HONOR WAR DEAD — Mrs. Leon Culbert, of 3831 Percy-King, Waterford Township, and her young daughters Mary Jane, (left), 15, and Leonna Sue, 8, were among the hundreds visiting cemeteries in the Pontiac area to honor deceased servicemen. The Culberts visited the Perry Mount Park Cemetery, 878 N. Perry, and placed flowers on the grave of Leon Culbert on this Memorial Day.

Mass Assault on Segregation May Hit North

Picket-Line Violence in Philly Threatens to Spread Out

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Picket-line violence in the city of brotherly love, prompted by Negroes' demand for the right to join labor unions, may have spawned a mass assault on segregation barriers all across the North.

★ ★ ★

Demonstrations which started peaceably two weeks ago with a sit-in in the mayor's office erupted into violence for the second time Wednesday.

Ten persons were hurt as pickets, laborers and police clashed at the North Philadelphia site of a $6-million school project.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, prime mover in the local demonstrations, has charged labor unions with failing to hire non-white skilled workers. The unions have denied it.

★ ★ ★

After Wednesday's outbreak during which massed police faced as many as 500 pickets, national officers of the NAACP wired support of local leaders and promised an all-out effort to break down labor segregation barries in other cities.

★ ★ ★

Herbert Hill, national NAACP labor secretary, said in New York demonstrations will begin very soon in such cities as New York, Washington, Chicago, Cleveland, Boston and St. Louis.

Negro ministers in Philadelphia joined demonstrations for the first time Wednesday. Two of 15 at the school site were hurt but not seriously.

★ ★ ★

During the morning, the ministers spoke to the crowd over a loudspeaker and said that Sunday they will call from their pulpits for a demonstration Monday that will be the largest this city has ever seen or that ever has been staged north of the MAson Dixon Line.

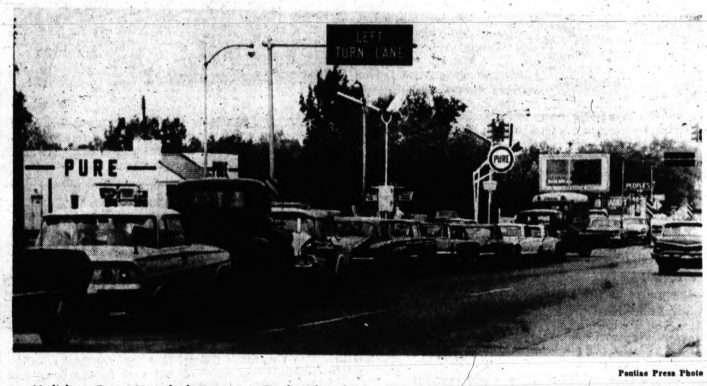

★ ★ ★

They estimated 20,000 to 200,000 will turn out.

★ ★ ★

Phillip Savage, a local officer of the NAACP, said picket lines probably will be thrown around all city projects, with state and federal projects to follow if the matter isn't settled soon.

Iron Workers to Meet
Orders Union Back to Jobs

NLRB Official Calls for End to 29-Day Strike

Walkout's Cited as Violation of Contract With Building Firms

DETROIT (AP) — Iron Workers Union officials today called for a meeting of some 1,700 members Sunday after a National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) official ordered their 29-day strike ended by tomorrow.

The walkout May 1 by members of Local 24 has halted work on buildings and bridges in 32 southeastern Michigan counties, including Oakland County.

Henry Cooper, local business manager, said the rank and file will reconsider a wage offer by employers. Workers last Saturday rejected the package increase of 45 cents an hour over a two-year period.

Thomas Roumell, NLRB regional director, yesterday ordered the unit of the Bridge, Structural and Iron Workers Union (AFL-CIO) to terminate the strike tomorrow. He said it was illegal.

Roumell cited the union's contract with firms represented by the Steel and Metal Erectors Association and the associated general contractors.

This pact, he said, automatically renewed itself for a year because a required notice of intent to end the contract was not given.

If the strike is not terminated by Friday, Roumell said he'd issue a formal complaint and order a hearing.

Cooper last week recommended that the union accept the wage agreement. He indicated the same recommendations will be put before members Sunday.

Parade Marks Memorial Day

The memory of those that died defending their country was strengthened this morning.

Attention was focused on their deeds today with a Memorial Day Parade, one of the largest here in their honor.

A more solemn tribute was later paid to the area war dead with a mass graveside memorial service.

Some 30 veteran, military, civic and fraternal units marched in the parade down Saginaw, passing in review before city and parade officials at Huron.

Special guest on the reviewing stand was honorary parade marshal John N. Johnson, a 78-year-old veteran of the Spanish-American War.

The mile-long parade took marchers and a cavalcade of automobiles north from Patterson along Saginaw and Oakland.

Marchers kept in step to the music of Pontiac Central and Northern High School bands and the combined bands of several area junior high schools.

PARADE HALTED

The parade halted at the Civil War Monument in front of the First Baptist Church while a wreath was placed at the base of the statue. A three-gun salute was fired in honor of the men of that war.

After the parade disbanded on Sanderson, most of the units later regrouped at Perry Mount Park Cemetery for ceremonies there.

Rev. Donald C. Andrews, pastor of the Church of Atonement, Waterford Township, gave the invocation and presented the Memorial Day address.

Among those taking part were Gold Star Mothers, World War I and II Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion, Disabled American Veterans, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, Blue Star Mothers and MOMS of America.

The Navy Mothers cast a lone wreath on the cemetery pond in honor of those who served at sea.

Holiday Outings to Be Brightened With Sunshine

Sunny skies with a high of 75 will brighten Memorial Day outings in the Pontiac area.

Fair with little temperature change is the forecast for tonight and tomorrow. Following a dip to a low of 50 tonight, the mercury is expected to reach a high of 76 tomorrow.

The outlook for Saturday is partly cloudy and mild.

Winds, westerly to northwesterly at five to 15 m.p.h. today, will become southwesterly at 10 to 18 m.p.h. tomorrow.

The lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 47. At 10 a.m. the thermometer read 57.

Despite Plea by Rusk

Ecuador Still Holding 21 U.S. Tuna Boats

QUITO, Ecuador (UPI)—Twenty-one American tuna boats remained in custody of the Ecuadorean navy as alleged poachers today despite a telephoned plea by Secretary of State Dean Rusk for their release.

The boats, out of San Diego, Calif., were being herded to the Ecuadorean port of Salinas by two destroyers and some gunboats.

Despite Rusk's phone call to Foreign Minister Benjamin Peralta and a statement by Ecuador's Ambassador Neftali Ponce Mirandi in San Francisco that there had been an agreement to free the boats, the Naval and Foreign Ministries issued a joint communique late Wednesday stating their "unbreakable resolution to maintain national sovereignty sacred above all other considerations" in the case.

The ministries said the 21 boats were operating illegally in Ecuador's territorial waters. The boats White Star and Ranger were arrested by the Ecuadorean patrol boat Jambeli Saturday.

DESTROYERS

The destroyers Presidente Alfaro and Velasco Ibarra were dispatched to bring in the other 19, which reportedly hampered the Jambeli in its efforts to conduct the White Star and Ranger to port.

★ ★ ★

A Naval Ministry spokesman said it had not been necessary to use force to apprehend the alleged poachers. U.S. Representative Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif., said in Washington the tuna boat Hornet reported by radio that an Ecuadorean navy craft had fired across its bow.

Rusk told a Washington news conference yesterday he had telephoned Foreign Minister Benjamin Peralta Paez urging immediate release of the boats on grounds the two governments have agreed to seek a satisfactory solution to the problem of conflicting recognition of territorial waters.

★ ★ ★

Ecuador claims a 200-mile limit. The United States recognizes only a three-mile limit.

★ ★ ★

U.S. tuna boats in recent years have been purchasing licenses in order to buy bait in Ecuadorean ports. With the development of net fishing methods the boats have not needed local bait and have balked at buying licenses.

Does County Need Community College?

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the first of two articles explaining the community college issue appearing on the June 10 school election ballot. Other issues and personalities to appear on the ballot will be presented by The Pontiac Press before the election).

By GARY THORNE

Proposals to establish an Oakland County community college—a two-year institution of higher education—have provoked numerous questions and conflicting opinions.

In some instances, county residents question why there should be a local junior college at all. Still others are concerned with the costs.

To get answers to the questions and erase some of the confusion, The Pontiac Press quizzed Dr. William J. Emerson, county school superintendent, on the community college proposals.

★ ★ ★

Q. Why does Oakland County need a community college?

A. "Nearly 3,000 high school seniors and their parents were questioned last year and indicated that those seniors would definitely or probably attend community colleges if they existed here.

"Community colleges offer instruction programs for an important segment of the population that hasn't completed its education at the high school level and doesn't choose to, or could not, attend a four-year college."

Q. Who says we need a community college?

A. "The Oakland County Citizens Advisory Council on Community Colleges, the Six-County

Nation Shows Gratitude to Those Lost in War

By The Associated Press

With gratitude to her war dead, and in loving memory of all her deceased loved ones, the nation today marks another Memorial Day—with its roots of observance now dating back exactly 100 years.

★ ★ ★

President Kennedy lays the presidential wreath on the Tomb of the Unknowns in Arlington (Va.) National Cemetery. And old soldiers, young soldiers and just plain citizens conduct ceremonies in most every city, town and hamlet.

In addition to wreath-laying rites are the parades, speeches and gunfire salutes. For millions of Americans it also is a day of rest, and for other millions it means the start of a long weekend holiday.

Most historians agree that the holiday dates to April 1863, when several women at Columbus, Miss., scattered spring flowers on graves of Confederate and Union soldiers.

WOMEN WAR DEAD

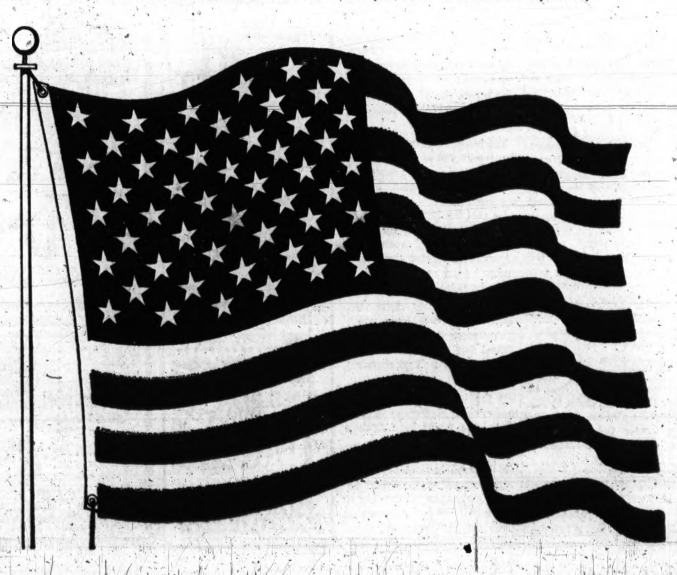

At Rindge, N.H., ground-breaking ceremonies are scheduled for a memorial bell tower to honor all women war dead.

In Albany, N.Y., Harry M. Startup, 82, a Spanish-American War veteran, leads the city's parade. It is Startup's third time to serve as grand marshal.

At Fort Banks in Winthrop, Mass., Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, the President's mother, takes part in ceremonies naming three streets in honor of fallen servicemen, including her son, Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr., who died in World War II.

The President, after his wreath-laying at Arlington, flies by helicopter to Camp David, the presidential retreat in the Catoctin Mountains of Maryland, for lunch, and then back to the White House for some office work and a little relaxation on the holiday.

At Arlington, President Kennedy was joined by Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who in a prepared speech reminded all Americans that "we are leaders in a tense world who must meet serious issues with a calm, sober sense of responsibility."

Pointing out the tensions created by the Communists throughout the globe, Taylor paid tribute to the Americans lost in South Viet Nam, calling them "national heroes in every sense of the word."

★ ★ ★

"The conflict in Viet Nam typifies dramatically the new challenge we are facing in many parts of the underdeveloped world," Taylor said.

It has been a decade since the last of the nation's nine major wars ended, but Americans still die on battlefields, to be remembered on this Memorial Day.

Their names still come in, by ones and twos, to be added to the more than 602,000 who fell during the past 188 years at such places as Lexington and Taejon, at Gettysburg and Normandy, at the Battle of Lake Erie and on the Coral Sea.

The United States isn't an official belligerent in Viet Nam's war. But in the last 2½ years 36 Americans have died by "hostile action." They were with South Viet Nam forces in engagements against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

The biggest battlefield death toll for the United States was the approximate 291,000 killed in action in World War II. This was approached by the Civil War, where about 215,000 died in action—140,000 of them Union soldiers, the others Confederates.

Sue to Prevent Drain Closing

A Circuit Court suit seeking to prevent Oakland County officials from reclosing a drain between Williams and Maceday lakes was filed yesterday by John E. McGrath, attorney for a group of Williams Lake residents.

★ ★ ★

The suit charges a culvert between the two lakes was illegally plugged years ago by the county road commission.

The legal action stems from last Friday's attempt by some 75 Williams Lake residents to open the culvert between the two lakes. Williams Lake is two feet lower than Maceday Lake.

They had dug a 50-foot trench about four feet deep and had just drilled through a cement plug when the arrival of police and county officials halted the project.

The court action seeks an injunction against the county's interfering with the natural flow of water from Maceday to Williams Lake until the county establishes "adequate lake level control."

NAACP to Up Activity

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Integrationists planned to step up demonstrations in this Mississippi capital city today even though police promised to continue their policy of instant arrests.

★ ★ ★

"We're not going anywhere but down on Capitol street," a Mississippi leader of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People told 600 cheering Negroes Wednesday night at a rally.

Mississippi does not observe Memorial Day. Stores will be open today.

Nineteen persons were jailed in four demonstrations Wednesday.

27 ARRESTS

It brought to 27 the number of arrests since picketing and sit-in demonstrations started here Tuesday.

Two white youths were hurt Wednesday night when Negroes tossed bricks through the windshield of their car in a Negro section. But there was no violence during daytime demonstrations.

The previous day a mixed group which tried to desegregate a lunch counter was attacked.

Throngs of white persons gathered on Capitol street—the main thoroughfare — when the first six pickets appeared Wednesday. A few white youths stepped in front of the pickets and attempted to halt them. Otherwise there were no incidents.

NEW CITY LAW

Demonstrators arrested for picketing were charged with displaying a placard without a permit—a new city law. When their City Court trials began Wednesday afternoon, Jack Young, a Jackson Negro attorney, contended the new law was unconstitutional.

City Court Judge James Spencer delayed the trials for one week and directed Young to file a brief on his claim.

★ ★ ★

Classes in non-violent, sit-in techniques were held Wednesday at the Jackson headquarters of the NAACP by the Congress of Racial Equality. Students were briefed on what to expect in demonstrations. More classes were planned today.

ELSEWHERE

Major racial developments elsewhere included:

The Justice Department announced it will appeal a ruling by a federal judge in Birmingham, Ala., that the department does not have the right to sue for desegration of two Alabama school systems which receive federal funds under the Federal area program.

Negroes and white persons lunched together in public dining rooms of five leading Charlotte, N.C., hotels and motels for the first time. Dr. John R. Cunningham, chairman of a biracial committee named by Mayor Stan Brookshire, said eight hotels and motels are beginning a program of opening their sleeping accommodations to both races.

ATHLETICS INTEGRATED

Breaking with the tradition of the Southeastern Conference, the University of Kentucky announced it will integrate its athletic program. The 12-member group is segregated athletically by tradition, not rule.

★ ★ ★

A compromise agreement ended an Alabama Senate filibuster over a resolution endorsing Gov. George Wallace's promised defiance of a court order to integrate the University of Alabama. The Senate at Montgomery adopted an amendment appealing to citizens to prevent mob violence, then sent the measure back to the House where it originated.

★ ★ ★

The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce asked all businesses in the city serving the general public to do so without regard to race. Mayor Ivan Allen said that Atlanta's 12 swimming pools will open June 12 on a desegregated basis in compliance with a federal court order.

SANG ANND CHATED

Four hundred Negro students sang and chanted demands for ending segregation in the Tallahasee, Fla., business district while 500 white persons watched. It was the ninth protest in as many days. Police moved in briefly when several white youths jeered the Negroes.

Pontiff's Rest Is 'Excellent'

Statement on Health Indicates Optimism

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican today reported further improvement in the condition of Pope John XXIII and said his hemorrhages had ceased for the present.

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII spent "an excellent night with perfect rest," the Vatican announced today.

His doctors reported "concrete improvement," informed sources said.

An oral statement by a Vatican spokesman underlined new optimism that the 81-year-old Roman Catholic ruler might rally from the critical hemorrhaging provoked by an abnormal internal stomach growth.

MIGHT BE PAST

The statement, indicating that the immediate crisis might be past, said Pope John "would receive his doctor, Prof. Antonio Gasbarrini, in a farewell visit this morning."

Gasbarrini, who lives in Bologna, plans to leave Rome this afternoon, the statement added.

★ ★ ★

He was summoned here urgently Sunday after the Pope suffered a critical setback.

Despite Gasbarrini's departure, the Pope remained under constant attention from his Roman doctor and from a special Vatican medical staff.

One of his doctors said Wednesday night that the Pope might be able to get out of bed in a week or 10 days if he continues showing reported.

OPTIMISM

That statement indicated optimism. But it also pointed to the fact that the next week or 10 days might be crucial, with the threat of new hemorrhaging still present.

The report was the most optimistic since the Pope's abnormal stomach growth sent him to bed 10 days ago and brought him close to death.

timistic since the Pope' sabnormal stomach growth sent him to bed 10 days ago and brought him close to death.

Does County Need Community College?

Metropolitan Community College Study Committee, the report of the Michigan Study on Higher Education, many local school boards, PTA and other groups."

Q. If there are students who want to go to college, why can't they go to Oakland University?

A. "Some cannot meet the entrance standards as required appropriately by Oakland University, while others require technical and terminal courses of instruction not necessarily offered by institutions of higher learning such as OU."

Q. What advantages are there to attending a community college rather than a four-year school?

A. "There are many such advantages and many of them I've already mentioned, such as the entrance requirements and the need of some students to take terminal courses not leading to the baccalaureate.

"In addition, many students attending community college will work full-time and take technical courses part-time. A student can also live at home and save living expenses."

Q. What kind of courses will be offered by the proposed junior college?

A. "Two general types of courses will be offered. These will be terminal technical courses, such as accounting, practical nursing, secretarial instruction and drafting; and academic courses such as those usually found in the freshman and sophomore years of college."

Q. Could this college ever become a four-year institution?

A. "The statutes under which the election is being held prohibit this."

Q. Who will run the new community college?

A. A new board of trustees being elected June 10 will run the junior college."

Q. How many students can the community college accommodate?

A. "The Citizens Advisory Council suggests that the first two campuses be developed to accommodate a total of 3,000 students within a couple of years."

(Tomorrow — How much will the community college cost? Who will pay the bills?)

Loss Reported in County Tally

Nine Votes Thus Far Dropped by New-Con

The first net changes in the Oakland County vote on the new state constitution were reported yesterday.

They were in favor of the document's opponents as the county's 35,377-vote margin of "yes" votes was reduced by nine in the recount requested by the Democratic party.

All but one of the changes came in Bloomfield Township, where attorney Hugo C. Edberg of Royal Oak, representing the State Board of Canvassers, ruled eight absentee ballots invalid.

Edberg overruled two - to - one votes by the three-member County Board of Canvassers in making his determination that marks on the backs of the ballots were "voter distinguishing marks" that invalidate ballots under state law.

New constitution supporters objected, but State Elections Director Robert M. Montgomery told Edberg by telephone that he was the judge in the matter.

Both Edberg and Montgomery pointed out that the ruling could be appealed to the State Board of Canvassers.

Most of the recount has been marked so far by challenges of absent-voter ballots and envelopes by opponents of the constitution. Such ballots have been marked as exhibits for possible appeals or court cases, but none had been invalidated before yesterday.

The other vote change — one vote—was in Pleasant Ridge.

County election officials said the recount was showing that the election was handled cleanly and efficiently in most cases, with no evidence of fraud, but that some errors were made.

County-Clerk Register Daniel T. Murphy reported that the recount was completed in 131 of the 206 county precincts involved. The county has 340 precincts altogether. Two county recount teams will resume work Monday.

Albion Circuit Judge Dies of Heart Attack

ALBION (AP) —Circuit Court Judge Alfonso A. Magnotta, 50, prominent in Democratic party affairs, was stricken and died of a heart attack yesterday while mowing the lawn at his home in Albion.

Judge Magnotta was a former mayor of Albion and a member of the state House of Representatives from 1937-38.

Birmingham Area News

Pick Executive Director for Community House

BIRMINGHAM — Robert A. Bogan Jr. of Detroit has been named new executive director of the Community House.

Bogan, 35, is customer service officer and assistant vice president of Metropolitan Federal Savings and Loan Association, Detroit.

He is the outgoing president of the Detroit Junior Board of Commerce.

The new director will succeed F. Ward Ouradnik July 1.

Active in several area fund drives, Bogan is a member of the Economic Club of Detroit, Financial Public Relations Association and the 1968 Detroit Olympic Committee among others.

INTRODUCED

Bogan will be introduced to "stockholders" of the Community House at the annual meeting of the organization Monday night.

A representative of the architectural firm which has been chosen to design and supervise construction of a major addition to the Community House will be the principal speaker.

Also on the agenda are a report on the 1963 fund drive and election of five directors to the 17-member board.

Reservations for the 6 p.m. dinner, open to all residents of Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills, Bloomfield Township, Beverly Hills and Franklin, can be made at the Community House, 380 S. Bates.

The Birmingham Board of Education has adopted a uniform smoking policy for its secondary schools.

Limits of the policy are less strict than for that passed by the Bloomfield Hills board a month ago.

The Birmingham policy is unlike Bloomfield Hills' in another important area—it was initiated by school principals rather than the students.

A student offender under 16 years of age will be suspended from school for three days the first time he is caught and for five days every time thereafter.

For those over 16, the first offense will bring a five-day suspension, the second offense a 10-day suspension and the third offense suspension for the rest of the semester.

In Bloomfield Hills, first offenders are suspended for 20 days and second offenders for the rest of the school year, regardless of their age.

Both policies prohibit possession or use of tobacco on school property.

NO EFFECT

Walter J. Piel, administrative assistant to the school superintendent, said the Bloomfield Hills action had no effect on the Birmingham decision.

"It was under study by the secondary school principals for some time," he commented.

Traffic Deaths Below Usual for Holiday

By The Associated Press

Traffic deaths in the nation today appeared to run below normal in the first hours of the 30-hour Memorial Day holiday period.

Fatalities in the highways averaged about one per hour since the count started at 6 p.m. (Pontiac time) Wednesday. The holiday period ends at midnight tonight.

At 8 a.m. the death count was: 27 traffic, 1 boating, 0 drowning. Total 28.

The National Security Council has estimated that between 90 and 130 persons will be killed in traffic accidents during the holiday period. Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Oregon, Tennessee and Wisconsin each reported one fatality, a total of 13.

Communication Problem

Romney, Board Still Feud on EMU

LANSING (AP) — Settlement of a full-blown controversy between Gov. George Romney and the State Board of Education appeared today to be a matter of simple, direct communication.

At issue in the dispute was a report by an investigating team of the North Central Association (NCA), a college and high school accrediting agency, criticizing administrative policies at Eastern Michigan University.

The board was standing firm in its position that Romney could not have a copy of the report unless he would promise to keep it "confidential."

Romney, in a surprise move, announced he would be willing to do this if it were true that the NCA, in compiling the report for the state, had stipulated it should not be made public.

DIDN'T KNOW

He said he had no first-hand knowledge that the NCA had set such a condition. But Board President Chris Magnusson insisted he had so informed the governor in a phone conversation three days ago.

"Who's he kidding?" asked Magnusson.

Romney earlier had demanded formally that the board give him a copy of the NCA report, and an irate Magnusson retorted, that not only would the board not comply, but it "won't even let him see the report."

Commenting on this, Romney said:

"I can conceive of circumstances in which a private agency would want its report to be confidential. If the NCA said the report should not be made public, I would not violate that understanding."

The board's refusal to give him the report unless he agreed in advance to keep it private was termed "unbelievable" by the governor.

He said the board was making a direct challenge to the governor's constitutional authority to request and receive "any information" from an elected or appointed official.

Magnusson said later the head of the NCA team which investigated the Ypsilanti school had stipulated that the report should be kept confidential.

If the information was to be made public, Magnusson said, the NCA team would have made a different report.

Magnusson has refused to divulge contents of the report because it contains "references to personalities," and to make it public would "serve no useful purpose."

NATIONAL WEATHER — Scattered showers with a few thundershowers through the Plains and some showers for Florida are forecast for tonight. Partly cloudy skies are due in the Plains, Mississippi Valley and into the central Rockies with fair skies in the Far West except for some coastal cloudiness. It should remain mild or turn milder except for cooler temperatures from the Tennessee Valley eastward to the Atlantic and northward to the Lakes.

Some Areas Get Rain for Memorial Day

By The Associated Press

Wet weather dampened Memorial Day activities in scattered sections in the West and the eastern quarter of the nation today but dry weather was reported in most other areas.

The Weather Bureau said fair weather was indicated for most of the Midwest, the Middle Atlantic Coast states, the southern Plateau region and most of the Pacific Coast except the extreme north.

Showers were forecast in the Plains, the Rockies, the north and central Plateau region, parts of the Ohio Valley and along the Gulf Coast. Showers also were in prospect in scattered sections along the coast of the Carolinas, in Florida and in the Lower Great Lakes region.

HEAVY RAIN

Fairly heavy rain fell during the night in New England, with a shower belt extending along the Atlantic Coast from Maine to Florida. Showers also sprinkled areas in the Lower Great Lakes the central and southern Plains and in the Pacific-Northwest.

Electrify or Else!

Amish Farmers Face Progress

LANCASTER, Pa. (UPI) — Pennsylvania's Amish farmers have another problem caused by progress.

The Amish, who traditionally have used portable kerosene or gasoline mantle lamps to light their barns and milk houses, have been ordered to install electricity in their dairy facilities.

If they do not comply with the order of health authorities of lower Merion Township, near Philadelphia, they face the possibility of losing an estimated $1.5 million a year in milk sales.

The Amish are a religious sect, many of whom shun modern conveniences as automobiles and electricity.

But recently, township authorities made an inspection tour of Amish dairy farms and passed the word that it would strictly enforce one of its rules that specifies electric lighting on farms supplying milk to the township.

MAIN BUYER

Sealtest Dairy traditionally has bought milk from the Amish and is completely satisfied as to its quality.

Sealtest even picks up milk on Saturday night and early Monday morning so as not to violate Amish religious principles against doing work on Sunday.

But when the township decided to enforce the electricity regulation, Sealtest had no choice but to advise Amish suppliers to electrify their barns by March 1, 1964, or find other markets for their milk.

Approximately 200 Amish farmers shipping between 45,000 and 50,000 quarts of milk a day out of Leaman Place, Pa., are involved.

Lower Merion Township is in Milk Control District 1-A, and their regulations — admittedly "very strict"—effectively serve to control milk supplies for other communities in the same district.

Sealtest, for example, could not afford to ignore a township health ruling and thereby lose its customers in that township and probably in the entire control district.

The Amish have nearly a year to decide whether or not they will adhere to their beliefs and sacrifice a substantial annual income.

Almost 70 per cent of Georgia's area is farm land.

To Eye Bids on 5 Road Projects

Bids on five road improvement projects estimated to cost $198,000 will be opened by the Oakland County Road Commission June 6.

Two of the projects affect county primary roads. They are one mile of grading to prepare for black topping next year on Farmington Road between 13-Mile and 14-Mile, and two miles of grading for 1964 black topping on Maybee Road from Sashabaw to Dixie Highway in Independence Township.

The Farmington Road project is estimated at $50,000, the Maybee Road work at $100,000.

The remaining three projects concern local roads with townships scheduled to pay half the cost. These projects and their estimated costs are:

Shiawassee Street, .55 miles, Nine Mile to Farmington city limits in Farmington Township, grading, drainage and 20-foot black top, $28,000.

Maybee Road, .54 miles, Baldwin Road to Grafton Street in Orion Township, 20-foot black top, $10,000.

Fairview Street, .6 mile, Indianwood Road to Lake Orion village limits in Orion Township, recondition base and black top, $10,000.

To Head Office of Civil Service Set for Detroit

LANSING (AP)—Nicholas Buian, former deputy director of the Ohio state personnel department, has been named head of a new Detroit office of the State Civil Service Commission.

The new office will be opened Tuesday in the Cadillac Square Building.

The commission, which presently has no branch offices, said it is opening a small Detroit office to improve recruiting in such hard-to-fill job classes as professional social workers, medical and psychiatric personnel, higher-level stenographic positions and certain technical classes.

The office also will maintain contact with higher learning institutions in the Detroit area to recruit graduates for state service.

Supervisors to Hear Varner

OU Chancellor to Talk at Metro Area Meeting

Oakland University Chancellor D. B. Varner will be a featured speaker at the annual meeting of the metropolitan area's six county boards of supervisors June 6.

The meeting will be held at the Veterans Memorial Building in Detroit.

Attending will be the supervisors and other local officials from Oakland, Wayne, Macomb, Monroe, St. Clair and Washtenaw counties.

Varner is presently with an Oakland County study group in the Cali Region of Colombia.

He is expected to discuss the local group's findings, which will be embodied in a report to the federal government as a guide to U.S. foreign aid in the region.

OTHERS TO SPEAK

Other scheduled speakers include A. H. LeMasurier of the Ontario Department of Economics and Development and Frederick C. Matthaei Sr., chairman of the Detroit Olympics Committee.

★ ★ ★

LeMasurier is expected to talk on cooperation in the metropolitan area between local governments on both sides of the immediate, international border.

Matthaei will show films used recently in Michigan's bid to bring the 1968 Olympic games to the Detroit area, and will outline the committee's progress to date.

Bernard F. Hillenbrand, executive director of the National Association of Counties, and M. James Gleason, first vice president, will speak on national, regional and county cooperation among the various branches of government.

Gleason, who also is commissioner of Multnomah County, Oregon, is slated to become president of the National Association of Counties in July.

Firemen Left at Blaze

RICHMOND, Ind. (AP) — A pumper truck made two trips to the scene of the blaze — once to put out the fire in an automobile and the second time to pick up three firemen inadvertently left behind.

Fluid milk was included as a U.S. army ration in 1933.

U.S. Can Challenge Russ Records, but Likely Won't

By ALVIN B. WEBB JR.

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The United States has the wherewithall to challenge Russia's most spectacular manned space-flight records this year — but it may pass up the opportunity.

Instead, this nation apparently is ready to concede the Soviet Union an additional 18 months in propaganda value, and possibly new strides in research, in sending men out to conquer space en route to the moon.

And the usually free-spending National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) is trying to decide whether to put another $10 million into the present Mercury program one-man flights or use the money in moving ahead with two and three-man missions.

At stake is whether America will reprieve the death sentence on its Project Mercury man-in-space program for one more flight—a mission that, on the drafting boards, would be far more ambitious than the stunning 22.5-orbit voyage of astronaut L. Gordon Cooper Jr.

The "go-no-go" decision hinges on the outcome of a struggle at the opposite poles of NASA's unwieldy Washington-Houston axis.

Washington, the administrative center of the far-flung NASA empire, wants to chop off Project Mercury now, save the estimated $10 million it would cost for another flight and concentrate on the more advanced Project Gemini, now 18 months down the pike.

Houston, the top-working level in the U.S. man-in-space program and the home of the astronauts, is fighting for another Mercury flight to gain more information and to bridge the gap between now and the first two-man Gemini flights, now set for October of 1964.

FLIGHT UNLIKELY

The battle lines are drawn. Washington's stand is led by NASA administrator James E. Webb, who said flatly there will be no more Mercury flights "unless we find a gap in information"; and his associate administrator, Robert Seamans, who called such a flight "quite unlikely."

The astronauts of Houston, on the other hand, want another Mercury mission and they made a point of telling President Kennedy so during ceremonies honoring Gordo Cooper.

Kennedy quoted them as saying the flight would be worthwhile and "useful."

★ ★ ★

But Kennedy also made it emphatic that NASA would have the "final judgment"—and right now, the space agency's Washington head has the high cards.

It isn't the matter of starting from scratch. The ingredients are at hand for a U.S. stab at Soviet supremacy in manned space flight this year.

It would take $10 million to mix the makings.

The two bell-shaped Mercury capsules like the "Faith-7" that Cooper rode for 34 hours in space already are in hangar "S" at Cape Canaveral, undergoing modifications for much longer flights.

The astronaut is ready and more than willing. Alan B. Shepard Jr., who made America's first suborbital (up-and-down) spaceflight two years ago and who later served as "back-up" to Cooper, betrays his ambition to pilot another Mercury flight every time the subject is mentioned.

TWO PROPOSALS

NASA already has spent $1 million just studying such a voyage. Scientists and technicians removed from the administrative end of things find it incomprehensible that Mercury could get this close and quit.

Two proposals have been put before those in charge of purse-strings:

● A Mercury flight specifically aimed at 72 orbits, which would better the present 64-orbit endurance record set last August by Russian cosmonaut Adrian Nikolayev.

Mercury officials said their capsule could keep a man in space for as long as four to six days.

● An "open-end" flight that would provide the astronaut with as much oxygen and other "consumables" as possible and then turn him loose to stay up until he had to come down.

Hopefully, such a mission would last 48 orbits or better.

NASA scientists favor the latter plan because it would offer a golden opportunity to study man in space without being committed absolutely to the "stunt" of seeking a record.

They find that the 18-month gap — the time between the Cooper flight and the first two-man Gemini mission — an awesome one, particularly if the United States is to meet its current goal of landing a team of astronauts on the moon in 1968, only five years from now.

And they know the Soviet Union, although inexplicably idle in manned spaceflights for more than nine months now, will hardly be standing still during the next 18 months.

The defense department's Pentagon building covers about 34 acres of land.

Handful of Pecans Saves Famous Tree

CISCO, Tex. (AP)—The famous Burkett Pecan Tree, the original pecan from which came the Burkett nut variety, is safe from the progress of modern freeway expansion.

The tree, located just north of U.S. 80 between Baird and Cisco, will be in a sheltered plot between the main freeway and a new frontage road.

District highway engineer Jake Roberts knows a good pecan when he peels one.

A handful of pecans presented by owner Omar Burkett helped decide the tree's fate.

Only about five per cent of the total cork supply available in the U.S. is made into bottle stoppers.

GM Workers Get Pay Hike

Cost of Living Index Adds 1 Cent an Hour

Some 23,000 hourly rated workers at the three General Motors plants here are among a million auto workers who will get a cent-an-hour wage increase next week because of a rise in the cost of living.

The upward revision of the wage scale becomes effective at General Motors June 1.

Similar increases are scheduled at the other major automobile manufacturers.

The increase results from terms in each company's contract with the UAW, calling for a one-cent hourly increase if the cost of living rises over a three-month period.

A hike in the cost of living of 0.2 for the Jan. 15—April 15 period was made public in the April consumer price index released by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics today.

The April index was 130.3, meaning that it costs $130.30 now to buy what $100 would buy in 1947—49.

★ ★ ★

Besides the hourly rated workers, salaried employes will receive an equivalent increase in their quarterly cost of living checks.

The next review of the company's cost-of-living allowance, GM said, will be for the April 15 — July 15 quarter and will be based on the July consumer price index.

HOLLYWOOD — The fastest growing segment of the entertainment industry is something that has been around since pre-Revolutionary days—folk music.

THOMAS

Folk records sell in the millions. Folk festivals are popping up all over the country. Folk musicians have moved out of the coffee houses and into the bigtime. Every college campus has its crews of guitar and banjo-thumping folksters, eternally hopeful of being tomorrow's Kingston Trio or Peter, Paul and Mary.

A high priest of the folk movement is Edwin Pearl, and from him I learned more about the whys and wherefores.

He operates the local Ash Grove which has spawned Bud and Travis, the Limelighters and many other top acts. It is, says Pearl the only night club in the country that regularly presents pure folk music.

By pure he means that the music is the real McCoy, with no help from Tin Pan Alley, and the instruments are never, never amplified. (Nothing seems to appall a true folk lover like an electric guitar.)

Pearl has scoured the hills of North Carolina, Kentucky and other origins of le folk pure for authentic musicians, importing some to Los Angeles virtually barefoot.

Pearl admitted that the Kingston Trio was the prime force in selling folk music to the masses, though like all purists he disapproves of their commercial style.

"I give them credit for helping the movement along," he conceded. "They certainly have a lot of fun performing, and that's one quality that folk music should have."

The reason for the upsurge o folk?

Pearl offered this theory: "The appreciation of ethnic origins usually skips two or three generations. I believe we're going through a reaction to the trend that started after the first World War—the movement to the cities.

"People who left the farms and hills had no great interest in the native music of the areas they came from. But after a few decades of city life, there is an urge to return to the simple, unsophisticated elements of life in a less complicated era."

Restaurant Burglary Gets Pair Probation

Two Pontiac men Tuesday were placed on three-year probation each for their nighttime burglary May 1 of the Baldwin Rubber Restaurant, 377 E. South Blvd.

John Povey, 45, 213 Parkdale, and Harold A. Cornwell, 40, of Stratford Arms Apartments, were also ordered by Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore to Pay $100 probation costs.

Cornwell, in addition, was ordered to make restitution of $236.

The two pleaded guilty May 13 to breaking and entering the restaurant and taking beer and other items.

Sentence Man for Iron Theft

Ernest Swartz, 40, of 17385 Westover, Southfield, was sentenced Tuesday to four years' probation for larceny of some 2 tons of iron plate valued at $320 from an Oak Park manufacturing firm.

Oakland County Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore also ordered Swartz to pay $250 probation costs within 90 days.

Swartz was convicted of the larceny charge May 9 by a jury. He was accused of taking the iron plate from Producto Corp., 10200 Capital, last Aug. 2.

Memorial Day Symbol of Man's Ultimate Fate

(In keeping with our policy of running guest editorials from time to time, our Memorial Day message has been written by Lt. Cmdr. USNR, Donald E. Adams, Oakland County Probate Court Judge.)

★ ★ ★

Death is an essential part of human existence, the unavoidable fate of every person. It is not the fact of death itself, but the timing and the circumstances surrounding death that often attract our attention.

★ ★ ★

Military activity throughout history has focused on this matter. In such ventures seemingly the best specimens of the Nation — the strong, the intelligent, the youthful — have met an untimely end. In 1963 our nation has a classic example in the sudden disappearance of the submarine Thresher with a loss of every man aboard.

JUDGE ADAMS

★ ★ ★

Death, while unavoidable, seems also so final, and the ceasing of the individual's activity can lead to the end of causes, of projects, even of nations. So our country has of recent years set aside Memorial Day as a holiday.

★ ★ ★

The first part of the day the flag flies at half mast, that we may remember our comrades who made the supreme sacrifice that our nation might live.

Then the flag is raised to full staff that we may look to the great future which is assured to us by those who fought and died that we might live and work in a free land.

GMI Contributes Much to Nation's Industries

Though little known to most citizens, the General Motors Institute is regarded as a superior school of higher learning.

★ ★ ★

In 1926, GM took over a Flint evening trade school and began the development of a co-operative engineering program that is unmatched by any similar institution in the Country.

Enrollees, who must be sponsored by a division of the corporation, are accepted at the rate of 500 yearly out of the 4,000 applicants.

★ ★ ★

The curriculum of the four-year course, followed by one year in the field, rotates a well-balanced six-week program of academic study and social and athletic activities with a like period of related work in the plant of the sponsoring division.

This plan ideally fuses the theoretical and the practical phases of sound education.

Students earn $2,500 to $3,000 per year for their work in the plants, thus covering tuition and living expenses while at the institute. They are guaranteed jobs with the corporation on completion of their training.

★ ★ ★

Indication of the seriousness of outlook on the part of the student body is that the dropout rate is half the average two out of three prevailing at most universities.

To date, 7,000 engineers have received bachelor of science degrees and swelled the ranks of the Nation's engineers, scientists and technicians. Many of the names are synonymous with the top-ranking industrialists of the U. S.

★ ★ ★

On the precept that science has progressed more in the last 50 years than in the previous 50 centuries, the institute's concept is that "Engineers are made and not born."

The PRESS heartily salutes the distinguished school on its contribution to the scientific advancement of the age and the development of a fine body of talented and ambitious Americans.

2 Main Problems in JFK's Future

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy, 46 yesterday, has two main personal problems ahead: how to get re-elected in 1964 and, if he is, what to do with the rest of his life when that second term ends in 1969. He would be 51 then.

MARLOW

But those personal problems may look rather sedate compared with the presidential dilemmas in front of him if he stays in the White House another 5 years, 7 months and 21 days.

On the personal side—.

Since he's not a lawyer, appointment to the Supreme Court wouldn't be considered. He could run for Congress again—he has been a member of both houses—or even try for the governorship of Massachusetts.

But being an ex-president isn't an infallible guarantee of political success afterward.

Andrew Johnson, impeached by the House but acquitted by the Senate while he was President, later got elected to the Senate. That was in 1874. He died the following year after serving less than five months.

Before that he had tried for the Senate (1869) and for the House (1872) and lost both times.

17 YEARS

John Quincy Adams, after one White House term, served in the house almost 17 years straight. During that time he sought the governorship of Massachusetts and couldn't make it.

Kennedy, like other ex-presidents, could travel or write his memoirs or, like Herbert Hoover, do important work for the government under special assignment from his successors in the White House.

★ ★ ★

Kennedy seems sure — since he has spent his adult life in politics—to have his hand in Democratic politics for a while, anyway after stepping out as head of the party. He won't have to worry about making money; he has money.

After leaving office, he could expect to live to 68 if he followed the average life-span of the presidents no longer living.

PRESIDENTIAL

On the presidential side—.

He hasn't had it bad as president, He has had some breathless days but they didn't pile up on him. In fact, they were spaced apart enough to let him relax a bit between crisis, like these:

The disastrous Cuban invasion, the brief scuffle with the steel industry over the price increase, the showdown with Soviet Premier Khrushchev over missiles in Cuba, the racial disorders in Birmingham and Oxford, Miss.

There was the minor but hot and continuing Vietnamese war and the jumpy, jerky, deadly but cold war with communism which he inherited but hasn't solved any more than President Eisenhower did.

He himself probably can't begin to predict how he'll solve the problem with Castro in Cuba. Worse than that, in the next five years he can't even guess what he'll get involved in overseas or at home.

MAKE OR BREAK

Racial trouble in the United States, getting quieter some places, is growing more intense and violent in others. How he goes about getting equality for Negroes in the South may make or break his chances for re-election.

If he asserts strenuous leadership in the field of civil rights—which he hasn't done yet — he might turn Southern Democrats against him and split his party while at the same time Negroes flocked to him.

If Negroes feel he is just rocking along, doing much less than he could, it pretty surely will be reflected in the Negroes' presidential election vote.

Red China may become his worst menace overseas before 1969 because by then it may have nuclear weapons. Once it gets them, it seems certain to become aggressive. Its comparative quietness now is the quietness of weakness.

But anyone who thinks the Red Chinese won't try to grab all Asia, once they have the muscle, is in a dream world.

Before 1969 Khrushchev may be gone. Khrushchev can be treacherous, as he showed with the Cuban missiles. But in many ways he has been restrained and sensible. Kennedy has been able to do business with him, after a fashion.

Khrushchev's successor may be fierce and altogether different.

Blame Backers on Debt Bill

See Trouble for JFK Tax Program

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—His Senate supporters' erratic performance on passage of a bill to increase the national debt limit points toward trouble for President Kennedy's tax program.

A hairline rescue late Tuesday saved the bill for the administration after it lined up its forces. Passage of the House-approved measure came on a 60-24 Senate vote following a 46-38 defeat of a Republican amendment which would have slowed final action.

BELL

The bill was then sent to the White House. When signed by President Kennedy the measure will lift the present $305-billion ceiling to $307 billion and to a record $309 billion in July and August.

The Treasury, which expected the debt to hit $305.2 billion yesterday, was relieved by a last-minute rally of 46 Democrats who killed the Republican amendment.

The amendment was supported by 28 Republicans and 10 conservative Democrats.

This rescue demonstrated to most of those concerned the administration's inability to find a legislative ball carrier comparable to the late Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla.—a failure that could spell oversized headaches when the Senate considers the complicated tax-cutting program this fall.

News Analysis

OUTFLANKED BY GOP

In a series of political maneuverings, administration backers found themselves outflanked on the debt limit bill by Republicans, whom they outnumber 11-6 on the Senate Finance Committee.

The result was that some of Kennedy's embarrassed lieutenants had to backtrack publicly to obtain final congressional action on the measure.

The administration's troubles started when Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., offered in the Finance Committee an amendment to extend the $309-billion limit to June 30, 1964. The House previously approved an extention only to Aug. 31, 1963.

★ ★ ★

Williams argued that no harm would be done by the longer extension. But the Democratic members didn't get the word from the White House or Treasury that the prime objective of the Republican amendment was to force the bill back to the House.

Only two Democrats, Sens. Albert Gore of Tennessee, who often opposes the administration, and George A. Smathers of Florida, who usually goes along with Kennedy, voted "no" when the Finance Committee put the Williams amendment on the bill by an 11-2 count.

The House had passed the measure by a 213-204 margin after the administration pulled out all the stops.

Republicans hoped for a reversal of that decision. Failing that, they knew the House probably wouldn't act on an amended bill until next week.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon already had predicted the debt would exceed the current $305-billion limit today. Some Republicans were not adverse to watching Dillon, who deserted their ranks to join the Kennedy Cabinet, squirm.

The GOP members also had in mind that they might be able to make the $309-billion limit stick beyond the Aug. 31 date and thus crimp administration spending.

Dillon has forecast an increase in the debt to $310 billion by the end of August at current spending rates. He will come back to Congress in August to ask for a new increase in the limit to about $320 billion.

★ ★ ★

Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., of the Finance Committee, a consistent critic of the Kennedy spending program, supported the Williams amendment. But just everybody concerned thought that Kerr, who kept in daily touch with Dillon, would have detected the GOP objectives and rallied enough support within the committee to kill off the Williams proposal.

Bob Considine Says:

Pius XII Was Refused on Bid for Simple Funeral

NEW YORK — Just before death came to 82-year-old Pope Pius XII he made a request that he be buried in a simple box or tomb somewhere in the vicinity of the traditional Tomb of Peter. No fanfare, he said.

CONSIDINE

The Curia, a small group of crusty old Cardinals, mostly Italian, who had risen to the top posts in the Roman Catholic Church by the same seniority process that places Southern Democrats in charge of most congressional committees, later rejected the modest request.

The requiem sung over dead Pius was as impressive a rite as this or any other century has witnessed.

A great marble and gold slab was soon inserted into the wall of the Basilica of St. Peter high above the striking Altar of the Chair.

It anticipates early sainthood, a process which the unexpected brilliance and popularity of John XXIII may delay indefinitely.

★ ★ ★

The death of Pius XII was marred historically by a venal optometrist he trusted as his physician, Dr. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi.

While he should have been busy attending his patient, the doctor was busy snapping candid camera shots of the dying man — shots so ghoulish (Barrett McGurn tells us in his excellent book "A Reporter Looks at the Vatican") that the racy Italian picture magazine which bought them would not print several of them.

There was a snafu, too, over whether the smoke rising from a hastily rigged chimney reaching out of the Sistine Chapel indicated that a new pope had been selected or not.

All of these matters passed before the eyes of the simple man who broke the deadlock on the 12th ballot and became John XXIII.

He promptly bounced Galeazzi-Lisi out of the Vatican and laid down two firm-sounding laws: He was not to be photographed during his last days, and some more responsible method than smoke of this color or that must be used to inform the world a successor has been chosen.

It would be hoped that John XXIII's requests are granted when the time comes, though Pius XII's were not, and Pius spoke in a much more authoritarian voice than the earthy, jolly, far-seeing man who succeeded him — perhaps to Pius's eternal astonishment.

Wheat Vote Causes Hassling

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Political implications of the farmer's referendum rejecting the Kennedy administration 1964 wheat program may not be clarified much before next year's presidential and congressional elections. Of perhaps even more importance, the wheat vote muddies the whole farm legislation picture, greatly impairing needed new cotton and dairy programs.

EDSON

Republican leaders hail defeat of the administration wheat program as a repudiation of all farm control policies advocated by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman. They call for his resignation, even though the President expresses confidence in Freeman and gives him credit for working to increase United States farm income to the highest levels since 1953.

At the same time, Republican farm belt congressmen are rushing in with new wheat legislation they want passed this year to raise support prices well above the levels of $1.25 a bushel, which will be in effect under existing law.

★ ★ ★

Sen. Karl Mundt, R-S.D., is introducing a bill to continue the 1963 wheat program, which would mean a government support price of $2 a bushel. GOP Reps. Albert H. Quie of Minnesota, Bob Dole of Kansas, Don Short of North Dakota, and others are sponsoring new wheat legislation which would reduce the support price to between 65 and 90 per cent of parity, which would be $1.62 to $2.25 a bushel.

Department of agriculture experts admit that as a result of the farm vote rejecting stricter controls, government wheat program costs may be reduced on the 1964 crop.

But if the prospect of lower wheat prices causes farmers to put more 1963 wheat under government loan — and if the removal of strict controls of planting causes a 25 to 30 per cent increase in planting for 1965 — the government wheat program costs may rise by $2 billion to $3 billion a year. And it will take longer to get production back under control.

If the situation should develop in this way, the Republicans are proposing a program that will wipe out about all the economy cuts they now hope to make in the Kennedy budget.

Republican farm leaders under Rep. Charles B. Hoeven of Iowa nevertheless hope to sell a new wheat program to the GOP leadership and make it party policy. The pitch seems to be to blame the Democrats if a new wheat bill is not passed.

Department of Agriculture officials concede that if new wheat legislation can be passed before the end of August it will be in time to control 1964 winter wheat crop planting. If only Republicans vote for it, however, it is almost sure to be defeated because of the 3-to-2 Democratic majority in the House and the 2-to-1 Democratic majority in the Senate.

Democratic congressional leaders are all insisting that there will be no new wheat legislation passed this session. This is based on the fact that defeat of the proposed controls in the wheat referendum does not mean that there is no wheat program at all for 1964.

Congress last year adopted permanent wheat legislation with minimum 50 per cent of parity price supports for farmers who comply with limited production controls. This point is said to be not well understood generally.

Furthermore, there will be another referendum on wheat marketing quotas and acreage allotments prior to June 13, 1964, to govern 1965 wheat crop planting. This offers a chance to correct any faults which develop before election day.

★ ★ ★

While the 1963 referendum result is hailed as a great victory for the American Farm Bureau Federation which campaigned heavily against Freeman's program, it is notable that no one in this dispute advocates a completely free market with all government controls, price support and conservation payments removed.

Desirable as such a development might be from the viewpoint of government economy, it is conceded that a completely free agriculture, suddenly imposed, would produce only chaos.

The drop in wheat prices after the referendum result became known is considered indicative.

I do not want the First Lady of our country to be a woman who would give up her children rather than deprive herself the pleasure of becoming Gov. Rockefeller's wife.

'Socialism Slowly Taking Over U.S.'

"The American people will never knowingly vote for socialism, but under the guise of liberalism, they adopt TVA, Social Security, federal aid to education, public housing and compulsory health insurance. They will adopt every fragment of the socialist platform, until one day America will be socialist without knowing how it came about."

This is the prediction of Norman Thomas, six - time candidate for president on the Socialist Party ticket. Even before Mr. Thomas' awesome prediction for the fate of America, Lord Chesterfield warned those who faced the problem of creeping socialism:

"Let us consider that arbitrary power has seldom or never been introduced into any country at once. It must be introduced by slow degrees, and, as it were, step by step, lest the people should see it approach."

'Goldwater Club Not County's First'

Congratulations to the Oakland County prosecutor for his announcement to form a "Goldwater for President" club. Indications point to the success as support for Sen. Goldwater becomes more evident.

We dispute the statement, however, that this will be the first "Goldwater for President" club in Oakland County.

The Oakland County Conservative Club was formed in September 1962, and three months ago formally endorsed the "Draft Goldwater" movement. We have set up clubs in 14 communities and have collected approximately 1,000 signatures on petitions. We have been so busy that we have not had time for press conferences.

We do find one area of conflict. We have no intention of being flexible. We have no intention of supporting a liberal Republican, a moderate Republican, a "me too" Republican or a reluctant Republican. We demand a Republican pledged to the ideals exemplified by the late, great Robert Taft and mirrored in Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Park Faction Hopeful of Early Visit

GLEN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—The Citizen's Council of Glen Arbor wants "an early visit" by a Senate subcommittee to the proposed Sleeping Bear Dunes national lakeshore area.

Ove Jensen, president of the council which represents some 1,600 area property holders opposed to the park, said "further delay in resolving the issue will only prolong the hardship now being endured by many residents of the area."

Jensen said the council agrees with a recent suggestion by the park bill sponsor, Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., that a visit by the public lands subcommittee "would best serve the public interest."

Hart had suggested May or June for a subcommittee visit. Sen. Alan Bible, subcommittee chairman, indicated July or August as his choice.

★ ★ ★

Jensen said the council invited Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall as long ago as March, 1962.

The council president said a July 1, 1961, cutoff date for new construction, as provided in the original bill and subsequent measures by Hart, has "seriously hampered" the area's economy.

Large Firms Gain Owners Since Crash

NEW YORK (AP) — The seven companies with the most stockholders increased their rosters of shareholders in the year since the market crash, the New York Stock Exchange reports.

The Exchange called this a clue to public interest in the market.

General Motors Corp. scored the largest numerical gain—nearly 200,000—and became the second company to reach the one-million mark.

The exchange said a large part of GM's rise no doubt was due to Du Pont Co. distribution of its GM holdings.

OUT OF THE BLUE — A landing wheel from an Alleghany Airlines plane lies on a Chester, Pa., street after falling from the plane bound for Philadelphia from Pittsburgh. It was directed to Atlantic City where the plane set down on a bed of foam which had been sprayed on the runway. Forty-one were aboard.

U. S. Increases Dependent Pay

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 45,000 children and 30,000 dependent parents of dead veterans will get about a 10 per cent increase in government payments under a new law.

The Veterans Administration announced the increased payments will automatically become effective and be included in the checks mailed to beneficiaries about Aug. 1.

Under the new law, a child now receiving $70 a month will receive $77.

Two children receiving checks amounting to $100 a month, will receive $110. Three children will receive $143 a month instead of the current $130.

If there are more than three children, each additional child will receive $28 a month, rather than $25.

★ ★ ★

Dependent parents living together with an annual income of less than $1,000 will receive $55 a month, an increase of $5.

Autolite Gives Dividend

TOLEDO (AP)—Electric Autolite Co. yesterday declared a 60-cent quarterly dividend payable June 21 to shareholders of record June 7. A similar dividend was paid in this year's first quarter and in the second 1962 quarter.

Educators to Aid Study of Colleges

DETROIT (AP) — State college and university administrators have agreed to give Gov. George Romney's Citizens Committee on Higher Education a helping hand in evaluating the college situation in the state.

★ ★ ★

Members of the Michigan Council of State College Presidents agreed to furnish institutional reports to the committee at their regular meeting at Wayne State University.

Also meeting at Wayne was the Coordinating Council for Public Higher Education.

The studies are to cover enrollment, faculty salaries and load, capital outlay and admission standards.

Both groups agreed to work with the Council of Michigan College Presidents, which includes the heads of 32 colleges, and junior colleges, in preparing similar information on all institutions.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Robert Van Pelt, president of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology, was elected president of the state presidents' council.

Warren Huff, a Michigan State University trustee, was elected chairman of the coordinating council.

SURPRISE — Dewey Fox, 65, thought it was just another delivery to a picnic in a Glendale, Calif., park. But 200 people were on hand to hold a party in his honor, thanking the milk truck driver for his years of service to the neighborhood. In appreciation, his customers handed Fox an $801.50 check. He retired today.

Eye Antibias Law for Stores

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy may ask Congress for a law barring racial segregation in restaurants and stores selling goods which have crossed state lines—in effect, virtually every restaurant and store in the nation.

★ ★ ★

Such a proposal, informed sources say, is under consideration by the President and his brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

No decision has been reached, however, on what form Kennedy's civil rights proposals will take, the Justice Department said.

Kennedy and his advisers are believed to be weighing the rights legislation against the chances that a hard battle to get it through Congress might cost the administration the support of Southern congressmen on the other major legislative programs.

★ ★ ★

So far this session, Kennedy's civil rights recommendations to Congress have been limited to measures to extend the life of the Civil Rights Commission, buttress the protection of voting rights, and provide federal financial and technical help for school integration.

'LEGAL OUTLET'

The President said in a news conference last week that civil rights proposals are being considered to give Negros "a legal outlet for a desire for a remedy" against abuses of their constitutional rights.

★ ★ ★

The Justice Department said then that its planning for such proposals has been narrowed to the fields of education and public accommodations—the latter of which would be covered by a law dealing with restaurants and stores in interstate commerce.

★ ★ ★

The government would have precedent in relating civil rights legislation to interstate commerce. The Supreme Court has upheld an Interstate Commerce Commission order against racial segregation in bus terminals and buses which cross state lines.

★ ★ ★

Sens. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., have introduced bills aimed at speeding school integration and barring discrimination in places of public accommodation.

★ ★ ★

One would authorize the attorney general to initiate suits in the name of the government on behalf of individuals denied admission to a public school because of race or color. The other bill would bar discrimination in businesses operating under a state or local license —such as hotels, restaurants and stores.

Urged to Support Kennedy on Rights

GENEVA (AP) — Judges, lawyers and law professors from 90 nations have appealed to American lawyers to back President Kennedy in efforts to "right the deep wrongs" inflicted on Negroes.

The International Commission of Jurists, an independent body, issued the plea Tuesday and praised the President, the Supreme Court and Americans in public and private positions for "working to remove these blots (segregation) upon their land."

'Negro to Win Equality in '63'

PARIS (UPI) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., predicted yesterday that U.S. Negroes would win equal rights this year because the white man — including Secretary of State Dean Rusk — is "afraid."

★ ★ ★

"The white man discovered in Birmingham that his naked power is no longer of any value," the Negro congressman said. "Now he is afraid of his conscience.

"Mr. Rusk made an excellent statement yesterday, (Tuesday) that America is running the race with one leg in a cast, because he's a semi-religious man. He's afraid of judgment also. We will see this year tremendous changes take place."

★ ★ ★

"Besides," he added, "next year is an election year."

★ ★ ★

Powell called a news conference of American correspondents to discuss racial relations after arriving in Paris en route to Geneva to be a member of the U.S. delegation to the International Labor Organization (ILO) conference June 3.

Angler Finds Equipment With Catfish Attached

PRINCETON, Ind. (UPI) — John Yeast, 77, went fishing for his rod and reel.

He lost it while fishing in Gibson Conservation Lake this week.

He dragged the lake and found the equipment, a 10 - pound catfish still hooked to it.

New President Takes Office at Food Convention

DETROIT (UPI) — Dr. C. Olin Ball, chairman of the Department of Food Science at Rutgers State University, yesterday took over as the new president of the Institute of Food Technologists, meeting at Cobo Hall.

He had been named president - elect last year, succeeding Dr. John M. Jackson of Barrington, Ill.

Charles T. Townsend, associate director of research at the Berkeley, Calif., laboratory of the National Canners Association, was named president - elect.

He will assume the presidency, succeeding Ball, at the institue's next annual meeting to be held in Washington, D.C., in May 1964.

Fast Horse Brings Fine

QUITMAN, Ga. (AP)—Police reported that they clocked a horseman at 35 miles an hour before arresting him and charging him with speeding and reckless riding.

The officers said they arrested Joseph Coggins under a 60-year-old ordinance after residents reported that he was racing around on a horse and endangering life and property.

Coggins forfeited $17 bond.

REBEL HUNT—Brandishing a knife and backed up by armed troopers, a South Vietnamese government soldier discovers and captures a Viet Cong rebel. This action, typical of the way the war in Southeast Asia is being fought, took place in the Plain of Reeds, about eight miles from the Cambodian border.

Ruling Perils 300 State Jobs

Halves Auto Shipping Costs to Albany, N.Y.

DETROIT (AP) — An Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) ruling that halved the cost of shipping cars by rail from Detroit to Albany, N.Y., may cost as many as 300 Michigan jobs, a steamship line official said yesterday.

The ICC order, which took effect last week, sets the rail charge at $31. It costs $21 to ship a car by water to Buffalo and another $42 to ship it by truck to Albany. To the rail charge must be added a $6 loading charge and $13 to move the cars to a distributor in Albany.

The Chrysler Corp., which ships about 65 per cent of the 50,000 autos that go through the port of Detroit annually, has notified the T. J. McCarthy Steamship Co. that it will start sending its cars by rail next year.

It will effect the livelihood of 100 crew members of the McCarthy fleet and nearly 200 longshoremen, drivers and others who handle the cars, said T. J. McCarthy Jr., board chairman.

The four especially adapted McCarthy ships work about nine months of the year moving Chrysler, Chevrolet, Ford autos and other makes on an occasional basis.

★ ★ ★

"Without Chrysler," the firm said, "If we have Chevrolet, Ford and maybe another General Motors line at the opening of the 1964 season, we could run two boats — one a day — to Buffalo."

Chrysler said it was using the rail route which gives it "a continuous year-around shipping operation."

★ ★ ★

Albany is the distributing center for Michigan-made cars going into New England and many other eastern points.

'The Crusher' Comes Home

VICTORVILLE, Calif. (AP) — "The crusher" is home—all five and a half feet of him.

"The crusher" is a boa constrictor belonging to Mike Howard, 14, who says his pet is harmless and has "a real nice personality."

"I guess he came home because he was hungry," Mike explained. He reported his pet missing six days ago.

The hungry wanderer dined eagerly on plump mice.

The census figures show that there are 105 to 106 males born every year compared with 100 females.

Kennedy Will Receive Protestant Group Honor

NEW YORK (AP) — President Kennedy will be the first non-Protestant to receive the distinguished service award of the Protestant Council of the City of New York.

The council announced that the 1963 award will be presented to Kennedy, a Roman Catholic, at a dinner in New York Nov. 8. The award recognizes service to the cause of human rights and democratic freedoms.

His Idea's Worth $9,495

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — William L. Williams, 47, a mechanic at United Air Lines, was given the biggest idea bonus in the company's history for a contribution to the suggestion box that saved United almost $100,000 during its first year of application, a company spokesman said Tuesday.

The former Shelbyville, Tenn., farm boy was given $9,495 for devising a method to repair hydraulic system pump components which in the past had to be thrown away.

Five earlier suggestions netted Williams $1,375 from the company. He joined UAL in 1948.

Trial Soon to Start in Woman's Death

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI) — The murder trial of confessed wife-slayer Robert Weess, 41, will begin June 24 before Kent County Circuit Judge Stuart Hoffius.

A plea of innocent by reason of insanity was entered last week for Weess, who is charged with murder in the gun-slaying Easter Sunday of his wife Alice, 40.

John P. Steketee, Weess' court-appointed attorney, had an original plea of guilty changed after a psychiatric examination of the defendant.

However, two psychiatrists for the prosecution contend Weess is sane.

WHALE OF A CORPSE—A 50-foot finback whale which came ashore on the Brewster, Mass., beach, was found dead after high tide. It was considered a menace to health and towed out to sea. The whale is believed to be one of two finbacks that have been playing off shore in Cape Cod Bay for the last two weeks. It weighed between 30 and 50 tons.

Liz Returning to Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Elizabeth Taylor will return to Hollywood in the fall to make her first California movie since 1960, a producer says.

Ransohoff said William Wyler will direct the movie. Exterior scenes will be filmed along the Big Sur coast near Monterey.

Yank Still Anti-Farm Control

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP) — Stanley Yankus, who brought his family here from Michigan because he opposed U. S. farm controls, says he still dislikes any form of government control over farmers.

★ ★ ★

Yankus, now a traveling salesman for a farm machinery firm, was commenting on the recent defeat of a referendum in the United States that rejected proposals for increased government control of wheat acreage.

Yankus emigrated to Australia four years ago, saying he was fed up with restrictions on the amount of wheat he could plant on his chicken farm at Dowagiac, Mich.

"What I really object to, however, is the fact that this question was voted on in a referendum," he said.

"Nobody should be given the right to vote for controls on someone else's property.

"Every farmer should have the right to produce as much as he can, to sell his produce—all of it—and should not be answerable by law for disposing of his own property, produce or goods in any way."

Clemson's Tolerable for First Negro Student

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP)—Negro Harvey B. Gantt's presence on the all-white Clemson College campus is no bed of roses. But it is tolerable and he likes it.

★ ★ ★

That, in a nutshell, is the 20-year-old architectural student's reaction to four months on the campus as the first Negro since Reconstruction days to matriculate at a South Carolina white school on any level.

Gantt was admitted to Clemson under a court order last January.

The students treat him, if not cordially, at least with indifference and without scorn. He feels he receives fair treatment from his professors.

★ ★ ★

His social life is limited to dances for people of his own race off campus, but Gantt feels he is accomplishing his goal.

"I am confident I will receive a good education at Clemson," he explained, "and, as I have stated previously, that is my primary purpose."

As the end of his first semester drew near, Gantt reviewed his admission to the school: "My acceptance at Clemson came in a much more peaceful manner than I had anticipated, although I never really had visions of another Ole Miss."

He's doing well academically, but said "it would be presumptuous for me to comment on my grades until the final examinations are over, but I can say I am pleased with my first semester's work."

★ ★ ★

About the other students, Gantt said, "The students I have come in contact with have always conducted themselves well and I have had no trouble of any kind."

Gantt lives in a single room on the first floor of the smallest dormitory at Clemson. It is expected he will remain there for the remainder of his stay at Clemson.

CLOSEST CONTACT

The hall supervisor, Dennis Crocker, a senior from Pacolet, has probably been in closer contact with Gantt than anyone else.

"Harvey has conducted himself in such a manner that even the most conservative of students have to grudgingly admit he has guts and good sense," Crocker said.

★ ★ ★

"He seem to be well aware of the position he is in, and avoids anything to embarrass his fellow students, the school, or himself.

"Here in the hall he has kept to himself, not in an aloof manner, but waiting for the other person to make any friendly overtures, to which he responds well. He studies long and hard."

Gantt has enrolled for both summer sessions at Clemson. He transferred to Clemson in the middle of his sophomore year from Iowa State, and hopes to make up some lost work.

Officials confirmed that an undisclosed number of State Law Enforcement Department agents and highway patrolmen have been on duty at the college during the semester.

New Output Units Cut One AMC Shift

KENOSHA, Wis. (UPI) — American Motors Corp. has announced it will eliminate the third shift at its main plant here, and transfer third-shift workers to the first and second shifts.

D. H. Monson, works manager, said completion of new production facilities has enabled AMC to drop the third shift with no decrease in production of the number of workers.

About 300 employes will be affected when the changeover takes place June 3.

Reports Red Moon Failure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Russians failed on what probably was the beginning of their "assault on the moon," a scientist suggests in a report for the Air Force.

★ ★ ★

Dr. J. F. Krieger said Russia's Sputnik 33, launched last Jan. 4, "had an early and ignominious demise."

Krieger said "this unsuccessful attempt to effect a transfer from an earth orbit to a lunar trajectory is probably the beginning of the long awaited and much publicized Soviet assault on the moon."

The Rand Corp. scientist in a report on Soviet astronautics from 1957 through 1962, said the Soviets "are continuing to find that the road to interplanetary space is beset with difficulties."

★ ★ ★

He said that Russian cosmos satellites launched during the past year are probably intended more for military than for scientific purposes.

Medical Bills 2.5 Times Higher for Older Persons

WASHINGTON (AP) — Medical care cost the average person over 65 years of age 2½ times as much as a person under 65 in 1961, the Welfare Department has reported.

A study prepared by the Social Security Administration shows the average cost for medical care was $315 a year for persons over 65, $128 for those younger.

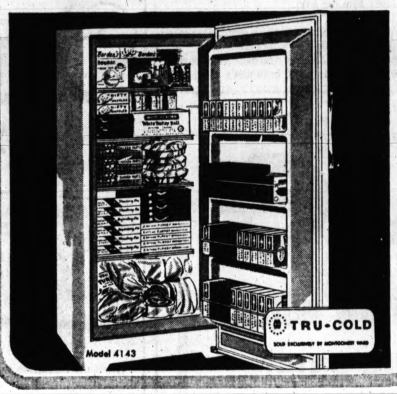

Dr. Donald P. Kent, director of the office of aging, said about 20 per cent of all expenditures made for personal health services in this country in 1961 went for the care of the 9 per cent of the population aged 65 and over.

Ideals of Religion at War With Realities of Racial Issues

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

DES MOINES, Iowa — American churches are wrestling today with two disturbing paradoxes—involving race relationships and the public schools.

In both cases, to an extent, ideals are at war with realities.

The problems, which got some sharp attention here last week, are, in short:

1. The fact that the churches officially oppose racial discrimination, yet admittedly are involved in it.

2. The fact that they believe religion applies to all spheres of life, yet it often causes trouble if affirmed in public schools.

★ ★ ★

What are the solutions?

Seeking a way through these

News Analysis

high-voltage fields, the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. has espoused some stiff remedies.

On the racial matter, it has undertaken to tighten its rules against inequities, and has empowered a mobile, action team to go to work "to close the gap between profession of intent and performance of duty."

Regarding the schools, even though reiterating that God reigns over all sectors of life, the Church declared that religion has no place in the classroom, or in any other governmental arena.

Prayers and Bible reading "as devotional acts" should be excluded, the denomination asserts.

The policy, adopted at the Church's legislative general assembly which closed here this week, seems certain to stir reverberations in church circles for months to come.

THORNY ANGLES

It treads bluntly through some of the thorniest tangles concerning relationships between church and state, including the school prayer and Bible reading questions now before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Its combustible nature was reflected in the assembly here.

The policy doubtlessly faces further appraisals, although the assembly voiced earnest hopes that all Christian forces would labor more unitedly to strengthen the moral fabric of the nation and its people.

★ ★ ★

Despite differing church views of the problem, the United Presbyterians expressed hope for increasingly closer relations and teamwork among all Christians, including Protestants and Roman Catholics.

The Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, the Church's chief executive, said recent developments have provided "increasing opportunities for better understanding," between the two branches of Christianity.

★ ★ ★

"There has been a real improvement," he said. "In this atmosphere, we want to do as much as we can to further it, and we hope for more ahead in the way of cooperation."

One prospect, he noted, is joint Catholic-Protestant action on racial problems.

The Presbyterian assembly set up an extraordinary $500,000-a-year purse, solely to finance special operations on the racial front —by a new national commission of Negro and white experts.

Their assignment: To dig out and clear away situations of racial discrimination, in the church and out, and to join with other church groups in doing so, with the aim of translating past pronouncements into performance.

Patent A Toothpick? That's Nothing!

By HARRY FERGUSON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A favorite story at the U.S. Patent Office is about the man who, walked in, put a sliver of wood on the desk and said he wanted a patent on the toothpick.

He didn't get it because of a special provision in the patent laws. You cannot obtain a patent on something that has been publicly described in a newspaper, a magazine or a book.

The toothpick has been described so many times that a patent never has been issued on it and never will be.

* * *

But if you can come up with some variation on the toothpick, you can get a patent, and there is one on the market now.

It is described as a "tooth space cleanser and gum massager." You dampen the piece of wood, stick it between your teeth and massage the gums.

* * *

Patent office officials long ago ceased to be surprised at the things people invent. It is not the function of the office to pass on the economic potential of an invention, but merely to determine whether it is novel or new.

* * *

A farmer who obtained a patent on a pair of spectacles for a near-sighted rooster got the same courteous consideration as Alexander Graham Bell did when he invented the telephone.

* * *

But over the years some strange things have been patented:

A fly-swatter pistol. When you pull the trigger, a long spring in the barrel uncoils and hits the fly on the wall.

A grapefruit shield. It is a plastic shield which is placed over the sliced half of a grapefruit, but is enough smaller than the grapefruit to allow a person to use a spoon. When the juice flies up, it hits the shield instead of going into your eye.

A woman's hat that blows soap bubbles. A tube runs from the hat to a bulb which the lady holds in her hand. She can win friends and influence people at any time merely by pressing the bulb and a large soap bubble will float out of her hat.

A labor saving device for children in cold climates called "a snowball machine." The child packs a tube with snow, presses a plunger, removes the cap of the tube and a snowball pops out.

* * *

A spoon made out of pastry. When a child is through using the spoon, he eats it.

NEVER GET RICH

There is no record that the inventors of any of the foregoing ever got rich.

But on the other hand, sometimes a man who invents something highly practical for which there would seem to be a tremendous market never gets rich either.

In 1849 Walter Hunt invented the safety pin and got a patent on it.

* * *

Nobody happened to want safety pins. Seventeen years later, Hunt's patent expired and he still was a poor man, but then safety pins were in the public domain, they were mass produced and began to sell.

Hunt became convinced apparently—and with some justification—that Americans were crazy and did not want practical things.

So he invented a pair of shoes to walk up walls, but found that the demand for his invention was limited to a narrow circle of vaudeville and circus performers.

* * *

History is filled with persons who have invented something by accident but failed to realize its potential.

In 1242, an English Friar named Roger Bacon idly mixed saltpeter, sulphur and charcoal and applied fire to it. He noted in his diary that there was a flash and a loud explosion and then forgot about it.

One hundred years later, Berthond Schwartz in Freiburg, Germany, put the same ingredients into an iron tube and placed a small stone on top.

* * *

When fire was applied, there was an explosion and the stone shot up into the air. Schwartz had invented a gun, the battle field supremacy of the armored knight and baron had ended and Roger Bacon was long dead.

POOR JUDGES

An inventor frequently is a poor judge of the potential of what he has made. Joseph F. Glidden of De Kalb, Ill., apparently had no great hopes when he received patent No. 157,124 in 1874 for something he described as "an improvement in wire fences."

What he had invented was barbed wire and the ranchers on the plains bought it as fast as it could be produced.

Elias Howe, who was working in a machine shop in Cambridge, Mass., like the inventor of the safety pin, was a victim of public indifference.

* * *

He invented the sewing machine. People were so unimpressed that Howe did not bother to patent it in the United States, but sailed for England in search of a backer.

A corset manufacturer bought the English patent from him and hired him to manufacture the machines.

Four years later, Howe returned to the United States and found that people were pirating his invention all over the country.

He entered upon one of the longest series of litigation in this nation and won every suit he filed.

* * *

Howe died a millionaire, but his unhappy experience had done something to him. To the very day he died he kept building small, queer machines.

Nobody, including Howe, could figure out how they could possibly be of any use.

Tight Security Closed About New Weapon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If an American inventor comes up with a new weapon or an improvement upon an old one, a tight security control immediately is thrown around his invention.

* * *

The U.S. Patent Office has a small group of experts who are "Q cleared." That is the highest security clearance in the federal government.

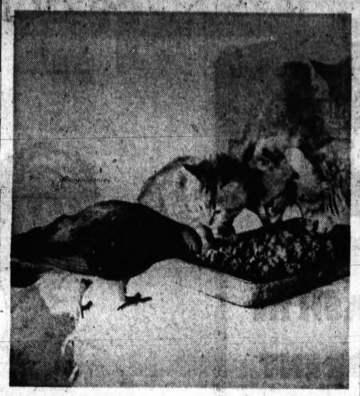

These men confer with the inventor and with experts in the Defense Department.

A drawing and a description of the invention are locked in a safe in the patent office, but no public announcement is made.

* * *

When the time comes to lift security, the inventory may feel he has been insufficiently rewarded because he cannot exploit his invention to the public.

The drawing and description are brought out of the patent office safe and the inventor goes into the Court of Claims to plead his case.

Old Echo I Just Keeps Orbiting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Old Echo I, wrinkled and shrunken, is still looping the earth after having covered more than 378 million miles.

The balloon - type satellite, launched 33 months ago, can be seen as it glides across the sky at night although it is now half the 10-story height it was, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported yesterday.

Surprisingly it is still being used for the passive relay of messages by Collins Radio Co. between Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and Richardson, Tex. The firm said voice communications by way of Echo I are "exceptionally clean."

When it was launched Aug. 12, 1960, the satellite was expected to remain in orbit a year or so. Now the experts won't estimate when it may come down.

$1-Million Contract Goes to Chrysler

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has awarded a $1,375,380 contract to Chrysler Corp. of Detroit for 486 power wagons, it was announced yesterday.

The work is to be done at Chrysler's Dodge assembly plant at Warren, Mich.

The announcement was made through the offices of Sens. Pat McNamara and Philip A. Hart of Michigan.

Diamond Primer a Real Sparkler

NEW YORK (UPI)—If you're thinking of buying or even eyeing a diamond, here are some important things to know:

Be guided by what the Jewelry Industry Council calls the "4-C's"—color, clarity, cut and carat.

Color in a diamond is a delicate thing. A faint shade or tone can make a world of difference.

The finest commercial diamonds resemble a crystal clear drip of water with a faint bluish tinge. The bluer the tint the more valuable the diamond.

Clarity refers to a diamond's freedom from imperfections such as spots of carbon, internal cracks or tiny bubbles.

NOTHING PERFECT

Nothing in nature is perfect and a diamond is a product of nature. However, the smaller the flaws in a diamond and the fewer there are, the greater the value.

Cut refers to the shape of the diamond and the process by which it is changed from the rough to the faceted stone.

Until the stone is cut its value is but a potential.

The full measure of beauty is attained only by the proper cutting upon which hinges the diamond's fire and brilliance.

* * *

Carat is the acceptable standard of weight for diamonds.

The carat is divided into 100 points. Thus, when a girl says her diamond is one quarter carat she means 25 points.

Keep in mind that there are more small diamonds in nature than large ones. As with everything else, rarity creates value among diamonds.

Thus a two carat diamond may cost three times as much as a one carat stone which is otherwise equal in all respects.

So far as can be determined, the diamond ring has been the accepted and preferred engagement token since the 15th century, when it apparently began to be the custom with royalty.

Theft Suspect Fools Guards

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Guards, finding discarded prison clothes in a courthouse restroom, learned too late that the "woman" who calmly walked past them was their male prisoner — a pro-Communist held in the half-million-dollar theft of French art.

* *

The guards waited outside while Winston Bermudez Machado, 26-year-old university student, went to a restroom Tuesday. Police said an accomplice apparently had hidden women's clothing and makeup there. He had been brought to court for questioning.

Safety Man Stopped by His Own Precaution

EFFINGHAM, Ill. (AP) — Robert Dirks, commissioner of health and safety in Effingham, had a four-way stop sign installed at the intersection of U.S. Highway 40 and Willow Avenue last week as a safety measure.

A motorist ran through it Tuesday. His car struck Dirks' auto, causing $100 damage. Dirks was not hurt.

Connecticut, in 1841, enacted a law prohibiting bowling.

First Success in 1930

No Countdowns on First Rockets

ROSWELL, N.M. (UPI) — The intricate countdown in launching modern missiles was unheard of on New Year's Eve of 1930 when Dr. Robert H. Goddard fired a missile in his first success.

It went up less than half a mile but helped earn for the scientist recognition as the father of modern rocketry.

Charles W. Mansur, now an aerospace engineer for the U.S. Army at White Sands Missile Range, N.M., was an assistant to Goddard.

"There was no such thing as a countdown in those days," Mansur said. "When we were ready to fire, we wired!"

During firings, there was an observation point about 50 feet from the launching tower where they really got a "close" look at the launching behind a cellar dougout, Mansur said.

For two years, Goddard and four assistants developed, and perfected rockets at Roswell. They worked in a shop 35 by 50 feet located about four miles north of the city.

Their 60-foot launching tower was put up seven miles away at Eden Valley.

REAL ENTHUSIASM

"We were really enthusiastic and the fact that we had to start from scratch even to helping build our own machine shop did not dampen our spirits a bit," Mansur said in an interview in his modern laboratory at White Sands.

Mansur first met Goddard, who died in 1945, at Worcester, Mass.

In the early 1920s Mansur attended a grammar school there, across the street from Clark University, where Goddard was head of the Sciences Department.

While in high school, Mansur worked as a laboratory assistant at the university under Goddard.

And in 1929 Mansur went to work full-time for Goddard, whose work in experimental rocketry dated back to the beginning of the century.

"We tried to launch rockets in Massachusetts but the public protested," Mansur recalled.

But the publicity aroused the attention of Col. Charles E. Lindberg, who became interested in Goddard's work.

Lindberg, a national hero for his solo flight over the Atlantic Ocean, helped obtain money for Goddard's work from the Daniel and Florence Guggenheim Foundation.

Clark University gave Goddard a sabattical leave and loaned machine tools and other equipment to his research.

Goddard selected Roswell as the ideal location for intensified continuation of his work because of the climate and isolation.

The experiments at Roswell lasted about two years. At the depth of the depression, funds ran out and Goddard returned to teaching in Worcester, able to devote only spare hours to his rockets.

Mansur continued to work part time in the laboratories at Clark.

FULL TIME

In 1934, Goddard called Mansur to offer a full-time job with more experiments in New Mexico. This time three of the original crew returned to Roswell.

In 1940, the U.S. Army asked Goddard's help in research on methods of getting heavily loaded aircraft airborne.

Two years later, the U.S. Navy awarded a contract for research at Annapolis, Md., to Goddard and his men.

★ ★ ★

After Goddard's death, Mansur continued his work in helping the Curtiss - Wright Corp. set up a missile program.

He worked for that firm for seven years before coming to White Sands as a laboratory mechanic in the Propulsion Branch.

Mansur, reflecting on the progress of rocketry during his career, said "it is unbelievable that the Federal Aviation Agnecy has had to issue regulations about rockets fired by amateur rocket clubs as their rockets may shoot down aircraft."

★ ★ ★

"Some can reach altitudes of five miles," he said. "Why when we had our first successful firing on Dec. 31, 1930 at Roswell, it went up less than half a mile."

Wants Big Mo Set in Tokyo

To Serve as Reminder of World War Disaster

TOKYO (UPI) — An American artist in Tokyo says the battleship USS Missouri, on which Japan surrendered in World War II, should be anchored permanently in Tokyo Bay to remind Japanese of the folly of military adventures.

"Remember the Missouri" is the catch phrase coined by artist Walt Keane, whose pictures of mournful, big-eyed slum children won him an international reputation.

The 44-year-old artist recently was in Tokyo to supervise publication of a portfolio of his paintings.

Keane tells Japanese friends the battleship should be anchored right on the spot where the surrender took place.

"As in the joke about the guy who tries to kiss every girl he meets, I get a lot of cool stares," Keane concluded. "But you'd be surprised at the number of affirmative nods."

The Missouri now is berthed in Bremerton, Wash., with the U.S. mothball fleet.

Suggestions have been made for its enshrinement at San Francisco, St. Louis, Brooklyn, New York and Pearl Harbor.

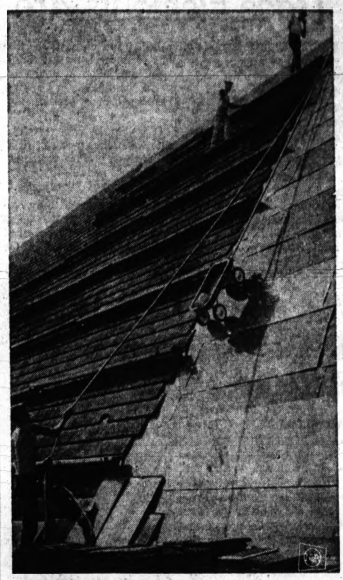

Keane said most of his support for the idea comes from younger Japanese, who think the older generation needs a permanent reminder of the disaster to which Japanese militarists led the country.

"It already has cost me a few friends," Keane said. "But I still think it is a good idea for all concerned."

Keane's suggestion so far has drawn no comment from Japanese government circles.

However, a high ranking Japanese police official expressed opposition in practical terms:

"It would be a terrible headache," the cop said. "Think of all the men we'd have to tie up guarding the ship from rightists and veterans groups."

WAGON'S NEW USE — The little red wagon has long been a child's favorite, but these Topeka, Kan., workmen have found a new use for it. They use it as a lift, helping to raise supplies to those perched high on a steep church roof.

LOOKS LIKE FUN — These children in the Battersea area of London improvised a bobsled run using some tin roofing for a slide and a collection of wire baskets for support. The sled is part of what once was a baby carriage.

Builders Try Many Methods for Luring New Customers

By United Press International

A sign in a Dallas apartment renting office advertises a one-bedroom "celebrity suite" with piped-in champagne at $450 a month.

★ ★ ★

About 900 miles away, in St. Petersburg, Fla., real estate salesmen knock on apartment doors with statistics "proving" you can buy a house cheaper than you can rent.

Both situations are typical of how builders are adapting their methods to the interests of their typical customers.

"The secret of success in the biulding business," said a Kansas City builder, "is to determine what type of family is your best prospect and then anticipate what will induce him to sign a contract."

FIRST HELIPORT

Thomas A. McCarville, builder of the luxurious new Four Seasons Apartments in Dallas, has installed the first apartment house heliport among other luxuries to cater to young executives.

Leo F. Corrigan of Dallas created plush Terrace House "set in nine acres of dignity and graciousness" to appeal primarily to wealthy couples who want luxury and exclusiveness and are willing to pay for it.

On Chicago's northern fringe at Wilmette there are the Kenilworth Apartments built by the Edward Gray Corporation for "Limited, select clientele of substance" and primarily for couples with grown families who want to shed the cares of large and luxurious homes and can pay up to $675 a month rent.

By contrast there is the St. Petersburg housing project developed by Bruce Investment Corporation where a three-bedroom house with a fully equipped kitchen sells for $200 to $300 down and payments of about $78 a month.

The demands of the consumer and the builder's ability to anticipate them have been a major factor in upgrading America's living habits, according to construction experts from coast to coast.

"The building business is one of the world's biggest guessing games," one builder said. "About the only thing certain is that the standard of living provided in new apartments and new houses will continue to go up."

Romney Tabs Saturday Navy Air Reserve Day

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney has proclaimed Saturday as Naval Air Reserve Day in Michigan. The governor asked recognition of the some 3,000 officers and men of the Michigan Naval Air Reserve who stand ready to protect the state and the country in the event of any emergency.

Rheumatism is comparatively rare in warm climates.

Paris Subway a Symbol for Suicide?

PARIS (AP) — Some 60 persons each year throw themselves onto the tracks of the Paris metro (subway) to commit suicide.

Out of this average of 60 tries per year, about 20 persons succeed. Three attempts in one week recently led a Paris newspaper to inquire of some psychiatrists why one would seek such a means of dying.

One psychiatrist suggested the metro is taken as a symbol of absolute death.

"The metro is a powerful machine . . . to the will of which one is submitted. It can seem like death the most absolute, an excess of death."

Metro officials were quick to add, however, that normal use of the metro is quite safe. Except for suicides, there has not been one fatal accident since 1928.

JUST THE THOUGHT TIRES GI-GI — Just the thought of meeting her public is enough to poop and frazzle a gal. Gi-Gi's had it, even as she weighs in at Cleveland, Ohio, zoo. The 13-pound, 8-month-old orphaned orangutan had been cared for in private home following death of her mother a week after the baby ape's birth at the zoo.

Free 318 Facing Drunkenness Charges in LA

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Three hundred and eighteen prisoners, all charged with drunkenness, were released en masse from Lincoln Heights jail Tuesday. A recent California Supreme Court ruling invalidated arrests for drunkenness under city ordinances.

"I dismiss them all in the interest of justice," said municipal Judge Robert Feinerman.

But to those with king-sized thirsts, there was no justice.

Lightning Blasts Man Into Telephone Cables

GRENOLBE, France (UPI)— Forty - two - year - old Angelo Frangiamone, driving his motor scooter during a storm, was hit by lightning and knocked into telephone cables 10 feet above the ground.

Police cut him down a short time later. He was hospitalized with shock.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Trace Elements Are at Work in Your Body

BRANDSTADT

What are little boys made of? The question once received a fanciful answer.

Today, we are acquiring more accurate knowledge of what elements are necessary to the proper function of the human body.

Some of the most fascinating aspects of this subject have to do with the so-called trace elements — those bits of mineral, present in such small amounts that, until recent years, we didn't even know they were a part of our bodies.

★ ★ ★

Only with the discovery of delicate and precise means of chemical analysis was the presence in the body of such elements as iodine, copper and zinc revealed.

The average adult body contains about one two-thousandth of an ounce of iodine, most of which is concentrated in the thyroid.

But without this minute amount, it would be impossible for the body to maintain a normal metabolic rate.

★ ★ ★

Iron was recognized as an important constituent of the blood long before anyone realized that copper was just as essential, although in a far smaller amount.

★ ★ ★

Without copper, the bone marrow cannot use the iron that is present to manufacture the hemoglobin needed in the blood to carry oxygen to the tissues.

As a result, a form of anemia would develop.

VITAMIN B12

Vitamin B12 was recognized as a substance the lack of which would cause pernicious anemia. But only recently was it discovered that without cobalt there can be no effective vitamin B12.

Such discoveries have helped your docor to sort out different kinds of anemia and to treat each kind with greater assurance of success.

Most of the trace elements are vital links in one of the enzymes that control the indispensible chemical reactions of the body.

★ ★ ★

Zinc, for example is an essential part of an enzyme that permits the red blood cells to carry carbon dioxide, a product of cellular fatigue, to the lungs.

This and other chemical reactions in the body that involve carbon dioxide depend on the zinc-containing enzyme.

Zinc is also a component of one of the enzymes of digestion found in the intestines.

Manganese is found in one of the enzymes necessary for the kidneys to form urea from ammonia, and thus enables the body to eliminate a waste product which, if allowed to accumulate, would poison us.

It is also present in other important enzymes.

FLUORINE PRESENT

Although fluorine is not essential in the body's metabolism, it is present in varying minute amounts in the natural water of most regions.

When the concentration is too low, dental decay, especially in children, increases.

Fluorine, when present, does not strengthen the teeth directly, but neutralizes the enzymes that are produced by the bacteria in the mouth that would otherwise dissolve the dental enamel.

★ ★ ★

Like copper, cadmium is found in every part of the body.

As yet no one knows what its function is but the fact that it is present throughout the body suggests that it, too, plays a vital role.

★ ★ ★

The chemists of the future undoubtedly will discover what that role is.

When they do, they will have helped your doctor to a better understanding of your body and the forces that help and hinder its normal workings.

Mackinaw Re-Enacting Its Massacre

MACKINAW CITY (UPI) — They're re-enacting a massacre at Mackinaw City this weekend.

★ ★ ★

It's part of the Lacrosse-Ft. Michilimackinac bicentennial celebration and other northern cities, including Cheboygan and Harbor Springs-Petoskey are also taking part.

The massacre, using actors in authentic costumes, will be a bloodless re-enactment of the massacre at Ft. Michilimackinac which took place 200 years ago during the Pontiac wars.

The celebration continues for four days, from today through Sunday, June 2.

Other events include canoe races, tomahawk and knife-throwing contests, archery demonstrations and modern lacrosse games.

END OF ROYAL VISIT — Princess Grace of Monaco and her two children, Princess Caroline, 6, and Prince Albert, 5, board a plane at New York's Idlewild Airport after a five-week visit in the United States. They will spend a few days in Paris before returning to Monaco.

Sees Highest Year of School Borrowing

LANSING (UPI) — State Superintendent of Public Instruction Lynn M. Bartlett estimates that Michigan schools will borrow more than $114 million through their bonding programs in the fiscal year ending June 30.

★ ★ ★

Bartlett said in the first 11 months of the fiscal year schools have borrowed $109,971,000 and if the total does go above $114 million it will be the second highest in state history.

The record was set in 1959-60 when bond issues totaled $140 million.

2 East German Guards Flee to West Berlin

Vacation Trips to Lure 20 Pct. More in 1963

NEW YORK (AP) — Vacation trips will lure 20 per cent more Americans this year than last year, a survey indicated today.

★ ★ ★

A poll by Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. shows that among the survey group—a cross section in the 49 continental states—90 per cent plan a vacation trip this year. Last year 75 per cent of the group went vacationing.

Travel by automobile will be 7.5 per cent greater, the average trip will be 1,764 miles and the average expenditure per party will be $514.

Peak weeks for travel will be those of July 14 and Aug. 4.

Sightseeing will occupy 44 per cent of the vacationers, swimming and boating 24 per cent, fishing 21 per cent and camping 10 per cent.

The survey indicated Colorado is the most popular destination among states with Michigan second and Florida third.

Goodyear asked over 1,000 people about their vacation plans and received responses from over 50 per cent.

Most Weekend Golfers Guilty

Lost Ball Rule Often Broken

NEW YORK — Joseph C. Dey Jr., wishes every golfer would spend a quiet evening or two reading the rule book.

The executive director of the United States Golf Association is a leading authority on the Thou Shalt Nots of the game.

★ ★ ★

The rules of the ancient pastime evolved over the centuries, so you can't exactly say Dey wrote the book. But he certainly helped edit it.

"It's fascinating reading," the man who would make the book a best seller insists, "and every golfer's enjoyment of the game can be enhanced by a knowledge of the subject."

The most frequently shattered rule is the one concerning a lost ball, Dey says.

GUESSING GAME

"Most weekend golfers drop a new ball at the point they think a lost ball came to rest," he said. "They take a stroke penalty from that point. This is all wrong. In the first place, if the ball is lost, how can they know where it landed? If they knew where the ball was, it wouldn't be lost."

The proper procedure is to return to the spot from which the lost ball was hit, play the new ball from there and take a one-stroke penalty. In other words, the player should lose a stroke and distance.

★ ★ ★

Another frequent infraction of the weekend golfer is not taking a penalty when the ball moves after it has been addressed. A player has addressed the ball "when he has taken his stance by placing his feet on the ground in position for and preparatory to making a stroke and has also grounded his club" (except in a hazard, where he is not allowed to ground his club). If a ball in play moves after the player has addressed it, he "shall be deemed to have caused it to move and shall incur a penalty stroke, and the ball shall be played as it lies."

"This led to that interesting situation in the Phoenix Open, where Arnold Palmer stepped away from his ball after addressing it," Dey pointed out. "A bee lit on the ball and, according to witnesses, caused it to move.

"Quite correctly, Palmer was not given the penalty stroke, since he obviously could not be deemed to have caused it to move. Just suppose a dog were to run on the putting green, pick up a ball and drop it at the lip of the cup. You couldn't blame the player for that, could you?"

★ ★ ★

Joseph C. Dey Jr., has such complete confidence in the intrinsic integrity of all golfers it would never occur to him that an astute duffer might train a smart pooch to do that trick on signal.

Greater faith hath no man.

Monastic Orders of Greece Mark Millenium Atop Mt. Athos

MT. ATHOS, Greece (AP)—This is a rare year in the 10-century history of the rugged Mt. Athos Peninsula and its monks who want nothing of worldly life.

The Orthodox monasteries are marking their 1,000th birthday and hoping that their community — despite a dwindling population — will go on forever.

BACKGROUND OF THE NEWS

About 250 guests, all men, will gather here next month for religious services and other observances of the anniversary.

The visitors will find that 10 centuries have changed little on the Macedonian Peninsula, a six-mile-wide strip of land jutting 30 miles into the Aegean Sea.

It remains largely a community of monks living in scattered monasteries or as hermits in isolated caves and huts.

* * *

Footpaths wind through forests, linking the monasteries and the peninsula's few villages. There isn't an automobile around.

Visitors from the outside must get passes from Greek officials and have them approved on Mt. Athos by the monks' own government, consisting of an elected representative from each monastery.

WOMEN EXCLUDED

Women are never permitted. Even female domestic animals—cows, hens, mares—are barred. The only exception was Queen Helen of Serbia in the 13th century. The monks admitted her because she had been one of their greatest benefactors.

Legend says she entered a Mt. Athos church to pray and a voice from an icon said: "Begone; this is no place for a woman."

* * *

The peninsula has been off limits to females since 919—about a half century after monks started retiring to Mt. Athos.

The real birth of Athonite monasticism was in 963, when Emperor Nicephorus Phocas of Byzantium issued a golden null, or charter, to St. Athanassius the Athonite for the establishment of the monastery of Megisti Lavra.

It was the first of the 20 major monasteries.

Eleven are cenobitic (common life). Everything must be shared. Food is eaten in a refectory. Meat is never allowed.

* * *

The others are idiorhythmic private rhythm. Property can be held. Monks cook their food separately in their cells. Meat is allowed except on fast days, which amount to two-thirds of the year on Mt. Athos.

MAIN INCOME

Chestnut tree provide the monasteries' main income. There is hardly a better source of timber in rocky Greece. Wine, olives and hazlenuts also are money earners for the monks.

At the turn of the century, about 10,000 monks were on Mt. Athos. Today there are hardly 2,000, about a third hermits. Many are too old to work. Each year brings about 25 novices—scarcely enough to keep up the depleted ranks.

Once half the monks were Russian. Today about 80 are left, and all but two came here in czarist days. The two exceptions were Russian exiles who lived outside the Soviet Union before coming here.

Seventeen of the 20 monasteries are Greek. The other three are Serbian, Russian and Bulgarian.

Since the growth of communism, there have been few novices from Red nations. The Greek government — fearing Communist infiltration — has been hesitant even to admit these few.

But there is still a feeling of certainty that the community of Mt. Athos will go on.

* * *

The millenium celebration this year is part of the effort to tell the world of Mt. Athos, to make sure that time never runs out for the peninsula.

For Mental Hospital Use

Question Raised on Tranquilizer Value

NEW YORK (UPI) — A question is raised concerning the possibility of errors in appraising the part tranquilizing drugs have had in reducing the population of American mental hospitals.

Almost all appraisals give them the major share of the credit.

* * *

The question-raising was sponsored by the American Psychiatric Association. It published an appraisal of the experiences of a typical British mental hospital and one not unlike its American counterpart.

This English appraiser came to conclusions quite different from American ones.

Like the American appraisers, Dr. A. A. Robin dealt mainly with chronic or "long-stay" patients.

* * *

The British patients selected for transquilizing treatment were those who already had the best prospects for getting discharged from the hospital.

* * *

"Nevertheless," he went on, "tranquilized long-stay patients when compared with nontranquilized patients do not have a better prospect of discharge and may indeed to some extent have a lesser prospect.

"Hospital treatment with tranquilizers does not alter the chance of readmission of discharged long stay patients. Ward behavior, apart from some aspects of 'disturbance,' is little influenced by tranquilizers which are themselves possibly associated with the introduction of new symptoms."

Not for one moment was he disputing that tranquilizing drugs are "potent pharmacological agents," he added.

* * *

Indeed, their use in his hospital had proved their potency beyond any questioning.

NO BETTER

Nevertheless, his appraisal shows "their current administration in one hospital, which, however, there is no reason to believe is therapeutically atypical in the administration and dosage of these drugs, does not produce better results in terms of discharge and so forth, than those methods of treatment against which they are compared."

These treatment methods he described as "mainly nursing care and occupation in the long-stay group."

His appraisal was based upon hospital statistics of readmissions, discharges and treatments for a six-year period.

* * *

He reminded that a statistical study of another British mental hospital had concluded that "the impact of pharmaco-therapy (drug treatment) proved to be very small."

He also reminded of one American hospital statistical study which found the "increased chance of discharge for all cases" which came about with the widespread use of tranquilizing drugs could be attributed to "staff optimism."

This hospital's tranquilized patients were discharged in the same proportions as the untranquilized patients when the years were comparable, he added.

American authorities on the therapeutic use of tranquilizers in mental patients were not prepared to comment at once on this contradicting English appraisal.

The whole matter is highly technical, involving complexities of types of mental diseases as well as of statistics. But in due course there will be American comment.

Work Together, Study Apart at Adult School

BACKGROUND OF THE NEWS — AP SPECIAL REPORT

WALLINGFORD, Pa. (AP) — Tucked away in the green and fertile folds of southeastern Pennsylvania is a school for adults of all ages, where a doctor of philosophy may wash windows to help pay the bills, and the chief sport is defined as argument about "everything we can lay our tongues to."

This school has no formal entrance requirements; it gives neither examinations nor credits; it confers no degrees. It has lectures, seminars and classes but the emphasis is upon individual study.

* * *

This school, or center for study and comtemplation, to use a preferred name, is called Pendle Hill. It is run by the Society of Friends, and its students, who need not be Quakers, come from Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia, New Zealand and Canada as well as from American cities and towns.

Among them are Hindus, Buddhists, Jews, members of various Protestant denominations, and European Catholics, here by special dispensation.

'SLOW PACE'

Director Dan Wilson supplied the text for the thinking at Pendle Hill:

"Above everything else, we try to slow down the pace, to cut down on the outside pressures, at the same time increasing the inner pressures, the kind that help us to become better and wiser human beings. We are a community in which all strive, day in and day out, to find out how we can know one another better, how we can truly live together as human beings."

* * *

A vital part of the Pendle Hill plan is its share-the-work policy. "Sharing in the day-to-day chores is a very real part of education here," Wilson said. "Each regular student spends 10 to 12 hours a day at work, doing practically everything from washing pots and pans and cleaning the windows to vegetable gardening and mowing the lawns. Everybody must help to take care of the rooms and help with the dishes, too.

"This is a very healthful situation. Maybe it's as close to equality as you can get, for doing the dishes is a great leveler."

Winifred Rawlins, a poet and one of the teaching staff, says some of her best ideas, creatively, came while she was scrubbing down stairs or otherwise engaged in physical tasks.

"There are two reasons for the work-sharing," Wilson said. "one of them, of course, is the economy of it. We don't have many regular, full-time employes, so the work our students do is certainly a big factor in keeping operating expenses down. The other is the aim of achieving a well-rounded community life."

Residents enrolling for a full year of 31 weeks pay slightly more than $1,000 for lodging, meals and tuition. Special rates are given for families. Non residents pay a $15 tuition fee per term for each course, meeting once a week, and $25 per term for each course meeting twice a week. An overnight visitors pay what is called sojourner's fees, totaling $5.75 and including three meals.

* * *

A private study-bedroom is provided for each resident student in dormitory buildings. A small number of apartments is available for families. Most meals are taken by the students together in the dining-room of the main house.

Pendle Hill came into being 33 years ago. Its name was inspired by a quotation from George Fox, the Briton who founded the Society of Friends. It was modeled to some extent after Britain's famed Woodbrooke School at Birmingham, but, Wilson said, has been kept distinctive enough to count it among the world's most unusual schools.

22 STUDENTS

At the moment Pendle Hill has 22 students. It has had as many as 45. A total of 35 is considered ideal. For each of the three terms of the school year, Pendle Hill has a faculty of five residents plus teachers brought in from colleges and universities in the Philadelphia region.

Subjects over a wide range, apart from languages, embracing Bible study, courses in comparative religion, philosophy, political economy, labor education, social problems, psychology, creative writing in both prose and poetry, arts and crafts.

Arnold Toynbee, the famed British historian, has lectured at Pendle Hill. So has novelist Aldous Huxley. U Nu, prime minister of Burma, came to meditate and wanted to linger indefinitely. Elizabeth Gray Vining, author and one-time tutor of Japan's crown prince, teaches a course in writing.

Shows Will Start Music Fountain in Grand Haven

GRAND HAVEN (AP) — The 20-minute shows tonight start the first full season for Grand Haven's lighted musical fountain, a civic project billed as the largest of its type in the world.

Formal dedication is scheduled in August.

The fountain, 250 feet long by 150 feet wide, is located on Dewey Hill across the Grand River from the foot of this city's main street.

Mayor William Creason was chairman of the project which started two years ago and was carried to completion with volunteer labor

U.S. Road Toll Record 11,630

CHICAGO (UPI) — Traffic accidents claimed a record 11,630 lives in the nation during the first four months of 1963, the National Safety Council reports.

★ ★ ★

The total was 4 per cent over the 11,180 deaths in the same period of last year and 1 per cent more than the previous record of 11,516 for the period recorded in 1956.

April also posted a record 3,170, up 5 per cent from the previous high of 3,020 set in April, 1962.

Despite the increase in deaths, the rate for the four-month period was unchanged from a year ago at 4.7 fatalities per 100 million vehicle miles traveled.

★ ★ ★

The council explained the amount of travel increased 5 per cent over last year.

Philadelphia remained in first place among cities of more than one million population with the lowest death rate.

★ ★ ★

Chicago fell from third to fourth, exchanging places with Detroit. Los Angeles was second and New York City fifth.

Services Have 'Plan' for Saving

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The military has come up with a new way to save money. It is called "buying only what we need."

★ ★ ★

Assistant Defense Secretary Thomas D. Morris pictured it as a pretty radical program. He told Congress in testimony published this week is should cut costs by $1.3 billion a year.

Take screwdrivers. Hereafter Army, Navy and Air Force mechanics will have to make do with 235 different kinds, shapes and models. They formerly needed 528.

It is the same way with more than 1 million other common-use items bought for the separate services by the new Defense Supply Agency.

SAVING

By the end of next year it will be handling 1,468,000 items, Morris said, and a year after that it should be saving $102 million per year.

★ ★ ★

Also the military is going to quit "goldplating" these items. That tends to run prices way up, Morris said.

There was the case of the clip an engineer specified for holding electronic tubes in place on a missile.

He was a good engineer and designed the best clip in the world. It was so overdesigned, in fact, it cost 49 cents instead of the 2 cents that was later found to be plenty.

★ ★ ★

Morris said the government would save $100,000 a year on this item, now that he has knocked off the goldplate.

Acheron in Greek mythology was a river in Hades over which the dead were ferried, by Charon. Several rivers in Greece bear the name.

Poland Mixes Good, Bad Conditions

(EDITOR'S NOTE — UPI's chief European diplomatic correspondent is on a tour of the East European Communist satellite countries. In the following dispatch he describes life in Poland's Capital of Warsaw.)

By K. C. THALER

WARSAW (UPI)—Life in Warsaw is such a mixture of the good and the bad that the Western visitor is both astonished and puzzled.

Poles themselves don't try to explain it.

"We are a strange country," they say.

There is a good deal of gaiety to be found in this Communist capital. People are moderately well dressed and look well fed.

But there is a severe lack of housing, shortages exist in food and consumer goods generally, prices are high and salaries are low.

★ ★ ★

There is a good deal of open grumbling. "Things are better," the Poles say, "but they are not good."

When the Pole says things are better he means they are not as grim as in the immediate postwar years.

Poland was virtually ground to its knees by Nazi Germany. Every fifth member of the population perished in the five years of World War II (including most of its skilled labor force and its professionals).

Warsaw was practically destroyed, 11,000 of the city's buildings were razed, another 14,000 partly wrecked and half its population killed.

War damage to the whole country has been assessed at some $42 billion. It has been estimated the rebuilding of Warsaw alone eventually will cost $10 billion.

Of this, about $6 to $7 billion already has been spent. The reconstruction drain on the country's small reserves is severe, and it is coupled with the financial demands of rebuilding and developing industry.

Until the last year or so, despite the problems left by war, the country's living standards had improved steadily from the bleak early 1950's.

But Poles complain that recently the country has been standing still, that in fact the average man is worse off now than a year ago.

A doubling of charges for electricity, coal and gas early in May has been met with popular anger and protest. Wages and salaries have not followed suit.

The average national wage is about 1,700 zlotys a month, or $58.

But strikes are "frowned upon" in the euphemistic phrase of one official. In fact, they are not tolerated.

People nevertheless to outward appearances make do. Under the official rate of exchange the tourist gets 24 zlotys to the dollar, but the Pole who is lucky enough to be getting dollar remittances from abroad, from relatives or otherwise, gets 72 zlotys for the dollar at the national bank.

★ ★ ★

The skilled worker in industry can earn some 4,000 to 6,000 zlotys a month. The manager of a factory may make from 12,000 to 16,000.

But clerks make 800-1000 zlotys a month, a nurse 1,100 and a bank teller 1,400.

Rents are kept very low by the government and take only a small fraction of the average man's earnings. Also cheap is local transport.

Basic education is cost-free, university education nearly free, with scholarships for the gifted.

In most families the income is augmented by the fact that all its members of a working age have jobs, and some of them more than one job.

Most of the family income goes for food and clothing. Food generally seems in good supply but meat and butter are short and at present one "meatless day" a week is being observed throughout the country.

Distribution problems also cause occasional shortages in other foods.

The average person in Warsaw is quite well dressed, though male attire is, mostly of the utility type, simple and functional.

Women manage to look reasonably smart, wear their hair in western-styled coiffures, make up discreetly and generally have nylon stockings even though they are expensive.

A pair of shoes averages about 400 zlotys—one-tenth the monthly earnings of a factory worker but half the monthly salary of a woman typist in an office whose pay won't be much more than 900 zlotys.

A man's suit will run between 2,000-3,500 zlotys (at the official exchange rate, $80 to $140).

The dream of the average Polish worker is to get his own apartment but the shortage is great and the waiting lists long.

A major ambition of young men is to have a motor scooter, and the average girl dreams of a boy who owns a scooter.

Automobiles are increasing in number but they still are scarce and prohibitively expensive for the average wage earner.

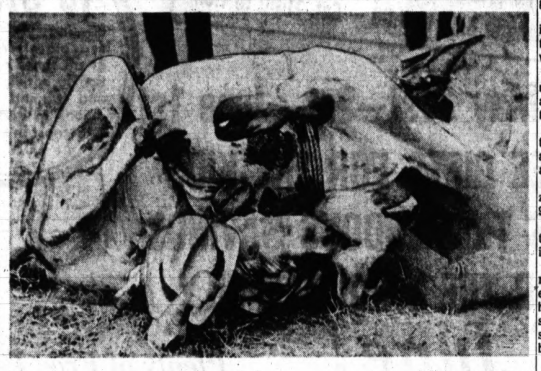

Radios and television sets seem to be in abundant supply due to apparent over-production. They are expensive but they sell.

A radio set costs up to 2,000 zlotys and a television set about 9,000.

Everything, or nearly everything, is state-made, run, organized and distributed.

The state sells anything from machinery to cosmetics, food and even flowers. The state runs the hairdresser salons and pedicure shops whose managers receive a salary plus bonuses based on business.

An average American housewife spends as much as four years of her adult life in washing dishes.

LOSES HER APPETITE — Mrs. Elaine Johnson lifts a spoonful of hard-boiled egg as she eats her breakfast at Wadsworth Veterans Administration in Los Angeles, after ending a 117-day feast. Mrs. Johnson lost 136 of her 315 pounds during the fast, and says she lost her appetite too.

Formula Helps Recall License Plate Number

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Mrs. J. D. Honnor has a formula for remembering her new auto license, NH6153.

"It stands for Never Home, and I've got six kids, one girl and five boys and three of them are home," she explains.

FISHIN'S GREAT — Three-and-one-half-year-old Howard Richards thinks so after hooking 10 trout while fishing in Maine. Howard's father, Victor W. Richards, said it was Howard's first fishing attempt and he had to be taught some of the finer points of the sport, including unhooking the fish.

Post Office Buzzing but Work Continues

ABINGDON, Ill. (AP) — Nor rain nor sleet nor swarming bees stopped the postal workers from performing their duties.

Employes reporting for work found things buzzing at the post office. A box of bees consigned to Ralph Chandler had been damaged during shipment, allowing the bees to escape. Chandler, an experienced bee handler, was summoned to capture the insects while business went on as usual.

Savers, Discarders Are Divided Into Two Enemy Camps

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—One of life's little ordeals is the relationship between the savers and the discarders in this world of ours.

"Shall we keep it—or throw it away?" That is the question that divides them into two eternal enemy camps.

BOYLE

The saver is a human being who never wants to throw anything away because he may find a use for it later. The discarder is a human automaton who insists on throwing away everything except what he needs at the moment.

As they differ psychologically, so these two types tend to differ physically—and in their habits.

The saver, since he feels anything he comes across in life may have a future value, tends to a placid rotundity because it's against his nature to shed poundage. His pockets are a biography of what has happened to him in the last few months.

They are stuffed with half-used match packets, old business cards, old sweepstake tickets, photos of his children, photos of his friends' children, photos of strangers' children, invitations to weddings that already have ended in divorce, a summons to jury duty for a case long ago settled, ticket stubs for air trips taken weeks ago, last season's suburban rail timetable, and penciled memos to himself made illegible by fabric friction.

The discarder, on the other hand, tends to a nervous and intent slimness because he sees no reason for carrying anything around he doesn't have to. His pockets are a kind of biography, too, but a slender one.

They contain a freshly fueled cigarette lighter, a clean handkerchief, several credit cards, an adequate supply of ready cash, his Social Security number, his home and business address, his blood type, and a notation saying that in case of accident not to give him penicillin as he is allergic to it.

The discarder is orderly, the saver is disorderly.

The saver is a New York Mets fan and goes to see them play because he always has the hope they may win. The discarder is a New York Yankees fan. He likes them because they hardly ever lose.

The saver looks out the window, sees a rainbow, and wistfully wishes he could keep it from fading away. So he doesn't let it fade. He stores it in his memory.

TOO BUSY

The discarder doesn't bother to look out and see the rainbow. He is too busy working a crossword puzzle which, as soon as he finishes, he throws away.

★ ★ ★

The saver falls in love with and marries a girl after he finds out her father collected balls of string in his old age. The discarder won't marry a girl if she has anything cluttering her past except money in the bank.

★ ★ ★

There is an open and inexorable contempt between the saver and the discarder, each of whom feels he has the only true secret to successful living.

★ ★ ★

When the discarder dies he leave nothing but a paid-up $100,000 insurance policy which his widow uses to find another husband—and promptly forgets him. When the saver dies, he leaves nothing but an attic full of useless hoarded junk, the happy debris of his passage. His widow may have to go to work to earn a living, but she can always go up to the attic on rainy days and say:

"What a wonderful husband he was—he left so much for me to remember him by!"

Helicopters Due Troops in Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army soon will start replacing with new turbine-powered helicopters the worn 10-year-old "Flying Banana" choppers it has been using to haul South Vietnamese troops into battle against Communist guerrillas.

★ ★ ★

The changeover, slated to begin in July, is expected to result in more effective operation, as well as fewer helicopter mishaps and losses due to engine failures.

When the United States began its big effort to support the anti-guerrilla drive of the South Vietnamese about 18 months ago, it had to send in what was available.

Since then, the 1953-vintage H21 choppers have flown thousands of miles on missions against the Communist guerrillas, and U.S. Army mechanics have been hard put to keep them going.

★ ★ ★

For one thing, the Flying Bananas' gasoline engines have labored and often broken down in the heat and humidity of South Viet Nam.

The turbine motors of the new UHL Iroquois are not affected by such climatic conditions, authorities said.

★ ★ ★

Also, their engines are less complicated, making them easier to maintain. Their cruising speed is about 104 miles an hour.

Rainfall in the central sections of Brazil averages more than 300 inches a year. In some parts of the country the annual rainfall reaches as much as 400 inches.

E. German Churches Eye Showdown

E. GERMAN — 42 T.R.

BERLIN (AP) — Protestant Church leaders in East Germany have called for a showdown with the Communist regime, directing pastors to resist efforts to restrict church affairs.

A document unanimously approved by a church conference in East Germany killed speculation that some church leaders were ready to knuckle under to the government.

It said the church recognizes the regime since the "bears of state power remain in the hand of God." But it added that the church must not "condone any misuse of this power, even if we must suffer."

A copy of the document, approved last March, was obtained by The Associated Press and verified by church officials. Communist authorities have not commented on the draft but know of its existence.

The Communist regime has been trying to force the church out of public life and confine its activities inside the churches.

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Barry C. Bishop says he could see "200 miles plus in every direction" as he stood atop Mt. Everest, the world's tallest spire.

'We looked to the north and stretching to the horizon were the rolling brown hills of Tibet, with three small mountain groups sticking up white," Bishop told reporters Wednesday.

"To the east there were cumulus clouds in the valleys, but we could see the Kanchenjunga Massif and Mt. Makal. On the south there were solid cloud banks over the lowlands of Nepal and India, but 22,000 and 24,000 footers like Ada Dablam were free of cloud."

Bishop, of Washington, D.C., said he and Luther G. Jerstad of Eugene, Ore., spent nearly 45 minutes atop Everest with winds blowing 70-mile gusts.

Bistop, recovering from frostbite, was one of four Americans who scaled the 29,028-foot peak May 22 in twin attacks from the south and west.

BERLIN (AP) — The United States is protesting that a Soviet jet fighter shadowed a U.S. air transport plane over East Germany en route to West Berlin.

A U.S. spokesman said the Soviet fighter violated corridor rules by maneuvering within 200 feet of the C97 four-engine plane shortly after it entered the lane Wednesday. The Soviet craft dogged the transport until it prepared to land at Tempelhof Airport.

The spokesman said an oral protest would be lodged with the Soviet member of the four-power Berlin Air Safety Center.

OTTAWA (AP)—Canada's new liberal government has presented Parliament with a budget providing for a record outlay for welfare measures.

The $6,545,504,515 spending program for 1963-64 calls for higher outlays for hospital insurance and other welfare measures, the cost of carrying the public debt, civil service wages and technical and vocational training.

The program also boosts the defense budget by more than $38 million to $1,628,833,538.

Tries to Save U.S. Law on Braceros

WASHINGTON (AP)—A senior member of the House Agriculture Committee will try to keep alive the law that lets farmers import Mexican field hands for jobs for which American workers are unavailable.

The House, in a surprise move, voted Wednesday to end the 12-year-old bracero program.

The action came on a 174-158 roll call vote.

Rep. E. C. Gathings, D-Ark., chairman of an agriculture subcommittee which recommended passage of the legislation, said he doesn't think the nation is ready to deny farmers "the right to have some labor."

BLAMES ABSENTEEISM

Gathings said U.S. farmers need bracero labor to plant and harvest their fruits and vegetables, sugar beets and cotton.

He blamed absenteeism for rejection of the two-year extension. All told, 102 members failed to vote. Fifty of them were paired for and against the bill.

The Kennedy administration had recommended the bracero law be extended for only one year.

The two-year extension was turned down after more than two hours of heated debate, which reached its peak when Rep. John E. Fogarty, D-R.I., charged "if there was ever a slave labor piece of legislation adopted by the Congress, this is it."

Fogarty and other opponents of the Mexican labor program charged it is immoral and depresses the wages of domestic farm laborers.

FIRM OPPOSITION

Religious groups and labor unions had lined up in firm opposition to extension of the labor-importing measure.

Advocates of the extension argued the Mexicans are called in only to handle work that American farm laborers will not do. They classisifed it as "stoop labor."

U.S., Mexico Gaining in Border Dispute Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top American officials said today good progress is being made toward settlement of 50-year-old border dispute with Mexico.

Despite the progress, however, these sources said there was no prospect of negotiating a mutually satisfactory solution to the squabble before President Kennedy travels to the vicinity of the disputed territory next Wednesday.

Neither, they said, was there any chance of a meeting at that time between Kennedy and President Adolfo Lopez Mateos of Mexico, even though the American chief executive will be just a river bank away from Mexican soil.

The source of the border trouble is 450-acre area which the United States claimed as part of El Paso, Tex., when the Rio Grande, the traditional border between the neighboring countries, abruptly changed course early in this century.

STIRS SPECULATION

A White House announcement Tuesday that Kennedy would spend the night of June 5 in El Paso led to speculation in some circles that a settlement of the territorial question was imminent.

However, it was learned on very high authority that despite progress no settlement was possible by then.

At one point, there were reports that Lopez Mateos would be in Juarez, Mexico—just across the river from El Paso — on June 5. However, Mexican officials said Wednesday night that this was not true; that Lopez Mateos will be in Jalisco Province at the time. The capital of the province is Guadalajara, some 750 miles from El Paso.

★ ★ ★

The disputed territory, little known outside Mexico and parts of southwestern United States, is called El Chamizal. Until the Rio Grande changed course, El Chamizal indisputably was part of Mexico.

Falconry Undergoes a Revival

THAYER, Mo. (UPI)—Falconry, an historic sport that pits bird against bird, has experienced a revival in this Ozark Mountains region.

Lumberman Daniel A. Cover said the grace and skill of the hunt with the powerful birds has attracted many "gun hunters."

Cover hunts quail, crows and starlings with his falcons here, and travels to Canada to hunt Hungarian partridges and sharp-tail grouse.

★ ★ ★

"The birds are so swift, so graceful to watch in flight, that hunting with falcons is a thrill," he said.

"In fact, a near miss of a game bird with a falcon can be as spectacular as success."

GUN HUNTER

Cover was a longtime gun hunter but was lured to falconry, by its history, which dates back to Kubla Khan, and by the ease and lack of challenge with which game is killed with firearms.

"If the average gun hunter took home as little game (as a falconer), he probably would give up hunting," Cover said.

He said although the percentage of kill is low, the swirl, dive and play of nature against nature is "very exciting."

★ ★ ★

"It is just as important to have a good bird dog when you hunt with falcons as when you hunt with guns," he said.

"When the dog points game, you release the falcon from your wrist and he is trained to fly 200 to 300 feet above you.

FLUSH BIRDS

"When the falcon is in good position, you flush the birds and the falcon swoops."

★ ★ ★

Cover said falconry is an inexpensive sport, but requires great patience and much work.

JFK, Mac to Ask Nikita for Meeting of Scientists

WASHINGTON (AP) —President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan were reported ready today to dispatch a proposal to Soviet Premier Khrushchev for a meeting of scientists to discuss ways of detecting nuclear explosions without having internal inspectors inside the Soviet Union.

★ ★ ★

Secretary of State Dean Rusk told a news conference Wednesday that the U.S. government considers it is important to "keep trying to achieve agreement" on a nuclear test ban treaty.

The message to Khrushchev which Kennedy, Macmillan and their disarmament experts have worked out constitutes the latest of a series of efforts to break the deadlock in test ban negotiations which have been bogged down at Geneva since earlier this year.

The immediate point of challenge in the new proposal, informants said, is Khrushchev's insistence that on-site inspections in the Soviet Union are not necessary because means exist to detect nuclear explosions from outside the territory of any country.

Rusk recalled Wednesday that the Soviets have long argued the existence of scientific equipment adequate to do this job and he said "we don't think so."

"But we think this is something which can be explored scientifically and technicaly to get a positive result," he said.

It is understood that Kennedy and Macmillan would be willing to have the scientific meeting in Moscow or anywhere else agreeable to Khrushchev. But U.S. officials had no real hope that Khrushchev would agree to have the meeting at all. They doubt the Soviets are interested in reviving active test ban negotiations at the moment.

Rusk said one reason for this could be that the Soviets were planning a new round of tests in their nuclear weapons development program. Another consideration in Moscow, he indicated, might be the re-examination of the split between the Soviet Union and Red China believed to be going on there.

Rocket Plane Gets Heat Test

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — An X15 rocket plane tested its steel alloy skin to an estimated 1,100 degrees Fahrenheit as it scorched above the desert atmosphere yesterday.

The test, only 100 degrees under the maximum the plane was designed to withstand, charred the heat resistant black paint.

Purpose of the test was to determine how fast the plane heats up under conditions similar to those it must survive later this year when it plunges back into the atmosphere from record altitudes of 350,000 to 400,000 feet.

★ ★ ★

Space agency pilot Joseph A. Walker subjected the X15 to the searing temperatures for eight seconds yesterday as he traveled 3,750 miles per hour at an estimated 90,000 feet.

Woman's Got Spirit of 74

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — She's 74 years old, but apparently she isn't ready to retire yet.

The elderly woman was arrested for the 76th time after a customer in a downtown store complained her purse was taken.

Izaak Walton Could've Used Wife Like This

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Stan DuBurck has a fish story to tell and a 14-pound muskie mounted in his den to prove it.

After two fruitless days' fishing in the St. Lawrence area, he decided to use a special, scientifically designed lure. Still no luck.

"Hmmmph!" said his wife Lucile, "this lure is much too black. It needs a touch of silver to give it dash and sparkle."

She rummaged through her pocket and found a plastic rainhat with a silvery luster. Fashioning the strap into a bow, she affixed it to the lure. "Try that," she said.

The lure is now mounted along with the fish.

Capture of Frankfort Unique in Civil War

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Frankfort was the only capital of a nonseceding state to be captured by the Confederates during the Civil War.

The capture by Kirby Smith Sept. 3, 1862, marked the high point of the Southern effort to win Kentucky. The Confederates lost the city one month later.

Nike Zeus Scores 5th Success

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

ON TARGET: The Army's Nike Zeus antimissile has scored its fifth success, this time intercepting a Titan I intercontinental ballistic missile.

The Zeus was fired aloft from Kwajalein Island in the Central Pacific, the Titan from Vandenberg Air Force Base, California. The Titan traveled on a 5,000-mile trajectory. Neither carried a nuclear warhead.

In making an announcement of the test Wednesday the Army said the interception occurred recently. No mention was made of whether the Titan was equipped with decoys.

CEILING RAISED: President Kennedy has signed into law an increase of the national debt limit to $307 billion now and to $309 billion July 1.

He apparently acted just before the total debt crashed through the old $305 billion ceiling.

"We got by by the scruff of our neck," a Treasury official said.

Still, this was only a guess. Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon had predicted the old barrier would be breached before the day ended. The Treasury won't know for sure when the ceiling was cracked until tabulations are completed.

SHOWCASE: Even a lollipop-making machine will be included in the U.S. exhibition at the 32nd Poznan International Trade Fair, June 9-23.

The U.S. exhibition in the Polish city is designed to "demonstrate how the American free enterprise system provides for the benefit of all the people," according to Eugene M. Braderman ,director of the Commerce Department's Bureau of International Commerce.

A contrasting variety of products and services will be featured, Braderman said. They will include a service station, a maintenance and repair shop, a seed cleaner, a supermarket meat packing department, musical instruments, business machines and photographic equipment. About 170 American firms will display their products and technology.

People of Cali Apologize to County Group

CALI, Colombia (UPI) — A goodwill mission from Oakland County, Mich. left today with official assurances that the destruction of an American flag by a pro-Castro city alderman was an isolated incident and did not represent the sentiments of the people of Cali.

City Alderman Luis Efren Fernandez, a pro-Castro member of the radical liberal revolutionary movement (Pelusa), tore down the flag during a City Hall reception for the visiting Americans.

He threw it to a group of leftist teen-agers who tore it apart at his urging.

The City Council today censured Fernandez for the action.

The desecration of the American flag took place at a reception in honor of the Oakland County group, which was here to pave the way for a technical assistance program for the "brother community" of Cali.

Gov. Balcazar Monzon of Cauca Valley province said in a speech to the Michigan visitors that they should not consider the attack on the flag "the will of the government or people of Colombia."

He said "Your mission has contributed to the better understanding of the peoples of both nations and you continue to be welcome here."

'Commission Ruled Right'

Romney Agrees on Check of Campaign

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney says he agrees that his charges regarding unfair campaigning by opponents of the new constitution are not within the purview of the Fair Campaign Practices Commission (FCPC) but perhaps ought to be.

The governor was informed yesterday by the Rt. Rev. Marshall Reed, chairman of the FCPC, that his list of charges against foes of the new document would require investigation and evaluation beyond the resources of the commission.

In a return letter, Romney said he could "well appreciate" that his charges might well present an "impossible burden for the commission, in view of your limited resources."

He added, however, that he would seek the views of commission members, legislators and other persons on whether the means could be established to deal with such complaints as his.

Bishop Reed pointed out, in his letter to Romney, that his charges of a "campaign of deceit and trickery" in the fight over the new constitution did not fall within the bounds of national, racial or religious bigotry — matters of primary concern to the FCPC.

Reveal Radar Contact With Planet Mercury

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Scientists at the jet propulsion laboratory say they've made radar contact with Mercury — the smallest and hottest planet in the solar system.

Laboratory officials announced yesterday that the first contact was made May 6 and continued 12 hours a day for three weeks.

Navy to Honor Men Lost in 2 Submarines

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP) — This old Navy port pays homage today to 129 men lost seven weeks ago aboard the nuclear submarine Thresher and to 26 who died in 1939 in the Squalus.

Both undersea craft went out of this shipbuilding yard to their doom.

A wreath of flowers cast by school children on the outgoing tide will symbolize the remembrances of widows, children and friends left behind.

The simple memorial day service at the naval shipyard has become traditional in the 24 years since the Squalus went down.

Two U. S. Advisers Killed in Viet Nam

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Two U.S. Special Forces advisers were killed Wednesday in a Communist guerrilla ambush patrol in mountainous Quang Ngai Province, an American military spokesman said today.

The two were with a patrol seven miles out of a Special Forces base at Son Ha, in central Viet Nam, when it was hit by a guerrilla platoon.

(In Washington, one of the two was identified as Capt. James Brodt, 31, Blue Earth, Minn.)

The casualties brought the number of U.S. advisers who have died in Viet Nam's war to 78.

Grandpa's Birthday Brings 55 Well-Wishers

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—The 55 grandchildren of Harry Hill of St. Louis gathered Tuesday to wish him a happy 75th birthday.

The oldest is only 17. There are no great-grandchildren.

Hill has 10 living children. One son was killed in World War II.

Hill's wife died in 1949.

New-Con Tally Almost Done

LANSING (AP)—The recount of the April 1 vote approving a new state constitution was more than two-thirds completed today with no significant change in the tally.

But Democratic State Chairman Zolton Ferency still insisted that the recount continue.

Ferency said a large number of precincts have been ruled uncountable through mishandling of ballots. Also, he said, there was a serious question about a group of absentee ballots.

"Apart from the unrecountable precincts, by far the most questionable practice uncovered to date has been the possible misuse of absentee ballots," Ferency said. "There was also bad mishandling of ballots after they were received."

The Democratic objections were seen as building a base for a court test to try to halt implementation of the new constitution.

The recount, meanwhile, with 1,454 precincts checked, showed little change. The last tally gave a net gain of 315 votes against the new constitution.

This was compared to the original 7,829 margin of approval.

Man to Reach Moon Before Animal—Glenn

TOKYO (UPI) — Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. predicted today that the first U.S. spaceship to reach the moon will carry men rather than experimental animals or automatic machinery.

America's first man in orbit told the foreign correspondents' club that the flights made so far by U.S. spacemen proved that man can operate safely without excessive automatic protection.

'Agriculture Still Needs Government'

LANSING (UPI) — Michigan farmers voted almost 4 to 1 a week ago against President Kennedy's program that would have set a high support price and strict production controls on the 1964 wheat crop.

★ ★ ★

But this, according to men who stood on opposite sides of the issue, does not mean the farmer wants the government out of agriculture.

Carl Shumway, chairman of the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service, said, after reflecting on the vote, "The farmers were confused over the whole issue. They voted 'no' because they weren't sure.

"They do a lot of criticizing of these controls but I think most of them realize it's an impossibility to survive with the government out of agriculture," said Shumway, who operates a 279-acre farm near Tekonsha in Calhoun County.

SO MUCH

Shumway claimed, "We couldn't run on a supply and demand basis because of our ability to supply so much of any commodity."

Agreeing with Shumway was Clarence Prentice, the secretary-manager of the Michigan Farm Bureau, which lead the fight against adoption of the U.S. Department of Agriculture plan.

"The entire objective of the exercise was to indicate the Farm Bureau members felt there is a better way to accomplish the objective of fair and reasonable prices to farmers. I think it indicated farmers are fed up with the attempt to have supply-management control," Prentice said.

★ ★ ★

But despite the feeling against supply-management control, Farm Bureau and the American Farm Bureau Federation have never indicated that a completely free market is either possible or practical.

"But there is a method of doing it that would allow the farmer to voluntarily make his choice. The farmers should be voluntarily allowed to take their land out of production."

Such a plan, known as the land retirement program, was introduced to Congress this week as part of a Farm Bureau-backed feed grain and wheat program.

Prentice, and other Farm Bureau leaders, are hopeful the Congress will adopt either this proposal or another bill that would provide crop controls less restrictive than would have been in effect if the referendum passed last week.

Prentice said, "With the kind of vote we had, I'm sure all who are in position to pass on legislation will take into consideration the farmer.

"The vote indicated the farmers feel there is a free enterprise method of getting the job done without the complete control and compulsion that would have been necessary under the referendum.

★ ★ ★

"It wasn't $1 wheat versus $2 wheat we voted on — It was coercion by the Department of Agriculture and farmers were disgusted with the entire government propaganda effort to get them to adopt the referendum. That's what they voted against."

If Congress fails to pass another wheat bill, farmers will be free to grow whatever amount of wheat they want to in 1964.

However, only those who stay within their U.S.D.A. acreage allotments will be eligible for the government support price, which is expected to be around $1.25 a bushel. This year the support price is $1.97.

★ ★ ★

Prentice said he doubted if wheat production would surge upward much from this year's expected Michigan crop of 37,100,000 bushels. In 1962, the state crop totaled 29,965,000.

The record crop, 41,420,000 bushels, was harvested in 1958.

To Ask Funds for Grain Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kennedy administration will ask Congress in the near future for funds to administer the 1964 crop version of its feed grain program.

Its success or failure in obtaining these funds could greatly affect the program.

The bill signed by President Kennedy last week extending the feed grain program for two more years required that the Agriculture Department get from Congress funds needed to administer the program.

There was no such requirement under the 1961, 1962 and 1963 programs.

Administrative expenses were advanced by the department's Commodity Credit Corporation just as that agency advanced funds for payments to farmers who idled a part of their feed grain land to help reduce surpluses.

The new program deleted authority for the corporation to supply expense funds under an amendment offered by Rep. Robert H. Michel, R-Ill., who said he wanted to close the "back door to the treasury."

Michel said administrative expenses for the 1961-63 programs totaled $101 million and that the proper committees of Congress had not been given an opportunity to pass on the costs.

★ ★ ★

It is significant that an opponent of the feed grain program is chairman of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee on agriculture — Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla.

He told Congress last week that he regarded the feed grain program as defective and dangerous. He said he hoped a more moderate and acceptable program will be provided by Congress.

The feed grain program requires much administrative work. Planting bases must be determined for each farm.

In addition, it is necessary to get agreements from farmers regarding their degree of participation, if any, in the program.

Then acreages of planted grains must be checked to determine compliance.

★ ★ ★

Should Congress start working on alternative grain programs, Holland, as head of the Senate money committee, might well be able to prevent appropriation of funds for the present feed grain program.

Man Requests Court to Jail His Daughter

THETFORD, England (UPI) — Pensioner George Hitchcock, 73, asked the court to send his daughter Winnie, 39, to jail because she refused to leave his house.

★ ★ ★

Judge Carey Evans ordered her to jail for six weeks but suspended sentence on condition she leave her father's home.

NY Flights Delayed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fog delayed at least 70 flights in and out of Idlewild and La Guardia airports yesterday. The delays were expected to continue throughout the day.

Floor Collapses, Reveals Treasure

ROME (AP) —When part of the floor in Tarquinio Scantena's Rome house collapsed, he found a treasure in art. The house had been built over ancient Roman catacombs.

The caved-in floor disclosed a buried chamber whose walls and ceilings were painted in reds, blues, greens and yellows with geometric designs, masks, birds and a woman's head.

Experts of the Rome Superintendency of Arts said the work was in excellent preservation.

Red League Newspaper Asks End of Betting

MOSCOW (AP)—Komsomolskaya Pravda, the Young Communist League newspaper, demanded today — as it did in 1959 and 1961 — that the betting be stopped at the Moscow Race Track.

This time the demand was made in connection with publication of a letter from a mother of two sons who, she said, spent too much of their time there "with trembling hands, feverish eyes, in front of the totalizer."

Selassie's Efforts Stir Memories

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Twenty-eight years ago when Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia pleaded in vain for League of Nations action to regain his throne from the Italian invader, he served inadvertently as the catalyst which ended any hope for the league as a world force.

NEWSOM

Last week in Addis Ababa the 71 - year - old emperor served as a catalyst of another sort.

For it was at his invitation that heads of state or their representatives from 30 independent African nations met in Addis Ababa's new Africa Hall to draft a charter of African unity.

★ ★ ★

Speeches of the various leaders themselves made it obvious that any real African unity is years away by the most optimistic estimate.

Yet the fact that agreement was reached on any charter at all represented a signal triumph.

For meeting in Africa Hall were such personally ambitious leaders as President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic, Premier Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria and President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana.

MILITANT NEUTRALS

And brought together were such militantly neutral African states as the Casablanca group and the more moderate and more pro-Western Monrovia group.

Deeply involved with his efforts to bring Syria and Iraq into the U.A.R. and with success still in doubt, Nasser contented himself mainly with the role of observer.

Ben Bella brought the conference to its feet on the one subject upon which they could be said to be united — anticolonialism.

He said he had 10,000 volunteers who would fight colonialism, notably in Portuguese Mozambique, Angola and Guinea.

★ ★ ★

He told the delegates that if they wanted freedom in Africa, they would have to "die a little or, if necessarily, entirely."

But he also advocated the go-slow policy espoused by Haile Selassie.

The conference also brought together two antagonists of long standing.

They were Nkrumah, long an advocate of a strong central African union who told the delegates they "must unite now or perish," and Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, prime minister of Nigeria.

The two first had collided in 1960 when Sir Abubakar coldly informed Nkrumah that Nigerians had not given up one form of colonialism, simply to fall prey to another.

INDEPENDENCE FITS

As leader of one of the richest and most populous states in Africa, Sir Abubakar can afford to be independent.

Nkrumah is an ambitious man whose ambitions extend considerably beyond tiny Ghana. Suspicions of his motives held by other African leaders reflected themselves in the conference.

But Nkrumah did not quit the conference.

And in the end, the African leaders adopted a charter much like that of the Organization of American States.

It has a secretariat, a budget committee and the mechanics to develop unified activity in the fields of politics, education, defense and communication.

The results were a personal victory for Haile Selassie. They also left up to him the hard job of making the charter work.

LOAF IN A RING — A unique way of serving an old favorite! Our meat loaf mixture has been baked in a ring mold. This savory combination of ground beef, sausage and grated carrot along with special seasonings is unmolded on a large round platter. The center of the ring is filled with parsleyed potatoes.

Bake Meat Loaf in Ring Fill With Vegetables

There's always a spot in any homemaker's recipe repertoire for a really good meat loaf. Here's an Easy Meat Loaf recipe that combines ground beef with sausage and presents you with a perfect mingling of flavors.

While speaking of meat loaves it might be well to point out that there are many cuts of meat that may be used for ground meat.

There is often a tendency, when buying ground beef, to ask for "ground round." Actually, it is hardly fat enough to make a tender, flavorful loaf without the addition of extra gound fat.

Then too, round steak is often in demand for Swiss steaks and other braised dishes and is less economical for ground beef.

Other cuts which might be used for a meat loaf include the chuck, fresh brisket, shank or plate. These contain more fat and they are cuts which are in less demand. You'll likely save from 10 to 25 cents per pound.

Even though these meats are from the less-tender parts of the animal they are just as flavorful and nutritious as the more demanded cuts. They've been made tender by grinding and for that reason they can be cooked by the dry heat method of roasting.

However, as in all meats, the roasting temperature for meat loaves must be low to moderate to provide the best possible dish.

Easy Meat Loaf

1½ pounds ground beef
½ pound fresh pork sausage
½ cup grated carrots
1 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ cup chopped onion, if desired
2 eggs, slightly beaten

Combine ground beef, pork sausage, carrots, seasonings, Worcestershire sauce, onion and beaten eggs. Mix thoroughly in a 9x5-inch loaf pan or 1-quart ring mold. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 1½ hours. 8 servings.

Cheese and Corn Flakes Stacked for Luncheon

Make pancake sandwiches for lunch. Using a mix, prepare batter for 8 pancakes. Pour batter onto a hot lightly-greased griddle. Sprinkle each with a tablespoon of drained whole kernel corn before turning.

After turning, place 1 slice of process American cheese on each pancake. Stack two pancakes sandwich style and top with barbecued hamburger sauce. Serves 4.

For a French way with eggs, poach them in red wine. Nice for lunch.

Barbecued Beef Is Luscious Eating

Cut a ½-inch thick slice of beef arm, blade or round steak into 3x4-inch pieces. Sprinkle top sides with salt and thyme. Roll up each piece and fasten with skewer. Brown slowly in heated fat.

★ ★ ★

Prepare a smooth paste using 2 tablespoons each flour and prepared mustards. Stir 1 cup catsup into paste, and then add ¼ cup chopped onion, 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon each ground cloves and black pepper and 1 cup juice from canned peaches or crab apples, bread-and-butter pickles or sweet pickles. Stir to blend and pour over browned beef rolls.

★ ★ ★

Cover pan tightly and cook slowly on top of range, or in a 300 degree oven. Allow about 1½ hours for cooking. Yields 4 to 5 servings.

Don't Serve Just From Jar

Relishes are a "must" at backyard cookouts — and ripe olives fill the bill to perfection.

★ ★ ★

To give them a rich-looking gloss, drain the olives well, dry on paper towels and roll in a few drops of salad oil; season the oil with a little garlic powder, if desired. Coat the olives with instant minced onion or chopped parsley for extra-added flavor goodness.

★ ★ ★

Pitted ripe olives may be stuffed with whole almonds or threaded on carrot and celery sticks.

For Pancakes

Ever add drained crushed pineapple to pancake batter? Good with butter and maple syrup for Sunday's extra-special brunch.

Sauce for Meat Loaf

To pep up a chicken or turkey loaf (nice with ham loaf for a change, too) try serving it with a sauce made by adding 1 tablespoon brown sugar, 2 tablespoons capers, and 1 teaspoon lemon juice to 1 can (8-ounce) of tomato sauce. Simmer fifteen minutes and pour over each slice of loaf as served.

Add to Soup

Water cress in the refrigerator? Chop enough to make half a cup and add to a couple of cans of chicken and rise soup.

BROWNIES ALASKA—Family or guests will like this surprise dessert. Brownie squares are topped with ice cream, covered with meringue and browned in a hot oven. Change the character of this treat by changing the ice cream.

Individual Alaskas Are Based on Brownies

"Befuddled?"

"Bemuddled?"

Then be calm! Finding a dessert to steal the show at your next party is easy with this neat mix trick.

Brownie Alaskas, individual ones, are the newest look in Brownies. Smoother fat, chocolate-rich brownies that have been topped with a generous slice or scoop of vanilla or mint ice cream, with light-as-a-cloud meringue and bake. After a few minutes baking time, take from the oven a wonderful treasure of good eating.

This excellent dessert that yields approximately 12 servings, can be put together anytime, wrapped and placed in the freezer, then baked when needed.

* * *

The making of this dessert is 1-2-3 easy.

1. Prepare and bake brownie mix; cool; cut in individual servings and place on aluminum foil-lined baking sheet.

* * *

2. Make meringue.

* * *

3. Place ice cream on top of brownies, cover with meringue and bake.

That's all . . . but remember to have everything in readiness to serve this scrumptious dessert because it commands the prompt attention of your guests.

Individual Brownie Alaskas

Make Brownies according to directions on Brownie Mix package. Cool. Cut into twelve pieces. Place pieces on dampened board which has been covered with heavy brown paper or on baking sheet covered with 2 thicknesses of aluminum foil. Top each piece with a slice of hard brick ice cream.

* * *

Cover with Meringue (recipe below) being certain it completely covers the ice cream and comes down to paper. Bake 4 to 5 minutes, or until lightly browned, in hot oven (450 degrees). Makes 12 servings.

Meringue

Beat 3 egg whites until stiff. Add 6 tablespoons sugar gradually. Beat until stiff and glossy.

Cheese Spread Is Topping for Fish

Cheese topping for fish fillets is easy to make with two ingredients.

Stir together 1 (5-ounce) jar of sharp process American cheese spread and one-third cup of sweet pickle relish, well-drained. Stir over low heat until cheese melts.

Pour over 1 pound of fillet of sole arranged in a greased shallow baking dish. Bake 25 minutes in preheated 375-degree oven. Serve on toast points or noodles to 4.

Hollow Raw Carrots Fill With Cream Cheese

Scrape small carrots (not more than 1-inch in diameter) and cut into halves lengthwise. Hollow out centers and chop centers very fine. Combine chopped carrots with a mixture of cream cheese and mayonnaise. Season to taste with celery salt and Worcestershire sauce.

Fill carrots with mixture, and chill. If desired, cut carrots into 1-inch lengths for easier "hollowing."

Glazed Topping Enhances Cake

A delightful use for whole bran cereal is as an ingredient in Honey-Top Date Cake. This date-nut loaf cake is a tasty choice for a picnic dessert. It has no sticky frosting, but features a satisfying honey and orange glaze to provide flavor accent.

Honey-Top Date Cake

¾ cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup chopped nutmeats
½ cup finely cut, pitted dates
3 tablespoons milk
½ cup soft butter or margarine
¾ cup sugar
3 eggs, separated
½ teaspoon vanilla flavoring
½ cup all-bran cereal
½ teaspoon cornstarch
3 tablespoons orange juice
1½ tablespoons honey

* * *

Soft together flour, baking powder and salt; combine with nutmeats and dates. Blend butter and sugar. Add egg yolks, vanilla and bran; beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk, mixing well after each addition.

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold into batter. Spread in greased and lightly floured 8x8-inch baking pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 40 minutes.

Combine cornstarch, orange juice and honey. Pour over warm cake. Let stand until cool. Yield: 9 servings.

SPRING SALAD — Appetizing cubes of deviled ham, with boned chicken and grapes are the ingredients to make a spring salad de luxe.

Cubes of Deviled Ham Cut Into Spring Salad

Salad days are here again. The family will welcome big, meal-type salads packed with protein, vitamins and minerals galore. Such as this one:

Serve a "medley" of deviled ham, cubed, from the refrigerator, boned chicken and luscious white grapes for a very special spring luncheon salad.

* * *

Chopped celery and walnuts add just the right "crunch." The taste of deviled ham, cut into cubes (after it's been chilled) gives this salad novelty.

Line the bowl with a bed of crisp romaine lettuce before adding the ingredients.

Savory Salad Medley

1 4½-ounce can deviled ham
1 6-ounce can boned chicken
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped walnuts
¼ cup French dressing
¾ cup halved white grapes
French Romaine mayonnaise

Place deviled ham in freezer compartment for 2 hours before serving. Cut chicken into chunks and mix with celery, nuts and French dressing.

Just before serving on romaine, remove ham from freezer; cut into cubes and add to salad with grapes. Garnish with small bunches of whole grapes. Makes 6 servings.

French Mayonnaise

Combine 2 tablespoons sharp French dressing with ¼ cup mayonnaise.

Ham-Rice Skillet Dish a Quickie

You wouldn't have to turn a pretty little egg timer many times to count the minutes required to prepare Ham Medley. The combination starting with uncooked rice is ready for eating about 30 minutes after you decide to serve it!

The combination is a savory blend of flavors. Cubed ham is cooked along with rice and seasonings, so that as the rice kernels swell to tenderness, they absorb the medley of flavors. Once the rice is tender, tomatoes, mustard and green pepper are stirred in for good color as well as additional flavor.

Accompany Ham Medley with well chilled greens tossed with fluted cucumber slices and crisp radish slices all dressed with your favorite salad topping.

Ham Medley can be prepared using regular white rice, parboiled or brown rice. Parboiled rice, you know, has been parboiled before milling by special steam pressure process. The treatment aids in the retention of much of the natural vitamins and minerals.

Brown rice is the whole, unpolished grain of rice with only the outer, inedible fibrous hull removed.

HAM MEDLEY

3 cups cubed cooked ham, ½ inch cubes
2 cups water
2 beef or chicken bouillon cubes
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 medium onions, thinly sliced
1 cup uncooked rice
1 can (1 pound, 4 oz.) tomatoes
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 large green pepper, cut into julienne strips

Place ham in a large skillet. Add water, bouillon cubes, seasonings, and onions. Sprinkle rice over top. Heat to boiling, stir well, lower heat, cover, and simmer for 15 minutes or until rice is tender. Stir in tomatoes, mustard, and green pepper. Heat through, about 5 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

HEARTY SANDWICH—First a thick slice of tasty rye bread is spread with cheese and deviled ham. Then shredded lettuce and finally asparagus spears topped with a smooth, but tangy sauce built it up. Fine for evening refreshments or a luncheon.

New Open Faced Sandwich Blends Medley of Flavors

Parties are fun most any month of the year. So select a date and invite your friends! Of course, you'll want to serve refreshments with a party touch and Party Hamwiches are just the thing.

These perky sandwiches are hearty, but elegant, too. — And they don't require lots of kitchen preparation time. The base is husky slices of rye bread. The tip-top surprise, tender green spears of canned asparagus and a zippy dressing. Serve them with steaming cups of Tomato Bouillon and then wait for the Ohs! and Ahs!

PARTY HAMWICHES

Sandwich:

Two 3-oz. pkg. cream cheese, softened
Two 4½-oz. cans deviled ham
6 diagonally - sliced pieces rye bread
Shredded lettuce
One 19-oz. can green asparagus spears, chilled and drained, or fresh asparagus.
¼ cup Italian - style dressing
¾ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
1 teaspoon prepared horseradish

For sandwiches, blend cream cheese with deviled ham. Spread generously on bread; top with shredded lettuce. Arrange 3 to 4 canned asparagus spears lengthwise atop each sandwich.

For dressing, combine all ingredients thoroughly. Drizzle over sandwiches, allowing about 3 tablespoons per sandwich. Garnish with pickle relish or small hearts cut from pimiento if desired. Yield: 6 sandwiches.

Tomato Bouillon

Dissolve 3 beef bouillon cubes in 3 cups boiling water. Stir in 3 cups tomato juice, 1 teaspoon celery salt, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and dash of pepper. Simmer several minutes. Serve in soup mugs; garnish with croutons. Yield: 6 cups soup.

Celery for Relish Full of Avocado

Stuffed celery is one of the better-known relishes, and "Avocado-Stuffed Celery" is designed to keep it high on popularity lists. The velvety-smooth goodness of California avocados adds unique flavor and texture to many appetizers, salads, sandwiches, main dishes and even desserts.

Summer varieties of the fruit begin arriving in markets the end of May. Some of the avocados have dark, pebbled skins while others are green-skinned. The fruit inside is the same the year-round — light green-yellow and delicious!

Avocado-Stuffed Celery

1 California avocado
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
Dash cayenne pepper
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento celery

Cut avocado lengthwise into halves; remove seed and skin. Mash or force fruit through sieve. Blend in all remaining ingredients except celery. Cut celery into short lengths; fill with avocado mixture.

Makes about ¾ cup filling.

Mix Spuds and Spinach in New Vegetable Dish

Do try this combination! It's one of the best ways we know to serve spinach.

Puffy Spinach and Potatoes

1 package (10 ounces) chopped frozen spinach
Boiling water
Salt
1 pound potatoes
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
Freshly ground pepper to taste

Cook the spinach according to package directions using the amount of boiling water and salt called for; drain.

Pare potatoes and halve or quarter; cover with boiling water and add ½ teaspoon salt; boil rapidly, covered, until tender — 20 to 30 minutes.

Drain potatoes; shake in saucepan over low heat to dry; mash. Beat in butter, drained spinach, more salt if needed and pepper. Reheat over boiling water. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

A half-teaspoon of dry mustard and an eighth-teaspoon of paprika are good seasonings to add to a four-egg cheese souffle.

Outdoor Meal Prepared in Kitchen

Surprise! Your family has dinner in the back yard as usual — but you bring them a meal-in-a-skillet instead of their waiting for the coals to burn low for charcoal-flavored steaks, frankfurters, or chicken.

They will love miniature meat loaves whose flavorful drippings have blended with frozen corn as they steamed in the covered skillet or chicken braised with frozen mixed vegetables and cream.

You prepare these meat-and-vegetable combinations with a plug-in small appliance or in a heavy skillet over low heat in the kitchen. It's a welcome change to eliminate (at least once in awhile) the guesswork of outdoor cooking while having the fun of food-in-the-fresh-air.

Frozen Corn Salisbury Steak Skillet

2 packages frozen cut corn
1½ pounds ground beef
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup minced onion
¼ teaspoon oregano
2 teaspoons frozen chopped parsley
¼ teaspoon sweet basil
½ cup milk
1 tablespoon vegetable oil, butter, or margarine
½ cup water
1 (6-oz.) can tomato paste
½ cup chopped green pepper

Remove frozen cut corn from zero storage and let stand at room temperature while preparing remaining ingredients. Mix ground beef, salt, pepper, onion, oregano, parsley, basil, and milk. Shape into eight footballs.

Heat fat in skillet and brown the meat cakes in it on all sides. Mix water and tomato paste and pour over meat. When it comes to a boil, add corn (uncooked) and chopped green pepper. Cover and cook slowly 10 to 15 minutes.

Transfer to warm platter or serve from skillet. Serves eight.

Braised Chicken with Vegetables

2 packages frozen mixed vegetables
1 frying chicken (about 2 pounds)
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ cup shortening
1 cup coffee cream
½ cup frozen sliced or chopped onions
2 tablespoons frozen chopped parsley
1 teaspoon salt

while preparing chicken. Combine flour, salt, and pepper and roll chicken pieces in it. Meanwhile, heat fat in heavy skillet. Brown chicken on all sides. Then add 1 cup coffee cream, the sliced onions, and the parsley.

Remove frozen mixed vegetables from freezer and allow to stand at room temperature

Cover and cook at simmering temperature for 20 minutes. Add mixed vegetables and sprinkle with 1 teaspoon salt. Cover and simmer for 15 minutes. Serves six.

With the skillet meals it is good to use frozen muffins or the frozen muffin batter that is ready-to-bake. Prepare one pan of frozen biscuits and one pan of frozen muffins to give everyone a choice.

Color Matters Not to Fowl

Just as there are regional and traditional preferences for white eggs or brown ones, so do choices vary in selecting fresh chickens. Some shoppers seek a golden yellow bird, some a lighter yellow, and others a creamy white broiler or fryer.

Skin color is regulated by feeding methods as well as processing to accommmodate consumer desire. Regardless of the color, you can be sure it's a fresh bird by its bright, sparkling appearance, and that it has passed federal inspection for wholesomeness and purity.

Surprise your family! Garnish tomato bouillon with a slice of fresh orange. Interesting and delicious combination!

French Toast Sandwich

Nearly everyone likes French toast for breakfast. Vary this favorite by sandwiching slices of enriched white bread with marmalade or jam. Dip the sweet sandwiches in egg and milk and fry as usual. Dust French toasted sandwiches with confectioners' sugar for serving.

Swiss steak braised in prune juice is a gourmet dish indeed.

Expert Gives Advice on Barbecue Foods

The Memorial Day week-end marks the official opening of the barbecue season! Meat, salad, and easy dessert are the makings of a successful barbecue, suggests the Consumer Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer.

If beef steak is your meat choice, remember that quality and thickness are important for tender eating satisfaction. Select U.S. Choice or comparable quality and have steak cut at least one inch thick.

If the crowd is large, a thick sirloin is one of the better choices. Sirloin yields more meat in relation to bone than other steaks and it is easy to carve into serving size pieces.

Rib steaks are a popular barbecue choice. These cost less than tenderloin, T-bone and club steaks, and are cut from the rib section.

Blade steaks, cut from the same area of the shoulder as blade chuck roast, are less tender than other beef steaks, and are still lower in cost. You may wish to tenderize blade steak before cooking time.

BIG CHOICE

Barbecue meats are almost unlimited. Pork ribs, fresh or smoked ham, steak, and a boneless roll of loin or shoulder are excellent choices. Inexpensive lamb breast makes tasty riblets too, or select a boned shoulder roast. Steaks cut from the lamb leg are barbecue favorites for those who like lamb and lots of it.

Perhaps chicken is the barbecue choice of your family? Then look for birds that give the right size eating pieces when cut into halves or quarters. These range from about 1½ to 2½ pounds in size.

No witchery is needed to cook at a grill. Experienced cooks know that heat from coals, not flames, is the right heat for perfect results. Many have learned that Michigan's hardwood briquettes are a fine choice for long lasting, even cooking temperatures.

Salad may be a crisp green one that includes lettuce. Here you have at least five lettuce choices. "Iceberg," sometimes called head lettuce, is by far the most important commercially. "Butterhead" is the type which gives us Boston and Bibb lettuce. Butterhead lettuce is known for its tender, buttery leaves.

"Cos," or Romaine-type lettuce has a loose head of stiff, broad, upright leaves. It is crisp, rather coarse, and pleasantly sweet. "Leaf," or bunching lettuce, is nonheading.

Stem lettuce, often called "celtuce," has an enlarged stem and no head. Here the stem is the best part and it is usually peeled and eaten raw or sometimes cooked.

TEAR OR CUT

Whether to cut or tear lettuce depends on how soon you intend to serve it. If it is to be used immediately, either method will do. If the lettuce must wait for an hour or so, tear it, and store it in the refrigerator until mealtime. Torn edges show less bruising.

You'll find a wide variety of lettuce salad companions. Celery, green onions, radishes, cucumbers, green peppers are now in good supply. For mild onion flavor and color variation, try red onion rings . . . along with your favorite oil and vinegar dressing.

That easy dessert may be ice cream, and the supply is abundant at this time. Frozen berries will make a colorful topping. Dessert could be a platter of fruit cut into bite size pieces.

Although the selection is not large at this season, you might include watermelon, bananas, canned peaches, canned or fresh pineapple, fresh strawberries and a mound of instant sugar.

Remember to have the skewers and marshmallows close by. Kabobs of bananas, peaches and pineapple might be the choice of grownups, but children associate their marshmallows with barbecues they remember.

Texan Starts Movement for Romney Bid

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A former New York resident, now living in Dallas, has started a citizens movement here to support Michigan Gov. George Romney for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination.

★ ★ ★

The head of the Dallas group, G. A. Zimmerman, 38, said his group has informed both the national and state GOP headquarters about the movement.

He said similar clubs are planned for Detroit, New York, Chicago, Washington and Los Angeles.

Advertisements have appeared in those cities and Zimmerman said the group has circulated about 1,000 windshield stickers in the cities.

He said his group has not spoken with Romney.

★ ★ ★

Romney represents the greater number of Americans who lean to the middle of the road, common-sense approach, rather than to the extreme right or left, Zimmerman said.

Eight Escape Injury in Grand Rapids Fire

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Eight persons in two families escaped injury early yesterday when fire of undetermined origin caused an estimated $20,000 damage at a West Side Grand Rapids bakery.

Fireman William Hartigh was treated at St. Mary's Hospital for a cut finger in the only injury reported at the blaze.

Flames were discovered by Harry Sadinski, an occupant of one of the two apartments above the bakery. He aroused his wife and their two children, alerted a family of four in the other apartment and all fled to safety.

$3-Million Plan to Extend Gas Service in State

MOUNT PLEASANT (AP) — A $3,282,000 program to extend natural gas service to Harrison in Clare County was announced yesterday by Michigan Consolidated Gas Co.

The company said natural gas would be available for the area by the next heating season.

The project includes reactivation of the North Hamilton gas field as a storage facility plus construction of 16 miles of transmission lines.

John V. Rodenbeck, manager of the utility firm's Mount Pleasant area, said the program also calls for construction of some 8 miles of distribution mains within Harrison.

Sugar-Free Gelatin Mold Is Colorful

Give a springy lift to your meals by including rhubarb and strawberries on your shopping list this month. These luscious fruits are becoming more and more a year-round crop, but they're at their very best during May and June.

Although in themselves low in calories (1 cup strawberries, 51 calories; 1 cup diced raw rhubarb, 19 calories), both fruits normally require quite a bit of sugar for sweetening. And calorie-wise cooks know this can mean lots of extra, unwanted calories. (One cup of cooked rhubarb with sugar added has a calorie count of 383 calories!)

In the pleasurably sweet recipe for Rhubarb-Strawberry Dessert Jelly, shown here, all of the sugar has been replaced with the calorie-free sweetener, Sucaryl. This modern method of sweetening provides delicious sweetness without masking the natural flavor of the fruits.

RHUBARB-STRAWBERRY DESSERT JELLY
Low Calorie

2 envelopes (or tablespoons) unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
6 cups rhubarb, cut in 1-inch pieces
2 cups water
4 tablespoons Sucaryl solution
Few drops red food coloring
1 cup Sucaryl-sweetened lemon carbonated beverage
2 cups strawberries, sliced

Soften gelatin in cold water. Combine rhubarb and the 2 cups water; cover and cook until tender; strain, saving only the liquid. Add to softened gelatin, stirring to dissolve. Add Sucaryl and cool slightly.

Stir in food coloring and lemon carbonated beverage; chill until mixture begins to thicken. Fold in strawberries and pour into a lightly oiled 1-quart ring mold; chill until set.

★ ★ ★

To serve, unmold and fill center with additional berries, if desired. Makes 8 servings. Each serving contains 36 calories; 3 grams protein; trace of fat; 6.5 grams carbohydrate.

TWO FRUIT JELLY—Take heart, all you dieters and others who must restrict sugar intake. This yummy dessert is delicious and low in calories, because it's made with Sucaryl.

Rich Cookies Are Ideal for Tea Parties

Save these extremely rich and delicious cookies to serve extra-special guests!

Melting Moments

½ cup cornstarch
½ cup confectioners' sugar
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
1 cup sifted flour
1 cup butter, softened
1 cup packaged fine grated coconut

Sift together cornstarch, confectioners' sugar and flour. Add lemon rind. Blend butter into the dry ingredients until a soft dough is formed. If dough is too soft to handle, cover and chill about 1 hour.

Shape into small balls ½- to 1-inch in diameter. Roll in coconut and place on an ungreased baking sheet about 1½ inches apart. Flatten cookies with lightly floured fork.

★ ★ ★

Bake in a slow (300 degrees) oven 20 to 25 minutes, or until lightly browned. Don't worry if butter oozes out when cookies are first in the oven; it will be reabsorbed by the end of the baking. Makes 3 to 3½ dozen.

Smelt Will Be Extra Good When Grilled

"The smelt is the 'beccafico' of the world of waters: same diminutive stature, same buquet, same superlativeness." These are the words of the famous French epicure-chef, Brillat-Savarin. He's referring, of course, to those succulent little trout-like fish found so abundantly in the North Atlantic and Great Lakes.

Just as "Beccaficos" (Italian for small birds nedded for food) are so highly prized for good eating, so smelt are considered by gourmets as one of the finest fish in the sea. The meat of smelt is oily, making them ideal for outdoor grilling, and very sweet. Their average size is seven or eight inches, making ten or eleven fish to a pound.

The National Fisheries Institute advises us that smelt are available both fresh and frozen and are at the height of their season just about now.

CHARCOALED SMELT

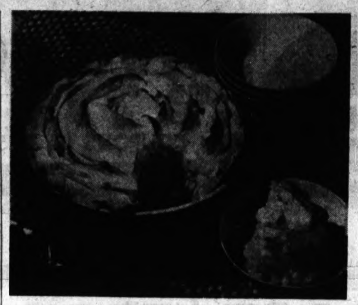

Have smelt drawn, leaving heads and tails intact. (Frozen smelt is already dressed).

Sprinkle with salt and pepper and squeeze the juice of a lemon or ¼ cup bottled lemon juice over all. Place on greased hinged wire rack. Arrange slices of lemon and cucumber on and around fish to give flavor during cooking.

Place or hold over hot embers for about 10 minutes, turning once. Serve hot.

Pan Gravy for Lamb

When you pan-fry thin lamb chops, remove them from the skillet as soon as they're cooked and keep them warm. Add a little bouillon to the drippings in the pan and make a "natural" gravy to serve with the chops. Excess fat in the skillet should, of course, be poured off before preparing the gravy.

LEMON PUDDING—Please Dad and all the family with this new version of favorite lemon meringue. It's a creamy meringue-topped lemon rice pudding idea as a brunch dessert, or a dessert to give sustenance to the menu.

Saucy Dried Beef Served on Cornbread

Cheese and beef sauce on cornbread is an easy - to-make lunch entree. Prepare cornbread from a mix.

★ ★ ★

While it bakes, combine in a saucepan 2 tablespoons of melted butter, 1(3½-ounce) package of chipped beef, ½ cup of shredded cheddar cheese, ½ cup of sweet pickle relish and 1 (8-ounce) can of tomato sauce. Heat and stir until cheese melts and sauce reaches serving temperature. Serves 6.

Stuffed Celery

Eveer use a mixture of cream cheese, tuna and mayonnaise as a stuffing for celery stalks? Add a seasoning of onion to the tuna mixture if you like. Cut the stuffed celery into finger - size wedges.

Lemon Rice Pudding Crowned With Peaks of Meringue

Most men rate lemon meringue pie right up there next to apple pie and chocolate cakes as an all-time favorite dessert. So it's good news that lemon meringue has been adapted to an easy pudding recipe.

This light, luscious pudding is the perfect finale for a light meal, because it is chock full of basic foods high in the "good for you" category, such as milk, eggs and rice. It can be varied by the addition of raisins or nutmeats to the filling.

As for the airy meringue, it has a touch of lemon, as does the pudding — just a teaspoonful of juice enough to give a hint of the flavor. Pile the meringue on the rice custard, spreading it carefully out to the edge of the casserole, so it won't pull away while in the oven. Bake it for just 8-10 minutes, or until the meringue is browned.

Lemon Meringue Pudding

2½ cups milk
½ cup uncooked rice
½ teaspoon salt
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
⅔ cup sugar
3 egg whites
1 teaspoon lemon juice
6 tablespoons sugar

In a saucepan combine milk, rice and salt; bring to boil, stirring occasionally. Cover and cook over low heat until rice is tender (about 15 minutes).

In a bowl combine egg yolks, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, lemon rind and ⅔ cup sugar. Pour small amount of hot rice mixture into egg mixture; return all to pan. Place over direct heat to cook egg (about 2 minutes); stir constantly. Pour into casserole.

In a bowl combine egg whites and 1 teaspoon lemon juice; beat until frothy. Continue beating and gradually add 6 tablespoons sugar until stiff peaks are formed. Pile meringue over rice, spreading to the edge of the casserole. Bake 8-10 minutes at 400 or until lightly browned. Cool before serving. Makes 6-8 servings.

For Tastier Slaw

Add extra seasoning when you are using mayonnaise to dress slaw. Finely grated onion, dry mustard, sugar and lemon juice do the trick.

Area Residents Enjoy Varied Holiday Activities

Residents of Sylvan Shores usually gather for a cooperative picnic on Memorial Day. Roy Linn, Sylvan Shores Drive, carries the laden picnic basket. Five-year-old twins, Scott and Sandy, are impatient and want to look inside. In the background, Mrs. Linn buttons Steven's shirt. Everyone all ready?

Pontiac Press Photos

It may look like the start of a camping trip for the Donald E. Nagel family of Woodlow, but it isn't. The Nagels are moving Friday to Battle Creek, so mom and the girls are packing the camp trailer. Malissa, 2, and Heidi, 7, hand her articles to be stowed away.

Mrs. Daniel T. Murphy Jr., West Iroquois, always takes the children to the cemetery on Memorial Day while their father makes speeches elsewhere. She bought geraniums early and heeled them in her back yard until today. Helping are (from left) Gwen, 9, Kevin, 7, and Lori, 4.

Bride-Elect Is Honored

Jeanette Christine Enfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William N. Enfield of Bow Lane was honored at a miscellaneous shower recently. Cohostesses for the event were Mrs. Ernest G. Brocher, matron of honor and bridesmaid Mrs. Robert Lumbard.

★ ★ ★

Miss Enfield was also honored at a shower given by co-workers of the medical records department of Pontiac General Hospital.

Attention, all summer brides!

If you are planning to have your wedding story in The Pontiac Press, it is time to come in for a wedding questionnaire.

★ ★ ★

This should be returned to the Women's Department at least one week BEFORE the wedding.

Pre-bridal pictures may be brought in with the wedding form. Deadline for pictures taken at weekend weddings is 8 a.m. the following Monday.

Pictures brought in after Monday deadline will appear with the story on Tuesday, if space permits.

Out-of-state weddings and pictures will be accepted within a week after the ceremony.

★ ★ ★

We will be unable to give detailed descriptions if the story arrives more than three days after a local wedding.

Please call The Pontiac Press Women's Department if you have any questions.

Not Rude to Leave the Visitor

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: A relative of my husband has recently come here from Ireland. He lives alone in a furnished room not far from us. As he doesn't know anyone here, he comes to our house several nights a week to watch television.

My husband works nights and I have to stay home with our younger son, so I don't mind his coming in, but he never knows when to go home. Some nights I am very tired and would like to go to bed early.

Is there anything I can do without hurting his feelings?

★ ★ ★

A: If he were an occasional visitor, you couldn't do anything. But to one who comes in constantly and who is also a relative, you are certainly free to tell him that you are very tired and that you are going to leave him, but that he is welcome to stay and see the end of the program.

Also, it would not be rude to remind him to turn off the television set and lights when he goes.

Q: When serving dishes are put down on the table and passed around, how can the guest of honor be served first?

★ ★ ★

A: The guest of honor is served first only when a butler or waitress is presenting the dishes. Otherwise, the dishes that are nearest to her would be passed to her first, but the dishes on the other side would be passed to her in turn.

It would be conspicuously awkward to have all others at table hand dishes around the table twice; once without helping themselves, and then again to do so.

Q: I have recently taken a job as doorman at an apartment house. I wear a uniform which includes a cap.

If a lady speaks to me do I tip my hat as I normally would do, or does this rule of courtesy not apply when in uniform?

A: A doorman does not tip his hat, but brings his first two fingers to the brim and then drops them whenever a lady — or gentleman — addresses him.

The Emily Post Institute cannot answer personal mail, but all questions of general interest are answered in this column.

Smokers Don't Have Right to Pollute Everybody's Air

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column I noticed the rather vitriolic letter from DOUG concerning his dislike of tobacco smoke.

What amazed me was your approval of a device that would retaliate with an equally disgusting odor.

ABBY

On the basis of this, if the odor of garlic is offensive, why not use a logger's peavey to cram a couple of dozen buds down the throats of garlic eaters?

And if you don't like the beehive hair-do, simply bust the wearer over the head with a hickory ax-handle.

If you are annoyed because your linoleum is being pitted by ladies' steel heels, take a scythe and slash off their feet at the ankles.

★ ★ ★

Heaven knows we all have to put up with a lot of things we don't especially like, but why not try to tolerate it with grace? If smoke is bothersome, stay away from people who enjoy smoking.

BILL

DEAR BILL: You rattled the wrong cage.

A beehive hair-do harms no one. One can step back a foot or two from another who has eaten garlic. And when you discover that your linoleum is being damaged, you can ask the lady to remove her shoes.

BUT, the air belongs to everyone. And no one has the right to pollute it.

Many people become physically ill from smoke but, sadly enough, the smoker is usually so enslaved by the habit that he neither asks nor cares whether he is offending the next person.

DEAR ABBY: In the absence of a "retaliator" for non-smokers, I'll tell you how I defend myself against the smoke thoughtless smokers send my way. I pick up a menu or newspaper and fan it back at them.

★ ★ ★

If there is none handy—I simply BLOW it back to them. My wife tells me it is extremely rude, but it is no more rude than those who would choke me with their smoke.

ED R. F.

DEAR ABBY: It's only a hunch, but observing the recent tirade you launched against smokers, I'll bet ten bucks you were recently told to give up cigarettes and are dying for a smoke.

AL

DEAR AL: Send the ten bucks to the Cancer Society, Sport. I have never smoked and never will.

For a personal, unpublished answer to your letter, write to ABBY, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Tell of Son's Birth

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lamphere (Linda Ryden) of Stout announce the birth of a son, Richard Walter, May 10.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Mansfield of Gage will be honored by their children at a 50th anniversary dinner party Saturday at the Elks Temple and a Sunday reception from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Amvets Hall. They have lived in Pontiac some 40 years and were married in London, England. The Mansfields have 9 children, 33 grandchildren and 2 great-grandchildren.

Candy for Survival Kit

CHICAGO (AP) — An armed forces nutritionist says candy is a good emergency food for a survival kit.

★ ★ ★

It won't be a professional, perfectly balanced survival ration such as the government has prepared for the armed forces, said H. B. Cosler, chief of the Cereal and General Products Branch, Armed Forces and Container Institute.

★ ★ ★

But it can play a very important role in helping to keep people alive.

Cosler said the "Food Packet, Abandon Ship," which is in Navy life boats, is composed entirely of confections.

★ ★ ★

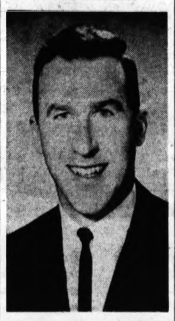

It includes starch jelly bars which are similar to gum drops, compressed mint hard candies and sugar coated gum.

★ ★ ★

Cosler advises those using confections for an emergency survival kit to hide them lest they tend to eat the candy before the survival situation might arise.

Clean Rusty Faucet

Vinegar will help remove rust from leaky faucets.

Planning Your Holiday? Here's What to Expect

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK — Bound to occur during the long Memorial Day weekend:

One of the children giving barefoot heaven its first summertime test will step on a bee.

★ ★ ★

Mom trying to get into last year's bathing suit for the first time this year will announce that the suit has shrunk. Pop brimming with chivalry will suggest that maybe mom's expanded.

★ ★ ★

The head of the house will decide it's time for some home-made ice cream like he used to have when he was a boy.

When he finally locates a hand-crank freezer, he will forget that the ice surrounding the inner section needs layers of salt to start action and then wonder why the custardy mixture doesn't thicken.

Someone will start a conversation about the good old days of the hammock and the quiet afternoons of lolling in one. Someone also will locate one at a hardware store and then find there are no trees in the new subdivision lot on which to hang it.

★ ★ ★

One of the children will smash a finger in the car door or else get it bruised when the driver operating the master control on one of those automatic windows pushes the wrong button and up goes the wrong window.

CHARCOAL COMPLAINTS

The first cookout for company in the back yard will produce numerous complaints about the faulty charcoal as reason for overdone or underdone meat.

At least three guests won't notice the chef's excuses because the hostess mixes a hefty cocktail.

The tightest pair of bermudas at the back yard barbecue will belong to the woman who weight-watches by taking seconds on the french fries.

★ ★ ★

Someone will remember that the U.S. flag should be flown on this patriotic holiday (an event most states observe) and the household finds it doesn't own one.

★ ★ ★

The first of the summer's May weekend motor trips will produce at least one case of child with car sickness quickly cured about the time the child spots a sign saying, "Turn right, next light, footlong hot dogs 15 cents."

DAD'S WISH

On the motor trip, dad driving and trying to tune in the baseball double-header above the conversation will sigh silently, "I wish I were home with television."

★ ★ ★

While he's thinking of the peace before the television screen, he will turn on to a highway exit that proves to be the wrong one and the wife will remark something to the effect that, "well, I told you about half a mile ago . . ."

The motorist ahead at the toll gate will be in the "exact change" express line, toss coin, miss, and hold up a chain of cars while she (it's never he) gets out of the car and retrieves the money.

The head of the house will announce that it's early start, say around 7 a.m., for the drive to visit relatives and finally gets behind the wheel around 10:30 a.m., after the missus has fed the kids breakfast, packed, and poured four cups of coffee into the quote early riser unquote.

Approximately one hour after the family is en route to its holiday destination, the woman of the house will ask, "Did I lock the back door?", and receive cool silence for bringing up the matter at a time too late to turn back but sufficiently early to have everyone worry until home again.

A sensible holidayer will stay home, sit on the front porch, terrace, or patio, and think, "Glad I'm not on the road. Thank you, Mr. Kennedy, for bringing back the rocking chair."

Lining Counts With Males

The insides of the raincoat count most for fall—with men who want to be fashion bright.

Music Guild Has Recital

The final recital of this season was given Tuesday evening by the Pontiac Music Guild at the Morris Music Store on Telegraph.

★ ★ ★

New officers were elected at the business meeting following the recital.

★ ★ ★

Incoming president is Charles A. Wilson. Other officers include Wendell Ecker, vice president; Amy Hogle, recording secretary; Mrs. Carl Clifford, corresponding secretary and Elda Sutter, treasurer.

★ ★ ★

Serving refreshments were Mrs. Claude Kimler, Mrs. Lester Smith and Mrs. Clifford.

★ ★ ★

A June picnic will be held at the Kennett home of Mrs. Walter Schmitz.

Child's Hostility Is Case for Psychiatrist

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: There is something radically wrong with my 4-year-old nephew. He never looks you in the face. He hardly speaks at all.

When he does talk, he doesn't put words together. But what is killing my sister is the way he treats her. He shows no affection at all.

He has wild temper tantrums if he doesn't get what he wants. Yesterday my sister tearfully said that his apparent hatred of her is her punishment for not wanting him so soon after her marriage. . . .

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Your description of your nephew suggests that he may be what psychiatrists call an "autistic" child.

Such a child is indifferent to people, to adults, other children and to himself as a person. He may not recognize his own name.

He will accept a spoon we hand him as though it had magically materialized within his range of vision and had no connection with our hand and arm.

He does respond to things, however. He will fly into a rage if a ball rolls out of his reach or a door doesn't open to his pull.

BORN THIS WAY

The best available medical opinion is that the autistic child is born with these characteristics. So, if your little nephew is one, his indifference to his mother has no relation to her feelings about him before he was born.

Perhaps you could show her this column. If she can release herself from her sense of responsibility for his behavior, she may also be released from the obligation to endure it helplessly as punishment of her and seek a psychiatric examination for him.

If her local hospital does not include a department of psychiatry, she can write to the National Association for Retarded Children, 386 Park Avenue South, New York, N.Y.

★ ★ ★

With proper training, it is not uncommon for autistic children to improve and acquire the ability to live comparatively normal lives.

But their distinguishing trait—their general indifference to people—can be dangerously misread as a specific coldness toward their parents.

This so discourages their fathers and mothers that they do not question the unaffectionate behavior but accept it, as your sister is doing, as retaliation for some mysterious sin they think they have committed against their children.

Pontiac Press Photo

Pontiac Central High School's class of 1953 will hold a buffet dinner and dance June 8 at Airway Lanes. Planning music are (from left) Mrs. John Christoff of Levee, general chairman; Mrs. Richard Hoehner of Irwin; and Mrs. Russell Bennett of Seeden. Tickets for the 7 p.m. event are still available and information may be obtained from Mrs. Christoff.

News of MSU Campus

By SUE DORMAN

Last Saturday, the 16th annual running of the Junior 500 was held. West Circle Drive is used as the course for the carts with team mates aboard and pushing from behind.

Sixty-seven entries, the largest field yet, competed in the classic springtime activity. Blue skies and excited crowds of spectators lined the streets to cheer their favorite teams on.

Thirteen new members were tapped into the MSU Blue Key, men's junior honorary, during ceremonies at the Junior 500 Saturday in front of the women's intramural building.

Dan Riley of Bloomfield Hills was among the new members to be initiated. Dan is also a member of Excalibur, men's honorary, which tapped him earlier this month.

Burton Belant was among stars in the presentation of the musical comedy "Of Thee I Sing," acting the role of a southern politician. A graduate student in dramatics, he resides on Ottawa.

Gary Wright of Nichols has been elected honorary president of Armstrong Hall. He also chairs the dorm's social committee.

★ ★ ★

Cheryl Brokow, Birmingham freshman, will head the spring Lantern presentation this week. Lantern Night Sing honors 50 outstanding senior women.

Serenaders will visit sororities and dormitories where the selected women reside. A lantern is left for each one.

President John A. Hannah will then announce the names of the honored in front of his home and his wife will present each woman with white carnations.

Help Man Select New Hat

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Women have long depended on a new hat to perk up a blue day or to provide a change of pace from a humdrum schedule of daily living.

Why not give the man in your life a lift by helping him choose a lightweight straw hat either for business or for fun?

* * *

In order to help you help him, I went to The American Institute of Men's and Boy's Wear for information.

These experts told me that different hat blocks and shapes can do much to influence a man's appearance. They add height to those who are short, compensate for prominent features and properly frame the very full face.

Men will like this year's hats. The youthful image played a significant role in styling this season's straws.

The narrower brims and the colorful bands will top off the male wardrobe with a flair. We know from observation that the shape of a hat can make a tremendous difference in the way a man looks.

Here are the rules the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear gave me:

* * *

The short slender man will want to add to his height when hatted. He should wear a hat with a well tapered crown, with not too much brim snap. Otherwise he may look overpowered by the hat.

The tall slender man should wear a hat with a low tapered crown. A contrasting band should be used to break up the vertical lines.

A moderate crown with the brim snapped full width is just right for the short plump man. This will make his face appear slimmer.

For the big fellow, a full crown and a brim which is not too narrow is indicated.

* * *

Here's a bit of interesting information.

According to one of the leading makers of men's hair pieces, the high quality hair used in the hair pieces is obtained from people who keep their hair covered when outdoors. This protects it from dust, grime and overexposure to the sun.

The expert said that when hair is exposed to these elements it quickly weathers and fades.

* * *

The everyday business hat provides needed protection on the way to work. For leisure hours, choose a hat from the great variety of "fun-straws" for a round of golf, a day at the beach or a few sunny hours in the garden. In other words . . . head for a hat!

Polly's Pointers

Tip Peps Up Chit Chat

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Do you like to read in bed before dropping off to sleep?

If you are expecting a house guest, buy two identical paperback novels, one for the visitor and one for yourself.

Breakfast conversation will never lag as you discuss the unfolding of plot and characters.—C. H.

* * *

DEAR POLLY—When you buy paint several days or weeks before using, do not put it on a shelf in the garage or basement.

Leave it in the trunk of your car and about once a week invert the cans.

The normal shaking and vibration of the car will keep the paint stirred up and you will be surprised at how little stirring will be required when you are ready to use it.—L. M. V.

* * *

DEAR POLLY—My tip is for your little girls. When their paper dolls start to bend and droop, at weak points, take a toothpick and fasten with gummed cellophane tape to the neck, knees and so on and they will stand up straight again. —Mrs. A. R.

* * *

DEAR POLLY—I have a good use for the raglan sleeves from a plastic raincoat that is no longer good enough to wear.

I take the sleeves out at the double shoulder seam and make a loop by folding over the pointed top and sewing on snappers.

These two sleeves make a pair of overpants for my little son to wear in the rain so his trousers will be dry when he gets to school.

All he has to do is slip them off, as the loops snap over his belt.—Mrs. A. P.

Share your favorite homemaking ideas . . . send them to Polly in care of The Pontiac Press. You'll receive a bright, new silver dollar if Polly uses your ideas in Polly's Pointers.

Insta!! 1963-64 Officers

Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary No. 16 held their installation of officers for 1963-64 recently.

Commander Mrs. Edna Olmsted will be assisted by Mrs. Julia Thomas, senior vice commander; Mrs. John H. Tuson, junior vice commander; Mrs. Hilda Lalonde, chaplain; Mrs. Ray C. Jewell, treasurer and Mrs. L. J. Keys, adjutant. Executive committeewoman will be Mrs. Lisle Smith.

The DAV will hold their annual convention in Bay City June 21, 22 and 23. Those delegates for the convention are Mrs. Olmsted, Mrs. Jewell and Mrs. Smith.

Mexico is three times larger than Texas, four times larger than Spain and one-fourth as large as the United States. The 1950 population was estimated at 25 million.

Congress on June 28, 1902, gave President Theodore Roosevelt broad powers to buy the French concession in the Isthmus of Panama and dig a waterway linking the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Murrow Sees Women's Role

NEW YORK (UPI) — U.S. Information Agency Director Edward R. Murrow said women cannot be ignored as a force in world affairs.

★ ★ ★

He said that any nation which does belittle such a role for females "does so at its own loss."

★ ★ ★

Speaking to the League of Women Voters of New York City at their annual convention, recently, Murrow said the USIA will institute a program this year under which women will be trained in the United States as consultants to women's organizations in their native lands.

Says Vows in Detroit

Carol Ann Kruz became the bride of Thomas David Deaton at St. Ladislaus Catholic Church in Detroit.

FAA Director Denies Charge

'Didn't Ask Priority' for Plane Take-Off

WASHINGTON (AP)—N. E. Halaby, director of the Federal Aviation Agency, denied yesterday the assertion of Dallas Mayor Earle Cabell that he had attempted to claim a take-off priority at Dallas' Love Field.

★ ★ ★

Halaby also produced the FAA Air Traffic Control tape recordings of last Friday's incident, which he said proved the mayor's version was false.

"In 30 years of flying I have never made a request for priority and — except for some great emergency — I never will," Halaby told the Associated Press.

Cabell told the City Council Monday that Halaby, about to leave Dallas for Washington, was told that his FAA plane was eighth in line to depart.

★ ★ ★

The mayor said Halaby told the control tower he had priority, and the traffic controller, an FAA employe, retorted, "Here there isn't any priority except for the President and the vice president."

Halaby's plane was finally cleared for take-off after a 15-minute delay.

The tape recordings which FAA normally obtains of all air traffic control, replayed for a reporter, contained nothing of the nature described by Cabell.

★ ★ ★

Halaby, in a telegram to Cabell, asked him to present to the City Council the complete tape and transcript of "my routine communication with Love tower."

Cabell had urged the council to go on record as supporting the Love field controller for "not giving ground to Halaby."

2 Bad Apples Sour Policy of Rehabilitation

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Heinz Poehl is convinced his policy of hiring prison parolees to help in their rehabilitation is sound. But his faith got a stern shock Tuesday.

Two parolees from the Minnesota Men's Reformatory at St. Cloud were arrested by police on suspicion of robbing a restaurant, owned by Poehl.

The pair, identified by police as George Dupuis, 24, and Berga Rasmussen, 29, were hired by Poehl when they were paroled a month ago. They also lived in Poehl's home.

"I'll have to speak to the parole officer about screening the 'bad apples' more carefully," Poehl said.

Soviets, Cuba Agree on Science Probes

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union and Cuba agreed Tuesday to exchange scientific information and embark on joint scientific ventures, including a study of the ocean near Cuba.

The agreement was reported by the Soviet news agency Tass, which said it would cover the fields of physics, geography, geology, oceanology, history, anthropology and ethnography.

Profit Sharing Pays More at Kaiser Steel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Kaiser Steel workers got an even fatter bonus check yesterday from the second month of their new profit-sharing program than they did in the program's first month.

★ ★ ★

Some 3,930 employes divided $312,000 from savings in March in the first bonus pay-off last month.

But they will divide $389,000 from savings in April. This month some 4,100 employes will take part in the bonuses.

Kaiser announced here that the payments on the average, amount ot 25 per cent of standard hourly wage rates and range from 19 per cent to 49 per cent.

★ ★ ★

The $389,000 reflects one-third of the total savings of $1,196,000 attributed to increased efficiency in April. Under the program, the company keeps two-thirds of such savings and the employes get the remainder in monthly bonuses.

Report on Smoking Hits Another Snag

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Welfare Department has announced another delay in turning out a study of the impact of smoking on health.

A spokesman said this week the report will not be ready until the end of the year because of the mass of data confronting the 10-man advisory committee.

★ ★ ★

Originally the report was expected to be ready by spring or early summer. Later, the committee set the time for late summer or early fall.

1st Chat Session for UP Citizens Set by Romney

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney yesterday announced his first private chat session with citizens of the Upper Peninsula has been scheduled for June 22 on the Northern Michigan University campus at Marquette.

The governor said he will meet with Upper Peninsula residents for two hours during the afternoon of a visit above the straits.

Each person will be allowed five minutes to discuss any subject, as in his regular Thursday-morning sessions in Lansing.

Romney had promised during his "second inagural" visit to Escanaba that he would reserve two days during the summer for meetings with citizens who were unable to get to Lansing.

Salt Mines Visited

WASHINGTON — Salt mines, contrary to the popular saying, are rather pleasant places to go back to. Some even attract visitors.

* * *

Temperatures are mild and equable the year around. Humidity is low. Massive salt pillars support the high ceilings of spacious rooms carved out in the course of mining.

Salt crystals sparkle and flash in the light.

Countless thousands of visitors have toured the vast mine at Wieliczka, Poland, which has been worked for 1,000 years, the National Geographic Society says.

A spectacular underground fireworks display climaxed 19th-century tours.

* * *

Salt mining has not always been an attractive occupation.

The first salt miners probably were prehistoric men who scraped briny encrustations near salt springs or seashore pools.

Five thousand years ago, Chinese boiled seaweed to get salt. It probably tasted terrible Later, the Chinese channeled sea water through ditches to evaporating ponds.

People living around the Dead Sea did the same. Evaporating natural brine from oceans, lakes, and underground pools remains the most widely used method of obtaining salt.

* * *

About 300 B. C., brine wells were tapped in China's Szechwan Province. Boring with primitive iron drills was difficult, and it took 40 years of tedious hand labor to sink the necessary shafts.

Some of the ancient wells are still producing salt. In England, a similar underground river of salt has been tapped for centuries with no sign of its exhaustion.

GOT BAD NAME

Salt mining got its bad name during the Middle Ages when underground rock-salt deposits were exploited. The medieval miners, some of whom were convicts, lay flat on their backs in narrow tunnels, chipping out salt with a pick.

* * *

Salt-making started inauspiciously in the American colonies. Gov. William Bradford complained that the salter sent to Plymouth was "an ignorante, foolish, self-willed fellow." This doubtful craftsman built a large shed to store salt, then accidentally burned it down.

A Dutchman who set up a salt works on Coney Island touched off one of America's first zoning disputes. Nearby residents didn't want a commercial venture in their nice residential neighborhood.

Colonial salt makers boiled down sea water in huge pots. Captain "Sleepy John" Sears of Cape Cod devised a wooden evaporation trough 100 feet long and pumped water into it by windmills. Neighbors called the contraption "Sears' Folly." They changed their tune when production soared.

* * *

As pioneers moved westward, they had to seek new sources of salt. A desperate Ohio settler swapped his rifle with an Indian for information about the site of a salt spring, violating the frontier code against arming Indians.

Late in the 19th century, an ingenious upstate New Yorker, George Smith, hit upon the idea of injecting pure water into deep rock-salt deposits to pump up artificial brine for extraction. This process now is widely used.

Underground mining remains important, however. A new mine in Louisiana contains enough salt to supply the world's needs for centuries.

* * *

Louisiana miners hope their operation will be as pleasant as that in the huge mine near Geneseo, N. Y. Its employes often are anxious to get back to the salt mine. They say a spell in the bracing, underground salt air is a sure cure for colds, asthma, and hangovers.

It's Moveable! It Steers! It's Popular

DETROIT (UPI) — The moveable steering wheel is the fastest-growing extra in the automotive industry, according to Ward's Automotive Reports.

* * *

The statistical agency said that through April of the current model year General Motors Corp.'s Tilt-away steering wheel and Ford's swing-away wheel have been installed on 217,230 cars.

Ward's said the rate in use in cars where the unit is available is becoming "fairly firm."

Demand for moveable steering wheels "has exceeded most industry expectations, particularly in the case of GM Corp., where availability of the item was a ruling factor until recently," Ward's said.

* * *

"In impact, moveable steering has had even a more auspicious advent than did power steering in 1952 and bucket seats when they began to boom in '61 models," Ward's said.

Actor Rod Taylor Plans to Marry on Saturday

Drop Receiver, Women Told

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — An Assembly committee has ruled that if a California housewife doesn't want to listen to a salesman on the telephone, she can always hang up.

The committee sent to an interim study group a bill which would have required salesmen who use the telephone to identify themselves at the beginning of the call — and be prepared to pay 10 cents for each three minutes of the housewife's time consumed.

Highway Dept. Sends Volunteer to Malaya

LANSING (AP) — The State Highway Department reports it is sending off its first Peace Corp volunteer for a 21-month tour of duty in Malaya.

Michael Herwy, 22, of Big Rapids, recently completed a three-year department work-study program at Ferris Institute. He will do highway planning and survey work in Malaya.

From Campus to Hollywood

Tony Bill an Overnight Success

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — Tony Bill is a refreshing challenge to the contention there is no such thing in show business as an overnight success.

A year ago he was on the brink of graduating from Notre Dame, wanting to get barried but undecided about his future. He had virtually completed two full courses at the university—in English and art—and he had been invited back for further study.

THOMAS

He was asked by a professor what he really wanted to do in life.

"I think I want to be an actor," said Tony, who had performed in every school play he could get into.

* * *

The professor wrote a letter of recommendation to film director Leo McCarey, whom he had once met. Tony followed up with a visit to Hollywood — his first, although he grew up in San Diego, 130 miles away.

McCarey was impressed and called the top man at the William Morris talent agency.

ECHELONS

"I was handed down through echelons until I came to an agent who talked to me," Tony recalled. "Within 15 minutes I was in the office of Norman Lear and Bud Yorking to discuss playing Frank Sinatra's brother in 'Come Blow Your Horn.'"

Tony Bill, who had never acted outside of school, found himself playing a leading role with such pros as Sinatra, Lee J. Cobb and Molly Picon.

* * *

Now the producers are knocking at his door. He is set for "The Carpetbaggers"—"a small part, but that's all right with me; I want to learn." Then he goes into "Soldier in the Rain," in which he is billed below Jackie Gleason and Steve McQueen.

How does all this feel?

"Great," said Tony, a dark-haired, thin-faced, personable 22. "At least I like everything about it so far. In a few months when people start recognizing me, I may feel different about it."

TONY AND TONI

His success solved one problem: getting married. Last December he married Toni Gray, a Hammond, La., girl whom he met while she was attending St. Mary's College near Notre Dame. Yes, that makes them Toni and Tony Bill, but he is not concerned.

"It doesn't confuse us," he said. "And whoever calls us on the phone knows which Tony he wants to talk to."

Rate of Crime Down in Detroit

DETROIT (AP)— Detroit's crime rate was down 6.1 per cent for the first three months of this year, compared with last year's first quarter, according to a report released by Police Commissioner George Edwards.

The report was compiled by the St. Louis Police Department and compared crime rates in various U.S. cities in the first three months of 1963 and 1962. Edwards said FBI standards were used in the study.

The report showed crime up 10 per cent in Los Angeles and 6.5 per cent in New York.

* * *

The most marked decline (42 per cent) reported for Detroit was in aggravated assault, with a drop from 1,220 cases in the first quarter of 1962 to 708 for the same month of 1963.

Murders were down 20.6 per cent; burglaries, 2.3; and grand larcenies, 7.6.

* * *

Rape, however, increased by 12.9 per cent, robberies 8.8 per cent and car theft 4.8 per cent.

Airlines Can't Get Together on Campaign for Air Safety

By ROBERT J. SERLING
UPI Aviation Editor

WASHINGTON — An airline committee has failed to reach agreement on a proposed $5-million advertising campaign aimed mainly at selling the public on air safety, it was learned today.

SERLING

United and American, the industry's two domestic giants, led the opposition to the plan, United Press International was told.

The committee, composed of representatives from most of the scheduled airlines, was established a few months ago to study the feasibility of an industrywide advertising campaign.

The study was ordered by the board of directors of the Air Transport Association after the board itself tentatively rejected the idea.

The committee will report back to the board next month. While the board theoretically could go ahead no matter what the committee recommends, the latter's disagreement indicated the plan stands little chance.

Even a compromise proposal for a smaller $3-million campaign failed to muster unanimous support.

"The idea's not dead but it's a mite sick," one airline official commented.

United and American's opposition was said to be based on these factors:

WOULD BEAR BRUNT

● The larger airlines, like United and American would bear the brunt of the cost even though they already have expensive advertising campaigns of their own.

● There is little reason to believe that the $3- to $5-million expenditure would result in enough additional business to make the campaign worthwhile.

Significantly, United and American are two of the carriers who firmly believe that the so-called mass "untapped market" is mostly a myth.

Other airlines argued that a sizable chunk of the 80 per cent of the population which does not fly is simply afraid.

They favored an industry campaign aimed at such Americans, and asserted that the airlines are not aggressive enough about the comparative safety of air travel.

Sugar Sells Across Border

LAREDO, Tex. (AP)—The price for a five-pound sack of sugar has climbed as high as $1.05 in Laredo. In Nuevo Laredo, across the Rio Grande in Mexico, it sold for 29 cents.

As a result, numerous shoppers have started importing sugar for personal use. U.S. customs collector Charles Kazen doesn't anticipate a major boom, however. You can't bring in more than 100 pounds of sugar per trip.

Commies Steadily Closing Remaining Escape Hatches

LONDON (AP) — The Communists are relentlessly closing the escape hatches through which over 10 million refugees have slipped to freedom since the end of World War II.

Once over a million a year made it. Now there is only a trickle flowing through cracks in the Red walls.

★ ★ ★

In the month before the Communists walled off Berlin, 30,000 East Germans escaped to the Western half of the divided city. Now about 12 persons a week succeed in defying nearly impossible odds to reach West Berlin.

★ ★ ★

In the five months following the abortive 1956 uprising, 170,000 Hungarians poured into Vienna, once a haven for fleeing East Europeans. Now two or three Hungarians a month make it across the 200-mile border with Austria, mostly in winter when frozen ground offers protection against land mines.

★ ★ ★

During the Korean War two million North Koreans risked their lives under gunfire from both sides, racing across heavily mined battlefields to South Korea. Today the boundry is tightly sealed, halting the refugee flow.

Last fall more than 10,000 refugees from Red China crossed into Hong Kong and the nearby Portuguese colony of Macao every month. Last month the figure dropped to 2,000.

In North Viet Nam and Chinese-ruled Tibet the flight of refugees has all but stopped.

SOME KILLED

There are no accurate estimates of the number killed or injured while trying to escape. About 50 persons have lost their lives trying to flee to West Berlin since the wall was built. Some were shot. Others drowned while trying to swim canals or lakes. A few died jumping off buildings.

Communist military power, however, is not the only reason for the dwindling rate of refugees.

The slump in desertion from Red China, for example, also arises from increased food production on the Chinese mainland and tighter border controls clamped down by British authorities to keep over-populated Hong Kong from starving.

Others have preferred to live under communism. Since 1959, 79,281 Koreans living in Japan have chosen to be repatriated to Communist North Korea.

Still, as indicated by the more than 250,000 Cuban exiles in the United States, the flight from communism continues. Here is a breakdown by areas:

GERMANY

Since the West German government began registering refugees, in 1949, 2.6 million have escaped to the west. Government officials put the total since 1945 at 3 million.

West Berlin was the biggest escape hatch for East Germans until Aug. 13, 1961, when Communists built the wall. Today an average of 60 refugees a week reach freedom, either by overcoming the wall in Berlin or by slipping across the border between East and West Germany.

Although precise figures are kept secret the average is remarkable. Ten thousand men guard the 26-mile long wall and the 70-mile-long-border, aided by 125 watch towers, 200 pillboxes, hundreds of camouflaged foxholes and thick barbed wire fences.

EASTERN EUROPE

Austria caught the brunt of the exodus from Eastern Europe. Between 1945 and 1962, two million ware refugees, displaced persons and refugees from communism poured in.

From 1956 to 1962 a total of 216,862 came from Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Romania and Bulgaria. Over 36,000 stayed, 900 remained in camps run by Austria and the United Nations. Others emigrated to Western countries.

During the summer tourist season dozens of East Europeans defect in Vienna and ask for asylum.

VIET NAM

There is no wall along the banks of the peaceful little Ben Hai River, but Viet Nam's huge refugee migration is over.

Between 1954 and 1955 an estimated one million persons left North Viet Nam to settle in the non-Communist south.

★ ★ ★

Loudspeakers on the southern banks of the Ben Hai River blare propaganda daily across the border stream. A few come south. Some also swim north—mostly Communist agents pursued by government authorities.

The rate of refugees arriving in South Viet Nam, crippled by its war against Communist guerrillas, is less than 100 a year.

CHINA

Almost four million people have left mainland China since 1949 and more than half took refuge in the British colony of Hong Kong.

The Hong Kong policy of turning back refugees from Red China touched off widespread criticism abroad but authorities, troubled by the island's population of 13.5 million, say they will open their doors to refugees only if foreign countries agree to accept them.

There is no steady flow of refugees from Communist China to Formosa. Most of the 146,000 mainland refugees came to Nationalist China via Hong Kong or Macao.

CUBA

Within the Communist camp only Cuba allows refugees to leave partly in return for U.S. food and medical shipments.

By May 10, 163,411 Cubans had registered at the refugee center in Miami and 59,341 had been resettled in other areas of the United States. Estimates of Cuban refugees in the United States range from 250,000 to 385,000.

About 25 exiles arrive each week by small boat. Special ships and planes bring in larger numbers. The U.S. Health Education and Welfare Department gives refugees up to $100 a month for families and $60 for individuals.

Red Chinese Soldiers Get Mao's Doctrines to Study

HONG KONG (UPI) — The dissemination of the writings of Mao Tse-tung among the Chinese population is more than ever a priority party objective and nowhere is this considered more important than in the armed forces.

From the top to the bottom, Red China's 22.5-million-man army is based on the foundation of Mao's interpretation of Marxism-Leninism.

This Marxist interpretation, rooted in the guerrilla struggles of the 1930s, stressed the necessity of intimate linking of the armed forces with China's massive peasantry in what the Communists call a "people's liberation army."

★ ★ ★

Now this attention to Mao's doctrines appears to outweigh purely military training in order of importance.

Newly conscripted recruits into the army are being given a thorough education in the written works of Mao before they undertake anything else.

★ ★ ★

According to China Youth News, the daily newspaper of the central committee of the Young Communist League, the study of Mao's writings by new recruits was instituted by "party committees at various levels and the party branches of companies."

Senior military officers apparently have not had a say in determining the priority of courses through which the recruits are put.

This would appear to be a main point of possible friction between the army and the party.

★ ★ ★

What is known from the China Youth News and other mainland press articles is that the first requirement of the good soldier is to have "good political thinking."

And in China today, this means thinking the way Mao thinks.

'GUIDING LIGHT'

Mao is to be regarded as a "guiding light, a lighthouse illuminating their (the young soldiers) revolutionary advance."

Moreover, the conscripts are told that "when you come across a new word, consult the dictionary; when you come across problems, consult the selected works of Mao Tse-tung."

The emphasis on Mao's written word is so intense that soldiers who can read are directed to carry the books around with them all the time so that they can read them whenever they have time."

Junior Editors Quiz on— ISLANDS

QUESTION: How do islands rise out of the sea and animals come to live on them?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Many islands are created by volcanoes which through successive underwater eruptions (1, 2, 3) make a broad base under the surface and finally break through (4) creating an island where there has been none before (5).

Soil is created on the island by erosion so that plant seeds brought by birds or other means take growth, and these would help to make still more soil. In this way many of the South Sea Islands (6) were formed.

The insects on such islands were probably blown there by the wind and the few wild animals may have arrived by floating masses of vegetation. In many cases islands of this kind have later submerged; then coral begins to grow in a ring around the summit and continues until the ring appears above water, forming the circular kind of island called an atoll.

It is thought that the islands of the Southwest Pacific (Melanesia) represent the remnants of an ancient continent which has sunk below water.

Life of a South Sea island is easy-going; coconuts provide good food and a delicious drink and there are many shell fish and real fish to be caught with little effort.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: The coconut is obviously too heavy a seed to be blown through the air, so how does this valuable tree make its way from island to island? Make a guess. Give up? The fruit floats and waves toss them onto land, where the plants quickly root and grow.

Catholic Priest on Probation for Homicide

A Roman Catholic priest from Toledo Monday was placed on two years' probation for negligent homicide and ordered to undergo psychiatric care, pursuant to institution for persons with alcoholic problems.

★ ★ ★

The Rev. John T. Hayes, 45, was given the sentence by Oakland County Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore in a case stemming from the auto accident death last Sept. of 20-year-old Thomas Edwards of Royal Oak.

Rev. Hayes pleaded guilty May 9 to the negligent homicide charge. He was critically injured in the two-car collision at a Ferndale intersection.

★ ★ ★

Judge Moore specified that Rev. Hayes undergo treatment for alcoholism at Guest House, Lake Orion.

Water stored behind the Hoover dam would fill four-fifths of Lake Erie.

Gets Fine, Probation for Rape Conviction

Albert R. Cecil, 39, Tuesday was sentenced to three years' probation and $150 probation costs for statutory rape of a 15-year-old Pontiac girl.

★ ★ ★

Cecil, who pleaded guilty to the charge May 14, was sentenced by Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore.

A truck driver from Rhode Island, Cecil gave his address as 360 Auburn Ave. when he was arrested for the April 2 offense.

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)— Mrs. Henry Marks is a cautious soul. When she and her husband went on a skiing weekend with a group of friends she decided not to risk breaking a leg by getting on skis.

So she stayed behind in the cabin and filled the dishwasher to clean up the breakfast dishes. The soap sudsed over onto the floor, Mrs. Marks slipped — and broke her ankle.

End of Term-Paper Season

White House Breathes Easier

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON — Backstairs at the White House:

President Kennedy's staff can breathe a bit easier now that the high school and college graduation season is moving into high tide and most of the term papers are either written or near completion.

★ ★ ★

Each spring the White House is deluged by hundreds of requests for material which students want to use in preparing year-end themes and other scholastic compositions.

The sheer weight of numbers makes it impossible for the most part to comply with these requests.

★ ★ ★

The staff still remembers a classic received last year from a junior high school boy: "Please send me all you have about presidents."

UNREALITY

Unfortunately, requests from some graduate students show about as much appreciation of reality as the junior high school boy's entreaty.

★ ★ ★

Graduate students working on master's degrees often send members of the White House staff long and involved questionnaires which to answer would require at least a full day or two of intensive effort by Press Secretary Pierre Salinger or Theodore C. Sorensen, special counsel to the President.

In fact, answering these long documents in any detail would mean that Salinger and Sorensen could do little else in the spring.

A White House reporter recently received an eight-page questionnaire from a man working on his doctorate.

Many of the questions were so lopsided politically that the reporter felt the aspirant doctor of philosophy was more of a causist pamphleteer than a scholar. Whereupon he threw the questionnaire away and forgot it.

About three weeks later, the journalist received a long-distance telephone call. It was the scholar demanding immediate return of his completed questionnaire.

LENGTHY CHORE

The reporter tried to be civil about the matter and explained he simply did not have time to undertake such a lengthy chore.

The scholar was indignant.

"Well, you take the time," he said, "or I'll come to Washington and stay after you until you do. Stationed at the White House, your opinions are valuable for historic research and you should not be allowed to withhold them."

★ ★ ★

The conversation at this point became a bit blunt. To date, the insistent scholar has not showed up at the White House press room.

Pair Is Sentenced for Troy Burglary

Two 21-year-old men were given identical two- to 15-year prison terms Tuesday for their nighttime burglary March 6 of Troy Cleaners, 2945 Rochester Road, Troy.

Sentenced were Paul P. Kedrow, 27 Custer, Clawson, and Gary R. Piccalo, 2830 Miner, Troy. The sentence was handed down by Circuit Judge William J. Beer.

★ ★ ★

Kedrow and Piccalo pleaded guilty May 14 to breaking and entering the cleaners and taking a cash register containing $40.

MSU Prof Appointed Nigeria School Chief

EAST LANSING (UPI)—The U.S. Agency for International Development has announced the appointment of Dr. Glenn Johnson, Michigan State University agricultural-economics professor, as vice chancellor at the University of Nigeria.

Johnson has been directing a team of MSU educators at the Nigerian school.

New capsule aids digestion, helps prevent STOMACH TENSION indigestion, gas, heartburn, before distress begins!
Because of today's fast, hectic living pace, we often suffer indigestion, gas, heartburn and other uncomfortable forms of painful stomach tension. But now, a new digestant enzyme capsule, called MIAZYME can help prevent these conditions before they begin.
If you properly digest the food you eat, chances are you will not suffer stomach distress. This is due to the action of enzymes, manufactured in the digestive process. But when these enzymes fail before par, you are apt to suffer indigestion, gas, bloating, heartburn, etc.
Why risk the distress of stomach tension! Join IDL MIAZYME

BATTER UP — A scene similar to the above will be repeated countless times today as the Parks and Recreation-Pontiac Press High School invitational Baseball Tournament begins this afternoon at Jaycee No. 2 diamond. The second annual affair has four games slated with Northville and Pontiac Central leading off at 1:30 p.m. The final game today will begin at 7:30 p.m. between Pontiac Northern and Avondale.

Preps Seek Baseball Trophy

Four Contests Slated Today on Jaycee Field

Press-Recreation Dept. Meet Draws 8 Teams for Three Days

Eight high school baseball teams will occupy the Jaycee No. 2 diamond today with the hope of winning the attractive 1963 Oakland County Invitational Championship trophy three days from now.

* * *

Four games, beginning with the 1:30 p.m. Pontiac Central-Northville clash, are slated for today. The four winners then will play a semifinal doubleheader tomorrow beginning at 3:30 p.m.

The championship game is listed for 7:30 p.m. Saturday under the lights. It will be preceded by a consolation game at 5:30 p.m. to decide third place.

Northville is the defending champion in the second annual tournament, co-sponsored by the Parks and Recreation Department and The Press.

* * *

The Mustangs and PCH are paired in the upper bracket. The survivor this afternoon will meet the 3:30 p.m. Royal Oak Kimball-Rochester victor in the first game Friday.

LOWER FOUR

The lower bracket pairings have Clarkston meeting Waterford Kettering at 5:30 p.m., and Pontiac Northern playing Avondale at 7:30 p.m. The winners will clash at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

* * *

Kimball with its 13-0 record and an outstanding hitting team is the pre-tourney favorite. Northville can not be counted out. The Northern-Avondale contest under the lights could be the day's best game.

Both PNH and the Yellow Jackets have solid mound staffs. Expected to hurl tonight are Roger Hayward and Lynn Thorpe, two sophomores who have achieved considerable success together in the summer recreation leagues.

Each team has timely hitting and is near the top of its league. The winner of the Huskies-Avon clash probably will reach the tourney finals due to its strong second line hurling.

Inexperience and/or weak second line pitching will likely handicap the efforts of Kettering, Clarkston, Rochester and PCH.

* * *

Tickets for each session are 75 cents for adults and 35 cents for children. For $2, fans may purchase a ticket good to all three days' action.

Double Impression for OLSM Pitcher

Larry Janiszewski will remember the day before graduation at Orchard Lake St. Mary preparatory school probably as well as he remembers today's graduation.

* * *

Pitching his final game for the OLSM Eaglets, he dropped a heart breaking 2-1 verdict on two unearned runs in the seventh inning to Ann Arbor St. Thomas in the Catholic League playoffs.

Another game of interest saw Romeo finish its season with a 5-4 verdict over Kettering, the Bulldogs' 12th success after falling to Utica in the season's opener.

Janiszewski had a one hit shutout entering the bottom of the final inning. Ann Arbor put runners on second and third with two out aided by errors.

* * *

With two strikes on Emmett Byrne, the OLSM right-hander forced a weak pop fly off his opponent's bat and the ball just cleared the shortstop's head for a game winning two-run single.

John Stolnicki's single and Larry Bialobrzewski's double brought in the only Eaglet run in the sixth inning.

Upon his return to the OLSM campus last night, Janiszewski received the most valuable senior athlete award at an honors convocation.

At Romeo, the Simunic brothers were too much for the Kettering twosome of Bob Bogert and Rick Pankey. Bogert bombed a second-inning home run for the losers' only run, and Pankey hurled probably his best game of the season, fanning eight and permitting five hits and one walk.

* * *

Sophomore Mike Simunic stopped the Captains with four hits and two walks while fanning five. He tripled and scored the tying run in the second inning, and then rode the one-run cushion provided by brother Keith's fourth inning home run to the win.

Weber Defeats Carter in NY

NEW YORK (AP)—Dick Weber of St. Louis and 18-year-old Judy Audsley of Kansas City won the fifth annual Bowling Tournament of Champions at Madison Square Garden Wednesday night.

* * *

Weber defeated Don Carter, 751-574 and Miss Audsley edged Bobbie Wiener, a New York amateur 569-561.

Weber opened with 10 strikes in a row before leaving the 4-7-9 split and wound up with a 285 to Carter's 192. Weber then followed with games of 212 and 254 while Carter, suffering from a split thumb, closed out with 167-215.

* * *

For Mrs. Wiener it was a heartbreaking setback. She had victory almost clinched when she missed the 10-pin spare on her final roll. The victory for Miss Audsley was her first major title.

Three-time defending champ Billy Golembiewski of Detroit was third with Pat Frasca of New York, a schoolteacher, fourth. In the women's section defending titleholder Shirley Garms was third and Marion Ladewig fourth.

The winners each received $2,000 with the runnersups getting $1,000.

YOU CAN'T MEAN IT!—Cincinnati pitcher Bob Purkey argues with umpire Augie Donatelli after being tossed out of last night's game with San Francisco. Plate umpire Shag Crawford thumbed Purkey out and the Reds' hurler is appealing to Donatelli. Other Cinci players are Daryl Spencer (left) and Chico Cardenas.

Wills Rejoins Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Dodger third baseman Maury Wills plans to rejoin his teammates Monday in Houston. He has been sidelined since May 21 with a painful calcification of a toe joint.

Faul's Trance Doesn't Work on Angels

Rookie Blasts Two Base Hit in 4-2 Victory

Series Ends Tonight in Los Angeles With Bunning on Mound

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Detroit righthander Bill Faul may practice hypnotism in his spare time, but the Los Angeles Angels were wide awake last night as they downed the Tigers, 4-2, in the second game of a three-game series here.

Charley Dees, playing his second major league game, broke a sixth-inning tie with a three-run double that brought the Angels to victory before 8,000 fans at Chavez Ravine.

It was the 23-year-old Faul's first appearance against the Angels as he attempted to stage a repeat of Tuesday night's performance in which the Tigers — led by Mickey Lolich —handed the Angels a 3-1 defeat.

The Angels, trailing 1-0 after four innings, caught up when Albie Pearson opened the fifth with a homer. It was only the sixth homer for the Angels in 20 games this season.

Bill Moran and Bob Rodgers started the Angel sixth with singles and Pearson walked away. Then Dees hit a slicing liner over third base and all three runners scored as left fielder Rocky Colavito chased the ball into a corner.

* * *

It was Dees' second major League hit. His first, also a double, scored a run Sunday.

Right-hander Dean Chance went 7 1-3 innings for the Angels, giving up seven hits and two runs, and got his fourth victory in eight decisions. Julion Navarro finished up.

Faul, who is now 2-1, allowed eight hits and all four Angel runs in 5 2-3 innings. At times, he has undergone hypnosis to improve his game. Don Mossi finished the game for Detroit.

* * *

The Tiger runs came in the fourth when Dick McAuliffe singled to right field to score Al Kaline, who had walked, and again in the eighth as Bill Bruton scored on a Kaline single.

The Tigers and the Angels wind up the series today with Hank Aguirre or Jim Bunning expected to take the mound for Detroit against Bob Turley for Los Angeles.

Redskins Pay High Price for Pat Richter

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Pat Richter, Wisconsin's most honored all-around athlete in more than three decades, has put baseball and basketball behind him for a career in professional football.

The All-America end signed a one year contract Wednesday with the Washington Redskins of the National Football League and was set to report early in August.

* * *

Contract terms were not disclosed, but Washington coach Bill McPeak had been reported ready to go as high as $40,000 in a combined salary-bonus offer.

To sign the 6-foot-5½, 229-pound Wisconsin star, the Redskins had to outbid the Denver Broncos of the rival American Football League and at least five major league baseball teams.

Richter was the Redskin's No. 1 choice in the NFL draft, and McPeak said he was "extremely pleased to get him on the dotted line."

Baltimore Streak Snapped

A's Trip Leading Orioles

By The Associated Press

"They may have picked us for ninth place, but we're taking our time getting there," says Ed Charles, the poet laureate of the Kansas City Athletics and the author of their latest triumph.

The 28-year-old third baseman with the quick pencil and the big stick stroked a bases-loaded single in the 11th inning that gave the fifth place A's a 5-4 triumph over American League leading Baltimore Wednesday night and snapped the Orioles' winning streak at nine games.

* * *

One of the more consistent elements on the surprising A's, Charles came to Kansas City last year in a trade with Milwaukee. He immediately chased Wayne Causey to the bench, hit at a .288 clip in his first season in the majors and proved a valuable hitter in the clutch.

1-2 PUNCH

Now that Causey has pushed his way back into the line-up with a .350 batting average, the A's have a solid 1-2 punch at the top of the batting order and have held onto their place in the first division despite prolonged slumps by Norm Siebern and Jerry Lumpe.

* * *

Lumpke stroked a three-run double and Siebern connected for a homer against the Orioles, but it was Causey and Charles who combined singles in the 11th for the clincher. Charles wound up with a 3-for-5 performance and raised his average to .296.

* * *

The loss, only the Orioles' second in the last 16 games, trimmed their edge to three games over the second-place New York Yankees, rained out at Boston. Baltimore's streak had been the longest in the majors this season.

Minnesota's surging Twins equalled that, getting No. 9 in a row by walloping woeful Washington 10-1 as Vic Power hit a grand slam homer and Earl Battey a three-run shot in support of Dick Stigman's two-hit pitching.

* * *

The A's struck in the 11th on a walk, Causey's single, an intentional pass to Gino Cimoli and Charles' game-winner. That gave the victory to reliever Bill Fischer, who stopped the Orioles on one hit for 4 2-3 innings to bring his record to an eye-opening 7-1.

KEY DOUBLE

Lumpe's bases-clearing double gave the A's a 3-0 lead in the third, but the Orioles moved ahead in the sixth when Jerry Adair singled in one run, John Powell's triple accounted for two more and a sacrifice fly by Jackie Brandt brought home Powell. Siebern's homer in the bottom of the sixth tied the score and left the hero's role for Charles.

Stigman, now 4-5, was touched only for a first inning triple by Minnie Minoso and a third inning double by Ed Brinkman. He got all the support he needed from Power and Battey as the Twins put together their longest victory string since they won nine in a row in 1949 as the old Washington Senators. The new Senators aided the Twins cause, issuing 13 walks, and committing three errors.

'500' TRACK—This aerial view shows the Indianapolis Motor Speedway jammed with parked cars — on the infield and outside — this morning. About 250,000 fans started pouring into the stands and infield at dawn today for the Memorial Day 500-mile race.

All Is Ready for 500

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Scotsman Jimmy Clark and 32 of America's hardest charging race drivers took 15,000 horsepower in their hands today in a 500-mile auto ace that promised superlatives beyond anything in 46 past Memorial Day classics.

Weather prospects were good—but that's traditional. There hasn't been a postponement in years and only one in history.

The field came out of two qualifying weekends with average speeds of 149.028 miles per hour over the 2½-mile Indianapolis Motor Speedway oval built in 1910 for 75 m.p.h. Parnelli Jones, of Torrance, Calif., did 151.153 m.p.h. for a 10-mile record to win the coveted pole position.

BIG PURSE

There was a chance that the purse, already the world's biggest for an auto race, might reach $500,000.

Huge crowds at the time trials, estimated up to 200,000 on the day Parnelli ran, indicated a possible fantastic massing of speed fans for the race proper. The Speedway never discloses its attendance because early publicists puffed it to ridiculous figures.

Much of the increased interest came from an international touch and its return to respectability after being boycotted by auto manufacturers since 1958.

The Ford Motor Co. broke the ice with the first direct participation in the engine-shattering grind since the pre-World War II era. It joined forces with Colin Chapman of London, builder of rear-engine Grand Prix cars, to produce the Lotus-Fords which Clark and Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif., wheeled to the starting line.

HILL WITHDREW

Three other drivers from the world racing circuit didn't make the program. Champion Graham Hill of London withdrew for lack of practice. Pedro Rodriquez of Mexico City and Masten Gregory, American living in Paris, made qualifying runs too slow to stay in the field.

The Old World had another representative, however, in Jean Marcenac of the Novi team, who came to the 500 in 1920 as a riding mechanic with the French Ballot team and elected to stay in America. As consultant to Andy Granatelli's crew, he saw the redesigned, supercharged Novis grab three starting spots for the first time.

Cage Meet Called Off

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—After a nine-year run in which it proved to be a box office flop, the Richmond Invitational college basketball tournament will not be held this December.

Richmond, the host team for the tourney each year, will play in the Watauga Invitational this year at Johnson City, Tenn.

All Oakland Set Saturday

Track Meet Draws Large Entry

Only 28 of 118 entries will be left in the running when the four preliminaries of the All Oakland County High School Track Meet are completed Saturday afternoon at Ferndale.

A total of 18 will vie for six spots in the finals of the 120-yard high hurdles when the preliminaries start at 3 p.m. Twice that many will contend for six starting berths in the low hurdles.

The mortality rate will be even higher in the dash events.

Eight finalists will be selected from 32 contenders in the 100 and again in the 220.

All other running events will take place when the finals start at 7 p.m.

There will be flights in the 440 because 40 thinclads are entered. The top six places will be determined by the best times. The same will hold true for the mile and 880 relays.

LARGE FIELD

There are 39 entries in the mile. This will create a big jam for the opening gun, but less than half this number will be in contention by the half-way point.

* * *

Flights will probably be used in the 880 because 37 are entered. The top six will win points.

The field events will begin at 3 p.m.

Pontiac Central is favored to successfully defend its team championship. Other contenders are Birmingham Seaholm and Bloomfield Hills.

The best times among the entries in each event:

High hurdles — Charlie Humphrey (PCH), 14.5; Low hurdles —Das Campbell (Hazel Park), 19.2; 100—Orville Mullins, (Kettering), 9.9; 220 — Mullins and Kish (Ferndale), 22.1; 440—Ford (Kimball), 50.2.

* * *

880 — Pat Godfrey (Walled Lake), 1:58; mile—Dennis Hunt (Farmington), 4:27.7; mile relay—Bloomfield Hills, 3:30; 880 relay—Pontiac Central, 1:31.7.

* * *

Pole vault — John Stewart, (PCH), 13-6¼; high jump—Curtis Ring (Hazel Park), 6-4; Shot put—state champion Jack Harvey (Seaholm), 57-10½; broad jump—Ring, 22-2½.

Motorcyclists Compete

Eight Pontiac area motorcyclists will compete today in the Sportsman Motorcycle Hillclimb on Challis Road, one mile north of Brighton.

There will be three trophy winners in each of four classes.

* * *

Starting time is 2:00 p.m. Competing from the area will be:

Roger White of Drayton Plains; Fred Leach, Bud Graham, John Engleman, and Bill Huttula of Pontiac; Bud Hainbaugh and Jay Lathum of Clarkston and Ron LaBarge of Keego Harbor.

Tarnished Sports Heroes Concern One-Time Great

NEW YORK (NEA) — Great sports heroes glisten like shiny idols to the less gifted.

From their feats are fashioned young dreams.

When the images become tarnished and the dreams troubled, it is a matter of grave concern to a little old man who once was the biggest name in sports.

John J. Hayes cannot understand an era which produces such things as football players who are suspended for betting, coaches accused of collusion, basketball players convicted for fixing games and a great athlete who died from a self-inflicted overdose of drugs.

In 1908, Johnny Hayes, now a 77-year-old resident of North Bergen, N.J., was as big a headline grabber as Gordon Cooper. He won the marathon in the Olympic Games in London when Dorando Pietri of Italy, who finished ahead, was helped across the line after he collapsed and was disqualified.

"Dorando did absolutely nothing wrong," Hayes recalled in his home just across the Hudson River from Manhattan, "and the people who helped him were well-intentioned, I'm sure. But what happened was wrong and he was disqualified. That's the way it was then — do wrong, and you paid for it.

"Remember what happened to Jim Thorpe. After he had won almost everything in sight in the Olympics of 1912 in Stockholm somebody found out he had once played semi-pro baseball for eating money. He was stripped of all his honors. Again, swift and sure punishment.

"In the Black Sox baseball scandal, Buck Weaver didn't take any part of the fixes. He merely failed to report knowledge of it. Yet, he was barred from baseball for life."

DISPUTED FINISH

The disputed finish of the marathon created so much controversy that Hayes and Forando were rematched at the old Madison Square Garden in New York. Hayes lost.

"Apologists try to explain Big Daddy Lipscomb taking to drugs by telling me he was coming toward the end of his athletic career, which disturbed him," said Hayes. "A lot of guys — in fact all of them — have come to the end of their athletic careers, but they didn't take to drugs."

After Hayes was defeated by Dorando at the Garden he went into business. He is an active food broker in New York.

"I don't think today's athletes fully realize that big responsibility goes with being a public figure," Hayes continued. "Kids look up to them. They are minor gods to the youngsters. You can't let the kids down by doing wrong things.

★ ★ ★

Hayes is not quite sure what has caused what he terms the general letdown in moral standards in athletics.

"I don't want to sound like a professional old - timer, a holier-than-thou guy, but I do think it is time we stopped and took stock," he said. "Athletes owe it to the people who made them popular and who worship them to have the highest moral standards.

"They called my day the Age of Innocence," John J. Hayes recalled. "Today they say that with kind of a snicker, as if it was something funny.

"Maybe it is — but I wish it was back with us."

Tourney Starts Friday

500 Golf Course Takes Stomping

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indy 500 today will be followed quickly by another feverish race — workers tackling debris and turf damage before the $55,000 Speedway Festival Golf Tourney Friday.

★ ★ ★

As soon as an expected 250,000 race fans straggle from the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, 100 grounds keepers must restore some semblance of shape to the nine holes of the Speedway course within the 2½-mile racing oval.

Three previous 500 tourneys have been held the week before the big race.

Par still will be 35-36—71, but the flat, vulnerable course should play a lot tougher after the stomping and automobile driving on the fairways by the whooping race throng.

It's a big project just to collect the beer bottles, paper cups, empty lunch cartons and other littering on the vast infield's greensward by the picnicking race fans from shortly after dawn until about 5 p.m. EST race day.

The turf, softened by heavy showers earlier this week, also may have tire imprints, not to mention other non-golf produced divots.

Since Doug Ford won the first two 500 Festivals and Billy Casper triumphed last year with a record 72-hole total of 264—20 under par, another big change has been wrought.

★ ★ ★

A plush, 2 million dollar new clubhouse and hotel have replaced an ancient wooden clubhouse.

The new complex took a bite out of the nine outside the track, reducing championship yardage from 6,605 to 6,467.

The expected field of 150 pros and 20 amateurs has some notable absentees—mainly PGA money leader Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player and defending champion Casper. Casper reported he had an ailing hand. The others just decided to pass up a try for the $10,000 top prize.

★ ★ ★

The four-day event closes next Monday, climaxing a hectic golfing stretch by the touring pros. They also had to toil the usual Monday rest day this week in a 36-hole finale of the rain-delayed Memphis Open and they play 36 holes of U.S. Open qualifying Tuesday.

Bay City Handy Loses 2 Coaches

BAY CITY (AP) — Two head coaches have resigned from Bay City Handy High School.

The board of education has accepted the resignations of Jim Reinebold, 33, head basketball coach, and Howard Adams, 34, head track coach and football line coach.

★ ★ ★

Reinebold, who has coached basketball here for two years, is returning to his native South Bend, Ind., and a job as Taft High School baseball coach and counselor.

Adams, a native of Jackson, will become head football coach at Sturgis High School.

No successors have been named, school officials said.

Teeing Off

By BRUNO L. KEARNS

Walled Lake High School golf coach Leo Folsom just smiles when someone jestingly accuses him of going all the way to Germany to recruit his players.

When Walled Lake won The Pontiac Press Invitational Golf Tournament Monday for the second time in four years, Folsom proceeded to introduce the members of his team to the dinner guests at Pontiac Country Club.

"We had to go to Germany to get this member of our team," said Folsom in introducing Veit Pagel.

Pagel is attending Walled Lake as a foreign exchange student and he was highly instrumental in helping the Vikings to the class A regional championship and The Press tournament title.

Before talking to Veit, one must learn to pronounce the name. The natural English pronunciation would be Vy-it. But the V has the F enunciation in German so very often he is called Fy-et.

This gets Pagel shook up even more. "It's "Fight", in correct pronunciation," he notes, "you know just like you Americans yell, fight, fight, fight."

VEIT PAGEL

In Hanover, Germany, his dad is part owner of a golf course and Veit has been playing golf since he was nine.

"I have been playing the smaller British ball," he says, "and this is the first time I have ever used the American ball."

"How do you compare the two," he was asked.

"I score better with the small ball. I carry an average of 75 in Germany. Here it has been around 78," he pointed out.

Veit felt that hooks and slices are more prevalent with the American ball and the British ball allows a straighter line.

★ ★ ★

"I certainly enjoyed playing in this country and with the American ball," he added, "and I'm going to try this ball on some of the German courses."

Like his parents, Veit loves and lives golf. He hopes in a few years he will make the grade on Germany's tournament trail.

For him we offer a cheer, "Veit, Veit, Veit."

SHORT PUTTS

Get an ace while playing golf alone and you may have trouble proving it.

Kent Perry of Drayton Plains went out himself Sunday to Davisburg to play a round of golf.

At the 5th hole, he caught up with a threesome and they agreed to let him tag along and make it a foresome.

At the 7th hole, Perry decided on a 6-iron for the 147 yard par-3 hole and it dropped into the cup for an ace.

Al Shanard, James Spatts and Jim Bullock were the trio of happy witnesses on the tee. Perry had enough witnesses however, there were three more golfers on the green who called for foursome to tee off.

He finished with a 44-39—83 for the first round, but offered a sigh of relief that his tale of his first hole in one can be substantiated and not taken as just another "big fish story."

FOREST LAKE TOURNEY

Forest Lake Country Club will join the list of clubs staging invitational tournaments.

Blaine Eynon, co-chairman of the Forest Lake tournament committee has announced that July 11-14 are the dates set for Invitational.

The tournament will allow members to invite guests as partners and it will be played in flights with 18 teams in each of five flights.

★ ★ ★

Many of the club tournaments are played under various systems. The type of play for the Forest Lake will be the alternate shot Chapman system.

In this case, both players of a team drive on each hole and each will play the second shot with his partner's ball and then the choice will be made of one ball with play continuing on alternate shots.

Stiff Fine Handed Pirates' Clemente

AP Photofax

RECORD STEAL—Luis Aparicio steals second well ahead of the throw against Kansas City last night for his 15th theft of the season. This is a Baltimore base stealing record. The Athletics won, 5-4, in 11 innings.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente has been fined $250 and handed a five-day suspension for jostling an umpire, unwillingly joining one of major league baseball's most select groups.

★ ★ ★

The 1961 National League batting champion was fined and suspended Wednesday for actions in Tuesday's night game against Philadelphia cited by league President Warren Giles as "the most serious reported . . . in several years."

Clemente thus joins a host of well-known players, managers and coaches fined and suspended. The list includes Babe Ruth, Ted Williams, Leo Durocher, Charlie Dressen, Don Drysdale, Yogi Berra, Mickey Mantle, Whitey Ford, Billy Martin and Gene Conley.

DOUBLE TROUBLE

Clemente was penalized for twice bumping Umpire Bill Jackowski after he was called out on the tail end of a doubleplay in a close play at first base. He was ejected for the jostling, and later explained:

"Every year I lose 15-20 points on close plays at first base. I seldom argue unless I feel the umpire is wrong. I have good record in league office but this is worst year for umpiring I have ever seen. There are only two or three good umpires in league."

Clemente, who hit .351 in 1961, will miss six games, including today's holiday doubleheader against the Phils, and four games against the New York Mets.

★ ★ ★

Giles said the suspension was limited to five days "because of the assurance given me by Mr. Joe Brown, Pirates general manager, that the club would not pay the fine and would not reimburse you directly or indirectly."

Brown said "whether Clemente bumped the umpire intentionally or not I do not know." However, he added, "we have rules and we have to abide by them."

Punitive measures have been against some of the game's top names for similar actions and for even more flagrant violations.

$5,000 FINE

Ruth was tagged with the heaviest fine in baseball history—$5,000—by New York Yankees Manager Miller Huggins in 1925 for "insubordination."

The heaviest suspension was dealt Durocher, banned for the entire 1947 season by Commissioner A.B. (Happy) Chandler for "conduct detrimental to baseball."

Other fines and suspensions were levied against Drysdale, for throwing pitches at Cincinnati ballplayers two years ago; against Williams, for spitting at fans during a Boston Red Sox game in 1958, and against Conley last year, for leaving the Red Sox without permission.

★ ★ ★

The biggest multiple fining came in 1958 when six members of the Yankees—Mantle, Berra, Ford, Martin, Hank Bauer and Johnny Kucks—drew a combined fine of $5,500 for engaging in a night club melee.

The largest fine ever levied was the $12,000 Yankee players Ruth, Bob Meusel and Bill Piercy were fined by then commissioner, Judge K. M. Landis, for breaking the rule against post-season barnstorming in 1921.

The $12,000 represented the combined World Series shares of the three players, about $4,000 each.

Travel 'Balk' Called Against Bo Belinsky

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Angels are accusing one of their own pitchers of balking.

Naturally, it would have to be Bo Belinsky, the predicament-prone playboy who has resisted the allurement of the travel posters and decided that Hawaii is his idea of no place to go.

★ ★ ★

The Angels, inspecting their pitchers' records the other day, discovered Belinsky had lost seven times as many games as he had won and concluded that these credentials entitled Bo to join their Hawaii farm club in the Pacific Coast League.

Belinsky was not exactly transported by the idea but conceded he'd heard worse and agreed to go. That was Saturday. Tuesday, he dropped in on Angel general manager Fred Haney. That was when Bo balked.

Having hinted to others that the movies were anxious to exploit his talents, Belinsky told Haney he'd like to be placed on the voluntarily retired list.

BOSS BALKED

That was when Haney balked. If Belinsky went on the retired list, he couldn't play baseball again for at least 60 days, even if he changed his mind about retiring. So Wednesday night Haney sent American League President Joe Cronin a wire asking that Belinsky be placed on the disqualified list.

This is the list you put a player on when he signs a contract and refuses to abide by it. While he's on the list, the player draws no salary.

★ ★ ★

But if he repents, he doesn't have to wait 60 days to play. "If Bo decides to go to Hawaii," Haney said. "I can send another wire and have him reinstated right away.

"There's no question in my mind," Haney said, "that he can pitch big league ball if he'll give at least one-third of his thought to playing ball . . . really and truly, all I'm trying to do is protect the value we have in this man. I think this boy can pitch. . .

"There is no animosity between us. I like the guy. I just think he's not getting the benefit of his own abilities by his activities off the field."

Haney said he, Manager Bill Rigney and pitching coach Marv Grissom agreed it would be "best for Bo to go out and find himself and get his control back."

The Angeles, meanwhile, without Belinsky, have won two of three. Charley Dees, who came up from Hawaii when Bo was ordered down, broke a sixth-inning tie with a three-run double Wednesday night as the Angels defeated Detroit 4-2.

Another Big Race for Candy Spots

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Candy Spots, the California colt who was beaten in the Kentucky Derby, but bounced back to win the Preakness, faces a new challenge today in the $100,000-added Jersey Derby at Garden State Park.

The forecast is for an off track and Candy Spots has yet to race in the mud. In addition, Get Around, who won the Withers Mile in the mud at Aqueduct, tops the small group which will try to upset the California pride in the 1⅛-mile race.

Get Around passed up the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness, but was second in the Blue Grass to Chateaugay who upset Candy Spots in the Derby.

Electrical Storm Hampers Air Race

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Competitors in the 1,420-mile Women's International Air Race battled rain and electrical storms Wednesday but none dropped out in daytime sky cruises that started at Detroit and suspended overnight at Chattanooga, Cincinnati, Albany, Ga., and Hollywood.

Florida headquarters reported that Bernice Steadman of Flint, Mich., one of several who landed at Chattanooga, was in first place under the race's handicap system.

Donna Blake of Detroit reached Hollywood but her position in the standings was figured about 20th. Audrey Lehr, of Xenia, Ohio, got into Albany, Ga. two minutes before the sunset deadline imposed on all the contestants for each day's flying.

The race is expected to end Thursday. It began at Welland, Ont.

Siebern Not for Sale

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Pat Friday, general manager for the Kansas City Athletics, said Wednesday night "we're not in the process of swapping Norm Siebern. We'd have to get a terrific deal before we would let him go."

Cassius Silenced by TV Commentator

LONDON (UPI) — Like any fast-talking circus barker Cassius Clay appreciates an audience.

Yesterday, heavyweight contender Clay, boxing's gift to the world of poetry and oratory, stormed out of a London television studio when an interviewer told him "you talk too much."

★ ★ ★

Clay, who bills himself as the "Louisville Lip," boasted to TV interviewer David Coleman that he once had former heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson "out on his feet" during a sparring session.

Cassius, who has received rough treatment by British boxing writers since his arrival here to prepare for a fight with British heavyweight Henry Cooper, apparently irritated Coleman with his answers.

Prep All-Americans Wooed by Coaches

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The big list of most wanted young men is not issued by the F.B.I.

It is the roster of Scholastic Magazines' All-American High School Basketball Squad.

★ ★ ★

Every college coach wants the 35 round ball experts on this year's list and they are being hustled like a guy in a celluloid collar at the race track. Some already have been committed after being rushed by 50 or more seats of higher education. Others, more coy, are still being wooed and given red carpet treatment.

The 32 seniors, two juniors and one sophomore range in height from 5-11 to 7 feet and a quarter inch. The space race is still on, with overall altitude jumping from 6-4 4/5 from 1962's 6-3 3/4.

The biggest and best looking — according to students of the sport — is Lewis Alcindor of Power Memorial, New York City's Catholic school champions. Alcindor, 7 feet and a quarter-inch tall, is just 15½ years old — and still growing. He is the second sophomore to make the magazines' All-American. The first was Jerry Lucas, who came from Middletown, Ohio, High to be All-American at Ohio State.

SHOT BLOCKER

Described as a Bill Russell type, Alcindor is called a fantastic shot blocker, jumper and deft pivot man. Double and triple-teamed, Alcindor averaged 19-1 points and 15 rebounds in leading his team to a 27-0 record in a tough league.

★ ★ ★

Nick Pino, of St. Michaels High in Santa Fe, N.M., is the second highest alp on the list, standing a flat 7 feet. He set a state single game mark of 80 points on his way to compiling a 33-point average.

Pat Riley, a comparative 6-4 midget from Linton High in Schenectady, N. Y., accepted the bid of Adolph Rupp to go to Kentucky, after carefully considering 80 offers.

David Latin of Worthington High School in Houston made the list last year as a junior. It is reported that all 6-7 of him has been pledged to the University of Wichita.

★ ★ ★

Not all the youngsters from 27 states and the District of Columbia were being pursued by coaches before they made this year's roster. The magazines' compilers sift fine players out of the woodwork at high schools so tiny or obscure even the college coaches don't know about them.

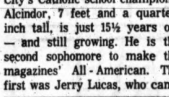

Eddie Miles, who made the 1959 team from Jones High School in North Little Rock, Ark., wound up an All-American at Seattle University.

★ ★ ★

The 1963 squad lists Henry Watkins, from Pearl High School, Nashville. The rush fro him that started when his name popped up on the Scholastic team died abornin'. He was committed to join two high school playmates, Vic Rouse and Leslie Hunter, at Loyola of Chicago, the NCAA champions.

★ ★ ★

When the college coaches learned of this, the gnashing of teeth sounded like somebody was stripping the gears on a 10-ton truck.

SPECIAL AWARD — Virla Landon of Pontiac received a special award last night for her accomplishments in roller skating competition, including being the only Michigan amateur holding a gold medal for both figures and dance.

Skater Is Honored for 10-Year Record

Retiring competitive amateur roller skater Virla Landon was presented with a special award by Burt Anselmy at the Roll-adium "Spinning Wheels" program last night.

An inscribed desk pen set was presented in recognition of Miss Landon's roller skating accomplishments. In 10 years of skating she won or placed in 25 events.

She is the only amateur skater in Michigan to hold a gold medal in both figures and dance. A gold medal is the highest proficiency award an amateur skater can receive.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence D. Landon, 2938 Voorheis, Virla will be a sophomore at Western Michigan University this fall.

Mays' Hitting Sets New Low

By The Associated Press

Imagine! Willie Mays with the "good field, no hit" tag.

Wondrous Willie is suffering through what is undoubtedly the roughest slump of his career at bat. But the San Francisco Giants' brilliant center fielder still shows the old-time sparkle on defense.

After a third straight hitless game Wednesday night that dropped his average to .243, Mays made a clutch contribution with a spectacular catch in the bottom of the ninth inning at Cincinnati. He crashed into the wall in center, holding on for a one-handed grab of pinch hitter Ken Walter's long drive that helped preserve the Giants' 5-4 decision over the Reds.

Slugging sensation Ed Bailey rapped a three-run homer and Billy Pierce did a tight bit of relief pitching in the Giants' victory, which boosted their National League lead to 1½ games over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Dodgers' game with the Braves at Milwaukee was called because of heavy fog in the top of the seventh inning with the score tied 3-3 and will have to be replayed as part of a doubleheader July 21.

WINNING HOMER

In the only other NL game, Bill White's homer with one out in the last of the 10th gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 3-2 victory over Houston.

Bailey, who is batting .329 and has 29 runs batted in on 28 hits, powered the Giants into a 5-1 lead when he poled his 10th homer with two on in the sixth inning. The Reds picked up a second run against Juan Marichale in the seventh, then the right-hander was replaced by Pierce after Marty Keough's two-run homer with one out in the eighth.

Pierce saved Marichal's seventh victory in 10 decisions, holding the Reds hitless the rest of the way.

California has gone big-league—in major-league baseball, football, baseball—and now, as the number one shotgun state. California, which now has some of the greatest tigland game hunting in America, recently took over from Minnesota as the greatest duck-hunting state.

with the aid of Mays' dazzling catch.

It was a game filled with rhubarbs. Loser Bob Purkey was ejected in the fourth inning for arguing about a pitch, Chuck Hiller was thrown out for heckling from the Giants' bench, and Manager Al Dark of San Francisco got into a heated dispute with the umpires over a call.

UNDER PROTEST

As a topper, Manager Fred Hutchinson of the Reds announced he was playing the game under protest because Marichal had thrown more than the regulation five warmup pitches in the fourth.

White's homer nailed down the Cards' sixth victory in their last seven games, breaking a tie created when the Colts scored a run in the eighth on doubles by Brock Davis and Al Spangler. Howie Goss had a homer for Houston, his third in two games and eighth of the year.

The winner was Bobby Shantz and the loser was Don McMahon, both in relief.

1964 Olympics Big Goal

Donna Swims for More Records

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) — A pert blonde teen-ager who rewrote Japan's swimming record book in 1962 may revamp world standards in 1963 because she's working out four times as much.

★ ★ ★

The queen-of-swimming candidate is Donna Elizabeth deVarona, a 16-year-old American who is so devoted to her sport that the family moved its residence nearly 40 miles last fall so she could be near her favorite coach.

Donna — or Liz, as her family and friends call her — already has held three world's records, still claiming the 440-yard individual medley mark along with six American standards.

Now she's aiming for the 1964 Olympics at Tokyo. But she won't reveal her stopwatch goals and isn't even sure in what events she'll compete.

MAY QUIT

"I'll keep on until 1964," she says. "After that, I'll probably quit."

Donna's typical day is significantly different from last year, when she worked out only about one hour a day four days a week.

"I'm up at 6:45, grab some breakfast and rush to the pool for an hour before 8:15. Then I go to school until 3, get back to the pool to loosen up and work out from 4 until 6 or 6:30." Then it's home to finish schoolwork.

★ ★ ★

"I wanted to move down here ever since I met George Haines," she says, referring to the successful coach of the Santa Clara Swim Club and 1960 U. S. women's Olympic team.

"Finally daddy and I and the rest of the family decided to do it." So the deVarona's left their home in Lafayette last August and father Dave deVarona established a new insurance office in neighboring San Jose.

Donna swims 2½ to 3 miles and spends three or more hours in the pool six days a week. "I swim everything from 500's down to 50's," she explains. "Nothing different from before—just lots more."

Dozens of trophies, plaques and awards, plus 10 pounds of medals, decorate the suburban deVarona home and testify to Donna's success. Many of the mementos are from her age-group tour of Japan in 1961 and her Japanese tour with the U.S. National team in 1962.

Donna has gained far more from swimming than victory awards.

★ ★ ★

"I think my swimming has added to everything," she explains. "I've been to places I'd never go otherwise and met people I'd never have met. I don't think I'm missing out on a thing.

"It doesn't seem like swimming takes that much time — I simply have to be more organized than when I'm not swimming. Just swimming under George is one of the greatest things there is, though I can't pick out what it is about him that makes him so great."

Crowd Stays for Fireworks

Fog Stops Braves-Dodgers Game

MILWAUKEE (AP)—As veteran air travelers, the Los Angeles Dodgers and the Milwaukee Braves should have known better. It's wise to come equipped with radar when encountering soupy weather.

The Dodgers and Braves started a game, a fiasco all its own, ended up in a 3-3 tie of blind man's bluff Wednesday night as a thick fog closed in on County Stadium.

The ceiling was about 200 feet when the umpires mercifully decided to protect the outfielders and called time with two out in the Los Angeles seventh. After a 52-minute delay, the game was called and all marks entered the record book.

The largest crowd of the season in Milwaukee — 29,166 — was bolstered by 17,198 fans who paid 39 cents each through a chain grocery promotion. They sat out the fog and stayed for the fireworks.

★ ★ ★

The special display of the post-game fireworks barely could be seen. Showers of colorful, according to the contract, sparks appeared as distant satellites. Occasional reports of resounding booms guaranteed the fact the fireworks were in progress.

The fog swept into the area at game time. The Braves promptly denied they had imported it from London in an attempt to earn a draw with the second-place Dodgers.

In the Milwaukee fourth, the umpires decided to see for themselves. They went to the outfield after asking Braves coach Dixie Walker to hit a couple of fly balls. Walker, a former National [illegible] and "fouled off" his first attempt.

"That shows the way things have been going for us," said Eddie Mathews. "Even our hitting instructor can't hit the ball."

The umpires agreed to continue the game with the Dodgers in front 3-0 on a second inning run and Frank Howard's 10th homer with a mate aboard in the third. of 18 scoreless innings and tied the score in the sixth after Hank Aaron led off with a double on a line drive which left fielder Tommy Davis lost in the mist.

MORE STUDY

With a runner on second and one out in the Dodger seventh, Mathews, a veteran third baseman moved to left field, had to make a circus catch of a fly ball by Ron Fairly. The umpires then were convinced the fog couldn't be played through—with or without knives.

Milwaukee Manager Bobby Bragan handled the fungo duties instead of Walker. One of Bragan's hits was drilled to left field. As the umpires gazed toward the sky, the ball hit one on the foot. It was a grounder.

Michigan Man Named to Head DU Committee

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Ducks Unlimited, waterfowl conservation organization, has elected Carsten E. Tiedman, Grosse Pointe Farms, as chairman of the executive committee.

★ ★ ★

The board of trustees appropriated $600,000 for the development of "duck factories" in the prairie provinces of Canada, where more than 65 per cent of the continent's migratory waterfowl raise their young.

★ ★ ★

The organization now has spent a total of $8,750,000 to rebuild or restore 630 "duck factories" in Canada. U.S. law prohibits the use of duck stamp funds for this purpose outside the territorial borders of the United States.

YOUR BOAT

SPEED is important. Keep boat just into wave ahead.

FOLLOWING SEA

Running before a sea offers a greater challenge than meeting it head-on. It is a splendid test of seamanship.

In a following sea, your boat must be kept from yawing, which happens when the stern is not kept straight on course but is thrown from side to side.

Maintaining the right speed is most important. Your boat must be kept just into the wave ahead, in the trough far enough ahead of the one astern to keep it from breaking over her transom.

If you get too far into the wave ahead, your boat may mount it and rush down the slope into the trough. The stern may go out of the water at the crest, taking the propeller and rudder with it. If this is allowed to happen, you have lost control temporarily, the boat has no power grip on the water, and you run the risk of broaching or turning broadside to the waves in the trough.

* * *

Slowing down to let the sea get ahead of you ordinarily will keep your boat from yawing to the broaching point.

* * *

Sometimes a long line floated from the stern will not only check the boat's speed, but it will help keep her on a straight course. Care should be taken that the line does not foul the prop.

* * *

Running at an ill-timed speed which causes the propeller to dig in deep at one point, then race as it comes out of the water, not only offers the possibility of getting into difficulties but also imposes considerable strain on your motor.

Gold Cupper Newest Flare in Power Boating

Newest flare in high speed power-boating could be an unusual and rare craft called The Gold Cupper.

It is unusual because its power consists of two engines, one for tremendous speed and the other for slow mooring, and also because its three-point Gold Cup type hull seats four persons in plush comfort even when it is rooster-tailing at more than 150 miles an hour.

It is rare because there is only one such creation in existence.

TV's Route 66 used the boat as a "prop" in one of its spring programs, probably at the instigation of Guy Lombardo who admittedly is "bugs" about the boat and would like to drive it in this summer's Gold Cup race July 7 at Detroit.

Lombardo will. Right now the boat belongs to Bernie Little, of Tampa, Fla., who has announced that he is entering it in the big race at Detroit and that Guy will drive it.

* * *

Detroit was the first to exploit The Gold Cupper. That was last summer when it was titled "The Commissioners Boat for the Spirit of Detroit Trophy Race, the Commissioner being Lee Schoenith who also is chairman of the Unlimited Commission of the American Power Boat Association.

The name Gold Cupper had not been tacked on her when Detroit became the first exploitive adopter.

FASTEST

It has been called "The Fastest Pleasure Boat in the World."

Not to this day has a cost figure been disclosed. What Tampa's Little paid has never been announced. Guesses have been made, up as high as $50,000 but something like half that sum would be among the educated estimates.

One glib visionary, purposely out of line, remarked: "It is a prestige boat and it ought to have a prestige price—if I were marketing it, I'd put a $150,000 tag on her, a thousand dollars for every one of the 150 m.p.h. she's rated to go.

The Gold Cupper, completed in the spring of 1962, is the conception of a Detroiter who knows the high price of speed on water and a lot of the hydrodynamics and aerodynamics associated with going fast without too much risk of either sinking or flying.

He is Robert B. Evans of Grosse Pointe, Mich., whose holdings include a precision machinery company in Chicago, a power and tool firm in Detroit, a big hotel in Palm Beach and the Staudacher Marine Industries, of which he is chairman of the board and Frank Lester (Les) Staudacher is president.

Staudacher at the moment is still in Alpena General Hospital recovering from injuries he recieved May 16 when the jet-powered Miss Stars and Stripes II struck a log, lost her rudder and piled up in a woods near the shore of Hubbard Lake. Staudacher managed to get out of the cockpit before Stars and Stripes smashed the shore but bones in his arms, legs and a shoulder were broken. Les had just completed a test run through one kilometer trap and had attained a speed of more than 280 miles an hour when the accident happened.

Staudacher is the builder of the Gold Cupper. He is the same man who has built most of the Gold Cup boats since World War II in an expanded plant near the Staudacher home at Kawkawlin, Mich.

Arro Nine Nicked, but Moves Into 1st

Arro Realty yielded a run—in fact, three of them —but it had plenty to lean back upon and today shares the top spot in the city Class A softball league with Harvey's Colonial House.

The realtors whipped Dave's Boys, 9 - 3. Another American League contest saw Elks 810 win its first by topping Martin Associates. Two unofficial games ended in victories for Local 653, 3-2 over Motorcar Transport, and Berry Door, 14-0 over Plant No. 2 Local 653.

Bob Vincent's home run leading off the second inning was the first run scored off Arro this season in three games, but the winners scored three times in the following inning on the booming bats of the Hayward boys to put the game out of D-Boys' reach.

Bud Hayward doubled, Don Quackenbush singled, Bill Hayward doubled, and brother Al tripled before anyone could be retired in the third inning. Arro added four more runs in the fourth with the aid of another double by Bill H., and singles by Quackenbush and Al Hayward.

It was a good pitching duel in the "A" game at Beaudette Park. Martin scored an unearned run in the first and Elks tied the score on Chuck Graves' triple and Sid Gregory's single in the third.

Perc McConner for Martin and R. D. Jacobs for the winners then matched goose eggs until one out in the top of the seventh when Grant caught a hanging curve and laced it to the fence for a triple.

Roger Nosek followed with a three-bagger in the left field corner. When he came in on a passed ball, Jacobs had all the runs he needed. He permitted only two hits and had fine defensive support from shortstop Al Smith.

Jacobs fanned three and walked three. McConner yielded seven hits and walked four, but also fanned nine batters. Both teams are 1-2.

Only a second inning walk to Jim Gaylock spoiled Darrel Herron's bid for a perfect game against Plant No. 2 Local 653 in a practice session last night at Northside. His Berry Door teammates pounded out 14 hits for 14 runs.

Burly Mondy and Bob Fraser teamed to outduel Charles Gist in a practice game between Local 653 and Motorcar Transport. Lloyd Frazier had a homer for the winners.

Michigan Now Third in Fishing Licenses

Michigan, a onetime leader in fishing license sales, placed third in the nation for 1962, far behind California which has held a firm grip on the No. 1 spot in recent years, according to figures just released by the U.S. Department of the Interior.

* * *

Some 1,115,135 licenses and stamps were purchased in this state last year for $2,712,550. California anglers paid $6,247,470 for a total of 3,495,742 licenses and stamps. Minnesota was second with 1,308,850 licenses and stamps at a cost of $2,494,790.

* * *

From 1948 through 1952, Michigan topped all states in total sales. Since then, it has wavered between second and fourth place. Its number of individual fishing license holders totaled 927,627 last year.

Light-Heavy Champ Sees Fast Ending

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — If things go as anticipated, world light-heavyweight champion Harold Johnson will point for richer goals once he gets by challenger Willie Pastrano here Saturday night.

The 34-year-old titleholder from Philadelphia is a 9-2 favorite to retain his crown in the 15-round nationally-televised bout in the Las Vegas Convention Center.

"I don't think we'll have any trouble. Johnson will take him out in the early rounds." That was the word from Pat Olivieri, the champion's manager who does practically all the talking for Johnson.

"We have three or four big money offers but naturally we won't make any decisions until after this fight," Olivieri said.

TWO CONTENDERS

He mentioned no names but reportedly Mauro Mina, the No. 1 contender and South American champion, is due to watch the fight in person. And the European champion, Italy's Giulio Rinaldi, is anxious for a title chance in Rome in the fall.

The 28-year-old Pastrano, from Maimi, Fla., is through with his hard training but Johnson plans at least one final tough tuneup Friday.

"Our guy looks great. He's whipped better fighters than Johnson," said trainer Lou Gross. "We have no weight trouble. Pastrano was 172¾ after Wednesday's workout."

Detroit Track Site of Crash

Jet Powered Dragster Hits Retaining Wall

DETROIT (AP) — The jet-powered Wingfoot Express crashed into a retaining wall at the Detroit Dragway Wednesday night during a high speed run in preparation for an assault on the world's land speed record.

Driver Chuck Hatcher of California was not injured and track officials said damage appeared limited to the car's body and front axle.

* * *

Track spokesmen said the crash occurred as Hatcher completed his third run of the evening. He released the car's drag chute in an attempt to slow for a stop, but the chute came off and the car struck the wall at the end of the 1¼-mile track.

A track official said car owner Walter Arfons, of Akron, Ohio, indicated he expected to keep a date in August at the Bonneville Salt Flats in Utah in a bid to break the current record of 392.2 miles per hour set by John Cobb of England.

* * *

The car won't be repaired in time for a scheduled run at Bonneville next month, officials said.

The car was timed at 192.30; 169.17; and 199.54 miles per hour in its three runs Wednesday night.

Firing over a dog with a pistol or lightly-loaded gun while he's eating may help condition him to a gun in the field.

Drag Races Tonight at Detroit Dragway

The racing side-by-side of two 8,000 h.p., 200 mph jet propelled "monsters" built by Walt Arfons of Akron, Ohio, highlights the Memorial night racing shows at Detroit Dragway, Sibley at Dix. The racing of two of these flame trailing jets on wheels has never before been attempted in this part of the country. The matching of these jets three times each evening is the feature of the full dragster, competition and stock car meets.

* * *

On Saturday night, June 1, Jim Marsh, a frequent top eliminator at the Sibley Road Track, faces "Mad Greek" Chris Karamesines from Chicago, Illinois.

Karamesines, who has been making records for himself around the country, drives one of the "prettiest" aluminum bodied, long nosed dragsters in the sport. His "Chizler" runs on a mixture of nitro methane fuel that is highly explosive.

Stuart Tries New Glasses for Batting

BOSTON (AP)—First baseman Dick Stuart of the Red Sox, who once slugged 66 home runs in one season in the minors, says he'll try out a pair of eye glasses in batting practice today before the Boston-New York Yankee game at Fenway Park.

Having his troubles at the plate this spring though he has cracked eight home runs and driven in 29 runs, Stuart obtained the spectacles Wednesday night. He had planned to don them for batting practice, but rain washed out both the practice and the game.

"This is my idea, not the club's," said the former Pittsburgh slugger, acquired last winter from the Pirates. "My vision is a little blurred when I use the left eye only. But my eyes really don't give me trouble. It's just an idea."

Deer Outlook Bright After Breakup Survey

The Conservation Department looks for a sizeable fawn crop and another good season for Michigan deer hunters next fall, judging from the way things appear at spring breakup time.

Its optimism, qualified to some extent until spring and summer surveys are completed, is tied in with the fact that whitetails generally came through the winter in better shape than expected physically and numerically.

Solons Admit Words Before Speaking

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Members of Congress do not say what they have said until they say that's what they said.

WEST

This is one of the things that set members of Congress apart from us ordinary mortals.

When you and I waft a remark into the thin, translucent air, it is, for good or bad, gone forever, never to be retrieved. As Omar Khayyam, the poet, put it:

"Nor all your piety nor wit shall lure it back to cancel half a line, nor all your tears wash out a word of it."

Obviously, Omar Khayyam, the poet, never met Omar Burleson, the congressman.

In the transcript of debates and certain other congressional proceedings, Burleson and his colleagues can indeed cancel half a line. Yea, half a line and more.

Neither piety nor wit is needed to lure back a transcript, and, so long as they stay within the rules governing such practice, they can wash out words as they see fit, without shedding a single tear.

The ability of congressmen to confound Khayyam was pointed up last week in a press release put out by Chairman Wayne N. Aspinall, D-Colo., of the House Interior Committee.

TRANSCRIPTS SLIP

Aspinall was exasperated by the fact that some unedited transcripts of a hearing on legislation relating to Puerto Rico had been reproduced and were being widely quoted on the island.

I am not familiar with the details, but apparently someone jumped to the conclusion that what was said at the hearing actually was said.

In reality, as Aspinall pointed out, the committee members were only speaking tentatively and perhaps not at all.

* * *

"I want to make it clear for the benefit of the people of Puerto Rico that any quotations taken from these transcripts are not official and are subject to revision," the chairman declared.

Newspapermen who regularly cover the House and Senate are accustomed to having quotations shot out from under them. It is regarded as an occupational hazard.

Khayyam to the contrary, entire segments of debate that were clearly audible in the press galleries have been left unsaid in the official record.

SUSPENDED IN LIMBO

It could be that the instance cited by Aspinall involved persons who were unaware that a congressman's remarks can be suspended in limbo, either to be later freed or to perish there.

Congressmen may, of course, have valid grounds for expunging or otherwise editing their remarks before they are committed to posterity.

I suspect, however, that in most cases they are in the same boat with another poet whose name I have forbotten but who wrote:

"How can I know what I think until I hear what I say?"

Close Popular Lake Even During Holiday

PAW PAW (AP) — Even if weather permits, there'll be no swimming at popular Maple Lake here over the Memorial Day weekend.

The Village Council has closed the lake to swimming for one week after learning that the water has become dangerously polluted by sewage after a State Highway Department project fractured a line from the disposal plant.

Opening lead—♣K

By OSWALD JACOBY

What would you do with the South hand after East opens with one club? Bobby Wolff of San Antonio decided to jump right to four hearts. This was an all-purpose bid. If his partner had anything, Bobby expected to have a play for four hearts. If his partner didn't Bobby could not be hurt and probably East and West would have a game.

JACOBY

Actually East and West can make four spades, but it is doubtful if they would get there in any event.

East cashed three club tricks and continued the suit. Most players would discard a diamond and hope that East would hold the ten of hearts.

Most of you readers won't see any other play for the contract, but Bobby did. He felt certain that East would hold both missing kings for his vulnerable opening bid and in that case Bobby could make the hand by means of that rare play called the criss-cross squeeze.

So he ruffed high and ran out all his trumps discarding down to the blank ace of diamonds in dummy.

East had to go down to three cards also. That meant he couldn't guard both his kings and all Bobby had to do was to decide which king was unguarded. Then he played the appropriate ace and crossed back with the other ace to make the last trick with the right queen.

ANSWER TOMORROW

Astrological Forecast

By SYDNEY OMARR

For Friday

"The wise man controls his destiny . . . Astrology points the way."

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Communications clear up. Previous tangles eliminated. You are able to put across point. Use day as testing period. Means probe, analyze, ask questions. Be RECEPTIVE.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Good day to deal with the public. Go places, see people. Especially good for selling. Social occasion tonight finds you sparkling. Enjoy yourself! But remember . . . there IS tomorrow.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Words of wisdom may emanate from mouth of child. Listen! Be willing to learn. Permit intellectual curiosity to soar. Tonight fine for socializing. Vibrate friendship.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Important that you communicate thoughts, ideas. Exchange opinions with stimulating company. Take time to relax tonight. Avoid those who are gloomy, over-complaining. Conserve energy.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Keep level head. Means don't toss caution to winds in celebrating. Have fun, but remember responsibilities, resolutions.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Attitudes of independence indicated. Determine what you REALLY desire. Don't act merely to impress others. Forget status symbols. Have "faith" in yourself and be true to principles.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Lunar cycle moves up. Doors previously closed now open. Make new contacts. Try unique, creative approach. Fine evening for dining out, entertaining. Your charm is APPRECIATED.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Avoid impulsive action. Don't lose temper. What you hear may be distortion of facts. Have faith in friends, loved ones. One who confides problem trusts you. RESPECT that trust.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Check actions with your marital, business partner. Recent barriers can be eliminated with patience, understanding. If not hampered by false pride, day can be PROFITABLE.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): You may feel certain lack of security, but this is TEMPORARY. Relax with loved one. Make plans for future, including vacation travel. Participation in community, civic project favored.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Good day for journey. Check directions, information. Be sure of basic facts. Smooth sailing indicated if there are not too many details. View project as whole . . . not in bits, pieces.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar 20): Convictions strengthened. You proved your victorious steadfastness. You've "sought affinity." Now, you become "sought after." Remain calm. Arrange creative budget. Means don't be afraid to spend for QUALITY products.

IF FRIDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are filled with nervous energy! Idea is to channel energies. You love challenges.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Recent puzzle on international scene is clarified, and some false claims exposed.

Valuable Treasures Recorded

Microfilm Brings Scholastic Bonanza

NEW YORK (UPI) — A space age application of photography called microfilm is making it possible for libraries everywhere to acquire literary and historical treasures formerly available only to a few fortunate scholars and historians.

★ ★ ★

Some of the world's greatest collections of human wisdom such as those in the Vatican Library, the Library of Congress, the British Museum and the Ambrosian Library in Milan have been microfilmed and placed in libraries in the United States and throughout the world.

In the United States, the Adams Papers, phenomenal family archive of early American history, recently were made available to scholars through microfilm.

According to a study by a microfilm subsidiary of a large camera company, the Adams Papers, in 608 reels, amounting to more than five miles of film, already have been placed in 40 or more institutions, including the Baker Library at Dartmouth College.

★ ★ ★

An indication of the insight into Revolutionary War and post-Revolutionary history provided by these microfilms is the diary of John Quincy Adams, which extends over 70 years and for 50 years without a single day's omission.

★ ★ ★

Documents chronicling the first two and a half centuries of the Catholic Church in the United States on microfilm have been acquired by the University of Notre Dame and will be housed in its new 13-story library.

Notre Dame also announced it has obtained permission to microfilm the entire manuscript collection of the famed Ambrosian Library in Milan.

This project, which will cost $500,000 and require several years to complete, will make available for the first time more than 30,000 classical, medieval and Renaissance manuscripts.

★ ★ ★

In the Vatican Library, four modern microfilmers are constantly at work recreating on microfilm the library's vast storehouse of rare books and manuscripts.

This new photography department, now being expanded, is an outgrowth of St. Louis University's recent monumental work of microfilming the Vatican Library's priceless treasure of 5,000 incunabula (books printed before 1500 A. D.) and 100,000 manuscripts, many of them on crumbling papyrus.

Many top libraries now make available a microfilming service of their own collections. For example, at a cost of less than two cents a page, the Library of Congress will microfilm any book or document in its 35-million item collection.

A new kind of publishing venture has been made possible through a combination of microfilm and a special photographic paper, according to Rekordak.

This can produce from microfilm in three minutes a 200 page facsimile-print copy of a rare book at a total cost of $6.70.

More than 4,000 U. S. and foreign newspapers are on microfilm today. Harvard University's library has perhaps the most extensive collection of foreign newspapers on microfilm in this country.

Red Farms Are Called Inefficient

RALEIGH, N. C. (UPI)—Poor management and lack of mechanization are the major weaknesses that put Russian agriculture about 50 years behind American agriculture.

Dr. Kenneth R. Keller of North Carolina State College, who made a three-week visit to Russia and Eastern Europe as part of a U.S.-Soviet exchange program, saw one 21,250-acre collective farm near Kishinev that required 3,000 farm workers.

At another farm in Georgia, 630 workers were needed to cultivate 3,125 acres, or one worker for each five acres.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Keller described much of the Russian tillage as "primitive." Workers cut hay with scythes. Some crawler tractors are used, along with many oxen and horses.

★ ★ ★

"If our farms were no more efficient than Soviet collectives," says Dr. Keller, "20 to 25 million American industrial workers would have to quit their jobs and return to the farm to produce food for our population."

Spelunkers an Exclusive Sports Club

ABILINE, Tex. (UPI)—The Abilene Grotto of the National Speleological Society, with six members and two "accompaniers," is the most exclusive sports organization in town.

Once a month the spelunkers, or cave explorers, load up ropes, hardhats, carbide lamps, flashlights, candles, cable ladders and pitons and head out to investigate a cove.

Helped by explorers from Dallas and Austin, they have done much of the primary work on the Caverns of Sonora, discovered in 1955.

Now they are working on the Natural bridge caves near New Braunfels discovered three years ago.

Slogan of the Abilene Grotto is: "Take nothing but pictures, leave nothing but footprints."

Jap Plane Lands Safely After Circling for Hour

TOKYO (AP) — A Japan Airlines plane carrying 84 passengers and 7 crew members circled International Airport more than an hour today with a malfunction in its landing gear signal system.

The fault finally was corrected and a safe landing was made. The plane was coming in from Sapporo in northern Japan.

LIVING IS EASY in Sylvan and we can prove it. Submitted for your approval is this red brick ranch. A center hall plan for family fun features 3 bedrooms, 2½ baths, and 2-car garage. extra storage cupboards. Use graciously in Sylvan, you can "wine and dine" your dinner guests in your formal dining room while every day meals can be taken in the nice kitchen. Your rec room actually can wash themselves in the automatic laundry and Sylvan. Entertain the gang in the finished game room, enjoy the cookouts on the big screened in porch. Let the children play in the fenced-in yard while you cool off in the shade. Only $18,500 more can be had at $25,500 with 10 per cent plus costs down. By appointment, please.

ST. HUGO AND HICKORY GROVE schools nearby. These nice people have bought it, but don't want a quick deal on their beautiful home. Priced at $18,900. New wall-to-wall carpeting and exceptionally good decorations. Basement has famous room, 2-car garage, 2 wooded lots. Asking $15,900. And—well "Wheel and Deal." Hurry!!

$200 will absolutely move you into this very clean, 3 - bedroom, on the canal leading directly into Cass Lake. Plastered walls, oak floors and gas heat are all you require needed. We consider this to be unquestionably the nicest available at only $9,900. If you're a lucky veteran, you'll inquire about $450. Better look now!

$10,900 is the full price on a lake front home that has beautiful sand beach at your front door. Living room with fireplace, 3 bedrooms, utility room, garage. Approximately $1,000 down, or less if you are a GI, only $500 gets you in.

A BEAUTIFUL ACRE lot out in the country, Oakland Lake privileges nearby. Neat, clean 3-bedroom with good size utility, automatic heat. Screened porch, 2-car garage. What a buy this one is, just $9,200, low down payment and $1,000 and $70 a month on a land contract. Folks, you can't possibly miss on this one.

Clean up, paint up, fix up, but buy right at $5,900 cash. It's a 3-room bungalow, city Perry. Full basement, gas heat, water softener included.

MEMORIAL DAY
REMEMBRANCES—1963

ABBOTT
In loving memory of Vern B. Abbott who passed away March 12, 1963.
Treasured thoughts of one so dear,
Often bring a silent tear;
Thoughts return to scenes long past,
Time rolls on, but memories last.
—Sadly missed by Mom and Family

ABBOTT
In loving memory of Millicent Abbott who passed away August 4, 1954.
From our happy home and circle,
God has taken one we love,
Borne away by angels holy,
To a better home above.
—Sadly missed by family.

ALLEN—EPLEY—YOUNG
In loving memory of our daughter, Alma Allen, who passed away October 26, 1956, our father, John Young, who passed away January 3, 1959, mother, Mary Young, who passed away March 31, 1961, and brother, Noble Epley, who passed away March 30, 1962.
Those we love don't go away,
They walk beside us every day,
Unseen, unheard but always near,
Still loved, still missed and very dear.
—Sadly missed by Mrs. Alma Allen and Grace Epley and family.

ARNEY
In loving memory of Bessie Arney, who passed away April 30, 1954.
There's a sad but sweet remembrance,
There is a memory fond and true,
And a token of affection Mother,
And a heartache still for you.
Sadly missed by Rosie Hogan and family.

BADER
In loving memory of our dear mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Lester E. Bader.
Treasured thoughts of one so dear
Often bring a silent tear;
Thoughts return to scenes long past,
Time rolls on, but memories last.
Sadly missed by the children.

BALMER
In loving memory of Mrs. Blanche Balmer, who passed away December 19, 1961.
Your memory is a keepsake,
With which we'll never part,
Though God has you in His keeping,
We still have you in our hearts.
—Sadly missed by friends, Andrew, Verna and Debbie Carruth.

BELL
In loving memory of Vera M. Bell, who passed away August 19, 1960.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly, fond and true;
There is not a day, dear Mother,
That we do not think of you.
Sadly missed by her daughter and son-in-law and grandsons.

BURCH
In loving memory of Charles Henry Burch, who passed away August 18, 1954.
Often a lonely heartache,
And many a silent tear,
But always a beautiful memory
Of the one we loved so dear.
Sadly missed by wife and children.

CRONOVER
In loving memory of Bruce B. Cronover who passed away March 26, 1935.
Just when his days seemed brightest,
Just when his hopes seemed best;
God called him from amongst us,
To his eternal rest.
Sadly missed but God knows best.
His Mother, Addie Gotshall and family.

DIENER
In loving memory of our mother and grandmother, Alice Diener, who passed away June 25, 1960.
Often in lonely heartache,
And many a silent tear,
But always a beautiful memory
Of the one we loved so dear.
Sadly missed by her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lester H. Smith, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

DIENER
In loving memory of our father and grandfather, William F. Diener, who passed away September 29, 1959.
Your memory is a keepsake,
With which we'll never part,
Though God has you in his keeping
We still have you in our hearts.
Sadly missed by his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lester H. Smith, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

CLENDENIN
In loving memory of William J. Clendenin who passed away August 29, 1961.
You have left a beautiful memory,
And a sorrow too great to be told;
But to us who loved and lost you,
Your memory will never grow old.
Sadly missed by Ruth and children, Steve, Todd and Jimmy.

GRAHAM
In loving memory of Florence Graham who passed away Jan. 9, 1959
We do not need a special day,
To bring her to our mind,
The days we do not think of her
Are very hard to find.
Within our store of memories,
She holds a place apart,
For no one else could ever be,
More cherished in our heart.
—Sadly missed by husband Joe, children and grandchildren.

HAYNES
In loving memory of our dear son and brother Lt. Bill Haynes who was killed in a plane crash in Indiana, September 22, 1961.
Always so cheerful and kind,
A few in this world, his equal you'll find.
What beautiful memories you left behind.
—Sadly missed by mother, dad, and sister, Gladys

HENSON
In loving memory of my wife Kathleen Henson who passed away February 28, 1957.
Time turns away the edge of grief,
But memory turns back every leaf.
—Husband Bert Henson.

JUDD
In loving memory of Lillie Judd, who passed away November 7, 1961.
There's a sad but sweet remembrance,
There is a memory fond and true,
And a token of affection Mother,
And a heartache still for you.
Sadly missed by her daughters and her husband, Glenn.

LIGHT
In loving memory of Harry Lee Light who passed away December 15, 1955.
We cannot clasp your hand, dear Father,
Your face we cannot see;
But let this little token
Tell that we still remember thee.
—Sadly missed by all his children.

LOMBARDO
In loving memory of Anthony Lombardo Sr. Who passed away May 25, 1959.
Often in lonely heartache,
And many a silent tear,
But always a beautiful memory,
Of the one we loved so dear.
Father
—Sadly missed by son Anthony Lombardo Jr. and family.

LYNN
In loving memory of Joe M. Lynn, who passed away August 22, 1961.
Your memory is a keepsake,
With which we'll never part,
Though God has you in His keeping,
We still have you in our hearts.
Sadly missed by wife and family.

MARTIN
In loving memory of my husband and grandmother, Otha E. Martin, who passed away September 11, 1962.
Often a lonely heartache,
And many a silent tear,
But always a beautiful memory,
Of the one we loved so dear.
—Sadly missed by wife Virginia and children

MAZZA
In loving memory of James R. Mazza, who passed away May 31, 1961.
Your memory is a keepsake
With which we'll never part,
Though God has you in His keeping
We still have you in our hearts.
Sadly missed by Mother, Dad and Sisters

MERSINO
In loving memory of our mother and grandmother, Mrs. E. Mersino, who passed away December 26, 1962.
Take her in Thine arms, dear Lord,
And ever let her be;
A messenger of love,
Between our family and Thee.
—Sadly missed by Nancy, Bob, Debbie, Dawn and Bobby.

McINNES
In loving memory of Irwin McInnes, who passed away November 28, 1962.
We cannot clasp your hand, dear Father,
Your face we cannot see;
But let this little token
Tell that we still remember thee.
Sadly missed by daughter Darlene

MORGAN
In loving memory of Howard O. Morgan who passed away three years ago, at the age of 15.
God took you home my darling
Before I was ready to let you go;
And it left sudden emptiness
In my heart. My "Buddy" I loved you so.
—Sadly missed by mother, sisters and brothers.

I wonder if you know — your patience
Compassion and your love
Rubbed off on everyone you know.
I know you're contented, my darling
And will suffer pain no more,
You have stood so straight and tall
To enter God's open door.
But still my heart is aching,
For I can't quite understand,
Just how you could leave me,
Till you were a grown-up man.
From a loving Mom.

MURPHY
In loving memory of Ada and Alfred Murphy.
Your memory is a keepsake
With which we'll never part,
Though God has you in his keeping
We still have you in our hearts.
Sadly missed by daughter Anne and family.

PIKE
In precious memory of our dear son and brother, Billy C. Pike, who was killed in action in France, Dec. 3, 1944.
The rolling stream of life rolls on,
But still my heart is aching,
The love, the voice, the smile of The one who once sat there,
Sadly missed by Mom, Dad and sister Laurine.

SANDS—GRANGER
In loving memory of our mother and father, Alice Sands and John Granger, who passed away Jan. 27, 1958, Aug. 18, 1958.
Memory is a long, long road,
But it runs forever true,
And we always like to follow it
Just to last and talk with you.
Sadly missed by Claude and Dorothy.

SCHUDLICH
In loving memory of Erich Schudlich, who passed away July 24th, 1957.
Your presence is ever near us,
Your love remains with us yet;
You were the kind of husband and father,
Your loved ones would never forget.
Sadly missed by wife and family.

SCHULZ
In loving memory of Edgar F. Schulz, who passed away January 12, 1957.
Sadly missed by wife and family.

SHAVER
In loving memory of Harold C. Shaver, who passed away May 2, 1961.
If God would but grant me the power
Just to turn back the pages of time
I'd give all I own
To the silver-haired daddy of mine.
Sadly missed by his daughter, Evelyn, and grandchildren.

SKELTON
In loving memory of Arlene Mae Skelton, who passed away, February 11, 1962.
The fairest lilies are the first to fall.
The sweetest, first to fade,
The fondest, dearest, best of all,
At peaceful rest is laid.
But in God's garden free from pain,
Where grow his fairest flowers,
We know that we shall meet again,
This fairest bloom of ours.
—Sadly missed by husband, daughter, and son-in-law.

SPADAFORE
In loving memory of Louis Spadafore who passed away January 21, 1954.
Often a lonely heart ache,
And many a silent tear,
But always a beautiful memory,
Of the one we loved so dear,
Father
—Sadly missed by daughter Mrs. Esther Mary Lombardo and family.

SWITZER
In loving memory of Leo Switzer who passed away May 14, 1959 and Josephine Switzer who passed away September 15, 1962.
Sweet memories will linger forever,
Time cannot change them it's true
Years that may come cannot sever
Our lovely remembrance of you.
—Sadly missed by son Leo and family.

TAYLOR
In loving memory of Larry B. Taylor, who passed away May 1, 1961.
Has a token of love and devotion,
For our hearts still long for you.
From father, mother and sister.

Each time a prayer,
Each day a thought,
Of the father we love,
And happiness into our home you always bring.
Three years have passed dear Father,
Since you were called away,
How well we do remember,
That sad and lonely day.
We recall your cheery smile,
Your helping hand to all you knew,
You were so kind, so thoughtful,
So generous, so true.
You're not forgotten, Father Dear,
Nor shall you be,
As long as life and memory last,
We shall remember thee.

With which we'll never part.
Though God has you in his keeping,
We still have you in our hearts.
Sadly missed by the Carl Martin Family.

ORENCIA
In loving memory of Phil R. Orencia who passed away Sept. 25, 1961.
Often a lonely heartache,
And many a silent tear,
But always a beautiful memory,
Of the one we loved so dear.
—Sadly missed by wife Dolores and family.

ORR
In loving memory of Jerry Orr, who passed away May 12, 1961.
Treasured thoughts of One so dear,
Often bring a silent tear;
Thoughts return to scenes long past,
Time rolls on, but memories last.
—Sadly missed by wife, daughters and families.

OTIS
In loving memory of Otis F. Head who passed away December 18, 1958.
Just a token of love's devotion,
That our hearts still long for you.
Sadly missed by Mrs. Otis Head and Family.

OVERTON
In loving memory of my husband, Otho Overton, who passed away December 12, 1961.
I cannot say,
I will not say
That he is dead, he is just away,
With a smile and a wave of the hand,
He has gone to rest a while
That is all.
He is not dead, he is just away.
Sadly missed by wife and family.

PALSHAN
In loving memory of Edmund J. Palshan, who passed away November 21, 1957.
Loving memories never die.
As years roll on and days pass by.
In our hearts a memory is kept
Of one we loved but will never forget.
Sadly missed by his wife Mary and children.

PATRICK
In loving memory of our wife and mother, Mrs. Ruth Patrick, who passed away May 18, 1963.
Peacefully sleeping, resting at last;
The world's weary troubles and trials are past.
In silence she suffered, In patience she bore,
Till God called her home to suffer no more.
Sadly missed by husband, Mr. D. L. Patrick, Anna Lou, Bill, Barbara and Beulah.

QUANT
In loving memory of Charles Quant who passed away August 25, 1961.
You left this world of sorrow,
And are free from pain and harm;
And now rest in peace and comfort,
In the blessed Savior's arms.
Sadly missed by wife Marion and children.

QUAYLE
In loving memory of our son and brother, Gregory J. Quayle, who passed away March 29, 1960.
You are not forgotten, loved one,
Nor will you ever be;
As long as life and memory last
We will remember thee.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore;
As time goes by, we miss you more,
Your loving smile, your gentle face;
No one can fill your vacant place.
—Sadly missed by mother and brother.

RAWLINS
In loving memory of Donald Rawlins who passed away March 17, 1961.
Often a lonely heartache,
And many a silent tear,
But always a beautiful memory,
Of the one we loved so dear.
—Sadly missed by Mom and Dad, sisters and brothers.

RAYNOR
In loving memory of Florence Raynor who passed away September 29, 1957.

ROBINSON
In loving memory of Yvonne Louise Robinson, who passed away November 20, 1960.
A bud that the Gardener gave us,
A pure and lovely child
He gave her in our keeping,
To cherish undefiled.
But just as it was opening,
To the glory of the day,
Down came the Heavenly Gardener,
And took our flower away.
—Sadly missed by Mother, Dad, sister and Brother.

ROBINSON
In loving Memory of Mrs. Lillian Robinson who passed away June 14, 1960.
Time turns away the edge of grief
But memory turns back every leaf.
—Sadly missed by Daughter Mrs. Inaz Reynolds

ROSS
In loving memory of Phillis Ross who passed away 2 years ago, October 8, 1959.
Two years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never,
The memory of those happy years which we shared together.
—Sadly missed by husband, children, grandchildren, mother, sister and brother.

ROSS
In loving memory of John Ross who passed away March 11, 1961.
Always so true, unselfish and kind
Few in life have equaled you!
In death
Sadly missed by wife, Daughter and Brother.

And now rest in peace and comfort,
In the Blessed Saviour's arms.
Sadly missed by mother and family.

SCHAAD
In loving memory of Theodore A. Schaad who passed away Jan. 27, 1963.
We often sit and think of him when we are all alone,
For memory is the only friend that grief can call its own.
Like ivy on the withered oak
When all other things decay,
Our love for him will still keep green and never fade away.
—Sadly missed by daughter Suzette Eddie and grandson, Mark.

SCOTT
In loving memory of our son, Ralph L. Scott, SP4, U.S. Army of Engineers, who passed away July 7, 1962.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MY SISTER, Ada Selby who passed away September 27, 1956 and my father, Alvie Selby who passed away April 2, 1939.
Dear Lord, The purpose see,
But all is well that's done by Thee.
Sadly missed by Emma Cosby.

SHEPHERD
In loving memory of Karen Kay Shepherd who passed away December 26, 1962.
The one for whom you cared with such loving hands is gone,
Has found the wondrous shining Path up to the home above,
The home where joy forever dwells
Where loved ones but await
Just us to share their happiness
Beyond the heavenly gate.
—Sadly missed by mother and father, brother and sister.

SHIPP
In loving memory of our mother Lena N Shipp who passed away December 31, 1962.
You left this world of sorrow,
And are free from pain and harm.
And now rest in peace and comfort,
In the Blessed Savior's arms
—Sadly missed by Alma, G. W. and family.

SIMONDS
In loving memory of our daughter, Edna Ruth Simonds who passed away October 21, 1961.
God saw the road was very rough,
The hill to steep to climb.
He gently closed her weary eyes,
And whispered peace be thine.
Sadly missed by mother, dad and family.

SIZEMORE
In loving memory of T. W. Sizemore, who passed away November 5, 1961.
We cannot clasp your hand, dear Father,
Your face we cannot see;

SPRAGUE
In loving memory of Bertha G. Sprague, who passed away May 24, 1961.
Peaceful be thy rest, dear Mother
It is sweet to breathe thy name
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.
Sadly missed by husband, children and grandchildren.

STAFFORD
In loving memory of our son and brother, James E. Stafford who passed away March 30, 1963.
Sweet memories are all we have left
Our wish is not to die
Our hearts are broken
Our eyes will shed tears
Our cherished recollections
That will live within our hearts.
And may those precious memories
Keep bright from year to year;
Bring lasting comfort on the loss
Of one we loved so dear.
Sadly missed by Mom and Dad, brothers and sisters and families.

Ex-Mau Mau Gets Prime Minister Post

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Jomo Kenyatta, former leader of the anti-white Mau Mau terrorists, becomes Kenya's first prime minister Saturday.

Kenyatta appealed to all races for cooperation in the government he was asked to form Tuesday by British Gov. Sir Malcolm MacDonald.

Kenyatta, who spent 10 years in British detention as the chief Mau Mau plotter, proclaimed a policy of democratic African socialism.

SOLID FRONT—Police, standing shoulder to shoulder and in several ranks, block NAACP pickets at a Philadelphia school construction site. The pickets tried to block workmen from entering the project, claiming Negroes are being discriminated against in hiring practices.

Liz Is 'Fatty' to Burton and She Loves Nickname

NEW YORK — How to make your gal love you? Insult her. Richard Burton calls Liz Taylor — in the presence of others — "Fatty." Dancers Augie and Margo, just back from London with Sammy Davis' troupe, heard Burton heckle Liz about her increasing weight by using that nickname. Liz, who was around her sumptuous Dorchester suite barefoot, "seemed to like being called 'Fatty' — it was more of an endearment," Margo said.

FCC Clears Path for Rate Hike, Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Communications Commission paved the way tomorrow for higher rates on leased telegraph lines and lower rates on leased telephone lines to go into effect Aug. 1, except for press customers.

It ordered a special inquiry to determine whether services for press customers should also be included in rate changes. The current rates will apply to them in the meantime.

The commission's action was its latest move in a series dating back seven years.

NY News Ad Man Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Arthur H. Gaines, 61, advertising manager of the New York Daily News since Jan. 1, 1962, died Tuesday of a cerebral hemorrhage. He joined the News in 1927. He worked for the old Detroit Mirror for two years, returning to the News in 1933.

Farmer Had a Cow

. . . Ee Yi, Ee Yi, Oh . . .

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The following proposal is awaiting action by the Florida Legislature:

"Whereas, W. L. Richardson is a farmer, and

"Whereas, farmer Richardson had a cow, and

* * *

"Whereas in November of 1961, farmer Richardson had his cow tested for Bang's (disease) by the county agent, and

"Whereas, after the testing needle went in and came out of that cow's vein, all the blood came out too, and the cow died, and

* * *

"Whereas, at the time of demise of said cow, it was worth $150, "Whereas, since that time the other cows in farmer Richardson's herd have had yearlings, and the dead cow has not, and

"Whereas the value of such a yearling is $150—

* * *

"Now therefore: be it enacted by the legislature of the state of Florida the comptroller is authorized to draw his warrant in the sum of $300 upon the general revenue fund in the state treasury in favor of W. L. Richardson."

Industrialist Is Dead

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Norman D. MacLeod, 72, a leading Rhode Island industrialist and onetime Republican candidate for governor, died Tuesday in Boston after heart surgery.

Families of Military in Uniform?

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — Official U.S. sources indicated yesterday that overseas civilian employes of the Pentagon and wives and older children of American servicemen stationed abroad soon may be required to don uniforms, making them subject to military trial.

* * *

An Air Force spokesman said the Army and Air Force were considering a plan along these lines devised by Maj. Gen. Albert M. Kuhfeld, judge advocate of the Air Force.

The Kuhfeld plan was intended to solve the problem created by the U.S. Supreme Court's 1957 ruling that servicemen's relatives and civilian employes abroad could not be court-martialed for capital crimes.

The spokesman said the plan envisions the creation of a "military technical corps" for civilian employes and a "military support corps" for soldiers' and airmen's dependents over 18.

No one would be required to join either corp. but no one who refused to do so would be sent abroad by the armed forces, the spokesman said.

The Overseas Family, a private publication, published an interview with Kuhfeld saying that members of the proposed corps also would be required to sign a statement waiving the right to civilian trial before being shipped overseas.

Official Backs Criticism of Bar

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The president-elect of the American Bar Association said today Chief Justice Earl Warren was justified in his criticism of the bar's failure to speak out on three proposed constitutional amendments.

* * *

"We got our tails in a crack," said Walter E. Craig, who will become head of the 115,000 member organization this August. "Even though we did act, the bar was slow in acting and thus appropriately subject to some criticism."

In a speech to the American Law Institute last week, Warren said the bar's silence on the proposals—which would drastically alter the federal-state relationship —"is almost an abdication of its responsibility to the public."

* * *

The controversial proposals, put forward by some state legislative leaders, would set up a "Court of the Union" made up of state chief justices with authority to overrule the U. S. Supreme Court on matters affecting state-federal relationships; give state legislatures the primary responsibility now held by Congress to propose constitutional amendments; and deny federal courts jurisdiction over state reapportionment cases.

U. S. Airplanes Will Participate in Asia Exercise

HONOLULU (AP) — Pacific Air Forces headquarters has announced that jet fighters, reconnaissance planes and transports will be sent from mainland United States next month to participate in a 27-nation SEATO exercise in Thailand.

* * *

F100 Super Sabre jet fighters from Cannon Air Force Base, N.M.; RF100 Voodoo reconnaissance jets from Shaw Air Force Base, S.C., and C130 Hercules transports from Stewart Air Force Base, Tenn., will participate.

* * *

The Air Force announcement did not disclose the number of aircraft involved or give exact departure dates. The exercise is scheduled June 11-19.

Woman 'Chutist Falls On Her Own Sidewalk

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Mrs. Robert T. Barton III spent last Sunday doing what she has done many times before — parachute jumping from airplanes for a hobby.

* * *

She started to water the flowers in her yard when she returned home, slipped on a wet flagstone, and broke her left ankle. She will have to wear a cast for two or three months.

Manufacturer Succumbs

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Benjamin G. Sulzle, 67, a developer and manufacturer of surgical needles, died Tuesday after a lengthy illness. Sulzle, who was born in Emery, S.D., was president of the B. G. Sulzle Inc. of Syracuse.

Ad Men Lambaste TV Plugs

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK—From time to time, most television viewers, including this one, have complained in columns, in letters and in person about the interruptive and distracting flood of promotional plugs for upcoming programs that turn up every half hour on so many television channels.

* * *

These low moans were pretty generally ignored. But now, it appears, this clutter, as it has been called, is getting attention in the right places. Some television advertisers have been blasting away at it, claiming among other things that all this listing of plugs, credits, billboards and coming-next-week bits has the effect of watering down the expensive sales messages.

* * *

At a recent meeting of the Association of National Advertisers, an executive of a company that invests large sums in television reported that a committee monitoring programs on three networks found that periods as long as 10 minutes were entirely occupied by what were called "non-entertainment segments."

* * *

Most viewers, it is safe to assume, pay scant attention to those long lists of credits which list everyone connected with the program right down to the make-up man and hair stylist.
