TO ENTER PRISON — Convicted of voluntary manslaughter of business executive Forrest Teel, Mrs. Connie Nicholas stands in the Indianapolis courtroom prior to being taken to Indiana Women's Prison. A jury of 12 men convicted her.

Connie Nicholas Sentenced to 2-to-21-Year Prison Term

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Connie Nicholas, disappointed by her conviction of voluntary manslaughter of her wealthy lover, was taken to the Indiana Women's Prison today to start a term of 2 to 21 years.

Sheriff's deputies whisked her to the old brick prison on the east side of Indianapolis less than an hour after her sentencing, with plans for an appeal still up in the air.

"We probably will appeal," said Charles W. Symmes, one of her lawyers.

The jury of 12 married men returned the manslaughter conviction early today.

Immediately after Judge Thomas J. Faulconer pronounced sentence, the 45-year-old double divorcee turned in annoyance to her lawyers and said:

"I thought we were going to appeal and get bond set," she said. "We still can," said Joseph Quill, one of her three lawyers.

Mrs. Nicholas, who will be eligible for parole in 21 months, said she was "very disappointed" by the early morning manslaughter conviction.

"I had hoped for acquittal all along," she told newsmen.

She testified she shot her handsome, married lover, Forrest Teel, 54, accidentally in a struggle outside his younger girl friend's apartment.

Under the manslaughter conviction, she could be freed on bond if the case were appealed.

When a newsman asked her whether she would have preferred women on the jury, instead of the 12 married men, she said:

"Well, I certainly have been hearing from a lot of women. They've been just wonderful."

"Have you heard from many men?"

"No."

She said she would like to have the conviction appealed to the Indiana Supreme Court, "if I have the money."

Defense Attorney Frank Symmes filed a routine motion for arrest of judgement to try to de-

Three Charges Against Martin

Accused of Kidnaping, Rape of Pontiac Girl and Auto Theft

Accused of kidnaping, rape and auto theft, a 20-year-old ex-convict demanded examination on all three charges today before Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan.

Harold E. Martin of 739 E. Madison Ave. is being held in the Oakland County Jail pending the pretrial hearing set by Judge Finnegan for 10 a.m. next Wednesday.

Martin was unable to furnish bond of $10,000 on the kidnap-rape counts and $1,000 on the auto theft charge.

Two separate warrants against Martin were issued this morning, one for the kidnap-rape charges, the other for auto theft.

Blonde, 17-year-old JoAnn Visure of 446 Midway Ave. charged that Martin, who only last Tuesday was paroled from Ionia State Reformatory, abducted, beat and raped her.

After their cars collided Tuesday night, she was held captive for 10 hours, she told authorities. The pair was found in Bloomfield Township at 10:30 a.m. yesterday by township police and Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

Miss Visure said that after the two cars collided Martin came out of his car and hit her on the head several times with a flashlight. Authorities today recovered the object at the scene of the accident, a block from Miss Visure's home.

She said Martin criminally attacked her twice.

Martin denied to authorities that he attacked the girl, and said that she willingly entered the car which he stole earlier Tuesday evening from the Pontiac Motor Division parking lot.

Miss Visure was treated for cuts and bruises yesterday at Pontiac General Hospital and released.

Finds Government Costs More in State

LANSING (UPI) — Michigan State government cost $37.66 more per person than in eight "competitor" states, legislative budget experts were told last night.

The Citizens Research Council told lawmakers the per capita cost of operating state government in Michigan last year was $163.45, about 29.9 per cent more than the average cost of Illinois, Indiana, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin.

Michigan would have saved 290 million dollars in 1958 if per capita costs had been at the levels of competitor states, members of the legislative appropriations committees were told at a budget hearing.

Crowds Shout 'Viva Castro' on U.S. Arrival

Cuban Leader Plans 2-Week Tour to 'Sell' His Nation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fidel Castro, welcomed with a noisy reception he said he found delightful, begins a two-week tour today to "promote Cuba" among Americans and Canadians.

The bearded Cuban Prime Minister was greeted with cries of "Viva Castro" —Long live Castro — from a crowd of flag-waving Cuban supporters when he arrived Wednesday night by plane.

A few youths at the airport waved anti-Castro signs, but they were kept behind a barrier. They identified themselves as students from Georgetown University here.

Wearing a familiar combat uniform, the smiling revolutionary leader told the airport crowd, "I hope in some way I can bring a better understanding of our program in Cuba to the people of the United States and that they will have a better understanding of our situation."

Then, ignoring his waiting limousine, he headed for a wire fence behind which most of the spectators had been kept waiting. There he hugged many of his admirers, shook their hands and patted them on the head.

EVERYONE NICE

"Everyone is very nice," he said on his arrival at the Cuban Embassy. "The American people are very nice. The Cubans are very nice. Even the reporters are very nice," he added with a laugh.

A luncheon date with Acting Secretary of State Christian Herter was the only official engagement today for the 32-year-old leader.

There was no hint as to what Castro and Herter would discuss. Sources close to the Prime Minister, who is here on an unofficial visit, said it was to be purely a personal call. The original tour schedule did not include the Herter luncheon. It was added about 10 days ago.

ECONOMICS FIRST

Indications were strong that the economic phase of his "Sell Cuba" campaign—as he has labeled it in frequent speeches in Havana — would get top priority on his tour.

Castro is expected to launch his Cuban promotional effort Friday when he addresses the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Let the Lady Out!

CARLISLE, England (UPI) — Mrs. Ellen Burrows, 78, boarded a train to say good-bye to her brother and traveled 600 miles before she got home again. "I couldn't get off because of people jamming the corridors," she said.

Senate Committee to Vote Monday

Call Vet-Fund Showdown

LANSING (UP) — A showdown vote in committee on the veterans trust fund bills, last bulwark against a state financial crack-up, was set today for next Monday.

The Senate Appropriations Committee, at the suggestion of Sen. Elmer R. Porter (R-Blissfield), chairman, decided against taking decisive action immediately.

"We've got to come to some conclusion one way of the other pretty soon," said Porter. Gov. Williams has strongly urged final legislative clearance of the trust fund bills by a week from today.

"We've got to kill them, put them out on the floor without recommendation or make a decision of some sort," Porter added. Other members nodded agreement.

The chairman proposed that the committee, later today, make up its mind whether to vote Monday on mortgaging the 50 million dollar fund or liquidating it with provision for rebuilding the bonds of the trust starting in 1965.

The governor said Tuesday after meeting with Porter and key state administators that he could not guarantee what would happen if the bills failed to reach him by a week from Friday.

He made an urgent plea to lawmakers the night before for speedy passage of the bills, saying "You simply cannot let the state go smash."

Reckoned one way, the governor said, the state general fund on May 15 will be 121 million dollars short of meeting its obligations.

RESISTANCE ON TAX BILL

Williams' forces, trying to find Republican signers for the governor's graduated income tax bill, ran into firm resistance by top GOP House leaders.

Alfred B. Fitt the governor's legal adviser, said last night bipartisan sponsorship was being sought to enhance chances of legislative approval.

But a Republican source who asked anonymity said:

"Williams wants to get off the hook politically. The (Democratic) front office boys would like nothing better than to get the bill introduced while he's out of town to separate him from it as far as possible."

Jobless Issue Still Deadlocked

No Break in Sight as State Dems and GOP Blame Each Other

LANSING (UP)—No break in the deadlock over jobless pay extension legislation was in sight today while Republicans and Democrats continued to blame each other for the impasse.

Widely varying versions were locked up in a House-Senate conference while 28,000 unemployed persons hopefully waited for a resolution of differences that would signal resumption of benefit checks cut off April 1.

For the ninth straight day, conflict pivoted on a clause Republicans said would prevent subsidization of strokes out of unemployment compensation funds.

The clause would prevent future applications of the doctrine laid down in the so-called Ford decision by the State Supreme Court in January.

Gov. Williams, answering a Republican challenge for suggested better wording, yesterday reiterated his stand that the touchy matter should await an answer in a separate bill later on.

He wrote Sen. John P. Smeekens (R-Coldwater) that the problem was to get experts to agree on "sensible and workable" wording that would "bar real or fancied abuses" of the fund and yet not harm "innocent bystanders."

In the meantime, Williams said, a bill limited to extending the temporary jobless benefit program until July 1 should be hurried through.

Press Hits Circulation of 60,001

Net paid circulation of The Pontiac Press reached an all-time high of 60,001 yesterday.

The breakthrough to 60,000 culminated in a sudden surge which followed a steady growth with Pontiac, Oakland and surrounding counties.

Circulation of The Press was at 33,479 in 1940, and climbed to 49,418 in the next decade. By October of 1955, it had risen to 56,034.

"Although we are over the hump in attaining the 60,000 figure, we have still higher goals in circulation, public service and education," Press Business Manager Howard H. Fitzgerald II said today.

"We are proud to attain this new high, and we will continue to strive toward giving our readers the best possible product we can."

Eye Assistance for Sewer Plan

DPW Head Seeking Amendment to Original Creative Legislation

Construction of the long-awaited Farmington and Evergreen sanitary sewer systems has been delayed again as Oakland County officials believe they have found the answer to unsnarl the court-blocked Department of Public Works projects.

Harold K. Schone, DPW director, said the latest setback will be for two months or more, as the county attempts to push an emergency amendment to the original DPW act through the Legislature.

State Sen. L. Harvey Lodge (R-Oakland County) introduced the amendment which will spell out that townships to be served by the sewers cannot be required to exceed the 15-mill taxing limitation should other methods of raising revenue to meet their obligations to the county fail.

Lodge said he had been informed by Claude H. Stevens, the county's bond attorney, that enactment of the measure would clear the way for sale of the bonds, which so far have been unmarketable because of lack of a clear cut go-ahead from the courts.

"The passage of that bill would clear up all remaining legal questions," Stevens predicted.

Stevens and Robert Allen, assistant county corporation counsel, hurried to Lansing Tuesday to push the bill after the State Supreme Court for the second time refused to budge on its split 4-4 decision slowing the $5,748,000 Farmington sewer and the $6,919,000 Evergreen sewer.

"Four of the justices feel that a slight modification is necessary in one sentence of the statute as it relates to taxation by townships which are under the 15-mill constitutional limitation," Stevens said.

Possibility that townships might

Herter Remains Front Runner for Secretary

White House Formally Announces Acceptance of Resignation

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower today conferred with hospitalized John Foster Dulles regarding selection of a new secretary of state.

Dulles, who resigned from the top state department job yesterday because of cancer, also talked by telephone with Eisenhower last night about a successor.

The President continued to defer announcement of a successor, but Undersecretary of State Christian Herter was reported after the Eisenhower-Dulles talks still to have the inside track.

Dulles talked to Eisenhower from his room at Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington. Eisenhower was at his vacation cottage at the Augusta National Golf Club.

After today's talk the White House announced Eisenhower's formal acceptance of Dulles' resignation. It make public an exchange of letters between the President and the retiring secretary.

'FOR ALL TO SEE'

Reiterating his warm affection for the 71-year-old Dulles, Eisenhower wrote him:

More About Dulles

"You have been a staunch bulwark of our nation against the machinations of imperialistic communism. You have won to the side of the free world countless people, and inspired in them renewed courage and determination to fight for freedom and principle.

"As a statesman of world stature you have set a record in the stewardship of our foreign relations that stands clear and strong for all to see."

At the same time, Eisenhower formally requested Dulles "to serve in the future, to whatever extent your health will permit, as a consultant to me and the State Department in international affairs."

In his formal letter of resignation, Dulles wrote Eisenhower:

"It is apparent to me that I shall not be well enough soon enough to continue to serve as secretary of state."

Dulles wrote further that he was brought up in the belief that this nation was founded with a mission "to help build where liberty and justice would prevail."

"Today that concept faces a formidable and ruthless challenge from international communism," Dulles added. "This has made it manifestly difficult to adhere steadfastly to our national idealism and national mission, and at the

New Cookbook Tells How to Boil Water

NEW YORK (UPI) — The noncook who "can't even boil water" lost her excuse today—the recipe is now in a cookbook.

The author of "The James Beard Cookbook" in a tongue-in-cheek introduction advises: "This is what you do: Fill a saucepan with cold water and put it on the stove. Adjust the burner to high. Let the water heat until it bubbles and surges—and that is boiling water."

Name Faculty Dean, 3 Others at MSUO

Appointments of dean of the faculty and three faculty members at Michigan State University Oakland were approved today by the State Board of Agriculture, the university's governing body.

Dr. Robert G. Hoopes of New York, vice president of the American Council of Learned Societies, was appointed dean of the faculty effective July 1.

Appointed effective Sept. 1 were Dr. James H. McKay, associate professor of mathematics; Dr. Peter H. Amann, assistant professor of history, and Richard J. Burke Jr., instructor in philosophy.

"The appointment of Dr. Hoopes is the most important single step in the development of the promising educational program of this new institution," said D. B. Varner, chancellor of MSUO.

"For the past several months we have been considering a long list of the ablest and most promising young educators in America for this key position and we are delighted that Dr. Hoopes has accepted our invitation to join our program," Varner said.

"He is unusually well-trained, has broad contacts in educational circles on both the East Coast and the West Coast, and his experience during the past two years as vice president of the American Council of Learned Societies gives him an ideal background for this position."

Dr. Hoopes, 39, is a native of Park Ridge, Ill. He was graduated from Cornell College in 1941 where he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

He received a master's degree in English from Boston University in 1942, a second master's degree from Harvard University in 1948, and the Ph.D. degree in English from Harvard in 1949.

During 1942-46 he was a pilot in the Marine Corps.

From 1949 to 1956 Dr. Hoopes was a member of the Department of English at Stanford University where he was considered one of Stanford's outstanding teachers.

During the last two years of his appointment at Stanford he devoted half of his time to the direction of a faculty committee studying the complete undergraduate curriculum of the university.

In this role he helped to bring about a major revision of the undergraduate curriculum and later produced a book on the subject, "The Undergraduate in the University."

Because of his distinctive leadership in the development of the new program at Stanford, he was chosen in 1957 as vice president of the American Council of Learned Societies, an organization which serves as the focal point for some 22 educational associations, groups and societies throughout the country.

Dr. Hoopes currently is completing a second book, "Right Reason in the English Renaissance," accepted for publication by the Harvard University Press, and is the author of numerous articles in educational journals.

He is married and the father of two children, Kathy, 15, and Ralph, 10.

CURRENTLY AT SEATTLE

Dr. McKay, currently on the mathematics faculty at Seattle University, received the doctorate in mathematics at the University of Washington in 1953, with his major work in the areas of algebra, geometry and group theory.

Prior to that he had acquired a bachelor's degree in mathematics from Seattle University and the master's degree from the University of Washington.

He is 30, married and the father of four children.

His teaching experience includes three years as a teaching fellow at the University of Washington, one year as an instructor at the University of Washington and three years at Michigan State University. He has been at Seattle since 1957.

Dr. Amann is a native of Vienna, Austria, where his father was professor at the University of Vienna. During the early days of World War II, the family migrated to France and from there to America during the early 1940s.

Dr. Amann was graduated from Oberlin College in economics in 1947 and is a member of Phi Beta Kappa. He acquired his master's degree at the University of Chicago in 1953 and his doctorate at the University of Chicago in European history in 1958. For the past three years he has been on the faculty of Bowdoin College.

Many of the senior members of the Department of History at the University of Chicago describe Dr. Amann as one of their more promising graduates of the past 10 years, and he has acquired an outstanding record at Bowdoin.

He is 32, married and the father of two children. Mrs. Amann is a graduate of Oberlin College.

Burke was graduated magna cum laude from Georgetown University and was elected to the National Classics Honor Society.

During the school year 1956-57 he taught at the University of California at Los Angeles as an assistant in philosophy and during the past two years has served as a lecturer at the University College at the University of Chicago.

He is married and has no children.

NEW JUDGE AND FAMILY — Recently elected Oakland County Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem took time out from his duties as prosecutor to pose with his wife Wanda and two sons, William, 5, (left) and Rick, 10. Ziem, prosecutor since 1952, will assume the bench Jan. 1.

same time avoid the awful catastrophe of war."

In a letter dated Wednesday, Dulles also told the President: "If I can, in a more limited capacity, continue to serve, I shall be happy to do so."

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, reported today that Eisenhower also had discussed the matter of a Dulles successor with staff aides.

With the President at the breakfast session were Hagerty, Gordon Gray, a special assistant on national security matters, and Brig. Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, White House staff secretary.

Hagerty also indicated that Vice President Richard M. Nixon had been sounded out on Eisenhower's behalf regarding a successor to Dulles.

Asked if the President had talked to Nixon on that subject, Hagerty replied: "No, not directly."

Hagerty declined to shed any new light on when Eisenhower will announce his choice.

have to tax users of the sewers beyond this limit has been the biggest stumbling block to DPW projects.

Justices Eugene Black, Talbot Smith, John D. Voelker and Thomas M. Kavanagh held out in the two refusals to alter their original October opinion that townships under contract with Oakland County were still bound by the limitation.

Bids on the sale of general obligation bonds to finance the two sewers were to be received next Tuesday. This has been postponed now, Allen said, until the amendment goes through, when readvertisement will be made.

It was felt all along by DPW officials that the 4-4 decision might possibly be a deterrent to the sale of the bonds.

The city of Keego Harbor, the major portion of West Bloomfield Township, all of Farmington Township and a small portion of the city of Southfield would benefit from the Farmington sewer.

The Evergreen sewer will serve the cities of Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills, Lathrup Village, Troy, Southfield, the village of Beverly Hills and Bloomfield and Pontiac townships.

Both projects have been in the planning stage for more than two years.

A suit filed a year ago by a West Bloomfield attorney first tested the constitutionality of the DPW Act.

lay the sentencing further, but Judge Faulconer promptly overruled it.

She stood erect beside Symmes and listened impassively as the judge pronounced sentence.

"I didn't sleep at all last night," she told reporters.

She had been aroused in the nearby Marion County Jail about 2 a.m. to go to the basement courtroom in the courthouse to hear the verdict.

She said she had eaten little — "two bites" yesterday noon and a cup of milk last night.

A reporter asked her whether she is still considering wiring a magazine story about her 15-year affair with Teel — a possibility she mentioned early in her month long trial for the shooting last July 31.

"It would be a little difficult now, wouldn't it?" she replied. "I haven't thought about it lately."

The jury convicted her of voluntary manslaughter, one of the four possible charges.

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL Jr.

A University of Michigan senior sat in the back row of a courtroom in Ann Arbor attentive to every word the prosecutor and defense attorney had to say in a murder trial.

The student was months away from earning his bachelor of arts degree in political science. But he had no idea what the future years ahead had in store for him.

He would pass several hours between classes and his busboy chores at a fraternity house listening to trials of all sorts in the Washtenaw County Circuit Court.

There were times, too, when this same student from Pontiac would catch a glimpse of a trial before trotting off to Ferry Field, getting into his uniform, and being on the practice field just in time for another pregame scrimmage.

Frederick Carr Ziem liked what he saw and heard in the courtrooms.

He thrilled to the prosecutor's standing to object to a defense question, the clever maneuvering of the defense, and the seemingly unperturbed judge as he overruled or sustained objections.

MADE DECISION

Ziem's career decision came to him almost overnight. He wanted to be a lawyer.

"It was almost love at first sight, you might say," Ziem recalls. "After graduation in 1938 I immediately enrolled in summer law school to make sure I would like it.

"I was more enthused about it after that," he said.

Now 43, Detroit-born Ziem is months away from reaching what he considers the pedestal in 18 years of his legal profession. On Jan. 1 he will be sworn in as Oakland County Circuit Court judge.

"I consider this the greatest event in my life," Ziem said with apologies to his charming red-haired wife Wanda, who was his high school sweetheart at Pontiac High. They were married in 1936.

Wanda, too, is tickled about her husband's new job, but for another reason. "Isn't it true that they insist on you taking vacations?" she inquired hopefully.

Law is in the life's blood of the bespectacled Ziem although his father, a retired Pontiac gas station operator and Great Lakes ship captain, wanted him to become a dentist. Ziem's younger brother, Edward Jr., runs a dental lab in the Pontiac State Bank Building.

"I was as bullheaded as dad and I decided on law," Ziem remembered.

His father, Edward, 77, and mother, Gladys, 70, still live in their little home at 432 Oakland Ave., from where Ziem would go across the street to watch the Pontiac Chiefs play at Wisner Stadium.

Ziem was a bystander for only awhile. He later starred with the Chiefs on the football field and on the basketball court before moving on to Michigan.

Next to arguing a case in court, give the happy-go-lucky Ziem a good football or basketball game to watch (he says he's past the playing stage) and he'll be content.

This love for sports has already passed on to his 10-year-old son Rick, a fifth-grader at Webster School, and soon will do likewise for Ziem's youngest boy, William, 5.

Neighbors around the Ziem home at 74 Mohawk Rd. often hear the swish-swish as Ziem and Rick spend enjoyable hours taking practice shots at a basketball backstop behind the garage.

MANY MEMORIES

Ziem has just as many pleasant memories of his days as an athlete as he does about the hundreds of law cases he has prosecuted since he became an assistant prosecutor in 1947. One he would like to forget.

"In my sophomore year at Michigan I started at guard in the Michigan-Michigan State game. I was going down under a punt when whamo I got hit by Steve Sebo (he says he thinks he was clipped) and my knee went pop.

"It didn't straighten out until February and that finished my college basketball career."

He had to discontinue his family boating adventures in his "beat up" cabin cruiser which he sold to finance his campaign for circuit judge.

Oakland's new judge-to-be is a dedicated man in his work and play. But don't ask him to fix anything around the house. "I'm a lousy do-it-yourself man," he admits.

Probably the most noticeable characteristic of Oakland County's prosecutor since 1952 is his warm smile and friendly greeting.

The World War II veteran got into politics and the Republican Party purely by accident, he says, after his discharge in 1946 following three years in the Army.

"I met a friend in Pontiac who asked me to distribute campaign cards for Clyde Underwood, whom I didn't even know at the time, but whom I later found out was Republican candidate for prosecutor," Ziem said.

Underwood was elected and later appointed Ziem an assistant prosecutor. He's been a Republican ever since.

Strangely enough, he reminisced, he accepted the position only intending to stay one year and then return to private practice. But he stayed on, and in 1950 he was named chief assistant prosecutor.

The new judge says he enjoyed this position more than others because it permitted him to try more cases.

Ziem is far from the fist-shaking politician of the 20th century. Matter of fact, he says he doesn't particularly enjoy politics. However, he got his point across well enough to be re-elected four times as prosecutor.

There's a slight resemblance between his career and the sport of football he loves so much, he believes. "Like the defensive coach," he points out, "the prosecutor has to be prepared to meet anything the defense attorney might come up with."

"There's as much competition in a trial as there is in a good football game," he says.

Ziem looked back on the experience he gained when he and former Assistant Prosecutor Bernard Girard were opposed by crack Detroit criminal lawyer Joseph W. Louisell who was defending Carl Bolton (later tried for the shooting of UAW President Walter E. Reuther) on a burglary charge in the local court.

"He really had us on our toes," Ziem remembers. "Every night was spent getting ready for the next day."

Although he realizes it is part of his $13,500 job as prosecutor, Ziem cringes when the phone rings disturbing his sleep and calling him to his office to take a statement from an accused murderer.

He advises those who don't have a deep love for the legal profession to stay out. He used to work on the line at General Motors Truck & Coach and Pontiac Motor Division and pump gas at his dad's station to earn money in order to complete his undergraduate work and enter law school.

One of the most memorable summer jobs he had was in 1940 when he helped former Circuit Judge Glenn C. Gillespie, non gratis, proofread a book he was writing on Michigan Criminal Law and Procedures.

It was the late Judge Gillespie who moved his admission to the Bar a year later.

Ziem's big regret is that the judge won't be around to see him take his oath of office as he once did.

Police, Kiwanis Club Set Annual Bike Inspection

BIRMINGHAM — In an effort to maintain Birmingham's excellent record of bicycle safety, the police department and Kiwanis Club are again joining forces in the annual Bike Inspection.

Police Lt. Robert Schaule said this morning the inspections will be held about the middle of May at eight elementary schools. Prior to that time films will be shown on the proper, safe use of bikes, he said.

Parents are asked to cooperate by seeing that children bring their bikes to inspection sites to be designated.

Birmingham pioneered in this safety field about 10 years ago. The idea has since spread to other communities throughout the country.

"Parents can help us protect their youngsters beyond having safe bicycles by insisting that the traffic ordinances on bike use are obeyed," Schaule said, adding "Copies of these are available at the police department."

Birmingham Police reported today that a series of breakin cases were cleared up yesterday when they questioned three boys, between the ages of 14 and 15. A fourth youth was implicated and is being sought, they added.

Police Lt. Merlin Holmquist said the boys had admitted breaking into Olsen's Market at 407 W. Brown St. on two occasions and taking $180 in cash and merchandise.

They have also admitted entering Barnum Junior High School after hours to swim in the pool there and breaking into the Bargain Box which is a Junior League resale shop at 465 S. Woodward Ave., Holmquist said.

The boys, now in the custody of their parents, will be turned over to juvenile authorities, according to Holmquist.

Beginning Monday, the Birmingham Police Department will cooperate with the local chapter of the Dale Carnegie Alumnae Assn., Inc. in "Good Human Relations Week."

Police will be alerted to observe citizens performing special acts of courtesy and good driving on city streets.

In addition to receiving plaques, people given citations will receive free tickets to a local theater. They also will be publicly honored at the City Commission meeting April 22.

The Birmingham's Newcomers Club has completed its bowling season for the year and awarded 90 trophies. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Taylor of Hazel street took four o' the prizes with high singles and series scores for both men and women respectively.

New officers who will take over in September include Mrs. Clarence Benedict, president; Mrs. Dayton O. Slater, vice president; Mrs. Wells Chapin, secretary and Mrs. Harry M. Breake, treasurer.

Sooner State's Vote Ends Ban on Liquor

Effective within 90 days, Oklahoma finally has ended its 1907 prohibition law, in force since that state entered the union.

Although national prohibition was voted out in 1933, the state still kept its statute on the books. This satisfied both the drys and the wets, the latter having been able to get all they wanted from bootleggers. Six times Oklahoma voted down a repeal measure.

When J. HOWARD EDMONDSON became governor last January he moved to end this state of affairs and began to enforce the dry law for the first time. State officers clamped down on hundreds of bootleggers and their long established and thriving businesses. With no hard liquor available most night clubs closed their doors.

The Governor then was able to get the state legislators to vote for a referendum. Last week's voting not only was for state repeal but voters rejected by two to one a county option proposal.

Thus Oklahoma ends a ridiculous and hpyocritical situation and will benefit by millions of dollars in liquor taxes. But the state still will keep a tight control on hard liquor which can be sold only by the bottle and in designated places.

NATO Officials Back Firm Stand on Berlin

As the 15 NATO ministers met in Washington they could look back on a decade of increasing strength and look ahead with hope of new economic and political co-operation.

Since NATO came into being there have been no major wars and the Russians have made no territorial gains in Europe. But, of course, difficult decisions lie ahead regarding Berlin, European security, nuclear controls and disarmament.

In preparation for the approaching conference with Premier KHRUSHCHEV, NATO's foreign affairs officers of the United States, Britain, France and West Germany have met to thresh out differences and have reached partial agreement at least.

Fears had been expressed that Great Britain might be too anxious to reach a settlement with Russia because Prime Minister MACMILLAN wished to improve his political position at home. The Prime Minister isn't likely to endanger the peace of Europe for any such fleeting advantage.

President DE GAULLE had demanded changes in NATO or France would go it alone in the Mediterranean and threatened withdrawal of the French navy from NATO command. Smaller nations had expressed concern over West Germany's growing influence in European affairs.

JOSEPH M. A. H. LUNS, foreign minister of the Netherlands and president of the NATO council set the tone for the conference when he said;

"Let us stress that defeatism has never been able to preserve peace and that most disengagement plans are essentially Communist creations designed to neutralize Germany, to make Western Europe defenseless and to force the withdrawal of Allied troops from the continent."

NATO officials express confidence that common sense and necessity will prevail even though that probably means living in a continuing world of tension between the free nations and the Communists for years to come.

Don't Bite on Quacks' Reducing Schemes

Postmaster General ARTHUR SUMMERFIELD says "medical quackery" is at an all time high and that reducing schemes are perhaps the most lucrative of today's medical frauds.

Here's a stern warning.

Don't be a sucker.

Don't fall for the quacks and their "reducing schemes" unless you know what you are doing.

Consult a competent physician and go by his advice. It may not sound as alluring, but it may be infinitely more sensible.

Don't bite.

Don't throw money away.

Medical authorities say the American Public is annually milked out of 100 million dollars by spurious schemes.

Quirks of Spring

Some Local Oddities in Connection with Season

Spring: A season that appears to have finally sprung.

The extra heavy ice, quite unexpectedly, went out of the lakes in the Pontiac area in an orderly fashion. In some former years when the ice was not so thick the worst offenders were Cass and Walled Lakes, where it piled up on their east shores, but each were well behaved this spring.

Pansies over two inches across, and with extra pert expressions, are blooming beside the home of

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Frankfort of Rochester, located near the base of a warm chimney.

The last of the melting snow in a gully near the home of

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Telford of Lake Orion revealed crocus blooms in several colors.

First to report outdoor tulips in bloom is

Mrs. Fran. Osgood

of Oxford, who has a secret way of forcing them.

Rather foul smelling, and worthy of its name, skunk's cabbage, usually beats the gun on spring foliage in the Pontiac area, and of Keego Harbor is first to report it. He says the leaves already are six inches across.

When he was shoveling snow last February, of Birmingham lost his pocketbook, containing $35. Although he later spent many hours shoveling over the same snow, he did not find it. The other day his dog, Ike, brought it out of the corner where he sleeps in the family garage, with the money still in it. Mr. Belknap recollects that Ike was with him when he lost it.

Morris Belknap

Returning from a trip to the Traverse City area,

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Altmeier

of Drayton Plains brought back some trailing arbutus in full bloom, that they dug from under the snow.

A postcard drifts in from

Frank Sullavan,

now in the nation's capital, that says, "The Japanese cherry blossoms are their usual fake, not worthy of comparison with any peach orchard in the Pontiac vicinity."

says he met many Michigan cars bound for that state.

"Say, What Ever Happened to the UN?"

David Lawrence Says:

Commies Want 'to Get Strauss'

WASHINGTON — Communists could gain a big victory in the U. S. Senate if the nomination of Lewis Strauss to be secretary of commerce is denied confirmation.

LAWRENCE

Apparently there is a movement to punish Strauss not only because he prevented America from abandoning the development of the hydrogen bomb during the Truman administration but because he had the temerity to carry on the fight later which led to the denial of security clearance to J. Robert Oppenheimer, the noted scientist who had advocated delay.

In a news article by Edward Gamarekian, a staff reporter of the Washington Post & Times Herald, it is stated that petitions began to be circulated last week protesting the selection of Strauss as a speaker at the meeting and banquet of the American Physical Society on May 1 in Washington.

These petitions were circulated at Cornell University, Columbia University, the Argonne National Laboratory at Lamont, Ill., and the Brookhaven National Laboratory in Upton, Long Island, as well as in the Boston area.

The petition stated that the invitation to Admiral Strauss to speak "gives the public impression that Admiral Strauss has the backing and respect of the scientific community" and that it would be "unfortunate" if the invitation was "construed as American Physical Society support of Admiral Strauss and his attempts to obtain Senate confirmation of his appointment as Secretary of Commerce."

The newspaper article then goes on to say:

"The individuals who sparked the protest at the Argonne National Laboratory said they objected to Strauss because he had 'deliberately misled everyone on much matters as fall-out, clean weapons, and weapon testing,' and because he had 'used security regulations as an instrument of political power particularly in the (J. Robert) Oppenheimer case'."

Whatever Admiral Strauss ever said publicly on the subject of weapons tests was based upon the advice of noted scientists known to be loyal to the United States. Naturally there are differences of opinion among scientists, and in recent years there has been a tendency to exaggerate the ill effects of fall-out from bomb tests.

But, in any event, those who held the view that there was no present danger in the way the tests were being conducted had as much right to their viewpoint as the critics.

It is regrettable that the Oppenheimer case has to be dragged in once more, but some of the critics of Admiral Strauss evidently want it that way.

Their assumption is that the senators have not read the record in that tragic episode and that the American people are unfamiliar with Oppenheimer's many financial contributions to Communist causes in the past.

More damaging, however, was Oppenheimer's lie to American military intelligence officers who wanted to know the details of a visit by a Russian agent who sought to get secrets from Oppenheimer while he was in charge of the government's atomic laboratory.

Usually when a cabinet officer is up for confirmation by the Senate, there is the customary inquiry as to his views on public questions. The feeling has always been that the President has a right to choose cabinet officers sympathetic to his own policies, irrespective of the views of the political opposition. So it seems strange that any extraneous issues should be interjected into the Strauss case.

It is a mystery, too, why there is a protracted delay in the Senate in acting on the Strauss appointment. It looks like an attempt to block it by delay till the end of the present session when, if not confirmed, the nomination expires.

There are some senators active in the fight against the confirmation of Strauss who have their own antipathies—such as are involved in the controversy over government control of the public utility industry—all of which are unrelated to the friction among the scientists.

The Communists will be happy if they can just "get Strauss." It is doubtful whether the senators are aware of the true nature of the underground battle being waged against this loyal American.

The Country Parson

"The key to many of our family problems is the one that fits the family car."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Uses Remedy for Corns to Banish Rash of Warts

"Had a total of 25 warts on both hands—six of them as large as an aspirin. Prior to using your remedy I went to two doctors with no results. Then I used your salicylic collodion. I now have no warts. I wanted you to know how much you helped me." (B.J.M.)

In the first place, we should remember that warts seem to come and go without rhyme or reason, we don't know what causes warts, and so whatever remedy or treatment you use may "work like magic" or have "no results."

Through the years I have received from readers as many reports of removal of warts by castor oil as by any other remedy—that is, the warts disappear after daily application of castor oil for a week or two.

The salicylic collodion which the correspondent used is, I suppose, the standard corn remedy—30 grains of salicylic acid dissolved in one-half fluid ounce of flexible collodion. Apply a coat of this to corn, callus or wart once a day. In a week or so the corn, callus or wart becomes soft and may be wiped away.

Now may I say I was impressed by B. J. M.'s description of his or her warts as the size of an aspirin.

It seems remarkable that the correspondent is so familiar with aspirin.

CURES NOTHING

If aspirin cured anything at all, there might be some justification for taking the drug occasionally. But it doesn't cure anything. It is merely analgesic—pain relieving—and by no means the harmless sense-deadener many addicts believe it is.

One recognized authority says:

"The promiscuous use of acetylsalicylic acid (aspirin) for relief of headache, neuralgia, neuritis, arthritis, tonsillitis, influenza, muscular rheumatism, cystitis, etc. may lead to poisoning, the chief symptoms being edema of the lips, tongue, eyelids, nose or entire face, vertigo, nausea, vomiting, profuse sweating, rapid irregular pulse."

While death from aspirin poisoning is rare, "overdose" sometimes proves fatal. Of 750 persons who attempted suicide with aspirin only four died.

Once or twice in my lifetime I have taken 5 or 10 grains of aspirin, gingerly. I'm a great coward about unnecessary risks, and so when I take aspirin or any other analgesic or sense-deadener or pain-killer I remain quiet, sitting or lying down, for not less than an hour afterward. If the ache, pain or distress is not bad enough for, that, I worry along without the dope.

Urges Everyone to Keep Yard Free From Rubbish

Now that the dog discussion is over, let's start on the subject of "How to Tell Your Neighbor to Clean Up His Yard." That's without making him angry. I'd rather have a dog run through my yard than have the neighbors' paper blowing all over for me to pick up.

'Such Increases Are Senseless'

Wage increases based on increased productivity or efficiency don't hurt anyone, but the minute a wage increase means a corresponding increase in cost of products or services, it doesn't help anyone. If I get a raise and my employer must increase prices, and you get an equivalent raise, your employer will raise his prices, too. Soon this will balloon and we won't have gained a thing.

Why must we keep getting more and more each year for the same amount (or less) of work than the year before? Your labor leaders know what's happening. They just don't care. Their salaries are high enough to keep them away above the normal living standards of us.

We're the only ones who can successfully combat inflation. The way to do it is to ask for more money only when we earn it and make more for someone else. Let's keep wages and prices where they are.

Besides, the harder we make it for our employer to make a profit, the more he's going in for automation to cut expenses, and that cuts employment.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Kidney Problem May Be Nerves

Beth's case deals with the old bugaboo called "weak kidneys." But that's generally malarky. So learn how to cope with this very common problem of both men as well as women when they are on a date. The organs of the body form habits and sometimes you must re-educate them. They may resist, but force them to be your slave instead of your master:

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE B-410: Beth G., aged 16, is a very attractive high schooler.

CRANE

"But I must have weak kidneys," she timidly confessed, "for I must go to the powder room several times when I am on a date.

"And, Dr. Crane, it is so humiliating to me when I must excuse myself a couple of times during the average movie.

"I am so embarrassed that I have tried to decline all dates the past two months, but boys like me and keep asking me to go out with them.

"If you could just tell me how to overcome my weak kidneys, I'd be the happiest girl on earth!"

WEAK KIDNEY MALARKY

It isn't weak kidneys that cause such embarrassment to the majority of cases like Beth.

And don't think this is a rare situation, for thousands of men, as well as women, have this frequent urgency about visiting a rest room when they are on a date.

Such people may often be shy, so they are unusually excited and tense when they are spending a social evening with a desirable member of the opposite sex.

But when you are tense, your blood pressure is also higher. And that means more blood is pumped through your kidneys per minute, so they filter out a much greater volume of urine.

Thus, the urinary bladder gets full in a shorter time and naturally demands to be emptied.

This situation is aggravated, too, by the fact that such nervous, tense people may drink several glasses of water if they are dining with their date.

As fast as the waiter fills their glass, they empty it again, for they want something to do to fill in the gaps in conversation. And they may also take refills on coffee, which contains caffeine, and caffeine is a diuretic (urine producer).

If you are a victim of frequent urges to visit the bathroom, then cut out ALL liquids in mid-afternoon when you know you have a date that night.

Then go slow on fluids if you have dinner together before the show. If you salt your food heavily, this will often hold fluid in the tissues and thus limit the urine secretion meanwhile, for table salt holds about 70 times its volume of water.

Join the "Compliment Club,' too, and pay compliments to your companion for this will give you more social poise and help fill the gaps in your dialogue which formerly made you reach for a glass of water.

RE-EDUCATED BLADDER.

But you can also help yourself by re-educating your bladder to hold double its present volume.

If you become self-conscious and sensitive about your bladder, it may so occupy your attention that you learn to empty it when it holds only 3 or 4 ounces.

But it should easily contain 8 or 10 ounces. In fact, in prostate cases where the outlet is dammed, the bladder will stretch till it will hold a gallon (16 glasses).

When you are at home, therefore, make your bladder let out an extra notch by refusing to visit the bathroom at the usual time. The bladder will try to coerce you into being its slave, as of yore.

But grit your teeth and hold off. Soon the pain will diminish, which means your badder has surrendered and is letting out a notch. You may then go for two or three more hours before you feel the urge.

By the methods outlined herein, Beth soon overcame her bugaboo. So can you.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Disc Urges Customers Cheer Up

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — Barney Ruffner, a record store owner who worried for 10 years about downcast customers and friends, has made a record telling them how to get hold of themselves and cheer up.

Ruffner calls the disc "Release From Nervous Tension." He says so many people have heard about it and are trying to buy it that he can't keep it in stock.

The record tells unhappy people to stop thinking jealous and selfish thoughts; to stop inspecting the motives of other people; and to think only positive-type thoughts.

It also tells them that exercise is important and that a trust in religion can be a major source of relief to a depressed person.

"I thought that if the record were put out, people who won't read, or who don't want to, would listen to it. It won't help them unless they help themselves," Ruffner said.

"But if they listen, it triggers them off. It helps them to find themselves."

Ruffner wrote the script for the record after talking to psychiatrists and ministers. He went to Los Angeles to have it put on wax.

He tried to do the narration himself, but gave up and hired a professional radio announcer.

Ruffner says so many people have told him the record has helped them that he is thinking of holding meetings after hours in his record store where psychologists would speak free of charge.

Expansion Seen A Crime Weapon

Group to Sift Teenage Facilities Plans

A special committee will meet next week to consider possible plans for more teenage recreation facilities in District 1, in the southwest section of the city.

At the meeting will be Mayor Philip E. Rowston, Commissioner Milton R. Henry, City Manager Walter K. Willman, Parks & Recreation Director David R. Ewalt and Clarence Simuel, an Oakland County probation officer.

The meeting was scheduled after Simuel and Henry made a plea Tuesday night for more facilities.

At present, Henry said, the only facilities offered are in the Lakeside Housing Project, and these are too limited, he believed.

Simuel believed more facilities would be a weapon in fighting delinquency. He noted that two-thirds of his case load of 90 probationers were from District 1.

Commissioners in other business held 14 public hearings, and followed up one of them by rezoning more than 150 lots in Glenwood Estates subdivision from manufacturing to residential.

Many of the lots already are occupied by homes, while others are the target of a residential building project that will begin along Walton boulevard east of Highwood avenue, builder's representatives said.

In connection with the rezoning, commissioners also made the same zoning change affecting the nearby Malkim School grounds and Jaycee Park.

A hearing to vacate the alley east of Highwood from Walton boulevard on the north side of the rezoning project to the Grand Trunk Railroad ond the south was adjourned indefinitely to settle easements for utilities.

A similar hearing on vacating the alley along the south side of Orchard Lake road east of Telegraph road was adjourned three weeks to determine easements.

The other hearings were on intention to blacktop four streets and on special assessment drawn up for seven other neighborhood improvements.

No objections were raised at hearings on blacktopping Pensacola avenue, Oakland to Monticello; Stanley avenue, Kinney to Kennett; and Wyoming avenue, Bagley to Franklin road.

But blacktopping of Roselawn drive, Fiddis to Maines, was deleted from this year's improvement program after Commissioner Wesley J. Wood reported that residents were opposed to the improvement because of cost.

There were no objections raised at hearings on blacktopping Adelaide street, between Oakland and Baldwin; Euclid avenue, between High and Jefferson; Harriett street, Cadillac to Adelaide; and LeGrande avenue, Baldwin to Euclid.

Also approved at hearings were curbs and gutters on Carlisle street, Walton to Chicago; Carr street, Mt. Clemens to Pontiac Knolls subdivision; and Colgate avenue, Baldwin to Carlisle.

Hearings April 21 were set on assessment rolls covering blacktopping on W. Ann Arbor avenue, Carlisle to Stanley; Cornell avenue, Baldwin to Carlisle; Gladstone place, Cooper to Edison; S. Jessie street, Wilson to Prospect; and Longfellow avenue, University to the Pontiac, Oxford & Northern Railroad.

Pisa's Leaning Tower May Soon Slant Too Far

PISA, Italy (UPI) — Is the leaning Tower of Pisa going to topple? And if so, what can be done about it?

Many experts predict that the 179-foot tower, built almost 800 years ago, will fall over anywhere from 50 to 300 years from now unless something is done.

Their predictions are based on the fact that the white marble structure has been leaning at an alarming rate in recent years.

Now 17 feet, 2½ inches out of plumb, it has tilted 8½ inches since 1910 — about twice the rate of the preceding 80 years. In 1958, it leaned .046 of an inch, greatest in any recorded year.

All agree that the lean is due to the soft, water-permeated ground under its base in the Piazza dei Miracoli. In fact, the tower started leaning right at the start — back in 1174 A. D. After building the first three stories, the co-architects, Bonanno and Guglielmo gave up in disgust.

Two hundred years later, another architect finished the job. He tried to correct the slant by angling the last five floors perpendicular to the base, but they leaned too.

Prof. Giovanni Boaga, a Rome engineer, is one of those advocating drastic action — and right away.

He proposes that the tower be dismantled and that a thick concrete slab be sunk 40 feet into the ground over which the structure would be reassembled. He estimates that it would take five years and cost about $9,000,000.

Another proposal is for pumping out some of the sand about the base on the far side of the lean, thus enabling the tower to shift back to a vertical position by itself.

They Point out that injections of concrete to stiffen the soil and all the other measures taken to date, have not helped one bit.

Canadians Take Moose Census

Pilots Count 80,000 of Ontario Hunting Attraction

TORONTO, Ont. (UPI)—Conservation officers are counting noses—moose noses—in the bush country of Ontario.

Each nose represents $475 to the Canadian economy as well as a lot of meat and sport for the successful hunter.

The Ontario Department of Lands and Forests said hunters spend an estimated three million dollars a year on their moose hunting.

It is also estimated that the total value of this cash crop is 38 million dollars. Preliminary reports figure that Ontario's total moose population is abou 80,000.

The province received $364,883 alone from the sale of moose hunting licenses to about 22,000 sportsmen last year. Indirectly, it also benefits from such items as money spent on guides, outfitters, ammunition, guns, charter air service, food supplies, refreshments, gasoline, tolls and so on.

Pilots use a complex system of plotting certain areas of the moose range. They keep records on the number of big beasts spotted on closely regulated flights.

They also note the number of bulls, cows and calves in an area, to determine the number of animals per square mile in sample areas.

There is no guess work. The pilot and two observers report only moose they actually see. A fourth man marks each sighted aninmal on a master map in each aircraft.

Pro Drivers Give Advice to Teenagers

CHICAGO (UP)—Is it possible to make a safe driver out of a teen? Probably.

Studies show that teenagers who have had driver education have fewer than half the accidents of those who haven't had it.

The safe driving tips in the booklet come from professional drivers like the state patrolman, test track drivers and truckers.

Here's some of the advice the pros offer:

1. Don't show off or clown behind the wheel.

2. Have guts enough behind the wheel to chicken out when common sense tells you it's time to give in. Never mind who's right. Be smart—stay alive!

3. The public highway is for sharing, not competing.

4. The squeal of tires and roar of the exhaust may sound like hot stuff to a driver who needs it to build up his ego. But it tags him as strictly an amateur.

5. The pro gives in to bad weather, bad roads and traffic jams by slowing down.

6. Would your coach send in a player who had been drinking? Well, it goes double for driving. Remember—a half-loaded driver is more dangerous than a loaded gun.

7. Set a personal example behind the wheel that will influence others—especially those who are younger than you—to regard courteous, skillful, mature driving as smart instead of sissy and showoff driving as dopey instead of daring.

8. Help bring about—and accept—rigid enforcement of traffic laws on the school campus by your own student traffic court, or by your student council.

Lots of Whimsy in Bills

Legislators' Humor Wry

By ART SRB
Associated Press Staff Writer

If some legislators had their way:

Blind persons could get hunting licenses.

Nudism would be outlawed.

Cigarette packages would bear skull and crossbones inscriptions.

Bills calling for such laws were introduced in state Legislatures over many a past year. Some of the odd or whimsical measures even managed to become law. A tipsy water skier will find the sport even riskier if he performs on Iowa rivers and lakes.

Why? Legislators in the Hawkeye State decided some water skiers were flying too high and passed a law making it a misdemeanor to ride skis while under the influence.

Nudism came under scrutiny in Vermont and Missouri, the Show-Me State. But Missourians were having a tough time deciding which committee should handle the bill to ban nudism. The Appropriations Committee argued it deserved the measure because it deals with figures.

Some 40 sunlovers in Vermont's lone nudist colony can continue basking in the altogether, thanks to the defeat of an anti-nudist bill.

Wyoming considered, then defeated, a bill which would have permitted issuance of hunting licenses to blind persons. It would have required the actual shooting be done by another licensed hunter, with the game animal going to the blind person.

South Dakota's Senate thought all cigarette packs should bear a skull and crossbones stamp. The House considered the bill — then killed it. A similar measure died in the Utah Legislature.

Exasperated with attempts by Chicagoans to prevent industry from building on Indiana's Lake Michigan sand dunes, a Hoosier legislator proposed that Chicago's business district be converted into a sand dune.

The bill, which even provided for empty beer cans to give the proposed Chicago beach the proper picnic look, died in committee, almost before Chicagoans got wind of the matter.

Maine tried to straighten out the somewhat fuzzy provisions of its liquor law forbidding cocktail lounge patrons to stand and tavern customers to sit. Bills were drawn up to allow lounge patrons to arise and those in taverns to be seated.

Three Colorado legislators, who have a total of 25 grandchildren among them, agreed that teacher should be allowed to whack Johnny on the posterior when necessary. They introduced such a bill.

New Mexico kiddies were spared such classroom embarrassment by their governor's veto. But unruly pupils in South Dakota, whos Legislature and governor like the idea, will have to take their licks in stride.

The younger set found a friend in Wisconsin, where a bill says a child could sue mom and dad. The parents weren't left without recourse, however. They could sue right back.

Yankee beekeepers, who transport their charges south in the winter to keep the little stingers from freezing, apparently didn't always confine the bees securely. Stings, and angry rebel yells, prompted legislation in South Carolina calling for better hives.

A bill in the Wisconsin Legislature would require taverns to post a blacklist of all alcoholics. It failed, however, to state whether wives would have a voice in nominating candidates.

Wyoming legislators, aware of the tavern owner's plight, passed a law which classifies bartenders under the "hazardous occupation" provision of the workmen's compensation law.

Lawmakers also were concerned with fisticuffs.

A soft-hearted Wisconsin assemblyman wants to move heavyweight boxing matches a little closer to pillow fights. His bill would increase the weight of gloves from 8 to 10 ounces.

California dealt with the problem of fights between workers on the job. A bill stated that a worker starting a fight—and coming out on the short end—couldn't collect benefits under the workmen's compensation law.

Sonic Boom Scares Searchers for Bomb

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Seven policemen were searching Devilbiss High School after someone phoned that a bomb would go off there.

Suddenly, they got the scare of their lives.

A terrific "boom!" rattled doors and windows.

After tense moments, the officers learned the noise had been a sonic boom created by two jet planes passing over the city.

Seize City Cleaners to Collect Taxes

The Perry Cleaners at 487 N. Perry St. has been seized by the Internal Revenue Service for failure to pay $7,843 in back federal withholding taxes for its employes, according to R. I. Nixon, district director of Internal Revenue in Detroit.

Nixon said the personal property of the business—not the real property such as the building—would be sold at a public auction April 28 at 10 a.m. at the building.

He said William Stasiuk, owner of the cleaners, failed to pay the federal government the money Nixon said Stasiuk collected from employes' paychecks between 1954 and last year, although he filed returns on the receipts.

New York City's waterfront fire guards load old wooden piers and pilings on barges atop an undercovering of sand, tow them out to sea and burn them as waste. Then they dump the ashes overboard.

Brakeman, Conductor Left Behind by Train

LYNDONVILLE, N. Y. (AP)—The engineer of an eastbound freight pulled into Ashwood, six miles from here, to discover a motorist frantically flagging him down.

In the motorist's car were the train's brakeman and conductor. They were left in Lyndonville when the engineer overlooked 15 cars and the caboose after switching off an empty car.

3-for-1 Measure Approved

AT&T Stockholders OK Utility's 1st Stock Split

NEW YOK (AP) — Stockholders of American Telephone and Telegraph Co. have approved a three-for-one split of the stock — the first in the giant utility's history.

The 74th annual meeting, staged in mammoth Kingsbridge Armory yesterday, was attended by more than 12,000 persons. This made it by far the world's largest stockholder meeting.

On the split, the voting was 59,387,892 shares in favor and 542,809 shares against. Approval by two-thirds of the 70,724,694 shares outstanding on the March 10 record date was required to make the split effective.

The stock split becomes effective April 24 and the first dividend on the new shares will be paid in July. It will be the first boost in dividends since 1921 — a quarterly dividend of 82½ cents a share at the new annual rate of $3.30. This is equivalent to $9.90 a share on the present stock.

The split was effected by changing the company's 100 million authorized shares of $100 par value capital stock into 300 million shares of $33.33 par value. That would make the number of split shares outstanding 212,173,292.

AT&T stock closed at $250 a share, up 25 cents on the day, on the New York Stock Exchange. It reached $250.12 shortly after midday, a new high since 1930.

The crowd roared approval when AT&T President Frederick R. Kappel said the Bell System earned more than one billion dollars last year for the first time. Only one other corporation, General Motors in 1955, ever reached that figure for 12 months. Bell operates more than 80 per cent of the nation's telephones and had assets of 19½ billions last Dec. 31.

The previous attendance record of annual stockholder meetings — of just over 4,000 — had been held jointly by General Electric Co. and Standard Oil Co. (NJ).

Group to Try to Unseat Brewery Management

DETROIT (AP) — A "stockholders committee" headed by D. H. Wolcott of Chicago, will attempt to unseat the present management of Pfeiffer Brewing Co. today at the firm's annual stockholders meeting.

The Wolcott group has been collecting proxy votes since March 24 against present Board Chairman Alfred Epstein and President Herbert S. Epstein.

Found on Lawn One April Dawn, Baby Just Fine

CHICAGO (AP)—April Dawn—a time of freshness and beauty—was the name given a baby brought to the Community Hospital in suburban Zion Wednesday.

That isn't her true name. But it was considered by nurses and hospital workers just right for the pretty baby girl who was found abandoned in a cardboard box on the front lawn of a Zion home.

Cries from the box were heard by Beverly Smith, 31, as she walked by the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Schmidt shortly after dawn. She found the baby, about two months old, shivering inside a pink embroidered kimono and three blankets. Temperatures were in the 40s.

The astonished Mrs. Smith took the foundling into the Schmidts' home and told them she found the baby in a box on their lawn. The Schmidts recalled they had seen the box when they returned home near midnight but thought someone had thrown it on the lawn.

Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Schmidt warmed the baby and fed her formula left with her in the box.

ELDON C. ROSEGART

City Man Wins State Fair Post

PNH Band Director Eldon Rosegart Elected to Head Commission

Eldon C. Rosegart, director of the Pontiac Northern High School Band, today was elected 1959-1960 chairman of the Michigan State Fair Commission.

Rosegart, an instrumental music instructor in Pontiac public schools for many years, succeeds Harold Zorlen of Capac.

A resident of 3007 Lansdowne St., Drayton Plains, Rosegart at age 40 is the youngest chairman in the 20-member commission's 110-year history.

Appointed a commissioner by Gov. Williams in 1957, Rosegart has been chairman of the state fair's State Allocation Committee, as well as serving on its General Services Committee.

Rosegart is national membership chairman of the American School Band Directors Assn., president of the Southeastern Michigan School Band and Orchestra Assn., and vice president of the Pontiac Federation of Teachers.

Steel Companies Reject Price Freeze

NEW YORK (AP) — A union proposal that steel prices be frozen has been rejected by the nation's 12 largest steel companies.

The companies told the United Steelworkers of America that "it would be completely unlawful for the steel companies to agree among themselves or with your union on the prices to be charged for steel products."

The union contends a price freeze in the industry would not violate federal antitrust laws.

Car, Truck Output Reaches New High

DETROIT (AP) — Car and truck output this week will reach new high levels for the year to date, Automotive News said today.

The trade paper puts car production at 136,070 units against last week's 133,202 assemblies, and 73,217 in the week ended April 19 last year. The previous high mark of 1959 was 135,976 car assemblies in the week ended January 31.

This week's truck output will reach 26,220 units against 25,903 last week and 16,637 in the comparable 1958 week. The previous high week of 1959 in truck output was that ended April 4 with 25,929 assemblies.

Automotive News said Canadian production this week also will hit high levels for the year with 10,220 cars and trucks scheduled. The previous high was last week's 10,060 vehicle assemblies. In the comparable 1958 week 9,010 cars and trucks were built in Canada.

Weary Hirohito Soon May Give Throne to Son

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

TOKYO—Emperor Hirohito—only a shy, chinless man despite the gristly caricatures Americans saw during wartime—apparently wants to abdicate as quickly as possible.

This is only rumor. But it is such a renowned, and reasonable, rumor that everyone believes it. And there appears to be no sizeable religious or political faction in Japan that protests the idea.

Many people believe that the hurriedly planned, "democratic" marriage between Crown Prince Akihito and Princess Michiko was far less a matter of impetuous love-in-a-hurry as a hint that Hirohito is eager to turn over the throne to a "solid son."

Some think that the war-diminished emperor will wait until Akihito has a son (it is devoutly hoped by next spring) before he steps down.

Others believe that the attractive newlyweds need only be exposed to the people for a few more months, and if they receive the anticipated acclaim and respect and devotion, they are "in" as dynastic leaders of 92 million people.

Hirohito is weary. He is bemused, and has been belittled by progress.

He is an emperor from Japan's era before democracy forcibly set in. As a mysterious leader, sheltered from the public eye by tall stone walls and deep moats, Hirohito was satisfactory; as a leader in the age of world trade and television, he is a man lost.

To lift his hat is to blush.

PEOPLE NEED EMPEROR

Until something better comes along (Christianity is still a remote dream in the eyes of missionaries to Japan), the people here need an emperor and an empress.

It is their religion. The only entity, besides their own ancestors, that they have believed in for 2,600 years.

The idea that the emperor is a god has diminished among the modern younger set in the new Japan. (In 1946, Hirohito was forced to disclaim his divine origin publicly.)

But, to keep them from being utterly root-less, there is still a deep seated psychological need for a father and mother symbol at the very core of this tradition-bound society.

As one educated Japanese woman told me:

"General MacArthur was right. He took away many traditions, and gave us many Western rules—but he left us our father. Every child must have a father."

In the event that the emperor does retire, giving way to his young and not-over-brilliant son, the question is logical: how long will the imperial family retain its dignified respect?

TO COMMAND RESPECT

By marrying a "commoner," Prince Akihito delighted the younger people of Japan and the romantics of the world. As emperor, however, will he command the awed respect of the populace that has made emperors powerful through more than two millenia in Japan?

"He has married a commoner," said a traditionalist. "His children will be half-commoner. They will marry commoners and, one day, there will be an emperor who is exactly like the people.

"Then why should he live in a palace? Why should the people pay big taxes to let other people live in the palace? By this marriage we are ending a dynasty."

This, to Western eyes, might be a large step in the direction of democracy. But to those who live here, the thought is a bit frightening.

These are people whose greatest pride, only 15 years ago, was to die for their emperor-god.

When they want children or money or happiness, they write their wishes on paper and tie them on trees near the thrones of their deified ancestors.

Their suicide rate is the highest in the world, because they believe that in death there is dignity.

Picture these children without either father figure or god. And shudder.

Compared to cars produced 10 years ago the average 1958 car is 231 pounds heavier, eight inches longer, five inches wider, has 12 inches more hip room and 12 cubic feet more for luggage.

Tax Increases Expected in Most States This Year

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chances are your state's taxes will go up this year, according to the Commerce Clearing House.

The national reporting authority on tax and business law said a state-by-state survey shows that 11 states are thinking of raising their gasoline tax by one to two cents a gallon. New York, in fact, has already done so.

You may also pay more for cigarettes in 11 states. One to two cents more per pack, if pending bills are passed in those states.

Arizona, Utah, Illinois, South Dakota and Washington want to hike their sales tax rate while Massachusetts, Nebraska and Oregon are considering the idea of levying sales taxes for the first time.

The survey also showed that Michigan, South Dakota, Texas, Washington and West Virginia are proposing brand new income tax systems.

The passage of bills in these states would raise the number of states taxing income to 38, the CCH noted.

In addition, several states plan to make drinking and gambling more expensive while five — Georgia, Tennessee, Montana, Ohio and Oklahoma — want new soft drink taxes.

Gas Lamp Era Closes

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — This historic city's gas lamp era becomes a memory today.

Mayor Richardson Dilworth officially extinguishes it at a public ceremony.

This last one, put up in 1893, was one of 39,000 which once lighted the streets of Philadelphia.

Most were junked, but a few were bought by private citizens and are still lighted every night on out-of-the-way residential streets.

Persons of 3 States Pay Nearly No Tax

CHICAGO (UPI) — If you live in Nebraska, New Hampshire or Texas, you're one of the vanishing breed of Americans who pay neither a retail sales tax nor a broad-based state income tax.

The Federation of Tax Administrators reports that 30 states now tax individual incomes and 33 have a sales tax, although only 18 have both.

The FTA also counted up 35 states with a tax on corporate income. It said every state taxes gasoline and motor vehicles and that all but Virginia, Oregon, North Carolina, Colorado and California maintain tobacco taxes.

As for liquor, the 47 states where sales are legal — Oklahoma and Mississippi are both "dry" — all levy a tax on each bottle.

OK Rochester School Budget

Will Require 2-Mill Tax Hike

$1,583,237 Provides for Ten More Teachers, Pay Raises

ROCHESTER — Climaxing months of study, the Rochester Board of Education last night adopted a budget for $1,583,237 for the 1959-60 school year. This figure represents an increase of $140,000 over the current year's budget, Board members said.

The increase will allow for 10 additional teachers and will help meet the added costs of the expected increase in enrollment next year, Supt. of Schools Donald C. Baldwin said today.

To meet this new budget, designed to "maintain the present instructional program and keep abreast of the increased student load," the board will ask voters to approve a two-mill increase in the operating tax June 8.

The additional tax levy is also needed, the board said, to allow adjustment of the teachers' salary schedule to remain competitive with other districts.

The school officials recently refused a proposal from the Rochester Education Assn. that the teachers' base salary be adjusted to $4,500 for a bachelors degree and $4,800 for a masters degree.

If the millage passes, however, they said the present base for teachers with bachelors degree will be raised to $4,400, and for those with a masters degree to $4,500.

A $100 pay hike for custodians also would be included if the increased millage is approved. The custodial staff had asked for an additional $300 per man.

FIVE-YEAR PLAN

Last night the board decided the extra millage should be levied for five years.

Baldwin explained that when Rochester first approved extra millage for schools, it was allocated 9.32 by the Oakland County Allocation Board. In 1958, this rate dropped to 8.03 and is expected to be lower in 1959 with no way now in sight for it to rise again in the foreseeable future.

In other action, the board granted the Rochester Kiwanis Club permission to use the football field and stands for its Fourth of July celebration.

Richard Huizenga, assistant superintendent, was authorized to obtains bid on two new 60-passenger buses which will be opened at the May 20 meeting.

An order will be placed with the Arrow Fence Co. of Royal Oak for a baseball backstop for the high school field. The low bid was $430.

Waterford 'Ham' Wins Contest

Local Youth to Go to Europe

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

A Waterford Township teenager with two man-sized hobbies is getting set for a trip to Europe this summer as a co-sponsored guest of the U.S. Army Air Force and the Civil Air Patrol.

By process of elimination, 17-year-old James Puglise of 6481 Hatchery Rd., along with four Michigan college students, has been selected from 2,200 applicants to make the trip.

Although young Puglise is "just an average" 1959 June graduate at Waterford Township High School, he has set his sights on becoming an electronic engineer.

His hobbies of "ham" radio activities and flying speedy airplanes have taught the youth much in the way of precision, patience and the art of "remembering."

A complete ham radio unit is set up in Jim's big lounge-bedroom. There is a transmitter, receiver, barometer, wall telephone and a most important item — a clock.

Here in the bedroom, a whole new world has literally opened up for the boy through talking to other "hams" in India, South America, Sweden, Alaska, the Canal Zone and even behind Russia's Iron Curtain.

CODE MAKES IT SIMPLE

Because of simple code letters, individuals of every foreign country in the world—regardless of the language they speak—are able to communicate with a ham radio operator, Jim said.

For instance, QSA means readability, and just plain Q is a signal for "just about anything." Jim said. QRM is "another station interfering," and QRS means, "send slower."

Young Puglise's signal is QTH—"location Pontiac."

There is no country in the world which is closed to amateur radio operators during peace time, Jim explained. Only when trouble begins to brew in certain areas are the ham stations closed, as this is when the operations could become dangerous to a country's welfare.

During the recent revolt in Havana, Cuba, Jim was in contact with "hams" there right up until the very last minute when the stations were finally cut off by the rebels.

James' mother and dad are now working on their ham radio operator's license at the Naval Reserve Center in Pontiac—mostly so they can talk to their son when he is in Europe this summer.

Because he has been a cadet in the Civil Air Patrol at Pontiac City Airport since he was a "young lad," Jim is now qualified to earn his wings.

During his training period, he has flown in the two planes available to the CAP. (A private two-seater and an Air Force loaned plane).

The Air Force arranges his home - away - from - home accommodations in Europe, and he will be able to work towards getting his wings at various airports throughout Euope.

The teenager's most recent accomplishment was passing all tests for a Naval R.O.T.C. scholarship at the University of Michigan after his return from Europe next fall.

A youth who knows where he's going, Jim plans on doing a tour in the U.S. Marine Corps. Then he hopes to find a position in electronics and communications.

FLYING "HAM" — A Waterford Township high school senior, James Puglise, will fly to Europe on the U. S. Air Force-Civil Air Patrol program this summer. He is one of only three teenagers in Oakland County licensed to operate a "ham" radio station, according to records.

Former Troy Mayor to Be Feted Tonight

TROY — For the first time since 1947, Frank Costello, 57, the former mayor of Troy, is without public office.

Tonight, some 200 persons will honor him mainly for his efforts as first mayor here. Costello was elected to that office in 1955 and assumed the job of helping guide the new city through its preliminary growing pains.

Prior to that he had served on the Troy Township Board of Education.

A dinner and program will be held at the Troy High School tonight when co-workers and neighbors gather to pay tribute to him.

A mysterious, surprise gift will be presented to the former city leader. This one, city officials are sure he will keep.

At his last official meeting as mayor, Costello was presented the gavel which he had used during his term of office. He returned it to the city with thanks, asking that it be kept with other items of historic significance for posterity.

The gavel had been made from a piece of wood taken from the old Niles home, built here by Johnston Niles over a hundred years ago.

Costello in private life is manager of the Detroit Crane Co., Inc. He said his retirement from public life would give him more time for his favorite hobby, bird hunting, and to work around his home grounds at 700 Trinway St.

Costello, at the completion of his three-year term this spring, said he felt it was time someone else took over the responsibility of guiding the city and declined to seek re-election.

* * *

He was succeeded by Robert J. Huber, president of the Michigan Chrome and Chemical Co. in Detroit, who resides at 630 W. Big Beaver Rd. Huber was elected to a three year term on April 6.

4 Towns School to Give Show

'Around the World in 80 Minutes' Is Theme of Student Event

FOUR TOWNS — "Around the World in 80 Minutes" is the theme title of this year's annual student talent show of the Four Towns Elementary School.

The curtain will rise at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the auditorium of the John D. Pierce Junior High School on Crescent Lake road.

A cast of 250 students is under the direction of Mrs. Theodore Dovre of 1200 Jay St., a PTA member who has had show business experience with the USO on tour.

The youngsters will take their audience on an imaginary trip around the world featuring songs, dances and authentic customes of the various nations visited during the 80 minute production.

The public is invited.

Proper School Preparing for Annual PTA Fair

GINGELLVILLE—Proper School is a beehive of activity these days as preparations for the annual PTA Fair are being completed. The event will take place from 4 to 8 p.m. Saturday at the school, located at 4005 Baldwin Ave., here.

A number of special features are planned this year to interest patrons of all ages, according to the cochairmen Mrs. John Ward and Mrs. William Morrow.

They include the King and Queen Contest with a boy and a girl from the fourth, fifth and sixth grades competing for the crowns. The two candidates from the fourth grade are Mary Jane Thorpe and Billy Kaubisch; from the fifth grade, Kristine Church and Henry Kaubisch, and from the sixth grade, Wilma Sue Lundy and Jack Iman.

The six were selected by their classmates to vie for the titles. The winners will be determined by the number of one-cent votes sold for them.

In addition to the contest, another featured attraction will be a talent show, and pony rides will also be offered for the young fry.

Included among the traditional events will be a cake walk and all kinds of games to test the dexterity of youngsters and oldsters alike, the chairmen said.

There will also be a parcel post window, fish pond, white elephant sale, fancy work booth, gift shop and a bake sale.

The lunch room will be open all during the fair, and the menu will feature baked beans, potato salad, hot dogs barbecued beef, pie and ice cream.

Proceeds from the fair will be used for school projects including the purchase of furniture for a teachers' lounge.

Exchange Student A Camera Bug

German Girl Likes Travel

By LEE WINBORN

LAKE ORION — "Have camera, like to travel," may well be Heidi Elser's advertisement for a job when she finishes high school in Germany.

Heidi, who is 18, is a foreign exchange student this year at Lake Orion Community High School.

The curly-haired brunette, who comes from Darmstadt near Frankfurt, has already traveled quite extensively for one of her young years.

Two summers ago she and one of her older sisters, Mechtild, now 20, took a bicycle trip to Holland and Belgium. They stayed in youth hostels overnight.

Heidi came by plane to the United States last July and has just returned from the high school senior class trip to New York City.

'IT'S TOO BIG!'

Her eyes sparkle when she tells how much she enjoyed her visit to the world's largest city, but she adds, "After I've seen everything, I wouldn't want to live there—it's too big!"

And when it comes to photography, Heidi's enthusiasm for this hobby led her to join the high school camera club here. She has the distinction of being the only girl in the club.

Heidi speaks English fluently. She said German students are required to take an English course from the first year in high school.

Comparing the educational systems at home and in the United States, Heidi says German students can't choose the subjects they want, but must take certain ones which are required.

When I first entered school here, there were so many rules, I couldn't get used to them," she explained. "Pass slips, checking in and out—at home all we do is ask a teacher's permission to leave the classroom."

"The boys are not too different here, though," the German student said with a smile. "They're a little more formal—perhaps that's what makes them more polite."

Youngest of three girls, Heidi says she can't remember her father. He was killed in World War II, when she was about four years old. Her mother gets a pension from the government.

Heidi is a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Young, of 2810 Indian Lake Rd., during her stay in this country. She'll return home in July to finish her schooling—she has a year or two more of work to complete to receive her diploma there.

After she graduates, she hopes to find a job which will allow her to travel—and to take pictures.

The charming young lady hasn't decided what career she will choose, but with her ready grin and the ease with which she makes new friends, she should have little trouble making a success of anything she tries.

AUTOGRAPH, PLEASE — Foreign Exchange Student Heidi Eiser, 18, of Darmstadt, Germany, is busy these days collecting autographs in her year book from her classmates at Lake Orion Community High School. The book will be one of the cherished mementoes she will keep to remember her year-long stay in the United States.

City Optimists to Host Contest

7 Boys Will Compete in Oratorical Test at Elks Temple Today

The Pontiac Optimist Luncheon Club will play host this afternoon to the zone oratorical contest at the Elks Temple.

Seven boys, including the winners of the Southfield, Greater North Woodward, Pontiac Luncheon, Pontiac Supper and Highland Park Optimist clubs' individual oratorical contests, will compete for the zone championship.

Winner of today's contest will enter the state contest at Ludington in May. The state winner will go on to the nationals held in Miami, Fla. in June.

Tom Hurska of the local luncheon club, is chairman of the zone contest.

More than 125 were expected to attend the 12:10 p.m. luncheon meeting and contest including the wives of members of the Pontiac Optimist Luncheon Club.

Each of the seven contestants will present a five-minute speech entitled "Optimism."

Edward J. Vogt, governor of the 17th district of the Optimists International will attend the affair along with special guests, Mayor Philip E. Rowston and John W. Hirlinger, manager of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce.

U.S. Will Fly High

BERLIN (UPI) — The United States will fly high altitude cargo planes to and from West Berlin on a regular and frequent basis despite Soviet protests and some apprehension by the Western allies, U.S. diplomats indicated today.

Jet Trainer Crashes, Kills Korean Boy

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—A U.S. Air Force jet trainer crashed into a Korean house today, killing a 4-year-old Korean boy and injuring his parents and a neighbor woman.

The American pilot also was hurt. The Air Force withheld his name until his next of kin were notified.

The crash occurred about 100 miles south of Seoul, shortly after the T33 plane had taken off from Kunsan air base on a routine training flight.

During 1937 the automotive industry introduced coil springs in rear, and steering column gear-shift in their cars.

International Partnership by Businessmen Seems Answer to Communism

LONDON (UPI) — When Page Lamoreaux left his hotel in Calcutta, there was a dead beggar lying a few yards away—starvation.

"I followed the cart that picked him up all the way down to the river," Lamoreaux recalled.

"There were other carts arriving with other bodies. I watched them spray them with gasoline and then bulldoze the ashes into the river.

"And for the first time I realized what depths of meaning lie behind the statistics we pass of so glibly:

"One-third of the world goes to bed hungry.

"One-quarter of the world makes less than 50 dollars a year.

"One-quarter of the world has a life expectancy of only 37 years."

There was more to the tragic early morning scene than the fellow feeling of one human being for another.

Lamoreaux, a self-made American millionaire, felt suddenly that here was one of the battlegrounds on which the struggle between communism and capitalism would be decided.

TWO YEARS AGO

This was two years ago. Lamoreaux, who is from Napa, Calif., and oil man Bill Graham, of Wichita, Kan., were touring Asia at that time, as representatives of "Private Enterprise, Inc.," a program to set up small businessmen in various countries with American partners.

Five of their eight pilot ventures are thriving—a furniture factory in Amiens, a surgical thread plant in Istanbul, the weaving of goat hair cloth for sports coats in Beirut, the manufacture of steel furniture in New Delhi and ice cream pies in Thailand.

The other three "haven't gotten off the ground" but Lamoreaux believes the principle of international partnership has been proved.

Now he is back in Asia by himself on what might be called one successful businessman's quest for the peaceful answer to communism.

He believes the West has a deadline for the solution to this problem —1962.

"It was given me by Communists, ostensibly Russian journalists, who interviewed me in Istanbul," he said. "I have reason to believe they knew what they were talking about.

"They said that in five years from then (1957) Russia would have won over most of the 1,000,000,000 uncommitted people in the world."

Lamoreaux is doing his personal best to prove the Soviet prophets wrong.

Lawyer's Recipe Makes Prison Term

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Atty. William Malsh was pleading in court that his client — Bumon H. Crocker, 59, of Tucson — be given a suspended sentence for passing a bogus check.

Malsh asked Superior Court Judge Herbert F. Krucker to try this recipe:

"A cupful of compassion, half a cupful of understanding, a tablespoon of mercy, a teaspoon of leniency. Add a jigger of Christmas spirit and a dab of holly and shake it judicially. Extend it to the defendent."

Judge Krucker replied: "One to two years in the State Prison."

During the year 1899 the U.S. Post Office Department experimented with motor vehicle mail delivery.

Firemen Should Have Stayed Where They Were

PRESTONSBURG, Ky. (AP)—Five volunteer firemen dashed out of a recent civic club meeting at Wise's Restaurant when the fire siren blasted.

Driving toward city hall, they met the fire truck and turned to follow.

It led them right back to Wise's, where a kitchen fire had been put out shortly after the alarm was phoned to city hall.

Trio Follows Icebreaker From Duluth; Seaway Will Open April 25

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP)—The icebreaker Mackinaw smashed through 30-inch ice in Lake Superior's Whitefish Bay today to clear a path toward the Soo Locks for waiting freighters.

Three freighters of the Pittsburgh Steamship Lines were due to follow the Mackinac through the ice into the St. Marys river.

The three—the anders, Calloway and Clarke sailing out of Duluth, Minn.—were the first of the season to go out on Lake Superior. They are expected to reach the locks this evening.

As the ice breakup progressed, it was announced at Ottawa that the St. Lawrence Seaway will open for navigation April 25.

Transport Minister George Hees made the announcement in Commons upon completion of an aerial ice survey. The survey indicated the ice will have cleared the Montreal end of the seaway by that date.

A start on April 20 had been foreseen at one time but severe ice conditions delayed this.

Fifty Canadian ships are getting ready to leave the port of Montreal. The icebreaker Ernest LaPointe was the first into the seaway yesterda·

King Cotton Banishes Glory of Morning

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The State of Arizona, finding all varieties of morning glories to be noxious weeds, is going to prohibit sale of any morning glory seed.

The Agriculture and Horticulture Commission adopted the regulation Wednesday at a public hearing at which morning glory defenders displayed cards reading:

"Help stamp out cotton growers. Support the morning glory. It grows without a government subsidy."

But representatives of the Farm Bureau and the Arizona Cotton Growers Assn. stuck to their guns.

The morning glory, they contended, is a nuisance almost impossible to exterminate once it gets started in a field.

They described the vine as a serious menace not only to cotton but also to hay, grain sorghums and other crops.

Three varieties were banned previously in Arizona. An official explained it was necessary to include all others because dealers can't always tell the seeds apart.

Six Die in Crash of Air Guard Plane

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—An Air National Guard plane faltered shortly after takeoff Wednesday night and crashed with a violent explosion in the harbor.

The mutilated bodies of five men on the training flight were recovered by skin divers. A sivth guardsman was still missing.

The twin-engine aircraft, a Grumman SA16 Alabtross, passed dangerously near a grain elevator and a score of freighters lined up in the harbor.

The Air Guard said it could not determine immediately what caused the crash.

The amphibious plane was the third of three planes starting off on a training mission.

184 Years Ago Come Saturday Night Paul Revere Took Historic Ride

By RAY SHAW
AP Feature Writer

"Listen my children, and you shall hear
Of the midnight ride of Paul Revere."

Almost any American will recognize that as the opening of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow's stirring "Paul Revere's Ride."

Longfellow's account of the ride—184 years ago this week (April 18-19)—appears to have made a bigger hit in poetry books than in history books.

For while historians agree the poem carries a powerful patriotic message, they generally disagree with Longfellow's presentation of the facts.

Historians and Longfellow agree Revere had an important part in warning the countryside from Boston toward Concord, about 20 miles away, that the British were coming. From there, however, the accounts differ.

The Boston of that day was located on a peninsula projection in Boston Harbor. To the north across a shallow inlet was Charlestown.

Longfellow had Revere in Charlestown taking the signal from Old North Church that the British were coming—"one if by land and two if by sea"—and galloping off toward Concord alerting the patriots.

Historians claim the signal was flashed by Robert Newman on Revere's instructions to other revolutionaries across the bay in Charlestown. Revere is said to have still been in Boston when the lantern was hung in the church belfry.

Longfellow mentions only Revere's ride. Historical accounts contend he was accompanied much of the way by William Dawes, a young shoemaker, and Dr. Samuel Prescott.

Neither does Longfellow mention that Revere eluded one British patrol. He and Dawes were captured by a second patrol while Prescott escaped and made his way to Concord where the colonial arms were stored.

Longfellow has Revere reaching Concord:

"It was two by the village clock,
When he came to the bridge in Concord town."

Before their capture, Revere and Dawes were able to warn John Hancock and Samuel Adams so they could escape arrest for treason.

Why does Longfellow differ from historical accounts of the night? The reason isn't clear. When writing his poem the historical facts were already in print.

One theory given is that Longfellow, by writing only of Revere, was able to achieve gerater poetic effectiveness. And Revere's name seems to ring of poetic beauty—more so than Dawes or Prescott.

Another poet, Helen F. More, later present the case of Dawes in "What's In a Name?," part of which reads:

"When the light from the Old North Church flashed out,
Paul Revere was waiting about,
But I was already on my way.
The shadows of night fell cold and gray
As I rode, with never a breath or pause;
But what was the use, when my name was Dawes?"

Socialist Protests Pope's Vote Decree

ROME (AP) — Pietro Nenni, leader of the Italian Socialist party, called on the government Wednesday night to protest a Vatican decree forbidding Roman Catholics from supporting Communist sympathizers in elections.

Nenni, whose party often sides with the Communists on issues, charged in the Chamber of Deputies that the Vatican order violated the treaty regulating relations between Italy and the Holy See.

The Christian Democratic government of Premier Antonio Segni did not indicate whether it would agree to a parliamentary debate on the motion filed by Nenni and several other Socialist deputies.

Confusion Ahead as Ships Pile Up

Seaway Controls Sink in Red Tape

MONTREAL (AP)—About 60 ships are expected to be ready to enter the St. Lawrence Seaway when it opens later this month and Montreal harbor officials still don't know in what order they'll proceed.

Montreal's harbor master decided the order of procession through the old Lachine Canal, but there has been no announcement about who will do it for the new seaway.

Shippers, who have been complaining about government red tape, say they don't even know who to ask for permission to use the seaway.

There are 30 ocean ships in Montreal harbor now waiting to use the 27-foot deep channel to the Great Lakes, and some 20 lake-type ships. The lakers probably won't wait for the seaway, since they can still get through the 14-foot Lachine Canal.

Originally, it had been expected only about a dozen ships would be on hand for the opening.

Ships bound for the lakes are heading upriver towards Montreal at the rate of two or three a day.

It had been hoped to open the seaway April 20, but heavy ice clogging the entrance made a postponement certain.

The Transport Department icebreaker D'Iberville will do the official opening honors by taking a party of government and seaway authorities through the seaway.

The Grace Line's Santa Regina, slated to be the first U.S. merchant ship to enter the seaway, was reported off Father Point, Que., last night and was to be in Montreal by tomorrow.

Montreal harbor can berth 131 ships and does not expect any difficulty in handling the influx of ocean vessels. Some 50 lake ships which tied up here for the winter are expected to move farther downriver or to head into the lakes, leaving room for the overseas vessels.

The opening day delay is expected also to complicate arrivals at lake points. Most of the ships have similar destinations and are likely to arrive all at the same time at the small inland harbors.

Voodoo Plane Sets Fifth Speed Record

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—A McDonnell RF101 Voodoo, the world's fastest photo reconnaissance aircraft, streaked to its fifth speed record Wednesday.

Piloted by Air Force Capt. George A. Edwards Jr., the plane roared over a triangular 500-kilometer course at 816.279 m.p.h. The world record was announced by the Tactical Air Command at the World Congress of Flight.

The previous record was 695.127 m.p.h. over a similar course in July 1955 by a Navy A4D1 fighter.

Edwards, from Crossville, Tenn., and stationed at Shaw Air Force Base, S.C., flew over a course beginning and ending on the Mojave Desert.

Claims Organ Record

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP)—Bill Coffman, 32, a night club entertainer, claims a new record—135 hours—for playing the organ with 15-minute hourly breaks. He said the previous record was 133 hours, set by a pianist, Mrs. Marie Ashton of Slough, England, April 4.

Brooklyn saw the first car break through the mile-a-minute speed barrier on November 16, 1901. Live better by far with a brand new car.

In 1884, the cornerstone for the pedestal of the Statue of Liberty was laid. This symbol of freedom was erected mainly through the efforts of a New York daily newspaper.

Story of Strain in 2 Portraits

Lincoln Paintings Show War's Toll

CHICAGO (AP)— Two portraits of Abraham Lincoln reveal how the Great Emancipator aged between the two inaugurations that spanned the hard years of the Civil War.

It is fitting that during this 150th anniversary year of Lincoln's birth the beardless and bearded painted-from-life oil portraits owned by the University of Chicago be recalled.

The two life-size portraits of Lincoln were painted by the same artist, George Frederick Wright.

The beardless oil portrait was done in 1860, shortly after Lincoln won nomination at the Republican National Convention in Chicago in May.

In it he is a sober man, clean shaven but determined.

The bearded portrait was done by Wright in 1864, after Lincoln's second nomination. Despite his worries, Lincoln managed a smile.

When the first portrait was done in the autumn of 1860, Lincoln had established his campaign headquarters in a long narrow room in the old State House where he had served in the 1840s.

IMPRINT OF FOUR YEARS — These two pictures are of paintings done by the same artist of Abraham Lincoln after he won the Republican nomination for the presidency in 1860 and of President Lincoln after his renomination in 1864. Artist was George Frederick Wright. The paintings are owned by the University of Chicago.

On the day before the 22-year-old Wright was scheduled to start work on the painting, an artist seven years his senior, Alban Jasper Conant—who was destined to do as many canvases of Lincoln as Stuart did of Washington—also asked for a sitting by Lincoln.

Lincoln read his credentials and said, "No," shaking his head.

"It is impossible for me to give any more sittings," Lincoln said.

Wright offered Conant his time with Lincoln. Moved by such magnanimity, Lincoln relented and agreed to sit for the two at one time. As guest, Conant called the pose.

TOLD JOKE

During the course of the sitting, Lincoln told a story which Conant later recalled.

"A politician went to a livery stable for a horse to drive 16 miles to a convention where he wanted the nomination for county judge. The horse broke down, he arrived late, lost the nomination and came back to the livery stable feeling it was useless to be angry.

"He said to the liveryman: 'See here, Jones, you are training this horse for the New York market. You expect to sell him for a good price to an undertaker for a hearse horse.' But Jones insisted the horse was one of the best in his stable.

" 'Now don't deny it,' said the politician, 'for I know by his gait that you have spent a great deal of time training him to go before a hearse. But he will never do. He is so slow he couldn't get a corpse to the cemetery in time for the resurrection.' "

Before Wright did the White House portrait in 1864, his experience had deepened. As summer that year wore on, Lincoln became less popular. In late August he confessed in confidence that "it seems exceedingly probable that this administration will not be re-elected."

FACE FURROWED

Lincoln now wore a beard. By the time he posed for the second Wright portrait he had won re-nomination and was in a happier mood, although the trials of the war showed in the furrows deeply ploughed in his face.

This portrait was painted for Gen. Horatio G. Wright, the defender of Washington against Gen. Jubal Early's raid late in the war.

It came to the University of Chicago after it had passed to the possession of Daniel Huntington, friend of Gen. Wright and president of the National Academy.

It successively went to Mrs. C. R. Huntington, to Augustus F. DeForest, to William Randoph Hearst who placed it with the Kleeman Galeries, from which the University Libraries secured it.

The 1860 portrait by Wright was selected as best of several by a jury headed by William Butler, who had invited Lincoln to eat at his table after he moved to Springfield from New Salem in Sangamon County.

Lincoln bought the portrait and gave it to Butler. The canvas remained with the Butler family until its disposal in 1911 to Edward W. Paine, from whose estate the University secured it in 1934.

Oslo Traffic Stalls in Protest to Taxes

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Motor traffic stopped almost completely for one hour in Norway at noon today in protest against new taxes on motor cars.

Crowds in Oslo filled the main street outside the Parliament building, blocking the few official cars which tried to move. Inside Parliament, representatives of major motoring organizations delivered a protest against the new taxes.

The government has imposed a 10-25 per cent extra sales tax on all cars. New taxes on buses and trucks are proposed for later this year. The government says the new taxes will pay for new subsidies on consumer goods to curb the rocketing cost of living. The protesting motorists claimed that Norway is the most expensive country in the world for motorists.

Security for You

Wife Can Get but One Tab

By RAY HENRY

Dear Mr. Henry: My husband has just retired and started collecting social security. I'm 65 and have been told I can only receive payments based on his social security record. I don't understand this.

"During the war, I worked four years in a job covered by social security. Why can't I get payments based on this work and also through my husband's? The office here says I can't.

"I paid a lot of money into social security during the four years. As long as I paid this money, but can't collect on it, why doesn't the government give it back?"

Mrs. F.S. of Schenectady, N.Y.

The social security law says:

A wife can receive social security retirment payments based on her own work record or on her husband's record — whichever is higher. But, she can't collect a combination of both.

So, your social security office gave you the correct information.

TAX WOULD GO UP

The reason for this is simple: The financing of the social security system — based on the tax levied on the earnings of workers — was not calculated to provide a combination of payments to a wife. If it were, we'd all have to pay more tax.

Now, suppose you're eligible to collect an amount equal to one-half of his payment — that is, $58 a month — and to payments of $33 a month based on your four years of work.

Your total payments would be $91 a month or only $25 a month less than your husband. Does this sound reasonable?

Your husband is getting his payments based on 22 years of work under social security and 22 years of paying the tax. Yet, you with only four years of work and tax, would be entitled to only $25 a month less than his.

If you were the only person to be entitled to such a break under the system, it wouldn't make too much difference.

But, multiply your situation times the millions of wives who are or ever will be in a similar situation and entitled to a combination of payments. Billions of dollars of additional tax would be necessary.

Eighty Area Seniors Compete for 13 MSUO Scholarships

More than 80 of the top high school seniors in Oakland and Macomb counties are vying today for thirteen 1-year scholarships to Michigan State University Oakland.

The youths, representing more than 40 high schools in the two counties, are competing for the $500 scholarship awards at the MSUO office, 3070 Butler Rd.

"The examination results will be used as one factor in determining the recipients of the thirteen scholarship awards," points out Herbert J. Stoutenburg, director of admissions and registrar.

"The awards have been made available through the generosity of bankers and other interested citizens of the Pontiac area," he adds.

To be eligible for the competitive examinations, each student must be a graduate of an approved high school in Oakland or Macomb county, have the recommendation of the high school principal, be in the upper 20 per cent of the graduating class, have a "B" average in all academic subjects and must have demonstrated leadership and citizenship qualities as well as participation in school and community activities.

Students from the following Oakland County schools are competing: Gary Ray Acker, Donald Lloyd Brooks, Sandra Jean Brooks, Jon Leroy Fruytier, and Gary Kostbade Wright, all of Avondale High School; Kay Kristine Ulseth, Berkley.

Steven Lundborg Hunt, Birmingham; Anita Louise Mansfield, Brandon; Linda Hallmark, Clarkston; Janet Lila Clark, and Karen Marie Schetter, both of Farmington; Sandra Karen Moehring, Hazel Park; William Monroe Hasiock, Holly Area; Carl Edwin Baber, Lake Orion; Frank Geno DeSantis, Patrick Dennis Honeycutt, and Joan Ruth Lambert, all of Lamphere.

Janet Maxine Long, and Alfred ford; Lawrence Ronald Jacobs, Joseph Monetta Jr., both of Mil- Oak Park; James Robert Goodrich, and Susan Marie Rossman, both of Oxford; Lynne Elaine Anderson, Alan James Higgins, and Judy Ann Noren, all of Pontiac Central; Beverly Ann Donato, Janet Marie Lichvar, Ronald Lee Miller, George Daniel Penoyer, Judy Carl Thiese, and Nichola Gene Trietsch all of Pontiac Northern.

Carolyn Ann Adler, Garry Robertson, Phyllis Jean Robertson, Margaret Ann Swoboda, and James Joseph Weisenborne, all of Rochester; Walter Niels Amen, Mary Jean Elizabeth Carey, Betty Ann Oniga, Margaret Elizabeth Pfahler, all of Royal Oak; Phillip Gerard Couture, Myra Rose Levering, and Mary Catherine Long, all of St. Frederick.

Frederick Alan Pung., Shrine of the Little Flower; Thomas Wayne Lambert, Southfield; Joseph Elmer Krueger, South Lyon; Robert Francis Coutts, Troy; Linda Elizabeth Byington, Larry D. Official Says Los Angeles Losing Bleak Look

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP)— Los Angeles is beginning to lose that bleak and sterile look.

So says Frederic A. Chase, executive director of Los Angeles Beautiful. He pointed out that the 10,500 permits to plant trees on downtown streets last year represented a 90 per cent increase over 1955.

The result, he says, is that "the city is beginning to resemble a habitat of human beings rather than a bleak and sterile mosaic of asphalt, concrete and steel."

London's Angry Men Approved by Author

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (AP)—London's Angry Young Men—writers who have caused a literary revolution in England—have the approval of British author Elizabeth Bowen.

"I don't know why they are called 'angry,'" Miss Bowen told an authors meeting Wednesday, but "I think we are all angry when we are young.

"Young people should be angry over ideals and injustices," added the middle-age writer, who is a Commander of the British Empire.

Les Halles Condemned

Paris Bread Basket Suffers Stomach-Ache

WASHINGTON — The city of Paris, capital of fine food, has long suffered from a stomach-ache. But a cure is in sight.

The city's market section is known as Les Halles. Since the 12th century, food from the provinces has flowed into this section near the Louvre to be sold to retailers and restaurateurs. Emile Zola called it "the belly of Paris," and the name stuck.

For some time critics have charged that Les Halles is strangling the French food industry and causing big markups in the prices housewives must pay. The French Government is reported preparing to move the marketing operations to an outlying, less crowded section of Paris.

Though condemned by economists, Les Halles has been popular with visitors, the National Geographic Society says. A trip to Les Halles in the small hours of the morning for a meal of onion soup, grilled pig's trotters, and snails is a favorite conclusion to a night of revelry.

While the rest of Paris sleeps, Les Halles seethes with motion. Burly men in blue overalls and leather aprons unload trucks piled high with cabbages from Burgundy, fish from Brittany, and beef carcasses from Normandy. Buyers and sellers, drivers and porters mingle shouts, laughter, and curses into a general hubbub. The air reeks of red wine, garlic, ripe cheese, and fish.

Trading centers in 12 huge iron-and-glass pavilions. Through these move almost every fish, vegetable, and piece of meat that Paris consumes, and much of the food eaten elsewhere in France.

Deals are concluded amid a giddying swirl of butchers carrying quarters of beef, hand trucks filled with glistening mackerel, and pushcarts groaning under loads of field-ripened strawberries, snowy-white mushrooms, and foot-long cucumbers. Silent observers are thousands of befuddled snails edging along their containers, and crawling heaps of live lobsters waggling suspicious antennae.

The Paris market came to the site about the year 1110. King Philippe II enlarged it in 1183, and built permanent shelters surrounded by a wall. At that time Les Halles sold almost anything, but it began to specialize in food in the 16th century. From 1854 to 1866, 10 pavilions were built, and two more added in 1936. Within a few years Paris's growth had already made Les Halles again feel pinched.

Today mountains of leeks, potatoes, and artichokes block traffic for half a mile every night. Despite the caustic protests of taxi drivers, nothing helps until morning comes and the marketeers go away.

Moving the market to some outlying area near a railroad line and good highways might save as much as two cents a pound on transportation charges, planners assert. But the change is fought by Les Halles' entrenched middlemen, forwarders, and agents who hold almost every inch of ground through hereditary privilege.

Meanwhile, housewives groan under the costs. One woman is reported to have bought a head of cauliflower for 120 francs at her greengrocer's. She found a note from the farmer under one leaf: "I sold it for 12 francs. How much did you pay for it?"

insurance policies in 1957 was a record six billion, 700 million dollars—60 per cent of which went to policyholders who were still living.

Arab League Holds Oil Meet

Many Middle Eastern Nations Attend; Iraq Is Not Represented

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP News Analyst

A meeting of grave importance to the Western world opens in Cairo today.

After much jockeying and many postponements, the Arab League is holding its first petroleum conference, attended by representatives of both the producing and nonproducing countries of the Middle East.

Iraq, one of the big producers, will not be represented. A combination of Arab rivalries and Communist pressure has fomented a violent feud between the Iraqi regime of Premier Abdel Karim Kassem and President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

Communist influence is likely to figure heavily in the Cairo deliberations. Already the Communists have opened an offensive to identify the congress with the cold war between the Kremlin and the West.

Inspired and instructed by Soviet experts, the Communists are attempting to put a painful squeeze on Nasser.

The purpose of the conference is to determine ways to use the wealth from Arab oil to better the lot of all Arab countries.

This oil cannot be produced without the Americans and British. Many of the participants in the congress, indeed, will be representatives of American and British companies operating in the Middle East. Only a few Arabs are competent to discuss the vast complexities of the oil industry, and surely the Arabs must have Western technical advice and assistance in any program they undertake.

The Communists, therefore, find themselves in the position of being able to resurrect a specter which so often has moved Arabs to violence: Western colonialism.

MOMENT OF TRIUMPH — John Foster Dulles left, who felt that one of his outstanding accomplishments was the negotiation of the peace treaty with Japan, watched the then U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson sign the treaty in San Francisco in 1951. Dulles served as Acheson's adviser at the treaty negotiations with the rank of ambassador. With Dulles were Republican Senators Bourke Hickenlooper of Iowa, center, and H. Alexander Smith of New Jersey.

Free World Will Miss Dulles Grip

(The effects of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' career on international events will be discussed and argued for a long time. This is the first of a two-part series by John M. Hightower.)

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Foster Dulles has been both violently denounced and extravantly praised for his work in foreign affairs.

Few men in his position have been more controversial, and historians will be slow to adopt President Eisenhower's estimate that he was the country's greatest secretary of state.

But there can be no doubt that in the critical weeks ahead he will be sorely missed.

His successor faces a tough task in picking up the direction of foreign policy where Dulles, stricken by cancer, has put it down. In the six years he was in office, the lawyer-diplomat achieved great stature not only as a figure in American government but also as a leader of the free world in its struggle against expansive Chinese communism.

HARD WORKER

He demonstrated a rugged capacity for work—days, nights and weekends—which probably few other men can equal. He knew other leaders of the free world from close personal contacts and he traveled, with apparent relish, 560,000 miles on trips which took him to 46 countries.

This would be true even for a man in the position of Under Secretary of State Christian Herter, who has worked with Dulles for two years.

But the times now allow no easy period of settling in. The man who takes over Dulles' desk has his work already cut out.

On April 29, he must meet in Paris with the foreign ministers of Britain, France and West Germany to make final preparations for negotiations with the Soviets on delicate and dangerous questions of the future of Berlin and Germany. On May 11, with his British and French colleagues, he must sit opposite Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in a Big Four conference that is likely to stretch into a grueling month of frustrating argument.

Very likely in late July or August there will be a Big Four summit conference in which the new secretary will play a key role as the chief adviser to the President in further exchanges with the Soviets.

LONG EXPERIENCE

For such negotiations as these, Dulles was prepared by long experience and a love of the game of diplomacy born of a lifelong interest in foreign affairs. His ambition to take over the job went back to his boyhood association with two other secretaries of state, his grandfather, John Watson Foster, and his uncle, Robert Lansing. Dulles achieved that ambition Jan. 21, 1953.

Dulles ran the State Department with complete confidence in his own abilities and the know-how acumulated over the years. From the time he took over, he was the dominant figure. One of the most frequent criticisms was that he operated out of his vest pocket.

Few even of his closest advisers knew precisely what he would do in a given situation. Even high officials in his own organization looked to his news conferences many times for fresh light on his policy thinking about critical problems.

HARD TO GUESS

Some weeks ago whil Dulles was undergoing cancer treatment at Walter Reed Army Hospital this reporter asked a State Department official who was really running U.S. foreign policy.

Dulles," he replied. "When there is a meeting on some problem, everyone tries to figure out what the secretary would decide if he were there. It's a tricky business. Because when Dulles was there he didn't always think exactly as other people guessed he would."

This period of administering foreign affairs under the shadow of Dulles is now coming to an end.

The abrupt end to his career upset Dulles' hope of serving as secretary throughout Eisenhower's two terms. Until illness forced his hand, he had never seriously considered withdrawing.

Achievement of the post in the first place came as the result of long years of effort and preparation.

DEALT WITH REDS

He served as a member of the bipartisan U.S. delegation to the U.N. Charter conference at San Francisco and then participated with successive Democratic secretaries of state in postwar peace negotiations with the Soviets.

In 1949, Dulles was appointed to fill a U.S. Senate vacancy from New York. While in the Senate he helped to put through approval North Atlantic Treaty Organition which he had earlier helped to draft.

He was defeated for re-election to the Senate, but President Truman made him a consultant to Secretary of State Dean Acheson. In that capacity he drafted and successfully negotiated a peace treaty with Japan. He made it a treaty free of punishment for Japan's role in World War II and was proud to call it, as he often did, a "peace of reconciliation."

He was never again able to put across such a clear-cut and definitive solution to such a highly complex problem. The great peacemaking issue which he inherited from his predecessors concerned the future of divided Germany, and that problem after many frustrations he has now had to pass on to his successor.

Slate Hearing for Boy-Killer

Prosecutor Expected to Ask for Trial in Circuit Court as Adult

FLINT (UPI) — A husky 14-year-old boy who bludgeoned and stabbed to death a mother of three children was scheduled for a hearing today before Probate Judge William E. Doran.

Genesee County Prosecutor Jerome F. O'Rourke was expected to ask that probate jurisdiction over Gerald Carlson be waived and that he be bound over to circuit court to face charges as an adult.

The six-foot, 274-pound youth, who will be 15 next Wednesday, yesterday admitted killing Mrs. Patricia Dixon, 24, of Mt. Morris Township, at her home Tuesday night.

Gerald, a ninth grade student, could give no explanation for the slaying.

He told state police and O'Rourke he went to the Dixon home, next door to his house, to watch television Tuesday night while his parents were away.

Gerald said he followed Mrs. Dixon when she went to a utility room off the kitchen and struck her with his fist. Then he picked up a wrench and kitchen knife and clubbed and stabbed her to death.

Adlai Praises Dulles

CHICAGO (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson today praised John Foster Dulles for his dedication to peace on earth.

Stevenson, 1952 and 1956 Democratic Presidential nominee, made this comment on the Secretary of State's resignation:

"I am extremely sorry. I know of no one who has served his country more diligently and devotedly than Secretary Dulles. He will have the prayers of all of us and the gratitude of free people everywhere for his dedication to his constant goal of peace on earth."

Area Grass Fire Warnings Given

County Chiefs Urge Caution on Burning Trash in Oakland

Stern warnings were issued today by Oakland County fire chiefs urging citizens to use caution when starting trash fires which lately have caused a rash of grass fires in the out-county area.

With almost a week of dry weather, it doesn't take much of a wind to ignite the dry undergrowth near the burners — especially if they are left uncovered and unattended, the chiefs said.

As many as four grass fires have been reported in one half-hour period during the past week and it is necessary to have citizen cooperation to keep these at a minimum, they emphasized.

An added word of warning to those who try to fight fires by themselves. Older people and those with heart conditions are especially requested to call for assistance from the local fire department rather than try to put out the blaze alone with a broom or shovel. Many times firemen arrive on the scene to find someone overcome by exhaustion from inhaling too much smoke.

California to Set Car Exhaust Curbs

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—A bill requiring the State Public Health Department to set air pollution standards for auto exhausts went to Gov. Edmund Brown yesterday.

The state Senate concurred yesterday with Assembly amendments to the bill.

One change requires the department to determine the level of exhaust contamination.

The measure directs the State Department of Public Health to determine by February 1960 the auto exhaust emissions "compatible with health and non-irritation of the senses."

FRONT RUNNER WITH FORMER BOSS — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, left, whose resignation was announced Wednesday, smiles as he chats with Undersecretary of State Christian Herter at Washington's National Airport last August on returning from Brazil. President Eisenhower announced that Herter, as acting secretary of state, will attend the April 29 meeting of Western foreign ministers in Paris and a May 11 conference of those ministers with the Soviet Union's foreign minister. Herter is favored to succeed Dulles as secretary of state.

One of These Men Is Likely to Be Next Secretary of State

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thumbnail sketches of the men most prominently mentioned as possible successor to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles:

CHRISTIAN A. HERTER

As undersecretary, has been filling in for Dulles during the secretary's illness. Already has been named to represent this country at this month's allied foreign ministers conference in Paris to prepare for upcoming talks on the Berlin problem at Geneva.

Former governor of Massachusetts, he is 63 years old. Has an arthritic condition and gets around with the aid of crutches and a wheelchair. But the handicap has never caused him to miss a day's work.

Is acknowledged to be well grounded in international affairs but has been criticized by some members of the administration, for what they describe as a tendency to hesitate in making decisions. Has firm Congressional backing as a former House member. Herter is considered an advocate of a softer approach to foreign affairs than methods of negotiation.

C. DOUGLAS DILLON

Dillon as undersecretary of state for economic affairs is not considered as well versed in foreign affairs generally as Herter. But his advocates note he is only 49 years old and could bring more physical vitality to the job than Herter.

Dillion interrupted his career as a Wall Street broker to join the government.

Dillon served as U. S. Ambassador to France and representative in NATO before joining Dulles' Washington staff.

Has a great deal of administrative skill. Apparently sees eye to eye with Dulles on the latter's "rigid" approach to foreign policy. Agrees with Dulles and the President that this country should not make concessions to Russia on the Berlin and German problem.

HENRY CABOT LODGE

As U.S. representative in the United Nations, Lodge has gained wide diplomatic experience and responsibility. Is a close friend and early political backer of the President. His efforts were a key factor in Eisenhower's decision to seek the Presidency, and he served as Eisenhower's campaign manager in 1952.

Is 56 years old and in good health. Comes from an old Massachusetts family, long prominent politically and socially. Served as U. S. senator, resigning in 1952 to enter the Army. Served overseas as an officer and received Bronze Star, Legion of Merit, French Legion of Honor and Croix de Guerre.

Re-elected senator in 1946, served until 1953 when he received the United Nations ambassadorship. Sits in on Cabinet meetings. Some sources believe he has good chance of getting the appointment, especially in view of his close relationship with the President. Also has dealt extensively with Soviet diplomats, and has taken a firm position opposite them in the U.N., which could work in his favor.

THOMAS E. DEWEY

Dewey has been the "bridesmaid" of the Republican Party, running for the Presidency in 1944 and 1948 and losing both times. He is a one-time crime-busting prosecutor and three-time governor of New York.

Has had extensive political and legal experience, but has never operated in the diplomatic field but has always had open access to the White House since Eisenhower took office. He is an extremely close friend and bridge playing companion to the President.

JOHN JAY McCLOY

McCloy is a prominent New York banker with some background in foreign affairs, Served as U.S. high commissioner for Germany from 1949 through 1952. Also served as chairman of the board of the Council of Foreign Relations, Inc.

As a banker, has served on the board of such agencies as the Ford Foundation and the Rockefeller Foundation.

He is 64 years old. Served as a captain of field artillery during World War 1 and was decorated both by this country and France. In 1940 he was named expert consultant to the U. S. Secretary of War and the next year was appointed assistant secretary of war, serving through 1945.

GEN. ALFRED M. GRUENTHER

Gruenther is now retired as a career army officer and heads the American Red Cross. His most recent military post was commander of Allied Forces in Europe. Observed his 60th birthday last month.

A native of Nebraska, he entered the U. S. Military Academy in 1919. Was Eisenhower's chief of staff in World War II and was appointed Supreme Allied Commander in Europe in 1953, succeeding Eisenhower in that post. Holds the Distinguished Service Medal, Legion of Merit, Bronze Star, Companion of the Bath (British) and French Legion of Honor and Croix de Guerre.

They were Glen A. Boissonneault, editor of the Saginaw News; Ralph S. Curry, editor of the Flint Journal; and John A. McDonald, president of Booth Newspapers Inc., Detroit.

In addition, the Society's board of directors conferred a distinguished service membership on Carl Lindstrom, who no longer is eligible for regular membership because he left active journalism. Lindstrom, a former second vice president of the Society, now is a professor of journalism at the University of Michigan.

Blonde Just Wanted to Kill

18-Year-Old Being Held for Pumping 18 Shots Into Young Father

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP)—A chubby, 18-year-old blonde who said she fired 18 bullets into a young father because of an urge to kill is "just a scared girl" to a psychiatrist.

Dr. Walter Rappaport, chief of a state mental hospital, talked with pony-tailed Rosemarie Bjorkland Wednesday, a few hours after she told Sheriff Earl B. Whitmore she killed August Norry, 28, on Feb. 1 as he dumped grass cuttings.

"I wanted to see if I could commit a murder and not have it on my conscience," Miss Bjorkland, a clerk-typist, was quoted by Whitmore. "I've felt better ever since I killed him."

Norry, married and expecting to become a father, was only a casual acquaintance who happened along when she was target practicing in the hills near her Daly City home, just south of San Francisco, she said. An urge to kill that had obsessed her for at least two years became impossible to control when Norry happened to be in the target practice area, she related.

Rosemarie, a scared girl to Dr. Rappaport, was "a lone wolf" to Nadeline Ochoa, head clerk of the San Francisco publishing company where they worked.

She took her coffee breaks and lunches alone, but sometimes bragged about being handy with a knife, Mrs. Ochoa said. Other employes said she carried a knife in her purse.

To school authorities, Rosemarie was a problem, transferred among three high schools for drinking and cutting classes and finally quitting to go to work.

She fired 18 shots from her target pistol at point-blank range into Norry, reloading twice.

She lived at home with her mother, father, and three younger brothers, ages 9 to 13.

Painstaking detective work finally traced the shooting to her. A work crew recovered the death weapon and some cartridges from a sewer the girl pointed out as she went with officers to re-enact the slaying.

She will be charged with murder, said Howard Hartley, district attorney.

Flagpoles Mark Traffic Deaths

Zurich Police Dramatize Road Fatalities by Block Banner 10-Feet Long

ZURICH, Switzerland (UPI) — Zurich police have adopted a novel method of convincing drivers and pedestrians that traffic fatalities are more than mere paragraphs in the newspapers.

Every time a person dies in a traffic accident on a city street, police erect at the spot a flagpole 20 feet tall from which they fly a 10-foot-long black flag. They also put up a plaque which says:

"A man died here: victim of a road accident."

The scheme has been in operation since August 1957. The grisly reminder usually is left in position for about two weeks.

We shall have to wait a few years for sufficient statistical proof of what we have accomplished," said Dr. Albert Wiesendanger, chief of the city constabulary, "but there are some good signs."

Last year 49 persons were killed in auto accidents within the city limits. This was four less than in 1957 despite a sharp increase in the number of automobiles on the roads.

"We put up flags for the victims of cycling accidents as well," he explained. "Exceptions are made only in cares where a a flagpole would interfere with the flow of traffic."

Police pay for the warning signs. "We don't make the traffic offenders pay because sometimes it would involve litigation, and sometimes nobody is really to blame," a police spokesman said.

While it may be too early to speak of a definate decline in road accidents, there is no doubt that the mourning flags have caught the imagination of the Swiss.

Minutes after a pole has been erected, passersby lay flowers at its base. There are rarely fewer than a dozen bunches of flowers in tin cans, grouped at the foot of each pole.

The police department has six poles. At one time last year, five were in use simultaneously. At another, almost four weeks went by without the need for a single mourning flag.

The first fox hunt in the New World took place in Queen Anne's County, Md., in 1650. Robert Brooke came over in his private ship with 28 servants and a pack of hounds to participate.

Big Footed, Bowlegged Hogshooter Just Oilwell

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—Toe Nail, Big Foot, Bowlegs, Hogshooter. Sound like "wanted" descriptions of old-time gunslingers? Maybe, but they're really just the names of oilfields.

Oil pools — those in the Southwest and all over the North American continent—always have had interesting and sometimes peculiar names.

Oilmen have long used their imaginations and senses of humor in deciding what to call their oilfields. Because there are so many of them—with more being discovered all the time—you soon run out of conventional names.

Every year or so, at least one organization in each oil-producing state meets to recognize the latest list of oilfield names. In Texas, the Texas Railroad Commission passes on them. In Oklahoma and Kansas, discoveries are named by nomenclature committees of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association.

The U.S. Geological Service also has a large voice in the matter in the Rocky Mountain area because of the vast amount of Federal lands there.

Oilmen, despite the high percentage of "dry holes" and disappointments, always seem to be an optimistic bunch. Perhaps that accounts for the 10 fields in Oklahoma named "Happy" something or other, including six called Happy Hills, one Happy Hollow, a Happy Star and two Happy Valleys.

The 1958 Sooner list also includes nine Pleasants, including Pleasant Hill, Pleasant Mound, Pleasant Ridge, Pleasant View and five Pleasant Valleys.

The Oil Information Committee of the American Petroleum Institute recently made a study of some of the more colorful names. Most of them weren't dreamed up out of thin air. They had—and still have—meanings.

In southern Oklahoma, there's a field named "Sholem Aleichem," after the Hebrew greeeting which means "Peace Be With You." This was habitually uttered by an oil writer to his friends in the oil business. So when they discovered a field in 1923, they gave it that name.

Toe Nail field is in Schleicher County, Texas. It received that name because Jeff Thompson, a cattleman and store owner, said he prospered due to getting a "good toe nail hold."

Big Foot field in Frio County, Texas, was named for a nearby community which, in turn, was named for one-time Texas Ranger William Alexander "Big Foot" Wallace. Wallace was well-equipped by nature to stomp out grass fires, it seems.

Bowlegs was named after a nearby town and was of Seminole Indian origin. Hogshooter Pool was named for a creek in Oklahoma along which early settlers used to shoot wild hogs. Embar was so named because cattle grazing around the discovery well carried the M Bar brand of a nearby ranch.

In Oklahoma there's the Kremlin Field, but, to even the score, there's the Liberty Field nearby.

As long as oilmen don't worry about running out of oil, there's no reason to worry about their running out of names.

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Argentine government employes contend that an eight-hour work day — with only half an hour for lunch —is going to ruin their health.

Got Hay Fever? Cave's Real Cozy

By WARD CANNEL

NEW YORK (NEA) — In answer to many questions from all over the country, it can be reported conclusively that a little progress is being made against the scourge of spring and summer — hay fever.

Here are some of the most frequently asked questions by hay fever sufferers; and answers from leading authorities in the field on this mighty battle of man against nature.

GESUNDHEIT!

Q. I hear there's a one-shot-in-the - arm treatment that cures allergy. Why are they hiding it from us?

Q. She did?

A. According to Rudy Turilli who owns the Meramec and Onandago Caverns in Missouri, caves are a very good investment, even if you don't have hay fever. People will pay instant money to see you...

Q. They will?

A. It's easier to get a mortgage on a cave than on a house, Turilli says. But he says you have to be careful to buy a live cave: one with fresh springs and stalagtites and so forth. This kind not only keeps the pollen-free, but also grows at the rate of a cubic inch every...

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — Flying bank robber Frank Sprenz, brought to earth by a Mexican cow, sat in jail today awaiting a removal hearing.

Sprenz, 29, heard U.S. Commissioner Frank V. Hill set his bond at $100,000 Wednesday. The commissioner continued a removal hearing until copies of the warrant for the arrest of the Ohio man arrived from Cincinnati. Sprenz was on the FBI's list of the 10 Most Wanted criminals.

Usually a smooth and quick talker, Sprenz refused to answer newsmen's questions when he was brought across the border from Mexico.

Mexican police nabbed him at Cozumel, a Yucatan island resort, Tuesday. He was driven to Laredo.

The balding, slender prisoner told FBI agents the airplane he had flown down the Texas coast to Mexico was wrecked April 3 when a cow got in his path on takeoff and smashed a wing. He was attempting to take off from a beach between Tampico and Veracruz.

Tree Farm System Growing Rapidly

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP) — A total of 2,998 tree farms were added to the 18-year-old American Tree Farm System in 1958 to establish a new record of growth, says American Forest Products Industries.

Chief Forester James C. McClellan of the industry organization says the farms gave the program an increase of 3,481,534 acres, bringing the year-end totals to 13,935 certified tree farms covering 48,429,451 acres. He predicts the program will add four million acres this year.

In 1900 the first National Automobile Show was held in New York City.

Bake 'Big Apple' Pie

LOCKPORT, N. Y. (UP)—Asked to come up with something unusual for a "breakfast club" radio show here, chef Joseph Ciaro of the Hotel Lox-Plaza produced a 30-pound apple pie containing almost a bushel of apples.

Bedouins Go Modern

Radios and Jeeps Replace Sheiks' Harems, Camels

BEERSHEBA, Israel (UPI) — Adventure yarns and Hollywood films have depicted the Bedouin as a dashing figure in flowing robes who looks like Rudolph Valentino and divides his time between the harem and the desert.

But, for the 15,000 Bedouins who live in Israel's Negev desert, the truth is less romantic. Even if the glossy, technicolor version were ever true, it isn't any more.

The Bedouin's way of life is changing fast, and the old order is dying.

The last big intertribal wars in the Negev ended some 70 years ago—roughly about the time the American Indians last donned their war paint for anything but ceremonial purposes—and many of the tribes are even beginning to settle down in one place, abandoning their perpetual wanderings.

CALLS FOR JEEP

Instead of saddling up his camel or handsome desert pony for a raid on an enemy encampment or on an unsuspecting caravan, today's sheik is more likely to call for his Jeep and take a member of his family to a clinic for medical treatment, or else drive into Beersheba on no more dangerous a mission than to renew his tribe's ration books.

The possession of a number of wives, up to the maximum of four at any one time permitted by Islamic law, is still a symbol of prestige. But even this practice is dying out.

Mohar—the bride-price or dowry which the husband must pay — is high, the customs of the surrounding monogamous society are being assimilated, and, in any case, polygamy has been illegal in Israel for the last seven years.

But there are new symbols, typical of the 20th century, which place a sheik on a higher level than the rank and file of his tribe.

He must own a radio, and he must have some kind of motor transport, either a car, a lorry or a station wagon.

Since some goods are still rationed in Israel, the sheik has another hold over his followers. He controls the tribe's stores of rationed foods.

And he acts on behalf of its members when it comes to the day-to-day encounters with officialdom which are a prominent feature of modern life everywhere—even in the desert.

Another change in the past decade is the provision of schools for Bedouin children. Almost all the boys attend and even a fair proportion of the girls.

PREFER PERSUASION

Although universal elementary education is compulsory in Israel, the authorities try to persuade, rather than force the tribes to send their youngsters to school, and a new generation is growing up which not only knows how to read and write Arabic, but Hebrew as well.

However much times change, there are some customs that still remain. The Bedouin tradition of hospitality is no invention.

Indeed, apart from caring for the camels, it is regarded as fitting for the males of the tribe to devote themselves to sitting with the elders and receiving visitors, leaving most of the strenuous work, such as dismantling the tents and loading them on camels, to the women and children.

When a visitor arrives, he is greeted with a warm handshake.

And there is an additional refinement: after shaking hands, guest and host place their right hand over their heart in a motion signifying heartfelt friendship and sincerity.

Next come mutual inquiries about health, accompanied by the repetition of the phrase: "Hamd'el'illah"—"Thanks be to Allah."

As they repair to one of the tents, a black, rectangular shelter which usually shows signs of having been patched and repaired many times, one of the youngsters will begin grinding fresh coffee outside and preparing it in a "briq" or coffee jar.

On special occasions, when a feast is given, a lamb will be slaughtered and dishes of mutton, mixed with rice and scraps of pittah (flat Arab bread), will be served.

The guests and leading male members of the tribe, perhaps 200 persons in all or even more, will then be seated along both sides of a rectangular tent, open along one side to let in light and air.

One dish or bowl will be set down among every four or five persons and they will eat with the fingers of their right hand, using the pittah instead of knives and forks, and rolling the rice into little balls before popping it into their mouth.

OFFERS SHEEP'S EYE

Traditionally, the sheik of the tribe will offer an eye of the sheep to his guest of honor and the latter is supposed to swallow it, uttering thanks for this great delicacy.

Not all visitors, especially non-Bedouin, appreciate this tid-bit equally, and this is another custom which is honored more in the breach than in the observance.

When each person has had his fill, the bone and gristle are thrown under the tentflaps where the dogs of the encampment come sniffing in the hope of a tasty morsel.

It isn't, really, very romantic.

The first steam locomotive to operate commercially in the U. S. was the Stourbridge Lion, which was imported from England in 1829.

59ers Planning Northern Move

Find Susitna Valley Suits Needs Better Than Kenai

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — A spokesman for the Michigan 59ers says 24 members of the Detroit-area group have decided to settle on land in the Susitna Valley area across the Susitna River from Talkeetna, 80 miles north of here.

Marino Sik and three other men who toured the Susitna Valley area on snowshoes yesterday said the region fits their needs better than the Kenai Peninsula, where they first planned on settling.

"We'll go up to Talkeetna as quickly as the Alaska railroad can get cars and get us there," Sik said. "Some of us will try to get work of some kind at Talkeetna.

"We'll live on what supplies we have, then wait until we can cross the river by boat, probably in two or three weeks."

Sik said he understood another group of Detroiters planned to leave the auto city for Alaska about June 22. He said he did not know whether the second group would settle in the Susitna Valley.

"We have staked out the land on the Susitna we think we will need," Sik said. "We are not ready to say just how much and exactly where this land is."

The 59ers, 37 strong, arrived in Anchorage last month after an arduous, 4,000-mile trip from Detroit.

They originally had planned to homestead on the Kenai Peninsula southwest of Anchorage but the Kenai site would not be large enough for them and groups to follow from Detroit.

Propose Foster Homes for Elder Patients

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A "foster parents" plan for elderly and chronically ill patients is being worked out at a muilti-million dollar hospital here.

The proposal has put new hope in the hearts of patients who have responded to treatment and rehabilitation at the John J. Kane Hospital, Allegheny County's new "model institution" for the chronically ill.

Approximately 400 of these patients are nearly completed self-sufficient and ready for discharge. But they have no place to go.

To overcome this obstacle and keep beds free for incoming patients who really need them, the hospital is developing a "foster care" plan.

The plan, still in the discussion stage, would call for a fairly self-sufficient oldster to receive $100-$125 a month from some level of state government. The patient then would be placed in a home, perhaps with a kindly couple whose children have grown up, married and moved away.

The plan has a two-way pitch. The income would help the couple make ends meet and retain their home in the face of rising costs. And the rehabilitated oldster would have a "home" and some supervision.

The intensive treatment of chronically-ill oldsters has produced some startling and dramatic results at Kane Hospital. The medical staff there believes in what it calls "comprehensive restorative service."

Example: a typical patient 70 years old might well have arteriosclerosis, impending gangrene, heart trouble, hernia and cataracts of the eye. The doctors treat all these ills.

The patient may also be socially, psychologically ill. He may have lost his home, his money, his family and friends with the passing years and vicissitudes of life.

The patient is encouraged to regain his dignity and interest in life, to dress himself, get around socially and play games, as well as do many other normal things of life.

So the oldster recovers. He is ready to go home. However, his children are either not around or are wrapped up in their own concerns.

His relief check or small annuity is not enough to allow him to live decently. He may reside in substandard rooming-houses and hang out in cheap taverns.

The return to the hospital is not long in coming.

MILWAUKEE (AP)—"Don't worry about a thing," Charles Andrews told his boss, "Go to Florida, relax and have a good time."

The boss, Charles Mansfield, took Andrews at his word and departed for Florida leaving Andrews in charge of his children's furnishings store in the suburban Bay Shore Shopping Center.

The vacation, however, turned out to be a nightmare for Andrews. First he had to call the boss and tell him that he had skidded Mansfield's car and smashed the front grill.

Then he had to telephone the sad news that a water main had broken and flooded all of the stock in the store's basement.

Finally a $300,000 fire swept the shopping center and Andrews had to break the news to Mansfield that the stock was virtually a complete loss.

Chaplin Is 70 Today

Gas Truck Smashup Kills 3, Injures 6

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP)—A gasoline truck-trailer swerved to avoid a car on the busy Santa Ana Freeway Wednesday, burst through a divider fence, smashed into a car, overturned and exploded.

The toll: three men killed, one burned critically, five others injured.

Burned to death in their smashed car were Franklin O. Carlson, 25, Russell Fischer, 45, and Walter Fulmer, 40. Eugene Megill, 30, received burns over 97 per cent of his body.

The truck driver, Donald Curell, leaped from the cab uninjured.

Randolph Kinkelaar, 41, was booked on a misdemeanor manslaughter charge. Police said his car swerved in front of the truck-trailer, which hit it and went out of control. Kinkelaar was unhurt.

Nowadays Everybody's Some Kind of Engineer

He was asked to explain: "I operate the machine which washes the dishes, and I inspect them when they come out."

More Instruments, Runways Needed

Airport Congestion Major Problem

(This is the last of a two-part series reporting on the research under way and the plans being made to insure the safety of air travelers.)

By JERRY BENNETT

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Improving airport safety conditions to meet the demands of the air travel boom is one of the major problems facing aviation exports.

For the number of planes operating each day is overtaking the ability of airports to handle them efficiently. The result, aviation experts explain, is severe traffic congestion above terminal areas which leads to the danger of collisions.

In 1957, more than 950 near misses were reported by pilots. The majority occured near airports of major cities. The Federal Aviation Agency estimates that airports will handle 22 million take-offs and landings next year. By 1963, this number is expected to hit 30 million.

Safety experts say this situation calls for more runways, taxi strips and hangars to speed up landing, servicing and take-off operations. Another solution is to install more electronic safety devices, like instrument landing systems, which help planes land in bad weather.

Most major airports are equipped with instrument landing systems. The trouble is that they are usually installed on only one runway.

Thus, in bad weather planes have to wait their turn to land for long periods of time. And when the weather is extra bad, they may have to proceed to another airport that's already loaded with scheduled flights.

The amount of money required to complete needed airport expansion is one of the biggest controversies on Capitol Hill. The Senate has approved a federal aid bill that earmarks 465 million dollars for airport improvements.

Another bill for 297 million dollars has been approved by the House Commerce Committee. But President Eisenhower believes that 200 million dollars is enough.

FAA Chief E. R. Quesada says that in 1960 his agency will spend 527 million dollars on air safety devices regardless of the outcome of the aid bill controversy. This money will be used to buy such things as additional airport surveillance radars and high intensity approach lights.

Surveillance radars reduce the chance of mid-air collisions by keeping track of the positions of all planes nearing an airport. High intensity approach lights mark a path to the runway that can be seen through a heavy overcast.

FAA's airport safety program also calls for installing more instrument landing systems.

Some aviation experts charge that the recent Lockheed Electra crash in New York might never have happened if an ILS had been on the runway that the plane was approaching. Sixty-five persons died in the crash.

An ILS is an electronic device that enables a pilot to land in low ceiling weather conditions. Ceiling is the distance from the ground to the clouds or overcast.

ILS ground equipment is divided into two parts. One part sends out a directional signal to the pilot. The other beams what amounts to an electronic pathway from the runway to to plane. These show on the pilots instrument panel in the form of two bisecting lines.

As long as the lines are centered, the pilot knows that he is heading in a direction and descending the glide path at an angle that will land him right on the runway.

FAA officials explain that by the end of the year, 15 airports will have ILS systems that will guide planes to a landing from either end of the runway. Additional ones will be installed at later dates.

TOO MUCH TRAFFIC for the runways and equipment now available are the problems faced by the tower control men at the nation's busiest airports.

Better Teaching in Mathematics Sorely Needed

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — American children would learn arithmetic faster and better if properly taught, according to Dr. Kenneth Pitzer, chemistry dean of the University of California.

In a recent study, less than one per cent of California children made as good a showing in arithmetic as youngsters of the same age in England, he said.

To show what children can achieve if they receive better instruction, Pitzer cited the acceleration program of a Richmond, Calif., elementary school, where one-third of the pupils are finishing sixth-grade arithmetic in the fourth grade and a growing number are doing ninth-grade algebra in the seventh.

Better teaching of arithmetic is badly needed to provide a basis for mathematics, a key tool of engineers and scientists, Pitzer stressed.

Blind Boy Joins Civil Air Patrol

He's Ready to Give Tough Requirements a Good Try

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—A 15-year-old boy who recently joined the Civil Air Patrol will have to work hard for the next 18 months to earn his certificate of proficiency, but odds are he'll make it despite the fact he's totally blind.

James E. Spruill, who lost his sight due to an eye ailment when he was two, admits that the requirements are tough — they include electronics, aerodynamics and math as well as drilling with his squadron and building three model planes — but he's ready to "give 'em a try."

Jimmy, a student at the Overbrook School for the Blind, became interested in electronics while reading about the subject in Braille. This led to an interest in radio and he joined a Germantown radio club. He's passed the necessary tests to show he can operate the group's transmitter and receiver.

As for aerodynamics, Jimmy explains that the "Volunteers for the Blind have already transcribed most of the CAP books into Braille and I can use wing models for a further study" of the subject. He's also learned math by Braille.

Two parts of the CAP course present more problems. One is building the model planes. "They may give me some trouble," Jimmy said, "but I'll just give them a try."

The other troublesome part is the drilling. But that's been overcome. Jimmy marches wedged between two friends, who step on his ankles when he makes a mistake.

Brigitte Just Bridge to Uninformed Mayor

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Mayor Jean Louis Vigier of Paris was visiting Phoenix. Someone asked Mayor Jack Williams of Phoenix what he and the visiting mayor woud talk about.

"Maybe, Brigitte Bardo," someone ventured.

"Bridge at Bordeaux?" Mayor Williams asked. "Is that a bridge on the River Seine?"

Develop Spray to Keep Lawns Green All Year

WARSAW, Va. (UPI)—Researchers at a state experiment station here are testing a dye-like substance that may be the answer to the problem of keeping lawns green the year around.

H. M. Carper, station director, said the green stuff is sprayed on lawns when the grass turns brown in the fall.

Carper said the spray has held up well during its winter test on Bermuda grass plots, even in heavy rainfall.

"There is no evidence so far it will rub off," he said, "and we believe the applied color will last until new growth begins."

Carper said a gallon of the dye concentrate will mix out to 12 gallons of liquid. Each gallon of spray will cover 2,500 square feet.

New Mackinac Trail Takes History Lightly

LANSING (AP) — Historical evidence to the contrary, western Michigan legislators want portions of U.S. 31 and U.S. 131 christened "The Mackinac Trail."

They pushed through a bill yesterday to establish the "trail" on U.S. 131 from the Indiana border north to Petoskey and on U.S. 31 from Petoskey to the Straits of Mackinac. It was designed partly to attract tourist attention to the straits and the cities en route.

Rep. Allison Green, GOP floor leader and an eastern Michigan man, served notice he would ask the House to reconsider the 69-25 favorable vote.

An ally, Rep. Robert S. Gilbert (R-Saginaw) lost a move to require all signs on the new route to carry the legend: "With apologies to the real Mackinac Trail which historically originates in the city of Saginaw."

Gilbert cited material gathered by Philip P. Mason, Wayne State University historian, showing the Mackinac Trail blazed by Indians ran along the eastern end of Michigan. He conceded, however, that "the old Mackinac Trail" ran between St. Ignace and Sault Ste. Marie in the Upper Peninsula.

"I think it's absolutely terrible that you should take our history right out from under us," Gilbert said.

A bill to establish a green arrow route had an easier time of it, passing 96-3 and moving to the Senate. It would run along M78 from the Indiana border to Battle Creek, north on U.S. 66 to U.S. 131, from there to Petoskey and then on U.S. 31 to the straits.

Indiana already has set up a green arrow route terminating at the Michigan border.

Dogs Eat Less When Growth Slows Down

NEW YORK (AP)—In the matter of diet, dogs outsmart many humans.

Researchers for Neutrena Mills, a dog food manufacturer, say they have found that just before reaching adulthood puppies suddenly begin eating less.

A cocker spaniel, for example, when almost full grown at 24 weeks, will drop in less than a week's time from 14 ounces of food each day to as little as 8 or 9 ounces.

The reason for the adjustment, the specialists say, is that the dog's system simply doesn't require as much nourishment once the growing cycle is completed.

The Choctaw Indian Nation of Oklahoma recently appealed to the U.S. Secretary of the Interior to permit the Choctaw people to select by ballot the Chief who will head their tribal government for the next two years.

Disease Traced to Blood Donors

Regular Givers Found Cause of Infections Bringing Jaundice

By RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (AP) — Blood from professional donors appears to be responsible for most of the jaundice-producing liver infections that follow transfusions, says a University of Chicago medical researcher.

From a study of 1894 patients, a small percentage of those transfused at the university's clinics in a 12-year period, Dr. J. Garrott Allen found 44 who developed serum hepatitis, the medical name of the disease.

Tracing the source of the blood used in each case, Dr. Allen said he found hepatitis almost negligible in the 1,152 patients who had transfusions from family donors. He addressed the American Surgical Assn. Wednesday.

The number of infections among the family donor patients was only eight. But among 311 other patients who got blood from professional donors there were 13 cases of infection — a rate about six times that of the family donor group.

The remaining 431 who got both family and professional donor blood had an even higher infection rate, with 23 cases. However, Dr. Allen's figures showed the number of infections varied with the number of transfusions given per individua.

Dr. Paul Hoxworth of Cincinnati reported similar results on another series of patients. He said one of the reasons for the high infectivity of professional donor blood is that the dnors when examined frequently refuse to admit having had an infectious disease. They do this to forestall rejection and loss of pay for the blood, he added.

Not Everybody Loves a Lover in the Spring

RYEN, N.Y. (AP)— Ten days ago a staccato knocking and banging awakened the Richard Spath household at 5 a.m.

"Good heavens," said Mrs. Spath, "whatever can that be?"

"Must be the plumbing," said her husband.

No, it wasn't the plumbing, said the plumber.

Second day: same time, same noise. Spath, called in a heating engineer. Not the heating, said the engineer.

Third day: ditto time and racket. Gas man called in. No defeat, the man said.

Fourth day: same old time and tribulation. Spath donned a robe and hurried outside. There, in the dawning, he saw the culprit: a downy woodpecker hammering like mad on the television aerial.

"Go home," "shoo!" and rocks and hand-clapping failed to scare away the bird.

Wednesday, Spath consulted the National Audubon Society. Advised the society, Turn the garden hose on him; or get a toy pop gun and frighten it; or get a fireworks permit and shoot some roman candles at it.

Spath has decided to use the hose treatment first. He'll probably get help from his wife and their two youngsters, Greg, 6, and John, 3.

That downy woodpecker isn't just a mean old cuss, said the Audubon Society. He's merely using the TV antenna as a sort of sounding board to issue a spring love call.

At any event, the spokesman continued, the hammering won't go beyond the next few weeks or so. By that time, the bird either will have found a mate or will give up. And what's more important to the Spaths, it will go away.

Banker George Craig, 70, of Wadesboro, N. C., retired and started growing pine trees. Says the pine trees are paying off better than a bank.

Bob Considine Says:

Congress of Flight Takes Man Out of World

LAS VEGAS—Aviation is the world's most restless calling. The most astounding flying machine, even an incredible dart like the B58 which can outrun the fastest fighter planes, is regarded as obsolete before it enters service with the Strategic Air Command.

The other day at the World Congress of Flight they had an American Airlines Boeing 707, a United Air Lines Douglas DC8 and a Trans World Airlines Convair 880 lined up on display, eye-popping testimony to how far we've come in commercial aviation. These superb machines will carry more people more places faster than was believed possible only a few years before.

But downtown at Convention Hall are plans and models of windowless airliners of the future which will be built to fly at 2,000 m.p.h., making it possible to take off from New York at noon, say, and arrive in Los Angeles at 10:30 that morning, Pacific Coast time.

There are dreamers and planners on hand here who even regard the awe-inspiring earth satellites as old hat. Their object is to put a man out there and bring him back without roasting him. This is project Mercury.

On display here is the capsule which will be the housing end of that great adventure. When the National Aeronautics and Space Administration let the contract to the McDonnell Aircraft Corp. of St. Louis, it laid down some interesting specifications:

1—To put a manned space capsule into orbital flight around the earth.

2—To recover successfully the capsule and its occupant.

3—To investigate the capabilities of man in this new environment.

Mercury, the capsule, which will be born aloft by an Atlas or Titan missile, is roomy enough to enclose a host of instruments, a contour couch on which the astronaut will lie to withstand the crushing acceleration of the 360,000-horsepower takeoff, and even a pantry.

WOULD ORBIT 24 HOURS

It is planned to orbit the first American in space at a height of between 100 and 150 miles and leave him up there for at least 24 hours—during which time he will be circling the earth every 80 minutes.

Recovering him is more of a problem. First, his speed of 18,000 m.p.h. must be cut, or he might remain in orbit indefinitely. This will be done by reverse rockets.

Then, as the capsule falls back to earth, surface temperatures will rise to perhaps 1,300 degrees, fahrenheit—literally a flaming meteor. He will be refrigerated, inside.

When the dropping speed decreases to 800 m.p.h. the capsule will throw out a small drag chute, to slow it down further. Then at the proper moment the big main chute will billow forth and let the whole package down gently to earth.

The moment it touches, its radio communications system will send out "Here I am" messages and tell the recovery party just where "he" is. The Mercury people hope landing is one of pinpoint accuracy—like someplace in the United States or elsewhere in North America.

And there must be men who are thinking far beyond Mercury, too.

As for the B58, which produces better than 100 per cent speed increase over the next fastest bomber, it is now being viewed as a transitional plane awaiting the arrival in 1961 or 1962 of the B70, North American's huge, long-range, 2,000-mile-an-hour job.

The General Electric jet engines for this one are just about ready and will be the most powerful in the world.

As to the project itself, it appears that the B70, which may be the last manned bomber, will be a truly American-made plane. North American has nearly 500 subcontractors spread from one end of the land to the other.

Child Keeps Eye on Investment

Young RR Stockholder Dismayed When Train Has Only Six Cars

WELLSTON, Ohio (UPI)—Five-year-old Ricky Wright is not interested in owning an electric train. He's too preoccupied with his part-ownership of a real railroad.

When he was only four, Ricky begged his father to buy him two shares of Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad stock. His dad was bewildered by the request at first, but finally yielded.

"Don't ask me how he even knew there was such a thing as stock to buy," said Ricky's father, Paul Wright, owner of a furniture business in this southern Ohio town.

"But Ricky was insistent on buying C&O. Says it's the best railroad of all."

The youngster keeps a sharp business eye on his investment, which is worth about $150. Recently he stood in front of his home watching a C&O diesel switcher roll by.

That evening the diesel's engineer, George Thompson, received an irate telephone call. Why, Ricky wanted to know, had the diesel switcher picked up only six cars? Was business bad?

Before Christmas, Ricky negotiated a one-dollar loan from a local bank so he could do some Christmas shopping. He repaid it with his dividend check.

The boy didn't want to do business with any fly-by-night bank, either. He inspected its vaults, questioned the banker, decided it was a safe institution, and opened an account.

Vicious Circle of Retaliation Gets Nowhere

GLEN BURNIE, Md. (AP)—Police Sgt. Leroy Volrath, who works the "graveyard" shift, had been in the "graveyard" shift, had been in bed only an hour or so when the telephone rang.

An attorney on the line told his wife it was imperative he speak to Volrath.

So Mrs. Volrath reluctantly woke her husband. When he learned the call dealt with a minor accident asked:

"Don't you realize I worked all night?"

"Of course," said the lawyer, "but don't you realize that this is my working day?"

Volrath hung up in anger. At 3 a.m. next morning, he phoned the attorney.

"This is Sgt. Volrath," he said. "This is my working day. Now what did you want to know about that accident?"

Mystery Lemon Pie Has Unusual Filling

Have you checked your mixing techniques lately? There are many that homemakers aren't familiar with or are afraid to do. But whether you're an expert at the folding method or not, you'll enjoy making this new type of pie.

The secret surrounding the Lemon Mystery Pie lies in folding ingredients together. For this lemon pie is not a chiffon, not a cream—it's both. A rich, yet light, satisfying dessert that will please women who prefer chiffon, men who ask for a more substantial filling, and youngsters who just like dessert.

With modern day equipment and utensils, the fold-in method is very easy to do. Follow these simple directions: cut down gently through center of batter with edge of spoon or spatula, bringing up close to bowl, then turning over, cutting down through again . . . turning bowl a quarter turn at same time. Repeat until ingredients are blended.

Enhancing the flavor of the pie is fresh lemon juice and grated rind. The first signs of freshly-grated rind appear in the crust, easily made from one stick of pie crust mix; more rind is found throughout the filling.

The pie's secret lies in the filling. Instead of beaten egg whites, meringue mix is folded into it. Imagine creamy meringue blended through the filling instead of on top . . . a delicious twist to lemon pie. And just before serving, top with whipped cream rosettes.

Lemon Mystery Pie

9" baked lemon pie shell
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 envelope unflavored gelatin (1 tbsp.)
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons grated lemon rind
1½ cups water
¼ cup butter
⅓ cup fresh lemon juice
4 to 8 drops yellow food coloring, if desired
1 packet meringue mix

Make 9" baked pie shell as directed on pie crust mix package—except before mixing, add grated rind of ½ lemon.

Combine sugar, cornstarch, gelatin, and salt in saucepan. Gradually stir in water. Add butter and bring to rolling boil, stirring constantly. Boil 1 minute. Remove from heat; stir in lemon rind, juice, and food coloring.

Chill until mixture is partially set and mounds slightly when dropped from spoon. Stir until smooth.

Prepare Meringue Mix as directed on packet for pie meringue. Fold gently into lemon filling with rubber scraper. Pile filling into baked pie shell. Chill about 3 hours or until set.

First Course Takes New Form

You're looking for an appetizer? One that will tease the tastebuds and promise the palate a rare and delightful meal ahead? Something different and yet easy to put together?

This is it. Frozen Appetizer Supreme is supremely suited to its purpose.

That's not surprising. The recipe is flavored with Angostura bitters, that blend of herbs and spices that was first formulated by the Surgeon-General in Simon Bolivar's Army. His problem was to stimulate the appetites of his men — and Angostura did it.

The frozen mixture has tang, it has interest, it's not sharp, nor sweet. It's simply a perfectly appetizing appetizer.

Frozen Appetizer Supreme

2 cups tomato juice
1½ tablespoons lemon juice
¾ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons sugar
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon Angostura aromatic bitters
1 small onion, sliced
1 stalk celery, minced
1½ teaspoons parsley, minced
1½ teaspoons chili sauce
1½ teaspoons horseradish

Combine ingredients and heat for 5 minutes. Strain and turn into freezing tray of refrigerator and freeze until of a sherbet consistency, stirring occasionally. Spoon into cocktail glasses at serving time. Serves 6-8.

Mashed Banana Gives New Taste to Fudge Cake

Jillions of cooks from Maine to California cast their ballots and the returns have just been counted. America's number one cake mix recipe is Banana Fudge Cake by a landslide. Running against five other delicious candidates, Banana Fudge was the top vote-getter on grounds of wonderful flavor, easy preparation, and delightful texture.

Banana Fudge Cake

1 package Chocolate Fudge Cake Mix
2 eggs plus water to measure 1¼ cups
¾ cup mashed, ripe banana
1 package Creamy Fudge Frosting Mix
1 3-oz. package cream cheese
¼ cup mashed banana

Place Chocolate Fudge Cake Mix in large mixer bowl. Break two eggs into a glass measuring cup; add enough water to measure 1 cup. Measure an additional ¼ cup water. Blend the liquid and ¾ cup mashed banana with the Cake Mix for 1 minute; beat 4 minutes.

Bake as directed on package. Cool; frost with Banana Fudge Frosting prepared by blending cream cheese and ¼ cup mashed banana with one package Creamy Fudge Frosting Mix.

A creamy blend of ½ cup chilled buttermilk with ½ cup vegetable-tomato juice makes a refreshing beverage — ideal for the dieter and delicious as a sandwich accompaniment.

Honor the Bride With Luscious Dessert

In planning refreshments for a bridal shower be sure to honor the bride-to-be with a rich and pretty dessert. Select an extra special recipe like this Pineapple Mousse. Irresistibly feminine, it's sure to be the stellar attraction at your shower party.

The secret behind this elegant dessert is its attractive presentation. Basically simple, it is a delightful combination of lemon-flavored gelatin, pineapple juice and whipped cream. For added fluffiness, beaten egg whites are folded into the creamy mixture.

To create a dramatic piece de resistance, select an unusual pan such as a heart-shaped spring form pan in which to mold the mousse. To create an attractive border design when it is unmolded, whole vanilla wafers are lined around the sides of the pan. The bottom of the pan is lined with a layer of vanilla wafer crumbs topped with drained crushed pineapple to form a delicious base for the mousse.

You can go all out with your imagination and create a decorative garnish with pineapple tidbits, maraschino cherries and whipped cream just before serving.

Pineapple Mousse

1 package lemon-flavored gelatin.
1 cup hot water.
Pineapple juice and water to make 1 cup.
13 vanilla wafers.
2¼ cups crushed vanilla wafers.
1½ cups (No. 2can) crushed pineapple, drained.
2 cups whipping cream.
6 egg whites.
½ cup confectioners' sugar.

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add pineapple juice and water. Chill until slightly thickened. Meanwhile line sides of greased 9-inch heart-shaped* spring form pan or a conventional round spring form pan with the whole vanilla wafers and cover bottom of pan with 2¼ cups of the crushed wafers. Then spoon drained pineapple over crumbs.

Beat slightly thickened gelatin with egg beater until foamy. Whip cream and fold into gelatin. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry; add confectioners' sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time, and continue beating until mixture will stand in peaks. Fold into gelatin mixture. Pour over crushed pineapple in pan. Sprinkle with remaining ¼ cup of crushed vanilla wafers.

Chill overnight. Just before serving, remove sides of spring form pan or lift mold from foil lined pan and decorate with bits of pineapple, maraschino cherries and whipped cream, if desired. Makes 8-12 servings.

* Or line a heart-shaped cake layer pan with aluminum foil, allowing foil to extend about 1 inch above rim.

Use Caraway Seeds

Try bleu cheese-caraway spread for a party snack. To make 1 cup spread, blend well ⅓ cup finely crumbled bleu cheese, 4 ounces cream cheese, ⅓ cup mayonnaise, 2 teaspoons whole caraway seed and ¼ teaspoon ground white pepper.

Beware Chiselers in Freezer Plans

LANSING (AP) — Michigan housewives were warned today that the mushrooming popularity of home freezer food purchase plans has hatched a new racket — substitution of low grade for high quality meats.

J. L. Littlefield, chief of the Foods and Standards division of the State Agriculture Department, reported numerous complaints of cheating by suppliers of food for home freezers.

The most common complaint, he said, is the substitution of lower grades of meat for choice beef cuts promised in contracts. Complaints of short weight in meat also have been received.

Littlefield said half a dozen complaints are being investigated, with prosecution probable, in the Grand Rapids area alone. There is reason to believe that similar cheating is going on elsewhere in the state, he said.

Fish Baked in Foil

Any epicures in the family? Sprinkle whole small fish with onion rings, sliced fresh mushrooms, salt and pepper; dot with bits of butter and wrap tightly in aluminum foil. Bake in a hot oven. Let each eater open his own portion at the table.

Brazil Nuts in Pears Team Up With Meat

NEW YORK (UPI)—A tasty accompaniment to fish or meat is made with canned pears and Brazil nuts. Drain syrup from a 29-ounce can of pear halves into a saucepan. Boil rapidly until reduced to 1 cup. Remove from heat. Add 2 tablespoons lemon juice and ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind.

Put pear halves in shallow baking dish, hollow side up. Sprinkle with ½ cup chopped Brazil nuts and 2 tablespoons brown sugar. Top with syrup. Bake in a moderate oven (350-degrees) 25 to 30 minutes. Baste occasionally. Serves 4.

Ted's Celebrates

Quarter of a Century of Food!

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

How many of you can remember the sign on the old Ted's Trailer that read, "World's Longest Hot Dog"? From all the present owners of the restaurant can discover, theirs was the first place to sell the elongated wieners. The hot dogs were made specially for them.

Ted's is currently celebrating its 25th Anniversary. From a tiny roadside stand it has grown to an organization that feeds thousands.

Back in 1934—in depression days—the original owners put up a stand in front of their house trailer and sold hot dogs and pop to motorists. During the summer rush period they had all of 10 employes. They cooked in their trailer.

Luke M. Little bought the growing business in 1938 and for many years the low wooden building at the corner of Woodward and Square Lake roads was a mecca for the hungry. Early on the morning of May 30, 1951 fire destroyed the restaurant. A ton of hot dogs went up in smoke that day.

Just a year later a new Ted's opened. In 1955 the present building was completed. Ted's staff of 120 includes 6 prep cooks, 15 grill cooks and 2 full time bakers. There are 2 complete kitchens, one for the restaurant, the other for carry-out service.

Many of the present employes have worked up in the organization. The present night manager started in high school as a pop boy. Two of the dinner cooks hired in as dishwashers and received on-the-job training for their better positions.

The head cook, Mrs. Viola Caine, has been with Ted's since 1942. When she started to work she was a general helper. In those days all the hamburger and hot dog rolls had to be slit. Potatoes had to be peeled and cut for french fries; and hamburger patties had to be molded.

Things are easier now. Take french fries, for instance. They come all peeled, sliced and blanched, then frozen. Shrimp are shelled and deveined, ready for cooking. Hot dog and hamburger buns are made on the premises.

Turkeys are boned and rolled before roasting. This makes them easier to slice. Standing rib roasts of beef come in with bone and fat trimmed off.

Although Mrs. Caine supervises in the big light kitchen, she still keeps her hand in the cooking. She always makes the chili—has made it so often she could do it in her sleep. The day we talked with her she was making vegetable soup and cooking turkey bones.

Bill Little joined us as we talked. Not long out of MSU's hotel management course, Bill gets deeper and deeper into the family business every day. There's fond affection between Mrs. Caine and the young man. She feels she had a hand in his upbringing and is just a little proud of her handiwork. She's not sure she goes along with all his new-fangled ideas though. Bill worked from the bottom up too, just like lots of the other employes. He started selling popcorn when he was still in grade school.

In the restaurant business everyone works hard. But they have fun too.

Pontiac Press Photo

A REAL PRO — Mrs. Viola Caine, head cook at Ted's restaurant, opens the refrigerator to check the day's supply of hamburgers. Mrs. Caine has been with Ted's for 17 of their 25 years. She has seen many changes in those years.

Vegetable Dish Has Man Appeal

The way to a man's heart . . . Gourmets say that asparagus is the average man's best liked green vegetable . . . and that pimiento is his favorite garnish. This simple casserole dish, which combines the two male favorites, is a sure-fire shot to the heart.

"Asparento" Casserole

1 jar (14½-oz.) asparagus spears, drained
½ cup (4 oz. jar) whole pimientos cut in strips
½ cup cracker or bread crumbs, if desired
⅓ cup milk
1 3-oz. package cream cheese
1½-oz. blue cheese

Arrange asparagus neatly in bottom of four individual greased casserole dishes. Put strips of pimiento between each spear. Make two layers this way. Heat milk and cheeses in saucepan until they form a smooth sauce and pour over asparagus and pimientos.

Top casseroles with bread crumbs and bake at 325 degrees for 25 minutes. Garnish each casserole with heart-shaped pieces of pimiento. Serves four.

Skewer cooked shrimp and pineapple chunks on toothpicks, for appetizers.

Serve Economical Eggs in Quick and Easy Ways

Here's an easy trick with eggs, easy and tasty. EGG IN A BUN. Slice a hamburger bun in half and scoop out the center. Butter generously. Break an egg into the cavity; sprinkle with grated cheese. Bake in moderate oven until egg is set.

Another quick and easy egg dish: EGGS AND RICE. Prepare your favorite white sauce and flavor it with onion and celery. Cook enough rice to serve your family. Poach two eggs for each person. Heap steaming hot rice onto a plate alongside the eggs.

CHEESE AND MUSHRUMPES PIE — It's not a misspelling, just an old-English way of spelling mushrooms. But there's nothing old or out-of-date about this delicious broccoli and mushroom pie, served with a cheese sauce. Isn't it pretty to look at too?

Danish Blue Cheese Goes With Mushrumpes

No, No, No! Don't re-spell the word, and think we're slightly 'fey' . . . this spelling is pure 16th century, and to be found in a delightful couplet by Robert Southwell — 1955 — as follows:

. . . "He that high growth on cedars did bestow Gave also lowly mushrumpes leave to grow . . ."

It's certainly a more amusing spelling than our efficient 20th Century one, more vivid, too. But 'lowly' though the mushroom may have been, their use as food dates back to furthest antiquity. Archeologists who unearthed treasures in the ancient city of Pompeii, (buried in lava from an eruption of Mount Vesuvius in 79 A.D.) found pictures of mushrooms on the walls of one of the houses.

Authorities who have made the study of the mushroom their life work write "throughout the ages superstition has woven a web of fantastic legends about mushrooms . . . they were considered to be elves, fairies, witches" . . and the bright green grass in which they grew were named "fairy circles" . . . and their name is thought to originate from the French word — mousseron, meaning moss, because the mushrooms grew in the thick green mossy grass.

But no matter what their origin, their spelling, their history or their legends, the 'lowly' mushroom, parasite though it is, remains one of the most popular foods of the modern world. Today it is prized, as it evidently was from time immemorial, for its delicate flavor, its succulence, and its versatility.

In today's recipe for a Cheese and Mushroom 'Pie' these two foods (of antiquity) combine for the most ultra up-to-date luncheon or supper dish for a springtime meal.

Danish Blue Cheese and Mushrumpes Pie

½ cup Danish Blue Cheese, crumbled
1 package quick-frozen broccoli, cooked until just tender
1 pound fresh mushrumpes (mushrooms) (about 20)
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons minced onion
⅛ cup milk
Salt, pepper, paprika to taste
¼ cup melted butter or salad oil (to brush tops of mushrooms)

Wash mushrooms, remove stems, chop stems finely. Saute in butter and onion until tender, but not browned, season to taste, cool slightly. Blend in milk and cheese; mix well. Pour mixture over broccoli.

Stand mushrooms, crowns up, in casserole, as illustrated in food photograph. Brush with butter. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 10-15 minutes . . . or until mushrooms are tender. Serve with cheese pimiento sauce.

Cheese Pimiento Sauce

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
Salt, pepper to taste

Add: 1 Cup Danish Blue Cheese, crumbled. Cook mixture over hot, but not boiling water until cheese melts (about 1 min.). Add: ½ cup chopped pimiento.

Pancakes Rich in Protein

Start the day with a smile and a peanut. Of course you'll want more than that for breakfast, because nutrition experts generally are telling us these days that most of us don't eat as much as we should to get a good start on the day's work.

The smile will come if you try a recipe suggested by home economists of the U.. Department of Agriculture. Peanut-cornmeal griddlecakes. Cornmeal we have with us always, even though most of us don't use as much of it as greatgrandmother did. And peanuts are one of the Plentiful Foods listed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. So the principal ingredients are plentiful, and loaded with energy-providing nourishment.

To make Peanut-Cornmeal Griddlecakes, combine 1 cup each of cornmeal and flour with 2 teaspoons of baking powder and 1 tablespoon of sugar and 1 teaspoon of salt. Sift all these ingredients. Combine 2 tablespoons of peanut butter with 1 egg thoroughly beaten and 1¼ cups of milk. Add the liquid ingredients to the dry mixture and stir just enough to moisten the flour. That's your batter, enough for about four servings.

Drop it onto a greased griddle or frying pan, a spoonful at a time. Fry slowly until the surface is covered with bubbles; turn and cook until the bottom side is brown. Serve with honey, syrup or your own favorite liquid sweetener.

You Need Only a Bit of Leftover Poultry

Good way to use a small amount of leftover cooked poultry.

Mary's Sandwiches

1 cup finely ground cooked chicken or turkey meat and giblets (lightly packed)
1 small onion (finely ground)
¼ cup finely diced celery
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
½ teaspoon curry powder
Salt
Pepper
Sliced bread
Butter or margarine

Mix ground chicken, ground onion, celery, mayonnaise, curry powder and salt and pepper to taste. Makes about 1 cup. Use as filling for sandwiches between slices of buttered bread.

Ginger Baked Carrots

A real dinnertime surprise is Ginger Baked Carrots. Put ¼ cup liquid from canned carrots and the drained carrots in a shallow baking dish. Mix gingersnap cooky crumbs with some melted butter; sprinkle over carrots. Bake in a moderate oven 15 to 20 minutes, until carrots are heated.

1-14—LIGHT

Combine 1½ cups undrained crushed pineapple with 16 marshmallows and heat over hot water until marshmallows are dissolved. Cool until partially set. Fold in ½ cup whipped cream and chill thoroughly. Serves 6.

Bake Creamy Vegetables With Lemon, Cheese

Next time you run out of "vegetable ideas," here's a quickie for you to try: Cook your canned or frozen vegetables according to package directions. Add a squeeze of fresh lemon juice and put into a buttered flat casserole.

Make a medium white sauce or use the convenient canned white sauce and add 1 egg yolk and 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice, blending thoroughly. Pour over vegetables and sprinkle with grated cheddar cheese. Bake in 350-degree oven until cheese melts.

PROCTER & GAMBLE

A SURE WINNER—The hostess, who makes her opening bid to please the foursome—Bridge Sandwiches—will be delighted with the response. Winning points are equally distributed between the bridge symbols, cut from sliced enriched bread, and the fillings: a shrimp mixture and a cream cheese-olive-nut spread.

Pineapple and Cheese Cap a Hamburger

You can serve hamburgers often if you dress them up with interesting touches such as are used in these extra moist and flavorful Pine-Burgers: Broil thin patties of ground beef and drained pineapple slices together.

When meat is done, lay a slice of Cheddar cheese over each hot pineapple slice and broil just enough longer to melt it slightly. Transfer to hot plate, top with meat patty. Serve with a toasted roll and a tossed green salad for a quick but satisfying supper.

Hostess' Winning Hand Holds Fancy Sandwiches

The hostess, who makes her opening bid to please the foursome—Bridge Sandwiches—will be delighted with the response. Each guest will follow suit in accepting seconds to learn the strategy of the trick of the day, the toasty topping. Third time around reveals it to be an anchovy butter spread on the top bread slice, before the sandwiches were quickly toasted in the oven.

Winning points are equally distributed between the bridge symbols cut from sliced enriched bread and the sandwich fillings: a shrimp mixture and a cream cheese-olive-nut spread.

This fair lady luncheon will be complete when sandwiches are accompanied by a fruit salad, or a simple dessert, and plenty of hot coffee or tea.

Bridge Sandwiches

24 slices enriched bread
1 (3-ounce) package cream cheese
2 tablespoons chopped stuffed olives
2 tablespoons chopped nuts
½ cup chopped cooked shrimp
2 teaspoons minced onion
1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons mayonnaise or salad dressing
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
1 teaspoon anchovy paste

With large (about 3½-inch) cookie cutters, in the shapes of playing card symbols, make 6 cutouts with each cutter from as many slices of bread (24).

Combine cream cheese, olives and nuts. Spread 1 tablespoon of cream cheese mixture on 8 cutouts; using 2 of each symbol.

Combine shrimp, onion, lemon juice and mayonnaise. Spread 1 tablespoon of shrimp mixture on 8 similar cutouts. Place shrimp layers on matching cream cheese layers. Top with matching bread layers.

Combine butter and anchovy paste. Brush anchovy butter on tops and sides of sandwiches. Place on a cookie sheet. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees) for five minutes. Serve hot. Yield: 8 Bridge Sandwiches.

Pineapples, Strawberries to Tempt You This Week

Do you wheel through the grocery store choosing this and that with little regard to seasonal availability and price? If you shop like this, you spend more family dollars for food than is really necessary, remarks the MSU Marketing Agent. The smart shopper is alert to present and predicted food situations; studies prices and uses current marketing information.

A look at produce counters will tell you there are more strawberries this week. Prices are a little lower too. Large No. 8 size pineapples are reminders that April, May and June are peak months for this fresh fruit. Although more asparagus is now going to canneries good supplies are arriving from California in remarkably fine condition. Increasing supply is the reason for a noticeable price drop on cucumbers.

Pork, poultry and beef are leaders in the meat department at this time. By shopping for meats twice each week, one can take advantage of special prices on a number of cuts.

Eggs provide the same high quality protein found in meats and fish. If you need to trim protein cost, two large size eggs for as little as 6½ cents are much less than most servings of meat.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

Will you have fresh or frozen strawberries? As the fresh berry season gets under way, you will find more sales of frozen berries. The fresh pint will yield 3 to 4 servings depending upon appetites and waste; the 10-ounce frozen package will serve 2 to 3 people. Fresh Louisiana berries are large in size and have fair to good color.

Cabbage and carrots are fine vegetable value when you consider the food nutrients you get for the money spent. Green and yellow are color clues to valuable minerals and vitamins needed in the diet.

The quality variation in peppers, green beans and tomatoes and leafy vegetables is due to recent rains in growing areas.

How do you choose a fresh pineapple? Choose one that is ripe or nearly ripe. If too immature when picked, a pineapple may not ripen. Look for a pineapple that is fresh, clean and heavy for its size. Flat hollow eyes assure sweet flavor.

Color varies from yellow to yellow-orange depending upon the variety. A fragrant odor and top spires that pull out easily indicate ripeness. Signs of decay usually appear first at the base of the fruit. Look the pineapple over for soft watery areas or signs of other defects.

What the family likes may be one guide for choosing meat, but it should not be the only one. Grade or quality, cost per serving and your preparation plan enter into your decision.

Pork is still the supply leader in meats. Fresh Boston Butt at 16 to 18 cents a serving is one of the most reasonably priced choices. Steaks cut from the Boston butt are 18 to 23 cents per serving.

Canned ham is an attention getter with the large size, weighing about ten pounds, the best value on a cost per serving basis. Since canned ham has no bone or skin, a pound will serve four people for 17 to 25 cents each this week. Look for and heed the word "REFRIGERATE" on most canned ham labels. Canned hams should not be frozen.

Bacon, roll sausage and liver are thrifty pork choices.

Poultry is in the news again. A larger supply of broilers and turkeys than last year at this time is related to the current emphasis and prices. Breeder turkey hens have started joining other turkeys on the market.

These older birds are excellent flavored, but need a different type of cooking than turkeys marked "Young." Use moist heat—steam or stewing — and allow a little longer cooking time for the breeder hen turkey.

Want more meat variety at reasonable prices? Then you might check these: hamburger, liver, frankfurters, perch, smelt, lamb breast and shoulder.

BAKED APPLE-CORN WITH BACON — This skillet or casserole dish is a little like a souffle. It is hearty enough to be the main course of a meal. Bits of bacon and corn add interest to the smooth texture.

Bake Main Dish in Table Skillet

Along with the cheery notes of spring come fresh hopes, eager plans, budding gardens, gay clothes . . . and new dishes that are fun to serve and to eat. This Baked Apple-Corn with Bacon is one example. It's the mainstay of a meal—simple to build around.

Baked Apple-Corn with Bacon has plenty of good, satisfying egg nourishment tucked into it. And flavor! Crumbles of bacon mixed all through, with more bacon laid in crisp strips on top, the zest of canned apple sauce, of sweet corn nubbins and little bits and pieces of pimiento.

Serve the dish hot at the table right from your electric skillet if you wish—or bring it still huffing and puffing in a casserole direct from the oven. With it offer salad or green vegetable and crusty rolls. And there's a springtime supper or luncheon for you, savory, flavory and welcome.

You will realize, too, how easy the dish is to make as you follow these simple step-by-step directions:

Baked Apple-Corn With Bacon

½ lb. bacon strips
3 eggs, separated
2 cups canned apple sauce
1 17-oz. can cream-style corn
1¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ cup diced pimiento

Saute bacon strips until crisp, drain strips on paper towel. Beat egg yolks; add apple sauce and corn. Sift together flour, salt and baking powder; add to apple sauce mixture. Crumble bacon; add with pimiento. Beat egg whites stiff with rotary beater; fold in.

Pour into a greased electric skillet; bake at 330 degrees, about 2½ hours or until puffed and set. Oor pour into greased 2-quart baking dish or casserole. Bake at 350 degrees, in the oven for 60-70 minutes, or until set. Makes 6-8 servings.

Spice Fruit Cup With Rosy Syrup

It's cranberry juice cocktail time. Time to blend cranberry juice with spices to make this unusual syrup to pour over fresh fruit cup or canned fruit at dessert time. Such a pretty color, too.

Spiced Cranberry Syrup

1 pint cranberry juice cocktail
½ cup sugar
1 stick cinnamon
Several whole cloves
2 lemon slices

Mix ingredients together in saucepan. Bring to a boil, and simmer 5 minutes. Chill. Remove cinnamon, cloves and lemon. Spoon over fresh fruit cup or canned fruits at serving time.

Stuff Big Apples With Raisins Before Baking

These apples have orange flavor and a light raisin stuffing.

Orange-Raisin Baked Apples

4 very large (2½ pounds) baking apples
½ cup light seedless raisins (rinsed in hot water and drained)
½ cup sugar
½ cup water
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
¼ cup orange juice
Salt
1 teaspoon butter or margarine

Method: Core apples without cutting through bottom; remove upper third of peeling from each. Stuff core cavities with raisins.

In a small saucepan stir together over low heat the sugar, water, orange rind and juice, a dash of salt and butter; when sugar dissolves, bring to a boil; pour over apples. Bake in moderate (375 degrees) oven, basting occasionally, until apples are soft through—about 1 hour.

Remove apples to serving dish; spoon syrup over them. Serve warm or cold. Makes 4 large servings

Sniff Them First

Unless you use large quantities of herbs and spices, the small containers are the wisest choice, reminds the Marketing Information Agent. If you have had some spices and herbs for more than six months, better give them the "nose" test. Simply take off the covers and smell. If any have lost their good fresh odor, it's time to buy a new supply.

Weather Decides Temperature of Meal

The changing seasons often produce extremes of hot or cold — and sometimes both — all in the same day. For the homemaker who feels the mood of the menu should fit the mood of the weather it might be well to keep in mind that many foods may be served either hot or cold.

Soup is especially convertible. Piping hot, or thoroughly chilled, it is a delicious addition to any menu. In the spring, flavorful cream of chicken soup is given a golden color and unusual taste with the addition of a small amount of curry or saffron, both as suggestive of spring in color as a daffodil.

Here, Chicken-Change-About Soup (hot or cold) is topped with slivered nuts for the final fillip that makes soup in the springtime something special. Asparagus and ham, both signs of spring in their own right, are here combined in easy-to-prepare "bundles." Plain toast triangles and a relish tray help round out the menu.

Dessert, like the soup, can be matched to changeable weather. An easy-mix angel cake is topped with a rosy raspberry glaze or can be served with a hot raspberry sauce spooned over each serving.

Change-About Menu

Chicken-Change-About Soup
Asparagus-Ham Bundles
Toast Triangles Relish Tray
Angel Cake with Raspberry Topping

Chicken-Change-About Soup

2 cans (10½ ounces each) condensed cream of chicken soup
2 soup cans water
¼ teaspoon curry powder or ⅛ teaspoon saffron
¼ cup chopped or slivered toasted nuts

TO SERVE HOT: In saucepan, blend soup, water, and seasoning. Heat thoroughly, stirring often. Pour into cups or mugs. Sprinkle generously with nuts. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

TO SERVE COLD: Combine all ingredients above; place in bowl in refrigerator to chill thoroughly about 4 hours. Pour into cups or mugs to serve. Sprinkle generously with nuts.

Chilled Asparagus-Ham Bundles

1 package frozen asparagus spears or 1½ pounds fresh asparagus, cooked and drained
4 large slices thinly sliced boiled ham
1 cup mayonnaise
¼ cup cream or milk
¼ cup prepared mustard
Paprika

Arrange asparagus spears in 4 groups of about 7 stalks each; wrap a ham slice around each bundle and chill in refrigerator until ready to serve. Blend mayonnaise with remaining ingredients and mix well with fork. Keep refrigerated until serving time then pour asparagus bundles arranged on a bed of lettuce. Sprinkle with paprika if desired. Makes 4 servings.

Raspberry Glaze

2 tablespoons soft butter or margarine
1 egg, beaten
½ teaspoon vanilla
3 cups sifted confectioners' sugar (powdered)
½ cup crushed, thawed frozen raspberries

Cream butter or margarine; add egg and vanilla. Add sugar and berries alternately, stirring after each addition. Makes enough glaze for a 10" angel cake.

Hot Raspberry Sauce

1 package (10 ounces) frozen raspberries, thawed
¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 tablespoon cold water

Combine raspberries and sugar in a saucepan; heat slowly until mixture comes to a boil. Mix cornstarch and water; add to raspberry mixture. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and clears. Serve hot on slices of your favorite angel food cake. Makes about 1½ cups sauce.

Lady Fingers Are Mocha Filled

Few recipes are what you'd call whimsical, but here's one that really is! It's Mocha Choc-a-Bloc—a delightful, chocolatey structure of criss-crossed lady fingers served a la mode. It's heavenly with coffee ice cream—and, of course, with steaming coffee, too!

Mocha Choc-A-Bloc

½ lb. sweet cooking chocolate
¼ cup strong coffee
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 pkg. lady fingers (12)

Melt chocolate over hot water. Add coffee and stir until smooth. Pour a little chocolate mixture on egg yolks and blend. Return to remaining chocolate mixture. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened. Cool to room temperature.

Split lady fingers. Place 3 halves close together and spread with chocolate mixture. Top with 3 lady finger halves placed crosswise to first layer and spread with chocolate mixture. Repeat until lady fingers are all used. Spread remaining chocolate mixture on sides.

Chill. Cut in 4 to 6 slices and top with coffee ice cream. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Blend Trio of Crumbs for Peach Creme Royale

Looking for a dessert that is light, but not lacking in body . . . rich, but not too cloyingly sweet? Try Peach Creme Royale — a dessert that men, especially, clamour for.

Peach Creme Royale is definitely a refrigerator dessert, the type that requires little work at the range. It can be prepared well ahead of serving time too, with a minimum of preparation.

This elegant dessert consists of layers of crumbs and whipped cream. Granted there are other ingredients too, which is why it is so completely outstanding in the refrigerator dessert line. The crumbs, for instance, consist of three different kinds . . . chocolate wafer cookies, vanilla wafer cookies and graham crackers, all thoroughly blended with melted butter. The butter not only binds the cooky crumbs together, but adds its own inimitable flavor.

And the whipped cream? It's out of this world. To give it added body, melted marshmallows are added. Then to cut the sweetness and lend tang, lemon and orange juice are blended into the melted marshmallow. The final surprise element is the addition of peaches, blended right into the marshmallow-juice mixture and finally the whipped cream.

Peach Creme Royale

1½ cups crushed chocolate wafer cookies
1½ cups crushed vanilla wafer cookies
2 cups crushed graham crackers
½ cup (1 stick) butter, melted
½ pound marshmallows, miniature-type or quartered
2 tablespoons orange juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 cups (1 lb 14 oz. can) drained and diced Freestone peaches
1 pint whipping cream

Mix together chocolate cooky, vanilla cooky and graham cracker crumbs thoroughly with melted butter. Press one-third of crumb mixture firmly in bottom of dish; set aside remainder.

In a saucepan over low heat, cook marshmallows with orange and lemon juice until melted; cool. Stir in peaches.

Whip cream until almost stiff; fold peach-marshmallow mixture into it. Pour half of this into pan, cover with one-third of crumb mixture, pour rest of Creme over this and finally, cover with remaining one-third of crumb mixture. Chill at least two hours or overnight. Serves 9 generously.

PEACH CREME ROYALE — This elegant dessert is as delicious as it looks. Double layered, it has three different kinds of crumbs in the base and top. Lemon and orange juice as well as diced canned peaches make the whipped cream-marshmallow layer just yummy.

Pretty Icing Covers Strawberry Cake

Good frosting for a new cake mix.

Frosted Strawberry Angelfood

1 package (15 ounces) strawberry angelfood cake mix
6 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 cups sifted confectioners sugar
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
3 tablespoons orange juice
1 teaspoon vanilla
Chocolate sprinkles

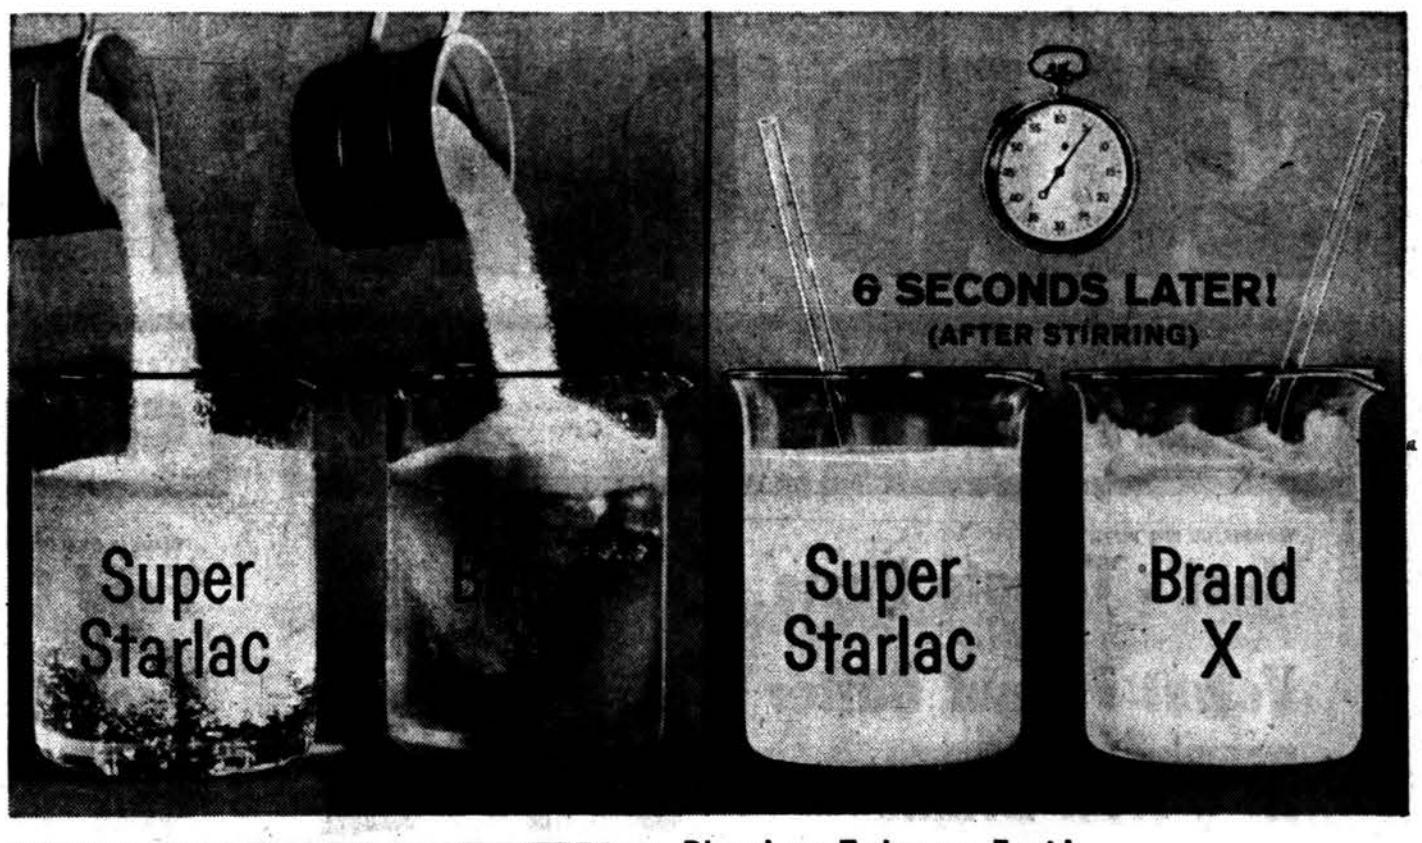

Make up cake according to package directions in 10-inch tube pan; cool and turn out. Cream butter with 2 cups of the sugar; mix in remaining 1 cup sugar and grated rind. Beat in orange juice and vanilla. Frost top and sides of the cake; cover with chocolate sprinkles.

Lemon Lime Drink Used to Glaze Smoked Pork

Put pennies in the bank by serving thrifty meals in this budget-pinching season of the year. Hearty, appetizing meals can be prepared inexpensively for family and guests.

Since the meat course of dinner is usually the most expensive, select one of the thriftier meat cuts and dress it up with seasonings and garnish. Here is an economical menu with smoked pork shoulder butt as the main course:

Lemon-lime Glazed Smoked Pork Butt
Buttered Baked Potatoes
Herbed Green Beans
Head Lettuce Salad
Whole Wheat Bread
Chocolate Custard Beverage

With all the good smoked flavor of ham, the boneless pork butt can be glazed as a ham. Easy and delicious, lemon-lime flavored glaze is a natural flavor accent to the meat. Made with lemon-lime carbonated beverage, the glaze is basted over the meat as it bakes. Natural oils from lemons and limes flavor the beverage for its unique ingredient uses.

Lemon-Lime Glazed Smoked Pork Butt

1 small boneless smoked pork shoulder butts
6 whole cloves
2 bay leaves
1 medium onion, sliced
1 cup brown sugar
1 7-ounce lemon-lime carbonated beverage
1 small lemon, sliced

Place pork in a deep pan and add water to cover. Add cloves, bay leaves and onion. Cook over low heat until meat is tender, allowing about 45 minutes per pound cooking time. Remove from water and place on a rack in a shallow pan.

Moisten brown sugar with a few tablespoons of lemon-lime carbonated beverage and spread over meat. Anchor lemon slices on top of meat with picks. Baste meat with a few spoons of the beverage and bake in a 350-degree oven for ½ hour, basting every 10 minutes with remaining beverage. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Avocado Appetizer

Dice a firm but ripe avocado and arrange in sherbet glasses. Pour a dressing of chili sauce or catchup seasoned with Worcestershire sauce over the avocado. Serve as a first course with hot French bread.

Extra Special Way to Fix Green Beans

This green-bean recipe is so good it's extra-special!

Western Green Beans

1 can (1 pound) bluelake variety whole green beans
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
½ cup finely chopped onion
1 tablespoon flour
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon salt
Pepper
½ cup chopped ripe olives

Drain beans; cook bean liquid, boiling gently, until you have ¾ cup. Melt butter in a 1-quart saucepan; add onion and cook gently for about 5 minutes. Stir in flour, mustard, salt and pepper. Add ¾ cup bean liquid; cook and stir constantly until boiling and slightly thickened. Add drained beans and olives; reheat. Makes 4 servings.

If you bake a lot, you'll find it convenient to have both a 1-cup and a 4-cup flour sifter in your kitchen.

Swipe It From Baby

Consider some of the flavorful uses for prune puree . . . in whips, fruit souffles, combined with whipped cream as toppings, mixed through dry cereals, in cake fillings . . . just to mention a few. And for the puree all you need do is open a can or jar of baby strained prunes or junior chopped prunes. It's as easy as that.

To prevent bacon from sticking to a frying pan, put the slices in a cold pan, then turn on heat.

Consult Marriage Counselor — Abby

14 Years Is Much Too Long to 'Cover Up' for Husband

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: For years (14 to be exact) I've been covering up for my husband for the sake of my children, and now I am beginning to wonder if I've been doing the right thing. He's always had other women (one at a time) and when he'd stay out all night I'd say, "Dad has gone on a business trip."

ABBY

"Everyone thinks he is an honorable family man and he certainly doesn't deserve the good reputation he enjoys. I spoke to my minister about this three years ago and he said given time he'd straighten out. But nothing has changed. Should I continue to cover up for him or force a showdown?"

TIRED OF COVERING

DEAR TIRED: "Covering up" for a cheating husband is like buying a tweed coat to cure dandruff. Unless you insist on a better marriage and a fulltime husband, he'll assume you don't miss it and he'll make no effort to change. Don't expose him to the children, but do see a marriage counselor.

"DEAR ABBY: After going together for six years my boy friend and I planned to be married at a simple ceremony at the City Hall during my lunch hour on Friday. I missed my bus and got there about 40 minutes late. He and his buddy were later than I was and when he showed up I noticed his eyes were blurry and he smelled like a brewery.

"I said, 'I am not marrying any man in that condition!' And I didn't stay to get married either. Marriage to me is something sacred even if I can't afford a fancy church wedding. I think the least he could have done was stay sober. Was I wrong?"

NOT MARRIED

DEAR NOT: Not by a long shot!

"DEAR ABBY: What would you do if you had a brother 14 years old and you were 11 and he kept kicking you in bed and you told your mother and she got up and said, 'You quit kicking him!' and as soon as she went back to bed he started kicking you again and then you couldn't stand it any longer so you got your father out of bed and he came in and gave both of you a good licking right through all the covers and everything?"

MAD

DEAR MAD: I'd remember this experience if I were you. It's not the fairest way to settle differences between two quarreling children's but it's by far the most effective.

"DEAR ABBY: I am a married lady. I was invited by a married couple to go to a show. How should we have been sitting in the show? Should the wife have sat between me and her husband or should the husband have sat between me and his wife?"

GUEST

DEAR GUEST: The husband should have sat between you and his wife. A "guest" should never come between a woman and her husband.

St. Vincent de Paul Church was the scene of the Saturday morning wedding of Carol LaBarge and Jesse Ramirez.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. E. J. LaBarge of

MRS. JESSE RAMIREZ

Crescent drive and Mr. and Mrs. Jesus Ramirez of Rockwell street.

The bride wore a ballerina-length gown of nylon with a bateau neckline and three-quarter-length sleeves.

Maid of honor was Rebecca Ramirez. Bridesmaids were Charlene Walton and Brenda Voynar.

They wore ballerina-length gowns —the maid of honor's in blue and bridesmaid's in pink. Flower girl Theresa Shelton wore a pastel green dress.

John Guzman was best man. Ushers were Norman Hickey and Joseph Ramirez.

A wedding breakfast was held at Malta Temple, and an open house that afternoon at the home of the bride's parents.

The couple will live on Park place.

Protect Families From Illness

It's true that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

So, if someone in your home "comes down with something," protect the other family members by washing the patient's dishes separately — making sure to use hot soap or detergent suds and a scalding rinse.

What Young People Think

Snacks, Music, TV Ease Study Sessions

By EUGENE GILBERT
Gilbert Youth Research Co.

Homework time: OK, then let's eat!

For 60 per cent of the nation's teenagers, home work provides not only food for thought but also an opportunity to gobble a late snack.

"Sure I eat while I'm studying," says Victor Etirhard of Hartford, Conn. "It makes for a break in tensions."

Raiding the ice box while hitting the books is justified, in the opinion of 17-year-old Linda Whycoff of Jamaica Plain, Mass., because it "aids concentration."

"Yes indeed," agrees 16-year-old Kathy Gibbs of Duluth, Minn., "a snack while studying refreshes me."

Others whom our interviewers contacted in a nationwide survey of teenage study habits had less clinical reasons for nourishing both mind and body during the home study period.

ONE GOOD REASON

"I eat," replied 18-year-old Raymond Fone of St. Louis, "because I get hungry."

Similarly, 14-year-old Sue Rohler of Detroit explained that she mixes snacks with studies because "I like to eat."

Abraham Lincoln, doing his sums on a crude slate by the light of a fireplace, would be sadly out of date academically were he alive today.

For, in addition to the studious snack, young modern scholars have turned home study chores into a minor social grace, replete with music, friends and entertainment.

More than half of the teenagers interviewed required some sort of background noise to accompany their studies—and the crackling of an open fire was not what they had in mind.

Twenty-three per cent studied with the radio on.

Sixteen per cent were soothed by the sounds of the hi-fi or record player.

And 12 per cent performed the amazing feat of watching television and studying at the same time.

In all, 51 per cent were serenaded in some form or other while they studied.

"The radio makes studying easier, it relaxes me," explained 15-year-old Steven Leffert of Los Angeles.

"The radio doesn't bother me, neither does the television," said 18-year-old Sandra Dee of Boston. "It's all a matter of concentration."

Carol Grieg, 17, of Augusta, Maine, says the radio is a help in doing home work "because I like to hear music while I'm studying."

'QUIET, PLEASE!'

For 16-year-old Sue Kingsley of Detroit, background music is effective only with certain subjects—"doing math or typing, the radio helps, but with the TV on I can't think."

The 49 per cent who studied without benefit of radio, hi-fi or television were pretty much agreed that they studied best when it was quiet.

"Music of any kind disturbs my concentration," commented 14-year-old Nancy Johnson of Vassalboro, Maine.

One boy, who evidently went to a noisy school, said he turned on the television while cramming for an examination "to stimulate actual test condition with noise."

And, for a minority of teenagers, the lonely scholar need not be lonely any longer. Nearly one out of every 10 studied in the company of another person. For 7 per cent, this meant a boy friend or girl friend.

One per cent deliberately chose "someone smarter" to help with their homework, and less than 1 per cent chose "someone dumber."

Many fewer than one per cent indicated that they studied with the help of either parent, a custom that apparently is vanishing.

Despite — or perhaps because of — the social and musically relaxing approach to homework, few teenagers today have to be driven to their books.

Only 16 per cent said they had to be urged by parents or teachers to do work outside of class, while an overwhelming 84 per cent answered that they approached their studies willingly and on their own.

Most of those who went right at the books without pressure from parents or teachers were motivated by the desire to enter college.

"I study on my own," answered 17-year-old Judie Mendall of Augusta, Maine, "because I have finally realized that I must have good grades to go on to college."

"If I don't do my own studying," agreed 17-year-old Fayth Carlson of Duluth, "I am only hurting myself."

NEEDS A PUSH

But 17-year-old Donald Harms of Detroit said he appreciated a "push" every now and then from his teachers: "I am capable of doing better than I do."

Homework accompanied by food and music seems to have had no ill effects on the grades achieved by most teenagers. In fact, it may have helped them, judging from teenagers' estimates of their own academic standing.

Of those interviewed, 13 per cent said on the whole they averaged "A" grades, 63 per cent said they averaged "B" grades, 17 per cent put themselves in the "C" category, and only 7 per cent landed in the "D" grades.

And many of those below the "A" category though themselves capable of better work. B-student Wendy Burk of Washington, D. C., said she was confident she could "do better with more effort." Similarly, C-student Sue Rohler of Detroit commented she "should do better than that."

B-student Jerry Pennemen of Sac City, Iowa, looked at things from the opposite end of the grading ladder. "I've done worse," he commented.

Study habits may have changed over the years, but study hours remain fairly constant.

Eight out of 10 boys and girls said they did most of their homework in the evening hours; one out of 10 got up early in the morning before school, and somewhat less than that number managed to get all or most of their homework done in school study halls.

From the comments, it appears that many teenagers regard the early morning hours as the best time to study, but habit and lack of will power prevent them from changing over from the customary night hours.

"In the morning my mind is fresher, but I usually study at night so I can sleep later," said Nancy Keim, 18, of Washington, D. C.

"I do most of my studying at night, but I guess it's just a habit," said 16-year-old Marcia Johnson of Duluth.

Fifteen-year-old David McLeod of Detroit said he occasionally studied in the morning, "but only if I procrastinated the night before."

"I do my studying at night because it's the only free time I have," answered busy Linda McLean, 18, of Seattle.

Without a doubt the most unusual study habit revealed in the survey belonged to 17-year-old Mary Farmer of Sac City, Iowa.

Styles for Men

Comfort Now Considered

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Men today are much more interested in avoiding or losing overweight than they once were. No man ever enjoyed getting flabby muscles or acquiring a bay window. Men always had more interest in their appearance than they admitted. Through the years thousands of them have written to me to ask how to lose those extra pounds.

Today the determination to hold the correct weight has been taken out of the vanity category and has become good, hard common sense in view of the statistics concerning the damaging effects of obesity. The up to date executive no longer feels that he can afford the risks of overweight, to say nothing of the way it makes him look.

It is no longer sissy for a man to want to look his best. Alert and intelligent men everywhere are realizing the importance of correct poundage and correct dress in their fight for success. Men today are dressing more comfortably and more attractively.

Speaking of comfort, I had no idea of the great change which has been made in the weight of man's clothing until I attended the annual meeting of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers in Chicago recently.

Do you know that men's sports clothes are one-half as heavy today as they once were—that a man's suit today is at least one pound lighter than the one his father wore—that there are some tropical suits which weigh less than six ounces!

And here is a note for the little woman! Some of the best looking suits I saw can be put right in the washing machine and some require no ironing at all.

While in Chicago I interviewed a couple of experts from The American Institute of Men's and Boy's Wear to get some help for the men who read this column.

Judging by the men I have known, very few of the opposite sex have any idea of the style hat which is best for them. Therefore, many of them just buy anything the salesman shows.

Here is what the experts told me. If you are the tall, lean, narrow-faced type, wear a hat with a low crown and a medium width brim. If you have a very thin face, wear a hat with a narrow brim and a tapered crown with a wide band.

If you are stocky and fairly full-faced try a full or squared crown of moderate height with a medium wide brim. If you have a full, big-featured face, wear medium height crowns and somewhat wider brims, snapped full from side to side.

When I asked Bill Ullmann, associate editor of Men's Wear magazine what to tell you he said, "Of course dark colors are slimming to men as they are to women. Also, a vest makes a man look much thinner."

He told me that overweight men are likely to make the same mistake women do when they have their clothes fitted too tightly. Slim lines or cuts are good but they should not be too closely fitted.

He suggested that the overweight man or the one with that around the middle middle-aged look, wear stripes (going up and down, not round and round) but should avoid plaids. Mr. Ullman also said that a dark jacket worn with light or medium light slacks is most flattering to this type.

Why not lose the extra pounds and get rid of the problem? If you would like to have my 12-day Tubby Hubby reducing diet, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Intercity Police Task Force Would Be Effective Weapon Against Time

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — There's nothing the San Francisco cops detest more than out-of-town hoodlums, so they're mulling over a scheme to get to know them much better.

The idea: a novel inercity task force of police.

Veteran officers who developed the plan believe it would hit the floating criminal and syndicated crime in the most vulnerable spot —the cash they risk.

As they envision it, cities with small police forces, where every member is well known and easily recognized by underworld elements, could benefit immeasurably by using a trained task force borrowed from another city.

"Such a task force would keep the criminal off balance," says Inspector Thomas F. Fitzpatrick, in charge of San Francisco's police intelligence unit.

"The police task force would be especially effective in discouraging the individual hoodlum or the crime syndicate from putting money into an uncertain racket—gambling, narcotics, prostitution or extortion—at the risk of having it knocked over promptly by strange investigators."

SEES 15-20 MAN FORCE

Fitzpatrick envisions using as many as 15 or 20 undercover officers in these cooperative efforts.

The task force idea would have to be worked out by the attorney general or even in the governor's office, Fitzpatrick says.

He is convinced, however, that the concept, would be highly valuable within a state. With broader development, such task forces could even be sent from one state to another.

"All that would be necessary in the other state would be to deputize the visiting task force officers," Fitzpatrick says.

Police intelligence units and San Francisco's hard-hitting "Operation S" have hit local crime where it lives.

"Operation S," which means selective saturation of districts where criminal activities are prevalent, has brought about a sharp reduction of armed robberies, assaults, purse snatchings, prostitution and other types of crime here.

Without warning, as many as 50 plainclothes police in unmarked cars descend after dark on any area where normal patrols find the situation difficult.

CHIEF SOLD

Police Chief Thomas T. Cahill is sold on it. Department records show an over-all reduction of 9.2 per cent in crimes of violence. Automobile thefts are negligible now and some specific crimes such as burglary and robbery have been cut as much as 25 per cent, Fitzpatrick reports.

The all-out campaign on crime in San Francisco dates back to 1956, when the city's full support was put behind the interstate police intelligence system.

Now, by tight surveillance of every known local underworld character and particular attention to the roving hoodlum who may be in Kansas City one month, Miami the next and show up in Las Vegas next, police departments all over the country are kept in touch with their activities and whereabouts.

Local intelligence units feed pictures and detailed reports to the state Identification and Investigation Division at Sacramento. From there it is teletyped and otherwise distributed nationwide. Nearly all big cities are in on it. New York City recently joined.

"The entire intelligence organization is the most progressive step that has been made in many years to combat nationwide and local crime," Fitzpatrick says. "It is doing a real job on the floating hoodlum."

AF Removes Glass Before Testing F105

INDIAN SPRINGS, Nev. (AP) They took the window panes out of the control tower at this desert testing base today.

The F105 Thunderchief was to demonstrate its amazing speed and climb capabilities and the Air Force did not want to be in the position of inflicting sonic boom damage on itself.

Among hundreds planning to attend the air show—part of the World Congress of Flight under way at nearby Las Vegas—was Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands, who is a jet pilot and air enthusiast.

The Air Research and Development Command will fulfill its part of the testing program now under way at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., in July. Then the Tactical Air Command will try the plane out in its operating environment.

Col. Robert R. Scott, commander of the 335th Tactical Air Command at Seymour-Johnson Air Force Base, Goldsboro, N.C., will direct the testing program for TAC.

New Jet Liners to Have Flight Data Recorders

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — New jets to be put into service by United Air Lines will be equipped with flight data recorders which will give a complete history of a plane's flight every half second.

The recorders are expected to be available in maintenance work. They will report up to 14 different facts on a metallic tape. The tape and its housing will be resistant to damage by fire, salt water and shock.

Factors to be shown on the tape will include rate of climb, compass heading, air speed, altitude, time, temperature of each jet's exhaust, cabin temperature and pressure, engine RPM's and flow of fuel.

Tigers Consistent at Least, They Lose Same Way

Now the question is heard, "What's wrong with the Tigers?"

It's the obvious question when a team picked to finish second or third sits in the cellar without even a single victory.

It could be answered very easily with a few base knocks at the right time. That's the Yankee story of success and they have statistics of the 1958 season to prove it.

According to the statistics, showing team opportunities to score, the Yanks had a percentage of .383. They had a total of 1,981 men on base and 759 of these runners scored.

Strangely, Boston put 2,000 men on the base paths, but the Red Sox ranked 5th in the ability to capitalize by scoring 697 of those runners for a .349 mark. Yet they finished third in the American League race.

More strange are the statistics of the National League and the champion Milwaukee Braves.

The Braves had trouble getting men on base. They had 1,902 men on bases which was just ahead of Pittsburgh and Los Angeles. They scored 675 of these runners for a percentage of .352, exactly the same as the Tigers.

Yet the Bengals were 4th best in the American League in percentages by scoring 659 runs of 1,869 runners.

What does it all mean? It means that the Braves capitalized on the opportunities better than the other five National League teams who got more runners on base.

It also showed the Braves' ability to win the close games rather than the lop sided contests, using as example the high scoring San Francisco Giants who scored 52 more runs than Milwaukee yet finished third.

This is where the Tigers' fault lies, the relative inability to score the runners when it counts most. The figures really show that Detroit scores a good percentage of the men who get on base, but most of these runners cross the plate in games won by wide margins.

It goes to prove that the clutch hit with the runner on third is missing most when the Tigers continue to lose by one run margins.

If you think the Tigers are bad in bringing home the runner then look at the case of the Philadelphia Phillies.

The Phils actually led both leagues in putting men on base with 2,035 runners. But only 664 of these men scored and it is easily seen why the Phils finished 8th in the National League.

Of course the most necessary thing for cashing in on the run production is the long ball, not necessarily a homer or extra base hit, but just a long fly.

The Tigers have lost seven runs thus far because the long fly ball just wasn't hit when it was needed.

But, who cares about statistics. We know the Tigers can't lose them all — or can they? What a horrible thought.

"THE MAN" OUT — Stan "The Man" Musial, St. Louis first baseman, is tagged by Dodger catcher John Roseboro as he tried to score in the 6th inning of last night's game in Los Angeles. Umpire Dusty Bogess thumbs Musial out. He tried to get home on Joe Cunningham's single. The Dodgers won the game, 5-0.

Socked Mirror in Bar Washroom

Disgusted Phillie Hurler Farrell Is Fined $250

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The predictors say the Philadelphia Phillies are going to finish last. But if they do, Manager Eddie Sawyer has decided the sign on the cellar door won't read: "Playboys of the National League."

He made that very clear yesterday by fining right-handed relief pitcher Dick Farrell $250 for "conduct unbecoming a Major Leaguer"—namely, taking a poke at a mirror in the washroom of a bar with his pitching hand.

The fine was one of the stiffest ever given a Phillie player. It matched the $250 fine Willie Jones paid during spring training of 1952 for similar unbecoming conduct.

Sawyer was the manager then, too.

"I told them in spring training what to expect if they ignored the rules," Sawyer said. "So I don't think they were surprised. Farrell broke training. If you want to know anything else ask him. He can fill in the details."

The 25-year-old right-hander, who has slumped badly since his standout relief job in the All Star Game last year, didn't say much.

"I was fined, but I had it coming to me," he remarked. "I was pretty damned disgusted with myself about losing that game to the Braves. All I had to do was hold them for one inning. I didn't do it."

The Phillies had a 3-2 lead over Milwaukee Monday when Farrell relieved Jim Owens in the ninth. He only had to put three men out. But he gave up five hits and the Braves won 4-3 in the tenth.

Farrell wouldn't discuss his night on the town, but he did say he hadn't injured his hand.

And he wasn't surprised by the amount of the fine.

"Sawyer told us," he said, "that if he ever had to fine us it would be a big one."

Farrell almost got away with his bit of bad behavior. But the bartender, according to reports, called John Quinn, Phils general manager.

Sawyer denied that the fine had anything to do with an article that appeared in a Milwaukee paper quoting an "Eastern sportswriter" as saying the Phils "look upon the ball game as tedious interruption of a much fuller life."

The players, however, were a bit bothered by the article.

"So Dick went out and tried to drown his sorrow," one of them said, "does that make us a team of playboys."

Losing Pattern Follows Course of Gopher Ball

Narleski Again Victim of Held's Home Run in Tribe's 2-1 Win

DETROIT (UPI) — One thing has to be said about the Detroit Tigers. They're consistent.

The pattern was the same yesterday as winless Detroit lost its fifth straight game, 2-1, on Woody Held's two-out, 10th inning home run off Ray Narleski in Cleveland's Municipal Stadium.

In all five defeats it's been the gopher ball that ruined Detroit. And as in all but one of those five, the one pitched by Herb Score Tuesday, Detroit blew scoring chances.

Perplexed Bill Norman watched helplessly in the ninth when Al Kaline and Rocky Bridges singled off Cal McLish who went all the way. Jim Piersall bobbled Kaline's single allowing the Tiger right fielder to go to second and he stopped at third on Bridges' hit. No one was out.

Then Frank Bolling, the most dependable man last year, fouled out. Bolling has only three hits in 22 times at bat this season. There still was a chance. All that was needed was a sacrifice fly. Bht Lou Berberet bounced to Vic Powers who started a doubleplay.

There was some thought that perhaps Kaline should have scored from second on Bridges' single. But first base coach Tommy Henrich said Kaline had to play it safe.

"Rocky's hit was a line drive and from second, Kaline couldn't tell whether Power would get the ball or not. He had to wait till it went through and then he had no chance to score because Rocky Colavito (the right fielder) has a good arm. And besides, you figure with men on first and third and no one out you'll score," Henrich said.

It was the most disappointing loss of the string. Prior to the game Norman said "we're going to get this one."

Paul Foytack pitched good ball until lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth. Singles by Minnie Minoso and Colavito and a doubleplay ball scored Cleveland's first run in the fourth. Then Foytack set down the next 10 men in order. He allowed just five hits in seven innings. Detroit wound up with nine hits to six for Cleveland.

Meanwhile, Kaline walked in the second and advanced to second base on an infield out but died there when Bolling popped up. In the sixth Larry Doby doubled and took third on a wild pitch with two out. But Gail Harris grounded to Billy Martin.

Detroit finally broke through in the eighth after Charlie Maxwell, swinging for Foytack, grounded to Martin. Eddie Yost singled and Doby tripled off the right field wall for the lone run. Harris ended the inning — you guessed it — by grounding to Martin for the fourth time.

Orders to Montreal--Finish Leafs

Canadiens Told to Win Tonight, Also Saturday

Coach Blake Wants 'Quick Work' Made of Toronto

TORONTO, Ont. (UPI) — The Montreal Canadiens were under orders today to make quick work of the Toronto Maple Leafs, a team which to a man believes their coach Punch Imlach when he says, "we'll win the Stanley Cup."

Montreal coach Toe Blake, still morose over the 3-2 overtime loss Tuesday night that cut the Canadiens lead to 2-1 in games in the final round, reportedly told his players to beat Toronto today and again in Montreal on Saturday.

Blake wasn't talking publicly himself, but several players said he wanted it finished off quickly.

Apparently Blake, who is trying for a record four-straight championships, is worried about the comeback capabilities of the Leafs, who found themselves in an identical situation when they were behind 2-0 in games to Boston and won the semifinal, 4-3. That time, too, they won the crucial third game 3-2 in overtime.

Blake will have to finish the series without one of his superstars, and apparently won't be able to use the highest scorer of all time except in emergencies.

Center Jean Beliveau, who scored 45 goals during the season, denied speculation that he would return to the lineup tonight.

"I'm through for the season," he said matter-of-factly. "Les Gros Bill" is suffering from two cracked vertebrae from the Chicago series, and doctors told him he would risk permanent damage if he played again this season.

Thirty-seven-year-old Maurice Richard is expected to dress again tonight, but "The Rocket" admits he hasn't been his usual self lately.

Cage Clinic Set for April 23-25 at Grand Rapids

Basketball returns to Michgian for an encore April 23-25 when Grands Rapids is host to the first annual Midwest Basketball Clinic with coaches Forddy Anderson of Michigan State and Kentucky's Adolph Rupp as the featured instructors.

The three-day program will be patterned after the successful "coach-of-the-year" football clinic, which recently completed its second annual session at Grand Rapids.

Opening night films of MSU and Kentucky games at the Pantlind Hotel will tip off the program. All remaining sessions are scheduled in the Grand Rapids Civic Auditorium.

A special added feature will be an exhibition game April 24 at 8:30 p. m. between the graduating seniors of MSU and Kentucky with State's Johnny Green and Bob Anderegg and Kentucky's Johnny Cox heading the parade of stars.

All registered coaches attending the clinic are admitted free of charge. Oakland County area coaches interested in more information should write to Midwest Basketball Clinic, P. O. Box 152, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Liston Wins by TKO Over Williams in 3rd

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Two tall, hard-hitting heavyweights who had trouble finding opponents met each other in the ring here last night and Charles (Sonny) Liston of Philadelphia came off the winner by a TKO in 2:04 of the third round.

Liston floored his opponent, Cleveland Williams of Houston, Tex., twice before Referee Jimmy Peerless stopped it. The fight had been billed for ten rounds but odds were 3 to 1 it wouldn't go that far.

Yanks Crowd Leaders

By The Associated Press

The inevitable is getting a bit closer in the American League pennant chase. The world champion New York Yankees are crowding in on first place.

The champs, stopped only by rain so far, won their third, 3-1 at Baltimore last night, on Bobby Richardson's two-out, two-run double in the ninth. That jumped the Yankees past the Chicago White Sox, who were bombed off their unbeaten pick, 10-8 by Kansas City, and slipped to third. Boston defeated Washington 7-3.

A walk and Andy Carey's single set up Richardson's winning hit for the Yankees off losing reliever Jack Harshman (0-2). Hoyt Wilhelm, who no-hit the Yanks last season, had them blanked on one hit for five innings. He gave up three of their five hits.

Whitey Ford walked six, but went all the way in his 1959 debut for a six-hit victory, blanking the winless Birds on two singles for six frames.

The A's, winning their first, made seven of their nine hits good for extra bases at Chicago. Right-hander Bob Grim (1-1) won it, chipping in with his first grand-slam homer in a five-run third. Later Barry Latman skulled Joe Demaestri with his first pitch after Grim's slam, but the A's shortstop, carried off on a stretcher, is expected back in the lineup today.

Luis Aparicio drove in three White Sox runs with two doubles, the second in a seven-run eighth inning that chased Grim.

Right-hander Jerry Casale won his first in the Majors in his first start for the Red Sox, beating the Senators with a seven-hitter and socking a wrap-up, three-run homer over the far away left-center field wall in Fenway Park. Russ Kemmerer lost it.

Middlecoff and Palmer Favored

Houston Classic Begins

HOUSTON, (AP) — The oddsmakers made Cary Middlecoff and Arnold Palmer 7-1 favorites as a field of 128 teed off today in the first round of the $30,000 Houston Classic golf tournament.

Ben Hogan, making his first appearance here in 12 years, and Dow Finsterwald, last week's winner at Greensboro, followed at 10-1.

Ed (Porky) Oliver, the defending champion, was tabbed with a bulging 35-1.

Both Middlecoff and Palmer offered evidence that the oddsmakers frequently have short memories. Middlecoff was a 4-1 favorite two years ago and failed to make the cut after 54 holes. Palmer, the defending titlist a year ago, found himself with a 6-1 odds and failed to make the cut.

Both, however, offer styles of play that blend well with the par 72 Memorial Park course where the yardage will range from 7,133 yards to 7,300 the next four days, depending on the location of the tees.

Middlecoff is the only man to win here twice. Two runnerup spots have extended his Houston winnings $11,467.43. He won in 1950 with a 277 at Brae Burn Country Club and in a five-way playoff at Memorial in 1953 after finishing in a tie at 283.

Palmer won two years ago with a 279. Oliver had his putts dropping neatly the final round last year and won $4,300 with a 281 after trailing by five strokes at the endof the third round.

Late withdrawals by John McMullin, Doug Sanders and Vic Ghezzi cut the field to 128. The tournament committee earlier had released Art Wall Jr. and Gene Littler, the two top money winners of 1959, from commitments to play here.

Despite being dissatisfied with his putting, Hogan had a second straight 69 yesterday in his final practice round. He carried three putters in his bag. Jack Burke Jr., a hometown favorite, had a 68.

Will Back NIBL Entry

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ed Sweeney, president of a company of the same name, said Wednesday he will back a Cleveland team in the National Industrial Basketball League next year.

Cleveland will be the third new team in the league next season. The other new teams are Lake Charles, La., and San Francisco.

Doctoring Your Golf

By DR. CARY MIDDLECOFF

PATIENT'S COMPLAINT: Scores continue high.

DIAGNOSIS: Taking unwarranted and ill-timed chances.

Treatment: Expert golfers and dubs alike should get the habit of weighing shot risks against possible gains. I think the drawing here illustrates the point well.

Note that the recommended route to the green is over the fairway and away from the trap. If the second shot turns out to be a bit short you are still on the fairway and in position for what should be a relatively simple chip or pitch, leaving you still with an excellent chance of salvaging a par with a one-putt green.

But if you elect to fly the ball straight toward the pin, you must cross the trap on the carry. Just a little short or a little too much to the left and you will find your ball in the sand trap — possible buried. Now you may go for a double-bogey or worse.

Don't get me wrong. I'm not encouraging a cowardly attitute toward the shot. I recognize fully that low scoring must involve some chance taking. But I am saying, use caution where caution is indicated. THINK.

Norman Saving Him

Where's Pete Burnside?

DETROIT (AP) — And what ever happened to Pete Burnside, the Detroit Tigers' most impressive pitcher in spring training?

The slender left hander has yet to make his debut in a regular season game. He led the staff with a 3-0 record down south when the games didn't count.

"Well," said Norman, "the guy in the stands may not understand. Burnside was up six or seven times opening day and warmed up. That takes something out of a pitcher.

"I couldn't use him in Cleveland because it's a right-handed hitting ball club. Tell the fans not to worry, they'll see him. He'll get his chance."

Arkansas Gridder Quits on Orders From Doctor

FAYETTEVILE, Ark. (AP)—University of Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles said Wednesday that all-Southwest Conference halfback Jim Mooty has quit the football team on orders from a team doctor.

WEDNESDAY'S STARS

PITCHING — Don Drysdale, Dodgers, gained his first victory with an eight-hit shutout, striking out seven and walking but two in 5-0 decision over the Cardinals.

HITTING — Woody Held, Indians, his third home run in two days kept Tribe unbeaten, defeating the Tigers 2-1 with two out in the 10th inning.

Northern Loses Home Track Opener, 76-33

Pontiac Northern finally got in a meet on its home track yesterday as the Huskies bowed to Class B power Flint Bendle, 76-33.

West Bloomfield, Lake Orion, Troy and Fitzgerald were other track victors. Keego also posted a win in golf as did Bloomfield Hills while Clarkston and Northville took baseball verdicts.

A triumph in the sprint medley relay was the home team's only 1st at PNH despite the efforts of Jeff Braunagel and Mike Fedynik. Jeff helped spark the relay win and had a 2nd in the low hurdles. Fedynik was runnerup in both the pole vault and high jump.

District champions the past two years, Flint was paced by Paul Krause's 20 points. The Huskies are now 0-2.

West Bloomfield took a triangular at Melvindale scoring 63 2-3 points to 45½ for Detroit Lutheran West and 27 5-6 for the host school. Jack Newton of Keego was the only double winner taking 100 and 220. Steve Rogers and Tom Bell were other top performers.

Orion walloped Avondale 75-34, Troy whipped Madison 62½-46½ and Fitzgerald drubbed Clawson 63-46 in night Oakland B meets at Fitzgerald. A sweep in the shot put and two wins for Lee Shoup made it easy for Orion. Dion Cass and Rocky Bronson tallied 10¾ points each for Troy. Wendell Johnston set a league and school record in the pole vault at 11 feet, 6 inches. Leroy Hill was a triple victor for Madison.

Jon Shaw and Barry Johnson fired 42s to pace West Bloomfield over Milford 176 to 214 at Pontiac Country Club. D. Tokargny had 45 for the Redskins. Bloomfield Hills had 181 to Oak Park's 191 topped by Steve Diltz with 44. Brighton and Northville battled to a tie in golf.

Dick Caverly fired a two-hitter as Clarkston blanked Oxford 4-0. Five different Wolves had hits as they evened their record at 1-1. Jeff Goodrich struck out 10 and walked only 1 in besting Willow Run 4-3 for Northville.

City Finals May 2

Mibs Tourney Under Way

The Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department, in cooperation with The Pontiac Press, is conducting the 12th annual City Marbles Tournament at 22 local elementary schools.

Mibs competition is open to boys and girls in the 5th and 6th grades with the city championship being decided on Saturday, May 2, at Oakland Park.

Premidnight Postmarks May Net Another Dozen Entries in '500' Race

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The entry deadline for the 1959 500-mile race arrived Wednesday with 49 cars entered and about a dozen more entries expected to arrive with premidnight postmarks.

Practice at the 2½-mile Indianapolis Motor Speedway track will start May 1 and qualifications to choose the 33 fastest cars will begin May 16.

The two supercharged V-8 Novi Specials were entered by the Novi Racing Corp., Burbank, Calif., and assigned to drivers Paul Russo, Webster Groves, Mo., and Dempsey Wilson, Hawthorne, Calif.

Russo, a 45-year-old grandfather, will be in a Novi for the fourth straight time. The veteran of 12 Indianapolis 500 races still holds the record of 144.416 miles an hour for the fastest lap in the race, which he set in 1956.

Wilson was forced out of his first 500 here after 151 laps last year.

Drysdale, Antonelli Scores Wins

NL Mound Aces Back in Form

By The Associated Press

Don Drysdale and Johnny Antonelli, a pair of young aces who went a long way to go no where last season, are back in business again, flashing some of the old sparkle.

It was Drysdale, a 22-year-old right-hander, who won 17 as a National League sophomore and went West with the transplanted Dodgers last season boomed as the star of the Los Angeles staff. Instead he went wild and wound up with a 12-13 record.

Antonelli, a 27-year-old southpaw who twice has been a 20-game winner, didn't have it quite so bad when the Giants shifted to San Francisco. But his 16-13 record wasn't exactly what he had been counted on to deliver.

Last night, things were different. Antonelli gave up a run on three singles in the first inning, then blanked the Chicago Cubs on two hits the rest of the way for a 7-1 victory, his second. That left the Giants, who got a pair of homers from Orlando Cepeda and another from Felipe Alou, with a 4-1 record in second place.

Drysdale gave up eight hits, but no runs at all, squaring his record at 1-1 with his first complete game as the Dodgers beat St. Louis 5-0 and tied the Cubs and Philadelphia for fourth at .500.

Milwaukee's first place Braves (3-0) were idle, along with Phillies, while Cincinnati (3-1) took third by handing winless Pittsburgh a fifth defeat, 10-5.

Antonelli, who managed only one complete game and two victories in his last six starts of '58 as the Giants fell short of second place, struck out six and walked only two while packing away his first complete game. He had lost four straight to the Cubs.

Cepeda, last year's top NL rookie, blasted his first home run of the year in a two-run fourth off loser Moe Drabowsky, now 1-8 lifetime against the Giants. Cepeda then hit a two-run homer and Alou followed with a solo shot, his third home run of the season, in the fifth. Alou also singled home a run.

Hopes to Overcome Scandal 'Sins'

Alex Groza Candidate for College Hoop Job

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Remember Alex Groza? He was the big fellow who was the heart of Kentucky's 1949 national basketball champions.

The six-foot, seven inch former All America was implicated in the point shaving scandals that rocked college basketball eight years ago. He and some of his Wildcat teammates were the heart of the Indianapolis team of the National Basketball Assn. entry and all were forced from the pro scene as a result of their part in the scandals.

But Groza's never been far away from basketball, even if it's only following the game on the sports pages.

He came back into the picture when he applied for the head coaching job at Loyola of the South. The New Orleans college has been looking for a successor to Hank Kuzma for about four weeks.

"I know I sinned," Groza said, "but I think I've done my penance. I hurt the game, now I'd like to do it some good."

After all these years, why the desire to coach?

"Well, I've never really been away from the game," he said. "I've gotten several boys scholarships and done a lot of scouting. I've been particularly helpful to Bruce Hale at Miami."

"I'm itching to get a coaching job," he said. "I like the challenge. . . the priests and nuns here are praying that I'll land something in the coaching field."

The point-shaving scandals marred Groza and three of his teammates. The most-widely publicized was Kentucky's 67-56 loss to Loyola of Chicago in the 1949 National Invitational Tournament.

"I'll never be able to figure out why we did it," Groza said. "Guess we got caught up in the times . . . it was being done by other teams . . . so we went along.

"My sins wrecked me financially," he continued, "I was part-owner of the professional Indianapolis Olympians at the time . . . we were doing real well . . . then, all of a sudden, everything went up in smoke . . . I was through."

Since the scandals exiled him from basketball, Groza said he's worked in Louisville for an electrical firm, had a television show in West Virginia and is now running his mother's restaurant in Martin's Ferry, Ohio.

DeMaestri OK After Beaning at Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Joe DeMaestri, Kansas City Athletics shortstop who was struck on the head Wednesday by a pitched ball, was in good condition Wednesday night at Mercy Hospital.

Doctors reported there were no symptoms of fracture but said he will stay in the hospital overnight for observation.

The pitch, thrown by Barry Latman, Chicago White Sox rookie right-hander, struck DeMaestri above the left ear. He was the next man to bat after Latman had thrown a grand slam home run ball to pitcher Bob Grim in the third inning.

DeMaestri was carried from Comiskey Park on a stretcher.

The Athletics won 10-8.

3-1 Lead for Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — George Ronieri scored two goals for Louisville and Len Thornson tallied twice for Fort Wayne Wednesday night as Louisville won 7-5 in a best-of-seven series in the International Hockey League final playoffs.

Surprising Marcus Meets Third Giant

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Neal Marcus, the young giant killer from Tampa, Fla., challenged nationally ranked Ron Holmberg of New Orleans today in the quarter-finals of the River Oaks tennes tournament.

Holmberg, a Tulane student who is ranked No. 2 nationally gained revenge for a December loss in the Sugar Bowl meet by defeating Mike Franks of UCLA, 8-6, 6-3.

Elliott Hunts for Quarterback

ANN ARBOR — An intensive man-hunt by new coach Bump Elliott for a pilot to direct Michigan's new winged-T offense is one of the chief activities of the Wolverines spring football practice which began this week to continue through May 9.

The dynamic little Maize and Blue mentor found only one letterman quarterback among the 125 aspirants who greeted him on opening practice day. This stalwart was Stan Noskin, 180-pound Chicago senior, who understudied brilliant Bob Ptacek, last Year's field general. Ptacek will graduate this June.

With T emphasis, much of Michigan's hopes for 1959 will be predicated upon what Elliott can come up with in the quarterback department — a key figure who can handle the offense and serve as a passing or running striking threat.

Noskin performed brilliantly as a sophomore but last year illness in the early season cut down his effectiveness so that he saw only 71 minutes of play in seven games. By comparison, Ptacek played in all nine contests for 379 minutes.

There are half a dozen other quarterback candidates besides Noskin but only Don Hannah, a six-foot, 185-pound Gary, Ind., boy, who was on the reserve squad last year, has had any previous experience.

Prospective sophomores include John Stamos, a six-foot, two-inch, 200-pounder from Chicago; Paul Palmer of Toronto, Ont., Canada; Paul Aita, a 185-pounder from Levittown, Pa., and Bill Bretz, 190, from Youngstown, Ohio.

The Wolverine staff also has a possible shifting of Darrell Harper, senior left half from Royal Oak, to the quarterback slot. He would fit into the picture as a quarterback who could run well and pass fairly well. Last year he led Wolverine ground forces with a 5.6 yard average.

Injury-wise, Michigan received its first setback when John Walker, only returning letterman fullback, twisted a knee in preliminary drills and underwent an operation the next day. Elliott is hopeful that he will be in shape for the opening of fall practice.

New Promoter for Title Meet

Rhodes Out, Farb In for Patterson - London Clash

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — There's been another switch in the scheduled Floyd Patterson-Brian London fight here May 1. This time the bout has a new promoter.

Cecil Rhodes, Cranford, N.J., industrialist, is out and Al Farb of Indianapolis and the Hoosier Boxing Club is in.

Arch Hindman of Hagerstown, Ind., executive secretary of the National Boxing Assn., announced the switch late last night.

Rhodes "is out of the picture as promoter of the bout," Hindman said.

The switch was only one of a series. The scheduled fight has been a mixup since the beginning. First it was announced for April 21 in Las Vegas. Then the date was switched to May 1. And last week the site was changed to Indianapolis.

Must Be Football, MSU 26, Wayne 6

EAST LANSING (UPI) — Michigan State University yesterday set a new state record for runs by walloping Wayne State's baseball squad 26-6.

The total runs surpassed the old 25-run record the Spartans set against Wayne State in 1951. The win marked the 22nd consecutive victory by the East Lansing nine in the Wayne-MSU series since 1942.

MSU's Dean Look, who started at second instead of his usual center field position, scored five runs to pace the Spartan attack.

Golf Authority and Cartoonist Succumbs at 85

NEW YORK (AP)—Harry B. (Dickie) Martin, 85, newspaper reporter, cartoonist and golf authority, died Wednesday of a stroke after a lingering illness.

A one-time secretary of the old St. Louis Browns baseball team, he was also a founder in 1917 of the Professional Golfers Assn., one of the nation's first golf writers and promoter of golfing exhibitions which became the models for those conducted today.

One of the early comic strip cartoonists, he gained his nickname from the cartoon he drew for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch entitled "The Dickie Bird."

Boswell Seeks 7th Blind Golf Crown

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Defending champion Charlie Boswell of Birmingham, Ala., and 19 other top blind golfers tee off Saturday in the annual 36-hole U.S. National Blind Golf Tournament.

Boswell, former University of Alabama football player who lost his sight in combat during World War II, just about owns this tournament.

He seeks the title for the seventh straight time and the 11th time in all.

Ladies Tee Off in Dallas Open

DALLAS (AP) — Twenty-eight stars of the women's golf tour and a dozen area amateurs move out today in the opening round of the $10,000 Dallas Civitan Open.

Favorites were almost as numerous as players with the gal on the greatest streak, Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C., getting the most attention.

Miss Rawls has won three tournaments and finished second twice in the last five. She also tops the money-winners with $5,692.52 for 3½ months work.

Louise Suggs, the consistent veteran of Sea Island, Ga.; Mickey Wright, the sharp-shooting blonde from Bonita, Calif.; Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif., runnerup to Miss Wright here last year; Reddish-haired Marlene Bauer Hagge of Pittsburgh, and the always dangerous Patty Berg of Minneapolis were eyed as possible winners.

The 6,050-yard Glen Lakes Country Club isn't going to be a soft touch for the wandering pros was indicated in a pro-amateur yesterday when the women had trouble with par 36-35—71. Shoting 72's were Miss Hanson and Miss Berg, who said she still was weak from a flu attack that knocked her out of the Babe Zaharias Open at Beaumont last week.

Four More Teams Top 3000 at ABC

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A late scoring binge has given the 56th American Bowling Congress tournament 25 scores of 3,000 or better in the open team division, tying the record set in 1957.

The latest wave of scoring reached a climax last night when the Hamm's Beer team of Minneapolis rolled a 3,162 and took over fourth place. After opening with games of 1,058 and 1,065, the Hamm's were well within striking distance of the 3,243 record which has kept the Detroit Pfeiffers on top since Feb. 25. They subsided to a 1,039 count in the finale, however.

Thre other teams scored more than 3,000 yesterday. Fairlanes of Fairless Hills, Pa., had 3,054, Royal Palm Lanes of Fort Myers, Fla., shot 3,030, and Gerlinger Carrier Co. of Salem, Ore., rolled 3,020.

Water Polo Anyone?

CHICAGO (AP) — Defending champion New York Athletic Club and five other leading teams in the U.S. and Canada today open the National AAU indoor water polo championships.

The meet, in Loyola University pool, will wind up Saturday and provide a preview for the Pan American water polo trials this summer in Chicago.

Michigan State assistant football coach Danny Bolsture set three pass catching records as an undergraduate at the University of Detroit.

Sick Student Sets Up Signs to Lure Guests

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Puzzled authorities at Indiana University Medical Center couldn't account for a freshly painted sign in a new dormitory, reading, "Women please confine visitation to the lounge."

They solved the mystery by following a series of arrows until they came to the room of a hopeful student labeled "Lounge."

City May Use Group of 70 to Sell Sewage Bond Issue

Pontiac is eyeing a committee of 70 citizens who, like evangelists, would be given the job of selling city residents on the sewage treatment plant bond issue.

The committee is the brain-child of Commissioner John A. Dugan, who Tuesday called on fellow commissioners to nominate 10 committee members each, with the chairman to be appointed by the mayor.

"Maybe such a committee could do the selling job that we evidently have failed to do," said Dugan, whose district (5) is one of those that stands to benefit greatly from added treatment facilities.

Of the April 6 election at which the proposed $3,300,000 treatment plant bond issue was defeated for a third time, Dugan said:

"It's hard to believe people would have voted it down if they had understood all the facts."

The committee idea received strong support from other commissioners, especially from Commissioners Robert A. Landry (District 7), Wesley J. Wood (District 6) and Milton R. Henry (District 1), whose areas also need the benefit of more treatment capacity.

If the Commission appoints a citizens committee, the first job will be to sell the committee itself on treatment plant expansion, and commissioners didn't think this would be very difficult.

"Let the Committee inspect those areas of our city in which raw sewage floats in the gutters," said Dugan. "Let it visit our antiquated treatment plant, let it study how much more the average homeowner would have to pay if added facilities are financed through revenue bonds, instead of general obligation bonds, as we propose."

"One of these days the state (Water Resources Commission) may actually lower the boom on Pontiac and order us to build a plant through revenue bonding," Dugan observed. "Then the average homeowner would really be hard hit."

STATE CRITICIZES

The state has been criticizing Pontiac's pollution of the Clinton River for several years but has held off ordering construction of added facilities, partially in hopes that Pontiac voters would voluntarily decide to build the plant.

The improvements the city plans would end pollution, it is believed, besides opening up vast areas within the city for residential development.

Under general obligation bonds, business and industry would pay about three-quarters of the cost of new construction but revenue bonds would be retired through an increase in everyone's water bill.

Dugan said the Commission should not plan on putting the bond issue to a public vote again, unless the public indicates a desire to pass it.

"We've acted sincerely in putting the bond issue up to a vote three times, but I have never believed we should just keep putting on the ballot time after time in hopes it eventually will pass."

House Group Asks $4 Billion for Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House Education subcommittee today recommended a four-year $4,400,000,000 program of federal aid for school construction and teachers' salaries.

Rep. Cleveland Bailey (D-WVa) vide outright grants to the states annually of $25 for each school-age child. This was estimated to cost $1,100,000,000 a year.

Rep. Cleveland Bailey (DaWVa) subcommittee chairman, said he would present the measure to the full Education Committee at its meeting next Thursday. He said he would hesitate to predict its chances of passage by Congress until he sees what happens in the full committee.

Dear Mr. Bassett:

Last week, we held our first anniversary Sell-A-Bration. In planning this event, we ran two display advertisements in the Pontiac Press, plus other advertising.

The results of our anniversary sale were terrific. In checking with our customers, who came from miles around, we found that seven out of ten had seen one or both of our display advertisements in the Pontiac Press.

After such gratifying results, we plan to make the Pontiac Press our main advertising medium.

Doesn't Resemble Western Congress

Red Parliament Like Convention

By PRESTON GROVER
AP Chief of Moscow Bureau

MOSCOW (AP)—The big Russian Parliament has its share of serious thinkers, ward heelers and fat, jolly or boisterous deputies, but it doesn't look or operate like a Western-style congress.

To a correspondent who has seen parliaments operating in a number of countries, including the United States, it seems more like the national convention of one of America's political parties.

Meeting this week in Moscow, the Parliament represents the Russian Federated Republic, which takes in 90 per cent of the Soviet Union's territory and runs from the Baltic Sea to the Pacific Ocean.

Its membership of nearly 1,000 has the job of ratifying the acts of the General Soviet Communist Party Congress that met in February to hear Soviet Premier Khrushchev outline his seven-year plan for economic development.

But the Russian Federated Republic is the dominant part of the Soviet Union and carries a lot of weight—in so far as any administrative area carries weight in a government run by the Communist Party.

The Russian Parliament meets in the same Kremlin hall as the Soviet Party Congress and the Soviet Parliament, which include representatives from all the Soviet republics.

The atmosphere on opening day Tuesday was somewhat the same except for the vital difference that Khrushchev, his Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan and other heavy artillery were absent. Among the dozen lower rank Soviet leaders present was Mikhail Suslov, a former member of the Soviet Presidium who recently headed a parliamentary delegation to Britain.

Some of the procedures in the Russian and Western parliaments are the same.

One of the Russian legislature's first acts, for example, was to name a series of committees, including one for foreign relations. Undoubtedly it will have a lot to say in advance of the foreign ministers' meeting in Geneva May 11.

The routine of naming a presiding officer was accomplished with a quick show of hands voting yes and not a single nyet.

About 50 members of the Russian Republic's Presidium sit on a dias that in times past has served as a platform for Stalin, Lenin and other great Soviet names. Above the rostrum towers a large, coffee-colored statue of Lenin.

Unlike the U.S. Senate, where members sit in semicircular rows around the presiding officer, deputies of the Russian Republic sit in straight rows running backward almost as far as the length of a football field.

Most of the deputies are European types, as distinguished from the Mongolian types who live in the eastern portion of the Russian Republic far across Siberia.

More women sit in this Parliament than in Western parliaments, apparently about 15 or 20 per cent. Mostly they huddle together in two and threes or fill a whole bench in groups of eight.

There are three women on the rostrum, including Ekaterina A. Furtseva, the Soviet Union's highest woman official. She is a member of the Russian Republic's Presidium as well as of the Presidium of the Soviet Communist Party.

The huge, white hall is built like a tunnel with an arched ceiling and double-deck windows lighting its full length.

The balcony for the press and public extends out about halfway from the rear, which means the acoustics are not good for deputies sitting underneath in the back. But loudspeakers have been set up everywhere so they won't miss a word.

Generally speaking the Russian Parliament appears younger than its Western counterparts. A few gray heads can be spotted among rank and file deputies, and more are on the rostrum.

Most of the men dress soberly in European style clothes. The women wear dark blues, browns and reds.

From time to time one of the deputies calls from the floor to speak briefly, but there is no evidence that multitudes are swayed.

Hunts Sea Lions Off California

Catches Them on Order for Trainers, Zoos and Circuses

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) —Richard Headley, a Santa Barbara fisherman, captures sea lions for a living.

The whiskered sea lions are trapped in rough seas off the Channel Islands.

"Trainers buy most of the sea lions we get," said Headley. "They order them, along with zoos and cicuses, and we catch on order."

The "lions" are taught to be "trained seals."

The 56th hunting year has just started for another season. It ends next summer. By that time, Headley and a fisherman aide, Pete Maglio, hope to corral and sell 150 to 200 of the mammals with the high I.Q.

Most of the sea lions are caught off Santa Cruz Island, 24 miles from Santa Barbara. Santa Cruz, the closest island, offers coves that are protected from heavy winds.

Sea lions are captured in no other American waters, says Walter Miller, a veteran of 21 years in the trade. He retired last year and sold his business to Headley. Miller, known as the "seal king of Santa Cruz," captured thousands in his day.

He started out working with Capt. George McGuire, who launched the sea lion trade here in 1902.

"It's a rough business, and I'm too old for it now. Those sea lions can bite off a couple of fingers, or your whole hand when you're lassoeing them in the nets and pulling them in," Miller said.

It takes $14,000 (for boats and other equipment), a strong back, and savvy to catch the popular entertainers of the animal world.

George Howe, the local sea lion broker, has sold sea lions to zoos in most of the big United States cities, and to trainers and zoos in Germany, Belgium, England, Canada, the Dominican Republic, Denmark and elsewhere. Howe is a nephew of Capt. McGuire, who died in 1955 at the age of 102.

Little Leaguer Also Hits Homers as Evangelist

ATLANTA (UPI) — Douglas Johnson of East Point, Ga., is an 11-year-old Little League shortstop who doubles as an evangelist.

"I love to play ball," said Douglas, 'but when it comes time to pray, I put away my ball and glove."

The youthful evangelist, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Johnson, has been preaching for more than a year at the Full Gospel Assembly of God.

The Rev. Charles Cherry, pastor of the church, says that 18 new members have joined since Douglas began preaching. "He's a wonderful boy and he's helping a lot of people," said the pastor.

Douglas, who also plays the guitar and sings, began preaching Jan. 19, 1958.

"I was asleep that night and I woke up suddenly and just knew I wanted to preach the word of God," he explained.

Active Market Edges Upward

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed in active trading at the opening today. A slight edge to the upside was apparent.

Gains and losses of fractions to about a point prevailed among most key stocks.

American Telephone was the focus of attention following yesterday's ratification of the 3-for-1 stock split at the big shareholders meeting. Trading began on the split stock on a "when-issued" basis.

AT&T's present stock opened about 20 minutes late on a block of 4,000 shares, up 2 at 252. The "when-issued" stock opened shortly before on a big block of 20,000 shares at 84⅛—more than one third of the price of the old stock. Brokers said this showed eagerness of the public to get the lower-priced "pieces of paper" representing the company.

The rest of the market showed no well-defined trend among various groups. A slightly higher tendency appeared among aircrafts and oils. Gains of about a point were made by Douglas Aircraft and Texas Co.

County Senator Asks Fund Bills Be Spelled Out

State Rep. Lloyd L. Anderson (R-Waterford Township) heads a group of lawmakers who have submitted a resolution asking that every proposed appropriation be spelled out in detail.

Anderson said the group of 12 "deems it necessary to have more to say concerning the appropriations to state agencies."

They asked that each budget bill contain the classification of each employe with his salary plus a complete breakdown of the proposed spending.

The bill was sent to committee after Rep. Arnell Engstrom (R-Traverse City) objected that the proposal would add about 25,000 extra lines to appropriations bills.

"If this ever passed we'd be here at least until next September," Engstrom said.

Grain Prices Fail to Move

CHICAGO (AP)—Despite a fairly active early trade, grain futures prices failed today to move very far from previous closes on the Board of Trade.

May wheat was in good demand again by short interests but there appeared also to be somewhat more confident short selling of the contract since it showed signs of having hit bittom for the present at least of its recent fast, sharp slide.

Except for setbacks of major fractions in the distant rye contracts, the market generally was steady to slightly easier during the first several minutes.

Near the end of the first hour, however, wheat was 1 cent a bushel higher to 1 cent lower, May $2.06; corn unchanged 59⅜ lower, May $1.25⅛; oats ⅛ higher to ⅜ lower, May 66⅞; rye unchanged to 1 cent lower, May $1.40⅝; soybeans unchanged to ½ lower, May $2.26¼.

Rubber Strike Idles 58,000

Goodrich and Firestone Workers Join Walkout; Picketing Peaceful

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The United Rubber Workers Union today struck the B. F. Goodrich Co. and Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., raising to about 58,000 the number of production workers out in the union's biggest strike.

Only the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. among the tire-building industry's Big Four continued in operation. When Goodyear's contract with the union expired last midnight, some progress had been made, and bargaining covering 21,000 workers was recessed until today.

The other member of the Big Four, the United States Rubber Co., was struck by the URW last Thursday. About 26,000 production workers walked out then. Today's strikes added 18,000 production workers at Firestone and 14,000 at Goodrich to those idle.

This is the first time the union has undertaken strikes against three of the Big Four at the same time. The last major walkout in the industry involved a 52-day strike against Goodyear in 1954, with that strike extended also to Firestone for the last two weeks.

Wages are not an issue. Pensions, insurance and supplemental benefits were among the matters being discussed in a new contract. Neither side has disclosed demands, offers or key points on which the bargaining deadlocked.

Here, where Goodrich employs about 7,800 and Firestone 6,550, picketing was peaceful. Some office workers were kept out at the Goodrich plant for a while, but later were allowed to enter.

L. S. Buckmaster, international president of the URW, is participating in Goodyear negotiations in Cleveland. He declined to comment on those talks, and said he was not able to discuss what happened to cause the breakoff of the Firestone and Goodrich negotiations.

Firestone issued a statement saying the URW walked out "after the union tentatively accepted from another company substantially the same terms we had offered." A union spokesman said the Firestone statement "just is not so."

Goodrich negotiationns were conducted in Canton, Ohio; and the U.S. Rubber Co. talks are in New York City. Firestone bargaining was in Cleveland.

FOR SPORTSMEN — Sportsman's Paradise — that's what Dunham's Inc. has called its new sports store opened this week on Union Lake. The store offers a wide selection of sporting equipment for the outdoorsman, whether he be fisherman, hunter or boater.

Dunham's Store Shows Outdoor Line

With the opening of the third Dunham's Inc., store at 2265 Union Lake Rd. this week, sports-minded men and women now have a one-stop shopping center in the heart of one of the state's busiest recreation areas.

Everything from live minnows, wearing apparel, guns and athletic equipment to 16-foot boats with powerful motors are on display in the big 40 by 80 foot showroom.

Situated on a one-acre site near the edge of Union Lake, the one-story cement block building has large floor-to-ceiling plate-glass windows on two sides, parking and boat facilities.

For years the site was used as a boat livery for fishermen. The original building was torn down and the land graded. Construction of a 100-foot dock into the lake will begin next week, acording to owner Robert Schmalzried.

Dockage for 60 large boats is in the plans and there will be 50 boats available for those wishing to use the rental service to be offered, Schmalzried said.

Inside the well-lighted building are open tiered display counters for self-service. All conceivable types of flies and baits for the most discriminating fisherman are displayed.

Four large open-running water tanks are built into the northeast corner of the building, and here live minnows swim about in the lighted waters.

In the front section of the store, four streamlined Fiberglas boats and Aluma - Craft boats are equipped with the latest extras that make motor-boating more luxurious.

There is a Dunham's sports store in St. Clair Shores and another on Northwestern Highway near Telegraph road in addition to the new Union Lake store.

City Clerk Resigns at Hazel Park

HAZEL PARK — The resignation of City Clerk Lenore Armour yesterday brings the number to six officials who have quit their jobs since Monday.

Mrs. Armour's resignation, effective June 30, was given by her to City Manager Calvin C. Henry in a letter.

Reasons given by Mrs. Armour for quitting her job included "I cannot fit myself into the current trend. My stand on government is well known in this city."

Mrs. Armour said this morning "I can no longer stand the turmoil and frustration which has steadily been getting worse. I don't feel that I fit in to the picture anymore."

Henry said this morning that more resignations are expected.

The mass resignations are the result of the April 6 elections when the former mayor of Hazel Park, Sigmund J. Niparko was elected to council.

Niparko is against city government and favors strong mayor government. "He has been very antagonistic to the present government," Henry said.

Henry resigned as city manager Monday effective June 30 as did councilmen Leonard C. Milligan, Twp. engineers and the building inspector.

Reported missing on a flight to Chicago this morning, an Oak Park man turned up later safe and sound in Chicago.

He called his wife from Chicago at 2:30 a.m. today to say that he had gotten lost over Lake Michigan in "heavy crosswinds" and eventually landed okay in Gary, Ind. He then took a bus to Chicago.

Step to Benefit Mankind

U. of M. Scientist Hailed for New Virus Research

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—A University of Michigan scientist's virus reproduction research was hailed today as a possible step toward great benefits to mankind.

The research was reported by Dr. H. F. Maassab. A colleague said it possibly opened the way to:

(1) A simpler way of making multi-strain varieties of influenza vaccine;

(2) An improved method of making single vaccines designed against several diseases at once; and

(3) A means of preventing diseases by "chemico-prophylaxis"—that is, the use of chemicals rather than the present technique of vaccines containing viruses or bacteria.

This appraisal was offered by Dr. Thomas Francis Jr., also of the University of Michigan, and the scientist who directed the evaluation of the Salk polio vaccine.

The report of Dr. Maassab described how a nucleic acid of an influenza virus was extracted from susceptible cells while the cells still were in the process of being infected by the virus. And this acid alone, when incorporated into other cells, stimulated the production of full-grown viruses.

Dr. Francis said this might mean it will be possible some day to take a variety of nucleic acids from different viruses, incorporate them into susceptible cells, and produce large quantities of a number of viruses in the same batch.

Batista Quartet Hijacks Plane, Goes to Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Four gunmen—three of them former members of dictator Batista's secret police—captured a Cuban airliner in flight today and forced the pilot to go 325 miles out of his way to a landing in Miami.

The plane, carrying 17 American and Cuban passengers, landed at Miami International Airport. Police surrounded it immediately and took the hijackers into custory.

Three of the gunmen said they were members of former Cuban President Fulgencio Batista's secret police. Two of them said they had been captured by Fidel Castro's rebels, who overthrew Batista, but had escaped from La Cabana Fortress in Havana.

The passengers said no one was hurt or roughly treated after the gunmen took over the plane shortly after it left Havana for a scheduled flight to the Isle of Pines, 100 miles southward.

The pilot was ordered first to take the plane to the Dominican Republic but when the captain said he didn't have enough fuel to go that far, he was ordered to go into Miami.

Rambler Sales Already Top All of 1958 Year

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors says its 1959 Rambler car sales already exceed the total sales of the 1958 model year.

AMC, in a report yesterday, also said the sales so far are 141.8 per cent more than for the comparable period of the 1958 sales.

Sales to date have been 160,663 as against 154,372 for all of the 1958 year and 66,445 for the comparable date last year, the company said.

Rambler sales for the first 10 days of April this year were given as 11,732 as compared to 4,256 for the said period last year.

In Miami Auto Accident

Auto Founder Convicted

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Robert Cabel Graham, one of the founders of the old Graham Paige Motor Co., was convicted yesterday of failing to yield the right of way and causing an accident.

He immediately was sued for $245,000 damages.

Graham protested he had driven for 57 years without a ticket.

"I was the inventor of the slogan 'safe' — meaning see all for extreme. I do not feel at fault in this case. As one who has made autos, and as one who has campaigned for years for safety coast-to-coast, I have practiced safety."

Judge Jack M. Turner imposed no fine. He told Graham: "I am aware of your past record. An accident can happen to anybody."

Graham had his accident last month. Both cars were badly damaged. Occupants of the other car filed the damage suits.

One of the occupants of the other car was Mrs. Paul Winchell, wife of the ventriloquist. The others were Mrs. Carl Brown, John Pascarreli and the driver, Winnie Laverne Alexander.

Graham and his three brothers founded Graham Paige Motor Co. in the early 1920s.

Export Trade Passe

'International Sales' Concept New

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
Last of Series

NEW YORK (AP) — American businessmen must adjust to a new concept of trade. That is, companies must think less about export sales—the traditional concept—and more about international sales.

Make your goods where you can do so best and sell them where you can beat your competitors regardless of where you made them even if it means importing your own products and selling them here.

That's what Sidney C. Moody, director general of Cyanamid International, a year-old division of American Cyanamid Co., sees on the horizon.

The international division now accounts for 15 per cent of the parent company's sales of chemicals and drugs. It operates in 80 world markets.

Since the war Cyanamid has put more than 15 million dolars into overseas plants and sales units.

"We plan to expand overseas as fast as the general economy and other factors permit," says Harry F. Bliss Jr., director of operations for the division.

It now has seven wholly owned plants abroad, two owned jointly with local manufacturing firms, several others with Cyanamid owning 40 per cent of the stock, and wholly owned distribution and sales organizations in 12 countries.

The reasons it plans to go on these: to get by the currency restrictions which some nations still have; to avoid the tariff barriers against American goods, with a special eye on the common market developing in Europe; and to overcome the competitive disadvantage which rising production costs here impose.

Moody notes government statistics lands to his company benefit too. When an American company puts up a plant abroad it creates new jobs and usually introduces into the country new techniques and efficiency. The other country also acquires a dependable source of supply of the product, one that could be cut off by war if made only here. And the big benefit often is that the other nation conserves its foreign exchange reserves.

Moody notes government statistics indicating U.S. private investments abroad are now more than 37 billion dollars and recently increasing at about four billion dollars a year.

American business is migrating overseas, just as in our early days European industry set up branch shops here.

School Board to View Budget in Waterford

A preliminary review of the 1959-60 Waterford Township school budget will be presented at tonight's Board of Education meeting by Supt. William Shunck.

Proposed salaries for teachers, clerical, custodial, engineering and bus driving personnel will also be discussed, along with recomfendations for leaves of absence.

A report will be presented by the building committee regarding future school sites, present construction plans and the results of architectural interviews held since last month's meeting.

Shunck also will present a report on the dedication program for the John D. Pierce Junior High School, scheduled for April 23.

Bids for four new school buses will be awarded. These include three 60-passenger and one 48-passenger vehicles. Four Oakland County companies have presented bids, Shunck said.

Dirksen Backs Kennedy Bill

Would Keep Changes to Taft-Hartley Law in Labor Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill) said today he would oppose the move to knock all Taft-Hartley law changes out of the Kennedy labor regulation bill.

The first major vote on the measure is to come next Tuesday on an attempt by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-NC) to eliminate such changes. The floor debate on the bill started Wednesday and continues today.

Dirksen's opposition to the Ervin proposal, voiced in an interview, left little chance of its adoption. Many Republicans are expected to follow his lead, and many Democrats also oppose the proposal.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass), author of the bill, urged the Senate to retain the amendments to Taft-Hartley.

The AFL-CIO has declared it will oppose the bill if the Taft-Hartley changes are knocked out. Several of these long have been sought by labor.

Two of the principal ones would permit replaced strikers to vote in a bargaining election and would legalize prehire agreements in the construction industry.

Dirksen said he supported the Eisenhower administration position, which favors most of the Taft-Hartley provisions already in the bill, but calls for others which are sought by management. These latter include bans on organizational picketing and secondary boycotts.

Kennedy in opening the debate hammered again and again at the theme that adoption of floor amendments would scuttle the bill.

Radio, TV Drill for CD Friday

Conelrad Test Planned by All Broadcasters for 30 Minutes

WASHINGTON (AP) — All television and radio stations in the United States will go off the air for half an hour Friday morning signaling the start of the annual national civil defense drill.

The Office of the Civil and Defense Mobilization said today the unusual silence will begin at 11:30 a.m., EST.

About 1,200 radio stations will resume broadcasting immediately on the two "Conelrad" civil defense frequencies — 640 and 1240 on the radio dial.

The name is an abbreviation of control of electromagnetic radiation. The system, under which various stations alternate on the frequencies, was designed to prevent enemy bombers from using radio beams to find their targets.

All this will be part of Operation Alert 1959, designed to test the nation's readiness to cope with a mock nuclear attack by planes and missiles.

Operation Alert will continue through the summer in various stages. On Friday and Saturday, the public will take part as warning signals sound across the country. In many communities, citizens will evacuate or take cover depending on local plans.

Asks Briefs in Weed Case

County Circuit Judge Hears Arguments on Contested Ordinance

Oakland County Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams asked attorneys for briefs before he will decide on the contested constitutionality of Pontiac's weed cutting ordinance.

Charles Eilender of 28 Wenonah Dr. sued the city a year ago, saying it had no right to try to collect some $49 in special assessments the city says he owes it for cutting weeds from five of his lots.

Eilender and his attorney, Milton F. Cooney, argue the city "is without constitutional or other lawful authority to adopt ordinances or make regulations for control of so-called weeds."

William A. Ewart, city attorney, contended before Judge Adams yesterday that the city was in compliance with state laws in enforcing its old 1909, three-times amended ordinance.

It requires that residents of the city keep their lots, especially vacant ones, free of weeds during the summer months. If this is not done, the law says, the city sends in its own crews to do the work and the property owners are assessed for the work.

Judge Adams asked Ewart and Cooney to submit written briefs backing up their arguments within 30 days.

Test Run Set by Humphrey

Starts Speaking Tour to Check His Standing for 1960 Nomination

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn) is about to set out on a test run aimed at finding how he might fare in a race for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination.

Humphrey, who will climax a six-state tour by speaking to the California Legislature, said he wants to tell the people what he thinks on current issues.

"I also want to get on more intimate and friendly terms with the Democratic leaders of these states," he said.

Humphrey will cover territory already criss-crossed by Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass).

One of Humphrey's major objectives is to have a long talk with Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown of California. Brown has indicated he wants to be a favorite son. This would have the effect of ruling the California primary out of bounds for both Humphrey and Kennedy.

Humphrey realizes that, to get anywhere in the nomination contest, he must have some strong Western support. He probably will have to battle Kennedy in the Wisconsin primary as a prelude for what looks like a free-for-all in Oregon.

On his Western swing, which begins Saturday with a speech in Minneapolis, the Minnesota senator will campaign also in Washington, Oregon, California, Utah and Wyoming. If he can stir up interest in this area, the result would tend to offset Kennedy's acknowledged hold on New England. Kennedy has support also in the South.

Kennedy and Humphrey submitted themselves to a personal inspection Wednesday by 51 Methodist bishops who came to call and inquire about their views. The bishops planned to see Vice President Nixon today.

Kennedy, a Roman Catholic, reported that he had a very pleasant discussion of public affairs with the Methodists. Humphrey, a Congregationalist, called the meeting "very cordial and informative."

'Most Obsolete Thing in State'

That's What Seaton Calls Gov. Williams During Ohio Talk

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI) — Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton told Ohio Republicans meeting here Wednesday night that Michigan's Gov. G. Mennen Williams was "the most obsolete thing in the state."

Seaton addressed 900 persons at a $100-a plate dinner honoring Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy of Cincinnati. He said the Democratic governor's fiscal policies caused Michigan's recent financial woes.

"After five terms as governor," Seaton said, "Williams has ended up five million dollars richer than the state he has governed."

"Michigan was once one of the richest of the 48 states. The government had followed a course of action in Michigan that took care of today and forget tomorrow."

"Michigan is a case of planned obsolescence and Williams is the most obsolete thing in the state," the interior secretary said.

He said a Democratic Presidential victory in 1960 would result in more inflation because "the Democrats believe we need more inflation to maintain economic growth."

He added that a Democratic victory would also mean a larger federal budget and higher taxes.

New York Is Gloating Over Oscar Show Flop

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Using a sneak-punch, New York's trying to recapture TV from Los Angeles. Broadway claims the Oscar fiasco proves Hollywood lacks TV brains. Right now, Jeanne Crain, Jane Powell, Walter Pidgeon, Tab Hunter, Ed Wynn, John Raitt, Kathryn Grayson, Vincent Price and Eddie Albert — of Hollywood — are involved in shows here, for which they had to be brought cross-country. To New York's heckling about the Oscar bust, Hollywood replies, "Yes, but don't forget, YOU had quiz shows!"

The Broadway crowd insists, however, that there must be some good reason that the stars come from Hollywood to New York to do the spectaculars and specials.

Is it that the engineering and producing and directing experts don't go westward somehow (in TV, that is)?

The Beverly Hills restaurateur, Mike Romanoff, tells me that his slowest night is Thursday. He's figured out that its's because "Playhouse 90," the live drama show, is on TV that night, and that the movie stars stay home to watch the movie stars movie-star on TV.

Fireball Hope Loses Hop but Chucks Good Game

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bob Hope's fast ball has lost much of its hop, but he remains a superb technician who still chucks a comfortable game.

Last night, Hope, working in loose alliance with Jack Benny and Ginger Rogers, bunched together a collection of taped sequences for a one-hour NBC-TV special.

The hour was freely chartable: It contained an opening Hope monolog, a sketch that dealt with Benny's niggardliness, a song by Miss Rogers that was stronger on visual values than musicianship, a dollop of Jerry Colonna-type vertigo.

There was even one Hope-Rogers spoof of neatniks that followed the pattern of a beatnik skit that Hope did with the wondrously plastic Carol Haney on a recent special.

Short Shots: Last night's NBC-TV Wagon Train—a thing about a fumbling egghead who redeemed himself—was a conventional omelet, but Wally Cox's portrayal of the wisp, wooly, cloudland hero was a delicious pieee of playing.

Postpone State Hearing on Teamster Insurance

LANSING (AP) — Continuance of a hearing on Teamster Union insurance dealings by Allen M. Dorfman of Chicago has been postponed until May 14, the State Insurance Department announced today.

Dorfman, who handles group insurance for more than 130,000 Teamsters, faces loss of his Michigan license.

The insurance department said the hearing, originally scheduled for April 21, was rescheduled to allow Dorfman's attorney to collect his exhibits.

At an earlier hearing here March 23, Dorfman was asked to show cause why his Michigan licenses should not be suspended. Among other charges, he was accused of giving away premiums to Teamster officials.

Colin Turnbull, famous Scottish anthropologist, spent the last three years living with pigmy tribes in the Belgian Congo. Shortly he will become director of the African Department of the Museum of Natural History in New York.

Navy Expert Wants One Space Agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy's research director wants the nation's space program put under a single agency—but not during this session of Congress.

Vice Adm. John T. Hayward, head of the Navy's research and development programs fired some strong criticism at the present setup of separate civilian and military space agencies when he testified Wednesday before a congressional committee.

But he later said, "I certainly wouldn't change the law this session (of Congress)."

Hayward made his recommendations to a Senate Space subcommittee headed by Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo).

Hayward urged a space administration similar to that of the Atomic Energy Commission, which has handled both the military and peacetime uses of atomic energy.
