Beauty is only skin deep.
 Great engineering, however, goes all the way to the pavement.

CHEVROLET LUMINA EURO SEDAN.

Admiring the Lumina's clean, angular shape doesn't make you a shallow person. But to discover its real beauty, we suggest you make a more thorough investigation.

Rigid unibody construction means your senses will be stirred, not shaken.

The road of life is strewn with potholes. Fortunately, the engineers who designed Lumina took this into account. Its stiff steel unibody works in tandem with four-wheel independent suspension, for handling that's precise and predictable. Even better, it allows you to make the most of Lumina Euro's smooth yet powerful 3.1 Liter V6.

All the conveniences of home. And nearly as much room.

A comfortable place to sit. Good music on the stereo. A place for your coffee mug. And plenty of room to spread out. In fact,

Lumina has more interior space than Accord, Camry, or even Taurus. So let the Lumina's good looks turn your head. But be forewarned: this is one automobile that's engineered for a lasting relationship. What else would you expect from the Heartbeat of America?

THIS CHANGES EVERYTHING.

Its cab-forward design has made the new Intrepid a car like no other. Pushing the wheels out toward the corners enhanced stability and handling. And enabled us to make the doors wider and the rear seating roomier.

Moving the leading edge of the windshield six inches forward and three inches lower significantly improved aerodynamics and reduced wind noise. There's less room required for machinery, there's more room available for people.

And now that we've seen what's possible in a four-door sedan, we can't see building one any other way.

We're Oakland University, and in 1992 we were named one of the best in the Midwest and a "best buy" by U.S. News & World Report.

Maybe we're one of America's best because:

- Oakland has top faculty in the classroom teaching introductory courses which makes a difference in the quality of education students receive.
- Oakland University undergraduate majors in chemistry or biology have written more than 400 articles for scientific journals on research conducted under the supervision of a senior research professor.
- Our scholar-athletes have earned more than 250 All-America awards in both men's and women's sports, and have won several NCAA Division II national championships.

Or maybe it's because we simply care about educating our students. Call us, and become one of the 13,068 men and women from 18 to 80 who call us home every academic year.

Oakland University offers more than 70 undergraduate programs of study and 30 graduate programs through the schools of Business Administration, Education and Human Services, Engineering and Computer Science, Health Sciences, Nursing and the College of Arts and Sciences.

WELCOME

This year Oakland University celebrates the 30th anniversary of the Meadow Brook Music Festival. My husband, Martin, and I would like to welcome you to Oakland University and this season's Meadow Brook Music Festival, sponsored by Olympia Arena/Brass Ring Productions.

This past year has been an exciting one in the life of the university. One of Michigan's premier universities, Oakland University reached record enrollments serving over 13,000 students. A new master's degree in Engineering Management was added to our ninety existing program offerings from the baccalaureate through the doctoral levels. Recently rated a "best buy" in the midwest by U.S. News & World Report, this year OU was selected for membership in the prestigious National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges, recognizing our significant accomplishments in the area of graduate study and research.

Oakland University is also dedicated to providing extended education and cultural enrichment to its surrounding community. Over 400,000 individuals have visited our campus this year to participate in cultural and special events hosted by Meadow Brook Hall, Meadow Brook Theatre, Meadow Brook Art Gallery, Meadow Brook Music Festival, and our many departments.

We hope you enjoy this year's festival and invite you to take advantage of the varied programming and educational experiences offered at OU. Oakland is your university and we hope you will come back "home" often!

CO-OP STUDENTS LEARNING AND EARNING: $1.35 MILLION IN TOTAL WAGES

On-the-job training is an important element in many students' education at Oakland University, as Jennifer Middleton has discovered.

During the past academic year, 151 Oakland University students generated $1.35 million in earned wages by working at businesses and industry throughout southeastern Michigan.

Oakland University coordinates internships and cooperative job placements throughout the tri-county area. While attending Oakland, students who choose to participate gain valuable insights into what is expected of them in their chosen field, and gain important experience that employers like.

Among those who have been a co-op program success is Middleton, whose responsibilities at the Palace of Auburn Hills include editing the employee newsletter and setting up training programs for employees.

A LEADING UNIVERSITY IN SCIENTIFIC DISCOVERY

Scientists said it couldn't be done, but an Oakland University chemistry professor proved them wrong.

Professor Tadeusz Malinski developed a microsensor so small and accurate that it can count molecules of nitric oxide within a single cell. This is a breakthrough discovery that will help doctors understand the effect the gas nitric oxide has on the body. Scientists from Europe and North America are excited about the possibilities, and more than 250 have already called or come to Malinski's laboratory to see his discovery in action.

And how will the microsensor help scientific inquiry? Researchers are anxious to find out how nitric oxide acts when a person has a stroke, for example, and to learn if it can be used to kill cancer cells.

Thanks to Professor Malinski, the day when those answers are known is closer.

WE'RE NUMBER 1: FOUR TIMES IN A ROW

Oakland University has something that no other school in NCAA Division II history has: four consecutive national championships for its women's swimming and diving team.

The university's reputation for excellent athletic programs was enhanced this March when the women's swimmers swamped the competition by finishing with 609 points, 203 points ahead of the second-place team from Pennsylvania.

Coach Tracy Huth earned Coach of the Year honors for the second straight year and for the third time in the past four.

"Dual airbags, anti-lock brakes, traction control...it's even supercharged."

There's no question the 205-horsepower, supercharged Bonneville SSEi carries world-class credentials: Its standard anti-lock brakes, performance-calibrated 4-speed transmission, Z-rated tires and rich leather seating areas are driving proof of that. But the real beauty of the exhilarating new SSEi is that you get this much car for thousands less than Lexus or BMW.* If this is the kind of driving excitement you've been after, visit your Pontiac dealer or call 1-800-762-4900 for more information.

STUDENT THEATRE EARNS NATIONAL RECOGNITION

Students in the Department of Music, Theatre and Dance's production of Cloud Nine know what it's like to take their show on the road.

The play was among 800 entered nationally in the prestigious American College Theater Festival, and came in first in its region in competition in Illinois. Oakland's production earned the right to head to Washington, D.C., where in April the performers took the stage at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts. Only six plays were invited to Washington.

This was the second time an Oakland production has been invited to the nation's capital.

STORM INSPIRES AWARD-WINNING COMPOSITION

Oakland composer Lettie Beckon Alston's (seated at piano) composition, The Eleventh Hour (The Act of God), was one of four finalists in the fourth-annual Unisys African-American Composers Forum and Symposium in Detroit.

The assistant professor of music was the first female composer selected as a finalist, and only the second composer from Michigan to be so honored in the national competition. The pianist drew her inspiration for the piece from the fury of Hurricane Andrew.

The Unisys African-American Composers Forum and Symposium assists in identifying significant orchestral works by African-American composers. The forum was presented by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra Hall and underwritten by Unisys Corp., with additional support from the National Endowment for the Arts, the Michigan Council for the Arts and Cultural Affairs, and the city of Detroit.

THE FACTS SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES

- In 1992, Oakland University was rated among the top 11 Midwest regional colleges and universities and named a "best buy" by U.S. News & World Report magazine.
- Oakland students benefit from small classes and direct access to professors who care.
- The next time you fly, you can thank an Oakland University professor for making your takeoff and landing much safer. Professor Michael Hung developed a world-renowned process called shearography that measures structural weaknesses in a variety of load-bearing materials, including aircraft tires and highway bridges.
- Oakland University's Ford Cooperative Scholars (graduate students) staff a statistical methods office at Ford Motor Company locations and apply statistical methods to problems in manufacturing and engineering.
- Oakland's School of Education and Human Services is a leader in promoting a new method of teaching mathematics. The Beginning School Mathematics Program originated in New Zealand, and with the help of the Kellogg Foundation, is being incorporated into eight Detroit-area school districts.
- The Oakland University Eye Research Institute is a national leader in the study of eye diseases, especially glaucoma. Together with William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak, the Eye Research Institute is conducting a study of age-related eye diseases for the National Eye Institute. The study is one of 10 under way nationally.
- In 1992, Oakland University graduated 32 working engineers with a master's degree in applied statistics, placing the program among the top three in the country.

OAKLAND UNIVERSITY'S DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC, THEATRE AND DANCE

The past academic year: A flurry of activity

by Karl Boelter, Chairperson, Department of Music, Theatre and Dance

After my second year at Oakland University, one particular perception remains with me; it is the same perception I had when I first came to Oakland to chair the department of Music, Theatre and Dance: our performing arts faculty is tireless and extremely effective when it comes to teaching, creative work and artistic spirit.

Recognizing this energy, the Department decided to provide the faculty with more opportunity to perform. We inaugurated a new series last year called Sensory Perceptions which brought the faculty to the stage, often in collaboration with other artists. The eight-part series included three concerts by the new Trio Aventura featuring faculty member Flavio Varani, piano, and two musicians from the University of Maryland—John Fadial, violin, and Beth Vanderbrough, cello. Also part of the series were two appearances by the Eisenhower Dance Ensemble of which faculty member Laurie Eisenhower serves as artistic director. The group shared its second program with the Pick of the Crop Dance and Music Ensemble from Buffalo, New York. The music of the composition faculty was heard on Impressions and Diversions, performed by a large number of faculty, students, and area professionals. Finally, faculty members Karen Sheridan and Michael Gillespie were directed by Susan Barrett in a raucous and hilarious theatrical production of Christopher Durang's Laughing Wild.

The music area of the department features nine student ensembles plus numerous student chamber groups. The diversity of student performance opportunities includes orchestra, band, and chorus as well as a show choir, jazz ensemble, and an African drumming group. The Department presents, in addition to the dozens of evening music concerts throughout the year, a weekly Tuesday Arts at Noon, which provides an opportunity for students to perform on stage in a slightly less formal setting.

The music faculty have been maintaining a fever pitch of activity. Basso John Paul White and pianist Flavio Varani are ever expanding their performing careers. Professor White was soloist in Verdi's Requiem with the Flagstaff (Arizona) Symphony in April and appeared as Sarastro in Mozart's Magic Flute at the Pine Mountain Music Festival in June. Professor Varani, a frequent performer in the United States, South America and Europe, is again holding his International Institute for Chamber Music in Germany this summer and looks forward to his first tour of Japan in November 1994.

David Daniels was on sabbatical winter semester, 1993 to update his publication, Orchestral Music: a Handbook. First published in 1972, it has since become a standard resource for orchestral managers and artistic directors throughout the country and beyond. Professor Daniels' current revisions will result in the publication's third edition.

Last year, Lettie Beckon Alston wrote an orchestral work for the Pontiac-Oakland Symphony, which was premiered under the direction of colleague David Daniels. This same piece, The Eleventh Hour, was a finalist in the 1993 UNISYS African-American Composers Forum and Symposium. The work was performed on May 2, 1993 on a master series concert of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra directed by associate conductor Leslie Dunner. Her work, Moods for Piano, also received its world premiere at the Symposium.

Stanley Hollingsworth, whose musical compositions have also been heard on Detroit Symphony programs, has recently received research fellowship funding to compose a new work for clarinet and orchestra. In honor of Professor Hollingsworth's retirement during the upcoming academic year, the Pontiac-Oakland Symphony is dedicating its program on December 5, 1993 as a tribute to his music and to his 17-year contribution to the cultural life of the department and Oakland University.

I, too, am a composer. A new compact disc of my music has just been released on the ACA Digital label. Performed by the outstanding Atlanta-based chamber ensemble, Thamyris, the recording includes four compositions for various combinations of piano, percussion, flute, clarinet, cello, and soprano voice. The project was two years in the making, and features guest artist Christopher Rex, first-chair cellist with the Atlanta Symphony.

Perhaps the most excitement in the department in the past year was occurring in the areas of theatre and dance. A new major was implemented in fall 1992. This program, the Bachelor of Arts in Performing Arts, permits students to specialize in theatre, dance, or music theatre. A liberal arts-oriented degree, it provides students with a foundation in all three disciplines in the department, allowing the students' skills to be broadly developed and encouraging a flexible artistic sense.

In theatre, our Fall Semester theatre production of Caryl Churchill's Cloud Nine, directed by Karen Sheridan, was a risk well taken. With scenic and costume design by faculty member Susan Barrett and lighting design by advanced student Eric Rotta, the ten-actor play was entered in the American College Theater Festival. Out of over 800 colleges and universities, Oakland's production of Cloud Nine was one of only six selected for performance in the Kennedy Center in Washington, DC. (Please see Karen Sheridan's article.)

During the year Professor Sheridan also directed Jim Leonard's The Diviners. Professor Michael Gillespie directed Medea and a new musical revue, Broadway Baby! Three advanced theatre students each directed a one-act play to create an evening called That's Absurd.

In dance, we were host to the 1993 American College Dance Festival's midwest regional conference. Twenty-eight schools participated, and performances by our faculty and staff were boldly featured during the week's events. We are especially pleased that Professor Greg Patterson's work was judged one of the best of the festival. (Please see Carol Halsted's article.)

Next year's season again brings many delights to the stage. The season is printed on the following pages. Please come participate in the fun.

OU at the Kennedy Center

by Karen Sheridan, Assistant Professor of Theatre, and Director, Cloud Nine

It was spring break and everyone who could scrape together the means was as far away from the Oakland University campus as their funds would take them. I was in a living room in Ithaca, New York calling for my messages when I heard the words that pleasantly cut my break short in an instant: "Karen, this is David Young from the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D. C. I am delighted to invite Oakland's production of Cloud Nine to perform here as part of the 1993 American College Theater Festival. There were over 830 productions from around the country associated with this year's festival and the National Selection Committee chose six to perform in Washington. I hope you can be there. Congratulations!"

It was the beginning of the final adventure surrounding Oakland's participation in the American College Theater Festival's silver anniversary year. Hundreds of productions are entered for consideration to be included in the Kennedy Center's yearly celebration of college theatre. Although many schools enter multiple productions each year, Oakland has entered only one every other year, and in May of 1992, months before the actual auditions, we selected Caryl Churchill's Cloud Nine.

It was a provocative choice.

Primarily, Cloud Nine is a play about love—sounds wholesome enough. But the playwright teaches us swiftly that you can never judge a book by its cover. The Act One characters are easily perceived as frivolous people from a time and circumstances that no longer speak to us. They appear to be Victorians released from a time capsule buried long ago in colonial Africa. But they, along with their Act Two 1980 London counterparts, soon reveal that still waters run deep. The hot Victorian impulses stifled beneath layers of crisp cotton and immaculate linen resemble the early 1980's yearn-ings bound by restrictive circumstance. Both sets of characters through the course of the play begin to find the courage to go after what they want and the willingness to learn from their mistakes.

The paths this courage takes may not have been to the taste of some of our patrons. But I salute the play's characters—mere shadows—who venture the journey. They make choices for themselves and do the best they can in any given moment. They examine and re-examine their lives. I salute, too, the courage of the student actors who allowed themselves inside the lives of people so like and so unlike themselves. Their talent breathed a unique life into Cloud Nine. Their laurels in Washington were well-deserved.

We opened at the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts on Friday, April 23, 1993 to a sell-out crowd of Oakland alumni, festival officials, and D. C. theatre-goers. The faculty, cast and crew of the touching production of Voice of the Prairie from Emporia State University in Kansas were also there to cheer us on. We got acquainted with the Emporia contingent during our stay and they booked a later return for themselves just to be able to see Cloud Nine.

After the curtain call that night, the Kennedy Center presented everyone involved with Cloud Nine who was in attendance a memento to mark the event. The stage was crowded with Oakland University students, faculty and administration (including Michael Gillespie, theatre area coordinator, and Karl Boelter, chair of the Department of Music, Theatre and Dance). Dean John K. Urice from the College of Arts and Sciences was present to accept the Kennedy Center Medallion for the university. We have much to be proud of and thankful for.

The honor of selection for a Kennedy Center production makes a school eligible for participation in the festival on only the "associate" level the following year. This allows our students the opportunity to compete for the Irene Ryan Acting Scholarship, but we will not be eligible to enter even the regional festival until we've taken a year off.

So, as we face the approaching theatre season, we look forward to a year to concentrate on ourselves again. We are as excited about our upcoming productions as we were a year ago. The theatre faculty will be launching the Sensory Perceptions series this year with Albee's dynamic Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? In November, Inspecting Carol, a rollicking spoof of a company's preparation for their yearly production of A Christmas Carol opens in the Studio Theatre. After the holidays we dust off our doublets and brandish our swords in The Three Musketeers.

And our musical takes us to Sweden and the complicated romantic follies of A Little Night Music in March.

See you at the theatre!

ACDFA Great Lakes Regional held at OU

by Carol Halsted, Dance Area Coordinator, Department of Music, Theatre and Dance

The American College Dance Festival Association Great Lakes Regional Festival was held March 3-7, 1993 at Oakland University, hosted by the Department of Music, Theatre and Dance. ACDFA is a national organization devoted to encouraging and recognizing excellence in performance and choreography on the college level. Eight regional festivals are held annually where universities come together to share technique and choreography.

Over two hundred students from twenty-eight schools in Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Virginia, Ohio and Michigan ventured to Oakland to have their choreography adjudicated and take a variety of workshops in jazz, modern, ballet, Pilates, lighting, conditioning and more. The excitement in the hallways during these classes demonstrated the energy level of both teachers and guest artists. Meanwhile, the guest adjudicators—Dan Wagoner, artistic director of Dan Wagoner Dancers and former member of Paul Taylor Dance Company; Laura Glen, artistic director of Laura Glen Dancers and teacher at the Juilliard School in New York City; and Geraldine Blunden, artistic director of the Dayton Contemporary Dance Company—critiqued over forty-five dances from the twenty-eight schools and selected ten dances which were performed at a Gala Concert on Saturday, March 6. Oakland University was represented at this Gala Concert with a work by faculty member Greg Patterson, titled Without a Choice.

The Great Lakes Regional Festival opened at OU Wednesday evening with an electric performance by faculty from some of the universities attending, and on Thursday evening the Eisenhower Dance Ensemble performed works by Bill Evans, Mark Dendy and Laurie Eisenhower to a very appreciative audience. On Friday evening, 150 of the participants traveled to Detroit's Music Hall to see the world-renowned Pilobolus.

The week was fun, exciting, and full of new ideas and experiences. All who attended—even the weary faculty who hosted the event—felt that something very special had taken place.

THE DELCO
FREEDOM BATTERY COMES OUT ON TOP IN TESTS
AND WINS AN IMPORTANT
RECOMMENDATION.

There are many solid reasons to use Delco Batteries. They're easy to install, maintenance-free and extremely reliable. And now the Delco Freedom Battery has an authoritative recommendation behind it, too.

Of the 18 national brands tested by a leading consumer magazine, only three delivered the cold starting power their manufacturers claimed. And among these three recommended for consideration, the Delco Freedom 24-60 Battery also excelled in reserve capacity, a measure of the battery's ability to keep your vehicles going even after an electrical system failure. The Delco Freedom 24-60 actually exceeded its claimed reserve by almost 20%.

It's all there in black and white. For more information on all of AC-Delco's products, call your local AC-Delco supplier or representative.

1993-94 SEASON

Hilarious Comedy

THE FOREIGNER Sept. 30 - Oct. 24

by Larry Shue

In this hilarious hit comedy, a shy young man arrives at a ramshackle fishing lodge in rural Georgia. Because of his shyness, he pretends to speak no English, but actually understands everything that is said. The fun begins when this "foreigner" overhears things he shouldn't and uncovers a nefarious plot! The surprise ending finishes off what the New York Post called "a devilishly clever idea."

Murder Mystery

BLACK COFFEE Oct. 28 - Nov. 21

by Agatha Christie

Detective Hercule Poirot is called in to solve a mysterious case. Why has Sir Claude Amory, a wealthy physicist, suddenly been found dead in his chair after drinking a cup of black coffee? The adventure begins as Poirot meets the many suspects — an entertaining variety of eccentric characters. The case is solved, but only after many ingenious twists and turns, in true Christie fashion.

Holiday Favorite

A CHRISTMAS CAROL Nov. 26 - Dec. 30

by Charles Dickens, adapted by Charles Nolte

A grand holiday tradition continues, with Meadow Brook's twelfth annual presentation of Dickens' famous tale. This lavish production is meant to be shared — tickets for A Christmas Carol make the perfect gift. Special family discounts are available for Thanksgiving weekend performances.

Inspiring Drama

SHIRLEY VALENTINE Jan. 6 - 30

by Willy Russll

A Detroit area premiere. Shirley is a 42-year-old housewife with a marvelously witty view of life. But the high point of her day is putting her husband's dinner on the table. Suddenly, her feminist girlfriend wants company on a two-week holiday in Greece. Will Shirley go? This humorous one-woman play by the author of Educating Rita was a smash hit in London and New York, and later made into a popular movie. (Contains mature subject matter.)

Classic Comedy

YOU NEVER CAN TELL Feb. 10 - March 6

by George Bernard Shaw

One of Shaw's earliest successes, this lighthearted comedy concerns an unconventional family and their adventures in pompous Victorian society. A middle-aged suffragette returns to England after a long absence, bringing with her a beautiful 20-year-old daughter and 18-year-old twins. The children soon discover that their Madagascar upbringing has not prepared them for English life. High spirits and stimulating ideas abound in this classic.

Historical Intrigue

THE LAST DAYS OF MR. LINCOLN March 17 - April 10

by Charles Nolte

A world premiere. Abraham and Mary Todd Lincoln and John Wilkes Booth are among the many fascinating real-life characters portrayed in this drama. The mysterious and little-known events leading up to Lincoln's assassination are explored, capturing the feverish tensions that existed in 1860s America. Six actors will portray multiple characters, with projections of Civil War-era photographs and period music further enhancing the story.

Tony Award Winner

BROADWAY BOUND April 21 - May 15

by Neil Simon

The continuing adventures of Eugene Jerome, first told in Brighton Beach Memoirs and Biloxi Blues. Eugene is out of the Army and back home in Brighton Beach, trying with his brother to break into the world of big-time professional comedy writing. At the same time, their parents' 30-year marriage is breaking up. Touching sentiment mixes with wild comedy in what many consider to be Neil Simon's finest play to date.

SPECIAL ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

THE KRESGE FOUNDATION

The Meadow Brook Music Festival expresses its appreciation to one of its most important benefactors — The Kresge Foundation.

In 1964 when the Festival was a dream, the Kresge Foundation made a $76,000 gift to the capital fund in memory of civic leader and foundation trustee, Howard C. Baldwin, for whom the pavilion is named. A second gift, a year later, of $50,000 made possible the permanent seating in the pavilion. Subsequently, the Foundation provided an additional capital grant of $33,000 which provided additional dressing rooms below stage, new electrical circuits, a sound reinforcement system and new restroom facilities. A grant of $145,000 provided for repair work in the pavilion and a box office addition in 1977. Most recently, a grant of $100,000 has been used to upgrade the lighting system, structural improvements in and around the stage area, paving the service road and loading dock area, painting of the seats and girders, and general repair.

LULA C. WILSON TRUST

The original gifts of the Lula C. Wilson Trust provided the concert shell for the stage house of the Music Festival. The Meadow Brook acoustics distinguish the Music Festival as one of the front-ranked concert and amphitheatres in North America.

The continuing support of the Lula C. Wilson Trust assists the Music Festival in providing the finest cultural programs to enrich the community as a whole.

MRS. GEORGE T. TRUMBULL

The original gift of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Trumbull made possible the construction of the Trumbull Terrace dining facility; and patrons of the Meadow Brook Music Festival continue to benefit from their generosity. Mrs. Trumbull has provided improvements to Trumbull Terrace, the magnificent flower bed for the Meadow Brook Gardens and her most recent endowment gift. We are grateful for her continued interest and support.

FESTIVAL WOMEN'S COMMITTEE

Special appreciation goes to the Womens Committee which has contributed over $825,000 to the Festival since 1980. The Treble Clef Gift Shop, the automobile raffle, and the annual summer fashion show continue to be highly successful ventures.

We are grateful for the dedication of the members and appreciate the many hours of hard work which have made the committee one of our most important benefactors.

MEADOW BROOK THEATRE GUILD

The many actors and directors who come to Oakland University to perform at the Meadow Brook Theatre rave about the special treatment and hospitality provided by the Guild. In recent years the Guild's financial support has provided for renovations of the box office and trailer dressing rooms as well as the many significant contributions to meet the needs of the Theatre. In addition the community has enjoyed the social aspects of the Guild's many projects such as the Holiday Benefit, Luncheon on the Aisle and SPOTLIGHTS. We are grateful for their support.

What Do You Believe?

At AT&T, we believe that our nation's future will be shaped by the quality of education our children receive today. To ensure our children are ready to meet the challenges of tomorrow's workplace, we believe that:

- Teachers must be well-prepared and highly motivated;
- Parents must be involved in their children's education;
- Technology must be integrated into the American education system; and
- Businesses and schools must work closely together to make sure students have the skills and education needed in the future.

We believe Corporate America has a responsibility to help make these things happen. That's why AT&T supports the Detroit Compact.

Now in its fourth year, the Detroit Compact has made tremendous strides in improving Detroit's public schools by bringing together the resources of businesses, community groups, government, educators, and parents. These partners are providing students with guidance, technical assistance, mentoring, tutoring, scholarships and employment. Students who meet the Compact's performance requirements are guaranteed job replacement and college scholarships. This certainty of opportunity has provided powerful incentives to Detroit youngsters to succeed in school.

For the second consecutive year, a portion of the proceeds from the AT&T Meadow Brook Music Festival will be donated to the Detroit Compact College Fund.

AT&T is proud to be counted among the Detroit Compact's partners, and we hope many others will join us as this worthy program continues to make higher education and meaningful employment possible for many deserving students.

Do we think that means a brighter future for us all?
You better believe it.

We Like To Think The World Revolves Around Jeep® Grand Cherokee.
But Actually, It's The Other Way Around.

While the world may not have been created expressly for Jeep Grand Cherokee Limited, our engineers designed this revolutionary 4x4 as if it were.

They gave it an advanced all-the-time four-wheel drive system, four-wheel anti-lock brakes, a Quadra-

Coil suspension system, and now an available 5.2 litre 220 horsepower V8. All so Grand Cherokee could tackle some of the world's most challenging terrain. Our engineers also made Grand Cherokee the first and only sport utility with a standard driver's side air bag.

For further information, call 1-800-JEEP-EAGLE. Jeep Grand Cherokee Limited. Nature laid the groundwork. A team of Jeep engineers did the rest.

There's Only One Jeep®. A Division of the Chrysler Corporation.

Buckle up for safety.

And there's a time out on the field...

Good Things Happen When You're Close To Your Customers.

Chrysler Concorde. 1993 Automobile of the Year.

Listening to customers paid off for Chrysler.

Before any work began on the Chrysler Concorde, Chrysler engineers talked with their customers to find out just what they wanted in a luxury car. And then, with a team of experts from every automotive discipline, set out to build the best.

And build the best they did. The new 1993 Chrysler Concorde, with its roomy, new Cab Forward design, has been hailed by Car Craft Magazine as "a benchmark in automotive design". Its list of standard features reads like a wish list. It's handling has been described by Auto Week as "world class" and its performance: "a ball to drive" by Motor Trend Magazine.

And finally, the Chrysler Concorde was named the 1993 Automobile of the Year by Automobile Magazine. The key to success? Staying close to the customer.

Chrysler and Bozell. Two companies sharing the same belief.

The Close to the Customer philosophy has played an important role in forging a strong Chrysler/Bozell partnership. Platform teams comprised of both Chrysler and Bozell employees worked together in positioning and marketing this revolutionary new automobile long before it hit the road. The same teams remain in constant contact sharing and reviewing the most up-to-the-minute information in order to react to the marketplace on a moments notice. And thanks to Bozell's 7 full service and 19 client service offices, those plans can be implemented quickly and efficiently in every major American market.

Stay Close to your Customers.

For more information on how Bozell Advertising can help you stay closer to your customers, call 262-8600 and ask for Kim Gaynor, General Manager, Bozell Inc.

It wasn't designed by some chrome-happy committee obsessed with building the next great luxoboat. It was designed by a group of true driving enthusiasts who shed the Detroit rules and created a luxury car for the 90's.

They started with Chrysler's "cab forward" design, which maximizes interior room while giving the car a wide track for stable handling. No wallowing, pitching or diving.

The new Chrysler New Yorker has a huge trunk. But it doesn't come with a lot of Detroit baggage.

They added four-wheel independent suspension, and a 24-valve, 214 horsepower engine. The result? A car that seats six, but that isn't boring. (Not that you don't get plenty of pragmatic features like dual air bags, four-wheel ABS, and a cavernous trunk.) It's just that someone in Detroit finally realized that people who buy full-sized luxury cars may be practical. But they're not dead. For more information, call
