

Road Fund Package Gets House Setback

LANSING (U) — A $61-million package designed to raise gasoline and weight taxes for virtually all motor vehicles suffered a setback in the House yesterday. But it was to be reconsidered today in a rare Saturday session.

The five-bill package, which the Senate passed last April, stalled when the House voted 46-48 against the measure to increase the annual registration fee for autos and other vehicles.

The bill is designed to raise $24 million a year. It would charge most autos a registration fee of 35 cents per 100 pounds, with a $15 annual minimum.

Under the current fee of 35 cents per 100 pounds, a 4,000-pound luxury car would be taxed at $14, while a 1,600-pound economy model would be charged only $6.40.

Other parts of the "good roads" package, designed to raise more money for special restricted highway funds, would:

- Boost the tax on gasoline and other motor fuels by one cent per gallon, raising an estimated $3 million.

- Give cities and the State Waterways Fund larger shares of the gasoline tax.

- Change the formula for computing the weight tax on trucks, with the biggest rigs getting the highest fee increases.

An amendment to the package raising the gasoline tax another quarter-cent to pay for Mackinac Bridge refinancing was to be considered by the House today. The Senate has defeated a similar amendment.

Gasoline taxes in Michigan were last raised in 1955.

The waterways fund now gets 4 percent of state gasoline levies. That share would be tripled if the package passes.

Four of the five bills, including the weight tax measure defeated yesterday, are designed to stand as a unit. Each contains a provision that it will not become law unless the other three are passed.

Youth Is Charged With Fatal Beating

A Pontiac youth was being held without bond in the Oakland County Jail today on an open charge of murder in the fatal beating of his 15-year-old girlfriend yesterday.

Assistant Prosecutor Ronald E. Covault said that the degree of murder would probably be determined when the suspect, Porfido R. Acosta, has his preliminary examination Tuesday.

Acosta, 19, of 387 Ferry is accused of the death of Linda D. Arnold of 142 Clifford.

The girl, a June graduate of Eastern Junior High, ran away from home about three weeks ago, according to police.

Her body was first found lying in the street in front of Acosta's home by a passing motorist, and later by police in the back yard of the home.

GIRL'S BODY

Acosta was standing over the girl's body when police arrived, they said.

An hour and half before police were called to the scene of the slaying, two other patrolmen had investigated a fight on Auburn and East Wide Track involving Acosta and Miss Arnold.

Police said she used a fictitious name and gave her age as 19.

Acosta told police that he had hit her because he had caught her with another man.

ALL RIGHT

She told police that everything was all right and said that she wanted to remain with Acosta.

Police said that the girl was reported missing June 13 by her mother, Mrs. Donald Arnold. It was the third time that she had left home since March, according to police.

Acosta, who is unemployed, stood mute to the charge yesterday afternoon when he was arraigned before Pontiac Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum.

Acosta was returned to the county jail to await preliminary examination.

McNamara's Questions Sharp

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command argued for a new large U.S. troop build-up today and may have run into sharp questioning by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara on how many troops are needed and why the South Vietnamese are not pulling more of the load.

In making its case for perhaps 100,000 troops above the current 466,000 in Vietnam, the U.S. Command also told McNamara what Gen. William C. Westmoreland considered his troops could do with less.

A U.S. official spokesman declined to elaborate on this point, but past indications have been that Westmoreland felt substantially less than the requested figure would leave him without enough troops to win the war.

McNamara, who is on his ninth trip to Vietnam, will carry Westmoreland's plea, together with his recommendations, when he returns to Washington to report to President Johnson.

The official spokesman said McNamara, in a three-hour discussion of allied troop strengths, asked "extremely close questions" on the ratio of U.S. combat infantrymen to support and rear-area troops and discussed a possible boost in Saigon's army and militia force of 650,000. This represents about four per cent of the population. McNamara apparently feels this figure is too low.

5 Held in Alleged Plot to Hire Killer

DETROIT (UPI) — Five persons were arrested early today after allegedly attempting to hire a State Police detective to murder the husband of a young woman.

All five, three men and two women, stood mute at arraignment in front of Farmington Township Justice of the Peace Byron D. Walters on charges of conspiring to murder Leonard Wright, 20, of Highland Park.

They were bound over for examination July 14. Bond was set at $50,000 each. Arrested were Nicholas J. Gueli Jr., 41, Hazel Park; Patrick R. McNamara, 22, Detroit; and Daniel M. Duffy, 23; Patricia Duffy, 20; and Laurie K. Wright, 18, all three of Highland Park.

Air, Land Battles at Suez Canal

BEIRUT, Lebanon (U) — Egyptian and Israeli forces battled in the air and on the ground along the Suez Canal today in what appeared to be the most serious clash between them since the six-day Arab-Israeli war.

Radio Cairo said the Egyptian government demanded an urgent session of the U.N. Security Council in New York to deal with what it called "the new aggression."

The Egyptian broadcast said Israeli air force jets had attacked Egyptian positions in Port Said and Port Fuad at the Mediterranean entrance to the Suez Canal and that Egyptian planes engaged them in air combat.

It claimed Israeli forces were trying to move up the eastern bank of the canal in a drive to seize Port Fuad.

Israel claimed that Israeli jets were strafing Egyptian artillery which had opened fire on the Israeli occupation forces from the west bank of the canal. It said the fighting was along several miles of the canal's banks.

HIT BY ARTILLERY

Israeli tanks on the east bank were hit by the Egyptian artillery fire, a Tel Aviv communique said.

It was the second straight weekend in which fighting had broken out in violation of the Arab-Israeli cease-fire which went into effect June 19, halting Israel's sweep into the territories of three Arab nations: Egypt, Jordan and Syria.

An Egyptian army communique said six Israeli Mirage jets, French-built planes had penetrated Egyptian air space over Port Said and Port Fuad at 2 p.m. (8 a.m., EDT) the Cairo broadcast said.

It added that Egyptian anti-aircraft guns opened up, and Egyptian planes took to the air. It did not say how many.

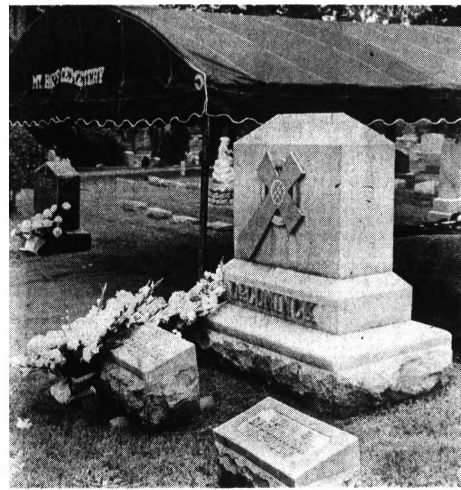

The broadcast said an air and artillery battle on the canal was in progress.

Earlier, Egypt claimed its forces were repelling an Israeli attempt to advance on Port Fuad. It said the clash came at Ras El'ish on the east bank of the canal. This was the scene of three clashes last weekend.

An Israeli communique said Egyptian artillery fired into its positions, killing two Israeli soldiers and wounding 13.

LAID TO REST — Slain West Bloomfield Township trustee and businessman Edward E. DeConick was buried yesterday in this family plot in Mount Hope Cemetery. Many years ago, the family spelled the name DeConick, which accounts for the names on early markers shown here.

Police Work Double Shift in Trustee Murder Case

West Bloomfield Township Police are working double shifts in order to sift every lead in the brutal murder Monday night of Township Trustee Edward E. DeConick.

The Pontiac Press has offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the killers of Edward E. DeConick.

"Right now we're following up on every bit of information as it comes in and hoping for a break," said one investigator.

DeConick, 62, was buried yesterday in Mount Hope Cemetery.

He was beaten, then shot to death by four intruders in his home at 5497 W. Maple.

His sister, Kathleen, 73, who was beaten and shot in the head, is in satisfactory condition in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. She told police the chain of events leading to her brother's death began when a woman knocked at the DeConick's door about 11 p.m. and asked to use the telephone.

When the door was opened, she said, three men armed with a shotgun and pistols rushed in, beat the pair, then tied them up.

After ransacking the house the bandits shot both and fled with a cashbox and floor safe, she told police.

Miss DeConick was able to free herself and call for help.

She described the male assailants as Negroes in their 20s, ranging from short to above-medium height.

She said the woman was either white or a light-skinned Negro.

Speck Throws Coffee at Guard

JOLIET, Ill. (UPI) — Richard F. Speck, convicted killer of eight student nurses, was one of four inmates who threw hot coffee on penitentiary guards during a dispute yesterday, the warden said. Warden Frank J. Pale of Stateville Penitentiary said Speck and three other inmates apparently were protesting another inmate's singing during early morning hours.

Courts Next Step on State Tax

LANSING (U) — Court action apparently is the next step for those who question the constitutionality of Michigan's new state income tax bill, despite discouraging news from the attorney general. In answer to questions by Sen. George Kuhn, (R-Birmingham, Atty. Gen.), Frank Kelley said yesterday that he believes the courts will uphold the bill and will rule that it is not subject to a popular referendum.

Aviatix Has Earhart Theory

OAKLAND, Calif. (U) — A modern-day Amelia Earhart with the same type of blonde, tousled hair and spirit of adventure believes after retracing Miss Earhart's ill-fated 1937 flight that the famed aviatrix crashed in the Southwest Pacific near Howland Island, Ann Pellegrino, 30, a Saline, Mich., housewife, landed her twin-engine plane at Oakland yesterday, completing an east-west circling of the earth.

Time Situation More Confused

LANSING (U) — Michigan clocks soon may throw up their hands in despair if the state's time situation becomes any more befuddled. A House-approved resolution asking the federal government to put all of Michigan in the Central Time Zone was reported out of a Senate Committee yesterday, then returned to the committee for further study before senators vote on the measure.

'Congolese Are Victorious'

BRUSSELS, Belgium (U) — Congolese government forces have defeated a band of mercenaries and rebels in Bukavu, Kisangani and Kindu, and the fighting there is over, the Congolese radio claimed today. It said President Joseph D. Mobutu would address the nation by radio later today.

North Viet Strategist Dies

SAIGON (U) — A shadowy North Vietnamese general who masterminded Communist political and military strategy in the south from a jungle stronghold near Cambodia's border has died of a heart attack, according to Hanoi Radio. He was 53-year-old Gen. Nguyen Chi Thanh, who not only directed the war in South Vietnam but was the eighth-ranking member of North Vietnam's Communist hierarchy.

Reagan Flays LBJ Policies

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Gov. Ronald Reagan, attacking President Johnson's foreign and domestic policies, says Americans don't like "talking of peace and prosperity while young men are dying in Vietnam."

"They're not in the mood to buy the sickly pastel shades of political expediency," the governor told fellow Republicans at a county fairground barbecue.

Reagan left Sacramento last night for an evening of political handshaking, speech making and a confidential chat with a leader of the Deep South's resurgent Republican party.

He talked for 45 minutes with Howard (Bo) Calloway, last year's unsuccessful GOP candidate for governor of Georgia.

8 in GOP to Tell Viet Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Long-probe chances for a negotiated settlement with minimum military risk.

The eight Republicans joining in the proposal have scheduled a news conference Monday to make it public. None is identified with the GOP leadership, which has maintained a public show of support for Johnson's policy.

A few weeks ago, however, 60 Democrats, all staunch supporters of President Johnson, cautiously raised the possibility of a renewed attempt to bring the United Nations into an effort for a peaceful settlement.

States policy in Vietnam, which has in recent months been curbed through a growing belief that any form of dissent or debate in wartime is unworthy.

In a statement announcing the news conference they said the plan presented "a viable alternative to the current administration policy which, to many, seems to offer no reason for optimism."

They said they also hoped their plan would remind "the policy-maker and the critic alike that Vietnam is still a limited war in every sense of that term and that there is an immense difference between the diplomacy of limited war and the diplomacy of total war."

The eight GOP members making the statement were Reps. F. Bradford Morse, Mass.; John R. Dellenback, Ore.; Marvin L. Esch, Mich.; Frank J. Horton, N.Y.; Charles M. Mathias Jr., Md.; Charles A. Mosher, Ohio; Richard S. Schweiker, Pa.; and Robert T. Stafford, Vt.

Saginaw Hunts Arson Suspect

SAGINAW (AP) — Police continued to search today for C. Palo Boyd, a 27-year-old Saginaw man sought on arson charges stemming from several fire bombings of downtown Saginaw stores June 28.

Meanwhile, four men were arrested Friday before Municipal Judge W. Glover Gage. Police said three youngsters allegedly involved in the bombings were turned over to juvenile authorities.

Chrysler Recalls 6,000 Cars

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. Friday announced recall of more than 6,000 late 1966 and early 1967 model cars because of a possible defect in front wheel disc brakes.

The firm said it had notified the National Safety Agency plus owners of the cars involved to return them to dealers for inspection and any necessary corrections.

The cars involved included 525 late production 1966 models and a possible 5,975 early production

1967 models of the Plymouth Belvedere and the Dodge Coronet and Charger lines.

"There is a possibility that water may enter the disc brake proportioning valve," a company spokesman said. "Dealers will install a new proportioning valve on the affected vehicles."

HUB DUST CAPS

Chrysler also said it was recalling 159 Dodge Chargers made in 1967 which may have been assembled without hub dust caps which protect front wheel bearings from road dirt and water.

Another 7,407 Dodge Dart and Plymouth Barracuda two-door hardtop models made in 1967 were recalled because of a possible defect in the rear center seat belt. A spokesman said there was a possibility that in a "severe collision, the center seat belt can be cut by a shelf panel brace."

Total enrollment in public schools in the U.S. in the fall of 1966 was 42,987,000.

Unity Need for Downtown Rebirth

Meeting with a representative group of Pontiac citizens, A. DEAN SWARTZEL, an official of Federal Housing and Urban Development (HUD) did much to clarify issues related to the local scene.

The HUD regional administrator preserved a nice balance of objectivity and impartiality as the principal bone of contention — the Taubman plan for redevelopment of a downtown business center — was attacked and defended.

Swartzel pointed out that the original Pontiac urban renewal program had been approved in 1961 and indicated that methods of its implementation were mainly matters of local responsibility and agreement.

With reference to assertions by the Citizens Committee for Pontiac Progress that the Taubman plan was illegal, the HUD administrator said that he had requested the Washington office to investigate the charge, but gave as his opinion that local conflict revolved mainly around "procedural issues."

Seven different downtown development projects have fallen of their own weight since Pontiac first committed itself to an urban renewal program. Thus far the plan initiated by A. ALFRED TAUBMAN is the only one to reflect concrete realism with hope of ultimate success.

We think that now is the time for all civic elements to resolve their viewpoints and aims, join in the common objective of city improvement and get wholeheartedly behind a plan that promises to transform the wastes of downtown Pontiac into the thriving center of activity it once was.

Says Educator: Machines Artful, Not Heartful

The graduating class of a high school in Charlotte, N. C., heard a word of caution from its commencement speaker that might well be passed along to students—and their elders—everywhere.

"The danger facing civilization today," Chancellor D. W. COLVARD of the Charlotte campus of the University of North Carolina warned the graduates, "is not in machines becoming more human, but in man becoming more and more like a machine."

The chancellor, if he will forgive an unacademic expression, said a mouthful.

Day by day, it seems, modern living is becoming more and more mechanical, more impersonal, unpeopled and numberish.

It's not only those blinkety-blink computers but the trend toward treating human beings as numbers instead of persons. And while this may be extremely efficient, it's also coldly dehumanizing.

No one warns up to someone who calls him by number or, in more tender moments by the cuddly salutation of "Occupant." Or even "Box-holder."

What Chancellor COLVARD was telling the high school graduates was not to permit themselves to be so caught up in the space age that they forget that they have something no machine can have—human warmth.

How long has it been since a vending machine smiled at you and said, "Hurry back"?

Expert Airs Inflationary Change for Tires

The free air Americans are accustomed to getting at service stations may go the way of the free lunch with a nickel glass of beer.

According to tire expert LAWRENCE R. SPERBERG, head of a Texas research firm, oxygen is the major culprit in shortening tire life. It eats into the rubber and tire cord fabric and weakens both, especially when the air is heated during high-speed driving.

He recommends using pure nitrogen, which makes up 79 per cent of ordinary air, to fill tires. Service stations could easily replace their air compressors with tanks of pressurized nitrogen.

The initial cost of flushing the oxygen out of four tires and filling them with nitrogen would range from $1 to $2.

Auto safety experts and the Tire Retreading Institute are pumping hard for the nitrogen idea, reports a national newspaper. The retreaders see it as a boon to business because they would be getting sturdier used-tire casings and customers would look more favorably on recaps.

Original tire companies and tire cord manufacturers, however, are less enthusiastic. Perhaps they sense business deflation in the idea aired.

Makes Frustration Seem Bearable

BY JAMES MARLOW

AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON—If President Johnson could just latch onto something solid—and big—it would rocket his popularity.

He knows this but he has had to learn to make frustration seem bearable and the intangible look like an achievement.

The Vietnam war has been around his neck since he took office, the end is not in sight, the critics—tapering off recently—have been after him like hunters after a fox, and the cost in men and money keeps climbing.

The Pentagon figures it will need $12 billion for the war alone these next 12 months.

But he has made peace gestures which the North Vietnamese spurned and both parties in Congress, except for scattered critics, are behind him.

Nevertheless, unless he can start peace talks before the 1968 presidential campaign, in which he almost certainly will run again, he will have to do a lot of explaining.

If this seems a handicap, the Republicans are in a box, too. They almost certainly will not pick an antiwar candidate, which leaves them in the role of backing the war but complaining about how it has been handled. And the Republicans have been critical of their own critics.

They gave an illustration of this a couple of months ago when the staff of the Senate Republican Policy Committee turned out a 91-page report on the war, much of it critical, and the Republicans began quarreling among themselves.

By shrewd handling of himself in all this, mostly in recent months, Johnson has been careful about what he said on the war, thus leaving his critics with few of his own words to throw back at him or turn against him.

They have had to content themselves with complaints about the purpose, the validity, the tactics, and the strategy of the war, all of which are in the field of abstractions and not of personality.

LEARNED TO BE PATIENT
Thus, while the United States under Johnson has suffered continued frustration in this war it has learned to bear the war patiently, so much so that it backs him in trying to win it if only because new national pride is involved.

Nor can the United States under Johnson take credit for anything in the Middle East war, except staying out of it, which can be considered negative achievement since the Soviets wanted to stay out also, both sides knowing that if they got in they'd be in against each other.

And there is nothing positive Johnson can point to—at this time, anyway—as coming out of his summit meeting with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

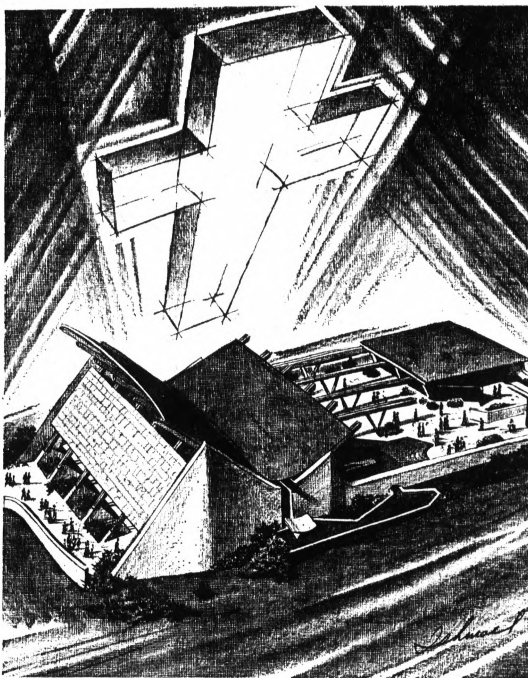

But Johnson handled it well. Kosygin, no matter how tough he sounded later for Soviet policy purposes, blessed the meeting with a manner which seemed grateful.

If Johnson achieved nothing positive at the conference, at least he built a bridge that might be useful later.

Here Johnson made the intangible seem real and worthwhile. But all this puts the Republicans who challenge him in 1968 in the position of having to criticize frustrations and find fault with intangibles because these last two years of the Vietnam war have been a kind of marking-time period.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

The Christian Pavilion at Expo 67 in Montreal this year is a great ecumenical project. It is the first time anywhere that eight Christian denominations have joined under one roof to give the Gospel of Jesus Christ to all men. The theme of Expo 67 is "Man and His World." What could be more appropriate in such a setting than a graphic presentation of Christ's basic and eternal truths?

The major Christian churches in Canada have undertaken this venture together. They are the Roman Catholic, United, Anglican, Presbyterian, Lutheran, Baptist, Greek-Orthodox and Ukrainian-Orthodox. Since they have always agreed on the fundamental principles of Christianity (while differing in some of their interpretations), they were determined to present the Christian message with one voice. . . . To remind Man of his responsibilities to himself, to his fellow men and to his Maker.

Confident Living:

Defeat Inner Feeling of Failure

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

It is amazing how some people insist on failing in life. I have seen many cases of perfectly competent people who got some compulsive failure complex and rode it to just that—failure.

They did not understand why they were that way, and other people were agitated that anyone with potential ability could throw it away.

There was such a man in Nebraska. His wife was puzzled and almost beside herself. Her husband's ability was such that his business was, as she put it, "like an airplane ready to take off and fly."

"But just when everything is going good he does something that takes all the altitude out of it. And," she added, "he is far from dumb, but he does things so stupid that it almost gives the appearance of being deliberate."

As a matter of fact, the so-called dumb things that he did were deliberate, unconsciously deliberate. When a person has a deep inner feeling of failure, but begins to succeed, the profound failure feeling sometimes does everything possible to protect itself and prevent potential success.

Its method of operation is the employment of irrational actions designed to nip success and induce failure results.

Going into this case we found that this man's father had been forced to be a farmer, when actually he had wanted to be an educator. This made him a bitter spirit-broken person, and the son grew up in this atmosphere.

The father noted in his son those sensitive quick-minded characteristics which made him a replica of himself. And by some devices, shall I say devilish, quirk of mind he also saw in the boy a rival who could be what he himself had wanted to be and he determined to break him.

This emotionally sick father drove into the boy's consciousness a certainty that he would be a failure. So deeply imbedded was this conviction that, long after his father's death, and in a business of his own—one that had every potential—he often revealed the destructive ineptness that he had been assured he possessed.

When we acquainted this man with the curious psychological mechanism so long dominant in his mind he began for the first time to understand himself. And also he had a new understanding of his father that developed into compassion for a man who had suffered so acutely from emotional ill health.

We taught him to view his father not as a father but as a pathetic and unhappy human being. Then came forgiveness of his conflicted parent. No sooner had the forgiveness been expressed than peace came to his mind.

"Your father wanted to succeed but failed so I suggest that you get busy and succeed—succeed for your father as well as for yourself. Maybe somewhere in the afterlife the unhappy man will be at peace and take pride in you."

Tears welled up in his eyes. "That is what I always wanted—my father to be proud of me."

"He was not really a cruel man," I said, "only a mixed-up, terribly unhappy person. But that is now in the past if you will leave it there."

Well, he did leave it there and went on to achieve the success of which he was eminently capable.

Naturally the psychological wounds of a lifetime did not heal instantly but the twin factors of self-understanding and compassionate forgiveness eventually cured this man of inflicting failure upon himself.

If you are experiencing failure or if a greater success might be expected as a result of your effort and ability, make an in-depth study of yourself.

Determine whether an unhealthy thought pattern may be defeating you. And if so, remember that it can be changed. Failure is not necessary.

Holiday Brought to Mind Events in U.S. History

Did anyone remember, while they watched the beautiful displays of fireworks on the 4th of July, the beginning of it all?

The beautiful words and their meaning written by Thomas Jefferson to which the colonial leaders pledged their lives, fortunes and sacred honor . . . and in December of the same year, the bloody footprints made by rag-bound feet at the battle of Trenton. . . . Abraham Lincoln dying in Ford's Theater, and Andrew Johnson smeared and publicly disgraced for carrying out his policies . . . Dag Hammarskjold dying in a mysterious plane crash while trying to bring peace to the beleaguered Congo . . .

General William Dean, captured and imprisoned in Korea, while covering the retreat of his men . . . Medgar Evers, of the Mississippi NAACP . . . Rabbi Adler of Detroit . . . John F. Kennedy.

The average teen-ager is much maligned, viewed with suspicion, and better than they can be expected to be with the example given them to follow. Be informed. Vote intelligently. Fly the flag proudly. Discuss the issues. And do not put up with ignorant opinions, based on heresy and prejudice.

'Right Connections Often Prove Effective'

I'm convinced that had Clay decided to go into the army he could have stayed "stateside" and maybe have come out a general, despite the fact he was allegedly turned down twice because he couldn't pass the required tests. It seems principles aren't as effective as connections when one wishes to stay out of this war.

I wish Grandpa Johnson would quit talking about "our" duties and "our" country and tell us just what makes "our" obligations so much more an honor to fight and die for "our" country than his family and his associates.

Coming south on Cass at Johnson there's no light allowing right turns onto Johnson. Why not a late for right turn cars, instead of causing them to wait? Also, why isn't there a red sign on the NE corner of Cass and Johnson so cars won't turn left and go the wrong way into one-way traffic?

REPLY

Approval has already been given for a signal allowing right turns, and will be put into effect as soon as the work order comes from Lansing. Mr. Gusman of Traffic Engineering likes your suggestion for a sign at that corner and says one will be placed there as soon as possible.

"Humm," mused Tarloff. "That sounds like great stuff. Maybe I should write a sequel, 'A Guide for the Married Congressman.'"

The President's reason for this, he said, was that aides couldn't stay late for important clean-up work because they had to get home to their wives and dinner.

It was business as usual on the House floor when suddenly, Rep. Dan J. Flood, D-Pa., jumped up to announce, "I've just heard a treaty with Panama has been concluded."

Negotiators for Panama and the United States had agreed on pacts concerning the control, defense and neutrality of the existing Panama Canal and providing for a new sea-level passage.

Some members of Congress object to any possibility the United States may relinquish sovereignty over the Canal Zone in favor of joint administration. Flood is apparently among those who feel the President pulled a sneak play while attentions were turned elsewhere.

"I am so mad about this, coming on the Midwest situation, that I could spit," Flood raged. "Please," came a voice from afar, "not here."

Hurt by Rapid Soviet Shipments

Mideast Arms Pact Hope Dim

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rapid Soviet delivery of fighter planes, tanks and other modern arms to Arab nations during the past month has sharply discouraged Johnson administration hopes of negotiating an international agreement to limit arms levels in the Middle East.

U.S. officials say they have not given up all hope of discussing this problem with the Soviet government but that in the light of Soviet actions since the Arab-Israeli war ended last month the prospect does not look very promising.

The issue is understood to be one on which President Johnson received no encouraging indications from Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin during their conference at Glassboro, N.J.

U.S. officials say Kosygin followed privately the same hard line on the Middle East crisis which he took publicly at the United Nations.

REASON FOR HOPE

Nevertheless, administration officials found some reason for post-Glassboro hope because there are Arab-Israeli issues on which the United States and Soviet Union were shown to have somewhat similar positions.

Kosygin made clear to the President—as he said publicly—that the Soviet government recognizes the existence of the state of Israel. The Arab nations do not recognize Israel's right to exist.

U.S. officials also concluded from the Glassboro talks that the Soviet Union would have no problem working for an end to the state of war which has existed between Israel and its Arab neighbors since Israel was established in 1948.

Neither, it was said, would the Soviets object to finding some workable solution for the problem of more than a million Arab refugees from Israel.

It was also indicated at Glassboro that Moscow would go along with some kind of arrangement to assure international access to waterways in the area, apparently referring to both the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Aqaba.

The two major U.S.-Soviet problems on the Middle East are Moscow's new supply of arms to the Arabs—with no sign as to where it will end—and Soviet insistence that Israeli forces withdraw from conquered Arab territory in advance of a general peace settlement.

Officials here reaffirmed the U.S. position that arrangements for withdrawal must be part of a peace settlement. The most serious problem foreseen by Washington authorities is the ultimate disposition of the part of Jerusalem captured from Jordan by Israel during the week-long conflict that began June 5.

State Hunting Smugglers via N. C. Papers

LANSING (AP) — A house trailer totting 7,800 cartons of untaxed cigarettes into Michigan has led state authorities on a smuggler hunt via Asheville, N.C., newspapers.

The cigarette tax division of the Michigan Department of the Treasury placed ads this week in the North Carolina papers, offering cash rewards for information leading to the arrest of persons transporting untaxed cigarettes into Michigan.

Smugglers bring the cigarettes into the state for sale without the 7-cent-per-pack state tax.

"We had smugglers come into the state recently with cigarettes out of North Carolina," explained David Parker, division director.

"They had 120 cases — with about 60 cartons per case—in a trailer," Parker termed the haul "sizeable compared with the usual run of 10 to 15 cases."

Meadow Brook Plans Busy Week

Six events of major interest are scheduled this week by Oakland University's Meadow Brook Festival in the Baldwin Memorial Pavilion.

This Sunday at 6:30 P.M. Sixten Ehrling conducts the Detroit Symphony Orchestra with violinist James Oliver Buswell IV the soloist playing Lalo's "Symphonie Espagnole." The major work on the program will be Mahler's epic Symphony No. 5.

On Wednesday at 8:30 P.M., the Meadow Brook School of Music Orchestra and Chorus will appear. The program will include Weber's Overture to "Euryanthe" and Weber's "Six Pieces for Orchestra" conducted by James Levine, and Beethoven's Symphony No. 9 (with final chorus on Schiller's "Ode to Joy") conducted by Robert Shaw.

GUEST CONDUCTOR

Thursday, Friday, and Saturday at 8:30 P.M., and Sunday at 6:30, guest conductor Hiroyuki Iwaki will take over the Festival's regular concerts with Tchaikovsky Competition winning soprano Jane Marsh as soloist.

Miss Marsh will be heard in Turina's Song Cycle "Canto e Sevilla" Thursday and Friday.

day and Friday on a program which includes Britten's Four Sea Interludes from "Peter Grimes" and the Sibelius Symphony No. 2.

Saturday and Sunday she will sing arias from Refice's "Cecilia" and Verdi's "Otello" on a program which included Mayuzume's "Bugaku" Suite and Tchaikovsky's Symphony No. 4 in F Minor.

Iwaki, one of Japan's most distinguished conductors, has recently accepted a post with the Berlin Philharmonic after resigning as director of the NKK Symphony of his country. During his stay at Meadow Brook, Ehrling will be guest conducting three concerts (July 10-11-13) with the Philadelphia Orchestra with soloists Gary Graffman, pianist, and Ingrid Bjoner, soprano.

Meeting on Tuesday

The Fashionette Club will meet Tuesday at the Ada Shelly Library at 7 p.m. Miniature Golf will be the program for the evening.

Any woman wishing to lose weight may attend.

It's Official—Congratulations

LANSING (UPI)—Two Northern Michigan legislators Friday introduced a resolution in the House that congratulates Linda Kaye Christie, 18, of Alpena, for being elected the 1967 National Cherry Queen.

Miss Christie will reign next week over the 34th National Cherry Festival at Traverse City.

The resolution was offered by Reps. Joseph Swallow, R-Alpena, and Arnell Engstrom, R-Traverse City.

Miss Michigan Enthusiastic About Dream Come True

DETROIT (AP) — Life has been a dream — in a goldfish bowl — to Toni Jo Abbenante since she won the Miss Michigan contest.

"At home in Grand Rapids, I can't go anywhere without being recognized," said the 19-year-old brunette.

WARDROBE

She was scurrying about Detroit Thursday, trying out some of the $1,000 wardrobe she won at the Miss Michigan pageant in Muskegon a couple of weeks ago.

"Everyone seems to recognize me," she sighed. "It's hard to get used to living in a goldfish bowl."

But then, she said, the whole thing is like living in a dream.

"Why, all these prizes I got, and I'll be going to Atlantic City for the Miss America pageant."

"You'll have to lower your hemline a little before you do that," said Mrs. James Patton, a veteran Miss Michigan chaperone.

KNEES SHOWING

Toni's knees were tentatively peeping beneath her green dress.

"At the Miss America contest, the

William Deneens Will Be Honored

Family members and friends are traveling to Cheboygan this weekend to participate in the golden wedding celebration of Mr. and Mrs. William Deneen, former Pontiac residents.

Sons David (of North Saginaw Street) and Wayne (of Ortonville) are hosting the open house for the couple who were married July 8, 1917 in Pontiac. They have 14 grandchildren and a number of great-grandchildren.

Blankets, Stars Both Find Favor at OU Festival

By HARRY REED

"Grassers" are legal at OU?

Sure they are, for the Meadow Brook Music Festival concert! What is a "grasser" you say? Area police officers who deal with the summertime affliction might call it an outdoor bash with no holds barred, usually consisting of teenagers and blankets and beer, in roughly equal parts.

Beer is not in evidence at the concerts, but sedate sipping from pre-mixed thermos jugs lends a hazy glow to the soft shadows sneaking over the bandstand and up the hill.

A few sharp slaps may not be in time with the music, but the bug problem isn't bad at all.

REDISCOVERY

For those who feel they are close to nature when they squat to line up a putt, there is the amazing rediscovery that good grass is wonderfully soft to lie upon.

Even constellations long forgotten from camping days come back to visit those who listen flat on their backs.

Sixteen Ehrling's dusk with a wizard's wand, and gets accompanied from a saccato motor bike two hills over, and a lonesome horse who can't read the score.

The Detroit Symphony sound washes over the recurrent forms like summer fog, and only the sharp silhouette of the later-comer breaks the magic from the bright stage.

Its the best $2 bet you'll make all summer.

Irish Laughter Marks Reunion

SOMERVILLE, Mass. (AP) — There were peals of Irish laughter and a few tears when two sisters met Friday night 70 years after they last saw each other in County Cork, Ireland.

"At first we couldn't say a word," said Ellen Aherne, 79, of Bandon, County Cork. "After all, it's been 70 years, but then we both laughed and we're laughing yet."

Mrs. Aherne was reunited with her sister, Katie Harrington, 87, of Cincinnati, Ohio, at the home of Mrs. Harrington's daughter, Mrs. Frank Toomey.

LAST OF NINE

The sisters are widows and the last of a family of nine children.

"Well, we're both older and age does make a difference," said Mrs. Aherne, "but I knew her as soon as I saw her. We've seen lots of pictures of each other."

The idea of a reunion came after their niece, Kathleen Wrenn, New York, got a letter from her Aunt Ellen saying,

"I'm getting old, have you seen Katie?"

Miss Wrenn said, "I wrote her and told her she could come, and she wrote back and said she was coming."

The reunion is slated to last three weeks.

This Cafe Owner Bars Own Wife From Visiting His Pub Unannounced

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 29 and the mother of three children under 10. My husband owns a very popular bar-lounge in town. (We live in a suburb.) He comes home anywhere from 3 to 6 in the morning. He gets up about 11 a.m. and goes to work about 3:30 p.m.

I don't mind his being in the bar business because it's been good to us, but I do resent very much his FORBIDDING me ever to come to his place of business unannounced or uninvited (By the way, I never have, and I probably never would, so he doesn't have to worry).

He forbids me to set foot in his place except when He takes me — which is always on the dearest night of the week.

It's a respectable bar, and caters to women as well as men. This may sound silly to you, but his forbidding me to come by has become such a source of bitterness that I have developed ulcers. It is actually ruining our relationship. Can you tell me what to do?

BITTER-HALF

DEAR BITTER-HALF: Tell your husband that you have had about as much FORBIDDING as you can stand, and that if he values your marriage he will accompany you to an impartial third party to help resolve your problems.

If you have no clergyman to guide you, ask your family physician to recommend a marriage counselor, psychiatrist, or psychologist.

DEAR ABBY: I am in the guard house for going AWOL. I've been here three weeks, and I hate to tell you how much longer I've got in here because this is my third AWOL.

My girl friend just sent word to me that she is pregnant. Do you think they would let me out long enough to marry her?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Talk to the chaplain and plead your case. Maybe they'll allow you just enough liberty to marry the girl. But don't expect a honeymoon.

DEAR ABBY: We were given a dog as a gift, and everything is just fine, except for one matter.

After we have dinner, my husband gives the dog his plate to lick clean. I think this is a disgusting practice, and could be dangerous to our health. My husband says as long as all the dishes go into the automatic dishwasher and are rinsed in boiling water, it doesn't make any difference. What do you think about this?

RED'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Tell Red that if "it doesn't make any difference," you'd just as soon have your own dishes and let the dog have his.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a couple who take your husband out to eat every night, but do not include you? My husband works with this man, and every evening he and his wife invite my husband out to dinner. They know he's married and they know me very well, yet I am ignored as if I didn't exist.

I.O. FORM L.A.

DEAR I.O.: I don't think much of the couple. But why blame them? Your husband doesn't have to accept unless he wants to.

DEAR ABBY: I am a bachelor, living with my widowed mother. I am her sole support.

As a member of a music group, I am scheduled to entertain at home occasionally with classical recordings.

My mother loves to talk, and she holds a steady conversation while the music plays. Obviously I cannot tell her to go to the movies, or to leave the room. She prepares a lovely repast after the session.

I think more of my mother than my musician friends, so do you think that under the circumstances it would be better if I were to discontinue my association with the music group?

My mother is very sensitive to criticism.

A morning ceremony in First Methodist Church, Clarkston united Carol Ann White and Craig Rolf Smith today.

Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. White of Balmoral Terrace, and Mrs. Rolf H. Smith of Maybee Road and the late Mr. Smith.

The bride's gown was floor-length silk organza with appliqued bodice and sleeves. Her chapel length train and controlled skirt were accented with smaller matching appliques. A full length veil was overlaid with a shorter veil, both secured with a circlet. She carried a bouquet of white roses and lily of the valley.

Following a wedding breakfast in the Old Mill Tavern, the couple left for a honeymoon in Canada.

'Not Too Early to Hit China'

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) — Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, World War I flying ace and Congressional Medal of Honor winner, said Friday that "right now is not too early" to hit the Chinese Communists with nuclear weapons.

Rickenbacker spoke at ceremonies observing the 50th anniversary of Selfridge Air Force Base near Mount Clemens.

The 77-year-old pioneer aviator said that the United States is only "tickling" the enemy in Vietnam and that we must attack production centers and "starve the population out" if we are to win.

Asked if such a course might bring the Chinese into the conflict, Rickenbacker said, "To hell with what Chinamen think, we've got the weapons."

Rickenbacker is a former chairman of the board of Eastern Air Lines.

Fighting Along DMZ Kills 836 VC in Week

SAIGON (AP) — Infantry battles and small arms duels along the demilitarized zone over the last week have killed 836 Communist soldiers, the U.S. Command said today.

U.S. Marines, badly battered by enemy artillery and ground assault forces early in the week, claimed overall victory today as they announced that 506 Communists were killed in the past two days, mostly by air and artillery strikes. Marine losses for this period were listed as 17 dead and 46 wounded.

For the whole week, the Marines lost 134 dead, 631 wounded and five missing.

Many of the reports of enemy dead were based on sightings from the air.

In ground action Friday a Marine unit had lost 12 dead and 30 wounded to North Vietnamese artillery fire Thursday more than evened the score when it caught 200 North Vietnamese in the open northeast of Con Thien.

The enemy troops in a narrow draw, blistering air strikes and ambushes were called in. A Marine spokesman said 150 enemy bodies were counted after the smoke cleared. No Marines were reported killed in the clash.

Out in the South China Sea hope of recovering alive Maj. Gen. William J. Crumm and five others lost after two B52s collided grew dimmer. Search vessels picked up pieces of debris from the two huge Stratobats but reported no sign of the missing crewmen. Thirteen crewmen were scooped out of the sea soon after the collision Friday.

Crumm, a veteran of 26 years of Air Force flying, was scheduled to report to the Pentagon in August as director of Aerospace Programs, U.S. Air Force Headquarters.

FIGHTING CONTINUES

The deadly fighting in South Vietnam's northernmost province continued today with new artillery clashes and a pitched battle in which South Vietnamese infantrymen, supported by air and artillery reported they killed another 84 Red troops.

The fighting along the demilitarized zone was reported to U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara on the second day of his Vietnamese inspection tour. He is weighing Gen. William C. Westmoreland's urgent request for troop reinforcements. The heavy North Vietnamese infiltration through the zone is a big factor in Westmoreland's requests. He is believed to have asked for at least another 100,000 troops to bolster the 464,000 now committed to the war.

Before leaving South Vietnam, McNamara will tour the embattled 1st Corps area comprising the five northernmost provinces most threatened by increasing Communist pressure.

A military spokesman said the casualty figures given for the past week's battles in the demilitarized zone were by actual body count. However, only about one-third were confirmed by ground sweeps and the remainder by observation from light spotter planes and helicopters. The spokesman said that the latest casualty figures had been held up while they were personally reviewed by the Marine commander, Lt. Gen. Robert E. Cushman.

Oregon Bank to Be National Landmark

JACKSONVILLE, Ore., (AP)

The C. C. Beckman Bank Building in Jacksonville will be designated next month as a national historical landmark.

The bank opened in the 1850s, when gold was discovered in southern Oregon. But it did not operate for profit.

It served simply as the community strongbox. Depositors often received the exact same money they had put in earlier.

U.S. Will Probe Imbalance of Races in Northern Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Welfare, told the Association of government plans major investigations of northern school systems to hunt possible violations of the Civil Rights Act.

Peter Libassi, director of civil rights enforcement for the Department of Health, Education, Libassi, a young, straightforward, stressed the government will not be an attack on racial imbalance as such. He said it will be aimed at practices which federal courts have found to be violations of the constitutional rights of Negro children.

The enforcement chief said these practices include:

- Drawing school district lines so as to keep white and Negro children in separate schools.

- Using optional attendance zones between white and Negro neighborhoods so white students who would normally go to a Negro school can choose a white one instead.

- Assigning white teachers only to white schools, Negro teachers only to Negro schools.
- Failing to provide teachers, facilities and services which assure Negro schoolchildren educational opportunities equal to those of whites.

The U.S. Office of Education for some time has been looking into alleged civil rights violations in the North, but on a very limited scale.

Why is the new move being made now?

First, says Libassi, the government has had all it could do since 1964 to bring an end to the South's established school segregation. Now that job is nearly done: Of the 5,000 dual school systems existing in 1964 there will be only about 1,500 left this fall.

And Libassi says a recent amendment to the federal school aid bill passed by the House "is a clear delineation that there should be greater emphasis in the North" in compliance with nondiscrimination provisions.

Political Action by NEA Urged

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The new president of the National Education Association has told its members to use their power at the ballot box to ensure that education's needs are met.

"The entire teaching profession and education in America are in the midst of a revolution," said Baullio Alonso at the NEA convention closing Friday night.

"Whether this revolution brings progress or disaster will depend on teachers and their organization than on any other single factor."

Alonso, a Tampa, Fla., high school principal, said "Politics is not an unsavory business. We, who teach government, who teach democratic concepts, who help perpetuate our form of government should be the first to assume an active role in the political process. We must teach by example as well as by precept."

He said the day when legislators pass school legislation out of friendship or magnanimity for educators is long past, if it ever existed.

Alonso said that some teachers have limited opportunity for status and advancement because of religion or the color of their skins. But he pledged renewed efforts to advance NEA's progress in breaking down such barriers in the organization.

The NEA also installed its first Negro vice president, Elizabeth D. Koontz, a public school teacher from Salisbury, N.C. She is expected to succeed to the presidency next year.

Feature Festival, Meeting, Jubilee

Thousands of Detroit area persons of the Eastern Orthodox churches of Greater Detroit will gather at Michigan State Fair Grounds for the 10th Annual Eastern Orthodox Festival July 16.

Many members and friends of the St. George Greek Orthodox will be among the parishioners of the 24 churches.

James Sophia, general chairman for the all-day affair, said the combined group of parishioners will celebrate a vesper service at 5:30 at the Fair Grounds band shelter, with robed choirs singing the responses.

Traditionally the annual con-fab features international foods, music, dancing and customs of the various nationality groups which participate in the Orthodox.

Among those represented will be Albanian, Bulgarian, Macedonian, Russian, Greek, Romanian, Serbian and Syrian.

Activities will begin at noon, Sophia said.

Fair-goers will be able to choose the many exotic national foods and dishes which include a wide range of pastries.

Singing groups and roving musicians will help add the congenial touch.

For children there will be rides and games. In the evening, various dance groups and acts, complete with colorful native costumes, will be featured in an "International Show."

The Festival is open to the public. Admission is $30 for adults; children under 10 will be admitted free.

Chicago Choir at Unitarian

Children's Concert
Scheduled Friday

The Chicago Children's Choir, under the direction of Christopher Moore, will be heard in concert at 8 p.m. Friday at Unitarian Church, Woodward and Lone Pine, Bloomfield Hills.

The repertoire is an adventure in musical history from plainchant to Puccini, Hindemith and Darius Milhaud. In March the choir sang Mahler's Symphony No. 3 with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra under Jean Martinon.

In previous assignments with the Chicago Orchestra the singers have been directed by Margaret Hillis, Fritz Reiner, Pablo Casals and Seiji Ozawa.

In July 1965 the choir had the honor of being chosen to sing the final burial service for Adlai E. Stevenson at Bloomington, Ill.

NEED HOUSING
There will be 41 children for whom the church will need temporary housing, that is, bed and breakfast. Anyone who can accommodate one or more children may call Mrs. Thomas Halsted.

The Children's Choir began in the fall of 1956 as an experimental program in music for the children of First Unitarian Church in Chicago.

The goal was the development of a choir with a firm musical discipline and high performance standard that could explore the widest range of music for children, geared to the growth of its members as people as well as musicians.

The choir is a voluntary after school activity, and meets but three or four times a week. Its exceptional voices are more the result of its training regime than of unusual selectivity in auditions.

Witnesses Oppose Law at Assembly

A. D. Schroeder, dean of the Watch Tower Bible School in New York, will lead discussion of Jehovah's Witnesses opposition to a projected Michigan law in Lansing today.

He will deliver a major policy address entitled "Saving the World of Mankind by Blood" to the delegates and visitors of the District Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses at Civic Center.

The legislation under fire has been proposed by Probate Judges James H. Lincoln of Wayne County and Norman R. Barnard of Oakland County.

A national test case, initiated by Jehovah's Witnesses in their opposition to forced medical treatment, is currently before the United States District Court in Seattle, Wash.

In this case, according to Edward Thornton, leader of Pontiac congregations, Jehovah's Witnesses are challenging action taken by hospitals, doctors and judges in a number of instances in the state of Washington.

Nurses' Guild Plans Service

Mrs. Bobbie White, an active member of Friendship Baptist Church and leader of several musical groups, will bring a message entitled "A Dedicated Life" at the 3:30 p.m. service tomorrow in St. James Missionary Baptist Church.

The program, under the direction of Jesus Terrell, is sponsored by the St. James Nurses' Guild.

Opening lead—W K

By OSWALD & JAMES JACOBY

He who lives by the sword dies by the sword. If he defends himself he lives longer but sometimes you can't do anything about the counter thrust. West's hand called for an opening bid of one heart and practically every player in JACOBY the duplicate game made that bid. Invariably North would overcall with one spade and North and South would wind up at four spades. If hearts were opened and conceded, North could make six but a club or diamond shift would almost surely hold North to five odd.

One West player decided to open with four hearts in spite of being vulnerable against non-vulnerable opponents. North passed. East passed and it was up to South.

South didn't have anything like a four spade bid but he was one of those players who are allergic to being shut out by an adverse preempt. He took a deep breath and came out with four spades.

South ruffed low, played out his ace and queen of spades, four no-trump to check for aces, fanned dummy's queen of clubs, ruffed dummy's last diamonds to show one. North decided that his partner wouldn't have more than one heart and jumped to the spade slam. West was on lead and naturally opened the king of

INSTALLMENT No. 24

BATHED, shaved, and dressed. I was ready to reconquer the enemy camp.

The objectives were clear-cut. Edmond Vostera had set up that Paul de Villenont and his grandmother would be in Venice. Now all I had to do was learn exactly where in Venice they would be, get away from the chateau alive, cross the Italian frontier, find the child, take possession of him, and place both of us under the protection of the nearest American consulate. All this, of course, without money or passport, and with the police of every country on the loose in the Iron Country on the lookout for me.

A small car skittered to a halt in front of the building. I recognized Colonel Jesse Harde.

Colonel Harde sat at lunch he talked steadily and passionately through mouthfuls of food and I hoped no one else would enter the dining room while he was at it. By contributing an occasional nod to this monologue, I learned that he was a leader of the North American Action—the division of the Organisation d'Elite Internationale which was working to bring the light to the United States.

The colonel reached into his breast pocket and drew out a sheet of papers, tissue thin. He slapped them flat on the table, and I got a tantalizing glimpse of what seemed to be rows of numbers. "Here's the FBI table of command totals and these last three pages alone list fifty walk commanders on the North American Action payroll and dedicated to its program. Fifty or thereabouts, and that doesn't even include contacts who run outfit like rifle clubs and can be counted on when the time comes."

I didn't want to appear too anxious to see those pages. I took my time reaching for them, and then a shadow fell over them, a hand covered them. Claude de Gonde was standing behind me, his lips set in a deathlike smile, his eyes cold with anger.

"If you persist in meddling with affairs that don't concern you," he said to me in French, "you will have to be locked in your room," and then shifting to heavily accented English he said brightly to the colonel, "No, no, my friend, I am afraid none of this can be of interest to the young man." He carefully folded up the papers and handed them back into his pocket, looking somewhat puzzled.

"I thought—" the colonel said. "Of course, but Monsieur de Villenont was involved in a killing."

He said sharply, "Monsieur Vostera will accompany me to Dijon and do the best he can from this list. He's mad," she whispered. "Completely mad."

They all are. The one protector Anne had was Hubert, and now he's turned against her, too, because of your affair with her. Then it can't be made to look as if you and Anne were running off together. It also means she herself is safe for the time being."

"What are the papers we're sending to today? Is it her will?"

"No, that was made out when we first came to Paris from Africa. These are the papers making my sister and brother-in-law Paul's guardians, and with all rights to handle his affairs as they see fit. Now listen. I can help you get away from here, but we must make a bargain."

"What kind of bargain?"

"This. I'll arrange to get back from Dijon at nine, and you must be waiting in the hallway by the door. When Edmond and I step out of the car I'll leave the motor running so you can get away in it before anyone can stop you. There will be a valise in the car with clothing in it and a train ticket to Paris. The Paris express stops here at midnight. The train is just because they'll be watching for the car on every road."

"All right," I whispered, "but you have to make it a ticket to Milan."

"You have no passport."

"Let me worry about that. Just book me for a compartment on a train to Milan."

"That train is half an hour earlier."

"Then get back here at eight-thirty. And I'll need money."

"I'll leave some in the valise. And one more thing. Where is the Venice? What's the address?"

"Never mind that, you fool. Keep away from Paul and just consider your own neck."

I said, "What about the bargain? What's my end of it?"

"To kill him. There's a gun under the seat of this couch. Get hold of it during the day. When you go to the car you must use it on him. Swear you will."

"All right, I swear it. For the chance I was being given I would have fairly sworn to anything."

"How do I know I can trust you?" Madame Matilde asked.

"You don't. You'll have to find out when the time comes."

Davis tried to get the OBT out from Harde.

"(To Be Continued Monday)"

"Impossible," Madame Matilde said sharply.

Publisher Charges Violations

Vote Suit Hits Florida's Kirk

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI)—A suit filed by a weekly newspaper publisher yesterday charged that Claude Kirk practiced election fraud in helping win election as Florida's first Republican governor in nearly 100 years.

The suit was filed by J. A. Monroey of Apalachicola, who alleged that Kirk borrowed $75,000 as a campaign loan and allowed a group of wealthy businessmen to pay it back.

The suit also included a long list of other violations allegedly committed by Kirk, including illegal campaign contributions and listing of fictitious contributors.

Kirk refused comment. On earlier occasions he acknowledged borrowing the money, but he said it was to pay personal bills. He had denied any knowledge of repayment of the loan.

Monroey asked in the suit for the court to find that the governor violated Florida's "who gave it, who got it" laws and make "any further orders as shall be warranted in this case."

UNCLEAR 'ORDERS'

It was unclear what those "further orders" could be.

Attorneys said yesterday that the penalty for violation of the election law is revocation of the pulpy official's certificate of office. They noted, however, that under the state constitution the governor can be removed only through impeachment.

It was Monroey's second clash with a powerful individual in the state. His testimony before a congressional committee that DuPont estate trustee Ed Ball ran parts of north Florida like "feudal fiefdoms" helped Congress that the massive DuPont holdings should be broken up.

In his suit against the governor, filed in Leon County Circuit Court, he charged that Kirk borrowed $74,600 from a Jacksonville bank and did not report it as part of his campaign funds.

The loan, the suit charged, was later repaid by St. Augustine millionaire Herbert E. Wolfe and a group of unknown bankers and businessmen.

102 Stricken by Polio in U.S. During 1966

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—A final report on paralytic polio cases in the United States for 1966 showed there were 102 victims of the disease, 66 in Texas. Seven of the polio victims died.

The U.S. Communicable Disease Center of the Public Health Service said in a weekly report that the polio case load last year was the third lowest national total on record.

The CDC said the 1966 total was 41 cases more than reported for 1965 and 11 cases more than occurred in 1964.

The Texas outbreak, described as one of the largest in recent years, involved primarily unimmunized preschool children of low-income background, the health agency said.

WIDELY DISTRIBUTED

Other poliomyelitis cases were widely distributed among 20 states. Besides Texas, only one county in the nation—Los Angeles County in California—reported as many as three cases.

The CDC said only two other counties, King County in Washington and Cook County in Illinois, reported two cases.

More than 75 per cent of the cases occurred in children under 5 years of age and 74 of the 102 cases involved children who had never received any polio vaccine, the CDC said.

Interesting Grouping Balances Mary Magdalene Bust On Low Walnut Table In White Walled Living Room

Magazine Determines Design

By JODY HEADLEE
Home Editor, The Pontiac Press

"We saw the house plans in a magazine, liked them and had our builder adapt them to our needs," said Mrs. Terrance R. Evans.

Located on Butternut Drive, Shelby Township, the charming one-story incorporates an ideal traffic pattern with innovations including a windowless kitchen that acts as a divider between living, dining and family rooms and the foyer.

White walls, white draperies and gold carpeting set the background for the contemporary living room.

On the wall backing the kitchen divider, an oil street scene by Pauline Harris, a brass key, wood blocks, medals, a mandolin, and a masque and etchings by Bernard Buffet are arranged to balance the graceful bust of Mary Magdalene on the low walnut table.

In the adjoining dining room, the contemporary vein is followed against the same background.

COLOR INTEREST

Lighting the area and introducing color interest is the green, blue and yellow plastic globed fixture which hangs over the round walnut table. Chairs, also of walnut, feature black leather seats.

A copper fondue pot on the olive green felt buffet throw is offset by a pair of blue fruit prints.

"I want every major room in the house different," declared Mrs. Evans.

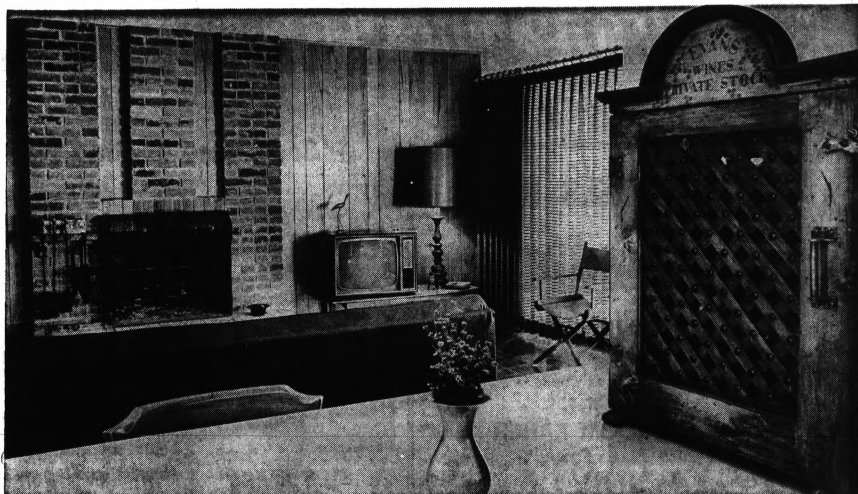

"The living and dining areas are contemporary. The master bedroom is geared for Italian elegance while our 18-month-old daughter Kara's room is earmarked for Victorian rattan and our son Michael's, Early American.

"And the family room," she paused, chuckled and said, "that's for comfort."

Novel paneling detail marks the oak paneled family room fireplace.

A graceful crane, hand carved by Mr. Evans' father stands perkily atop the room's television set.

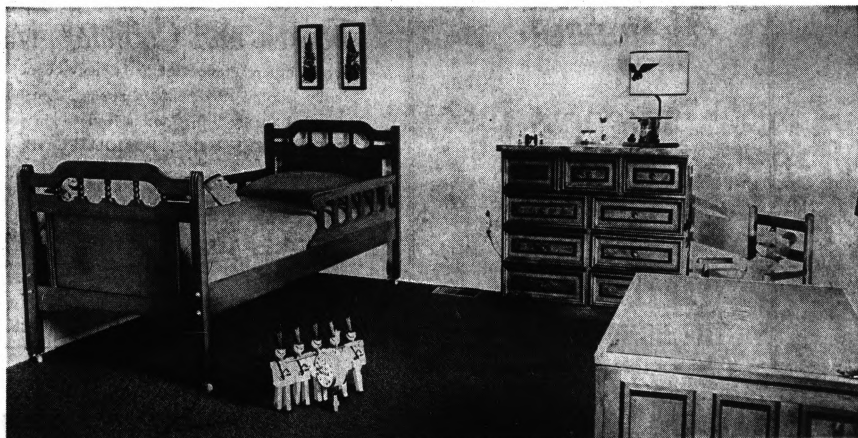

The orange, burgundy and red draperies drop from wooden rods and rings. And in front of the black leather sofa is a throw that identically repeats the draperies' colors.

Camera Helps Insure Those Improvements

Fire, theft, accidents — unpleasant things, things that happen to the other fellow. Not always.

They can happen to you. And claims following such catastrophes can be difficult to prove.

Just how much did you improve the game room before the fire? Was the front walk in a dangerous condition? Was the stolen silver really that valuable?

Not pleasant subjects, but very valuable ones. And your camera can be your best friend in insurance and accident claims. The process is very simple.

Photograph your home, as it stands and with emphasis on any additions.

Photograph all — REALLY ALL — of your valuables. This means going from room to room to record furnishings; then concentrating on such things as furs, jewelry, silver, china, antiques, books, appliances.

INVENTORY

With such a pictorial inventory you have testimony—testimony which has been accepted by insurance firms — for your loss, should it occur. And with modern, easy-to-use cameras such as the Argus 270, you can increase the value of your household insurance for just pennies per item.

One final precaution: When you have taken your photographs, mark each print with place and date, post them all to yourself VIA REGISTERED MAIL, leave the envelope unopened and put it in a safe place, away from home.

An unopened registered letter carries weight—and an accurate date.

Then, if necessary, you can prove your improvements!

A new floor finish won't yellow, is slip resistant, and its vinyl surface will retain its gloss even after 10 detergent washings, says the maker.

EASY ON THE FEET — Resilient tile gives today's home owner an opportunity to duplicate a variety of natural flooring effects. In this new vinyl-asbestos styling from Armstrong Cork Company, the surface is richly embossed to simulate the delicate texture of random mosaics. Note how the design flows from tile to tile to minimize the appearance of seams.

Got Big Feet? Maybe Those Slabs Did It

Did you know that too much walking on concrete floors can enlarge your feet? It can, according to the Arizona Podiatry Association.

A spokesman for the foot doctor's group declared recently that Arizona residents have bigger feet than most other Americans because their homes usually are built on concrete slabs.

He pointed out that wood floors generally are predominant in other areas.

He went on to explain that concrete does not yield under a person's weight.

"Something's got to give, if only a little," he said, "and in this case it's the feet." In "giving," they spread.

Foot doctors long have recommended wood floors, as opposed to hard, unyielding surfaces, because the resilience of the wood serves to minimize fatigue and foot ailments.

Pine Forests Supply Wood

The southern pine forests played a key role in the birth and subsequent growth of America. Today, they are an increasingly important factor in the modern economy.

When Captain John Smith directed construction of a crude sawmill at Jamestown, Virginia, in 1608, he created the nation's first industrial enterprise. Since then, southern pine has yielded enough lumber to build 100 million homes.

The early European colonists were quick to recognize the strength of the species and used it to get themselves established.

The species provided decking and masts for early fighting ships. It also built famous colonial homes, like George Washington's Mount Vernon and Thomas Jefferson's Monticello.

Today, southern pine provides enough lumber to build a million homes a year, 60 per cent of the nation's plywood, the majority of its wood poles and piling — plus increasing quantities of plywood, laminated lumber, chemicals and other products.

PLEASANT AND ADAPTABLE: Looking somewhat like an L-shaped ranch, this inviting house actually is a partial two-story, with the second floor only over the bedroom wing, providing sufficient expansion area for a family needing two extra bedrooms.

FLOOR PLANS: If upstairs is not utilized, first floor of this house is well laid-out for a family requiring only two or three bedrooms. Room at rear left is properly located so that it can be used as a family room, den or an extra bedroom.

Partial Two-Story Proves Flexibility

The L shape of this house not an extremely flexible arrangement, but makes possible what have two, three, four or five might be called an economical bedrooms as it desired.

With the bedroom wing running the depth of the house, architect Herman H. York has provided an expansion area above that wing.

The remainder of the house, comprising the living room, dining room, kitchen and foyer, is really a one-story unit, avoiding the extra expense that would be incurred if there were a full second story.

The net result of all this is any purpose, being at one end of the bedroom hall and near the main bath, yet accessible to both the kitchen and the rear terrace.

A walk-in closet and a private bath are in the sizable master bedroom. Even the smallest bedroom has 168 square feet of floor area.

Moving through the covered entry into the spacious foyer, the view to the right includes the full living room, with a fireplace at the far end, and a portion of the adjacent dining room.

Although the kitchen lies directly behind the foyer, only the dinette area is immediately visible, the working part of the kitchen being hidden from view.

Between the kitchen and the family room is a laundry large enough for a washer, dryer, tub and mud closet, as well as space for an ironing board.

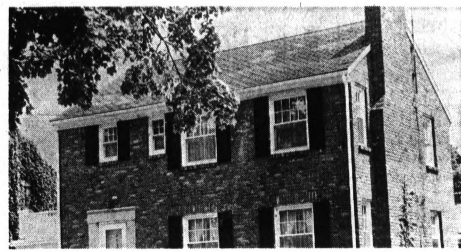

There are three entrances to the rear terrace — from the family room, laundry area and kitchen.

Two bedrooms, a bath and a large amount of closet space are planned upstairs. One of the bedrooms is 16' by 11', with the other a big 18' by 16'.

EXTERIOR

Architect York has suggested the exterior use of masonry, either brick or stone, in the center between the bedroom and garage projections.

Wood shingles, either sawn or lightly hand-split, should contrast with the brick; that is, if the brick is dark, the shingles might be painted white, or if

Oak Flooring Rates Highest

Although they have more competition than a few years ago, oak floors remain an overwhelming favorite for most rooms in American homes today, trade sources report.

The National Oak Flooring Manufacturers' Association says that oak outlasts all other residential flooring materials combined. This does not include, of course, materials which are merely floor coverings.

A Federal Housing Administration bulletin published in 1966 indicated the extent of oak's dominance. Referring to a survey of new single-family dwellings inspected by FHA in 1959 and 1962, the bulletin reported:

"Wood, nearly all hardwood strip, was used for finish floors in the 'living room-bedroom' areas of more than 90 per cent of the nonslab-foundation houses in both survey years." Nonslab foundation houses are those with basements or with crawl spaces.

All but a small percentage of hardwood flooring used in the U.S. is oak. About 95 per cent of the nation's hardwood flooring comes from the Southern and Appalachian regions, and about 97 per cent of the volume in those regions is oak. The remainder consists principally of hard maple, beech, birch and pecan.

CRAWL SPACE
About three-fifths of the houses inspected in the FHA survey had basements or were built over crawl space.

The others, built on concrete slabs, were concentrated chiefly in the Southern and South Central regions. About 16 per cent had hard wood floors.

In the remainder the slabs were either covered by non-wood materials or had no finish flooring.

This situation is expected to change, the oak flooring association says, as builders of slab homes become more aware of a relatively new method of applying strip oak floors economically over concrete.

The method involves nailing the oak to wood sleepers secured to the slab by mastic and by concrete nails.

Generally the omission of wood floors in slab homes has been a matter of economy. Their desirability is universally recognized.

VACATION DREAM — The "Lumber Look" . . . No finished walls to paint, peel, mildew, wash in this Nantucket vacation house.

Vacation House for Mother

'Lumber Look' Is a Natural

Look, ma, no finished walls. As a matter of fact, no finished ceiling. It's the new "lumber look" in vacation houses. Why cover up those beautiful (expensive) rafters when they look so rugged? Besides, a vacation house should look like one.

The idea sums up the whole vacation theory: easy maintenance from floors to rafters. No painting, no mildew, no wall washing. A house that is used in warm weather doesn't need great insulation, and if more is needed, put it on outside before you shingle.

The "lumber look" is something to think about if you are buying, building, renting. New houses and apartments being built on the waterfront at Nantucket have two-story living areas.

The dining section of the large room is one-story tall and has a bedroom above it on a balcony. Off that is another bedroom. An open ladder to the bedrooms increases the vacation house charm.

The fabric is used on two chairs, two day beds (used for guests) and laminated to window shades at two large picture windows. Floral paintings are unframed and hung right on the studs.

"In a vacation house, one should take advantage of the view, but architects and builders often locate picture windows in the wrong places."

"The idea is not to show the houses and apartments. 'Vacation' world what is inside your house."

Tips Given for Floors

How do you get rid of alcohol spots on an oak floor? Rub the spots with a cloth barely dampened in ammonia, or with a cloth treated with liquid or paste wax, silver polish or boiled linseed oil.

How about heel and caster marks? Rub vigorously with fine steel wool dipped in floor cleaner, then wipe dry.

And grease or oil stains? The simplest treatment is to rub on kitchen soap.

These and other tips on removing stains and spots from oak floors are offered in a free booklet, "How to Keep Oak Floors Beautiful," published by the National Oak Flooring Manufacturers' Association.

A booklet of broader scope, "Oak Floors for Your Home," also is available without charge. For a free copy of either booklet write the Oak Flooring Information Service, 75 E. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. 60601.

Detergent "Paint" for Clean Shutters

Have you ever heard about painting window shutters with a bucket of soap or detergent suds?

This is not impossible if the shutters are made of solid vinyl.

These will continue to look new after seasonal washings with no real paint needed. Vinyl blinds provide the added advantages of not peeling or warping, and come in a wide choice of colors.

Preview Color Before Buying

Before selecting the color for your next painting project, take home several color swatches to test in a room you plan to paint.

Since many colors undergo a good deal of change from one kind of light to another study the swatches in both daylight and night.

Before Buying Check Boiler Unit Size Established by BTUs

If you're thinking of buying a new or older home this summer, remember to check the quality of its heating system.

This advice comes from the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, which notes that many summer home buyers forget to check the boiler because it's shut down.

Then when autumn leaves begin to fly, and the system is turned on, they find there are drafts or cold spots that can't be made warm enough regardless of how high the thermostat is set.

If you find an older home you like, it will pay you to have its heating checked by a qualified contractor. If the system is defective in any way, summer is the time to have parts replaced, repairs made or even have a new system installed, if that turns out to be necessary.

Good heating is important not only to your family's comfort but to its health as well.

Hydronic heat is a quality type in which water is piped from a boiler to radiation in the individual rooms. The most popular type of radiation today is baseboard. The boiler itself can be fired by gas, oil or electricity, depending upon your own preference.

Hydronic heat is clean, even, quiet and draft-free. One of its advantages is the ease with which it can be extended to additional living areas.

Air-conditioning units are sized, not by their ability to generate cool air, but by how much heat they can remove from a house or a room.

The air-conditioning industry's standard unit for measuring this capacity is British thermal units (BTU).

A BTU is a way to measure heat. One BTU is roughly equivalent to the amount of heat given off by a kitchen match.

More precisely, it's the amount of heat needed to raise the temperature of one pound of water one degree Fahrenheit at sea level.

Today, more than 90 per cent of the central residential air-conditioning equipment produced in the country is rated in BTU—which is a measure of the number of British thermal units of heat that the equipment can remove from a house in one hour.

This standardization of equipment ratings is the result of the Air-Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute's "Unitary Certification Program."

Until 1959, when Unitary Certification came into being, many conditioners were rated in tons, or by horsepower or amperes.

These were not precise units of measurement, and the variety of terms made it very difficult for a layman to compare the capacity of one unit with another.

For this reason, ARI made it a strict requirement of its Unitary Certification program that all units had to be rated in Btu.

Other requirements of the Unitary Certification program, which includes units rated up to 135,000 BTUH, are that participating manufacturers must submit specifications and their own test data on all new models for evaluation by ARI engineers; that all models are subject to rigid performance and capacity tests by an independent laboratory; and that no manufacturer can display the ARI "Seal of Certification" on its units unless he subscribes to all the standards of the program.

To Improve Aquatic Fun

Poolsmanship Is New Game

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The name of the game is poolsmanship. If you don't want to get in a social rut — mere water in a pit — you play the game.

Real poolsmanship requires that you have a plan for improving the aquatic delights, even if you can't beat more than one floating chaise this season.

Next year, you plan to put in a full equipped cabana and beat the pool.

The following year, you will definitely get a decorator to make an environmental study of your pool.

That's what you tell your friends.

POOL PAALS

It is the kind of thing pool visitors want to know. Should they stick to their pool or wet their toes elsewhere. If you lose a pool pal, you may never get him back.

A pool must be pleasing to the eye to attract top-notch guests. And to any pool owner knows, it's no fun to swim alone.

There must be comfort, color, sparkle and all sorts of Neptunic delights to amuse guests. And it costs money.

Your neighbor may lure your guests with something called a continental sun lounge, a most romantic contraption for two.

The unit looks Oriental with its wicker hood and red and blue striped cotton awning that matches the upholstery. Two padded footrests provide the ultimate in comfort for weary legs.

Snazy yes, but this year you can provide the piece de resistance in considerable poolsmanship — foiling unexpected breezes that send guests scurrying to the indoor water cooler. Invest in three sided windbreakers of clear vinyl-panels enclosed in aluminum frames.

From this vantage point, guests can see everything, keep every hair in place, and never raise a goose pimple.

MAD, MOD

Two kinds of poolside decoration are in vogue — absolutely hippy with mad colors and upholstered mod, mod chairs or casually elegant in the latest patterned-vinyl cushioned upholstery that may be left out in the rain.

And the most considerate hostess provides a wardrobe of disposable pool accessories for guests — paper swim suits, shifts, parasols, scarves and robes in gay colors.

A pool master who has strolled through a pool accessory shop without being moved to tears is just plain rich.

There are the little things for his competing pleasure — a basketball or volleyball game with 5 ft. 8 in. width net in an aluminum frame and another ball game which encourages you to write your own rules.

A game scatters 12 balls sprung from a net and the pool crowd become retrievers.

The bigger the pool, the more to fill up. You may choose a beach barge that will hold a gaggle of visitors (even those who can't swim.)

They can be in the swim and never get YOUR bathing suits wet.

ROLY-POLY RADIO

All the while a large, poly foam beach ball floats around the pool with music emanating from the radio within its plastic-banded innards.

If the crowd is sporty, don't estimate the impact of a snoozercruiser that is propelled by a two-cycle gas engine.

It'll require a large pool but it has great advantages.

From a comfortable lounge seat with nonsinkable pontoons, a pool host can cruise around a pool and see how the games are going and if everyone is happy.

Mildew Problem Is Eliminated

A new closet accessory helps eliminate the problem of mildew.

It's a cake that can be hung by its own tab on a hanger or hook, placed in drawers, trunk, gym lockers, sail bags, or slipped under a mattress.

Side vents in the slender container let the vapors from the cake escape.

The cake is stainless and safe to use anywhere, the maker says.

Color Coordinated Refrigerators.

Art Comes to the Kitchen

"Today's kitchen is almost a family room. It needs to, shouldn't look like an operating room. It should be a warm, inviting happy setting for working, eating, entertaining," says Penny Hallock Lehman, NSID, in the introduction to her "Beautiful Kitchens Idea Book."

"And," she adds, "it doesn't have to cost a fortune to bring a kitchen to life with new color and patterns."

Proof of the ease with which the homemaker can be her own kitchen decorator can be found in the new line of "Designer Series" refrigerators and harmonizing wall coverings which Mrs. Lehman has coordinated for a leading refrigerator manufacturer.

These bring a new decorating concept to the kitchen by making the refrigerator a part of the overall room scheme.

Unlike other decorating ideas for kitchen appliances, these new refrigerators become a part of the kitchen rather than a piece in the kitchen.

NEW LOOK

This new look is achieved through the use of special designer panels, coordinated with matching wall coverings, that snap into the refrigerator door trim.

"The addition of the refrigerator alone can add a new look to any present kitchen," Mrs. Lehman states.

"Then, as the homemaker wants and her budget permits, she can add harmonizing wall covering."

These wall coverings are suggested for use as accents — perhaps on wall cabinets, a panel of the range or dishwasher.

"Or, they may be used to cover a single wall or all the walls of the kitchen," she explains.

Coordinating for the Gibson Refrigerator Sales Corporation of Greenville, Michigan, which features fashion — faces for these "humble servants" of the kitchen, Mrs. Lehman refers to one design, called "Which Came First?"

The refrigerator panel features a whimsical "calico-chicken" against a background of eggs.

EGG DESIGN

Harmonizing wall covering uses the egg design, with smaller versions of the chicken repeated on a random basis.

This pattern is available in a red, black and yellow traditional color scheme.

A delightful Pennsylvania Dutch pattern called "Treasure Tree" has also been included in the collection.

This utilizes a tree covered with birds and flowers with a peasant couple against a subdued color background.

Checks which resemble gingham in a red and white combination carry out this theme for wall covering which also repeats the colorful birds pattern.

An Oriental flavor has been captured in "Happy Cooking" which is a copy of an ancient Chinese panel.

The words "Happy Cooking" are spelled out in Chinese characters over simple baskets of leaves and flowers. This design uses a rust and green color combination.

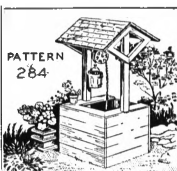

TRIVETS

Final design in the Gibson collection is called "Trivets" and translated this familiar kitchen utensil and decorative item into a contemporary form.

It is an overall pattern which is repeated in exact duplication for both refrigerator panel front and wall coverings in turquoise.

A walnut, random planked cherry, a red brushed chrome, are also available.

The designer panels are available on 15, 16, and 18 cubic foot models with top or bottom mounted freezers as well as side-by-side, all-refrigerator freezers.

A WISHING WELL need not be just for wishing. This reproduction of an old-fashioned rooted well head has a gate at the back and an inside shelf for flower pots or tools. Pattern 284, which shows how to build it and make the well wheel, is 35c. This pattern also is one of four in the Home Owner's Building Projects Packs, No. 72 — all for $1. The Pontiac Press Pattern Dept., P.O. Box 50, New Windsor, N.Y. 12550.

A Steam Boiler
Lasts for Years in Your Home

It may seem like a hot water or steam heating boiler can go on forever — and many will last 40 years or more — but chances are you're paying a fortune in fuel bills to keep the huge monster going.

A new boiler can cut fuel cost by as much as twenty-five per cent, which is $100 a year if your annual fuel bill is $400.

You can actually earn a profit after a few years by paying for the boiler with a low-interest FICA Title I Property Improvement Loan, or a similar bank loan. Monthly costs can be kept at a minimum and will be offset by the savings in fuel.

You'll gain more than money with a modern, compact, alloy-steel boiler. Space-age design has produced more efficient, cleaner and quieter boilers.

They are able to squeeze more heat out of any type fuel, while responding quickly to calls for heat, adds the Council.

Many people, with the savings accrued from greater heating efficiency, go a step further and modernize their distribution system.

They pull out old-fashioned, bulky radiators that make modern decorating an impossibility, and install slim, wall-hugging baseboard units.

These units, which can be painted to blend or contrast with the decor of the room, provide both radiant and convected heat. Both types of heat are considered essential for good home comfort.

Save Time
Making Bed

The average homemaker will walk 64 miles and spend around 400 hours making beds during her lifetime.

The people who say so, Spring Air Mattress Co., added that if she made the bed properly, she could cut the mileage by 75 per cent and the time by half.

Instead of making a trip around the bed for each sheet and blanket, you're supposed to make the bed a quarter at a time and be connected to land by a driveway on stilts.

Drawers Will Slide Easily

Homemakers for years have expected to find manufacturer warranties on appliances and better grades of bedding.

Now many will be surprised at seeing this bonus feature on dressers or chests of drawers in the months to come.

The new Hangerford of Memphis, manufacturer of solid hardwood bedroom and occasional furniture, recently introduced the first warranted stick-proof drawer ever offered.

A written warranty, accompanying each case, promises a prompt remedy if a drawer ever sticks during the entire life of the case.

"Such a feature can have particular value for families in any area where temperatures and humidity fluctuate greatly," and general manager of Hangerford, Inc.

STICKING DRAWERS

Even in the most expensive furniture, sticking drawers have long been a vexing problem, he noted.

A combination of several construction and design features has made such a warranty possible, he explained. Cases and drawers are "weatherized" — finished inside and out — to protect the wood against effects of moisture.

Special plastic center guides, reinforced with steel membranes for strength and stability, ride on T-shaped wood "tracks" so that drawers may be opened smoothly without accidentally spilling the contents.

At the lower corner of each drawer opening there is an L-shaped glide of molded nylon.

Finally, each drawer in the fully dustproof case has an over-lapping lip that permits enough "play" to avoid sticking.

Details of the warranty, along with other features, are outlined in an informative "hang tag" on all Hangerford "weatherized" cases, many of which are now available in fine furniture and department stores.

Custom Faucets
Decorate Room

Custom faucets? They're here — in 24-carat goldplate, brushed chrome and pewter finish.

Hand-carved, the sculptured hardware for the bathroom also includes door knobs, drawer pulls.

The manufacturer says they were designed to fill a long-felt need in custom-built contemporary homes.

Land Shortage
Is Answered

One answer to the land shortage in metropolitan areas is off-shore office buildings, like one designed for construction off the Jersey City, N.J., coast.

It will stand 200 feet off shore and be connected to land by a driveway on stilts.

Begin School Happily

By LESLIE J. NASON, ED. D.
University of Southern California

The first day of school need not be a scary one for a child, nor a fearful one for mother.

It should be a happy experience for everyone concerned, even including the teacher. But it can be happy for all only if both mother and child are prepared to make it so.

Children under 5 adopt the attitudes that their mothers expect them to adopt. When mothers are fearful that there will be a scene on the first day of school, there usually is.

If mothers expect their children to enter school happily, they do.

In one district it was announced that not all children could be accepted for kindergarten. Those who evidenced readiness upon arrival at school would be the ones accepted.

On the first day a seeming miracle took place: every child left his mother without a fuss. Obviously the mothers had prepared the children properly for this moment. And no matter how much some mothers may have wanted to cry, they didn't!

GROUP BEHAVIOR

Ordinarily in the first semester of a child's school experience, whether it be preschool, kindergarten or first grade, the major concern is training in proper group behavior.

A child can be trained to be comfortable and happy away from his mother. This should start early and he made a natural normal part of a child's life.

When such training is put off until the first day of school and is left entirely to the teacher, it is always difficult.

Children figure out ways to manage their parents, and often try the same schemes on the teacher. As long as the schemes continue to be successful at home, the child persists in his behavior at school, sometimes through three or four grades.

For example, Ed responded to his mother's direction only when her voice reached a certain high pitch that he recognized as a danger signal.

SHRUGGED OFF

He dallied about picking up his toys; he stalled about going to bed; it was difficult to get him in from play. Ed's father shrugged it off as being normal for a boy—"let him have some fun while he's young."

In school, using the same tactics, Ed was a troublemaker both in the schoolroom and on the playground—not necessarily bad but always keeping those around him a little on edge.

He was careless in listening to teacher instructions; careless in his reading; his written work was hardly acceptable.

After consultation with a counselor, Ed's parents made an about-face and started working together to demand satisfactory behavior. When mother said "Ed it's time for bed" and Ed started his stalling tactics, father took him firmly by the arm and said "Your mother said 'time for bed'." In a matter of a week or two, Ed was going to school ready to be taught.

HOME TRAINING

It took a year for Ed to make up for the three years he had wasted. He could have just as well entered kindergarten with the background of this home training and been a success from the start.

A child doesn't automatically know the techniques of getting along in a group. This as with all other types of behavior requires training.

In a large family a child can be taught to respect the belongings of the other children, he can learn to take his turn on play equipment and learn to respect the rights of others.

Road Funds Package Gets House Setback

LANSING (AP) — A $61-million package designed to raise gasoline and weight taxes for virtually all motor vehicles suffered a setback in the House yesterday. But it was to be reconsidered today in a rare Saturday session.

The five-bill package, which the Senate passed last April, stalled when the House voted 46-48 against the measure to increase the annual registration fee for autos and other vehicles.

The bill is designed to raise $24 million a year. It would charge most autos a registration fee of 55 cents per 100 pounds, with a $15 annual minimum.

Under the current fee of 35 cents per 100 pounds, a 4,000-pound luxury car would be taxed at $14, while a 1,600-pound economy model would be charged only $6.40.

Other parts of the "good roads" package, designed to raise more money for special restricted highway funds, would:

- Boost the tax on gasoline and other motor fuels by one per cent per gallon, raising an estimated $33 million.

- Give cities and the State Waterways Fund larger shares of the gasoline tax.

- Change the formula for computing the weight tax on trucks, with the biggest rigs getting the highest fee increases.

An amendment to the package raising the gasoline tax another quarter-cent to pay for Mechanic Bridge refinancing was to be considered by the House today. The Senate has defeated a similar amendment.

Gasoline taxes in Michigan were last raised in 1955.

The waterways fund now gets 1/4 per cent of state gasoline levies. That share would be tripled if the package passes.

Four of the five bills, including the weight tax measure defeated yesterday, are designed to stand as a unit. Each contains a provision that it will not become law unless the other three are passed.

Youth Is Charged With Fatal Beating

A Pontiac youth was being held without bond in the Oakland County Jail today on an open charge of murder in the fatal beating of his 15-year-old girlfriend yesterday.

Assistant Prosecutor Ronald E. Covault said that the degree of murder would probably be determined when the suspect, Porfido R. Acosta, has his preliminary examination Tuesday.

Acosta, 19, of 307 Ferry is accused of the death of Linda D. Arnold of 142 Clifford.

The girl, a June graduate of Eastern Junior High, ran away from home about three weeks ago, according to police.

Her body was first found lying in the street in front of Acosta's home by a passing motorist, and later by police in the back yard of the home.

Acosta was standing over the girl's body when police arrived.

An hour and half before police were called to the scene of the slaying, two other patrolmen had investigated a fight on Auburn and East Wide Track involving Acosta and Miss Arnold.

Police said she used a fictitious name and gave her age as 19.

Acosta told police that he had hit her because he had caught her with another man.

She told police that everything was all right and said that she wanted to remain with Acosta.

Police said that the girl was reported missing June 13 by her mother, Mrs. Donald Arnold. It was the third time that she had left home since March, according to police.

Acosta, who is unemployed, stood mute to the charge yesterday afternoon when he was arraigned before Pontiac Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum.

Acosta was returned to the county jail to await preliminary examination.

McNamara's Questions Sharp

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command argued for a new large U.S. troop buildup today and may have run into sharp questioning by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara on how many troops are needed and why the South Vietnamese are not pulling more of the lead.

In making its case for perhaps 100,000 troops above the current 466,000 in Vietnam, the U.S. Command also told McNamara what Gen. William C. Westmoreland considered his troops could do with less.

A U.S. official spokesman declined to elaborate on this point, but past indications have been that Westmoreland felt substantially less than the requested figure would leave him without enough troops to win the war.

McNamara, who is on his ninth trip to Vietnam, will carry Westmoreland's plea, together with his recommendations, when he returns to Washington to report to President Johnson.

The official spokesman said McNamara, in a three-hour discussion of allied troop strengths, asked "extremely close questions" on the ratio of U.S. combat infantrymen to support and rear-area troops and discussed a possible boost in Saigon's army and militia force of 650,000. This represents about four per cent of the population. McNamara apparently feels this figure is too low.

5 Held in Alleged Plot to Hire Killer

DETROIT (UPI) — Five persons were arrested early today after allegedly attempting to hire a State Police detective to murder the husband of a young woman.

All five, three men and two women, stood mute at arraignment in front of Farmington Township Justice of the Peace Bryon D. Walters on charges of conspiring to murder Leonard Wright, 20, of Highland Park.

They were bound over for examination July 14. Bond was set at $50,000 each.

Arrested were Nicholas J. Gueli Jr., 41, Hazel Park; Patrick R. McNamara, 25, Detroit; and Daniel M. Duffy, 23; Patricia Duffy, 20; and Laurie K. Wright, 18, all three of Highland Park.

Fighting Erupts at Suez Canal

Israeli Air Force planes attacked Egyptian positions in Port Said and Port Foad at the Northern entrance of the Suez Canal today, and an air battle raged, Radio Cairo reported.

A dispatch from Tel Aviv said fighting had flared up along several miles of the canal, with Israeli jets strafing Egyptian artillery which the Israelis claimed blasted Israeli tanks on the eastern banks of the waterway.

It was the second straight weekend in which fighting had broken out in violation of the Arab-Israeli cease-fire which went into effect June 10, halting Israel's sweep into the territories of three Arab nations: Egypt, Jordan and Syria.

An Egyptian army communiqué said six Israeli Mirage jets, French-built planes had penetrated Egyptian air space over Port Said and Port Foad at 2 p.m. (8 a.m. EDT) the Cairo broadcast said.

It added that Egyptian anti-aircraft guns opened up, and Egyptian planes took to the air. It did not say how many.

PG 1 14 EMS 30 SI FIGHTING — NL

BATTLE IN PROGRESS

The broadcast said an air and artillery battle on the canal was in progress.

Earlier, Egypt claimed its forces were repelling an Israeli attempt to advance on Port Foad. It said the clash came at Ras El'ish on the east bank of the canal. This was the scene of three clashes last weekend.

An Israeli communiqué said Egyptian artillery fired into its positions, killing two Israeli soldiers and wounding 13.

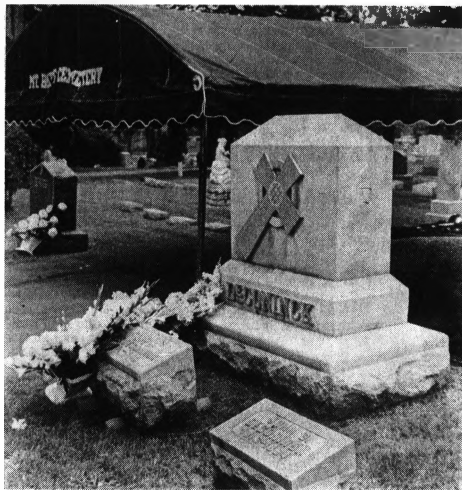

The Tel Aviv communiqué said the fighting had spread to El Qantara, 12 miles south of Ras El'ish.

IN EGYPTIAN HANDS

Israel captured nearly all of Egypt east of the canal in the June 5-10 Arab-Israeli war but Port Foad, a seacoast city at the canal's north entrance still is in Egyptian hands.

An Egyptian communiqué said the Israelis attempted at 3:30 a.m. EDT to rush tanks and armored cars through the narrow roads parallel to the canal heading for Port Foad.

It said Egyptian shelling destroyed one tank and three armored cars.

LAI'D TO REST — Slain West Bloomfield Township trustee and businessman Edward E. DeConick was buried yesterday in this family plot in Mount Hope Cemetery. Many years ago, the family spelled the name DeConick, which accounts for the names on early markers shown here.

Police Work Double Shift in Trustee Murder Case

West Bloomfield Township Police are working double shifts in order to sift every lead in the brutal murder Monday night of Township Trustee Edward E. DeConick.

The Pontiac Press has offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the killers of Edward E. DeConick.

"Right now we're following up on every bit of information as it comes in and hoping for a break," said one investigator.

DeConick, 63, was buried yesterday in Mount Hope Cemetery.

He was beaten, then shot to death by four intruders in his home at 5847 W. Maple.

His sister, Kathleen, 73, who was beaten and shot in the head, is in satisfactory condition in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. She told police the chain of events leading to her brother's death began when a woman knocked at the DeConick's door about 11 p.m. and asked to use the telephone.

When the door was opened, she said, three men armed with a shotgun and pistols rushed in, beat the pair, then tied them up.

After ransacking the house the handi- cappers shot both and fled with a cashbox and floor safe, she told police.

Miss DeConick was able to free herself and call for help.

She described the male assailants as Negroes in their 20s, ranging from short to above-medium height.

She said the woman was either white or a light-skinned Negro.

FOUND DEAD — Vivien Leigh, 53, star of stage and screen, was found dead in her London apartment today. The former wife of Sir Laurence Olivier, Miss Leigh had long suffered from tuberculosis. She rose to world acclaim with her portrayal of Scarlett O'Hara in the film "Gone With the Wind."

September Draft Call Is Lower Than August

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon announced yesterday that 25,000 men will be drafted into the Army in September.

The figure was slightly lower than the August draft call of 29,000.

Weekend to Be Sunny, Warmer

Partly sunny skies and somewhat warmer temperatures are on tap for the Pontiac area today, with temperatures ranging from 80 to 86 today and 60 to 65 tonight.

World, State News Events

Civil War Raging in Nigeria

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Civil war raged in Nigeria today between soldiers of the breakaway eastern region of Biafra and federal government troops ordered to invade the eastern region and capture Gov. C. O. Okwuka. The federal government said the rebel forces had suffered heavy casualties. The Biafrans claimed to have killed at least six Nigerian officers and to have destroyed a company of soldiers.

Courts Next Step on State Tax

LANSING (AP) — Court action apparently is the next step for those who question the constitutionality of Michigan's new state income tax bill, despite discouraging news from the attorney general. In answer to questions by Sen. George Kuhn, R-Birmingham, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said yesterday that he believes the courts will uphold the bill and will rule that it is not subject to a popular referendum.

Aviatix Has Earhart Theory

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — A modern-day Amelia Earhart with the same type of blonde, tousled hair and spirit of adventure believes after retracing Miss Earhart's ill-fated 1937 flight that the famed aviatix crashed in the Southwest Pacific near Howland Island. Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said yesterday that he believes the courts will uphold the bill and will rule that it is not subject to a popular referendum.

Time Situation More Confused

LANSING (AP) — Michigan clocks soon may throw up their hands in despair if the state's time situation becomes any more befuddled. A House-approved resolution asking the federal government to put all of Michigan in the Central Time Zone was reported out of a Senate Committee yesterday, then returned to the committee for further study before senators vote on the measure.

'Congolese Are Victorious'

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Congolese government forces have defeated a band of mercenaries and rebels in Bukavu, Kisanangani and Kisumu, and the fighting there is over, the Congolese radio claimed today. It said President Joseph D. Mobutu would address the nation by radio later today.

North Viet Strategist Dies

SAIGON (AP) — A shadowy North Vietnamese general who masterminded Communist political and military strategy in the south from a jungle stronghold near Cambodia's border has died of a heart attack, according to Hanoi Radio. He was 53-year-old Gen. Nguyen Chi Thanh, who not only directed the war in South Vietnam but was the eighth-ranking member of North Vietnam's Communist hierarchy.

Judge Proposes an Anticrime Program

Appalled generally over the increasing crime rate and specifically over the brutal murder of a West Bloomfield Township man this week, Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore today called on local officials to consider a 12-point program he has proposed to prevent and control lawlessness.

Moore outlined his plan in a letter inviting mayors, commissioners, city managers and police chiefs to a 3:30 p.m. meeting July 17 in the Supervisors' Auditorium in the county courthouse.

He requested that they be prepared to act on the proposals.

"Crime is all about us — increasing, frightening, almost uncontrolled and of disastrous volume," Moore said in his letter.

"Truthfully, crime is rampant," he continued. "Let's apprehend, convict and sentence every major criminal to life imprisonment or until he is totally reformed."

RECENT CRIME

Moore cited a few examples of recent crimes, emphasizing the July 3 death of Edward E. DeConick, a trustee and businessman in West Bloomfield Township by a "vicious armed robbery gang."

The jurist criticized the public for being apathetic toward the problem of crime and for apparent defeatism about the problem.

"Apathy abounds," said Moore. "Everybody groans about crime. But few indeed care enough to know how to do their part about it. Nearly all run out on the problem."

"Unless and until we have a plan to fight back and win against crime, we will continue to lose more and more," said Moore.

PROPOSALS LISTED

Included among Moore's proposals are:

- A multiple mayors' proclamation that would give police powers similar to that under martial law.

- Patrols by auxiliary police or national guardsmen in cooperation with local police.

- Voluntary unification of all police work in the county under a top police, F.B.I. or crime specialist at county expense.

- Petitions to congressmen and senators, supporting constitutional amendments permitting and requiring interrogation of criminal suspects.

- Limits on appeals of convicted criminals.

- An extension of maximum sentences in all felonies to life.

Moore also urges that the governor's Committee on Crime prepare a report within 30 days and then seek a special session of the Legislature on crime.

JUDGE MOORE

PLEASANT AND ADAPTABLE: Looking somewhat like an L-shaped ranch, this inviting house actually is a partial two-story, with the second floor only over the bedroom wing, providing sufficient expansion area for a family needing two extra bedrooms.

FLOOR PLANS: If upstairs is not utilized, first floor of this house is well laid-out for a family requiring only two or three bedrooms. Room at rear left is properly located so that it can be used as a family room, den or an extra bedroom.

Partial Two-Story Proves Flexibility

The L shape of this house not an extremely flexible arrangement, permitting a family to add interest to the exterior, but makes possible what might be called an economical expansion.

With the bedroom wing running the depth of the house, architect Herman H. York has provided an expansion area above that wing.

The remainder of the house, comprising the living room, dining room, kitchen and foyer, is really a one-story unit, avoiding the extra expense that would be incurred if there were a full second-story.

The net result of all this is the bedroom hall and near the main bath, yet accessible to both the kitchen and the rear terrace.

A walk-in closet and a private bath are in the sizable master bedroom. Even the smallest bedroom has 168 square feet of floor area.

Moving through the covered entry into the spacious foyer, the view to the right includes the full living room, with a fireplace at the far end, and a portion of the adjacent dining room.

Although the kitchen lies directly behind the foyer, only the dinette area is immediately visible, the working part of the kitchen being hidden from view.

Between the kitchen and the family room is a laundry large enough for a washer, dryer, tub and mud closet, as well as space for an ironing board.

Two bedrooms, a bath and a large amount of closet space are planned upstairs. One of the bedrooms is 16' by 11', with the other a big 18' by 16'.

EXTERIOR
Architect York has suggested the exterior use of masonry, either brick or stone, in the center between the bedroom and garage projections.

Wood shingles, either sawn or lightly hand-split, should contrast with the brick; that is, if the brick is dark, the shingles might be painted white, or if
