Hoover Leads FBI Into Era of Fame, Glory

Editor's Note: The following is the seventh in a series of daily articles on the activities and history of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Taken from Don Whitehead's new book, "The FBI Story," today's account is one of 30 which will appear each day in the pages of The Pontiac Press.

By DON WHITEHEAD

President Calvin Coolidge announced on April 2, 1924, that Harlan Fiske Stone, New Hampshire-born Republican, New York attorney and former dean of the Columbia University School of Law, would succeed Harry Daugherty as attorney general.

Five weeks after his appointment, Stone accepted the resignation of William J. Burns as director of the Bureau of Investigation. The old era had ended.

He mentioned this at a Cabinet meeting. Herbert Hoover, then secretary of commerce, discussed Stone's problem with his assistant, Larry Richey.

Richey said, "Why should they look around when they have the man they need right over there now — a young, well-educated lawyer named Hoover?"

The day after Burns resigned, 29-year-old J. Edgar Hoover was summoned to Stone's office. It was May 10, 1924.

Stone was over 6 feet tall and weighed more than 200 pounds. He looked to Hoover at that moment as if he'd been carved out of solid stone.

* * *

"Sit down," Stone said, scowling. The scowl was a habit.

Hoover took a seat, Stone peered at him over his glasses, then said abruptly, "Young man, I want you to be Acting Director of the Bureau of Investigation."

Hoover realized the magnitude of the compliment. He knew in that instant that Stone had rejected the arguments that he was too young for the job. Far more important, he knew that Stone did not hold him responsible for the policies, mistakes and corrupt actions of those who had directed the Department of Justice and the Bureau of Investigation in the past.

POLITICAL DIVORCE

Finally Hoover said, "I'll take the job, Mr. Stone, on certain conditions."

"What are they."

"The Bureau must be divorced from politics and not be a catch-all for political hacks. Appointments must be based on merit. Second, promotions will be made on proved ability and the Bureau will be responsible only to the attorney general."

The attorney general scowled and said, "I wouldn't give it to you under any other conditions. That's all. Good day."

In those first months, Hoover leaned heavily on Stone for support. And he received it. The Bureau was in disrepute.

Demands were being heard across the country that the Bureau be disbanded and its work distributed throughout the other departments and agencies of government.

Hoover believed strongly that the Department of Justice should have lawyers and accountants trained in collecting evidence.

He recognized that the govern-

One Dip to Another

'RIGHT THAR' — Down it went, down to zero, for the first time since it dipped below zero on Feb. 12, 1955. Here Sheila Loper of Milford puts her mittened fingers on the temperature, which had area residents digging out long red woolies this morning, before going outside to kick futilely at auto starters made stubborn by the cold.

1st Degree Murder Charged

Arraign Fetting in Slaying of Hillbilly Singer Barron

ST. CLAIR (AP)—Roger L. Fetting, a 36-year-old carpenter held in the slaying of hillbilly ballard singer Lonnie G. Barron, stood mute today at his arraignment on a first degree murder charge.

Prosecutor Wilbur V. Hamm obtained a murder warrant. Hamm said a Port Huron radio newsman, Bill Saunders, told him Fetting had made an oral statement to him admitting shooting Barron because of the singer's attentions to Fetting's wife and sister.

Fetting was already in custody when he talked to Saunders.

Fetting declared Saturday "I didn't do it," and said any statement he made previously had been issued after he was told that his wife, Betty, 35, had been taken into custody.

Mrs. Fetting was questioned, but not jailed in the investigation.

Barron, 24, a former farm boy from Richton, Miss., was shot to death last Tuesday night in his home back of a dance hall he operated at nearby Muttonville.

The singer's body was found sprawled among cartons of fan mail from women admirers, and state detective Lynford B. Smith said Barron had a reputation as "a ladies' man."

Mrs. Fetting was a member of one of Barron's fan clubs and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Joseph Kerr, was president of it.

Produce Warehouse Near Almont Burns

A produce cold storage building south of Almont was gutted by fire Saturday afternoon. Value of contents and building was estimated at between $50,000 and $75,000, according to State Police of the Romeo Post.

The warehouse, located at 5650 Van Dyke, is owned by E. Edward Gilbert, who lives at that address. He said it was about two-thirds covered by insurance.

Almont, Romeo and Dryden fire departments fought the blaze six hours in near zero temperatures before bringing it under control about 7:30 p.m. They were recalled about 10 p.m. when fire broke out again. the Almont department kept an eye on the smouldering ruins all day Sunday, police said.

The 120 by 46 foot building contained apples, onions and potatoes. Origin of the blaze is still undetermined, police said. The Lapeer County Sheriff's Department was also on duty at the fire.

Humphrey Bogart Dies of Cancer

Movie Actor Remains Hopeful of Recovering Until Last Coma

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Humphrey Bogart, 56, one of the movies' greatest talents and certain its most nonconforming nonconformist, died today of cancer of the esophagus.

As late as Saturday night, Bogie was still Bogie. Talking optimistically with friends, between customary scotches, he gave no sign the end was so near.

But Sunday morning he sank into a coma from which he never revived. The end came at 2:10 a.m. with one final deep sigh. At his bedside was his wife, actress Lauren Bacall.

Asleep nearby in the sprawling Holmby Hills manse were the two Bogart children, Stephen, 8, and Leslie, 4.

And thus cancer killed off the Academy Award winning star. His physician said it was a spread of the original malignancy that brought on death.

Unlike most victims of cancer in the throat area, Bogart's voice was not affected. Until the final coma, it was the same old Bogart bark that used to make the toughest screen hoodlums drop the gun.

Bogart, though dying, had been comfortable in his last days. A recent operation had removed some scar tissue on a nerve and given him much relief.

PLANS FOR BURIAL

Funeral arrangements, still pending, called for burial Wednesday or Thursday at Forest Lawn Memorial Park in nearby Glendale, final resting place of many a movie great. Mrs. Bogart asked that flowers be omitted and that money instead be sent to the American Cancer Society.

Bogie, the movies' favorite "tough guy" never would admit publicly that cancer would beat him.

If Bogart knew he was going to die, he never let on to friends.

A New York newspaper recently printed that death was imminent and when other papers and wire services called to check it was Bogart himself who answered the phone with a caustic:

"What are the ghouls saying about me now?"

He was 35 pounds down in weight, especially noticeable in his usual thin frame. But his spirits and needle-sharp wit were with him until the final coma.

CONVINCED FRIENDS

But there were few, if any, better actors in the business than Bogart and he convinced all his close friends, save one, that he would make it.

That was Frank Sinatra who confided recently "I'm really worried about Bogie."

Bogart spoke frankly about his illness.

Warrant Awaits Holly Mother

She'll Face Charge of Abandonment Upon Leaving Hospital

A warrant charging abandonment of her newly-born son awaits a young Holly mother, Mrs. Patricia Terryah, 19, on her probable release today from Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti, state police said.

She has been held at the hospital for maternity care since the birth last Wednesday at Willow Run Airport. Det. Roy Tanner of the Ypsilanti post said she will be charged with abandoning the baby in the waste-paper basket of the airport's women's lounge.

Her husband, Glenn, 23, is free under $250 bond, awaiting examination on the same charge before Ypsilanti Municipal Judge Edward D. Deake Thursday.

Tanner said Mrs. Terryah will be arraigned before Deake today if she is released by hospital doctors. She was listed in good condition today. The infant was described in fair condition.

A hospital spokesman said Mrs. Terryah's release also depends on the medical progress of the baby. It was found minutes after the birth.

President Visits Texas Region Hit by Drought

Tours Parched Lands by Auto, Hears Pleas for More Aid

He smiled and waved to the small crowd of mostly military personnel and shook hands with several small boys as photographers' flash bulbs popped.

"Hi, there, young fellow," said the President as he stuck a hand out to David Stricklin, 10, and then to his brother, Michael, 12.

The boys were taken by surprise and just looked with mouths open as the President shook their hands.

Later David said, "I don't think I'll wash my hand."

"That is the greatest thing that ever happened to me," said Michael.

D. W. Williams, vice chancellor for agriculture of the Texas A&M College system and acting A&M president, and Tom Green County Agent Ed Hyman rode with the President on the swing through 22.6 miles of typical drought-hit range and farm land southeast of here.

Before starting on his tour, the President attended a closed-door breakfast with farmers, ranchers, businessmen, bankers and local and state officials.

He was briefed on effects of the seven years of drought in Texas.

He also heard the Texans recommend continuance of the present drought emergency feed and hay programs and a request that the 50 per cent cut in hay freight charges be continued.

After the tour the President flies to Woodward, Okla., and then to Clovis, N.M., for inspection of drought regions there.

He will spend the night at Davis-Monthan Air Force Base at Tucson, Ariz., hold another breakfast parley there tomorrow morning, then take off for a look at conditions in two more states.

The Tuesday schedule calls for stops at Pueblo, Colo., Garden City, Kan., and Wichita, Kan. At Wichita, before heading back to Washington, Eisenhower will meet late in the afternoon with representatives from all the Great Plains states plagued by lack of rain and devastating wind erosion.

Dulles Urges Senate Support

Mideast Showdown for Reds and West?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today the Middle East may present "the decisive test in the struggle between communism and freedom."

And he said, Communist leaders "will take every risk they dare to take" to win.

"I do not say that this is the last test, although it could well be the decisive test," Dulles told a joint session of the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committee.

"When the stakes are so great," he continued, "I do not believe the Congress of the United States should play, or wants to play, merely the role of an observer. It possesses assets, perhaps decisive asset, to throw into the struggle."

Dulles was before the senators, at an open hearing, to seek support for the administration's request for standby authority for President Eisenhower to use troops to counter any Soviet aggression in the Middle East.

Eisenhower also seeks authority for economic and military support for free nations in that area.

Last week, in testimony to the House Foreign Affairs Committee, Dulles said the Middle East "is very likely to be lost" unless Congress gives the administration swiftly the special powers it has asked.

Repeating that to the senators, Dulles said:

* * *

"It would be abhorrent and dangerous if that area were ruled by international communism. Yet that is the present danger."

Dulles said that Soviet ground, naval and air forces are stationed in the areas adjacent to the Middle East—in Bulgaria, the Black Sea, the Ukraine, the Caucasus and Central asia.

* * *

"These Soviet forces are of a size, and are so located, that they could be employed at any time with a minimum of warning," he went on. "This fact is nothing new. But today it takes on new implications.

"There has been a change in the possible deterrent role of certain Wetern European nations. Until recently they provided a serious deterrent to Communist aggression against the Middle East. But for a variety of reasons —psychological, financial and political—this no longer meets the needs."

Presumably, this was a reference to the weakened position of Britain and France in that part of the world.

Area Commission Predicts in Report

Prosperity Forecast for Auto Industry

A period of unprecedented prosperity in the automobile manufacturing industry is foreseen for the immediate future by the Detroit Metropolitan Area Regional Planning Commission.

In a report issued over the weekend, the commission predicted that there will be one passenger car for every three persons living in the United States by 1960.

The report estimated that approximately 59 million autos will be registered for the 177 million persons who will make up the country's population three years from now. There were 51 million cars registered in 1955.

The commission also predicted that Southeastern Michigan will remain the center of the auto industry, although expansion will be curtailed by lack of space for industrial construction.

EMPLOYMENT UP

Employment and factory additions will increase most rapidly outside of the immediate Detroit area in the Great Lakes region, the survey conjectured.

About 37 per cent, or 326,000, of the 896,500 persons employed in producing motor vehicles in the nation during 1955 were working in the Detroit area.

Paul M. Reid, the commission's executive director, told newsmen that the study reveals a great potential for expansion of the electronics industry in Southeastern Michigan.

The increasing use of automation in the automotive industry is a main reason for this contention, Reid pointed out.

A major reason for the spread of car assembly and fabricating plants outside of the state has been the development of new markets, the study indicated. As these markets grow beyond the capacity of Detroit-area plants, new ones must be constructed elsewhere.

Indiana, with a 30 per cent rise in automotive employment since 1947, has absorbed a major portion of this expansion, according to the study. Wisconsin has taken another 27 per cent; Ohio, 22 per cent; and Illinois, 12 per cent.

North Portion of Nation Gets Arctic Weather

Cold Snap Is Lowest Since February 1955 When It Was 2-Below

Pontiac and the entire northern half of the nation from the Rockies to New England shivered under a numbing drop in temperature today, following a frigid Sunday night that saw the mercury plummet to zero locally.

It was the coldest local temperature since a -2 reading which had local teeth chattering Feb. 12, 1955.

Four Automobile Club of Michigan stations in the city reported 275 calls for emergency road service this morning as hundreds of cars failed to start.

The Weather Bureau predicts that the mercury tonight will again plummet to around zero. The high tomorrow is expected to range from 18 to 22 degrees. Snow flurries will accompany the arctic blasts tonight and tomorrow, the bureau said.

The five-day forecast isn't too promising either, as the bureau said temperatures will average 10 to 15 degrees below normal.

Chicago notched its lowest temperature since February 1955 when the thermometer registered minus six today.

The nation's coldest spot today was Massena, N.Y., with -35.

In contrast, vacationers in Key West, Fla., were blessed with a balmy 69 degrees.

Some other scattered readings were: Bismarck, N.D., -21; International Falls, Minn., -17; Grantsburg, Wis., -20; Burlington, Iowa, -15; Syracuse, N.Y., -11; Watertown, N.Y., -25; Albany, N.Y., -30; Burlington, Vt., -24, and Lebanon, N.H. had -30.

The chilly air spread into all except the southern edge of the country east of the Rocky Mountains. Temperatures along the Gulf Coast and in Florida remained in the 50's and 60's.

Preceding 8 a.m. in Pontiac, the lowest temperature recorded in downtown Pontiac was 0.

At 1 p.m. the mercury read 12.

Michigan lows ranged down to 20-below at Sault Ste. Marie. It was a frigid 6-below at Hillsdale, near the Ohio border. Jackson recorded -1; Detroit and Traverse City, 3; Escanaba, -11; Flint and Ypsilanti, 0; Grand Marais and Port Huron, -3.

Berkley Man Killed as Car Rams Bridge

Police said he was fatally hurt when his car rammed into a bridge abutment and rolled into a branch of the Rouge River near Farmington.

Harrington reportedly had been driving south on McGee Hill when he lost control of his car.

Anyway You Spell It, It's Dry Trip for Ike

Agriculture and Commerce Department literature passed out to the presidential party spelled it "drought."

An Interior Department booklet called it "drouth."

One Officer; No Space; Old Trouble

While Leo Coyle is waiting for final confirmation by the state Corrections Commission of his appointment to the newly-created post, the search is on to find him office space in the packed county buildings.

Moore and most other county officers work in that building, which once was a Masonic Temple.

"We could put him behind the stage on the second floor, although I'm not sure there's room," Moore said, "because there are three desks there now. We've almost stacked one person on top of another."

Moore ruled out shunting Coyle to the "inhuman" attic of the courthouse, where there are no windows and dust abounds.

"Anyway, we've already got office workers up there," he said.

Coyle now has a desk in the courthouse office of Pat McKenna, chief state probation officer, whom he will serve under. Asked when Coyle will be found an office of his own, McKenna replied frankly:

"I just don't know."

He said he referred the question to Moore in hopes is can be solved.

Moore said that in the meantime "everybody else is hollering for more space, and they need it, too."

Many county officials look forward to the completion of a new county building in the N. Telegraph road service center, which may solve the housing situation.

Coyle was appointed to act as officer in charge of offenders placed on probation by Oakland County justices.

His position was created after an Oakland County Circuit Court decision that justice court probationary sentences were illegal without a probation officer. Circuit Court Judge Clark J. Adams made the ruling and the Board of Supervisors created the $4,300-a-year post, the first in the state.

Coyle, 27, started his job Jan. 2. He is a 1947 graduate of St. Frederick's High School and served in the Army from 1952 to 1954. He previously had started at University of Detroit as a pre-law student.

Coyle, who lives at 460 Fourth Ave., has worked as teenage counselor in Detroit Catholic organizations and as a teacher at Cathedral High School, Detroit.

Your Income Tax

* * *

CHILD CARE

There is available, for widows, widowers, and divorced persons who have not remarried, a child care deduction not to exceed $600, if deductions are itemized.

If it is necessary for you to hire someone to take care of one or more of your dependents so that you can be gainfully employed, then a deduction can be taken for the amount paid.

A taxpayer is entitled to a child care deduction provided the care is for a dependent child or stepchild — and — the child is under 12 years of age — or a person who is physically or mentally incapable of caring for himself, regardless of age.

The child care deduction cannot be claimed if the amount of money as a deduction is paid to a dependent of the taxpayer.

Working wives may also claim child care deduction provided: A joint return is filed with the husband — and — combined adjusted gross income of husband and wife does not exceed $5,100.

Further information on income tax problems is available, without cost, to taxpayers at the Internal Revenue Service office, 53½ W. Huron St. Phone FE 2-0208.

Refugees Arrive at Willow Run

Hundreds Out to Greet 26 Hungarians Sunday; 28 More Due Today

DETROIT (UP) — Twenty-six refugees from strife-torn Hungary arrived in Detroit yesterday. Another 28 are due today.

Hundreds of persons turned out in the 10-degree weather to greet the arrivals at Willow Run Airport.

* * *

Lajos Bekulcz, 36, and Ann Kisbaran, 31, were the engaged pair.

Bekulcz said through an interpreter that he was active in the workers council that led the uprising. He said he fled Hungary when the secret police sought him at his parents' home, about 60 miles from Budapest.

Another arrival was 17-year-old Ferenc Stoit. The youth said he joined the uprising in its early stages and was active near his home on Csepel Island, one of the last holdouts of resistance. He left his parents and a sister in Hungary.

Among the refugees was a cousin of the Rev. John Paul Nagy, co-chairman of the Detroit Hungarian Churches and Societies Relief Organization.

Humphrey Bogart Dies of Cancer at 56

nothing to be ashamed of like something I might have had. It's no worse than gall stones or appendicitis. They'll all kill you if you don't catch them soon enough."

Bogart spent eight hours under the surgeon's knife last March. For seven weeks, five days a week, after that he spent long sessions under three-million-volt radiation treatment at the Los Angeles Tumor Institute.

Although Bogart, on-screen and off talked like a gangster he actually was Park Avenue born. His father was a physician and his mother a noted magazine illustrator.

Bogart himself had attended Andover Academy—one of the nation's finest prep schools. But he got into the theater early on Broadway. It was hard to imagine that Bogart was the originator of the famous line: "Tennis, anyone?"

* * *

He had started out as a patent leather juvenile complete with blue blazer and white flannel pants. He still carried in his wallet his first notice, written by the late Alexander Woollcott.

It read: "The performance of Humphrey Bogart could be described mercifully as inadequate." Perhaps his greatest stage success was a Killer Duke Mantee in "The Petrified Forest." It was a role that brought him out to Hollywod and made an overnight movie sensation of him.

Bogart loved to recall his entry into Hollywood. "I came out here with one suit and everybody said I looked like a bum. Twenty years later Marlon Brando came out with only a sweatshirt and the town drooled over him. That shows how much Hollywood has progressed."

Bogart's last picture was "The Harder They Fall," in which he played an embittered publicity man and promoter. Other pictures included "The Two Mrs. Carrolls," "The Treasure of the Sierra Madre," "Key Largo," "Knock on any Door," "Tokyo Joe," "Deadline U.S.A." "Battle Circus," "Beat The Devil," "Sabrina," "The Barefoot Contessa," "We're No Angels" and "The Left Hand of God."

Bogart won his Academy Award as the best actor of 1951 for his work in "The African Queen."

Miss Bacall was Bogart's fourth wife. The others were actresses Helen Menken, Mary Phillips and Mayo Methot.

The Day in Birmingham

16 Item Agenda Awaits City Lawmakers Tonight

BIRMINGHAM — A light agenda faces city commissioners this evening, with only 16 items listed. They will reconsider the question of vacating an alley in the Campbell subdivision at the Chestnut, Hazel, Elm street area. The question was held over from the last meeting to permit a city survey after residents protested.

They said that the closing of the alley would prevent them from getting the full use of their garages. Another alley closing to be considered lies between Cole and Lincoln.

Commissioners also will consider the appointment of Robert Kenning to represent the city of Birmingham on the proposed county council for civil defense.

* * *

At a special dinner meeting Thursday evening at the Birmingham community house the Kiwanis club will pay special tribute to Mrs. Annis Gillette, city health nurse, in their annual "Flowers for the Living" observance.

They will be joined by members of the Birmingham Business Women's Club and the Soroptimists, both of which Mrs. Gillette is a member.

* * *

Womans Alliance of Birmingham Unitarian Church members are meeting at 12:30 p.m. Jan. 23 at the home of Mrs. John K. Bagby, 972 Oxford Rd.

Mrs. Marvin Fisk, psychiatrist at Pontiac State Hospital will discuss the work done at that institution, some of the treatments used and what is being accomplished in the field of modern psychiatry.

* * *

Birmingham commissioners tonight will receive the report of Andrew F. Butt showing a total of 607 building permits issued last year. Leading the field in new construction with 135 single family residences with the total valuation of $2,050,460. Evaluation for the entire building program was $4,858,470.

New Bureau Era Begins With Hoover

ment's cases too often were not presented properly because the evidence was gathered in a haphazard fashion by untrained agents.

Yet the collection of evidence was the basis for proving innocence or guilt.

Stone and Hoover had no difficulty agreeing on basic policies for the Bureau. Three days after Hoover's appointment, it was agreed:

1. The Bureau would be a fact-finding organization, and its activities would be limited strictly to investigations of violations of federal laws.

2. Investigations would be made at and under the direction of the attorney general.

3. The incompetents and the unreliables would be discharged as quickly as possible.

4. All the "dollar-a-year men, "honorary" agents and others not regularly employed would be cut from the rolls.

5. No new appointments would be made without the attorney general's approval — and preference would be given to men of good character and ability who had some legal training.

ELBOW ROOM

This agreement, in the form of a memorandum of instructions, gave Hoover elbow room in which to work. He began issuing a rapid-fire series of orders to agents, who were startled by the sudden and unexpected burst of attention from Washington.

* * *

Bureau records indicate that many agents dismissed the whole thing as a passing flurry — they were confident that if they sat around long enough, it would go away, and that if it didn't, they could always write their senator or congressman.

Other agents expressed delight, because they glimpsed the hope of an organization of which they could be proud.

The slow, difficult job of reorganization was a two-pronged compaign. On one side was the fight to weed out the patronage hacks, to enforce the new code of conduct and to weld the organization into an efficient force.

On the other side was the battle to convince members of Congress and political leaders of both parties that the that the Bureau was no longer a dumping ground for patronage appointments.

There can be no understanding of the modern FBI without an understanding of Hoover's views on discipline. His code of conduct became a way of life for those who wished to stay in the Bureau.

CALLED UNREASONABLE

He was called a bureaucrat who was unreasonable in his demands on the people who worked in the Bureau. He forbade his agents to drink whiskey either publicly or privately as long as the prohibition law was on the books.

His men had to be neat in dress and discreet in their habits. He regarded them as representatives of the Bureau whether they were at work or enjoying a social evening with friends.

And even the clerks and stenographers and other Bureau employes had to measure up to strict standards.

It took Hoover roughly three years to shake down the Bureau of Investigation and to perfect the basic organization which was to become renowned for its efficiency. Through all the formative years, Hoover maintained a close friendship with Stone, who remained in the Department of Justice for 11 months and then was appointed to the Supreme Court.

On Jan. 2, 1932, Stone wrote Hoover:

"I often look back to the days when I first made your acquaintance in the Department of Justice, and it is always a comfort to me to see how completely you have confirmed my judgment when I decided to place you at the head of the Bureau of Investigation. The government can now take pride in the Bureau instead of feeling obliged to apologize for it."

And so the wheel had turned.

Red Radio Hits British Action

Claims Russian Doctor Was Placed in Hospital Against Will

LONDON (AP)—The Moscow radio claims a Soviet ship's doctor who quit his vessel is being held in Britain against his will. The Foreign Office says he has asked for asylum.

Both agree the doctor, identified only as Biruykov, is in a mental hospital. The Moscow broadcast last night claimed this is the reason:

* * *

Having failed to force Biryukov to stay in Britain and seeking to cover up their traces, the British secret police are obviously trying to make out that Biryukov is a lunatic."

The broadcast added that Soviet Ambassador Jacob Malik had protested to the Foreign Office and demanded "his immediate release and free permission for him to return to his country."

* * *

The Foreign Office acknowledged that Biryukov is at the hospital but said he applied for asylum and asked to be spared any visit by Soviet officials. A Russian Embassy official was permitted to talk only with the doctor in charge.

Biryukov left his ship at Hull Dec. 22. London newspapers said the doctor barricaded himself in a hotel room after being questioned by intelligence agents. This was the Daily Mail's account:

* * *

Biryukov "stamped up and down his room, banging the walls and shouting' throughout the night of Jan. 5. The hotel management called police, but he wouldn't let them in. After he kept shouting "I demand my freedom," the police battered the door down.

When the police entered, Biryukov dropped 15 feet from a window to the lawn below. His wrists and neck had been slashed, and he was taken to the hospital.

Vacancy to Give GOP Opportunity to Control Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) The resignation of Sen. Price Daniel (D-Tex), tomorrow to become governor of Texas raises once again the possibility that Republican may take control of the Senate.

This could only happen, however, if retiring Gov. Allan Shivers names a successor to Daniel who would vote with Senate Republican, and makes the appointment stick. Shivers, though a Democrat, has supported President Eisenhower.

Republican leader William Knowland of California already has given notice that any time the GOP can muster 48 votes it will take over control of the Senate.

That would require a tie-breaking vote in favor of the Republicans by Vice President Nixon. With Daniel's vote, the Democrats now have a 49-47 edge in the Senate.

Democrats say they are confident that if Shivers names a successor to Daniel, he will pick a senator who would vote with the Democrats.

Letter Tips Off Death of Couple in Oregon

EUGENE, Ore. (AP)—It was Sunday but Atty. Richard Thwing picked up his mail and went to the office to glance through it. He came to a letter which ended: ". . . . unable to go on like this."

Thwing called police. They sped to the home of Lee Chilberg, an acquaintance of Thwing's, 30 miles southeast of Eugene.

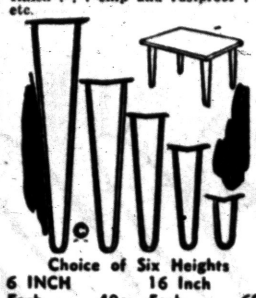

Mrs. Chilberg, 54, had been axed to death. Chilberg, also 54, was hanging in the garage.

Investigators said Chilberg evidently wrote and posted the letter Saturday morning after killing his wife. Both were in poor health and neither had work.

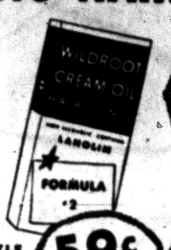

Money orders were first accepted by the U.S. postal department in 1864.

Concentration May Win Loot in Pot-O-Gold

You'd better start concentrating very hard on your puzzle solutions, because the money is on its way up again. It might just as well be yours as another's, so study the clues and clue words carefully. And don't forget the rules. Your entry is no good if you have overlooked them.

The puzzle consists of (1) a number of circles which contain a few scrambled letters, and (2) a corresponding list of clues to these words printed below. The object is to arrange each group of circled letters into a word that best fits its clue. The word which you select for Circle No. 1, then would be the one which you would print in the space to the right of (1) below.

You'll notice that some circles contain $ signs in pots of gold. You may use such a symbol as any letter you wish. However, it and all letters in that circle must be used. The $ sign, of course, can represent ANY letter in the word.

Do the same in all the other circles. Study the clues carefully and arrange all the letters into words that you believe best conforms to these clues. Use your $ signs to help you spell out the right words.

Former Governor to Talk at Credit Union Banquet

Murray D. Van Wagoner, onetime governor of Michigan and former civil governor of Bavaria, will be the guest speaker at the fourth annual Oakland County Employees Credit Union Banquet Wednesday.

Approximately 200 are expected to attend the banquet, to be held at 6:30 p.m. in the Civic Room of the Federal Savings and Loan Association, 761 W. Huron.

Oakland County Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams is slated to introduce Van Wagoner, who will discuss the Mackinac Bridge. Van Wagoner is a member of the Mackinac Bridge Authority.

An election of officers, directors and committee members is scheduled for a portion of the business meeting to be conducted by William J. Jones, union president. Lois Tutor is chairman of the nominating committee.

GUESTS TO ATTEND

Other banquet guests will include members of the Oakland County Road Commissioners and the Board of Auditors, according to Mary Shanks, chairman of the banquet committee.

4 Children Left in Church Pew

'Broken-Hearted' Mom Runs Away With Lover in New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Four children are in a welfare home today, abandoned in a church by their mother, who said she was "going away with the man I love."

Police identified the mother as 32-year-old Mrs. Eleanor Hyans, who had been separated from her husband and was living on relief.

* * *

The note, signed by a "heart-broken mother," told of being "kicked around all my life" and said she was "going away with the man I love, . . . and get a divorce and get married."

* * *

"I will return for my children in about one year. I've not abandoned my children. I want them back as soon as they can have a good home like other children. . . .

"Please try to keep them from getting separated. I love them very much. . . ."

Abandoned along with Joseph were James, 5, Carol, 3, and Mark, 2. When found by the Rev. James Coppinger, Joseph told the priest his mother was "going to Florida" but "my father will be back."

* * *

A brother of Mrs. Hyans, Charles Santoro, 26, contacted police after reading of the abandonment in newspapers. Santoro, a carpenter with two children of his own, was turned down, temporarily at least, in a bid to care for his sister's children.

He told police of a man with whom his sister had been keeping company. Authorities later identified him as 19-year-old Robert York, an auto mechanic and nighttime law student. They sent out a several-state alarm for him.

Asks House Group to Meet in Public

WASHINGTON (AP)— Rep. Jensen (R-Iowa) said today the House Apropriations Committee should end its traditional practice of holding hearings in secrecy, except where matters of national security are involved.

"Maybe this would save the taxpayers some money," he said in an interview. He said he would propose such open hearings to the committee this week, but he conceded there was slight chance his idea would be adopted.

"If the hearings were open some people might be a little bashful about asking for appropriations," he said.

Cadillac

Pride of the Neighborhood!

It is a happy occasion indeed when a new Cadillac car first appears in the driveway of its proud and happy owner.

As you would expect, it signals the most joyful of family celebrations—and occasions the heartfelt congratulations of friends and acquaintances.

But you might be surprised to learn of the widespread rejoicing which the arrival of a new Cadillac frequently inspires.

In fact, the car invariably becomes a source of genuine pride and satisfaction throughout the entire neighborhood in which it resides.

The neighborhood understandably delights in having a beautiful new Cadillac to grace its streets . . . and takes great pleasure in knowing that one of its own has been able to realize the dream that lives in the hearts of so many.

And you might also be surprised to learn that this happy event is taking place in a great many neighborhoods that have never before laid claim to a Cadillac car.

For there is an ever-growing awareness that Cadillac—with all its incomparable motoring virtues—is one of the soundest and wisest purchases a motorist can make.

Insofar as purchase price is concerned, the car represents an extraordinary value.

Operating costs are remarkably modest for a motor car so satisfying in performance. And the car's dependability and longevity are without parallel in modern motoring.

And, of course, there is Cadillac's exceptional resale value. Over the years, no motor car in the world has rivaled it from a standpoint of over-all investment.

And we will be delighted to tell you how easily and economically you can make your car . . . the pride of the neighborhood!

Hal Boyle Says:

Albert Schweitzer, 82 Today, 'Living Saint'

NEW YORK (AP)—If there is a saint now living on earth, many feel it is a gentle giant of the mind and heart who dwells deep in Africa and will be 82 years old today.

* * *

He is Albert Schweitzer, a strange multiple-genius who, following a mystic sense of self-dedication, left Europe in 1913 to found a hospital at Lambarene in French Equatorial Africa.

Even then he was famous as a philosopher, theologian, historian, and world renowned organist. His work as a medical missionary added to his stature. So did his massive "Philosophy of Civilization," written, ironically, in a jungle clearing at night when his hospital chores were done.

* * *

But his ultimate immortality rests on a three-word creed he flung into the face of the most murderous generation the human race has produced, his insistence on a "reverence for life."

Dr. Schweitzer, famed among scholars, remained to the man in the street little more than legendary figure in far off Africa. But in 1950 a group of leading artists, writers and musicians of 17 countries acclaimed Dr. Schweitzer as "The Man of the Century." in 1952 he was awarded the Nobel award for peace.

Accepting the $33,200 prize, which he applied toward improving housing for 250 lepers in his hospital, the sturdy, buffalo-moustached doctor explained his philosophy in these words:

"You don't live in a world all your own. Your brothers are here, too."

* * *

Pilgrims of all kinds and from many lands have journeyed to visit this disturbingly kind philosopher who, instead of stepping on the ants at his feet, put down food for them.

What is he really like?

The world will soon be able to see how he works and lives, in a biography filmed by Erica Anderson, a Vienna-born photographer, and produced by Jerome Hill, grandson of James J. Hill, the railway titan.

Mrs. Anderson got the idea of filming Dr. Schweitzer for posterity back in 1948. She wrote him. The suggestion of a movie of his life so shocked the modest missionary that it wasn't until three years later he let her visit the hospital.

It took another year to win permission to make the film, four more years to do the actual filming and overcome Dr. Schweitzer's wish that the film remain unshown until after his death.

* * *

"He gave way finally," said Mrs. Anderson, "only because he cannot bear to have anyone unhappy he knows of and can help.

"His veneration for life is such that rather than cut down a tree that is in the way he will have it transplanted. It even bothers him that as a physician he must destroy bacteria, even thought he recognizes that higher forms of life take precedence.

"He lives with utmost simplicity. His favorite food is onion soup He hasn't smoked since he was 25 nor does he take hard liquor. Once, while he was visiting America, a lady insisted, 'Oh, one cocktail in your life won't hurt you.' And he took the glass politely and said, 'very well then—the only cocktail in my lifetime.'

"Every morning he cleans the antelope pens himself. He believes in doing things with your own hands.

* * *

"He is, in a way, oddly old-fashioned. His mind is of this century but he dresses and looks like the last century.

"He doesn't like to ride in cars and never has been in an airplane. He has seen only three or four movies in his life.

"But he is aware of everything going on in the outside world. He writes, longhand, 30 to 40 letters every night. He has no secretary and won't let anyone reply to a letter for him. He dislikes telegrams.

"He likes particularly to keep in touch with young people, and tells them that, instead of growing pessimistic as they age, they should grow into a deeper idealism.

* * *

"He travels third class on trains and once, when he was asked why he was traveling third class, he said simply, 'because there is no fourth class.'

Schweitzer's birthday will be celebrated at the hospital where he, three doctors, and eight nurses care for 500 to 600 native patients. Mrs. Anderson said "it will be just as if it were any member of the staff's birthday. He doesn't like to be fussed over.

* * *

"But a half hour before breakfast a group of the natives and the staff will gather and sing to him. At breakfast small handmade presents will be put by his plate. As the bell ending breakfast rings, he will rise and say:

"Well, I have one year less. Come! That means we must get to work quicker!"

Ailing Servicemen Increasing

Seek Remedy to Deafness Caused by Aircraft Noise

WASHINGTON (AP)—Deafness attributed to jet plane noise is causing the government great concern.

Veterans Administration (VA) officials, reporting this, said the number of affected servicemen and veterans is increasing. They said the noise also may be affecting numbers of civilians, just as constant and excessive exposure to noise in heavy industry is affecting many workers.

Persons in the Air Force primarily affected by the jet planes noises are not the pilots but the members of ground crews—the planes in flight travel so fast they leave the sound behind.

Already the VA is paying out $59,355,672 a year to 94,233 veterans in disability benefits for hearing loss and diseases of hearing.

NO FIGURES

Although no breakdown was available on how many of those cases were caused by jet noise, the VA said the Air Force estimates there are now thousands of such cases.

A revise schedule grants persons suffering from noise deafness higher rates of compensation than had been the general rule previously for persons who could be helped by devices.

A VA spokesman explained that there is no known medical treatment or device which restores any degree of hearing to a person suffering from total noise deafness.

* * *

VA refers to the condition as trauma-type deafness, resulting from cumulative nerve damage and nerve destruction brought about by exposure to excessive and constant noise.

It was explained that the Air Force thinks its research has about reached the point where the problem of quieting the blast noise of jets may be whipped. But the VA spokesman said the thunderclap which occurs as a plane breaks the sound barrier is another problem.

The noise deafness problem will become more acute as jet use expands, he continued, saying:

"Unless the noise problems are solved it will affect more and more people near airports.

Briton Killed on Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)— A British serviceman was shot dead today by unknown gunmen as he rode a motor scooter along a suburban Nicosia avenue. It was the first attack on a British serviceman this year. The gunmen escaped. Presumably they were members of the anti-British, pro-Greek EOKA underground.

Mediterranean Pipeline Would By-pass Suez

At least one pipeline to carry Persian Gulf oil to the Mediterranean is more than a mere possibility.

On December 18 Premier Mollet of France said that Israel was preparing to build one through its territory. A few days later Premier Ben-Gurion offered the use of Israeli soil for a pipeline. Early cost estimates set it at $30,000,000 with completion within a year.

There have been recent reports that Greek Shipping Magnate Onassis proposed building a pipeline through Egypt parallel to the Suez Canal, at a cost of $35,000,000. He is the owner of the world's biggest tanker fleet. At present many of his ships are carrying oil at premium rates via the Cape of Good Hope.

Some influential London papers suggest that the U. N. acquire and operate Middle East pipelines. This would meet Arab objections to having their oil go to Western Europe through Israeli territory.

★ ★ ★

Oil and politics are inextricably mixed in the Middle East. Egyptian Dictator Nasser has the upper hand just so long as there is no practical alternative route for oil. He may yet overplay that hand as his current quibbling over clearing the Canal and other matters have such implications.

Government Secrecy

A House subcommittee headed by Rep. John E. Moss Jr., California Democrat, has been giving newspapers great assistance in their fight against governmental withholding of information.

In the present session beaucratic secrecy will be challenged on three fronts by this Government Information Subcommittee, says Congressional Quarterly. First, the group will ask permanent status. Second, it has drafted legislation to be introduced early in the session.

Third, it will continue hearings with representatives of various executive departments and agencies. Also to be considered is a report on Pentagon information policies prepared by an advisory committee headed by former Assistant Secretary of Defense, Charles A. Coolidge.

The Subcommittee expects to hold a panel hearing to receive complaints from leaders of business and industry, especially defense contractors. Similar panels of newsmen, scientists and lawyers previously had been questioned.

Long range goal of the subcommittee is to establish uniform rules on information practices throughout the Government. An interim report states that:

"The availability of information from the Federal Government is a continuing problem that cannot be solved simply, not even by the passage of a whole series of laws. Only by consistent vigilance and repeated challenge can the avenues of information between the people and their Federal officials be kept clear."

If the trend towards lengthening the wheelbase of cars continues many more years, perhaps they will be priced by the lineal foot.

Reunification of Korea Up for Debate in U.N.

The Political Committee of the United Nations has invited the Government of South Korea to participate in the coming debate on unification and rehabilitation of all Korea.

This group, which is made up of all members of the General Assembly, wisely rejected a Soviet-backed proposal by India's delegate, V. K. Krishna Menon. He wanted representatives of North Korea also invited to the debate.

Years ago the U. N. established a special organization to deal with the unification of Korea through free elections and a war was fought to that end. The world body has helped to establish the South Korean government by means of free elections and has recognized that government as the only legitimate government of Korea.

The Soviets, on the other hand, have set up a Communist regime in North Korea and it is being maintained by Chinese Reds. It has called the United Nations an aggressor and has refused to admit a U. N. Commission on Unification.

★ ★ ★

In continuous violation of the Korean truce agreement, the Red regime is steadily building up military force, including air power. Representatives of such a government have no place at the United Nations.

Orphan of the Storm

David Lawrence Says:

Probe of Hungary Will Have Teeth

WASHINGTON — The United Nations through its general assembly has taken a constructive and, indeed, a far-reaching step in adopting, by a vote of 59 to 8, a resolution which sets up a five-nation committee to investigate what has been happening in Hungary.

On the face of it, this may look to some observers as a perfunctory move or one that hasn't any teeth in it, but no greater mistake could be made than to underestimate what really can be done to mobilize the moral force of the world once the facts in a major controversy among nations are spread upon the record.

"Pitiless publicity" was a phrase frequently used by President Wilson in advocating an exposure of wrongdoing. While congressional committees have often been used to uncover and expose domestic scandals, no device of this kind has ever been tried on an international scale.

The United Nations assembly is not a legislative body, but it has been empowered by its charter to investigate and discuss any question that threatens the peace of the world. This concept was one of the great contributions made by the late Senator Arthur Vandenberg, Republican, of Michigan, when the charter was written in San Francisco in 1945.

GROUP POWERLESS

Today a United Nations investigating committee does not have any power to command witnesses to appear, but it can request their attendance, and the burden of public criticism for any refusal to testify will fall upon those who evade the basic issues.

Thus it would be proper for the new committee to invite the taking of testimony in Hungary itself from officials of the "puppet government," who would be given an opportunity to explain the recent incidents.

Naturally, the Hungarian officials now under Soviet control would argue that what is happening is an "internal" matter and would instruct their representatives at the U.N. in New York to explain their position. But this cannot dispose of the problem of jurisdiction by the U.N.

SOVIET AGGRESSION

For the continued presence of Soviet troops on Hungarian territory is an act of external aggression. It cannot be justified on the ground that the existing regime in Budapest "invited" the Soviet army to come into the country. Everyone knows this is not true, but it is important to take testimony which will underline the untruth as well as the danger of accepting any such ex parte explanation as valid.

It would, for instance, be dangerous to the peace of the world if a strong power entered another country with its troops and imposed a puppet administration and then claimed it had been "invited" to enter that country. Unless there have been uncoerced elections, the will of a people cannot be freely expressed by a government which is not of their own choosing.

What the U.N. investigating committee will develop is the nature of the aggression committed by Soviet Russia. The case can be documented by testimony from refugees who saw with their own eyes the duress employed by the troops sent from Moscow and by the police officials installed by the Soviet authorities.

U.N. CAN ACT

If, when the final report is made, the U.N. investigating committee makes it clear that the Soviet Union has committed acts of aggression and is now occupying Hungarian territory against the will of the people, it can recommend that the United Nations condemn the Soviet Union and demand free elections in Hungary.

If this is not permitted, then the U.N. can consider subsequently what measures an international force should take to help the Hungarian people get rid of the occupying armies of the aggressor.

The Moscow radio in recent weeks has been constantly denouncing the British and French intervention in Egypt, but the Soviets have failed to note that those two countries withdrew their troops in obedience to a request from the U.N. general assembly.

The new investigating committee of five nations, if it is properly staffed and obtains detailed testimony, can effectively bring out the facts in the course of the next two or three months, and lay the basis for a United Nations action.

This could secure eventually the liberation not only of the people of Hungary but of all the other so-called "satellite" states which have been the victims of aggression by the Soviet Union.

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches.—Rev. 2:29.

★ ★ ★

The mission of the Church is to seek and to save them that are lost. — Aughey.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Quick, Painless Operation Removes Eye Cataracts

My friend, an accountant, who recently had cataracts removed from both eyes, described his experience here several months ago — I'm sorry I have no reprints of the article.

The operation on the left eye, which had been sightless for five years, took 45 minutes, including time to prepare for surgery — the actual operation took 20 minutes.

A week later, cataract was removed from right eye, in about the same time. Thereafter both eyes were covered by bandage for 2½ days. Then the left eye bandage was removed, and temporary eyeglass enabled him to get about the hospital and chat with other patients.

OUT IN 15 DAYS

The bandage was removed from right eye 6 days after operation, and he left the hospital fifteen days after the first operation (on left eye), both eyes free from bandage.

★ ★ ★

Now mark this well, if you think you have or know you have cataract, or if you know anyone who has cataract. The accountant said:

"There was no pain whatever at any time during the operations or afterward."

Stitches were removed in the doctor's office three weeks after each operation. This was perfectly painless too.

GOOD AS EVER

Now he drives his car, reads fine print as readily as he could before he developed cataract.

The man could have entered the hospital, had one cataract removed and returned home in a week or so, had he wished, and later entered the hospital for the second operation. But he thought it might save some time and expense if he had both cataracts removed while he was at it.

The surgeon who removed the cataracts is competent and skilled, but not more so than a thousand others through the country.

I hope the accountant's report of his experience will make many persons with cataract realize that the operation is a boon rather than an ordeal.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Quotes Survey's Findings on Mental Health Problem

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

A study conducted in accordance with standards of the American Psychiatric Association reveals that at least 10 per cent of the normal-appearing people who live in big cities in this country are mentally ill.

This study was conducted in Baltimore by a competent agency established by leading health and welfare organizations. A report based on the study and read to the American Health Association said, in part:

"Our findings that approximately one-tenth of an urban population have one or more of the relatively well-defined mental disorders is sufficiently alarming and one obviously calling for serious and prompt consideration.

"We doubt very much that a population having more than this rate of mental illness in addition to the heavy load of chronic and acute disease found in (the) survey could function as a society."

It is surprising that even more haven't succumbed to our maddening environment and yet today we talk to those who perceive nothing, who have open eyes and see nothing, we adore those who have ears and hear nothing, and we still burn lamps for those who do not see.

King Saud's Visit to U.S. Sure to Disturb Nasser

By JOHN H. MARTIN
INS Foreign Director

Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser is not likely to be pleased at the forthcoming visit of King Saud of Saudi Arabia to Washington Jan. 20.

★ ★ ★

The fabulously wealthy desert king has a treaty of alliance with Nasser. But he is believed to resent the extended influence of Nasser in the Arab world and is concerned at the ease with which Israeli troops overran the Sinai Peninsula despite Nasser's vast Russian-made equipment.

Despite Egyptian objections it is conceivable that King Saud might endorse President Eisenhower's plan of economic aid and anti-Communist military protection in the Middle East.

This first visit of a reigning Saudi Arabian monarch to the United States also will be at a time when negotiations are under way to extend rights to the U.S. air base at Dhahran on the Persian Gulf.

★ ★ ★

VAST REVENUES

Into his court at the new Palace of Naziriya in the capital of Riyadh flow the vast revenues from the oil operations of the Arabian-American Oil Co. (Aramco).

★ ★ ★

The revenues have been estimated from $200 to $250 million yearly, although cut-back production due to the blocked Suez Canal has caused a reduction.

King Saud, as crown prince, toured the United States in 1949. He has been a friend of the United States, but bitterly opposed to the creation of Israel. He also is a foe of the Baghdad Pact.

His father, the 6-foot-four-inch warrior who died in 1953, also was a friend of the United States. During the war he conferred with the late President Roosevelt aboard an American cruiser in the Great Bitter Lake, part of the Suez Canal.

★ ★ ★

The father also was a friend of Britain, but the son for years has been fighting the British over the question of ownership of Buraimi oasis and other territorial areas near the British-protected sheikdoms along the Persian Gulf.

CAMEL TO CADILLAC

In the postwar years Saudi Arabia's economy has jumped from the camel to Cadillac stage.

★ ★ ★

On one visit to the Sheik of Qatar, King Saud was given 50-odd Cadillacs and a couple of Rolls-Royces. In return he gave the sheik a yacht that had been presented to him by shipping magnate A. S. Onassis.

Besides the old practice of passing out silver to tribal leaders, however, the King is sharing his vast wealth in other ways by housing, road, school and hospital projects.

The British also accuse him of being the money bags behind unrest in other Middle Eastern nations.

★ ★ ★

He has denied the charge, although it is true he has offered to foot part of the bill if Jordan drops its $33,600,000 annual subsidy received from Britain.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Crane Explains Cause of Jealousy

Howard is an unduly jealous husband who has gone almost berserk in his suspicions of his faithful wife. He has even hired detectives to trail her. If you wish to know what jealousy indicates to a psychologist, then study this case record closely, plus its follow-up tomorrow.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

★ ★ ★

"But, Dr. Crane, what causes him to be so excessively jealous?" his wife asked me urgently.

"Why, he makes the most outlandish charges and right in front of our high school children, too!

"He claims that I am unfaithful and am in love with somebody else. But he jumps around in his accusations.

"For example, he charged me with having an affair with an insurance salesman at one time.

"A little later he accused me of being in love with my doctor. Then it was our clergyman, etc.

"Yet I have been true to Howard all my life and he really knows that, if he would be honest with himself.

"Yet I found out a few days ago that he had even hired detectives to trail me in his mania to find some evidence of my unfaithfulness."

JEALOUSY MEANS FEAR

Jealousy is usually an evidence of fear. It often means that the jealous person suffers from an erotic inferiority complex.

"I'm not all there as a lover," such a person may think, "so how can I hold my mate against the superior charms of others?"

Even among unmarried young young people, jealousy may likewise indicate a similar terror.

Yet the fear may actually be based on false ideas or lack of truth.

For instance, a child may overhear a rude or caustic comment from some irritable adult to the effect that it is "ugly."

"Mary is so freckled and tomboyish that no man would ever take an interest in her," stated the neighboring gossip to a little girl who later was one of my students at Northwestern University.

This coed had blossomed out into a very charming young woman. She was good looking and vivacious.

★ ★ ★

But subconsciously she had been "branded" by that casual remark which she had overheard the neighboring gossip offer.

So this girl was insanely jealous. She actually believed that no man would ever take a serious interest in her, despite plenty of evidence to the contrary.

And it wasn't until we had a long interview and I ferreted out that childhood incident, that I was able to free her from slavery to this false notion.

JEALOUSY AT 40

A great deal of jealousy shows up after the age of 40. Among women, it is due to their erroneous notion that the womb is a primary sexual organ, which it isn't.

But if women believe that false idea, they can then grow terrified.

"I'm on the shelf," they moan, "so my husband can't possibly love me! Yet I realize that all men are passionate creatures.

Therefore, he must be looking elsewhere for love and affection. Even if I haven't caught him in an affair, I know he simply must be unfaithful."

And the same thing is equally true of fearful males like Howard who have passed the age of 40, or who have a wrong notion about an average wife's erotic hungers.

So scrapbook this Case Record and compare it with the follow-up tomorrow.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Bob Considine Offers Fascinating Picture

National Lottery Sporting Way to Support Charities

(The urge to gamble is as universal as man's hope of getting something for nothing. In some parts of the U. S., gambling is legal. In some other countries, the national government sanctions forms of gambling and takes a cut. Following is the first of three articles by Bob Considine describing currennt attempts to promote a national lottery in the U. S.; telling about national lotteries abroad and giving a fascinating picture of gambling in America, past and present.)

By BOB CONSIDINE

Burdensome income and luxury taxes, levied against the American taxpayer so that he can support his government's colossal expenses at home and its military and economic commitments overseas, have brought fresh demands for a national lottery.

The Treasury Department in Washington daily receives scores of suggestions that it inaugurate varied legalized games of chance. The champions of these proposals see millions and even billions of dollars being raised "painlessly" each year.

Most of all, those who favor a lottery supervised by the Treasury feel sure that it would appreciably lower taxes. The Treasury has a form reply. It reads:

"The Treasury Department has not considered it desirable to recommend the legislation which would be necessary to put such a plan into effect."

Countless suggestions have been made to the Treasury to push for lotteries whose basic profits would be turned over to charity. The Irish Sweepstakes have contributed several million pounds sterling to hospitals in Eire through the years. Many proponents of charity lotteries feel that disease as dreaded as cancer itself might yield to a heavily reinforced research program paid for by lottery income.

* * *

James Tumulty, Jersey Democrat, who was defeated for re-election, said:

"I think a national lottery would work here, if there were fair prizes and if the money were raised for such things as hospitals and schools.

OLD AMERICAN CUSTOM

"What's morally wrong with a lottery? It's an old American custom. Princeton and Rutgers were built by lottery money."

If he had chosen to do so, Tumulty might also have mentioned that King's College, forerunner of Columbia University, as well as Harvard, Yale and Dartmouth used lotteries to raise money for needed buildings in their early years. George Washington attempted by lottery to raise $10,000,000 to support his armed forces. The lottery was a failure.

In 1890 the Congress, which a century before had used a lottery to build some of Washington's first buildings, passed a law forbidding the distribution of lottery material. Five years later it forbade interstate transportation of lottery tickets. Postal laws specifically banned in 1949 the transporting or delivering of lottery tickets, advertisements and prize lists.

"Gambling is the principal source of income for organized criminal gangs in this country," the Senator's highly publicized investigation concluded.

* * *

The Kefauver committee had its own figure as to how much money changes hands in illegal gambling each year in the U. S.—$20,000,000,000. The federal government made what is now recognized as a pathetic effort to cut itself in on the public's gambling appetite.

For $50 a copy it sold licenses to gamblers to operate in such areas as permitted gambling—admittedly limited. The expected "harvest" amounted to $973,197 in fiscal year 1952, 1975,729 in 1933, $1,008,000 in 1954 and $835,000 in 1955.

It was a dismal drop in the bucket.

BRITISH TRY NEW SCHEME

The U. S. Treasury Department is watching with interest that borders on concern the unfolding of Britain's new experiment in public financing — British bonds which smack of a respectable lottery.

Harold Macmillan, as Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer before he became Prime Minister, spent almost as much time denying he was conducting a lottery as he expended whetting British and, in fact, world appetites for his scheme.

Britain's "Premium Savings" bonds sell for one pound sterling ($2.80) and, barring what the U. S. Treasury Department calls a "complaint," apparently may be purchased in this country as readily as any other foreign bond issue. Purchasers may buy up to 500 bonds in individual or firm names—$1,400 worth. But little guile would be required of a person or corporation in quest of more.

The British government will not pay the holders interest on their loans. Instead, it will pay the equal of 4 per cent on the total raised into a pool, and out of that pool once each month, starting in June, prizes will be drawn for payment to certain lucky holders. Analytical British bookies estimate that the odds on winning something from the British government in this bond dodge are 75,000 to 1.

In the often sordid history of lotteries, those of the English speaking nations stand out as more or less models of decorum.

LOTTERIES USED ELSEWHERE

Australia has five lotteries sponsored or tolerated by the Menzies government. The oldest of these is that of New South Wales, which offers tickets at 56 cents each and yields prizes up to $13,500. First prize for a winning $1.12 ticket in the New South Wales Sweep is $25,000, and then there is a $67,500 top prize for the bizarrely lucky holder of a winning $2.25 ticket, as well as lesser rewards to multitudes of also-rans.

It has been estimated that the average Australian 19 years of age or older spends $2.25 a week on lottery tickets. Some $700,000,000 is gambled each year in a country with a population hardly that of New York City.

Norway has a national lottery for hospitals and other charities. Sweden has held lotteries since 1896—one came to the aid of the opera there in 1955. Denmark distributed some 17,000 prizes from its lottery last year. Italy began issuing premier bonds in 1949.

The U. S. S. R. has what amounts to an obligatory lottery along the same lines. Throughout Latin America the lottery is as accepted as the quasi beggars who are so often the salesmen and saleswomen of the tickets, and the lottery headquarters can be the most substantial building in a town.

* * *

The British bet fantastic sums each week in the football pools, where there have been payoffs as high as $300,000 (tax free) for an investment of 15 cents. There are, of course, the country's racetracks and greyhound ovals, and bushels of money change hands daily over such odd contests as crossword puzzles.

Macmillan has said he is simply trying to channel that gambling appetite into governmental fiscal soundness.

New Vaccine Combats Respiratory Diseases

CHICAGO — Researchers reporting in the Journal of the American Medical Association say that a new vaccine, developed to combat certain respiratory diseases, was found in a recent preliminary study to reduce the expected rate of illness by more than half.

The vaccine was made of adenoviruses, which caused acute feverish respiratory diseases that resemble grippe and are not of the "common-cold" variety.

Scientists Work on Farm Ideas

Beltsville Men Develop Small Turkeys, Onions That Smell Better

NEW YORK, N. Y. — Producing a new brand of wheat or making flowers bloom faster is all in a day's work to the government scientists at Beltsville, Md.

Described in a recent issue of a national magazine as "the farmer's idea factory," this fabulous 13,000-acre "farm" has given us amazing new seedless tomatoes, built-in insecticides that grow with the plant and protect it, and flowers that bloom at any time of the year.

In fact, Beltsville geniuses have even come up with many made-to-order farm animals, including the famed Beltsville small white turkey—an economical five- to 10-pound bird that can be eaten year-'round by the average family and a custom-made pig with a streamlined de-larded body.

The "idea" factory—part of the research center of the U.S. Department of Agriculture—is almost daily bringing hundreds of better foods to America's tables.

Among the improved hybrids are hybrid onions with a more pleasant odor, and cheddar cheese produced in half the time it used to take.

Insurance Assets Rise

NEW YORK—The aggregate assets of the more than 1,000 American life-insurance companies increased by $2,209,000,000 during the first six months of 1956. Assets of the nation's life-insurance companies last June 30 totaled $92,876,000,000.

WILMINGTON, Del. — A new fire-resistant, vinyl-coated fabric for draperies to darken window areas in schoolrooms and auditoriums, primarily for audio-visual work, has been developed by a Wilmington company.

The opaque drapery, color-patterned and textured on the inner side, has a neutral beige finish that faces the window. Opacity is supplied by an intermediate coating of black vinyl.

BLADDER WEAKNESS' MAKES MANY FEEL OLD

There is nothing that can make you feel older and more depressed than losing sleep and worrying about "Bladder Weakness" (Getting Up Nights or Bed Wetting, too frequent, burning and itching urination) or Strong, Cloudy Urine, due to common Kidney or Bladder Irritations, which sometimes result in Backache, miserable referred, secondary aches, pains, headache and nervousness. Walled Lake Man Helps Found New Masonic Body

Richard W. Lewis of Walled Lake is among Masonic leaders forming the new Masonic organization, "York Rite Sovereign College of Freemasonry," it was announced today in Detroit.

Lewis is a Past Grand High Priest of Michigan's Royal Arch Masons, who helped found the order. He said it will aid needy children and provide proper housing for elderly people.

Lewis said top officials of American York Rite bodies have approved the organization. He said nearly a million members of Masonic Blue Lodges in the nation are eligible for membership.

The membership requirement will include affiliation with all four York Rite bodies—Blue Lodge, Chapter of Royal Arch Masons, Council of Royal and Select Masters, and Commandery of Knights Templar. Headquarters will be in Detroit.

* * *

Lewis will serve as the first governor general of the sovereign college.

Other officers are Francis M. Dodge of Detroit, deputy governor general; Robert S. Spencer of Midland, chancellor general; W. Edward Dewey of Battle Creek, treasurer general; Clifford A. Taylor of Spring Lake, secretary general; George J. Ristow of Albion, preceptor general, and James Fairbairn Smith of Detroit, senechal.

Lewis said organizing members include Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker, former governor of Michigan.

Detectives of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department today are investigating the possibility that a car went through the ice at Teeple Lake in White Lake Township Sunday night.

the look on its face!

There's a look of character and quality about that new Chevrolet front end that reveals a lot. Feel the strength and solidity of the grille and you learn even more. And this is only one of the easy ways you can compare workmanship, materials and design.

Most of the '57 cars look good from 50 feet away, but what about from 50 inches away? What does a close-up of the grille tell you, for example? Is it solidly made like the new Chevrolet grille? Or, in comparison does it look less rich in design—does it feel less strong and solid in construction?

Check the bumper. Is it separated from the grille by a bolted-on metal pan that's subject to rust and rattles? Or is it nicely integrated with the grille as in the Chevrolet design?

And how about the headlights? Any seams where they join the fender? Not in Chevrolet, there aren't. Fine, one-piece construction here and rich, distinctive chrome trim.

The more closely you look all around the car, the more clearly you'll see that Chevrolet has the edge in the way it's put together. Compare the quality of materials, the attention that has been paid to trim and details. You'll find, for instance, that Chevrolet is the only car in its field with a lacquer finish . . . that only Chevrolet Bel Air models in their field give you foam rubber cushions in front and rear seats as standard equipment. These are just a few of the advantages of Body by Fisher. And Chevrolet, you know, is the only low-priced car that has a Fisher Body.

We'll be glad to give you a close-up, comparative look at this new Chevy any time you care to come in. This week, maybe?

Logs Give Clue to Past Weather

Southwest Dry Spell Severest Since 1670, Says Weather Bureau

WASHINGTON (INS)—Weathermen who claim that the current Southwest drought may be the most severe since 1670 base their findings on studies of old logs.

The tree rings in the logs tell the history of climate for hundreds of years before rain gauges were invented.

Milton L. Blanc, a climatologist for the U. S. Weather Bureau, reports that studies of the tiny dark ridges in old pieces of wood show that the present drought may be part of a 100-year cycle of dry weather.

The recurrence of dry spells isn't regular enough for accurate prediction of the future, he says, but shows a definite pattern of the past to scientists.

The last long dry period, he said, occurred about 1890. The rings show an extremely severe drought in 1570 and 1670, possibly worse than the one now searing vast areas of the plains and mountain states.

Blanc explains that tree rings don't show the exact amount of rainfall, measured to a fraction of an inch, but checking the rings formed in recently-cut trees against the bureau's observations proves they are reliable.

He said the explanation is simple—trees grow faster in wet summers and the annual rings are spaced farther apart. In dry periods the rings are crowded closer together.

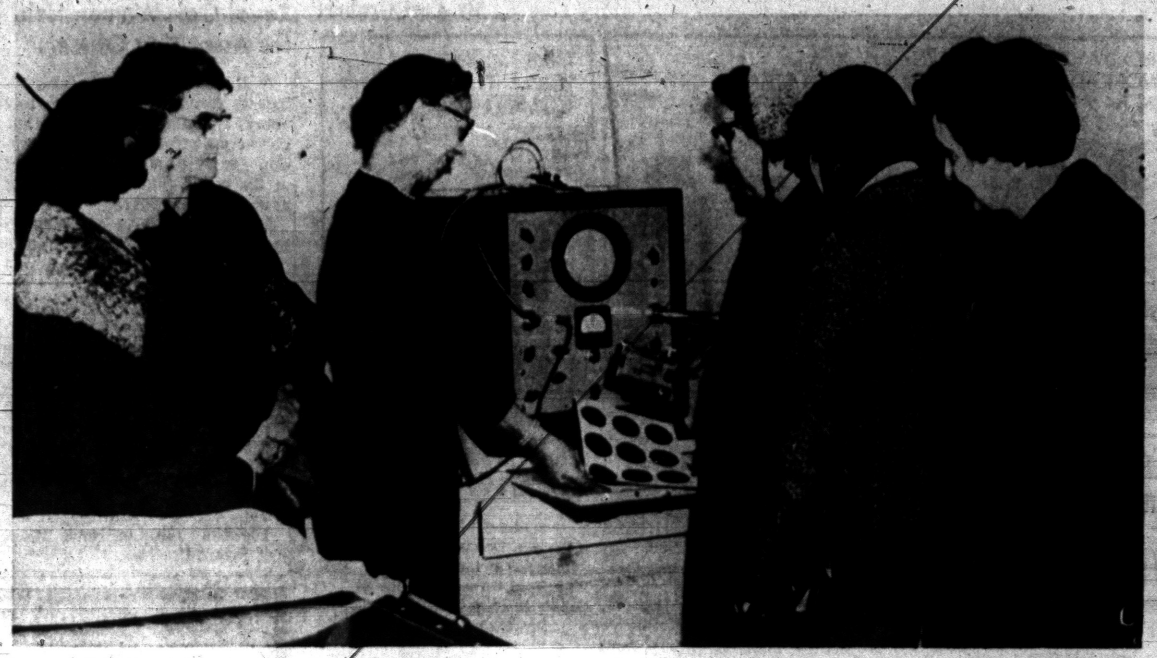

The ring pattern, for any period of years, is almost identical from tree to tree.

PATTERN OF RINGS

The outer rings from dead trees have the same pattern as the inner rings of younger trees. In this way, scientists can piece together an overall pattern covering decades.

By using logs cut by early settlers, the scientists extend the climate picture even further back. Logs found in early Indian dwellings take the story back for centuries.

Blanc notes that climatologists using microscopes can even tell what season of any year was the driest and can determine the precise year when a tree started growing.

Brooks' Heart Attack Proves Fatal; Served 8 Years in Senate

CHICAGO (AP) — Former Illinois Sen. C. Wayland Brooks died early today in Passavant Hospital. He was 59.

Brooks entered the hospital Jan. 8 suffering from chest pains, which later were diagnosed as a heart attack.

* * *

Brooks, a Chicagoan, served as senator from 1940 to 1948, when he was defeated by Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill). He was elected to serve the unfinished term of the late Sen. James Hamilton Lewis (D-Ill).

A native of near Wianet in Bureau County, Brooks was the son of a parson. He was a leader in the Illinois Republican party since 1932, when he was nominated for state treasurer.

His victory over incumbent Democratic Sen. James M. Slattery in 1940 made him the first Illinois Republican to serve in the Senate since 1932.

In 1942, he defeated Raymond S. McKeough to win another term.

Including the Sink

COVINGTON, KY. (AP) — The old expression, "They took everything but the kitchen sink," has little meaning for A. G. Wern. He told police someone broke into his summer home and made off with two refrigerators, two mattresses, two rifles, five tires, 12 blankets and . . . the kitchen sink.

India's Air Force is inadequate for defense and must be expanded, Air Marshal S. Mukerjee said in New Delhi.

U. S. Military Experts Aid ROK Training Program

SEOUL (INS)—A group of little-publicized American military experts are working quietly and efficiently today to help deter communist aggression in one of the world's biggest potential trouble spots.

They are the members of the Korean Military Advisory Group under whose guidance South Korea's shattered army has been built up into a first-rate fighting force with a punch designed to make the Reds think twice before repeating their aggression of the Korean War.

According to KMAG Commander Maj. Gen. Carl F. Fritzsche, "never in history has the word 'advice' been carried out to its ultimate elasticity" as by his organization.

KMAG's real job began right after the Korean armistice was signed June 27, 1953.

It has been instrumental in educating the ROK army in all the ways of modern warfare from staff functions, personnel handling, intelligence as well as operations, planning and logistics.

Gen. Fritzsche praised the ROK army for the way it has "speedily assimilated and absorbed and applied" what KMAG has had to offer.

Fritzsche pointed out that one of KMAG's most important functions is to advise Korea's Military Academy, which has already graduated 320 ROK officers trained to lead their country's army if force again becomes necessary to hold the communists in check.

All KMAG advisors are graduates of West Point.

When the Korean War ended, the ROK army consisted of 16 divisions in three corps.

With MAG guidance this has since increased to 20 divisions in four corps as well as a Field Army Headquarters to provide a unified command for South Korean Army units in the field.

The field includes the South Korean side of the demilitarized zone where ROK troops remain on a constant alert against huge communist forces to the north.

Plan Jan. 23 Symphony Concert

Modern Composers to Be Featured

By DORA DAWSON

The music committee of the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra with Francesco DiBlasi, conductor, Jack Boeson, concert master, Celia Merrill Turner, associate conductor, and Mrs. Christine Gaensbauer, has selected music for the season's concerts that is a credit to as young an orchestra as the Pontiac organization.

The committee has stepped boldly into the field of modern musical composition and combined a selection of well known pieces with newer compositions to which ears and temperaments have to make an adjustment. This forward look creates a challenge which the orchestra is meeting.

In the third concert, to be held at 8:30 p.m. Jan. 23, at Lincoln Junior High School, the use of some compositions by contemporary composers will be noted. The general use of tried and true orchestral musical compositions — ones that follow the traditional forms of musical structure and are somewhat fixed in design and tonal adherence—is recognized as a part of every concert.

But time marches on. New ideas in musical expression—the creation of tonal combinations that seem to express the changes as life changes and reach out in search of more revealing musical thoughts—come from our modern composers.

INTERESTING SELECTIONS

In the first two concerts by the Pontiac Symphony first was "The Prayer of the Bullfighter" by Turina, a Spaniard. This composition, like other modern compositions cannot be fully appreciated, nor its intrinsic beauty fully recognized, until heard again and again.

The second concert included "Flos Campi" by Vaughn Williams of England. This was a series of six pictures, oriental in character, for viola, voices and orchestra. To listen to such a composition with fixed ideas about traditional theory, themes and pleasing tone finds one uneasy in accepting or finding its beauty—and yet it again is well worth listening to until it is accepted.

It is said that one must have an open mind and recognize beyond the dissonances, discords and wayward rhythms, that something the composer feels and is trying to express.

In the third concert there will be Aaron Copeland's "Quiet City." He is one of the most modern of contemporary writers of music. Also the "Swan of Tuonela" by Sibelius who is still living in his native Finland, will be on the program.

Each will have its definite character, in contrast to classical well known musical forms, and each will have its definite place in the musical literature that lives and takes a place in creative musical art.

All set to try out the new rink at Cranbrook are Judy Knudsen of Birmingham and Marc Anderson of Bloomfield Hills. They attended the formal dedication Saturday.

Observe Your Home Life as It Looks to Outsiders

Woman Will Understand Family Better After Making an Objective Survey

By RUTH MILLETT

"Every now and again a parent should force himself to stand outside the plot of his family life and examine it as if viewing a strange, new film," says Marcelene Cox in her Ladies' Home Journal feature, "Ask Any Woman."

* * *

But it takes conscious effort for a wife and mother to mentally step aside and take a good, clear look at her family, their relationships with each other, their home life, their plans and their accomplishments.

Yet, it can be done. Just as a woman, expecting company, suddenly sees her house through other eyes, so a mother can make herself look at her family in the same detached manner.

* * *

And when she does, she is sure to notice things she hasn't noticed before, to understand things that have been confusing her, to get a better perspective on the family as so many individuals.

DON'T SEE CLEARLY

For the most part, women are so close to their families and so emotionally involved in all their ambitions, frustrations, and relationships with each other that they often don't see the family clearly.

But a mental step-aside, looking at the family and its living patterns as a stranger might, can throw a new light on the old picture.

Try to do that once in a while, especially if you aren't satisfied with the kind of family life that is pretty much routine in your home.

You may see clearly what changes need to be made in order to make your family's living richer and more satisfying.

Picks Mamie Style Choice as 'Worst 10'

LONDON (AP)—A leading British fashion writer has picked Mamie Eisenhower as one of the world's 10 worst-dressed women.

Anne Scott-James, writing in the Sunday Express, said America's first lady dresses like a little girl.

* * *

"The bangs and the bonnet, the little jacket and the full skirt, are more fit for the college girl on campus than the President's wife," declared Miss Scott-James.

"And a leopard print is a bad choice for any woman without a model-girl figure."

British society women dominated the other names on the list, but it included Swedish actresses Greta Garbo and Anita Ekberg.

Miss Garbo was nominated for "being the most beautiful woman in the world and looking one of the ugliest" and Miss Ekberg "for wearing a dress which is a bad fit (too tight all over)" when she was recently presented to Queen Elizabeth II.

Children Reflect Parents' Hostility

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Out in the yard Tom's mother was installing his little brother in the playpen when Tom ran off with the younger child's ball. She gave chase. Catching Tom, she grabbed back the ball, crying, "Why are you such a pest? You leave Bryan's things alone!"

* * *

Fury gathered in Tom's face. Glaring at his mother, he jerked free. Then he pushed the ball from under her arm and ran into the house, yelling, "You dopey old dope—dopey, dope, dope . . . "

Shaken, his mother gave Bryan back his ball, thinking, "Oh, what shall I do? That boy hates me whenever I refuse him what he wants. But I can't always give him what he wants. Oh, what can I do?"

She was absolutely blind to the real cause of Tom's rage. He did not hate her for removing a ball from him, but for removing her goodwill from him.

* * *

Dr. Erich Fromm has made this point in the most important paragraph on child training that I know. He writes:

"Frustration in itself does not arouse hostility in the child. It is the thwarting of his expansiveness, the breaking of his attempt to assert himself, the hostility radiating from parents—in short, the atmosphere of suppression which creates in the child the feeling of powerlessness—and the hostility springing from it."

CHRIST'S WARNING

Jesus voiced the same truth by warning us that it is "the spirit which quickeneth"—and that the flash of word or action "profiteth nothing."

He knew that you can refuse to lend me 50 dollars—and make your refusal a blow in my face; or that you can take the same action in a different spirit — and make your refusal the inspiration of my life.

But parents of angry children like Tom never see this because of their blinding respect for material things.

For instance, Tom's mother puts such cheap value on her kindness that she simply can't imagine his wanting it more than his brother's ball. So, when she removes the toy from him, she does so with the conviction that she is depriving him of something he cherishes dearly.

* * *

In his inexperience, the poor little boy agrees with her. He, too, continues to think that her kindliness is less important to him than his passing desires for balls, candy, or jumping in puddles.

What unnecessary misunderstanding.

Spot Reducing Calls for Special Exercises

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Many women who are not overweight generally have pads of fat where they least want them. One of these areas is underneath the shoulder blades and arms and across the shoulders. In such specialized spot reducing you must depend on exercise.

* * *

The following one is splendid for fat across the shoulders and under the arms: Stand tall. Bend the right elbow and put the right arm around the back of your head, fingers of the right hand touching the left ear. Keep the right arm in this position as you bend to the left, coming as close as you can to touching the fingertips of the left hand to the left foot.

Keep the right arm in the same position as you raise your trunk and bend straight forward as far as you can. Raise trunk. Continue slowly (right arm in same position)—bend first to the left, raise trunk and bend forward, raise trunk and continue. After a while place the left arm about the back of the head and bend to the right, etc.

A fatty deposit at the back of the neck usually is correlated with a dawager's hump. This is the result of poor posture. Exercise and massage help reduce this unattractive hump. We often see this in very young women, even some teenagers have it.

* * *

You will find the following exercise effective: Stand tall. Bend both elbows and place the hands on the back of the head. Keep the hands in this position and push FORWARD with the hands as you push BACK with the head. Resist and hold for a few seconds. Relax and continue. This should be done slowly.

Exercise cannot do the job you wish unless you make an effort to improve your posture when standing, walking or sitting. Remind yourself of this many times each day and also do special exercises.

This exercise is splendid for fat across the shoulders. for fat across the shoulders and under the arms. Bend as far as you can to the left, raise trunk and bend straight forward.

TRYING TO HIDE AGE IS GREATEST MISTAKE

The other day in New York I dropped in at the Eddie Senz Salon, hoping to catch him in. Eddie always is fun to talk with because he is not only one of today's great makeup artists but he is also a humanitarian.

For instance he designed the makeup and hair styling for "The King and I," for Helen Hayes in "The Glass Menagerie," for "The Most Happy Fella" and created Audrey Hepburn's makeup for "A Roman Holiday."

Many of the world's famous are his clients. Even more important, physicians and psychiatrists often call on him for aid in rehabilitating emotionally and mentally disturbed persons.

Because of his years of experience in enhancing the appearance of the feminine sex, and because of his opportunity to observe, first hand, the impact which this has on women, his advice in psychological values as well as in technical skill are well worth listening to.

* * *

I asked him what he feels to be the greatest mistake women in general make in makeup and hair styling. He answered without hesitation:

"The greatest mistake a woman can make is to refuse to resign herself to the fact that aging is inevitable, and to try to compensate for this by using too much makeup or by 'giving up' and using none at all. She is terribly wrong if she believes that beauty is confined only to the young."

MATURE BEAUTY

He continued, 'I have seen so many beautiful, charming, smart-looking women of mature years and older, but these are not the ones who wear their hair long and flowing and load up on makeup in the vain hope that it will cover any defects they have."

* * *

"It is possible for a woman to look 10 years (or more) younger than she is if she has taken care of herself and if she uses makeup subtly. But she can never look 30 years younger, and if she tries to do so she will only appear ridiculous."

Eddie also feels that another mistake women make is to believe that men are devoid of good taste and judgment when it comes to a woman's looks. He says that nothing makes a man more uncomfortable than to be the escort of a woman who is trying to look like 16 when she is 50. He said, "It embarrasses him."

Inauguration to Provide Lots of Fun

Capital Partygoers Savor Promises of Glamour Galore

By JEAN EADS

WASHINGTON—This fun-loving town is a-twitter with plans for hosting the biggest, most expensive, most glamorous jamboree in its history—the 1957 inauguration.

Everybody from the man in the street to the man in the White House and their wives is pitching in to make the guests—Mr. and Mrs. America — welcome, comfortable, and happy during the spectacular three-day hoopla.

You have to have a special invitation to some of the shindigs like the inauguration balls, the governors' reception and the International D'nner, but a lot of things are wide open and free.

Reserved seats for the big parade range from $3.50 to $10 but there will be room for those who didn't have the price, or didn't get in under the deadline for tickets.

Some of the foreign embassies are planning receptions, open house and embassy tours to which anyone may get a ticket free, and there will be numerous twilight and philharmonic concerts about town, and special exhibits at the art galleries.

You ought to know by now whether you're going to one of the four inaugural balls. The 7,500 invitations, each extending the privilege of buying two tickets at $15 each, have already been mailed.

The four balls can accommodate only 15,000 persons (7,500 couples) and only that number will receive tickets.

The affairs are planned to be identical except for size and location. President and Mrs. Eisenhower and Vice President and Mrs. Nixon will attend all four, spending a half hour at each.

The decorations will be the same and there will be two major orchestras at each. This year there will be glasses instead of paper cups as in past years, for the punch.

You'll have a chance to rub elbows — and probably to step on the toes — of most of the nation's bigwigs. As honor guests they will be distributed among the four fetes.

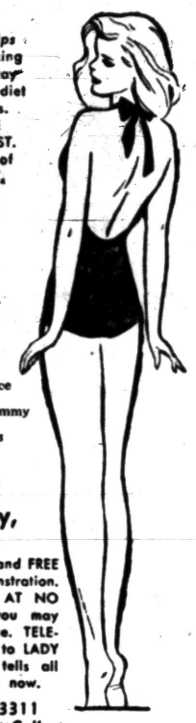

PTA Activities

Executive board, Wisner PTA, will meet at 7 tonight in the school gymnasium.

Home Job Demands Many Talents

By ANNE HEYWOOD

There is an old story about a man who was fishing in a creek. Some people who were passing by called out, "Why are you fishing there? You know there aren't any fish in that creek."

And he replied, "Yes, but it sure is convenient to my home."

I think of that sometimes when young mothers write for advice on starting a home business, explaining that they have to be at home to watch the children.

That's all very well, of course; but starting a business of your own, being your own boss, takes certain very specialized abilities and temperament. Some women have it and others don't.

* * *

The mere fact that you're at home with children doesn't make you into the type of person who can start and operate a successful home business.

When the woman involved is not the type, she'll be far better off waiting until the children are grown; or she should take a job and hire a good baby sitter.

Otherwise, her home business will fail, she'll lose money and make herself miserable—perhaps for the rest of her life—with the conviction that she's a failure.

HELPFUL QUESTIONS

Here are some questions to help you determine if you're the type to succeed at a home business:

1. Are you tremendously excited about the project you have in mind or does it just seem a likely way to make money?

Unless you are especially gifted at it, and find it fascinating, you'll never be able to work hard enough to make a go of it.

2. Do you have real skill at organizing your time? Can you get things done on schedule, or are "emergencies" always popping up?

Are you, this minute, on top of your job, or is there ironing piled up, a refrigerator that needs defrosting and a huge pile of mending?

Unless you have a real ability to organize your time, you'll never succeed at running a successful home business.

* * *

3. Do you like to keep up with the Joneses? If you do, you'll never be able to make a go of your home project. You'll have to give up a lot of things that the Joneses consider important.

You'll have to give up your volunteer work, bridge parties and teas. Your children will wear simple corduroy and seersucker things that don't need ironing. They won't be neglected, but neither will they be all dolled up.

And your table will not be as fancy as it was before. You'll use mixes and frozen dishes instead of delectable homemade pastries.

* * *

4. Do you have many aptitudes in many directions or are you best along just one line? Only the many-aptitude person can successfully be on her own.

You'll have to be production man, bookkeeper, salesman, advertising manager and public relations chief!

Couple Buys Subscription Reluctantly

Youngsters Pester Everyone Present at Dinner Party

By EMILY POST

A reader writes me as follows: "A short time ago my husband and I were invited to a relative's house for dinner. Also present were another couple and their two children. During the course of the evening, the children pestered everyone present to subscribe to a certain magazine.

"It seems that if they got a certain number of subscriptions they would get a very worthwhile prize. At first we tried to avoid the issue, but the children were so persistent that in order to avoid an awkward situation we finally subscribed.

"The magazine is one in which we have absolutely no interest. What does one do when placed in a predicament of this sort? Could we possibly have declined, and if so, how could we have done so graciously?"

Answer: Your simple statement that you did not want to subscribe to that particular magazine because neither you nor your husband had any use for it should have ended the situation.

But as parents of the children allowed them, contrary to every rule of good manners, to continue pestering you, I think that most of us would have done as you did.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My girl friend and her sister are going to be married next month at a double wedding. I am to be a bridesmaid for the bride who is my particular friend.

"I would like to know if I have to give a wedding present to the bride's sister. Also, a double shower is being given for them and I would like to know if I am obliged to take two presents?"

Answer: You do not have to give a wedding present to your friend's sister, but you really should give her an inexpensive token present at the double shower.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Would it be proper to send a birthday present to the mother of my boy friend? She lives in a distant city and I have never met her.

Answer: If I were you, I would ask his advice. If he seems pleased, then send her a present. If he doesn't, then don't.

Bob Considine Says:

Still Digging Up New York After 20 Years

NEW YORK (INS)—I blew into New York to work 20 years ago today. Back in those days, streets running north and south were pretty well torn up. Now, the excavations run east and west. This is going to be one heluva town when we get it finished.

It would be easy to go through the old files and write one of those total recall pieces; you know — "Jackie Gleason was playing Glockenspiel at Jack White's Club 18. . . . Toots Shor was hustling and bustling a new joint. . . . Wonder what became of those fellows?" . . . But this is no better time in life to look back than it was years ago for the great Satchel Paige who, when asked how he stayed so young, replied:

"Don't look back. Something might be gaining on you."

There is one observation about New York that I'd like to make, however, after a fifth of a century of wear and tear, laughs and weeps, chicken and feathers in this town: It's a wonderful place to live, but I'd sure hate to visit here.

Lost in the color and good humor of the pre-inaugural preparations and ceremony this week in Washington will be a court case directed against President Eisenhower by an organization named Fighting Homefolks of Fighting Men.

ASK LEGAL ACTION

Mrs. Rita Van Wees of the Bronx, mother of missing Corporal Fantry, a Silver Star winner in Korea, will ask District Court Judge Bernita Shelton Matthews to hold the President liable, in effect, for what her organzation charges is the abandonment of American prisoners to their Chinese Red captors.

An Act of May 5, 1950 makes it a felony for a U. S. military commander to abandon his troops to the enemy in time of war. Mrs. Van Wees will present her organization's premise that President Eisenhower in his role as commander-in-chief is the logical court target.

Cpl. Van Wees is one of 3,141 men still listed as "missing" as a result of the Korean War. Gen. Van Fleet has estimated that about 400 men may still be in Communist hands. Negotiations have been carried on fruitlessly to date by representatives of the U. S. and Red Chinese governments at Geneva, centering around prisoner releases, since the summer of 1955.

OFFICIALS DISAGREE

The State Department does not agree with the figures of the Fighting Homefolks, which group is headed by Eugene R. Guild, Capt., U. S. A. (Ret.) of Glenwood Springs, Colo. Capt. Field lost a son in Korea. There are 70 members of the group, which has been having trouble meeting legal fees, Capt. Guild writes me. Mrs. Van Wees, wife of a house painter, is footing her own court bills.

Ah, to be a Kelly in the springtime! Prince Rainier III has picked up the grunt (30,000,000 French francs) for a superb white stone chateau at Menton on the French Riviera, to serve as a place to put up his wife's relatives from Philadelphia when they troop over in a body to dandle junior.

It has 20 acres, 15 guest rooms, its own Alp to look at, five servants' bedrooms, a gardener's cottage, and a library with real books.

* * *

Grace struck it rich, but she's a fine girl and hasn't forgotten her poor old mother and father back home.

Excuse me, I'm feeling faint. Haven't worked for such a long time. Only reason I came back was a fear of being picked up as a vagrant.

TODAY'S ASSIGNMENT FOR:

JUNIOR EDITORS

A House of Snow

Eskimos live far up north where there is ice and snow all year round.

In the summer the Eskimos move southward to hunt caribou, tan skins and make clothing. When their supply is complete they return to build their homes for the winter.

Since there is little wood in the Arctic, the Eskimos build their homes out of snow. The men cut the snow into big blocks, shaped and fitted into place to form low, round-topped dwellings called igloos which protect them from the fierce winter winds.

The cracks in the snow blocks are filled with loose snow. To give further protection, hides are spread over the top and pegged down firmly.

Cut out the opening in the center and fold the side panels forward, the center panel back. Then cut around the dog and bucket of fish. Fold them forward on the dotted lines so they will stand up.

Save this igloo for tomorrow when we'll give you the people who live in it.

Thirteen Dates All Should Know

Professors Make List Compiling Important Days to Remember

FRESNO, Calif. (AP)—History may become a more popular subject in schools of the future if recommendations of two Fresno State College history professors are given wide acceptance.

* * *

* * *

The 13 dates they believe should stay with a person for life are:

1. Discovery of America in 1492.
2. The Protestant Reformation of 1519.
3. Settlement of Jamestown in 1607.

4. Introduction of slavery and the first legislative assembly of 1619.

5. Coming of British sovereignty over much of North America in 1763.
6. Declaration of Independence in 1776.
7. Establishment of government under the American constitution, 1789.

8. Rise of the common man's participation in government, 1828.

9. The American Civil War, 1861.
10. The war with Spain, 1898.
11. World War I, 1914.
12. Depression of 1929.
13. Entry of America into World War II, 1941.

* * *

Those are the 13 events that should be kept in their chronological order for a reasonably good understanding of events, say the two professors.

Police Sift Data Centering Around McDonald Case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police Chief William Parker says he has "a pretty solid theory" about the Marie McDonald kidnap case. But he's not talking — yet.

* * *

"I'm not yet in a position to express it," Parker said, of the progress of police investigation of the case he said:

"We're at the point now of trying to compile a specific list of variations between Miss McDonald's version when she was questioned in the hospital at Indio, and the version she gave before police movie cameras during her re-enactment of the case at her home."

* * *

The blonde actress disappeared from her home in suburban Encino Jan. 3 and was found the next night on the desert near Indio.

She has stated that she would be willing to take a lie detector test, but her attorney, Jerry Giesler, said, "not if she listens to me. It's an insulting thing."

Traffic Deaths Costly

NEW YORK— Motor-vehicle fatalities in the first three quarters of 1956 accounted for 33,000 life-insurance death claims, representing $71,000,000 worth of benefit payments, an increase of $7,000,000 over the like period of 1955.

First United States census was taken in 1790.

The national PTA lists more than 10 million members.

Winter—Its Icy Splendor Casts Magic Spell

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

The solitary splendor of a field swept with drifts of snow . . . the laughter of children as they move down slippery hills with their sleds . . . the stark stillness of a lake covered with ice . . .

* * *

* * *

While area residents are peering at thermometers and sighing over getting into cold automobiles of a January morn, one of nature's most exciting spectacles has turned the outdoors into a bewitched land of ice crystals and snow.

A Press photographer, assigned to capture some of this magic on film, went forth into a white stillness that was broken only by the sounds of children at play and the murmurs of ice fishermen at they tended their lines on hundreds of area lakes.

Here and there a car chugged its way along a road sending up clouds of vapor into the chilly air. Occasionally he came upon a snowplow, moving slowly along and representing man's battle with this huge silent world that Nature had given to him.

Farms, too, were surrounded by this vast mantle of white, except for barnyards where the hooves of feeding cattle and churned the snow into puddles of mud and straw.

On the ice rinks, children wobbled about on new Christmas skates, too busy with learning how to use them to pay much attention to the "experts" who darted by.

* * *

In several places skiers, long denied any abundance of their element, climbed exuberantly to the tops of shiny slopes to speed merrily down to waiting valleys.

* * *

* * *

Our photographer came back—with a wealth of pictures—but with a feeling, too, of being unable to fully describe the bewitched land to which he had journeyed.

Pontiac Press Photos

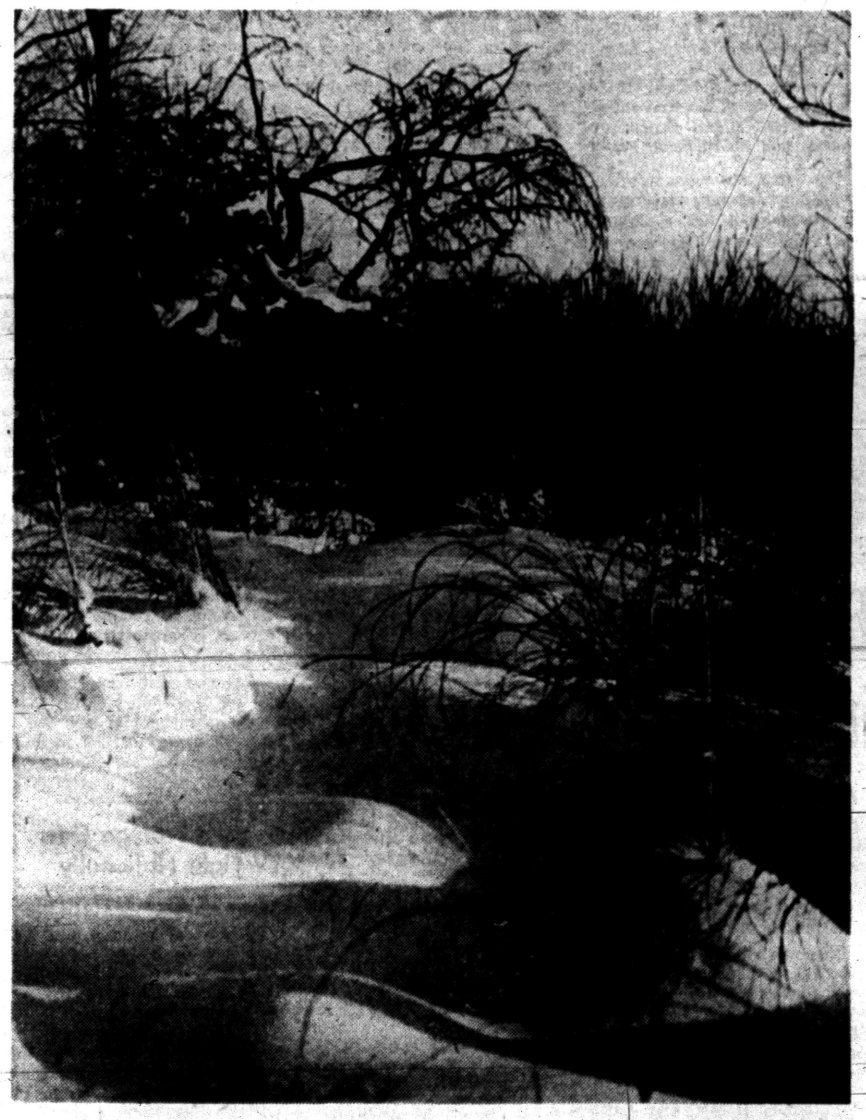

AWAY WE GO! — Wintertime fun abounds on North Oakland County hills and lakes, thanks to deep, crisp snow and to a thick layer of ice. The three playmates above symbolize the thousands who are enjoying outdoor frolicking. Left to right, they are: Frederick N. Frodle, 9, of 925 Melrose Ave.; Ronald McGinnis Jr., 10, of 940 Melrose; and Richard Figurskey, 11, of 944 Melrose.

ICE MARVEL — A glistening mantle of ice wraps this tree on the grounds of the Villa Inn, Lake Orion. Gardeners hose the tree every day. Nature freezes the water into beautiful stalactite patterns. The ice formation is growing rapidly during the present cold wave.

GETS 'ICE LEGS' — Dougie Sowter, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Sowter, 756 E. Tennyson St., looks a little shaky but the enthusiasm he displays bodes ill for future hockey opponents. That's a man-size stick, too — just about twice as big as the young man who wields it.

WINTERSCAPE — Drifting snow landscapes the country side with new contours, pillowing the braken which, stirred by the wind, etch strange, circular patterns on the crust.

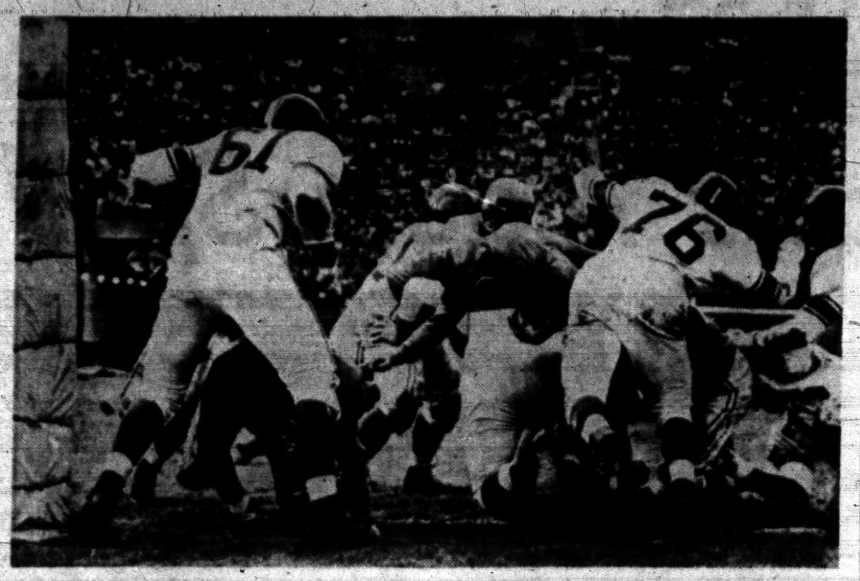

FRIGID ETCHING — Snow, capping bare boughs, turns woodland scenes like this into line drawings of black and white. North Oakland County vistas, well-known for their summertime loveliness, take on new beauty in a winter setting.

STUDY IN ICE AND SNOW — The rushing Clinton River is stilled by a marble layer of ice. A hardy hiker, wrapped extra snugly from boots to earmuffs, can tramp for miles along the river bank, coming upon strange, new scenes of beauty around every bend of the stream.

Wings Avenge Loss to Rangers, 3-2

NEW YORK (AP) — Ted Lindsay, who was being blasted by his boss for "complacency" just a short time ago, is today in second place in the National Hockey League scoring race.

A Red Wing split with New York over the weekend jumped Lindsay to 50 points — one past linemate Gordie Howe. Jean Believeau, the Montreal Canadiens' fabulous center, leads the race with 57.

Lindsay collected two goals and an assist as the Wings dropped Saturday's game against the Rangers, 5-4, and won last night's 3-2.

It was Lindsay who got the Red Wings' scoring started last night with his 20th goal of the season. It's the 10th time Lindsay has hit the 20-goal mark in 13 years of NHL play. Twenty goals is equivalent to batting .300 in baseball.

Lindsay's goal came at 7:10 of the first period on a pass from Red Kelly. His assist came on Norm Ullman's tally at 7:28 of the middle stanza.

Alex Delvecchio put the Wings into a 3-0 lead when he flicked home a short shot at 1:50 of the final period. It proved to be the winning goal after Parker MacDonald and Bill Gadsby got the Rangers back into the game with goals at 10:15 of the stanza and six minutes later.

The Wings, however, were able to stand off the Rangers the rest of the way.

Andy Hebenton slammed home a pair of goals—the second one in the last seven seconds—to lead the Rangers to a come-from-behind triumph in a nationally televised in Detroit Saturday.

The game was the second in a series of ten weekly telecasts of NHL contests and was relayed to every state.

The Wings will remain in New York for the next three days to practice before continuing on to Boston for their next game

Network of Stations Grows

Hockey Accepted by TV Viewers

DETROIT (AP) — Network television coverage of National Hockey League action is only two weeks old, but already there is considerable talk about expanding the programming next season.

The second in a series of 10 weekly telecasts of big league hockey came off in Detroit Saturday afternoon and the number of stations, CBS, taking the play-by-play action increased sharply.

When the first NHL telecast took place, the stations numbered 60. This time there were 109.

* * *

"Someone had to crack the ice," said Ken MacKay, publicist for the network's sports department. "A lot of stations wanted to let someone else try it first. Some of them watched it in the studio with prospective sponsors.

"A lot of people were a little pessimistic about network coverage of a sport like hockey. Most of them wondered whetherr it would get any kind of a reception in the South and Southwest. Oddly enough, they were among the first stations to okay it."

* * *

He said the network is thinking seriously of picking up the hockey coverage in the fall of 1957, shortly after the 1957-58 season begins. That may produce a network-to-network clash between collegiate football and major league hockey.

Part of the network's planning to stimulate interest in the sport is educating viewers on the fundamentals of the game. Saturday, for example, during the two intermissions—each 10 to 12 minutes in length—cameras went inside the Detroit Red Wing dressing room for a peek at the strategy and also trained on Gordie Howe while the Detroit player went through some of the basic moves on the ice.

* * *

"The game is not so simple that it can be fully understood without some basic explanation," said MacKay. "So we're trying to educate sports fans so they can enjoy hockey."

There has been constructive criticism, too, mainly from old-time hockey players. But MacKay pointed out that most of them are patient, realizing that not everyone understands the sport as well as they.

* * *

Next week, MacKay believes, at least 130 stations from coast to coast will be showing National League hockey. "Maybe we can interest more of our young boys to take up the game," he said.

Currently there is just one U.S.-born hockey player in the NHL out of a total number of more than 100 big league players, almost all Canadian.

Two Pool Records Fall as 'Y' Captures Opener

A pair of new pool records were hung up Saturday during Pontiac YMCA's double-barrelled victory in its opening match of the season, against Flint "Y" swimmers. Pontiac's red triangle Preps defeated Flint Preps 59-18, while the Juniors disposed of the visiting tankers 49-33.

The new marks were set by Prep Jim Velzy in the 20-yard orthodox breaststroke at 13.0 seconds, 8-tenths of a second better than old mark, and by the Junior 160-yard medley relay team at 1:44.1. New record is 12.1 seconds under old mark, set in 1956 by Highland Park Northern "Y".

Pontiac's teams swim against Highland Park Northern and Saginaw "Y" here next Saturday at 2 p.m. in a triangular meet. Pontiac and Northern are defending state co-champs (YMCA).

Course Record Aids in Victory

Mickey Wright Winner at Sea Island; Louise Suggs Runnerup

SEA ISLAND, Ga. (AP) — Pretty Mickey Wright, a tall California blonde with a powerful swing, is off to a flying start on the search for fame and fortune in the 1957 ladies' Professional Golfers' Assn. tour.

* * *

The 21-year-old professional from San Diego scored a three-stroke victory in the fourth annual Sea Island Women's Invitation Open yesterday and picked up $880 as her share of the $5,000 purse.

On the crucial back nine she shot a women's course record of 33 for a day's total of 74 and a 54-hole total of 220.

Louise Suggs of Sea Island was second, three strokes back. She had a 38 and a 37 for a three over par 75 and a total of 223. Second place was worth $616.

Patty Berg, the veteran swinger from St. Andrews, Ill., faltered on the final nine. She posted a 37-39—76 for third place and $528. Her 54-hole score was 224.

* * *

Twenty-year-old Wiffi Smith, of Orange, Tex., playing for the first time as a professional, tied for fifth place at 231 with Mary Lena Faulk, of Thomasville, Ga., and Marlene Bauer Hagge, of Delray Beach, Fla., the defending champion. Miss Smith collected $318.34 and the other two $318.33.

Former Notre Dame Grid Captain Dies

DETROIT (AP) — Dr. Harvey F. Brown, 57, a "watch charm" guard and captain on the Notre Dame football team in 1923, died at a hospital here yesterday.

Dr. Brown, a native of Youngstown, Ohio, entered medical practice in Detroit. He was a teammate of Notre Dame's "Four Horsemen" the season before they reached their highest acclaim in 1924.

Canucks Boost 1st Place Edge

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MONTREAL — The Canadiens played three games in four days winning them all to extend their unbeaten string to eight and boost their first place lead to three points. Montreal closed out a gruelling week last night, besting Boston 3-1.

In the other NHL game, Ted Kennedy's first goal since his comeback helped Toronto tie Chicago 1-1 and slip back to fourth place, a point ahead of the Rangers.

Montreal, at its season's peak, was braced by the veteran line of Jean Beliveau, Boom Boom Geoffrion and Bert Olmstead. Geoffrion scored a goal and assist, Beliveau a goal to push his league leading point total to 57 and Olmstead two assists. Claude Provost scored in the second period to give the Canadiens a lead they never lost.

Bradley Scourge of MVC

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Only two weeks old, the Missouri Valley basketball race already has its third title favorite. Now Bradley wears the tag.

St. Louis, the pre-season pick, dropped from favor by losing four of five after a fast start. Then Oklahoma A & M plunged from 1st to 6th in two stunning defeats by Bradley and Houston.

The Braves, 3-0 in valley play and 10-2 overall, can get a commanding lead this week at Peoria by beating Detroit Monday and Houston Thursday.

Wichita (2-0 and 8-3) must win at Houston Monday and beat Tulsa (2-1 and 4-8) Saturday at Wichita to maintain its perfect valley record.

St. Louis (1-1 and 8-5), beaten at Wichita 69-64, gained a road split by defeating Detroit 84-75 and can move up at home against Drake Tuesday and Houston (2-2 and 6-8) Saturday.

Hill Says USC Did Not Offer Wyatt $50,000

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The University of Southern California's athletic director says that he's sure there is nothing to a report that USC offered Coach Bowden Wyatt of Tennessee a $50,000-a-year contract.

Said Jess Hill: "I feel quite sure that no one in authority at USC ever contacted Bowden Wyatt in relation to the job."

Cooper Shares Third Position

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—While the galleries were dogging biggername contenders, W. A. (Dub) Pagan put a five-under-par 32-35—67 together for $1,200 first money in the $5,894 Miami Beach pro-amateur golf tournament yesterday.

* * *

Pagan, a pro only four years, still works as a fire captain at West Palm Beach. He won the 1952 Florida Amateur and last year's Florida PGA.

* * *

Buckeyes Lone Unbeaten in Big 10; 'M' Wins, 64-63

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio State, the only undefeated basketball team in Big Ten play, takes on a revenge-minded Minnesota tonight and faces the possibility of dropping as low as 4th place in the hectic race.

Minnesota was tagged with its first loss Saturday night as Iowa's twice-beaten defending champions came up with a surprising 89-66 victory. Indiana and Northwestern also suffered their initial setbacks.

* * *

Purdue held Hoosier star Archie Dees to 15 points and carved a 70-64 victory; Michigan edged Northwestern 64 to 63, on a basket by Ron Kramer and Illinois moved back into contention with a 79-63 drubbing over Wisconsin.

While Minnesota and Ohio State will be battling it out in tonight's feature, Indiana goes to Illinois, Wisconsin will be at Michigan and Northwestern will engage Purdue at Lafayette.

Joe Rukkick poured in 27 points for Northwestern but Michigan flashed a balanced attack with five players scoring in double figures to edge the rangy Wildcats. Pete Tillotson was high for Michigan with 16.

* * *

Minnesota's loss to Iowa was simply a matter of height. Boasting an average two-inch height advantage, Iowa moved into a 42-29 halftime and Clarence Wordlaw combined for 70 points. Payne had 26 and McConnell and Wordlaw added 22 each.

Rechichar Boots 4 in 19-10 Win

West Pros Give East 'The Toe'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The foot was the important thing in the football game and the large right one that belongs to big Bert Rechichar of the Baltimore Colts is the reason the West now holds a 4-3 edge over the East in the annual pro bowl game.

* * *

They traveled for distances of 52, 44, and 41 yards. This totals 171 yards but more important, each one was good for three points and an aggregate of 12 points.

* * *

The 12, coupled with one touchdown and conversion, was more than enough to give the west a 19-10 victory over the East in yesterday's 7th edition of the post season battle between the hand-picked squads of the Western and Eastern conference of the National Football League.

The East's Sam Baker of the Washington Redskins contributed a prodigious one himself, also for 52 yeads, so the 44,177 fans left Memorail Coliseum completely educated to the talents and scoring value of a football player's foot.

They also saw enough of non-foot football to keep them happy until the next football season rolls around, which with the late finish out here won't be too long, at that.

They saw a spectacular 79-yard pass play executed by Green Bay's Tobin Rote and Billy Howton, with the Chicago Bears' Harlon Hill sandwiched in between.

They saw a dangerous Ollie Matson, Frank Gifford, Hugh McElhenny, Rick Casares, all of the offensive platoons, and as deadly a defensive duo as there is in pro football, Jack Christiansen and Jim David of the Detroit Lions.

There were six fumbles, three to a side, but they came from aggressive tactics, not sloppy performance.

The first fumble led to a quick west touchdown. Los Angeles Ram Paul Miller hit Matson so hard he lost the ball and Detroit's Joe Schmidt recovered on the East 12. Casares hit for seven and four and his Bear teammate, Ed Brown, added the final yard.

The east tied it in the second, driving 40 yards in seven plays. Actually the lads fumbled their way to the tally. Matson was struck numb by another Ram, Les Richter, the ball plopped up in the air and Ollie's teammate, center Jack Simmons of the Chicago Cardinals, found himself with the ball.

* * *

The election of Richichar for the "Player of the Game" award was automatic. Ernie Stautener of the Redskins was the choice for lineman of the day. Both reserved the honors.

Tops-in-Sports Honors Given to Mantle, Morrow

BALTIMORE (AP)—Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees and olympic sprint star Bobby Morrow will be the chief attractions tonight at the Maryland Professional Baseball players' 4th annual "tops in sports" banquet.

Mantle will be presented the Babe Ruth Sultan-of-Swat award as baseball's outstanding hitter. The young switchhitter last season won the batting triple crown by leading both major leagues in hitting, home runs and runs batted in.

Morrow was the only triple winner for the United States in the recent olympics. He won the 100 and 200-meter dashes and anchored the winning 400-meter relay team.

Tommy Tibbs Beats Salas on Decision

After losing an unpopular decision to the 23-year-old Salas in December, the stocky Bostoner rematched him Saturday night in Hollywood Legion Stadium, and this time emerged with a unanimous nod.

Referee Tommy Hart called it 94-93, Judge Reggie Gilmore 98-93 and Judge Frankie Van 98-94.

Squaw Valley Asks Funds

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The legislature got a request from Gov. Goodwin J. Knight today to put up 2½ million dollars more to make a permanent winter park of Squaw Valley, site of the 1960 Winter Olympics.

* * *

Knight, in his budget message, said the additional funds could turn the Sierra resort into a play area for skiers and winter sports fans from everywhere.

Two previous legislatures appropriated five million dollars to prepare the Olympic site 40 miles west of Reno and 200 east of San Francisco.

Jay Hebert Wins Coast Event With 213

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—"I'm hitting the ball better and thinking better, not making so many mistakes.'

That's the way golfer Jay Hebert, 33-year-old former Marine officer, explained his two-stroke victory in Bing Crosby's $15,000 tournament yesterday.

* * *

It put his golf earnings at $7,075 for the first two weeks of 1957, compared with the $13,139.81 he was credited with winning during all of 1956.

* * *

He moves south of the border next for the Caliente Open near Tijuana, Mexico, where pari-mutuel wagering on the golfers will be held for the event that starts Thursday.

Hebert, a pro for eight years and often right behind the top men, started out with a pair of birdies yesterday and finished with a great 12-foot putt as the wind whistled over the Pebble Beach course.

Jay finished with a two-under-par 70, the only sub-par round of the day. It gave him a 213 winning total for the 54 holes and good for $2,500.

* * *

Cary Middlecoff, the U. S. Open champion who had won here the two previous years, finished with a 72 and 215. He picked up $1,500 for that and another $1,500 because he and his amateur partner, San Francisco hotelman Ed Crowley, topped the pro-amateur, best-ball team play with a record score of 187. The previous record was 187.

* * *

Third prize money of $1,000 from this national pro-amateur event went to Canada's Stan Leonard, co-leader at the end of the second round, who took a final 74 for a total of 216. Former U. S. Open champion Ed Furgol, tied with Stan at the end of 36, went to a 79 in the high wind and finished at 221.

* * *

Walter Burkemo from Franklin Hills, Mich., captured fourth place with a 76-219, good for $700. At 220 were Paul O'Leary, Los Angeles, who shot a final round 76, Lloyd Mangrum, Apple Valley, Calif., 72, Ken Venturi, San Francisco, 76, and Wesley Ellis, Rye, N. Y., 75.

* * *

Scores generally went high in the windy weather, the aftermath of a rainstorm which hit this Monterey peninsula on Friday. Venturi, who won the 1956 California Amateur championship over this 6,701 - yard par 36-36—72 course, said it played as tough as he'd seen it. Ken was making his first major tournament start since joining pro ranks.

Boys Club, Triggers Vie in Hockey Tourney Semis

The Auburn Heights Boys Club and Rogers Ttriggers will clash this Saturday morning at 9 o'clock in the semifinals of the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department's Junior Hockey Tournament.

Auburn Heights and the Triggers earned the semifinal berths over the weekend in tourney competition at the North Side ice skating rink. The winner will collide with Nestor's All-Stars for the title.

The two teams used contrasting methods to get there. The Boys Club staged a tremendous 3rd period rally yesterday to eliminate Dean's Waterford Hardware, 6-4, while the Triggers did it the easy way by gaining a 1-0 forfeit decision from Dick & Wes.

Auburn Heights scored five goals in the final period to wipe out a 4-1 lead for Dean's. The Barnhart brothers, Don and Jack, and Larry Herron slammed home two goals apiece for the winners. Dean's Jim Preston tallied three.

In Saturday's action, Dean's sidelined the White Lake Flyers, 5-1, as Jim Green scored twice; Nestor's, the only undefeated team left in the tournament, swamped the Boys Club, 10-2, and Dick & Wes forfeited to the Triggers.

CIO Contests Go to 596, Falcons

CIO Local 596 eked out a 43-41 victory over Local 653 and the 594 Falcons defeated the 594 Vikings, 54-44, in CIO League, basketball games Sunday afternoon at Jefferson Junior High.

Local 596 overcame a 1st quarter deficit to take a 21-1t halftime lead, then had to stave off the 653 quintet's 2nd half rally to preserve its margin. Sam Corke of Local 596 and the loser's Ken Morrow took scoring honors with 16 points apiece.

The Falcons led the Vikings all the way in their intra-local nightcap, outscoring them in every period except the 4th. Maurice Corey of the winners meshed 15 points, but scoring laurels went to the Vikings' Mel Taylor, who had 19.

Detroit Fencers Win Tourney Honors Here

Robert LeVassuer, a University of Detroit student, and Miss Monica Bill, also from Detroit, claimed top honors in the prep class amateur fencing tournament Sunday afternoon at the Pontiac High School boy gymnasium.

LeVassuer beat out another U. of D. fencer, Hugh Scullen, for the men's championship .Edgar Hildebrand, a Michigan State University swordsman, placed 3rd.

Miss Bill, a student at the Salle DeTuscan fencing school in the Motor City, won the women's title. Miss Joyce Meyer of Bloomfield Hills and Miss Mary Lee McGinley, a Waterford High School pupil, took 2nd and 3rd places respectively.

Miss Meyer and Miss McGinley finished in a tie for 2nd spot, but the Bloomfield Hills girl was finally awarded the runner-up berth because fewer touches were scored against her in the overall competition.

Thirty contestants participated in the tourney, conducted by the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department and the Michigan Division of the Amateur Fencing League of America.

The fencers represented the University of Detroit, Michigan State University, Lawrence Tech, Wayne State University, Scimitar Club of Ann Arbor, Salle DeTuscan of Detroit, Michigan School for the Deaf, and Pontiac, Waterford and Lapeer high schools.

Augustitus finished overall in Class A competition in a first place tie with Bob Snyder also of Detroit. Each had 13 points.

But She's No Longer the Merry Madcap of Royalty

Princess Margaret Begins to Bloom Again

By LEE CARSON

LONDON (INS)—Princess Margaret, reportedly grown spinsterish and dowdy after the Townsend fiasco, is blooming again — this time into a charming woman rather than a palace pixie.

* * *

Margaret may have turned her zany badge over to the young Duke of Kent, but she's as full of life, wit, vim and vinegar as ever. L'affaire Townsend is over, done with, and the princess has recovered.

Having seen her recently I can testify that anyone who has thought this girl has become an old-maid appendage of Buckingham Palace is in for a distinct shock.

"The official tours, cornerstone-laying and all that sort of pomp and circumstance have been wonderful distractions for Meg. She's as attractive and full of fun as she ever was — if not more so," says a close friend. "The world will see her blossom out again — good-looking clothes and bon mots and so forth — in a very short time.

* * *

The fact remains that Princess Margaret has few beaux and even fewer to choose from. The perennial Billy Wallace confides that while he likes Margaret and "has bunches of fun with her" he has absolutely no intention of marrying a crown princess and getting stuck "with all those goings-on."

* * *

The Earl of Wilton has been rumored as a possible match for la belle Margaret Rose, but he is really the suitor of her highness' best friend, Judy Montagu.

Then there is the new palace equerry, Lt. Blount. Good-looking, good family, but Princess Margaret isn't having any.

Oddly enough for any girl in her 20s, the princess seems to prefer going to the London flats of her old friends, now married, and spending homey evenings. She helps with dinner and the washing up and then goes singly home to Clarence House, where she lives with her mother, the Dowager Queen Elizabeth.

* * *

Underneath this tranquil and unruffled surface, however, the little princess, who couldn't have the guy she wanted, RAF Group Capt. Peter Townsend, is coming to life again.

Recently she gave quite a party at Clarence House featuring a rock 'n' roll band. The Douglas Fairbankses gave another and the little princess attended, looking very decollete and ravishing. Long-time chum Sharman Douglas was another who put on a full-rig roundelay in honor of Margaret.

NOT SO LIVELY

Gone are the days when the crown princess enlivened the Mayfair nightclubs regularly and outdanced and outlaughed everyone. But the new Margaret shows no signs of getting she to a nunnery.

* * *

Tagged the empire's "problem child" by reason of the Townsend fling and subsequent renunciation, Margaret seems destined to play on for a while. Eventually, the knowing bet, she'll pick an older man who is afraid neither of Princess Margaret nor the responsibilities of the crown.

"It's perfectly fair to say she scared away scores of suitors with her very sharp tongue, her sometimes imperious whims and demands, and an all-the-time awareness that she is Princess Margaret to whom everyone curtsies," a palace intimate explains.

There also seems to be the fact that older sister Elizabeth keeps a close if benevolent eye on Margaret and that the Duke of Edinburgh can turn thumbs down on any suitor.

And Margaret's preference for older men, a possible result of her devotion to her father, the late King George VI, makes her impatient and immune to the courtship attempts of those in her own age group.

* * *

So all the eligibles have married and Princess Margaret, the lively, petite and gay, appears to many of the British people a likely candidate for the unloving cup of spinsterhood.

They could be in for a surprise.

Squabble Over Actor's Alien Status

Producer Retains Dewey in 'My Fair Lady' Dispute

NEW YORK (AP)—Former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey will represent the producer of the Broadway hit "My Fair Lady" in a squabble over a vacation replacement for Rex Harrison, male star of the musical.

The dispute centers on the Actors Equity Assn.'s objection to assignment of the role of Prof. Higgin to Irish actor Edward Mulhare.

Actors Equity, a union of performing artists, bases its opposition on the ground that Mulhare is an alien and has no unique talent for the role.

The show's producer, Herman Levin, in announcing yesterday the retention of Dewey, now a Manhattan lawyer, said the former New York governor would handle "any action that may result" from Mulhare's hiring.

A spokesman for Levin, meanwhile, termed as "spectacularly unlikely" reports that Dewey would receive a fee of $50,000.

Harrison leaves the show Feb. 4 to begin a four-week vacation. Levin said he hired Mulhare "after a year's search in which we auditioned dozens of players." Mulhare is due to begin rehearsing for the role either today or tomorrow, Levin said.

An Equity official voiced immediate opposition to the rehearsal plan, contending Mulhare's contract has not been registered with Equity. Also, said the official, no member of the "My Fair Lady" cast would be permitted to rehearse with Mulhare because of his "uncertain status."

Actors Equity contends that while Harrison is a British subject his replacement would have to be either an Equity member or a foreign player of equal rank.

Levin has threatened to sue Actors Equity for damages if it tries to close the play, which has been a sellout for months.

Fast Draw Hits Home

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP)—Adolph Mogavero, 36, was making like Gene Autry. His "six-gun" was fairly leaping from the holster, his draw had become so lightning fast.

In fact it leaped so fast, police say, it got away from him. And, as it landed on the floor of his room, it exploded, sending a .38 caliber slug through Mogavero's left calf and into a nearby wall.

Buried Collie Pup Digs to Freedom, Returns Home

A neighbor's car hit Butch a couple of weeks ago. The neighbor shot the puppy to end his misery and then buried him in a shallow grave about five miles away.

* * *

Twelve days later Andrew Wallace, 3, and his father Sherman Wallace heard a scratching at the door and there was Butch, more dead than alive.

The puppy was rushed to an animal hospital at Gainesville about 40 miles northwest of this north Georgia town.

* * *

Dr. Carl A. Blunt said Butch had pneumonia, a fractured pelvis, right foreleg and right hindleg and a .22-caliber bullet wound through the cheekbone below the left eye.

Butch is over the pneumonia now and should be able to walk without a limp in about six months, the doctor said.

Ava's Pal, Walter Chiari, to Make 'Never So Few'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Ava Gardner's boy friend, Walter Chiari, arrives here in six weeks to make his first Hollywood picture "Never So Few" for MGM. Ava, under contract to the same studio, will not accompany Chiari because she'll be working in Spain on "Thieves Market."

"Never So Few," by Tom Chamales, is a novel of the Burma campaign in World War II. Scribner's will publish the book in March.

Sam Zimbalist asked for Chiari after he saw him in "The Little Hut." Although Chiari's scenes are very brief, and he plays a savage, he has a charm and feeling for comedy.

Put it right down in your little black book that Anna Magnani is not going to do "Furia." I get it straight from Hal Wallis that Anna arrives here in the Spring to star in "Obsessed," with John Sturges as her director.

"Obsessed" is modern, based on a story by Arnold Schulman, who also has written the screenplay for Wallis. Young Schulman's first play will be produced on Broadway next month with Garson Kanin at the helm.

"Obsessed" is the first picture in this country for Anna Magnani since she won an academy award for "Rose Tattoo" in 1955. Sturges is well remembered for "Bad Day at Black Rock," for which he won an academy nomination. He will also direct "Old Man and the Sea."

It's set for David Selznick to do two pictures for 20th in addition to "A Farewell to Arms," starring his wife, Jennifer Jones.

FITZGERALD STORY

The first under the terms of the new contract is F. Scott Fitzgerald's "Tender is the Night," considered by many Fitzgerald devotes to be his best. It goes without saying that Jennifer will also be the star of this and the other Selznick-20th pictures.

Quite a story back of "Tender is the Night." Years ago David owned it and then sold it to MGM. In order to get it back, he had to turn over to MGM not one, but TWO properties, "Rupert of Hentzau" and "Wings of the Dove."

I never thought I'd live to see my close friend Lorena Mayer (Mrs. L. B. Mayer, socially speaking) interested in ranching. She's never shared her husband's interest in the thoroughbreds, but smart man, L. B. has fixed it so she's become a wild-eyed fan now.

He's started a stable for her called the Mrs. L. B. Mayer stable. Her colors probably will be green and white, and on Friday her first horse, Chargeaway, won the first race at Santa Anita. Tuesday another of her thoroughbreds will take Lorena out to Santa Anita.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: A very happy looking air at the Luau were Rita Hayworth and Him Hill of Hecht-Hill-Lancaster. Are Jim and his long time steady, Helen O'Connell finished?

Arthur O'Connell has eyes only for June Leff, NBC talent executive.

SMASH OPENING

It was a star-studded audience that greeted Lisa, with Debbie Reynolds and Eddie Fisher, Marge and Gower Champion, Esther Williams and Ben Gage, June Havoc and Bill Spier, Cobina Wright in a party with Dr. Max Cutler, Bunny adfelds, Mona Freeman with Stan Kramr (William Morris agent), and those regular first nighters, Dorothy and Harry Jameson, Mike Connolly, Walter Winchell, Jayne Mansfield and her muscle man, Mike Hargitay.

Jeannie Carson, star of TV's "Hey Jeannie," and her husband, Bill Redmond, both Scotch, plan to take out American citizenship very soon.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — You can't help lovin' that Judy Garland — not that I'm trying.

Judy threw a party onstage at the Palace after her big, happy, boisterous closing night audience gave her a standing ovation and farewell salute. It was a fantastic crowd that shouted across the footlights to her, sang "Auld Lang Syne" with her, and even cried with her when Judy, in her stocking feet, sort of gurgled as she said, "I wish I didn't have to go away. But I'll be back soon — you wait and see."

Judy communicates with the crowds by being personal—by saying little things like, "Don't you think it's hot in here? Charlie, open the door a little" — and if her voice should ever be lousy (God forbid) they wouldn't care . . . or even notice.

JUDY GARLAND

I asked Judy at the party (rubbing shoulders with Moss Hart, Smith & Dale, Fred F. Finkelhoffe, and Gene Courtney) if it wasn't unusual for the crowd to stand up for her.

"You know," she said, "I bet somebody paid them to do that!"

Lamas was lured to Sardi's upstairs by William Fields, press agent of "Happy Hunting," who told him he had to meet a West Coast newspaperman there. Lamas was rebuking Fields "for not being able to get a table downstairs" and telling him "It's bad for your prestige," when Arlene and the others began yelling "Surprise!"

Errol Flynn says, "At a certain age you want to attempt to try to do something worthwhile." He hopes to star in and produce "Cardinal Richelieu," last performed in America by Edwin Booth some 75 years ago—tying it up with the Hungarian crisis. "I'm very serious," he says.

McCarthy Hits 'Palace Guard'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) says that "if let alone" President Eisenhower "might do a fairly good job."

But, McCarthy said last night, "I think the motley crowd around him — the so-called palace guard —are doing this nation a great deal of damage."

McCarthy, who sometimes has been critical of the Eisenhower administration and the President himself, expressed these sentiments in a televised interview.

* * *

Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother, "tops the list," McCarthy said, adding: "He has the President's ear. I don't think he's any more a Republican than you are a Hottentot."

None of those mentioned by McCarthy was immediately available for comment.

* * *

In response to a question, McCarthy indicated he does not expect Eisenhower's support when he seeks re-election next year. "We are not on a 'Dear Ike' and 'Dear Joe' basis," he added. But he said he will be a candidate anyhow.

McCarthy announced during the program that he and his wife, Jean, had adopted a five-week-old girl from a New York foundling home. He said they had decided to name their new daughter Tierney Elizabeth, for her adopted grandmothers.

Oysters rank as the most valuable product of the American fisheries. Salmon is second, menhaden third, cod fourth, and halibut is in fifth place.

Horses and Cattle Existed in West Before Settlers

NEW YORK — When the first Europeans arrived in America no cattle, domestic sheep, or horses existed on this continent, yet fossil remains indicate that at one time horses and cattle roamed this land.

No one knows what caused them to vanish, but the possibility that diseases exterminated them is given some support by fossil traces of insects, including the tsetse fly.

The tsetse fly is not found here now, but where it does occur, as in parts of Africa, raising livestock is almost impossible because of nagana, a devastating disease it spreads among cattle.

Negro Preaches Despite Bombs

Minister in Alabama Fights for Integration in Face of Violence

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A Negro minister stood in his bomb-damaged church yesterday and prayed for "moral courage for city officials to do the right thing" to stop violence in Montgomery.

The Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy also said that if President Eisenhower "would just say a word to the city, it would have great value."

Abernathy's home and the residence of a white minister who leads a Negro congregation were damaged by bombs last week. Four Negro churches also were bombed. No one was injured.

* * *

It was the worst outbreak of violence so far in the current drive by Montgomery Negroes for racial equality.

The city bus system, on which Negroes won an end to segregation by federal court order three weeks ago, was halted indefinitely by the City Commission.

Most Negro churches held regular evening services yesterday, but Abernathy halted night services at his First Baptist Church "because we feel it might endanger the lives of our congregation."

No violence has been reported since the bombings.

In the bomb-blasted Hutchinson Street Baptist Church, the Rev. H. H. Johnson gave a sermon he said was intended "to give the congregation the assurance that none of these things have softened me, made me want to turn around and give in" on the integration fight.

To Simulate 'Target City'

West Bloomfield Sets Mock Disaster Jan. 20

"Have you ever wondered what you, as residents of the counties and townships immediately adjoining a target city marked for an enemy attack would be called upon to do to assist the population that would be evacuated from such a city?"

* * *

This and many more questions will be answered when West Bloomfield Township Civil Defense organizations put on a demonstration for the general public Sunday, January 20, from 2 to 5 p.m. at the township high school, Commerce and Orchard Lake roads.

Township CD Director John Warren is urging everyone to stop by and see what is done in case of disaster, man-made or natural.

The high school area will become a scale model of an entire township and here will be simulated the exact condition that would exist in the event of an actual attack on Detroit.

A complete communications center will be set up under the direction of William Duckwitz. Here can be seen and heard communications received and dispatched under the same difficult conditions which would exist in an emergency.

Dr. John Williams will be in charge of the casualty care station where "victims" will be received and treated for their various "injuries." He will be assisted by several other doctors from the township as well as a staff of nurses.

The preparation and dispatching of food for evacuees as well as for volunteer workers will be in the hands of Cecil Davis, Civil Defense depudy of food and shelter for West Bloomfield.

* * *

A demonstration of the rescue and treatment of persons from demolished or damaged buildings will be under the supervision of Township Fire Chief Ben J. Moshier. He will have the assitance of other members of the department.

Telephone communications entirely separate from radio messages will be handled and explained by Earl Thornton of Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

In addition to these various phases of Civil Defense there will be a demonstration of school room drills in safety. The children participating will be students of Union Lake school, one of the many schools in the township where protective drills have been practiced for a year or more. Mrs. Helen Harding will represent the teacher in the case.

The means by which the evacuees are clothed and housed under these circumstances will be explained by key personnel who have worked closely with these matters.

One of the most important phases of Civil Defense, known as registration and information, will be demonstrated by persons who have been thoroughly trained to perform this work. It is the means by which all evacuees are carefully registered so that sooner or later everyone can be located and reunited with his family.

There also will be brief talks on different phases of home protection, from military and natural disaster.

In addition to the above mentioned there also will be movies shown covering most all important phases of the CD program. Conducted tours for the entire program will be supervised by Boy Scouts of the area. All branches of the Girl Scouts will also take an active part in the exercise.

Civil Defense directors from other townships and counties as well as CD personnel from Detroit, will be on hand to witness the first nearly complete demonstration of the program in action.

Seek Enactment of New Milk Bill

Farmers' Dairy Group Represents 35,000 of State

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Dairy Farmers Federation today said it will seek enactment of a milk marketing bill in the 1957 legislature in an effort to end "price wars, destructive competition, predatory action, discriminatory pricing and market instability."

The Federation, which said it represents some 35,000 Michigan dairy farmers, said Sen. Bert J. Storey (R-Belding) had agreed to introduce the measure establishing milk marketing laws.

"The cost-price squeeze confronting Michigan dairymen in the past few years has been the worst since the depression of the thirties," a federation statement said.

"A milk strike, destruction of property, costly court cases and other events have accompanied the more familiar conditions associated with unstable and low incomes.

"Destructive, demoralizing, unfair and unjust trade practices have been and are likely to be carried on in the milk business," the Federation said. "No law in the state now regulates unfair, discriminatory or predatory practices in the milk business in Michigan."

The Federation said that 17 other states have Milk Marketing Acts to regulate trade practices.

It proposed a bill which would establish local option to have milk marketing regulations in those areas which desire them.

The Act would be administered by the State Department of Agriculture, which could issue milk marketing orders to fix minimum producer prices for milk and minimum wholesale and retail milk prices. The department also would regulate unfair trade practices under the proposal.

Milk dealers licenses would provide about $60,000 a year for the basic financing of the Milk Marketing Bill with extra funds coming from assessments on participants, the federation said.

Macmillan Reappoints Lloyd, Other Backers of Suez Venture

By HAL COOPER

Widespread predictions that Macmillan's Cabinet appointments would toss a sop to British and foreign critics of former Prime Minister Eden's Suez military adventure failed to materialize.

The 18-man Cabinet announced today was made up largely of familiar faces. The new prime minister even retained John Selwyn Lloyd, an architect of the Suez invasion, as foreign secretary.

It had been generally believed Lloyd was marked for dismissal because of the Suez venture's adverse diplomatic consequences.

Richard Austen Butler, Macmillan's chief rival for the prime ministership, was reappointed government leader in the House of Commons and lord privy seal and given the additional post of home secretary. Butler was one of the few top men in the Cabinet who was cool to Eden's Suez policies.

* * *

Another forthright supporter of the Suez campaign, Peter Thorneycroft, was promoted from president of the Board of Trade to the key post of chancellor of the exchequer, Macmillan's old job.

U.S. Gives U.N. Disarming Plan

Program Includes Ban on Further Stockpiling of A-Weapons

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States submitted to the U.N. today a new five-point disarmament plan which would include a ban on further stockpiling of nuclear weapons. It also calls for international control of space missiles.

The program would go into effect, however, only after an ironclad system of controls and inspections has been established to guard against violations or evasions.

The plan was laid before the General Assembly's 80-nation political committee by Chief U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., as that body opened its general debate on the disarmament problem.

Major points of the proposal were:

1. That an agreement be reached under which all future production of fissionable materials shall be stockpiled exclusively for nonweapons purposes under international inspection.

2. That nuclear test explosions be limited and late, banned, if an agreement is reached to control the stockpiling of fissionable materials. Pending such an agreement, the United States would be willing to work out a system for advance notice and limited international observation of such tests.

3. That the armed forces of the United States and the Soviet Union be limited to 2.5 million each and those of Britain and France to 750,000 each, if the nations concerned can agree on progressive establishment of an inspection system. This would include aerial inspection, as proposed by President Eisenhower at the summit meeting and ground inspection at key points, as proposed by Premier Bulganin.

4. That the testing of all space missiles, including earth satellites and space platforms, be placed under international control to make sure that their future development is limited to peaceful purposes.

5. That an international inspection and control system be installed progressively to guard agaist surprise attacks. This would be supervised by an international agency which would be established concurrently with the beginning of the program.

Beaverton Man Admits Shooting

Confesses to Firing Gun at Ex-Wife's Husband on Wedding Night

BEAVERTON (INS)—A first degree murder warrant was sought today against a Beaverton man who allegedly shot and killed his first cousin, Clyde Priest, on his wedding night.

Gladwin County Prosecutor George C. Johnson said Harold S. Lidster, 32, admitted in an oral confession that he fired four or five shots at the 21-year-old bridegroom because Priest married Lidster's former wife, Esther.

The prosecutor said Priest, a truck driver, and his wife, 30, were married Saturday night. Following a celebration they retired to their Beaverton home.

Around 2:30 a.m., Johnson said, the ex-husband invaded the home and opened fire with an automatic pistol.

SEC Questions Crowell-Collier

Magazines Suspended Following Stock Sale of $4 Million

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Securities and Exchange Commission called on the Crowell-Collier Publishing Company today to explain a $4 million stock sale just before suspending three magazines.

Crowell-Collier President Paul Smith is the first witness scheduled to testify in a public hearing to determine if there was anything illegal about the securities transaction.

Between August, 1955, and June, 1956, the publishing firm sold $4 million worth of five per cent debentures which were convertible into common stock.

It suspended publication of American Magazine in August and Colliers and Woman's Home Companion in December, 1956.

The debentures under question were sold privately through a brokerage firm without registration with SEC. The SEC said it wanted to look into the question of the speed with which so many of the debentures were converted to stock for sale to the public.

Firm Prices Rule All Grains

CHICAGO (AP) — Firm prices ruled for all grains in active dealings on the board of trade today.

Gains ran to around a cent at times in wheat, soybeans and rye. Smaller advances were recorded in corn and oats. Weather stimulated much of the buying, and there was plenty of grain for sale on the way up.

President Eisenhower began his tour of the drought strickened Southwest and the resultant publicity apparently recreated some commission house demand for the bread grain.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was ½ to 1⅛ higher, March $2.42 ½, corn ¼ to ⅝ higher, March $1.36¼, oats ⅜ to ⅝ higher, March 79¾, rye 1¼ to 1½ higher, March $1.48½, soybeans ¼ to 1¼ higher, January $2.51⅝, and lard 10 to 20 cents a hundred pounds higher, January $15.65.

Market Leans to Downside

Pivotal issues fluctuated from fractions to around a point but some losses among steels and copper stocks ran to 2 or 3 points.

Reports that demand for steel, although still big, is not coming up to expectations, combined with a decline in steel scrap prices backgrounded the decline in steel shares. European buying of copper continued slow.

STEEL DROP

Youngstown was off around 3 points, Bethlehem Steel about 2 and U. S. Steel around a point. Magma Copper took a 3-point loss. Phelps Dodge, Homestake and American Smelting were easy.

But aircrafts did well. Grumman and Douglas were ahead a point or so and Boeing gained a fraction. The mixed chemical division showed a 1-point loss for Du Pont and smaller declines by Air Reduction and Dow. Allied chemical was up around a point while Union Carbide was steady.

* * *

Opening blocks included Grumman up 1½ at 34½ on 7,000 shares, American Telephone up ¾ at 177½ on 4,000, Union Pacific off ⅜ at 30⅜ on 1,000 and International Nickel up 1 at 111 on 1,000.

Whether Up or Down

DECATUR, Ill. (AP)—The Macon County Farm Bureau has a parking lot beside its building for use by its members. The Macon County Board of Review exempted it from taxes last fall.

The State Department of Finance however, sent County Clerk Laurence Tangney a letter disapproving the exemption on the ground that the lot is not used exclusively for agricultural purposes.

Garland Wants to Cancel Show

Audrey, Mel Rehearse for Television Version of 'Mayerling'

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK (INS)—NBC - TV's new "Tonight" format, with a gaggle of columnists scheduled to fly in Jan. 28 after Steve Allen leaves off Jan. 25, will be met by CBS' strongest lineup of fine old Hollywood films.

"Omnibus" signed S. J. Perelman to write its Jan. 27 history of burlesque, starring Bert Lahr . . . Perelman is being garlanded all over the place for his "Around the World in 80 Days" script

DEAL STILL PENDING

The Frank Sinatra deal with ABC-TV hasn't been finalized and, though it probably will be, the competition is scrambling after Frankie Boy like Presley fans.

If you look close during the new Hitchcock movie, "The Wrong Man," you'll see Bill Harbach, Steve Allen's producer hamming it up in the Stork Club sequences . . . Billy's even in the "coming attractions."

NEW MAIN BRAIN

Eddie Fisher's new main brain is Hollywood lawyer Martin Gang. Frank Sinatra's legal arm . . . Milton Blackstone was officially advised he'll no longer have a hand in the drooping Fisher career . . . but Blackstone still has a 50 per cent contract with Fisher.

The Sonny (ex-$64,000 Challenge) Foxes won't challenge the expected stork.

The two biggest and most respectable manufacturers of TV tubes (RCA and GE) will give official advice and help in counteracting the criminal racket of substituting bad tubes for new ones, now being so efficiently prosecuted by the Bronx DA's office . .

Quoth Groucho Marx: "When I see that Lawrence Welk, Elvis Presley and Liberace are big names in television I have to conclude that I know nothing about show business."

Top Raisin Producer

ANKARA — Turkey produced a record raisin crop of 91,000 tons in 1956, giving her first place in world production of raisins. The country accounted for nearly one third of the global production of 292,000 tons in 1956. Turkish raisin output totaled 44,000 tons in 1955.

Canada and the United States have about 4,000 miles of undefended common border.

Police Motorbike Goes Through Closed Door

When he started the motorcycle, the throttle suddenly stuck wide open and the machine shot through the closed door and across the street.

Policeman Gordon Collett, who normally rides the motorcycle, commented: "He's a better rider than I am. I could never get it through the door."

Fire in Alaska Kills 1; 14 Hurt

50 Use Nets, Ladders to Escape Apartment in Sub-Zero Weather

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — Nearly 50 persons escaped by leaping into nets or climbing down shaky ladders in 51-below-zero weather yesterday as a midday fire sent clouds of acrid smoke swirling through the city's largest apartment building.

* * *

One man died and 14 others were injured, including two women whose spines were fractured as they leaped into fire nets. The others were overcome by smoke or suffered cuts.

More than 300 persons were believed in the new nine-story Northward Building. Although the fire was confined to the basement, heavy clouds of smoke swept up elevator shafts and stairwells to fill the halls and seep into apartments.

* * *

Stanley A. Davis, apartment manager, said, "nobody who stuck to their rooms was in danger." The building, largest in Fairbanks is fireproof, he said.

The only known death came to a man who sought to escape by climbing to the building roof, only to find the door locked against him. He died on the stairway. Firemen identified him as William Stebbins, owner of a bar and a prominent West Coast restaurant owner.

The 220-apartment Northward has a population of about 700, but nearly half of the tenants had left the building to attend church or go to work.

Fire Chief E. B. Woodex said damage to the building would amount to $10,000 or $15,000.

Wrong Way Hawaii?

HONOLULU (AP)—Hawaii may be achieving some status as a political weathervane in reverse.

The territory's largest Republican vote since World War II came in 1948—the year of Harry S. Truman's victory. This year the tropical territory, in the face of the Eisenhower landslide, sent a Democratic delegate to Congress for the first time since 1932.

Mighty Heavy Lark

VICTORIA (AP)—Two young sailors pleaded guilty in police court to stealing a 150-pound granite tombstone from a monument firm "as a lark." They said they had been drinking. Sentence was deferred.

Macmillan Also May Pay Call on Ike

Hint Queen May Accept Bid to Visit U. S.

WASHINGTON (INS)—Britain's Queen Elizabeth is reliably reported today to be considering an invitation to visit the U. S. this year.

The White House flatly declined to make any comment on the report, but it was learned that an informal approcah has been made through diplomatic channels.

* * *

(In London, a Buckingham Palace spokesman, commenting on news reports, said: "Obviously the Queen may visit the United States at any time, but so far as I know, there have been no discussions on that subject at all between Buckingham Palace and the White House.

No specific date has been set, but there was speculation that she might make the trip next fall, if her schedule permits.

It was considered unlikely that she would attend the 350th anniversary of the founding of Jamestown, Va., first permanent British settlement in North America, on May 13.

MACMILLAN MAY VISIT

There was also a possibility that Britain's new Prime Minister, Harold Macmillan, may come to Washington for talks with Mr. Eisenhower and other top U. S. officials.

Macmillan's trip undoubtedly would be delayed until after Congress acts on President Eisenhower's military and economic aid program for the Middle East.

* * *

There was a feeling, however, that a visit by either Queen Elizabeth or Macmillan could do much to restore the traditional bonds between the U. S. and Britain which were strained by the Suez crisis.

Mr. Eisenhower, who headed the Supreme Allied Command in Europe in World War II, met the then Princess Elizabeth while he was stationed in London.

If the Queen accepts the invitation, her trip would be the second to the U. S. in five years and the first by a reigning British monarch since 1939.

Eighteen years ago, her parents, the late King George VI and Queen (now Queen Mother) Elizabeth toured Canada and came to Washington as the guests of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In 1951, four months before her father's death, Princess Elizabeth and her husband also visited Canada. Their trip was climaxed by an enthusiastic reception in Washington where they were former President Harry S. Truman's guests.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery.

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H.® Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.
