All Families Escape Broken Glass Safely

The area within a few hundred yards of the Pontiac Varnish Co., 30 Brush St., resembled a miniature ghost town late last night.

A small group of wood frame homes stood with windows shattered. Plastic window coverings, in shreds, blew freely in the cold November air. Curtains flapped from window frames. Dogs barked throughout the night, peeking meekly from under rubble covered porches.

The home of Saro Dilworth, 49½ Brush St., was nearest the explosion. Dilworth was not home at the time but his wife, Aleene, was home with their four children.

She said that she was sitting, rocking the baby, Charles, three months, when the explosion occurred. Another of her children, Johnny, 3, was lying on the bed across from her. They were in the upstairs room in the northeast corner of the house, closest to the blast.

Mrs. Dilworth said that all of a sudden there was a terrific roar "and all the glass came in." Every window in the house was smashed.

"I looked out and just saw a big ball of fire," said the trembling woman. "Without even stopping to think or wonder what happened, I grabbed my other baby (Johnny) and ran down stairs with them in my arms."

ONLY 1 INJURY NOTED

Showing the only visible signs of an injury among the neighbors, she limped noticeably, explaining that in her haste she had fallen and twisted her ankle running down the stairs.

Her other two boys, Gary, 6, and Raymond, 4, ran from the house with her. There was broken glass strewn throughout every room of the house, glasses and jars were thrown to the floor from shelves

Investigators Eye Macabre Deeds

A team of investigators was checking Gein's macabre confession of the slaying of Mrs. Bernice Worden, 58, operator of a Plainfield hardware store, and studying 10 human skulls found on his 160-acre farm to learn the answer to that question today.

Officers discovered the mutilated and headless body of the widowed woman hanging by the heels from a hook in Gein's woodshed and the skulls scattered around his filthy and dilapidated house.

Waushara County District Attorney Earl Kileen disclosed details of the grisly story told him by the mild-mannered bachelor about the slaying and the skulls.

Gein admitted he visited the Worden hardware store Saturday morning and made a purchase of half a gallon of automobile anti-freeze solution.

He said he suffered a mental blackout after he paid Mrs. Worden 99 cents for the anti-freeze.

Gein related that the next thing he remembered was dragging her body across the floor of the Hardware store.

He said he did not know if he struck her or shot her, but doubted that he shot her because he had no weapon with him.

Kileen reported there was a hole resembling a bullet hole in Mrs. Worden's head.

Officers found a .22 caliber revolver and two .22 caliber rifles in Gein's home.

The farmer recalled that he carried the woman's body out of the store and put it into a delivery truck.

He said he then returned to the store and carried out the cash register.

Industrial Gifts Lead UF Field

Division Has 75 Pct. of Goal, With 1 Week to Complete Drive

Continuing to lead the field in this year's Pontiac Area United Fund campaign is the Industrial Division, which has already achieved 75 per cent of their $404,273 goal.

Only one week remains before the curtain comes down on the 1957 drive, which has as its target $612,000 to serve 55 community service agencies next year.

Campaign officials point out that the Industrial Division, headed by George Watson, provides the largest bulk of the campaign funds.

The success in the division can be traced partially to the fact that salaried employes at Pontiac Motor Division have to date reached 143 per cent of their quota. The average salaried employe donation is $17.94.

Officials of the drive attribute the increased donations from salaried employes to the "Giving Yardstick." This provides a scale based on giving records compiled over the past eight years and guides the prospective donor in answering the question of how much he or she should give.

Fisher Body Division salaried employes have achieved 175 per cent of their quota, for an average donation of $18.71.

At the GMC Truck and Coach plant salaried employes have donated an average of $16.20 per worker. This amounts to 157 per cent donations from this group.

Although General Motors Corp.'s gift accounted for $115,000 of the division's $404,273 goal, some $271,729 is still needed from employes of the 10 plants making up the Pontiac Manufacturers Assn.

Blast Rocks Pontiac

BURNING TANKS — Flames leap above two tanks in the Pontiac Varnish Co. during the fire last night which followed an explosion in the pigment milling department. The blast was felt in most sections of the city.

Two Workers in Plant Get Out Unharmed

Fifth Worker in Hospital With Bad Burns; Damage Estimated at $150,000

Explosion and fire at the Pontiac Varnish Co., 30 Brush St., killed two men, caused damage estimated at more than $150,000 and rocked Pontiac's southside at 7:15 last night.

Two other employes in the factory escaped unharmed and a fifth was rushed to the hospital with critical burns as police evacuated homes around the plant and firemen struggled to prevent huge tanks of inflammable materials from igniting.

Dead are Robert Volk, 22, of 102½ S. Marshall St. and James Martin, 22, of 132 Monterey St. Afternoon shift employes, they burned to death when trapped by flames on the top floor of the two-story building.

In serious condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital was H. K. Johnson, 44, of 97 Prall St. Suffering third-degree burns, he was reported improving slightly.

Johnson, interviewed by Fire Marshal Charles Metz this morning, indicated the explosion was touched off when inflammable fumes, spreading from the basement up the elevator shaft to the second floor, were accidentally ignited.

Uninjured were Delbert F. Tharp, 47, of 6881 Westaway Rd., Troy and a cleaning woman, Mrs. Sallie Wright, of 49 Brush St.

The blast occurred in the basement.

The explosion could be felt blocks away. A frame apartment house nearby was shaken and the glass knocked out. Homes east of Saginaw street shook.

Firemen fought the blaze that followed the explosion for 40 minutes. Of immediate concern were several 15,000 gallon tanks of paint thinner in the plant yard within 30 feet of the fire.

The area around the plant was roped off and nearby residents evacuated for fear the thinner might explode. A spray of water on the tanks, however, kept them cool enough to avoid further blasts.

The company's production was halted today, but about 35 of the factory's 100 employes reported for work and began cleaning up debris at 10 a.m. today.

Officials said there was no danger of another explosion.

Martin had been employed at Pontiac Varnish Co. since August. He left a wife, Betty, and three small children, Cheryl Ann, 4; James Jr., 2; and Eddie Alan, 18 months.

A native of Pontiac, Martin was Set Examination for McGowan

Dec. 4 Is Date He Will Face Charge He Blew Up Wife's House

Examination was set for Terrance F. McGowan, 59, of 370 S. Edith St. yesterday when he appeared in Municipal Court charged with the demolition of his estranged wife's home.

McGowan pleaded innocent to a charge of attempted murder before Municipal Court Judge Maurice E. Finnegan and had his examination date set for 9:30 a.m. Dec. 4.

He was returned to the Oakland County Jail with bond set at $5,000. The incident occurred last Friday when some dynamite was thrown into the basement of his wife's home.

McGowan was later arrested when found in his car near a rooming house at which he was staying.

U.S. to Borrow Cash

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Treasury said today that one and one-half billion dollars will be borrowed this week to meet the government's cash needs and will carry the public debt almost up to the legal limit.

Convicted, but Sentence Suspended

GI Girard Will Go Free

MAEBASHI, Japan (AP)—GI William S. Girard was convicted today of shooting down a woman scrap collector to satisfy a "momentary caprice."

A three-judge Japanese court gave him a three-year suspended prison sentence and put him on probation for a fourth year.

Girard called the verdict after the three-month trial "kind of tough" but said he was glad the court "gave me another chance."

The 22-year-old soldier from Ottawa, Ill., and his Japanese bride are scheduled to leave for the United States quickly if neither prosecution nor defense appeals the verdict during the next 14 days.

The court said the probationary period would apply only if he remained in Japan. Girard also was ordered to pay the court costs of the Japanese witnesses, about $20.

NO APPEAL LIKELY

Chief defense attorney Itsuro Hayashi said the defense does not intend to appeal unless the prosecution does. A prosecution spokesman indicated his side also would not challenge the court ruling, saying, "We are happy that all our contentions were accepted."

The prosecutors had asked for a five-year sentence, which under

Ballot on Holland Annexing 4 Areas

HOLLAND (AP) — Voters were at the polls in a special election today on proposed annexation of parts of four neighboring townships in a move to consolidate 12 school districts and expand municipal services.

Approval would increase Holland's area from its present 3.1 square miles to about 40 square miles.

It also would double Holland's 16,000 population.

The vote was petitioned by residents of Holland and others in Laketon, Fillmore, Park and Holland Townships. Approval would become effective by Dec. 31.

Brewer Resigns 2 Posts to Accept New Road Job

Willis M. Brewer, accepting today the newly created post of Oakland County Road Co-ordinator, said he will resign from the Pontiac General Hospital Board of Trustees and from his position as a supervisor from Pontiac.

A member of the board since it was first formed for the hospital in 1952, Brewer has been its chairman since July.

He said he plans to retire from the board within two months.

Brewer said he has tendered his resignation as supervisor to the City Commission for possible action tonight.

Accepting the $8,500 part-time job with the Oakland County Road Commission makes it necessary for him to quit as a supervisor, a post Brewer has held for the past 10 years.

Brewer said he intends to issue a formal statement later about his resignation from the hospital board but indicated today that time and energy were factors in his decision.

A leading Pontiac Democrat, Brewer said he would continue as manager of the Secretary of State's Pontiac office, a job which pays wholly on a fee basis.

As co-ordinator, Brewer will be asked to spend part of his time in Lansing, expediting state and federal road projects in Oakland County.

Combined with his efforts as road co-ordinator, Brewer also will act as a part-time personnel director for the road commission.

Better Bundle Up, Cold Here to Stay

Cloudy and cold weather will continue in the Pontiac area, the U. S. Weather Bureau reports. Tonight will be partly cloudy to cloudy, with a low of 25-29 degrees.

The prediction for tomorrow is cloudy and continued cold, with a high of 33-37. Thursday's outlook is partly cloudy and not quite so cold.

The mercury dropped 25 degrees within six hours last night in downtown Pontiac while gusty winds up to 60 miles an hour raged through the area.

At 1 a.m. the mercury stood at 59. Dropping steadily, it reached a low of 33 at 8 a.m. which was the lowest recorded temperature in downtown Pontiac this morning. At 2 p.m. the reading was 35.

An overnight blizzard, with a snowstorm hanging over into today, forced the closing of all but two schools in Lyon and Dickinson counties. There was 12 inches of snow on the ground and snow still was falling at noon.

side it and Gein's fingerprints on the outside, was found in his home.

Gein related that he drove to the farm, took the body out of the truck and hung it in the woodshed.

He said he used a knife he had fashioned from a file to dissect the body.

The body was cleaned and dressed like a freshly butchered animal.

Kileen said Gein denied he has ever eaten human flesh, and added that he has come to no conclusion on the question of cannibalism.

Gein also told the district attorney how he acquired the skulls. Kileen said:

"Gein told me that each of the 10 skulls belonged to a woman whose body had been dug up from a cemetery.

"He said he waited for the weekly newspaper which contained the death notices. After a woman had been buried he would go to the cemetery, dig up the grave and remove the head. Then he would put the body back into the coffin, lower it into the grave and cover it with dirt."

Kileen added that Gein described himself as "going into a daze" when he would commit "these grave robbing acts."

The district attorney said Gein would be taken to Madison, Wis., possibly today or tomorrow, for a lie detector test.

The farmer was arraigned yesterday on a technical charge of stealing Mrs. Worden's cash register and held on $10,000 bail.

Kileein said that on a later date he will ask that Gein be charged with murder, but added that he expected the farmer will be adjudged mentally incapable of standing trial.

Police Seek Assailant After Fatal Stabbing

Pontiac Police are searching for a man who stabbed and killed a Pontiac resident and then fled the scene shortly after noon today.

The slain man was Freddie D. Rhimes, 28, of 312 Hughes St., who was at a party at the home of Marion Huddleston, 415 Bloomfield St. Rhimes' assailant has not yet been identified by detectives.

Rhimes was rushed to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital where he died moments later. He was wounded in the abdomen, said detectives.

Know the Weather

By E. H. SIMS

Why does a weather change so often affect the sinuses or the ears?

When the weather changes, the pressure also changes, as a usual thing. When a clear spell comes to an end and rainy, low-pressure weather begins, those who experience ear or sinus trouble often experience discomfort.

This is because there are pockets of air in our head, or sinuses, which become blocked off. The pressure inside becomes greater than outside when the barometer falls (and a low-pressure system arrives overhead) and expands the pockets.

A doctor will open them up, or equalize the pressure. The eustachian tube in the ear is a natural safety valve to allow air in and out of the ear. If it is closed by a swelling or a bad cold, then you risk puncturing your ear drum if you fly at a high altitude.

Damage Runs Into Millions

National Guard Called Out in Kentucky to Aid Flood Victims

CHICAGO (INS) — Rain, winds, tornadoes, flash floods, lightning and heavy snowstorms continued to cripple the mid-continent today where at least 27 persons have perished in three days.

Property damage ran into the millions from the foul November weather which is showing signs of abatement as it rumbles northeastward while dipping into the Southeast on its way toward the Atlantic coastline.

HUNDREDS HOMELESS

Flash floods in Kentucky and Missouri that followed six days of intermittent rain left hundreds homeless and National Guardsmen were called out to aid evacuees in Kentucky.

Tornadoes in Alabama, Kentucky, Tennessee and Mississippi accounted for at least six of the deaths. Nebraska listed six others dead in snowbound highways. Lightning killed a 24-year-old mother in Somerset, Ky., and a 10-year-old Greenville, Ky., girl who was in bed.

Heavy falling snow edged northeastward during the night. Iowa, southern Minnesota, northern Wisconsin and upper Michigan listed depths of eight to 11 inches. Strong northwesterly winds with gusts up to near 50 miles an hour caused drifting and cut visibility to near zero. Travel in that area was almost impossible and highway authorities considered calling snow plows off the roads in some areas for safety's sake.

WINDS DIMINISH

Winds diminished to the south but succeeded in pushing cold Canadian air through Texas to the Gulf Coast. The leading edge of the cold air extended from Wisconsin through western Ohio, eastern Tennessee, central Georgia and northwest Florida. Temperatures plunged rapidly in the wake of the shivering winds.

The heavy snow is expected to move northeastward during the day with the snow gradually ending from the Southwest and becoming light snow or snow flurries later today. The flurries will spread over most of the Great Lakes. Showers or thundershowers are forecast from New England southward along the Atlantic Coast.

Cooler air also will spread eastward into the Southeast and western portions of New England during the day. In the western plains and Rockies, generally warming will take place while there is little change predicted in temperatures elsewhere. Snow flurries will continue in the northern plateaus and Rockies.

Some early morning temperatures: Boston 46, rain; New York City 55, rain; Washington 54, fog; Atlanta 63, cloudy; Miami 72, partly cloudy; Dallas 38, clear; Detroit 37, cloudy; Minneapolis 24, snow; Des Moines, Ia., 25, snow; Seattle 42, rain; San Francisco 54, cloudy; Los Angeles 55, clear; Phoenix 44, clear, and Chicago 33, snow flurries.

Tornadic winds that struck through Alabama caused the death of a disabled miner and a farmer near Oneconta, Ala. A woman was blown into a stream and drowned 50 miles north of Birmingham. Two other tornado deaths also were reported in the state.

Several Kentucky towns reported water several feet deep in streets from flash floods. Floods also plagued southeastern Missouri, disrupting the fall harvest.

In Nashville, Tenn., heavy winds toppled a chimney onto the roof of an elementary school, temporarily trapping a roomful of children. The teacher was injured slightly and one boy suffered a broken leg.

Slick ice and snow covered highways in Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Minnesota increasing traffic deaths.

REMOVE VICTIM — Police and volunteer helpers carry the body of one of the two men killed in the Pontiac Varnish Co. explosion and fire last night.

Paint Factory Explosion, Fire Kills Two Workers

the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Martin of 118 Omar St.

Volk, also 22, started with the firm the same day as Martin. They shared the ride to work regularly.

According to Volk's wife, Norma, both men were hired to fill vacancies caused by an explosion in July which injured several workers at the mill section.

Volk leaves two children, Darlene Sue, 4 months old, and Lori Lynn, three years old.

Employed as a bookkeeper at Community National Bank, Mrs. Volk was taken to Pontiac General Hospital by the police when she collapsed after being told of her husband's death. She was released to spend the night with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Austin, 236 Going St.

The injured man, H. K. Johnson, has been employed at Pontiac Varnish for 15 years. He reported on the 6 p.m. shift, according to his sister-in-law, Blanche Sullivan, and was scheduled to work until 7 a.m.

Johnson has four children ranging in age from 7 to 12.

The blast scattered debris over a three hundred yard radius, sheared beams and blew out window frames and parts of the walls. The intense heat melted one auxiliary fireman's fiberglas helmet.

According to George K. Zimmerman, vice president, the firm recognized the danger in the milling operation and had provided "every possible safety device." Zimmerman declined to estimate the damage or the cause.

There have been several fires in the mill area previously and five years ago a small blast burned a worker in that section of the Biallis, foreman.

Almost the entire Pontiac Fire Dept. turned out for the emergency assisted by the Bloomfield Township Fire Dept., 28 Pontiac police officers, 15 state troopers, and a number of sheriff's deputies.

Johnson told Metz this morning that he had been in the basement of the building drawing chemicals when he smelled fumes, indicating the explosive solvents were evaporating because his mixer was hot.

"I opened the basement windows, which is the procedure when there are fumes, then took the elevator up to the top floor and warned the two men there (Volk and Martin) not to light any matches in the basement."

About 20 minutes later, Johnson went back down to the basement and could not smell the fumes any more.

Metz believed that the basement at this time was so filled with fumes that they were paralyzing Johnson's sense of smell.

Johnson said he flipped the electric switch to start his mixing machine.

"There was a tremendous explosion," he said. "I was knocked to the floor, my clothes burning. I got up and made my way towards the front door."

Metz believed that wind blowing in the basement windows had pushed the fumes up the elevator shaft to the second floor.

"The explosion ripped from the basement right up the shaft, causing the most damage on the top floor," he said.

Mrs. Wright told police she was in the front office at the time of the explosion.

"I ran right out the front door and got away from there as fast as I could," she said.

Tharp, a mill operator at the plant 12 years, said he was in the central portion of the first floor when the explosion occurred.

"I was drawing chemicals off into a mixer when all of a sudden, kerploom! All the lights went out and the machinery stopped working.

"It was a terrible roar. I knew at once it was an explosion but I didn't know where or why it occurred."

Tharp said he made his way through the darkness, stumbling over debris, to the fire alarm box, pulled the alarm, and then started hunting for his three co-workers.

"I called and called, then finally I saw H. K. (Johnson) stumbling towards me from the rear. There already were flames there.

"I helped H. K. out the front door, then went back in and called to the others. But they never answered."

Tharp, the father of one son, agreed with firemen that it was a "miracle" that he emerged from the explosion unscratched.

In an official statement this morning, Frank Arnoldi, the company's secretary-treasurer, said the estimated damage was "less than $200,000" and fully covered by insurance.

"First reports of damage were exaggerated," Arnoldi said. "An inspection of the damage today showed that most of the machinery is repairable, or unharmed."

Arnoldi said that other paint firms had agreed to make up any loss in production at the Pontiac plant. The state's third largest paint factory, Pontiac Varnish Co. produces paint for three major automobile manufacturers.

Arnoldi had praise for Pontiac firemen. "They showed great skill in hosing the inflammable materials out of the building into the open, where they would not explode," he said.

Girard Receives Suspended Term

Japanese custom would have ruled out a suspension.

Girard, a specialist third class, told a news conference he would like to re-enlist when his term expires Jan. 27.

An Army spokesman said any re-enlistment application would be judged on its merits, although conviction for a felony normally rules out an applicant.

U. S. officials said a visa application for Girard's wife Haru (Candy) "is being processed normally and we see no complications."

Candy, meanwhile, was hiding from reporters.

LITTLE REACTION

Although the case at its outset had created a furor in Japan and America and a crisis in U. S.-Japanese relations, there was little immediate public reaction to its outcome.

The newspaper Asahi said the friends and neighbors of Mrs. Naka Sakai, victim of Girard's shot last Jan. 30 on an Army firing range, were "almost heartlessly indifferent and said they could not understand why there was so much fuss about it."

The Girard case attracted worldwide attention when veterans' groups and some newspapers and congressmen in the United States protested the Army's turning the soldier over to a Japanese court.

The State Department was particularly concerned about congressional attacks on the status-of-force agreements providing for foreign trials of servicemen for offenses committed off duty.

The fuss finally subsided after the U. S. Supreme Court ruled there was no constitutional bar to letting Japan try Girard.

The Japanese trial court criticized the scrap collectors and the Army. Judge Kawachi said the Army "showed practically no concern" in disposing of empty shell casings, which Japanese scavengers swarmed over firing ranges to collect for sale.

POSSIBLE 15 YEARS

Girard was convicted of causing "bodily injury resulting in death," the Japanese equivalent of manslaughter. He faced a possible prison term of 2 to 15 years.

General Says It'll Take 3-5 Years to Catch Up

Cars Hanging Over Bridge

Train Derailed in East

MEDFORD, Mass. (AP)—The locomotive and 11 cars of a Boston & Maine train from Montreal were derailed today at an overpass in this Boston suburb. The locomotive fell into a street and two cars hung over the bridge into the street.

The derailment of the train—the Red Wing—occurred at the Harvard St. and Boston Ave., overpass.

Police received reports of injuries to personnel and passengers and ordered emergency vehicles and ambulances to the scene.

A nearby printing plant was turned into an emergency first aid station.

The engineer, Harold J. Donforth, was killed. A priest reported that the fireman also had been killed. His name was not immediately learned.

An automobile passing under the bridge was struck by the locomotive as it fell to the street but occupants of the car escaped serious injury.

and cabinets, plaster had fallen from walls, and belongings were scattered by the force of the explosion.

In seemingly the most inaccessible part of the house, the rear hall, a wedge of glass stood out from a wood-paneled wall it had pierced. The chimney was toppled on a parked car, smashing the windshield and rear window and denting the top.

A smaller one-story frame house behind the Dilworth's at 53 Brush St. was relatively unharmed, except for a few shattered windows. The residents, Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Lyons, were uninjured. Mrs. Lyons was at home with their four children when the blast occurred.

The two story frame home of Eugene Williams, 50, at 57 Brush St., directly to the west of the Dilworth home, was hard hit.

Williams said he was upstairs in bed watching television at the time. His wife, Anna Mae, and three children, were downstairs.

KNOCKS GIRL DOWN

"The force was terrific," he said. "It knocked one of my girls down and stunned me for a moment, but then I quickly regained my senses and realized what had happened."

He said his wife and the girls were "scared almost into spasms" and had already run from the house to their car, crying by the time he got downstairs.

"I was so excited I didn't even notice I was still in my pajamas when I reached the car," he continued.

"There was a lot of fire leaping from the building. The flames were shooting up through the second story," he said. His children, Thelma Jean, 13, Barbara Jean, 11, and Rita Jean, 5, were frightened but uninjured.

The last structure in the immediate area was the Pontiac Sheet Metal & Roofing Co., 71 Brush St. Being furthest from the blast, it escaped with only several windows shattered by the blow.

DETROIT (INS) — A bandit robbed a diamond merchant of $500,000 worth of diamonds today in the lobby of a downtown Detroit office building.

Max Manderer, 47, of New York, was forced to drop his brief case containing the diamonds when the bandit blinded him with a shot from a tear-gas gun.

Manderer said he chased the man outside the building and saw him drive away in a blue car.

The diamond salesman then hailed a taxi and went to police headquarters. He later was taken to Receiving Hospital to have the tear gas washed from his eyes.

A dozen Detroit police holdup squad detectives were immediately assigned to the case, and a description of the bandit was teletyped throughout Michigan.

Ecorse Aides Still In WASHINGTON (INS) — The U.S. Supreme Court yesterday dismissed removal proceedings against former Ecorse Mayor William W. Voisine and three of the city's councilmen as a moot issue.

The Day in Birmingham

Department Store Sites Urged at Zoning Session

BIRMINGHAM — Fred Pew, Birmingham real estate dealer, asked city commissioners and Herbert Herzberg, city planner, to reconsider one phase of the proposed new zoning ordinance, at last night's public hearing, fifth in a series on the ordinance.

Pew said that, in his opinion, areas set aside for neighborhood shopping centers could often be put to better use as department store sites.

"One shopping center under one roof with ample parking space seems the best idea as far as I can see," Pew said. "The development of several stores will see a number of types of buildings and will not give the pleasing appearance of one well planned large store."

Pew also asked that consideration be given for some of the items in the so-called "buffer zone."

He pointed out that businesses such as doctors offices and other related enterprises can create a definite traffic problem for residential areas.

They argue that traffic is already a problem and such a development will increase it drastically.

At the suggestion of Herzberg, another hearing will be held next Monday night for the public discussion of several administrative features.

Birmingham will begin negotiations immediately for the purchase of its entire water supply from the Southeastern Oakland County Water Authority.

Two wells, Southfield and Wakefield, will be maintained and kept in complete readiness for use in an emergency.

While Commissioner Charles Delbridge attended the weekly session last night, thieves ransacked furnishings at his new home, 412 Hanna St.

Police said so far as has been determined, nothing was taken.

Also last night, an unknown sum of cash and a bolt of cashmere cloth was stolen from Gwynn's at 112 South Woodward.

Friends of the Baldwin Public Library will hear Tom Paterson, director of planning of the Stratford, Ont., Drama Festival, at 8:15 p.m. next Monday, Nov. 25, at the library auditorium. His subject will be "An Innocent in the Theater."

Through error, it was earlier announced in this column that Mr. Patterson would speak Nov. 18.

DAVID R. BURTON

Was Sales Manager of Eaton Co. Stamping Division

David R. Burton, 47, of 104 Brookwood Dr., Birmingham, died Sunday at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac, after a short illness.

Born in Cleveland, Ohio, he had lived in Birmingham for 10 years, after 13 years in Detroit and Gross Pointe.

He attended Taft Preparatory School, Connecticut, and was graduated from Yale University in 1933.

In 1951 he became sales manager for the Stamping Division of the Eaton Manufacturing Co. and was a member of the Orchard Lake Country Club. He served with the Navy as a lieutenant commander in World War II.

Mr. Burton is survived by his wife, Louise A.; a son, Jonathan Prescott; one daughter, Kathy Adams; and a sister, Katherine Burton.

His body will be at the Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co. until 10 a.m. Wednesday, when service will be held at Christ Church, Cranbrook.

Burial will be in White Chapel Memorial Cemetery. The family suggests memorial tributes be sent to the United Foundation.

Judith E. Becker

Service for Judith Eileen Becker, 13, of 911 Dedham St., Bloomfield Hills, will be at 1 p.m. tomorrow at Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co. Burial will be in White Chapel Memorial Cemetery. She died Sunday in Receiving Hospital, Detroit.

She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Becker Jr., and two brothers, Michael and Paul.

Foreign Minister of West Germany Will Visit Dulles

BONN, Germany (AP) — West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano will fly to Washington Friday to confer with Secretary of State Dulles.

A Foreign Office spokesman said Von Brentano was going for "general political talks."

He will go from Rome, where he arrived today with President Theodor Heuss. The latter is making a state visit to Italy.

A spokesman for the German Embassy in Rome said Von Brentano would return there early next week to accompany Heuss when he has an audience next Wednesday with Pope Pius XII.

The Foreign Office said the trip to Washington was arranged after Chancellor Konrad Adenauer reappointed Von Brentano foreign minister three weeks ago.

Von Brentano was last in Washington in March, when he conferred with Dulles after visits to Australia and India.

Regarding what they would talk about, official sources would say only there is "plenty to talk about," including Russia's scientific advances, the crisis in NATO and preparations for the summit meeting of NATO heads of government in Paris in December.

Predicts Wolves at Nikita's Heels Will Pull Him Down in 6 Months

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Correspondent

Speculation as to when these wolves will close in for the kill is one of the most intriguing items on the agenda of U. S. intelligence sources. I myself have followed Russian events closely since 1932 and would be greatly surprised if Nikita is ruler of Russia in six months.

For all his apparent successes, the hard-drinking Communist boss is not the dictator at 63 that Stalin was at 50. Russian experts here point out that Stalin became steadily stronger as a result of 10 years of Oriental intrigue and blood purges. Khrushchev becomes in their view, steadily more isolated by each successive purge.

TOASTS VICTORY

True he sits at the top, toasting his gaudy space rockets in vodka, but he won only a token victory when he ousted Marshal Georgi Zhukov as defense minister. The marshals and generals retain the balance of power—Nikita lopped off the top leaving the tree untouched.

To whom can Khrushchev turn for support? It may serve the purpose of Marshal Ivan Konev and his coterie of high-ranking officers to keep him in power for the present—but how long?

Reports from Moscow indicate that Konev, who helped achieve the disgrace of Zhukov, no longer sees eye-to-eye with Khrushchev.

If events follow the usual pattern it would seem that one day soon Nikita must move to purge Ivan lest Ivan purge him. In such event one must conclude that Konev is no small antagonist. He's a barrel-chested professional soldier of 59 who commands the Warsaw Pact armies, 6,000,000 Soviet and satellite soldiers.

EYES TECHNOCRATS

In the event of a clash with Konev, tainly look for friendship from the so-called new ruling class of Russia, the bureaucrats and technocrats whose representatives on the Presidium were Georgi Malenkov, V. M. Molotov and Lazar M. Kaganovitch. These are in exile and their followers are without voice.

And a new wolf has just moved up into the ring around Khrushchev, the 55-year-old fanatic, Mikhail Suslov. After several years in eclipse, Suslov is emerging as a representative of the Stalinist elements and as a contender for the Stalin mantle.

I watched this ruthless operator five years ago in East Berlin and tagged him then as one who would go a long way in Communist ruling circles.

And what of another "wolf" cruising just outside the ring but always ready to move in for the kill, the worldly-wise Armenian, Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan? He, at 62, is the only Stalin protege who still survives within the inner group. He never comes to the fore for personal glory—or blame.

ORIENTAL TRADER

Like the crafty Oriental trader he is, he timed his shift from the side of Malenkov and Molotov to the side of Khrushchev with exquisite perfection. A moment earlier he might have wound up in Siberia; a moment later he might have qualified for manager of a rug factory in Azerbaidzhan.

Intelligence sources believe Mikoyan may be casting sidelong glances about him preparatory to another quick-step shift — this time away from Nikita.

Analysis of Khrushchev's recent utterances would seem to indicate that he is making a heavy play for support of the old Stalin crowd. Can he win them back? I doubt it.

It was he who shocked the civilized world and unleashed a wave of revolt in the satellite nations by his lengthy publication of Stalin's mad crimes to the 20th Soviet party congress.

SLANDERS JOE NOW

Now he takes every opportunity to castigate Stalin's "inveterate slanderers." Even in a nation accustomed to confession and self-criticism this must have the hollow sound of insincerity.

As former U. S. Ambassador to Russia George F. Kennan said, "Khrushchev has achieved the pinnacle of power he wanted," but he is "very isolated up there and the winds around him are becoming increasingly chilly."

Can Khrushchev stay on the top until his natural death? For the present he is riding high. The success of Russia's Sputniks has increased his prestige throughout the world. Nevertheless, there is increasing evidence that the "chill winds" are beginning to blow harder.

Not even Moscow's scientific achievements can hide the fact that Khrushchev is facing continuous economic troubles — against a background of deepening political unrest. The industrial goals he hopes Russia will achieve by 1972 indicates at least 15 years more of misery and sacrifice by Russian consumers.

More important is the evidence that in Russia, as in Soviet-dominated Eastern Europe, powerful forces for revolutionary change are already in motion.

Russia, of course, is not yet on the brink of an anti-Communist revolution. But already Khrushchev must fight to control the new revolutionary forces which, though still only partly liberated, are sweeping before them old landmarks like an advancing tide.

It is the relentless advance of these forces that the perennial blowups in the Kremlin reflect and might sweep Khrushchev out of power.

Called Secretary 'Unguided Missile'

Adlai Now Dulles' Guide

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — You never would have guessed during the 1956 presidential campaign that it could happen.

But yesterday Adlai Stevenson became a guide for the man he called "an unguided missile" in 1956, Secretary of State Dulles.

That was quite a campaign last year.

Dulles himself kept quiet while Stevenson blasted President Eisenhower and secretary on foreign policy and Eisenhower replied in kind.

Actually the Eisenhower-Dulles and Stevenson differences were more of degree than of kind. The campaign oratory magnified them.

The three men have the same general view of foreign policy. They disagree more on details than on general needs.

Time passes. This country needs to find ways to strengthen its ties with its allies in NATO—the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

And the Eisenhower administration, wanting support from Democrats as well as Republicans, asked Stevenson to help out as a consultant.

Stevenson will work without pay. After talking with Dulles yesterday, and being assigned an office across the hall from him, Stevenson said of the meeting: "Very encouraging."

He added that Dulles was "extremely cordial and friendly."

This was quite a switch from 1956 when these were some of the things Stevenson was saying about the Eisenhower-Dulles handling of foreign affairs:

And he complained because Eisenhower wouldn't agree to some of his suggestions, such as stopping H-bomb tests.

"New ideas," he said, "are dismissed with epithets, abuse and distortion."

Besides the "unguided missile" crack, Stevenson derided Dulles as a man who talked "slogans" and "dangerous nonsense" and had been kept in the political ball game "just one brink too long."

Instead of himself asking Stevenson to help out now, Eisenhower let Dulles do the asking. But once Stevenson accepted, Eisenhower sent him a note which said: "Delighted you and Foster will be getting together."

And he said he hoped to join later in conferences with Stevenson.

It wasn't that way in 1956. Then Eisenhower was saying about Stevenson and other Democrats: "Anguished politicians" and "men of fretting fear" who are spreading "smog" and "bunk" and "wicked nonsense" and "incredible folly" with their "big straddle" and "rubber yardsticks" and their "reckless oratory."

Still, 1956 was a milder campaign than 1952.

Mental illness is the greatest health problem of the United States with 750,000 patients being confined in hospitals today. Authorities say that with adequate care, 65 per cent can recover and return to full, useful lives.

Bob Considine Says:

Crowds Visit Lenin Tomb, Rain or Shine

By BOB CONSIDINE

MOSCOW (INS) — All quiet on the Eastern front. It is Sunday as this is written. Dazzling sun has warmed up Moscow to within ten degrees below freezing. It makes bright gold torches of the Byzantine church towers behind the high dull-red Kremlin wall. All Moscow turned out seemingly by 10 a.m., bundled and apple-cheeked. But something was missing and it haunted us for a time until suddenly we knew.

There wasn't a churchbell sounding in town.

But the ritual of visiting the tomb of Lenin and Stalin engrossed tens of thousands through the day. Rain or shine the silent, orderly line of people inching into the Mausoleum on Red Square seldom was under a half mile long. There was another all but endless queue formed two hours before the opening exhibition of modern painting at a nearby gallery which once was the Czar's riding academy.

Mobs and mobs of shoppers wandered through Gum, the huge, state-owned department store, which, like most everything else here, is open on Sundays.

PAY HIGH PRICES

Prices are high. A shopper for sable pelts finds it is required that he purchases $750 worth of them at $15 per pelt with no question of their matching. Fanciers of handsome, hand-painted traditional lacquered miniature boxes pay up to $400. But they move, as they say in merchandising.

All the blood left my face the other day when a small lacquer job I fancied for my wife, suitable for bobby pins, turned out to cost 200 bucks. But a Russian fellow dressed like the hero in a late, late, late show on TV stepped up and bought it — dealing out hundred-ruble notes from under a threadbare coat sleeve.

The problem of an American touring here was outlined to me today by a friend in the travel agency business, a nice woman named Ide Schmidt. Mrs. Schmidt, an attractive brunette, has an agency in New York which specializes in the Far East and other offbeat tourist areas.

She has been visiting Russia in line with her firm belief that a travel agent should go out in advance of people he or she sends abroad and find out just what the housing, food and travel conditions are.

She thinks Russia will be a new "place to go" for the jaded American tourist. Matter of fact, she said, 117 students of the University of Southern California are already booked to come here next August. She predicts many student groups will follow them, in addition to inveterate American Travelers who want to see a new place.

Her problem as trailblazer is to simplify travel to align it with the American gadabout who demands certain creature comforts either not available here or reluctnaly given.

"The National Hotel is fine and so are the Metropole and a couple of others in Moscow. But I wouldn't book a dog in the Savoy," Mrs. Schmidt told us. But they're putting up a 2,000-room hotel here now and it will in time take care of lots of Americans.

The thing they've got to understand is that our travelers don't like the business of buying scrip book for $300 in New York before leaving and never knowing what hotel they're staying at until an Intourist man meets them as they arrive in Moscow. No other way to get here. You must be met.

Americans will wonder why they can't use scrip book to have a drink and do other things, since it is all money. They'll wonder why they get only four rubles per dollar when they buy in New York and ten per dollar once they're here.

Nevertheless, they'll like this place. It's just so different. Take television, for instance. The show for kids is on only one hour a day and it's educational. Take comic books for example. There aren't any. Take the wonderful subway. You can ride all day for two cents more.

The only disturbance noted here since our arrival happened at the above-mentioned Metropole Hotel one night at the height of the celebration over the fortieth anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution. A celebrant immersed in vodga attempted to leave the hotel through revolving doors in clockwise fashion instead of the internationally-accepted traffic pattern of counter-clockwise.

The ancient rubber buffers on the old door refused to change shape to go the other way. The doors stuck like granite and our boy struggled manfully to undo same.

The doorman at the hotel was completely unnerved by this defection from normal and put his shoulder against one blade of the revolving door, pushing in the regular clockwise manner.

Our favorite non-conformist threw no punches, wasn't obstreperous in the least, just wanted once in his life to go through a revolving door the other way. His name was Legion.

Ivan Legion.

Nice sort. Just can't handle the stuff.

Norway's 40,000 merchant sailors, who already have an around-the-world football league, playing in many ports, will start a world-wide chess tournament, Olso learns.

Security for You

Women Workers Face Hard Decision

By RAY HENRY

"Dear Mr. Henry: My Husband works for the railroad and doesn't plan to quit until he's 70. For about ten years, I worked as a grocery store clerk. A month ago, a new manager was hired and he let me go. He didn't say so, but I'm sure he felt I was too old to do much of the work in the store. I'm 63 this month. Do you think I should start my Social Security now or wait until I'm 65? Mrs. B. B."

Your question, Mrs. B.B., is one which I'm often asked and which hundreds of thousands of women will face as long as the Social Security law is written the way it is.

Unfortunately, there's no pat answer. To give an answer, I'd have to know how long each of the women will live. Since this isn't possible, the best I can do is explain how the Social Security law works and let them make their own decisions.

Here's the story:

Under the law, a retired woman who has earned the right to Social Security because of her own work may collect monthly payments at any time after she reaches 62.

But, if she chooses to draw the payments between 62 and 65, her payments are smaller than if she'd waited until she reached 65.

How much smaller depends on the number of months she starts collecting before she reaches 65.

80 PERCENT AT 62

If she starts them as soon as she reaches 62, each monthly check will be 80 per cent of what she could get if she had waited until she reached 65.

For each month she waits after she reaches 62 to start her payments, the payments will be five-ninths of one percent higher.

Once she starts them before reaching 65, the payments will always be the same size even after she reaches 65 — unless she goes back to work or becomes entitled to higher payments as a widow or wife.

In any case, if she chooses to take her payments at any time between 62 and 65, she'll be money ahead for at least the following 15 years.

Now, Mrs. B.B., let's apply the law to your specific question. Your situation is a good general example for most women who've worked under Social Security.

For the sake of explanation, assume that your work entitles you to monthly payments of $88.50 at 65.

Here are the choices you face:

1. You can now — at 63 — start collecting monthly payments of $76.70 a month based on the payment reduction formula in the Social Security law. In the 24 months before you reach 65, you'll have collected a total of $1,840.80 ($76.70 times 24 months).

2. Or you can wait until you reach 65 to start drawing the full payments of $88.50 a month. Your payments will always be $11.80 a month higher than if you had started to draw them at 63.

Thus, the question boils down to this: How long would it take you to make up the $1,840.80 by taking your payments now with payments at 65 which are $11.80 a month higher.

The answer: 156 months or exactly 13 years after you reach 65.

So, if you figure you'll live to be 78, then, you should wait until you're 65 to start drawing your payments.

Marine Found Guilty in Beating

Convicted on Charge of Roughing Up Sailors; Another Acquitted

YOKOSUKA, Japan (AP) — One Texas Marine was convicted and one acquitted by a U.S. Navy court-martial today on charges of roughing up American sailors in a brig at Sasebo naval base.

Cpl. James T. Ray, 21, Texas City, was sentenced to 15 days at hard labor without confinement, forefeiture of $30 pay, and reduction in rank to private first class for punching a prisoner in the stomach. He was found innocent of a second charged filed by another sailor.

Sgt. Bobby Phillips, 22, Tyler, was cleared of a similar charge of striking a sailor.

Ray's sentence is subject to review.

The Texas Leathernecks are among 16 Marines being court-martialed for alleged brutality at the south Japan base. So far three have been convicted and two acquitted.

Ray was convicted on testimony of Seaman Donald Cherry, 21, Chicago. Cherry, who was convicted for using marijuana and heroin aboard ship, told of being punched "a definite blow" in the stomach by Ray.

Phillips was cleared of a charge of punching Curtis Tisdell, 22, Houston, Tex. Another Marine, Sgt. Robert J. Irvin, Newark, N.J. told the court Phillips was not on duty at the time.

Need for Regulation Covering Speedboats

Area residents that have been concerned in the past with the increased use of speedboats on our county lakes should start action now.

Next summer will be too late.

Legislation to control speedboats should be passed this winter or early in the spring. Uncontrolled speedboat operation on our inland lakes is fast becoming a menace.

True, this question can be argued both ways, but the cold facts point out that we have had increased accidents in recent years as a result of motorboats.

Operators of powerboats in general should not take offense since they are not all at fault. It is the few that operate without caution that have caused the uproar from many of our lakes.

The increase in power of outboard motors has contributed greatly to hazard. Many of the boats are so fast and powerful that it requires much more than a rank amateur to operate them.

Boats traveling at high rates of speed are unable in many instances to see swimmers and consequently accidents have occurred. The swimmers, like the fishermen, have a perfect right to use the lake.

Someone swimming in the water or fishing from an anchored boat is completely helpless when the careless motorboat bears down on them.

Far too many people are being injured, and many of them seriously, as a result of being hit or run down by fast speedboats. In some cases, the powerful boats are needed. Water skiing is an example. In order to tow one or two skiers it is necessary to have a minimum of 25 horsepower motor.

Certainly the water skiers have as much business on the lakes as anyone else. Legislation to ban them would be unfair. But at the same time, some type of control is needed.

We regulate traffic on our highways and also in the air. Water traffic should come next. The increase in boating and popularity of the sport demand action.

Before another season and more accidents occur, the Michigan State Conservation Commission should study this problem. This Commission is directly responsible for all lakes and rivers in the State of Michigan.

Oakland County with over 400 lakes has a large stake in this problem. To insure safety for the greatest number of our lake users, The Pontiac PRESS feels that definite action should be taken.

Electors in Philippines Strongly Pro-American

With the victories of President CARLOS P. GARCIA and DIOSADO MACAPAGAL in the Philippine elections goes the possibility of some kind of a practical coalition government.

President GARCIA, who moved up from the vice-presidency after RAMON MAGSAYSAY was killed in a plane crash last March, heads the Nacionalista party. His defeated running mate was JOSE B. LAURIE JR. speaker of the House and son of the puppet President during the Japanese occupation. This party is in complete control of the Philippine government.

The newly elected vice-president, voted on separately, Congressman DIOSADO MACAPAGAL is of the Liberal party. Its presidential candidate was JOSE YULO, a wealthy sugar planter and lawyer whom GARCIA also defeated for the vice-presidency in 1953.

No major issues were involved in this quietest and smoothest of Philippine elections and most of the 15 candidates varied only in degree in their pro-Americanism. Candidate Claro M. Recto of the Nationalist - Citizens party, who was the most critical of the United States, insisted that he was not anti-American but just pro-Filipino.

Any large vote for Sen. RECTO would have meant some dissatisfaction with American-Filipino relations. That this didn't happen is a source of satisfaction. President GARCIA who has promised "an undying partnership with the United States," is well qualified to maintain friendly relations.

$500 a Year Less

Extended Survey Shows a Rare Opportunity for Us

Venison: Current meat with many families—or is it?

Plenty of happy news for everybody in the Pontiac area is found in the results of a recent survey among thousands of college and university students in 41 states. It was made by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and shows that students who can live at home save an average of upwards of $500 per year on their expenses.

With a branch of Michigan State University in our midst, it will be that much easier in a financial way for our young people, besides the many other good features to encourage them toward a higher education. And even in these times of super finance, $500 per year over an entire course ain't peanuts.

whose funeral was held today, maintains him near the top of my list of public officials who accept positions of trust and then can be trusted. His good example and influence extended far beyond the Farmington which he loved.

There's joyful excitement bubbling all over in what's my conception of an ideal home, at my next door neighbor's at Holly, as shot a beautiful 150-pound buck that almost asked for it, with the village limits just behind him.

"Birmingham children had a happy day 50 years ago today," writes

Blanchard Kellogg,

a former resident of that Pontiac suburb, now living in Detroit. A freight train was wrecked there, and two carloads of Christmas toys scattered all over the landscape. "Dozens of us kids had an early Santa Claus, and in a plenty," says Mr. Kellogg.

Are you in quest of that $25 U.S. Savings Bond? Full particulars are given in yesterday's column. Just a little simple arithmetic may get it.

David Lawrence Says:

Federal Reserve Action Significant

WASHINGTON — What really caused the Federal Reserve Board to turn around a few days ago and reduce its interest rates on loans to member banks?

LAWRENCE

The story is significant because the action may historically emerge as a step that possibly avoided a "depression" and, in actual fact, curbed a "recession."

For two and a half years the Federal Reserve system has been steadily increasing rediscount rates and making it harder and more costly to borrow money. The purpose was to fight "inflation" and to arrest the "boom" which showed signs of a runaway character.

But the process was painful. Many businessmen complained that needed expansion was being prevented and that natural growth was being blocked. To this, the Federal Reserve spokesmen replied that postponement of expansion plans was unavoidable and that the country must be given time to "readjust."

Assurances came from the Federal Reserve Board early in the two-and-a-half-year period of rate-boosting that, if the readjustment went too far or seemed to be getting out of hand, it would be reversed.

Last week the decision was reached that the "deflation" had gone far enough. Businessmen had been complaining not only that current 1957 figures were off considerably in many industries, compared to 1956, but that they couldn't see recovery ahead even in the latter part of 1958, and some have gone so far as to say it would be 1959.

The indexes from reliable statistical sources lately have disclosed a decided change downward. The Federal Reserve Board's own figures on the course of industrial production showed an unfavorable downward swing for October.

It was at this juncture that the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, William McChesney Martin—who had all along been making statements indicating firm continuance of a policy of high money rates—saw the need for a psychological shift.

Things began to look too gloomy, for in America it is possible, even without the factual bliss, to create a recession based largely on fears and reiterated misgivings.

So the Federal Reserve Board here decided to call a halt. It is true the change was a minor one—only a half-point reduction in the borrowing rate, and this brought it back to the figure set last August.

The Federal Reserve Board can, if it chooses, revert to the higher rate two or three months from now if its action of last week is misinterpreted and another boom seems to be emerging that could be dangerously inflationary.

But the facts belie such a prediction. Business has taken a severe walloping, and it is doubtful whether, even with the stimulus of the Federal Reserve Board's slight reduction in interest rates, a substantial recovery can be achieved in less than six or eight months.

Still, with many businessmen, it is important to be able at least to plan on somewhat lower interest rates, even though decisions to take advantage of such rates may not be made for several months hence.

Incidentally, by misinterpreting the Federal Reserve Board move of last week as a signal to set in motion again the spiral of wage-price increases, labor-union leaders can undo all the good that has been done. This would be calamitous, and perhaps the time has come for the President to make another appeal for restraint.

The Federal Reserve Board has acted wisely and opportunely. It has not given the green light to inflation, but it has said that deflation has gone far enough for the time being.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Physical Decay Insidious —Creeps Up on Unwary

Sooner or later, depending on nutrition, every one of us who lives long enough must endure the cold gradations of decay.

DR. BRADY

Cold gradations of decay. That's the way the poet says it. I'm no poet. I call it degeneration, physical degeneration.

Physical degeneration is insidious. It creeps upon you like baldness or gray hair. You coast along merrily believing or making believe you are still a youth, as supple and young as ever, and one day you learn the facts of life—you have the rheumatiz or arteriosclerosis.

But if you're not chicken, you won't retire to the chimney corner just yet.

Chronic rheumatism, chronic joint disability or the rheumatiz, as I call it ("arthritis" is what some customers of phony "clinics" like to call it) "comes on insidiously in persons who have passed the middle period of life"—these are Dr. Osler's words.

NOT A DISEASE

If I were saying it, instead of "persons" I'd probably say "poor geeks" and instead of "comes on" I'd say "becomes evident." For, after all, it is not a disease that strikes its victims from ambush. It is just one of the cold gradations that, sooner or later, depending on nutrition . . .

Here we go again! Unfortunately a lot of knuckleheads reject any health teaching that does not jibe with their own preconceived notions or the quaint notions imparted to them by more or less eminent medical authorities.

I keep asking myself whether I could teach more people the principles of health by devoting the time to writing and circulating books—something like the Pocket Cyclopedia of Health, 23 volumettes—a general health education for $7.50.

TWO BOOKLETS

For instance Volumette II of the cyclopedia is CVD—cardiovascular degeneration, wearing out, running down, impaired function of arteries and heart—muscle cells which are used up and need replacement with new cells are replaced instead with fibrous tissue, fatty matter, cholesterol, calcium—that is, a patchwork replacement that cannot function as the original muscle of heart or arterial wall did.

Or take Volumette XII, Chronic Joint Disability. It tells the truth about the rheumatiz, degeneration of joint tissues, and how to retard, arrest or even reverse the process by correcting the lifelong faults of nutrition. For either volumette send 35 cents and stamped self-addressed envelope.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Readers Respond to Letter Calling Ministry a 'Racket'

Evident y Long Time Observer hasn't been close enough to his church or pastor to understand the work is tedious and difficult as the next man's job, and any favors clergymen get, they rightfully earn.

Preaching isn't an earthly racket but a blessing to this needy world. I, too, urge men to enter the ministry, but not for the free meals and rent or earthly pleasures. These are insignificant when compared to the satisfaction received from helping others and giving time, talents and service for the good of mankind in so many phases of everyday living.

Observer should quit observing and get into church work so he can realize the true values of Christian work and service.

One Who Knows

I'm a young married pastor who doesn't get the Sunday offerings nor the $100 a week.

I am driving a 1952 car and am buying my own home. I pay my own social security, income tax and other taxes without any retirement benefits. I am, however, invited to members' homes for lunch now and then after our evening service on Sunday.

I could be earning much more in business but no money could take the place of seeing men and women come to know Christ as Saviour and Lord of their lives and be assured of heaven.

Baptist Pastor

I'm certain a lot of people think as Long Time Observer. Let's not try to fool the people, at least not the Lord. This racket, like others, will all be cleaned up one day not too far away. The man in charge of this ministry racket will shake a few people loose from their boots and won't old Satan have a nice laugh on them to think they could be so foolish. This is one racket with no profit unless God handles the funds.

Mrs. S. Hockey
5740 N. Aylesbury

Long Time Observer has cooked up a good excuse on why he won't attend church with his family. The preacher's too handsome, says he, and can't amount to anything if he's single. He won't squander even a cent for him to get a new car and won't help him to live in luxury. It's obvious all this is an excuse.

Asks Help to Get Labor Regulations

The McClellan Committee is doing an outstanding job exposing undesirable conditions in labor unions. Congressional leaders have indicated their intention to eliminate racketeering from the labor movement. An all-out effort must be made by business to help bring about constructive regulatory legislation on welfare funds, secondary boycott, coercive picketing and compulsory union membership as a prerequisite to employment.

Denies the Term Hurts Education

Someone commented the other day that by making the "egghead" a symbol of contempt we've struck a blow at higher education. I think not. Most people think of an egghead as one who fills his head full of fancy knowledge but hasn't the common sense to make useful application of it. It's just education for the sake of education and what is commonly referred to as an educated fool. A truly educated person is never called an egghead. It's just that people realize all the education and degrees in the world will never make a wise man of a fool.

For Higher Education

'It's No Wonder They Think So'

It's no wonder people of foreign nations think we're out to dominate everything we can get our hands on.

Remarks like the following one by former Air Force secretary, Thomas Finletter, must give exactly that impression: "It must be our national purpose, regardless of the cost, regardless of what we have to give up, to see to it that we control outer space."

Wouldn't it have been much better if he had said that we must work to see that the knowledge gained about outer space will be used for peaceful means and for the benefit of all nations. Maybe such remarks as his are the reason he's "former" secretary of the Air Force. People in his position should choose their words more carefully.

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

Herein is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins.—I John 4:10.

To love as Christ loves is to let our love be a practical and not a sentimental thing. — Sir Charles V. Stanford.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Good Salesman Sets His Terms

Want to hear a true story about an American David who called the bluff of an industrial Goliath? Then read this case and scrapbook it. All salesmen should be doubly interested in this account, for in an age when industrial giants are growing titanic, the good salesman can still write his own ticket!

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case W-344: Henry Q., aged 48, was the salesman for a certain large company.

DR. CRANE

His territory included the entire state of North Carolina. And Henry had covered the field for 23 years, so he knew most of his prospects by their first name.

He had even met the wives and children of hundreds of them. On Christmas he'd send them greetings or remember them with appropriate little gifts.

They were his friends and he was almost like a member of their family.

Then the depression hit this country. You of the younger generation can hardly remember it, but large factories had to retrench.

They even ordered blanket salary reductions of 10 per cent or more, all the way down the line.

Well, Henry's company decided to economize in a similar manner, so it bluntly sent letters to its salesmen telling them their income would be reduced 10 per cent at once.

DAVID VS. GOLIATH

If General Motors or General Electric or any other vast enterprise told its engineers or other salaried executives that such a 10 per cent cut were to be instituted, what could one lone engineer do about it?

He could either accept it or resign, and in depression years the latter action meant he might be unemployed for many months.

But Henry was a successful salesman with a territory over which he had presided for 23 years.

And Henry was rather hotheaded. So he sat down in a hotel room in Charlotte and wrote his firm that he definitely was NOT going to accept any salary cut of 10 per cent.

It looked like a case of David vs. Goliath in American business.

And what do you suppose was the result? Well, believe it or not, Henry got away with his revolt!

That multimillion dollar home office made an exception in his case! Why?

Because the head of the firm knew that Henry controlled its customers in North Carolina.

And that corporation, like most other factories, had many competitors who would gladly have hired Henry, knowing that he could bring most of his old customers over to them.

So the head of Henry's firm reluctantly realized that if it tried to cut Henry's salary, it would not only lose Henry, but an entire state's volume of business.

And if it sent in a new salesman to replace Henry, the latter wouldn't know all those customers or be acquainted with their wives and children.

So it might take even a superlative new salesman at least 10 years to regain as much business as Henry would take away with him the moment he severed his relations.

So the Goliath was stumped by the single salesman called Henry Q., who, like David, called the bluff of this modern gigantic business Goliath and got away with it.

STRANGER THAN FICTION

Now this is a true incident but I haven't finished with it.

For Henry mulled over the imagined wrong which he felt had been done to him by his home office.

After 23 years of faithful service, Henry was irate at even being considered subject to a 10 per cent blanket salary deduction.

The more he brooded, the more angry he became. So three weeks after his company made an exception and restored his earnings to the usual figure, he wrote a second letter and said he was going to quit unless they gave him a 10 per cent increase.

And again they surrendered, though they probably almost had a stroke, due to their own ire and fury at being coerced by a lone salesman!

'Party Excuses No One From Paying Dues'

Soble, Wife Taught Spy Tricks

(This is the ninth of 12 articles in which confessed Soviet spy Jack Soble tells the innermost secrets of an espionage ring in the U.S. of which he was a leader for 15 years.)

By JACK SOBLE
(Written with Jack Lotto)

We stood and gaped at the parliament building in Berne, Switzerland.

For all the world to see, we were three "rubbernecks." But unlike countless thousands of tourists before us, our summer 1948 visit was strictly business—spy business.

A new contact was being arranged for my wife, Myra, and myself. Our "guide" was General Alexander Korotkov, boss of all Soviet spy operations outside of Russia. And this is how contacts are made:

Korotkov, who also was responsible for Stalin's safety, whispered for us to watch for a man who was approaching slowly.

"The one you are to notice carefully," he instructed, "will stop a few steps beyond us, put his right hand to his forehead, and then retrace his steps."

In a matter of minutes, the scene we were alerted to had occurred.

CONSUL IN PLOT

Korotkov informed us the man was the Russian consul to Switzerland and that he was to be the recipient of our reports thereafter, instead of the Soviet trade mission delegate in Paris.

For the next year, Myra and I passed along our espionage reports via this new transmission belt, and received funds.

I set up several bank accounts under the anonymity of a number—which is the usual practice in Switzerland—and the Russians made sure I had a ready flow of cash.

This arrangement went along smoothly until May 1949, when word was sent to me in Paris to drop everything and come directly to Moscow via Vienna. This was the third summons to Moscow in less than two years.

MEETS POLICE BOSS

In Moscow I was met and driven directly to an apartment that was made available. Korotkov quickly arrived with his chief assistant, Leonid Dmitrievich Petrov. The intelligence and Secret Police boss came to the point.

"I want you," Korotkov commanded, "to go to Yugoslavia and contact Crdze Price."

Price, who was formerly Yugoslav minister to France, was then attached to the foreign ministry in Belgrade. Tito, of course, had broken with Stalin.

Myra and I were well acquainted with Price in the United States during the early war years. For some time, "Max" (as I called Price) had worked in a Pittsburgh factory, and later was editor of a Yugoslav newspaper in that city. We often met him and his wife in New York.

I told Korotkov that Price was "too devoted" to Marshal Tito and that it would be "dangerous" for me to contact him.

BOSS GETS ANGRY

My Soviet superior became enraged at my apparent reluctance to go to Yugoslavia. Turning to his aide, he angrily declared:

"Evidently this man doesn't want to work."

He and his deputy went to a corner of the room and had a private, animated conversation.

At that moment, I felt I would never leave Moscow alive.

My fears were shortlived, however, because when Korotkov returned to my side, his temper had cooled.

"Perhaps you are right," he told me.

"But we must establish agents there. It will be necessary for you to send several good workers to Yugoslavia to establish contacts and find out what conditions are. Money is no object."

Before dismissing me, Korotov said it was apparent I had forgotten my Communist training and needed some stern reminders.

HAD TO PAY DUES

He then began a long lecture on how it was necessary for every agent to be a dues-paying member in good standing with the Communist Party.

He pointed out that I had been faithful to my obligations while performing in the United States but had become delinquent since my operations transferred to Europe.

"Comrade," he told me stiffly, "you must remember, like every other Communist, you are required to pay your dues without fail. There is no exception. The party excuses no one, no matter how valuable his work is for the motherland."

I apologized profusely for my neglect and promised never again to fall behind in my obligations to the party.

Korotkov then set an arbitrary figure of $500 a month as my income from espionage and other activities and said I must pay three per cent of that figure monthly thereafter, plus all the back dues for the years 1946-'49.

High Militarist Out in Red China

HONG KONG (AP)—Marshal Liu Po-chang, Red China's "one-eyed Dragon" and top military strategist, has been replaced as superintendent of training for the Chinese armed forces.

This was disclosed in a brief announcement in the official Peiping People's Daily reaching Hong Kong today.

The announcement said only that Chairman Mao Tze-tung has appointed Gen. Hsiao Ke training superintendent. It gave no indication of Liu's future nor any reason for the change.

Observers in Hong Kong thought it unlikely Liu has fallen into disfavor.

Liu, 66, is one of only about a dozen marshals of the Red Chinese army. He is also a member of the Communist Party Central Committee and the Politburo and holds several other posts. There was no suggestion he was stripped of any of these.

'Mr. Pentagon' Tackles Biggest Problem

Missiles Without Tax Hike

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS

The man who must make ends meet in the biggest business in the world—the department of defense—is a former bank cashier who would rather spend money than make it.

Wilfred J. (for James) McNeil, who has been the chief Pentagon budget officer for the past eight years, reportedly has turned down numerous higher - paying civilian posts to stay with his government books.

Tuesday, the assistant defense secretary (comptroller) and his boss, Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy, fly to Augusta, Ga., to meet with President Eisenhower and tackle the biggest fiscal problem of his life—how to pay for a greatly expanded missile program without necessitating a tax increase.

Sometimes called "Mr. Pentagon" because he has worked there since the building was completed in January, 1942, the 56-year-old financial expert reportedly has been feuding with Deputy Defense Director Donald A. Quarles over fiscal policies.

If Quarles had been named defense secretary it was said that McNeil would have resigned — something higher paying jobs couldn't get him to do—but the two men maintain good relations on the surface.

GREW UP IN IOWA

McNeil, gray-haired and soft-spoken, was born in Boone, Iowa, on Feb. 21, 1901, the son of William H. and Alice Rae (Pittman) McNeil. He went to public schools in Searsboro and Grinnell, Iowa, but stopped his formal education at the age of 18 to marry the former Olga Harris on Dec. 6, 1919.

They had three children—Wilfred James Jr.; Edwin E., and Olga Patricia.

McNeil went to work as cashier at the bank of Searsboro after his marriage and three years later became president of the First State Bank of Brandon, Colo. He tried the new automobile business at North Central, Iowa, for four years and then went into the business end of newspaper work, first with the Des Moines Register and Tribune Co., from 1930-34, and then with the Washington (D.C.) Post as circulation manager until 1938.

McNeil, who had once been disbursing officer for the reserve organization in the fifth naval district, went on duty as assistant and deputy to the navy disbursing officer in Washington when World War II broke out, became navy disbursing officer in 1942 and fiscal director of the navy in 1944.

He was released from the service with the rank of Rear Admiral, stayed on as fiscal director as a civilian and moved up to special assistant to the secretary of defense in 1947. He was named to his present post in 1949.

Chapter 32

Conway said, "Our only hope was in getting Giff Farrell to show himself in his true light before the jurors. —He came off with flying colors."

Mason grinned. "You mean I didn't cross-examine him vigorously enough?"

Conway said, "You're running the show, Mason. But you must be able to see for yourself what has happened. Farrell's testimony is now completely established and he hasn't even been embarrassed. Why didn't you ask him about his relations with the dead woman, about those photographs?"

"Because," Mason said, "if we ever get that far, I am going to force the District Attorney to put Gifford Farrell on in rebuttal, and by that time I'm going to have him sketched as quite a villain. When I get done with him then, he's going to be an entirely different individual from the debonair man who occupied the witness stand this afternoon."

"Well, I hope so," Conway said. "However, one thing is certain. I've completely lost control of Texas Global."

Mason patted him on the shoulder. "Take it easy, Conway," he said. "And remember people are watching you in the courtroom. Don't act discouraged. Act as though you felt certain right would triumph."

"You can't smile in a situation like that," Conway said. "The bottom has dropped out, and . . ."

HE SMILED

Conway straightened himself, gave Mason a smile.

Mason clapped him on the back, said in a loud voice, "Okay. See you tomorrow. And by tomorrow night you should be out. Sleep tight."

Mason picked up his briefcase and left the courtroom.

Mason said, "What's new with Farrell, Paul?"

"Not a damn thing," Drake said. "He's keeping his nose so clean it shines."

Mason frowned and said, "Now look, Paul, whoever did this job had to have a female accomplice. She was rather young, good-looking, a busty figure which she wasn't averse to showing.

"This woman who left the hotel must have been the woman that Conway saw in Room 729. That's the woman who held the gun on him, who really holds the key to the whole plot.

"Now Farrell has put himself entirely in the power of this woman. She must be someone who's infatuated with him. Farrell wouldn't dare to let her be where she could cool off as far as he's concerned. He wouldn't dare to let her conscience start bothering her. He must be seeing her."

"But he isn't," Drake said. "Farrell has been one hundred per cent circumspect. He has hardly gone out socially since this case came up. Apparently he was pretty much broken up by the death of Rose Calvert. He must have been pretty much attached to her."

"Phooey!" Mason said. "He's seeing this other woman somewhere . . . It must be one of the girls in his office."

"We've got material on every girl in his office," Drake said. "I've got a pile of stuff two feet thick, Perry. I can tell you so much about those girls that it would frighten them if they knew we knew it. One of them is married and living with her husband. One of them is engaged. One of them is going steady.

A GOOD-LOOKING BABE

"The other is a good-looking babe that Farrell has been out with once or twice, but she's a girl who's built for speed, narrow hips and a light chassis. There's another one that Farrell probably had an affair with at one time but she's a tall babe, one of these long, willowy gals.

"Conway says this woman who emerged from the bedroom and then held the gun on him was busty and of average height. . . Don't worry, if Farrell starts trying to keep any female accomplice in line, we'll spot her."

"He'll have to do it when the case gets a little hotter," Mason said.

"How's it going, Perry?"

Mason said, "Well, I'm getting my theory worked into the case so unobtrusively that the prosecution doesn't even know it's there. Tomorrow I'll spring it."

"Your theory that the body was moved?"

"That's right," Mason said. "The body had lain on its left side. There had been just the start of that peculiar discoloration which is known as post mortem lividity. Rigor mortis had probably set in rather soon. The right hand and right arm were doubled up and probably the left arm was sticking straight out.

BODY WAS MOVED

"When the body was moved and placed on that bed, it was necessary for whoever did it to break the rigor mortis in the left shoulder so the arm would hang down somewhat naturally. If that left arm had been sticking out straight as a poker it would have been a dead giveaway and anyone would have known that the body had been moved. With the body lying on the bed, it became necessary for that left arm to be hanging down. So rigor was broken at the shoulder.

"That Bert King is a miserable liar. He's trying to bolster up the prosecution's case, but he's not doing a good job of it.

"How are you coming along with your elevator girl, Paul?"

"Swell!" Drake said grinning. "That's one of the best assignments I ever had. She's a darn good scout, Perry, and is fun to be with, although at times I do wish she'd quit that everlasting gum chewing."

"What have you found out from her?"

"I've found out all she knows. I can tell you enough stuff about the operation of the Redfern Hotel to make your hair curl. I can tell you things about the bell captains, about the clerks—and I can tell you this: the woman who went up to Room 729 definitely didn't have any baggage, and that's the reason she paid in advance.

"My elevator girl says that the bell captain was grumbling. He thought that the girl intended to muscle in on his racket, and he was determined that, if she started entertaining men in the room, he'd have her thrown out unless she decorated the mahogany with a cut."

Mason paced the floor. "There's something funny there, Paul. The position of the body on the bed was changed. Now why would it be changed? Why did someone discharge a gun into the mattress in Room 728? The gun was pushed up against the mattress so it wouldn't make any loud noise.

"The noise made by a contact wound when a gun is held up against a body or when the gun is pushed up against a mattress of that sort isn't loud enough to attract attention. It's not much louder than exploding a paper bag."

"But why change the position of the body?" Drake asked. "Why juggle guns?"

"That," Mason said, "is something we're going to have to find out. Beginning tomorrow I'm going to start getting some of this stuff in front of the jury, and then I'm going to needle the prosecution by asking it these questions.

"I'm going to start punching holes in the prosecution's theory of the case."

"Enough to get an acquittal for Conway?"

"I think so," Mason said.

Junior Editors Quiz on PIRATES

QUESTION: Do pirates still exist?

ANSWER: Pirates started sailing the sea almost as soon as ships started carrying cargoes. The ones you probably have seen pictured—in somewhat more colorful clothes than they actually wore—were those that preyed on treasure ships and other commerce in the Caribbean sea in the 17th and 18th centuries. Some of those priates claimed they were patriots, fighting for England, against Spain. People often called their enemies pirates, no matter what their enemies called themselves. As communications got better and nations more civilized, pirates gradually were eliminated. But in remote parts ot fhe world, where governmental authority is weak, such as along the coast of China, piracy has persisted into modern times. It's very likely that there are pirates on the prowl right now, although you wouldn't recognize them.

Modern Aladdin's Lamp Prepared by Scientists

Second of 5 Articles
By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK (AP)—The Aladdin's lamp of our times is science.

In a brief span have come jet planes, fine cars, fresh food from all lands on your table, wrinkle-proof clothes, beautiful bridges and highways, air - conditioned homes, TV, electricity and machines to save human muscle and toil, drugs and vaccines to save health and lives.

These are some gifts from science in a list just beginning, plus H-bombs and guided missiles for man's arsenal of defense or aggression born of his hate, greed or fear.

The real creator is not science-defined as systematized knowledge—but the individual scientists and engineers who won the knowledge through intelligence, curiosity, trained minds and observation.

Anyone can make up a theory or have a bright idea. He could be right or dead wrong.

Scientists also work on theories and hunches.

But they have advantages. First, they have a lot of information for likely good guesses, building on the knowledge of men and women who had gone adventuring and discovering before them, explains Dr. Arthur Galdston, professor of biology at Yale.

They also know how to make the experiments to learn whether the hunch is right. If the results look sound, the scientist publishes them, for his colleagues to see—and pick flaws.

This is the scientific method of research to coax secrets from nature to benefit man's curiosity or his material well-being.

Science grows by theories, trying to establish sound guiding laws. These laws are kept only so long as they jibe with experimental results and objective observations. Otherwise they are amended, expanded or abandoned.

The scientist is interested in new ideas or—as an engineer—making them practically available and useful.

Industry, government, business and the public carry the ball from there.

A man becomes a scientist because he is curious, and feels a challenge. The spark to enter science can come about in a variety of ways.

Sometimes an interest in science is his earliest recollection. Some times it is born of contact with an inspiring teacher, with parents, books, neighbors, some other scientist.

"I think he has to have repeated exposures, and real exposure, while he is relatively young," says Dr. Robrt Beringer, Yale psysics professor.

"By that I mean not just some interest in astronomy or physics or something else, but a real interest, a desire to know more, an appreciation of what he needs to learn to satisfy his wish to work in science."

One main appeal is that "science is an endless adventure," in the words of Dr. Lee Dubridge, president of the California Institute of Technology.

It's the adventure of discovery, through research.

Tout Kim Stanley for '58 Academy Award

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS)—Kim Stanley, a magnificent actress with a mane of blonde hair that could qualify her for the role of Godiva in the foreseeable future, is being touted already for the Academy Award of 1958.

It makes her nervous.

TURN OFF EARS

"Sometimes," she says, "I try to turn off my ears."

The performance which the Stanley screamers are raving about is the title role in "The Goddess," a Paddy Chayefsky drama. It's her first movie; it won't be released until next spring, and Miss Stanley—a sensible girl as well as sensitive—has a vague feeling that all the hoopla may hex her.

"When I took the part they said boy, this is an Academy Award role if they ever saw one! Then they finish shooting and straight from the press agent's mouth comes word that the Oscar's on the way." She shivers.

"It's like you're a pitcher in the ninth inning of a perfect game and some jerk screams, "He's got a no-hitter going!"

WON AWARDS

Actually, Kim Stanley has won enough awards on Broadway (for leads in "Picnic," "Bus Stop," etc.) and in television, to make the long-range option on an Oscar a feasible idea. She has, in the past five years, turned down dozens of movie offers because "you've got to find something you believe in."

"She's a "method" actress. Which means that she belongs to the Actor's Studio (fellow students: Brando, Eva Marie Saint, Marilyn Monroe and others, young and earnest), a controversial school of thought that urges players to "live" a part rather than merely "act" it.

Before she was raised to stardom, she worked for eating money. "In TV, the old days, I remember doing scenes that I didn't really believe ever occurred on the face of the earth. In one, I was a woman with a brace on her leg, heart trouble and TB.

"I said to the director, 'Come now, don't you think it would be more realistic if we took the brace off the leg? Otherwise, nobody'll understand why I haven't committed suicide before the play started . . .'"

The director turned down the suggestion. Gotta make 'em cry, he said. Now that Miss Stanley has proved she can make 'em cry, with a bow of the head or a lift of the chin, she has only the best material to choose from. "The Goddess," by a current somewhat god of script writers named Chayefsky, is doubtless exactly that.

Many American Diets Lack Vitamin A, C

CHICAGO—American diets are most often deficient in vitamin C, vitamin A, and calcium. Surveys show that as a nation we need to consume 25 to 70 per cent more tomatoes and citrus fruits, the big suppliers of vitamin C; 50 per cent more green, yellow, and leafy vegetables, which supply vitamin A, and 10 to 25 per cent more milk and butter.

ICC Acquiring 'Brain'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission is acquiring an electronic "brain" to speed up the processing of statistics required in deciding its transportation cases.

About one-half of all the brides in the U. S. today are in the under-20 age group, recent statistics show.

Group Leases Caribou Inn

Clarkston Tavern to Be Bought by Negroes After Remodeling

A lease, with option to purchase the controversial Caribou Inn located in the heart of Clarkston for a year-round resort, will become final Wednesday, according to owner Ernie Felice.

Pontiac attorneys Milton Henry and Herman Stalling, representing a group of Negro business and professional people, said that between 500 and 1,000 memberships will be sold to individuals from Pontiac, Detroit and Flint, after the inn has been redecorated and remodeled.

For almost a year the century-old landmark, bordering a mill pond, has been a bone of contention between the owner and the townspeople. Felice wanted to tear down the old building and lease the land to an oil company, but residents objected to both moves.

After many stormy meetings with the Clarkston village council and the zoning board, officials declined to take over the inn.

According to attorney Stalling, facilities for swimming, boating and other outside activities will be part of the summer resort program. Winter schedules will include dancing parties along with outside sports.

facts you should know about CRYSTILLED* water

The purpose of this advertisement is to bring to Goebel's many old friends, and thousands of new friends, the full and completely factual story behind Crystilled water

Edwin J. Anderson

EDWIN J. ANDERSON
PRESIDENT, GOEBEL BREWING COMPANY

Q. What is Crystilled water?

A. Crystilled water is the first sound and sensible approach toward the improvement of beer quality and flavor that has come about during the past one hundred years. It is water that has been completely freed of all impurities.

Q. How does natural water compare with Crystilled water?

A. Even the best natural water contains elements harmful to beer flavor. Crystilled water has no such impurities. It is processed water purer than the finest mountain spring water—purer even than nature's best.

Q. How is Crystilled water produced?

A. Crystilled water is produced by a process called deionization. It's a process developed by scientists and engineers for use by industrial institutions whose efficiency of operation depends upon water purity.

Q. What exactly does deionization do?

A. Deionization turns ordinary city tap water into Crystilled water. By it, positive charged ions and negative charged ions of minerals, chlorides, fluorides and all other elements damaging to the uniformity and excellence of a fine beer's flavor are eliminated.

Q. Aren't other beer ingredients important, too?

A. Of course they are. And Goebel, like most other brewers, uses top-quality ingredients, including hops, malt, barley and thoroughbred yeast strains. Any brewer willing to pay the price can get these top-quality ingredients. But here is Goebel's big advantage: Only Goebel has Crystilled water!

Q. Why is it that only Goebel has Crystilled water?

A. Only Goebel has Crystilled water because Goebel is the only brewery in the United States that has the special equipment it takes to produce it.

Q. Can you really taste the difference crystilling makes?

A. Absolutely. The proof is the thousands who have tried Goebel 22 beer brewed with Crystilled water for the first time. They all tell us it's the finest beer they've ever tasted, bar none! You will, too, for not only does Goebel have a tastier, more refreshing flavor, Goebel's flavor never varies!

Q. Can Crystilled water be seen in the making?

A. Goebel's Crystilled Water Technical Control Center can be seen by the public seven days a week. Countless numbers of people have already watched Goebel's deionization equipment in action and been amazed at its size and scope.

Q. Why is Crystilled water so important in brewing beer?

A. As any brewmaster will tell you, all beers begin with water. The purer the water, the better the beer. Goebel processes every drop of water used in brewing. Goebel uses no cover-up chemicals, no ordinary filters. By patented deionization methods Goebel maintains uniform beer flavor the year around. Even storms and seasonal changes cannot affect its constant purity.

Waterford Gets Roadway Strip

The Waterford Township Board took action on an agreement made in 1955 by former board members at last night's regular board meeting.

A sidewalk 60 feet in length will be installed in front of the Kenneth Farnum home, 1026 Holbrook Ave., by the township.

The township also agreed to install curbs and gutters in front of Farnum's home.

A hearing on street lighting installation in the Watkins Lakeland Subdivision, M59 near Crescent Lake road, has been set for Nov. 27 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the township hall.

No other action was taken, although board members discussed the installation of a central water system for the Belmoral Subdivision, Hatchery and Crescent Lake roads.

City Employes Move Nov. 30

Police, Judges Will Go to Public Safety Building Then

It will be a long-awaited moving day Nov. 30 for 140 city employes when they move into their new headquarters in the Pontiac Public Safety Building.

On that day city policemen, Fire Chief John F. Schroeder, Municipal Judges Maurice E. Finnegan and Cecil B. McCallum and municipal court employes, will pack up their records and head up Pike street to the $900,000 structure.

Business will open there on Monday, Dec. 2, according to Robert A. Stierer, city administrative assistant.

Policemen will move out of their present home at 8 N. Perry St. The old police garage on Mill street will set up shop in the basement of the new building.

The judges, Clerk Leo MacDonald and his office personnel will find their new offices on the second floor of the public safety building.

The police violations bureau will relocate from its office in the Waldron Hotel to the first floor of the new structure.

Stierer said he hoped all moves could be completed Saturday. The moving contract for $1,794 was awarded to Gaukler Storage Co., 7-11 Orchard Lake Ave.

The violations bureau will be closed on moving day, according to Stierer.

Plane Yields Body of Michigan Woman

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The body of a Michigan woman has been identified among 19 recovered from the Pacific Ocean crash of a Pan American Stratocruiser.

She was Mrs. Anna Clack, 35, of Midland.

Mrs. Clack, her husband, H. Lee, and the couple's four children were aboard the plane when it crashed with 44 aboard on a flight from San Francisco to Honolulu Nov. 8.

The family was en route to Tokyo where Clack was general manager of Dow International, a subsidiary of Dow Chemical Co. They had been vacationing in Midland where Clack formerly resided.

The body of Cmdr. Gordon R. Cole, 37, a former Grand Rapids, Mich., resident and a graduate of Michigan State University, was identified earlier.

2 Trapped on Boat Walk Ashore Safe

BAY CITY (AP)—Two men trapped overnight aboard a 50-foot cabin cruiser aground in Saginaw Bay walked ashore today, safe and sound. A 38-mile-an-hour wind blew all the water out of the area where they were stranded 2½ miles off Pinconning.

The two who made shore today were Joseph Gricar, 35, and Leon Visnaw, 44, both of Bay City. A third man, Leonard Carbineau, 55, of Pinconning, managed to swim and wade ashore last night and spread an alarm.

Coast Guard Chief Lawrence R. McDonniel said his men had trouble finding the stricken craft in fog and rain and that when they did locate it they were unable to make a rescue because of the shoals where it was aground. A 12-foot boat was launched but the men made shore before it reached them.

Grosse Pointe Man Dies in New York Hotel

Algerians Kill 6 in Paris

PARIS (AP)—Algerian nationalist gunmen shot up a small suburban workers hotel early today, killing six Moslems and wounding two more. Since the beginning of this year more than 550 Algerians in France have been killed in warfare between rival North African nationalist groups.

Missionary Widow Talks to Women of Auca Tribe

The widow of one of five missionaries, one of them the Rev. T. Edward McCully Jr. of Pontiac, massacred two years ago by savage Auca Indians in Ecuador, has made friendly contact with two of the tribal women, it was learned today.

The contact was made by Betty Elliott in the Amazon Jungle at a tiny mission outpost bordering Auca territory. Her husband James of Portland, Ore., was one of the five ambushed by the tribe they had tried to convert.

Last November Mrs. McCully the former Marilou Hobolth, of Pontiac, returned to the jungles of Ecuador with Mrs. Elliott to carry on with the missionary work of their husbands.

The contact was made last week when three Auca women arrived at a village of friendly Quichua Indians, who reported the incident to the nearby mission. Mrs. Elliott went to the Olgan post where she met two of the women.

The report from Mrs. Elliott said these women were very friendly and that they spoke in Auca dialect.

Knowledge of the dialect was passed along in notes of the slain missionaries and from research by Rachel Saint, widow of slain missionary Nat Saint of Huntington Valley, Pa.

Mrs. Elliott identified one of the women as the same one who had visited a missionary camp two days before the slayings 22 months ago.

Waives Examination on Murder Charge

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Harry Wagner, 46, of Sparta, was held at Kent County jail today after waiving examination on a charge of first degree murder in the fatal shooting of a brother-in-law.

LaVerne Moore, 30, of Wayland, father of five, was shot to death yesterday in Wagner's trailer home.

Prosecutor R. Stuart Hoffius said Wagner told him the shooting followed an argument. Hoffius quoted Wagner as saying he picked up a 16-gauge shotgun as Moore walked toward him and the weapon discharged.

Announce New Way to Drain Sinus Cavities Without Discomfort

New tablet invention for sinus sufferers acts both to drain clogged sinus cavities and relieve distressing head pains

New York, N. Y. (Special) Announcement has been made of a new tablet invention which has the remarkable ability to help drain clogged sinus cavities and thus relieve congestion and pressure. The headaches, pressure pains, stuffed-up head, nasal drip, clogged breathing—all the unrelenting symptoms the sinus sufferer knows so well—are attacked directly by improving drainage of the sinus areas.

Most remarkable of all is the fact that this is accomplished with extraordinary speed and without discomfort of any kind. This new tablet does its remarkable work internally, through the blood stream. It deposits into every drop of blood plasma a new medication which is carried to the sinus area, where it shrinks the swollen doors to the sinus cavities and helps drain away the pain-causing pressure and congestion.

The shrinking substance in this new tablet has been so successful topically in promoting drainage of the sinus cavities that it is now prescribed more widely by doctors than any material for this purpose. This new medication is now available at drug counters without the need for a prescription under the name, Dristan® Tablets. Dristan Tablets cost only 98¢ for a bottle of 24 tablets. Buy and use Dristan Tablets with the absolute guarantee that they will drain away pain-causing pressure and congestion of the sinus cavities, relieve the pain and distress, or your full purchase price will be refunded.

Space Travel or Farm Life---at Book Fair!

A glass of milk, several of mom's homemade cookies and dad's big chair to curl up in are perfect ingredients for children who enjoy reading.

The cookie jar will probably have to be filled more often following this week's first all-city book fair.

Pontiac's Jimmys and Marys will be rarin' to read after they discover the more than 900 books written on 21 interesting subjects will be displayed at the fair.

This is the first year school children and their parents will be invited to browse through the books during National Book Week, according to Janet A. Gauthier, Pontiac school's elementary librarian.

For the past seven years, book exhibits have been displayed for teachers during the national week but public attendance was not encouraged.

This year a book fair will be held in the multi purpose room of the Crofoot Elementary School, 280 W. Huron St., Wednesday and Thursday. The two day festival will be conducted through the cooperation of the department of elementary school libraries of Pontiac schools; the Pontiac City Library and the Parent Teacher Associations of the city public schools.

The PTA'S will arrange to transport groups of 25 children from each of the 25 elementary schools on a schedule from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday.

The fair will be open to teachers, parents and children accompanied by their parents from 3 to 5 and 7 to 8:30 p.m. both days.

TOPICS TO INTEREST ALL

Boys and girls will be able to join the adventures of outer space and space travel; the prehistoric world; the world and its peoples and deep sea life. Each topic will have an individual exhibit containing books and audio-visual aids.

The topics of other book exhibits include community helpers, farm life, U. S. Government, electricity, arithmetic, rocks and minerals, conservation and the weather.

Communication, transportation and a Michigan exhibit will also be displayed.

Miss Phyllis Pope, head librarian at the Pontiac City Library, will provide a select group of current adult fiction books as another exhibit. A city library representative will be available at each of the evening sessions to discuss these books with interested adults and parents.

BOOKWORMS DELIGHT — David Mihalek, of 1592 Vinewood Ave., and Charlotte Wood, 1588 Vinewood Ave., are two children who are looking forward to Pontiac's first citywide book fair this week. Charlotte proudly shows David a book on the history of Washington, D. C. which will be in the U. S. Government exhibit at the fair.

Convicted Red Spy Decides to Appeal

NEW YORK (AP) — Russian Col. Rudolf I. Abel, 55, sentenced to 30 years in prison as a spy, has decided to appeal his conviction and sentence.

Abel was convicted in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn Oct. 25 on charges including conspiring to transmit U.S. military information to the Soviet Union. He could have been sentenced to death. Instead, he drew a sentence last Friday that could keep him in prison until he is 85.

Jackson Hole, Wyoming, was once a perfect hideout for outlaws. But, now it is peopled mostly by movie actors filming stories about the outlaws who have fled to safer regions.

The Modern Funeral Service . . .

. . . is most kind to those in sorrow. The enlightened efforts of the Clergy, the floral offerings, and the hospitable facilities of the funeral home all help to soften the burden.

It is interesting to note that many helpful functions of the modern funeral director are really recent, developments of the last century —and that the quality of service is constantly improving.

Make A Wish

Think of Thanksgiving and you think of turkey. Think of turkey and you're apt to think of that perennial custom of wishing on the wish-bone.

Much of Thanksgiving hasn't changed. But, thanks to trucks, the kind and character of the various foods that make up the typical Thanksgiving dinner have changed—and for the better, of course.

Turkey is still the main dish—but it's tastier and more tender today. Vegetables are fresh or fresh frozen—hence much more flavorous. There's a crisp tossed salad and fresh fruit "out of season." And for dessert—the choice is wide and the quality high.

All this has been made possible largely by the facilities of modern truck transport, which gets more things to more people faster and in better condition.

Trucks bring you everything you eat, wear or use—and they'll help make the "eatin'est" day in the year a happier one for most Michiganders. Just sit back and make a wish—and trucks will make it true.

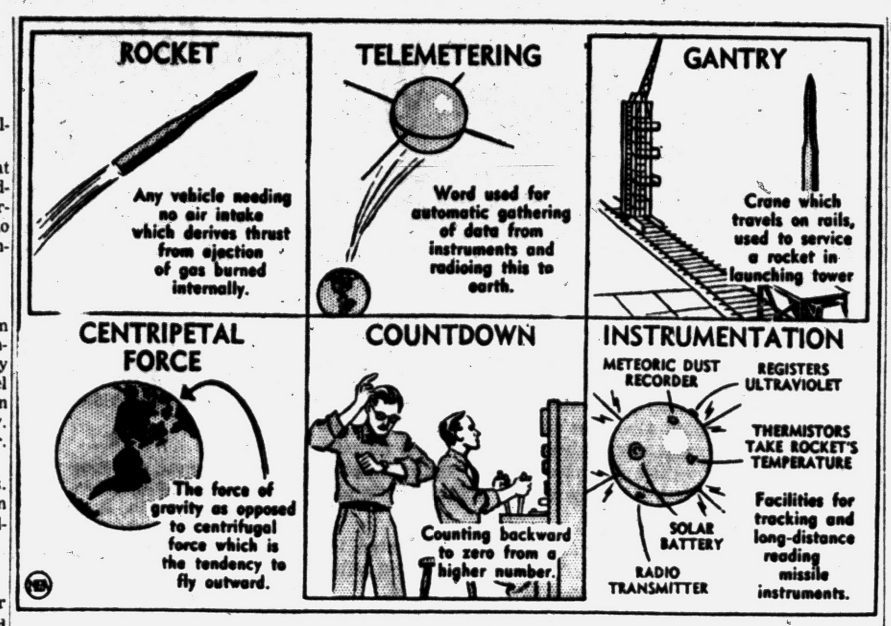
MRS. NORMAN TURNER

IMLAY CITY — Service for Mrs. Norman (Ella) Turner, 64, of 1353 N. Van Dyke, will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Muir Brothers Funeral Home, Imlay City, with burial in Lum Cemetery. She died Monday.

Surviving are her husband, Norman; one son, Alfred Tedford, Imlay City; three daughters, Mrs. Virgia Harrison, Imlay City; Mrs. Velma Harrison, North Branch; Mrs. Ruby Hart, Lapeer; two stepsons, Wayne Turner, Roseville; Lloyd Turner, Almont; 24 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.



PRIMER OF ROCKETRY TERMS — "What are they talking about?" is not an unusual question for one to ask himself after reading a story on rockets and missiles. To be sure, discussion of the field is clouded with unfamiliar terms. The diagrams above attempt to clarify six of the mysterious terms.

Vetoes Free Haircuts

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jukeboxes — yes. But coupons for free haircuts — never. This was a ruling by Atty. Gen. Edmund (Pat) Brown. Barbers had asked if they could issue coupons and install jukeboxes in their shops. Brown ruled coupons would violate the minimum price schedules.

Dispute on Arms for Tunisia Fed by Algerian War

By JOHN H. MARTIN
INS Foreign Director

The grinding ruthless war in Algeria which has swept into the French homeland is at the root of the new western allied dispute over arms shipments to Tunisia.

Tunisia, which is independent and wants its own army, was denied arms by France pending some sort of firm agreement they would not fall into Algerian rebel hands. Tunisia threatened to turn to Communists for aid. So the American and British stepped in and agreed to send token shipments.

The French took this as a slap at them by their two major allies. French politicians and civilians long have been suspicious anyway of American-British understandings. Their pride has been wounded again.

But to understand French public anger one must always return to the unsolved, savage battle in Algeria, neighboring Tunisia.

Ferrhat Abbas, one of the rebel leaders, said earlier this year that "We shall carry the war to France," and he has done this to a degree.

600 DIE IN FRANCE

Within 10 months in France it is estimated 600 persons have been killed and 2,300 wounded by Arab underground members. The National Liberation Army, most powerful of the rebel groups, is fighting in metropolitan France as it is in North Africa.

Into labor-short France a stream of some 400,000 Algerians has flowed. These people technically have all the rights of French citizenship since France contends—and the rebels dispute—that Algeria is part of metropolitan France.

Among this flow of immigrants an estimated 50,000 Nationalists operate, with a core of several thousand gunmen.

They have adopted American gangster methods in their wave of terror against fellow Algerians who want no part of the rebellion, or against rival rebel groups. Bullets spatter from stolen cars whizzing by the target. Summary "trials" and executions occur.

Algerians trying to avoid the rebellion emigrated to France, only to end up paying tribute to underground cells. Failure to carry out orders ended in their murder.

One Algerian politician who had just shaken hands with French President Coty at a football game was assassinated. French police forces do not appear strong enough to cope with the gunmen, although now there are squads of Arabic-speaking officers in action.

Santa Fe Signs for Union Shop

Agreement Concerns 42,000 Non-Operating Employes in 15 Groups

CHICAGO (AP) — The Santa Fe Railroad today entered into a union shop agreement with 15 non-operating unions, ending a seven-year dispute and heading off a strike scheduled for Friday morning.

The settlement, affecting some 42,000 Santa Fe employes, was reached about 2 a.m. It climaxed 16 hours of nearly continuous meetings among union representatives, company officials and federal mediators.

The agreement, announced by Francis A. O'Neill, chairman of the National (railway) Mediation Board, was termed "a complete victory" by union spokesmen. O'Neill was assisted in the final negotiations by mediation board member Robert Boys.

George E. Leighty, president of the Railroad Telegraphers Union and chairman of the 15 unions' joint negotiating committee, said the agreement is similar to pacts signed with the nation's Eastern railroads five years ago.

The unions, representing the railway's off-train employes, announced a Nov. 22 strike date last Friday after meetings in Washington broke up without making any apparent headway.

The only point at issue was the union shop, a point which makes union membership a condition of employment.

The agreement provides that all present nonunion and new employes, who otherwise would be required to become members of the nonoperating unions, will not be required to become full members, but will be required to pay dues, fees and assessments.

Fred G. Gurley, chief executive officer and chairman of the board of Santa Fe, said the agreement is therefore a modified union shop, since under many union shop clauses employes are required to become full members.

ROBERT H. CARLETON asks a break for fellow instructors.

Multiple Jobs Load Teachers

Schools See Problem; Let Science Instructor Concentrate on Science

By JERRY BENNETT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Portrait of a high school science teacher: a man who also supervises the lunchroom, coaches football and teaches driver education, all for $4,511 a year.

That's the sorry picture painted by Robert H. Carleton, executive secretary of the National Science Teachers Association, who thinks it's high time his fellow instructors got a break if they're going to help America meet Soviet scientific progress.

"The classroom teacher is the key to progress and improvement in the instruction and motivation of young people to understand science and to consider careers in this field," says Carleton, who is one of the country's outstanding authorities on public school science instruction.

First of all, Carleton wants science teachers to be relieved of extra duties, which may include teaching three or four subjects in addition to science as well as extra-curricular chores.

Carleton thinks these additional duties should be handled by other teachers or teachers' aides.

"The science teacher's extra time beyond classes," he says, "should be available for working with individual students, particularly the highly gifted ones, and for general planning and strengthening of the science program."

He also emphasizes that no instructor should have to teach more than two subjects.

SALARY HIKE VITAL

Ranking with the problem of crowded schedules is the much discussed need for higher teacher salaries. "It's a national disgrace that in 1955-56," Carleton declares, "That the median salary for all secondary school teachers was only $4,511 and only $3,770 for elementary school teachers."

Carleton would like to see all teachers start out at not less than $5,000 and advance to $7,500 within 10 years. And the top teacher salary, he says, should be at least $11,000.

But Carleton warns that science should not be given a boost at the expense of other school courses.

"This would make a science teacher a first class citizen and an English or history teacher a second class citizen," he says. "We don't make a scientist by science training alone."

October Liquor Sales Near $13,000,000

LANSING (AP)—State liquor sales last month totaled $12,944,078, a decline of $459,085, from sales in October 1956. The State Liquor Control Commission reported today.

Sales for the first ten months of the year added up to $129,299,443, an increase of $1,355,240 from the same period last year, the commission said.

Shoots, Kills 2 in Hospital Fight

Ex-VA Guard Fires Near Screaming Crowd, Is Finally Disarmed

RENO, Nev. (AP) — A former security guard for the Veterans Administration Hospital here yesterday killed two men and critically wounded a third with shotgun fire.

He was wrestled to the floor by two unarmed hospital officials before a screaming hallway crowd. Three blasts splattered on the walls as they tussled.

Those killed were Art Small, chief personnel officer, and Phil I. Keables, assistant engineer. Earl Lombardi, the chief engineer, was critically wounded.

Eaton, carrying an automatic shotgun and a pistol, entered the hospital wing at 8:15 a.m. and immediately shot Earl Lombardi. Lombardi is chief engineer.

Harrison said Eaton then went to the office door of Art Small and killed him with another shotgun blast.

The hallways were filled with screaming people as Harrison grappled with Eaton, grabbing the shotgun. Two or three shots splattered the walls harmlessly.

The fight was joined by Newell Morse, the VA's assistant chief attorney, who grabbed the hand in which Eaton carried a pistol.

Eaton was wrestled to the floor and disarmed.

AIRLINER'S REMAINS — Navy officers and newsmen inspect debris recovered from the sea after a Pan American Stratocruiser crashed en route to Honolulu from San Francisco Nov. 8, killing 44 persons. Scene of inspection is the hangar deck of the aircraft carrier Philippine Sea which took part in search operations. A few pieces of metal, clothing, mail and personal effects of the victims are the recovered items. The carrier docked at San Francisco yesterday with its grim cargo of wreckage and 19 bodies. Cause of the crash has not been determined.

Did Ike Order Silence About Satellites?

House Group Checking on Muzzling of Military

WASHINGTON (AP)—House investigators put together today some questions about whether President Eisenhower muzzled the military on public discussion of satellite programs.

A subcommittee looking into government information practices recalled Murray Snyder, assistant secretary of defense for public information, to ask about that and other matters.

What evoked this line of inquiry was a communication Oct. 9, five days after Russia fired its first Sputnik into space, from one underofficial of the Air Force to another. It said: "President desires that Air Force personnel refrain from making public comment on the satellite program of the U. S. and other countries."

A copy of the memo, made available to newsmen by the subcommittee staff, showed that it was sent by Harold M. Helfman, deputy director of the Office of Information Services at headquarters of the Air Research and Development Command in Baltimore. It went to the commander of the Air Force ballistic missile development center at Inglewood, Calif.

What the subcommittee wants to know is whether Helfman or somebody else was responsible for orders going out saying that the President wanted Air Force people not to talk about satellites.

The subcommittee has had word from the Air Force that, along with a message by wire restricting public comment, verbal instructions were issued last Oct. 9 to each major command information services officer in the country. The Air Force said these emphasized that the Air Force "did not want any self-appointed experts adding to the confusion and speculation on the satellite matter."

Each of the three military services had taken similar steps but Snyder, in response to a letter from Committee Chairman Moss (D-Calif), said in a recent letter: "No verbal or written instructions to issue the communications, to which you refer, were given by the secretary of defense or by myself in his behalf."

Under questioning, Snyder repeated that the Pentagon still intends to permit newsmen to cover the first launching of an American space satellite, set for about next March. He sai dthey will not be allowed at the launching of test globes, a series of which are to be sent aloft starting next month.

He indicated also that some expansion of press coverage of missile sites and launchings is being planned.

Report 1,200 Jews Stranded in Tangier

JERUSALEM (AP) — About 1,200 Jews from various Moroccan villages are reported stranded in Tangier, Morocco, without passports permitting them to migrate to Israel.

Informed sources said the Jews have no means of subsistence and are reported temporarily housed in school buildings and other institutions belonging to the local Jewish community.

There was no confirmation of reports Moroccan Jews are being forcefully detained in camps.

The Jerusalem sources recalled that some time ago Moroccan authorities (themselves) admitted 1,230 Jews were stranded in Northern Morocco after being caught trying to leave the country without passports.

The sources estimated there are still 18,000 Jews in Morocco.

Winds in Nashville Injure 2 at School

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A 12-year-old boy and his fifth-grade teacher were injured yesterday when high winds ripped a section of roof off a Nashville school and toppled a brick chimney into a classroom.

The boy, Ronnie Graves, suffered a compound leg fracture and head injuries when he was buried waist-deep in debris from the shattered ceiling. He was listed in poor condition at a hospital due to loss of blood.

The teacher, Mrs. Charles Eckstein, suffered minor injuries. Witnesses said she collapsed after leading her 25 other pupils to safety outside the damaged room.

Damage to the school was estimated at $30,000 to $40,000.

Teachers to Get No More Apples From Students

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Competition in gift giving has caused school officials in a Rochester suburb to rule that there are to be no more apples for teacher.

The principals of the 13 schools in the West Irondequoit School District said in a letter to parents, "In the last few years, the monetary value of gifts to teachers by pupils has increased to a point where a problem has been created. . . ."

"Since children are required by law to attend school, it is our feeling that they should not be subjected to competition in the presentation of gifts to the teachers."

LITTLE ONE — Project Vanguard scientist Roger Easton holds a 3¼-pound test satellite during a news conference in Washington. The Navy will ship satellites of this type to a launching base in Florida within the next few days to prepare for a firing early next month. Easton said the main purpose would be to test the rocket which will launch the fully instrumented satellite. Should the small speres fall into orbits around the earth, he added, it "would be an extra feature."

NEW SKIM MILK RECIPE TAKES OFF WEIGHT FAST

Edythe Fern Melrose

On this new "Hi-Vi" skim milk diet, week after week, I have seen people lose six to nine pounds within the first seven days. A weight loss of eleven pounds, and more, the first two weeks is a regular experience, yet while reducing you never feel tired nor have hunger pangs.

It's based on the discovery that your overeating of fattening foods can be due to a lack of vital nutrients in your body. To make up for this lack, you eat the foods that make you fat.

To overcome this deficiency, a new high-vitamin powder has been created. It is named "Addit" because you add it to a glass of skim milk (or water, orange juice or other liquid) and drink it before meals, 3 times a day.

The result is sensational. You lose those hunger pangs, eat less—lose weight fast. Addit actually contains food catalysts that help you "burn" fat away.

Then, as Addit floods your system with a concentration of 13 vitamins, minerals, other nutrients (and as you lose those excess pounds), you quickly lose that overtired feeling, gain vitality.

The first person to reduce on the Addit Plan was a man whose doctor told him to take off forty pounds. Within eleven weeks he weighed 37 pounds less and, due to Addit, his energy soared to a new high. His appearance was years younger. Mrs. Romanycia of Canada also lost 34 pounds within twelve weeks!

If it's a mere fifteen pounds or less that you need to lose, then do rely on Addit, which is so rich in food catalysts you should easily become fifteen pounds slimmer with a few short weeks . . . others are doing it within three to four weeks, so why don't YOU? And when weight comes off the Addit Hi-Vi way it stays off!

For free booklet on reducing that contains many weight-reducing recipes, just send your name and address to ADDIT COMPANY, Department M, Box 5215, Grosse Pointe 36, Michigan.

face lift your home with VARI-KROM multi-color spatter paint...

Coed Has New Paths to Follow

Must Prepare for Both Career and Marriage

By BARBARA CATTON

Not long ago, a young coed said to her fiance: "John, I hope you will let me work after we are married."

Replied John promptly: "Let you! I'm counting on it!"

It sounds like just another funny story but behind it lie some profound changes in our society. We now have an economy in which manpower alone is not enough—there must be womanpower too if we are to maintain the standard of living few of us would be willing to give up.

EARLIER MARRIAGE

At the same time people are marrying earlier, than before and having more children.

John's wife undoubtedly will work, at least until the children are born. More than likely she will return to the labor force after her children are school age or older.

Expecting such a life pattern, the girl in school or college is faced with important questions. If she has a strong vocational bent, it may be in a field requiring advanced training.

Will this conflict with early marriage? Can she shift jobs according to her husband's location? After her children are grown, will it be hard to find a position again? Most important of all, can she do justice to both her home and her job?

MAY BE ALONE

She must also realize that some day she may be widowed or divorced, or that she may not marry at all.

The casual visitor to a campus may get the impression that the coed is a happy-go-lucky creature with not a serious thought in her pretty head.

Since most young people like to mix, she of course enjoys herself and learns much in the process. But she is also idealistic and eager to make her life count, and she is searching for answers to questions that have always faced women but are especially urgent now.

Fortunately, say the deans, the typical woman student can tackle her problems with courage and intelligence.

Dear Scorpio:

Better Consult Sputnik ---You're Out of This World!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: I fell in love with a married man which was not my fault because he was a Virgo and I was a Scorpio and everyone knows we belong together. (I married a Taurus before I knew anything about the Zodiac.) We agreed to each get a divorce.

"He was married to a Libra (Sept 26th) and she was the most stubborn person in the world. I divorced my Taurus, but he couldn't get rid of his Libra. How can the man I love and I get together?" SCORPIO

DEAR SCORP: If your answer is not in the stars—better consult Sputnik. Your problem is out-of-this-world!

SHE'S SICK OF SIN

"DEAR ABBY: After going with Ray for 12 years he finally took out a license to get married. We are living together but he never seems to get around to having a religious ceremony like he promised.

"I don't care for this living in sin and until we have a religious ceremony that's what I feel like we are doing. I am afraid he is stalling the religious ceremony until the license expires. What should I do? PEARL

DEAR PEARL: YOU could expire before the license does. Move out and live alone until he makes good his promise.

"DEAR ABBY: My husband is very particular when it comes to food. He won't let me keep any leftovers to eat for lunch the next day, and to make sure, he throws everything right in the garbage after each meal.

"He won't let me buy any canned food unless it comes in a glass container. He examines all the fresh vegetables with a magnifying glass before he will touch them and won't let me have any aluminum cooking utensils in the house — just glass.

"My mother says it is all right for a man to be a little fussy, but mine is just plain screwy. Is there anything I can do?" CAL'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Your husband has a "phobia" and if he gets any "fussier" he should see a doctor who specializes in "phobias." Look under "Psychiatrists" in your phone book.

GIVE HIM THE WHEEL

"DEAR ABBY: I hope this won't sound silly to you, but it is my big problem. I have been married for 17 years and love to drive a car. I am a good driver and have never been involved in an accident or even gotten a parking ticket—which is more than my husband can say.

"Whenever I am with my husband he starts to back-seat drive. "Don't ride the clutch . . . Don't scrape the curb . . Pull over to your own side . . . Watch the fellow in front of you!" He is making me a nervous wreck.

"We have had lots of hot words over this and I want to know how I can put a stop to this?" NERVOUS WRECK

DEAR NERVOUS: When he is with you—let HIM take the wheel.

CONFIDENTIAL TO HONEY: That was no proposal—it was a proposition. Tell him NO SOAP—He's outta LUX!

AAUW Holds Meeting, Hears Talk by Panel

Participating in the discussion, which centered around three topics, were Mrs. Olive Burgess, civil rights; Mrs. Clarence Huemiller, state highways, and Viola Krueger, education. Mrs. Homer McVean acted as moderator for the panel.

Mrs. Huemiller reported on the state's long-range 10-year highway building program, stating that the Oakland-Hastings expressway extension, ~~which will intersect the Pontiac~~ area, represents an expenditure of over two billion dollars.

On the social committee were Helen Voss, J. Thomas Peterson, Mabel Double, Bonnie Davidson, Marion Lehner and Florence Day.

Service Will Differ

U. S. Gals Like It!

Queen's Beret Adopted

By OLGA CURTIS

SAN FRANCISCO (INS) — Never underestimate the power of a queen, especially on fashions.

Little, off - the - face berets, worn mostly at a slight tilt, seem to be the favorite chapeaux in San Francisco, which ranks as America's most-hatted city.

LIKE PILLBOXES

San Francisco women also like pillboxes, half-hats and face-framing bonnets—but they like them all small, sedate and ladylike in color.

The big, dripping-feather or fuzzy brims suggested by Paris are nowhere to be seen. Neither are veils, which some designers consider chic for after-dark.

Fur hats, however, are obviously going to be a coast-to-coast favorite. Mink berets, which are being pushed as "the thing" in New York, are showing in San Francisco, too.

Should Come Off

Making its debut this season is the two-ply collar which frames the throat on this cardigan. A beautiful portrait neckline is just right for special holiday occasions.

No Longer Interested in Bridge

Woman Sure That Hostess Will Plan on Card Playing

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I've played bridge for many years — a fact known to a friend whom I intend to visit before long. I'm sure her one idea of showing me a good time is to arrange endless bridge sessions.

"The truth is, I'm sick of bridge and haven't touched a card for over a year—not since my husband passed away. Would it be inconsiderate of me to let her know that I don't want to play bridge?"

Answer: Your news might conceivably come as a relief to someone who is not a bridge player and in your interests may be hard pressed to find bridge-playing friends. On the other hand, if she is an inveterate bridge player herself, it could be upsetting both to her and her well-laid plans.

But even so, as long as your visit is still some weeks off, I see no possible objection to telling her that you don't care for bridge the way you once did and haven't played since your husband died.

This much would not be an out-and-out refusal on your part to play some of the time, and, on her part, she certainly would then be lacking in courtesy to expect you to play all of the time.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am involved in a question of courtesy which I would like you to settle if you will. The question is: When a man and woman are going through a revolving door, should the man go first so that he may push the door, which is quite heavy, for her?"

Answer: She gets in first and he pushes it around to the next compartment where he gets in. From there he can control the speed of the door and quite easily let her out.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Please recommend one wine suitable and good (preferably American) to serve as the only wine at the typical beef - potatoes - vegetable-salad dinner. Also the correct glass to serve it in."

Answer: With beef serve any still red table wine in claret glasses, or other glasses that you have. Glasses with a stem are preferred. With chicken or fish serve a chilled white wine.

Bethune PTA Plans Annual Fun Night

Mrs. John Turner has been named chairman of the Bethune School PTA's annual Fun Night to be held at the school Thursday.

Bridge and whist will be featured at the affair. Mrs. Turner and Mrs. David Rice are handling tickets for the event.

Married Saturday in First Social Brethren Church were Patricia A. Garrison and Sgt. Richard L. Wells. Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Burmond Garrison, and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin L. Wells are the bridegroom's parents.

SGT. and MRS. RICHARD L. WELLS

Patricia Garrison Weds

Two hundred guests witnessed the Saturday afternoon marriage of Patricia Ann Garrison and Sgt. Richard Lee Wells. The Rev. Thomas Guest performed the ceremony in First Social Brethren Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Burmond A. Garrison of West Brooklyn avenue are the bride's parents, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin L. Wells of Northway drive.

Lynn E. Garrison was the bride's only attendant. She wore a blue gown and carried an arrangement of pink and white carnations.

OES Chapter Initiates Three

Among the guests for the evening were Mrs. Beatrice Mundy, Mrs. Roy Wilton and Mrs. Harry Vernon.

Mrs. Raymond Swaney and her committee, Mrs. Walter Mackie and Eva Thayer, served refreshments.

Feminine Logic Is Clear Only to Another Woman

No Man Will Understand 'I'm Feeling Low So I Think I'll Buy a Hat'

By RUTH MILLETT

Only another woman really knows what you mean when you say: "Jim was home with a cold three days last week, so I'm way behind in my housework."

"I didn't really need it, but it was such a bargain I just couldn't pass it up."

"This dress is just waht I want, but I'd like to shop around before I buy it."

"I've got to get all the curtains washed and the floors waxed. You know the circle is meeting at my house next week."

"Don't repeat this to a soul. The only reason Sue told me was because she knew it wouldn't go any further."

"I hate to see Jim start on a do-it-yourself project. The house will be torn up for weeks, and I'll spend my time looking for things he wants and handing him tools. I wish he would just let me hire a carpenter and get it done right."

"When you see Jim tonight don't mention the evening dress you helped me pick out. I've still got it in the back of the closet waiting for the right moment to bring it out."

"We're invited to a party Saturday night and I haven't a thing to wear."

"I hate the new styles, but they've made everything in my closet look out of date. I've got to go down and buy some clothes—no matter how unbecoming they are."

"I'm feeling so low I think I'll go downtown and buy a new hat."

"Poor Jane. Tom's talking about retiring. And just when she's reached the place where she could take it easy."

Andre Perugia designs, for a leading shoe manufacturer, a pump that combines every important fashion forecast in shoemaking . . . the slim, higher heel on the fashion-right pointed toe, and the subtle suggestion of the trend-setting high rising vamp. It comes in both black and brown suede, with matching elasticized trim on the vamp.

Silver and Gold, Fiery Jewels Give Opulence

Opulent is the word, precious the look, for the jewels to accent urban elegance and fashions-after-five.

Cabochon stones, glowing with an iridescent fire, are mounted in polished golden wire, delicate as heirloom lace. Antique gold and silver sets off smoky faceted stones. Rubies, emeralds, sapphires and fiery rhinestones sparkle against subtly textured gold. Making its debut in a season of colorful jeweled elegance is a gem of heavenly blue that reflects a starry iridescence.

Pins are the conversation piece of fall fashion. Plumes, feathers and leaves rise from a base of gem stones. Chatelaine pins, their rich stones mounted in settins of "old" gold, have important mobility. Elaborate bow-knots knit rhinestones and gem-stones together in a glittering melange.

Colorful stones are heaped in mounds, laced in intertwining circles of pave gigantic sunbursts and stars. Scatter pins, too, enjoy a fashion renaissance, worn in pairs on suit lapels or on understated dresses. Timely inspiration for the royal visit are "crown" jewels — multi-stone crowns and sceptres radiating a brilliant glow in their combination of gem colors.

MR. and MRS. LINDELL J. PERRY

Carol Jean Wells Weds

Carol Jean Wells and Lindell J Perry were married Saturday afternoon in First Social Brethren Church. The Rev. Thomas Guest performed the ceremony before some 100 guests.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Melvin L. Wells of Northway drive, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Perry of South Jessie street.

For her wedding the bride chose a white silk taffeta brocade gown with empire lines. The soft pleats of the gown fell into a chapel train. She carried a white orchid on a Bible and wore a small hat of iridescent sequins which held a fingertip-length veil.

Serving as the bride's only attendant was Jerrie Secord of Rochester. She wore a light rose gown and carried an arrangement of pink and white carnations.

Mrs. Perry wore a royal blue gown with blue accessories and a white carnation and red rose corsage.

Color Scheme of Room Sets Apparent Size

SAN FRANCISCO (INS)—Paint the background the color of putty and use accents of aqua and brass to push out walls of a tract-home bedroom.

Painting the walls a subdued gray-beige, Grimaldi selects the same putty color for carpeting. He drapes the wide bedroom window in a Siamese print of aqua, touches of gold and white.

Santa and his family will add a cheery note to Christmas, and are surprisingly easy to make. The "young set" will love finding Mr. and Mrs. Santa and family under the Christmas tree.

Watch Nap in Cutting Corduroy

DALLAS (INS) — School and corduroy and gingham are synonymous and it's important to get a good start on all three.

With school clothes on the homesewers' minds again, it's time for a word of caution about cutting the ever-favorite materials.

Although it is sometimes hard to detect, corduroy has a nap — an up and down—and if it is not cut all one way the finished garment is very apt to look as if it were cut from two different shades of material.

Rub your hand up then down on the material and see the difference when the nap is brushed one way and the other.

It is best to lay all pattern pieces down on the material before cutting, but if you don't and you forget which way you are going, give the cut and the uncut the rub test again and you can quickly tell.

As for gingham, the plaid pattern should be cut and stitched to match to minimize the seam.

Beware of some circular skirts and bias - cut dresses — they are totally unsuited for gingham plaids, stripes or corduroy — and the printed patterns clearly specify this.

If you don't obey the signs, you'll wind up with the nap or the pattern going horizontally down one side of the dress and vertically down the matching seam.

Her Moods Are Reflected by Family

Mom Sets Home's Emotional Tone

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

After writing recently about taking care of the man in the family I would like to say something about taking care of the woman in the home.

It is absolutely true that members of a family do not realize how much they depend on the wife and mother for the smooth functioning of their daily lives until she is removed from the scene by illness or absence. As a reader recently wrote, "When the woman is sick the whole roof seems to fall in."

First she is responsible for good meals, for freshly laundered curtains, for keeping the family clothes in order and, generally, for physical comfort. Besides this, she pinch-hits in all sorts of minor crises.

She absorbs the unexpected guests, nurses the family through unexpected illnesses, hustles out to get the essential birthday gift, goes for the children when it rains, mends the broken toys, and takes the dog to the vet.

Her day is like a hurricane. First, she feels the impact during the mad scramble to get her family off to school and work. Then, as in the eye, quiet. The second blast comes when the family returns home in the afternoon.

EMOTIONAL PATTERN

For some reason, in the average home the woman also sets the emotional pattern. I can remember experiences which proved this especially when our children were small.

One some days I would think, "What the devil has got into my family? Why do they ALL have to be irritable on the same day?" One day I thought, "Maybe there's something wrong with me. They can't all be out of whack!"

Every time I investigated this I found that even if I had not been irritable myself, I had unconsciously been tense and hurried and had not reacted in my normal manner.

Members of the family don't realize how much they depend on mother. First, she is responsible for good meals.

It does seem that a woman should be allowed some moods, but usually the family goes haywire when she is moody or out of sorts and is frightened to death if she loses her sense of humor. It is just as though she had given them all a shot of poison.

It is amazing what a little kidding and humor will do for a tense family moment. I remember what my nursemade said about my 3-year-old son: "Miss Josephine, why is young Shep going around with his face all tore up?" That is the best description of the physical appearance of an irritable mood I ever have heard.

New tricks: slot-through self bands on the basic dress. Suit blouse with drawstring at neckline and waist is new.

As the silhouette becomes simpler, easier and straighter, there are all kinds of ideas which can change the basic dress into many different looking outfits and particularly for the approaching holiday, it's nice to have a change.

New Cooks Will Like This One

By JANET ODELL

If you are an experienced homemaker, you probably have your poultry dressing recipe down pat. You know what your family likes and you don't want to change. But for the newer cook any help is welcome — we think.

Mrs. John Adomitis makes a basic poultry dressing. Sometimes she adds a few oysters. Sewing and cooking are two of her hobbies. She is acting in the Will Rogers PTA.

BASIC BREAD DRESSING
By Mrs. John Adomitis

1 quart soft bread crumbs
⅓ cup fat
¾ cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons chopped onion
½ teaspoon poultry seasoning
¾ teaspoon salt
1 egg

Melt fat and add to bread crumbs. Add rest of ingredients. If desired, cut out the celery and add chopped oysters in the proportion of one pint oysters to 6 quarts dressing.

It takes 1½ to 2 quarts of dressing for a 5-8 pound bird. Five and a half quarts will fill a 16-21 pound turkey.

Interior of Woman's Handbag Just as Important as Exterior

The interior of a woman's handbag is fully as important as the exterior. She opens her handbag frequently enough for others to get a good glimpse of the contents.

Frequently, what others see is a weird jumble of odds and ends, a shabby wallet, a soiled powder puff, a comb that needs cleaning.

In fact, the lines of the handbag itself may be spoiled by unnecessary clutter. The best way to combat this is to change purses frequently. No one handbag can go with all of your outfits anyway.

THROW AWAY

When you do change from one handbag to another, throw away the bits that have accumulated and that mean nothing.

Wash comb and purse brush, restore that bulging wallet to its original slim lines. Brush out the lining of the handbag itself, wipe smudges from the little mirror, stuff the handbag with tissue paper and give it a well-deserved rest.

New approaches to beauty are like new approaches to fashion. They take an open mind. They also take sound judgment.

The fact that everybody else is wearing bangs doesn't necessarily mean that you will find bangs becoming. On the other hand, you shouldn't reject them because you've been comfortable with the same hair style for the past 10 years.

Developing a sense of beauty means that you learn, through experience and observance, to choose and reject what's right and what's wrong for you.

If a certain shade of blue makes you look as if you had the vapors, stay away from it no matter who's wearing it. But if a new and daring eye shadow comes along that you think you'd like to try, don't be timid about it.

Most of us enjoy changing things, mostly other people. Nothing is as much fun as pointing out to others that a hairdo or a shade of lipstick is all wrong. But the truth is that, unless you're a beauty expert, this is a touchy business and you may lose friends faster than you win them.

No matter how tempted you are to set a friend straight about her new hairdo or her new dress, don't do it. Apply all of your interest in change to yourself and you'll be perfectly delighted with the results.

This is one spot where most women are a bit touchy and where the best thing you can say if you're asked for an opinion: "That's a very becoming hairdo."

Best Preventive of Delinquency

Boy's Clubs Meet Needs of Youth

If police departments, from the FBI down to the local forces had anything to say about reducing juvenile delinquency they would say "Give us more boys clubs."

Their belief in the efficacy of clubs in combating delinquency is borne out here in Pontiac by the statistics which show that the central east side of the city, which in 1945 ranked tops in juvenile problems, today, 12 years after the establishment of the Pontiac Boys' Club in the area, ranks near the bottom in such matters.

"But those who think a boy's club is devoted to preventing delinquency alone are mistaken and behind the times," according to Michael L. Fiorillo, executive director of the Pontiac club.

"We concentrate on meeting boys' needs and interests in recreation, hobbies and social functions and 'getting them off the streets' just naturally follows."

The Pontiac Boys' Club is an outstanding success, if membership is any criterion. Without advertising or membership drives, more than 2,000 boys now belong, although the club building is designed for only 1,200.

Located at E. Pike and Francis streets, the club building was erected in 1951. It contains a complete gymnasium, a library, woodshop, gamesrooms, a dark room and other facilities in which a complete range of sports, gymnastics and hobbies are offered.

Friday films, a glee club, fun clubs and dances add to the social opportunities offered.

With 85 per cent of its operating budget supplied by the Pontiac Area United Fund, the club employs six full-time adults, five part-time adults and 10 boys to man its activities.

A typical example of its work are the three brothers, all members since the club started.

Tom Lufkin who joined at 16 took to the photography course offered so well he is now employed in Pontiac as a professional photographer solely on what he learned at the club.

His brother, Paul Lufkin, 14, a member for eight years, played baseball and basketball on the club's intramural teams and has "graduated" in sports to the city league.

STARTED AT 4

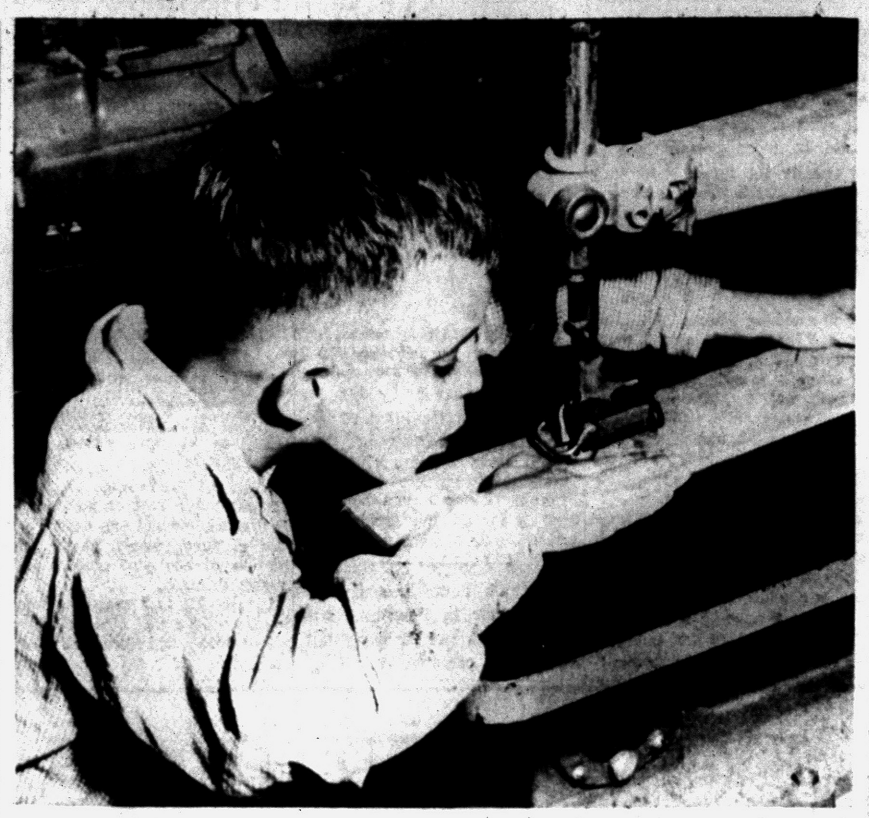
The youngest brother, Dennis, 13, started attending the club unofficially at four. "I was so small they didn't notice me," he recalls, "although I couldn't join until I was six."

A student at St. Fredericks, Dennis pitches in the intramural baseball league and often brings his own basketball for practice in the gym.

Being small in size he is "top man" in the tumbling act pyramids and likes to play table tennis in the games rooms.

"I get to meet a lot of kids and make friends and do things I enjoy, so I find the club a great place for after school," Dennis says.

Dennis, or "DeDe" as he is called by the boys, hopes to emulate his brother Tom who was voted "Boy of the Year" by the club last year.



RAPT INTEREST — Seven-year-old Danny Hutchinson concentrates on cutting a board without cutting his fingers as he uses a jig saw at the Pontiac Boys' Club wood shop. Danny is one of 2,000 youngsters who have a place to play after school under adult supervision at the Pontiac Area United Fund-supported club.

State Department Changes Its Mind

Takes Back Saud's Gifts

WASHINGTON (UP) — The State Department has collected and taken custody of all known gifts to its personnel from King Saud of Saudi Arabia.

There is one exception, however. That is the $3,000 automobile given by Saud to the family of Victory R. Purse, former deputy chief of protocol at the State Department. The car is registered in his wife's name, and the Department made no effort to reclaim it.

Disclosure of the gift to Purse's wife several weeks ago touched off a furore in the Department over the propriety of accepting gifts.

After a hearing, the Department decided Purse could keep the car and his job. He was found to be within the law but to have exercised "bad judgment."

The Department acted last week to clarify the regulations governing acceptance of gifts by State Department personnel at home and American foreign service officers abroad. A circular was sent around to all of them.

In effect, the circular ruled out any gifts except those of insignificant value, such as autographed photographs.

The order to turn in gifts from Saud went out nearly two weeks ago. It was done quietly. Wrist watches, Arab robes and ceremonial daggers—standard among gifts dispensed by Saud during his Washington visit last February—were turned in. They were taken over by the protocol division for storing until the Department decides whether to give them back.

This was a reversal of an earlier decision that it was all right to keep them. The Saud gifts had been turned in almost immediately. About the middle of the year they were made available to the recipients.

The circular clarifying gift regulations noted that in some instances it might be impolite to refuse a gift, however expensive.

It said that, to prevent snubbing a foreign dignitary, costly gifts might be accepted. But they would have to be turned in to protocol pending a Department decision on whether they could be kept.

Many items have been in storage for years, awaiting just such a decision.

Purse has been transferred to another job, although the Department insists this had nothing to do with the gift controversy. He now is chief of administration in the Department's office of International Organization Affairs.

Ike and McElroy Discuss Hikes

Talk on Boosts Needed in Defense Spending to Meet Space Threat

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UP) — President Eisenhower and Secretary of Defense McElroy confer today regarding how much defense spending must be hiked to meet the threat of Russia's space weapons.

James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, described the session as another in a series on defense spending for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The series, which began months ago, has taken on much more significance in the light of the Soviet Union's recent missile and satellite advances.

In a speech at Oklahoma City Wednesday night, Eisenhower said U.S. spending in those fields will have to be increased by a very considerable amount.

There have been some predictions that defense expenditures will run between one and two billion dollars in excess of outlay for this year.

McElroy has indicated the overall boost may not be that large if savings can be made in other military areas.

In a statement yesterday, the President said that in these times when the nation's strength is being tested at every point, America's economy "can ill afford to waste the talent and abilities of any individual because of discrimination against him on the basis of his race, his color or his creed."

Eisenhower made the statement in noting that today has been designated Equal Opportunity Day and also is the 94th anniversary of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address.

"Every citizen who helps to make legal and economic equality a living thing is helping America," Eisenhower said.

Americans spend almost $100,000,000 annually for dentiftices.

As a result of the shooting in Egypt, educational missions scheduled to go from Egypt to Britain and France in 1957 will be diverted to the United States, West Germany, Austria and Holland, Cairo reports.

Heights Voters Say 'No Bonds'

Denies Proposed High School, Making Third Refusal in Area

MADISON HEIGHTS — A proposed $1,665,000 bond issue was turned down by voters here yesterday, 693 to 455. The money was to be used for a new high school.

This is the third time in four weeks voters have turned down bond issues for school construction and maintenance in South Oakland County.

An increase in operating tax of five dollars per thousand assessed valuation was defeated 2-1 Oct. 24 by voters in the Lamphere School District in north Madison Heights.

In the Nov. 12 special election, Berkley voters defeated a $5,500,000 bond issue and a 5-mill operating tax increase by a 7-1 margin.

Friday Night in Romeo

Tree-Lighting Event Set

ROMEO — Little seven-year-old Lorraine Dietlin, former victim of polio, will throw the switch Friday evening which will light Romeo's giant Christmas tree.

Local village dignitaries, including President Joseph E. Rymill, will gather at 7 p.m. before the 40-foot tree, on the northeast corner of St. Clair and Main St.

The program, sponsored by the Romeo Merchants Assn., will feature a brief address by the new Episcopal minister, the Rev. John G. Milburn.

Another attraction will be carols sung by members of the Romeo High School Mixed Chorus, led by C. Lynn Brown.

Adams Denies He, Staff Usurp Ike's Office

CHICAGO (AP)—Sherman Adams, assistant to the President, emphatically denies that he and other White House staff members "usurp the prerogatives" of President Eisenhower.

"Nothing could be further from the truth," Adams told a luncheon meeting of Illinois Republican leaders yesterday.

He said the President's staff is suspect sometimes because it works behind the scenes "to help see the things are done that the President wants done."

"They simply serve the desk of the President," Adams said.

The President, he said, makes the decisions and the so-called palace guard tries to make sure that the President is "the best informed man in the world.'

Stories that the President lacks interest in the Republican party, Adams told the GOP leaders, are "not true." He added that Eisenhower "has put in as much time as a campaigner of Republicanism as any president in history."

Syria, Egypt Nearing Draft of Constitution

DAMASCUS (AP) — Syria and Egypt moved closer to a federal union today. Joint committees are expected to begin drafting a constitution soon.

Forty visiting members of Egypt's National Assembly joined Syrian deputies yesterday in voting unanimously for speedy completion of the union, agreed on in principle 16 months ago.

About 2,000 persons crowded into the circular hall of the Syrian Parliament building. There was applause when the joint session approved a resolution calling on both governments "to go into immediate joint negotiations for the complete realization of this federal union."

The federation looks toward joint foreign, defense, economic, financial and cultural policies. The two countries would maintain independence in internal affairs.

Syrian Premier Sabri Assali told the parliamentary session that the merging of the armed forces of the two Arab countries was practically realized when Egyptian troops recently landed in Syria.

Seek to Attract Missile Plants

Faculty Advisory Unit Calls for More Funds for State Schools

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A faculty advisory group last night told Gov. Williams and state legislators that increased support of state schools would place Michigan in a "highly favorable" position to attract guided missile industry.

The advisory group, appointed by Dr. Harlan Hatcher, U. of M. president, reviewed the importance of recent Russian scientific advances on U.S. research and education.

The group told the governor and legislators that increased state educational spending would bring economic benefits to the state at the same time it served to aid the United States in meeting such Russian advances as Sputnik No. 1 and No. 2.

Williams expressed interest in the group's report and asked if Michigan could become a base for the missile industry.

The group said Michigan had a "great deal to be gained if the supply of scientists and engineers could be increased."

Also attending the conference was Sen. Elmer Porter (R-Blissfield, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

Parents at Schoolcraft to Hold First Meeting

Refreshments will be served by the pre-planning committee, which was responsible for the organization of the new PTA group.

Avondale Plans Aid to Handicapped Children

Special Educational Staff Organizes

AVONDALE—An organizational meeting with his new special education staff, for the school year 1957-58 recently was held by Raymond N. Baker, superintendent of Avondale Schools.

The staff consists of: Mrs. Virginia Owen and Mrs. Thelma Lucas, teachers of the mentally handicapped in the Type A special education program; Mrs. Barbara Zimmerman, speech correctionist; Mrs. Bonnie Norman, visiting teacher; and Leon Hall, clinical psychologist.

Mrs. Owen has been employed at the Stone school as first grade teacher for the past 11 years. She was graduated from Eastern Michigan College with a BS degree and is working on her MA in special education.

Mrs. Lucas is not a stranger in the Avondale System, since she has been a first grade teacher at Elmwood for nine years. She received a BS degree from Wayne State University and is completing her masters there.

Type A educational service is available for pupils who are potentially socially competent but who are mentally handicapped to the extent that specialized education techniques are required in order for them to reach their maximum potential.

Excluded from this program under this definition are the pupils who are intellectually able, but who are not making satisfactory academic or social progress.

CLASS LIMIT OF 15

The Type A program involves the organization of a special class, which is limited in size to a maximum of 15 pupils. Eligibility of pupils must be certified by an approved school diagnostician.

Once a child has been diagnosed as eligible, his placement in a particular program shall be determined by an eligibility screening committee within the district of the child's residence. The local Avondale program will be housed temporarily in the Stone Baptist Church until the new building program is completed, in which two new rooms are being planned for these classes.

Mrs. Barbara Zimmerman, full time speech correctionist, is new to Avondale this year. She received her degree and special training from Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, Ohio. Mrs. Zimmerman resides with her 3-year-old son at 551 Valencia, Pontiac, while her husband, former graduate of Avondale High School, serves with the U. S. Army in Korea.

SURVEY SPEECH DIFFICULTY

The Speech Correctionist is trained to survey and screen pupils for eligibility for the speech program. The definition employed is that speech may be considered defective when it is not easily audible and intelligible to the listener; if it is vocally or visibly unpleasant or labored to the individual in regard to his mental and chronological age, sex, and physical development.

Approved Department of Public Instruction policies indicate that when one correctionist is serving an area, a minimum case load of one hundred pupils should be served.

Mrs. Zimmerman will meet the pupils at their home schools, where she has set up appropriate classes. She also will consult with teachers and parents about speech activities that can be done in the classroom and in the home to help the speech defective child.

Mrs. Bonnie Norman, visiting teacher, taught at the Stiles and Senior High School for the past 11 years. Her special education work was taken at the University of Kentucky. She had five years of special education experience in that state, before coming to Oakland County. Mrs. Norman received her master's from Wayne State University this last year with a major in special education, which requires a combination of Special Education and Social Work.

Mrs. Norman's primary responsibility lies with the child who is socially and-or emotionally maladjusted. Such maladjustment might stem from the child's home, school, or community environment, or any combination of these. Work may be done individually with the child to help him understand his problems and make adjustment to them.

The VT organizes and maintains the visiting teacher program, keeping an adequate system of records and reports. On the basis of approved casework techniques consultation with others such as the diagnostician, classroom teacher, physician or nurse, principal, or parents to interpret the child's behavior and encourage favorable attitudes are necessary.

Some children or parents must be referred to agencies or clinics and the VT must then act as a liaison person between the school, the agency, and the parent for the benefit of the child.

Leon Hall, from the Oakland County Special Education office has been assigned to Avondale part time, for psychological testing.

He correlates the data gathered on a child and then meets as a member of the screening committee where he may suggest or recommend the educational facilities which would be most appropriate for the child.

Other special services rendered by the county office are for: The homebound, hard of hearing, partially sighted, and vocational rehabilitation.

JANET MARIE ATLEY

The engagement of Janet Marie Atley to Danny Bruce Stack, is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Roland J. Atley of Clarence St., Holly. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Stack of Grange Hall road, Holly. A June wedding is planned by the couple.

ARLENE FAYE CLEVELAND

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Cleveland of 1093 Croup Rd., Ortonville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Arlene Faye, to Val Gene Younger of 6245 Orion Rd., Clarkston. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Younger of Illinois. No definite date has been set for the wedding.

Benson Defends Plans by Challenge to Critics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Benson, back from a survey trip around the world, says he has no plans to leave the cabinet.

Returning here Saturday, Benson appeared unruffled by attacks on the administration's farm program, and about reports that some Mid-west Republicans want his resignation.

He told newsmen in a plane-side interview that he regards the farm program as economically sound. And he challenged anyone to offer a better program, saying he would be glad to consider it.

As for the reports he is about to step out of the post he has held for nearly five years, Benson said:

"I have no plans to leave the cabinet. I've been busy with a program to expand exports of American farm products and we hope we have been effective salesmen."

The stated purpose of his 24-day global journey, which took him to 12 nations, was to seek ways to expand U.S. commercial farm exports and to observe surplus disposal operations.

Benson said he would recommend to President Eisenhower a year's extension of the law under which government - held surplus farm commodities may be sold, bartered or given away abroad. He also said he would ask at least another billion dollars in authority to do this.

Criticism was leveled at Benson for taking members of his family on his trip. Traveling with the secretary were Mrs. Benson and 20, and Bonnie, 17. Several agriculture department trade experts also were in the party.

One of the critics was Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler who told an audience in Parsons, Kan., that "It is not acceptable morality in public service when the taxpayer has to pick up the check."

Proposed Law to Get Action

Commissioners to Talk on Moving, Wrecking Ordinance Tonight

Final action on a proposed city ordinance to regulate wrecking and moving of buildings in Pontiac is expected at tonight's weekly City Commission meeting.

If approved, it will place more stringent control on moves, such as requiring that a relocated substandard home be brought up to all city standards six months after it is moved.

Proposed by the city's substandard housing committee, it will prohibit the moving of substandard homes from one site to another, according to City Attorney William A. Ewart.

All other items on a brief nine-point agenda deal with routine land agreements for property in the city.

A request has also been made to rezone property at 254 N. East Blvd. to Manufacturing 1.

Commissioners will set assessment payments for sanitary sewer work on Cameron and Emerson avenues.

Claims He Didn't Sell Horse Meat as Beef

DETROIT (INS) — A Peck, frozen food plant operator has pleaded innocent to charges of selling 2,590 pounds of horse meat as beef.

State Food Inspector Joseph A. Eckhout signed the warrant against Homer A. Evans, co-partner of the Peck firm, on complaint of officials of Spencer, Inc., of Detroit, who said they purchased the meat.

7 Groups Elect Officers

Several Oakland County community and church groups recently elected officers. A rundown on the elections follows:

Ortonville

A new teenage club of the St. Anne Catholic Church here has named Mary Becker, president; Nancy Kessler, vice president; Delores Arcand, secretary, and Dale Heck, treasurer. The group, which will meet each Monday night at 7 o'clock in the Rectory, hasn't decided upon a name yet. About 20 youths attended the organizational meeting.

Hadley

A Hadley Community Homemakers Club has been organized and officers elected. They are Mrs. Howard Burgess, chairman; Mrs. S. L. Emery, vice-chairman; Mrs. Mark Earhart Jr., secretary; Mrs. George Starr, treasurer; Mrs. Walter Mudry, recreational leader; Mrs. Ralph Warren and Mrs. Arthur Hardy, project chairmen. Meetings will be held on the second Tuesday each month.

Metamora

Francis Spencer and Robert Rees exchanged offices at the November meeting of the Lapeer County Farm Bureau. Spencer was elected president of the bureau and Rees vice president. Don Travis of Metamora succeeded himself as secretary-treasurer. A membership goal of 1,750 is planned for 1958. Trainers of drive workmen are Arthur Molzon, James Reilly, Ray Clendenan and Mrs. Horace Davis.

The Pilgrim Club has elected Mrs. Ben Schenck president, Mrs. Lyle Allen vice president, Mrs. Carl Snover treasurer and Mrs. George Schenkel secretary. The secretary and treasurer were re-elected. The next meeting will be held Nov. 26 at the home of Mrs. A. F. Burnham at which time the annual Thanksgiving dinner will be served.

New officers following the Hunters Creek Farm Bureau election are: Charles Nyus, chairman; Clarence Bolander, vice chairman; Mrs. Glen Bolton, secretary-treasurer; Carrol Owen, minuteman; J. A. Hoffman, discussion leader; Norley Russell, assistant discussion leader; Mrs. Clarence Bolander, recreation leader, and Mrs. Carroll Owen, publicity chairman. Owen also is delegate to the Farm Bureau State Convention.

Imlay City

New officers of the First Congregational Church are: Mrs. George Braidwood, clerk; Mrs. Herman Kersten, treasurer; Mrs. Karl McKillop, financial secretary; Mrs. Edgar Hougom, benevolence secretary and treasurer; Miss Martha Lengemann, building fund secretary-treasurer, and Irvine Welton, auditor. Deacons and deaconesses for three years are Leo Matthews, Howard Hoadley, Mervin Whiteman, Mrs. Charles Schneider and Mrs. Edwin Muzzy. Mrs. E. E. Simmons was elected to fill a vacancy which expires in 1959. Trustees for three years are Richard Wheeler, Forest Whitkopf and E. E. Simmons.

Pontiac Man Held in Shooting Death

James Witherspoon, 56, of 130 Wesson St., is being held by Pontiac Police for investigation of murder in the slaying of a Pontiac man at the Bagley Hotel, 92½ Bagley St., yesterday.

Joseph Wright, 37, of 46 Lull St., was dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital after being shot in the chest four times.

The two men had been arguing over a lost $5 bill, said witnesses. Witherspoon said Wright brandished a shotgun at him. He pulled ort a .38 calibre revolver and shot several times at Wright in self defense, he said.

Witherspoon may also be charged with felonious assault, as one of his shots hit a bystander, Albert Taylor, 54, of 301 Rockwell St., in the arm.

Police detectives said no warrant will be sought until an autopsy has been performed later today.

Dr. C. R. Murray Killed in Crash

Funeral Service Set for Husband of Former Lapeer Girl

LAPEER — Service for Dr. Charles R. Murray, 52, will be held Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. from the Case Funeral Home, Saginaw.

Dr. Murray was killed early Monday as he was returning from a hunting trip, when his car missed the corner on a dead-end road and struck a utility pole on M18 in Gladwin county.

He is survived by his wife, the former Margaret Cramton of Lapeer and the daughter of State Rep. Louis C. Cramton; two children, Kathie and Jimmie; his mother, Mrs. George Murray of Saginaw, and a brother, James of Detroit.

Dr. Murray, chief of staff of St. Mary Hospital, Saginaw, was widely known. He served as a surgeon in the U.S. Navy during World War II.

Theft of Deer Becomes Double Practical Joke

Joseph Dietlin, 192 Bradley St. Romeo, was one of the fortunate hunters who came home with a deer strapped to the fender of his car Saturday, but when he woke up Sunday morning the animal was missing.

Neighborhood children began searching every likely spot for the missing deer. After about two hours it was found in the neighbor's garage.

The two practical jokesters who made off with the deer were a little worried, because when they grabbed the horns of the animal, they came off, revealing it to be a doe. The pranksters, neighbors Howard Pallister and Marvin Kloock, later learned that Dietlin had a doe license.

Holly Bank Owners Vote Soon on Merger

HOLLY — The stockholders of the First State and Savings Bank will meet on Dec. 10 to pass upon its proposed merger with the Citizens Commercial and Savings Bank of Flint. The consolidation already has been approved by the board of directors.

'Uncle Charlie' Minnick Still Goes Hunting at 90

LAPEER — Charlie Minnick, 186 Higgins St., here, 90 years old on Sept. 22, left Tuesday of this week to go hunting west of Big Bay at the eastern edge of the Huron Mountains in the Upper Peninsula.

He says this will be his last hunting trip, a concession to his advancing age, but if he shoots another buck any deer hunter knows he probably will go again next year.

Last year he shot a four-point buck and has gone hunting every year since 1919, the first season when bucks became the only legal kill.

Recently "Uncle Charlie" decided to sell his nine-room brick house with its large garden and berry patch because it was more than he cared to handle another year. He bought a one-story house on Higgins street with just room for a small kitchen garden in the back.

Charlie was born at Lockport, N.Y., the son of Conrad and Barbara Krause Minnick, who had migrated from Bavaria in 1857. His parents came to Michigan when Charlie was just a baby and they were met at Clarkston by Henry Bartenfelder of Hadley and taken to South Hadley. Later, he owned a farm on Baldwin road, two miles south of Lapeer, and moved to Lapeer 35 years ago.

He married Alice Quinney, who died in 1940 in Lapeer. He has one daughter, Mrs. Matt Wheatley, Lapeer.

Charlie has an older brother, Will, who is 97, who lives with his daughter, Mrs. John Magonigle in Detroit.

Farm Land Value at New Peak

WASHINGTON (AP) — An increasing demand for farm land by both farmers and non farmers—continues to push rural real estate values to new record peaks, the Agriculture Department reported today.

Farm real estate values for the nation as a whole increased 2 per cent between last July 1 and Nov. 1 and 8 per cent during the past 12 months.

These latest increases put the values up 20 per cent during the past four years. By contrast, the general level of prices paid for farm products declined about 3½ per cent during the 20-year period.

In a report on the farm realty market, the department said no end to the rising prices of farm land is in sight.

"The supply of farms for sale continued to be tight during the summer and early fall of 1957, while demand for farm land increased somewhat over 1956. Nationally the most important type of demand for farmland was to enlarge present farms.

SOMEBODY CARED — This little East German refugee, now safe in West Berlin with her brother and parents, shows delight aplenty to repay the American who shared our food abundance through CARE. From Thanksgiving to Christmas, CARE's annual holiday-season Food Crusade asks Americans to send three million packages of U. S. farm surplus, at $1 per package, to refugees, war victims and other needy families in 12 countries of Europe, Asia, the Middle East and Latin America. Send contributions to CARE Food Crusade, 660 First Ave., New York 16, N. Y., or to local office of agency.

Photographer Sues Palance for Battery

George O'Day, of the Los Angeles Herald-Express, charged in the suit field yesterday that Palance attacked him without provocation when O'Day attempted to take the actor's picture last Sept. 6.

The incident took place outside a courtroom where Palance had appeared in connection with a separate maintenance suit brought by his wife, Mrs. Virginia Baker Palance.

O'Day, 45, asked $7,500 actural and $7,500 punitive damages, in addition to $116 medical expenses.

Set New Rules for Blood Bank

Donors and 'Rejects' to Receive Top Priority at Waterford Unit

New rules of operation for the Waterford Township Community Blood Bank were established at a recent committee meeting at the home of chairman Mrs. H. C. Tinney at 6230 Elizabeth Lake Rd.

Top priority for the issuance of whole blood or its derivatives will be given to all donors and the "rejects" of the first Waterford Township Blood Bank held at the Community Activities center in October.

The 60 people who signed up and were rejected for one reason or another will have first choice regardless of the fact that they oculd not be accepted, Mrs. Tinney said. There were 80 donors accepted, she added.

Second priority will go to members and their immediate families of sponsors ofth e project the Waterford Township Business and Professional Women's Club.

The number of pints used, if over and above the individuals' credits, are expected to be paid back at the next ~~local~~ bank.

Persons needing the whole blood have been asked to contact release co-chairmen Mrs. Tinney, FE 2-2937, Mrs. Ruth Fuller, OR 3-1973, or Mrs. Terry LeRay, FE 4-2200.

The next two blood banks have been scheduled for Dec. 16 and Jan. 13 at the Elks Temple in Pontiac.

When you really need a helping hand

It's been a hard day — the longest and hardest day of your life. Growing up can be awful tough on a twelve-year old — when you're suddenly the head of the house.

There's so much to do! Meals to prepare (as best you can). The small kids to take care of. Tidy the house. Fix the baby's formula. If only mother wasn't sick! It's not that you mind the work. It's just that, well, the responsibility is just too overwhelming for one so young. Even easy tasks are difficult for untrained hands.

Then—when everything seems blackest—she comes to the door. The Visiting Nurse —- could anyone be more welcome?

The Visiting Nurses Association is just one of the 55 United Fund services that benefit by this year's Drive. Last year, Visiting Nurses made many thousands of ~~house calls, bringing their skill and~~ training to all who needed it — regardless of race, creed or color.

Your contribution to the United Fund helps all 55 services in their work. So when you are contacted, give the United way; Give once for all. So much depends entirely upon you—and your conscience.

Give 'til It Helps . . .

Personality, Skill Win Out Over Light Play Material

By BOB THOMAS

"Auntie Mame" shows how a wild character beautifully played can carry a show. The play is no great shakes, but Mame is a rich, wacky character expertly done by Rosalind Russell. Sheer delight.

"The Bells Are Ringing" also proves the triumph of personality over material. The book and songs are slight, but Judy Holliday and Sydney Chaplin put the show across with great skill and charm.

"The Cave Dwellers" has been hailed by the critics as William Saroyan at his best. Audiences must wonder. Saroyan has provided the players with some impressively theatrical scenes, but the over-all effect is one of puzzlement.

"Compulsion" is strong stuff. A sprawling, unwieldy play about the Loeb-Leopold case, it explores remote reaches of human behavior. The cast is superb, and the material is absorbing, if seldom moving.

"Li'l Abner" is a fast, tight musical that presents the comic strip characters in faithful reproduction. What saves the whole thing from being grotesque is the pleasant good will of the players, especially Peter Palmer, a ringer for the Dogpatch hero.

"Long Day's Journey Into Night" is Eugene O'Neill's rambling reminiscence of his tortured family. Fredric March, Florence Eldridge and Jason Robards make it alive and compelling.

"Look Back in Anger" takes a jaundiced view of modern life as seen through the eyes of a British intellectual rebel. Well played by an English cast, it is fascinating in a creepy kind of way.

"The Most Happy Fella" offers opera on a Broadway basis. The Frank Loesser score presents pop arias which are beautifully sung. As with most operas, the book is inclined to be a bother.

"My Fair Lady" is — well, "My Fair Lady," that's all. Most of the originals are still in the cast and they are sublime, as is the show.

"Romanoff and Juliet' is a lightweight, charming spoof of the cold war. Best asset: Peter Ustinov in a brilliant role written by Peter Ustinov.

"West Side Story" is a tragic ballet presented as a musical play. The young cast is almost unbelievably talented and evokes an electrifying effect.

At least that's how it all seemed to me.

Sewer Pipe Inspection Becomes Cold Chore

MERCED, Calif. (AP) — "I'm cold," Leroy White, 35, said. His companion, Roy Knapp, 30, agreed. They were totally covered with mud, having spent 10½ hours in a 21-inch sewer pipe.

The two men entered the newly installed mile-long pipe to inspect and repair it. They got stuck in a deposit of mud. After rescuers dug them out, White shook his head. "No more 21-inch pipes for me," he commented.

Garcia Reveals Policy Plans

Philippines to Continue Strong Pro-American Stand of Magsaysay

MANILA (AP) — President Carlos P. Garcia declared today that he will continue the strongly pro-American Philippine foreign policy stressed by the late President Ramon Magsaysay.

The 61-year-old political veteran was relaxed and confident in his first news conference since election to a full four-year term a week ago.

He made these major points:

There will be no changes in Philippine support for the United States, active participation in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization and the United Nations and backing for Nationalist China.

He still is uncertain about whether his new vice president, Diosdado Macapagal of the opposition Liberal party, will be given the vice president's traditional post of foreign minister. It depends on Macapagal's attitude and what arrangements can be made between Garcia's Nacionalista party and the Liberals, the President said.

Garcia said economic problems are his immediate concern. He added that the country needs more loans from the United States and the World Bank to finance industrial development.

Efforts will be made to attract more foreign capital, the President said, and the Philippines will try to expand its trade with Europe and other parts of the world.

CYCLOPS EYE IN COW FIELD — For this giant telescope at Jodrell Bank, England, tracking satellites is child's play.

Telescope in Britain Tracks Red Moons

By TOM A. CULLEN

JODRELL BANK, England (NEA) — The Russian Sputniks are murdering the sleep of this peaceful Cheshire countryside, located 30 miles from the grimy city of Manchester and noted for its cheese.

Or rather, to be more accurate, the $2,500,000 Jodrell Bank telescope, the largest steerable radio-telescope in the world, is what's destroying the peace and quiet of this pastureland.

Dairy farmers can't sleep at night, their dreams being broken by eerie, other-worldy noises that seem to come from the bowels of this red clay soil.

Even the cows are behaving queerly, I was told. The butter content of their milk has gone off, or so the farmers believe.

What the Cheshire farmers hear these frosty winter nights are neither banshees nor subways, but the motors of the Jodrell Bank telescope as it turns and tilts in the night following the Russian satellites in their orbits.

CHILD'S PLAY

Tracking satellites is child's play, relatively speaking, for the giant telescope with its 250-foot reflector.

It is in the coming weeks, with Sputnik II's radio batteries dead and the fantastic circus circles ever closer to the earth, that the Jodrell Bank telescope will come into its own. For now it is the only known instrument capable of tracking the Russian playthings with radar.

The telescope will sit in on the death of the satellites, which is expected to take place early in December. It will listen to the death rattle, record the last convulsions of the two Sputniks as they re-enter the earth's atmosphere.

SUPPLY ANSWERS

Will the satellites explode, due to the heat and friction of earth's atmosphere? Will they disintegrate, scattering showers of meteorites as brilliant as a comet's tail? Or will they return to earth more-or-less intact?

In supplying answers to these questions, the Jodrell Bank telescope will determine whether the Russians have an inter-continental ballistic missile that is capable of returning to earth to discharge its deadly atomic load.

As America launches its satellites into outer space, the telescope will become increasingly important. Already, it is furnishing data on the Russian satellites to the U.S. Naval Research Laboratory.

CYCLOPS EYE

First impression of the Jodrell Bank telescope, as viewed from a taxi two miles away, is that of a gigantic Cyclops eye turned toward the heavens. Only, this is an eye that hears, rather than sees; and, one that is capable of transmitting radio impulses to the stars, the sun and to distant nebulae.

To get an idea of its size, the telescope's reflector is 15 times bigger than the 200-inch mirror of the Mount Palomar telescope in California. The refecting disc is, in fact, big enough to seat 10,000 people (whether comfortably or with knees up to their chins, one is not told).

This disc, which weighs 800 tons, is suspended between two towers that are taller than Nelson's Column in London's Trafalgar Square (185 feet).

But the marvel is that this monster, which weighs 2,000 tons all told, moves with the delicacy and precision of the sweep-hand of a watch when it is tilted to scan the sky or to follow a star in its course.

Asks Expansion of Commission

West Wants Bigger Disarmament Group Despite Russian 'No'

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Despite an advance Russian rejection, the West went ahead with plans to ask the U. N. Assembly today to approve a compromise plan enlarging the Disarmament Commission from 12 members to 25.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister V. V. Kuznetsov told newsmen the enlarged group proposed by the West would be stacked at least 16-9 against Russia. He demanded that at least half the members of any such group be Communist or neutralist.

Prospects were uncertain for the Western plan, conceived to keep the Russians from carrying out their threat to boycott the disarmament talks.

The Soviets let it be known they planned to seek a prior vote on their earlier demand to balloon out the arms negotiations to include all 82 U. N. members. The West has regarded this as a Soviet bluff for bargaining purposes. Initial U. S. reaction to Kuznetsov's latest rejection was that it was a similar bluff.

Kuznetsov conceded that Russia would accept less than all 82 nations. But he said either the proposed 25-nation commission must be expanded to provide seven more Communists or neutralists, or some "Western bloc" countries must be subtracted to provide a balance.

The commission in the past has been made up of the 11 Security Council members and Canada, but the actual negotiations have been carried on by a five-nation subcommittee made up of the United States, Britain, France, Canada and the Soviet Union.

The Western proposal, in itself a diplomatic victory for the Russians, called for adding to the commission—for a one-year period beginning Jan. 1—Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Burma, Czechoslovakia, Egypt, India, Italy, Mexico, Norway, Poland, Tunisia and Yugoslavia.

The 11 Security Council members after Jan. 1 are the United States, Britain, France, Nationalist China, the Soviet Union, Colombia, Iraq, Sweden, Japan, Canada and Panama.

Out of this aggregation the Russians could count on the support of Czechoslovakia and Poland and probably of India, Yugoslavia and Egypt. Burma is neutralist.

'The Body's' Opening Proves Big Success

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — I took the wife to the always-controversial Marie McDonald's big opening—and the gal was great even if she did say to a baldie at the ringside, "Good evening, Yul Brynner!"

WILSON

Baldie's woman friend didn't enjoy it. Later Marie flashed her 25-carat diamond from wearing a polka-dot tablecloth at the first said, "You've heard of Little Rock. This is BIG ROCK!"

Marie sang beautifully, looked sexy as shucks in black chiffon over nude soufle, and had nine more baskets of flowers than any star there ever had before. June Allyson was there Harry Karl, the Hollywood shoe tycoon, and big show, Bob Hope was wearing Louis Shurr, his agent, at the second. Marie's a big, big hit, from top to toe, especially top.

The CBS brass is so devoted to Patti Page's "Big Record" show that it's getting into a variety format—and may even be challenging Ed Sullivan in that department. (Even Bob Hope's asked to go on—to plug a record from a movie.) The CBS enthusiasm won't be pleasing to Ed who has carried the ball so long and successfully in the variety department for that network.

From the Press Box

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

One of the biggest smiles after the Lions' victory over the 49ers Sunday came from Detroit assistant coach, scout and bottle washer, "the hawk" Bob Nussbaumer.

One big reason aside from winning was the great defensive play of rookie Terry Barr, whom we last year claimed was one of the most underrated ball players in the Big 10 while at the University of Michigan.

We were convinced that Barr was one of the best we had seen last season because of his offensive value to the Wolverines and his fine defensive ability.

Nussbaumer didn't want to be quoted at the time, but he commented even before the college season ended that Barr could step right into a defensive halfback's job with the Lions.

Coming back from the All-Star game the past August, Bob reiterated that remark.

Sunday Barr had the best day of his young pro career. Nussbaumer just smiled and everyone knew why. He was right a long time ago.

ALL-STATE TEAMS PICKED

Every year writers gather from all over the state to pick the all-state prep football teams for the AP and for eight solid hours hundreds of players are carefully scrutinized.

Yesterday was that day and after all final statistics, sketches and photos are gathered of the boys the honor teams will be announced.

Last year was said to have been one of best selections of honor teams ever picked, and this is evidenced by the freshman rosters of colleges all over the state and nation.

Every leading boy either received or was offered assistance to go on to college.

WAYNE-OAKLAND LEAGUE ATTITUDE

With this in mind we then look at the attitude of the Wayne-Oakland league which refuses to cooperate in picking honor teams because "it tends to glorify the individual."

Is it wrong to accredit a deserving boy with honor which might earn him a college scholarship? All men are created equal, but it does not mean they are equally capable in things they do, or in football ability.

There are many good boys in the W-O league this year, it's truly a shame none will be found on the honor teams.

The coaches are handcuffed from submitting ballots and as a result there are at least 275 varsity football players in eight communities of the league who are not accorded the equal opportunity of even being nominated, let alone elected.

But yet the conference will have its all-league band!

MSU Slips Past Auburn to No. 1 Spot

AP Writers Give Michigan State 9-Point Margin

Spartans Spurt From 4th, Pass by Aggies and Sooners

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Michigan State leap-frogged from fourth place into the No. 1 spot today in the weekly Associated Press football poll—with a margin of just nine points over second-place Auburn.

The Spartans, who led the poll at the start of the season, but then dropped to the also-rans when they fell before Purdue, thus spurted past Texas A & M and Oklahoma, who had run 1-2 the previous week.

It was by the narrowest of margins that Michigan State edged Auburn—one of the two remaining undefeated-untied major schools in the country. Duffy Daugherty's outfit totaled 1,851 points to 1,842 for Auburn.

Yet Auburn had more first-place votes, 88-87. But it was on the second-place votes that Michigan State climbed to the top. The Spartans had 54 to 39 for Auburn.

Ironically, neither one of these teams, which seem destined to fight it out for the national championship, will appear in a bowl game Jan. 1. Michigan State lost out to Ohio State in the Big 10 title race.

Auburn is in the bad graces of the NCAA and is not permitted to participate in post-season play. Otherwise, the Plainsmen from Alabama would certainly have been the host team in the Sugar Bowl.

Michigan State has one more game to play, against Kansas State, while Auburn still must clash with Florida State and Alabama. The performances of the two teams in the remaining games will go a long way toward determining the national champion.

The top 10 underwent a thorough shakeup as a result of last Saturday's action. Texas A & M which lost to Rice by 7-6, dropped from first to fourth, while Oklahoma, 7-0 victim of Notre Dame, tumbled from second to sixth. Tennessee, which took a 14-7 beating from Mississippi, toppled right out of sight. Iowa dipped from fifth to eighth.

In addition to Michigan State, Auburn jumped one notch, Ohio State moved up to third with 23 first-place votes, Mississippi moved from eighth to fifth, Navy jumped from ninth to seventh and Notre Dame came out of the depths to ninth. Army maintained its status quo in 10th place.

The top ten teams with points on 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis (first place votes and won-lost records in parentheses).

1	Michigan State (87) (7-1)	1,851

No Jinx Seen for Spartans

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

EAST LANSING (AP)—This time, at least, there should be no hoodoo riding with the selection of Michigan State as the top collegiate football team in the country.

The last two times the Spartans won the No. 1 spot in the AP poll, they rode for a terrible fall the very next Saturday. But Kansas State, final opponent of the fall, doesn't figure as a team that could pull a miracle upset.

The dumpings of Texas A&M by Rice and of Oklahoma by Notre Dame helped to move the Spartans up to the kingpin position.

Voters apparently took into consideration that State had smothered Notre Dame 34-6 a week earlier.

Last fall, Michigan State briefly led the voting after similarly whipping the Irish. But then Illinois surprised by taking a 20-13 decision.

The Spartans made the peak of the poll early this season after a 35-6 runaway over Michigan. So Purdue pulled an identical 20-13 upset—the one loss for coach Duffy Daugherty's crew this season.

Michigan State, ironically enough, now is rated ahead of Big Ten champion and Rose Bowl winner Ohio State in third place. Kansas State has beaten Brigham Young, Iowa State and Missouri so far and tied with College of the Pacific. Its losses were to Wyoming, Nebraska, Colorado, Oklahoma and Kansas.

A tipoff that Oklahoma wasn't the steamroller many imagined was that the Oklahoma margin was only 13-0 over Kansas State.

As is the tradition, Daugherty will try to work as many seniors as possible into the starting lineup for their final game in Spartan stadium.

But the sophomores, who were given a chance to romp as early as the second quarter of the 42-13 rout of Minnesota, are sure to see lots of action.

Daugherty has said there will be no scrimmage this week. Most of the senior stars figure on postseason bowl bids and also will be up for grabs in the professional draft and a late season injury could kill their only chances.

The only injury of note from the Minnesota game was a bruised hip suffered by end Bob Jewett, who still should be able to see action.

OKLAHOMA OFFENSE STOPPED — Above sequence is an example of how and why Notre Dame's defense held Oklahoma to ground gains of only 98 yards in Saturday's upset game. On handoff from (qb) Carl Dodd (22), to halfback Jakie Sandefer (27) it appeared briefly that Sandefer would get free. Sooner blockers took out three Irish players, but nobody covered fullback Nick Pietrosante (49) who came around to halt Sandefer with a head-on tackle. Dick Royer (84), Irish end who was blocked out of the play a moment earlier, came back to help nail the halted runner.

Infield Problem Studied by Lane

And Lane, with probably second baseman Billy Martin and first sacker Vic Power of Kansas City in mind, plans to make full use of his catching depth in any trade discussions.

"While other major league teams are crying for catchers, we have some of the best," said Lane yesterday. "With five men available that gives me considerable flexibility and leeway in deals for infielders."

Lane is here to discuss the Indians personnel with field boss Bobby Bragan and scout Hoot Evers. He is expected to start back for Cleveland late today.

Duffy to Coach North

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Hugh (Duffy) Daugherty of Michigan State will be head coach for the North football team in the annual Shrine Charity game here Christmas night. Daugherty will be assisted by Ray Eliot of Illinois.

PROTESTS — Bob Cousy, injured Boston Celtic star, protests that the kick he received from Warrior ace Neil Johnston was "no accident." Cousy is sidelined indefinitely with an ailing leg.

Aaron Claims Ankle Injury Halted 'Sweep'

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Henry Aaron, the Milwaukee Braves' top hitter, says an ankle injury, which still hurts, kept him from sweeping the National League batting honors for hitting average, home runs and runs-batted-in.

The slender outfielder, recently voted the league's most valuable player, wound up with the RBI and the homer titles, but lost his lead in the batting averages.

He was leading in all three departments when he hurt his right ankle in Philadelphia July 17.

'Battle for Prestige' Saturday at Ann Arbor

Only a victory over the Rose Bowl-bound Buckeyes can recapture some glitter from an otherwise drab Michigan season. And the Buckeyes can't afford to lose to Michigan lest their prestige rating drops a notch or two.

The Wolverines had been hoping to knock Ohio out of the title and the bowl junket. But that chance was taken from them when the Bucks beat Iowa last week. Ohio had blasted Michigan's Rose Bowl hopes with a 17-0 victory in the hotly-contested and still-debated finale in 1955.

"We'll have plenty of incentive anyway," Coach Bennie Oosterbaan said. "We always do when we play Ohio."

Michigan features a ground attack with little punch except for the breakaway running of left halfback Jim Pace. The threat of smashes through the middle was eliminated by the injury to fullback John Herrnstein.

But Pace probably is as fine a running back as there is in the Big Ten. He shares the conference scoring leadership at 48 points with Buckeye Don Clark.

"He's the best running back I've seen in two seasons," said no less an authority than Red Grange, the former Illinois Galloping Ghost.

Grange, who now is a football telecaster, made his statement after Pace returned a punt 65 yards for a touchdown in the tie with Iowa.

Recreation Loop Changes Setup

Waterford 'Levels Off' Cage Teams to Provide Better Competition

Managers and players, and any others interested are asked to meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at Isaac Crary School for discussion of plans for the coming Waterford Township Recreation basketball league season.

Recreation director Tom Belton said today the league has effected some important organizational changes this year. "We are now making it possible for teams of lesser skills or desires to participate on equal terms," says Belton, who also announced Nov. 30 as final date for team registrations.

Two games will be played each Tuesday and Thursday nights at the Crary school gymnasium. Waterford Jaycees have entered a team, their first in the league, which this winter has ruled out the better teams because of the smaller percentage of Waterford players involved.

Information about the league may be had by calling OR 3-9152.

'Rookie' Hunter Scores

By H. GUY MOATS

His first deer since taking up the state's biggest outdoors activity projected Birmingham's Carl Paulson into the lead of the current Pontiac Press deer contest.

The "rookie" deer hunter brought home a 188-pound, 8-point buck from near Skandia, in the Upper Peninsula. His entry pushed several 160-175 pounders out of the $150 picture. That's what the outdoorsman who bags the heaviest deer gets for his efforts. Contest ends with the close of the regular gun season, Nov. 30. Late entries (deer must be shot during the regular season only) may be filed up to noon, Dec. 3.

Paulson was hunting with his dad, Lester, who is still trying for his buck. Carl's deer was the only one he saw. It was taken on opening day near a swamp, and carried a splendid, 22-inch-wide rack.

Other successful area hunters included Kenneth L. Frank, 43 N. Tasmania, who took a 170-pounder near West Branch, in St. Helen forest. Buck was Ken's fifth straight in as many years of hunting.

Among several first-time deer hunters who did all right, was Ed Swafford, 12 Downing C., with an unusual 12-point, 165-pounder. Ed was hunting with son-in-law Bob Adler, 22 East Columbia, Bob's dad, Charles and mother Erma, at Wolverine. The Adlers stayed to try for their bucks. Swafford is an ardent pheasant hunter, too.

Army, Delaware Backs Honored

NEW YORK (AP)—Two hard-running halfbacks who set new rushing records last Saturday, Army's Bob Anderson and Delaware's Tony Toto, were named today to the weekly All-East football team of the Eastern College Athletic Conference.

Anderson, a 200-pound sophomore from Cocoa, Fla., ran 145 yards against Tulane for a season's total of 965. This broke the all-time Army rushing record set by Glenn Davis in 1946. Toto, a senior from Old Bridge, N. J., who has played in only five of Delaware's seven games, set a new Delaware record of 715 yards with 169 against Bucknell.

Quick Knockout

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Jimmy Abeyta, California flyweight champion from Oakland, made short work of Jose Rios of Tijuana, Mexico, last night when he scored a knockout in 2:58 of the first round of a scheduled 10-round main event here.

Chemics Class A Champs, Bay City 2nd

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The mighty Midland Chemics, who finished a perfect 8-0 record on Nov. 8 with a 28-0 victory over Owosso, have been acclaimed the mythical Class A high school football champions for 1957.

Midland's selection was unanimous in the final "A" poll of the season conducted by the Associated Press panel of sports writers.

Bay City Central, with only a 20-14 loss to top-ranked Midland to mar an otherwise perfect season, assured itself of second place. Undefeated and untied Muskegon Heights wound up in third place.

In games last weekend, Bay City defeated Flint Northern and won the Saginaw Valley Conference title while Muskegon Heights was tripping Muskegon 7-0.

Flint Northern's second loss of the campaign dropped the Vikings to fifth place while Grosse Pointe, a 7-0 loser to Northern early in the season, took over fourth spot. The touchdown that Flint Northern scored against Grosse Pointe was the only one Ed Wernet's crew yielded all season.

Ann Arbor finished in sixth place while Grand Rapids Union, a 20-6 winner over Benton Harbor, claimed seventh. Undefeated Hazel Park stepped up to eighth place while Lansing Eastern took ninth.

Despite three defeats, Muskegon Catholic salvaged the 10th spot in the rankings. Catholic was defeated 10-0 by Muskegon Heights, 27-21 by Boys' Town and 20-19 by Grand Rapids Catholic last weekend.

Here's the way the AP panel ranks the "top ten" in the final poll of the season:

1. Midland (8-0-0)
2. Bay City Central (8-1-0)
3. Muskegon Heights (8-0-0)
4. Grosse Pointe (7-1-0)
5. Flint Northern (5-2-0)
6. Ann Arbor (6-0-2)
7. Grand Rapids Union (6-1-1)
8. Hazel Park (8,0-0)
9. Lansing Eastern (7-1-0)
10. Muskegon Catholic (6-3-0)

Nala, With Brooks, Futurity Favorite

BALTIMORE (AP)—Jockey Steve Brooks, taken off the horse that won the world's richest race, thinks he knows what would make up for it: Winning the world's second richest race.

The 36-year old veteran from McCook, Neb., was scheduled to ride Claiborne Farm's Nadir in the $277,150 Garden State Stakes Oct. 26. Bill Hartack got the assignment at the last moment and Nadir took first prize of $155,047.

Brooks rode Montpelier Stable's Nala to an upset over Wheatley Stable's Misty Flight yesterday in the mile and one-sixteenth Futurity Prep and now is one of the favorites for Saturday's $171,740 Pimlico Futurity.

Army Halfbacks Praised

Middies Warned by Scout

That was the warning sounded by Navy's chief scout, Steve Belichick, as he gave his report to Coach Eddie Erdelatz and nearly 90 football writers, broadcasters and other interested parties at the New York Football Writers luncheon yesterday. Army and Navy play Nov. 30.

Erdelatz, who insists he never hears anything officially about the Army team until two weeks before the game, turned over the meeting to Belichick, who said:

"I've always said a sophomore has no business playing one-platoon football unless he's exceptional. Anderson is exceptional. He's the finest sophomore halfback I've seen in 10 years of coaching and scouting. I dread to think that we have to face him two more years after this one.

"Anderson and Dawkins form the best set of halfbacks I've ever seen. Most teams have one who is big and can run inside and a fellow who can scoot to the outside. These two can go either inside or outside and they don't give a hang which way they go."

Watch Threatens Rider

Amateur Status in Doubt

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — "Watchful waiting" was the word here today in the Olympic amateur rules controversy involving British riding star Pat Smythe.

International Olympic Committee President Avery Brundage, it was revealed yesterday, has complained that a wrist watch advertisement containing a photograph of Miss Smythe and her horse "appeared to be" a violation of the Olympic Amateur Rules.

Otto Mayer, Chancellor of the IOC, said that Brundage last week wrote to the Marquess of Exeter, President of the British Olympic Assn., and asked for a full report.

The advertisement quotes Miss Smythe as saying that she and her watch have become "inseparable companions.

A spokesman for the Swiss watch manufacturer came to her defense yesterday, claiming she "did not receive a single penny" for the advertisement.

Aussie Tennis Fans Buy Up Cup Ducats

MELBOURNE (AP) — Tennis-mad fans in this down under continent have gobbled up over 20,000 tickets for the Davis Cup Challenge Round at Kooyong Stadium, Dec. 26-28, assuring a sellout for the world's greatest tennis show.

Only 232 seats remain—and these are expected to vanish momentarily — the Davis Cup Organizing Committee announced today. The committee said 20,287 ducats already have been sold.

OFF-SEASON HURT — The grin on pitcher Ralph Terry's face as he relaxes in a hospital bed in Kansas City doesn't indicate it, but he will be laid up about three weeks. X-rays disclosed the young A's hurler had a fracture of the rim of his hip socket. Terry was injured in an auto accident, Nov. 10, and it was thought at first his injury was not serious.

'Y' Cage League Meets on Dec. 20

An organizational meeting of the Community Basketball League of the YMCA will be held Dec. 20 at 7:30 p.m. at the local "Y" building.

The league is open to any group or club of high school boys sponsored by a church, Sunday School or the YMCA.

Teams that took part last year will be given preference in the arranging of an eight-team league with all games on Saturday evenings.

A registration fee will be required from each player participating.

Return Match Booked

NEW YORK (AP)—Danny Russo and Eddie "Pigeons" Lynch, a couple of young inter-borough rivals, may have their return fight at St. Nicholas Arena Dec. 23—health permitting.

Matchmaker Teddy Brenner booked the two welterweights today for the Dec. 23 date after Russo, of Brooklyn, rallied to outpoint sub Pete Schmidt of New York, in a television 10-rounder last night.

Gola Back to Help Bolster Warriors

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A past Rookie of the Year for the Philadelphia Warriors returns from the Army today, and at an opportune time for the National Basketball Assn. team.

Tom Gola, All America center at LaSalle College before becoming the Warriors' outstanding rookie in 1955-56, begins terminal leave today and will be eligible for tomorrow's night game against Cincinnati at Convention Hall.

Surgery for Cousy

Warrior Player Says Injury Was Accidental

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Boston Celtics star Bob Cousy had a doctor's appointment to undergo minor surgery today for a thigh injury suffered in a collision he claims was "not accidental."

Cousy, scheduled to see Dr. Paul V. Shannon at St. Vincent's Hospital to reduce swelling, said that Philadelphia center Neil Johnston "put his knee out to get me" in the Celtics 111-89 victory last Saturday.

Johnston said at his home in Philadelphia "I definitely did not injure Cousy on purpose and I believe he knows that."

Cousy, who will be lost to the unbeaten National Basketball Assn. champions for at least two weeks, said he was carrying the ball down court and Johnston "put his knee out to try and stop me instead of playing defense."

Johnston gave this version of the incident:

"Cousy had the ball and the Celtics were coming up court. Lots of times the ball carrier will stop short and make the guard bump into him. Cousy stopped and I stopped short in front of him.

"He faked one way and went the other and we collided. I thought he charged me but they called the foul on me."

Cousy and Philadelphia owner-general manager Eddie Gottlieb agreed there was no plot by the Warriors to injure him intentionally.

"We weren't out to 'get him' and we don't play that way," Gottlieb said. "As a matter of fact, we never knew he was hurt. (Cousy played after the collision.)

Informed of Gottlieb's comment Cousy said:

"I agree with him to a point. I agree Philadelphia was not out to get me particularly. I don't want to be the cause of any ridiculous feud. I think such things are unfounded in nine out of 10 cases. I'm sure the Philadelphia team does not play that way. But I disagree the incident was accidental."

OSU 'Toast' Worries UM's Coaches

White Will Probably Start Against U. of M. on Saturday

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — An unsung sophomore fullback dramatically became the toast of the Ohio State campus last week and today he's causing the Michigan coaching staff an unusual amount of fretting.

He's Bob White, who methodically plunged through Iowa's massive line for 65 of 68 yards in the Buckeyes' payoff drive to the Big Ten title and 157 for the day.

When White crashed into the Iowa end zone in the fourth quarter he made the score 17-13 and carried Ohio State to the Rose Bowl.

The 207-pound White, who also plays guard and center, was relatively unknown until his last weekend's heroics. He was a third stringer. But he'll probably start for Woody Hayes' eleven when it meets Michigan before 101,000 fans here Saturday.

"White's a tremendous football player," said Michigan scout Matt Patanelli, who watched Ohio in its victories over Iowa and Purdue. "He shouldn't be described as unknown. He ran wild against Purdue too. Hays said he was the best player on the field against Iowa.

Patanelli said White operates behind a line the Buckeyes consider superior to last year's. The 1956 Ohio forward wall was anchored by Jim Parker, a 251-pound All-America guard.

If Don Clark, Ohio's hard running halfback, recovers from a groin injury in time to play Saturday, the weak Michigan line is in for a trying afternoon.

Coach Bennie Oosterbaan kept the injury-riddled Wolverines indoors during yesterday's rain in their opening practice session for the new champs. Defense was stressed as expected.

Michigan's best two defensive backs missed the drill. Fullback John Herrnstein with an injured hip, has only a slight chance to play Saturday. Quarterback Jim Van Pelt is not expected to be able to test his injured knee until tomorrow.

Spartan Runner IC4A Champion

Crawford Kennedy Is Cross-Country King; Ron Delany 2nd

NEW YORK (AP)—Ireland's Ron Delany couldn't make up his mind and, as a result, Crawford Kennedy, 22-year-old Michigan State sophomore, today held the IC4A cross-country championship.

Delany, who is a senior at Villanova, bemoaned his strategy after Kennedy won the five-mile test yesterday in 24 minutes, 14.8 seconds. Crawford topped a field of more than 300 rivals.

"I know it was a mistake not to have gone after Kennedy when he took the lead with about two miles to go," said Delany. "And by the time I had made up my mind to try and catch him it was too late. I figured I could catch him with about a mile to go, but that mile went by shocking fast."

In addition to returning to East Lansing with individual honors, Michigan State also retained the team title and retired the handsome IC4A Cup. Five legs are required for the cup's permanent possession. The Spartans triumphed previously in 1948, 1952, 1953 and last year.

Wings Lose Dineen for Ranger Contest

DETROIT (AP) — Injuries are taking a heavy toll of Detroit Red Wing hockey players this season.

Bill Dineen is the latest to feel the jinx. The veteran right winger twisted his knee during Sunday night's game against Chicago and the club says he'll be out of action for tomorrow night's game against the New York Rangers. He may be able to play against Toronto Saturday.

The Detroit defenseman suffered a shoulder separation and will be out of action at least three weeks.

Dineen is the 10th player out of 18 who started the season six weeks ago to miss at least one Red Wing game. He already had suffered a broken nose and a charley horse but had not been sidelined.

Player Leading Field in Aussie Open Golf Test

MELBOURNE (AP) — South African Gary Player led the way into the semifinals of the Australian pro golf championship today with a 4 and 3 victory over Kalvin Nagle of Sydney in the 36-hole quarter-final.

STRIKES AND SPARES
By Joe Wilman

A mistake often made by league bowlers is to make adjustments in their game too quickly. If their first ball of the evening isn't right in the pocket, they begin to change their angle, speed or some other part of their game. This can be dangerous.

A bowler should roll at least four or five balls before making any adjustments. When you roll your first couple of balls, you may be stiff or uncoordinated; your finger lift or wrist turn may not be effective; your timing may be faulty. At any rate, the angle and speed of your ball may be fine. So, changing them will just add to your confusion.

Naturally, if your first four balls are all light in the pocket, then changes are in order. But wait until you're convinced you're rolling your normal ball before you change.

If possible, get to the alleys early and warm up with a practice game as we show in today's drawing. When you're loose and relaxed, you can make adjustments with certainty.

Deer Hunting Is Fun?

Writer Poses a Moot Question

By JACK PATTERSON

CURRAN — Earlier this fall we saw a cartoon in a national magazine that showed a silly soul who'd taken his wife duck hunting. It was raining hard like it sometimes does on a duck hunting expedition and the caption read: "Remind me again how much fun we're having. I keep forgetting." Well, there are times in this deer hunting business when we feel a great spirit of kinship with that unfortunate gal. We got one horrid example in mind.

PATTERSON

First, some background. We are standing in the shadows of one of our bigger spruce trees. Black stumps all around us look like bears.

But we are not looking at the stumps. We are looking at a sprawling thing, lying in a hollow where it has kicked itself in a final, futile attempt at concealment.

We wish mightily it were in a land where gunfire is never heard. But it isn't, and there is work to be done.

We've got company but no help. We've got friends, companions of many years with whom we've sympathized through many crises. What do these friends do? They sit by idly and offer rude and useless suggestions. They sit there on the dead leaves and tell us what we're doing wrong. And though we've done this miserable thing before we do many things wrong. We'll spare our gentle readers any further surgical details. All we want 'em to do is remind us again how much fun we're having. We keep forgetting.

Although the weather has continued to be very mild over the weekend, a good many deer are falling in the Alcona county area.

Our immediate neighbors aren't doing much but the hunters are having a field day.

And then there's the question of what deer hunters do on a rainy day. If they didn't know before, they found out Monday, because it rained all day, not a heavy rain, but a nasty, thin cold drizzle. It was not a good day for hunting. A very good day for visiting. Back woods and the trails were slicked up in a hurry under the steady rain. We did get around to some of the close neighbors and got a pretty good idea of what the boys do when they are afraid of going outside for fear of drowning. By all odds the most popular rainy day activity is sleeping.

Members of the armed forces think they knew something of the favorite service pastime of sack drill—next to the seasoned deer hunters they are Johnny-Wide-Awakes. It wasn't easy—for example—to rouse one of Pontiac's former mayors out of the feathers, genial host though he was, once on his feet.

Next most popular activity might well be card playing. It's a funny thing though, all we run into is losers. Where the winners go we cannot say.

The most popular evening activity in Alcona county has been a series of meetings jointly sponsored by Abitibi Paper, American Boxwood and the county agricultural agent. Object of the meeting is a desire of land owners on the idea of cutting off mature hardwood areas, principally popples, both for the benefit of the pulpwood producers and the land owners. The latter benefits from increased game carrying capacity of new growth. The paper companies have been pushing the idea for several years now and are meeting with increasing cooperation from landowners with an overgrowth problem.

Not a few camps in the area are suffering sharp decrease in both furred and feathered game because of maturing forest cover over much of the land. Wild life must have edges and openings. When the cover gets too big and thick the game goes elsewhere.

If there is any current complaints in the major deer areas aside from the weather, it is the failure of responsible agencies to close, or at least mark major secondary roads that become impassible due to repairs, or rain, or a combination of both.

We have talked to a number of hunters who have been seriously inconvenienced for lack of warning of a sign or marker. The hunting traffic is a big industry in this area. Some thought along the lines of making things a bit safer and easier for visiting hunters would tend toward good public relations, or so it looks to us from this wet, wooded spot.

City Parochial Feud, Chiefs End Year

By BILL CORNWELL

Football teams from Pontiac High, St. Frederick and St. Michael will end their 1957 schedules in unscheduled fashion this week.

The Chiefs, badly beaten and battered after last week's 48-6 drubbing at the hands of Flint Central, conclude a dismal season Friday afternoon in Wisner Stadium against improved Ferndale.

St. Fred and St. Mike, bitter cross-town rivals, fight for the city parochial championship Sunday afternoon on the same Wisner turf.

Both games were scheduled earlier in the season, but the fall flu epidemic altered plans. The Pontiac-Ferndale contest was originally set for Oct. 4 while the Mikes and Rams were slated to play on Oct. 13.

The best has been saved for the finish as far as St. Mike and St. Fred fans are concerned, although both coaches regret having to meet so late in the year.

Actually, the idea of the two local Catholic foes meeting at season's end is a natural one. But the rotating schedule employed by the Suburban Catholic League prevents this from being an annual finale.

It has indeed been a disheartening debut for Pontiac coach Jesse MacLeay. The Chiefs' new head mentor has seen his gridders go down to defeat five times in seven tries.

Pontiac reached a high point to defeat Arthur Hill, then began a steady decline which hit low tide last Friday at Flint.

Earlier this fall the Chiefs would have been favored to defeat Ferndale. But injuries to key players and their late-season slump combined with Ferndale's sharp play of late make them underdogs.

Gene Wright's Rams, who have guaranteed themselves a winning campaign for the 1st time in "many a moon," feel the same way about the issue. St. Fred's impressive 36-0 victory over Orchard Lake St. Mary last Sunday gave the Rams a 4-3 record and clinched at least a 50-50 mark.

St. Fred will be trying desperately to break a St. Mike stranglehold on the city series. The Mikes have triumphed the last seven years in a row and are only one step away from retiring their 4th Griffin award.

The trophy is retired permanently by the 1st school to win three games in the series. St. Fred has not laid permanent claim to the cup since 1946, a bitter pill for the Rams to swallow.

Royal Oak Dondero and Wyandotte, Border Cities League opponents, will clash Friday night at Royal Oak in another flu-postponed encounter. The game will close the season for both schools.

Parkers One Step Away

Orion Ends Perfect Season

Lake Orion and Hazel Park hold the distinction of being Oakland County's only undefeated and untied high school football teams as the 1957 season draws to a close.

Orion concluded its campaign last Friday with a 13-6 triumph over Holly to complete a perfect eight-game sweep. The Dragons are currently ranked 7th in the weekly state Class B poll.

Hazel Park is unblemished in eight games and risks its record for the last time Friday at Hazel Park against once-mighty East Detroit. The Vikings were rated 8th in the final Class A poll of the year.

Almont and St. Rita were the only two area teams to finish spotless slates. Both posted 8-0 records. Warren and South Lake each chalked up a 7-0-1 mark after playing a 13-13 tie in the Bi-County League title game.

Pace, Clark Share Big Ten Scoring Lead

CHICAGO (AP) — Michigan halfback Jim Pace pulled into a first place tie with Don Clark of Ohio State for the Big Ten all-games football scoring lead with a pair of touchdowns against hapless Indiana Saturday.

Both have nine touchdowns for a total of 54 points. Clark did not take part in Ohio State's title-winning triumph against Iowa because of an injury.

Michigan State's Walt Kowalczyk moved into third place with eight touchdowns and 48 points and Bob Blakely of Minnesota is fourth with six touchdowns and eight conversions for 44 points.

PCC Meeting Dec. 1

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There's trouble on the agenda of the Pacific Coast Conference's winter meeting opening Dec. 1 in San Francisco.

Commissioner Victor O. Schmidt announced yesterday that the Conference will take up the request by the University of Southern California, UCLA and California for an end to the PCC'S round-robin football schedule.

Passes Brother Maurice

Henri Richard Top Scorer

MONTREAL (AP) — The Pocket Rocket is taking the play away from the Rocket.

Henri Richard of the Montreal Canadiens found himself in first place in the National Hockey League's individual scoring race today. He replaced brother Maurice, who was sidelined by a cut Achilles tendon last week and will be lost to the Canucks for an indefinite period.

Henri picked up two assists in last week's action and boosted his point total to 24, one more than Maurice. The Canadiens, in fact, hold down the first four positions with Dickie Moore and Jean Beliveau deadlocked for third place with 19 points.

Boston's Bronco Horvath and New York's Andy Bathgate are tied for fifth place with 18 points.

Henri Richard has the most goals, 12, while he, brother Maurice, Moore and Bathgate share the lead in assists with 12.

The New York goalie combine of Marcel Paille and Gump Worsley has posted the best goals-against average in the circuit—2.11. Glen Hall of Chicago is next with 2.23.

The scoring leaders:

Player, Club	G	A	Pts.
1. H. Richard, Montreal	12	12	24
2. M. Richard, Montreal	11	12	23
3. Beliveau, Montreal	8	11	19

NFL a 'Rookie Loop'

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League came of age some time ago, so it's with another reason in mind everyone's calling it a "rookie league" for 1957.

Cleveland's challenge to New York in the eastern division, the erratic play of the Chicago Bears while Detroit, San Francisco and Baltimore unexpectedly contend for the western title—all have been major surprises of the pro season.

But none matches in importance the way a score or more first year men have muscled and finessed into the headlines of a league generally considered the showpiece of football perfection.

"Brown, Podoley, Galimore, Owens, Bosseler, Sutton, Arnett, Barnes, Harris . . . gosh, you need a roster in front of you to remember them all, there are so many," Jim Lee Howell, coach of the Giants, said today.

"Sure, it's the best rookie crop I've seen since I've been in pro football," he said, "an unusually large group of unusually good players. The way they've worked out, maybe we should have kept more."

They've done so well that it has taken a spectacular day for a veteran of the Frank Gifford, Norm Van Brocklin, or Bobby Layne stamp to get his name in the papers.

Jimmy Brown (Syracuse All-America) and Milt Campbell (Indiana) have had a lot to do with bringing the Browns back to the top. Washington's Redskins have a starting backfield of three rookies, Jim Podoley of Central Michigan, Ed Sutton of North Carolina, and Don Bosseler of Miami (Fla.), with Eddie LeBaron the only veteran.

Willie Galimore (Florida A&M) has run wild here and there for the Bears, who also have an ace defensive rookie in Vic Zucco (Michigan State). Billy Barnes (Wake Forest), Clarence Peaks (Michigan State), and Sonny Jurgensen (Duke), on offense, and Jimmy Harris (Oklahoma) on defense have come along fast with the Philadelphia Eagles.

Los Angeles is raving about halfback-end Jon Arnett, former USC star, and three of San Francisco's last-minute victories have resulted from touchdown grabs by a rookie end, R. C. Owens of the College of Idaho.

Then there's end Lamar Lundy (Purdue) and back Paige Cothren (Mississippi) of the Rams; defensive back Milt Davis (UCLA), whose pass interceptions beat the Bears for Baltimore last Sunday; defensive back Terry Barr (Michigan) and offensive end Steve Junker (Xavier, Ohio) of Detroit; back Dean Derby (Washington) of the Pittsburgh Steelers; back Paul Hornung (Notre Dame) and end Ron Kramer (Michigan) of Green Bay; linemen Jerry Tubbs (Oklahoma) and Dave Lunceford (Baylor) of the Chicago Cardinals, and many more.

"Increasing the player limit from 33 to 35 has made room for more rookies," Coach Howell said, "but these fellows are just good ballplayers and there is always room for players that good."

"Which would you pick as the most outstanding?"

"Well, of course I'm more familiar with the eastern division, although I saw most of the western teams during the exhibitions," Howell said, "but you can't bypass Brown and Podoley.

"Podoley should become a truly great player. He's got size, speed, can catch passes and can run. The Redskins have a real future star in that boy. Brown's overpowers you."

Piston, Celtic Players Shine

Detroit's Yardley Has Best Average, Russell Leading Rebounder

NEW YORK (AP)—George Yardley, the slick, jump-shooting specialist of the Detroit Pistons, and defensive stalwart Bill Russell of the Boston Celtics are important reasons why their teams are leading their respective divisions in the National Basketball Assn.

This was emphasized today with the release of the weekly statistics that showed Yardley holding the highest average and Russell considerably ahead in rebounds with 288.

Yardley averaged 31 points in four games last week, boosting his season's average to 28.7 points a game. In point production, he ranks behind Dolph Schayes of Syracuse, Bob Pettit of St. Louis and Bill Sharman of Boston. But George has played two less games than either of the other three.

Schayes has 279 points followed by Pettit with 276, Sharman with 261, and Yardley and Philadelphia's Neil Johnston with 258 each.

The scoring leaders:

Player, Club	G	FG	FT	Pts.	Avg.
1. Schayes, Syr.	11	88	103	279	25.4
2. Pettit, St. L.	11	86	104	276	25.1
3. Sharman, Bos.	11	97	67	261	23.7
4. Yardley, Det.	9	83	92	258	28.7
5. Johnston, Phil.	11	83	92	258	23.5
6. Russell, Bos.	11	86	45	217	19.7
7. Ramsey, Bos.	11	62	61	185	16.8
8. Graboski, Phil	11	70	44	184	16.7
9. Heinsohn, Bos.	11	62	59	183	16.6

Buckeye White Honored by INS

NEW YORK (INS) —Sophomore Bob White, a third-string fullback who gained almost every yard on a touchdown drive that gave Ohio State the Big Ten title and a trip to the Rose Bowl, is college football's Player of the Week.

By gaining 66 yards in a 68-yard march for the touchdown that beat Iowa, 17 to 13, Saturday, White nosed out such individual stars as Army's Bob Anderson, Nick Pietrosante of Notre Dame, SMU's Don Meredith, Rice's King Hill, Jack Morris of Oregon and Joe Francis of Oregon State in the weekly poll of International News Service's panel of experts.

Budapest Students Boycotting Lectures

VIENNA (AP) — The Hungarian Communist party newspaper said today some Budapest university students are boycotting political lectures in a silent war against forced indoctrination.

Nepszabadsag charged that "misled and misguided elements" in the philosophical and electrical colleges had led boycotts against courses in Marxism-Leninism.

"Hostile argumentation has been offst" in most classes, the paper said, but instruction is sometimes interrupted by impertinent and brash behavior. Students in the medical and technical institutes were also involved in such incidents, Nepszabadsag said.

Plating and coinage are two of the oldest uses for nickel.

Stocks Continue Downhill Roll

Most leading stocks declined narrowly, a few stretching their losses to about a point. Some showed slight gains.

The market was down at the opening in active dealings. As the pace slowed there was a more steadying tendency, but most sections of the list were definitely on the downside.

The effect of the lower Federal Reserve discount rate showed in lower rates for the latest issue of U.S. Treasury bills and in a cut in commercial paper rates. The treasury's big bond offering also showed the effect of the lower discount rate.

Fractional losses were taken by a wide variety of stocks including U.S. Steel, Ford, Boeing, Anaconda, Kennecott, Union Carbide, Southern Railway, Royal Dutch, Gulf Oil and U. S. Gypsum.

Opening blocks included: B & O off ¼ at 27 on 3,000 shares; General Motors unchanged at 36 on 1,500; and Pennsylvania Railroad off ⅛ at 14 on 1,500.

Pineau Brings Appeal to U.S.

Seeks Limit on Arms Shipments to Tunisia by America, Britain

WASHINGTON (AP)—French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau appeals directly to the U. S. government today to limit Tunisian arms to one gun per soldier lest any surplus be smuggled to Algerian rebels.

Pineau told reporters on arrival in Washington last night that was the main purpose of his flight from Paris.

He said such restrictions might "limit the damage" he contends was caused by U. S.-British shipments of weapons to Tunisia last week despite bitter French protests.

Pineau said the arms shipments harmed Atlantic solidarity at the very moment efforts were being made to reinforce it.

Dulles scheduled a late afternoon appointment with Pineau, taking time out from consideration of plans to revitalize the Western alliance in the face of Russia's new scientific advances.

Pineau said any stockpiling of surplus guns by Tunisia might let some weapons get across the border to Algiers, where France has been battling Arab rebels for two years. He expressed doubt that Tunisia's President Habib Bourguiba could control any surplus. He said the ratio should be 4,000 rifles for the 4,000 Tunisian soldiers—and no stockpile.

Minnesota Liked Despite Tax Policy

(Seventh in a series of articles on taxes and industry)

By JACK MacKAY

ST. PAUL (AP) — A hard-hitting campaign to lure industries from other states to Minnesota is paying off.

Some leading industrialists feel that Minnesota could well overhaul its tax structure to make it more friendly to business and industry, but they are quick to defend the Gopher State as one with many advantages that more than offset the tax atmosphere.

Investment of capital from outside the state and growth from within have produced substantial industrial expansion in Minnesota.

A half-dozen businessmen who guide the destinies of companies doing a combined business in excess of two billion dollars were asked how they view the advantages and disadvantages for industry in Minnesota.

Every one to a man praised as advantages skilled labor, intelligent people, adequate water and power supplies, recreational resources, access to railroads and rivers, communications, availability of raw products. Only sour note in the comment was the tax structure.

IRON EXPANDS

James W. Clark, state commissioner of business development, said iron mining companies are putting nearly a billion dollars into the benefication of taconite, a low grade iron ore; that natural gas is on the way from Canada, and that such firms as Remington Rand and International Business Machine are establishing plants in Minnesota.

Evidence of growth from within is shown in the substantial increase in sales by such firms as Pillsbury Mills, Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Company, Minneapolis Honeywell, General Mills and others.

Philip W. Pillsbury of Minneapolis, chairman of the board of Pillsbury Mills, Inc., said Minnesota is "an excellent place to conduct our headquarters operations and to mill flour as we have done since 1869."

OBJECT TO TAX

Like most other Minnesota industries, however, Pillsbury said, "We find the personal property tax the most objectionable part of the state tax structure." He said he finds other corporate taxes comparable with other states.

The Minnesota Taxpayers Assn., in a recent report o' the financial record of the 1957 legislature, said "the most important issue through the session was the attempt to provide a tax system more friendly to business, industry and the farmer." A plan was submitted by the governor's nonpartisan civilian tax study committee, but most of the recommendations for improvement of the tax climate were not adopted.

H. P. Buetow, president of Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing, stressed that a "skilled and matured labor force" was an important factor in its expansion program. He also mentioned the recreational opportunities that are often strong inducements in attracting employes, particularly in the technical field, from outside the state, but added:

LOOKS AWAY

"However, all factors being equal, the Minnesota tax structure could dictate the expansion of 3-M or other areas, particularly since less than three per cent of the company's total sales are in Minnesota."

High praise of Minnesota advantages also came from Cargill MacMillan, president of Cargill, Inc., the nation's largest handler and processors of food products, with sales in 1956 surpassing a billion dollars, and Charles A. Ward of St. Paul, president of Brown & Bigelow, the nation's largest specialty advertising firm.

Ward said "tax conditions might not be the most favorable," but that other factors offset the tax structure.

Thomas L. Daniels of Minneapolis, president of Archer-Daniels-Midland, processors of agricultural commodities, said, "Agricultural products grow here and in adjacent areas in great abundance. Huge deposits of minerals and oil are close at hand."

Commissioner Clark concedes that "the state has dragged its feet in the revision of the tax structure which should be accomplished to make Minnesota more competitive in the production of those goods which seek a national market."

He said such revision was "nearly accomplished" by the 1957 legislature and confidently predicts needed changes by the 1959 legislature.

Toboggan Ride for Hurt Hunter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A State Police rescue team dragged a critically wounded hunter two miles to a hospital on a toboggan Monday after he had been shot accidentally by another hunter.

George Kenyon, 41, of Wayne, was shot while hunting 25 miles north of Iron Mountain in an area of heavy brush. Police said a heavy snow was falling when Kenyon was struck by a bullet fired by Dale G. Youngglove, 18, of Trenton.

Kenyon was carried by other members of his party for a mile before State Police arrived and bundled him onto a toboggan for the rest of the trip to Penn Hospital in the Dickinson County Community of Norway.

Kenyon's wounding was one of a score that have occurred since the 16-day deer hunting season opened Friday.

Three hunters have been killed by gunfire and seven have died of heart attacks so far in the season.

Death Notices

He was a mill operator at the Varnish Co., and a member of Moose Lodge No. 182.

Mr. Martin leaves his wife, Betty; his parents, Eddie C. and Marion M. Robinson Martin; and three children, Cheryl Lynn, James G. and Eddie Allen, all at home. A brother, Eddie C. Martin, also survives.

Service will be at 2 p.m. Thursday from Farmer-Snover Funeral Home with the Rev. Tommy Guest of First Social Brethren Church officiating. Burial will be Perry Mt. Park Cemetery.

CHRISTIE L. BECKER

CLARKSTON—Christie L. Becker, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Becker, of 6450 Snowapple Dr., Clarkston Gardens, died this morning at her home. Her body is at the Sharpe Funeral Home here.

Surviving are her parents; two brothers, Richard and Brian and a sister, Carol Anne, all at home; and the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Shortt of Pontiac and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Becker, also of Pontiac.

MRS. VEDA MAY KEFGEN

ROMEO — Service for Mrs. Veda May Kefgen, 68, a former Armada resident, will be held at 2 p.m. today at Roth's Home for Funerals here with the Rev. Marion Pohly officiating. Cremation will be at White Chapel Crematorium. Mrs. Kefgen died on her birthday, Sunday, at her home in Grand Rapids.

Surviving are three brothers, Hiron Corbin of Pontiac, Fabin of Port Huron and Merle of Romeo, and a foster sister, Mrs. Mildred Spencer of Lapeer.

ERNEST E. RAGATZ

MARLETTE — Service for Ernest Ragatz, 65, who died Saturday in the Marlette Community Hospital, will be held today at 2 p.m. Burial will be in the West Goodland Cemetery, Lapeer County.

Mr. Ragatz lived in Pontiac for a number of years, but spent the latter part of his life in Marlette and Kingston. He is survived by his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Melvin Hudson, Brown City, and Mrs. James Wonch, Kingston; two sons, Floyd of Snover and Ernest of Pontiac; a sister, Mrs. Edith Traineo, Snover, and two brothers, Floyd of Almont and Lloyd of Imlay City. Eight grandchildren also survive.

EDWARD W. REINHOLZ

ROMEO — Service for Edward W. Reinholz, 58, of 332 East St. Clair, was to be held at 2 p.m. today at Roth's Home for Funerals with burial at Bruce-Armada Cemetery. Mr. Reinholz, local television and radio repairman, had been a Romeo resident for 25 years.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Mae Schunck of Romeo and Mrs. Martha Caldwell of Utica.

EDWARD SCHATZ

ROMEO — Service for Edward Schatz, formerly of 13271 31 Mile Rd., was conducted at 11 a.m. Monday, with burial in Romeo Cemetery. Mr. Schatz was a retired Hudson Motor Co. employe, a resident of the Romeo area for 28 years. He died Friday near Northville.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Lyman of Royal Oak, Mrs. Mary Krachie, Dearborn, and Mrs. Matilda Damrais, Detroit; and two sons, Robert of Cleveland and Joseph of Detroit.

CAMIEL SCHOUTTEET

ALMONT — Rosary service for Camiel Schoutteet, 74, of Route 1, Almont, will be recited at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Muir Brothers Funeral Home here. Funeral Mass will be conducted at 10:30 a.m. Thursday, in St. John Catholic Church, Allenton. Burial will be in West Berlin Cemetery.

Mr. Schoutteet died Monday in Lapeer County General Hospital. He is survived by his wife, Emerence; a daughter, Mrs. Marie Valpoelvoorde and two granddaughters.

Adlai to Inform Dems on Talks

Stevenson Plans to Tell Congressional Leaders About NATO Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson apparently is going to keep Democratic congressional leaders fully informed of the progress of his NATO program discussions with Secretary of State Dulles.

Stevenson, the twice-defeated Democratic presidential nominee, was said to recognize that his party's members of Congress must assume the major responsibility for any bipartisan support for proposals to be laid before the North Atlantic Council next month.

But Stevenson himself emphasized that "I am here not as a Democrat only, but as one who has had some experience in the foreign policy field."

That was his reply to a reporter who asked whether he expected congressional Democrats to accept him as their spokesman.

Among other things, Stevenson worked on the founding of the United Nations in 1945 and served with the American delegation. In 1953 and again this year, he traveled extensively abroad.

He conferred yesterday with Dulles and received a number of tentative State Department working papers. After a day of studying them, he commented that they had incorporated some of the suggestions he made to Dulles about a week ago in a written memorandum.

He called his first day's work a good beginning. He said he will leave tonight for New York and Chicago, but will return next Monday to "work right through" to a Dec. 3 White House meeting of Republican and Democratic congressional leaders.

Expert Offers Savings Advice

Borrow Least Possible, Have Money at Interest, Diversify Funds

NEW YORK — A sound savings and investment program based on what is happening in the world today is offered by money management expert Sidney Margolius.

Writing for a national magazine, Margolius states, "In this era of tight money and credit a family aware of today's trends has a better chance to provide themselves with the universally wanted financial security."

Among the principle steps in Margolius' practical program for hatching a financial nest egg are:

1. When possible, use your own money. Borrow the least you can, not the most, and arrange to repay as promptly as possible.

2. Get an early start in your savings. It will put to work for you the mightiest force in financial history — compound interest.

3. Make sure that you are investing in the correct channels. Savings banks, insurance, government Series E bonds and mutual funds all have advantages. Get to know them and pick the one best suited to your own savings desires.

	Annual Yield
$2,000 in insured savings at 6%	$90
$1,500 in common stocks at 5%	75
Total	$235

Firm Says Bandages Won't Stick to Wound

CHICAGO—A surgical-dressing company in Chicago has developed a new adhesive bandage it says will not stick to a wound and will promote faster healing.

A pad on the bandage consists of gauze with a thin plastic surface. The company says the gauze retains drainage from the wound, keeping it dry and helping it heal faster.

With Pontiac as Hub

State Forms New Road District

The State Highway Department, recognizing Oakland County's increased highway needs, is planning to locate a new district office in or around Pontiac.

The office will be headquarters for a newly created highway district, No. 9, comprised of Oakland, Macomb and St. Clair counties.

Oakland formerly was in a larger district, No. 8, which included Macomb, Washtenaw, Hillsdale, Lenawee, Livingston, Ingham, Jackson and Monroe counties.

"The redistricting is because of the tremendous amount of work in Oakland and Macomb counties that will result from the Highway Commissioner's 10-year highway program," said Irving J. Reuben, office manager of the Wayne County and Eighth Districts in Redford.

PLANS PONTIAC OFFICE

"The Highway Department plans to build or rent an office in the Pontiac area sometime in the near future, although not immediately, in order to be as centrally located as possible for this new construction," Reuben said.

Chief engineer for the new district will be John A. Wills, who is presently construction engineer for District Eight.

Wills, 46, of Livonia, has been a highway department employe 20 years. He is a graduate of Michigan College of Mining and Technology in Houghton.

Until the new Pontiac office is established, Wills will use the Redford office as his headquarters after the redistricting becomes effective next Monday.

The principal road projects planned for the new District Nine are the proposed Oakland County expressway (new U. S. 10) from Detroit past Pontiac to Flint, and a new U. S. 25 from Detroit past Mt. Clemens to Port Huron.

Police Guard Assembly

Million of Paris Workers Striking for Higher Pay

PARIS (INS) — Massive precautions were taken today by Paris police and riot-hardened republican guards to protect the French National Assembly from thousands of civil servants demonstrating for higher wages.

Veteran observers of the French scene noted that the police and guards could be confident that no French functionary would ever demonstrate during his sacred lunch hour, even when he is on strike.

About one million civil servants quit their jobs, beginning at midnight, for a 24-hour strike, the third such massive protest in five weeks against a mounting inflation.

Administrative activities were paralyzed; water supplies shut off; telephone and telegraph service stopped; bus, train and plane service halted, most schools closed, and even the dead were left unburied.

THOUSANDS MARCH

Thousands of strikers, including nurses, dustmen and other functionaries, marched arm-in-arm down the Rue de Rivoli toward the National Assembly shouting "Give us more pay."

As they converged on the Place de la Concorde, police and the tough republican guards threw a virtual wall of flesh and metal around the Assembly where Premier Felix Gaillard is expected to win a vote of confidence tonight for the government's new program of higher taxes and belt-tightening economies.

For a couple of morning hours the precautions on the bridge facing the famed square were reminiscent of the days of violent Communist strikes in 1947.

At least 1,000 police and guards sealed the bridge going from Place de la Concorde to the Parliamentary Palace. Huge police trucks were parked on the bridge as barriers.

Police and guards stood shoulder to shoulder, six to eight deep, on the bridge. They carried machine pistols and tear gas grenades.

Similar precautions were enforced around the assembly building and the left bank of the Quai was lined for many hundreds of yards with solid masses of blue and khaki-clad officers.

Chrysler Strike May Hit 23,000

Mound Road Division Walkout Could Cross Country

DETROIT (AP)—A strike of United Auto Workers against the Chrysler Corp.'s Plymouth Road Engine Plant threatened today to affect 23,000 Chrysler workers across the country.

A company spokesman said another 11,000 Chrysler workers in the Detroit area and 12,000 in regional assembly plants in Evansville, Ind.; Newark, Del., and Los Angeles could be idled if the strike continues "for any length of time."

Negotiations were adjourned yesterday and no new talks were set. A company spokesman said, however, "The company is available to meet with union officials whenever they wish."

The plant makes engines for Plymouth automobiles.

Norman Matthews, UAW vice president, said in a statement that "Chrysler's determination to inflate production standards beyond all reason is the main reason that sparked Local 51 to strike action.

"Chrysler management knows that one shortcut to still higher profits is by increasing the work load of its workers."

Local members voted 97 per cent in favor of a strike if issues weren't settled yesterday, the UAW said.

The company said some 4,000 to 5,000 assembly line workers will be affected tomorrow and additional workers will become involved if the strike continues.

Workers at two other Chrysler plants in the Detroit area have voted to strike over similar issues but have not yet received approval from the international UAW.

Pontiac State Bank to Pay 50c Dividend

Milo J. Cross, president of the Pontiac State Bank, announced today that the directors of the bank have approved a 50 cent dividend, to be paid Dec. 16, for stockholders of record Dec. 2.

City Aide Recovering After Slight Attack

Oscar Eckman, director of finance for the City of Pontiac, is reported resting comfortably at Pontiac General Hospital following a slight coronary attack suffered Sunday.

Dr. Thomas H. Cobb said Eckman, 68, would be confined to the hospital for two to three weeks.

HOW I STARTED A NEW LIFE WITH $6

By a Wall Street Journal Subscriber

I work in a large city. Over a period of time I noticed that men who read The Wall Street Journal are better dressed, drive better cars and have better homes.

I said to myself, "Which came first, the hen or the egg? Do they read The Journal because they have more money, or do they have more money because they read The Journal?"

I started asking discreet questions. I found that it works both ways. Men who are well off have to have the information in The Journal. And average fellows like me can actually win advancement and build up increased incomes by reading The Wall Street Journal. How do I know? Because not long ago I sent $6 for a Trial Subscription to The Wall Street Journal. It has put me ahead already.

This story is typical. The Journal is a wonderful aid to salaried men making $7,000 to $20,000 a year. It is valuable to owners of small business concerns. It can be of priceless benefit to ambitious young men.

The Wall Street Journal is the complete business DAILY. Has largest staff of writers on business and finance. The only business paper served by all four big press associations. It costs $20 a year, but you can get a Trial Subscription for three months for $6. Just tear out this ad and attach check for $6 and mail. Or tell us to bill you.

Published daily right in the Midwest to bring you vital business and Washington news immediately. Address: The Wall Street Journal, 711 W. Monroe St., Chicago 6, Ill.

Laborer Backs Claim of Fraud

Insurance Firm Says Slaying Staged to Get Money on New Policy

LOS ANGELES (UP) — A husky laborer backs up an insurance company's claim that a money lender named Max Shayne masterminded his own slaying so his family could collect $250,000 in insurance.

"He (Shayne) told me that he wanted me to kill him," said Earl Matlock, who is charged with murder.

Matlock said he tried to back out of the plot, struggled with Shayne and killed the money lender "in self-defense."

Shayne, 48, was found dead Sept. 29 in his parked car, apparently the victim of a robbery and murder. Matlock was arrested three days later.

Beneficial Standard Life Insurance Co. yesterday filed a Superior Court complaint to rescind the policy Shayne took out just 19 days before his death. The firm charged that Shayne staged his own death to escape the suicide exclusion clause of the policy.

In an interview at county jail, the 200-pound Matlock told reporters that Shayne offered him $1,000 and some jewelry to strangle him and make it look like murder and robbery. Matlock said he turned down the offer.

"I kept trying to get out of the parked car," Matlock said, "and he (Shayne) would keep pulling me back. My shirt got torn and he scratched my face when we were struggling."

Finally, Matlock told reporters, he broke a strap from the back seat and knotted it about Shayne's neck.

"Why don't you go ahead and finish it," Matlock said Shayne told him.

"I pulled the strap tight again, intending to just make him unconscious so I could leave," said "When he went limp I wiped my fingerprints off the car and left."

At the time of Shayne's death, he and his brother Irving, 39, were free on an appeal bond, but under five-year prison sentences resulting from convictions on charges of fraud in connection with FHA home improvement loans.

Shayne was survived by his widow Mollie, a grown son and a teen-age daughter.

Car Jumps Curb and Kills Detroiter

DETROIT (UP) — Leslie Elliott, 50, of Detroit was killed last night by a backing automobile which jumped a curb and struck him as he was emerging from a bar with his wife.

Police said Cislaw was attempting to back into a parking space when his car went over the curb, knocked over a parking meter, tore off a tavern door and struck Elliott 40 feet further on. Elliott and the door were carried 64 feet.

Clio Woman Killed— Hit by Car on Highway

FLINT (UP) — Mrs. Jessie Myers, 75, of Clio, was injured fatally last night when struck by a car on a highway in front of her home seven miles northwest of Flint.

The driver, 36-year-old Charles L. Manchester of Clio, told police it was raining and he did not see the woman in time to stop.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UP) — Dean Martin wants to regain custody of his four children by Elizabeth Ann Martin. The singer-actor filed suit in Superior Court charging that his former wife is unfit to continue raising the children: Craig, 15, Claudia, 13, Gail, 12, and Deana, 9. Mrs. Martin was awarded custody at the time of the couple's 1949 divorce.

Expert Gave Britain Crocodile, Delivered Sputnik to Russians

(2nd of Two Dispatches)
By TOM A. CULLEN

CAMBRIDGE, England (NEA) — An eight-foot crocodile with gaping, saw-toothed jaws, carved on the brick wall of a Cambridge University laboratory, will remind Britons for generations to come that "Kapitza was here."

Yes, Dr. Peter Kapitza, the Russian scientist who designed Sputnik, very definitely was here. I found traces of him everywhere at Cambridge, where he spent 14 years doing atomic research at British government expense.

CIRCLES GLOBE

The fruit of that research is the Russian satellite now circling the globe at 18,000 miles per hour.

But to return to the crocodile — it was designed by Kapitza to adorn the entrance to the Mond Physics Laboratory, which was specially built for Kapitza to carry on his atom experiments.

Its meaning? To friends Kapitza explained, "The crocodile is the only animal that cannot turn its head; therefore, like science it must go forward."

TEARS FALSE

But the crocodile has other meanings. With its false tears, this ugly animal has become a universal symbol of hypocrisy, a meaning not lost upon the Russians who call their satirical magazine, "Krokodil." Could it be that, in adopting this mascot, Kapitza was poking sly fun at his British hosts? Was this his way of letting the British know what fools he had made of them?

If so, his hosts were blissfully unaware of it the morning of Feb. 3, 1933, when the Mond Physics Laboratory was opened. Cambridge still remembers that opening. Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, himself, was there.

Led by Sir Ernest Rutherford, the great men of physical science came in their colorful gowns to pay homage to Kapitza. Chadwick, Blackett, Cockcroft, Walton — at least six Nobel Prize winners were present.

NEVER USED

Yet Kapitza was never to use this brand new laboratory. Less than a year after it opened he was safely in Moscow laughing at his British colleagues. The crocodile, impressioned in bricks, is, perhaps, laughing too.

Cambridge is full of memories of Kapitza. For never before or since has the sedate university seen anything quite like the young Russian engineer who, with cloth cap and pipe, came striding into its quadrangles in 1921.

He looked like one of those slightly comic heroes of the early Russian films in which a concrete mixer brings the boy and girl together, an impression heightened by the fact that he is slightly cross-eyed.

MAD MULLAH

No wonder Cambridge called him the "Mad Mullah." He was also notoriously absent-minded, according to Dr. David Shoenberg, the present director of the Mond Laboratory.

In his off-duty hours the Mad Mullah was a speed demon and early hot rod enthusiast. He was probably the first Cambridge scientist to drive a Scott motorcycle, and he still retains a scar under his chin as the result of a crack-up.

Whatever Cambridge may think of Kapitza as a man, it has nothing but awe and respect for him as a scientist. "A highly original mind," is the verdict of Dr. David Shoenberg, the director of the Mond Laboratory, who worked as a graduate student with Kapitza.

The late Sir Ernest Rutherford, the great British physicist, early recognized Kapitza's genius and treated him almost as an adopted son.

Yet signs of Kapitza's political instability were not lacking. He was the type of man who, if anything, is more dangerous than the dedicated Communist; he was politically a-moral, an opportunist, a fence-jumper.

This side of Kapitza's character was described to me by the curator of the Cavendish Laboratory museum, G. D. Crowe.

"I remember him telling me how he saw his own father shot in cold blood by the Bolsheviks," Crowe recalls. "His father was a Czarist general."

When Crowe asked him if his father's execution hadn't turned him against the Bolsheviks, Kapitza's reply, which has the ring of prophecy, was, "I'm with whoever I happen to be with at the time."

In the 1920's and early 1930's Kapitza was with Cambridge. To the young engineer, the Cavendish Laboratory must have seemed the realization of a dream. For it was here that the world was being transformed.

It was here that the electron was discovered, the atom first split, the nucleus forced to yield up its secrets. Here under one roof were gathered the most brilliant galaxy of scientists the world has ever known: J. J. Thomson, Rutherford, Bragg, Chadwick, C. T. R. Wilson, Blacket, Powell, Cockcroft — their names are already legendary.

Kapitza was doing his bit to make life exciting. As early as April, 1924, Rutherford noted, "Kapitza, as you know, is preparing to do a big experiment for producing magnetic fields . . . This research is being financed by the government . . . The whole scheme will cost a great deal."

Meanwhile, Kapitza had married a Russian girl and showed every sign of settling down and making England his home. Then, in 1934, came the shock that rocked the scientific world. On the pretext of attending a conference in Moscow, he fled to the Soviet Union, never to return.

Miriani Slates Meeting With Top Detroit Aides

DETROIT (INS) — A new era in Detroit government will be kicked off Friday when Mayor Louis C. Miriani holds the first "board of directors" meeting of city officials.

More than 30 top aides—heads of various city departments and commissions—will meet in the mayor's conference room. It will be the first time in modern Detroit history that all key leaders have gathered under one roof for a top-level confab with the mayor.

British railways have rubber buffers and springs to absorb shock and vibration when they transport fragile cargoes of glass. This precaution reduces breakage.

Only 19 Bodies of 44 Aboard Plane

Carrier Brings Sad Cargo — Wreckage

Five FBI agents were first aboard the big ship, which had left hurriedly with only three-fourths of its crew to lead the search for a Pan American Stratocruiser which vanished Nov. 8 on a flight to Honolulu with 44 aboard.

The FBI men made a preliminary examination of the bodies and of 14 cartons and three crates of wreckage found floating on the sea — only trace of the craft.

Rear Adm. Thomas A. Ahroon, commander of Carrier Division 17, told newsmen after docking: "I am sorry to say this mission has not been successful in finding survivors."

The bodies were to be taken to a Long Beach mortuary for examination by the Los Angeles County coroner's office.

Investigators said they found evidence of fire in the debris. But they have not determined so far whether the fire occurred while the plane was still in the air or after it hit the water.

The carefully packaged debris was then loaded on trucks for removal to San Francisco, where an official examination will be conducted by the CAB.

The bodies of the victims also will be examined by pathologists, chemists, dentists and others in an effort to uncover anything possible about the nature of the crash.

Each body will be X-rayed for the purpose of learning precise effects of the impact. The examiners also hope to get some idea of what angle the plane was traveling at when it hit the sea.

Uniform Divorce Law Advocated

President of B'nai B'rith Women Say It Would Avert Mistakes

WASHINGTON (UP) — The President of B'nai B'rith Women said today the nation needs a uniform marriage and divorce law to prevent hasty marriages and halt "competitive divorce bargains."

Mrs. Hy Kornbleet of Kansas City, Kan., said she believed uniformity of marital laws would reduce the number of "wayward marriages" which break up after a few years.

Mrs. Kornbleet's views were included in a report on youth problems prepared for the National Executive Board of B'nai B'rith. The board opens a two-day meeting today.

She suggested stricter legal requirements for marriage, including (1) a five-day waiting period after issuance of a marriage license before the ceremony can be performed, (2) physical and psychiatric examinations for bride and groom, and (3) premarriage counseling.

Mrs. Kornbleet said uniformity of regulations dealing with divorce would "eliminate the premium on fraud, dishonesty and high expense which characterized our divorce mills. . . ."

Highland Road Crash Injures Two Slightly

Two people were slightly injured in a two-car accident at 6744 W. Highland Rd., at 5 p.m. yesterday.

June R. Larson, 39, of 1138 Airway Dr., Waterford Township, told Waterford Township Police her auto was stopped to make a left turn when a car driven by Mrs. Barbara Scott, 30, of 5701 White Lake Rd., skidded on the wet pavement into the rear of the Larson car.

Both Mrs. Scott and her son Tony, 16, were taken to Pontiac General Hospital and treated for cuts and bruises.

Shadows Solve Rodent Problem

Van Johnson Portrays Title Role in Musical Fairy Tale Nov. 26

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

For some real rat problems I give you today the city of Hollywood, Producer Hal Stanley and a TV network squeamish about rats.

It was Producer Stanley's idea to film a lavish, 90-minute, $650,000 musical spectacular, "The Pied Piper of Hamelin," due for showing on NBC Nov. 26.

It was easy to line up a sparkling cast — Van Johnson as the Piper, Claude Rains, Lori Nelson, Kay Starr and Jim Backus.

High brass at NBC-TV sounded just like Sam Goldwyn when they told Producer Stanly:

"We want to see the rats but we don't want to see them."

THEY'RE SQUEAMISH

Even if he was a veteran of show business, Stanley blanched as he repeated, in a sort of a daze, "You want to see the rats but you don't want to see them?"

"No real rats," NBC said. "People are squeamish about rats. So are sponsors. So is the network."

"But you know the story," Stanley said, as he saw his big idea, plus a bundle of cash, going down a rathole.

"This fellow pipes the rats out of town and because he doesn't get paid he pipes all the children of Hamelin into a mountain. Only I'm giving it a happy ending. I'm springing the kids out of the mountain."

NBC refused to waver. If there was going to be a show it would have to be without rats. The network's final order to Stanley was: "NO rats — no rats that look like rats, at least."

BIGGEST PUZZLE

For a brief moment, Producer Stanley juggled TV's biggest puzzler of the year. Then he came up with the answer and NBC green-lighted the show.

He would give the network "fairy-tale instead of biological rats." He'd show the rats only in shadow and they might even be "cute" rats.

Stanley consulted with Jack Rabin, head of a Hollywood special effects company. Rabin, a long-time veteran of movie magic, and madness, didn't even raise an eyebrow.

"You want to see rats but you don't want to see them? That's easy," said Rabin. So they rounded up some rats and they were just what Stanley wanted. "They weren't fierce little monsters — they were anemic."

They photographed shadows of the rats on one stage and Van Johnson piping them out of town and into a river on another stage. Then, by special effects, they blended the shows of the rats into the scenes with Van and it all turned out so well Stanley is grinning:

"I sent every one of these rats a pound of imported cheese."

VAN WARBLES

The TV spectacular has Van, in a beard, piping and Claude Rains, as the mayor of Hamelin, refusing to pay. Van sings three songs, "How Can I Tell You," "Feats of the Piper" and "Fool's Gold." Rains also sings and even dances on a table top.

Lori Nelson plays Van's sweetheart and Kay Starr is in for a brief but effective song, "Mother's Lament," which she sings after the town's children have been piped away.

TELEVISION'S PIPER — Van Johnson dons a chin brush for the title role in "The Pied Piper of Hamelin," a 90-minute, $650,000 musical spectacular to be presented Nov. 26 by NBC-TV. With him is Kay Starr, who sings a lament after Van has piped the town's children away.

Without Fingers, Boy, 5, Struggles to Keep Pace

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"why don't you have any fingers?"

Jerry was born without hands or feet and his life has been a daily struggle to do things he sees other youngsters do.

The spunky boy, equipped with mechanical hands and feet, has an amazing will to be just like the other kids. He can scribble with a pencil, brush his teeth, eat without aid and ride a bike. He declined to go to a school for handicapped children.

The boy who asked Jerry why he didn't have any fingers furnished the only tense moment yesterday. The teacher, Miss Frances Pearce, said Jerry answered easily and without embarrassment. The other children seemed satisfied.

"We feel that Jerry will be able to do everything the other children do, except probably art work," Miss Pearce said.
