County Counts 7 Dead in Crashes

A Last Resting Place for Quintuplet Emilie Dionne

LAST RITES READ — The casket bearing the body of quintuplet Emilie Dionne slides into the vault as last rites are read at the cemetery at Corbeil, Ont., today by the Rev. W. H. LaFrance. Pallbearers are brothers and relatives of the dead girl.

Dionne Quintuplets Part

Marie's Sobs Break Silence as Emilie Is Laid to Rest

CORBEIL, Ont. (INS)—Emilie Dionne was buried today—in a light, dismal rain, in the presence of more than two hundred mourners in a lonely country cemetery.

Three of Emilie's quintuplet sisters—Yvonne, Annette and Cecile—were graven faced but quiet as Emilie's body was lowered into the earth.

But little Marie, always closest to Emilie among the five 20-year-old girls, could not contain her tears, and sobbed softly.

From nearby, the bell from the little Catholic church where the Requiem Mass for Emilie was said, tolled out over the stretching green farm field in a sad farewell.

It tolled the end of the close companionship of the world's most famous daughters.

A silent and prayerful crowd surrounded the quints and their mother and father as a priest intoned at the graveside:

"May the angels lead thee into Paradise, May the martyrs receive thee at thy coming, May the choir of angels receive thee, and may you have eternal rest . . ."

Marie wept quietly and bowed her head on her simple white collar of her black dress.

Gilliland May Get New Trial

Lapeer Judge to Answer Conspirator's Motion Within 10 Days

A Lapeer County circuit judge said today he will decide within 10 days whether a new trial will be granted Clayton C. Gilliland, who was convicted last December of conspiring to block the eviction of Mrs. Elizabeth Stevens from her Clifford farm home.

Three Lapeer County farmers tried at the same time, were acquitted. Gilliland was sentenced to serve 4½ to 5 years in prison, but free on $5,000 bond.

Circuit Judge Timothy C. Quinn said he will weigh evidence produced by two defense lawyers at a hearing this morning and make a decision on the motion for a new trial filed soon after Gilliland was found guilty.

The attorneys argued that "it takes two or more persons" to form a conspiracy and that the conviction was nullified because a blood relationship existed between a juror and one of the defendants.

Mrs. Stevens was evicted in June, 1952 in a farm ownership dispute.

Jap Rightists Demand Soviet Return of PWs

TOKYO (AP)—About 50 extreme rightists broke through the iron gates of the Soviet mission today demanding the return of Japanese POWs and of South Sakhalin peninsula, police reported.

Some 60 police stopped the demonstrators in about 30 minutes. One demonstrator was arrested for resisting police.

Studebaker Union Hopes to Solve Wage Problem

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UP)—Union leaders hoped to find an answer today to the Studebaker Company's threat to stop 11,000 workers' jobs unless they accept a pay cut.

Rank and file Studebaker employees were stunned at the company's announcement that it would be forced to cancel its contract with the CIO United Auto Workers and close its plant in 60 days.

The company said this was the only alternative unless employees agreed to accept a pay cut and thus put the firm in a better competitive condition.

The executive council of UAW Local 5 scheduled a meeting today to decide on the next move. Local officials have urged the members to take the pay cut, but the workers rejected it in a Thursday night meeting.

William Ogden, former local president and a leader against the pay cut, said, "We are willing to go all out to help Studebaker, but we want to see it done fairly and squarely."

He said local officials had done a "poor job of negotiating" and the company asked concessions which had little to do with its competitive position.

Workers fear Studebaker wants to get rid of its incentive pay system, he said.

Studebaker, South Bend's main industry, has been losing ground in the tightening auto market, officials said.

An $8,925,800 loss was recorded for the first six months of the year, temporary production shutdowns have been numerous, and employees' salaries have been averaging $35 a week.

The plane was unable to make its scheduled landing at the Azores' main international airport at Santa Maria because of thick fog. It made its way here and landed at Terceira's Lages Air Field.

The plane took off again at 1:37 a.m. (10:37 p.m. EST, Sunday) for Bermuda. A minute or two later it crashed in the Caldeira da Agulva Hills about 2½ miles north of the airfield and burst into flames.

Apparently failing to gain sufficient altitude, it had struck Mt. Ilha Terceira about 100 feet from the summit.

Rescue parties rushed to the scene but found the craft destroyed and all persons aboard dead. The remains were taken to a local chapel for a funeral mass.

Barajas officials identified the first pilot as Octavio Zuloaga and the co-pilot as Carlos Beck, both of Colombia. Most of the crew members and passengers were Spaniards or Colombians.

Judge Orders Touhy Freed

Says Prohibition Era Figure Was Wrongfully Convicted in 1932

CHICAGO (UP) — Roger (The Terrible) Touhy, prohibition era gangster, today was ordered released from prison by a federal judge who said he believed Touhy was wrongfully convicted of kidnapping Jake "The Barber" Factor in 1932.

U. S. District Judge John P. Barnes, not only vacated Touhy's original sentence of 99 years for kidnaping, but also a 199-year sentence the notorious gangster drew in 1943 after he and six henchmen staged a spectacular escape from the Illinois State Prison.

Government attorneys said they would appeal Barnes' decision in an attempt to keep Touhy in prison for life.

Barnes' opinion in the case, which Touhy fought through state and federal courts for 20 years, ran 774 pages.

"I feel that this man should be released," Barnes said before he started reading his decision.

Touhy, now 55 and gray-haired, was in court when the decision was handed down. He appeared jittery.

16 Youths Arrested at Drinking Party

Ten juveniles and six minors, who ignored an earlier warning to break up a drinking party in a private home early Sunday morning, were arrested for disturbing the peace by Pontiac Police vice squad members.

Five of the minors were jailed and a girl, 18, was released. The 10 juveniles, ranging in age from 14 through 16, were ordered to appear today at the police juvenile bureau.

Police said they are questioning the youths to find out who bought beer for the party. Three cases were confiscated.

Officers investigated the party when neighbors complained shortly after midnight that youngsters were holding a drinking party at 48 Bennett St., home of one of the juveniles.

Weekend Toll Rises as Girl, 9, Dies on U. S. 10

10 others hospitalized after head-on collision of two autos

The death of an Inkster girl in an automobile accident Sunday brought Oakland County's weekend traffic toll to seven.

This was the worst traffic-death weekend so far this year, said Oakland County Sheriff Clare L. Hubbell.

Two crashes early Saturday morning took the lives of six persons and hospitalized a seventh. Five of the dead were riding in the same car.

The latest victim, 9-year-old Carol Maria Ciso of 23950 Andover, died in a two-car crash on U.S. 10 about 500 feet north of Big Lake road, in Springfield Township. Ten others were taken to Pontiac General Hospital after the head-on collision. They are:

Carol's father, Theodore, 39, the driver, and her mother, Mary, 34. The father is listed in fair condition with a broken leg and chest injuries and the mother is reported in good condition with hand and back injuries.

A brother, Larry, 7, is listed in good condition with head cuts.

Others in the Ciso car were Walter A. Kroll, 38, of 4033 Cicotte, Detroit, reported in satisfactory condition with a broken jaw, cuts and bruises.

His wife, Ann, 39, is also in satisfactory condition with broken collarbone and chest injuries; and their two sons, Gary, 6, with possible internal injuries, and Norbert, 10, with a possible concussion and head cuts, are in good condition.

In the other car, Richard Cavill, 18, of 3349 Duck Lake Rd., Milford, the driver, is listed in good condition with severe head cuts.

Charles Haglund, 16, of 2401 Lakeside Dr., Milford, is reported in fair condition with a broken leg and cuts; and James Hartmeyer, 17, of 19726 Woodcrest, Detroit, is also in fair condition with face and head cuts and an arm injury.

Oakland County Deputy Sheriffs Fred Pender and Ross Miller said Cavill apparently fell asleep at the wheel. They quoted Ciso as saying he was driving north when Cavill's southbound car careened across the center line and struck his auto head-on. Witnesses, who said the victims were scattered along the highway after the crash, backed up Ciso's account.

Cavill and his companions, returning from a northern Michigan vacation, were on U.S. 10.

Marcantonio Dies on Street

Body of Former Leftist Congressman Is Found on Broadway Corner

NEW YORK (AP)—Former Rep. Vito Marcantonio, fiery, left-wing New Yorker, fell dead on a rain-swept street today.

The diminutive, 51-year-old former legislator was in the middle of a comeback effort. Defeated in 1950 by a Republican-Democrat-Liberal coalition, he was running again for Congress as candidate of the independent "Good Neighbor party."

Marcantonio represented an East Harlem district for 14 years. For many years until last November, he headed the American Labor party, which sponsored Henry Wallace's presidential campaign in New York.

Opposes Higher Supports

Benson Says Dairy Plan Would Cost $100 Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson said today proposals in Congress to boost dairy price supports would cost the Treasury 100 million dollars a year, and put speculators in a position to "cash in on windfall profits" that might "amount to several million dollars."

Benson made these comments at a news conference with reference to the farm bill now before the Senate.

One issue raised in the Senate is whether to boost dairy supports from the present 75 per cent of parity to 85 per cent, effective Sept. 1, for a period ending next April 1.

Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices they pay.

The House already has passed legislation raising dairy supports to 80 per cent of parity, also effective Sept. 1.

In reply to queries, the secretary predicted that the Senate will adopt legislation providing for a flexible system of farm price supports as advocated by President Eisenhower and himself. He also said he was confident that legislation finally agreed upon by the House and the Senate would contain flexible floors.

Benson's comment that a boost in dairy supports would provide speculators with an opportunity to make windfall profits brought questions from newsmen.

Within three weeks of Van Atta's ouster, petitions containing about 4,000 signatures were submitted to Van Atta's reinstatement.

After receiving the reinstatement request, the board set tonight's hearing.

In dismissing Van Atta, the board said it based its action on the fact that the police chief continued to use his office to support a political candidate even though instructed to stop mixing in politics.

Van Atta countered by saying the board was lured at his private support of Frank Irons, Republican candidate for sheriff, rather than Sheriff Clare L. Hubbell.

Irons was nominated in the primary election.

Ousted Officer Accepts Offer by Supervisors

Township Board Acts Only 7 Hours Before Public Hearing

Waterford Township Board of Trustees decided unanimously at 1 p. m. today to reinstate ousted Police Chief Frank J. Van Atta.

Van Atta, reached shortly after the decision, said he would return to the post.

The reinstatement came within seven hours of a special hearing called earlier by the board to permit Van Atta to answer charges lodged against him.

The police chief, the township's first, was ousted July 19 by a 3 to 1 vote of the board. He was fired on grounds that he used his office to publicly support a political candidate.

Van Atta denied the charge, and the board scheduled a hearing for 8 p. m. today at the Waterford Township CAT Building to air the charges. The meeting is still scheduled.

In reinstating the police chief, the board passed a formal resolution by a unanimous five-member vote.

The resolution said in part: "The majority of the board felt that this (dismissal) action was in the best interest of the people of Waterford Township and was justified."

"However, after receiving many petitions and requests for reinstatement, it is the feeling of the board that the people of Waterford are not in complete agreement with our actions."

"Whereas the supervisor (Lloyd L. Anderson) has accepted responsibility for a number of the charges brought against Frank Van Atta by the Waterford Township Board and whereas the township board is a representative of the people, and whereas the voice of the people indicate that they are the majority of the residents, we have reconsidered said dismissal and move to reinstate Mr. Van Atta to his former status."

Louis G. Barry, township clerk, said the board is in the process of setting up a hearing board for future possible dismissals. Township rules and regulations also are being reviewed.

After three weeks of Van Atta's ouster, petitions containing about 4,000 signatures were submitted to Van Atta's reinstatement.

After receiving the reinstatement request, the board set tonight's hearing.

In dismissing Van Atta, the board said it based its action on the fact that the police chief continued to use his office to support a political candidate even though instructed to stop mixing in politics.

Van Atta countered by saying the board was lured at his private support of Frank Irons, Republican candidate for sheriff, rather than Sheriff Clare L. Hubbell.

Irons was nominated in the primary election.

Control of Elm Disease to Take Spotlight Tonight at Commission Gathering

From Our Birmingham Bureau
BIRMINGHAM—Taking the spotlight at tonight's City Commission meeting will be City Forester William Lebold's recommendation that the city next year sponsor a spray program to cut the loss of Dutch Elm-diseased trees on residential property.

To date this year, 70 cases have been found. Last year's total was 36.

Lebold will point out that areas which have been sprayed heavily during the last two years have suffered less than a 1 per cent loss.

The controversial topic of whether 14-mile road should be extended to the west will also be up for discussion tonight.

In receipt of a resolution from the Commission, recommending the extension, the Oakland County Planning Commission will request that traffic studies made by both the city and a consulting traffic engineering firm be forwarded to it before official action is taken.

Acting on a July 27 hearing, the Planning Board will submit its Owners of three lots there had asked that their property be rezoned from single family residence to business B classification.

Necessity hearings will be held on construction of a water main to serve the north side of 14 Mile road between Mansfield and Eton, and also on paving and installing sidewalks on Eton and Grandfield roads.

Other necessity hearings scheduled are for building a sewer on Southfield from Lincoln to 14 Mile, and on a Southfield water main from Lincoln to Southlawn.

200 Attend Funeral for Emilie Dionne history of this north Canadian wilderness.

About 1,200 automobiles surrounded the hillside church and were parked for miles around a long bend in the road.

An aged woman said: "It seems they've been around so long that everybody takes them for granted."

"But today the Quints are no more as we knew them."

The long funeral cortege moved slowly a mile to the desolate burying ground. A light drizzle began to fall.

The coffin was carried into the cemetery between strands of a crude barbed wire fence to the burial place, marked by newly planted flowers.

The Quints and their parents followed the coffin to the grave, and then the Quints closed their eyes.

The coffin was placed in a brown, steel vault, Marie winced as she glanced at it only once for a fraction of a second.

No one in the crowd spoke. No one moved.

The only sounds were the words of the priest and the mooring of cows in a nearby farm field.

A plane droned overhead as the family began to leave. Papa Dionne took his famous girls by their arms and moved them slowly away so they would not have to watch the actual lowering of the coffin into the grave.

Hundreds of farm folk and visitors from throughout Canada trudged up a hillside to the small church for the Requiem Mass at 9:30 a.m.

Papa and Mama Dionne, their heads bowed, followed their famous daughter's casket up the wooden steps of the town church. The mother was supported by her daughter, Rose.

The four remaining quintuplets followed, dressed all in black from black stockings to black hats.

Hundreds of automobiles lined the hillside leading to the church. The church itself was filled to its capacity with 400 mourners paying final respects to the girl who died without warning Friday during an epileptic seizure.

Two hundred persons had to be turned away, and gathered around the church entrance. Others remained seated reverently in their cars.

Parents Take Juveniles Home After Breakin

Two juveniles arrested by Pontiac Police Saturday night after an attempted break-in of a building at 92½ Bagley St. were released to their parents who promised to reappear at the juvenile bureau today.

Both 15-year-old boys told Detectives Herbert C. Cooley and Richard Evans that they decided to break into the rooming house after a Detroit man tried to solicit them for other break-ins in Detroit Saturday night.

Cooley quoted the youths as saying, "He made it sound easy, so we thought we'd try it."

The pair was arrested by police who spotted the youths on a fire escape in the rear of the building.

Death Probe On in Phenix City

Grand Jury Meeting in Secret to Investigate Murder of Nominee

PHENIX CITY, Ala., (U)—Solemn members of a hand-picked grand jury meet in secret session here today to discover if possible who killed A. L. Patterson and to root out the fantastic factors that led to his death.

After Circuit Judge Walter B. Jones of Montgomery reopens the emergency grand jury session the 18 jurors will retire with special Solicitor George C. Johnson Jr. to consider indictments.

Some 125 witnesses have been served with almost 3,000 subpoenas to give evidence which might help rid Russell County of a criminal colony that has proven time and again it will stop at nothing.

Patterson's murder last June 18 touched off an explosion of outrage that the gamblers and vice lords didn't anticipate. Thus Patterson, who was gunned down in an alley a few days after receiving the Democratic nomination for attorney general, may yet accomplish in death what he had sworn to do had he lived to take office.

The Phenix City attorney pledged in his campaign to clean up the notorious community. There is no telling how long the jury may be in session. State investigators have dug up masses of evidence suggesting payoffs and neglect of duty by public officials as well as plenty of indications of wrongdoings by known vice kings.

However, it is the opinion of some court sources that the grand jury will make a partial report within the next 10 days and return indictments against many caught redhanded in the crackdown.

'Mud Pack' Fails to Bring Beauty to Palomino

PORTLAND, Maine (U)—Glo-Boy, a palomino horse, glowed in name only yesterday after an unscheduled mud treatment.

Glo-Boy started across what appeared to be a puddle. His rider leaped clear. Glo-Boy plunged into a 12-foot deep trench dug for a pipeline and floundered through mud and water to a shallow end. Helped from the trench, he showed his appreciation — by shaking himself and splattering onlookers with mud.

Mobile has lived under the flag of six nations since it was established in 1702.

Waterford Club Hears Lecture by Garden Expert

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP—Foundation plantings and "backyard livingrooms" were discussed by Russell Hurd at the recent meeting of the Waterford Chapter of the National Farm and Garden Club held at the Williams Lake home of Mrs. Herbert Bayle. Hurd, a landscape architect illustrated his talk with 3-D movies. Assisting him were Mrs. Hurd and Mrs. Albert James. In other business, the group selected the beautification of the CIA Building grounds as its project for the year. Members will donate small plants and bushes and the club will buy evergreens. Mrs. Paul Herbst will be in charge of financing the project.

Housing Units Ordered Sold

Manager Fails to Get Extension at Parkview and Crystal Beach

All of Parkview federal wartime housing project here and some of the Crystal Beach units will be advertised for sale in the next two weeks on order of the Public Housing Administration, James N. Wiessner, local project's manager, stated today. The order rules out any possibility of an extension of time for the 48 families still living in the low-rent projects, said Wiessner, who traveled to the PHA offices in Chicago over the weekend for consultation.

The families were officially evicted as of Aug. 1, but those remaining say they are unable to find housing and will be "on the streets" if evicted.

Pontiac Mayor William W. Donaldson said last week an attempt is being made by city officials and civic leaders to solve the group's problem.

Wiessner stated that the eight families still living in Parkview will probably have other accommodations by Aug. 15.

Parkview, at the corner of South and East Bldgs., consists of 100 dwelling units. Crystal Beach, at the south end of Lake street, has 80 units.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery
Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to stop bleeding—without surgery.

In case after case, pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. Now this new healing substance is offered in ointment form under the name of Preparation H. Ask for it at all drug stores—money back guarantee.

Bob Considine Says:

After 18,000,744 Words of Prose, He Feels Faint

NEW YORK (INS)—Thoroughly unnering statistic: Just figured out that since the day Shirley Povich hired me on the Washington Post—lo, these 24 years ago—I've written 18 million words.

And can't remember 18.

The age of passenger travel in American-made jet airliners was brought years closer this past week by the stroke of a pen. The Air Force ordered Boeing to put its 4-jet model 707 into production as a tanker.

The famed plane, with creature comfort added, can now be offered to airlines at a fraction of what Boeing would have had to charge if the Air Force had not ordered production.

The first 707 cost Boeing 15 million dollars. With production lines set up, the cost will drop to about a fifth of that.

It was inevitable, this decision to procure a jet-propelled tanker. Refueling airborne jets long since graduated from the stunt class to the realm of standard operation. The strategic Air Command has revealed that it performs an air refueling on the average of every five minutes, 24 hours a day.

The B47 which soon will attempt a new record for consecutive days aloft will be frequently re-fueled and will demonstrate, with each aerial drink, that it would be an easy prey for any lurking enemy fighter or antiaircraft battery.

In order to refuel, the B47 must descend from its best operating height of about 40,000 feet to perhaps 12,000 feet. It must slow itself down to a dangerously sluggish speed in order not to overrun the lumbering propeller-driven cow which is feeding it.

When finished, the B47 must dive even lower in order to pick up enough to climb back to the safety of rarefied heights without burning up too much gas.

The 707 will be able to refuel the B47, B52, F84 and other jets at extreme altitude and at speeds close to the sound barrier. It can fly as high and as fast as the highest and fastest. And all it needs to put us in the jet age is travel seats, insulation, pressurization, and Gwendolyn, the ever-smiling stewardess.

Over a period of three days, just nine years ago, we altered the history of the military and the course of mankind by dropping two atomic bombs on Japan.

It may be interesting to recall that the bombs were dropped over the strong protest of 60 of the scientists who made them possible. They signed a petition after viewing the detonation of the first bomb at Alamogordo, N. M.

They pleaded that we never use the weapon against civilian populations. A deputy for Chief of Staff Gen. George C. Marshall brusquely refused to entertain the appeal.

Later he rejected their plea that we invite Emperor Hirohito and the Japanese war cabinet to view a test of the bomb over a cleared section of Tokyo Bay. The deputy received his instructions from Marshall, who was at Potsdam with President Truman at the time.

The Hiroshima and Nagasaki bombs exhausted our atomic stockpile. We had the casing of a third bomb standing by on Tinian but Marshall would not okay the delivery of its uranium or plutonium from Alamos. He wished to give the Japanese at least 30 days to study the horrors we had visited upon Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Well, sir, that makes about 18,000,744 words. Feel faint.

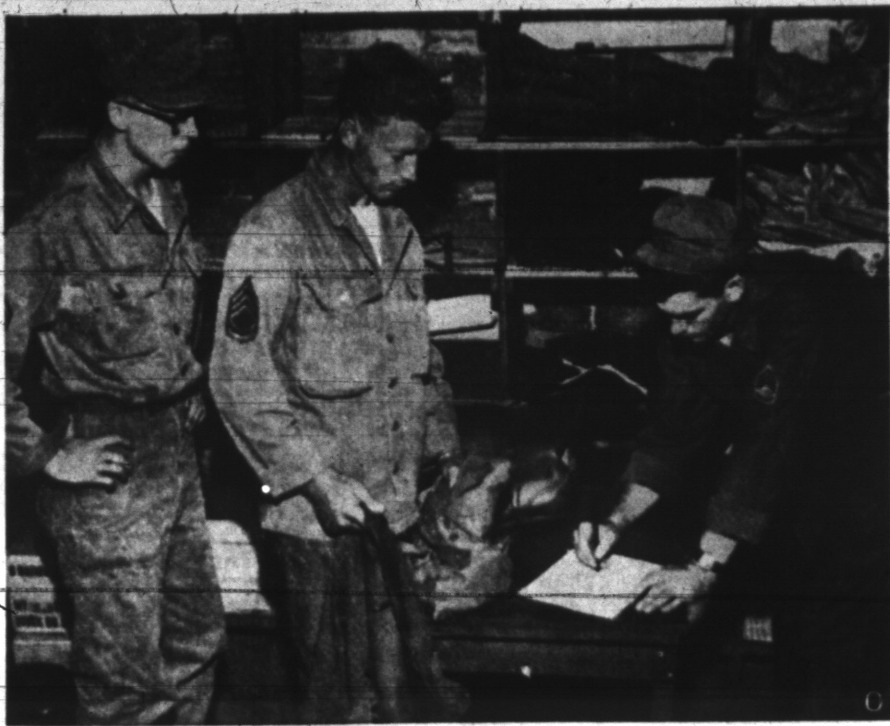

Four-Year-Old Is Kidnaped — by Accident

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (U) — Four-year-old Bruce Parker was safe at home today after an accidental kidnap experience that left him a little hungry and thirsty but otherwise unharmed.

The youngster was found Saturday, still in the car which had been stolen from in front of a supermarket in Allentown, as he lay asleep in the back seat.

Edward Diehl, returning from a hunting trip, discovered the abandoned car on a dirt mountain road three miles east of Lehigh.

The child's mother, Mrs. Albert Parker, left the car keys in the ignition and police theorized the thief drove off in the car without even noticing the youngster in the back seat.

Padock St. waits his turn. The men, all of Pontiac's National Guard Ordnance Co., left Saturday morning by truck convoy for a two-week encampment at Camp Grayling with Michigan's 46th Infantry "Iron Fist" National Guard Division. Pontiac's Co. "M," 125th Infantry Regiment, also left Saturday by bus for field training at Grayling.

Check Clues in Dogs' Death

Poisoned Wieners Kill 8 German Shepherds Trained to Lead Blind

MINNEAPOLIS (U) — Sheriff's officers were checking numerous tips today in their quest for the person who threw strychnine loaded wieners into a kennel, killing eight dogs that were being trained to lead blind persons.

Deputy Sheriff Eric W. Stephens, in charge of the investigation, said nothing definite had been turned up.

Meanwhile, John L. Sinykin, training director for the Master

Eye Foundation of America, feared about seven of 15 other dogs made ill Saturday by the poison would not survive.

Sinykin, who termed the poisoning as "the most inhuman act I've ever seen," knew of no enemies who might have poisoned the valuable animals.

Sinykin said the dogs that died had been valued at about $20,000. Among them was Sir Lancelot, the national champion.

Offers of aid and messages of sympathy reached Sinykin from more than a dozen states.

The Master Eye Foundation of America is a non-profit organization devoted to training German shepherds and providing them to guide blind persons.

5,000 Demonstrate Against U. S. in Nepal

KATAMANDU, Nepal (U) — An estimated 5,000 persons joined in a Communist-sponsored anti-American demonstration last night. The crowd burned effigies of President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles.

Heavy police guards were thrown around the U.S. Information Agency library.

Speakers accused the Americans of imperialist practices and of trying to bribe the Nepalese government in order to use Nepal as a base against Red China.

Nepal and the United States signed a technical assistance pact last month.

The U. S. ranks first in the production of rail equipment.

5-Year-Old Shoots Baby With Revolver

DETROIT (INS)—A 20-month-old baby boy was seriously wounded yesterday when he was shot by a 5-year-old who thought he was playing with a toy gun.

William Johnson held a .38-caliber revolver in both hands, pointed it at Otha Bender and pulled the trigger.

Otha was struck with a bullet which hit him in the upper lip and lodged in his jaw.

A roomer in the Bender home, Willie Clyde Wilson, 24, is being held by police for investigation of possession of an unregistered gun.

Police Still Crack Down on New York Hoodlums

NEW YORK (U) — Police squads swept through Times Square, Central Park and Rockaway Beach during the early morning hours yesterday in a continuing crack-down against hoodlums and undesirable.

The weekend raids were reported to have pulled in more than 200 persons, the largest haul since the drive began July 27.

Harry J. Klingler Retires

HARRY J. KLINGLER has retired from General Motors.

If all the inner facts could be known, the probabilities are that this move does not especially please Mr. KLINGLER or the General Motors Corporation.

But it's an inflexible rule. There is no modification.

Hence, the Corporation loses one of its most valuable figures. Here is the greatest natural salesman in the country and really a top-flight manufacturer all rolled into one piece; but the greatest corporation of them all and the man himself smilingly say "adieu." Unquestionably there are tremendous regrets on both sides.

Pontiac has an unusual interest in this particular retirement, for Mr. KLINGLER has been one of the greatest figures in Pontiac's industrial and civic life. He came here when the Pontiac Motor Division was selling approximately 75,000 cars a year and the city was in the doldrums. The remnants of a depression still gripped the area and optimism was purely a word in the dictionary.

In announcing Mr. KLINGLER's appointment here, Mr. SLOAN said to one of the editors of the Press:

"We figure the Pontiac car is a sound automobile and a good piece of merchandise. It needs someone that can sell it."

Well, Mr. KLINGLER was the boy. He started selling.

Sales moved upward steadily and furthermore, the new boss worked constantly on improving "a good piece of merchandise." As a result, Pontiac emerged from the deep, dark back stage shadows and edged out towards the footlights where the Big Timers stood—and finally Pontiac had the temerity to say: "move over and make room for me."

The moving over may have been an involuntary and unwilling gesture but the other cars had it to do. Pontiac had arrived.

As time passed and as the quality of the car was established and top flight selling methods and practices were introduced, the local product became a thing of which we all were tremendously proud and about which we boasted in utter shamelessness.

Throughout his seventeen years here, Mr. KLINGLER always played a prominent role in civic affairs. He served on innumerable committees and he never gave the job lip service. He was there in person and took an active part. He was on many, many city boards and mingled freely and continuously with the people of the city. He inspired tremendous confidence in himself and in his product.

He sold Pontiac Motor Division during every waking moment and no top ranking official in the GM Corporation ever wrangled a concession from HARRY J. KLINGLER that any other automobile in the world was the equal of a Pontiac. During one of his final years when automobiles were unrestricted, the local division made and sold approximately 450,000 units.

The city of Pontiac lost him a few years ago when he was promoted to the role of administering all passenger car divisions plus the Truck Company and they gave him an office in the General Motors Building. But he never lost contact with Pontiac.

Now he has gone from the corporation.

He has sold his home in Bloomfield Hills.

He and Mrs. KLINGLER still own a place on the St. Clair River and one in Florida. Where they will ultimately settle down, the Press doesn't know. We doubt whether Mr. KLINGLER will be very inactive long. There's too much energy stored up and more will be generated. No matter how strong it is, every boiler has to have a safety valve. Mr. KLINGLER is well and vigorous. He stands at the zenith of his capabilities. Something will claim him.

By the way, Harry, would you like to sell advertising at the Press? The chances are bully.

Lower Speed Saves Lives

Motorists of 24 participating States now have statistical proof that reduced highway speeds do save lives.

A report just issued by the Slow Down and Live Committee reveals an 11.5 per cent decrease in the number of deaths between May 30 and July 4 inclusive. Though there were two three-day holiday weekends this year deaths totaled 1,560 or 202 fewer than for the same period last year.

The reduction in fatalities was spread over 14 of the States which extend from Maine to Texas. Increases were reported by nine States and the death toll was unchanged in one.

It was possible to report this encouraging progress despite the fact that both Memorial Day and July Fourth this year were three day weekends while in 1953 they were both two day holidays.

Michigan isn't a participating State but traffic authorities here concur with the committee that speed is a major cause of highway fatalities.

Check on License Plates Around Some of Our Lakes

Daffynition

Oakland County lakes are attracting many out-state visitors, including those who may have summer cottages here, but more numerous those who are guests. A recent check on cars parked at 10 of our lakes shows that many southern people are in our midst. The lakes checked were Cass, Union, Pontiac, Walley, White, Williams, Orton, Oakland, Watkins and Silver. The license plates on 200 out-state cars were divided as follows: Florida, 23; California, 19; Texas, 17; Ohio, 13; New York, 12; Illinois, 11; Pennsylvania, 10; Indiana, 9; Georgia, 9; Ontario, 9; Wisconsin, 8; Kentucky, 8; Tennessee, 7, and the rest scattering.

The members of the Oakland County Pioneer Society and Veterans Historical Foundation are looking for a shorter name for their organization. What would you suggest?

The bathing beach at Oakland County's Kent Lake Park has a new board walk that rivals the one at Atlantic City, according to R. C. Cummings who has had a major part in the development of this local recreational spot.

Early potatoes also are going strong in our gardens. As usual, of Waterford, comes through with some big ones, running up to a pound apiece.

August Maltroit

Petunias are blossoming in such a variety of colors and in such profusion in the gardens of

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Burman of Rochester that their premises reflect a rainbow appearance.

Now at Fort Knox, in a letter thanking the Pontiac Press for the writing portfolio given him when he entered the army three years ago,

Pfc Conrad Whittaker

says, "After talking to thousands of soldiers, I have learned of no more appropriate gift."

Although it has no incorporated village or city wholly within its borders, Supervisor Lloyd L. (Andy) Anderson of Waterford Township says its large population gives it most of the same troubles.

Plenty of young pheasants are reported by Pontiac Press drivers who cover a total of several thousand miles daily in their motor delivery.

Situated at the brow of a hill in the highway, the sign is well meaning, but it also is directly in front of the office of

Bill Stamp,

Clarkston publisher, who takes some exception to its wording, "Pass with care."

'Daily Reader' Expresses Disapproval Over Cutthroat Capers of the Senate

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests, unless the letter is critical in its nature.)

After reading articles (published by the Press) written by D. Lawrence regarding Sen. McCarthy I wonder how much more of the tax payers' money will be used in this cut-throat caper of the Senate. Personally, I don't know Sen. McCarthy. The Senator was, from TV records, disgusted with the Army promoting Peress, who hid behind the 5th amendment on our most dangerous foe, Communism, also giving him an honorable discharge to cover up that they brought up the Schine case, a man who had already served. He was willing to go again, but did ask for a field in which he could do the most.

Mr. Lawrence's article I will mail to Sen. Knowland. It is certainly time this waste of money is stopped. In a previous statement of the Press, the Chicago Tribune stated from a poll that 91 per cent were for the Senator. As to resentment over Marshall, a Truman left-over, when did any of the generals back a very distinguished and local citizen? Not one.

A daily reader.

Starlings Are Problem States Indignant Victim

I think those starlings are a city problem. Aren't tax payers entitled to protection. Will the city allow us to start firing shot guns into the trees. Personally, I think 40 or 50 rounds from a 12 gauge gun would rid any neighborhood of the

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY
Unto you, O men, I call; and my voice is to the sons of man.

Case Records of a Psychologist

Be Fussy in Choice of Lifetime Mate; You Elect a Parent for Your Children

Laraine's love should be seasoned with logic. Besides, you teen-agers will live to pass 70, so don't jump into marriage too early. You have plenty of time. Shop around and date many eligibles, for you cast the "proxy" votes of your future unborn children when you marry. Think of their best interests, too.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
Case L-379: Laraine P., aged 17, will soon be a high school senior.

"Dr. Crane, I am in love with the president of the senior class," she began.

"And he wants us to get married right away. But my parents think I should go on to school in the fall."

"So I agreed to come to you for a decision. But why should we wait any longer when we love each other?"

In George Washington's day girls often married at 16. But the average length of life was only about 42 years.

Now the average woman lives to about 72. So there is not the great urgency that confronted teenagers in Colonial Days.

You modern girls can wait till you are 22 and still have 50 years ahead.

Besides, in Washington's day, there were no P-T-A and few church organizations or civic clubs in which mothers participated.

And I mention that fact because when you young folks pick a mate, you are also casting the "proxy" votes of your future unborn children.

And those children will want parents who can "front" successfully in P-T-A and church and countless other societies.

So we psychologists usually veto marriage until a girl has graduated from high school and then gone on to school or into a job for at least a couple of years.

In fact, the usual age for marriage nowadays in our larger cities is about 22 years, and that is desirable.

For a girl who expects to pick marriage as a career, needs to know not just how to cook and budget money, but she should understand child psychology, for she'll expect to rear some children.

We don't let untrained teachers deal with children in grammar school.

So why should untrained girls think they can be successful parents in their own homes, either?

Nursing a baby and changing its diapers will not make you a good mother. You need far more knowledge than that.

"Love flies out the window when poverty stalks in the door," runs an old proverb that is still true.

So you girls should analyze your boy friends about their earning ability. Have they a trade or profession?

Or are they now in some technical school or college gaining that skill for bringing home a pay check adequate to support you and two or three children?

If not, be wary: It isn't very pleasant to move in with his parents and then be taunted with the fact his father must support you.

Furthermore, you teenagers need to date at least 5 or 10 members of the opposite sex to learn more about human psychology.

If you stick to your first and only sweetheart, you haven't enough perspective to know whether that is the best one for you.

And ten years later, you may bump into another who far outshines your mate. So date many desirable members of the opposite sex. Then you can develop a better yardstick for measuring personality.

Also, send for my 200-point "Tests for Sweethearts," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus a dime. They'll help widen your perspective.

Portraits

By JAMES J. METCALFE

I drive my car, I catch a train ... I board a bus, or fly ... To visit old, familiar scenes ... That never seem to die ... It does not matter how I go ... Or if the price is good ... As long as I can visit in ... My youthful neighborhood ... There are a thousand memories ... Along the shortest block ... And every door along the way ... Is one where I may knock ... My friends are all the same to me ... Wherever I have been ... They credit every virtue but ... They never debit sin ... And I may be as wrong as wrong ... And bad as bad can be ... But all the friends I ever knew ... Are wonderful to me.

David Lawrence Says:

Censure Should Hit Many If McCarthy Is Reproved

WASHINGTON — There isn't the slightest shred of constitutional authority to back up a resolution of censure on the basis of the charges filed against Sen. McCarthy of Wisconsin — and most of the members of the Senate know it.

The Constitution has three provisions that could possibly be invoked to censure or expel members. These read as follows:

"Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns, and qualifications of its own members ...

"Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish members for disorderly behavior, and with the concurrence of two thirds, expel a member ...

"The senators and representatives ... shall in all cases except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either house they shall not be questioned in any other place."

There have been 121 cases in which members of the Senate have been involved in contests over elections or over the improper use of money in their campaigns and some have been seated and others have been denied seats. But in every instance the question was raised only when the new member presented his credentials for admission.

Thus in the case of Sen. William Langer, at present chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, an issue was presented in the 1941 session immediately after his election in 1940 and the majority of a Senate committee recommended that "inasmuch as the charge of 'moral turpitude' had been proven beyond all reasonable doubt, the integrity of the United States Senate be upheld by denying William Langer the right to be a senator from North Dakota."

In that case it had been alleged that Langer while governor had received $25,000 from the Great Northern Railway for stock in some lands in Mexico already expropriated after the railway's taxes had been cut $150,000 a year.

The Senate refused to approve the committee report and by a vote of 52 to 30 upheld Langer's right to his seat in the Senate. This case involved personal behavior prior to admission to the Senate.

Hence it came under the question of proper "qualifications" for membership in the Senate. There have been 16 expulsion cases involving misdemeanors, felonies and treason.

In the only three cases involving actual censure, one involved a physical encounter between Sen. Tillman of South Carolina and Sen. McLaughlin, also of South Carolina. Another case involved the practice of certain senators who carried fire-arms while in the Senate.

The third case involved Sen. Bingham of Connecticut. The resolution of censure exonerated him from personal misbehavior by declaring that what he did was "not the result of corrupt motives."

He was reprimanded for designating as one of his clerks on his committee a man who was an employee of a manufacturers' association in his own state interested in the tariff. It is a blot on the record of the Senate that it adopted that resolution.

Dollar-a-year men have been employed in executive agencies in the past and have sat in confidential meetings. But even in this instance the case was presented to the Senate immediately upon its occurrence and not as an afterthought three years later as is happening now with most of the charges filed against Sen. McCarthy.

Nearly all of the acts charged against McCarthy are alleged to have occurred prior to the time he was elected to his present term in November 1953 by the people of the state of Wisconsin. He was not questioned as to his "qualifications" on these or any other of the same matters before the Senate accepted his credentials in January 1953.

Thus the episode involving his sale of a book for $10,000 to the Lustron Corp., relating to housing and veterans occurred in 1951. The hearings by a Senate committee looking into his personal financial transactions about which he declined to testify because he considered the committee politically inspired, occurred before the election of 1952.

The McCarthy speech attacking Gen. Marshall also was made before the junior senator from Wisconsin presented his credentials in 1953.

He is as immune from censure or punishment for what happened in his senatorial term, since expired, as Truman was when he refused early this year to answer questions about Harry Dexter White in response to a subpoena from a House Committee.

As for the charges of discreditable handling of two alleged Communists and his resentment over Gen. Zwicker's refusal to cooperate as a witness after failing to prevent the honorable discharge of a Communist from the Army, these open up new questions about how police committee chairmen have to be with recalcitrant witnesses. There are no standards or rules now.

So far as other charges are concerned that relate to the conduct of a senator as a committee chairman or as speaker in the Senate, there isn't a single instance complained of that hasn't a parallel in the acts of many other senators, Democrats as well as Republicans.

If the Senate ever passes a resolution censuring the Wisconsin senator on any of those points, a flood of censure resolutions condemning at least a third of the members of the Senate could be offered on the basis of such an unconstitutional precedent.

New York City figures to solve traffic conditions by painting the white line on the pedestrians.

That's the only thing motorists pay no attention to.

Ambulances, fire engines and mail trucks have the right-of-way over all vehicles including wheelchairs, baby carriages and English teatables.

Back in 1920 we were appointed a posse comitatus by the mayor to study traffic conditions on the hoof. We came back with the historic observation that the only way to get to the other side of Fifth Avenue was to be born there. And as a result of parental observation of changing lights children were being born with one green and one red eye.

It's the red-eye that complicates the intricate pattern of pedestrianism. We mean the trail blazer who takes one for the opposite curb.

An American in Paris has fractional chances of cashing his traveler's checks on the other side of the boulevard. The Paris taxicabs are small, alert and aggressive. Unlike other rattlers they do not have to coil to strike. Window shopping in Paris is mostly broken glass.

A New Yorker in London has the cards stacked against him like a file-indeed in the FBI. His chances of survival are one in a hundred and he's the other ninety-nine. The vehicular traffic in London is from right to left instead of twice around the clock.

Dr. Brady Thinks Pipe Smoking Is Okay but He Stresses Habit of Temperance

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Having read carefully nearly everything that has been written lately about smoking and cancer, I continue to enjoy my flock of tanshell straight stem pipes.

I have 15 of 'em in commission, smoking a different pipe every afternoon or every evening after dinner.

Some 16 years ago I did worry a bit about a wee white spot on my lower lip. Lest it should prove to be leukoplakia (smoker's patch), which in some instances seems to be the forerunner of cancer, the surgeon I consulted removed it under local anesthesia.

I remember how he seemed to fiddle around too long and I said "Well, let's get going." But the surgeon said "You can't get out of here too soon to suit me—the operation was finished five minutes ago." I'll never cease to marvel at the blessing of local anesthesia.

If anyone cares to know what I think about smoking and cancer, there it is.

When I was so honest that I never made more than the barest living for my family (but I have a happy conscience about it and no regrets) I smoked cigars.

Not because I could afford cigars but two patients were cigar makers and they liked to pay their bills with cigars.

I lost one of these patients when I moved from one town to another; I lost the second because I insisted his daughter had exophthalmic goitre only, when a more eminent physician pronounced her illness pulmonary tuberculosis.

Subsequent history indicated that the eminent physician had been wrong and ... but even so, the cigar maker had no further use for me.

Not a lot afterward I was impressed by the evident enjoyment a young clergyman in the neighborhood got from his pipe when he dropped in of an evening.

So I began smoking a pipe, fueled with the Arcadia Mixture extolled by M. M. Barrie in My Lady Nicotine.

Oddly enough, when I was in London in '30 I was astonished to see only an occasional pipe smoker, and I was disappointed when London tobaccoists looked blank when I asked for the Arcadia Mixture—for that matter, American dealers seem to be fresh out of it nowadays.

So I'm a confirmed, but moderate, indeed I may fairly say temperate pipe smoker, and without citing specific statistics or the opinions of the experts to corroborate my prejudice, I assure you I do not worry.

And I don't think any pipe smoker who is temperate need worry about cancer, high blood pressure, thrombo-angiitis obliterans (Buerger's disease), arteriosclerosis, angina pectoris, peptic ulcer or coronary thrombosis from chronic carbon monoxide anoxia or whatever it may be in tobacco smoke that causes these pathological effects.

Signed, letters, not more than one page of 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, and to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

Aunt Het

It's queer how a big man's reputation fools us. If a common little man did some of the things done by our statesmen, we'd think he was simple.

Hal Boyle Finds:South Dakota's Badlands Not Meant for Tenderfoot

SCENIC, S.D. (U)—There is no place in the world where the earth has been tortured into stranger beauty than "The Badlands" of South Dakota.

"Hell with the fires out!" exclaimed Gen. Alfred Sully on seeing them in 1864. Later visitors have compared them to the waterless landscape of the moon—or to the portrait of a hangover in technicolor.

Millions of tourists each year are awestruck by the weirdly eroded scenery—the lonely colorful battlements and writhing 2,000-foot-high towering shapes carved by wind and ancient rivers over millions of years.

"But most of them see the Badlands only from their automobiles," said my friend, Earl Brocklesby, owner of "The Reptile Gardens," one of the world's greatest snake collections.

"Why don't you let me take you on a tour through them? We'll go where the foot of man never has trod before."

Like a fool I agreed, and then didn't have the force of character to back out. Too bright and too early next morning our safari set out through this arid wilderness.

The party included, besides my host and his victim, two young lady students of paleontology and Warren Morell, editor of the Rapid City Daily Journal.

Before we even reached the picnic site—hobbling from three cactus spikes that had pierced my loafers—I knew I had blundered. The picnic site was a blinding white cradle in a canyon. No shade. Temperature in the sun—probably 110.

Brocklesby cooked the hot dogs five at a time on a hook he used to catch rattlesnakes. When I tried to bite my sandwich, it seemed to me the hot dog tried to rear up and bite back.

"Well, let's go back," I said when the lunch was over.

"Go back?" said Earl. "Why, we haven't started yet."

How true. How true. For three hours we climbed terrifying crags or dried silt, slid down embankments, crawled through poison ivy beds on hands and knees, inched through canyons too narrow for a gazelle with a new Dior bustline.

"Isn't that breathtaking?" said Earl, pausing at one vista.

"Sure—sure," I panted. "Particularly . . . that big . . . butte . . . that looks like . . . a . . . red castle."

"It isn't red," objected Earl. Maybe not through his eyeballs—but it was through mine.

Twice Earl stopped and handed me fossil teeth from an oreodon, a sheep-like animal that roamed the area maybe 20 million years ago. I put them in my pocket. Three times I slipped and fell and felt the teeth sinking into me.

Imagine being attacked by a 20-million-year-old fossil sheep. How silly can you get?

"Sabre-toothed tigers used to live here," said Earl. "And there still are a few wildcats around."

Right then and there I decided I had done enough pioneering for a guy who likes nothing better than exploring the bottom of a swivel chair.

"Let's go back," I said. "But first show me this place where the foot of man has never trod."

"Right where you're standing," said Earl.

I sat down and traced the outline of my aching feet with a pencil. Then, so that future Marco Poles wouldn't have to wonder what strange old fossil had left this mark of his passing, I signed my name.

As I straightened up and we started the long climb to our car, I noticed something scribbled on the canyon wall. You know what it said?

"Kilroy was here."

You can't win.

Bored Pigs Bite Others

EAST LANSING (INS)—Dr. Jacob A. Hofer—swine researcher at Michigan State College—says the reason pigs bite each other's tails off when crowded together may be that they are just plain bored. "In the cases that I have observed," declared the swine specialist, "the pigs always have been under close confinement—perhaps they need something more than just eating and sleeping to occupy their time."

Son, 33, Beats Mother to DeathDetroit Claims 'Devil Possessed' Woman, 70; Police Hospitalize Him

DETROIT (U)—A 33-year-old man who told police he beat and kicked his mother to death last night "because she was possessed of the Devil" was held as a police prisoner today in a hospital mental ward.

Glenn Green told Detective David Harris that he assaulted his mother, Mrs. Alice Green, 70, of Vicco, Ky., as she lay in bed "because she was possessed of the Devil and the Bible says the only thing to do is to beat the Devil out of them."

Mrs. Green was visiting her son, his wife and two children.

She died shortly after admittance to Receiving Hospital with a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Green's wife Ollie Louis, 21, told police her husband pulled his mother from her bed, beat her, threw her to the floor and stamped on her.

Mrs. Green said her husband first showed signs of a mental strain while training with the Army reserves at Ft. Eustis, Va., last June. He is a veteran of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

She said he had been admitted to Valley Forge (Pa.) General Hospital, where doctors said he was a violent mental case. She said she had checked him out of the hospital against the Army's wishes.

As Green was being locked up, he asked police, "Is my mother dead?" When told she wasn't, (police had not yet learned of Mrs. Green's death) he remarked:

"That is too bad, because if she lives the Devil will leave her and get into me."

Teenage Inebriates Up

LONDON (INS)—The new drunks of Britain are the boys and girls under 21. The Economic Research Council reported that drunkenness among this age group is increasing at a startling rate. Drink convictions against girls have jumped more than 80 per cent during the past four years. Those against boys went up 102 per cent.

Tax Slash for Corporations to Help 10 Million Persons

By CHARLES F. BARRETT
(Sixth in Series)

WASHINGTON (U)—A tax cut hailed chiefly as a boon to corporations actually will benefit more individual taxpayers than any other one part of the new tax revision law.

Experts estimate almost 10 million persons will pay reduced income taxes next spring because of much faster deductions for wear and tear on new equipment or buildings.

A farmer can benefit if he gets a new tractor or barn; a grocer or other shopowner can benefit if he buys a new display counter; a lawyer can benefit on books for his law library; a doctor gets a tax cut on new medical equipment; a landlord benefits on permanent improvements to his property; even a writer can benefit if he buys a new typewriter.

Altogether, individual taxpayers are expected to get tax reductions from this provision amounting to 73 million dollars the first year, much more later. The same provision will cut taxes on an estimated 600,000 corporations by about 291 million dollars the first year.

You can claim depreciation deductions on buildings or equipment which are used in producing income and which have a useful life of three years or more. You can't deduct, for example, on a home or car not used in business. If the useful life is less than three years, you deduct the cost of the item as a regular business expense but not as depreciation.

Depreciation deductions are spread over the years of useful life of an item. They add up eventually to the total cost of the item. They are deducted from your income, before you apply the tax rate.

The new law permits much bigger deductions on new equipment or buildings in the first years of useful life. That means smaller deductions toward the end of the period of useful life. For millions of taxpayers, it means substantially lower taxes over the next few years.

And you can wind up with a big over-all tax cut if you sell the item before its useful life is over—after taking the big deductions in the early years.

The more liberal treatment applies to new equipment bought after last Dec. 31, or to construction started after Dec. 31. If construction was started before then, but completed later, the more liberal allowances apply only to that part of the construction cost after Dec. 31. The new deductions may be claimed in 1954 tax returns due next April 15.

Note: You can't claim the new deductions if you buy used equipment. The old rules still apply in that case.

Under the old law, generally you figured the useful life of the new item and deducted the cost in equal annual installments over that period. Thus a $10,000 item with 10 years of life would mean a $1,000 deduction each year for 10 years. This is called the "straight-line" method.

Under the new rules, you are given several possible new methods of figuring deductions. The most important are called the "declining balance" method and the "sum of the years' digits" method. They sound frightfully complicated, but they aren't so difficult when you sit down to work them out.

Under the declining balance, first you figure the percentage deduction allowed each year, under the old law. In the example above, that would be 10 per cent. Then you double the percentage. In this example, you get 20 per cent.

Now, for the first year, you deduct that percentage from the total cost. Thus the first year you get a deduction of $2,000 instead of $1,000. And each succeeding year, you apply that same 20 per cent to the remaining balance of the cost—not to the entire cost. You have already deducted $2,000, so in the second year you would deduct 20 per cent of $8,000, or $1,600. The third year you would deduct 20 per cent of $6,400, or $1,280.

In the first three years under the declining balance method, you would deduct $4,880 instead of the $3,000 under the old law. At a 25 per cent tax rate, that would be an actual tax cut of $470 the first three years.

Under the "sum of the years' digits" plan, the rate of deductions is a fraction. The denominator of the fraction is constant—the sum of all the numbers in the useful life. In the example above, that would be 1 plus 2 plus 3 and so forth up to 10. That gives you a denominator of 55.

The numerator of the fraction starts with the number of useful years, or 10. It declines by one number each year. Each year you apply this fraction to your total cost, to figure the deduction.

Thus the first year your deduction in this example would be 10-55ths of $10,000, or $1,818. The second year it would be 9-55ths of $10,000, or $1,636. The third year it would be 8-55ths, or $1,454; and so forth until the tenth year your deduction would be 1-55th, or only $182.

In this case, your deductions the first three years would total $4,908. This compares with $3,000 under the old straight-line method—an additional deduction of $1,908. If you're in a 25 per cent tax bracket, that would be an actual tax cut of $477 the first three years.

Still other methods are allowed, but none of the others may exceed the declining balance rate at any one point during the first two-thirds of useful life. You can use the declining balance method for part of the period, and then shift at any time to the straight-line method of deducting your remaining balance of cost.

Writer Plans to Marry Harbormaster's Girl

LOS ANGELES (U)—Actor-writer, David Barclay, 42, plans to marry the daughter of the Santa Monica, Calif., harbormaster.

Barclay and Nancy Lee Lister, 19, obtained a marriage license Saturday. Last year when Barclay was divorced by Mrs. Dorothy Barclay, 39, she charged:

"He would rather give up his house, wife and children than his boat, the White Cloud." He got the 60-foot boat, but her part of the settlement included 15 per cent of his income, estimated at $50,000 a year.

The Caine Mutiny

CHAPTER 35

"Commander, did you run a mile ahead of the attack boats, drop your marker, and retire at a high speed, leaving the boats to grope to the line of departure as best they could?"

Challee leaped to his feet. "The question is abusive and flagrantly leading."

"I am willing to withdraw the question," said Greenwald wearily, "in view of the commander's dim memory, and proceed to more recent events."

"Court desires to question the witness," said Blakely. Greenwald retreated to his desk, watching the president's face.

"Commander Queeg," Blakely said, "in view of the implications in this line of testimony, I urge you to search your memory for correct answers."

"I am certainly trying to do that, sir, but as I say these are very small points and I've been through several campaigns since Kwajalein and the typhoon and now all this business—"

"I appreciate that, but it will facilitate justice if you can remember enough to give a few definite answers on points of fact. First of all, can you recall whether your orders contained instructions to drop a dye marker?"

"Well, to the best of my recollection they didn't. That can be checked against the record. But I believe I can say definitely that they didn't, as I recall now."

"Very well. Will you please repeat your explanation of why you dropped it?"

"Well, I guess to mark the line of departure plainly."

"Were those boats on the line of departure when you turned away from the beach?"

"As near as I could calculate, yes."

"In that case Commander, if they were already on the line, what purpose did the dye marker serve?"

Queeg hesitated. "Well, you might say a safety factor. Just another added mark. Maybe I erred in being overcautious and making sure they knew where they were but then again I've always believed you can't err on the side of safety."

"From the time you made rendezvous with the boats, Commander, until the time you dropped the marker, what was the widest gap between you and the boats?"

"Well, distances are deceptive over water, particularly with those low-lying boats."

"Did you stay within hailing distance of them?" Blakely said with a slight acid impatient note.

"Hailing distance? No. We communicated by semaphore. I might have swamped them if I'd stayed within hailing distance."

"These are your factual recollections, Commander?" Blakely's face was grave.

"Those are the facts, sir," Blakely said to Greenwald. "You may resume your examination."

Challee stood. "Sir the witness is obviously and understandably agitated by this ordeal, and I request a recess to give him a breathing space—"

"I am not in the least agitated," exclaimed Queeg, "and I'm glad to answer any and all questions here and in fact I demand a chance to set the record straight on anything derogatory to me in the testimony that's gone before."

"I did not make a single mistake in fifteen months aboard the Caine and I can prove it and my record has been spotless until now and I don't want it smirched by a whole lot of lies and distortions by disloyal officers."

"Commander, would you like a recess?" said Blakely.

"Definitely not, sir. I request there be no recess if it's up to me."

"Very well," Greenwald went on. "Commander Queeg, have you read Lt. Maryk's medical log?"

"I have read that interesting document, yes sir, I have. It is the biggest conglomeration of lies and distortions and half-truths I've ever seen and I'm extremely glad you asked me because I want to get my side of it all on the record."

"Please state your version, or any factual comments on the episodes in the log, sir."

"Well, now, starting right with that strawberry business the real truth is that I was betrayed and thrown and double-crossed by my executive officer and this precious gentleman Mr. Keith who between them corrupted my wardrobe so that I was the one man against a whole ship without any support from my officers—"

"Now, you take that strawberry business—why, if that wasn't a case of outright conspiracy to protect a malefactor from justice—Maryk carefully leaves out the little fact that I had conclusively proved by a process of elimination that someone had a key to the icebox."

"He says it was the steward's mates who ate the strawberries but if I wanted to take the trouble I could prove to this court geometrically that they couldn't have."

"It's the water business all over again, like when the crew was taking baths seven times a day and our evaps were definitely on the Fritz half the time and I was trying to inculcate the simplest principles of water conservation, but no, Mr. Maryk, the hero of the crew, wanted to go right on molly-coddling them and—or you take the coffee business—no, well, the strawberry thing first—it was a constant battle, always the same thing, Maryk and Keith undermining my authority, always arguments, though I personally liked Keith and kept trying to train him up only to get stabbed in the back when—"

Commander Queeg passed to a discussion of the failures of the laundry, the sloppiness of the mess statements and ship's service inventories, and went on from subject to subject in this way, cataloging his grievances against his officers, mainly Maryk and Keith. He hardly paused for breath.

Greenwald strolled to his desk and leaned against it, listening respectfully. The court members stared at the witness. Challee slouched, biting his nails. Blakely began to glance at the clock.

Queeg went on for eight or nine minutes in this way, and ended up. "Well, naturally, I can only cover these things roughly from memory but if I've left anything out why you just ask me specific questions and I'll tackle them one by one, but I believe I've hit the main points."

"It was a very thorough and complete answer, thank you," Greenwald said. He drew two glossy black photostats from a folder on his desk.

"Commander, I show you authenticated copies of two fitness reports you wrote on Lt. Maryk. Do you recognize them as such?"

Queeg took the papers and said grumpily, glancing at them, "Yes, I do."

"Please read to the court your comment on Maryk of January 1944."

Queeg read in a choked voice a highly laudatory description of Maryk.

"Thank you, Commander. That was January. Now by July, six months later, had the Caine already been through the Kwajalein and Saipan invasions?"

"Had the following incidents already occurred: the water shortage, the coffee investigation, the Stilwell court-martial, and the suspension of movies, among others?"

Queeg hesitated. "Well, by then, yes, I think."

"Please read your comment of 1 July on Lieutenant Maryk."

Queeg stared at the photostat for a long time, hunched over, and began mumbling.

"This officer has if anything improved in his performance of duty since the last fitness report. He is consistently loyal, unflinching, thorough, courageous, and efficient. He is considered at present fully qualified for command of a 1200-ton DMS. His professional zeal and integrity set him apart as an outstanding example for other officers, reserve and regular alike. He cannot be too highly commended. He is recommended for transfer to the regular Navy."

"Thank you, Commander. No further questions."

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Nine weary boys took it easy today after hiking 70 miles across the rugged Superstition Mountains east of here.

The lads, ranging in age from 14 to 18, killed rattlesnakes and other animals and lived for days off wild meat and desert plants.

Margaret Rogg and Harold Ward Are United Saturday

A portrait gown of traditional white satin was worn by Margaret Rogg when she spoke her nuptial vows with Harold E. Ward Saturday evening.

Features of the gown were a basque waist and a bouffant skirt which ended in a chapel-length train. The sweetheart neckline was accented with pearl motifs, and the long sleeves ended in points at the wrists.

A pearl half-cap held her finger-tip veil of imported silk illusion and she carried a colonial bouquet of white roses and ivy centered with album lilies.

Iron Cage Corsets Hide the Soft Lines of Beauty

By ANITA COLBY

Your new corset, or Around the Waist in 25 Inches—One thing that tells you I hope—that your course is taking effect is your girdle's getting loose! Wonderful.

In time you'll throw away all those old ones, and start afresh—and smaller. Because even if you're not losing many actual pounds, exercise and proper posture are redistributing your weight, and your curves, into more ideal arrangements, I'm sure.

I want you to be well informed on corsetry—understand it is a problem of fit, and that there are experts to help you in every good corset shop.

Watch your waistline curve jealously. It's the loveliest line. It shows the soonest whether you're acting, eating, moving and dressing like a beauty.

It should be long and supple, well-defined but utterly free. Be sure your slips don't add bulk here.

Too large, they bunch around waist. Too small, they creep up. Too short or too long-waisted, they spoil your own lines.

My friends with lovely waistlines follow the French practice of bras and half slips or petticoats—it leaves a lovely, pure, unhampered waistline.

Many of them have their suit skirts paneled inside to eliminate once and for all any possibility of a bulge of underthings.

Avoid Iron Cage

Let me emphasize: The iron cage corset is not for a beauty. Those heavy, boned, reinforced all-over foundations give the impression of a body poured in concrete. Not for you.

You want, primarily, light control and slight shaping before you buy a single new garment. But you will get so lithe and slender that the gentle two-way stretch girdle and the proper bras are the only checkers you'll need.

Remember your girdle and bras are not hammocks. You've got muscles—keep them working.

Special note for the short-waisted: Avoid bras that flatten the bosom; buy those that lift, to give you a longer, lovelier waistline. And to all of you: TRY ON—TRY ON.

Go to a reputable corset department and buy both bra and girdle at once.

One: Ask to be measured, take several types and cuts of your size to dressing room with you, of both girdle and bras.

TWO: Try on—until you find the nearest approximation to your ideal figure, with the combination of bra and girdle.

THREE: Be checked and fitted by a corset consultant. That's what she's there for. Have straps and cups of bras adjusted for perfect ease and breathing. Have garters shortened, waistbands nipped in if necessary on girdle.

Your Figure Type

With no hip or tummy problems: All you need is a slight two-way stretch in a straight girdle and a pantie-type.

But watch length—most manufacturers make lengths from 10 to 17 inches. It makes a lot of difference. Try on. If for any reason you seem to rumple down or roll over the top edge, find the non-roll-top type.

For large hips: Buy stronger power net, elasticized nylon or heavy two-way lastex. Zipper on side, so you won't stretch the small-in-proportion waist getting in and out.

Heavier non-stretch panels front and rear keep a still store-on hand on your bulges—but so should you. Exercise!

Stomach problem: slight; Two-way stretch with boneless front panels. This ought to be enough if you'll speak to your muscles. Keep good posture on your mind. Worse stomach problem: All right, but I'm disappointed in you. Strong center panel of non-stretch rayon or nylon, high zippered-up waistline with a couple of plush covered bones to keep edge up. Or a long-line bra that anchors to girdle with special hooks.

Seek Natural Line

There has been a lot of grading, shaping and "special problem" work done here by manufacturers. Almost no matter what shape you are, you can find good support, and the exact brand that gives you the loveliest, most natural line.

Learn your type and ask for it by name, size, and "cup" size (indicates fullness of breast). If your breasts are quite small, you'll need an "A" cup. If medium, a "B" cup. If large, a "C."

Size—This includes breadth of back and size of rib cage as well as some degree of breast fullness. But some "cup" information is necessary to intelligent search among the hundreds of thousands of bras for your perfect helper.

All right—now let's say you wear a 34 B cup. Check with fitter once you have the girdle and bra on. First make sure neither is too tight. Then find out if cup shape and placement are nearest your natural, or ideal, own. The aim is improvement—not displacement. Don't exaggerate, don't over-emphasize. Calling special attention to any part of your anatomy is bad taste. You wouldn't be guilty of it, I'm sure.

See that your straps are adjustable—as the bra ages you can take them up. Don't have them set too tight. Support should come from base of cups not tight straps that dig into shoulders.

There are dozens of good strapless bras now. Investigate them for evening or sunbath clothes. They can be comfortable, safe and very pretty.

If you're plump under the arms make a point of wider bands there, and do more outstretch arm exercises and shoulder rolls.

If it's your diaphragm, buy the deep-waistline type. If it's plainly your rib cage, and a feeling of constriction about breathing, find the types that have triangle of elastic insets at the sides or between the breasts.

Just remember, good posture is better than the best corseting. So check yourself constantly.

Grownups' Logic Bores Youngsters

The gray-haired career woman should own a smart appearance as well as ability to do her job well. A perfect example is this businesswoman with short hair style.

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

When Bob was given his junior-side bicycle, he was also given the reason why he could not ride it at night.

It did not impress him. So, one evening when his father was late getting home, he went to the garage, took his bike and rode the 10 blocks to his friend Whitey's house.

As he pedaled back up the driveway, he was dismayed to see his father shutting the garage doors. He hastily prepared an explanation of his need to go and get the slingshot equipment he had left at Whitey's house.

After listening, his father removed the chain from Bob's bike. "I will replace this two days after you can give me a good reason for not riding this bike at night," he said.

About an hour later, Bob had found the reason. He said to his father, "My bike's got no light. You said I'd have to wait for Christmas for my headlight."

"What's bad about riding a bike without a light?" asked his father.

Bob hesitated. Then he said, "Well, a guy in some car mightn't see me coming. So he mightn't dim his own headlights. If he was coming at me fast, they might 'dazzle' me like they did us that time on the turnpike. They were so bright, we couldn't see where we were going. You yelled at the driver."

His father accepted this reasoning of his son and two days later replaced the bicycle chain.

There was no more night riding. The child guidance experts are always very anxious for us to give Bob our reasons for denying him his wishes. They feel it's necessary for him to know that he's denied by logic, not by some sneaky desire to flaunt power over him.

It is not a magic solution. Entertaining people including children, tend to be bored by reasons produced by somebody else's experience. Because of this, we are wise to draw upon the child's own experience to control him, whenever possible.

As we've seen, Bob did not have to collide with a car to accept the unreasonableness of riding his bike without a light. All he needed was to recall his own knowledge of its hazards.

Our youngsters have collected experience that should be constantly used in controlling them. It is by teaching them to reason from their own experience that they learn to control themselves.

you'll have to be frank and say, "We would just love to have you come and stay as long as you want, but we will have to ask you to share the food expenses."

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a young unmarried woman living at home with my parents. Most of my friends are married and have houses of their own to which I am invited often.

I would like to be able to ask them to my house on occasion but hesitate to do so because my father strenuously objects to anyone smoking in the house, and all of my friends smoke. Could I invite them to my house for the evening and then ask them not to smoke?

Answer: You could invite them to the house after first explaining that they would not be able to smoke. But you must not be surprised or have hurt feelings if they do not accept your invitation.

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband's employer recently invited us to his house for dinner. Are we now obliged to extend an invitation to him and his wife in return?

If so, would it be permissible to take them out to dinner as our house is small and not conveniently arranged for entertaining.

Answer: No return is exacted or even expected.

Mary Margaret McBride Says:

Manhattan Dreams Still Lure Youth

Date bait . . . Jan Weeks, Columbia University coed, wears halter-neck plaid cocktail dress by Anne Fogarty, which can double for day wear by addition of a sweater or blouse. Her date wears a new black and brown tweed jacket with removable velvet collar, for dress-up wear.

Dick Whittington time is nearly here again and the annual late-summer flood of letters from hopeful, ambitious boys and girls has started. Each asks for information, advice and sometimes an assist in getting a job in that city of magic, New York.

Just as young Dick could not have been deterred by any cautious and world-weary elder from going to London to seek fame and fortune, I know that nothing I nor anyone can say will dissuade the determined youngsters.

Generations of them with stars in their eyes have been descending on this big city almost since the time Peter Minuet picked up the place for $24 and a few trinkets—almost the last bargain, I think, ever found on Manhattan Island.

Plenty of young people come to wish they'd never done it. But, also, each year, others win out—that is, find what they are looking for, even their names in neon lights.

From all parts of the country the "bright new college graduates" will soon troop in, pretty girls who dream of fame in the theater, fashion designing, modeling, advertising; cocksure boys who are certain they will some day write the nation's books, poems, plays.

As one who came in spite of all the sage advice years ago, I offer a few, cautious questions to put to yourself before you start, admitting that I probably would have snuffed at them 30 years ago.

1. Do you know exactly what you want to do? Or do you just have a vague "glamour-type" occupation in mind?

2. Will you be content with a job that is a first step toward your chosen career? Or do you imagine you're going to be lucky enough to fall right away into something near the top.

3. Have you analyzed your abilities clearly enough to know you have something to offer an employer? Or do you plan to use your job just as a stepping stone to your own desires?

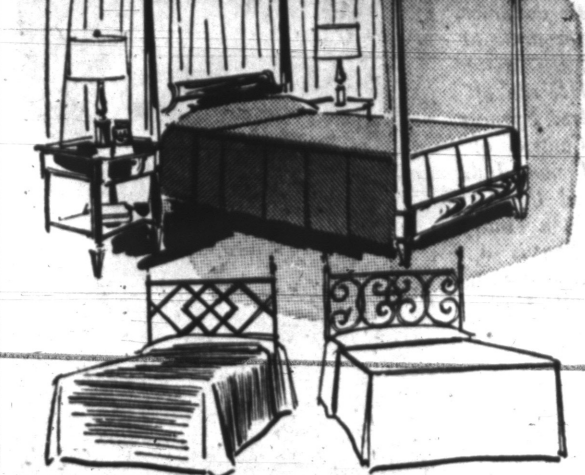

4. Have you a backlog of cash in the event the job you want—or any job—fails to materialize almost instantly? Or will you be in a real mess if you don't land something right away?

5. Have you estimated realistically—with pencil and paper and on the basis of available information—the minimum you will need to live? Or do you think that, on the basis of the stories you've heard or read, everybody makes big money in the big city?

6. Why do you really want to come to New York? Because it's the one place in the world where you can do the one thing you want to do? Because it's the scene of so many Cinderella stories? Because of the shows, nightclubs and excitement? Or because you're bored and restless with where you are?

7. Incidentally, did some experienced, wise older person advise you that your talents and abilities are developed enough for tough competition? Or do you just know you can make it?

If you can answer yes to the first half of each of these questions—then come on, just as you intended all along to do. If you have to answer no—well, don't say I didn't warn you.

Revived Styles Make News

Beds Recall Bygone Days

By ELIZABETH HILLIER

Beds that hark back to many years ago make more furniture fashion news for fall than "day after tomorrow" designs.

There is little that is startlingly new in the modern department. New versions of old favorites stole the show in many of the recent preview displays.

The tester bed in all its glory was seen more often than in many a season. Sometimes it had a trim and clean-cut look. At all its lordly air, as has the tester bed sketched, chosen for the "Today in Tradition" exhibition in Chicago's Merchandise Mart.

A more modest bed that is on its way to fame is the latter-day iron or brass bed—sometimes fairly plain, sometimes pretty fancy with curlicues.

Usually a headboard only is used, as in the case of the wrought iron and painted metal bed sketched.

Each has bright brass finials and can be had in the typical wrought iron black, in white, or delightful colors.

Mrs. B. B. "A door in our living room is never used, but as we are renting, we cannot remove it. It doesn't look good and takes up wall space."

"Would it be possible to have a mirror installed to cover the door and extend at least one foot on each side, or have you another suggestion?"

Yes, the mirror could be installed as you suggest. It would be mounted on plywood, and if there is a door frame which projects, strips of wood would be added at the sides to act as returns. In this case the mirror could not, of course, be flat against the wall.

But before you decide on the mirror, be sure that a mirror of the size and shape needed to cover the door is what you want and is in the right spot to enhance the room.

Wall drapery to match window draperies is another solution, but it must be quite wide to look well.

Mrs. C.C. "Please help me decide on a pattern for kitchen wallpaper. There isn't much wall to paper—just the upper walls where there are no cabinets."

"The pattern I like is rather large and wide spaced, and I wonder if it is all right, or if I should choose something smaller. The smaller patterns I saw are provincial. I want modern."

Yes, a medium to small all-over pattern is better for limited wall space.

More and more modern patterns of this kind are being designed. If you keep looking you'll find one you like.

Should Be Asked to Share Expenses

Cottage Houseguests Put Strain on Couple's Budget

By EMILY POST

A worried housewife writes: "I do wish you would print a piece in your column about houseguests who make extended visits with no offer to defray any of the household expenses."

"My husband and I have a small cottage up in the mountains and throughout the summer we have friends and relatives stay with us anywhere from a weekend to two weeks. For average-income people such as we are, these visits, although pleasant in many ways, are definitely a hardship."

"With the high cost of living today, our budget is not prepared for these extra expenses for a long period of time. I am sure there are many—especially during this season of the year when people are visiting—who would appreciate your comments on this subject."

Answer: Taking it for granted these are members of your own families or very intimate friends.

By ALICIA HART

NEA Beauty Editor

Thousands of mature women, whose children are grown, are making career comebacks to rejoin the swelling ranks of women in the business and professional worlds.

For these women, success depends on knowing their job thoroughly and doing it well.

It also means presenting a smart, well-groomed appearance that says definitely they're in no way out-of-date.

They know that good grooming means constant attention to a carefully planned and faithfully executed beauty program.

The gray-haired woman concentrates on her skin and hair more than ever now, since the color of her hair calls attention to them.

Her skin is a little drier after 40, so she applies a little baby oil to it as protection before she applies her foundation base.

By watching current hair styles, the older career woman will never look dated. Short hair, softly waved and high-brushed, is the best style for graying hair.

Tight curls and fussy designs detract from a chic appearance. When she chooses a home permanent, the mature woman should select one formulated with a minimum of alkalis so as not to discolor her hair.

One such new permanent contains a new ingredient which, its makers say, brings out the natural beauty and sheen of gray or white hair.

Home permanents are an essential grooming aid to the mature woman who goes to business.

They can provide her, on a budget, with a natural-looking wave that sets off an important business requirement—a chic looking appearance 9 to 5.

Date Bars Are Made in New Way

Mrs. Hebler Gives Original Recipe for Sweet Treat

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Food Editor

When all your friends ask for a recipe, you may be sure it's a good one. Mrs. Franklin Hebler says this original recipe for Date Bars has been requested many times.

Her recipe differs from other date bars in that it has an egg in the crust and a cup of raisins in the filling.

A very active PTA member of the Carpenter School, Mrs. Hebler lives at Carpenter Lake. She thoroughly enjoys her home extension group; a past president, she is now a group leader. Her pet hobby is trying out new recipes.

HEBLER DATE BARS
By Mrs. Franklin Hebler

Mix together:
1 cup soft shortening (half butter)
1 cup brown sugar
1 egg
1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 cup soda
1/2 teaspoon salt

Add to creamed mixture. Then add 2 cups rolled oats. Grease and flour a 9x13-inch pan. Press half the above mixture into the pan. Spread on the cooled filling.

Cover with the rest of the oatmeal mixture. Bake in a 400-degree oven 25-30 minutes. Cut into bars while slightly warm.

Date Filling

2 cups dates
1 cup seedless raisins
1/4 cup sugar
1 1/2 cups water

Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thick. Cool. The raisins in the filling make it less rich than an all-date filling.

Coal generates twice as much electric power as all of the nation's hydroelectric plants combined.

Don't Be Afraid to Try Skills

Lack of Formal Training Holds Many Women Back

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Sometimes it seems to me that we're a little bit too much an age of specialists and perfectionists. Many times, we're afraid to experiment in certain fields because we haven't studied or received a degree in them.

We're afraid to try a thing unless we can be perfect at it, and so we miss much of the richness of life.

Take the field of decorating for example.

Several times in the past week my mail has included letters like the following:

"I'm very much interested in decorating, and have done a pretty good job with our own house. Now a friend has asked me to help her, but I'm scared to death."

I have good ideas, and all that, but I don't really know much about different periods, and I've never studied all the complicated things a decorator has to know.

"Some day I'd love to study decorating, because I'd like to get into it when my children have grown. But in the meantime, I hesitate to try it except my own house."

The writer of this letter concluded by asking me for a long list of technical books, and told me she wondered if I had any ideas on other hobbies she might take up until she had the money for the courses in decorating.

In the first place, it would be silly for a woman with such an interest in decorating, and such a flair for it, to drop it and take up something else until she could afford courses.

She would take the same terrified approach to the next hobby, and the next, and the next.

She must conquer this undue respect for formal training right here and now. If she likes to decorate and has done her own place well enough to have friends asking her help, she has some talent.

Secondly, she'll learn a great deal by actually doing; then when the time comes for the courses, she will have the good basic practical experience.

In the third place, I suggested to her a book called "Decorating Is Fun," by Dorothy Draper.

Mrs. Draper is a very successful decorator, largely because she lost out most of the formalized and stultified methods and rules.

Her book covers all the basic factors in decorating, but in such a way that you get the principles without the fear.

She believes in expressing yourself and your life; she believes that you have to experiment and "play it by ear," and her book is the best antidote I know to the fear which so paralyzes some women that they never do more than dream about a decorating career.

Girls Wonder How to Finance Party

"Dear Miss Woodward: My girl friend and I are both getting engaged soon, and we are planning a double-engagement party which is to be held at my fiancé's house. We expect to entertain quite a few guests."

"Neither my girl friend nor I is employed, and we would like to know if we are to share in the expenses, and if so, how they should be divided?"

There are few enough moments in a girl's life when she can consider herself the big star of the occasion. Her engagement party is one, her wedding day another. You two girls must have very special reasons for wanting to share the honors.

Normally, a girl's parents have a party for her at which they announce her engagement. There's congratulations, showing off the ring, asking questions about plans.

The party can be a luncheon for her best girl friends; a tea for her younger friends and her parents' friends too; a cocktail party; or an evening reception. Such a party is given in her own home and under her parents' auspices.

You two girls, again, must have very special reasons for wanting to have this party at your fiancé's home, instead of your own. You're making your own rules all the way around, so perhaps the normal rules for footing the bills won't apply either.

If you girls can't afford to divide the total expenses evenly between you, perhaps you'd better cut them four ways and count your fiancés in.

"Dear Miss Woodward: I would like to give a housewarming party for my sister and her husband who have just moved into their new home. My sister is two years younger than I am, but we have many of the same friends."

"Their little house is on a lake, which has its advantages and disadvantages. The list of people I'd like to invite includes young and old."

"Would it be better to have two parties? How about having a luncheon? How about gifts? I'd certainly appreciate your help with this."

I can't resist saying that I think your sister should plan her own housewarming. But you can certainly help her with such a party. She should send out the invitations.

Since her house is small, I'd plan a party for outdoors. Make it a big picnic, with swimming for those who want it, a sort of open house.

The younger ones may come early and stay late, while the older ones will just come to eat. As for gifts, let it be known that it's a housewarming, and leave the gifts to the discretion of the guests.

Sophie Calls Herself an Old Truck, Is Proud of Still Being on the Job

By EDDIE CANTOR

I often think back to the year 1912 during an appearance in Knoxville, Tenn. I had some trouble with my throat and went to a doctor.

After he treated me, he said: "Young fellow, do you know a girl by the name of Sophie Tucker?" I said, "Not too well, but she was the headliner here last week, wasn't she?"

The doctor said, "Yes, but the way she uses her voice, that girl will be washed up in a year or two!"

"Well, that's 42 years ago. I don't know if the doctor's still around, but I just have to open my window to know that Sophie's still going strong."

I take my hat off to my leather-lunged friend of more than 30 years—not only for her ability as an entertainer, but for her energy.

Vitamins ought to take her! Sophie will do two hour-long shows in an evening—between shows, autograph books and records (the proceeds for which go to her pet charities)—at four in the morning she'll have a big meal, and then play cards until seven or eight a.m.

And heaven help you if she's stuck four dollars! She'll play 'til she gets even! I know.

Every time I play Gin Rummy with this dynamo, I lose—not because she's a better player—she wears me out! There comes a time when, even with my eyes, you can't tell a 10 from a Queen, unless, of course, it's Marilyn Monroe.

This Tucker tot loves to kid the young performers. In Florida, on the same program with Betty Hutton, Sophie cracked: "Betty Baby, long after you young convertibles have run out of gas, we old trucks will still be delivering!" (Copyright 1954)

Unity Stressed by Archbishop

English Church Leader
Speaks on Democracy
in Minneapolis

MINNEAPOLIS (U. P.) — The Archbishop of Canterbury, head of the Church of England, said here yesterday that Britain and the United States are united as a free people "to defend freedom in a sorely distressed world."

"We trust each other," the Most Rev. Geoffrey F. Fisher added. "We stand for the same great facts of human society, in which men can live in freedom. We passionately believe in Democracy." The archbishop and other dignitaries of the Anglican church were here from throughout the world for the Anglican Congress. Formal sessions yesterday were brief but many of the 600 delegates were guest speakers at churches in the Twin Cities and other Minnesota communities.

Dr. Fisher, preaching to about 1,100 persons at the Cathedral Church of St. Mark here, said democracy rests on a fundamental piece of realism that works, "more or less."

"It is either lunacy or an astonishing piece of trust that Christianity is true," he added.

Wrong Choice Made

SAGINAW (UP) — A Saginaw man called out of town on business pondered whether he should drive his car or rely on public transportation. He chose the latter. It was a poor choice. While away, someone stole his car.

Tomorrow's 4-H Fair Taking Lots of Hard Work

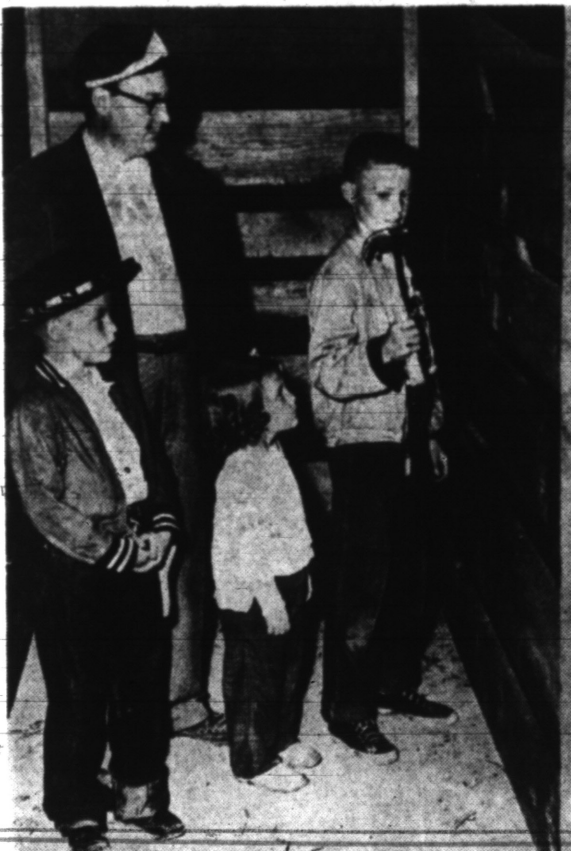

ONE MORE TWIST—Taking your livestock to the 4-H Fair means providing the safest in accommodations for your animals. Fences with sharp wires are on the taboo list for 4-H safety. Making doubly sure that this is done are, left to right: Alan Newbegin, Don Bowers, Harold Heidt, Doug Cogger and Perry Root. The boys are Nu-Ly-Wix members.

NEW AGENT PITCHES IN—Jack Worthington, newly appointed Oakland County 4-H agent, becomes initiated to his new post in assisting with preparations for the 1954 4-H Fair. Worthington succeeds John Bray who has been named assistant county agricultural agent for Oakland County.

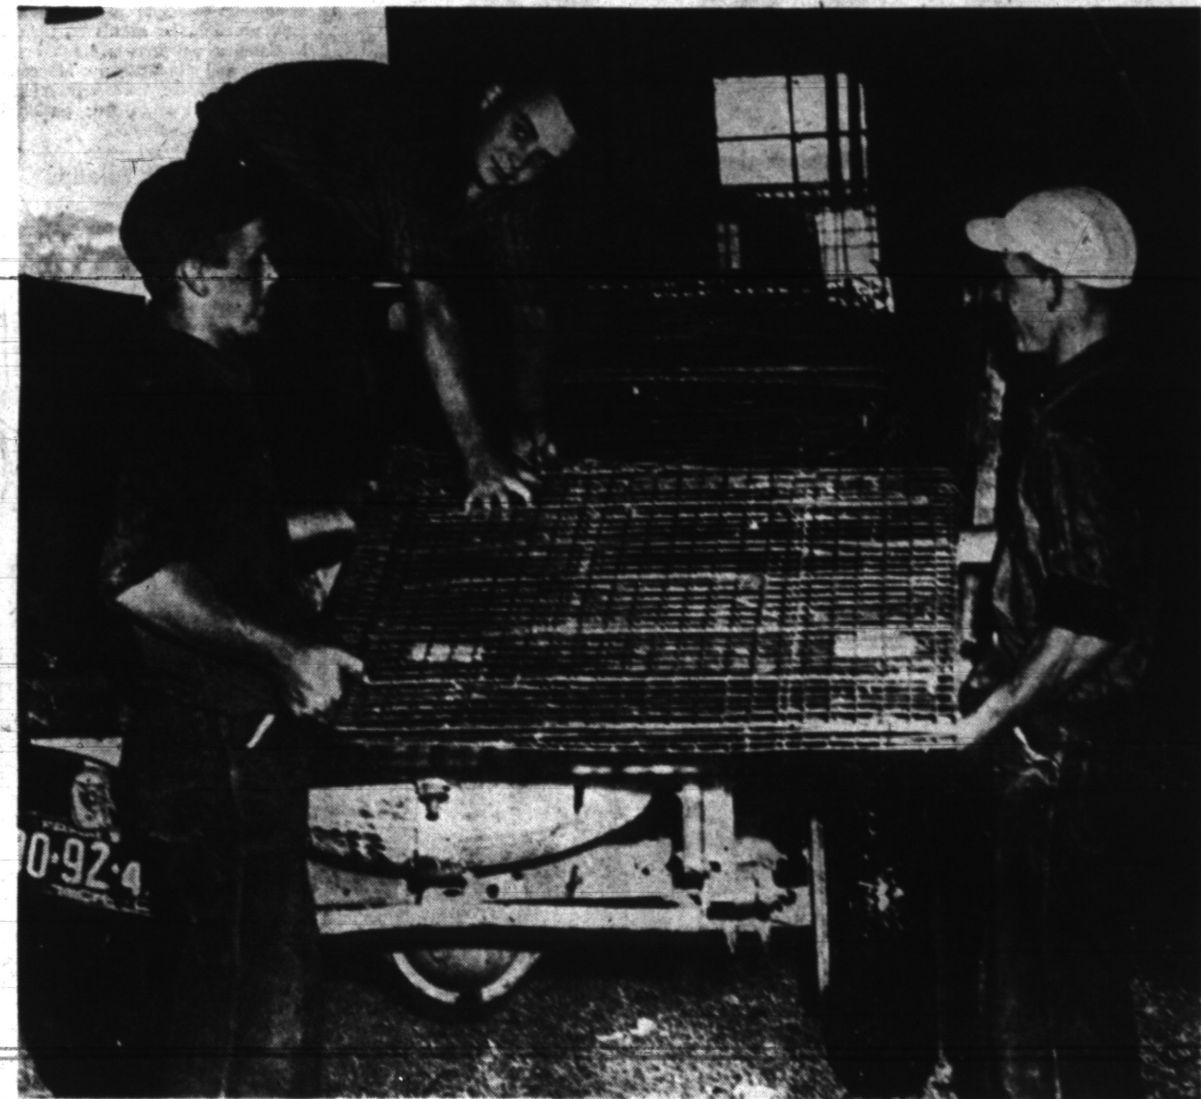

4-H VETERAN MEMBERS—Sawing a pole for the dairy tent are James Atchison, a six-year 4-H member and Ken Smith, a five-year member. They also spread loads of fresh sawdust before calling it a day in the new dairy cattle tent.

THAT'S MY BIG 4-H BROTHER!—His first year in 4-H work, Ralph Curtis of Oxford learns how to use a hammer. He is preparing his stall for the horse he will bring to the fair Tuesday through Saturday. Watching his nailing are (left to right) younger brother Alan, sister Anita and his father, Ralph R. Curtis.

CRATES FOR CHICKENS—Unloading the collapsible poultry crates in which 4-H members place their exhibits are Phil Elkow of the New Hudson Club; Bill Middleton of East Orion and Thurman Bowers of Milford, a club leader.

Hoover's Town Fidgets Waiting for Famous Son

WEST BRANCH, Iowa, (AP)—This little town where former President Herbert Hoover was born wore an air of tense expectancy today as it put the finishing touches on preparations for his 80th birthday celebration.

The former president will arrive here tomorrow for the biggest birthday party Iowa has ever seen.

Both West Branch and the state of Iowa will heap honors on a distinguished son who rose in the best American tradition from humble beginnings here to the nation's highest office.

The formal program will be held in the 28-acre state park which now surrounds the tiny white cottage where Hoover was born, second son of Jesse Clark Hoover and Hulda Minthorn Hoover, in 1874.

There'll be a parade and speeches by Gov. William S. Beardsley; Dr. Virgil M. Hancher, president of the University of Iowa; and Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who will fly out from Washington to represent President Eisenhower.

The state's birthday presents will include an honorary degree of doctor of laws from the university and a book of cartoons, "As Ding Saw Hoover," published by Iowa State College in collaboration with newspaper cartoonist J. N. (Ding) Darling.

But for Hoover, the highlight of the day may well be his visit to his birthplace.

The humble cottage, restored, now looks much as it did when the Hoover family lived there. It has white curtains of a pattern and material similar to the ones Hoover's mother used. The rag rug on the floor is of the same pattern as one his grandmother made.

The high chair Hoover used as a baby sits beside the dining table and in the bedroom is a bureau his uncle made. The cupboard—another family piece—holds a deep glass dish with a maple leaf pattern which was owned by Hoover's mother.

Also on display are some blacksmith tools, found when the house was restored, which might well have belonged to his father.

Illinois Drivers Pledge

DECATUR, Ill. (AP)—Illinois drivers are taking the sticker pledge. Placed on windshields, the stickers say, "Pledge to Illinois State Police to drive with courtesy and safety."

BROOM SQUAD—It takes plenty of sweeping to prepare the 4-H quonsets for the placing of exhibits Tuesday. Members of the "Country Slicks" from Novi, these two girls, Janet Sharpe and Barbara Wimmer, volunteer with the brooms to do their bit.

Tents and Tables Needed for Week's Events

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE

Four-H fairs are not all blue ribbons, well-groomed animals, finely sewn seams and light and fluffy cakes.

Flying hammers and buzzing saws—the scoop shovel that hoists another bulging load of clean sawdust—willing arms assisting in the elevation of a long 2x4 to complete a horse stall—stout pliers that twist another wire in the fence to insure that beef and dairy cattle do not cut themselves—the rhythmic swingings of the broom squad's arms and all the others who volunteer for a day of toil without glory—this, too, is what 4-H fairs are made of.

Four-H members, parents and leaders came from every corner of Oakland County Sunday to make ready for the 1954 4-H Fair, Aug. 10 through 14.

Ignoring the steady downpour of rain, they set up poultry crates, erected stalls for sheep, swine and goats, and screwed the legs into portable tables which will hold the handicraft, baking, canning, conservation and sewing projects.

Over 2,200 exhibits and projects are anticipated for showing at this year's fair, according to John H. Bray, Oakland County 4-H agent, who resigns this post Sept. 1 to become assistant county agricultural agent.

Pre-fair work included checking for holes in tents that might need repairing. There will be 12 tents on the grounds this year for projects and dealer displays plus the three permanent quonsets on the fairgrounds.

County 4-H members are proud of their new structure on the grounds this year. This 96-foot horse barn was built by 4-H labor and money.

It is a corrugated aluminum roofed building with open sides and has four rows inside with 20 stalls in each row and two end stalls.

"A marvelous improvement over the tents our boys and girls previously kept their horses in," said Mrs. Robert H. Dudley of Birmingham. She is leader of the Avondale 4-H Horse Club.

New, too, this year are the lights for the parking area. In fact, several new lighting installations will give more satisfactory illumination for the entire fairground, said Bray.

Tuesday afternoon the members will arrive in auto, truck and pickup with their animals, their poultry and their many other exhibits. Those who have livestock will remain at the fair to care for their projects.

Officially opening at 5 p.m. Tuesday, the fair closes Saturday afternoon with a horse show.

Ceremony to Start Off 2-Nation Power Project

MASSENA, N. Y. (AP)—The swift and powerful St. Lawrence River will be on its way to slavery tomorrow.

At the touch of a button, dirt will begin to fly in a 600-million-dollar-project to put the river's might at the beck and call of electric power consumers in nine states and Canada.

By 1959 New York State and the Province of Ontario expect to reap the first sparks from huge generating plants that eventually will turn out 13,600,000 kilowatts a year—more than Hoover Dam, the world's largest man-made waterfall.

Gov. Dewey is to set off a dynamite blast here that will mark the official start of construction of the hydroelectric project by the State Power Authority and the Ontario Hydroelectric Commission.

Later Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent of Canada and Premier Leslie M. Frost of Ontario will lead a similar ceremony across the river at Cornwall, Ont.

The explosion also will signal a vital first step toward building a St. Lawrence Seaway to carry ocean-going ships to the industrial ports of the Great Lakes.

The power dams and their pools will become links in the water route—an entirely separate project—when it is built jointly by the federal governments of Canada and the United States.

The power to be shared between the two countries will give an economic lift to the region within a 300-mile radius of here, which has been plagued by shortages for more than a decade.

Parking Penalties Help Undergrads

CINCINNATI (UP)—Park your car wrong at the University of Cincinnati and help a deserving undergraduate through college.

That's the result of the first parking violation penalty system, according to Ralph C. Brusick, dean of university administration. He reported that seven $150 scholarships had been awarded undergraduates for the academic year 1954-55 from parking penalties of $2 for each offense.

Dean Brusick also noted violations have been steadily decreasing during the year. The system has been of considerable help in relieving the tight campus parking problem, he said.

Campus parking is limited to faculty and administrative officers. For others, the university maintains several large free parking lots near the campus.

Hospital Patient Escapes but Dies

BELLEVILLE, N.J. (AP)—An elderly patient at a county hospital, who apparently miscalculated the height of his window, dropped three stories to his death yesterday as he tried to escape by climbing down a bed sheet.

The victim was 72-year-old William H. Lee of Orange, a patient at the Essex County isolation hospital.

Authorities said Lee tied the sheet to a radiator and hung the sheet out a fourth floor window. But the authorities said he apparently thought he was on the second floor. Lee fell three stories to the ground and was killed.

ELECTRIC RANGE

A little extra time means a lot to Mrs. Joseph Wilhelm. With her activities in local clubs... making a home for her husband and their son Kenneth... her day is full, but not too full for baking in her modern electric range. And do her menfolk love this cherry cake topped with creamy, smooth evaporated-milk frosting!

You have extra time when you cook with a modern electric range. That's because you don't have to be a "kitchen-sitter," at the beck-and-call of an old fashioned range. Surface-unit and oven temperatures are scientifically controlled. There's no guesswork... you simply snap a switch to the exact heat needed and walk away. Good reason why you should change to electric cooking, now.

SEVEN-YOLK CHERRY CAKE
Time: 1 1/4 hours

Temp: 325° F.

1/2 cup shortening
3/4 cup cake flour, sifted
3/4 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 cup sugar
1 1/2 teaspoon salt

Cream shortening until soft. Sift together flour, baking powder, sugar and salt. Add to shortening. Add egg yolks, vanilla extract and one-half of the milk. Beat with electric mixer until flour is blended. Beat one minute. Add remaining milk, blend in. Scrape down bowl and beaters. Beat two minutes. Add nuts and cherries. Blend in. Bake in 10-inch greased tube pan. Cool cake 10 minutes before removing from pan.

EVAPORATED-MILK FROSTING

1 cup shortening
1 cup granulated sugar
Bring evaporated milk to a slight boil; cool thoroughly (about 15 minutes). Flavoring and coloring as desired. Add cooled milk gradually to sugar mixture, beating constantly. Beat until light and fluffy. Add creamed mixture, beating constantly. Frosting will be similar to whipped cream. Ask for other interesting recipes at your kitchen office.

Annexed Land Status Clarified

School Official Claims
Site of Defeated County
Office Is in Waterford

Although Pontiac annexed 111 acres of Waterford Township as a site for the proposed new Oakland County office building, the tract remains in the Waterford school district, according to William J. Emerson, county superintendent of schools.

This means about 150 youngsters at the Oakland County Children's Home, inside the annexed area, will continue their education under Waterford School Board supervision, said Emerson.

School district boundaries are not restricted to city or township limits, he explained, and it would take favorable action by the Waterford, Pontiac and county school boards to place the area inside the Pontiac district.

A proposed $4,500,000 bond issue to finance the planned county building was made impossible in the immediate future Tuesday when county voters turned down a half-mill tax increase necessary to support the bonds.

The land lies between Telegraph road and the city's West Boulevard boundary line.

Office Grinds Wear Out

CHICAGO (INS)—The young executive who believes he is indispensable may soon become a tootered businessman, according to a Midwestern psychologist. Dr. W. A. Eggert, chief psychologist for the Kemper insurance group, said two other basic attitudes also help make a businessman tired—his refusal to delegate authority and his constant worry about office problems.

Barber Wins Long-Overdue Victory at Chicago

By JERRY LISK
CHICAGO (U)—A persistent journeyman and two talented 24-year-olds today threatened golf's old guard as Tam O'Shanter readied for the game's richest tournament, the $150,000 "World" meeting starting Thursday.

The first phase of Tam's spectacular tee circus ended yesterday as long-overdue Jerry Barber won the All-American tourney and "kid stars," Gene Littler and British Open Champ Peter Thomson, finished second and third respectively.

Barber, whose 11-under-par 277 won him one of his few major victories, will lead an eight-man

American team against eight foreigners tomorrow in a two-day international competition which sets the stage for the "World."

The international field includes top finishers in the All-American, who had to play in that tourney to qualify for the "World" which pays $50,000 cash and a $50,000 exhibition contract to the winner.

An exception is Sammy Snead, who missed the All-American because of family reasons last week, but will join the gold rush in the "World."

Barber, who is so near-sighted he removes his glasses to line up short putts, compiled rounds of 68-70-70-69 to whip Littler by a stroke. Littler, 1953 national amateur champion, also finished Tam's rain-soaked course with a 69 but killed his chances when he three-putted the 14th for a bogey-5.

Thomson, the 54-hole leader by two strokes over Barber, finished with a waning 73 for a 279 total, two strokes off the pace for third. Defending champion Lloyd Mangrum wound up five strokes behind in a four-way tie for sixth at 283 while U.S. Open champion Ed Furgol collected a mere $65 for his feeble 288.

Barber, 38, one of nine children from a Woodson, Ill., farm family, collected $3,400 to raise his 1954 earnings to $14,867. His only other previous major triumph was in the Azalea Open at Wilmington, N.C., 16 months ago.

Littler pocketed $2,360 and Thomson $2,000, while $1,600 each went to Pete Cooper and Bob Toski, who tied for fourth.

In the international matches starting tomorrow, sponsor George S. May will pay for each of the 16 contestants $500 for their efforts which probably won't put the Ryder Cup matches out of business.

Tomorrow, the eight players on each side will pair off for alternate shot team match play. The next day eight man-to-man matches will be played.

Other winners in the complex All-American were Babe Zaharias, in the women's pro; Arnold Palmer, sharp-shooting amateur from Cleveland, and Mickey Wright, Women's Amateur from Chula Vista, Calif.

Babbish Captures 4th Title in District Play

By H. GUY MOATS
Detroit Golf Club's star, Bob Babbish, Sunday afternoon won his fourth Detroit District Golf Association title. He repeated his success of a year ago when he turned back determined Ralph Ellstrom of Dearborn Country Club 4 and 3 in a match that was played most of the way in a drizzle.

First half of the final round was close. At the end of 18 holes Babbish held a one-up advantage. Both players were hitting close to par all the way. Babbish made the turn at two-under, with a 70, while Ellstrom was three strokes back.

Early in the afternoon finale, Ellstrom fell behind five holes and it looked pretty rough for his chances. But a string of one-putts whittled the margin down. However, the Dearborn swinger couldn't break into Babbish's steady shotmaking and sharp work on the greens, and the Detroit steel salesman closed out the match and clinched the title on the 33rd green.

In Saturday's quarter and semi-finals Babbish disposed of Art Oils,

Jr. of Country Club of Lansing, 2 and 1 and Glenn Johnson of Grosse Ile, 5 and 3. Johnson is the current Michigan Amateur champion.

Bob's par-breaking was at its best against both Saturday opponents. In his match with Oils, Babbish fired three birdies in a row to start. He was four under for the 18 holes. Against Johnson Babbish set up a quick edge with birdie-par-eagle. Johnson never caught up.

Ellstrom, a 40-year-old manufacturer, eliminated Pine Lake's Bill Nettie 2 and 1, and Gowan's Frank Connolly, in an extra-hole struggle. Ralph never was in front until the windup. He came from behind twice during the last 13 holes, which he parred. The last time, he squared the match when Frank caught a trap at the 18th. Connolly eliminated Pontiac's Roy Iceberg in the quarterfinal on Saturday morning.

Babbish received a fine sterling silver tray, as his personal trophy and will have his name on the big permanent DDGA Championship cup for the fourth time.

Babbish won the district crown first in 1940, when he turned back the veteran Chris Brinke. He took it again in 1950 from Dick Whiting, Red Run, and for the third time last year, when he defeated Pontiac's Roy Iceberg, the MGA star.

Pine Lake's tourney committee, headed by Howie Nielson, received many compliments from the visiting golfers, particularly over the unusually fine condition of the course.

Rain Stops Legion 9s

American Legion junior baseball teams were rained out of their 18th District League games Sunday. The all-Birmingham contest between the Reds and Blues is rescheduled Tuesday night, but no date was set for a replay of the Clawson-Huron Valley tilt.

Landy Slightly Bewildered by 'Miracle Mile'

Australian Star Ran 3:59.6, Finished 2nd to Roger Bannister

By JACK HEWINS
VANCOUVER, B. C. (U)—John Landy, the Australian running machine who flows along like a quiet brook, shook his head today in slight bewilderment over the "Miracle Mile" he lost Saturday to Dr. Roger Bannister of England.

"If anyone had told me I would run the mile in 3:59.6 and finish second, I'd have taken him on a bet right there."

But the great and gracious John Landy added: "I can't be disappointed. Roger was the best runner of the day, there's no doubt."

The 35,000 spectators who filled Empire Stadium for the feature event of the British Empire Games would agree with Landy. They hoped for, but did not expect, a 4-minute mile.

But the track was dry and fast, the temperature around 75, the sun warm on the runners.

"I have very great respect for John Landy," said the young English physician, "and I knew I had to give everything to beat him."

England Wins Games

Bannister Beats Rival in 'Mile of Century'

VANCOUVER, B. C. (U)—The British Empire Games have ended with Mother England queen of athletics and with a picture deeply and forever engraved in the memories of the 35,000 who saw Saturday's climax program of the 8-day sports carnival.

It was the magic mile, with Roger Bannister piling over the finish line four yards ahead of John Landy, both of them beating the clock to the 4-minute mark.

Bannister's time was 3 minutes, 58.8 seconds; Landy's 3:59.6.

Landy ran as well as he could; Bannister finished better.

There in a nutshell is the story of one of the greatest races ever staged between humans. It was the first time in history that two men bettered 4 minutes in a single race.

Chicago Driver Wins Stock Car Feature

Al Lashbrook, hard-driving Chicago stock car pilot, won three events in the late model stock show at the Pontiac M59 Speedway Saturday night before a crowd of 2,000 racing fans.

Lashbrook, driving a 1953 Dodge, took the lead in the 20th lap and went on to capture the 50-lap feature. He barely nipped Mike Brown in a very close pursuit race and also took a heat race.

Mickey Katlin of Howell was 2nd in the feature with Brown 2nd in a 1952 Plymouth.

Sunday night's hardtop races were rained out. This week's schedule includes hardtops Wednesday and Sunday, with the Central States Racing Association midjet program going Saturday.

Parshall Boat Finishes 1st in Race at WLYA

Jim Parshall's "Tar Baby," skippered by Harm Gilt, bucked heavy rains and light wind yesterday afternoon to finish 1st in this class race at the Watkins Lake Yachting Association.

In the Lightening class, John Noble's "Yellow Dragon" finished in last place, Don Glossop's "Peanuts" took top honors among small boats.

Luck of Draws Give Ex-Champs 1st Round Byes

Willie Turnesa Only 1 of 6 Past Titlists to Get 1st Round Test

Pontiac Press Wire Services
Five of the six former champions in the 200-man field drew 1st round matches in the blind draw conducted in New York by the U. S. Golf Association for the National Amateur Championship which begins Aug. 23 at the Country Club of Detroit.

Former champions Dick Chapman, Sam Uzzetta, Charley Cox, Ted Bishop and Chick Evans received 1st round opponents in the draw announced Sunday by the USGA. Willie Turnesa was the only former titleholder in the competition who drew a 1st round bye for the six-day match play grind.

Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C., opens against Edward Schultz of Chagrin Falls, O.; Uzzetta of Rochester, N. Y., meets Tim Holland of Rockville Centre, N. Y.; Cox of Oklahoma City, Okla., faces Richard Colford, Jr., of New Orleans, La.; Bishop of Weston, Mass., meets Richard Foutche of Charleston, W. Va.; and Evans of Chicago, 1920 winner, plays Lincoln Roden of Abington, Pa.

Besides Turnesa of Elmford, N. Y., such outstanding players as Frank Stranahan, two-time British Amateur champion from Toledo, O.; Gene Andrews, newly-crowned public links champion from Los Angeles; and Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., runner-up in this year's British Amateur Tournament, drew 1st round byes.

Along with former champions, and promising some hot competition is the colorful Billy Joe Patton of Morgantown, N. C. Patton drew as his 1st opponent, Rex Baxter Jr., of Amarillo, Tex. Former champions (named first) were paired as follows: Harvie Ward, San Francisco; vs. Ford Hardin, Normandy, Mo.; Frank Strafaci, Garden City, N. Y.; vs. Arnold Palmer, Wickliffe, O.; Don Cherry, Wichita Falls, Tex. vs. Cameron Quinn, West Warwick, R. I.; Hobart Manley, Savannah Ga., vs. Frank Edens, Fort Jackson, S. C. and Dale Morey, Indianapolis, Ind. vs. Antonio Rivas of Mexico in opening round play.

U. S. and British Amateur champions, this year's public link champion and U.S.G.A. junior champion, plus Canadian, Mexican and United States America's Cup teams were exempted from qualifying play.

Bratkowski, the brilliant Georgia quarterback, and Massey, Texas end, were elected co-captains of the squad yesterday.

Both have been standouts in drills for the annual charity game with the professional champions. Gene Filipki, Villanova half-back now in the Marines, was a late arrival for workouts, showing up Sunday. He got an eight-day pass from his base at Quantico, Va., and hoped to pick up enough this week to appear against the Lions.

Iceberg Ties Edgewood Mark With 67 Sunday

Pontiac's Roy Iceberg shot a sensational 67 at Edgewood Golf Club Sunday to tie the course record at the suburban links. His performance came in the Metropolitan Golf Association League match between Edgewood and Beverly Hills.

Iceberg's 67 was 5 under par and equaled the mark set in the 1943 Michigan Open by Carl Daniels. Iceberg's partner in MGA play.

The Pontiac golfer, state public link champ in 1952, booked an eagle and 4 birdies on the tour and slipped over par only once. Eagle was shot on the 457-yard 10th hole. Iceberg followed his drive with a 3-iron to the green, then ran in a 20-foot putt.

District Caddie Title Tournery Under Way

Detroit District Caddie Championship was under way today at Knollwood Country Club, with teams representing 21 private golf clubs in the lists. Each team is composed of six players.

OUT IN RUN DOWN—Frank Bolling, Detroit's 2nd baseman, is caught in a run down between 3rd and home plate in the 4th inning of Sunday's game between the Tigers and Yankees at Briggs Stadium.

Tribe's Stream of Victories, Braves' Late Drive Create Possibility of Renewal of 1948 Series

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Cleveland's steady stream of victories and Milwaukee's spectacular late-season drive have brought up the possibility of a renewal of the 1948 Indians-Braves World Series rivalry.

A little over two weeks ago, if anybody had even suggested a Cleveland-Milwaukee World Series, he would have been hauled to the nearest nouthouse. Just 18 days ago, on July 22, the Braves were mired in National League's fourth place, 15½ games behind the seemingly runaway Giants. The Indians were leading the American League but their margin was a hairline half game over the ever-dangerous New York Yankees.

What a change those 2½ weeks have brought. The Braves climbed only one notch but today they trail the pace-setting Giants by only 7½ games. Fourteen Milwaukee victories in 16 games have slashed eight lengths from New York's lead. Cleveland has won 15 of 19 during the same period and widened its margin over the Yankees to four games. That is the Indians' biggest lead since July 4.

Milwaukee whipped the Giants again yesterday 5-2 to sweep the three-game series at the Polo Grounds.

Effective pitching by Bob Lemon and Art Houtteman and home run hitting by Lemon and Larry Doby highlighted the Indians' 7-2 and 5-2 doubleheader sweep over the inept Philadelphia Athletics.

Brooklyn's runner-up Dodgers closed to within three games of the Giants with a 20-7 romp over the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Chicago's third-place White Sox dropped seven games behind Cleveland, dividing a doubleheader with Washington. Rookie southpaw Jack Harshman shut out the Senators 3-0 after Washington had won the opener 7-6.

Jackie Jensen divided four hits, two runs and two runs batted in equally in each game as the Boston Red Sox took both ends of a doubleheader from Baltimore 4-2 and 4-1.

Robin Roberts became the first pitcher to win 17 games and Art Houtteman drove in six runs as the Philadelphia Phillies took two games from Chicago's Cubs 8-4 and 8-3.

Pittsburgh's cellar-dwelling Pirates surprised the St. Louis Cardinals with 12-4 and 5-3 victories for their second doubleheader sweep over the Redbirds in three days.

Nine New Members Join Baseball's Hall of Fame

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y. (U)—Baseball's Hall of Fame swings the gate wide open to nine new members today at the annual dedication of plaques honoring the game's greatest stars of the past.

Bill Dickey, Yankee coach and one of the great catchers, and Bill Terry, the slugging first baseman who managed the New York Giants to three pennants, will be present.

Five of the new members are dead and the other two, Tom Connolly, the veteran American League umpire, and Bob Wallace, a star shortstop of the 1890s and early 1900s, are too ill to appear.

Those honored posthumously are Rabbit Maranville, Ed Barrow, Bill Klem, Chief Bender and Harry Wright. The veteran members of the Baseball Writers Assn. elected Maranville, who died Jan. 5 on the same ballot with Dickey and Terry.

A special oldtimers committee selected the other six: Barrow and Wright as managers, Klem and Connolly as umpires and Bender and Wallace as players.

Gulf Stream Wins Hazel Park Stake

DETROIT (UP)—For a while, it looked as if the favored Gulf Stream was badly beaten in the $7,500 Ed McCuan Memorial Handicap at the Hazel Park race track.

Gulf Stream was a distant last at the half-way mark of the mile and a sixteenth race Saturday, but Jockey Harold Keene got his mount moving for the last four furlongs and streaked home a winner by four lengths.

It was the 2nd stakes victory for Gulf Stream in two weeks with the odds-on favorite paying only $3.60 to win. Gulf Stream triumphed in the Frontier Handicap at the Detroit Race Course two weeks ago.

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (U)—The College All-Stars will be led by Zeke Bratkowski and Carlton Massey Friday when they take Soldier Field, Chicago, against the Detroit Lions.

Bratkowski, the brilliant Georgia quarterback, and Massey, Texas end, were elected co-captains of the squad yesterday.

Both have been standouts in drills for the annual charity game with the professional champions. Three From County Finish in Tam Money

Oakland County professional golfers were among the money winners in the Tam O'Shanter All-American Golf Tournery in Chicago Sunday. Finishing in top 41 were Walter Burkemo of Franklin Hills (tie for 8th) $375, Henry Ransom, Pine Lake (tie for 9th) $285, and Chick Harbert, Meadowbrook (tie for 11th) $65.

Rudy Horvath of Windsor and John Barnum of Belmont, Mich., were only other Michigan area players in the money. Horvath (tie for 6th) won $715. Barnum (tie for 10th) won $161.

Burkemo carded 285, Ransom 287, Barnum 288, Harbert 289, for the 72-hole test.

Links Fans Will See One of Game's Longest Hitters

Holder of many important golf championships, including a number of Michigan Open titles, a competitor of recognized caliber in the ranks of the links professionals, Chick Harbert has long been a spotlighted player in this area.

Chick will demonstrate his shot-making before a friendly gathering of Pontiac and Oakland County golf fans on Aug. 24 at Pontiac Country Club.

Harbert will be here along with Wally Burkemo, former PGA king, who Harbert dethroned a week or so ago at St. Paul, Minn.

This pair of superlative golfing experts will show their wares under sponsorship of The Pontiac Press. The demonstration and clinic that precedes a 18-hole match between the friendly pros, is free to all who wish to see it. A big gallery is expected.

Harbert is known as a terrific hitter. His booming tee shots

2 Italian Parties Planning Union

Pact Between Fascists, Monarchists Could Be Future Challenge

ROME (AP)—Italy's Fascist and Monarchist parties are discussing union in an extreme right wing bloc.

Alfredo Covelli, Monarchist party leader, confirmed the negotiations with the Fascist Italian Social Movement (MSI), which expresses nostalgia for the days of Benito Mussolini. They aim at "a pact of united action," he said.

Covelli controls 31 deputies and 14 senators. The fascists have 29 deputies and 9 senators. Even united, they would have only nuisance value in Parliament. The ruling center bloc, dominated by the Christian Democrat party, holds 303 out of 580 Chamber of Deputies seats and 125 of the 237 Senate seats.

Monarchist strength recently was weakened when millionaire shipowner Achille Lauro bolted the party, taking eight deputies and one senator with him. Lauro generally is supporting the government.

The trend toward rightist unity does have long range significance, in the opinion of political observers. Both the Monarchists and Fascists have showed growing strength in the last two national elections. By getting together now and planning their campaigns together, they could become a more important challenge to the government.

Phyllis Thaxter Defeats Polio, Resumes Work

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Phyllis Thaxter is back in Hollywood and making her first picture since two years ago, when she contracted polio.

Phyllis is a brown-haired girl with a sensitive face. One of Hollywood's finest young actresses, her eyes seem to have even more depth of feeling since her physical ordeal.

I watched her work in "Women's Prison," in which she plays an inmate. She is a nice girl who is badly treated by the prison officials. She did a tense scene which showed her being dragged from the visiting room by three tough female guards.

She reacted with a realistic impression of hysteria. Yet she was bright-eyed and cheerful immediately after when she sat down for a chat.

"Yes, it was quite an experience," she remarked, speaking of her illness. "But now I'm completely well, thank heaven. Sometimes when I'm tired, I ache down my back and in my calves. But I understand that is common with people who have recovered from polio."

Two years ago, she finished up a contract at Warners, where she had appeared opposite Burt Lancaster in "Jim Thorpe, All American" and Gary Cooper in "Springfield Rifle." She was pregnant, and she and her husband took their daughter for a vacation on an island in Maine.

Phyllis fell suddenly ill. Her legs were stiff, and she couldn't move her neck muscles. She was rushed off the island and to a hospital in Portland. At first it was feared she had spinal meningitis. But doctors tapped her spine and discovered she had polio.

Phyllis said the effects of the disease left her within a week. But doctors did not allow her to resume normal exercise and activities because of the baby. She remained hospitalized for 2½ months. She was stricken when she was 4½ months pregnant.

The birth and the baby were normal and Phyllis was able to return to her acting work three months afterward.

DULUTH, Minn. (AP)—Albert Woolson, who at 107 is the sole survivor of the Union Army in the Civil War, tonight will see a bust of himself unveiled and presented to the city of Duluth.

The presentation will be made by the Sons of the Union Veterans of the Civil War and its auxiliary. Both groups open their national conventions here this morning.

Mrs. Helen Newbright of Dayton, Ohio, national patriotic instructor of the auxiliary, will turn the bust over to the city. It will be accepted by Mayor George D. Johnson.

Arriving yesterday for the 3rd annual encampment was Gen. U.S. Grant III, Washington, commander in chief of the Sons of the Union Veterans. Also on hand were Albert C. Lamber, secretary-treasurer, from Trenton, N.J., and Mrs. Mildred R. Webster, Springfield, Mo., national auxiliary president.

Hour-Long Rain Leaves Colorado's Subsoil Dry

By LAURA E. HOBSON

GRANBY, Colo. (INS) — The vast skies went blacker and blacker; lightning cracked and jagged from peak to peak. Then the rain struck and even the vacationers were delighted.

We were at the C Lazy U ranch, north of Denver and only 15 miles from Fraser, where President Eisenhower stayed last summer, but dude though I was, I knew all about the continuing drought and its dangers.

Out here they spell and say it "drouth," and you hear it a hundred times a day, on the radio, in the few stores, around the ranch table.

So the flash rainstorm seemed blessed indeed. I watched a car crawl through the gates of the C Lazy U, its windshield wipers beaten back and down by the slushing water, and I grinned with delight.

"It's not raining cats and dogs," I said, "but elk and antelope." The man I spoke to, usually so amiable and easy-going, didn't grin back. "When it stops," he said, "I'll show you something. Then you'll know what drouth means."

He was one of the three owners of the popular ranch, Richard Schoenberger, born in Cleveland, Ohio, and once an executive with Norman Bel Geddes, the industrial designer. His handsome wife, Katherine Gray of Texas had also worked in the designing world, and now in Granby as a sideline to ranching, she runs a bubbling business in monogrammed soaps—so bubbling the hard-pressed local postoffice went up from a 3rd class rating to a 2nd.

The C Lazy U has heretofore as well as drouth; several hundred tons of hay, I'd been told, used to come off the surrounding meadowland and fields through which Willow Creek normally gurgles and tumbles against a backdrop of pine and aspen covered hills. But this summer the gurgles and tumbles weren't so gay, and most of the hay would be the kind you buy.

The rain lasted a good hour and then suddenly ended. "Come on," said Dick, "I'll show you about those elk and antelope."

We walked around to the back of the stunning main house, built of peeled logs, with great two-story picture windows on three sides. Dick had fetched a spade, and he started digging through a clump of dripping sage. Earth dark brown with water came up, but he still looked grim.

A few inches down and the earth's color faded out to pale cocoa; about a foot down it was ash white and bone dry.

"There's your great rain," Dick said. He scooped up a handful of white stuff, rubbed it between his finger and thumb, and under, even sage can't endure long — and sage is the West's great covering crop, locking the moisture in, keeping the earth capped and safe.

City-stunned by his demonstration, I said, "Back in Kansas a man told me the drouth wasn't half what the rumor-mongers made it." I was glad I'd said "drouth."

"Western Kansas, Eastern Colorado, Nebraska," Dick said drily, "Arizona, New Mexico, some of Texas, Utah—if this drouth keeps on another year or two, they'll be nothing but desert. Some rumor-mongering!"

Up in that 8,000 foot altitude, the dryness had already whisked away most visible signs of the great rain. On saddle horses, careful riders galloped off again; ardent anglers were setting forth for more trout in the coral children shouted. It was a happy scene and my heart was heavy.

"Glen Throckmorton is 84 years old," Dick Schoenberger ended. "He's the recorder of Grand County, lived out here all his life. 'Never,' Glenn was saying the other day, 'never in 84 years did I see any drouth like this!'"

Sailboat Overtakes With Sarah Churchill

GRAND LAKE, Colo. (INS) — Actress Sarah Churchill got a dunking in Grand Lake today.

The daughter of England's Prime Minister Winston Churchill was handling the main sail of a light sailing boat when the craft overturned.

"It was silly," was her comment after she and four others in the boat were rescued.

Her companions were Harvey P. Everest, Howard E. Everest and the latter's 9-year-old daughter Marilyn, all of Oklahoma City, Okla., and Frank Harvey, Wichita Falls, Tex.

The actress is here for a short vacation.

Job Interesting, Starts at 5 A. M.

Assistant Director for Morning Show One of Only 8 Women

NEW YORK (U)—Peggy, blonde and pretty Joan Woodward has one of the most glamorous jobs in TV.

As assistant director for The Morning Show, she is never seen on camera. She is, however, a guiding hand in the behind-the-scenes manipulations.

I don't know why a vivacious and talented young girl like Joan would be so happy about a job that forces her to get up at 4 o'clock in the morning.

Then, having rushed to the studio by 5 a.m. to make final preparations for a 7 a.m. show, she sits in the same chair in the control room for three straight hours.

But she loves it. "I really enjoy every moment of the job and consider myself a fortunate person. You know there are only about eight girls doing directing work in TV."

Her chores are varied. She selects the music for all segments of the show, cues the cameramen to their next position and assists the director with his executive arrangements.

How did this mild-mannered, soft-spoken girl from the mid-west become a TV director? She tells it this way.

"After graduating from the University of Kansas in 1948 I joined the staff of a radio station in St. Joseph, Mo. as copywriter and women's commentator.

"A few months later I interviewed Fred Waring for my program. This proved to be my big break. It turned out that he interviewed me instead and offered me a job. I turned it down but a year later when I came to New York, I was offered the same job. This time I accepted.

"I was a Joan of all trades. I assisted the director, did the commercials (Betty Furness type), sang and danced with the Waring troupe—even imitated a dog once.

"I later worked in the production end of such shows as Omnibus, Metropolitan Opera and was assistant director for that Ford Anniversary TV show. From there I held a similar position for Studio One. Now I have the Morning Show.

"Getting up at 4 a.m. isn't too bad—once you get used to it.

"A funny thing about getting to work so early. I get the same cab driver every morning. He waits for me. He knows what apartment I live in. So he watches for me to turn out the light. Then he starts his motor and opens the cab door for me."

This proves that even at 5 a.m. a cab driver can turn into a Sir Walter Raleigh.

Soldier Drowns in Anger Bout

Bad Fountain Pen Starts Chain of Events Which Leads to Car Crash

DANVILLE, Va. (U)—A pen that wouldn't write set off a bizarre chain of circumstances here yesterday that led to a shooting spree, a police chase and the death by drowning of an Air Force private.

Police said Pvt. Melvin L. Gerbitz and Pvt. Augustine Smith, both of Ft. Bragg, N.C., were in a local restaurant when one of the two — it hadn't been determined which one — became angry because his fountain pen wouldn't write.

He handed the pen to his companion, told him to hold it at arm's length, pulled out a pistol and shot the pen to bits.

The restaurant owner called police. The airman hopped in a car and sped away. Police gave chase.

At a bridge across the Dan River near town, the airman's car smashed into an embankment. The two crawled out of the car and tried to swim the river.

Gerbitz didn't remove his uniform. He drowned a third of the way across.

Smith stripped his clothes off and reached the other side, was picked up by a passing car and taken to a gas station. There police arrested him and jailed him on charges of felonious shooting and driving under the influence of intoxicants.

1854 Organ Still in Use; Tone Improves With Age

NEW BERN, N. C. (U)—A 100-year-old organ in use here originally was bought for $300 in 1854. Sixty-two years later it was hit by lightning. The congregation of the First Presbyterian church here thought it was ruined and sold it for $125 to the Negro First Baptist church, which repaired it.

Church members said the organ's tone improves with age.

Bee Sting Kills Honey Searcher

GREENUP, Ky. (U)—"This sting is about to kill me," Samuel Jones of nearby Caroline told his brother when stung by a bee about 10 minutes before he died yesterday.

Coroner Louis Wright ruled that death was caused by the bee sting. James Jones, the brother, said they were cutting down a tree when a bee flew up Samuel's sleeve. The two had been looking for wild bee honey.

Wright said the 41-year-old farmer died from anaphylactic shock, brought about by toxin in the blood stream.
