They Struggle With New Crisis

CONFERENCE AT WHITE HOUSE—British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles arrive at the White House for an important conference with President Eisenhower. The British diplomat flew to Washington to confer with top United States officials on the stormy Middle East situation.

LODGE AT U.N. COUNCIL—U.S. Ambassador to the U.N., Henry Cabot Lodge, addressing the 11-nation Security Council said U.N. must cope with indirect aggression in the Middle East or "the world organization will break up." Lodge heads this nation's delegation to the United Nations.

RUSSIA DEMANDS ACTION—Arkady Sobolev, head of the Soviet delegation to the U.N. proposed that the Security Council discuss the Lebanon and Jordan situations together. He served notice Russia will demand General Assembly action if the council refuses to demand withdrawal of U.S. and British troops from the two countries. He called the Middle East situation "grave."

ON PATROL IN BEIRUT—Armed Marines in combat dress patrol street in Beirut, capital of Lebanon. Dispatches today say U.S. soldiers have been flown into Lebanon from Turkey to augment our Marine forces in the capital.

Security Council Deadlock Seen

Emergency Session of U.N. Assembly Likely Next in Mideast Debate

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—U.N. delegates expected that the Security Council would prove powerless today to act in the Middle East crisis and that a special emergency session of the General Assembly would be called.

Three resolutions to deal with the crisis seemed headed for oblivion in the day's Council session.

Indications were that once the 11-nation Council had failed to agree on any action, either the United States or the Soviet Union would ask for a special session and the 81-nation Assembly would meet in a few days.

The Soviet Union was pushing a resolution to demand immediate withdrawal of the U.S. Marines that went into Lebanon Tuesday and the British paratroops who landed in Jordan yesterday. The Council was expected to vote this down.

Soviet Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev told the Council yesterday that if it was "paralyzed in its action" on his proposal, he would ask for an emergency special Assembly session.

The United States was sponsoring a resolution that would send a U.N. force to Lebanon to take over from the Marines as a backdrop for President Camille Chamoun's government. Chamoun charges President Nasser's United Arab Republic is aiding the rebel forces seeking to oust him.

Sobolev was expected to veto the U.S. resolution, U.S. sources said that the United States then would like to have its resolution taken up in the Assembly.

In yesterday's debate, U.S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge charged there is a master plot to take over the Middle East by indirect aggression, and the United Nations may fall apart unless it can cope with the situation.

That was the picture of the Middle East's fateful July 14, as shown in a chronology based on the best available publishable information here.

Father Finds His Son's Badly Beaten Body in Pond Near Ann Arbor

ANN ARBOR (AP)—A 14-year-old boy today confessed to severely beating an 11-year-old neighbor youth and drowning the bound boy in a pond near their home.

Sheriff Robert E. A. Lillie said Frank Hogan Jr. of nearby Pittsfield Township was held for investigation of homicide.

Hogan admitted beating and drowning John Thomas Winslow, after almost six hours of interrogation last night and today.

Lillie said Hogan told him the drowning occurred after the two boys went into the pond in a rural area on a raft. The sheriff said the boys had quarreled on shore before embarking.

"There was a lot of bitter blood between the two kids," Lillie said. "Hogan maintains the Winslow boy fell on the raft. He said he struck him with a homemade paddle and then pummeled him, apparently several times."

Lillie said Hogan bound Winslow's hands behind him with his own belt and tied his feet with a rope.

"Hogan then held his head under and probably choked him, but saw that didn't work too well," Lillie said. "So he tied Winslow to the raft and pushed it over him."

The sheriff said Hogan scurried home, shed his wet blue corduroy pants and put on fresh clothing. "Then he casually went back to the pond to see what all the excitement was," said Lillie.

Young Winslow was found face up in three feet of water by his father, George, 44, about three hours after he was last seen last night.

The boy, eldest of three children, had been forbidden permission to go near the pond.

Hogan, one of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hogan's eight children, was picked up by Deputy Wayne R. Schulze within an hour after Winslow was found last evening.

"I'm not convinced he did it alone," Lillie said. "I'm not satisfied."

King Hussein Plans Action to Free Iraq

British Planes Bringing More Chutists to Jordan From Cyprus

From Our News Wires
Major developments today in the Mideast crisis include these:

- 1—U. S. soldiers move into Beirut from Turkey to relieve Marines guarding Beirut airport; King Hussein ready to act to liberate Iraq;
- 2—British transport planes flew massive troop reinforcements from Cyprus into Jordan in round-the-clock operations;
- 3—The U. S. completed buildup of a powerful nuclear air striking force at Adana, Turkey, 500 miles south of Russia;
- 4—British Prime Minister MacMillan won a solid vote of confidence in the House of Commons last night on British intervention in Jordan;
- 5—President Nasser of the United Arab Republic and Premier Khrushchev of the Soviet Union have conferred on the Mideast crisis, Cairo radio announced.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—The United States Army flew paratroops into Beirut today to reinforce the U.S. Marines and the Jordan radio announced that King Hussein was ready to take action to liberate Iraq.

The first detachment of paratroops recently stationed in Germany was flown here today from the secret NATO airbase in Adana, Turkey, in giant troop transport planes. They were equipped with jeeps for reconnaissance purposes.

Major U. S. Sixth Fleet reinforcements also arrived in Beirut today. The new force built up the strength of the U. S. force to about 5,400 men.

The new group is the 1st battalion of the 8th Regiment. With the arrival of the new group, 49 U. S. ships are now operating in the Beirut area, including two big aircraft carriers which arrived yesterday.

AMMAN, Jordan — Big British transport planes ferried massive troop reinforcements from Cyprus to Jordan today in round-the-clock operations. (The Jordan radio heard in Jerusalem said today that the Jordanian government will take action at whatever cost necessary to liberate Iraq. It stressed that King Hussein, as acting head of the Jordan-Iraq Arab Union, is the only person with authority to restore order in Iraq.)

Big British Beverly and Hastings troop carriers roared low over Amman's seven hills through the night carrying "Red Devil" paratroops to join the vanguard of the force that was airlifted in yesterday. The paratroopers boarded jeeps and trucks at the airfield and were transported to an old royal air force base nearby where the brigade will be concentrated awaiting further orders. (Reliable sources in Cyprus said equipment and possibly men of the First Guards Brigade also were being loaded aboard a vessel in Limassol on the south coast.)

ADANA, Turkey — The United States has completed buildup of a powerful self-contained nuclear air striking force at this airbase 500 miles south of Russia.

Bombers, fighters, reconnaissance planes, transports and paratroopers moved in direct from the United States to form a nuclear (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

100,000 in Moscow Mob U.S. Embassy

MOSCOW (AP)—A crowd of Soviet demonstrators estimated to number up to 100,000 gathered outside the U.S. Embassy today.

Some pelted it with ink and projectiles, in the second day of demonstrations against the landing of American Marines in Lebanon.

Damage extended all the way to the fifth floor of the 10-story building. An air rifle pellet penetrated a window in the embassy but no one was hurt.

The unruly crowd filled the street before the embassy with a mass of humanity stretching for half a mile in either direction. Soviet militiamen kept early arrivals under control but made no apparent attempt to control the action of the crowd as it grew in size. Lower-floor windows of the embassy were quickly smashed, and as projectiles continued to hit the front of the building glass was smashed on the floors above. Those in the crowd carried placards saying "Shame on American Democracy," "U. S. Gangsters," "Hands off Lebanon." (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Step-by-Step Pattern of Revolution

Seven Fateful Hours Which Overthrew a Kingdom

WASHINGTON (AP)—It took seven hours last Bastille Day for the Baghdad rebels to seize and secure power over Iraq. And then, for the rest of the day, the mobs took over.

That was the picture of the Middle East's fateful July 14, as shown in a chronology based on the best available publishable information here.

SKETCHY PICTURE
Officials informed on the situation assembled the pieces, some admittedly sketchy, this way: Baghdad was sleeping. It was 5 a.m. and the first faint rays of another sun were just beginning to appear. Swiftly and silently, Brig. Gen. Abdul Karim el-Kassem led his 20th Brigade into the unsuspecting city.

Whispered orders, detachments dropped off at the railroad, at the bridges, at the telegraph office, at main street junctures, at the post office, at Baghdad radio. Quietly, efficiently, the troops took over without firing their rifles and machine guns.

More whispered orders. This time, names of those to be arrested. Other detachments going around to the specified addresses, knocking and arresting, with orders to shoot if resisted.

In an hour the secrecy, locked in the hearts of fewer than two dozen men for two months, was no longer necessary. It was 6 a.m. The first phase of a classic coup was over. Baghdad radio blared the city awake with the news: "Citizens of Baghdad, the monarchy is dead, the republic is here!"

And then, the names of 15 men, mostly young army officers. The 12-man Cabinet, headed by Kassem as premier, and the three-man Sovereignty Council, the new strategy-making supercabinet, topped by Lt. Gen. Najib el-Rubai.

A detachment, led by two officers, went to the royal palace. By now, a mob was gathering, mystified, curious, excited. With the mob trailing, the soldiers forced their way into the palace.

They were brought up short by the sight of their young King. The 23-year-old Faisal, a pistol strapped to his side, stood beside his 46-year-old uncle Abdul Ilah, crown prince and ex-regent. With them, rifles drawn, were two members of the palace guard. They were ordered to surrender.

Abdul Ilah, also armed, was disarmed. He and Faisal had arisen early to fly to Ankara, Turkey, for a Baghdad Pact meeting — not to be arrested. He ordered his guards to shoot. The soldiers fired first and the guards fell dead. Abdul Ilah went for his pistol. Another fusillade and both he and Faisal crumpled to the floor.

The King was dead. But the prince might have been still alive. The mob surged forward, kept a respectful distance from the King but seized the prince.

DRAWN BEHIND JEEP
Abdul Ilah, a meticulous man who liked pink shirts with gray pinstriped suits and hated crowds, was dragged through the streets of Baghdad behind a jeep. His body was hung on a building so all could see he was dead. The King's body was exhibited later, probably on a marble slab.

But the big prize got away. Premier Nuri Said, "the Old Fox," caught wind of the coup and fled to the suburbs. Angered, the military junta slapped a $25,000 price on his head. It was not until two days later that he was found, disguised as an old woman with a black scarf covering his face. He shot it out and fell dead. His body, too, was hung in display.

Nuri's reported lament to President Eisenhower in Washington last fall comes back now with prophetic irony. "I am a strong man," he told Eisenhower, "but I am 70 years old and there is no one to succeed me."

Ironically, too, Nuri apparently sealed his own doom. Only last week he supplied Kassem's brigade with ammunition to march to Jordan. There, it was to help Faisal's cousin King Hussein keep order after the June 22 smashing. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

4-H Style Queen to Wed Student in Germany

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, Minn. (AP)—A former northern Minnesota 4-H Club style queen is leaving for Germany soon to wed the exchange student from that country who popped the question while staying here last summer.

The romance of Joanne Vedaa, 20, and 23-year-old Frederick Erbacher, Tübingen, Germany, blossomed at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hjalmer Vedaa at Indus 30 miles west of here.

Erbacher spent the summer at the Vedaa farm under the international student exchange program. "No, it wasn't love at first sight," explained the attractive brunette. "But Frederick did propose before he left for home late last summer. And we've been writing since."

Frederick is an agriculture student at the Hohen Landauschule at Nürtingen Germany. The couple plans eventually to go into farming in Minnesota.

Mideast Grain Influence Eases

CHICAGO (U) — Grain futures prices eased in early dealings today on the board of trade. In some instances the setback ran to as much as 2 cents a bushel.

Dealers said the market appeared to have exhausted for the present the bullish influence stemming from the Middle East crisis and that the moderate liquidation and profit-taking was a natural reaction.

However, some traders said there still was a fair demand and that all offerings were quickly absorbed.

Near the end of the first hour, wheat was 1 1/4 to 2 1/4 cents a bushel lower, July 1.90 1/4; corn unchanged to 1/4 lower, July 1.33 1/4; oats 1/4 to 1/2 lower, July 65; rye 1/4 to 1/2 lower, July 1.29 1/4; soybeans 1 1/2 to 2 lower, July 22.33; lard 5 cents a hundred pounds higher to 20 cents lower, September 12.25.

The broad price advance this week came at a time when the market generally had little time to work itself out of counterpressures. With trading in the July contracts ending next Tuesday, few dealers felt very secure in taking on heavy short commitments when such supplies for delivery are not too abundant.

DETROIT (U) — Barring a strike, the auto industry will build approximately 1,425,000 cars in this year's October-December quarter, Ward's Automotive Reports says in its current issue.

That volume would compare with an indicated 704,000 assemblies in the July-September quarter.

Ward's says that while the projected total for October-December appears optimistic, "a robust target is becoming almost mandatory, particularly since third-quarter assemblies have been pared to the lowest point for that period since 1946."

"This in effect, is aimed at a virtual sellout of the '58 models and an earlier start on '59 model sales that will boost October car assemblies 40 per cent above a year ago."

Based on projected schedules, the agency says, passenger car output for calendar 1958 will total 4,371,000 units. In calendar 1957 the industry built 6,115,458 cars.

DETROIT (UPI)—American Motors Corp., thanks to the spectacular sales record chalked up by its Rambler model, has paid off the last of more than 69 million dollars in bank loans.

AMC, troubled by heavy losses owed $69,350,000 to banks four years ago.

But the growing sales figures made by the low-priced Rambler enabled the company to cut the loans to $33,750,000 by last year.

George Romney, company president, said the last of its loans were paid off last week. Romney said net profit for the company's third quarter, which ended June 30, would be more than five million dollars.

AMC announced earlier this week that dealers in the first 10 weeks of the month sold 5,111 Ramblers. This was more than three times the number of cars sold in the same period a year ago and nearly equal to last July's total sales.

NEW YORK — Steels and oils

paced a market advance early today in one of the heaviest trading sessions of the year.

Key stocks rose from fractions to more than a point but gains were moderate and there was considerable churning of prices.

Issues related to the nation's defense effort continued their strength of yesterday while shares of companies less likely to profit under conditions of national emergency did little or nothing.

International oils continued to recover from their setback caused by Mideast jitters. Gulf Oil gained about 2 points, Royal Dutch and Standard Oil (New Jersey) better than a point. Socomobol was around a point to the good. Domestic oil issues gained fractions.

Other gainers of about a point included Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, Caterpillar and International Nickel.

The ticker tape was late for 18 minutes and was as much as two minutes behind in reporting transactions.

Aircraft, chemicals and nonferrous metals made a string of fractional gains. Rails were mixed.
