock.

AROUSE EXCITEMENT

The Munro murder aroused enormous excitement, coming as it did at the height of the holiday season. Eventually, two local men, "mashers" who had picked the typist up on the seafloor, were convicted and hanged for her murder.

Barely four years later, and only a few hundred yards from the scene of the Munro murder, Emily Kaye was killed by her lover, Patrick Mahon. This was in April, 1924. He, too, went to the gallows.

Yes, Eastbourne has had its share of violent crime.

But now the spotlight has switched from this seaside resort to the Old Bailey courtroom where Dr. John Bodkin Adams is standing trial for the poison murder of Widow Morrell.

Eastbourne is left alone with its memories, its ghosts, to expiate its sins.

Police Aids in Coverup—Trucker in Dire Need

LOCK HAVEN, Pa. (U)—A truck driver's plea for help ended in a police coverup.

A policeman was called to the truck and the trucker displayed his dilemma. He had ripped the seat of his pants climbing into the cab.

With $5 from the trucker, the policeman went to a store and bought a new pair of pants. They were badly needed. The trucker wasn't wearing shorts.

Sees Bad Study Habits

KENT, Ohio (U)—A Kent State University educator estimates that approximately 95 per cent of college freshmen do not know how to study.

student advising, adds that this group includes "many high school valedictorians." "Many of these students have never taken an essay type examination," Dr. Hadley said. "Most of the students do not know how to take notes and often have poor reading habits."

Exotic Yemen Grabs Spotlight

WASHINGTON — Clashes along Yemen's frontier with British-protected Aden shift the busy Near East spotlight toward an exotic kingdom that differs in many ways from other Arab nations.

This squarish patch of land in the southwest corner of the Arabian peninsula holds few nomad herds, such as those roaming the broad deserts of next-door Saudi Arabia, says the National Geographic Society.

Instead, Yemeni farmers cultivate grains, fruits, and vegetables—along with the famous Mocha coffee—in relatively fertile upland valleys. In good years, there are even exportable surpluses.

From sultry coastal plains beside the Red Sea, Yemen rises in tiers to mountain peaks up to 12,000 feet high. Moisture from clouds breaks against the rugged baracades, setting the region apart from arid neighbors since the days it was known as Arabia Felix, Happy Arabia.

TOWN LIVING POPULAR

Yemen today has an estimated population of four to five million in an area about the size of Nebraska. That makes it densely settled, compared with most Arab lands. Living within the walled highland capital, Sana'a, are some 60,000 people; in Hodeida port, 40,000. Smaller Ta'izz, the favorite residence of the king, or imam, is "second capital."

Yemen is known as the home of the skyscraper. History tells of a 50-story palace at Sana'a 2,000 years ago. Tall stone buildings—in round or square tower form—still characterize town and city architecture. Many are scattered about the countryside in fantasy, romantic splendor.

In ancient times the Yemen area was controlled by the Sabaeans, mentioned in the Bible as traders in gold, perfume, incense, ivory, and ebony. One of their rulers was the Queen of Sheba (Saba) who visited Solomon.

TURBULENT HISTORY

Invaded in turn by early Egyptians, Ethiopians, and Romans, Yemen was converted to the Moslem faith during the 7th century. It was a part of the Ottoman Empire for hundreds of years.

After Turkish defeat in World War I, fighting broke out between the Yemeni and Saudi Arabian chieftains over possession of Arabia's wide open spaces. The disputes were settled in 1934 by an Arab-unity peace treaty.

Yemen's present boundaries are still a problem to map makers. Most maps show a short northern border with Saudi Arabia, none on the east where the Yemen plateau merges with the Arabian "Empty Quarter." To the south, Yemen claims land as far as the Gulf of Aden, in effect ignoring the existence of the British Aden Protectorate. The position plays its part in the current outbreaks.

Yemen itself is one of the world's few remaining states governed as an absolute monarchy. The ruling family's rigid policy of isolation long gave it the name "Forbidden Kingdom."

In recent years, the veil of seclusion has shown signs of lifting. Yemen has established diplomatic relations with the outside world, and joined the Arab League and the United Nations.

It has admitted foreign medical parties to study disease conditions and—with reservations—permitted archeologists to dig at a few of the fabulous sites of ancient civilizations.

In economic matters, the imam has taken steps to set up light industry in soap, rope and dyes, and the processing of tobacco and fish. Telephone, electric-light, and sanitary systems have been initiated. To further foreign trade, harbor and road improvements are underway—a reminder that Arabia Felix was once a highway for the world's richest traffic between East and West.

Agency Will Test Cars as Aid to Industry

LOS ANGELES — An organization that hopes to win recognition as an authoritative, unbiased testing agency for the automobile industry has been formed in Los Angeles.

Under the name National Automotive Testing Assn., the organization is contacting major auto manufacturers with an eye to conducting special performance trials and tests, the results to be advertised nationally.

Wally Parks, automotive magazine editor, is the president of NATA, which claims a staff of 37 experts from nearly every automotive research and development field.

Parks says NATA will have no connection with auto racing but will operate strictly for the benefit of the automobile industry and the car buyer.

Headquarters will be in Los Angeles but the association will undertake testing activities wherever necessary, says Parks.

Whittling Advocated for Peace of Mind

YORK, Pa. — The York Dispatch suggested in an editorial that "if members of Congress were required to whittle for an hour after lunch every day . . . the goings-on in Washington would proceed more smoothly." "Whittling fosters peace and relaxation; it promotes clear thinking and a perspective on life's problems. If men, harassed and harried in our high-pressure society, would just take a period for whittling each in Albion.

day, they would discover that most problems would fade into proper perspective," the newspaper said.

Joint Funeral Slated

DETROIT — Joint services will be held in Detroit tomorrow for Frank E. Whitlam and his wife, Minnie E., who were killed Sunday in an auto accident in Belle Glade, Fla. Before his retirement, Whitlam, 73, was display manager at Fyfe's Shoe Store. Both were born in a period for whittling each in Albion.

Land of 10,000 Lakes Now Land of 16,000

ST. PAUL, Minn. — It may be the end of a slogan, but Minnesota, the land of 10,000 lakes, may have as many as 16,000.

The state division of waters has a new aerial survey underway to count the lakes and it is using a slightly different system.

Now all bodies of water 10 acres or more are being counted as lakes, whereas prior surveys counted only those of 25 acres or more.

U.S. Aid Said Well Spent

By REZMAN MORIN

WASHINGTON (U)—The United States is getting "a good return" on the billions spent for military help to non-communist nations, three survey groups reported today.

However, the costs of the program are more likely to go up than down, said the report made public by a special Senate committee studying U. S. foreign aid. And there may have to be an increase in military manpower, it said.

The three groups evaluated the results of the military aid program in similar terms:

"A valuable deterrent to Communist expansion . . . To date, the investment of the United States in military aid programs has served materially to stabilize the free world and discourage aggression . . ."

The report was composed of findings by Columbia University's Institute of War and Peace Studies and by the Systems Analysis Corp. of Washington.

Pioneering U. S. Husband Turns Into Gay Gourmet

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (U)—The American husband has become the pioneer of the nation's changing food habits.

Papa is the new gay gourmet, the Marco Polo of the U.S. family dinner table.

"Husbands let their wives pick out the staple food items when they go supermarket shopping," said Harold Roth, president of the National Assn. of Specialty Foods Trade.

MORE ADVENTUROUS
"But the men themselves are more adventurous. They like to explore the shelves for new and different food tidbits they can surprise their cronies with as snacks served during card games or at cocktail parties.

"Their new interest in different foods also is forcing their wives to pep up their menus. A husband no longer is profoundly grateful to come home to a dinner of beef and potatoes. After all, he can get that at a business lunch any day in the week."

This new male interest in a varied diet has spurred the fancy food industry from a prewar annual level of about 10 million dollars to nearly 50 million today, a potential market of 100 million within another decade.

An old-time grocer once drily defined a specialty food as "one that gathers dust." That is no longer true. Hundreds of unusual and exotic specialties now are stocked in more than 4,000 fancy food stores across America. Many supermarkets also feature them.

KISSING GARLIC
Typical specialty items: "kiss-proof garlic," imported pate de foie at $35 a pound, charcoal sauce, mayonnaise in tubes like toothpaste, Japanese smoked oysters, canned kangaroo tail and sharkfin soups—even floral lollipops for the kids.

Roth believes this interest is a result of prosperity, wider travel, the fact that millions of American men have served overseas, and the desire to put more spice in the routine of suburban living.

But he is annoyed at pranksters who startle their cocktail guests by serving them, unwarned, rat-tat-tat meat, fried grasshoppers and fried worms.

"These things may have a limited circle of genuine admirers," he said, "but they offend the squeamish and make them afraid to try new dishes they might really like."

"We don't think it's funny at all."

What is the food most enjoyed by Roth, who has tried thousands from all over the world?

"I am leaving soon for a trip to Europe," he replied, "and I'm looking forward most to the smoked eels I'll get in Holland—they're so tasty and delicately flavored."

"And that's rather odd, I'll admit. For here I never even look at an eel."

HERITAGE OF HANDICRAFTS
The estimated 130,000 Maoris among New Zealand's 2,000,000 people are descendants of daring seafarers who centuries ago migrated from central Polynesian islands of the Pacific. Each wave of settlers brought its own culture. Carvers, weavers, builders all adjusted to new materials and a colder climate.

Handicrafts and decorative arts unique among Pacific area dwellers were seen by Captain James Cook during his mid-18th-century visit to New Zealand. Elaborately carved canoes and picturesque hill forts displayed the early Maori skill.

Craftsmanship flowered in the decoration of assembly halls. Artists made lavish use of the human figure and a complex spiral design. These houses were among the most beautiful structures in Polynesia.

Knowledge of legends and traditions was a test of scholarship. Many tales proclaimed the feats of the hero Maui, who supposedly snared the sun with a flax rope. He was credited with using the jawbone of an enchanted ancestress as a hook to fish up the island of New Zealand.

Descendants of master boatmen, by hurdle racing on swift rivers modern Maoris prove their skill in dugout canoes. Expected spills are inconsequential: swimming, like dancing and song, is second nature.

Dragnet Aide's Car Recovered by Alert Grocer

MESA, Ariz. (U)—An alert grocery clerk, with no help from a police dragnet, yesterday spotted two Los Angeles teen-agers who later admitted they stole a car from Sgt. Friday's pal on the radio-TV series.

William Franklin Magee, 18, and a 16-year-old companion admitted taking two cars from a Highland Park, Calif., auto sales lot operated by Ben Alexander, sheriff's Sgt. Tom Kirkham said.

Alexander is Sgt. Friday's sidekick in the show, "Dragnet." Kirkham said the two youths, who had abandoned one of Alexander's cars, were spotted by clerk Jim Kiefer of Mesa when they tried to cash a bad check. Magee and his companion whose name was withheld because of his age, were turned over to the FBI.

$300 Alimony Boost Asked for Baby Food

LOS ANGELES (U)—The divorced wife of actor Rod Cameron wants a $300 a month increase in child support payments so she can buy more baby food for the couple's 2-year-old son.

"Why shouldn't the child live in luxury when his father is making more than $200,000 a year?" the attorney representing actress Angeles Alves-Lico, 25, asked the court yesterday.

Disallow Hike in Natural Gas

Order Would Require Refund Unless Review Begins Soon

WASHINGTON (U)—A power commission examiner ruled yesterday that a $1,526,200 annual wholesale natural gas rate increase which Michigan-Wisconsin Pipe Line Co. of Detroit had in effect during parts of 1955 and 1956 should be disallowed.

The decision by examiner William J. Costello would require refund of excess amounts collected from 16 wholesale customers in Michigan and Wisconsin between April 1, 1955 and Nov. 15, 1956.

Michigan-Wisconsin put into effect Nov. 15, 1956, another proposed increase of $4,074,531 annually on which commission proceedings are pending.

A Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. spokesman in Detroit said that the increase put into effect by Michigan-Wisconsin on April 1, 1955, was passed on to Consolidated customers on Aug. 22, 1955, when the Public Service Commission authorized a rate increase. He estimated that if the new ruling becomes an FPC order Michigan Consolidated customers would get a refund of about one million dollars.

Dodgers Edge Cards, 2-1; Bombers "Bombed", 20-6

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It makes no difference to Brooklyn Manager Walt Alton whether they call him the Great Gutierrez or the Mighty Valdes. All Alton knows is that the skinny 6-3 Cuban with a smoking fast ball may be around Flatbush a lot longer than most people thought.

Rene Gutierrez y Valdes, who had a 22-8 record with Portland of the Pacific Coast League last season, displayed more of his classy hurling yesterday as the Dodgers edged the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1 in an 11-inning exhibition game at Vero Beach, Fla.

Rene added three more hitless and scoreless innings in his second appearance as a Dodger. He walked two Cardinals, and another reached base on an error, but none got past first.

In his Brooklyn debut Sunday, Valdes came to the mound with

By BILL CORNWELL

Walled Lake's ambitious basketball team is bound for East Lansing!

For the first time in the school's history, the Vikings are headed for Michigan State's Jensen Fieldhouse and a berth in the Class B semifinals of the state high school basketball tournament.

Coach Bill Ultenbruch's scrappy eagles qualified for the trip with a 75-45 victory over Flint Kearsley last night in their state quarter-final showdown at Birmingham High.

The next item of business is unbeaten Harper Woods, which earned its 22nd win yesterday at Ferndale with a 61-54 decision over Melvindale.

Walled Lake meets the Woods in semifinal action Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock on the Jensen Fieldhouse floor. Last night's performance was by no means Walled Lake's best. Many unnecessary personal fouls were committed, especially in the back court, the passing sometimes lacked authority and the defense was often careless.

But the speedy Vikings were still more than equal to the challenge of a tall but slow Kearsley quintet which had won 17 straight games.

The individual brilliance of Larry

Hughes, agile 6-foot-4 center, was the chief reason for Walled Lake's survival.

and stellar rebounding have spearheaded Viking success all season long, was no less effective last

He attempted 18 shots and 13 found the mark. This, along with six gift fouls, gave him a total of 32 points, only three short of his top single game output of 35 and the 2nd time this year that he has hit 37. In addition, he snared 29 rebounds.

The game was close only in the 1st quarter. Kearsley kept even with Walled Lake until late in the opening period when the Vikings pushed ahead, 20-15.

With Hughes netting 19 points in the 1st half, the Vikings continued to pull away. They boosted their lead to 41-27 at halftime and were never again threatened.

They led by as many as 18 points in the 2nd half and the Hornets never came closer than 10. The Lakers slowed down the pace in the 4th period and just coasted home.

Guard Tom Phipps, a deadly outside shooter, meshed 24 points for Flint, including 10 from the free throw line. Teammate Bud Earl, 6-4 center, scored 16. Lanky Tom Willwerth added punch to the Viking attack with 13 points.

There were 46 fouls called, 24 against the Lakers. John Walker and Dennis McClelland departed with five personals for the Vikings while Kearsley's Bill Phipps, Brady McLean and Bruce Anderson took the same exit.

It was Walled Lake's 21st triumph in 22 starts and the 11th in a row. The Hornets bowed out with an 18-3 record.

Bradley Five NIT Favorite

Braves and Bonnies Are Tonight's Semifinal Choices

NEW YORK (AP)—Bradley and St. Bonaventure have been made the early favorites to win tonight's semifinals in the National Invitation Basketball Tournament, but there'll be plenty of support for Temple and Memphis State.

This observer goes along with the minority and picks Temple and Memphis State.

Memphis State and St. Bonaventure start the activities at Madison Square Garden at 7:30 p.m. EST. Bradley and Temple will take the floor about 9:15.

Bradley, second-seeded, is favored on the basis of its astounding 116-81 record-breaking Garden comeback against Xavier of Ohio Tuesday after being down 21 points, 33-17. The Bonnies get the nod because of their thorough 85-68 trouncing of top-seeded Seattle Monday.

Chicago team had the golden touch last night as it decisively battered a New York team in scoring its most outstanding triumph in the inter-city boxing bouts.

The Chicago bombardment was set off in two explosive TKO victories in the first two matches and was wrapped up in the final heavy weight bout for a top-sided 7-1 victory.

Joe Hemphill unleashed punishing combinations to subdue Lee Williams, flabby New York contender from Lowell, Mass., in the heavyweight division. Hemphill, former European service champion from Rockford, Ill., was in command all the way against Williams.

The amateur bouts at the Chicago Stadium, many of them nationally televised, got off to a blitzkrieg start. In the first two scheduled rounds, Tommy Reynolds registered a third round TKO over New York's Thomas Smith in the 118-pound division, and welterweight Joe Shaw blasted James Chavis for a TKO in 1:10 of the first round.

The last time Chicago clobbered New York so decisively was in 1943 when it won 14-2. That was when there were 16 matches. Last year New York won 6-2.

At Local Alleys
"There will be no increase in bowling prices for this area," was the announcement of Frank Palazzolo, President of the Bowling Proprietors Association of Greater Pontiac, today following a special meeting of the group held yesterday.

It was happy news for the thousands of bowlers in Pontiac and surrounding communities who keep Association and other local establishments busy day and night.

The move was the opposite of that made by Detroit keg leaders who recently voted to boost prices five cents a game due to rising costs. It will mean over $700,000 more revenue for Motor City alleys.

Proprietors at Detroit's 114 BPA alleys have been the victims of a wave of protests since increasing their rates which had been the same since 1933.

However, Palazzolo did point out that rates would be increased from 40 to 45 cents at four local alleys in late July when automatic pinsetters are installed. This is in accordance with present prices.

Dixie Recreation, Auburn Lanes, Howes Lanes in Clarkston and Land-O-Lakes are planning to have automatics.

MURRAY VIKINGS — Walled Lake rooters went into a cheering bedlam as the Vikings roared to a 75-45 victory over Flint Kearsley in the quarter-final game at Birmingham High School last night. Some 3,000 fans jammed the Maple gym for the contest. Walled Lake now goes into the semi-finals against Harper Woods Friday at 5 p. m. at Jensen Fieldhouse in East Lansing.

NHL Balance Helped Club

Adams Calls Wings Weaker

DETROIT (AP)—Jack Adams calls the title-winning Detroit Red Wings "the weakest championship team in my 30 years with the club."

"Only because the league had better balance, and because some of the other clubs were able to beat Montreal and Boston for us, did we win the title," said the grizzled manager of the National Hockey League champions.

Adams said his observation really isn't taking anything away from the club.

"We were the best team in the league—no question about that," he said. "But the plain truth is this: The 1957 Red Wings don't have the overall power that the other championship teams have had. . . . not enough hungry players, not enough hustle and ambition."

The general manager describes the 1957 Wings as "a team you have to keep after all the time, a team that always has needed a boot in the pants here and there."

It's no secret that Adams has given several players just that type of treatment during the past season.

He has been disappointed in Bill Dineen and Dutch Reibel. The bright spots have been defenseman Al Arbour, and of course the continued fine play of Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay.

"Hockey players nowadays just aren't hungry enough," said Adams. "They're satisfied to get their salaries and let other things take care of themselves. The younger players coming up have had things handed to them instead of having to work for them."

"Take that Boston club this year—not a great deal of talent but the players are in there digging, digging all the time. I'd say the Bruins easily are the most determined club in the league, and it just might show up in the Stanley Cup series."

The Wings will meet the Bruins tonight at Olympia Stadium and the outcome will play an important part in Boston's battle with Montreal for second place. Detroit goalie Glenn Hall and Montreal's Jacques Plante are near-even in the Vezina Trophy race for the NHL's best goalie.

Howe and Lindsay, along with the Canadiens' Jean Beliveau, are bunched tightly in the individual scoring race.

The Lakeside Royals met a quick death in the opening round of the district Michigan Recreation Association basketball tournament.

Forest Manor of Hamtramck, loaded with former Lawrence Tech and Wayne stars, handed Pontiac's Class A champions a 79-51 thrashing last night at Detroit's Lasky Recreation Center.

Jim Boyce, ex-Wayne center, led Hamtramck with 29 points. Two other Forest Manor players hit double figures. The winners seemed into a 34-24 halftime lead and were never headed.

Three Royals also scored in double figures, paced by Rudy Hill with 18 points. Levi Pilgrim made a dozen and Willie DeWalt added 10. Hamtramck meets Detroit tonight, with the winner entering the state MRA tourney at Wyandotte March 29-30.

Town Likes Wrestling

Avid Waynesburg Fans Wait for Mat Tourney

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (AP)—It's not often that a town of 5,500 plays host to an international athletic event but residents of this community aren't feeling any qualms about it.

The National Amateur Athletic Union's four-day wrestling tournament is being held at Waynesburg College April 3-4-5-6. There will be so many matches that even the most hepped-up wrestling fans might get fed up. But not those in this community, tucked away in the mountains 32 miles south of Pittsburgh.

The Waynesburg College wrestling team has won many honors through the years and the youngsters of the community start wrestling just about as naturally as they start walking. Capacity crowds attend each high school and college match while sparse attendance is the rule for basketball games.

A junior wrestling league has been in operation for years. The junior leaguers are from eight to 14 years old. They get the thrill of competition by appearing in preliminary matches of high school and college meets.

Approximately 1,200 individual duels will be fought over a two-day period—which means that at any given time spectators will be viewing a dozen matches in progress simultaneously.

Competition is scheduled in the arena from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m. Friday, and from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m. Saturday.

Individual titles will be at stake in three weapons: Folk, epee, and saber. Entries have been received from 31 schools.

Team 1, which will take a combined average of $35 into the meet, consists of Oz Jewett, Dick Carmichael, George Felice, Cliff McBride and Bob Davis. Jewett and Carmichael are averaging over 190.

The other unit will include Howard Felton Jr., Bud Matthews, Bob Wheaton, Dick Fuller, and Jim Hoke. This five-man group has a combined 875 average.

Montreal Takes Over 2nd Place on 2-1 Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The duel for second place in the National Hockey League is going right down to the wire with the Montreal Canadiens holding a slight edge over the Boston Bruins. The Canadiens, with one game remaining and that against last-place Chicago at home Saturday night, took sole possession of the runner-up spot last night by edging the Toronto Maple Leafs 2-1 on Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion's goal 30 seconds before the end of the game.

Memories Are Short

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP)—University of Wyoming Basketball Coach Ev Shelton had a point when he said "students have a short memory"—his comment on being hanged in effigy for a poor season this year. The "straw man" hanging from a tree on the Laramie campus bore the sign: "EV Shelton—he had a good season in 1943-1944."

Because of wartime restrictions Wyoming did not have a basketball team that year. It was in 1942-1943 that Shelton coached the Cowboys to the NCAA championship.

Bowlerama Prizes May Exceed $2,500

By CHUCK ABRA

Do you want to be eligible to compete in a singles bowling tournament which offers an opportunity to share in prize money expected to top $2,500 plus trophies? * * *

If you do, you better act now because the time is growing short! to enter the 1st Pontiac Press Bowlerama.

Midnight of March 31, only 11 days away, is the deadline for entries in the event scheduled for the 1st two weekends in April at four local alleys.

All you have to do is fill out an entry blank and send it or deliver it to tournament manager Les Rothbarth in care of the Pontiac Press Sports Department or leave it with the proprietor of the establishment at which you bowl. He will see that it is placed in the proper hands.

Entry fees must accompany all applications. Blanks are available at every bowling place in Oakland County. Entries have been coming in steadily from every part of the county representing several leagues. They are expected to increase considerably during the next week.

That prize list is an impressive one for both the men's and women's divisions. It will be increased accordingly should the number of 1st year entries surpass expectations.

The men's champion will receive $400 and a handsome trophy. The other five places guaranteed for men will include prizes of $200, $100, $50, $25 and $15.

A trophy and $200 will go to the women's winner. The runnerup will receive $100 with the others earning $50, $30, $15 and $10 in that order.

The guaranteed awards total $1,185 for the combined 13 leagues. There will be many other prizes in both divisions with all qualifiers finishing in the money. The top qualifiers at each qualifying location will also receive a trophy.

You have to finish in the top 10 per cent of the bowlers at your qualifying house to reach the finals. The return of the prize fund 100 per cent to the purse will make it possible for one prize to be given for every 10 contestants. Manager Rothbarth will conduct a drawing for the qualifying round after all the entries are in to make up the squads for the 1st weekend which will conclude the qualifying.

Men and women will bowl in separate divisions under a 70 per cent handicap 200 scratch basis. Three games on the same alleys will be held in qualifying, while finalists will be required to bowl three games across six alleys.

NCAA Finals on Television

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The championship game of the National Collegiate basketball tournament Saturday night will be televised over a regional network.

The network will include Kansas City, Topeka and Wichita in Kansas, St. Joseph, Mo., and other cities in the general area.

Lomborg said the Michigan State-North Carolina semifinal game Friday night will be telecast on a Carolina network of four stations, with others expected to join it. There also is a possibility a Michigan network will be set up.

Barons Are Popular

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—The Birmingham Barons were the most popular road club in the Southern Assn. last season for the third consecutive year.

The Barons drew 160,427 in their invasions of enemy fields, nearly 8,000 more than Nashville, the second best road attraction.

Coral Ridge Test Next

Burkemo's 139 Earns Tie

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—The touring golf professionals moved on to Fort Lauderdale today for the $5,000 pro-amateur tournament at the Coral Ridge Country Club after wrapping up the 36-hole Seminole affair in Palm Beach.

Only two of the big name players will miss the Coral Ridge tourney. Pete Cooper, who tied Walter Burkemo in the Seminole with 139, will return to Lakeland, Fla., and Ben Hogan is going back to Dallas, Tex. Burkemo said he will play at Fort Lauderdale.

Cooper and Burkemo had identical rounds of 73-66—139 yesterday over the 6,746-yard Seminole Club course and split $2,800. Cooper picked up first money of $1,700 in winning the St. Petersburg open last Sunday, giving him $3,000 within the week.

Hogan and Sam Snead tied for third with 141 and split $1,200. Seven tied for fifth and received $321.24 each: Bill Cavanaugh of Hobe Sound, Fla., Peter Thomson of Melbourne, Australia, Doug Ford of Mahopac, N.Y., Jimmy Demaret of Klamath Lake, N.Y., Lew Worsham of Fort Lauderdale, Gardner Dickinson Jr. of Panama

Jones Competes in Ohio Meets

Hayes Jones, the former Pontiac High star, goes against some of the nation's outstanding hurriers two successive nights this weekend when he competes in the K of C Relays at Cleveland and the Livingston Relays at Grandville, Ohio Friday and Saturday.

He will compete in high hurdles in the K of C games which is expected to have Olympic greats Bill Campbell and Lee Calhoun also taking part.

Last week at Chicago, Jones finished 2nd among the trio at Chicago as Campbell tied the national record of 7.1 to win it.

The 18-year-old Eastern Michigan College freshman is expected to take part in four events in the eight-school Livingston battle. They will include both hurdles, the high and broad jumps.

Other teams in the Saturday meet will be Michigan, Ohio State, Western Michigan, Miami of Ohio, Bowling Green, Beloit, and host Denison.

Baseball Men Discuss Laws

Seek Defense Against Legislation Planned by Congress

BELLEAIR, Fla. (AP)—The men who rule baseball get together behind closed doors tomorrow to decide a line of policy against pending legislation which may define their game not a sport but a business.

Commissioner Ford Frick, ready with a definite plan of defense to place before the meeting, called the extraordinary session at his spring headquarters earlier in the week.

All 16 major league clubs will be represented along with American League President Will Harridge, National League President Warren Giles and minor league president George Trautman.

No one was ready to comment on what action baseball may take, but Frick said he has "a plan I want to place before the owners. We'll just sit down with our lawyers and thrash it out."

Calhoun Scores KO

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (INS)—Rory Calhoun landed 20 to 30 shots to James Bussey's head last night to score a technical knockout at 2:44 of the sixth round in their scheduled 10-round bout at the Miami Beach Auditorium.

Small Bench, Tigers Win, 8-4

Tighe Removes Outfielder for 'Mental Lapse'

Bonus Baby Penalized for Missing 2 Signals in Exhibition Game

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Jim Small, who's trying to win a regular berth in the Detroit Tiger outfield, has been the first to feel the sting of a public crackdown by manager Jack Tighe.

The new Detroit manager, pushing hard to find a winning combination in the exhibition games, benched Small abruptly in the first inning of yesterday's 8-4 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. Small didn't even have a chance to go to the outfield.

Tighe said he yanked the 20-year-old bonus player because of a mental lapse.

"He missed two signs in one inning and we aren't going to have that kind of baseball on this club," Tighe said.

Small had led off the Tiger batting and reached first on an error. Later he was forced out when Harvey Kuenn hit into a double play.

Tighe sent Bill Tuttle into right field to replace Small when the Pirates came to bat in the first.

The Tiger manager said Small "had nothing to say" about the incident. Tighe indicated he would use Small again today against the Washington Senators at Healey Field.

Small has been making a good showing at the plate in the Grapefruit Circuit hitting safely in six out of the eight games he has played in for a .345 average.

This was the first time the Tiger management has called him down in public but it wasn't the first time he upset the brass. Tighe was unhappy a week ago with the youngster when he lost a fly ball in the sun because he wasn't wearing his glasses.

Baseball Meeting

All former members of the General Motors Class A baseball team and all other local athletes interested in playing ball this summer are invited to attend a formal meeting of the State's Jewelers' team to be held Friday at 8 p.m. at the VFW on S. Saginaw.

Defenseman Ferny Flamin played with the Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League when he was 17 years old.

Heights, E. Detroit Win

Burton Scores 44

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Giant Ed Burton poured in 44 points to push defending class A champion Muskegon Heights to its 23rd straight basketball victory Wednesday night as tall men ruled the quarterfinals of the state high school tournament.

Burton's total was one point shy of his personal record of 45, hit last year, but it was more than all his teammates scored as the Heights capitalized on its height to top a speedy, aggressive Traverse City squad, 79-52.

Detroit Austin Catholic, powered by 6-foot-5 Dave Debuschere's 32 points, eliminated Dearborn Fordson, 62-53. East Detroit, helped by 20 points from 6-foot-6 Ron Emerick, walked away from Flint Northern 62-30.

The old nemesis of Muskegon Heights, Benton Harbor, was forced into overtime by a surprisingly tough Jackson team, but finally broke through for a 61-58 victory to qualify to meet the Heights in a semi-final battle Friday.

Flint Northern tried a full court press against East Detroit but couldn't stop its 10th loss against nine victories. Gary Ballman got 23 points for East Detroit.

Six-A league member Jackson tried to avenge Benton Harbor's upset of league champ, Kalama-zoo, but stood helplessly by while the Tigers hit three free throws in the last 45 seconds of regulation play to tie it 53-53 and then go on to win.

Chassell, the defending Class D champion, stopped Gaylord St. Mary's but the Harper Woods scoring was

Wings Headed for Attendance Record

DETROIT (AP) — A new season home attendance record is all but wrapped up for the Detroit Red Wings this year.

Going into tonight's game against Boston, the Wings have drawn 425,227 spectators to 33 home games. They need only 17,216 in the remaining two games to tie the all-time record of 442,443 set in 1949-50.

Drill to Alert Entire Nation

Defense Officials Plan Exercise in Problems of Atom Warfare

WASHINGTON (U) — Civil Defense officials have announced plans for a nationwide "Operation Alert 1957" this summer to drill government and civil defense workers in the problems of nuclear attack.

This fourth annual drill will begin with an attack period from 11 a.m. EST July 12 to 6 p.m. July 14, followed by a "survival action period" ending at noon July 19.

The Federal Civil Defense Administration (FCDA) said it will not announce the target cities ahead of time as it did in previous years.

FCDA added that some federal workers will evacuate Washington, but federal agencies will not move to secret relocation centers as they have in the past.

"It is expected that certain organizations which would come into existence in the event of war will be tested on a limited basis for the first time," the announcement said.

State and local civil defense agencies will begin preparing for the test July 8. Canada will assist in the program in border areas.

Last year's operation alert included simulated nuclear attacks on 76 cities in the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Canal Zone.

Students Coach Legislators on Delinquency

WASHINGTON (U) — High school students touring the capitol turned expert witnesses this week on why parents and children don't always get along and why some boys and girls go wrong.

The spur-of-the-moment testimony was given to a House education subcommittee by students from the George Mason High School, Falls Church, Va., and the George School, Bucks County, Pa.

What they said drew this tribute from another witness, Mrs. Elizabeth Ross, acting head of the U. S. Children's Bureau:

"Those youngsters are making just the points we turned up after years of study. The only difference is, they're saying it better than we do."

Among the points the youngsters made were:

TOO LENIENT

Parents are just about as hard to live with when they are too lenient as when they are too strict—anyway, they should be consistent.

The taunt "you're a sissy" from friends leads many a teenager wrong.

Grown-ups spend years keeping children busy with made-up things to do to keep them out of mischief, and then expect adolescents suddenly to develop wholesome interests for themselves.

There was even an outside expert among the teenagers — ash blonde Annette Rossing of Berlin-Dahlem, Germany, an exchange student at the George school. Politely in piquantly accented English, Annette said she found a great deal of materialism in America and young people "seem to be afraid to be independent and individual."

WORK WENT ON

A hearing on a bill for federal grants to help states develop programs against juvenile delinquency had been droning along in routine fashion before the subcommittee. Chairman Elliott (D-Ala.) spotting the young people who had filed quietly into spectators' seats, asked if any of them would help the subcommittee with the adolescent's point of view.

The students froze for a few minutes. Then a girl stood. Before she had said much, hands were popping up and then it was the youngsters' hearing for the next half hour.

Lots of youthful badness is just restlessness, said Polly Stevens of

Allocate 355 Interns for State During Year

DETROIT (U) — Thirty-seven Michigan hospitals will receive 355 new interns for the year starting in July, results of the national intern matching program indicated.

The hospitals, however, had asked for 618 interns. The number they will get is just about in proportion for the rest of the country, since medical schools are not graduating enough interns to fill the demand. Nationally a total of 11,804 interns were asked, and 6,539 candidates were available. Upstate hospitals receiving their full quota were Flint St. Joseph 14; Saginaw St. Luke 6; and Traverse City James Decker. Munson 6. University Hospital, Ann Arbor, got 47 of 53 asked.

Riverton, N. J. "Young children are encouraged to work it out—run, scream—while older ones are penned up for hours in school."

EXCESS GUIDANCE

Yes, said Scott Mason of Falls Church, but parents manufacture too much occupation for younger children. "They have no time to just sit, read, listen to music, watch TV. Young people should be able to think up their own entertainment, but always before parents have done it for them, so all they can think of is hang around the drug store, or go riding."

And Leslie Gilmore of Falls Church said she'd like to use up some of her surplus energy with a part time job, "but it's mighty hard for a teenager to get a job—the laws are too rigid."

Ellen Chase of Alstead, N. H., asked for the floor to reply to some criticism of parents as too strict. "Children aren't happier when they are let run wild. They want some guidance they can rely on. Social pressures often cause the troubles—you're dubbed a sissy if you don't learn to smoke and drink."

Detroit Suppliers Gain Highest Figure for Milk

DETROIT (U) — Dairy farmers who supply about 85 per cent of milk to the Detroit area made almost a million dollars more than the federal price order in February, the Michigan Milk Producers Assn. states.

H. F. Simmons, secretary-manager of the MMPA, said the association's Detroit — supplying farmers received $5.35 per hundredweight for drinking milk as compared to the federal order of $4.357.

"The million dollar figure represented the highest figure ever reached by negotiated premiums in the Detroit market," said Simmons.

He said prices negotiated by the MMPA during the past six months had increased Detroit area farmers' milk checks by more than $4,200,000.

Monroe Reactor 'Good Gamble'

Atom Expert, Hilberry, OKs Power Project; 3 Unions Object

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government atomic expert says the proposed nuclear power plant near Monroe, Mich., looks to him like a "good gamble" financially.

Dr. Norman Hilberry, director of the Atomic Energy Commission's Argonne National Laboratory near Chicago, told an AEC hearing on the project:

"I certainly would take certain chances on construction with money, knowing that I might not be able to operate."

"Personally I would say this is a good gamble at the moment." Construction of a reactor building has been started under a conditional permit issued by AEC to Power Reactor Development Co., a combine of 21 manufacturing and utility companies.

Three labor unions have questioned the combine's financial stability and the plant's safety.

Hilberry told the hearing that "detailed, definitive information is not available" on the way a melt-down of the proposed reactor's core of enriched uranium could occur. Previously testimony indicated there could be no nuclear accident without such a melt-down.

Hilberry said, however, that experimental corroboration of theories concerning the matter is expected before the Monroe reactor goes into operation in 1960.

The 42-million-dollar reactor is planned to produce plutonium for AEC and steam for Detroit Edison Co.

Ike Asks Queen, Prince -- Oh No! Royal Protocol

LONDON (AP) — When a man like President Eisenhower wants to have a young couple like Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip just by chance, he decided to sue one.

First he has to go through the mumbo jumbo of international protocol and find out whether an invitation would be accepted if, just by chance, he decided to sue one.

The answer comes back that the Queen and the Prince possibly could work the trip in if the President made an official pitch. Then, before any announcement can be made, a vast array of details has to be settled.

That seems to be the situation now regarding the possibility, or likelihood, that Queen Elizabeth and her husband will call on Jamestown, Va., Washington and New York in the late summer or early fall.

But you would have a hard time finding out about any invitation in London.

Buckingham Palace is a great stony building and you get mostly a great stony silence when you ask.

No. 10 Downing St., home of Prime Minister Macmillan, insists frostily that it knows nothing about an invitation.

Even the American Embassy says "we know nothing about the visit."

As a follow-up to the Eisenhower-Macmillan meetings in Bermuda, it would further cut down ill feeling that developed between the two nations over Britain's Suez Canal adventure.

It would be little short of amazing if the President and the Prime Minister failed to talk over the possibility of a visit.

The Daily Express said Tuesday the Queen and Prince will sail up the James River to Jamestown aboard the royal yacht Britannia Sept. 9.

A squadron of the royal navy will accompany them, the express said, and help celebrate Virginia's 350th birthday.

Risk Lives by Frequent Calls

Tokyo Hungry Sell Blood

TOKYO (INS) — More than 2,000 persons in Tokyo were disclosed today to be selling their blood regularly for a livelihood, with some bleeding themselves close to death.

The going rate in Tokyo is $3 a pint of blood, and each day at Tokyo blood centers, dozens of shabby and hungry men and women — some with babies strapped on their backs — line up.

Doctors say that giving more than half a pint a month, or more than one pint every three months, will injure a person's health.

Yet in Japan's capital city there are persons who sell one or two pints a month — too destitute to think of the grave consequences. This situation has been brought to light by several Tokyo newspapers and confirmed by medical reports.

The blood buyers — blood banks and plasma manufacturers — have some in their midst who operate on the theory of "all the traffic will bear." One buyer was quoted by a newspaper as saying:

"They need the money and if they want to sell too much of their blood, what can we do about it?"

Frequently blood sellers borrow health center registration cards or use forged ones to circumvent the legal limit in blood selling.

A case is on record of a blood agent near Tokyo who was discovered handing out forged certificates to prospective donors, enabling persons with tuberculosis, syphilis and other communicable diseases to sell their blood.

Present laws are inadequate to control injurious practices because blood and plasma are not classified as medicine and thus fall in no recognizable legal control classification.

Complicating the situation is the fact that hospitals are constantly calling for more blood to replace dwindling supplies. Approximately 7,000 persons in Japanese hospitals need blood every month as part of their medical treatment, a welfare ministry report said.

Rezone for Romeo Civic Center

ROMEO—Rezoning of the property offered as the site for the proposed civic center was approved last night by a five-to-one vote of Village Council.

Before proceeding with its construction plans, the Romeo Community Building Authority had asked that the 4.3 acre site on Morton street be rezoned from residential to multi-occupancy classification, which covers community building.

Forty-eight residents living near the property in question had signed petitions protesting "spot rezoning." Several appeared to air their views at a public hearing last week.

Council members heard both sides and then met in closed session Monday night to deliberate further.

After last night's vote, authority chairman, H. O. Evans Jr., thanked trustees for their cooperation, stating that his board felt "they were following the dictates of the majority of the people in the village."

He added that the board will now go ahead with its financial campaign and the formation of a building committee.

Actual construction of the center is scheduled to begin this spring.

Evans said.

PROPOSED ROMEO CENTER—Construction of the above proposed Romeo Civic Center will be pushed now that Village Council has approved rezoning for the site.

The letter praised and thanked the Clarkston Firefighters Assn. for assistance in the recent Masonic Temple fire in Oxford.

Bids were opened on the painting of the township buildings and No. 2 fire hall. C. W. Tindall, of Drayton Plains, and R. B. Wilson of Pontiac, were lowest bidders.

It was agreed that the plat from H-Wood Village Subdivision in Independence Township would be accepted as soon as all requirements were met.

Parks Admission Now Up to House

LANSING (AP)—It was up to the House today whether the Legislature approves a $2 annual levy for admission to state parks.

Two bills clearing the way for such a charge were passed yesterday by the Senate, the main one on a vote of 23 to 10.

All but two of the affirmative votes were cast by Republicans, all but one of the negative votes by Democrats. Crossing party lines were only Sens. Leo H. Roy (R-Hancock), Charles C. Steeh (D-Mount Clemens) and Stanley Rozycki (D-Detroit).

Under the bill, admissions would be collected through the sale of stickers which, when placed on an automobile windshield, would be good for entry of the car and all its occupants.

Tourists and other occasional visitors could gain entry to a park by payment at the gate of a single day fee of 50 cents.

As it passed, the bill lacked an exemption feature for school and church groups. This was stricken out on Tuesday.

Estimate of revenues to be derived have ranged from $600,000 to two million dollars, with all proceeds to be devoted to operation, maintenance and expansion of the park system.

The poster will join other prize-winning efforts at special showings in several U. S. cities. The contest is sponsored by the U. S. Merchant Marine, the Federal Maritime Board and the Maritime Administration.

Tax Unit Hears 568 Complaints

Pontiac Review Board Closes Three Weeks of Sessions

A record number of 568 persons appeared before the 1957 Pontiac Board of Tax Review which yesterday concluded a three-week session of hearings on city assessments.

James F. Spence, chairman of the board, said this number represents more persons appearing before the board than he can remember during his 8 to 10 years on it.

The total was divided into 479 who appeared the first week seeking tax reductions for reasons of diminished income. Approximately 90 signed complaints on real estate and personal property assessments.

Spence said the board was presently reviewing the complaints. Board members will then come up with their findings based on the hearings and assessments set by City Assessor W. Raymond Ransom.

The board can either raise or lower Ransom's assessments, Spence said.

Organic Clubs to Meet

The annual meeting of the Federated Organic Clubs of Michigan will be Sunday, in DeHl Township Hall at Holt (seven miles south of Lansing), beginning in the morning.

MEMO TO CAESAR

Salome Dances and John Is Slain

On Herod's birthday, as was their custom, all the lords and landholders of Galilee came to his palace for an immense supper — not as elegant as those held on the banks of the Tiber, but just as gross in quantity!

And when the men had gorged themselves, Herodias sent in her daughter, Salome, to dance. This girl, I am told, dances with extraordinary grace and is, in her person, well — fetching, to say the least.

The revelers went wild over her performance. She writhed and whirled with consummate artfulness, Julius reports....

The dancing and the applause went to Herod's head along with the fumes of all the wine, he had had, just as Herodias figured it would.

With an expansive gesture, Herod called to Salome. He would give her anything she wanted, up to half of his kingdom as a reward for her splendid performance.

The girl went out demurely and inquired of her mother what the gift should be. That was just what Herodias was waiting for.

"Ask for the head of John the Baptist on a charger," she said.

The girl returned and made her request.

Herod was stunned. But he was stuck, too. He had given his word before all the most important men in Galilee. He gave the order.

An executioner was sent to behead John in his prison. Shortly he returned with the grizzly prize on a charger as the girl had asked.

Salome took the platter to her mother. At last, Herodias was satisfied.

To me, this whole matter is entirely barbarian. So much so, that I am inclined to dismiss it with distaste as I would some tale of cruelty from wandering tribesmen. After all, no Roman has been harmed.

(Signed) PILATE.

A profusion of spring flowers will be used to highlight the artistic stage setting.

Budget Ready at Southfield

$101,000 Higher Than Revenues; Board Also Prepares Alternate

SOUTHFIELD—An annual budget, $101,000 higher than anticipated revenues, will be presented by the township board at its annual meeting on March 30.

Supervisor Eugene Swem said an alternate budget within Southfield's income is being prepared and will be offered by the board at the same time.

Swem said the total recommendation by the Board is $372,355 as compared to $515,000 for the previous year.

A tax increase of 70 cents on the thousand dollars assessed valuation would be needed if the proposed budget is approved.

Included in both budgets are raises of $500 for Swem, Township Clerk Fannie Adams and Treasurer Clara Lane, and pay raises of about 5 per cent for other employees.

The new budget would cover costs among other things: five new policemen, an additional police car and money to supplement road commission work.

If You're Smart, Smart!

WASHINGTON (INS) — Dr. Robert H. Felix, director of the National Institute of Mental Health, on learning ability, stated: "Learning ability actually continues to increase, although at a somewhat decreased pace as we get older, until we get up into the fifties. As a matter of fact, people whose activities have been in the field of thinking... may carry on... their learning activities much longer than this."

3 Detroit Union Men to Face Grand Jury

Five Michigan residents, described by the government as aides or associates of James R. Hoffa, Teamsters Union vice president, testified yesterday.

Williams said the five were Milan Kralik, an auditor for the City Bank of Detroit; Walter Sacharczyk of Port Huron, a Local 239 business agent; George Cottage, president of Local 902; William Buffalo, of Detroit, president of Local 176; and Bernice Burridge, also of Detroit, Local 337 bookkeeper.

Although the government described the five associates of Hoffa, who faces bribery charges in Washington, Williams said the jury probe here "has nothing to do with the Washington case involving Hoffa."

He also said the jury's probe had no connection with a Senate committee's investigation into labor racketeering. It was this investigation that led to the bribery charge against Hoffa.

Williams declined to give any further details on what the jury is investigating or on the testimony by the Michigan witnesses.

Bill Trimmed $538 Million
House Slices Amount Ike Asked to Finance 18 Agencies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House yesterday cut deeper than its Appropriations Committee had recommended in slicing nearly $538 million dollars from a bill to finance 18 separate federal agencies.

The reduction, as approved by the House on a voice vote, was 9 per cent below the $5,923,195,000 President Eisenhower had requested to run these independent agencies in the fiscal year starting July 1.

Last Friday, the Appropriations Committee had suggested the total in the bill be whittled by $516,993,300. But the House went beyond this, trimming another 21 millions.

It did this by wiping out a 19-million-dollar fund for stockpiling strategic materials and by snipping two millions from funds for the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

As the bill goes to the Senate, it contains $4,682,705,300 for the 389,600 for the General Services Administration, $119,645,000 for the Housing and Home Finance Agency, and 105 millions for the NACA.

Hoover Warns of U.S. Spending, Inflation Threat

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Former President Herbert Hoover said yesterday that taxpayers are "groaning" over the record government spending and he warned that inflation is the country's most serious threat.

Hoover, 82, said that if the public took some of the "special interest groups' pressure off Congress" the lawmakers would have a better chance to reduce the government's spending program.

"The purchasing power of the dollar is down every month," said Hoover in an interview. Hoover is here for his customary bonefishing in the Florida Keys.

Red Buttons Now Aiming at Stardom in the Movies

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Red Buttons, one of television's most famous victims, is now trying his hand at the movies.

The comic's meteoric rise and fall in TV is now the classic example of how the new medium consumes talent. In three years, he went from brilliant success to unemployment.

Of course it's not as bad as all that, because Buttons is a bright, talented fellow who can always earn a mighty good living in night clubs, TV guest shots, etc. But being an ambitious guy, he's looking for new fields to conquer. Such as the movies.

Right now he's appearing with Marion Brando in "Sayonara," playing an important dramatic role. His work is reportedly so good that William Wellman wants him for a leading role in "Darby's Rangers." Soon he may be able to say, "Who needs TV?"

Just returned from locations in Japan, Red was full of enthusiasm. He explained that the role was the idea of an agent in New York with access to director Josh

Logan. After Red finished the James Michener book, he told the agent, "Get me that role or get out of town!"

"I tested twice for the part," Red disclosed. "once in New York and once out here. The tests were so extensive that they could just put scenery around them and release the footage as a feature film."

"But I could understand their caution. After all, I was just a pro comic with no reputation as an actor."

Persistence No Aid in Nightly Complaint

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — A one-man campaign against train whistles on the Santa Fe railroad sparked a spirited debate in the Bakersfield city council.

"Every other night," said one councilman, "I get called out of bed with a complaint about the train whistles. How am I going to get any rest?"

"Just how many people have been calling you?" asked a skeptical member.

"Well," was the response, "it's only one, but he sure calls a lot."

Corn on Fishhook, Bait for Pheasant, Fine $50

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP) — Clyde Rains, 38, Onalaska, Wis., has been fined $50 because he fished for pheasants with a hook and line baited with kernels of corn.

Conservation warden Dave Hammes testified he discovered eight baited fish hooks, each anchored by a thin copper wire, and arrested Rains when he inspected the trap line.

Rains was charged with tempting to take pheasants out of season.

Squab, Milk Give Cat 20 Years for 9 Lives

ZION, Ill. (AP) — Time ran out for Jiggers, a big yellow Angora cat that grew up on a diet of squab and fresh milk.

Mrs. Carrie Main says she raised Jiggers from kittenhood and that a cat nearly 20 years old is not found every day.

Locks Door of Cell on Mother-in-Law

CUDAHY, Wis. (AP) — If Elmer J. Henry has mother-in-law trouble, he sure asked for it.

He spotted his mother-in-law, Mrs. Clement Seiy, among the hundreds of persons inspecting Cudahy's new jail. When she walked into a cell in the women's ward to look it over, Elmer swung the door shut behind her and the door locked automatically.

Mrs. Seiy, seething with indignation, huddled in the back of the cell and covered her face with a newspaper as curious visitors filed past. Fifteen minutes later, Elmer finally released Mrs. Seiy with apologies.

Grain Surge Stops Abruptly

CHICAGO (AP)—Grain futures started higher on the Board of Trade today, but promptly fell below the previous close in most cases.

A report of good, soaking rains in many parts of the southwestern winter wheat belt was the main selling influence. This offset much buying influences as the Senate Agriculture Committee's action to authorize the sale of more surplus farm products abroad.

Corn was easy. Oats held steady. Soybeans started out firm but soon dropped.

Near the end of the first hour wheat was $\frac{1}{4}$ cent lower to $\frac{1}{8}$ cent higher. May $\$2.23\frac{1}{2}$, corn $\frac{1}{4}$ cent lower, May $\$1.31\frac{1}{2}$, oats $\frac{1}{4}$ cent higher to $\frac{1}{8}$ cent lower, May $\$1.31\frac{1}{2}$, soybeans unchanged to $\frac{1}{8}$ cent lower, May $\$14.14$ and $\$14.14$ to 7 cents a hundred pounds lower, May $\$14.40$.

Rackets Probe Eyes Girl Friend's Car

don Lindsay was a man of high integrity. I can't understand it myself.

McClellan noted that Brewster's name was on the check, too, but the West Coast union leader stressed that he "signed checks in blank"—a "bad system" which he was going to change.

Brewster was confronted with two statements that appeared to contradict his earlier testimony and with a $62.32 bill paid by the union for the remounting of wheels on his horse van.

The committee said it had a statement from McNulty refuting Brewster's claim Wednesday that the horse van driver did organizational work for the teamsters.

Investigators also introduced documents to show that the late John J. Sweeney, another secretary-treasurer of the Western Conference, lost only $263 on the sale of a Portland, Ore., house.

COST UNION $6,663

Brewster had testified that the union decorated Sweeney's house in Seattle at an expense of $6,663.30 to compensate him for his loss when he left Portland to become an officer of the Western Conference.

Confronted with today's developments, Brewster claimed the committee has not "gone far enough."

He contended that Sweeney had equipped the Portland residence—a $19,000 home—with a lawn, wall-to-wall carpeting, drapes, sand, gravel, and had finished off some rooms.

Brewster also said any difference between the amount paid by the union to decorate the Seattle house and the loss on the Portland house would be repaid by the Sweeney estate to the teamsters.

Salinger read a wire from Seattle which, he said, contained the text of an affidavit signed by McNulty.

NOT UNION EMPLOYED

In the statement, the horse van driver said he never had been "engaged actively" as an organizer for the teamsters nor as an employee of the union.

McNulty said he attended two Los Angeles conferences as a "delegate," and that he made trips to California during the racing season for Brewster's racing stables.

On these trips, McNulty said, he went to the Santa Anita, Bay Meadows, Tanforan, Golden Gate Fields and Hollywood Park race tracks.

McNulty said in the statement that Brewster and Sweeney paid his expenses. He said these payments were in cash, except for possibly two checks.

Brewster said he did not recall the $62.32 paid to the Standard Service Tire Company, which he and Beck own, for remounting wheels on the horse van. He conceded, however, that "it looks like it has" been paid by the Western Conference.

McClellan demanded "the record shows that, doesn't it?" Brewster meekly replied: "The record shows that."

Fox Hunters Blamed for Death of Heifer

Unidentified fox hunters were blamed for the death of a two-year-old Holstein heifer found Wednesday shot on the grounds of its owner, Thomas Hitchcock, 8241 Pontiac Lake Rd., Milford.

State Police of the Pontiac Post said that Hitchcock's property is adjacent to the state recreation area which many hunters use.

Data Confuses Raid on Marilyn

Witnesses Allege Joe 'Dated' Former Spouse Right After Fiasco

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — A Los Angeles grand jury investigation of the new-celebrated "wrong door" raid on Marilyn Monroe has produced surprise testimony that Joe DiMaggio dated Marilyn in her apartment two hours after the fiasco.

Another surprise element which was revealed in yesterday's session of the grand jury inquiry was that the raid, which had reportedly been set up to get divorce evidence against Marilyn, took place five days after the blonde beauty had divorced DiMaggio.

A parade of witnesses has testified that private detective Barney Ruditsky set up the raid for the former Yankee Clipper and that the raiding party slammed through the door of the wrong apartment.

Private investigator Henry (Hank) Cohen, who was one of Ruditsky's operatives at the time, said he told the jury that DiMaggio showed up at Marilyn's apartment after the raid and spent at least an hour with the actress.

STAKED OUT — The "private eye" explained that when the raid failed to turn up Marilyn he went to her apartment and "staked out" there.

He said:

"DiMaggio was admitted by Marilyn herself. She let him in.

"He was there for at least an hour, because I stayed that long and then took off. I don't know how long he stayed.

"I didn't see any lights. She never left her lights on at all."

The grand jury is looking into the "wrong door" raid for a possible felony conspiracy to violate the forcible trespass laws and for possible perjury at a recent state senate committee hearing, where Frank Sinatra and a private detective gave conflicting testimony.

Detroit Weatherman Wins Silver Medal

DETROIT (INS) — Detroit weatherman W. W. Oak, 63, has won a silver medal from the U.S. Department of Commerce.

The award is for Oak's services as Detroit's weatherman and his "particularly noteworthy" performance in forecasting the 1956 tornadoes.

Didn't Watch His Hat

GEORGETOWN, Ky. (AP) — Scott County Coroner Jack Turner plans to hang one of those "Watch Your Hat" signs in his home.

While the family was eating, a burglar sneaked away with his hat — and overcoat.
