Observers Charge Plane Was Low

B-36 on Prowl Gives County Jitters

Thousands of Oakland County residents were alarmed last night by the deafening roar of a monster B-36 bomber circling low over the county.

Local police and sheriff's offices received hundreds of calls between 8 and 11 p.m. Residents were afraid that the ten-engine behemoth was going to crash in the county.

But according to Maj. Robert S. Spence, public information officer at Carswell Air Force Base, Texas, the plane's home port, it was on routine training flight.

Major Spence said the plane left Rapid City, S. D., and was scheduled to fly over Omaha, Detroit and Toledo and then proceed to Carswell Base.

Major Spence said the plane was never lower than 2500 feet and that the crew was practicing navigation by ground observing.

The plane was reported in the county for a two-hour period by Robert Simmons, communications officer for Pontiac CAP Group 18. Simmons said that at least four of the county's five ground observer posts were manned last night when the plane flew over. All four posts reported the flight and the local CAP group was put on the alert at 9 p.m.

A crash trailer was dispatched immediately to the sheriff's office and stood by until midnight.

Simmons estimated the plane's altitude at between 500 and 1,000 feet when he saw it over Pontiac.

Pontiac police received so many calls they were unable to estimate the number who sought information about the incident.

Two detectives, James LaPonsie and Richard Evans said at one point the plane's left wing tip appeared to them to be even with the Pontiac State Bank Building and they feared it was in danger of crashing.

LaPonsie said that he could see

Saginaw street lights reflected on the lower part of the wings.

Sheriff's Deputy Everett Fredericks said the bomber came over Clarkston at about 9 p.m. at about 150 to 200 feet.

It flew over Deer Lake three or four times and then took off toward Flint.

Fredericks, who has flown 500 hours, said "I know distances in the air from experience. When you can make out a plane from a city's street lights, you know that it is not at any 2,500 feet.

"The bomber just barely cleared the trees when it came over Deer Lake."

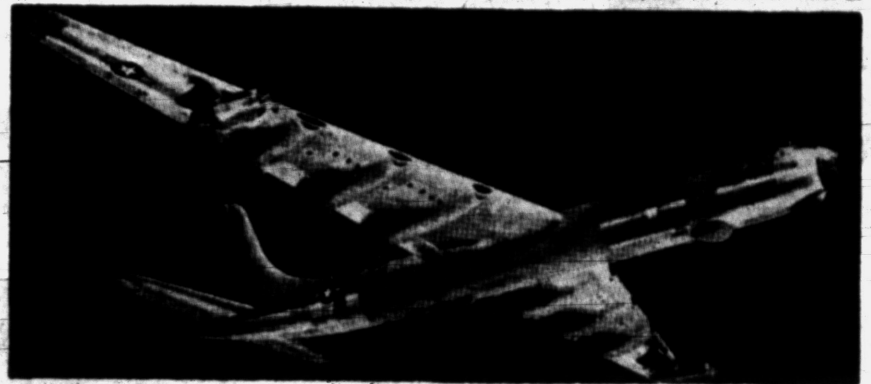

State Police of the Pontiac Post reported at least 60 calls in 30 minutes. All were from the Clarkston area residents who feared the plane was in trouble and that it was going to crash.

A state police patrol car flashed its lights on the bomber near Waterford and the big plane blinked back a message which was meaningless to the troopers.

Troopers said the plane had its landing lights on and that the motors were running smoothly but at a low pitch. They did not think the big craft was in trouble when they saw it.

Oakland County Sheriff's deputies reported getting calls as late as 11:45 p.m. from people wanting to know about the bomber.

In Texas, Major Spence commented on the fright caused by the bomber by saying, "I guess those people never saw or heard such a big plane."

Bridge Builders Meet Deadlines

Mackinac Straits Span Progressing According to Schedule

LANSING (AP)—The construction of foundations for the Mackinac Straits Bridge is on schedule, Prentiss M. Brown, chairman of the bridge authority, said today.

The second quarterly construction progress report, prepared by Dr. D. B. Steinman, consulting engineer, said that the six key piers scheduled for completion before winter should be finished in time.

The six piers will support the central suspension span of the five-mile bridge. There will be a total of 33 piers supporting the bridge.

Brown reported that Pier 17, in which the suspension cable will be anchored on the south side of the span, has been built up to within 10 feet of the surface of the water. The pier now stands seven stories high, is half the size of a city block at the base and weighs 100,000 tons.

Merritt Chapman & Scott, the foundation contractors, reported that they have four million dollars worth of marine construction equipment assembled for the project.

The American Bridge Division of the U. S. Steel Corp. reported that it was on schedule in preparations for appearing on the scene next spring to begin the construction of the main towers.

The bridge authority has spent about $7,255,000 to date. Of the total, $7,035,000 has been for construction and engineering, $220,000 for preliminary expenses and $28,000 for administration.

The authority met its first interest requirements on the $38,600,000 bond issue floated to construct the bridge when $2,121,000 worth of coupons matured on July 1.

Insurance Officials Deny 'Unlimited' Illegal Sales

LANSING (UP)—Three state insurance officials denied charges Thursday that the Insurance Department has permitted "unlimited" illegal sales of high risk insurance policies in Michigan.

The officials admitted a "mistake" in allowing a Detroit insurance agent to postpone tax payments on insurance premiums his agency collected.

But they said no policy holders, to their knowledge, have lost money on high-risk insurance sold by three out-of-state insurance companies which Aud. Gen. John B. Martin said had "questionable backgrounds or performances."

Showers to Continue Here on Weekend

The five day forecast for the Pontiac area shows little change in temperature and continuing showers over the weekend.

The U. S. Weather Bureau says the low tonight will be 61 to 65, high Saturday, 76 to 80. Cooler weather is expected about Tuesday.

Yesterday's temperatures hit a low of 56 and a high of 66. Rainfall from 8 a.m. yesterday to the same time today totaled .04 in.

At that time this morning the mercury stood at 56 degrees, rising to 61 by 1 p.m.

Detroit Women Fined on Shoplifting Charge

Two Detroit women pleaded guilty yesterday to simple larceny before Farmington Township Justice Allen C. Ingle and were fined $35 and $15 costs each.

Mrs. Eileen M. Loretto, 23, and Miss Janet Schmidt, 20, both of 14518 Santa Rosa, admitted that they took a dress and two blouses from the J. L. Hudson Store at Northland Shopping Center yesterday. They were arrested by Michigan State Police of the Redford Post.

They said the public was protected although statutes covering the sale of high risk insurance were "weak and inadequate."

The Insurance Department spokesmen were D. M. Watters, head of the agency license division; John W. Wickstrom, chief deputy commissioner; and L. H. Sanford, first deputy commissioner. They held a press conference in the absence of Insurance Commissioner Joseph A. Navarre who had not returned from a trip to Evanston, Ill.

Watters said he allowed Seymour Cohn, Detroit insurance agent, to delay paying $907 taxes on $30,000 in premium collections because Cohn had "such a big turnover in bookkeepers he didn't have his record up to date when the payment was due last January."

Watters said "It was a mistake to carry Cohn so long."

Martin is conducting a "special audit" of the records of the Insurance Department and "certain Detroit agents" on complaints that some agents were selling fire and auto insurance policies written by unauthorized companies—not licensed in Michigan, without meeting legal requirements.

Renews Efforts to End Strike

Officials of Square D, Union to Meet Saturday With Mediators

DETROIT (AP)—Union and company officials, after a brief unsuccessful negotiating session yesterday, said they would meet with mediators Saturday in renewed attempts to settle the 95-day-old Square D Co. Strike.

The announcement of the recess in settlement talks coincided with the arrest of ten out-of-state Square D employees on a traffic technicality and the injury of a picket and policeman in a new outburst of violence at the plant.

The 10 workers were ticketed for having no Michigan drivers' licenses and nine of them also were cited for having no Michigan license plates on their cars. The cars were impounded until plates are supplied and the company immediately said it would buy the plates and pay workers' fines.

Police said the workers violated a city ordinance requiring they obtain Michigan license plates and operators' licenses as soon as they find work.

Striking Independent United Electrical Workers Union charged the out-of-state workers were "imported strikebreakers." The company denied the charge and said it had hired only a dozen out-of-state since the back-to-work movement began Sept. 2.

Earlier in the day a policeman and a woman picket were injured in clashes between some 700 pickets and 150 police brought in to keep peace. The injured were treated and then released from a Detroit hospital.

City Observing Dondero Day; Dinner Tonight

"Congressman George A. Dondero Day" is being observed in Pontiac today as proclaimed in a city commission resolution of Sept. 8.

A non-partisan testimonial dinner in honor of Dondero is planned at 7:30 p. m. tonight at Northwood Inn, 2503 Woodward Ave., Berkeley.

The dinner, to which both Republicans and Democrats are invited, is planned to recognize the congressman's years of public service, especially his work for passage of the St. Lawrence Seaway Bill.

Joe Martin, speaker of the U. S. House of Representatives, will journey from Washington to give the main address.

Baby Heiress Stirs Up Battle

British Hotelman Fights Patino Tin Family for Daughter's Custody

PARIS (INS)—Hotel heir James Goldsmith and his multi-millionaire parents-in-law squared off today in a court battle for legal custody of his infant daughter, heiress to the huge Patino tin fortune.

Goldsmith conferred with his lawyers until an early hour today, mapping plans for his fight to get back the baby, whose mother the former Maria Isabel Patino, died in childbirth last May.

The Duchess of Dured, estranged wife of Bolivian tin magnate Antonio Patino, who bitterly opposed his 19-year-old daughter's elopement last January, filed a formal request for custody of her granddaughter.

The 4-month-old child now is being cared for by the duchess, but the 21-year-old Goldsmith charged in a complaint to Paris police Wednesday that the infant had been "kidnaped."

Goldsmith said he intended to press kidnapping charges against his in-laws and demanded that the infant, Isobel, be produced in court.

Court attaches stated that Goldsmith placed the daughter in the custody of his mother-in-law when he left on a business trip to West Africa recently.

Patino's lawyers reported that the baby "is somewhere in or near Paris with her grandmother," a Spanish Bourbon princess who has been estranged from Patino for years. Attorney Paul Lenard called the kidnapping charge "absurd."

Dulles Confers With Eden on Plan to Rearm Germany

LONDON (AP)—John Foster Dulles flew into London today for hurried talks with Prime Minister Churchill and Anthony Eden on Britain's new plan for rearming West Germany.

The British foreign secretary met the U. S. secretary of state soon after Eden reported for 90 minutes to Churchill and the Cabinet on his own flying tour of West Europe to drum up support for his plan.

Search for Thief Nets Suspect in Other Case

Dulles flew here from Bonn, where he conferred with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer on German sovereignty and rearmament.

In a joint airport statement in Bonn, Dulles and Adenauer made no specific mention of Eden's plan to link a rearmament West Germany to the Brussels Pact and NATO.

They said instead that West German sovereignty should be "restored with all speed." They added that Germany's participation "in full equality in the system of collective security" should be considered as "soon as practicable with the other interested governments, and following a NATO ministerial meeting, should be translated into concrete action."

Eden told reporters last night he had reached a "wide measure of agreement" in his talks with the leaders of France, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, Italy and West Germany.

But he cautioned that the "practical aspects of the enterprise are far from simple... a good deal of work remains to be done before a solution can be presented to the world."

The main hurdle Eden faces is to try to reconcile French anxiety for controls over German rearmament with U. S.-backed German demands for full sovereignty.

The British plan for rearming West Germany was drawn up after the French National Assembly killed the European Defense Community Treaty to set up a six-nation unified European army.

Dulles conferred nearly three hours in Bonn last night with Adenauer on the knotty problem of how to give the Germans sovereignty without alienating France. The pair gave no clue to what they said.

Dulles plans to return to Washington tonight after his talks with Eden, but informants said he may call on Mendes-France if such a visit is deemed necessary to bring the French into line.

6 Union Officials Are Suspended for Profiteering

Admit Misusing Money Belonging to CIO Store Employees

NEW YORK (AP)—A directive by CIO President Walter P. Reuther has resulted in the suspension of six union officials following testimony in a state probe of union welfare funds.

Reuther yesterday ordered "prompt remedial action" against a half dozen top officers of the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union (RWU), adding that the CIO "cannot and will not tolerate crooks or Communists in the labor movement."

Carrying out his chief's order, Max Greenberg, international president of the RWU, appointed administrators to audit the books of the five locals involved.

The six men had admitted to state investigators they used welfare funds to provide themselves with high salaries and expense accounts, lavish vacations, automobiles and other special benefits.

State Insurance Sept. Alfred J. Bohlinger, at the close of the four days of hearings yesterday, urged state supervision of union welfare funds to eliminate abuses.

Bohlinger said, however, that he believes most union welfare funds are honestly and efficiently run.

Greenberg said he hopes "the public realizes" that the five locals involved have a total of about 3,000 members compared with a general union membership of more than 60,000.

Meanwhile in Washington yesterday, Senate and House committees prepared to launch their own probes of reported union welfare fund abuses and received pledges of cooperation from Reuther and AFL President George Meany.

The Senate Committee is headed by Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-NY), slated to be nominated as GOP candidate for governor of New York next week.

Rep. Samuel McCone Jr., (R-Pa) heads a similar House committee.

Officials suspended from the RWU are:

Joseph Procopio, an international vice president of the store union; Samuel Rosenzweig, president of Local 923, the United Culinary, Bar and Grill Employees; Robert M. Stanles, president of Local 394, Auto Parts, Tire, and Accessory Employees; Ernest J. Dumas, president of Local 377, United Service Employees; and Michael Werner and Michael Salzman, president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of Local 1115, Restaurant, Luncheonette and Soft Drink Employees.

Nixon Says Dem Victory Will Restore 'Trumanism'

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Vice President Nixon says the November election poses an alternative of continuing the present administration's program of "integrity, firmness and moderation" or restoring "discredited Trumanism."

Speaking in President Eisenhower's home state, Nixon declared last night:

"In 1952, when 34 million Americans rejected it, Trumanism meant hopeless inability to deal with the four-headed monster that was Korea, communism, corruption and controls.

"Deficit financing and inflation go clamorously hand-in-hand. That's what Trumanism means. That's what his followers including Mr. Stevenson (1952 Democratic presidential nominee), and his left-wing ADA (Americans for Democratic Action) mouthpieces want. To achieve this goal, they must have a Democrat 84th Congress controlled by their clique."

The vice president told more than 2,000 persons gathered in the Wichita Forum, a municipal building, that the GOP administration "is a clean-up, not a cover-up administration."

"The honesty of the President permeates our government from top to bottom," he added. "The President and his administrative leaders are dedicated people... They deserve the kind of Congress that will support them."

Nixon is touring the country, boosting the election of Republicans. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Recreation Board Planning Halloween Parade, Party

From Our Birmingham Bureau
BIRMINGHAM — Summer months are hardly over, but recreation board members are already focusing attention on this year's 15th annual merchant-sponsored Halloween party.

Roland Reese, chairman of the parade and party arrangements, reported plans to the board last night.

He will hold a preliminary meeting next week with other committee members, including Lyman Craig Jr., co-chairman, Frank Whitney, city recreation director.

Additional Birmingham social news on page 17.

Mrs. William Jackson, recreation board chairman, and Mrs. Cassius Miller and Malcolm Adam, coordinators.

Some 6,000 costumed youngsters entered into the fun last year, which saw the parade start at Chester street near Baldwin School, and circle around to Woodward and Merrill, where prizes and food awaited them. The same route will be followed this year.

A full meeting of the committee, including representatives from the Community House, PTA groups, YMCA and the Chamber of Commerce will iron out last minute details early in October.

The board once again approved winter swimming classes for elementary school children in the non-swimmer or beginner's category. Full information will be sent home to parents through the schools.

Three 10-week series will be given starting Oct. 1, with half-hour classes to be held at the Barham School pool from 9 a.m. until noon Saturdays.

A half-hour also will be set aside one night a week for therapeutic swimming. The sessions are designed mainly for former polo patients in need of the water exercises. Each participant must have a statement from his doctor, and children must be accompanied by an adult.

The Great Books group, sponsored by Baldwin Library, has room for 10 more members, according to Mrs. Fred Robinson, co-leader of the discussion group. Meetings are held at the library and the first is scheduled for 8 p.m. next Wednesday.

Social, political, religious and economic questions are discussed at the bi-monthly meetings. Reading assignments will be given in such books as Plato's "Republic," Dante's "On World Government," Moliere's "Tartuffe," and Goethe's "Faust."

Sessions are not by any means book reviews, but extremely lively discussions of contemporary issues," said Mrs. Robinson. Nor are sessions "taught." The Great Books do the teaching, she said. Leaders ask questions, while the participants supply answers.

"This opportunity for a free liberal education is open to all adults in the area," she added. Those interested are asked to call her.

The faculty of Kingswood School will entertain staff members of Cranbrook School, the brother-in-law of the late Mrs. Robinson, at a tea tomorrow afternoon.

To be held in the Kingswood facility club, the annual tea offers faculty newcomers from both schools an opportunity to become

Martin said some agents were selling the policies without filing the affidavits.

They said there were about 100 "unauthorized" insurance companies selling high-risk insurance in Michigan and all but $2,000 bonds to cover tax payments on premiums collected.

The law requires only that such companies have assets of $100,000 and be domiciled in a state which has an insurance commissioner, they said.

"I'll take that one." Theodore Cremer of East Howard street, a patient at Pontiac General Hospital, points out the merchandise he wants from the Aux-Mobile. Chamberlain of Wall street (right).

Women's Auxiliary Cheers Patients

By JANET ODELL

The day we visited Pontiac General Hospital to see the work done by the Women's Auxiliary Mrs. Sadie G. Williams was a Visiting Lady.

She was wearing the bright coral smock all Auxiliary members wear while on duty.

Five days a week, two Visiting Ladies visit all patients in the hospital, save those who are critically ill and any with visitors of their own. Mrs. Williams was greeting patients in the men's ward and asking what she might do to make that individual's stay more agreeable.

Sometimes the Visiting Ladies are able to dispel loneliness, as in the case of the injured factory worker who had no relatives or friends to visit him.

Mrs. William Bedard, chairman of this committee, asked us to say how much pleasure she and her group get out of their work. "We all just love the work and feel good about doing it."

On the fourth floor we caught up with the Bookmobile. This small traveling library goes around the hospital twice a week, passing out magazines and books.

Chairman of the Bookmobile committee, Mrs. P. Eugene Miller, is proud of her book cart. She and her associates try to cater to a wide taste in reading matter. They welcome contributions of books and magazines, provided the latter are not more than six months old.

Since the middle of February a new vehicle has taken its place among flower carts, wheel chairs and medicine carts — the aux-mobile. Built in the hospital carpenter shop, this many-tiered cart is a variety store on wheels.

Every day but Saturday and Sunday Mrs. Ben Madison and her assistants wheel their way through the hospital selling their wares to patients and nurses.

This is the only money-making project of the Auxiliary, the profits of which help finance other services of the group.

Whenever a holiday occurs, each tray in the hospital contains a small favor. Responsible for this attention is Mrs. Ruby M. Mackinder. Besides her committee in the Auxiliary, she is assisted by youth and church groups.

Any group of more than six individuals may have a conducted tour of the hospital. Under the guidance of Mrs. W. Arthur Vernon and her committee, these tours are permissible at any time.

Working behind the scenes, but fully as important, is the Sewing Committee. Many of its members work at home whenever they have spare time.

In 1953 the thirty-four members of this group made nearly five thousand articles for the hospital. Mrs. Gwendell G. Purkiss, leader of the group, says their present job making gowns for the children's ward from gaily printed material is a pleasant one.

Auxiliary president, Mrs. Dean, adds that this project has saved the hospital over two-thirds of the cost of purchased gowns.

When asked for her evaluation of the work the Auxiliary is doing, hospital superintendent, Lauretta Paul immediately and enthusiastically replied, "We're awfully glad to have the Auxiliary. It's amazing how much it helps."

Some two hundred women of northern Oakland county should feel a glow of satisfaction for doing well a job that calls forth appreciation and approbation from all with whom they come in contact.

Esther Circle Has Evening Meeting

Mrs. John Ostrander assisted Mrs. Krugman with refreshments following the meeting.

Recreation Board Planning Halloween Parade, Party

From Our Birmingham Bureau
BIRMINGHAM — Summer months are hardly over, but recreation board members are already focusing attention on this year's 15th annual merchant-sponsored Halloween party.

Roland Reese, chairman of the parade and party arrangements, reported plans to the board last night.

He will hold a preliminary meeting next week with other committee members, including Lyman Craig Jr., co-chairman, Frank Whitney, city recreation director.

Additional Birmingham social news on page 17.

Mrs. William Jackson, recreation board chairman, and Mrs. Cassius Miller and Malcolm Adam, coordinators.

Some 6,000 costumed youngsters entered into the fun last year, which saw the parade start at Chester street near Baldwin School, and circle around to Woodward and Merrill, where prizes and food awaited them. The same route will be followed this year.

A full meeting of the committee, including representatives from the Community House, PTA groups, YMCA and the Chamber of Commerce will iron out last minute details early in October.

The board once again approved winter swimming classes for elementary school children in the non-swimmer or beginner's category. Full information will be sent home to parents through the schools.

Three 10-week series will be given starting Oct. 1, with half-hour classes to be held at the Burnham School pool from 9 a.m. until noon Saturdays.

A half-hour also will be set aside one night a week for therapeutic swimming. The sessions are designed mainly for former-polio patients in need of the water exercises. Each participant must have a statement from his doctor, and children must be accompanied by an adult.

The Great Books group, sponsored by Baldwin Library, has room for 10 more members, according to Mrs. Fred Robinson, co-leader of the discussion group. Meetings are held at the library and the first is scheduled for 8 p.m. next Wednesday.

Social, political, religious and economic questions are discussed at the bi-monthly meetings. Reading assignments will be given in such books as Plato's "Republic," Dante's "On World Government," Moliere's "Tartuffe," and Goethe's "Faust."

"Sessions are not by any means book reviews, but extremely lively discussions of contemporary issues," said Mrs. Robinson. Nor are sessions "taught." The Great Books do the teaching, she said. Leaders ask questions, while the participants supply answers.

This opportunity for a free liberal education is open to all adults in the area, she added. Those interested are asked to call her.

The faculty of Kingswood School will entertain staff members of Cranbrook School, the brother-in-law, at a tea tomorrow afternoon.

To be held in the Kingswood faculty club, the annual tea offers faculty newcomers from both schools an opportunity to become

First meeting of the Intermediate Methodist Youth Fellowship of the First Methodist Church will be held at the church at 7 tonight.

Under discussion at this week's City Commission meeting was the possibility for a school crossing at Maple and Baldwin, for the protection of children in that area who attend Holy Name School.

The matter will be studied further before any action is taken.

When final evaluation was made of the YMCA summer Day-Y program, it was found that Dale Porter, of 720 Knox, won the camp-of-the-year trophy.

A non-swimmer at the beginning of the summer, Dale progressed to a point where he could swim 100 feet. He showed marked progress in camp craft, sports activities and general cooperation.

He will receive his award at an early date. Presentation will be made by Del Ingram, youth committee chairman, and Paul Heins, director of youth activities.

A pot luck dinner and movies and a talk on Guatemala is in store for the Couple's Club of Kirk in the Hills Church, which will meet there at 7 tonight.

William H. Brannack Dies at Rochester

ROCHESTER — A long-time Rochester resident, William H. Brannack, 73, of 306 Taylor St., was found dead of a heart attack early this morning, after he had pulled his car to the curb on Main Street in Rochester and fallen to the sidewalk.

The body was discovered by a passing motorist at 5 a.m. Dr. Carl Schlecter, who was called to the scene pronounced him dead when he arrived.

Mr. Brannack, who is the brother-in-law of Judge Maurice Finnegan of Pontiac, had driven a friend to Royal Oak to catch a bus and was on his way home. Apparently he had time to pull his car over and open the door before he succumbed.

A retired Ford Motor Co. employee, Brannack had been a widower for some years. He is survived by seven daughters: Helen at home; Mrs. Evangeline Campbell and Mrs. Wilma Boyne, both of Rochester; Mrs. Maxine Finnegan of Pontiac; Mrs. Marjorie Pettit of Ferndale; Mrs. Joseph Albright of Royal Oak; Mrs. Isabelle Schwenke of Highland Park; two sons, Donald E. of Rochester and William E. of Auburn Heights; a brother, Fred, of Detroit; 28 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services are pending at William R. Potere Funeral Home.

Martin said some agents were selling the policies without filing the affidavits.

They said there were about 100 "unauthorized" insurance companies selling high-risk insurance in Michigan and all post $2,000 bonds to cover tax payments on premiums collected.

The law requires only that such companies have assets of $100,000 and be domiciled in a state which has an insurance commissioner, they said.

"Well," Hall remarked, "I found a cigarette lighter about the same place you found the wallet."

He produced the lighter. It was Armstrong's.

10 on Probation in Liquor Case

Youths, Nabbed in Vice Raids Here, Draw Stern Warning From Judge

Ten Pontiac teenagers who pleaded guilty to loitering in a house where liquor and beer was being illegally dispensed, were placed on 30 days probation by Pontiac Judge Cecil McCallum yesterday.

The youths were at a drinking party two weeks ago in a vacant house at 14 Clark St., which Pontiac Police raided.

Placed on probation were: Warren Robertson, 18, of 33 E. Rutgers St.; his wife, Shirley, 19, Robert Putnam, 19, of 244 Brooklyn Ave.; Norman Dell, 18, of 1790 Orchid St.; Doris Nightingale, 18, of 255 State St.; Bobbie Sloop, 19, of 23 Williams St.; Janet Burt, 17, of 227 Baldwin Ave.; Beverly Arnett, 17, of 2881 Mann Rd.; Joyce Gjelhang, 18, of 873 Woodlawn Ave.; and Janice Roberts, 17, of 233 Baldwin Ave.

In allowing the charge to be changed from illegal possession of beer by minors to loitering, Judge McCallum said the youths had probably suffered enough already.

"Pass the word along to your friends," McCallum said, "that the penalty is liable to be heavier than you think it will be when you get into such surroundings."

"I know that there were others probably more involved than you in this affair who got away," he said.

Two others, Buddy Karnes, 21, of 87 Mill St., Auburn Heights, and James Linsenman, 22, of 3100 Eastwood Dr., who pleaded guilty to creating a disturbance at the same party, were sentenced last week to four days in jail and fined $30 each.

Another Pontiac man, now studying at an Indiana university, Jerry Adams, 24, is sought on a charge of furnishing beer to minors. Police swarmed in on the youths at the party when neighbors complained of excessive noise in the vacant house.

Vatican Denies Pope Suffering Serious Illness

VATICAN CITY — Pope Pius XII is suffering from fatigue caused by overwork but his condition is not causing serious concern, his private physician said today after visiting the pontiff.

Despite his fatigue, the Pope prepared to receive and address a medical conference at his summer residence at Castel Gandolfo.

His physician, Prof. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi, described the pontiff's condition simply as fatigue due to a renewed heavy burden of work and denied he had had any recurrence of the hiccup that weakened him dangerously during his grave illness early this year.

The Pope's physician denied also reports that the Swiss specialist, Dr. Paul Niehans, who attended the Pope in January and February, was again in Rome to help care for him.

The Pope's physician said that Dr. Niehans is in Switzerland. His doctor's visit this morning to the 78-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church was described as a normal and regular visit.

"I'll take that one." Theodore Cremer of East Howard street, a patient at Pontiac General Hospital, points out the merchandise he wants from the Aux-Mobile. This rolling variety store is a service project of the Women's Auxiliary. In charge of the cart are Mrs. Herbert Staads of Preston street (left) and Mrs. Clarence B. Chamberlain of Wall street (right).

Women's Auxiliary Cheers Patients

By JANET ODELL

The day we visited Pontiac General Hospital to see the work done by the Women's Auxiliary Mrs. Sadie G. Williams was a Visiting Lady.

She was wearing the bright coral smock all Auxiliary members wear while on duty.

Five days a week, two Visiting Ladies visit all patients in the hospital, save those who are critically ill and any with visitors of their own. Mrs. Williams was greeting patients in the men's ward and asking what she might do to make that individual's stay more agreeable.

Sometimes the Visiting Ladies are able to dispel loneliness, as in the case of the injured factory worker who had no relatives or friends to visit him.

Mrs. William Bedard, chairman of this committee, asked us to say how much pleasure she and her group get out of their work. "We all just love the work and feel good about doing it."

On the fourth floor we caught up with the Bookmobile. This small traveling library goes around the hospital twice a week, passing out magazines and books.

Chairman of the Bookmobile committee, Mrs. P. Eugene Miller, is proud of her book cart. She and her associates try to cater to a wide taste in reading matter. They welcome contributions of books and magazines, provided the latter are not more than six months old.

Since the middle of February a new vehicle has taken its place among flower carts, wheel chairs and medicine carts — the aux-mobile. Built in the hospital carpenter shop, this many-tiered cart is a variety store on wheels.

Every day but Saturday and Sunday Mrs. Ben Madison and her assistants wheel their way through the hospital selling their wares to patients and nurses.

This is the only money-making project of the Auxiliary, the profits of which help finance other services of the group.

Whenever a holiday occurs, each tray in the hospital contains a small favor. Responsible for this attention is Mrs. Ruby M. MacKinder. Besides her committee in the Auxiliary, she is assisted by youth and church groups.

Any group of more than six individuals may have a conducted tour of the hospital. Under the guidance of Mrs. W. Arthur Vernon and her committee, these tours are permissible at any time.

Working behind the scenes, but fully as important, is the Sewing Committee. Many of its members work at home whenever they have spare time.

In 1933 the thirty-four members of this group made nearly five thousand articles for the hospital. Mrs. Gwendell G. Purkiss, leader of the group, says their present job making gowns for the children's ward from gaily printed material is a pleasant one.

Auxiliary president, Mrs. Dean, adds that this project has saved the hospital over two-thirds of the cost of purchased gowns.

When asked for her evaluation of the work the Auxiliary is doing, hospital superintendent, Lauretta Paul immediately and enthusiastically replied, "We're awfully glad to have the Auxiliary. It's amazing how much it helps."

Some two hundred women of northern Oakland county should feel a glow of satisfaction for doing well a job that calls forth appreciation and approbation from all with whom they come in contact.

Project Led Child to Use Initiative

Don't Be Alarmed if Child Discovers Interest Himself

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Into the lives of Alice Stuart's two males this summer came things called Projects.

Perhaps it was her husband who first applied this handsome term to the enterprises into which he and his son disappeared every Saturday morning. Anyway, since the Projects began, seven-year-old John developed a "father identification" to delight the soul of the most demanding Freudian psychologist.

Breakfast and mothers became just passing annoyances to endure until the moment when Dad pushed back his chair and said, "How about it, boy? Let's get to the Project."

Occasionally the Project was cleaning the car. Once it was repair of the kitchen table. So far as Alice Stuart was concerned, a Project's material production of a rewired lamp or repaired cellar window didn't matter. What mattered was what the Projects came to mean to the men of her family.

So last Saturday morning, when John remained in the bathroom until breakfast was nearly over, she felt a twinge of uneasiness. "Aren't you two planning to work on the new shelves for the garage this morning?" she asked her husband.

"Sure!" he said. Then he went to the foot of the stairs and he shouted up: "Hey there! Don't I get any help this morning?"

There was no answer.

Said Alice Stuart's Head Man, "I guess he overslept, honey. When he comes down, tell him I'm out in the garage."

But when John came down, he seemed disinterested in the news that his father was waiting. After finishing his milk, he retreated to the stonewall where he began to build a block fort for his army of lead soldiers.

His mother asked, casually as possible, "Why aren't you working on the Project this morning?"

"Because," said her son, "Because why?" she pressed bravely.

With great care, John placed a general at the head of his troops. "Because," he said, "I don't like to bring Daddy nails and putty and stuff. I hafta make things too."

Later, Bill Stuart groaned when he heard it. "Well, what do you know?" he said slowly. "Want to boil me in oil?"

His wife kissed him. "No oil," she said. "But if you could remember that we have two self-respecting men in the family..."

John's father drew a deep breath. "Yes," he said. "Seems like I see I better keep it in mind."

This striking pajama combination of checked pattern top and solid color pants reflects the sport shirt trend in pajamas. Trim on low set pockets and collar impart a sporting air to the ensemble.

Shirt Inspires Pajama Design

The sports shirt type pajama for relaxation at home is getting a big play in bright colors and novelty patterns this fall. Checked pattern tops are coordinated with solid color pants to create a sporting effect. Red, blue, black are among the popular shades.

Cooler climates favor flannel finish ski type pajamas. Grey rope pattern is popular with red trim.

Novelty pajamas always make an ideal Christmas gift. This season patterns are bold. Colors are bright. Silk, fine cotton, broadcloth and washable man-made fibers are among the wide choice of fabrics available in pajamas for Christmas gifts.

Among the novelty pajamas is a fireman in bright red against a white background. This pattern shows up in a cotton flannel ball-brigant style. The night cap can be obtained at a slightly extra charge. Many novelty pajamas are made in junior sizes for boys and women.

One of the little kindnesses we can do others is to introduce ourselves if we suspect the person to whom we are talking may not remember our name.

Anything that we can do to save another person possible embarrassment comes under the heading of "good manners."

Called Out of Town
Mrs. Claud Coons of North Johnstown avenue has been called to Wilkesburg, Pa., due to the death of her mother, Mrs. Anna Mitchell.

Well, cube or square, let's investigate the charge. What I said was that I'm glad not to be growing up amid the destructive influences that surround modern youth. If The Gang has withstood these influences, I'm glad, and I'm sure plenty of young people have.

We don't hear as much about them as we do about certain others such as the boys of "good middle-class" homes who not long ago shocked the country by torturing and killing helpless girls and old men for no reason except thrills.

Of Teen Problem
Learning Proper Respect Is First Step in Solution

I've been called many names in my time but never before a square. I find that it means a know-nothing, but also, dear Gang, I discover that it is very old-hat in these parts, having given place some time ago to "cube."

A Kansas City mother, Mrs. George Barrett, writes that in her town, one group is meeting the problem of delinquency and inadequate homes with a series of educational courses for parents. A recent schedule included lectures on what constitutes a good home and how to help a child shoulder responsibility.

"It's very heartwarming to see a mother, troubled by some situation with which she doesn't know how to deal, bring it to the group and there find warm understanding and perhaps a dozen suggestions that have worked for someone else," Mrs. Barrett commented.

A. M. of Detroit is 21, recently married, and disturbed about the kind of a world her children, when she has them, will live in. Of one thing she is pretty sure: "If you look down deep into this matter, you will find there is something missing in the home," she opines. "And something else I believe is that if delinquents had gone to church and Sunday School, they wouldn't become delinquents, for they would have learned respect for people and their property."

I say amen to that heartening expression from a member of the younger generation.

Presbyterian Group Has Recent Meeting
Mrs. Catharine Fessant was hostess in the Silver Lake road home of her daughter, Mrs. Harold Schram for a recent meeting of the September-October Group of First Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Fessant was assisted by Mrs. Gilman Green and Elizabeth Thorpe.

In both cases police were called, but the episodes were brushed up. Several letters have told of similar alarming instances of destruction and looting in other communities. Among the writers were young people, parents and educators. Some thought my point of view exaggerated and were defensive. But many agreed and realized that I am not blaming anyone in particular for the state of the world but am mighty unhappy about it, as they are, too.

Fifteen-year-old Barbara from Bethesda, Md., stands up stoutly for her own parents and those of her friends and maintains that the greater part of America's youth are "proud of America and our heritage and do not contribute to its corruption in any way." I certainly hope so, Barbara, we'd all be ready really to give up if we thought otherwise.

Sign Name to Ease Formality

Personal Card Is Friendlier With 'Miss' Crossed Out

By EMILY POST

A letter says: "Whenever I have occasion to give a present, I always enclose my personal card and leave the card exactly as is, writing a suitable message either above, or below, my name."

A friend tells me that this is incorrect and that a line should be drawn through the Miss. I insist that leaving the Miss on is entirely correct since a friendly message has been added. Will you please tell me which one of us is right?"

Taking it for granted that you write a message to which you sign your name, you are right. If your engraved name takes the place of a signature, the "Miss" should be stricken off.

Dear Mrs. Post: Someone just told me that at a correctly set table even though one person dines alone, four places should be set. To me this sounds just about as senseless as anything I've ever heard, and if it's so, then I think etiquette is pretty frilly. I'd come to believe it was based on common sense. Is the person who told me this right?

It is quite true that according to correct formal service, a dining table is never set with less than four places. This is merely because a balanced arrangement is most attractive. I agree this formality would be senseless to exact by those whose houses are not run strictly according to formal pattern.

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please settle the following question: Before asking a girl to dance, is it necessary to ask permission of the boy she is with, first, or is it sufficient to ask the girl if she would like to dance?

You do not ask permission of her partner at a large party, but if he and she are out as a twosome, you should use discretion before interrupting them.

Top Spot for Ego Not Easy to Attain

Don't Try to Boss Advise to Live—Let Live Is Given

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: I like Chet and I know he likes me, but he seems to think he can be impolite and bossy without offending others."

How can I show him that he must consider others' feelings—and do it without hurting him or causing a break-up? I'm through giving in and taking his orders!"

You're clenching your fists and pounding the table in a terrific surge of independence. You're not going to take orders from Chet any more. You're not going to give in every time. You're going to get your own way for a change or know the reason why!

A girl gets to feeling that way when her own ego struggles for the top spot. She wants to dominate. She wants her boy friend to know to her wishes. She wants to be boss and feel that she can make him do anything she wants him to.

But there must be a happy give and take between two people who like each other. Each must respect the other's right to do things in his own way. Each should be ready to give—or take—a suggestion. Each should recognize the right moments for sticking firmly to a point—or for knocking under gracefully.

At the moment you feel you've been taking more than your share. Make a big issue of it and you're likely to have a ruckus on your hands. Convince yourself first that it's only the big important things that are worth doing something about.

Then be quietly good-humored in your attack. "I'm here, too, remember? I have some ideas on the subject too—they're a bit different from yours—want to hear them?" Tease him gently when his tactics are flagrantly steamroller. Make very sure that you're always considerate of his feelings—and that he realizes you are. In time he may ease the pressure.

"Dear Miss Woodward: I've set up ideals that the boy I go steady with must live up to. Now, I like Bill—we've gone together for two months—and though he has given up smoking and drinking for the cause, I feel it isn't enough. He has no religious background or training—and on that point he thinks I'm asking too much. But I can't feel right in going steady with someone who doesn't share my religious views. We've tried not to see each other, but it doesn't work — we like each other too much. Am I asking too much, or would it be better if we broke up right now?"

Isn't it enough that you like the same flavors of icecream, the same movies, music, books and flowers? Must you be alike in every blessed detail? You like the boy as he is. Why not let him be himself instead of trying to squeeze him into a pattern of your own? If you cramp him too tight he'll vanish to lead his own life somewhere else.

Universal-International's Cinema-
Scope production of "The Black Shield of Falworth," starting today at the Oakland Theater.

Co-starred with Miss Leigh in this Technicolor adventure of medieval England are Tony Curtis, David Farrar, Barbara Rush and Hebert Marshall.

The bodice, rented especially for "The Black Shield of Falworth," is part of a collection of rare royal garments owned by the Viennese Countess Jalle Delees, a resident of the Cote d'Azur in Southern France.

The priceless piece of apparel covering the area from the waist to the bust, was fully insured for the entire period the picture was in production, being donned by Miss Leigh for key sequences in the film.

Woman Drops Gun, Sues Foes Instead

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — Mrs. Wanda
K. Sieniewski has substituted a court suit for a gun in her fight with a construction company.

She is suing the Leo G. Butler
Co. of College Park for $70,000.
About a year ago she brought company construction of sewer and water lines to a standstill by impounding its equipment behind chicken wire and standing guard with a rifle.

The 57-year-old grandmother fended off company attempts by land and water to recapture their equipment parked on her property.
She gave in after negotiations.

But she is asking $10,000 for property damage, $25,000 for trespassing and $35,000 for damages to her health.

Drug May Kill Some Cancers

Chemical Group Told Puromycin Is Showing Promise in Tests

NEW YORK (AP) — A new antibiotic, Puromycin, shows some promise of controlling some infections and certain types of cancer, the American Chemical Society was told today.

The drug may be the first in a new line of antibiotics, by changing the original formula to "tailor-made" new ones against specific germs, viruses or cancer cells, said scientists of Lederle Laboratories Division, American Cyanamid Co.

Puromycin has knocked out transplanted breast cancers in mice, and now is being tested experimentally on human cancers.

The drug was first obtained from a mold found in an old Indian mound in Wisconsin. Now it and a number of relatives have been made synthetically.

The drug apparently blocks some step in the life-processes of living cells, Lederle scientists said. In theory it may be possible to design drugs which viruses, germs or cancer cells would take in place of some essential chemical they need. The drug would become a monkey wrench tossed into the machinery of the cell or virus.

Babies a year or two years old, especially those with poor appetites, grow faster when a protein element, Lysine, is added to their diet, said Dr. Anthony A. Albanese, nutritional expert of St. Luke's Hospital, Greenwich, Conn.

Lysine is one of the amino acids, or building blocks of proteins. Dr. Albanese said infants need twice as much lysine as normal young adults, and may be failing to get enough of it.

Chemists were also shown the first public display of a chemical element which glows in the dark and has 5,000 times the radioactivity of pure radium. There's only a speck of it, as much as one grain of salt. The element is polonium, discovered by Marie and Pierre Curie, and occurs in radium ore.

Doctor Claims Alcoholism Is Blood Disease

LONDON (AP) — A leading British specialist on alcoholism says the man who boozes to excess is suffering from a "chemical condition of his blood that can be treated chemically and only chemically."

Writing in the current issue of Medical World, a journal for general practitioners, Dr. J. Y. Dent described alcoholism as a blood disease "rather similar to diabetes." He said a chemical substance called apomorphine is safe and highly effective if properly administered.

Dent is editor of the Journal of Addiction.

Family doctors, the expert advised, should explain to the alcoholic that his addiction "is not a moral lapse nor due to lack of will power."

"You must explain that he has taken drink as a medicine to treat a disease temporarily and that apomorphine treats this condition permanently, and unless he drinks again, he will need no further treatment."

For less serious addicts — the kind who can stay away from the stuff for a week without getting delirium tremens — Dent prescribes three or four days treatment at home.

Instead of that frequent martini or triple slug to calm the nerves, "the patient lies down, puts a tablet of apomorphine in the pouch of his cheek and lets it dissolve, waiting 10 minutes before swallowing."

The dosage is repeated, on a carefully regulated schedule, until the craving for drink is gone.

An inch of rain, spread over an acre of ground, totals 27.13 gallons of water.
