U.S. Playing Down Talks in Honolulu

WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials appear intent on playing down the significance of this weekend's Vietnam summit in Honolulu, referring to it as just a "review session."

Advance indications are that the session between President Johnson and South Vietnam's chief executive, Nguyen Van Thieu, will be no more momentous than their four previous get-togethers.

The Vietnamese, however, have provided an occasional surprise and no one is ruling out the possibility they could do it again this time.

"There is no particular urgent political or military reason that required a meeting at this time," said one official.

'RATHER ROUTINE'

The official, who asked not to be identified, said it will be a rather routine affair consistent with the established rhythm — his word — of a Johnson meeting with Saigon leaders approximately every six months.

Although the White House has not released the President's schedule, indications are Johnson will fly to Hawaii from his Texas ranch sometime tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

He is to meet in Honolulu with Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford, returning from a Vietnam tour, before seeing Thieu, probably this weekend. Johnson is expected to fly to the ranch today.

In the past, the Vietnamese have precipitated the unexpected often enough at such conferences to be disconcerting to their Washington allies.

In March 1967, for example, Johnson was upstaged at the Guam conference because of free-wheeling public statements by Thieu, then the No. 2 man in the Saigon government, and Nguyen Cao Ky, prime minister at the time.

★ ★ ★

In similar fashion, the same pair grabbed headlines from Johnson at their very first meeting in Honolulu in February 1966.

★ ★ ★

Whether the Saigon officials refrain from grasping for the limelight would seem to be just about the only element of uncertainty this time.

American officials said Johnson and Thieu probably will spend much of their time in Honolulu in private talks, saying exactly what is on their minds.

WORLD CHAMPS — A world record for nonstop bicycle ridlng was set today by a team of five Pontiac boys. As of noon they had kept their bike in motion for a full week, surpassing by 16 hours the previous record for marathon peddling. The team members are (front left) Bill Reynolds, Jim Ristich, Keith Dempsey, Nick Ristich and Ken Duff.

Secrecy Cloaks Return of Ray, Likely Tonight

LONDON (AP) — American authorities pursued top secret plans today for a quick return of James Earl Ray to the United States to face trial in the assassination in Memphis, Tenn., of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Ray may be on his way tonight or early Thursday.

"I suspect the first word that Ray has left London will be news of his actual arrival in Memphis," one source said.

Ray cleared the way for his return by signing a declaration yesterday that he did not want to appeal the order for his extradition issued July 2 by London's chief magistrate, Frank Milton.

The 40-year-old prisoner, a fugitive from the Missouri State Penitentiary who denies he killed King, is in London's Wandsworth Prison under heavy guard.

LAWYER FLIES TO LONDON

Ray's American lawyer, Arthur J. Hanes of Birmingham, Ala., flew to London to have a talk with him at the prison. Hanes was believed hoping to accompany his client back to the United States, but U.S. officials indicated such a request would be turned down.

Sources speculated that Ray would be flown back with a heavy guard aboard a U.S. military plane or a chartered civilian jet. U.S. military planes can use British civilian fields such as Heathrow and Gatwick airports near London.

City Boys Ride Bike 168 Hours for Record

By JOE CRAWFORD

Five Pontiac youngsters have laid claim to a world record of sorts — one that their legs and posteriors will not let them soon forget.

As of noon today, they had kept a bicycle in motion for one full week—168 hours of continuous riding. The marathon ended at that point, surpassing by 16 hours the previous record set last month by a team of five Battle Creek riders.

★ ★ ★

"We broke that record," boasted team member Nick Ristich, "and we'll beat any record that beats ours."

They may not have long to wait. Rumor has it that a rival neighborhood team of five boys is preparing for a try at today's record.

NEW CHAMPIONS

The new champions are Keith Dempsey, 13, of 471 Third; Bill Reynolds, 12, of 599 First; Ken Duff, 14, of 431 Second; and brothers Nick, 14, and Jim Ristich, 12, of 561 First.

Mike Duff, 11-year-old brother to Ken, served as chief assistant to the team.

The boys rode in three-hour shifts, day and night, keeping their single bicycle moving around their near north side neighborhood.

MILEAGE MYSTERY

No accurate figure was available on distance traveled since the bike's odometer failed shortly after the ride was begun. It was estimated, however, that if the bike traveled 5 miles per hour over the course of the week, it would have traveled a total of 840 miles.

The boys got the idea for the marathon, they said, after reading of the Battle Creek record in The Pontiac Press several weeks ago.

"It was a challenge," Bill said.

The boys had few regrets about their week of motion, though they acknowledged that all were "a little tired," had weary legs and sore seats.

"We'll have something to remember," Bill said. "We're world record holders, if only for a day."

Jet Is Hijacked to Havana; 64 Persons Aboard

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A man who threatened to blow up a National Airlines jet with a grenade seized control of the plane over Texas today, held command during a refueling stop at New Orleans, then forced the pilot to fly to Cuba.

The DC8, with 57 passengers and seven crewmen aboard, landed at Havana at 9:36 a.m. EDT, the airline said.

"I've got a Cuban in the cockpit with a grenade in one hand and a pistol in the other," radioed the pilot, Capt. Sidney L. Oliver, as flight 1064 winged between Houston and New Orleans.

"I am being ordered to Cuba," the pilot said.

A National Airlines spokesman said the flight, which originated at Los Angeles, had made a scheduled stop at Houston before the hijacker moved into the cockpit.

Convinced by Oliver that the plane did not carry enough fuel to reach Cuba nonstop, the man permitted a landing at New Orleans.

But he ordered Oliver to taxi to a stop at the far end of a runway and said he would detonate the grenade if anything approached except a fuel truck.

FBI agents and police stood by helplessly at the terminal as the truck topped off the tanks. The hijacker remained in the cockpit, clutching the grenade and his gun.

Some 43 passengers scheduled to get off the plane in New Orleans were forced to remain on the flight. The hijacker ordered the pilot not to allow passengers to leave or enter the plane during the 40-minute refueling.

Ship Afire; Carries Liquid Explosives

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A 469-foot Argentina freighter with 42 persons aboard carrying liquid explosives radioed "Mayday" today, reporting it was afire about 100 miles off the east coast of Florida.

The U.S. Coast Guard in Miami said three amphibian planes with fire fighting equipment and pumps plus a rescue helicopter had been dispatched to the stricken freighter, the Rio Quinto.

The Rio Quinto is owned by the Argentine Empress Maritime Lines and is registered in Buenos Aires, according to Lloyd's Register of Ships.

PARIS (AP) — Xuan Thuy, North Vietnam's chief negotiator at the Paris talks with the United States, stayed away from the 13th session today and a spokesman said he was slightly indisposed.

Predicts Sen. Hart

'Fortas to Get Panel Nod'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A member of the Senate Judiciary Committee predicts backers of Abe Fortas for chief justice of the United States will beat back opposition and report President Johnson's nomination to the Senate floor by at least a 10-4 vote.

"It may be 12 to 4," said Michigan Democrat Philip A. Hart yesterday after Fortas conceded in five hours of testimony that he had advised President Johnson on critical national issues since becoming an associate Supreme Court justice in 1965.

★ ★ ★

The committee was not expected to get around to Johnson's nomination of Homer Thornberry as an associate justice until tomorrow. It could be later if another opponent, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., carries out a threat not to allow the Judiciary Committee to hold hearings while the Senate itself is in session.

Hart, however, said lengthy questioning will not affect the outcome.

"I think the vote in the committee will be 10 to 6 at worst in favor of the nominations," he said.

The highlight of Fortas's opening testimony was his acknowledgment that since going on the court in 1965 he has responded to calls from Johnson for help in instances when national crises arose.

★ ★ ★

Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., promptly criticized Forta's White House role, saying "it breaches the basic fundamental concept of separation of powers or at least brings it into question."

Griffin is not a member of the Judiciary Committee but he is leading the fight to block Senate confirmation of Fortas and of Thornberry.

QUESTION RAISED

The question of whether Fortas has served as an adviser to Johnson since going on the court was raised by Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., the committee chairman.

Some late afternoon thundershowers are predicted for the Pontiac area today, but the weatherman still sees little relief from the hot, humid temperatures.

An hour-long storm yesterday afternoon brought thundershowers and hail to the Birmingham-Troy area, while Pontiac registered plunging temperatures.

Shortly after the downtown mercury hit 90 at 11:30 a.m., it dipped to 77 at 2:30 p.m. But by 6 p.m. it had climbed back to 88.

Housewives saving ironing and baking chores for the cool of evening will not get the respite they would like tonight. The mercury is expected to stay in the low 80s through the night.

MOSTLY CLOUDY

Tomorrow's forecast is mostly cloudy and some brief showers, but again little temperature change is predicted.

Friday's outlook is clearing and a little cooler.

Precipitation probability in per cent: today 30, tonight and tomorrow, 40.

Low in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 74. By 2 p.m. the temperature was 92.

Hopes Still High for 'Pontiac Plan'

By BOB WISLER

An optimistic mood over the chances of implementing the recently presented and much discussed "Pontiac Plan" for redevelopment of the city's downtown urban renewal area continues to prevail among city officials and those involved in the plan's formulation.

The latest cause for continued high hopes was a meeting last week of city officials, plan designers and representatives of the Federal Housing Authority and the Department of Housing and Urban Development's renewal assistance administration.

FHA representatives from Detroit came away glowing, participants in the meeting reported. As of now there are no plans for FHA assistance in the mortgaging of any of the properties or buildings, but FHA did offer assistance if needed.

Acceptance of the Pontiac Plan, so named in recent weeks in an obvious effort to generate over-all community support and interest, has generally been almost unqualified.

'CONCEPT, DESIGN EXCELLENT'

The general concept and design, according to a variety of experts, is excellent. If there are any reservations or disquieting anxieties concerning the Pontiac Plan they are over the feasibility of constructing the $80 million worth of buildings now being planned and the feasibility of financing the same.

In other words, the plan is grand, but can it be put into effect? Is it really possible or is this an idealistic scheme which could prove to be impractical or unmarketable, a pie-in-the-sky proposition?

Marvin D. Skelton, the financial spokesman of the group which formulated the plan for renewal, believes there are some problems involved in settling on the final financial methods for mortgaging the properties involved, but yesterday he said he expects that the details will be worked out within the next month.

Skelton, offered as indications that the Pontiac Plan is feasible, two major points.

● A qualified developer, Herbert Chernick, has publicly stated a desire to acquire the urban renewal land to undertake a development of the plan.

● A reputable mortgage correspondent for one of the world's largest mortgage sources (Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. of New York) has publicly endorsed the Pontiac Plan concept and has confirmed the general economic feasibility of the total project.

'SMALL MIRACLE'

"The latter accomplishment is a small miracle since it is unknown to have such a strong public endorsement from a mortgage source at such a nebulous point of the development," Skelton said.

★ ★ ★

Skelton said it is normally required that the developer have the land under purchase contract and have preliminary structural drawings for each building before mortgage sources will even begin talking about financing, steps which are still many months away.

Government in Iraq Is Toppled by Coup

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A bloodless military coup in Iraq has ousted the regime of President Abdel Rahman Aref and expelled him from the country, Baghdad Radio announced today.

A "Revolutionary Command Council" took over all executive and legislative powers. Its membership was not announced immediately, but there was speculation it is led by the Baath Socialist party, which rules Syria.

* * *

Denouncing Aref's regime as "a bunch of illiterates," a Baghdad broadcast said the ousted leaders had "divided the country into feudal sections for their personal enrichment," failed to settle the rebellion of the Kurdish tribes in northern Iraq, and pursued a "ruthless and superficial policy on Palestine."

* * *

Aref had advocated a political settlement of the Arab-Israeli dispute. Syria's Baathist government was the most militant of Israel's opponents in the 1967 war.

CURFEW IMPOSED

Iraq's borders, airports, ports and railroad services were shut down, and an indefinite curfew was clamped on the country.

The government of Premier Taher Yahya also was dismissed, the radio said. It emphasized that the takeover was bloodless.

* * *

Messages of support from various military units were broadcast and the radio said fighter planes were flying over the capital in support of the coup.

In its communique announcing the coup, Baghdad Radio accused Aref and other ousted government leaders of sharing responsibility for the Arab defeat in last year's six-day war with Israel.

The new revolutionary council promised to take "urgent measures for the settlement of the Kurdish question in a wise manner that would ensure national unity."

AIR CHIEF DISMISSED

Consolidating its control, the new regime dismissed the air force commander, Maj. Gen. Jassam Mohammed El Shahiri, and Brig. Mahmoud Ereim, the commander of Iraqi forces stationed in Jordan since the 1967 war.

In spite of repeated assurances that the coup was bloodless, first aid men throughout the country were called to their posts.

City to Sell Parcel Near Rouge River

BIRMINGHAM — On the sixth attempt since 1959, a city-owned parcel of land near the Rouge River has been rezoned for residential purposes.

The reclassification of the property on the east side of Lakeside opposite Midland was approved by the City Commission on Monday over the objection of nearby home owners.

* * *

The property, measuring 80 by 203 feet, will be sold by the city. Money from the sale will be used to develop passive recreation land owned by the city along the Rouge.

Purchased in 1956 as part of a larger site for flood plain, the property is considered excess land and not needed in controling the waters of the Rouge.

ONLY ONE DISSENTER

Requiring at least six votes for rezoning, the change was authorized by a 6 to 1 vote; with only Mayor David Breck dissenting.

It was Breck's contention that the city should retain as much open area as possible.

* * *

Commissioner William Saunders disagreed. "We have the flood plain land we need there, and we've been told by the recreation and plan boards that we don't need the property for future use," he said.

* * *

'WOULD BE WRONG'

"I believe the commission would be wrong to knowingly sell property for residential use that will be flooded," he said.

City Manager Robert S. Kenning, however, noted that while a portion of the property did flood during the last heavy storm, the problem is not extreme.

* * *

The commission, in other business, awarded an $82,500 paving contract for four projects to Mike Harabedian, Inc. of Troy.

The agreement covers the paving of Oakland Avenue from Woodward to Hunter; the police pistol range parking lot; Dorchester, east of Cambridge; and the Hunter Boulevard directonal turnarounds.

CONTRACT AUTHORIZED

On the recommendaton of the engineering department, the commission — authorized the contract contingent upon the Michigan State Highway Department signing an agreement with the city for the Hunter Boulevard alterations.

* * *

The construction of two tennis courts at Pembroke Park this year also was approved by the commission.

* * *

They will be built in the southerly part of the park, just west of the baseball diamond. The tennis courts will be flooded and used for ice skating in the winter.

City Engineers to Study Improving of Clinton Flow

A feasibility study to recommend the best method for improving the flow of the Clinton River in the southwest section of Pontiac will be undertaken by the city's consulting engineers, Jones and Henry.

City commissioners last night authorized the study on the river from Dawson Millpond to the downtown area, the recommendation of Director of Public Works and Service Joseph E. Neipling.

* * *

Neipling said the nature of the river in the southwest section of the city has been a factor in the deterioration of the area.

He said inability of the city's engineering staff to have any firm idea of what the land in that area would ultimately be used for caused the administration to defer for several years any recommendations on improvement of the river.

OVER-ALL PROBLEM

He said when organizations now at work, "aggressively planning and guiding the land use development in this area," began studies on the land, the staff began to consider the over-all problem of abating the storm water flooding and the numerous problems created by the unimproved portions of the Clinton River.

Neipling said the staff would like a feasibility study to determine the best method of controlling excess storm water, how to improve the existing waterway so that it can enhance the southwest section instead of being a blighting influence, and what can be done to improve recreational facilities of the river and abutting land.

* * *

He said close cooperation with community groups in those areas would be necessary.

Neipling said the study will cost no more than $15,000. He estimated that improvement of the river is a multimillion-dollar project.

LAST PROJECT NECESSARY

The DPW director said that this would be the last project necessary to complete improvement of the Clinton River in the city. He said that the first project in 1961 was begun at that time because of its relationship to the downtown urban renewal development and construction of Wide Track Drive.

The second, east of Paddock, was the next logical one to undertake, he said. The rerouting of the river was mandatory before it was possible for the State Highway Department to begin construction of the M59 connection from downtown Pontiac to I-75, he said.

* * *

Neipling said improvement of the river in the southwest section of the city would eliminate the flooding of certain streets, notably Bagley and Beaudette, and afford the opportunity to not only utilize the river but capitalize on the natural beauty it affords.

NATIONAL WEATHER — Scattered showers are likely tonight in parts of the upper Midwest. It will be cooler in the northern Plains and warm elsewhere.

News Headlines From the World and the Nation

SAIGON (AP) — The Vietcong command has warned its forces not to expect peace or independence from the Paris talks until a "general offensive and general uprising," force the United States to accept defeat, a captured enemy directive released by the U.S. Embassy disclosed today. American commanders now believe the Vietcong - North Vietnamese command will launch another general offensive across South Vietnam in August.

Tentative Phone Pact

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal mediator Robert E. Kennedy announced today tentative agreement on a new contract covering 24,000 long-distance telephone workers in 46 states and the District of Columbia. The tentative settlement averted the possibility of a strike that could have affected TV and radio facilities and Teletype equipment, including that used by news services, at the national political conventions.

Firing Halt Peace Step?

PARIS (AP) — Ambassador W. Averell Harriman said today that the lack of Communist shelling of Saigon for the past month "may have some significance" for the Paris peace talks. Harriman, going into the 13th session of the U.S.-North Vietnamese peace talks in Paris, said he had "no way to judge" of the enemy forces in the Saigon area whether a reported withdrawal of some of the enemy forces in the Saigon area constituted a peace move.

N.C. Outlaw Caught; Girl Hostages Freed

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Three teen-age girls held as hostages for more than 24 hours were freed Tuesday night when police captured Edward Thompson Jr., an accused kipnaper. The father of one of the girls and the mother of another were found shot to death earlier.

* * *

Shaken and at times sobbing the girls were returned to their homes in Roanoke, Va., shortly after Greensboro police arrested Thompson.

* * *

With pistols drawn, police stopped Thompson in a stolen car belonging to the father of one of the girls. He offered no resistance. Police found two rifles and a pistol in the car.

Thompson, 37, of Eden, N.C., was declared an outlaw by a Superior Court judge in Hendersonville June 25. This meant any citizen could have legally shot him if he disregarded an order to surrender.

He was wanted on six counts of kidnaping, three of rape and one each of armed robbery, car theft and assault on an officer. The crimes occurred in May and June near Hendersonville and Mooresville in western North Carolina.

The car in which Thompson was stopped at Greensboro belonged to J. Howard Davis, 50, a Roanoke salesman whose body was found earlier in the afternoon in the basement of a house near Roanoke. Also in the house was the body of Mrs. Brewster Freeman, 50, of Roanoke. Both had been shot.

The three girls were Jo Ellen Davis, 13, daughter of the dead man; Hester (Cherry) Freeman, 17, daughter of the dead woman, and Mathilda Love, 13, of near Roanoke, a cousin of Hester Freeman.

A year ago this Friday, Mathilda Love's mother, her brother and two sisters died in the Hendersonville, N.C., crash of a Piedmont Airlines jet. Her father had died earlier of a heart attack.

Police in North Carolina and Virginia conferred with the FBI to piece together events leading to Thompson's arrest.

Thompson was held without bond in an undisclosed jail.

The Davis and Freeman families live three miles apart in Roanoke. The alleged kidnaping of Davis, Mrs. Freeman and the three girls apparently took place at the Freeman home.

The first clue as to the whereabouts of the five came when Thompson's brother, who lives in Eden, told police Tuesday morning he had seen Thompson in the area and described the car. The description matched that of the Davis car.

Pontiac Plan Hopes Still High

designer of the Pontiac Plan, said the design plan was accomplished in a short time and took an incredible amount of compressed work, a fact which non-professionals could not appreciate, he said.

He said it might have been better to wait until all financial arrangements were more firmly nailed down but the developer and designers believed that the climate was right for presentation of the plan earlier this year.

SCHEDULE OF EVENTS

Skelton said actual terms of financing will have to be decided in the next few weeks and he has set up a tentative schedule of events to decide on the final terms.

He said there are 12 major buildings, or project classifications involved, and there are alternative methods of financing. These methods must be evaluated in relation to each other in order to satisfy all the mutual interests," he said.

The schedule calls for selection of major alternate methods of mortgaging by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.'s mortgage correspondent in this area, with the results being presented to the firm's New York office.

Alternates selected by the insurance company will be reviewed by the developer, with results being presented to the city about Aug. 5.

JOINT MEETING

The schedule calls for a joint meeting of city staff, the developers, and representatives from the mortgaging source to make a final determination of a preferred financing concept during the week of Aug. 10.

As of now, Metropolitan Life is being counted on as the mortgagor of the buildings proposed for construction. Although the insurance company has not made a definite committment, it has expressed considerable interest.

* * *

Financing terms, if approved by the insurance company, could involve the insurance company committting itself as the mortgagor of all the buildings, all at one time, or could involve a definite commitment for one, or two, or three buildings at one time.

John H. Fleming, vice president of Kelly Mortgage & Investment Co., of Flint with a branch in Birmingham, correspondent for Metropolitan Life, said the insurance firm's representatives would have to approve a financing plan for mortgaging the properties before its assets would be committed.

He said New York representatives have been informed of the general plan design and proposed methods of financing but cannot commit themselves as yet. Fleming, corroborating Skelton's view, said it is unusual for a large financial source to commit itself before a complete and thorough study of all aspects of a design plan, its financing and its structural design plans.

But, he said, the Pontiac Plan has points in its favor: (1) the life insurance representatives believe the plan is generally economically feasible, (2) the plan would receive very favorable consideration because of its nature—a total concept for improving a city's core area—and (3) community acceptance.

* * *

He said it would have to have public support for the insurance source to become involved.

For those who might fear that the plan is designed on shaky financial ground there are other considerations. For example, the Department of Housing and Urban Development will be involved and must approve all major steps in completion of the plan. This includes the financing, the design and the implementation including the decisions as to what buildings will be constructed in what order.

Urban renewal regulations are strong and practically preclude the possibility of any speculation of urban renewal land.

U.S. Appeals Anew to N. Viet on Bomb Issue

PARIS (AP)—The United States made a new appeal to North Vietnam in the Paris peace talks today to declare what action it will take "if the remainder of the bombing of North Vietnam ends."

"I have stated many times," Ambassador W. Averell Harriman told North Vietnamese negotiators, "that the United States is prepared to stop the bombing of the remainder of North Vietnam, but I have asked what would happen then.

* * *

"I have asked what you then will do—slow the pace of the war or continue to heighten the level of your aggression? And to that central question, you have given no answer—no answer whatsoever.

"Are we to interpret this to mean that further restraint on our part will be met again by further escalation of violence on your part?"

LONGEST MEETING

Harriman's statement was released by his office before today's session ended. This 13th meeting of the two negotiating teams was the longest since the talks started May 13. It lasted almost 4½ hours. Harriman said when the meeting ended that no progress was made.

There is no market page today in The Pontiac Press since the stock exchanges are closed to enable workers to process accumulated transactions. The regular market page will be resumed tomorrow.

Cavanaghs Testify; Judge Weighs Divorce

From Our News Wires

DETROIT — Promising to make a decision in writing in the near future, a circuit court judge began considering Tuesday whether to grant a separation or a divorce to Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh and his wife.

In the year since Mrs. Mary Helen Cavanagh filed for separate maintenance from her husband of 16 years, testimony in Wayne County Circuit Court has been behind closed doors. Yesterday, both took the witness stand and put their private life on public view.

Cavanagh, 40, two-term mayor of the nation's fifth largest city, said he has had a running battle with his wife since 1965, during which time she refused him sexual relations, threw coffee and eggs at him and was a "sloppy housekeeper."

In a closing argument yesterday, the mayor's attorney, Frederick Buesser Jr., said Cavanagh had hoped to avoid a public airing of his marital problems, but that "There are some things in life a man can't compromise, even if it means public humiliation or the threat of political defeat."

'BAD TREATMENT'

Rowe Balmer, attorney for Mrs. Cavanagh, said she hopes for a reconciliation, but the mayor's treatment of her "was despicable — not befitting the wife of a grave digger."

Cavanagh is asking for an absolute divorce from his wife, a former college beauty queen. Mrs. Mary Helen Cavanagh requested a separation. Both are fighting over the custody of their eight children.

Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Charles S. Farmer, who said he had spent many sleepless nights over the case, said he would review all testimony, including reports of social workers who made surprise visits to the separate homes, before making his decision.

Attorney Balmer said Cavanagh had refused physical relations with his wife, didn't invite her to social functions, and had beaten and scorned her.

OFTEN DRUNK

The attorney for Mrs. Cavanagh also said the mayor "frequently came home drunk and couldn't perform his duties as a husband."

Cavanagh's attorney recalled testimony by a former maid that Mrs. Cavanagh had frequently remained in her room for three days at a time drinking and that the children would pound on her locked door but that she refused to let them in.

Buesser also said although Mrs. Cavanagh spoke of a reconciliation, she did so with a "stony face and had refused to accept the fact that the marriage was dead."

The mayor's attorney also said it would have been easier for Cavanagh to accede to her demands to "wash his hands of the children instead of undergoing an ordeal which allows the reader of every local newspaper to know of the deplority of the home conditions."

He also referred to the testimony of two former Cavanagh chauffeurs that there were dirty pots and pans all over the kitchen of her home, that the house was in general a shambles, and that she frequently locked herself in the room.

Mrs. Cavanagh's attorney said the chauffeurs, Police Lt. John Darnel and Police Sgt. William Shine, received promotions after being assigned to the mayor and owe their existence to the police commissioner appointed by the mayor. The attorney also said the maid, Mrs. Betty Childs Walker, was fired by Mrs. Cavanagh for incompetency and that her daughter was employed by the mayor as housekeeper at his mansion.

Citing testimony from six neighbors that Mrs. Cavanagh "was a warm and affectionate mother and that her home was as neat and clean as any home could be with eight small children," Attorney Balmer said the mayor had failed to provide proof of grounds that constitute a divorce.

Three of the couple's eight children — the three oldest boys — have been living with Cavanagh in his city-owned river-front mansion. The others have stayed with their mother.

The battle for custody of the children has been a key issue between the Cavanaghs, married in 1952 when he was a law student at the University of Detroit and she was a campus queen.

Cavanagh last year was granted the right to file suit for divorce from his wife by the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Detroit. But the church said a divorce would allow the Cavanaghs to live separately, under property and child custody arrangements settled by a civil court. Neither would have church approval to remarry.

Body Found; Autopsy Set

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — Buchanan County prosecutor Tom Duty said Tuesday authorities will await findings of an autopsy before issuing any warrants in the death of a young woman whose body was found Monday.

The body of Janet Theresa Lilley, 24, of St. Joseph was discovered on a creek bank near Stewartsville in neighboring Clinton County.

Authorities said the woman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lilley of Detroit, lived alone and worked in a walnut veneer factory.

Capped the Theft

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — David Barnett of Fort Wayne reported to city police that four hubcaps were stolen from his car parked at his home. Barnett later called back to say the hubcaps had been returned with a note reading, "Sorry, they didn't fit."

State GOP Poll Studied by Delegates

SOUTHFIELD (UPI) — Michigan's Republican delegates, having listened to the party's two major presidential candidates, today were weighing personal evaluations in their final meeting before Miami.

To help the 48 delegates decide whom to support, a professional poll measuring Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller among a sampling of Michigan voters was prepared for study.

★ ★ ★

The results of the election-year survey are expected to be a major factor in setting the direction for Gov. George Romney and the other delegates, who have remained uncommitted and turned to Romney as a favorite-son candidate for the GOP presidential nomination.

★ ★ ★

An official for the polling firm, Market Opinion Research of Detroit, confirmed Tuesday that the electorate study was completed, but he declined any comment on what voter trend it showed, if any.

MILLIKEN OPTIMISTIC

Lt. Gov. William G. Milliken, Rockefeller's Michigan campaign manager, expressed optimism the survey would demonstrate Rockefeller would be the strongest Republican presidential candidate in Michigan.

Party Chairman Elly M. Peterson, an at-large delegate, said the poll will provide "guidance to our delegates."

★ ★ ★

The purpose of the Southfield meeting, according to Mrs. Peterson, was to give the delegates an opportunity to express their personal evaluation of the candidates and also to discuss the results of the poll.

Buffs Match Classic Cars; Both Earned Top Ratings

BIRMINGHAM — When classic car buffs get together, as C. L. Bouchard and John K. Stevenson did yesterday, their thoughts regress to 1925-1939, when their autos were made, and their conversation becomes almost a foreign language with its own special jargon.

Bouchard of 579 Tooting Lane and Stevenson of 841 Glengarry have a common hobby of cars of the uncommon variety.

★ ★ ★

They are members of that elite group of auto enthusiasts who search out cars from the pre-World War II era and then begin the arduous process of restoring them.

If and when restoration of both the body and engine is complete, the car can be entered in various classic car shows throughout the country.

ROCKY ROAD

But the road to restoration is often a rocky one requiring many years and many hours of work. Stevenson and Bouchard agree that much patience is required, and that the time needed to complete the task has to be measured by calendar not by watch.

Stevenson, who acquired his 1937 Jaguar SS-100 Roadster in 1959, was not able to enter it in show competition until this year.

"I worked on it, almost regularly, one or two nights a week for almost 10 years," he noted.

But the work for both of them paid off last weekend at Greenfield Village, Dearborn, in the Midwest Classic competition sponsored by the Classic Car Club of America.

PERFECT SCORES

Stevenson's Jaguar, Bouchard's 1936 Mercedes Benz Coupe, and a 1929 Alfa Romeo Roadster owned by E. F. Mayne of Bloomfield Hills each scored a perfect 100 points in the Primary Foreign Division.

The three were awarded national first prizes in their divisions and shared the designation of Primary Overall Winner.

★ ★ ★

It was the first time in the history of Classic Car Club of America competition that three cars in the same division were awarded perfect scores.

In all, 61 cars were judged at Greenfield show. At the same time, in five other U.S. cities, another 200 cars were also under scrutiny.

TEAM OF JUDGES

Bouchard explained that each car is studied by a team of four judges, who automatically give each entry 100 points.

"Then," he said, "they begin knocking points off for anything that detracts from the car and the original condition that we try to recreate.

Stevenson, a manufacturer's representative for his own firm which deals in drugs and chemicals, noted that this was the first year so many cars were given the maximum point total.

"In the U.S. there were eight 100s in our class alone," he said, "with three of them coming right from this area. Usually, one perfect score is all you expect from the entire national competition."

DIVISION EXPLAINED

Bouchard, an executive engineer at Ford Motor Co. pointed out that the primary division is for all entrants who have never finished first before in competition.

Stevenson and Bouchard and their cars met at Cranbrook Institute yesterday where they had a chance to inspect each other's auto.

Like critics inspecting a work of art, they looked over, under and inside the brightly polished autos.

"Is there a paper gasket in there?" Bouchard asked when he looked at the shining engine block of Stevenson's Jaguar.

MORE TECHNICAL

And then conversation became more technical as the two talked of wooden undercarriages and chrome fuel pumps.

Stevenson called Bouchard's Mercedes a real work of art, and Bouchard pointed out the main reason he likes the old cars so much:

★ ★ ★

"When they built something back then," he concluded, "it wasn't only engineered well, but it looked nice too."

County Zoners Approve Plant Site in Avon Twp.

The Oakland County Coordinating Zoning and Planning Committee yesterday recommended approval for rezoning that would allow a Detroit firm to construct a large research and manufacturing development in Avon Township.

The commission approved a 101-acre site owned by the R. P. Scherer Corp. which has home offices in Detroit.

★ ★ ★

The land is located on the north side of Parkdale near the Parkdale-Romeo Road intersection, directly across from the Parke Davis & Co. main offices.

The Scherer firm manufactures soft gelatin capsules for a variety of uses including vitamin pills and bath oils, a company spokesman said.

DECISION JULY 24

The rezoning request, with the recommendation of the county zoning group, faces final decision at the Avon Township planning committee meeting July 24, according to township officials.

The committee turned back a proposed amendment to the residential section of the Highland Township Zoning Ordinance. The amendment was designed to increase the minimum square footage of residential lots from 10,000 to 30,000.

"Such a qualification on lot sizes would almost eliminate multiples," several committee members noted. There was also general agreement that the petitioners presented insufficient justification for increasing the lot sizes to such extremes.

Most township residential zoning ordinances require from 10,000 to 13,000 square feet per lot, it was noted.

HIGHLAND ZONING OK'D

In other action, the committee recommended approval of a rezoning request that would allow construction of two factories on one site in Highland Township.

The 7.4-acre site in question presently is zoned for commercial use rather than manufacturing. The parcel is located on the south side of Highland Road just west of Hickory Ridge.

★ ★ ★

Also, a 75-acre parcel in Independence Township was recommended for rezoning from agricultural use only to R-1A (single family residential). A new subdivision is being eyed for the tract northeast of the intersection of Perry Lake Road and Cranberry Lake Road, committee members said.

W. Bloomfield to Draw Up Sewer Assessment Rolls

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The Township Board has passed a resolution directing Supervisor John N. Doherty to draft a special assessment roll for sewers in the Norwood Heights subdivision.

The recent action came after a hearing to consider petitions from a number of subdivision residents who requested sewerage assessment, township officials said.

★ ★ ★

A crowd of opposing residents attended the board meeting to raise objections to a special assessment. They claim their private septic systems are adequate and that there is no need for a sewer in the area.

★ ★ ★

Opposition in the dispute was guided by Detroit attorney Nicholas Smith, who requested that the board stop action on the assessment at least long enough to circulate another petition.

CHANGE OF HEART

Smith claimed many people who signed the original petition requesting sewers for the area have since changed their minds. Once a name is filed on a petition, it cannot be deleted, he said.

A letter was heard by the board from the Public Health Center saying that sewers would benefit the area more than private septic systems.

In other township business, the board agreed to approve the 50-mile-per-hour speed limit for Haggerty Road between 12 Mile and West Maple recommended by a County Road Commission study.

Previously there had been no speed limit on the stretch of road involved.

The board also endorsed the proposed countywide 1-mill assessment for road improvements in the county.

★ ★ ★

The issue will be decided by voters in the county in the Aug. 6 election.

In addition, Trustee Margaret Evans was named as a temporary replacement for Township Deputy Clerk Carol Ligon, who resigned, a board representative said.

WHITE PIGEON (UPI) — Richard E. Van Atta, Jackson, has been appointed superintendent of White Pigeon Community School District.

Sterling Heights Drug Raid Nets 5

STERLING HEIGHTS (UPI)—Five persons who were arrested in a police raid Monday night were charged with possession of barbiturates today when they appeared before a Macomb County justice court.

The five entered pleas of innocent. Bonds were set at $100 each.

★ ★ ★

They were arrested at an apartment only three blocks from the police station.

The five were identified as Eugene Y. Rayford, 19; Jerry A. Niccrand, 20; David D. Johnson, 20; Carol A. Hanne, 18; and Timothy N. Werner, 20, all of Warren.

★ ★ ★

One Now a Corporal

Two Troopers Transferred

The transfer of two troopers from Pontiac area State Police posts and the promotion of one of them was announced yesterday by Col. Frederick E. Davids, Michigan State Police director.

ROBERT L. BEADLE

Transferred from the Pontiac post is Trooper Robert L. Beadle. He is being moved to the Ypsilanti post, to initiate the new police school program at Willow Run.

★ ★ ★

4-YEAR VETERAN

Beadle, 32, has been with the State Police for approximately four years. He has been assigned to the Pontiac post since July 1966.

He is married and the father of three children.

Anderson, 34, joined the State Police in 1956. In 1962 he was transferred to the Romeo post. He is married and has one child.

The transfers and promotion are effective Sunday.

Bone-Tolerance Study Cited

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This article, another in a series, is based on "A Study of Head and Facial Bone Impact Tolerance," by Charles Gadd and John Danforth of the GM Research Laboratories, Warren, and Dr. Alan Nahum and Dr. James Gatts of the University of California-Los Angeles.)

MILFORD—The frontal region of your head—including the forehead—probably can withstand an impact force of about 1,100 pounds over any one square inch before "clinically significant fracture" occurs.

★ ★ ★

About half that force can fracture bone in the parietal region, the side of the head over the ear. And 225 pounds of force is quite apt to cause like damage to the cheekbone.

★ ★ ★

These force tolerances were suggested by a biomechanics research group in a paper delivered at the recent General Motors Automobile Safety Seminar at the GM Proving Ground.

The tolerances, termed tentative, are based upon fracture data points recorded in a recently completed series of cadaver impact tests.

CONSIDERED VITAL

Such basic information is considered vital to the development of logical automotive interior designs offering greater protection against accident injury.

Collaborating on the study, part of a continuing research program, were Dr. Alan Nahum and Dr. James Gatts of the University of California-Los Angeles, and Charles Gadd and John Danforth of the GM Research Laboratories, Warren.

★ ★ ★

While much research has been conducted to ascertain impact tolerances for closed-skull injury or brain damage, the group's study represents one of the relatively few devoted to establishing tolerances for bone structure at the impact site.

★ ★ ★

In their impact testing of the frontal, parietal and cheekbone areas, the researchers found that fractures occurred over a wide band of force levels, but also noted most serious fractures clustered at the low end of the band.

IMPACT FORCES

For instance, serious cheekbone fractures occurred at impact forces ranging from 220 to 880 pounds, but the majority were in the 220-520 range. Acknowledging this fact, the research team set the "clinical" cheekbone tolerance at 225 pounds per square inch. They followed through similarly in setting tolerances for the other areas.

★ ★ ★

Several variables were studied to determine their possible influence on tolerance values, most notably the waveform and duration of the applied pulse. The judgment: Usable tolerance values can be based upon peak force alone.

★ ★ ★

- No significant difference in fracture strength exists between the left and right cheekbone, the left and right frontal regions, or left and right parietal areas.

★ ★ ★

- Persons with a high impact tolerance in one area (say the cheekbone) are likely to have a high tolerance to impact in the other areas.

★ ★ ★

- Men usually have greater fracture resistance than women in all the study areas.

The findings are expected to aid engineers in determining the best cushioning mediums for car interiors, and in developing improved trauma-indicating head forms for dummies used in crash-injury tests.

Utica Schools Set Musical Theater

UTICA — The Utica Community Schools will kick off its Summer Musical Theatre this weekend with the famous musical, "Sound of Music."

The play is the first of four planned as part of the school district's community-school summer program. Curtain time Friday and Saturday, is 8 p.m. The performance will begin at 6 p.m. Sunday.

There will also be a children's matinee performance at 1 p.m. Saturday.

All performances will be staged at the 600-seat Utica High School auditorium, 47255 Shelby at 21 Mile, Shelby Township.

A cast and crew of 50 students and adults from Macomb and Oakland counties, all of them experienced in dramatics, will participate in the staging of the musical, which won several Academy Awards as a film after a record-long run on Broadway.

Wife Fatally Shot After Being Held Hostage in Maine

SANFORD, Maine (AP) — Police say Ralph Goodwin, 28, held his wife, Marilyn, 25, hostage for more than six hours Tuesday then shot her apparently accidentally while holding a gun to her head. She died today.

Goodwin was wounded by police.

* * *

He had held a gun to his wife's head as he emerged from a house to talk to newsmen. As he descended the stairs, Goodwin tripped and the gun went off, police said.

Earlier, photographers had entered the house with police and took pictures of Goodwin holding the weapon to his wife's head as they sat on a couch.

SHOT IN LEG

Goodwin was wounded by one shot which entered his left thigh and lodged in his right side. He was hospitalized but was not considered in critical condition.

Goodwin, an unemployed machinist from Dover, N.H., had barricaded himself inside the home of his brother, Alfred, after forcing his wife to accompany him to Maine.

* * *

Earlier Tuesday, warrants had been issued for Goodwin's arrest after he had held two men at gunpoint in a Somersworth, N.H., trailer camp and had fired one shot.

"I know I'm sick. I know I've done wrong, but I am not going to jail for it, that's for sure. They will take me out of here feet first," Goodwin said, moments before the shootings.

AP Wirephoto

SCENE BEFORE FATAL SHOOTING—Ralph Goodwin, 28, of Dover, N.H., holds a 22-caliber revolver to the head of his wife, Marilyn, 25, while officers talk to him. The scene was the home of his brother in Sanford, Maine. Police say Goodwin later fatally wounded his wife and, in turn, was wounded by police.

Church Harbors 9 AWOLs

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Five carloads of military police waited outside Howard Presbyterian Church today for the conclusion of a 48-hour "service of liberation," in which nine AWOL GIs "resigned" from military service.

"They can't resign. It's against regulations," said one of the military policemen. But he and others admitted they do not know exactly what to do with the nine GIs once they emerge from the basement of the church.

* * *

The nine servicemen entered the church basement yesterday afternoon to conduct a service marking their resignation from the armed forces in protest against the war in Vietnam. They chained themselves to nine ministers who joined them for the duration of the "church-in."

"I have absolutely no regret," said Oliver Hirsch, 21, of Washington, D.C., an Air Force sergeant. "I truly hope — really and truly hope — that our example will help those people who are at the crossroads of a decision on their part in this war."

OF FIVE FAITHS

In addition to Hirsch, the group is composed of five soldiers, two sailors and a Marine, plus clergymen representing five faiths — Presbyterian, Roman Catholic and United Church of Christ.

The Rev. Thomas Dietrich, pastor of the church, said his congregation had knowledge of the protest service.

Rocky's Efforts Falling Short of Goal

Late starter Gov. NELSON ROCKEFELLER is going all out these days, making a big splash and spending money like it was going out of style. As the trite phrase goes, he might just be the last of the really big spenders.

Anything can happen in this year of political surprise. It is possible that ROCKY will catch on or that his rival, RICHARD M. NIXON, may stumble on some grave issue between now and convention time.

★ ★ ★

As of this writing the governor's strenuous and expensive efforts in these midsummer heat waves have not had much of an impact. The delegates just don't seem to be turned on by Rockefeller, at least as yet.

★ ★ ★

The true answer is probably manyfold, but we can't help but think that his on-again off-again display in deciding whether to run or not to run seriously hurt his chances. Some would-be supporters have indicated that this vacillation killed his chances.

Further, his attacks on NIXON, and coming into the home state of ROMNEY and saying he would run while ROMNEY was still a candidate seem to have angered many old-line conservatives.

★ ★ ★

Even the opinion polls have not registered what the New York Governor's camp had expected. The convention is still three weeks away and in this year of political upsets the unexpected could still happen.

★ ★ ★

State Representative Hampton Seeks Re-election

HAMPTON

WILLIAM P. HAMPTON is seeking re-election in the 65th District for the Michigan House of Representatives.

Currently BILL is the majority floor leader and is serving his second two-year term.

This appointment at a relatively young age exemplifies his leadership abilities.

A year or two ago he was honored by being named one of the outstanding young men in the Country by the U.S. Jaycees.

★ ★ ★

We feel that Hampton's judgment is basically sound and that he is a hard-working representative. He is a young man that has taken his responsibilities seriously and has made a fine record in Lansing.

Safety Devices Being Studied for Pedestrians

"Don't go walking without your 'dangle tag'" could become as popular a safety slogan as "Fasten those seat belts."

At any rate, with all the emphasis currently placed on safety measures for automobiles, it was refreshing to see a recent report on similar devices for pedestrians.

★ ★ ★

A study in Indiana by the United States Public Health Service revealed that 25 per cent of the motorists who struck and killed pedestrians at night said they had not seen their victim until after the impact.

★ ★ ★

The study concluded that such incidents can be prevented if pedestrians wear one of the new retro-reflective devices now on the market.

Retro-reflective material is made in various forms: fabrics, press-on tapes, arm bands and "dangle tags."

★ ★ ★

Retro-reflective devices condense and bounce the light that strikes them back to its source regardless of the angle from which the light comes. Research showed that reflectorized clothing can be detected soon enough for drivers to take evasive action at speeds up to 70 miles per hour.

★ ★ ★

So, we may be fast approaching the day of the "dangle tag."

David Lawrence Says:

Fortas Aid to LBJ Questionable

WASHINGTON — A grave constitutional question has been raised before the Senate Judiciary Committee involving the propriety of a Supreme Court justice serving as an unofficial adviser to the President.

LAWRENCE

Up to now it has always been assumed that the doctrine of "separation of powers" meant that the executive and judicial branches of the government were to be kept independent of each other.

Associate Justice Abe Fortas, who has been nominated by President Johnson to be chief justice, acknowledged to the committee that he has participated in White House policy meetings while serving as a member of the Supreme Court.

There have been a few occasions in the past where a justice of the Supreme Court has been useful in international negotiations, but there is no known precedent in which a justice has been asked to advise the president on matters of domestic policy.

In testifying before the Senate committee, Justice Fortas said:

"It is well-known that the President and I have been associated, mostly as lawyer and client for many years. The President has confidence in my ability to analyze the situation and state the pros and cons . . . .

ASKED TO COME

"The President of the United States, since I have been a justice, has done me the honor of indicating in a few instances that I could help and I have been asked to come to the White House to participate at times."

Justice Fortas admitted that he took part in the meetings held by the President during last summer's rioting in Detroit.

Unquestionably there will be debate in the Senate as to the role that Justice Fortas has played as an informal or unofficial adviser to the President while sitting on the bench.

Disputes have occurred when justices have made public speeches commenting on governmental problems. Many of the justices have felt that they have the right to voice their views outside the court on public questions.

A number of justices over the years have visited with and talked with presidents in an informal manner, but there has rarely been any revelation that their advice has been sought on questions of domestic policy.

Certainly in the discussion in the Senate Judiciary Committee and the debate that will ensue in the Senate, the proper role of a Supreme Court justice in his relations with a president of the United States is likely to be fully explored.

Bob Considine Says:

Homey Space Stations Goal of Research Firm

NEW YORK—Steps are being taken to see to it that our manned space stations do not degenerate into orbiting ghettos.

CONSIDINE

The firm of Raymond Loewy William Snaith Inc. — internationally known in the fields of design, planning and research — has been assigned to make the 20-by-40-foot-long boilers habitable for the astronauts who will spend long periods aloft before being returned to earth.

★ ★ ★

The task is awesome.

How can a space station crew of as many as nine men, placed in space for a tour of one year, be made to feel "at home" as their cramped vehicle spins around and around the earth at 17,500 m.p.h.?

What about oxygen, food, sleep, sanitation, constant weightlessness, privacy, recreation, exercise, personality clashes, boredom, medical care, "the odd couple," reading matter, anxiety, and remaining fit enough and sharp enough to weather the blazing ride back to earth?

MODEL BUDGET

Messrs. Loewy and Snaith have been given a modest $99,000 by NASA's George C. Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala., to work out the stupefying questions posed above. The success or failure of the multi-multi-million dollar program could depend on what Loewy/Snaith come up with.

The firm has worked before in the field of habitability, for somewhat similar problems confront the crews of the Maritime Commission and the Navy, particularly in the case of atomic submarines which remain submerged for two months off the Soviet Union and Red China.

But space is something else. Its hazards are without end. In effect, a few square yards of oxygen and nitrogen such as man breathes on earth must be transported to space and maintained there, if the men are going to survive.

The crews must take everything they need along with them; there are no supermarkets in that realm, or gas stations, or package stores.

LITTER OMINOUS

The natural litter of space could be ominous: the meteorites and other space waste could pierce the thin-walled space station and perhaps cripple its life support systems.

To lessen that and other psychological strains, Loewy/Snaith is working on new foods, new foldaway bunks, new color combinations calculated to fight depression, and new ways and means of providing peace and quiet in an area that could easily turn into a flying slum.

Key: Amendment XII, Wallace Votes

By RAYMOND MOLEY

From now until election there will be lively speculation about problems which will emerge should George Wallace prevent either of the major candidates from winning a clear majority of the electoral vote. And, as indicated in more than one column, whoever engages in that speculation had better read over Amendment XII of the U.S. Constitution.

MOLEY

Few Americans have read the amendment and of those very few seem to understand it.

★ ★ ★

An article by David S. Broder in the Washington Post comments on this subject. He refers to a proposal by Prof. Gary Orfield of the University of Virginia. The professor suggests that to avoid the danger and confusion if Wallace should deny either of the major candidates a majority in the electoral college, the following course should be followed:

"Both parties should agree before the election that if normal procedures fail, they will provide the necessary votes in the House to elect the candidate with the largest popular vote."

SOLE JUDGE

But there are no such things as "parties" which could enforce upon the members of the House in such a course of action. Each member of the House would be the sole judge of how his vote would be cast.

If the professor had ever tried to get even 10 of the 435 House members to agree upon anything, he would know that his proposal would be impossible to enforce.

However, no one can know "before" the election who the House members will be, and even if it were possible to get such a pledge from all House candidates, the presidential candidate who would have the "largest popular majority" could not be determined quickly unless there were a landslide.

For the votes are not counted by a national authority. They are counted by state and local authorities, and in a close election, fraud might well prevail in some states. Thus it might be months before the courts could decide the many questions of fraud and error.

MARCH 4 DEADLINE

And if the professor will turn to Amendment XII he will find that if no president is elected by the House by March 4th, the vice president, who will be elected by the Senate, will become president.

And, since the Senate votes for vice president not by states but by individual senators, it will no doubt be the Democratic candidate for vice president who would become president for the next term.

David Broder, in his comments on Prof. Orfield's proposal, fills in some details but follows the idea of electing the candidate with the largest popular vote. He would have the agreement binding upon the House by putting the pledge into the two parties' platforms. But no House member is bound by his party's platform.

★ ★ ★

However, both Orfield and Broder apparently missed what Wallace himself said on a TV program two or three weeks ago. He said that the election "will not go into the House."

SEEK A BARGAIN

This must mean that he will seek a bargain between the election and January with one of the candidates in return for his electors' votes. For he could control those people since he will pick the slates in every state where he will be a candidate.

Thus, it would come down to the judgment and integrity of the two candidates who will probably be Richard Nixon and Hubert Humphrey.

★ ★ ★

Humphrey would be a fool to make such a deal. He knows now that it would be much more likely that the House would elect a Democrat rather than a Republican.

I suggest that speculation take if from here. But be sure before you speculate that you have read carefully the language in Amendment XII.

Our family has been in business in the City of Pontiac since 1920. I was one of those present at the Elks Temple on July 9th to review the downtown plan for Pontiac.

Letter Informs Storeowners About Sales Tax

This is to let storeowners who especially cater to small children know that it is against the law to charge tax when a child makes a purchase that requires no tax, pays for it and then makes another purchase that again requires no tax, but the two together would be taxable. A penny isn't much but to the smaller set it is quite a bit.

'Capture of Pueblo Is Insult to Our Nation'

Since the capture, I have wondered what would happen to the Pueblo and its crew. If ever there was an insult to a nation, we have had it from Korea. Had this occurred during the term of previous presidents, I believe the release of the ship and crew would have been handled immediately. As things are now, an American Navy vessel and crew are being held captives of war by a fourth- or fifth-power nation, which seems to feel secure in its Communistic relations to greater powers that we will do nothing—which is so right.

★ ★ ★

Suppose Mr. Johnson, Mr. Humphrey or any other high official had a son on that ship. Would nothing still be done? I believe we should go get that ship and crew. Probably everything of value on it has already been confiscated.

Question and Answer

Why was there no National Anthem or pledge to the flag at the Waterford Township High School commencement exercises June 12? Thank goodness there was a flag on the platform, but how long before there will be no flag or invocation? I hope this isn't an example of how our country is going to be taken over by Communist powers.

MRS. EDWARD POWELL JR.
WATERFORD

REPLY

Asst. Principal, Mr. Merritt says that while these are included in other school activities it has never been the custom to have the National Anthem or a pledge to the flag at commencement exercises and no one has ever complained about it. He said, however, that if enough parents request it, these can be added to future commencement programs.

Strictest Controls

Los Angeles Times

Reacting to the overwhelming demand of the people for protection, President Johnson has proposed the strictest gun controls yet presented to Congress.

"Within the hour, in some city," said the President, "a gunshot will ring out. And someone will fall dead or wounded.

★ ★ ★

"Unless we act to prevent it, reckless and wild gunfire will be heard again — tomorrow, the day after and all the days to follow."

To prevent, or at least reduce, the Great American Slaughter, Mr. Johnson urged that Congress require the registration of all firearms and licensing of all gun owners.

We now believe that registration and licensing plus a mailorder sale ban represent the minimal safeguards needed in a gun threatened society. The latest appalling statistics indicate the magnitude of the threat and of the need for immediate restraint:

Guns were involved in 7,700 murders last year, an increase of nearly 20 per cent over 1966. The 55,000 aggravated assaults with guns in 1967 and the 71,000 armed robberies also represent tragically large increases over the previous year.

Total deaths by guns annually exceed 20,000 — including murders, suicides and accidental shootings — with 100,000 gun injuries recorded last year.

As Congress moves hesitantly to restrain this carnage, state legislatures and local governments are showing a greater concern for public safety.

Chicago city officials found that their registration law has already turned up 357,598 guns — enough to equip 20 Army divisions. And in New Jersey, a state licensing law took deadly weapons away from 1,500 disqualified persons during a brief period of time.

★ ★ ★

State and local legislative action is highly desirable and indicates the degree of public sentiment for controlling firearms. But the nation will not be protected unless Congress acts to impose national registration and a nationwide standard for licensing.

Map Shake-Up

Dallas Star

Political observers, disoriented by the mystifying turns of events in American politics this year, can take heart: They are not alone in having to make adjustments. So are geographers.

★ ★ ★

Greenland, at least its northern tip, is not where it is supposed to be — according to most maps, anyway. A team of polar explorers recently returned from the northern wastes of Greenland reported that Cape Morris Jessup is actually 12 miles farther east and one mile farther north than is shown on maps. Moreover, the explorers discovered it is an island, not a peninsula.

★ ★ ★

The new findings, made with the latest navigational instruments, are being checked by U. S. Army Map Service.

Pending further study, the apparent discrepancy could necessitate a complete revision of all maps of Greenland's entire northern coast, which is important because of the extensive nuclear submarine operations under the polar icecap.

★ ★ ★

It appears that not only some pet political theories are due to be shaken this year. Some maps may be, too.

Czechs Defy Reds on Liberalization

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Czechoslovakia's new Communist leaders defied the Kremlin and other orthodox Communist governments Tuesday night and said the nation will continue on its liberal course, with the full support of the people.

The Czechoslovak Communist party presidium met to discuss a letter from the Warsaw conference of the Soviet Union, East Germany, Poland, Hungary and Bulgaria. Their leaders met Sunday and Monday because the Poles and East Germans fear the liberal ferment will spread to their countries, and the Soviet leadership also is uneasy.

* * *

The Czechoslovak presidium said it will prepare a reply in the next few days. In an interim communique, it said it was aware that opponents "are active and trying to misuse the democratization process against the party and against socialism."

Alexander Dubcek, the new chief of the Czechoslovak party, refused to attend the Warsaw meeting and proposed instead that he and his colleagues hold a series of bilaterial meetings with the various allied Communist leaders.

'REVISIONISM'

Reliable sources said the letter from Warsaw demanded that the Czechoslovak leaders attend a Communist summit conference within two weeks to justify their program, the New York Times reported in a dispatch from Prague. The report said the letter charged that the policies of the Dubcek regime had given rise to "revisionism" in the party and had raised the threat of a counterrevolution by forces friendly to "imperialism."

The letter reportedly made one concession to Prague's new leaders—agreement for separate meetings with the leaders of the five nations before the joint meeting, with all the conferences to be in Prague.

The Czechoslovak presidium's communique said it agrees in principle to a consultative meeting of a group of countries but wanted preliminary and separate consultations.

Printing Behind Schedule, but Primary Ballots Should Be Ready

LANSING (AP)—Ballot printing for Michigan's primary election is running behind schedule, but printers and election officials are confident now they can be ready for the Aug. 6 vote.

Although many county clerks were unable to deliver absentee ballots to local clerks today, the legal deadline, most were confident they could do so by the end of the week.

★ ★ ★

Ingham County (Lansing area) where a federal court suit over the county supervisor distributing plan was not resolved until Monday, was running behind much of the state.

In Wayne County, election officials, with one wary eye on the State Supreme Court, continued to print their absentee ballots and hoped to begin delivery of Detroit's 90,000 today and to have all their local units supplied by the weekend.

REPEATED DELAYS

An avalanche of court suits, coupled with last-minute legislative action on several election bills this year, caused repeated last week ruled that Sheriff Rodelays and more gray hairs for man S. Gribbs could have an incounty clerks.

The Legislature created three new seats on the State Court of Appeals, 150 new District Court judgeships and several new Circuit Court seats, while refusing to overturn a 1967 law extending the terms of township trustees.

At the same time, the Supreme Court ruled unconstitutional two new laws which governed positioning of candidates' names on the ballot and gave incuments the top spots.

The new requirement of equal population districts for county supervisors also resulted in a flood of litigatin which has only recently been resolved.

DISPUTES SETTLED

It was not until late last week that the Supreme Court cleared the way for Wayne County ballot printing by deciding three disputes dealing with positions and designations of candidates on the ballots.

One of the cases, involving a dispute over the race for Wayne County sheriff, is back before the Supreme Court, which is considering a motion for a rehearing.

In that case, the high court cumbency designation on the ballot and that challenger Norman J. Grubbs could run in the Democratic race.

The State Constitution forbids ballot designations except where candidates for the same office have similar names. Former Sheriff Peter Buback, who also is running as a Democrat, sought in court to force Grubbs onto the Republican ticket and thus eliminate Gribbs' designation.

Buback's attorney, Joseph Louisell of Detroit, petitioned the court for a rehearing of its decision in favor of Gribbs.

★ ★ ★

Grubbs originally filed in the Republican race, but later was switched to the Democratic column at his request.

A change in the court's mind would give Wayne County elections officials the choice of juggling great numbers of stickers or printing their ballots over again.

"If they change their minds about this, I'm going to leave town," joked harried Wayne County Clerk Edgar Branigan.

Branigan said employes of Safran Printing Co., which prints Wayne County's ballots, "have been working 12 hours a day. They worked until midnight Saturday and they worked 12 hours Sunday."

"We're working 12 hours a day, six days a week," said Edward Stoops of Doubleday Printing Co., Kalamazoo, which prints ballots for half a dozen counties. "The Lord only knows when we'll get them finished, but we're pushing them."

Branigin and Stoops agreed with state elections officials, however, that all paper and machine ballots can be ready in time to hold the primary on schedule Aug. 6.

★ ★ ★

"We're going to be pushed, but we'll have them there," Stoops said. "We've got to."

Rocky Try Too Much Too Late, Says Nixon

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, terming the presidential campaign of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller as "too much too late," takes his own race to Maryland today for a talk with delegates and Gov. Spiro T. Agnew.

Nixon has dinner tonight at the governor's mansion with a man who once sought to boost the Rockefeller cause but now speaks warmly of the former vice president.

★ ★ ★

Agnew, who as favorite son leads a 26-vote delegation, now is viewed as likely to join the Nixon camp when the time arrives for a decision on the Republican nominee.

★ ★ ★

Nixon, in a news conference at Philadelphia Tuesday, said he believes he has the votes for nomination.

MAY BE SWAYED

He said some convention delegates, but not many, may be influenced by Rockefeller's poll, with which the New York governor hopes to prove himself the strongest potential candidate.

"I think he has to do, shall we say, everything at this point to try to win the nomination," Nixon said of Rockefeller. "He apparently believes that spending a great deal on public relations, having a lot of national television, having a lot of newspaper advertisement, a massive direct mail effort to 2 million voters, and polls might turn the tide.

"I don't think so," Nixon said. "I respect the governor as one who has campaigned effectively when he was behind before. But I think this is one of those cases, I think it's too much too late."

At a meeting in Philadelphia with more than 25 Negro and white people concerned with city problems, Nixon said he has enough convention votes so he doesn't have to consider making a deal with a prospective presidential running mate.

NO DEALS NEEDED

"I don't have to make a deal. I have the votes I think."

★ ★ ★

Jobs, education, housing and race relations were the major topics of that two hour meeting at which aides said Nixon did more listening than talking.

Nixon was said to have told the Philadelphia group that the handling of race relations in the United States is the major issue that will face the next president apart from international matters of peace and war. Nixon said it will be that issue at home which determines if the next president is a great one or a failure.

★ ★ ★

He said that as president he would use the prestige and persuasion of the office to deal with racism, and would use the White House as a pulpit in an effort to mobilize the good will existing among the Negroes and the whites.

'SWINGING GUY'

Robert Ellsworth, a Nixon campaign manager, quoted Gus Lacey, a Negro who was present at the meeting, as telling Nixon: "you're a pretty swinging guy."

★ ★ ★

But Stanley Branch of Philadelphia's Black Coalition said he was not satisfied with Nixon's response to alleged white racism. "It got sidetracked," he said. "I did not get an answer."

House Leaders See September Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democratic leaders agreed with President Johnson Tuesday that it probably will be necessary for Congress to return after next month's political conventions to deal with business not concluded by the Aug. 3 adjournment deadline.

House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., told newsmen after the President's weekly breakfast meeting with Democratic congressional leaders he thought it would be difficult to adjourn before the conventions, adding that a return session was "highly probable."

★ ★ ★

Johnson expressed the hope that Congress would return if it cannot deal with "essential problems" before Aug. 3, saying "vitally needed" legislation still is pending.

House Majority Leader Carl Albert, D-Okla., joined McCormack in favoring a post convention session, suggesting it begin in September.

Referring to a suggestion that Congress meet between the two conventions, Albert said, "I think it would be pretty futile."

House GOP leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan also said that if a second session were needed, it should not begin until after the conventions. He added, however, that Congress could still wind up its business before the deadline.

★ ★ ★

Johnson renewed his plea for Congress to return to a post-convention session prior to an informal talk to 85 representatives of the National Future Farmers of America in the White House Rose Garden.

TRYING OUT DESK—Heart transplant patient Everett C. Thomas (left) sits at a desk at Medical Center National Bank in Houston, where he will begin work in two weeks. Looking on is bank president William E. Harrell.

Starts Houston Job Aug. 1

Heart Recipient Plans to Work

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Everett C. Thomas, who 10 weeks ago received a transplanted heart, is eager to begin work shortly as a trust consultant for a Houston bank.

"The quicker I get busy, the quicker I'm going to get well," says the world's first heart recipient planning a return to employment.

Thomas, 47, of Phoenix, Ariz., will start work about Aug. 1 for the Medical Center National Bank near St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital, where he underwent the transplant operation May 3.

"The heart transplant doesn't have any effect on my mind," Thomas said Tuesday. "It may slow my body down but if I can sit at a desk, do my studying and do my advising, this is fine."

WILL HELP BANK

Thomas, an accountant who administered a trust fund before undergoing surgery, will help the bank apply for trust powers.

"They have a need and I have a talent, and we will try to put the two together," he said.

★ ★ ★

His wife, Helen, and two of their three sons, Paul, 17, and Carl, 12, have found an apartment near the hospital. Thomas is expected to leave St. Luke's shortly before he begins work.

Their other son, Mark, 20, will remain in Arizona for college, he said.

AN EXAMPLE

Thomas said he wants to "be an example of what a transplant can do, to encourage people to realize that the transplant is not a strange thing."

★ ★ ★

"But it's just an interim thing," he said. "Just like you have a broken arm. You break your arm; you go back to work when it's healed."

★ ★ ★

Thomas "will not only be useful to the bank with his knowledge, but he will also be able to lead a useful life with his new heart," said Bank president William E. Harrell.

★ ★ ★

Two other heart recipients, Louis John Fierro of Elmont, N.Y., and George Henry DeBord of Helotes, Tex., continue to progress at St. Luke's, a spokesman said.

It Was Worth It

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — A parking ticket and the $1 fine was received Tuesday by the municipal-county clerk's office with this note on the back of the ticket: "Hi! It was worth it. Got a dream of a hat on sale."

Vietcong Girl Tells of Hardship

SAIGON (AP) — The slim Vietnamese girl said she was a tough Vietcong guerrilla six months ago, living in the open, marching through the night and firing deadly mortars at South Vietnamese government positions.

Eighteen-year-old Tran-thi Ho Le giggled as American newsmen asked today about a boyfriend. She replied that the Vietcong didn't allow any hanky panky between their men and women fighters, and only once had men chased after her.

ESCAPED

They were government troops, and they weren't trying to court her.

Ho Le said she and the other 12 women in her mortar squad escaped when some male comrades drew the pursuers away from the girls. She added that was the only time the pinup squad needed help from the men.

The Saigon government said Ho Le surrendered under the Chieu Hoi, or Open Arms program. She appeared at a news conference at the national press center.

Ho Le said she joined the Vietcong in 1965, when she was 15, after they convinced her that the American "imperialists" were slowly taking over South Vietnam.

THREATS BY FATHER

Her father did not agree with her and threatened to burn down the family home and kill himself if she left, she said. But despite this threats, which he never carried out, the girl said she left with guerrilla cadres for a mountain hideout near the Cambodian border for training.

She was first trained to be a nurse and later taught to use firearms. She quickly found out that Vietcong women are expected to handle weapons as well as the men.

★ ★ ★

After the brief training period, she said she was assigned as a field nurse in Long An Province, just south of Saigon. Later she was sent to another camp for artillery training.

For two weeks, Ho Le and 12 other girls were taught to operate an 82mm mortar. Then they were given two mortars and sent back to Long An Province.

Ho Le said her biggest campaign was the Tet offensive in February. She said her squad made several mortar attacks in Long An Province.

LOST CAUSE

She defected to the government side, she said, because after three years of sacrifice and hardship she decided she was fighting for a lost cause. She complained of a shortage of food, and said when the squad's meager rations of rice and salt ran low, the girls ate leaves.

Ho Le means "Lake of Tears" in Vietnamese.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — Money troubles are giving East St. Louis the blues. For example:

The Mobil Oil Co. has requested immediate payment on a five-month old gasoline bill for the city's police, fire and garbage vehicles. If payment is not made the city's credit card, $16,000 in arrears, will be revoked.

★ ★ ★

City officials are trying to find money from an available account to pay the gasoline bill and keep the vehicles running. But just in case, they instructed each driver to get a full tank of gas while the credit card is still good.

The credit card crisis is an illustration of the city's over-all financial situation.

PAYROLL DEFICIT

Last week, because of a $60,000 payroll deficit, policemen and other municipal employes were given wage consignments redeemable at local banks instead of pay checks.

The banks have helped keep the city going since it started operating in the red in 1951. Now 38 cents of every city dollar goes to paying off funding bonds, one official said.

★ ★ ★

George Washnis, administrative aide to Mayor Alvin Fields, says the city is in for "more lean years" because it does not get enough state aid and its tax base is dwindling.

Raising taxes is hard to do, he said—"East St. Louis has poor people, 3,500 families on public aid, another 1,000 on relief.

EXISTENCE PERILED

"We hope to have new homes and revenues in a few years, but now we must find ways just to exist. We've got plenty of federal programs coming in but all of them mean we have to put up some money, which we don't have."

Many in the city of 84,000 say Field's political organization is responsible for the city's financial straits. The administration counters by saying the city was broke before it took over.

The school district is deeply in debt. To operate, it had to borrow $1 million from a school bond issue that was intended for new construction. Teachers refuse to show up for work and demand raises. It happens every year.

Two industrial communities near East St. Louis' boundary have a combined valuation of about $90 million but less than 500 persons. Washnis says maybe someday the state will pass legislation making it easier for East St. Louis to annex Sauget, formerly known as Monsanto, Ill., and National City, site of national stockyards. It would offset the loss of businesses that keep moving out and homes that are being taken by city.

Last fall former Sen. Paul Douglas brought his Commission on Urban Problems to the highway projects. Some of those homes were valued at only $3,000.

A 60 per cent unemployment rate among the approximately 50,000 Negroes, poor housing and needed services the city is unable to provide were listed as causes of what Douglas described as among the worst urban problems in the nation.

Inkster OKs Black Program

INKSTER (AP) — The Inkster City Council voted unanimously Tuesday night to meet the demands of an inner city Negro group calling for a three-point program designed to help avert trouble this summer.

The group, said spokesman Darnell Summers, demanded a black culture program in the city recreation center "to instill a sense of dignity and pride in black people."

★ ★ ★

A second demand was that the council look into alleged police harassment. "They send a ridiculous number of police officers into the black community for a minor cause such as a traffic accident," said Summers. "It gets to look like we're not being protected but occupied."

L'Anse Aid Needs Sifted

L'ANSE (UPI) — Five federal agencies have begun the task of determining what aid will be needed by this Upper Peninsula community in recovering from the effects of extensive flooding Monday.

Rep. Phil Ruppe, R-Mich., said today that both the Small Business Administration and Department of Agriculture had assured him disaster teams would be sent in to the Sturgeon Valley area to survey damage.

★ ★ ★

A heavy thunderstorm sweeping in from the Keweenaw Bay late Monday dumped more than four inches of water on L'Anse and nearby Baraga. At one point, water stood seven feet deep in the business district of L'Anse.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers was standing by to begin dredging operations and repair damage to the L'Anse harbor, located at the southern end of Kewenaw Bay.

Ruppe also said the Office of Emergency Planning and the Economic Development Administration were notified of the flooding and promised an investigation to determine what aid might be needed.

No injuries were reported as a result of the flooding, but water supplies for L'Anse and Baraga were contaminated and power supplies were disrupted for several hours.

Seeing what their contribution of $1400 is doing at the Drayton Plains Nature Center was the object of a visit paid by members of the Countryside Improvement Association. Organized since 1911, they depleted their savings account to contribute $1000 to the capital fund and the rest for the summer program. Mrs. Russell H. Meyer, Pine Lake Road, West Bloomfield Township and Mrs. A. R. Booth of Dakota Circle (second and third from left), watch Ranger Girl Scout, Anita Pickett, David K Drive, add wood shavings to a trail. Manning the wheelbarrow is Herley Moore, summer program instructor at the center.

Another Countryside Improvement Association member, Mrs. Harold Welch of Westacres, wants to be more than an onlooker during her visit to the Drayton Plains Nature Center. Charles Deacon of Denby Drive obligingly fills the wheelbarrow as Steve Cornish, also Denby Drive (second from left) and George Ball, Fortress Drive, just watch. Plant identification excursions are held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from 2 to 4 p.m.

Fund Raisers Are Necessary to Charities

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I just picked up your column concerning icy receptions for fund raisers. I am one who gives fund-raisers an icy reception because I see no need for a different drive every week. Both campaign money and volunteer time are wasted; it's time these charities get together in one medical fund, with one drive a year, just as community agencies have combined.

★ ★ ★

An article in the Saturday Review indicated that up to 33 per cent of the funds received by these national organizations is used in fund-raising, and that is not what citizens contribute their money for! If we mothers refuse to serve as volunteers and refuse to contribute until these organizations combine fund-raising forces, perhaps we can force more efficient operation, at least in fund-raising. — Mildred M.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. M.: Imagine the plight of most of our charities and publicly-supported institutions if they were deprived of the services of volunteers! You may object to the distribution of funds, the time wasted, and the annoyance of those called upon, but refusal to serve at all is hardly the way to bring about improvements.

★ ★ ★

Many charities are combined, but there are valid reasons why others may not be, and they continue to serve, and to need support. I cannot condone your suggestion that mothers refuse to offer their services, and I shall continue to applaud the unselfishness and dedication shown by those who do.

It Just Doesn't Pay to Listen If the Old Male Ego Is Weak

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — It was an ordinary luncheon meeting for the office working ladies at their nearby quick service grill and beanery, the "In-and-Out Club."

They were hen-pecking their problems as usual. A curious male bystander who happened to be munching his hamburger and drinking grisly diet milk alone nearby, was somewhat bemused to hear these typical examples of current female prose in the industrial arena:

★ ★ ★

"I would rather stay single forever than marry any of the available jerks in my place."

"He isn't a bad guy to work for if you don't mind spending eight hours a day with a person who wears a clip-on 75-cent bow tie and whose mind falls apart at 9:02 a.m."

"I would describe him as an employer who is just finding out he is tied alive to a wife he doesn't want to be found dead with."

"When he uses a word I don't understand, I simply cross my legs — and he starts the sentence all over again."

"His basic problem is that his wife does understand him — and so do I."

"Which one of you girls spilled her daiquiri in my peanut butter sandwich? It makes it taste like damp-ugh!"

"Watch out for Maude. She always orders a third one because her boss has four at lunch — and that means she doesn't have to worry about him being able to smell her breath after lunch."

". . . and this one here is a picture of my ex-boy friend, the one who got away. Don't you think he has a cute forehead?"

"I hate to go to business and have the kids come home to an empty house. But if I don't go to business, how can we afford a color television set, and you know how important color television is to the modern child."

"This waiter thinks he is so terribly clever. If he belonged to me, oh, would I pin his smart aleck tongue down."

"Mabel . . . Mabel, honey . . . don't look so blue. You were right and he was wrong. Anyway, none of them are worth it."

"If I had to describe him in so many words, I'd have to say that he had the manners of an angel, but the varnish in his mouth was hardly worth the tarnish on his ring."

"I don't care how much trouble men are, I'd rather argue with one of them than to spend my life cutting up beef kidneys for a cat."

"Well, if the rest of you girls think we should have another round, heaven knows I don't want to be the only kill-joy in the crowd."

"Yeah, don't look at the table to the right now. It's the homely guy who is staring at us. Pretend you don't notice. Maybe the guy next to him — he's better looking — will turn this way. I think he's playing hard to get."

"Well, girls, shall those of us who are free go to an educational program this evening, or meet at somebody's house and take off our shoes and have fun?"

Lynn Betsy Brookins and John E. Seidelman exchanged vows Saturday evening during a candlelight ceremony in Holy Communion Lutheran Church, Detroit. Their parents are the F. Richard Brookins of Detroit and the John G. Seidelmans of Ridge Road, White Lake Township. The newlyweds will make their home in Ypsilanti following a honeymoon trip to the Poconos Mountains.

If Girl Doesn't Dig Profession

Abby: 'Bury Your Relationship'

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 and am going with a very pretty girl who is also 18. It is getting serious between us, and now I have a problem.

ABBY

My father is a mortician, and that is what I want to be.

My girl says she feels "funny" about my going into that profession, and unless I go into something else, it is all over between us. Abby, the mortuary business has been very good to our family, and I have never considered going into any other profession. Besides, one day I will inherit this business, and I couldn't do any better in anything else.

I have never liked a girl as much as I like this one and I hate to lose her, so what should I do?

MORTICIAN'S SON

DEAR SON: If your girl doesn't dig your chosen profession, it's time to bury your relationship.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: When a friend invited me to her home for a dinner party, I knew it was the date of her wedding anniversary. But since she made no mention of the occasion, neither did I.

I surprised her with a gift when I arrived. She took it, thanked me, and quietly put it out of sight. Not one word was mentioned about my gift OR the occasion all evening. (Obviously, no one else had remembered it.)

I was hurt and disappointed because I had written a poem and enclosed it with my gift, and it would have pleased me had she opened my gift and read my poem to her guests.

A few days later I received a note from her thanking me for the gift and poem, but it didn't make up for the hurt I felt that evening.

Don't you think the hostess showed extremely bad manners in ignoring my gift the night I brought it?

HURT

DEAR HURT: Jonathan Swift put it this way: "Good manners is the art of making those people easy with whom we converse. Whoever makes the fewest people uneasy is the best bred in the company." I think your hostess showed extremely GOOD manners, not bad.

DEAR ABBY: Tell that mother of the 14-year-old girl with sideburns not to fret. I am a 14-year-old girl with a mother who has a MUSTACHE. She is 39 and she knows there are many things on the market to bleach or remove that horrible looking fuzz as she is a modern, good-looking woman. But she thinks a mustache on a lady is SEXY, and my father agrees with her.

The kids who know my mother all say to me, "Aw, go shave your mother's mustache." They think it's funny. I think it's awful. Print this. Maybe she'll take the hint and take it off.

EMBARRASSED

British Styles Easy to Wear, Show Oriental Touch

LONDON (AP) — The first two autumn and winter collections in the season's fashion shows here—Mattli and Hardy Amies— signaled one clear message: don't be caught in a mini-skirt this fall.

* * *

In fact the less flesh you show the more stylish you will be.

Skirts were never more than an inch or two above the knee, sleeves reached tightly to the wrist—where they sometimes belled out gently—and heads were hugged in fur turbans and berets.

TIMELESS

Mattli's prettiest evening dress, in fact, could have been worn by a romantic young woman any time in the last 40 years. Made from yards of soft white jersey, it fitted quietly over the bodice, fell into a cummerbund, and from there dropped into scores of small, billowing folds.

* * *

But Mattli had another mood for the evening—Eastern, which shows signs of a trend:

- Harem-style evening trousers in multi-colored lame,
- Sequins as close to fish scales on top, belt and sandals of silver,
- A frothy chiffon turban in the same tropical sea colors of the whole outfit;
- Prints and shades of blue and green.

Hardy Amies repeated the same Eastern mood in his evening clothes. In fact, even with their sharp, crisp day clothes; the models wore scarves over their faces.

His evening mood ranged from "Schererazade" Oriental culottes with those same tropical sea colors, beaded top, thick ostrich feather sleeves to "Samarkand," a billowing Turkish "tent," pulling in toward the ankles, glittering in green and beige chiffon brocade.

* * *

His funniest outfit was a dress pretty enough for Doris Day—in silver and gold, but which pulled up to reveal white satin knickerbockers underneath.

Amies, in fact, luxuriated in glittering colors for evening, showing a coat and dress in beige and gold brocade. Another coat dress was aptly named "Bullion," which had a bodice glittering with steely sequins, bunched close and piled high.

EASY TO WEAR

All the day clothes looked remarkably easy to wear—Mattli favoring bright colors and sharply patterned heavy tweeds, Amies preferring his colors understated.

Gray, conspicuously absent from fashion for so long, is back in several neat coats.

Coat dresses and coats themselves were trim and demure, though Mattli's demurest, which would have been fine on a smart schoolgirl, opened to show a luxurious fur lining. Collars were restrained, waists defined.

Late September vows are planned by Vickie Lynn Kurtz and Ronald Leon Boyd. The bride elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Kurtz of Pauline Street. Her fiance, a senior at the Detroit Institute of Technology, is the son of the Norman J. Boyds of Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Neiter of Pappy Lane, Avon Township announce the engagement and spring wedding of their daughter, Linda Susan, to David Paul Lubonski. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Lubonski of Utica. The bride elect is a graduate of Elkhart Institute of Technology, Elkhart, Ind.

The engagement of their daughter, Cynthia Jean, to James F. Volant is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Collins of Lapeer Road, Orion Township. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are the Francis Volants of Tanview Drive, Oxford Township.

Family Invited

A family picnic at Hawthorne Park Thursday is slated for Welcome Rebekah Lodge No. 246. The event begins at 6 p.m.

Take the family's pajama coats to the sewing machine and stitch down the front facings. This enables them to iron much faster and easier. When you do your own sewing, stitch these fronts down while you are making the garments.

Eliminate Job of Glove Hunting

There won't be so much time spent in hunting lost gloves if you help the small child to hang onto his by sewing one side of a snap-fastener to the cuff of each glove.

Then the gloves may be snapped together when not in use. This keeps them from becoming separated.

Look Ahead When Considering Purchase

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley:

We've been trying to make up our minds whether to buy a home this year or continue to rent. Our friends are about evenly divided pro and con, which is no help at all. Since we're facing an increase in rent, we want to decide now which way we'll come out best financially.

MARY FEELEY

Our savings would cover a down payment.

Who gets the best break in the long run, the home owner or the renter? Will you give us your opinion?

J. C. V., East Coast

Dear J. C. V.:

To give you a snappy answer: it all depends. You can set up a stack of figures to show that the home owner builds up an equity and gets a break in tax savings, while the renter just gets an increase in rent.

But the renter points out smugly that property taxes and maintenance costs double and triple before the new furniture is seriously scratched. And that the so-called "savings" in tax deductions are eaten up by fuel bills, insurance, garbage collection, water bill and mending the roof.

Let's say, for instance, that the home owner is paying some $800 in interest on the mortgage this year — in addition to $330 in property taxes. With an income of $8,000 to $12,000, he's in the 22 per cent tax bracket.

So he can claim a tax saving of $248.60, or $20.70 a month. What happens to the $20.70 every month? How much does it cost to heat the house per year? Maybe $250 or $300? Can he count on low-cost upkeep?

When the home owner cites the fact that real estate values are increasing steadily, the renter can point that the cost of renting has risen noticeably less than that of owning a home over the past 10 years. Statistics show a 14.2 per cent increase in national figures for rental of homes over the period since 1957-59, while home ownership costs during the same period rose 23.8 per cent.

* * *

Some people can show you on paper that the smartest way to operate is to buy a long-term, low-payment mortgage arrangement, and use surplus cash to invest in common stocks—the point being that the investment profits over the long haul far outweigh the interest charges. Of course, there's the other side of the picture: it just might not work out that way!

It may prove to have been a lot smarter to pay off the mortgage in a reasonably short period of time, sell the house—and enjoy the gain realized in an inflationary market.

All of which gets you right back to the basic question: are you a homeowner at heart? If you are, you get the most breaks from living under your own roof. Dollar for dollar, it's invest in common stocks—the point being that the investment a better gamble.

Pair Weds in Evening

Susan Diane Conklin and Arthur M. Jackson were married Friday in an evening ceremony at St. James United Methodist Church.

The bride wore a gown of lace and satin over white linen and completed her ensemble with a bouffant veil. White carnations and yellow baby roses comprised her bouquet.

Maid of honor was Janice M. Conklin, sister of the bride and Roy L. Trador was best man.

Following a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Conklin of East Beverly Street, the newlyweds left for a honeymoon to Mackinac Island.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Larkin Jackson of East Princeton Street.

Tell of New Son

Mr. and Mrs. George Paulson (Judith Yeager) announce the birth of a son, George Thomas Jr. on July 2. Grandparents are the Reinold Yeagers of East Howard Street and the George Quiggs of Union Lake.

Keep your hair fresh smelling by regular shampoos. A drop of your favorite perfume or toilet water in the rinse water will do wonders for feminine sweetness.

Vows Said in Arkansas

Sandra M. Neeson and Airman 1/C Charles R. Barnett USAF were married recently in Blytheville, Ark. Mrs. Donald Reynolds of Hayti, Mo. attended the bride as matron of honor with bridesmaid, Susan Womack.

★ ★ ★

A gown of white nylon highlighted with lace accents was chosen by the daughter of Mrs. Bobby Cone of Cedar Lawn Street and Vern Neeson of Oxford. Her flowers were green and white carnations.

★ ★

Airman 1/C Marvin Knapp stood as best man for the son of the William Barnetts of Henderson, Ky. The newlyweds will reside in Blytheville.

Cotton combines more desirable characteristics than any other fiber — natural or man-made.

A wedding date has been set by Carole Ann Genack and Seldon E. Taylor. Their parents are the Bernard J. Genacks of Royal Oak, and the Seldon I. Taylors of Sylvan Lake.

SEW SIMPLE
By Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice Farmer,

I am very curious about a previous article you wrote when you stated corduroy should be made with the nap running up. I have always done it the opposite way and thought it should be smooth when you ran your hand down. Is there really any difference?

Mrs. H. T.

Dear Mrs. H. T.:

The most important rule of all to remember when working with pile fabrics such as velvet or corduroy is to cut all the pieces of the pattern in the SAME direction. If you don't, it will look as different as night and day, and nothing can be done about it.

Most professionals agree there are benefits in cutting these pile fabrics against the grain. This means that as you smooth your hand from the top of your garment to the bottom, it will feel slightly rough and leave a mark as you stroke it. You will achieve a much deeper, richer color to the fabric, and the pile won't flatten out nearly as fast. These two are very important advantages when using this kind of fabric.

TAILOR TRIX WINNERS

Mrs. Margaret Lemieux, St. Regis Falls, N.Y., is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her following sewing tip.

"The problem of the woman with the oversized waistline or the one who changes from day to day, has been solved by me in the following manner. In a two-piece dress or a separate skirt, I find that if I sew the button on the waistband with elastic thread, the skirt will have a comfortable 'give' to the waistline."

Dear Eunice Farmer,

I have a quantity of old patterns with the out-of-fashion puffy sleeves. How can I go about using some of these good old simple line patterns and yet bring the sleeves up to date?

Mrs. W.O.S.

Dear Mrs. W. O. S.:

I would suggest purchasing a pattern with the kind of sleeve you prefer. Now, you must cut the armhole as well as the sleeve from this new pattern. Simply match up the center front as well as the shoulder of both patterns and cut the armhole from the new pattern. Do the same for the bodice back. This is a relatively simple change and can be done by amateur seamstresses with lots of courage. Good luck!

Polly's Pointers

To Block an Afghan

DEAR POLLY — I want to tell Mary that I just finished an afghan and the instructions that came with the package suggested the following method for blocking (I am going to do mine on the spare room bed but a pad could be put on a table or the floor): Afghan should be stretched and pinned (with rust-proof pins) wrong-side up and the pins about an inch apart.

Gently stretch to the given measurements. Lay a damp cloth over the afghan, pass a hot iron gently and lightly over the cloth, allowing the steam to pass through the material. Do not let the weight of the iron rest or press on it at any time. Leave the afghan pinned down until dry.—MRS. C. G.

DEAR POLLY — and Mary — I find that if you dampen the crocheted afghan and then stretch it on the curtain stretchers, which have been set and laid flat, the afghan comes out looking like it has been professionally done. — LUCILLE, A FAITHFUL READER

DEAR POLLY — When my husband's white dress shirts begin to fray, I hoard them until several accumulate, then take an afternoon to make myself some cool, low-necked, sleeveless blouses to wear with shorts. Cut the neck fronts to one-inch above the second button.

Cut the neck backs to one-inch below the yoke. Cut the sleeves one-inch down from the armholes. Bind the neck with doubled-fold bias binding that you have cut from the sleeves. Use the zipper foot on your machine.

★ ★ ★

To make quicker work of the armholes, you can clip the curves, turn under the cut sleeves and press. Stitch at least two rows, with a longer stitch, on top of the factory stitching. Cut the tail off straight and hem or leave as is. These do not cost a penny and you can't have too many.—PATTY

STUCKMEYER-BRANDAU

A ceremony in Faith Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights, Ill. united Alice Marie Brandau and Rev. C. David Stuckmeyer. Parents of the couple, later feted in the church parlors, are the Wilbur Brandaus of Arlington Heights and Rev. and Mrs. Richard Stuckmeyer of Menominee Road. The bride's floor length gown of peau de soie featured Venetian lace and her shoulder length veil of illusion was secured by a spray of matching lace daisies. Barbara Magnuson and James Stuckmeyer were honor attendants for the pair who left on a honeymoon of the New England states.

STENQUIST-HAGY

Friday evening vows in Kings Lutheran Church, Lake Orion, united Nancy Jean Hagy and Harold William Stenquist Jr. Parents of the couple are the senior Eugene F. Hagys of Manitou Lane, Orion Township and the senior Harold W. Stenquists of Indianwood Road, Independence Township. Chantilly lace accented a gown and petal headpiece for the bride attended by Sandra Gallmeyer. David Stenquist was his brother's best man. Following a reception in the church parlors, the couple left on a honeymoon to Sandusky, Ohio.

If your custards have a way of turning out spongy because of little air bubbles, it is the result of beating the eggs too well. The trick is to simply stir in the eggs until well blended, but be careful not to beat until foamy.

Case No. G-503

Grandstanders Grow Up

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE G-503: Dr. Lehman Wendell is a famous dental surgeon who, after more than 50 years in practice, now writes humorous articles for Cal Dental Journal.

DR. CRANE

Back in 1901, he was a student at Augustana College.

He had four buddies who stuck together as pals. Please contrast their efforts to shock their elders, with the present behavior of many similar college groups.

To gain some attention, they decided to form a quartet, with the fifth boy as their press agent.

And they did gain enough lime light that they were invited to sing in churches throughout the Quard-City area.

Then they even performed for college chapel.

But they decided to cause a commotion, so they stained their broad collars a deep red and had them ironed with plenty of starch so they stood out like beacons.

All the students stampeded thereafter to wear similar bright red, starched collars! Most college youth are always sheeplike!

This shocked the sedate faculty but thrilled the other students.

When this form of social grandstanding lost its effect, they hit upon another stunt.

One of the boys suggested they all shave their heads and thus show up at chapel exercises en masse as total baldheads.

They did.

The rest of the students tittered.

The faculty frowned and deprived them of all dating privileges for several months.

Then they looked around for some other devilment.

"Isn't there something we can do," they asked themselves, "that has never been done before at Augustana?"

One of the group said he was heading downtown to a sporting goods store so he'd see if he could find some new game, suitable for five players.

Upon his return, he told them he had found a notice about a new form of recreation, developed by a YMCA Secretary, which was called "basketball."

★ ★ ★

So they decided to chip in and buy a basketball; then challenge five other students to a game.

Apparently, Augustana College was thus the first college in America to start basketball.

And it all began because of this inherent desire of five young fellows to be "different" and to shock their elders!

"Dr. Crane," you may wonder, "what became of those five grandstanders?"

Well, Dr. Wendell became a topnotch Minneapolis dental surgeon.

Another boy became a talented musician and music teacher.

The third became a prominent American physician.

The fourth entered the business and became outstanding therein.

The fifth boy went into the ministry.

Yet this group of five iconoclasts (image breakers) were motivated very much like our modern campus insurgents.

For the young radicals of the usual campus very often become the staunch conservatives after they marry and have children of college age!

Writers Meet

There will be a meeting Thursday at 1 p.m. of the Oakland Writers' Workshop in the YWCA.

McINTYRE-BIGGER

The former Gloria Dianne Bigger selected a gown of silk for, Saturday vows with Gordon Duane McIntyre in First Free Methodist Church. Their parents are the Alexander A. Biggers of Northfield Street and the Gordon McIntyres of Oakwood Street, Brandon Township. Martha Nance acted as maid of honor for the bride who completed her ensemble with a petal headpiece securing an illusion veil. Ronald McIntyre was his brother's best man. A reception was held in the church parlors prior to the newlyweds' departure for a northern Michigan honeymoon.

SHEPPARD-STAYTON

The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, Clio, was the setting for Saturday vows uniting Mary Lou Stayton and Robert G. Sheppard. The bride was gowned in silk mist and Chantilly lace. A mantilla veil completed the ensemble. Honor attendants for the couple feted at a reception in the home of the bride's parents, were Mrs. Donald Newman and Donald Sheppard. Parents of the newlyweds who left for a northern Michigan honeymoon, are Mr. and Mrs. Lyle B. Stayton of Holly and Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Sheppard of Montrose.

Flower Talk

FLOWERS IN RELIGION

Flowers were used in religious festivals and celebrations in all parts of the world long before they were used to decorate the home.

The first uses of flowers in religious ceremonies naturally included the rites of life and death. So no one knows for how many centuries and generations man has expressed his sympathy with a floral offering at the passing of a friend or a loved one. It is a lovely gesture.

We give your floral offering very special and tender care at those times.

Awning Frame Halts Sign's Fall

KENOSHA, Wis. (UPI) — Two 16-year-old girls, Joanne Reau and Deanna Kober, were standing in front of a store in downtown Kenosha.

A 200-pound chunk of an overhead sign fell and crashed into the awning above the girls' heads. The cloth in the awning tore, but the frame held back the sign. The girls were unhurt.

TAKING SHAPE—The Boeing 747, to be among the world's largest commercial jetliners, takes shape at the company's plant in Everett, Wash., after the main section of the fuselage and tail were joined. The 350-to-375-seat aircraft is scheduled to fly by the end of the year.

Increase in U.S. Segregation Projected

WASHINGTON (AP) — America will become increasingly segregated by race over the next 17 years, says a study released today by President Johnson's National Commission on Urban Problems.

The study finds that between 1960 and 1985, nonwhites will become more concentrated in cities and whites will continue moving into suburban areas.

★ ★ ★

"The projections vividly portray the geographic fulfillment of the fears expressed by the President's Commission on Civil Disorders — that the American society is becoming an apartheid society," said the study's authors.

Nonwhite populations within cities of 50,000 or more are projected to increase from 50 to 58 per cent; white population will decline from 30 to 21 per cent.

Former Sen. Paul H. Douglas, chairman of the commission, said in a forward to the report that the findings are projections — not predictions. But he said they underscore the "alarming prospect" that "our people may be increasingly segregated. This should be read not as prophecy but as warning."

★ ★ ★

Authors of the report are Patricia Leavey Hodge, research associate at the University of Chicago's Population Research Center and Philip M. Houser, director of the center.

Junior Editors Quiz on ARABIAN HORSES

QUESTION: How did the Arabian breed of horses get started?

ANSWER: Horses were domesticated and bred in various ancient civilizations of Asia Minor and in India, Persia and Arabia, but it was in Arabia that horse breeding reached the highest point.

Mythology credits the birth of the Arabian horse to the west wind. One can understand this myth, for the depth of chest, large girth and unusually large windpipe gives this horse remarkable speed and endurance.

Moors from Africa brought the Arab breed to Spain. Later, Spaniards took these horses with them to the New World.

In England, development of horse racing led to the importation of Arabian stallions to be bred with English mares. This mixture created the Thoroughbred breed, from which came the Morgan, Hambletonian and others.

The Arabian is the oldest breed, and its blood flows in most of the "light horse breeds" of today. An Arabian's head is wedge shaped. The large, intelligent eyes are set low with a bulge above (1). The profile is concave (2) the muzzle small and delicate (3). A purebred Arabian has one less vertebra than other horses.

(You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

Million-Dollar Dream House: Buy or Build?

NEW YORK (AP)—To buy or to build is the dilemma of most people seeking a dream house, and if you're prepared to spend a half million, a million or even 2 million dollars, it's a question that requires quite a bit of thought.

A leading real estate man strongly advises persons with such a problem to buy rather than build because it costs so much more to build than it used to, and there are plenty of luxurious white-elephant homes for sale—often at a fraction of what they originally cost.

But all over the country there are those who are not taking that advice. They are building —even if it costs a half million or more — because what they want in their dream houses can't be bought from the peddlers of old mansions.

Take the David Lloyd Kreegers of Washington, D.C. There are not many houses—even the grand old mansions—equipped to display properly a collection of 50 or 60 large impressionist and postimpressionist paintings.

DECIDED TO BUILD

So the Kreegers decided to build, and got just what they wanted. And paid $2 million for it.

The boss of the crew that built the Kreeger house, on a 5½-acre plot on stylish Foxhill Road in Northwest Washington, had this to say of Architect Philip Johnson's design — 43 rooms, including 11 baths, formed in clusters of 22 by 22-foot gracefully-domed cubes:

"It's not a house, it's a museum that the owner decided to live in."

Johnson also designed the James Geir house near Cincinnati—a venture costing just under a million and distinguished by the fact that ponies graze on thick turf on its roof.

Special needs like those of the Kreegers and the Geirs always run the costs up. That's what happened to television star Jackie Gleason, who wanted a round house and room for show rehearsals and entertainment, and ended up paying $700,000 to build a one-bedroom house.

OLD HOUSE

If the dream-house-hunter has no such special needs, and just wants a beautiful home, he may take the realtor's advice and buy an old house—like "House-on-Hill," a 37-year-old walled and formally landscaped Tudor mansion in California's San Mateo County.

"House-on-Hill," the estate of the late Mrs. Celia Tobin Clark, can be bought for only $800,000 with 30 acres, but if you want the whole 250 acres, it will cost you $2,875,000—reduced from $3 million. The house itself is priced at only $500,000, exactly half what it was said to have cost to build in 1931.

In the $300,000 to $500,000 bracket, there are many bargains. There is the 28-acre Florida Gold Coast estate of restaurateur Patricia Murphy, with a big white house facing a deep lagoon and its own private island; or "Coral Cove," a 14-room villa at Coral Gables, Fla., plus innumerable boat houses, cabana rooms, patios, pools and courts, which cost $1 million and is going for less than half that.

★ ★ ★

We get back up in the $2 million bracket with the estate of the late Amory Haskell in Middletown, N.J., but for that price goes a 470-acre horse farm, manor house, barns, stables, tenant houses and the fox-hunting traditions of the Monmouth County Hunt Race Meet.

★ ★ ★

Horse lovers also might consider Waverly Farm, near Delray Beach, Fla., which has stables, riding ring and jumps as well as golf green—all for only $675,000.

Earth Tug to Anchor Satellite With TV Eye

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — A satellite with a roving television eye is set to be rocketed into a stationary orbit next week to see how well earth's gravity acts as a space anchor.

The 865-pound spacecraft, scheduled for launch July 24, is the fourth in a series of space agency Applications Technology Satellites (ATS) designed to try out new equipment and techniques for advanced weather and communications craft.

ATS 4 will leave earth on an Atlas-Centaur rocket. It will be aimed toward an orbit 22,300 miles high where its orbital speed will match earth's rotation and it will appear stationary above the eastern Pacific.

Once it reaches its proper orbit, the drum-shaped satellite will sprout four silver-plated tubular booms 123 feet long. When they are fully extended, the spacecraft will be in the center of a giant X, measuring 254 feet long from tip to tip.

ANCHORED BY GRAVITY

Since half of the X will be closer to earth than the other half, there will be a slightly greater pull from earth's gravity on the end closer to earth. This extra tug should act as a stabilizing anchor to keep one side of the satellite constantly facing the globe.

Such stabilization is needed for weather satellites which must aim cameras toward earth and for communications craft that need to keep antennas beamed toward ground stations.

The use of such a gravity gradient stabilization for satellites is becoming common at lower altitudes where the pull of gravity is greater. But, no satellite has tried the technique in a stationary orbit, although a Defense Department satellite named Dodge successfully used gravity control in a slow moving orbit about 20,750 miles high.

★ ★ ★

'JUICE-CAN' JETS

ATS also is equipped with electric jets no bigger than a jumbo juice can to nudge it into its orbital parking place above the Equator, about 400 miles west of Quito, Ecuador.

★ ★ ★

From that vantage point, the satellite's new steerable television camera will be able to scan the whole disc of earth facing it. The camera is the first of its kind on a space agency satellite and is expected to be of great value to future weather satellites.

★ ★ ★

Such a camera, designed to operate in sunlight or with the faint illumination of moonlight at night, will be able to spot a developing storm on earth and then track it.

ATS 4 also carries experimental communications equipment able to relay radio and television broadcasts from one point on earth to other ground stations thousands of miles away.

Forgotten Institute Back in Spotlight

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The name is barely known outside the membership. It sounds like some kind of union, or school. Not, certainly, anything to conjure visions of empire building.

Yet, the 113-year-old Mechanics Institute of San Francisco helped do just that—build the California empire.

Through its huge private library, fairs, lectures and special events, the venerable "Mechanics" brought the knowledge and culture of the world to the muddy door step of the rowdiest real estate in the hemisphere.

Its influence in the state has pretty well vanished through the years. But an incident involving a century-old custom in full force today brought the institute to the attention of many people who didn't know it existed.

RESIGNATION

The incident was the resignation of Theodore R. Mayer as chairman of the board of regents of the University of California.

Meyer, who left the board July 3, was a regent because he was also president of the Mechanics Institute. The California Legislature in 1868 passed a law to that effect in appreciation of the industrial and intellectual importance of the institute.

* * *

The fact gave U-C's Berkeley campus leaders an idea. A number of students considered for a time buying a regents membership by joining the institute and electing its president, who would then exercise some formidable student control over the university.

Theoretically, a regent membership could be bought. After all, institute membership is only $1 with quarterly dues of $1.50.

STATUS ATTACKED

The ex-officio status of some regents was attacked in the legislature last year, but the old system was defended as praise-worthy-particularly regarding Meyer. The old way prevailed.

The institute's constitution, written in 1855 by a group of mechanics who could look only to themselves for help, set out objectives for the "estblishment of a library and reading room, the collection of scientific apparatus, works of art and other scientific purposes."

INTELLECTUAL FORCE

For the next 40 years, the institute collected 200,000 books, conducted fairs, sponsored lectures and adult-education classes and hosted theatrical, sporting and literary events. In its oak-paneled fourth-floor room was founded the country's oldest chess club.

The institute was a trusted intellectual force in the city. It inspired legislative acts and performed accurate "town crier" services in the form of public meetings and pamphlets. A grateful public issued noninterest loans to retire debts and gave outright money gifts.

* * *

The institute grew prosperous, mainly through its annual fairs, where products of the state's industrial and agricultural efforts were gathered under one roof.

California's progress was the institute's progress.

The oldest continuously operating cable car system in the world—San Francisco's beloved clattering rinky-dinks—was the invention of an institute president, Andrew S. Hallidie.

NEW CLASSES

As the century drew to an end, the institute offered new classes in geometrical drawing, machine drawing, industrial design and electricity.

On the night of April 17, 1906, the institute had 4,150 members and one of the world's most magnificent private libraries.

* * *

Books, buildings, fixtures—almost everything the institute owned—were destroyed the next morning in the great earthquake and fire. No time was spent in mourning the tremendous loss.

Within six years, a new institute home had been built. A new library was begun.

NO MORE LECTURES

Today, the institute's oak-paneled room house 170,000 general, technical and historical volumes for the use of 8,300 members, as well as periodicals, endless technical papers and a special repository for U.S. government documents.

But there are no more lectures and classes. The fairs have long been discontinued.

WHERE KNOWLEDGE IS POWER—This is the main room of the library of the Mechanics Institute, located in the financial district of San Francisco. The 113-year-old organization was instrumental in building the California empire. Today, its influence in the state his virtually vanished.

Shaw Family Escapes Crystal Beach for New Home, Better Life

By BOB WISLER

All the neighbors were happy when Augusta Shaw and her family moved out. They even had a party in honor of the event.

To them, her leaving the Crystal Beach housing project was a fine thing, not because they harbored any adverse feelings, but because they felt it was — for her family—an escape from a daily dose of discouragement and desolation.

It was an escape from dingy, cramped quarters, from tedious and ungainly delapidation, from constant dust and grime, a sense of hopelessness and the bugs and rats.

"You couldn't kill those pests," she said. "And the bugs were so nervy. They used to walk up and say 'hello' in the morning and 'good day' at night.

The family moved from the housing project — generally recognized as the city's worst slum area—to a neat, comparatively new 1½-story frame house at 265 W. Beverly, in what had been an all-white neighborhood.

The move received its impetus from the city relocation expert, James L. Kirk. Mrs. Shaw's was the eighth family to be relocated by the city since it purchased the Crystal Beach project early this year.

Officials are hopeful they will be able to relocate all Crystal Beach residents long before the three-year time limit set for finding the tenants new homes before demolition of the housing project begins.

The move was made possible by a federal government program of selling government repossessed housing to persons who normally wouldn't be able to purchase housing through conventional programs.

But, it also took the help of neighbors, relatives, well-wishers and persons throughout the community interested in easing the burden of the diadvantaged —and most of all sacrifice on the part of Mrs. Shaw and her family.

It has all been worth it, she said. "I love the new house and so do the children. When the kids saw it for the first time they said it was even worth eating all those potatoes. I don't have a potato in the house now."

Potatoes were breakfast, lunch and dinner for the family after Mrs. Shaw set out on her two-month long quest to save $450 needed for her to move in.

It was especially difficult since the only source of income for the family was a $357 per month allowance in Aid to Dependent Children funds. While she was saving money for her new home, Mrs. Shaw had to continue the rent payments on her quarters in Crystal Beach.

The family consists of Mrs. Shaw, her five children (Brenda, 14, John 10, Michael, 8, Jackie, 7, and Marvin, 3), two sisters (Sherley 16 and Caroline, 15) who she has been raising since the death of her mother eight years ago, and her 75-year-old grandmother.

"When I first heard about the chance to move in and how much money I would need, I just gathered everybody together and told them what we had to do, and they all agreed," she said.

The entire movement took on something of a community project with Kirk and a caseworker for the Oakland County Department of Social Services, Mrs. Susan Page, coordinating the efforts.

Members of the Voice of Oakland County Action League, helped, as did members of the Sylvan Lake Lutheran Church. Nuns of St. Mary's Academy told the volunteer helpers, led by Mrs. Kenneth Peterson of 1175 Crestwood, they could provide trucks for moving the household goods. Mrs. Peterson and others managed to enlist the aid of a number of volunteers to drive the trucks and move furniture.

But, there was some trepidation about moving to an all-white neighborhood. "Mrs. Shaw was worried," Kirk said. "She wanted to know if this was going to be an integrated neighborhood."

"I told her, 'it's integrated — just as soon as you move in'," Kirk said.

Her fears, and those of her children soon vanished. "I sent Marvin to the store on one of the first days," she said. "He told me he didn't want to go, that he was afraid something would happen to him.

"One of the boys (white) across the street offered him a ride, and when he came back he said, 'Momma, I'm not afraid any more."

* * *

There were other acts of kindness and acceptance. Neighbors introduced themselves. Neighbors across the street, learning that Mrs. Shaw's birthday anniversary were near, sent a present and a card that was signed, "Welcome to the neighborhood, The Meiers."

Since Mrs. Shaw's departure from Crystal Beach, Kirk's phone has been ringing with Crystal Beach residents imploring that he help do for them what was done for Mrs. Shaw. She has become a symbol of hope, hope that they too can escape the dreariness of Crystal Beach.

Kirk, who handles a myriad of relocation problems for the city's black and whites, said that the relocation of Crystal Beach residents is proceeding at such an acceptable rate that the city may have moved all of the present tenants within a year.

The city purchased the 72-unit Crystal Beach project from private Detroit owners with the stipulation that it would remove all tenants within three years and raze the units.

The project was constructed by the federal government during World War II as temporary housing.

The federal program under which Mrs. Shaw began purchase of her new home, initiated just this year, attempts to provide homeownership for persons who could not possible buy homes under conventional mortgages.

Kirk said the government sells houses that have been repossessed. The program calls for the insides to be reconditioned and repairs made to the houses before sale.

Purchases can be made with no down payment, but the first year of taxes and insurance on a house must be made before the purchase can be made, Kirk said.

The only houses offered under this program are used single family houses, he said.

Vehicle Mechanics Is Topic of Confab

DETROIT (UPI) — Visualize an American that doesn't need superspeed highways. Visualize the American who'll whip from coast to coast without touching the ground, and not flying either.

He'll be driving a surface effect vehicle, zipping along just above the ground.

The surface vehicle and its future, along with new developments in automotive mechanics, marine craft and railways engineering, are part of the International Conference on Vehicle Mechanics that began yesterday at Wayne State University.

As part of its Centennial Year activities, WSU, through its engineering college, was hosting the three-day conference of professors from all over the world, research scientists and transportation experts. They'll discuss driving, steering on automobiles, the concept and design of braking, collisions and "transient response of subcavitating hydrofoils."

MAJOR FACTOR

High costs, according to Titus Andrisan of Lockheed Missiles & Space Co., is "the major discouraging factor" in the development of the surface vehicle now. But he added the vehicle affords "greater load efficiency than conventional aircraft without imposing the necessity of expensive paved surfaces required by ground vehicles and at higher speeds than most water-borne vessels."

The vertical float, another device infrequently in use today, will soon be popular and practical, predicted Roderick Barr of Hydronautics, Inc. "The vertical float support permits aircraft to operate on the ocean surface in severe sea conditions," he said.

Barr's paper considered using the float to support helicopters and seaplanes, and to use it for a large object salvage system.

Exemption for Housing Projects OK'd

LANSING (AP) — A bill exempting public housing projects from state and local taxes was signed into law yesterday by Gov. George Romney.

* * *

The measure, which takes immediate effect, grants tax exemptions to any housing project financed with federal or state housing authority mortgages.

* * *

Older, rehabilitated housing projects, as well as new developments, will be covered under the exemption.

In lieu of taxes, owners of such projects will pay annual service charges for public utilities.

EQUAL TO TAX

In the case of new construction, the charge will be equal to the tax paid on the property in the year prior to construction or 10 per cent of the annual rent paid by the occupants, whichever is greater.

* * *

The amount paid by rehabilitation projcts will equal one of the two choices, whichever is less.

The act permits a municipality to vote by ordinance to remove itself from the tax exemption on such properties within its boundaries.

* * *

Other bills signed by the governor include ones:

- Increasing penalties for failure to answer a traffic violation summons and providing for improved notification procedures.
- Providing greater uniformity of hearing procedures in implied consent cases and insuring increased guarantee of the rights of defendants in such cases.
- Requiring notification of all public corporations when a new drain petition is presented to a drain commissioner or the State Agriculture Department and authorizing public spending for needed drain work without a formal petition.
- Amending the meat law to permit the addition of antioxidants to fresh and frozen pork sausage when in accordance with U.S. Agriculture Department regulations.

July is a bad time of year to buy slacks at regular prices.

Come to Osmun's great storewide summer clearance sale.

July is when Osmun's stages a spectacular clearance sale. We do it, really, to clear the place out... to make room for the new merchandise we'll be showing for Autumn. So suits and sport coats and topcoats and shoes and zip jackets and slacks and you-name-its are going for much lower prices than you'd pay at other times. (You-name-its with names like: Eagle, Petrocelli, Ronald Bascombe, Ambassador, Phoenix, Martinelli, French Shriner, Crosby Square, M'sieur, Esquire, Fashion Park, etc.) And everything that's now sale-priced at Osmun's previously was regular-priced at Osmun's. It's all merchandise right off our racks. And it's all right on our racks now. Specially tagged. With savings, in some cases, up to 45 per cent. So come and look. The sale goes on all of July. But don't wait too long. An Osmun's sale is a bad time of year to wait too long.

More Military Cargo Seen for Lakes Ports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said today his efforts to change the Pentagon shipping policies on the Great Lakes are paying off.

Proxmire criticized these policies last week and he said the Pentagon's response in the form of a letter from the Defense Department's director for transportation and warehousing policy, V. F. Caputo, indicated that a change in policy is under active consideration.

Proxmire is the chairman of the Great Lakes Conference of Senators. He has been seeking to persuade the Defense Department to change its cost-allocation policies, which he said have been preventing Great Lakes ports from receiving their fair share of military cargo shipments.

"I am delighted to find that the voice of reason on this question has finally penetrated the walls of the Pentagon," Proxmire said. "Those in charge of transportation and warehousing policy are at last beginning to see the light."

DISCRIMINATION

Several weeks ago Proxmire wrote to Caputo and stated there was inherent discrimination in the department's use of an item known as the "indirect cargo expense-terminal."

Because of the Pentagon's method of calculating this item, he said, the terminal expense charged to a particular port increases sharply as the cargo work load at the port goes down.

"The result has been that ports with relatively little military shipping, such as those in the Great Lakes, are assigned an expense of $1.30 per measurement ton," Proxmire said.

"The comparable rate for the port of Baltimore, where large quantities of overland military cargo from the Middle West embark, is only 18 cents per measurement ton—less than one seventh the rate of the Great Lakes."

★ ★ ★

Proxmire said as a result of Caputo's reply, there is cause for optimism that the department is willing to change from its stance of the past.

Midwest, East Sizzle

By The Associated Press

A sweltering heat wave withered much of the eastern two-thirds of the nation today and overtaxed power and water facilities in large cities as perspiring residents sought relief.

A slight break in the five-day hot spell dented the northern plains, but the change in temperatures was so abrupt it triggered violent thunderstorms which unleashed torrential rains and occasional flash floods.

★ ★ ★

Two persons were reported drowned in a flash flood which swept the northeastern Iowa community of Waverly today following an 8-inch downpour that swamped the area in a little over two hours.

Lightning from the same storm knocked out electric power in Waterloo, Iowa, for four hours.

LONG, HOT NIGHT

Relief from the heat was on a do-it-yourself basis for millions in the Midwest and the East where the mercury remained in the high 70s and low 80s throughout the night. Readings in the 90s stretched from the central plains to northern New England Tuesday.

Boston registered a high of 98, New York 97, one degree below its record for the date.

The instinct to turn up the air conditioner or hop into a cool shower created record demands for electrical power and water in Chicago and knocked out electricity to 24,000 homes in New York City. The outages ranged from a few minutes to an hour or more.

Adding to the demand for water in both cities were hundreds of illegally opened fire hydrants turned on by residents.

TURNED ON

In Boston, the fire department turned on sprinklers for youngsters at 75 hydrants. City officials reported electricity consumption hit an all-time peak Tuesday and water consumption jumped 23 per cent.

A judge in Mineola, N.Y., moved her court into a women's detention cell in the Long Island courthouse after a woman prisoner waiting to be heard fainted. Afterward, Judge Beatrice S. Burstein announced she would hold hearings in the air-conditioned cell as long as the heat lasted.

As far as any general relief, the Weather Bureau was not optimistic. "Little change is expected in the over-all picture," was the way a forecaster put it.

Temporary cooling came in heat-generated thunderstorms over widely scattered sections of the hot belt.

COSTLY RELIEF

Thundershowers lasting several hours cooled Cleveland but the relief was costly. Traffic accidents linked to the weather killed three persons and injured several others. Eight persons suffered minor injuries when a bus struck the back of a truck on Interstate 71 southwest of the city.

A funnel cloud churned through open country west of Pierre, S.D., Tuesday afternoon and a heavy thunderstorm in the city dumped 1½ inches of rain with marble-size hail. Gusty winds accompanied the storm.

In contrast to the wilting heat in the nation's interior and throughout the East, much of the Far West was under clear skies and generally pleasant temperatures in the 50s and 60s before dawn. Meacham, Ore., registered 49 degrees.

Some early morning reports: Boston 84 clear, New York 81 clear, Philadelphia 76 clear, Washington 81 clear, Atlanta 71 partly cloudy, Miami 76 clear, Detroit 74 clear, Chicago 80 cloudy, Minneapolis-St. Paul 73 partly cloudy, St. Louis 84 cloudy, Kansas City 81 clear, Dallas 81 clear, Denver 70 partly cloudy, Phoenix 90 clear, Los Angeles 64 clear, San Francisco 55 clear, Seattle 60 partly cloudy, Anchorage 57 clear, Honolulu 79 partly cloudy.

Sewer Project Is Authorized

City commissioners last night authorized initiation of a new sanitary sewer project in the northwest section of the city.

Called the Silver Lake Sanitary Sewer Trunk, the sewer line would complete the delivery of sanitary sewer service to the entire land area of Pontiac, Director of Public Works and Service Joseph E. Neipling said.

★ ★ ★

The commission authorization calls for preparation of engineering plans, estimates and specifications. Neipling said previous bond sales — which made possible the Galloway Creek and Opdyke Sewer Trunks — have provided the city with liberal contingency reserves to finance the project.

He estimated that $235,000 from these two projects can be used to finance the new sewer trunk.

★ ★ ★

The truck line would begin near Oakland and West, continue across Hawthorne Park and end at Walton, north of the park. When completed ot will allow about 70 acres north of Walton, now undeveloped, to become developed, Neipling said.

Summer Youth Program Begun by Police Dept.

A summer youth program, involving 14- to 15-year-old boys working with the Pontiac Police Department for an eight-week period, was put into effect last week by the city, Youth Coordinator George Caronis told the City Commission last night.

A similar program was instituted by the city last year with the aid of federal funds. Such funds were not available to conduct the program this year, City Manager Joseph A. Warren said.

★ ★ ★

The Pontiac Area Planning Council recently recommended to the city that it reestablished the program despite the unavailability of federal funds and tight city money.

Those connected with the program last year, including Police Chief William K. Hanger, had recommended it highly.

30 TO PARTICIPATE

Caronis said 30 boys will take part, working with the police department and going on tours. The program will involve some counseling and psychological testing of the boys.

Caronis said those chosen are mostly from low-income, one-parent families, who live in high-delinquency areas.

★ ★ ★

The program is expected to cost the city about $5,500 including supervisory salaries.

4-Point Plan Proposed

Kelley Boosts Tough Gun Law

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley has urged adoption of a strong, four-point federal gun control law.

Kelley sent wires to Sens. Philip Hart, D-Mich., and Robert Griffin, R-Mich., urging their support on the proposed legislation. He also sent a copy to Col. John Glenn Jr., chairman of the Emergency Committee for Gun Control.

★ ★ ★

Kelley said a new federal law should include:

- A bar on interstate mail order sales of all firearms.
- A provision for the registration of all firearms with severe penalties for those who fail to register their guns.
- Licensing of all gun owners.
- A provision barring licenses for convicted felons, the mentally ill, alcoholics, aliens and narcotic adicts.

'URGENT NEED'

Kelley said the legislation is urgently needed to help safeguard the public from those who would misuse these weapons. At the same time, he said, it would protect the legitimate interests of those who utilize firearms for legal purposes.

"The appalling rate of gun murders in this country can be reduced substantiallly by such legislation." Kelley said. "The ready, unhindered availability of these deadly weapons makes the planning and execution of crimes an easier task and makes unintentional tragedies much more possible."

Kelley contended such legislation would not deprive someone-half million sportsmen, hunters and gun collectors in Michigan of the ownership and use of firearms.

"Such legislation cannot end the problem of the use of guns for illegal purposes," said the state's chief law enforcement officer. "But it can be an effective step in controlling it. We should take that step now."

Sculpture OK'd

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — A piece of sculpture by famed artist Alexander Calder has been approved for downtown Vandenberg Center in Grand Rapids after a lengthy controversy. Surplus Reported

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Grand Rapids City Auditor K. F. Sheehan told the city commission's finance committee Tuesday the city ended the fiscal year with a $1.5-million surplus. But Sheehan said the surplus would not be available for appropriation until a study is completed on how the money should be distributed.

Bumper Stolen

George Estelle of Mandon Road in White Lake Township told Waterford Township police yesterday that the front bumper was stolen from his small foreign car.

The theft reportedly occurred sometime Tuesday night while the car was parked in front of 5700 Elizabeth Lake. It was valued at about $40.

Clawson Housing Gets U.S. Loan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Housing and Urban Development has announced a loan of $3¼ million to New Life, Inc., a nonprofit organization, for construction of apartments for elderly persons in Clawson, Mich.

The corporation is sponsored by the Christian Foundation for Emotional Help, Huntington Woods, and by the Free Methodist Church of East Lansing.

Future Clergy 'Get Education' in Prison

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP) — The slim young man wearing horn-rimmed spectacles and a khaki inmate's uniform walks among some of the country's toughest convicts in the exercise yard of Leavenworth's U.S. penitentiary.

He appears a bit nervous and out of place—more like, say, a seminary student than a felon. And he is.

Since last fall 33 students and faculty members from the St. Paul Methodist School of Theology in Kansas City have spent 30-hour periods playing the role of convicts — about half that time locked in the unnerving isolation of a solitary confinement cell.

The program, believed the only one of its kind in the nation, is part of what St. Paul officials call their new "radical curriculum." It's a carefully plotted effort thrusting would-be clergymen into situations where they learn the world as it really is.

'KNOW PROBLEMS'

These same students also work in mental institutions and hospital emergency rooms, sleep in flophouses, chat with homosexuals, drink coffee with suburban housewives, ride in police cars and enter Playboy clubs.

"If our students are to minister, they must know the people and their problems," explained Dr. W. Paul Jones, a mustachioed 38-year-old St. Paul faculty member who accompanied the first group through Leavenworth.

* * *

"If you can't come to grips and face these problems, you've got no business in the ministry."

Three students were asked to recall their stay in the penitentiary. They were John Blinn, 24, Wilsall, Mont.; Emil Muhlhausen, 32, Ellsworth, Wis.; and Dick Talley, 24, Bogalusa, La.

JEERED BY INMATE

"I wasn't exactly calm," the husky, curly-haired Blinn admitted when asked about that Friday afternoon ride to the prison. "I really didn't know what to expect."

Showered, fingerprinted and photographed, the students were dressed in khaki uniforms to distinguish them from regular prisoners, who wear blue.

* * *

Muhlausen told of a life-term inmate who jeered:

"When you walk out that front door; I know you don't give a damn for us."

While no harm has come to any seminarians wandering about the prison without guards, there have been some nervous moments.

Talley said he was on the fifth tier of cell block talking to a prisoner serving a term for murder when the inmate remarked causally: "You know, guys around here got mighty poor eyesight. If I was to throw you over that rail, nobody would see a thing."

Talley still doesn't know whether the convict was serious but admitted, "I was never so scared in all my life."

* * *

After visiting the prison honor farm about a mile outside the walls, the students were taken for the night to individual cells in the segregation building, an escape-proof fortress with a series of double-locked doors known to prisoners as "Building 63."

* * *

"Almost to a man," said Dr. Tex Sample, "everyone who came out of solitary expressed hostility. It's not that the people at the prison weren't good to us. They were. But it was just the idea of being penned up." Sample, a sociology professor also made the prison tour.

MINGLE WITH INMATES

Late Saturday morning the seminarians were released from segregation and spent several hours mingling with prisoners.

While none of them makes any pretense to becoming an instant expert in penal affairs, the St. Paul students did come away from Leavenworth with new insight and ideas about prisons and prisoners.

And a day and a night behind bars also gave the young seminarians at least an inkling of how warped and cruel the world must look through the eyes of a prisoner or recently released man.

The experience showed him starkly, Dr. Sample commented, the sometimes narrow line of chance or will that separates a free man from a convict.

* * *

"The church," said Blinn, "must revise its attitude toward ex-convicts as well as hippies, homosexuals and others. They won't come to us. We've got to go to them."

Churchmen Meet

MUSKEGON (AP) — The Watchtower Society of the Jehovah's Witness church meets in convention at Muskegon July 24-28 with an expected 4,000 delegates.

Police Pondering a Chicago Cub

CHICAGO (AP) — A 3-month-old African lion cub slumbered behind bars Tuesday night at the Chicago Avenue district police station.

Gary Spine, 25, brought the 65-pound cub into the station and told officers he would like to donate it to a zoo. He said it was brought from Africa after its mother died. The animal was kept behind bars for precaution.

PIN-WORMS

A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms...ugly parasites that medical experts say infest 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then — Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly, easily. Ask your pharmacist.

1125 NORTH PERRY STREET AT ARLENE

Californian, 18, Is Army's Youngest Drill Instructor

FT. KNOX, Ky. (AP) — This gold repository and armor training center is the home post of an Army drill instructor who is 18 years old.

The Pentagon says Sgt. Gary Rodriguez is the youngest DI in the Army. He may not seem the image of the hefty, leather-lunged DI of legend, but when he strides up to his company of "boots" in starched fatigues and jaunty campaign hat, they snap to and pay attention to their ramrod-straight sergeant.

The thin, hawk-faced Rodriguez is a native of San Francisco and has been in the Army since he was 17 years and two weeks old. Seventeen is the minimum age for beginning an Army tour.

In spite of his youth, however, the dark-haired Rodriguez likes his job and knows how to shepherd a group of bewildered civilians from their first ego-shattering haircut through graduation from Army basic training.

"You have to treat each man individually," he says. "Some, you have to pound it into their heads. Others, you have to be real nice to them.

"Getting their minds on the Army is not easy," Rodriguez adds. "They're daydreaming for the first few days—thinking of their girlfriends, or mothers, or somebody back home. I just try to be firm but fair."

Rodriguez rises in time to awaken the trainees at 5:30 a.m., and remains with them until they are ready to turn in at night.

During the day he scolds, berates and pleads with his men until they do what they must, and do it well.

SELDOM TOUGH

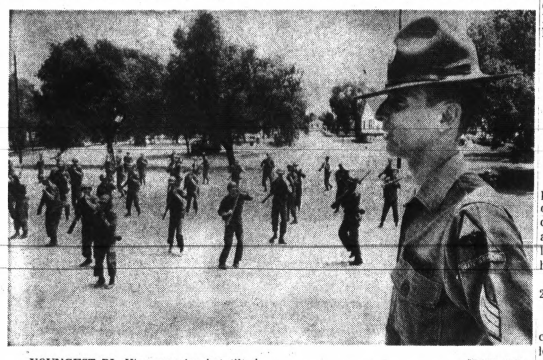
Rodriguez seldom gets tough, explaining, "that big old mean drill sergeant is fading out of the Army."

He says he tries to handle all problems within the platoon. "I offer my help in every way, but I also tell them that if they feel like they just have to go AWOL then come to me, and I'll give them a ride down to the bus station."

Rodriguez says one recruit took him at his word one day, and appeared, bag in hand, with a request for a ride to the bus station.

All the way to the bus station Rodriguez tried to get the man to tell him the problem, but was answered only with a "Nope, I'm going home."

"He was just about ready to get on the bus, and I as scared to death he was going to, and he changed his mind," Rodriguez said. "Boy, was I relieved."



YOUNGEST DI—His campaign hat tilted down over his eyes, 18-year-old Sgt. Gary Rodriguez watches over his platoon of recruits as they make a dry run during bayonet training.

Jungle Survival

Pygmies Teach Yanks

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — In wild terrain deep inside this U.S. base, dark-skinned Filipino pygmies are teaching Vietnam-bound pilots the art of staying alive in hostile jungle.

The school graduates about 200 American pilots every week.

At the heart of the survival course is a band of barefoot, loincloth-clad native instructors, members of a vanishing tribe of Negritos. The training site, off Mt. Pinatubo, is so rugged that helicopters are the only means of transportation.

The students are taught to erect shelter, to find water in the jungle, to start fire without matches, to differentiate between poisonous and edible plants and to avoid traps similar to the ones set by the Vietcong.

KNOWLEDGE OF JUNGLE

The 30 Negrito instructors have been chosen for their ingenuity and thorough knowledge of the jungle.

Bay Port

Rugged Fishermen Brave Their Way To Tend Early Morning Nets

PICTORIAL STORY BY EDWARD R. NOBLE

FISH—Tons upon tons of pickerel—once made Bay Port one of the largest freshwater fishing ports in the world. Today all that lingers is the memory. It lines the faces of the few remaining inhabitants and seeps from the idle buildings that sag in their own shadows.

In the early 1900s, the Saginaw Bay's great yield of fish, and the natural beauty of the area, beckoned the tourist by excursion train and tin lizzie to this village on the western side of the Thumb.

Ah, the glory of those days. Most came eager to test their skill with hook and line, others just to sit on the waterfront and watch the white-sailed ships of the Bay Port Fish Co.

The glory years—the laughter of picnickers with pails of beer, the brass bands on Sunday afternoons, the bustling 200-room Bay Port hotel—slipped away as the record catches of fish slowly faded. The huge nets disappeared with the large fleets of fishing craft. One by one, the fisheries closed down.

★ ★ ★

The fisheries and other buildings now stand silent—a creak now and then in the wind their only comment on the passage of time.

Bay Port Fish Co. is still open, and fresh perch can still be purchased at the conclusion of a Sunday afternoon drive. It's really a visit to another era.

London's Famous Fleet Street Is Going to Get a Face-Lifting

LONDON (AP) — Fleet Street has never won any town-planning prizes, and everybody seems to like it the way it is, unpretentious, antiquated and a little grubby.

But the center of London's prolific newspaper industry is going to get a face-lift such as it has not seen since they opened the 12-story, red, white and blue Daily Mirror Building in 1961.

* * *

Plans have been drawn for an International Press Center— 18 stories high with air-conditioning, landscaped courtyards, a banquet room for 600, a 24-hour grill room and coffee lounge and all the most modern communications fittings, plus underground parking.

It sounds gaudy enough to make the proprietors of such ancient establishments as Ye Olde Cheshire Cheese sniff with antiquarian contempt.

A SMALL AREA

Fleet Street is a term which covers an area from Printing House Square, not far from the Thames, where Lord Thomson's Times is published, to Holburn Viaduct, near which the Evening Standard comes forth each day.

Fleet Street runs through the middle of this crowded and deceptively tatty neighborhood.

Every workday some 17½ million newspapers pour out of this small segment of London, less than a mile square. On Sundays, 24 million papers bring out the tidings, large and small, sober and sensational.

It isn't only the big, national daily and Sunday newspapers which call Fleet Street and its tributory side streets and alleys home. Almost every British publication, daily, weekly or monthly, likes to crowd in among the big presses with some kind of an office, from the Fruit Trades Journal to the Brighton & Hove Gazette.

BEWILDERING

The street itself runs from Temple Bar to Ludgate Circus and is only a quarter of a mile long. But it is joined on both sides by a bewildering tangle of side streets, alleys, courts and passageways known only to people who work, eat or get their haircuts there.

Temple Bar is the point where the city ends and Westminster begins. In olden days they used to hang the heads and quarters of executed felons there. Ludgate Circus is at the bottom of the hill leading up to St. Paul's Cathedral.

* * *

Claiming kinship with Fleet Street are such obscure byways as Wine Office Court, White Friars Street, Poppins Court, Magpie Alley, Glasshouse Alley and Shoe Lane.

Shoe Lane is where the new press center will be built, putting the Red Barrel Public House and the Black Dog Restaurant out of business. They undoubtedly will be missed, but there are 18 other pubs in the Fleet Street area.

LONG HISTORY

Despite its homely name, Shoe Lane has a history going back to at least 1310 when Fleet Street was known as "Fletestreet in the suburbs of London." In the 17th century, there was a noted cockpit on Shoe Lane and it was a center for designers of woodcuts and sign painters.

Praise-God Barebones, a leather seller, preacher and well known politician, lived there in 1676. Poet Oliver Goldsmith wrote of "the beauties of Shoe Lane in which I myself have resided."

The Fleet Street area has a tremendous business in fish and chips and sandwiches to go out. Perhaps the most distinguished eating place, and certainly the best known to tourists, is Ye Olde Cheshire Cheese. It's on Wine Office Court, so called because wine licenses once were issued there.

POPULAR SPOT

Samuel Johnson, the 18th century critic, essayist and philologist, is said to have eaten there, although biographer James Boswell doesn't mention it. Johnson lived in an attic not far away in Gough Square while compiling his dictionary.

Ye Olde Cheshire Cheese specializes in a pie made with steak, kidney, mushrooms and game. Not far away Ye Olde Snuffe Shoppe advertises as "Ye most antient segar store in ye Citye of London."

* * *

A plaque at the corner of Fleet and Farrindon streets says: "Edgar Wallace, reporter, born London 1875, died Hollywood 1932: Founder member of the company of newspaper makers, he knew wealth and poverty, yet had walked with kings and kept his bearing. Of his talents he gave lavishly to authorship—but to Fleet Street he gave his heart."

The new press center is not expected to change the life of Fleet Street to any great degree. It will provide a central meeting place for press conferences and meetings of journalists, and office space for many foreign journalists and British press groups.

DESIGN OK'D

The design of the building, described as a cluster of towers 200 feet high, has been accepted by the Royal Fine Art Commission. Construction is expected to start this summer and be completed in 1970.

Arab-African Schism Perils Sudan Identity

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP)—After 12 years of independence, Sudan is making a second attempt to define its national identity.

The problem is racial-involving African blacks and Arabs—and it could split the nation, as well as the Organization of African Unity and the African-Asian bloc. It also could touch off a fierce struggle between Africans and Arabs across the northern rim of Africa.

* * *

Sudan's problem is that roughly a quarter of its population is African, not Arab, and Christian or pagan, not Moslem. The Moslem Arabs, the ruling elite, look to Cairo for political and intellectual inspiration. The African minority feels persecuted by authorities intent upon "Arabizing" the country.

In Sudan, this is known as the North-South problem. Most of the Africans live in the South.

FOCUS ON CONSTITUTION

The search for national identity focuses on the newly elected constituent assembly whose prime task is to write a permanent national constitution. A first constituent assembly ended in deadlock last year, leading to recent elections which produced this second assembly.

The basic issue confronts the assembly at the very start in the preamble to the proposed constitution. The majority wants to proclaim Sudan an "Islamic state," with Islam the officially established religion. The Southerners want a nonsectarian country, with Christianity on an equal footing.

* *

Another basic issue is a variation of the same theme — whether Sudan will be a highly centralized nation as the Moslems desire, or a federalized state, with generous local autonomy for the various provinces, as the Southerners demand.

If the majority persists in pushing through an Islamic, centralized charter, the Southerners may well carry out their threat to secede and proclaim an independent republic of South Sudan. In such a case, neighboring African states would probably lend support, splitting the OAU and the African-Asian bloc.

OPENING FOR ISRAEL

It could give a wider opening to Israel in Africa; Israeli aid is already active in all these African states in the form of technical advice and training.

According to Sudanese officials, the Southerners have already had some help from Uganda. Khartoum has accused Uganda of sheltering "rebel" warriors, allowing them to raid Sudanese villages from Uganda bases.

* * *

Incidents have also cropped up on the Ethiopian frontier. The Ethiopians, who regard their country as the historic guardian of African nationalism, would certainly support the Southerners as much as possible.

There have even been incidents in the far west, along Sudan's borders with the Chad Republic.

TRIBES IN SOUTH

Sudan is a country of almost a million square miles with a population of only 14 million. Of these, more than three million are African tribesmen concentrated in the three southern provinces of the Upper Nile, Equatoria, and Bahrel Ghazal.

Sudan is larger than the United States east of the Mississippi.

* * *

In the south and southwest are vast areas of untapped resources, and its largely vacant west is considered ideal for cattle grazing. A belt south of Khartoum, running from the Ethiopian frontier in the east to the Congo in the west, is well suited for wheat and other grain — without irrigation.

* * *

Farther south in the lush swamplands of Equatoria, the possibilities hardly have been surveyed. Although it would seem fitted for cultivation of tropical and citrus fruits.

FARMING BELT

The far west has been compared with Wyoming and Montana. The farming belt south of Khartoum is much like Kansas and Nebraska. The far south is a sort of inland Florida, watered by the White Nile which here spreads out into something like Everglades.

These are the areas at stake in any Arab-African confrontation.

If properly developed, Sudan could become the meat, bread and fruit larder for this region of perennial hunger, and an outlet for the surplus populations of Egypt and other Arab states.

While Sudan's leaders stoutly proclaim their Arabness, their people are, in fact, partly African.

NEGRO BLOOD

The strong strain of Negro blood among the population shows in the pigmentation and temperament. The average Sudanese is dark, much darker than the typical Arab.

Centuries ago, long before the Dutch sailing craft unloaded the first cargo of Negro slaves on the shores of the New World, the Sudan was a busy highway for Arab slave traders.

Workshop Slated

A reading improvement and study skills workshop for high school and college students is being offered by Oakand Community College Highland Lakes Communications Division from Aug. 5 to 29. Fee is $30.

9 Tiny Lands Will Federate

British Pullout to Leave Persian Gulf Void

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Nine tiny emirates on the Persian Gulf have agreed to pull together to help replace Britain when it leaves in 1971.

The ruling sheikhs and emirs, at a recent meeting in Abu Dhabi, agreed on practical steps to federate their domains.

* * *

The agreement came after much bickering and some additional haggling about privileges. It followed two earlier fruitless gatherings this year in which the emirs expressed only their intention to federate.

With the sanction of the gulf's Arab big three—Saudi Arabia, Iraq and Kuwait—and a cold silence from Iran, the rulers announced they had appointed experts to work out the vital infrastructure of the new federation.

ARAB LEAGUE EYED

When this comes into being, it will probably enter the Arab League as its 15th member. The proposed federation has the blessing of Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser and no opposition from any Arab country.

A legal expert is to be appointed to hammer out the federation's charter within six months and a temporary federal council, was named to wrestle with practical problems.

* * *

Committees will be formed to study postal union, unified currency, a common flag and national anthem, the announcement said.

The federation members are Bahrain, Abu Dhabi, Qatar, Dubai, Sharjah, Umm el Quewein, Ajman, Fujeirah and Ras el Khaimah.

BRITISH-PACIFIED

They lie on a section of the gulf shore that was called the Pirate Coast until Britain pacified it in the last century and bound the emirates to itself with treaties.

Britain has announced it is leaving the gulf by 1971, and Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Iraq are eager to see the federation formed to replace a potentially weak spot in the immensely rich gulf.

* * *

Only Iran is hostile to the federation, chiefly because it claims the island emirate of Bahrain, close to the Saudi Arabian coast. But recent contacts between the three Arab countries and Iran appear to have mollified Shah Reza Pahlevi.

The bickering among the rulers of the emirates was partly caused by the fact that some are rich and others are dismally poor. Abu Dhabi, Qatar and Bahrain have a lot of oil and Dubai has a thriving transit trade. The others are less fortunate.

At previous meetings, differences arose as to who should be president of the federation and where its headquarters would be. Following Kuwaiti mediation, it was agreed the president and headquarters will be by rotation among the nine emirates.

The rulers agreed to meet again in Qatar on Oct. 1 for more talks.

Old Ironsides May Set Sail for Good Will

BOSTON (UPI) — The USS Constitution — Old Ironsides — may sail the seas again. A drive is under way to raise $250,000 to put the 161-year old Navy vessel in sailing condition and send her around the world on a goodwill cruise.

Leslie C. Stratton Jr. of Westwood, N.J. is heading Project Old Ironsides, which has the blessing of the Navy Department. Stratton's father undertook a similar campaign to aid the ship 40 years ago.

Stratton hopes to refurnish the captain's quarters and raise enough money "to put her in sailing condition and send her around the world as a goodwill ambassador."

In announcing the plans for the drive, Stratton said that on July 17 Navy ships around the world will fire a 21-gun salute in honor of Old Ironsides, and the Constitution will respond with a salute fired from dockside.

PLACE IN TRADITION

"Old Ironsides" was one of the three original frigates commissioned by the infant United States Navy, launched in 1797. The 204-foot, oaken-sided ship won a place in American patriotic tradition battling British man o'wars in the War of 1812.

Wartime Comedy Survives Criticism

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — "Hogan's Heroes" has faced—and apparently conquered—the problem of presenting on television a wartime comedy at a time when the nation is torn by war and antiwar feelings.

THOMAS

Not that the conquest is complete; the CBS series still draws occasional knocks from critics who claim that a prisoner of war camp run by Germans in World War II is not suitable for comedy.

But "Hogan's Heroes" has won the most important test in television: survival. It will be returning for a fourth season next fall.

Bob Crane, who is Hogan, has his own theories why the show has survived against long odds and the barbs of critics:

"I think if we tried to come on the air now, we wouldn't have a chance with 'Hogan's Heroes,' the times would be against it. Three years ago, the timing was just right. World War II — in fact, the Korean war, too—had been over long enough so people could laugh about some of the things that happened during the war.

CHARACTERS 'ACCEPTED'

"By now the characters are well established and accepted, and we have licked most of the criticism that a German prisoner of war camp is not a fit subject for comedy—assassinations, plane crashes and a few other matters that offer definite taboos.

★ ★ ★

"But nearly everything else can be treated in a comic manner. Oh, I've had people ask me, 'How can you make fun of a concentration camp? Think of all the Jews that were killed.' Well, ours isn't a concentration camp; it's a camp filled with soldiers who are prisoners. And their situations can be funny."

Another criticism has been the portrayal of the German captors. Crane's defense: "Schultz (the comedy character played by John Banner) is neither stupid nor a traitor. He simply says, 'I see nothing; I know nothing.' He is a type that appears to have been common in Nazi Germany.

"The camp commandant, played by Werner Klemperer, isn't stupid, either. He is an egomaniac, the kind of man who can be fooled when he is bluffered up, which is what I do to him. But then we also need two or three regular bad guys to present the element of danger. These are the brutal, Nazi types who are our villains."

OWN ROLE CRUCIAL

Crane believes that his own role is crucial to the believability of the series. Although he is a funnyman in other mediums, he plays Hogan fairly straight.

"He is a gung-ho type, almost like a John Wayne," the actor explained. "He can be flip in this relations with the camp commandant, but in most situations he is serious. When the heroes get too wild, he says, 'All right, knock it off!'

★ ★ ★

"I keep a close eye on the character, and if anything doesn't sound right in the script, I speak up about it. The series can be badly damaged when characterizations get out of hand."

Traffic Safety Drive Expands

30 States Now Using Michigan Approach

By United Press International

The "Bring 'em Back Alive" campaign has gone nationwide.

A traffic safety campaign started seven years ago by the Automobile Club of Michigan has been adopted by other auto clubs in 30 states and five provinces in Canada with the aim of trying to reduce the annual toll of traffic deaths.

The big kickoff drive was started in most of the participating states on the Fourth of July Holiday, with public service programs by the state auto clubs in cooperation with local radio stations.

The programs are based on providing motorists with useful information, particularly on holiday weekends. The information includes how traffic is flowing on major highways, how the fish are biting, what state parks or campgrounds are filled and which are still available for campers. And each message winds up with a word of caution for safe driving, and an urge to family heads to "bring 'em back alive."

MICHIGAN IDEA

The idea for this approach was conceived by the Auto Club of Michigan in 1961 after its general manager, Fred Rehm, concluded that so-called "scare tactics" warning drivers of the hazards of motoring on weekends, particularly holiday weekends, was doing no good.

The conclusion was reached on the basis of a survey headed by Dr. James Adams, leader of a Safety Research and Education project at Columbia University.

Adams concluded that scare techniques in educating drivers for safety are a dismal failure.

Rehm and the Auto Club of Michigan took it a step further. If scare fails, what would succeed? Perhaps a service program that drivers will listen to because it will contain information they want. Then, when attention is focused, sock in the message on the positive side, that is, encouraging safe driving rather than trying to discourage unsafe driving.

★ ★ ★

Fearless Oskar Defends May-December Romances

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Oskar Werner, the fearless Viennese star, who's a very young grandfather, risked a lot of indignation and nasty letters the other day by defending older men who go skulking around hunting for much younger wives and girlfriends.

WILSON

"Older men, more mature men, appeal to young girls," he said.

"What does age mean today anyway? When we see women in their 70s out on the streets in miniskirts?"

This all came up because the lean blond youngish-looking Werner—who's 45—plays a symphony conductor enamored of a young girl in his latest film, "Interlude."

"We know that Goethe, the great German poet, had his first children when he was 63," Werner said. "As a 12-year-old boy, I learned that Goethe had many romances with younger girls because they were important to his creativity and without them we would not have had his masterpieces."

★ ★ ★

I had met Werner in his suite at the Plaza in midafternoon.

A young girl was just leaving after having had lunch with him. It was whispered to me later that his own marriage is over.

"I won't talk about it," he said. "Even a bus driver is entitled to some private life."

He lectured to me that he wants to make love pictures, not sex pictures, and that love consists of knowing how to love, of responding to and responsibility to the other person, of respect for and knowledge of the other person. He learned this from an American psychiatrist.

Werner interrupted himself to make a point about the fact that the theater has been using directors for only 70 years and that for 2,000, they had no directors.

★ ★ ★

"I think Toscanini would not have taught Jascha Heifetz how to play the Beethoven concerto. He would have conducted the orchestra and let him play the concerto. The expression in America, 'Who directed you in "Hamlet" ' is ridiculous. Nobody directed me in "Hamlet." The production was directed by the director. Nobody asked Keane or any other immortal names who directed them in "Hamlet" or "Othello"."

Werner spoke suddenly of some American wives whom he called "American Amazons."

The other day a man ran after him in the street asking an autograph for his wife.

★ ★ ★

"If my wife would be in love with a conductor or a phony movie star, I wouldn't run after the autograph," Werner said. "But I gave him the autograph. Maybe she comes now and sees 'Interlude'."

ACLU—Defender of Rights

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A senator campaigning for a presidential nomination is slain, and the American Civil Liberties Union promptly goes to the aid of the accused.

A famed baby doctor is accused of conspiracy to counsel violation of the draft law. The ACLU involves itself.

★ ★ ★

For 48 years, the ACLU has been embroiling itself as a self-appointed defender of the Bill of Rights.

Controversy has nurtured the organization which now claims a national membership of 125,000 and operates on an annual budget of $2.2 million.

NEW CLASHES

Where is it headed?

Into new controversy.

Recommendations expected to generate new clashes came only recently from a 285-member national conference at the University of Michigan here.

It was proposed, among many other things, that the ACLU condone "violations of an admittedly valid law as a method of expressing political or social opinion."

Holding that "the present Selective Service law as presently administered and in present circumstances is a violation of civil liberties and constitutional guarantees," the Ann Arbor conference said the ACLU "should act to oppose the present draft law in the judicial, legislative and public arenas." The vote was 100 to 20.

PUBLIC BROADCASTING

Another resolution proposed government subsidy for public broadcasting "to foster diversity on the airways," and another advocated "a guaranteed income as a matter of right," in lieu of the present welfare system.

Whether these recommendations become national policy rests with the union's 80-member board of directors, which may adopt or reject conference actions, despite the fact this organization has battled for a "one-man, one-vote" principle in the public realm.

Among the latest trials in which the ACLU has involved itself was that of Dr. Benjamin Spock, pediatrician-author, and four others accused of conspiracy to counsel violation of the Selective Service Act. That, too, was lost in the lower courts, but is being appealed.

When Sirhan Bishara Sirhan was arrested in the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., the counsel for ACLU's Southern California chapter, A. L. Wirin, went to Sirhan in what Wirin described as a move to safeguard Sirhan's rights and to help him find a lawyer to represent him.

LANDMARK DECISIONS

The ACLU has been a participant in several landmark decisions coming from the U.S. Supreme Court in recent months.

Among those in which it was on the winning side:

- Federally funded aid cannot be denied dependent children on the grounds that a man having illicit relations with their mother is a "substitute father" and therefore must support them.
- An 1866 civil rights act bars all racial discrimination, private as well as public, in the sale and rental of property.

Losers have included:

- Establishment of a policeman's right to "stop and frisk" a suspicious-looking person.
- The upholding of a New York law requiring public school systems to lend textbooks to children in parochial or other private schools.

While it has been generating controversy at an increased rate in recent years, the ACLU also has been growing under the executive directorship of John de J. Pemberton, a 49-year-old Quaker lawyer from North Carolina, via the Harvard Law School and the State of Minnesota.

Pemberton took over in 1962 from ACLU's founder, 84-year-old Roger Baldwin, a World War I conscientious objector who went to jail and who was an activist in the American Council Against Militarism.

★ ★ ★

The union now has affiliates in 43 states with seven times that number of chapters.

Store-Insurance Cancelling Hit

LANSING (AP)— State Insurance Commissioner David Dykhouse yesterday asked all companies doing business in Michigan to declare a moratorium on cancellation and nonrenewal of property insurance.

Dykhouse said the moratorium will be effective immediately and will remain in effect until a pooling plan to cover high-risk property is in operation.

The pooling plan was intended to cover property in high-risk areas such as those that have been hit by riots or are considered potential riot areas.

The state insurance commissioner also announced that the Royal-Globe Insurance Companies, a major insurer, have agreed to extend the termination dates on policies recently cancelled in Detroit until the pooling plan is in operation.

TO BE COVERED

Those customers whose policies have been canceled by any one of the Royal-Globe companies and who have been unable to obtain other insurance will be assured of coverage for the present time, Dykhouse said.

"The property insurance market has become increasingly constricted in the urban areas of Michigan," Dykhouse said.

He commended the Royal-Globe companies for resuming this coverage in the Detroit area and thereby helping to alleviate further constriction, terming it "a commendable move and one that is in the public interest."

The insurance commissioner said his department is working for an early start of the basic property insurance pooling plan. State law provides that the plan will become effective after Aug. 1.

Tuna Is a Part of Veal Glaze

Guests are usually enthusiastic about this cold main dish.

Chilled Veal With Tuna Sauce

3½ pounds boned rump of veal (rolled, tied and cooked)
1 cup fat-free veal stock
1 can (7 ounces) white tuna
1 cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon (generous) lemon juice
Drained capers
1 can (2 ounces) anchovy fillets

Slice the veal about ⅛ inch thick.

In an electric blender, thoroughly blend the congealed veal stock and undrained tuna; gradually beat this into the mayonnaise along with the lemon juice; stir in 2 tablespoons of the capers.

Arrange veal slices on a large serving platter, spooning the tuna sauce over them as you do so. Cover tightly with a tent of foil and refrigerate for several hours or overnight; sauce should congeal.

Just before serving, arrange anchovies over the platter; sprinkle generously with capers. Makes 8 servings.

To cook veal; Simmer the boned rump in 1 pint water with a carrot, an onion stuck with 2 cloves, 2 ribs celery with leaves, several sprigs parsley, 1 teaspoon salt and 2 bay leaves until tender — about 2 hours.

Chill veal and stock separately; remove fat from congealed stock and use amount called for.

Freeze for Keeps

Crusty French- or Italian-style bread freezes and heats well. Because this type of bread slates fast, freezing it when it is fresh in means that you can keep it conveniently on hand.

CHEESE POUND CAKE — A new recipe for the traditional pound cake calls for cream cheese as well as margarine. You'll like the even texture of this loaf; it's just right to serve in thin slices with fruit or sherbet for dessert, or by itself for a snack.

Bake a Pound Cake

Cheese Helps Texture

Here's a cheese pound cake that not only delights the eye but pleases the palate . . . just naturally invites the cordiality of "coffee and." It contains all the delightful good taste of cream cheese (or Neufchatel for the calorie conscious) blended with margarine and eggs.

CHEESE POUND CAKE

2 (3-oz.) pks. cream or Neufchatel cheese
1 cup (2 sticks) margarine
1 cup sugar
3 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
2 cups sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt

Soften cheese and margarine at room temperature. In a large-size mixing bowl, beat cheese and margarine until light and fluffy. Stir in sugar.

Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add vanilla. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Fold into batter; blend well.

Grease a 5 x 9 x 3-inch loaf pan. Turn batter into pan. Bake in a moderate (325 degrees) oven, about 1 hour and 30 minutes.

Cool in pan for 10 minutes. Remove from pan and cool on wire rack. Makes one 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf cake.

Bite-Size Pieces

When you are serving raw flowerets of cauliflower on an appetizer tray or in a salad, cut the flowerets so they are quite small. If they are cut large, just too much munching is necessary!

Mushrooms Are Exciting

Mushrooms, their history, lore and recipes make fascinating reading, whether they are priced at $950.00 or 15 cents.

About ten years ago R. Gordon and Valentina Wasson published a beautifully done two volume set, "Mushrooms, Russia and History," an edition limited to 512 and costing several hundred dollars. This was obviously intended for the privileged few.

★ ★ ★

Today the Wasson's book is hard to find, priced at almost a thousand dollars when available. This is a scholarly dissertation on the fascinating fungus, but not at all a cookbook.

If, on the other hand, you love cooking and eating mushrooms, there's a great little leaflet of about two dozen of the best mushroom recipes, using either fresh or processed mushrooms, which costs 15 cents.

This 15-page illustrated booklet is called "Mushrooms Put M-m-m-m In Your Menu."

★ ★ ★

Write to the American Mushroom Institute, P.O. Box 373, Kennett Square, Penna. 19348. Remember to give your zip code and enclose the 15 cents in coin to pay postage and handling costs.

You Need Starter for Sourdough Bread

In olden days, every good cook had a batch of "starter." Without it, she could not make bread for commercial yeast was unheard of.

That's no problem today, but it's still fun to try your hand with the old method. The result in this case is tangy sourdough bread.

Sourdough Italian Bread

5 to 5½ cups enriched flour
2 cups water
½ cup Starter
2 tablespoons sugar
1 package yeast
2 teaspoons salt
1½ teaspoons soda

Combine 2 cups flour, water, Starter and sugar in a large glass or ceramic mixing bowl. Beat until smooth. Cover with waxed paper and let stand in warm place (80 to 85 degrees) at least 18 hours. Stir batter down.

★ ★ ★

Combine yeast, salt, soda and 1 cup flour. Add to Starter mixture and beat until well blended. Stir in more flour to make a moderately stiff dough.

Turn onto lightly floured surface and knead until smooth and satiny, 10 to 15 minutes. Divide dough in half; shape into balls and place in two greased 2-quart round baking dishes. Make diagonal cuts in tops.

Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled, about 1½ hours. Brush loaves with water and place shallow pan of boiling water on bottom rack of the over.

★ ★ ★

Bake in preheated 400 degree oven 40 to 50 minutes, or until done. Brush loaves with water twice during baking. Remove from baking dishes immediately; cool. Makes 2 loaves.

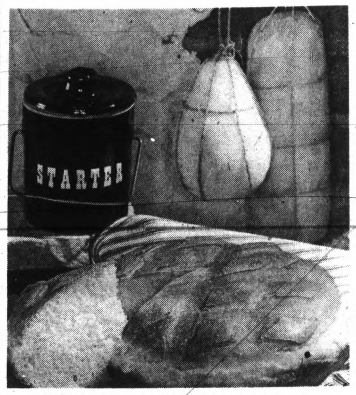
STARTER

1 package yeast
2 cups warm water
2 cups enriched flour

Combine ingredients in large glass bowl. Mix together until well blended. Let stand uncovered in warm place 48 hours. Stir occasionally. Stir well before use.

Pour out required amount and replenish remaining starter by mixing in equal parts flour and water. Let stand a few hours until it bubbles again before covering loosely and refrigerating.

Use and replenish every two weeks.



SOURDOUGH ITALIAN BREAD—Using your own sourdough starter, bake a couple of loaves of crusty Italian bread. Serve it warm with a choice of cheese. It makes delightful eating at any time of day.

Chicken Soup Becomes Sauce for Entree

The good planning behind a successful party starts with the first thought given to the menu. A well-worked-out party plan should provide elegant, "special" dining for the guests, and a minimum of fuss for the hostess.

One menu suggestion for honoring the bride-to-be (or the June graduate, or young prom goers) features a high and handsome parsley-dotted rice ring, filled with Creamed Chicken Superb.

Appetizingly attractive in its pale springtime colors, Creamed Chicken Superb combines pieces of chicken with celery, sliced peaches, toasted almonds, and seasonings of mace and tarragon.

All are blended together with a luscious, velvety saucing of condensed cream of chicken soup — that delicious, expertly seasoned, creamy soup that does so much to simplify party preparations or everyday meal planning.

★ ★ ★

To complete the pretty buffet, serve a cool salad of Bibb lettuce and cucumber slices, and oven-browned club rolls.

Creamed Chicken Superb

2 cups sliced celery
1 teaspoon ground mace
½ teaspoon tarragon, crushed
¼ Cup butter or margarine
3 cans (10½ ounces each) condensed cream of chicken soup
1 cup sour cream
6 cups cubed cooked chicken
1 can (1 pound) sliced peaches with juice
6 cups cooked rice
½ Cup chopped parsley
Toasted slivered almonds.

In skillet, cook celery with mace and tarragon in butter until tender. Blend in soup and sour cream; add chicken and peaches (save a few for garnish). Heat; stir now and then.

Meanwhile, combine rice and parsley; pack into buttered 6 cup ring mold. Unmold on serving plate; fill center with chicken mixture; top with almonds. Garnish with additional parsley and peaches. Makes 12 servings.

Mashed Potatoes Used in Hash

Good way to use roast beef leftover from the weekend is in hash.

ROAST BEEF HASH

2 cups ground (medium blade) leftover roasted beef, packed down
1 cup mashed potatoes (from a package of instant dehydrated potatoes)
¼ cup finely diced onion
¾ teaspoon salt
1-16 teaspoon white pepper
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
2 tablespoons butter

In a bowl thoroughly mix together all the ingredients except the butter.

In an 8-inch skillet over moderate heat melt the butter; add the hash mixture and without stirring brown on one side; invert on a large plate; slip back into skillet and brown other side.

Cut into 4 wedges; remove with a wide spatula. Serve with hili sauce. Makes 4 servings.

(In preparing the potatoes use package directions adding the amount of water, salt and milk called for. If a teflon-lined heavy skillet is used the hash will take about 10 minutes per side to brown.)

Rich Flavor of Berries Makes Ice Delicious

The Italians specialize in putting the strawberry on ice . . . in a variety of frozen sweets. The most modest and refreshing of these are the European water ices that were so fashionable at the turn of the century.

No cream, no milk. A plain crush of fresh fruit and fruit juices with just enough sugar to bring out the details of the flavor. That is our recipe for Strawberry Water Ice.

★ ★ ★

Throughout Italy you will find many ways of serving strawberries with wine. These recipes have in common their extreme simplicity, their freshness and elan.

For Fragole al Viro the fresh strawberries are chilled and sugared, then piled with red wine or orange juice or with a sweetish white wine or with champagne.

In the recipe for Strawberries and Champagne, the berries are marinated in brandy, then dressed with pink champagne and frosted mint leaves. Lovely to round out any meal . . . especially a festive breakfast!

ITALIAN STRAWBERRY WATER ICE

2 cups sugar
1 cup water
4 pints fresh strawberries
¼ cup lemon juice
⅓ cup orange juice
Pink California champagne (optional)

Combine sugar and water in medium saucepan. Heat and stir until sugar dissolves; then boil 5 minutes. Cool.

Force strawberries through food mill or blend in electric blender; strain to remove seeds. Blend strawberry puree, lemon and orange juices into cool syrup.

Pour into ice cube trays. Wrap trays in aluminum foil. Freeze until firm . . . 20 minutes before serving, remove from freezer and let soften slightly.

Serve in sherbet glasses . . . with champagne, if desired. Makes 8-12 servings.

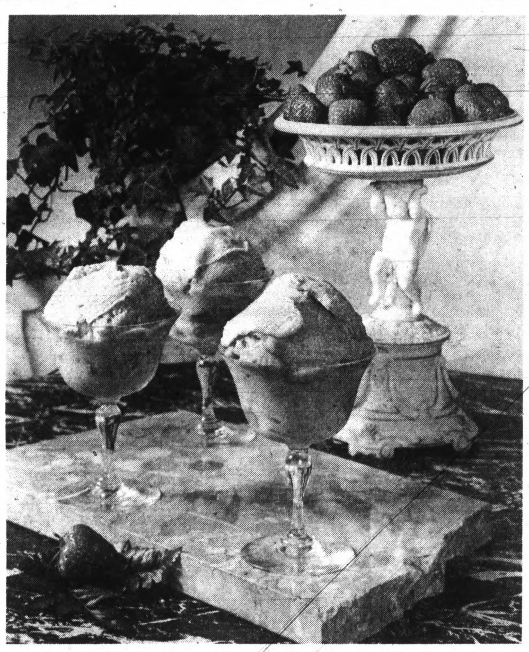
STRAWBERRIES AND CHAMPAGNE

4 pints fresh strawberries
⅔ cup sugar
½ cup brandy
Pink champagne
Frosted mint leaves

Place strawberries in large shallow bowl; sprinkle with sugar and brandy. Cover and chill several hours. Spoon strawberries into glasses; pour champagne over strawberries. Garnish with mint.

★ ★ ★

Wash fresh mint sprigs and dry with paper towels. Brush with lightly beaten egg white; then dip in fine granulated sugar.



ITALIAN STRAWBERRY ICE — Enjoy this simplest and most refreshing of summer desserts . . . Italian Water Ice made with fresh strawberries. The marble cherub offers whole fresh berries to crunch along with the ice.

Ground Pork Makes Party Fare

If happiness is spending less than you earn as it says in "David Copperfield," here's a dish to make budget-watchers happy while it pleases gourmet guests.

Glazed pork patties combine thrifty ground fresh pork with chopped water chestnuts for an interesting texture and crunch. These rounded, plump patties are then gently cooked with a fruity sweet-sour sauce for a delightful flavor.

PARTY FARE

The pork patties are so simple to prepare you'll want to serve them often to the family and to guests, too.

For a party look, garnish the patties with small Belgian endive spears or pineapple slices attractively edged with paprika. Toasted sliced almonds arranged on the glazed pork patties give an extra touch of glamour.

★ ★ ★

You might want to serve curried or buttered rice, a tossed vegetable salad and freeze-ahead coconut ice cream balls with raspberry sauce. It will be a meal to remember.

GLAZED PORK PATTIES

1½ pounds ground fresh pork
½ cup fine corn flake crumbs
1 egg
1 can (5-ounce) water chestnuts, drained and chopped
2 tablespoons soy sauce
½ teaspoon ground ginger
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon shortening
1 cup pineapple juice
½ cup orange marmalade
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon cornstarch

Combine first 7 ingredients; mix well. Shape into 6 large balls; flatten slightly. Brown meat patties well on both sides in hot shortening.

Drain off excess drippings. Add ½ cup pineapple juice. Cover and simmer until pork is done, about 45 minutes.

Combine remaining ½ cup pineapple juice, orange marmalade, lemon juice and cornstarch; blend. Pour over pork patties and cook until sauce is thickened.

Arrange glazed pork patties on serving platter, and top each with sliced toasted almonds. Serve plain or if desired, garnish platter with paprika-edged half pineapple slices and Belgian endive spears.

GLAZED PORK PATTIES — Guests who like distinctive food will enjoy glazed pork patties. And lucky for the hostess, they're easy to prepare and moderately priced.

Cherries Galore Encountered at Festival

By JANET ODELL
Food Editor, The Pontiac Press

Twenty-six years of living in Michigan and this year was the first time I attended a National Cherry Festival. The weeklong event in Traverse City has been going on for 42 years.

Although I respond to the excitement of a parade as well as the next person, that wasn't my primary interest in the Festival. I wanted to see the cherry harvest and talk with some of the people in the industry.

★ ★ ★

Mother Nature being the capricious individual she is, no one can accurately predict the exact day when the cherries will be ripe. Festival officials know it is shortly after July Fourth.

SOME NOT READY

But only sweet cherries were being picked last week; the tart red cherries, or pie cherries, were not ready.

In the hospitality room at the motel, in the lobby and in booths on the streets, there were beautiful big black cherries — free in the first two places. Everyone ate and ate.

Mrs. Edna Alsup, Michigan State University extension home economist in Grand Traverse County, took us around on Thursday. We stopped in Leland where we talked with the county agricultural agent.

He showed us pictures of equipment used to shake the cherry trees. This causes all the fruit to drop off onto a canvas. A quick and efficient way of stripping the trees, it is the answer to labor shortages. But it's expensive — about $17,000 for one machine.

DEMAND CHANGES

Growers try to anticipate demand, of course. Right now, they're planting more sweet cherry trees to replace trees that die out.

The demand for pie cherries may increase in a few years and change the planting schedule. It keeps nurserymen hopping.

Cherries that are to be made into maraschino cherries are often stored in brine in plastic swimming pool liners which are placed in deep pits. The cherries have to be brined anyway.

★ ★ ★

And speaking of maraschino cherries, did you know that USDA food standards says maraschino cherries may be prepared in 11 different colors? I always thought that red and green were the only colors.

Forty per cent of the Traverse Bay cherries are frozen now.

PIE FACTORY

On Friday, we visited the Chef Pierre frozen pie factory. Most of their pies go to institutions, although they have some retail outlets, but not in the Pontiac area.

The owner, Peter Dendrinos, helped in his family's bakery from the age of nine. The job he hated most was washing pie tins. He uses nothing but disposable foil pans in his business now.

CHILI-ETTI — Brown one pound ground beef and one chopped onion in skillet; pour off fat. Add 2 cans (8 oz.) tomato sauce with mushrooms; one can kidney beans (not drained); one cup water; 4 oz. spaghetti, broken into 1-inch pieces; one teaspoon chili powder and one teaspoon salt. Cover; simmer 12 to 15 minutes or until spaghetti is tender. Stir in one cup shredded Cheddar cheese. Heat just till cheese melts. Makes 4-5 servings.

Creamy Fruit Mixture Has Corn Flake Crust

Representatives from three of the four basic food groups are found in Tutti-Frutti Freeze, a cool and colorful dessert.

The candidate from the cereal and bread group is corn flake crumbs, forming the golden crust. Cream cheese and whipping cream are the delegates from the milk group; bananas and maraschino cherries represent the fruit and vegetable group.

★ ★ ★

The people at your party are sure to elect Tutti-Frutti Freeze their favorite.

TUTTI-FRUTTI FREEZE

2 cups corn flakes or ½ cup corn flake crumbs
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 3-ounce package cream cheese, softened
2 tablespoons milk
2 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons soft butter or margarine
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup whipping cream
½ cup sugar
1½ cups diced bananas (2 medium)
½ cup chopped maraschino cherries or sweet cherries

Is using corn flakes, crush into fine crumbs. Combine corn flakes crumbs, sugar and butter; mix well. Press evenly and firmly in bottom of 1-quart ice cube tray. Chill

★ ★ ★

Soften gelatin in lemon juice; cook over hot water, stirring occasionally, until gelatin is dissolved. Beat cream cheese, milk and salt until smooth. Stir in gelatin mixture.

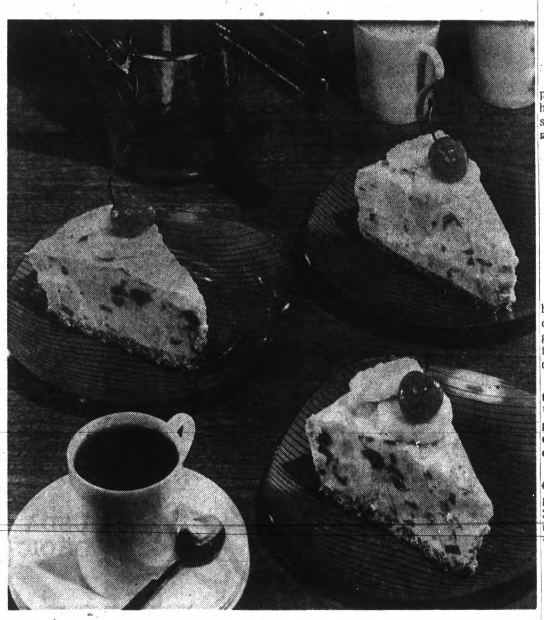
Whip cream until it mounds; gradually beat in sugar until cream holds peaks. Fold in cheese mixture, bananas and cherries. Pour in crumb-lined tray.

Place in freezer for 1 hour. Store in refrigerator until serving time. Cut into bars or pie-shaped wedges to serve.

★ ★ ★

Garnish with additional banana slices and cherries, if desired.

Yield: 6-8 servings.



TUTTI-FRUITTI FREEZE—This creamy frozen dessert is not too sweet. Bits of banana and fresh or marschino cheeries give both texture and color. Keep a tray of it in your freezer for dessert or snack time.

Roll Fruit in Biscuits

With so many women stopping for coffee at friends' homes, these cherry whirls are something new and easy to make with a biscuit mix.

Cherry Whirl Biscuits

1 (1 lb.) can or jar dark sweet cherries, pitted
3 cups biscuit mix
½ cup sugar
½½ teaspoons grated lemon peel
¼ cup butter
1½ cup milk
1 cup cottage cheese

Drain cherries, cut into halves. Combine biscuit mix, ¼-cup sugar and ½ teaspoon grated lemon peel. Cut in butter. Stir in milk to form stiff dough.

Roll out to a 10x14-inch rectangle. Combine cottage cheese, ¼- cup sugar and 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel. Spread over dough. Sprinkle with well-drained cherries.

Roll up beginning at wide end. Cut into 12 slices. Place on greased baking sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 30 minutes or until golden brown. Serve warm. Makes 12.

Sugar in Last

Adding sugar to whipping cream before it is whipped will decrease the volume that can be obtained and will increase total whipping time. Add after whipping.

Wine Booklet A Mixture of History and Advice

A new 32-page booklet entitled "Ways With Wine," with its contents ranging from appropriate Biblical and Shakespearean quotations to the latest recipes, has been published by the Paul Masson Vineyards of Saratoga, California.

Subtitled "The Paul Masson Wine Reader," the attractively printed pamphlet is a compendium of facts, history, literary quotations, wine descriptions, etiquette and cooking hints "on the nature and uses of fine California wines, champagnes, vermouths and brandy."

The booklet was prepared by Paul Masson Vineyards in order to meet the ever-increasing curiosity among Americans about wine.

It follows on the success of more than 2,000,000 copies in seven editions of a previously printed booklet with the same title. The current edition is completely revised in format and contents, with twelve new wine cooking recipes recommended by the Paul Masson Home Economists.

Vacationers Return, Then Lie Around

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — This is the season to stuff cotton in your ears as soon as you get to work.

BOYLE

It is vacation time.

To the average American, going on a vacation is only half the fun. The other half consists in lying about it after he gets back home.

★ ★ ★

Listening to a returned vacationer is about as thrilling as hearing a middle-aged woman discuss the dress she wore on her wedding day or a parent describe his children's tonsillectomies, one by one.

But there is no known way to escape the ordeal. Hence the need for earplugging.

LARGER THAN LIFE

These vacation tales usually follow a pattern: they are larger than life. If the fellow enjoyed himself, there has been no revelry like it since Nero fiddled while Rome burned. If it rained, there has been no downpour to match it since the one that floated Noah's Ark.

Take the cotton wadding out of your ears for the next few weeks, and you'll probably hear from the following familiar vacation types in your own office:

★ ★ ★

"Hank the Hero — "So I took one of these two drowning old ladies under each arm and swam half a mile against a riptide to get them to shore. The beach was lined with cheering people." The truth is that Hank went wading and panicked when a wave went over his head. The two old ladies came out, punched him in the nose, then dragged him to safety.

★ ★ ★

Romantic Rosalind—"The third night out there was a full moon, and as we were sitting alone on deck, he silently slipped this diamond ring on my finger," she says. Actually, her aunt gave Rosalind the diamond on her 19th birthday, and Rosalind had it remounted a week before she left on the cruise.

FIGURES LIE

Statistical Sam—He claims he averaged 800 miles on the road every day of his vacation. If you remark, "Aren't you spreading it on a little thick, Sam?" he whips out his gasoline bills to try to prove his tall tale. But all they prove is that if he was making 800 miles a day he was also getting 75 miles to the gallon.

Sportsman Sid—"He battled me like a tiger for a full half-hour, but when I finally reeled him in he turned out to be a 9-pound bass, the biggest ever caught at Lake Bid-a-wee," says Sid. The real facts: It was the largest minnow anybody at the lake had ever wasted time on, and it managed to wiggle off the hook before Sid could clip it into the boat.

Homeloving Harry—"I painted my house all by myself," is his brag, as he pulled out snapshots. But if his wife were there to hear him, she'd grimly let you know that she and the kids painted their cottage after Harry fell off the first step of the ladder sprained his ankle, and spent the rest of his vacation dozing in a back yard hammock.

★ ★ ★

Chet the Cheat—"Had a wonderful time beating the pro on this golf course—it's the best one in the mountains," he says with offhand pride. And where was Chet really? This guy owes so many people that, except for one day at the racetrack, he had to hide in his basement, ducking his creditors.

BOSS GRUMBLES

The Great Man Himself—"Took so much paper work along with me I never even had time to go out and get a decent tan," the boss grumbles testily. But he's the biggest fibber of all. He didn't take any paper work with him, and the reason he didn't get a tan is that the sun doesn't shine on the indoor roulette wheels at Las Vegas, where he lost his shirt.

But it isn't polite to question the veracity of a returned vacationer as he limps up to your desk and begins to recount his fabulous adventures, full of woe, or wonder, or both. Simply press the cotton a little more tightly in your ears—and smile, smile, smile.

PLEASANT PROBLEM—Head coach Joe Schmidt (left) of the Detroit Lions and offensive coach Bill McPeak have five quarterbacks on their training camp roster, something which hasn't prevailed for many years for the Detroit Lions. The entire team of veterans and rookies began official workouts today at Cranbrook. Four of the quarterbacks are in camp and the other, Greg Landry, is with the College All-Stars.

Oriole Wings Fluttering With Seven Game Streak

CHICAGO (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles have their wings fluttering with a seven-game winning streak and now hope they can get their feet moving the next two weekends against league-leading Detroit.

"Let's just hope we can get Detroit to listen to the pitterpatter of moving feet," said Jim Hardin Tuesday night.

Hardin had just hurled the Orioles to a 4-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox to extend the Baltimore streak to seven games, six of them under the guidance of personable Manager Earl Weaver, who has yet to lose in the big leagues.

The Orioles have cut Detroit's once invincible lead to 6½ games and five in the loss column and meet the Tigers in Detroit this weekend and in Baltimore the next.

Any carryover of the current streak could bring about a race in the American League.

Hardin, who boosted his record to 11-5 by whipping the Sox a third time this season and the fifth in his career which began last year, issued a warning.

★ ★ ★

"We have a great defensive team and the guys are starting to hit," said Hardin. "All I can say to Detroit is watch out. We got them for a four-game series this weekend.

"Maybe the Tigers will hear the pitterpatter of Oriole feet. That's something they haven't heard all season."

★ ★ ★

"Our pitching is good and guys like Frank Robinson, Boog Powell and Brooks Robinson are starting to hit," said Weaver, who has piloted the Orioles to six of their last seven victories.

"We're starting to use our speed and that's a big factor," continued Weaver. "You can't expect a team to come up with 10 or 12 hits in every game.

"Don Buford, Mark Belanger and Paul Blair are running well and we'll use their speed on the bases. Right now I'd match Buford and Belanger with any other two men in the league when it comes to speed."

★ ★ ★

Weaver was asked if he thought his club could win the pennant by not losing another game all season and he answered, "Yes, if Detroit loses seven games."

Baltimore still has a pair with the rejuvenated White Sox before facing the Tigers over the weekend.

The Oriole victory was the first loss suffered by the Sox under the return of Manager Al Lopez, who led the Sox to three straight triumphs after taking over from deposed Manager Eddie Stanky.

Byrne to Make Bid at FLCC

Chuck Byrne has the odds and superstition against him in his attempt for four straight Invitational golf championships when he competes in the 6th annual Forest Lake event this week.

Byrne, of Birmingham, who has won successive Invitational championships at Red Run, Pine Lake and Birmingham, will team with Knobby Walsh of Indianwood when match play starts Thursday at Forest Lake.

He will be trying for his 13th straight match victory, and Walsh admits he is superstitious.

Walsh, was a former pro assistant under Bob Gajda at Forest Lake, but later had his amateur status reinstated.

NO REPEATERS

In the short history of the Forest Lake tournament, there has never been a repeat winner. Cal Cooke and Ray Palmer won the initial tournament in 1963.

Following champions were Harry Nederlander-Gene Eyler in 1964; George Linklater-Dr. Robert Lurie in 1965; Walter Hagen, Jr.-Bill Benjamin in 1966 and then Slocum and Clark.

A victory for Byrne would give him a sweep of the local big three, Pine Lake, Birmingham and Forest Lake.

He is a past winner at Indianwood as well as Red Run and currently defending champion at Gowanie.

★ ★ ★

The weekend festivities will begin tonight with the annual Invitational banquet.

A 36 hole finale is scheduled for Saturday, with the awards dinner to follow.

First Boat Arrives

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Colin Forbes, a British film producer, sailed his sloop rigged trimaran, The Startled Faun, into Newport Tuesday, finishing the 3,000-mile single handed sail from Plymouth, England.

The race began June 1. Forbes' arrival left only three of the starting boats unaccounted for.

Mud Hens' String Reaches 6 in Row

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — Toledo's resurgent Mud Hens remain securely atop the International League standings.

Toledo last night feasted on Rochester pitching a third consecutive game while trouncing the Red Wings 10-5.

★ ★ ★

Dave Campbell's 20th home run and Ike Brown's seventh featured a 14-hit attack that sent Toledo past Rochester.

The Mud Hens, who now have won six in a row to reclaim the league lead, scored 36 runs in the three-game set at Red Wing Stadium.

Battle of QB's Is Lion 'Problem'

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Too many quarterbacks can be a problem, but a pleasant problem for the Detroit Lions, who officially began twice daily practice sessions today at Cranbrook.

None of the veterans among coaches or players can remember the last time there were five quarterbacks on the Lions' training camp roster.

★ ★ ★

Four are in camp, while the other, No. 1 choice Greg Landry of Massachusetts, is in the College All-Star training camp.

Most of the attention, of course, is centered on quarterback Bill Munson, for whom the Lions paid a heavy price to get from the Los Angeles Rams.

Munson has the size, the arm and for his age, enough experience to give the Lions a new lease on the 1968 season.

Experience might be lacking over-all among the signal calling quintet, but the Lions are more than happy with their youth corp and the battle which is certain to take place for positions.

SHARED DUTIES

Karl Sweetan, with two seasons of sharing duties with Milt Plum, is the only other signal caller with any amount of experience.

Tim Jones, whom the Lions' redshirted to the Pontiac Firebirds last season, is back in camp to make his bid for the job.

★ ★ ★

Landry, who has been impressive in various college post-season bowl games since last fall, including the recent coaches All-America game in Atlanta, is almost sure to get a berth on the squad with the strong possibility that the Lions will hold on to three quarterbacks.

That leaves Greg Barton, a relatively unknown from Tulsa, who may be the darkhorse of the contingent.

Barton, 6-1 and 190, picked 9th in the 1968 draft by the Lions, had a creditable record at Tulsa University in 1966, but last year he was out most of the season with a shoulder injury.

During the rookie camp last week, Barton was the lone quarterback available because of NFL players-owners dispute which kept Munson, Sweetan and Jones out of early drills.

The camp proved highly beneficial for Barton and the coaches were impressed with his throwing.

"He threads them pretty good," said one of the Lions' coaches, "and he has good attitude and spirit.

"Once he learns the offense and the signals he could be one of the big surprises," it was noted, "and it's good to have such a young group of quarterbacks to work with."

The Lions will have a lot more to work with at several positions especially at linebacker where veterans Wayne Walker and Mike Lucci, along with sophs Ron Goovert and Paul Naumoff and four rookies are vying for positions.

★ ★ ★

The Lions traded linebackers Wally Hilgenberg and Ernie Clark and obtained defensive ends John Baker and Joe Robb, both highly regarded in the NFL.

DEFENSIVE OPENING

Withe the retirement of Darris McCord, lone returning regular at the defensive end slot is Larry Hand, but there are eight second year men or rookies after a job at this position.

★ ★ ★

There were five players who were missing from yesterday's planned picture session which was halted by a severe thunderstorm in the Cranbrook area. The players are en route to camp and with their presence the Lions will have 68 in workouts, not including four in All-Star camp.

★ ★ ★

The twice daily workouts are closed to the public. First appearance of the Lions will be in the intra-squad scrimmage at U. of D., Friday July 26th.

Woman Selected for Torch Honor

MEXICO CITY (AP)—For the first time in history of the modern Olympic Games, a woman will make the last dash through the stadium and light the Olympic torch with a flame brought from Mount Olympus.

The Mexicans, hosts for the Summer Games of 1968, have chosen Norma Enriqueta Basilio Sotelo, a 20-year-old hurdler, as the Mexican athlete whose lighting of the torch will be most symbolic of the spirit of the Games.

BROTHERS DOING WELL—Clarkston tennis playing addicts Kirk (left) and Kim Beattie entered the maximum of six events in this year's Oakland County Open Tennis Tournament and still are alive in five of them. Kirk last night reached the quarter-final round in junior singles with a 6-2, 6-0 victory over Carter Ryan. Kirk and Tom Bullard are the top-seeded entry in junior doubles, and he is only one victory away from the quarter-final round in both men's singles and men's doubles. Kim has reached the third round in men's singles. Kim and Bullard were eliminated in men's doubles.

Seeded Players Pushed Hard on Clay Courts

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Adjusting to the slower clay court surface is a problem for tennis players accustomed to playing on grass. The switch bothered some of them Tuesday in second-round action at the National Clay Courts Tennis Championships.

There were no major upsets, but seven seeded players went to three sets before winning their matches.

One of them was Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., the defending men's singles champion.

The top-seeded Ashe played two matches, winning the first 6-4, 6-1, from Tom Mozur, Streetwater, Tenn. In his second outing, against unseeded Dan Bleckinger of Oshkosh, Wis., he dropped the first set 5-7 before settling down to win the next two sets and the match, 6-2, 6-2. Ashe, who had just arrived from Sweden, admitted he had some difficulty in getting used to the clay. "I expect problems the first day," he said. "I just got off the plane yesterday."

SAME PROBLEM

Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico, ranked first nationally and seeded second at Milwaukee, also said the change to clay was a problem for him in his 6-3, 6-8, 6-4 victory over Zan Guerry, Lookout Mountain, Tenn.

Jaime Fillol of Chile—second seeded foreign player—subdued unseeded John Brown of Australia 6-2, 5-7, 8-6.

★ ★ ★

Canada's Mike Belkin, the top foreign seed, beat Sherwood Stewart, Baytown, Tex., 6-4, 6-2. Third-seeded Ramanthan Krishnan of India beat Colin Stubs, Australia, 6-4,4-6, 6-4.

Peaches Bartkowicz of Hamtramck, seeded second in women's singles, beat Pam Teeguarden, Los Angeles, 6-2, 6-0.

Tigers' Mound Ace Shuts Out Athletics, 4-0

OAKLAND (AP) — Denny McLain of the Detroit Tigers says he won't think about winning 30 games until he has won 29.

He lifted his record for the season to 18-2 with an eight-hitter Tuesday night as he shut out the Oakland Athletics 4-0.

★ ★ ★

"If I'm fortunate enough to win 29 games, then I'll start thinking about winning 30," McLain said.

"Right now, all I want to do is help the Tigers win the pennant," he added.

BEHIND SCHEDULE

McLain is three days behind the 30-win pace of Lefty Grove, the last American League pitcher to win that many in a season. Grove won his 18th game on July 13, 1931, and finished with a 31-4 record.

Catcher Bill Freehan of the Tigers credited McLain's success to his ability to get out of trouble. McLain had two runners on in the first inning but escaped with a double play.

In the sixth he struck out Oakland's home run leader, Reggie Jackson, with two men on.

Throwing fastballs, curves, sliders and a few changeups, he didn't walk a batter.

"When I have my control I'll give any team a battle," McLain said.

Johnny Sain, Tiger pitching coach, taught McLain the slider because Denny felt he needed another pitch.

"He tried to teach it to me last year but I'm a slow learner and didn't catch on until this season," McLain said.

"There are 24 other players and the coaches who are responsible for my success," he said when asked if Sain was most responsible for his fine year.

★ ★ ★

Detroit got a quick lead with an unearned run in the first against loser Chuck Dobson, 7-9. The Tigers scored again in the second on singles by Willie Horton and Tom Matchick and a walk.

They added a third run in the fourth on Al Kaline's fifth homer.

A double by Jim Northrup, a walk and Freehan's single accounted for the Tigers' final run.

Detroit maintained a 6½-game lead over Baltimore. Oakland dropped to a tie for sixth, 14½ behind.

Tonight it will be Joe Sparma, 7-8, for Detroit, pitching against Oakland's Jim Hunter, 6-8.

Oakland Booters Gain at Expense of Detroit, 3-2

By The Associated Press

Selimir Milosevic almost single footedly has kicked the Oakland Clippers into second place in the Pacific Division of the North American Soccer League at the expense of the downtrodden Detroit Cougars.

The center forward from Yugoslavia booted home three goals as the Clippers shattered a three-game losing streak Tuesday night with a 3-2 victory over the Cougars.

The nine points pushed Oakland ahead of Los Angeles with 108 points, still far behind idle San Diego's 132, while Detroit, with 49 points, made little movement out of the Lakes Division cellar.

In other matches, Atlanta and Washington marked time in a battle for the top spot in the Atlantic Division as Atlanta dropped Gulf leader Kansas City 3-1 and Washington tripped Lakes leader Chicago 4-1. Boston blanked Houston 1-0.

FAST START

Milosevic had Oakland ahead 2-0 with two goals within 1½ minutes in the first half, and after host Detroit pulled within 2-1, he scored again at 27 minutes of the second session before 3,136 fans.

Atlanta raised its point total to 110 as Freddie Mwila of Zambia scored twice within 6½ minutes in the second half to overcome a 1-0 deficit before a home crowd of 10,507, one of the season's largest.

Washington kept pace by exploding for four goals in the second half, two by Juan Palleta, after spotting Chicago a score before the largest crowd in D.C. Stadium this season, 9,280. The Whips, moving ahead of New York into second place, now have 105 points.

But Tribe Pulls Plug

Angels Find Stopper

ANAHEIM (AP) — Although his record doesn't show it, Tom Murphy of the California Angels may be the "stopper" the club has been looking for.

"I just hope he doesn't get discouraged because we can't get him any runs," Angel Manager Bill Rigney said Tuesday Night after the 6-foot-3, hard-throwing right-hander pitched nine innings against Cleveland, allowing only three hits and one run.

* * *

The Indians eventually won the series opener 2-1 in the 10th inning when Larry Brown hit a tie-breaking single off reliever Marty Pattin. It spelled defeat for Bobby Locke, 1-1, who had given up a leadoff double to Joe Azcue.

"It's a shame we couldn't have won it for Murphy," said Rigney. "Lord knows we had enough chances."

EVEN RECORD

Murphy has a 1.94 earned run average for his first 55 2-3 innings in the majors. But he has only managed to break even in his first four decisions and has made four other starts without a decision.

"He's for real," said Rigney, "and he should be around for a long time."

Murphy's only mistake came in the first inning. Jose Cardenal singled, stole second and scored on a two-out single by Duke Sims.

* * *

The Angels tied the score in the fifth inning when Vic Davalillo, Jim Fregosi and Bubba Morton hit successive singles off starter Sam McDowell.

"We should have won the game in the second inning," said Rigney.

* * *

A walk, a hit batsman and a passed ball put Angels at second and third with none out. But McDowell slipped a called third strike past Bobby Knoop, purposely walked Leo Rodriguez, fanned Bob Rodgers and retired Murphy on a grounder to short.

* * *

The Angels had another chance to win the game in the ninth when, with runners at first and second and one away, Fregosi, who had hit three straight singles, then grounded into a double play.

The victory kept the third-place Indians 7½ games behind league-leading Detroit. The loss left the Angels in a sixth-place tie with Oakland.

ROUGH LANDING — The Minnesota Twins' Tony Oliva slides safely into third as the ball bounces away from Boston third baseman Joe Foy in the first inning of an American League game last night. Oliva tripled to center field to knock in two of Minnesota's six runs in the first inning. The Twins won, 12-3.

Cardinals Keep Winning Ways

By the Associated Press

You can't help getting the feeling that the St. Louis Cardinals are going to be chuckling all the way to the World Series over those persistent reports they're well overdue for a reversal of fortunes.

Masterful Lou Brock did just about everything but sweep out the joint Wednesday night as the Cards whipped San Francisco's slumping Giants 6-1.

* * *

And, to add a bit of sweetening, Nelson Briles picked up the victory on a three-hitter.

It was the sixth straight for the Cards, who've been beaten only once in 14 games this month.

Brock not only delivered three hits, two runs and two RBI, but also contributed three stolen bases as St. Louis held on to its 9½ game lead over Atlanta, a 2 conqueror of Houston.

SLUMP ENDS

Pittsburgh ended its 10-game losing streak by stopping the New York Mets 3-2, Chicago snapped Philadelphi's winning streak at seven, 4-3, with Glenn Beckert's 12th—inning double, and Ron Fairly's grand slam homer guided Los Angeles past Cincinnati 9-2 in other National League activity.

* * *

Brock picked a painful way to begin his string of heroics. He was hit by a pitch in the first inning, then stole second before eventually scoring on Mike Shannon's sacrifice fly.

In the second, Brock's two-run single broke a 1-1 tie. He then swiped second again and came in on Curt Flood's single.

Willie McCovey's 23rd homer produced the Giants' lone run.

SHORT OF RECORDS

Pittsburgh relied on Jerry May's two-out two-run double in the seventh to end its tailspin two losses short of the modern-era club record set in 1939.

May's decisive blow came after Donn Clendenon walked and Bill Mazerowski beat out a slow roller. The Mets, who lost their fifth straight, had taken a 2-1 lead in the fifth on Ron Swoboda's two-run single.

* * *

Fairly's grand slam—first by a Dodger in four years—enabled Los Angeles to break its five-game victory drought. It was the Reds' seventh loss in a row. Fairly also scored another run in the seventh on a sacrifice fly, and Tom Haller had a three-run homer.

Don Pavletich hit a solo blast for Cincinnati in the seventh.

Beckert had a chance to be a hero twice in the Cubs' triumph, and in the process extended his hitting streak to 21 games.

WINNING HIT

In addition to his winning blow in the 12th, he had a run-scoring single in a two-run sixth, after starter Chris Short had held the Cubs hitless for five innings.

However, the Phils sent it into extra innings with a pair of runs in the bottom of the ninth when Tony Taylor doubled and scored on an outfield error and Cookie Rojas singled in a tally.

* * *

Atlanta used Bob Johnson's tie-breaking single in the eighth, and Tito Francona's two-run single in a three-run ninth to upend Houston.

The Astros had taken a 2-1 lead in the fifth on John Bateman's double and Dick Simpson's single, but the Braves tied it in the next inning on Bob Tillman's pinch single.

Rocky Marks 'Homecoming'

Colavito Helps Yanks to 4-0 Victory

NEW YORK (AP) — Rocky Colavito, a Yankee Stadium autograph hound as a teen-ager, put his own mark on an American League baseball Tuesday night and gave himself a nice homecoming present.

The veteran outfielder, who'll be 35 next month, made his debut with the New York Yankees, who signed him as a free agent Monday, and walloped a three-run homer for the first runs in a 4-0 triumph over Washington in the opener of a twi-night doubleheader.

Colavito sat out the night-cap, which the Yankees also won, 4-3, on Joe Pepitone's two-run homer.

Defeat Red Sox, 12-3

Twins Soften Griffith's Ire

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) — Nothing could have salved the ire of Minnesota Twins' President Calvin Griffith better than Tuesday night's 12-3 drubbing of the Boston Red Sox.

The hitting explosion tempered momentarily Griffith's displeasure over the Twins' recent slump — nine defeats in their last 12 games — which has dumped them into the American League's second division.

* * *

Griffith called Manager Cal Ermer in for a man-to-man discussion of the Twins' woes Tuesday. Among other things, he ordered Ermer to instruct pitching coach Early Wynn to step up the conditioning program for the Twins' pitchers.

"Our pitchers have got to get their legs in better shape," fumed Griffith. "How many pitchers have we had go nine innings recently?"

WENT DISTANCE

Dean Chance, who Griffith has suggested is overweight, went out and beat the Red Sox with a six-hitter — going the distance for the eighth time in 22 starts this season.

"I'll let my pitching do my talking," Chance said after the game.

Chance, now 8-9 with a 2.71 earned run average, had a 12-0 lead after four innings, then weakened in the middle innings when the Sox scored their three runs — including two on solo homers by Reggie Smith and pitcher Jim Lonborg.

The Twins blasted Gary Bell, 8-4, for six runs in the first inning as Tony Oliva tripled home two runs and John Roseboro slammed a two-run homer.

HEAVY BARRAGE

They kept up the barrage, scoring twice in the second, twice in the third and twice in the fourth.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By John Carter

Here's a real puzzler for you. Suppose a batter in baseball hit a home run, but as he rounded first base he collapsed and fell unconscious between first and second . . . What would happen? . . . Oddly, such a possibility is not covered specifically in the rules . . . However, umpires say this is the one case where another runner would be allowed to come in and finish the trip around the bases for the fallen man provided the ball was out of the park and not in play.

Do you know where the word "Olympics" comes from? It's from the Greek word "Olympiad," which means every four years . . . And, in the ancient Greek times, as today, the Olympics are held every four years.

* * *

Here's one that may surprise you . . . Do you know exactly how great a hitter Ted Williams was? . . . Many fans are surprised to learn that he finished with a higher lifetime batting average than ALL these famous men . . . Tris Speaker, Babe Ruth, George Sisler, Lou Gehrig, Nap Lajoie, Eddie Collins, Paul Waner, Stan Musial, Joe DiMaggio, Jimmy Foxx and Honus Wagner to name just a few . . . Ted's lifetime average was .344.

I bet you didn't know . . . that we balance tires at 100 m.p.h. — no bubbles, no guesswork. It's done right the first time. Want a recommendation? Ask your neighbor — he gets his balancing done here.

Youth Challenges Veterans in State Women's Golf

Special to The Pontiac Press

ANN ARBOR — Nancy Patch of Farmington foundered badly at the outset of her match, then came alive with a sensational string of four straight birdies to continue as the No. 1 contender in the Women's state golf tournament at Barton Hills Country Club today.

The string of four birdies enabled Nancy, 23-year-old Ohio State University graduate, to defeat Barbara Rohn of Ludington's Lincoln Hills 4-3, in her first round match yesterday. They left her four over par for the 15 holes of the match.

★ ★ ★

Today Nancy, who has been working for the social security board in Detroit since last fall, opposed Joyce Kazmierski of Grosse Ile, 1966 champion, in her second round match.

YOUNGEST PLAYER

Little Bonnie Lauer, the 17-year-old Berkley High School senior from Edgewood; four-time champion Mrs. T. M. Werner of Indianwood and Mrs. Rodney Thompson of Pine Lake, advanced with Miss Patch into today's second round of match play as seven other Pontiac-area golfers fell by the wayside in their first matches.

Bonnie opposed Mrs. Frank Campsie, Grosse Ile; Mrs. Werner teed off against Mrs. Jack Scripsema, many times Grand Rapids champion and Mrs. Thompson took on Cynthia Hill of South Haven, last year's runner-up, in second round play today.

Miss Lauer is striving to become the youngest golfer ever to win the state title she won the first three holes from Margaret Watkins of Detroit Country Club yesterday, with two pars and a 15-foot birdie putt, and never was in danger as she won, 5-3.

Youngest winner in range was Wiffi Smith, 18 when she won in 1955. Bonnie also had putter trouble, three-putting No. 4 and 7 to lose them. But she won No. 5 and 8, then lost No. 9 when she visited the trees as she turned two up with a 42. A poor second also cost Bonnie No. 10 but she rallied to win four of the next five holes, No. 13 and 15 with birdies, as she was home in two both times. Thus she finished five over par for the match.

AFTER FIFTH

Mrs. Werner is seeking to become the third golfer in 52 years to take five state crowns. She lost only one hole as she downed Mrs. Robert Mahoney of Lansing, 5-4. Mrs. Werner was four over par for the 14 holes, carding one birdie as she gained a two up lead with an outgoing 40 and coasted home.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Tomason, the former Kathy Shanahan, didn't lose a hole as she eliminated Mrs. L. W. Smead of Oakland Hills, 7-6. Kathy carded a 40 for a five up lead and added No. 10 and 11 with pars, finishing two over par for the distance.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Hume, 1942 champion, was the victim of a day's most sensational golf; Cynthia Hill, 20-year-old University of Miami (Fla.) junior, was two under par as she downed Mrs. Hume, 4-3.

"Four long putts, all from 15 to 30 feet, spelled the difference," Mrs. Hume recounted after the match, and the blond Nancy nodded vigorous agreement.

After they swapped two of the first three holes, Cynthia rolled in a 20 foot birdie putt at No. 5 and added No. 7 with a par. Mrs. Hume birdied No. 8 with a three footer only to have Cynthia drop a downhill 20 footer for her birdie at No. 9 as she turned two up with an outgoing 37, one under par.

LONG PUTTS

The Birmingham golfer captured No. 11 with a par but lost No. 12 to go two down again. Then Cynthia romped in putts of 15 and 30 feet, respectively for birdies at No. 14 and 15 to close out the match, making her two under par. Miss Hill, runner-up to Patti Shook for the title last year, opposed Mrs. Thompson today.

Mrs. Chris Miller, four-time Pontiac city champion, bowed to Emily Gail of Grosse Ile, 5-4 as her youthful rival was three over par for the match. Each won two of the first five holes, then Emily took No. 7 with a par to turn one up with an outgoing 42. Emily won four of the next five holes with three pars and a birdie to end it.

★ ★ ★

Youthful Cathy Hendrickson, of Atlas Valley, was sidelined by Mrs. William Anderson of Lakelands, 1 up, in a hotly contested match.

★ ★ ★

Miss Kazmierski, 1966 champion, lost only two holes as she sidelined Mrs. Charles Byrne of Indianwood, 6-5. Mrs. Byrne lost the first but won the second, only to lose the next four.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Bruce Hilkene of Indianwood shot an 82 that would have been good enough to win nine of the day's matches, yet lost to Mrs. Frank Richart of Barton Hills, 2 up.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Morton Wohlman of Tam O'Shanter bowed to Mrs. Keith LeClair, two-time champion, 5-3. The Barton Hills golfer, who holds the course record of 74, gained a five hole lead with an outgoing 41, lost only No. 11 as she finished five over par for the match.

Nicklaus Has Long Drought

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Big Jack Nicklaus, trying to retain his reputation as one of golf's best pressure players, heads into Thursday's start of the 1968 PGA tournament hoping to end almost a year of frustration.

Not since last fall has the blond king of the fairways won a tour title, but Nicklaus still ranks as the man to beat on the 7,096-yard Pecan Valley course. Nicklaus' bid for victory in the last of the Big Four tournaments will be challenged by 167 touring pros and club professionals on the par 70 layout criss-crossed by Salado Creek.

There will be six Michigan pros represented in the tournament, including past PGA champ Wally Burkemo and Mike Souchak of Oakland Hills, who were exempt from local qualifying.

Others who qualified locally, are Tom Deaton, Jim Picard, Glenn Stuart and Bob Clark.

Top contenders include Billy Casper, top money winner on the tour this year, and a band of brash youngsters led by San Antonio favorite Lee Trevino and confident Dave Stockton.

But defending champion Don January, a Texan who grew up in the sun-baked Southwest, said the heat and the shaggy rough around the narrow fairways will be the biggest challenges.

"The rough is tough, and the heat may be awful," said January, who failed to make the cut last week at the Milwaukee Open.

BIG CHANGE

Temperatures in the 90s are likely throughout the tournament, which is a sharp change for Nicklaus. He played in the British Open in Scotland last week, with temperatures in the 50s.

"I wore two sweaters over there," Nicklaus said. "But I don't think the heat will bother me any more than it does anybody else.

* * *

"By the time the tournament starts, I'll be adjusted to it," added Nicklaus, runnerup in the U.S. Open and the British Open this year.

Nickalus, fighting an erratic driver all season, always has fared well in the four prestige tournaments, which also include the Masters and the PGA.

Except for 1964, he won at least one of the Big Four every year since he turned pro, claiming the PGA crown in 1963.

GARY PLAYER'S GOLF CLASS:

Charlie Brown 9 Loser Again

Just when it looked as if the sun was beginning to shine for Charlie Brown's All-Stars, the clouds again shrouded their diamond.

The city junior baseball league's namesake for the fabled hapless comic strip nine was bringing some glory to the long-suffering name, running up a 3-1 record and standing only a half game out of first place in the city Widget International league.

* * *

That is, until yesterday morning. Charlie Brown's boys spotted the Optimist Indians a 6-0 lead, then roared back to score nine times and go ahead by three.

* * *

But almost as if following a television script, they then watched their opponents tally five runs in their next at bat, as time ran out with them on the short end of a 12-11 score.

Defensive Star Farr Sidelined With Hepatitis

HOUSTON (UPI) — Miller Farr, the "good hands" All-Pro cornerback for the Houston Oilers of the American Football League, caught more than he could handle Tuesday.

Farr, who returned three interceptions for touchdowns last season in helping the Oilers to the Eastern Conference championship and led the AFL in three defensive categories, discovered he will be sidelined — for possibly two months with infectious hepatitis.

* * *

Farr, of Beaumont, Tex., had passed the routine physical examination when he checked into the Oilers training camp Sunday night at Kerrville, Tex. A little while later, however, he told trainer Bobby Brown of having stomach pains and feeling tired.

Bats Boom in City Fastpitch Softball

The bats were booming in city men's fastpitch softball last night except in the most important game where Local 594 pitcher Jim Fisk was in complete charge.

Fisk blanked American League leader Town & Country Lounge, 3-0, for its second defeat this season and noticeably tightening the loop race.

* * *

The other results featured run making: the Union Lake Merchants outslugged J. A. Fredman, 13-10; Timberlanes Lounge edged Milbur Industries, 13-11; and Ron's Roost trimmed Ray's Sunoco, 12-2.

Fisk allowed only four hits, retiring the final seven T&C batters in order after yielding consecutive two-out safeties in the fifth inning.

EARLY SCORING

Walt Travis' two-bagger, Earl McKee's single and two errors gave Local 594 all the runs it needed in the first inning. Don McConner's lead-off home run in the second finished the scoring.

The UL Merchants needed just four hits to score 11 times in the first three innings against Fredman's. A triple by Dick Smelser and double by Ed Rock back-to-back highlighted a seven-run outburst.

Rich Fitzgerald slugged a three-run homer to cap a seven-run first inning for Timberlanes and teammate Kurt Kuhne added two singles and a two-run double while producing five other runs.

John Long had a grand-slam circuit clout for losing Milbur.

Bill Hayward's single, double and homer drove in three runs; Bud Hayward had consecutive two-baggers for two runs.

Another Win in Fastpitch

Spencer Floors Nips Lighthouse, 5-4

Spencer Floor (17-1) nipped Lighthouse Lanes 5-4 in Waterford fastpitch last night.

Larry Hicks pinch hit for Fat Keith in the sixth inning and singled in the winning run for Spencer. Jim Patterson and Jerry Hesse collected two hits each in the winning cause. Lighthouse has a 6-12 mark.

John Harrington hurled a one hitter for Day's Sanitary (14-3) to stop Midget Bar, 3-0.

The runs were scored on Ben Traxter's two singles and an rbi by Art Ruell. Day's also scored on three errors by Midget Bar (3-14).

Tigers' Bonus for 1st Sacker

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Dwight Martinek, a 6-2 first baseman at Kansas State, has signed a bonus contract with the Detroit Tigers of the American League, it was reported Tuesday.

Ray Meyers, a Detroit scout, said the Rossville, Kan., right-hander signed for a substantial bonus. Terms of the contract were not disclosed.

Martinek will report Wednesday to the Tiger Class A farm club in Batavia, N.Y.

Fifth Inning Decisive in City Baseball Tilts

The fifth inning proved decisive Tuesday evening in a pair of city men's recreation baseball games at Jaycee Park.

Local 594 broke loose for five runs — three on a clutch double by Dale Manning — to down Talbott Lumber, 6-4, and end a four-game losing streak.

* * *

UAW Local 653 took a 3-2 lead over Uncle Charlie's Pet Shop on Keith Simunic's two-run homer in the fourth inning and wrapped up its 6-2 triumph with three unearned tallies in the fifth.

Coho Problem—Out Too Far in Boats Too Small

Inadequate Craft on Great Lakes

"Out too far in boats too small." This sums the problem facing the Cost Guard and sheriff's marine officers as they try to prevent accidents among fishermen on Lake Michigan.

With coho fishing expected to improve in the next few weeks, thousands of boaters will be on the big waters.

Sheriffs of counties bordering on the Great Lakes, along with Coast Guard officers, representatives of the U.S. Weather Bureau, and the Department of Conservation have developed plans for emergencies.

As good as they are, however, the plans are admittedly inadequate to cope with boaters who do not use good judgment.

Some idea of the problem is indicated in this comment by Lt. Bill Miller, Coast Guard Group Commander at Ludington: "Our off-shore patrols have found small, inland type aluminum fishing boats as far out in Lake Michigan as 15 miles.

"Even if they listen to their transistor radios and receive a weather warning, they're too far out to get into port before the storm strikes."

James A. Hadley, head of the Conservation Departments' boat and water safety section, remarked: "On Saturday, June 29, 1968, one of the worst storms ever to hit the western Michigan coastline occurred with winds in excess of 100 miles per hour.

"Few boats of any size could weather a storm of this ferocity, but the sixty or more boats which were out shortly before the storm struck were operated by persons of good judgment who, upon hearing the radio weather warning, immediately headed for safety. Only about six boats capsized in this storm and no lives were lost."

CATCHES LUNKER—Marvin Cagle, 75 Mariva, displays the 6-pound, 5-ounce largemouth black bass he caught Sunday while fishing Wormer Lake. The fish is the new leader in The Press Fish Derby's bass division.

Sets Angling Sights on 20-Pound Pike

"I'll go out and get a 20-pound pike for your contest," said Marvin Cagle.

Don't laugh. He might do it.

Cagle, of 75 Mariva, entered the first pike in The Press Derby last spring. At that time he said he would get a big bass for the contest.

Sunday he did.

Fishing Wormer Lake in Waterford Township early in the afternoon, the former Pontiac Central football player landed a 6-pound, 5-ounce largemouth. He was using a yellow U-20 Flatfish and went on to fill his limit of five bass.

NEW LEADER

The lunker is the new leader of the bass division in the contest. The current pike leader is 8 pounds, 3 ounces. It was caught by Mike Muzik of Walled Lake.

The contest is open to all residents of Oakland County and the fish must be caught in county waters. There are only the pike and bass divisions and the angler entering the heaviest fish in each class will receive $50 bonds.

The same fishermen cannot win both classes. Deadline is Sept. 5.

★ ★ ★

All entries must be brought to The Press sports department between 7 a.m. and 2 p.m. Monday through Saturday for weighing.

Young Douglas Conklin of Lake Neva in White Lake Township made his bid for contest honors from the dock at his home using a piece of bacon for bait. The six-year-old was fishing for bluegills.

A 4½-pound bass decided on bacon for lunch and Douglas became a big game fishermen (in his eyes) in a hurry. The bass eventually fouled the line in some lilly pads necessitating some parental help with a boat.

All turned out well, however, and Douglas claimed his first big fishing prize.

Bass fishing has been exceptionally good on most area lakes, particularly in the evening. Lake St. Clair has been very good for smallmouths.

Deer Specialist Will Retire

Ila H. Bartlett, deer investigator for the Conservation Department's game division for more than 40 years, is retiring from state service Saturday.

He leaves his post with the distinction of being recognized as one of the nation's top authorities on deer.

Born in Tekonsha, Mich., in 1903, Bartlett was graduated from Michigan State University with a Bachelor of Science Degree in forestry in 1926.

That same year, he started his career in deer investigation work with the Conservation Department. No test-tube biologist, he has since trudged over thousands of miles in northern Michigan's whitetail country to literally live with deer during summer and winter.

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's SOLUNAR TABLES. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

Woman's Bid for Olympics Just 'Misses'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Army Capt. Margaret L. Thompson, a dead-eye shot from Topeka, Kan., has failed in her attempt to crack that bastion of male power that is the U.S. Olympic shooting team.

Little Margaret, however, tied a national record Monday as she lost to Army Lt. John Writer of LaGrange, Ill., and Maj. John Foster of Springfield, Ohio.

Writer and Foster posted 3,438-point totals in the three-day Smallbore Rifle Championship to make the Olympic rifle team. Miss Thompson is the team alternate with her 3,434 points.

Marine Maj. William McMillan of San Diego, won the Olympic spot and the International Rapid Fire Pistol Championship with a three-day score of 1,772, besting Army S. Sgt. James McNally of Seattle, Ga., by 12 points.

Miss Thompson's score in the kneeling position tied the national record of 397 set in 1961 by Army Capt. Daniel Puckel.

No Map Books to Be Available

The Conservation Department announces it will not have funds during the next 12 months to reprint copies of Michigan county map books which have been out of supply since 1967.

Free, single-sheet maps of a few counties are still available through the Department, but money shortages will also prevent them from being reprinted when present suplies run out.

Possible Reward for Hunters

LANSING (AP) — Michigan waterfowl biologists are considering plans to reward hunters who have learned to identify ducks in flight.

Biologists are concerned because too many protected ducks are killed each autumn by hunters unable to identify the 25 or so species that migrate through Michigan each autumn.

★ ★ ★

Federal and state biologists report that 40 per cent of the hunters who participated in the experimental teal seasons fired at protected species such as mallards, blacks and wood ducks.

On the Mississippi flyway, it was estimated that 12,462 protected ducks were killed during the 1966 teal season.

HARVEST OF SURPLUS

The experimental teal seasons were established to harvest a surplus of blue-winged teal that normally migrate through the state before the regular season opens in October. Only blue-winged, green-winged and cinnamon teal were permitted to be taken.

It was thought that hunters would be able to easily identify teal because they are the smallest ducks in the sky.

However, Michigan and many other Mississippi flyway states are recommending that the special teal season be discontinued this autumn because hunters fail to shoot only at legal targets.

During the regular season, restrictions are often placed on such species as the mallard, canvasback, redhead and wood duck. Bluebills frequently have been bonus ducks, permitting sportsmen to harvest extra birds above the normal limit of four.

Last autumn, Michigan duck shooters were permitted only two mallards, one wood duck or one canvasback in the daily limit. In certain areas, gunners were permitted to shoot two additional scaups.

LEFT IN MARCH

Many hunters who shot their limit of two mallards would kill a third because they could not identify the birds in flight. The extra duck would either be given to a less successful hunter or left to rot in the marsh.

Biologists hope to find a way to screen hunters and reward those sportsmen who have done their homework and can look at a distant flock of ducks approaching the decoys and say, "mallards!"

The State Conservation Commission has not yet been asked to approve any programs since ideas are only in the early planning stages.

But several possible approaches are being considered. One is to test all hunters seeking to hunt ducks on an experimental game area. Only those who passed the test would be permitted to hunt.

Another method would be to reward veteran duck shooters with a special teal season and bonus scaup arrangements.

Weather Dampens Pheasant Outlook

The recent record-breaking rains in Southern Michigan may have had good and bad effects on pheasants.

Conservation Department game biologists are concerned that some nests may have been washed out. However, they point out that the rains came after the peak of the nesting season.

Wet weather delayed haying in many areas and this was a help to young chicks, said the biologists. A truer picture will be turned up during the annual brood counts by mail carriers later this month.

Eight Riders Given Chance

Named to Olympic Three-Day Squad

GLADSTONE, N.J. (AP) — Headed by Capt. Mike Plumb of Bedminster, N.J., eight riders have been named to the United States' Equestrian team's three-day squad by the Equestrian Games Committee of the U.S. Olympic Committee.

The trials were run off under the direction of Coach John Lynch over the weekend.

The Equestrian Games Committee, under chairman Whitney Stone, evaluated the riders and horses through the three days of workouts.

In addition to Plumb, two other holdovers from the team that won the silver medal in the 1964 Olympic games in Tokyo, Mike Page, Briarcliff, Manor, Ny., and Kevin Freeman of Portland, Ore., were selected.

The other riders include Ricky Eckhartt of Purcellville, Va., Beson Phelps Jr., of Pasadena, Calif., Brad Smith of Nashville, Tenn., Sally Lord of Red Bank, N.J. and Jim Wofrod of New Brunswick, N.J. were named.

Survey Boat at Sea

The Conservation Department's new survey boat, Steelhead is on her initial trip into Lake Superior. Through July the specially equipped craft will be used to conduct fisheries studies in Whitefish and Munising bays.

Only you can prevent slogans

Yes, folks, careless reading and listening to slogans can brainwash you into a dull rut. When a big smokescreen of fiery hoopla and blazing headlines tells you to buy this soft drink or that soft drink, you may not see the forest for the trees. Like missing the gingery flavor of Vernors. And we couldn't bear that. You'd be missing a unique flavor and taste that no other soft drink has. Why, Vernors is so different it doesn't even need a slogan. Whether it's Vernor's or Vernors One-Calorie, its flavor just can't be described in words that do it justice. So next time you're on a picnic or a hike in the woods, bury all those slogans that are cluttering up your mind and think clear. Think and drink Vernors. Remember, only you can prevent slogans.

~~Vernors is a zippy, fangy, jim dandy drink~~

People always wonder why we write about game and slam contracts most of the time and seldom discuss a part-score hand.

JACOBY

There are two good reasons for this. The first is that the higher the contract the greater the thread-er interest. The next is that the higher the contract the easier it is to write about.

Take today's hand. We could write a whole article about South's decision to bid two spades instead of letting his partner play one no-trump. We recommend a pass with this 5-3-3-2 distribution as a general rule but this time it turns out that the two-spade call is superior.

One no-trump would almost surely have gone down one trick against a heart or club bid.

Two spades can be set also. East must win the first or second club and shift to a heart. Later on he will lead a second heart when he gets in with the king of diamonds.

This line of defense will give East and West one trump, one heart, two diamonds and two clubs but they did not find that line of play.

They led three rounds of clubs. South ruffed and played as safely as possible for his two-spade contract.

He led a diamond to dummy's ace and a diamond back to East's king. East played a heart but he was a trifle late. South went up with his jack, just in case East had led from the queen. When West produced the queen, South had to win in dummy. He led another diamond to East's jack, while West proceeded to discard his last club.

East led a second heart. South won in dummy, led a spade to his ace and a second back to dummy's king. Then he led a good diamond to discard his losing heart. West ruffed but had to give South the rest of the tricks.

★ ★ ★

This line of play had worked and it was the one most likely to work but South's face would have been mighty red if East had held one more low spade. In that case, this play would have failed but the simple tactic of drawing trumps early would have worked.

Q—The bidding has been:

	♦	Pass	2♥
Pass	3 N.T.	Pass	4♦
Pass	4 N.T.	Pass	?

You, South, hold:
♠A4 ♥KQ1098 ♦KJ65 ♣K8

What do you do now?

A—Bid five no-trump. This is one time when you should ignore Blackwood. Your bid of five no-trump merely asks him to choose which slam to play.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding three no-trump your partner bids three clubs over your two hearts. You bid three diamonds and he bids four diamonds. What do you do now?

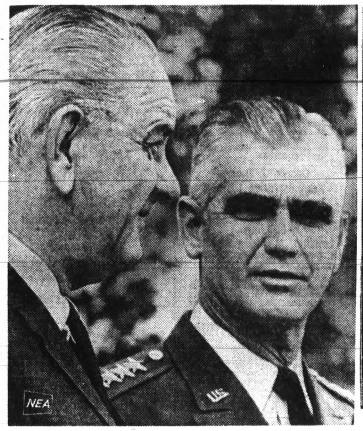
The Johnson Story

In the history of the presidency, few administrations can match for dramatic high and lows Lyndon Baines Johnson's five years in the White House. It began at a moment of national trauma and climaxed with a stunning withdrawal.

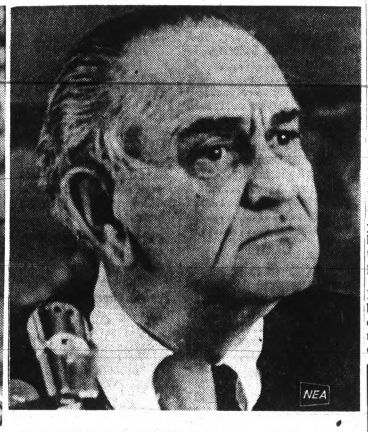
I, LYNDON BAINES JOHNSON — Catapulted into the presidency by the assassination of John F. Kennedy, Johnson took his oath of office Nov. 22, 1963, aboard Air Force 1 at Dallas, Tex.

LANDSLIDE VICTORY — The Johnson years began with a rush of social legislation rivaling the early New Deal. Johnson was swept into office in his own right Nov. 3, 1964, by the greatest popular vote landslide in the nation's history.

TURNS TO WAR—Foreign war, not domestic reform, rapidly became the overriding issue. On Aug. 5, 1964, the President reported the threat of conflict in the Gulf of Tonkin.



COMMITMENT TO VIET GREW — A naval clash and congressional authorization to take "appropriate" retaliatory steps soon followed. Bombing of North Vietnam began and "escalation" became the word of the day. The American commitment, under Gen. William Westmorland, grew to half-million troops. Yet the conflict dragged.



FATIGUE BELIED WORDS — Beset by critics at home and abroad, the President was vowing to persevere up to the eve of his stunning retirement announcement. Yet fatigue, evident during his address to AFL-CIO leaders March 25, seemed increasingly to belie the fighting words.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q — I'm a widow, 66, needing advice. Nearly half my monthly income — $100 from profit sharing — will soon, stop, leaving me $109 Social Security and dividends from 25 Gen. Motors. I have $10,000 in savings, and this summer $3,000 in U.S. bonds will mature. Should I buy more GM for income? — L.W.

A — Although I like Gen. Motors, a higher yield can be secured from AAA-rated Am. Telephone 6 per cent debentures of 2000 or Louisville Gas & Elec. 1st 6¾s of 1998. Or you might consider putting $10,000 into a straight life annuity and banking $3,000 against emergency. If this appeals to you, discuss your total situation with a reliable insurance company representative. Finally, I am turning to an entirely different alternative by suggesting a call to your regional Office of Economic Opportunity which sponsors jobs in social service areas suitable for people over 60 who wish to supplement income.

Q — Please comment on our stocks bought for growth: 15 FMC, 10 Borden, 20 Southern Natural Gas, 10 Stewart-Warner and Williams Bros. being purchased by monthly payments. — P.G.

A — Four are well suited to your purpose. Borden, the fifth, has not performed well technically this year, in spite of predicted earnings recovery. I could switch this into Huffman Mfg., nationwide supplier of bicycles and outdoor power equipment to leading retail and mail-order chains. Sales and earnings show a strong uptrend, and sizable gains are expected for fiscal 1968, ended June 30.

Commenting briefly on the others, Williams Bros. responded vigorously to the announcement of a pending merger with ACF Indus. So. Nat. Gas in attractive for both its outstanding earnings and its proposed joint venture — a paper mill — with Boise Cascade. Stewart-Warner's imposing roster of products is marketed among widely diversified industries. FMC's first-quarter earnings' comeback is expected to extend over the balance of 1968. These four are good stocks to hold and to add to as more funds become available. Huffman is somewhat more speculative.

THINK ABOUT IT!

WHAT

People and nations have known good times and bad. No matter what the social, economic or physical status is or will be, a crisis or confusion will always exist somewhere for some people.

A crisis and confusion is a part of living. Each of us must face some sort of crisis or confusion sooner or later. To face a crisis requires courage — and courage is a personal matter. Courage can not be leased, borrowed or bought. It must be drawn from one's self, for one's self. And when courage is shown, confusion can and often does disappear.

Ever since time began, the greatest source for courage has been traced to a foundation on a faith. Faith creates hope. Without faith and hope, courage is difficult to come by. In spite of dark clouds — faith, hope and courage will always be the means to let us see the rays of sunshine again.

Sightless Seek Opportunity

Industry's Blind Spot

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK—While job programs are devised almost daily to correct economic inequities, a poor but eager group that seeks only an opportunity sometimes must feel out of tune with the times.

These are the nation's 425,000 legally blind citizens, only 11,000 of whom CUNNIFF have regular jobs, many of them paying close to the minimum wage. Although many blind people cannot work, thousands can work but can't find jobs.

★ ★ ★

Those that are employed often work in factories especially designed for the blind. And though blind workers have proved their skills in exacting factory jobs, their livelihood often is based in dust clothes and brooms and such.

"If our shops closed tomorrow," said Robert Goodpasture, executive vice president of the National Industries for the Blind, "about 99 per cent of our workers would be unemployed."

The NIB, a nonprofit affiliation of 78 factories for the blind in 75 cities, attempts to upgrade the nature of blue-collar work for the blind, research new products the blind might make, and coordinate buying and marketing of products.

If Goodpasture sounds a bit annoyed, it might be because of the size of the job. "We need work," he said. "We have 5,000 jobs but we need 16,000 in five years." Eventually, he adds, "at least 25,000 should have blue-collar employment."

Unfortunately, in most instances it must be the blind themselves who will provide the jobs, mainly through organization and expansion of their own factories, or through use of their professional skills or ownership of newsstands.

"Private enterprise is not absorbing blind people into their plants," said Goodpasture. "Industry and labor have not set up the machinery for acceptance of blind workers into manufacturing jobs."

EQUAL SKILLS

As a result, almost all blind blue-collar workers are employed in NIB factories, even though their skills are equal in many ways to sighted workers and their job safety records far exceed that of most other groups.

Output of these factories will perhaps surprise most people. In 1967 sales totaled $54 million, and the 5,000 workers earned $8,776,000 on an expenditure of six million man-hours of labor.

Fifty per cent of sales were to the government, for the Wagner-O'Day Act of 1938 provides for priority purchases by government agencies of certain products made by the blind. All military ties, for example, are made by the sightless.

Another $8 million of work was produced under subcontracts to progressive manufacturers who have found, for example, that blind workers are especially skilled in packaging delicate, sensitive electronics materials.

QUALITY PRODUCTS

NIB is especially happy with its Skilcraft program, under which a wide variety of quality products compete in 2,000 supermarkets with major brand names.

Seldom, however, do blind blue-collar workers graduate from their own special industries into jobs where they compete with sighted workers. An obvious disadvantage is that many of them are multiple-handicapped, maybe deaf or emotionally disturbed, and so cannot compete.

★ ★ ★

However, a good many could obtain competitive jobs if given the chance. "It's not that our workers are not good enough; it is industry's lack of acceptance," Goodpasture claims. This may or may not be industry's fault.

★ ★ ★

For many years the NIB did not try to educate industry in the values of employing blind workers, leaving that instead to state directors of vocational rehabilitation, or DVRs, as they sometimes are acronymed.

NEW TRAINING

"Historically, our shops have not trained people with placable skills," Goodpasture conceded. "We accept some of the responsibility for this, and now we are training them in operations that are usable in other industries."

★ ★ ★

The number of products made in blind factories continues to grow and become more exacting. The biggest NIB shop is at Jackson, Miss., where 250 workers are employed.

★ ★ ★

"If Jackson needs a shop that size, what does a city the size of Chicago need?" Goodpasture asked. The answer: many times the size of its present shop, which employs 238 workers.

GM Appointment of 2 Execs Reported

★ ★ ★

Transferred to salaried personnel activity were Richard McIlvride, formerly personnel director of Chevrolet Central Office, and John H. Miller, formerly personnel director of GM Photographic.

★ ★ ★

McIlvride, of 2401 Derby, Troy, joined GM in 1954 with Chevrolet. Miller of 2359 Oakway, West Bloomfield Township, joined GM in 1951 with the GMC Truck and Coach Division.

Crash Kills Two

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — A Wyandotte, Mich., woman and her 17-year-old son were killed Tuesday when their auto hit a sign on the Ohio Turnpike just east of Elyria. The Highway Patrol identified the victims as Mrs. Mary Betty Shoop, 36, and her son Wendell. Mrs. Shoop was killed instantly. Her son died shortly after being admitted to Amherst General Hospital.

Kroger Will Train Hard-Core Jobless

DETROIT (AP) — The Kroger Co. will train 64 hard-core jobless in Detroit and six in Toledo, Ohio, as part of a nationwide program under the President's Job Opportunities in the Business Sector (JOBS), U. S. Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz reported.

★ ★ ★

The company said it plans to train 333 persons in the nation's 50 largest cities to prepare them for various grocery store jobs.

★ ★ ★

After training from four to 26 weeks on the job, the workers will have permanent employment at an average projected wage of $2.81 on hour. Average cost to the government per trainee is $1,208.

Brazil exported more than 178,000 tons of cotton fiber valued at $85 million last year.

Failure of Congress to Act Blocks Loans to Students

LANSING (AP) — A Republican state senator says failure of Congress to extend the Higher Education Act has temproarily stopped some Michigan banks from making loans to college students.

★ ★ ★

"There has been some confusion among some students unable to get these loans," said Sen. Milton Zaagman, R-Grand Rapids. "Some of them have indicated they felt state officials were at fault."

★ ★ ★

Zaagman said the loan program is a joint venture between the state and the U.S. Office of interest on behalf of students loans, he said, the federal government has been paying interest on behal fof students who have access to income of less than $15,000.

"The federal enabling legislation for this program died June 30, and the State Department of Education advised lending institutions not to disburse any more loans until Congress acted further," he said.

★ ★ ★

Since then, Zaagman said, Congress passed a resolution ordering the act continued until July 31 or until new legislation is enacted. This, he said, may encourage some financial institutional to make loans.

County to Mull Sunday Liquor

"The question of Sunday liquor sales in Oakland County will undoubtedly be raised at our meeting tomorrow," County Board of Supervisors Chairman Delos Hamlin said today.

The board will meet tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. in the Supervisors' auditorium at the Pontiac Service Center, Telegraph and Pontiac Lake roads.

★ ★ ★

Hamlin added that nearby St. Clair, Macomb and Washtenaw counties have already approved the measure at recent meetings of supervisors.

A new law allowed to go into effect without the signature of Gov. George Romney puts the question of Sunday liquor sales up to individual county boards of supervisors.

★ ★ ★

If the bill is enacted in Oakland County, the privilege of Sunday liquor sales will be extended only to those establishments which derive at least half their receipts in food sales, Hamlin noted.

City to Fight Tax-Exempt Housing Units

City Attorney Sherwin M. Birnkrant last night was authorized to proceed with whatever legal steps are necessary to prevent the city having to grant tax exemptions to cooperative housing in the city.

Birnkrant said court action may be necessary to counter moves by a national management firm which is fighting the city to get exemptions on property taxes for cooperative housing.

Birnkrant said the State Legislature last year passed a law which seems ambiguous. He said he thought the intent of the law was to allow cities the option of taxing or granting tax exemptions to cooperative housing.

But, he said, operators of the Pontiac Townhouse Apartments cooperative, which previously requested that the City Commission grant exemptions, contend that the city has no choice in the matter, but must grant the exemptions.

EXEMPTION REFUSED

The commission, in April, refused the exemption. Birnkrant said the operators have now filed an appeal with the State Tax Commission.

Birnkrant said litigation will be likely in the near future.

Fourth Suspect Sought in Slaying of Detroit Twins

DETROIT (UPI) — Police were searching for a fourth suspect today in the June 30 slayings of 11-year-old twin sisters.

Three youths, including the teen-age brother of the victims, Nora and Deanna Guiley, already have been arrested. The 14-year-old brother was being held in lieu of $50,000 bond as a police witness in the slayings.

★ ★ ★

The twins' mother, Mrs. Catherine Woody, said the fourth suspect was a 17-year-old boy, of medium build and with long dark hair.

The girls were stabbed to death in the middle of the night at their East Side home last month.

The United States' defense requirements consume about 247 million barrels of oil products a year.

'Siamese' Sparrow Is Subject of Study

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Aviary had an unusual bird under study Tuesday —a baby sparrow with two tails, four legs, two hearts and two digestive tracts.

Victoria S. Lord, 14, found it on a neighbor's driveway in Upper St. Clair Township Monday.

* * *

She fed it oatmeal, a little milk and some fruit, then turned it over to an aviary official. The aviary estimated the bird's age at three weeks.

Role of Vocational Agriculture Eyed

EAST LANSING (AP)—Agriculture and education experts will predict the role of vocational agriculture in the 1970s during the 49th annual conference for teachers of vocation agriculture at Michigan State University July 22-25.

Some 225 teachers, school principals and superintendents, counselors and directors of vocational education are expected to attend.

Nude Picket Held

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Into the Hall of Records in the Civic Center, at lunchtime, marched a young man wearing only two magazine covers depicting children of Biafra. The picket explained he was calling attention to "the starving people who must have help." He was arrested.

A Look at TV

Black Bond Is Revealed

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — Two American Negro leaders and two African leaders joined in a televised transatlantic town meeting Tuesday night on CBS to discuss common problems.

The four men said they agreed that, though separated by the Atlantic and three centuries of apartness, the problem of Africans and Negroes in America really were very similiar.

Each shares a common race and heritage and each is faced with the need of establishing an identity in a modern and complex world.

That common bond, and a few differences, were revealed in "Black World," the third in the seven-part CBS series, "Of Black America." It was worthwhile that these ideas should be explored, though the going was at times tedious.

GUESTS

The guests were Thomas Mboya, minister of economic planning and development for Kenya, who spoke from Nairobi; Dr. Alex Kwapong, vice chancellor of the University of Ghana, who spoke from Accra; U.S. Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., who spoke from Washington; and civil rights leader Floyd McKissick, who spoke from New York. Mike Wallace was moderator and narrator.

Because Africa has no satellite communication facilities, the speakers were connected by radio and telephone. Each was filmed separately and later edited together. The producer, Palmer Williams, used techniques he had employed in Edward R. Murrow's "Small World" in the 1950s.

* * *

This feeling of kinship, it was pointed out, grew as the African nations gained independence and Negroes here began their drive for equality.

Mboya, in a view echoed by the others, said he found the majority of Africans were against the war in Vietnam and believed that the Americans were interfering in the affairs of Southeast Asia. But he later chided the United States for not intervening in South Africa.

DENIES BIAS

Questioned by Wallace about reports of discrimination in Kenya against Asians who retain their British citizenship, Mboya denied such reports in what appeared to be a statement of government policy.

At the end, he said, "I can state categorically that the Asians who have left Kenya can be regarded by all of us as 'good riddance.' In fact, the sooner they leave, the better."

Dr. Kwapong and Mboya told of the struggle in Africa for a workable democracy and a black identity. McKissick said he didn't see much difference between the problems of the people of Kenya and those of Negroes in this country.

Conyers added that he thought the difference was that the Kenyan government "is totally committed to the eradication of racism."

Poor Do Well With Limited Food Dollars, Study Finds

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Dollar for dollar, poor people buy more good, nutritious food at the grocery store than middle-class suburbanites—and the poor spend far less on beer and wine.

This was among the findings of a government study which tends to contradict the notion that a major reason for malnutrition among the poor is a failure to spend their grocery budget wisely.

* * *

The new analysis compared spending patterns of families earning less than $3,000-a-year with those of families earning over $10,000 annually.

Economists said the poor are not necessarily smarter shoppers from the standpoint of consciously choosing more nutritious foods.

But the study of spending, conducted in the Northeast, showed the average poor family's food dollar bought 25 per cent more of other nutrients than the dollar spent by the higher-income family.

* * *

One factor in the difference was that low-income families tended to buy low-cost foods which furnish substantial amounts of some key nutrients. These foods included dry beans and potatoes, and enriched cereals and flour.

* * *

But the report also showed that the Northeast urban poor spent 12.9 cents of each food dollar for milk products compared with 11.4 cents for the average family with over $10,000 income.

There were other comparisons between spending by poor and over-$10,000 families:

Alcoholic beverages—1.9 cents per dollar for the poor; 7.5 cents per dollar for the higher-income group.

* * *

Soft drinks—2.5 cents for the poor; 2.9 cents for the higher-income group.

Eggs—3.5 cents for the poor; 2.4 cents for the higher-income group.

* * *

Vegetables—12.7 cents for the poor; 11 cents for the higher-income group.

* * *

Beef—11.7 cents for the poor; 15.6 cents for the higher-income group.

Poultry—4.9 cents for the poor; 3.8 cents for the higher-income group.

In spite of the fact that the poor bought more nutrition for each dollar, the study showed 32 per cent of all under-$3,000 families in the area studied had diets rated poor compared with 8 per cent of the over-$10,000 group.

* * *

The poor label was applied to a family diet which had less than two-thirds of the level recommended by experts for one or more key nutrients. Nationally, 36 per cent of all poor families have poor diets.

* * *

Part of the gap, the Agriculture Department said, was because the Northeast poor surveyed in the 1965 study ate only $1.17 worth of food per person daily—some of it donated by the government—compared to an average of $1.74 for each member of an over-$10,000 family.

U.S. Offers to Make It Easy to Fly to Cuba—Without a Gun

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If you're really determined to see the bright lights of Havana, the United States government is trying to get a message across to you:

It is not necessary to commandeer an airliner with a gun. There is an easier way.

* * *

All you need do is fly to Mexico City (one-way fare from Washington: $121 tourist class) and fly from Mexico City to Havana (Cubana Airlines, flights Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, one-way fare: $80 tourist class.)

The State Department restricts travel to Cuba by Americans, but if go you must, it would prefer you fly Cubana.

GUN ROUTE

But the message has not gotten across. In the 9½ years since Fidel Castro came to power, 17 persons have chosen the gun route to Havana, and all but three of them made it. There were four hijackings in 1961 and one in 1965. So far this year there have been 12 incidents involving five U.S. and two Latin American commercial airliners and five private or chartered planes.

Two occurred Friday.

A small private plane was chartered and hijacked by its sole passenger, who was identified as Leonard S. Benedicks, a former teacher of remedial reading in Williamsport, Pa., who was dismissed because of "the instability of his social behavior."

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., was one of 48 passengers aboard a Delta Airlines flight from Philadelphia to Houston with a stop at Baltimore which was commandeered Friday night by Oran Daniel Richards, 33, a $145-a-week forklift operator from Springfield, Ohio.

Richards once had himself committed to an Ohio mental hospital after telling police he felt a compulsion to shoot someone.

After a tense 50 minutes during which Richards held a gun at the head of pilot Forest Dines, he was sugar-talked by Flight Engineer Glenn Smith into putting his gun down. The plane landed at Miami.

So far, only one of the hijackings has accounted for much more than a fillip of excitement for passengers. Fidel Castro has been remarkably diplomatic about it all. Washington has been a bit embarrassed.

* * *

But ex-Cuban Jorge Antonio Prellezo, the pilot of a hijacked Southeast Airlines DC3 which was forced to land in Cuba June 29, has been held by Cuba as a "defector."

Puzzled by the hijackings — and alarmed by the constant possibility that one of the hijackers might fire his gun, kill the pilot or put a hole through the fuselage of a pressurized airliner, causing danger to all aboard — the United States has tried first the stick, then the carrot.

THE STICK

The stick: "whoever commits or attempts to commit aircraft piracy as herein defined shall be punished by death."

Under that law, ex-teacher Richards has been charged. But the law, for all its severity, has not stopped hijackings.

* * *

So last Thursday, the State Department waved a carrot. It offered rides from the United States to Cuba to anyone in America who wants to go there to stay. Free. No questions asked. No passports required.

The United States flies a "Freedom Airlift" every day from Havana. These chartered flights carry Cubans who want to leave their country permanently and make a new life in America.

FLYING EMPTY

The planes, of course, have been flying empty back to Varadero Airport, which serves Havana. Seats were offered to anyone who wants to live in Cuba.

* * *

But the arrangement will require Fidel Castro's consent.

U.S. Playing Down Talks in Honolulu

WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials appear intent on playing down the significance of this weekend's Vietnam summit in Honolulu, referring to it as just a "review session."

Advance indications are that the session between President Johnson and South Vietnam's chief executive, Nguyen Van Thieu, will be no more momentous than their four previous get togethers.

The Vietnamese, however, have provided an occasional surprise and no one is ruling out the possibility they could do it again this time.

"There is no particular urgent political or military reason that required a meeting at this time," said one official.

'RATHER ROUTINE'

The official, who asked not to be identified, said it will be a rather routine affair consistent with the established rhythm — his word — of a Johnson meeting with Saigon leaders approximately every six months.

Although the White House has not released the President's schedule, indications are Johnson will fly to Hawaii from his Texas ranch sometime tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

He is to meet in Honolulu with Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford, returning from a Vietnam tour, before seeing Thieu, probably this weekend. Johnson is expected to fly to the ranch today.

In the past, the Vietnamese have precipitated the unexpected often enough at such conferences to be disconcerting to their Washington allies.

In March 1967, for example, Johnson was upstaged at the Guam conference because of free-wheeling public statements by Thieu, then the No. 2 man in the Saigon government, and Nguyen Cao Ky, prime minister at the time.

★ ★ ★

In similar fashion, the same pair grabbed headlines from Johnson at their very first meeting in Honolulu in February 1966.

★ ★ ★

Whether the Saigon officials refrain from grasping for the limelight would seem to be just about the only element of uncertainty this time.

American officials said Johnson and Thieu probably will spend much of their time in Honolulu in private talks, saying exactly what is on their minds.

WORLD CHAMPS — A world record for nonstop bicycle riding was set today by a team of five Pontiac boys. As of noon they had kept their bike in motion for a full week, surpassing by 16 hours the previous record for marathon peddling. The team members are (from left) Bill Reynolds, Jim Ristich, Keith Dempsey, Nick Ristich and Ken Duff.

Return of Ray Likely Tonight, Early Thursday

LONDON (AP) — James Earl Ray may be on his way back to the United States tonight or early tomorrow to face trial in the killing of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Ray cleared the way for his return by signing a declaration yesterday that he did not want to appeal the order for his extradition issued by London's chief magistrate on July 2.

★ ★ ★

It was not known whether Ray's lawyers would deliver his statement to the Home Office or whether they would let the 15-day period for him to file an appeal expire this afternoon without taking further action.

In either case, Home Secretary James Callaghan could sign the order for Ray's extradition before nightfall. He would then be delivered to the U.S. Justice Department for the transatlantic flight.

TRIP PLANS MADE

Informed sources said the journey would be made aboard a U.S. government plane or a chartered civil jet, with Ray under heavy guard.

Ray's American lawyer, Arthur J. Hanes of Birmingham, Ala., was due in London this morning. He may ask to accompany his client back to the United States, but U.S. officials indicated this request would be turned down.

★ ★ ★

Ray's decision not to appeal the extradition order came as a surprise after a routine court hearing yesterday at which he sat quietly while his British lawyers agreed to have him held in prison another eight days on charges he entered Britain on a forged Canadian passport and carried an unlicensed gun.

These were the charges on which he was arrested June 8 at London Airport, ending a two-month search following the slaying of the civil rights leader April 4 in Memphis, Tenn.

APPEAL PREPARED

Ray's British lawyers had been preparing an appeal based on the contention that King's slaying was a political crime and that Ray therefore could not be extradited under British law. A hearing on the appeal had been tentatively set for June 29, even though it had not yet been filed.

Last week Ray wrote a brother in the United States telling him to arrange an advance payment to Hanes. Then he remarked: "I could appeal my extradition hearing, but I am getting tired of listening to these liars and I might close it up about Tuesday."

City Boys Ride Bike 168 Hours for Record

By JOE CRAWFORD

Five Pontiac youngsters have laid claim to a world record of sorts — one that their legs and posteriors will not let them soon forget.

As of noon today, they had kept a bicycle in motion for one full week—168 hours of continuous riding. The marathon ended at that point, surpassing by 16 hours the previous record set last month by a team of five Battle Creek riders.

★ ★ ★

"We broke that record," boasted team member Nick Ristich, "and we'll beat any record that beats ours."

They may not have long to wait. Rumor has it that a rival neighborhood team of five boys is preparing for a try at today's record.

NEW CHAMPIONS

The new champions are Keith Dempsey, 13, of 471 Third; Bill Reynolds, 12, of 599 First; Ken Duff, 14, of 431 Second; and brothers Nick, 14, and Jim Ristich, 12, of 561 First.

Mike Duff, 11-year-old brother to Ken, served as chief assistant to the team.

The boys rode in three-hour shifts, day and night, keeping their single bicycle moving around their near north side neighborhood.

MILEAGE MYSTERY

No accurate figure was available on distance traveled since the bike's odometer failed shortly after the ride was begun. It was estimated, however, that if the bike traveled 5 miles per hour over the course of the week, it would have traveled a total of 840 miles.

The boys got the idea for the marathon, they said, after reading of the Battle Creek record in The Pontiac Press several weeks ago.

★ ★ ★

"It was a challenge," Bill said.

The boys had few regrets about their week of motion, though they acknowledged that all were "a little tired," had weary legs and sore seats.

"We'll have something to remember," Bill said. "We're world record holders, if only for a day."

Jet Is Hijacked to Havana; 113 Persons Aboard

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A National Airlines jet with at least 113 persons aboard was hijacked by a man with a gun and hand grenade today as the plane left Houston and later landed in New Orleans to refuel for the trip to Cuba.

The plane then took off from New Orleans at 8:15 a.m. EDT and climbed to 29,000 feet on a flight to Havana.

★ ★ ★

The hijacker stayed in the cockpit during the refueling. The man threatened to blow up the airplane if his orders were not followed.

A National spokesman identified the pilot as Capt. Sid Oliver of Miami.

NOT ENOUGH FUEL

The spokesman said that the hijacker went to the cockpit of the four-engine jetliner and ordered the pilot to take him to Cuba. But the spokesman said the pilot convinced the man he didn't have enough fuel for the overwater flight.

As Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and other police authorities stood by the plane in New Orleans, a fuel truck filled the tanks.

★ ★ ★

The airline spokesman said the hijacker was holding the passengers and crew during the refueling stop.

"I don't know what you can do," said the airline spokesman.

★ ★ ★

The attempt was the ninth this year to force a commercial airliner to fly to Cuba.

The most recent was on July 12 when a gunman who said he was dying of cancer attempted to force the pilot of a Delta plane to take him to Havana. The gunman was talked out of his hijacking and the plane landed at Miami.

The Line To Beat The Heat By Dunking In Sylvan Lake

Showers Predicted; Little Relief in Store

6 a.m.	75	10 a.m.	81
7 a.m.	74	11 a.m.	84
8 a.m.	76	12:30 p.m.	87
9 a.m.	80

Some late afternoon thundershowers are predicted for the Pontiac area today, but the weatherman still sees little relief from the hot, humid temperatures.

An hour-long storm yesterday afternoon brought thundershowers and hail to the Birmingham-Troy area, while Pontiac registered plunging temperatures.

Shortly after the downtown mercury hit 90 at 11:30 a.m., it dipped to 77 at 2:30 p.m. But by 6 p.m. it had climbed back to 88.

Housewives saving ironing and baking chores for the cool of evening, will not get the respite they would like tonight. The mercury is expected to stay in the low 80s through the night.

MOSTLY CLOUDY

Tomorrow's forecast is mostly cloudy and some brief showers, but again little temperature change is predicted.

Friday's outlook is clearing and a little cooler.

Precipitation probability in per cent: today 30, tonight and tomorrow, 40.

Low in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 74. By 12:30 p.m. the temperature was 87.

Predicts Sen. Hart

'Fortas to Get Panel Nod'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A member of the Senate Judiciary Committee predicts backers of Abe Fortas for chief justice of the United States will beat back opposition and report President Johnson's nomination to the Senate floor by at least a 10-4 vote.

"It may be 12 to 4," said Michigan Democrat Philip A. Hart yesterday after Fortas conceded in five hours of testimony that he had adviced President Johnson on critical national issues since becoming an associate Supreme Court justice in 1965.

★ ★ ★

The committee was not expected to get around to Johnson's nomination of Horner Thornberry as an associate justice until tomorrow. It could be later if another opponent, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., carries out a threat not to allow the Judiciary Committee to hold hearings while the Senate itself is in session.

Hart, however, said lengthy questioning will not affect the outcome.

"I think the vote in the committee will be 10 to 6 at worst in favor of the nominations," he said.

The highlight of Fortas's opening testimony was his acknowledgment that since going on the court in 1965 he has responded to calls from Johnson for help in instances when national crises arose.

★ ★ ★

Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., promptly criticized Forta's White House role, saying "it breaches the basic fundamental concept of separation of powers or at least brings it into question."

Griffin is not a member of the Judiciary Committee but he is leading the fight to block Senate confirmation of Fortas and of Thornberry.

QUESTION RAISED

The question of whether Fortas has served as an adviser to Johnson since going on the court was raised by Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., the committee chairman.

Hopes Still High for 'Pontiac Plan'

By BOB WISLER

An optimistic mood over the chances of implementing the recently presented and much discussed "Pontiac Plan" for redevelopment of the city's downtown urban renewal area continues to prevail among city officials and those involved in the plan's formulation.

The latest cause for continued high hopes was a meeting last week of city officials, plan designers and representatives of the Federal Housing Authority and the Department of Housing and Urban Development's renewal assistance administration.

FHA representatives from Detroit came away glowing, participants in the meeting reported. As of now there are no plans for FHA assistance in the mortgaging of any of the properties or buildings, but FHA did offer assistance if needed.

Acceptance of the Pontiac Plan, so named in recent weeks in an obvious effort to generate over-all community support and interest, has generally been almost unqualified.

'CONCEPT, DESIGN EXCELLENT'

The general concept and design, according to a variety of experts, is excellent. If there are any reservations or disquieting anxieties concerning the Pontiac Plan they are over the feasibility of constructing the $80 million worth of buildings now being planned and the feasibility of financing the same.

In other words, the plan is grand, but can it be put into effect? Is it really possible or is this an idealistic scheme which would prove to be impractical or unmarketable, a pie-in-the-sky proposition.

Marvin D. Skelton, the financial expert of the group which formulated the plan for renewal, believes there are some problems involved in settling on the final financial methods for mortgaging the properties involved, but yesterday he said he expects that the details will be worked out within the next month.

Skelton, offered as indications that the Pontiac Plan is feasible, two major points.

● A qualified developer, Herbert Chernick, has publicly stated a desire to acquire the urban renewal land to undertake a development of the plan.

● A reputable mortgage correspondent for one of the world's largest mortgage sources (Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. of New York) has publicly endorsed the Pontiac Plan concept and has confirmed the general economic feasibility of the total project.

'SMALL MIRACLE'

"The latter accomplishment is a small miracle since it is unknown to have such a strong public endorsement from a mortgage source at such a nebulous point of the development," Skelton said.

★ ★ ★

Skelton said it is normally required that the developer have the land under purchase contract and have preliminary structural drawings for each building before mortgage sources will even begin talking about financing, steps which are still many months away.

Government in Iraq Is Toppled by Coup

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A bloodless military coup in Iraq has ousted the regime of President Abdel Rahman Aref and expelled him from the country, Baghdad Radio announced today.

A "Revolutionary Command Council" took over all executive and legislative powers. Its membership was not announced immediately, but there was speculation it is led by the Baath Socialist party, which rules Syria.

★ ★ ★

Denouncing Aref's regime as "a bunch of illiterates," a Baghdad broadcast said the ousted leaders had "divided the country into feudal sections for their personal enrichment," failed to settle the rebellion of the Kurdish tribes in northern Iraq, and pursued a "ruthless and superficial policy on Palestine."

★ ★ ★

Aref had advocated a political settlement of the Arab-Israeli dispute. Syria's Baathist government was the most militant of Israel's opponents in the 1967 war.

CURVEW IMPOSED

Iraq's borders, airports, ports and railroad services were shut down, and an indefinite curfew was clamped on the country.

The government of Premier Taher Yahya also was dismissed, the radio said. It emphasized that the takeover was bloodless.

★ ★ ★

Messages of support from various military units were broadcast and the radio said fighter planes were flying over the capital in support of the coup.

In its communique announcing the coup, Baghdad Radio accused Aref and other ousted government leaders of sharing responsibility for the Arab defeat in last year's six-day war with Israel.

The new revolutionary council promised to take "urgent measures for the settlement of the Kurdish question in a wise manner that would ensure national unity."

AIR CHIEF DISMISSED

Consolidating its control, the new regime dismissed the air force commander, Maj. Gen. Jassam Mohammed El Shahiri, and Brig. Mahmoud Ereim, the commander of Iraqi forces stationed in Jordan since the 1967 war.

In spite of repeated assurances that the coup was bloodless, first aid men throughout the country were called to their posts.

City to Sell Parcel Near Rouge River

BIRMINGHAM — On the sixth attempt since 1959, a city-owned parcel of land near the Rouge River has been rezoned for residential purposes.

The reclassification of the property on the east side of Lakeside opposite Midland was approved by the City Commission on Monday over the objection of nearby home owners.

★ ★ ★

The property, measuring 80 by 203 feet, will be sold by the city. Money from the sale will be used to develop passive recreation land owned by the city along the Rouge.

Purchased in 1956 as part of a larger site for flood plain, the propeyt is considered excess land and not needed in controling the waters of the Rouge.

ONLY ONE DISSENTER

Requiring at least six votes for rezoning, the change was authorized by a 6 to 1 vote, with only Mayor David Breck dissenting.

It was Breck's contention that the city should retain as much open area as possible.

★ ★ ★

Commissioner William Saunders disagreed. "We have the flood plain land we need there, and we've been told by the recreation and plan boards that we don't need the property for future use," he said.

Henry M. Merker, who owns a home on adjoining property told the commission that the city should retain the site for flood plain.

'WOULD BE WRONG'

"I believe the commission would be wrong to knowingly sell property for residential use that will be flooded," he said.

City Manager Robert S. Kenning, however, noted that while a portion of the property did flood during the last heavy storm, the problem is not extreme.

The commission, in other business, awarded an $82,500 paving contract for four projects to Mike Harabedian, Inc. of Troy.

The agreement covers the paving of Oakland Avenue from Woodward to Huner; the police pistol range parking lot; Dorchester, east of Cambridge; and the Hunter Boulevard directonal turnarounds.

CONTRACT AUTHORIZED

On the recommendaton of the engineering department, the commission — authorized the contract contingent upon the Michigan State Highway Department signing an agreement with the city for the Hunter Boulevard alterations.

The construction of two tennis courts at Pembroke Park this year also was approved by the commission.

They will be built in the southerly part of the park, just west of the baseball diamond. The tennis courts will be flooded and used for ice skating in the winter.

City Engineers to Study Improving of Clinton Flow

A feasibility study to recommend the best method for improving the flow of the Clinton River in the southwest section of Pontiac will be undertaken by the city's consulting engineers, Jones and Henry.

City commissioners last night authorized the study on the river from Dawson Millpond to the downtown area, the recommendation of Director of Public Works and Service Joseph E. Neipling.

Neipling said the nature of the river in the southwest section of the city has been a factor in the deterioration of the area.

He said inability of the city's engineering staff to have any firm idea of what the land in that area would ultimately be used for caused the administration to defer for several years any recommendations on improvement of the river.

OVER-ALL PROBLEM

He said when organizations now at work, "aggressively planning and guiding the land use development in this area," began studies on the land, the staff began to consider the over-all problem of abating the storm water flooding and the numerous problems created by the unimproved portions of the Clinton River.

Neipling said the staff would like a feasibility study to determine the best method of controlling excess storm water, how to improve the existing waterway so that it can enhance the southwest section instead of being a blighting influence, and what can be done to improve recreational facilities of the river and abutting land.

He said close cooperation with community groups in those areas would be necessary.

Neipling said the study will cost no more than $15,000. He estimated that improvement of the river is a multimillion-dollar project.

LAST PROJECT NECESSARY

The DPW director said that this would be the last project necessary to complete improvement of the Clinton River in the city. He said that the first project in 1961 was begun at that time because of its relationship to the downtown urban renewal development and construction of Wide Track Drive.

The second, east of Paddock, was the next logical one to undertake, he said. The rerouting of the river was mandatory before it was possible for the State Highway Department to begin construction of the M59 connection from downtown Pontiac to I-75, he said.

★ ★ ★

Neipling said improvement of the river in the southwest section of the city would eliminate the flooding of certain streets, notably Bagley and Beaudette, and afford the opportunity to not only utilize the river but capitalize on the natural beauty it affords.

News Headlines From the World and the Nation

SAIGON (AP) — The Vietcong command has warned its forces not to expect peace or independence from the Paris talks until a "general offensive and general uprising," force the United States to accept defeat, a captured enemy directive released by the U.S. Embassy disclosed today. American commanders now believe the Vietcong - North Vietnamese command will launch another general offensive across South Vietnam in August.

Tentative Phone Pact

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal mediator Robert E. Kennedy announced today tentative agreement on a new contract covering 24,000 long-distance telephone workers in 46 states and the District of Columbia. The tentative settlement averted the possibility of a strike that could have affected TV and radio facilities and Teletype equipment, including that used by news services, at the national political conventions.

Firing Halt Peace Step?

PARIS (AP) — Ambassador W. Averell Harriman said today that the lack of Communist shelling of Saigon for the past month "may have some significance" for the Paris peace talks. Harriman, going into the 13th session of the U.S.-North Vietnamese peace talks in Paris, said he had "no way to judge" of the enemy forces in the Saigon area whether a reported withdrawal of some of the enemy forces in the Saigon area constituted a peace move.

N.C. Outlaw Caught; Girl Hostages Freed

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Three teen-age girls held as hostages for more than 24 hours were freed Tuesday night when police captured Edward Thompson Jr., an accused kipnaper. The father of one of the girls and the mother of another were found shot to death earlier.

★ ★ ★

Shaken and at times sobbing the girls were returned to their homes in Roanoke, Va., shortly after Greensboro police arrested Thompson.

★ ★ ★

With pistols drawn, police stopped Thompson in a stolen car belonging to the father of one of the girls. He offered no resistance. Police found two rifles and a pistol in the car.

Thompson, 37, of Eden, N.C., was declared an outlaw by a Superior Court judge in Hendersonville June 25. This meant any citizen could have legally shot him if he disregarded an order to surrender.

He was wanted on six counts of kidnaping, three of rape and one each of armed robbery, car theft and assault on an officer. The crimes occurred in May and June near Hendersonville and Mooresville in western North Carolina.

The car in which Thompson was stopped at Greensboro belonged to J. Howard Davis, 50, a Roanoke salesman whose body was found earlier in the afternoon in the basement of a house near Roanoke. Also in the house was the body of Mrs. Brewster Freeman, 50, of Roanoke. Both had been shot.

The three girls were Jo Ellen Davis, 13, daughter of the dead man; Hester (Cherry) Freeman, 17, daughter of the dead woman, and Mathilda Love, 13, of near Roanoke, a cousin of Hester Freeman.

A year ago this Friday, Mathilda Love's mother, her brother and two sisters died in the Hendersonville, N.C., crash of a Piedmont Airlines jet. Her father had died earlier of a heart attack.

Police in North Carolina and Virginia conferred with the FBI to piece together events leading to Thompson's arrest.

Thompson was held without bond in an undisclosed jail.

The Davis and Freeman families live three miles apart in Roanoke. The alleged kidnaping of Davis, Mrs. Freeman and the three girls apparently took place at the Freeman home.

The first clue as to the whereabouts of the five came when Thompson's brother, who lives in Eden, told police Tuesday morning he had seen Thompson in the area and described the car. The description matched that of the Davis car.

LA Minifortress Awaits Sirhan's Plea on Friday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It looks like some prosperous suburb's proud new courtroom: walls of eggshell white . . . brown tile floor . . . air-conditioning . . . frosted-glass lighting fixtures.

But handsome draw-drapes hide steel plates big enough to protect against anything, including explosives, that might conceivably be thrown through the windows.

This is the "minifortress" where Sirhan Bishara Sirhan pleads Friday to a charge of assassinating Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The room is 50 or 60 feet from the cell where six deputies constantly guard the 24-year-old Jordanian. The room and Sirhan are on the 13th floor of the Hall of Justice.

Sirhan's court appearance Friday will be his fourth. The first was an early-morning arraignment June 5 after Kennedy was killed and five bystanders wounded.

The next two appearances were in a chapel at Central Jail, from which Sirhan was moved July 7. As before, newsmen and others will be searched before Friday's hearing.

Sirhan is in a five-cell block whose other cells are empty of prisoners. One guard is constantly in the cell with the 5-foot-3, 110-pound prisoner, another watches him from outside, and four are in the corridor.

Pontiac Plan Hopes Still High

designer of the Pontiac Plan, said the design plan was accomplished in a short time and took an incredible amount of compressed work, a fact which non-professionals could not appreciate, he said.

He said it might have been better to wait until all financial arrangements were more firmly nailed down but the developer and designers believed that the climate was right for presentation of the plan earlier this year.

SCHEDULE OF EVENTS

Skelton said actual terms of financing will have to be decided in the next few weeks and he has set up a tentative schedule of events to decide on the final terms.

He said there are 12 major buildings, or project classifications involved, and there are alternative methods of financing. "These methods must be evaluated in relation to each other in order to satisfy all the mutual interests," he said.

The schedule calls for selection of major alternate methods of mortgaging by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.'s mortgage correspondent in this area, with the results being presented to the firm's New York office.

Alternates selected by the insurance company will be reviewed by the developer, with results being presented to the city about Aug. 5.

JOINT MEETING

The schedule calls for a joint meeting of city staff, the developers, and representatives from the mortgageing source to make a final determination of a preferred financing concept during the week of Aug. 10.

As of now, Metropolitan Life is being counted on as the mortgager of the buildings proposed for construction. Although the insurance company has not made a definite committment, it has expressed considerable interest.

Financing terms, if approved by the insurance company, could involve the insurance company committting itself as the mortgager of all the buildings, all at one time, or could involve a definite committement for one, or two, or three buildings at one time.

John H. Fleming, vice president of Kelly Mortgage & Investment Co., of Flint with a branch in Birmingham, correspondent for Metropolitan Life, said the insurance firm's representatives would have to approve a financing plan for mortgaging the properties before its assets would be committed.

He said New York representatives have been informed of the general plan design and proposed methods of financing but can not commit themselves as yet. Fleming, corroborating Skelton's view, said it is unusual for a large financial source to commit itself before a complete and thorough study of all aspects of a design plan, its financing and its structural design plans.

But, he said, the Pontiac Plan has points in its favor: (1) the life insurance representatives believe the plan is generally economically feasible, (2) the plan would receive very favorable consideration because of its nature—a total concept for improving a city's core area—and (3) community acceptance.

He said it would have to have public support for the insurance source to become involved.

For those who might fear that the plan is designed on shaky financial ground there are other considerations. For example, the Department of Housing and Urban Development will be involved and must approve all major steps in completion of the plan. This includes the financing, the design and the implementation including the decisions as to what buildings will be constructed in what order.

Urban renewal regulations are strong and practically preclude the possibility of any speculation of urban renewal land.

There is no market page today in The Pontiac Press since the stock exchanges are closed to enable workers to process accumulated transactions. The regular market page will be resumed tomorrow.

Creditor Chorus Sings E. St. Louis Blues

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — Money troubles are giving East St. Louis the blues. For example:

The Mobil Oil Co. has requested immediate payment on a five-month old gasoline bill for the city's police, fire and garbage vehicles. If payment is not made the city's credit card, $16,000 in arrears, will be revoked.

* * *

City officials are trying to find money from an available account to pay the gasoline bill and keep the vehicles running. But just in case, they instructed each driver to get a full tank of gas while the credit card is still good.

The credit card crisis is an illustration of the city's over-all financial situation.

PAYROLL DEFICIT

Last week, because of a $60,000 payroll deficit, policemen and other municipal employes were given wage consignments redeemable at local banks instead of pay checks.

The banks have helped keep the city going since it started operating in the red in 1951. Now 38 cents of every city dollar goes to paying off funding bonds, one official said.

* * *

George Washnis, administrative aide to Mayor Alvin Fields, says the city is in for "more lean years" because it does not get enough state aid and its tax base is dwindling.

Raising taxes is hard to do, he said—"East St. Louis has poor people, 3,500 families on public aid, another 1,000 on relief.

EXISTENCE PERILED

"We hope to have new homes and revenues in a few years, but now we must find ways just to exist. We've got plenty of federal programs coming in but all of them mean we have to put up some money, which we don't have."

Many in the city of 84,000 say Field's political organization is responsible for the city's financial straits. The administration counters by saying the city was broke before it took over.

* * *

The school district is deeply in debt. To operate, it had to borrow $1 million from a school bond issue that was intended for new construction. Teachers refuse to show up for work and demand raises. It happens every year.

Two industrial communities near East St. Louis' boundary have a combined valuation of about $90 million but less than 500 persons. Washnis says maybe someday the state will pass legislation making it easier for East St. Louis to annex Sauget, formerly known as Monsanto, Ill., and National City, site of national stockyards. It would offset the loss of businesses that keep moving out and homes that are being taken by city.

Some of those homes were valued at only $3,000.

Last fall former Sen. Paul Douglas brought his Commission on Urban Problems to the highway projects. A 60 per cent unemployment rate among the approximately 50,000 Negroes, poor housing and needed services the city is unable to provide were listed as causes of what Douglas described as among the worst urban problems in the nation.

Inkster OKs Black Program

INKSTER (AP) — The Inkster City Council voted unanimously Tuesday night to meet the demands of an inner city Negro group calling for a three-point program designed to help avert trouble this summer.

The group, said spokesman Darnell Summers, demanded a black culture program in the city recreation center "to instill a sense of dignity and pride in black people."

* * *

A second demand was that the council look into alleged police harassment. "They send a ridiculous number of police officers into the black community for a minor cause such as a traffic accident," said Summers. "It gets to look like we're not being protected but occupied."

L'Anse Aid Needs Sifted

L'ANSE (UPI) — Five federal agencies have begun the task of determining what aid will be needed by this Upper Peninsula community in recovering from the effects of extensive flooding Monday.

Rep. Phil Ruppe, R-Mich., said today that both the Small Business Administration and Department of Agriculture had assured him disaster teams would be sent in to the Sturgeon Valley area to survey damage.

* * *

A heavy thunderstorm sweeping in from the Keweenaw Bay late Monday dumped more than four inches of water on L'Anse and nearby Baraga. At one point, water stood seven feet deep in the business district of L'Anse.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers was standing by to begin dredging operations and repair damage to the L'Anse harbor, located at the southern end of Kenweenaw Bay.

Ruppe also said the Office of Emergency Planning and the Economic Development Administration were notified of the flooding and promised an investigation to determine what aid might be needed.

No injuries were reported as a result of the flooding, but water supplies for L'Anse and Baraga were contaminated and power supplies were disrupted for several hours.

Look Ahead When Considering Purchase

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley:

We've been trying to make up our minds whether to buy a home this year or continue to rent. Our friends are about evenly divided pro and con, which is no help at all. Since we're facing an increase in rent, we want to decide now which way we'll come out best financially.

MARY FEELEY

Our savings would cover a down payment.

Who gets the best break in the long run, the home owner or the renter? Will you give us your opinion?

J. C. V., East Coast

Dear J. C. V.:

To give you a snappy answer: it all depends. You can set up a stack of figures to show that the home owner builds up an equity and gets a break in tax savings, while the renter just gets an increase in rent.

But the renter points out smugly that property taxes and maintenance costs double and triple before the new furniture is seriously scratched. And that the so-called "savings" in tax deductions are eaten up by fuel bills, insurance, garbage collection, water bill and mending the roof.

Let's say, for instance, that the home owner is paying some $800 in interest on the mortgage this year — in addition to $330 in property taxes. With an income of $8,000 to $12,000, he's in the 22 per cent tax bracket.

So he can claim a tax saving of $248.60, or $20.70 a month. What happens to the $20.70 every month? How much does it cost to heat the house per year? Maybe $250 or $300? Can he count on low-cost upkeep?

When the home owner cites the fact that real estate values are increasing steadily, the renter can point that the cost of renting has risen noticeably less than that of owning a home over the past 10 years. Statistics show a 14.2 per cent increase in national figures for rental of homes over the period since 1957-59, while home ownership costs during the same period rose 23.8 per cent.

* * *

Some people can show you on paper that the smartest way to operate is to buy a long-term, low-payment mortgage arrangement, and use surplus cash to invest in common stocks—the point being that the investment profits over the long haul far outweigh the interest charges. Of course, there's the other side of the picture: it just might not work out that way!

It may prove to have been a lot smarter to pay off the mortgage in a reasonably short period of time, sell the house—and enjoy the gain realized in an inflationary market.

All of which gets you right back to the basic question: are you a homeowner at heart? If you are, you get the most breaks from living under your own roof. Dollar for dollar, it's a better gamble.

More Military Cargo Seen for Lakes Ports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said today his efforts to change the Pentagon shipping policies on the Great Lakes are paying off.

Proxmire criticized these policies last week and he said the Pentagon's response in the form of a letter from the Defense Department's director for transportation and warehousing policy, V. F. Caputo, indicated that a change in policy is under active consideration.

Proxmire is the chairman of the Great Lakes Conference of Senators. He has been seeking to persuade the Defense Department to change its cost-allocation policies, which he said have been preventing Great Lakes ports from receiving their fair share of military cargo shipments.

"I am delighted to find that the voice of reason on this question has finally penetrated the walls of the Pentagon," Proxmire said. "Those in charge of transportation and warehousing policy are at last beginning to see the light."

DISCRIMINATION

Several weeks ago Proxmire wrote to Caputo and stated there was inherent discrimination in the department's use of an item known as the "indirect cargo expense-terminal."

Because of the Pentagon's method of calculating this item, he said, the terminal expense charged to a particular port increases sharply as the cargo work load at the port goes down.

"The result has been that ports with relatively little military shipping, such as those in the Great Lakes, are assigned an expense of $1.30 per measurement ton," Proxmire said.

"The comparable rate for the port of Baltimore, where large quantities of overland military cargo from the Middle West embark, is only 18 cents per measurement ton—less than one seventh the rate of the Great Lakes."

★ ★ ★

Proxmire said as a result of Caputo's reply, there is cause for optimism that the department is willing to change from its stance of the past.

Sewer Project Is Authorized

City commissioners last night authorized initiation of a new sanitary sewer project in the northwest section of the city.

Called the Silver Lake Sanitary Sewer Trunk, the sewer line would complete the delivery of sanitary sewer service to the entire land area of Pontiac, Director of Public Works and Service Joseph E. Neipling said.

★ ★ ★

The commission authorization calls for preparation of engineering plans, estimates and specifications. Neipling said previous bond sales — which made possible the Galloway Creek and Opdyke Sewer Trunks — have provided the city with liberal contingency reserves to finance the project.

He estimated that $235,000 from these two projects can be used to finance the new sewer trunk.

★ ★ ★

The truck line would begin near Oakland and West, continue across Hawthorne Park and end at Walton, north of the park. When completed ot will allow about 70 acres north of Walton, now undeveloped, to become developed, Neipling said.

Former Aide at GM Truck Is Dead at 69

Harold J. Havermale, former parts warehousing and distribution manager of the GMC Truck and Coach Division, died yesterday. He was 69.

Service will be 1 p.m. Saturday at the Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co., Birmingham, with burial in White Chapel Memorial Cemetery, Troy.

★ ★ ★

Surviving are his wife, Ruth; a daughter, Mrs. C. Edward Hornung of Milwaukee; and two grandchildren.

Havermale joined GMC in 1924 before the company moved to Pontiac from Chicago. He held key positions in inspection, military production, and truck assembly operations before being named assistant part warehousing and distribution manager in 1954.

★ ★ ★

He was vice president and master of hunts at the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club and a member of the First Methodist Church of Birmingham and the Elks.

Trains Collide in Virginia; 6 Persons Hurt

COLONIAL HEIGHTS, Va. (AP) — A Seaboard Coast Line railroad passenger train and a 100-car freight train collided Tuesday night.

Officials at a Peterburg, Va., hospital said the engineer of the passenger train, Horace C. Cumby of Richmond, suffered chest injuries and head cuts. Five passengers were slightly hurt.

★ ★ ★

Three locomotives—two on the freight and one on the passenger train—were drailed. The passenger cars remained on the tracks.

Railroad officials said the collision occurred as the passenger train moved down the main track off U.S. 1 near here and the freight began a switch onto the same track.

★ ★ ★

Officials said service probably would continue without interruption over other tracks.

Midwest, East Sizzle

By The Associated Press

A sweltering heat wave withered much of the eastern two-thirds of the nation today and overtaxed power and water facilities in large cities as perspiring residents sought relief.

A slight break in the five-day hot spell dented the northern plains, but the change in temperatures was so abrupt it triggered violent thunderstorms which unleashed torrential rains and occasional flash floods.

★ ★ ★

Two persons were reported drowned in a flash flood which swept the northeastern Iowa community of Waverly today following an 8-inch downpour that swamped the area in a little over two hours.

Lightning from the same storm knocked out electric power in Waterloo, Iowa, for four hours.

LONG, HOT NIGHT

Relief from the heat was on a do-it-yourself basis for millions in the Midwest and the East where the mercury remained in the high 70s and low 80s throughout the night. Readings in the 90s stretched from the central plains to northern New England Tuesday.

Boston registered a high of 98, New York 97, one degree below its record for the date.

★ ★ ★

The instinct to turn up the air conditioner or hop into a cool shower created record demands for electrical power and water in Chicago and knocked out electricity to 24,000 homes in New York City. The outages ranged from a few minutes to an hour or more.

Adding to the demand for water in both cities were hundreds of illegally opened fire hydrants turned on by residents.

TURNED ON

In Boston, the fire department turned on sprinklers for youngsters at 75 hydrants. City officials reported electricity consumption hit an all-time peak Tuesday and water consumption jumped 23 per cent.

A judge in Mineola, N.Y., moved her court into a women's detention cell in the Long Island courthouse after a woman prisoner waiting to be heard fainted. Afterward, Judge Beatrice S. Burstein announced she would hold hearings in the air-conditioned cell as long as the heat lasted.

As far as any general relief, the Weather Bureau was not optimistic. "Little change is expected in the over-all picture," was the way a forecaster put it.

Temporary cooling came in heat-generated thunderstorms over widely scattered sections of the hot belt.

COSTLY RELIEF

Thundershowers lasting several hours cooled Cleveland but the relief was costly. Traffic accidents linked to the weather killed three persons and injured several others. Eight persons suffered minor injuries when a bus struck the back of a truck on Interstate 71 southwest of the city.

A funnel cloud churned through open country west of Pierre, S.D., Tuesday afternoon and a heavy thunderstorm in the city dumped 1½ inches of rain with marble-size hail. Gusty winds accompanied the storm.

In contrast to the wilting heat in the nation's interior and throughout the East, much of the Far West was under clear skies and generally pleasant temperatures in the 50s and 60s before dawn. Meacham, Ore., registered 49 degrees.

Some early morning reports: Boston 84 clear, New York 81 clear, Philadelphia 76 clear, Washington 81 clear, Atlanta 71 partly cloudy, Miami 76 clear, Detroit 74 clear, Chicago 80 cloudy, Minneapolis-St. Paul 73 partly cloudy, St. Louis 84 cloudy, Kansas City 81 clear, Dallas 81 clear, Denver 70 partly cloudy, Phoenix 90 clear, Los Angeles 64 clear, San Francisco 55 clear, Seattle 60 partly cloudy, Anchorage 57 clear, Honolulu 79 partly cloudy.

New President at Kelvinator

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — David W. Jones, Jr., has been named president of Kelvinator, Inc., newly acquired subsidiary of White Consolidated Industries, Inc.

Jones, who has been assistant general manager, succeeds Edmund B. Barnes, who is retiring.

★ ★ ★

Edward S. Reddig, WCI president, said Barnes would continue to serve Kelvinator in a consulting capacity.

Reddig said Kelvinator would be operated as a separate company and would be granted the same autonomous status given other White Consolidated subsidiaries. He said Kelvinator's general offices, located in Detroit, would be moved in the near future to Grand Rapids, Mich., where its main manufacturing facility is now located.

Summer Youth Program Begun by Police Dept.

A summer youth program, involving 14- to 15-year-old boys working with the Pontiac Police Department for an eight-week period, was put into effect last week by the city, Youth Coordinator George Caronis told the City Commission last night.

A similar program was instituted by the city last year with the aid of federal funds. Such funds were not available to conduct the program this year, City Manager Joseph A. Warren said.

★ ★ ★

The Pontiac Area Planning Council recently recommended to the city that it reestablished the program despite the unavailability of federal funds and tight city money.

Those connected with the program last year, including Police Chief William K. Hanger, had recommended it highly.

30 TO PARTICIPATE

Caronis said 30 boys will take part, working with the police department and going on tours. The program will involve some counseling and psychological testing of the boys.

Caronis said those chosen are mostly from low-income, one-parent families, who live in high-delinquency areas.

★ ★ ★

The program is expected to cost the city about $5,500 including supervisory salaries.

4-Point Plan Proposed

Kelley Boosts Tough Gun Law

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley has urged adoption of a strong, four-point federal gun control law.

Kelley sent wires to Sens. Philip Hart, D-Mich., and Robert Griffin, R-Mich., urging their support on the proposed legislation. He also sent a copy to Col. John Glenn Jr., chairman of the Emergency Committee for Gun Control.

★ ★ ★

Kelley said a new federal law should include:

- A bar on interstate mail order sales of all firearms.
- A provision for the registration of all firearms with severe penalties for those who fail to register their guns.
- Licensing of all gun owners.
- A provision barring licenses for convicted felons, the mentally ill, alcoholics, aliens and narcotic adicts.

'URGENT NEED'

Kelley said the legislation is urgently needed to help safeguard the public from those who would misuse these weapons. At the same time, he said, it would protect the legitimate interests of those who utilize firearms for legal purposes.

"The appalling rate of gun murders in this country can be reduced substantially by such legislation," Kelley said. "The ready, unhindered availability of these deadly weapons makes the planning and execution of crimes an easier task and makes unintentional tragedies much more possible."

Kelley contended such legislation would not deprive someone-half million sportsmen, hunters and gun collectors in Michigan of the ownership and use of firearms.

"Such legislation cannot end the problem of the use of guns for illegal purposes," said the state's chief law enforcement officer. "But it can be an effective step in controlling it. We should take that step now."

Surplus Reported

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Grand Rapids City Auditor K. F. Sheehan told the city commission's finance committee Tuesday the city ended the fiscal year with a $1.5-million surplus. But Sheehan said the surplus would not be available for appropriation until a study is completed on how the money should be distributed.

George Estelle of Mandon Road in White Lake Township told Waterford Township police yesterday that the front bumper was stolen from his small foreign car.

The theft reportedly occurred sometime Tuesday night while the car was parked in front of 5700 Elizabeth Lake. It was valued at about $40.

Bay Port

Rugged Fishermen Brave Their Way To Tend Early Morning Nets

PICTORIAL STORY BY EDWARD R. NOBLE

FISH—Tons upon tons of pickerel—once made Bay Port one of the largest freshwater fishing ports in the world. Today all that lingers is the memory. It lines the faces of the few remaining inhabitants and seeps from the idle buildings that sag in their own shadows.

In the early 1900s, the Saginaw Bay's great yield of fish, and the natural beauty of the area, beckoned the tourist by excursion train and tin lizzie to this village on the western side of the Thumb.

* * *

Ah, the glory of those days. Most came eager to test their skill with hook and line, others just to sit on the waterfront and watch the white-sailed ships of the Bay Port Fish Co.

The glory years—the laughter of picnickers with pails of beer, the brass bands on Sunday afternoons, the bustling 200-room Bay Port hotel—slipped away as the record catches of fish slowly faded. The huge nets disappeared with the large fleets of fishing craft. One by one, the fisheries closed down.

* * *

The fisheries and other buildings now stand silent—a creak now and then in the wind their only comment on the passage of time.

Bay Port Fish Co. is still open, and fresh perch can still be purchased at the conclusion of a Sunday afternoon drive. It's really a visit to another era.

Tuna Is a Part of Veal Glaze

Guests are usually enthusiastic about this cold main dish.

Chilled Veal With Tuna Sauce

3½ pounds boned rump of veal (rolled, tied and cooked)
1 cup fat-free veal stock
1 can (7 ounces) white tuna
1 cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon (generous) lemon juice
Drained capers
1 can (2 ounces) anchovy fillets

Slice the veal about ¼ inch thick.

In an electric blender, thoroughly blend the congealed veal stock and undrained tuna; gradually beat this into the mayonnaise along with the lemon juice; stir in 2 tablespoons of the capers.

Arrange veal slices on a large serving platter, spooning the tuna sauce over them as you do so. Cover tightly with a tent of foil and refrigerate for several hours or overnight; sauce should congeal.

Just before serving, arrange anchovies over the platter; sprinkle generously with capers. Makes 8 servings.

To cook veal; Simmer the boned rump in 1 pint water with a carrot, an onion stuck with 2 cloves, 2 ribs celery with leaves, several sprigs parsley, 1 teaspoon salt and 2 bay leaves until tender — about 2 hours.

Chill veal and stock separately; remove fat from congealed stock and use amount called for.

Freeze for Keeps

Crusty French- or Italian-style bread freezes and heats well. Because this type of bread slates fast, freezing it when it is fresh means that you can keep it conveniently on hand.

CHEESE POUND CAKE — A new recipe for the traditional pound cake calls for cream cheese as well as margarine. You'll like the even texture of this loaf; it's just right to serve in thin slices with fruit or sherbet for dessert, or by itself for a snack.

Bake a Pound Cake

Cheese Helps Texture

Here's a cheese pound cake that not only delights the eye but pleases the palate . . . just naturally invites the cordiality of "coffee and." It contains all the delightful good taste of cream cheese (or Neufchatel for the calorie conscious) blended with margarine and eggs.

CHEESE POUND CAKE

2 (3-oz.) pks. cream or Neufchatel cheese
1 cup (2 sticks) margarine
1 cup sugar
3 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
2 cups sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt

Soften cheese and margarine at room temperature. In a large-size mixing bowl, beat cheese and margarine until light and fluffy. Stir in sugar.

Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add vanilla. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Fold into batter; blend well.

Grease a 5 x 9 x 3-inch loaf pan. Turn batter into pan. Bake in a moderate (325 degrees) oven, about 1 hour and 30 minutes. Cool in pan for 10 minutes. Remove from pan and cool on wire rack. Makes one 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf cake.

Mushrooms Are Exciting

Mushrooms, their history, lore and recipes make fascinating reading, whether they are priced at $950.00 or 15 cents.

About ten years ago R. Gordon and Valentina Wasson published a beautifully done two volume set, "Mushrooms, Russia and History," an edition limited to 512 and costing several hundred dollars. This was obviously intended for the privileged few.

★ ★ ★

Today the Wasson's book is hard to find, priced at almost a thousand dollars when available. This is a scholarly dissertation on the fascinating fungus, but not at all a cookbook.

If, on the other hand, you love cooking and eating mushrooms, there's a great little leaflet of about two dozen of the best mushroom recipes, using either fresh or processed mushrooms, which costs 15 cents.

This 15-page illustrated booklet is called "Mushrooms Put M-m-m-m-m in Your Menu."

Write to the American Mushroom Institute, P.O. Box 373, Kennett Square, Penna 19348. Remember to give your zip code and enclose the 15 cents in coin to pay postage and handling costs.

You Need Starter for Sourdough Bread

In olden days, every good cook had a batch of "starter." Without it, she could not make bread for commercial yeast was unheard of.

That's no problem today, but it's still fun to try your hand with the old method. The result in this case is tangy sourdough bread.

Sourdough Italian Bread

5 to 5½ cups enriched flour
2 cups water
½ cup Starter
2 tablespoons sugar
1 package yeast
2 teaspoons salt
1½ teaspoons soda

Combine 2 cups flour, water, Starter and sugar in a large glass or ceramic mixing bowl. Beat until smooth. Cover with waxed paper and let stand in warm place (80 to 85 degrees) at least 18 hours. Stir batter down.

★ ★ ★

Combine yeast, salt, soda and 1 cup flour. Add to Starter mixture and beat until well blended. Stir in more flour to make a moderately stiff dough.

Turn onto lightly floured surface and knead until smooth and satiny, 10 to 15 minutes. Divide dough in half; shape into balls and place in two greased 2-quart round baking dishes. Make diagonal cuts in tops.

Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled, about 1½ hours. Brush loaves with water and place shallow pan of boiling water on bottom rack of oven.

★ ★ ★

Bake in preheated 400 degree oven 40 to 50 minutes, or until done. Brush loaves with water twice during baking. Remove from baking dishes immediately; cool. Makes 2 ovens.

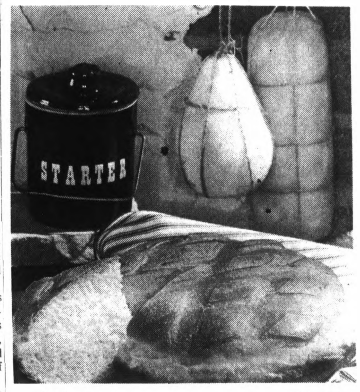
STARTER

1 package yeast
2 cups warm water
2 cups enriched flour

Combine ingredients in large glass bowl. Mix together until well blended. Let stand uncovered in warm place 48 hours. Stir occasionally. Stir well before use.

Pour out required amount and replenish remaining starter by mixing in equal parts flour and water. Let stand a few hours until it bubbles again before covering loosely and refrigerating.

Use and replenish every two weeks.



SOURDOUGH ITALIAN BREAD—Using your own sourdough starter, bake a couple of loaves of crusty Italian bread. Serve it warm with a choice of cheese. It makes delightful eating at any time of day.

Chicken Soup Becomes Sauce for Entree

The good planning behind a successful party starts with the first thought given to the menu. A well-worked-out party plan should provide elegant, "special" dining for the guests, and a minimum of fuss for the hostess.

One menu suggestion for honoring the bride-to-be (or the June graduate, or young prom goers) features a high and handsome parsley-dotted rice ring, filled with Creamed Chicken Superb.

Appetizingly attractive in its pale springtime colors, Creamed Chicken Superb combines pieces of chicken with celery, sliced peaches, toasted almonds, and seasonings of mace and tarragon.

All are blended together with a luscious, velvety saucing of condensed cream of chicken soup — that delicious, expertly seasoned, creamy soup that does so much to simplify party preparations or everyday meal planning.

★ ★ ★

To complete the pretty buffet, serve a cool salad of Bibb lettuce and cucumber slices, and oven-browned club rolls.

Creamed Chicken Superb

2 cups sliced celery
1 teaspoon ground mace
½ teaspoon tarragon, crushed
¼ Cup butter or margarine
3 cans (10½ ounces each) condensed cream of chicken soup
1 cup sour cream
6 cups cubed cooked chicken
1 can (1 pound) sliced peaches with juice
6 cups cooked rice
½ Cup chopped parsley
Toasted slivered almonds.

In skillet, cook celery with mace and tarragon in butter until tender. Blend in soup and sour cream; add chicken and peaches (save a few for garnish). Heat; stir now and then.

Meanwhile, combine rice and parsley; pack into buttered 6 cup ring mold. Unmold on serving plate; fill center with chicken mixture; top with almonds. Garnish with additional parsley and peaches. Makes 12 servings.

Mashed Potatoes Used in Hash

Good way to use roast beef leftover from the weekend is in hash.

ROAST BEEF HASH

2 cups ground (medium blade) leftover roasted beef, packed down
1 cup mashed potatoes (from a package of instant dehydrated potatoes)
¼ cup finely diced onion
¼ teaspoon salt
1-16 teaspoon white pepper
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
2 tablespoons butter

In a bowl thoroughly mix together all the ingredients except the butter.

In an 8-inch skillet over moderate heat melt the butter; add the hash mixture and without stirring brown on one side; invert on a large plate; slip back into skillet and brown other side. Cut into 4 wedges; remove with a wide spatula. Serve with hili sauce. Makes 4 servings.

(In preparing the potatoes use package directions adding the amount of water, salt and milk called for. If a teflon-lined heavy skillet is used the hash will take about 10 minutes per side to brown.)

Ground Pork Makes Party Fare

If happiness is spending less than you earn as it says in "David Copperfield," here's a dish to make budget-watchers happy while it pleases gourmet guests.

Glazed pork patties combine thrifty ground fresh pork with chopped water chestnuts for an interesting texture and crunch. These rounded, plump patties are then gently cooked with a fruity sweet-sour sauce for a delightful flavor.

PARTY FARE

The pork patties are so simple to prepare you'll want to serve them often to the family and to guests, too.

For a party look, garnish the patties with small Belgian endive spears or pineapple slices attractively edged with paprika. Toasted sliced almonds arranged on the glazed pork patties give an extra touch of glamour.

★ ★ ★

You might want to serve curried or buttered rice, a tossed vegetable salad and freeze-ahead coconut ice cream balls with raspberry sauce. It will be a meal to remember.

GLAZED PORK PATTIES

1½ pounds ground fresh pork
½ cup fine corn flake crumbs
1 egg

Battle of QB's Is Lion 'Problem'

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Too many quarterbacks can be a problem, but a pleasant problem for the Detroit Lions, who officially began twice daily practice sessions today at Cranbrook.

None of the veterans among coaches or players can remember the last time there were five quarterbacks on the Lions' training camp roster.

★ ★ ★

Four are in camp, while the other, No. 1 choice Greg Landry of Massachusetts, is in the College All-Star training camp.

Most of the attention, of course, is centered on quarterback Bill Munson, for whom the Lions paid a heavy price to get from the Los Angeles Rams.

Munson has the size, the arm and for his age, enough experience to give the Lions a new lease on the 1968 season.

Experience might be lacking over-all among the signal calling quintet, but the Lions are more than happy with their youth corp and the battle which is certain to take place for positions.

SHARED DUTIES

Karl Sweetan, with two seasons of sharing duties with Milt Plum, is the only other signal caller with any amount of experience.

Tim Jones, whom the Lions' redshirted to the Pontiac Firebirds last season, is back in camp to make his bid for the job.

★ ★ ★

Landry, who has been impressive in various college post-season bowl games since last fall, including the recent coaches All-America game in Atlanta, is almost sure to get a berth on the squad with the strong possibility that the Lions will hold on to three quarterbacks.

That leaves Greg Barton, a relatively unknown from Tulsa, who may be the darkhorse of the contingent.

★ ★ ★

Barton, 6-1 and 190, picked 9th in the 1968 draft by the Lions, had a creditable record at Tulsa University in 1966, but last year he was out most of the season with a shoulder injury.

During the rookie camp last week, Barton was the lone quarterback available because of NFL players-owners dispute which kept Munson, Sweetan and Jones out of early drills.

The camp proved highly beneficial for Barton and the coaches were impressed with his throwing.

"He threads them pretty good," said one of the Lions' coaches, "and he has good attitude and spirit.

"Once he learns the offense and the signals he could be one of the big surprises," it was noted, "and it's good to have such a young group of quarterbacks to work with."

The Lions will have a lot more to work with at several positions especially at linebacker where veterans Wayne Walker and Mike Lucci, along with sophs Ron Goovert and Paul Naumoff and four rookies are vying for positions.

★ ★ ★

The Lions traded linebackers Wally Hilgenberg and Ernie Clark and obtained defensive ends John Baker and Joe Robb, both highly regarded in the NFL.

DEFENSIVE OPENING

Withe the retirement of Darris McCord, lone returning regular at the defensive end slot is Larry Hand, but there are eight second year men or rookies after a job at this position.

★ ★ ★

There were five players who were missing from yesterday's planned picture session which was halted by a severe thunderstorm in the Cranbrook area. The players are en route to camp and with their presence the Lions will have 68 in workouts, not including four in All-Star camp.

★ ★ ★

The twice daily workouts are closed to the public. First appearance of the Lions will be in the intra-squad scrimmage at U. of D., Friday July 26th.

STREAK SNAPPER—Dennis McLain got the Tigers back to winning ways last night, snapping the team's three-game losing streak by defeating the Oakland Athletics, 4-0. He struck out eight and did not walk a batter as he became the winningest pitcher in the Majors with 18 victories. He has lost twice.

Tigers' Mound Ace Shuts Out Athletics, 4-0

OAKLAND (AP) — Denny McLain of the Detroit Toigers says he wn't think about winning 30 games until he has won 29.

He lifted his record for the season to 18-2 with an eight-hitter Tuesday night as he shut out the Oakland Athletics 4-0.

★ ★ ★

"If I'm fortunate enough to win 29 games, then I'll start thinking about winning 30," McLain said.

"Right now, all I want to do is help the Tigers win the pennant," he added.

BEHIND SCHEDULE

McLain is three days behind the 30-win pace of Lefty Grove, the last American League pitcher to win that many in a season. Grove won his 18th game on July 13, 1931, and finished with a 31-4 record.

Catcher Bill Freehan of the Tigers credited McLain's success to his ability to get out of trouble. McLain had two runners on in the first inning but escaped with a double play.

In the sixth he struck out Oakland's home run leader, Reggie Jackson, with two men on.

★ ★ ★

Throwing fastballs, curves, sliders and a few changeups, he didn't walk a batter.

"When I have my control I'll give any team a battle," McLain said.

Johnny Sain, Tiger pitching coach, taught McLain the slider because Denny felt he needed another pitch.

"He tried to teach it to me last year but I'm a slow learner and didn't catch on until this season," McLain said.

"There are 24 other players and the coaches who are responsible for my success," he said when asked if Sain was most responsible for his fine year.

★ ★ ★

Detroit got a quick lead with an unearned run in the first against loser Chuck Dobson, 7-9. The Tigers scored again in the second on singles by Willie Horton and Tom Matchick and a walk.

They added a third run in the fourth on Al Kaline's fifth homer.

A double by Jim Northrup, a walk and Freehan's single accounted for the Tigers' final run.

★ ★ ★

Detroit maintained a 6½-game lead over Baltimore. Oakland dropped to a tie for sixth, 14½ behind.

Tonight it will be Joe Sparma, 7-8, for Detroit, pitching against Oakland's Jim Hunter, 6-8.

Oriole Wings Fluttering With Seven Game Streak

CHICAGO (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles have their wings fluttering with a seven-game winning streak and now hope they can get their feet moving the next two weekends against league-leading Detroit.

"Let's just hope we can get Detroit to listen to the pitterpatter of moving feet," said Jim Hardin Tuesday night.

★ ★ ★

Hardin had just hurled the Orioles to a 4-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox to extend the Baltimore streak to seven games, six of them under the guidance of personable Manager Earl Weaver, who has yet to lose in the big leagues.

The Orioles have cut Detroit's once invincible lead to 6½ games and five in the loss column and meet the Tigers in Detroit this weekend and in Baltimore the next.

Any carryover of the current streak could bring about a race in the American League.

Hardin, who boosted his record to 11-5 by whipping the Sox a third time this season and the fifth in his career which began last year, issued a warning.

★ ★ ★

"We have a great defensive team and the guys are starting to hit," said Hardin. "All I can say to Detroit is watch out. We got them for a four-game series this weekend.

"Maybe the Tigers will hear the pitterpatter of Oriole feet. That's something they haven't heard all season."

★ ★ ★

"Our pitching is good and guys like Frank Robinson, Boog Powell and Brooks Robinson are starting to hit," said Weaver, who has piloted the Orioles to six of their last seven victories.

"We're starting to use our speed and that's a big factor," continued Weaver. "You can't expect a team to come up with 10 or 12 hits in every game.

"Don Buford, Mark Belanger and Paul Blair are running well and we'll use their speed on the bases. Right now I'd match Buford and Belanger with any other two men in the league when it comes to speed."

★ ★ ★

Weaver was asked if he thought his club could win the pennant by not losing another game all season and he answered, "Yes, if Detroit loses seven games."

Baltimore still has a pair with the rejuvenated White Sox before facing the Tigers over the weekend.

The Oriole victory was the first loss suffered by the Sox under the return of Manager Al Lopez, who led the Sox to three straight triumphs after taking over from deposed Manager Eddie Stanky.

NO REPEATERS

In the short history of the Forest Lake tournament, there has never been a repeat winner. Cal Cooke and Ray Palmer won the initial tournament in 1963.

Following champions were Harry Nederlander-Gene Eyler in 1964; George Linklater-Dr. Robert Lurie in 1965; Walter Hagen, Jr.-Bill Benjamin in 1966 and then Slocum and Clark.

A victory for Byrne would give him a sweep of the local big three, Pine Lake, Birmingham and Forest Lake.

He is a past winner at Indianwood as well as Red Run and currently defending champion at Gowanie.

The weekend festivities will begin tonight with the annual Invitational banquet.

A 36 hole finale is scheduled for Saturday, with the awards dinner to follow.

Byrne to Make Bid at FLCC

Chuck Byrne has the odds and superstition against him in his attempt for four straight Invitational golf championships when he competes in the 6th annual Forest Lake event this week.

Byrne, of Birmingham, who has won successive Invitational championships at Red Run, Pine Lake and Birmingham, will team with Knobby Walsh of Indianwood when match play starts Thursday at Forest Lake.

★ ★ ★

He will be trying for his 13th straight match victory, and Walsh admits he is superstitious.

Walsh, was a former pro assistant under Bob Gajda at Forest Lake, but later had his amateur status reinstated.

A total of 128 teams in eight flights ends qualifying today at Forest Lake, shooting for the title held by Howard Slocum and Tom Clark.

The race began June 1. Forbes' arrival left only three of the starting boats unaccounted for.

Woman Selected for Torch Honor

MEXICO CITY (AP)—For the first time in history of the modern Olympic Games, a woman will make the last dash through the stadium and light the Olympic torch with a flame brought from Mount Olympus.

The Mexicans, hosts for the Summer Games of 1968, have chosen Norma Enriqueta Basilio Sotelo, a 20-year-old hurdler, as the Mexican athlete whose lighting of the torch will be most symbolic of the spirit of the Games.

Seeded Players Pushed Hard on Clay Courts

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Adjusting to the slower clay court surface is a problem for tennis players accustomed to playing on grass. The switch bothered some of them Tuesday in second-round action at the National Clay Courts Tennis Championships.

There were no major upsets, but seven seeded players went to three sets before winning their matches.

One of them was Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., the defending men's singles champion.

The top-seeded Ashe played two matches, winning the first 6-4, 6-1, from Tom Mozur, Streetwater, Tenn. In his second outing, against unseeded Dan Bleckinger of Oshkosh, Wis., he dropped the first set 5-7 before settling down to win the next two sets and the match, 6-2, 6-2. Ashe, who had just arrived from Sweden, admitted he had some difficulty in getting used to the clay. "I expect problems the first day," he said. "I just got off the plane yesterday."

SAME PROBLEMS

Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico, ranked first nationally and seeded second at Milwaukee, also said the change to clay was a problem for him in his 6-3, 6-8, 6-4 victory over Zan Guerry, Lookout Mountain, Tenn.

Jaime Fillol of Chile—second seeded foreign player—subdued unseeded John Brown of Australia 6-2, 5-7, 8-6.

★ ★ ★

Canada's Mike Belkin, the top foreign seed, beat Sherwood Stewart, Baytown, Tex., 6-4, 6-2. Third-seeded Ramanthan Krishnan of India beat Colin Stubs, Australia, 6-4,4-6, 6-4.

PEACHES Bartkowicz of Hamtramck, seeded second in women's singles, beat Pam Teeguarden, Los Angeles, 6-2, 6-0.

Oakland Booters Gain at Expense of Detroit, 3-2

By The Associated Press

Selimir Milosevic almost single footedly has kicked the Oakland Clippers into second place in the Pacific Division of the North American Soccer League at the expense of the downtrodden Detroit Cougars.

The center forward from Yugoslavia booted home three goals as the Clippers shattered a three-game losing streak Tuesday night with a 3-2 victory over the Cougars.

★ ★ ★

The nine points pushed Oakland ahead of Los Angeles with 108 points, still far behind idle San Diego's 132, while Detroit, with 49 points, made little movement out of the Lakes Division cellar.

In other matches, Atlanta and Washington marked time in a battle for the top spot in the Atlantic Division as Atlanta dropped Gulf leader Kansas City 3-1 and Washington tripped Lakes leader Chicago 4-1. Boston blanked Houston 1-0.

FAST START

Milosevic had Oakland ahead 2-0 with two goals within 1½ minutes in the first half, and after host Detroit pulled within 2-1, he scored again at 27 minutes of the second session before 3,136 fans.

Atlanta raised its point total to 110 as Freddie Mwila of Zambia scored twice within 6½ minutes in the second half to overcome a 1-0 deficit before a home crowd of 10,507, one of the season's largest.

Washington kept pace by exploding for four goals in the second half, two by Juan Palleta, after spotting Chicago a score before the largest crowd in D.C. Stadium this season, 9,280. The Whips, moving ahead of New York into second place, now have 105 points.
