Hollywood Picks 'Oscar' Winners

HOLLYWOOD (INS)—A British screen veteran, a Hollywood newcomer and two American pictures filmed in the Orient carried away top honors at last night's glittering 30th annual Academy Award presentations.

Alec Guinness, in pictures for years, emerged a best actor of 1957 for his work in "The Bridge on the River Kwai."

Joanne Woodward turned her first starring role into a coveted Oscar with her performance in "The Three Faces of Eve."

"The Bridge on the River Kwai," shot in Ceylon, grabbed the best picture accolade.

It and made-in-Japan "Sayonara" grabbed 12 of the 16 awards made to feature pictures. "Bridge" and the people who made it won seven awards and those in "Sayonara" swept in five.

The latter group included one to Red Buttons as the best actor in a supporting role and another to Japanese actress Miyoshi Umeki for the best actress in a supporting role. They played the parts of tragic lovers in a story of post-war Japan.

PORTRAYED OFFICER

Guinness got his golden statuette for his portrayal of a British officer captured by the Japanese during the war.

Miss Woodward, known both as the female Marlon Brando, for her non-conformist ways, and as the girl of 1,000 faces, zoomed to the Hollywood pinnacle with her delineation of a psychopathic victim of multiple personality.

The Oscars were passed out during an hour and 45 minute show before a packed house at the RKO Pantages theater.

Awards night traditionally is Hollywood's biggest and gayest evening of the year. But in the background last night there was the pall of the plane-crash death of showman Mike Todd and the heart attack passing of veteran producer Don Hartman.

The film industry itself took over the awards show and broadcast and telecast it throughout the nation as a public service. There were no commercials and the studios picked up the entire tab of around $575,000 for the air time. The cost of the entire show was about $850,000.

Stars whose salaries would have run into tens of thousands of dollars gave their talent gratis.

Third Explorer Dips and Soars in Strange Orbit

Newest U.S. Satellite Not Expected to Live More Than 2 Weeks

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Explorer III, the world's newest satellite, dipped and soared today through the strangest orbit pattern man has yet established.

Its radio voice untiringly transmitting information, the new Army moon 12 times each 24 hours soars up and up until it is about 1,700 miles out in space.

After each outward swing, it dips earthward into the thin upper reaches of the atmosphere, only about 110 miles up.

No other satellite is known to venture this close.

Because of increasing atmospheric drag and the greater pull of gravity near the earth, Explorer III is expected to have a relatively short life.

Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, commander of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency, which fired the new Explorer, told reporters it probably would not live longer than two weeks.

He said the men in charge were very happy with the performance of the rocket and satellite.

MAJOR ADVANTAGE

The odd orbit, he said, should prove to be of considerable benefit — "some substantial advantage" — to the overall space research program.

He pointed out that the satellite, while venturing far out into space, also would explore air densities at the lower, altitudes where it would overlap a region that had been measured by high-altitude sounding rockets such as the Aerobee.

Thus for the first time science would have important measurements in the fringe areas that are difficult to study but are highly important both to manned and unmanned aircraft.

Wernher von Braun, deputy to Medaris, said one reason the new Explorer failed to attain a more successful orbit was that the second stage of the four-stage Jupiter-C rocket ignited a little too soon. The satellite was accelerated prematurely to orbital speed of 18,000 m.p.h.

Chrysler Cheers Moon

DETROIT (INS) — There was joy at Chrysler Corporation when it was revealed the Explorer III was in orbit. Chrysler is the government's prime contractor for the Jupiter-C missile used to launch this country's third satellite.

Chamber Says Happy Birthday

GM's Role of 'Good Citizen' Explained at C. of C. Banquet

By PETE LOCHBILER

General Motors Corporation's role of "good citizen" was traced from Pontiac to the nation's capital by featured speakers before 400 people at the Elks Temple last night.

The giant company's contribution to local and national economy, the leadership it has provided here and in Washington were cited at the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce banquet honoring GM's 50th anniversary.

Glowing tributes to GM were made by City Manager Walter K. Willman; Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, Pontiac superintendent of schools; Rep. William S. Broomfield and John A. Riley, new chamber president.

"Tremendous" was the word used by Willman, the first speaker, to describe the impact on Pontiac of GM's three divisional plants located here.

That description sounded the keynote for the 30-minute tribute that preceded remarks by the evening's main speaker, L. C. Goad, GM executive vice president.

The company's tax contribution (56 per cent of local taxes) was cited as the outstanding reason behind Pontiac's new public buildings, new schools and new neighborhood improvements.

'ECONOMIC CORE'

GM's Pontiac, Fisher Body and Truck & Coach divisions were described as the "economic core of Pontiac" and the surrounding area —providing jobs and payrolls, stimulus for business and services, growth and prosperity.

"The growth of General Motors means the growth of Pontiac," said Willman, paraphrasing a famous saying of GM's former president, C. E. Wilson.

Dr. Whitmer mentioned 14 specific examples of how General Motors contributes to Pontiac schools, over and above its financial contribution.

"Many of us who live here often forget how this great corporation helps make out public school system a better one," he said.

His list of examples ranged from participation by GM leaders in educational programs, industrial relations, and vocational education planning to the gift of Pontiac automobiles for use in driver training classes.

ATTRACTS OTHERS

Riley emphasized that many new businesses, services and light industrial concerns have been attracted to Pontiac because of the presence of the giant automotive plants here.

"The growth of our community and the adjacent area has been directly associated with the development of GM's Pontiac divisions," he said.

He commended the role played by the corporation and its employes in civic endeavors such as the United Fund, hospital drives, boys' clubs, children's camps and other voluntary programs.

The speakers praised GM's leadership in Pontiac civic affairs. It was noted that three of the four outgoing chamber directors, cited last night for their service during the past year, were GM divisional officials.

Broomfield developed this theme into a tribute to the role that GM leaders have played in the nation's affairs.

"I could begin by mentioning the service rendered by Gen. Charles F. Kettering during World War II and end by citing the recent service of C. E. Wilson as Secretary of Defense.

"It would take all night to complete the rest of the list of GM executives who have given their time and energies to their country," Broomfield said.

Broomfield told the predominately Pontiac audience that the corporation plays a similarly important part in the affairs of Oakland County, which he represents.

Goad Hits Union Aim of Pay Hike

A top General Motors Corporation executive last night said UAW demands for wage increases this year, if met, would contribute to "further inflation" during the present business recession.

Louis C. Goad, GM executive vice president, attacked what he described as the union's "unpublicized" demands during the present negotiations on a new contract.

Speaking before 400 persons at the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce annual banquet, held this year in honor of GM's fiftieth anniversary, Goad said:

"Wage and fringe benefits increases since 1948 have already averaged more than the increase in productivity, however measured. It is easy to see what effect more increases would have."

Goad told the Elks Temple audience he was not refering to the so-called "profit - sharing" proposal.

"This has received all the publicity," he said, "and the public's attention has been distractd from what the union passes over lightly in its publicity as 'the basic minimum demands' — those concerning wage increases."

Goad's criticism came towards the end of a speech that was mostly concerned with GM accomplishments in the past and its hopes for the future.

He decried the fact the union has said it would ask for "the

Downtown Area to Be Giant Salesroom

Plan 'You Auto Buy Week'

To restore the public's buying confidence and stimulate local business conditions, Pontiac auto dealers will turn a portion of the downtown area into a giant used-car salesroom tomorrow night.

The dealers are presenting a "You Auto Buy Week."

The kickoff for the campaign will be Saturday morning, Robert B. Oliver, president of the Pontiac Automotive Trade Assn., sponsoring the campaign announced.

More than 100 autos will be sold at bargain prices, some as low as 99 cents.

The autos will be priced and parked on Huron street between Cass avenue and Saginaw street which will be blocked off tomorrow night. Parking meters will be covered at 6 p.m. Friday in this two block area.

The sale actually begins at 8:30 Saturday morning but prospective buyers will be able to select the auto they want Friday night after 9 p.m.

The doors will be unlocked so that whoever remains in the auto all night and is still behind the wheel at 8:30 a.m. will be able to buy it. Salesmen will be identified by the white hats they will wear.

Oliver said this way, "the special event will be conducted on a first come, first served basis."

Nine dealers who are members of the association are participating in the sale:

They include: Matthews-Hargreaves Inc., 34 Mill St.; Pontiac Retail Store, 63 Mt. Clemens St.; Oliver Motor Sales, Inc., 210 Orchard Lake Ave.; Jerome Motor Sales Co., 280 S. Saginaw St.; Cy Owens Inc., 147 S. Saginaw St.; Braid Motor

Two Men Die; Speedometer Stuck at 110

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Two men were killed last night when their car plunged over a railroad grade crossing, shot 120 feet through the air and sped another 90 feet on the ground before hitting a tree.

Dead are Jack C. Hudkins, 20, of Ann Arbor, and William F. Blom, 21, of Ann Arbor Township.

Sheriff's deputies said the car's speedometer was stuck at 110 miles an hour. The crash was on a county road seven miles northeast of Ann Arbor.

Outside Judge to Hear Case

Adams Pulls Himself Out of Sullenberger Suit Against Hospital

Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams today ruled himself out as presiding judge over next month's trial of the $250,000 damage suit against Pontiac General Hospital by Dr. Neil H. Sullenberger.

Judge Adams assented to a motion made in the ousted staff surgeon's behalf to the effect that an outside judge should handle the case because it involves "many Pontiac officials and area physicians," and has received "extra ordinary publicity" locally.

"Dr. Sullenberger has a right to feel that he is getting as fair a trial as possible," said Judge Adams in granting the motion.

However, Judge Adams pointed out his ruling does not affect the county's three other circuit judges.

If they follow Judge Adams' lead and disqualify themselves also, the case appeared likely to go to Circuit Judge William O. Arch, of Monroe County, scheduled to visit the Oakland County circuit beginning April 8.

"Judge Arch's assignment to the case, however, is up to the state circuit court commissioner, I believe," said Judge Adams.

Judge Adams will continue to hear the legal maneuvering prehear the legal maneuvering preliminary to the actual trial.

Nikita Snatches Top Soviet Job From Bulganin

Stays in His Key Post as First Secretary of Communist Party

MOSCOW (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev today became Soviet premier replacing Nikolai Bulganin.

His selection was announced to the Supreme Soviet by President Klementi Voroshilov, who had himself been re-elected a few minutes earlier.

Bulganin submitted his formal resignation as premier—a post he had held since February 1955—as the joint session of the Supreme Soviet began.

Then Voroshilov named Khrushchev as the new head of government.

Khrushchev is also first secretary of the party's Central Committee. He now becomes the third man in recent times to hold both top positions in the Soviet Union simultaneously.

The others were Josef Stalin and Georgi Malenkov. Malenkov held the twin posts for less than a month in 1953.

WIDELY EXPECTED

Bulganin's eclipse had been widely expected because of his virtual disappearance from public events since March 16.

Bulganin today appeared at the session of the Council of Nationalities of which he is a member. His face was grave although he smiled at the applause as he entered.

Khrushchev led a group of top officials into the hall as the Council of Union opened its session. With him were the nation's President, Klementi Y. Voroshilov, and its top woman official, Presidium member Ekaterina Furtseva.

The Council of Union adopted an agenda presented by the party leaders which included four topics for joint sessions:

Election of a Presidium of the Supreme Soviet to act in the Parliament's absence; appointment of a new government; discussion of Khrushchev's plan to reorganize the agricultural machinery system, and discussion of a ban on thermonuclear weapons.

Parliamentary observers pointed out that the new government could be the same as the old one. The government traditionally hands its resignation to a new parliament.

But Bulganin has been completely absent from recent public events, heightening speculation that Khrushchev had decided to fire his old traveling companion, the signer of his widely circulated diplomatic letters.

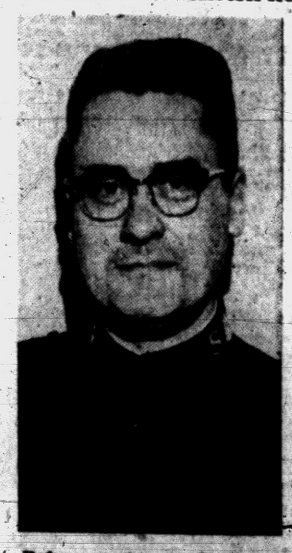
Sees Belief in Heaven as Vital to Well Being

(Editor's Note: This is the third in a series of articles on Heaven, written by local residents and compiled by Mary Anglemier, Pontiac Press church editor).

By MAJOR ERNEST ALDER

A yearning has always existed in the human heart to find the answer to the question, "Is there a life after death?"

This subject should be of interest to everyone, as a completely acceptable answer is of such vital concern not only to our future well being and happiness, but equally to our present sense of security and peace of mind.



Before coming to Pontiac in 1957 as manager of the Salvation Army Men's Social Service Center, Major Ernest Alder served the Detroit Men's Social Service Center as financial secretary and assistant manager. The major's parents directed Salvation Army activities in Pontiac in 1914-15 and 1925-28.

There are three positions we can take with reference to this age-old quest, so aptly phrased by the Patriarch Job: "If a man die shall he live again?"

1—Refuse to believe in a Divine Being, thus ruling out the possibility of a hereafter (atheism).

2—Adopt the attitude of uncertainty regarding a Supreme Being, and entertain serious doubts about the existence of life after death (agnosticism).

3—Accept the assurances given in the Holy Bible of God's existence and His plan for mankind with the hope which this conviction inspires of a glorious existence beyond the grave (Christian philosophy).

I take my stand unreservedly with the latter position. The acceptance of the Christian concept with its emphasis on immortality gives meaning and coherence to life.

It changes what would otherwise

The campaign will be conducted with the cooperation of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce and Pontiac Retail Merchants Association.

Each of the nine dealers will contribute at least 12 autos to the campaign which will include one new, four "cheapies" and seven other autos.

At 10 a.m. Saturday the autos which have been sold will be replaced and this process will continue until 2 p.m. when the "kick off" sale ends. The campaign will then continue until April 10 at the auto dealer lots.

The slogans: "Crusade For Jobs", "Sales Mean Jobs" and "Buy Something Now" will be carried out throughout the week in retail merchants stores.

Rain, Winds Hit Atlantic Coast, Southeast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rain and strong winds hit areas along the Atlantic Coast and the Southeast and there were a few wet spots in the West but dry weather prevailed in most other parts of the country today.

The rain belt in the East extended from parts of Georgia and Alabama northward into southern New York state and southern New England. Some snow was mixed with rain and drizzle in parts of central Pennsylvania.

Strong northeasterly winds lashed the southern New England and mid-Atlantic coastal areas. Gusts reached 50 m.p.h. at Atlantic City, N. J., during the night. Small craft warnings were posted for most of the mid and north Atlantic coast.

The early spring storms, however, appeared diminishing and the forecast called for light rain or drizzle from southern New England and New York state southward into the Carolinas.

Police Play Cowboys in Detroit Roundup

DETROIT (INS) — A squad of Detroit policemen played the role of cowboys as they rounded up 31 steers that ran loose for half an hour today.

The steers escaped while being unloaded from a cattle car into a corral along the railroad tracks between the Ford Expressway and Trombley.

The run-away steers remained in a bunch as they wandered down the railroad right away and were herded back by police crews of six Chene Precinct scout cars.

Know the Weather

By E. H. SIMS

Does dew fall? If so, when does it fall?

Dew does not fall, so there is no need to answer the second question. However, dew is an interesting weather element and close observation of it can tell you something about the weather to follow during the day.

Dew collects on surface objects, like blades of grass, and is moisture taken from passing, warmer air. The earth objects which collect it from the air must be colder than the air, so as to condense some of the moisture out of the surrounding air.

Seeing dew, either at night or early morning, is a clear weather indication—though not a foolproof one. The absence of dew tells you that chances are good that rainfall is ahead—sometime in the next twenty-four hours.

Union Pay Bid Hit by Goad

biggest wage increase in the history of the union," this year.

He maintained that the economy, instead, "should stop 'shipping water' in the form of more rounds of wage increases that cause costs to rise faster than productivity.

"The water is gaining on the pumps, and our economy is becoming cost - logged," he said.

"We are now faced with the paradox of a slackening in business activity with a continuing upward trend in the cost-of-living index. Backed by the monopoly power of unions, the pressure of wage costs on prices continues."

Goad saw the current recession as "largely the result of a let - down" in public confidence.

"People seem to have adopted an attitude of 'wait and see.' I attribute this in part to the uncertainties caused on the one hand by efforts to curb inflation and on the other by the pressure of excessive wage increases."

'TAX CUT NEEDED'

He said the economy needs, first of all, action by the government in the form of an across - the - board tax cut, as suggested by GM president Harlow M. Curtice when testifying in Washington two months ago.

"I have no hesitation in saying that the long - term growth potential of our country is impressive," he added.

He listed the UAW's current wage demands in five categories:

1. An across - the - board wage increase on a percentage basis (amount not specified), plus so-called inequity adjustments and an extra wage increase for skilled trades employes.

2. Substantially increased supplemental unemployment benefit payments and increased employer contributions to the fund on a percentage of payroll basis.

3. A 22 per cent increase in pension benefits, plus a cost - of - living escalator clause for pensioners.

4. Insurance coverage for all doctor and hospital bills.

5. Numerous so-called non-monetary demands, "many of which would result in substantially increased operating costs."

He continued:

"If the union is a genuinely interested in the national welfare as it claims to be, a most constructive step would be for it to accept the suggestion made by Mr. Curtice that the present agreement be extended for another two years.

'WOULD AID ECONOMY'

"This would have a most salutary effect on the present state of the national economy. It would also tend to assure continued progress over the longer term."

Goad dealt briefly with the proposal for profit-sharing. "It's another attempt to move in on management, this time clothed in the chemise look," he said.

As interpreted by management, he said, profit - sharing is another form of incentive pay, "to which ironically, the union historically has always been opposed."

He claimed union figures and talk about productivity have been "fuzzy."

Quoting the union as saying its workers "must catch up with productivity," Goad at the same time figured that GM hourly earnings over the past ten years have increased 49 per cent over the rise in the cost of living.

During the rest of his speech, Goad talked about the profit system, General Motors' growth, and technological advancement.

He said the competitive profit system lay at the heart of General Motors' success.

The desire of stockholders to make a profit, he said, was "ultimately responsible for changing the automobile from a luxury product to the necessity we consider it today."

He said technological progress "is the only means I know of to assure a continuing increase in abundance."

Saying that the corporation is determined to advance technologically, Goad took another swing at the UAW by pointing out that research "can only be financed out of capital accumulated "primarily from business earnings that are available for reinvestment."

In Science Advisory Committee Report

Space Age Benefits Revealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower held out to all the world's people today the promise that studies of outer space can provide benefits for them and for their children.

Within hours after the United States had put its third satellite into orbit yesterday, Eisenhower made public a document in layman's language prepared by his Science Advisory Committee — an "Introduction to Outer Space."

Tangible benefits from better weather forecasting and communications were listed, along with future possibilities of military advantages and of research benefits which cannot be foreseen in detail.

The report emphasized scientific opportunities. It said there would be military advantages as well, especially in communications and reconnaissance. But it tended to discount talk of such things as satellite bombers and bases on the moon. It said these "appear to be clumsy and ineffective ways of doing a job."

It offered as a rough estimate that a couple billion dollars, spent over a period of years, could make it possible to send a man to the moon and return him safely.

But it said much more could be done by sending smaller space vehicles, with robot controls, to carry on explorations and radio data back.

Even before man himself moves into space, the report said, his instrument-equipped satellites can help mankind. Listed as examples:

Satellites used as relay stations for radio and television can link all the corners of the world.

They can watch, from out in space, the whole intricate pattern of the earth's weather, spot gathering storms and hurricanes.

Out beyond the distorting refraction of light in the earth's atmosphere, they can be stations from which science can see with clarity "new sights forever hidden from observers who are bound to the earth."

With ultraprecision atomic clocks mounted in satellites, scientists can test the prediction of Einstein that the measurement of time may be different in space.

They will show the intensity of cosmic radiation out beyond the filtering effect of the earth's atmosphere, out in space where man proposes to venture.

State Proposes to Widen M24

Asks City Pay $20,000 Toward Cost of Project to Create Jobs

To help relieve unemployment in the Pontiac area, the State Highway Department has announced it will repave and widen Opdyke road (M24) from Square Lake road to Walton boulevard at a total cost of $160,000, if the city will participate in one - eighth of the bill.

A highway department spokesman said the job would begin as soon as possible, possibly in May if the weather permits.

The City Commission will be asked Tuesday to consider setting aside $20,000 out of capital improvement funds as the city's share of the project, City Manager Walter K. Willman said.

The highway department said the project would involve 2.78 miles of repaving. The present road would be widened from 20 to 24 feet.

Willman determined today that the construction would not be eligible for federal aid, which would have put the city's share in the cost at one-sixteenth of the total, or $10,000.

R. E. Dibble, assistant to the highway department's chief engineer, said that construction hinges on the city's willingness to participate in the financing.

"We are willing to advance the project for early construction in an effort to relieve unemployment in the Pontiac area," he said. "If the city approves the $20,000 Tuesday, we might be able to advertise for bids next week."

The Opdyke project is one of many throughout the state that the highway department is proposing to offset unemployment, Dibble said. It had not been previously listed on the department's schedule of new construction.

Dean's Service Station Loses $90 in Break-In

Dean's Service Station, Pontiac Lake Road and M59 Waterford Township, was broken into last night and approximately $90 was taken.

Owner Dean Chew told Waterford Township Police his station has been robbed four times in the past year. Entrance was gained by breaking a window in the rear door, and a night light had been turned off.

The Day in Birmingham

Plan Two Committees for Proposed High School

BIRMINGHAM — Two committees from the Citizens Committee on Education will be established to work with the Birmingham Board of Education and PTA Council during the planning and construction of the district's new Junior-Senior High School, it was announced today.

Approved by the Board of Education and the PTA Council, the committees will be known as the Plans Review Committee and the Public Relations Committee.

The first group will work closely with the board and architects on the review of educational and construction specifications for the new school. Its members will attend all meetings of the board and the Central School Administration with the architects, and will review both sets of specifications for the school.

It will make recommendations to the board on improvements and changes in the plans to meet the thinking of the PTA Council and the Citizens Committee on Education.

The Public Relations Committee will have the responsibility of keeping parents and taxpayers informed on the program and planning of the school and its construction. It also will attend board meetings with the architects.

Ernest W. Seaholm of 1587 Fairway, Birmingham, has been named chairman of the Plans and Review Group while Walter Piel, principal of the Pierce School heads the publicity committee.

The new pool at Birmingham High School will be the scene of the "Wizard of Oz," a water ballet being staged by the Aqua-Belles of the Girl's Athletic Association. Two performances will be given Friday and Saturday evenings, starting at 8 p.m.

The "auditorium" at the pool will seat about 700, and directors are anticipating a sell-out for each evening. The production has been in charge of Sally Reid, Barbara Emerald City trio of Dollie Dee Stephenson and Judie Stevenson, members of the high school teaching staff.

Miss Stephenson said the cast will include 83 swimmers, 12 "on shore" stars and have a crew of 15 working on props and scenery.

A special number will star Sue Roseberry. Other features will be a water duet starring Sue Leahy and Carol Williams, and the Jongh, Judy Austin and Jane McKinley.

Tickets are on sale at the high school.

The public has been invited to the initiation ceremonies of Charles Edwards Post 14, American Legion, at Torry School Friday at 8 p.m.

Mayor Howard S. Kelley of Royal Oak will be the guest speaker. The Birmingham High School Band will supply the musical portion of the program.

"Spectator or Participant?" will be the topic for the discussion group of the Senior Men's Club when it meets Friday at the Community House.

Te formal program will be a talk on "Geriatrics" by Donald Albert of Wayne State University.

Miracle Man Takes Title Fifth Time

Who said he was "over the hill" ewise and could not come back?

SUGAR RAY ROBINSON stands alone the "miracle man" of boxing. here is no other fighter living or ead that has come back four times regain a title.

At the ripe old age of 37 which is well beyond the peak for most athletes, Sugar Ray Robinson has demonstrated what a fighting heart can do. That old sports adage "they never come back" is not a part of the new middleweight champion's makeup.

Whether he bows out now as hampion is a decision he alone will ave to make. But to the boxing entry he will long remain as one of ie all time stalwarts in a rugged usiness.

ROBINSON'S brilliant career is not ily a credit to his race but it will ng remain an inspiration to others.

ICA Director Smith Does His Homework

No one could argue that there has en no waste nor bungling in our ast mutual aid and security proams and the new director of the nternational Co-operation Admintration (ICA) has replied to charges mismanagement.

While previous administrators have ignored rumors of ridiculous projects and outrageous expenditures, Director JAMES H. SMITH Jr. after careful investigation, has given the House Foreign Affairs Committee the facts as to some of the more absurd charges.

No iceboxes or anything else have one to Eskimos from ICA; Greek ndertakers didn't get dress suits but reek soldiers received shoes; ICA did uild public baths in Egypt, not for mel drivers solely, but as a means controlling disease. As to grass anting along roadsides in Lebanon, at was done for erosion control; a rivate charity, not ICA, sponsored knitting school in Korea to aid war idows.

In commenting on Director SMITH'S sworn testimony, the Milaukee Journal says that "he believes eeply in the program . . . he doesn't y to soft talk or double talk Conressmen . . . he does his homework he gives them the facts."

Director Smith's refreshing candor makes us think that he will be a watchful administrator of this huge foreign aid program. No doubt there'll be some changes made.

Spain Hopes for Voice In European Defense

There is a small bit of good news the possibility that some arangement may be made between ritain and Spain for defense of the trait of Gibraltar.

Spanish resentment over British control of the strait is giving way to a more balanced view for at least two reasons. One is mounting Moroccan hostility toward Spain due to a desire to be free to join a future federation of Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco. Secondly, Spanish control of an enclave in North Morocco opposite Gibraltar could give Spain a voice in Western defense planning.

U.S. air bases in Spain are 80 per cent completed. They include an air base near Madrid, a supply base near Seville, an air and sea base at Rota and a 485 mile underground fuel pipeline linking the bases. Total cost will be $340 million.

For the privilege of building these bases in Spain, the U.S. has given FRANCO $650 million in military assistance and defense support and another $264 million in economic aid to help build dams, factories, highways and housing. Spain is the only Western European country still receiving direct grants of U.S. economic aid. But FRANCO now wants more. He says these bases make his country more vulnerable to attack.

Leaders in Spain feel that its anti-Communist ideology should make it a member of NATO. Spain also controls territories strategically important to that defense organization. Politically, of course, Spain is a dictatorship, but so is Portugal, a NATO ally.

If Britain and Spain should settle their differences over Gibraltar, there's a possibility that Spain may be invited to join NATO.

EMBER OF AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

The Man About Town

Smooth, Bumpy

Railroad Crossings in This City Both Good and Bad

Deserve: What many of us do not get—for which some should be thankful.

Every auto driver wonders why the going is so smooth over some paved railroad crossings and so bumpy over others. A check with upper maintenance men of the railroad shows that all should be smooth, if the crossing is on a level grade.

Pontiac crossings show a great variance. Those on South Saginaw St. are quite smooth, while there are plenty of bumps at Oakland Ave. The seven tracks that cross Cass Ave. are general bone shakers, but West Huron St. offers little cause for complaint.

Crossings on Baldwin Ave., South and East Boulevards, Sanford St. and Montcalm St. might be better. Bagley St. and Johnson Ave. are quite good, and you hardly know you're going over that on Opdyke Road.

Two crossings on Walton Boulevard are a paradox. Only a few feet apart, one's as smooth as silk and the other's a tooth loosener. Most of the others in the city offer a fairly good transfer.

According to a nationwide survey, is a hot one. While consumption of the beverage is increasing, the number of breweries has dropped from 750 to 225 in the last 20 years.

"The Battle of the Beers"

The automobile and other modern inventions drove out the old blacksmith shop, whose main income came from the shoeing of horses. But the riding fad is bringing it back. I know of four started recently in the Pontiac area.

If you're in a bunch waiting to see the ever busy

of Michigan State University, just get word to his secretary that you're from Pontiac, and see how quickly he gets to you. I've found it so.

'Twas less than 30 years ago that we thought we were to get a $300 million auto toll road between Pontiac and Detroit, built over the railroad. It was to be completed "within two years."

In my humble judgment, this man knows his stuff when it comes to welfare relief. And he says human nature never changes with the years, nor with good or bad times.

Easy Pickings

David Lawrence Says:

Ike Resisting Political Expediency

WASHINGTON — It takes courage for a president of the United States to resist the temptations of political expediency. President Eisenhower could become a "hero" overnight to groups that want him to slash taxes, fix higher farm prices, or rush into the "summit" conference sought by the Soviet rulers.

LAWRENCE

But the President refuses to follow surface opinion. He prefers to take the sound course, which involves perhaps temporary political disadvantage but saves the country from financial or economic disaster later on when the full effect of short-range stimulants wears off.

VETO FORTHCOMING

The President has been urged by members of his own party—who come from districts where certain types of farm legislation are politically popular—to sign the bill that fixes dairy prices. But a veto is forthcoming, and it takes plenty of fortitude to withstand the pressure to sign the measure and help certain Republican congressmen to get re-elected.

President Eisenhower doesn't just "follow the crowd" with respect to tax legislation either. He told his press conference yesterday that "there are many factors that would imply that the bottom (of the recession) is certainly close, or possibly even now reached" and that his own feeling is that "we are going through the worst of it right now."

While giving assurance that "we are going to do those things we think should be done" on a tax cut, he emphasized that this "is not something to be done lightly." He added that "we are not going into a tax cut or any other—what we believe to be unwise program—that can hurt us badly in the future."

POLITICIANS PANICKY

This is a piece of sound statesmanship which is all the more admirable because so many politicians have become panicky and have begun demanding all sorts of tax cuts irrespective of the effect on the federal treasury. The President made it clear that he isn't ruling out a tax cut of some kind if the situation really requires it, but he left no doubt that his decision is going to be made on the basis of the economic facts and not by succumbing to political temptation.

When will these facts become available? If, as the President says, right now is the period when the country is riding along the bottom of the slump, there should be some further indication of how much of a stabilized trend has been achieved after the statistics, ready in mid-April, show what actually happened during the month of March.

It is apparent that President Eisenhower is somewhat concerned about the widespread talk of a repeal of the excise taxes. This is something which has been advocated as a means of boosting automobile sales, which have slowed down in recent weeks. But the President would not commit himself on this issue beyond saying that people should buy products on the basis of what they are worth and when they believe they are getting a bargain rather than worry about the possibility that later on the articles might be a little cheaper.

Undoubtedly any reduction in auto prices would help sales somewhat, but it is questionable whether the relatively small amounts involved in the excise taxes alone would induce persons who feel they don't need or cannot afford a new automobile to buy one just because the price is a little lower.

What will stimulate automobile sales more than anything else is a feeling of confidence among people who really need and want to buy a new auto but who have become uncertain about the future of their jobs in a recession period.

A wave of optimism concerning this outlook, based on the belief that steady work at the same or higher income is in prospect, will do more to sell new cars than a revision of excise taxes that is made without some manifestation of general improvement in the economy.

To legislate a cut in income taxes generally would mean a large loss in revenue to the treasury, and this, on top of the expected deficit due to increased defense spending and other recovery measures, could scare the American people because of the fear that more inflation would bring a further depreciation in the purchasing power of the dollar.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Bronchiectatic Should Try Non-Surgical Drainage

Chronic bronchitis, the "winter cough" of elderly persons, is bad enough, but bronchiectasis is worse.

Bronchiectasis is dilatation or ballooning of bronchial tubes, so that cavities form in which sputum collects and is very difficult to expel by coughing.

DR. BRADY

In ordinary chronic bronchitis, the patient generally coughs more or less day and night, perhaps having a harder coughing spell in the early morning. The patient with bronchiectasis may pass the greater part of the day with little or no coughing and then, in a severe coughing spell, sometimes upon going to bed, more frequently early in the morning, brings up a large quantity of sputum, perhaps half a pint or a pint.

Lung surgery is the best treatment in some cases of bronchiectasis, but before surgery is considered the patient should have the benefit of a fair trial of non-surgical drainage of the bronchiectatic cavity.

For the best effect, non-surgical drainage should be practiced at regular two or three hour intervals in the day, and always early each morning and late each night.

Early in the course of the disease, postural drainage for a few minutes every two or three hours may effect symptomatic relief which approximates a cure.

The easiest postural drainage of bronchiectatic cavity is by lying prone across the bed on waking in the morning, and resting your forearms on the floor. Remain in this posture for five minutes every morning, and take the same posture for two or three minutes every two or three hours through the day.

Or stand on your head for a minute or two. Or hang by your knees for a minute. Or take the knee-chest position for a few minutes several times a day. It doesn't matter how you invert so long as you keep hip level well above shoulder level.

One with bronchiectasis can scarcely realize how much good a few minutes of inversion every two or three hours can do, until he or she tries it for a few weeks.

The bronchiectatic who has not had the advantage of non-surgical drainage has not had proper treatment.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Pamphlet Helps Hypochondriac

Horace gives us some interesting data that all newspaper promotion men might stress more fully. For the educational benefits of the daily newspaper save you subscribers hundreds of dollars in unnecessary medical pills. And you woman gain 100 times the price of the paper in bargains you glean from the ads. Newspapers would be well worth it even if they cost 25 cents per copy!

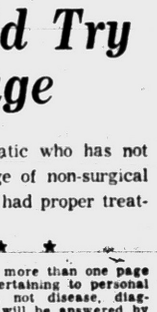
By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case X-364: Horace G., aged 35, is a high school principal.



DR. CRANE

Dr. Crane, I have always been a worry wart about my health," he admitted, sheepishly.

"My wife used to laugh at me about my slavery to pills and other medicines, for I always had our medicine cabinet full of such things.

"And I would develop all the symptoms of the various ailments being described in the medical column of our newspaper.

"Then I sent for two of your booklets. They may not seem, on the surface, to have had a bearing on my case.

"For one of them was the 'Compliment Club' and the other was 'Sex Problems in Marriage.'

"But paying daily compliments turned my attention off my epidermus. And the sex booklet cleared up some misapprehensions that had worried me since adolescence.

"So I save probably 10 times the cost of my daily newspaper in the medicines I no longer need. What do you think of that?"

Well, I think millions of Americans could duplicate Horace's case if they would follow his simple prescription.

And I cite his true case to show you that your daily newspaper wields a very constructive and more far-reaching influence in your community than many of you imagine.

Literally millions of you readers of this column in your large newspaper, have written to me for advice and booklets. The usual mail input averages five per cent of the total circulation per year.

Worry warts have thus been given a wider horizon and a positive outlook so they no longer are constantly fearful of their medical condition.

Thousands of marriages that were on the verge of divorce, have been straightened out so the youngsters in those homes now have happy parents and the security of an unbroken home.

And thousands of boys and girls who would have quit school before getting a diploma, have written that they stayed in school, or actually went back to high school after dropping out, just because of the arguments for school attendance which they have read herein.

In the brief space allotted to me each day, I have not been able to give you but a small fraction of the wide variety of cases from my office practice.

I simply pick those which I have found are most typical of your own problems in other cities all over America.

"Dr. Crane," you wives will often comment, "your case yesterday was an exact duplicate of my own problem. In fact, my husband cut it out and laid it beside my plate at the dinner table."

VICARIOUS TREATMENT

The purpose in having this clinical column in your newspaper is to permit you to see your own case described herein as I analyze an identical patient that has come into my office.

Then, as I diagnose this office case, you can vicariously obtain the same helpful counsel and remedy your difficulty right there in your own home.

That idea of "vicarious benefits" underlies our whole theory of the public school system.

For we try to help the current generation avoid the blunders of the past by giving them the "case method" so they can analyze problems and remedy them, before they themselves get into trouble.

So be grateful America has such a great educational agency as the newspapers, which teach you vital facts ALL your life. Even if they cost 25 cents per copy, they'd be worth the price!

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Today's Faulty Education Can Be Blamed on Adults

Parents and senior citizens are responsible for lack of fundamental education attained by our young people. Classical subjects are and always have been available, but few register for them. Getting by with a minimum of thinking and academic work has been condoned by many parents. We must incite and excite our children to learn. All aren't scientists, but all should have basic knowledge.

Except in rare cases, one gets what he expects from a child. If adults haven't set high standards, they'll receive little more. A youth should be expected to work to his mental and physical capabilities.

The cry is for better education and personnel, but many school systems try to economize on teachers' salaries. What good are new schools without good teachers? The biggest loss of teachers is in the sixth or seventh year when they realize the public doesn't put a dear price tag on their services, so they turn to industry. Teaching is one profession which penalizes a person for experience.

School boards are made up of interested, conscientious persons but the majority has insufficient educational or financial background. Schools have become big business and no business would hire an inexperienced comptroller. Schools need trained business managers to leave superintendents free for personnel and educational problems.

The Pontiac Police Department should be congratulated for its good work in apprehending the boy who started the fires at Longfellow School.

Certainly in years since World War II we have witnessed the results of John Dewey's philosophy and the whole ridiculous system of training and education he instigated. It is an age when almost any murdered person is promptly forgotten and the murderer is "gotten off" for any number of reasons deduced by paid psychiatrists.

'No Difference in Creed, Deed'

The difference between my creed and what I practice is not obvious as B. J. states, because no difference exists.

There's a vast difference, however, between preventing children by setting God's natural laws in operation yet frustrating their effects, and simply omitting to have children. No one is obliged to set the natural productive laws in operation. So, too, the obligation to pay bills isn't violated by the man who has no bills. I may omit creditors, but if I have them, I must not prevent them from receiving what is due them.

Regarding our birth rate compared to other countries, our population has increased something like 35 million the past 15 years, but it isn't due to people like B. J. The attempt to pull everyone down to his or her level is the act of a frustrated person. Misery loves company.

'This May Be Original Sin'

We're all self-righteous. When the parent reprimands his young son for pulling the cat's tail, he explains tearfully he was only holding it, the cat did the pulling.

The deeply rooted need to blame someone else or to explain away acts we're unwilling to admit begins early in life, and can be traced back to the origin of the race. When Adam was caught eating the forbidden apple he said it was Eve's fault. Eve wasn't going to be trapped so she blamed it on a poor serpent that couldn't talk back.

Hitler believed he was right, so did Wilkes Booth, Nero, Stalin and countless others. Perhaps the real original sin was when Adam opened his mouth to explain why he did it.

Probers of FCC to Get Records

Miami Television Case in Dispute to Undergo Closer Scrutiny

WASHINGTON (AP) — FCC commissioner Rosel Hyde promised to provide to House investigators today any records he may have on the disputed TV Channel 10 case in Miami.

More than a year ago, the FCC voted 4-2 to give the coveted channel to a subsidiary of National Airlines, but the FCC now has moved to reconsider that grant in view of allegations of wire-pulling in the case.

Chairman Harris (D-Ark) said the subcommittee on Legislative oversight is planning an interim report on its work before the Easter recess April 3. He said he has sent questionnaires to commissioners on the FCC and five other regulatory agencies asking about a code of ethics.

He asked if the commissioners thought Congress should prescribe a code of ethics or whether the commissions should work one out.

Rep. Wolverton (R-NJ) submitted some suggestions designed to improve standards of practice before the commissions and to eliminate outside influence.

He suggested that all communications, verbal or written, to a commission be made a part of the record available to all parties concerned, that no such communications be submitted except through an attorney of record and that notice be given to rival attorneys. Wolverton also proposed adoption of standards of ethics on gifts and favors.

Mayo's police dog wasn't home. It was on duty, searching for the children.

Chicago Blaze Kills 3 Firemen, Hurts 6

CHICAGO (AP) — Three firemen were killed and sox others injured early today in a fast-spreading fire in a big South Side auto agency.

The flames spread to three three-story apartment buildings, forcing about 150 residents to flee into the near-freezing weather.

The dead and injured firemen were among about 20 who were trapped inside the flaming building when the roof of the half-block-long structure collapsed.

Fire Commissioner Robert Quinn said the six firemen hurt suffered back and head injuries.

Policeman James McDonough said some of the trapped men cried for help as the roof caved in. Several used their feet, arms and hands to crash through plate glass display windows and escape. McDonough said he and others grabbed and held some firemen who wanted to return to the flaming building and help rescue the trapped firemen.

Picking Bike Off Tree Grows Less Tasteful

EL RENO, Okla. (AP) — Two 16-year-old boys didn't think it was half as much fun climbing the tree a second time. The first time, they went up the tree with a smaller boy's bicycle.

The youngster cried when he found he couldn't get his bike. Police caught the two boys and made them climb up the tree — and bring the bike back down.

Sour Grapes Squeezed by Reds Over Satellite

LONDON (AP) —The Russians squeezed sour grapes today at the news that the United States has put up one more artificial satellite than the Soviets have.

In an obvious reference to the 31-pound weight of America's new Explorer III, Moscow radio said sending up satellites "of microscopic dimensions" will never solve the problems of interplanetary travel. The Soviet Union's Sputnik II weighed 1,120 pounds.

Anna Massey to Wed

LONDON (AP) — The engagement of Anna Massey, daughter of actor Raymond Massey, to Jeremy B. Huggins, was announced today. Miss Massey, 20, is an actress; Huggins, 21, an actor.

Scouts 46 Years Later

DUNCAN, B.C. (AP) — Six members of the original troop of Cowichan Boy Scouts, organized in 1911, attended the 46th annual meeting of the district association.

San Francisco Puts Limit on Heroism

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Controller Harry Ross, the city treasury's watchdog, questioned the Police Commission's award of a $50 heroism bonus to Sgt. William Keays for saving a girl from drowning.

Ross agreed the rescue was heroic, but pointed out that it was on the Russian River and far outside the city limits. The supervisors agreed the city should not pay a bonus for heroism out of town.

Better Bomarc in Development

Firm Plans to Increase Interceptor's Range by Using Solid Fuel

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Boeing Airplane Co. is "pressing quite hard" on development of a longer range, solid propellant Bomarc interceptor missile, President William E. Allen said today.

"Use of a solid fuel will increase the range," he said.

Bomarc is a long-range pilotless missile designed to intercept and destroy enemy aircraft.

Its officially announced range is at least 250 miles. The range of the new Bomarc, not disclosed has been estimated at up to 600 miles.

Capable of much greater speed and higher altitude than any manned fighter plane, the Bomarc has been described by the Air Force as one of the most important weapons of the Air Defense Command.

The Bomarc is fired vertically into the air from a launching platform.

It uses a liquid fuel rocket engine for takeoff power. Once the missile levels off, twin ramjet engines power it for supersonic cruising on a collision course with its target.

Although Allen had nothing to say on this point, the advanced version reportedly will be armed with a nuclear warhead.

HOW DO WE STAND? — Overall picture of the nation's economy for 1957 is shown in Newschart, above, as reported by Real Estate Trends, Inc. Two-sided character of the economic picture is indicated by such comparisons as the growth of multifamily housing construction, as opposed to single-family; or the rise in prices, income and defense spending, offset by declines in profits, retained earnings (corporate profits not paid out in dividends) and stock prices.

As Racket Probers Indict Hoffa

Kennedy Achieves Goal

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS

A young, shy-looking millionaire from Boston has accomplished once more what he set out to do—show that Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa "runs a hoodlum empire."

Such victories, working with Congress or working in politics, are not new for Robert F. Kennedy, 32-year-old chief counsel for the select committee to investigate labor-management corruption.

For his age, he has a record of unusual achievement, from managing the campaign that elected his brother, John Kennedy (D-Mass) to the Senate, to a brief hour in the Washington spotlight during the sensational Army-McCarthy hearings of 1954.

The Boston lawyer with six children and an unruly head of hair has been a major reason for the success of the Senate Rackets Committee, and the indictment it issued yesterday.

The committee charged Hoffa's continued reign was "tragic" for the union and "dangerous for the country at large."

Kennedy is the son of former U. S. Ambassador to Britain Joseph P. Kennedy, a multi-millionaire financier.

But young Kennedy has never been content to live on his family money.

At 18, in the late days of World War II, he entered the U. S. Navy as a seaman. He later served aboard the USS Joseph P. Kennedy Jr., a destroyer named for his eldest brother, a Navy pilot killed during the war.

After military service, he entered Harvard College, where he played varsity football in 1946 and 1947. In 1951, he was graduated from the University of Virginia Law School.

He joined the Justice Department as an attorney in the Criminal Division in 1951, then under Attorney General J. Howard McGrath.

In 1952, he left to run the successful senatorial campaign of brother John, then a congressman.

Early last year, he began work as chief counsel to the Rackets Committee and the close confidant of its chairman, Sen. John McClellan (D-Ark). The young lawyer and the senator first worked together when Kennedy was counsel to the minority Democrats during the Army-McCarthy hearings.

One of nine children, he received a million dollars from his father when he turned 21, as did the other surviving Kennedys. He is married to the former Ethel Skakel of Greenwich, Conn.

There are about 80,000 different kinds of pests in the U.S., and 7,000 are injurious to crops.

West Germans Clarify Women's Rights Law

BONN — A law elaborating on the equal status of husband and wife, now guaranteed for the first time by the Constitution, has been passed by the Bundestag of the West German Republic, in Bonn.

Changes brought about by the new law are so far-reaching that they will not become effective for a year. The principal change will affect property owned by married couples. Under a new regulation the property of husband and wife does not become the joint property of both.

In the event of divorce, property acquired after marriage will go to the spouse in whose name it was acquired. Each spouse administers his or her property.

Debate Bitter in Bundestag

Decision of Adenauer Favors Nuclear Power for West Germany

By JOHN H. MARTIN
INS Foreign Director

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's decision favoring nuclear rearmament of Western Germany has produced the longest and most bitter debate in the short history of the Bundestag, or parliament.

Adenauer and his Christian Democratic Party men have been called successors of the militaristic Kaiser and Hitler. His Socialist opposition accusers have begun stumping the country, calling for general strikes to protest nuclear armament.

The old chancellor's attitude is: That Germany wants general controlled disarmament but if NATO partners recommend rearming Germany with nuclear power then the Bonn government must do it or divide the Western alliance. Adenauer flatly rejected the Polish plan for an atom-free zone in central Europe.

Socialists demand that the major powers consider the Polish "Rapacki Plan," named after Polish foreign minister Adam Rapacki. They also contend that Adenauer's policies block all possibility of reuniting Germany.

Overlooked by many Germans in the hot debate was one of Adenauer's statements that was new. He remarked that if the Russians would agree to German reunification the Germans in turn would consider a plan to continue supplying Russia with East German uranium from the mines in the Erzgebirge range near Czechoslovakia.

These mines have made East Germany Europe's biggest producer of uranium, the nuclear bomb ingredient. Allied experts in Bonn quoted by the German DPA news agency estimate Soviet zone production as reaching about 400 tons of enriched uranium per month.

Allied specialists figure that Moscow was able to make 50 to 60 atom bombs from the uranium received from East Germany during the past 12 years of milking.

The Erzgebirge uranium fields are located around the small towns of Aue and St. Georgenstadt. These and three mines near Greiz in Thuringia were exploited entirely by the Soviet Union in the first 10 years after World War II. But since 1955 there has been a joint Soviet-East German control called "Soviet German Wismut, Inc."

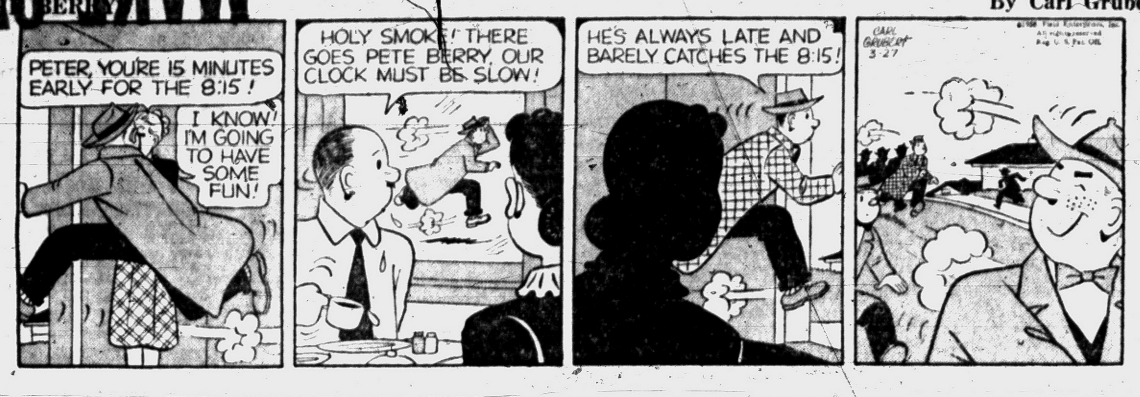
Approximately 150,000 Germans now are employed in this combine, with Russians holding the key positions.

Living Costs Climb Throughout World

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—Latest United Nations figures show that while American family living costs have risen an average of 19 per cent since the start of the Korean War in 1950, residents in other countries are worse off.

Living costs have risen 326 per cent in Argentina since 1948, 116 per cent in Austria, and 96 per cent in Australia. Other increases: 72 per cent in France, 71 per cent in Japan, 47 per cent in Norway, and 45 per cent in Great Britain.



Air Crews Not Reassured

Safety Measures Ordered to Stop Falling A-Bombs

WASHINGTON (AP)—New safety measures ordered to prevent any further accidental dropping of nuclear bombs apparently reassures everyone except the crews of the bombers.

The chances probably are not high that the crew could jettison a bomb quickly if plane trouble were to develop during takeoff or landing.

After the latest of a series of accidents—this one near Florence, S.C., March 11—the Defense Department said that the Air Force had "taken interim measures to assure that a similar malfunction" of a bomb lock system does not occur. None of the accidents resulted in fatalities or nuclear explosion.

It is understood that Strategic Air Command bombers now have nuclear weapons so firmly attached that wrenches and screwdrivers are needed to prepare the bombs for release.

Once a bomber is at altitude and cruising, a crew might have time to disconnect the safety device and clear the way for jettisoning a bomb in event of trouble.

But the periods of greatest hazard are during takeoff and landing. Here there would be no time to unfasten safety devices and rid the plane of its TNT trigger for the nuclear bomb. The airmen would have to ride the plane—and their luck—to a landing.

A safer bomb fastening actually solves only one part of the potential accident problem.

Aircraft accidents, rather than bomb release troubles, have caused most of the dozen or so accidents involving planes carrying bombs.

So far as is known, only two cases of malfunction of bomb release mechanisms have occurred.

Plan New Offensive in West Sumatra

MEDAN, Sumatra (AP)—Jakarta government forces are planning a new offensive into western Sumatra in an effort to crush rebel troops before the rebels attempt a planned counterattack on this important North Sumatra port city.

Lt. Col. Hasan Kasim, chief of staff for the Medan military area, said today that the rebels are now plotting to drive towards Medan from Tapanuli province south of here but "we will not sit around waiting for them to attack."

Kasim said that Col. Maludin Simbolon, the rebel foreign secretary and a chief military leader, has been in Tarutung for the past four days planning the attack on Medan.

Strong Jakarta forces have been halted at Prapat on the shore of Lake Toba about 100 miles southwest of Medan. If they press on down the main road, they would be in Tapanuli.

Weapons Collectors Train Sights on Virginian

VIRGINIA ARMS MERCHANT Sam Cummings looks over an Italian-made rifle in one of his crowded warehouses. Gun was used in Ethiopian campaign and World War II. Cummings sells them in U. S. to gun cranks and sportsmen.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Armies throughout the world plus thousands of American weapons collectors daily train their sights on a 30-year-old Virginia salesman.

Youthful Samuel Cummings is in no danger. Their aim is strictly business. He just happens to have more of what they want than anybody else in the United States. And that's guns.

HEADS FIRM

Cummings is president of The International Armament Corp. of Alexandria, Va. Since he was 24, the young gun merchant has been equipping armies from South America to Western Europe. His sharp business sense has shot what was once just a gun collecting hobby into a two million dollars a year business.

From his five warehouses on the banks of the Potomac River, Cummings supplies governments friendly to the United States with modern firearms ranging from pistols to machine guns. That's just part of the business, though.

He also scoops up entire arsenals of antique, obsolete weapons from these countries. Then he sells these to gun cranks all over the United States.

SMELLS STORES

Cummings' success secret is his ability to smell out surplus weapons stores. Government rules prevent him from buying up surplus in the United States.

But there's nothing to stop him from obtaining excess stocks of modern guns in other countries. And in many of these foreign warehouses he's found quantities of American-made weapons.

After cleaning out one of these storehouses, Cummings is ready to start selling. There's always a buyer. Cummings says some armies are still using guns that were new in the last century.

FABULOUS DEALS

It's in these gun-poor countries that the young weapons merchant makes some of his most fabulous deals. First he sells them new guns. At the same time he offers to take the ancient arsenals off their hands. If they say yes, he may knock several hundred dollars off the cost of the new guns.

Although it sounds like shotgun business management, actually the deal brings down profits with the accuracy of a high-powered rifle. Cummings estimates that 40 per cent of his annual two million gross business is made by selling the old weapons to American collectors. Fifty thousand letters pour into his office each year from gun cranks. Cummings says about 90 per cent of these letter writers end up buying.

His biggest competitor in the new gun market is the United States government. However, Cummings says that by buying foreign surplus he can beat the government price. Also he reminds buyers they have to go through less red tape when they deal with him.

His deals are popular enough to keep him out of the country for about eight months every year. Buying, selling and demonstrating weapons sends him to Europe, Africa, the Far and Middle East and South America.

JOB HEADACHES

The job is not without its headaches. For one thing the bodyguards of some South American presidents have doubts about Cummings. He complains that when he's demonstrating a gun for a Latin American leader, a bodyguard's weapon is usually trained on him.

A business like this arouses the interest of a lot of very particular people. But the young salesman has grown used to the constant check-ups of the State Department, FBI, Treasury and Customs Bureau.

MR. and MRS. CLAYTON COCKING

Juanita L. Dovonno Wed in Candlelight Ceremony

Pink and white flowers banked the altar of Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church Saturday for the candlelight wedding of Juanita Lee Dovonno and Clayton I. Cocking. The Rev. Theodore Allebach performed the ceremony before 150 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Samuel Dovonno of Pontiac road and the late Mr. Dovonno. Parents of the bridegroom are the Irving Cockings of Putnam avenue.

For her wedding the bride chose a Chantilly lace dress in ballerina length. The gown of lace and tulle over satin featured a portrait neckline and short sleeves finished with scalloped lace and trimmed with seed pearls and sequins. The full tulle skirt was fashioned with a wide band of scalloped lace over tulle.

A tiara of seed pearls and sequins held her illusion veil in place. The bridal bouquet was a cascade of white and pink roses.

Ruth Ann Mitchell of Wyandotte served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Joyce Freeman and Mrs. William Reddish, with Darlene Bengry serving as junior bridesmaid.

They were gowned in turquoise ballerina - length dresses featuring bouffant skirts of nylon organdy over taffeta with taffeta cummerbunds. They carried pink carnations.

William Mitchell was best man. Russell Kelp of Wyandotte and William Cocking acted as ushers.

To receive guests at a buffet luncheon in the church parlors Mrs. Dovonno chose a beige sheath dress with coral accessories and a carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue lace dress with white accessories and a corsage of white ostamasoa.

The bride changed to a navy sheath dress with white accessories and a miniature rose corsage from her bridal bouquet. The couple will live on Pontiac road.

Married Saturday were Marie Annette Beatty and Floyd G. Robinson. The service was read at Bethany Baptist Church.

New Tub Toys Make Bathtime Fun for Kiddies

New tub toys that float are charming inducements to make youngsters love their daily baths.

Elephants, fish, dachshunds are all made of easy-to-keep-clean polyfoam that's soft, absorbent, and equally appealing whether the toys happen to be wet or dry!

These toys come packaged in sanitary plastic bags and are safe for baby to handle or chew on—if washed often with soap or detergent and hot water.

A sudsy dousing and rinsing after each bathtime will keep them sweet as new.

Soap and Water Best for Burns

A good first aid treatment for minor burns is washing with soap and cold water. The soap cleanses the spot, the cold water soothes it.

If the pain subsides, you can forget about any further treatment, medical authorities declare. But if a burn continues to give trouble, by all means see your doctor.

WHAT ABOUT THE CHEMISE?

So many people have asked our advice about the chemise that we are prompted to make this public statement on the subject.

HERE IS WHAT WE THINK

1. We believe the chemise, as modified by our American designers who know the American woman, will be an important fashion and will be with us for some time.
2. But we believe that the chemise will not monopolize the fashion scene because there are other equally important fitted and semi-fitted clothes, and we believe women should not permit themselves to be led astray by too much propaganda.
3. Our advice to fashion conscious women is "Buy what is most becoming to you."

Romantic Floral Perfume Goes With Spring Mood

Spring is the brightest season of the year. Sunshine and gentle winds make the recent drab winter seem far behind.

It's the one time when we feel an uplifting of spirits and want to face the world with a fresh, carefree look.

Tired winter wardrobes are set aside, and lovely colors emerge in fashions. It's fun to step out in a new mood, and high on every woman's shopping list will be a change of scent.

Your Christmas perfumes are probably used up, but if not, you'll feel they're not right for spring, when the very air makes you want everything bright and new.

A perfect perfume for spring is one that is a subtle blend of floral essence.

And one of the world's most famous French perfumes is just a blend, with romantic overtones of rose and jasmine. It is so highly concentrated that its makers claim a single drop will last for hours.

Why not try a new floral scent with your new coiffure and your pretty spring fashions?

It will be the finishing touch to your feeling of luxury and love-liness.

For the thin little woman of small bosom and narrow shoulders, bloused effects are better than the straight-hanging chemise without horizontal break.

The thin upper-torso figure should approach the chemise with care, lest it really hang like a sack from thin-shoulder-no-bosom. The loose blousing at the waist relieves the altogether unbroken silhouette and rounds out the upper figure.

PORT HURON (UP) — A music-minded burglar played tunes on the organ in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren A. Beach before departing with about $25 and a bottle of wine.

The Beaches found the controls of the organ had been shifted.

We Vary Comments TO, ABOUT Others

By RUTH MILLETT

What women say TO each other and ABOUT each other are very rarely the same thing.

A woman says to her hostess: "This is the most marvelous angel food cake I ever ate. You must give me the recipe some time." But on the way home she says to her husband, "That cake was fair, but mine's a lot better. Don't you think?"

A woman says to the friend who has been dieting. "You look wonderful." But she asks all their mutual friends, "Have you seen Marianne lately? She has been dieting and she looks simply haggard."

A woman says to the mother of the destructive 3-year-old she brought with her when she came calling: "Don't worry. There isn't a thing he can hurt." But to her friends she says flatly, "I was a nervous wreck by the time they left. And she just sat there as unconcerned as could be."

A woman says to an old acquaintance she hasn't seen in years: "You haven't changed a bit." But in describing the meeting to her husband she says, "You remember Dorothy. Well, she was in town today and we had lunch together, and I was shocked at how she has aged."

A woman says: "I think you did absolutely right," when another woman tells her about a decision she has made. But to their mutual friends she worries, "I certainly hope Anne isn't making a mistake. If I were in her place, I would have done thus-and-so."

A woman says: "It's perfectly lovely," when she inspects another woman's efforts at interior decoration. But when she describes the living room to someone else she says, "It's a shame she didn't get some help from a professional decorator."

But fortunately, we usually only hear what we say TO each other.

Clean Building Declared Vital for Safe School

Only a clean school is a safe school.

Clean washrooms, clean lunchrooms, clean floors, clean walls and windows—plus plenty of warm water, soap, and clean toweling—help to safeguard the health of pupils and teachers.

They also contribute to the pupils' general education because children learn good health and grooming habits along with other studies.

Avoid Ties That Clash With Suits

Challis Neckwear Blends Well With Patterned Wool

There's more to looking well-groomed than just putting on a fine wool-worsted suit in the three-button "natural shoulder" model that's currently the accepted fashion among fastidious businessmen. The proper selection of accessories, too, does much to enhance a man's appearance.

The first rule is to avoid choosing accessories that clash with your suit's color and pattern. Many of this season's wool-worsted suits have definite pattern interest. They require neat or plain furnishings.

For example, the popular glen plaid wool-worsted suit calls for either a solid-color tie or one with a neat under-the-knot design.

WOOL CHALLIS TIES

There's a growing trend among "good dressers" toward wool challis ties for wear to the office with their patterned wool-worsted suits. Particularly worth noting are the rich-toned woolen ties trimmed with soft suede. The wonderful thing about them is that they never look wrinkled.

Wool ties are also a master at holding their shape . . . especially the part that ties into a knot. Why not take advantage of the winter 20 per cent off furnishings sales going on right now and add some of the new wool challis tie patterns to your neckwear wardrobe?

Should your wool suit be plain or in a solid color (like a gray wool flannel), then let your wildest impulse be your guide (limited to ties, of course) and choose a bright paisley wool cravat to brighten up your good wool suit.

Keep to a solid-color business shirt if your wool-worsted suit has pattern interest. Avoid a steady diet of white button-down business shirts and start wearing colored shirts, instead, to the office. People almost always take notice of a man in a colored shirt that blends with his wool suit. In fact, those co-workers will probably commend you for the "switch to color."

SPARE SHIRT HANDY

It's advisable to have a freshly laundered shirt in your desk drawer for that contingency when you'd either have to rush home to make a change or buy a new one. By keeping an electric shaver in the office, too, you'll be able to get rid of that "5 o'clock shadw" whenever it's necessary to entertain a client in town.

Did you know that a belt will feel more comfortable if the buckle is shifted from the front a little to the side. It will make your fine wool business or sports jacket fit better, too.

If, by chance, you're one of the fortunate ones planning on taking a Caribbean cruise this winter, check to see if Port-au-Prince, Haiti, is on the itinerary. Many cruise ships now stop there for at least a day.

Instead of spending all that time downtown in the business section around the iron market, hire a cab with guide and drive up to Kenskoff, a district of Port-au-Prince, 1,800 feet above sea level. It's an hour's drive, and on the way the driver will stop to give you an opportunity to see some magnificent views of the harbor down below

Take along a lightweight wool-worsted sports jacket or a soft lamb's wool sweater, because Kenskoff is very cool in the late afternoon and early evening. Lemon is the newest shade in tropic-light wool jackets.

Fluid chemise lines make a fashionable compromise in an overblouse with fitted semi-sashed front and unfitted back. Polka-dot motif and wide-away bateau neckline are important in the new blouse picture.

Reuther, Solon Ready to Clash

UAW Chief, Goldwater May Tangle as Probe of Kohler Strike Ends

WASHINGTON (AP)—Walter Reuther and Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz) squared off today for what could be a fiery climax of their long feud.

Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, was called to testify as possibly the final witness in the Senate Rackets Committee's probe of violence in the nearly four-year-old UAW strike against the Kohler Co., a Wisconsin maker of plumbing fixtures.

Goldwater, a member of the committee, long has been a critic of Reuther. The two have swapped unpleasantries at long range. A month ago, Reuther and Goldwater called each other cowards.

The UAW chief has accused Republican members of the committee of being biased and wanting to smear him and the auto workers union. Reuther has included Goldwater in this charge, along with Senators Mundt (R-SD) and Curtis (R-Neb).

Both sides of the Kohler strike have accused each other of violence which at times has marked the bitter dispute that started in April 1954.

Herbert V. Kohler, the company's head, testified that the UAW resorted to mob violence, "night riding vandalism" and illegal boycotting against his firm. Kohler also said he believes the UAW has lost the strike, on which the union has acknowledged spending 10 million dollars.

He said the company has not been hurt, and that while "I have to be a little modest about it, I think it (the union) has lost it."

Although the strike still is in effect, the company is operating with a force of nonstrikers and new workers.

The silver-haired industrialist said he could see no purpose in any further negotiations with the UAW at this time. He said the company challenges the union's claim to represent a majority of Kohler employes.

Repeatedly, Kohler parried questions about whether he is willing to bargain with the union now.

Adlai Lends Support to Ike's Tariff Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson join forces in a second bipartisan display today, this time for support of Eisenhower's embattled tariff and trade program.

Eisenhower's radio - television speech tonight winds up a day-long conference and is expected to sum up the administration's case for a five-year extension of the reciprocal trade program.

The speech is scheduled for 9:30 p. m., EST.

Stevenson, whom Eisenhower twice defeated for the presidency, was listed as the principal luncheon speaker for the meeting, similar to a bipartisan foreign aid rally in which he joined a month ago.

More than 1,000 delegates were expected at the meeting, called by the National Conference of Organizations on International Trade Policy. This is a private group, representing 125 national organizations.

Airline Stocks Rise on Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Some airline shares advanced as the Stock Market was mixed with a slightly higher tendency in quiet early trading today.

Changes of fractions to around a point were the rule for most key stocks. The opening was fairly active and irregular.

Award by the Civil Aeronautics Board of four trunkline air routes between Great Lakes cities and St. Louis into Florida helped some of the lines.

Northwest Airlines and Capital Airlines each rose more than a point on the news but there was scant reaction immediately from the stock of two other lines affected, Trans World and Delta Air Lines.

Some leading steels and a few selected issues showed a firmer tone. Most important market groups showed little change. Chemicals produced some scattered losers. Motors were barely changed although Ford dropped a fraction.

Lorillard was up about a point. Raytheon was firm. U.S. Steel and Bethlehem added fractions. As the White House tightened controls on crude oil imports in the voluntary program, Amerada, a big domestic producer rose about a point. Royal Dutch gained fractionally.

Allied Chemical was clipped for about a 1-point loss. Other losers included American Cyanamid, Union Carbide, United Aircraft, and Santa Fe.

Among opening blocks were Capital Airlines up 1 at 16½ on 4,000 shares; United Air Lines up ¼ at 26 on 1,100; U.S. Hoffman Machinery up ⅛ at 9⅞ on 3,000; and American Telephone up ⅛ at 171⅝ on 1,500.

Ike Orders Reduction in Oil Import Quotas

WASHINGTON (INS) — President Eisenhower today ordered a reduction and reallocation of voluntary oil import quotas and barred federal agencies from buying imported petroleum from companies refusing to comply with the program.

Eisenhower approved a 58,400 barrel a day reduction in crude oil imports east of the Rocky Mountains, cutting the daily total in this area from 771,400 to 713,000 barrels a day.

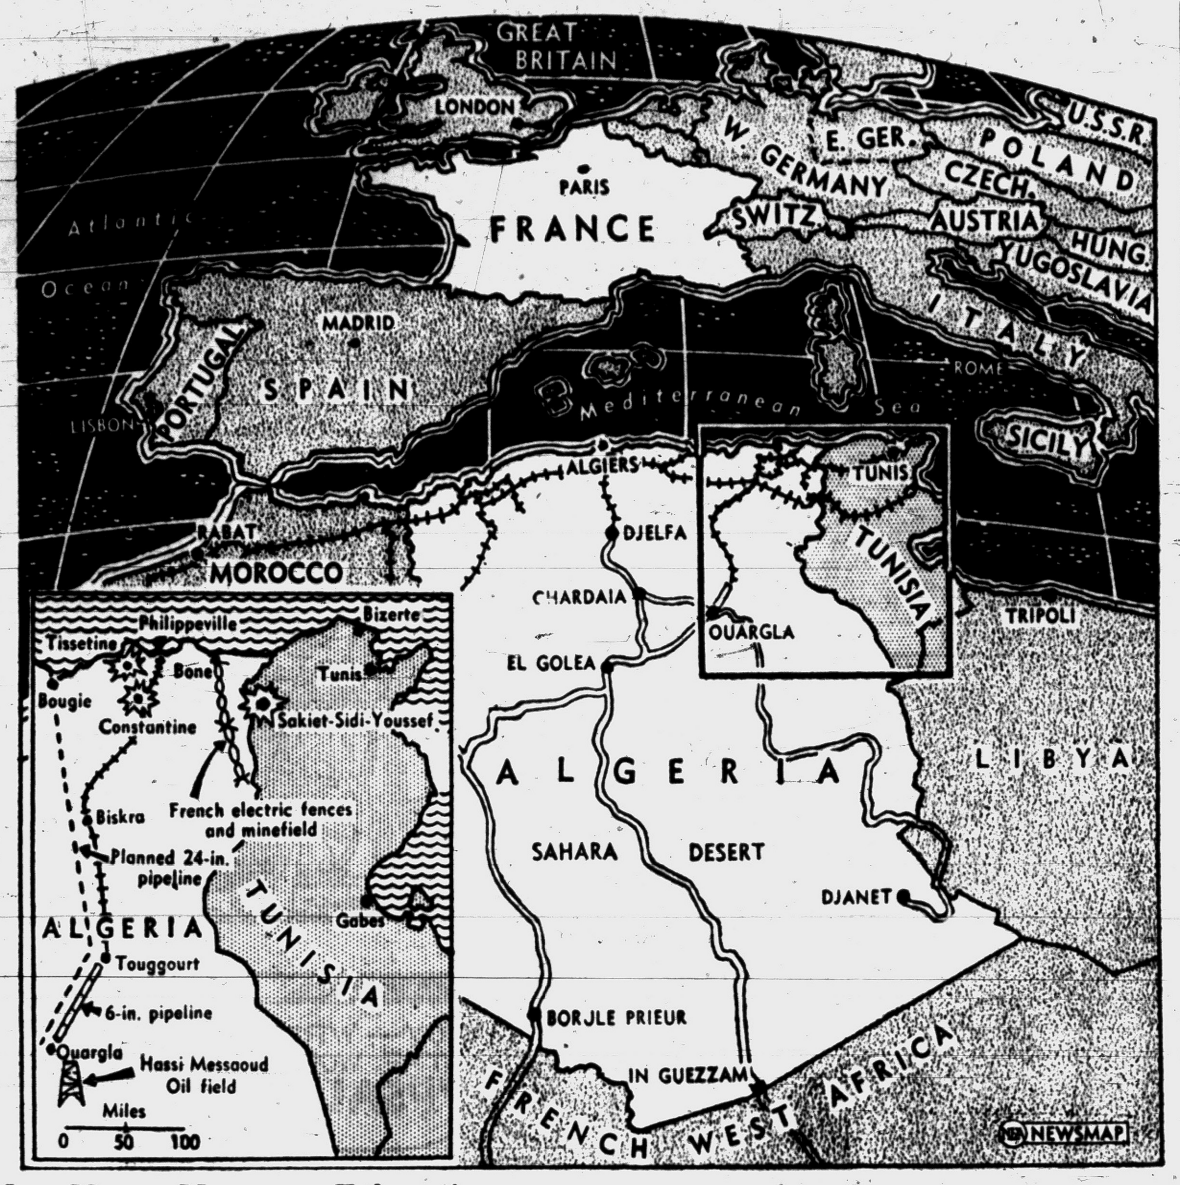
Imports west of the Rockies will not be affected under the directive which the President said was issued as a "national security" measure. This is on the basis that excess oil imports would reduce mineral exploration in the United States, important in case of war.



Near Money, Manpower Exhaustion

Algeria Bleeding France to Death?

CLEVELAND (NEA) — Now into its fourth year, Algeria's war of independence against France is draining the "mother" country of money and manpower to the point of threatened exhaustion.

To keep a 500,000-man army on active duty in sprawling Algeria is sucking francs from the French economy at the rate of three million dollars a day. Against France's half-million soldiers are poised the Algerians' national liberation force (FLN) of some 35,000, backed by 100,000 partisans.

So far, the cost in lives has been nearly 6,000 French and nearly 38,000 Algerians. Map shows the relationship of 852,000-square-mile Algeria and France, about one-quarter that size. Above map shows closeup of the area of fiercest fighting.

Discovery of oil near Ouargla in the Sahara Desert has intensified the Algerians' struggle for independence and strengthened France's determination to hold on to her new-found riches. Oil pours through a six-inch pipeline 93 miles long from the Hassi Messaoud field to Touggourt, from where it is transported by rail to Philippeville on the Mediterranean coast.

The rebels constantly bomb and dynamite the railroad. In an effort to seal off the Tunisian border, the French have tried to create a no-man's-land by erecting a 150-mile fence of electrified barbed wire (see map) along the railroad running south from Bone.

On the claim that many of the Algerian guerrilla attacks were engineered and supported from Tunisia, early in February 25 French military aircraft bombed and strafed the Tunisian village of Sakiet-Sidi-Youssef, only 700 yards from the Algerian border.

The 68 civilians killed included 34 children buried in the bomb-blasted school. The raid had worldwide repercussions as an act of unjustified brutality.

The Algerian civil war directly affects U. S. interests in North Africa where we and our allies have NATO air and naval bases vital to defense and retaliation in case of war with Russia.

RETIRING — Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, above, Army research chief, is retiring Monday after 30 years of military service. He'll be succeeded in the post by Lt. Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau, a former Army intelligence chief and Korean commander. Gavin said last January in announcing his intention to retire that the Army was deteriorating and he felt he could do more for it outside than he could in.

Before Senate Committee in Washington

County Works Head to Testify

The Oakland County Public Works Dept. represented by its director, Harold K. Schone, was slated to testify this morning before the Senate Banking and Currency Committee in Washington.

The group was called to represent all the nation's counties in giving testimony on Senate Bill 3497, which would establish a federal revolving fund to loan money to local governments for approved public works projects.

The bill was introduced by the committee's chairman, Sen. William Fulbright (D-Ark).

Schone told the committee that the major need today among counties is for water, sewer and storm drainage projects.

He supported the bill strongly on these projects and a few others such as garbage disposal facilities, local airports, land acquisition for public parks, for parking lots and for hospitals and health centers.

Schone said that the Oakland group did not see the need for federal money for sidewalks, roads (which are covered in the federal highway construction law), public transportation, schools, (except classroom construction), libraries and office buildings.

Pointing to the skyrocketing price of land in Oakland County when sewer and water is available, the DPW director stated, that opening of new land areas in the county with these facilities could substantially reduce the price of homes by cutting improved land prices.

Schone said, too, that a major difficulty today is that improvements are based on existing tax base and population, when they should be built in anticipation of growth.

Oakland, he said, in 1950 had a population of 396,000 and the best estimates show a present population of 686,000 with an expected population in 1980 of 1,158,000.

He urged that funds be made available for planning future projects so that they will be ready to go when the need arises and money is available for construction.

Schone said that sewage disposal problems are pressing in the southern part of Oakland, while the future need in the northern half can be foreseen.

"While there is a strong desire to do the project right . . . it is apparent that a bond issue could not be sold for the entire project because of the present tax base and population, so that if some outside support on the federal level is not obtained, this project will follow the past pattern of 'too little—too late,'" he stated.

The bill Oakland supported would enable counties to borrow from the federal government and repay the loans at the rate the federal government pays for its loans plus one-quarter of one per cent service charge.

It would also provide outright grant-in-aid for planning.

Senators Agree With $2 Billion for Moon Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Space Committee members said today they are willing to go along with a two - billion - dollar expenditure to put a man on the moon and return him to earth.

President Eisenhower's Scientific Advisory Committee said in a report it probably will cost a couple of billions over a period of years to bring about the feat.

Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) said space developments over a long range of years may cost a great deal more than that.

But Sen. Anderson (D-NM) said in a separate interview the country will get the cost back if it develops the nuclear propulsion he said will be necessary to reach the moon.

Anderson, a member of the Senate - House Atomic Committee, said, "If we develop the nuclear propulsion necessary, we can save the two billion by reducing the cost of chemically propelled rockets.

"With nuclear propulsion, we will have a one-stage weapon that is far more accurate and dependable than any we have now."

Hickenlooper said he thinks any such development is going to take years and will cost a lot of money.

Senate Weighs Change in Taxes

Device Would Update '58 Levy on Properties to Dec. 31 This Year

LANSING (AP)—A device to slice as much as 150 million dollars off Michigan businesses passed the Senate today, 262.

The bill now goes to the House.

The measure merely would change the next tax day, that is the legal day for property tax assessments, from Jan. 1, 1959 to Dec. 31, 1958, moving it ahead to this calendar year.

Sen. Clyde H. Geerlings (R-Holland) said the effect would be to permit many firms to double up on state property taxes in figuring allowable deductions for federal income tax purposes.

The device would be available to corporate and unincorporated businesses on an accural account basis and operating on a calendar fiscal year. It would not benefit the individual property owner.
